FOREWORD

This volume—Part II-A of the 1961 Madhya Pradesh Census Series—presents the principal demographic tables. The whole scheme of publication relating to the 1961 Census appears elsewhere in these pages.

2. A Post-Enumeration check, organized in March, 1961, a little more than two weeks after the census, showed that, for India and Madhya Pradesh, the true population per 1,000 enumerated at the census lies between the following upper and lower limits :

	Upper Limit			Lower Limit
	Total	Rural	Urban	Total	Rural	Urban
Madhya Pradesh	1,004	1,005	1,011	998	999	985
India ..	1,008	1,007	1,013	1,006	1,005	1,007

The confidence value is 99·7%. The estimated true population per 1,000 enumerated at the census, taking into consideration the errors revealed by the Post-Enumeration check, is as follows :

Estimated True Population
	Total	Rural	Urban
Madhya Pradesh	1,001	1,002	998
India ..	1,007	1,006	1,010

Shri S. P. Jain, Deputy Registrar General, India, has this to say in this connection :

“The percentages of under and over enumeration were respectively ·19 in rural and ·15 in urban. At State level the net percentage of under enumeration was ·14 with percentage sampling error of 79·8. On the basis of these calculations, it can be stated that the upper and lower limits of the actual population of the State was between 998 and 1,004 per 1,000 shown by the census with the 99·7% confidence level. In other words, it can be stated with 99·7 % confidence that the actual population of the State could be between 32,307,663 and 32,501,898.”

3. As time passes and our need for information becomes more varied, the census becomes wider in scope and its concepts become more difficult. To get these across to the huge enumeration army and to see that the job is finished according to schedule are both difficult tasks and the credit must really go to the whole organisation. There were nearly 50,000 enumerators and over 9,000 supervisors—the people at the base of the pyramid—who did their jobs conscientiously and made a success of the census. The more diligent among them have been rewarded in some measure but the real incentive to estimable performance must generally have been the satisfaction one hopes to get from a difficult job, well-begun and well-done. I must, therefore, express my sense of deep gratitude to these countless men and women and to the Collectors, District Census Officers, Sub-Divisional Officers, Block Development Officers and Tahsildars who handled this difficult job magnificently. Within the Census Organisation itself, the Deputy Superintendents of Census Operations—Shri K. D. Ballal (now in the IAS), Shri K. S. Bhatnagar, Shri G. N. Tiwari, Shri P. K. Dixit and Shri K. C. Dubey—and the Chief Technical Assistant, Shri Dayaram Gupta, who has been serving the census throughout practically all his working life, worked very hard and toured extensively in connection with the census; the subsequent tabulation programme, which was very elaborate and intricate, was also handled by these officers with great expedition. Shri Ballal had the additional responsibility of urban tabulation for the whole State and has been rewarded for his efforts by being assigned the even more arduous responsibility of Central Tabulation for the whole country. To the Central Tabulation Office, headed to begin with by Shri G. V. Badhe, must go a good deal of the credit for the accuracy of these tables; even though insistent, they have always been co-operative and helpful. I am also deeply indebted to Shri P. N. Phadnis, my personal assistant, for performing a variety of tasks with great efficiency, to Shri R. G. Sakalle, Head Assistant, for diligently dealing with all administrative matters, and to Shri P. C. Modi, Shri N. C. Ghosh, Shri K. B. Srivastava and Shri M. L. Sharma for their specially valuable roles in compilation and tabulation. And to Shri Asok Mitra, ICS, Census Commissioner and Registrar General, India, we in the Census Organisation are deeply beholden for being always ready to help us in our difficulties and for enabling us to see our way through the myriad-faceted maze that the census appears to be to the uninitiated beginner. Owing to the fact that Shri D. Natarajan, Deputy Registrar General, was always helpful to us, we hardly had any difficulty on the administration side; to him, our grateful thanks.

4. Even though centrally organised and directed, the operational responsibility in a census falls almost completely on State administrations. It was, therefore, fortunate for us that the sympathetic guidance and support of Shri H.S. Kamath, ICS, Chief Secretary, and Shri K. Radhakrishnan, ICS, who officiated for some time as Chief Secretary and is now Chairman of the Madhya Pradesh Public Service Commission, were always available; to them I am extremely grateful. In the midst of pressing daily routine, Shri Kamath was also good enough to sign as many as 740 Sanads for outstanding work in the census which will be cherished as prized possessions by the recipients for long years to come. Secretaries to Government in various departments were invariably helpful and I should mention in particular Shri P. S. Bapna, IAS, Secretary to Government, Planning and Development Department, Shri M. P. Shrivastava, IAS, then Home Secretary, and Shri N. D. Gupta, IAS, Revenue Secretary. Commissioners and Heads of Departments spared substantial detachments of staff from their offices for the census but the biggest burden of all fell on the Director of Public Instruction, Shri S. P. Verma, who made clear to the men under him the importance he attached to the census; teachers will always be one of the operational pillars of the census—the other being the patwaris. Both before and after enumeration, printing is an important matter for the census. I should, therefore, thank Shri G. N. Parthasarathi, Superintendent, Shri B. S. Holkar, Additional Superintendent, Shri Ram Roop Singh and Shri W. D. Sawant, Deputy Superintendents, and Shri S. P. Nigam, Shri R. P. Berry and Shri P. C. Sharma, Assistant Superintendents, Government Printing, Madhya Pradesh, for being very helpful in this matter and for always attempting to reach the highest possible standards in printing. Finally, I shall always remember with deep gratitude the encouragement and support which Dr. K. N. Katju, then Chief Minister, and Shri Narsingh Rao Dixit, then Deputy Minister (Home) and now Minister for Commerce and Industry, extended to the census.

5. In this volume, which is the first instalment of the massive array of census figures to be released, the reader will find a note preceding each table explaining the concepts involved and the main features of the Tables. The discussion regarding areas in the Note to Table A-I has been made particularly exhaustive so that, at least from this census onwards, this business of matching unit for unit to facilitate comparability may not prove as difficult as it did in the past.

PREFATORY NOTE

THE CENSUS OF INDIA, 1961—OPERATIONAL ASPECTS

1. Basis of 1961 Census : de facto-cum-de jure

The 1961 Census was organised, as in 1951, on a de facto-cum-de jure basis; the period of enumeration was from 10th February 1961 to 5th March 1961—24 days in all. The actual count ended on 28th February 1961 so far as the household population was concerned; the remaining five days were devoted to : (a) the enumeration of houseless population; (b) the checking of household population schedules with a view to making them correct as at sunrise on 1st March 1961—the reference point for the census; and (c) the preparation of abstracts. The de jure nature of the census results from the enumeration instruction that, unless a person was expected to be away from his household throughout the period of the count ending on 28th February 1961 (inclusive), he was to be enumerated in his usual place of residence; it is not unreasonable to assume that, owing to such long absences being few and far between, the de facto element in the enumeration does not produce any significant distortion of the census results.

2. The Rural-Urban classification

As the rural-urban classification of habitations is operationally cardinal, it was tackled first and the list of towns was finalised, for all practical purposes, in January, 1960; it was, at that time, intended that, in the case of 28 “towns” in respect of which the 1951 Census figures did not satisfy the criteria adopted for urban areas in the 1961 Census, a re-examination should be undertaken after the 1961 Census figures became available. In the event, the re-examination showed that the inclusion of these towns would add no new element of distortion in addition to such as the definition per se engenders. (For a further discussion, please see para 6 of the fly-leaf to Table A-I in this volume; also, on the administrative aspects, please see Administration Report, Part VIII-A para 18). There were 219 towns in the 1961 Census.

3. The census and its stages

The habitation, the house and, last, the person—these, in a thorough census, are the three categories that require to be taken up and dealt with in that order. The compilation of the ‘General Village Register’—tahsil-wise lists of rural and urban habitations—started in December 1959 and was mostly completed during the course of the first six months of 1960. It was discovered that Madhya Pradesh has 76,843 villages in its 43 districts; of these, 6,429 are uninhabited. A very small number of villages, though normally uninhabited, had to be treated as inhabited because, during the course of the count, a few houseless persons were enumerated in them.

4. House-numbering and house-listing

The listing of habitations completed, house-numbering and house-listing were then taken up during the period of forty days from 1st September 1960 to 10th October 1960. In urban areas, however, the numbering of buildings was initiated much earlier, i.e. in May 1960, owing to the fact that a new system of numbering involving street-wise (or, in the case of well laid-out new colonies, ill-defined and isolated clusters, etc., locality-wise) serials was sought to be introduced and involved a complete break from past practices in this field. The State Government are being requested to ensure that these numbers are properly and permanently maintained—the whole intention of the new scheme was to develop permanence in house-numbers—but, owing to the varying levels of efficiency among local authorities, it is difficult to say how far this object will in fact be achieved; time alone can tell. During the course of house-listing, village maps were made mostly on a notional basis and are being preserved as permanent census records though many of them turned out to be extremely competent attempts at map-making. House-listing in the 1961 Census was developed into a systematic, elaborate and statistically fruitful operation. The form of the house-list (20"×13½") is reproduced on the next two pages on a reduced scale.

A whole series of new tables—the E-series—have been constructed from the house-lists and have been separately published (Part IV). What the 1961 Census did to the house-list was to retain its ancillary character—its raison d'être—but, simultaneously, make it a census of houses which indicated in respect of each census house : (1) the purpose for which it was used; in the case of census-houses used partly or fully as workshops or factories, (2) the nature of activity in terms of final product or service, (3) the number employed, and (4) the kind of power used, where machinery was employed; the nature of material of (5) the walls and (6) the roof; in the case of residential census-houses, (7) the number of rooms in the occupation of the household, (8) whether or not the portion occupied by the household was rented, the number of (9) males, (10) females, and (11) persons in the household. Six of the other seven columns of the house-list (it had 18 in all) related to the usual identificatory details : (a) serial number; (b) building

5. Results of house-listing

Important figures as obtained during house-listing and later during enumeration are compared below :

1		2	3	4	5
1 Population
(a) Persons
(i) Total		31,902,916	32,372,468	-469,492	-1.47
(ii) Rural		27,333,419	27,745,174	-411,755	-1.51

(c) Females
(i) Total		15,546,294	15,794,264	-247,970	-1.59
(ii) Rural		13,432,718	13,660,136	-227,418	-1.69
(iii) Urban		2,113,576	2,134,068	-20,492	-0.97
2 Houses and households
(a) Census houses (occupied, residential)
(i) Total		6,379,263	6,230,854	+148,409	+2.33
(ii) Rural		5,436,967	5,376,498	+60,469	+1.11
(iii) Urban		942,296	854,356	+87,940	+9.33
(b) Census households
(i) Total		6,640,314	6,615,580	+24,734	+0.37
(ii) Rural		5,673,521	5,628,373	+45,148	+0.80
(iii) Urban		966,793	987,207	-20,414	-2.11

There can be little doubt about the accuracy of the population figures of the house-lists. There is a consistent decrease in the number of census-houses though, in total, it is no more than 2.33%. There is a decrease in the number of rural households but an increase in the number of urban households. There seems here to be an element of migration.

6. Instructions for house-listing

(i) Columns 1-4. Columns 1, 2 and 3 were meant for 'serial (line) number', 'the building number' and 'the census-house number'. In spite of walls being common, buildings were to be considered separate on the basis of differences in (a) ownership; (b) dates of construction; and (c) style and other features of construction—particularly, entrances. However, there was this complication that a scatter of separate buildings in an enclosed or open compound if, in fact, they are under common ownership and are to one another as parts of a single building (the main house, kitchen, garage, servants' quarters, etc.) was to be treated as a single building; it is doubtful whether this instruction was generally followed except in the specific instance of a separate cattle-shed in the same ग्रहा (compound or enclosure) where, more often than not, it was treated as a separate census-house and not as a separate building. "A census-house is a structure or part of a structure inhabited or vacant, or a dwelling, a shop, a shop-cum-dwelling or a place of business, workshop, school, etc., with a separate entrance." Where a building has more than one census-house, the latter were to be separately numbered. The next seven columns—i.e. from col. 4 to col. 10—contained details regarding census-houses. Col. 4 was to indicate the purpose for which the census-house was used; these uses are of course numerous and combinations of one or more among them can show great variation. The instructions essentially required that: (a) a dwelling should always be shown whether the house was used solely as a dwelling or used for other purposes also—i.e. shop-cum-dwelling, workshop-cum-dwelling, etc.; (b) a workshop or production centre was to be entered as a 'workshop' if not registered under the Factories Act and as a 'factory' if registered thereunder; and (c) vacant houses were to be described as such. But there was an element of uncertainty about whether verification of the fact of registration was everywhere feasible and the instructions, as they stand, imply that factories pending registration should be entered as workshops. What actually was done in cases where the factories ought, under law, to be registered but no applications have been made is not definitely known but they probably figure as workshops. In the final tables, therefore, workshops and factories have been shown together and not separately.

(ii) Columns 5-8. Columns 5 to 8 (four in all) applied only to workshops or factories. Column 5 was to have an identifying entry—the name of the establishment or of the proprietor. Column 6 showed the nature of activity and contained a description of the output, if there was some production. Column 7 gave the 'average number of persons employed daily last week (including proprietor or household members, if any)'. Establishments which were closed down whether temporarily or permanently were so described or their seasonal character indicated. Casual labour was excluded. Column 8 was to name the kind of power used if it was other than human; where more than one kind of power was used, the principal kind was to be entered.

(iii) Columns 9-10. Column 9 and Column 10 relate to the walls and the roofs (topmost, upper or exposed surface) respectively, the material of which most of them were made having to be indicated. The roof of an interjacent flat would be the floor of the one above it.

(iv) Columns 11-17. Columns 11 to 17 relate to households. Column 11 was for the number of the household which was the same as the census-house number if there was only one household but, if there was more than one, the households had to be (sub-) numbered separately. "A household is a group of persons who commonly live together and would take their meals from a common kitchen unless the exigencies of work prevented any of them from doing so." A hostel or a hotel is, therefore, a "census household". Column 12 gave the name of the head of the household except that where another census-house was used as a sitting place or cattle-shed or for some such domestic purpose by the head of a household who had figured as such in the case of one census-house, the nature of use and his name were to be shown. This instruction caused difficulties in tabulation because it had to be crossed out to facilitate the drawal of the 20% tabulation sample. The number of rooms in the occupation of a census household was to be entered in Column 13. On the field, considerable difficulty was experienced by investigators in deciding whether, in border-line cases, a structure was or was not to be called a room—which "should usually have four walls with a doorway with a roof overhead and should be wide and long enough for a person to sleep in i.e., it should be at least 6' long". During the course of tabulation, it was found that sometimes a household was shown as having not a single room even and, more often, the entry in Column 9 showed there was no roof at all. All such—and other doubtful—cases were included in the category of 'No Regular Room'. The 20% sample showed that, out of 1,328,171 (actual percentage of the sample—20.0016) households, 4,014 households (0.3%) had 'no regular room'—which contained a population of 12,982 persons (6846 males, 6136 females); the total (house-list) sample population being 6,393,240 persons (3,273,276 males, 3,119,964 females), the percentage is 0.2. Column 17 was for indicating whether the census-house (or part thereof) in the possession of the household was owned or rented; whatever was not owned was treated as rented whether or not rent was actually paid.

(v) Columns 15-18. Columns 15-17 provided population figures which were of considerable assistance in the formation of enumeration blocks. The instruction was that, irrespective of considerations relating to normal residence, the number of persons actually found 'on the day of the visit' in a household was to be entered. The house-list population results compiled from field abstracts have been indicated in para 5 supra. Column 18 was an omnibus column containing various entries expected to be helpful at the later stage of enumeration but otherwise statistically not significant.

7. Basic house-list statistics : census-houses and their uses

(i) It was found that, in Madhya Pradesh, there were 8,974,052 census-houses, the detailed percentage break-up of which is as follows :

Category of census-house	Total ¹	Rural ²	Urban ²
1	2	3	4
1 All Categories	100.00	86.3	13.7
2 Vacant	4.86	81.5	18.5
3 Dwellings	66.75	85.2	14.8
4 Shop-cum-Dwellings	0.71	70.1	29.9
5 Workshop-cum-Dwellings	3.63	88.3	11.7
6 Hotels, Hostels, Sarais, Dharmashalas, Tourist Homes and Inspection Houses	0.18	68.2	31.8
7 Shops (excluding eating houses)	1.10	36.5	63.5
8 Business Houses and Offices	0.17	39.2	60.8
9 Factories and Workshops	0.39	62.2	37.8
10 Schools and other Educational Institutions including training classes, coaching classes and shop classes	0.30	85.7	14.3
11 Restaurants, sweetmeat shops and eating places	0.02	62.4	37.6
12 Places of entertainment (cinemas, theatres, clubs, gymnasia) and community gathering (Panchayat Ghar)	1.20	86.8	13.2
13 Public Health and Medical Institutions, Hospitals, Health Centres, Doctors' Clinics, Dispensaries, etc.	0.08	55.1	44.9
14 Others	20.11	95.6	4.4

1. Each percentage in this column is based on the total number of census-houses.

2. Each percentage in this column is based on the total of that category.

8. Enumeration

Enumeration began on 10th February 1961 and ended on 5th March 1961. The enumerator's job consisted of filling in (a) the Household Schedule; (b) the Individual Slip; and (c) the Census Population Record (printed on the reverse of the Household Schedule). These three schedules are reproduced in the following pages in actual size:

9. The Household Schedule

The Household Schedule was the second novel feature of the 1961 Census and was designed to secure information on two important categories of India's rural economy—agriculture and household industry—apart from incidentally separating institutional population from other household population. In a rectangle at the top, the nature of the institution was to be indicated. These 'institutional' household schedules were separately classified and the following figures were the result:

Institutional Population in Madhya Pradesh

Type of Institution	Number of Institutions	Population
		Pers- ons	Males	Fema- les
1 All types ..	3,138	91,142	79,527	11,615
2 Hotels ..	220	1,399	1,381	18
3 Hospitals ..	324	6,910	3,946	2,964
4 Hostels ..	1,250	45,755	39,286	6,469
5 Temples, etc. ..	204	2,119	1,779	340
6 Miscellaneous ..	1,140	34,959	33,135	1,824

Cultivation. In a parallelogram immediately below was to be indicated whether, and, if so, to which, scheduled caste/tribe the household belongs. Part A, following, dealt with cultivation. Land was to be entered in two principal categories—(1) land held and (2) 'land given to private persons for cultivation for payment in money, kind or share'; the former category was further divided into two sub-categories: "Land under cultivation by the household (i) owned or held" in owner-like possession, i.e. "from Government" and (ii) "held from private persons or institutions for payment in money, kind or share". Permanent or longterm fallows were to be excluded. In the case of each of these three categories, the "local name" of the right in which each parcel of each category was held and its area were to be entered opposite in vertical columns, pieces of land held under the same right being totalled up to make the "parcel". Part B dealt with "household industry" which was defined in terms of three main characteristics: it should be conducted (a) "by the Head of the household himself and/or mainly by members of the household"; (b) "at home or within the village in rural areas and only at home in urban areas"; (c) it should not be on the scale of a registered factory. The nature of household industry was to be described in one column and, in another, "the number of months in the year during which conducted" was to be entered. In Part C, details regarding workers in cultivation and/or household industry were to be entered classifying them on the basis of their being members of the family or hired workers. Casual workers were excluded. A 20% sample of these schedules has been tabulated yielding seven Household Economic Tables (B-X to B-XVI) and one of the special Tables for Scheduled Castes and Tribes (SCT-V).

10. The Individual Slip

The entry relating to the location code not counted, the individual slip contains in all 24 questions grouped into 13 major questions. The first question required the name to be recorded and the relationship to the Head of the household fully described except in the case of the Head himself who was to be recorded as such. Institutional population would be recorded as 'unrelated'. Q. 2 and Q. 3 deal with 'Age last birthday' and 'Marital Status', the emphasis in the case of the latter being on the factual position where formally undefined or unrecognised. Q. 4 was an elaborate one requiring, first, the birth place to be recorded (where birth was outside the district of enumeration, the name of the district was to be recorded if born within the State and, if born outside the State, the district, where known, and State were to be recorded). The exotic complication of non-terrestrial or dynamic nativity was also provided for. Next, in part (b), the urban/rural character of the birth place was to be indicated. Part (c) relates to the 'duration of residence' in the place of enumeration. Q. 5 deals with (a) nationality; (b) religion; and (c) scheduled castes/tribes. Scheduled castes were limited to Hindus and Sikhs. Q. 6 deals with Literacy and Education. "The test for reading" was "ability to read any simple letter either in print or in manuscript" and "the test for writing" was "ability to write a simple letter". Thus, the honour of being considered literate was not extended to the person whose claim to it was based solely on the ability to 'draw' his name on paper. Where a person had attained to some standards in education (like degrees, diplomas, etc.), full details were to be given. Q. 7 deals with (a) mother-tongue; and (b) bilingualism (no more than two even in the case of a linguistic polymath!). Q. 13 relates to sex.

11. Workers

(i) Questions 8-11 deal with workers and Q. 12, with non-workers. The introduction of the concept of 'work' in the 1961 Census did away with the complications inevitable in earlier census concepts based on "adequacy of income". In the case of "seasonal" workers, the requirement was that the person should have "had some regular work of more than one hour a day throughout the greater part of the" current or previous "working season". In the case of regular workers, having worked for at least a day during the previous fortnight was adequate and absence owing to illness or other such causes was not a bar to being treated as a worker. The case of the irregular, non-seasonal worker was somewhat vague in the instructions themselves but the numerous illustrations given clarified the position. "A public or social service worker who is actively engaged in public service activity or a political worker who is also engaged in furthering the political activity of his party will be regarded as a worker."

(ii) The questions about work. Q. 8 was meant for 'cultivation' which was defined not only in terms of the kind of activity intended (e. g., "supervision or direction of cultivation" was also "cultivation") but also in terms of the output produced (e.g., while the production of tuberiferous vegetables like potato or of commercial crops like ground-nut was 'cultivation', the production of other vegetables or of commercial, non-edible oil-seed crops like castor was not and had to be put under Q. 11). Q. 9 deals with agricultural labour. Q. 10, which relates to household industry, was in three parts: (a) the nature of the person's work; (b) the nature of the industry; and (c) whether or not the person was an employee in 'household' industry. Q. 11 was meant for the residual omnibus category not covered by Q. 8, Q. 9 or Q. 10. This was in four parts—(a) nature of the person's work; (b) "the nature of industry, profession, trade or service"; (c) class of worker, i.e. whether employer, employee, single worker or family worker; and (d) name of establishment. Apart from recording the appropriate answers against these questions, the number of the question which related to the principal occupation of the person was to be 'ringed' if he was doing more than one kind of work and the number of the question which related to his secondary occupation was to be "ticked" in the case of a person with more than two kinds of work.

12. Non-workers

The 1961 Census will also remain notable for the detailed classification of non-workers into the following eight categories: (a) Full-time students; (b) Housewives; (c) Infants, children of less than school-going age, invalids and other such dependents; (d) Retired persons, rentiers and independent persons not working; (e) Beggars, Vagrants, "independent women without indication of source of income" and others of "unspecified sources of existence"—this is the country's corps of maladjusted irregulars; (f) Convicts (excluding undertrials) and inmates of penal, mental or charitable institutions; (g) Persons not employed before and seeking employment for the first time; and (h) Persons employed before, now out of employment and seeking employment.

13. Enumeration procedure

All normal residents including those who were likely to be absent from their households only for a part of the period of enumeration were to be enumerated and, conversely, guests found in a household who expected to be away from their households throughout the period of enumeration were to be enumerated in the host-households. Houseless persons were to be enumerated on the night of 28th February—1st March 1961 and, wherever necessary, on one or two subsequent nights. Each household was to be visited again during 1st to 5th March 1961 in order that unrecorded, recent births might be included and slips relating to persons who died since enumeration cancelled. Simultaneously, the Census Population Record was filled up and the abstracts made.

14. The Census Population Record

The Census Population Record, analogous to the 1951 National Register of Citizens, was to be compiled from the individual slips of each household—whether normal or institutional. This is to be maintained as an inter-censal record. Table C-1 relating to the size and composition of (sample) households is based on the Census Population Record

15. Tabulation

In the matter of tabulation also, the 1961 Census has not only introduced a much greater degree of elaboration but some important innovations were made. Workers have been classified both according to the Standard Industrial Classification and according to the National Classification of Occupations; the result is a much clearer picture of the 'working force' though, in respect of the third digit of the code, a high degree of accuracy cannot be claimed because of the relevant entries being not infrequently inadequate in the necessary detail. For Scheduled Castes/Tribes some special tables have been compiled; it is, however, important to bear in mind in this connexion that, as enumeration was strictly based on the President's Order of 1956, i.e., as the scheduling related not only to castes/tribes but also to areas, the population of these castes/tribes as shown in the tables is not their true total population in the State; the degree of imperfection is unascertainable. Single-year ages have been tabulated for the whole population but the basic age return, in the rural areas especially, continues to be unsatisfactory. The classification of the population on the basis of various levels of educational attainment and of non-workers is also a great and novel step forward.

16. The Census Calendar

The Census Calendar, for the first time, was designed like the ordinary pictorial calendar in colour and gave a month-wise break-up of the operational programme as follows:

"THE CENSUS OF INDIA, 1961"

CALENDAR OF OPERATIONS:

June 1960

The numbering of "buildings" starts in urban areas and continues throughout the month.

July 1960

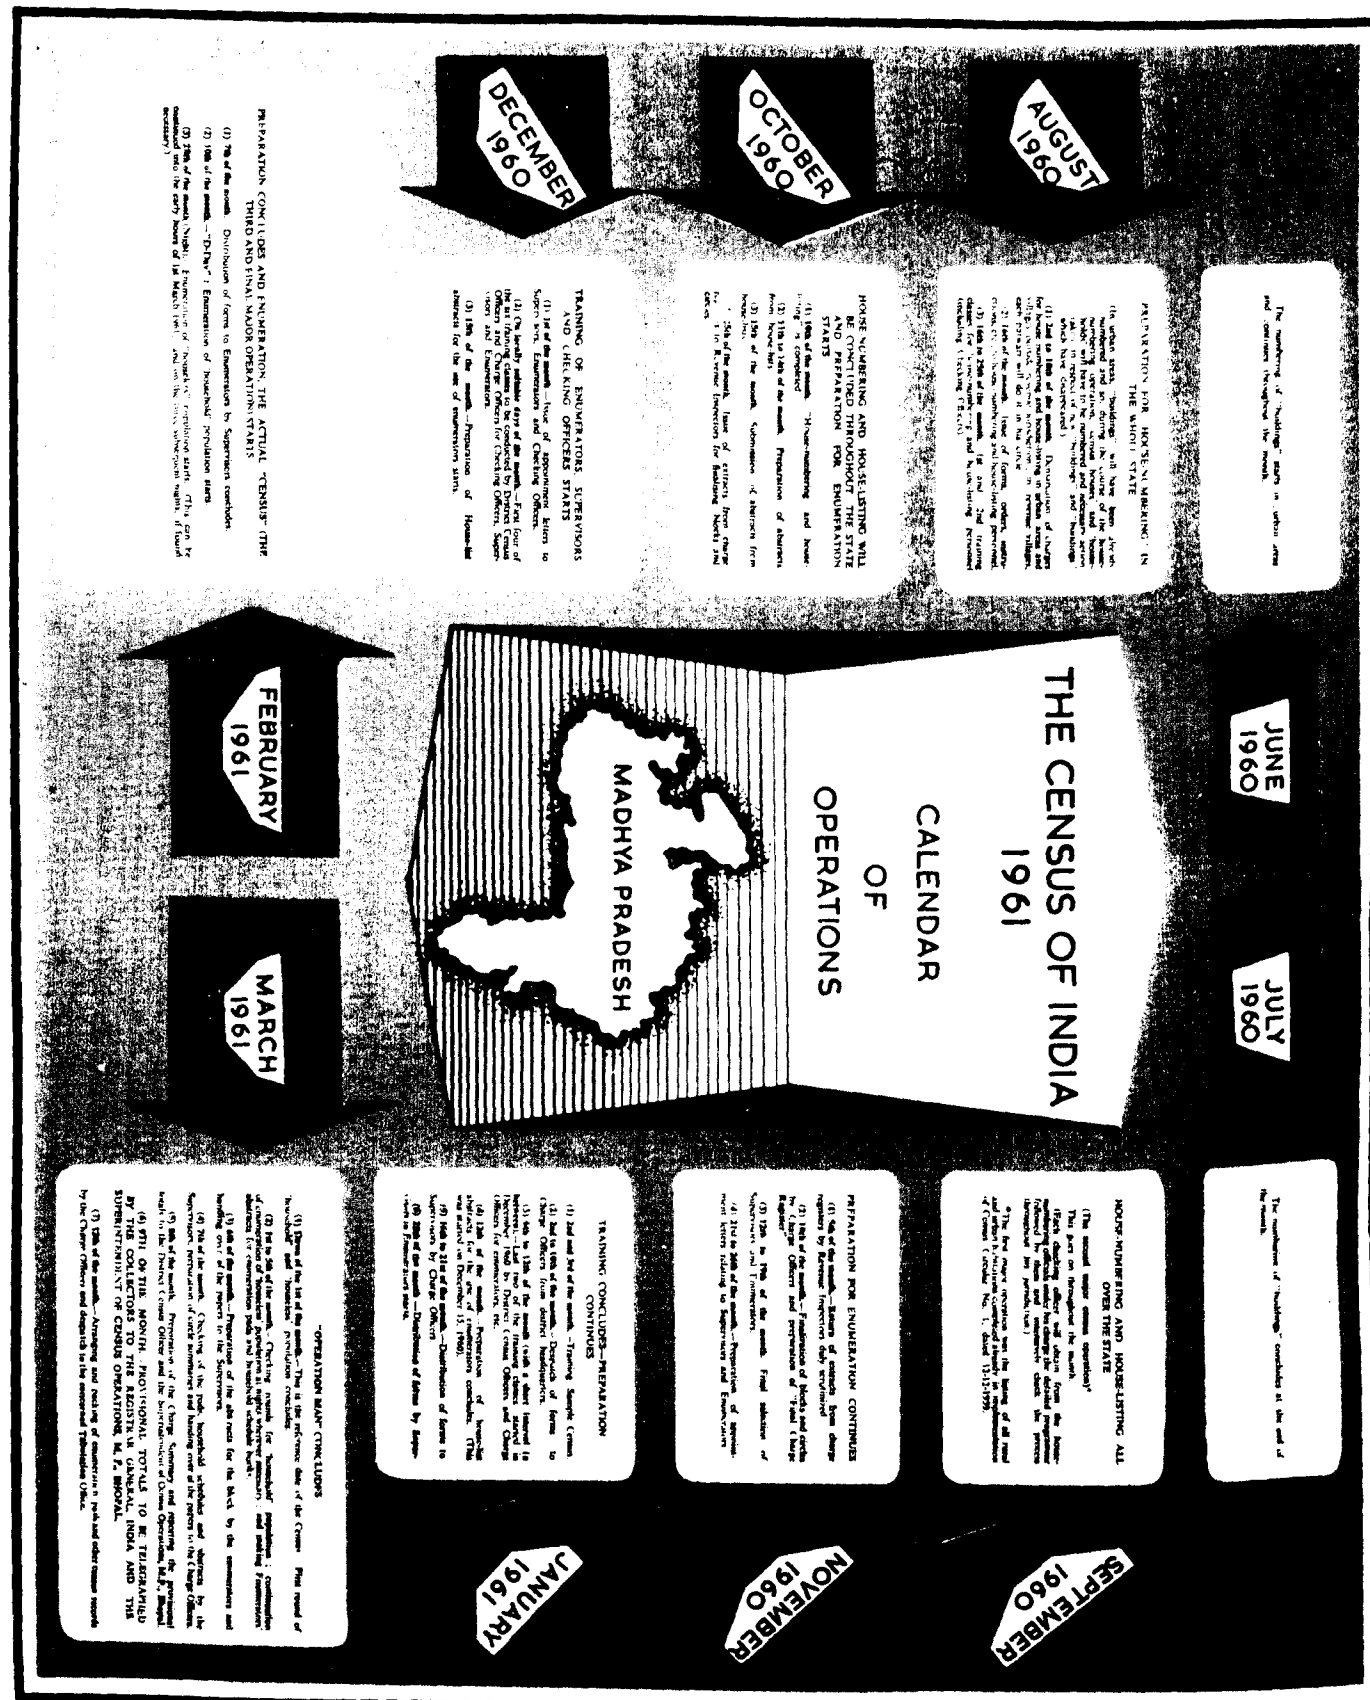

The numbering of "buildings" concludes at the end of the month.

August 1960

PREPARATION FOR "HOUSE-NUMBERING" IN THE WHOLE STATE

(In urban areas "buildings" will have been already numbered and so, during the course of the 'house-numbering' operation, 'census-houses' and 'households' will have to be numbered and necessary action taken in respect of new "buildings" and "buildings" which have disappeared.)

1. 2nd to 10th of the month. Demarcation of charges for house-numbering and house-listing in urban areas and villages outside revenue jurisdiction; in revenue villages, each patwari will do it in his circle.

2. 16th of the month. Issue of forms, orders, instructions, etc., to house-numbering and house-listing personnel.

3. 16th to 25th of the month. 1st and 2nd training classes for house-numbering and house-listing personnel (including checking officers).

September 1960

HOUSE-NUMBERING AND HOUSE-LISTING ALL OVER THE STATE (The second major Census Operation)*

This goes on throughout the month.

(Each checking officer will obtain from the house-numbering officials under his charge the detailed programme followed by them and intensively check the process throughout his jurisdiction.)

October 1960

HOUSE-NUMBERING AND HOUSE-LISTING WILL BE CONCLUDED THROUGHOUT THE STATE AND PREPARATION FOR ENUMERATION STARTS

1. 10th of the month. "House-numbering and house-listing" is completed.

2. 11th to 14th of the month. Preparation of abstracts from house-lists.

3. 15th of the month. Submission of abstracts from house-lists.

4. 25th of the month. Issue of extracts from Charge Registers to Revenue Inspectors for finalising blocks and circles.

November 1960

PREPARATION FOR ENUMERATION CONTINUES

1. 5th of the month. Return of extracts from Charge Registers by Revenue Inspectors duly scrutinized.

2. 10th of the month. Finalization of blocks and circles by Charge Officers and preparation of "Final Charge Register".

3. 12th to 19th of the month. Final selection of Supervisors and Enumerators.

4. 21st to 26th of the month. Preparation of appointment letters relating to Supervisors and Enumerators.

December 1960

TRAINING OF ENUMERATORS, SUPERVISORS AND CHECKING OFFICERS STARTS

1. 1st of the month. Issue of appointment letters to Supervisors, Enumerators and Checking Officers.

2. On locally suitable days of the month. First four of the six training classes to be conducted by District Census Officers and Charge Officers for Checking Officers, Supervisors and Enumerators.

3. 15th of the month. Preparation of house-list abstracts for the use of enumerators starts.

January 1961

TRAINING CONCLUDES—PREPARATION CONTINUES

1. 2nd and 3rd of the month. Training Sample Census.

2. 2nd to 10th of the month. Despatch of forms to Charge Officers from district headquarters.

3. 6th to 12th of the month (with a short interval in between). Last two of the training classes started in December 1960 by District Census Officers and Charge Officers for enumerators, etc.

4. 12th of the month. Preparation of house-list abstracts for the use of enumerators concludes (This was started on December 15, 1960).

5. 16th to 21st of the month. Distribution of forms to Supervisors by Charge Officers.

6. 25th of the month. Distribution of forms by Supervisors to Enumerators starts.

February 1961

PREPARATION CONCLUDES AND ENUMERATION, THE ACTUAL "CENSUS" (THE THIRD AND FINAL MAJOR OPERATION) STARTS

1. 7th of the month. Distribution of forms to Enumerators by Supervisors concludes.

2. 10th of the month. "D-Day": Enumeration of 'household' population starts.

3. 28th of the month (Night). Enumeration of "houseless" population starts. (This can be continued into the early hours of 1st March 1961, and on the three subsequent nights, if found necessary.)

March 1961

"OPERATION MAN" CONCLUDES

1. Dawn of the 1st of the month. This is the reference date of the census. First round of 'household' and 'houseless' population concludes.

2. 1st to 5th of the month. Checking rounds for 'household' population; continuation of enumeration of 'houseless' population at nights wherever necessary and making enumerators' abstracts for enumeration pads and household schedule books.

3. 6th of the month. Preparation of the abstracts for the block by the enumerators and handing over of the papers to the Supervisors.

4. 7th of the month. Checking of the pads, household schedules and abstracts by the Supervisors, preparation of circle summaries and handing over of the papers to the Charge Officers.

5. 8th of the month. Preparation of the Charge Summary and reporting the provisional totals to the District Census Officer and the Superintendent of Census Operations, M. P., Bhopal.

6. 9th of the month. PROVISIONAL TOTALS TO BE TELEGRAPHED BY THE COLLECTORS TO THE REGISTRAR GENERAL, INDIA, AND THE SUPERINTENDENT OF CENSUS OPERATIONS, M. P., BHOPAL.

7. 12th of the month. Arranging and packing of enumeration pads and other census records by the Charge Officers and despatch to the concerned Tabulation Office."

17. Blocks and circles

The constitution of blocks and circles was tackled in two stages. "Provisional" Charge Registers were first made on the basis of assumed increases in the 1951 population and, after the house-list population figures became available, the Final Charge Registers were drawn up. A rural block had about 150 households (or a population of about 750) and an urban block, about 120 households (or a population of about 600).

18. The census hierarchy

The first Census Officer to be appointed and designated as such was the District Census Officer—a key figure in the census hierarchy. The State was divided into 216 charges, some purely rural, some purely urban and many, urban-rural, the figures of course being separately collected for rural and urban areas; in such combined charges, Additional Charge Officers were in many cases appointed by the Collectors. There were 49,531 blocks (urban 8,179; rural, 41,352) in Madhya Pradesh which were formed into 9,405 circles (urban 1,671; rural 7,734). The blocks and circles were drawn on maps and full coverage thus ensured.

19. Training

It will be seen from the calendar that training was very intensive in this census. For house-listing, the investigators had to go through two classes and enumerators, as many as six. The trainees were organised into small groups of about 40 or 50 each. At the higher levels, the Superintendent and Deputy Superintendents of Census Operations personally handled the training classes and the number of points clarified on telephone or through correspondence was legion. In spite of all this, the "economic" entries in the slips were not as good as it was thought they would be.

20. Storage of records

The places where census material of various kinds has been stored are indicated in the Administration Report, Part VIII-B (Tabulation).

*The first major operation was the listing of all rural and urban habitations completed already in implementation of Census Circular No. 1, dated the 12th December 1959.

TABLE A-I
AREA, HOUSES AND POPULATION

1. Brief account of changes in area of the State and Districts from 1901 to 1961

(a) 1951-1961.—(i) The New State. The present State of Madhya Pradesh, which came into existence on 1st November 1956, as a result of the reorganisation of States on a broadly linguistic basis in that year, and the erstwhile State of Madhya Pradesh resemble each other only in name; the former is not the result of some boundary adjustments made in the latter. It is a new State made up of five regions, three of which—Madhya Bharat, Vindhya Pradesh and Bhopal—have come in as whole States except for a small adjustment in respect of enclaves between Madhya Bharat and Rajasthan; also, it is this adjustment which explains the inclusion of one of the other two regions—Sironj sub-division of Vidisha District, which was formerly part of Rajasthan—in the present State. The fifth region is Mahakoshal which consists of 17* districts of erstwhile Madhya Pradesh. The area of the State (on the basis of the figures given by the Surveyor General, India, in 1951) is derived as follows :

	Sq. miles	Sq. miles
1 Mahakoshal (as in 1951)		93,392.00
2 Madhya Bharat : 1951 area	.. 46,478.00
Subtract area of Sunel Tappa	.. 148.85
	46,329.15	46,329.15
3 Vindhya Pradesh (as in 1951)		23,603.00
4 Bhopal (as in 1951)		6,878.00
5 Sironj Sub-division (as in 1951—from Rajasthan).		865.20
Total	..	171,067.35

To this must be added an area of 4.82 sq. miles transferred in 1960 from Rajasthan to this State relating to part of three villages; this was to ensure that the Headworks of the Chambal Hydel Dam was located wholly in Madhya Pradesh. The final area, therefore, is 171,072.17 sq. miles.

(ii) Area: latest figures. However, the area figures supplied for this census by the Surveyor General in May, 1959 as corrected up to 31st March 1959 are different in the case of practically every district. The total area, according to these figures is 171,217 sq. miles but to this must be added the area of 4.82 sq. miles (this area not being that indicated by the Surveyor General but that based on village papers) referred to in sub-para (i). The correct area of the State, therefore, is 171,221.82 sq. miles.

(iv) There is no change at all in area, jurisdiction or internal constitution as between 1951 and 1961 in respect of 22 districts; the remaining 21 districts have undergone some kind of change or the other. A detailed account of these changes is given in a later section.

(b) 1941-51.—(i) In the case of 28 of the 1961 districts, there is no change introduced by inter-district transfers. These are (a) the 22 districts referred to in para 1 (a) (iv) above; and (b) 6 more districts which have changed internally but not in relation to other districts. The following two lists show these districts:

A—Districts which have not changed in any manner during 1951-61:

1 Morena	12 Raisen
2 Datia	13 Hoshangabad
3 Tikamgarh	14 Betul
4 Chhatarpur	15 Sagar
5 Shahdol	16 Damoh
6 Sidhi	17 Jabalpur
7 Dewas	18 Narsimhapur
8 West Nimar	19 Chhindwara
9 East Nimar	20 Seoni
10 Shajapur	21 Balaghat
11 Sehore	22 Bastar

B—Districts which have changed internally but which have not altered in area as a result of transfers:

1 Shivpuri	4 Durg
2 Rajgarh	5 Raipur
3 Surguja	6 Mandla

It follows that the 1941-1901 populations of these districts are the same as adjusted and shown in the 1951 Census. The 1941-1901 tahsil populations as adjusted and shown in the 1951 Census also remain unchanged in the case of the first 22 districts but this is not the position for the other 6 districts. (A few changes which have no significant effect on the census—such as changes in name, bifurcation, etc., are referred to in a later section on the 1951-61 changes.) In the case of 12 districts, district population figures for earlier censuses had to be re-calculated; this had to be done also in the case of 4 tahsils. The method adopted was to make adjustments on the basis of actual village populations wherever possible and, where this was not possible, on the basis of the rate of growth in the district during the decennium concerned. In the remaining three districts the change was in respect of area only, because of the transfer of depopulated villages.

(ii) The following is a comparative statement of the 1941 and 1951 area figures of the 1951 districts; all the figures given being those of the Surveyor-General:

14 Nimar (Since renamed East Nimar)	4,142	11 Nimar	4,228	-86
MAHAKOSHAL—Total	93,392	Total	93,459	-67

This decrease of 67 sq. miles is due to (a) changes in Surveyor-General's figures; and (b) changes in the areas of Sagar (as in 1951), Jabalpur and (now East) Nimar Districts. The latter changes, consequent on the Provinces and States (Transfer of Enclaves) Order, 1950, are as follows:

District	1941 Area (Sq. miles)	Area to be subtracted (Sq. miles)	Area to be added (Sq. miles)	Net addition (+) or diminution (—) (Sq. miles)	Final 1941 area (Sq. miles)
Sagar	6,761	15.19	28.82	+13.63	6,774.33
Jabalpur	3,919	14.18	10.70	-3.48	3,915.52

Total	14,908	122.90	39.52	-83.38	14,824.62

The changes in Sagar and Jabalpur districts relate to exchanges of enclaves between former Madhya Pradesh and former Vindhya Pradesh whereas the change in (East) Nimar District relates to the transfer of an enclave to former Madhya Bharat. The details regarding these changes are to be found in Parts B,

C and D of Annexure III. (The net figures for Sagar, Jabalpur and Nimar shown above, being based on village papers, do not agree with the differences for these districts between 1941 and 1951 areas shown in the comparative statement of areas for the Mahakoshal region).

This statement showing the constitution of Madhya Bharat State from among 26 princely States is only broadly correct in that a number of adjustments relating in particular to isolated enclaves in the interests of contiguity had to be made in terms of small groups of villages. The principal changes external to Madhya Bharat State were:

- (a) 93 villages transferred from the northern districts of Madhya Bharat to Rajasthan and 54 villages transferred from Rajasthan to these northern districts, the district most concerned being Mandsaur;
- (b) 39 villages transferred from (now East) Nimar of old Madhya Pradesh to (now West) Nimar of Madhya Bharat;

*Alampur Pargana, an isolated enclave of Indore State, was included partly in Lahar Tahsil of Bhind District and partly in Bhandar Tahsil of Gird District.

(c) About half of Khaniadhana (27 villages) was included in Shivpuri District of Madhya Bharat while the other half was included in Vindhya Pradesh State.

The area of these 23 princely States, according to the figures given in the Central India (Vol. XVIII) and Gwalior (Vol. XX) volumes of the 1941 Census is 43,735 sq. miles (the areas of Ratlam and Sailana Jagirs not being known have not been included in this figure), while the area of Madhya Bharat in 1951 was 43,473 sq. miles. The difference of 257 sq. miles is due to changes of the kind referred to earlier in this paragraph and to possible changes in the Surveyor-General's figures themselves.

(This indicates the broad position; minor adjustments consisting of small groups of villages have been omitted because correct details are not available.)

Actually, the number of States concerned in the formation of Vindhya Pradesh State was 35. Only 24 are accounted for in the above statement; the other 11, being wholly enclaves in Uttar Pradesh, were transferred to that State in January, 1950, in terms of the Provinces and States (Absorption of Enclaves) Order, 1950, relevant extracts from which are to be found in Annexure I to this note. 12 of these States stated explicitly (but incorrectly in respect of Baraundha and Bhaisaundha) in that order to have been wholly transferred, and their areas are the following:

State	Number of Villages		Area
	As given in the Enclaves Order (Ann. I)	1941 Census	As given in Vindhya Pradesh Government's Order relating to the ex change of enclaves	1941 Census
			Acres	Sq. miles	Sq. miles

12 Baoni	52	51	82,290	128.58	122
Total	238	297	310,887	485.76	746

(As will be shown below, the order is wrong in respect of Baraundha, Bhaisaundha and Bijna. The first two were not wholly transferred and the third was wholly transferred.)

Annexure II gives details regarding the enclaves in 15 of the remaining 23 States that were transferred to Madhya Bharat, Uttar Pradesh and Madhya

State	Census Figures		No. of villages given in the Govt. of India Order regarding enclaves (Ann. I)	Area of the villages of Column 4 as given in the Vindhya Pradesh Govt.'s Orders
	Area in sq. miles	No. of Villages
1	2	3	4	5
1 BARAUNDHA
1921	218	68	..	..
1931	218	68	4	5.45
1941	228	76	..	..
2 BHAI SAUNDHA
1921	32	17	..	..
1931	32	16	5	13.17
1941	32	15	..	..
3 BIJNA
1921	7.5	3	..	..
1931	7.5	3	5	6.37
1941	7.0	3	..	..

The Government of India Order (1950) relating to enclaves refers to these three States as follows:

First Schedule—Item VII

"8. The following villages of former Bijna State: Bagrani, Bhawara, Bijna, Huboli and Basar.

17. The former Baraundha State consisting of four villages.

19. The former Bhaisaundha State consisting of five villages."

The method in this order appears to have been to specify actual villages if a part only of a State was transferred but merely mention the number of villages if a whole State was transferred. The impression created, therefore, is that the whole States of Baraundha and Bhaisaundha consisted only of 4 and 5 villages respectively whereas, according to the censuses, the position is very different. It has been ascertained by local enquiry that, in fact, out of 88 (not 76 as shown in the 1941 Census) villages of Baraundha, only 4 were transferred to Uttar Pradesh and, in the case of Bhaisaundha, out of 23 (not 16 as shown in the 1941 Census) villages, only 5 were so transferred. Therefore, the major part of these States continues to be in the present State. In the case of Bijna, the inaccuracy is not significant; it is to be concluded that the whole State of Bijna was merged in Uttar Pradesh. Annexure III shows similar details in respect of areas transferred to Vindhya Pradesh from Uttar Pradesh and former Madhya Pradesh. One intriguing feature in respect of the following States is the difference (which is very small, however, in the case of Bijna) between the number of villages and area as shown in successive censuses and as shown in the orders regarding enclaves:

Pradesh; the correctness of this conclusion has been confirmed by local enquiry. So far as area figures are concerned, it is futile to expect that there can be any close agreement as between that of the Surveyor-General, India, and that based on village papers. In fact, till about 1941, there was no settlement at all in most of these 35 States (including the above three States). The net position in respect of area is as follows:

Vindhya Pradesh		Sq. Miles
1 The total area of the integrating 35 States according to Surveyor-General's figures as given in the 1941 Census:		21,598
2 Area (based on village papers) transferred as a result of the exchange of enclaves:
(a) To:
	Sq. Miles
(i) Madhya Bharat ..	99.41
(ii) Uttar Pradesh ..	875.65
(iii) Former Madhya Pradesh	39.51
		- 1,014.57
		23,583.43

(b) From:

	Sq. miles	Sq. miles
(i) Uttar Pradesh ..	65.33
(ii) Former Madhya Pradesh ..	29.37
	94.75	+ 94.75

(For details regarding these areas, please see Annexure III).

3 Area of Vindhya Pradesh obtained by subtracting 2 (a) from, and adding 2 (b) to 1.	23,678.18
4 Area of Vindhya Pradesh as given by the Surveyor-General in the 1951 Census.	23,603.10
5 Difference (4—3): —75.08 sq. miles. This is due to the fact that 2 (a) and 2 (b) are based on village papers.

The remaining 8 States were mostly absorbed in various districts of Vindhya Pradesh as follows:

State	Area in sq. miles	Number of villages and towns	District in which absorbed
1 Kothi ..	166	77	Satna
2 Sohawal ..	251	202	..
3 Jaso ..	72	52	..
4 Kamta-Rajaula ..	13	1	..
5 Chhatarpur ..	1,170	324	Chhatarpur
6 Alipura ..	73	26	..
7 Gaurihar ..	72	14	..
8 Lugasi ..	45	22	..
	1,862	718

Thus, out of the 35 States which merged to form Vindhya Pradesh, 11 States (including Bijna) were transferred to Uttar Pradesh and the remaining 24 States (with some territorial exchanges relating to enclaves) were formed into 8 districts.

1951 District	1951 Area (Sq. miles)	1941 Composition
1	2	3
39 Sehore	3,665	I Bhopal State — Nizamati-i-Maghrib
40 Raisen	3,213	I Bhopal State — Nizamati-i-Mashriq

Between 1941 and 1951, 6 villages of Sehore District and 11 villages of Raisen, being enclaves, were transferred to Madhya Bharat in implementation of the Provinces and States (Absorption of Enclaves) Order, 1950; otherwise, there was no transfer either between these two districts or between these two on the one hand and any other Province/State on the other. The area calculations are as follows:

	1941 Area transferred	1951
1 Sehore ..	19.45	6,880.35
2 Raisen ..	21.20
	6,921

The area figure of the Surveyor-General, India for Sehore and Raisen Districts in the 1951 Census was 6,878 sq. miles—the difference is 2.35 sq. miles which is negligible in view of the fact that the deducted areas are based on village papers. The details regarding villages will be found in Annexure IV. The internal constitution of the districts underwent a change during this decade and, as a result, the tahsil-wise structure assumed the present form.

The 1941 area of 172,434 sq. miles thus changed to 171,072 sq. miles in 1951—a decrease of 1,362 sq. miles. The break-up of this difference is as follows:

Unit	Area in sq. miles		Difference (3-2)
	1941	1951
1	2	3	4
1 Mahakoshal ..	93,459.00	93,392.00	-67
2 Madhya Bharat ..	46,735.00	46,478.00	-257
3 Rajasthan ..	721.17 (Net)	721.17 (Net)	..
4 Vindhya Pradesh ..	24,598.00	23,603.00	-995
5 Bhopal ..	6,921.00	6,878.00	-43
Madhya Pradesh ..	172,434.17	171,072.17	-1,362

These changes have been already dealt with at the appropriate places. The lack of agreement at many points is due to the fact that some of the areas involved in transfers are based on village papers. Also, the Surveyor-General's figures themselves have undergone changes from time to time.

(c) 1901-1941.—(i) As will be seen from the statement given in para 1(b) (ii) earlier, the State of Madhya Pradesh as it now exists consisted of the following groups of units in 1941 (excluding, for the moment, the Rajasthan bit of 870.02 sq. miles):

- 11 districts of Central Provinces and Berar (as old Madhya Pradesh was then known);
- 10 "Central Provinces" States accounted for in Central Provinces and Berar Censuses;
- 5 "Chattisgarh" States accounted for in Bihar Censuses;
- Gwalior State; and
- The following 50 States accounted for in Central India Agency Censuses:
 - (a) Indore, Rewa and Bhopal;
 - (b) 8 Bhopal Agency States;
 - (c) 16 Malwa Agency States; and
 - (d) 22 Bundelkhand Agency States; and
 - (e) 1 Gwalior Residency State (Khaniadhana).

The total area of these States and districts as in 1941 was 171,220 sq. miles made up of 109,510 sq. miles of States area and 61,710 sq. miles of the districts of C.P. and Berar. The break-up of the Indian States area is as follows:

	Sq. miles
1. C.P. States and Chattisgarh States (15)	31,749
2. States (26) initially constituting Madhya Bharat	46,735
3. States (24) initially constituting Vindhya Pradesh (excluding 11 States wholly transferred to Uttar Pradesh)	24,105
4. Bhopal	6,921
	109,510

(In the case of the Vindhya Pradesh area, there is a discrepancy between the area figures given in Table I on page 2 and in Table XVI on page 40 on the one hand and those given in Provincial Table I on page 44 on the other in the Central India Census Report for 1941; the figures adopted here are those of the Provincial Table I which alone gives State-wise figures.)

The manner in which the Indian States, during the course of integration, shed territory to neighbouring States, has already been indicated in para 1(b)(ii) (ii)

The principal change during this decade relates to the transfer of territory from Raipur (1,432 sq. miles) and Bilaspur (80 sq. miles) districts to the "New Province" of Orissa which was constituted in 1936. In the constitution of districts, the major change related to the formation of the three districts of Sagar, Hoshangabad and Chhindwara from the three pairs—Sagar and Damoh, Hoshangabad and Narsingpur, and Chhindwara and Seoni. These three big districts were again broken up into the very same six districts in 1956. The other differences in area relate to inter-district transfers and variations in Surveyor-General's figures.

In the rest of the statement which follows, only States are dealt with and, as the 1931 constitution also was practically the same in every case, the column (No. 3) relating to 1931 composition has not been filled in.

above; in fact, changes of this kind in the territory of Indian States were unthinkable before August 1947 except for occasional exchanges which were mutually profitable; even such exchanges required the active mediatory role of a friendly resident. Even a State like Indore consisted of as many as "80 isolated blocks, every one of which was entirely surrounded by foreign (sic) territory"—this was in 1931 (please see Holkar State Census Report—Census of Central India, 1931: Volume XVI—Part I, Page 1). The following paragraph attempts a comparison of areas as between 1931 and 1941.

The revised figure, however, was not accepted by the Gwalior Government and so the 1931 figure was published in the 1941 Tables.)

Thus, the 1931 area of the 66 Indian States and the 14 districts of the British Indian Province of C. P. and Berar was 171,790 sq. miles—which, by 1941, declined by 571 sq. miles. The break-up of the difference is as follows:

1 C.P. and Berar Districts	..	..	- 1,240

The explanation in the case of the C. P. and Berar districts is the transfer of territory to Orissa and, in all other cases, it is largely that improvements in surveying led to changes in area figures—the most notable being those of Bastar, Indore, Rewa and Charkhari States. There is nothing to show that any significant territorial exchanges took place among Indian States during this decade.

The question of changes in districts is irrelevant to most of these 66 States because, excepting the bigger States of Gwalior, Indore, Rewa and Bhopal—figures in respect of which alone are presented in terms of districts (Gwalior and Indore), divisions (Rewa—no districts, the next lower unit being the tahsil) or Nizamat (Bhopal), there are only two others, Bastar and Surguja, with areas exceeding that of an average district (about 4,000 sq. miles). These two States, however, are predominantly tribal and a good deal of them is forest. In 1941, Gwalior had 11 districts, Indore had five districts, Rewa had three districts and Bhopal, two nizamats. The remaining States were divided into small administrative units variously called tahsils, parganas and mahals. The number of districts in Gwalior State in 1931 continued to be 11, the only principal change being that, in the decade 1931-41, the Gohad Pargana of Bhind District was transferred to Gird (Gwalior) District and Bhandar Pargana of Gird District was transferred to Bhind District. The status quo ante, however, was restored during the decade 1941-51. The names of districts were changed in 1931-41 as shown below:

Former Name	Present Name
1 Tonwarghar ..	.. Morena
2 Narwar ..	.. Shivpuri
3 Isagarh ..	.. Gonna
4 Amjhera ..	.. Sardarpur

DISTRICTS AND PARGANAS AS IN 1911

Indore	Mahidpur	Nemawar	Nimar	Rampura-Bhanpura
1 Indore	1 Mahidpur	1 Kannod	1 Barwaha	1 Bhanpura
2 Depalpur	2 Tarana	2 Khategaon	2 Bhikangaon	2 Garoth
3 Mhow	3 Sundersi	3 Kantaphor	3 Kasrawad	3 Zirapur
4 Sawyer	4 Alampur		4 Khargone	4 Manasa
5 Petlawad			5 Maheshwar	5 Nandwai
			6 Nisarpur	6 Rampura
			7 Segaoon	7 Sunel
			8 Sendhwa

But for the disappearance of Sundersi, the constitution did not change till 1931. But, during 1931-41, apart from the abolition of Kantaphor, Petlawad from Indore District and Zirapur from Rampura-Bhanpura District were transferred to Mahidpur District.

In Rewa State, the number of tahsils was 10 in 1921, there being no other administrative tier. During the course of 1921-31, Singrauli Tashil was carved out of the then Deosar Tahsil and, between 1931 and 1941, 273 villages of Sohagpur Tahsil were constituted into a new tahsil—Pushparajgarh. The 11 tahsils of 1931 were divided into two divisions—the Northern and the Southern—which apparently were abolished during 1931-41 and three districts created instead.

Bhopal in 1921 had four districts or Collector's charges (Nizamats)—Nizamat-i-Shumal, Nizamat-i-Maghrib, Nizamat-i-Junub and Nizamat-i-Mashriq. By 1931, the first had been added to the second and the third to the fourth, the resulting two nizamats—Maghrib (West) and Mashriq (East) being substantially the present Sehore and Raisen Districts. There were a few other minor adjustments. So far as

Similarly, the names of six parganas also were changed. The number of parganas continued unchanged at 33. This general administrative picture was the same from 1911. In Indore State (referred to in State Census Reports as Holkar State but in the Central India Agency Reports as Indore) also, the number of districts has been five since 1911. But the total number of parganas declined from 27 in 1921 to 26 in 1931 and to 25 in 1941. This is due to two changes—first, during 1921-31, the Sundersi enclave of Indore State (area shown as 23 sq. miles in the Holkar State Census Report, 1921 but only as 3.56 sq. miles in the Central India Agency Report of 1931), which, along with the holding of Dhar State in the same village, was transferred to Gwalior State so that this “pargana” (sic) was abolished; in the course of 1931-41, Kantaphor Pargana of Nemawar District was abolished and amalgamated with Kannod Tahsil. The grouping of these tahsils into districts also underwent changes from time to time:

Indian States are concerned, there is not much point in going further back in time in respect of area or internal administrative constitution; there was very little change till roughly the beginning of this century.

The 14 districts of C.P. and Berar did not undergo much change during the decade 1911-31 except that Balaghat District was somewhat affected by the redistribution of territory as between Balaghat and Bhandara (now in Maharashtra) Districts. In the decade 1901-11, however, important changes took place. An area of 3,824 sq. miles of Sambalpur District (4,960 sq. miles) was transferred to Bengal but later included in Orissa and the remaining territory was distributed between Raipur and Bilaspur Districts. This loss of one district was, however, matched by the creation in 1906 of a new district—Durg—out of some parts of Raipur and Bilaspur Districts—which were, and continue to be, very large.

Thus, on the whole, the internal constitution either of the Indian States or of the 14 districts of C. P. and Berar did not undergo many major changes during 1901-1911 except the transfer of most of Sambalpur District to Bengal in 1905. But this apparent stability was due to the absence of any need for change only in the British districts of C. P. and Berar where considerations relevant to administrative efficiency and convenience weighed more heavily. In the case of the Indian States, the problem was the impossibility of change on account of prestige. Shri C. S. Venkatachar, in the Central India Agency Census Report for 1931, observes: “The majority of the States in Central India are a medley of interlaced territories and the Agency itself is a mosaic of fragmented sovereignties”. [Even he, however, refers to the very small Nandwai enclave (area 37 sq. miles; 1931 population 4,441) of the Holkar, “situated in the Rajputana Agency”, at a considerable distance from the main regions of the State as “an integral part of Indore State”; integral it certainly was not in the geographical sense and its being integral in any other sense is at least doubtful. As is to be expected, it was the total withdrawal of the Indian Princes qua rulers from the Indian political scene that made possible a district structure more suited to the needs of modern administration. The largest number of these changes took place in the last four years of the decade 1941-51. The fact that such a large number of changes was necessary shows how, for decades, much needed administrative reorganisation was blocked by princely chaos.

2. States' Reorganisation, 1956

But for border adjustments, States' Reorganisation in 1956 did not affect the district—or tahsil—structure at all. It is, therefore, the hardly logical historical process that accounts for the extremely diverse character of present administrative divisions. Commissioners' divisions which existed for many decades in old Madhya Pradesh were abolished in 1948; Gwalior State also had them for some time (sirsubas) but abolished them in the decade 1921-31. This administrative unit was again created in 1956—there are seven of them now in Madhya Pradesh as shown below:

Commissioner's Division	1931 Area S.G.'s		Population, 1961
	(Sq. miles)	(Sq. Km.)
1 Gwalior ..	17,253	44,685	3,436,639
2 Rewa ..	22,845	59,169	4,251,042
3 Indore ..	27,341	70,813	5,931,593
4 Bhopal ..	22,233	57,584	3,877,034
5 Jabalpur ..	29,326	75,954	5,721,602
6 Bilaspur ..	21,305	55,180	4,099,757
7 Raipur ..	30,914	80,067	5,054,741
Madhya Pradesh	171,217	443,452	32,372,408

Madhya Pradesh, with 13.89% of the country's area, is now the largest State in the Indian Union. Its population constitutes 7.37% of the population of India; it ranks seventh in terms of population. The relevant extracts from the States Reorganisation Act, 1956 (No. 37 of 1956) relating to this new State of Madhya Pradesh are as follows:

“Formation of a new Madhya Pradesh State 9 (1) As from the appointed day, there shall be formed a new Part A State to be known as the State of Madhya Pradesh comprising the following territories, namely:

(a) the territories of the existing State of Madhya Pradesh, except the districts mentioned in clause (c) of sub-section (1) of section 8;

(b) the territories of the existing State of Madhya Bharat, except Sunel Tappa of Bhanpura Tashil of Mandsaur District;

(c) Sironj Sub-division of Kotah District in the existing State of Rajasthan;

(d) the territories of the existing State of Bhopal; and

(e) the territories of the existing State of Vindhya Pradesh;

and thereupon the said territories shall cease to form part of the existing States of Madhya Pradesh, Madhya Bharat, Rajasthan, Bhopal and Vindhya Pradesh, respectively.

“(2) The said Sironj Sub-division shall be included in, and become part of, Bhilsa District in the new State of Madhya Pradesh.”

The territories of “the existing State of Madhya Pradesh” excepted from clause (a) of the above section and referred to in clause (c) of sub-section (1) of section 8 of the Act are: Buldana, Akola, Amaravati, Yeotmal, Wardha, Nagpur, Bhandara and Chanda Districts.

India has now 15 States and 11 Union Territories and other areas: the ex-French territories (Pondicherry, Mahe, Karikal and Yanam; area, 185 sq. miles) and the ex-Portuguese territories (Dadra and Nagar Haveli, area 189 sq. miles; Goa, Daman and Diu, area, 1,426 sq. miles) are now integral parts of the Indian Union.

3. Areas: Figures of the Surveyor-General and the Director of Land Records, Madhya Pradesh

(a) Owing to the different methods of survey adopted by the Surveyor-General, India, on the one hand and the State Survey Organisation on the other, there are differences in area figures in almost every district; Raipur and Sagar Districts among the 43 districts of this State are the two exceptions where the district figures tally. In the list below, the districts are arranged in descending order of the range of difference—irrespective of whether the excess of the Surveyor-General's figure over the State Survey figure is positive or negative:

No estimate of the permissible range of difference appears to have been made but West Nimar is by any standards an alarming case. An independent check by the Census Organisation of the total arrived at by the State Survey Organisation has shown that the latter's figure based on village papers is correct. The investigation, therefore, was extended to the next lower unit—the tahsil. The areas of tahsils in the 1941 Census Report for Indore State and in the 1941 Central India Agency Tables for Barwani State—the other important constituent of West Nimar District—were taken as the basis and adjustments for villages shifted to and from these constituents were made by the rule of three; the results are as follows:

Areas of Tahsils of West Nimar District estimated from Surveyor-General's 1941 figures and 1961 figures of the Directorate of Land Records, Madhya Pradesh

1	2	3	4
1 Sendhwa	673	515	+158
2 Raipur	521	506	+15
3 Barwani	649	270	+379
4 Khargone	1,400	680	+720
5 Bhikangaon	624	615	+9
6 Kasrawad	423	388	+35
7 Barwaha	549	467	+82
8 Maheshwar	324	310	+14
	5,163	3,751	1,412

Most (1,099 sq. miles) of the overall difference of 1,412 sq. miles relates to Barwani and Khargone Tahsils. In 1951 also, the village papers area was reported to be 3,698 sq. miles (1931 figure—3,751 sq. miles) and the Surveyor-General's figure was 5,133 sq. miles (1961 figure—5,206 sq. miles). This is obviously a long standing difference which requires to be examined by a special re-survey, if necessary.

(b) In 25 districts (area 96,755 sq. miles)—the Surveyor-General's figure in each case exceeds the State figure (94,022 sq. miles)—the total excess being 2,733 sq. miles. In 16 districts, the State Survey figure (62,287 sq. miles) exceeds the Surveyor-General's figure (61,845 sq. miles) by 558 sq. miles. If the intriguing case of West Nimar is excluded from both the totals, the net excess of the Surveyor-General's figure is reduced from 2,175 sq. miles (1.27%) to 720 sq. miles (0.43%). One reason for these differences is that the practice regarding reserve forest areas has not yet become uniform throughout the State. It appears that in most of former Madhya Bharat, Vindhya Pradesh and Bhopal States (all of which contain considerable areas of reserve, i.e. Government forest), the practice appears to have been to include such areas in village areas which naturally thereby suffer from considerable distortion; in Mahakoshal, such forest areas are accounted for separately though here there is a complicating factor in the form of Malguzari forests taken over by Government in 1951 whose areas do not as yet appear to have been systematically dealt with. The feeling is inescapable that inaccuracies in area figures are mostly due to incorrect figures regarding forest areas. However, it is only fair to add that, with the progressive survey of unsurveyed areas (incidentally, the close agreement of the figures of the almost wholly unsurveyed districts of Jhabua and Bastar is surprising), area figures of even the Surveyor-General will, as in the past, keep changing. All tahsil figures used in the tables are those of the Directorate of Land Records, Madhya Pradesh.

(c) Districts are of very uneven size. If the districts are arranged in descending order of size as in the list below, it will be seen that the first four account for 23.12% of the State area, the next eight for 24.36%, the third group of eleven for 24.72% and the remaining 20 for not much above 25%, i.e. 27.80%.

Districts in descending order of area (Surveyor-General's figures)

A—The first group of four districts. 1. Bastar; 2. Surguja; 3. Raipur; 4. Bilaspur.

Area: 39,579 sq. miles; 23.12% of State area.

B—The second group of eight districts. 5. Durg; 6. Shahdol; 7. West Nimar; 8. Mandla; 9. Raigarh; 10. Chhindwara; 11. Morena; and 12. Guna.

Area: 41,710 sq. miles; 24.36% of State area.

C—The third group of eleven districts. 13. East Nimar; 14. Sidhi; 15. Shivpuri; 16. Mandsaur; 17. Sagar; 18. Jabalpur; 19. Betul; 20. Hoshangabad; 21. Sehore; 22. Balaghat; and 23. Chhatarpur.

Area: 42,328 sq. miles; 24.72% of State area.

D—The last group of twenty districts. 24. Seoni; 25. Raisen; 26. Dhar; 27. Vidisha; 28. Damoh; 29. Satna; 30. Panna; 31. Dewas; 32. Jhabua; 33. Rewa; 34. Shajapur; 35. Rajgarh; 33. Ujjain; 37. Gwalior; 38. Narsimhapur; 39. Tikamgarh; 40. Ratlam; 41. Bhind; 42. Indore; 43. Datia.

Area: 47,600 sq. miles; 27.80% of State area.

(d) The average area of a district is 3,982 sq. miles and Shivpuri (3,986 sq. miles) is the nearest approach to this figure. There are 15 districts in the State each with an area above the average; the rest are all below the average. The biggest district, Bastar, has an area nearly 3.80 times the average while the area of Datia, the smallest district is less than a fifth (actually 19.64%) of the average size. In fact, there are many tahsils in the State which are much bigger than some of the smaller districts. In view of this disparity in size both of districts and of tahsils, density figures are really not comparable—or, for that matter, any indices or ratios based on area. The defectiveness of the comparison between Indore and Jabalpur Districts, for example, results from the fact that the density figure of Indore District is influenced by a much smaller rural area; alternatively, for comparability, we should add to Indore City a rural area of equal size.

4. Changes in jurisdiction, 1951-61

(i) During the decade 1951-61, three new districts were created just before reorganisation in old Madhya Pradesh—Damoh District out of Damoh and Hatta Tahsils of old Sagar District, Narsimhapur District out of Narsimhapur and Gadarpur Tahsils of old Hoshangabad District and Seoni District out of Seoni and Lakhnadon Tahsils of old Chhindwara District; a reference to these districts has already been made in para 1 (b) (ii) foregoing. (A minor point is that Pachmarhi has not been treated as a separate tahsil in this census; it never was in revenue administration though it was treated separately in the 1951 Census). But for this change, there was no other change in the 22 districts listed under A in para 1 (b) (i) above (which were 19 districts in 1951). Under B in the same para have been listed 6 districts two of which underwent a good deal of internal change without, however, affecting any other district.

(ii) In Durg District, only Durg Tahsil has remained unchanged from 1951; the remaining 8 tahsils of 1951 have been reconstituted into 5 tahsils by the abolition of three tahsils—Khamariya, Dongargarh and Chhuikhadan—and by the distribution of their villages among the rest. A diagram showing the changes is given on the next page, in which, in each set of two figures appearing one above the other, the upper one relates to the number of villages and the lower one gives the area in sq. miles.

In Raipur District, a new tahsil—Bindranawagarh—was created by taking out 21 villages (53.22 sq. miles) from Dhamtari Tahsil and 668 villages (753.29 sq. miles) from the unwieldy Mahasamund Tahsil. The other two tahsils—Baloda Bazar and Raipur—have remained unchanged.

In four other districts—Shivpuri, Rajgarh, Mandla and Surguja—the changes were minor; in each case, only one village was transferred from one tahsil to another.

(iii) Inter-district transfers. This leaves us with 15 other districts of the State where inter-district transfers have taken place during the decade. The most important among these changes is the transfer of Sakti Tahsil from Raigarh District to Bilaspur District with consequential and other major internal changes. In Bilaspur District, the new Sakti Tahsil was expanded by the addition of 283 villages (42.32 sq. miles) of Janjgir Tahsil and 52 villages (49.20 sq. miles) of Kharsia Tahsil (which was abolished) of Raigarh District; also, 17 villages (1.82 sq. miles, the area of 12 villages not known) were transferred from Bilaspur Tahsil to Mungeli Tahsil. Only Katghora Tahsil continues unchanged from 1951. In Raigarh District, Udaipur, Jashpur and Gharghoda Tahsils continue unchanged from 1951. Raigarh Tahsil has increased in size by the addition of 148 villages and one town (169.80 sq. miles) of Kharsia Tahsil and 2 villages from Janjgir Tahsil of Bilaspur District; from this latter tahsil, 25 villages have been transferred to Sarangarh Tahsil of Raigarh District.

In Gwalior, Bhind and Jhabua, the external changes have been minor but, internally, there have been transfers of villages from one tahsil to another. A case of significant internal change is Gwalior District (referred to as Gird District in the 1951 Census Report), in which the 1951 Ghatigaon Tahsil (600 sq. miles; 193 villages) was abolished; 69 villages (area 353.18 sq. miles) were added to Gird Tahsil and 129 villages (246.82 sq. miles) to Pichhore Tahsil. 76 other villages were transferred from Pichhore Tahsil to Gird Tahsil. Bhandar Tahsil in 1961 is the same as it was in 1951, but for the transfer of a depopulated village from it to Lahar Tahsil of Bhind District.

In the remaining ten districts—Guna, Panna, Satna, Rewa, Mandsaur, Ratlam, Ujjain, Dhar, Indore and Vidisha—there was no transfer of villages from one tahsil to another of the same district. Only 'external' changes have taken place in the sense that villages have been transferred from one district to another. The most significant of these is the set of changes following States' Reorganisation; the Sunel Tappa of Bhanpura Tahsil was transferred to Rajasthan and Sironj Sub-division (consisting of Sironj and Lateri Tahsils) of Rajasthan was transferred from Rajasthan to Madhya Pradesh (and became part of Vidisha District). Later on, three uninhabited villages (4.82 sq. miles) were transferred from Rajasthan to Bhanpura Tahsil of Mandsaur District in order to ensure that the Chambal Hydel Headworks and the related colony are wholly situated in Madhya Pradesh. Appendix I to Table A-I gives a detailed account of all these changes in respect of the State as a whole and, also, division by division, district by district and tahsil by tahsil. The names of the actual villages involved, however, have not been given—it will be necessary to refer to the District Census Handbooks concerned for these details.

(*Each of these figures includes one town)

5 Critical survey of changes in jurisdiction

By and large, districts and tahsils have undergone changes only for the sake of administrative convenience. Durg District, for example, had 9 tahsils in 1951 but the three tahsils since abolished were very small:

Khamariya	..	..	..	142 Sq. miles.
Dongargarh	..	..	..	302 "
Chnuikhadan	..	..	..	137 "

In 1941, Durg had an area of 4,716 sq. miles with 3 tahsils—even the smallest of them, Durg Tahsil having an area of as much as 1,134 sq. miles. The average was 1,572 sq. miles per tahsil. About 1948, the Princely States were more or less absorbed as they were administratively constituted and there was not enough time for a considered reorganisation before the 1951 Census. The number of tahsils increased to 9 and the area to 6,532 sq. miles, reducing the average to 729 sq. miles. It was only proper, therefore, that the three small tahsils should be abolished; this has raised the average to 1,250 sq. miles in 1951. But Durg along with Raipur, Bastar, Bilaspur and Surguja—continues to be much too big a district for being efficiently administered on modern lines. Similarly, before it was broken up Mahasamund Tahsil of Raipur District had an area of 3,762 sq. miles. The creation of Bindranawagarh Tahsil (1951 area : 811.51 sq. miles) was a step in the right direction though even the present Mahasamund Tahsil has the very large area of 3,003.71 sq. miles. The reorganisation of Bilaspur and Raigarh Districts also became necessary because Kharsia (219 sq. miles) and Sakti (106 sq. miles) of the latter district were very small. The abolition of these tahsils has raised the average area of a tahsil in Raigarh District from 564.3 sq. miles in 1951 to 1001.7 sq. miles in 1961; in Bilaspur, the average has decreased from 1,884.5 sq. miles in 1951 to 1,555.6 sq. miles in 1961—still large but it was a step in the right direction. It is, however, difficult to understand why the present Sakti Tahsil should have been made part of Bilaspur District the area of which has increased from 7,538 sq. miles in 1951 to 7777.9 sq. miles in 1961—both very high figures. The intention behind the abolition of Ghatigaon Tahsil of Gwalior District appears to have been the same though in areas of Madhya Pradesh other than Mahakoshal, the tahsils—and quite a few districts—are rather small. The abolition of Ghatigaon Tahsil has raised the average area of a tahsil in Gwalior District from 497.5 sq. miles in 1951 to 671.7 sq. miles in 1961; but the district is even now not a compact unit. In Bhind and Jhabua, the internal transfers have resulted in greater administrative convenience.

All other changes are comparatively much smaller except those in Mandsaur and Vidisha Districts following upon States' Reorganisation.

As pointed out earlier, 22 districts have undergone no change at all since 1951—these had 90 tahsils. Out of the 100 tahsils of the remaining 21 districts, changes took place only in 45 tahsils so that among the 190 tahsils of the State, there was no change since 1951 in 145 tahsils. Actually, the changes that took place in Gwalior, Bhind, Dhar and Rajgarh Districts—the transfer in each case of one uninhabited village from one tahsil to another tahsil of the same district or of a different district—can be ignored for practically all census purposes so that the number of unaffected tahsils will increase to 150.

Even though, therefore, there is, to all appearances, a large measure of stability in the administrative set-up, it cannot be pretended that, either in terms of population or in terms of area, the district—or tahsil—structure has any systematic basis. It can never be suggested that, both in tribal and in well-settled areas, the basis should be the same. But, even then, Bastar, with an area of 15,124 sq. miles, is an impossibly big district. It is more than nineteen (19.34) times as large as Datia, the smallest district (782 sq. miles) and is bigger than Kerala State (15,002 sq. miles). Similarly, Raipur with a population of over 2 million is nearly ten (9.99) times as large as Datia—and both Raipur and Datia are fairly well-settled areas. It does not appear that either the average size of a district (area 3,982 sq. miles; population about 7½ lakhs) or the average size of a tahsil (area 901 sq. miles; population about 1.7 lakhs) is large by reasonable standards. It will of course be impossible to adjust the structure in such a way that both the population and the area criteria are satisfied but the high degree of present unevenness needs to be corrected. It is to be hoped that the coming decade will show some progress in this direction.

6. Rural and urban population

- (i) (a) A 'town' in the 1961 Census had to be either:
- a municipality, cantonment or corporation; or
 - a habitation with a population of at least 5,000, at least three-fourths of the adult male population being engaged in non-agricultural occupations.

Among the 219 towns of Madhya Pradesh in the 1961 Census, there were in all 7 exceptions which did not conform to these criteria.

A—TOWNS WITH A POPULATION OF LESS THAN 5,000 WHICH WERE NOT MUNICIPALITIES, CANTONMENTS OR CORPORATIONS

Town	District	Population
		1951	1961
1 Gogaon	.. West Nimar	.. 4,233	4,744
2 Datia Bandhi	.. Chhindwara	.. 5,287	3,860

B—TOWNS WITH A POPULATION OF AT LEAST 5,000 WHERE AT LEAST THREE-FOURTHS OF THE MALE POPULATION IS NOT AGRICULTURAL AND WHICH WERE NOT MUNICIPALITIES, CANTONMENTS OR CORPORATIONS

Town	District	1961 Population	Ratio of non-agricultural males to total males		Other features.
			1951	1961
1 Ichhawar		..	77.7%	60.6%	Tahsil Hq.
2 Patan ..		..	55.0%	68.1%	..
3 Pendra ..		..	56.9%	61.2%	C. D. Block Hq.
4 Akaltara		..	49.8%	63.9%	..
5 A'ang ..		..	54.8%	61.0%	..
Town Area Committees or Notified Area Committees have not been as a rule treated as "municipal" for the purposes of this definition; the exceptions are:
(1) Raisen; (2) Berasia; (3) Bairagarh; (4) Ashta
(5) Ichhawar; (6) Begamganj; (7) Baraily, all 'town' areas, and (8) Sidhi, a notified area, which have been treated as towns under the 'municipal' category. Initially, it was intended that, after the 1961 figures became available, a re-examination would be undertaken to see which of 28 places, tentatively classified as towns to begin with, should be continued as such. The above 7 places should, therefore, have been excluded; this was not done because the decision to treat every municipality as a town had already smuggled as many as 14 places into the list of towns even though in each case the population was less than 5,000; the classification of these 14 towns on the basis of population—size is as under:

Population-size range	Number of towns
3,000-3,500	3
3,500-4,000	4
4,000-4,500	3
4,500-4,999	4
3,000-4,999	14

Therefore, the inclusion of the seven towns which did not satisfy the population criterion or the one based on the ratio of non-agricultural males did not introduce into the list of towns any element of demographic distortion not already present in the definition itself.

In the light of these considerations, it was decided not to change the list of 219 towns originally drawn up. Actually, owing to the fact that operationally the rural-urban classification precedes enumeration, there is always bound to be an element of inconsistency in the former to the extent that the final census figures vary and contradict the forecasts on the basis of which the classification is made. The difficulties in the application of the 1961 criteria were twofold: first, in the case of places with populations of less than 5,000 in 1951, the 1961 population could be estimated only on the basis of some growth formula. For these purposes, a rate of 2% per annum was adopted—which was by no means at great variance with the growth-rate (2.19%) revealed for the State as a whole in the 1961 Census. As pointed out earlier, the final figures showed that in the case of two towns these figures proved optimistic. Second, the original criterion that 75% of the adult male population should be non-agricultural proved difficult because the eight-fold economic classification of the population of the 1951 Census was not available for the population classified by age. Further, the fifth category—i.e., "Production other than cultivation"—including some pastoral occupations the break-up of which was not available for individual towns/villages. The only alternative, therefore, was to take males of all the agricultural classes and calculate their proportion to total males. Even with the 1961 Census figures, it will not be possible to determine adult male population category-wise in respect of any individual village.

(b) The 1961 Census definition of a town, however, was in spite of the difficulties in its (advance) application, a great improvement on the much vaguer concepts of earlier censuses. In 1951, for example, there were three different approaches in former Madhya Pradesh, Madhya Bharat (to which Bhopal was attached for census purposes) and Vindhya Pradesh. In former Madhya Pradesh, "all municipal areas were regarded as towns irrespective of their size and in addition some other places which had urban characteristics were also treated as towns". What constitute urban characteristics and what do not are very much matters of discretion but a fairly cautious approach resulted in only 6 non-municipal places (out of the 67 towns in the Mahakoshal area) being treated as towns even though they had a population of less than 5,000 each; three of these have been retained in 1961 Census as towns because they were covered by the definition. Among the municipal areas of Mahakoshal, there were five towns with populations of less than 5,000 each. A notable instance of abnormality was Pachmarhi Municipality with a population of 342 (1951); this area, however, was a contiguous, municipal extension of Pachmarhi Cantonment (1951 population 4,900) so that Pachmarhi as a whole had a population 5,242. In order to bring out this point, Pachmarhi has been treated as a town-group in the 1961 Census. The most rigid definition was adopted in Madhya Bharat where a place had to be 'municipal' and, also, have a population of at least 5,000; the population limit was not applicable only in the case of cantonments though this exception proved in actual fact to be inoperative. There were 67 towns in all in Madhya Bharat and everyone of them satisfied the criteria adopted. The same definition was adopted in Bhopal also, which had 4 towns. It was in Vindhya Pradesh, however, that there was an unprecedented profusion of towns in the 1951 Census; there were 64 of them as compared with 19 (and, even if we add the five more which are shown as towns in the Rewa State 1941 Census Report even though they were not treated as such in the Central India Agency Report, the number is only 24) in 1941. Prima facie the number 64 is very large as will be seen from the following table:

Region	Population, 1951 (In Mil.)	Number of towns
Mahakoshal	13.64	67
Madhya Bharat	7.95	67
Bhopal	0.84	4
Vindhya Pradesh	3.57	64
Total	26.00	202

This figure of 202 includes Sunel town and excludes Sironj town of which the former was transferred to, and the latter came from, Rajasthan in 1956. The number of 'towns' per million of total population was highest (17.9) in the case of the least developed region. The relevant figures are as follows:

Region/State	No. of towns per million of total population
1951—
Mahakoshal	4.91
Madhya Bharat	8.42
Vindhya Pradesh	17.90
Bhopal	4.78
Madhya Pradesh	7.77
1961—
Madhya Pradesh	6.77

The mischief was caused by the elaborate Vindhya Pradesh definition of 'town' in 1951:

- "(a) All municipal or notified areas and civil lines;
- (b) Villages of 5,000 and above population with urbanness in them;
- (c) Towns being capital of the old integrating States or seats of Thakurais having 49 of these are not 'towns' in 1951; three became municipalities and were, therefore, included; two got merged in towns of different names (Pali Birsinghpur in Johilla Colliery and Dhanpuri in Nargada Hari-Dafai). A study of the position in other States indicates that there was some diversity of approach in this matter; an important step toward uniformity has been taken in 1961 even though the decision to treat every municipality as a town has resulted in as great diversity as there is to be found in what a 'municipality' means in different States. In Madhya Pradesh, there are as many as 14 municipal towns with a population of less than 5,000 each as pointed out earlier. There are also two peculiar cases where two habitations, separated by some distance, together constitute a municipality—Chachaura-Binaganj in Guna District where the habitations of the same names are separated by a distance of 2 miles and Sardarpur-Rajgarh in Dhar District, where, similarly, the distance is 3 miles.

(c) In 1941, again, there was no uniformity of approach. In the State of Indore alone, a sensible rule of thumb was adopted as decided in the Census Conference according to which every habitation with a population of over 5,000 was treated as a town, all others being villages. It is not clear that this is not, in many ways, the best approach. However, in the Central India Agency (of which Indore was a part and no habitation of Indore State with a population of less than 5,000 has been shown as a town in the tables) and Gwalior State, 34 places out of 113 were treated as towns in the areas corresponding to the former States of Madhya Bharat, Vindhya Pradesh and Bhopal (in which, in 1951, there were in all 67 + 64 + 4 = 135 towns) though their population was less than 5,000 in each case; 11 of these—9 in Bhopal State and 2 in Gwalior State—had a population of less than 3,000 each. Of these 34 places with populations less than 5,000 each, 27 places were declassified in 1951, three had crossed the 5,000 mark and four continued to have a population of less than 5,000. But there was a peculiar practice according to which, in the reports amenities of a town such as hospital, High School, Cinema, electricity, etc.;

- (d) Railway stations, trade centres, marketing towns though their population is below 5,000."

The classification of the non-municipal towns each with a population of less than 5,000 of each region on the basis of population size was as follows in 1951:

Mahakoshal	Madhya Bharat	Vindhya Pradesh	Bhopal	Total
..	..	1	..	1
2	..	15	..	17
3	..	13	..	16
..	..	17	..	17
1	..	2	..	3
6	..	48	..	54

published by some Indian States, the number of places treated as towns for all-India purposes was less than the number of places treated as towns for State purposes. For example, in the case of Rewa, the Central India Agency lists only 5 towns whereas the State report lists 9 though even the group of five recognised as towns by the Central India Agency includes one—Govindgarh—with a population of 3,787. Mr. Yeatts observes in the 1941 Report: "It is time the urban/rural distinction in India was put on to a firm and uniform basis. The 5,000 minimum is observed fairly strictly in most of the provinces, notably in Madras, but less so in others and some States appear to have the idea that the number of alleged towns is a mark of their advancement." This is best illustrated by the fact that, whereas, in the areas of 1941 constituting the Vindhya Pradesh of 1951, there were only 19 towns in 1941, this number proliferated to 64 in 1951. This increase of 233.84% in the number of towns, however, resulted in the addition of only 76.06% to the urban population of 1951. The average population of these 45 "new towns" in 1951 was only 2,525. The limit of 5,000 was not adhered to strictly in Central Provinces also. In the Mahakoshal area, in 1941, there were 60 towns in all out of which 8 had populations of less than 5,000 each; 3 of these Class VI towns were situated in Indian States. The total number grew only by 7 to 67 in 1951—two towns being declassified and nine new towns being added. Of these nine, all but three had populations of less than 5,000 each (the three above 5,000 were Khamaria, which is really a part of the Jabalpur urban complex, Tiroli and Hatta, a tahsil town). In all in 1951, there were 11 towns with a population of less than 5,000 each—which do not compare favourably with the eight such towns out of 60 in 1941; 5 of these grew beyond 5,000 in 1951. [These 8 towns are really 7 because Pachmarhi Municipality (1941 population 502) has been treated separately even though, along with Pachmarhi Cantonment, it constitutes one single town (1941 total population—3,633). It will, therefore, be observed that, in 1941 also, the practice of ignoring the limit of 5,000 on the ground that a place had urban characteristics was prevalent in the areas with which we are concerned—except in Indore though, even in this State, a concession to the “urban characteristics” criterion was made in that, in the tables relating to towns, Class VI towns were also shown but the urban population total was limited to towns with a population of over 5,000 each.

(d) In 1931, the definition adopted was more like the 1961 definition in that a non-municipal place, to be treated as a town, had to have a population of at least 5,000 in a “continuous collection of houses” but the 1961 condition requiring the presence of a high percentage of non-agricultural adult males did not exist. Every municipality, all civil lines not included in municipal limits and every cantonment were treated automatically as towns. As usual, in practice, many places with less than 5,000 inhabitants each got included because they were “municipalities”, etc., and the limit of 5,000 proved difficult to apply to even non-municipal places. Mr. Porter, the 1931 Census Superintendent for Bengal, is quoted with approval by Dr. Hutton, the India Commissioner of that Census: “many of the non-industrial towns... differ but little in their conditions from large villages, except in the provision... of an infrequent lamp-post.” In the Mahakoshal area, there were 50 towns in 1931 of which only 7 had populations of less than 5,000 each; actually, the number is only 5 because, if Pachmarhi Cantonment (4,699) and Pachmarhi Municipality (1,437) are treated as one town as they should be, the population of the town (6,136) exceeds 5,000 considerably. Of these five, three were municipalities, one a Notified Area and the last, the capital of an Indian State. No non-“municipal” place with a population of less than 5,000 was classified as a town except Khairagarh, capital of the State of Khairagarh; the rule, it will be seen, was fairly strictly applied. All these 50 towns continued to be towns in 1941 [and Khairagarh (1941 population 5,015) crossed the limit of 5,000].

In the areas corresponding to the former Madhya Bharat, Vindhya Pradesh and Bhopal States, there were 96 towns (113 in 1941) of which rather a high proportion 34—had populations of less than 5,000 each (15 in the Central India Agency tract and 19 in Gwalior State). Once again, the States in their own reports showed many more places as towns as compared with the Central India Agency Report. In the Indore State Report, for example, there are listed as many as 26 towns whereas only 10 of them find a place in the Central India Agency Table (a peculiar thing in the Central India Agency Report of 1931 is that in all tables other than the table showing towns classified by population, which shows 63 towns, and, for calculating urban population, only 56 towns were considered; the 1931, 1921 and 1911 populations of these extra seven have not been given in that exceptional table). Similarly, the Bhopal State Report for 1931 lists 14 towns though only 7 of them are to be found in the Central India Agency Report.

In all, therefore, there were 147 Census towns (including Sironj) in 1931 of which 41 had populations of less than 5,000 each.

(e) The definition of a town stayed unchanged from 1901 to 1931. But, in spite of this continuity at the India level, local refinements were often added in order to include places among towns on the ground that they had ‘urban characteristics’ even though the population in each case was less than 5,000. The position in 1931 has already been referred to. In 1921, again, in Gwalior, so-called ‘urban characteristics’ imported into the list of towns as many as seven places which were not municipalities or cantonments; one did not even have a Town Committee. To conclude, the definition of a town continued unchanged up to 1931 even though, in its application to various areas, there was wide variation in standards. In 1941, the definition adopted became even stricter; for, the lower limit of 5,000 was to be strictly applied irrespective of whether or not it was a municipality, etc. In 1951, the all-India definition was more like the 1931 definition but, as pointed out in the Report itself (India, Part I-A, Ch. II, para 9, page 45), “the tests prescribed for distinguishing towns from villages in different states are based on ideas common to all states, but they are not identical nor have they been applied with meticulous uniformity.” The 1961 definition was very strict on the non-municipal side but, again, as pointed out elsewhere, genuine difficulties in application have resulted in the limit of 5,000 not being observed in some cases. It appears that the only thing to do is (following the 1941 Census intention if not the practice) to apply the 5,000 limit strictly irrespective of considerations based on the existence of urban local authorities. If this alone were the consideration, incorrect instances of anticipatory inclusion of some places in the list of towns (i.e. cases in which the expectation that the population will, at the actual census, be at least 5,000 proves to be wrong) can be rectified immediately after the census is over. But it will be more difficult to make such corrections in the case of the other desirable criterion based on a high percentage of non-agricultural males because this can be done only after sorting up to the stage of making the Primary Census Abstract is over; this stage took much longer to reach in urban tabulation because this was much more elaborate. But the strict application of the 5,000 limit by itself is bound to improve matters a great deal. A statement showing the progress in the number of towns since 1901 follows in item 7.

(ii) (a) The number of urban areas of classes V and VI of 1951 that have been eliminated in 1961 and the population of each of them as a village in 1961 follows.

(1) Includes Sironj which was in Rajasthan in 1951.

(2) Includes Neemuch Cantonment and Baghana towns which were separate towns in 1951 but in 1961 these are included in Neemuch town; excludes Sunel town which was included in this district in 1951 but has been since transferred to Rajasthan.

(3) Out of 14 towns in this district in 1951 three, viz. (1) Pali Birsinghpur, (2) Sohagpur, and (3) Dhanpuri have merged respectively in (1) Johilla Colliery, (2) Shahdol, and (3) Nargada Hari-Dafai towns of 1961 Census.

(4) In comparing the number of towns from census to census, it will be found that a mere total of the number of towns mentioned in Census Reports is misleading because of (a) territorial changes, and (b) separate towns merging into one, and (c) declassification. First, as a result of territorial changes, the following towns ceased to be in the territory corresponding to present Madhya Pradesh in the censuses shown:

- 1 Maharajnagar .. All Censuses from 1901 except 1951.
- 2 Samthar .. All Censuses from 1901 except 1951.
- 3 Nadigaon .. 1901
- 4 Chhabra (Tonk) .. 1901
- 5 Pirawa .. 1901
- 6 Sunel .. 1901, 1941 and 1951.
- 7 Gangapur .. 1931 and 1941.

Second, each of the following towns, as explained in the notes relevant to them, was shown as more than one town or as a different town in various censuses as shown below (this earlier plurality having since disappeared with the emergence of a single city or town):

	Name of town	1901	1911	1921	1931	1941	1951	1961
1	Neemuch ..	..	2	2	2	3	3	1
2	Gwalior ..	..	4	4	3	5	3	1
3	Guna ..	..	2	2	1	2	1	1
4	Ujjain ..	..	1	1	2	2	1	1
5	Sardarpur ..	..	..	..	1	1	..	1
6	Rajgarh ..	..	..	..	1	1	..	1
7	Dewas Senior ..	..	..	..	..	1	1	1
8	Dewas Junior ..	..	..	..	..	1	1	1
9	Agar ..	..	2	2	1	2	1	1

13	Sagar ..	..	1	1	2	2	2	2
14	Jabalpur ..	..	1	1	2	2	2	2
15	Pachmarhi ..	..	1	1	2	2	2	2
16	Pali Birsinghpur ..	..	..	..	..	..	1	1
17	Johilla Colliery ..	..	..	..	..	..	1	1
18	Sohagpur ..	..	..	..	..	..	1	1

20	Dhanpuri ..	..	..	..	..	..	1	1
21	Nargada Hari-Dafai ..	..	..	..	..	..	..	1

Thirdly, the number of towns of each census declassified in 1961 is shown below :

Number of declassified towns
1901	..	..	..	..	10	1931	..	..	9
1911	..	..	..	..	7	1941	..	..	16
1921	..	..	..	..	8	1951	..	..	49

A.—Therefore, the total number of towns shown in the relevant Census Reports, i.e. (1) C.P. and Berar [later Madhya Pradesh—subject to this modification that the towns in the eight Berar districts which in 1956 went over to Bombay and, later, to Maharashtra have not been considered at all for the purposes of this note as also towns in territories transferred to Bengal (and then to Orissa in 1901-11)] 2(a) Central India Agency and 2(b) Gwalior State which together account for most of Madhya Bharat, Vindhya Pradesh and Bhopal of 1951 has to be derived as follows :

		Census Year
		1901	1911	1921	1931	1941	1951	1961
1	Number of towns in different censuses which are towns in 1961	103	103	107	130	149	148	219
2	Add town/towns which have merged and/or are shown by different names	8	8	7	8	9	5	..
3	Add towns since declassified	10	7	8	9	16	49	..
4	Number relevant to the present State of Madhya Pradesh	121	118	122	147	174	202	219
5	Add towns not in comparable territory	6	2	2	3	4	1	..
6	Number of towns to be found listed in the relevant Census Reports	127	120	124	150	178	203	219

B.—The distribution of the number of towns mentioned against item 6 in the above table among various census areas is shown below:

		Census Areas
		1901	1911	1921	1931	1941	1951
1	(a) C.P. and Berar ..	..	47	42	45	50	56	..

(5) Gwalior City has absorbed 5 towns during the course of its growth from 1901 to 1951 as the following table shows :

Census Year	Constitution of Gwalior City	No. of constituent towns
1901	1. Gwalior; 2. Lashkar; 3. Lashkar Brigade; 4. Morar.	4
1911	1. Gwalior; 2. Lashkar; 3. Morar; 4. Lashkar Brigade.	4
1921	1. Gwalior; 2. Lashkar; 3. Morar (including Gwalior Residency).	3
1931	1. Gwalior; 2. Lashkar; 3. Lashkar Cantt.; 4. Morar town (including Residency); 5. Morar Cantt.	5
1941	1. Lashkar City; including Morar, Gwalior and Morar Residency; 2. Lashkar Cantt. 3. Morar Cantt.	3
1951	Gwalior City (inclusive of all the earlier towns).	1
1961	Gwalior City (inclusive of all the earlier towns).	1

The number of separate towns included in respect of Gwalior City in each census year shown in the last column

(6) Includes Guna Cantt. as a separate town; it is no longer a town.

- (7) Excludes (1) Sunel, and (2) Gangapur towns which now lie in Rajasthan; (1) Neemuch Cantonment, and (2) Baghana towns included in this number are now a single town—Neemuch.
- (8) Ujjain Cantonment has now merged in Ujjain City.
- (9) Sardarpur and Rajgarh were two separate towns in 1941; now they are being treated as one town.
- (10) In 1941 Dewas Senior and Dewas Junior were two separate towns; now they are treated as one town, which they have always been in fact.
- (11) Agar Cantonment which was a town in 1941 does not exist now.
- (12) Includes Karera Cantonment which was a separate town in 1931 but subsequently abolished.
- (13) Excludes Gangapur which now lies in Rajasthan and includes Neemuch Cantonment which has since merged in Neemuch.
- (14) Ujjain Cantonment was separate town in 1931 it is now merged in Ujjain City.
- (15) Indore Residency was a separate town in this census but now it forms part of Indore City.
- (16) Sardarpur and Rajgarh were two separate towns in 1931; now they are being treated as one.
- (17) Includes Guna Cantonment which does not exist now.
- (18) Includes Neemuch Cantonment which has merged in Neemuch town.
- (19) Includes Sehore (Station) which has merged in Sehore town.
- (20) From 1901 to 1921 both the Municipality and the Cantonment of Sagar, Jabalpur and Pachmarhi towns were treated as one town while in later censuses cantonments were treated as separate towns. In the case of Hoshangabad District in 1901, it includes Makrai which was subsequently declassified.
- (21) Excludes Sunel which now lies in Rajasthan.

8. Definition of 'Village'

A 'village', in the Indian Census, is not the exact opposite of a 'town' because the area shown against a village or that called 'rural' includes agricultural and other uninhabited land of which the actual inhabited area is only a small fraction. It is important to remember this fact while considering 'urban' and 'rural' density. In surveyed areas, the village has definite boundaries, though they do not always contain only one habitation; quite often, a village has a main habitation with hamlets (variously called 'tolas', 'mazras', etc.). For census purposes, this revenue 'Mauza' has been always treated as the village. In unsurveyed areas, also, the village has well-recognised traditional boundaries and the area included therein is treated as the village. Such areas being mostly hilly and tribal, the 'houses', such as they are, are widely scattered in small groups which may sometimes be separated by considerable distances. In reserve forest areas, there are forest villages with no clearly demarcated boundaries. Their areas, therefore, can only be considered approximate. This has been the idea of a village in Madhya Pradesh Census all through. But, as Mr. Martin observes, "over a considerable area of the country villages are not units of residence but arbitrary and irregular units of area, into which the country has been divided for the purposes of the administration of land revenue; they.....have little demographic interest". (Census of India, 1921, Vol. I, Part I—Report, para 60, page 78). As in the past, no hamlet has been treated as a separate village. It is because a village is a unit of area which may or may not contain a habitation that the census list of villages dutifully includes a number of so-called "uninhabited villages" which normally should mean that, in such a village, there is a group of houses but no inhabitants—which is sometimes the case but by no means often. The inclusion of uninhabited villages serves no purpose other than that of facilitating a proper tally of area aggregates. A statement showing the number of inhabited villages in the State follows:

10. (a) These figures include a number of cases in which the number of villages changes for the mere reason that a particular habitation was treated as a town in one census and as a village in another. But the number involved per district is generally one or two. It is not necessary, therefore, to go into these cases deeply except in the districts of Rewa Division and Datia District. The number indicated below against each of these districts in Col. 2 represents the number of 1951 towns treated as villages in 1961:

S. No. of district in main list	Name	Number of 1951 towns
1	2	3
4	Datia ..	4
7	Tikamgarh ..	2
8	Chhatarpur ..	4
9	Panna ..	4
10	Satna ..	10
11	Rewa ..	13
12	Shahdol ..	8

(b) Normally, the tendency should be for the number of villages to decrease as a result of urbanisation. Bhilai in Durg District and the Heavy Electricals area in Sehore District represent extreme cases in which the rural habitations physically disappeared. The ordinary case, however, is that of the same habitation growing into a town. But the figures indicate that the number of villages has been changing—sometimes considerably—from census to census—even after allowance is made for the inclusion of villages in towns.

(c) The number of villages has been steadily decreasing from 1941 onwards only in one district of the State—Durg. The decrease in the last decade (40 villages) has been mostly due to the establishment of Bhilai. In Shajapur District, the number of villages stayed unchanged from 1941 to 1951 but decreased by three during the next decade. Two villages of 1951 became towns in 1961. The net decrease is, therefore, of only one village. Ujjain has been more or less steady during the last two decades. In the following eight districts, the number increased during 1941-51 but decreased during 1951-61:

1 Morena	5 Hoshangabad
2 Bhind	6 Jabalpur
3 Shivpuri	7 Balaghat
4 Mandsaur	8 Surguja

And, in the following 15 districts, the number decreased during the forties and increased during the fifties:

1 Gwalior	9 West Nimar
2 Datia	10 East Nimar
3 Guna	11 Rajgarh
4 Rewa	12 Vidisha
5 Shahdol	13 Sehore
6 Jhabua	14 Raisen
7 Indore	15 Bilaspur
8 Dewas

But changes were negligible in the decade 1951-61 in Shahdol and Betul Districts and, in the decade 1941-51, in Raisen and Sidhi Districts. Figures for the remaining districts are not available for 1941. Except in the tribal areas, there is not much evidence of any habitual tendency for village sites to change. Shri C. S. Venkatachar, in the Central India Census Report, 1931, writes: "An exception to this permanency of village sites is provided by the curious practice reported from Rewa. There the village site at some definite intervals is shifted from place to place, of course within a short radius. In the decade it is stated that this custom has been stopped." (Page 44, para 62). Enquiries were made again because of the relatively large changes in the number of villages in all the districts of Rewa Division, in one decade or the other; local officials have reported that village sites are not nowadays generally changed.

11. Census-house

In this census, the term, 'building', refers to "the entire structure on the ground. There are, however, high, large or long buildings along a street or lane which have been partitioned or portions of which have been sold, which have distinct, separate main exit on the road and which belong to separate owners or occupiers or alternatively there are a series of different houses joined each to each by common walls on either side to make the whole look like one building but parts of which have been built at different times and belong to separate owners. Such distinguishable structures, although not separate from each other, should be regarded as separate buildings.....If there are more than one structure within an enclosed or open compound belonging to the same person, e.g. the main house, the servant's quarters, the garage, etc., only one building number should be given.....A building under construction should also be given a number...." The definition of a 'Census-House' is based on that of a 'building'. "A census-house is a structure or part of a structure inhabited or vacant, or a dwelling, a shop, a shop-cum-dwelling or a place of business, workshop, school, etc., with a separate entrance. If a building has a number of flats or blocks which have separate entrances of their own and are independent of each other giving on the road or a common staircase or a common courtyard leading to a main gate, they will be considered as separate census-houses. If within an enclosed or open compound there are separate buildings then each such building will also be a separate census-house. If all the structures within an enclosed compound are together treated as one building then each structure with a separate entrance should be treated as a separate census-house". It was only in 1951 that the house was treated as a structural unit as distinct from the household, which is a social unit. Earlier practice in this field was not uniform throughout India; in some States, the emphasis was on the structural aspect: "House means a building which has a separate main entrance from the common way, space or compound and is used as the dwelling place of one or more families." (C.P. & Berar, Report, 1931, para 52, page 58). In others, the social aspect was emphasized: "A house was defined for census purposes as the dwelling place of one commensal family with its dependent and resident servants having an independent entrance, whether that entrance be from a road, gallery, balcony, corridor, courtyard or otherwise." (Central India Agency, Report, 1931, para 50, page 30). The latter naturally ends up with each family having a house though, even if by "house" we mean nothing more than some covered space with an independent exit (main or not) to the external world, there would be many a family with no house in this sense; this is a better approximation to actuality—in the cities particularly, more than one family residing in one house is a common sight. It is true that the structural definition also lands us in many difficulties because there are many dwelling places which we cannot accurately term houses. But it is on the whole better to think of a house as a primarily structural concept and of a family or household as a social one. As between 'household' and 'family' also, the former is to be preferred as it is less restricted in its import. In the 1961 Census, the 1951 practice has been followed except that, in order to facilitate numbering, 'building' has also been defined. The term 'Census-house' has been by and large properly understood. The number of occupied residential census-houses occasionally exceeds the number of households and that is due to the fact that, quite often, the same household is in occupation of more than one census-house in the form of bath-aks, 'servants' houses, etc.

12. 'Occupied residential census-house' means a census-house being actually used for residential purposes.

Note.—Density in Column 10 (total) is based on Surveyor-General's area figures. Density in Column 12 (Urban) is based on urban area figures collected by the Census Organisation. The difference between these two area figures has been used for column 11 (Rural).

14. (i) The general tendency is for the (rural) sex-ratio, which is in the highest range (1016-1053) in the south-eastern districts of Raipur, Durg, Bilaspur, Raigarh and Balaghat, to decline from east to west with a perceptible northward orientation. The lowest range (893-842) is to be found in Chhatarpur, Shivpuri, Gwalior, Bhind and Morena Districts—in the far north—(north—) west of the State. The position regarding pressure on housing is almost the exact reverse. It is highest in the north-east, high generally in the west and low in the east. But, in view of the fact that the term 'Census-House' can cover a wide variety of structure with only this common feature that each of them has a separate entrance, it will not be right to jump immediately to the conclusion that all is well with housing in eastern Madhya Pradesh. The position is somewhat analogous to 'low' pressures on housing in most of Africa and 'high' pressures on housing in most of Western Europe. Western Madhya Pradesh is by far the richer tract and a high index for pressure on housing may be the result of a more well-to-do people crowding into better houses. There seems to be some reason to believe this to be the case because, in the highest (rural) density range (209-345), we have the three very big Chattisgarh Districts of Bilaspur, Durg and Raipur and the two nearby districts of Jabalpur and Balaghat. In terms of area, these five districts (30,896 sq. miles) constitute 76% of the area in this highest density range (40,677 sq. miles). It appears, therefore, that this syndrome of high density and relatively low pressure on housing can be explained only in terms of a generally poor population (a normal consequence of high density) living in sub-standard housing even though the 'houses' may all be independent structures (like huts, for example).

The enormous difference between rural and urban densities is more apparent than real. The reason is that the divisor (area) represents more or less the actual inhabited area so far as urban density is concerned whereas, in rural areas, the inhabited area is usually only a small fraction of the divisor so that the real rural density for inhabited areas is a product of the reciprocal of this fraction and the apparent rural density shown in the table. There is no reason to believe that, area for area, the density in inhabited rural area is significantly lower than that in inhabited urban area. Crude densities, divested of the rural/urban dichotomy are more meaningful as population-land ratios showing over time a trend the significance of which, particularly in overpopulated countries, can be very great indeed. Similarly, owing to the very wide variation in the areas of districts, the percentage of urban population to the total population of a district is no indication at all of the degree of urbanisation. The urban population of Jabalpur District, for example, is about 4.73 lakhs and that of Indore District is about 4.52 lakhs; but the percentage to total population is only 37.1 in the former whereas it is 59.99 in the latter; the figure for Jabalpur District has to contend with a much larger rural population owing to administrative accident. The table below shows the percentage that the rural/urban population of each district/division constitutes of the total rural/urban population of the State.

(ii) (a) The five districts/tahsils in the highest range of density are as follows:

Districts	Tahsils
Indore ..	510	Indore .. 1,297
Bhind ..	372	Jabalpur .. 623
Gwalior ..	329	Huzur (Sehore) .. 563
Jabalpur ..	325	Sakti .. 535
Rewa ..	308	Sarangarh .. 485

The five districts/tahsils with the lowest densities are as follows:

Districts	Tahsils
Bastar ..	77	Bharatpur .. 33
Panna ..	122	Bijaypur .. 60
Surguja ..	120	Goharganj .. 84
Raisen ..	126	Sheopur .. 87
Mandla ..	134	Pal .. 92

(b) Considering rural areas alone, the position is as follows:

Districts	Tahsils
A—Highest densities
Bhind ..	345	Sakti .. 524
Rewa ..	291	Sarangarh .. 461
Bilaspur ..	245	Janjgir .. 460
Satna ..	224	Waraseoni .. 453
Tikamgarh ..	224	Ambah .. 399
B—Lowest densities
Bastar ..	75	Bharatpur .. 33
Surguja ..	115	Bijaypur .. 56
Panna ..	116	Sheopur .. 77
Raisen ..	119	Guna .. 82
Guna ..	123	Goharganj .. 84

(c) The position regarding urban areas is as follows:

A—HIGHEST DENSITIES

Name of District/ Tahsil	Density	Urban Popula- tion	No. of Towns in District/ Tahsil	Popula- tion of largest town in District/ Tahsil
1	2	3	4	5
(a) Districts
1 Panna ..	31,579	16,737	1	16,737
2 Jhabua ..	26,862	35,727	6	10,161
3 Vidisha ..	20,803	64,280	4	27,718
4 Ujjain ..	18,654	214,702	6	144,161
5 Indore ..	17,288	452,083	4	394,941
	783,529	21
(b) Tahsils
1 Jhabua ..	77,567	11,635	2	6,315
2 Chachaura ..	65,980	6,598	1	6,598
3 Kolaras ..	64,700	5,176	1	5,176
4 Rajpur ..	61,242	18,985	2	10,525
5 Susner ..	58,539	10,537	2	5,292
	52,931	8

The point to be observed is that the highest two densities are to be found in districts in which the towns are still "pupating"; it seems to me that urban densities are not a very reliable guide to any characteristic—not even to overcrowding. The fact that a bigger town or city has a lower density does not mean that there are not considerable parts of the bigger town or city (which parts, by themselves, are likely to be many times bigger in terms of population than the smaller town) where densities (and, therefore, pressure on living space) are very high indeed. Also, the demarcation of towns (particularly, municipal) is not based on any well-considered or unchanging principles. There are towns within the municipal limits of which there are large rural areas like Jabalpur, for example; and, on the other, there are those which are literally bursting out of municipal limits—the reasons for the non-extension of which can be many. A look at the highest densities taken tahsil-wise seems to lead inexorably to the conclusion that densities, in the sense of indexes of pressure on living space, are likely to be just as high in rural habitations; for the tahsils with the highest densities are all of them rural and the towns in them are no more than overgrown villages.

B—LOWEST DENSITIES

Name of district/ tahsil	Density	No. of towns	Urban popula- tion
1	2	3	4
(a) Districts
1 Chhatarpur ..	1,630	5	56,319
2 Shahdol ..	2,427	5	57,760
3 Narsimhapur ..	2,537	4	48,996
4 Hoshangabad ..	3,144	9	119,223
5 Dhar ..	3,300	6	66,489
	29	348,787

(i) Tahsils

1	2	3	4
1 Sohagpur (Hoshangabad) ..	1,087	4	28,531
2 Raisen ..	1,319	1	5,962
3 Badnawar ..	1,364	1	6,821
4 Chhatarpur ..	1,436	4	49,240
5 Janjgir ..	1,637	2	24,422
		12	115,006

In the case of three of these tahsils, the districts of which they are a part, also figure in the range of lowest densities—Sohagpur (Hoshangabad District), Badnawar (Dhar District) and Chhatarpur (Chhatarpur District). Neither the rural nor the general density in these three districts is very low. It is only Raisen Tahsil that forms part of an area of generally low density so that, while these low urban densities may to some extent be due to migration, the general conclusion has to be that it is the vagaries associated with the fixation of urban limits that must be held responsible for the accidental lowering of the densities of these places.

(d) The high general densities in Bhind and Rewa are primarily due to high rural densities and, as rural areas constitute an overwhelmingly larger part of all area, it must be concluded that these two districts have the highest pressures in the State not only on land but also on living space. The high general density of Indore District is due to Indore City, the biggest in the State.

(e) The following table shows an interesting comparison:

A—FIVE DISTRICTS OF THE STATE

	With the highest urban densities	With the lowest urban densities
1 Number of towns ..	21	28
2 Average population ..	37,311	12,457

B—FIVE TAHSILS OF THE STATE

1 Number of towns ..	8	11
2 Average population ..	6,616	10,455

The number of towns in the second column in A.1 (28) and B.1 (11) is explained by the fact that Pachmarhi—which is theoretically two towns—has been treated as one. It will be observed that the average population of the towns with the highest densities is only 6,616—which is another way of making the point already made that large villages, expanding out of their traditional limits, have also high habitational densities.

Explanation of Column Headings

- The figures in Col. 2 and 3 include towns.
- The figures in Col. 2 and 4 are taken from the orders of the Vindhya Pradesh Government about the exchange of enclaves contained Chief Commissioner's Secretariat Memo. No. 435-42/VII issued in January, 1950. The area figures in Col. 4 are based on village papers.
- The figures in Col. 3 and Col. 7 are those of the 1941 Census.
- The areas transferred to the different States are :

Madhya Bharat	..	..	..	99.41	Sq. miles
Former Madhya Pradesh	..	..	..	39.51	"
Uttar Pradesh	..	..	..	875.35	"
Total	..	..	..	1,014.57	Sq. miles

[The difference of 485.77 sq. miles (1,014.57—528.80) is the area of whole States transferred to Uttar Pradesh].

- 1 Under columns 3 (a) and 3 (b); (a) represents the area figures furnished by Surveyor General of India; (b) represents the area figures furnished by the State Survey Department. The urban areas are based on the area of individual towns furnished by the local authorities. The rural area for a district is obtained by subtracting from the State Survey area, the urban area.
- 2 The Sq. Km. and density figures of urban areas of District/State are worked out using the area figures corrected upto 2 places of decimal obtained by adding the areas of the towns in the respective units and not using the area figures given in the table. In addition to this the area figures relating to Sq. Km. are further adjusted to make the District/State totals tally.
- 3 Population per square mile has been calculated on area figures supplied by State Survey Office.

STATE TABLE A-I—AREA, HOUSES AND POPULATION

1. The State Survey area figures for the following districts and the State include in 'Total' as well as in 'Rural' area figures the forest area as shown below, but as tahsilwise break-up of this area is not available, it is not included in tahsil areas given in the table. The population per square mile given in Column 4 has been calculated on the State Survey area figures:

APPENDICES TO TABLE A-I

AREA, HOUSES AND POPULATION

1 The Sq. Km. and density figures of urban areas of Tahsil/District/Divisions/State are worked out using the area figures corrected up to 2 places of decimals obtained by adding the areas of the towns in the respective units and not using the area figures given in the table. In addition to this the figures relating to Sq. Km. are further adjusted to make the Tahsil/District/Division/State totals tally.

2 Towns treated as such for the first time in 1951 Census which continue as towns in 1931 Census are shown with asterisk (*) on their left.

3 Towns treated as such for the first time in 1961 are printed in italics.

4 The following abbreviations have been used for the status of a town :

- (i) M. C. Municipal Corporation
(ii) M. Municipality
(iii) Cantt... .. Cantonment
(iv) T. A. Town Area
(v) N. A. Notified Area
(vi) G. P. Gram Panchayat

A-I AREA, HOUSES AND POPULATION

APPENDIX II

Number of villages with a population of 5,000 and over and towns with a population under 5,000.
(Units of territory which have nothing to show for this statement have been excluded).

A town in the 1961 Census had to be either (a) a Municipality, Cantonment or Corporation; or (b) a place with a population of at least 5,000 in which (i) the density had to be at least 1,000 per square mile; and (ii) at least 3/4ths of the adult male population were engaged in non-agricultural occupations. A historical account of the definition of a 'Town' in various censuses may be seen in para 6(i) of the fly-leaf to Table A-I. The application of the 1961 definition has resulted in the inclusion among towns of 17 habitations with a population of less than 5,000 each; of these, 15 are Municipalities. The only towns which do not fulfil either part of the definition are (1) Datla-Bandhi, a mining town of Chhindwara District which seems to be on the decline and (2) Gogaon in West Nimar District. These came to be included because, when, before the actual enumeration of the 1961 Census took place, the list of towns was being finalised, it was expected that, on the basis of 2 % annual increase, these towns, where more than 3/4ths of the male working population was engaged in non-agricultural occupations, would have populations exceeding 5,000 in 1961; this expectation did not materialise. One other exceptional case is Pachmarhi Municipality which is a separate town only theoretically because Pachmarhi Municipality and Pachmarhi Cantt. together constitute a single town (population 6,142) and have been treated as a town-group to bring out this fact. Both the towns and the villages in this Appendix all represent borderline cases and it will probably be more truthful to say that they are all really rural. If a systematic approach is desired, it will be better either (preferably) to limit 'urbanness' to habitations with a population of not less than 10,000 each or to ignore for these purposes all the 17 towns with a population of less than 5,000 each, i.e. ignoring Class VI altogether but include among towns all the 'villages' with a population of more than 5,000, i.e. increasing the number of towns in Class V by 28.

A-I AREA, HOUSES AND POPULATION

APPENDIX III

Houseless and Institutional Population

1. There is nothing to indicate that the enumeration of houseless and institutional population was worse than it was in 1951. It is, however, likely that the coverage has always been incomplete even though returns relating to those actually enumerated seem to be on the whole correct. In 1961, these two categories together account for 0.67 % of the total population (houseless 0.39 %, institutional 0.28 %). In respect of districts for which figures are available for both the censuses, a comparative statement is given below :

District	Proportion (%) of Institutional and houseless population
	1961	1951
1 Morena	1.1	0.7
2 Bhind	0.3	0.6
3 Gwalior	0.9	0.8
4 Shivpur	0.4	0.5
5 Guna	0.9	0.6
6 Ratlam	0.9	1.1
7 Ujjain	1.5	1.7
8 Jhabua	0.3	0.2
9 Dhar	1.9	3.0
10 Indore	2.0	1.5
11 Dewas	0.9	1.4
12 West Nimar	0.5	0.7
13 Shajapur	0.8	0.7
14 Rajgarh	0.5	0.6
15 Sehore	1.5	1.4
16 Raisen	1.1	1.5

In these 16 districts as a whole, the 1961 percentage was 0.9 and the 1951 percentage, 1.1.

2. A detailed classification of institutional population has led to the following table :

7 Raipur Division	..	..	0.2	4.3	8.2	58.7	3.0	25.8

4. The proportion (%) of males in institutional population as a whole and in each category is as follows:

State/Division			Proportion (%) of males in
1			Institu- tional population	Hotels, etc.	Hospitals, etc.	Hostels, etc.	Temples, etc.
			2	3	4	5	6
MADHYA PRADESH	..	..	87	99	57	86	84

6 Bilaspur Division	..	..	86	99	57	88	93
7 Raipur Division	..	..	88	99	59	89	87

5. Among institutions counted in the census, (i.e. only those where persons stayed and which, therefore, became 'households'), hospitals represent by far the largest category. The number of males, as is to be expected, is much greater than that of females except that, in the case of hospitals, etc., it is somewhat less so. In houseless population also, males constitute 59.5 % but it seems that the propensity to be houseless is more 'bisexual' than the propensity to be 'institutionalised'. The general uniformity of the pattern revealed in the tables in paras 3 and 4 suggests that it is not so much the returns themselves that were inaccurate as the number of returns, i.e. coverage—even which probably is not very inaccurate.

TABLE A-II
VARIATION IN POPULATON DURING SIXTY YEARS

TABLE A-II
VARIATION IN POPULATION DURING SIXTY YEARS

1. While the growth of total population has been 92% since 1901, the growth-rates of the sexes have been uneven with the result that the sex-ratio has declined from 990 to 953. The decline has been faster in urban areas than in rural areas. This of course is not due to natural causes but to the fact that generally it is the young male who comes to town in search of work or education and it is only much later that the family follows him. The following table shows the growth rates separately for the sexes in the State and divisions since 1901:

State/Division			1901-11	1911-21	1921-31	1931-41	1941-51	1951-61	1901-61

(M= Males; F= Females)

(For Gwalior, Indore and Bhopal Divisions, the figures in the last row are for 1911-61.)

2. Changes in the areas of district; have been dealt with in detail in the fly-leaf to Table A-I. Adjustments of population follow area changes. Wherever (as between 1951 and 1961, for example) information regarding the actual villages involved in such changes was available, adjustments were made on the basis of actual figures. Otherwise, pro rata adjustments were made—which were inevitable for large parts of the territory of the State from 1941 backwards.

3. The Appendix to A-II is based on the details shown in Appendix I to Table A-I. The population has been adjusted unit for unit on that basis and the 1951 population of the present set-up of the State derived. So far as districts are concerned, the major changes are in Mandlaur and Vidisha Districts both of which were involved in territorial adjustments with Rajasthan as a result of States reorganisation. The other major change results from the formation of six districts out of the three districts of Hoshangabad, Sagar and Chhindwara.

The tribal areas have been showing large increases throughout the last six decades. The important factor affecting growth even in urban areas is more the general rate of growth rather than the rate of urbanisation or industrialisation. In urban areas, another complicating factor which introduces artificiality is the practice of declassifying habitations into 'rural' in one census and raising them to urban status in the next. An extreme example is Bastar in the decade 1901-11 during which a 100% decrease in the urban population is shown. This is due to the fact that the only town of the 1901 Census in Bastar District—Jagdalpur—was declassified in 1911. A similar explanation holds good for Raisen District in 1901-61 and quite a few other districts. A detailed study of Table A-IV will, however, make the position clear. There have of course been some spectacular increases due to industrialisation and/or urbanisation. An instance is Durg District in 1951-61 when the rate of urban growth was 200.53%.

due mainly to the establishment of the Bhilai Steel Project. Similarly, Sehore District in 1951-61 showed the high rate of 109.97% owing to the expansion of Bhopal which became the Capital of the new State of Madhya Pradesh and the site of Heavy Electricals Ltd. The decreases in rural and/or urban population particularly in the decades 1901-11 and 1911-21 are mostly due to epidemics like the plague or influenza. The highest rate of urban increase in 1901-61 in Shahdol District is due to the fact that in the base year (1901) there as only one town Umaria whereas, from 1951 onwards, there have been five (excluding those declassified in 1961) one of which—Nargada Hari-Dafai, a colliery area—has a very large population now (10,617) compared with 1,576 in 1951. If the disturbing factors of epidemics and declassification are eliminated, it will be found that, generally speaking, the rate of urban growth has been higher than that of rural growth.

7. The highest sex-ratio, considering the population as a whole, is to be found in Raipur Division which position it has consistently held throughout the last six decades. Bilaspur and Jabalpur Divisions have been, for most of the time, second and third respectively except that the latter occupied the second, and the former the third, place in 1901. Rewa Division has been in the fourth place and Gwalior Division in the last (figures for 1901 for the sexes separately are not available for Gwalior Division) throughout. Bhopal and Indore Divisions started as the fifth and sixth (figures for the sexes for these divisions also are not available for 1901) in 1911 but exchanged positions during the decade 1931-41. Therefore, generally, the sex-ratio is higher in the East and in the South and this tendency seems to be getting more pronounced. Raipur and Bilaspur Divisions have always been having an excess of females and Jabalpur Division also in 1901 and 1911. The rural pattern in divisions is substantially the same except that the reversal of the positions of Bhopal and Indore Divisions starts earlier, i.e. in 1921 and Rewa Division gets down to fifth position in 1951 with Indore above it and Bhopal below. In the urban areas also, Bilaspur and Raipur Divisions have been first and second respectively except (a) in 1941 when there was a reversal and (b) in 1961 when Raipur Division happens to have the lowest sex-ratio among divisions mainly owing to the establishment of the Bhilai Steel Project. As is well known, in an industrial area, the sex-ratio is generally low—particularly when it is new. In other decades, this last place was occupied by Gwalior Division till 1931 (this was due to the general sex-ratio being low in the region) and by Jabalpur Division in 1941 and in 1951 (owing to the rapid expansion of Jabalpur City and Katni town during the war and thereafter). While, like Jabalpur Division, Bhopal Division was getting lower in rank, steadying itself from 1921 to 1951 but falling to sixth position in 1961, in Indore and (but for the fall in 1961) Rewa Divisions, the tendency has been to go up in rank, exhibiting a relatively slower change in sex-ratio.

The position in the districts also is that the southern and the eastern districts show a higher sex-ratio. Taking total population first, the first five districts have always been Durg, Seoni, Balaghat, Raipur and Bilaspur (though the order inter se changes in some decades) except that (a) Balaghat is displaced by Mandla in 1951 and (b) Durg, by Raigarh in 1931. The rural picture is almost exactly the same (the slight difference is that, in 1931, it is Seoni, and not Durg, that is displaced by Raigarh. It will be seen that all the districts concerned lie in the south-eastern part of the State. While considering the five districts with the lowest sex-ratios, the 1901 Census has to be left out of consideration because, for a good part of the region where sex-ratios are low, the relevant sex-wise figures are not available. In the other six censuses, the five lowest have always been Morena, Bhind, Gwalior, Indore and Shivpuri Districts (with the inter se order changing in some censuses), the exceptions being the displacement of Shivpuri (a) by Chhatarpur in 1951; and (b) by Sehore in 1961. For the rural population, four of these districts are common but Guna takes the place of Indore. Raigarh in 1921, and Chhatarpur in 1931 displace Guna whereas Shivpuri is displaced by Datia in 1941. In 1951 both Shivpuri and Guna get displaced by Datia and Chhatarpur. Thus practically all the districts concerned are northern or western. Even for urban population, the position is not as different as one would expect it to be. There are in all 14 districts involved in the groups of the five districts with the highest urban sex-ratios for all the seven censuses; but only ten of them—Seoni, Betul, Chhindwara, Durg, Balaghat, Bilaspur, Raigarh, Mandla, Bastar and Raipur—all in the south-eastern part of the State—occur in the groups of more than one census; the other four, which occur only once in some census or the other, are: Raisen, Raigarh, Datia and Tikamgarh. In the groups of five districts of each census with the lowest urban sex-ratios, the following seven districts occur more than once in some census or the other: Indore, Bhind, Gwalior, Jabalpur, Sehore, Morena and Rewa. There are three others which occur only once in some census: Surguja, Durg and Sidhi. It will be seen that five of the ten districts are northern or western. Durg gets included because of recent industrial development. While the general trend all over the State is towards a decrease in sex-ratio, there have been occasional reversals of this trend. The following table shows for the State and the divisions the magnitude of the reversal whenever it took place:

Till 1931, the increases in sex-ratio (number of females per thousand males) were mostly limited to the rural areas except for Jabalpur Division in 1931 and Bilaspur Division in 1911. Thereafter, till 1951 there are significant increases in the urban sex-ratios in 1941 and in 1951 in three divisions (Gwalior, Indore and Bhopal) and in one of the two census years in three other divisions (Rewa, Jabalpur and Raipur), Bilaspur alone showing no reversal. But, in view of the fact that in all census years, there has been a net decline in the sex-ratio in the State as a whole, these reversals have to be attributed either to migration to urban areas or to natural increase. In the absence of dependable vital statistics, it is difficult to hazard a more definite conclusion. Both in 1941 and in 1951, most districts of Gwalior, Indore and Bhopal Divisions show an increase in the sex-ratio. The 1951-61 decade, however, is notable in that, practically throughout the State, the earlier trend has been resumed towards a decline in sex-ratio.

†Cols. 5, 6, 7 and 9 do not reflect the changes in regard to State as such, between 1951 and 1961, as the 1951 districts of Buldhana, Akola, Amravati, Yeotmal, Wardha, Nagpur, Bhandara and Chanda with a total area 36,970.0 Sq. miles and population 7,607,038 have been transferred to newly formed Maharashtra State and do not appear in col. 1. In addition to this, all the districts of former Madhya Bharat State with an area 43,181.0 Sq. miles, population 7,954,154, former Bhopal State with an area 6,832.0 Sq. miles, population 833,474 and former Vindhya Pradesh State with an area 23,603.0 Sq. miles, population 3,574,690 have been merged with Madhya Pradesh and are appearing in col. 1. All these changes were made under States Re-organisation Act 1956.

*Though the districts have not undergone any jurisdictional change in their areas since 1951, there is an increase or decrease in their areas due to computational error as well as un-surveyed tracts of 1951.

(a) One uninhabited village with an area 0.2 Sq. mile of Bhandar Tahsil of Gwalior (Gird) District transferred to Lahar Tahsil of this district. Notification No. and date not available.

(b) Change is given against symbol (a) for this district.

(c) 12 villages with an area 21.2 Sq. miles of Kurwai Tahsil of Vidisha (Bhilsa) District transferred to Mungaoli Tahsil of this district. Notification No. and date not available.

(d) 2 villages with an area 3.0 Sq. miles of Raghurajnagar Tahsil of Satna District transferred to Ajaigarh Tahsil of this district vide Chief Commissioner's Order No. 4521-27/7/110/51 dated 5-7-51.

(e) In addition to change enumerated against symbol (d) six villages with an area of 27.1 Sq. miles of Raghurajnagar Tahsil transferred to Sirmour Tahsil of Rewa District vide Governor's Order No. 17 dated 20-1-56.

(f) Change is given against symbol (e) relating to this district.

(g) 3 part villages with an area 4.8 Sq. miles of Chittorgarh District of Rajasthan, transferred to Bhanpura Tahsil of this district (Notification No. and date not available) and 77 villages and 1 town with an area 148.9 Sq. miles of Bhanpura Tahsil (Sunel Tappa) of this district were transferred to Jhalawar District of Rajasthan State under the States Re-organisation Act 1956.

(h) 3 villages with an area 7.6 Sq. miles of Alot Tahsil transferred to Khacharod Tahsil of Ujjain District vide order No. 57/6 DAI 57/55 date not available.

(i) In addition to change given in symbol (h) two villages with an area 7.2 Sq. miles of Badnagar Tahsil of Dhar District transferred to Badnagar Tahsil vide Revenue Department Order No. 110/6D/A/52-56 dated 25-10-56 and 7 villages with an area 21.4 Sq. miles of Ujjain Tahsil transferred to Sawer Tahsil of Indore District. Notification No. and date not available.

(j) One uninhabited village (area not available) of Sardarpur Tahsil of Dhar District transferred to Jhabua Tahsil of this district. Notification No. and date not available.

(k) Changes are given against symbols (i) and (j) relating to this district.

(l) Change is given against symbol (i) relating to this district.

(m) In addition to change enumerated against symbol (c) Sironj Sub-division with an area of 865.2 Sq. miles of Kotah District of Rajasthan State was transferred to this district under States Re-organisation Act, 1956.

(n) Narsimhapur and Gadawara Tahsils with an area of 1,978.0 Sq. miles transferred to newly formed Narsimhapur District after bifurcation of Hoshangabad District into Hoshangabad and Narsimhapur Districts in 1956. Notification No. and date not available.

(o) Damoh and Hatta Tahsils with an area 2,022.0 Sq. miles, transferred from this district to newly formed Damoh District in 1956. Notification No. and date not available.

(p) Newly formed after 1951 Census, details are given against symbol (o).

(q) Newly formed after 1951 Census details are given against symbol (n).

(r) Seoni and Lakhnadon Tahsils with an area 3,216.0 Sq. miles transferred from this district to newly formed Seoni District in 1956 vide Revenue Department Notification No. 1,556-5112-XII dated the 24th July, 1956.

(s) Newly formed after 1951 Census, details are given against symbol (r).

(t) Sakti Tahsil with an area 106.0 Sq. miles and 52 villages with an area 49.2 Sq. miles of Kharsia Tahsil of 1951 (now abolished) transferred from Raigarh District (Notification No. and date not available). In addition to these changes 25 villages with an area 38.9 Sq. miles of Janjgir Tahsil transferred to Sarangarh Tahsil of Raigarh District vide Notification No. 7641-6280-XII dated the 9th September, 1953 and 2 villages with an area 1.9 Sq. miles of Janjgir Tahsil transferred to Raigarh Tahsil of Raigarh District (Notification No. and date not available).

(u) Changes are given against symbol (t).

Notes.—1 The actual change in area (as given against symbol in the foot notes) in the district boundaries due to jurisdictional change does not agree with the net increase or decrease in the area figures given under cols. 5 and 6 in brackets against each district. The difference is perhaps due to computational error.

2 The difference in area in 1951-61 given in cols. 5 and 6 in brackets of this Appendix does not agree with the area figures given in cols. 9 and 10 of Appendix I to Table A-I on account of revised computation.

3 The figures given in brackets in cols. 5 and 6 represent the difference in area between 1951 and 1961 and the figures given in brackets under col. 7 show the difference in population between the areas as per jurisdiction in 1951 and the present jurisdiction.

3. (a) Madhya Pradesh is predominantly a State of small villages—over 73% have less than a population of 1,000 each and nearly 42% have populations of less than 500 each. The districts having the smallest (S), medium (M) and largest (L) proportions in each size-group are as follows:

Size-group of villages	S	M	L
Less than 200..	Bhind	Jhabua	Raisen
200-499 ..	Balaghat	Sidhi	Mandla
500-999 ..	Raisen	Hoshangabad	Durg

Size-group of villages	S	M	L
1000-1999 ..	Mandla	Sidhi	Balaghat
2000 and more ..	Vidisha	Narsimhapur	Bhind

The general impression one gets is that the rice-growing tract has a larger proportion of medium-sized villages whereas the wheat-growing areas have a larger proportion of the bigger, as well as the smaller, villages.

(b) The following table shows the average population per village in various size-groups of villages for the State and divisions; averages exceeding the State figures are underlined:

State/Division	Average population per village in villages in the population range

5. As the rural population increases (the 1951-61 increase was 21%), it is to be expected that there will be normally a decrease in the proportion of the smallest villages because, in the first place, the total number of villages changes very little and, in the second place, many of the largest among the smaller villages of the previous census will, at the succeeding census, move into the next higher range. As between 1951 and 1961, the increase % in the proportion of villages and of population in each range was as follows:

Size-range of village	Increase % in the proportion of the number of villages in the range	the population of the villages in the range
Less than 500
500-999
1,000-1,999
2,000-4,999
5,000-9,999
	-8.00	-16.71
	+31.38	+10.80
	+50.70	+26.89
	+49.33	+23.35
	+33.33	+3.51

The trend appears to be towards a relatively larger increase in the number of, as well as in the population living in, the bigger villages. Some of the biggest villages cease to be rural, i. e. become towns—hence the smaller increases in the range : 5,000-9,999.

TABLE A-IV
TOWNS CLASSIFIED BY POPULATION IN 1961
WITH VARIATION SINCE 1901

TABLE A-IV
TOWNS (AND TOWN-GROUPS) CLASSIFIED BY POPULATION IN 1961 WITH VARIATION SINCE 1901

1. The definition of 'town' has been dealt with in para 6(i) of fly-leaf to Table A-I.
2. Towns are classified into six groups as below :

Class	Population range
I	100,000 and above
II	50,000-99,999
III	20,000-49,999
IV	10,000-19,999
V	5,000-9,999
VI	Less than 5,000

Generally speaking, there is little doubt regarding the urban character of towns in the first three classes. Even in Class IV, such a doubt is only occasional; for these towns, though not industrial, are at least small commercial centres dealing in agricultural produce of various kinds. But it is very doubtful whether the towns in Classes V and VI are really urban; more often, they are large villages. It is also at least arguable whether even a village should not have a population of something like seven or eight thousand in order that, as a corporate body, it may have at least some of the amenities of modern civic life. It is interesting to remind oneself in this connexion that an agricultural community in the West may continue to be treated as rural even if it has a protected water-supply (hot and cold) and underground drainage whereas it would be unhesitatingly classified as urban in India whatever the other criteria regarding population, non-agricultural character, etc. may be such as it is nowhere near satisfying. The rural-urban classification is very relative and conditioned by what one may call the 'ethos' of the country. As the question of the urban character of the towns in Classes V and VI is very much a matter of opinion (either of the Census Superintendent or of some body else like the State Government in the case of municipalities), one frequently comes across the same habitation hopping into the urban category in one census and hopping out of it in another so that comparisons of urban population between censuses are very difficult. The only saving grace is that though the number of towns in Class V and (particularly) Class VI may be large, the population involved is not very much. A 'city' is a town with a population of a lakh or more.

3. In this census, not only has the definition of 'town' been more systematised but a new entity called the 'town-group' has been introduced. One kind of 'town-group' has its basis in what may be called demographic prognosis, this being that a particular group of towns is situated in such a way, and exhibits some inter-connecting features of such a kind, that they can be considered a single demographic entity whose organic nature is likely to become more and more evident in the future. Examples are: Bhopal City with Bairagarh in the West and the Heavy Electricals Township in the East; and Durg Town and Bhilai Industrial Township. The other type of town-group is a group only in name in the sense that it represents a group of localities which geography unites but definition separates. Examples are: Sagar town-group consisting of Sagar Municipality and Sagar Cantt. and Jabalpur town-group (consisting of Jabalpur Corporation, Jabalpur Cantt. and Khamaria). In both these instances, the urban complex is single and continuous but, as each corporation or cantt. is a separate town by definition, it gets split up in the census into more than one town. In Madhya Pradesh, there are six town-groups in all; three of them belong to the first type; Bhopal (222,948) in Sehore District, Murwara (60,472) in Jabalpur District and Durg (133,230) in Durg District; the other three belong to the second type: Pachmarhi (6,142) in Hoshangabad District, Sagar (104,676) in Sagar District and Jabalpur (367,014) in Jabalpur District. Murwara is now in rapid transition to the second type.

Out of a total of 219 towns in the State in 1961, 35 towns did not change class at all during their whole life as "towns" of which 25 were in Class V, 5 in Class VI, 3 in Class III and the remaining 2 in Class IV. Of these 35 towns, 15 were towns since 1901 without a break, out of which, again, 10 were in Class V with two each in Classes III and IV and 1 in Class VI. Similarly there were 92 towns with varying but continuous lives as towns, since 1901, of which 44 have shown very little change, (i.e. which showed a change only once in their life so far). Of these, in 1961, 1 was in Class VI, 21 were in Class V, 33 in Class IV, 26 in Class III, 5 in Class II and 6 in Class I. Again out of these 44, 13 showed a change to a higher class in the decade 1951-61, having continued unchanged in class till then. The remaining thirty-one towns changed class once during the first five decades of the century, 5 in the first decade, i.e. 1901-11, 1 in 1911-21, 4 in 1921-31, 12 in 1931-41 and 9 in 1941-51. All these changes were from a lower to a higher class except in the solitary case of Nowgong which showed a change in the reverse direction in 1901-11 decade. The dangerous age for a town seems to be its tenure in Class V where it is quite likely to get stuck. The relevant town-wise details are given below;

A (i) Towns which have not changed in class and have been towns since 1901:

Class IV { 5 Ashoknagar (1931)
6 Ambikapur (1941)

Class IV { 7 Champa (1921)
8 Shivpuri (1911)

(c) Towns which have changed into a higher class in 1931-41

Class V { 1 Alot (1931)
2 Manawar (1931)

Class IV 3 Sagar Cantonment (1931)

There have also been some changes in the reverse direction, i.e. from a higher to a lower class in case of those towns which have changed more than once during their life as towns. These relate mostly either to 1901-11 or 1911-21 decades—being much greater in the latter than in the former. The causes were epidemics, like influenza and/or famine. The later decades show a generally brighter picture.

Total 210* 198* 171* 144* 122 118 121

(*A town-group has been classified according to the total population; as such the total number of towns in 1961, 51, 41 and 31 being 219, 202, 174 and 147 respectively is reduced to the total arrived at in the above table in each case.)

With no town of Class I in the 1901 decade, the number in that class remained steady at 1 during the two succeeding decades, but thereafter increased steadily till the last census. In the case of Class II towns, the number decreases from 4 in 1901 to 1 in 1911; this rather significant decrease was due to Jabalpur town ascending into Class I, and two Indore and Lashkar—coming down into Class III. This reduction in class in the case of Indore and Lashkar was due to plague in case of Indore and famine in case of Lashkar. There is a steady increase in the number of towns of Classes III and IV, if we disregard the number of 1901 Census. The position in the case of Class V towns is not unsatisfactory so far as the general direction of change is concerned, but it is quite doubtful whether all of them are really urban; it is likely that some large villages are included and some really urban places left out. This is more so in the case of Class VI towns which it would be safer to treat as rural rather than urban even though there are municipalities among them. The number of Class VI towns is lowest in 1961 owing to large scale declassification—particularly in Rewa Division and Datia District (i.e. former Vindhya Pradesh).

The urban straggle has apparently been between Class I on the one hand and Classes III and IV on the other, the former finally emerging as the single largest class in terms of population in 1961; it exceeded the combined population of Classes III and IV in 1951. Class II has shown a very unstable history owing probably to the fact that no town stays in that category for long; roughly speaking, the tenure seems to be about 2 decades. Class III has been much steadier around 20% except in 1911 when it was 23.24% because two towns Indore and Lashkar - descended from Class II in 1901 to Class III in 1911 as stated in para 5 supra. Class V has been gradually declining in importance from being in the highest position in 1901 and 1911 (25.70% and 32.45% respectively) to fourth position in 1951 (14.52%). Class VI has been always the least important except in 1921. The largest number of towns has always been in Class V being followed upto 1951 by Classes VI, IV, III, II and I in that order. A change has taken place for the first time in 1951. Class VI has been pushed to fourth position with Classes IV and III coming up. There is also a reversal in the position of Class I and II. The truth of the general proposition that, while their number increases as towns go down in class, the population of the class as a whole decreases seems to be to some extent giving way.

7. Percentage of area in each class of towns to total urban area of the state and density of population per urban square mile in each class, 1951-1961

Class	1951		1961
	% of area to total urban area	Density per square mile	% of area to total urban area	Density per square mile
1	2	3	4	5
Class I	13.51	10,665	32.35	7,763
Class II	6.47	7,598	6.06	8,715
Class III	14.01	5,756	17.84	7,423
Class IV	14.75	4,503	19.32	5,386
Class V	22.76	3,166	23.30	4,008
Class VI	28.50	738	1.13	7,986
TOTAL	100.00	4,334	100.00	6,428

Note.—In 1951 total area excludes area of six towns of class V and one town of Class VI since it was not available.

Density figures are meaningful only for the first four classes because the towns in them have fairly well defined area limits in respect of the habitation as such. This is so to some extent in the case of Class V but it is largely untrue of Class VI where, in the case of non-municipal areas, the areas include a good deal of agricultural land. The general picture is that densities are higher in the higher ranges.

8. (a) The following statement (which is defective to the extent that no account has been, or could be, taken of possible changes in the 1951 list of towns if the 1961 definition (which has led to declassification of as many as 49 of the 1951 'towns') is applied to the 1951 Census] shows that, as a result of the declassification, there has been a reduction of about 1.49 lakhs in the 1961 urban population.

8 (b) While the statement in para 8(a) supra dealt with the 1961 population, the following statement attempts a readjustment of the 1951 population. The difficulty created by new towns which sprang up after the 1951 Census was got over by showing nil figures for them in 1951; this is accurate for all practical purposes. A slight element of inaccuracy arises from the fact that, in the areas acquired (including inhabited villages) for the new industrial or mining towns (five in all, which are Nepanagar, Heavy Electricals Ltd. Township near Bhopal, Korba, Bhilainagar and Rajhara-Jharan-Dalli), not all of the rural habitations have been demolished because the areas concerned have not yet become necessary for the industry concerned (for instance, a proposed residential colony has not yet been built, etc.). The population of such habitations has got included in the 1961 urban population but it has not been possible to trace out their 1951 populations; the error involved is negligible.

†Dhanpuri and Pali Eisinghpur towns of 1951 are merged in and replaced by Nargada Hari-Dafai and Johilla Colliery in 1961. As such the 1951 population shown against these towns exclude population of the merged towns.

According to the 1961 procedure, therefore, the 1951 urban population would have been 3.3 million instead of 3.1 million as shown in the Census Tables.

*The area and population of Nargada Hari Dafai Colliery is inclusive of Dhanपुर town of 1951. Separate population of Nargada Hari Dafai Colliery is 5,925 and that of Dhanपुर is 1,576. Separate area figures are not available.

†The 1951 population of this new town has not been shown in Appendix to Table A-IV because this town is an amalgamation of population of several revenue villages of 1951 Census; some of them have been merged in parts, for which separate population is not available. Moreover, the 1951 population of 5 villages shown in this Note does not make the 1951 population of this particular new town.

‡This population of Johilla Colliery is inclusive of the population of Pali Birsinghpur town of 1951. Separate population of Johilla Colliery is 1,423 and that of Pali Birsinghpur 3,194.

PRIMARY CENSUS ABSTRACT

PRIMARY CENSUS ABSTRACT

1. The Primary Census Abstract (PCA) presents basic demographic statistics. In this volume, the PCA is presented for the State, Divisions, Districts, Tahsils for rural and urban areas separately and for all towns. The village-wise PCA for the rural areas of tahsils and the block-wise PCA for each city/town will be found in the District Census Handbooks. In the case of towns, the area given includes non-municipal urban area, i.e. urban area outside municipal/corporation/cantonment limits treated as such for census purposes. 'Census-House' has been explained in the fly-leaf notes to Table A-I. 'A (Census) household is a group of persons who commonly live together and would take their meals from a common kitchen unless the exigencies of work prevented any of them from doing so.' In other words, a household has to live in a census-house or part thereof for being treated as such; a family of nomads will, therefore, not be a 'household'.

2. (a) Percentage of households to number of houses in Rural and Urban Areas, district by district.

In the case of all units, the number of households, is in excess of the number of houses. But a household may of course consist of just one person, theoretically. The actual position is that this excess of households is an index of over-crowding in view of the fact that, according to the definition adopted, even a part of a house—however, small and otherwise inconvenient or illdesigned—becomes a 'Census-House' if it has a nearly independent access to the outside world. The average household has 4.87 persons in the State as a whole; the rural average is 4.91 and the urban, 4.66. Considering household population alone (and not, as in the case of the statement given in para 15 of the fly-leaf notes to Table A-I, the total population), the number of persons per occupied census-house is 5.18 in the State as a whole (Rural, 5.14; urban, 5.39).

(b) The ranking of divisions on the basis of number of households per 100 census-houses is as follows (the State average also is included for purposes of comparison):

Total	Rural	Urban
I Gwalior (103.33) ..	.. I Rewa (108.41) ..	.. I Gwalior (131.24)
II Rewa (108.46) ..	.. II Bilaspur (106.52) ..	.. II Indore (124.94)
III Indore (106.74) ..	.. III Gwalior (105.53) ..	.. Madhya Pradesh (115.55)
IV Bilaspur (106.49) ..	.. IV Bhopal (105.18) ..	.. III Bhopal (111.68)
V Bhopal (106.21) ..	.. Madhya Pradesh (104.68)	.. IV Raipur (111.48)
Madhya Pradesh (106.17) ..	.. V Raipur (103.66) ..	.. V Rewa (109.15)
VI Raipur (104.51) ..	.. VI Jabalpur (103.09) ..	.. VI Jabalpur (106.55)
VII Jabalpur (103.66) ..	.. VII Indore (101.72) ..	.. VII Bilaspur (106.17).

The eastern and north-eastern segment of the State, (i.e. Bilaspur and Rewa Divisions) shows a high rural magnitude whereas the Central segment, extending southwards upto Bastar is characterised by low magnitudes both in the rural and in the urban areas partly because of the large tribal areas where each hut is a 'house'. The northern and western segments have high urban magnitudes, (i.e. Gwalior and Indore Divisions). Bhopal Division occupies an intermediate position with a relatively higher rural magnitude and a relatively lower urban magnitude. It is also noteworthy that the northern segment (Gwalior Division) holds, in its rural areas, a position more characteristic of the contiguous north-eastern Rewa Division.

(b) The ranking of divisions for this characteristic is as follows (the table includes the State for comparison):

Total				Rural				Urban
I	Indore	..	44	I	Bilaspur	..	37	I	Indore	..	2,533
II	Jabalpur	..	42	II	Rewa	..	36	II	Gwalior	..	1,948
III	Bilaspur	..	40	III	Jabalpur	..	35	Madhya Pradesh			1,371

VII	Raipur	..	35	VII	Bhopal	..	30	VII	Rewa	..	780

As against this, the ranking on the basis of population density is as follows:

Total				Rural				Urban
I	Indore	..	232	I	Bilaspur	..	180	I	Indore	..	12,604
II	Gwalior	..	200	II	Indore	..	177	II	Gwalior	..	9,739

VII	Raipur	..	164	VII	Bhopal	..	147	VII	Rewa	..	3,449

Household density and population density are both high in the rural areas of Bilaspur and Rewa Divisions and the urban areas of Indore and Gwalior Divisions. Both these indexes are low in the rural as well as the urban area of Raipur Division (with the result that, taking both the areas together Raipur Division ranks lowest), in the rural area of Bhopal Division and in the urban areas of Bilaspur and Rewa Divisions.

4. (a) Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes are those found in the President's Order relating to them promulgated in 1956 just after the reorganisation of States (printed herewith as Appendix I to this Table). It should be clearly understood that persons belonging only to those castes and tribes listed in this order and only in those areas for which they are scheduled in the order have been enumerated in such areas and nowhere else. To take an instance, Gonds have been enumerated only in the areas for which they are scheduled even though they are found in many other areas and those found in these other areas are culturally and socially no different from those found in the scheduled areas. It follows that in most cases the census coverage of a caste or tribe (found in the lists of the President's Order) cannot be considered complete. In the case of tribes, there is not a single instance of a tribe having been scheduled throughout the State and, in the case of castes, there are only three such cases: Bhangi (Mehtar), Chamar and Dom. One other caste also has been notified throughout the State but the description varies slightly from region to region; this is बराहर (Barahar) or बसोड़ (Basod) of the Madhya Bharat Region (including Sironj Sub-division) बसोर (Basor), बुरह (Burad), बंसोर (Bansor) or बंसोड़ी (Bansodi) of the Mahakoshal Region and बसोर (Basor) or बंसफोड़ (Bansphor) of the Vindhya Pradesh and Bhopal Regions. For demographic or sociological purposes, therefore, these statistics have to be used with great circumspection. In spite of clear instructions that the actual name of the caste/tribe should be written, in a few cases indefinite entries like Harijan, Scheduled Caste (अनुसूचित जातियाँ) or tribe (अनुसूचित जनजातियाँ) came in; where such entries related to areas in which some caste/tribe was scheduled, they were included in the population of Scheduled Castes or Tribes as unspecified castes/tribes. In Madhya Pradesh, there were 25,910 entries in respect of castes and 12,867 entries in respect of tribes. Division and district details are given in Appendix II to this table.

(b) A 'houseless' person is a person who, at the time of enumeration, was not found living in a (Census) house. 'Institutional Population' is population which was found to be living in institutional 'Census houses' like prisons, hostels, hotels, etc. 'Institutions like boarding houses, messes, and chummeries should also be regarded as census households but of 'unrelated persons' living together'.

(c) Instructions regarding literacy and education were as follows: "For a person who can neither read nor write or can merely read but cannot write in any language, write 'O' (and for one) who can both read and write, write 'L'. The test for reading is ability to read any simple letter either in print or in manuscript....The test for writing is ability to write a simple letter. The test for literacy is satisfied if the person can with understanding both read and write." If such a person "has also passed a written examination or examinations as proof of an educational standard attained, write the highest examination passed instead of 'L'."

5. (i) The concepts of 'work' and 'worker' were explained in the instructions as follows:

"The basis of work will be satisfied in the case of seasonal work like cultivation, livestock, dairying, household industry etc., if the person has had some regular work of more than one hour a day throughout the greater part of the working season. In the case of regular employment in any trade, profession, service, business or commerce the basis of work will be satisfied if the person was employed during any of the fifteen days preceding the day on which you visited the household. If on the check or revisional round such a person is found to be unemployed no change in the original entry should be made. A person who is working but was absent from his work during the fifteen days preceding the day on which enumerated or even exceeding the period of fifteen days due to illness or other causes should be treated as worker. A person who has been offered work but has not actually joined should be treated as non-worker. Work includes not only actual work but effective supervision and direction of work.

"Persons under training as apprentices with or without stipend or wages will be regarded as working.

"An adult woman who is engaged in household duties but doing no other productive work to augment the family's resources should not be considered as working for purposes of this question. If, however, in addition to her household work she engages herself in work such as rice pounding for sale or wages, or in domestic services for wages for others or minding cattle or selling firewood or making and selling cowdung cakes or grass etc., or any such work she should be treated as a worker.

"Persons like beggars, pensioners, agricultural or non-agricultural, royalty, rent or dividend receivers, who may be earning an income but who are not participating in any productive work should not be treated as working unless they also work in cultivation, industry, trade, profession, business or commerce.

"A public or social service worker who is actively engaged in public service activity or a political worker who is also actively engaged in furthering the political activity of his party will be regarded as a worker." Further, "for an undertrial prisoner enumerated in a jail he should be recorded for the work or kinds of work he was doing before he was apprehended. Similarly, for a person temporarily in a hospital or similar institution he should be recorded for the kind of work he was doing before he was admitted into hospital or institution. But for a convict in a prison or for long term inmates of penal or charitable or mental institutions, the person's previous work should not be recorded but 'I' should be recorded."

Those engaged in irregular, non-seasonal work like the day-labourer proved rather difficult in practice for the distinction between this category and the unemployed is often pretty thin. The general criterion was whether the person concerned was sticking over a period of time to whatever he was doing, without any noticeable tendency to look for some other kind of work or to migrate—this judgement was, however, admittedly difficult.

(ii) 'Cultivation' had, in the census, a specific meaning. The term included "ploughing, sowing and harvesting" and referred to:

"1. Production of cereal crops (including bengal gram), such as rice, wheat, jowar, bajra, maize, roots and tubers like potato, yam, beet etc.; sugarcane etc.

2. Production of pulses, such as arhar, moong, masur, urd, khesari, other gram.

3. Production of raw jute and kindred fibre crops.

4. Production of raw cotton and kindred fibre crops."

It is, therefore, important to remember that the census (industrial) category of "cultivators" does not include the "production of other field produce" [like (a) the production of other crops (not included in the census definition of 'cultivation') including vegetables; (b) production of fruits and nuts in plantations and orchards (like coconut, arecanut etc.); (c) production of wood, bamboo, cane reeds, thatching grass, etc; (d) production of juice by tapping palms; and (e) production of other agricultural produce (including flowers) not covered elsewhere] and "Plantation Crops".

(iii) Workers have been divided into nine categories on the basis of the industry in which they were reported to be working; these are: (i) as cultivator; (ii) as agricultural labourer; (iii) in mining, quarrying, livestock, forestry, fishing, hunting, plantations, orchard; and allied activities; (iv) in Household Industry; (v) in Manufacturing other than Household Industry; (vi) in Construction; (vii) in Trade and Commerce; (viii) in Transport, Storage and Communications; and (ix) in other services. The correspondence between these categories (excluding 'cultivation' and 'agricultural labour' which obviously fall into Division 1 of the Standard Industrial Classification (SIC) and 'household industry' which can correspond any one of four divisions of the SIC—viz., Division O, Division 1 or Division 2-3) and the Divisions of the SIC is as follows:

Census Industrial Category	Corresponding Division of SIC
(III) Mining, etc.	0: Agriculture, Livestock, Forestry, Fishing and Hunting; 1: Mining and Quarrying.
(V) Manufacturing other than Household Industry.	2 and 3: Manufacturing.
(VI) Construction.	4: Construction.
(VII) Trade and Commerce.	5: Trade and Commerce.
(VII) Transport, Storage and Communications.	7: Transport, Storage and Communications.
(IX) Other Services.	5: Electricity, Gas, Water and Sanitary Services; 8: Services; and 9: Activities not adequately described.

(iv) For operational convenience, the census definition of 'household industry' was deliberately made somewhat simple; an accurate definition, would have been lengthy, complex and, for an ordinary census enumerator, much too cumbersome to apply rapidly to a number of cases. The instructions on this matter were as follows:

"The industry should not be on the scale of a registered factory. The participation of the Head of the household and/or members of the household is an essential feature of the Household Industry. In a rural area the Household Industry can be located either at home or within the village. But in an urban area the Household Industry or at least the major part of its work must be located only at home. A Household Industry should relate to production, processing, servicing or repairing and includes makers and sellers of goods.

"The test for a Household Industry is mainly threshold:

(a) Household Industry should embrace manufacture, processing or servicing and may include sale but should not be confined simply to buying and selling. At least part of the goods offered for sale from the household should be manufactured or processed by members of the household.

(b) Household Industry should be on the household scale where the workers mainly will be the Head of the household himself and members of the household, the role of hired workers from outside being of secondary importance. Thus, in any Household Industry, members of the household should be in a position to lend a hand in the industry whenever they find the time in the course of their daily chores. Household Industry cannot, therefore, be on the scale of a registered factory but can use machinery and employ power like steam engine or oil engine or electricity to drive the machinery.

(c) Location also is important, for proximity decides participation by members of the household. In a village this participation is possible if the Household Industry is located at home or within the village, because village organisation is such as makes it possible for members of the household to move about freely in the village to look after their work. In urban areas such a free movement is not possible and, therefore, for Household Industry in urban areas we should consider only those industries which are located at home. Where, however, part of the work is done outside the house, e.g., preparing and dyeing the yarn for weaving or winding into warp and wool or cleaning metal surfaces before electroplating in baths, it should still be considered a Household Industry, even in urban areas, as the main operation of weaving or of electroplating is conducted within the house and only one or two operations are conducted outside.

"The following activities should also be regarded as illustrative of Household Industry. Biri-makers who either alone or with help of members of the family roll biris at home, for wages at piece rates, while the contractor supplies the materials. Certain processes like buttoning and handsewing of tailored cloths, dyeing and printing of cloth, are carried out at home by members of the household both at residence and at 'place of work or where womenfolk of the household fill in at home with lac gold ornaments prepared at the shop by male members of the household.' Even this simple definition left some points vague: for instance, the role of hired workers from outside may be "of secondary importance" in relation either to the physical labour put in by members of the household or to capital (in the form of machinery, raw materials, etc.) provided by them though the emphasis in the definition was generally assumed to be on the physical aspect. But, in spite of an element of arbitrariness regarding location in rural as distinct from urban areas, there is no reason to believe that practically all of household industry has not been acted by the census.

Over a third (33.8%) of the population of the State is 'scheduled'. The State and Divisional percentages to total population are as follows :

State/Division	Scheduled Castes	Scheduled Tribes	Scheduled Castes and Tribes (2 + 3)
1	2	3	4
MADHYA PRADESH	13.1	20.6	33.8
GWALIOR	19.4	4.5	23.9
REWA	13.3	21.5	34.8
INDORE	12.6	22.1	34.7
BHOPAL	15.9	8.7	24.5
JABALPUR	9.5	20.6	30.1
BILASPUR	13.3	34.7	47.9
RAIPUR	11.3	27.0	38.2

The south-eastern districts of the State have a heavy concentration of scheduled tribes while the northern districts almost, in a string, have the heavier concentrations of scheduled castes. The heaviest concentrations of Scheduled Castes are in Ujjain (23.5%), Shajapur (22.7%) Chhatarpur (22.1%), Morena (21.0%) and Bhind (21.0%)—and of scheduled tribes in Jhabua (84.7%), Bastar (72.3%), Mandla (61.8%) Surguja (55.6%) and Shahdol (51.4%), i.e. in each of these districts and in Dhar (51.1%) more than half the population is tribal. A peculiar feature is that, in most of the tribal areas, the urban percentage of scheduled castes is higher than the rural as the following list will show :

District	% of Scheduled Tribes to Total Population	Percentage of Scheduled Castes to Total Population
		Rural	Urban
1	2	3	4
1 JHABUA	84.7	2.7	5.1
2 BASTAR	72.3	5.5	6.0
3 MANDLA	61.8	3.7	6.2
4 SURGUJA	55.6	5.8	6.8
5 SHAHDOL	51.4	5.6	6.0
6 RAIGARH	45.9	11.1	11.8
7 SEONI	38.4	4.2	4.8
8 CHHINDWARA	33.3	9.1	9.5
9 DHAR	51.1	7.5	6.0
10 WEST NIMAR	40.4	10.9	9.6
11 BETUL	32.1	9.5	8.2

In three other districts, which have also large tribal populations, the urban percentage of scheduled castes is substantial and not much less than the rural :

1	2	3	4
9 DHAR	51.1	7.5	6.0
10 WEST NIMAR	40.4	10.9	9.6
11 BETUL	32.1	9.5	8.2

It is difficult to hazard an explanation for this peculiar feature but it may be that the low economic level of the tribal population in the rural areas does not provide adequate employment in the kinds of job that scheduled castes are used to. [In Balaghat District where also the urban percentage is greater than the rural in the case of scheduled castes, the only tahsil which shows tribal population is Baihar (57.1%) but there is no urban area at all in the tahsil]. It is true that, in many of these tribal districts, the percentage of urban population is very low and that what little there is is not truly urban. But it has to be conceded that the scheduled castes are to be found in relatively greater numbers in the larger villages—which at least these towns obviously are. Many of them are also municipalities and also are tahsil or district headquarters and this expands the volume of employment opportunities available for scheduled castes.

The percentage of literacy in the population as a whole is as follows in the State and divisions which have also been ranked with reference to this characteristic :

Percentage of Literates to Total Population

State/Division	Persons	Males	Females	Ranking
				Persons	Males	Females
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
MAHYA PRADESH	17.13	27.03	6.73	..	..	..
1 Gwalior	17.11	26.43	6.36	3	3	4
2 Rewa	17.76	19.95	3.13	7	7	7
3 Indore	20.74	31.09	9.57	1	1	1
4 Bhopal	16.60	25.64	6.75	4	5	3
5 Jabalpur	20.58	31.71	9.06	2	1	2
6 Bilaspur	15.08	25.17	5.01	6	6	6
7 Raipur	15.58	25.89	5.40	5	4	5

The north-eastern and eastern tracts of the State are comparatively backward in educational progress and the south-eastern portion of the State is only slightly better. An important—and obvious—contributory factor to this situation is the relatively larger tribal population in these areas. The underlined divisions in the ranking order mark off those with literacy percentages higher than that of the State in this table as well as in the following one in which divisions have been ranked for rural and urban areas separately :

Division	Urban			Rural
	Persons	Males	Females	Persons	Males	Females
1	2	3	4	5	6	7
1 Gwalior	6	6	6	5	5	6
2 Rewa	7	7	7	7	7	7
3 Indore	2	4	2	3	3	3
4 Bhopal	5	5	3	6	6	5
5 Jabalpur	1	3	1	1	1	1
6 Bilaspur	4	1	5	2	2	2
7 Raipur	3	2	4	4	4	4

Indore and Jabalpur Divisions are throughout better than the State average whereas Bhopal, Gwalior and Rewa are throughout worse. In respect of the percentage of literates in the total population, however, Gwalior and Bhopal Divisions are better than Raipur and Bilaspur Divisions.

The first five and the last five districts with reference to the percentage of literates are indicated below for persons, males, females in rural and urban areas :

A—The First Five Districts

The high place that Balaghat occupies in spite of a handicap in the form of a significant proportion of tribal population has certainly to be attributed to commendable developmental efforts. The second list contains largely tribal districts in the rural part.

A similar list for rural areas tahsil-wise is given below:

The position regarding literacy as a whole is that, while literacy among males has shown substantial progress during the last ten years, the overall position regarding literacy among women continues to be bad in spite of the great strides made. The tribal areas as a whole continue to be backward. In the urban areas, the literacy rate generally is between 35-45% in which range fall more than half the towns (118). The cities and town-groups with a population of a lakh or more are in the very high range: 42-51%, Gwalior City being the lowest with 42.43% and Indore City being the highest (50.68%), with Jabalpur being a very close second (50.52%). Towns in Class III (30) also show generally better standards; except for one (Rajhara-Jharan-Dalli in Durg District), the others all in the range: 30-53%. The position regarding cities, town-groups (which account for 15 independent towns in all) and towns is as follows:

State/Division			All ranges	Literacy percentage range
				Less than 20	20-25	25-30	30-35	35-40	40-45	45-50	50 and above
1			2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10

The town with the highest literacy percentage (52.96%) is Mhow. The lowest (17.86%) is to be found in North Jhagrakhand Colliery in Surguja District.

The highest participation rate, division-wise, is for rural males in Bilaspur Division (63.8%) and the lowest is for urban females in Gwalior Division (8.3%). It does not appear that the participation rate is in any sense a reliable index of the state of the economy; in fact, as has already been observed in other studies, a higher participation rate is more often an index of backwardness. Indore District (urban, males) shows a participation rate of only 50.8%, among the lowest in the State. The trouble is that this rate lacks all the necessary dimensions—the total time of participation and the earnings or productivity per unit of time. Two general conclusions, however, seem possible: first, the existence of a large working force in the more agricultural areas is at least an indication that unwillingness to work is less important and the productivity factor is more important; second, the dependency ratio seems to increase with development though whether this is due to lack of opportunities or greater social or other inhibitions is not clear. The following table presents percentages of those engaged in cultivation and working as agricultural labourers to total workers in divisions:

79% all workers—87% in rural, and 11% in urban, areas—depend on agriculture, the highest degree of such dependence being observed in the eastern and south-eastern parts of the State. Gwalior, Indore, Bhopal and Jabalpur Divisions have relatively higher proportions of non-agricultural workers. Both in rural and urban areas, the proportion of those engaged in cultivation or agricultural labour to total workers of that sex is greater in the case of females than in the case of males. The percentage of workers among women connected with agriculture is lowest in the urban areas of Indore Division and Raipur Division and in the rural areas of Indore Division though, taking both areas together, the lowest percentage is in Jabalpur Division. The ratio of female workers to male workers is highest in Raipur Division (101%) while it is lowest (12%) in Gwalior Division (Urban).

Among districts, the highest and lowest participation rates (%) are as follows:

Highest			Lowest

The highest participation rates are to be found in districts which are mostly rice-growing and many of which are also tribal. These are mostly in the east and south-east. The low participation rates are in the northern and western districts. Thus the district-wise figures confirm the conclusion that was reached earlier through divisional figures. But in the districts with low participation rates the disparity between male and female rates is much greater than in those with high participation rates.

The proportion of non-agricultural workers is very low and is in fact a little less than the percentage of workers in Categories III-IX to total workers (20.7) would suggest. For, in Category III, are included a few workers engaged in (a) agricultural occupations not treated as 'cultivation' in the census [Please see para 4(d)(ii) of this fly-leaf] and (b) other occupations like gathering of forest produce, rearing of livestock, birds, etc., bee-keeping, trapping of animals, etc., which are non-agricultural, if at all, only in a technical sense. The highest proportions of workers in Categories III-IX as a whole and in each of these non-agricultural categories are to be found in the following divisions:

Categories	Highest proportion in	Categories	Highest proportion in
III-IX ..	.. Jabalpur Division (25.6%)	VI ..	Gwalior Division (1.6%)
III ..	.. Bhopal Division (3.4%)	VII ..	Indore Division (3.5%)
IV ..	.. Jabalpur Division (8.1%)	VIII ..	Jabalpur Division (1.3%)
V ..	.. Indore Division (3.6%)	IX ..	Bhopal Division (9.5%)

The emerging picture is in accordance with the general conclusion that Gwalior, Indore, Bhopal and Jabalpur are among the less agricultural divisions. The rural-urban picture is as follows:

Highest proportion in the rural areas of	Categories	Highest proportion in the urban areas of
Jabalpur Division (17.2%)	.. III-IX	.. Bhopal Division (91.1%)
Bhopal Division (3.4%)	.. III	.. Rewa Division (13.0%)
Jabalpur Division (7.0%)	.. IV	.. Jabalpur Division (16.8%)
Jabalpur Division (0.4%)	.. V	.. Raipur Division (24.9%)
Gwalior Division (1.0%)	.. VI	.. Bhopal Division (9.2%)
Gwalior Division (1.3%)	.. VII	.. Gwalior Division (17.9%)
Bhopal Division (0.5%)	.. VIII	.. Bilaspur Division (9.9%)
Bhopal Division (6.6%)	.. IX	.. Bhopal Division (32.2%)
Bilaspur Division (89.5%)	.. I-II	.. Bilaspur Division (15.2%)

It appears that, in the more urbanised divisions, the rural areas also reveal a pattern which is less purely agricultural.

The following table arranges the percentages of workers in each category in the State and divisions in descending order for total, rural and urban workers separately:

Bhopal Division for total workers, Rewa, Indore, Bilaspur and Raipur Divisions for rural workers and Indore Division for urban workers resemble the corresponding Madhya Pradesh pattern. The characteristic rural pattern shows the predominance of agriculture followed by household industry, other services and the miscellaneous industries of Category III though in this category Division 5 (Electricity, Gas, Water and Sanitary Services) is not likely to be important. In the urban sector, surprisingly, it is not Categories V (manufacturing) or VI (Construction) that are the predominant but Category IX (other services). In the more urbanised divisions, there is a tendency for Category VII (Trade and commerce) to move up in importance whether these activities relate mostly to industry or agriculture. Transport and communications (Category VIII) however, do not rise in importance equally rapidly as even in urban areas agriculture is not unimportant. Household industry is important in Jabalpur Division and mining in this and in Rewa, Bilaspur and Raipur Divisions. Construction (Category VI) is apparently more important in the rural than in the urban areas. Madhya Pradesh, as a whole, has a distinctively rural pattern because of the very large part of the population living in rural areas. This is further, confirmed by the fact that, even in the urban areas large-scale industry is not important. There is, therefore, a long way yet to be travelled before Madhya Pradesh, even in the urban areas as a whole, can be considered industrialised.

The urban sex-ratio is less than the rural and that of total population; this is true of the working population also but the difference in the latter case is much greater. Per contra, the urban sex-ratio among non-workers is much greater than either the rural or the sex-ratio in total non-workers. This is obviously due to a much greater proportion of dependents among women and also because many of them are housewives—who are treated as non-workers. In fact, all sex-ratios relating to non-workers are greater than unity, i.e., there is an excess of females over males whereas all sex-ratios relating either to total population or workers are less than unity. The only exceptions to these general propositions are (considering the State and the divisions) Raipur (Total, Rural) and Bilaspur (Total, Rural) Divisions where the sex-ratio in the population (not among workers) is greater than unity. The sex-ratio of the total population generally influences that in rural and urban areas taken separately and that of workers, the effect on the non-worker sex-ratio being generally in the reverse direction. The following table ranks the sex-ratios in divisions in descending order in respect of total population in the 2nd column and the relevant divisional ranks relating to the sex-ratio in workers and non-workers in rural and urban areas are shown in other columns.

The general tendency is for districts having a high sex-ratio in the population as a whole to show a similarly high ratio among all categories of workers also. Similar tables for rural and urban areas follows:

The rural pattern is generally like the 'total' pattern. Even in the urban pattern, the evidence of the over-all sex-ratio is apparent, but, in the eastern districts, the low sex-ratio in urban areas is also due to lack of employment opportunities.
