PREFACE

Indian Census has, in 1961, along with the main task, undertaken a number of special studies to highlight the social and cultural heritage of India. In keeping with this tradition, a scheme for preparing a compendium volume on the Temples of Madras State was mooted. South Indian temples, marvellous in architectural engineering and having a cultural greatness of their own have attracted a number of tourists from all parts of the country and even from abroad. South India has been least affected by the series of invasions which India witnessed because of its geographical isolation and the Hindu culture has been preserved in its most pristine form in Madras State. As Hindu culture is associated largely with temples, it is likely that a study of the temples of Madras State will give a background of what Hindu culture stands for. A scheme has therefore been evolved in which 7 volumes will be published covering all the temples in the State. Two volumes have already been published, the first covering Madras City and Chingleput district and the second covering the districts of Tiruchirapalli and South Arcot. The third volume covers the districts of Coimbatore and Salem.

The manner of presentation in this volume is similar to that adopted for the second volume relating to Tiruchirapalli and South Arcot districts. A detailed description is given of important temples in each taluk while for the others, the relevant particulars are given in a tabular statement. The procedure adopted for filling up the forms relating to temples in the State has been indicated in the first volume on Chingleput and Madras city.

Coimbatore district :

Out of 1,004 temples under the control of the Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Board in the Coimbatore district, 818 temples returned the forms after filling them up. I deputed my office staff to the remaining 186 temples to collect the information needed by us. The narrative report covers 31 temples while information about the rest is included in tabular statements which have been prepared for each taluk, the villages in each taluk being arranged according to the location code used in Census enumeration.

The questionnaires have been filled up as follows :—

224 temples which are not under the control of the Board but which have sent statistical and other details are also included in the compendium.

Details of income from immovable properties and the value of jewels have been collected for all temples except 46 in respect of immovable properties and 105 in respect of jewellery. It can be presumed that these shrines have no immovable properties or jewels.

The officials of the Revenue Department and of the Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Board and the Trustees of temples have been of great help to us in collecting the particulars relating to temples.

Sketches and plans of the following temples (not according to scale) are included in this compendium.

1. Sri Magudesarwar and Veeranarayana Perumal temple, Kodumudi
2. Sri Koniamman temple, Coimbatore
3. Sri Avanashi Lingeswarar temple, Avanashi
4. Sri Patteeswaraswamy temple, Perur
5. Sri Chennimalai Andavar temple, Chennimalai
6. Sri Sangameswarar temple, Bhavani

Salem district :

Out of 1,053 temples under the control of the Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Board in Salem District, reports were received on 859 temples. My staff collected information on the remaining 194 temples. In addition, schedules were received from 138 temples not under the control of the Board. Such temples also have been included in the compendium. Thus the Directory for Salem will cover 1,191 temples. The narrative report covers 38 temples while details of 1,153 temples are given in the tabular statements. The questionnaires have been filled up by the following persons.

Details of income from immovable properties, and the value of jewellery have been given for all temples except 18 in respect of immovable properties and 52 in respect of jewellery. It can be presumed that these temples do not have any immovable property or jewellery.

The age of the temple will depend on the view held by the persons who filled the schedule and cannot always be supported by evidence of inscriptions or other records.

Revenue Officials as well as the officials of the Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Board and Trustees of temples have been of great help to us in collecting the particulars relating to temples.

Sketches and plans of the following temples (not according to scale) are included in this compendium :—

1. Sri Narasimhaswamy temple, Namakkal
2. Sri Chandra Choodeswaraswamy Hill temple, Hosur
3. Sri Badra Kaliyamman temple, Mecheri
4. Sri Kailasanathar temple, Taramangalam

In addition to these temples, there are innumerable shrines for village Gods and Goddesses with and without structures. Where there are structures, they are very small; in other cases, the deities are installed under trees and represented by an idol or a symbol like three bricks or a stone. These shrines are outside the scope of our survey; but I have indicated in the first Volume relating to Madras City and Chingleput District the important role played by them in the religious life of a section of the people in the State.

I am grateful to Sri A. Mitra, Registrar General, India for the encouragement he has given me in this study of Temples in Madras State.

I wish to place on record my appreciation of the able assistance given by the members of my staff in the preparation and presentation of this volume.

COIMBATORE DISTRICT

INTRODUCTION

The district of Coimbatore is the major component of that part of Madras State popularly known as Kongunad. Palni taluk of Madurai district, Karur taluk of Tiruchirapalli, and Namakkal and Tiruchengode taluks of Salem district are also part of Kongunad. It has its peculiar and characteristic features which distinguishes it from other parts of Madras State. As it was less developed than Chola and Pandya territory, it has less number of well-known sacred places. Of the 207 places recognised as Padal Petrasthalams, only 7 can be found in Kongunad, viz., Avanashi, Thirumugapu, Bhavani and Kodumudi of Coimbatore district, Karur and Venchamangadulur of Tiruchy and Tiruchengode of Salem district. Towards the construction of temples in Coimbatore district, Cholas, Hoysalas and Pandyas have contributed their mite. But Coimbatore has always remained an unsettled area being the battleground of Hoysalas and southern dynasties with the result that sufficient attention has not been given to the construction of temples. With the advent of the British rule in India, Coimbatore district has grown in its economic and industrial importance. As such, we do find a large number of modern constructions in addition to the few sacred centres already listed.

The thousand year old temple at Bhavani located at the junction of two rivers—Bhavani and Cauveri—has a majestic pagoda of 120' in height. The presiding deity is Sri Sangameswarar. Bhavani is popularly known as South Prayag. Just as Jamuna and Saraswathi (not visible) join with Ganges at Allahabad (Prayag), Bhavani and Amuda (not visible now) join Cauveri at this juncture. The sacred temple at Bannari, dedicated to Sri Mariamman who is in the form of a Swayambu Lingam by the side of a Vengai tree is a place of pilgrimage chiefly during the famous annual festival 'Poomidhithal.' Pilgrims hailing not only from Madras State, but also from Kerala and Mysore gather in large numbers estimated at 1.5 lakhs. Another famous temple is Dhandayudhapani at the top of Chennimalai built by Sivalaya Cholan. In order to get rid of 'Brahmahatti', he visited several shrines and came to Chennimalai. Lord Muruga took the form of a priest and performed pooja and blessed the Chola.

Another famous temple is at Kodumudi. The Lingam is assumed to be a stone which fell from the head of Adi Sessa. In Sri Veerakumaraswami temple at Vellakoil, no woman is given entrance. Sri Bhagavan temple at Ponnivadi, a Vaishnavite shrine is said to cure epidemics like plague, small-pox and cholera. Sri Vazhai Thottathu Ayyan temple is one of the two temples which yield the maximum annual income in Coimbatore district. Avanashi is known as South Banaras. The old name was Pukkoliyur where Saint Sundarar brought back to life a boy who was devoured by a crocodile five years earlier. The temple was built by Cholas in the middle of the 12th century and later on renovations and additions were made by Pandyas and Hoysalas and Mysore kings.

Sri Patteeswaraswamy temple in Perur was founded in the 1st century B. C. by the great Karikala Chola. The sacred theertham at Mariamman temple in Sulakal is said to cure all kinds of diseases. The reputed Thirumurthimalai dedicated to Sri Amanalingeswarar is a pilgrim centre to which devotees flock in large numbers on Sundays and on New Moon days. Except a mandapam, no structure resembling a murthi or idol can be found here. In fact most of the temples included in the narrative part have special features of interest.

The taluk-wise distribution of the temple is as follows :—

Name of Taluk	Temples		Total
	Under the Board	Outside the Board
1. Bhavani	72	34	106
2. Gopichettipalayam	132	14	146
3. Erode	124	12	136
4. Dharapuram	69	30	99
5. Palladam	86	78	164
6. Avanashi	69	10	79
7. Coimbatore	182	7	189
8. Pollachi	177	21	198
9. Udumalpet	93	18	111
Total	1,004	224	1,228

Pollachi taluk has the largest number of temples, viz., 198, while the least number is in Avanashi taluk, viz., 79.

A classification of the temples according to the presiding deities reveals the following interesting details :—

Presiding Deities	Temples		Total
	Under the Board	Outside the Board
Siva and His consort ...	160	44	204
Vishnu and His consort ...	254	53	307
Murugar ...	46	11	57

Vinayagar ...	106	30	136
Other Deities ...	79	15	94
Total ...	1,004	224	1,228

The number of Saivite temples is 397, while the Vaishnavite shrines are 307.

The following statement shows the area covered by the temples.

Extent	Temples		Total
	Under the Board	Outside the Board
Below 5 cents ...	260	44	304
5 cents and above but below 20 cents ...	327	66	393
20 cents and above but below 1 acre ...	288	74	362
1 acre and above but below 2 acres ...	54	12	66
2 acres and above but below 5 acres ...	16	7	23
5 acres and above but below 10 acres ...	5	...	5
10 acres and above ...	2	...	2
Area not stated ...	52	21	73
Total ...	1,004	224	1,228

It may be seen from the above statement that while only 2 temples cover an area of 10 acres and more, 304 shrines are small ones covering less than 5 cents. The majority of temples namely 755 out of 1,228, occupy an extent of 5 cents to an acre. Temples which cover an area of one acre and over is less than 8 per cent, as the number of such shrines is only 96. The 73 temples which have not furnished the information under this head may be treated as small ones. Thus, more than 50 per cent of the temples are those which cover an area of less than four grounds.

In 53 out of 190 Siva temples, the presiding deity is a Swayambu Lingam, while in the remaining 137 shrines, the Moolavar is an installed one. In two Amman shrines, the Moola Vighrams are said to be Swayambu. There are only pictures in seven temples. In four shrines neither idol nor picture is found. Excluding 445 temples, where their position is not specified, the posture of the presiding deities in other than Siva temples is as follows :—

Standing pose ...	376
Sitting pose ...	152
Lying pose ...	5
Dancing pose ...	1
Stone without figure ...	25
Anthill ...	2
Head alone ...	1
Spear ...	1
Others ...	17
Total ...	580

Saivite Gurukkals and Vaishnavite Bhattacharies are generally employed to perform poojas in the Siva and Vishnu temples respectively. The remuneration paid to them is low. Before they are permitted to enter the Sanctum, they should be duly initiated according to the rules prescribed in the Agamas or Pancharatras.

The following statement regarding poojas will be interesting :—

Poojas are performed in all except 27 temples, where there are no priests. A noteworthy feature of this district is that in the majority of temples priests of communities other than Brahmins offer poojas. In 677 out of 1,201 temples, persons other than Brahmins offer poojas. In the majority of Siva, Vishnu and Murugan temples, the priest is a Brahmin, while out of 134 temples for Vinayagar, only in 44 shrines, the priest is a Brahmin. In 37 out of 199 Siva temples, in 70 out of 300 Vishnu shrines and in 16 out of 55 Murugan temples, the priest belongs to other communities, whereas Brahmin priests are found only in 49 out of 513 temples for Village Goddesses and Other Deities. In the bigger Siva temples, after the recitation of Vedas in Sanskrit by the Gurukkals, Thevaram is sung in Tamil by Pandarams who are known as 'Othuvans'. In Vishnu temples the Bhattacharies recite Vedas in Sanskrit and Thiruvaimozhi in Tamil.

Though the language of the Madras State is Tamil, poojas are performed in Sanskrit in all the important temples in the State. It is based on the assumption that Devas (Gods) should be worshipped in their language and that Sanskrit should be the medium of worship as it is supposed to be the language of the Gods. The historical explanation is that Sanskrit was the language of the Brahmins who held sway in the temples. The fusion of Aryan and Dravidian cultures elevated the position of Brahmins in South India and with the rise of the Vijayanagar empire, Sanskrit became universal. At the same time the practice of reciting Tamil hymns was in vogue for at least a thousand years.

No ornaments are found in 786 temples. Hundred and five temples have not furnished any details under the head. The classification of the remaining 337 temples according to value of jewellery owned by them is as follows :—

The following are the two temples which own ornaments worth more than Rs. one lakh.

1. Sri Nattarayaswamy temple—Mettupalayam
2. Sri Subramaniaswamy temple—Sivanmalai

The value of jewellery in Sri Subramaniaswamy temple of Sivanmalai is estimated at about Rs. 5 lakhs.

Pious devotees have endowed lands for performance of poojas and festivals. Except fortyseven temples, the others own immovable properties in the shape of wet, dry or wet and dry lands, garden lands, topes, house sites, shops, etc. Excluding fortysix shrines which have not given details of income, the classification of 1,135 temples which derive an income from immovable properties is shown below :—

Annual Income	Temples		Total
	Under the Board	Outside the Board
(1)	(2)	(3)	(4)

50,001 — 100,000	2	...	2
Above one lakh	1	1	2
Total	1,004	131	1,135

The following are the four temples having an income of above Rs. 50,000 per annum from their immovable properties.

1. Sri Eswaran temple, Nerunjepatti
2. Sri Bannari Mariamman temple, Chikkarasampalayam
3. Sri Vazhai Thottathu Ayyan temple, Ayyampalayam
4. Sri Patteeswarar temple, Perur

The Sri Mariamman temple at Bannari and Sri Vazhai Thottathu Ayyan temple at Ayyampalayam get an income of Rs. 80,000/- and Rs. 60,000/- respectively per annum under hundi collections, while the chief source of income of Sri Magudeswarar and Veeranarayana Perumal temple at Kodumudi and Sri Patteeswarar temple at Perur is through the sale of Archana and Abishega tickets to the extent of Rs. 20,000/- and Rs. 15,000/- respectively.

Out of 1,228 temples, only seven temples are running public institutions like choultries, while Sri Patteeswarar temple of Perur is running two religious schools viz., "The Veda Padasala" and "The Thevara Padasala".

1,148 temples have no cars, while 1,143 shrines have no Rathams. 80 temples alone own cars and 85 have Rathams. Only 35 temples are having palanquins and 302 shrines are in possession of vahanas like peacock, rishabam, elephant, horse, bandicoot, etc. These vahanas are generally made of wood or brass. The bigger and more famous temples have gold and silver plated vahanas.

Annual festivals are celebrated in 651 out of 1,228 temples. The classification of temples on the basis of the number of festivals observed is as follows :

Number of festivals in a year	Temples		Total
	Under the Board	Outside the Board
One Festival	278	58	336
Two Festivals	104	19	123
Three Festivals	86	7	93
Four Festivals	29	4	33
5 to 10 Festivals	53	8	61
11 to 20 Festivals	5	...	5
Total	555	96	651

The size of the crowd that gathers for the festivals exceeds 500 in 321 temples.

Out of 1,004 temples under the control of the Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Board, paid Executive Officers have been appointed by the Board for 78 temples.

There are no trustees for 223 temples. There is a single trustee for 551 temples and a Board consisting of more than one trustee is in charge of 378 temples. In 8 temples, the priests themselves are functioning as trustees. Particulars under this head have not been furnished by 68 temples.

With reference to the details given in the schedules, the classification of temples, according to the age is as follows :—

Before Christ	...	14
Prior to 7th Century	...	14
7th Century to 1750	...	238
After 1750 (Modern)	...	723
Details not given	...	239
Total	...	1,228

The age of the temples given in the schedule is more a conjecture than any approximation to fact. The age of the 28 temples said to have been built prior to 600 A.D. cannot be correct. Some sort of shrines for worship existed in these places and later temples were built in such places. Sri Patteeswaraswamy temple of Perur is an ancient shrine built in the 1st century B.C. by the famous Chola King Karikala. The Jain temple at Vijayamangalam was constructed some 1,800 years back by the famous Jain King Kongu Velir and round about the 13th century, three other temples viz., Sri Nageswaraswamy temple, Sri Someswaraswamy temple and Sri Kari Varadaraja Perumal temple sprung up here and were patronised by Chola and Pandya Kings. The Avanashi Lingeswarar temple at Avanashi was built by the Cholas in the middle of the 12th century, while Sri Chennimalai Andavar temple at the top of the hills at Chennimalai was built by Sivalaya Cholan. Sri Mandhiragiri Velayudhaswamy temple at Malaipalayam is also said to be a very ancient shrine, as Saint Arunagirinadhar has glorified it in his famous "Thiruppugazh". Sri Sangameswarar temple of Bhavani is said to be thousand years old.

As any one of the saints viz., Appar, Sundarar, Sambandar and Manickavasagar has visited or sung about the presiding deities of the following temples, they should belong to the period covered by the 7th and 8th centuries, though the present structure may be of a later date.

1. Sri Magudeswarar temple—Kodumudi
2. Sri Thiru Muruganadhar temple—Thirumurganpoondi.

While the above details show that these temples belong to the 7th or 8th centuries or to an earlier date, there is no information regarding the age of the existing structures in most cases. It is possible that additions were made piecemeal periodically.

Sri Sangameswarar temple

The Sangameswaraswami temple is located in the town of Bhavani at the confluence of rivers Cauveri and Bhavani. The nearest railway station is Erode lying at a distance of 10 miles. It is believed that a bath at the confluence will relieve any suffering or ailment. The place is also known as 'Tirunana'. The temple is said to have existed even before the days of the first King Mahendra Varma belonging to the Pallava dynasty. Thirugnanasambandar, one of the four Tamil Saints has sung in praise of this temple. The temple is situated in picturesque surroundings. The place where the two rivers join together is itself a beauty spot with tall shady trees on either side lending serenity and charm to the place.

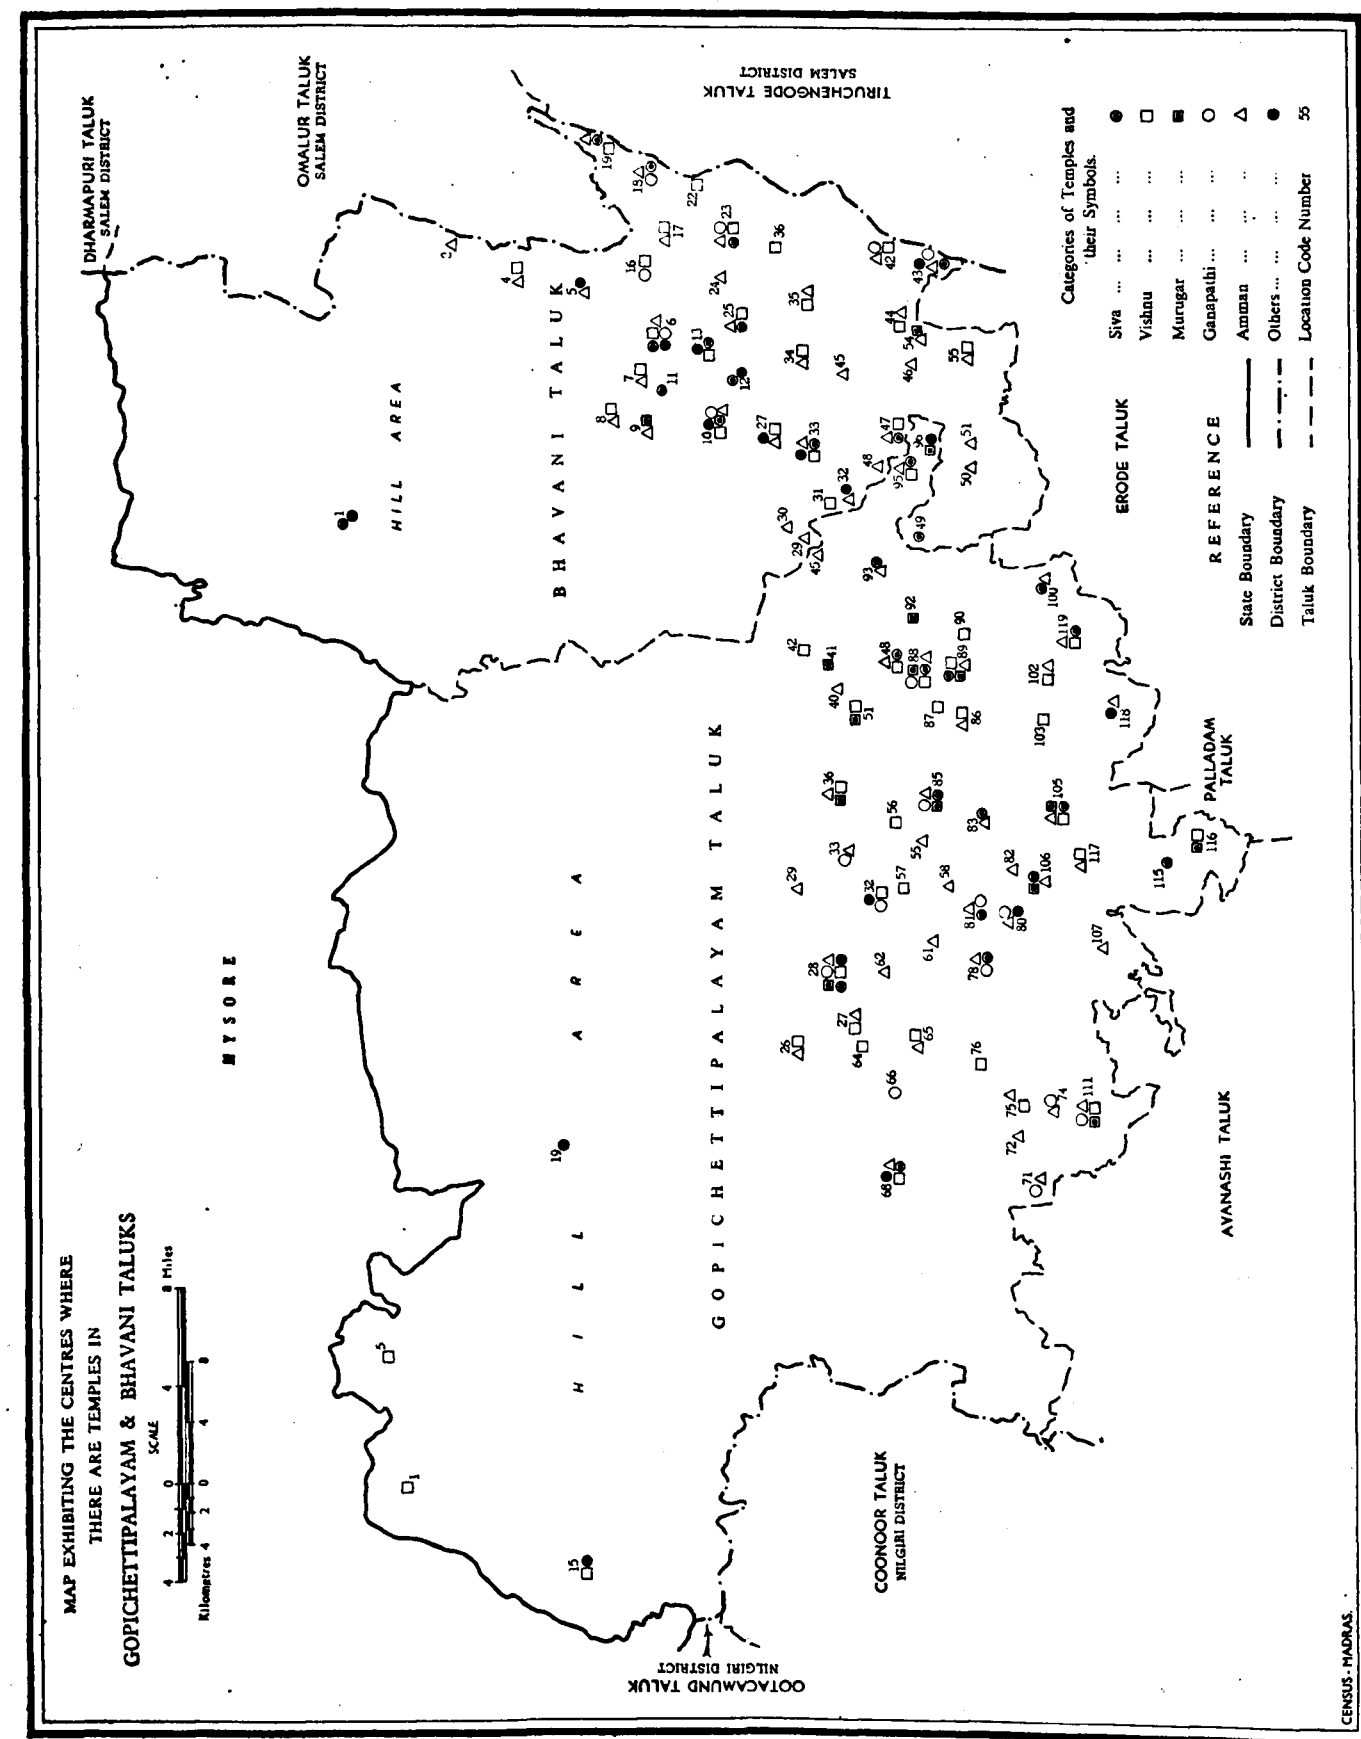

The deity of the temple is Lord Sangameswarar with His consort Vedhanayagi. The "Bhavani Kudal Puranam" written in Sanskrit by poet Vasudevan gives the history of the temple in 901 verses in 18 Chapters. According to this puranam when 'Amrit' came on the surface as a result of the churning of the ocean of milk, there remained a little of this Amrit which was given by Thirumal (Vishnu) to Saint Parasara who buried it on the bank of the river Bhavani and continued his 'tapas'. Four Asuras came to the place to snatch the Amrit, upon which the saint appealed to Lord Siva to save the precious treasure from falling into the hands of the Asuras. Lord Siva sent four Durgas who drove away the Asuras. After some time, when the saint dug the place to take the pot containing the Amrit he found it converted into a Lingam. He installed the Lingam on the spot and offered daily worship to it. Water also sprang from the spot and joined the confluence of rivers, the Cauveri and the Bhavani. This water course was called 'Amuta' river. That was also the reason why 'Tirunana' was also called Dakshin Prayag. Thenkailai, and Parasara Kshetram.

Another story told about this temple is that a Chola King, on hearing the greatness of this temple, came with his wife to worship so that they might be blessed with a child. When they were going round the temple, the King's wife noticed a fruit fallen on the ground from the 'Elandai' tree grown there. She ate it and was blessed with a child. This tree is said to bear a single fruit in a year. The place is said to have been sanctified by the footprints of Sri Rama, Arjuna, the hero of Mahabharatha and many Rishis, and numerous are the miracles said to have taken place in this holy place. The 'Elandai' tree mentioned above is called 'Vadari', and therefore the place is also called Vadarikacharamam.

The main building where the presiding deity has been installed is on the bank of the river near the bathing ghat. This has now been pulled down and a new building is being constructed. Nearly 15 lakhs of rupees have been collected and spent on renovation. The work is being carried on for the past ten years and is likely to be completed within another three or four years. However, in artistic skill the present stone carvings would not compare with those in the adjacent sub-temple dedicated to the Lord's consort Vedhanayagi or the one dedicated to Adhikesava Perumal.

done renovation. Mandapam of the Amman temple was constructed by Chinnammal, sister of Immadi Getti Mudaliar. A palanquin made of ivory was offered to Amman in 1804 by the European Collector William Karo. It seems that once he had a dream of a lady ordering him to come out of his bed room. To his surprise the roof fell on his bed soon after he left the room. He believed it to be the act of Amman. As a token of his gratitude, he offered the palanquin which is still kept in the temple of Amman.

In between the main temple and Amman temple, there is a sanctum for Lord Subramaniam. Adjacent to it, there is an image of Jwara Hareswarar (ஜ்வரா ஹரேஸ்வரர்) with three legs, three hands and three heads, who is said to have cured the sickness of those who accompanied Thirugnanasambandar when he visited this temple. There is an image of Lord Ganesa with a consort in the Amman temple.

The main temple together with the sub-temples of Subramaniam, Vedhanayagi and Adhikesava Perumal occupy an area of four acres. The image of the presiding deity is a Swayambu Lingam. The temple possesses jewels worth Rs. 30,000. It has an annual income of about Rs. 8,000 from lands and Rs. 7,000 from devotees. The annual festival is held in the month of Adi (July-August) when the river is full of water. The temple is managed by a Board of five Trustees and an Executive Officer. Bhavani is also noted for its famous carpets and bed-sheets.

26. BANNARI

Sri Mariamman temple

Bannari is about 50 miles north of Coimbatore or 8 miles from Bhavanisagar on the road to Mysore. It is a place of pilgrimage, chiefly during the annual festival known as "Kundam" which takes place after mid-night on the Monday nearer to the Full Moon day in the Tamil month of (Panguni) பங்குனி or middle of March every year. Pilgrims on that particular day can roughly be estimated as 1.5 lakhs hailing not only from Madras State but also from Kerala and Mysore. The income from Hundi collections on that day is Rs. 80,000 approximately, tansure offering is Rs. 9,000 and hire charges for the holy spear (வேல்) which the devotees take in procession in small groups of 100 to 150 is Rs. 20,000. Special buses ply from all directions in connection with this festival. A small crowd of say 3,000 gather on New Moon days, otherwise few visitors are found as it is situated in a forest without proper amenities. Mariamman, the presiding diety, is believed to be present on the festival day in the form of fire. So pilgrims resort to 'walking on the fire' known as பூமிநித்தல். It is also believed that tiger and cow drink together at this place. The common belief of a milch cow once offering its milk to the local deity prevails at this place also.

The temple is very small. The image of the presiding deity Mariamman is in the form of a Swayambu Lingam by the side of a Vengai tree (வேங்கை மரம்). Another image of Amman has also been installed. Poojas are performed by a Non-brahmin hereditary priest belonging to ஒக்கிலிக் கவுண்டர் (Okkili Gounder) caste. At the time of the festival, Irulas, the local tribes play the music with the pipe known as Peenachchi (பீனாச்சி).

The temple owns an extent of nearly 20 acres of land on which temporary shops and shelters are erected during festival. The temple has silver and golden ornaments worth Rs. 60,000. The temple is managed by a Board of Trustees and an Executive Officer.

48. PARIYUR

Sri Agginigunda Kali or Kondaththu Kaliamman temple

About 25 miles North-West of Erode or 2 miles from Gopichettipalayam lies the village Pariyur once known as Parapuri (பரப்பூரி). The village is a fertile one and lies on the bank of a canal from Bhavani river. There are three temples in the village, one dedicated to Lord Siva, another dedicated to Lord Vishnu and the third one dedicated to Goddess Kali-amman. These are ancient temples and have stone inscriptions. Veerapandyadeva, Hoysala King Bhujabala-Vira Vallaladeva III and Chola King Konerimaikondan Tribhuvanaviradeva patronised* these temples. This place is also believed to be associated with the ancient Tamil King Pari (பரி) who is one of the seven legendary kings known for their charity (கடைபெய மு வள்ளல்கள்). But there is no evidence for such claim. At present this is noted for the exquisite stone carvings. The main temple is that of Goddess Kaliamman.

As soon as one enters the main gateway of Amman temple, any one will be attracted by a group of images on the top of the wall depicting the marriage of Lord Siva in the presence of Lord Brahma, Lord Vishnu, Naradhar and others. On the top of the other sides of the wall, statues of Lord Muruga with Idumban, Markandeya, Anandhasayanam etc., are found. Statues on the walls are few in number but they show good workmanship. They have been the products of renovation done in 1942. The credit of the renovation should go to the trustee Muthuvelappa Gounder. The temple has been remodelled at the time of the renovation providing good ventilation.

Fire walking in the last week of Margazhi (January) is the important annual festival. It is roughly estimated that a crowd of 50,000 persons attend this festival. As a part of this festival, the deity is taken in procession to Gopichettipalayam in a palanquin made of flowers. Besides this annual festival, devotees come in large numbers on Fridays and New Moon days.

Kondam or the spot where fire walking takes place is 60 feet in length. Twenty to twenty five cart loads of firewood are piled and kindled. About 5,000 persons including men, women and children participate in this fire walking. It is said that before independence, the then British Government wanted to discourage this festival. With that motive, it appears that lac was ordered to be poured into the fire. However, the devotees noticed a lizard creeping over the fire and taking this as an expression of the wish of the goddess not to get discouraged, they started their fire walking and to their surprise, found themselves to be free from the effect of lac, or fire. It is also said that an Englishman became doubtful about the genuineness of the fire walking and therefore was examining the fire walking with a power glass and felt the presence of goddess, but was blindfolded. However on realising his mistake in undermining the faith involved and praying for excuse, his eye sight was restored. Gobi Chetty Pillan and Muthukumaran had the privilege of getting wealth and sword respectively by the grace of Goddess Kali

The temple has two acres of wet land, which is normally leased out. Annual hundi collection amounts to Rs. 3,500. The temple is managed by a Board of three trustees and an Executive Officer.

68. BHAVANISAGAR

Thanda Naicken Kottai temples

The Moyar joins the Bhavani at the foot of the eastern slope of the Nilgiris. At their confluence flourished in the days of yore a fort reputed as "the subduer of the Nilgiris". This fortress, Thanda Naicken Kottai (Fort of Thanda Naicken) is submerged by the Lower Bhavani Project which is about five miles below the confluence.

Built in the latter half of the thirteenth century by Perumal Thanda Naicken who was the general of the Hoysala King Narasimha III (Veera Ballala III according to another source) ruler of Kongu Nadu, the one comprising Coimbatore and Salem districts and certain adjoining areas of Mysore, the fort was of strategic importance under the Hoysalas and the Nayakas, commanding all the passes from the plains to the table land of Mysore. During the Muslim interlude of the Mysore suzerainty in the eighteenth century there was an engagement very close to this fort in the III Mysore war between Tippu Sultan and Colonel Fleyd. According to British chroniclers Narasimha III is said to have reconquered Kongu Nadu from the Pandyas and the inscription at Perur, a place 5 miles from Coimbatore and famous for its ancient temple says that Veera Chikka Kethayya, son of Veera Madhava Thanda Naicken built the Madhava Perumal Temple and endowed it with the revenue of thirteen villages. Madhava or Madappa Danaicken was the son of Perumal Thanda Naicken, the founder of the fort. This temple was a little away from the main fortress and the workmanship exhibited the superb skill of the stone masons and stone cutters of those days. Some of the inscriptions on this temple were Canarese. Within the fort, there were three temples dedicated to Sri Someswaraswami, Sri Mangalambika and Sri Veerabhadraswami. Tradition has it that the Prathishta (installation) in the Iswara temple was done by Sage Durvasa during the time of King Janamejaya. All these temples were protected by the Ancient Monument Protection Act.

As a result of the Lower Bhavani Project, all these temples are now submerged in the reservoir. The Government of Madras constituted a committee to build new temples to replace the submerged ones and placed at its disposal a compensation amount and also a piece of land in the township of Bhavanisagar. The committee removed the idols from the ancient temples and built five new temples in one and the same compound in the site given free by the Government. The Ashtabandhana Mahakumbhabhishegam of the temples was performed on the 27th August, 1953.

The vigraham of Madhava Perumal has one of the arms broken. The committee, therefore, resolved to install a new idol in the new temple. About a week after this decision, the Chairman of the committee had a mishap and his arm was broken. Further inquiries revealed that the vigraham of Madhava Perumal when it was installed in the 13th century was found in the same condition with its arm broken. When the original builder thought of replacing the idol, it seems he had a dream when God Madhava appeared and instructed him not to change the vigraham. And so it has continued till this date - the idol being nicknamed 'Mondi Madhavan'. The committee when they heard of this tradition, decided to instal the same vigraham thus reversing their previous decision.

Driving into Bhavanisagar from Coimbatore via Mettupalayam, one can see on the right, close to the main canal, the new location of the temples. The Madhavaraya Perumal with consort Lakshmi, the Sri Somesar with His consort Mangalanayagi, Sri Vinayaga, Sri Subramania, Sri Veerabhadraswami, Sri Brahma and Sri Adi Sakthi temples are all housed in the same compound after their shift from the area submerged by the waterspread.

The ruins in the waterspread are now the lairs of crocodiles (which the Bhavani abounds in) as witnessed by the spoon of these reptiles and their young all over inside the temples. In bright sunny weather some of the creatures could be seen basking on the capes and promontories in the waterspread. But the spot is still the seat of "the Subduer of the Nilgiris".

ERODE TALUK

100. VIJAYAMANGALAM

Sri Jain and Nageswaraswami temple

Vijayamangalam is a railway station between Erode and Coimbotore. It lies at a distance of about 15 miles from Erode on the trunk road from Madras to Calicut. It was the capital of the Jain King Kongu Velir. He was well versed both in Sanskrit and Tamil literature. His contribution for the growth and development of Tamil literature is referred to in "Kongu Mandala Sadhagam". He advocated Jainism and constructed a Jain Temple some 1,800 years back. Inside the Jain temple, remnants of shrines for Sri Vrushabha-devar and Sri Chandhra Prabha Theerthangarar are found. The front Mandapam of this temple contains statues of five Tamil poets with "Olai Suvadigal" (Palm leaves used for writing) in their hands. However, this temple of historical importance is fast dilapidating without proper care and protection, for want of endowments, income and funds.

Close to Vijayamangalam is the village originally known as Sanagapuram, which subsequently corrupted into Jinapuram and now called as Cheenapuram, where the ancient and famous Sri Adhi Nadhar temple exists. This temple is a rememberencer of the famous Bhavanandhi Munivar, the author of "Nan'nool", who worshipped the deity and maintained it.

There are several other smaller Jain temples constructed by King Kongu Velir viz., Thingalur temple, Poondhurai temple and Vellodu temple, which can be seen by pilgrims en route to Cheenapuram, the birth place of Bhavanandhi Munivar. But they are neglected.

Round about 13th century three temples viz., Sri Nageswaraswamy temple, Sri Someswaraswamy temple and Sri Kari Varadaraja Perumal temple sprang up at Vijayamangalam and were patronised by Chola and Pandya Kings. Perhaps this is a countermeasure to check up the rapid spread of Jainism and to encourage the expansion of Hinduism. All the three temples occupy 1 acre, 15 cents and 50 cents respectively. All the three temples have pagodas while Sri Kari Varadaraja Perumal and Sri Nageswaraswamy temples alone have three prakarams each. The Lingam in the Nageswaraswamy temple is a Swayambu one, while the vigrahas in the other two temples are pradhishtha ones. In the Nageswaraswamy temple, there are 12 stone pillars, idols of Dwarapalakas and Navagrahas which are of architectural value. There is also a sahasra lingam here, besides an idol of Sri Shanmugha Subramaniam facing south, which is claimed to be a peculiar feature of this temple found nowhere else in the whole of South India.

In olden days, these temples must have been famous. In Thiruppugazh, Saint Arunagirinadhar sang about this place. There are a number of stone inscriptions in Sri Nageswaraswami temple. But at present, all these temples have lost their fame. Poojas, are performed twice a day at Nageswaraswami temple, which are practically attended by no devotee. Vijayadhasami and Arudhra Dharisanam are the two one day festivals in a year attended by a few of the local people.

The executive management of these temples is vested in a single trustee, who is appointed by the Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments (Adm.) Dept.

133. CHENNIMALAI

Sri Subramaniaswami Temple

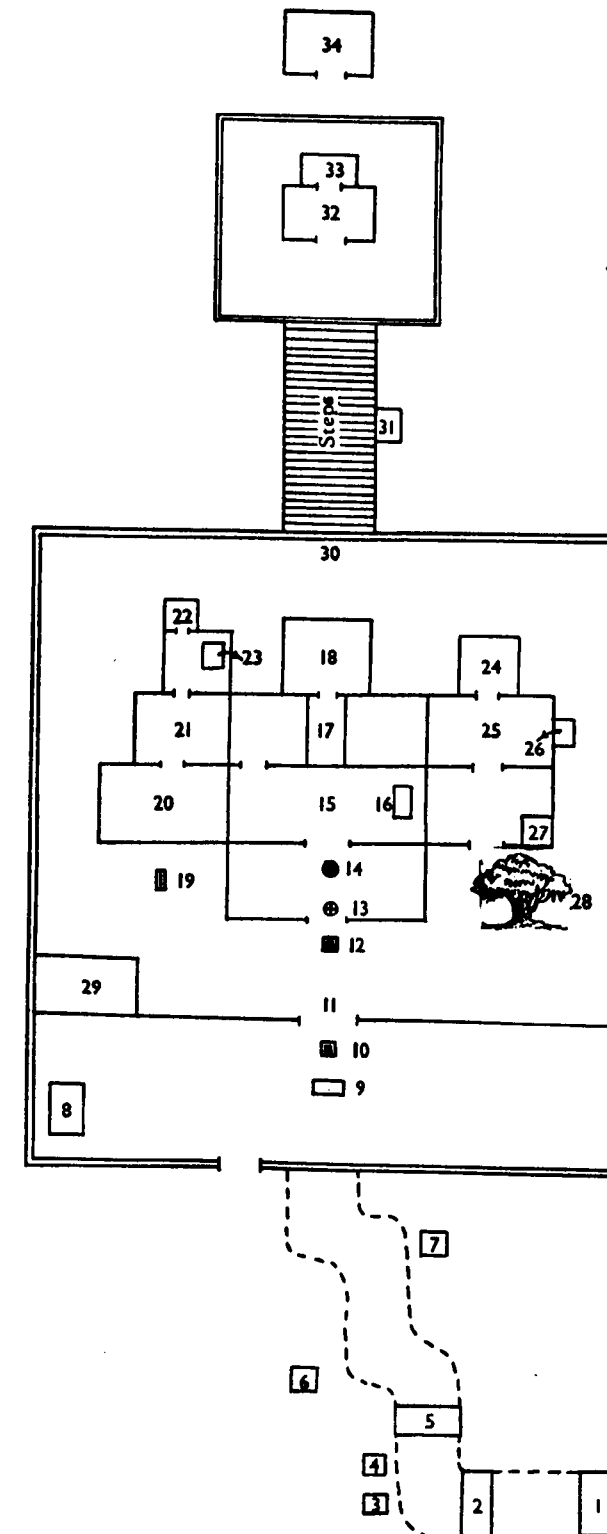

Chennimalai is situated at about 5 miles south of the nearest railway station Ingur and about 18 miles south of Erode, the taluk headquarters. It is an important handloom weaving centre and is well connected by bus. Close to this town is a hill considered to be the abode of Pinnakku Sidhar, one of the 18 famous sidhars of the south, who enjoyed great occult powers and who professed pure monotheism. The hill is surmounted by a temple of Lord Subramania sung by Arunagirinadhar and referred to by Kalamega Pulavar. This ancient temple is visited by a large number of people. Sivalaya Cholan, a ruler of Kongu Chola dynasty, is said to have built this temple at the top of the hill to get rid of Brahmahatti (sin of having killed a Brahmin). Lord Muruga is supposed to have taken the form of a priest and performed pooja for the Chola ruler. Subsequent renovations were made by Vijayalaya Cholan, a local chieftain by name Saravana Kangeyan, Elamapalli Zamindars and by public contribution. The hill is about 10 miles in circumference with a height of about 1750 ft. mean sea level.

There is a motorable ghat road on the hill covering a distance of nearly 3 miles. As a part of the recent renovation programme, about 1,000 steps have been laid to climb up the hill. On the way, there is a "Mayil Vahana Koradu", which is said to have been built by a king of Vijayanagar. It is here that the devotees gave their hair (mudi) before commencing their prarthanas. Nearby is the Indhira Vinayagar Sannidhi. He is also known as Nalla Kinatru Vinayagar. Adjacent to this is the Sengazhuneer Pillaiyar temple. To its north is situated a well called Kumara Theertham. To the west of the Indhira Vinayagar temple, there is a tank with foot steps all around. These foot steps were fashioned and gifted by poosari Velala Thambiran of Vettuva Palayam, a staunch devotee of Lord Muruga. This tank is known as Markandeya Theertham. The water in this tank is drawn through a pipe line from top to bottom of the hill for the use of devotees. Beyond the tank there are three Sannidhis for Kadambavaneswarar, Kandhar and Idumbar in a straight row. Further up is the Valliamman Padha Mandapam and Ilaippatri (இலைப்பாற்றி) Mandapam, where the devotees can take shelter and rest. Next comes the sannidhi of Muthukumara Saavan, who is supposed to guard the hill. He is one of the nine heroes and is the son of Muthuvalli. His idol has been designed as a typical hero, with a sword in the neck and another in his waist. Above the Saavan temple is the Sannidhi of Sri Atru Malai Vinayagar, who is also called as Aaththi Vinayagar or (Adhi Vinayagar). Above this shrine is an ancient "Thuratti" tree, with long and small green leaves. It is believed that persons affected by ghosts cannot climb further without the ghosts being driven off by this tree, whereby it came to be called as "Thuratti", which means the driving away of ghosts.

At the top of the hill, there is a small temple for Parasakthi. There are several iron chains, spears and swords here. Criminals who returned after undergoing imprisonment were said to have hung the heads of animals on these spears as their offerings. Adjacent to this, there is a cave. It is said that there used to be a large congregation of devotees and large scale sacrifice of cattle and fowl at this place. After the prohibition of such sacrifice, very few people visit this spot. The cave is said to have an underground path leading to Bhogar Cave at Palni in Madurai district. Within this cave, Saravana Munivar, Pinnakku Siddhar and Sathia Muni lived and performed Yoga. This is also otherwise called as Sri Thannasiappan temple. On the western side of the Parasakthi temple, is the Sannidhi of Pinnakku Sidhar where a Non-Brahmin priest performs pooja.

A few steps below the cave, there is a small shrine for Valli and Deivayanai without their consort. These images are carved on a single stone with a Lingam at the bottom. Kalamega Pulavar has humourously described them as two horns of Chennimalai Andavar. These images symbolise Amirdhavalli and Sundharavalli who, after severe penance, became Valli and Deivayanai and got married to Lord Muruga. The main temple of Chennimalai Andavar is just below this. In front of the main temple, there is a big tamarind tree under which there is an image of Vinayagar. The main temple occupies a space of 165 × 110 sq. ft. The temple faces east and has no gopuram at the entrance. But there are three Vimanams, one over the sanctum sanctorum of the presiding deity and the other two over the sanctums of Viswanathar and Markandeswarar. There is only one prakaram. There is an image for Paravel (Parasakthi) in the front. On the southern prakaram there is a sanctum for Markandeswarar and Imayavalli, on the south west corner for Vinayagar and on the north for Kasi Viswanathar and Visalakshi. Tamarind tree, the Sthala Vruksham is on the eastern side. It is believed to possess a sacred Sandhana Karani (சந்தான கரணி). Barren women offer Mavilakku (மாவிளக்கு) burning of a wick in a lamp made out of flour paste to the deity Valliammai under the tamarind tree.

The image of the presiding deity Chennimalai Andavar is in the form of Dhandapani holding spear in his right hand and placing his left hand on the hip. The original image of the presiding deity seemed to be Subramaniam with six faces. Once a few of the local elderly men had a dream that the image be replaced by another one with a particular artisan. The artisan raised an objection to hand over his unfinished image and started chiseling but was shocked to find blood spurting out. So without further objection or argument he handed over the existing image of Dhandapani for installation at the temple. Even today, the incomplete work can be noticed between the waist and feet.

There is an interesting anecdote regarding the origin of the hill according to which, there was once a competition between Adhishesha the serpent God and Vayu the wind God as to who was stronger. Adhishesha spread himself over the Himalayas while, Vayu attempted to dislodge Adhishesha. In that process one of the chips fell at Chennimalai which is no other than the local hill. According to the local puranam it was known as Magudagiri in Kritha Yuga and was worshipped by Maha Vishnu; as Kanagagiri in Thretha Yuga and was worshipped by Mahalakshmi; as Pushpagiri in Dwapara Yuga and was worshipped by Ashta Durgas and as Siragiri (as well as Chennimalai) in the present Kaliyuga and was worshipped by Siddhars.

Daily seven poojas are performed in the main hill temple. The chief annual car festival is celebrated in the month of Thai (January-February). However, the festival is not celebrated at the hill top but in Kailasanathar temple, at the foot of the hill. This festival attracts a crowd of nearly two lakhs. Devotees visit the hill mainly on Kirthigai and New Moon days. Both the temples have been constituted into a single Devasthanam and managed by a Board of three trustees and an Executive Officer. In fasli 1375, the Devasthanam had an annual income of Rs. 4,096, besides a specific endowment of Rs. 3,801. It has 8 houses, a choultry, nearly 49 acres of dry lands and 1½ acres of wet land. The value of jewellery as on 2-3-1960 has been estimated at Rs. 35,442. Of the vahanas, a silver chapparam (Car) and a silver peacock deserve special mention.

146. SIRKAR PERIAPALAYAM

Sri Sugreeswarar temple

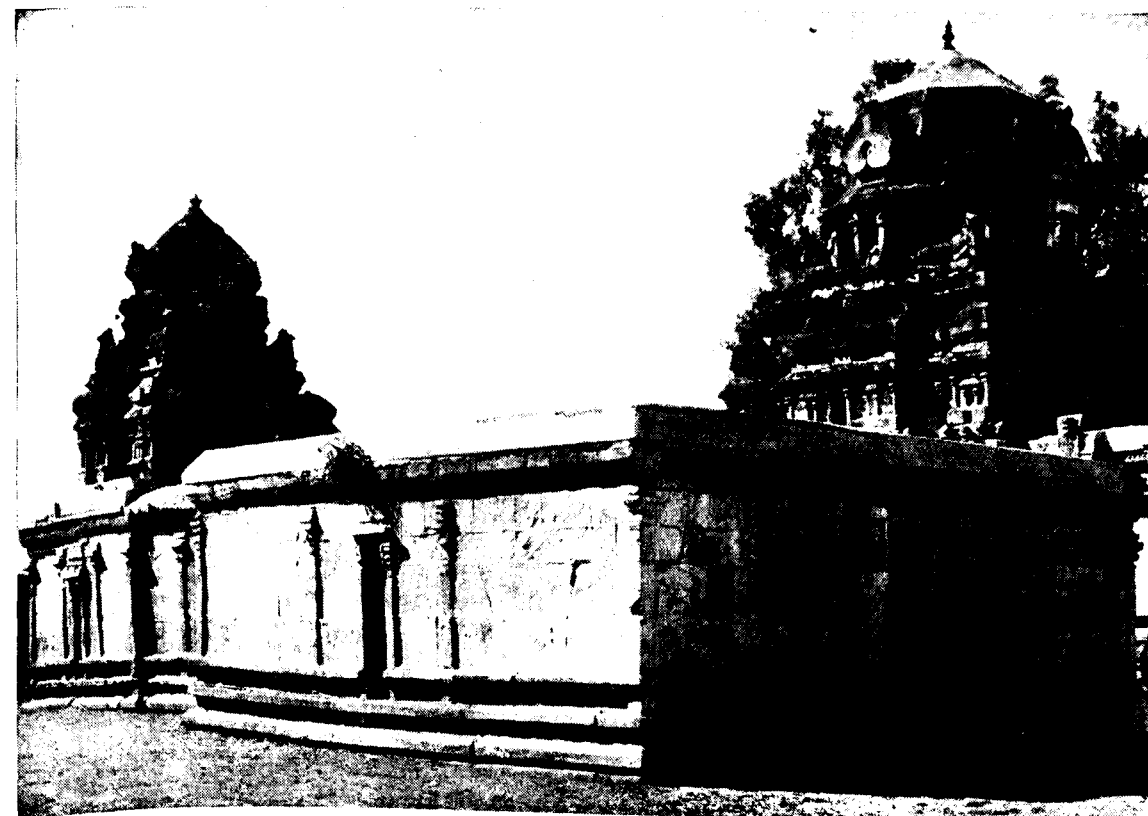

This is one of the three temples declared as Protected Monuments in Coimbatore district and is under the control of the Department of Archaeology, the other two being Murugantha temple at Thirumuruganpundi and Sri Avanashilingeswarar temple at Avanashi. This place was once known as Kurekkuththalai and was referred to by Saint Sundarar in one of his verses. This temple has an annual income of about Rs. 750 through its landed property. It has six acres of wet land and twelve acres of dry land besides the land occupied by the temple. This land may roughly measure 400 ft. x 400 ft. The temple is in a dilapidated condition. It is at a distance of five miles east of Tiruppur and can be reached by a bus from Tiruppur to Erode (via) Uthukuli. Sugreeswarar, His consort Avudainayagi, Sun God, Dhakshinamoorthi, Subramaniam and Bairavar are the deities installed in this temple. There are festival images for Natarajar, Sivagami, Vinayagar, Somaskandhar and Chandrasekarar. Poojas are performed twice a day by a Gurukkal. Thiruvadhirai or Arudhra Dharisanam in the month of Margazhi (December-January) is the chief annual festival attended by a few local people. Otherwise visits of devotees are very rare. This temple assumes importance in view of the stone inscriptions in it. They are therefore extracted from "Inscriptions of the Madras Presidency" Volume I by V. Rangacharya, Assistant Professor of History, Presidency College, Madras and are furnished as follows:

194. KODUMUDI

Sri Magudeswarar and Veeranarayana Perumal temple

Kodumudi is one of the four places sung about (பாடல் பெற்ற ஸ்தலம்) of Coimbatore district. All the three eminent poets of Saivism viz., Thirugnana Sambandar, Thirunavukkarasar and Sundarar visited this place and each one composed one Thevaram about this temple. This shrine is located at a distance of one furlong from Kodumudi railway station in the Erode-Tiurchirapalli railway line. It is 64 miles from Coimbatore, the district headquarters and 23 miles from Erode, the taluk headquarters. Buses are plying frequently from this place to Erode, Karur, Vellore, Chennimalai, Kangeyam and Dharapuram. River Cauveri changes its course in front of this temple from its southward direction to eastward.

A special feature of this shrine is the expounding of the Doctrine of Trinity by the presence of the Trimurtis, viz., Lord Brahma, Vishnu and Siva together in one and the same place. There are three pagodas for Lord Siva, Vishnu and Sri Amman. The sanctum sanctorum for Brahma is under a Vanni tree behind Amman temple. The union of Lord Siva and Vishnu in all processions signify the collaboration of Saivism and Vaishnavism in a harmonious unity. The direct penetration of sun's rays on the images of Swamy and Amman for four days during the months of Avani and Panguni indicates the offering of pooja to the Lord by Surya, which is known as "Surya Pooja".

The Moolavar Sri Magudeswaraswamy is a Swayambu Lingam. Sri Kodumudinathar, Kodumudeeswarar and Kodumudilingam are the other names adorned to Him. He is also called as "Thirupandi Kodumudi Mahadevar" and "Aaludaya Naayanar" in the stone inscriptions of the temple. His consort is known by the names, Sri Soundarambigai, Vadivudai Nayagi and Panmozhiammai. Perumal is known in this temple as Sri Veera Narayana Perumal. His consort is known as Sri Thirumangai Nachiar and also as Sri Mahalakshmi. The Vinayagar of this temple is known as "Sri Cauveri Kanda Vinayagar".

The temple occupies a space of 640' x 484' with three entrances each one facing east. The southern entrance leads to the sanctum sanctorum of Amman; the central one to that of Perumal and the northern one to that of Siva. Within the temple, there is a bronze image of Natarajar known as குஞ்சிதபாத நடராஜர் (Kunjitha Patha Natarajar). Contrary to the usual form of one raised leg, both the legs are on the ground in this image. Several renovations were made to this temple, among which those by Pandian kings need special mention. In view of that, this place is also known as Pandi Kodumudi. Malayadwaja Pandian, one of Pandya kings was pleased at the growth of the thumb of his son, who was originally defective by birth, by the grace of Sri Magudeswarar at this shrine and constructed three pagodas and mandapams for Sri Eswarar, Devi and Perumal and built Sannidhis for other deities like Sri Vinayagar, Murugar, Natarajar, Uma Maheswarar, Nandhikeswarar, Suriyar, Chandrar, Saptha Maadhar, Bairavar and Chandikeswarar. He established a Mutt and a choultry for devotees. He also gifted a beautiful big car to the temple. He endowed several villages for the proper conduct of poojas and abishegas to Sri Kodumudinathar and Veera Narayana Perumal and made jewellery for the deities.

Sri Komara Varman gifted some articles for the Thiruvathirai Thirumanjanam and for some renovations. Renovations by King Narasimha Pallava during 625—650 A.D. are evidenced by the two lion faced (Narasimha Mugam) stone pillars in the temple. In the 8th century A.D., Sri Therman presented the temple with enormous gold coins and other valuable ornaments. In the 13th century A.D. Sri Sundara Pandia Kesari Varman endowed some villages for Lord Siva, Thirumal and Thiruvadi Garudan (திருவடி கருடன்). It is also stated that Sri Narasingamunaiaraiyar, one of the 63 Nayanars, made some renovations to the temple. Sri Thandigai Kaliyannan who is also Known as Nattimai Kaliyannan and Vikramadhitha Kaliyannan and lived in the 17th century A.D. at Thalayanallur, established several endowments for Abishegam, Nithiya Paditharam and Nandha Vilakku to Sri Magudeswarar. Later, in the years 1909 and 1922, the inhabitants of Nattukottai made several additions and alterations to the temple and celebrated kumbabishegams in a grand fashion. The family of the Zamindar of Devakottai and the families of Kanaadukathan were the main contributors.

Stone inscriptions relating to this shrine are found in the Perumal temple around the prakaram. These stone inscriptions contain information regarding the endowments made to the temple by Sri Sundara Pandian, Konerinmaikondan and Sri Veera Narayana Ravi Varman. They also give information regarding naming of this place as "Athirajamandalathu Cauveri Naattu Karaiyur Thirupandi Kodumudi", calling the presiding deity as "Thirupandi Kodumudi Mahadevar" and "Aaludaya Nayanar" and also the installation of Sri Pallikonda Perumal, Peria Thiruvadi (Garudan) and Ilaya Pillaiyar (Lord Muruga).

A view of the prakaram and vimanams.

Besides the three Thevarams, one each by Appar, Sundarar and Sambandar, Saint Arunagirinadhar composed two verses in his famous Thiruppugazh. Sri Vadhutha Munivar composed verses of the Sthalapuranam in Sanskrit, while Sri Venkataramanadasar of Samakkulam published the same in Tamil verses. Sri V. R. Deiva Sigamani Gounder has written in prose the history of this place and the shrine. References are made about the shrine in the works of Sekkizhar (செக்கிழார்), Eyarkon Kalikkamar (ஏயர்கோன் கலிக் காமர்) and in the "Padhinoram Thirumurai" of "Sivaperuman Thiruvirattai Manimalai" composed by Sri Kabiladevanayanar. "Kodumudi Kuravanji" by Sri Malaikkozundhu Kavirayar, "Kaliyannan Kuravanji" by Sri Bala Bharathiyar, "Vadivulla Nayagy Panjarathinam" and "Kongumandala Cheyyulgal" by Sri Deiva Sigamani Gounder, also praise the shrine and the place.

According to the local sthalapuranam, long long ago, a war arose between the serpent king "Adi Sesha" and "Vayu Bhagavan" in the "Indhira Sabhai", testing the strength of their mutual powers. Towards the end, Adi Sesha coiled around the Great Mount Meru and Vayu Bhagavan with all his ferocity dashed against it and blew it up to pieces. During this, five big chips of the Mount Meru, fell in five different places, as five precious stones and these later became five famous hill "sthalams". Of these, the red stone became Tiruvannamalai, green stone (Maragadham) gave rise to the "Thirueingomalai", the Manickam stone grew up into the "Sivaya malai" (Rathinagiri), the blue stone gave rise to the "Thirupodhigaimalai" and the diamond stone fashioned itself as the famous "Kodumudi" hills. Of these, while the four others appear as regular hills, Kodumudi alone has designed itself as a Lingam, representing the abode of Lord Siva, which is a special grandeur of this "sthalam".

When the marriage of Lord Siva and Sri Parvathi took place in Mount Kailas (Imayagiri), all Devas and human beings assembled together to witness it. This resulted in a heavy pressure on the north, thereby tilting Mount Kailas downwards. At that time, Lord Siva kept up the balance of weight, at a level in both north and south, by sending Sage Agasthiya to Podhigaimalai, in the south. On his way to Podhigaimalai, Sage Agasthiya reached Kongunad and started a severe penance in a hillock, holding a Kamandalam in his right hand, which was full of the sacred water of river Ganga. Then King Indra of Devaloga descended to earth assuming the form of a human and was worshipping Lord Siva at Sirkazhi in Thanjavur district. One of his prayers was to rescue the people from their sufferings due to water scarcity. Thereupon Lord Siva instigated Sri Vinayagar to assume the form of a white crow and tilt down the Kamandala Theertham held by Sage Agasthiya. The tilted water is believed to be running in the form of river Cauveri and the place of occurrence is believed to be the present Kodumudithurai. The incident is supposed to have been commemorated on a rock now known as "Agasthiyar Parai", which is partially submerged in river Cauveri, just opposite the temple. The legend finds a place in old Tamil literature like Manimegalai, Silappadigaram and Prabhulinga Leelai. Because of this incident, the image of local Vinayagar is known as Cauveri Kanda Vinayagar (காவேரி கண்ட வினாயகர்).

According to a third legend in the Sthalapuranam, Saint Bharadwaja was a learned man in Vedas and Agamas. He visited several sacred centres and finally reached Kodumudi. Every day, he took bath in river Cauveri, reposed beneath Vanni tree meditating and worshipping Sri Magudeswarar. Pleased at this, the Lord blessed him by giving a darshan in a dancing posture accompanied by a grand orchestra, which included 'Mathalam' by Nandhi and Thirumal, 'Potralam' by Brahma, 'Veena' (Yazh) by Thumburu and Naradhar. Consequent on this incident, this sthalam came to be known as Bharadwaja Kshethiram.

Poojas are performed four times a day in Siva temple and twice a day in the Vishnu temple by hereditary Brahmins. The Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Board have estimated the value of jewellery at Rs. 15,802 as on 2—3—1960. They have also assessed the annual income at Rs. 29,888. The chief source of income (Rs. 20,000) is from the fees levied towards different archanas and abishegas at fixed rates prescribed by the Devasthanam. The schedule of fees levied by the Devasthanam is as noted below :—

	Rs. Ps.
Ashtothiram (108 Namas) ...	0-25
Sahasranamam (1008 Namas) ...	0-62
Pannir Abishegam ...	0-25
Sivankoil Abishegam ...	2-12

Velli (Silver) Nagabaranam Saarthal ...	5-00
Saneeswarar Abisehegam ...	0-62
Mudi Kanikkai ...	0-62

Apart from this, the temple also gets a decent income from its hundi collections.

There are two cars in the Siva temple, made 11 years back, one for Eswarar costing Rs. 25,000 and the other for Sri Vinayagar, worth Rs. 1,000, while there is only one big car in the Vishnu temple, about 91 years old, valued at Rs. 7,500. Besides, it also owns five vahanas namely, Garuda, Simha, Sessa, Horse, Elephant and two chapparams, all made of wood, some 30 years ago.

The chief annual festival is celebrated in Chithirai (April-May) for a period of 10 days. Besides this, Adi Perukku is celebrated on the 18th day of Adi (July-August), in which all devotees take a sacred bath in the river Cauveri, where the Murthis gave dharshan to them. The same night, it is customary for the devotees to place "Maavilakku" (a flour paste in which a wick is burnt), "pottu", "Agal Vilakku", "Karai", "Kadholai", "Karumani", "Sitradai", coconut, plantain, pawn and supary in a plate called as "Thaali" (தூளி) made out of wet clay and leave it in the running waters of the Cauveri. "Sandhana Kappu" to the Amman and Sri Lakshmi in Adi, Ayppasi Annabishegam, Karthigai Deepam, Sangabishegam during the last "Somavaram", the procession of Lord Perumal and Sri Natarajar on Thiruvathirai and Vaikunta Ekadasi days and the "Theerthavizha" during "Thai Poosam" are the other festivals celebrated here. Apart from these, "Thirumangala Naan Nonbu" festival is celebrated by the Ambal on the Margazhi Thiruvathirai day, when Sri Veera Narayana Perumal blesses His sister Sri Vadivudaiya Nayagi seated on the decorated swing (Oonjal) and gives cocoanut, plantain, pawn, supary, turmeric powder, saffron, sandal paste, flowers and costly silk sarees to her, by way of gift. There is also a procession accompanied by "Mangala Vaathiam" during which the priests chant "Vedha Manthras". Special poojas and abishegas are performed for four "Kalams" on the night of the "Sivarathiri" day, in the month of Masi. Among the "Sivarathiri" celebrations "Nithiya Sivarathiri", "Madha Sivarathiri", "Yoga Sivarathiri", "Pacha Sivarathiri" and "Maha Sivarathiri" are the five categories. Besides, devotees also offer special worship in the temple on the monthly Kirthigai and Pradhosham days. It is considered that worship of Lord Siva during the "Pradhosha Kalam" is very sacred as it signifies the swallowing of the "Aalakala Visham" by the Lord, thereby saving humanity. Devotees who carry "Kavadi" to 'Palani', for fulfilling their vows used to take their sacred bath here in the sacred Cauveri river and carry the sacred water in a kalasam, covered by the green leaves of Vannimaram, the sacred sthalaviruksham of the temple, before proceeding to Palani hills. This presents a grand festive appearance.

Every morning in the early hours, songs from "Thiruppavai" and "Thiruvembavai" are broadcast through the mike. The procession of Lord Siva and Vishnu together on all festive occasions mentioned above is specially noteworthy, as it indicates the oneness of Saivism and Vaishnavism in a harmonious unity.

COIMBATORE DISTRICT

Of all the festivals celebrated by the Siva temple, "Radhothsavam" during the Chithirai "Brahmothsavam" is the most important one, which attracts about 10,000 devotees from far and near, while Vaikunta Ekadasi is the other main festival in the Vishnu temple, which gathers about 5000 devotees from all around.

The temple is managed by a Board of five trustees and an Executive Officer.

DHARAPURAM TALUK

4. SIVANMALAI

Sri Subramaniaswami temple

Sivavakkiaar (சிவவாக்கியர்) is one of the Siddhars who advocated revolutionary ideas discouraging idol worship, pilgrimage, caste system etc. but stressing that the conscience is the temple and that there is only one God and one caste in his சிவவாக்கியம் (Sivavakiam) consisting of 500 songs which have been referred to by Saint Thayumanavar.

“ நட்டகல்லைத் தெய்வம் என்று நாலுபுட்பம் சாத்தியே
சுற்றிவந்து முணமுணென்று சொல்லுமந்திரம் ஏதடா
நட்டகல்லும் பேசுமோ நாதன் உள்ளிருக்கையில்
சுட்டசட்டி சட்டுவம் கறிச்சுவை அறியுமோ ”

“ கோவில் பள்ளி ஏதடா? குறித்து நின்றது ஏதடா?
வாயினால் தொழுநின்ற மந்திரங்கள் ஏதடா?
ஞானமான பள்ளியில் நன்மையாய் வணங்கினால் காயமான பள்ளியில் காணலாம் இறையையே ”

are his oft quoted verses which criticise idol worship and preach that God is in one's self. In all probability Sivavakkiaar belongs to ninth century. But nothing is known about his life. However, there is a vague belief that he lived in Sivanmalai even though there is no direct evidence as the caves at Maruthamalai give for Bambatti Siddhar, at Chennimalai for Pinnakku Siddhar and at Palni for Bogar. There is only a temple dedicated to Lord Subramaniam on the hillock.

Sivanmalai village is at a distance of three miles from Kangayam town or 25 miles north of Dharapuram on the way to Gopichettipalayam and is a famous pilgrim centre in Dharapuram taluk. The temple is on a hillock and is reached by ascending about 200 stone steps. On every Amavasai day and Krithigai day large numbers of devotees visit this temple with a pot of curd or butter which they offer to the deity and worship at the temple. In the month of Adi (July-August) and Thai (January-February) two important festivals are celebrated besides Thai Pongam, Panguni Uthiram and Skanda Shashti in the month of Aippasi (November). During these festivals pilgrims and devotees visit this temple carrying Kavadis as is being done at the famous Palni Andavar temple of Madurai district, about 30 miles from the village.

Tradition says that Sri Anjaneya (Hanuman) carried the Sanjivi Parvatham (hillock) in his hands and offered the medicinal herbs grown in it to save Lakshmana (brother of Sri Rama) who was lying breathless in the battle against Ravana due to the mighty arrows shot at him by Indrajit. When Sanjivi Parvatham was thus transported, two small bits fell from it which are now known as Sivanmalai and Udiyurmalai and are believed to have rare medicinal herbs capable of healing severe wounds caused by weapons.

Shafts of mines were found in Sivanmalai and Padiyur another nearby village from which white quartz, corundum, aqua marine and another amethystine stones were dug out. (Vide Nicholson's Manual of Coimbatore District 1887 edition). Mr. V. A. Smith in his History of India wrote, “the beryl or aqua marine gem which is closely related to the emerald, was highly esteemed by both Indians and Romans and often furnished material for the choicest achievements of the engraver's art. Its scarcity, except in India, tempted clever Indian forgers to fabricate imitations made from rock crystal. Three Indian mines are recorded - Punnata, Padiyur or Pattiali 40 miles from Coimbatore where a mine was worked successfully as late as 1820 and Vaniambadi”. For reasons unknown the quarrying of precious stones in the above places has been prohibited by the Government. Corundum from Padiyur was largely exported to Bombay and other places formerly. During World War II the mineral stones found to be scattered on Sivanmalai Hills was gathered for ammunition purposes. Residents of Anaikulimedu (also called Pachakkalmedu) which is a hamlet of Sivanmalai village, even to-day point out the well from which precious green stones were dug out a century back. It is surmised that Punnata referred to above by Mr. Smith may be identified with Ponnuthu on the Blue Mountain Hills about 12 miles north of Coimbatore town, and noted for its waterfall.

Sri Arunagirinathar author of Thiruppugazh refers to Sivanmalai by its ancient name Pattiali in some of his stanzas in Tiruppugazh. The sthalapurana in Tamil by Ambalavana Kavirayar says that Pattialiur means the place where the dead persons (here the vedars or hunters) came back to life. The legend goes that God Subramania took away Valli from her kinsmen the Vedar i.e. hunters, who pursued Him and in the fight which took place, all the Vedars died on this hillock. On the request of Valli to bring back to life her dead kinsmen, He yielded to her wishes and restored them to life. Even though there is a separate niche for Valli and Deivayanai, the two consorts, the image of Valli alone has been installed along with the presiding deity in the main sanctum. It is believed that God Sri Subramania, the presiding deity of this temple appears in dreams to a spiritual man or woman and demands some offering. A bicycle, silver coins and gold chain are some such offerings made very recently. Besides such offerings, the temple has an annual income of about Rs. 2,500/- from landed properties, Rs. 5,000/- from hundi and Rs. 750/- from charges levied for Archanas, Abishekams etc.

The Gazetteer of Coimbatore District, (First edition) mentions that till 1283 A.D. Sivanmalai was under the Sway of Kongu Chieftains but in 1348 A.D. Vijayanagar forces invaded this place and kept it under their rule till 1565 A.D. Thereafter, Coimbatore District itself passed from the hands of the Carnatic Viceroy to the Madras Viceroy Veerappa Naicker who assigned it to Poligars now known popularly as Pattagars. The Pattagar of Palayamkottai is the chief patron of this celebrated Kongu temple at Sivanmalai.

14. METTUPALAYAM

Natturayaswami temple

About 30 miles north-east of Dharapuram town, 60 miles east of Coimbatore city, 5 miles north of Vellaikoil and 25 miles south of Erode lies the famous village deity of Natturayaswami. Kodumudi is the nearest railway station and is about 15 miles away from this place. Every Tuesday, all the buses are diverted through this village. Otherwise one has to get down on the main road from Vellaikoil to Erode and walk a distance of four furlongs to reach the temple. It represents a primitive but a powerful deity being worshipped in a truly primitive, less refined and less sophisticated temple without any architecture or sculpture. Besides a file of horse statues which is common in important temples dedicated to village deities, there are two big statues, one male and another female at the right hand side of the entrance. On the opposite side, there are four such pairs followed by a big statue for Mahamuni. Formerly goats were sacrificed in large numbers, say at the rate of 1,000 per week, and the blood was offered to Mahamuni. Even though it has been prohibited by legislative enactments, secret sacrifices appear to continue even now. Mahamuni is supposed to have been brought from the erstwhile Chera Kingdom and is considered powerful in curing madness. Just opposite to Mahamuni lies the Sanctum sanctorum where the images of Nattarayan and Nachimuthu, the presiding deities, are installed. The temple is believed to be 500 years old.

The peculiar custom of addressing petitions to God the Almighty and filing in this temple deserves special attention. By this custom, the devotees set out their grievances in the form of an affidavit filed in courts of law and leave it in the temple. They have a firm belief that within a reasonable time, they get redress and justice is rendered to them. Temple authorities collect a fee of fifty paise for each such petition.

30. VELLAIKOIL

Veerakumaraswami temple

Vellaikoil is a small but busy town 55 miles east of Coimbatore city or about 25 miles north east of Dharapuram town. The God worshipped is Muruga. A peculiar feature of this temple is that no woman can enter the temple. This recalls to our mind the practice of Todas in Nilgiris and the practice in Maharashtra, where Muruga is usually considered a misogynist or a woman hater, and women are not allowed to worship at His shrine. Statues have been installed for the eighteen siddhars within the temple. They are given as much importance as the 63 Nayanmars or saivite saints or the twelve Alvars of vaishnavite ect.

The practice of filing affidavits or addressing petitions to God Himself, explained in detail under Natturayaswami temple of 14. Mettupalayam panchayat is followed in this temple also. Poojas on behalf of the temple are performed during night on Mondays and Tuesdays. Local non-Brahmin Pandarams perform the pooja. பரமேஸ்வரன் or the chief annual festival takes place in the month of மார்ச் (February-March). Formerly animal sacrifice was done on a large scale but this has been discontinued.

The image of the presiding deity is Veerakumara Swami. Images of Kanniaththal, Muthukumaraswami, Karuppannaswami and Subramaniam are also found. There is also an image of Naripezha Gounder. All the images are made of clay. As such no அபிஷேகம் (Abishekam) is done to any of the deities in this temple. It is said that the temple is five generations old. It occupies a space of nearly one acre. Statues of big horses similar to those explained under Nattarayaswami temple, normally found in the temples of village deities, are found on both sides of the entrance. The temple is under the control of the Hindu Religious and Charitable (Administration) Department and is managed by a Board of 5 trustees.

The common legend of a cow offering its milk to the presiding deity is also associated with this temple. Besides this, it is said that one Palanichami Gounder gave his life in killing a fox which gave trouble to the local inhabitants. His image was therefore installed and is worshipped.

56. DHARAPURAM

Sri Kadu Hanumanthaswami temple

Dharapuram, on the bank of the Amaravathi river, has the remains of a fort which was several times taken during the wars with Mysore. The town nearly disappeared, but was rebuilt after 1799 upon plans drawn up by Mr. Hurdis, who made it the headquarters of the then southern division. Tradition connects this place with King Virata of Mahabharata in whose kingdom the Pandavas spent their last year of exile incognito. The existence of a fine breed of cattle points to some connection with Virata's Kingdom which was famous for its cattle. Either Dharapuram or Kiranur, in Palni taluk of Madurai district, 10 miles from Dharapuram, is believed to be the place where Virata's brother-in-law, Keechaka, was killed in a duel by Bhima for insulting Droupathi. Kongu Cholas appear to have held their capital here or at Karur, both on the Amaravathi river. The town has a number of Hanuman temples. At one stage there appeared to be a strong attempt to spread Saivism, as a result of which was built Agastheeswarar temple on the bank of river Amaravathi gifted with large extent of landed property for the upkeep of the temple. Before the arrival of the stone image of the presiding deity from Kasi or Banaras, the sage Agastheeswarar is believed to have made an image or Lingam with sanctum and worshipped. At present Hanuman temple predominates over other temples. Kadu Hanumanthaswami temple is one of such temples worshipped mostly by people belonging to Madhwa Community.

Hanuman is the son of wind God (Vayu Bhagavan). To represent this, an opening is left above the sanctum sanctorum enabling the presiding deity to enjoy wind, sun and rain alike. It is rare to find any notable temple in South India without a Vimanam or tower above sanctum. But the absence of a tower for this Hanuman temple is said to be due to the fact that when some devotees attempted to build a tower, the presiding deity appeared in their dreams and forbade them from doing so since Sri Anjaneya wanted to be exposed to the weather. The stone idol of Sri Anjaneya in the temple is about seven feet high with raised right hand and uplifted tail. The annual car festival of the temple is held in the month of Vaikasi or May-June or Sri Narasimha Jayanthi day. During the ten days on the festival, devotees of Madhwa community are fed on a large scale within the temple premises.

The outer structure and the buildings surrounding the temple are of recent origin. Originally there was only the idol of Sri Hanuman in the roofless temple surrounded by shrubs, prickly pear and thick bushes. Renovation and constructions were carried out by the late Mr. Hanumantha Rao, some 40 years ago. It is surmised that the temple came into existence during the 16th century, probably during the time of Sri Achutha Deva Raya. Nearly 20 small Hanuman temples are situated in and around this place.

70. PONNIVADI PANCHAYAT

Bagavan temple at Kosuvalasu

village Kosuvalasu which is 5 miles away. Here exists a temple dedicated to Lord Vishnu locally known as Bagavan temple. This is said to cure epidemics like plague, smallpox, cholera etc. Ugadhi in Panguni (i.e.) March-April is the chief annual festival in which about 500 to 700 devotees take a procession of Kavadi from here to Kodumudi about 40 miles away and return with the scared water from the river Kauveri, halting only at once place called Mayilrangam (மயில் ரங்கம்).

The temple occupies a space of about 19,000 sq. ft. It has two mandapams on both sides of the front wall each measuring about 140 x 10 ft., the front one having 36 pillars and the other one having 16 pillars which are of ordinary nature. The temple was built 150 years ago at the place where one Thirumalai Swami lived.

Thirumalai Swami was born in 1780 as the son of a Karnam Samaiyengar, (சாமையங்கார்) native of Thennamangalam Puththur about 5 miles west of Dharapuram. Right from his childhood he was very pious. He married twice and led a pious and religious life. He is believed to have mastered white magic and performed wonderful deeds by some mystic power. After pilgrimages to several sacred places, he settled at this place. After his death in 1839, his followers built this temple where he lived. The cot used by him has been preserved and is kept in front of the sanctum sanctorum.

Even though this is a Vaishnavite temple, there is an image of Vinayagar inside the temple. The presiding deity is in the form of a Lingam. Besides, holy ash (ஹ்ருதி) is distributed to the devotees. Poojas are performed twice a day by a person belonging to Udaiyar community. The temple has an annual income of Rs. 5,000/ from hundi.

78. KUMARAPALAYAM

Sri Nattatheeswaran Koil at Vadugapatti

Vadugapatti lies at a distance of 20 miles east of Dharapuram. Moolanur lies at the 14th mile from Dharapuram on the road leading to Karur. The road to Vadugapatti branches at this place and can be reached after driving seven miles south. It is a very old temple said to have been built or renovated by Rajendra Cholan. Seven decades back one Nachimuthu Gounder did renovation. There were stone inscriptions, but all of them lay buried. The temple faces east and occupies an area of 153' x 105'. The image of the presiding deity is in the form of a Swayambu Lingam. On the 4th, 5th and 6th day of October, Sun's rays get into the sanctum sanctorum. Poojas are performed twice a day by a hereditary Gurukkal. The temple owns six hundred acres of land. These were gifted during the Chola period. As such this must have been an important temple in the past. It has now lost its importance as a place of worship. No festival is conducted. The temple is managed by a single hereditary trustee.

PALLADAM TALUK

40. SAMALAPURAM PANCHAYAT.

Sri Vazhai Thottathu Ayyan temple at Ayyam-palayam

This is one of the two temples which yield the maximum annual income in Coimbatore District, the other one being Mariamman temple of Bennari, Gopichettipalayam taluk. Average annual income is one lakh of rupees; Rs. 60,000 as hundi collection Rs. 12,000/- as shops' rent; Rs. 10,000 as charges from tonsure offerings; Rs. 8,000 as interest from investments; Rs. 4,000 as rents from rest houses; Rs. 1,500/- as income from lands; Rs. 1,200/- as charges for parking cycles; Rs. 1,000 by the way of sales of fowl and calves offered by devotees and Rs. 500 from flower stalls. The temple has invested about two lakhs of rupees in Government bonds.

Devotees have full freedom to get into the sanctum and perform poojas themselves. Unlike other temples, it is kept open at all times. Mondays, Fridays and New Moon days are considered auspicious. So devotees from various places of the district congregate on these days when special buses are run. Somanur is the nearest railway station three miles away. It is about 25 miles north east of Coimbatore city and can be reached by bus from Tiruppur, Palladam or Coimbatore.

Eventhough this is one of the richest temples of the district, garbagraham or sanctum is constructed with mud wall with tin roof. Devotees believe that any improvement in the structure will only result in the loss of the devine power of the place and so modern type of constructions are confined to the mandapams in front.

The worship is offered to a கெழுதை or கிலுதை tree and small installed lingam kept inside. Devotees get inside garbagraham or the sanctum which is not normally permitted in any other temple, worship the deity, and in token of their worship apply the sand on their forehead just as one applies வீழுதி or the holy ash.

This is made possible as the floor inside the sanctum is not built or plastered.

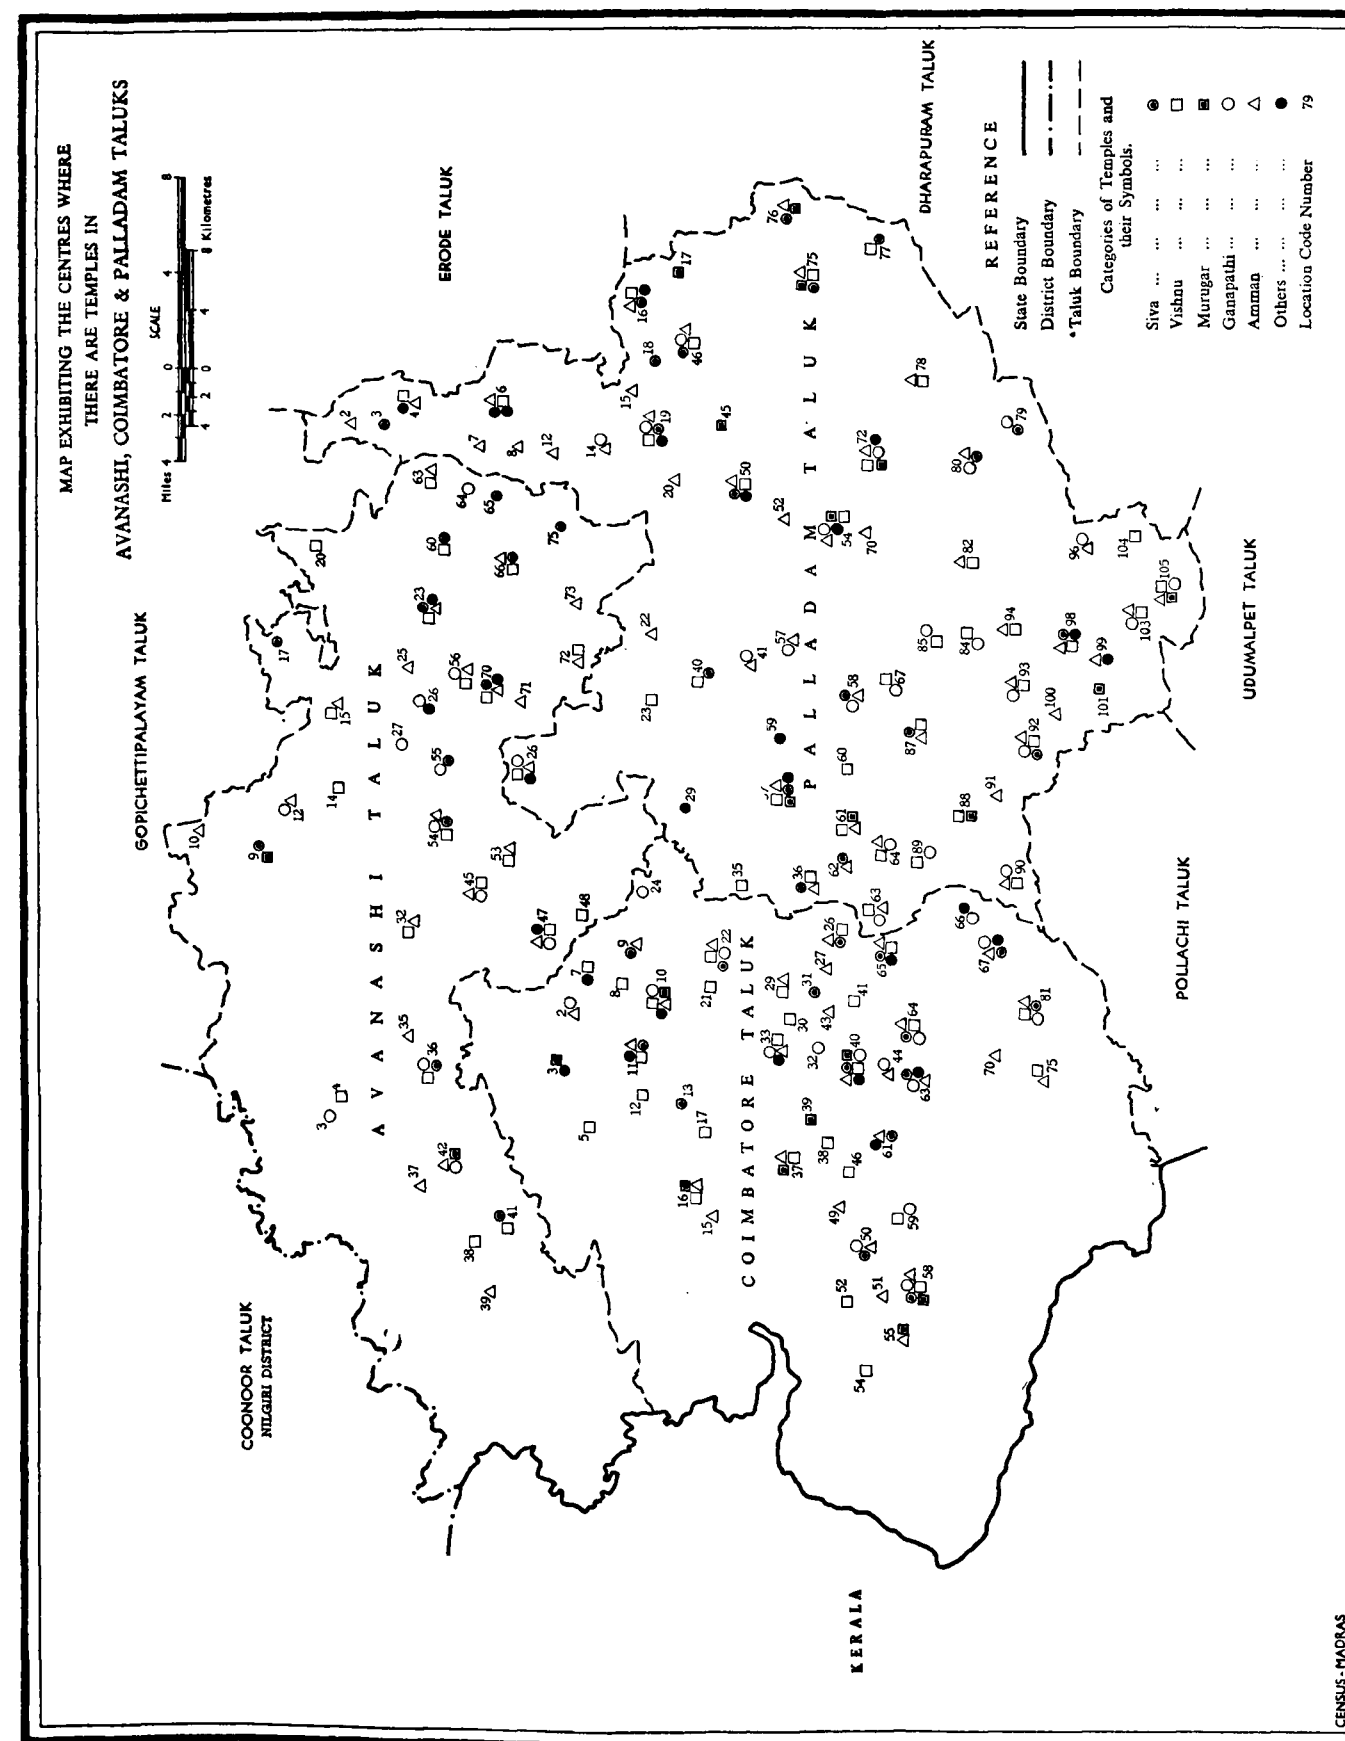

It is a common practice in Tamilnad especially in Kongu country to address a man of respect as அய்யன் (Ayyan). Chinnaiah Gounder was one of such respected persons who, about 150 years back, migrated to this place from another village. Mopparipalayam near Annur 15 miles away. He migrated for earning his livelihood, became rich and acquired a tope of plantain trees. He became a disciple of a saint after which he cured snake bites and bites from other venomous creatures. He was killed by his own cow in the month of மார்ச்சு (Maragazhi or December-January) on திருவாதிரை (Thiruvathirai) day when all the folks of the village were away to the temple at Perur. After their return, he was buried and forgotten. But he appeared in a dream and informed of a Lingam, which, he wished to be installed and worshipped for the cure of bites. The Lingam was accordingly found and was installed at the place where 'Ayyan' was killed in his 'Vazhai Thottam'. To their surprise, people got cured by the worship and application of the sand. This is how the temple has acquired its fame. Annual festival is celebrated on திருவாதிரை (Thiruvathirai) day in the month of மார்ச்சு (December-January) to coincide with the death anniversary of Ayyan.

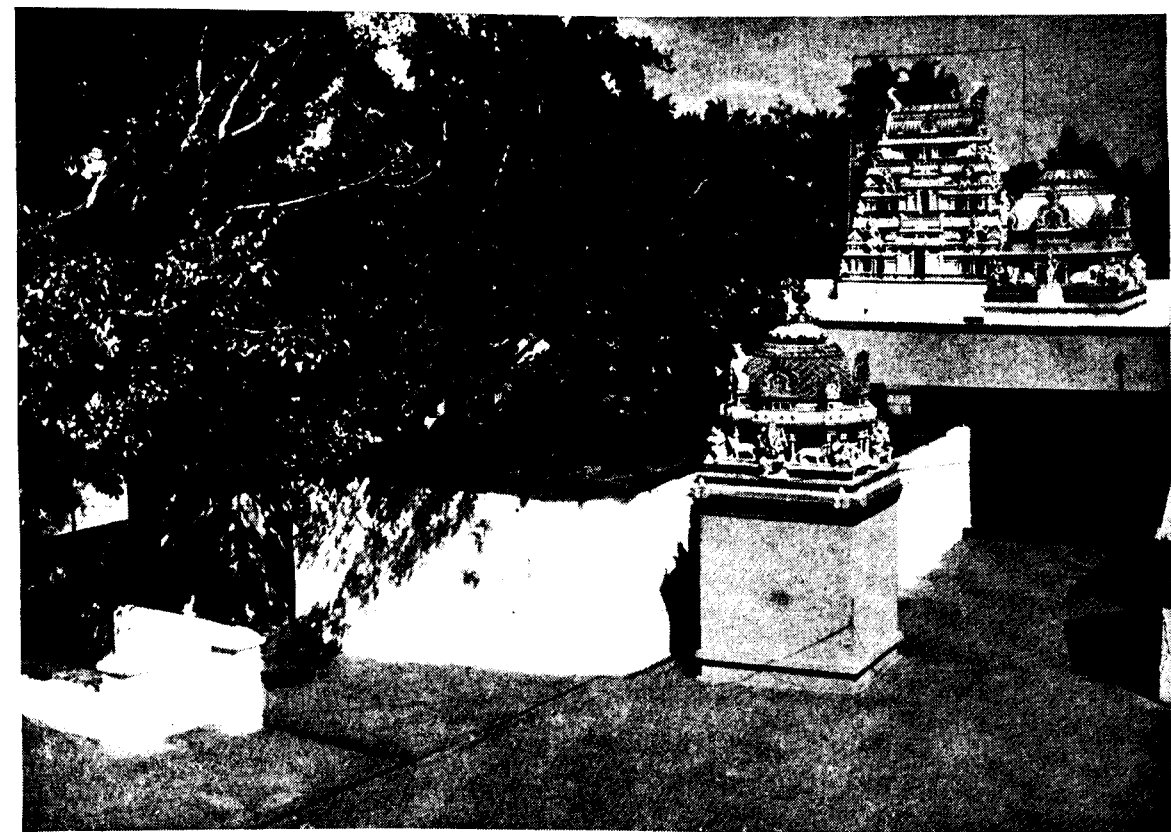

Besides the devotees' offerings, temple poojas are performed four times a day by a non-Brahmin priest. The temple occupies a space of one acre. It is managed by a Board of three trustees and one Executive Officer.

101. MALAIPALAYAM

Mandhiragiri Velayudhaswami temple

SENJERI Malai is a Subramania Sthalam. Arunagiriar has sung in his "Thiruppugazh" about the deity in this temple. In his days, the temple was Vazhai Thottathu Ayyan temple at Ayyampalayam.

Sanctum Sanctorum — Ayyan temple.

Uthsavamurthi — Ayyan temple.

Mandhiragiri Velayudhaswami Temple.

known as "Thenserigiri". He has observed the cock in one of the twelve hands of the Lord and has mentioned about it in the sacred song. Two songs of his are devoted to this temple. It was also known as Mandhiragiri (மந்திரகிரி (i.e.) மந்திரனைப்பவரை, திர—காப்பாற்றும் படியான, கிரி—மலை) which means the mountain that saves them who thinks about (in this context worship) it.

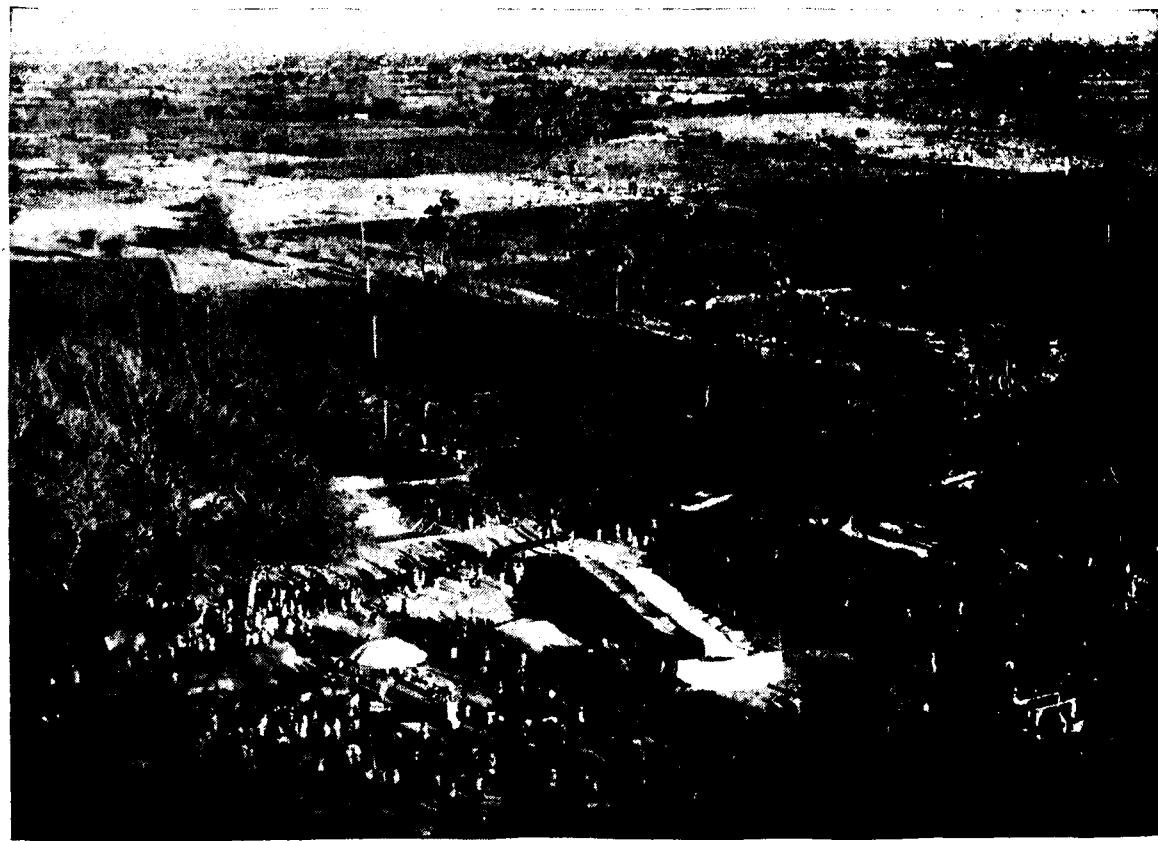

On the Pollachi—Palladam main road, 20 miles from Pollachi and 10 miles from Palladam a road branches off to Udumalpet which is 20 miles away. On the 2nd mile from this point is the hill temple of Subramania. The hill and temple rise to a height of 150 feet. A flight of steps from the eastern slope leads up to the temple on the top. A recently built road on the western slope enables cars and lorries to reach the temple. About 4 furlongs from this hill to the west is situated the hill temple of Sri Vishnu popularly known as the "Perumal Malai". Between these two hills runs the new main channel from Parambikulam Project.

Subramania here is also called "Manthrachalaparaman". The main deity is Subramania with Valli and Deivayanai in front of Peacock, which faces north. As the temple is very old, it is much damaged. Renovation work has therefore been undertaken. Major portion of the temple has now been dismantled leaving only the Subramania gopuram with Artha Mandapam and Mahamandapam. Gopurams for Vinayakar, Parvathi, Sivalinga, Mahavishnu and a four-pillared mandapam for Subramania (Uthsavar) are envisaged in the renovation. Old stones available from the original structure are being reshaped and laid in proper places. The stones for the new gopurams are cut out from suitable rocks on the western side of the hill. The workmen for stones are brought from outside places and are colonised in temporary houses built for the purpose.

A flight of steps down from the northern gate leads to a water-spring called THEERTHA SUNAI. It stores up rain water. This water is used for all pooja purposes throughout the year. Water is used by pilgrims for bathing also. North of this water spring, a little higher up is an other Sunai smaller in size. This water is used for washing clothes, vessels etc. On the west also is a small SUNAI called THARPPAI SUNAI. On the east of the main Sunai is the temple for Idumbar and south of this small temple is a big overhanging rock under which the tonsure for children is done. The chief annual car festival is held in the month of Thai (January–February). A weekly shandy takes place here every Wednesday and is attended by a crowd of nearly 3,000 persons. Poojas are performed four times a day by Brahmin priests.

When the temple renovation is completed, the place will look magnificent. By that time, the whole surrounding fields would have benefitted by the life giving waters of Parambikulam Project. About 100 small villages look to this temple for their divine worship. Families, whose forefathers once lived in these villages, still observe this as their family deity. The temple is managed by a Board of five trustees.

AVANASHI TALUK

ALATHTHUR PANCHAYAT

Sri Venkatesa Perumal temple at Mondipalayam

Mondipalayam alias Oonjalvanam is a small hamlet connected by bus with Coimbatore on the south west and Palladam on the south east. One who proceeds from Coimbatore city should take the cart track in the north west direction at Avanashi and drive about ten miles to reach this small hamlet with a fairly big shrine for Vaishnavites. This temple is best known locally for மல்லிகை (Sri Mallikai) which is believed to cure all diseases. The temple is about 250 years old. Latest renovation was done in 1933. The temple is very neat with a tank on the western side. Mill owners from Coimbatore city patronise the temple. The chief annual festival is celebrated in the month of தை (Thai) January-February. All the five Saturdays in the month of புரட்டாசி (Purattasi) are also equally important.

Devotees take a bath in the tank on the western side of the temple. (துளசி) Thulasi leaves, (வேப்பங் கொழுந்து) tender leaves of margosa or neem tree, (எரிக்கலம் பூ மொட்டு) unblossomed flower of Erik-kolam, (அறளிப் பூ) Aarli flower, (எலுமிச்சம் பழச்சாறு) juice of lime and (காஞ்சக் கரி) carbon after burning incense are ground together, offered to the presiding deity by performing poojas and applied externally to cure the disease.

Even though this is a vaishnavite temple, the image of the presiding deity is in the form of a Lingam and is claimed to be a swayambu. Abishegam or holy bath and pooja are performed to a Saligram (a sacred stone) believed to have been brought here by Dhurvasa Rishi from Tirupathi. There are images for Alamelu Mangai, twelve Alwars, Venugopalan, Anjaneyar, Vinayagar, Andal, Mahalakshmi etc. The temple occupies an area of 250' X 250', with three prakarams, kalyanamandapam and Ranga mandapam. Poojas are performed thrice a day by a Battachariar. The temple has a shop, 100 acres of wet and another 100 acres of dry land. There are nine vahanams and a car. The temple is managed by an Executive Officer and a board of five trustees.

36. KARAMADAI

Sri Ranganadhaswamy temple and Sri Nanjundeswarar temple

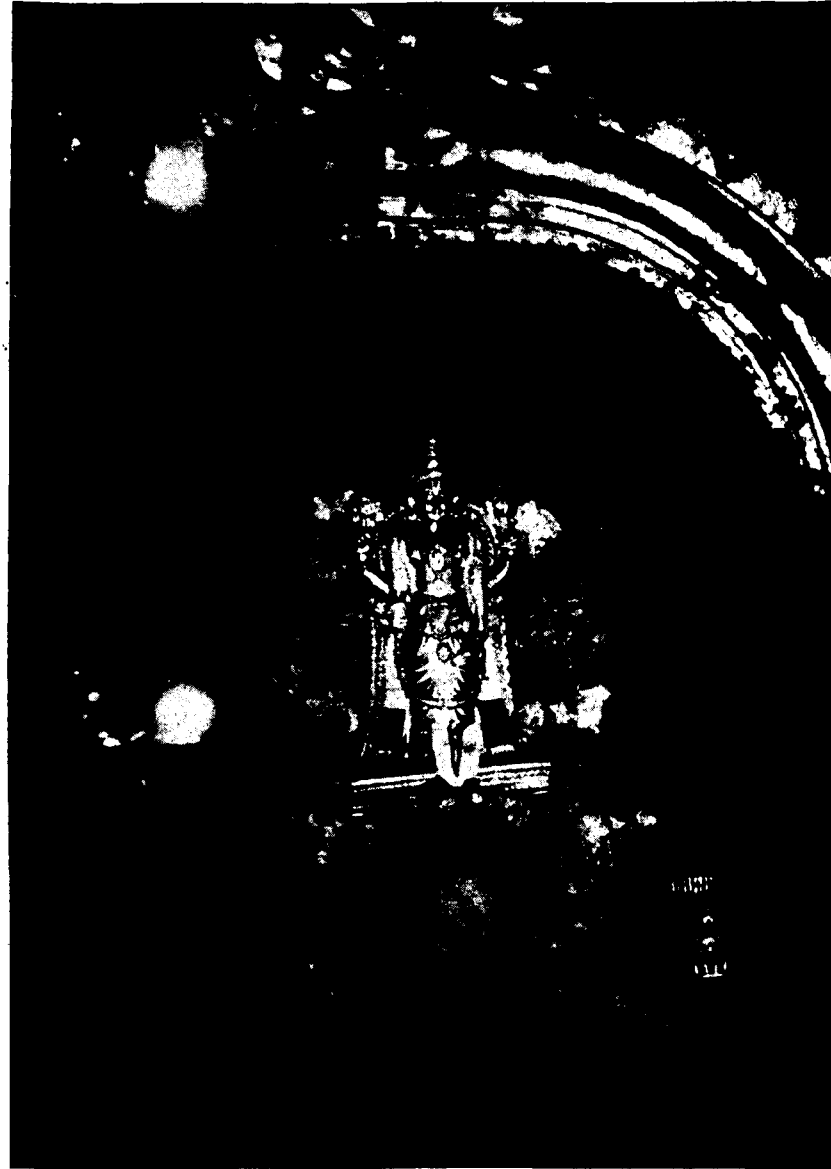

Among the very few Vishnu shrines of Coimbatore district, Karamadai Sri Ranganadhaswamy temple is the most famous and well known temple. It is located at a distance of about 25 miles from Avanashi, the taluk headquarters and 18 miles from Coimbatore, the district headquarters. It is well connected by bus and train and lies at the 18th mile on the Coimbatore-Mettupalayam road. The temple is at a distance of about half a mile from the railway station. It occupies an area of about one acre. There are several choultries and rest houses for the pilgrims.

The name Karamadai is attributed to the fact that the place was once surrounded by karai bushes and shrubs. This is also called as "Karai Vanam". Sri Ranganadha Perumal, the presiding deity of the temple was found among the karai bushes. According to the local legend, years ago, one of the cows of a cowherd used to go out for grazing in the mornings and returned in the evenings without any milk. The cowherd watched it and followed the cow one day and was astonished when he found that on going to a bushy part it gave on its own accord all its milk at that spot. Seeing, this, he pulled down the bush with an axe, wherefrom blood spurted out. At once he fell swooned. When he became conscious, he found to his surprise the image of Lord Vishnu with the injury caused by his axe.

The temple faces east and has no pagoda or gopuram in the front. However, there is a 40 feet pagoda at the north called "Sorgavasal gopuram".

This was built in 1944 by Sri Thiruvengadam Chettiar of Ootacamund. There is only a single prakaram inside the temple. The image of Sri Ranganadhaswamy the presiding deity is in the form of a Lingam and is represented by a 1½ feet high swayambu vigraham. His consort is Sri Ranga Nayagi, for whom there is a separate sanctum sanctorum on the southern prakaram facing east. On the northern side, there is another separate sanctum for Sri Andal. In the Arthamandapam of the presiding deity, Sri Azhagu Madhawa Perumal is represented in a standing posture, facing south. It is said that He was brought from (பெல்லரி) (Pellari) which is at a distance of about two miles from here. Besides the sanctums for Sri Ranga Nayagi and Sri Andal, images of Sri Hanumar, Sri Sandhana Krishnan, Sri Parvasu Devar and Alvars are also found in the prakaram. Brahma Theertham, in the form of a well and “Karai Chedi”, the sthala viruksham of this shrine are located in the western prakaram of the temple. Thirukalyana mandapam and Sri Udayavar Sannadhi are also found in the prakaram.

The temple contains some interesting and impressive stone works, for instance, the images of Sri Gopalakrishnan and Sri Kothanda Ramar carved exquisitely on the southern and northern walls of the sanctum sanctorum of Sri Perumal are good pieces of architecture. All the ten avatharas of Sri Mahavishnu, (Dhasavatharam, as they are called) are beautifully carved on the pillars of the mandapam in front of the sanctum sanctorum. There is also a beautiful image of Sri Vinayagar in one of the pillars.

Sthalapuranam for the temple was composed in 1942 by Sri S. D. Aranganathachary in four chapters in prose. In this publication, the celestial marriage of Sri Mahalakshmi and the glory of Sri Ranganadha, who was worshipped by Sri Brahma, Indira and Garuda and blessed by Him, have been dealt with in detail. From the sthalapuranam of the temple, it is learnt that the temple fortress and other mandapams were built by Sri Thirumalai Naik of Madura, who was cured of his chronic carbuncle, when he visited and offered worship at this temple.

Poojas are performed thrice a day by a hereditary Brahmin gurukkal, according to the principle of Pancharathras. He is paid a monthly salary of Rs. 5/-, apart from a daily padithanam of half a measure of rice. Besides, he enjoys a portion of the income derived from the sale of archana tickets by the temple and also the offerings of the devotees. The temple owns antique jewellery in gold and silver, worth about Rs. 75,000/- donated by devotees of which the costly “Navarathinamalai” studded with precious stones and diamonds deserve special mention.

The immovable properties of the temple comprise 11.35 acres of wet lands in the villages of Pettakkurai and Sengalakkurai of Gopichettipalayam taluk, one garden and four shops in the Karamadai town, which fetch an annual income of Rs. 10,375/-, by way of rent. These are spent towards the daily poojas, periodical festivals of the temple and for the payment of salaries to the temple servants. The temple also earns an additional income of Rs. 10,000/- by way of hundi collections and Rs. 500/- by the sale of archana and abishega tickets from the devotees every year as per the schedule furnished below :—

	Rs. P.
Sahasranama archana	1.50
Thirumanjanam	3.50
Kalyanam (Marriage)	2.50

The temple owns a 2½ feet high Palanquin, one Car of 50 feet height and a chapparam 2½ feet in height. There are also vahanams such as Horse, Annam, Sesha, Simham, Hanumar, Rishabam and a silver plated Garuda. All are made of wood, some 50 years back.

More devotees visit on Saturdays and on New Moon days. Car festival in Masi, Vaikunta Ekadasi and Athayana uthsavam (Pagalpathu Raapathu uthsavam) in Margazhi, Navarathri in Purattasi and the Karthigai Deepam are the festivals celebrated by the temple. “Kavala Sevai”, “Bandha Sevai”, “Thannir Sevai” and the happy celestial “Thirukalyanam” festival of Sri Ranganadha Perumal in the presence of the Thayar of Pattathamman Hill are the important celebrations in the car festival. This attracts large congregation of devotees from far and near. Normally, people belonging to Dasar community come in procession with conch shell and chiming disc. Devotees mix peeled off plantain, brown sugar and fried bengal gram and feed in their mouth, which they spit out. Then the devotees collect and eat it. Even though health authorities prohibit this practice, they could not prevent this which is known as Kavala Sevai. It is believed that those devotees who perform Kavala Sevai are blessed with a progeny and secure happiness, free from all diseases.

For the purpose of administration, this temple forms the main temple with four more sub-temples, namely Sri Pattathamman temple, Sri Sangameswarar temple, Sri Venugopalaswamy temple and Sri Nanjundeswarar temple. Sri Pattathamman temple is located on the top of a nearby hillock, while Sri Sangameswarar temple is situated on the border of the Pellari village, which is at a distance of about two miles from Karamadai. There is a very ancient stone inscription here. In Sri Venugopalaswamy temple of Karamadai, there are several images of "Yali" and a fish, which is the emblem of the Pandya Kings.

Sri Nanjundeswarar's shrine, located to the south of Sri Ranganadhaswamy temple, is worth seeing for the exquisite stone carvings. The presiding deity of this temple is Sri Nanjundeswarar whose image is an installed Lingam facing east. His consort is known as Sri Ulaga Nayagi and Ulagambigai. The Moolavar Lingam and the peetam (Platform) below the 'Avudaiyar', on which it is installed are made out of a single block of granite. It is said that this stone which measures 7½' by 6½' covers the entire area of the main sanctum sanctorum. There is an underground path below the Artha Mandapam of the temple. The image of Goddess Gangai is found in a full form on the head of Sri Chandra Sekharar, the uthsava vigraham. This is a noteworthy feature because Her face is represented only upto the neck in the festival idols of other temples.

Amman Sannadhi is found to the north of Swamy Sannadhi. The images of Lord Siva and Goddess Parvathi, Veduvan and Vedavachy, found on the northern prakaram of the temple are made out of a single block of stone and very beautiful to look at. Just like in Madura, here also, the sanctum sanctorum of Sri Nanjundeswarar has been designed with அஷ்டகஜம் (Ashtagajam) while its vimanam is left unfinished. The images of the six feet high elephants on the outer walls of the sanctum offer a beautiful sight to look at. Images of Sri Balasubramanyam, Idabarudar, Kali, Brahma, Thirumal and Thirumagal were carved on the trunks of the elephants. Figures of crab, elephant, fish, frog and tortoise are also carved in the trunk of one of the elephants. Images of Sri Agora Veerabadrar, Nirdhana Ganapathy, Idabaruda Uma Mahesar, Dhandapany and Mahishasuramardhany are found on the outer walls of the sanctum sanctorum. Apart from these, images of bandicoot, swan, yali, Magara fish, elephant, tortoise, parrot, peacock, monkey, dog, pig, tiger, Hanumar, Nandhi and Rishabha Kunjaram are found all along on the walls of the praharam. The image of Sri Vinayagar in a sitting posture, with one leg folded and the other let down and holding a pole both with his hand and trunk, presents a catching appearance. Other sculptures with exquisite craftsmanship include two springing deers, a lovepair of parrots, the birth of "Macha Vallabha" from a fish, a goat in a worshipping posture, a warrior fighting amidst two lions, the Goddess Kali in her ferocious "Thandavam pose", Lord Krishna dancing over the "five hooded serpent king" "Kaliyangan", Natarajar and Murugar.

Sri Ranganadhaswamy temple with its sub-temples are managed by a Board of three trustees, through an Executive Officer, appointed by the Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Board.

42. MARUDHUR

Sri Kuzhandhai Velayudhaswami temple at Kurundha Malai

Kurundha malai is a hillock at the foot of Blue mountains or Nilgiris. It is at a distance of about 3 miles west of Karamadai Railway station on the Coimbatore—Mettupalayam section. But for a few furlongs of cart track, it is well connected by road and rail. From the top of this hillock, one can have a panoramic view of the mountain ranges of Nilgiris which serves as an attractive back drop for this hill temple dedicated to Lord Muruga. There is another small temple for Anjaneyar on an adjacent hillock.

The temple is claimed to be 500 years old. The temple is said to have been built by Thirumalai Naicker of Madurai. One Gangadharan is said to have built the gopuram at the entrance as was expected of him in a dream. After his death, his body was buried on the top of this hillock. The temple has been constructed with stones and faces west. It occupies an area of about 6 cents. There is a big image for Sri Vinayagar at the entrance at the foot of the hillock. Renovation has been undertaken in 1941 amounting to one and a half lakhs of rupees. Daily poojas are performed by a Brahmin whose office is hereditary. The temple has jewels worth Rs. 2,000/- and landed property of about 70 acres. The temple has one car and three vahanams, all made of wood. The chief annual festival is held for 11 days in the month of தை (Thai) (January-February). Irulars, a hill tribe, visit in large numbers and take about 50 kavadis every year with honey and (கிரைப் பெற்றி) fried seed of greens. The temple is managed by a board of three trustees.

54. ANNIYUR (alias) ANNUR

Sri Manneswarar temple

Anniyur is twenty one (21) miles north of Coimbatore to Sathiamangalam and 13 miles away from two railway stations—Mettupalayam and Somanur. A weekly shandy takes place every Saturday. This place is entirely different from the one about which saints Thirugnanasambandar and Thirunavukkarasar have sung and is situated in Chola Nad. However the stone inscriptions here testify to the ancient nature of the place. This place is named after a hunter Anni, who, while digging out the land, got vision (dharshan) of Siva, the Lord, first in the form of Tapioca and next in the form of Lingam. According to sthalapuramam the place and the image of the presiding diety are known in different eras as follows :—

Era	Name of place	Image	Devotees blessed
கலியுகம் (i.e.) the present iron age, being the last of the four yugas or great ages of the world. Its commencement is placed about 300 years anterior to the Christian era consisting of 432,000 years.	அன்னியூர் Anniyur	மன்னிலிங்கம் Mannilingam	Anni the hunter, his wife and the Chera King.
துவாபரயுகம் (i.e.) the third yuga or age of the world consisting of 864,000 years.	வன்னியூர் Valliyur	வன்னிலிங்கம் Vallilingam	Sage Markendeyar.
திரேதாயுகம் the second or silver age or yuga of the Hindus consisting of 1,296,000 years.	வானியூர் Vaniyur	வானிலிங்கம் Vanilingam	Sage Vyasara
கிரேதாயுகம் (i.e.) the first of the four yugas of the world.	வன்னியூர் Vanniyur	வன்னிலிங்கம் Vannilingam	Lord Brahma

The temple covers an area of nearly one acre. Unlike in other temples, the moolavar or the presiding deity is in the form of a Lingam with wings. It is a Swayambu (சுயம்பு) Lingam found by a Chera King. He renovated the temple while he was ruling from Chembiyam assisted by Kasthuri Rangappan, Sadaiyappan and Kachchiyur Samayan. Karuppanna Gounder of Kumarapalayam renovated the temple again in 1930s. He also brought out the Sthalapuramam entitled “அன்னியூர்த் தலபுராணம்” of the temple in 1937. (தேபாதக செனத்தரி) Dhabodhaga Soundari is the Lord's consort. There is also a sub-temple for Sri Varadaraja Perumal with his consorts Sri Devi and Bhoo Devi (பூதேவி, பூதேவி). The other deities are Subramaniam, Vinayagar, Dhakshinamoorthi, Surian, Sandeeswarar, Navagrahams and Anjaneyar. The temple owns ornaments worth about Rs. 1,000 and a building which yields an annual income of nearly Rs. 1,000.

66. AVANASHI

Sri Avanashi Lingeswarar temple

Avanashi is the taluk headquarters and contains a number of rice mills and cotton ginning factories. It is about 25 miles north east of Coimbatore on the National Highway towards Madras and about 5 miles north west of Tiruppur, the nearest railway station. In the month of சித்திரை (Chithirai—April—May) large number of people congregate at this town to attend the cattle fair and the car festival. It is said that this temple car attached to Avanashi Lingeswarar temple is the biggest of all in Coimbatore district. The temple itself is famous being one of the three temples declared as protected monuments of the district and one of the seven Siva temples of Kongu Nad which is praised in the hymns of Thevaram. Appar alias Thirunavukkarasu has referred to Avanashi in one of his verses and Manickavasagar also in one. Sundaramurthi Nayanar has visited this temple and has composed a hymn of ten songs. He has also played the miracle of bringing back to life a boy devoured by a crocodile five years earlier. It is strange that the temple is locally better known as கருணையத்தாள் (Karunai Aaththal) temple than as Avanashi Lingeswarar temple by which name it was referred to in songs and literature. Probably this is an indication to show the traces of its aboriginal nature. It is significant that the sanctum sanctorum of the Goddess is on the right side of Her consort, which is unusual. As the temple is associated with the name of Sundaramurthi Nayanar, it must have been in existence even before 7th century. There are evidences to show that it was patronised by various rulers like Cholas, Pandyas, Hoysalas and Mysore Kings each one of whom either renovated or made fresh additions to the original structure. At present the temple occupies a space of nearly one and a half acres. It has jewellery to the value of Rs. 17,890/- as on 5-9-61 and landed property of 6.02 acres of wet and 2.45 acres of dry lands, two houses, six shops and a vacant plot. In fasli 1375, it had an annual income of Rs. 11,777/- the primary source being sale of tickets to devotees for archana and abishegam followed by rent from properties. Five poojas are performed in a day by a hereditary Brahmin. Besides the annual festival in April-May, முதலைவாய் பிள்ளை உற்சவம் (Muthalai Vai Pillai Uthsavam) is another important festival in பங்குனி (Panguni: March-April) celebrated in commemoration of bringing back to life the boy devoured by the crocodile. The temple is managed by the joint efforts of a board of five trustees, an Executive Officer appointed by the Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Board and Archaeological department.

The temple is facing east with its pagoda in an incomplete and unfinished stage with only a basement. Unusually there is no street around the temple which will be a normal feature of such reputed Siva temples. There are two prakarams inside the temple. There is an image for Selva Vinayagar on the right side of the front mandapam and on both sides of the entrance, there are two Nirdhana Ganapathis, while two dwarapalaghas facing east are inside the temple. On the sides of a foot step, images of Manickavasagar and Sundarar are installed facing west in the posture of worshipping the presiding deity. There are also images for Thirumal on the right side and Chandrar on the left. Immediately on entering the temple and just in front of the sanctum sanctorum of the presiding deity, Maha Nandhi offers a gigantic appearance. There is a stone carving of a scorpion on the wall of the sanctum sanctorum of Ambal, which is also worshipped by devotees. Besides the sanctum for Ambal within the main temple, there is also a separate shrine for Her on the northern side of the main temple. In the inner prakaram, there is an image for Kala Bairavar, on the eastern side of and very near the presiding deity. It faces south. Devotees make a special form of worship to Kala Bairavar by offering Vadai malai (garland made of Vadai—a South Indian dish of snacks). The image of presiding deity is a Swayambu Lingam whereas that of Kala Bairavar has a standing posture by the side of a Suvana Vahanam with four hands, broad and fascinating eyes and a smiling face. Local legends in Sthalapuram attribute to the presiding deity the great quality of pardoning even the greatest sinner if at one stage or other he sincerely repents for his sin. It is said that in such cases, the departed soul from such sinners are led to the Almighty by Kala Bairavar instead of torture and harassment by Yama.

There are stone carvings on the pillars and wall of the temple. Such carvings include images of Urdhwa Thandavamurthy, Kali and Veerabadrar. There are also figures said to represent one Peria Kaliappa Gounder and his son Chinna Kaliappa Gounder. It is said that the father donated liberally for building mandapam by way of his gratitude and offering to the Lord for curing a big boil on the thigh of his son. The son's figure was carved with a shallow scar. There are also the oft repeated stone carvings of Kuravan, Kurathy, Nagakannigai, a Naicker who constructed a mandapam, his wife, Lord Muruga and Vedan. Carvings of Mudhalai Vai Pillai (a boy in the mouth of a crocodile) and Lingam in the mouth of a fish are perhaps peculiar to this temple to symbolise the local legends.

Thirty-two inscriptions were copied from this temple by the Government Epigraphist in the year 1909, the numbers of copying being 170 to 201. These inscriptions relate to the period of Veera Rajendra Cholan, Kulothunga Cholan, Veera Pandian, Sundara Pandian, Konerinmai Kondan and the leaders of Ummathur viz., Veera Nanjaraya Udayar, Veera Sikkaraya Udayar and Achudevamaharoyar of Vijayanagar. They refer to endowments provided for daily poojas, periodical festivals, oils for lighting and illumination and the distribution of food to the poor. We also learn from these stone inscriptions about the construction of a temple for Saint Sundarar in the tankbund by Sundara Pandian and the existence of this shrine at Thenpalli. They also refer to the gift made by Nachinarkkiniyar alias Kandiyathevar towards the "Mangala Snam" (oil bath) celebrations of the Swamy and Ambal. In the stone inscriptions and old literature, Avanashi has also been referred to by various names like Tiruppukkozhayur, Bhoologa Kailasam, Dhakshina Varanasi etc. The presiding deity has been referred to as Avinashiandar, Avinashiappar, Avinashinadhar and Avinashi Aaludaya Nayanar, while Gopuram of Avinashi Lingeshwarar temple.

Sthalapuranam carved on Dwajastambam — Avinashi

Front mantapam with Dwajastambam — Avinashi temple.

His consort has been referred to as Thirukamakottathu Nachchiar, Perumkarunai Selviyar and Karunalaya Selvi. Avinashi (அவிநாசி = விநாச மில்லாத or அழிவில்லாத) means eternal or endless. Pukkozhi (புக்கொழி = புக்கு + ஒழி) means to take shelter in a safe place; Dhakshina Varanasi (தட்சணவரானாசி) means South Banaras. These names convey the importance and fame believed to exist here.

Besides references in Thevaram hymns composed by each of the three Nayanmars a verse in Thirumoolar's Thirumandhriam and another in Padhinoram Thirumurai refer to this sthalam. Four verses in the Vellana Sarukkam of Sekkizhar and one verse in the Naminandhiadigal's puranam exclusively refer to this shrine. Saint Arunagirinathar has praised this sthalam devotionally in six verses of his famous 'Thiruppugazh'. There is also one verse in the Thiruvilayadal puranam of Paranjothi Munivar. A detailed account about these and other literature can be found in the local sthala-puranam published in the year 1937. Twelve legends covering nearly 50 pages are given in this sthala-puranam out of which the following two are well known.

On his way from Chola to Chera country to visit the ruler and his friend Cheraman Perumal, Sundaramoorthi Nayanar, passed through the Brahmin agraharam in Avanashi. In that street, he heard mourning from one house and music played in a house just opposite to it. On enquiry, he found that five years back two boys, one from each of the houses, went to take bath from a river. One was devoured by a crocodile which was being commemorated by the mourning while in the other house Upanayanam, or wearing of sacred thread was being celebrated for the boy who returned safe. Sundarar was moved so much that he went to the spot of accident with the dead boy's parents and others, addressed a poem to God the Almighty and got the boy alive. As soon as the song was recited, every one was surprised to see the boy coming from the live crocodile with sufficient growth that he would have got during the five years interval between the dates of accident and that of recovery. To the great enjoyment and happiness of the parents, Saint Sundarar himself performed the Upanayanam marriage of the boy. The tank which is now known as Thamarai-kulam and is a little south of the temple is said to be the place where this miracle took place. On the tank bund, there is a temple for Sundarar. There is also a statue showing the ejection of the boy from the mouth of the crocodile. When a festival is celebrated on the Panguni Uthiram day commemorating this miracle, Avinashiappar is taken on procession to this temple.

A similar legend narrates the recovery of Lingam from a fish. According to this Gurunadha Pandaram was a staunch devotee of Avinashi Lingeswarar and every day, he was doing Sivapooja regularly. One day, the tank bund referred to in the previous legend was at the breaking point due to heavy rains and torrential floods. Officers who came to dam the floods with numerous workers arrogantly ordered the pandaram, who was performing his sivapooja at that time on the tankbund, to move away. But Gurunadha Pandaram was deeply absorbed in his sivapooja and did not hear their orders. At this, the officers ridiculed him as a false saint and threw the Lingam he was worshipping into the tank and forcibly engaged him as one of the labourers for damming the flood. After completing his work the pandaram went to the spot where he used to worship and where the Lingam was thrown, squatted down, took a vow not to leave until he got back his beloved and sacred Lingam. He performed a severe penance for days and nights together. Pleased at his severe penance, Lord Siva instigated a divine fish to spit out the Lingam from its mouth in front of the devotee. The pandaram felt extremely happy at the restoration of his Lingam. This act of spitting the Lingam by a fish has been depicted in a stone carving on the side of a lamp pillar in front of the main Avinashiappar temple.

Besides the above two legends, others narrate the circumstances which led to Lord Brahma's worshipping the presiding deity for 100 years, Devendra's divine elephant Ayiravadham for 12 years, Thadagai for 3 years, Naga Kannigai for 21 months, King Dharmasena for 1 year, Vyadha Vedan for 30 days, Sanga Kannan for 5 days, Deiva Rambha for 1 day, a crow for one jamam and Enjakuthan for one muhurtham and their ultimate success of receiving the Almighty's blessings.

Avinashi is also said to be sacred for its Theertham (தீர்த்தம்) or sacred water. They are said to be four in number viz., "Kasi Gangai" in the shape of a "Koovam", Thiru Kulam Tank, Thirunallaru river, and Nagakannigai well. Kasi Gangai is located within the temple to the east of the sanctum sanctorum of Sri Avinashi Lingeswarar in the form of a square well. The Thirukula Theertham is located a few yards east of Perunkarunalaya Selviyar Sannadhi outside Avinashi-appar temple. A big Nandhi situated at the entrance of the foot steps leading to the tank beautifies it. It is at this Theertham that the fish is said to have ejected the sacred Lingam from its mouth.

The river Nallaru otherwise known as "Sadhari" in Sanskrit, is now flowing as a small stream on the northern side of the temple. It was also referred to by Saint Sundarar in his famous "Thevaram". The same river is known as "Ayiravadha Theertham", when it flows near the temple. Nagakannigai Theertham is also outside Avinashiappar temple and adjacent to the southern wall of the Upanayana Mandapam. It is on the southern bank of the river Nallaru in the form of a well.

75. THIRUMURUGAN POONDI

Sri Thirumuruganathaswami temple

Thiru Murugan Poondi is situated on the third mile from Avinashi in the Avinashi-Tiruppur road and on the fifth mile north of Tiruppur railway station. This temple is one of the three protected monuments of Coimbatore District under the Department of Archaeology. This is also one of the four பாடல் பெற்ற ஸ்தலம் (places sung about) of the district. There is a belief that, after killing Suran, the asura, Lord Muruga installed a Lingam at this place and worshipped to get rid of the after-effects of such killing. The place is therefore named as Thirumuruganpoondi. This is brought out in a statue at the entrance to the temple. This place is also known as "Madhvay Vanam", after the name of its sthalaviruksham "Madhavy" bearing "Kurukkathi" flowers and as "Mullai Vanam".

According to a legend, on his way to Tiruvavur, Saint Sundarar happened to pass through this place with some property, presented to him by Sri Seraman Perumal. In order to test his devotion, Lord Siva sent his Bhoothaganas in the guise of hunters to steal the property from him. Having lost all his property to the hunters sent by Lord Siva, Saint Sundarar came to this shrine and sang a thevaram requesting the Lord for the restoration of his property. At this, the Lord was immensely pleased and returned to him all his properties. Sekkizhar in his famous Peria Puranam extols this incident. In one of the திருப்புகழ் (Thirup-pugazh) Sri Arunagirinathar has also praised this shrine.

The temple is now famous for sacred dip in three of the sacred tanks or Theerthams which are known as Shanmuga Theertham, Brahma Theertham and Gnana Theertham. Shanmuga Theertham is inside the temple while the Brahma Theertham is located outside the temple, in the shape of a deep well with several foot-steps. It is believed that those who take a sacred bath in this Theertham for a period of 12 or 24 or 48 days continuously and offer prarthanas, are supposed to get their worst sins such as "Brahmahatti", incurable bodily diseases like leprosy, fits, mental affection by ghosts and lunacy wiped off and secure happiness. Provision has been made for such devotees for their stay. Even today, a large number of such devotees are visiting and bathing in this Theertham. Gnana Theertham is situated outside the temple in the form of a very big well.

The image of the presiding deity is in the form of a 2½ feet Lingam and is known as Sri Muruganathar, as Lord Muruga Himself worshipped this Lingam. His consort is known as Sri Avudai Nayagi and Muyangu Poon Mulaiaimai. Her image is 3½ feet in height. Sri Shanmuganadhar is represented by a 5 feet high vigraham with six faces, while His consorts Sri Valli and Deivayanai are 2½ feet in height.

The temple covers an area of about one acre with a single prakaram. It is sloping as we enter into the interior. There is no pagoda at the entrance of the temple. There are the three vimanams with a height of 35', 15' and 10½ feet respectively above the sanctum sanctorum of the presiding deity, His consort and Subramaniam. The presiding deity is facing west. It is said that the rays of Sun fall on the Lingam during the Utharayana and Dhakshinayana Punyakalams. The sannadhi of Lord Muruga is on the right side of the sanctum sanctorum of Lord Siva while that of Ambal is on the left side. Lord Siva offers dharshan to devotees as a glamorous hunter in the "Kudaivarai". Just opposite to this, there are two images of Sri Sundarar, one in a sorrowful mood on his having lost his property by theft and the other in a joyful mood on his getting back the same.

Nine stone inscriptions were copied from this temple in the year 1893 and many more in 1915. These inscriptions indicate gifts of articles during the period of Cholas and Kongu Cholas like Konerinmaikondan, Thirumuruganathaswami temple.

Veera Rajendra Deva, Kulothunga Chola Deva, Vikrama Chola Deva and Veera Nanjaraya Udayar. They refer the details of endowments, in the shape of paddy and lands, for the regular performance of the daily poojas of the temple.

Poojas are performed four times a day, by hereditary sivacharya Brahmin gurukkals, according to Karana and Kamika Agamas. They should have been duly initiated with Sivadhikshai and Acharyabishegam before qualifying themselves to do the poojas. They eke out their livelihood mainly by receiving the offerings of the devotees for archanas, abishegas etc. The landed properties of the temple comprise 1.65 acres of wet and 15.71 acres of dry lands, in the villages of Puliampatti and Rakkiya Palayam respectively, fetching an annual income of Rs. 1,125 from the wet lands and Rs. 1,325 from the dry lands. The income from the wet lands is utilised for the daily pooja of the temple while that of the dry lands are spent for the periodical festivals and towards the salaries of the temple servants. The other sources of income of the temple are the hundi collections, amounting to (Rs. 750) and the charges leived for performing archanas, abishegas etc., (Rs. 2,000).

The temple owns a car, six Rathams, two Rishabavahanas, a Kamadhenu and two peacocks. The three Rathams for Lord Muruga, Swamy and Ambal are 16' x 13' and 10½' in height and 48', 38' and 31' in circumference respectively. They are all twenty years old, having been donated by devotees.

Vinayaga Chathurthi, Skandasashti, Navarathri, Karthigai Deepam, Dhanur Pooja, Arudhra Dharisanam and Brahmothsavam are the major festivals celebrated here apart from the monthly Krithigai of which the Skandasashti, Arudhra Dharisanam and the Rathothsavam during Brahmothsavam are the most important ones.

Dwaja Arohanam on the Rohini asterism day, Ratha Arohanam on the Magara asterism day, the Brahma Thandavam on the Astha asterism day and the dharshan of Lord Siva during the Rathothsavam are the most important features of Brahmothsavam in the month of மசி (Masi) February–March which attracts a crowd of not less than 3,000 devotees, while the Arudhra Dharisanam on the Thiruvathirai day gathers a crowd of about 1,500 devotees from far and near.

The temple is managed by a Board of three trustees, and an Executive Officer, appointed by the Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Board.

To the south of Sri Thirumuruganathaswami temple, is a separate temple for Sri Madheswarar who is represented by a 3½ feet high swayambu Lingam, facing east. This is considered to be the original temple. There is a separate sannadhi for his consort, Sri Mangalambigai. On the top of the front mandapam of the temple, there is a gigantic and beautifully carved Nandhi instead of the traditional pagoda or gopuram which is visible even from a very long distance.

There is another temple in this place dedicated to Vinayagar and located on a small rock at a distance of about half a mile on the road, connecting Thirumurganpoodi with Avanashi. This Vinayagar is called as "Kooppidu Pillaiyar" by devotees as He is said to have directed Saint Sundarar to Lord Siva who snatched away his properties through his "Bhoothaganas" in the guise of hunters.

37. VADAYALLI PANCHAYAT

Sri Subramaniaswami of Maruthamalai

Maruthamalai or Maruthagiri is a small, natural hill lying to the west of Coimbatore at a distance of seven miles. It is within the limits of 3 Boluvampatti Reserve Forest. The hill which is one of the numerous spurs of the Western Ghats that span this region, is quite famous for the temple of Subramaniaswami. Though the temple is considered to be only a sub-padaiveedu of God Subramania, it attracts maximum crowd on "Krithigai" days. The temple is essentially a rural one set in what was once a "Marutham" forest. There are no sculptural beauties to attract, no monuments or inscriptions to reveal their historicity. All the same this is an ancient temple, as revealed by the Thirumuruganpoondi inscriptions near Avanashi in Coimbatore district, according to which it is * said to be more than eight hundred years old.

The hill has an elevation of 2,500 feet and the temple is at a height of 600 feet from the foot of the hill. There is a flight of steps interspersed with attractive mandapams, connecting the foot and the top of the hill. The mandapams on the way to the temple serve as resting places for the people, who climb on these steps to reach the temple proper. Though shorn of all sculptural and architectural glories, the hilly background of this temple compensates for their absence and makes it an attractive picnic spot even from the point of view of a holiday-maker.

The presiding deity of this temple is also known as Maruthachalamurthi, and He is housed in the main building of the temple. The presiding deity is the usual Dandayuthapani with spear in His hand but without Valli and Deivayanai, His consorts. This temple came into limelight in the year 1939 when it is said, Sri Muruga appeared in a dream to Sri Ponne Gowder of this place and showed him the cave where Bambatti Siddhar (one of the eighteen Siddhar) attained "Samadhi" on this hill, the Marutham tree adjoining this cave and also the "sunai" (Perennial spring) of this hill. Sri Ponne Gowder was further directed by Sri Muruga to cut out paths to these places in the hill and renovate them. Accordingly, he did find to his utter surprise the above three in the same places as were shown to him by the God Himself in his dream and carried out the mandate of God. From that day onwards, the worshipping of Subramania of this temple assumed greater importance in this district. It will be interesting to note here that on all "Krithigai" days, "puja" is first offered to Bambatti Siddhar and then only to the presiding deity. On these days special buses ply between Coimbatore and Maruthamalai for taking people to this hill temple.

The Subramaniaswami temple at Maruthamalai is a padal Petra Sthalam. Saints like Arunagirinathar and Arunachalakavirayar have visited this temple and sung in praise of the greatness of Subramania of this place. The "Thiruppugazh" pieces of Arunagirinathar and the "Maruthachalakadavul Pillai Tamizh" of Arunachalakavirayar bear reference to the Lord of this temple. Sri Muruga of this place is the "Kula Deivam" for many people of this district. It is quite common in this district to name children after this hill like "Maruthachalam", "Maruthamalai Gounder".

Maruthamalai is one of the five sacred hills associated with Perur. Extensive reference to this hill temple will be found in the sthalapuramam of Perur.

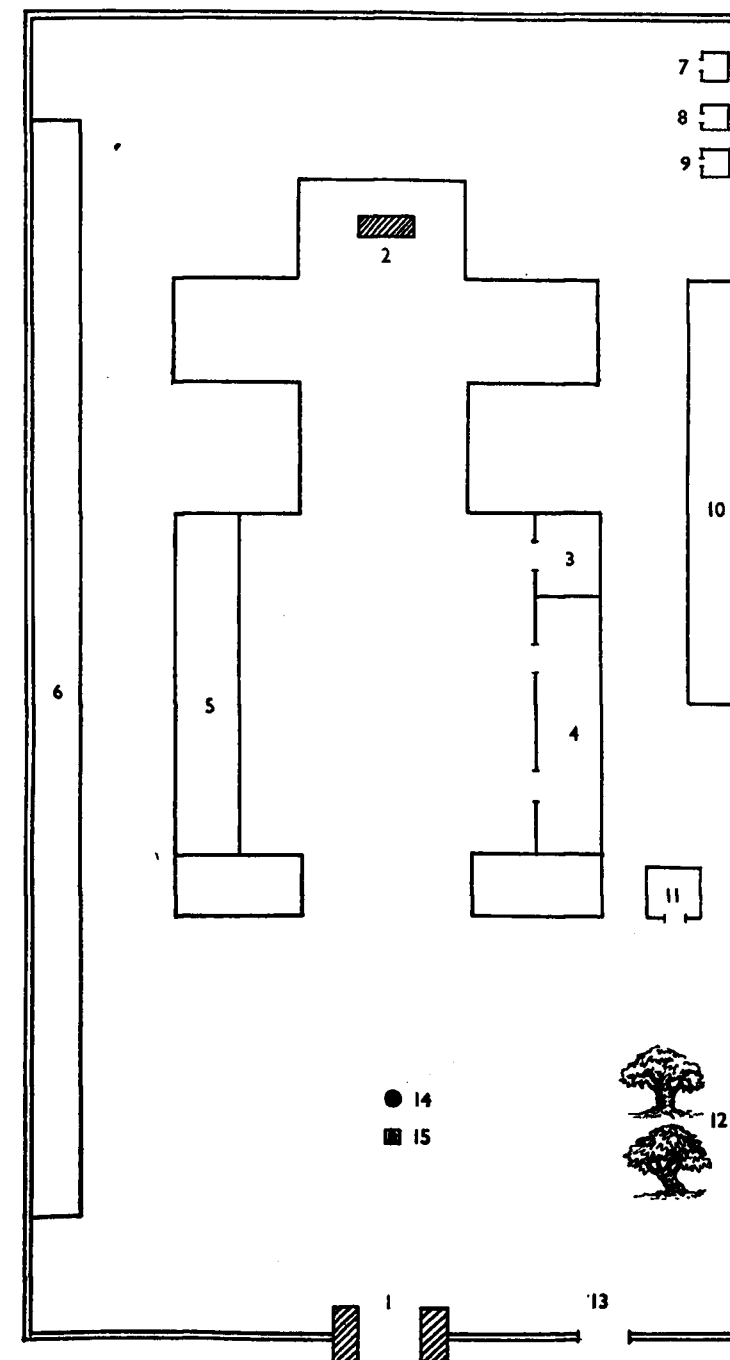

It is not clear whether Maruthamalai acquired fame as a fortification for Perur, the once famous and flourishing city or because of the sacred Marutha tree which has since fallen or as the abode of பரம்பாட்டி சித்தர் (Bambatti Siddhar) or as Murugan temple. It seems appropriate here to state briefly about chitta philosophy and Bambatti Siddhar.

It is believed that there were eighteen Siddhars who were scholars in medicine and religion about whom reference has also been made under 55 Boluvampatti Reserve Forest. Their number as well as their philosophy is a matter of controversy. Their age is uncertain ranging from Christian era to 10th century. It is said that some of the Chittars belong to North India and even one, if not more, belong to other nations. Thus Bogar, with whose name is associated the hill temple of Palni of Madurai district, is considered to have come from China.

Bambatti Siddhar with whose name this hill is associated was originally a snake charmer. Once he happened to meet a Siddhar (சட்டை முனிவர்) who preached him the Siddha philosophy. By his mystic powers he entered into the frame of a dead king's body and made a dead snake dance in front of the queen. After this incident he is called (பாம்பாட்டி சித்தர்) Bambatti Siddhar. Besides religious songs, he seems to have written on medicine and (ஆளுடம்) astrology. There is also a belief that he lived in Pandia country. His songs are always addressed to snakes. Quite a number of them are known for easy style and rythm depicting the snake dance which are sung by great musicians, rural folks and beggars. The language used in his songs are more vehement, forceful, specific and meaningful as in the following case:—

காடுமலை நதிபதி காசி முதலாய்க்
கால்கடுக்க ஓடிப்பலன் கானல் ஆகுமோ?
வீடு பெறும் வழிநிலை மேலிக் கொள்ளவே
வேதாத்தத் துறையினின்று ஆடாய் பாம்பே.

“Oh snake! Dance that no useful purpose is attained by wearisome pilgrimages to forests, hills, rivers or sacred places like Kasi (Banaras) but resort to philosophical approach to attain immortality”.

What is the Vedanta or philosophy referred to in this poem and other poems referred to by one and all the Siddhas is a matter for deep study and research.

40. COIMBATORE MUNICIPALITY

Sri Koniamman temple

In days of yore, dwellings were built as close as possible to the village place of worship. One such place worship was the Koniamman temple, which is now situated in the heart of Coimbatore. This shrine is one of the most popular temples in the city and several citizens have been named after the deity.

According to Cholan Purva Pattayam of the Government Oriental Manuscripts Library, an Irula chief called Kovan constructed a few Kraals at a place named after him as (கோவன்பதி) Kovanpathi, where he lived with his clan. The patron deity of Kovanpathi was the Mother Goddess whose idol was installed by Kovan. Legend has it that one day the idol was found slanting, whence it came to be called as (கோணல் அம்மன்) “Konalamman” and later as “Koniamman”. Kovanpathi was then surrounded by a thick forest.

Years rolled by and Karikala Cholan came to the then flourishing City of Perur with Cheraman Perumal.

He cleared the forest adjacent to Perur and which also surrounded Kovampathi; and made a new village renaming it as Kovan Puthur (கோவன் புத்தூர் or the new village of Kovan) which in due course has assumed the present name of கோயம்புத்தூர் (Coimbatore). He shifted the temple from what is now known as “Sankanoor Pallam” to its present location. A temple in ruins, to be found even today at Sankanoor Pallam, is popularly referred to as “Old Koniamman temple”.

Located on a two-acre site the present building of the temple is said to be some 600 years old. Till the famous plague of 1912 which ravaged most of South India, the temple had a tank in front of its entrance. Then, a floating festival used to be an annual feature. During the plague, the Collector ordered the tank to be closed and handed it over to the Municipality, who filled it and used some of the stone slabs of the steps for building pavements. The spot where the tank existed is now marked by a few shops nearby. About seven years ago, leading citizens of the city met and passed a resolution requesting the Municipality to hand the tanksite back to the temple.

The existing temple is a very small one in the heart of the city. Renovation work has now been undertaken-a big plan to erect a five-storeyed gopuram at the entrance with attractive mandapams leading up to the shrine. The garba graham or sanctum and vima-nams are also to be reconstructed and a Kumbabishegam on a grand scale is programmed. The cost involved is estimated to be Rs. 6 lakhs.

This temple, which was first built by an Irula Chieftain, later became the centre of a hamlet and developed as a suburb of the then flourishing town Perur. Today, that Irula settlement of Kovanpudur has been transformed into a large city, compared to which Perur is insignificant but for its historic and ancient temple of Patteeswarar. Ironically the Irulas who were the original inhabitants of this big city of Coimbatore are still backward and are classified as a Scheduled Tribe.

Jewels worth Rs. 50,000/- are kept in the temple. Seven shops belong to the temple with an annual income of Rs. 12,000/-. Annual hundi income is approximately Rs. 4,000/- and a sum of Rs. 2,000/- per annum is collected from devotees for performing poojas, abhishekams etc. A Brahmin gurukkal performs poojas three times a day. The chief annual festival or Brahmotsavam is held in the month of மார்ச் (February–March.). The temple has its own cars, Rathams and vahanams which are of very recent origin, say, thirty years old. Being situated in the heart of the city the annual festival attracts thousands of people from within and outside the city. The temple affairs are managed by a board of five trustees and an Executive Officer of the Hindu Religious and Charitable (Administration) Department.

55. BOLUVAMPATTI RESERVE FOREST

Temples at Velliangiri and Poondi

About twentyfive miles west of Coimbatore city lies a hilly region known as 2 Boluvampatti Reserve forest, which is part of Western Ghats. Buses ply upto Chemmedu about twentytwo miles away from Coimbatore. From there, a gravel road leads to Poondi, the foot of Velliangiri both of which are considered sacred from time immemorial. This is one of the five sacred hills associated with Perur. References are made about Velliangiri in (நாரதர் வழிபாடு படலம்) Perur Sthalapuranam. A small temple has recently been constructed at Poondi but no temple exists at Velliangiri, the hill top which is about 5,100 ft., above mean sea level. Shrubs and wild animals make the hill top inaccessible for most part of the year. Still every year, thousands of pilgrims visit the hill top starting from Sivarathri in the Tamil month of Masi (February) till May-June (வைகாசிமாத் அக்னி நக்ஷத்ரிம்). Rich people consider it a sacred affair to feed the pilgrims and as such, feeding is an important phenomenon. The fact that every year about Rs. 50,000 accrue to the Devasthanam funds on account of this pilgrimage will give an idea of the faith the people have in Velliangiri. Still no conventional type of pooja or festival is performed at the hill top even though Poojas are performed to a Lingam installed under a tree at Poondi by a Chola Vellala Pillai.

There prevails a legend that Arjuna got the Pasupath Astham after worshipping the God at Velliangiri. Women are not allowed to the sacred place at the hill top. Even though there is no temple at the top, there is a big rock under which there are five Swayambu Lingams. Kavadis are taken to the hill top to fulfil vow. The temple is managed by a single trustee.

61. INAM PERUR

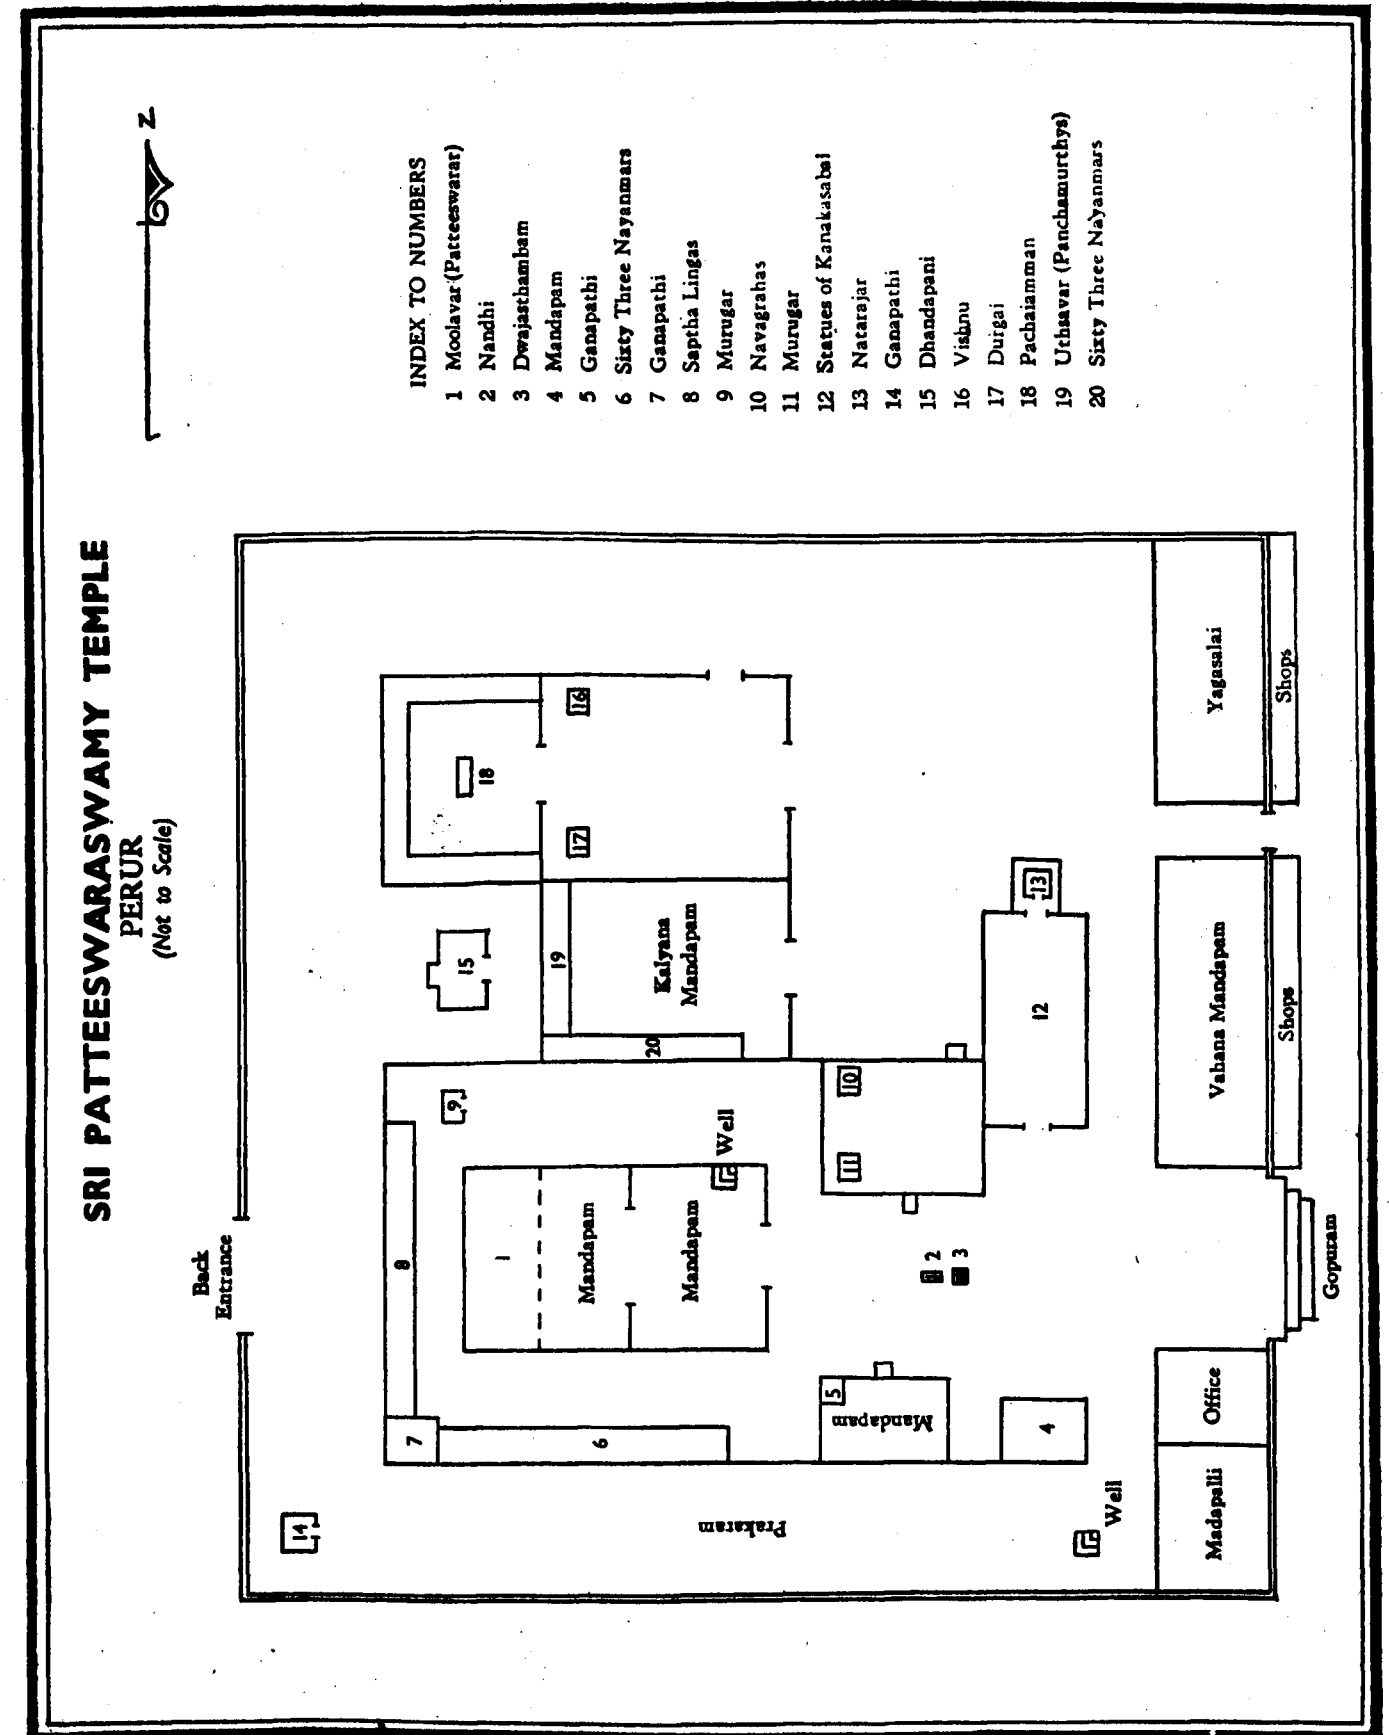

Sri Patteeswaraswamy temple.

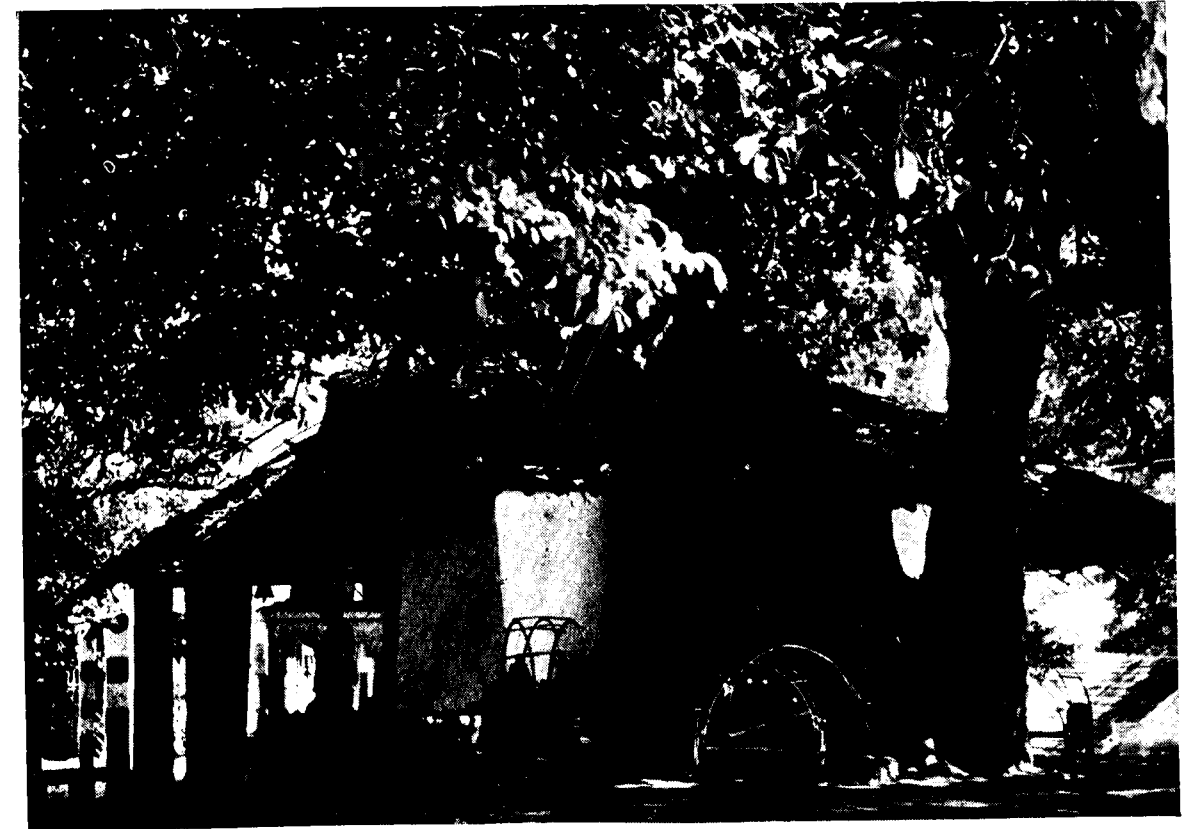

Perur or Mel Chidambaram, a small village about five miles from Coimbatore is ideally situated on the banks of the Noyyal or Conjee, a tributary of the river Cauvery and is well connected with Coimbatore, one of the biggest cities of Madras State. The temple at Perur is a Saivite shrine with a Swayambumoorthi. This is perhaps one of the very few ancient and historic temples of Coimbatore District which is receiving some attention. It is a pilgrim centre, particularly in the month of December when "Arudhra Dharisanam" is celebrated. The very word "Perur" in Tamil (பேரூர்) connects a place of renown.

According to the sthalapuranam, when the calf of Kamadhenu was playing in a forest of Arasu trees (Pippilaranya) its leg got caught into a hard object embedded in the earth from which blood gushed out. The object was later discovered to be a sacred Siva Linga. Later on, a temple was built at the site which attracted people from far and wide.

When Saint Sundarar wished to worship the deity, the Swamy and Amman took the form of Pallars, and were engaged in the planting of paddy seedlings in a neighbouring field. The Saint discovered that the labourers were none other than Swamy and Amman. He was rewarded with the dharisana of the Lord. The Kanaka Sabhai or the Golden Hall of Dance has beautiful form of Nataraja in the dancing posture which He manifested to the Rishis – Gomuni and Pattimuni.

The garba ghaha (i.e.) sanctum was built by Kari-kal Chola in the early Christian Era. In the sixth century, Saint Appar seems to have visited the place since it is mentioned in his Thevaram. In the ninth century, Sundarar visited the temple and immortalised it in his Thevaram. In the Konguchola period (11th to 13th centuries) Ardha Mantapa and Mahamantapa were built and used for inscribing numerous gifts to the temple. In the 14th and 15th centuries, the Hoysala and Vijayanagar Kings gave endowments. In the 16th and 17th centuries Vijayanagar and Nayaka Kings made additions. The famous Kanaka Sabhai was built by Alagadri Nayak of Madura in the 17th century. Tippu Sultan of Mysore attached half of the Inams of the temple in the 18th century. Later on, the East India Company restored it to the temple. The Swami and Amman Temples were renovated in the middle of the 18th century and later on, the mantap of 63 Saints was built. In the 20th century, the Kalyana mantapa and the front mantapam were built and the gopuram was repaired. Historically, the surroundings of Perur date back to the Roman period, as a Treasure Trove of Roman coins were discovered here. Kistavans were also found in the fields on the river and were known as Pandavar Kuli.

This ancient place has produced literary and historical compositions. "Cholan's Poorva Pattayam" (Madras Government Oriental Series No. V) deals with the origin of the Temple and gives an account of the folk-lore of the place. Government Oriental Manuscripts Library, Madras has also published, under the authority of the Government of Madras, Perurkkovai (No. CXXIV). This is a poem in praise of Lord Siva, the presiding deity of this temple and illustrates the rules defining the characteristics of Akapporul (அகப் பெருள்) of Tamil literature. The inscriptions ranging for a few centuries give valuable information about the customs and manners that existed a thousand years ago. The Thiruppugazh pieces of Arunagirinathar give an account of temples five centuries ago. The Perur Puranam of the Poet Kachiyappa Munivar is a literary poem. The numerous Prabhandams by various poets form the final collection of Literature about Perur. Lastly the Saint Santhalingar whose earthly remains are enclosed in the mutt known by his name, has left four religious books of which "Against Killing" is a moral philosophical poetry. At this juncture, mention has to be made that an Oriental College has been started in the mutt premises.

The famous Kanaka Sabhai presents an unique collection of stone sculpture carvings. Its two rows of ten big pillars have exquisite carvings of Siva manifestations. Its terraced roof has stone-chains with a numerously petalled lotus at the centre. The smaller pillars have a large number of mythological carvings. The teppakulam has symmetrical steps with 16 angles. There is a belief that this tank was built up with stones pulled down from a Vishnu temple which was constructed by Pandian Nedunjadiyan in 740—770 A.D. and is referred to in the copper plates kept at Madras Museum.

The Noyyal river with green cocoanut topes gives a beautiful background with its cholanthurai. The temple of Patti Vinayagar is a beautiful one though simple. The temple of Arasambalavanar is located in the place where the deity danced under the Peepal tree. South and North Kailasams are two small temples guarding the two directions of the sacred place. The Village deity Athi-moorkamman has left a relic of human sacrifice which took place when the temple was built. These and other innumerable items are found scattered in this ancient place.

The temple has an annual income of about Rs. 25,000/- out of which the major income of a little over Rs. 15,000 is from the fees for Archanai Abishekam etc. Two important festivals are celebrated one in the month of பங்குனி (March—April) and the other in the month of மார்ச்சு (December—January). Each of the festival lasts for ten days and attracts about 10,000 worshippers from neighbouring areas.

The faiths and beliefs connected with this place are many. It is said that if the bones of dead persons are immersed in (காஞ்சிமாநதி) Canjee river, it is converted into stone and remains in a state of non-deterioration. The sacred trees (பிறவாப்புளி, இறவாப்பனை) are of mythological fame as evidencing immunity from death and birth vouchsafed by this sacred place. The seeds of the sacred 'birthless tamarind tree' are considered to be sterile and the sacred 'deathless palmyrah tree' exists from time immemorial. Cow dung left at the border of this sacred place remain as such without producing worms. This phenomenon is considered to represent that those who visit this place do not have rebirth. A similar belief exists in the case of those who visit Banaras (Varanasi or Kasi). Copper coins left in the sacred பிரம்மதீர்த்தம் (Brahma Theertham) shine like gold. So also a dip in the sacred water makes every man shine and cures any ailment like madness and egoism.

Perur is surrounded by five hills which were considered the abode of Devas and consequently they are sacred. They are Velli Malai, Neeli malai alias Umadeviar malai, Ayyaswami malai or Brahman malai, Perumal mudi alias Vishnu malai and Marudamalai. Even today large scale pilgrimage to Maruthamalai and Velliangiri can be witnessed.

POLLACHI TALUK

27. SOOLAKKAL

Sri Mariamman temple

The road to Soolakkal branches towards the north-west at the first mile from Pollachi on Pollachi-Coimbatore Road. It lies at a distance of about six miles from Pollachi and two miles from Koilpalayam, the nearest railway station. It is well connected by bus from all directions. The frequency of the trips is increased on Tuesdays and Fridays to cope up with the increased crowd visiting the Mariamman temple.

The image of the presiding deity is a Swayambu facing north and was noticed three hundred years back. At the first instance there was only a thatched roof without door or any other protection. Taking advantage of this, three persons attempted to run off with the temple vessels, but on their way became blind. A local man had a vision of this attempt in his dream and was directed to help them to restore their sight by sprinkling the holy water of the temple (தீர்த்தம்). From then onwards, there is great faith in the efficacy of the temple to cure eye diseases.

Besides Garbhagraham, there is Ardhamandapam, Mahamandapam and a Chavadi.

Poojas are performed twice a day by a non-Brahmin priest. Pilgrimage is on Tuesdays and Fridays when nearly 1,000 persons visit mainly from Palghat and Trichur districts of Kerala State and other parts of this district. The chief annual festival is the car festival in the month of May-June attended by a crowd of nearly 20,000 persons. The temple is managed by a Board of three trustees assisted by an Executive Officer.

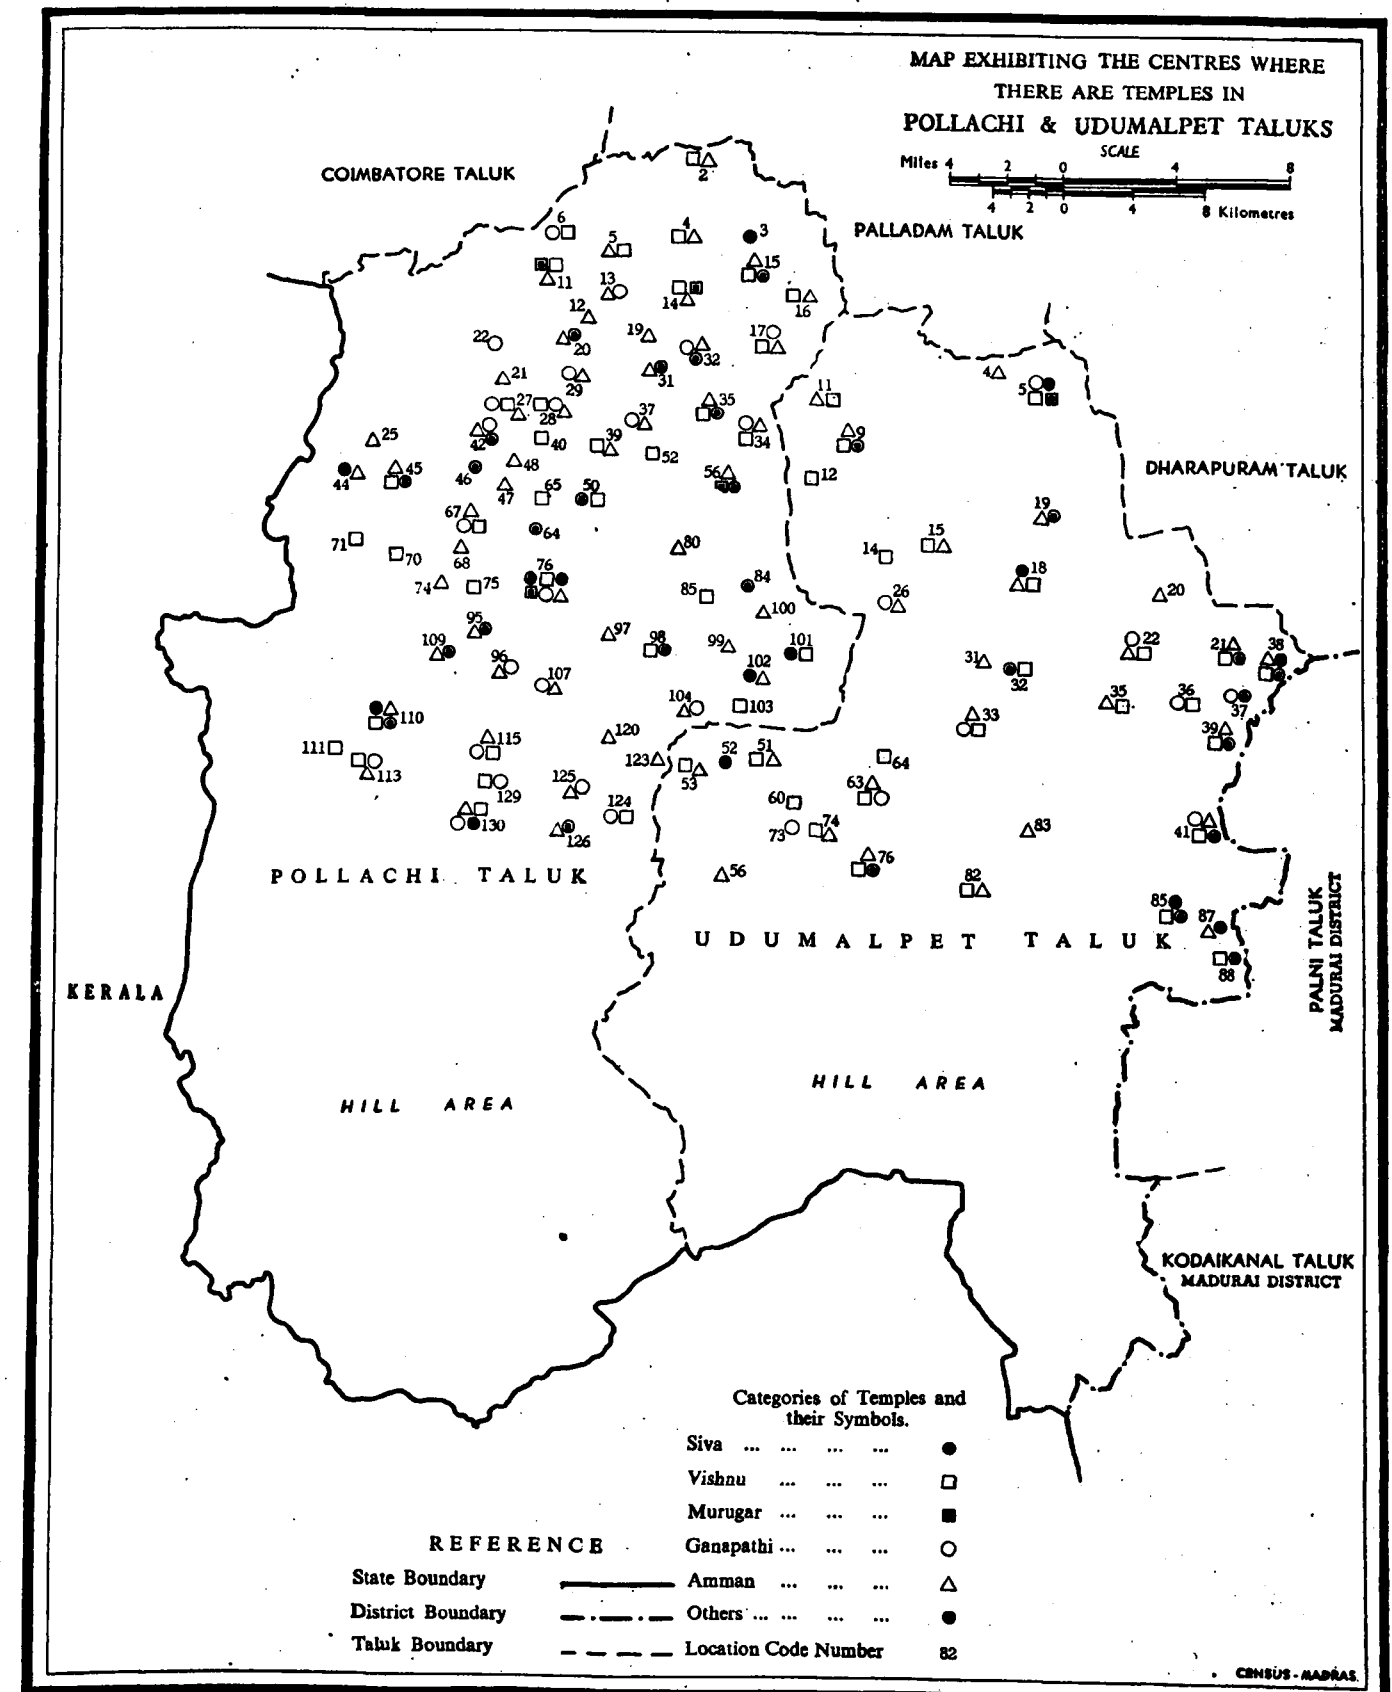

76. POLLACHI

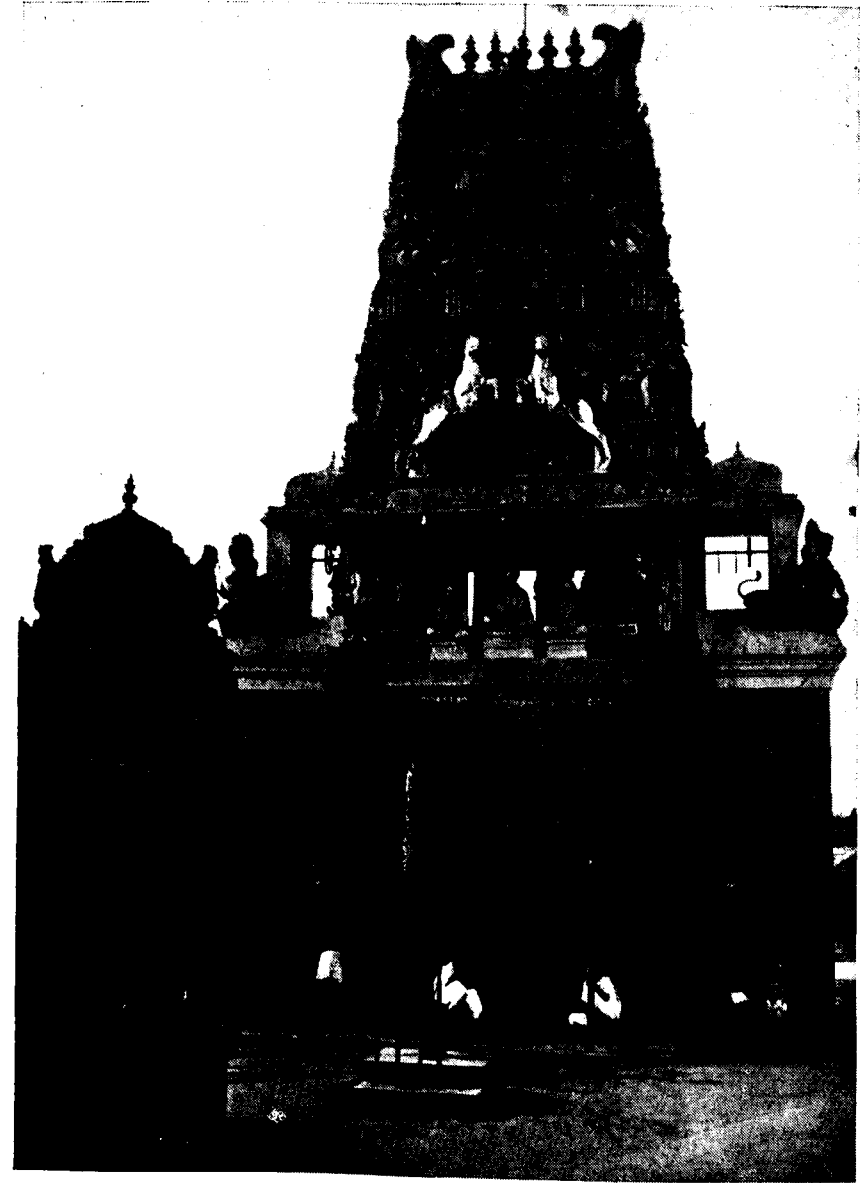

Sri Subramanya Swami and Sri Mariamman temple

Pollachi is one of the leading towns of Coimbatore district with a population of 54,369. Next to Coimbatore and Erode, this is the densely populated place of Coimbatore district, the density being slightly more than 10,000 persons per square mile. Till three centuries back, this place was known as (இறைச்சில் பொழில் வாய்ச்சி) Iraichhil Pozhil Vaychchi. Prior to that, when the Chola King Kulothunga III captured it, he named it as (முடிக்கொண்ட சோழ நல்லூர்) Mudikonda Chozha Nallur which name did not last long. A temple dedicated to goddees Mariamman and another one dedicated to Lord Subramanya are the two important temples of this busy commercial centre. This place is well connected by road and rail. Both the temples are centrally located.

There is no certainty about the origin of Sri Subramaniaswami temple. But there is a claim that in former days it was dedicated to Lord Shiva and the presiding deity was known as (அகத்தீச்சுவரம் உடை யார்) Agatheeswaram Udayar. Then Murugar seemed to be a festival deity. At present Murugar is the presiding deity. 750 years back one Sundara Pandia Deva had done large scale renovation. Subsequent renovations were made by public donations. The temple does not have big gopuram or pagoda, but has some fine and excellent stone carvings in the Maha Mantapam, which was constructed in or about 1926 adjacent to the ancient temple. Such stone carvings include five-hooded serpent, stone chain from yali's mouth, lizard, guana (உடும்பு) இராசி மண்டலம் (Zodiacal sign) etc. This is a tribute to the quality of stone carving found in Coimbatore District. Another good sample is the stone work at Thandu Mariamman temple of Pariyur in Gopichettipalayam taluk. Images of Sundaeswarar and Meenakshiamman have been installed in this newly constructed portion of the temple. The temple has only one prakaram. Daily two poojas are performed by a Brahmin. The temple has one palanquin and three vahanams. Arudhra Dharisanam in the month of மார்ச்சு (November-December) and Sura Samharam in October-November are the important festivals. Car festival in the month of சை (January-February) was stopped 21 years back on a dispute over the ownership of the temple. The temple is managed by a single hereditary trustee.

Mariamman temple is also an ancient one with a village goddess as presiding deity in sitting posture. It occupies a space of 20 cents and has grown important along with the growth of the town. The temple has a gopuram or pagoda at the entrance, which has deviated from orthodox form in details. Gandhiji's image also finds a place in the gopuram. This was done during renovation in 1953 made by Sri P. Nachimuthu Gounder. Poojas are performed thrice a day by a non-Brahmin priest. Firewalking and car festival in the month of மார்ச் (February–March) is the chief annual festival lasting for twentytwo days. The temple is managed by a single trustee, Sri N. Mahalinga Gounder.

UDUMALPET TALUK

76. DHALI

Amanalingeswarar temple at Tirumurthimalai

Tirumurthimalai is nearly thirteen miles south of Udumalpet and two miles from Tirumurthi dam. It is on the banks of Dhali channel and forms part of the Anamalai hills in western ghats. There is also a small fall.

Buses ply upto the dam. Pilgrims visit in large numbers on Sundays and New Moon days. Buses are therefore extended up to Tirumurthimalai. Except a mandapam, there is no structure which resembles a temple or any idol. Pilgrims offer their prayers standing in front of the rock in which the portrait is carved. The image on the rock is not upright. Devotees believe that on the top of the hill above the rock, God the almighty presents Himself in the three forms of Siva, Vishnu and Brahma. To test the chastity of Anusuya the wife of sage Aththiri who lived at this place, Siva, Vishnu and Brahma visited her in the form of three sages and wished Anusuya to feed them naked. Anusuya fulfilled their wishes by first making them small babies, and then restored their form at the request of their wives.

Poojas are performed on Sundays and New Moon days at the foot of the rock by a Brahmin priest, whose office is hereditary. There is annual income of about Rs. 500/- from hundi collections, about Rs. 1,000/- from devotees for poojas and another Rs. 1,000/- by other means. Festivals are celebrated in the months of Adi, Avani, Purattasi, Thai and Masi (from July to October and January to March). The chief annual festival is the Sivarathri in the month of Masi (February-March) which attracts about ten thousand devotees. The temple is managed by a board of five trustees.

88. INAM SANGIRAMANALLUR, KOLUMAN

Dhandaveswaraswami and Chozheeswaraswami temples

Koluman is about 10 miles south-east of Udumalpet on the Palni road. It was ruled by Kongu Cholars, Mysore kings and Madurai Naik dynasty. About 1,500 years back, Kumanan, the legendary Tamil king, noted for his charity, ruled from this place which was then known as 'Kumana Nagar'. In the 168th verse of Ahananuru (அகநா நூறு), this place is referred to as குழுமூர் (Kuzhumoor). In the local stone inscriptions, this is referred to as குழுமம் (Kuzhumam). It was also known as சதுர்வேதிமங்கலம் (Chathurvedhimangalam) and நல்லூர் (Nallur) with several prefixes like Vikram Chadurvedhi Mangalam, Ulahu Pirattiar Chathurvedhi Mangalam, Vikramachola Nallur, Veerannarayana Nallur, Kerala Kesari Nallur etc. These names suggest that this should have been a strategic point and every time there was a change in the ruling power, it also resulted in a change in the name of place. Its location on the bank of Amaravathi river makes it a fertile place. According to a stone inscription copied as 136 and 137 of 1909 the temple was founded by Vira Chola Deva who came to the throne about 1118. The inscription records that the king caused a linga to be set up, and a temple to be built on the occasion of a solar eclipse which happened to fall on the day of his janmanakshatra and called it Vira Cholisvara. It was consecrated by a certain Kannabhattachan who was appointed Manager of the temple. Thirty-two inscriptions (136 to 167), were copied in this temple in the year 1909 by the Government Epigraphist. The temple has no gopuram, but has vimanam claimed to be of Pandya style. There is only one prakaram. There are two mandapams. In one of these mandapams there is a big copper image of Lord Nataraajar. It is really beautiful and noted for the skill in its workmanship. It is in the fitness of things that due importance is given to this image and the temple is also named after it as Thandaveswaraswami temple. The temple occupies a space of 33,150 square feet. It owns eight acres of wet land and 110 acres of dry land and has a right over the land tax in the inam village of Sangiramanallur. There is an annual income of Rs. 6,500/- from these landed properties. There are also service inams. But the upkeep of the temple by the temple servants needs toning up. Poojas are performed twice a day with rare attendance of devotees. There is a car (கார) which is not used. Arudhra Dharisanam in the month of Margazhi (மார்ச்சி) December-January is the only annual festival without much response from the public. The temple is managed by an Executive Officer and a board of three trustees.

SALEM DISTRICT

INTRODUCTION

The District of Salem as it was constituted during 1961 Census has 1191 temples. On 2nd October 1965, this district was divided into two, Salem and Dharmapuri. The new district of Dharmapuri with headquarters as Dharmapuri was formed by detaching four taluks from the main district, viz. Hosur, Krishnagiri, Harur and Dharmapuri. This new district has 441 temples. The residual district of Salem consists of 8 taluks of Omalur, Yercaud, Salem, Sankari, Tiruchengode, Rasipuram, Attur and Namakkal and has 750 temples. For purpose of survey, the districts of Salem and Dharmapuri will be treated as one unit, but any reader will be able to distinguish the temples of Dharmapuri and Salem as separate entities.

The temples of this district date back to the 7th century. The most important temples are the Siva temple dedicated to Sri Ardhanareeswarar at Tiruchengode and the reputed Vaishnavite shrine of Sri Narasimhamurthy at Namakkal. Namakkal is known for a hillock with two interesting monolithic cave temples peculiar to Pallavas, a colossal statue for Hanuman and a hill fort. The sculptural representations in both the cave temples are considered as good if not better than those of Mahabalipuram.

As the name indicates, the presiding deity of Sri Ardhanareeswarar temple at Tiruchengode is a combination of male and female forms. The right half is that of Siva and the left of Uma. According to legend, Rishi Bringi worshipped only Siva and ignored Sri Parvathi. The latter did penance at Ketaram, Kasi, Kanchi and Tiruvannamalai and Siva gave her His left half and came to be known as Ardhanari (half female). Even then, the Rishi took the form of a beetle, made a hole between the two halves and came round to Siva only. On account of Parvathi's curse, the rishi lost his flesh and blood and became a skeleton. Siva gave him a third leg to support himself. This rishi's figure can be seen near the idol of Sri Ardhanareeswarar.

The rock-cut shrine at Namakkal scooped by Mahendravarma, the famous Pallava Ruler, dedicated to Sri Narasimhaswamy is held in great esteem by the Vaishnavites, which devotees visit all the year round. After killing Hiranyakasipu the Asura ruler, Sri Narasimha was in a ferocious mood. He, however, became a 'Santhamurthy' (mild) and settled down on the shores of river Kantaki. Sri Mahalakshmi who was alone, was doing severe penance on the banks of Kamalalayam. Sri Anjaneya who was returning to Lanka with the Sanjivi hills, brought with him Sri Narasimha from the Kantaki river; as he was thirsty, he alighted on the banks of the Kamalalayam to take water. He placed Sri Narasimha on the banks of the tank before quenching his thirst. When Anjaneya tried to remove Him, he could not do so. Sri Narasimha settled down at Namakkal with Sri Mahalakshmi. The Lord here is a majestic figure in a sitting pose facing west, while a gigantic statue of Anjaneya, 18' high has been installed facing east with folded hands, worshipping Him.

The ancient Sri Kailasanadhar temple at Taramangalam with a majestic five-tiered pagoda, 120' in height, fashioned at the bottom like a Car drawn by an elephant is reputed for its unique architectural beauty. It was customary among the sculptors who received "Thamboolam", fixing up an agreement to construct temples, to exempt the four famous shrines of Perur, Periyapalayam, Taramangalam and Thadikkombu, indirectly signifying the unparalleled nature of these temples, the patterns of which are difficult to imitate in respect of their sculptural carving even by experts. This testifies to the high level of grandeur and finish of the Taramangalam Sri Kailasanather temple. As the divine marriage of Lord Siva with Parvathi was celebrated by Sri Thirumal here, when He gave His daughter Parvathi ("Tharai", as She is called in Sanskrit), in marriage to Lord Siva with His profuse blessings and "Mangalam" for a happy married life, the name Taramangalam was given to this sacred sthalam. Sri Theerthagiriswarar of Theerthamalai is said to have been installed by Sri Rama of the great Epic Ramayana who offered poojas to Him to get rid of his "Brahmahathi Dhosham" (the sin of having killed Ravana). The still attractive temple of Malligarjuna in Dharmapuri is the standing monument of this ancient city considered to be famous with rich temples, "pleasure-gardens of Kings and high enclosure walls", a centre of Jainism and Saivism. The sacred lingam in Sri Dhesanadheeswarar temple at Hogenekal, where Sage Valmiki is reported to have had an Ashram is supposed to be installed by Sage Agasthiya himself. The ancient Vaishnavite shrine dedicated to Sri Chenraya Perumal at Adhamankottah consisting of a garbhagraham and a Mukhamandapam has been declared as a protected monument and deserves importance in view of the colour paintings on the ceilings of the mandapam.

The great cattle fair and shandy which takes place at the time of the chief Car festival in "Masi" (February) of the local Bhadrakaliyamman temple at Mecheri, attract nearly 50,000 devotees from Salem, Dharmapuri, Namakkal, Tiruchengode and even from Tiruchirappalli and Madurai districts. The tiny well, situated in front of the thousand years old Cave temple at Shevaroys, dedicated to Sri Shervaraya Perumal is considered very sacred and never dries up.

The ancient and reputed Siva temple situated in the heart of the Salem town, dedicated to Sri Sugavaneswarar, who is a Swayambu Lingam belongs to the periods of Koparakesari Varman, Ko-Rajakesari Varman and Sundara Pandian, whose reigns have been fixed as 1275 to 1302 A. D. The main annual festival at Sri Kottai Mariamman temple in Salem town which lasts for 21 days in the month of Adi attracts nearly three lakhs of devotees from all over the district and the Goddess here is believed to be very powerful.

The Lingam of the antique Siva temple at Rasipuram, supposed to have been built by the famous Tamil King Val Vil Ori, who ruled over Kolli hills, dedicated to Sri Kailasanathar is a Swayambu one facing west, unlike other Siva temples which normally face east. The granite vigraha of Lord Muruga in the guise of a hunter with a cock in his left hand and a spear in his right at Sri Palani Andavar temple of Bailnadu has been extolled by Sri Arunagirinadhar in his famous "Thiruppugazh". This shrine also originates from the period of Val Vil Ori, the ancient Tamil ruler of Kolli Hills. The presiding deity of Sri Balasubramaniaswamy at Kabilarmalai, which is a cave temple is believed to have been installed by the famous Tamil Poet Sri Kabilar himself, whose life period according to research scholars is the 2nd century A. D.

The sacred "Iluppai" tree inside the ancient Sri Thanthonreeswarar temple of Belur is said to have got this transformation from that of a Jack tree, by the curse of Sage Vasishtha and is likely to become a mango, a "nelli" and finally be restored to its original status of a Jack tree in due course. The ancient "Ilandhai" tree at the hill temple in Alavoipatti dedicated to Sri Balasubramaniaswamy is supposed to be 200 years old, whose fruits are said to have four different tastes. Besides, there are three more "Vilva" trees here, with leaves of five branches, which is claimed to be a peculiar feature. In fact, each and every one of the 38 temples included in the descriptive part of the Directory has some interesting features.

The taluk-wise break-up of temples is as follows:—

Name of Taluk	Temples		Total
	Under the Board	Outside the Board
1. Hosur	108	16	124
2. Krishnagiri	130	19	149
3. Harur	42	9	51

11. Attur	85	9	94
12. Namakkal	175	14	189
Total	1,053	138	1,191

It is seen from the above statement that more than half the number of temples are concentrated in the taluks of Namakkal, Krishnagiri, Salem and Hosur. Namakkal taluk has the largest number of temples namely 189, closely followed by Krishnagiri, Salem and Hosur Taluks having 149, 146 and 124 shrines respectively, while the least is in Yercaud taluk viz., 6.

A classification of the temples according to the presiding deities reveals the following interesting details:—

SALEM DISTRICT

More than 50% of the temples are those for village deities and Vishnu. A special feature of this district is that unlike other districts where Siva temples are predominant, here Vaishnavite shrines are greater in number. There are 294 Vaishnavite shrines as against 233 Siva temples, apart from 92 Vinayagar temples and 44 shrines dedicated to Lord Muruga.

The following statement shows the area covered by the temples.

A perusal of the above statement indicates that while only a single temple covers an area of 10 acres and more, 481 shrines are smaller ones covering less than 5 cents. The majority of temples, 577 out of 1191, occupy an extent of 5 cents to an acre. Temples which cover an area of one acre and over are less than 7%, as the number of such shrines is only 80. The 53 temples which have not furnished information under this head may be treated as small ones. More than 50 per cent of temples cover an area of less than 4 grounds (1 ground = 60' × 40').

Poojas are performed in all except 18 temples where there are no priests. The following statement regarding poojas will be interesting:

In 46 out of 213 Siva temples, the presiding deity is a Swayambu Lingam, while in 163 other shrines, the Moolavar is an installed one. In Sri Ardhanareswarar temple of Tiruchengode, the Murthy is in a standing posture while the remaining three temples have not stated their pose. There is only a picture in a temple and in 10 shrines neither picture nor idol is found. Excluding 319 temples, where their position is not specified, the posture of the presiding deities in other than Siva temples is as follows:

Standing pose	401

In the majority of Siva, Vishnu, and Murugan temples, the priests belong to the Brahmin community, while there are a good number of shrines where priests of other communities offer poojas. Out of 92 temples for Vinayagar, the priest is a Brahmin in 22 shrines. In 665 out of 1135 temples, persons other than Brahmins offer poojas. Brahmin priests are found only in 47 out of 528 temples for village Goddesses and other deities. In the bigger Siva temples, after the recitation of Vedas in Sanskrit by the Gurukkals, Thevaram is sung in Tamil by Pandarams who are known as 'Othuvans'. In Vishnu temples the Bhattacharies recite Vedas in Sanskrit and Thiruvaimozhi in Tamil.

No ornaments are found in 728 temples. 52 temples have not furnished any details under the head. The classification of the remaining 411 temples according to value of jewellery owned by them is as follows :

Sri Sidheswarar temple at Kanjamalai and Sri Sugavaneswarar temple at Salem get an income of Rs. 3,000/- and Rs. 2,000/- respectively per annum under hundi collections, while the former also gets an additional annual income of Rs. 2,400/- through the sale of Archana and Abishega tickets.

Out of 1,191 temples, only 6 temples are running public institutions like Choultries, while Sri Kamakshiamman temple in Rasipuram and Sri Meenakshisundareswarar temple in Salem are running primary schools for the benefit of educating poor children.

1,063 temples have no cars, while 1,113 have no Rathams. 128 temples alone own Cars and 78 have Rathams. Only 51 temples are having palanquins and 319 shrines are in possession of Vahanams like Peacock, Rishabam, Elephant, Horse etc. These Vahanams are generally made of wood or brass. The bigger and more famous temples have gold and silver plated Vahanams.

Annual festivals are celebrated in 804 out of 1,191 temples, while there are no festivals in the remaining 387 shrines. The classification of temples on the basis of the number of festivals observed is as follows :-

Out of 1,053 temples under the control of the Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Board, paid Executive Officers have been appointed by the Board only for 34 temples.

There are no trustees for 160 temples. There is a single trustee for 416 temples and a Board consisting of more than one trustee is in charge of 589 temples. Particulars under this head have not been furnished by 26 temples.

An analysis of the details given in the schedules reveals the following position regarding the age of the temples in the district.

Before Christ	7
Prior to 7th Century	8
7th century to 1750	334
After 1750 (modern)	611
Details not given	231
Total	1,191

The age of the temples given in the schedule is more a matter of surmise than any approximation to fact. The age of the 15 temples said to have been built prior to 600 A.D. cannot be correct. Some sort of shrines for worship existed in these places and later temples were built in such places.

The following 7 temples are believed to belong to the Epic age, though there is no authentic information for the same.

1. Sri Betrayeswamy temple ... Denkanikotta Hosur Taluk
2. Sri Theerthagireeswarar temple ... Theerthamalai Harur Taluk
3. Sri Dhesanadheeswarar temple ... Hogenekal Dharmapuri Taluk
4. Sri Kothandaramaswamy temple ... Ayodhiyapattinam ; Salem Taluk
5. Sri Kaya Nirmaleswara-swami temple ... Attur Attur Taluk
6. Sri Kamanatheeswarar temple ... Aragalur Attur Taluk
7. Sri Narasimhaswami temple ... Namakkal Namakkal Taluk

An attempt has been made to estimate the origin of a few temples with reference to the visits of Nayanmars and Alvars, their style of architecture and other details available.

As Saint Appar has referred to Sri Arappaliswarar temple of Kollimalai in one of his hymns "Kshethirakovai Thiruthandagam", it belongs to the 7th century, even though the existing structure may be of a later period. Besides, there are also two verses in "Thirupugazh" about it by Sri Manickavasagar.

As Saint Sambandar, is believed to have stayed at Tiruchengode and cured the prevailing epidemic of certain fever by singing "Thiruneelaganda Thiruppathigam" in praise of the presiding deity of Sri Ardhanareeswarar temple, which has also been extolled as the famous shrine for Lord Muruga by Sri Arunagirinadhar in Kandhapuranam, Kandharanubhoodhi and Thirupugazh, it also should have been in existence in the 7th century itself.

The following three temples may be placed in the 15th century as Sri Arunagirinadhar has sung about them.

1. Sri Velayudhaswamy temple—Kanakagiri
Sankari Taluk
2. Sri Kailasanadhar temple —Rasipuram
Rasipuram Taluk
3. Sri Palani Andavar temple —Bailnadu
Rasipuram taluk

Sri Sugavaneswarar temple of Salem City appears to belong to the Sangam age i.e. A. D. 100 to 250 as it has been highly praised by the famous Tamil poetess Sri Avvaiyar in her "Aindhadikkalithurai", who also lived in the same period. Sri Malligarjuna temple of Dharmapuri and Sri Chenraya Perumal temple of Adhamankottah are said to have been built during the period of the famous Tamil King Adhiyaman, one of the seven reputed philanthropists, whose life time was stated to be the 2nd century A. D. The ancient cave temple at Kabilarmalai, dedicated to Sri Balasubramaniaswamy also was constructed in the 2nd century A. D. as the presiding deity of this shrine is supposed to have been installed by the famous Tamil Poet Sri Kabilar himself, whose life period according to Research scholars is the 2nd century A. D. The reputed Sri Kailasanadhar temple at Taramangalam belongs to the period of 1268 A. D. as there is a reference to it, in a stone inscription of the Hoysala King Vira Ramanatha. Besides, signs of bow and arrow and tiger and fish, the three emblems of the Chera, Chola and Pandiya Kings are also found everywhere in the temple. Sri Chandra Choodeswarar temple of Hosur is said to be an ancient one, as it was patronised by several rulers like Gangas, Chalukyas, Cholas, Hoysalas, Vijayanagar and Mysore Kings. The age of Sri Shervaraya Perumal temple at Shevaroy is claimed to be 1,000 years.

While the above details show that these temples belong to the 7th or 8th centuries or to an earlier period, there is no information regarding the age of the existing structures in most cases. It is possible that additions were made by stages from time to time.

HOSUR TALUK

37. HOSUR

Chandra Choodeswaraswami temple

Hosur is located on the national highways from Bangalore to Madras. It is about 25 miles east of Bangalore, which is also the nearest Railway Station. It is the headquarters for Hosur taluk and had a population of 11,683 as on 1—3—1961. It is known for the Government Cattle Breeding Centre, the Silk Farm and the picturesque hill temple dedicated to Chandra Choodeswaraswami.

The temple is an ancient one and is on the eastern border of the town. It contains some inscriptions in Kanarese, Sanskrit, Malayalam and Telugu, which are weather-worn. It was patronised by several rulers like Gangas, Chalukyas, Cholas, Hoysalas, Vijayanagar and Mysore Kings. The temple covers an area of about three acres. A flight of about 200 foot-steps from the north-west portion of the hillock and another flight of about 180 foot-steps from south-west lead to the temple at the top of the hillock. The temple with its pathway has been electrified and is indeed a magnificent sight when illuminated. The temple faces south. It has a five tiered gopuram in the front and two prakarams. The image of the presiding deity is a Swayambu Lingam facing east and is known as Chandra Choodeswarar or Choodanadheswarar. His consort is known as Maragathambal Pachchaiyambal or Parvadhambal and Her image is in a standing posture. There are also images for Vinayagar, Subramaniam, Dakshinamoorthy, the four saivite saints Appar, Sambandar, Sundarar and Manickavasagar and the sixtythree Nayanmars.

Three poojas are performed in a day by a non-hereditary Brahmin. Devotees visit the temple mainly on Mondays and Fridays. The chief annual car festival is celebrated in the month of பங்குனி (Panguni or February-March) attracting a crowd of nearly 5,000 which include Kanarese from the adjoining Mysore State. There are two wooden cars considered to be fairly big in the district. The carvings on them are elaborate. There are also brass and bronze vahanams of a horse, an elephant, Ravana and two Nandhis. All of them are claimed to be old. The value of the temple jewellery is approximately Rs. 3,000. The temple owns about 200 acres of land. In fasli 1375, the temple had an annual income of Rs. 3,299 from landed properties, levies from devotees, hundi collections etc. The temple is managed by an Executive Officer and a Board of five trustees.

There is an interesting local legend connected with the origin of the existing hillock on which stands the temple. In the remote past, தருமம் (Dharmam) or charity incarnate found that almsgiving had fallen into disrepute. So he made a pilgrimage to the banks of Dakshina Pinakini (Ponnaiyar river) at the spot in Thorapalli Agraharam Panchayat. He made 'Tapas' to Parameswaran, the Almighty, who, pleased at his prayers, granted his request that he should become the 'Vahanam' or vehicle of a deity, and turned him for that purpose into a bull (Vrishabam). The bull then prayed that, in memory of his visit to the world, a hill in the form of a bull should be created on which Vrishbathri the hillock under reference, with its head to the north and its tail to the south, was produced. The bull then prayed that Parameswaran, with Parvathi Devi, should dwell on this hill, as he did on mount Kailasa. This prayer was heard with favour, and the God, turning himself into a guana (உருமல்) of brilliant colours, showed Himself, knowing female curiosity, to Parvathi; who started in pursuit with Her friends and companions. After a long chase, they came to Champakavanam, east of Hosur, when the Goddess at last seized the guana's tail which came off in her hand; the tail being green (மரகத வர்ணம்—Marakathavarnam) the Goddess also turned green. Feeling fatigued and thirsty after her long journey, the Goddess thought of her sister Alaganada, the Goddess of water, who generated a well, in which the travellers bathed and quenched their thirst, the water being turned green by the Goddess. The well is therefore named 'Marakatha sarovaram' in Puranas; and this is the present Pachakulam, close by the Hosur hill, to which many curing virtues are attributed. Parvathi then resumed her pursuit, and found the God up a tree—the Champakamaram (செண்பக மரம்)—on the top of the hill. Muthugala Rishi, a devotee of the place, seeing the strange guana, summoned Utchayinar, a brother Rishi, who joined him in the chase, on which the guana disappeared. Parvathi, in wrath, turned the former dumb for having called to the latter, whom she rendered deaf for having come when called, and condemned them both to be born again in the Vedar (வேடர்) or hunter caste. Hearing, however, that they were trusty Saivas, she joined them in prayer to Parameswaran, who took the form of a Lingam, and on pooja being made, emerged from the stone in his true shape, freed the Rishis from the curse, and lived happily ever after with Parvathi. The hills being covered with forests, and frequented by wild beasts, the Lingam was neglected and became covered by white-ants' nests. The Vedars, who grazed their cattle there, got into trouble daily because their cows came home with empty udders, and were suspected of having milked them. Piqued by self-interest the Vedars watched and found an Iguana going into the cell, after which the cows came and yielded their milk over it. On proceeding to remove the ants' nest, a crowbar struck on the hidden Lingam, which forthwith shed blood, at which, taking alarm, the Vedars, abandoning rough usage, gently cleared away the rubbish, and unearthed the Lingam, over which they raised a pandal, and made puja to it, after which the local chieftain built a temple where puja was performed by the Vedars. This however was thought to be irregular and so the Vedars sought and found two Brahmin brothers, enroute as pilgrims to Benares, who, taking the Vedars for robbers, hid, the one his money, and the other bones of his parents, which he was carrying to the Ganges, and which the touch of a Sudra would defile. The Vedars, however, took them forcibly, and made them do puja. While doing so, one Brahmin fell a victim to a tiger. The other Brahmin went on with his puja, deploring the loss of his companion and the interruption of his pilgrimage to Benares when the God, in a dream, told him that all purposes would be answered by throwing the bones into the Tenkasi Ganges or the Pachakulam aforesaid; and as a sign that the dream was true, told him that when exhumed, the bones would appear as flowers. The Brahmin found this to be so and having deposited the flowers in the Marakathasaras, abided content in his priestly office. The other Brahmin who was devoured by the tiger was born again as the son of Krishna Gandharva Rayar, the chief of Anaikonda. When five years old, he explained to his father that his present birth was due to the favour of the deity, and that the pagoda on the Vrishabathri should be enlarged. The chief accordingly performed the Thulabaram ceremony, weighing himself in a scale against money bags, and gave the equivalent of his weight as an endowment to the temple. The maintenance of the pagoda afterwards devolved on the Bagalur Palaiakars.

155. DENKANIKOTTA

Betrayaswami Temple

Denkanikotta is fifteen miles south of Hosur, the taluk headquarters and is well connected by road. It is rich in forest produce. It is well known in the locality for its Betrayaswami temple. The etymology of the name of the town could be traced to the following legend associated with this temple. Kanva Maharishi who was performing penance in the neighbouring jungles was disturbed in his pious meditation by a demon called Dhevakandagan. The sage appealed to Batai Venkataramanaswami (or in short Betrayaswami), who slew the demon with his mace called Denkani. The town is named after this divine weapon.

There was a fort in this town, commanding the approaches from Dholi, Hosur, Keelamangalam and Anchitty ghat. It is also possible that the town is named after this Fort கோட்டை (kottai)—the fort in the south (Dakshina) or Denkani kotta. The ruined fort is on a hill to the west of the town proper. At present this part of the town is occupied mainly by Muslims.

Betrayaswami temple with its tank, is about half a mile to the south-east of the town. The temple situated amidst wet lands has roads on all the four sides. The temple faces the east and has a five-tiered gopuram at the entrance. There is another three-tiered gopuram on the northern side. On the top of each of the Gopurams, there are five (கவசம்) kalasams. The design of the pagodas follows the Hoysala style of architecture. The temple is well maintained and is one of the major temples of the district. It occupies a space of nearly an acre. There is only one prakaram. The image of the presiding deity, Venkatesa Perumal, with those of His consorts Sri-Devi and Bhoodevi are installed in the main sanctum sanctorum, with Suhanasigam, Arthamandapam, Mani mandapam and Maha mandapam. In the prakaram, there is another separate sanctum for His consort Soundaravalli Thayar with Suhanasigam, Artha Mandapam and Maha Mandapam. There are also images for Rama, Krishna, Hanuman and Alwars. Stone inscriptions are reported to exist within the temple. Arjuna, one of the Panchapandavas of the great epic Mahabaratha is said to have renovated the temple and performed Mahakumbabishekam and jeernodharanam. There seems to be a sthalapuranam in Kanarese. Every day, poojas are performed once in the morning and once in the evening, by a hereditary Vaishnava Brahmin Battachary of Thenkalai sect, following the rituals of Pancharatra Agama Sastra.

Vaikunta Ekadasi, Adi Pooram, Udayavar Uthsavam, Alwar Sathumurai and the annual car festival in the month of March-April சித்திரை (Chithirai) are celebrated in the temple. On such festive occasions, devotees from the adjoining Mysore State also visit the temple. A few devotees visit the temple on Fridays and Saturdays. As on 17—8—1961, the temple had jewellery to the value of Rs. 18,485/-. of which gold ornaments accounted for Rs. 7,546/-. The rest were made of silver. The images of the presiding deity and His consort are very impressive with these ornaments. The temple had an annual income of Rs, 3,435/- in fasli 1375. It possesses wooden vahanams like Garuda, elephant, horses etc. The temple is managed by a Board of three trustees.

KRISHNAGIRI TALUK

97. SEVVAMPATTI

Poongavanaththamman temple

Temples dedicated to Goddess Shakthi in Her different forms are common in the rural areas since people have implicit faith in Her powers to protect them from evils and diseases. Poongavanaththamman temple at Sevvampatti is one such temple.

Sevvampatti is about 20 miles about south-east of Krishnagiri, the taluk headquarters, 25 miles north-east of Dharmapuri on the road leading to Tiruppattur and about 5 miles from Kakangarai the nearest railway station. It is a rural Panchayat with 358 houses occupied by 363 house-holds consisting of 1,818 persons at the time of 1961 Census. Some 200 years back a fisherman noticed an ant-hill in the oven. He tampered with it, after which he was infected with leprosy. In his dreams, the Goddess made him realise that the ant-hill is none other than her own self and any attempts to destroy it will result in incurable infections and epidemics in the locality. Being frightened at the consequences of infuriating the all powerful Goddess, the fisherman constructed this temple for the ant-hill and his leprosy was cured. Subsequently, a few merchants belonging to Senai Thalaivar Community took shelter at this temple on their way to sell their merchandise of pepper and cumin seed (பீரகம்). Poongavanaththamman, the presiding deity of the temple approached them in the form of an old woman suffering from acute stomach ache and asked for a little pepper and cumin seed to get herself cured. The merchants told her that their merchandise consisted only of Cholan and Cumbu. Afterwards, when they opened their bags in their negotiations for sale, they were shocked to find Cholan and Cumbu in the place of pepper and cumin seed. Realising that the goddess had taught them a lesson, they spent the entire sale proceeds towards the renovation and reconstruction of the temple. Poongavanaththamman, otherwise known as Thandeswari is represented by an image of about 3 ft. installed Lingam. Daily poojas are performed in the month of December-January (Margazhi). During other months, poojas are performed only on Mondays by a non-hereditary priest belonging to the fisherman community. Sivarathri in the month of February-March (Masi) is the most important and sacred occasion, which attracts as many as 2,000 devotees. On that occasion the festival image of the presiding deity is taken in procession to Rudra Bhoomi (உருத்திர பூமி) Sudalai (சுடலை) or the grave yard. The image is brought back to the temple on the New Moon Day in a grand procession, which includes folk dances like (கரகம்) Karagam and dummy horse dance. On such occasions, if ghost-ridden people attend the festivity, some of the ardent devotees get inspired and whip the ghost-ridden severely, when the ghosts get terrified and fly away from the persons whom they possessed. The temple owns about 2.75 acres of dry land. In fasli 1375, it had an annual income of Rs. 200. It is managed by a single trustee.

HARUR TALUK

30. THEERTHAMALAI

Theerthagiriswarar temple

Theerthamalai is about 10 miles north-east of Harur, the taluk headquarters and about 18 miles east of Morappur, the nearest railway station. Buses ply between this place and Harur on the south-west, Uthangarai and Krishnagiri on the north-west and Kottapatti on the south-east. Theerthamalai which is a panchayat is known for Theertham or sacred water and the Malai or hill on which stands the temple. The hill of Theerthamalai is 3,220 ft. above sea level. It is one of the most conspicuous landmarks in Harur taluk. It lies about two miles beyond the junction of the roads running from Harur and Uthangarai to Kottapatti and is about 8 miles from Harur. At the foot of the hill is the panchayat with 2,422 inhabitants and a Siva temple surrounded by a typical quadrangular Car Street. There is another temple on the hill top. The hill is of very remarkable formation. From one side, it seems to be a narrow single peak, from another it has three distinct peaks and when ascended, the peaks multiply. Viewed from the north, a narrow ridge of magnetic iron stone, something like a hog's mare, runs up from the bottom for nearly three fourth of its height. The ledge is, on the upper side, not more than two or three feet wide and the perpendicular sides of this extraordinary vertebral column effectually prevent even the most daring climber from attempting the ascent from this point. Above this, the mountain, which is otherwise one mass of jungle, towers up into some half a dozen peaks, varying in height and not all are distinguishable from the same point of view. A flight of slippery steps leads for about three quarters of a mile from the foot to the temple at the hill top.

There is a small gopuram at the entrance of the Temple. Within the temple, there are three Vimanams, one for the presiding deity Theerthagiriswar, another for His consort Soundarambigai and the third one for the image of another Lingam known as Ramalingam.

According to local legends, Rama of the great epic Ramayana installed the presiding deity of this temple and offered poojas to get rid of (பிரம்ம ஹத்தி தோஷம்) the sin of killing a human being (in this context Ravana). Just behind the sanctum sanctorum of the presiding deity, water falls from a height of thirty feet. Independent of seasonal variations, the flow is claimed to be non-stop. A bath in the falls is considered to be sacred. According to the legend, Rama shot an arrow and created the falls so as to enable him to perform Abishegam or holy bath to the image of the presiding deity installed by him. It was therefore named after him as Rama Theertham. Similar legends exist for Agasthya Theertham, Kumara Theertham, Umayaval alias Gowri Theertham and Agni Theertham.

The temple occupies a space of about one acre. There is only one prakaram where there is a Mandapam named after Chila Nayakkan a Pandyan king. It seems Chila Nayakkan used to store his treasure in a large iron pot on the very summit of the hill, since it could not be stolen from that place.

In the year 1905, 19 stone inscriptions were copied by the Government Epigraphist from this temple. In one of them the alphabet used is Vattaluttu, but the inscription is too much damaged to be readily deciphered. Another epigraph mentions a king named Mallideva Maharaja who is conjectured to be a western Ganga. It refers to the gift of a village of Alambadi in Alaiyur Nad. The Characters used for this inscription appear to be somewhat older than the rest of the inscription. Chola rule is evidenced by 11 inscriptions which bear the familiar names Rajaraja, Rajendra Chola and Kulottunga; but to which monarchs they refer is not known. There are five Vijayanagar inscriptions, all of the First dynasty. They bear the names of Bukka II (1399 A.D.) Vijaya Bupati Raya, son of Deva Raya I (1409) Vira Vijaya raya Udaiyar (1411) and Deva raya II (1428 A.D.). Lastly there is a Telugu inscription dated 1697 A.D. on the south wall of the Chila Nayadu mantapam which refers to the setting up of the image of Kasi Viswanatha in the central shrine. Chila Nayaka appears to be the title given to a series of rulers whom legend connects with Theerthamalai, Tenkarai kottai and Salem.

Only one pooja is performed in a day by a Brahmin at the hill temple. Hundreds of devotees visit the hill temple on Fridays and New Moon days. The chief annual car festival is held in the month of February-March (Masi) which attracts nearly 10,000 devotees mainly from the adjoining North Arcot district. There are three wooden cars donated by Konga Vellalars and Vanniars about 70 years back. The temple also owns a Swan Vahanam, a peacock, a Rishabam and a Ravana image. It also reports jewellery worth Rs. 1,500/- which include a golden kasumalai, three silver crowns and a silver nagapasam. In fasli, 1375, the temple had an annual income of Rs. 3,165/- which includes a Government dastic allowance of Rs. 1,075/-. The temple is managed by a board of four trustees.

DHARMAPURI TALUK

18. KARIMANGALAM

Aruneeswara Temple

Karimangalam is 16 miles North of Dharmapuri on the national highways from Salem to Hosur and 18 miles North-west of Morappur, the nearest railway station. Its name was derived from Kari, King of Kovalur (the modern Thirukoyilur of South Arcot District) and whose name is celebrated in early Tamil literature as one of the latest seven philanthropists (கடைமுடிவள்ளல்) and who won Ori, another philanthropist who ruled from Kollihills and restored the hills to the Cheras. It is now a Panchayat with 1,228 houses and a population of 5,648 persons as on 1-3-1961. East of the town, there is a group of rocks of no great height, surmounted by the Temple of Arneeswara. It occupies a space of nearly one acre. Its entrance is on the south with a six tiered gopuram about 30 feet in height. The gopuram was reconstructed by one Rama Chetti in the year 1895. Its plaster ornamentation is mostly geometrical. Ryots of the neighbouring villages celebrate marriage at this temple. The image of the presiding deity Aruneeswarar or Aranya Eswarar (ஆரண்ய எஸ்வரர்) is represented by a six feet high Swayambu Lingam. His consort is known as Apithakuchambal and is represented by an image in a standing posture four feet in height. There are also images for Arumugar and Subramaniam over which there is a vimanam about 20 feet high. Two poojas are performed in the temple by a non-hereditary Brahmin gurukkal. This temple and the local Lakshminarayanawami temple have been constituted into a single Devasthanam which has a landed property of 7.5 acres. It possesses jewellery worth Rs. 500/-. In fasli 1375, it had an annual income of Rs. 1,624/-. It has a wooden car which used to be taken round during the annual car festivals of Panguni Uthiram and Navarathri, attracting thousands of devotees. However, the car is not in working condition and hence the festival has been temporarily suspended. There are wooden vahanams of a Rishabam, Horse, peacock, lion and Ravana. The Devasthanam is managed by a board of three trustees.

41. PALAKKODU

Parameswaraswami temple

Palakkodu is a place situated 14 miles north-west of Dharmapuri. 17 miles south of Rayakota and about 20 miles from Hoganekal. According to 1961 Census, it had a population of 8,604. It is a prosperous trade centre and the weekly shandy attracts heavy crowds. Products like coconuts, plaintains, betel leaf etc., from Sanat Kumaranadhi basin are offered here for sale. It has also good trade in grains, hides and skins. The inhabitants are mostly Chettians, Muslims and Brahmins. Near the site of the present Panchayat of Palakod there was, in ancient times, a village called Krishnarajapettai. One of its residents was much perplexed to find his cow, which was confined in a closed stable, discharging her milk every day on the ground, without keeping even a drop in the udder for the master's use. Instructed by some wise men, he dug up the ground and found a Lingam buried deep in the earth. He called the Lingam as Parameswaraswami, and built a temple for it. Krishnarajapettai in course of time falling into ruins, the sacred emblem was removed to what is now Palakod. It was formerly known as Thambigoundanhalli. One Baskararaja, a descendant of Jagadevaraja built the existing temple and consecrated a Lingam by the name Kshirapureswarar, or the lord of the city of milk. He also improved the town and changed its name to Kshirapuri, which has been supplanted by the vernacular Palakodu (Pal பால் = milk). The last syllable “கோடு” means a fort or stronghold. The usual ruined mud fort is east of the village.

The temple occupies a space of 15 cents. There is only one prakaram. The presiding deity is Parameswaraswami and His consort Parvathi. There are images for Vinayagar, Dhandayuthapani, Dakshinamoorthy, Parivara Someswarar, Nandhi, Chandikeswarar and Kalabairavar. Besides these stone images, there are festival images made of Panchalogam for Parvathi Parameswarar, Vinayagar, Parvadhambal Somaskandhar, Natarajar and Sivakami Amman. The sanctum sanctorum faces south. Two poojas are performed in a day by a non-hereditary Brahmin who is living within the temple and maintains the temple in a neat and orderly manner. While performing pooja, he wears a special yellow dhoti, which seems to be the practice in the adjoining Mysore State. Formerly the locality seemed to be a Brahmin locality but now Muslims predominate. About 10 to 15 devotees are reported to visit the Temple on Fridays, Kirthigai and Full Moon days of every month which are special occasions. Thai Pongal, Sivarathri, Karthigai Deepam, Panguni Uthiram and Tamil New Year's day are celebrated in the Temple. The annual car festival, attracting about 1,500 devotees, used to be celebrated for 12 days in April-May (Chithirai). However, the car festival has been suspended temporarily. The temple has a landed property of nearly 5 acres of dry land which fetches an annual income of nearly Rs. 800 along with a dastic allowance of nearly Rs. 600 from Government. The officials of the Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments (A) Department assessed an annual income of Rs. 1,974 in fasli 1375. The temple is managed by a board of two trustees.

119. DHARMAPURI

Malligarjuna temple

In and around the ninth century, Dharmapuri was known as தகடூர் (Tagadur) and played a prominent part in early South Indian history. The place is associated with Adhigaiman Neduman Anji அதிசைமான் நெடுமான் அஞ்சி one of the seven reputed philanthropists. A brief and broad history about him is given while describing Chenroya Perumal temple of Adhamankottai. Probably his time was 2nd century A. D. as Avvaiyar is stated to have lived in the 2nd century. The archaic epigraphs show also its importance in antiquity in the age of the Chera Kings. Subsequent to the Chera epoch and till about A.D. 931, it was the capital of the Nolambas as indicated by stone inscriptions. In the 12th century, Rulers of Tagadur under the Cholas, adopted the title Adigaiman or Adeiyaman. That they continued to rule over this place till the close of 13th century is evident from விடுகாதழகிய பெருமான் சாஸனம். (Vidukadhezhangia Perumal Sasanam).

The still attractive temple of Malligarjuna in Dharmapuri town is the standing monument of this ancient city considered to be famous with rich temples, 'pleasure-gardens of Kings and high enclosure walls', a centre of Jainism and Saivism. In the year 1901 the Government Epigraphist copied seven stone inscriptions of this temple. The inscriptions stand testimony to the historical importance of this temple.

Dharmapuri is one of the national highways, about 42 miles north of Salem. Till recently it formed part of Salem district and was only a taluk headquarters. Recently it has been made the District headquarters of the newly formed district named after this town. Attempts are being made to link the town by railways. To the north of the town, there was an ancient fort but the rampart was levelled during the Great Famine and its site is difficult to trace, except the Siva temple. Even though the presiding deity is known as Mallikarjuna, the temple is locally known either as fort temple or Kamakshi Amman temple. The temple has no gopuram. Vimanam over the temple of Kamakshi Amman is bigger than that on the temple of the presiding deity. In fact Amman Sannadhi itself is larger in size. Besides, Amman is also considered more powerful. The plinth is rather high and was constructed with stone. The stone was carved in such a way that in appearance, 16 elephants seem to support the temple. All round the base are found spirited carvings from the story of the Ramayana. There are also fine stone carving on the pillars and ceilings of the main temple. One of the pillars inside the temple stands in such a way that there is a gap between its bottom and the plinth on which it rests. A piece of cloth can be easily inserted in between them from one side and removed from the other. In style, the temple is so closely akin to Pallava that any casual observer with an eye to ancient architecture would not hesitate to pronounce it to be of the later Pallava style. The ground-plan, rectangular in scheme, is so arranged as to present 48 corners, and the consequent contrasts of light and shade are rather effective. Behind this temple, there is also a small temple dedicated to Para Vasudeva.

Malligarjuna temple occupies a space of 1½ acres and that of Para Vasudheva occupies 1 acre. Two poojas are performed every day. Fridays are considered more sacred and on that day about 200 devotees visit the temple. Both the temples together had an annual income of Rs. 2,828 in fasli 1375, mainly by way of rent from shops owned by the Devasthanam and Dastic allowance from the Government. The jewellery in the temple is worth Rs. 1,000. The temple has a car. The chief annual car festival is celebrated in the month of (April-May) Chithirai which attracts about 5,000 devotees. The temple is managed by a Board of five trustees.

129. KOOOTHAPADI PANCHAYAT

Dhesanadheeswarar Temple at Hogenekal

Hogenekal is twenty-five miles west of Dharmapuri the taluk and district headquarters and is connected by a good tar road. It is a very good picnic spot with sylvan surroundings. Besides, it is at the confluence of Cauvery river with Chinnar. Here the main stream leaps 80 ft. into a chasm. While so doing, it causes a cloud of spray, which resembles a huge mass of smoke and hence it is known as 'smoking rock' or Hogenekal. There is a scheme under the consideration of the Government to harness these waters generating power. Hindus consider it sacred to have a bath in the water falls.

River Cauvery is one of the nine rivers considered sacred in the country. What Ganga is in the North, Cauvery is in these parts. In early Tamil works like Silappadhikaram and Manimekalai, it has been glorified. Tradition has it that this river becomes enceinte or pregnant in the month of Adi (during which period it is in freshes) and develops a desire for a variety of food called 'Chitrannam'. As a result, a great river festival takes place in all the places through which Cauvery flows. On the festival day, popularly known as Adipperukku or Padhinettamperukku (eighteenth day of the Tamil Adi month) when the river reaches its maximum capacity, many Hindu women go to the bank of the river with several delicacies and offer them to Goddess Cauvery with all materials of worship to fulfil her desire for 'Chitrannam'. Such ancient celebrations is புனலாடல் (Punaladal), greeting the freshes in rivers may have been precursor of this. River Cauvery enters the Madras State at the south-western corner of Hosur taluk. After flowing for some distance from west to east, it takes a southerly course and falls 80 feet at Hogenekal. It is in the fitness of things that the bathing ghat at the place, of majestic charm in an awe-inspiring manner, is also considered to be a sacred one. Sage Valmiki is reported to have had an Ashram here.

Dhesanadheeswarar Temple is one or two furlongs from the bathing ghat. The temple occupies a space of nearly 40 cents. There is only one prakaram. The image of the presiding deity Dhesanadheeswarar is a Lingam supposed to be installed by sage Agasthyar. His sanctum sanctorum faces east. His consort is Thrupurasundari. Images of Brahma, Lakshmi, Vishnu and Durga are kept here without any worship. They are reported to be found in the river near Alambadi, about three miles away from this place. A Brahmin from a nearby village visits this temple every Monday and performs pooja. In the absence of the priest, devotees themselves offer their worship. Nearly 1,000 to 2,000 devotees, mainly Brahmins are claimed to visit on Ekadasi and Full Moon days. About 5,000 to 10,000 devotees are reported to visit the bathing ghat and the temple for the annual celebration of Adipperukku or Padhinettamperukku, which normally falls in the first week of August. The temple has 26 acres of dry land which normally yields an annual income of Rs. 500. In fasli 1375, Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments (A) Department authorities assessed the annual income as Rs. 200. The temple is managed by a Board of five trustees.

139. ADHAMANKOTTAI

Sri Chenroya Perumal temple

Adhigaiman was one of the seven celebrated philanthropists of Sangam age (கடைசேயமு வள்ளல் கள்). He was the supporter of the well known Tamil poetess Avvaiyar who has left many songs about him and his son. The place Adhamankottai is named after this great patron of Tamil literature. Adhamankottai is on the national highways at the 6th mile south-west of Dharmapuri on the way to Salem. There are four temples in Adhamankottai, two on either side of the main road and all of them belong to Vijayanagar and later periods. There are traces of a mud fortification enclosing them. Chenroya Perumal temple is on the west of main road.

The temple is a Vaishnava temple consisting of a Garbhagriha and a mukhamandapa in front of which is a miniature shrine for Garuda. The temple has been declared as a protected monument and deserves importance in view of the colour paintings on the ceiling on the mandapa. Various scenes from the Ramayana, Bhagavatha and Mahabharatha are depicted in great detail all over the ceiling of about 40' x 30'. Various gods and goddesses and the landscape are executed in a good way. 'Sita in Asokavana', 'Lankadahana' and the 'Mahabharatha' battle deserve special mention. The paintings are said to belong to the late 17th or 18th century A. D.

The temple faces the east and occupies a space of 50 cents. The roof of the gateway is in a bad condition. The ceiling slabs are dislodged and attempts are being made to reset them in position. There is no gopuram but there are two vimanams, one for the presiding deity and another for Garuda. Pooja is performed only once in a week (i.e.) on Saturdays by a hereditary Brahmin priest. The temple has landed properties from which the annual income for fasli 1375 was estimated at Rs. 200. The chief annual festival is celebrated in the month of சித்திரை-வைகாசி (April-May) and attracts a crowd of about 1,000 persons. But for this and other festival occasions, the temple is not visited by many devotees as is the case with most of the temples in the District. As the place is being linked up with railway and as the new Collector's Office is being built close to this temple and in view of the archaeological department's efforts to highlight the importance of its ancient paintings and the association of this place with one of the cherished ancient Tamil kings, the temple may attract more visitors in the days to come. At present, the temple is managed by a Board of three trustees.

OMALUR TALUK

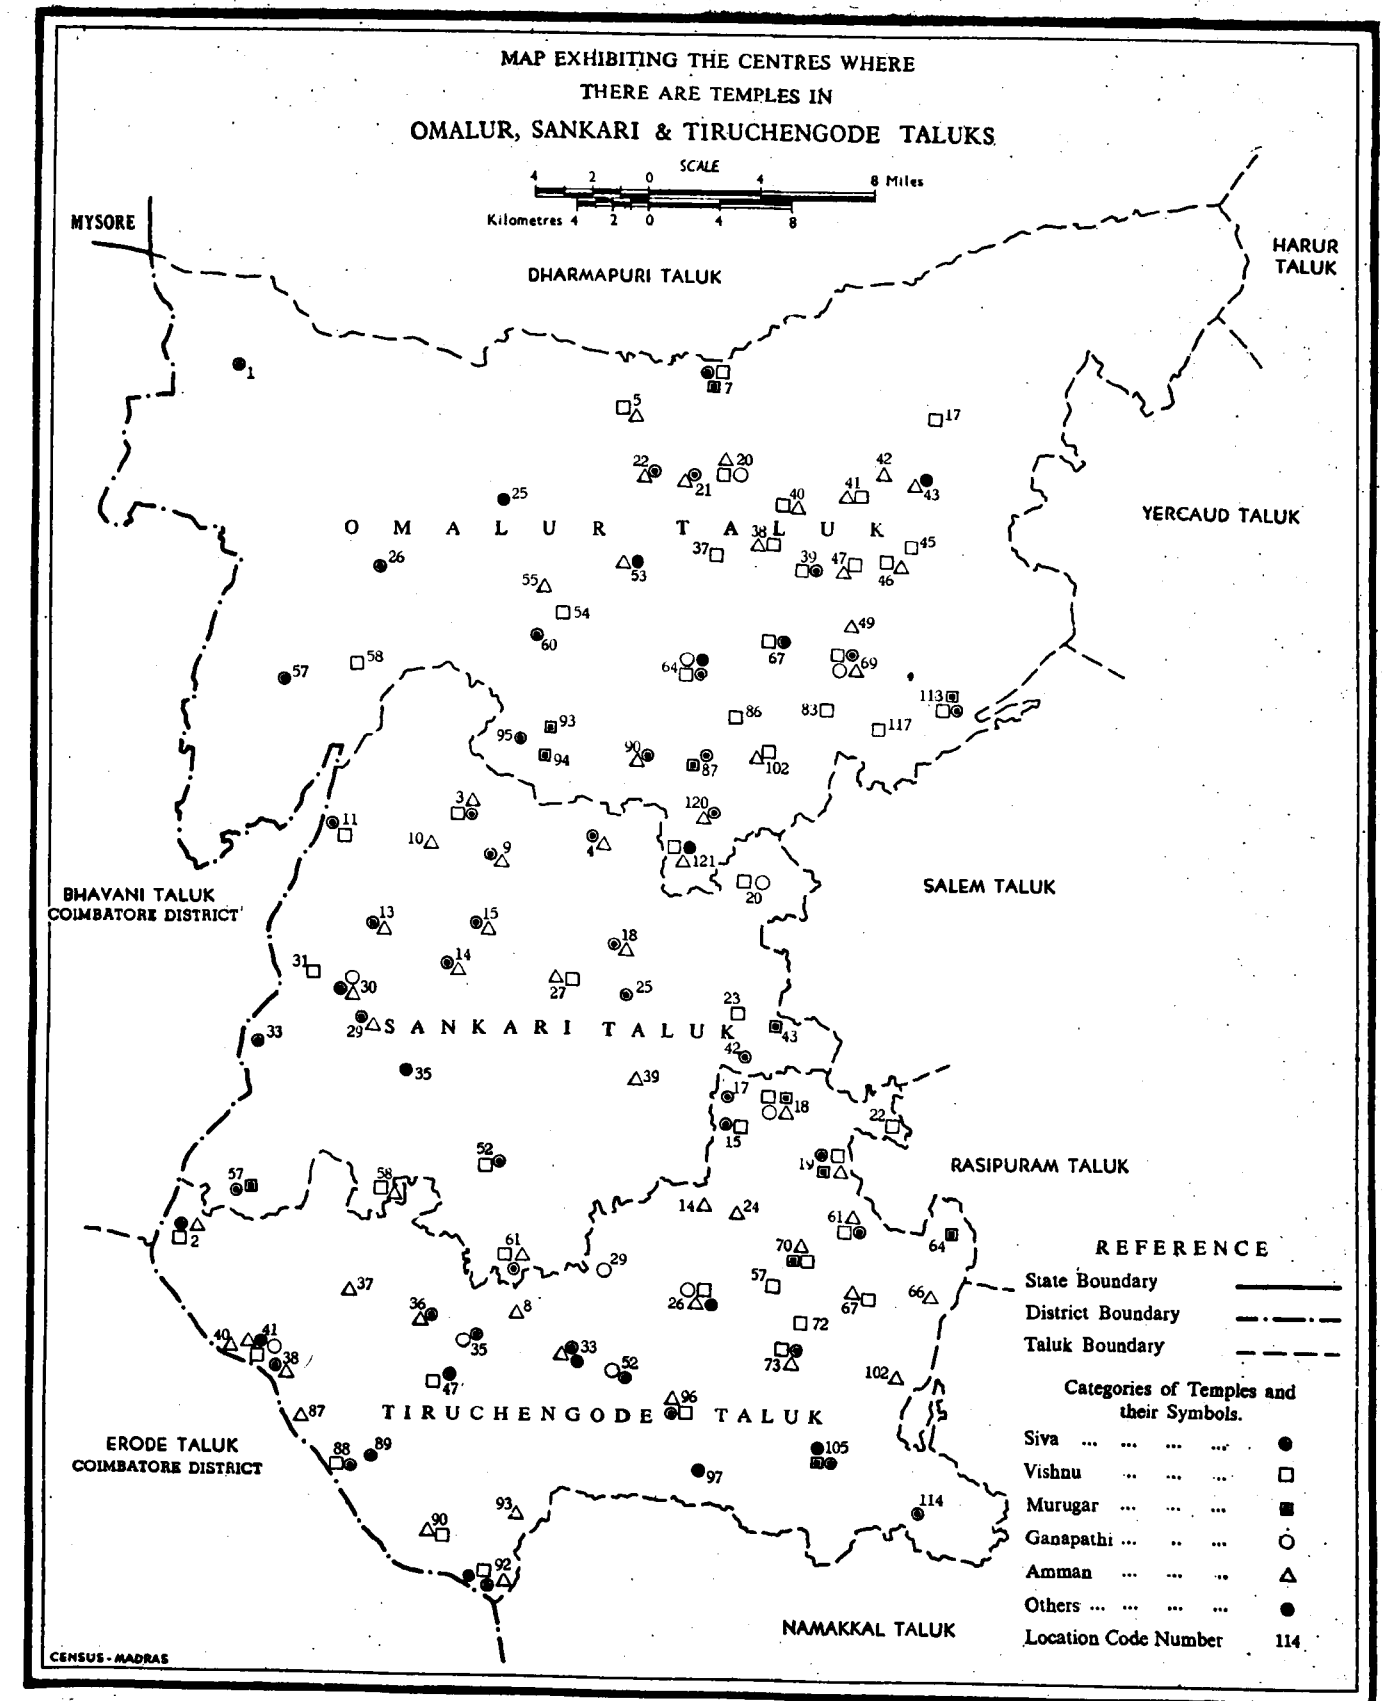

22. MECHERI

Badrakaliyamman temple

Mecheri is about twenty miles north west of Salem, the district headquarters, 9 miles north west of Omalur, the taluk headquarters, about 12 miles north east of Mettur Dam and about 2½ miles from Mecheri Road, the nearest railway station. It is well connected by road and rail. At the time of 1961 Census, it had a population of 11,230. This place is noted for the production of household utensils in soap stone by the local artisans. These vessels have wide popularity. The name Mecheri is said to be a corruption of மேய்ச்சல் + ஏரி (grazing + lake or tank), the tradition being that the buffaloes of the Gatti Mudaliars, which dragged the stones for the Taramangalam temple from the quarries at Enadi (Pambarapatti), were driven for pasture to the tank at Mecheri. Much of the existing residential area is said to lie in what was formerly the waterspread of the tank. A shandy is held every Wednesday. A great cattle fair is held at the time of the chief car festival in Masi (February) of the local Badra-Kaliyamman temple, both of which draw nearly 50,000 people from Salem, Dharmapuri, Namakkal, Tiruchengode and even from Tiruchirapalli and Madurai districts.

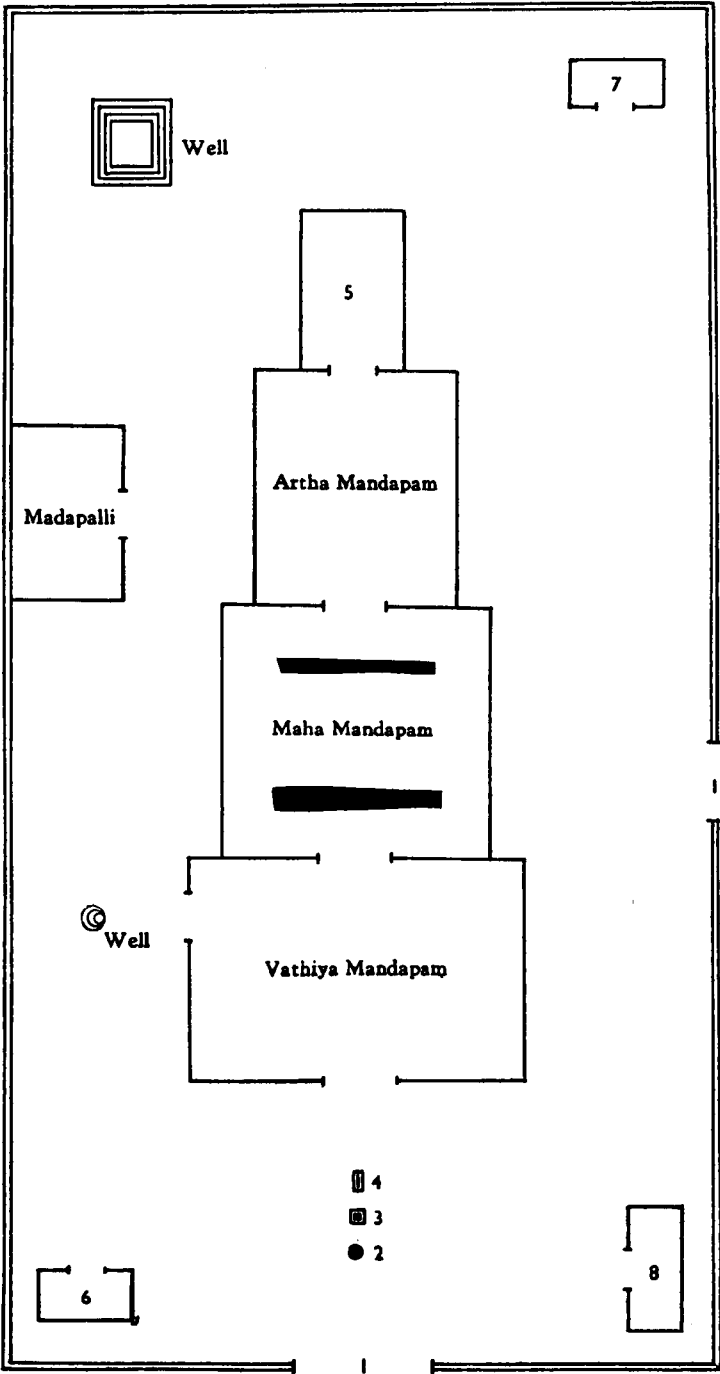

Badra-Kaliyamman temple occupies a space of 76 cents and is surrounded by a large compound wall. The entrance faces north and is surmounted by an unfinished gopuram in a dilapidated condition. There is another small gopuram on the western wall. There is only one prakaram. There is a tiled front mandapam which is said to be a recent addition where there are four big statues of about 12 feet in height. Two of them are males and two females representing பூத கணங்கள் (Boothaganangal) normally encountered in the temples of village deities. Besides, there are coloured wall paintings representing Badrakali and மீனாட்சி திருக்கல்யாணம் (the celestial marriage of Meenakshiamman). There is another Mahamandapam supported by stone pillars. Horse statues, normally found in temples of village deities, are in ruined conditions in the prakaram. Even though this temple is dedicated to village Goddess, its structure follows more or less Agamam principles. There are images for Virappan, Vignesvara and Bhairavan. The stone image of the presiding deity Badrakaliyamman is an installed one of six feet in height. With about Rs. 5,000/- worth of jewellery, the image is very much impressive. Three poojas are performed daily by a hereditary non-Brahmin priest belonging to the local Kulalar Community. However, devotees, numbering nearly one hundred, visit on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. About two hundred devotees visit on New Moon days. Navarathri and Car festival are the two annual festivals. As already indicated, the annual car festival is attended by nearly 50,000 devotees. There are three cars, two Rathams, one palanquin and four vahanams, all of which are wooden except a brass Kamadenu Vahanam. In fasli 1375, the temple had an annual income of Rs. 803/-. The affairs of the temple are managed by a Board of three trustees.

40. KARAVALLI

Prasanna Venkataramanaswami temple

Prasanna Venkataramanaswami temple in Karavalli (Marakkottai) Panchayat is otherwise known as சின்னத் திருப்பதி (Chinna or small Tirupathi). It is a rock temple. There are 830 houses in the panchayat. At the third mile from Omalur, on the National Highways from Salem to Bangalore, the road branches towards west and then takes a turn towards North. At the fifth mile on this branch road lies Chinna Tirupathi. Thimmappatti on the Salem-Jalarpet section of the Southern Railway is the nearest railway station, about 5 miles east of the panchayat. After a new branch of railway line is opened, there will be a railway station for the local panchayat itself. The panchayat is well known in the nearby localities for the weekly shandy on Saturdays and the Vishnu temple. The hillock is a small one but gives a good appearance with the temple on its top, occupying a space of 230 ft. × 118 ft. The temple is surrounded by a wall of brick and mortar with one prakaram. The built up area of the temple occupies a space of 100 ft. × 29 ft. There is no gopuram at the entrance, but there is a Vimanam over the sanctum sanctorum. The image of the presiding deity is in a standing posture of about 5 ft. His consort's image is in Artha Mandapam. Venkatachalapathy is the presiding deity and Alamelu Mangai is His Consort. There are also images for Anjaneyar, Ramanujar, Thirumangai Mannar, Udaiyavar, Vishvakshenar and Vinayagar. The presiding deity of this temple and that of Tirupathi in Andhra Pradesh are said to be brothers. According to local legend, both the brothers applied oil at Tirupathi and came over here for அரப்பு (Arappu or soapnut powder). The elder brother returned to Tirupathi but the younger one took abode here itself. Daily one pooja is performed by a hereditary Brahmin. Saturday being the local shandy day, about 50 devotees visit the temple on that day. Gokulashtami, Vainkunta Ekadasi, Ugadhi, Karthigai Deepam and the annual Car festival in the month of Purattasi (புரட்டாசி)

(September–October) are the festivals celebrated in the temple. The only wooden car is of recent origin, built some 30 years back. The car festival, which coincides with Navarathri is claimed to attract 5,000 devotees. The temple owns Rs. 1,000 worth of jewellery. In fasli 1375, the temple had an annual income of Rs. 3,270/-. The temple is managed by a single trustee.

49. BALBAKKI

Kaliamman Temple

Balbakki is a village about two miles north of Omalur, the taluk head quarters. At the time of 1961 Census, there were 249 houses inhabited by 1,455 persons. The village is well known in the nearby localities for its village deity Kaliamman. The temple is a small one said to have been constructed by one Guruvan poojari about 100 years back and subsequently renovated by Kailasa Mudaliar. The Temple has no gopuram or prakaram. It occupies a space of about 10 cents. But the rural folks have more faith in the temple and consider the deity more powerful. Mondays and Fridays are considered to be sacred. Poojas are performed only on these two days in a week by a hereditary Chettiar. The Temple has two wooden cars. The chief annual car festival is celebrated for three days commencing on Wednesday in the month of மை (Thai-January-February). It attracts a crowd of 5,000 to 10,000 devotees. There are festival images for Mari and Kali. They are kept on a swing in the front Mantapam. At the entrance, there are two big images of about 6 ft. in height one representing a male பூதம் (Bootham-Demon) and the other representing that of a female. This is the usual practice in the Temples of Village deities. Over the main sanctum sanctorum a small Vimanam with three Kalasams (கலசம்) has been constructed. Structurally it follows the pattern of a gopuram. In fasli 1375, the Temple had an annual income of Rs. 904/-. The Temple has no landed properties, but derive its income from the offerings of devotees. A Board of five Trustees manages the affairs of the Temple.

87. TARAMANGALAM

Kailasanathar Temple

On the way to Mettur dam, about 15 miles north-west of Salem lies Kailasanathar temple of Taramangalam, which is widely known for the excellent stone carvings on the pillars. A view is held that this had come up in the first half of the seventeenth century, the golden period of Madura Naickers. The origin of the temple is ascribed to three generations of Gatti Mudaliyars. It is believed that Gatti Mudaliyar had a dream about the hidden Lingam, the image of Kailasanathar the presiding deity and built the temple with the treasure lying north of it about which also he had a vision in the dream. The origin of the temple was however long antecedent to any of the Gatti Mudaliars as there is a reference to this temple in a stone inscription dated 1268 A. D. of the Hoysala King Vira Ramanatha. Signs of bow and arrow, tiger and fish, the three emblems of Chera, Chola and Pandya Kings together with வாடாமல்லிகை and வண்ணத்தடுக்கி (a flower and sitting mat) the emblem of Gatti Mudali are found every where in the temple.

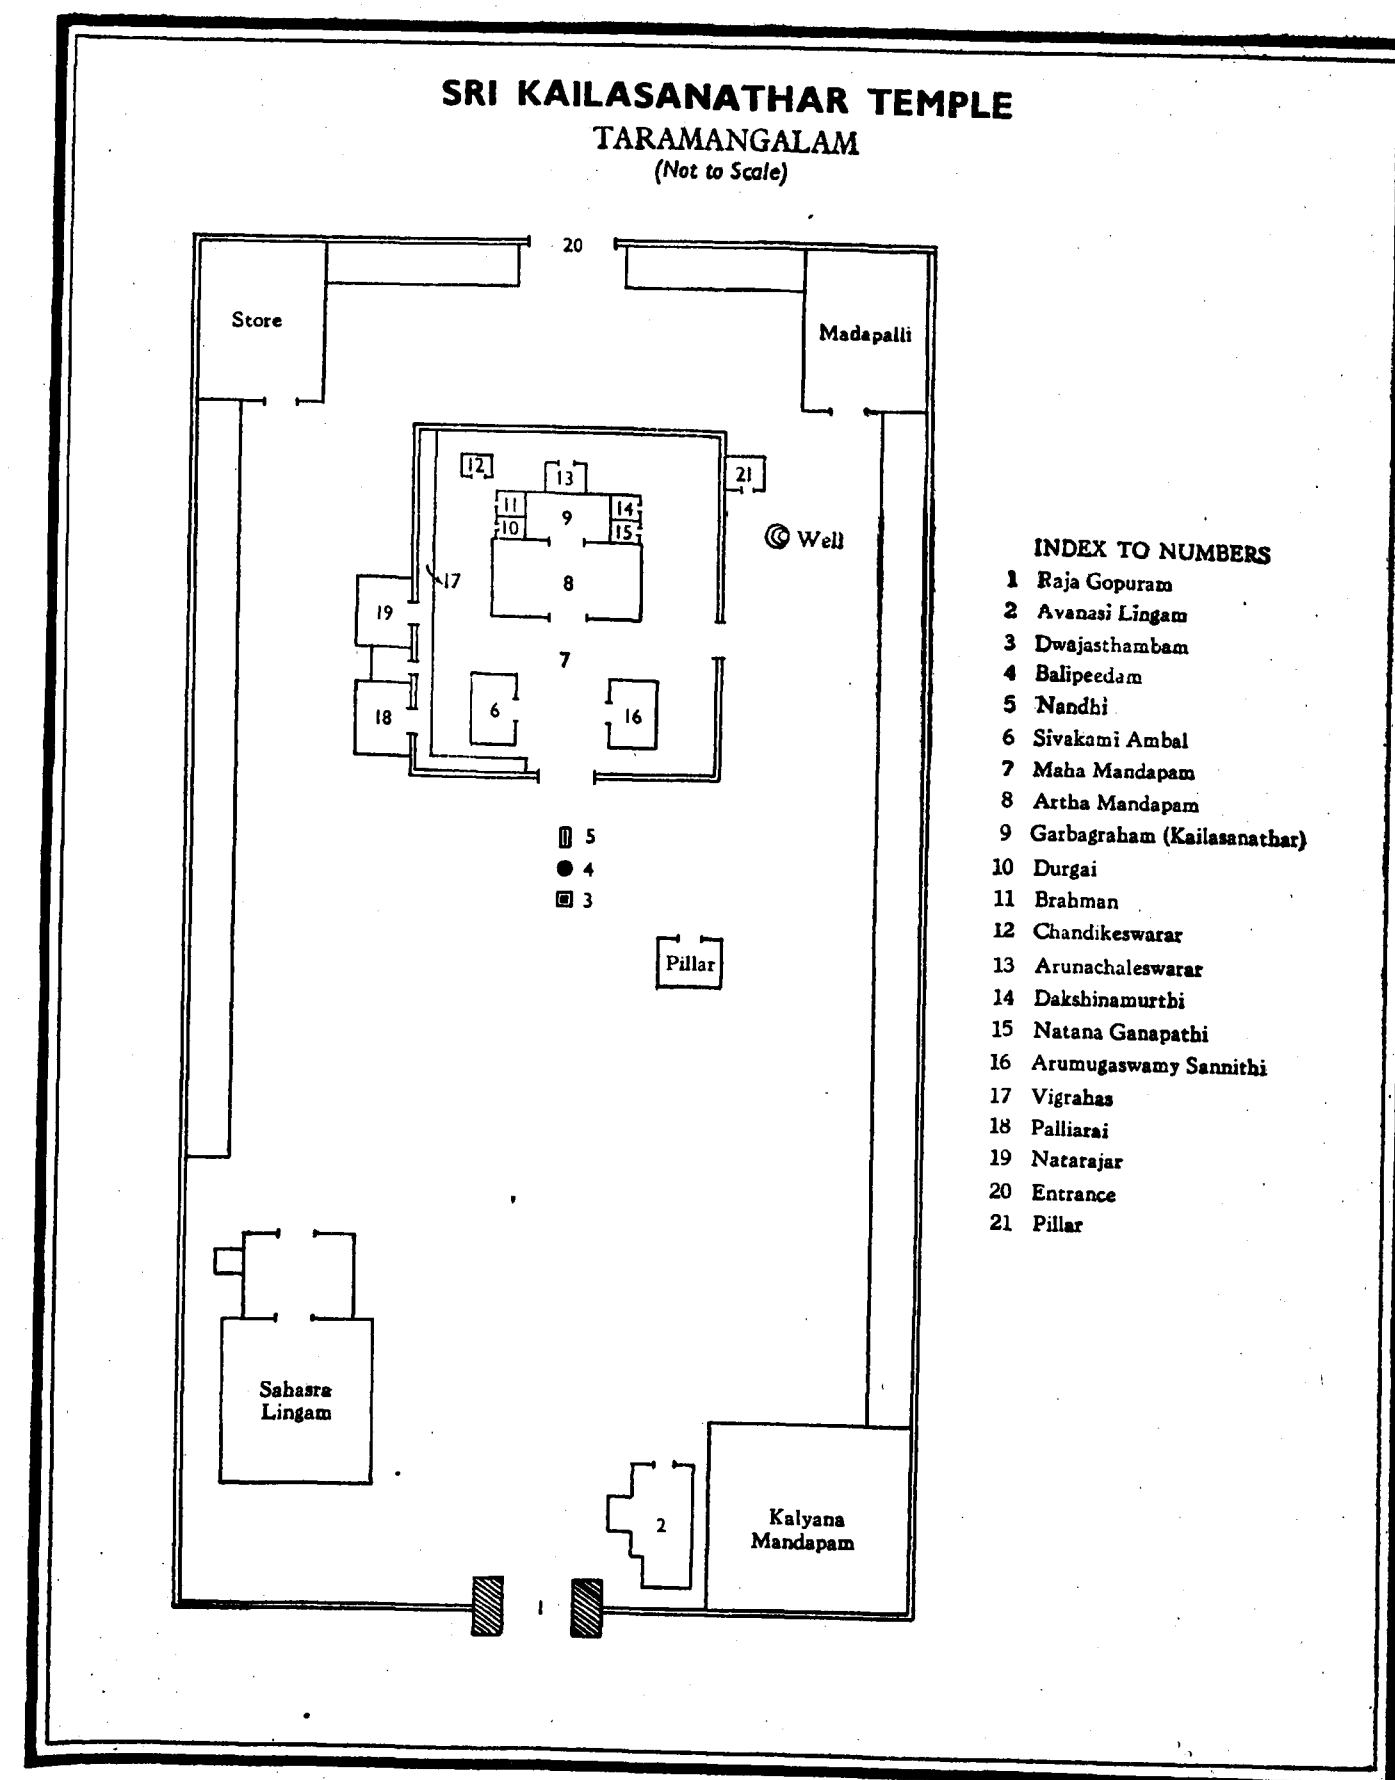

The temple has two prakarams and covers an area of about 300' X 160'. Its walls are sculptured with figures of tortoise, crocodile, fish etc. In contrast to the normal procedure, it faces west and the outer prakaram is below the entrance level resembling the temple at Tiruchengode. The entrance has a fine tiered gopuram and panelled doors of vengai wood. They are studded with metal knobs of varying patterns and the panels contain wood carvings depicting stories from puranas. The sides of the flight of steps which descends from the threshold of the entrance are carved to represent a chariot drawn by elephants and horses

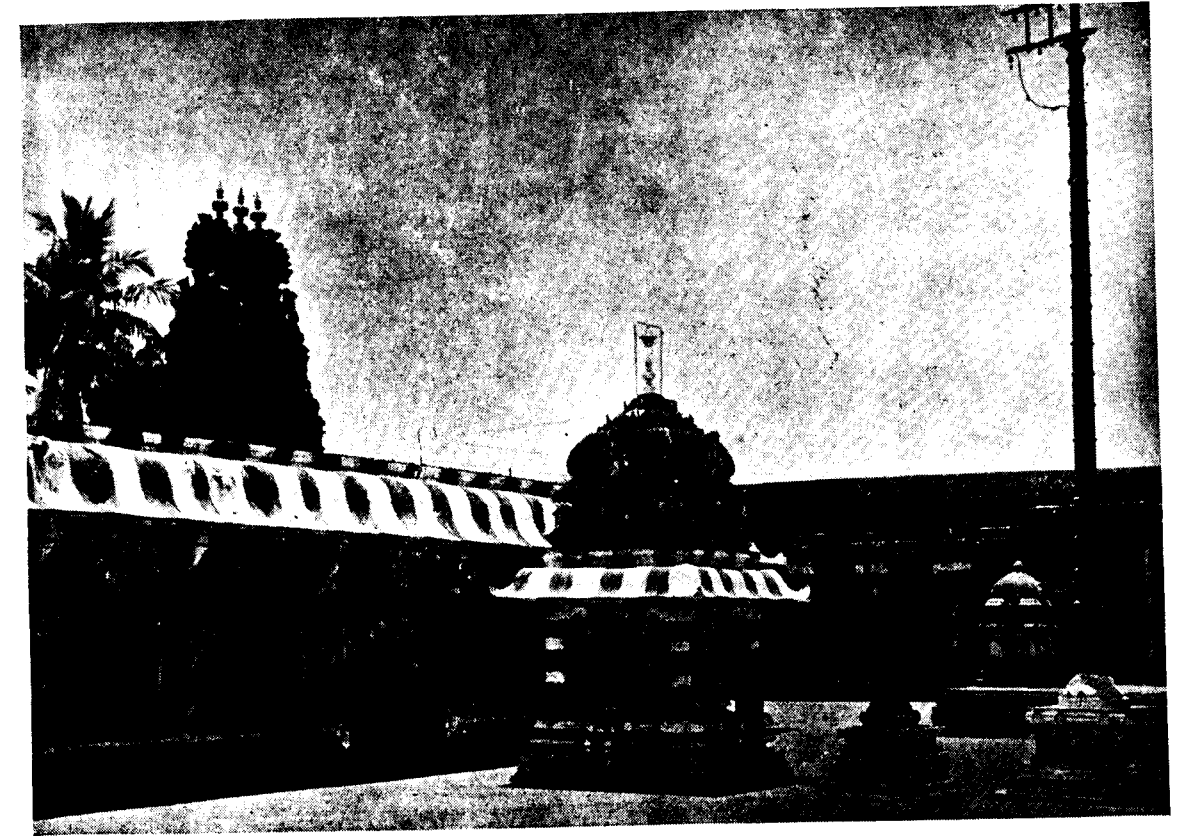

There is a Nandhi at the outer prakaram over which there is a canopy. Its pillars and ceilings have stone carvings representing Arjuna's contest and certain adventures of Krishna. Sun's rays pass through the horns of Nandhi and falls on the presiding deity from 9th to 13th of the Tamil month Masi.

At the south west corner of the outer prakaram, there is a small temple for Vinayagar. Its whole structure is made of nine stones. It is said that the artisans engaged in the stone carvings were too haughty and egoistic. Their chief therefore constructed this temple of nine stones without any assistance to prove that he can produce a monumental work operation. There is also another account according to which it was the achievement of a small boy, an artist, who did it when the elders were engaged in constructing the main temple.

There are six pillars at the entrance to the inner prakaram. Horses are carved in four of the pillars and yalis in the other two. There is a ball of stone about 4" in diameter in the mouth of one of the yalis, which rotates freely inside the mouth but cannot be extracted. The cornice of the portico is cleverly carved with monkeys in natural attitudes. This portico leads to the mahamantapam and inner prakaram which have the finest stone carvings.

The ceiling of the mahamantapam is decorated by a block of stone 7 feet in diameter, carved in the shape of an inverted open lotus with parrots pecking its petals. There is a stone ring at the centre which rotates freely round the stamen but does not come out of pistil. Chains carved out of stone, are also hanging from the pillars supporting the ceiling. One to three stone balls rotate freely in the mouths of yalis over the pillars. Below the lintel level of the pillars there are stone sculptures which include Siva and Vishnu manifestations, saints etc. In two of the sculptures, the artisans have used the basic principle of the path along which light travels and visibility of an object. By applying these principles, an image of Sri Rama was carved out of a stone from where another stone image of Vali is visible but not the reverse. Some technique has been applied in the stone carvings of Manmathan and Rathi, by which Manmathan is visible for Rathi but Rathi is not visible to Manmathan.

The image of the presiding deity, known as Kailasanathar is a swayambu lingam and faces west. There are separate sanctums for Sri Sivagami Amman His consort and Lord Subramaniam, which face east. Poojas are performed twice a day. The chief annual festival used to be celebrated in the month of தை (January-February) but is not celebrated after 1961 for want of funds. The annual income for fasli 1375 has been estimated as Rs. 5,504. The temple is managed by a board of five trustees.

To the north-west of the town, there is an octagonal well, enclosed by a circular parapet wall adorned with lions. The lower portion of the wall is square. If a stone is thrown on the parapet wall, it goes round the wall and reaches the same place.

3. SHEVAROYS

Shervarayan temple at Asambur

The hills of Salem and Dharmapuri districts are noted for their picturesque beauty. Shevaroy hill situated in the central region of Yercaud taluk, covering about 100 square miles is one among them. Some of the peaks in this hill range are above 5,000 feet. An estimated quantity of 6.7 million tons of good bauxite is found in Shevaroy hills. A road to the bauxite mine branches from Yercaud-Nagalur road. Shervarayan Temple is at the second mile on this branch road. But for this two miles of rough surface, it is well connected by tarred roads with Yercaud, the taluk head quarters and Salem the district headquarters, which are at a distance of 6 and 25 miles respectively. The age of this cave temple is claimed to be 1,000 years. Thirty years back, a small stone mantapam and a tin shed were erected in front of the cave by the villagers of Asambur. However, neither historical nor mythical account is available about the origin of the cave and its temple. The temple occupies a space of 50 cents. In front of the temple, there is a well, which is considered sacred and which never dries up. In outward appearance, the temple will look like a very small tin shed. But the inside of the cave temple extends upto a distance of about 20 yards with a height of about 5 to 6 ft. Shervaraya Perumal is the presiding deity. His consort is Kaveri Amman. On Mondays and Wednesdays of every week a priest from a hereditary Malayala Gounder family from Manjak-kottai, a nearby village, visits the Temple, cooks rice and performs pooja with coconut and plantain. It is obligatory on his part to be a strict vegetarian. When, at one time or other, almost all the tribal or village temples performed animal sacrifice either openly or in a secret way, it is really strange to hear that there is no sacrifice of fowl or animal at any stage in the known past. The temple celebrates an annual festival on the Full Moon day in the month of Vaikasi வைகாசி (May-June). Nearly 10,000 devotees congregate at this temple on that occasion. Almost all the tribal people visit the temple. Special buses are arranged for the occasion. About 100 temporary shops are reported to shoot up on that occasion. About seven years back, the temple acquired a wooden palanquin and about six years back a silver vahanam was acquired. The temple owns five acres of wet land, which is enjoyed by the priest as a service inam. The temple reports jewellery to an estimated value of Rs. 1,500/-. The temple derives its income mainly from hundi collections and offerings by devotees which is reported to be Rs. 250/-. The temple is managed by a single trustee.

According to one of the views about the nomenclature it is said that the term 'Shervarayan' is a corruption of 'Seru Rayan' or deity worshipped by Chera dynasty. Another view is that the temple would have been a Siva temple in the unknown past and 'Shervarayan' is a corrupted version of 'Siva Rayan'.

69. SALEM

Sukavaneeswarar Temple

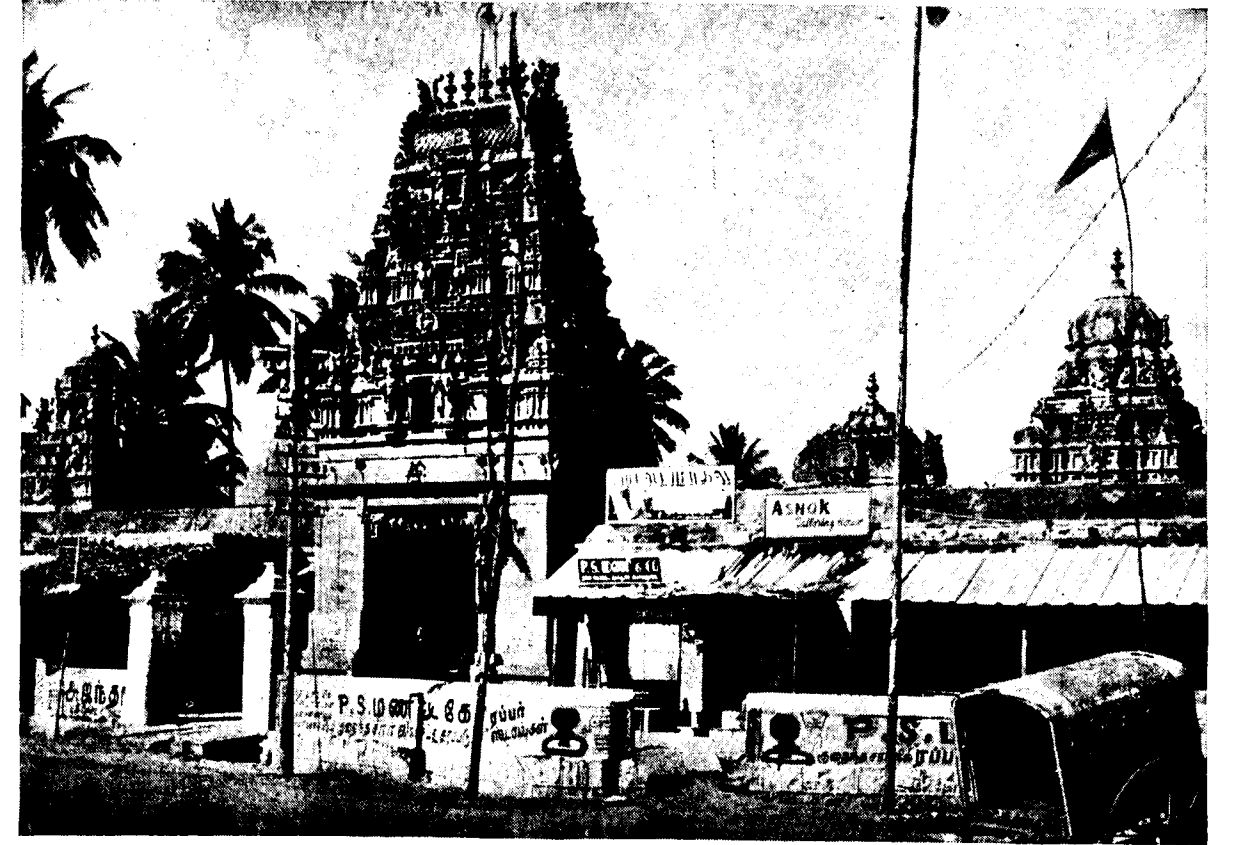

Salem, the headquarters of the district of the same name is the State's fifth large town with an area of 7.89 square miles and a population of 249,145 persons. It is a leading handloom weaving centre. It is gradually turning out to be an industrial centre. A good number of Hosiery knitting Mills are well established here. It is well connected by road and rail with the State's capital. The chief Siva temple of this place is the Sukavaneeswarar temple. At the heart of Salem town, lies Sukavaneeswara temple. It is about four miles from Salem junction and two furlongs from Salem town. The temple stands on an area of about 75 cents, facing east. It has two entrances, on east and west each, two mandapams and a tank. At its north east corner is a separate sanctum sanctorum for Amman. Vinayagar and Arumugar images are in the south-west and north-west corners of the temple. Besides, there are images of sixty Nayanmars, four saints and seven goddesses on the southern side; of Ayyappan, Gangalamurthy, Kasiviswanathar, Pancha Bootha Lingam, Kalaimagal, Gaja Lakshmi and Jeshta Dhevi on the western side; of Chandekeswarar on the northern side and of Bhairavar and Surya Bhagavan on the eastern side of the only Prakaram.

The image of the presiding deity is a Swayambu Lingam facing east. The presiding deity is known as Sukavaneeswara, which means the Lord of the parrot and also of forest. According to a legend, Brahma cursed sage Suka to be a parrot. Once Vachchirakanthan, a hunter aimed at a group of parrots. The parrots took shelter in an ant-hill. The hunter destroyed the ant-hill and was killing the parrots. But sage Suka in the form of parrot, tried to protect with stretched wings the image of the Lingam, hidden under the ant-hill. However, as soon as the ruthless hunter struck at this parrot, it got redemption from the curse and became once again sage Suka.

The antiquity of the temple is testified by Chola and Pandya inscriptions. In one of the Chola inscriptions the name of the deity is given as Kili Varnam Udayar (the Lord in Parrot colour). He is also known as Patteeswarar, Nageeswarar, Pavanasar and Mummudinadhar and consequently the place is also referred as Patteeswaram, Nageeswaram, Pavanasam and Mummudi Thalaivasal. According to local legends, the place is known as Sukavanam because the sage Suka got his redemption at this place; as Patteeswaram because the divine cow Kamadhenu worshipped the Lord at this place, as Nageeswaram because Adhi Sesha, the serpent King performed poojas and attained divine status at this place; as Pavanasam because the Devas were absolved of their sins after performing poojas at this place and as Mummudi Thalaivasal because all the three crowned Kings (Cheran, Cholan and Pandyan) offered worship at this place.

“திங்கள் குடையுடைச் சேரனும் சோழனும்
பாண்டியனும்
மங்கைக்கு அறுகிட வந்து நின்றார் மணப்பந்தலிலே
சங்கு ஒக்க வெண்குருத்து சுன்று பச்சோலை சலசலத்து
துங்கக் கண் முற்றி அடுக்கண் கறுத்து நுனி
சிவந்து
பங்குக்கு மூன்று பழந்தாவேண்டும். பனந்
துண்டமே”

The above is a song by Avvaiyar, the famous Tamil Poetess classified as ஐந்தடிக்கலித்துறை in Tamil literature. Avvaiyar belongs to the Sangam age (A.D 100 to 250) and has composed many Tamil poems and couplets of pedagogical nature such as Aththichchoodi, Kondraivendhan, Moothurai, Nalvazhi etc. which give moral directives both to the young and old of all nations. Some of her songs, it is believed, had magical power too. In fact, a few of her life accounts are beyond one's belief, being clothed in magic and miracles. Yet it is an historical fact, that this old poetess was closely connected with Athiyaman Nedumananji, one of the seven philanthropists and the three crowned Kings of Sangam age. It is said, once the Poetess arranged for the marriage of Angavai (அங்கவை) and Sangavai (சங்கவை) (according to another version to Pirevi, daughter of a shepherdess Madhavi). The three crowned Kings attended the marriage in response to a personal invitation by the poetess, but demanded that Nongu (நொங்கு) i.e. the tender kernel of the palmyrah fruit should be served to them, knowing fully well that it was out of season for it. Without hesitation or being perturbed over the demand, Avvai immediately sang the above song by addressing the palmyrah wood pieces lying nearby. It is said, the pieces instantaneously became a full grown palmyrah tree and yielded the Nongu (the tender kernel). To symbolise this incident, there is an image of three spherical stones together, in front of Valampuri Vinayagar's shrine at the southwest corner of the temple prakaram. Whether this legend has any link to the name of this place as Mummudi Thalaivasal referred to already or whether the story narrated in connection with a temple in Athur taluk also has some truth behind it, is a matter for deep study.

The image of Amman in standing posture is very impressive. She is known as Swarnambigai Sonnammai Maragadhavalli and Pachchai Nayagi. Her sanctum sanctorum is at the northeast Corner of the temple facing south.

In those days, there was a deep circular well called Amanduga Thirtham or frogless spring in between the presiding deity and His consort. Adhishesha the serpent of thousand heads is said to have frequented the well and frightened all the frogs away. Even if a frog is dropped into the well, it is said to turn black and die. At the renovation in 1947 the well was closed and a colourful image of Nandhi was constructed on it.

There is a reference to this temple in Tiruppugazh (திருப்புகழ்) by Arunagirinathar. Ten inscriptions are found in this temple. They were copied in the year 1888 as items 42 to 51. These stone inscriptions are found on both sides of the entrance to the sanctum sanctorum of the presiding diety, on the pillars of the Nirutha Mandapam, and on stones at the entrance to Amman's shrine. These stone inscriptions relate to the periods of Ko-Parakesari Varman, Ko-Rajakesari Varman and Sundara Pandian, whose period has been fixed as 1275 to 1302 A. D. Even though the temple is an ancient one, it presents a modern appearance. It may perhaps be the result of renovations. It is claimed that Kalyana Mandapam and four-pillared Mandapam in front of the temple was built in 1823 out of donations by Davis, the then District Collector. Subsequent renovations were made in 1947 and 1961.

According to an estimate made by the Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments (Administration) Department upto the end of 1964, the temple had jewellery worth Rs. 44,550. The annual estimated income for fasli 1375 is Rs. 20,033. Of this, the major source is the rent from immovable properties consisting of about 120 acres of wet and dry lands, 8 car sheds, 5 shops and a house-site. The temple gets Rs. 1,800 by way of dastic allowance from Government and Rs. 2,000 by way of hundi collections. It has wooden vahanams of a horse, a rishabam, an elephant and a palanquin.

Poojas are performed five times a day by a non-hereditary Brahmin Gurukkal. The temple celebrates almost all the Hindu festivals, which includes a procession on the first of the Tamil month ofதை (middle of January) to the locality known as Guhai. The chief annual festival is celebrated in the month ofவைகாசி (May-June). The executive management of this shrine vests in a Board of five trustees through an Executive Officer.

69. SALEM

Kottai Mariamman temple

Temples dedicated to Mariamman are many in Salem Town. Kottai Mariamman temple is located at the heart of the town, about 5 furlongs from the town railway station. It is claimed to be about 500 years old and got renovated in the year 1881 by one Nagammal. Structurally, it had no special feature. It occupies a space of 100 ft. x 50 ft. In front of the sanctum sanctorum, there is a Mantapam with 48 pillars surmounted by a gopuram. However, the structure does not follow the conventional pattern laid down in Agama Sasthras, normally encountered in Siva or Vishnu temples. The image of the presiding deity is about 2½ feet in a standing posture. A single pooja is performed in a day by a hereditary non-brahmin, belonging to Andi Pandaram community. The presiding diety is considered to be very powerful. Nearly 3 lakhs of devotees from all over the district are claimed to visit the temple at the time of the chief annual festival in the month of Adi. (July-August). The festival lasts for twentyone days

A view of the mantapams in the Sukavaneeswarar Temple.

The festival image of the presiding deity is taken in procession in various vahanams, which include those of flowers, snake, rishabam, two headed bird, elephant, parrot, lion, annam, yali, horse etc. Offerings are made by the devotees in the form of tonsure shaving, silver or gold coins, cooked rice, seedlings etc. In view of the big crowd on the festival occasion, an exhibition is organised in Salem town to coincide with this annual festival. Till December '62 the devotees offered jewellery to an estimated value of Rs. 14,896. The Temple owns a shop and landed property to the extent of 2 acres, which fetch an annual income of Rs. 2,100. The overall income of the temple during fasli 1375 was assessed at Rs. 13,798. The temple is managed by an Executive Officer and a board of five trustees.

69. SALEM

Kumaragiri Dhandayuthapani temple

Kumaragiri Dhandayuthapani temple is a hill temple in Ammapettai on the easternmost part of Salem Town. Salem East is the nearest railway station about $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles from the temple. The temple is about $2\frac{1}{2}$ miles from the town proper and about a mile from the State Highways connecting Salem and Attur. The temple is of recent origin and its history goes back to about 40 years. One Karuppannaswami of Ammapettai was its founder. Karuppannaswami is the only son of a local weaver family belonging to Sengundha Mudaliar community. Right from his early childhood, he led a devotional life with his wife and eight children—six males and two females. Once, he came into contact with a Brahmin Sanyasi, who had plans to offer Karuppannaswami as a human sacrifice to Kali, but abandoned his plans at the last moment in obedience to a command from Kali Herself in his dreams. After this, Karuppannaswami turned a true ascetic, gave up his material assets and made a pilgrimage to Palani. There he had a vision of the presiding deity Muruga and a command to build a temple at Kumaragiri. He fulfilled the command by establishing this hill temple. After his death, his wife and he were buried at the foot of the hillock. The hill is about 950 ft. in height, with a flight of steps. There is a lake at the foot of the hill. There are also a Kalyana Mandapam and a 'Dhyana Nilayam' (தீயான நிலையம்) at the foot. There is also a Jamboo tree (நாவல் மரம்) at the foot of the hill, to remind the devotees of the wellknown legend of Lord Muruga's pun with the great and eminent Tamil poetess Avvaiyar for hot fruits. On the midway between the foot and the top, there is a small mantapam for taking rest. At the top, there are images for the presiding deity Dhandayuthapani, Idumban and Vinayagar with a mantapam in front of the sanctum sanctorum. Structurally, the temple gives a modern look with electric lights and a vimanam in the style of gopuram. The image of the presiding deity is 3 ft. high. Three poojas are performed in a day by a non-hereditary Sengundha Mudaliar. Fridays, Sashti, Kirthigai and Full Moon days are important occasions. Panguni Uthiram (பங்குனி உத்திரம்) is the chief annual festival and is claimed to attract a lakh of devotees. The temple has $4\frac{1}{2}$ acres of barren and 3 acres of wet lands. The value of the temple jewellery is reported to be Rs. 1,500. In fasli 1375, the temple had an annual income of Rs. 3,277. The temple is managed by a board of five trustees.

85. BELUR

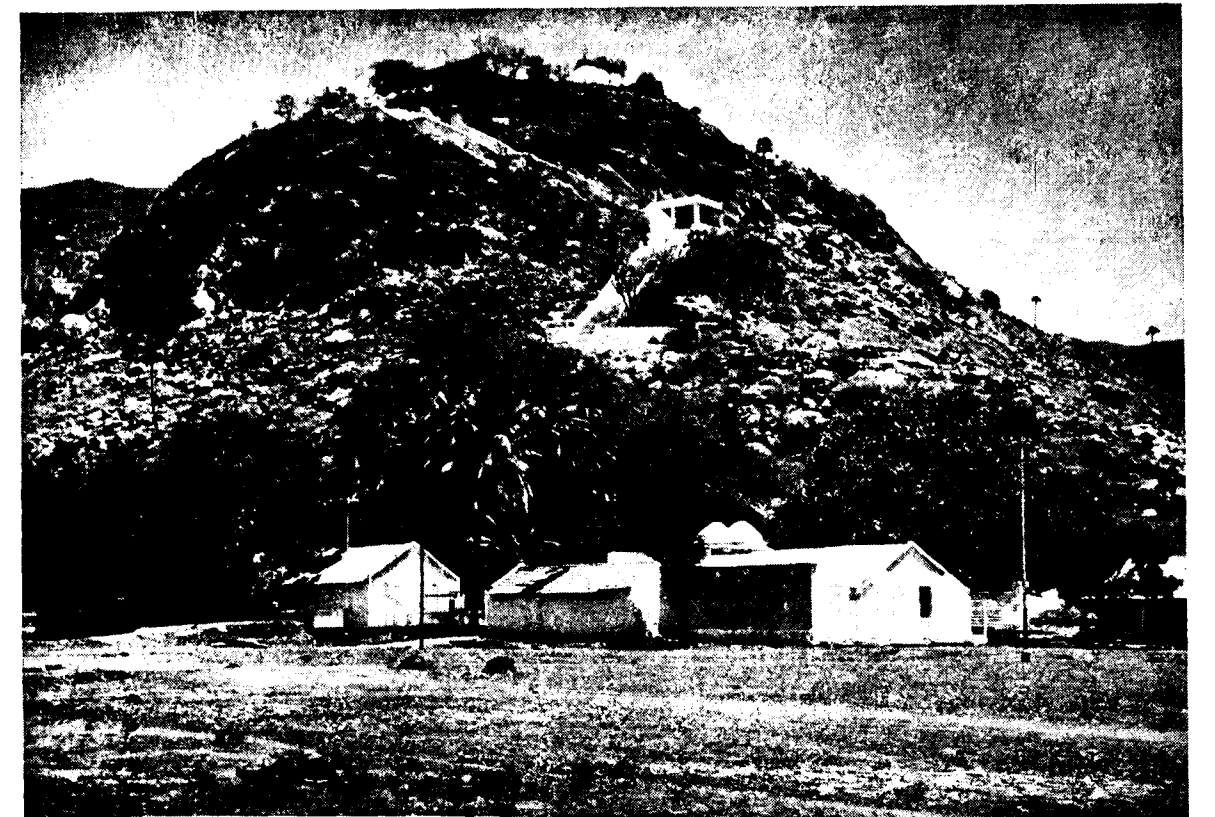

Sri Thanthondreeswarar temple

Belur is on the border of Salem and Attur taluks and is about twenty miles east of Salem. It is connected by bus and train, the nearest Railway Station Vazhappadi being three miles away. One who proceeds from Salem by road has to travel about 15 miles east on the National Highways towards Athur and then take a turn towards North. At the fifth mile lies Belur on the banks of Vellar river otherwise known as Vasishtanadhi (வசிஷ்ட நதி). In the local sthalapuram, the place has been referred to as Thiruvallore (திருவள்ளூர்). It was published in the year 1927 with 653 verses grouped into 13 sarukkams (சருக்கம்) or chapters. The place has also been mentioned as Veliyur (வெளியூர்) in the stone inscriptions.

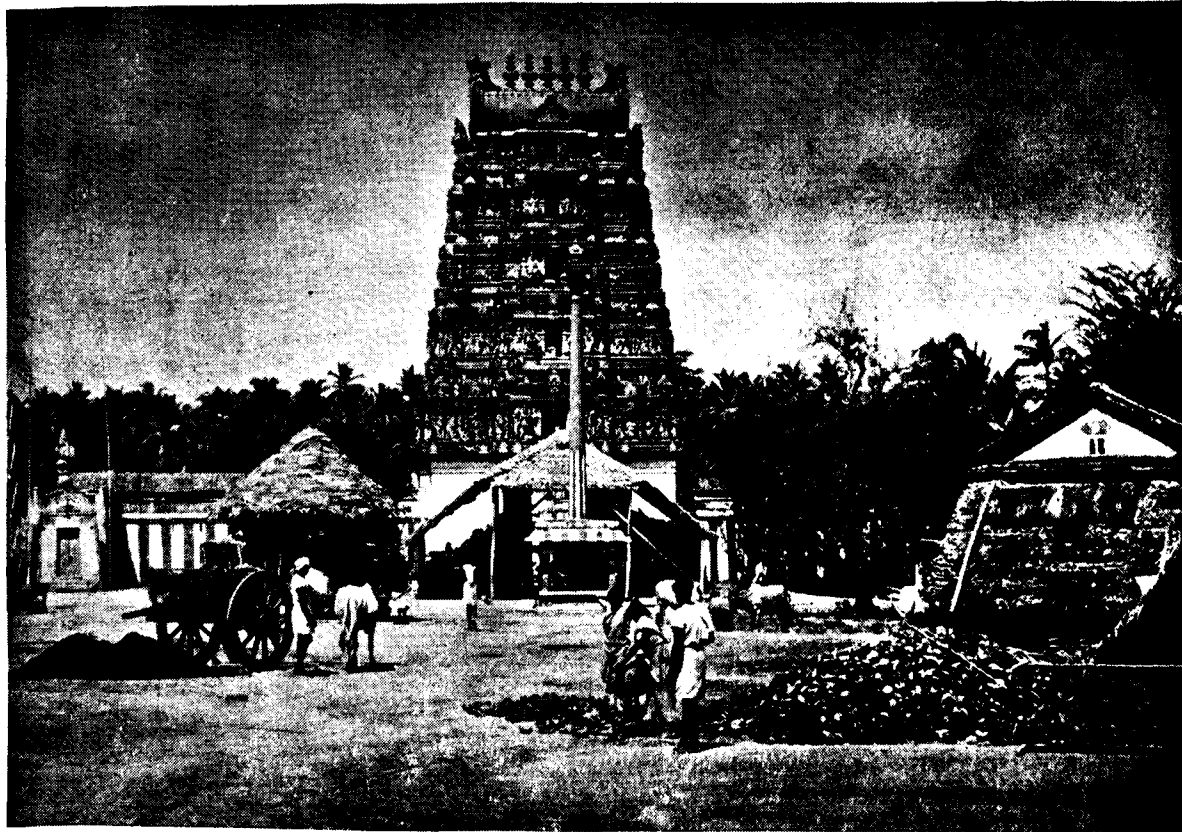

The image of the presiding deity Thanthondreeswarar of the local Siva temple is a Swayambu Lingam. His consort is known as Aram Valartha Thayar (அறம் வளர்த்த தாயார்) or Dharma Samvardhini (தர்ம சம்வர்த்தினி). Besides the sanctum for the presiding deity and His Consort, there are separate Sanctum Sanctorum for Subramaniam, Vinayagar and Arumugar. The temple is claimed to be very old. From its outward appearance and from the presence of stone inscriptions, the claim seems to be quite reasonable. But the claim that there existed a big fort and the place was once occupied by a royal dynasty is a matter for investigation. However, in the past the temple must have assumed more importance than at present. Even though there is no gopuram, the stone carvings and the massive structure of the temple are impressive.

Sri Kothandaramaswami Temple, Ayodhyapatnam.

Front of the mantapam in the temple.

A sculpture of Tirumalai Naik in the temple.

There is only one prakaram. Large number of devotees visit the temple on Mondays, which is also the local shandy day. Not knowing the damage that is caused to the temple, they cook their meals all round the prakaram. Unless some steps are taken to discourage this practice the beauty of the stone carvings may be impaired. The temple covers an area of about 5 acres, with nearly 200 pillars some of which contain stone carvings of good workmanship. There is a square mandapam of about 25' X 25' in front of the temple.

According to a local legend, once a merchant, dealing in pepper, halted at the site of the present temple and while grinding his curry-stuff, blood came out of the grinding stone. As he slept that night, Siva appearing before him asked what the merchandise which he carried with him consisted of. To this the merchant replied that he had black gram (உளுந்து) in his sacks. Next day he proceeded on his journey to Ulunthurpettai in South Arcot District and on unloading his goods he found, to his utter disappointment that all his pepper had been turned into black-gram. In answer to his prayers Siva restored the original merchandise. The trader realising the divine act, built this temple at Belur. Inside this temple is an Iluppai tree, which is said to have got transformed from a jack tree by the curse of sage Vasishta and is likely to become a mango tree, a myrobalan (கெல்லை) tree and finally get re-transformed as jack tree. It is said that the seeds of this tree do not grow. It is believed that sage Vasishta lived under the shadow of a Vilva tree near the hamlet Kurichi, 5 miles away from this temple and performed a yagam (யாகம்). The white soil in the neighbourhood is supposed to be the ashes of the yagam performed by him. Even to-day, the white soil is taken from there and distributed to the devotees instead of the conventional holy ash that is normally distributed in temples. This temple is considered to be one of the five sacred places representing the five natural elements of sky, earth, fire, air and water (பஞ்சபூதம்), on the bank of Vellar river, the others being the temples at Ethapur, Aththur, Aragalur and Koogaiyur all of which are east of Belur.

Two poojas are performed in a day by a hereditary Brahmin. In fasli 1375, the temple had an annual income of Rs. 2,394/—. The temple owns dry lands to the extent of 20 acres, which is being leased out. There is an old wooden car, a palanquin and a ratham in the temple. But all of them are in disrepair. Devotees congregate in large numbers on Mondays and New Moon days, Karthigai Deepam, Arudhra Dharishanam Thai Poosam, Masi Magam, Sivarathri and Panguni Uthiram are the festivals celebrated in this temple. This temple is managed by a Board of five trustees;

Utsavar idols in the temple. (Sita, Rama, Lakshmana and Hanuman)

94. AYODHIYAPATNAM

Kothandaramaswami temple

Ayodhiapatnam is about five miles east of Salem on the State Highways towards Athur. It is more or less a suburban area of Salem Town and is connected with Salem by town bus. Masinayakkanpatti is the nearest railway station about 3 furlongs away. It is a Panchayat with 1,112 houses and 5,255 persons at the time of 1961 Census. Tradition connects the place with Sri Rama and hence the name Ayodhiapatnam or 'City of Ayodhya'. On his way back after conquering Ravana, Rama is believed to have stayed here for a day. There is a temple dedicated to Rama or Kothandarama. Its entrance faces east and is surmounted by a five tiered gopuram 150 feet high. There is only one prakaram. The front Mahamandapam is spacious with pillars of good workmanship. There are three musical pillars at the north east corner of the Mandapam. The cornices and horse pillars are reminiscent of the Madura style of the period of Tirumala Nayak. Four figures carved in the Mahamandapam are said to represent Tirumala Nayakar, his wife and two sons. The temple occupies a space of 1½ acres with a Mahamandapam, and an Arthamandapam. The image of the presiding deity Kothandaramar with that of his consort Seethalakshmi is in the sanctum sanctorum. The stone image is about 3 ft.

There are also images for Anjaneyar and Alwars. Two poojas are performed in a day by a hereditary Brahmin. The annual car festival is celebrated in the month of Chithirai (சித்திரை April-May). It attracts local devotees and devotees from other parts of the taluk. The temple owns immovable property in the form of dwelling houses and about 67 acres of dry land. The temple also possesses some charitable endowments in the form of Devadasi Inam lands. There is a wooden car of about 20 feet in height. There are also wooden Vahanams of Anjaneyar, horse, Elephant, Alwar and a palanquin. In fasli 1375, the temple had an annual income of Rs. 1,854. The temple is managed by a single hereditary trustee.

107. PERUMAMPATTI PANCHAYAT

Sri Sidheeswarar temple at Kanjamalai

Kanjamalai about 14 Kilometres west of Salem has recently come to limelight by virtue of its abundant resources of raw materials required for steel manufacture. But it is better known from ages past for one of the seven mutts of "Siddhars" the celebrated saints of the Tamil Nad. Before giving an account of this temple three interesting legends associated with the temples are given below :

According to one of the legends in the Sthalapuram, Adhigaiman the famous and renowned Tamil King, was on a sojourn to Kanjamalai. He met a Siddhar and requested him to give him some medicine, which will avoid death and obtained the legendary "Nellikany" ("நெல்லிக்கனி") from him, which he gave to the famous Tamil Poetess, Avvaiyar. This incident finds a reference in almost all the ancient Tamil literature such as "Paththuppattu of Sirupanatruppadi", ("பத்துப்பாட்டு சிறுபாணாற்றுப் பாடல்") "Purananooru" (புறநானூறு) "Avvai Thanippattu" (ஒளவை தனிப் பாட்டு) "Vadamalai Venba" ("வடமலை வெண்பா") and "Thirukkural" ("திருக்குறள்")

According to another legend in the same Sthalapuram, once upon a time, there lived a Brahmin by name Sundaram in the village of Vedha Mangalam of Kalinganad. Being convinced that Saivism is the best of all the six religious systems, he devoted his entire life by visiting all the "Siva Sthalams", worshipping Lord Siva, the first among all Gods. Finally, he reached Sri Karpuranadhar's temple at Uthamacholapuram on the banks of the "Panjakkara Nadhi" (பஞ்சாக்கர நதி) now known as "Thirumanimutharu" ("திருமணிமுத்தாறு") worshipped the Lord and spent the rest of his life in offering pooja daily to Lord Siva. He performed a severe penance, for over one thousand years, desiring to have a dharshan of Lord Siva in the specified form. Pleased at his severe penance, the Lord appeared before him in the same guise as desired by him, gave him a dharshan and told that he took him as his third son, along with his two other sons "Sri Ganapathi" and "Sri Murugan". Then He asked him to pray for any boon, which He would gladly and readily grant. Thereupon, he prayed that he should attain "Siddhi" ("சித்தி") in this worldly life itself and be eternal without any death. Accordingly, the Lord granted him the boon and told him that during "Kritha", "Thretha" and "Dwapara" yugas ("கிருத, திரேத, துவாபா" யுகங்களில்) he would continue to worship him with the same physical body and in the "Kali Yuga" (கலியுகம்) without any form. He further said that from then onwards, his abode will be unchangeable and he will guard the black forest of "Kanja Malai Hill" with his name as Kanja Malai Sidhar.

A third legend describes that a Brahmin came to this hill with his disciple for attaining "Kayasidhi" ("காயசித்தி") i.e., to enable him to contract his physical body like a solid stone. His disciple was a grey-haired old man. He instructed his disciple to cook food for them and went to the forest in search of some medicinal herbs. While stirring the boiling rice in the pot with a stick, the disciple found that the cooked rice was rendered black in colour. Being afraid of serving this spoiled "black rice" (கறுத்த ரேசுறு) to his guru, he consumed the entire food, himself. To his great astonishment, he found him converted into a blooming youth of sixteen years, with black hairs. When the guru returned, he could not identify his disciple, and asked him about his disciple. The disciple narrated the entire history of how he became young. When he was questioned about the stick, he replied that he threw it into the fire. On this, the guru persuaded him to vomit the food that he had taken. The guru ate the food vomitted by his disciple and he too became a blooming youth with a hardened body like his disciple and thus attained "Kaya Sidhi". There is also a speculation that these two are Tirumular and Kanjamalai Siddhar respectively. In this context it is interesting to note that even to-day there is the custom among the devotees to cook food and keep it at a particular spot. It is then distributed to all by one of the members of a specific Gounder family.

Whatever be the truth behind the last legend it indicates the importance of Kanja Malai as a hill renowned for herbs and plants with extraordinary characteristics and medicinal effects. In fact even now the devotees attach more importance to a sacred bath in the stream that flows there. It has recently been established beyond doubt that the rocks in the hill contain mineral resources. Perhaps this is the cause for the healing effects attributed to the water and plants of the hill. Kanjamalai Reserve forest is a hilly tract running from east to west on the border of Sankari and Salem taluks. Its height ranges from 2,000 to 3,300 feet above mean sea level. Magnesite Mining was going on for some time. It is also said that iron and gold were also mined in ancient times. There are a large number of streams on the hill. Devotees have great faith in such streams attributing sacredness. The temple dedicated to Siddhar is at the foot of the eastern slope of the hill on the border of Eelangamsolai Panchayat of Sankari taluk and Perumampatti Panchayat of Salem taluk. It can be easily reached from Salem which is about eight miles away from the temple. Recently another temple dedicated to Lord Murugar has also been constructed. It is significant that all the places where Siddhas are believed to have lived are being converted as sacred places for Lord Murugar. The presiding deity in Sidheswarar temple is in a sitting posture in the form of an ascetic and faces east. There "Artha Mandapam" ("அர்த்த மண்டபம்"), "Maha adapam" (மஹா மண்டபம்) and a sixteen pillared mandapam. It is said that this temple was constructed by one Sri Katti Mudaliar, a staunch devotee of Sri Sidheswarar, about 300 years ago. It covers an area of about 35 cents. It has a 30' high pagoda, with circumference of about 70', apart from a single pramam. The sthalapuram of this shrine has been published by Sri C. A. Ragunadhan of Chinnppampatti village, in Salem district, which contains several extracts from Kongu Mandala Sadhagam, Thirumandhiram and Karpuranathar Sthalapuram of Uthamacholapuram.

A single pooja is performed daily in the morning, at 10:30 A.M., by a hereditary Brahmin gurukkal, who is in the enjoyment of service inam lands. He is also entitled to receive the offerings of the devotees. The temple does not own any jewellery. There are no immovable properties for the temple, except 3½ acres of service inams lands, gifted to the temple gurukkal, pipers, garland makers, watchman of the temple garden and other servants. The temple derives an annual income of Rs. 3,000/- through hundi collections. Besides, the temple also gets an additional income of about Rs. 2,400/-, by way of charges levied for performing archanas, Abishegas and "Mudi" prarthanas, (tonsured hair) by the devotees, at scheduled rates, as given below :—

	Rs. P.
Archana	0.28
Abishegam	1.00
Mudi Prarthana	0.50

Further, the temple is getting a dastic allowance from the treasury of the Tiruchengode taluk and from the Sukavaneswarar Devasthanam Fund of Salem, amounting to a sum, not exceeding rupees one hundred, annually.

Maha Sivarathri and Chithra Pournami are the two important annual festivals celebrated here, apart from the monthly Amavasai and the Thai Amavasai. These festivals attract a crowd of not less than 6,000 to 7,000 devotees from Salem, Dharmapuri, Omalur, Sankari and Tiruchengode taluks. As special importance is given to the Amavasai festival in this temple, "Kanjamalai" is also called as "Amavasai Malai". During festivals the agriculturists of the neighbouring villages, used to bring large quantities of various foodgrains, cook them and offer as "Neivedhiam", before the "Sannadi" of "Sri Sidheswarar" and take a morsel of "Neivedhiam" each. They believe to reap a bumper crop of the particular foodgrain, which they were lucky to get from the "Neivedhiam". Large groups of devotees used to assemble and partake during the monthly Amavasai days. Particularly, the crowd will be very great, during the Adi and Thai Amavasai days.

The shrine was managed by the descendants of Pattakkara Gounder belonging to the Vanniakula Kshatriya community of the adjoining villages, in ancient days. One among them by name Sri Ponnuswamy Gounder of Kosavapatti, was connected with the administration of the temple affairs, as its Managing trustee, for a very long time. Now, the temple is being managed by a Board of three trustees, functioning through an Executive Officer, all appointed by the Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments Board.

SANKARI TALUK

18. KACHCHUPALLI

Selliandiamman temple

At the first mile north-east of Sankari on the National Highways towards Salem, a road branches towards north and leads to Omalur via Konganapuram and Taramangalam. At the ninth mile on this branch road lies Kachchupalli. According to 1961 Census, it had 1,424 houses occupied by 5,984 persons. It is locally known for the village deity Selliandi Amman. The Temple is in the midst of fertile land. Unlike other village shrines, this temple is maintained in a good condition. It has no gopuram at the entrance, but the vimanam over the sanctum sanctorum is built to a height of about 30 feet, like a gopuram with three kalasams. The stone image of the presiding deity faces north and is covered with a silver sheet. There is one big prakaram around the sanctum sanctorum and its mandapam, all of which occupy a space of nearly one acre. Devotees install small images of Garuda (கருடர்) in the prakaram to get themselves freed from the evil effects of Garuda (கருடதேவதம்). Two poojas are performed daily by eight families of hereditary Andipandarams in turn. About 50 to 100 devotees visit the Temple on Mondays and Fridays. Sacrifice of fowl and goat are not uncommon. Once in a year, a car festival is celebrated, which lasts for four days. It is held in the moth of Iyppasi ஐப்பசி (October–November) and is claimed to attract about 4,000 devotees. There is only one wooden car, which was repaired 50 years back. The temple owns 36.16 acres of wet lands in the adjoining Kornampatti village. The annual income of the Temple was assessed to be Rs. 500 in fasli 1375. A Board of three trustees manages the affairs of the Temple.

43. KANAGAGIRI

Velayudhaswami temple

Kanagagiri is a small village on the national highways from Madras to Calicut, at the border of Sankari and Salem taluks. It is about 10 miles north-east of Sankari, the taluk headquarters and about 12 miles south-west of Salem, the District headquarters. Vembadithalam on Salem Erode section of the Southern Railway is the near railway station, about a mile from this village. There were 349 households consisting of 1,519 persons as on 1–3–1961. There is a hillock in this village with the small temple dedicated to Lord Muruga situated on it. Arunagirinathar had sung in praise of this temple. The presiding deity is known as Velayuthaswami and is represented by a stone image in standing posture with peacock vahanam. There is also an image of Vinaygar. It is believed that the Temple must have either been built or renovated by Gatti Mudaliar. The Temple faces east. The old structure had the sanctum sanctorum for the presiding deity, Artha Mandapam and Maha Mandapam. Recently, another concrete Mandapam is being added to the old structure. Daily pooja is performed by a hereditary Brahmin. Nearly 20 to 25 devotees are reported to visit on Kiruthigai and New Moon days. Thai Poosam (தைப்பூசம்), Panguni Uthiram (பங்குனி உத்திரம்) and Masi Siva Rathiri (மாசி சிவராத்திரி) are the important occasions on which about 200 devotees from nearby villages seem to visit the Temple. The Temple owns 33.18 acres of dry land and enjoys 9.07 acres of Temple poramboke land. The officials of Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowments (Administration) Department assessed the annual income of the temple as Rs. 425 for fasli 1375. The temple is managed by a Board of two trustees.

It is said that the village was named as Kanakagiri (கனககிரி Golden rock) because of its golden ores. It is also said that gold used in the tiles of the famous Natarajar Temple at Chidambaram in South Arcot district was mined at this village. There is a claim that this village was once connected with Kanjamalai of Salem taluk by an underground path. It is believed that in ancient Tamil literature this village was referred to as Paruthippulikkadu.

52. SANKARI

Siva—Vishnu Devasthanam

Sankari is a taluk headquarters with the same name and lies 24 miles south-west of Salem on the National Highways from Madras to Calicut. It is also served by a Railway station. It is noted for Handloom weaving, Cement Industry, mica deposits around it, an old fort and temples on a near by hill. The town is named after the massive hill that over-shadows it on the west. Sankari is a corrupt form of Sankagiri (சங்ககிரி) so called from its fancied resemblance to the sacred conch-shell (சங்கு). The hill is a whitish mass of granite and gneiss, rising to a height of 2,345 feet above sea-level and nearby 1,500 feet above the plains. There is a natural cave half way up the hill and is worshipped mostly as a Muslim Darga. It is near the fifth gateway known as Pudukottai (புதுக்கோட்டை or New Fort) which is defended by a square and semi-circular bastion. Its rampart is the largest on the hill and is crested with brick-work, bound in parts with iron clamps, and is provided with embrasures for cannon. Its construction is ascribed to Tippu Sultan. The rampart on the left runs to the cave, which is in one part 35 feet high. Shah-ha-Mardan-Ghazi, a Muslim saint is said to have entered the cave once and never emerged from it. The fort on the hill seems to date back to Vijayanagar times. Virappa Nayaka (1590–1622) strengthened it and it was further strengthened when it fell at Tippu's hand. The hill was steep and craggy sides and the approach to its top is through nine gates in a line from the base to the top. Each gate corresponds to a fortification going all round. The ninth gateway situated about three fourths of the way up the hill, is known as the company's gate and bears the date 1799. It is of British origin. It was the headquarters of the Madras Battalion during 1792–1832. After passing the ninth gate, a sharp turn in the path leads to a flight of steps cut in the rock. Though only about 30 steps are visible, the topmost step of the flight is called Aruvathampadi (அறுவதாம்படி) (sixtieth step) and was popularly used, like the Aruvatham-padi at Tiruchengodu, for oath-taking. The remaining steps are said to be concealed by rubble. The summit has a small temple dedicated to Chenna Kesava Perumal, built of stone in simple style characteristic of a hill temple. The temple occupies a space of about 70' x 50' with a sanctum sanctorum, an Artha Mandapam, a prakaram, a Maha Mandapam and a Vathya Mandapam (வாத்திய மண்டபம்). Kavundanaya Rishi is believed to have worshipped at the temple. There are images for the presiding deity, His Consorts, Andal, twelve Alwars and Anjaneyar. A hereditary Brahmin performs poojas once a day. For many yards around the temple, the granite is devoid of vegetation, and its surface is inscribed in Deva-nagari and Telugu characters the latter corresponding to 1678 A.D. There are several rock-pools in which the water-lily flourishes, the most remarkable being the Man-Jonai (or Deer Pool மான் ஓரலை) a deep cave or cleft, so overshadowed by projecting rock that the rays of the sun never reach it. The water is said to possess healing effects, and, by a time-honoured practice officers camping in Sankagiri used to be supplied daily with drinking water from this spring. It is also said that when Lord Willingdon was Governor, this water was taken to Madras daily in the Mail.

Varadharaja Perumal Temple is beyond the third gateway, known as Gadikara Vasal (கடிகார வாசல் or Clock gate). It is the largest of the three occupying a space of about 300 ft. X 200 ft. It is a protected monument under the supervision of the Archaeological Department. It has a three tiered gopuram at the entrance. Besides the sanctum sanctorum, there are Artha Mandapam, Maha Mandapam, a safe room, Vathya Mandapam and prakaram. There are images for the presiding deity, His consort, Andal, Garudan, Hanuman, twelve Alwars, Krishna etc. Poojas are performed only once in a day by a hereditary Brahmin.

Someswaraswami Temple is at the foot of the hill. It occupies a space of about 230' X 150' with a sanctum sanctorum, Artha Mandapam, Maha Mandapam, Vathya Mandapam, Kalyana (கல்யாண) Mandapam, Munvayil (முன்வாயில்) Mandapam and one prakaram. The image of the presiding deity is represented by a Lingam. There are also images for His consort Sundaravalli with four hands and Murugan with six faces seated over peacock. There are festival images for Vinayagar, Somaskandhar, Chandrasekarar, Subramaniam, Sellandiamman, Kamakshiamman, Natarajar etc. In one of the pillars an image of Thirugnana Sambandar has been carved out. Two poojas are performed in a day by a hereditary Brahmin.

The three Temples have been constituted into a single Devasthanam and is managed by a board of two trustees. In fasli 1375, the annual assessed income of the Devasthanam was Rs. 2,244/—. On 5-3-1964, its jewellery was estimated at Rs. 10,102.14. There are nine wooden vahanams, a wooden palanquin and a wooden car for Chenna Kesava Perumal Temple. In Someswara Temple, there are eight vahanas and a wooden car. The annual festival for Someswaraswami is celebrated in Panguni (பங்குனி March-April) and that for Chennakesava Perumal in Chiththirai (சித்திரை April-May). About 300 to 400 devotees are reported to attend these festivals.

TIRUCHENGODE TALUK

19. MALLASAMUDRAM

Kandaswami temple at Kalipatti

Mallasamudram East is a Town Panchayat inhabited by 10,720 persons at the time of 1951 Census. It is at the twelfth mile from Tiruchengode, the taluk headquarters on the road from Tiruchengode to Salem via Attayampatti running from south-west to north-east. Two miles further upon this road is its hamlet Kalipatti, which is also connected by another five mile road from the nearest Railway Station "Kalipatti road" on Salem-Erode section of the Southern Railway. Kalipatti is well known for its Kandaswami temple. The temple occupies a space of 20 cents. At its entrance, it is surmounted by a four-tiered gopuram. Daily two poojas are performed by a hereditary Gounder. Nearly 100 devotees are reported to visit on Mondays and Fridays and about 500 on New Moon days. The annual car festival is celebrated in the latter part of January (Thai-Pusam). A cattle fair is also held at that time, both of which are claimed to attract a crowd of nearly 10,000 persons. As on 30-7-62, the temple had jewellery worth Rs. 19,405. In fasli 1374, it had an assessed annual income of Rs. 50,000.

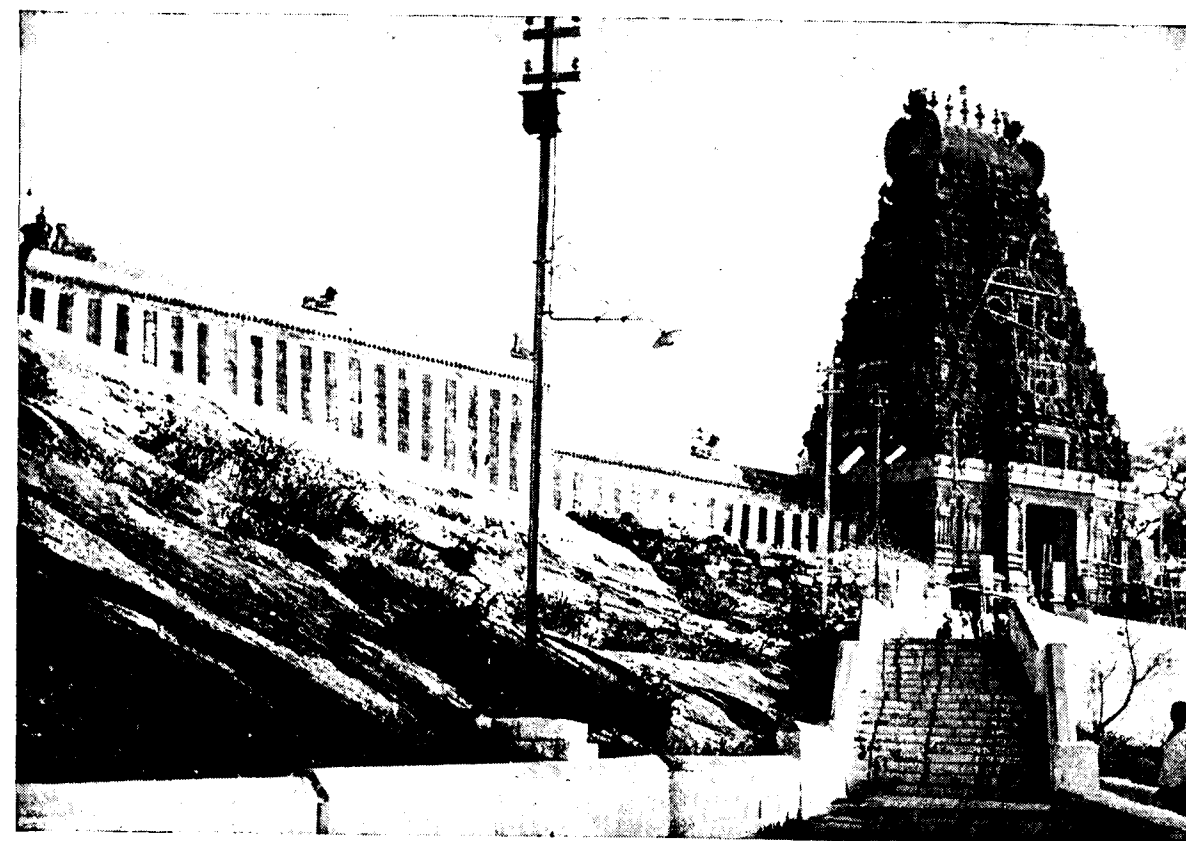

The temple is said to have been built round about 1820 by one of the ancestors of the hereditary priest. It is said that afflicted by acute stomachpain, he was devoted to Kandaswami and offered prayer to him night and day in a thatched shed on the site where stands the present shrine. He worshipped not an idol but a Kavadi. His ache in course of time was cured, and by virtue of his devotion, he became gifted with occult powers, and was looked upon as an oracle throughout the region.

People flocked to hear his prophesy, especially on Mondays and Fridays, days particularly auspicious for the worship of Kandaswami. In his life time, he is said to have amassed great wealth, which he spent for the construction of the temple.

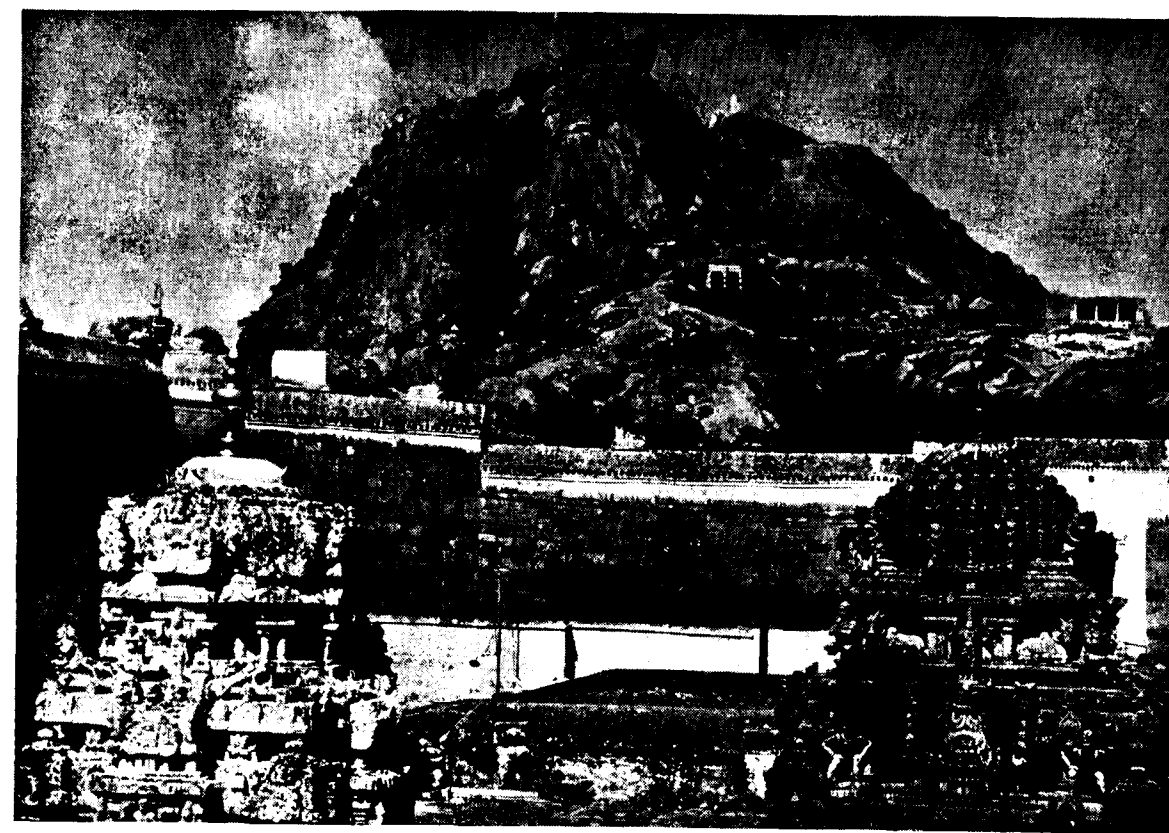

33. TIRUCHENGODE

Sri Ardhanareeswarar temple

Silappathikaram is one of the ancient and famous Tamil literature claimed to be written either in second or eighth century A.D. It consists of three main divisions known as காண்டம் (Kandam) and thirty minor divisions. In the 24th division viz., Kunrakkuravai of this immortal epic a reference has been made about the shrine of Murugar at Tiruchengode. Again in the twenty-third sub-division under Mathurai Kandam (மதுரைக் காண்டம்) the author of the epic Ilangovaligal (இளங்கோவடிக்கல்) mentions in 189-190 lines a hillock called நெடுவேல் நெடுவேள் குன்றம் (Neduvēl Neduvēl Kundram i.e., hillock of Murugan with long spear) which, Kannagi, the heroine of the epic reaches after her destruction of Madurai; and finally from where she goes to the other world accompanied by her dead husband. This hillock was identified as Tiruchengode by Arumpathaurai Asiriar, (அரும்பதவுரையாசிரியர்) one of the two well recognised ancient interpreters of Silappathikaram and as Tiruchengundru (திருச்செங்குன்று) by Adiyarkku Nallar (அடியார்க்கு நல்லார்) the other interpreter. There exists one thevaram sung by the sage Tirugnana Sambandar on Chengundroor which is believed to be none other than Tiruchengodu. This has also been praised as the famous shrine for Murugan by Arunagirinathar in eight verses of Kandharalanga-ram (கந்தரலங்காரம்) one verse of Kandharanuboodhi (கந்தரநுபதி) and 27 of the famous Thiruppugazh. These references testify to the very remote origin of the temple dedicated to Lord Muruga.

Ardhanareeswarar Temple, Tiruchengode.

Thiruchengode is at a distance of about 28 miles south-west of Salem town and about 6 miles from the nearest railway station Sankagiri. The town lies at about 2,000 feet above mean sea level and derives its name from the hillock nearly 1200 feet above the plains. Tiruchengodu (திரு + செம் + கோடு) means a red mountain and the hillock derives the name due to the red stains on its sides. According to a legend found in the sthalapuram, a dispute arose between (வாயு பகவான்) the god of the winds and (ஆதிசேஷன்) the serpent king as to which of the two was more strong and powerful. The test applied was that the snake king should coil himself round Meru mountain and the god of the winds should try to drag him off. At the contest, the wind was so severe that it dislodged one of the peaks and tore the serpent's hood. The mountain peak, stained with the serpent's blood, flew on the air and alighted as Tiruchengodu (red stained mountain). The hillock is also known as Nagagiri or serpent hill.

Access to the temple at the middle of the hillock is gained by a winding flight of over 1,200 steps. Several mantapas have been erected at varied intervals along the route. Each mantapam has its own history, a brief account of which can be had from pages 14-16 of the Report of Archaeological Survey Department, Southern Circle for 1907-1908. West of the fourth mantapam known as Taili mandapam, there is a stone image of bull (நந்தி—Nandi) facing the hill. Devotees smear it with butter with a great faith that it will result in good yield of milk and milk products from their cow. A gigantic five-hooded serpent in a reclining and reposing posture, extending to about 60 feet in length is carved on a nearby rock on the way up to the temple. Offerings of (குங்குமம்) vermilion powder and pongal are made to this serpent by the devotees to guard themselves against snake-bite. Cocks are also sacrificed in spite of legal enactments against such sacrifices. The seventh 'mantapam is mid-way between the foot of the hill and the chief shrine. It is known as (அறுபதாம்படி மண்டபம்) sixtieth step mantapam. Between the sixth and the seventh mantapams, there is a flight of 60 steps known as (சத்திப்படி) oath steps. There is also a small shrine for Murugar. These steps and the shrine were referred to in Tiruppugazh by Arunagirinathar. Disputes are often settled here by one party challenging the other to swear on each step to the justice of his claim, extinguishing burning camphor in the usual manner. No one dares to lie for fear of Divine wrath. This flight of steps is one of the famous places in Tamilnad and there were instances where oaths sworn on them received the recognition of the High Court of Madras. The devotion of the people for the Nandhi, serpent and the sixty steps on the way to the main shrine can be said to be in the same measure as that towards the main shrine, if not more.

The main entrance to the chief shrine has a five tiered gopuram. The outer wall of the temple occupies a space of about 250 feet from east to west and about 200 feet from north to south. The floor of the temple lies at a lower level than that of the entrance in which respect there is a similarity between this temple and that at Taramangalam. Some of the stone works also resemble that of Taramangalam. The Nandhi facing the shrine is said to have come to life and extend gram on hearing a song sung by a sanyasi in the days of Virupaksha Raya of Vellore. Sambandar is said to have cured the then prevailing epidemic of (நாரிர் கரம்) tertian fever by singing திருநீலகண்டத் திருப்பதிகம் (Thiru Neelakanda Thirupathikam).

The temple is famous for Lord Muruga known as Sengottuvelar (செங்கோட்டு வேலர்) as well as அர்த்த நாரீஸ்வரர் (Ardhanareeswarar who embodies Siva and Sakthi). Following the normal procedure, the image of Lord Muruga faces east but that of Ardhanareeswarar faces west, just behind that of the former. According to puranas, Siva took this form to fulfil His vow to Parvathi, who did severe penance on the very hills, quite near her son Muruga's shrine, to have permanent unity of Ardhabhagam (அர்த்த பாகம்-half the part) with Her consort. It is significant that perhaps this is the only place where there is a separate sanctum sanctorum for Ardhanareeswarar. The image is very impressive, about six feet high, with a majestic appearance and with a fountain containing sacred water of Deeva Theertham underneath the feet. There is also a separate sanctum for Lord Vishnu, locally known as Adhi Kesava Perumal.

On the highest peak of the hill is the Pandisvara temple, a simple structure, the name of which preserves the memory of the Pandya invaders of the thirteenth century. Close by it is the celebrated (மலடிக்கல்) Maladikkal (barren women's rock). This boulder is poised on the edge of a sheer precipice with a clear drop of at least 800 feet and apparently the slightest breath would topple it on to the town below. There is still a belief that if a woman who is not blessed with children crawls round this rock thrice, she will become a happy mother.

In keeping with its religious origin Tiruchengodu is prolific in inscriptions recording the good deeds done in honour of its gods. Most of the inscriptions, numbering about 30, were copied in the year 1905. The names of Parantaka I (906 A.D.) and Gangaikonda Rajendra Chola occur in the earliest inscriptions. Endowments were also made during the periods of Krishna Raya of Vijayanagar (1522 A.D.) the Nayaks of Madura, Krishna Raja of Mysore (1734 A.D.) etc.

The annual income of the temple excluding specific endowments, assessed for fasli 1375 by the Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowment (Administration) Department is Rs. 19,066/- with a jewellery estimated to cost Rs. 78,480/- as on 19—8—61. Poojas are performed three times a day. The chief annual car festival falls in the Tamil month of Vaikasi (May-June) when the festival image is brought down from the hill. Devotees in large numbers visit the temple on every New Moon day. The temple is managed by an Executive Officer and a Board of three trustees.

105. KOOTHAMPOONDI

Village shrines

Koothampoondi is a rural panchayat, which had a population of 2,398 on 1—3—1961. It is about one mile from Manickampalayam which lies at about the 10th mile south east of Tiruchengodu, on the road from Tiruchengodu to Namakkal. It is served by Sankagiri as its nearest railway station, about 15 miles away to its north-east. This is Nallakumaraswami Temple. It has a painted image made of lime and mortar in front of which there are a stone image and a festival image. At the entrance of both sides of Artha Mandapam, there are two statues of police constables. There is also a Maha Mandapam and one prakaram. Besides a small gopuram, there is a Vimanam. In front of the Temple, there are very big statues to a height of nearly 15ft. representing two horses, Chinnannan (சின்ன ணன்) Periannan (பெரியண்ணன்) and Karuppannan for which goats used to be sacrificed. Daily one pooja is performed in the noon by a hereditary gounder. Nearly 100 devotees visit the Temple on New Moon days. A five day annual festival is celebrated at the time of Sivarathri (சிவராத்திரி) in the month of Masi (மாசி)—February-March and is attended by nearly 5,000 devotees.

By the side of the above Temple, there is another village shrine dedicated to Aththayee (அத்தையி). The presiding deity is represented by a stone image. One pooja is performed in this Temple by a Pandaram. The Temple has no gopuram, but there is vimanam over the sanctum sanctorum. There is one prakaram where there are statues for Dwarapaligai (துவாரபாலிகை) to a height of about six feet. The Temple has Artha Mandapam as well as Maha Mandapam. Festival is celebrated once in three years in the month of Margazhi (மார்கழி December-January) when two to five buffaloes used to be sacrificed.

Rs. 9,527 was the assessed income of Nallakumaraswami Temple during fasli 1375 and that for Annanmar Temple (அன்னம்மா கோவில்) i.e. Chinnannan and Periannan was Rs. 750/-. The former is managed by an individual and the latter by a Board of five trustees.

RASIPURAM TALUK

21. PUDUPPATTI

Thulukka Cboodamani Amman (alias) Mariamman Temple :

Puduppatti is about 7 miles north-east of Rasipuram on a circuitous route to Attur. It is 23 miles away from Salem, the nearest railway station, to which it is connected by bus. It is fairly a big panchayat with a population of 5,291 and is well known for its temple dedicated to Thulukka Choodamani Amman alias Mariamman. It was built some three hundred years ago, during the reign of the Moghul Emperors. According to a legend in vogue, a young girl was infected with smallpox and succumbed to it. In her memory a "Samadhi" (tomb) was erected. Later on, this temple came into existence over the "Samadhi" to commemorate the pathetic end of that maiden, by the then Muslim inhabitants of this place. Subsequently, a mahamandapam and a sabhamandapam were added to it by the village folk. This famous and sacred Mariamman temple is centrally situated in the heart of the village, covering an area of about 10 cents and supported by 48 pillars.

The presiding deity Mariamman is represented by a stone image in the form of a Lingam. Three poojas are performed in a day, by hereditary Pandarams by rotation. The deity is believed to be more powerful especially when one is inflicted by smallpox or eye troubles. Nearly 1,000 devotees visit the temples on Mondays and Fridays. New Moon days are also considered to be more auspicious. There is an 80 year old wooden car here, donated by devotees the height, length and breadth of which are 20, 14 and 12 feet. The annual car festival takes place during the last Wednesday, in the month of Panguni. It is claimed to attract about two lakhs devotees, from far and near. It is said that once, one low caste devotee by name Kumanan was denied entry into the temple by other devotees of better social status. Immediately, the presiding deity is said to have offered him a special dharshan by turning round Her face. Amman is, therefore renowned for her great powerful "Shakthi" and unbiased blessings to all devotees, irrespective of their caste, creed or social status.

The temple owns jewellery, in gold and silver, worth about Rs. 250/-. It derives an annual income of about Rs. 450/- from its landed properties. Additional income, ranging from Rs. 500/- to Rs. 2,000/- a year are reported through its Hundi collections. Besides, it also gets a further income of about Rs. 100/- to Rs. 150/- by way of offerings from the devotees as "Kanikkai" to the Amman. During fasli 1375, the overall annual income of the temple was assessed to be Rs. 6,246 -. The Temple is managed by a Board of two trustees.

39. ALAVOIPATTI

Balasubramaniaswami Temple

Alavoipatti is about 18 miles south-west of Salem and about 8 miles north-west of Rasipuram, the taluk headquarters. It is connected by bus with Rasipuram, Attayampatti, Nangavalli and Mecheri. Vembadi-thalam, at a distance of about 9 miles is the nearest railway station. At the time of 1961 Census, it had a population of 2,974. It is known for a hill temple dedicated to Lord Muruga. The hill is about 1½ miles from the panchayat proper, from where a flight of about 1,500 steps leads to the temple at the middle of the hill. The name Alavoipatti is said to be a corrupt form of உலாவாய்ப்பட்டி. (Ulaivaipatti) derivation from உலாவாய்மலை (Ulaivai malai) the name of the hill. It is said that Sidhars lived on the hill and produced gold and hence the hill was called after the உலை (Ulai) or furnace used in producing the gold. It is believed that at the top of the hill there is a chain, which can be pulled out from a hole to a height of 6 feet, which, when dropped, is believed to be hitting against a treasure trove thereby producing a sound of metallic clash. A stone inscription is also believed to exist according to which some events at this place and at Poymankaradu, a few miles north-east on the national highways from Salem to Namakkal are indicated. Incidentally பொய்மன்கரடு (Poymankaradu) is worth visiting to get convinced that it is a standing testimony for the ability, skill and intelligence of some unknown artisan of the forgotten past, who carved out a portion of the rock with pre-planned angular precision and manoeuvred in such a way that, on a bright sunny day, an illusionary figure of a deer appears to any one who looks at the hillock from the plains in front. The origin of the hill Temple at Alavoimalai is believed to have some association with the Sidhas and the above mystic account. A non-hereditary Brahmin from the Panchayat performs a single pooja at the hill Temple. Mondays of the Tamil month Karthigai கார்த்திகை (November-December) are believed to be important occasions for the Temple. However, the festival image is kept at Easwara Temple on the plains, which is a sub-temple of Balasubramaniaswami Devasthanam.

The Temple on the plains is dedicated to Ekambaranathar, represented by the image of a Lingam. The Temple covers an area of about one acre, with a massive fortress all around and thirtysix pillars to support the structures within it. Inside the Temple, there is an Ilandhai (இலந்தை) tree, supposed to be 200 years old, whose fruits are said to have four different tastes. Besides, there are three more vilva (விலவ) trees with leaves of five branches, which is claimed to be a peculiar feature. Two poojas are performed in this temple by another non-hereditary Brahmin. Panguni Uthiram is the chief annual festival of this Temple. The festivals are claimed to attract a crowd of 10,000 devotees.

The temple owns jewellery in gold and silver, worth about Rs. 650/-, which include two kasumalais, consisting of 35 gold coins in all, valued at Rs. 350/-, a 2½ sovereign "Thazhukku Saram" (chain) worth about Rs. 200/- and a silver kavacham for the presiding deity valued at Rs. 100. The immovable properties of the temple comprise about 26.84 acres of dry lands, which are leased out for an average annual rent of Rs. 300 and the same is spent towards the conduct of the daily poojas and periodical festivals of the temple and for its general maintenance. The overall income of the Temple for fasli 1375 was assessed to be Rs. 1078. The temple is also in possession of a 30 feet high six-wheeled wooden car, on a square base of 15 feet, a 15 feet high four-wheeled small wooden car, on a square base of 10 feet, a 7 feet high Ratham, 40 feet in circumference and a peacock vahanam. The administration of the devasthanam is vested in a Board of three trustees.

45. RASIPURAM

Kailasanathar Temple

Rasipuram is a Municipal town and the headquarters of a taluk of the same name. Its area is 2.85 square miles and had a population of 23,871 at the time of 1961 Census. It is located about 18 miles south of Salem and is noted for handloom weaving and brass vessel making. There is also good trade in palam-gur, rice and ghee. Rasipuram sago is quite famous. The local Siva Temple is known as Kailasanathar Temple.

SALEM DISTRICT

The Temple faces west, whereas Siva Temples normally face east. It has a gopuram 35' high and occupies about half an acre and is supposed to have been built by Val Vil Ori, who ruled over Kolli hills. An east facing statue, situated on the south west in the only prakaram, is believed to represent Val Vil Ori. Arunagirinathar praised the presiding deity of this Temple in one of his Thiruppugazh (திருப்புகழ்). Rasipuram has been referred to as Rajapuram in that Thiruppugazh. The image of the presiding deity Kailasanathar is a Swayambu Lingam, facing west. His consort is known as Dharmasamvardhini (தர்மசம்வர்த்தினி) facing east. There is also a separate sanctum sanctorum for Shanmugar, facing south. In front and on either side of the Mahamantapam is a five pillared hall. Yagasalai, panchalingas and Madapalli are on the east side, behind the temple proper. Near the yagasalai is a shrine to Bhairava where, in former days, the key of the main shrine was laid for safety. Poojas are performed twice a day by a hereditary Brahmin. Daily, about 10 to 20 devotees visit the Temple. The chief annual festival is held in the month of Chithirai (சித்திரை April-May) and attracts nearly 300 devotees. The Temple possesses a wooden car, palanquin and Ratham. It also owns one acre of wet and four acres of dry land. In fasli 1375, the Temple had an annual assessed income of Rs. 2,857/-. A Board of two trustees manages the Temple affairs.

81. BAILNADU

Palani Andavar temple

Kollimalais form part of the hills of Salem district, and are situated partly in Namakkal and partly in Rasipuram taluks. Bailnadu is one of its divisions and is in the southern part of Rasipuram taluk. At the time of 1961 Census, it had 661 houses occupied by 2,618 persons. It is about 10 miles south-east of Rasipuram and can be reached from Belukkurichchi of Namakkal taluk on Rasipuram—Namakkal road. It is known for the hill temple dedicated to Lord Muruga. The stone image of the presiding deity is in the form of a hunter (வேட்டுவக்கோலம்) with a cock in his left hand and spear (வேல்) in his right. In two Tiruppugazh songs (திருப்புகழ்), Arunagirinathar sang in praise of this deity. There are also images for Vigneswarar, Easwaran, Amman, Maha Vishnu, Idumban and Navagraham. The temple is said to trace its origin to the period of Val Vil Ori, the ancient Tamil ruler of Kolli hills. Subsequent renovations have been made several times, the latest of which include electrification, a Mandapam for devotees to take rest (இளைப்பாறும் மண்டபம்) while climbing up the steps to reach the Temple. There are two prakarams in the Temple, besides the sanctum sanctorum, Artha Mandapam and Maha Mandapam. Daily, two poojas are performed by a hereditary Brahmin. New Moon days, Kiruthigai, Sashti, Chithra Pournami, Navarathri, Karthigai Dheepam, Panguni Uthiram and Thai Poosam are the festival occasions, of which Karthigai Dheepam and Thai Poosam are the chief festivals claimed to attract about 20,000 devotees. The temple owns a wooden car, a peacock vahanam and a chapparam. About 60 acres of land, claimed to belong to the temple, is under dispute in the court of law. The annual income of the temple during fasli 1375 was assessed to be Rs. 200. A board of three trustees manages the temple affairs.

17. ETHAPUR

Sambamoortheswarar temple

Ethapur is one of the five sacred places representing the five natural elements Earth, fire, water, air and sky (Pancha Boodha sthalam) on the banks of Vellar river or Vasishta Nadhi. It is about two miles north of the seventh mile from Athur on the State highways towards Salem. It is connected both by rail and bus service. The temple occupies a space of nearly 1 acre, with three prakarams. It is said that some two hundred years back, a Mysore king constructed the temple. The image of the presiding deity is a Lingam and is known as Sambamoorthy Eswarar. He is supposed to be Appu Lingam on the banks of Vellar river. His consort is known as Manonmani Amman. The presiding deity faces east whereas His consort faces south. It is said that sun rays fall on the image of the presiding deity from 9th to 14th day of ஐப்பசி (Ippasi-October-November) and again from the 1st to 7th day in மசி (Masi-February). The temple owns 7.26 acres of wet land, 1.00 acre dry land and 1.00 acre garden, which are normally leased out. Besides this, the temple has also inam lands. The annual income for fasli 1375 from the landed properties, Government dastic and other sources was estimated as Rs. 5,922. The management of the temple is vested in a Board of three trustees assisted by an Executive Officer. Two poojas are performed in a day by a hereditary Brahmin. It is said that in 1920 (Tamil year of வெகுதான்யம்) Brahmins congregated at this temple and performed yagam by sacrificing nearly 25 cattle. It appears that the local Agriculturists did not like it and so stopped visiting the temple. The annual car festival which used to be celebrated on a large scale in the month of தை (Thai-January-February) was stopped ten years back. Now-a-days, அன்னப்போசம் (Annabishegam-feeding) on the full moon day in the month of Iyppasi (ஐப்பசி October-November) seems to be the important occasion for which nearly 300 devotees are reported to congregate.

23. ATTUR

Kaya Nirmaleswaraswami temple :

Attur, known originally as Ananandhagiri, is situated on the banks of river Vasishta Nadhi. This town is the headquarters of the taluk by the same name and is well connected by road and rail. It has a population of 29,018 with an area of 6.19 square miles. It is known for the old fort which has been declared as a protected monument. It is a square fort with old buildings, large granaries, an audience hall and an English grave-yard, the tomb stone ranging in dates between 1795-1819 A.D. The fort is supposed to have been built by Getti Mudaliar, with the money got in a treasure trove. It came into the hands of Chikkadeva Raya of Mysore, was part of Hyder Ali's dominion till 1763 and later passed on to the English who improved it in 1824. Very close and adjacent to the fort stands Kaya Nirmaleswaraswami temple. In the year 1913 five inscriptions (Nos. 403 to 407) were copied from this temple by the Government Epigraphist. These inscriptions relate to the periods commencing from 1509 A. D. during Vijayanagara king Krishnaraya (1509-30), Virapratapa Krishnaraya Maharaja (1528 A. D.), Chola king Parakesarivarman and others.

It is said that Vasishta Maharishi installed (five) pancha Lingas in Kongunadu. All the five places which were thus ordained as Pancha Boodha Kshetras lie on the banks of Vellar or Vasishta Nadhi. Prithvi Lingam is believed to be in Belur, Appu Lingam in Ethapur, Theyu Lingam in Attur, Vayu Lingam in Aragalur and Akasa Lingam in Koogaiyur. In ancient times, the presiding deity of Theyu Lingam in Attur was known as Vasishteswarar. When the territory was ruled by a king known as Anandhan, the town and the presiding deity were named after him, the former as Anandhagiri and latter as Anandheswarar. When the territory came under Getti Mudaliar, the temple as well as the town seemed to be in ruined condition. It is believed that he had a dream of a treasure trove intended for the renovation of the temple and re-establishment of a fortified town. It is said that every thing went on as per the dream and the treasure was found near the Perumal temple. After that renovation the presiding deity is known as Kaya Nirmaleswarar and His consort as Akilandeswari. At present a renovation committee has been formed consisting of 41 members for renovation which is expected to cost nearly one lakh of rupees.

The temple occupies a space of about 200' x 120'. There is only one Prakaram. There is no gopuram. The images of both the presiding deity and His consort are about 4 feet high. There are festival idols for Vinayagar, Subramaniam, Chandrasekarar, Pradhosha-nayagar, Natarajar, Parasakthi etc., All of them are made of Pancha logam. Two poojas are performed in a day by a hereditary Brahmin. The temple had an annual income of Rs. 2,624 in fasli 1,375 mainly by way of dastic allowance. It has also jewels worth Rs. 500/-. The temple has a car and four vahanams made about thirty years back. The temple is managed by a Board of three trustees.

71. THALAIVASAL

Ayyanar Temple

Thalaivasal, a place steeped in history is associated with Ekambavanam, a chieftain who ruled over the region at a time when the Chera, Chola and Pandya Kings held sway in different parts of the land. Today the place is well known for its temple dedicated to Ayyanar, a village God. Every Monday, Tuesday and Friday, Potters from Aragalur, a nearby village known for its temple with a number of stone inscriptions, visit this temple and perform pooja. On other occasions, the temple has a deserted look. On festival occasions, Poojas are performed by Brahmin priests. No festival is performed at regular intervals like once in a year or two. Festivals are arranged only on special occasions after ascertaining the will of God. At times, even ten to fifteen years may lapse in between two festivals.

The temple faces west. Though very small, the temple is in good condition. By the side of Ayyanar temple is another temple dedicated to சப்த கன்னிகை (seven Goddesses). It is also kept in good condition. The horse models commonly found in Ayyanar temples are there in this temple, but they are in a dilapidated state. The temple has no fixed income or property.

73. ARAGALUR

Kamanatheeswarar Temple

Kamanatheeswarar temple at Aragalur is on the southern banks of Vasishta Nadhi or Vellar river. Structurally, this is one of the biggest temples of Salem District. This is also one of the five sacred places representing the five natural elements of Fire, Earth, Water, Air and Sky on the banks of Vellar river, which runs through Salem and Athur taluks of Salem district and which also serves as the border of Tiruchi and South Arcot Districts. Aragalur is about 15 miles east of Athur, the taluk headquarters. Whether one proceeds by rail or road, he has to take a diversion from Thalaivasal on the State Highways, wherefrom buses are available every half-an-hour.

At the entrance, the temple has two gopurams, one for the presiding deity Kamanatheeswarar and the other for His consort Perianayagi, both of which are three tiered. They seem to follow the Pandyan style of architecture and are about 45' high. This appears to be the only temple of Salem and Dharmapuri districts where there is an idol for Lord Natarajar. The bronze image of Natarajar and Amman are fairly big and quite impressive. The temple occupies a space of nearly 1.65 acres with five prakarams. Two poojas are performed in a day by a Brahmin. The chief annual car festival is celebrated in the month of பங்குனி (Panguni-March-April) which is claimed to attract a crowd of nearly 10,000 persons. This temple is managed along with Varadharaja temple by a single trustee. In fasli 1375, both temples together had an annual income of Rs. 1,384 mainly from their landed property of nearly 8½ acres. A number of stone inscriptions could be found in both the temples.

NAMAKKAL TALUK

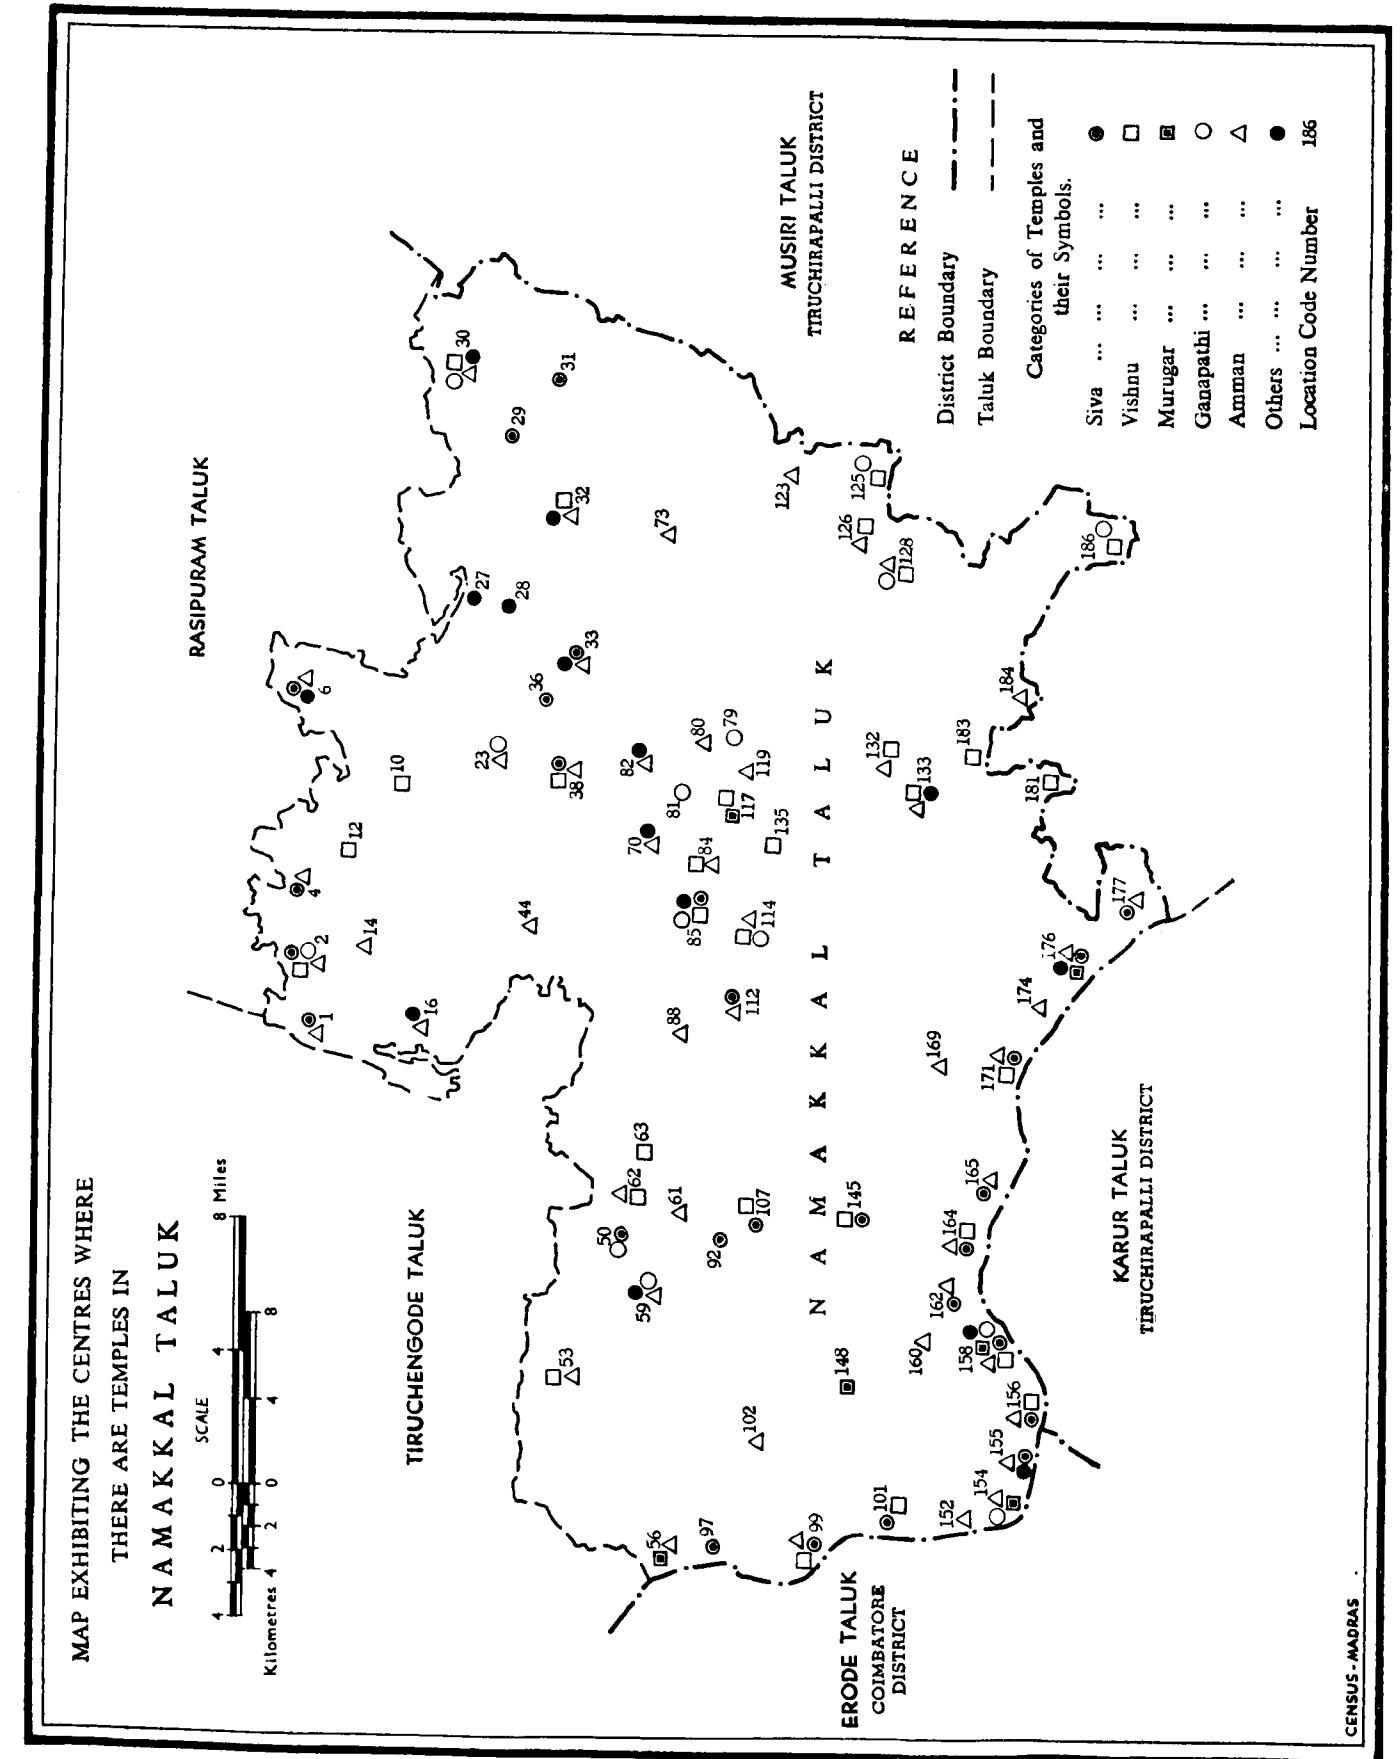

31, VALAPPURNADU

Arappaliswarar temple of Kollimalai

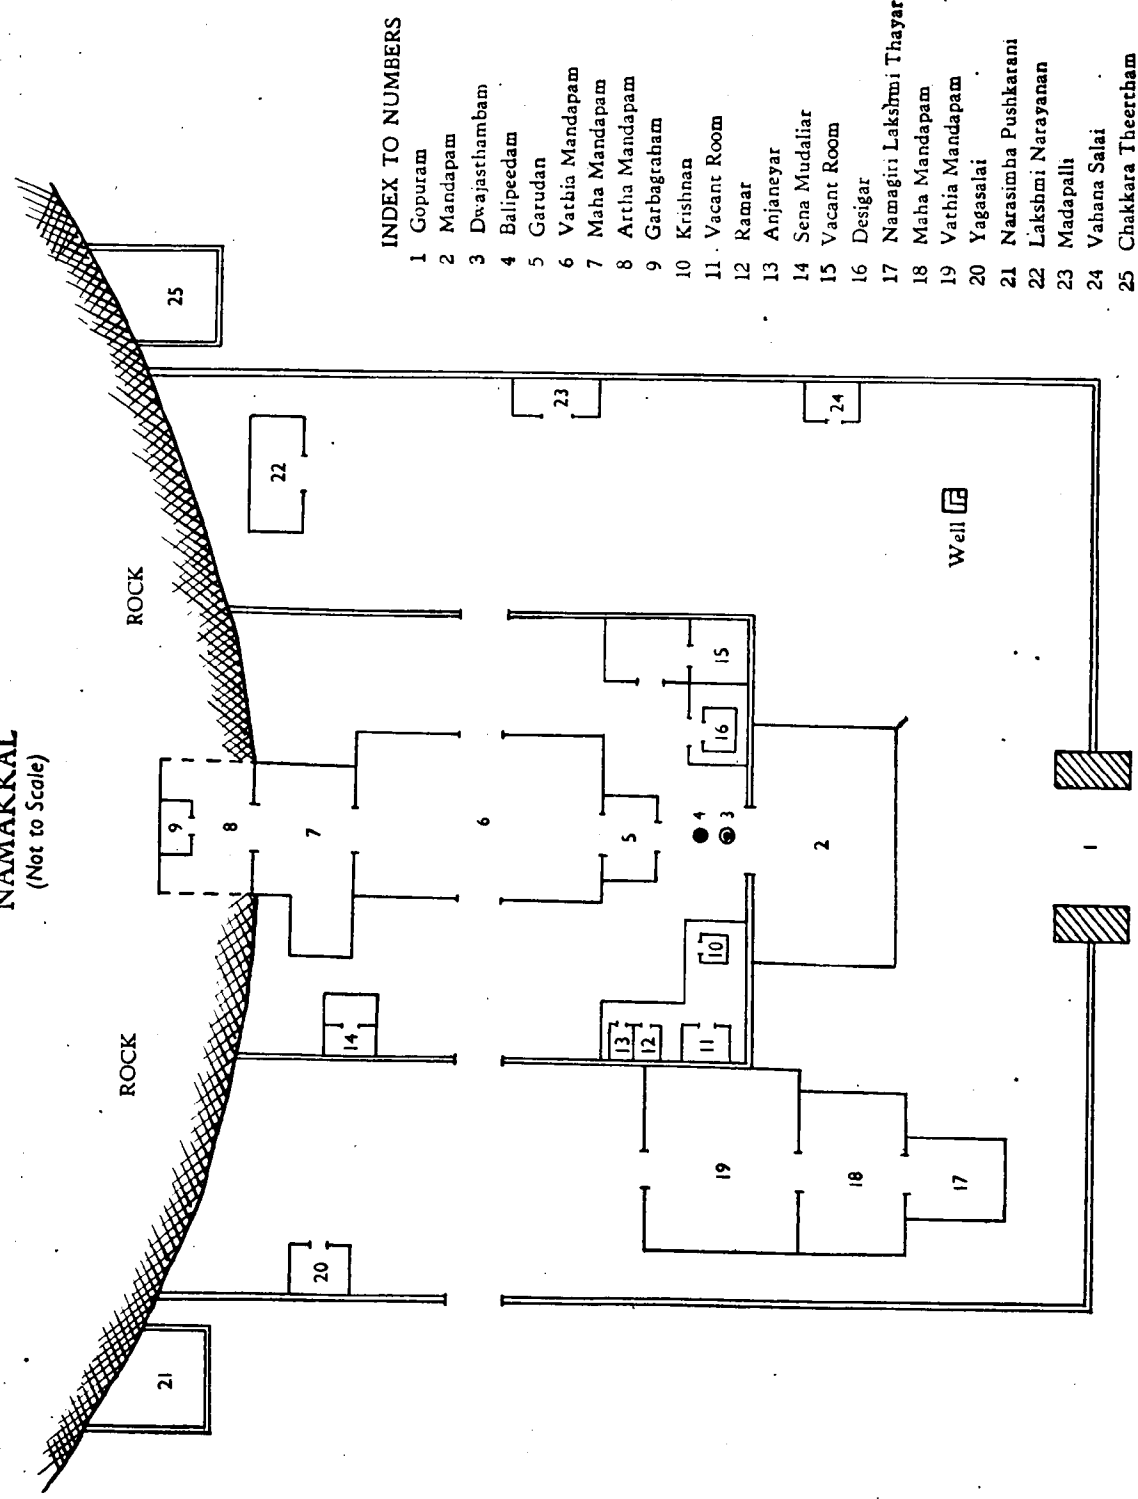

The charm of Salem district depends on its hills. Kollimalai is a part of it and forms the south-eastern portion of the district. It serves as a dividing line between Tiruchirapalli and Salem districts. It contains peaks of over 4,000 feet and is situated partly in Namakkal and partly in Rasipuram taluks. Kolli Malayalees, a distinct endogamous sect of the Scheduled Caste Malayalees, form the bulk of inhabitants of Kollimalai. They are believed to be originally cultivators of Kancheepuram and migrated to this place some centuries back. Well laid road, a source of modern communication was lacking for a very long time in Kollimalai. The only ghat road, which has recently been laid begins at about the 15th mile north-east of Namakkal. The tarred ghat road terminates at Solakadu and is connected by bus. It is about 30 miles way from Namakkal. At about the 7th mile from that point stands the famous Siva temple called Arappaliswarar Kovil. It could also be reached from Chuliamchola Kombai of Musiri Taluk in Tiruchirapalli district.

The temple is no doubt a very ancient one as Appar referred to it in one of his hymns (சேஷத்திரக் கோவைத் திருத்தாண்டகம் 1). There are also two Thiruppugazh about it by Manickavasagar. The temple faces east with a single prakaram. There are three sanctum sanctorums, one for Lingam of the presiding deity known as Arappaliswarar or Dharmakoseeswarar, one for his consort Dharmakoseeswari and the third one for Lord Subramanya. There is no gopuram but a single vimanam for the presiding deity following the Chola style of architecture. There are about thirty pieces of bronze images of good workmanship. Some associate the temple with Ori, one of the seven royal philanthropists noted for his heroism and generosity. There are others who associate it with Macha Muni, a Siddha of the 11th Ori.

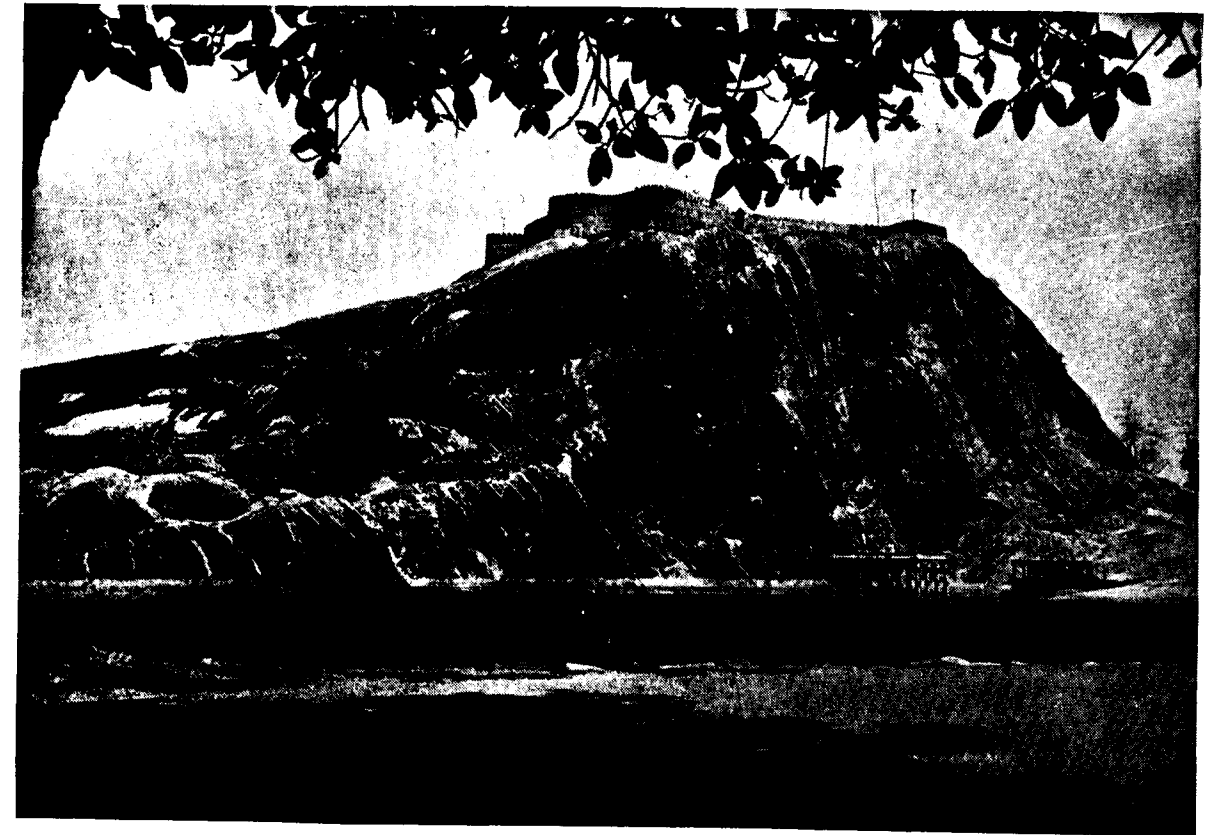

Arappaliswarar temple is 4,663 feet above sea level on the Kollimalai. It occupies a space of 300' × 200'. It is regarded with very great reverence, not only by the hill men of this range, but also by the Malaiyalis of the Pachaimalais and of the Kalroyan Hills as by the Hindus of the plains. Two poojas are performed daily. However, daily poojas do not attract more devotees as is the case with most of Salem temples. A festival lasting three days, from the 15th to the 18th day of Adi (ஆடி) July-August, is held there every year and to this great number of pilgrims, say about 10,000, throng to perform their vows. The priests in the temple are Brahmins, but the water for the God's bath is fetched not by Brahmins, but by Malaiyalis. The temple had a fine car. It is said that it was used only once. The natives declare that it ought not to be used without first offering a human sacrifice. At present there is no car, but some of the wooden images of the old car are kept in the temple. The stream near the temple contains thousands of fish which are considered holy and under the protection of God and are fed by pilgrims to the shrine. “அறுத்த மீனைப் பொறுத்த வைக்கும் அறப்பாளிஸ்வரர்” is a Tamil saying which means that Arappaliswarar is capable of uniting fishes cut and severed. A common vow made by devotees is an undertaking to provide a gold nose-ring for one of the fishes if their prayers are answered. The fishes are extremely tame, and will come and take food from one's hand. The natives declare that near this temple lizards do not chirp nor talai plants flower. The hill on which the building stands is called the Kollimalai proper and the name is supposed to be derived from the fact that any one who commits a sin there will be killed. It is also called the “madhu vanam” (honey forest) of the Monkey King Sugriva. Two miles below the temple is a fine waterfall, called Akasa Gangai (the sky ganges) in which almost all pilgrims take bath. The Malaiyalis believe that if a sinner bathes there, the water turns aside and declines to fall upon him. There are some inscriptions in the temple. The temple is managed by a Board of five trustees.

85. NAMAKKAL

Sri Narasimhaswami etc., temples :

Namakkal is one of the very few places in Salem district which has protected monuments. The town is known for a hillock with two interesting monolithic cave temples peculiar to the Pallavas, a colossal statue for Hanuman and a hill fort. The sculptural representations of both the cave temples are quite as good as, if not better than those at Mahabalipuram. There are also inscriptions relating to Jatavarman Sundara Pandya, Lakshmikantha Arasa, later Pandyas and Hindu Rajas of Mysore.

Namakkal is held in much honour by the Vaishnavites. The town has grown at the foot of a hillock some 200 feet in height and about half a mile in circumference. It is a taluk headquarters but not connected by railways. However, it is well connected by road and can be reached very easily from any direction. It lies exactly at the thirtyfirst mile south of Salem town.

The first cave temple dedicated to Narasimha and His consort Namagiriāmmān is on the western side and at the base of the hillock. Narasimha is the man-lion incarnation of Lord Vishnu. The image of the presiding deity is in sitting posture and faces west. There are also images for Thiruvikramar, Varahar, Vamanar Anandha Naranar, etc., all of which are big in size and impressive. The second cave temple is on the eastern slope. The shrine contains a raised platform cut into three tiers with a hall and a small veranda. The presiding deity Sri Ranganathar is in the lying posture, while Brahma is seated on a lotus that emerges from the navel of the deity. The Lord is believed to be lying under the outstretched hoods of the great snake-god Karkotaka. The south wall has a relief of Thiruvikrama while the north contains Sankaranarayana. Besides these two cave temples, there is also a third small Vishnu temple inside the fort enclosing an area of about one and half acres at the top of the hillock. Traditionally, the erection of the fort is attributed to Ramachandra Nayaka, a poligar of Sendamangalam or to Lakshmi Narasimmayya, an attendant of Mysore king. Probably the temple was built in the early Chola and later Pandya times, but the fort would have been built round about 1700. It was captured by the British in 1768, who lost it in the same year to Hyder Ali. The English garrisoned it in 1792. The hill fort and Varadharaja Perumal temple therein are accessible most easily on the south-west. They are also accessible on the north, but is somewhat difficult.

On the south-east side of the hillock, there is a tank called கமலாலயம் (Kamalalayam—home of Lotus) with a mantapam at the centre. This tank is the source of drinking water supply for the town and is sacred to Namagiriāmmān, the consort of Lord Vishnu in His incarnation of Narasimhan. According to a legend, Hanuman was carrying Sanjivi hills to Lanka to revive Lakshmana who was struck down senseless in the battle with Ravana. On his way, he alighted at the banks of Gandaki river and collected Saligram, the sacred stone from the river bed. It was nothing but Lord Narasimhan, who assumed this form after the destruction of Hiranya to fulfil the wishes of Prahalathan. His consort Namagiriāmmān was then doing penance near the tank Kamalayam. On seeing water in the tank, Hanuman kept the Saligram aside and began to quench his thirst, but could not take it again, which, by then, converted itself as the existing sacred hillock at Namakkal. Hanuman realised the presence of Lord Vishnu and His consort in the form of Narasimhan and Namagiriāmmān and worshipped them. To commemorate this incident, a colossal statue of Hanuman about 18 feet high was established which represents him as worshipping towards Narasimhaswami temple. His eyes are believed to rest on the feet of Narasimhaswami, for whom three poojas are performed in a day by a hereditary Brahmin priest. The temple had an annual income of Rs. 13,600 for fasli 1375. The Hindu Religious and Charitable Endowment (Administration) Department has estimated the value of the jewellery as Rs. 1,34,415.

Nine vahanams, five cars and a palanquin are attached to the temple. The chief annual car festival is celebrated in the month of பங்குனி (Panguni)—March–April, which is attended by about 10,000 devotees. A Board of five trustees and an Executive Officer manage the temple affairs.

148. KABILARMALAI

Sri Balasubramaniaswami Temple

At the 11th mile South-west of Namakkal on the National highways towards Karur, a road branches towards west. At the 5th mile on this branch road lies Kabilarmalai. It could be reached by bus very easily from Namakkal. It could also be reached by covering a distance of five miles towards east after getting down from the train either at Kolanalli or Unjalur Railway Station of Coimbatore District on the Erode—Tiruchirapalli section of the Southern Railways. Here lies a hillock which is known for Sri Balasubramaniam temple. There is also a temple for Vinayagar and a rock where Kabilar is believed to have lived, meditated and installed the image of the presiding deity. Kabilar was renowned literateur who was patronised by the great King Pari. In view of the proximity of Kabilarmalai to Kollimalai, Pirammalai and other places connected with the above account, it can reasonably be assumed that there may be some truth in the local belief that Kabilar, lived and meditated in the hillock and installed the presiding deity. The greatness of Kabilar is also testified by ancient Tamil verses in praise of him composed by leading poets (சங்கப் புலவர்கள்) like Nakkirar (in Ahananuru 78), Porundhivilangirar (in Purananuru 53), Nappasalaiyar (in Purananuru 126) etc.

Kabilar is supposed to have sat on a vertical rock of Kabilarmalai and meditated. A spear has now been installed over that rock. At the top of the hillock, there is a small temple for Vinayagar. A flight of 130 steps leads to Balasubramaniamswami temple at the middle of the hillock. The temple has no gopuram. It can be called a cave temple as the image of the presiding deity, believed to have been installed by Kabilar is inside a cave. Festival deity has Valli and Deivayanai as His consorts, but there is no image for them in the sanctum sanctorum. Cobblers are prohibited to enter the temple but they have more faith in the temple and visit it in large numbers. They worship standing by the side of the flag mast and leave big chappals as their offerings to God. Two poojas are performed every day by a Brahmin priest. The chief annual festival is celebrated in January—February (Thai). About 10,000 persons attend this festival. Formerly the temple was managed by Mittadhars and Zamindhar. At present, the temple is under the management of a Board of three trustees. The temple has jewellery worth of about Rs. 2,000/-.

Its annual income in fasli 1375 was estimated at Rs. 2,338.

176. MOHANUR

Achchaladheepeswarar Temple

Mohanur is on the banks of the Cauvery river and forms the southern-most part of Salem district. It is eleven miles south of Namakkal, the taluk headquarters and seven miles from the nearest railway station Karur of Tiruchirapalli district. It is well connected by bus service from all sides. There are four temples in this place, one dedicated to Bala Subramaniam, another to Karuppannaswami and Kaliyamman, the third one to Achchaladheepeswarar and the fourth one to Vanniakula Drowpathiamman.

The name of the place is supposed to be a corruption of மகன் ஊர் (Mahanur) or the son's place. It is said that Lord Siva and His consort searched for Their son Subramanya and found this to be the son's place. It is also said that as soon as the mother found the son, She was overjoyed so much that instinctively milk flowed from Her breast. Even to-day, a stream of water flows underground from a spring inside the sanctum sanctorum of the Amman in Achchaladheepeswarar temple and is supposed to symbolise the milk that emanated. The temple has a single prakaram with no gopuram at the entrance. Vimanams seem to follow the Chola style of architecture. The temple lies on the banks of the river Cauvery and has a bathing ghat. The image of the presiding deity is a Swayambu Lingam. The light in front of the presiding deity never flickers and hence He is known by the name அச்சலதீபேஸ்வரர் (Achchaladheepeswarar or God of the unmoving light). His consort is known as Madhukaraveni (மதுகரவேணி). The presiding deity faces west towards the river while the shrine of His consort is on the north and faces east. The image of Amman is about six feet in height and impressive. There is a separate sanctum for Lord Muruga in between those of the presiding deity and His consort. The temple occupies a space of nearly one acre. It is managed by a Board of two trustees. In fasli 1375, the temple had an annual income of Rs. 4,059 mainly from the 1½ acres of coconut grove and dastic allowance. Two poojas are performed in a day, but very few devotees visit the temple. Formerly the annual festival was celebrated during Visakam in the month of வைகாசி (Vaikasi)

May-June. Large number of devotees, who attend the festival of Navaladi—Karuppannaswami (He that sits at the foot of Naval tree) and Kaliyamman in the months of சித்திரை (Chithirai—April-May) and தை (Thai—January-February) visit Achchaladheepeswarar temple as well.
