FOREWORD

This Atlas of Orissa is a glowing tribute to the will to strive, to seek, to find and not to yield still persisting in the hearts of a band of scholar administrators. It will come as a very welcome surprise to those who are accustomed, through no fault of theirs, to associating such stupendous achievements with the nineteenth century.

Although this effort and this Atlas are in some respects a companion to similar effort and similar maps to be published by all my colleagues in the States and Union Territories either in their Census Reports or District Handbooks, there were features of rather special difficulty in this particular venture which marks it out for special mention. First, cadastral survey maps did not exist in readily printed form for many areas. Secondly, owing to the fact that considerable portions of Orissa had been princely States which had paid unequal attention to this important task in the past, the quality of available surveys and maps was far from uniform. Thirdly, when Sri Ahmed started on his task, the preparation and printing of maps was still in the hands of an office located in Patna, difficulties of inspection and verification from which place had led to loss of accuracy to whatever maps that were still being published. Fourthly, the printing processes themselves were relatively crude in consequence of which the maps, such as were available, were often far from the desirable limits of accuracy. Finally, rapid administrative changes in the last decade had brought about extensive jurisdictional changes which the maps did not reflect. These circumstances applied equally to Bihar and Orissa, with the difference that in Orissa the princely States were an additional source of complication. Sri Prasad of Bihar is, therefore, still engaged in tasks very similar to what have now been accomplished by Sri Ahmed.

Sri Ahmed has briefly traced the various steps through which the Atlas has been very successfully completed. But his modesty has prevented him from adequately describing the stupendousness of the task that confronted him in 1959. The maps that were stretched out before me for inspection at Bhubaneswar in December 1958, and again in 1959 threatened to be of extremely limited use in the Census operations and I suspect that Sri Ahmed's experience of them in the Census of 1951 now needed the minimum of exhortation on my part to take up a task from which those legitimately in charge shrank immediately in dismay. Left high and dry, and yet undaunted by the discouragement of those who were well versed in this line and who were too well aware of the difficulties to feel enthusiastic about overcoming them, Sri Ahmed set about the business with the zeal of a pioneer but the circumspection of a seasoned campaigner. As for myself, although I had expressed the hope that proper maps which would stand the scrutiny of trained cartographers would be possible, the most that I really expected at the start was notional maps of workable reliability at all administrative levels, to ensure the success of the Census operations. Great was my joy, therefore, when after a brief period of hibernation, Sri Ahmed produced the first State, the first district, and most valuable of all, the first thana map, ready to bear scrutiny. The die was cast and it is a matter of no small satisfaction to me that Sri Ahmed is now able to say, 'look, we have come through!'

Cartography is yet one more field into which the Census of 1961 has ventured and attained a measure of mastery. All my colleagues will publish virtually two Atlases: one of survey maps, accurately drawn to scale of each State, district, subdivision, thana/taluk/tehsil/anchal. In some States, as in Orissa, this Atlas will delineate even the village. The other will be the Census Atlas explaining the results and lessons of the Census. Both ventures have been a two-way process; the Central and the State offices mutually stimulating and fertilizing each other. But even in this sphere of exciting activity, this Atlas will stand out as a proud monument to Sri Ahmed's Ulysses call to members of his staff, 'come, my friends, push off and sitting well in order smite'.

PREFACE

The need for an authentic and up-to-date collection of maps of the administrative divisions of Orissa has been keenly felt, particularly since its creation as a separate Province in 1936. There was no serious attempt for the production of such maps, even though the need became more and more pressing with the rapid succession of epoch-making events during the past quarter of a century. The attainment by Orissa of political status at par with major Provinces of India, the inspiring post-independence atmosphere moulding the entire outlook of the people, the integration of over a score of princely States expanding the geographical limits of the State and its administrative components, the succession of Five-Year Plans introducing ambitious nation-building projects, the economic affluence of the country resulting from central subventions and international aids, and finally the wide-spread development activities affecting all aspects of the resurging national life—all regrettably forgot to take account of the poverty of Orissa in the field of cartography. Yet a map is the very basis of all territorial and regional planning, and no State in India needed integrated and rational planning more than new-born Orissa, noted for the paradox of its age-old backwardness despite rich natural resources.

About a decade after the separation of the Province from Bihar and Orissa, the Survey of India produced a map of Orissa in one million scale which happened to be the only authentic reference for general purposes, but it became out-of-date within a year of its publication due to the merger of ex-States, although it was revised at a much later date (1958). Moreover, the smaller but quite important details such as, the boundaries of police stations and even of subdivisions in most cases were not shown in this map. As a result there was restricted demand for such a map even though it came from the most authentic source. Thereafter, a few feeble attempts were made by the Bihar Survey Office, but embarrassed by a sense of extra-territorial venture and handicapped by inaccessibility to a legion of required data, the products hardly achieved the mark of standard maps, and were very much limited in number. The efforts at production of maps by organizations other than those mentioned above were sporadic, if not faulty.

Meanwhile, all administrative measures which are dependent on maps for planning, progress and control, suffered and even ran the risk of uncertainty. The Decennial Census Operation on such administrative measure faced considerable difficulty in the absence of any type of map showing the up-to-date geographical limits of districts, subdivisions and police stations not to speak of village boundaries. These operations start with comprehensive delimitation of smaller territorial units within a police station, namely, Blocks and Circles in such a manner as to ensure complete coverage of the country; for no parcel of land, howsoever small, inaccessible or forlorn can afford to be missed if the enumeration of population is to keep free from error.

Such was the emphasis laid on accuracy of population count and so dependent were these operations on maps of the territories concerned that directions ultimately came from the Headquarters, 'build the maps if there are none'. From every angle, it looked an impossible assignment, apt to be compared to digging a well while the house is burning. But more rational thinking counter-balanced the initial disinclination, for it is but sensible to start with acquisition of site and procurement of materials for the erection of a factory building, if steel is intended to be produced in a competitive scale. The Registrar General thus broached the subject in the most persuasive and effective manner, so that diffidence gave way to determination. A beginning was made to study the existing position, and to search and research the ways and means to implement the hard technical task quite alien to the talents of the organization. Among the difficulties that baffled, the extreme paucity of required data appeared no less insuperable than the utter lack of technical know-how. Other types of obstacles included matters, such as, unavailability of skilled personnel and required equipment, particularly a few precision instruments of foreign make.

Things, however, did not wait. Man-power was drawn just from the street, from amongst unemployed matriculates and under-matrices without any training or sense of office discipline whatsoever. A few unsuccessful or non-regular students of the local Engineering School who had to wait at home for another chance next year, were the best assets in the staff, for not a single qualified draftsman was available on deputation terms from the State Government in spite of requisitions and personal contacts, nor from the Employment Exchange. Among the equipment to start with were some locally purchased drawing and survey instruments and a few cheap items of furniture, accommodated in a temporary barrack with asbestos-sheeted roof, lighted with temporary electric fittings. There was, however, sufficiency of light points, not only from the ceiling but also under glass-topped tables meant for tracing work. With these lights burning over the head and under the table during working hours at day time, and with inadequate provision of fans, the hot roof of asbestos sheets made matters pretty unbearable particularly during summer months. But the atmosphere was already surcharged with enthusiasm and there was the will and earnestness to produce something new. The young recruits magnificently responded to an appeal to earn distinction for themselves by building up things which did not exist. The maximum advantage was taken of whatever mettle was found in them. Being young in age, they were capable of hard work if incentive was given on proper lines, and being inexperienced, they were free from prejudices and inflexible notions and so could be made to bend or shape in the desired manner. Thus they soon became amenable to stern discipline and began to acquire the skill from whatever instructions were given in different kinds of line-drawing, lettering, hatching, plotting, pasting, enlargement and reduction work, and in fact, in all aspects of map-making. There were, of course, a few cases of poor response, resulting in summary elimination, but a good many of the new recruits stood the rigours of training and acquired tolerable proficiency. The earlier products, no doubt, were crude and unpresentable. The lettering was far from uniform and the line work faulty. There was nothing for it but perseverance and sustained practice.

"Maps are drawn by men and not turned out automatically by machines", said an eminent American Geographer in an illuminating treatise, "Map-makers are human". Map-making, in fact, is a technical assignment involving complications of various kinds. Several branches of human knowledge are employed in the production of a good map. Basic requisites combine intimate knowledge of geography, survey and drawing with dexterity in draftsmanship, accuracy of details and neatness in execution in each succeeding stage. The overall planning of a particular map is indeed a difficult task not usually understood unless one subjects himself to serious application. The scale, the size of the original drawing, the desired proportion of reduction, the size of lettering, the thickness of lines, etc., are all required to be carefully planned beforehand, for it happens not infrequently that a map, clear and attractive in its original form, becomes disappointing upon reduction owing to the failure of the author to visualize correctly the elements of scale and lettering.

There was no source, whatsoever, to look upon for technical guidance, but my visits to the National Atlas Organization a couple of times, and my acquaintance with some American and English publications relating to map-making by eminent authors like J. K. Wright, F. J. Monkhouse and H. R. Wilkinson did much to elevate my own all-too-slight knowledge of cartographic technique. With regard to another basic requirement, namely, intimate knowledge of geography, I was, however, on advantageous ground, for four years of extensive Census tours had taken me to practically all the police stations of the State as well as to thousands of important villages, and to most places of geographical and topographical peculiarities, giving me first-hand personal knowledge of local geography, so essential for correct map-making.

No one will realize as deeply as I do the manifold imperfections of the present publication, because it is only in the course of actual implementation that one is capable of assessing how great is the gulf between conception and execution, between requirement and achievement. Herein, perhaps, are to be found the canons of criticism which a judicious reviewer may bear in mind. I have been most painfully conscious of the utter unavailability of the data required to cover a fairly good portion of the territory of the State hitherto unsurveyed, and of many other problems defying wit and resource, not the least of which are the deficiency of equipment and the absence of trained hands. Driven at times to the brink of desperation resort was taken to collection of materials from the lowest strata, not sparing the feeblest of evidence or the oldest of records, each subjected to careful enquiries and verification at the spot. Under the circumstances there cannot be any pretence to infallibility. But there is, no doubt, that scholars, administrators and other persons interested in the geographical maps of the country will be happier only when some serious minded individual or organization undertakes to compile a more comprehensive Atlas of the State, corrected and improved on the basis of this first attempt. It may then be possible to appreciate the enormity of the obstacles and the earnestness to overcome them in compiling the first complete collection of maps in a handy form such as, the present volume.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The present publication has been possible owing to the bold and far-sighted measures outlined by Shri Asok Mitra, Registrar General, India, who consistently laid stress on the importance of maps in all his discussions and communications since the preliminaries of the present Census Operations began in 1959. Maps, according to him, are not only the traditional medium of the geographer but they enable one to see beyond the limited horizon of one's personal experience and are certainly indispensable to the administrator, the planner, the economist and the demographer. His profound faith in the utility of maps gradually won converts from amongst our colleagues and I was able to cast off the initial misgivings when he personally led me to the National Atlas Organization, Calcutta. It was, thereafter, possible to cut the first turf and to make some headway under his unceasing encouragement and inspiration. At one point when sufficient proficiency had been acquired and the staff had completed the maps of 10 out of 13 districts of the State, circumstances such as extreme tedium born of unsparing attention sometimes to the point of obsession, and consciousness of other multifarious conventional responsibilities of the Census Organization led to the decision that the idea of making the remaining maps should be postponed and that the Atlas should be published in an incomplete state with 267 maps already drawn. This would have left the remaining 88 maps relating to 3 districts to the care of the future set-up or of any other Organization of the Central or State Government, in short, in a cloud of uncertainty. It was again the persuasiveness of Shri Mitra who helped surmount certain practical obstacles, that the work was picked up with added vigour and it is now possible to publish the Atlas in its present complete form.

The foremost acknowledgment of indebtedness is due to the Survey of India, the authority charged with the responsibility of making authentic maps. Their map of Orissa in one million scale, First Edition, 1958, provided the basis for all the district maps and the State map contained in this volume, while the quarter-inch topo sheets, Second Edition, 1954-55 of the relevant territories were found indispensable as the principal reference for purpose of featuring the maps of police stations. The map of India, the first in the series of maps in this volume, is also based on the Surveyor General's map published recently, and its adaptation was scrutinized by Dr. (Miss) P. Sen Gupta, M. A., Ph. D. (London), Map Officer to the Registrar General, India, to whom I am grateful for the trouble taken. Apologies are offered for inadvertent omissions, if any.

My debt is largely due to Dr. S. P. Chatterjee, Director, National Atlas Organization, Government of India, Calcutta and to Shri S. Das Gupta, Deputy Director, for giving me access to the working sections of the Organization, where I gathered some important primary notions of map-making. I am further grateful to Dr. Chatterjee for having taken the trouble to review the maps and to furnish a Note which appears hereafter.

The Organization is grateful to Shri B. Sivaraman, Chief Secretary to the Government of Orissa, for giving high encouragement to staff in the course of his visit to the Map Section. His deep appreciation of the maps drawn in the Section resulted in an official direction to the concerned administrative department for absorption of our temporary staff by the newly started State Directorate of Surveys and Map Publication. The list of departments, officers and individuals to whom my special thanks are due is too large to be mentioned here, but I cannot fail to bear in mind the extensive and frequent demands I made on the convenience and time of District Magistrates, Superintendents of Police, Settlement Officers, the Director of Land Records, the Director of Bureau of Statistics, Chief Engineers, Officers of the Railway Department and a multitude of others, all of whom ungrudgingly gave necessary assistance in the collection of data essential for compilation of draft maps.

I am glad to place on record my hearty appreciation of the sustained and strenuous work done by the staff of Map Section of my Office. This publication is the product of their devotion to duty, keeping them to the drawing boards closely for a couple of years. Considering that they started from scratch, the time taken for final production should have been far longer. But the crusader's zeal prevailed all along. Among members of the staff entrusted with various stages of work from compilation of basic data to final printing of maps, two deserve special mention, namely, Shri Lokanath Misra, Senior Assistant and Shri Bibhuti Bhusan Mohanty, Senior Draftsman, both of whom bore the worst tribulations of this venture by their unfailing patience and high fidelity in giving concrete shapes to various ideas. There were others whose services in cartographic drafting are praiseworthy, prominent among them being Sarvashri Lambodar Patnaik, Mirza Harun Baig, Ananta Charan Panda, Rangadhar Mahanti and E. G. Rao. General supervision of the Section was at times entrusted to an officer, who, however, had to be changed from time to time due to adjustment between sanctioned strength and allotted responsibilities. The officer in longest tenure during the period was Shri L. N. Murty Patnaik who saw through a portion of drawing work. In compiling the Village List and preparing the first draft of Notes on districts, assistance was received from other officers, namely, Sarvashri B. C. Mohanty, V. R. Rao, S. K. Das and J. Mahapatra. Finally, I am grateful to Shri N. P. Sathia, retired Deputy Superintendent, Orissa Government, Press for supervising the printing arrangements.

Apart from office routine assistance, co-operation and casual help came from numerous sources. This list of acknowledgments is, therefore, by no means exhaustive.

REVIEWS

★ ★ ★ The Superintendent of Census Operations has undertaken preparation of the maps showing the villages, taluks, subdivisions, etc. With raw hands he has organized an excellent organization which has turned out very good maps. This experienced staff should not be allowed to go waste. Now that we are going to have our map printing in the Settlement Department, it may be usefull to ensure that these hands, who have done good work, are properly absorbed in our Settlement Map Printing Organization.

2. In discussion with the Census Superintendent I found that in the preparation of the maps they have come across various defects in the existing maps. The existing taluk and village maps were prepared in various settlements and under various methods of preparation of maps. Now that we are having a full scale settlement, it is desirable that these differences are properly enumerated and then dealt with in the next settlement in the area.

3. The Census Superintendent also mentioned that the check for preparation of maps has revealed that various areas have not come properly within the administrative control of the Police administration or the Taluk administration. This is particularly noticeable in the ex-States where large areas of reserve forests have been left out of administrative control. It is desirable that all these cases are checked up and adjustments, if any, made and necessary notifications issued.

4. Now that so much trouble is being taken by the Census Department in preparation of maps, I wonder whether we cannot take the opportunity and have our taluk maps and subdivisional maps done on a large scale for our utilization. This can be examined quickly in the Department and decisions taken. It will only mean that the scale of enlargement will have to be suitably done. The rest of the work has already been completed. The extra cost will be very slight.

II

It is a pleasure to see that the Superintendent of Census Operations, Orissa, has been successful in bringing out a wonderful Census Atlas for his State. For the first time such an exhaustive Atlas with detailed maps of the whole of Orissa has ever been attempted. To prepare an Atlas comprising several hundred maps depicting accurately some 46,500 villages, 300 police stations and 13 districts of Orissa is indeed a significant achievement especially because of the great paucity of up-to-date and detailed basic maps of Orissa. I know how difficult this task has been, for in preparing maps for the National Atlas of India I am constantly facing this problem of lack of basic information regarding exact location of villages and alignment of administrative boundaries of villages, police stations, taluks, subdivisions and districts of Orissa. In fact, in Orissa there is no regular mapping organization responsible for bringing out detailed administrative maps of the State. As a result, for most parts of Orissa, official administrative maps are not available at all. The few maps that are available are old and awfully out of date. The attempt of the Superintendent of Census Operations, Orissa, in bringing out these maps, therefore, is commendable and highly creditable. The present work undoubtedly entailed vast amount of collection and compilation of original and basic information deserving unstinted appreciation.

In my opinion, the maps of the Atlas are very well drawn with neat linework and fine lettering, indicating that they were drawn with the greatest possible care and skill as required for this difficult and highly specialized work. The maps will certainly be indispensable to administrators, planners, economists, geographers, demographers and scholars, besides being of immense value to the general public wanting to know the intimate geographical details of this country. I wish Atlases of such high quality are published for other States as well. I congratulate Shri M. Ahmed, I. A. S., Superintendent of Census Operations, Orissa, on his great success in bringing out this outstanding Atlas.

			Flyleaf to List of Villages ..		418
			Particulars of PS and Village List ..		419

INTRODUCTION

The publication contains maps of administrative units of Orissa. It begins with a map of India showing the location of Orissa, followed by a map of the State of Orissa containing administrative divisions of different categories, namely, Revenue Divisional Commissioners' Divisions, Districts, Sub-divisions and Police Stations. It also comprises maps of all the districts of the State and of all the police stations within each district. A police station map shows all the villages contained within it. Following this arrangement, the Atlas contains a series of 355 maps, namely, 1 map of India, 1 map of the State of Orissa, 27 maps of districts and their index maps and 326 maps of police stations. The map of each police station shows the correct location and boundary lines of all the villages within that police station, so that the Atlas ultimately contains nearly 50,000 village maps in miniature but with correct survey alignments.

All these maps are displayed within the strict limitation of the size of a book, as in a conventional Atlas. Thus the maps of all police stations and of all districts of Orissa can be picked up in one volume from a bookshelf or a table for ready reference. The larger territorial units, namely, the State and the districts are presented in two-page spread, in such a manner as to avoid the inconvenience of extra folds beyond the size of the book. The great majority of maps of police stations occupy one full page each. The maximum utility of space available per page was ensured by varying the scales of drawing so that small-sized police stations had the advantage of being drawn in comparatively larger scale, while the large-sized police stations drawn in correspondingly reduced scale did not cause the inconvenience which would have resulted from using bigger sheets of paper. Thus all the police stations, whether large or small in extent, were drawn on single sheets and printed on single pages of uniform size. Only in a few exceptional cases, has an unusually large police station been split into two and printed in two separate but continuous pages.

Careful deliberations were made as regards the categories of administrative divisions to be shown in the map. At the top was a district. It was followed by a subdivision of a district. At the bottom was a village, no doubt. The question, however, was what should be the unit below the level of a subdivision and above the level of a village, of which a map was most wanted particularly for purposes of planning, general administration and miscellaneous reference. Incidentally the question had been raised as early as 1959 when the delimitation of Census territorial units was under examination. The aim at that stage was to present Census statistics in respect of the most important administrative divisions. The matter was discussed in the Conference of Collectors and then directly with the Government. The consensus of opinion was that Census statistics should be made available for each Gram Panchayat and N. E. S. Block, but it appeared that till 1960 there was no firm and final list of villages constituting Gram Panchayats throughout the State nor also a list of Gram Panchayats constituting all the N. E. S. Blocks. As matters could not wait, work began on the conventional basis of police station as the administrative unit for which Census statistics would be compiled and published. The decision with regard to the unit of presentation of Census statistics automatically governed the corresponding aspect of map production, for there could not be any divergence between the territorial units of statistics and of maps produced by one particular organization. There was also some justification in adopting a police station as a unit of map production in preference to an N. E. S. Block (or Panchayat Samiti), because a police station had stood firm and proved useful in the administrative set-up for over a century since the British began reorganization of the country's administration, and is likely to linger in future while the Panchayat-Block system has yet to stand the test of time in the present changeful pattern of administration.

Technical Procedure

Before taking up the drawing of a map of a police station or a district, a good deal of preliminary investigation is carried on in collaboration with all agencies connected with the featurings of such a map. Intensive reference to village lists and notifications issued by the Government in the Official Gazette regarding constitution of the police station or other administrative units becomes necessary. Checking of boundary lines and their agreement with the relative boundaries of adjoining units is one of the most important aspects of map drawing. If there is an existing map, it is taken as the basis and is further subjected to tests and verification on the strength of data relating to such aspects as roads, railways, canals, topographical features, etc., collected from the principal departmental authorities concerned. After all these relevant data are collected and verified, the drawing work starts. The map is completed in 8 different stages as follows:

(i) Compilation—For making a PS map, the ground work starts with reference to the Primary Census Abstract, which contains a complete list of villages within a particular police station. The list is copied down if necessary after elimination of names of hamlets not having the full status of a recognised administrative village. The spellings of village names are standardised by reference to the District Collectors' lists, the Survey of India maps, the State Survey and Settlement Department list, if any, the District Gazetteer and finally by taking into consideration the local preference, and are thus made identical with those adopted in the Census Statistical Tables (Primary Census Abstract). The Census Code number or serial number of each village is indicated against that village for convenience of reference and identification. After completion of the listing of villages, other lists are prepared with equal thoroughness with regard to roads, railways, rivers, canals, hills and other geographical and topographical features according to the latest information. When a district map is intended to be drawn, similar compilation work is done, but only with regard to the bigger items of each category.

(ii) Printing of art-pulls—All the lists finalised in the Compilation Section with regard to a particular map are consolidated into one. They contain names of villages, roads, rivers, names of places outside the boundary of the map concerned, the legend, the title, the scale of map, latitude and longitude figures—in fact all matters which are required to be written over the original drawing of the map. The list is checked and sent to the press for printing on art paper. Detailed instructions are given to the press about the selection of type faces for each individual item in the list. The size of types has important relation with the proportion of reduction in the final block-making stage. Some amount of imagination and experience is necessary for this work. The use of Gills types should have been ideal for lettering on maps, but the choice of types was unhappily limited mostly to romans and italics, as Gills types were not available for composition of pulls either in the Government Press or in any private press of Orissa.

(iii) Delineation of Boundaries—The checking of the boundaries of villages and their agreement with the boundaries of adjoining villages till the boundary of the police station agrees with its counterpart is an important part of map-making, requiring utmost patience and care. Progressive tally and verification are carried on in this manner till the police stations constitute the boundary of the subdivision and finally the subdivisions constitute the boundary of the district, which must agree with the Survey of India map with utmost precision. Sometimes extensive reduction or enlargement work is necessitated for checking inconsistencies noticeable in old maps.

(iv) Drawing—The general plan of drawing of the map is then taken up. The lay-out is finalised and the original drawing of a police station map is drawn on the scale 1"=1 mile on a large drawing sheet usually 30" long and 22" broad. The task is comparatively easy in some cases where reliable printed maps are available, so that the originals are drawn with the help of lighted glass tables. Otherwise originals have to be compiled by reference to various sources and with the assistance of a Pentagraph. In all cases, independent check and verification are conducted. In drawing the boundary lines of villages or police stations, the thickness of lines is prescribed in advance in consideration of the proportion of final photographic reduction so as to fit into demy quarto size, and yet be clear and legible. The Drawing Section also marks the latitude and longitude with utmost precaution. With regard to the drawing of a district map, almost the same procedure is followed, but the scale of the original drawing is 1"=4 miles.

(v) Lettering—In the earlier period of work, lettering was done either by hand or by a hand-press machine. Both were found impracticable, because with the fresh direct recruits in the staff, good and uniform lettering by handwriting process was not ensured. The result obtained with the help of a hand-press machine was satisfactory but not practicable mainly because the office did not possess enough stock of type faces of various sizes and categories. We had, therefore, to depend on art-pulls printed in the Government of Orissa Press by the Printing Section. Thereafter the Lettering Section undertook the pasting of printed names of villages, rivers, etc., at the appropriate places on the drawing. This section was also responsible for insertion of the legend, the names outside the boundary of the map, the title, the scale and the border lines. Ornamentation was strictly avoided, the aim being to maintain simplicity and boldness. The list of entries was kept at a level aimed to ensure an impression of spaciousness without loss of utility. The work of the Lettering Section was considered complete only after another member of the staff had carried out verification of every single item and rectification wherever necessary.

(vi) Preparation of Guides—Guides on tracing paper are required only for a few PS maps, for screening is necessary to depict the seacoast or a lake or to demarcate the town area from the rural. The district maps which were prepared in three colours, required colour guides which were provided in all cases.

(vii) Final Check—Although all the previous stages of work were completed under frequent check and supervision by senior members of the staff, the original drawing was subjected to intensive scrutiny at the final official level, after completion of the sixth stage. Careful rectification was carried out if the final scrutiny called for it.

(viii) Process-Engraving—After a sufficient number of drawings had been finally checked and got ready, they were sent in batches to a reputed firm of Calcutta for process-engraving work. Process-engraving has many advantages over other methods, as it gives finer, sharper and cleaner lines which are essential for maps printed in comparatively small size, and was, therefore, taken resort to even though the process is slow and comparatively expensive. Blocks in copper or zinc were manufactured by the Deep Etch Process using wet or dry plates where necessary. Retouching was extensively necessary over the photographic reproduction in order to give perfection to the work. Proof copies of prints from the manufactured blocks were then obtained and scrutinized in detail, before the final proof was approved.

Deficiencies

In spite of utmost care taken in every stage of the work as mentioned above, deficiencies could not be completely eliminated in certain respects. For example, a few police stations suffer from inconsistencies between the list of villages as published in Section II and the names and number of villages as shown in the relevant map in Section I. This shortcoming is partly due to the difficulty in weeding out the names of hamlets from the list of villages and partly to the choice of one particular name of a village where more than one was in vogue. Another type of deficiency exists in the form of absence of village boundary marking in some PSs, as for example in Baudh-Khondmals district. In such cases, the village boundaries do not exist in the form of any supposed or actual demarcation on the ground or in official papers. So the approximate location of villages has been shown by thick dots. Similarly, there are many instances of doubtful alignments of boundary lines between police stations, particularly in hilly areas. Here, nothing more is possible to be done than showing the boundary in approximate alignment.

Special Features

The publication has several special features adopted with a view to enhancing the utility of maps and making reference work convenient. A few of them are mentioned below:

(i) The district maps which appear in two-page spread contain as many details as possible within the available space. Besides the boundaries of subdivisions and police stations, the names of important villages, business centres and panchayat headquarters are shown. Other usual features of a complete map, namely, roads, railways, rivers, canals, hills, lakes and other broad geographical essentials, if any, have also been shown. To avoid visual confusion, road alignments are printed in red ink while the boundaries of administrative divisions are shown in black and the rivers in blue. Topographical features are given to the extent it is possible in small-sized maps without causing congestion.

(ii) The maps of the State and each district carry a comprehensive Note on the reverse, dealing with some of the most important aspects, namely, physiography, rainfall and climate, vital statistics, area and population of administrative units, towns, growth of population, trend of migration, economic classification of the population, scheduled tribes and castes, literacy, industry and agriculture. The latest facts and figures given under these several headings tend to make the Note a sort of summary gazetteer. The object in providing such a Note is to enable the reader to gather quick but fairly complete information about the State or the district, a map of which immediately follows for the facility of geographical reference.

(iii) Each district map is followed by a map bearing the title 'Index to Police Stations'. Police stations are still important in the administrative set-up of the State. It is, therefore, considered useful to give an Index Map to police stations immediately below a district map and above the set of police station maps for facility of location study of these administrative units.

(iv) The maps of police stations show the boundaries of all villages in continuous lines with the names of villages written inside. Where the names are too long to be inscribed within the space available, the serial number of the village as it appears in the Census Village Register (called the Primary Census Abstract) has been indicated within the village boundary. Names of villages are shown in small or big-sized types according to their populousness. The headquarters of police stations, subdivisions and districts are given distinctive symbols.

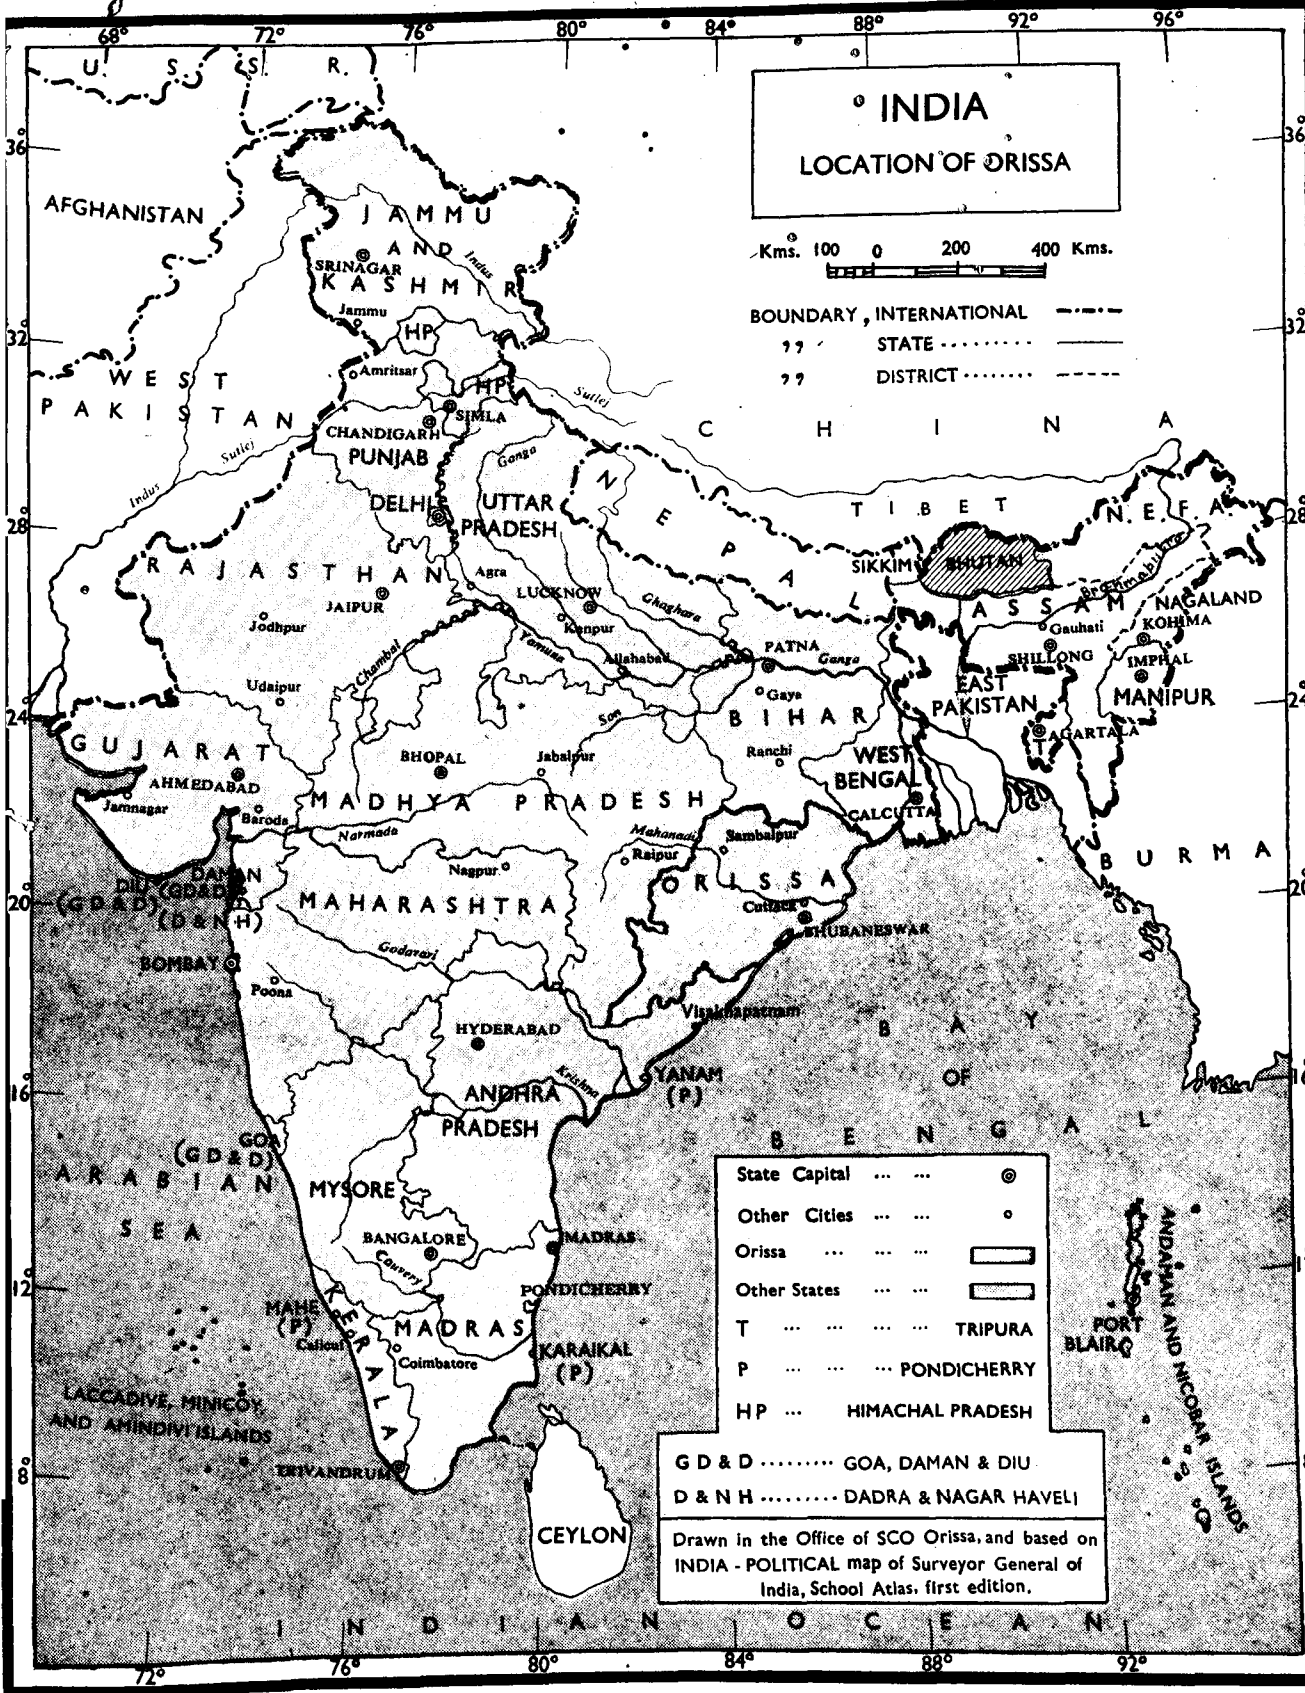

(v) If there is a town area within the limits of a police station, it is shown in shade in order to distinguish it from the rural areas of the police station.

(vi) Latitudes and Longitudes are shown in all cases accurately. The markings are given on the borders without running a net-work of lines across the map. This avoids congestion.

(vii) The maps are correct up to the year 1962. All the latest features, not available in any map hitherto published, have been shown. New railway lines, namely, Bandomunda-Dumaro, Sambalpur-Titlagarh, Bailadilla-Kottavalasa, etc., new canal system of the Hirakud Dam and the Dam itself, new urban localities, such as Rourkela and Bhubaneswar together with their sector or unit divisions, new roads and large bridges constructed in recent years have all been shown.

(viii) A useful feature is the Village List appearing at the end of the volume. It is based on the Primary Census Abstract of 1961 Census and comprises a full list of villages constituting a police station, together with the Census serial number of each village. Information relating to area, population, literacy, houses and households, castes and tribes, workers and non-workers, etc., are also given for each police station at the top of the Village List.

SECTION I ADMINISTRATIVE MAPS

INDIA

Situated within longitudes 60° 7' 35" and 97° 4' 47" East and latitudes 8° 4' 28" and 37° 17' 53" North, India extends over an area of 1,228,402 square miles and contained a population of 439,234,771 in the Census of 1961. This accounts for nearly 14·6 per cent of the total world population and 2·4 per cent of the total land area of the world. It is the seventh largest country in the world, being approximately fourteen times as large as the United Kingdom, nine times the size of Japan and a sixth of Russia. It has a land frontier 9,425 miles long and a coast-line of 3,535 miles. The length and breadth of the mainland of India from the westernmost tip of Gujarat to the easternmost tip of Assam is 1,875 miles and from the northernmost tip of Kashmir to Cape Comorin is 2,000 miles.

As a single country, India holds the second place in population in the world, the People's Republic of China coming first with an estimated population of 582·5 millions in 1953. The Indian Sub-Continent with a population of 439 millions in India and 94 millions in Pakistan, along with the Republic of China may be regarded as holding the key to the world's demographic growth. Within the last sixty years (1901-61), India has increased more than 84 per cent in population. A phenomenal growth was noticed in the decade ending 1961, which registered an increase of 21·5 per cent, surpassing even the most generous calculations.

The total population comprises 226,293,201 males and 212,941,570 females, giving a ratio of 941 females per 1,000 males. There are 2,700 towns, 567,351 inhabited villages and 54,868 uninhabited villages. The density of population is 358 persons per square mile. The percentage of literacy is 23·98. Among three numerically important religions are Hinduism (366·5 millions), Islam (46·9 millions) and Christianity (10·7 millions). Scheduled Castes exceed 64·5 millions and Scheduled Tribes are nearly 30 millions.

The following statement shows the population, area, etc., of the States and Union Territories of India:

ORISSA

The State of Orissa is located on the east coast of India, and is contained between the parallels of 17° 48' and 22° 34' North latitude and the meridians of 81° 24' and 87° 29' East longitude. Orissa is bounded in the north by Bihar, in the west by Madhya Pradesh, in the south by Andhra Pradesh and in the north-east by West Bengal. It has the Bay of Bengal to the south-east, washing the entire coast-line of 482 kilometres or 301 miles, extending from the boundary of Midnapore district in West Bengal at a point nine miles to the east of the river Subarnarekha to the boundary of Srikakulam district in Andhra Pradesh about fifteen miles south of Gopalpur town. At this point, the territories of Orissa recede from the coast in a widening angle, yielding a long stretch of coastal belt to its southern neighbour, Andhra Pradesh.

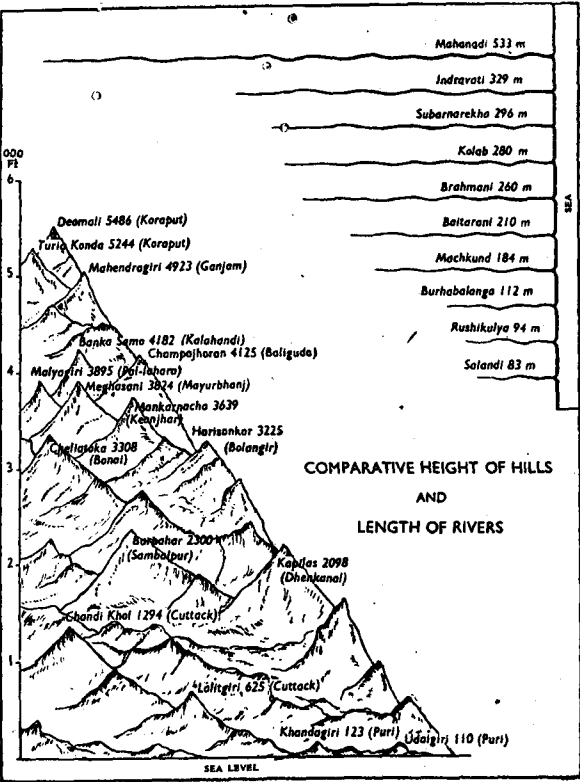

Physiography—Orissa consists of an extensive plateau in the interior with a foreground of wide coastal plain. The surface of the plateau slopes down gently towards the Bay of Bengal into which the great rivers of Orissa fall. The principal rivers of the central tract, namely, the Mahanadi, the Brahmani, and the Baitarani cut wide valleys across the plateau and bring down much sedimentary matter, forming the delta area comprising Puri, Cuttack and Balasore districts. The coast-line shows signs of progradation by the development of lagoons and spits. About 16 miles to the south of Puri town, lies the Chilka lake, which is the widest lagoon of India. The inland plateau is constituted of an interesting combination of denuded hills, sharp ridges and mature valleys. The territory of the State may be broadly divided into four distinct regions, each with a different characteristic, namely, the Northern Plateau, the Central River Basins, the Eastern Hills and the Coastal Plains.

The Northern Plateau covering Mayurbhanj, Keonjhar and Sundargarh districts and Pallahara subdivision of Dhenkanal district is an undulating upland frequently intersected by hill ranges and has a general slope from north to south. It is a continuation of the Chhotnagpur plateau of Bihar and is drained by channels which flow from hills to rivers. Towards north and east of this tract are found hill ranges in larger numbers, the notable ones being the Malaygiri (3,896 ft) in Pallahara subdivision, the Mankarnacha (3,664 ft) in Keonjhar district and the Meghasani (3,824 ft) in Mayurbhanj district. The average elevation in the central section of the plateau is 3,000 ft, forming the most important watershed of the rivers Baitarani and Brahmani.

The Central River Basins comprise the watershed areas of the principal rivers of this State and lie between the Northern Plateau and the Eastern Hills. This tract mainly covers the districts of Bolangir, Sambalpur and Dhenkanal and contains some of the fertile parts of the State. Isolated hills rising abruptly from the plains are a frequent sight in this tract. The Mahanadi-Tel basin which is in north-western part of the State is quite extensive, covering about two-thirds of Sambalpur and Bolangir districts and one-third of Kalahandi district. There are three other river valleys, almost parallel to each other in the central portion of the State, namely, Mahanadi, Brahmani and Baitarani. They are populous and agriculturally prosperous.

The Eastern Hills, which constitute the last lap of the great line of the Eastern Ghats of India, lie to the south and the south-west of the central river basins, stretching for about 155 miles in NE-SW direction through Koraput, Kalahandi, Khondmals and Ganjam. They comprise wide open upland plateaus fringed by forests and hills which have the highest peaks in the State, outstanding among them being Deomali (5,486 ft), Turia Konda (5,244 ft), Polamakani Parbat (5,201 ft), Meyamali Parbat (4,921 ft) and Karnapadi Konda (4,879 ft). Most part of the Eastern Hills has an elevation of over 3,000 ft acting as the watershed of two sets of rivers, one set flowing directly to the Bay of Bengal, namely, the Rushikulya, the Nagavali and the Vamsadhara, and the other set feeding the Godavari and the Mahanadi systems. The hill-slopes have thick and valuable forest growth.

The Coastal Plains comprise most part of the districts of Balasore, Cuttack and Puri and a portion of Ganjam, with an extensive alluvial tract in between the hills in the west and salt tracts in the east. A littoral zone runs along the shore of the Bay of Bengal and is intersected by many sluggish and brackish streams affected by tidal waters from the sea. The area is generally sandy in Balasore and Puri but is swampy and marshy in Cuttack district. Behind this line is the alluvial plain with many rivers and canals watering extensive fertile paddy lands.

The principal rivers are the Mahanadi, the Brahmani and the Baitarani, all running almost parallel from north-west to south-east. There are also some smaller rivers, namely, the Salandi, the Burabalang and the Subarnarekha, flowing over the northern part of the State and the Rushikulya, the Vamsadhara, the Nagavali, the Indravati, the Kolab and the Machkund draining the districts of Ganjam and Koraput in the south. The Mahandi is the largest among them with a total length of 533 miles, about half of which lies in Madhya Pradesh. It drains a basin of 51,000 square miles and discharges during highest floods 1·6 million cusecs, or nearly as much as the Ganges.

Climate and rainfall—The entire area of the State lies in the tropical zone, its northernmost point being about 1° below the Tropic of Cancer. It is thus subject to high temperature, and being in the belt of medium pressure has medium rainfall, with small variation in different parts due to varying topographical characters. The State has three main seasons, namely, cold weather from December to February, hot weather from March to June and rainy season from June to September. The months of October and November form the autumn season when the weather is clear and cool. The temperature begins to rise early in March and continues till the end of May or early June, when it is round about 38°C all over the State except in stations of high elevations on the eastern hills and northern plateaus. But there is a steady increase in temperature from coastal plain to the inland districts. Sambalpur which is located 180 miles inland has the mean maximum temperature of 42°C while Puri, a sea-side station has 32°C. The mean maximum temperature of the State is 32·8°C which rises to 38·3°C in April and May. The mean minimum temperature is 22·8°C which falls to 15°C in December. May is the hottest month and December the coldest in the State.

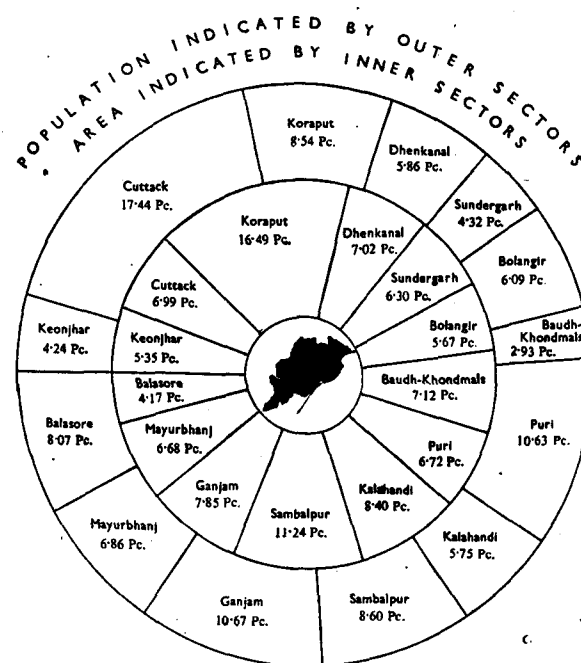

The State is the convenient point of convergence of monsoon currents of the Bay of Bengal and the Arabian sea. The coastal districts lie on the track of storms which frequently cross inland from the Bay of Bengal during the period of S-W monsoon. A few squalls of N-E monsoon appear over the Eastern Hills during this period. The normal annual rainfall in the State is 1,482·2 mms., but during the decade 1951-60 the average annual rainfall was slightly lower than normal, namely, 1,412·3 mms. The average number of rainy days per year is 72, most of which occur between middle of June with the advent of monsoon and the end of September. Nearly 77 per cent of annual total rainfall is recorded during this period. July and August receive the highest rainfall recording nearly 24 per cent of the total annual rainfall each month.

Vital Statistics—Vital Statistics began to be collected for all the 13 districts of the State from 1952 onwards when the registration system was considerably extended. The earlier records relate only to six old districts. Even at present the entire population of the State has not been covered by the registration system. An area of 10,639 sq. miles in the southern districts of Koraput and Ganjam do not still enjoy the benefit of the system.

During the decade 1951-60 the number of births outnumbering deaths in the State amounted to 1,356,265. The available registration figures show that the rate of birth was 25·8 and the rate of death was 16·2 per mille during the decade. Out of the total births of 3,639,806 the number of infant deaths was 529,868. Deaths among children up to pre-school-going age (5 years) constitute 36·53 per cent of total deaths. The percentage of mortality of babies up to one month is as high as 48 per cent of total infant deaths. The highest toll of human lives was taken by fever, notably malaria, which caused 57·48 per cent of total deaths during the decade. Smallpox and cholera also took heavy tolls in the years 1958 and 1959 and in the years 1952 and 1958 respectively and they accounted for 2·76 per cent and 1·51 per cent of deaths during the decade 1951-60. Dysentery and diarrhoea also caused 5·87 per cent of deaths during the decade.

Area and population of administrative units—Orissa assumed the full status of a Province in India on the 1st of April, 1936 comprising six districts (Cuttack, Balasore, Puri, Sambalpur, Ganjam and Koraput) with an area of 32,198 sq. miles. In the years 1948 and 1949, the area increased to 60,171·8 sq. miles on account of the integration of 24 princely States, namely, Athgarh, Tigiria, Baramba, Narasingpur, Nilgiri, Nayagarh, Daspalla, Khandpara, Ranpur, Bamra, Rairakhol, Dhenkanal, Talcher, Pallahara, Athmallik,

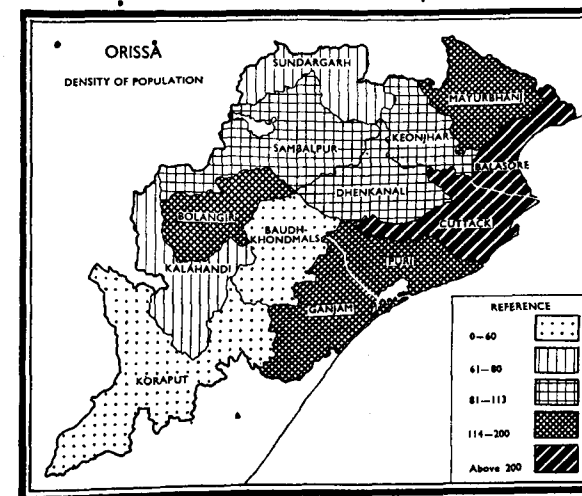

PERCENTAGE OF POPULATION AND AREA OF DISTRICTS

Hindol, Keonjhar, Baudh, Patna, Sonapur, Gangpur, Bonai, Kalahandi and Mayurbhanj. The ex-States of Athgarh, Tigiria, Baramba and Narasingpur were joined with Cuttack district; Nilgiri with Balasore district; Nayagarh, Daspalla, Khandpara and Ranpur with Puri district; and Bamra and Rairakhol with Sambalpur district. Angul subdivision of Cuttack district was separated from that district. This subdivision and the Feudatory States of Dhenkanal, Talcher, Pallahara, Athmallik and Hindol were constituted into one district, namely, Dhenkanal. Khondmals and Baliguda agency areas of Ganjam district were taken out and together with the ex-State of Baudh formed the district of Baudh-Khondmals. Nawapara subdivision was separated from Sambalpur district and was put together with the ex-State of Kalahandi to form another district named Kalahandi. The two ex-States of Keonjhar and Mayurbhanj formed each a separate district with their names as such. The ex-States of Sonapur and Patna were formed into one district, namely, Bolangir, while the ex-States of Gangpur and Bonai together formed the present Sundargarh district. Thus 13 districts as they exist now were formed by the merging of 24 ex-States with 6 old districts.

The area and population of the State and of 13 districts are given below:

Administrative units	Area in sq. miles	Population	Population per sq. mile	Population per sq. km.

Towns—Urbanisation in Orissa is a slow process although now it is tending to proceed at a faster pace. Development of towns till the middle of this century resulted not so much from industrial or commercial activities but from administrative and social necessities. It is only during the recent years that some tendency is noticeable of development of industry-based towns. There has been comparatively rapid urbanisation during these years, as may be judged from the fact that the number of towns increased from 39 with a population of 594,070 in 1951 to 62 with a population of 1,109,650 in 1961. Most of them are small-sized towns. The towns may be classified according to the size of their population in the following manner:

Class	No. of towns	Total population
Class I (100,000 and over)	1	146,308
Class II (50,000 to 99,999)	3	228,033
Class III (20,000 to 49,999)	8	224,943
Class IV (10,000 to 19,999)	22	301,647
Class V (5,000 to 9,999)	25	190,064
Class VI (Less than 5,000)	3	9,655

Out of 62 towns at present in the State, the largest number is in Ganjam, namely, 10 and the smallest number is in Baudh-Khondmals, namely, 1. The number, names and population of towns in each district are given below:

District	No. of towns	Names and population of towns
Cuttack	7	Cuttack (146,308), Kendrapara (15,830), Jajpur (13,802), Chowdwar (13,478), Athgarh (7,256), Jajpur Road (5,989), Banki (5,934).
Puri	5	Puri (60,815), Bhubaneswar (38,211), Jatni (16,068), Khurda (12,497), Nayagarh (5,815).
Balasore	5	Balasore (33,931), Bhadrak (25,285), Soro (13,081), Jaleswar (10,202), Chandbali (9,406).
Mayurbhanj	2	Baripada (20,301), Rairangpur (8,119).

District	No. of towns	Names and population of towns
Ganjam	10	Berhampur (76,931), Parlakhemundi (22,708), Bhanjanagar (9,952), Aska (9,024), Surada (8,703), Hinjili (8,028), Chatrapur (7,835), Bellaguntha (5,762), Gopalpur (3,536), Khallikote (3,465).
Baudh-Khondmals	1	Baudh (6,088).
Koraput	7	Jeypore (25,291), Rayagada (14,537), Nowrangapur (10,380), Gunupur (10,180), Koraput (7,461), Kotpad (6,368), Machkund (2,754).
Kalahandi	3	Bhawanipatna (14,300), Khariar (7,873), Khariar Road (6,400).
Sambalpur	7	Sambalpur (38,915), Jharsuguda (19,227), Brajarajnagar (16,196), Bargarh (15,375), Burla (10,230), Hirakud (8,593), Deogarh (6,839).
Bolangir	5	Bolangir (18,663), Kantabanji (8,863), Patnagarh (7,592), Titlagarh (7,433), Sonapur (7,108).
Sundargarh	4	Rourkela (90,287), Birmittapur (20,301), Rajgangpur (13,843), Sundargarh (11,329).
Dhenkanal	4	Angul (15,738), Dhenkanal (13,727), Bhuban (9,476), Talcher (8,147).
Keonjhar	2	Barbil (19,340), Keonjhar (12,624).

Growth of population—The population of the State which was 10,302,917 in 1901 increased to 17,548,846 in 1961, thus recording a growth of 70·3 per cent during the last 60 years. Three decades, namely, 1901-11, 1921-31 and 1931-41 witnessed almost uniform growth with an increase of 10·4 per cent, 11·9 per cent and 10·2 per cent respectively. The population, however, declined by 1·9 per cent in 1911-21. The rate of growth in 1941-51 was restricted to 6·4 per cent. But the decade 1951-61 registered the highest growth of 19·8 per cent in any single decade.

Trend of migration—The migrants to the State constitute 2·2 per cent of the total population, out of which only 0·3 per cent are born outside India as indicated below:

	Persons	Males	Females	Percentage
1. Population of the State	17,548,846	8,770,586	8,778,260	100
2. Born in the State of enumeration (Orissa)	17,166,977	8,592,128	8,574,849	97·8
3. Born in States in India other than Orissa	332,078	150,992	181,086	1·9
4. Born outside India (but in Asia)	25,640	15,712	9,928	0·2
5. Others including unclassifiable	24,151	11,754	12,397	0·1

The emigrants from this State to other States constitute 2.7 per cent of the total population. The inflow and outflow of migrants is mainly confined to the neighbouring States of Andhra Pradesh, Bihar, Madhya Pradesh and West Bengal. An analysis of the immigrants from and emigrants to each of these States is given below:

Name of the State	Inflow to Orissa	Outflow from Orissa
Andhra Pradesh	53,121	42,693
Bihar	95,469	60,616
Madhya Pradesh	56,130	115,184
West Bengal	72,705	187,321
Assam	5,531	51,192
Other States	49,122	14,883
Total	332,078	471,889

Economic classification—The division of entire population into two broad sections, namely, workers and non-workers and the break-up of the workers into nine industrial categories are the principal features of 1961 economic classification. The number of persons in each section and category is given below:

Section or category	Persons	Males	Females
1. Non-workers	9,887,317	3,442,220	6,445,097
2. Workers	7,661,529	5,328,366	2,333,163
(i) Cultivator	4,353,012	3,185,128	1,167,884
(ii) Agricultural labourer	1,303,511	805,009	498,502
(iii) Mining, Quarrying, Livestock, Forestry, Fishing, Hunting and Plantations, Orchards and Allied activities	131,996	95,978	36,018
(iv) Household industry	530,809	285,734	245,075
(v) Manufacturing other than household industry	86,197	72,998	13,199
(vi) Construction	30,858	29,117	1,741
(vii) Trade and Commerce	147,462	111,622	35,840
(viii) Transport, Storage and Communications	51,716	49,098	2,618
(ix) Other Services	1,025,968	693,682	332,286

Scheduled Tribes—The population of Scheduled Tribes in the State is 4,223,757 which is a little over 24 per cent of the total population. There are 60 tribes of which the most numerous are Kond (818,847), Gond (445,705), Santal (411,181), Saora (311,614), Munda (221,399), Kolha (203,515), Shabar (193,613), Paroja (159,866), Bhottada (159,091), Bhuiya (156,878), Oraon (129,061), Kisan (125,668), Bhumij (116,181), Bathudi (104,542), Kharia (96,691), Binjhal (76,692), Koya (55,284), Bhumia (50,294), Kol (46,397), Sounti (44,409), Gadaba (43,939), Ho (43,323), Mirdhas (26,660) and Juang (21,890). Literacy is poor being limited to 7.3 per cent. Principal economic activity is cultivation and agricultural labour.

Scheduled Castes—There are 91 Scheduled Castes with a population of 2,763,858 living in the State and constituting 15.7 per cent of the total population. The principal castes are Pan (602,126), Ganda (358,403), Dom (311,183), Dhoba (265,360), Bauri (250,914), Kandra (212,039), Haddi (91,819), Gokha (66,733), Chamar (57,064), Ghasi (54,647), Dandasi (50,250), Patratanti (41,371), Khadala (37,686), Bhoi (36,302), Pantanti (32,875), Tanla (32,245) and Bariki (26,996). Literacy is confined to 11.5 per cent. Cultivation and agricultural labour provide livelihood to a major bulk of the population.

Literacy—The number of literate persons is 3,801,245 out of the total population of 17,548,846 in the State. The percentage of literacy has risen from 15.8 in 1951 to 21.7 in 1961. Literacy among females has progressed faster, but is still low, namely, 8.7 per cent, while it is 34.7 per cent among males. There 20,639 Primary Schools, 1,359 M.E. Schools and 365 High Schools in the State.

Industries—The number of industrial establishments including those of the lowest scale, namely, household industries are 226,715 in the State. Classified according to the list in the I.S.I.C. Scheme there are 130 kinds of industries. The statement below gives a list of industries which are most extensively found in the State of Orissa.

Name of industry	Total number of establishments	Number of persons engaged
Cotton weaving in handlooms	54,659	169,050
Manufacture of materials from cork, bamboo, cane, leaves, etc.	48,232	135,109
Manufacture of earthenwares and earthen potteries	24,857	69,553
Manufacture of sundry hardwares	17,147	48,346
Manufacture of wooden furniture, structural goods, etc.	17,008	34,911
Manufacture of jewellery and wares using silver, gold and other precious metals	13,771	27,677
Production of edible fats and oils (other than hydrogenated oil)	10,964	31,138
Cotton spinning (other than in mills)	6,270	13,455

Agriculture—The total geographical area of the State is 38,509,946 acres out of which the cultivated area in 1959-60 was 16,161,141 acres including current fallows to the extent of 1.5 million acres. The area under irrigation was 2,409,667 acres, the proportion of cultivated area under irrigation being almost the same as for all-India. Per-capita area under cultivation declined to 81.2 Cents in 1959 from 82.7 Cents in 1951. But the cultivated area per head of agricultural population is 121 Cents which is slightly higher than the all-India average of 118 Cents. Productivity has been lower, considering that 3,658,176 tons of rice was grown in 9, 907, 301 acres under rice in 1959-60, giving 827 lbs per acre of cultivated paddy land, as against 1,216 lbs in Madras, 1,055 lbs in Andhra Pradesh and 900 lbs in West Bengal. Principal crops other than rice are maize, kodo, millets, gram, jute, ground-nut, sesamum, mustard and castor. The State on the whole is self-sufficient in agricultural production. It imports certain items of cereals while it exports in good harvest years a small surplus of rice.

CUTTACK DISTRICT

Cuttack is one of the coastal districts of Orissa and lies between 20° 1' N and 21° 10' N latitudes and between 84° 58' E and 87° 3' E longitudes. It is bounded on the north by Balasore and Keonjhar districts, on the south by Puri district, on the west by Dhenkanal district and on the east by the Bay of Bengal.

Physiography—The district consists of three distinct tracts. The first is a marshy strip along the coast covered with low forest and wild growth of canes, reeds and brush wood and intersected by innumerable creeks which are sluggish and silty. This low land abounds in swamps and morasses and is subject to inundation of sea water and is, therefore, uncultivable. The second tract is a deltaic plain, stretching inland for about 40 miles, traversed by many large rivers which throw out a network of branches with twists and interlacings in all directions. It is a fertile country, though afflicted by frequent floods submerging the standing crops and sand-casting the arable lands. The third tract is a hilly region at a distance of 60 to 70 miles from the seashore. The hills are not continuous and are small in height averaging 500 ft above the sea-level. The most interesting ones are the Assia range, containing a series of hills, namely, Naltigiri with its sandal trees and Buddhist antiquities; Udaigiri with its colossal image of Buddha, a sacred reservoir, some ruined temples and caves; and Alamgir hills, the highest peak in the district rising to 2,500 ft above the sea-level and containing an old mosque nearly 300 years old.

The district has 3 main rivers, the Mahanadi, flowing in the south, the Brahmani at the central part and the Baitarani in the north and they throw out many distributaries sometimes reuniting and sometimes bifurcating as they pass across the level plains. During the hot weather the upper channels of these rivers dry up and maintain thin streams with little pools of stagnant waters for most part of their course. During the rainy season they used to overflow the banks with enormous mass of water causing havoc to countryside and the crops, but since the last decade, some relief has been caused due to partial control of flood water at the dam at Hirakud. The district has mostly two varieties of soils, namely, alluvial soil in the eastern and lateritic soil in the western region. Besides, there is a small strip of saline soil along the coast. An area of 399 sq. miles is covered with forests of northern tropical semi-evergreen type. Deposits of iron ore and chromite are under exploitation in the mines of this district.

Climate and rainfall—The climate of the district is characterised by a hot summer, high humidities nearly all the year round and good seasonal rainfall. The cold season from December to February is followed by the hot season from March to May. The period from June to September constitutes the south-west monsoon season and the next two months are the post-monsoon season. May is usually the hottest month when the mean daily maximum temperature of 38.6°C is recorded. December is the coldest month of the year with the mean daily minimum temperature of 14.9°C. The average rainfall in the district is 1,506.8 mm. (59.32"). The rainfall generally decreases from south-east to north-west. During the monsoon months from June to September maximum quantity of rainfall which constitutes 74% of the annual rainfall is received. On an average there are 71 rainy days in a year. Depressions and storms originating in the Bay of Bengal during the rainy season cross over the district causing widespread heavy rain and gusty winds.

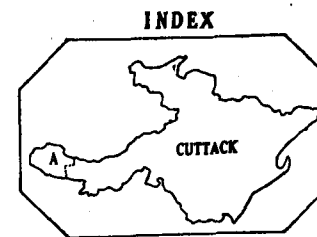

Vital Statistics—During the decade 1951-60, births outnumbered deaths by 273,836 (146,985 males and 126,851 females). A good deal of Vital Statistics are left out from records, but according to the recorded figures, the birth and death rates for this decade work out to 27.0 and 17.1 per mille respectively. Infant deaths numbered 114,326 against total births of 747,032 and constitute 24.2% of total deaths. Deaths among children up to the age of 5 years is also high, being 34.9% of total deaths. Fever, notably malaria, accounted for 40.84% of deaths in the district during the decade. Deaths due to dysentery and diarrhoea, smallpox and cholera are also heavy and the latter two diseases were prevalent in the district in all the years causing 3.12% and 2.55% of deaths respectively.

Area and population of administrative units—The district contains an area of 4,210 sq. miles or 10,903.9 sq. kms. with a population of 30.60 lakhs. There are 4 subdivisions and 32 police stations in the district. The area and population of each of the above administrative units is given in the statement below:

Towns—Cuttack district has one city and six towns, namely, Cuttack City (146,308), Chowdwar (13,478), Banki (5,934), Jajpur (13,802), Jajpur Road (5,989), Kendrapara (15,830) and Athgarh (7,256).

Growth of population (1901-1961)—The population of the district which was 2,207,040 in 1901 has increased to 3,060,320 in 1961, marking a growth of 38·7% during the last sixty years. The nominal growth of 2·4% in the decade 1901-1911 was practically negated during the following decade 1911-21 when the population declined by 2·8%. The next decade 1921-31 quickly restored the rate of growth by 6·4%. The decades 1931-41 and 1941-51 recorded an increase of 4·7% and 3·3% respectively. The last decade 1951-61 registered the highest growth of 21·0%.

Trend of migration—The migrants to this district constitute 5·3% of the total population of whom 1·5% are born outside the State. The majority of migrants from outside the State originate from West Bengal, Andhra Pradesh, Bihar and Madras. The number of persons born outside the district, outside the State and outside the country with their sex break-up is given below:

	Persons	Males	Females	Per-centage
1. Population of the district	3,060,320	1,531,240	1,529,080	100
2. Born in the district	2,898,167	1,470,980	1,427,187	94·7
3. Born outside the district but within the State	117,914	36,753	81,161	3·8
4. Born in States of India other than Orissa	32,957	17,830	15,127	1·1
5. Born outside India (but in Asia)	5,649	3,215	2,434	0·2
6. Others including unclassifiable	5,633	2,462	3,171	0·2

Economic classification—The total population is divided into two broad sections, namely, workers and non-workers. The workers are again subdivided into nine industrial categories according to their economic activities. The persons in each section and category with the sex composition are shown below:

Section or category	Persons	Males	Females
1. Non-workers	2,053,053	646,170	1,406,883
2. Workers	1,007,267	885,070	122,197
(i) Cultivator	513,179	495,314	17,865
(ii) Agricultural labourer	136,231	112,943	23,288
(iii) Mining, Quarrying, Live-stock, Forestry, Fishing, Hunting, and Plantations, Orchards and Allied activities	13,644	9,979	3,665
(iv) Household industry	89,129	51,379	37,750
(v) Manufacturing other than household industry	23,864	23,096	768
(vi) Construction	9,488	9,354	134
(vii) Trade and Commerce	33,281	26,716	6,565
(viii) Transport, Storage and Communications	14,166	13,977	189
(ix) Other Services	174,285	142,312	31,973

Scheduled Tribes—There are 30 Scheduled Tribes in the district with a population of 85,863 which is 2·8% of the total population. The principal tribes are Shabar (39,505), Saora (12,549), Kolha (9,404), Munda (6,742), Kond (4,740), Santal (2,391), Ho (2,113), Bhumij (1,734) and Lodha (1,013). The district is considered to have the highest concentration of two tribes, namely, Lodhas and Shabars. Literacy is poor, namely, 8·7%. Principal economic activity is cultivation and agricultural labour, although household industry and 'other services' are also popular.

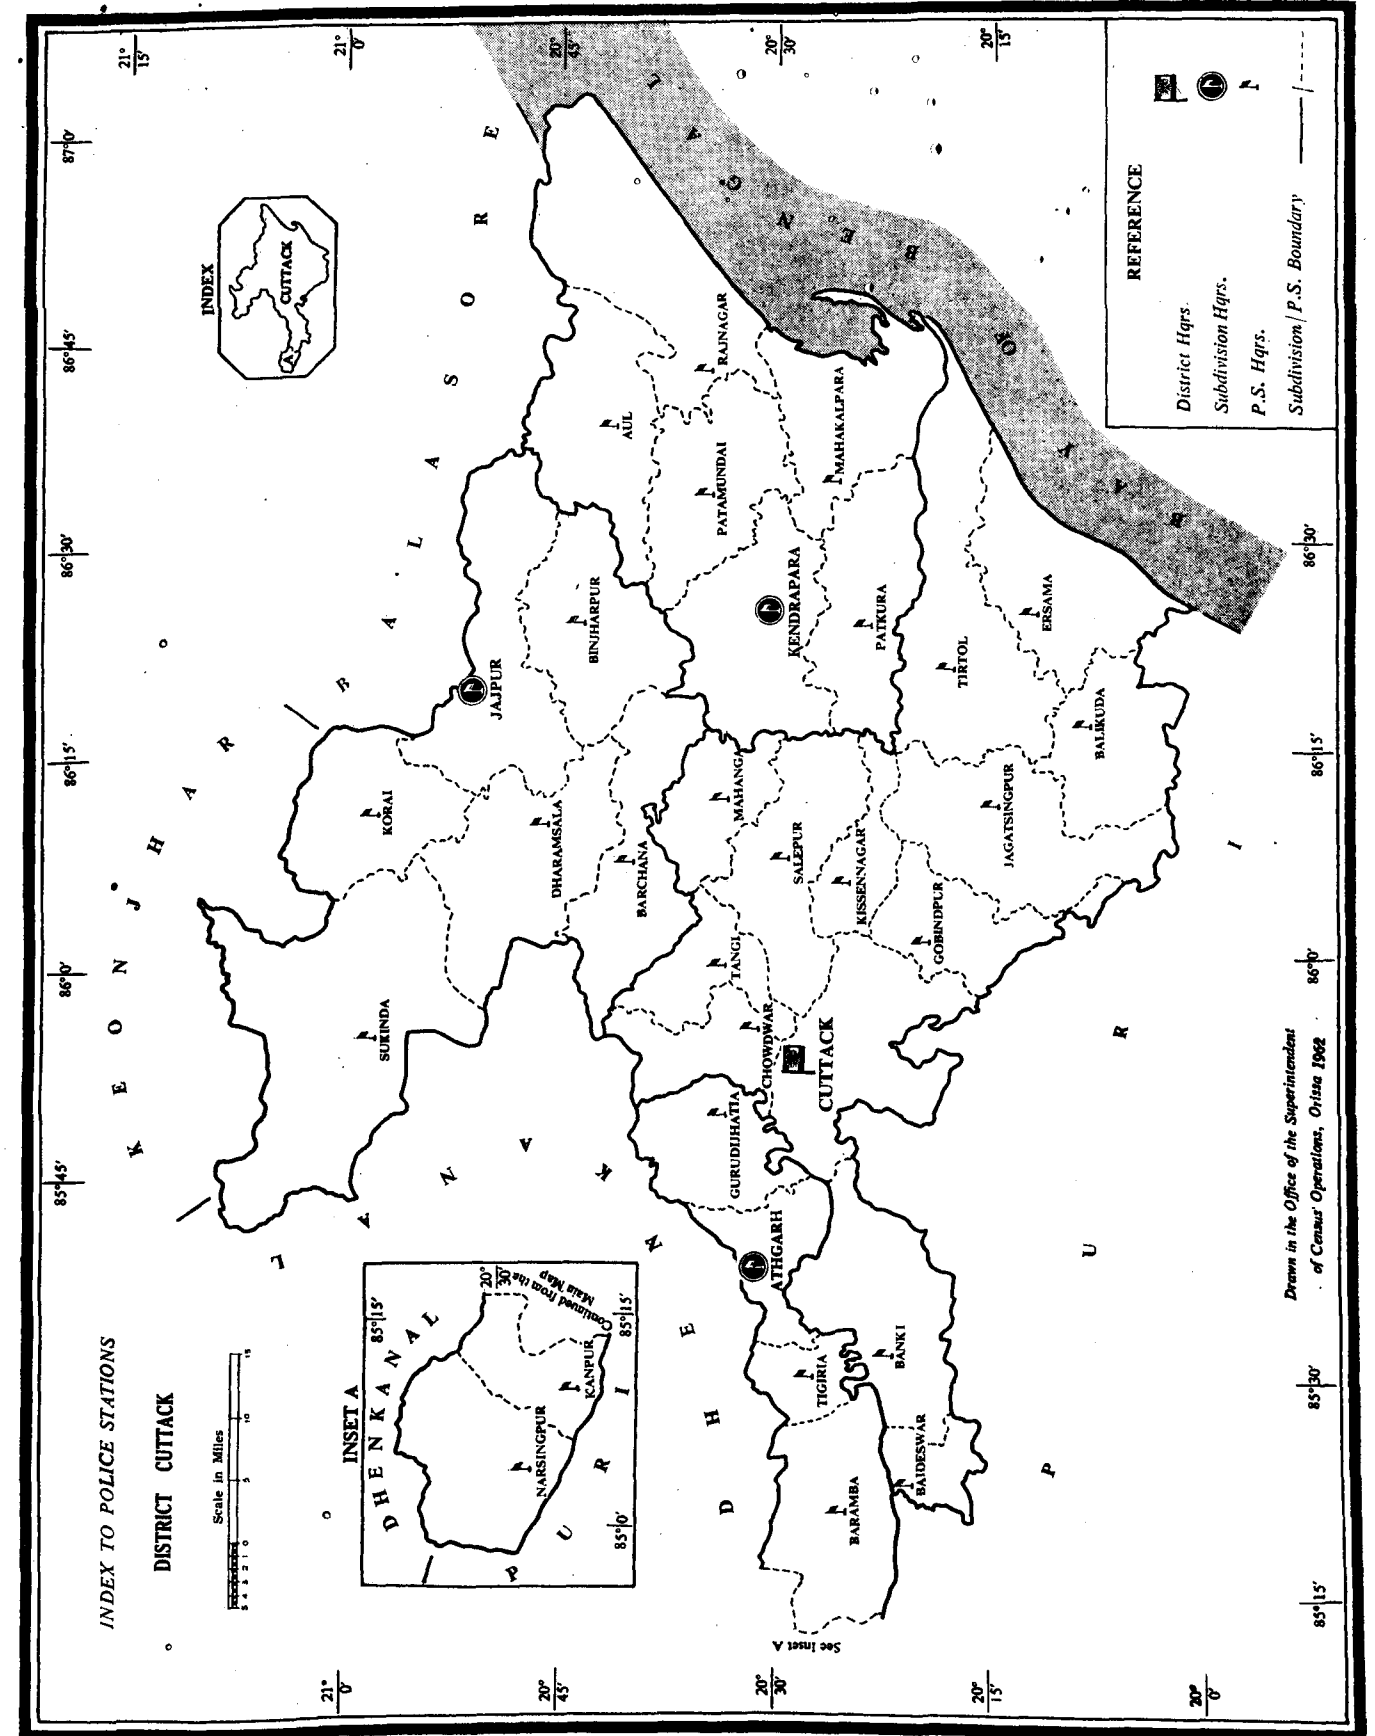

Scheduled Castes—The population of Scheduled Castes in the district is 547,922 which is 17·9% of the total population. There are 67 castes of which the most numerous are Pan (154,113), Kandra (128,781), Bauri (94,408), Dhoba (63,033), Gokha (21,394), Chamar (18,656), Haddi (13,646), Bhoi (12,139), Bagheti (6,010), Dom (5,810), Tanla (4,743), Kela (4,205), Bariki (3,475), Tiar (1,809), Patratanti (1,689), Mehtar (1,581), Siyal (1,420) and Mahuria (1,019). Literacy is confined to 12·3%. Cultivation and agricultural labour provide livelihood to the largest section of the population. Household industry and 'other services' are also the sources of maintenance for a considerable number.

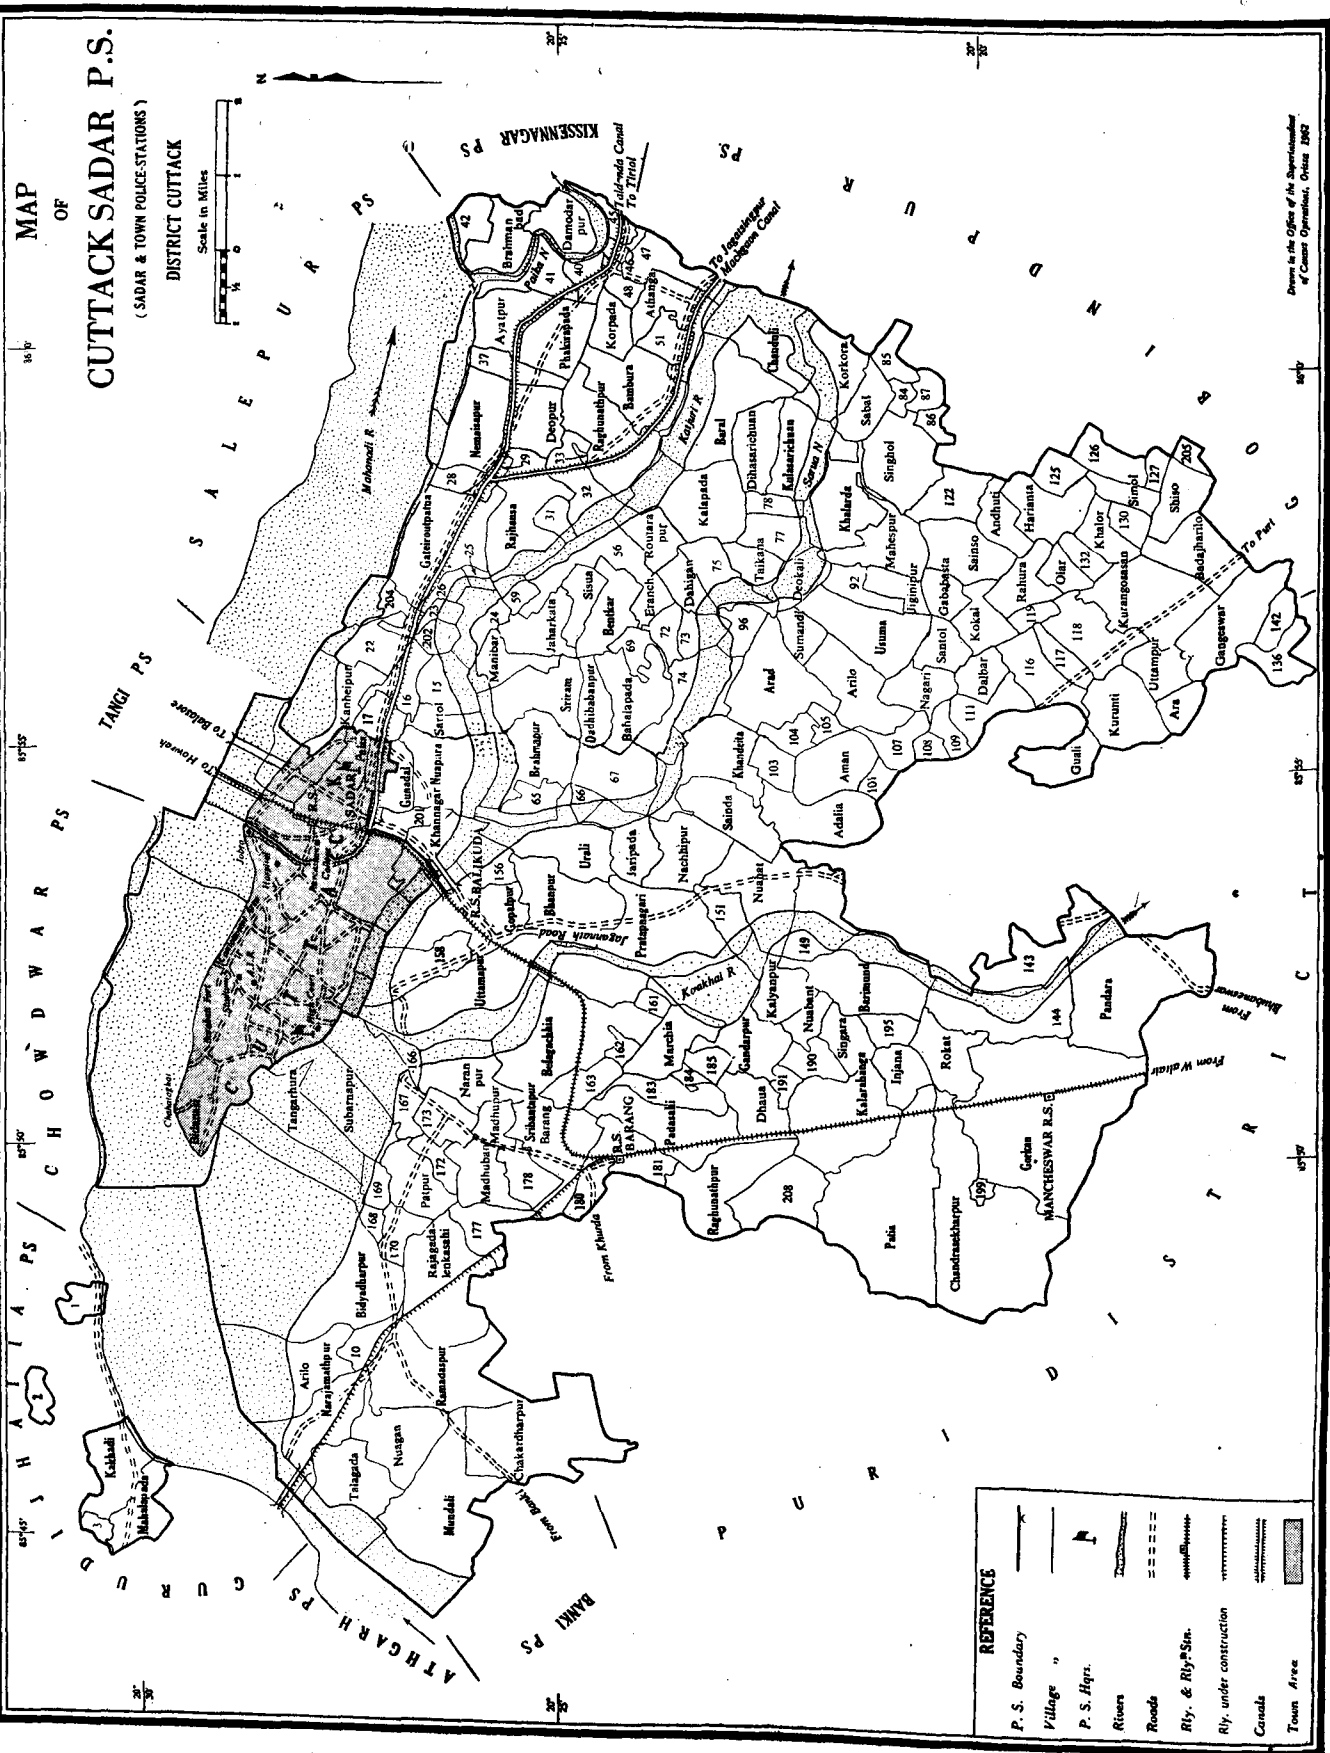

Literacy—Out of the total population of 3,060,320 the recorded number of literates is 912,551, bringing the rate of literacy to 29·8% as against 23·3% in 1951. Among the males, literacy has gone up to 45·7 per cent and among the females to 14·0 per cent. The district has 4,066 Primary Schools, 320 M. E. Schools and 110 High Schools.

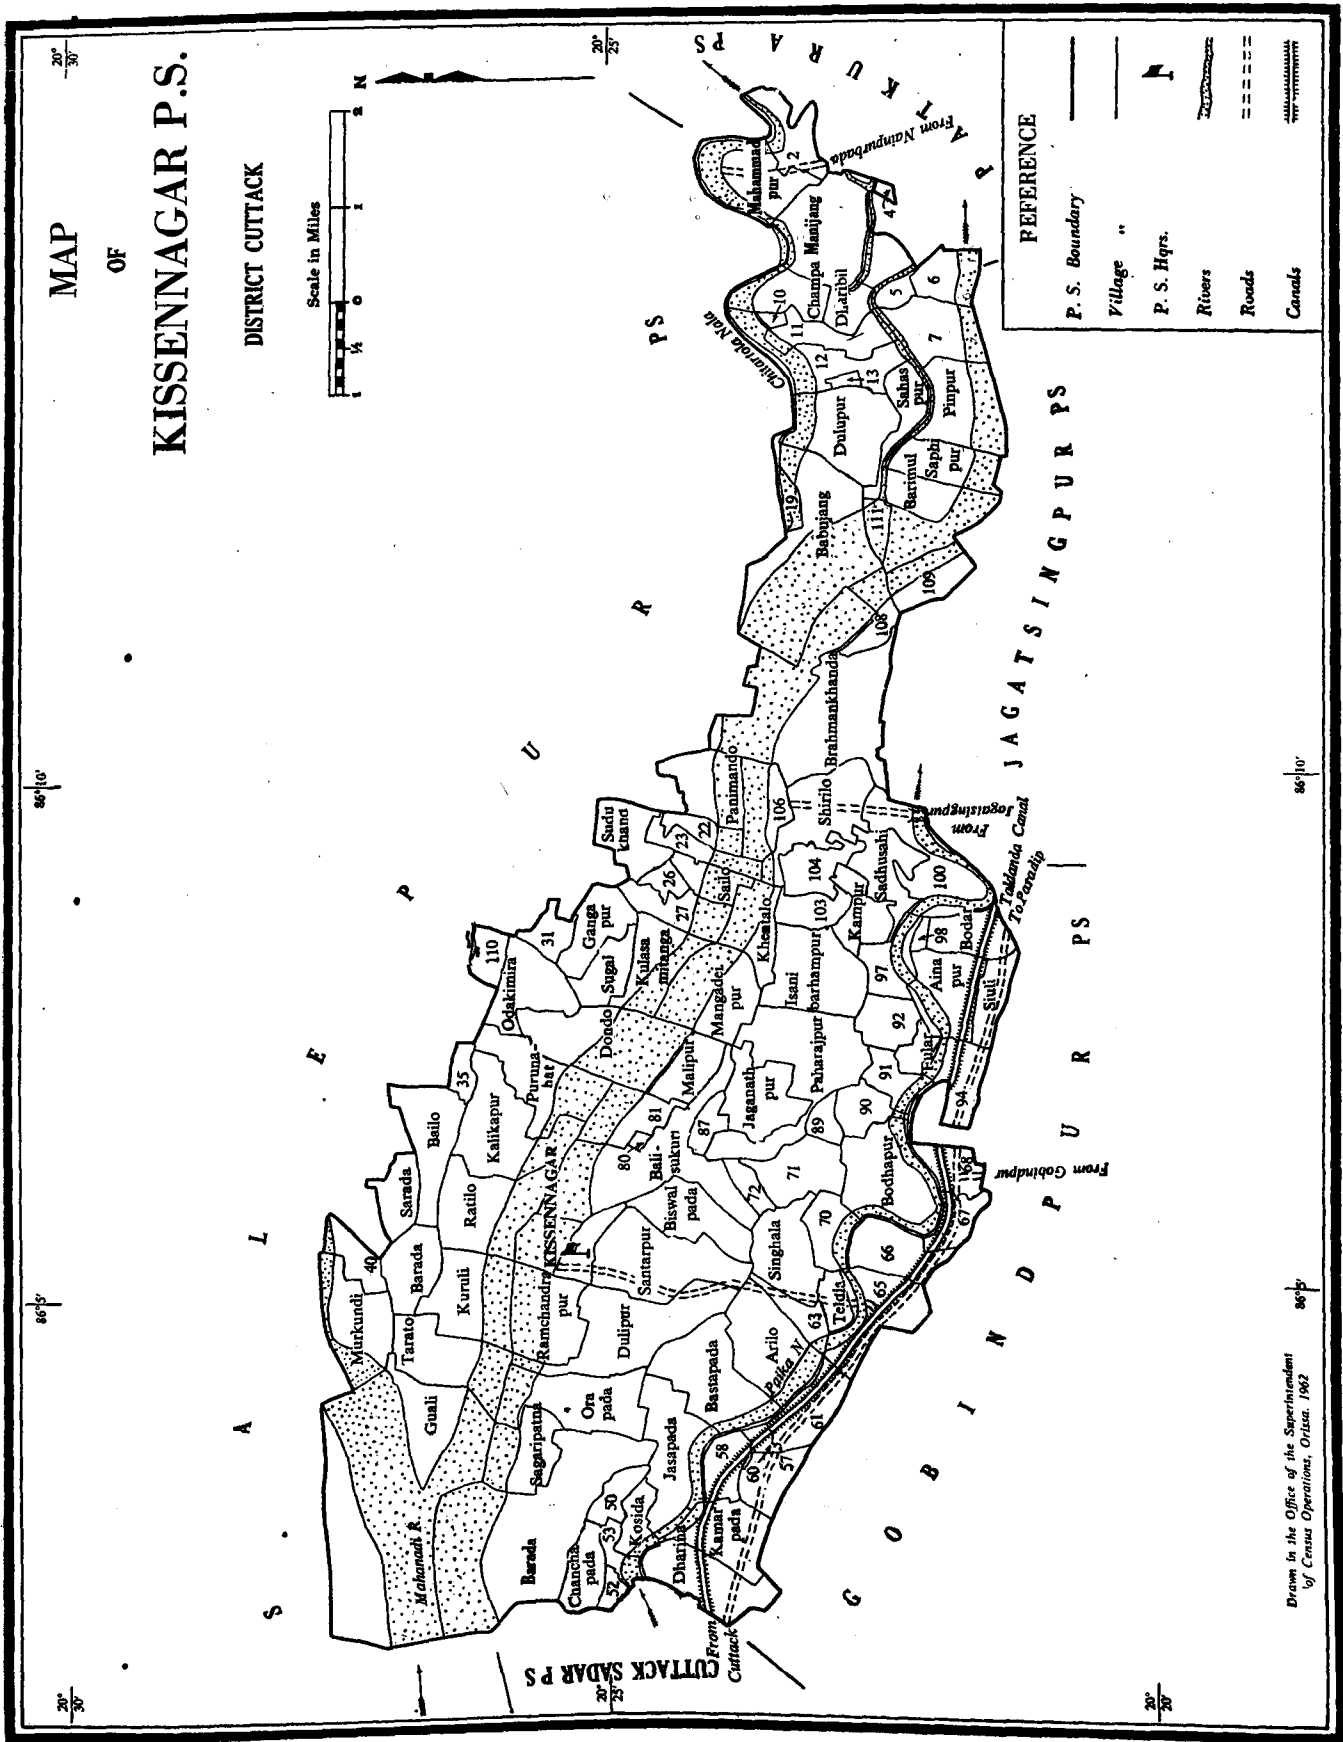

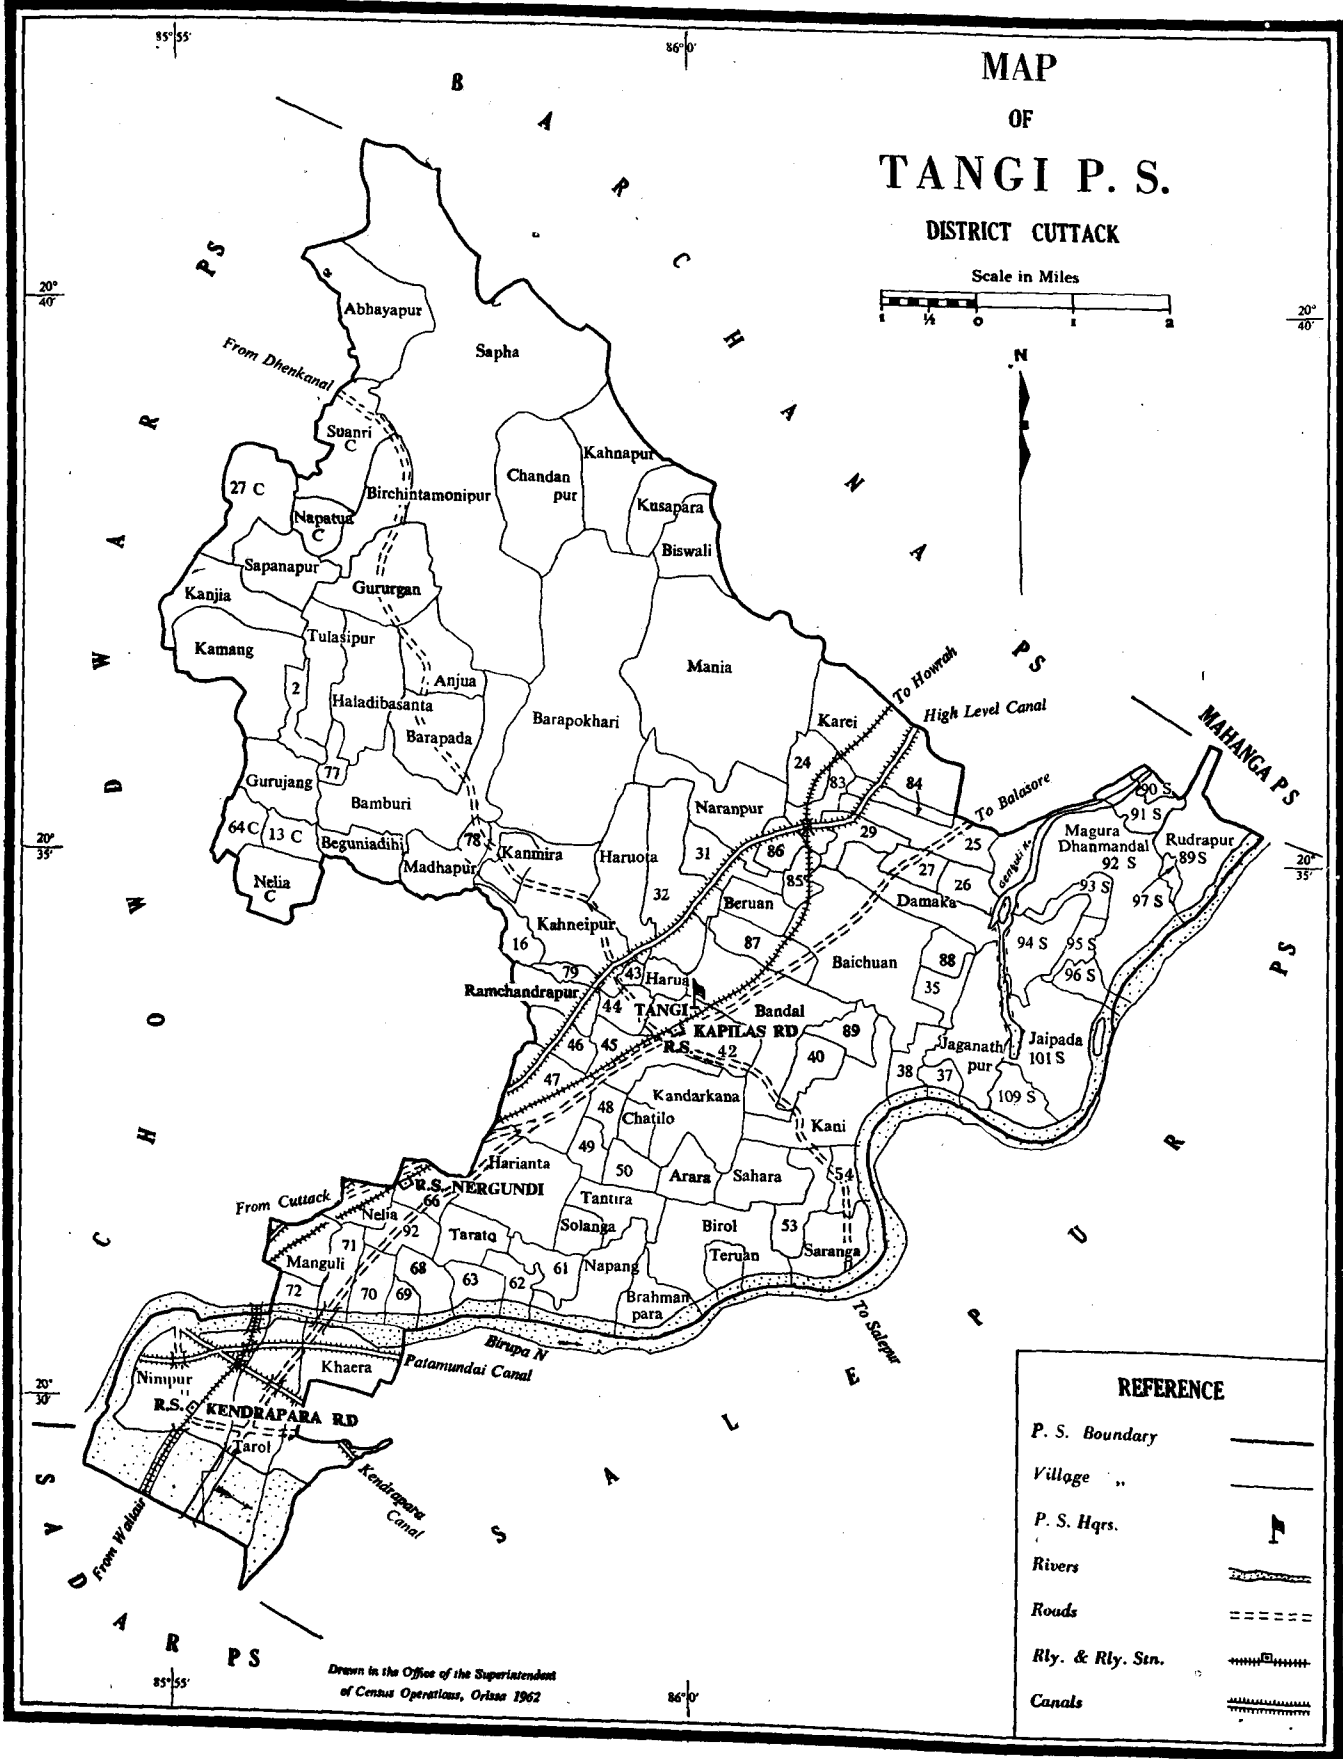

Industries—There are 31,379 industrial establishments in the district which include industries of the lowest scale, namely, household industries. According to the classification of the I. S. I. C. Scheme there are 103 kinds of industries. In the statement below a list of some industries which are most extensively found in the district is furnished.

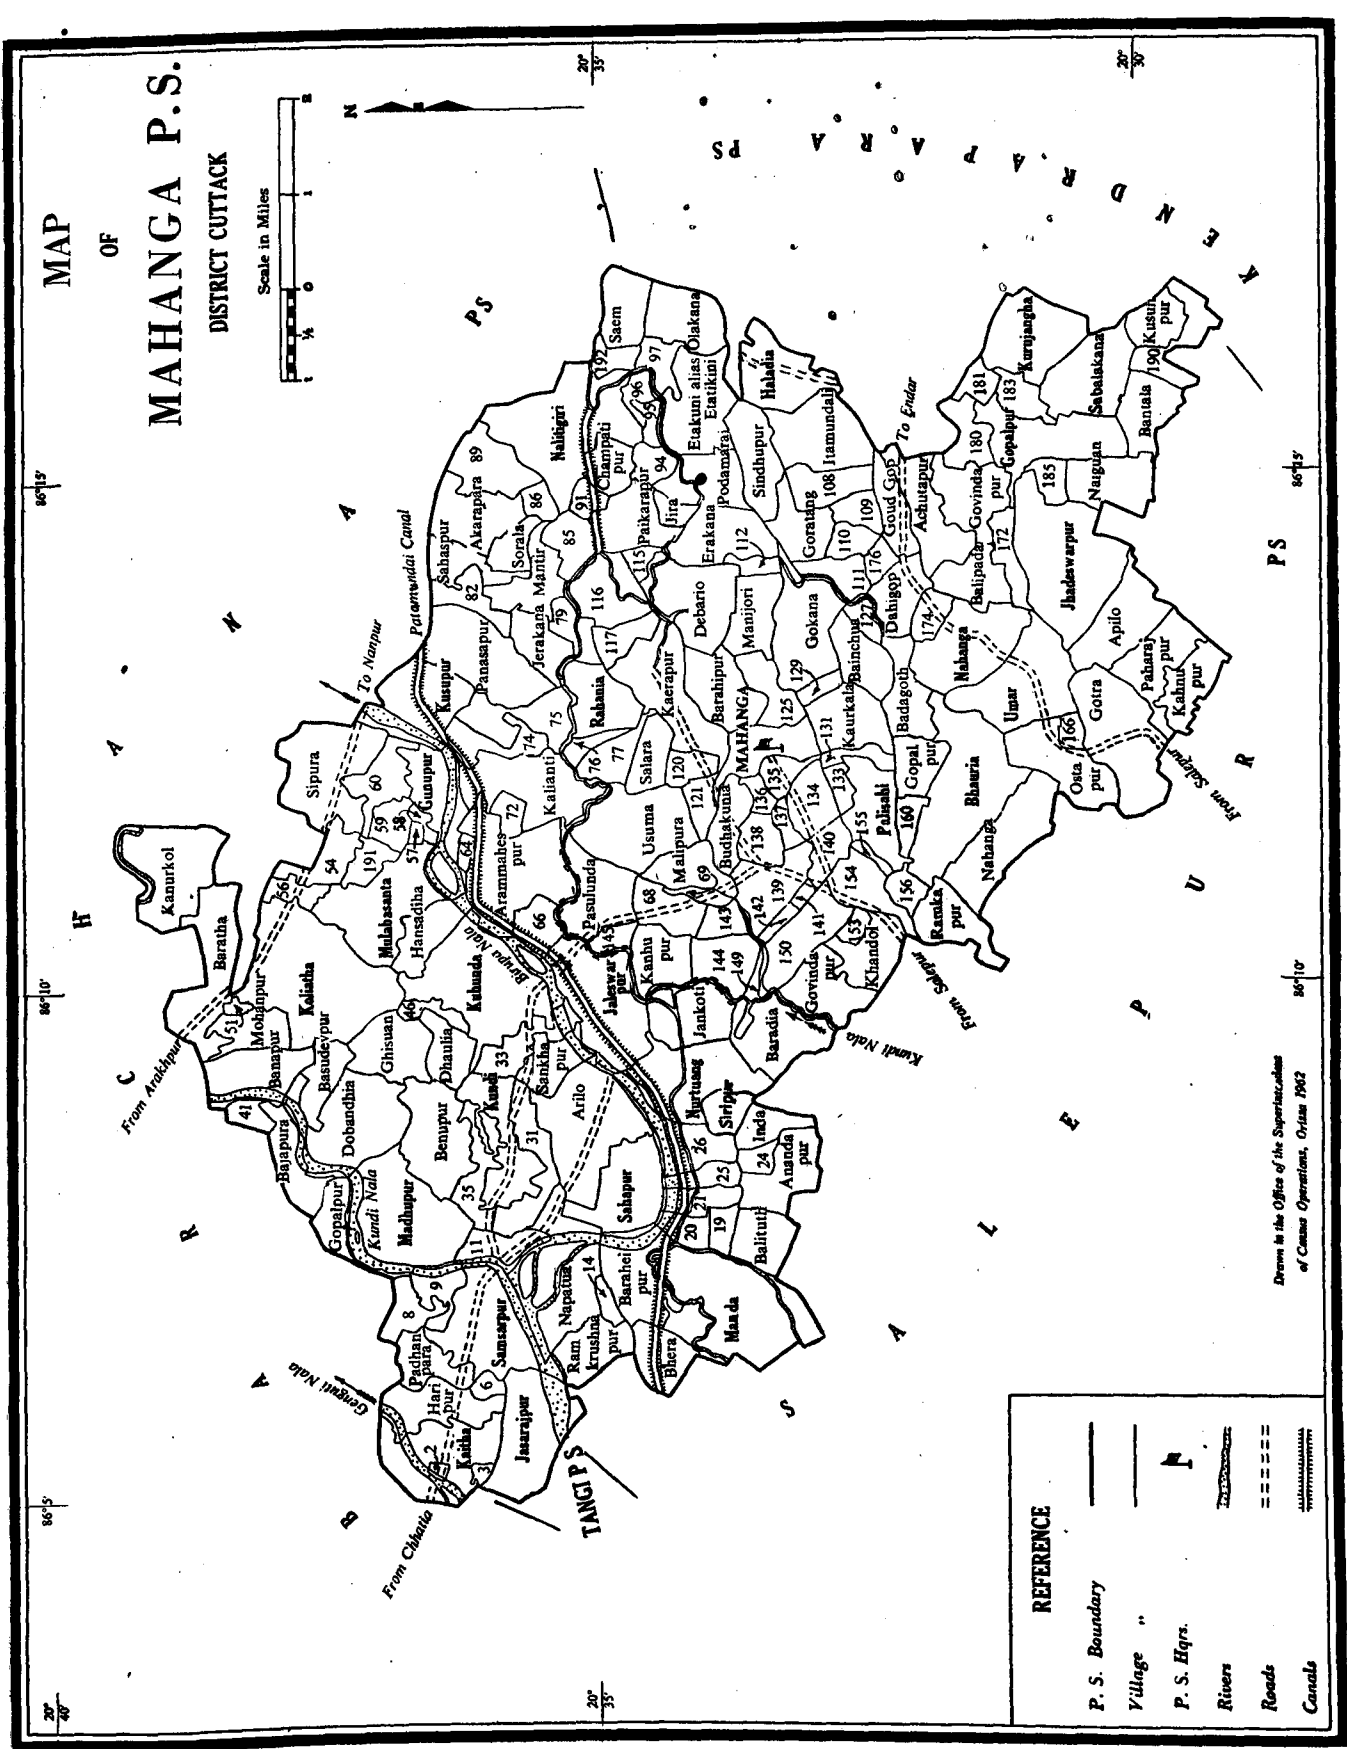

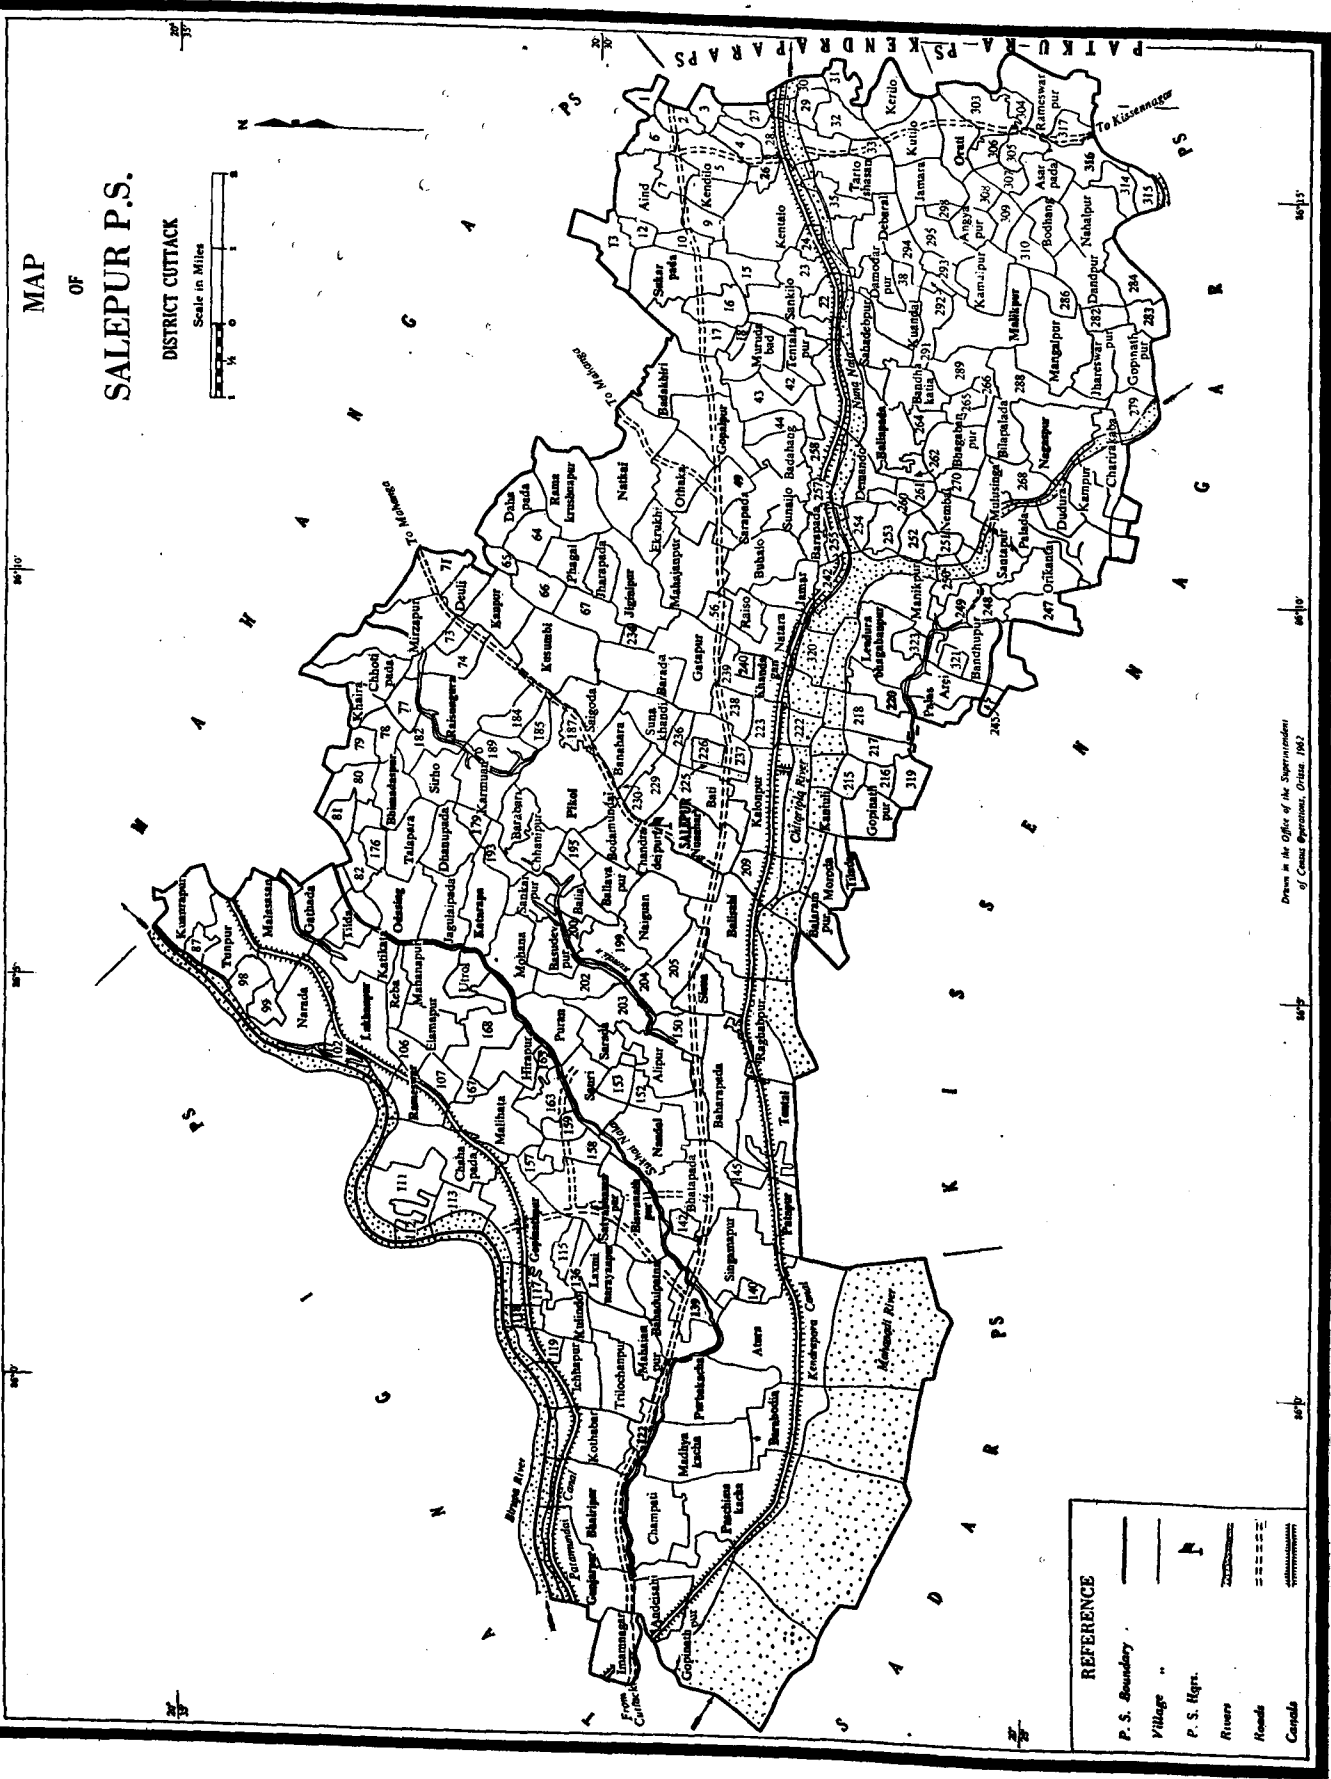

Name of industry	Total no. of establishments	No. of persons engaged
Cotton weaving in handlooms	5,712	16,558
Manufacture of materials from cork, bamboo, cane, leaves, etc.	5,577	14,783
Manufacture of earthenwares and earthen potteries	3,810	9,588
Manufacture of jewellery, and wares using gold and other precious metals	3,532	6,833
Manufacture of wooden furniture and fixtures	2,716	5,199
Manufacture of sundry hardware	1,785	5,315
Cotton spinning (other than in mills)	1,366	2,619
Production of edible fats and oils (other than hydrogenated oil)	703	1,625

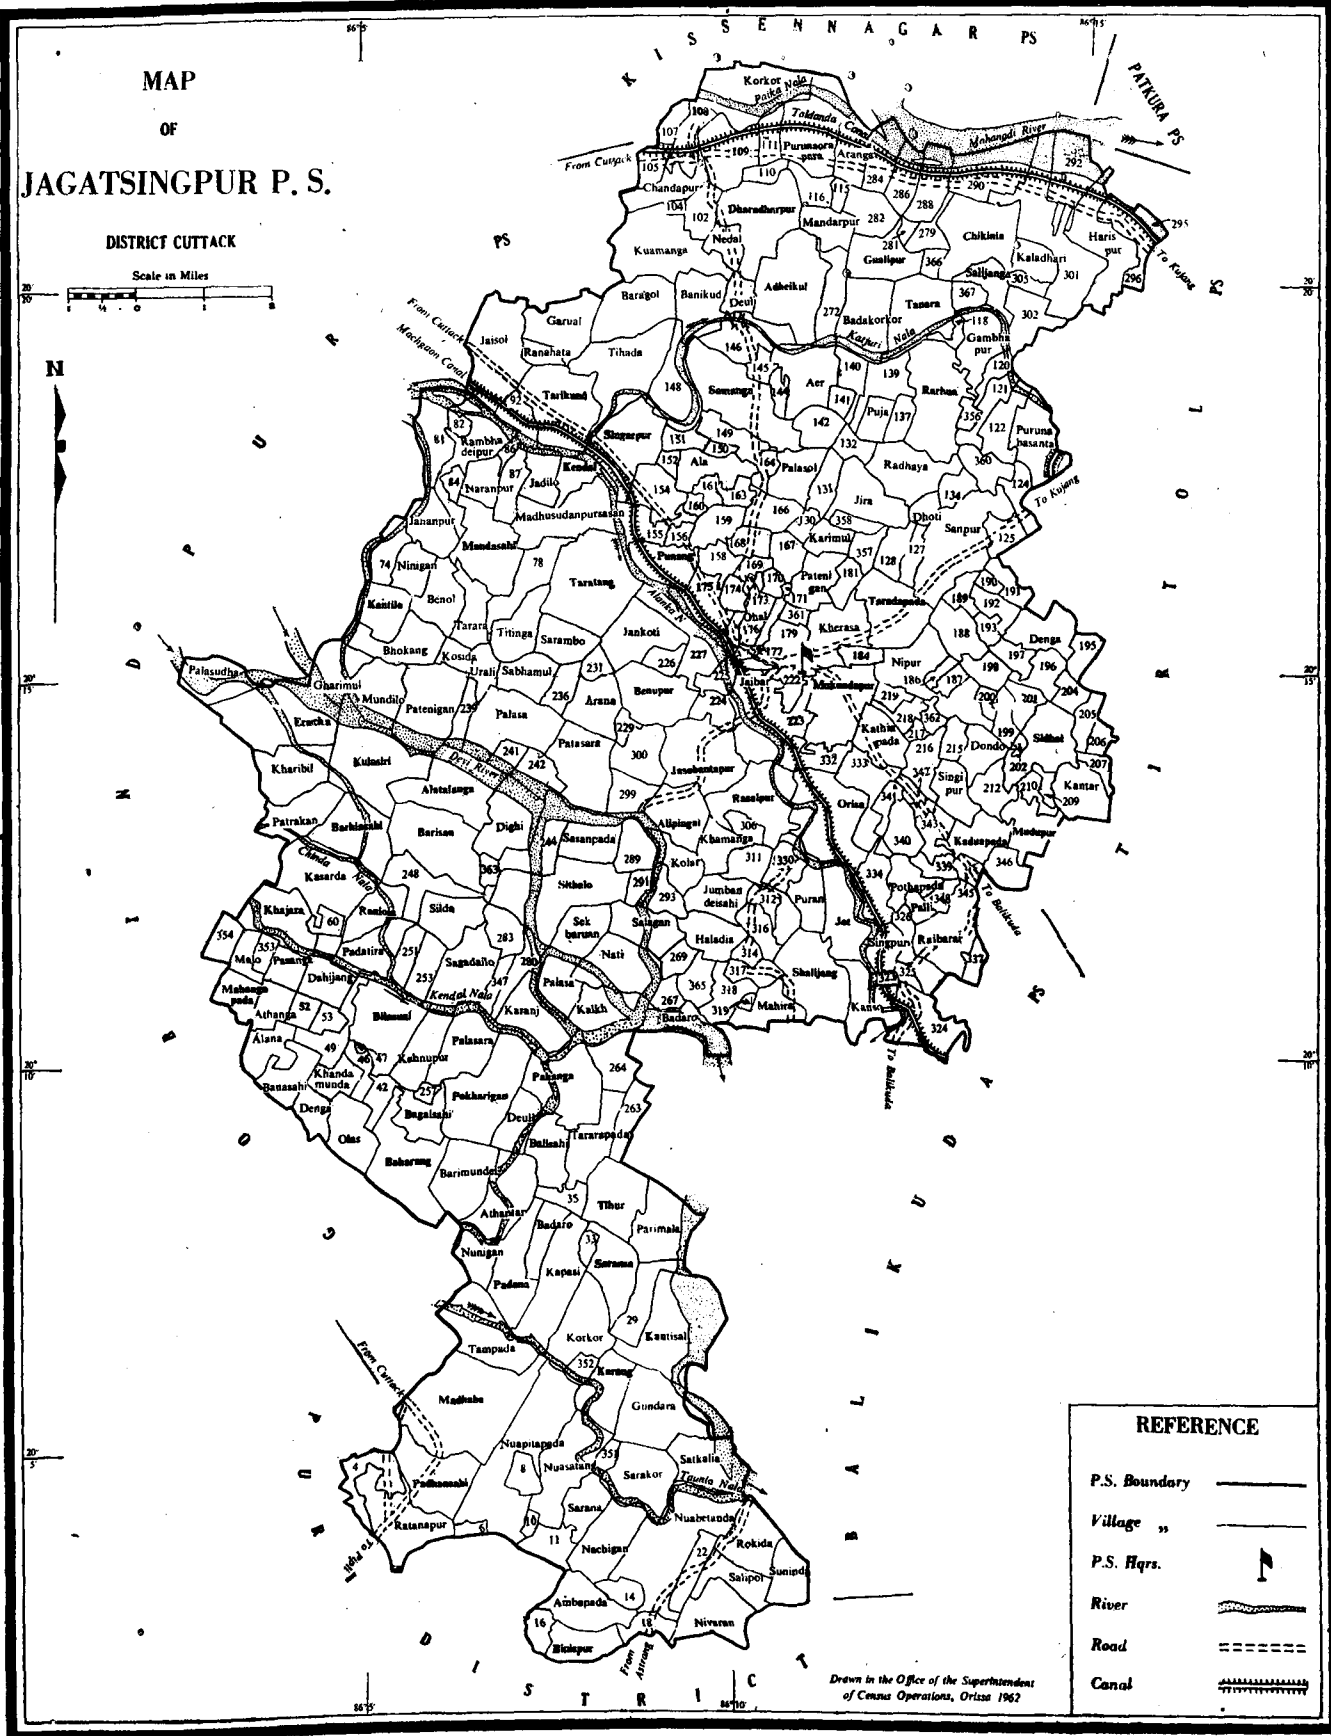

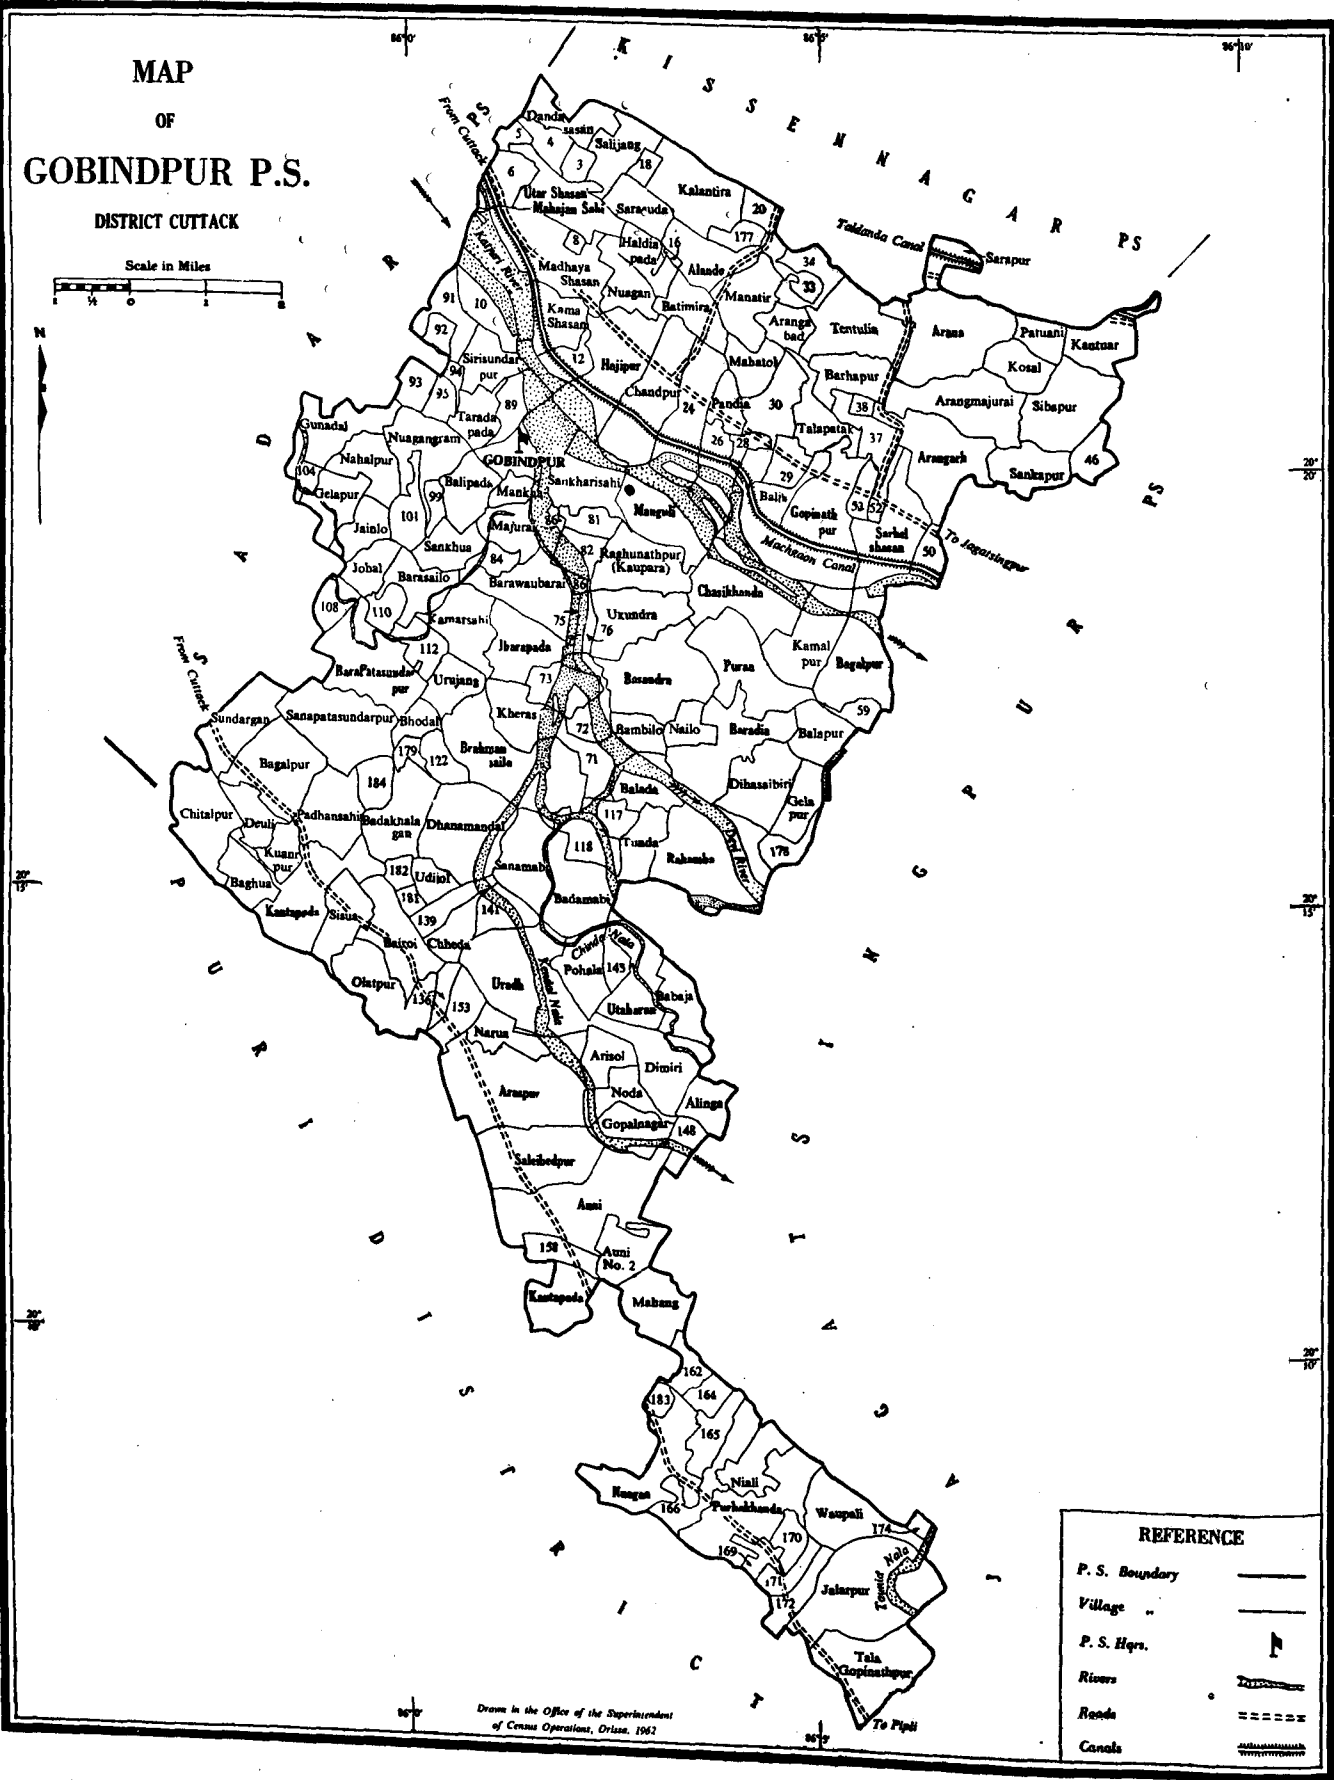

Agriculture—Out of the total area of the district comprising 2,694,400 acres, the area under cultivation including current fallows is 1,920,048 acres (71·3%) and area under irrigation is 349,000 acres (13%). Rice, green gram and jute constitute the principal crops and their yield in this district is the highest for the State. The quantity of rice produced annually is 334,894 tons which is mostly consumed within the district leaving a small surplus in good harvest years for export outside.

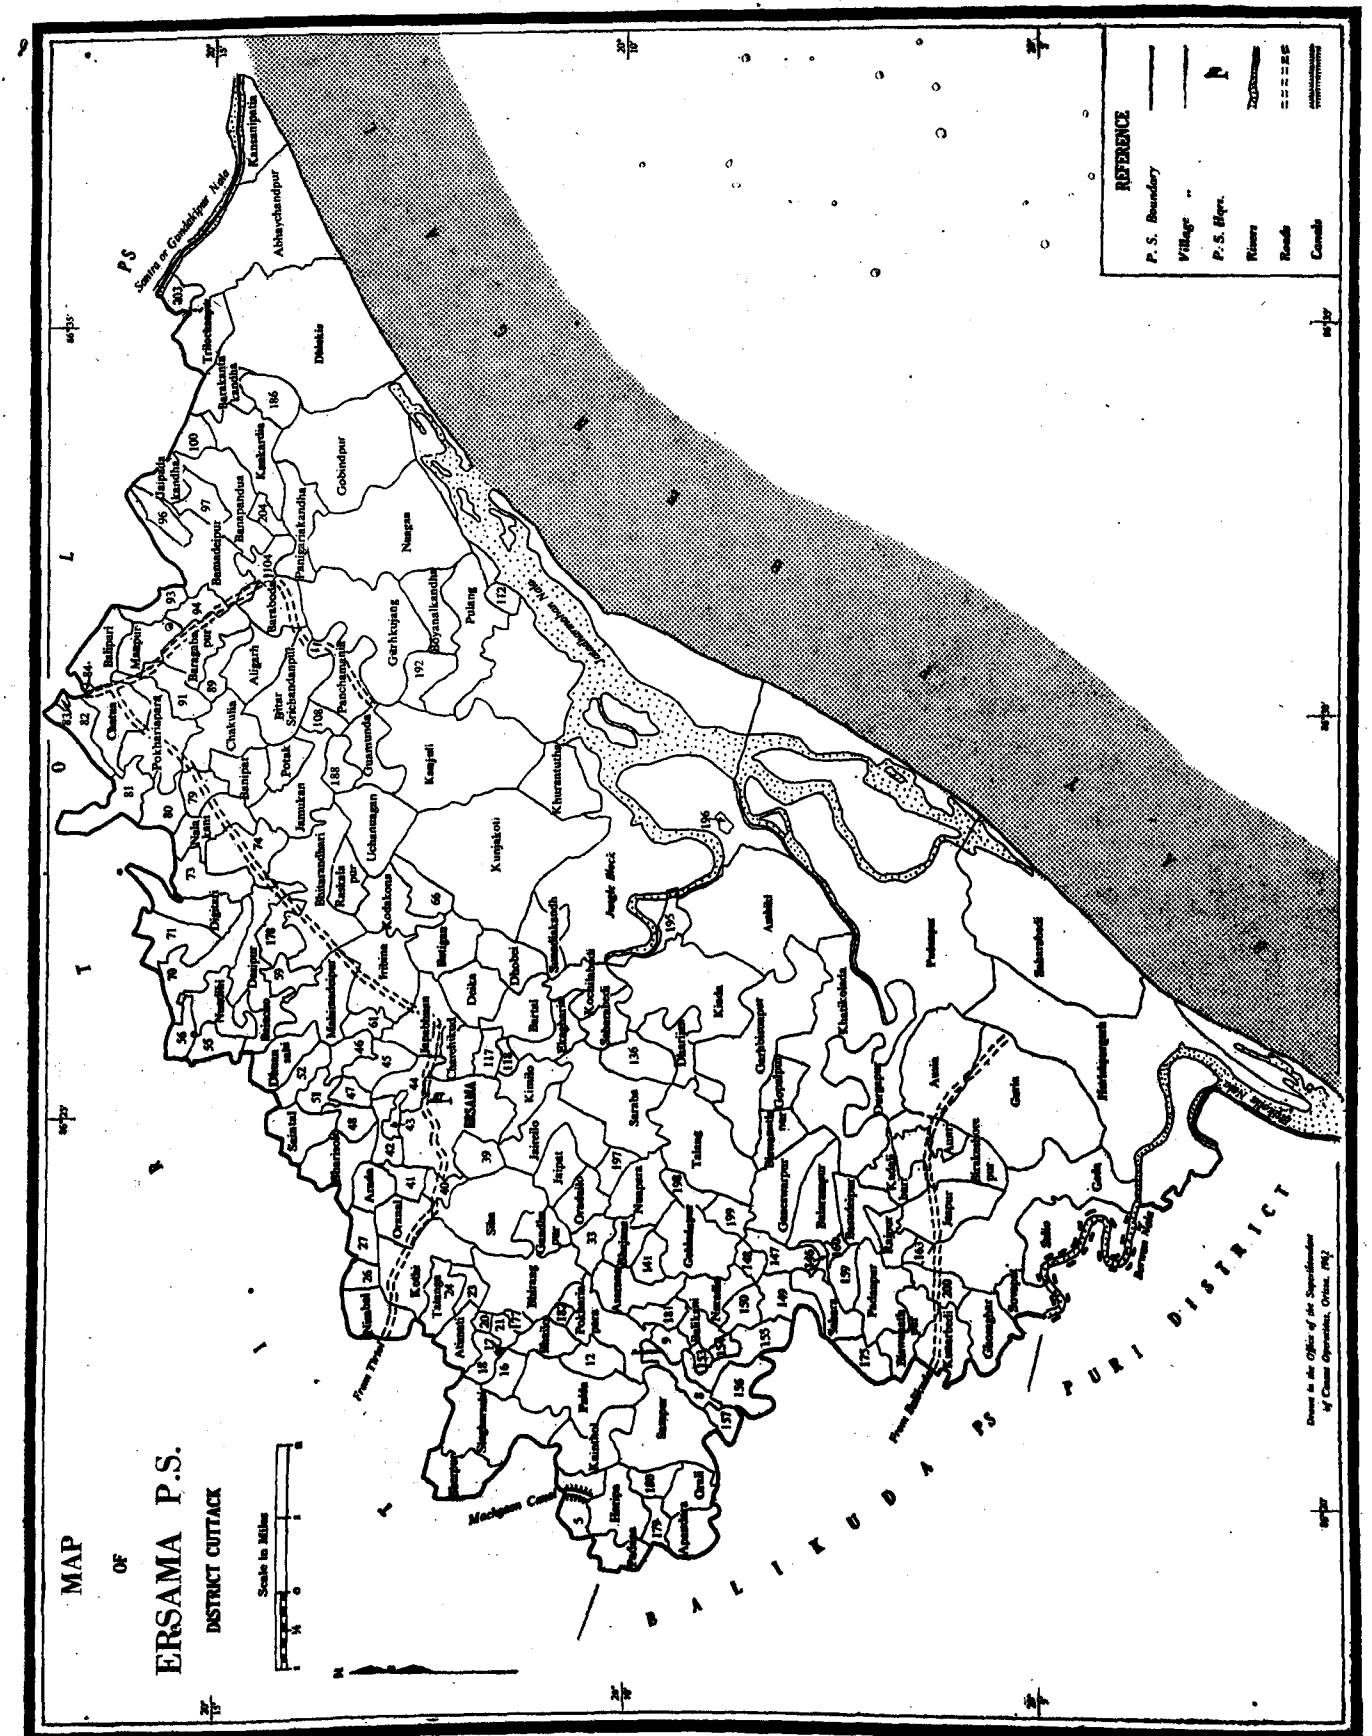

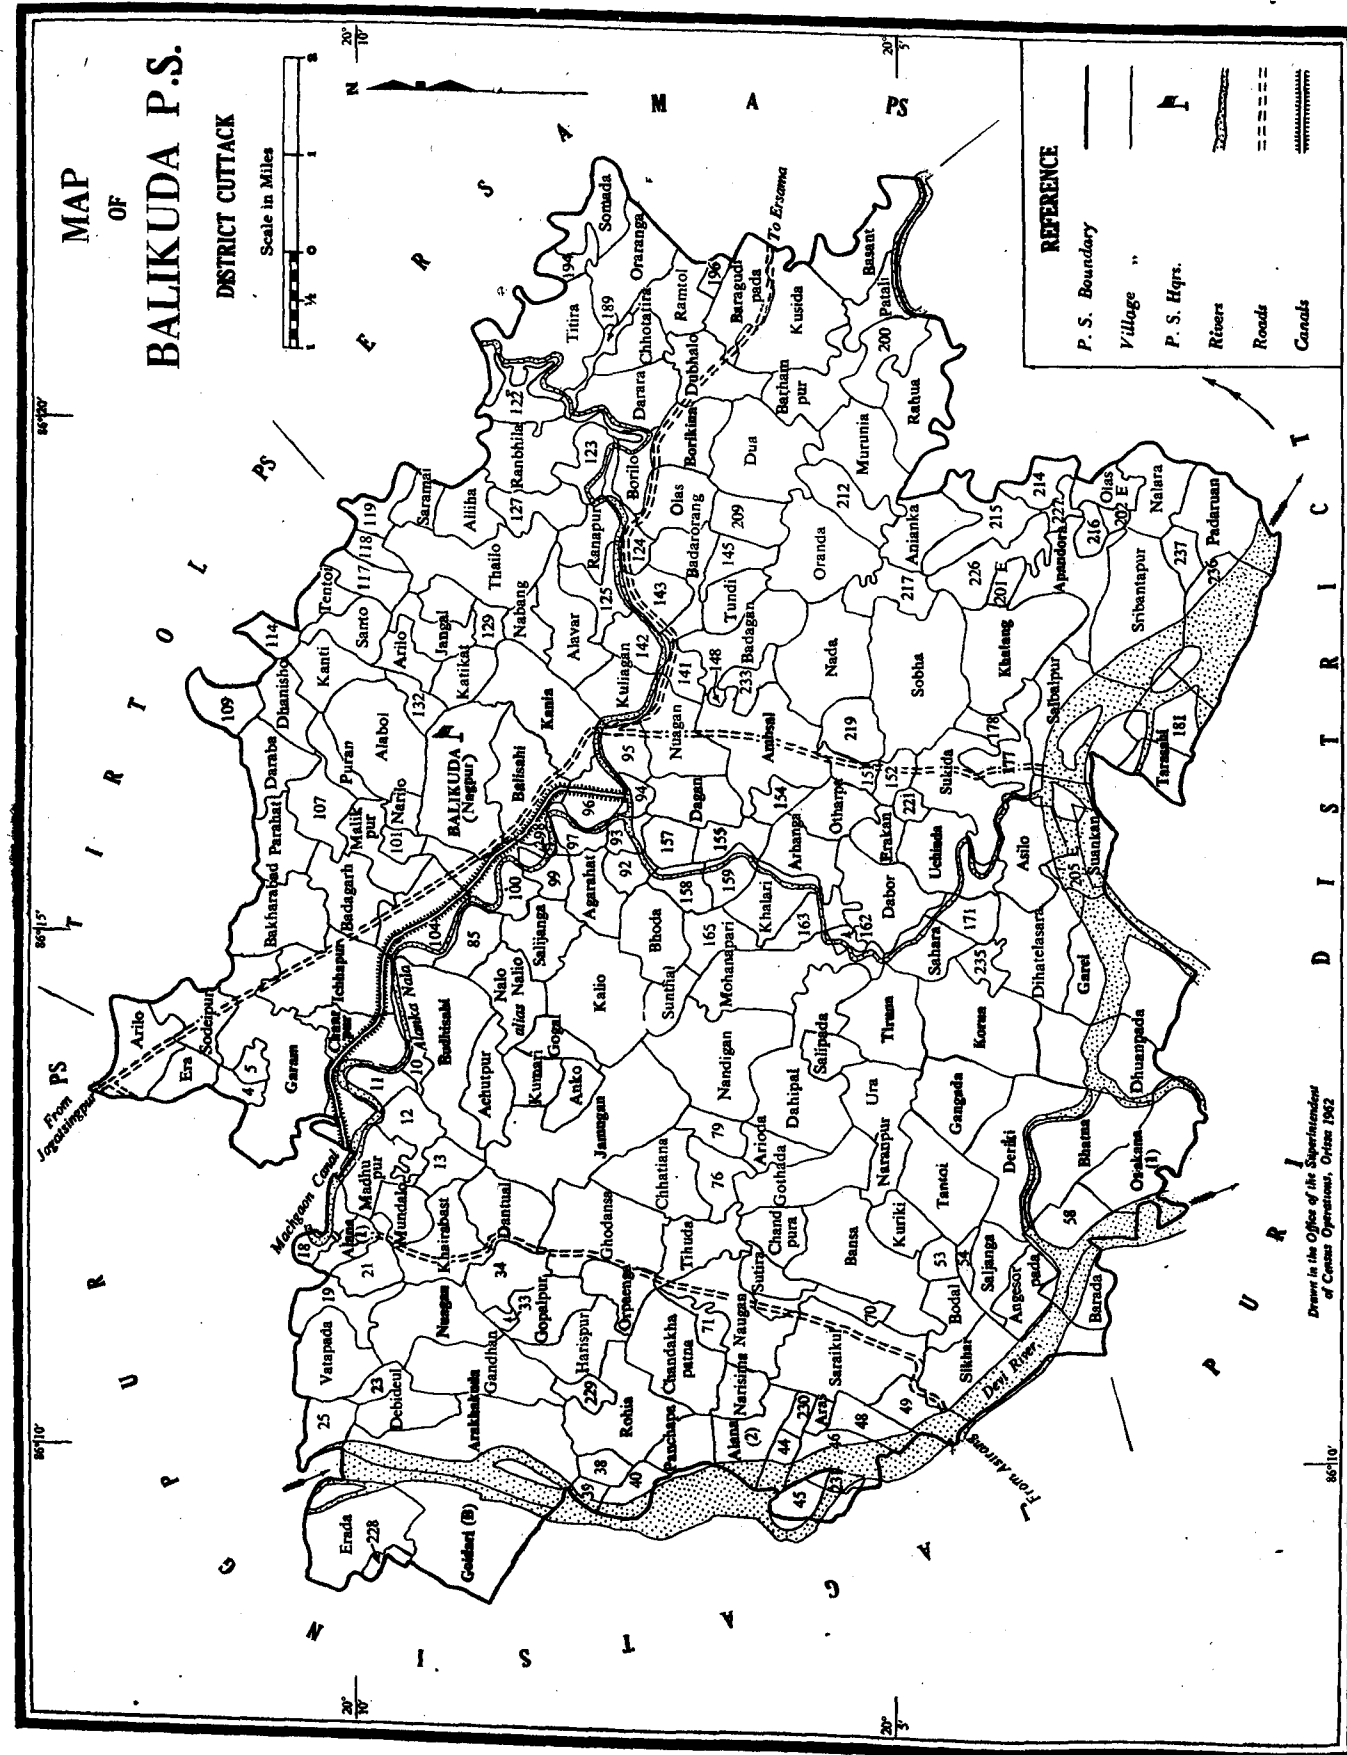

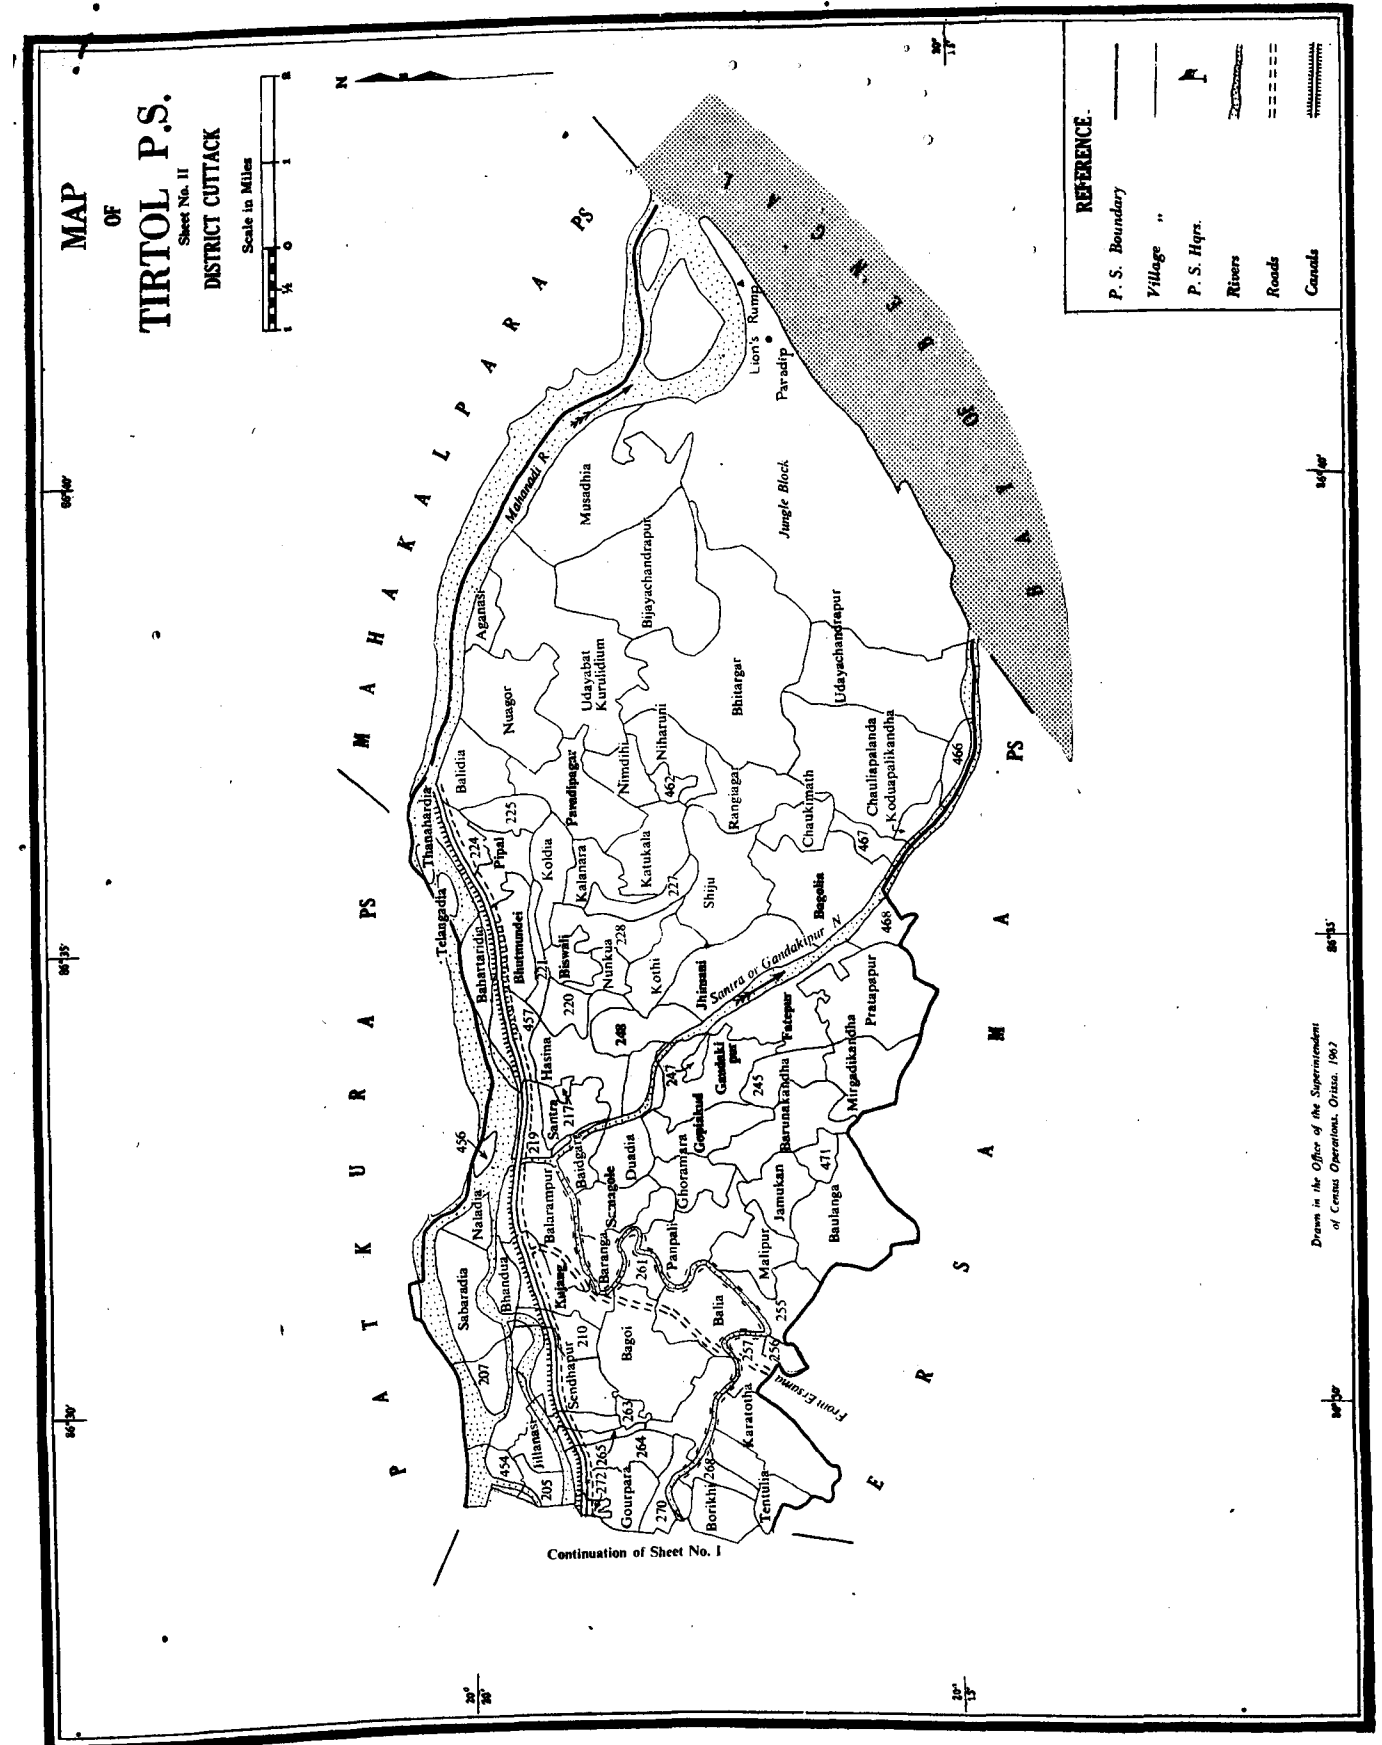

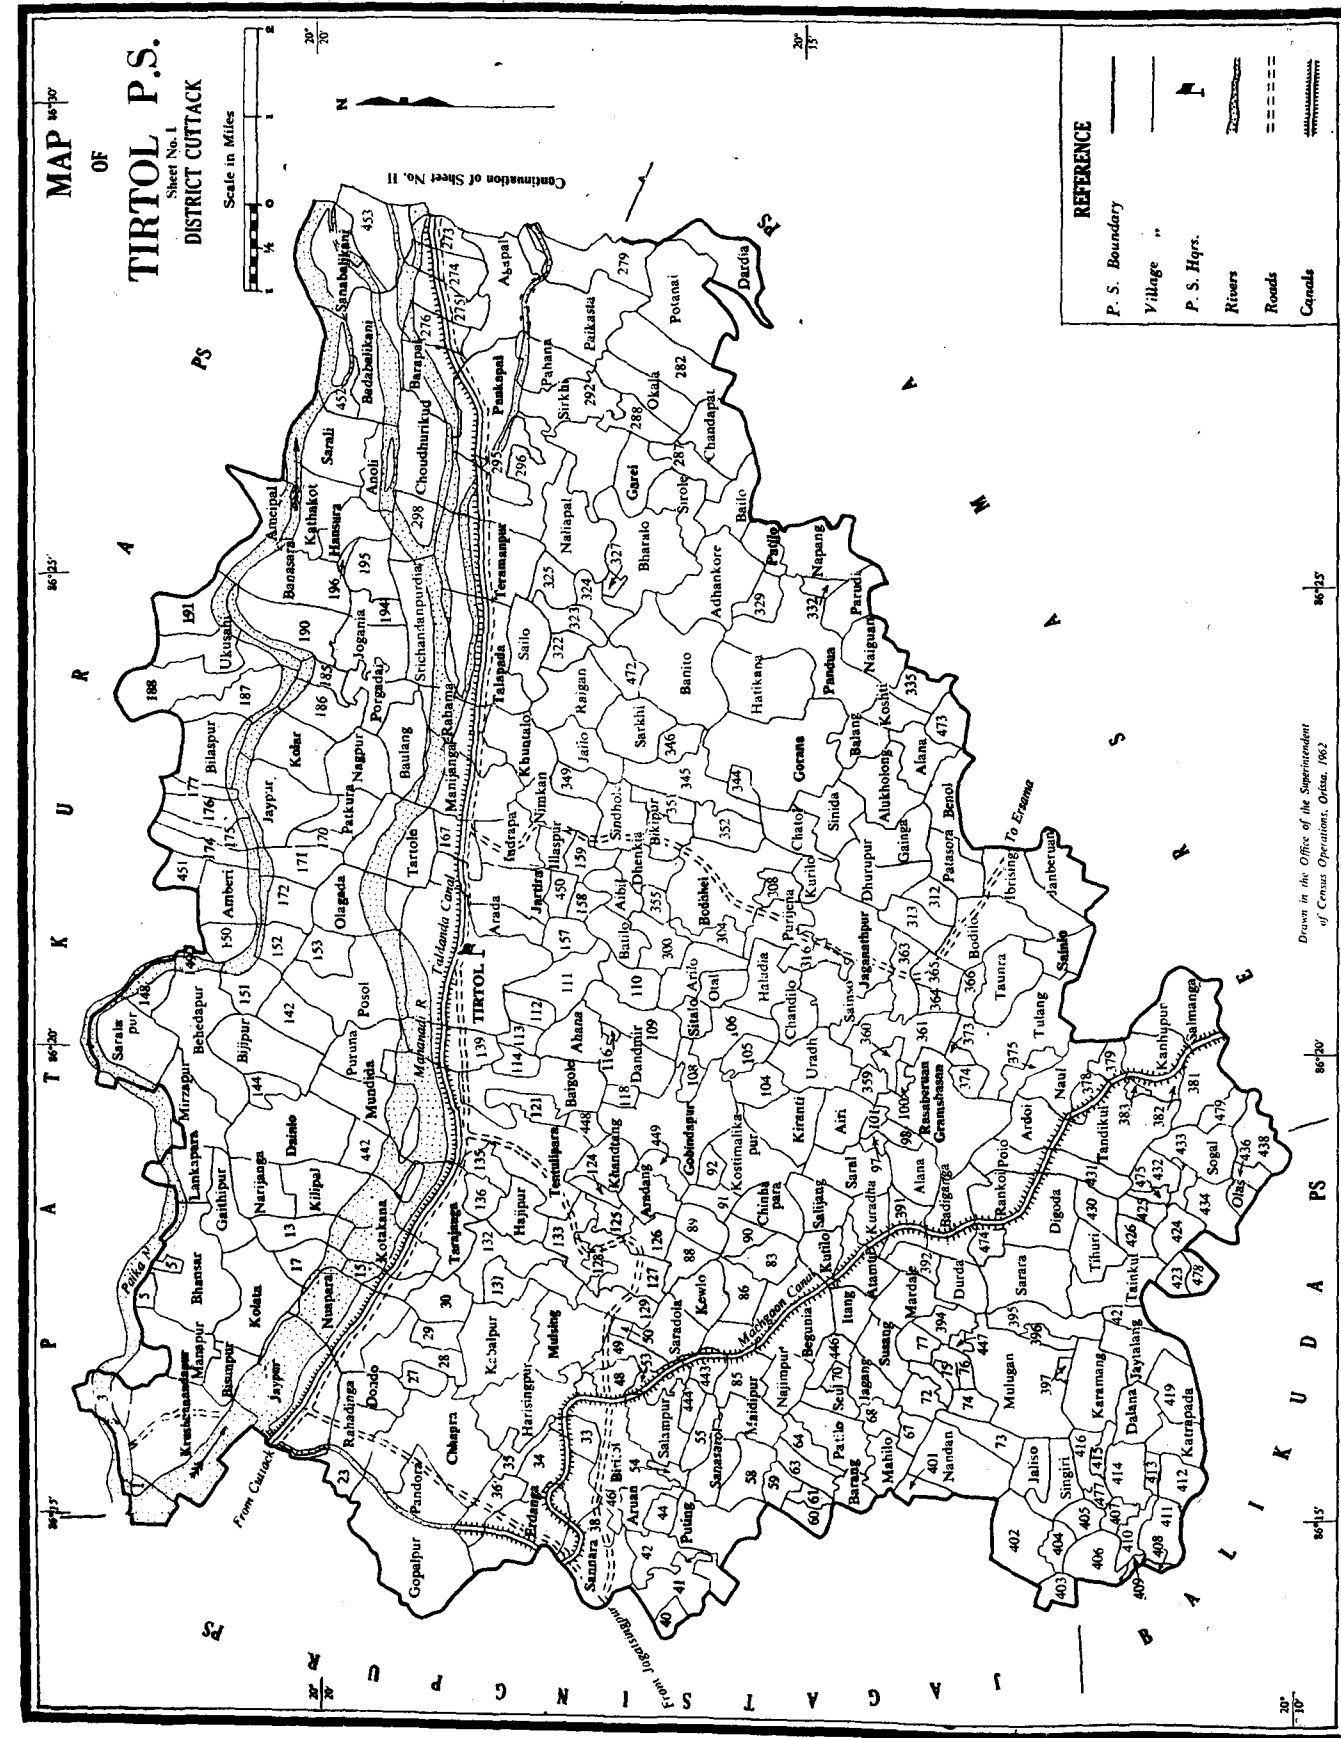

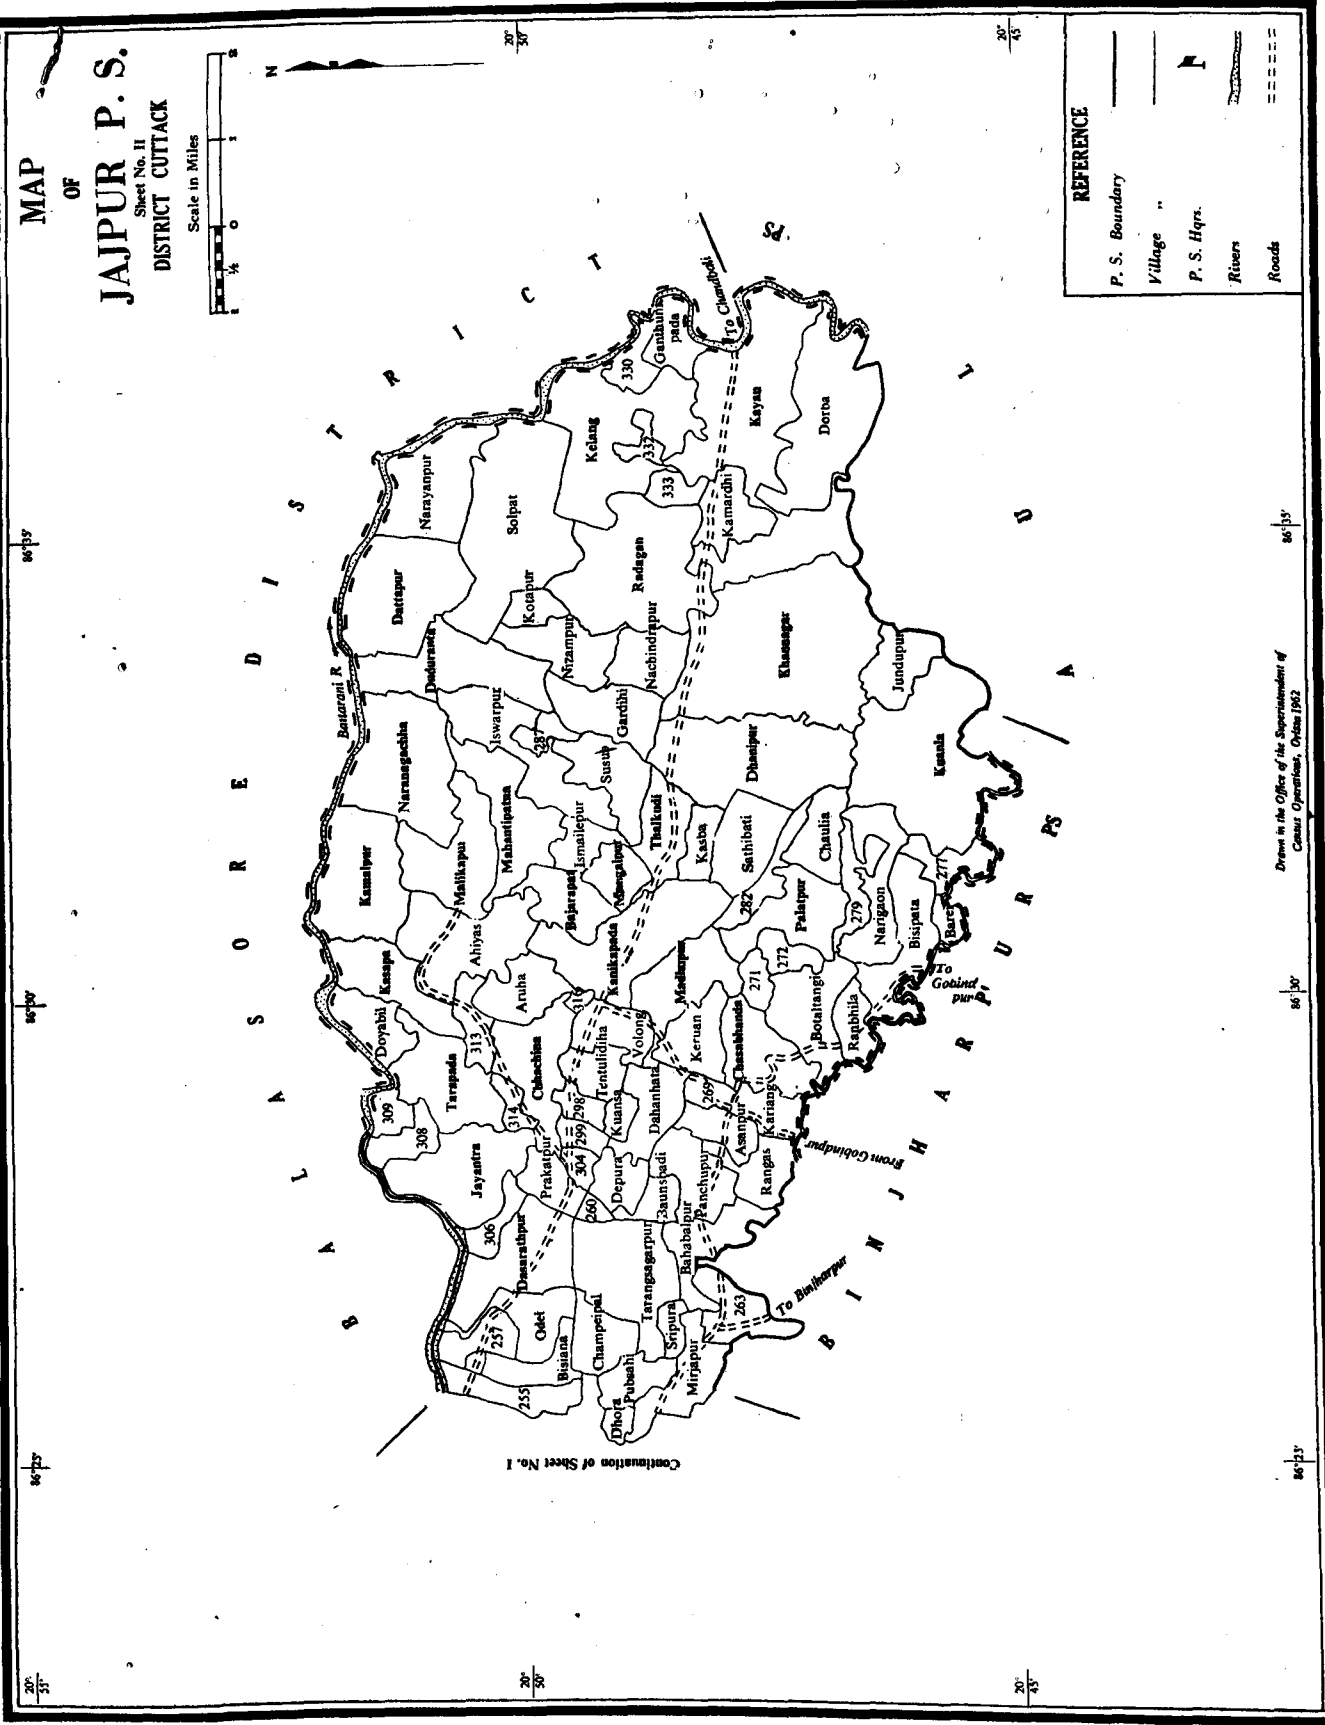

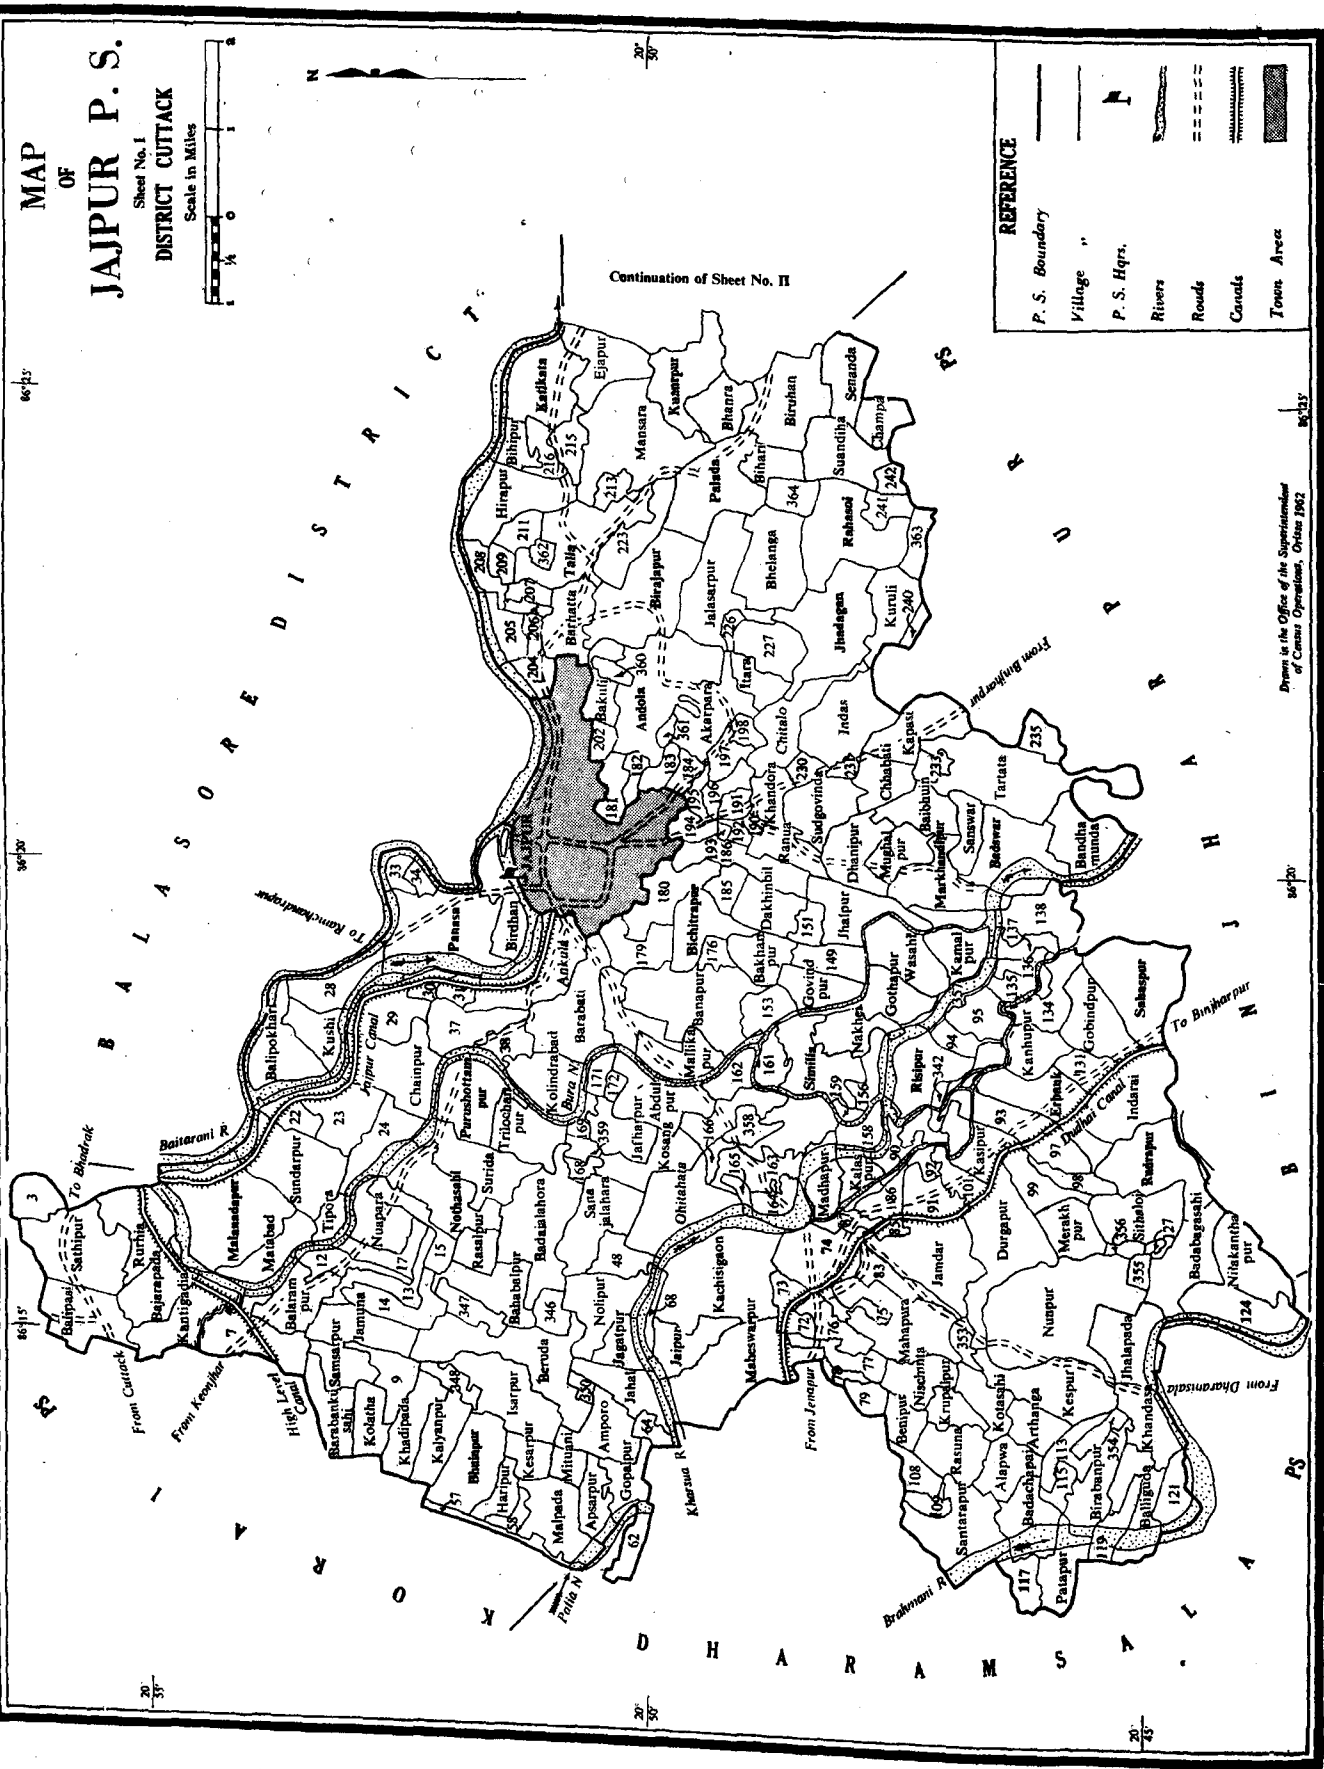

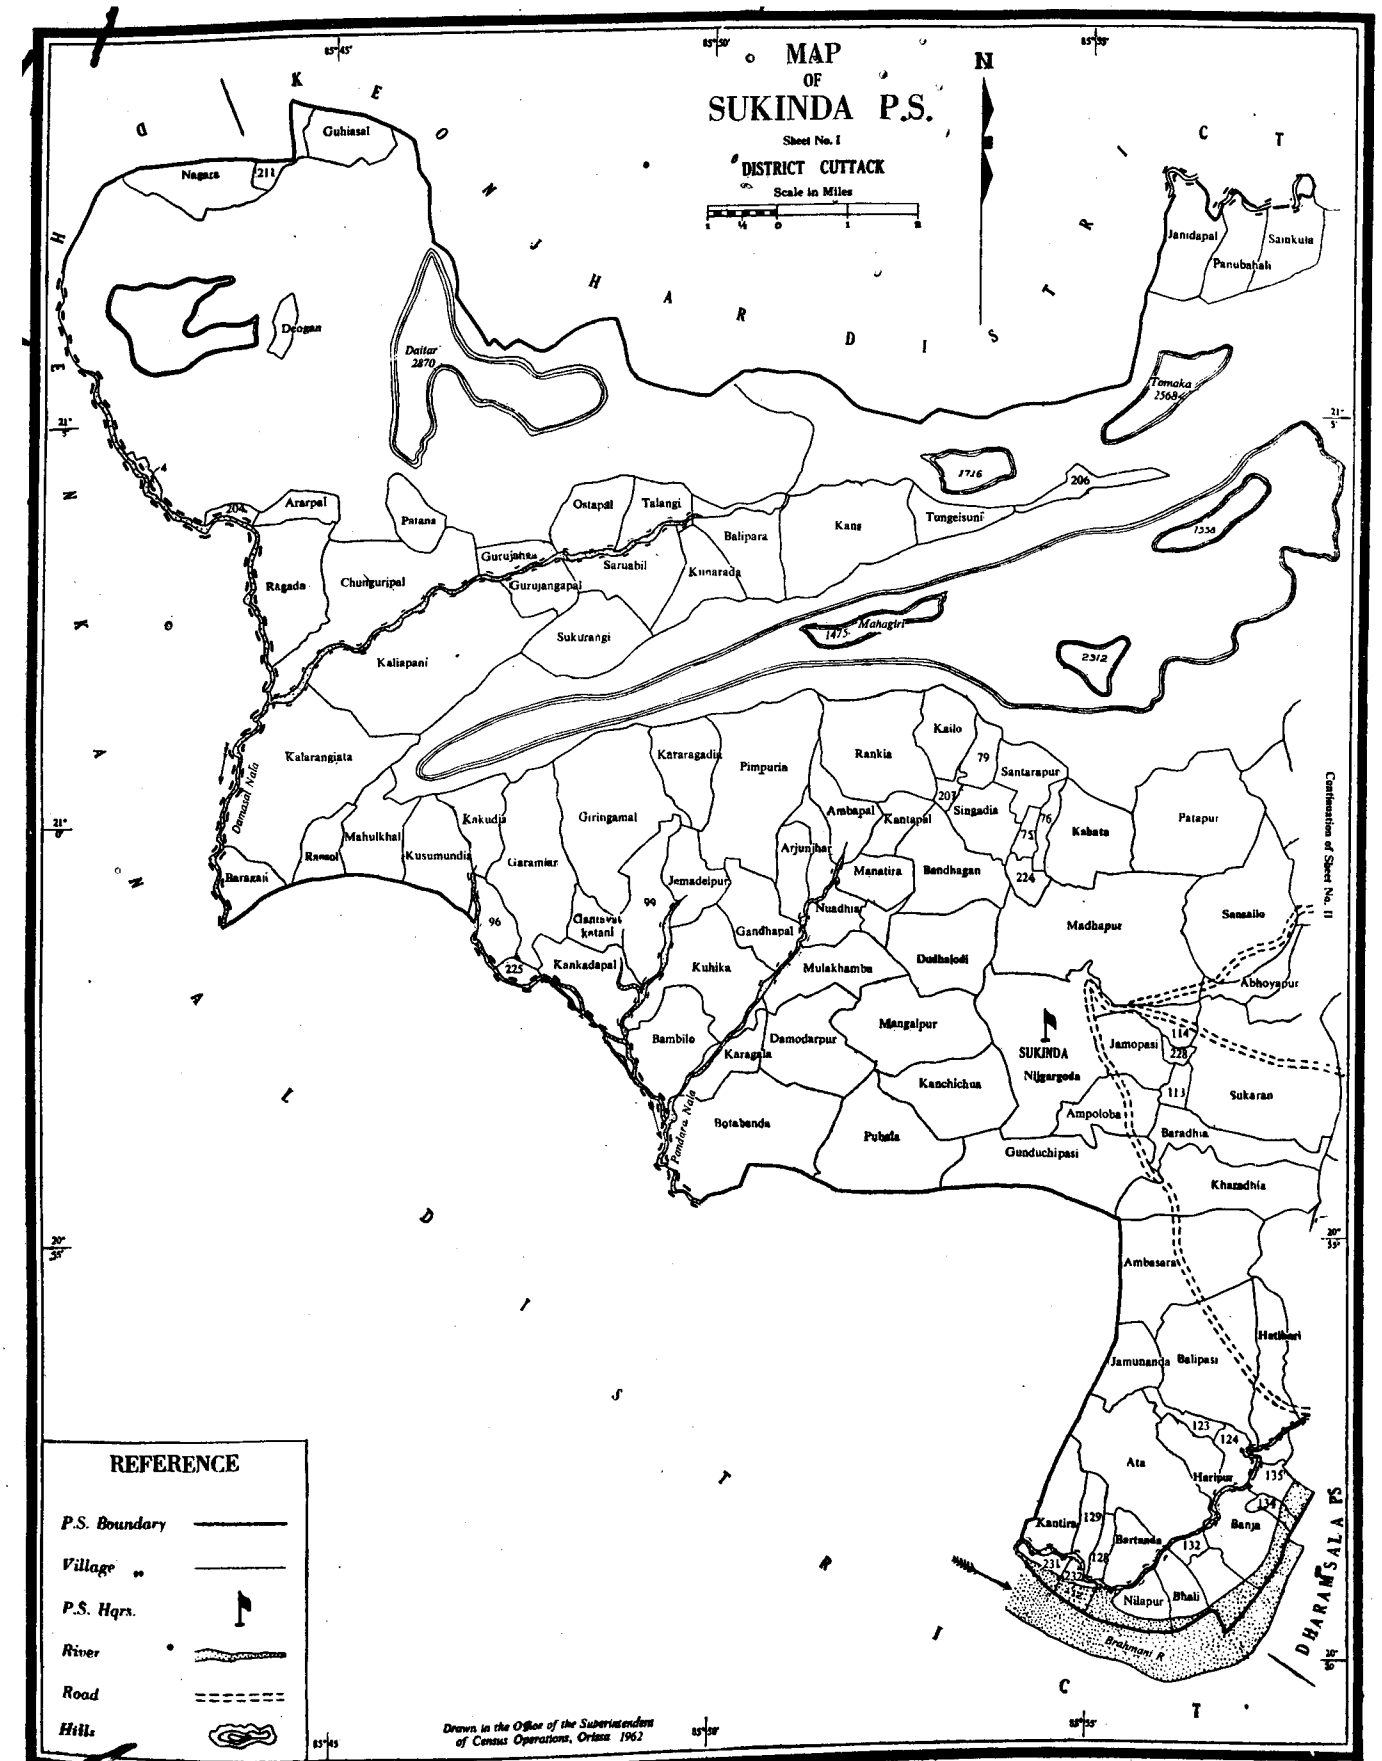

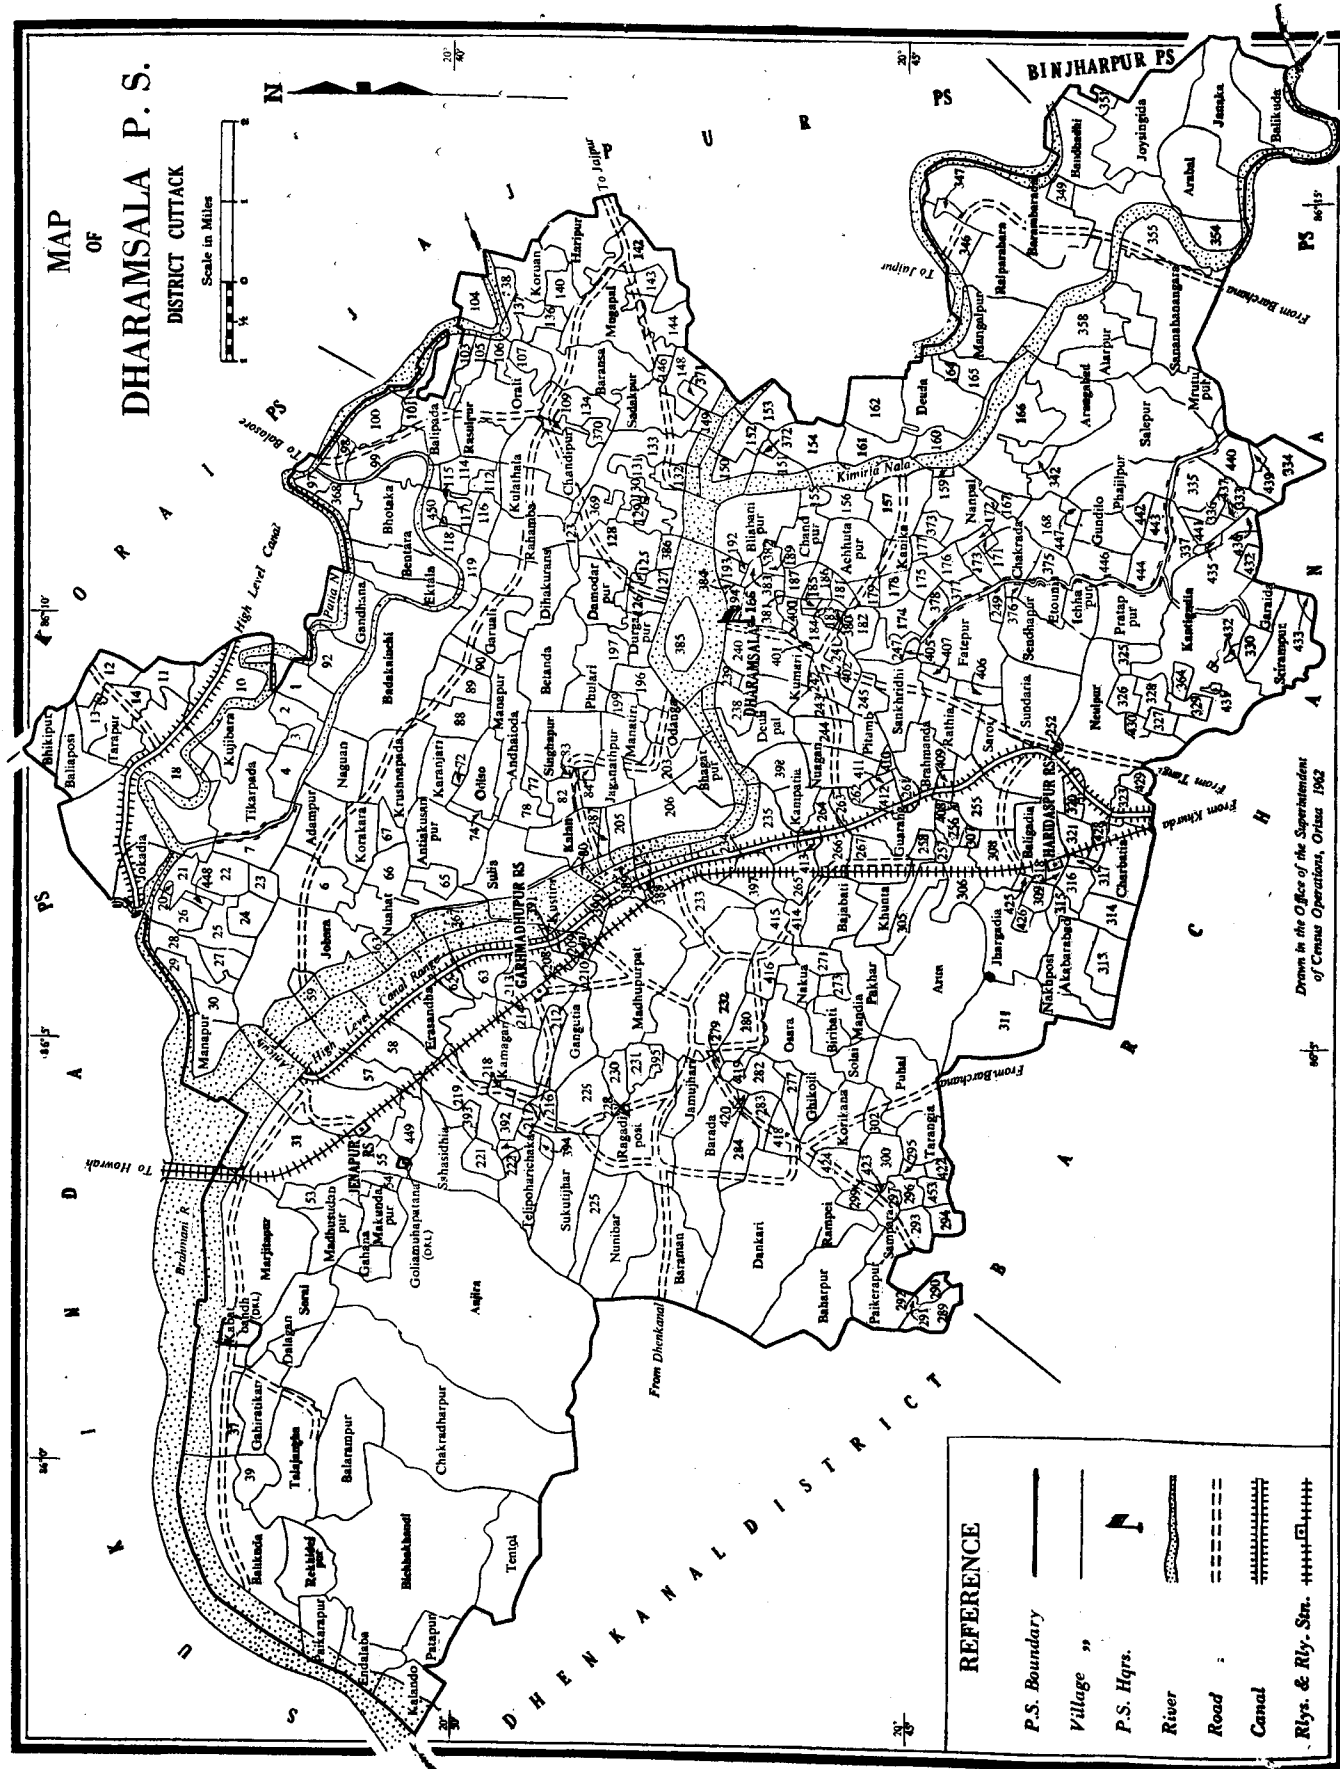

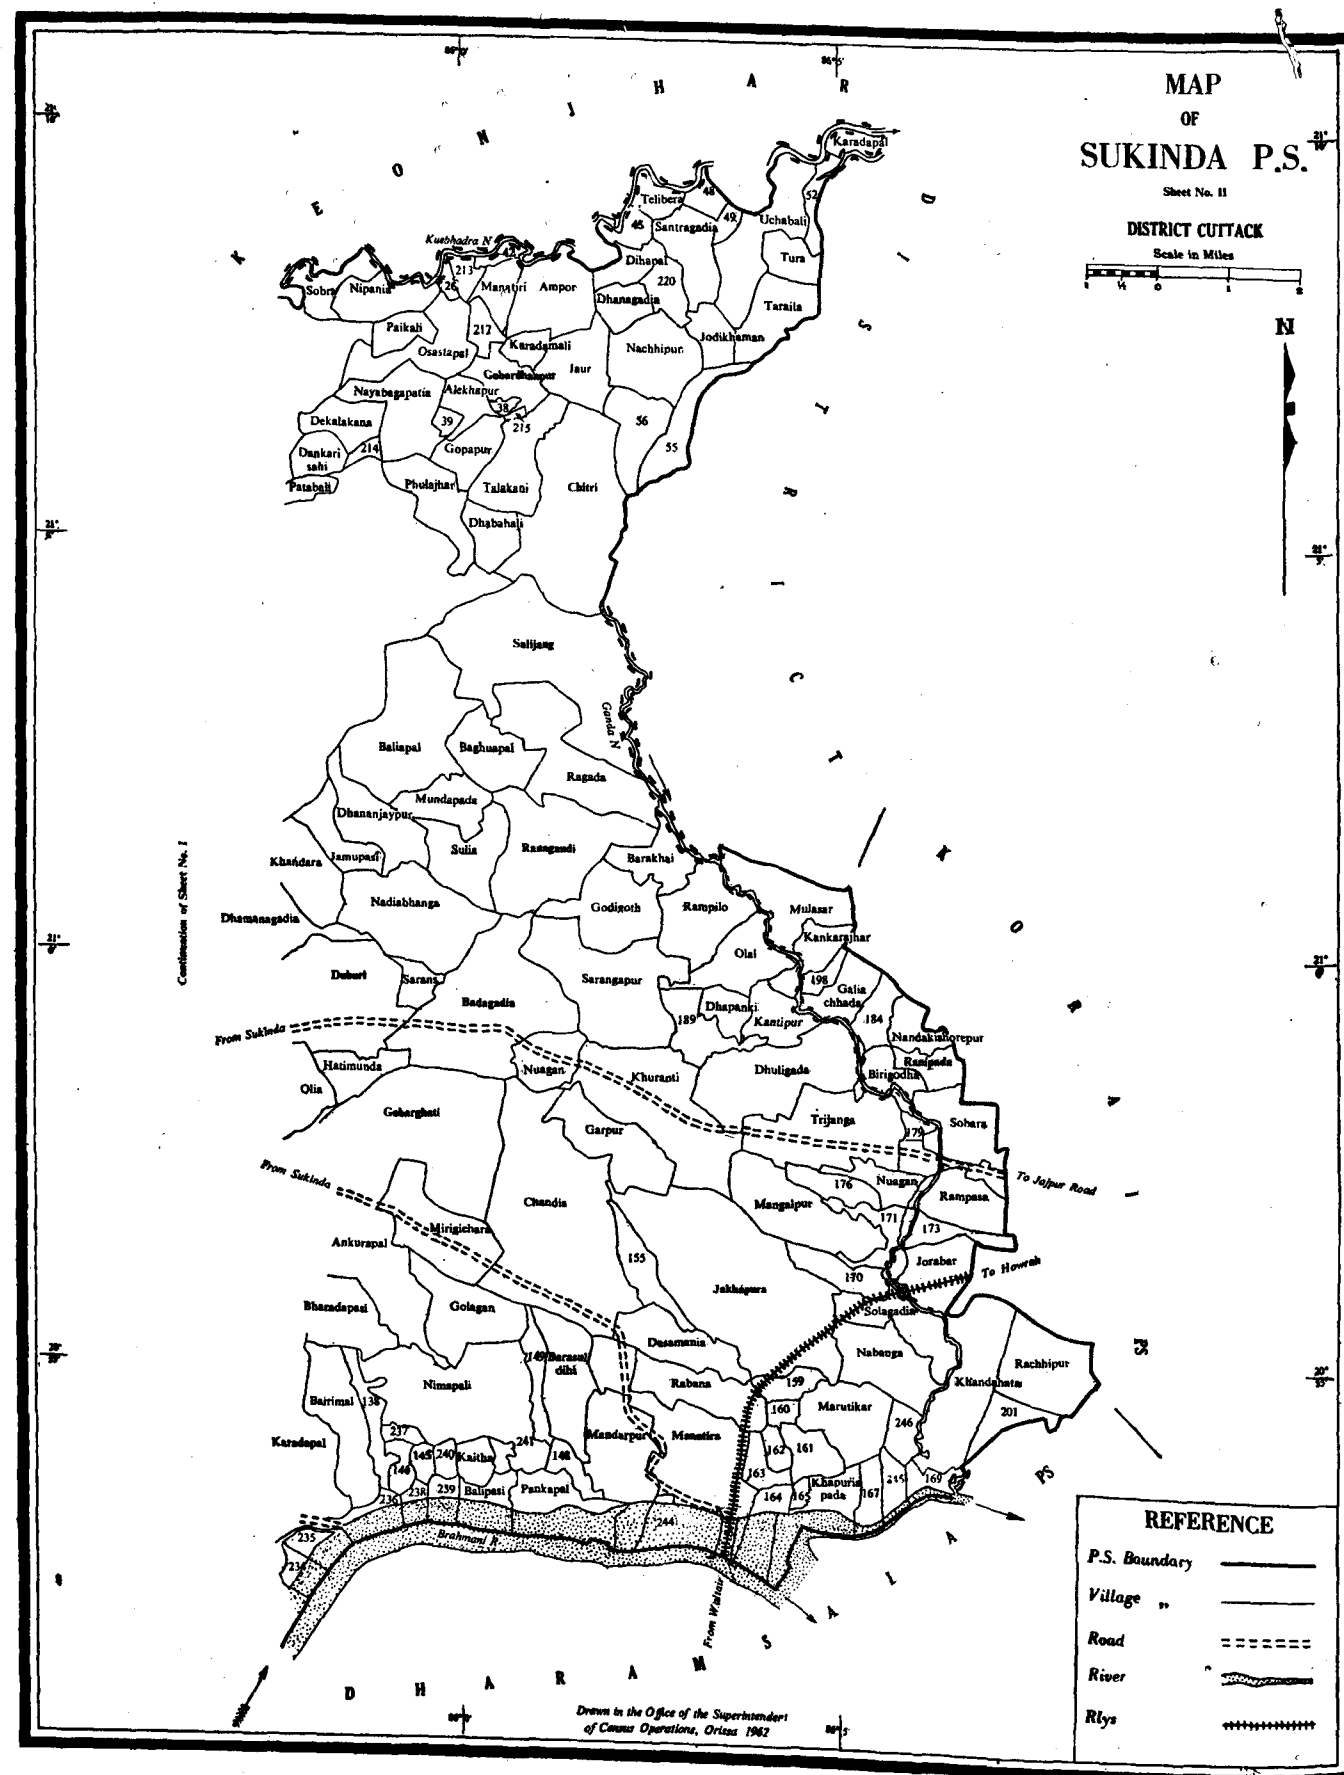

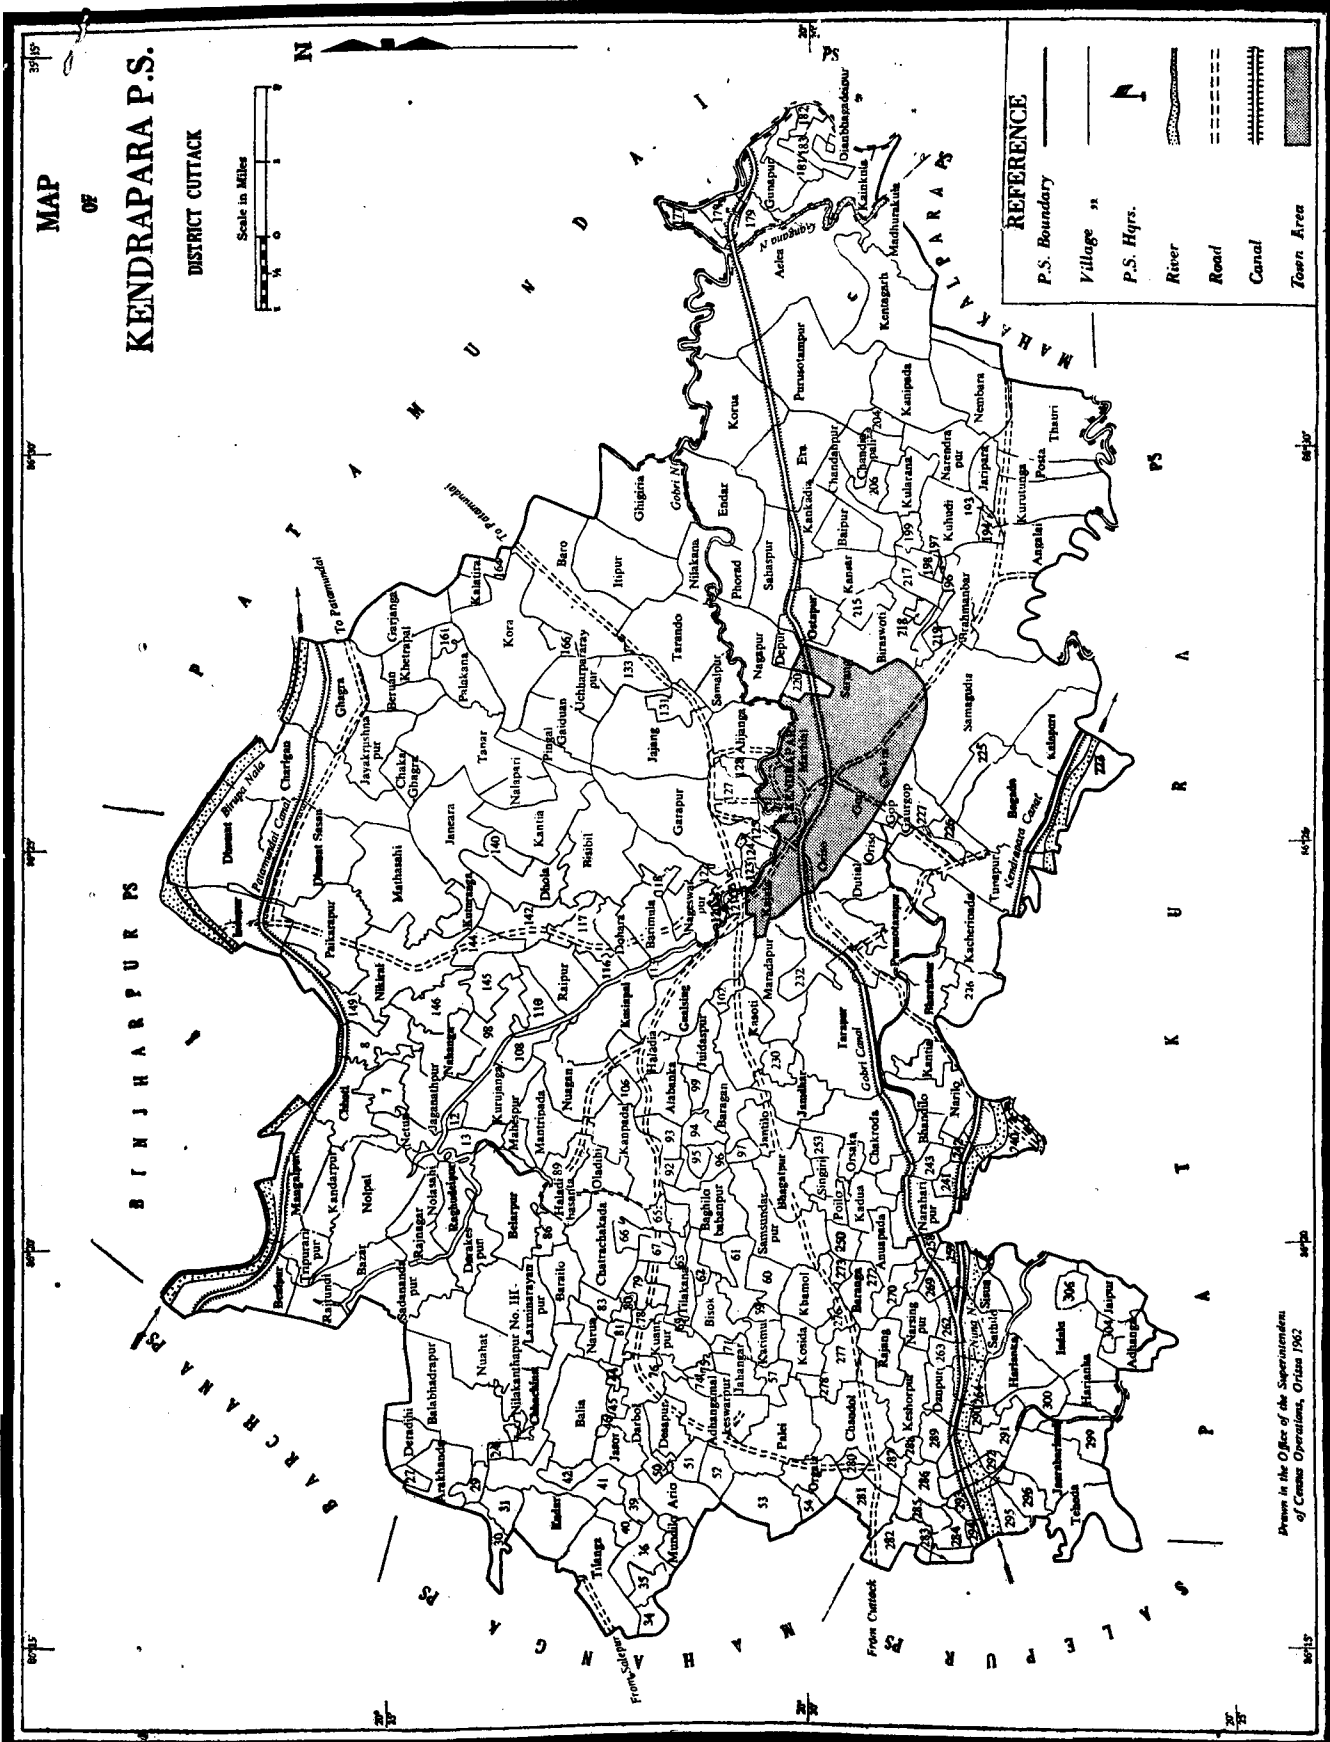

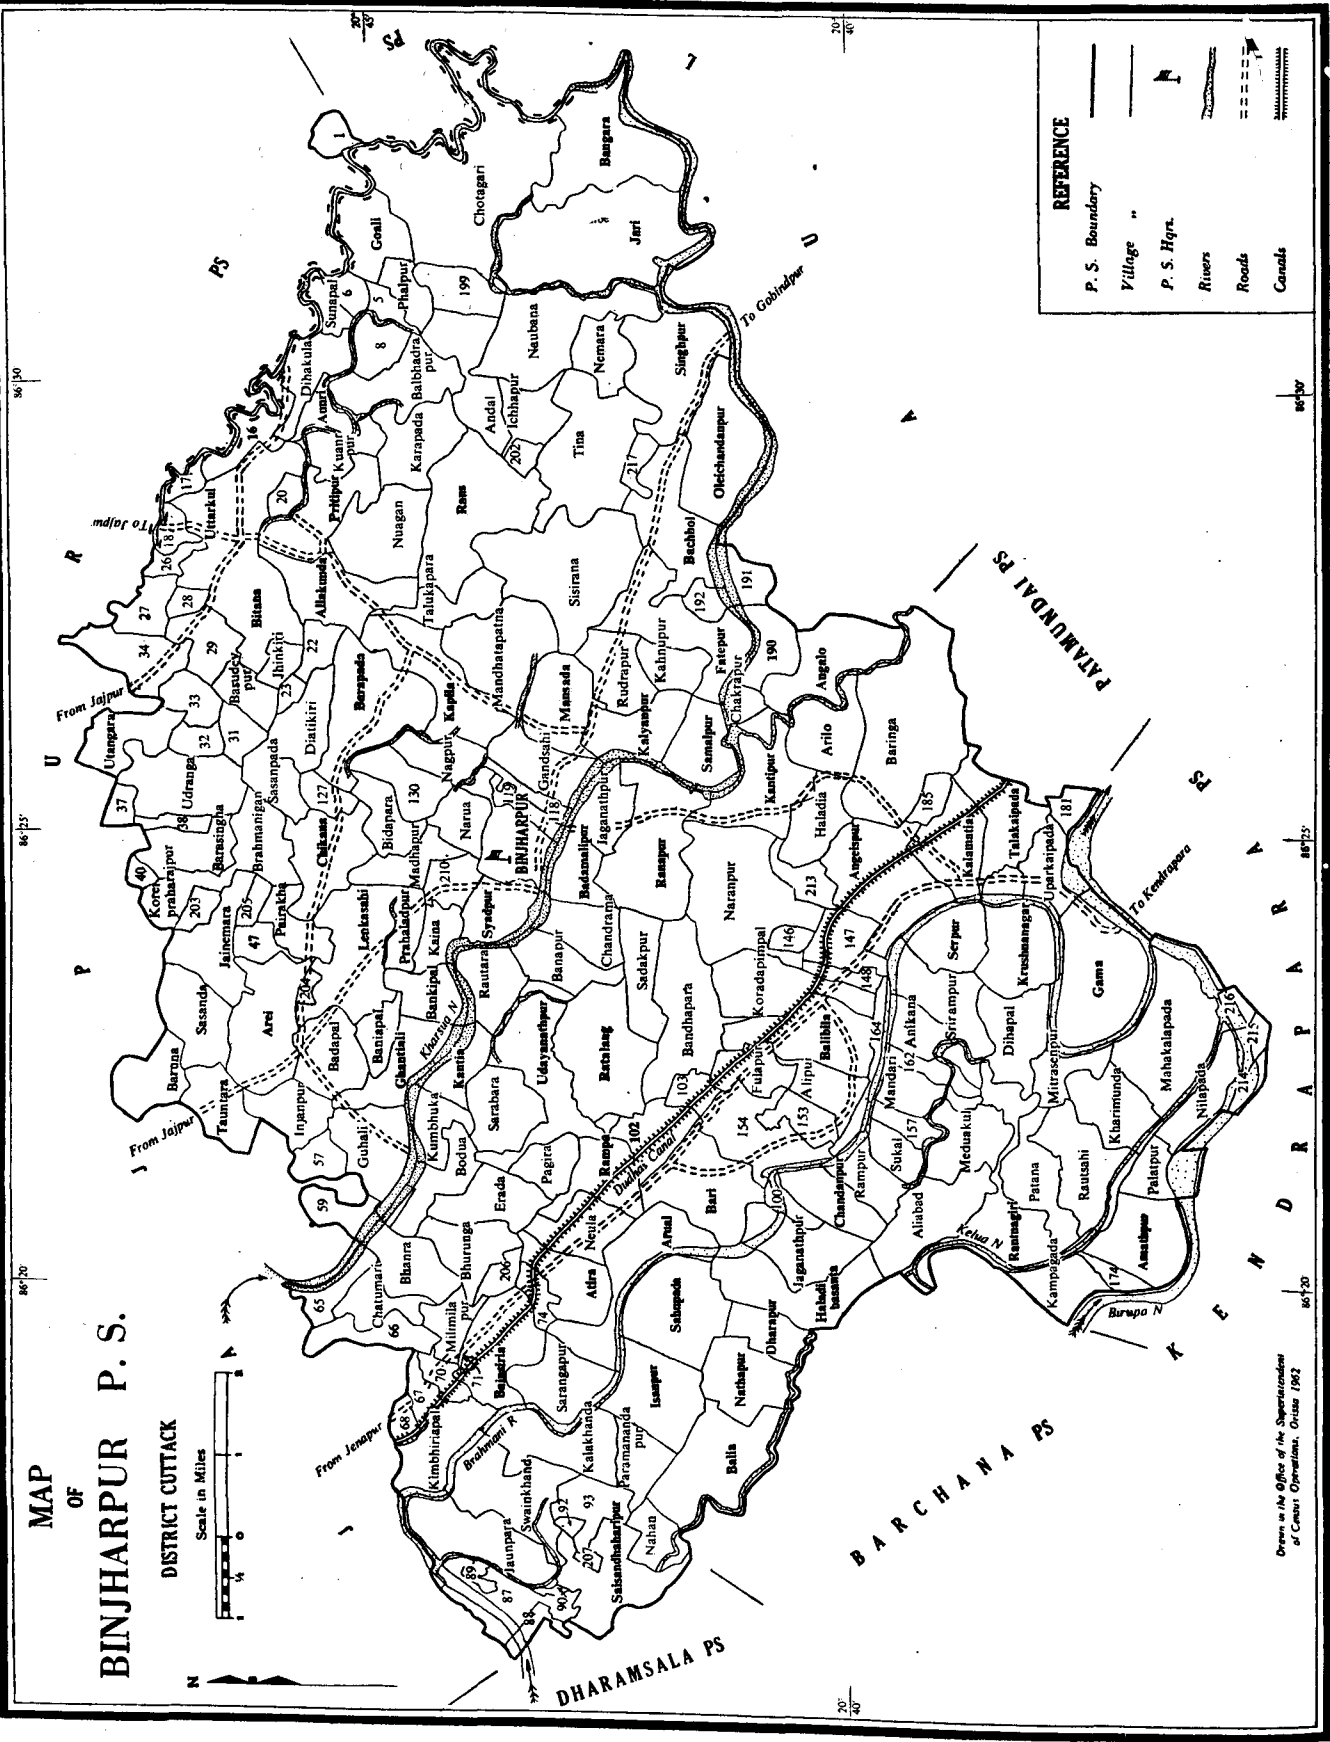

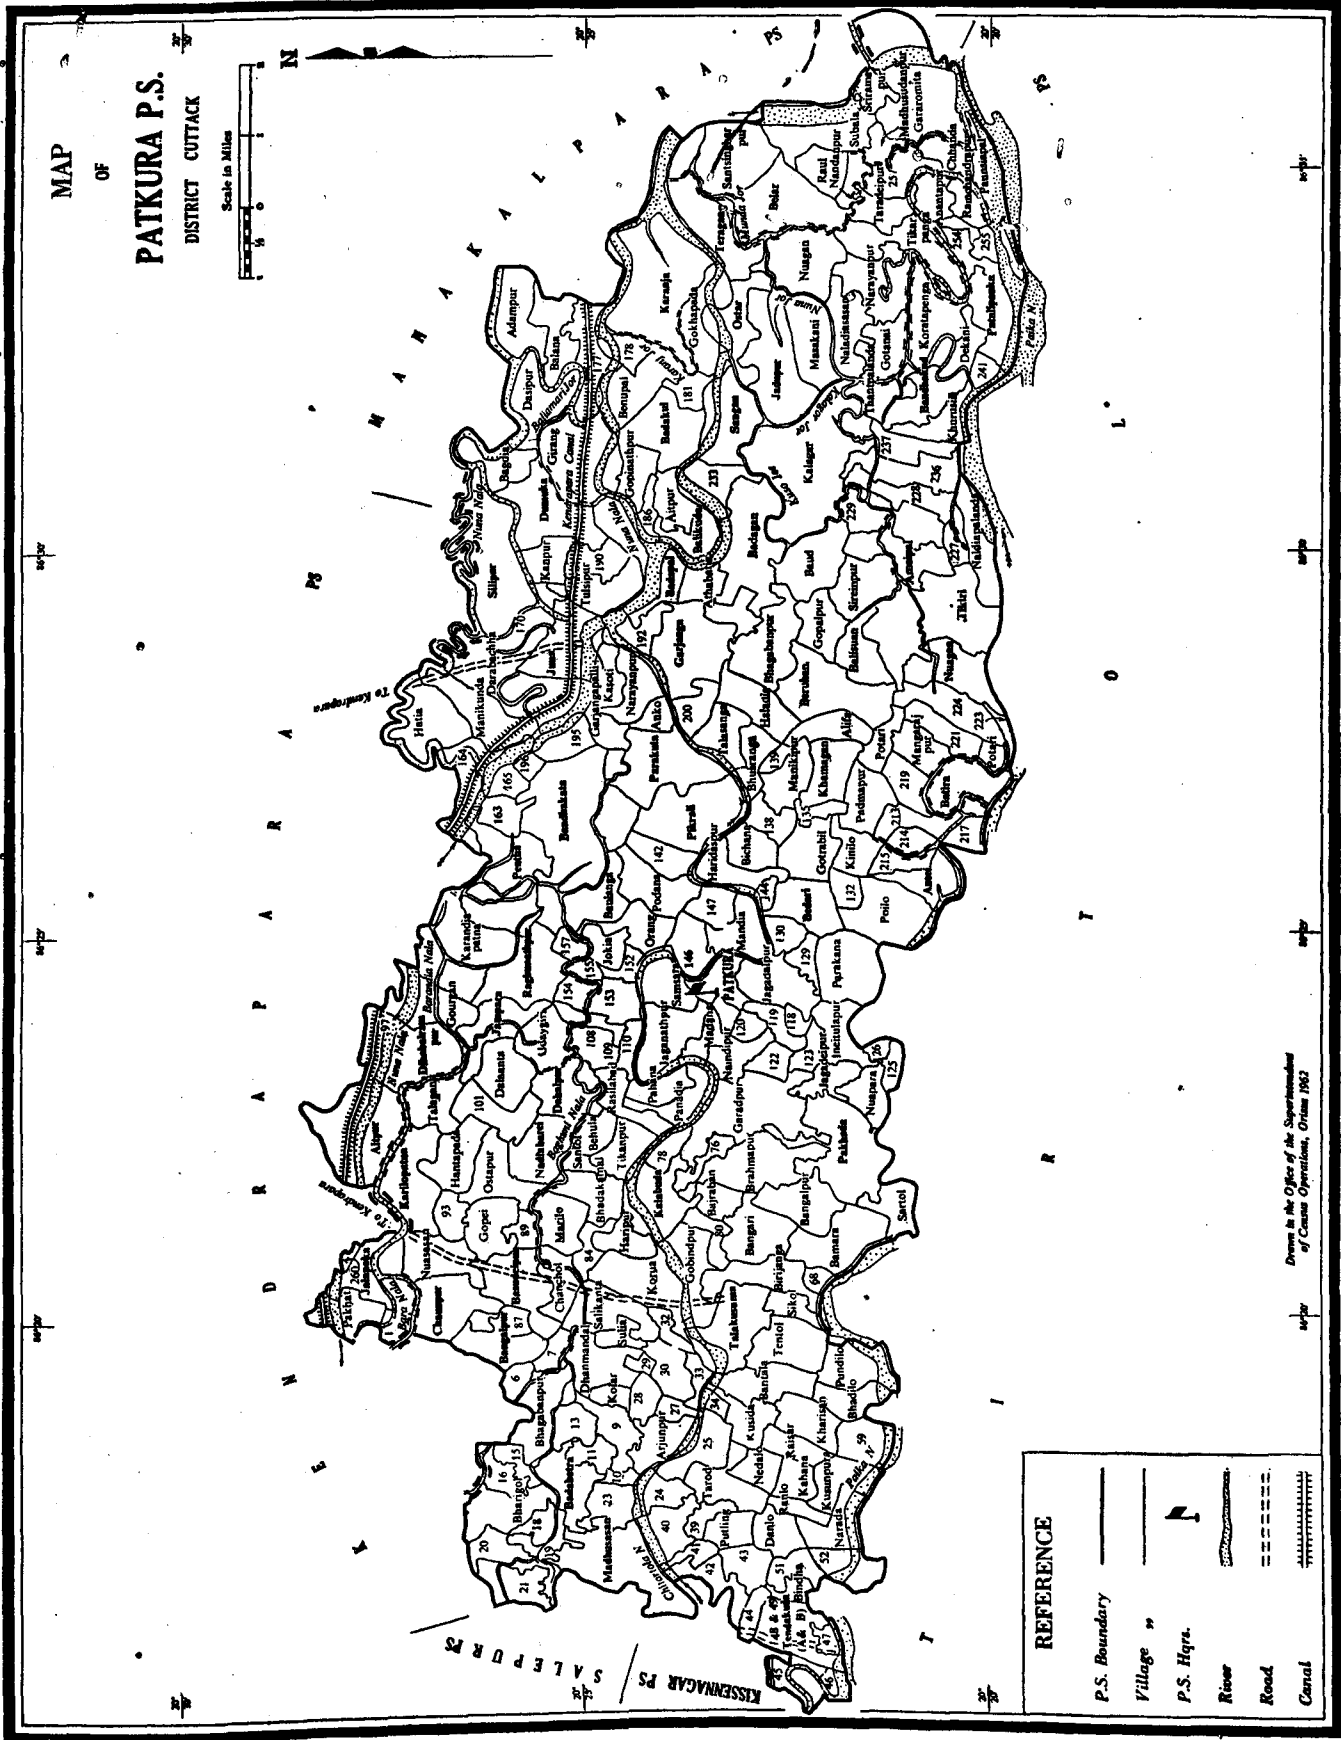

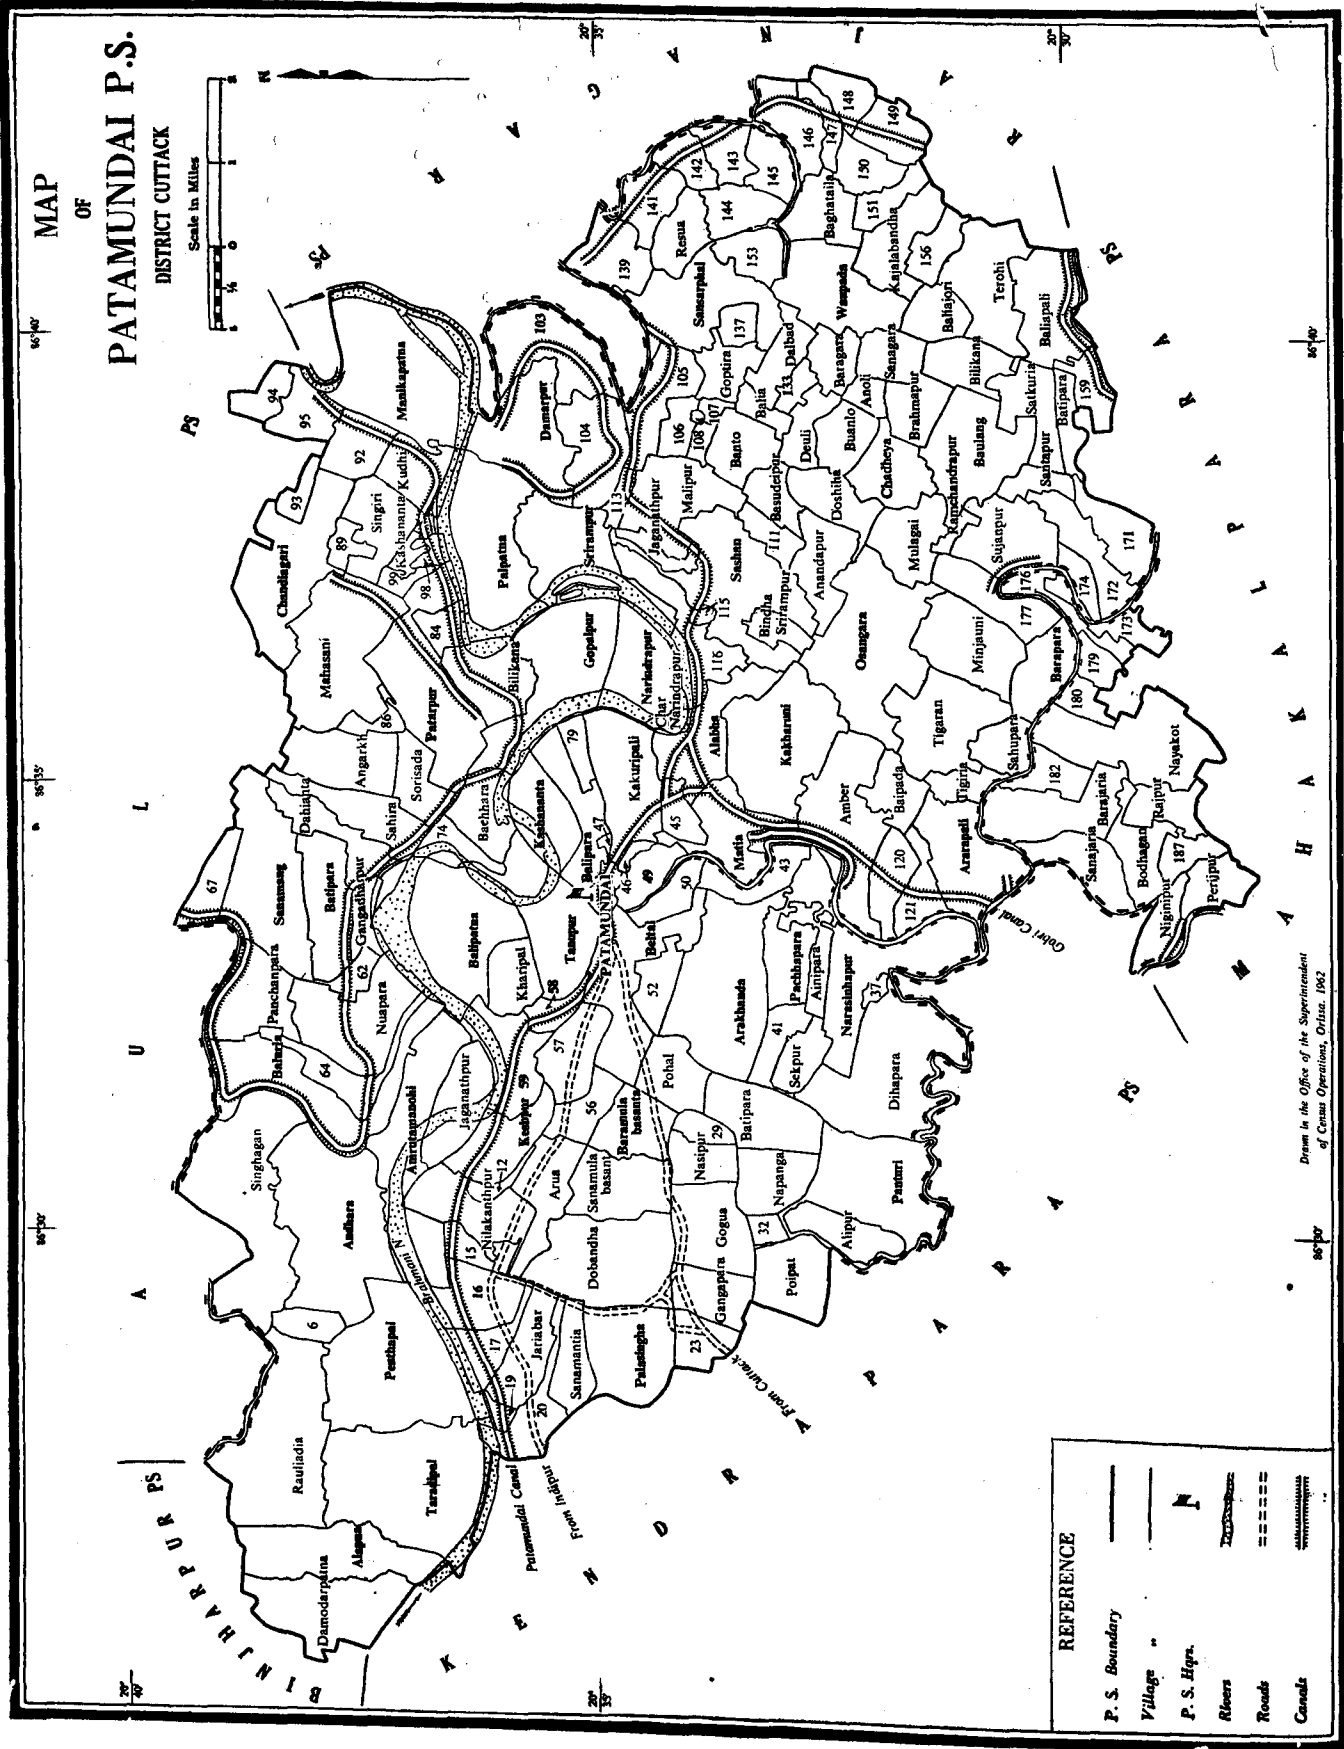

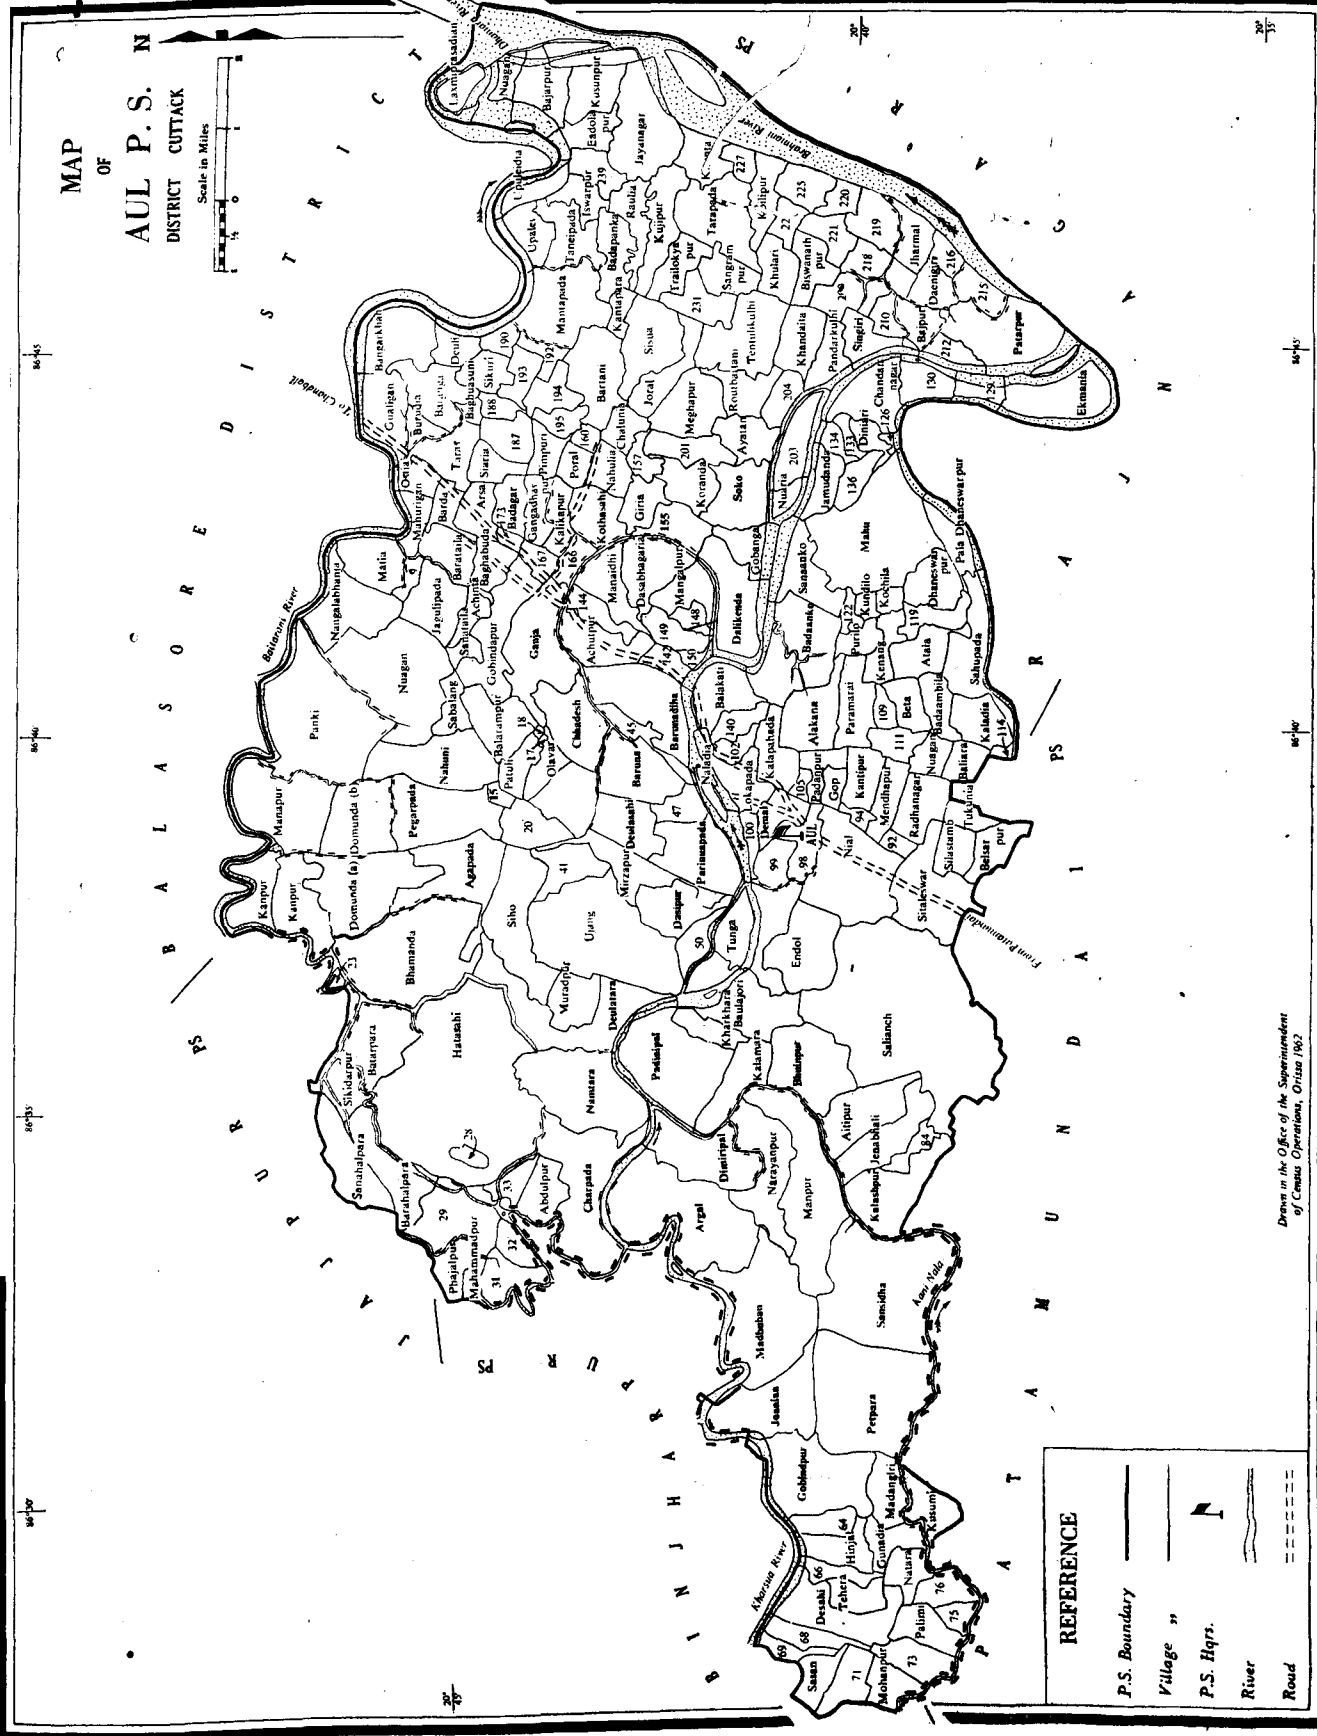

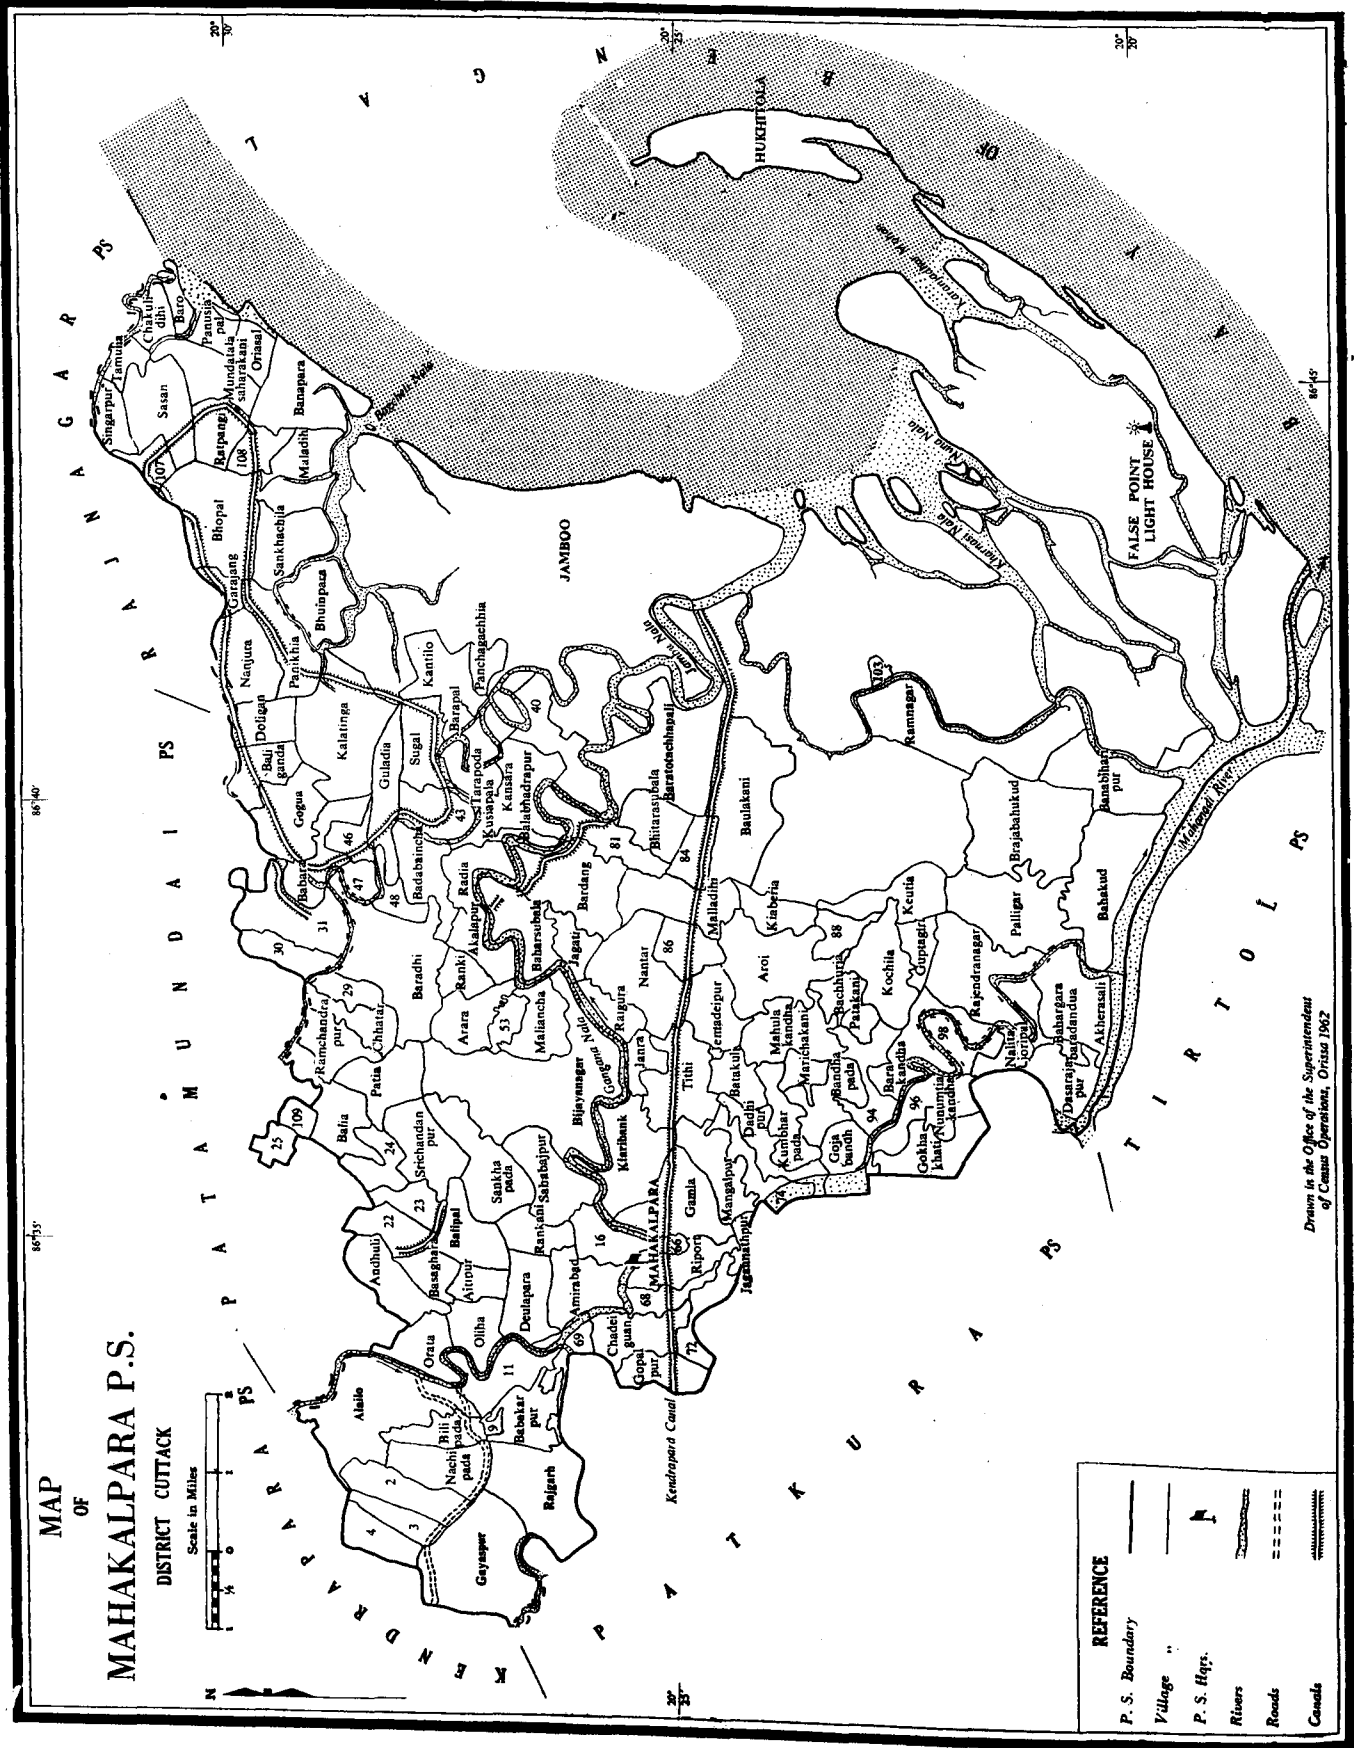

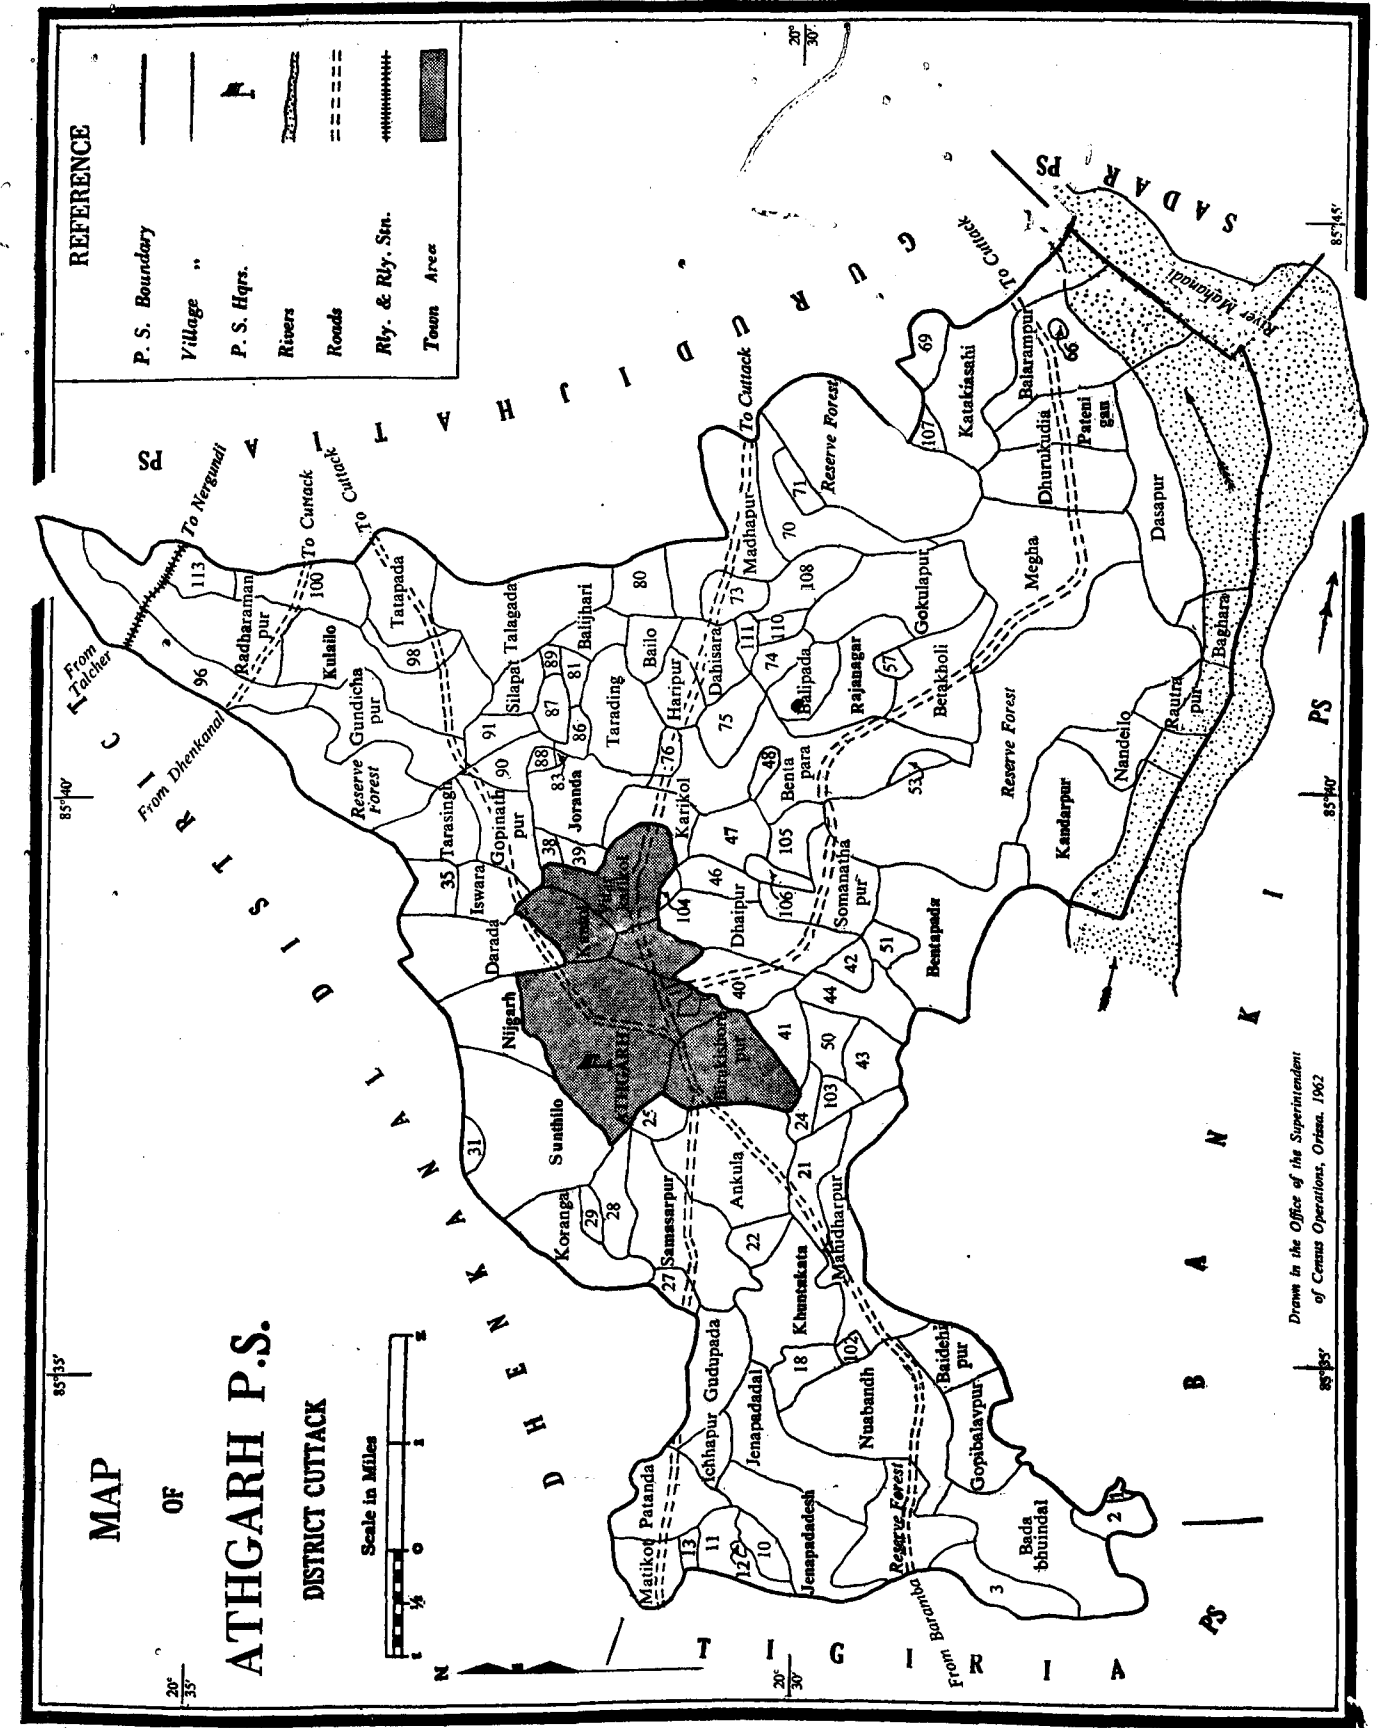

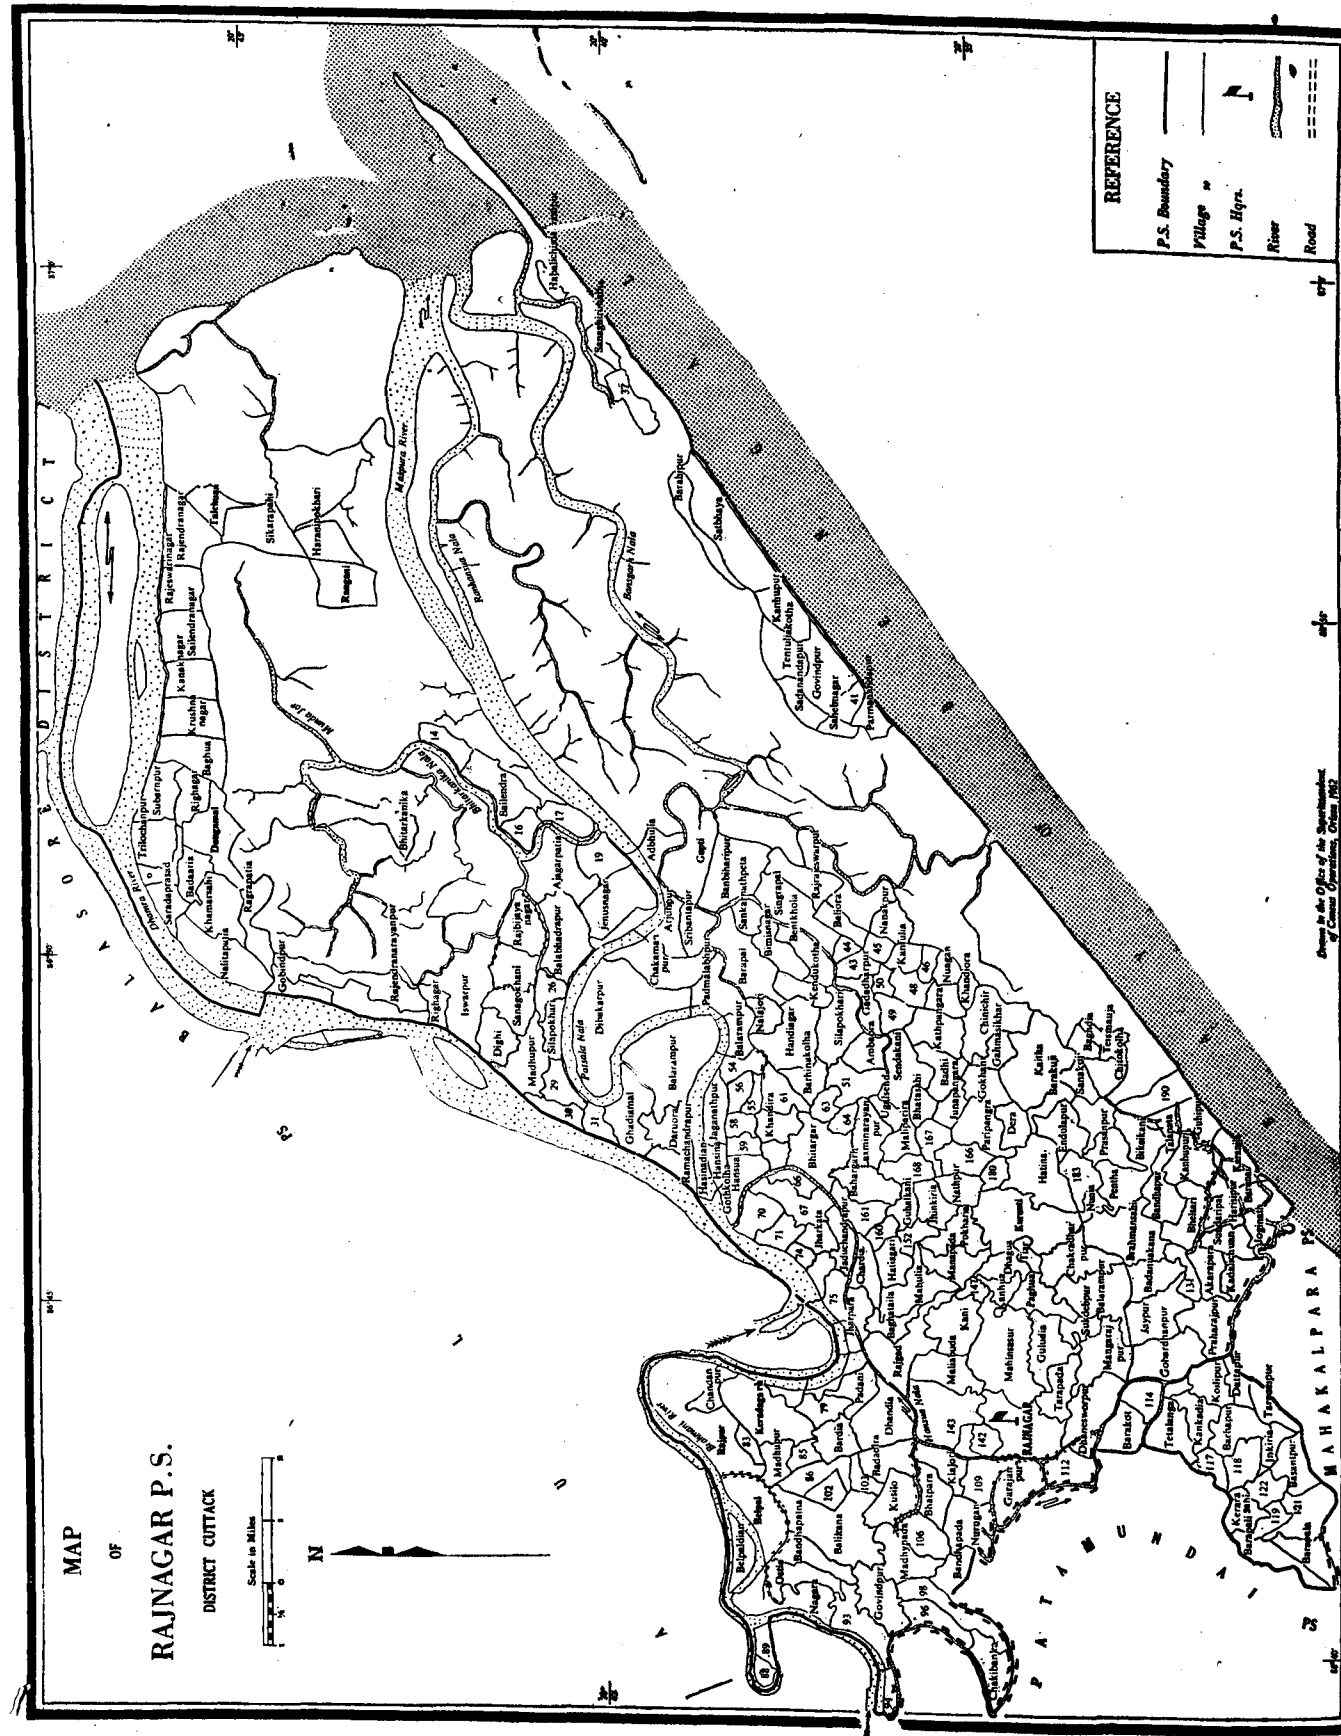

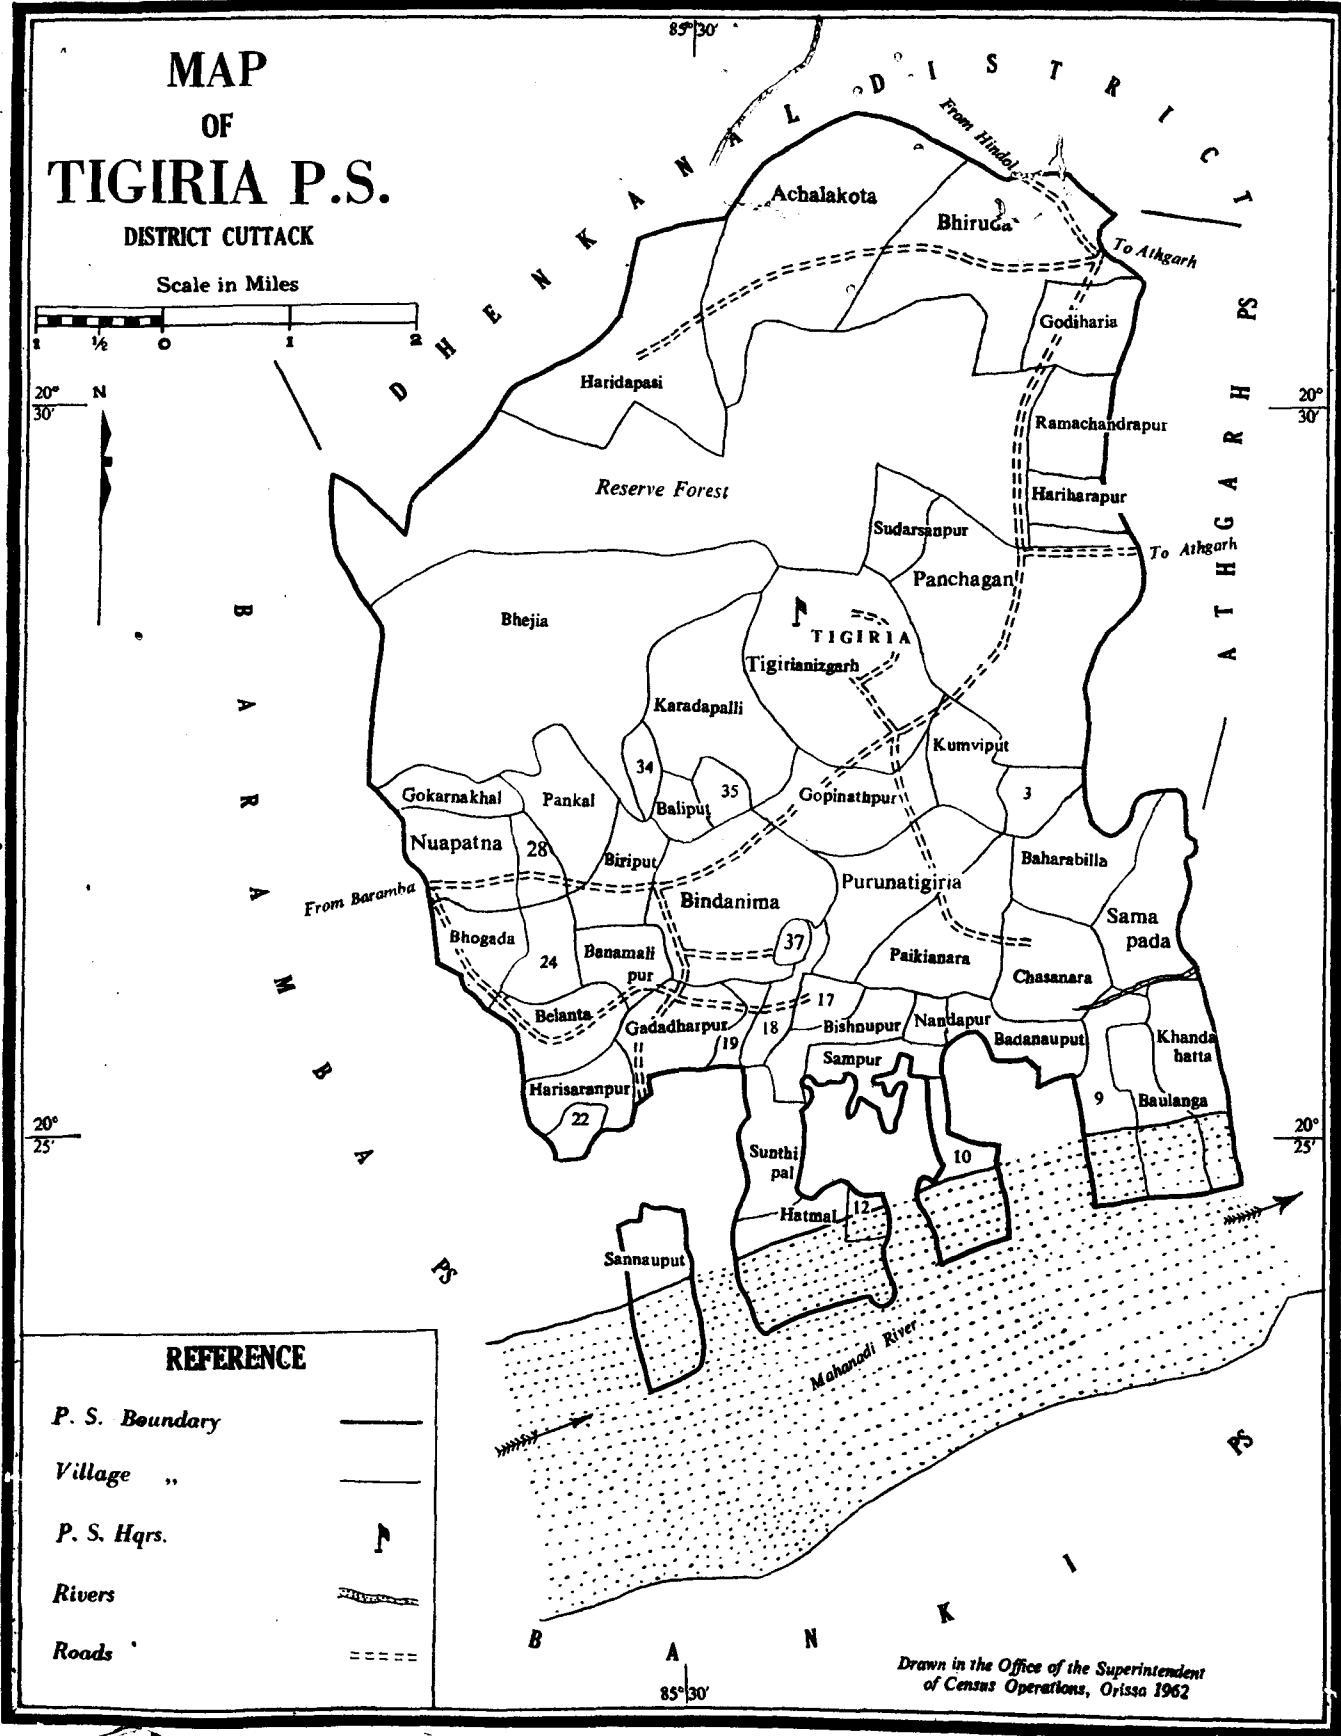

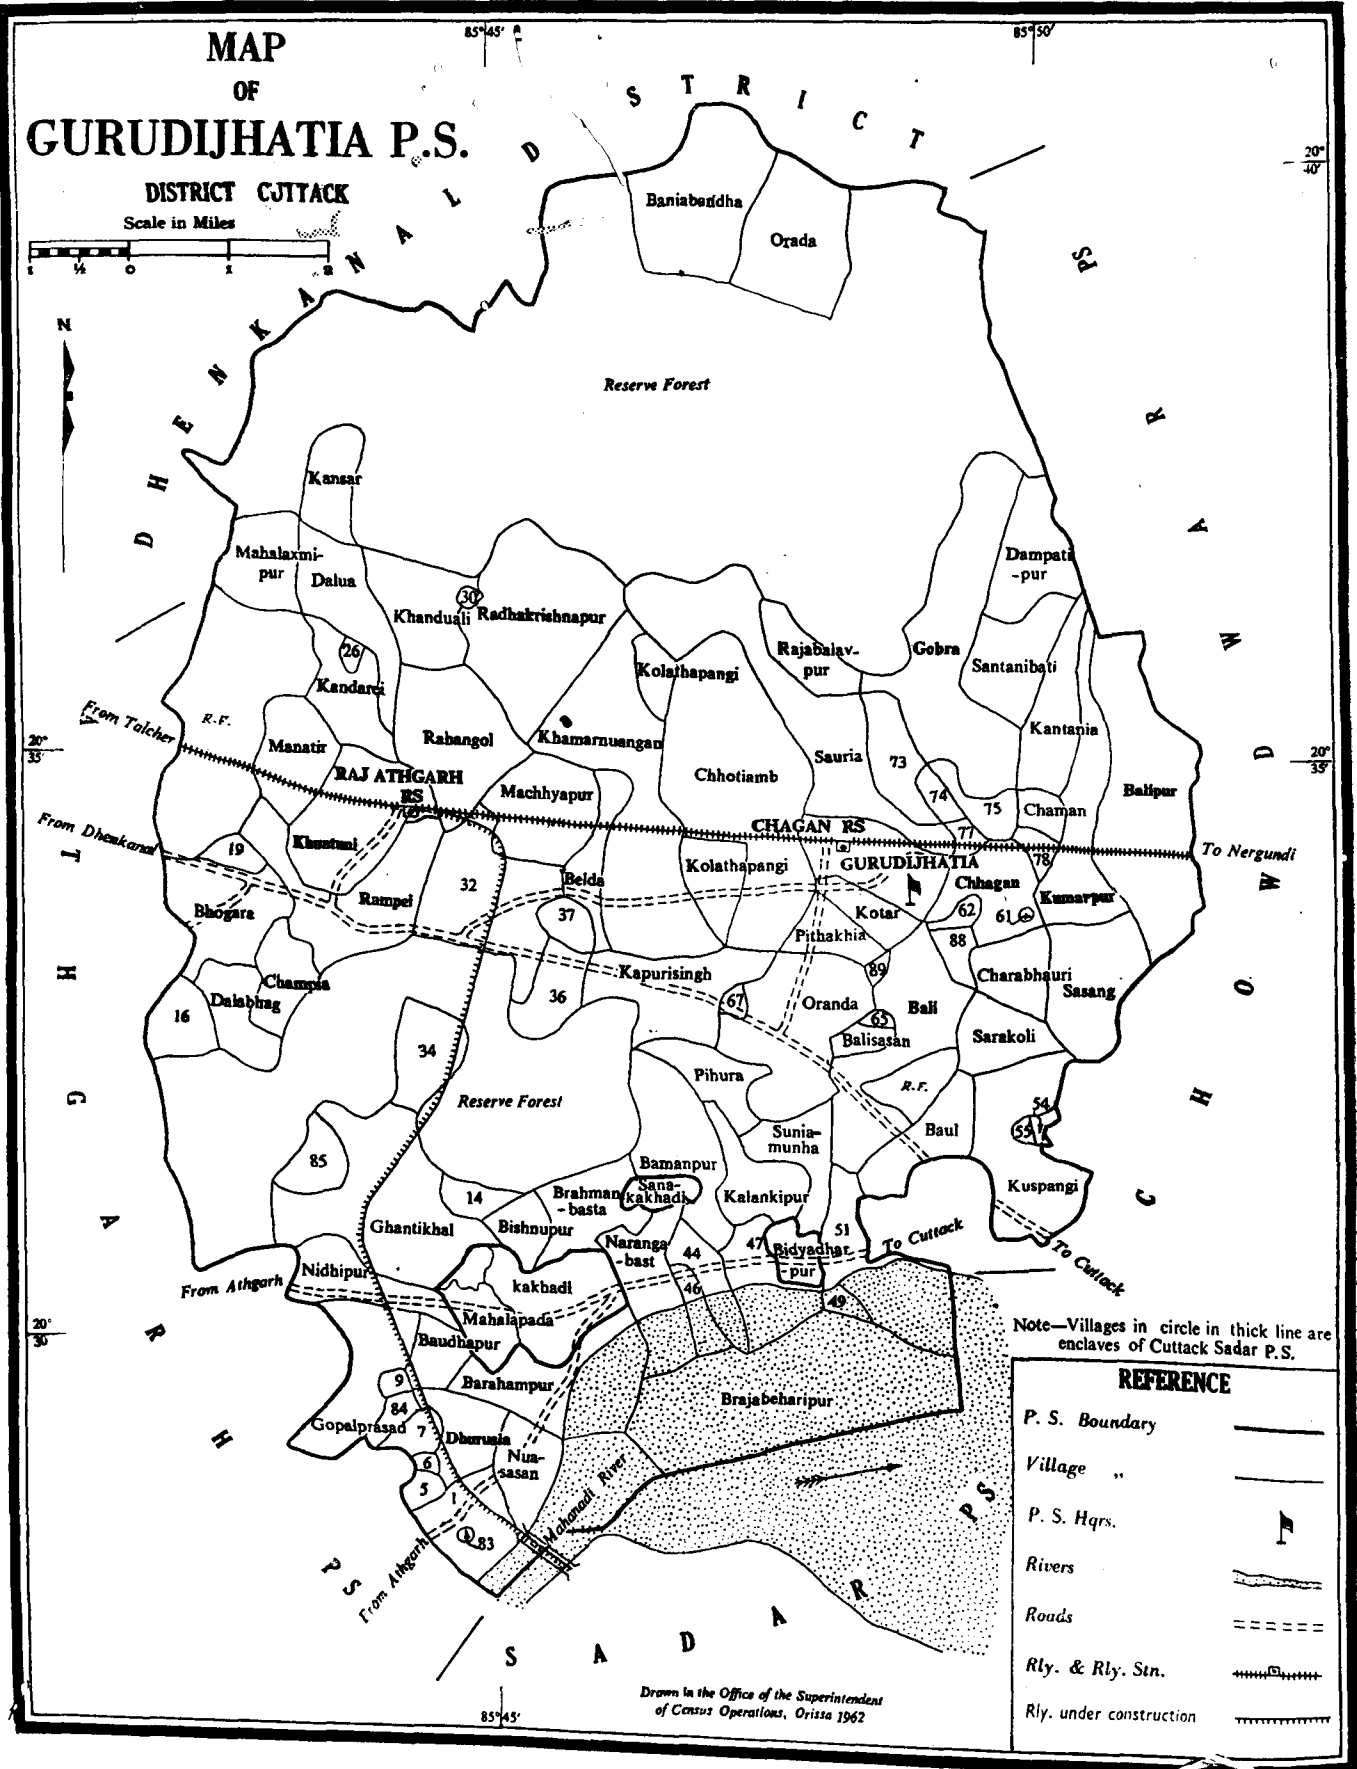

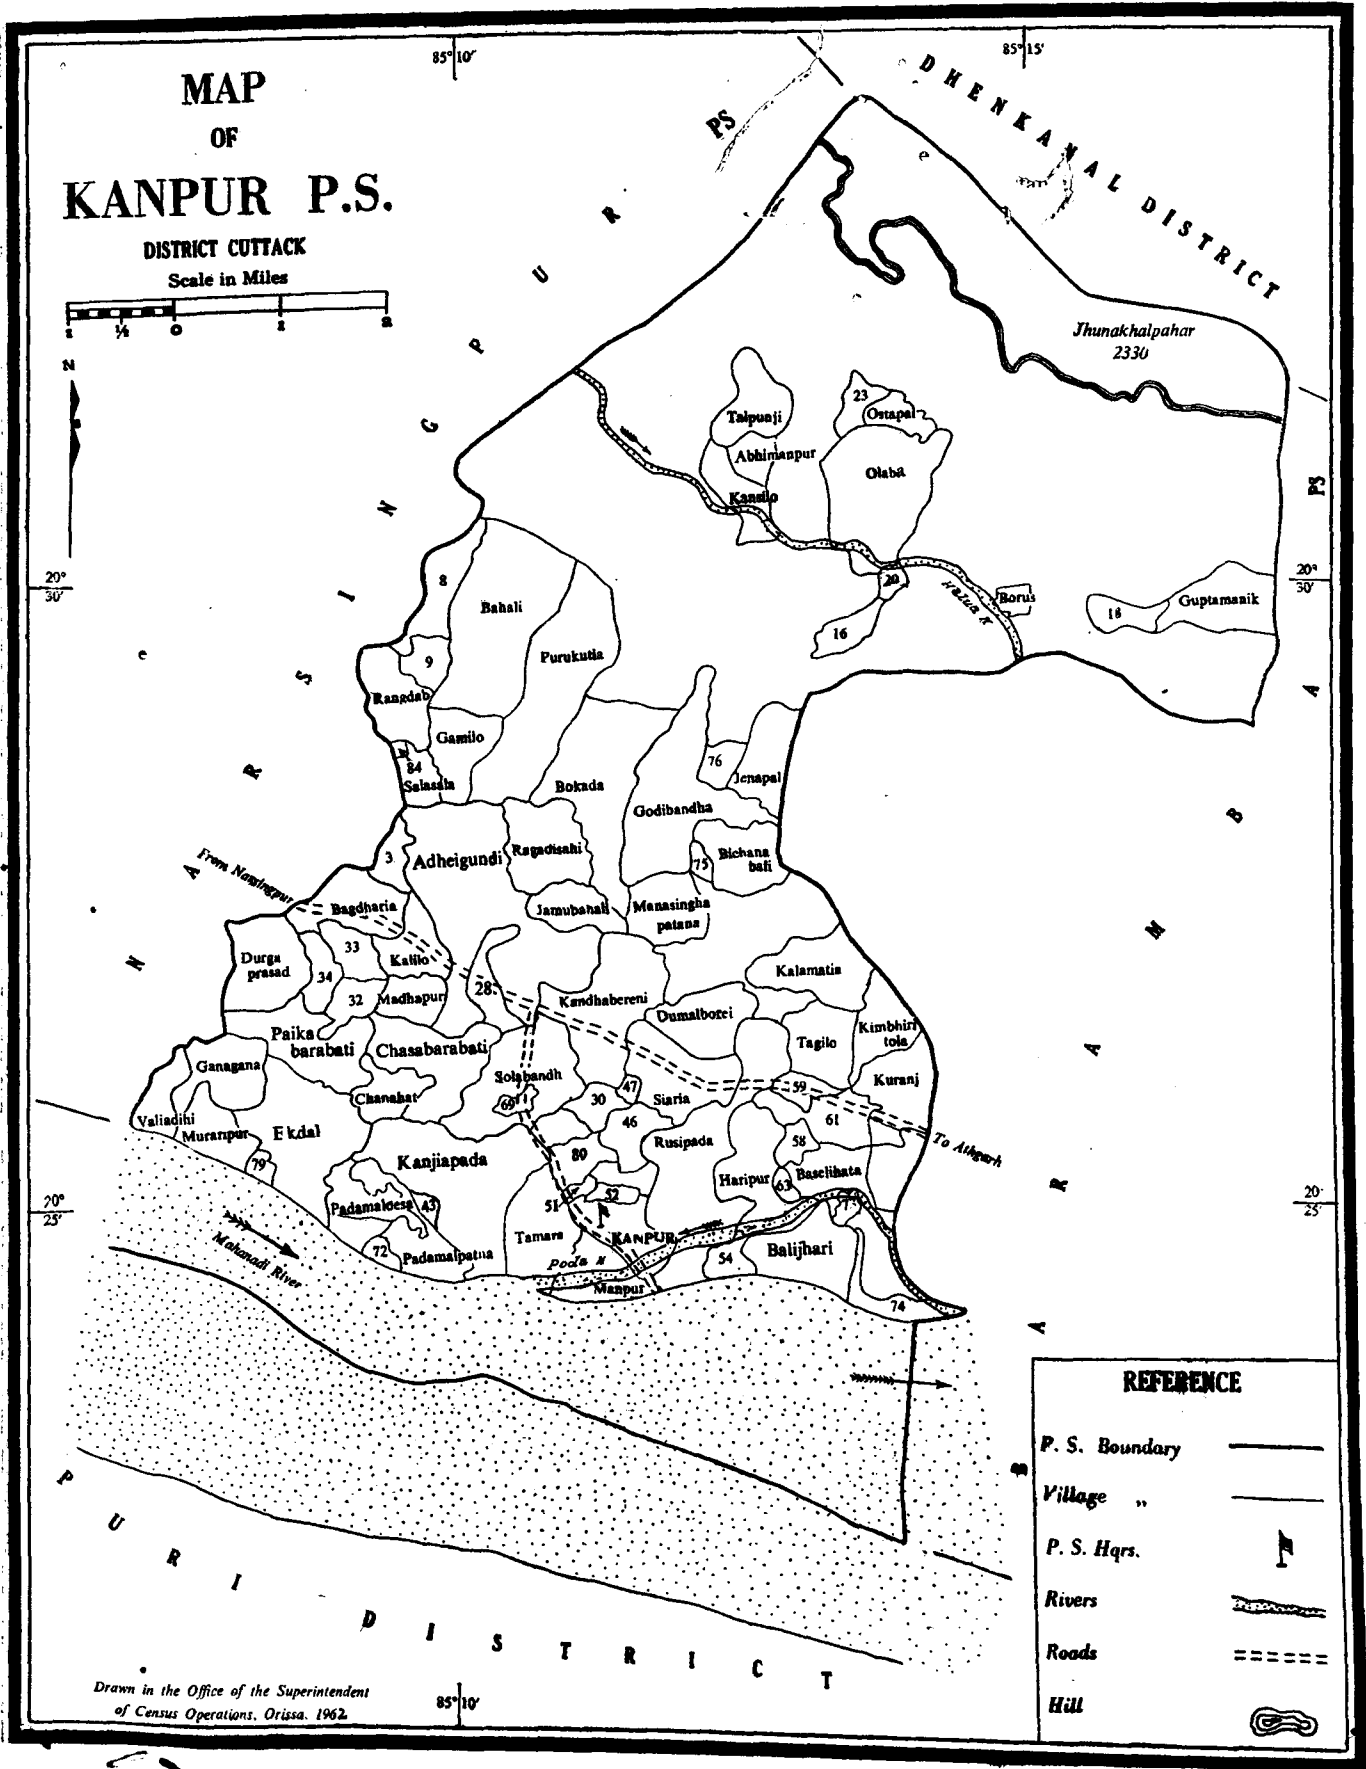

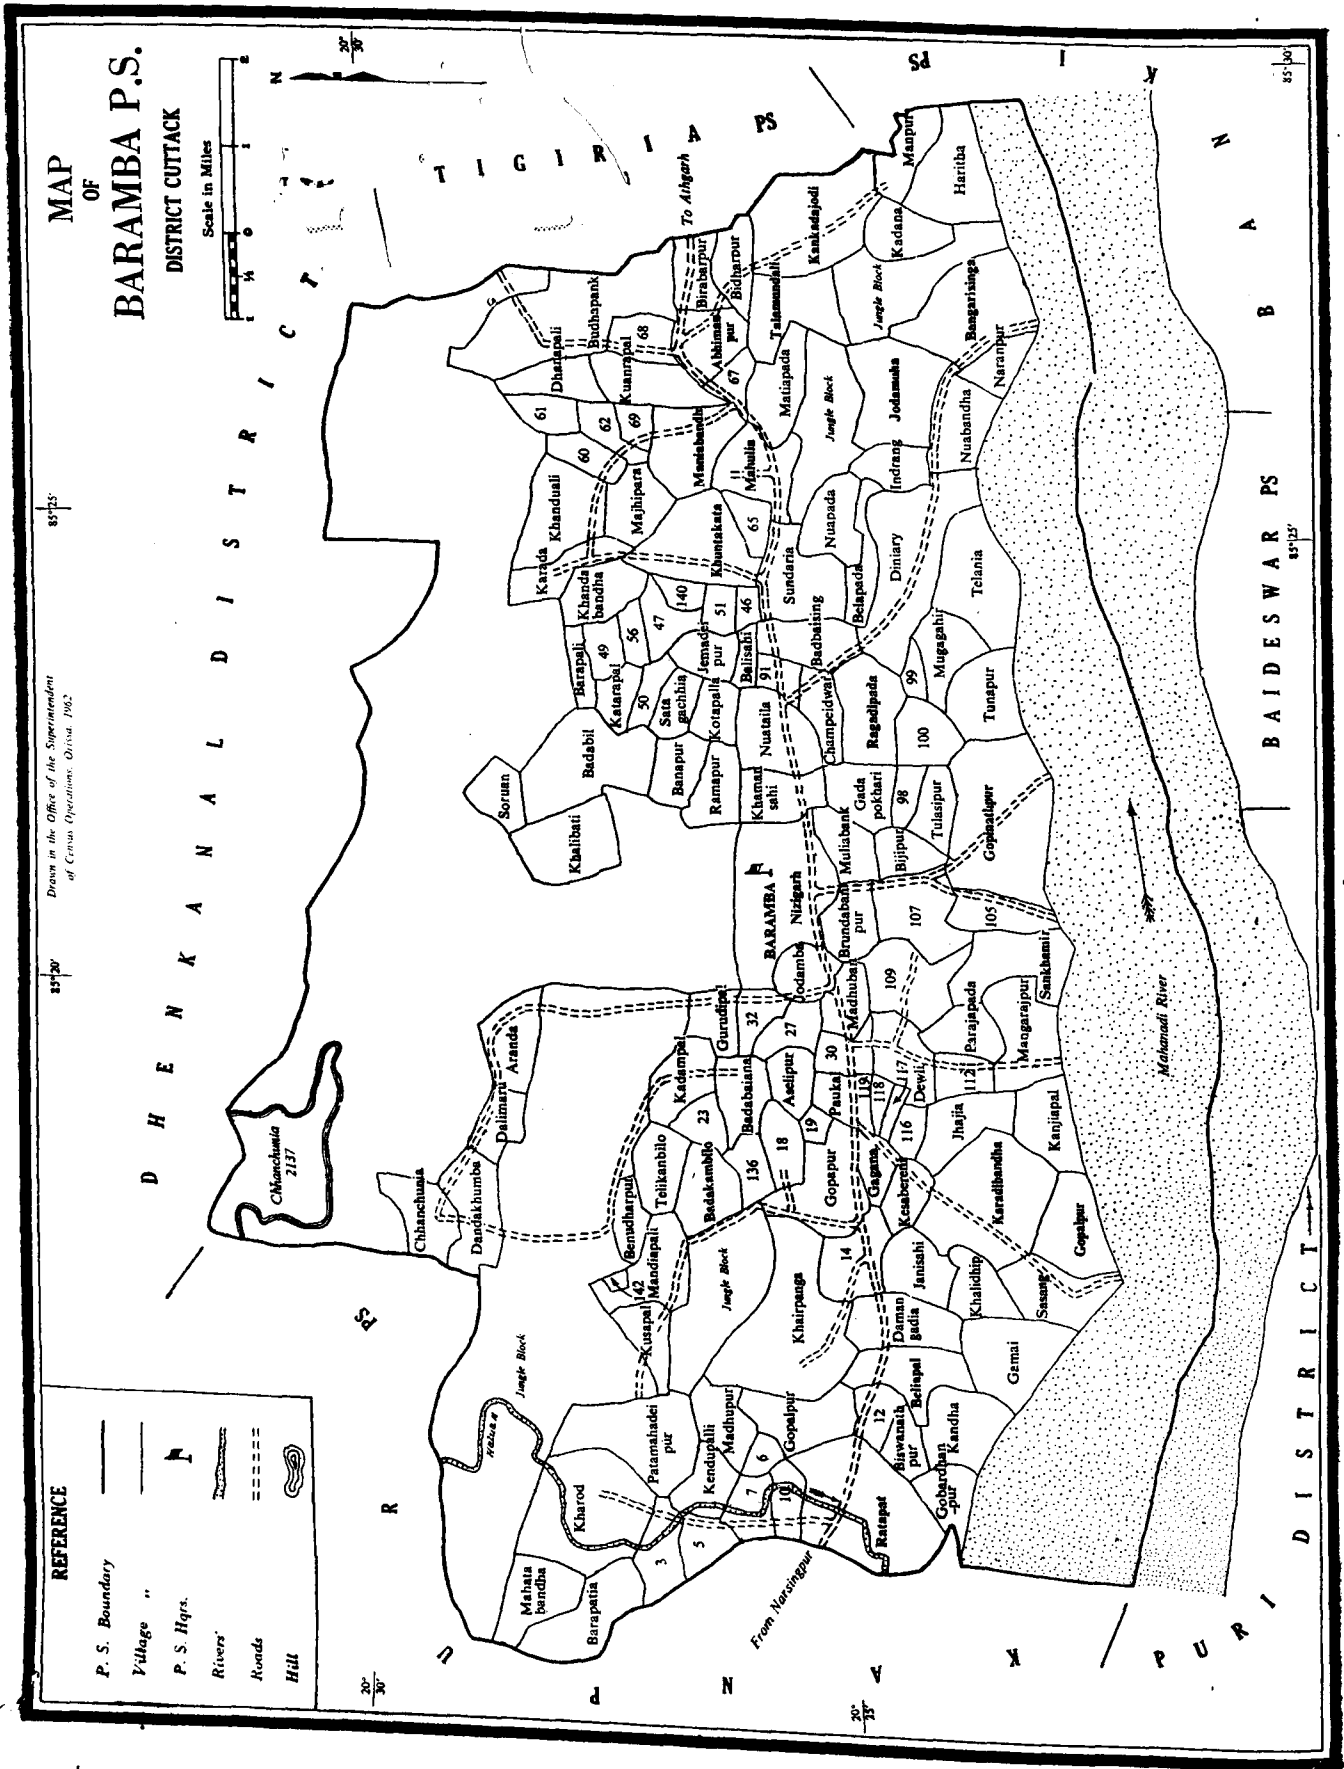

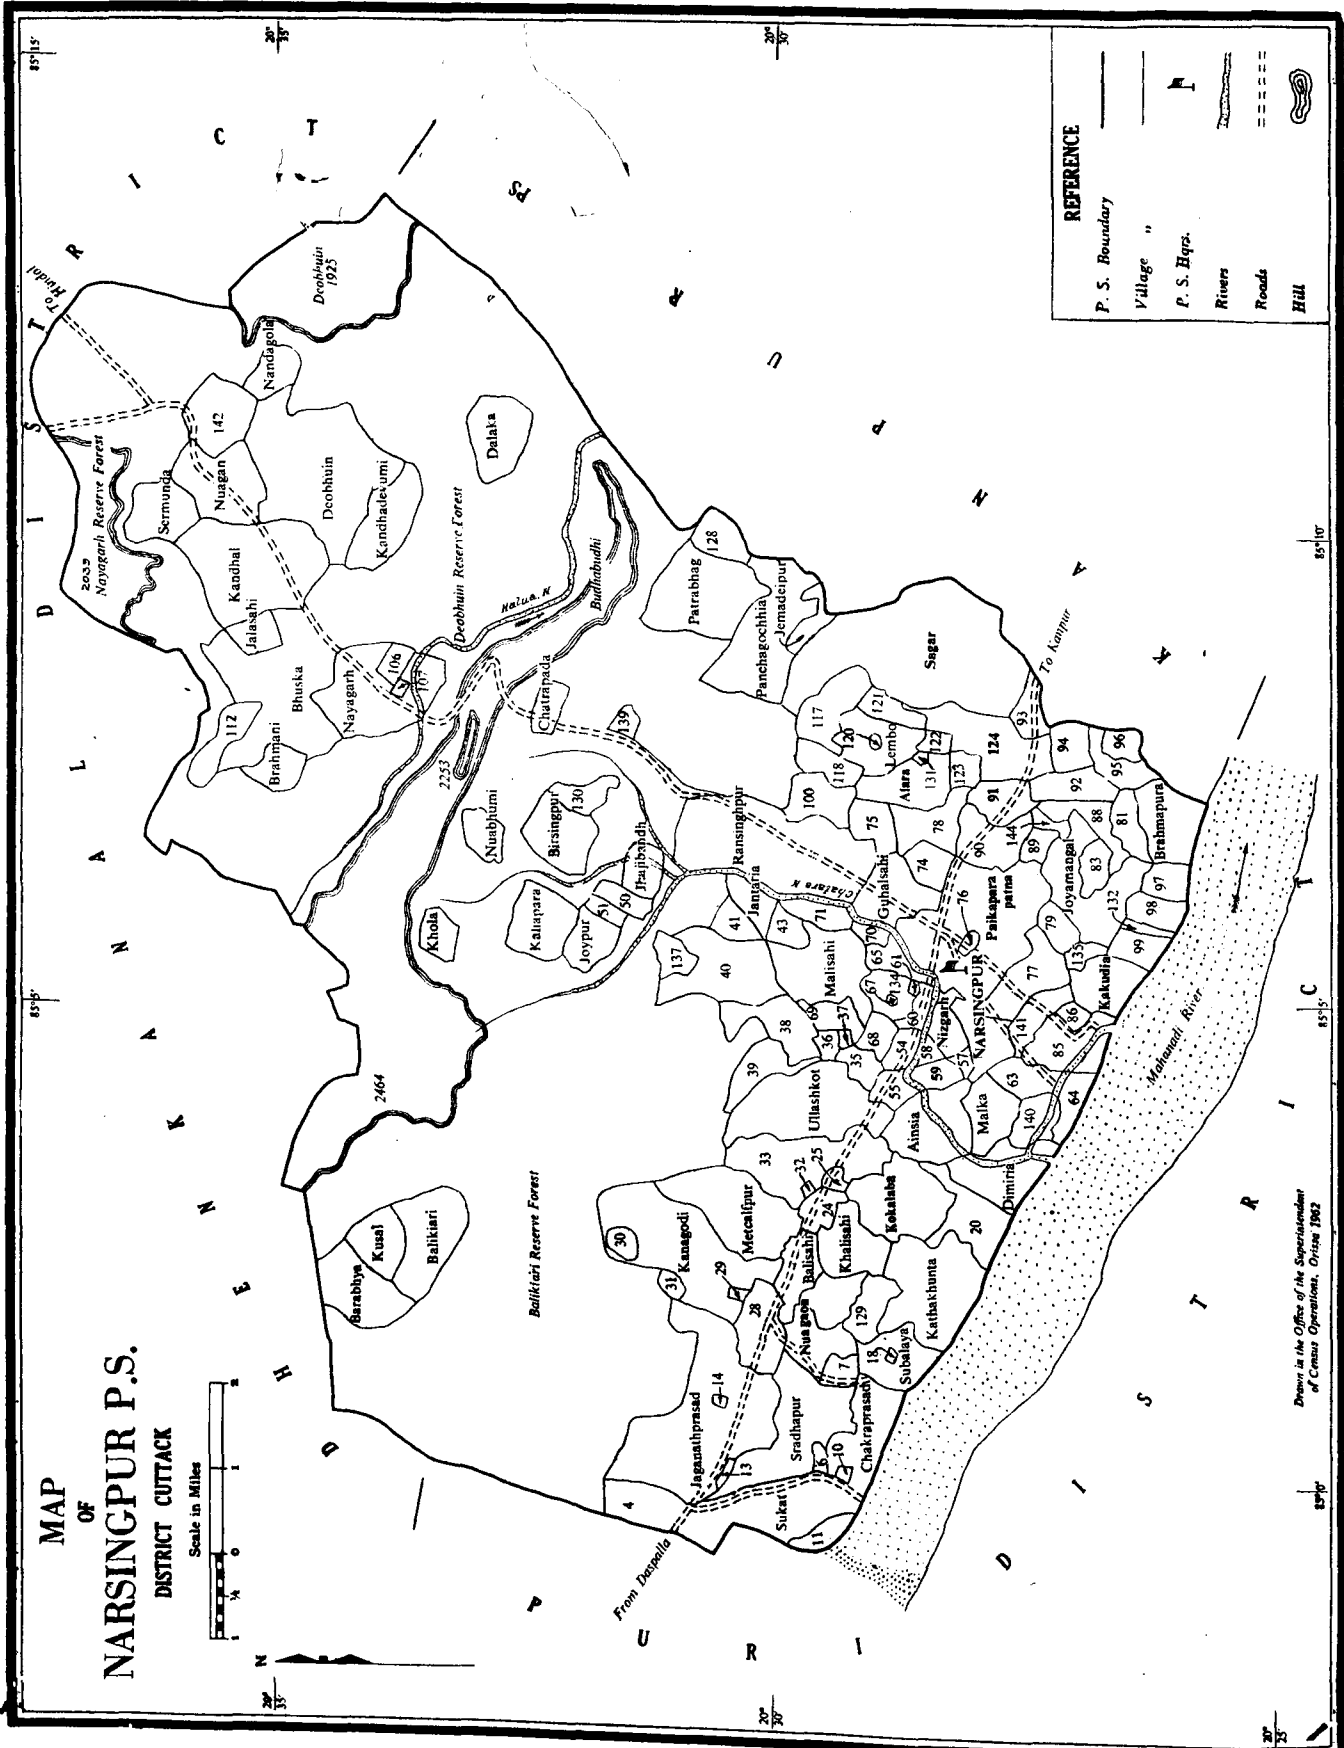

Puri, located centrally in the coastal tract of Orissa, lies between 19° 28'N and 20° 35'N latitudes and between 84° 29'E and 86° 25'E longitudes. Its boundaries extend in the north to Cuttack and Dhenkanal districts, in the south to the Bay of Bengal and Ganjam district, in the west to Baudh-Khondmals and Dhenkanal districts and in the east to the Bay of Bengal.

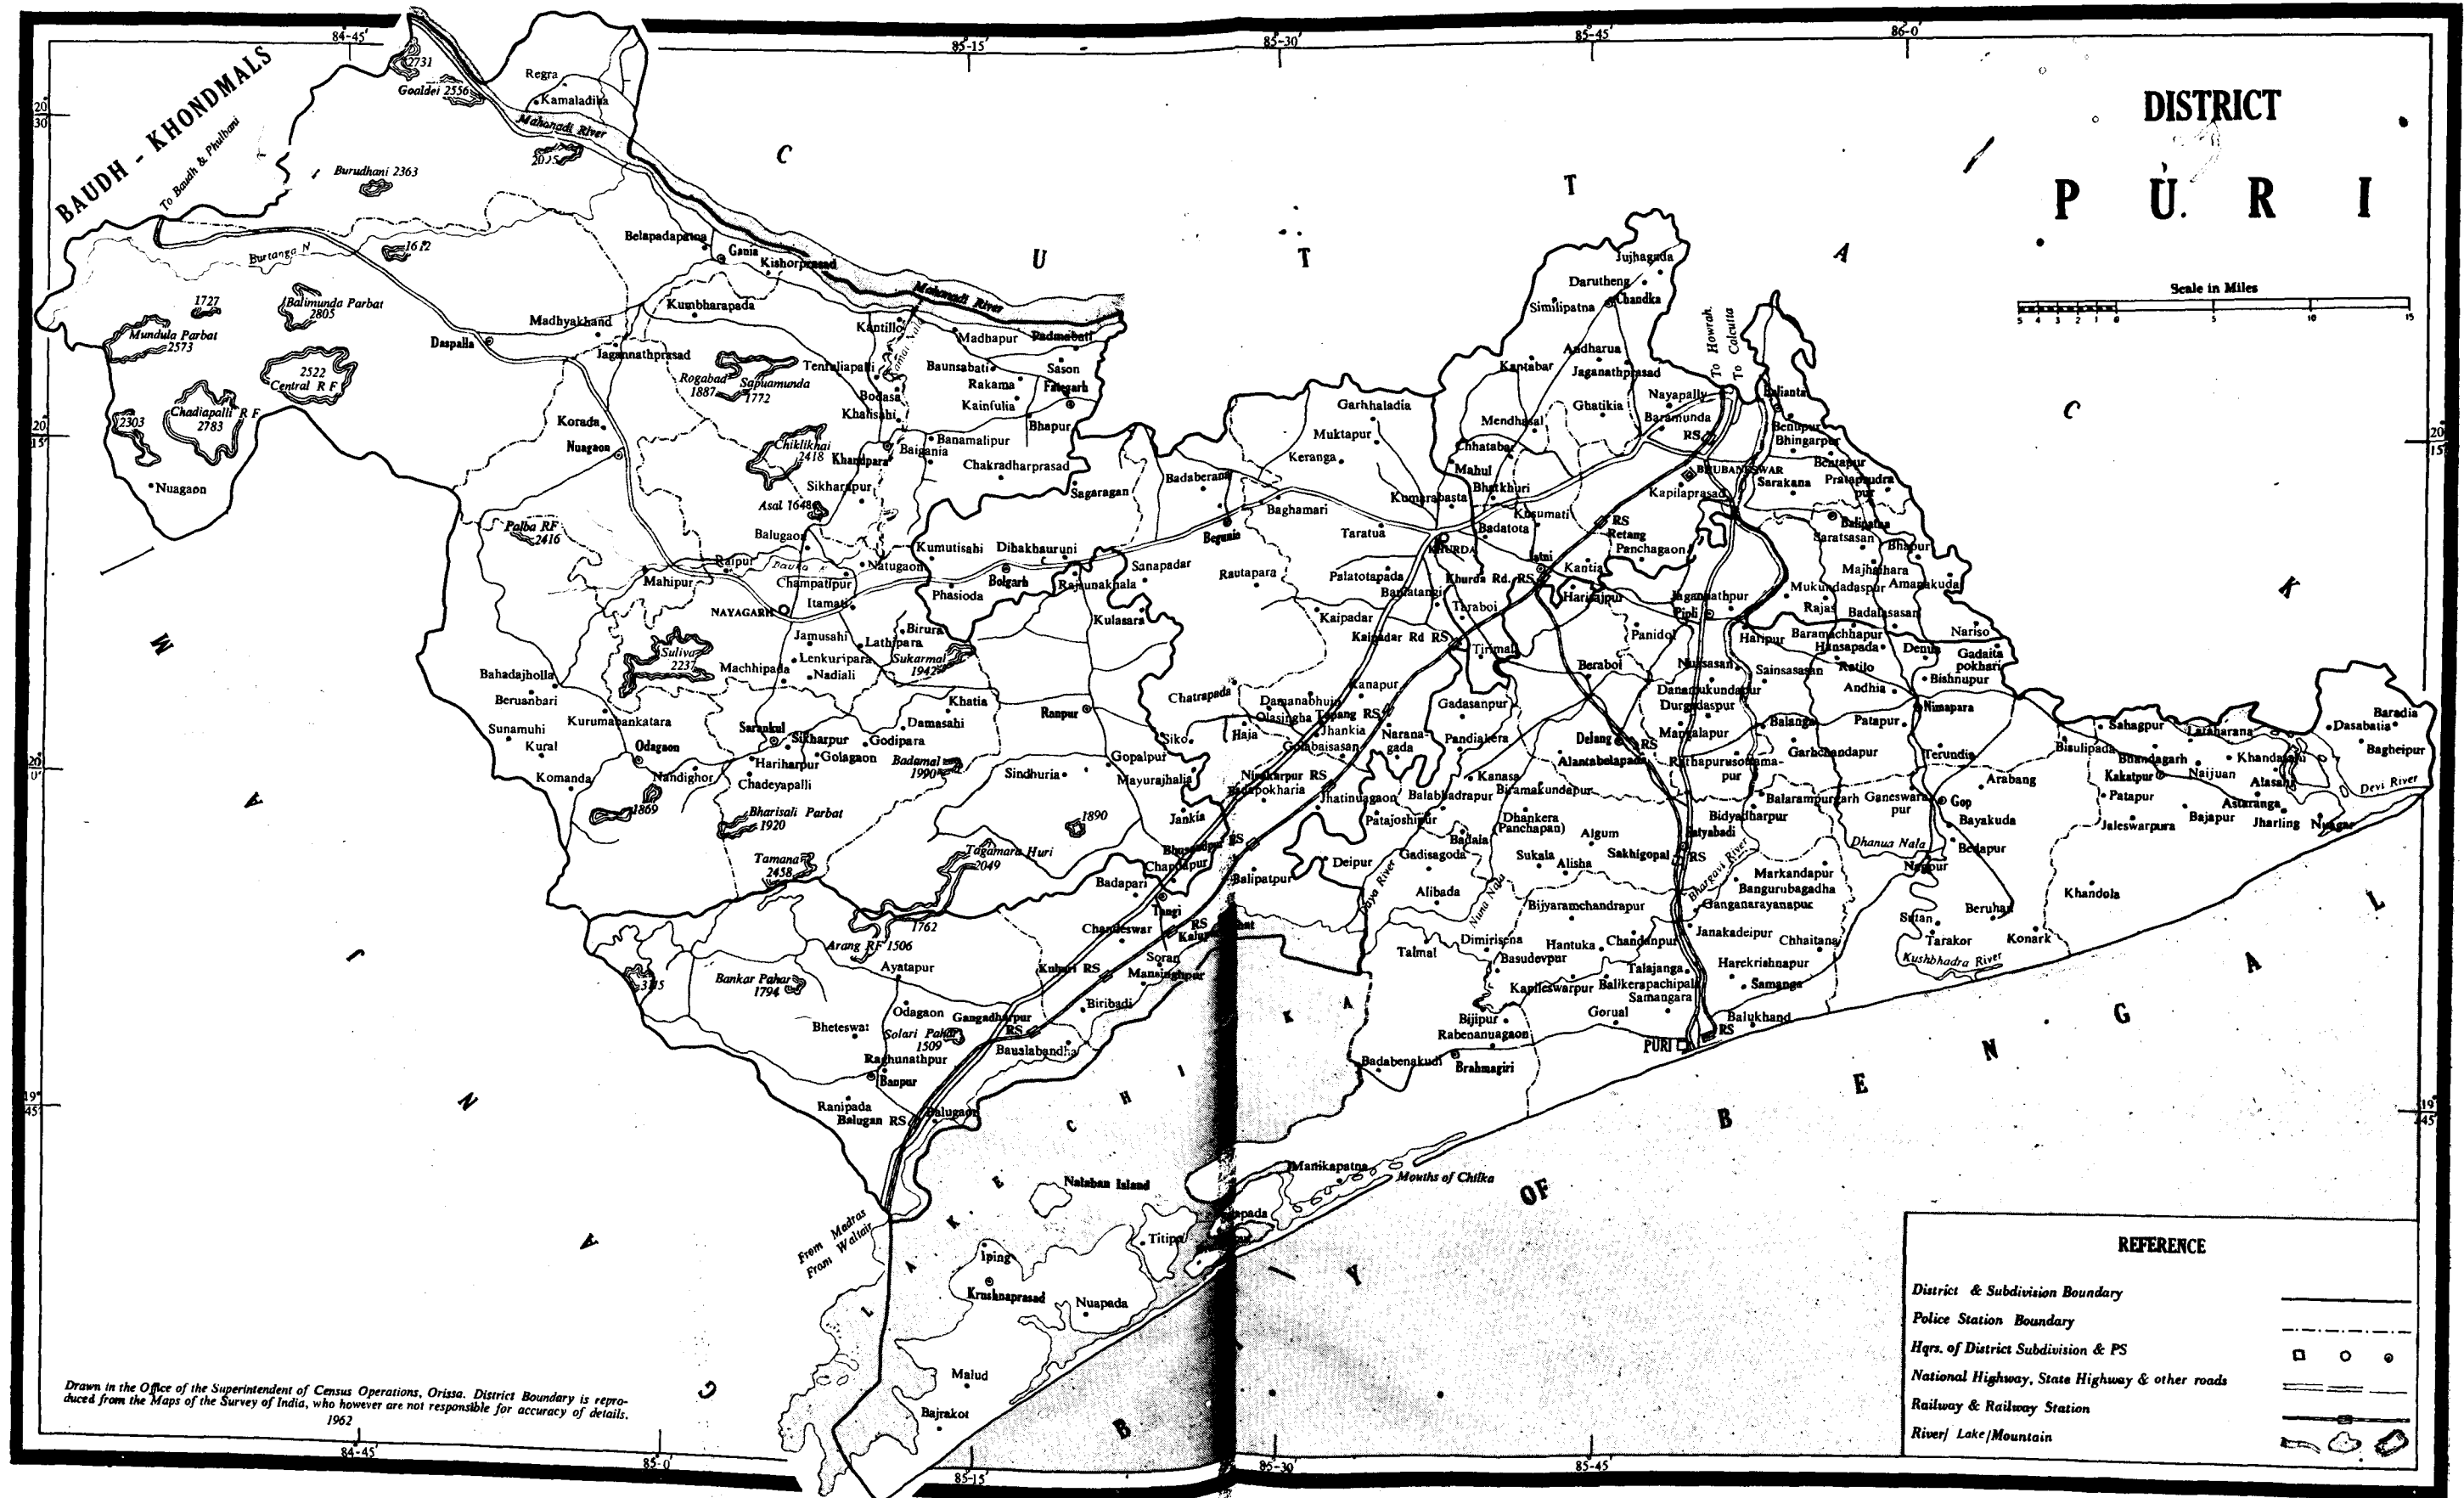

Physiography—The district contains two distinct physiographical divisions, namely, a plain alluvial tract in the south and the south-east and a hilly tract to the north and the north-west. The eastern part has seacoast with a littoral tract of a few miles and having a row of sand hills. Beyond this tract to the north is a large low alluvial country just a few feet above the sea-level. This area is mostly subjected to inundation and contains many marshy swamps. Further north are vast stretches of flat fertile rice lands, beyond which the country assumes a varying level interspersed with small patches of forests which mark the beginning of the hilly tracts. The hill ranges in the west and north-western part break the country into small well cultivated fertile valleys intersected by small streams. Unlike the eastern portion, this part of the country has a higher elevation and is above flood level. River Mahanadi flows in the north-eastern boundary and many small rivers traverse the eastern part of the district. Except Mahanadi river which flows from west to east, all the others run north to the south. The hilly tracts in the west have many hill streams which fall into the river Mahanadi finally. The Chilka lake, a vast expanse of brackish water with a length of 44 miles and a breadth in the north of 20 miles tapering in the south to 5 miles or less lies in the south-western part of the district. It has an average depth of 5 to 6 feet and abounds in fish of estuarian varieties. The water area is approximately 244 sq. miles during dry season which increases to 450 sq. miles during the rains. The district has a variety of soils, namely, saline soil in the littoral tract, a vast area of alluvial soil behind the saline strip, laterite soil in the western part and a small patch of black cotton soil in the south-eastern part of the district. An extent of 1,415 sq. miles or 35% of area of the district is covered by forests which are of northern tropical semi-evergreen type. The forests in Nayagarh have a luxuriant growth of sal, piasal, sisu and other timber-producing trees. White clay is the only mineral product which is embedded in the core of the earth at Jagannath Prasad.

Climate and rainfall—The deltaic region of the district enjoys an equable temperature all the year round. In the hilly tracts of Nayagarh subdivision the climate is comparatively dry with high temperature in hot months. The cold season lasts from December to February followed by the hot season from March to May. The period between June and September is the monsoon season while October and November constitute the post-monsoon transition period. The temperature rising continuously from February, the mean daily maximum temperature of 31.9°C at Puri and 38.0°C at Bhubaneswar is reached in the month of May. The temperature drops during the monsoon season and further with the onset of the winter till the mean daily minimum temperature of 17.1°C at Puri and 15.7°C at Bhubaneswar is reached in December. The average annual rainfall in the district is 1,488 mm. (58.58"). The monsoon arrives over the district by the middle of June and withdraws early in October. About 74% of the annual rainfall is received during the months June to September, July being the wettest month. On an average there are 71 rainy days in a year. Depressions and cyclonic storms originating in the Bay of Bengal pass through the district causing widespread rain and high winds from the pre-monsoon to the post-monsoon months.

Vital Statistics—During the decade 1951-60, births outnumbered deaths by 137,463 (76,464 males and 60,999 females) which figures are however lower than real ones due to omission of many cases from being registered. The birth and death rates during this decennium under the circumstance work out to 24.4 and 16.2 per mille respectively. Infant deaths numbered 66,546 against a total birth of 407,872 constituting 24.61% of total deaths. Deaths among children up to the age of 5 years is rather high, being 39.46% of total deaths. Fever, notably malaria, accounted for 43.96% of deaths during this decade in the district. Dysentery and diarrhoea, cholera and smallpox were causes of death in as many as 22,456, 2,945 and 6,080 cases respectively during the decade, the highest number of deaths from smallpox being in the year 1958 when 3,699 persons died. Deaths due to cholera and smallpox constituted 1.09% and 2.25% of total deaths.

Area and population of administrative units—The district comprises an area of 4,043.3 sq. miles or 10,472.3 sq. kms. with a population of 18.65 lakhs, and consists of 4 subdivisions and 29 police stations. The area and population of each such administrative unit are given in the following statement:

Towns—There are five towns in this district, namely, Puri (60,815), Bhubaneswar (38,211), Jatni (16,068), Khurda (12,497) and Nayagarh (5,815). Besides their importance as pilgrim centres, the towns of Puri and Bhubaneswar are District Headquarters and State Capital respectively.

Growth of population (1901-61)—The population of the district which was 1,325,575 in 1901 increased to 1,865,439 in 1961 registering a growth of 40·7% during the last 60 years. The meagre growth of 2·0% during the decade 1901-11 was followed by a drastic reduction of 10·1% in the decade 1911-21. Quick recovery was noticed in the decade 1921-31 when the population increased by 10·9%. There was moderate growth of 8·1% and 8·0% during the decades 1931-41 and 1941-51 respectively. The last decade 1951-61 has registered the highest growth of 18·6%.

Trend of migration—The total migrants to the district constitute 5·5% of the total population, out of which 1·2% are born outside the State. The largest number of migrants from outside the State hail from Andhra Pradesh, West Bengal and Bihar. The number of migrants from other districts of the State as well as from outside the State are given below:

	Persons	Males	Females	Percentage
1	2	3	4	5
1. Population of the district	1,865,439	930,663	934,776	100
2. Born in the district	1,763,465	895,764	867,701	94·5

Scheduled Tribes—There are 29 Scheduled Tribes in the district with a population of 67,474 which is about 3·6% of the total population. The principal tribes are Kond (31,845), Saora (26,188), Shabar (4,468) and Kharia (1,344). Literacy is confined to 10·2%. Principal economic activity is cultivation and agricultural labour. Household industry and 'other services' are also popular.

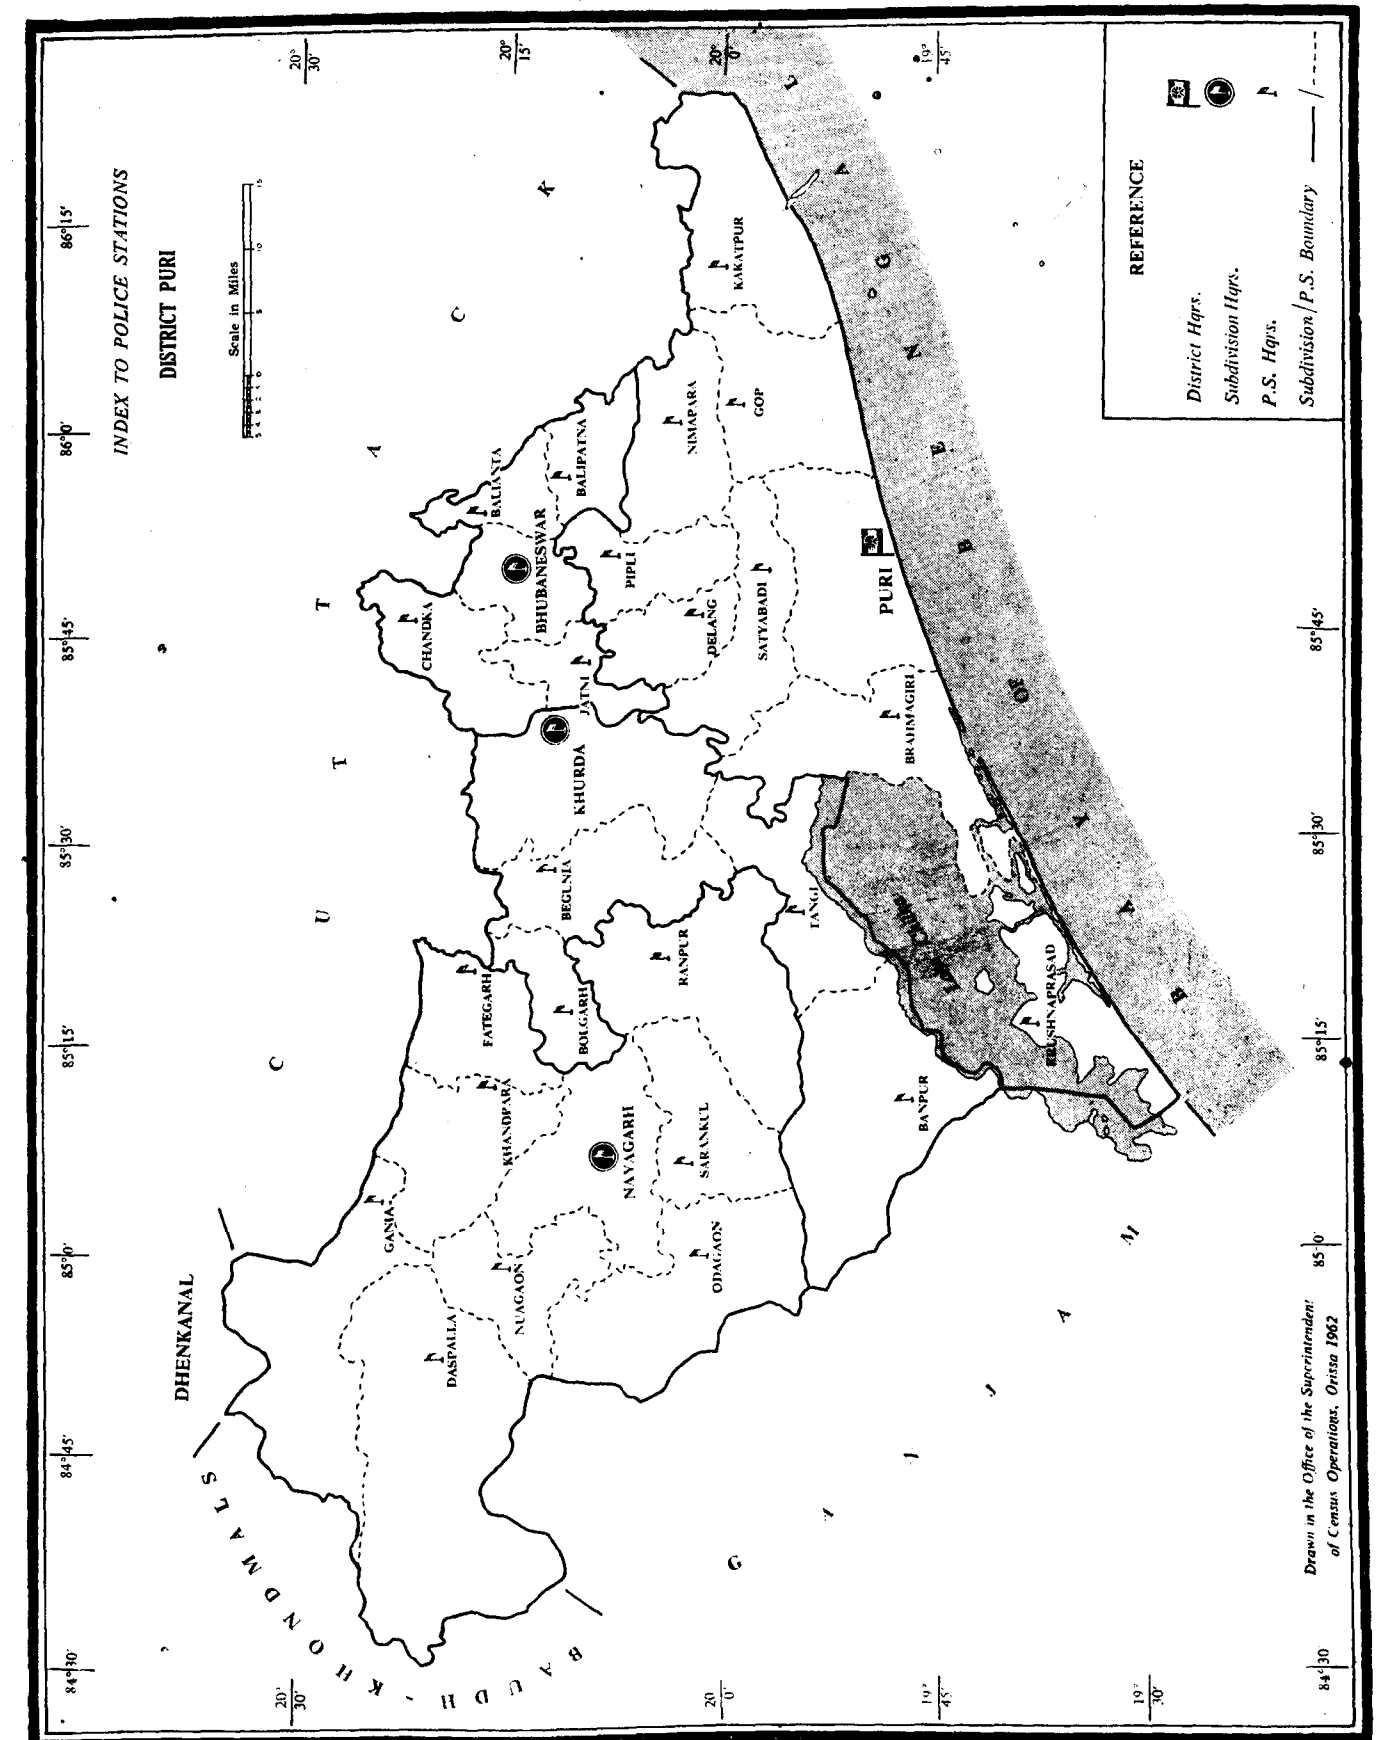

Scheduled Castes—The population of Scheduled Castes in the district is 264,615 which is 14·1% of the total population. There are 53 castes, the most numerous being Bauri (87,288), Pan (35,354), Dhoba (32,345), Kandra (25,537), Haddi (23,039), Bhoi (21,369), Dewar (6,534), Tanla (4,408), Dom (3,839), Tiar (3,593), Bariki (2,973), Dandasi (2,774), Khadala (1,970), Chamar (1,951), Siyal (1,838) and Katia (1,605). Literacy is confined to 13·5%. Cultivation and agricultural labour provide livelihood to the largest section of the population, although household industry and 'other services' are also popular.

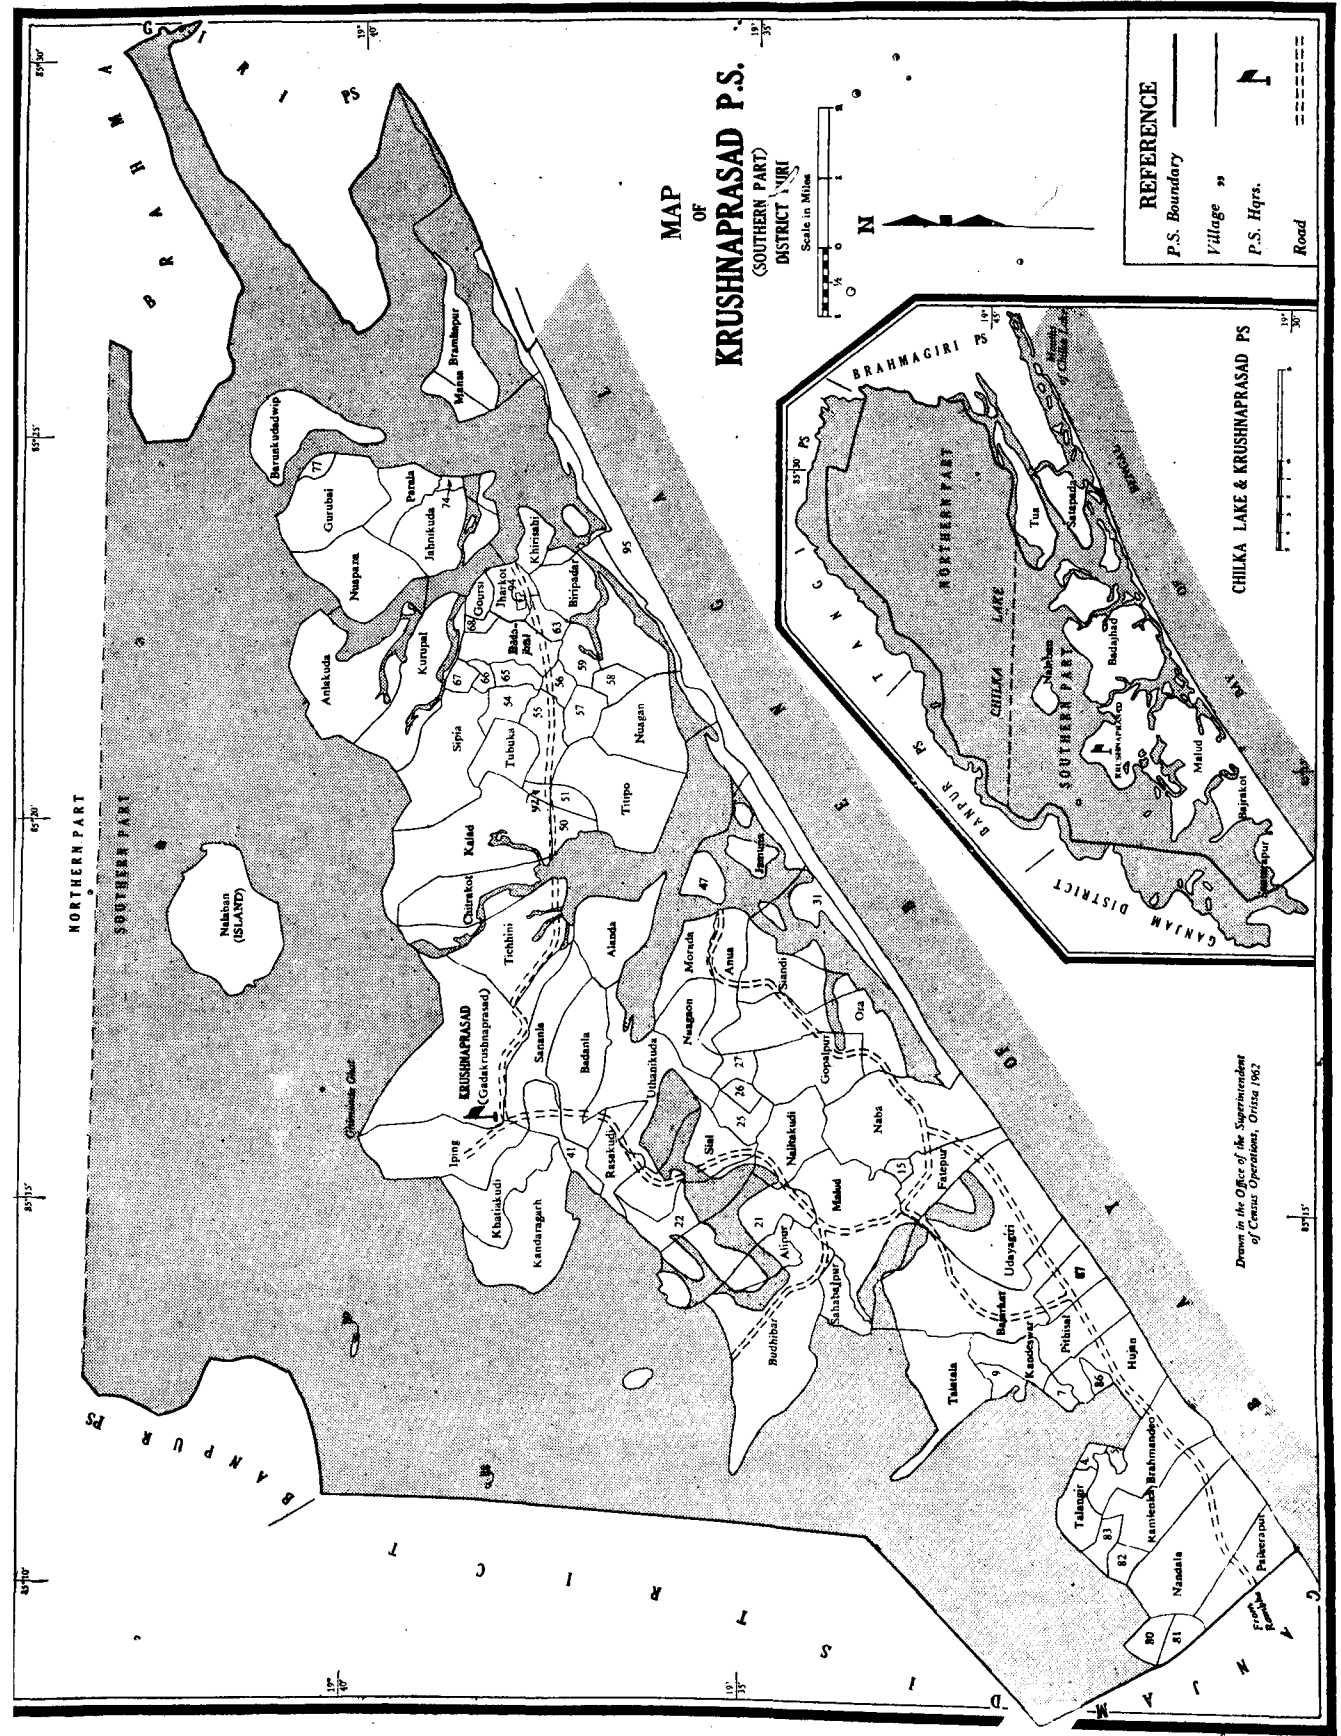

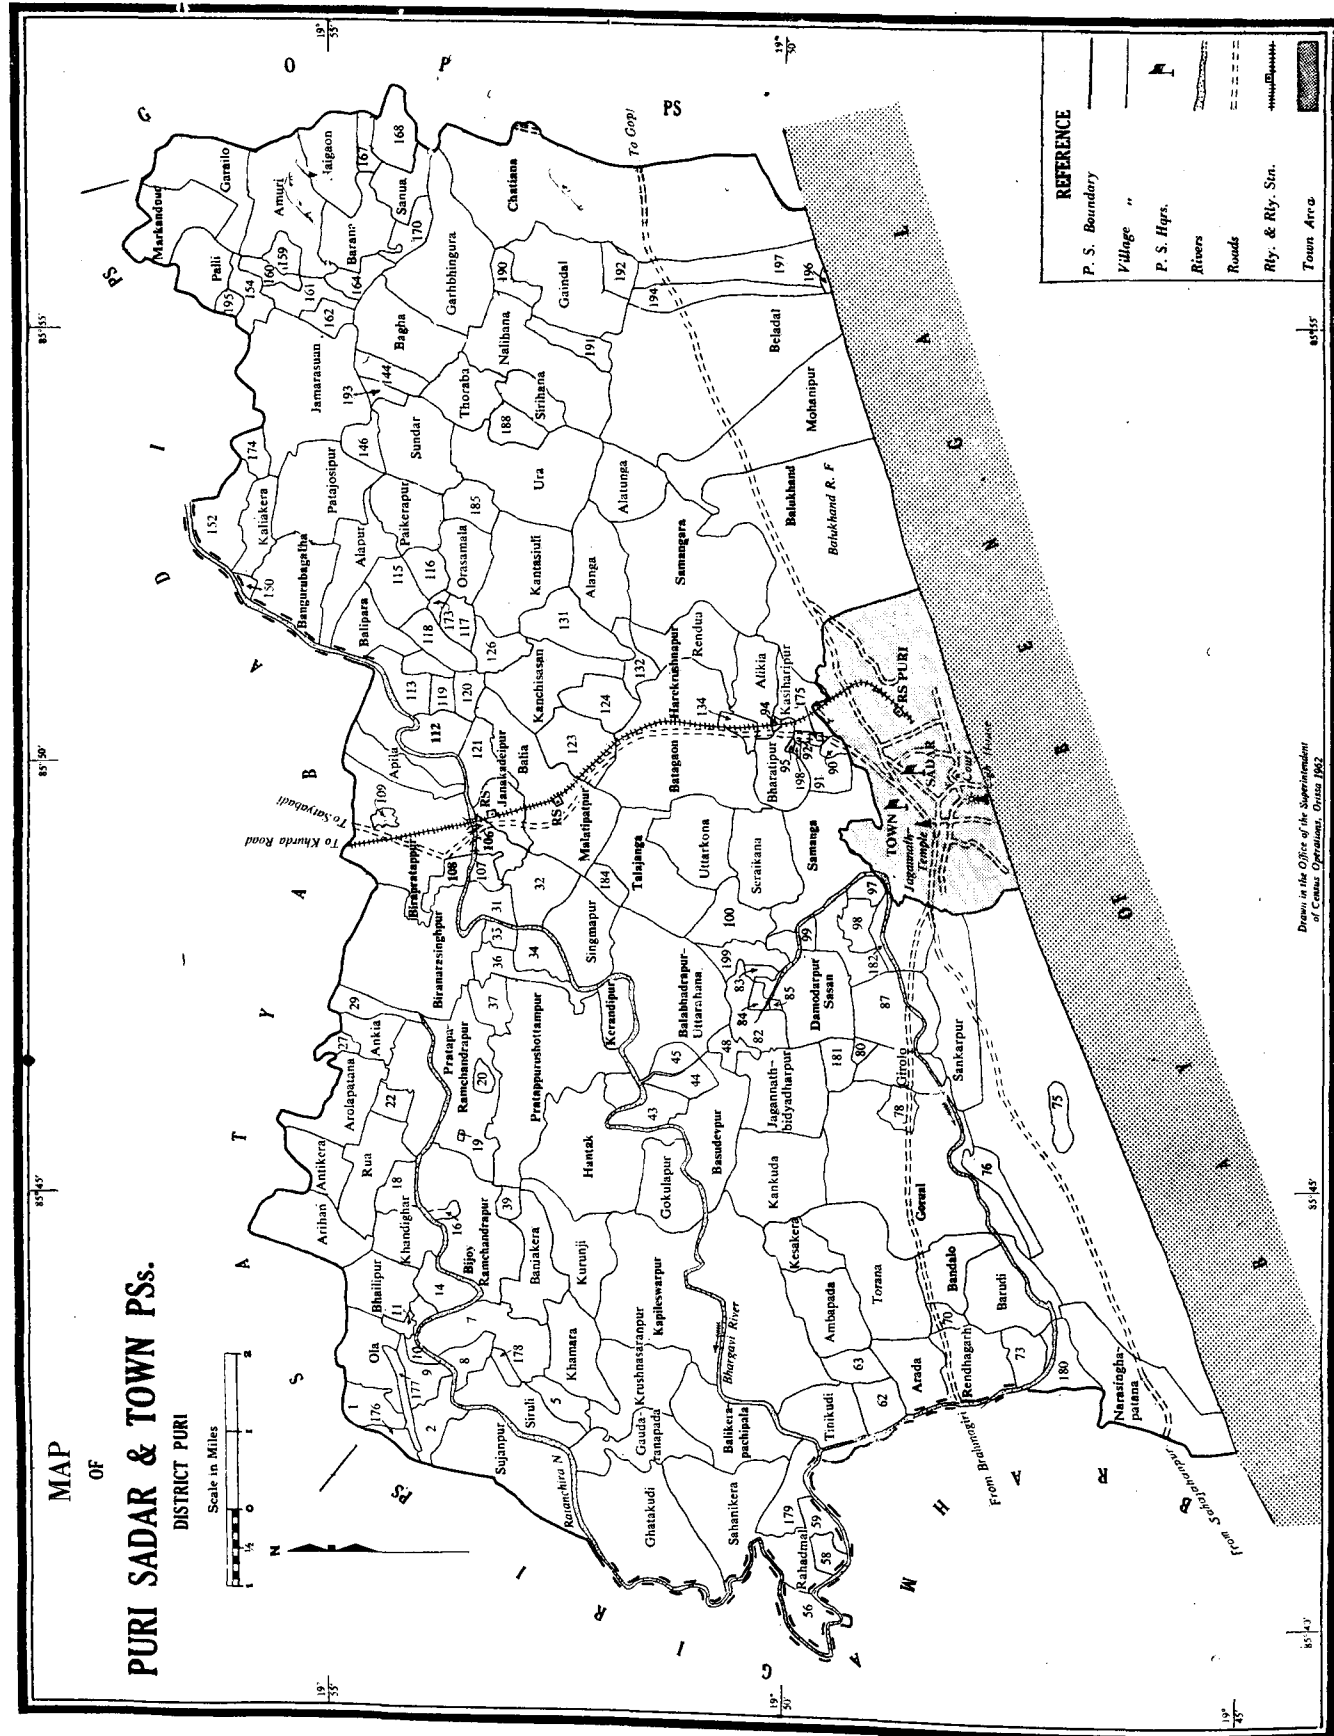

Literacy—There are 550,184 literates out of the total population of 1,865,439, thus bringing the rate of literacy to 29·5% as against 21·8% in the 1951 Census. Among the males there are 45·8 per cent literates, and among the females 13·3 per cent. The number of Primary Schools, M. E. Schools and High Schools in the district are 2,027, 160 and 45 respectively.

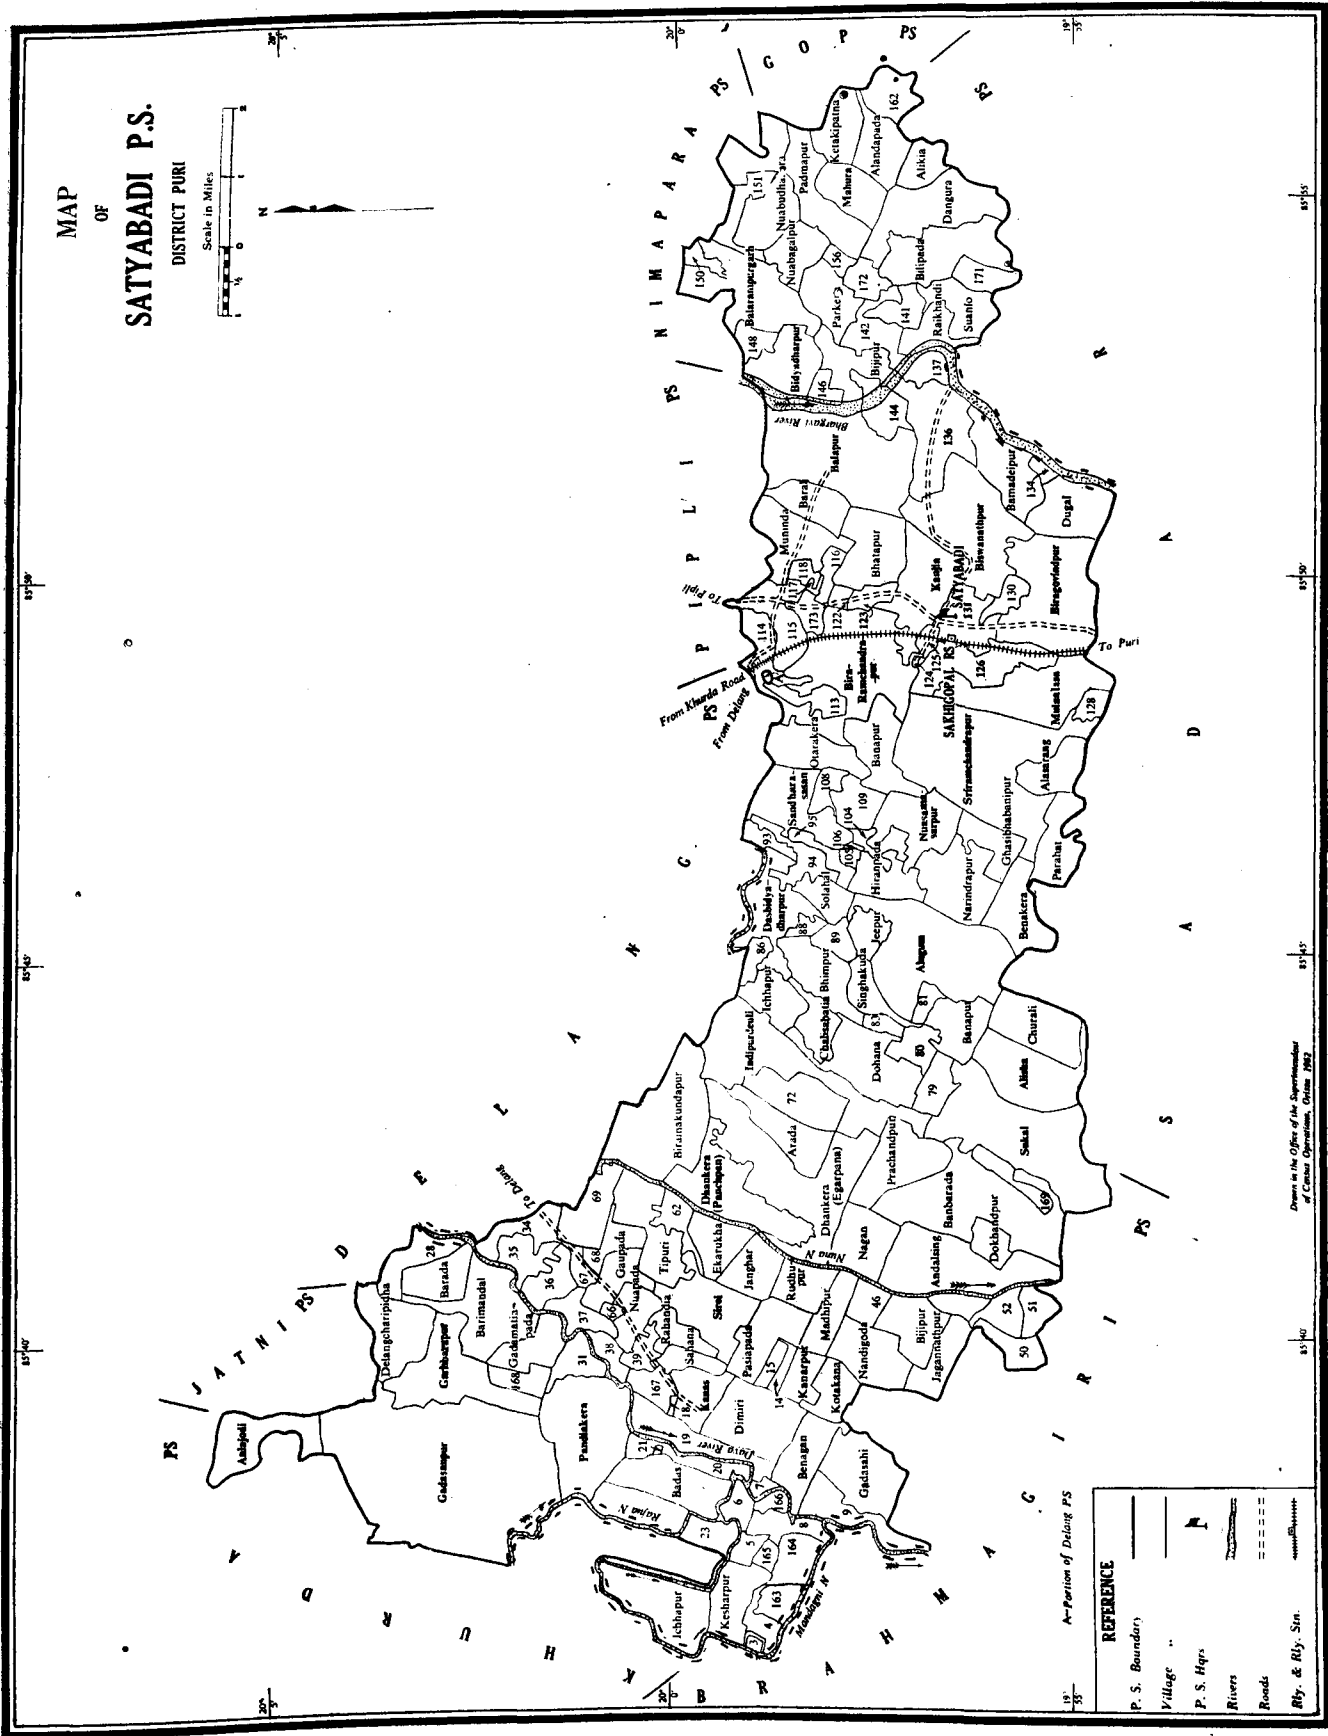

Industries—There are 22,616 industrial establishments in the district which also include small-scale household industries. Classified as per the list in the I.S.I.C. Scheme, there are 69 kinds of industries. In the statement below a list of industries which are most extensively found in the district is furnished:

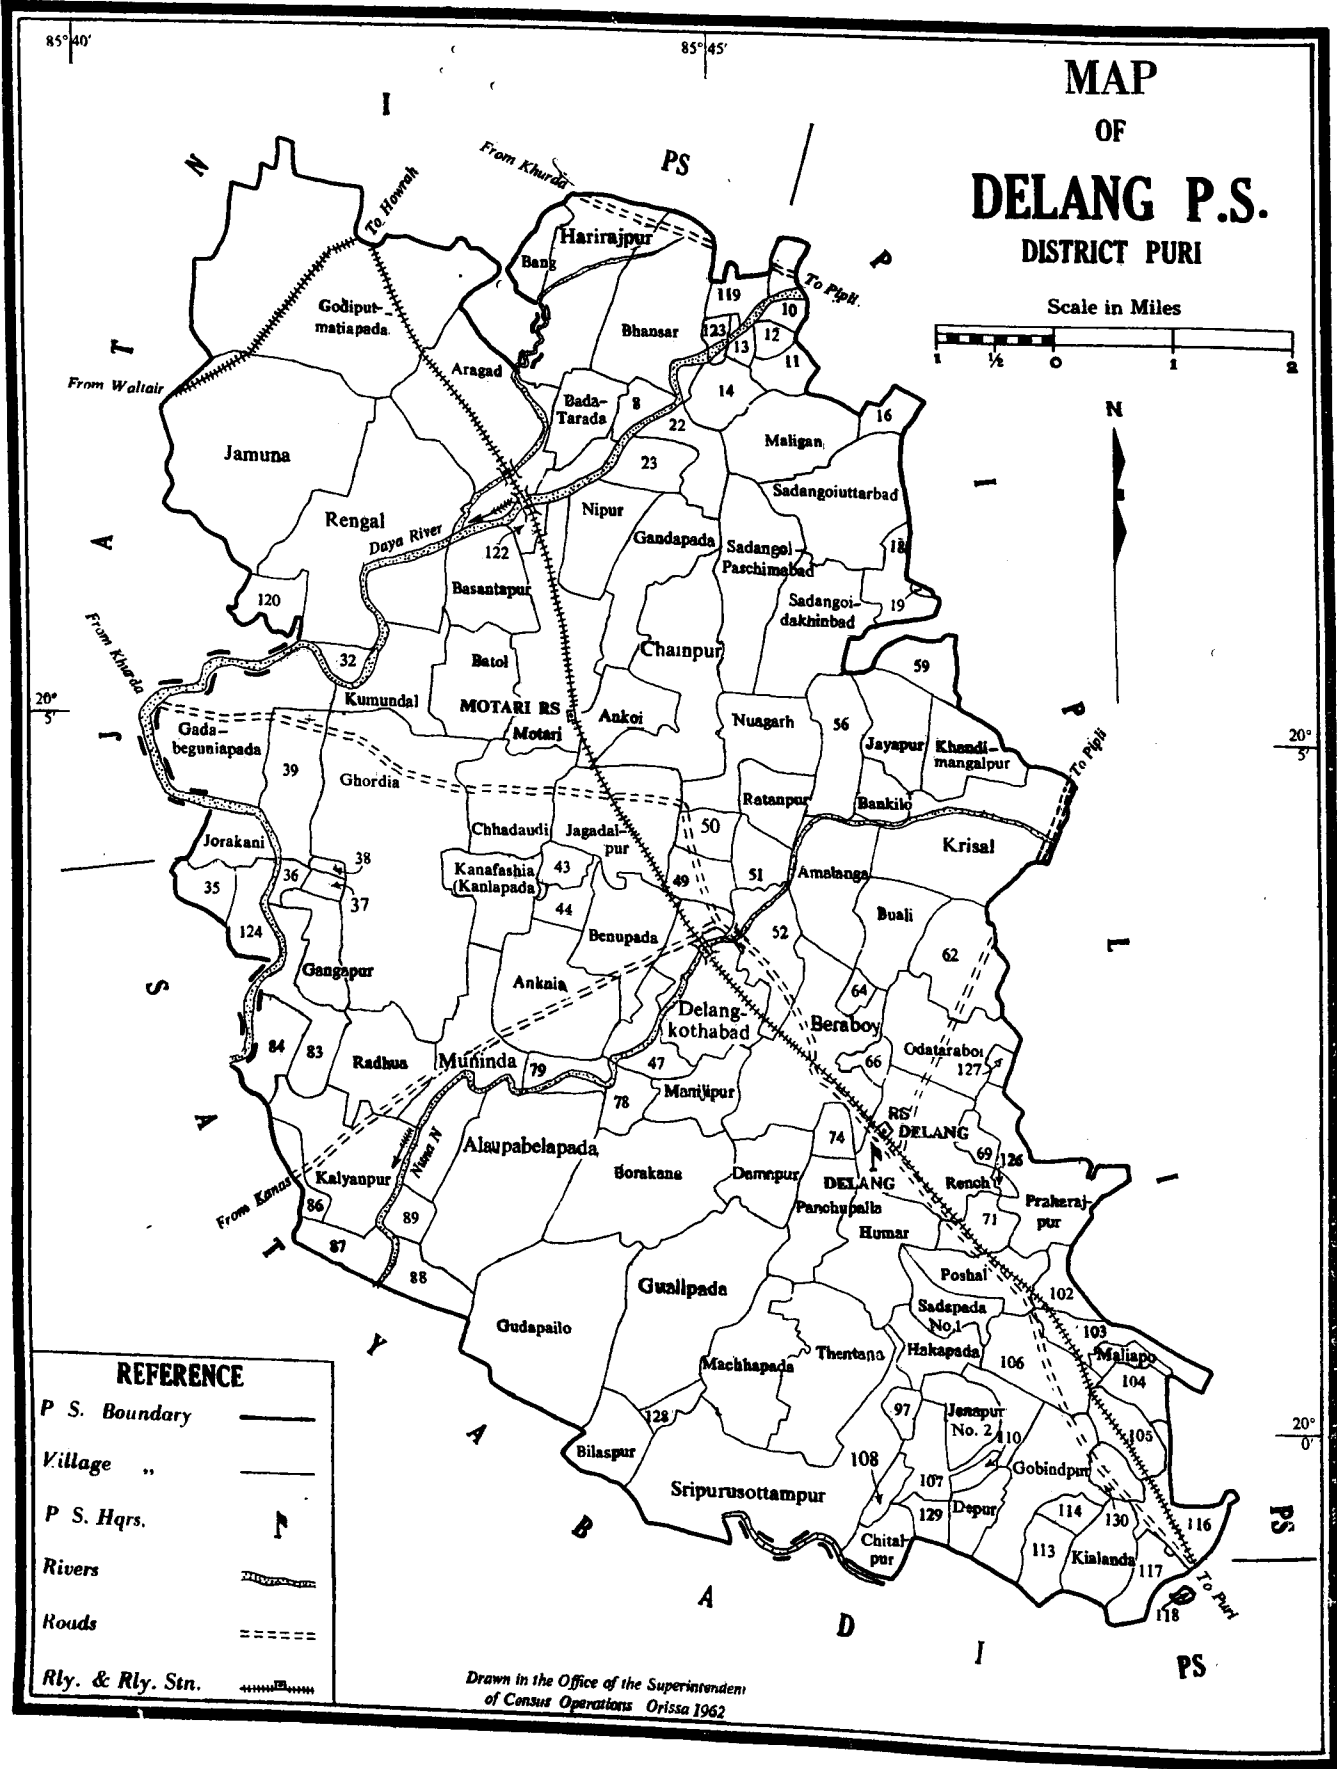

Name of industry	Total no. of establishments	No. of persons engaged
1	2	3
Manufacture of materials from cork, bamboo, cane, leaves, etc.	4,919	11,630
Cotton weaving in handlooms	2,933	8,010

Cotton spinning (other than in mills)	1,962	3,343
Manufacture of coir and coir products	1,264	3,078
Manufacture of sundry hardware	1,094	2,513

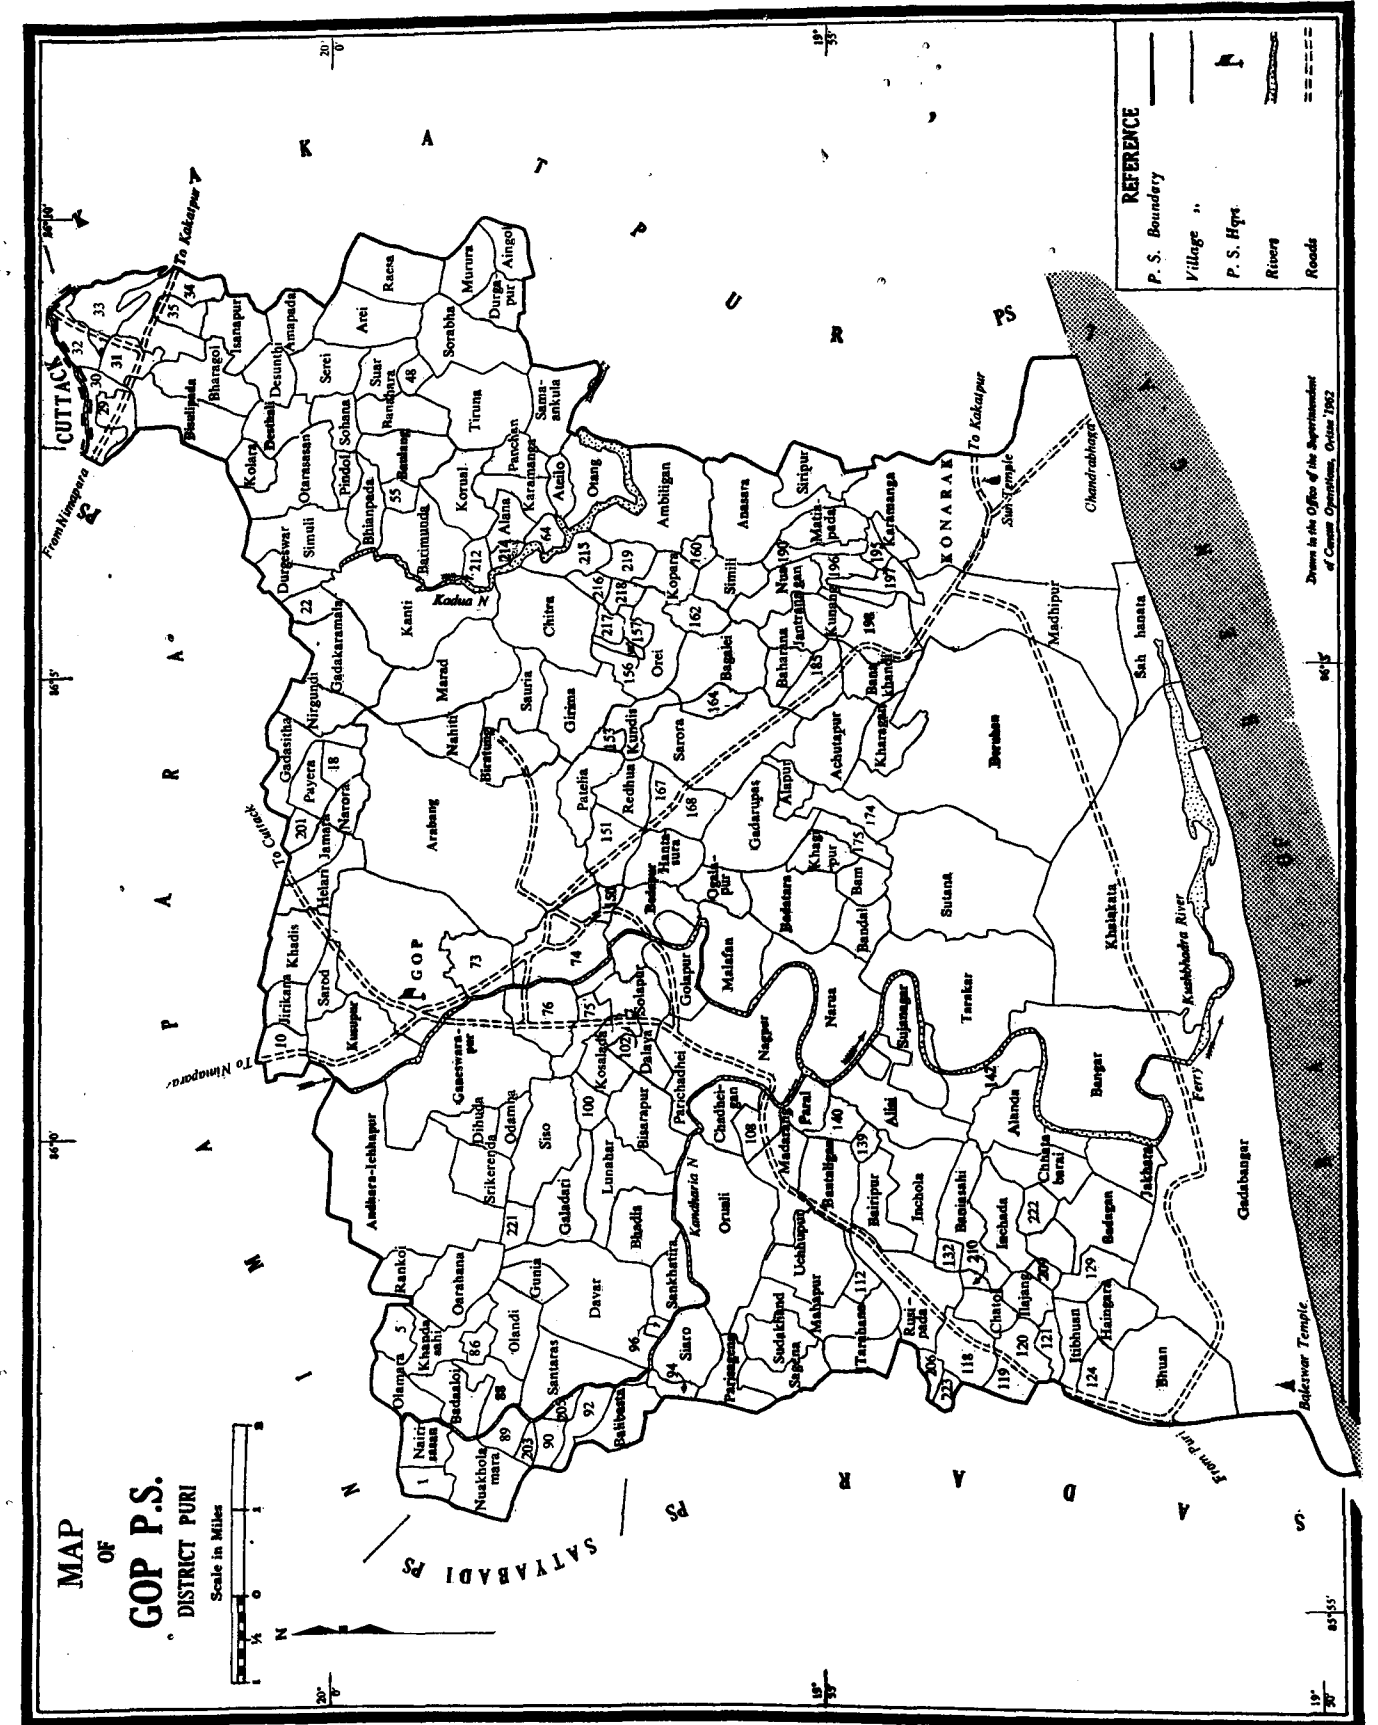

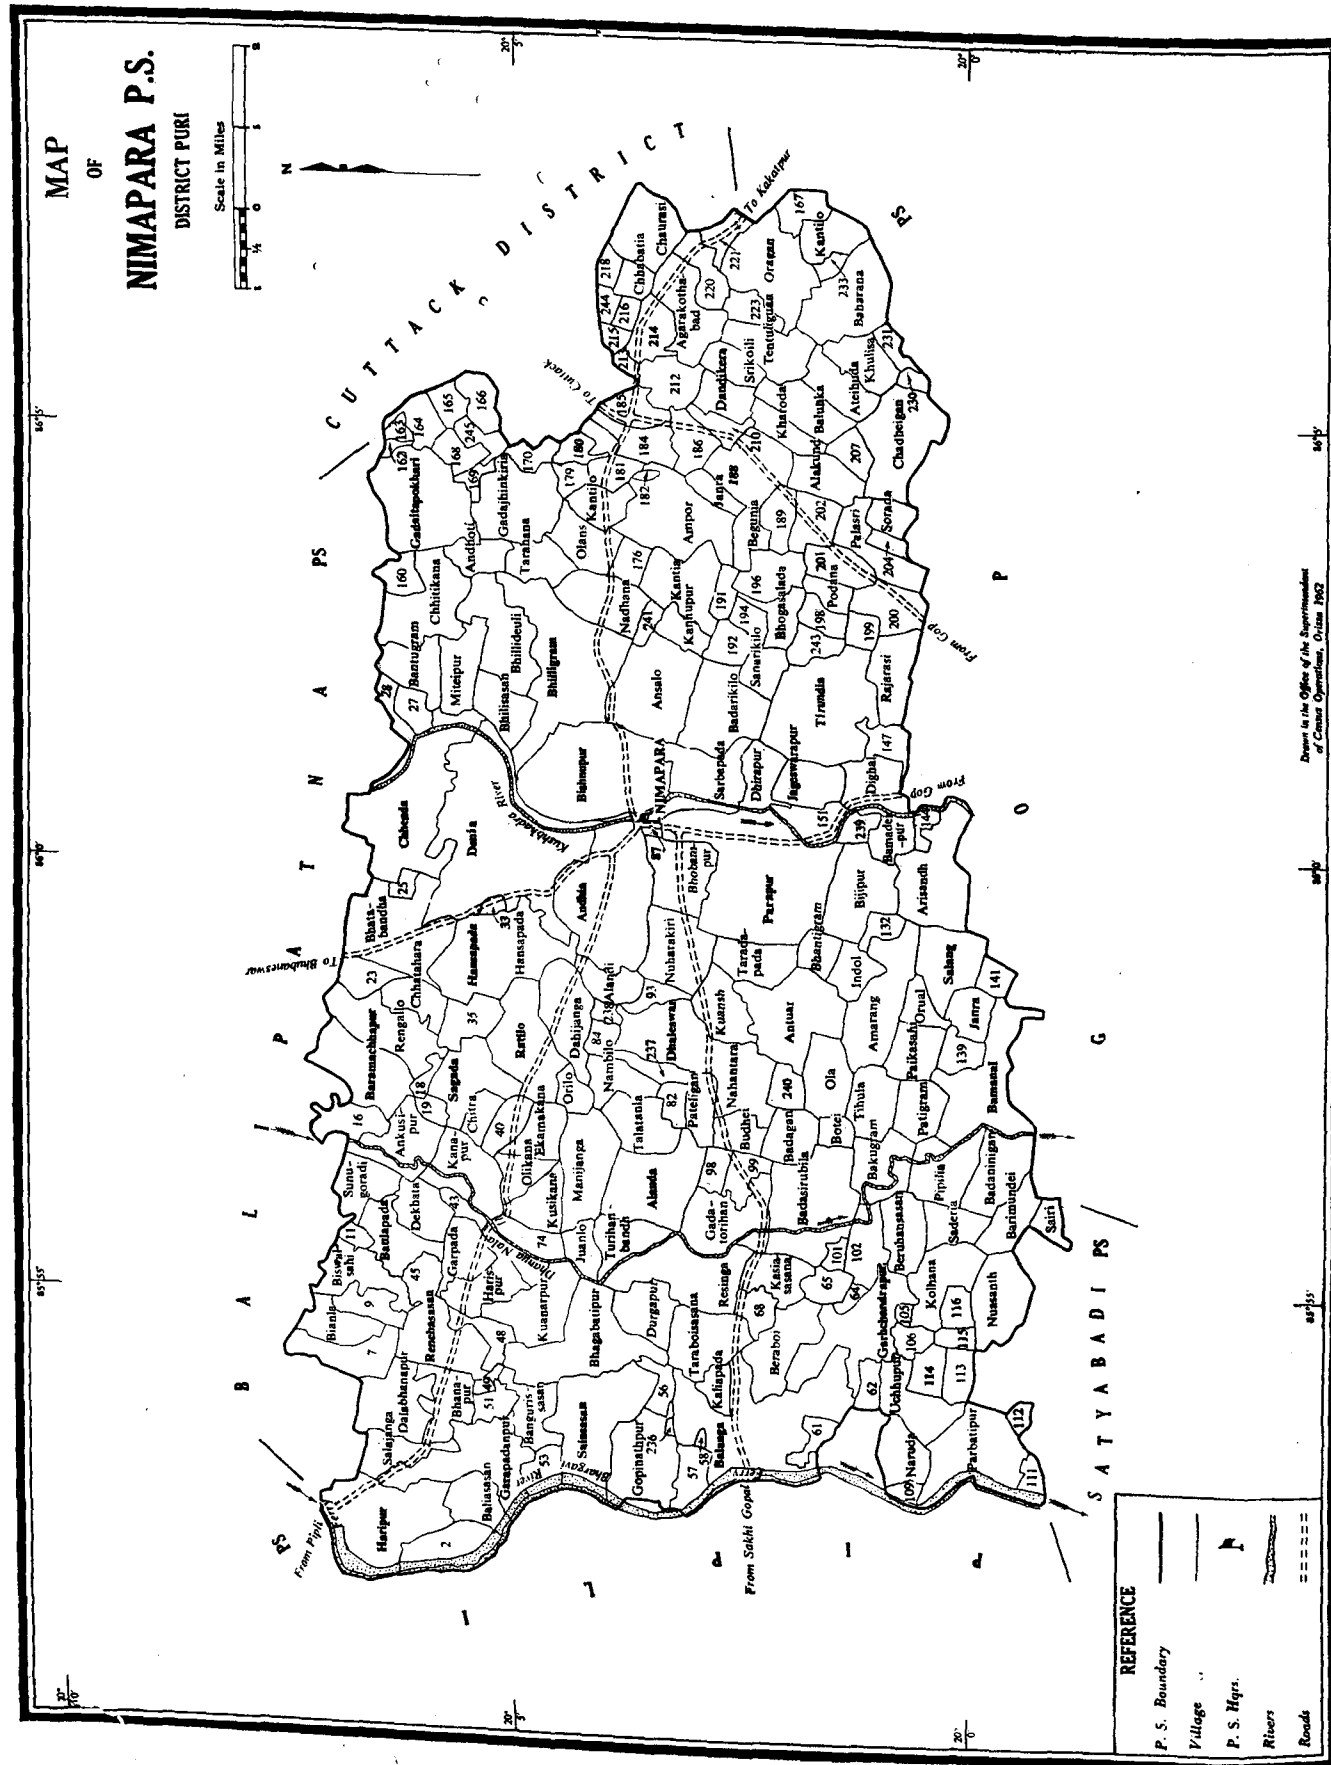

Agriculture—Out of the total area of the district comprising 2,587,712 acres, net area sown is 1,037,073 acres (40·1%) and the area under irrigation is 275,793 acres (10·7%). Rice, ragi and kulthi, oil-seeds and cocoanut constitute principal crops. The quantity of rice produced annually is 230,830 tons which is mostly used for internal consumption leaving a small surplus for export each year. The production of cocoanut in this district is the highest in the State.

BALASORE DISTRICT

Balasore, a north-eastern district of Orissa lies between 20° 43'N and 21° 59'N latitudes and between 86° 16'E and 87° 29'E longitudes. Its boundaries extend in the north up to Midnapur district in West Bengal, in the south to Cuttack district, in the west to Keonjhar and Mayurbhanj districts and in the east to the Bay of Bengal.

Physiography—The district easily divides itself into three well-defined natural tracts. The first is a narrow maritime strip of land, 2 to 6 miles broad. Towards the beach, there are sand dunes and ridges 30 to 50 feet high, covered with wild creepers and thorny bushes, behind which there are stretches of saline tracts with growth of scrubby vegetation, traversed by sluggish and brackish streams. The tract is unfit for cultivation but is considered suitable for salt manufacture which used to be carried on in the past. In recent years, rice cultivation has extended in patches, sparse groups of houses have grown up on higher ridges, and plantations of casurina and groves of coconut, palm and betel-nut have been raised along the seacoast and in the inland portion. The second natural tract is the deltaic alluvial plain teeming with population and covered with vast stretches of fertile paddy lands, extending over the major part of the district. At places, there are pais or depressed lands formed by silting up by the yearly overflow of nearby rivers, which are noted for the production of the finest crops. The tract has no forests, but the thickly populated villages are landscaped by fine orchards of mango, pipal, banyan, tamarind and occasionally with clumps of bamboo. The third tract is a submontane country of undulating surface, running along the foot of the hills and gradually gaining in height, particularly in Nilgiri subdivision, where the highest peak is 1,788 feet above the sea-level. Some of the hills contain valuable timber mainly sal and piasal, and extensive quarries of granite stone. The stone makes a beautiful, compact and tough material which is at the same time soft and easy to work for the manufacture of stonewares and utensils. Forests cover 500 sq. miles of area and are of northern tropical semi-evergreen type.

The district is intersected by a large number of rivers and streams, the important among them being Subarnarekha, Burabalang, Salandi and Baitarani. They drain a large area and bring down an enormous mass of water causing extensive floods particularly in Bhadrak subdivision. They deposit vast quantities of silt and enrich the soil, but the silt has in one way been fatal to the prosperity of the district, as every port established since the 17th Century had to be abandoned on account of the silt and sand-bars at the mouth of rivers. The district has a seacoast line of 85 miles.

Climate and rainfall—Being a coastal district, its climate is characterised by lesser extremes of temperature and high humidities all the year round. The cold season from December to February is followed by the hot season from March to May. The period from June to September constitutes the south-west monsoon season. The next two months form the post-monsoon season. May is usually the hottest part of the year when the mean daily maximum temperature rises to 36.5°C. With the onset of the monsoon there is an appreciable drop in temperature which decreases considerably from October onwards till the coldest month, December brings down the mean daily minimum temperature to 14°C. The district is directly on the track of cyclonic storms and depressions which form in the Bay of Bengal during the rainy season. They cause widespread heavy rain and strong winds.

The average rainfall in the district is 1,583.3 mm. (62.33"). The rainfall during the monsoon season accounts for 70% of the annual rainfall in the district. On an average there are 77 rainy days in a year.

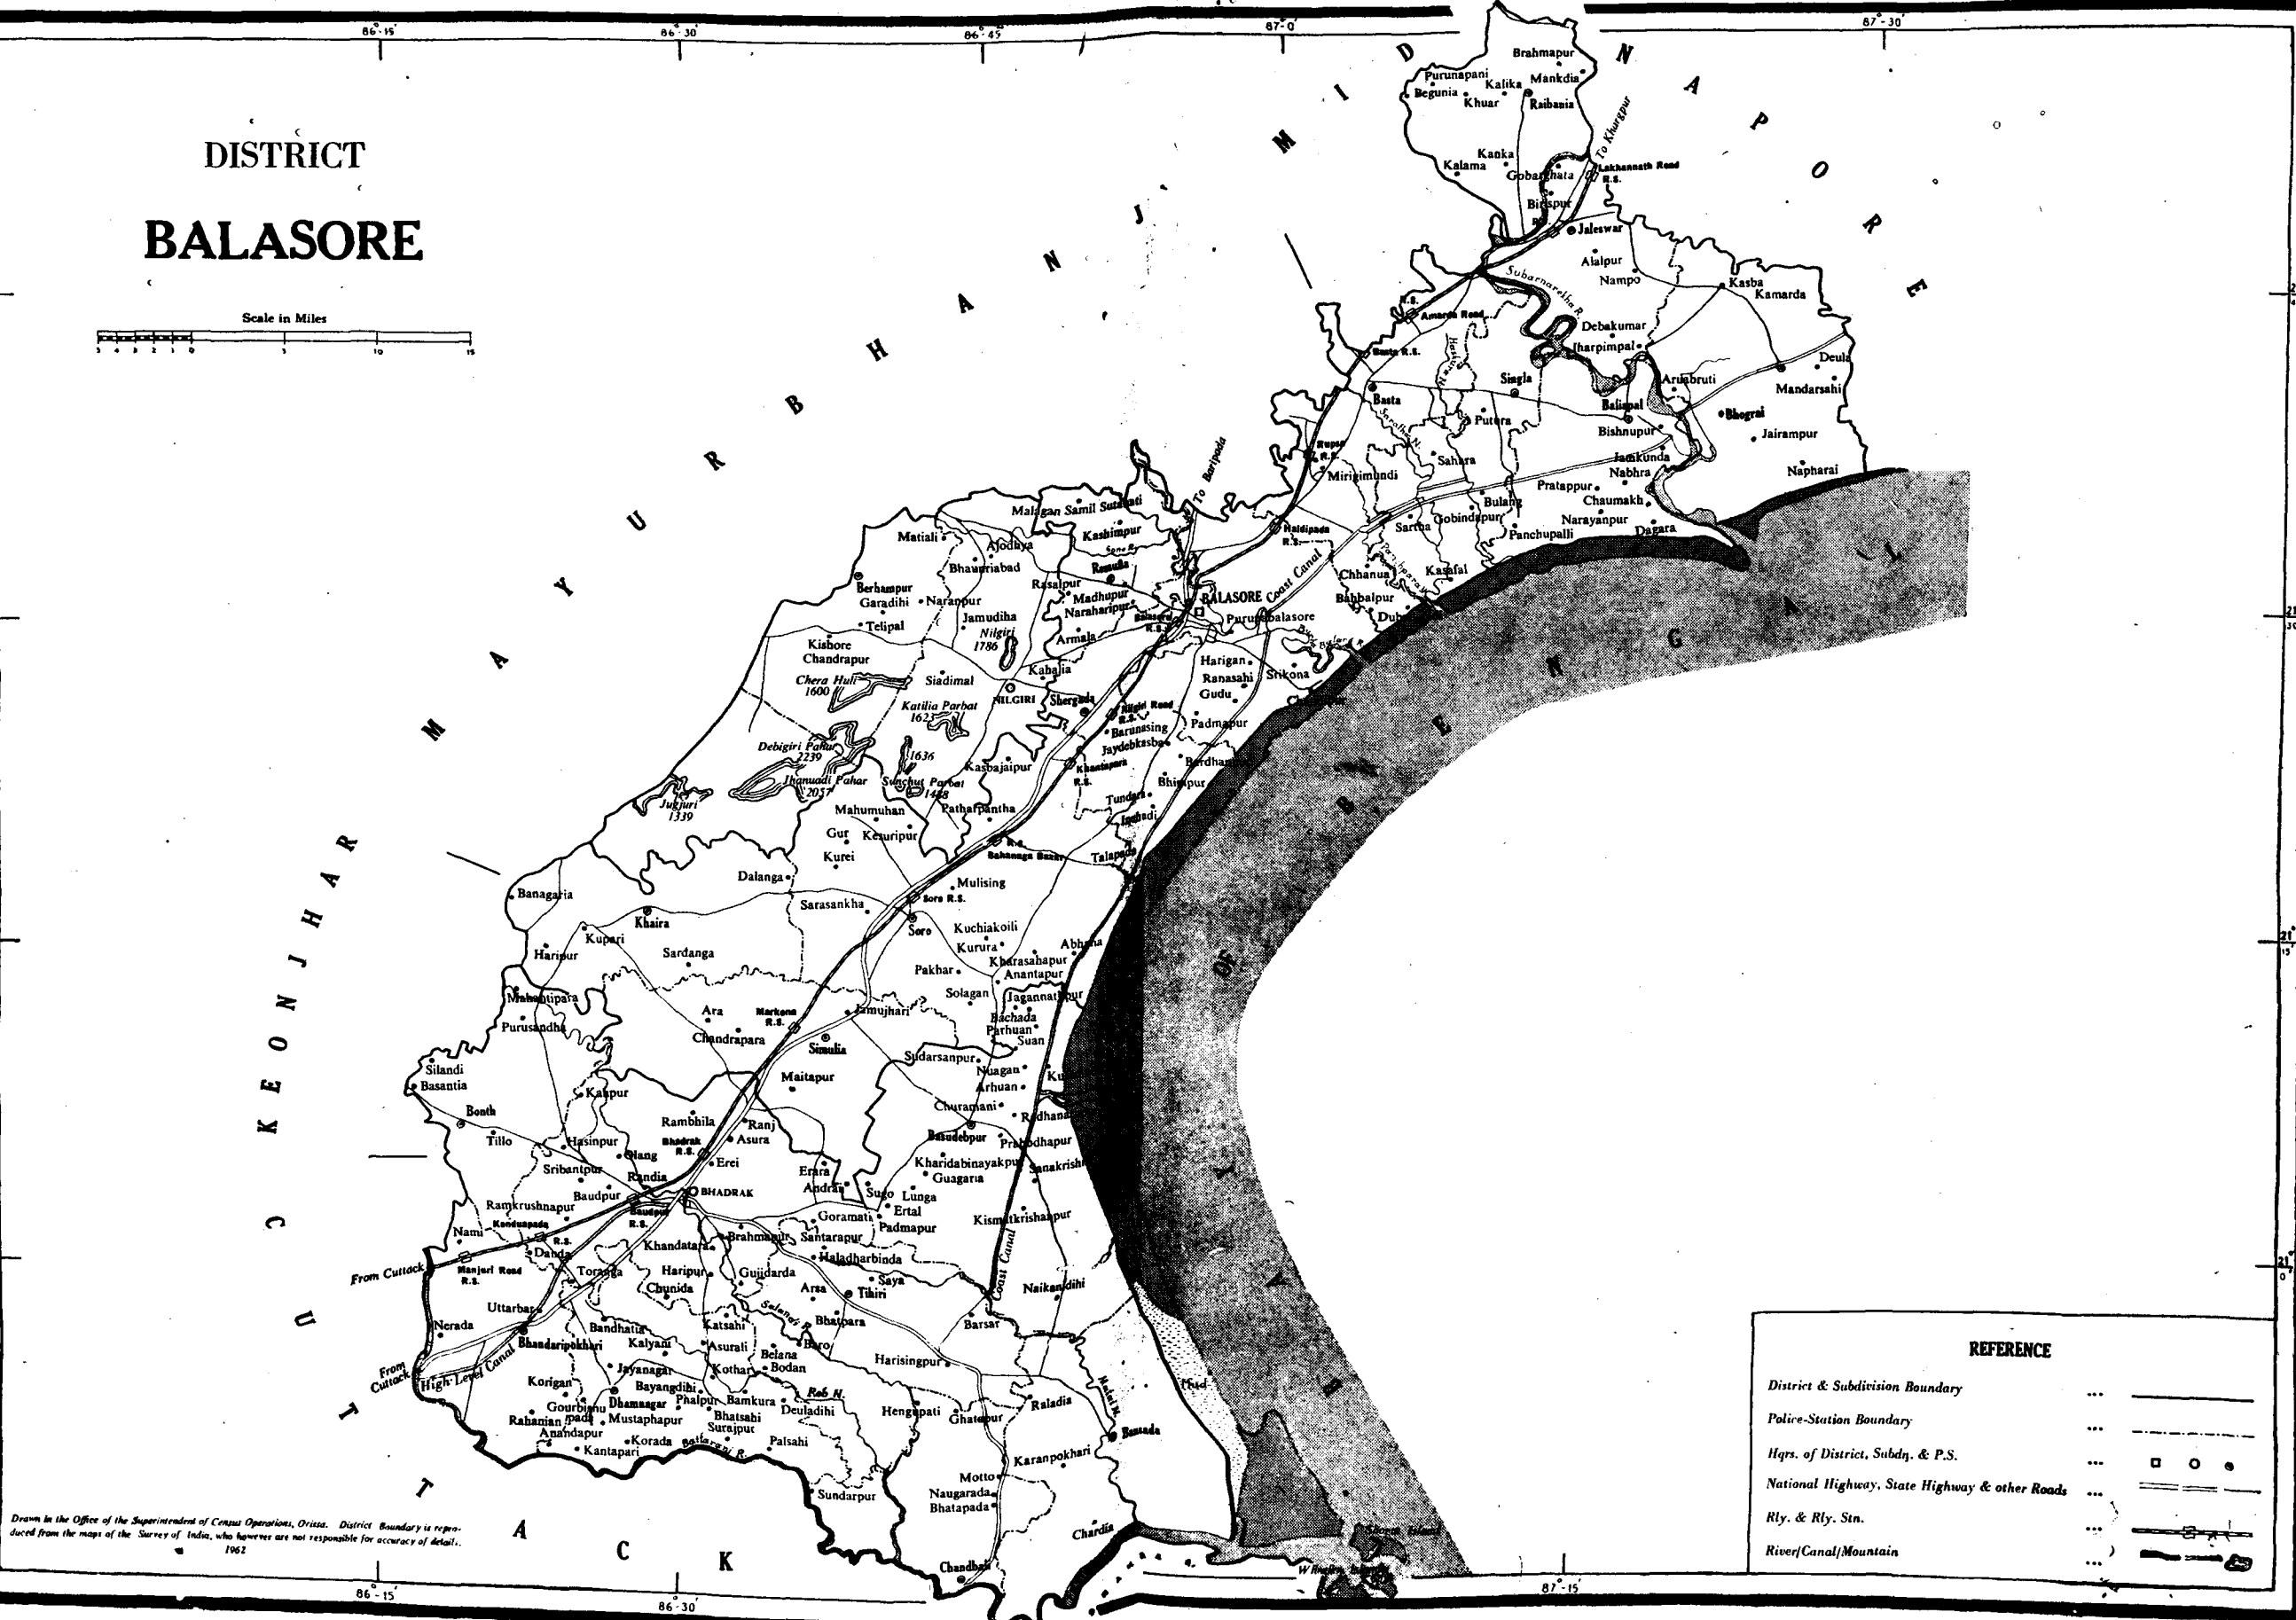

Vital Statistics—During the decade 1951-60, births outnumbered deaths by 129,580 (70,066 males and 59,514 females). The birth and death rates which are vitiated by under-registration work out to 23.3 and 12.9 per mille respectively. Infant deaths were 37,792 against total birth of 290,919 constituting 23.42% of total deaths. Deaths among children up to the age of 5 years are nearly a third of total deaths. Fever, notably malaria, accounted for 71.19% of deaths in the district during the decade 1951-60 whereas cholera and smallpox caused only 1.96% and 1.37% deaths.

Area and population of administrative units—Balasore, the smallest district of Orissa is 2,507 sq. miles or 6,493.1 sq. kms. in area and contains a population of 14.15 lakhs. The district is divided into 3 subdivisions and 22 police stations. The area and population of each such administrative unit is given below:

Growth of population (1901-61)—The population of the district which was 1,140,102 in 1901 rose to 1,415,923 in 1961 marking an increase of 24·2% during the last 60 years which is the lowest of all the districts in Orissa. Two successive decades 1901-11 and 1911-21 witnessed decline in population by 1·4% and 7·0% respectively. The following decades 1921-31 and 1931-41 have recorded nominal growth of 1·3% and 4·7% respectively. The population again declined by 0·3% during the decade 1941-51. However, the last decade 1951-61 has registered the highest growth of 28·0% which contributed to the overall increase during the past six decades.

Trend of migration—The migrants to the district constitute 6·0% of the total population, of whom 2·6% are born outside the State. Majority of the migrants have come from West Bengal and Andhra Pradesh. The number of migrants from other districts of the State as well as from outside the State are given below:

	Persons	Males	Females	Per-centage
1. Population of the district	1,415,923	717,340	698,583	100
2. Born in the district	1,330,631	687,314	643,317	94·0
3. Born outside the district but within the State	48,323	16,305	32,018	3·4
4. Born in States in India other than Orissa	33,993	12,050	21,943	2·4
5. Born outside India (but in Asia)	1,380	831	549	0·1
6. Others including unclassifiable	1,596	840	756	0·1

Economic classification—The population is divided into two broad sections, namely, workers and non-workers. The workers are further subdivided into nine industrial categories according to their activity. The persons in each section and category with their sex break-up are given below:

Section or category	Persons	Males	Females
1. Non-workers	962,423	306,974	655,449
2. Workers	453,500	410,366	43,134
(i) Cultivator	294,267	283,556	10,711
(ii) Agricultural labourer	66,693	56,057	10,636
(iii) Mining, Quarrying, Live-stock, Forestry, Fishing, Hunting and Plantations, Orchards and Allied activities	4,547	3,949	598
(iv) Household industry	18,840	9,316	9,524
(v) Manufacturing other than household industry	4,765	3,982	783
(vi) Construction	867	840	27
(vii) Trade and Commerce	8,938	7,697	1,241
(viii) Transport, Storage and Communications	3,733	3,669	64
(ix) Other Services	50,850	41,300	9,550

Scheduled Tribes—There are 31 Scheduled Tribes in the district with a population of 96,007, which is 6·7% of the total population. The principal tribes are Santal (35,884), Bhumij (20,149), Kolha (19,722), Bathudi (7,076), Shabar (3,888), Munda (2,669), Ho (1,172) and Bhuiya (1,166). Literacy is confined to 5·6%. Principal economic activity is cultivation and agricultural labour. 'Other services' are also popular.

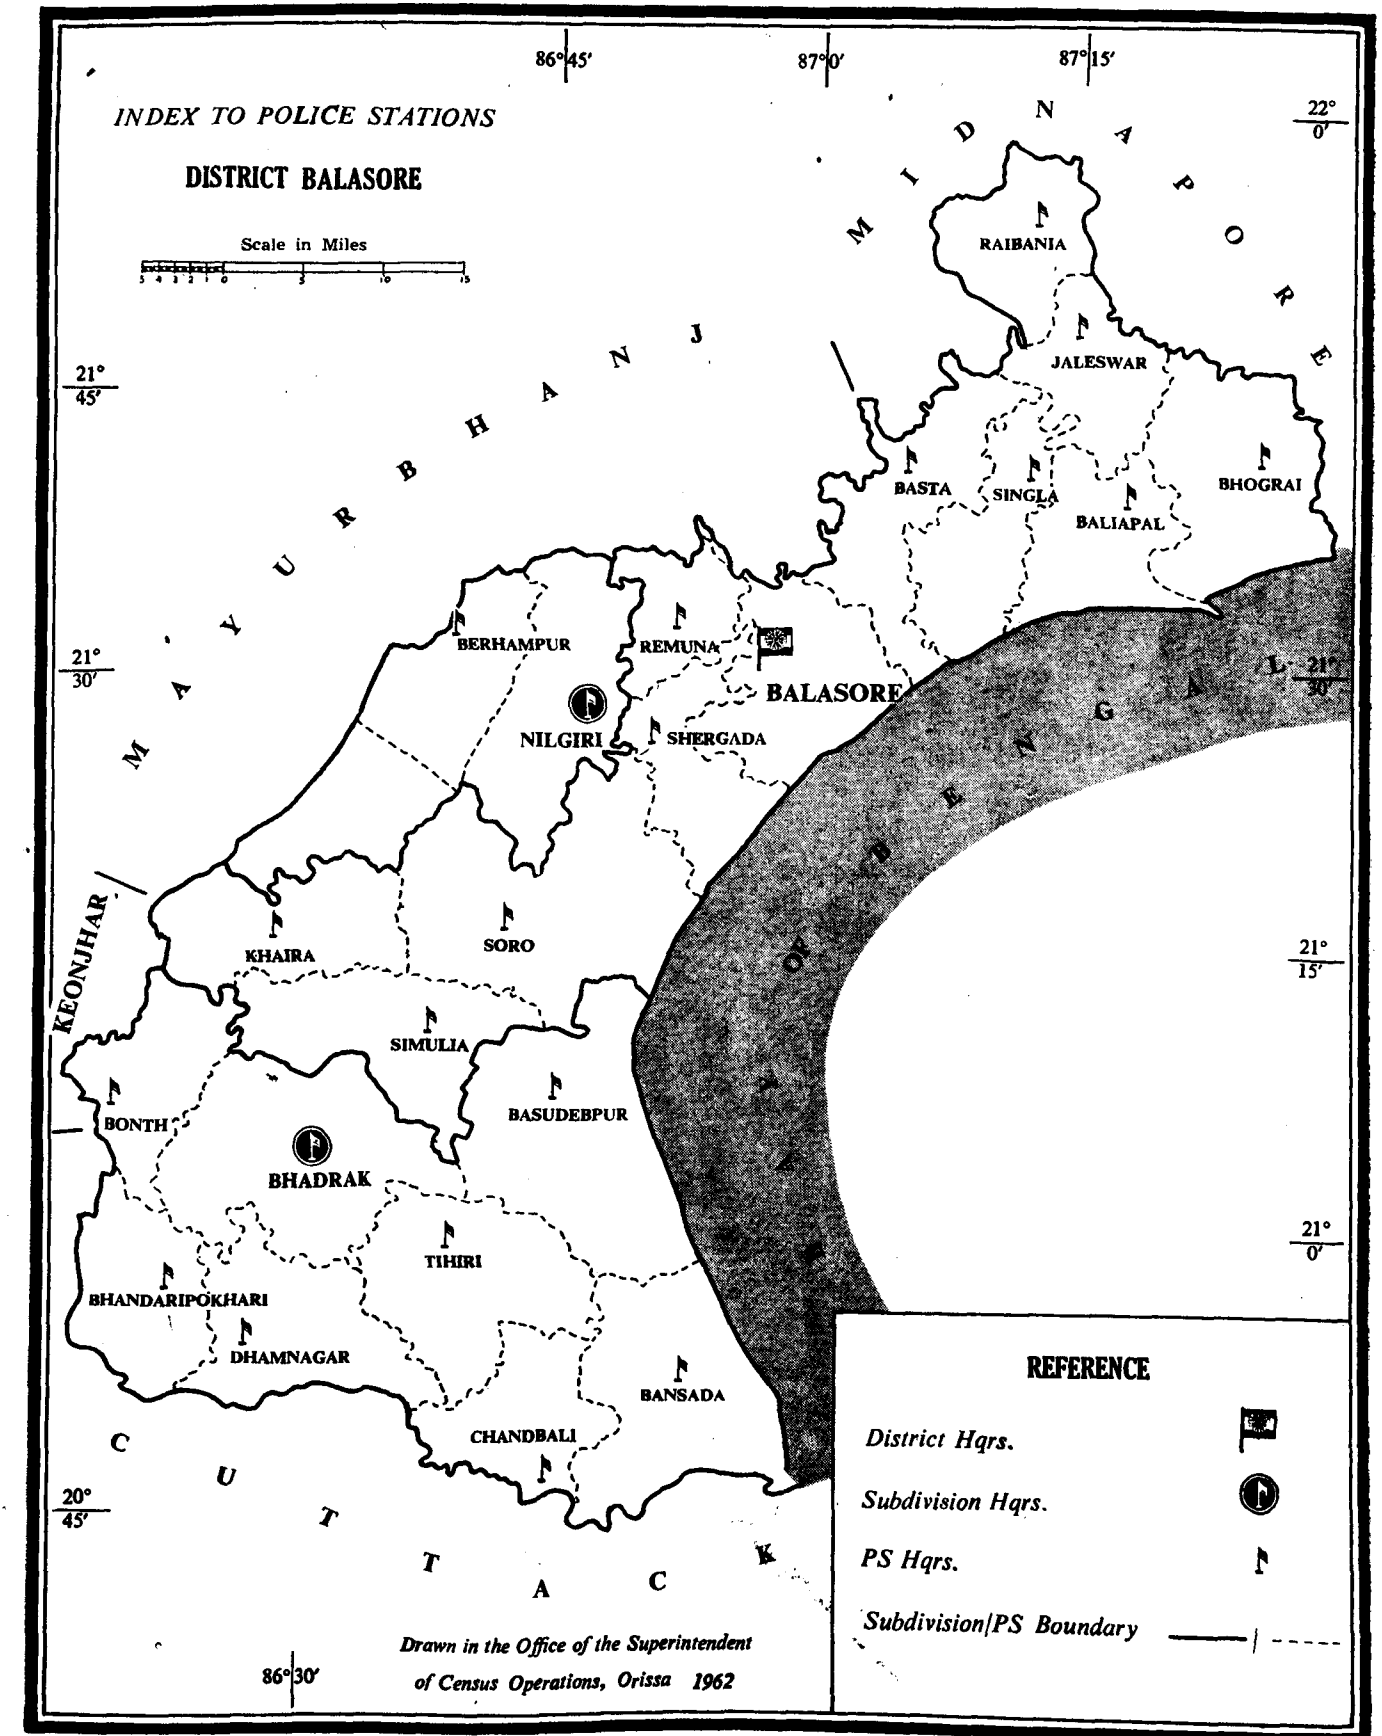

Scheduled Castes—The population of Scheduled Castes in the district is 266,754 which is 18·8% of the total population. There are 53 castes of which the most numerous are Pan (80,987), Kandra (50,100), Gokha (41,840), Dhoba (32,542), Haddi (7,562), Khadala (6,556), Chamar (6,169), Patratanti (5,737), Ujia (5,091), Dom (4,033), Bariki (3,578), Bauri (3,304), Namasudra (3,129), Amant (1,581), Kurunga (1,489), Siyal (1,423), Kela (1,361), Pantanti (1,168) and Mahuria (1,123). Literacy is confined to 13·8%. Cultivation and agricultural labour provide livelihood to a bulk of the population.

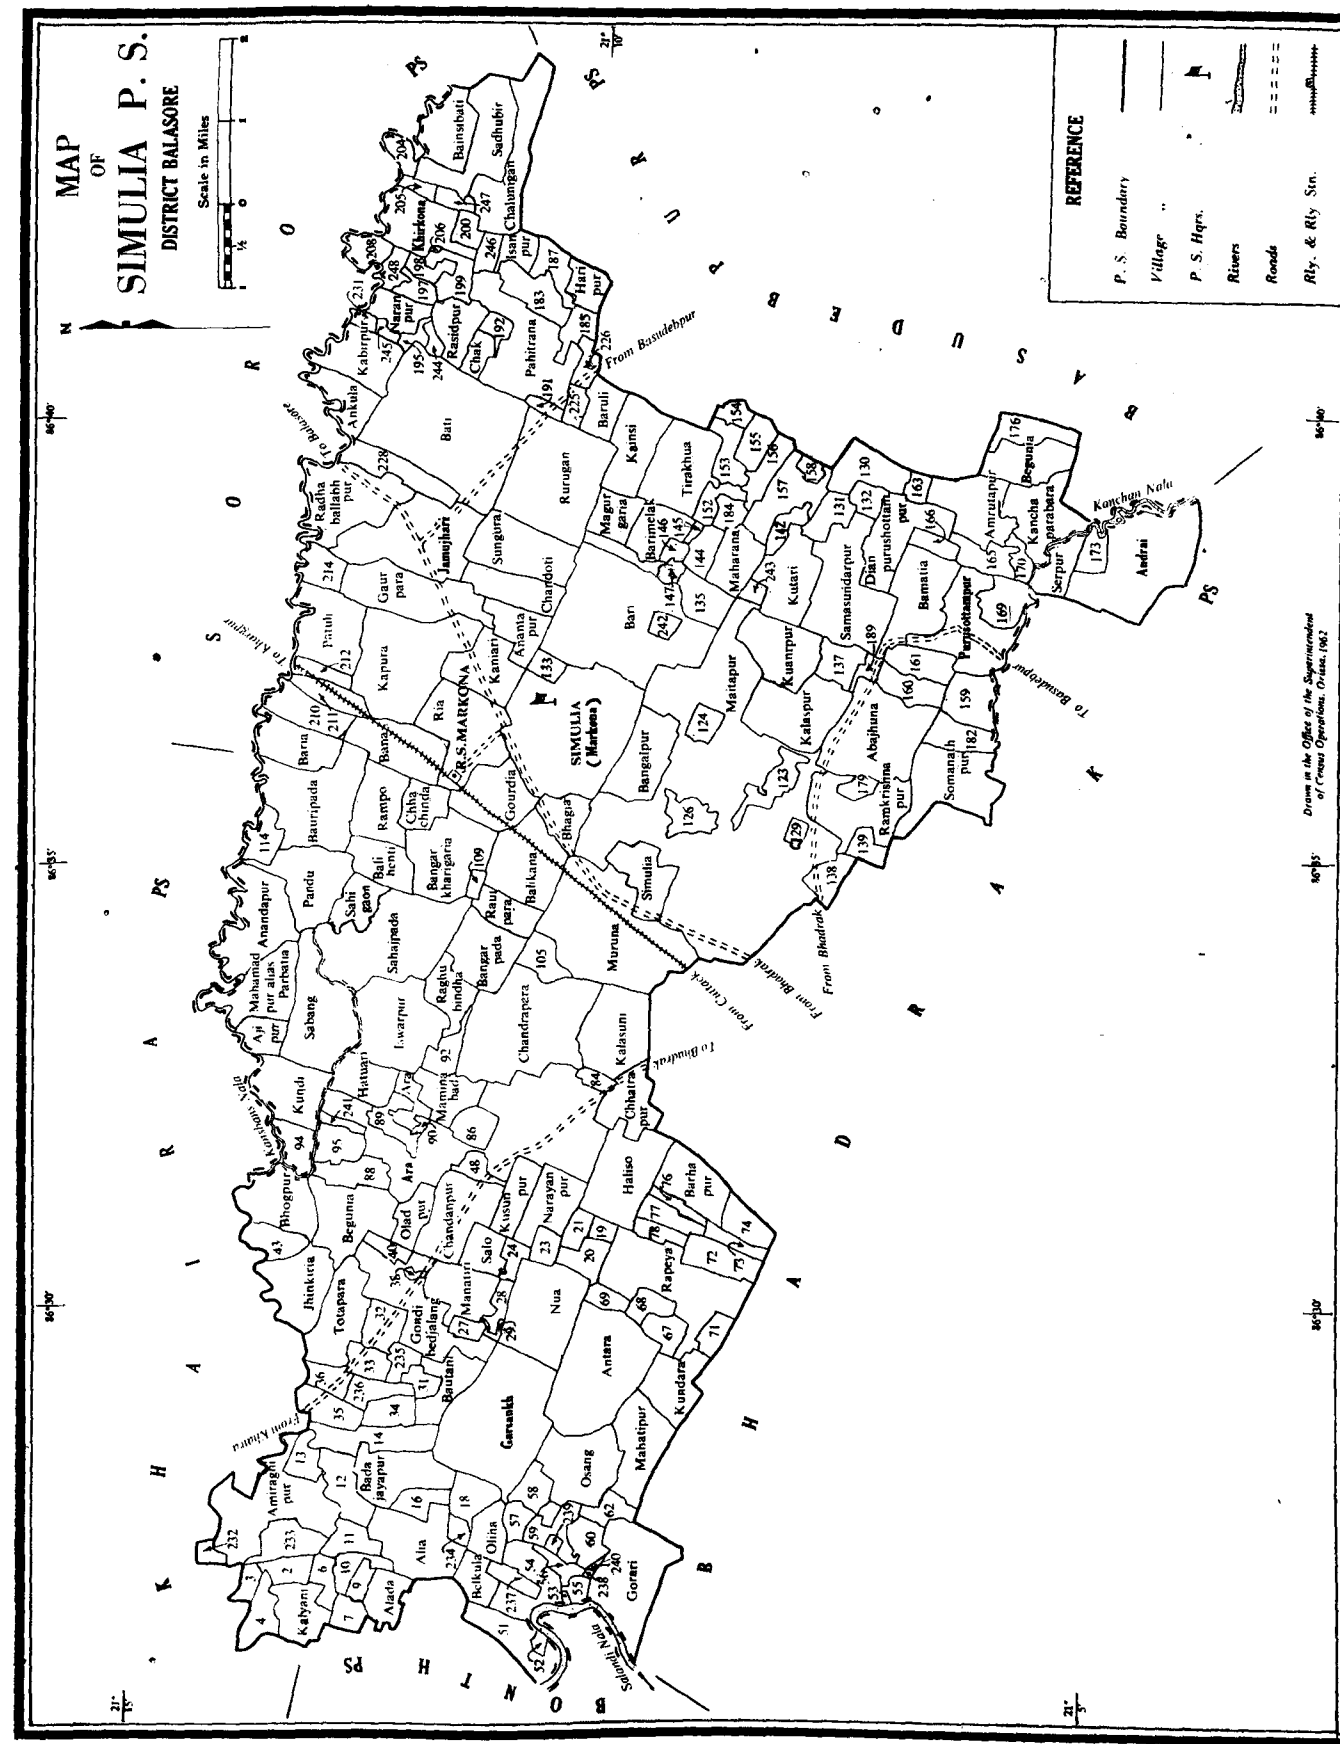

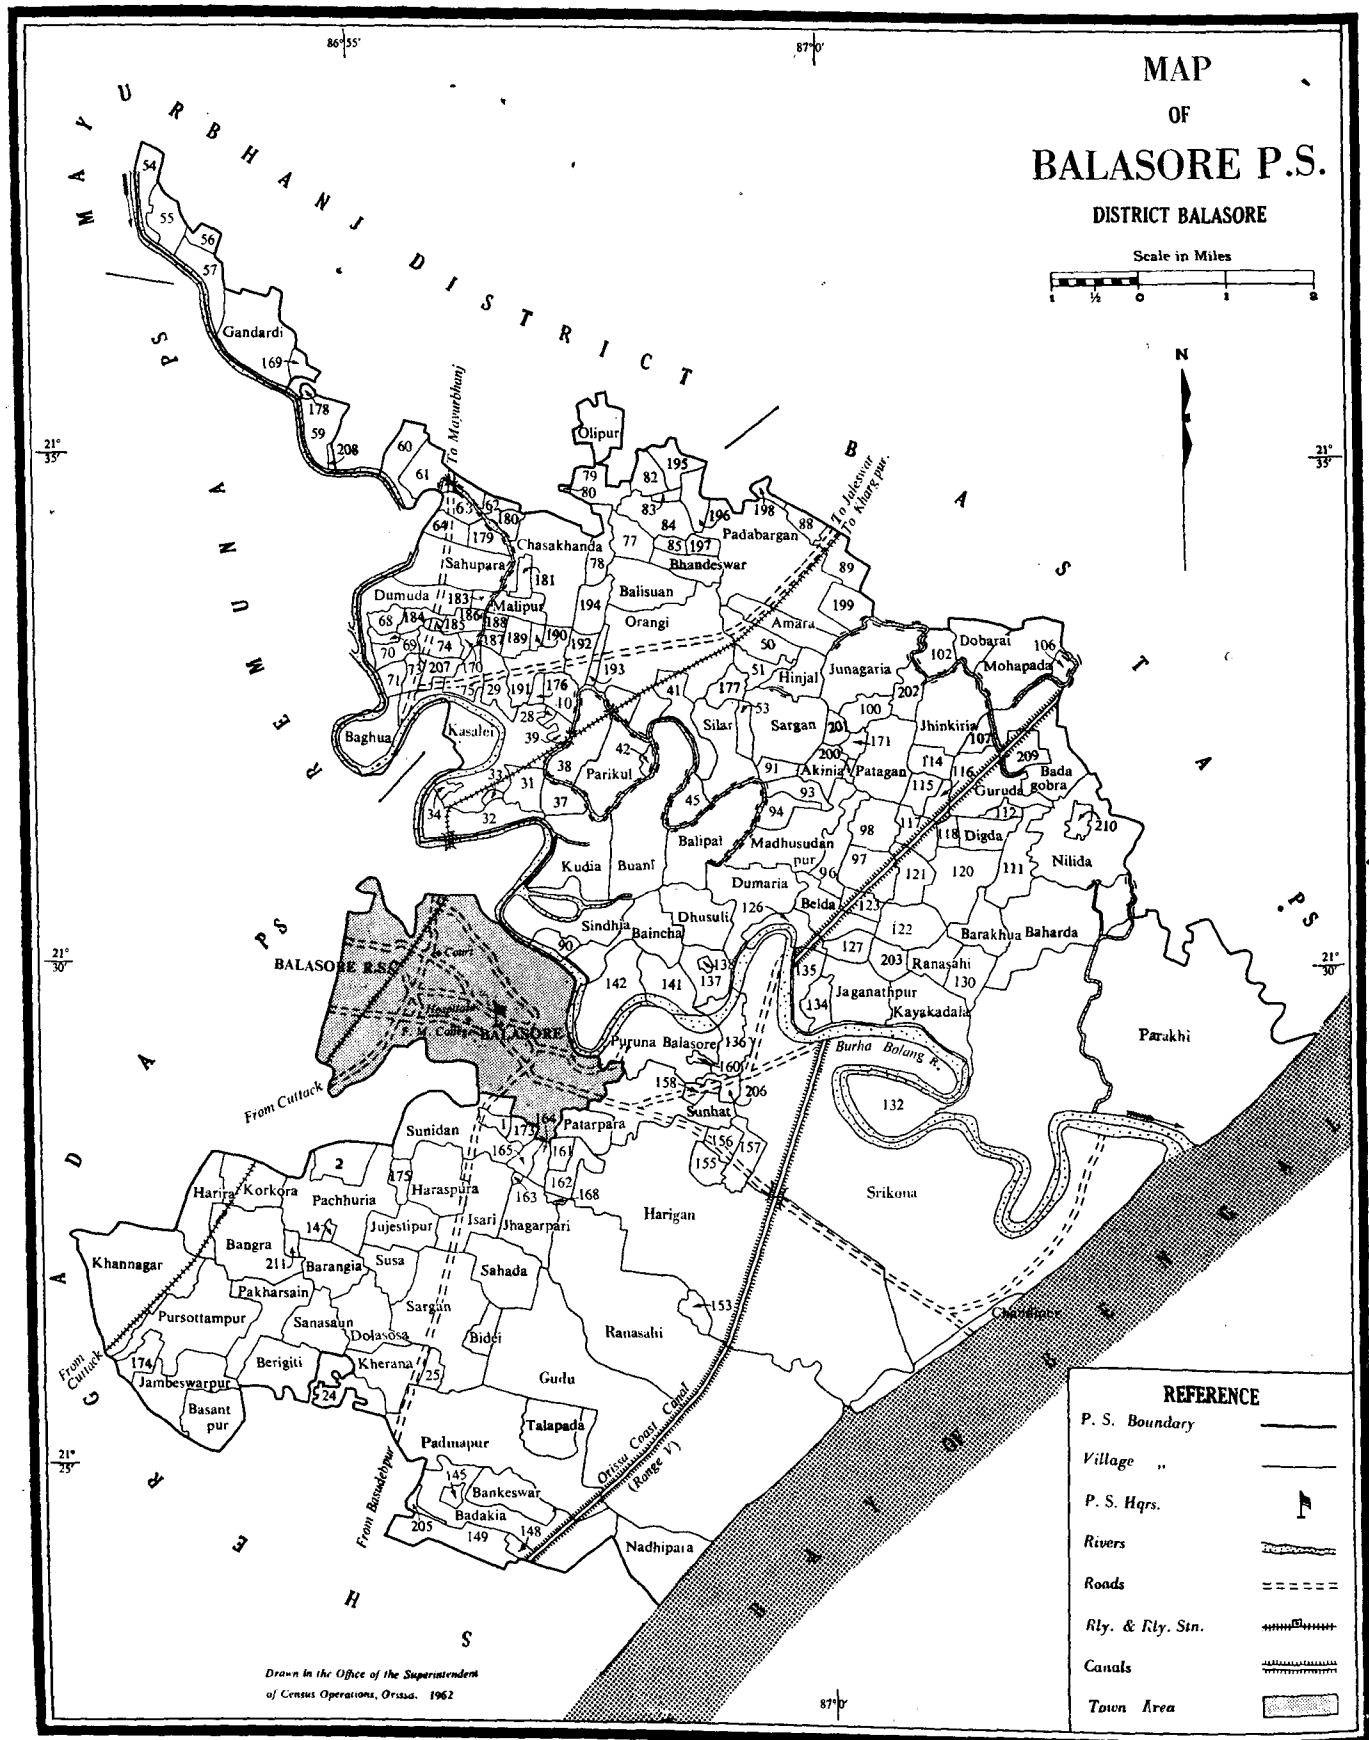

Literacy—There are 417,527 literates out of the total population of 1,415,923. The rate of literacy thus works out to 29·5% as against 23·7% in 1951. Among the males the literacy has gone up to 45·8 per cent and among the females to 12·8 per cent. The district contains 1,712 Primary Schools, 150 M.E. Schools and 49 High Schools.

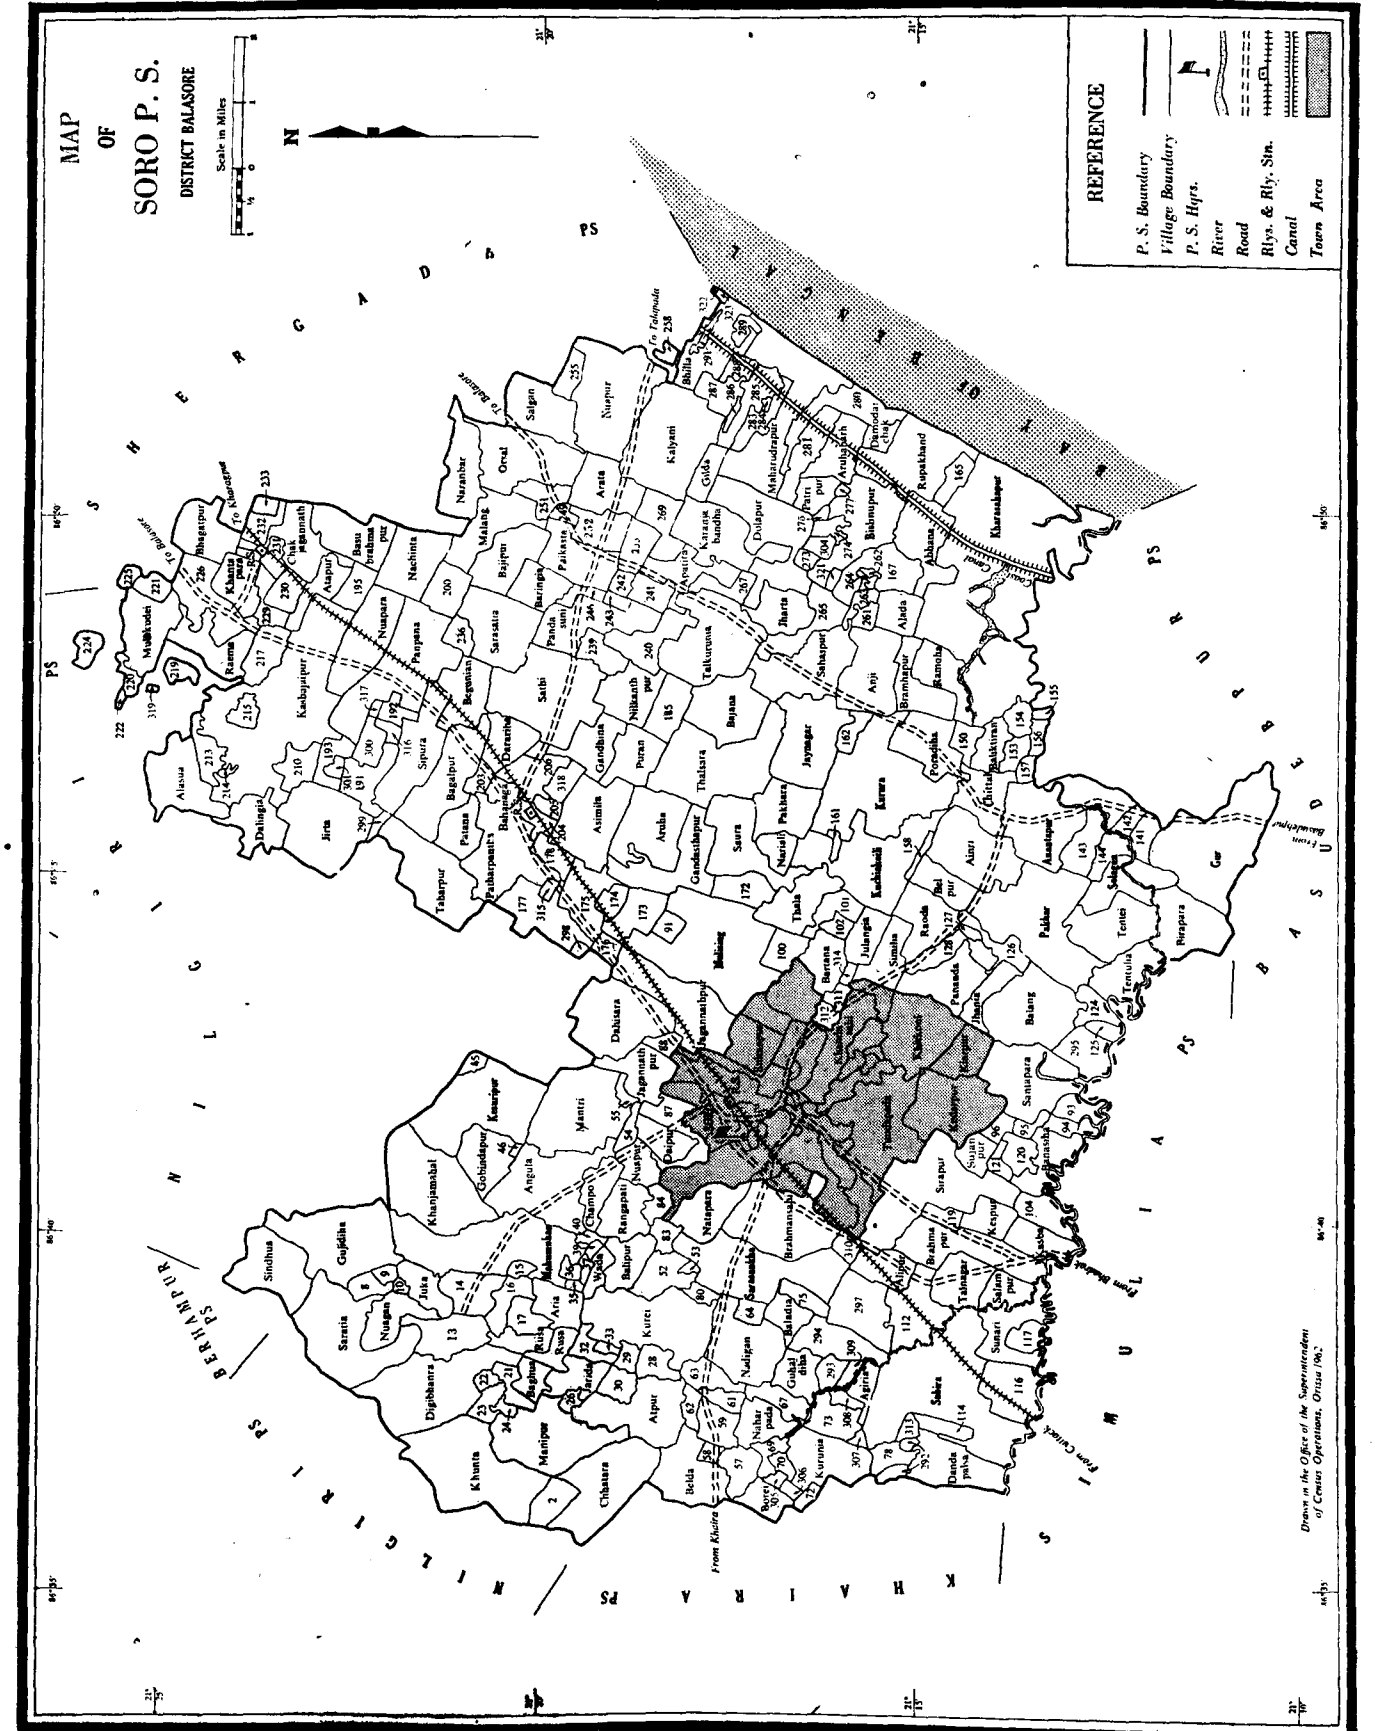

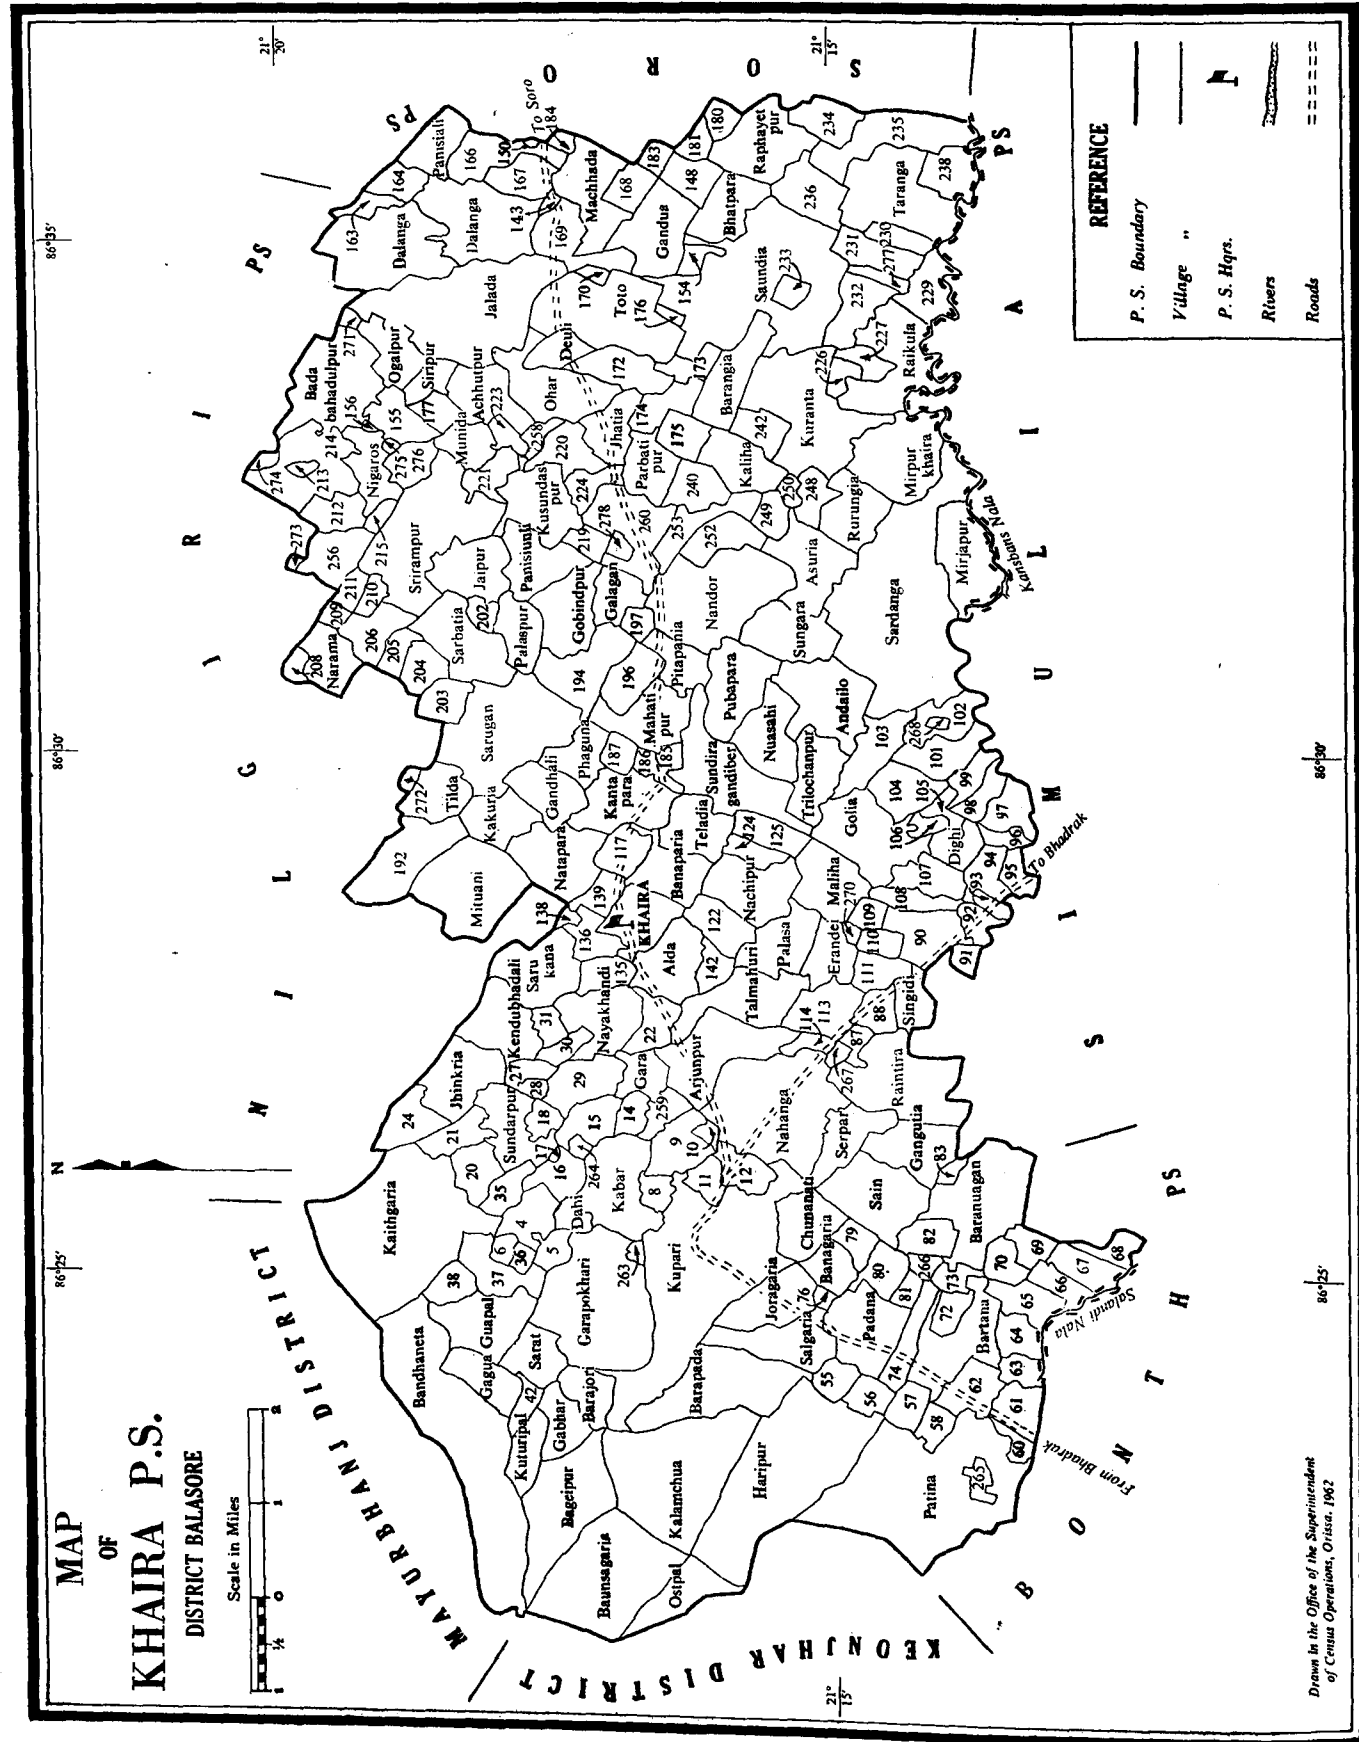

Industries—The number of industrial establishments including those of the lowest scale, namely, household industries are 11,675 in the district. Classified according to the list in the I.S.I.C. Scheme there are 65 kinds of industries. The statement below gives a list of industries which are most extensively found in the district:

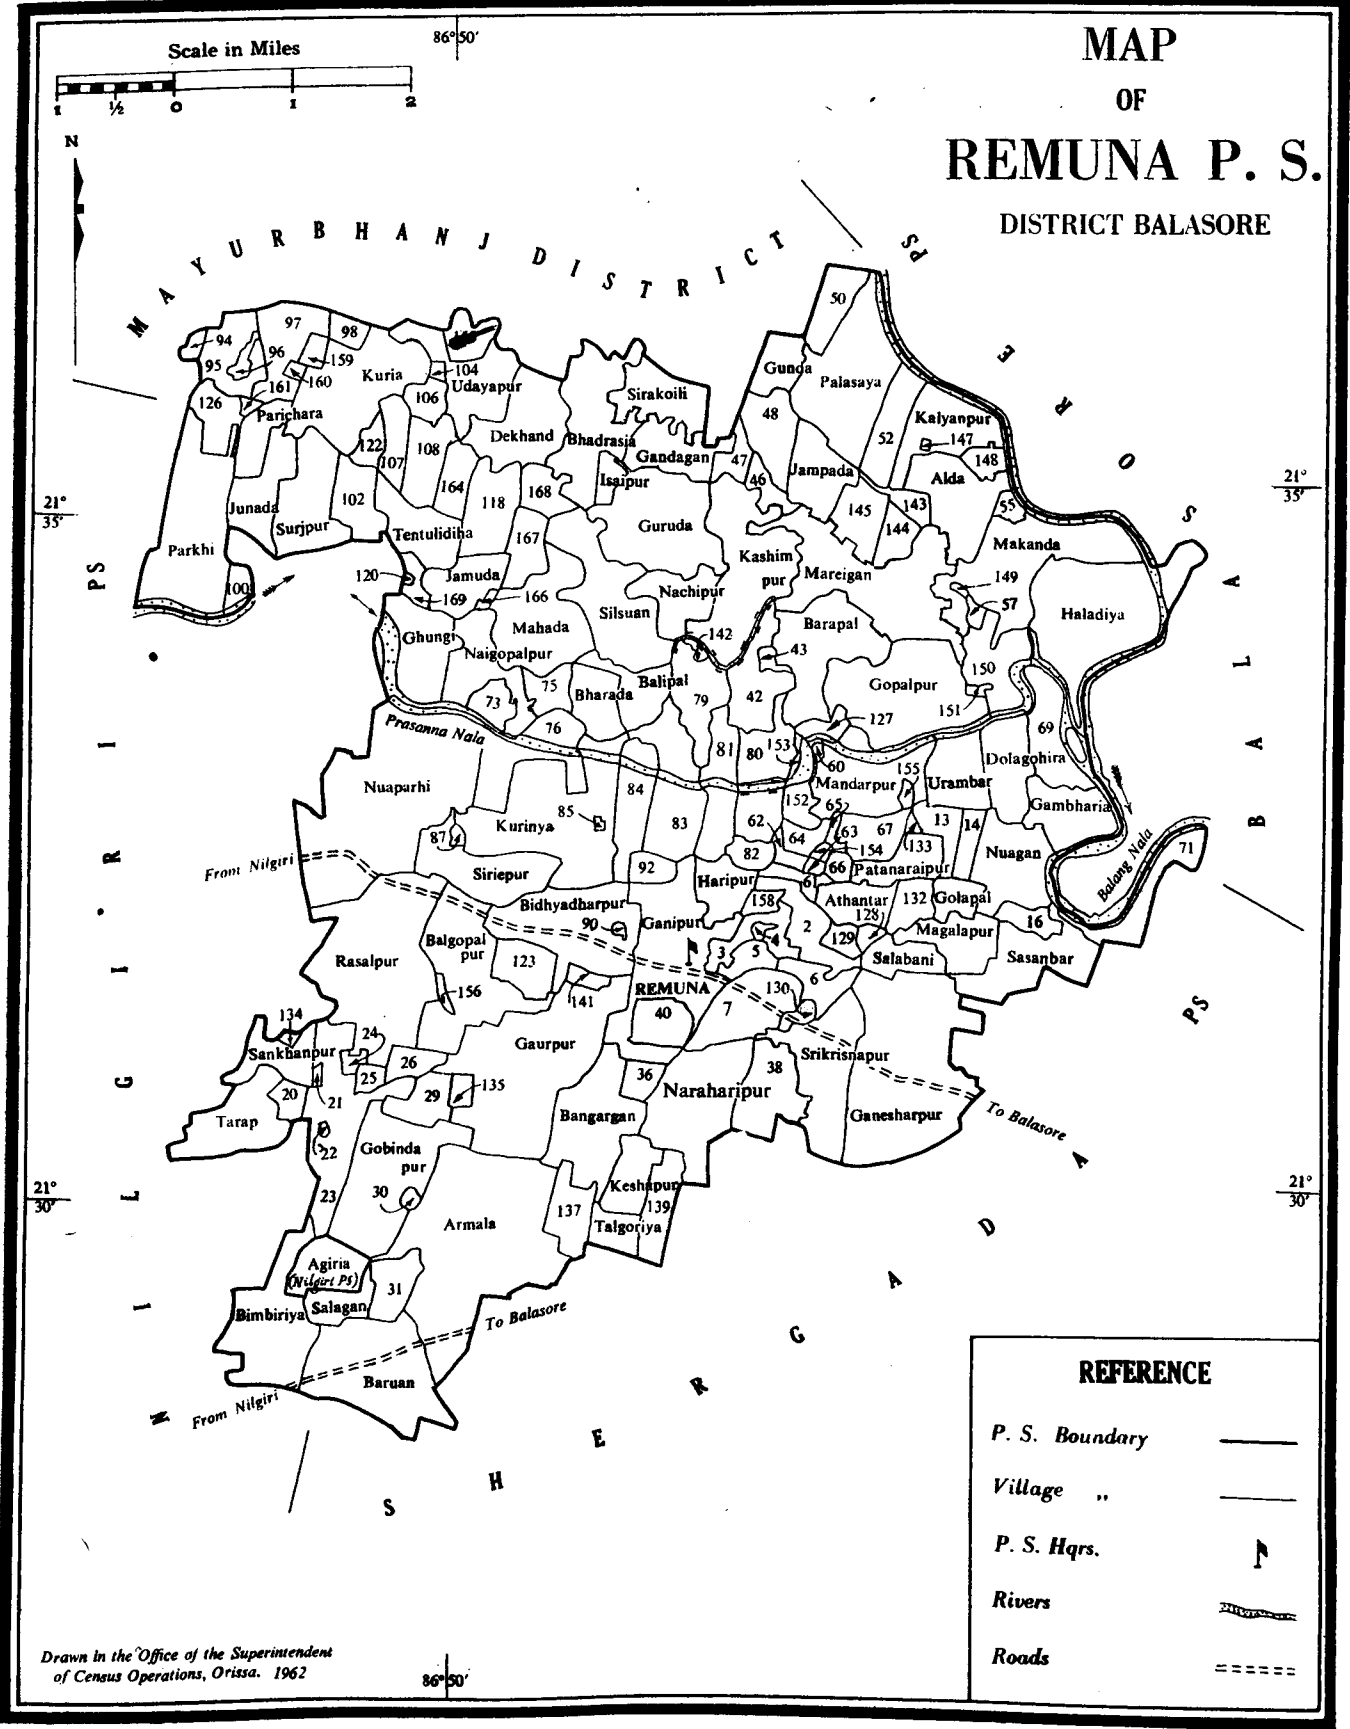

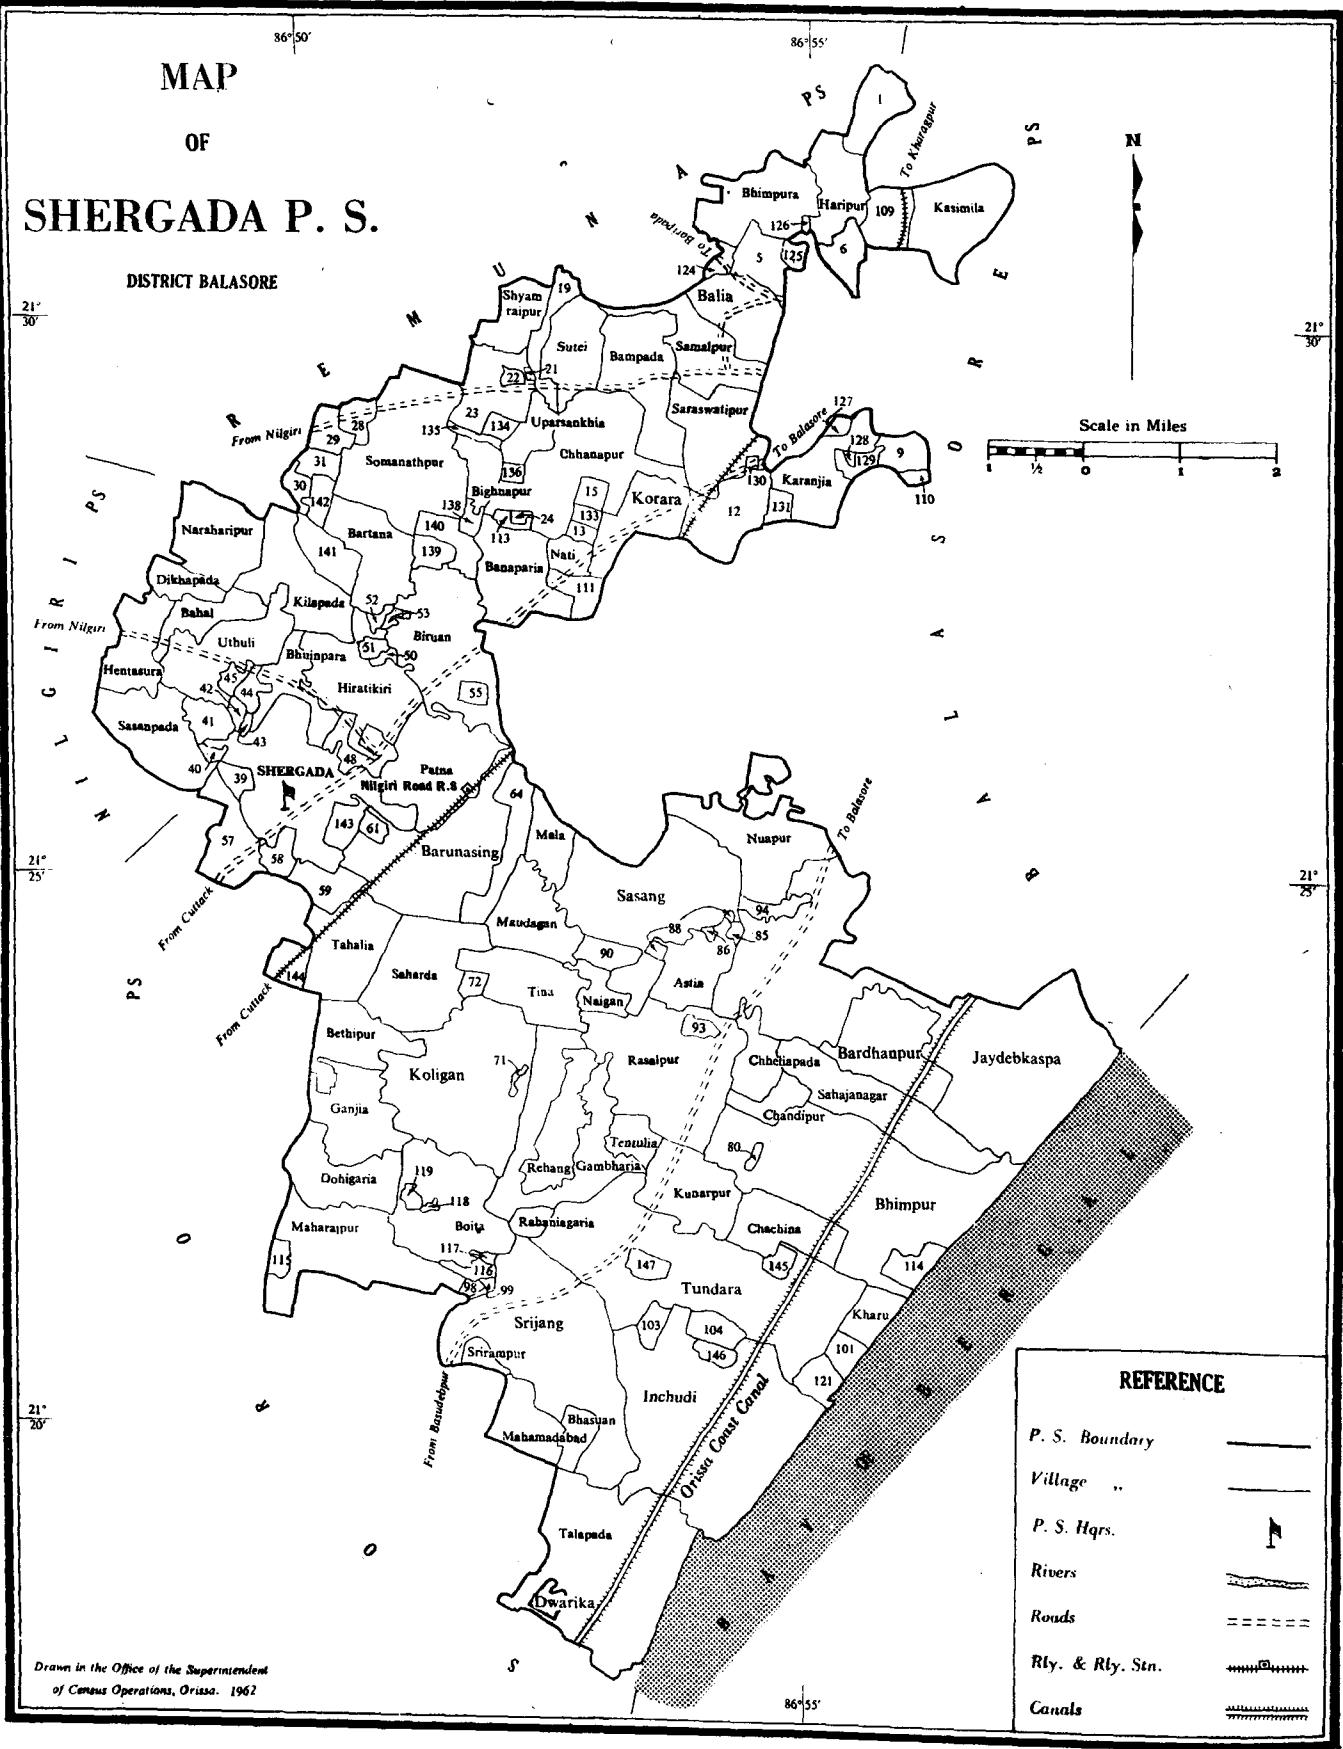

Name of industry	Total no. of estab-lishments	No. of persons engaged
Manufacture of materials from cork, bamboo, cane, leaves, etc.	2,315	5,508
Cotton weaving in handlooms	2,294	5,488
Manufacture of earthenwares and earthen potteries	1,487	2,888
Manufacture of wooden furniture and fixtures	1,006	1,793
Manufacture of jewellery and wares using gold and other precious metals	977	1,774
Manufacture of sundry hardware	865	1,802
Manufacture of cotton nets	402	645
Production of edible fats and oils (other than hydrogenated oil)	385	725

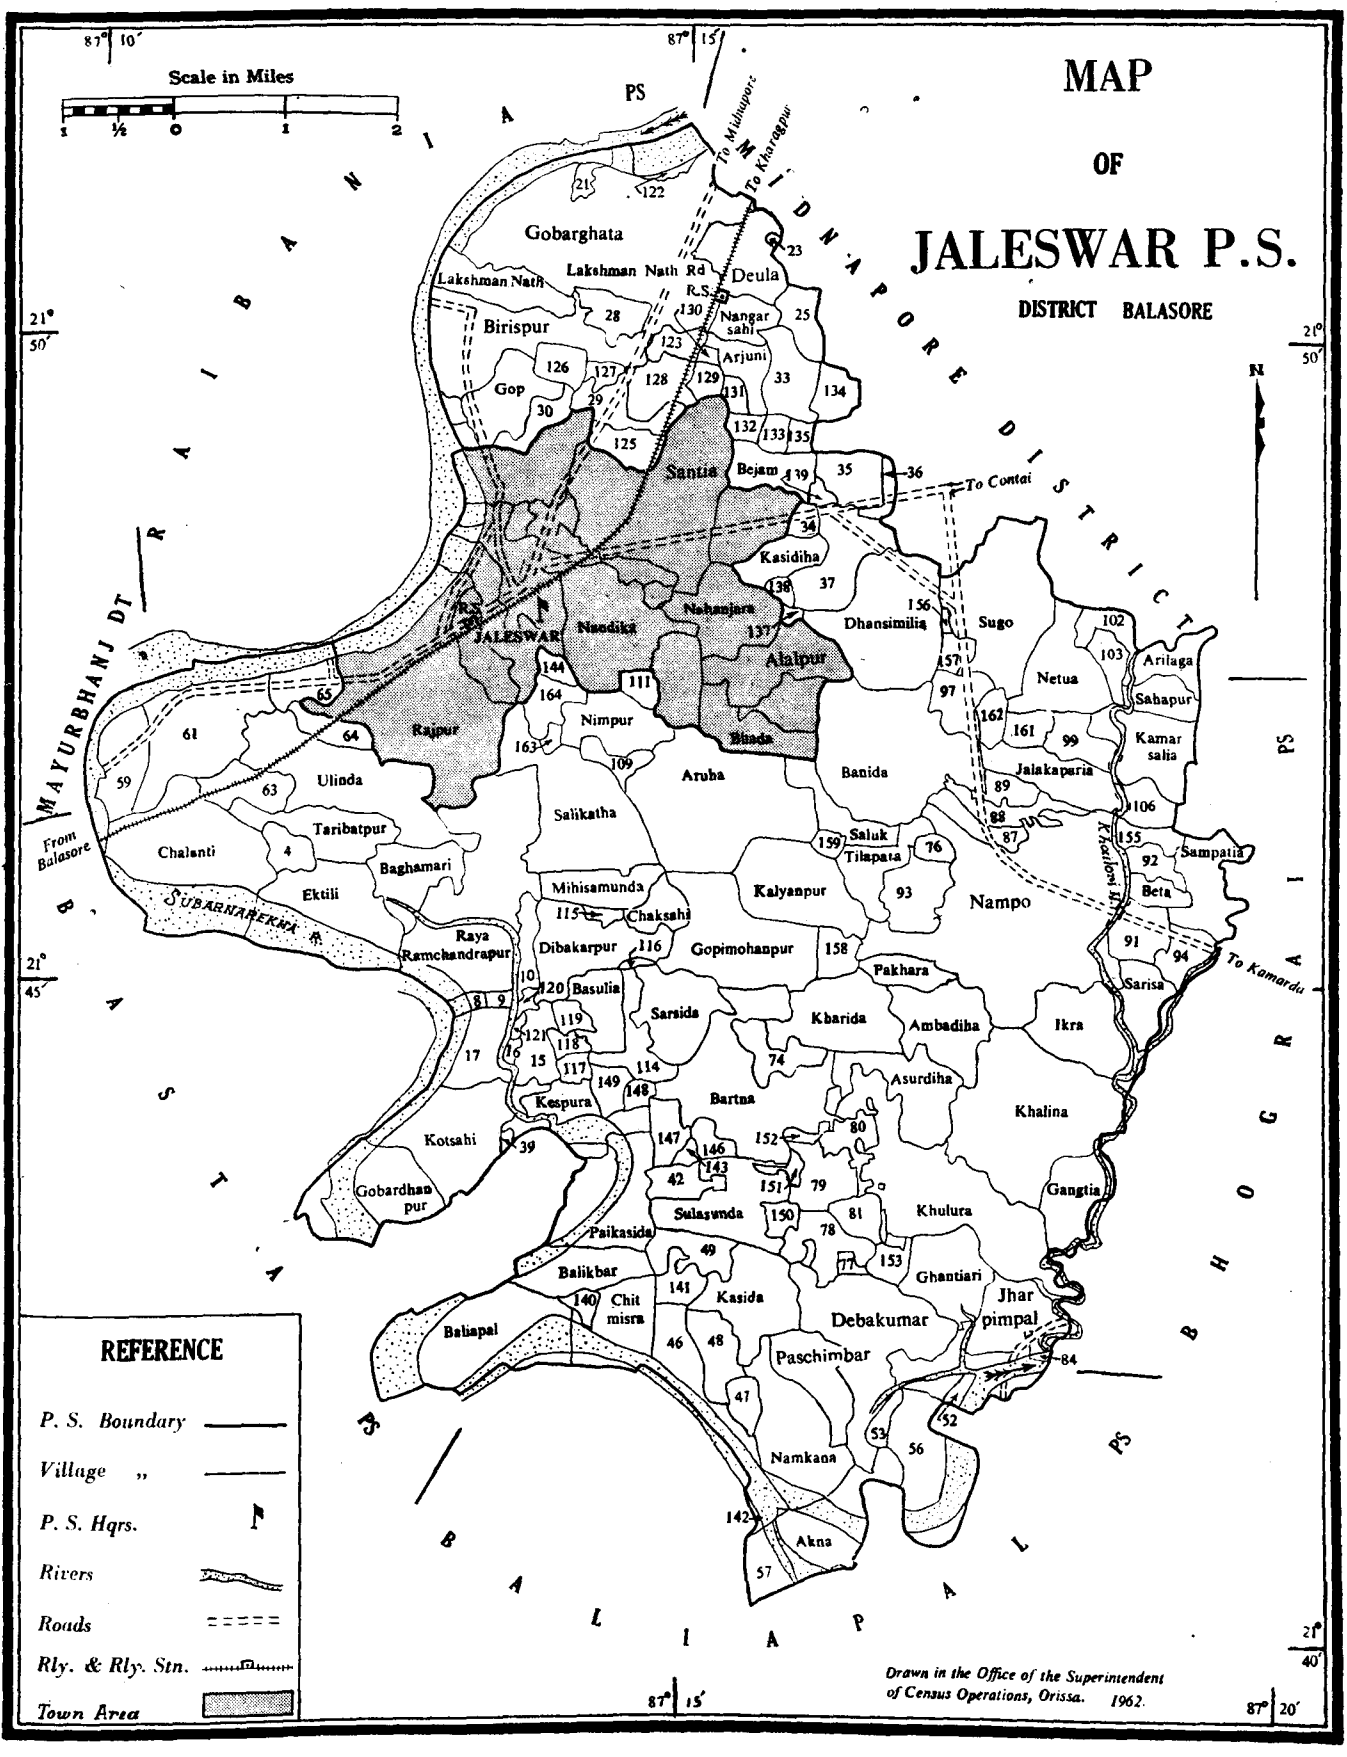

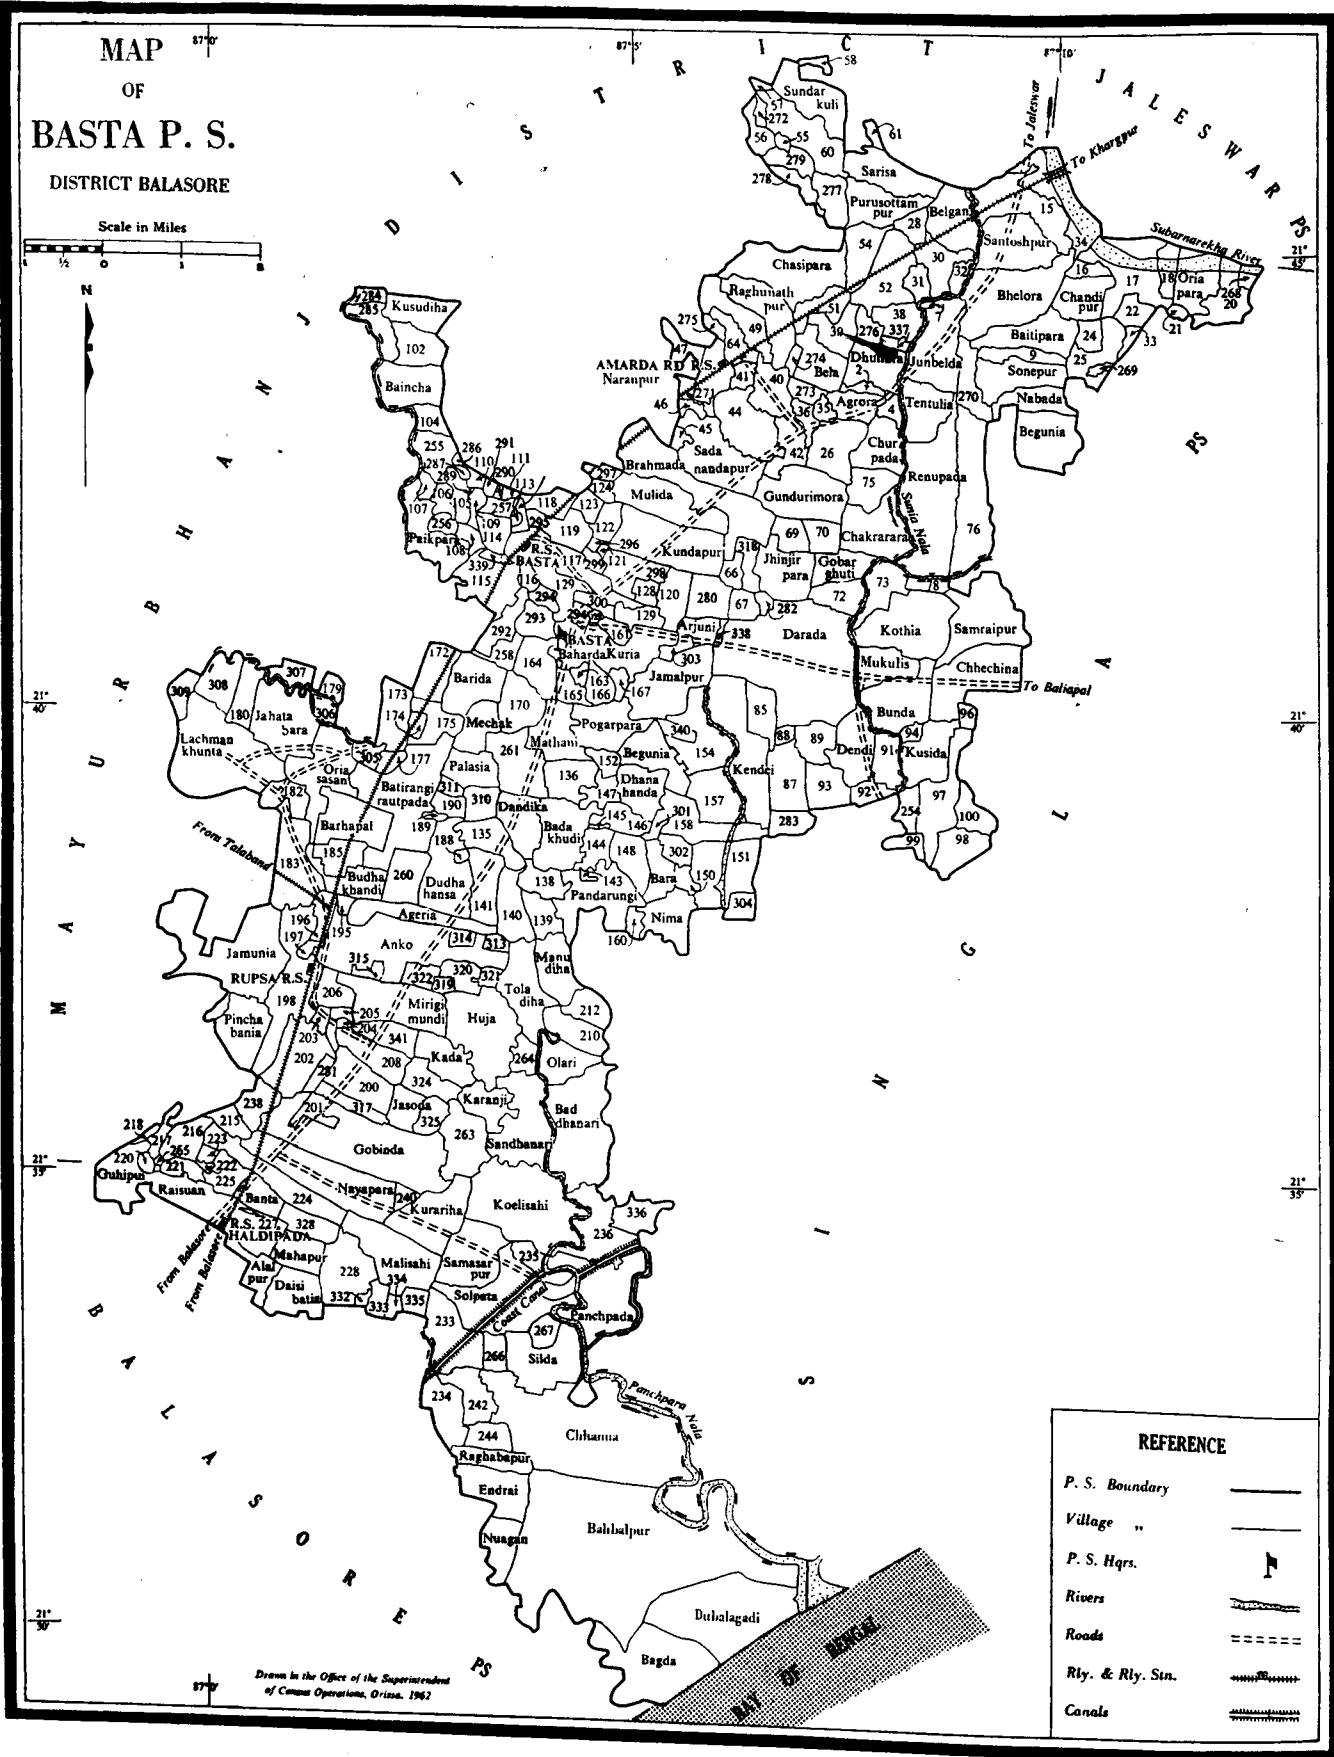

Agriculture—Out of the total area of the district comprising 1,604,480 acres, net area sown is 1,076,006 acres (67·1%), area under cultivation including current fallows is 1,125,606 acres (70·2%) and area under irrigation is 93,059 acres (5·8%). Rice, black gram, green gram and fibres among which jute is important constitute the principal crops. The quantity of rice produced annually is 203,162 tons which affords a good surplus each year for export after meeting the needs of internal consumption.

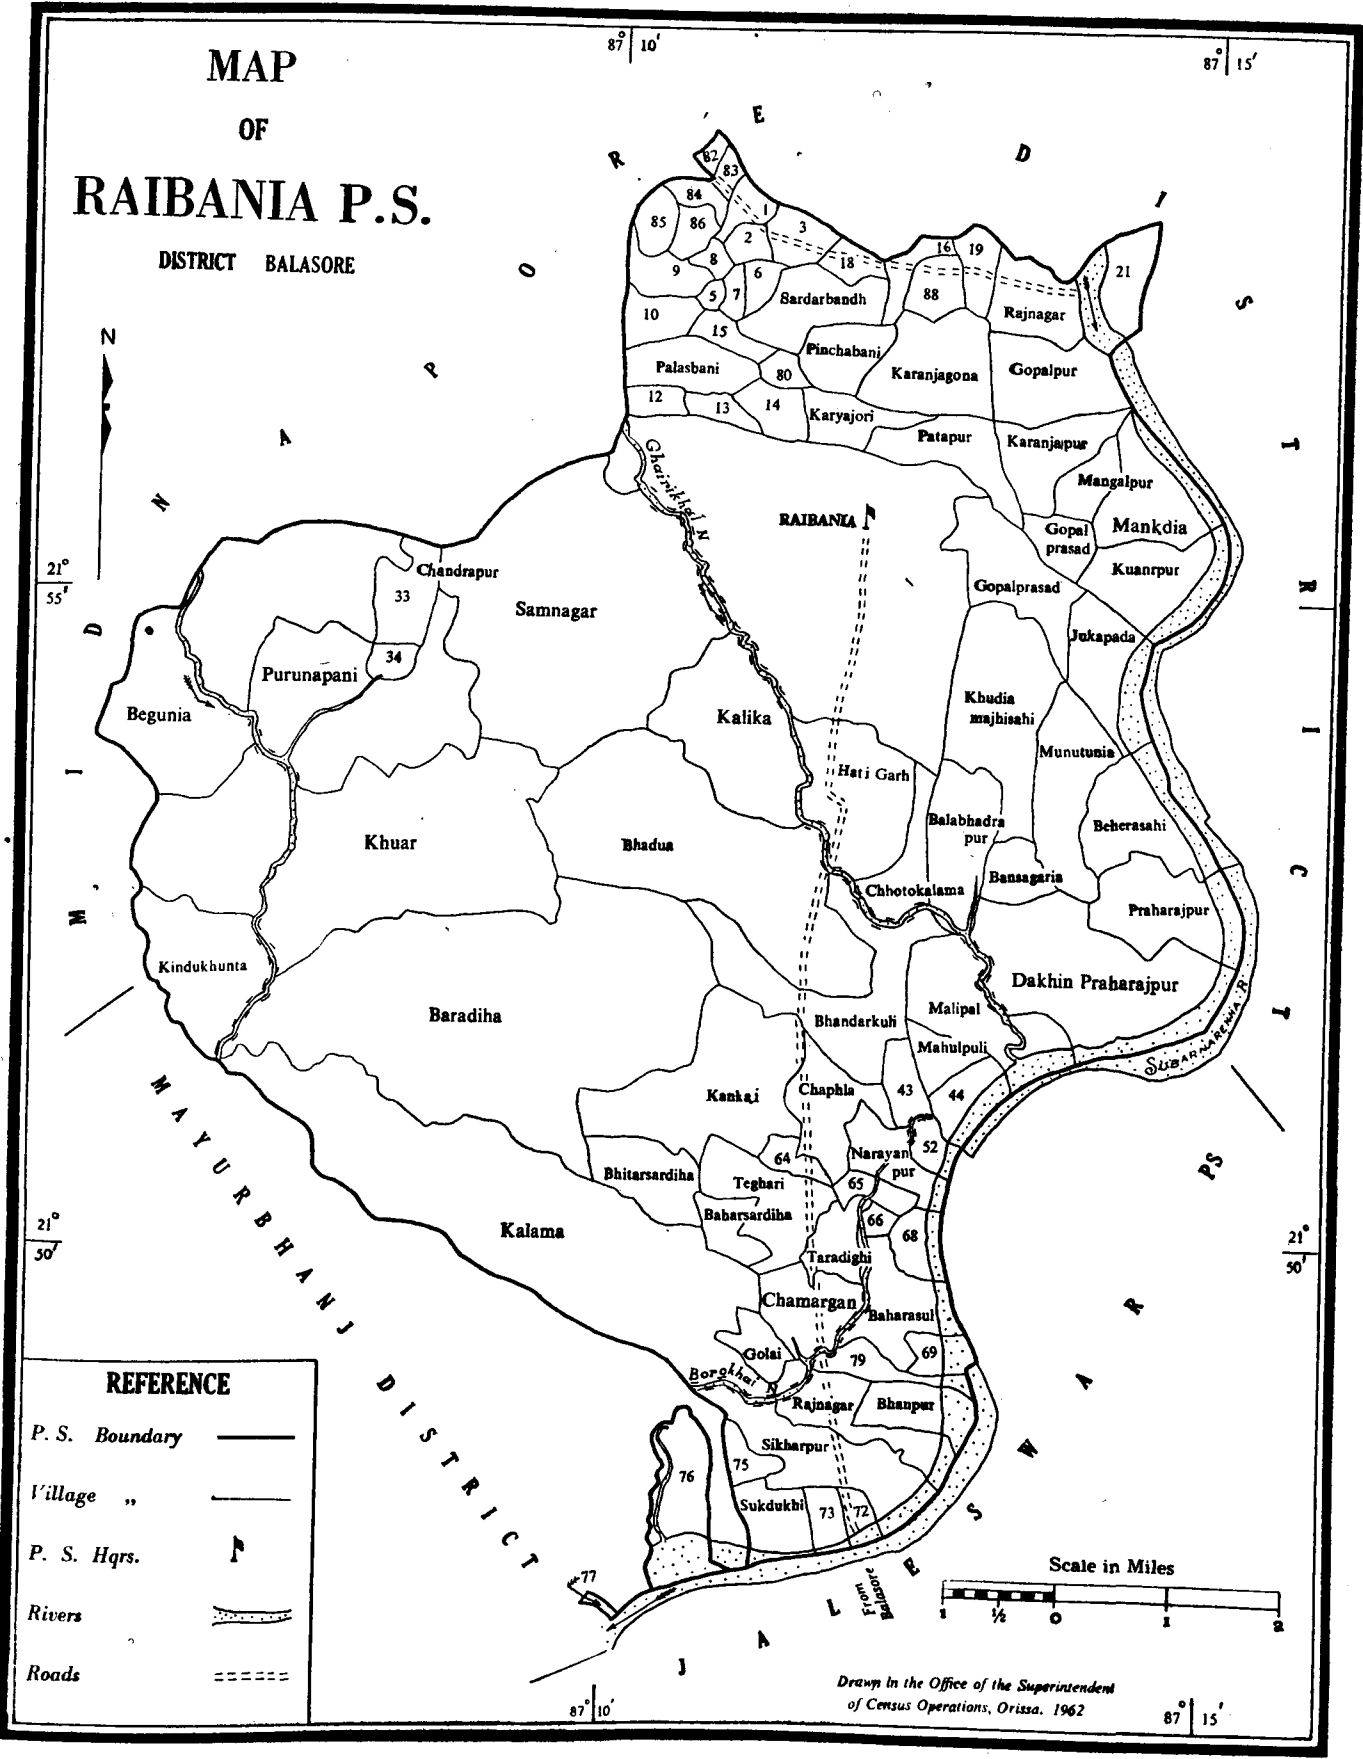

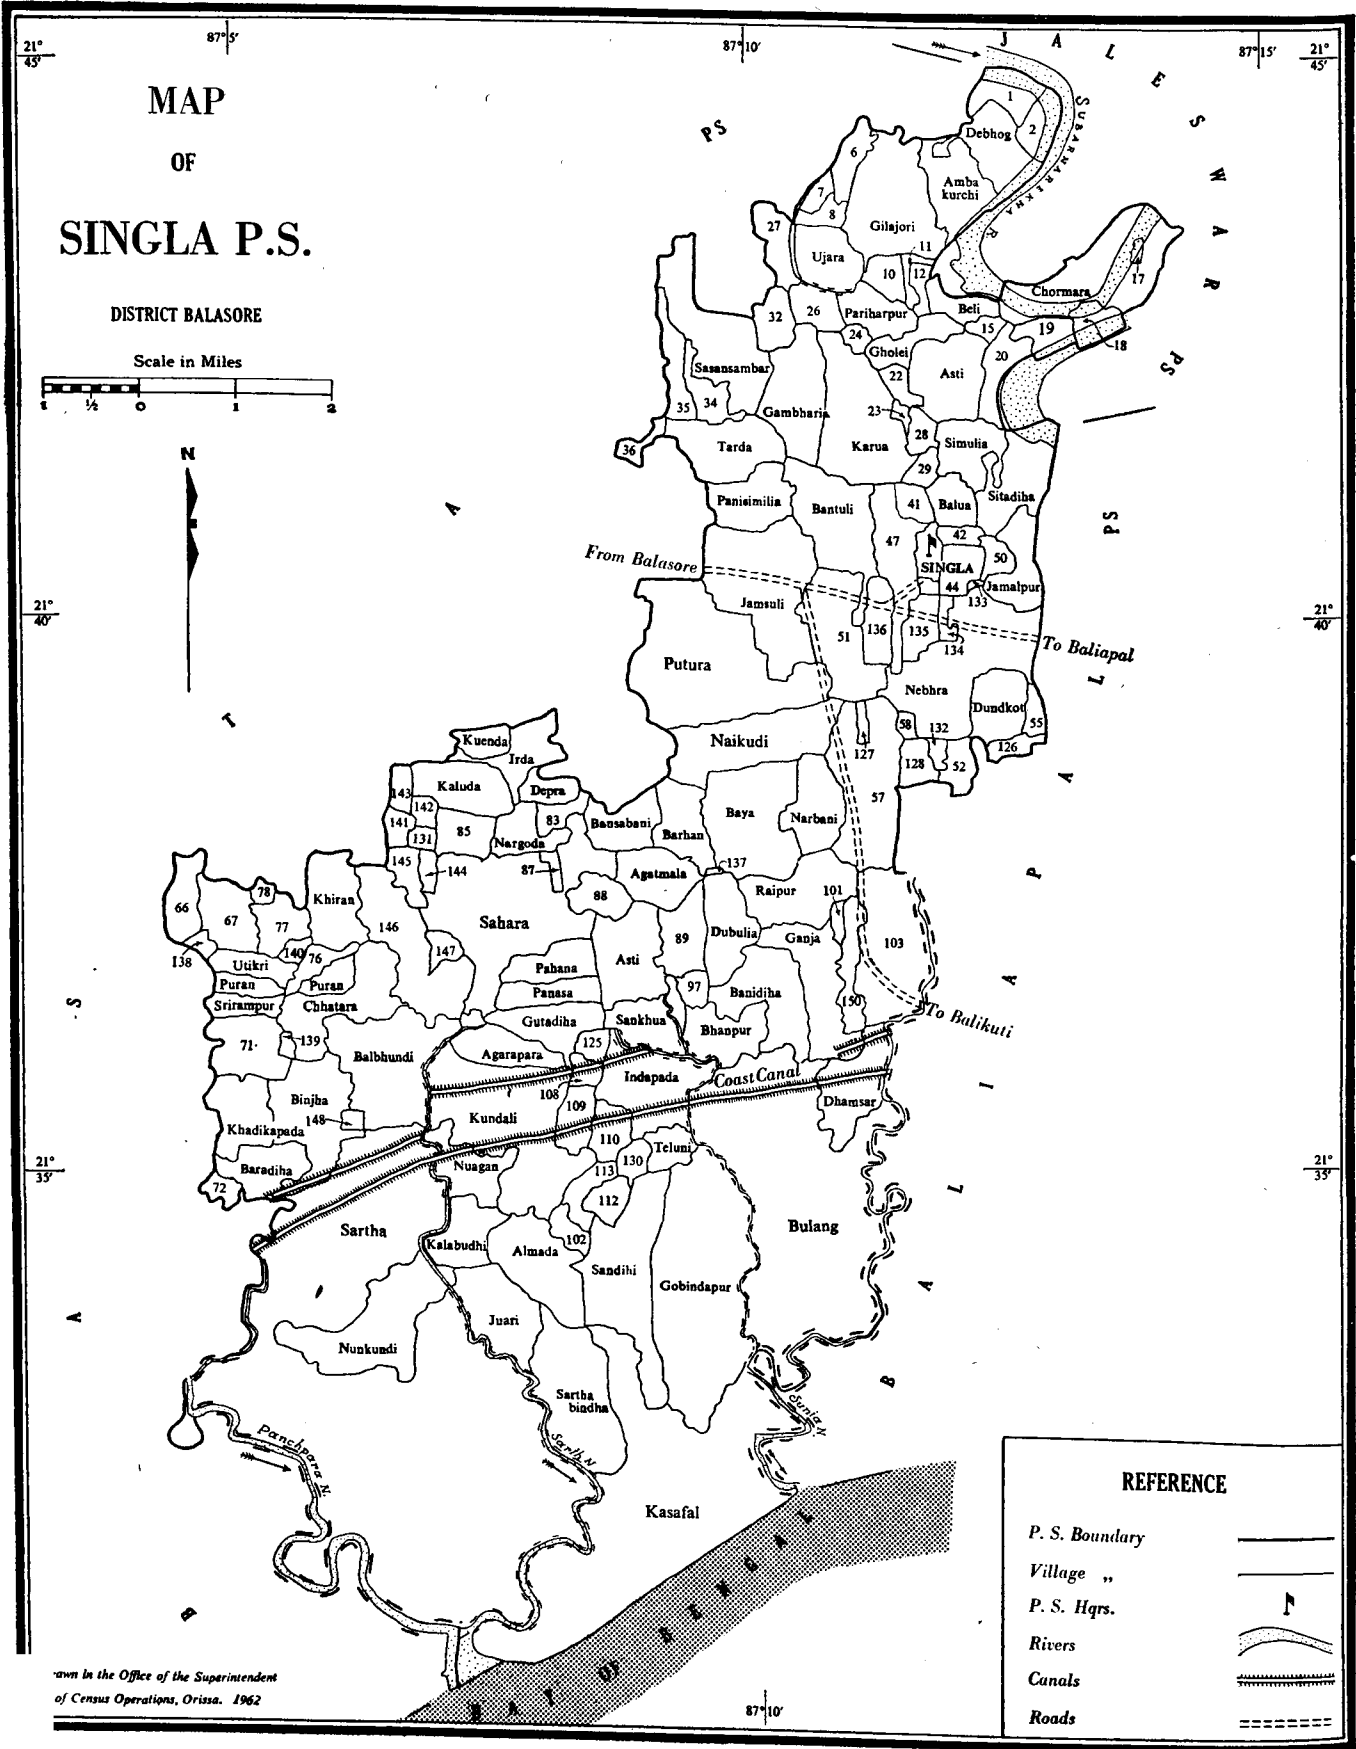

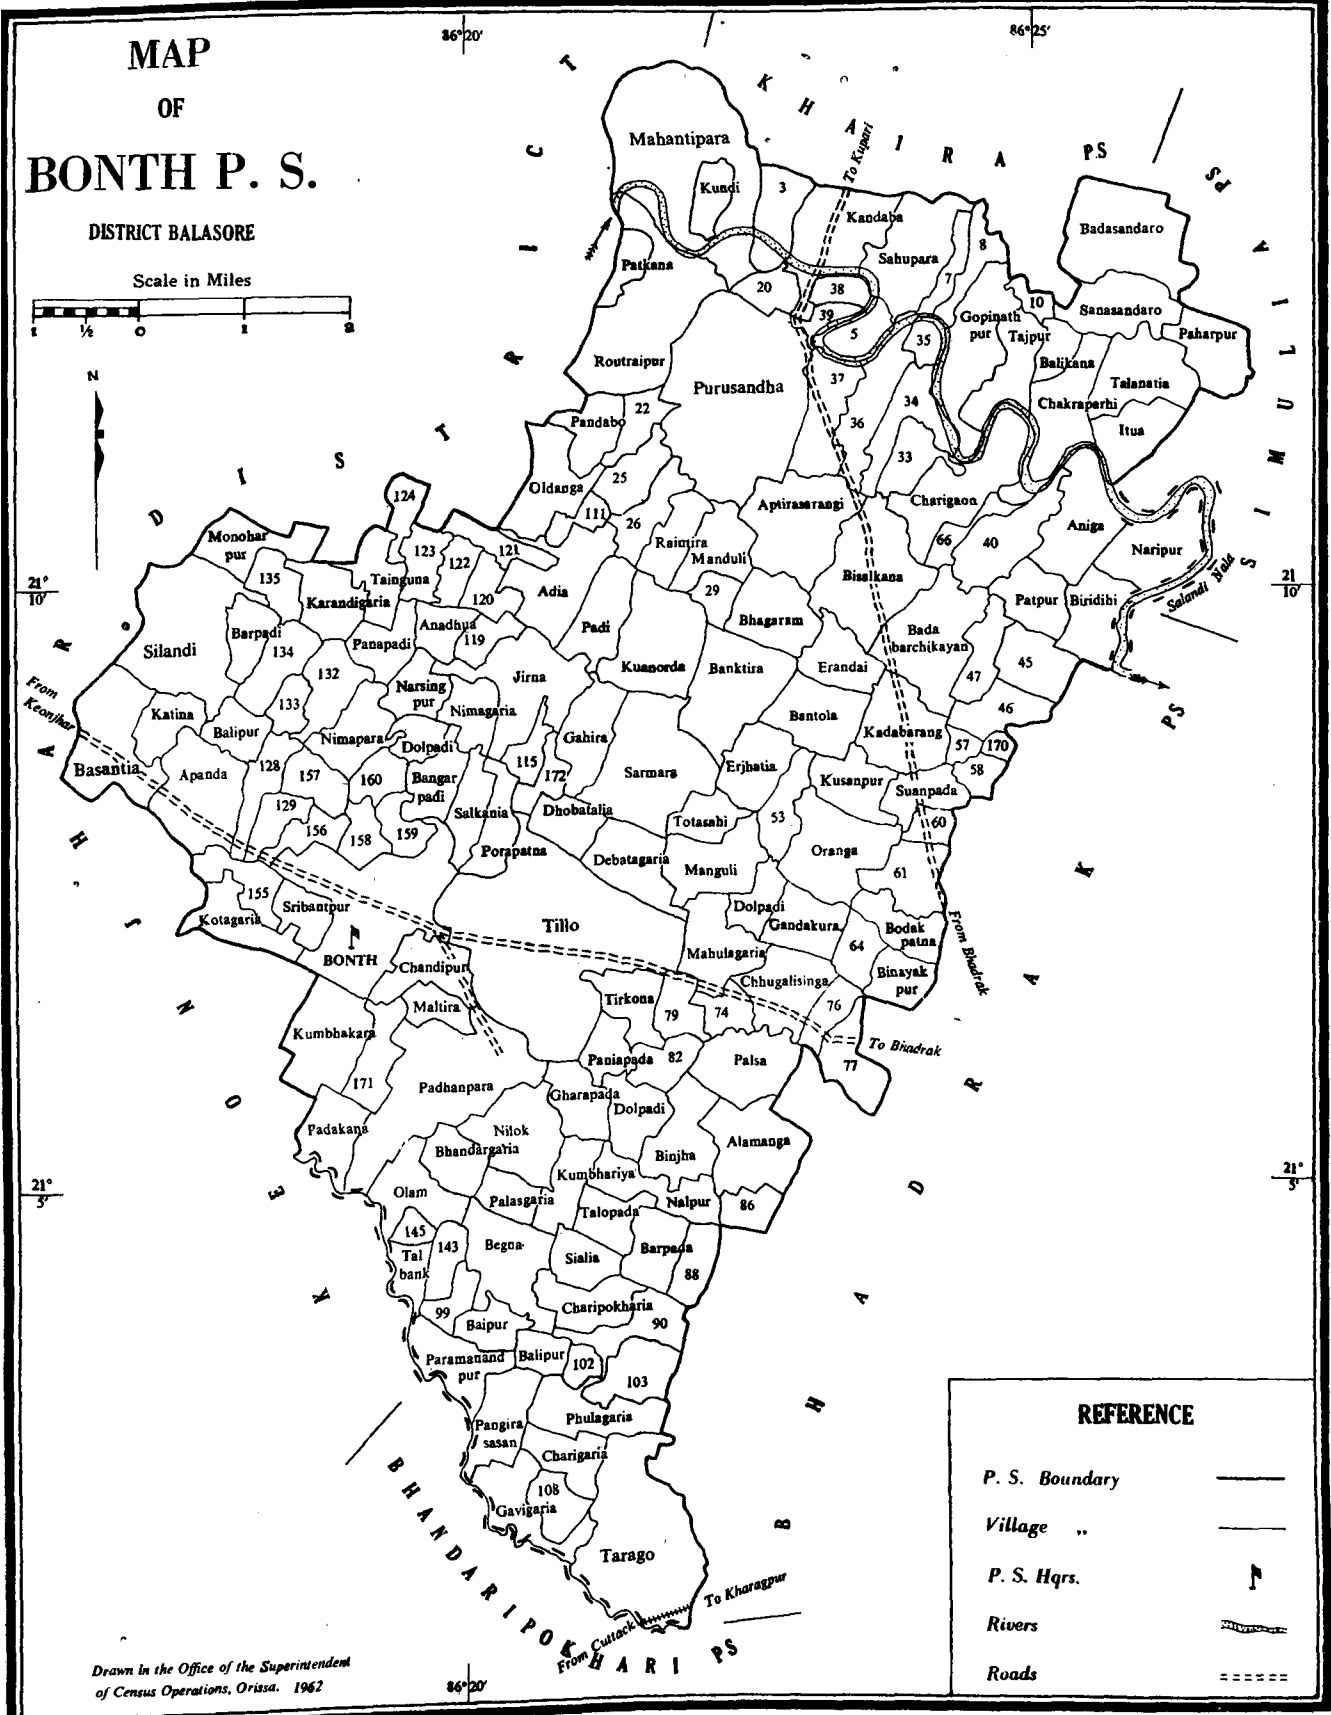

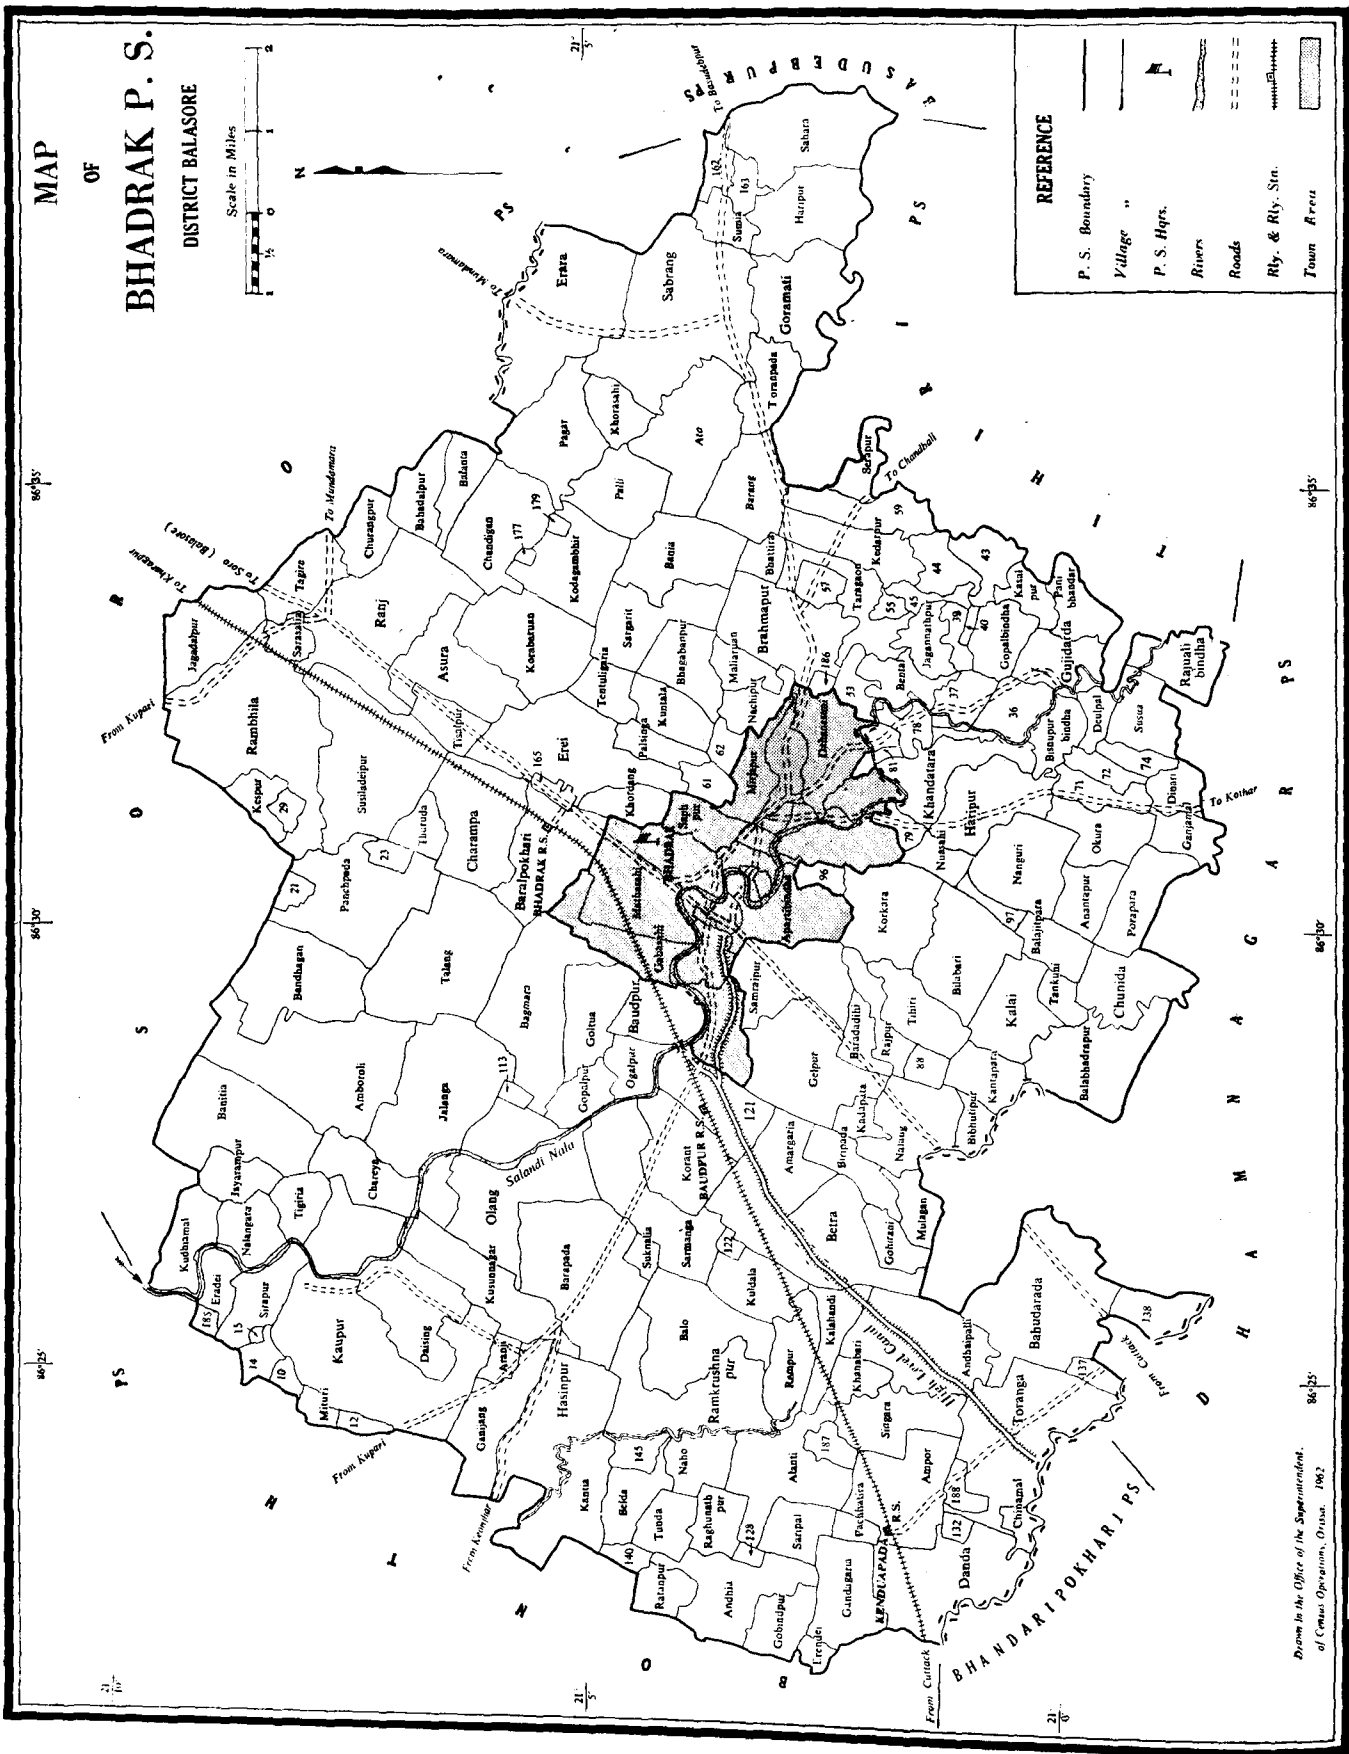

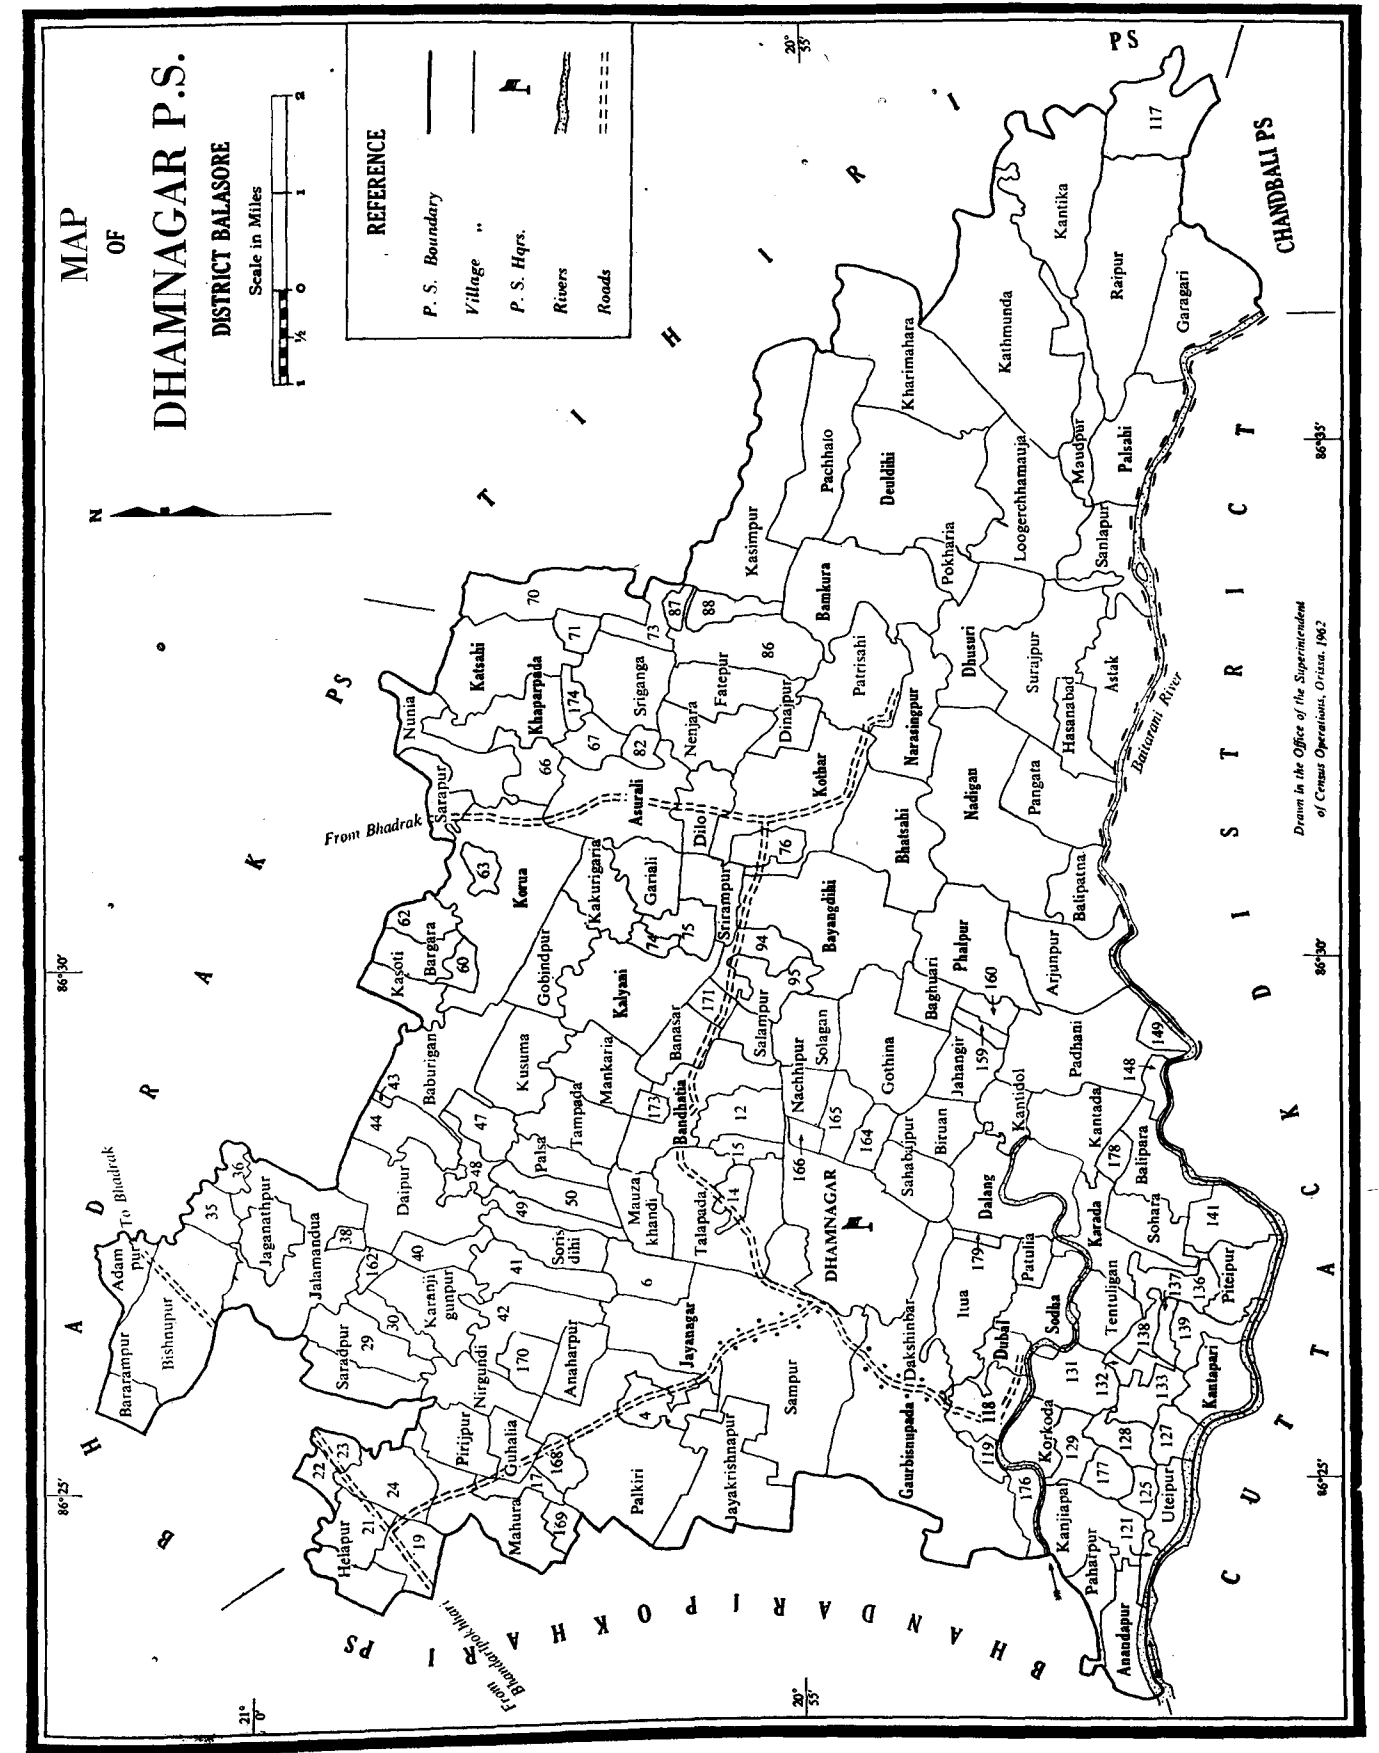

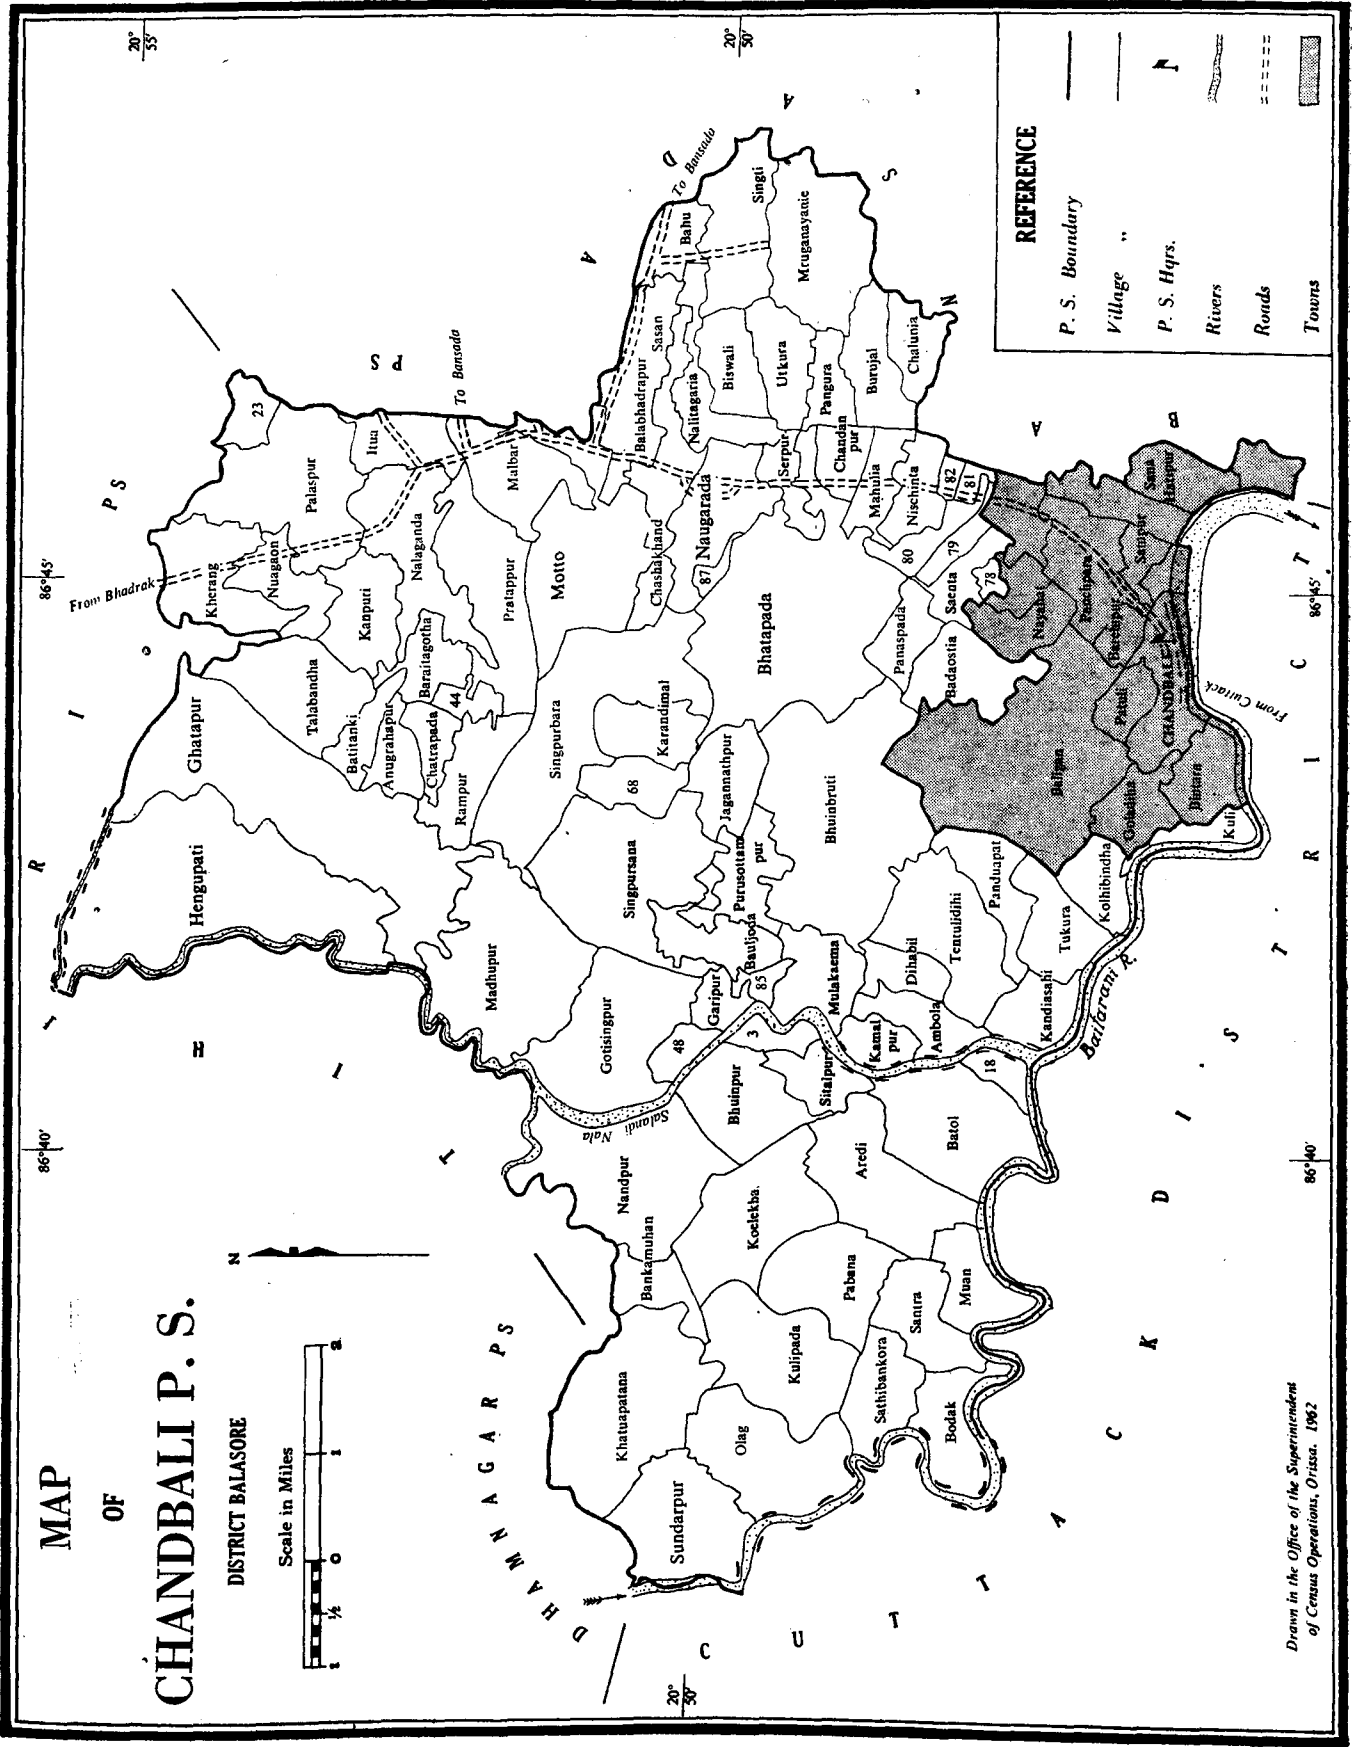

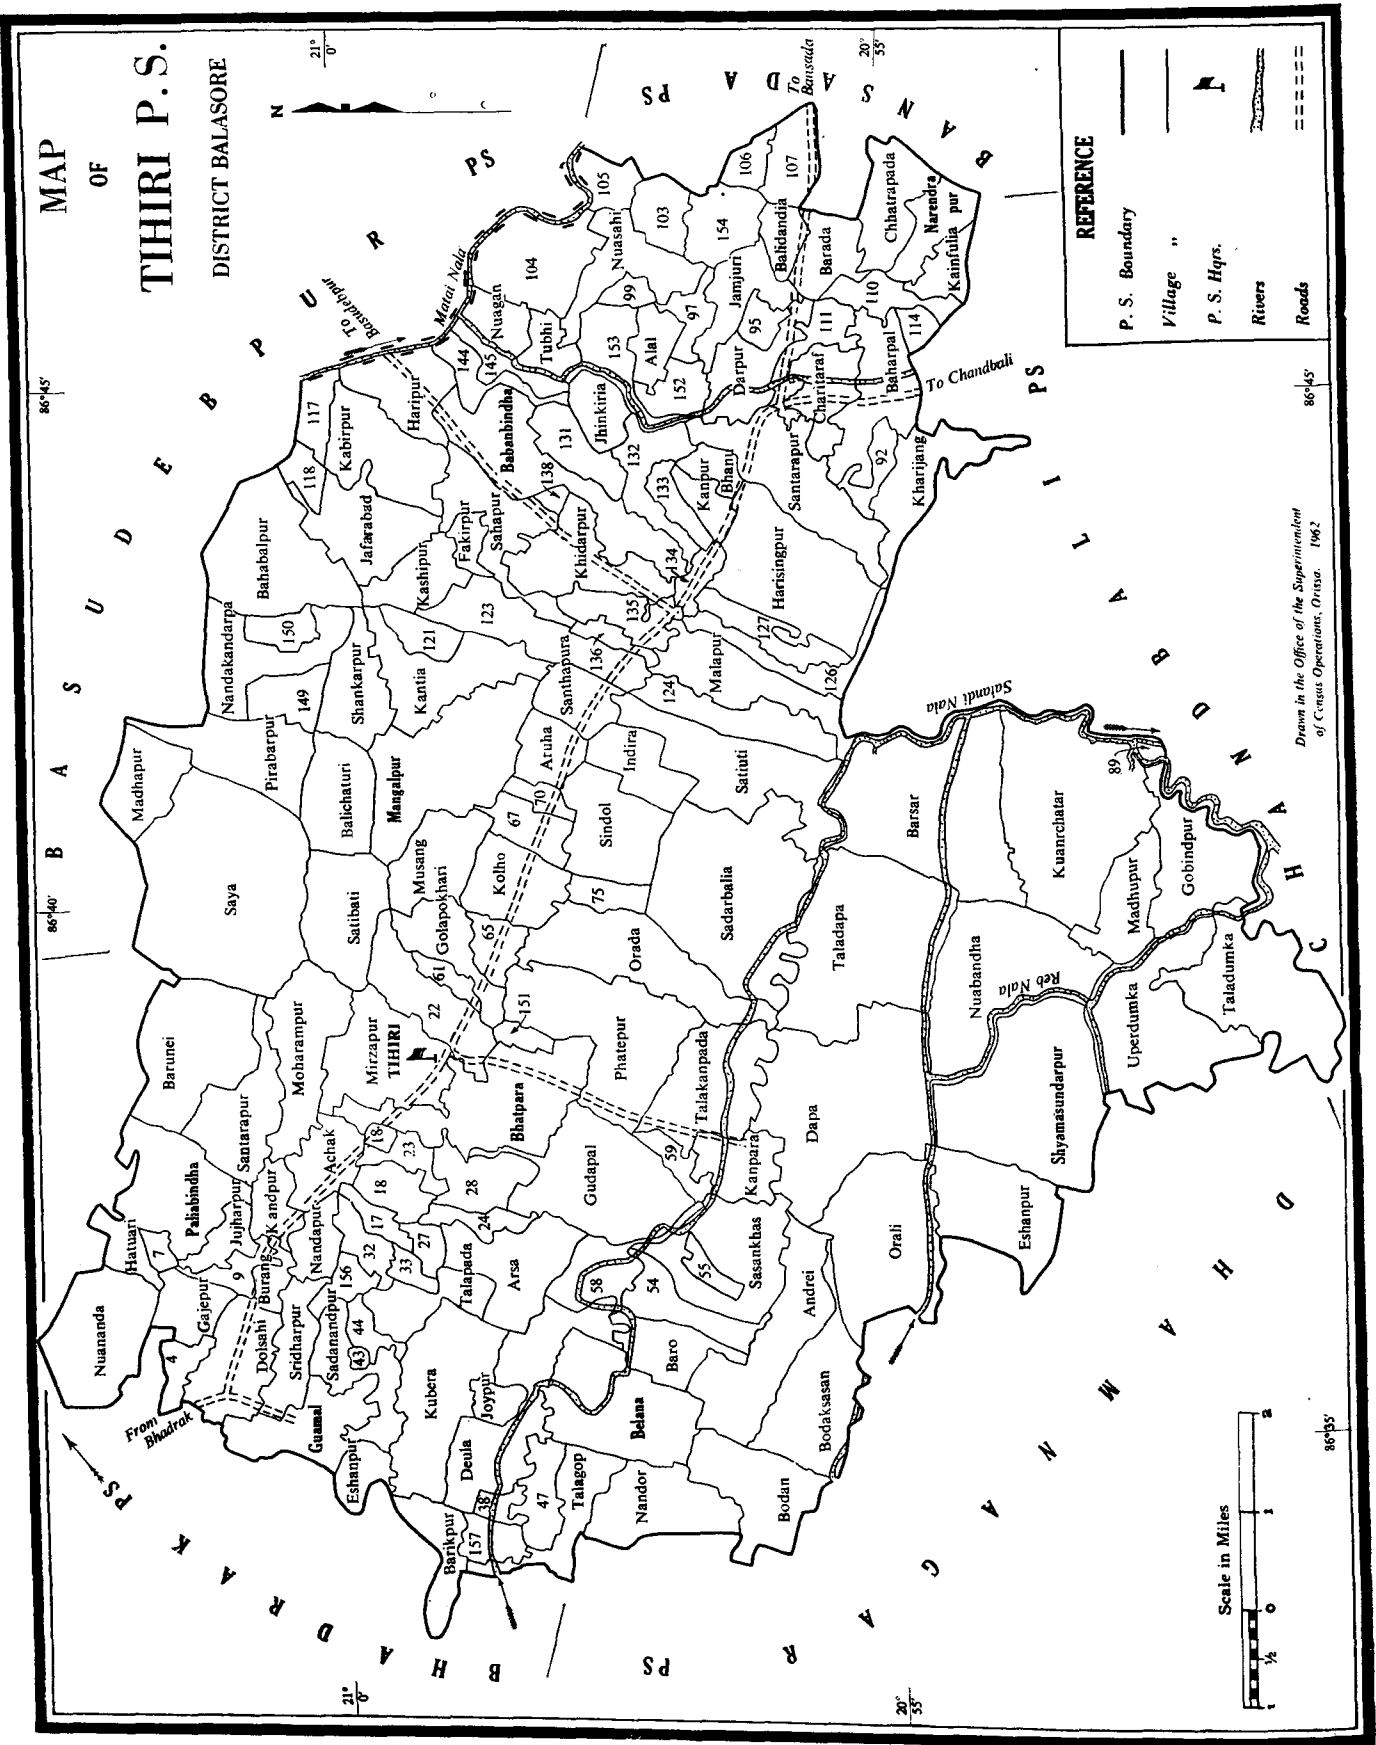

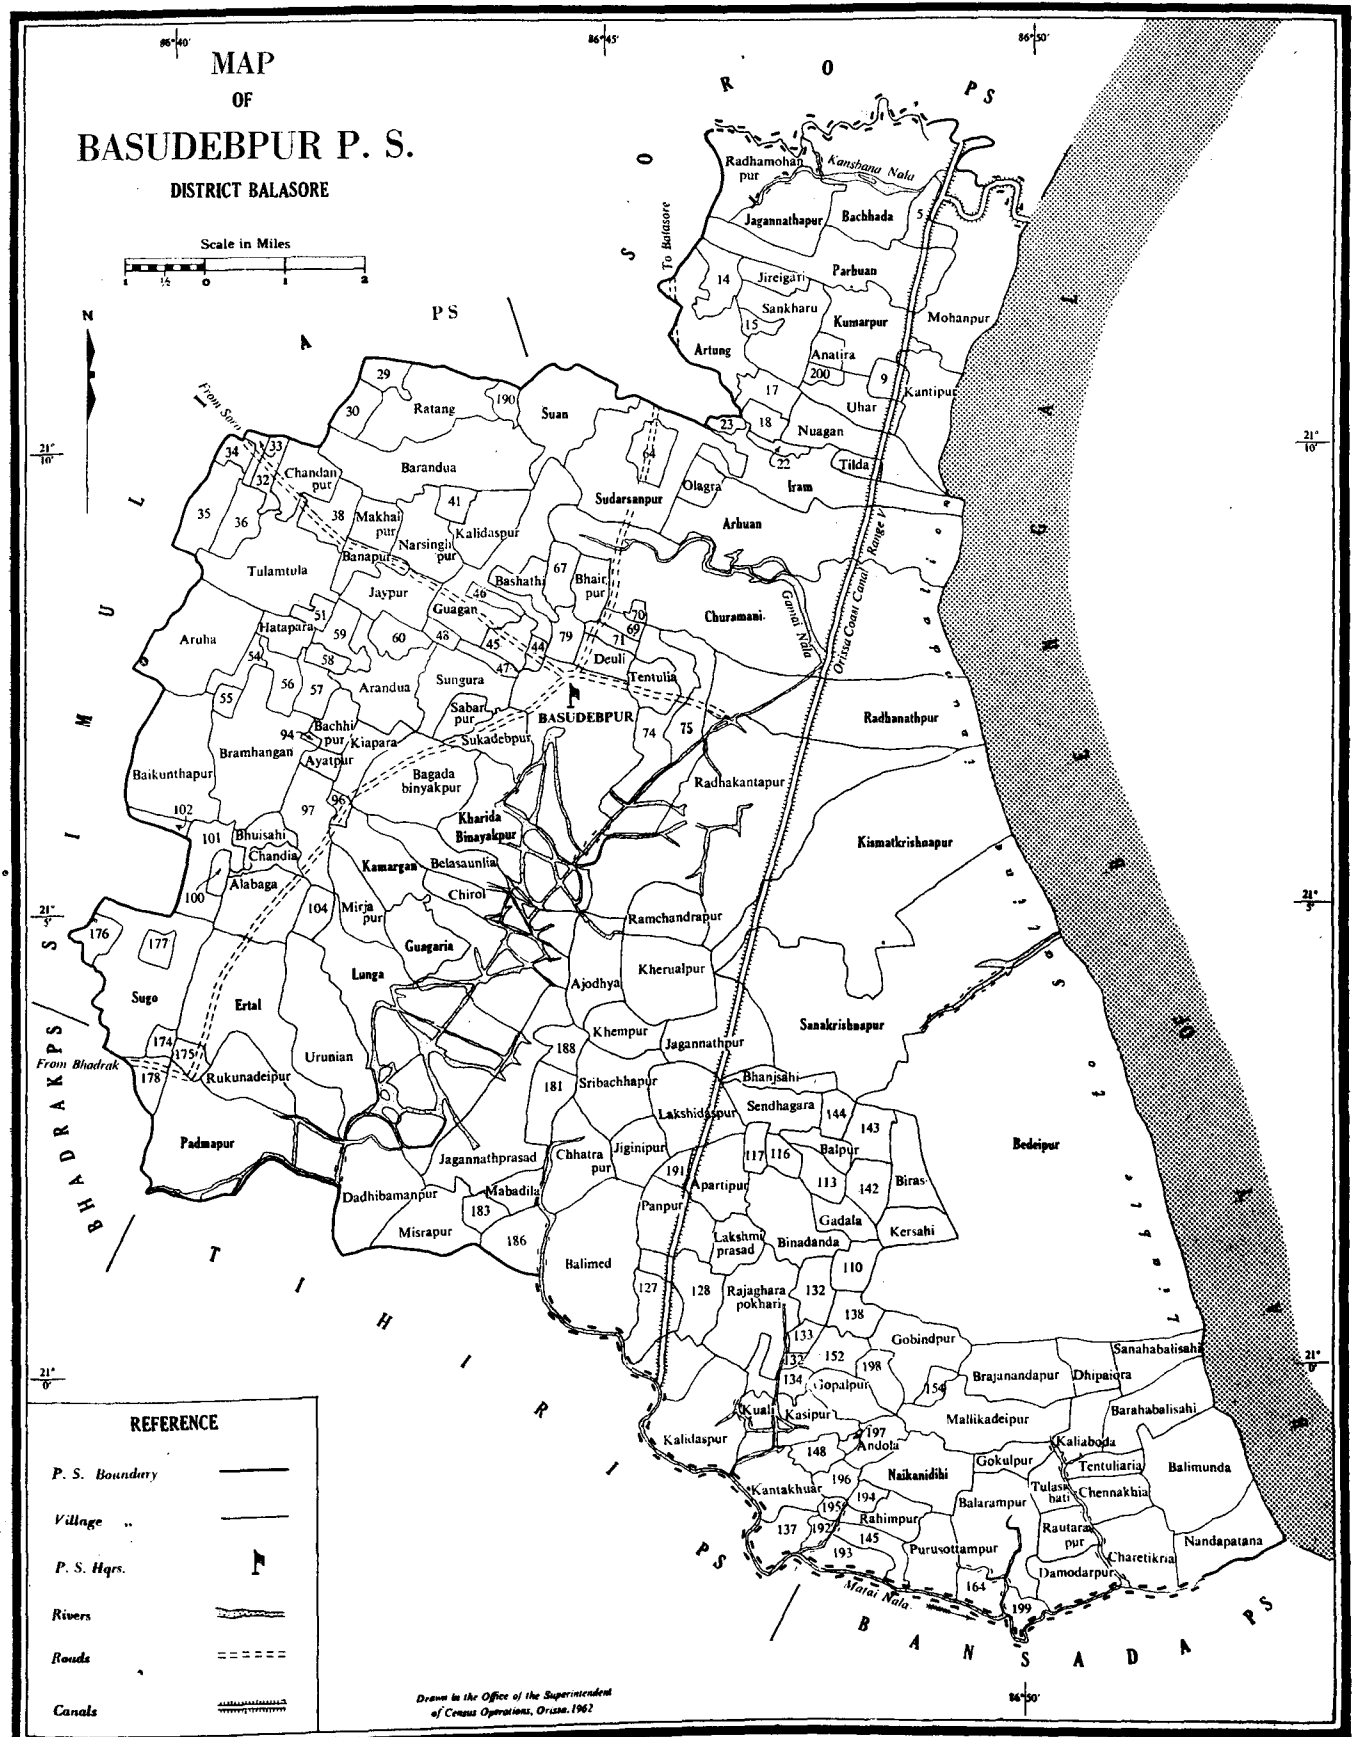

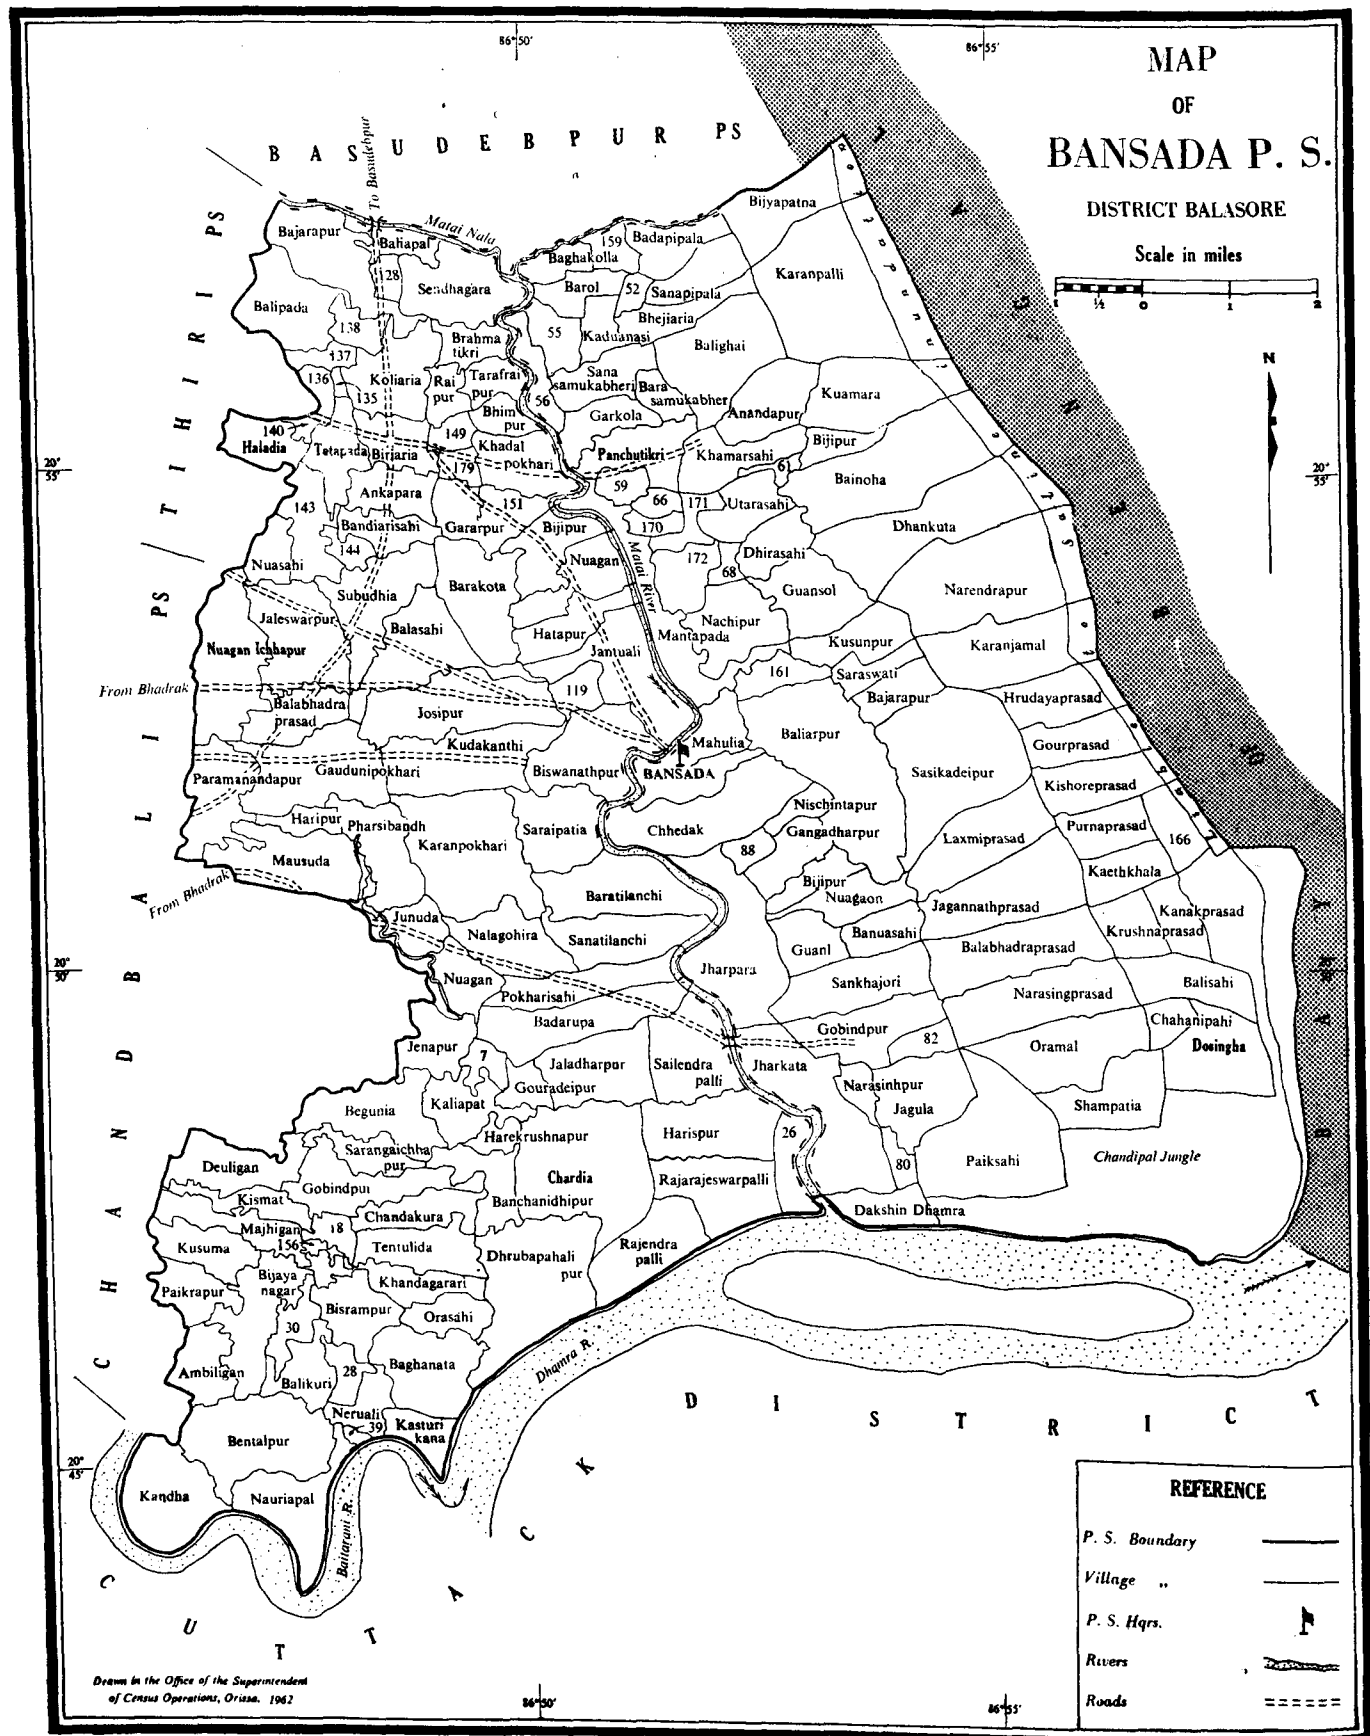

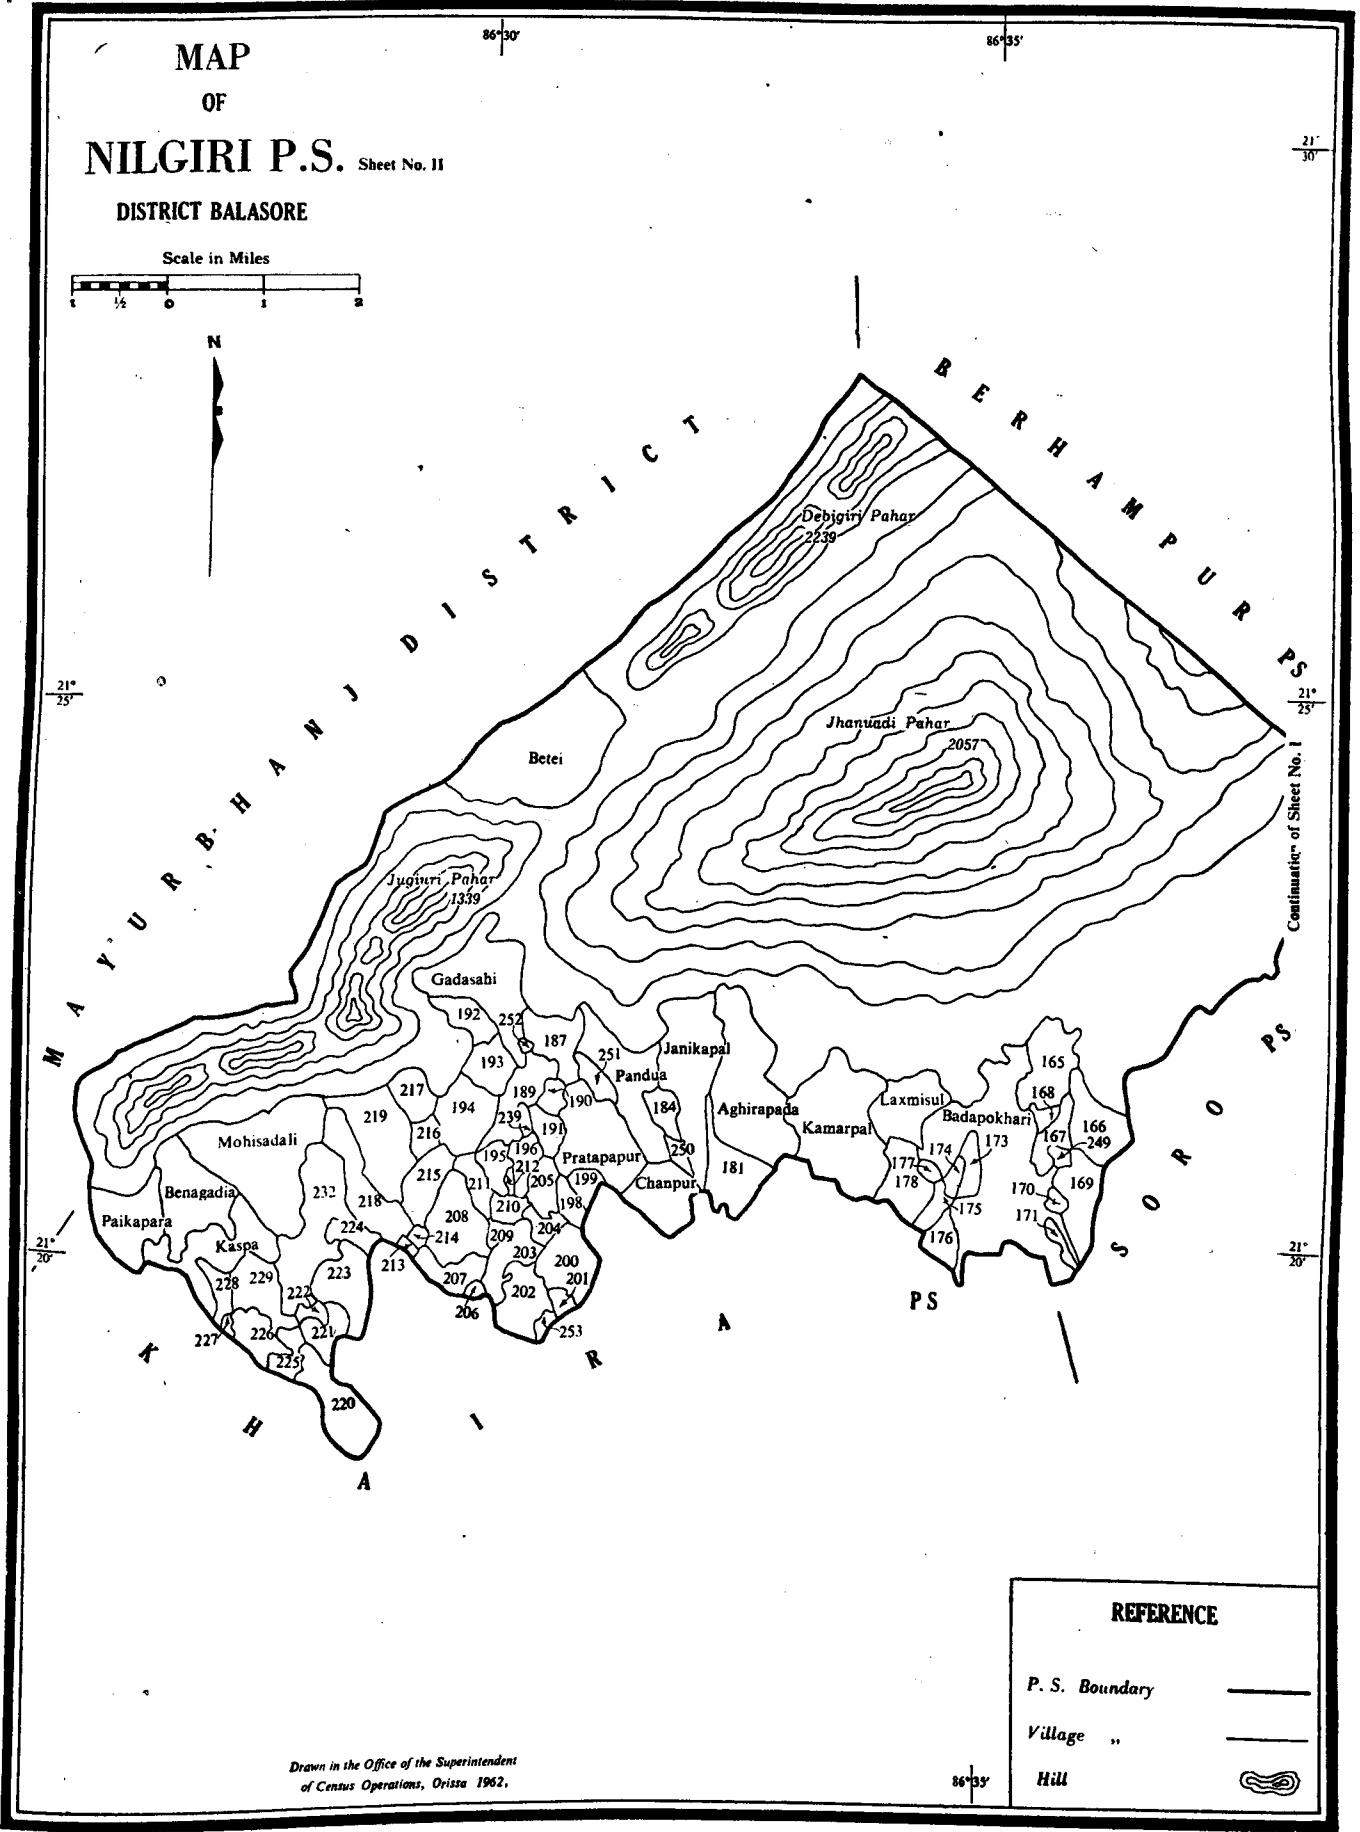

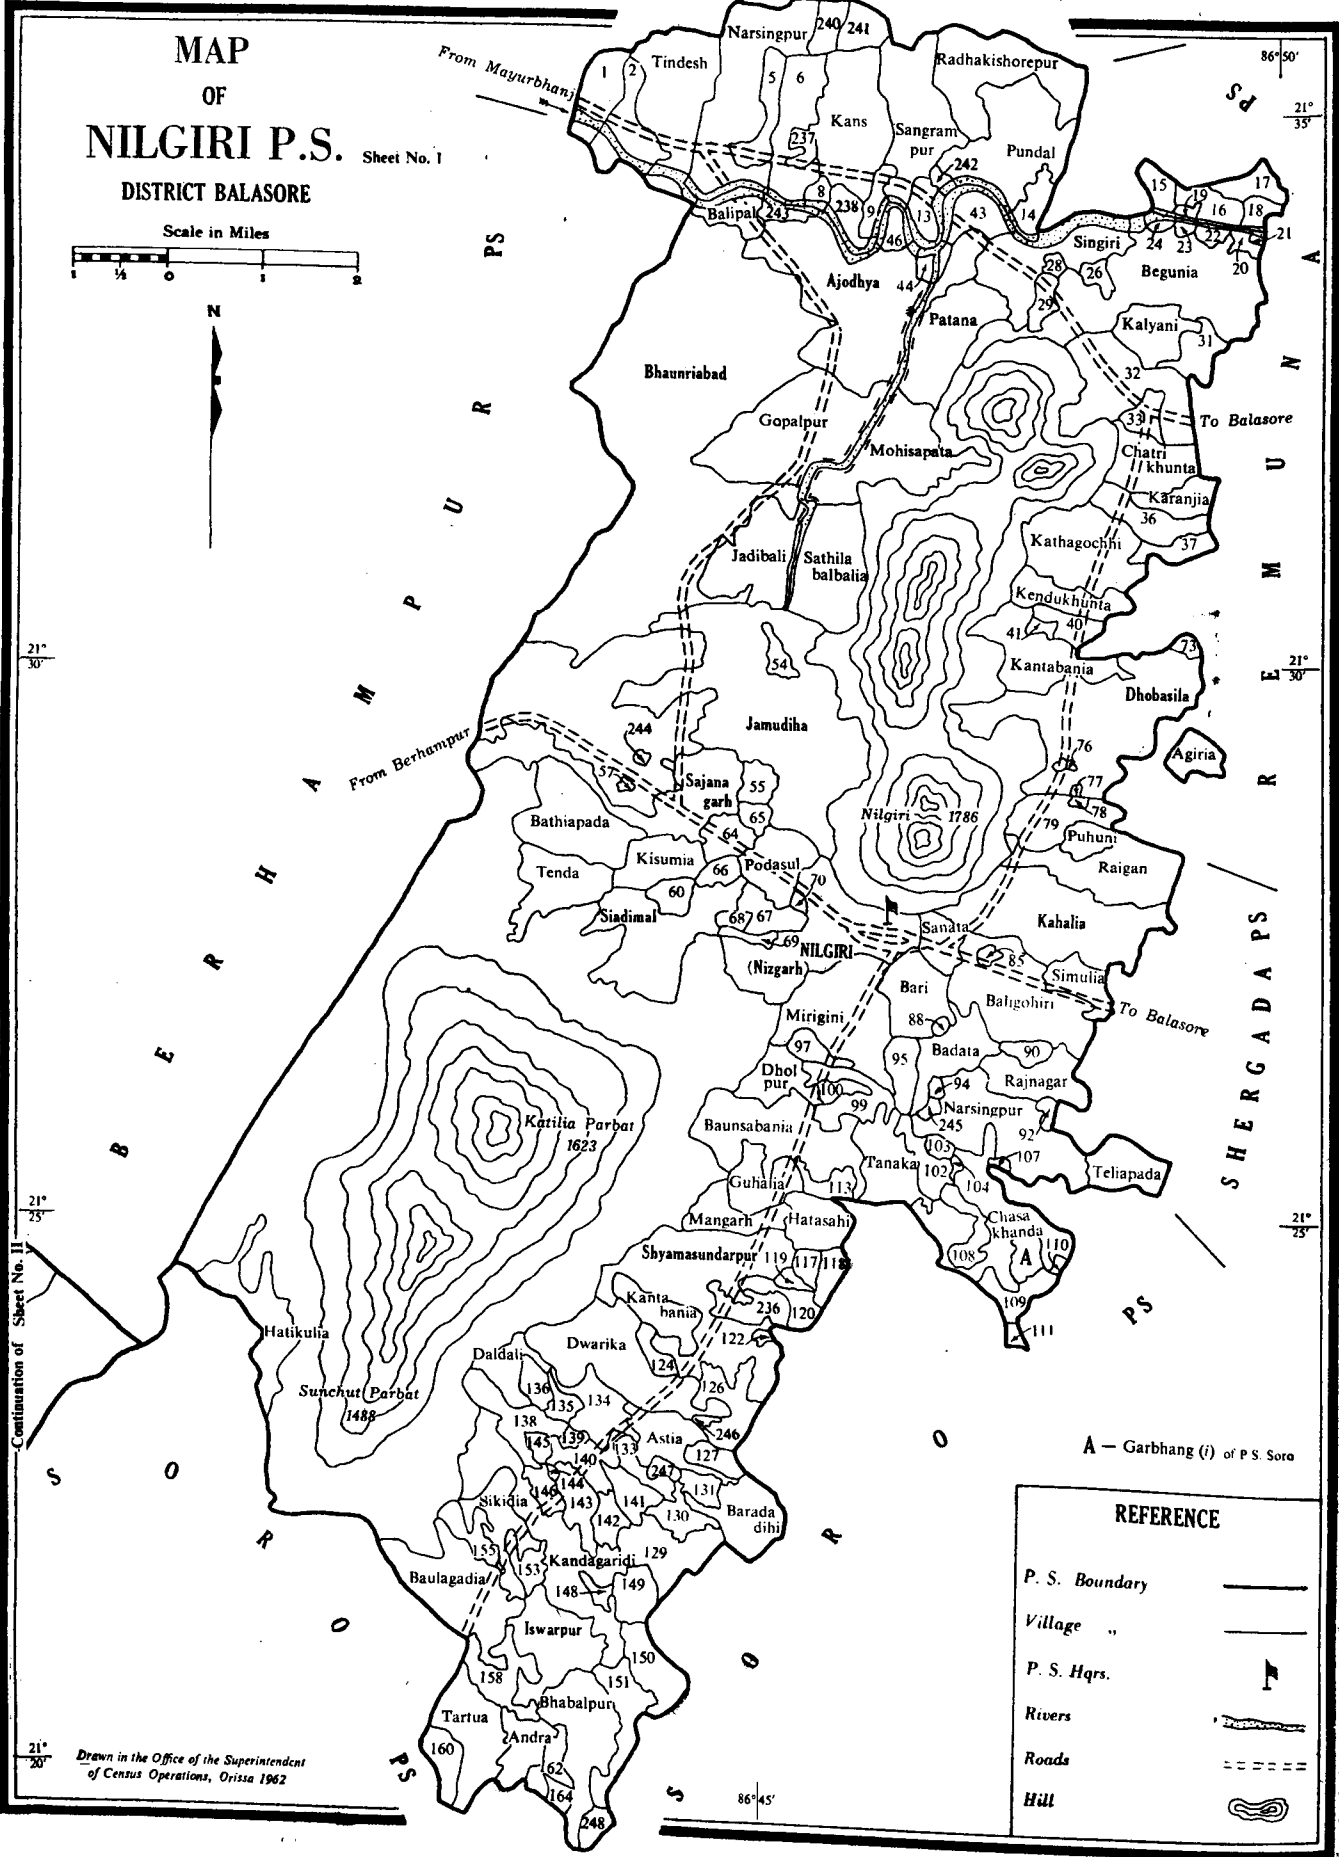

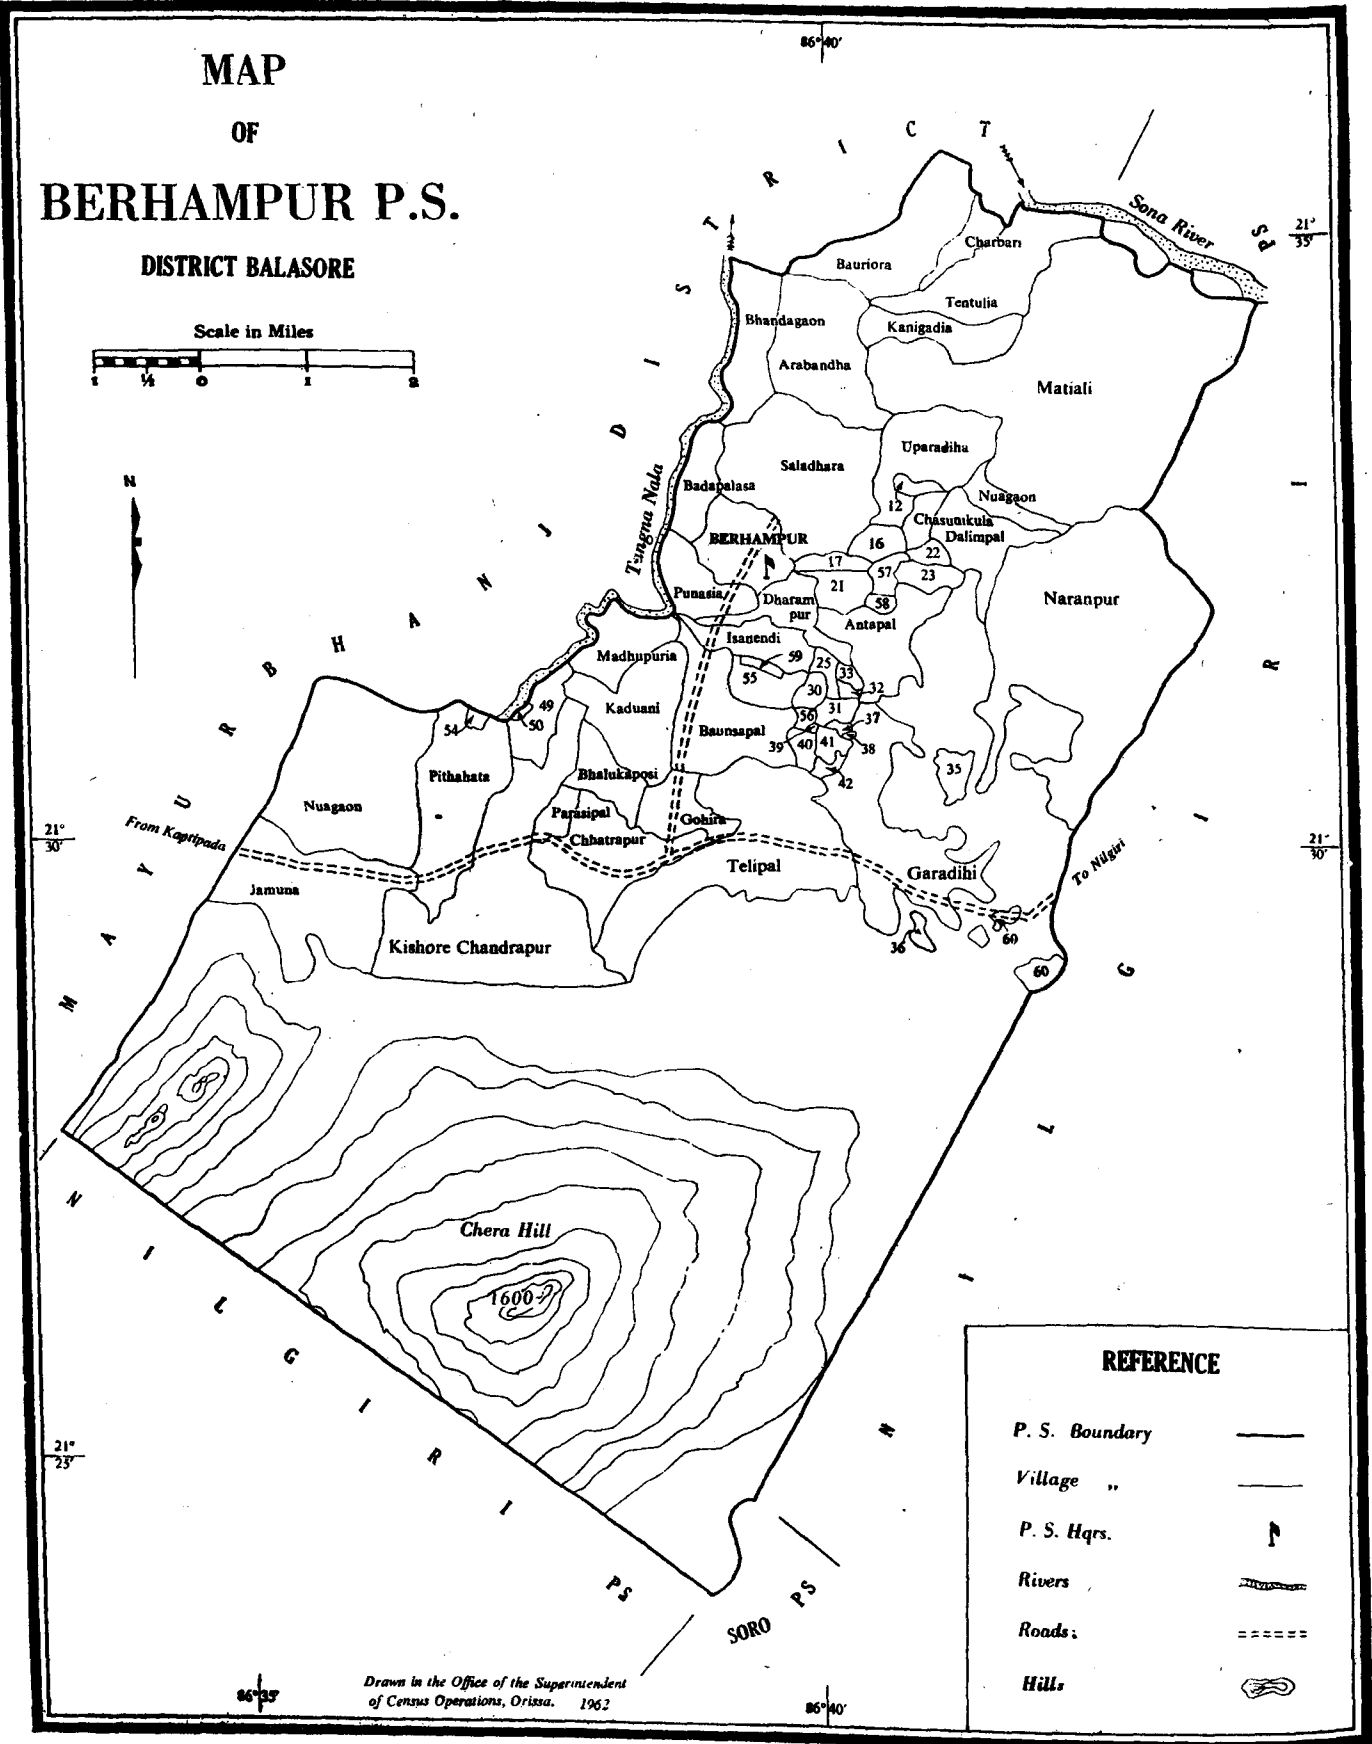

MAYURBHANJ DISTRICT

Mayurbhanj district, with its boundaries reaching the northernmost point of Orissa, lies between 21° 16'N and 22° 34'N latitudes and between 85° 40'E and 87° 11'E longitudes. It is bounded on the north by Midnapur district of West Bengal and Singhbhum district of Bihar, on the south by Keonjhar and Balasore districts, on the west by Singhbhum and Keonjhar districts and on the east by Balasore district.

Physiography—The central part of the district is mainly a hilly tract, from which two ranges of hills run, one to the north and the other to the south, dividing the undulating plains in the outer region into two halves which contain fertile valleys. The central tract which extends over 600 square miles is covered by a group of hills known as the Simlipal. The highest peak occur in the Meghasani hills which is 3,823 feet in height. The hills are thickly wooded to their very summit and are generally inaccessible except through regular passes, although extensive exploitation of forest wealth is gradually opening up the interior. The physical features of the district are influenced by these hills which divide the district into three natural divisions, namely, the eastern division comprising Sadar and Kaptipada subdivisions, the north-western division comprising Bamanghaty subdivision and the south-western division comprising Panchpir subdivision. The eastern division slopes gently from the foot of the hills towards the sea and is traversed by innumerable hill streams. The two other divisions are mainly undulating plains rising and falling in gentle slopes with a hill here and a stream there. The district has two main rivers, the Bura-balanga and the Salandi, which rise from hills within the district and are joined by a number of hill streams. The river Baitarani flows along its western boundary for a short distance before crossing into the neighbouring district of Keonjhar. The district for the most part has red soil and has also belts of laterites. The forest covers 1,481 square miles and has mostly northern tropical semi-evergreen species like sal, piasal, sisu, kurum, bandhan, gambhari, kendu, mahua, asan and mango. Among other forest produce, mention may be made of tusser, cocoon, lac, myrobalan, sunaribark, arrowroot, etc. The plantations near about Baripada yield about 45,000 maunds of Sabai grass annually which is used for making ropes, furniture and paper. The rocks of this district have large deposits of iron ore and china-clay.

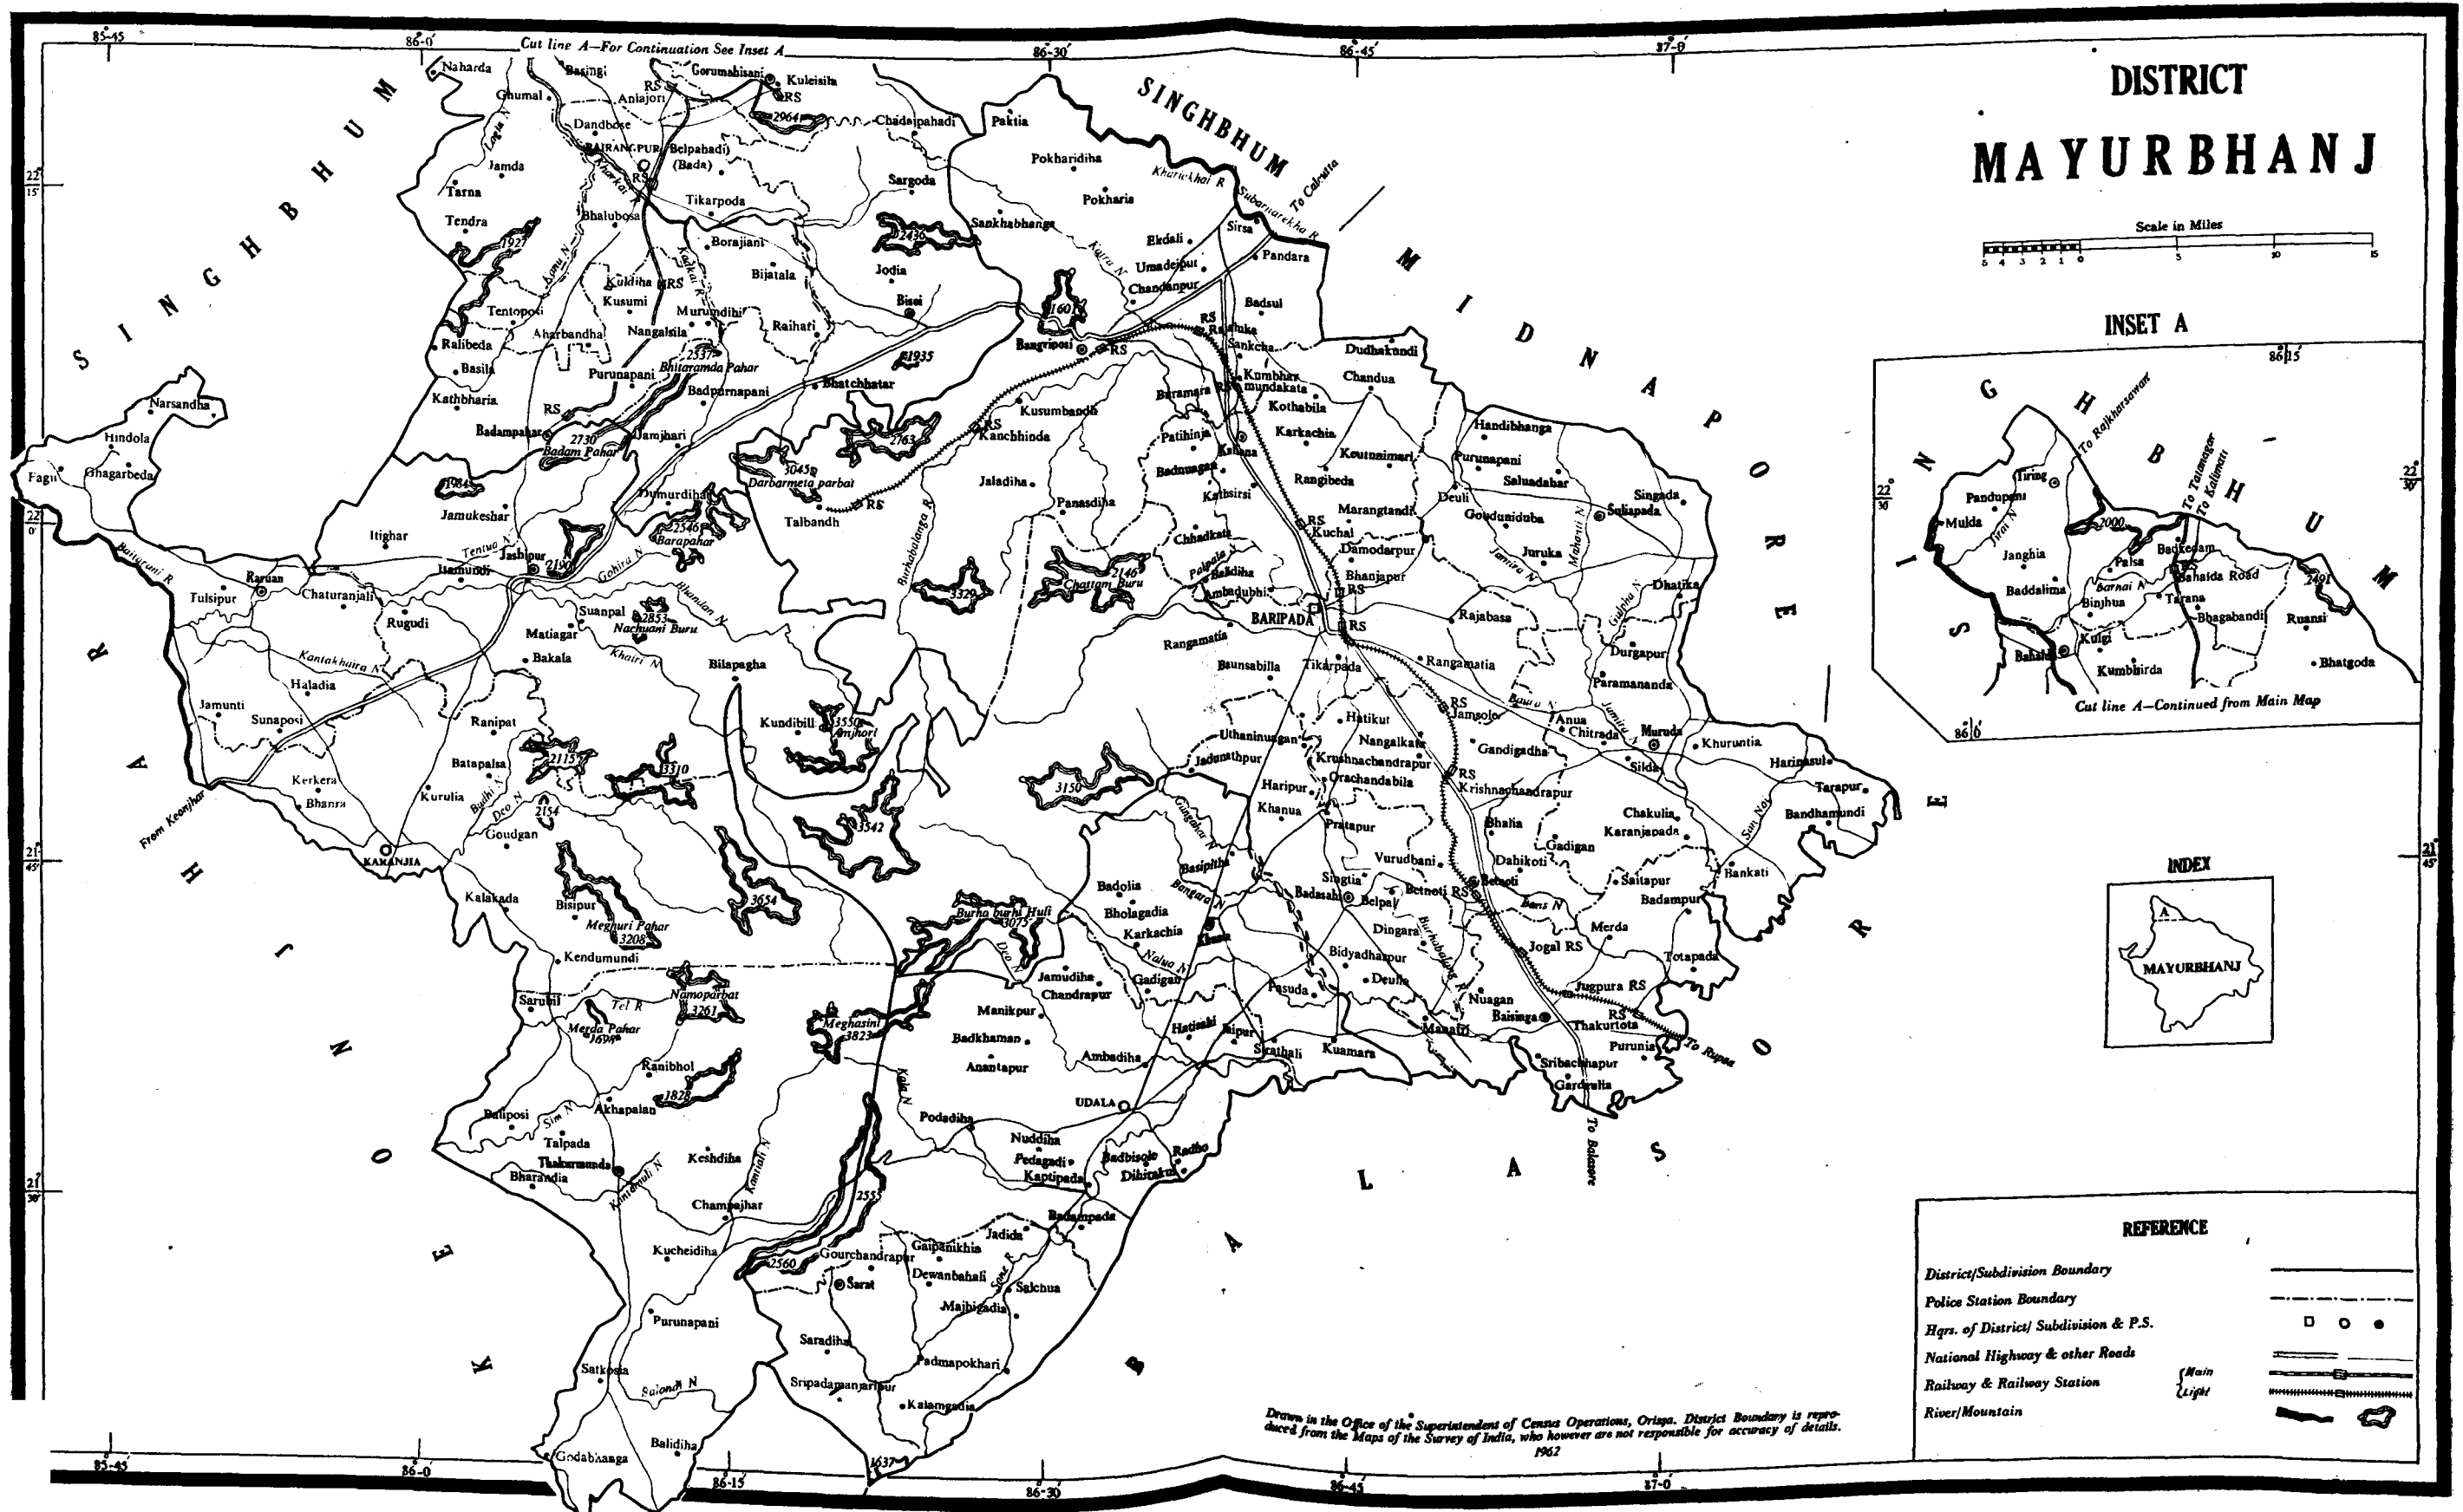

Climate and rainfall—The climate of the district is characterised by oppressive summer, high humidities nearly all the year round and well distributed rainfall during monsoon months. The hot season commences about the beginning of March with gradual rise in temperature till the mean daily maximum reaches 47°C in the hottest month of May. The monsoon sets in early in June and withdraws early in October when the temperature starts dropping till December, the coldest month, the mean minimum temperature in this month being 12°C.

The average annual rainfall is 1,648.2 mm. (64.89"). The rainfall is uniform all over the district. There are 83 rainy days in a year. Nearly 77% of the total annual rainfall is recorded between June and September. The general climate is dry and healthy but in the jungle tracts around the Simlipal hills, malaria is endemic.

Vital Statistics—Vital Statistics used to be collected under the Durbar Administration only in the capital town of the State, namely, Baripada and in 3 police Stations. After merger of the State, collection work was extended over the entire district in 1952. During 9 years from 1952 to 1960, births in the district outnumbered deaths by 94,675 (46,131 males and 48,544 females), which appears to be low, possibly due to under-registration. The birth and death rates during this period work out to 23.0 and 13.6 per mille respectively under the circumstances. Infant deaths were 16,806 against total births of 231,897 and constituted only 12.25% of total deaths. 25.35% of deaths occur among children up to the age of 5 years. Fever, notably malaria, caused 81.58% of deaths in the district recording the highest rate in the State during this decade. Comparatively, deaths from cholera and smallpox were much less, constituting only 0.20% and 0.93% respectively of total deaths.

Area and population of administrative units—The district covers an area of 4,021.8 sq. miles or 10,416.4 sq. kms. and contains a population of 12.04 lakhs. It comprises 4 subdivisions and 21 police stations. The area and population of each such administrative unit is given in the statement below:

Towns—The district has two towns, namely, Baripada, the Headquarters of the district (population 20,301) and Rairangpur (population 8,119).

Growth of population (1901-1961)—The growth of population in the district from 610,383 in 1901 to 1,204,043 in 1961 works out to an increase of 97·3% during the last 60 years. Although there is fluctuation in the rate of growth from decade to decade, there is no decrease of population in any. Excepting the decades 1911-1921 and 1941-1951 when the rates of growth were 3·4% and 4·5% respectively, there was satisfactory growth of population in all decades with percentage of increase varying between 10 and 20.

Trend of migration—4·9% of population are migrants to this district, out of whom 2·7% are born outside the State. The migrants have come in large numbers from Bihar and West Bengal. Relevant figures of migration are given below:

	Persons	Males	Females	Per-centage
1. Population of the district	1,204,043	603,756	599,287	100
2. Born in the district	1,145,561	587,887	557,674	95·1

(ix) Other Services	40,900	27,813	13,087

Scheduled Tribes—The population of Scheduled Tribes in the district is 729,764 which is a little over 60 per cent of the total population. There are 45 tribes, the most numerous being Santal (340,327), Kolha (119,136), Bhumij (79,394), Bathudi (59,377), Bhuiya (29,161), Ho (27,090), Gond (16,659), Sounti (11,450), Kharia (10,930), Mundari (8,292) Shabar (5,128), Munda (4,727), Mahali (3,891), Pentia (3,853), Saora (2,087) and Oraon (1,783). The district is considered to be the homeland of Bathudis, Kolhas, Hos, Mahalis, Mundaris, Rajuars, Santals, Kolah-Kol-Loharas and Bhumijis. Literacy is poor being confined to 7·1%. Principal economic activity is cultivation and agricultural labour.

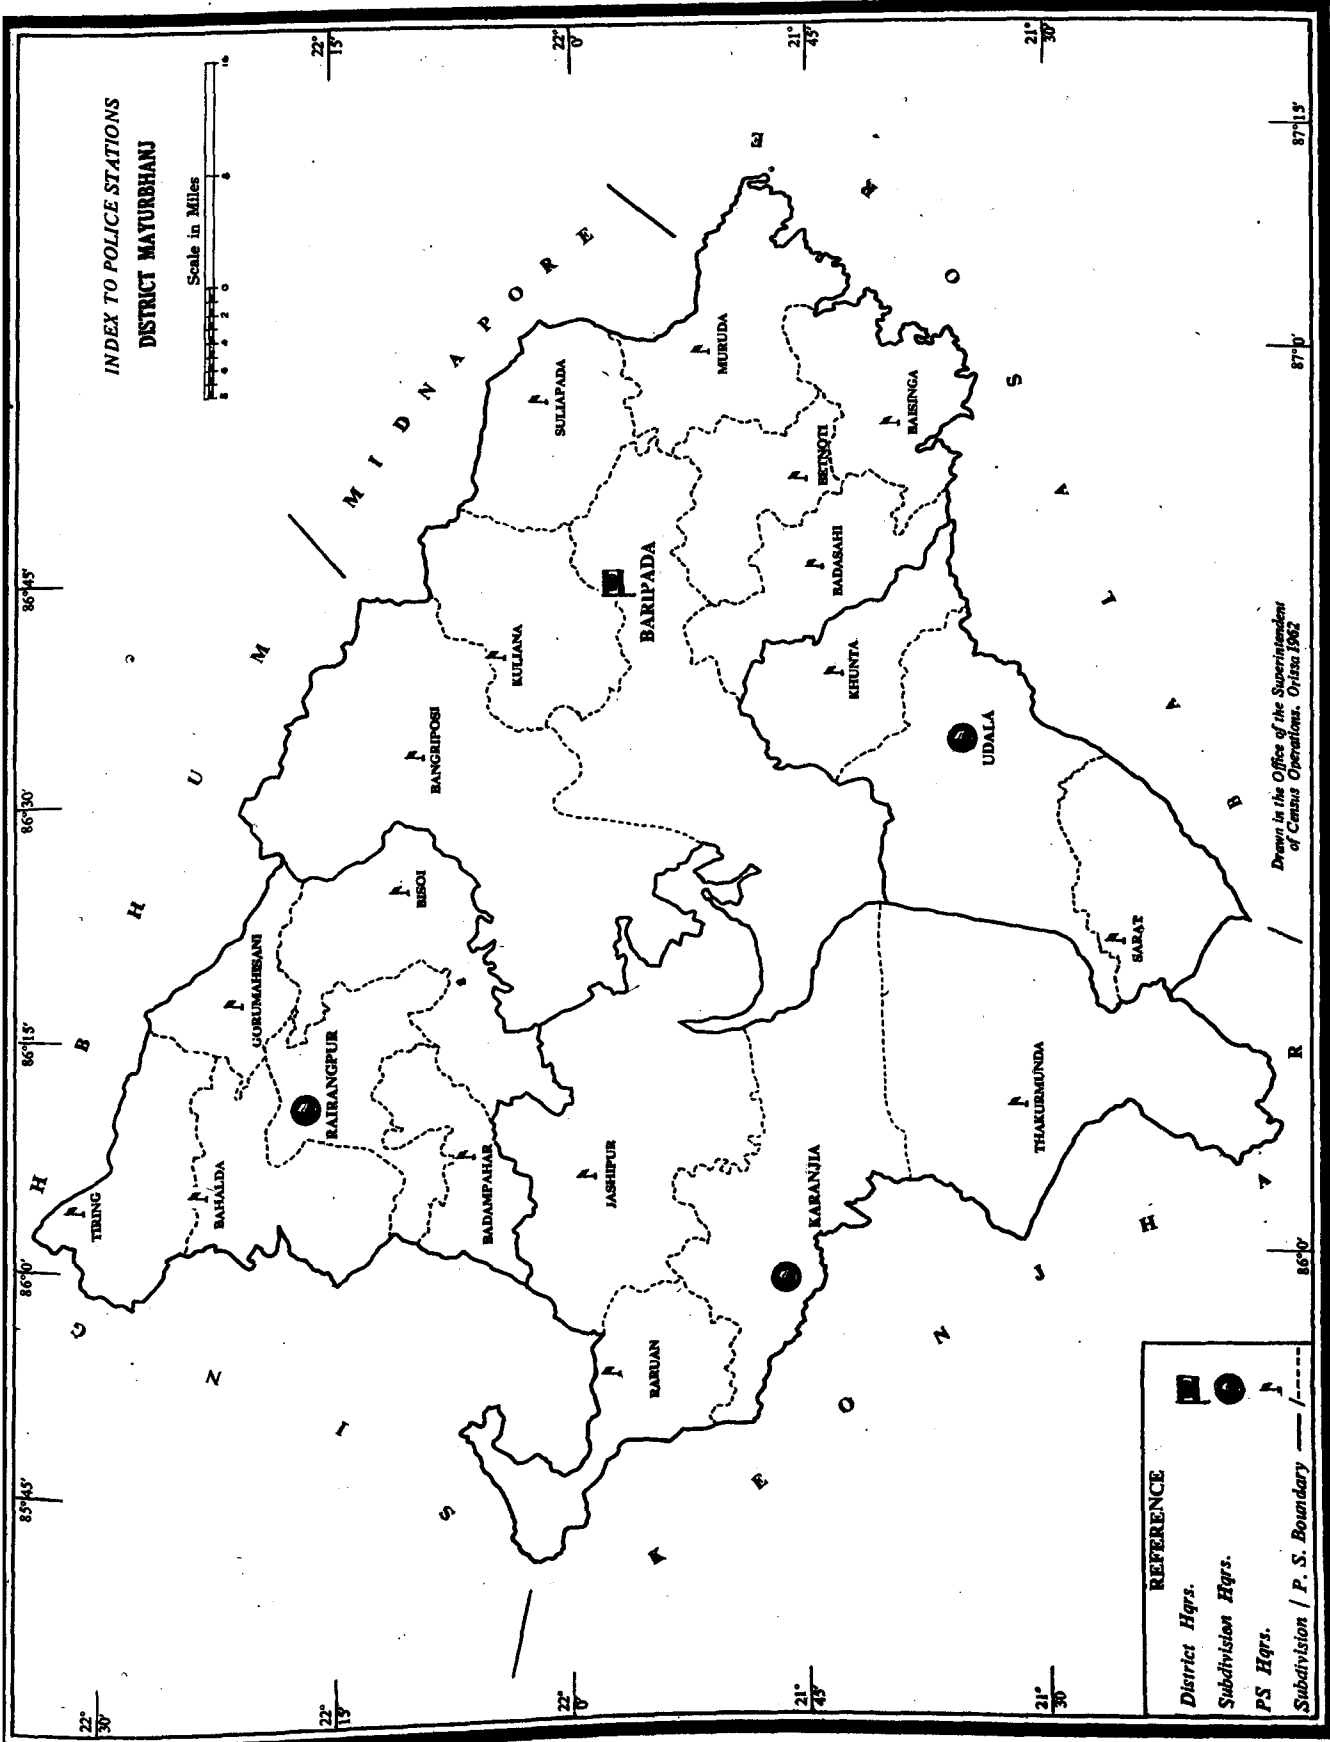

Scheduled Castes—There are 65 Scheduled Castes in the district with a population of 104,273, which is 8·6% of the total population. The principal castes are Patratanti (26,094), Dhoba (14,757), Pan (11,174), Pantanti (8,547), Dom (7,580), Amant (6,939), Tamudia (6,839), Ghasi (4,441), Haddi (3,764), Karua (1,715), Bariki (1,674), Ujia (1,299) and Chamar (1,203). Literacy is confined to 12·3%. Cultivation, agricultural labour and household industry provide livelihood to the largest section of the population.

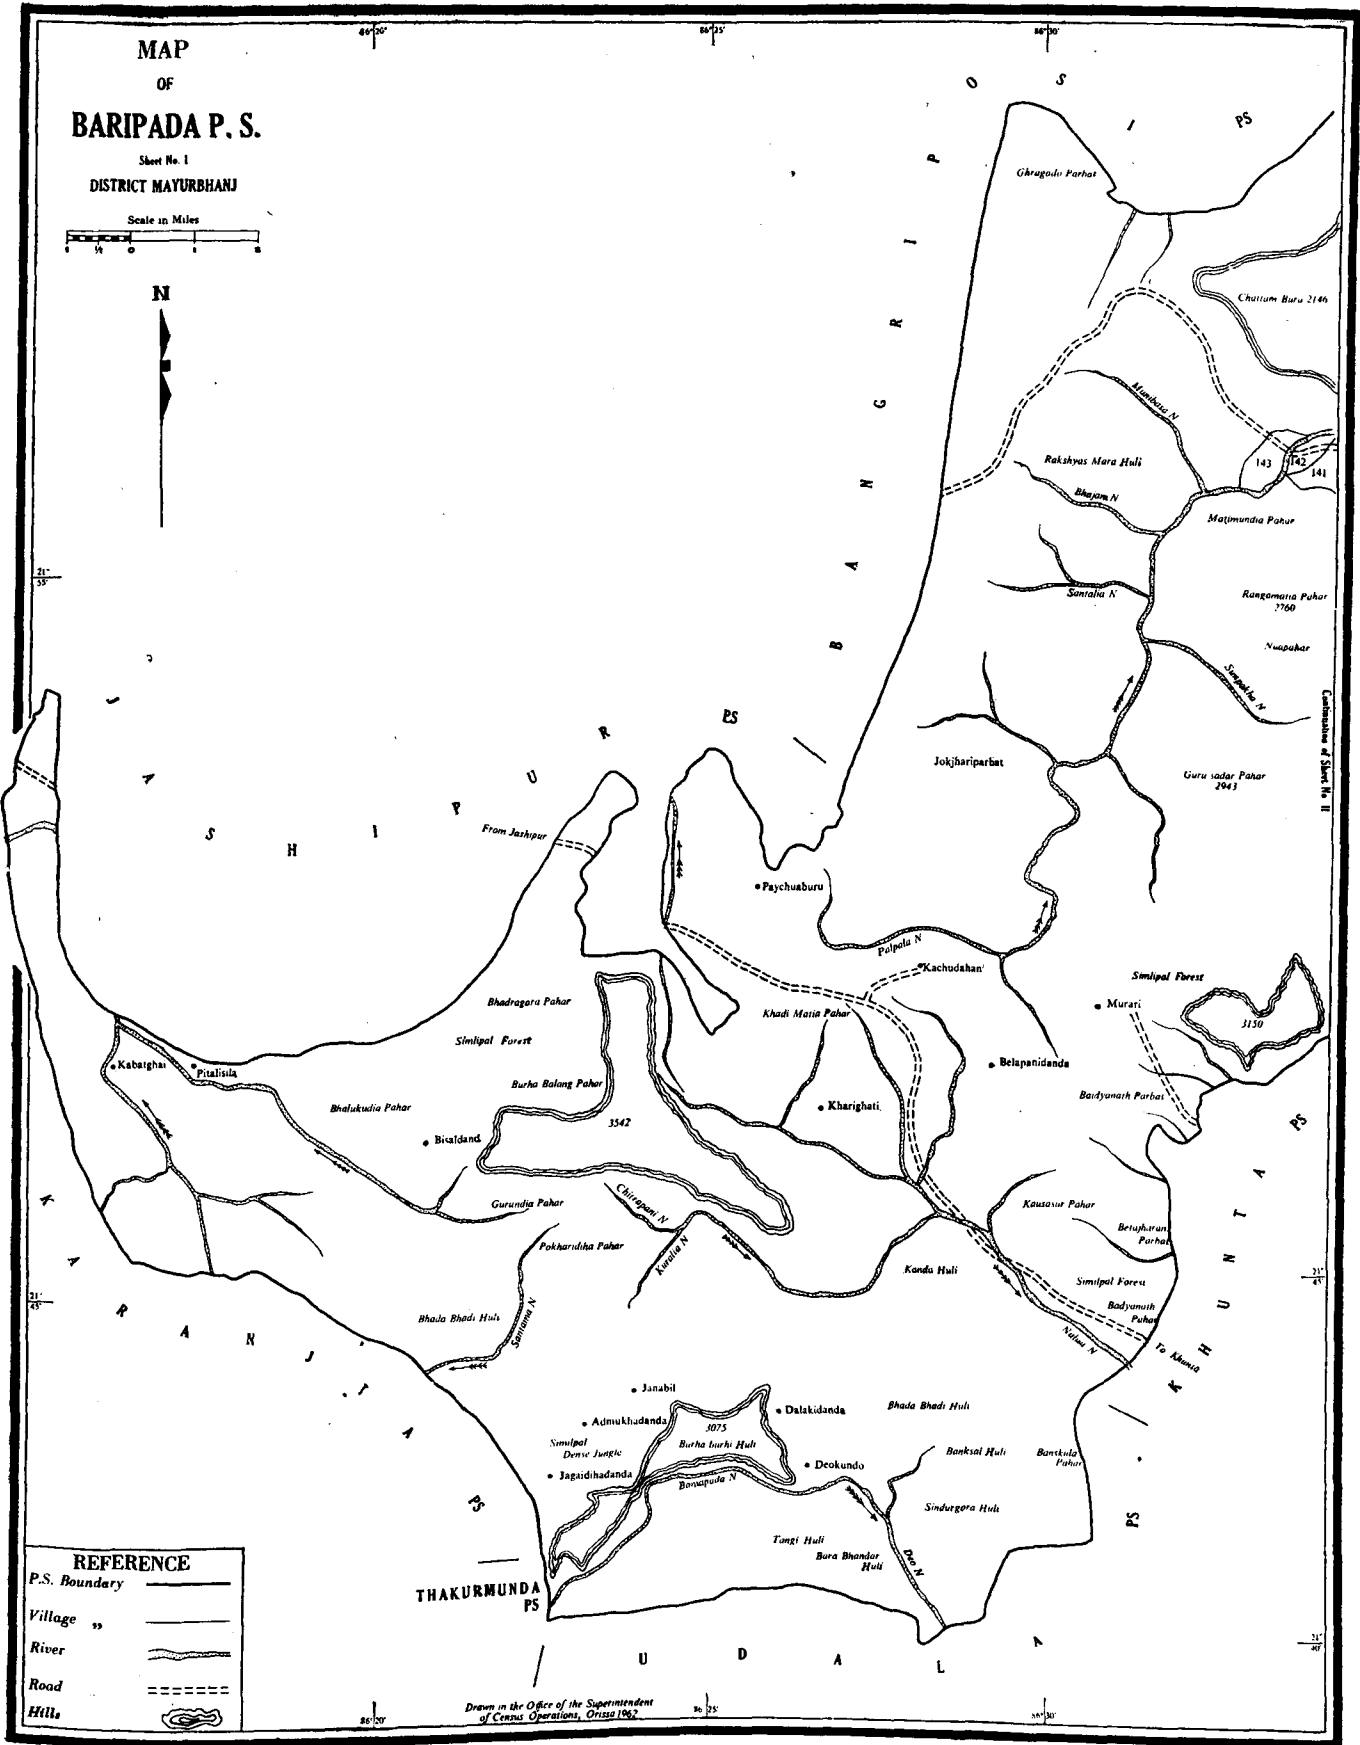

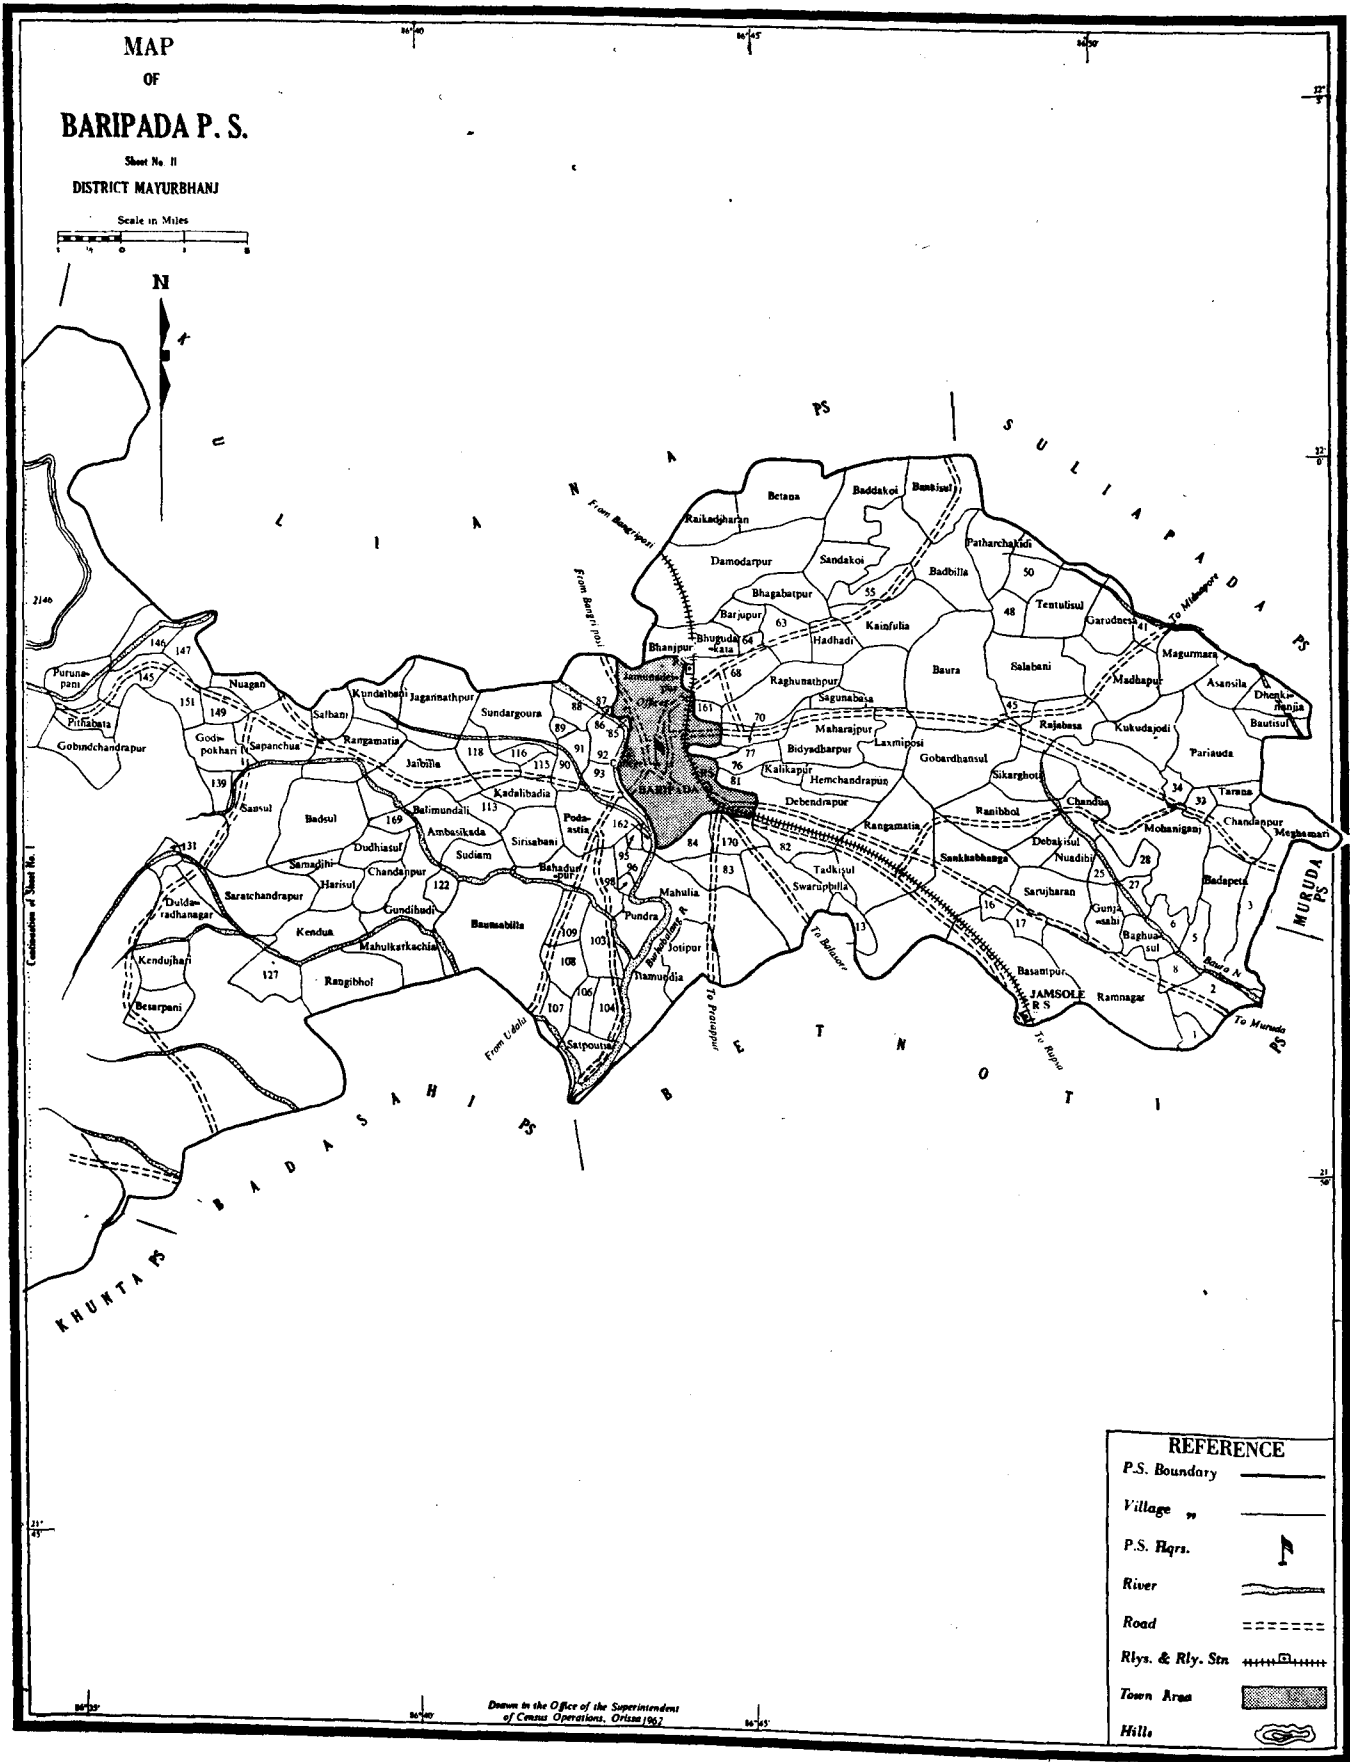

Literacy—About 14·2 per cent or 170,679 persons out of the total population of 1,204,043 are literates. Among the males, literacy has gone up to 23·7 per cent and among the females to 4·5 per cent. In 1951 literacy was much lower, namely, 9·6 per cent. There are 1,455 Primary Schools, 111 M.E. Schools and 16 High Schools in the district.

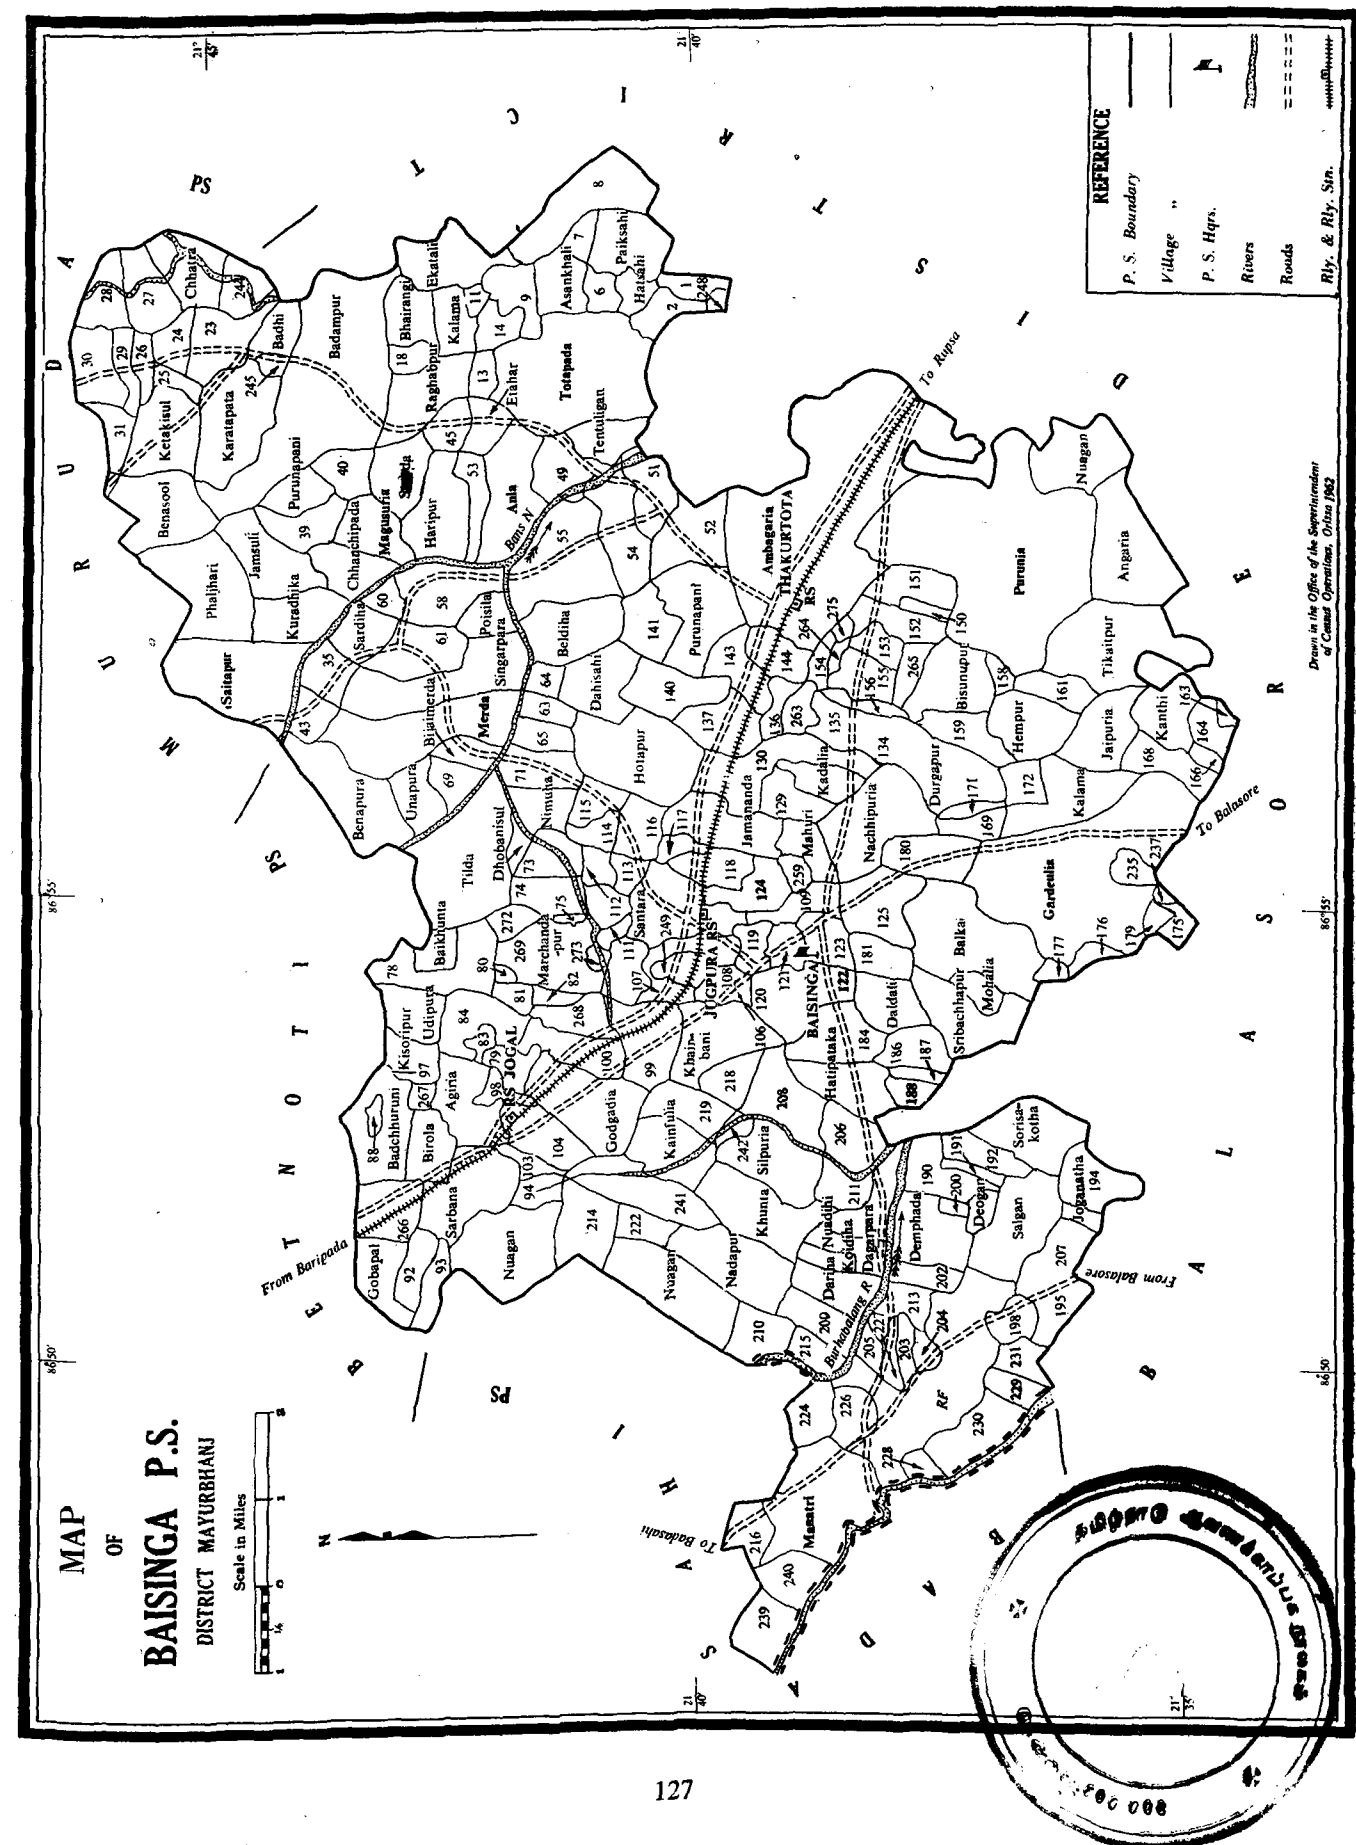

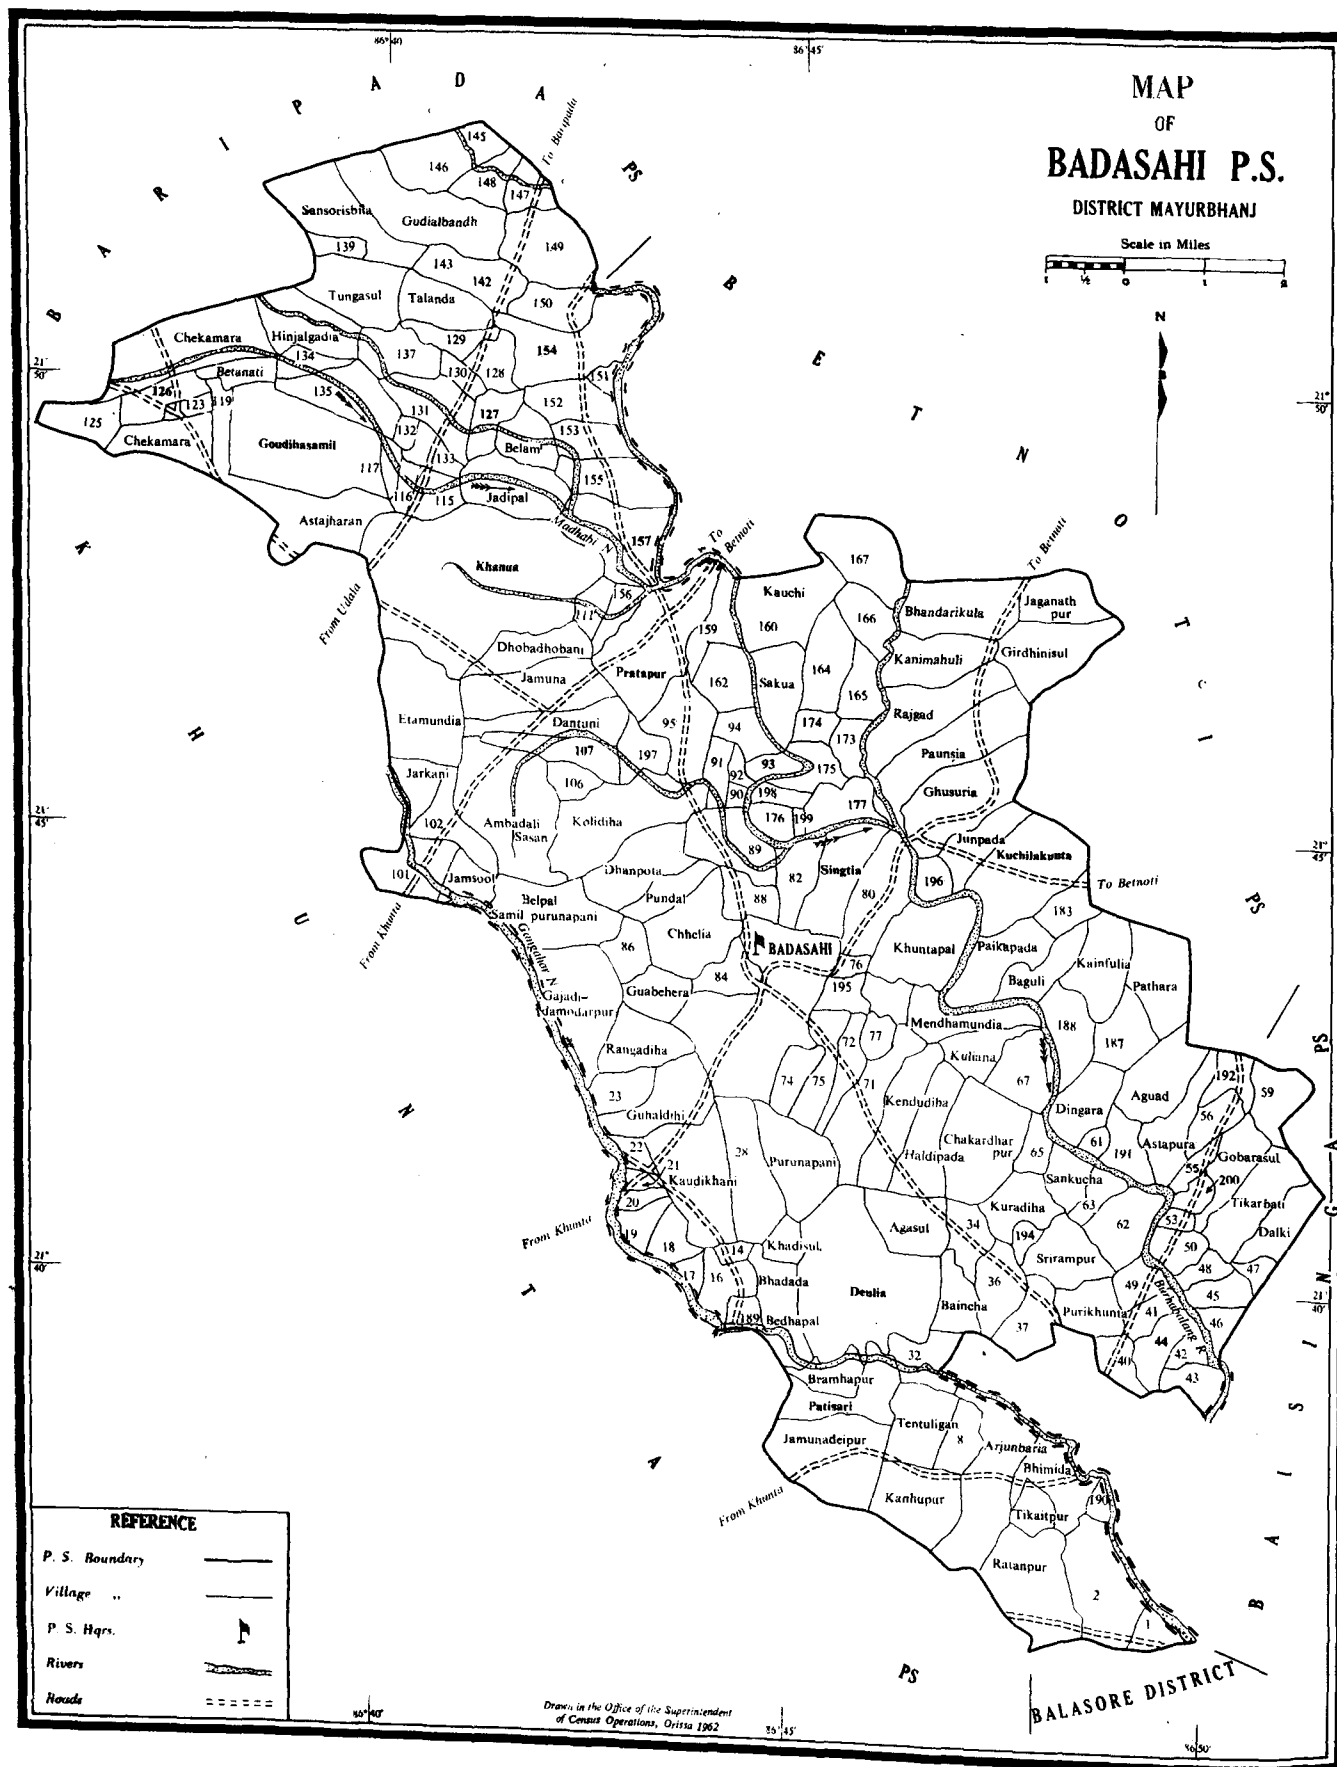

Industries—The number of industrial establishments including those of the lowest scale, namely, household industries are 25,707 in the district. Classified according to the list in the I.S.I.C. Scheme there are 69 kinds of industries. The statement below gives a list of industries which are most extensively found in the district:

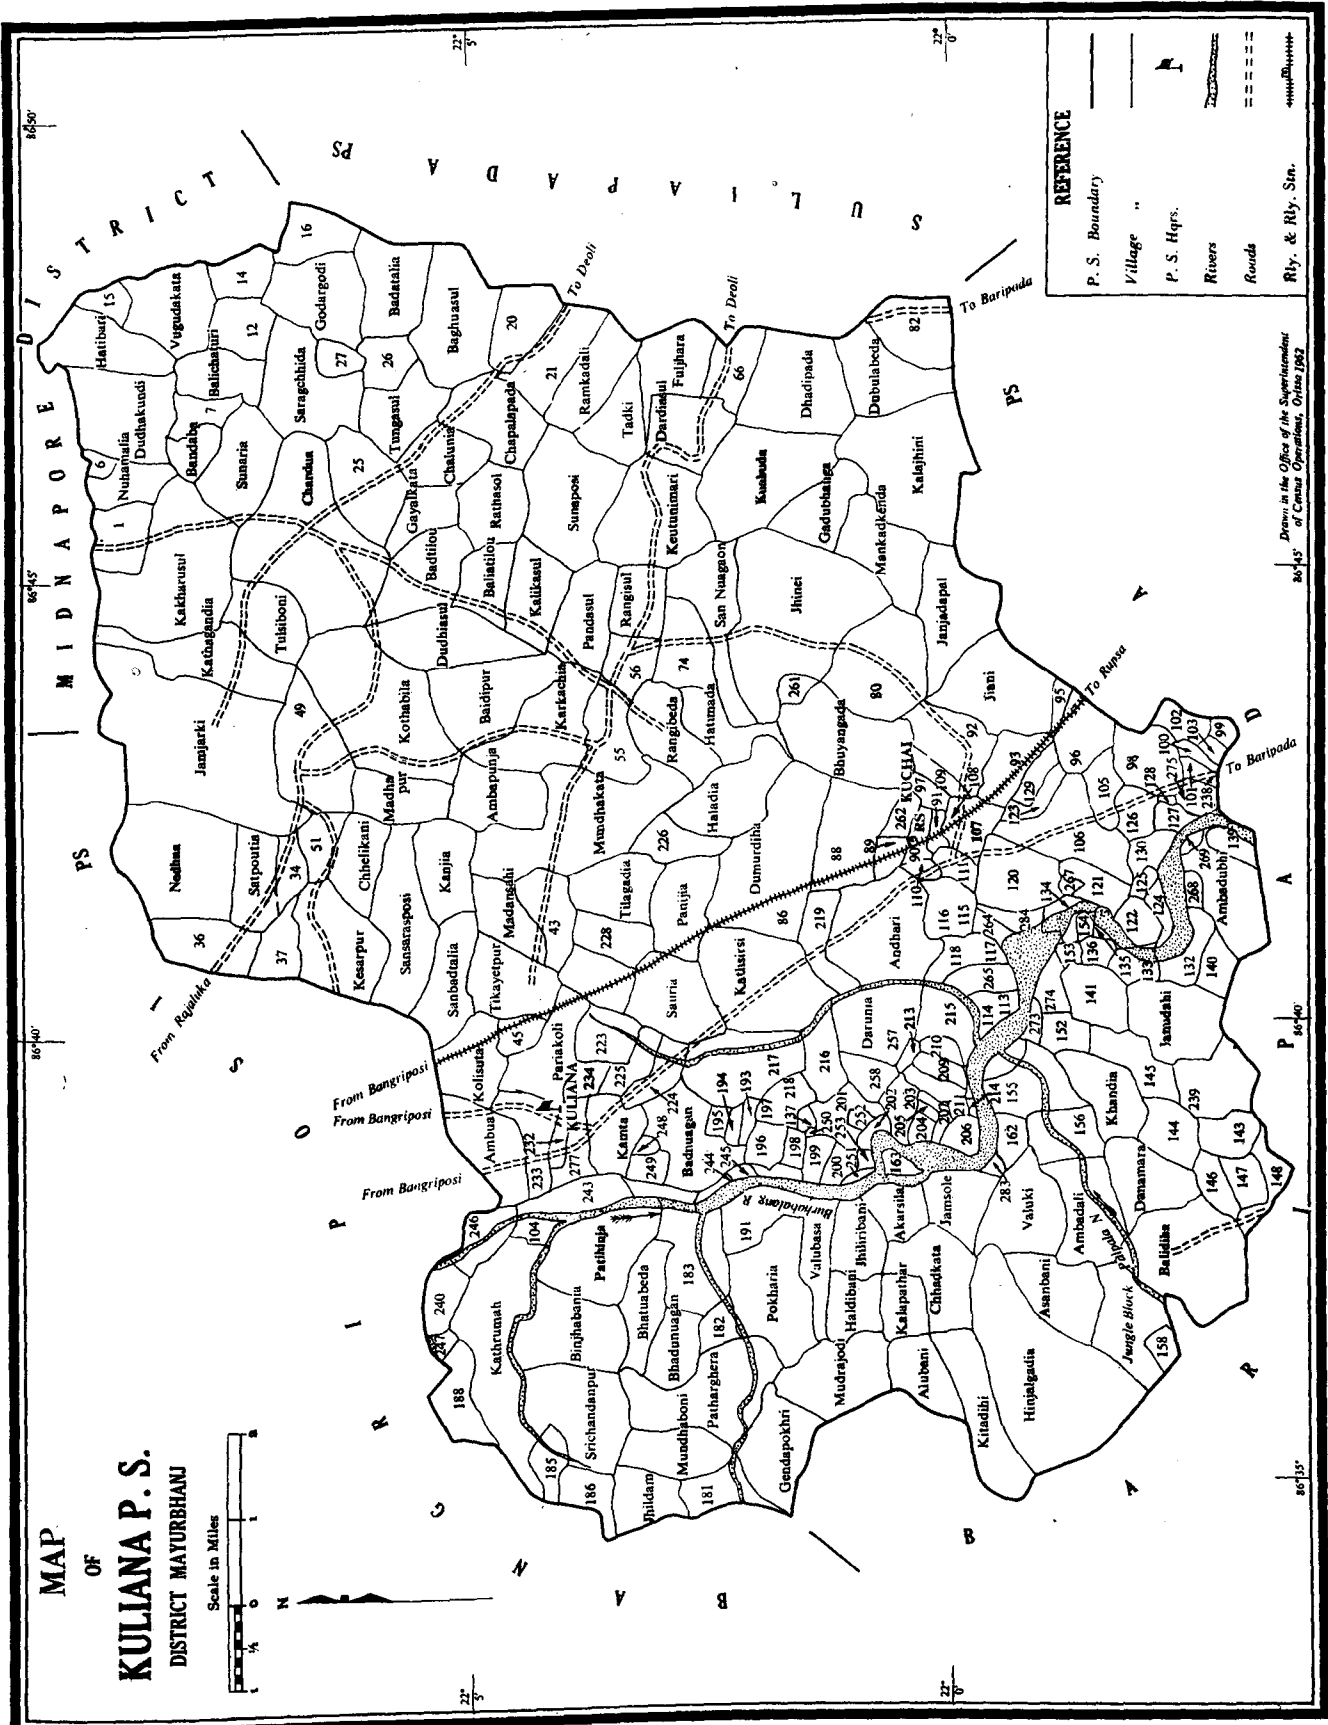

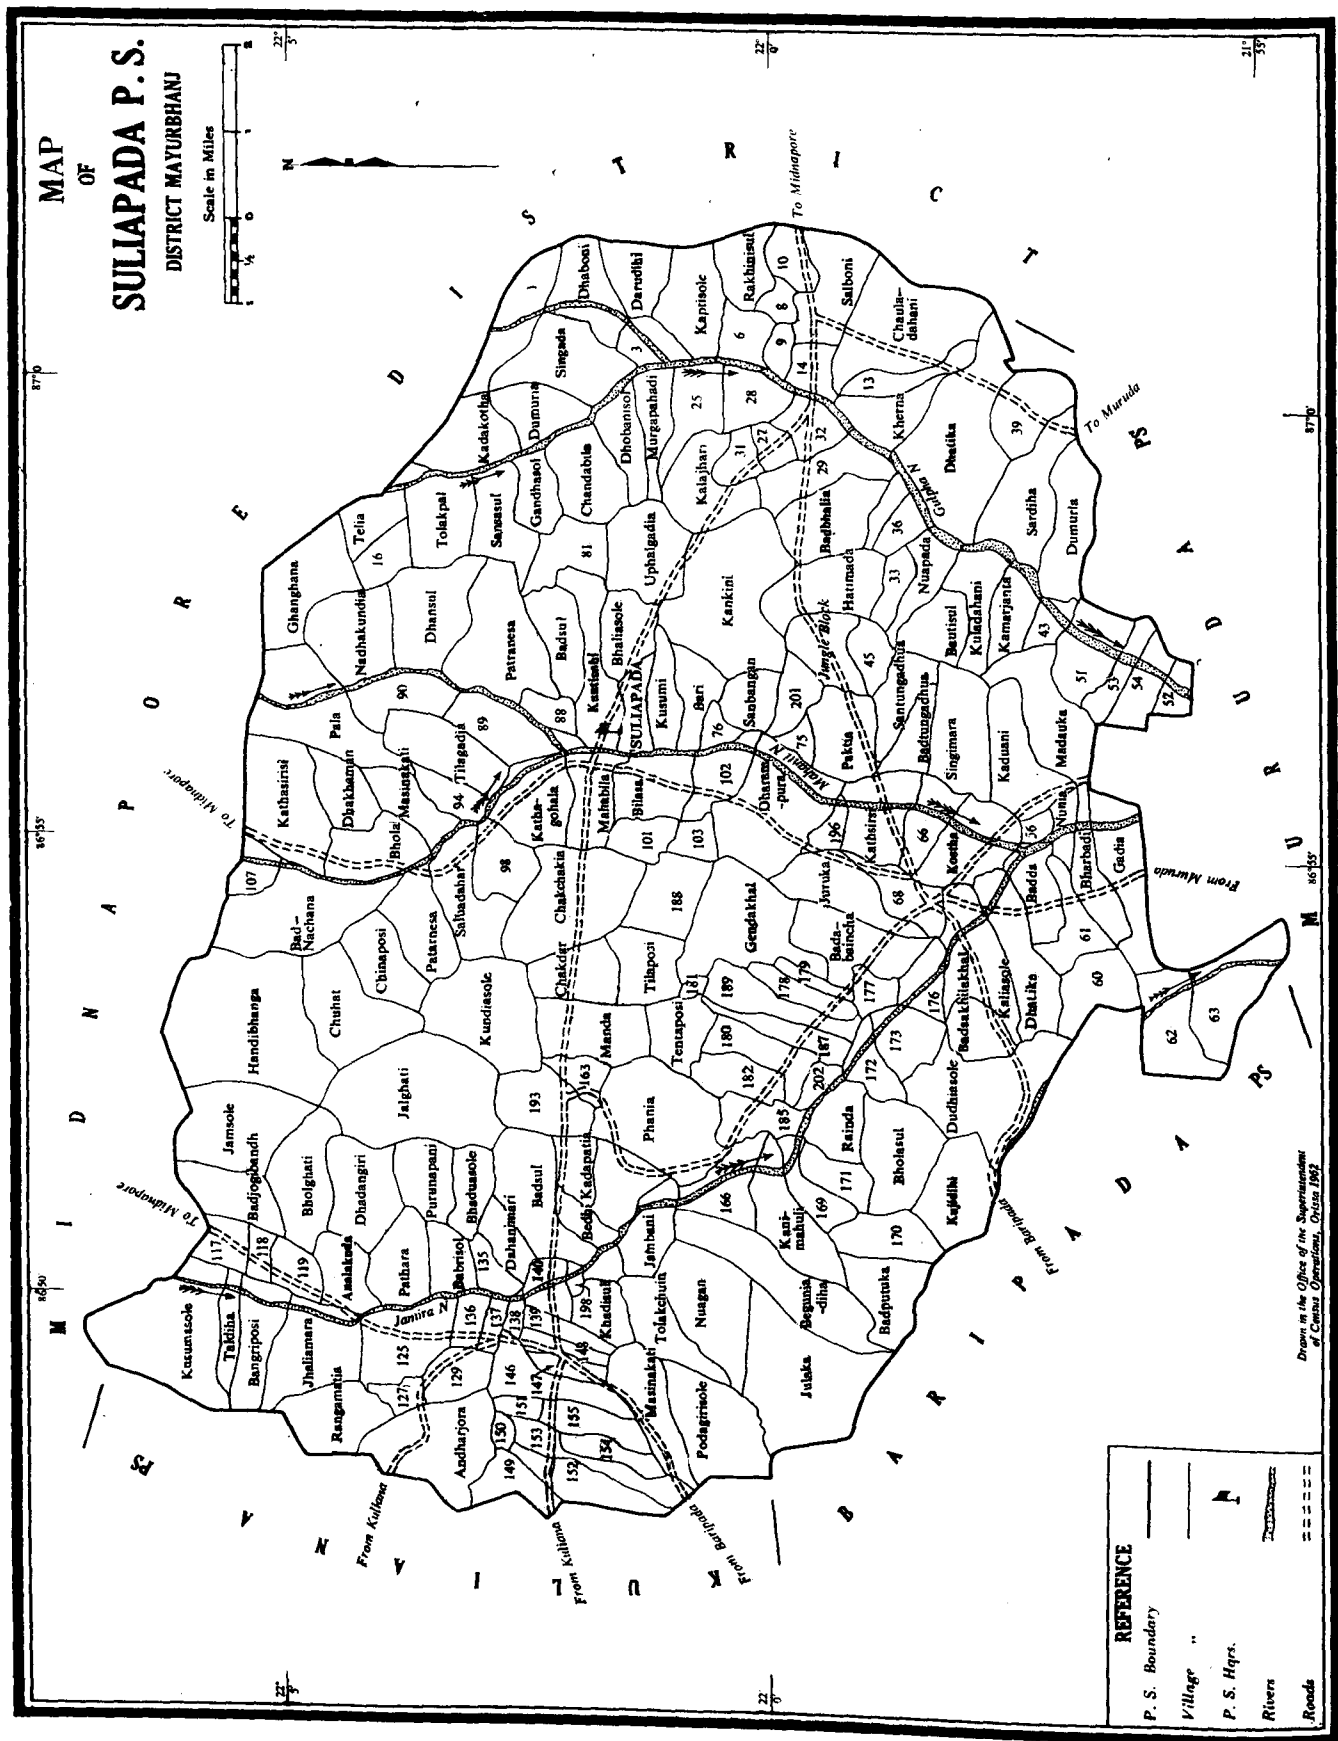

Name of industry	Total no. of estab-lishments	No. of persons engaged
Manufacture of materials from cork, bamboo, cane, leaves, etc.	11,043	34,515
Cotton weaving in handlooms	6,227	17,376

GANJAM DISTRICT

Ganjam, one of the southern districts of Orissa lies between 18° 46'N and 20° 17'N latitudes and between 83° 48'E and 85° 11'E longitudes. It is bounded on the north by Baudh-Khondmal and Puri districts, in the south by Srikakulum district of Andhra Pradesh, in the west by Baudh-Khondmals and Koraput districts and in the east by Puri district and the Bay of Bengal.

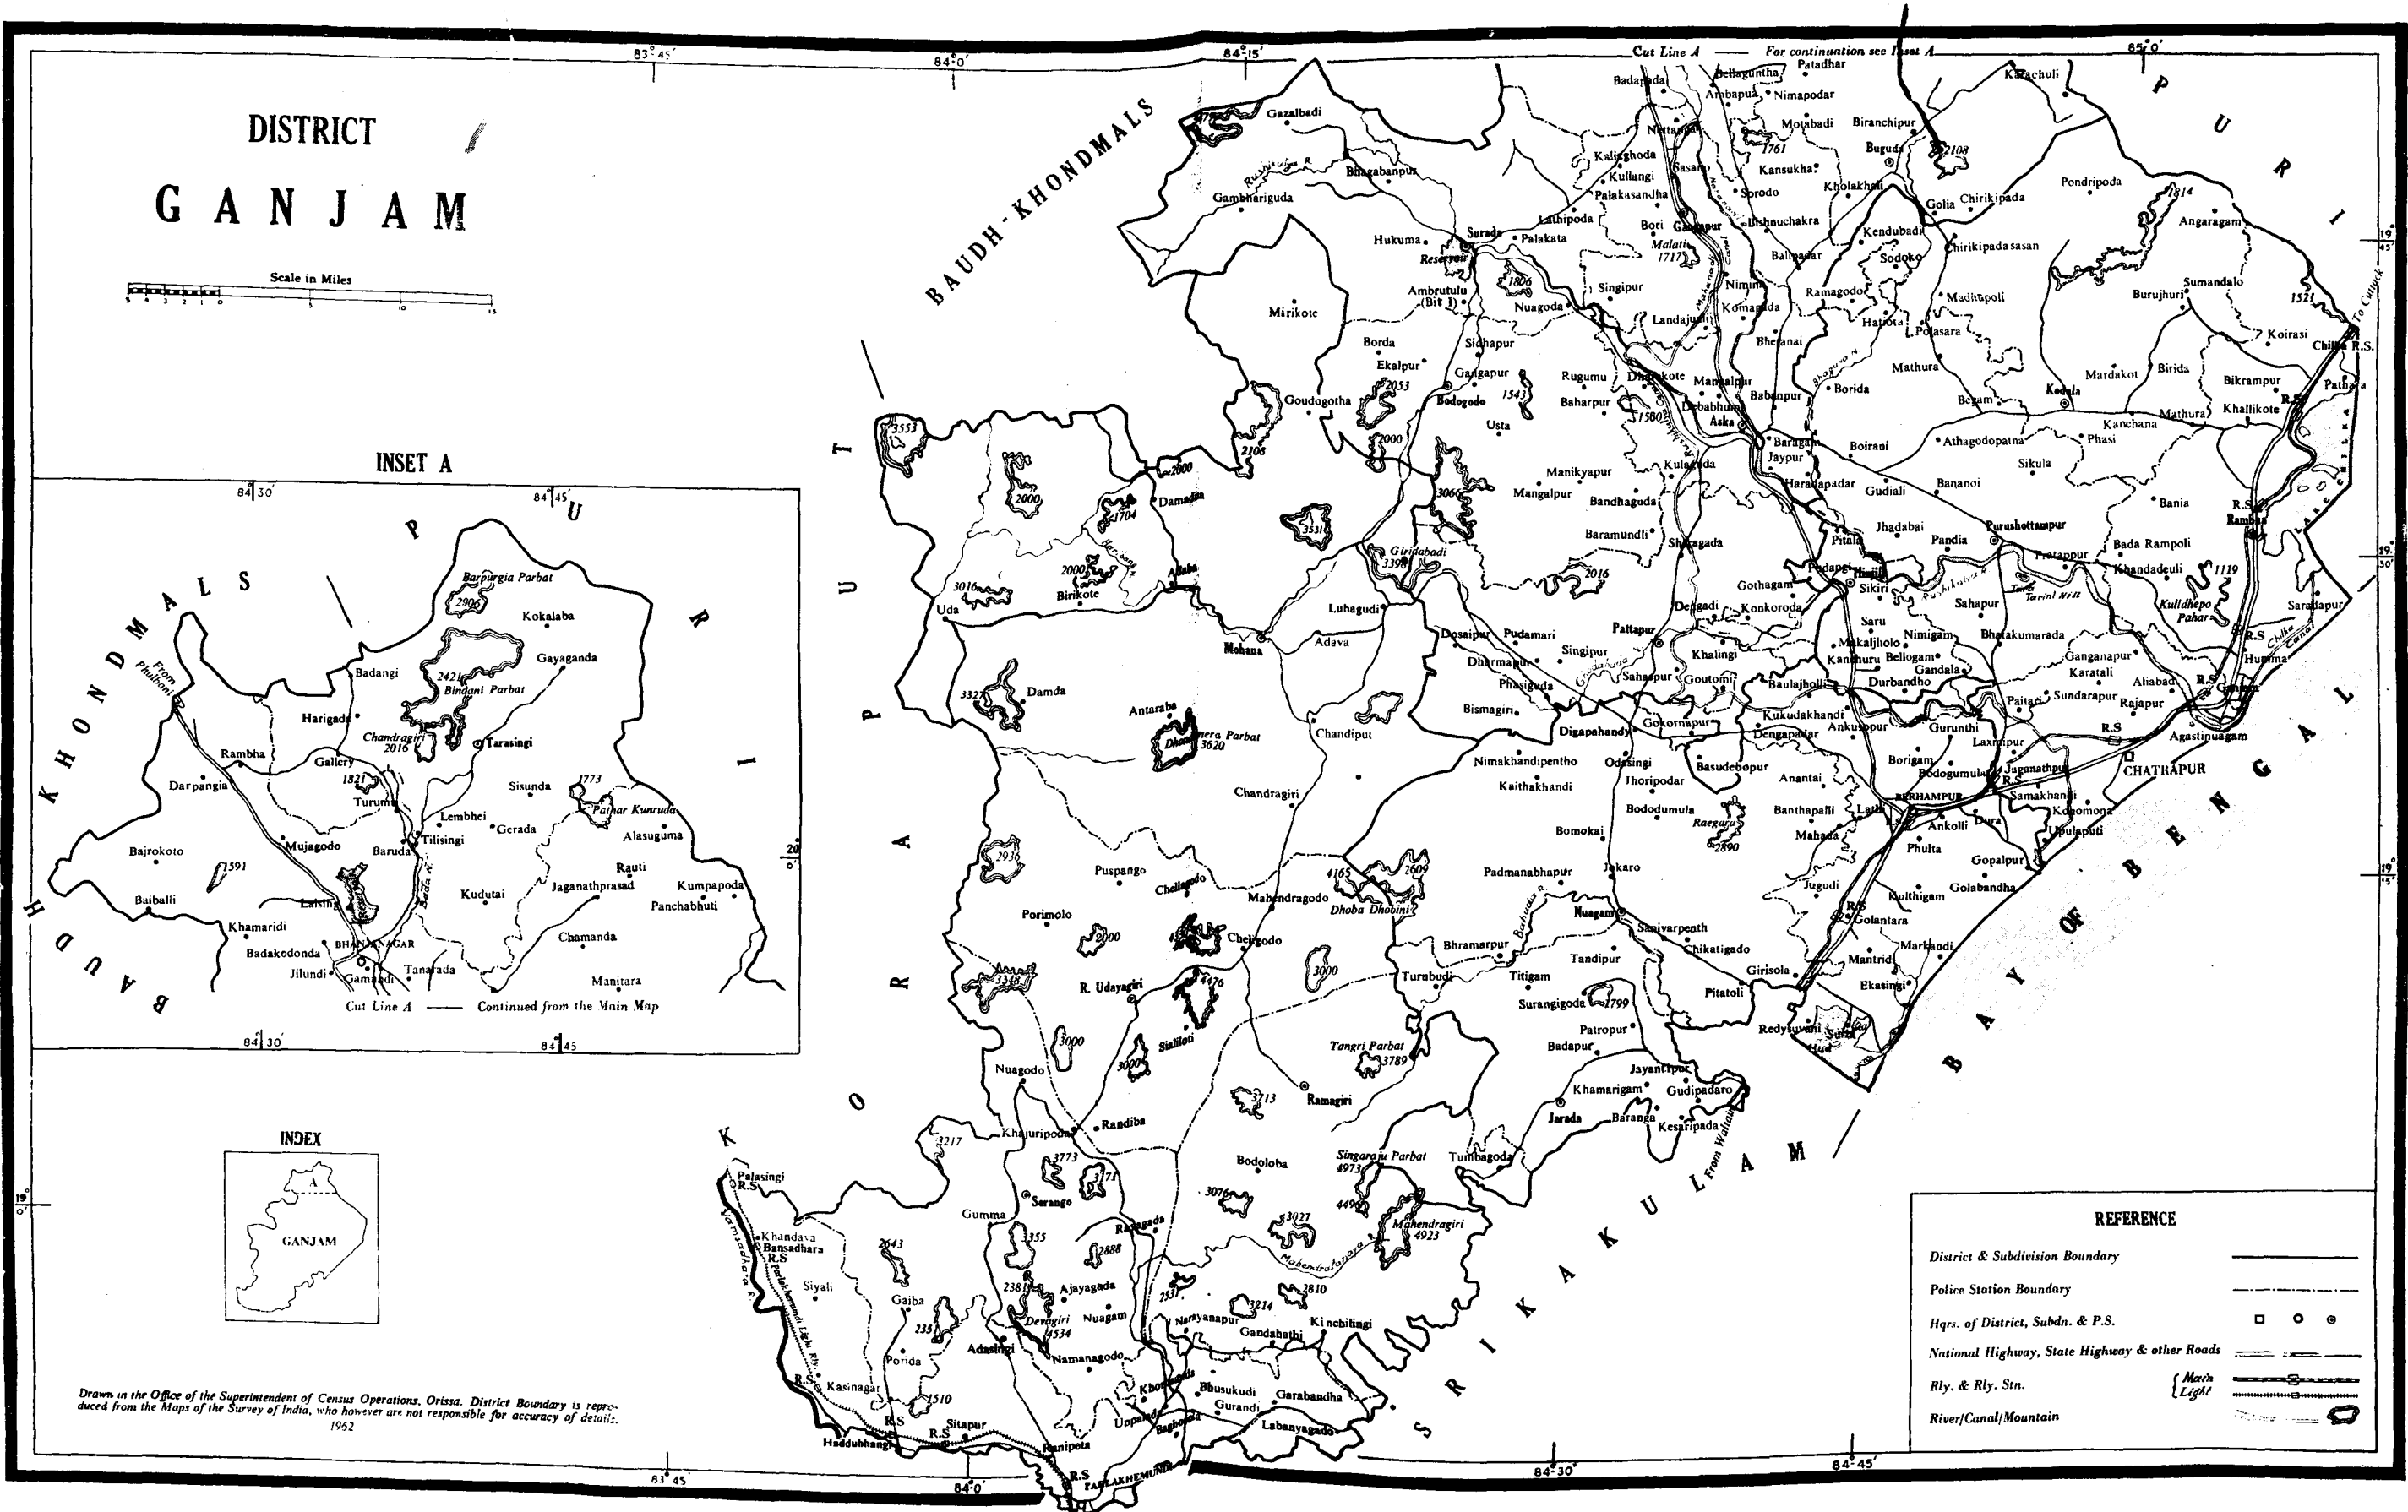

Physiography—The district divides itself easily into two broad divisions—the coastal plain areas in the east and the tableland in the west. The eastern and northern frontiers of the coastal plains consist of thick forests with well-grown sal trees. Towards the centre and the south it is hilly with beautiful well-watered valleys running towards the sea. The south-eastern portion is fertile and contains extensive multicropped areas, well served by many irrigation projects, both major and minor. The extreme south-east is occupied by a portion of the Chilka lake, its immediate vicinity being good for fishery and salt manufacture though not so good for cultivation. The tableland of the western sector of the district is a continuation of the great line of the Eastern Ghats, and is chiefly formed by two plateaux conspicuously featured by some of the highest mountains of Orissa. The northern plateau lies between the hill ranges of Baliguda in the north and R. Udayagiri in the south, covering over 1,000 sq. miles and containing hills ranging from 2,000 to 4,476 ft in height. The southern plateau which lies between R. Udayagiri and Parlakhemundi plains is higher in elevation and contains some of the noted mountains stretching eastwards from the boundary of Andhra Pradesh. The highest hills in this range are Singaraju Parbat (4,973 ft), Mahendragiri (4,923 ft) and Devagiri (4,534 ft). The two plateaux are the homeland of many tribes, the Konds predominating in the north and the Saoras in the south.

The district has alluvial soil in its eastern part and laterite soil in the west with small patches of black cotton soil at the centre and in the north-east close to the Chilka lake. Forests cover a total area of 1,640 sq. miles. Northern tropical semi-evergreen forests are seen in Parlakhemundi area, but in Bhanjanagar the forest may be classified as northern tropical moist deciduous type. The important species found in these forests are sal, asan and bija.

Climate and rainfall—The climate of the district is characterised by an equable temperature all through the year, particularly in the coastal region, and by high humidities. The cold season from December to February is followed by hot season from March to May. The period from June to September makes the south-west monsoon season and October to November the post-monsoon transition period. May is the hottest month with the mean daily maximum temperature at 32.3°C. The temperature decreases with the onset of monsoons and continues to drop more appreciably after the monsoon withdraws. December is the coldest month with the mean daily minimum temperature of 16.2°C. The average annual rainfall in the district is 1,295.6 mm. (51"). About 66% of the annual rainfall is received during the south-west monsoon period. August is the wettest month. On an average there are 65 rainy days in a year. Depressions and cyclonic storms originating in the Bay of Bengal cross the district and cause heavy rains and strong winds. The hilly tract and tableland of the west starting from the hills of Parlakhemundi and stretching up to the boundary of Baliguda subdivision is unhealthy.

Area and population of administrative units—The district extends over an area of 4,725.0 sq. miles or 12,237.8 sq. kms. and has a population of 18.72 lakhs. It consists of 4 subdivisions, 10 taluks and 22 police stations. The area and population of each such administrative unit is indicated below:

Towns—The district has the largest number of towns in Orissa. The names of the ten towns are Chatrapur (District Headquarters, 7,835), Berhampur (76,931), Hinjili (8,028), Khallikote (3,365), Gopalpur (3,536), Bhanjanagar (9,952), Bellaguntha (5,762), Surada (8,703), Aska (9,024) and Parlakhemundi (22,708). Gopalpur on the Sea is a tourist centre.

Growth of population (1901-61)—The population grew from 1,141,963 in 1901 to 1,872,530 in 1961, that is, an increase of 64% during sixty years. Excepting the decade 1911-21 when there was a decline in the population by 3.3%, there was progressive growth during other decades, namely, 11.2% in 1901-11, 13.2% in 1921-31, and 12.2% in 1931-41. The rate declined to 4.1% in 1941-51, but registered the highest growth of 15.2% in 1951-61.

Trend of migration—The migrants to the district constitute 2.5% of the total population out of which 1.4% are born outside the State. The number of migrants from other districts of the State as well as from outside the State are given below. Majority of the migrants to this district come from Andhra Pradesh, West Bengal and Madras.

	Persons	Males	Females	Per-centage
1. Population of the district	1,872,530	899,329	973,201	100
2. Born in the district	1,826,150	877,023	949,127	97.5

5. Born outside India (but in Asia)	387	219	168	Negligible
6. Others including unclassifiable	1,378	842	536	0.1

Economic classification—The total population of this district is broadly divided into two sections, workers and non-workers. Workers are further classified into nine industrial categories as given below:

Section or category	Persons	Males	Females
1. Non-workers	950,981	370,956	580,025
2. Workers	921,549	528,373	393,176

Vital Statistics—Registration of Vital Statistics has not so far covered the entire district, 4.13% of population being still outside its scope. Moreover, there are many cases of omission in the records of births and deaths. During the decade 1951-60, births outnumbered deaths in the registration areas by 140,790 (75,834 males and 64,956 females). The birth and death rates during this decade work out to 24.6 and 16.3 per mille respectively. Infant deaths numbered 69,775 against a total birth of 414,196 and constitute 25.52% of total deaths. Deaths among children up to the age of 5 years is appalling and constitute 35.71% of total deaths. Fever, notably malaria, accounted for 46.85% of deaths in the district during the decade and among other causes, mention could be made of smallpox, dysentery and diarrhoea and cholera. In 1958 smallpox took as many as 7,924 lives out of the total recorded deaths of 37,002.

Scheduled Tribes—The population of Scheduled Tribes in the district is 188,001 which is about 10% of the total population. It comprises 24 tribes, the most numerous being Saora (96,128), Kond (53,317), and Shabar (34,916). The district is considered to be the homeland of the Saoras. Literacy is poor being confined to 6.1%. Cultivation and agricultural labour provide livelihood to the largest section of the population, although household industry and 'other services' are also popular.

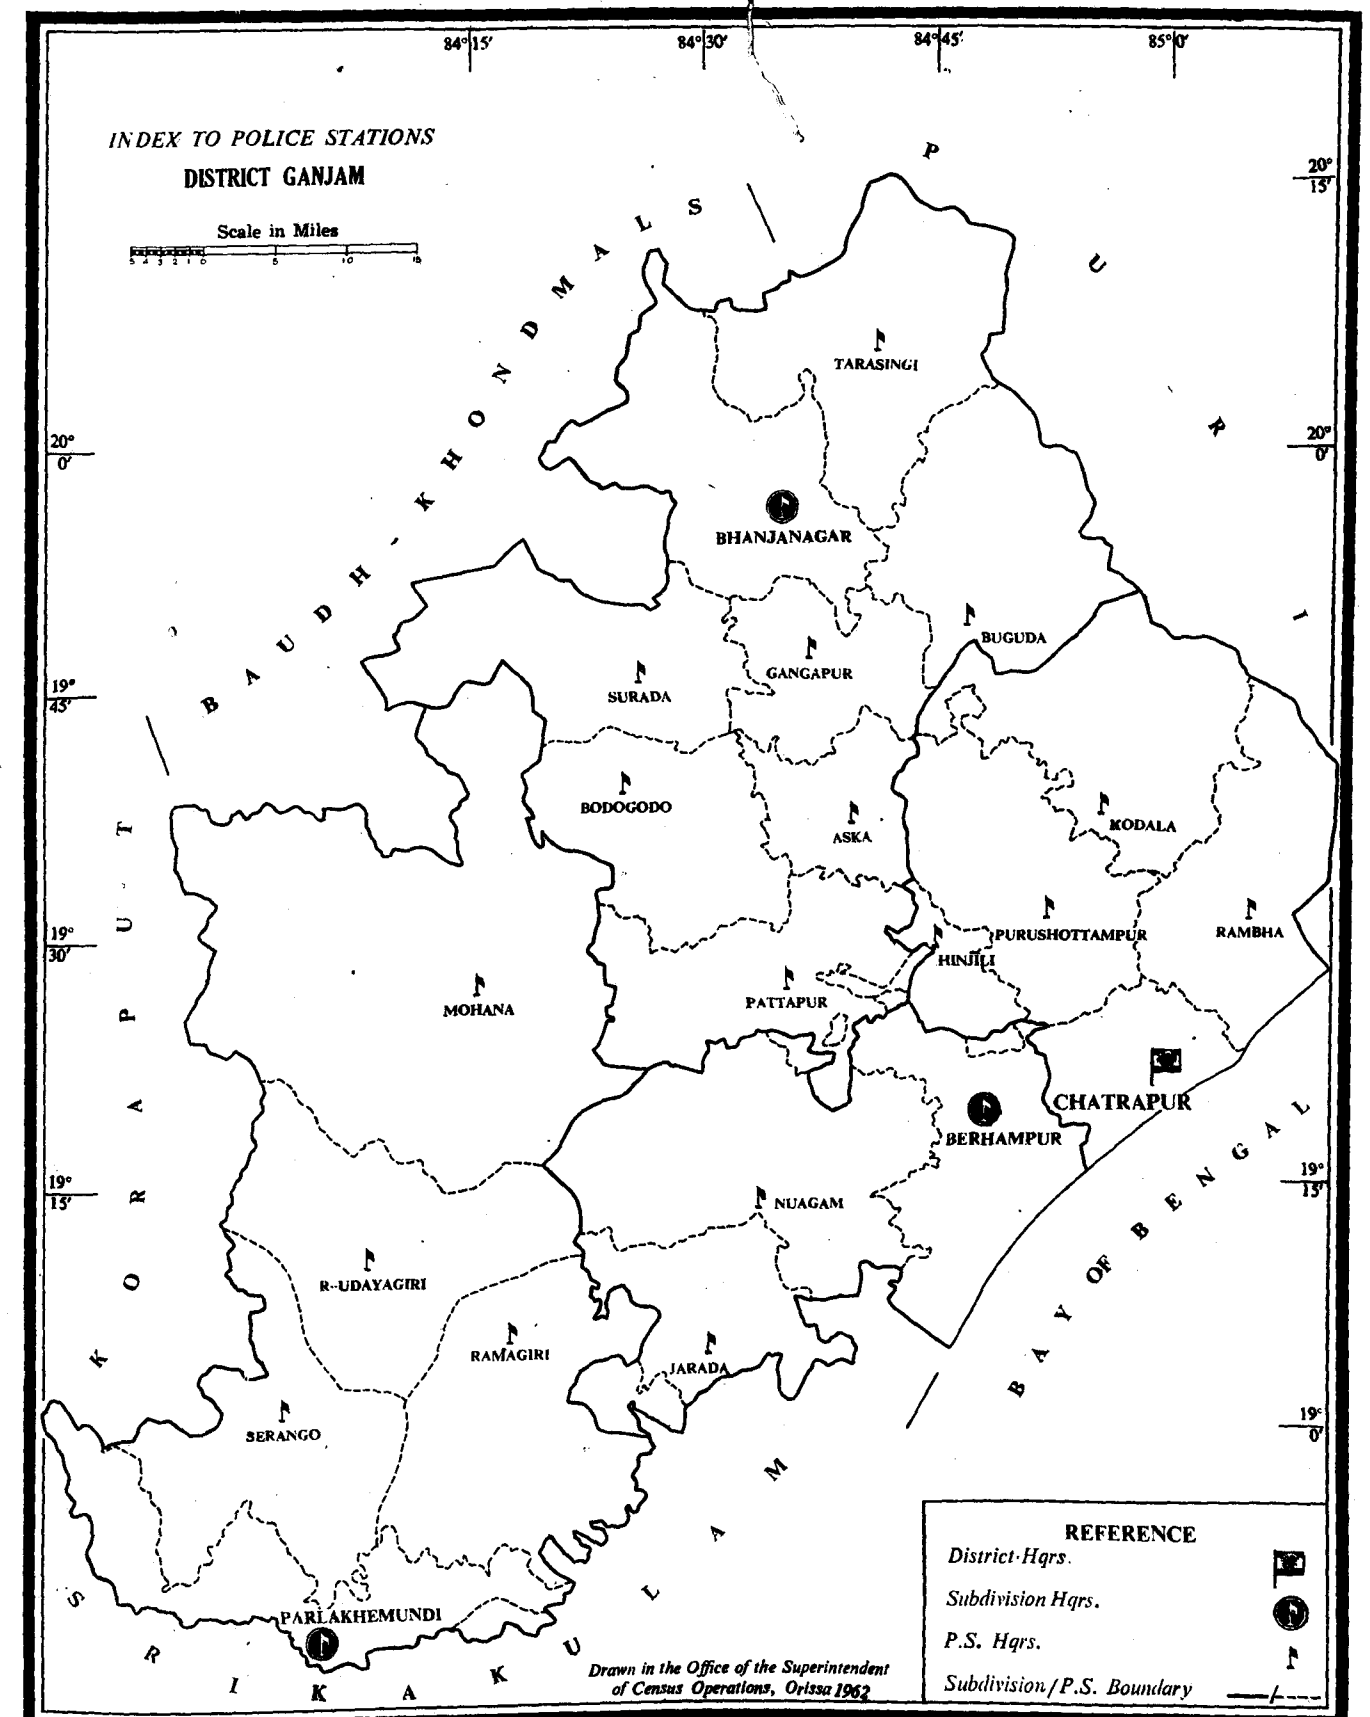

Scheduled Castes—There are 51 Scheduled Castes with a population of 308,298 living in the district, which is 16.4% of the total population. The principal castes are Bauri (62,308), Dhoba (53,353), Dandasi (46,029), Pan (40,174), Khadala (25,208), Haddi (19,236), Sauntia (14,453), Dewar (8,815), Adi Andhra (5,142), Dom (5,077), Kandra (4,507), Jaggali (2,825), Bariki (2,609), Tiaf (2,194), Chamar (1,991), Mala (1,944), Relli (1,499), Gokha (1,294) and Siyal (1,019). Literacy is confined to 10.1%. Principal economic activity is cultivation, agricultural labour and household industry. 'Other services' are also popular.

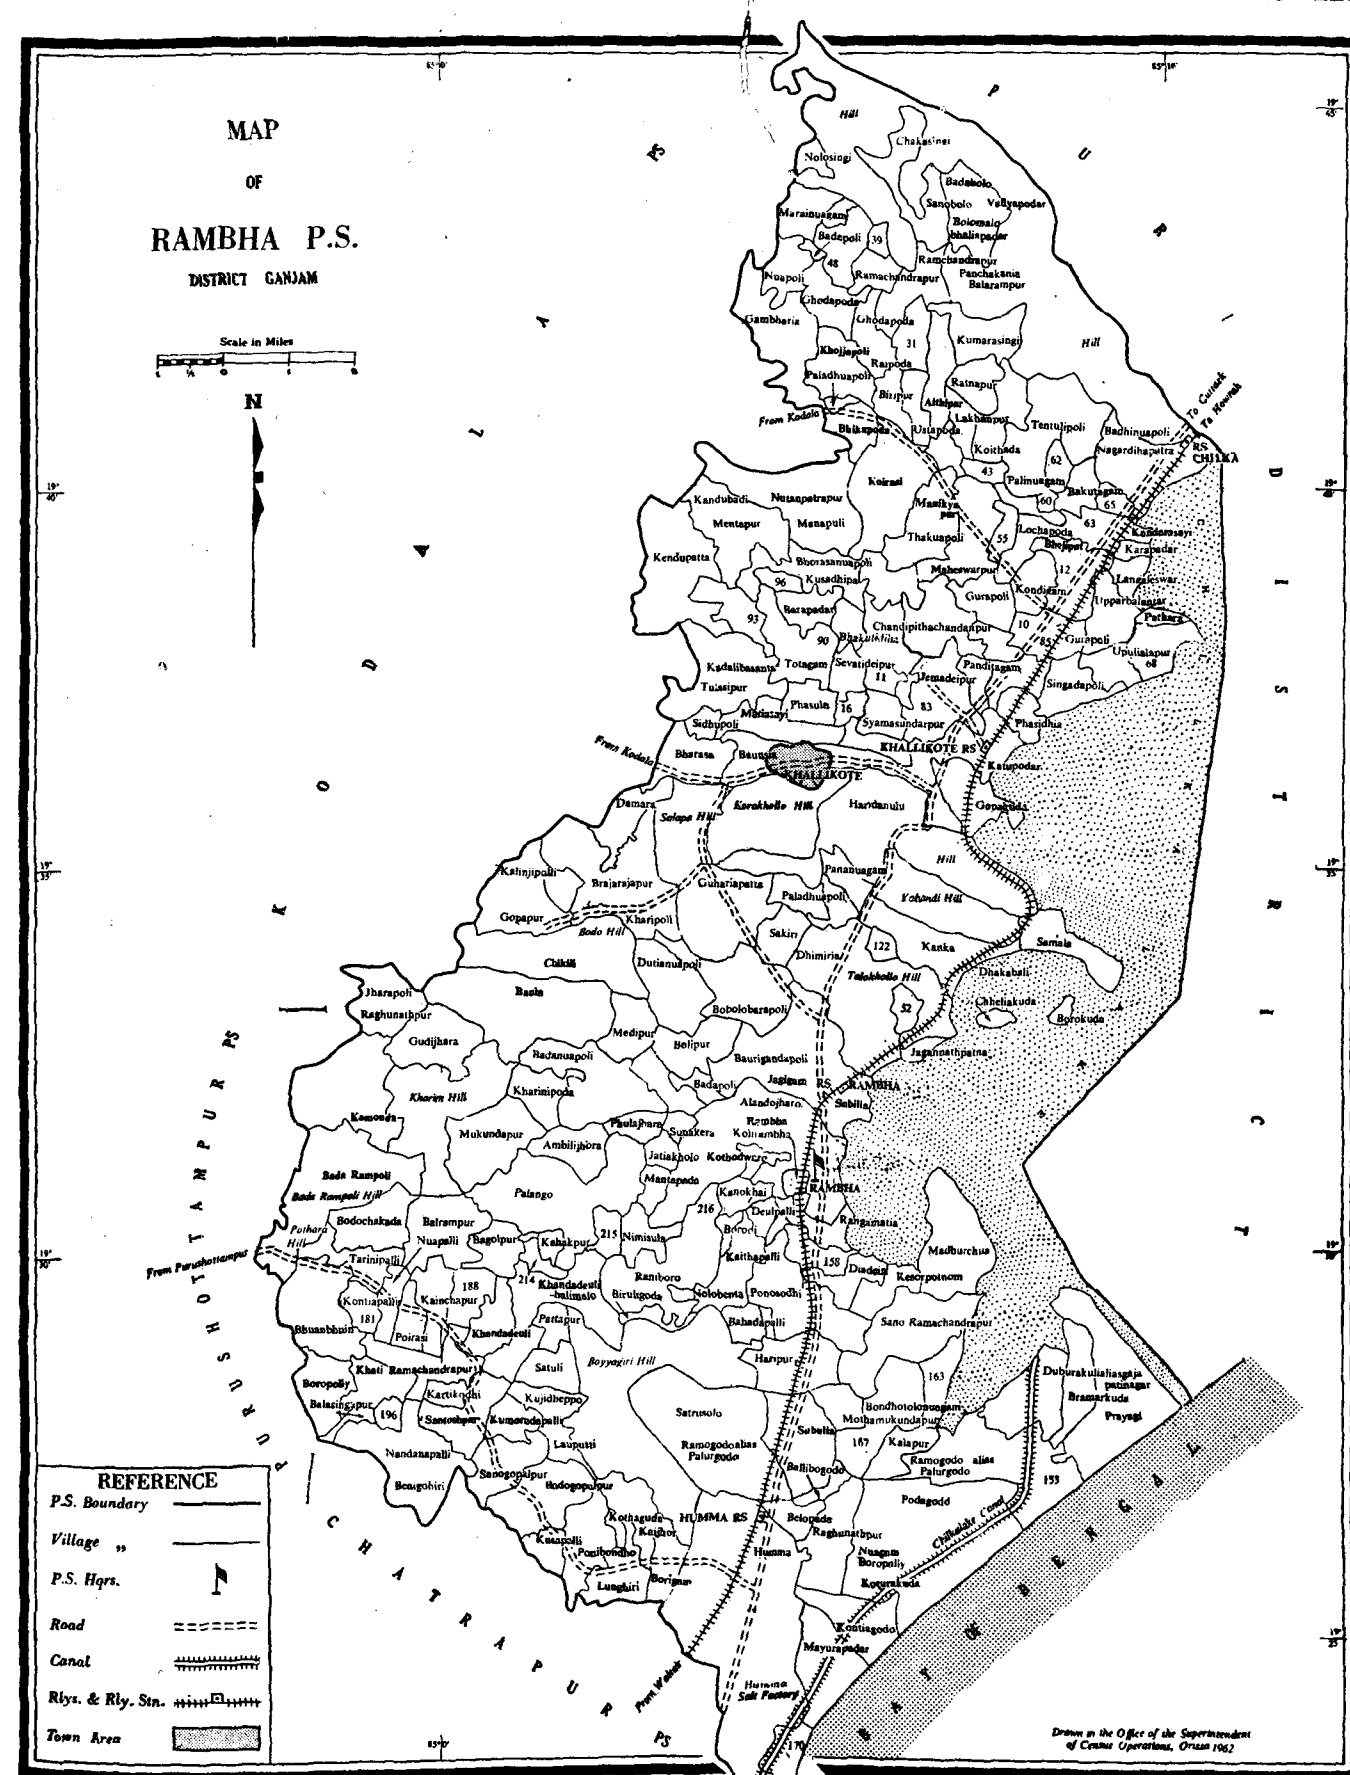

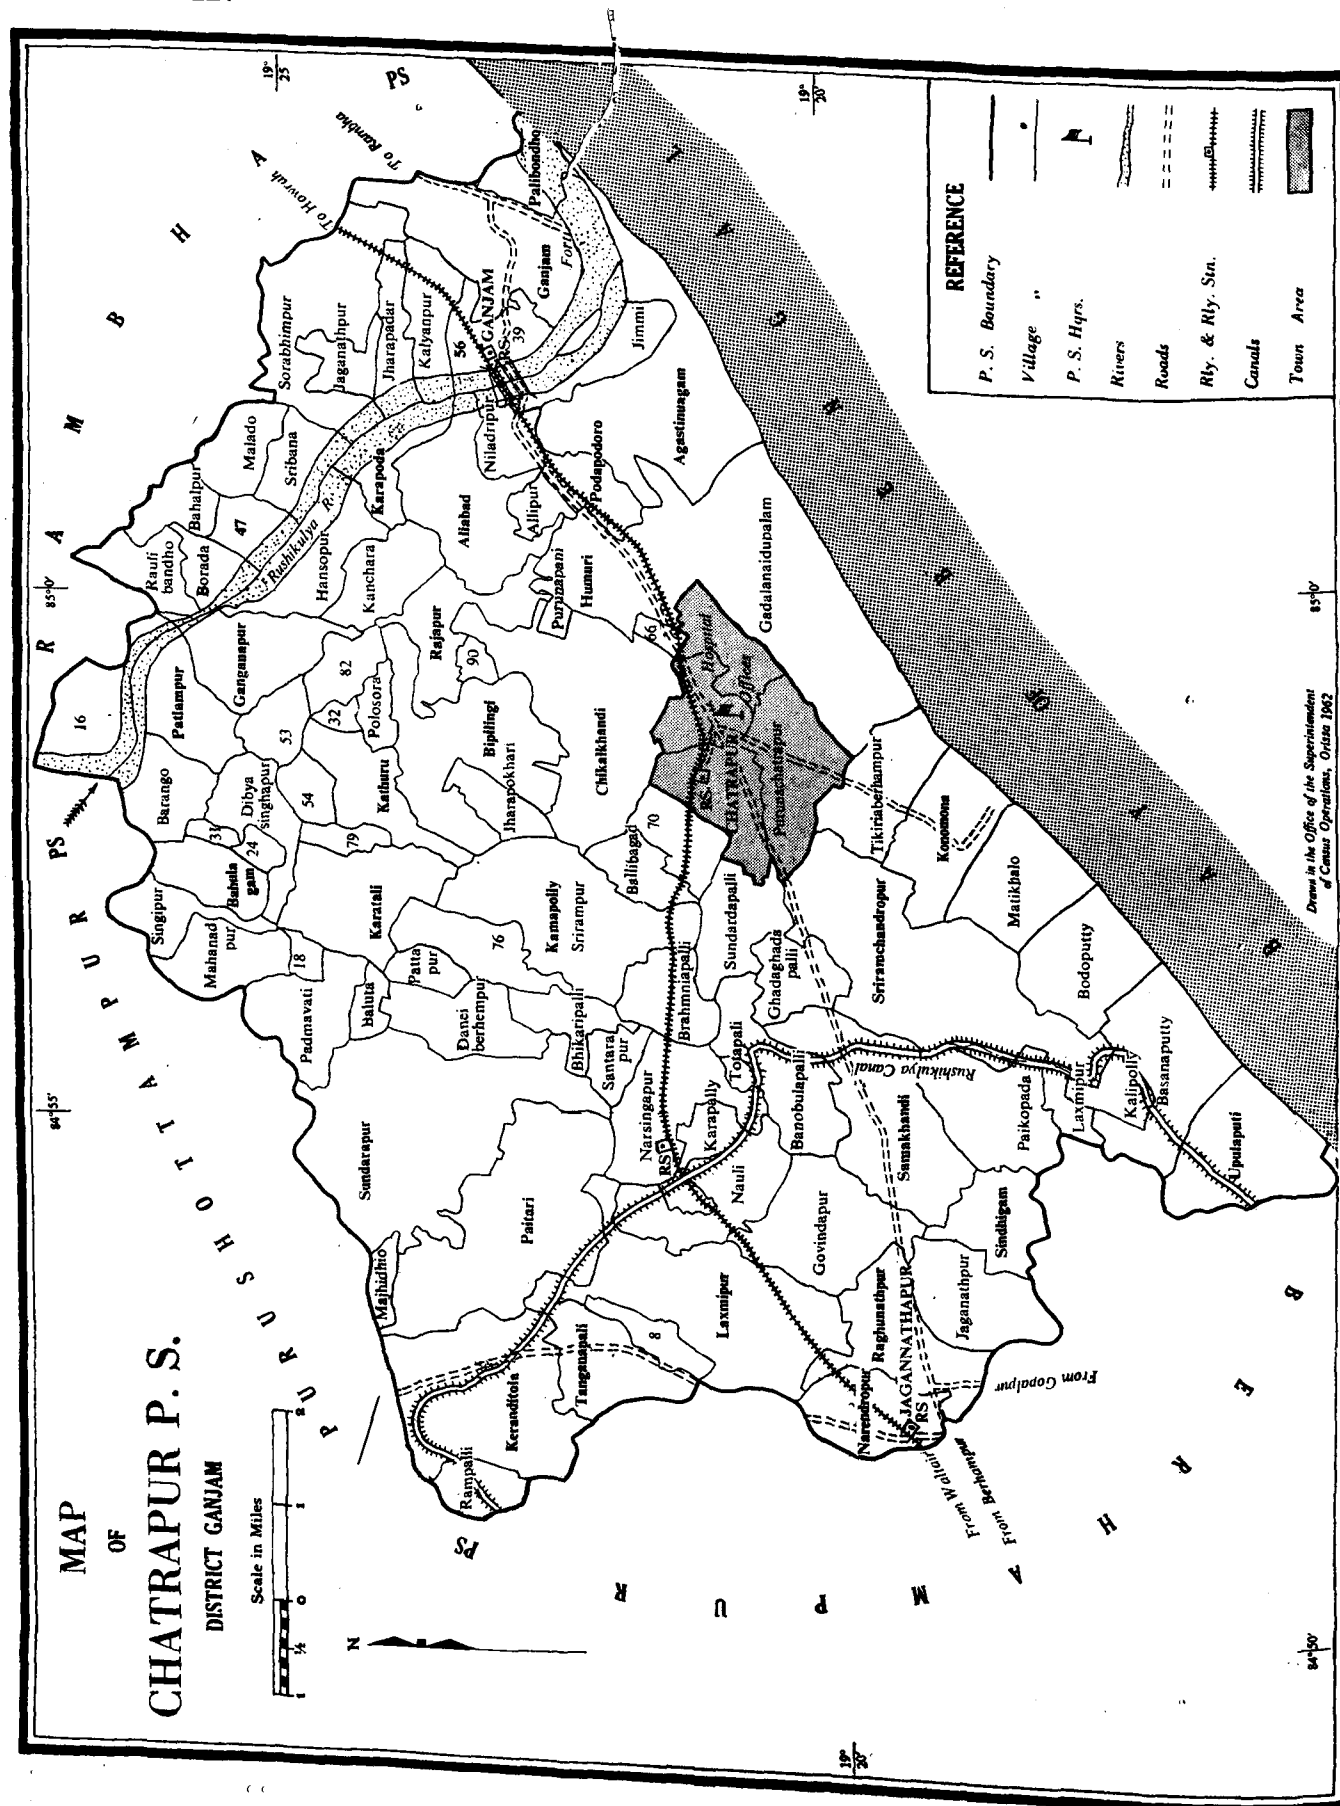

Literacy—Out of the total population of 1,872,530, the literates number 399,213. The rate of literacy works out to 21.3% as against 16.2% in the Census of 1951. Among the males, literacy has gone up to 35.5 per cent and among the females to 8.2 per cent. The district has 2,543 Primary Schools, 82 M.E. Schools and 48 High Schools.

Industries—The number of industrial establishments including those of the lowest order, namely, household industries are 24,911 in the district. According to the classification of the I.S.I.C. Scheme there are 97 kinds of industries. In the statement below a list of industries which are most extensively found in the district is furnished:

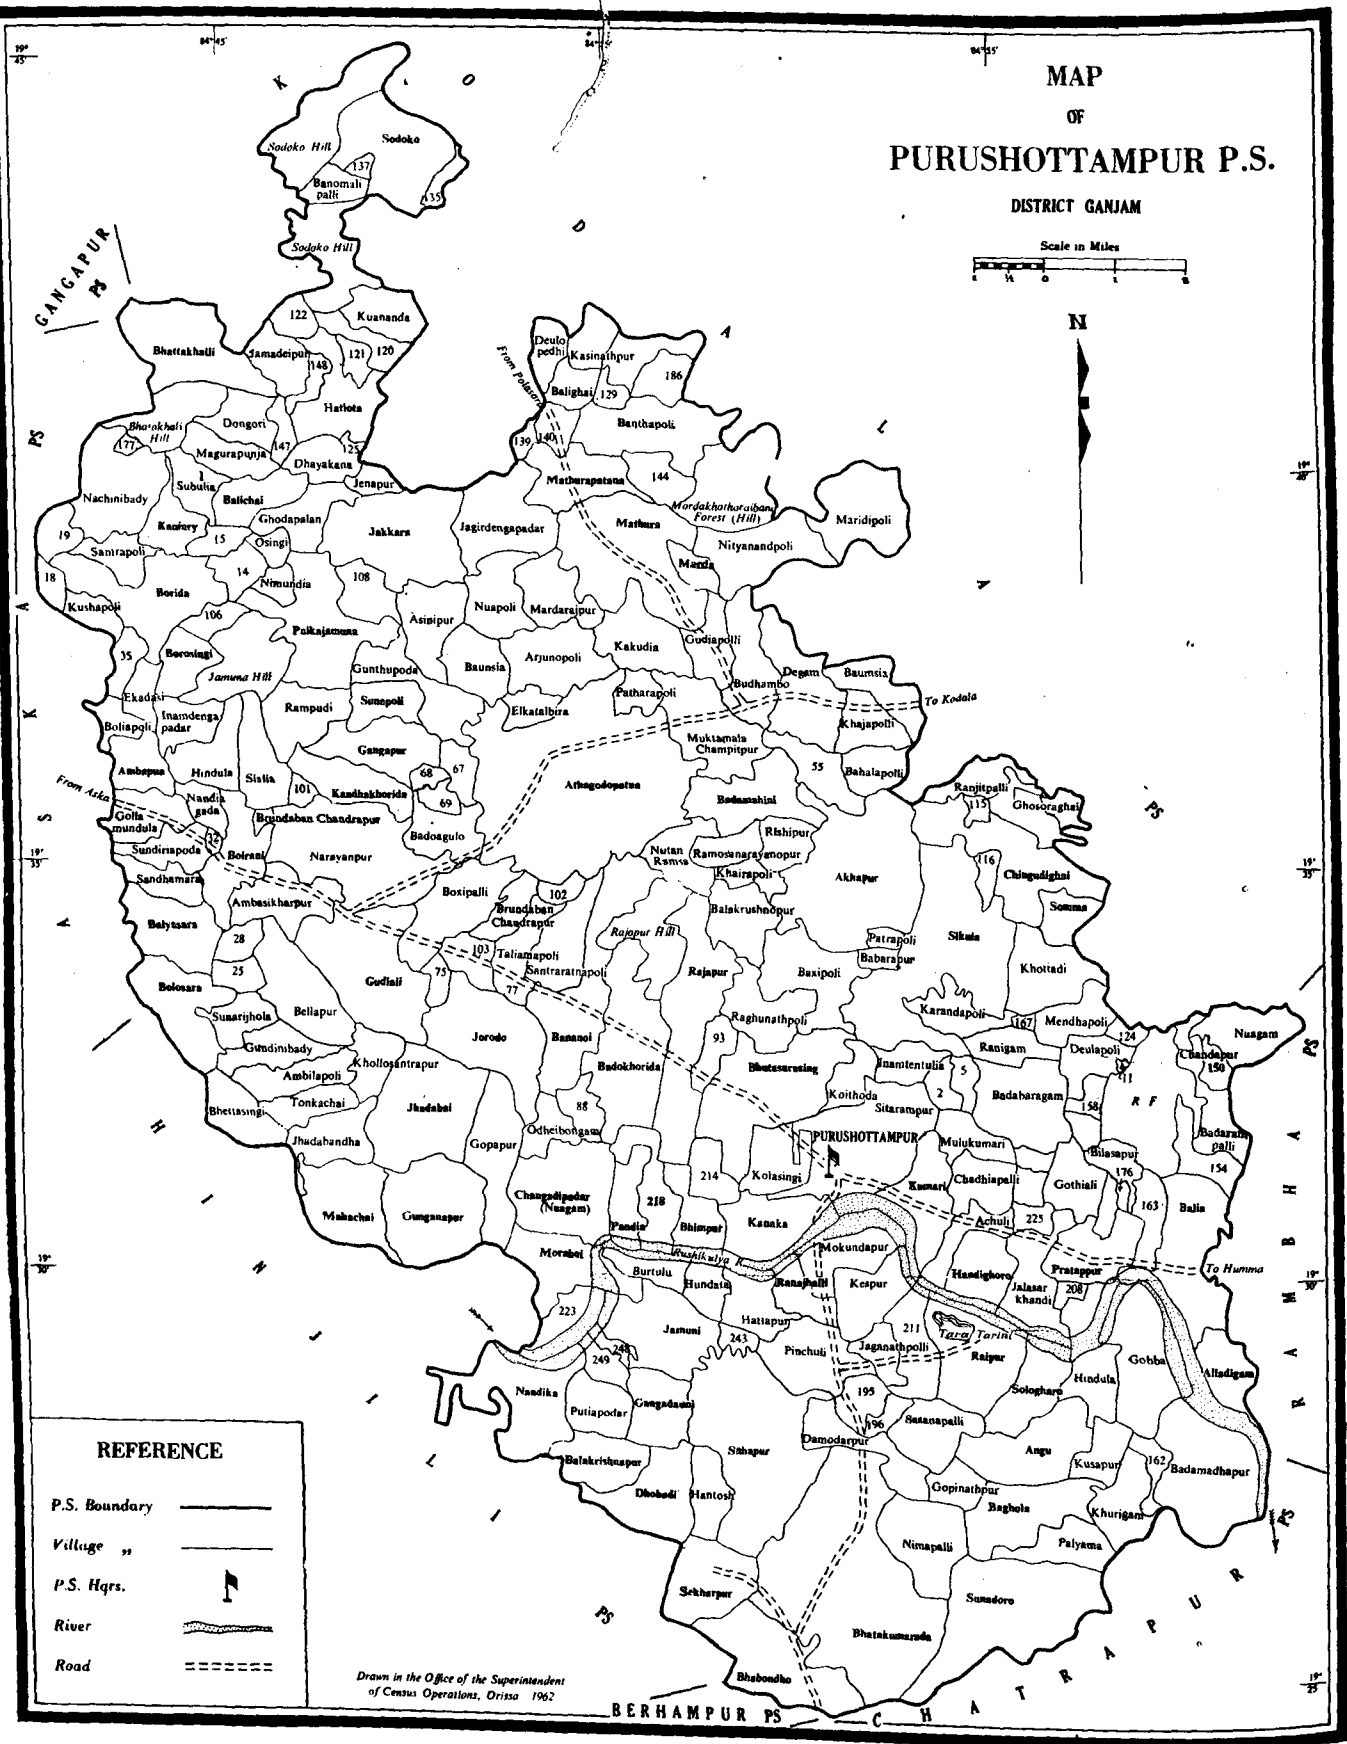

Name of industry	Total no. of establishments	No. of persons engaged
Manufacture of materials from cork, bamboo, cane, leaves, etc.	5,350	14,991
Cotton weaving in handlooms	3,972	12,496
Manufacture of wooden goods	2,750	5,874
Manufacture of earthenwares and earthen potteries	2,447	7,366
Cotton spinning (other than in mills)	1,453	3,522
Manufacture of jewellery and wares using gold and other precious metals	1,382	2,779
Production of edible fats and oils (other than hydrogenated oil)	1,128	3,073
Manufacture of sundry hardwares	1,120	2,589

Agriculture—Out of the total area of the district comprising 3,024,000 acres, net area sown is 1,424,860 acres (47.1%), area under cultivation together with current fallows is 1,472,443 acres (48.7%) and area under irrigation is 394,009 acres (13.0%). Rice, ragi and pulses, notably red gram and black gram, constitute principal crops. The quantity of rice produced annually is 151,388 tons which is mostly used for internal consumption leaving a small surplus for export in good harvest years.

BAUDH-KHONDMALS DISTRICT

Baudh-Khondmals is one of the centrally located districts of Orissa and lies between 19° 34'N and 20° 54'N latitudes and between 83° 30'E and 84° 48'E longitudes. Its boundaries in the north extend up to Bolangir and Dhenkanal districts, in the south to Koraput and Ganjam districts, in the west to Kalahandi and Bolangir districts and in the east to Ganjam and Puri districts.

Physiography—The district may be divided into two distinct areas, namely, the riverine plains of Baudh subdivision and the hilly tracts covering the remaining two subdivisions of the district. The fertile plains of Baudh lie between the mountains of Khondmals and the river Mahanadi and its branch, the Tel, and contain a long strip of level country running parallel with the river. The hills on the southern border form a natural watershed from which a number of streams run into the Mahanadi. The valley is well provided with irrigation wells and reservoirs. Gradual elevation in the eastern and southern borders leads to some mountain peaks, the highest of which is Sanda Parbat (2,764 ft). Further continuation in the south is the plateau of Khondmals, which is about 1,700 ft high surrounded almost continuously by high circular ranges of hills ultimately merging in the outliers of the Eastern Ghats. The whole area, extending up to Baliguda is a confused mass of wooded hills, intersected by deep ravines and interspersed with small hamlets here and there. Kalinga Ghat about 2,300 ft above the sea-level is the main gateway from the southern district of Ganjam into these hilly tracts and the tableland of Baliguda which has a mean level of about 2,500 ft. The rivers Tel and Mahanadi flow on the western and northern boundaries of this district. Out of the streams which rise from the natural watershed areas of the hill ranges and fall into these rivers, two, namely, the Bagh and the Salki are perennial and the remaining two with their feeders dry up during summer. These streams overflow during heavy rains but without causing inundation as they are hedged in by hills and slopes running down to the banks. None of the streams are navigable. The district has for the most part red soil except for a small area in the east which has black cotton soil. Forests cover an area of 3,016 sq. miles, which is nearly 70% of the total area of the district and are of northern tropical semi-evergreen and moist deciduous types and abound in valuable timber, namely, sal, asan, bija, etc. The rocks in Khondmals are composed of groups called khondalites and charnockites and contain deposits of manganese ore, graphite, bauxite which are yet to be developed.

Climate and rainfall—The climate in general is not salubrious, particularly in forest localities where malaria is endemic. The lowest temperature in the State is recorded in this district in the cold season, when the mean minimum temperature of 18.1°C in the month of December goes down to 6.4°C on some days. January continues to be cold although change slowly creeps in and the temperature rises month by month till May which is the hottest month with the mean daily maximum temperature at 40°C. With the onset of the monsoon by the second week of June, the day temperature drops appreciably and the season is pleasant. After withdrawal of the monsoon early in October, the temperature further drops till the minimum is reached in December-January. The average rainfall is 1,591.5 mm. (62.66"). The rainfall decreases as one proceeds from north-west to south-east. There are 77 rainy days in a year. Humidity of the air is generally high during the monsoon and post-monsoon months. The district is affected by storms and depressions during the monsoon season and in October causing strong winds and widespread heavy rain. The months of May and October have thunder-storms in the afternoons.

Vital Statistics—Collection of Vital Statistics in one of the subdivisions of the district, Baudh, began from 1952 after the merger of this ex-State, but such records for the other two subdivisions, Khondmals and Baliguda are available for a longer period. The recorded figures, however, do not appear to be reliable, being considerably vitiated by under-registration. For example, the birth and death rates during 1951-60 work out to 13.1 and 9.8 per mille respectively while the corresponding figures for 1941-50 were 30.8 and 28.4. Infant deaths during 1951-60 numbered 8,544 against the total births of 61,367 and they constitute 18.54% of total deaths. Fever, notably malaria, caused 74.25% of deaths during this decade while smallpox and cholera constituted 3.28% and 1.55% of total deaths.

Area and population of administrative units—The district extends over an area of 4,282 sq. miles or 11,090.4 sq. kms. and contains a population of 5.14 lakhs. It comprises 3 subdivisions and 13 police stations. Baliguda subdivision covering six police stations is divided between 2 taluks, while the other 2 subdivisions have no taluks. The area and population of each such administrative unit is given below:

Towns—The urban development in this district is negligible due to the predominance of hilly and forest tracts. Baudh is the only town with a population of 6,088. It is the subdivisional headquarters of Baudh subdivision.

Growth of population (1901-61)—The growth of population from 334,036 in 1901 to 514,427 in 1961 accounts for an increase of 54·0% during the last 60 years. Excepting a small decline of 0·4% during the decade 1911-21 and the nominal growth of 1·5% during 1941-51, the remaining decades 1901-11, 1921-31, 1931-41 and 1951-61 have maintained normal growth of population with varying percentages of 13·2, 9·4, 9·3 and 12·6 respectively.

Trend of migration—6·4% of the total population of the district are migrants out of whom only 0·2% are born outside the State. The number of migrants from other districts of the State as well as from outside the State are given below:

	Persons	Males	Females	Per-centage
1. Population of the district	514,427	255,685	258,742	100
2. Born in the district	481,616	243,283	238,333	93·6

5. Born outside India (but in Asia)	138	72	66	Negli-gible
6. Others including unclassifiable	492	172	320	0·1

Economic classification—The entire population is broadly divided into two sections, non-workers and workers. Workers are further classified into nine industrial categories as mentioned below:

Section or category	Persons	Males	Females
1. Non-workers	224,276	90,656	133,620
2. Workers	290,151	165,029	125,122

Scheduled Tribes—There are 27 Scheduled Tribes in the district with a population of 214,067 which is 41·6% of the total population. The principal tribes are Kond (199,006), Gond (8,087), Saora (1,562), Munda (1,311) and Shabar (1,231). Literacy is confined to 11·8%. Cultivation and agricultural labour provide livelihood to the largest section of the population.

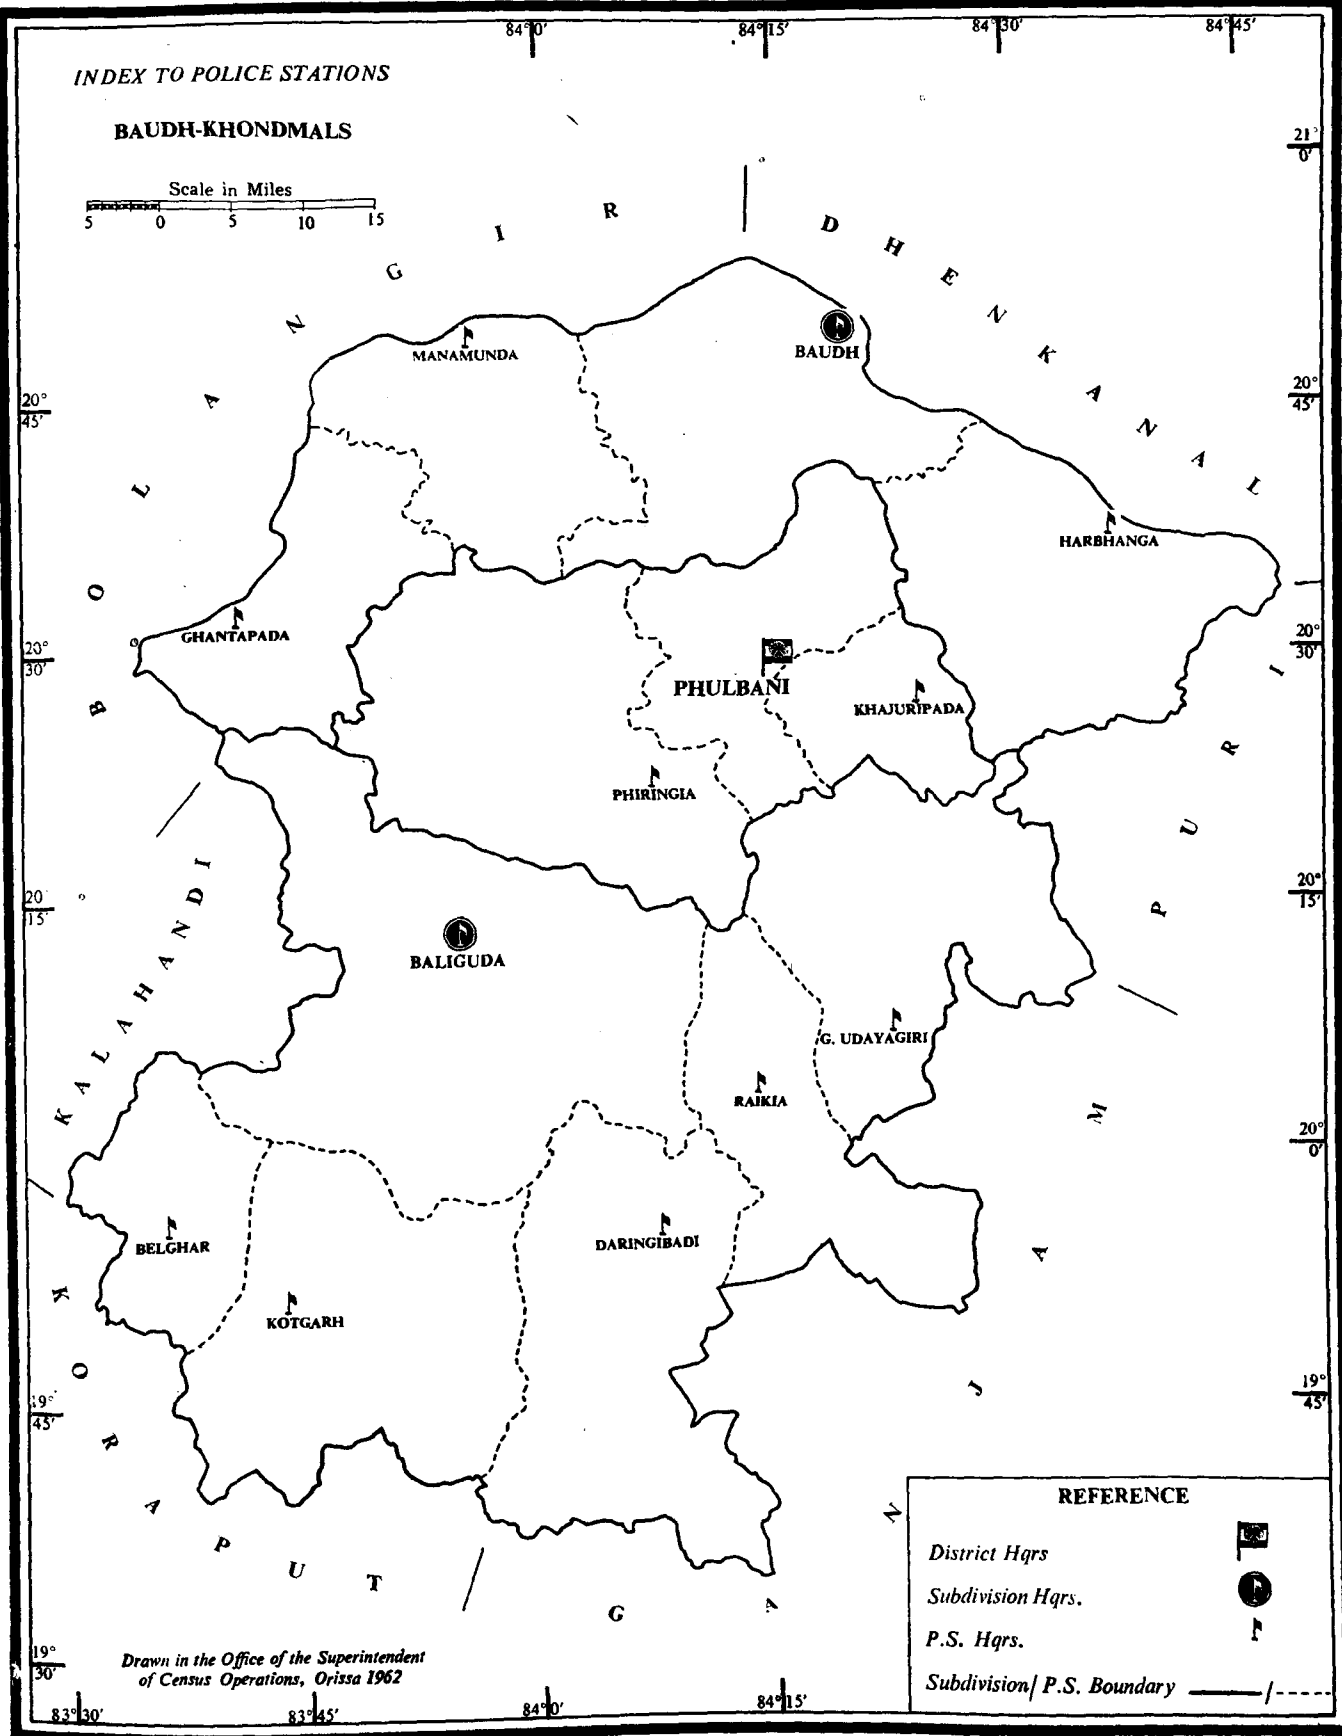

Scheduled Castes—The population of Scheduled Castes in the district is 99,399 which is 19·3 of the total population. It comprises 45 castes, the most numerous being Pan (55,332), Ganda (18,925), Ghasi (4,748), Dhoba (4,672), Haddi (4,240), Tanla (3,899) and Dom (1,490). Literacy is limited to 12·4%. Cultivation and agricultural labour provide livelihood to the largest section of the population, although household industry and 'other services' are also popular.

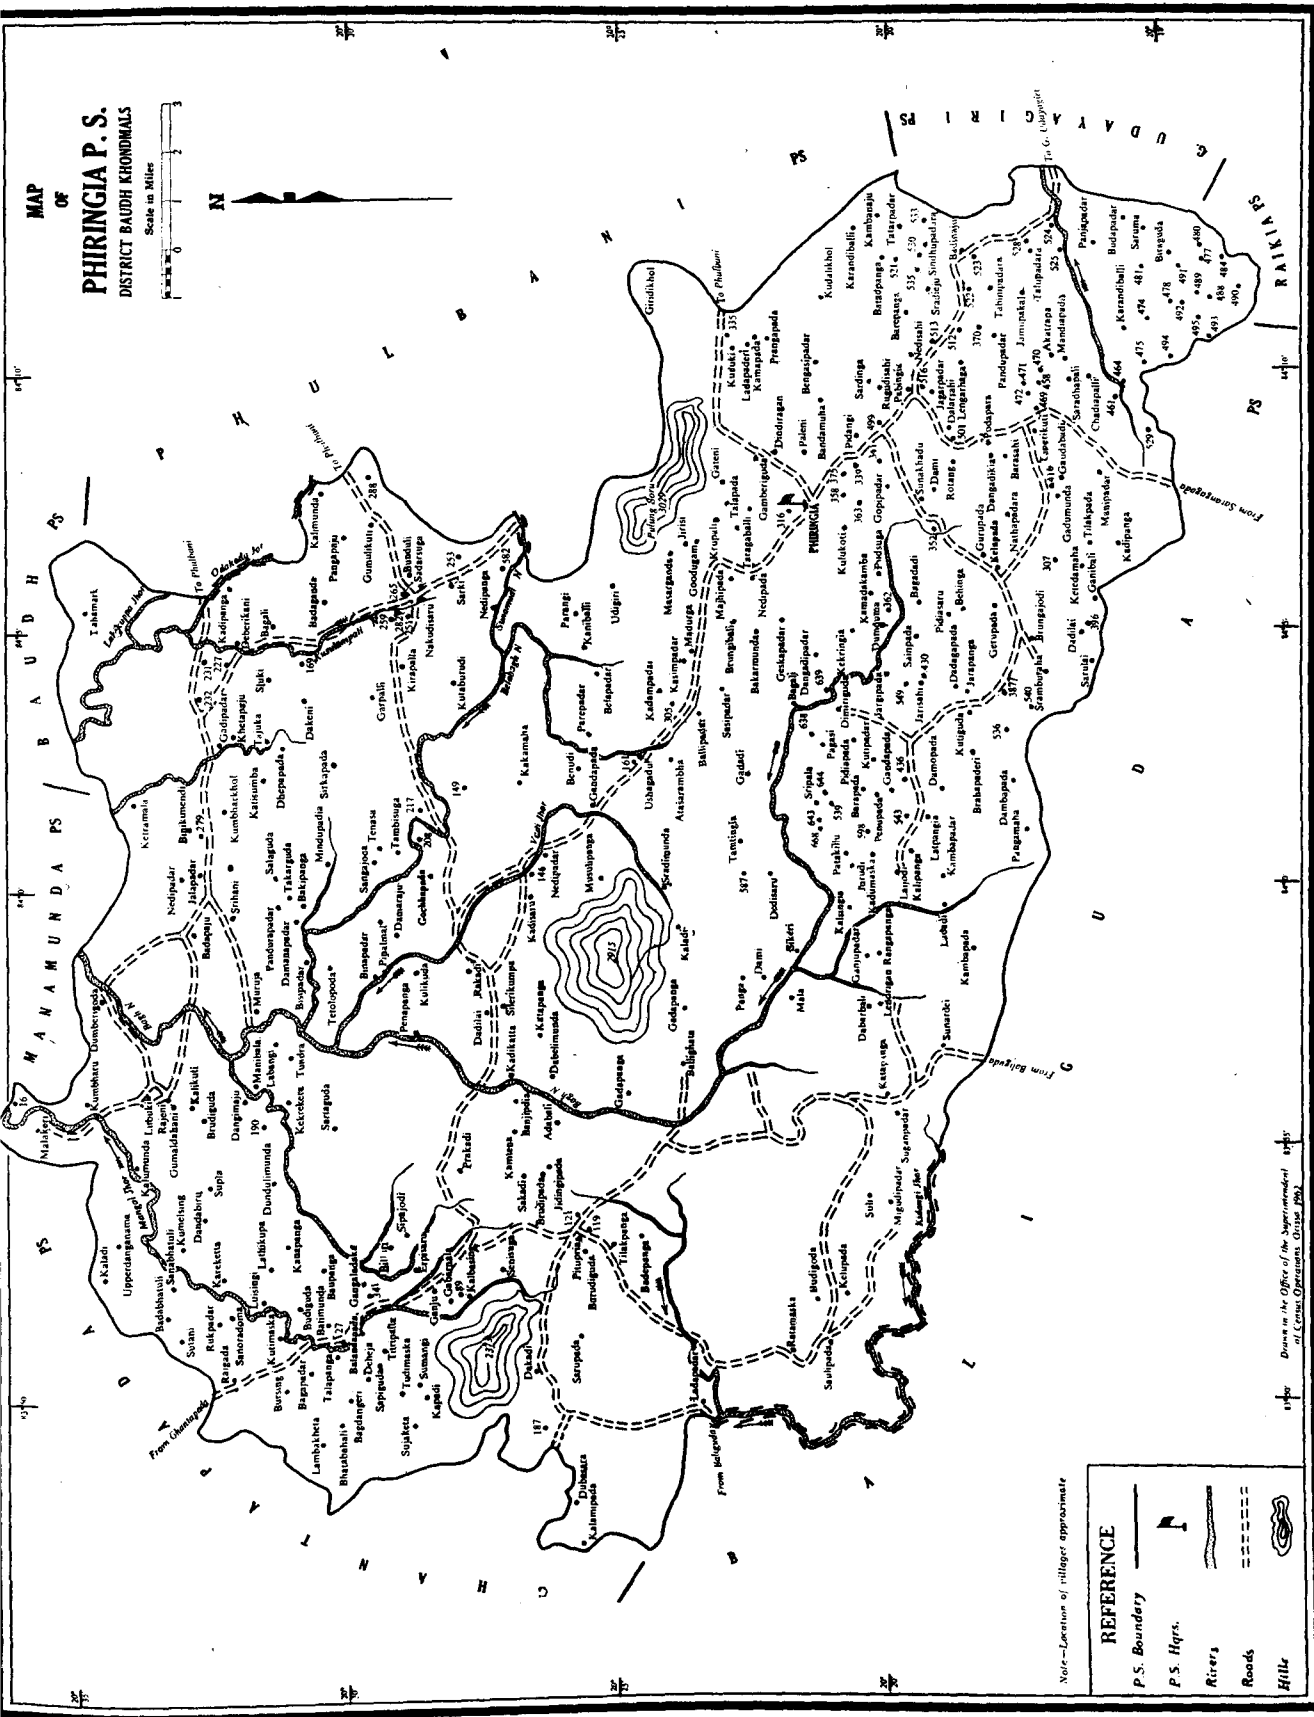

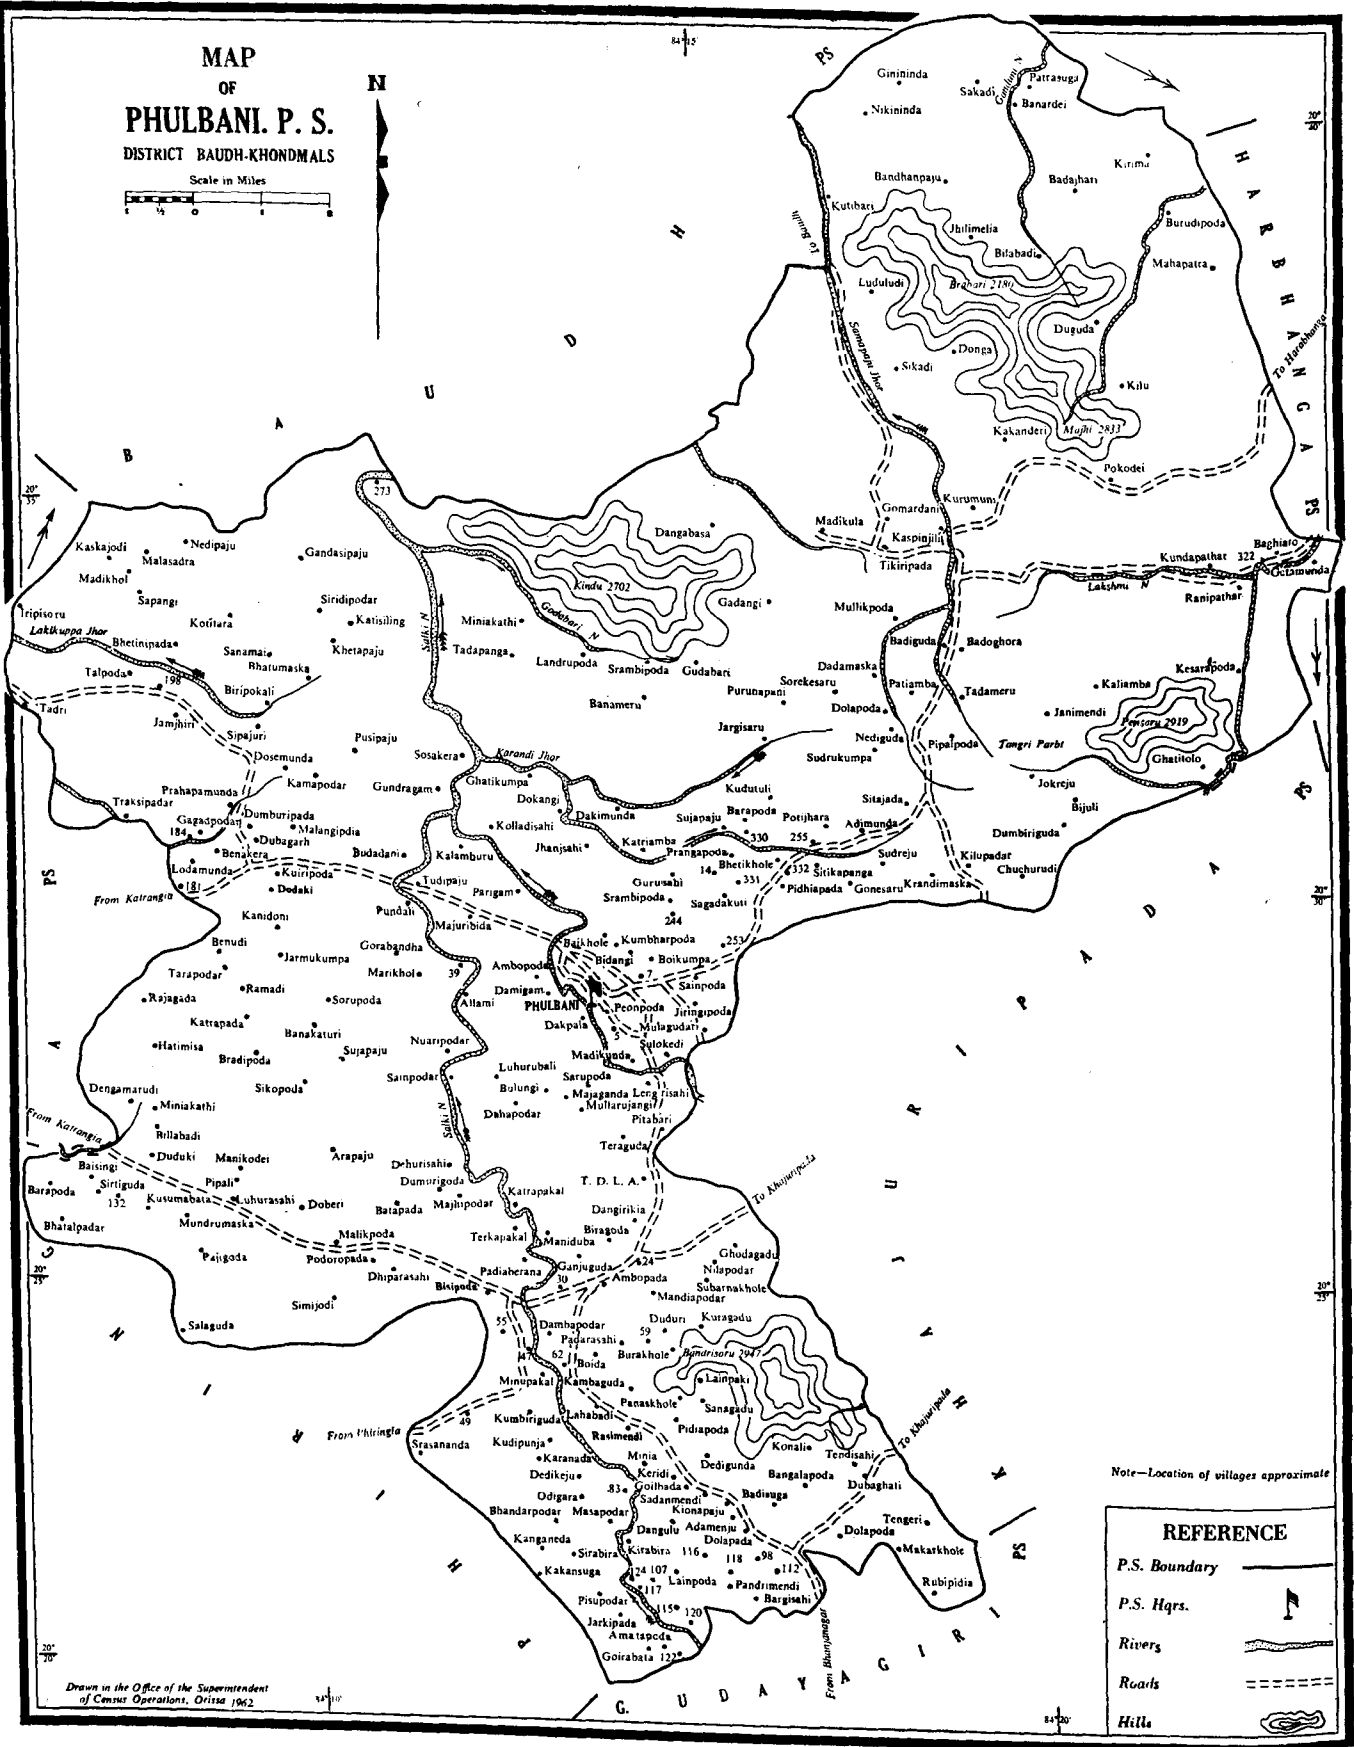

Literacy—There are 91,015 persons out of the total population of 514,427 who are literates. Among the males the percentage of literacy has gone up to 31·3 but among the females it is limited to 4·3, working out to 17·7 per cent for the total population of the district. In the Census of 1951, the rate of literacy was much lower, namely, 10·1 per cent. The number of Primary Schools, M. E. Schools and High Schools in the district are 807, 30 and 3 respectively.

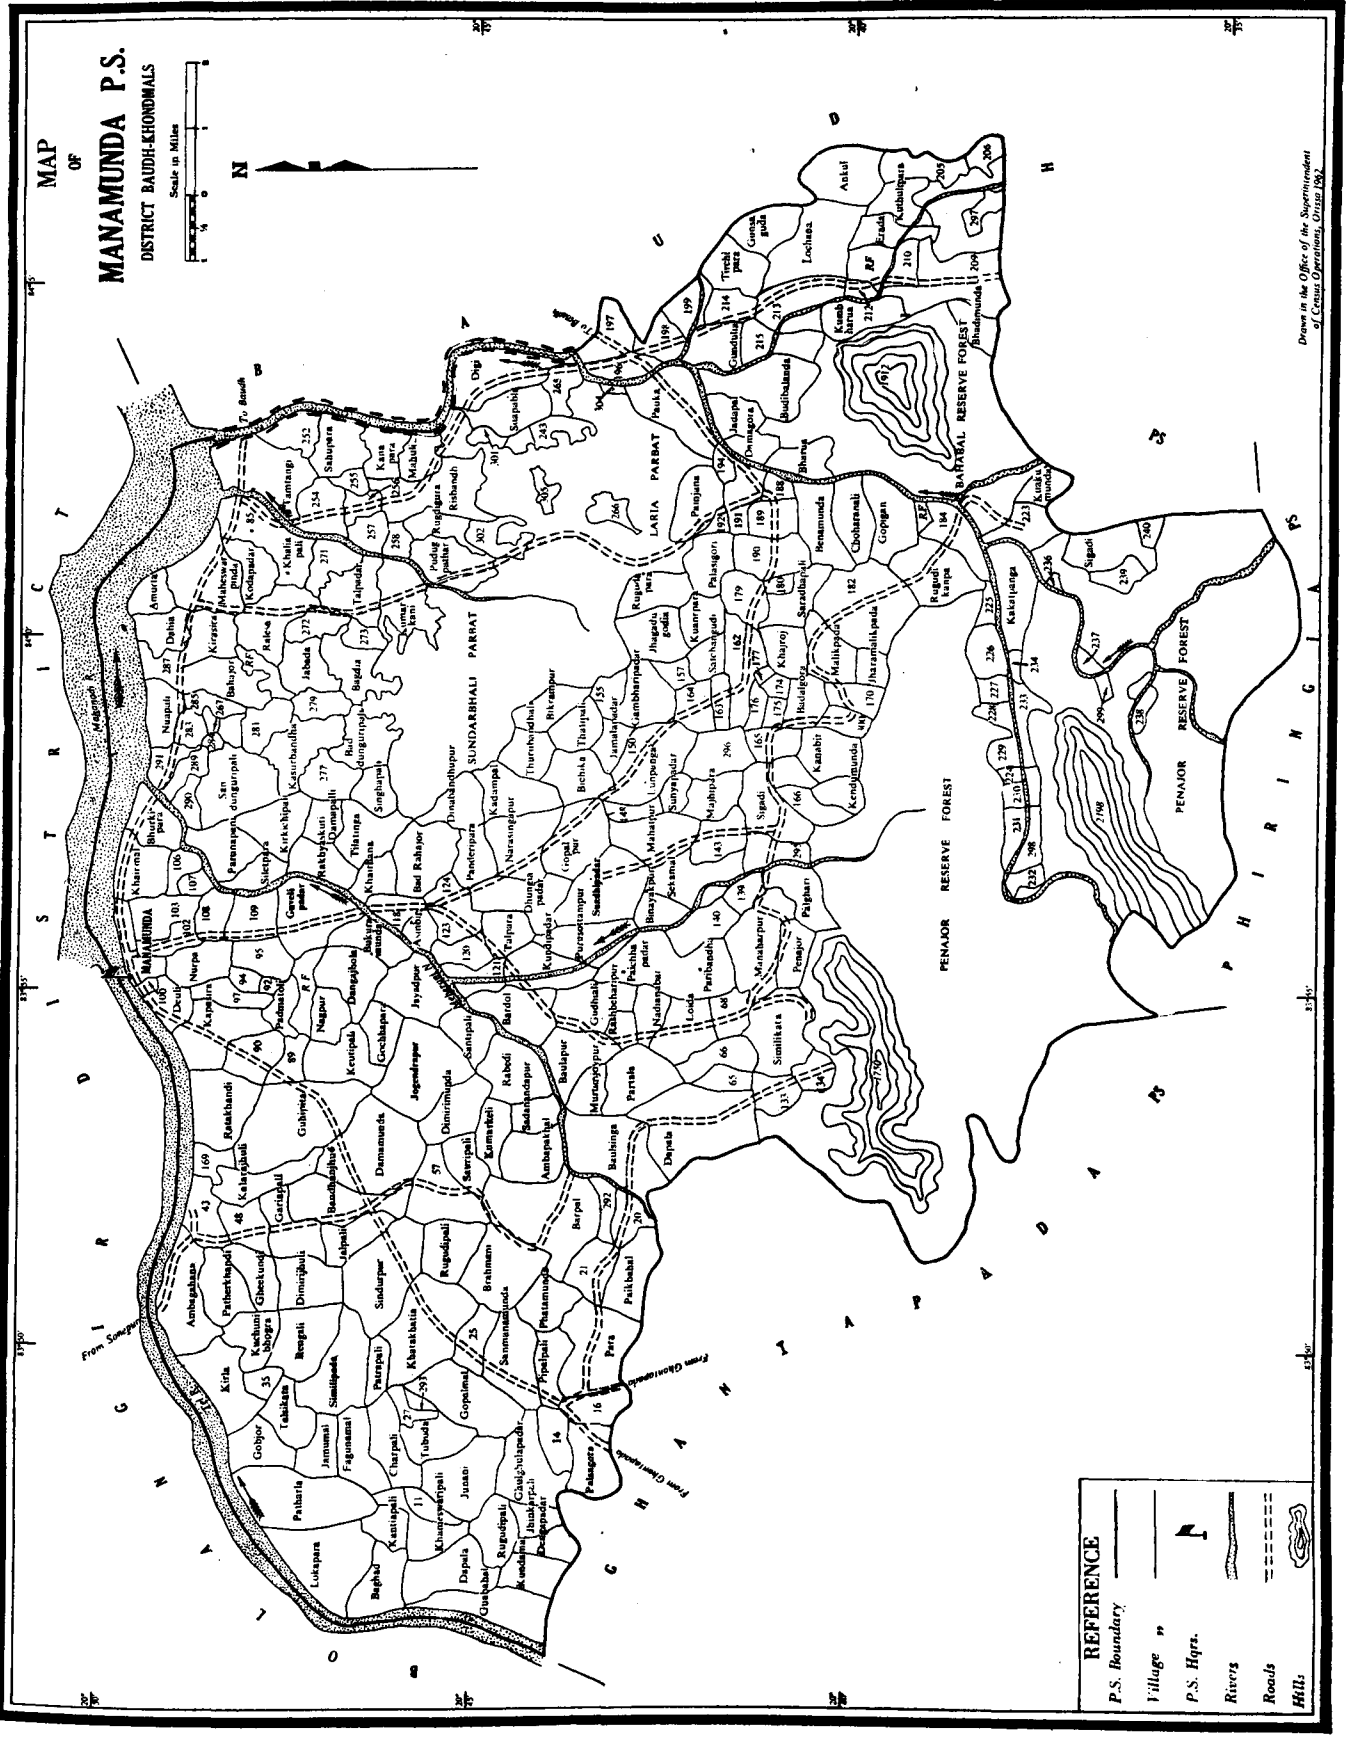

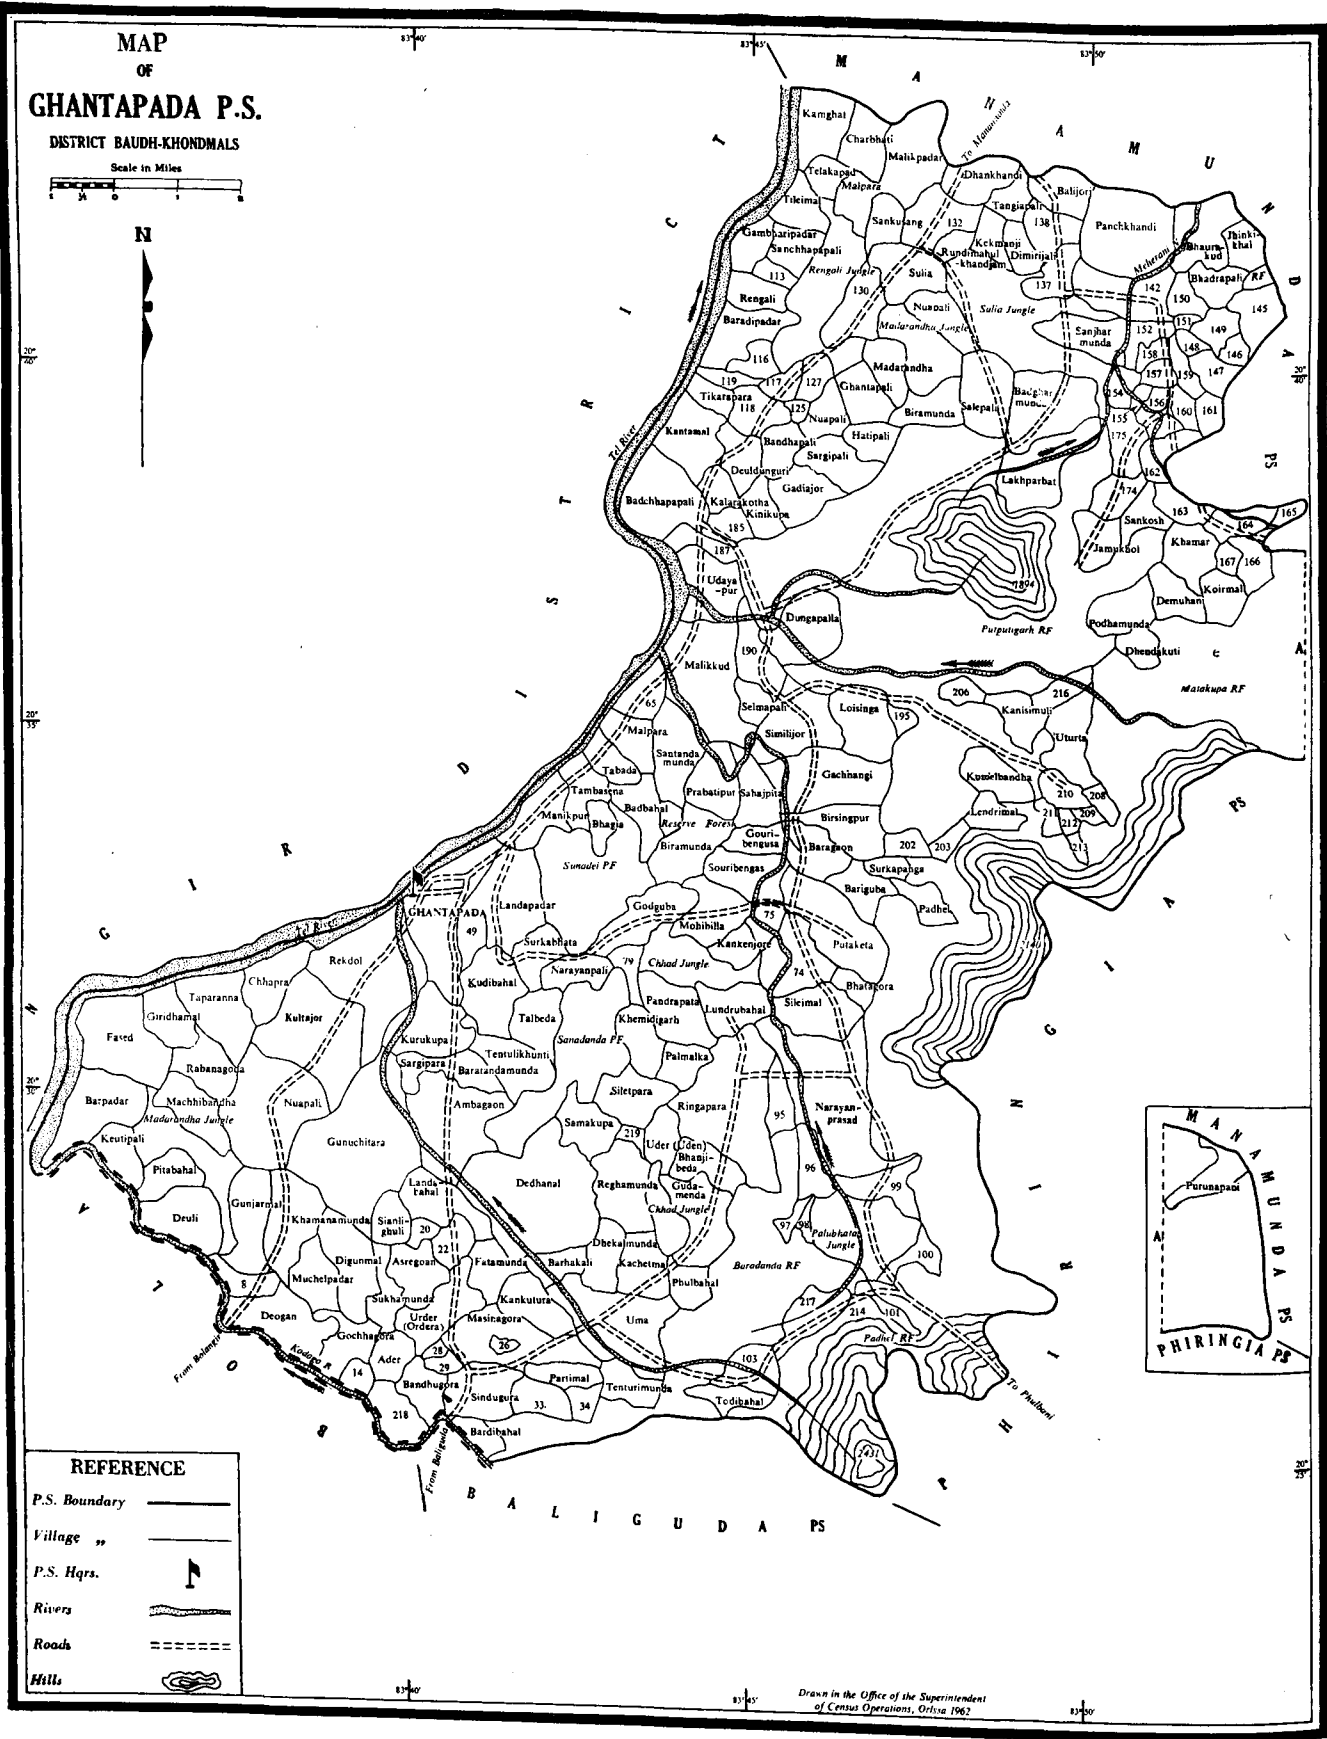

Industries—There are 5,740 industrial establishments in the district which also include small scale industries undertaken in the household in a meagre scale. Classified according to the list in the I.S.I.C. Scheme there are 43 kinds of industries. A list of industries which are most extensively found in the district is furnished below:

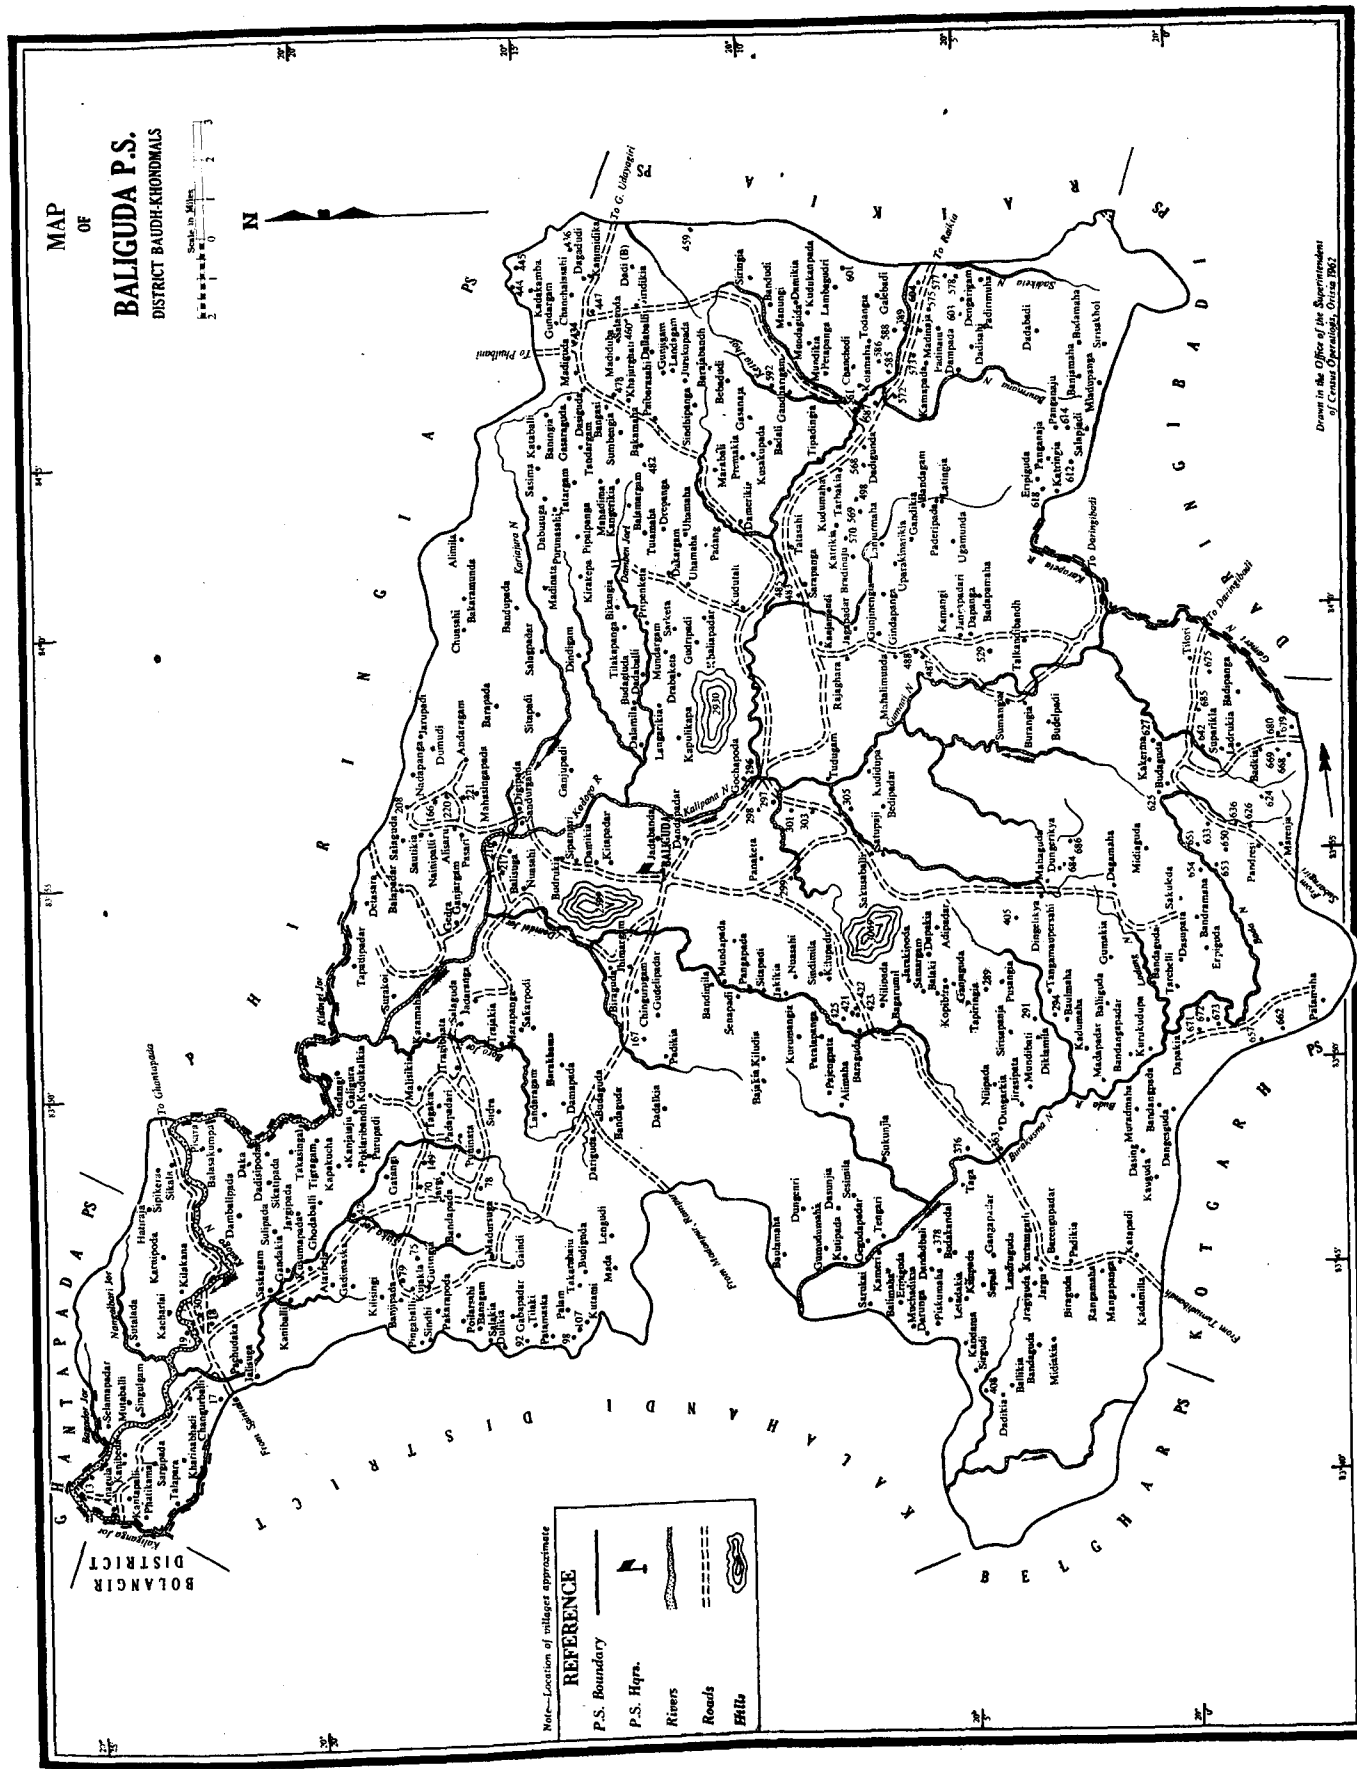

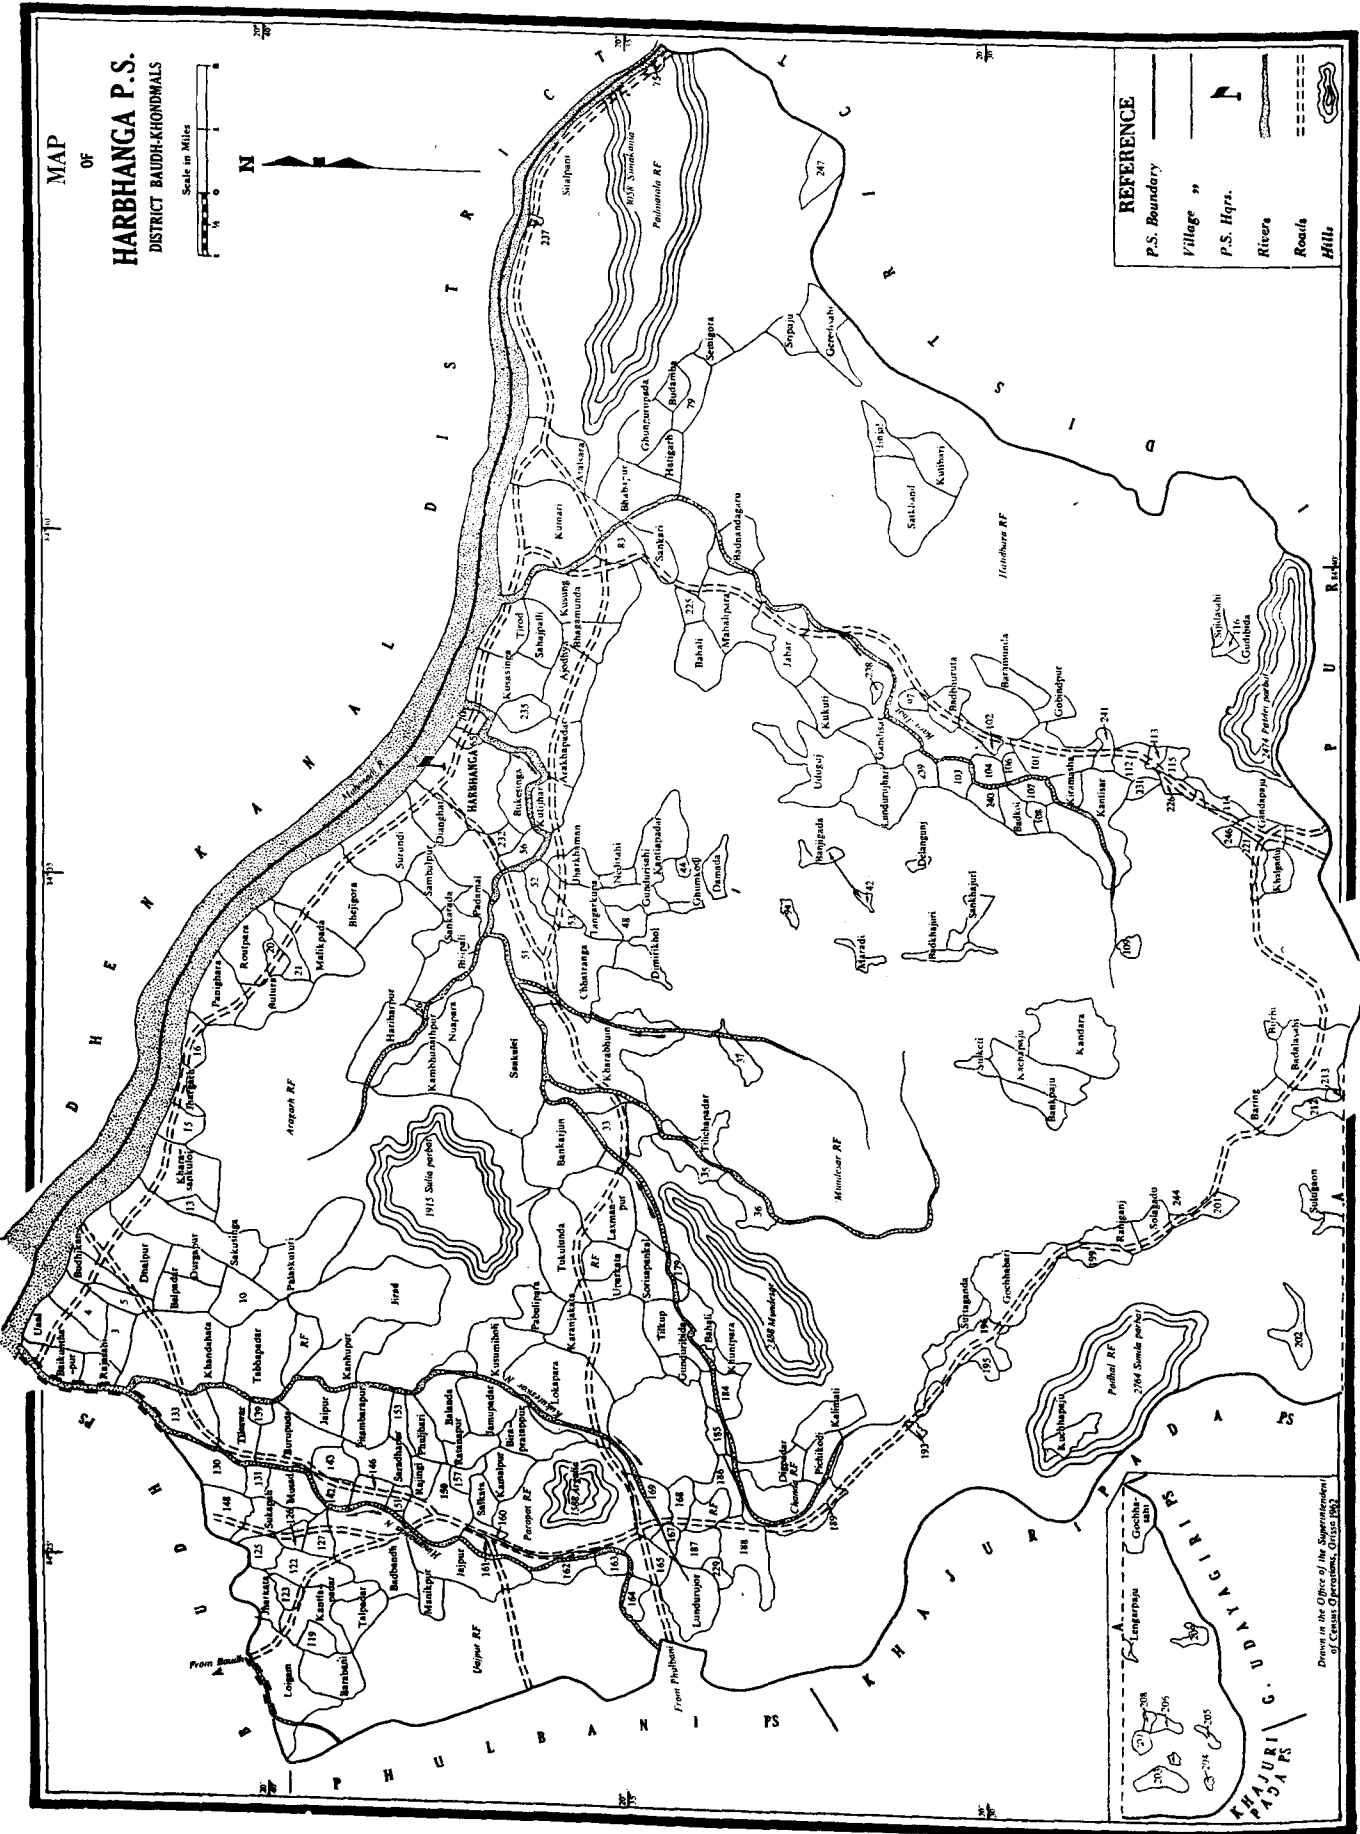

Name of industry	Total no. of estab-lishments	No. of persons engaged
Cotton weaving in handlooms	1,852	6,302
Manufacture of materials from cork, bamboo, cane, leaves, etc.	855	2,475
Manufacture of earthenwares and earthen potteries	690	2,167
Manufacture of sundry hardwares	593	1,679
Production of edible fats and oils (other than hydrogenated oil)	477	1,521
Manufacture of jewellery, and wares using gold and other precious metals	391	900
Manufacture of wooden goods	260	571
Cotton spinning (other than in mills)	224	670

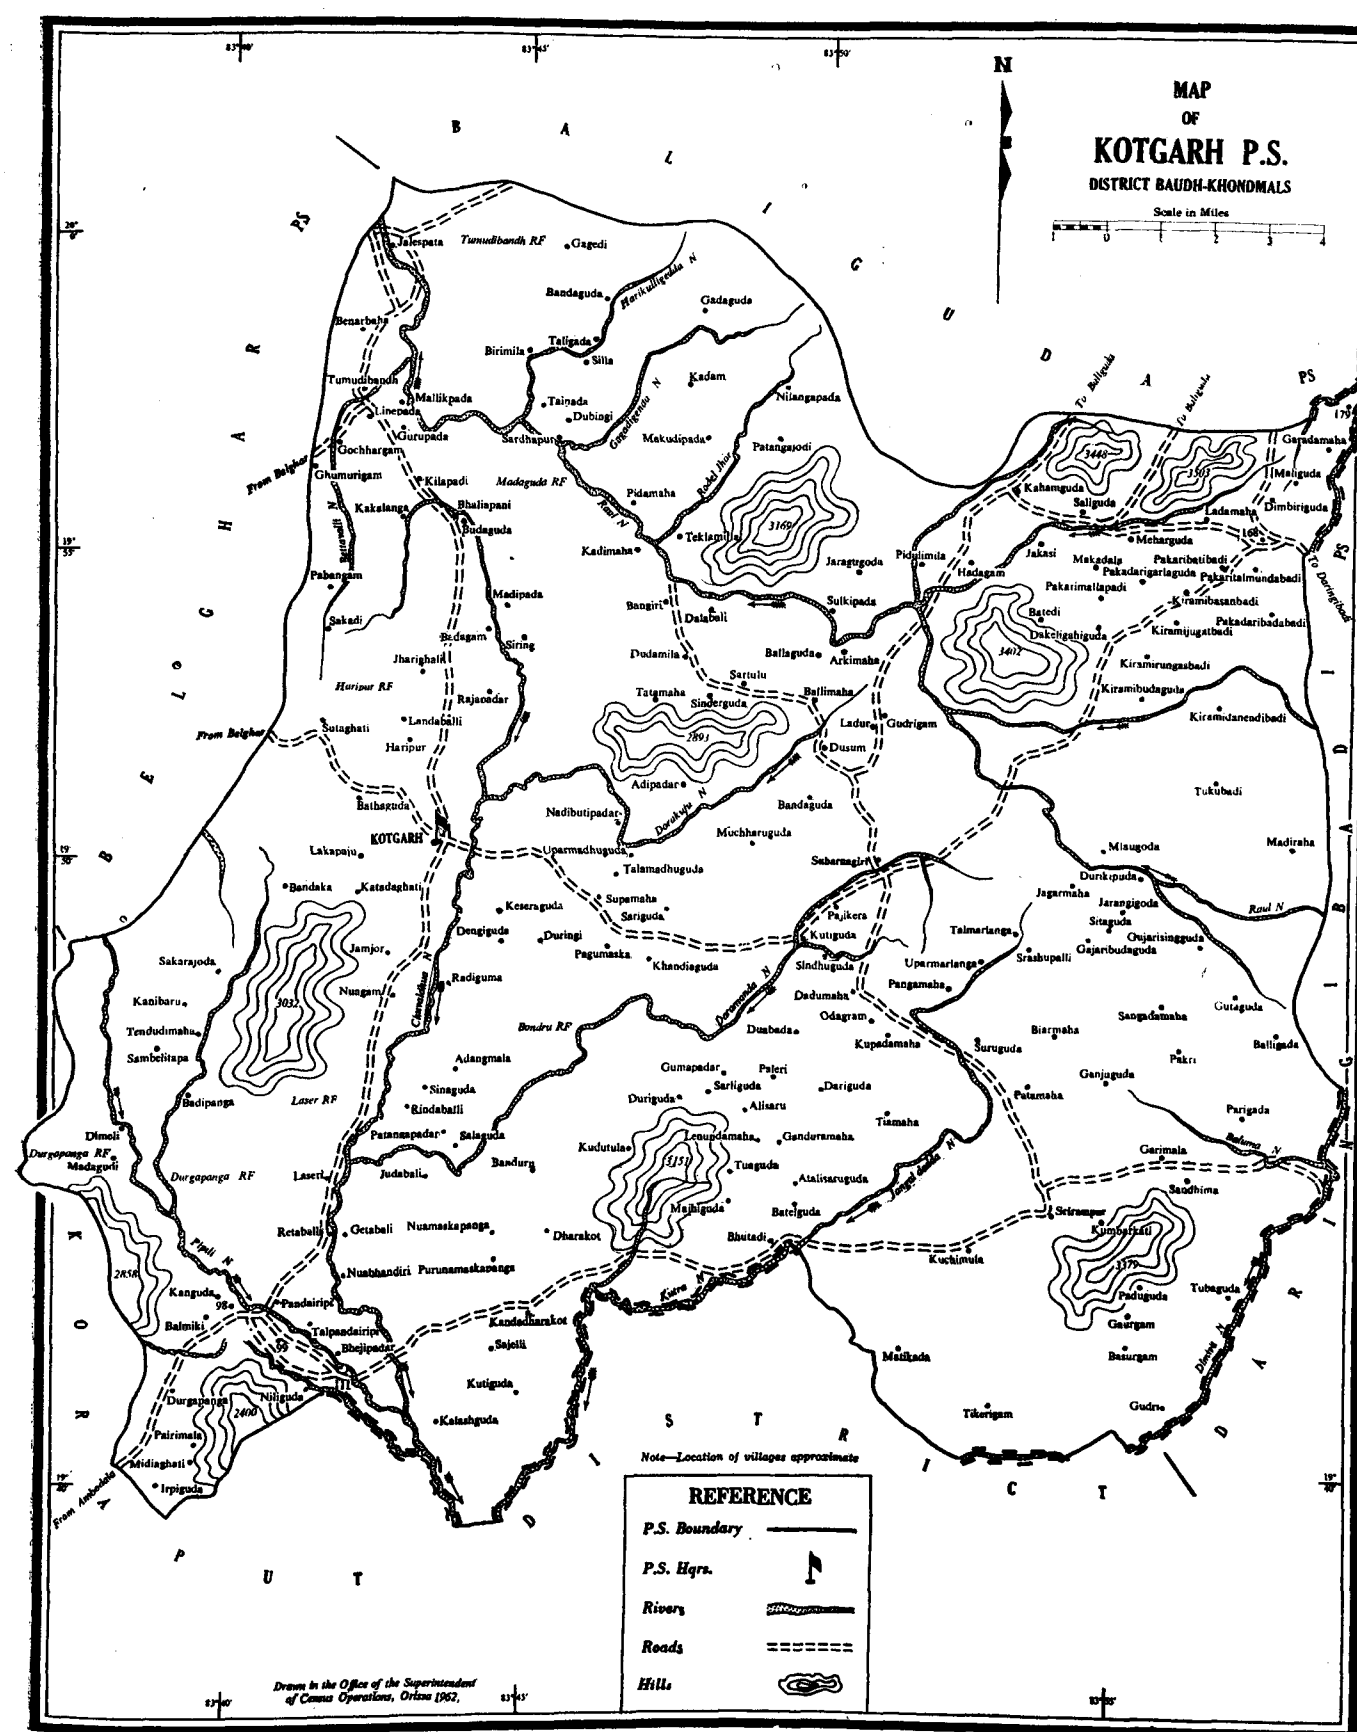

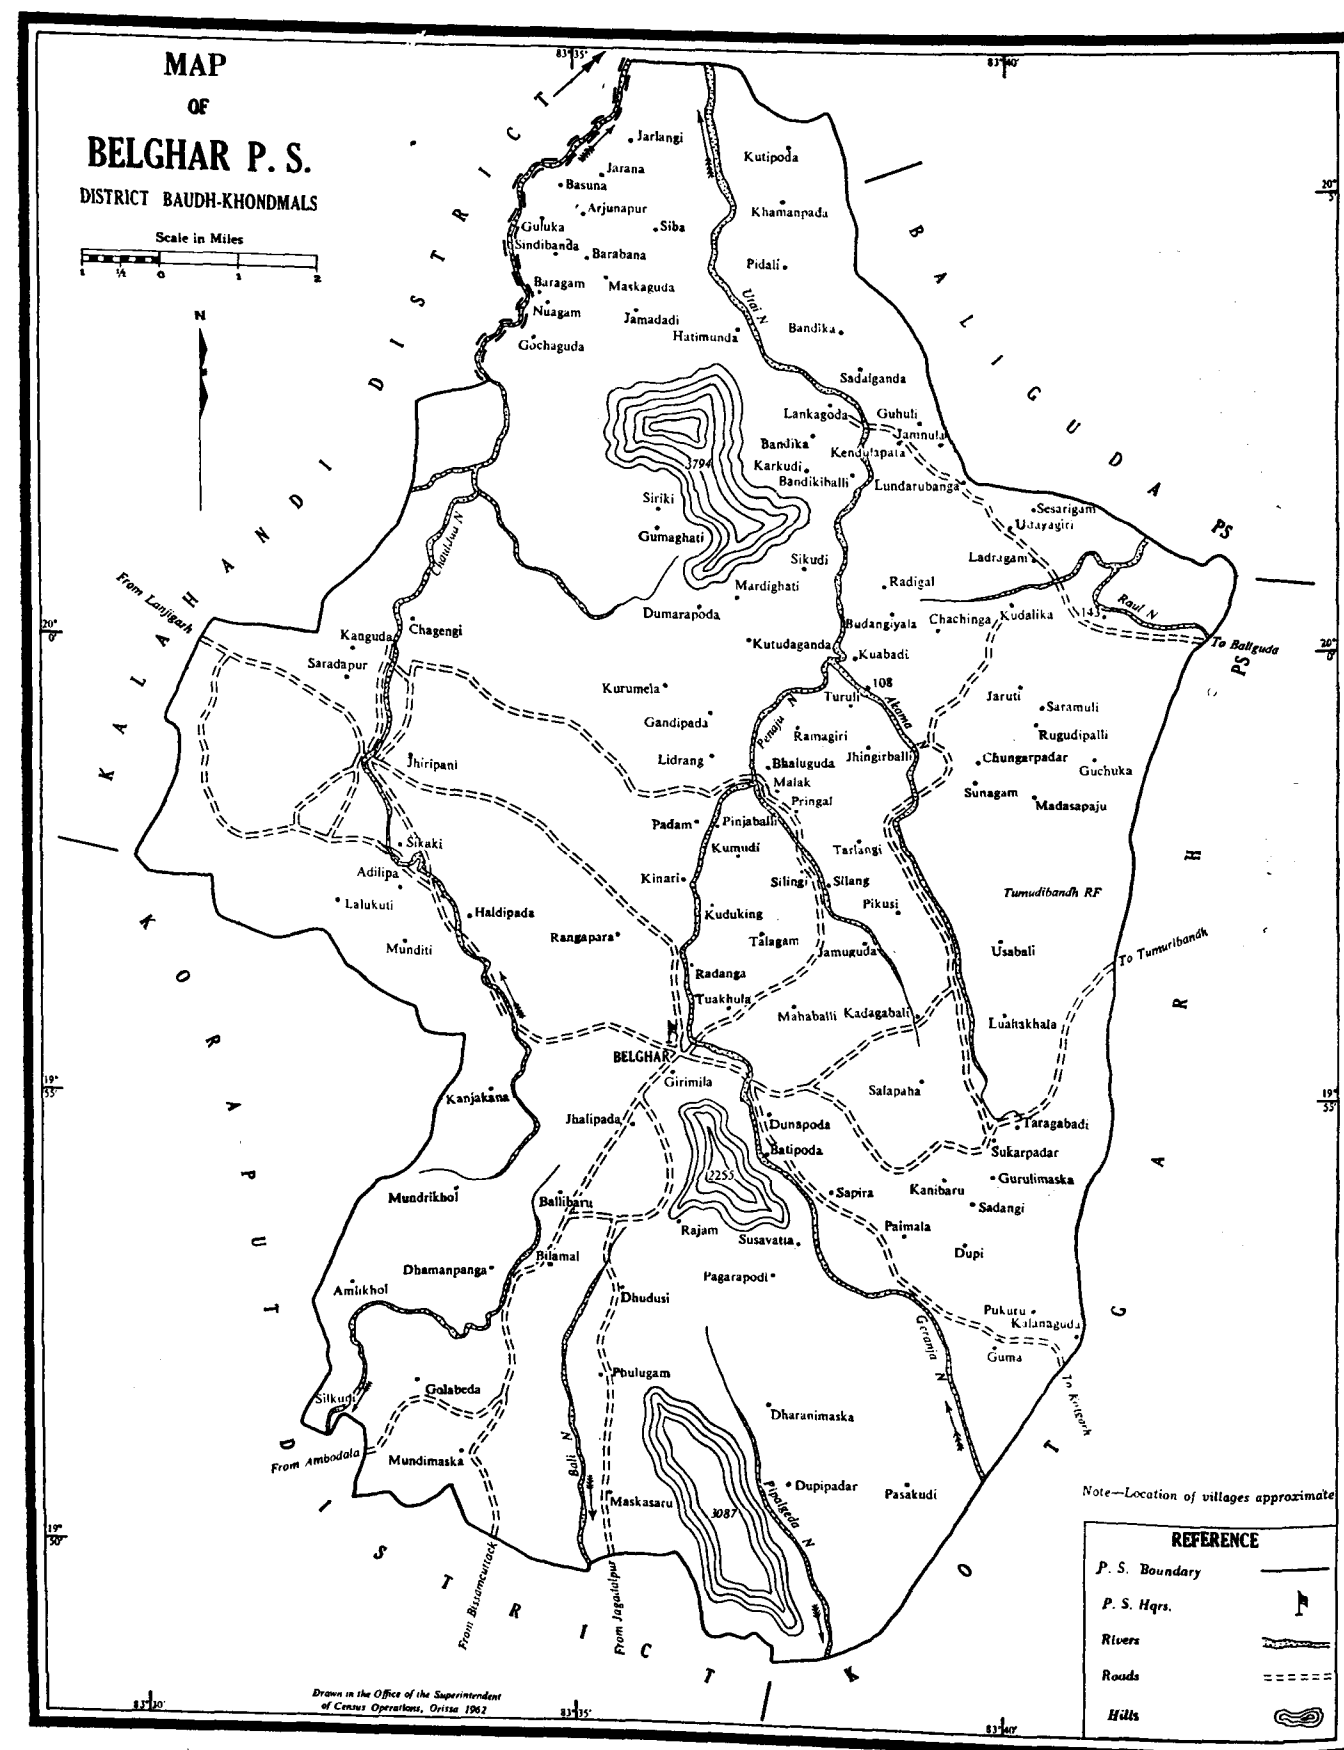

Agriculture—Out of the total area of the district comprising 2,740,480 acres, the area under cultivation including current fallows is 838,577 acres (30·6%) and the area under irrigation is 1,598 acres (0·1%). Rice, maize and pulses, mainly red gram and black gram constitute principal crops. The quantity of rice produced annually is only 70,130 tons which is hardly sufficient for internal consumption.

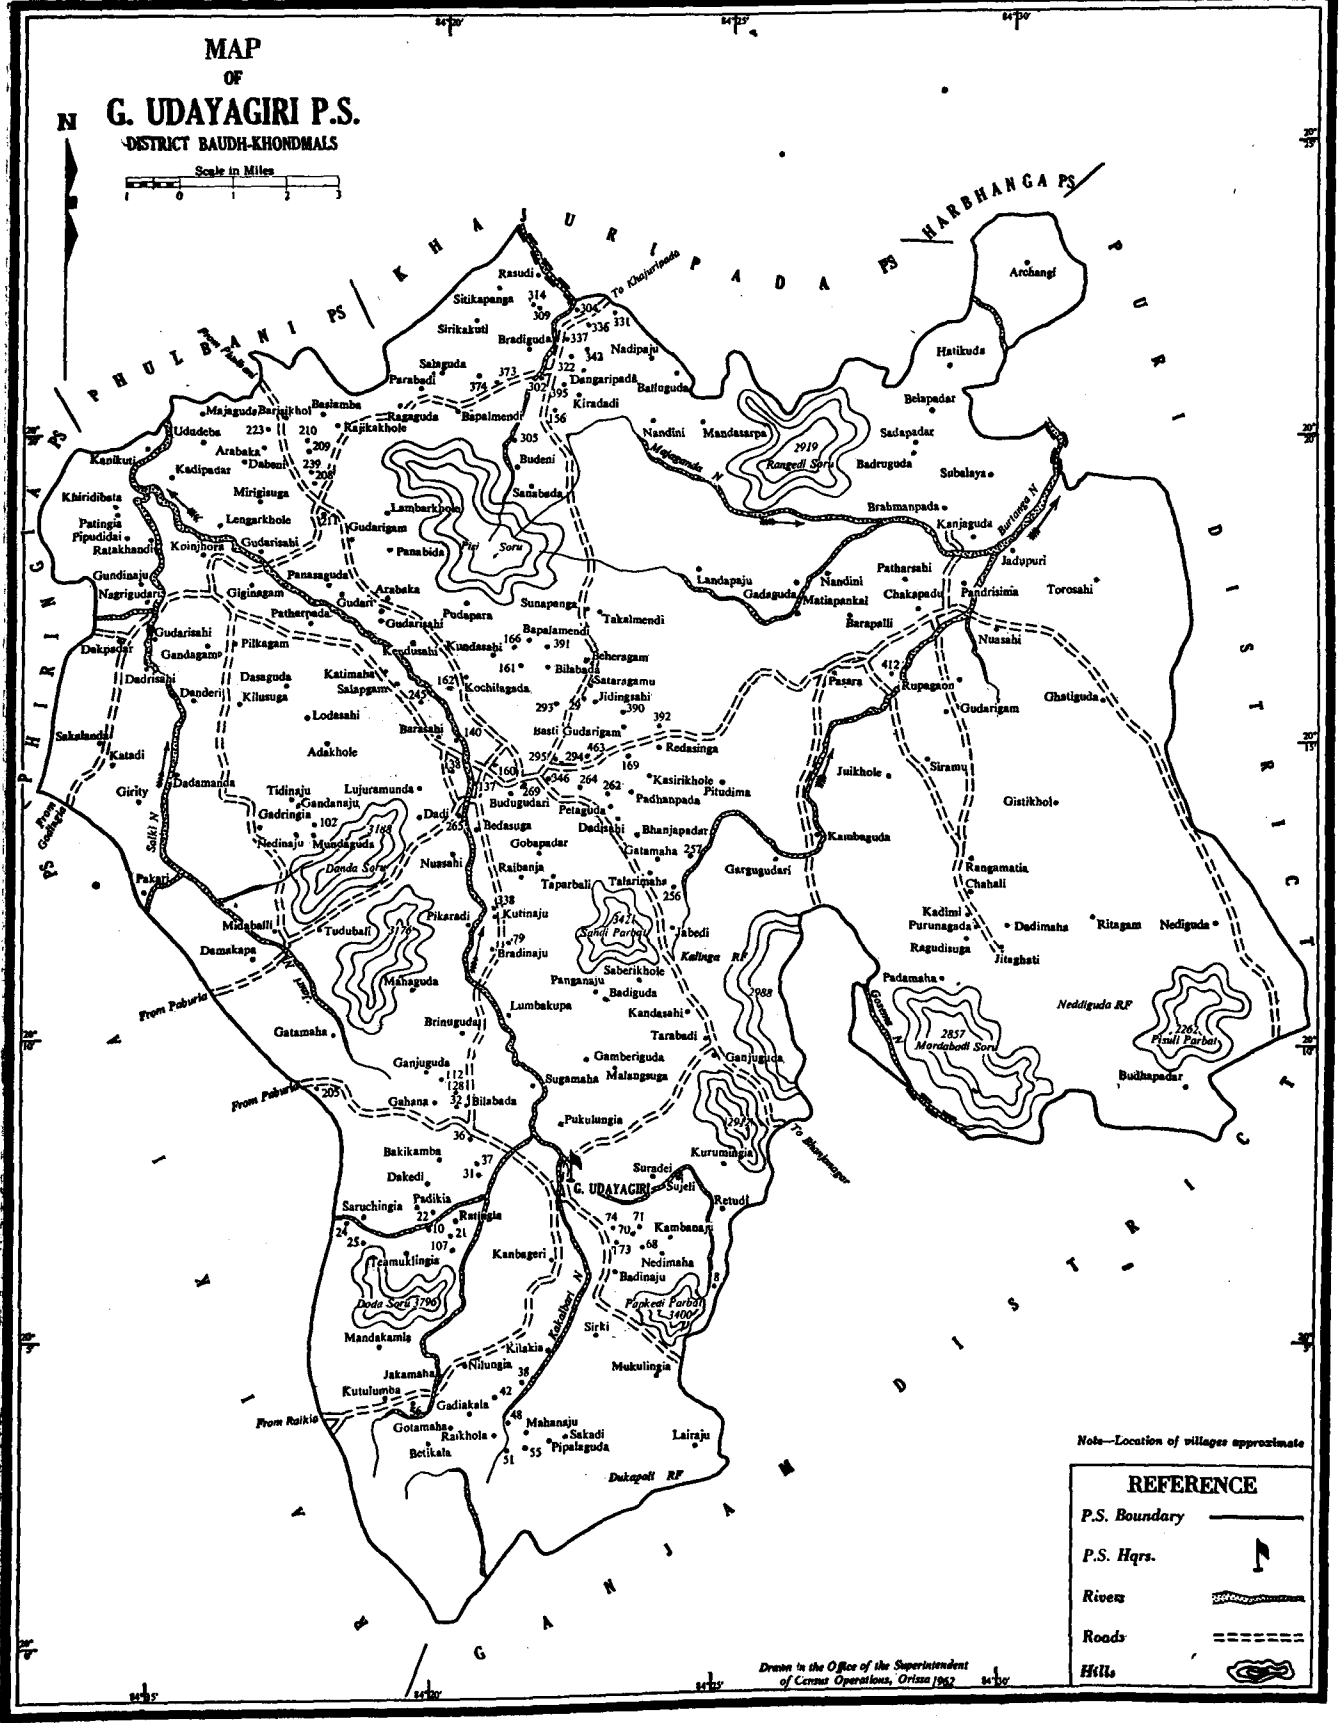

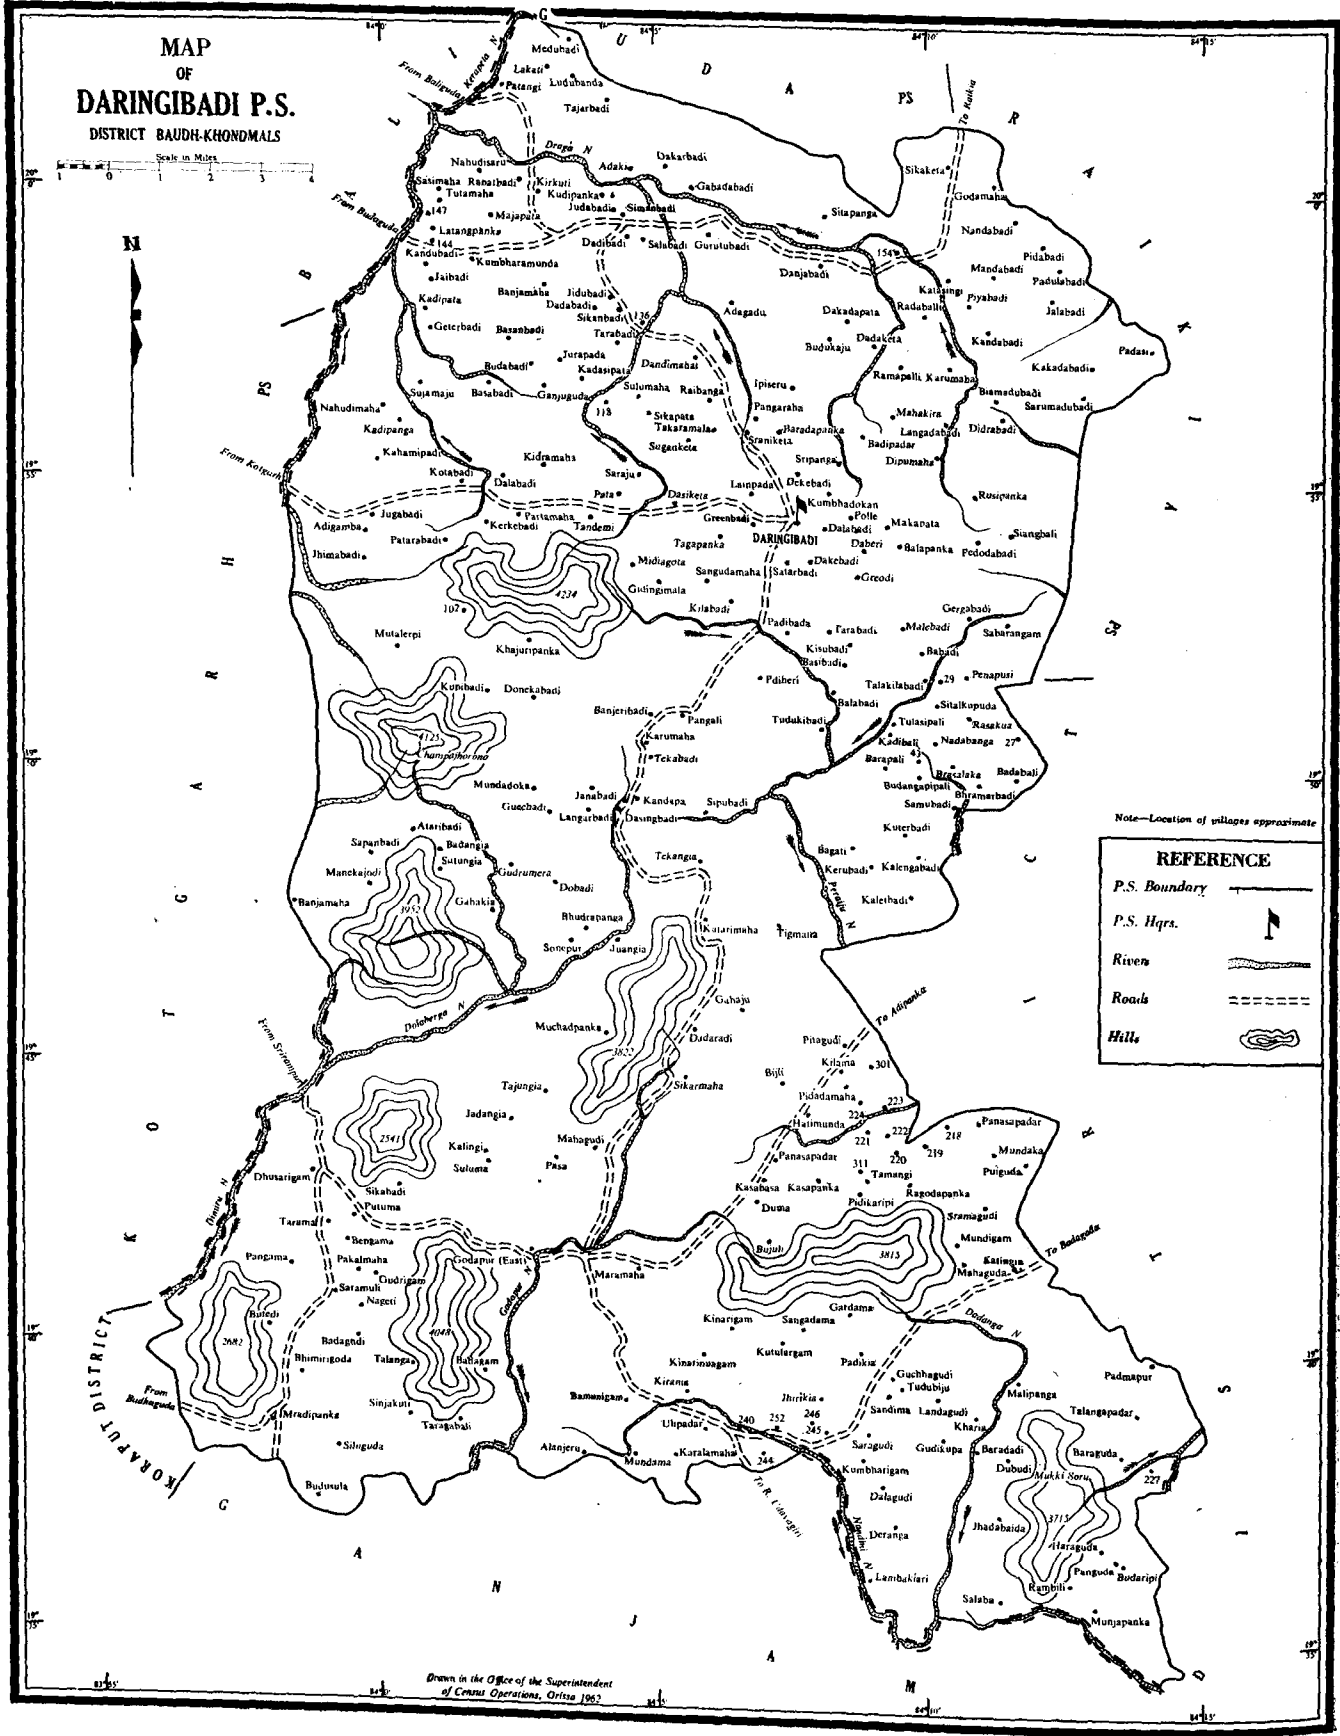

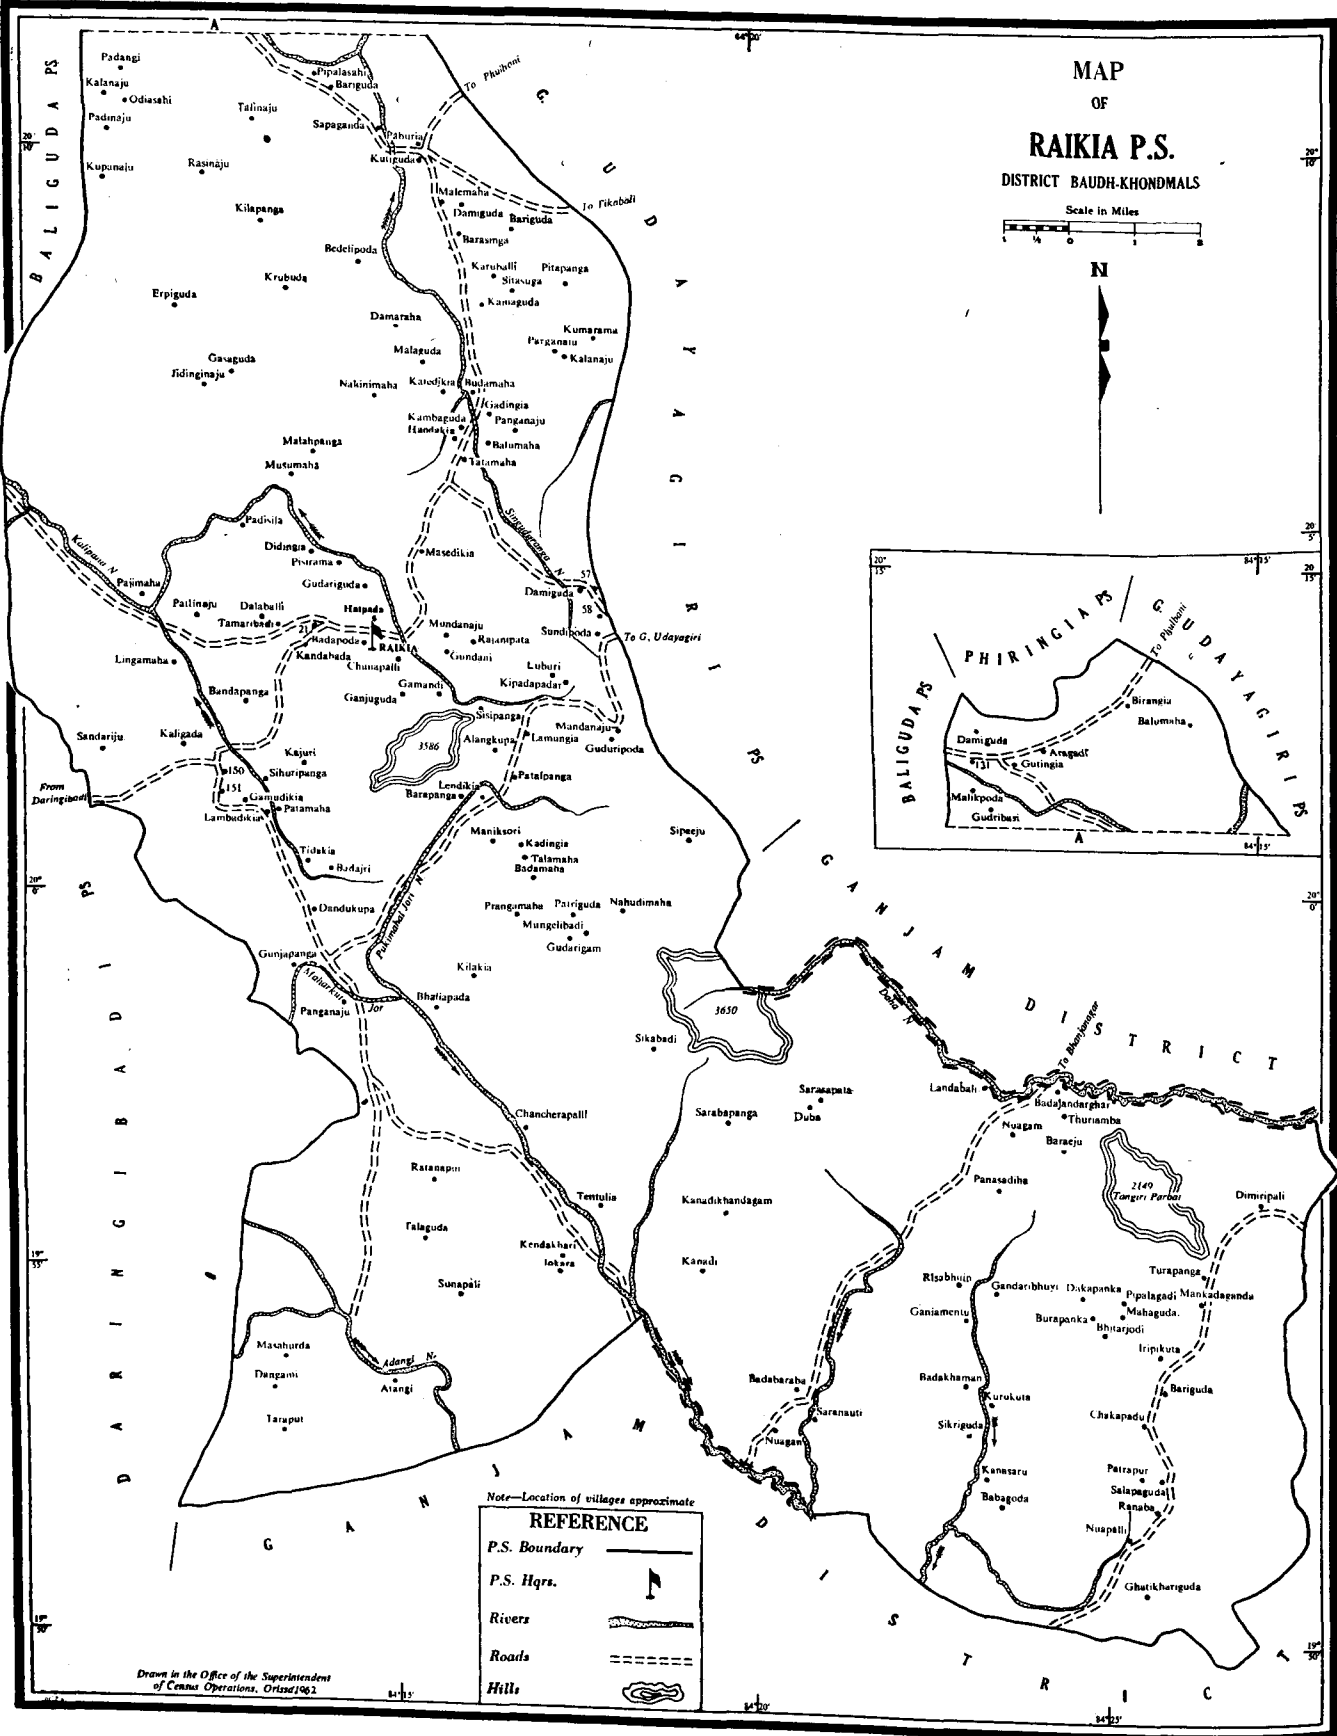

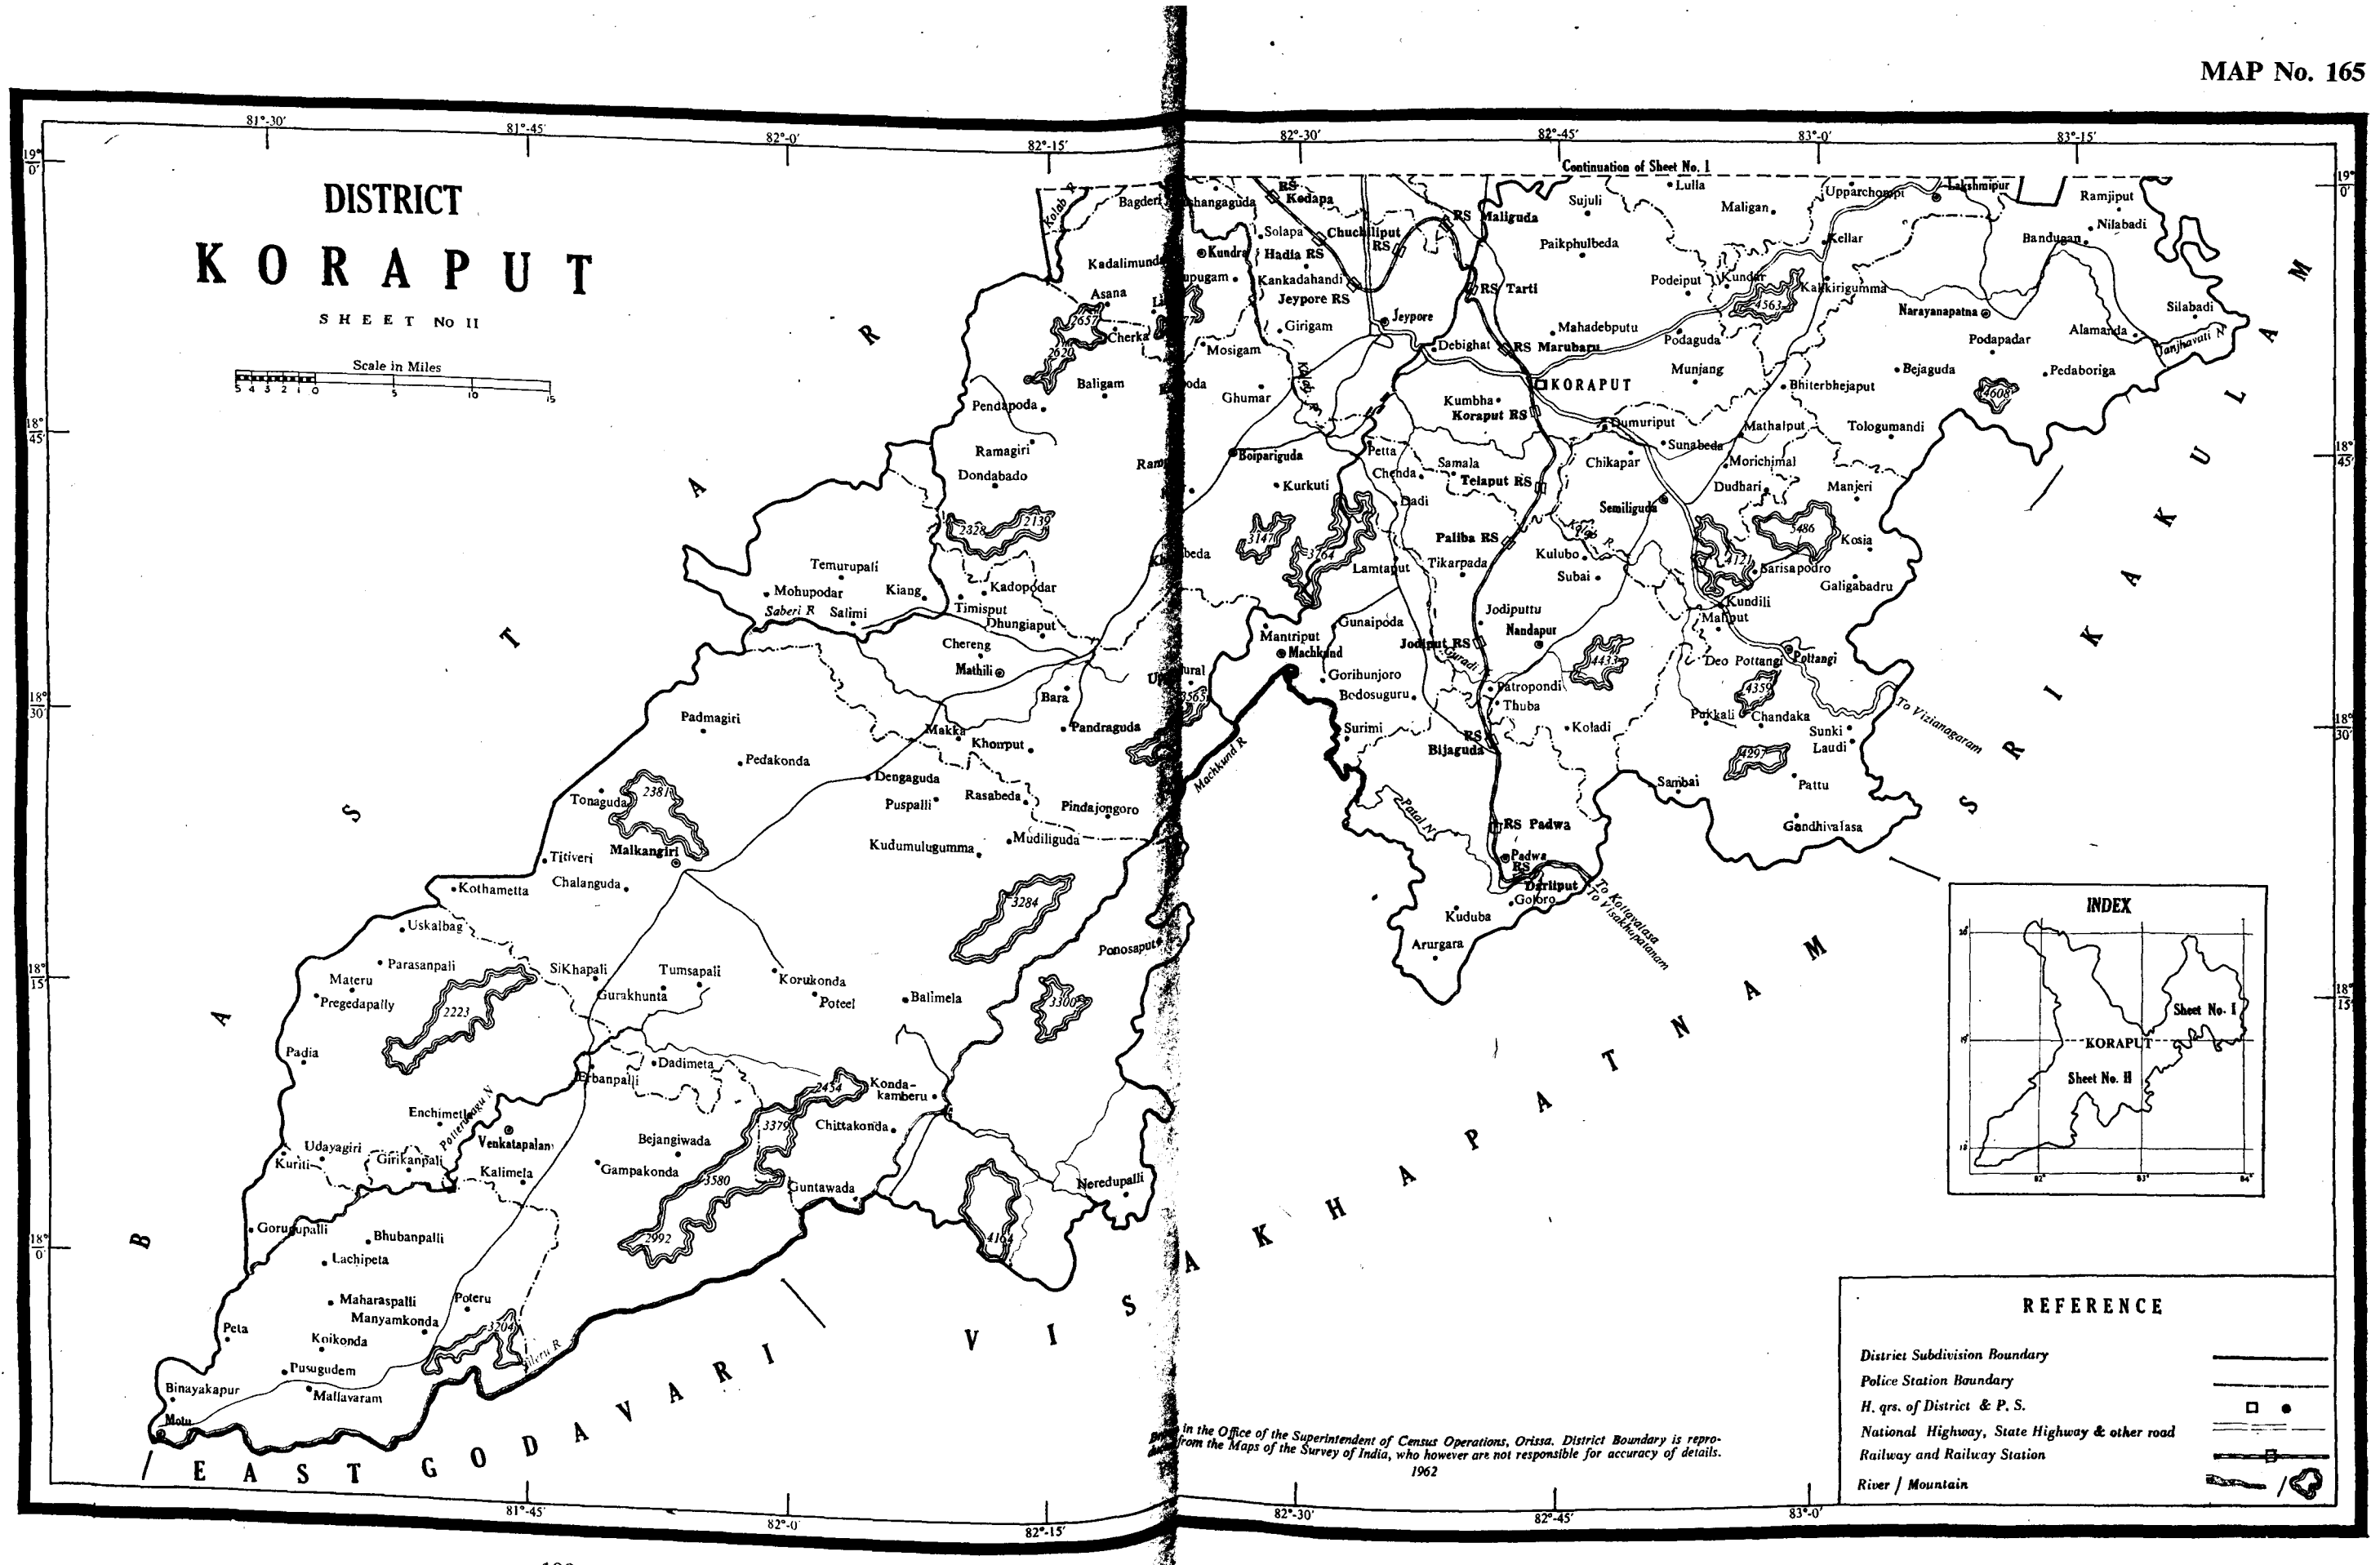

KORAPUT DISTRICT

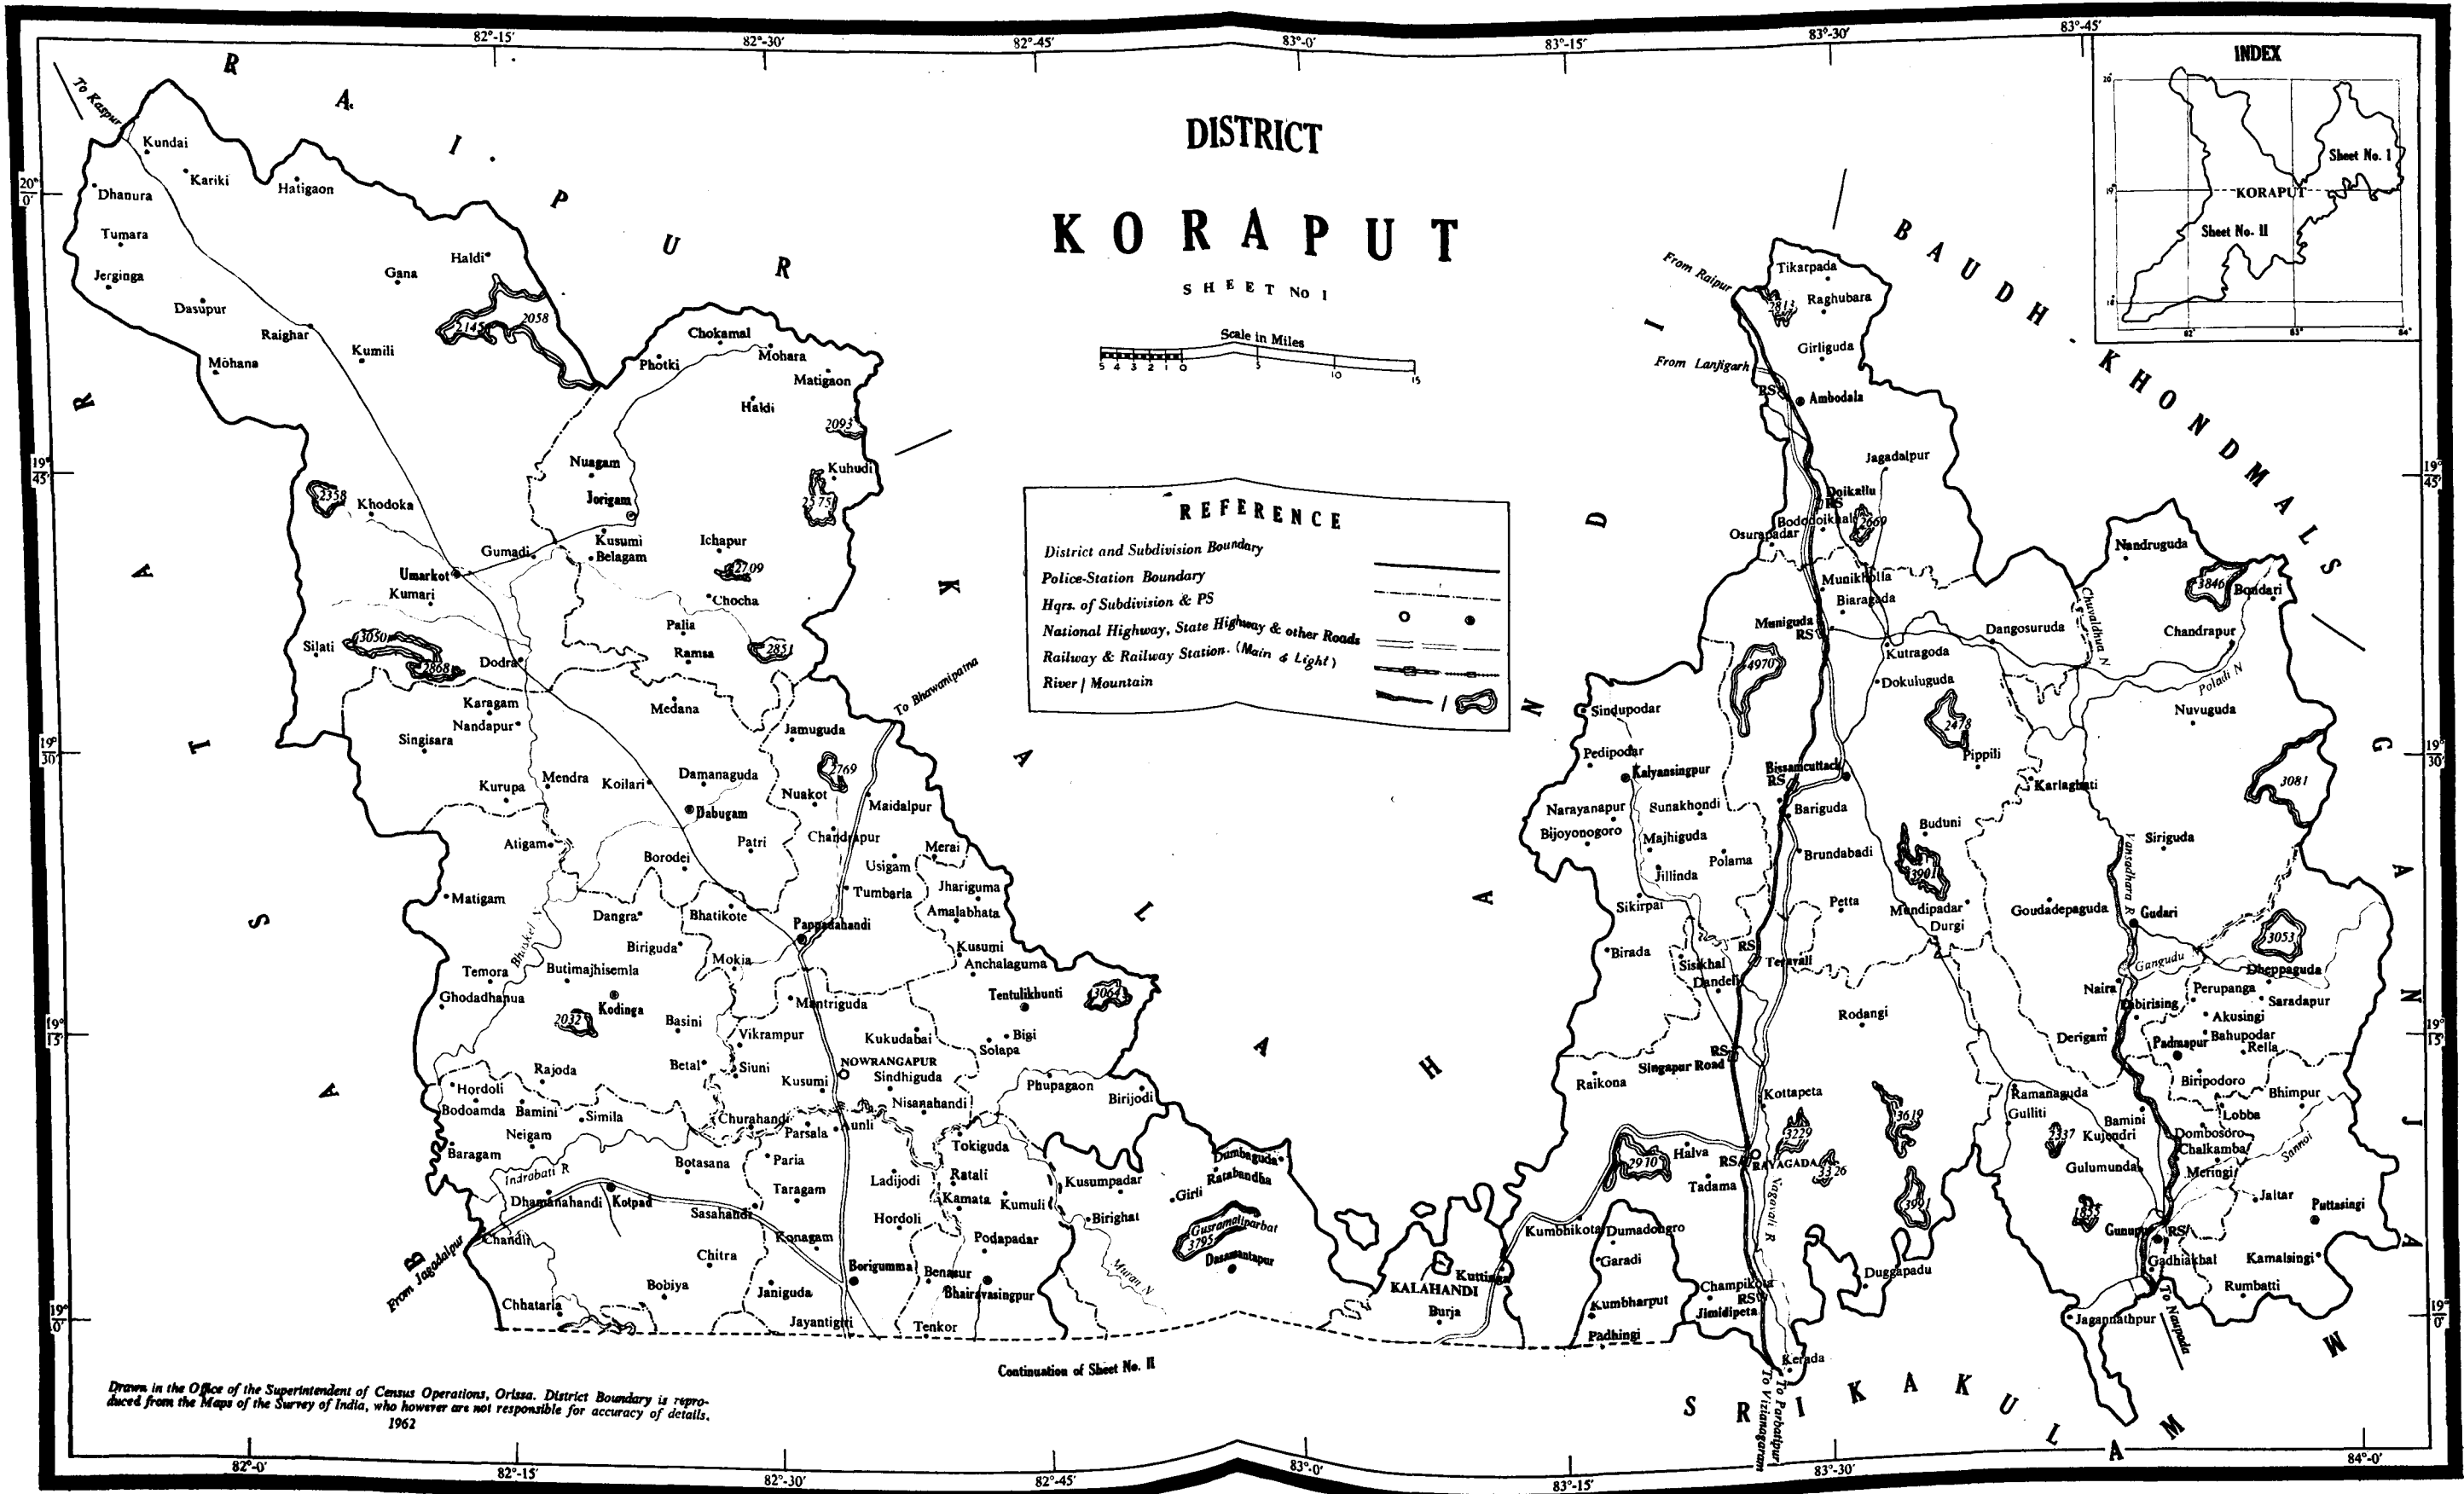

Koraput is the southern most district of Orissa and it lies between 17° 48' N and 20° 7' N latitudes and between 81° 24' E and 84° 2' E longitude. Its boundaries extend in the north to Raipur district of Madhya Pradesh and Kalahandi district of Orissa, in the south to Vishakhapatnam and E. Godavari districts of Andhra Pradesh, in the west to Bastar district of Madhya Pradesh and in the east to Srikakulam district of Andhra Pradesh and Ganjam district of Orissa.

Physiography—The district contains four widely dissimilar tracts each of which is separated by natural barriers. The easternmost tract which covers Rayagada subdivision consists of two broad, almost parallel valleys of the rivers Vamsadhara and Nagavali running over levels varying from 1,200 ft to 300 ft and with high and rugged hill ranges hedging them in. It contains rich cultivated lands and good forests. The second tract which is a 3,000-ft plateau extends from the north to the southernmost limit and is 110 miles long with an average width of 40 miles. The eastern end of the plateau passes through a chain of hills which are the highest in the district. The plateau drains westward into the basin of the Godavari through the tributaries, Indravati, Kolab and Machkund. The third natural tract is another plateau containing the Jeypore and Nowrangapur taluks having an elevation of 2,000 ft. It extends to the west and the north-west into the neighbouring State of Madhya Pradesh, draining westward through the Kolab and the Indravati. But in the north, it slopes the opposite way, dropping down into the valley of the river Tel, a tributary of the Mahanadi, which receives higher rainfall than the rivers running to the west. This tract forms the principal granary of the district. The fourth natural tract is Malkangiri taluk which contains the valley of the Machkund river, and is a flat plain declining from north to south with heights varying from 800 to 400 ft. The entire country is covered with jungle, inhabited by primitive tribes. The soil is poor in quality.

The hill system of the district makes an interesting study, being a section of the great line of the Eastern Ghats. The highest peak, Deomali (5,486 ft) occur in the 3,000 ft plateau and is the highest in Orissa. There are many outstanding peaks in this plateau and in other tablelands, the most notable ones being Turia Konda (5,244 ft), Polamakani Parbat (5,201 ft), Meyamali Parbat (4,921 ft), Karnapadi Konda (4,879 ft), etc. The district has five large rivers. Two of them flow in the eastern part of the district and the remaining three, of which the Machkund is famous now on account of location of Duduma Hydro-Electric Project, flow westward and then southward before reaching the basin of the river Godavari. Forests cover an area of 5,521 sq. miles and are of the northern tropical semi-evergreen type. Teak and sal are predominantly found in these forests though bamboos and coarse grass rising up to a height of 10 ft are commonly seen in Malkangiri area. The district has mostly red soil except for a small patch in the north-east which has laterite soil and another patch in the north-west having laterite and black cotton soil. The rocks contain large deposits of manganese, mica and graphite and some of these minerals are now being worked out.

Climate and rainfall—The climate of the major portion of the district which lies in the plateau region to the west of the Eastern Ghats is more like that of the Deccan plateau than that of the eastern regions, but tends to be milder on account of high elevation. December is the coldest part of the year with the mean daily minimum temperature of 11·2°C. After January the temperature progressively increases till May which is the hottest month, the temperature sometimes reaching 38°C. During the monsoon the weather is cool and pleasant. The average annual rainfall is 1,552 mm. (59·92"). Areas to the eastern side of the Ghats get lesser rain than those on the Ghats and on the west. The west has 67·05" while east has 48·27" of annual rainfall. During the monsoon season 79% of the annual rainfall is received. On an average there are 82 rainy days per year. There are thunder-storms in the pre-monsoon months, and fogs early in winter.

Scheduled Castes—The population of Scheduled Castes in the district is 186,438 which is 12·4% of the total population. There are 73 castes of which the most numerous are Dom (125,476), Haddi (5,604), Pan (5,407), Ghasi (5,167), Dhoba (5,033), Namasudra (4,060), Ganda (5,030), Chandala (3,798), Panika (3,559), Reli (2,478), Amant (2,083), Bauri (2,017), Adi Andhra (1,187), Nala (1,303), Mahar (1,187), Kandra (1,067) and Jaggali (1,053). Literacy is confined to 6·5%. Principal economic activity of a bulk of the population is cultivation and agricultural labour. Household industry and 'other services' are also popular.

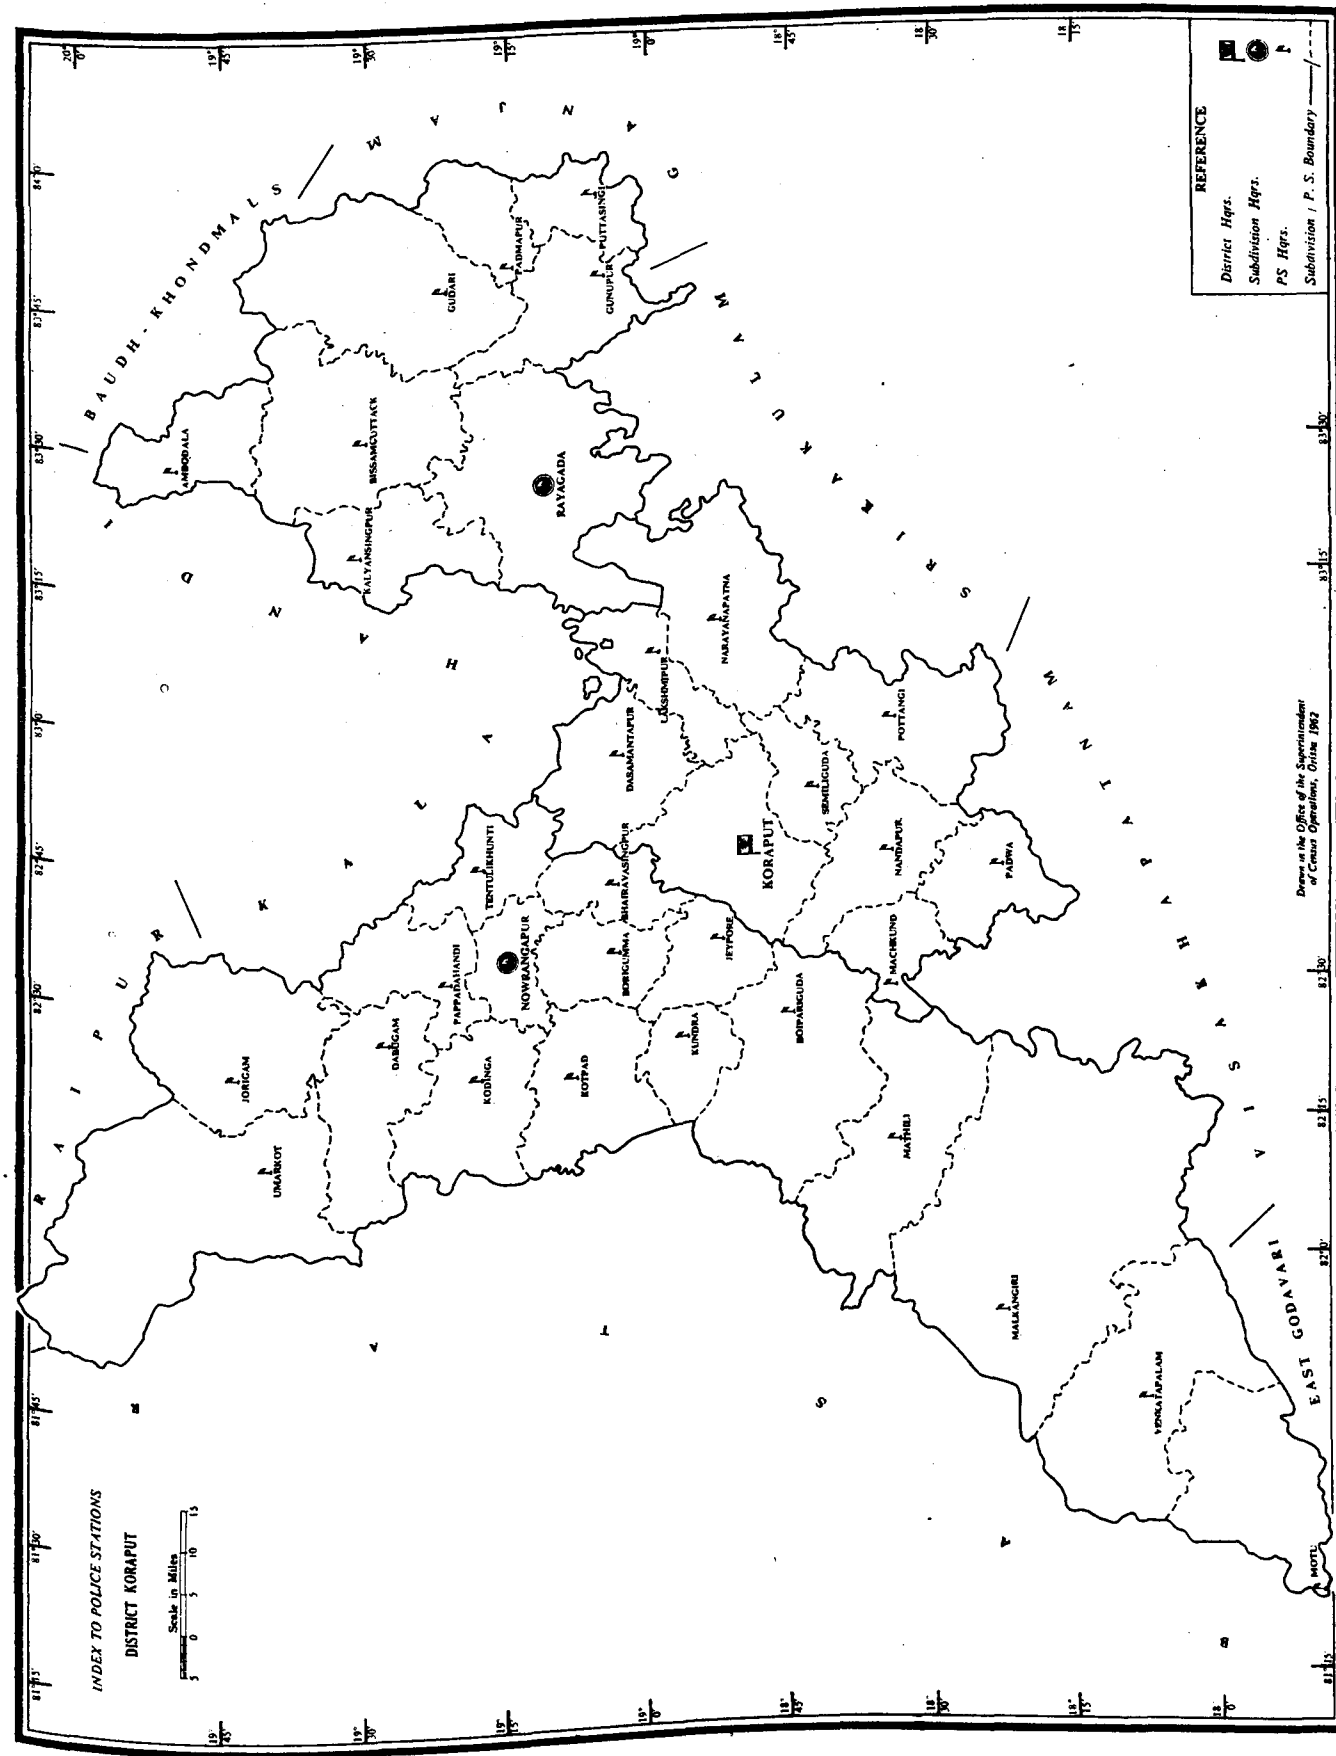

Literacy—Out of the entire population of 1,498,271, the literates number 124,440, i.e., 8·3% of the total population. Among the males, literacy has gone up to 13·6 per cent and among the females to 3·0 per cent. In the Census of 1951, the rate of literacy was much lower, namely, 5·3 per cent only. There are 1,351 Primary Schools, 42 M.E. Schools and 9 High Schools in the district.

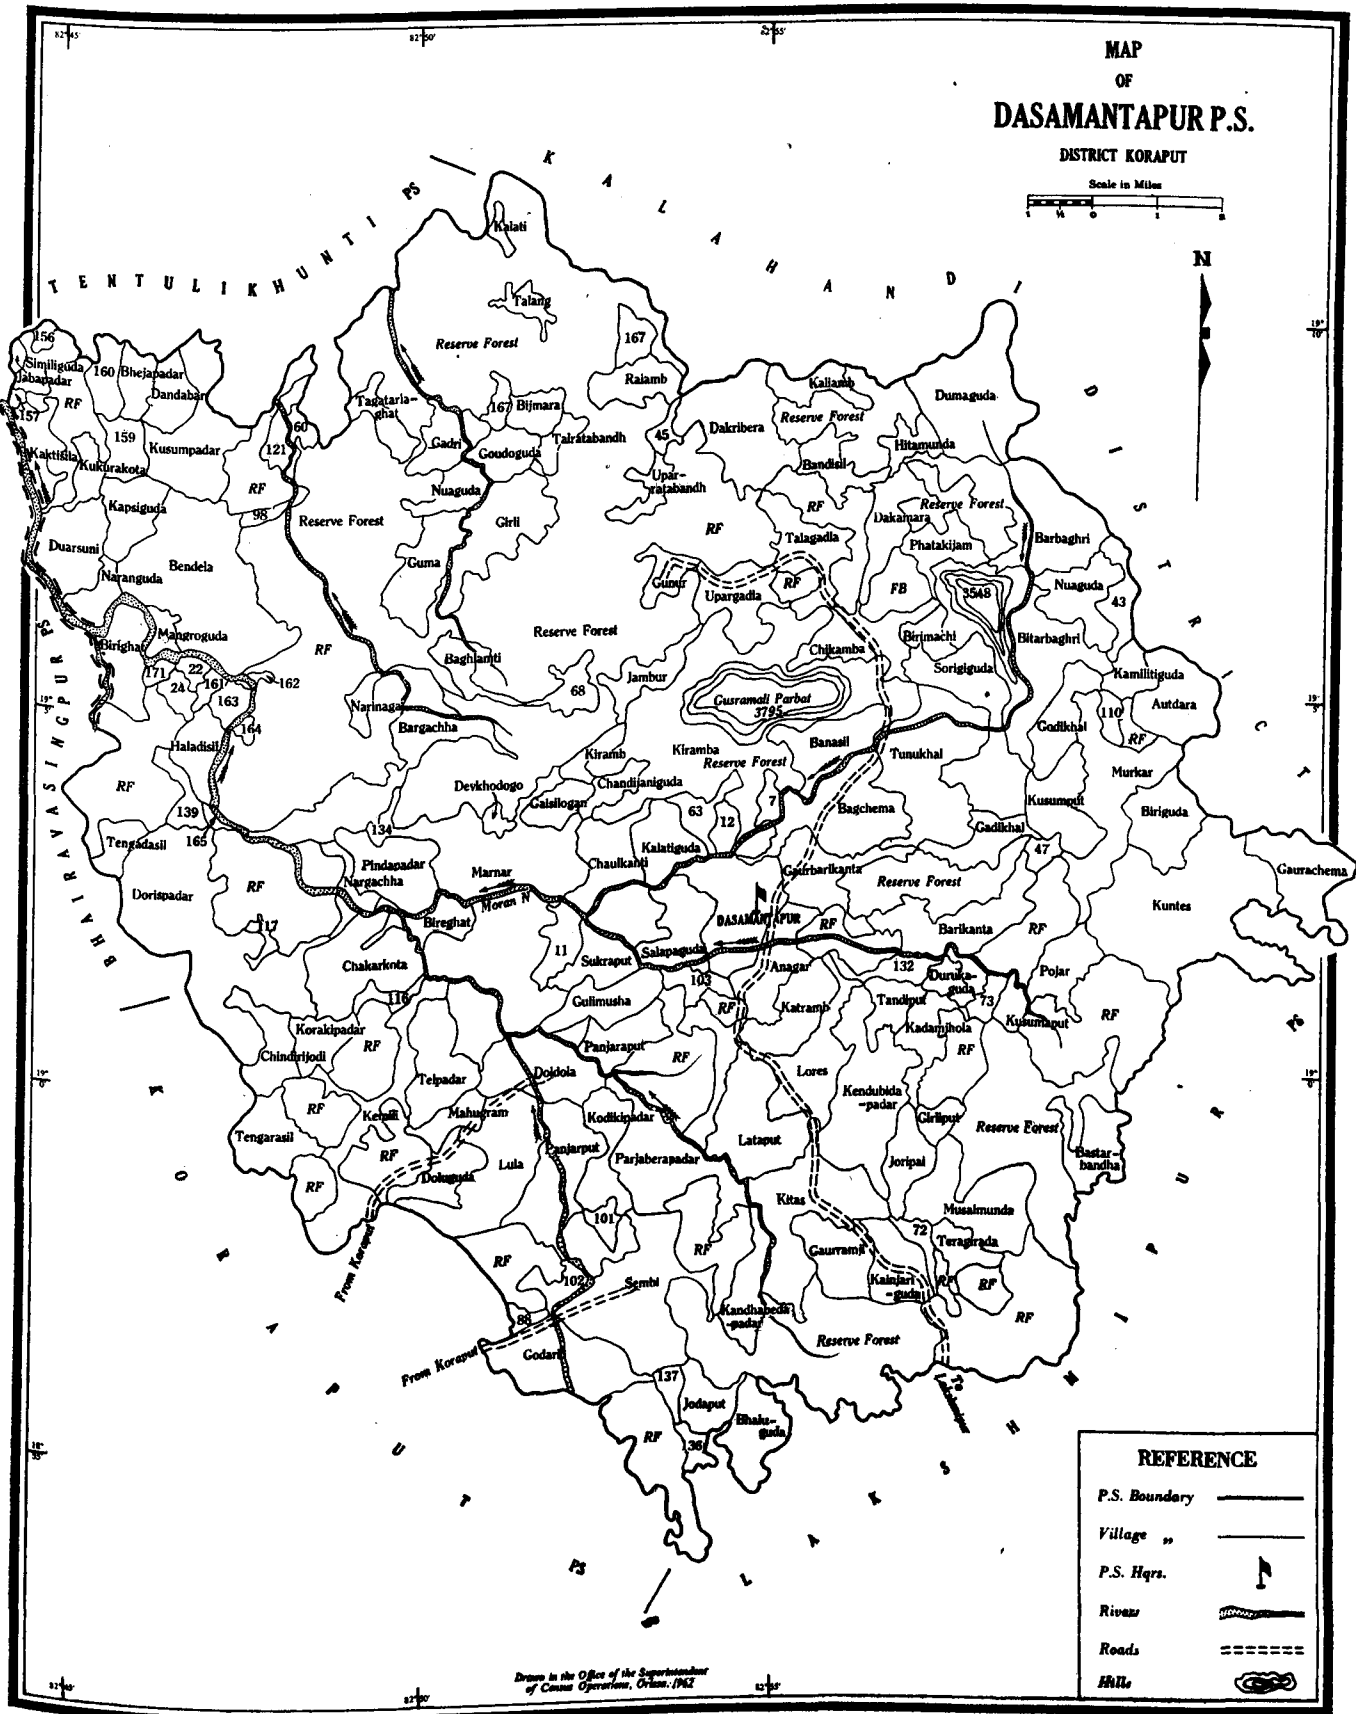

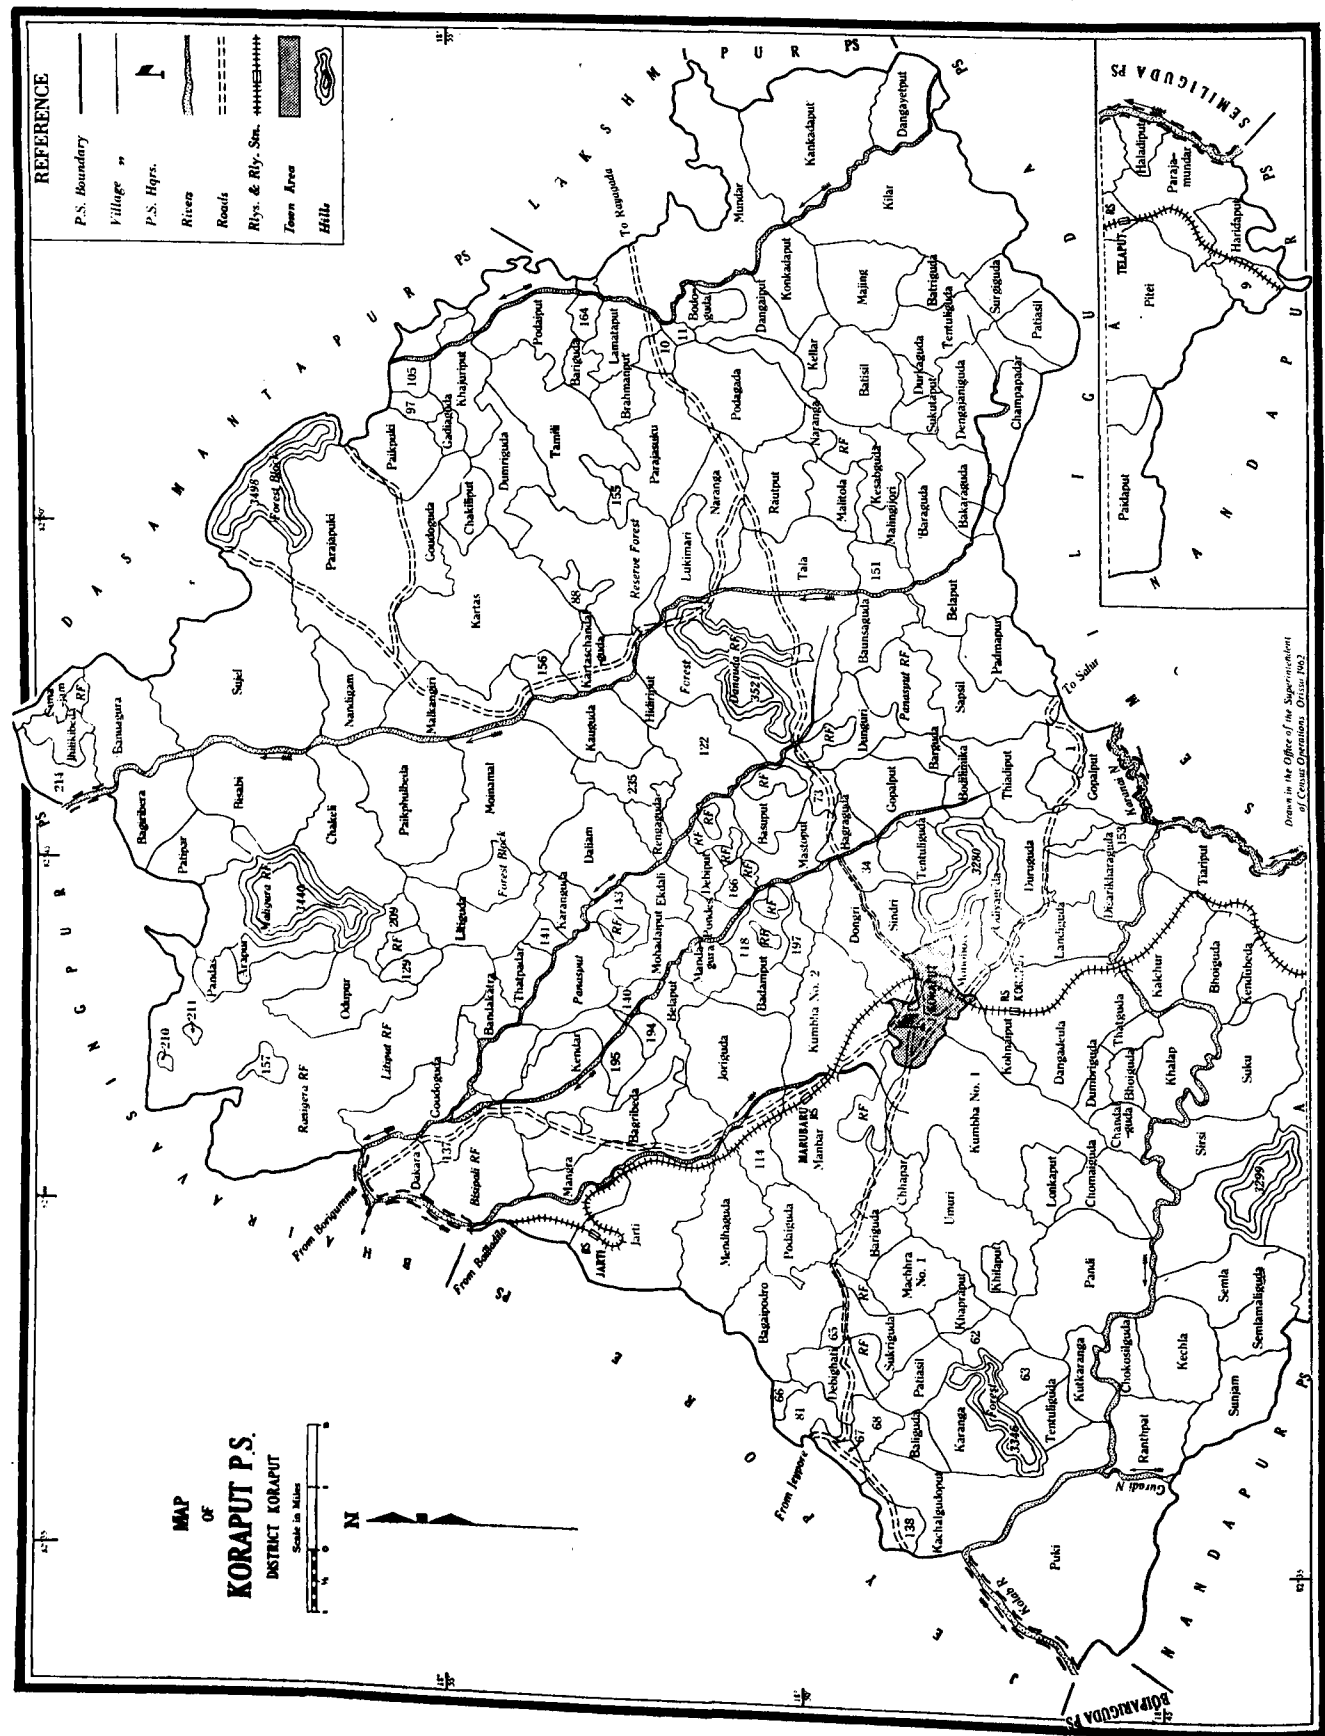

Industries—The number of industrial establishments in the district including the household industries carried on even in a meagre scale is 14,017. According to the classification of the I.S.I.C. Scheme there are 64 kinds of industries in the district. A list of industries which are most extensively found here is furnished below:

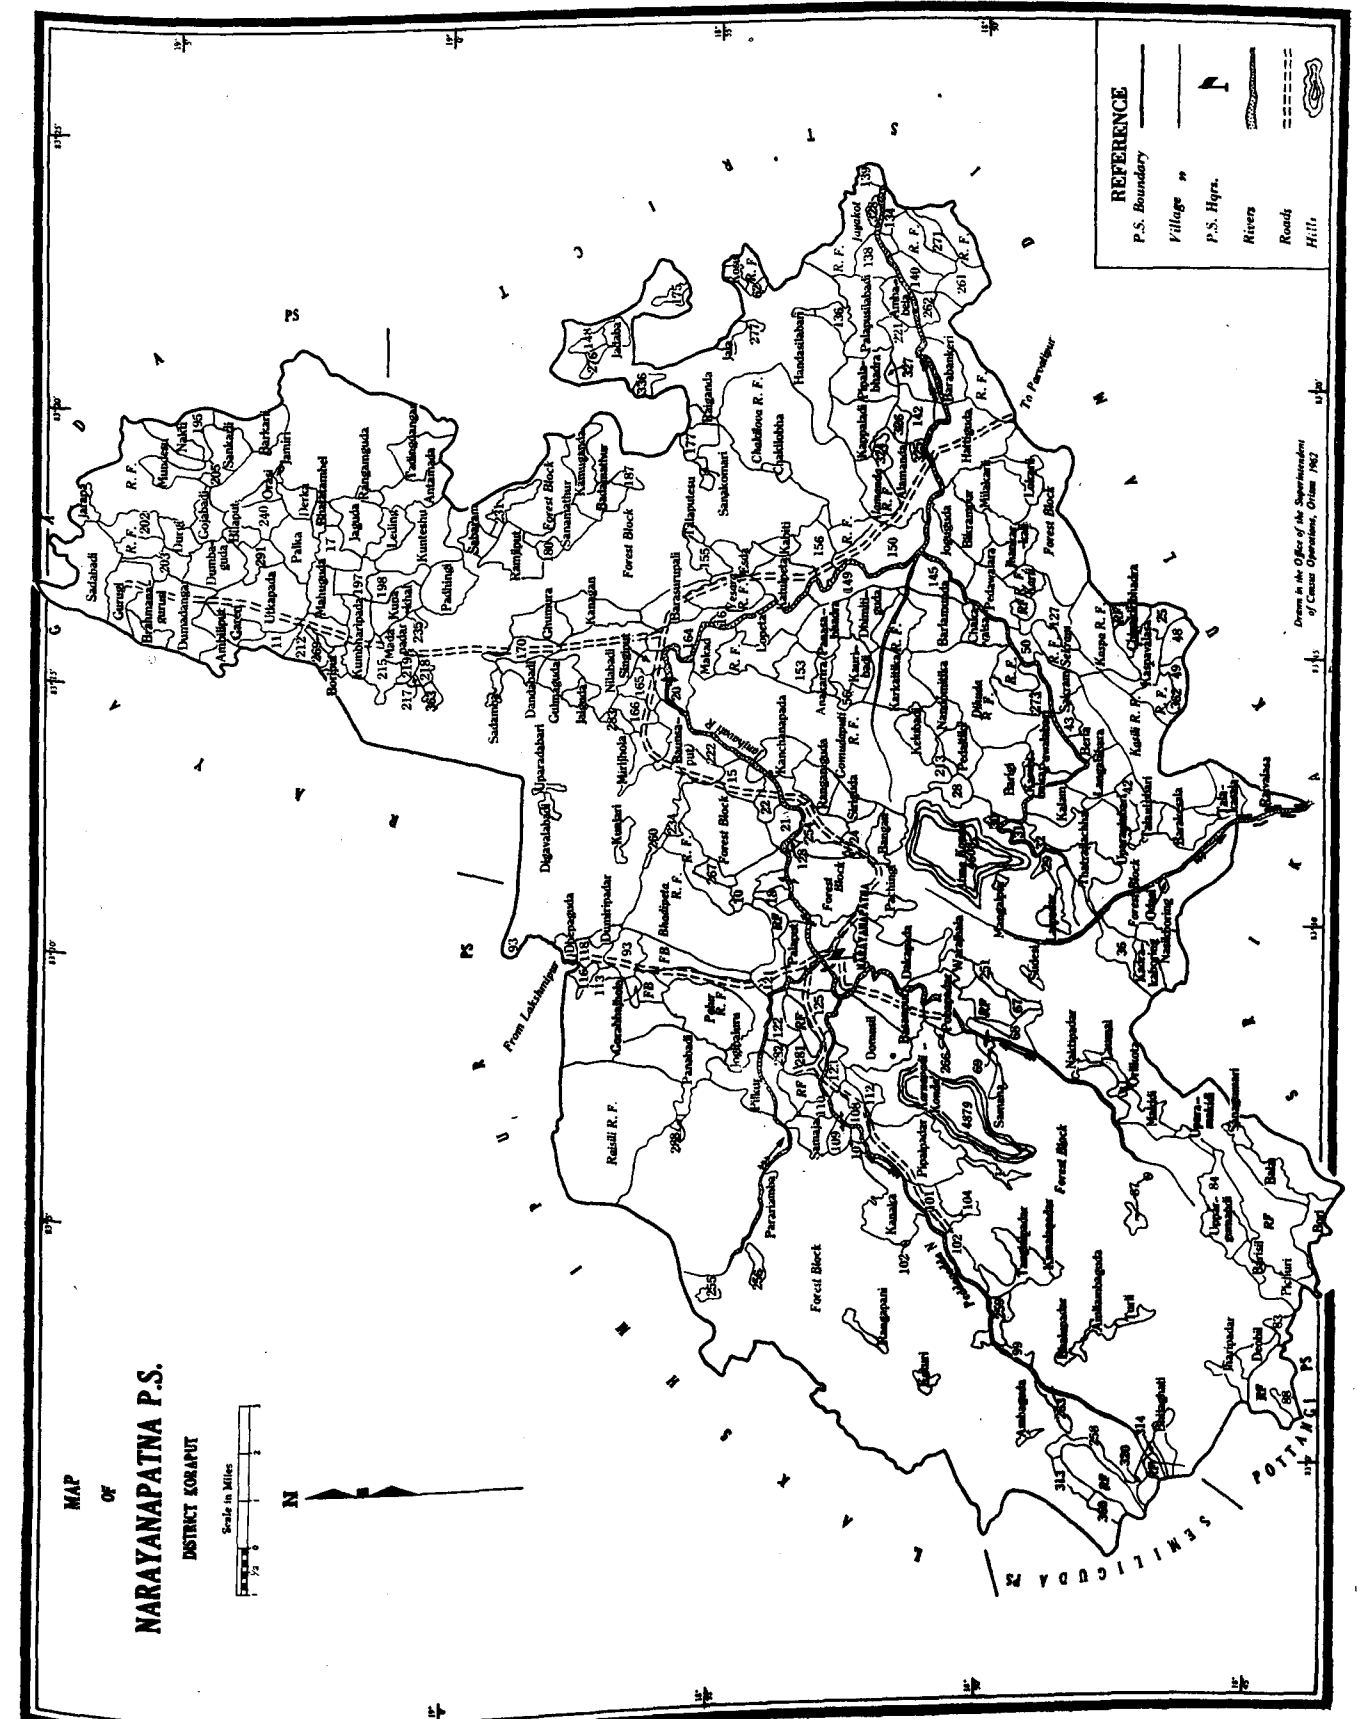

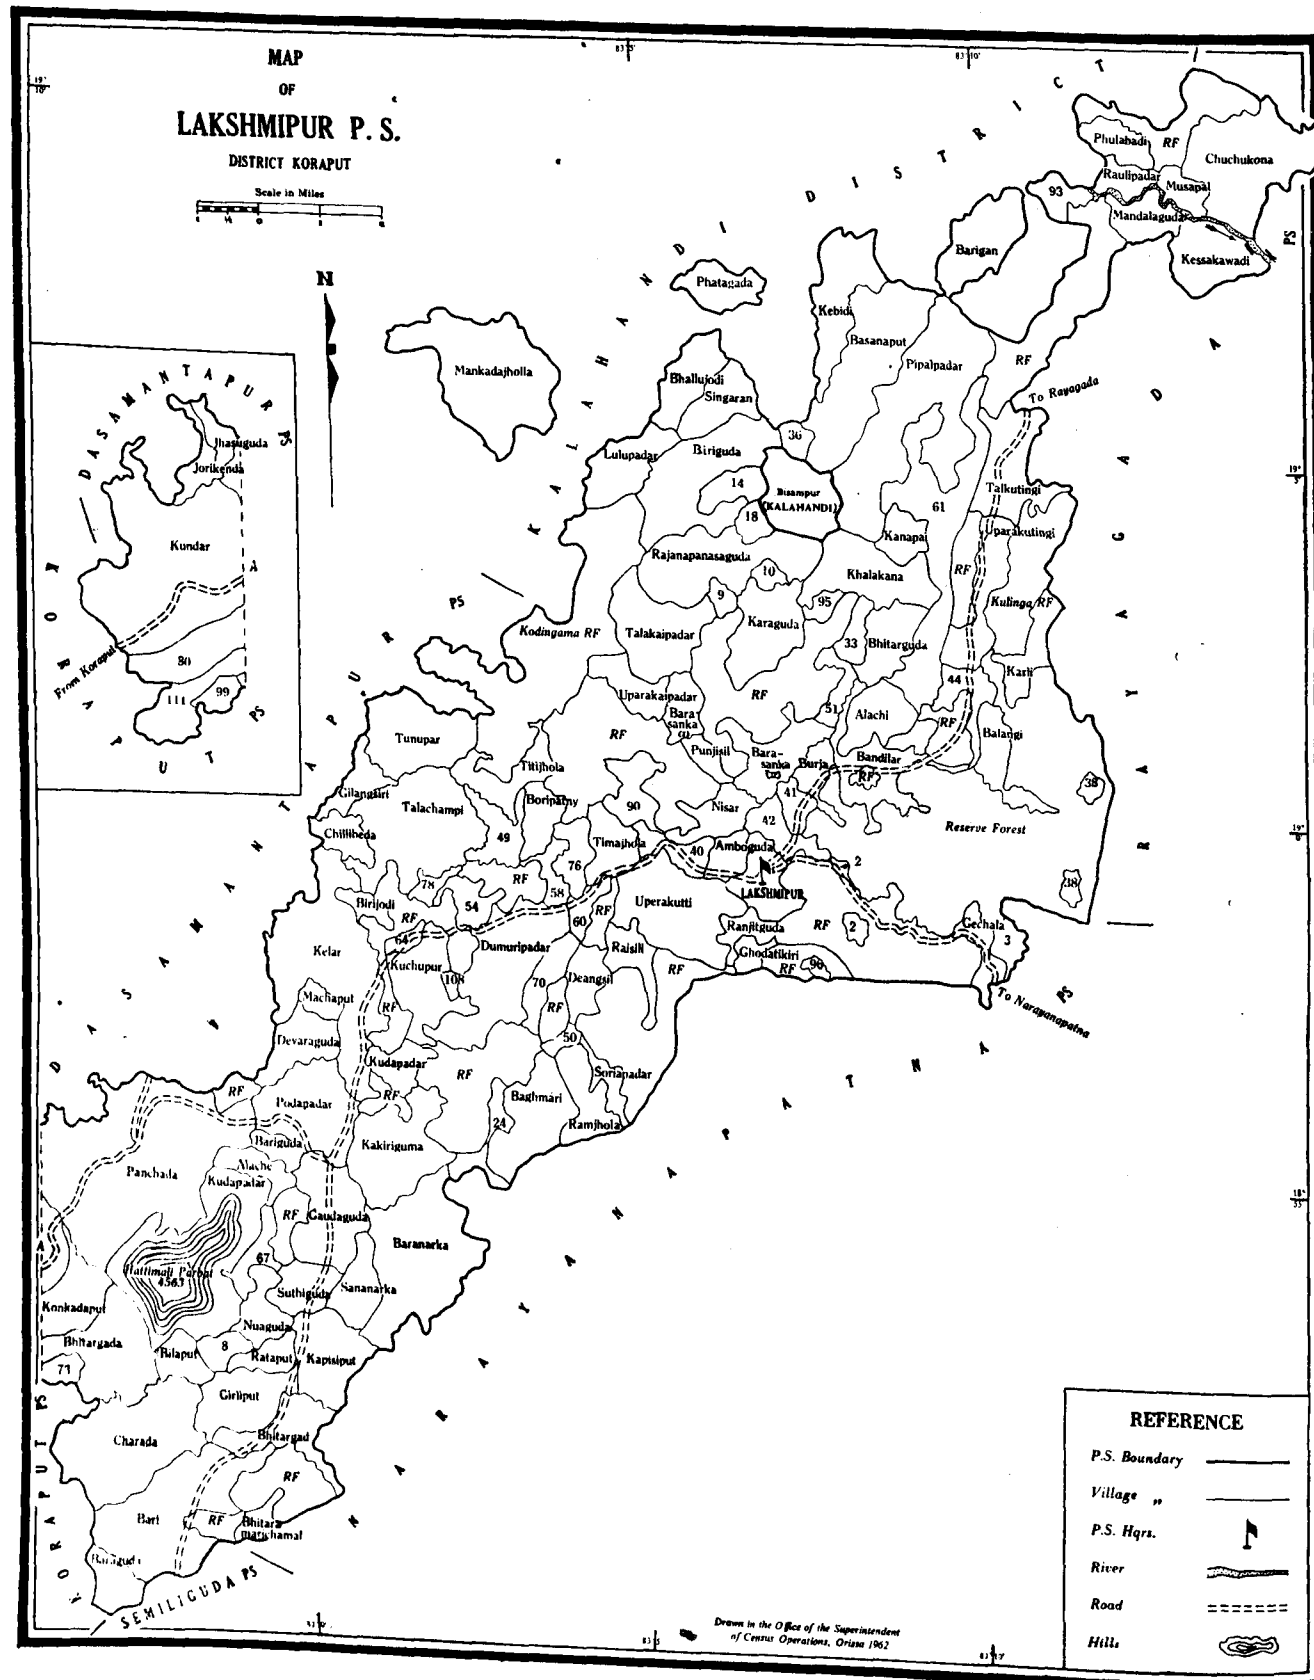

Name of industry	Total no. of establishments	No. of persons engaged
Cotton weaving in handlooms	4,271	11,959
Manufacture of sundry hardwares	2,433	6,529

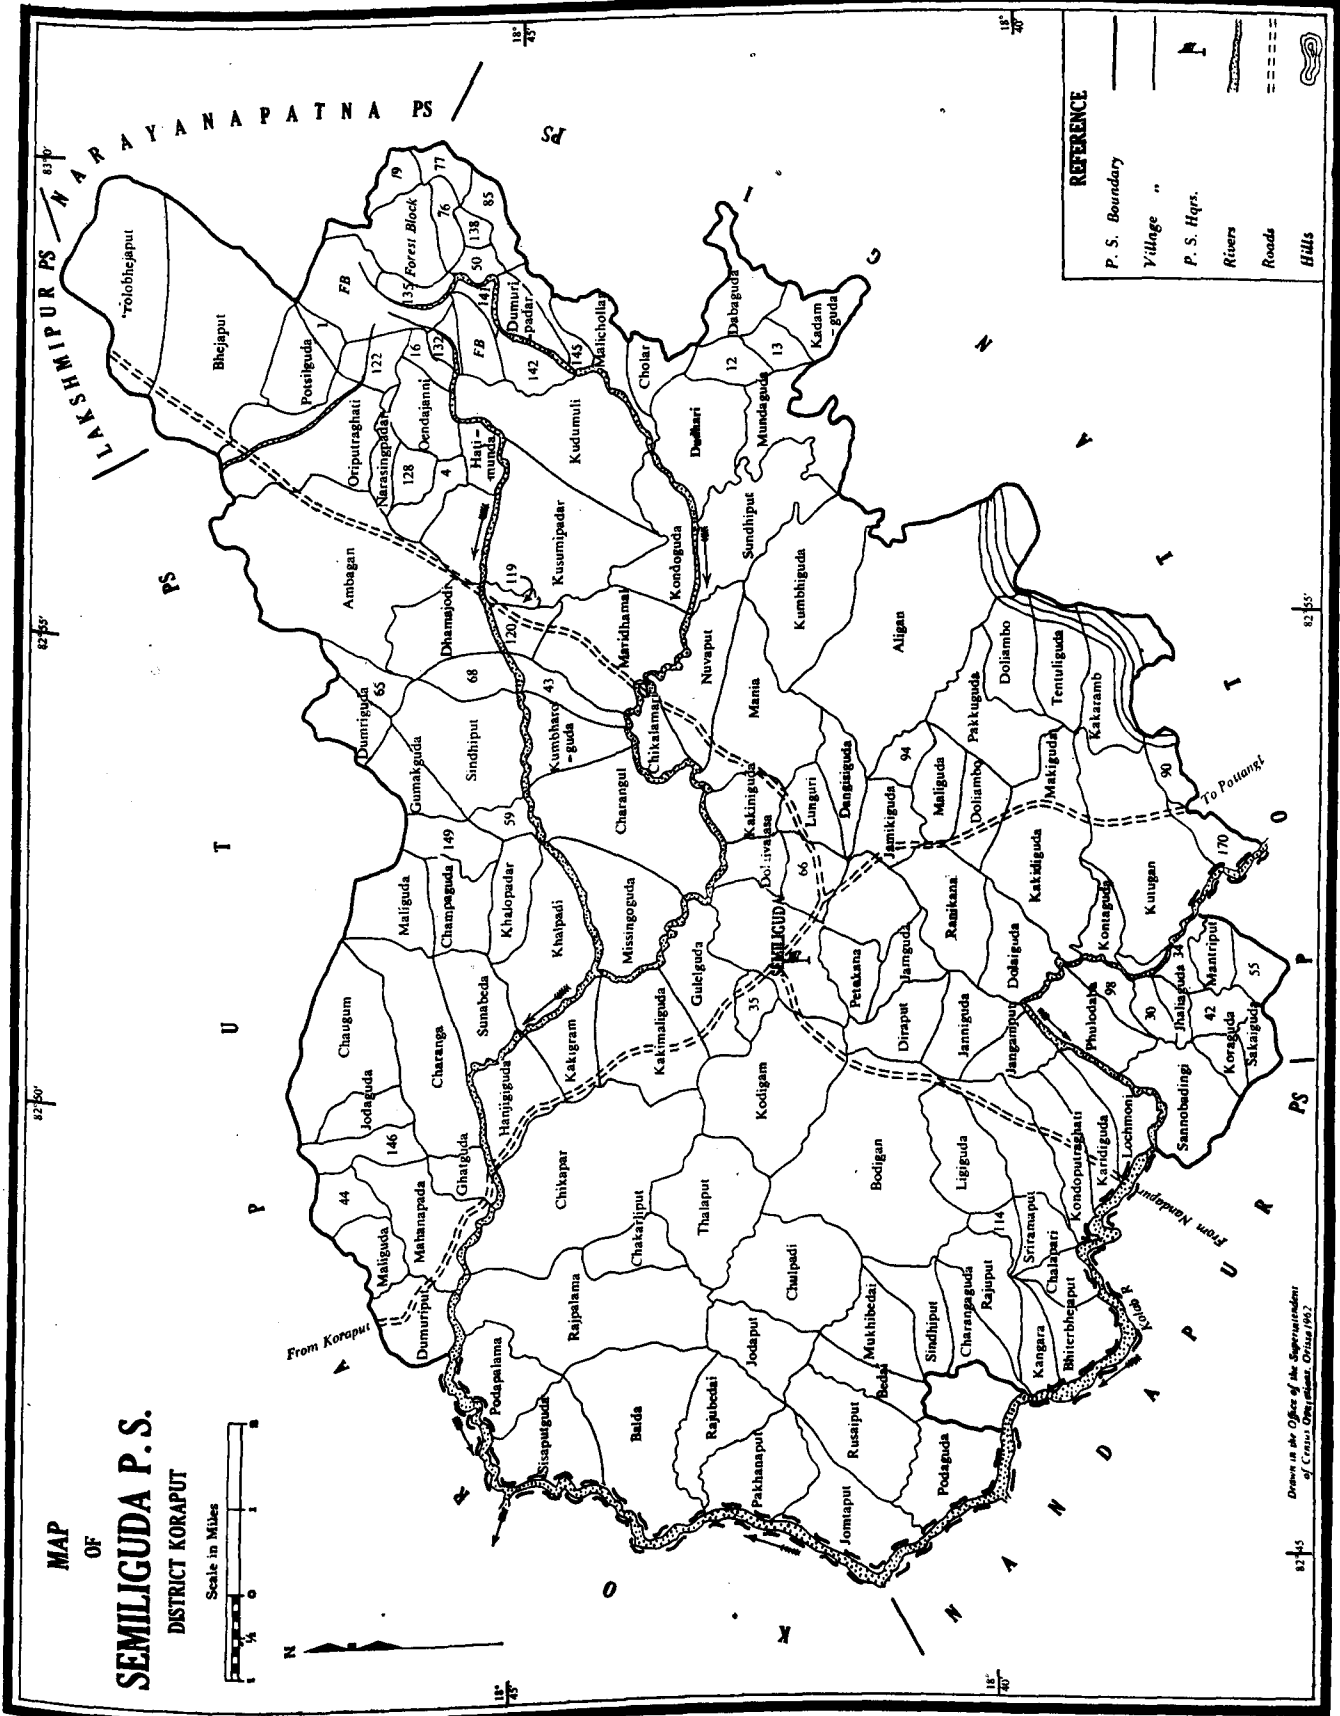

Name of industry	Total no. of establishments	No. of persons engaged
Manufacture of materials from cork, bamboo, cane, leaves, etc.	2,310	5,398
Manufacture of earthenwares and earthen potteries	1,600	4,179
Manufacture of jewellery and wares using gold and other precious metals	651	1,269
Manufacture of wooden goods	566	1,081
Cotton spinning (other than in mills)	343	967
Production of edible fats and oils (other than hydrogenated oil)	322	714

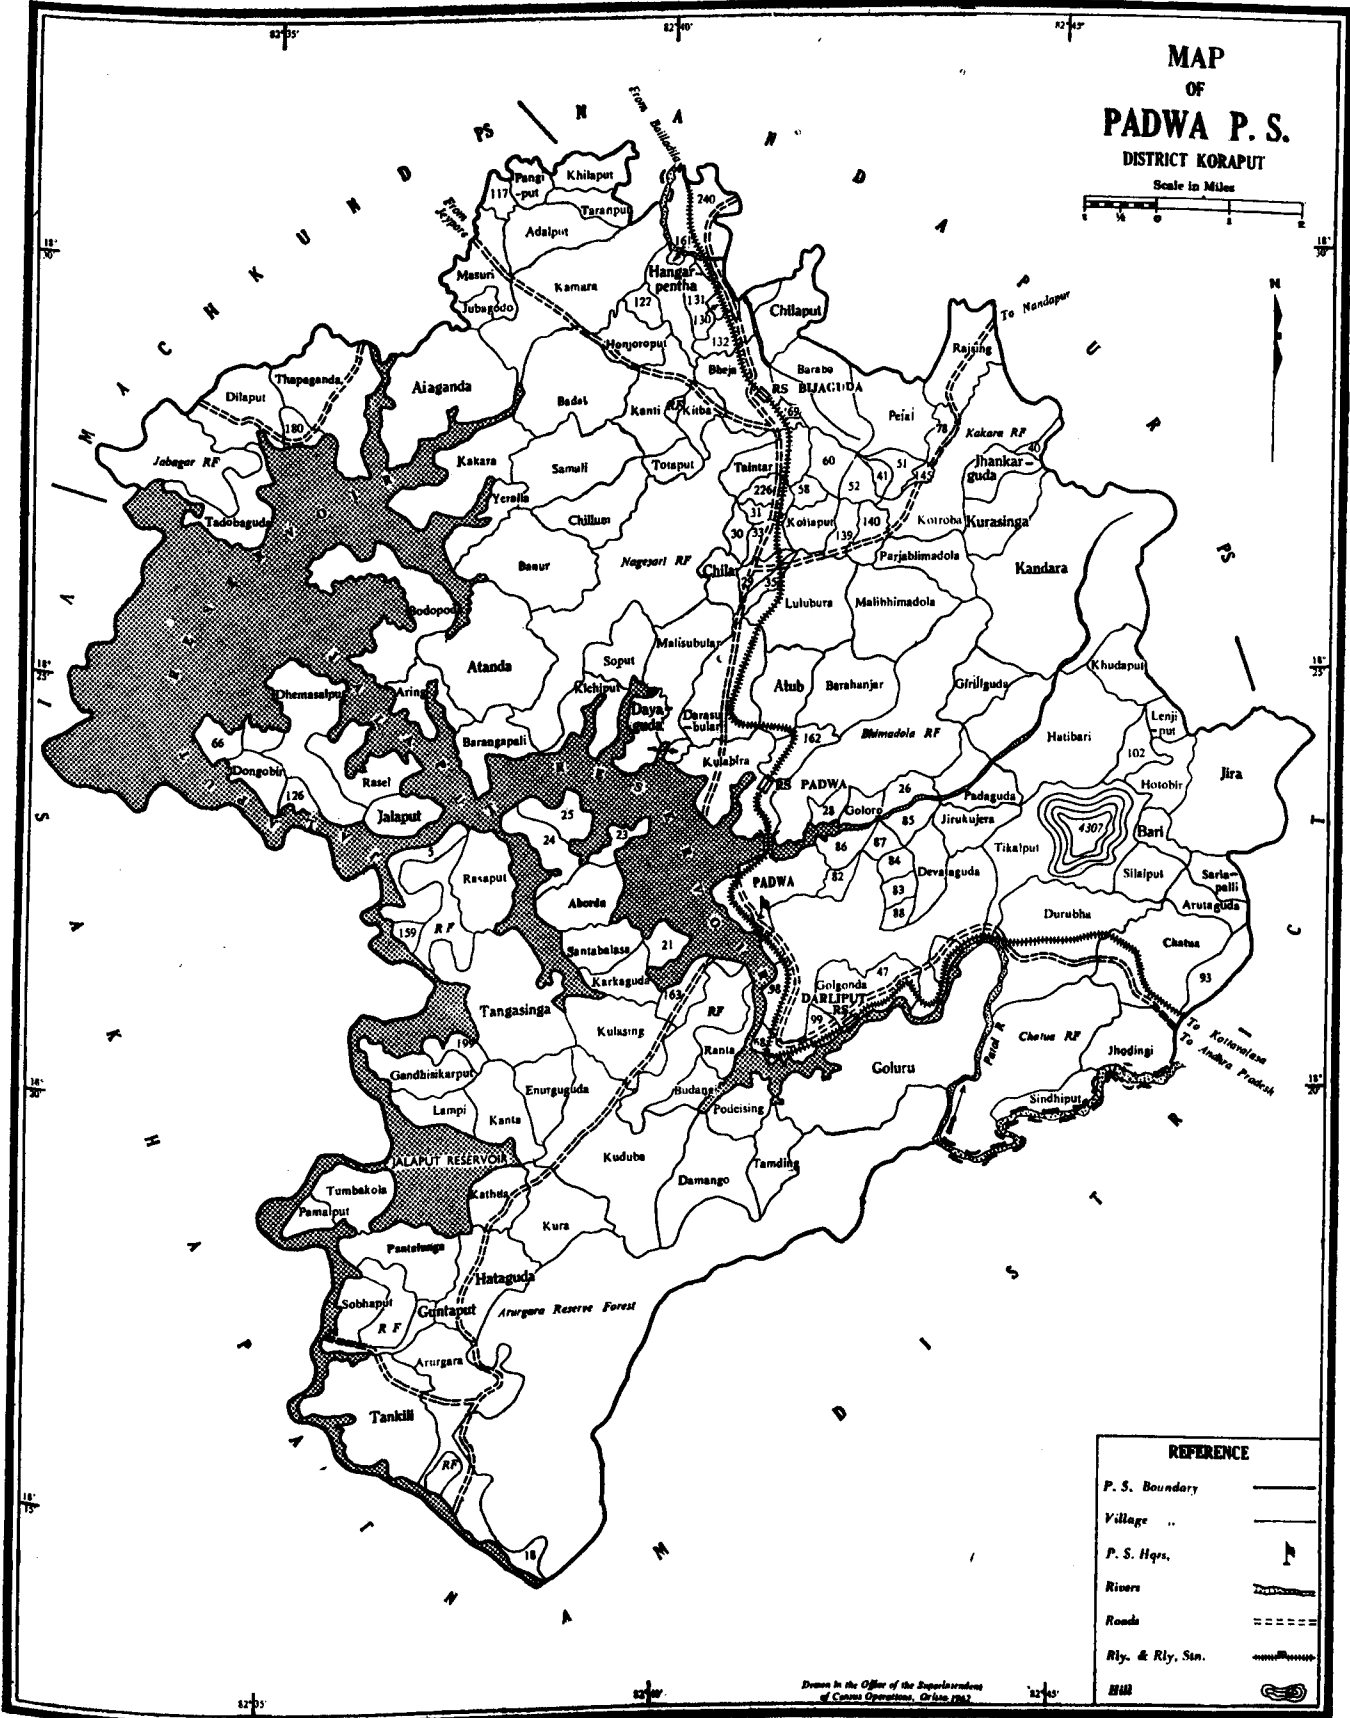

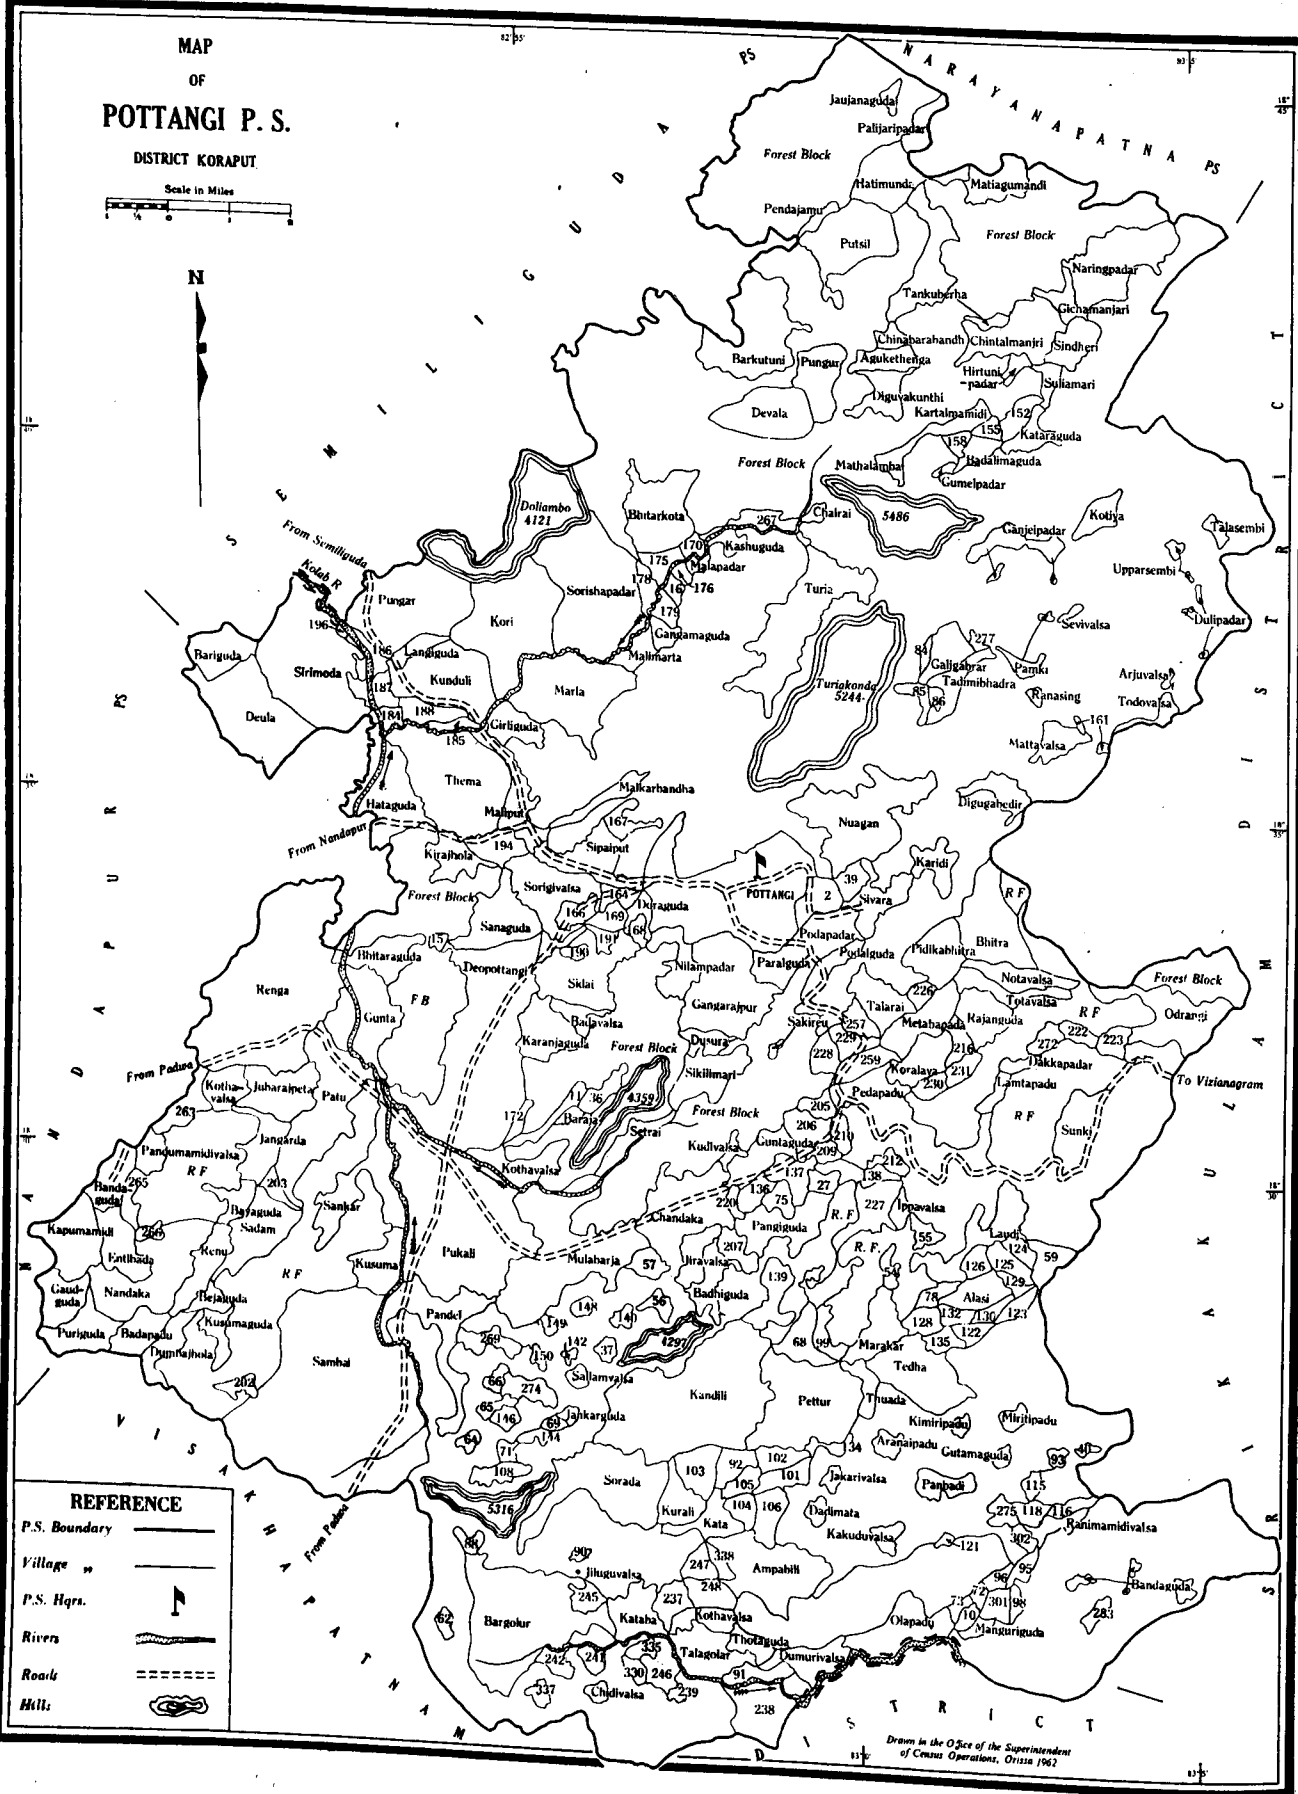

Agriculture—Out of the total area of the district comprising 6,348,160 acres, net area sown is 1,732,172 acres (27·3%), area under cultivation with current fallows is 1,776,532 acres (28%) and area under irrigation is 78,408 acres (1·2%). Rice, wheat, jowar, bajra, ragi, maize, pulses, notably red gram and a variety of oil-seeds, namely, ground-nut, rape, mustard, etc., constitute principal crops. The quantity of rice produced annually is 228,546 tons which is mostly used for internal consumption, leaving a small surplus for export each year.

KALAHANDI DISTRICT

Kalahandi district located in the south-western part of Orissa lies between 19° 3'N and 21° 5'N latitudes and between 82° 20'E and 83° 47'E longitudes. Its boundaries extend in the north to Raipur district in Madhya Pradesh and Bolangir district in Orissa, in the south to Koraput district, in the west to Koraput and Raipur districts and in the east to Koraput and Baudh-Khondmals districts.

Physiography—The district may be divided into two distinct areas, the plains and the hill tracts. The plains cover an area of nearly 2,500 sq. miles and have undulating surface with an elevation of 900 to 1,000 feet above the sea-level, being intersected here and there by hill ranges, isolated peaks and running streams. The plains of Nawapara subdivision fringed by rugged hill ranges stretch southward up to Bhawanipatna and then westward through Junagarh to Dharamgarh, running further south up to Koraput border. They form a regular valley between the hill tracts (locally called Dangarla) or south-eastern part of the district and the high hills of Koraput. The valley is highly fertile and closely cultivated being well-watered by perennial streams. The hillsides rising up precipitously from the plains are covered with dense sal forests, wantonly cleared at places for jhuming cultivation. The highest peak is Bankasamo (4,182 ft). The hills belong to the main line of the Eastern Ghats and contain extensive plateaus of about 4,000 ft in elevation with long tropical grass grown over them. They contain rich mineral deposits of manganese, graphite and bauxite. The soil for the most part is laterite although there are small patches of brown forest soil and red soil in the east and the south. The forests of the district which cover an area of 2,469 sq. miles are partly northern tropical semi-evergreen and partly dry deciduous in category. They contain mostly teak and sal. Among minor forest products, bamboo and kendu leaves are important for purposes of revenue.

Climate and rainfall—The climate in general is not salubrious and in certain tracts it is notoriously malarious. The northern plateau of Sonabeda in Nawapara subdivision has, however, cooler climate and is considered to be a suitable site for a sanatorium. But the southern hill areas of Thuamul Rampur, Kashipur and Kalrapat have unbracing climate particularly for persons not accustomed to the food and atmosphere of the country. Running streams have infected water as they contain stagnant vegetable matter. There is no meteorological observatory in this district and the climatic conditions described are based on the records of neighbouring districts. The summer season starts by about beginning of March. May is the hottest month when the mean daily maximum temperature is about 41°C and the mean daily minimum temperature is about 28°C. The temperature drops down with the onset of south-west monsoon towards the second week of June and throughout the monsoon period the weather continues to be cool. The day temperature rises slightly after withdrawal of the south-west monsoon by about first week of October while the night temperature falls down progressively. December is the coldest month recording the mean daily maximum temperature at nearly 28°C and the mean daily minimum temperature at 13°C. The average number of rainy days per year is 65, most of which occur between the middle of June and the end of September. Nearly 85 per cent of the total annual rainfall is recorded during this period. August is the wettest month of the year recording nearly 28 per cent of the total annual rainfall.

Vital Statistics—Collection of Vital Statistics began in this district from the 1st January, 1952. During nine years from 1952 to 1960, births outnumbered deaths by 91,908 (44,702 males and 47,206 females). The birth and death rates during this period work out to 30.2 and 19.6 per mille respectively. Infant deaths numbered 33,053 against total birth of 262,118 and constitute 19.42 per cent of total deaths. Deaths among children up to the age of 5 years is appalling, being 37.71 per cent of total deaths. Fever, notably malaria, accounts for the majority of deaths in the district.

Area and population of administrative units—The district extends over an area of 5,057 sq. miles or 13,097.6 sq. kms. and contains a population of 10.09 lakhs. It is divided into 3 subdivisions and 17 police stations. The area and population of each such administrative unit is given below:

Towns—The district has three towns, namely, Bhawanipatna, the headquarters of the district (population 14,300), Khariar Road (population 6,400) and Khariar (population 7,873).

Growth of population (1901-61)—The population of the district grew from 478,742 in 1901 to 1,009,654 in 1961, an increase of 110.9 per cent during 60 years. There was no decrease of population in any of the decades. The decade 1911-21 with a nominal growth of 1.8 per cent has, however, the lowest record. The decades 1901-11, 1921-31, 1931-41 and 1951-61 have registered substantial growth with varying rates, viz., 20.3 per cent, 19.1 per cent, 13.8 per cent and 17.6 per cent respectively.

Trend of migration—The migrants to the district constitute 5.6 per cent of the total population, out of which 1.5 per cent are born outside the State. The number of migrants from other districts of the State as well as from outside the State are given below. Among the latter group of migrants, a large majority originate from Madhya Pradesh, Punjab, Andhra Pradesh, Bihar and Maharashtra:

	Persons	Males	Females	Per-centage
1. Population of the district	1,009,654	499,646	510,008	100
2. Born in the district	951,895	480,400	471,495	94.3

5. Born outside India (but in Asia)	233	143	90	Negligible
6. Others including unclassifiable	835	546	289	0.1

Economic classification—The population may be divided broadly into two sections, non-workers and workers and the workers subdivided into nine industrial categories as mentioned below:

Section or category	Persons	Males	Females
1. Non-workers	550,686	184,379	366,307
2. Workers	458,968	315,267	143,701

Scheduled Tribes—There are 31 Scheduled Tribes with a population 335,134 living in the district and constituting a little over 33 per cent of the total population. The principal tribes are Kond (146,553), Gond (104,405), Shabar (38,060), Paroja (16,410), Munda (9,079), Binjhal (4,368), Bhuiya (2,108), Bhunjia (1,992), Banjar (1,933), Dal (1,875), Saora (1,543), Mirdha (1,268), Gadaba (1,188) and Bhattada (1,125). The district is considered to be the homeland of Banjaras, Bhunjias and Gonds. Literacy is poor, being confined to 5.7 per cent. Principal economic activity is cultivation and agricultural labour.

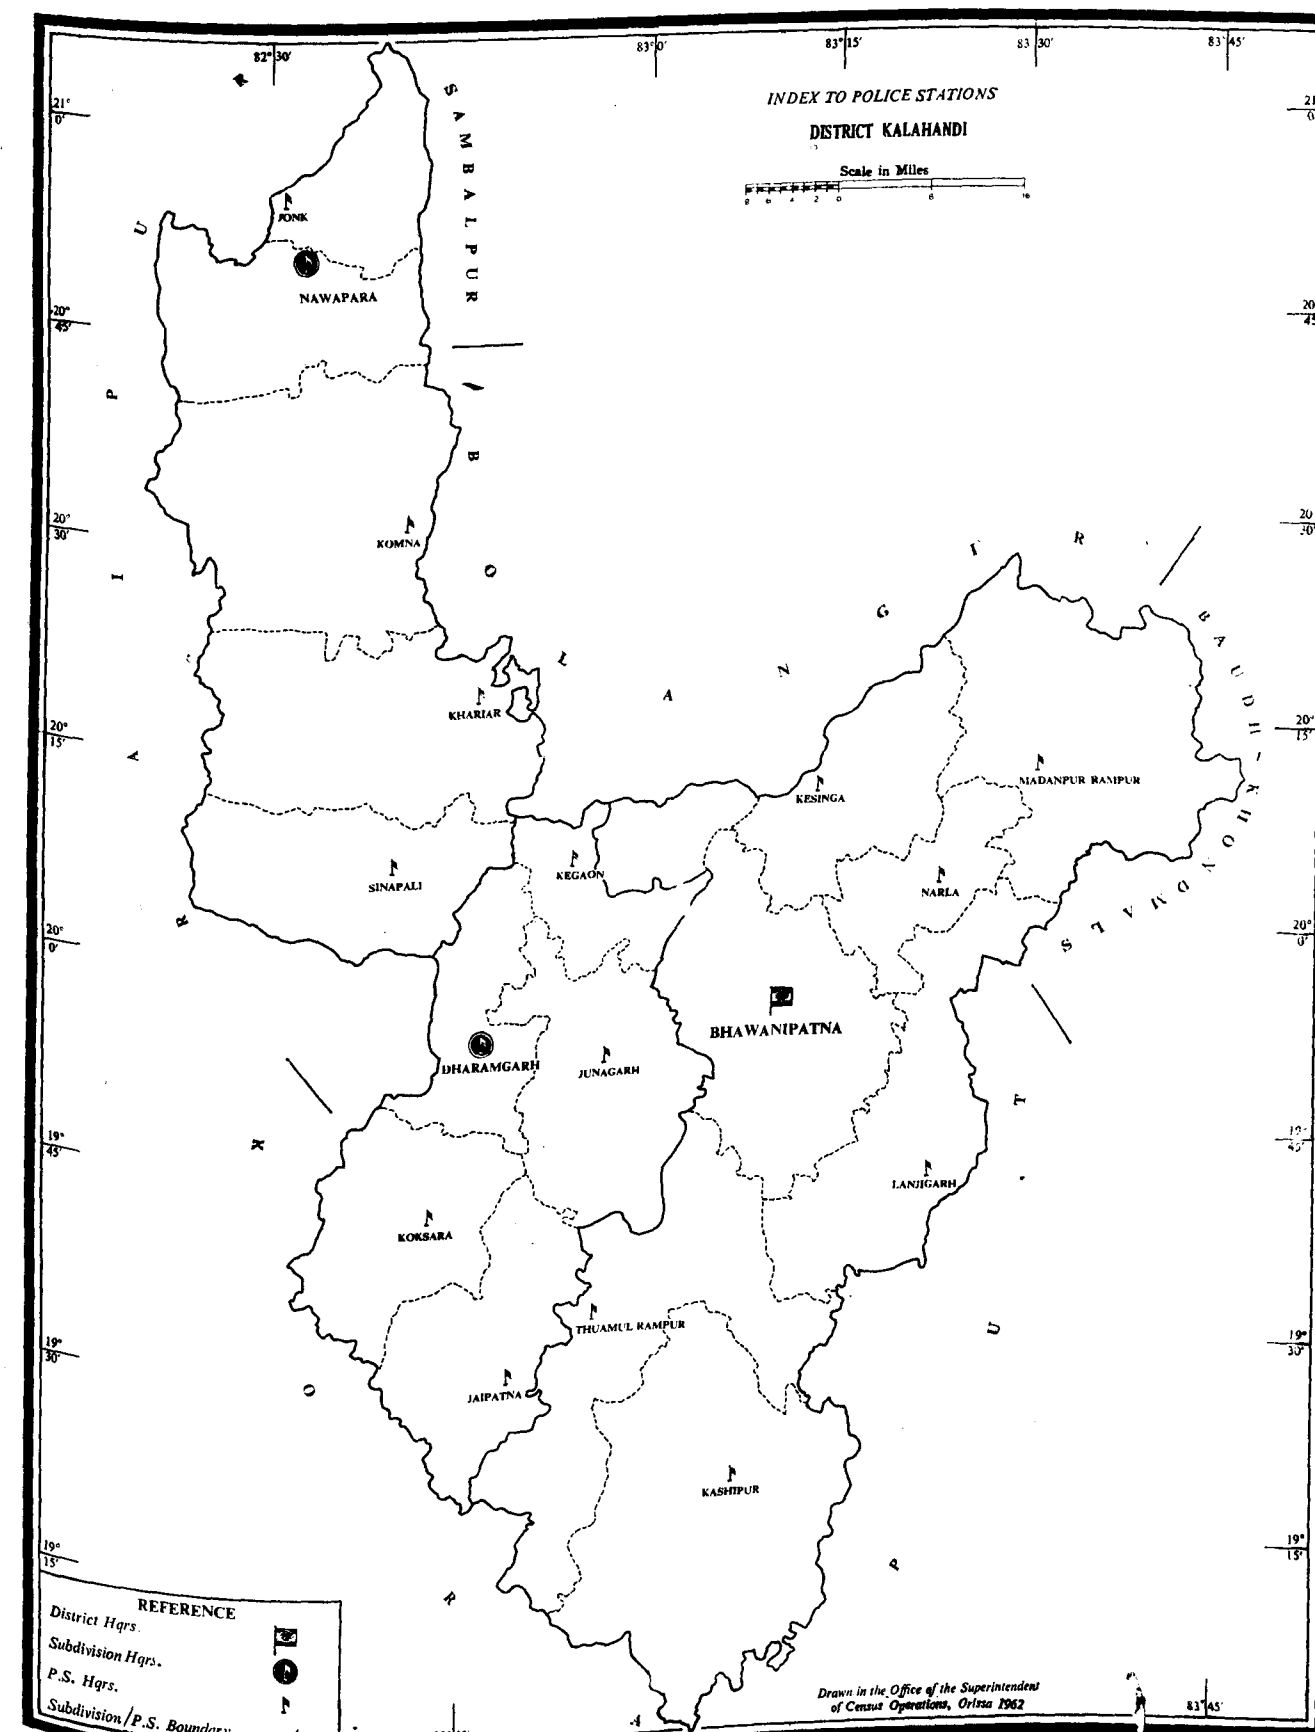

Scheduled Castes—The population of Scheduled Castes in the district is 190,520 which is 18.8 per cent of the total population. It comprises 43 castes, the most numerous being Dom (143,968), Ganda (25,675), Chamar (4,555), Ghasi (4,229), Mahar (2,478) and Dhoba (2,347). Literacy is confined to 7.2 per cent. Cultivation and agricultural labour provide livelihood to the largest section of the population, although household industry and 'other services' are also popular.

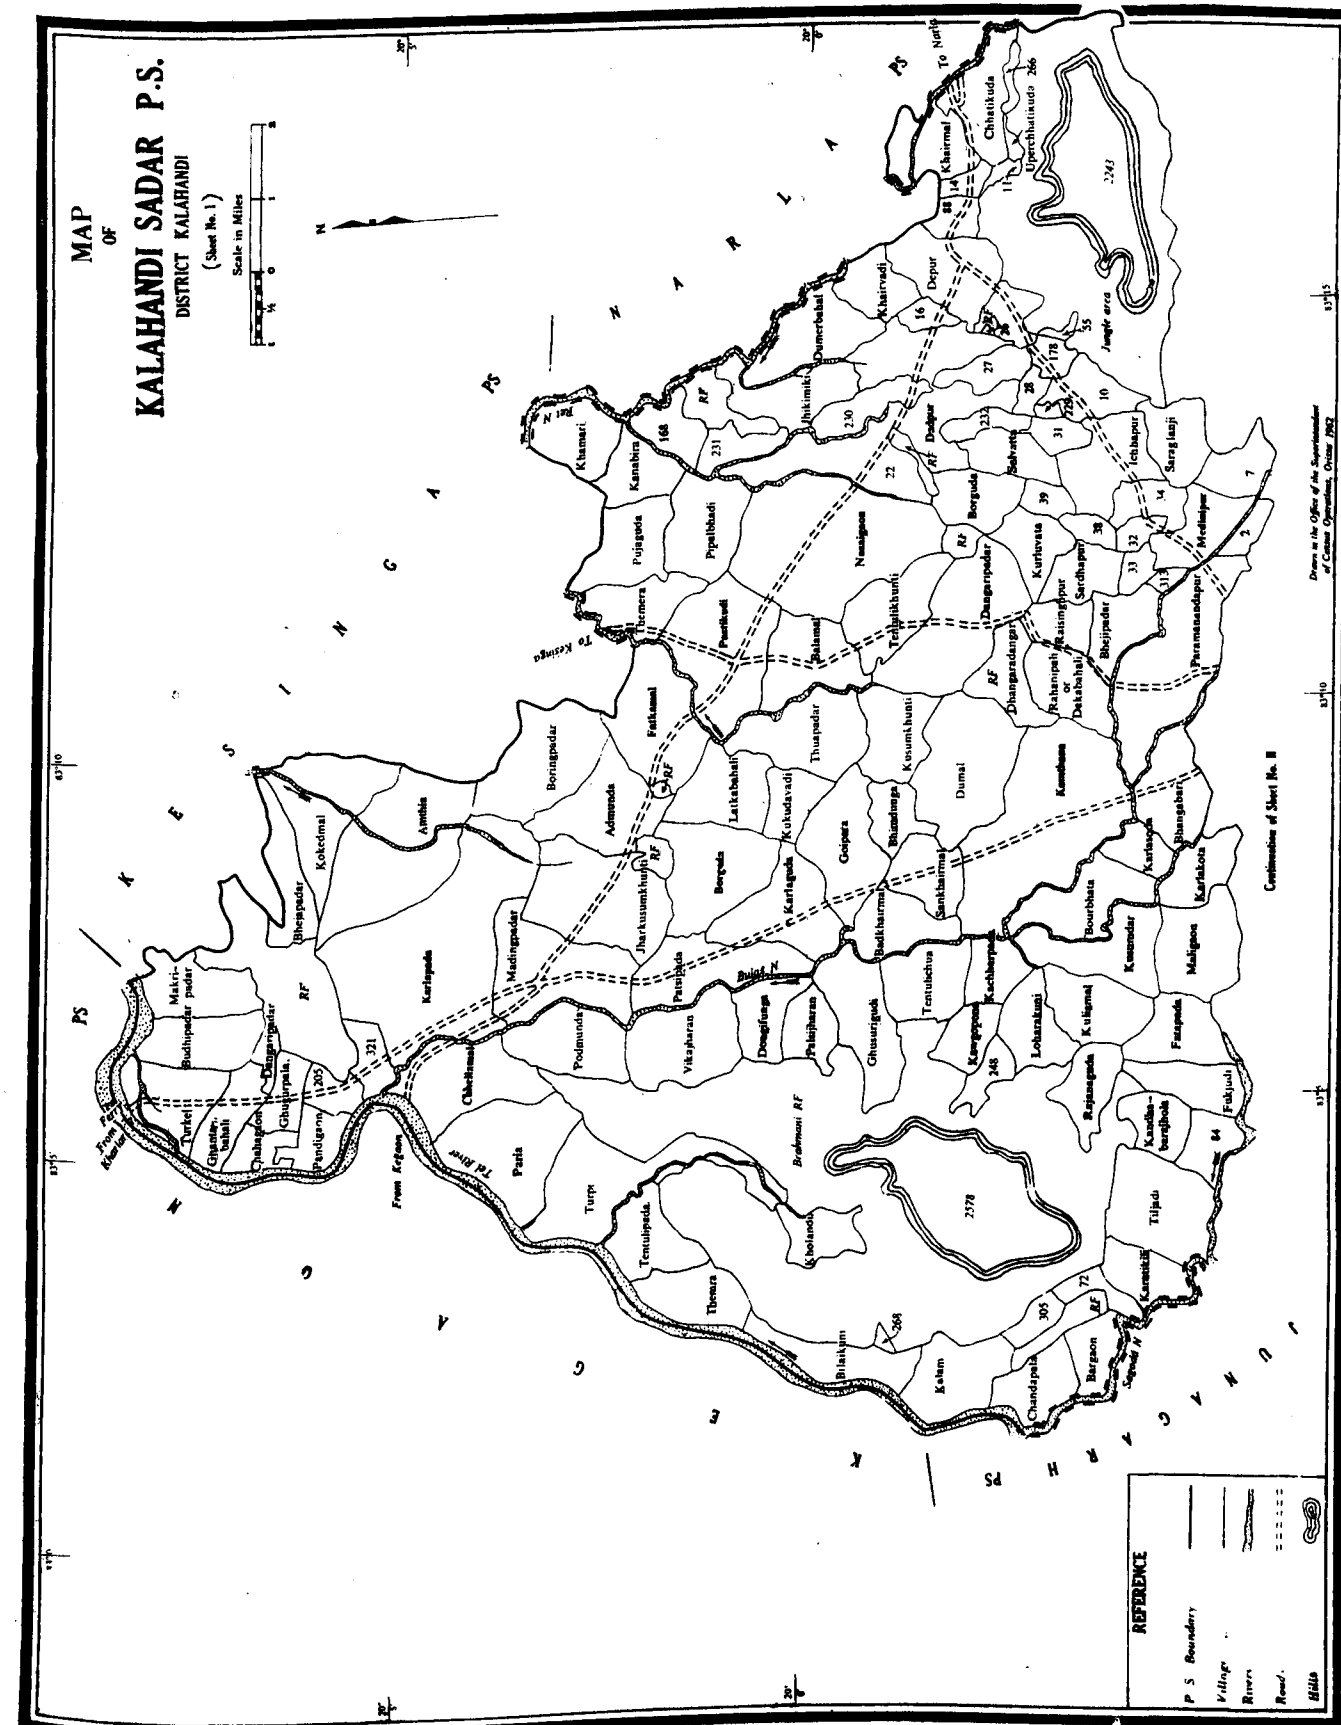

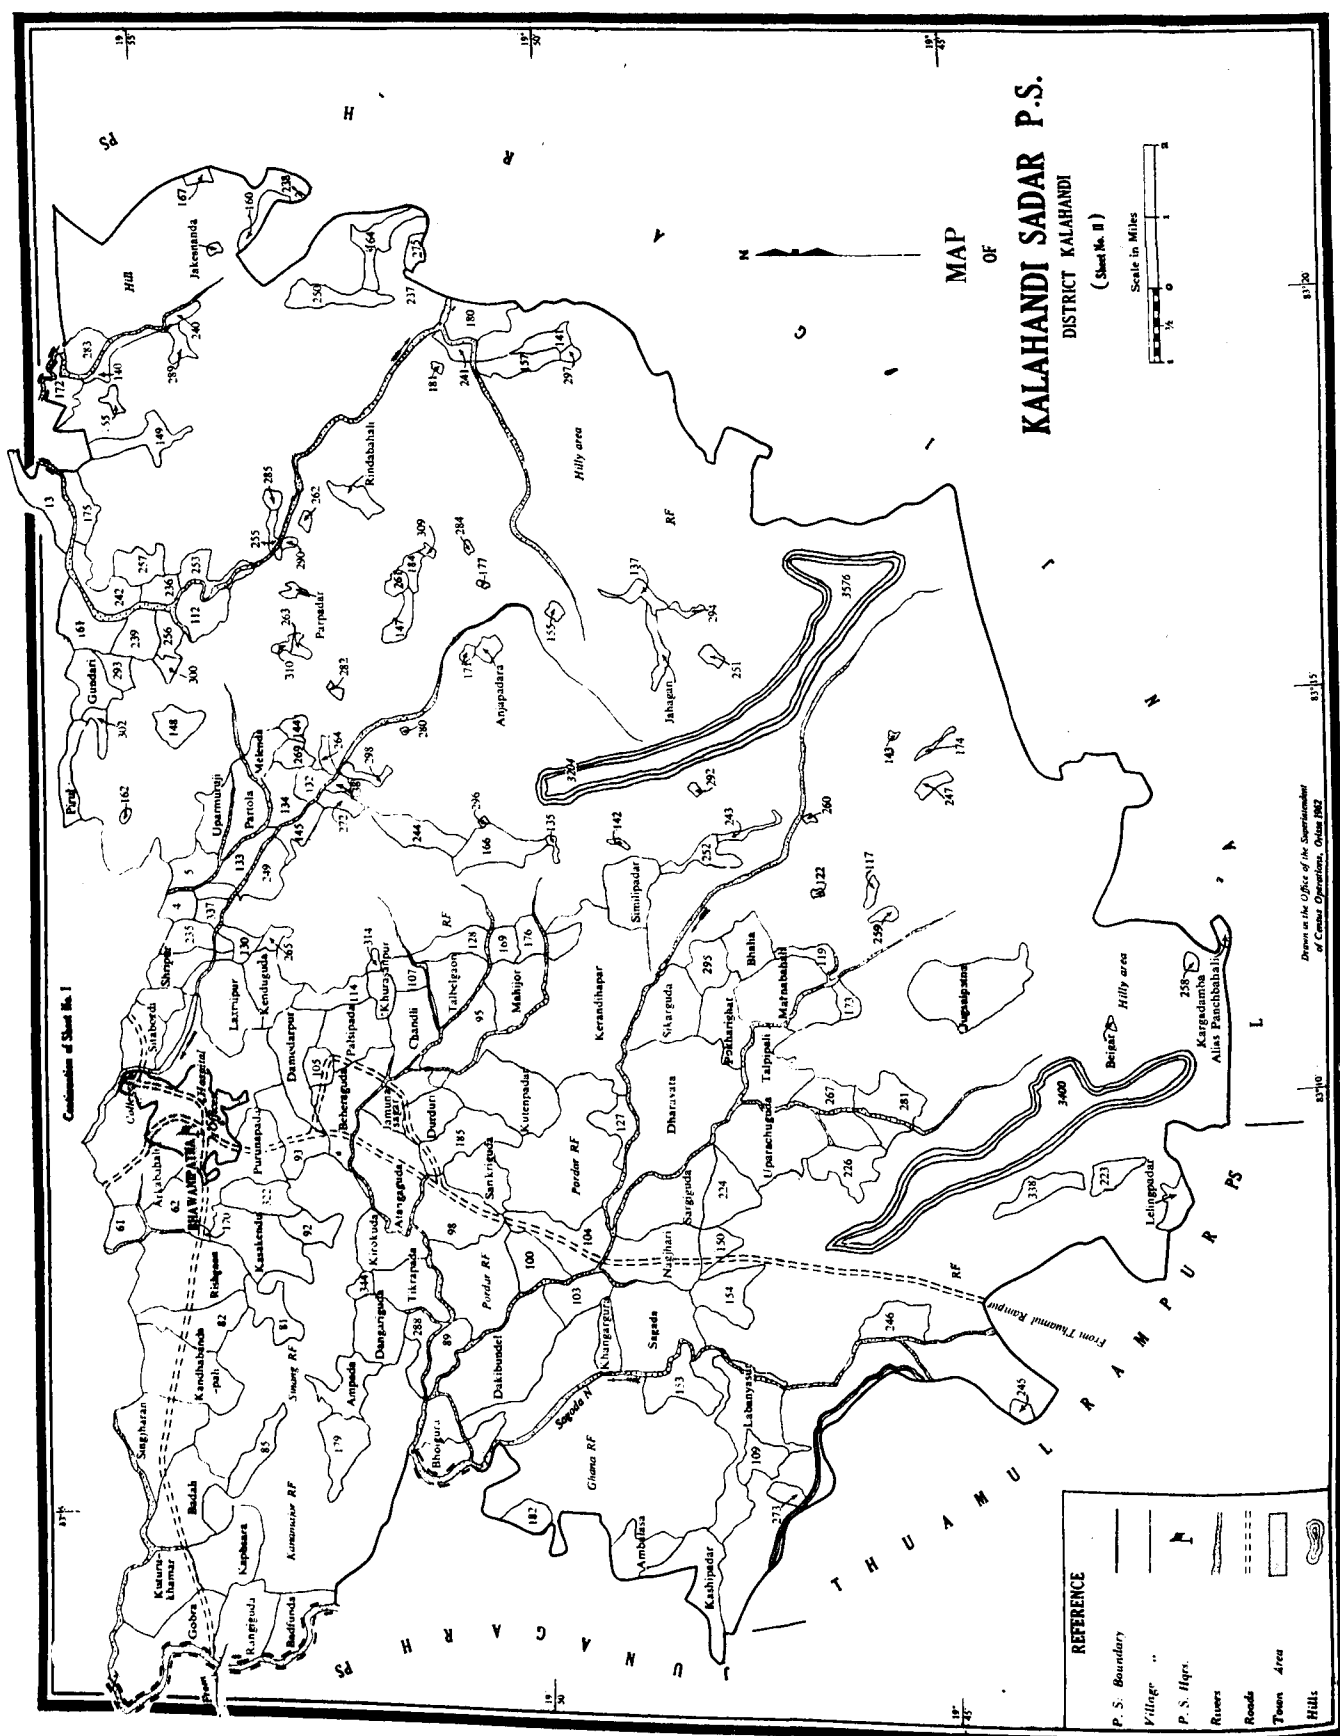

Literacy—About 11 per cent or 111,622 persons, out of the total population of 1,009,654 are literates. Among the males the literacy has gone up to 19.6 per cent and among the females to 2.7 per cent. In 1951 literacy was much lower, namely, 6.3 per cent. There are 916 Primary Schools, 40 M.E. Schools, 5 High Schools in the district.

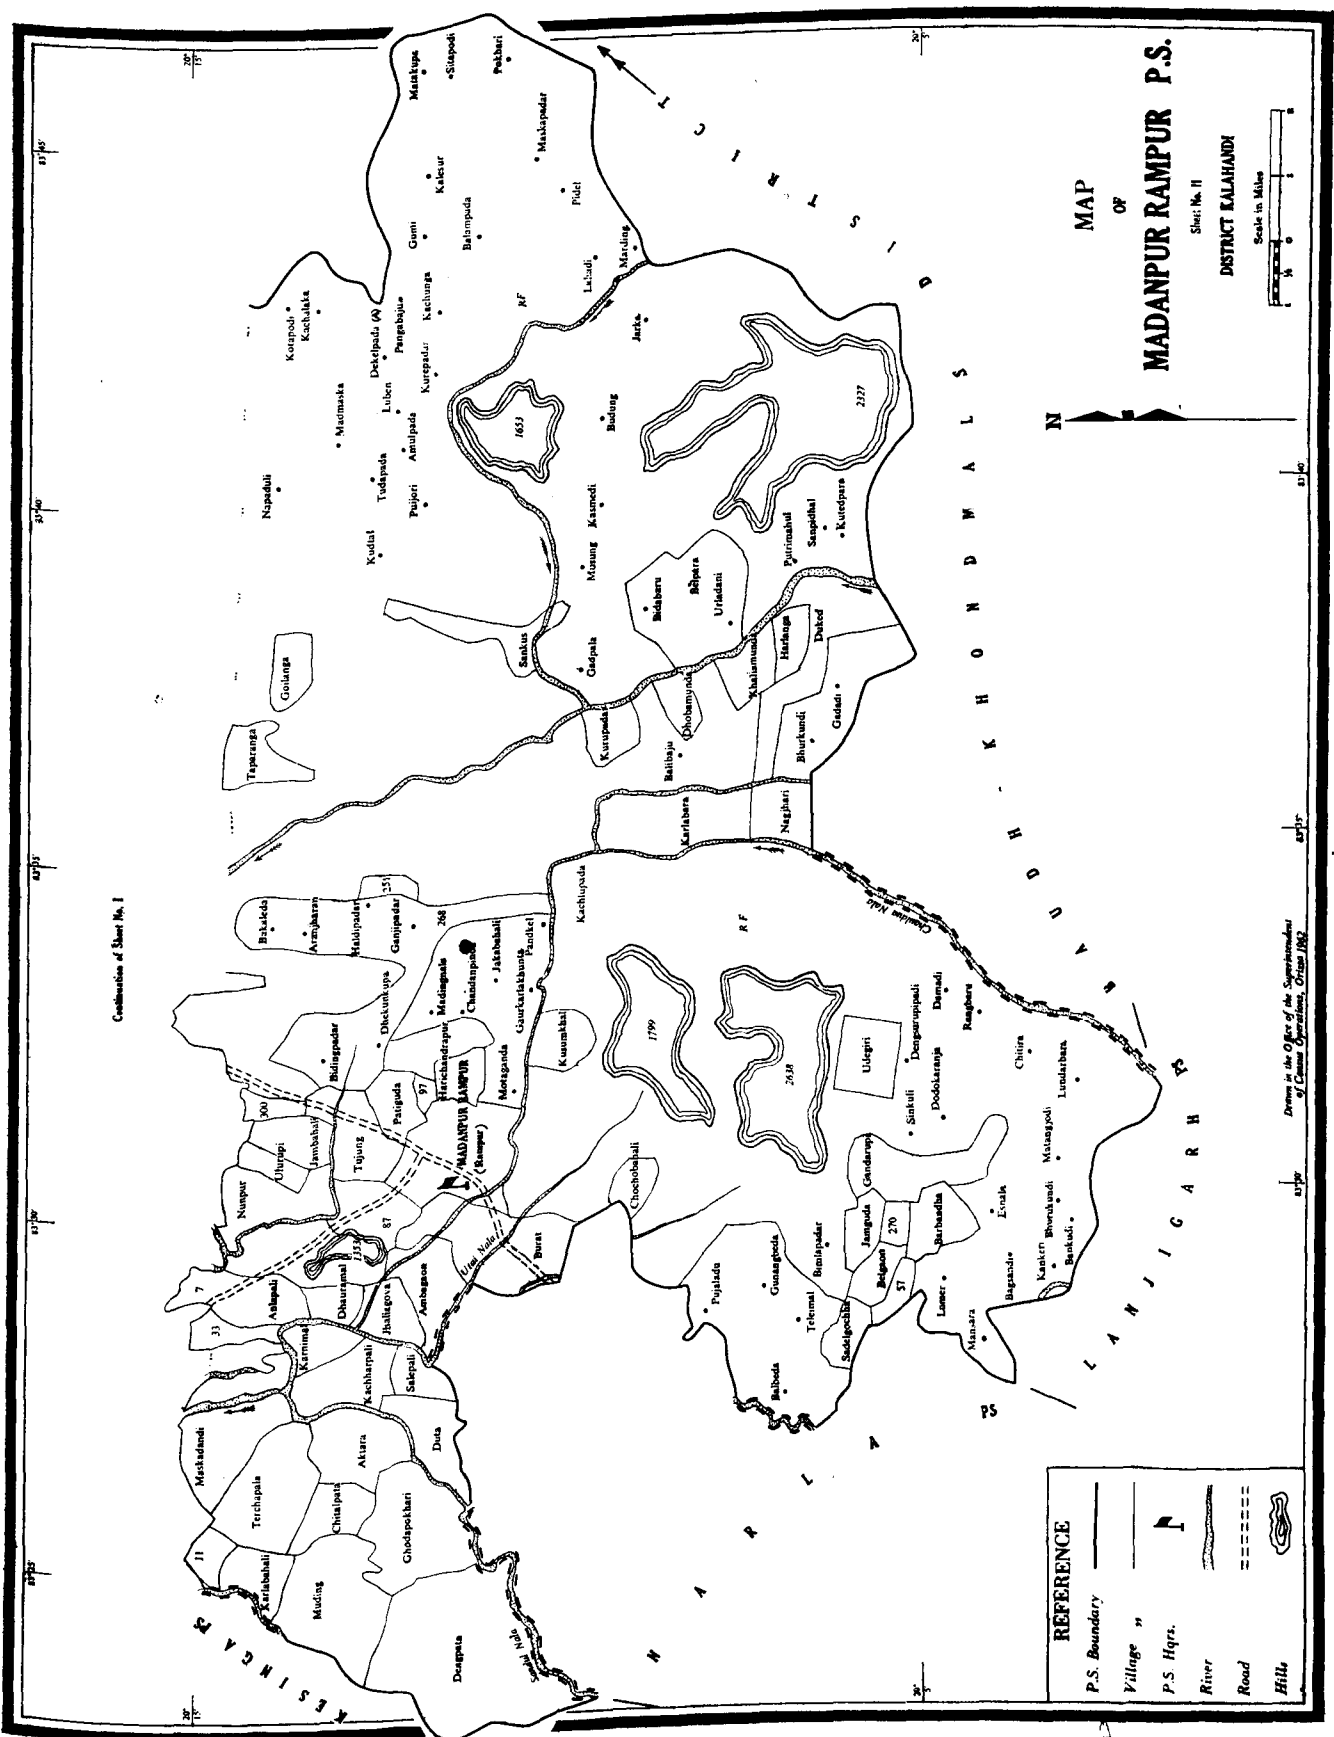

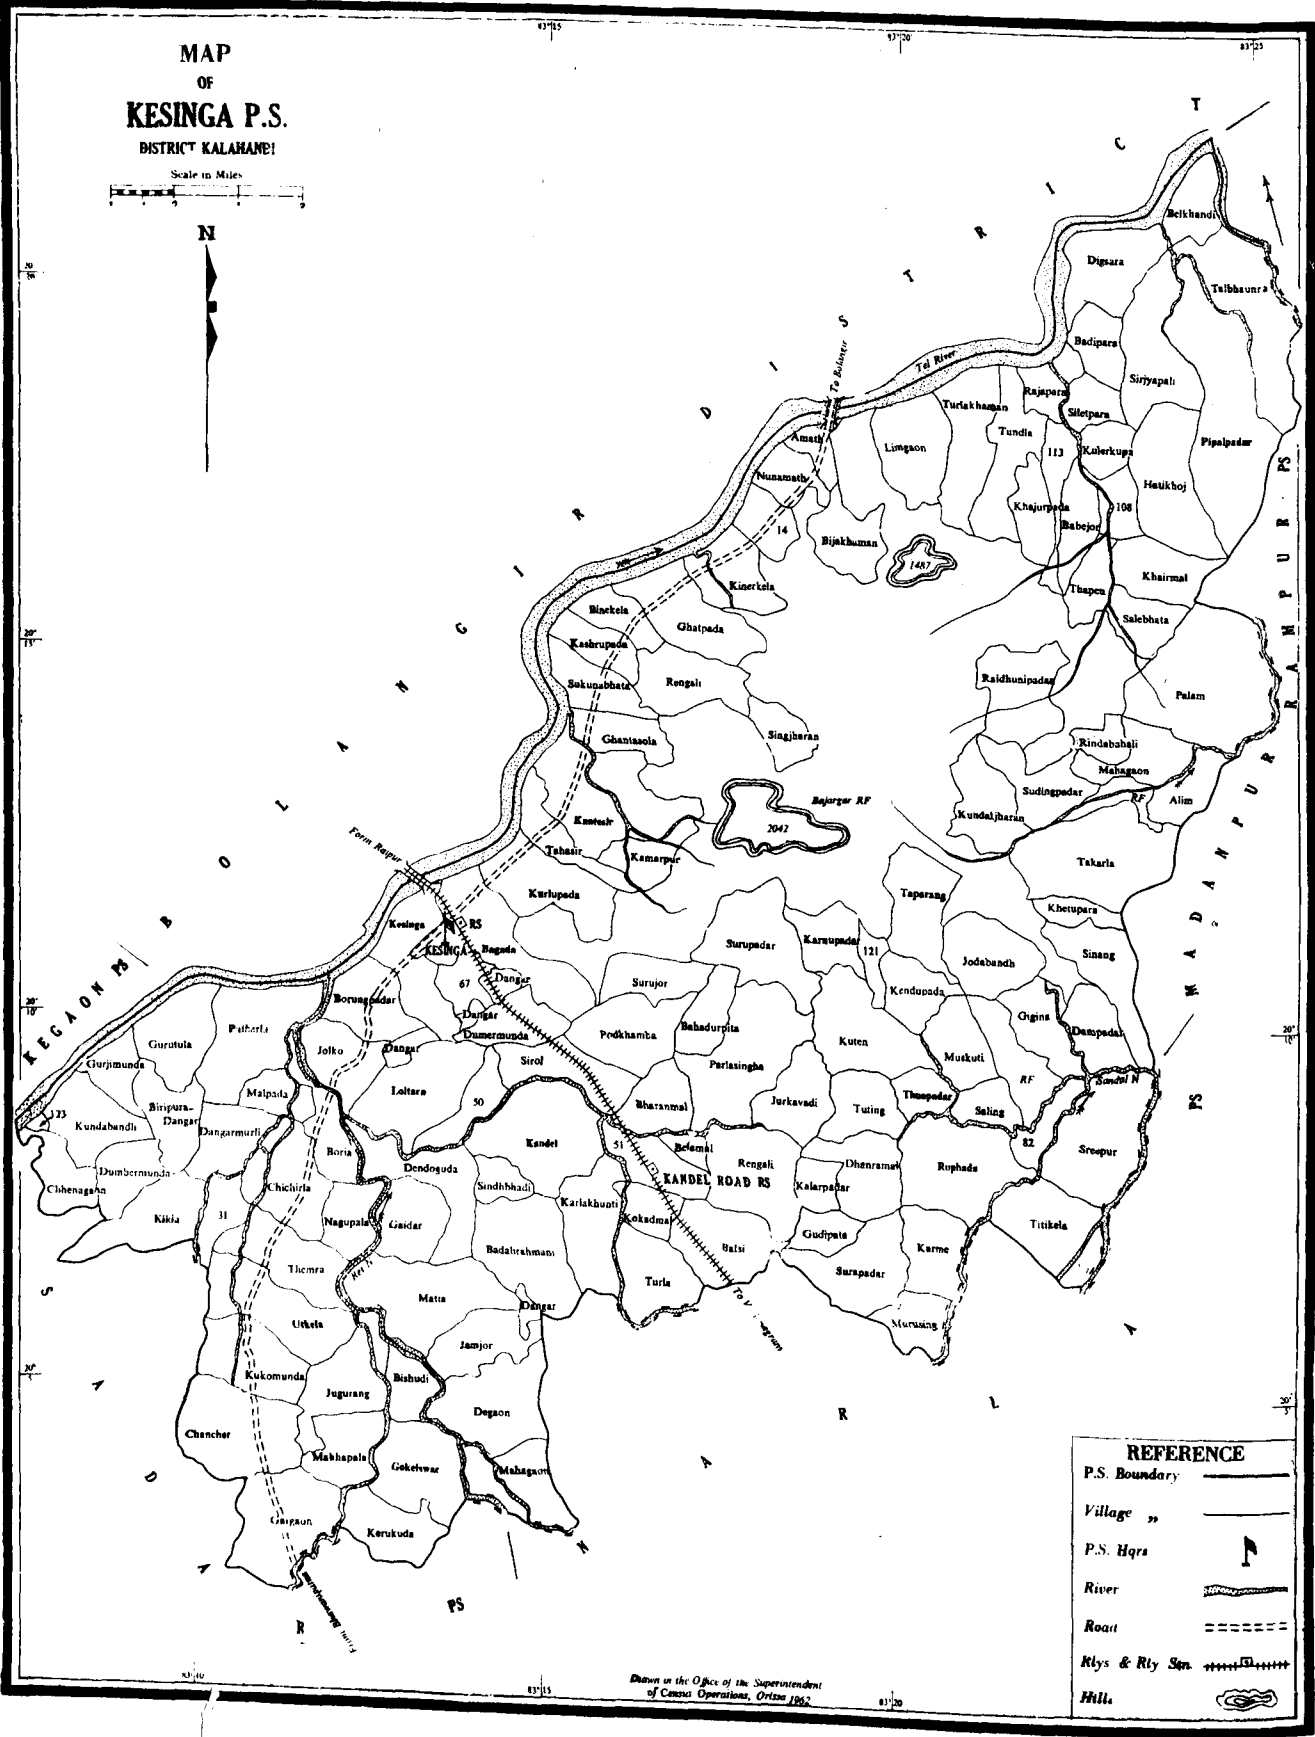

Industry—The number of industrial establishments including those of the lowest scale, namely, household industries are 10,172 in the district. Classified according to the list in the I. S. I. C. Scheme, there are 46 kinds of industries. The statement below gives a list of industries which are most extensively found in the district:

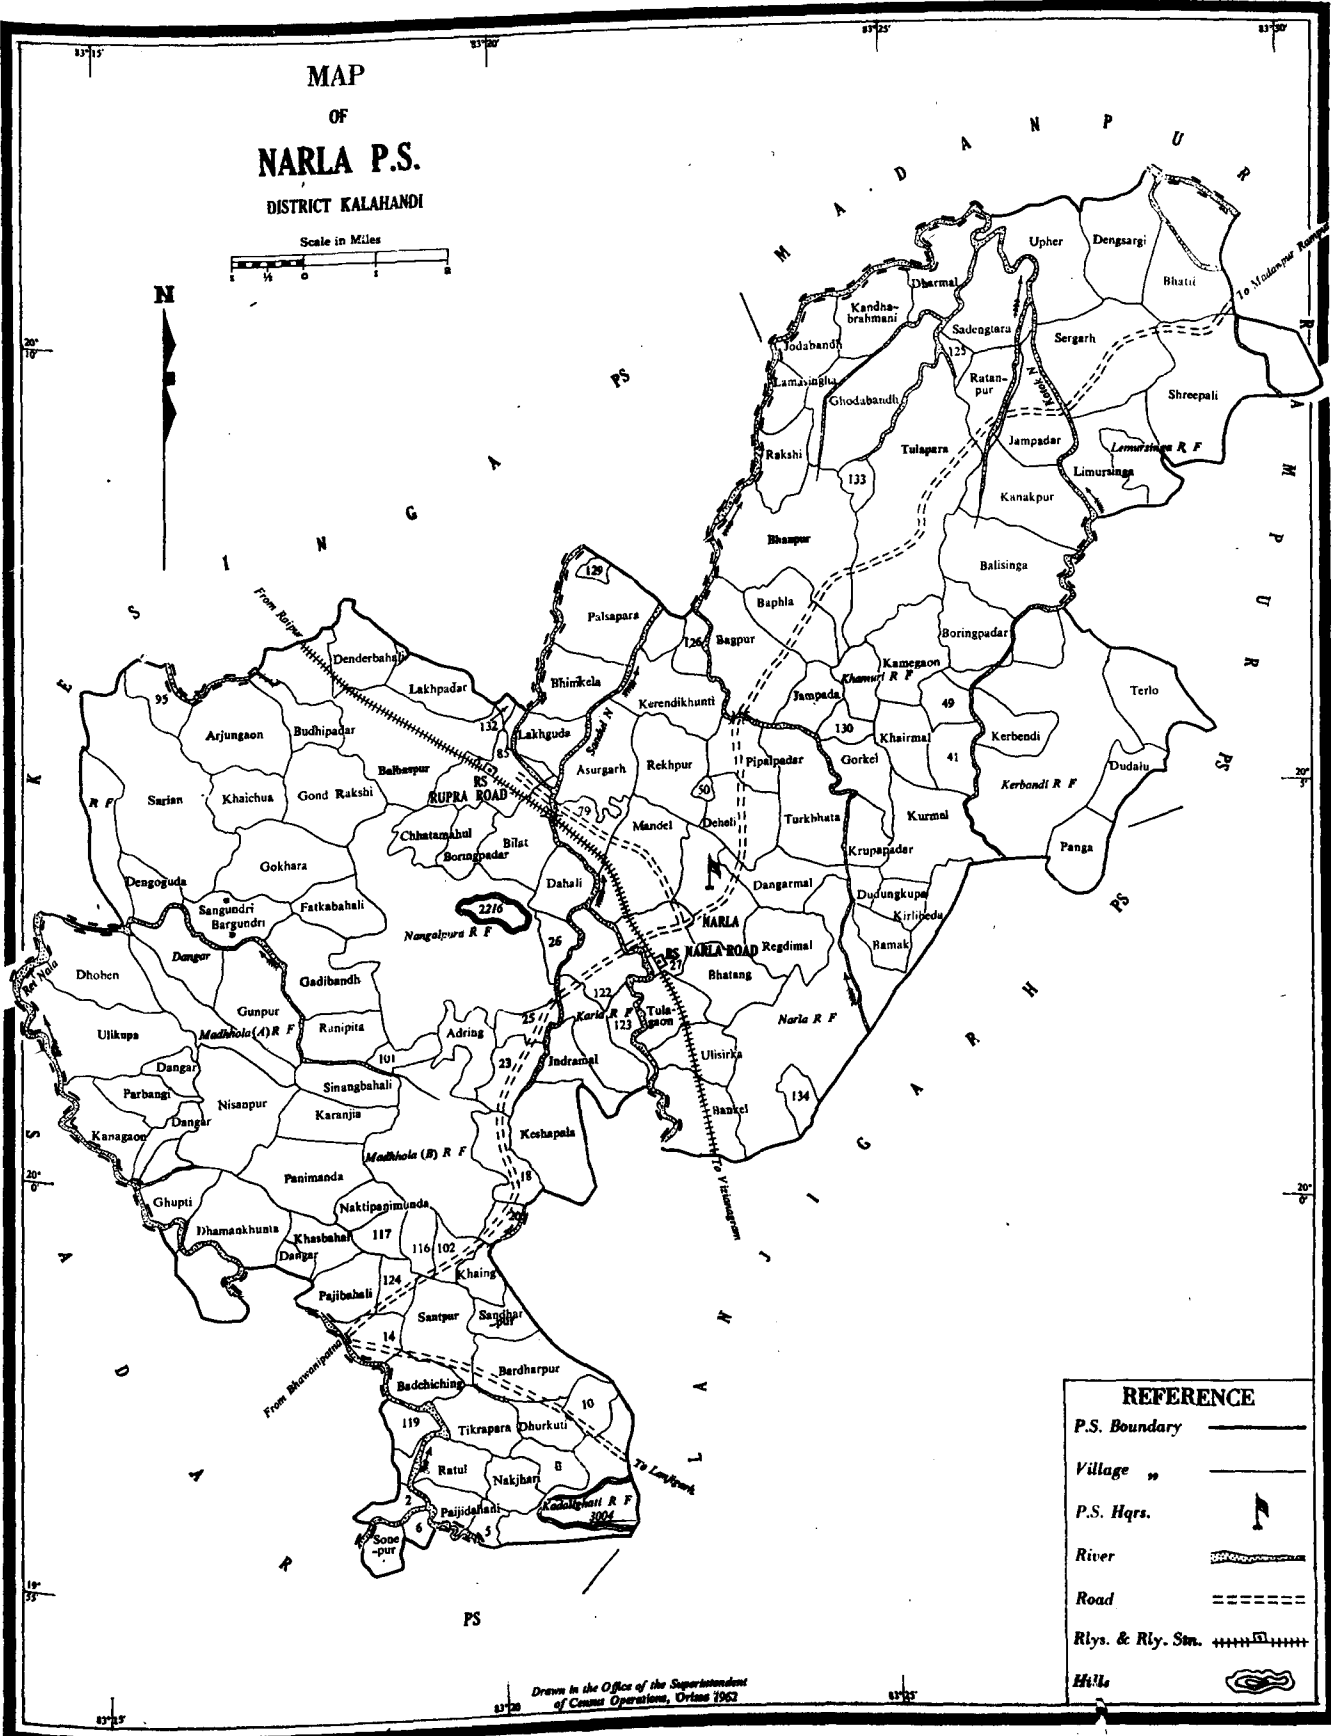

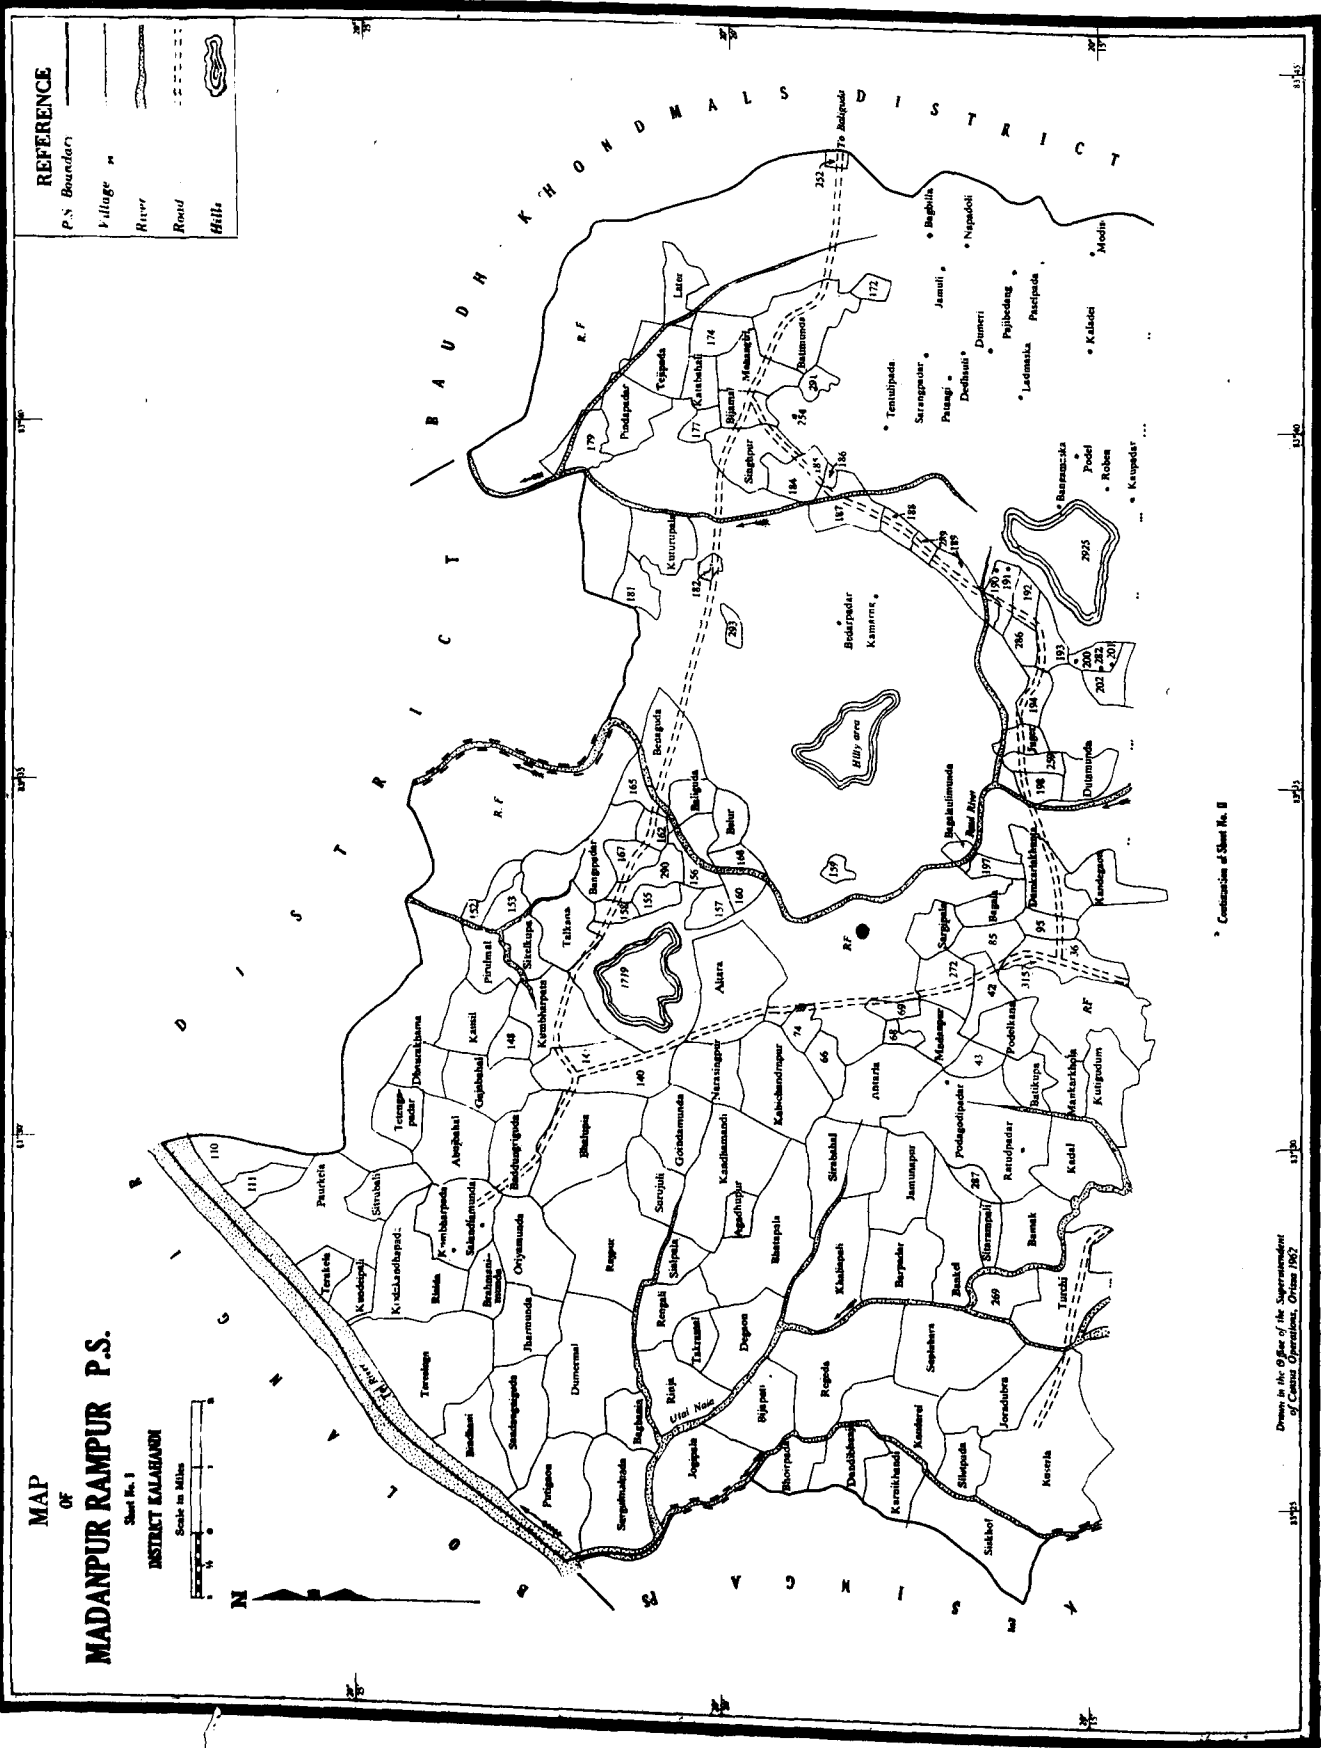

Name of industry	Total no. of establishments	No. of persons engaged
Cotton weaving in handlooms	3,648	11,406
Manufacture of earthenwares and earthen potteries	1,719	5,420
Manufacture of materials from cork, bamboo, cane, leaves, etc.	1,229	3,990
Manufacture of sundry hardwares	1,058	3,542
Manufacture of structural wooden goods, such as, beams, posts, doors, windows	521	1,192
Production of edible fats and oils (other than hydrogenated oil)	506	1,435
Manufacture of jewellery and wares using gold and other precious metals	391	865
Manufacture of structural clay products, such as, bricks, tiles	142	426

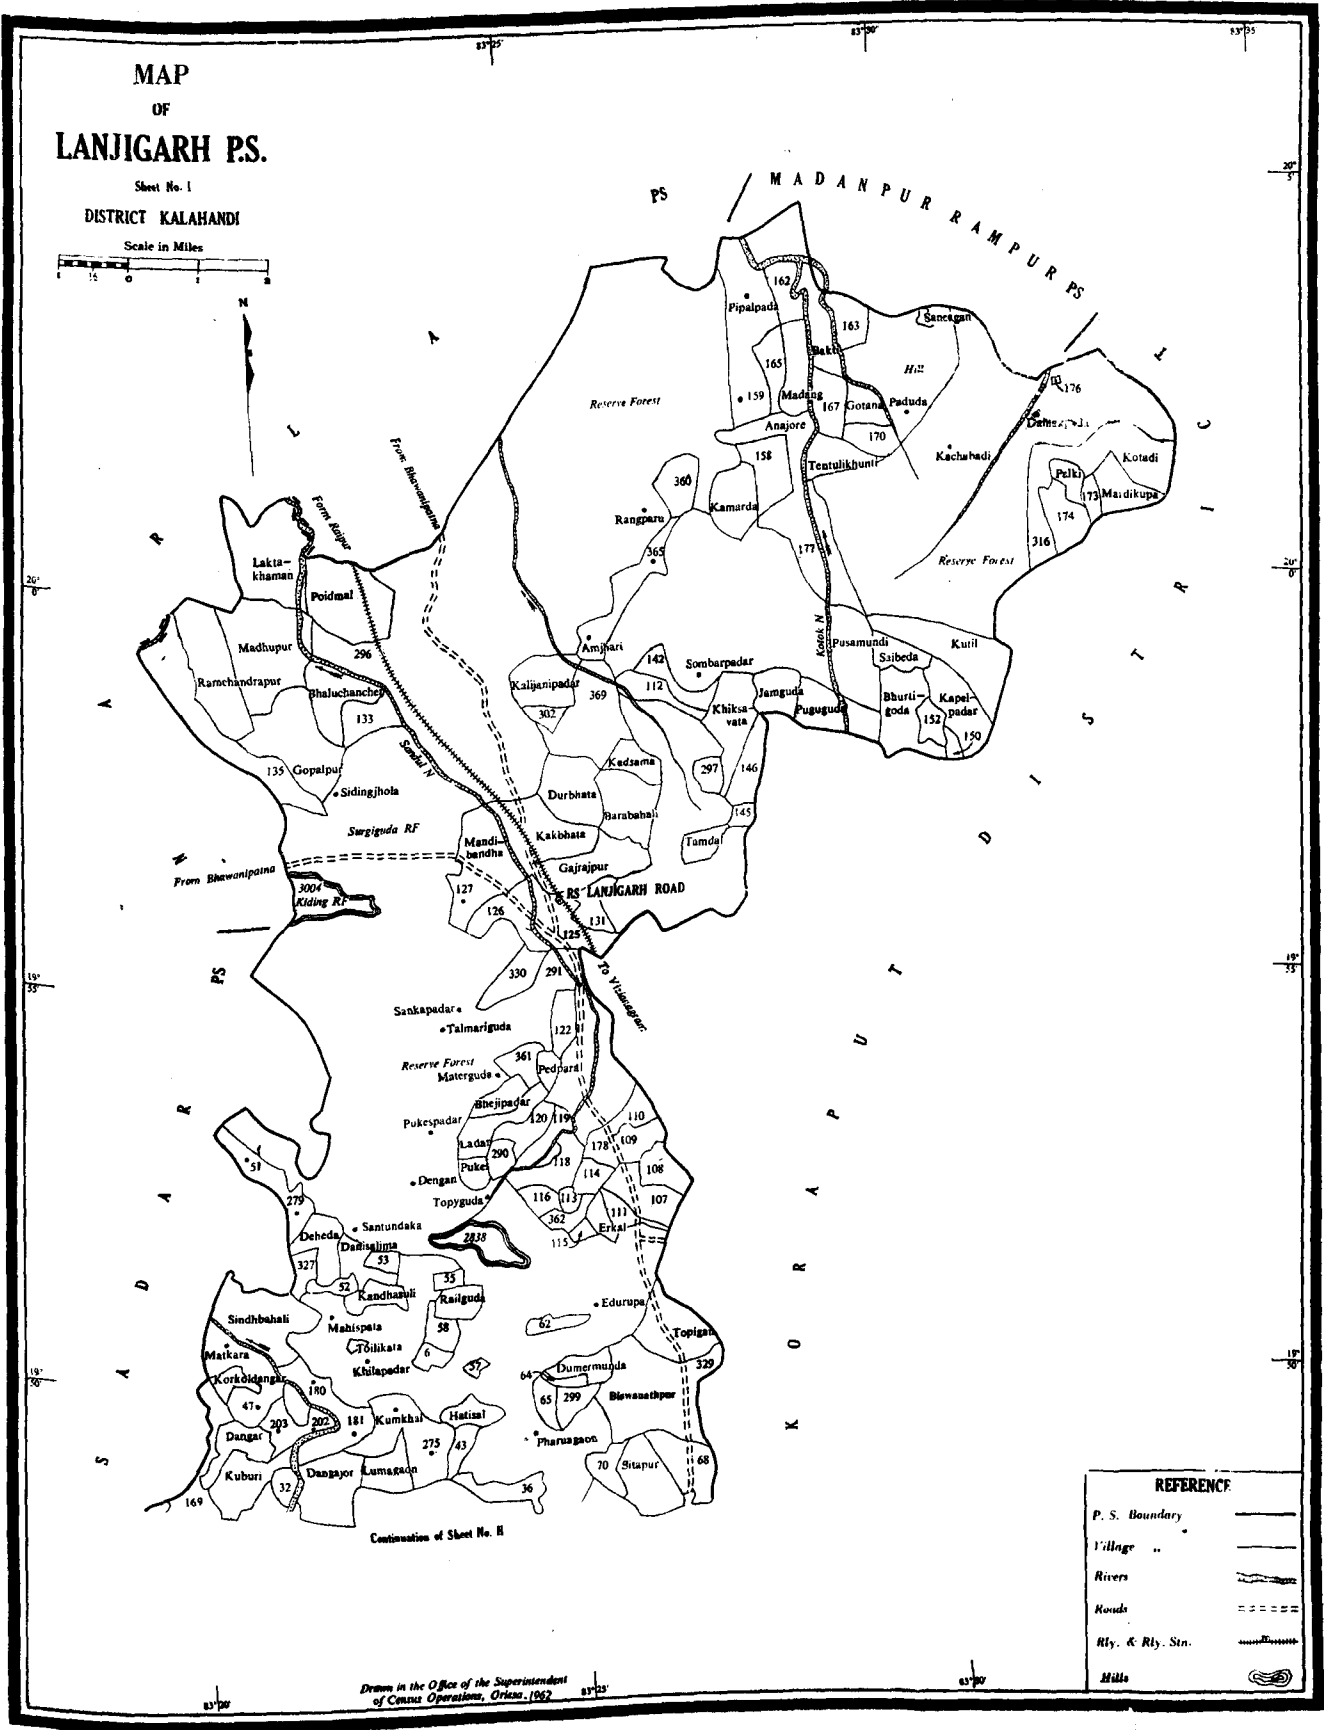

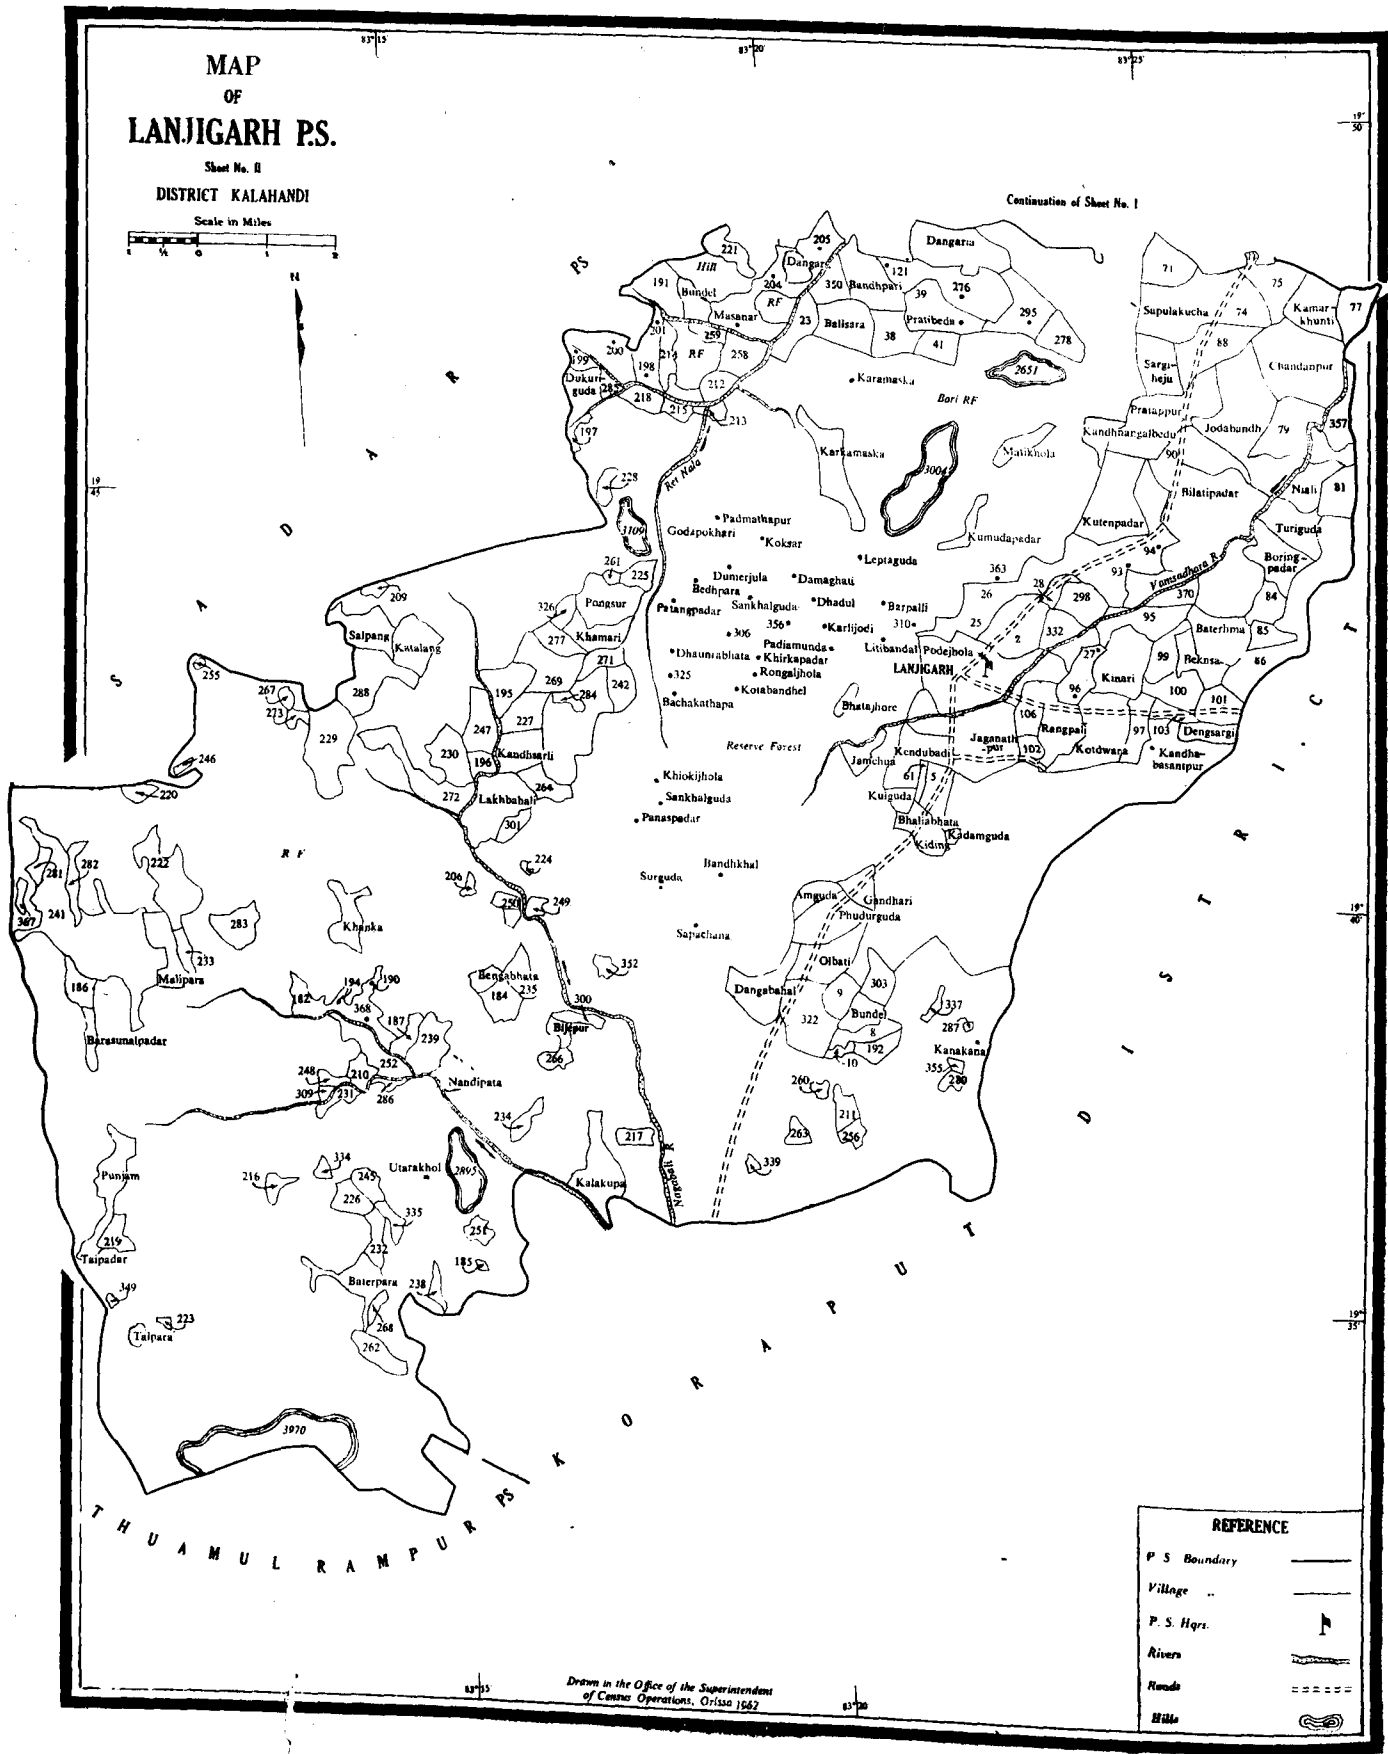

Agriculture—Out of the total area of the district comprising 3,236,480 acres, net area sown is 1,286,096 acres (40%) and area under irrigation is 1,28,000 acres (4%). Rice and varieties of oil-seeds constitute principal crops. The quantity of rice produced annually is 1,28,314 tons, which is mostly used for internal consumption leaving a small surplus in good harvest years for export.

SAMBALPUR DISTRICT

Sambalpur district situated in the north-western part of Orissa lies between 20° 43'N and 22° 11'N latitudes and between 82° 39'E and 85° 13'E longitudes. Its boundaries extend in the north to Sundargarh district, in the south to Bolangir, in the west to Raipur and Raigarh districts of Madhya Pradesh and in the east to Dhenkanal district.

Physiography—The district divides itself into three prominent natural tracts. Firstly, there is the flat open country in the south-west covering the greater part of Bargarh subdivision. It is reputed as the granary of northern Orissa, as the soil is highly fertile and the area is well served by a network of canals from the Hirakud Dam, resulting in close and profitable cultivation. The country is well drained by two large tributaries of the Mahanadi, namely, Danta and Jira. The jungle has been mostly cleared, leading to denudation over many localities. Yet the landscape is beautiful, as groves and orchards fringe the village sites. The second natural region is the undulating submontane tract with isolated hills to be commonly seen rising abruptly from the plains and with rocky ridges here and there and deep ravines cut by drainage channels. There is a perceptible slope falling from nearly 700 feet on the north to 479 feet at Sambalpur town. In Rairakhol subdivision, there are a series of low hills covered with forests and scrub jungles. The region has good cultivation, but in restricted areas only, namely, along the valleys of Mahanadi, Ib, Champali and Tikkira as well as to the east of the Sambalpur-Jharsuguda road. The third natural region is the tableland with rugged ranges of hills on the north and the east, traversed by hill streams running in confusion in all directions. In the eastern sector the plateau rises in Deogarh subdivision to an elevation of 2,000 feet, with sudden and precipitous descent, while in the north the Barapahar range (literally a chain of twelve hills) attains a height of 2,300 feet in a compact block of 16 sq. miles, throwing out a 30-mile long spur to the south-west.

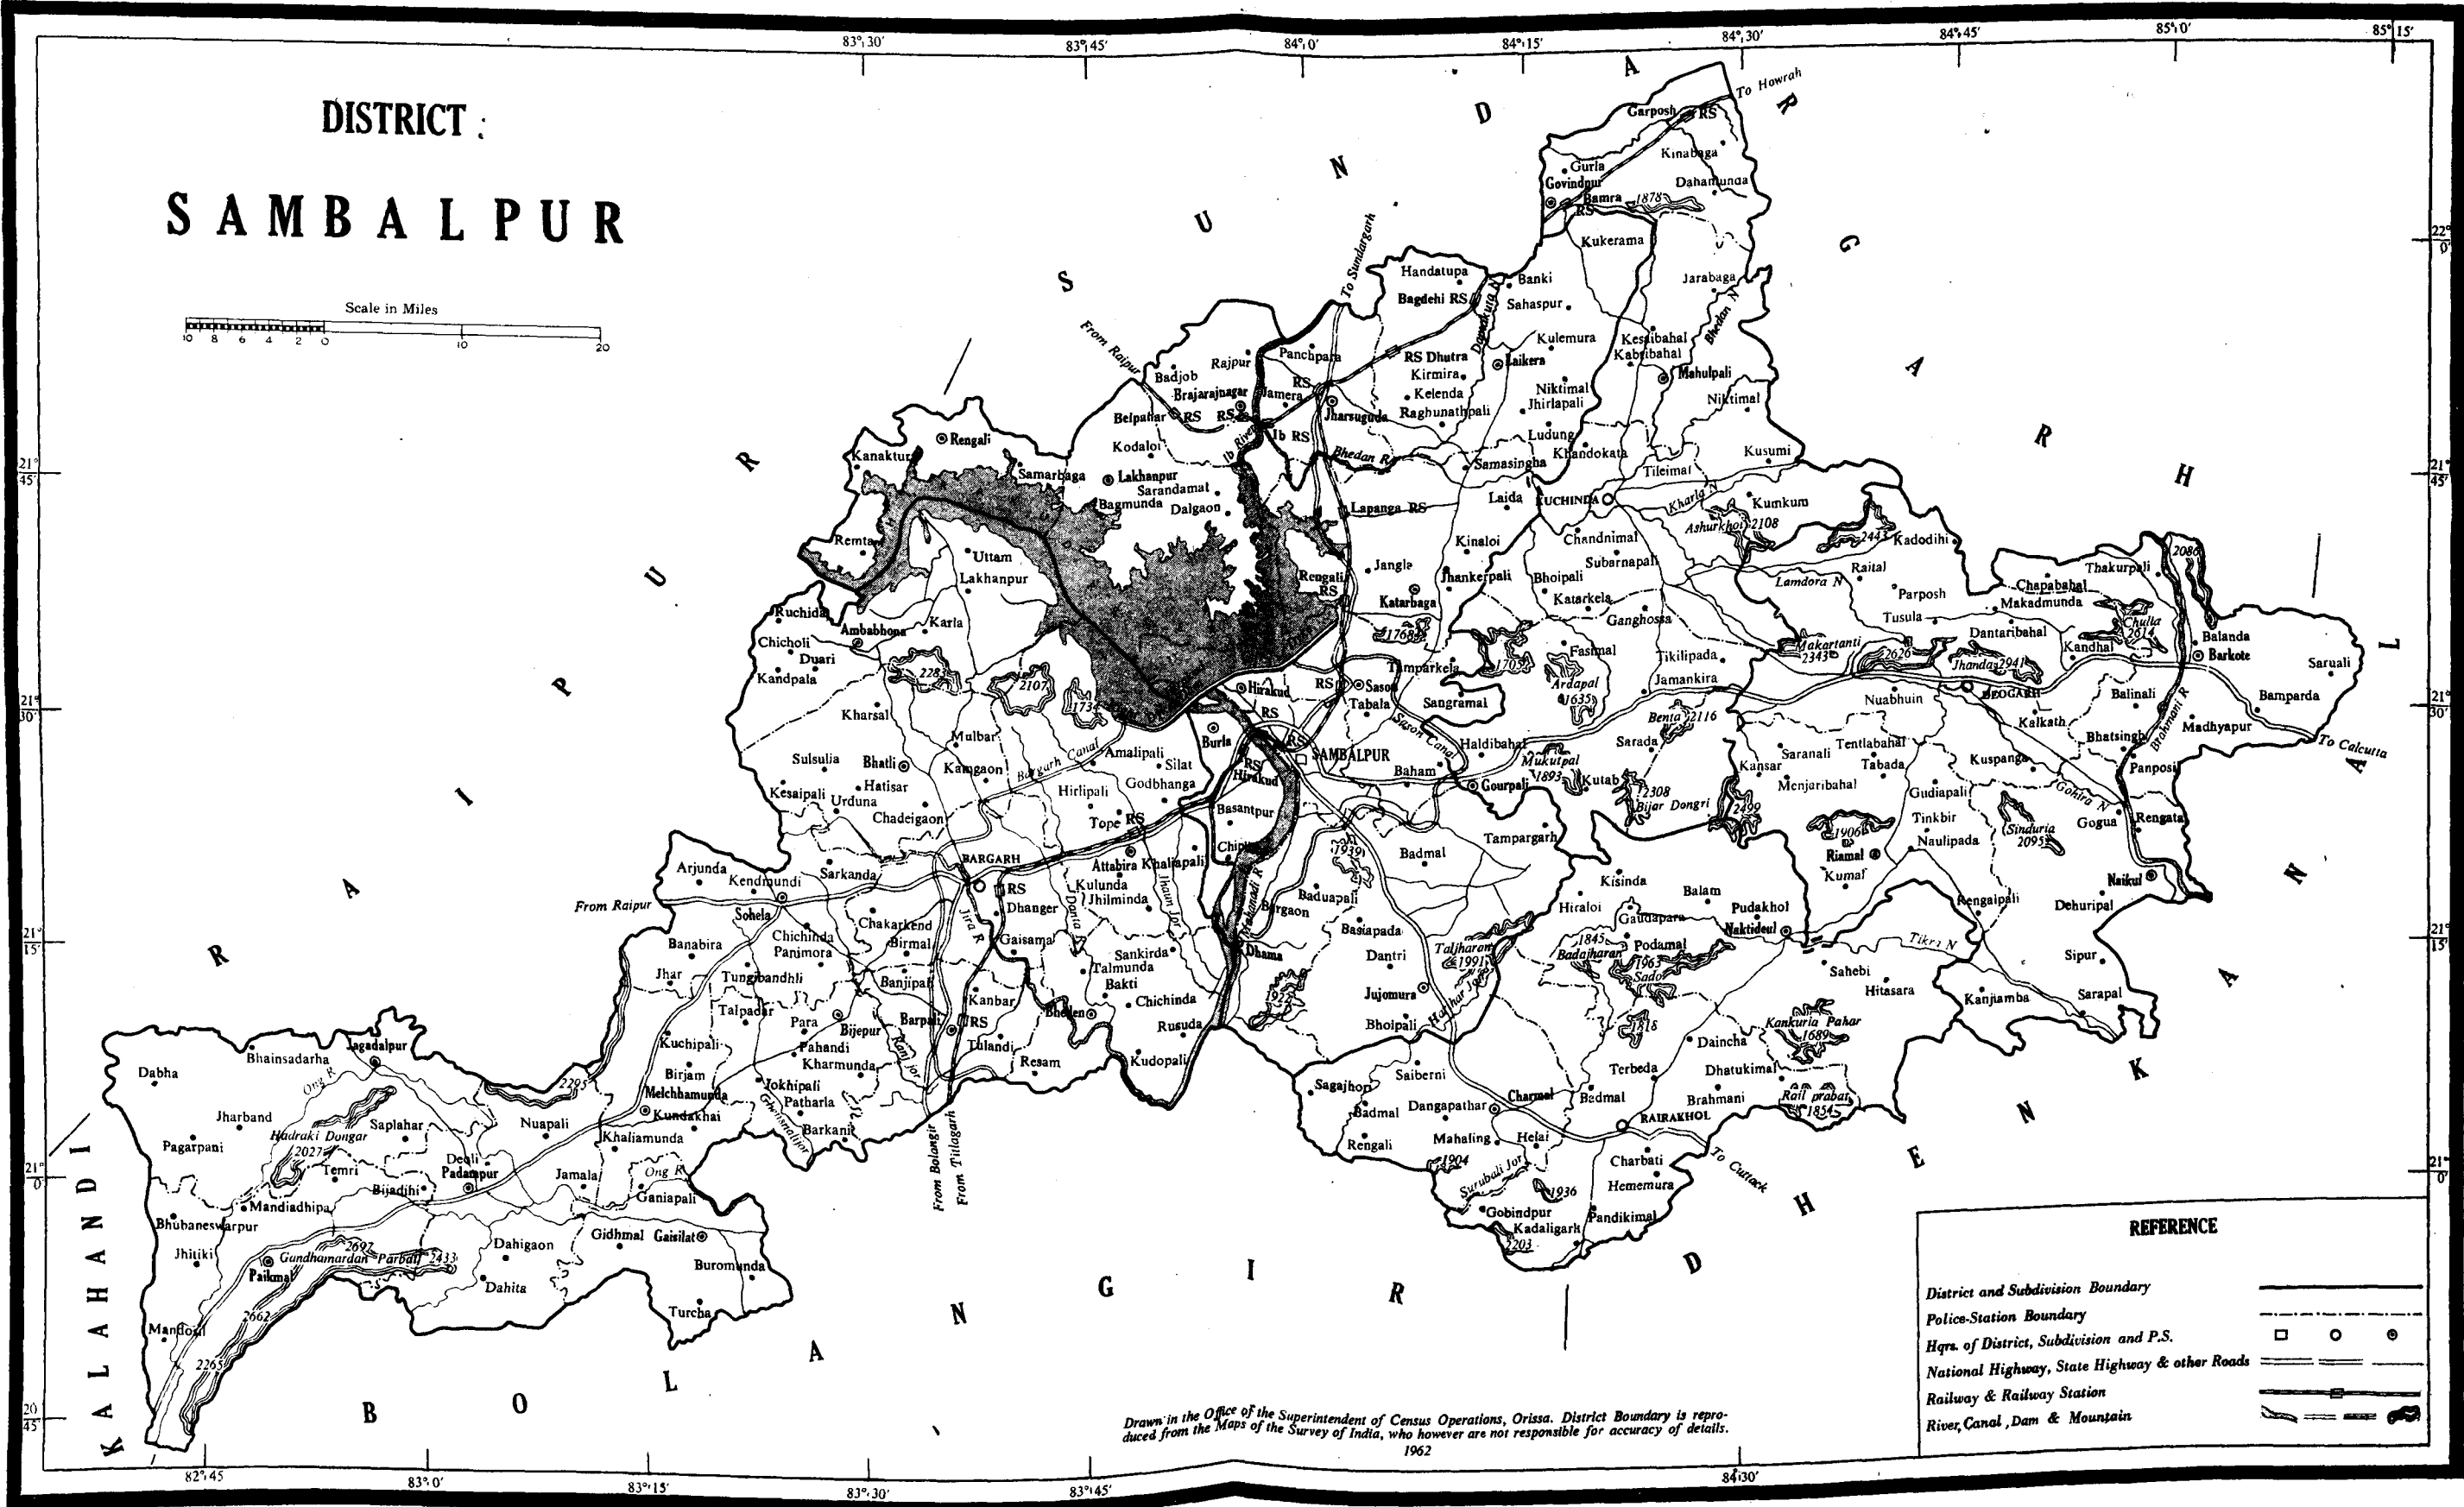

The main river in the district is Mahanadi which flows from north-west to south-east for a distance of nearly 90 miles and has a number of tributaries. This river has on it now the famous Hirakud Dam located 9 miles upstream from Sambalpur, which functions as a Hydro-electric Project, a reservoir and an irrigation project. The district has mostly red soil but a small patch of mixed red and black cotton soil appears in the southern part. The rocks in this district contain deposits of coal, china-clay, fire-clay, graphite, manganese and limestone, most of which are under exploitation. Forests cover an area of 2,428 sq. miles or 35.89% of the total area of the district and are mainly of northern tropical dry deciduous type, though in some parts in Deogarh, moist deciduous forests occur. The main species are sal, asan, kurum, etc. Lac, silk, cocoons, resin, beeswax, honey, etc., are produced in considerable quantity in the forests of Deogarh and Kuchinda.

Climate and rainfall—The district has a hot dry summer and well distributed rains, with high humidity during the south-west monsoon season. In other seasons the air is fairly dry. The temperature begins to rise from the beginning of March steadily till May which is the hottest month with the mean daily maximum temperature of 41.6°C. The heat in May and early part of June is trying. The monsoons come over the district from the middle of June bringing some relief, although pleasant season is not experienced till October. December is the coldest month when the mean minimum temperature is of the order of 12.1°C. The average rainfall in the district is 1,527.0 mm. (60.11"). About 90% of the annual rainfall is received in the monsoon months. There are 70 rainy days in a year on the average. During the rainy season depressions from the Bay of Bengal reach the district causing widespread heavy rain and strong winds.

Area and population of administrative units—The district has a population of 15.08 lakhs living in 6,764.6 sq. miles or 17,520.3 sq. kms. It consists of 5 subdivisions and 36 police stations. The area and population of each such administrative unit is given below:

Towns—The urban areas of the district are comprised of seven towns. The names of the towns and their population in brackets are as follows: Sambalpur town (District Headquarters, 38,915), Jharsuguda (19,227), Brajarajnagar (16,196), Burla (10,230), Hirakud (8,593), Bargarh (15,375) and Deogarh (6,839). Brajarajnagar and Hirakud are industrial towns mainly noted for paper making and aluminium industries respectively.

Vital Statistics—During the decade 1951-60 births outnumbered leaths by 125,963 (65,796 males and 60,167 females). As many vital events have escaped registration, the birth and death rates luring this period work out to 26.2 and 17.0 only per mille respectively. Infant deaths numbered 58,186 against a total birth of 360,366 and constitute 24.82% of total deaths. About 36.91% of deaths occur among children of pre-schooling age up to 5 years. Fever, notably malaria, caused 54.8% of deaths during the decade 1951-60 in the district. During 1951 and 1958 smallpox took 1,118 and 1,406 lives respectively and deaths caused by it during the decade were 1.97% of total deaths. Cholera also took a heavy toll during 1952.

Trend of migration—The migrants to the district constitute 8.4% of the total population, out of which 3.6% are born outside the State. The number of migrants from other districts of the State as well as from outside the State are given below. Among the latter group of migrants a large majority originate from Madhya Pradesh, Bihar, West Bengal, Uttar Pradesh, Punjab and Andhra Pradesh.

	Persons	Males	Females	Per-centage
1. Population of the district	1,508,686	756,163	752,523	100

6. Others including unclassifiable	2,630	1,112	1,518	0.2

Economic classification—The population is divided broadly into two sections, non-workers and workers. The workers are again classified into nine industrial categories as mentioned below:

Section or category	Persons	Males	Females	Name of industry	Total no. of establishments	No. of persons engaged
1. Non-workers	719,265	266,809	452,456	Cotton weaving in handlooms	11,928	41,271

(viii) Transport, Storage and Communications	4,059	3,973	86
(ix) Other Services	105,494	63,931	41,563

Growth of population (1901-61)—The population growth from 789,258 in 1901 to 1,508,686 in 1961 works out at 91.2% during the last 60 years. Although there is no decrease of population in any of the decades, the substantial contribution to the growth is found in the decades 1901-11, 1921-31, 1931-41 and 1951-61 when the percentage was recorded at 15.8, 11.8, 12.6 and 15.9 respectively. The growth of 4.5% and 8.3% during the decades 1911-21 and 1941-51 respectively is below the average.

Scheduled Tribes—There are 44 Scheduled Tribes in the district having a population of 439,405 which is 29.1% of the total population. The principal tribes are Gond (93,875), Saora (82,575), Kisan (66,528), Binjhal (46,136), Munda (35,655), Kond (23,636), Bhuiya (20,595), Kharia (19,180), Mirdhas (16,491), Oraon (12,129), Kolha (9,223), Shabar (5,841) and Kora (2,200). The district is considered to be the homeland of the Binjhals, Mirdhas and Kawars. Literacy is poor, being confined to 12.5%. Cultivation and agricultural labour provide livelihood to the largest section of the population.

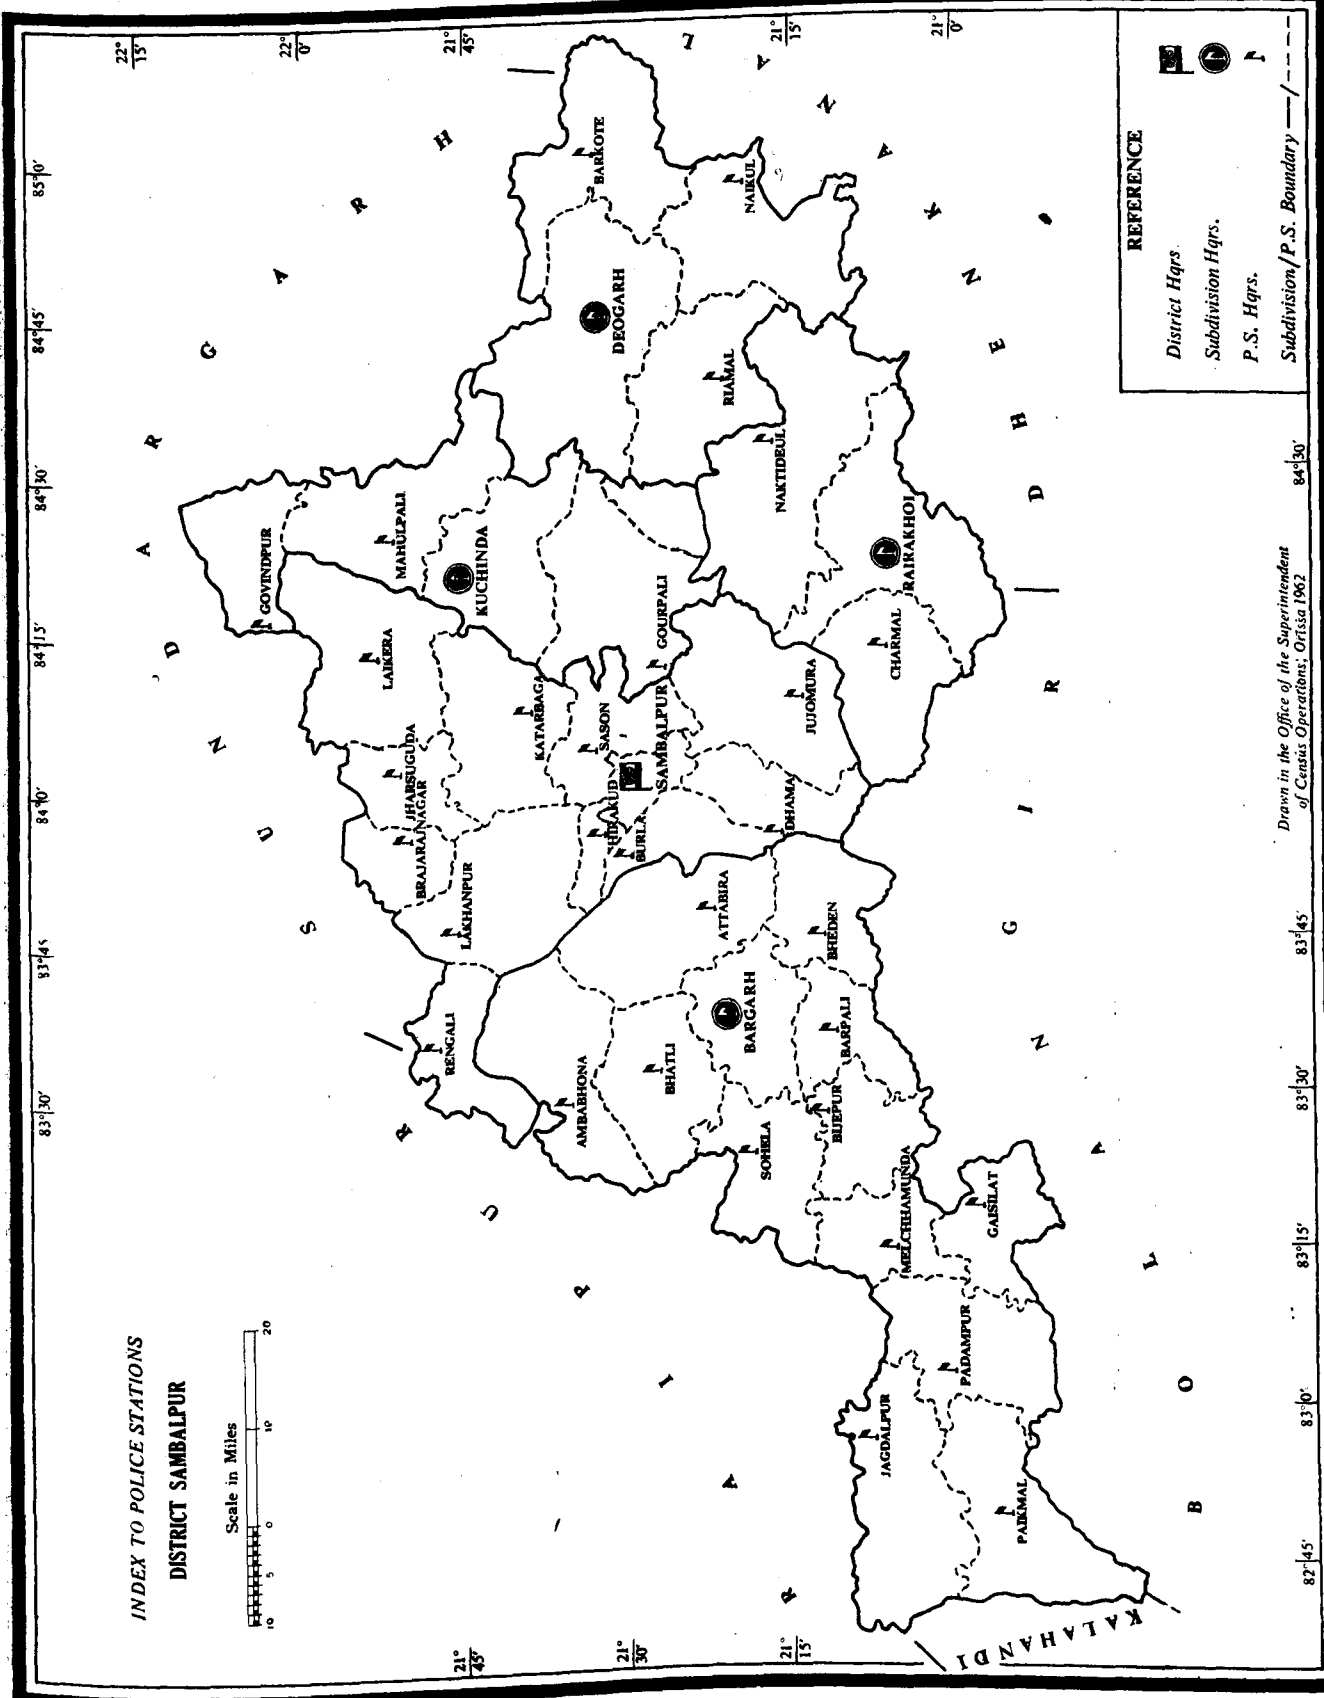

Scheduled Castes—There are 74 Scheduled Castes with a population of 244,985 living in the district and constituting 16.2% of the total population. The most numerous castes are Ganda (130,436), Pan (23,582), Dhoba (15,689), Ghasi (15,254), Chamar (13,515), Pantanti (5,997), Pap (5,324), Kuli (3,911), Bariki (2,740), Dom (2,163), Siyal (1,962), Turi (1,919), Panika (1,884), Tanla (1,768), Tiar (1,623), Haddi (1,274) and Ghantra (1,038). Literacy has gone up to 14.5%. Cultivation and agricultural labour provide livelihood to the largest section of the population, although household industry and 'other services' are also popular.

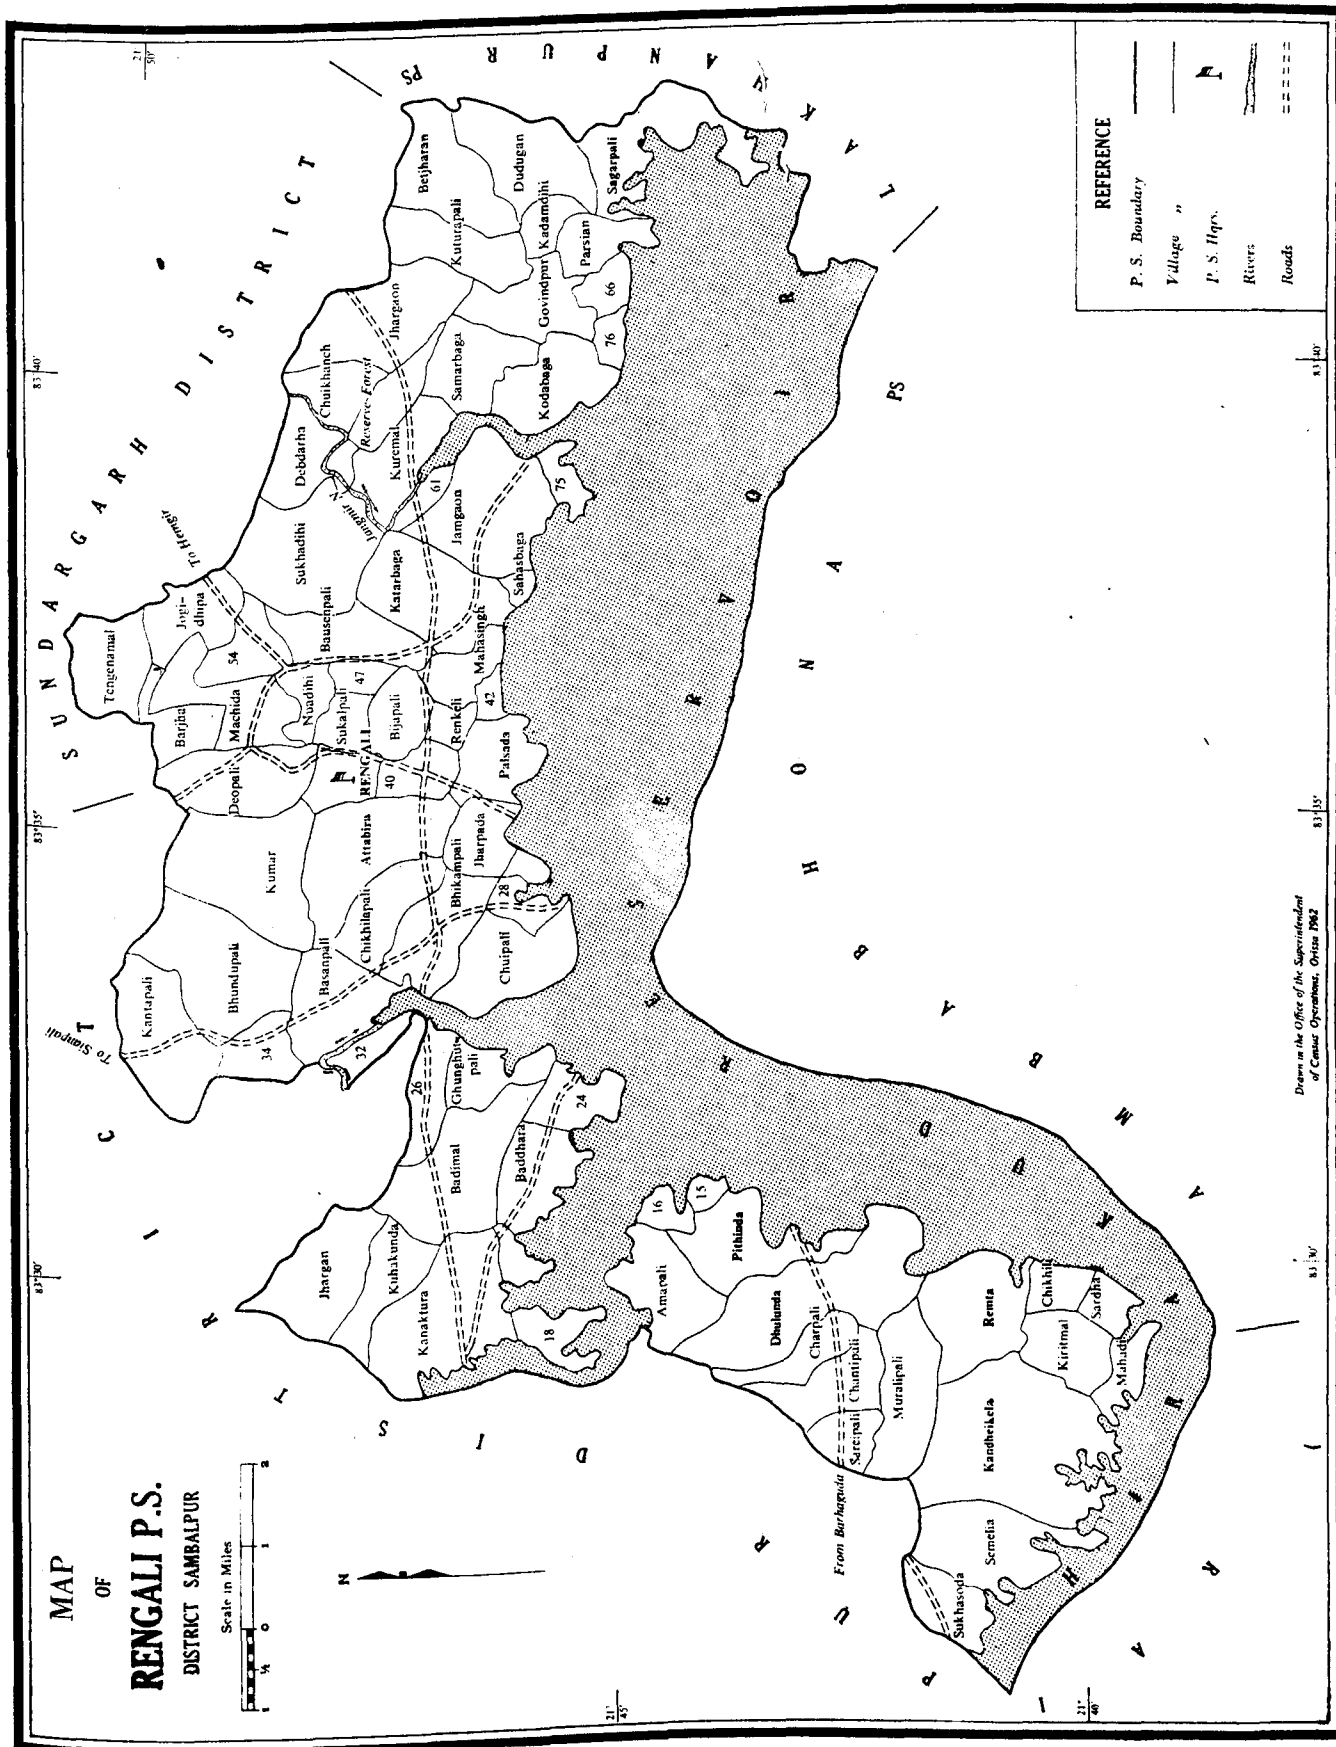

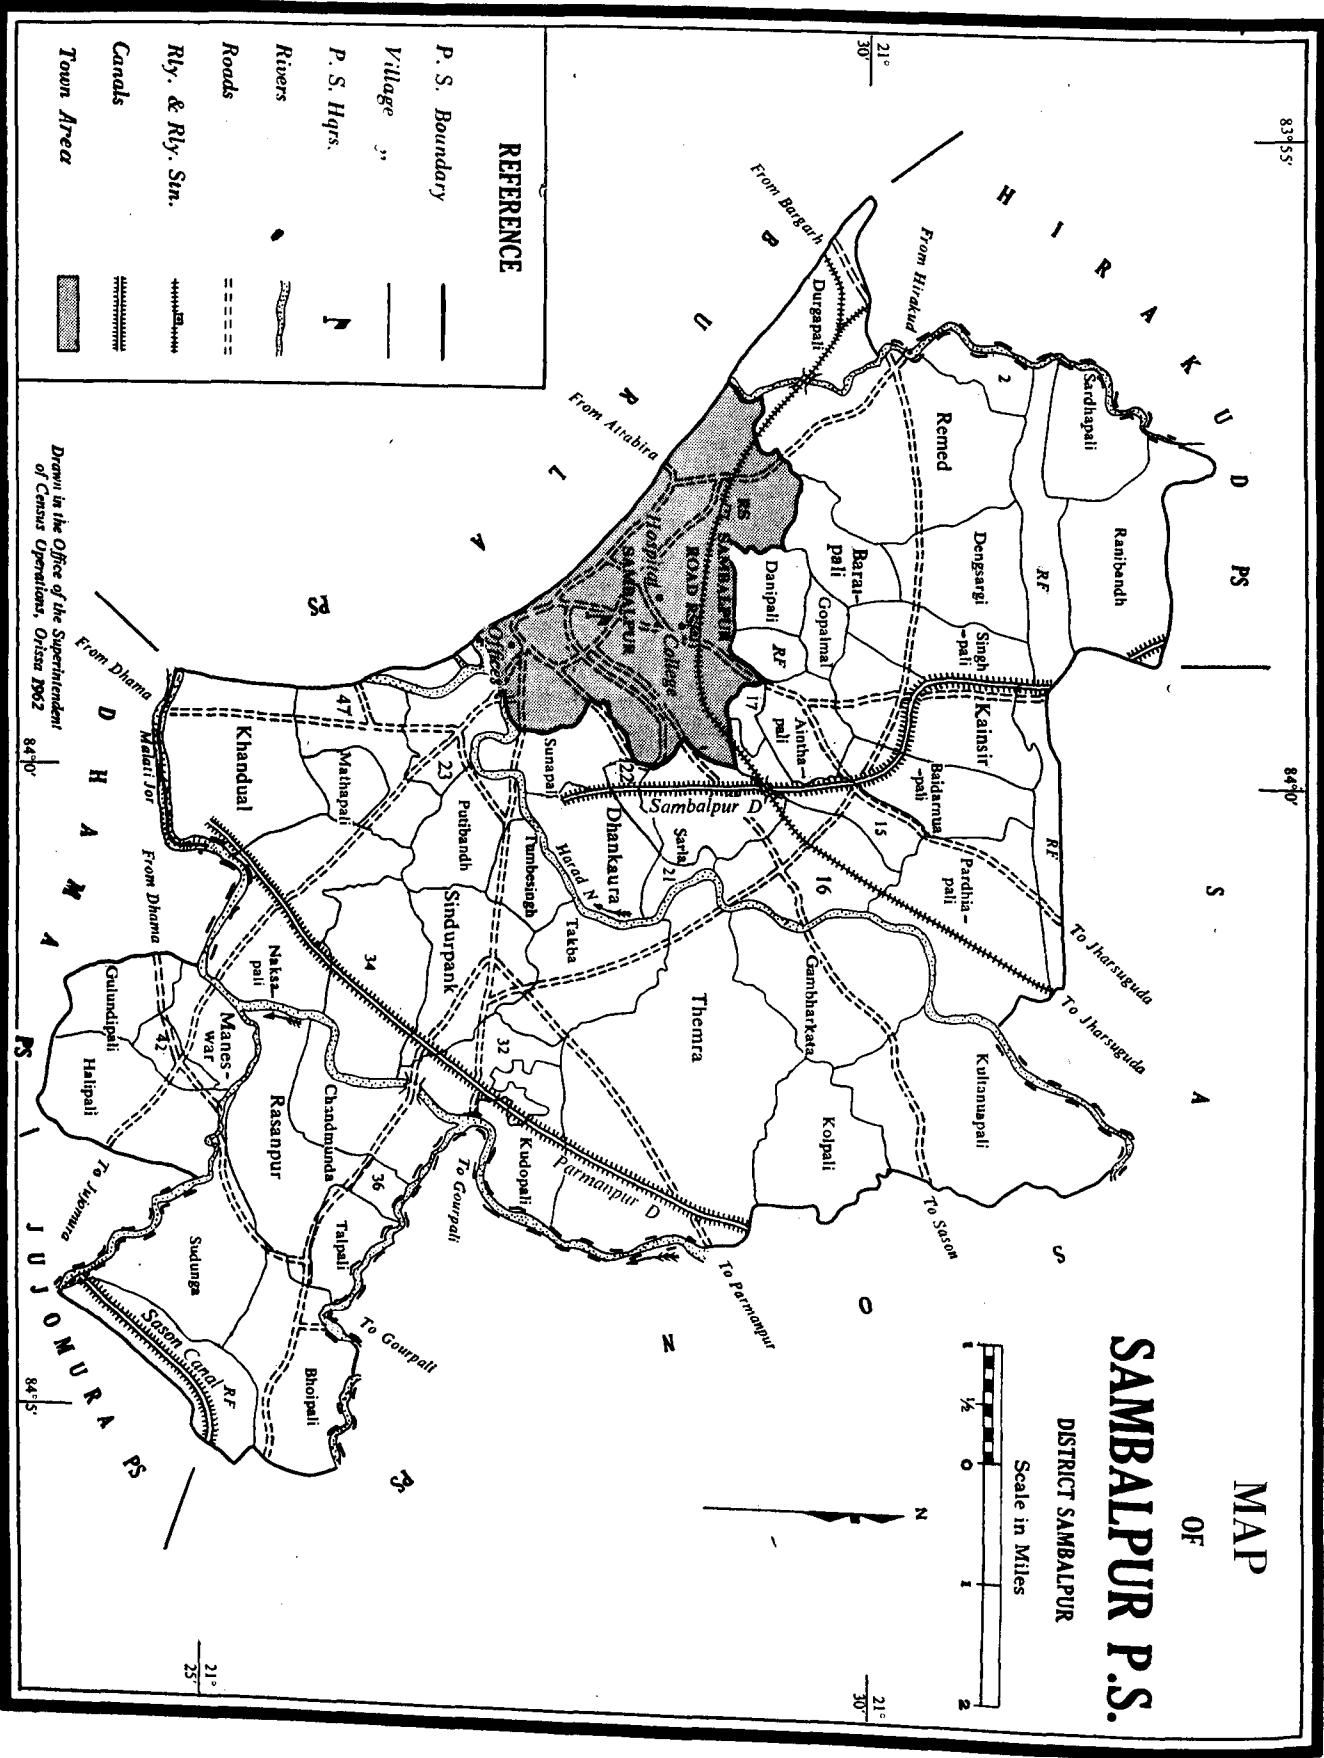

Literacy—About 22.9 per cent or 345,972 persons out of the total population of 1,508,686 are literates. Among the males the rate of literacy has gone up to 37.2 per cent and among the females to 8.6 per cent. In 1951 literacy rate was only 16.3 per cent. There are 1,634 Primary Schools, 150 M.E. Schools and 22 High Schools in the district.

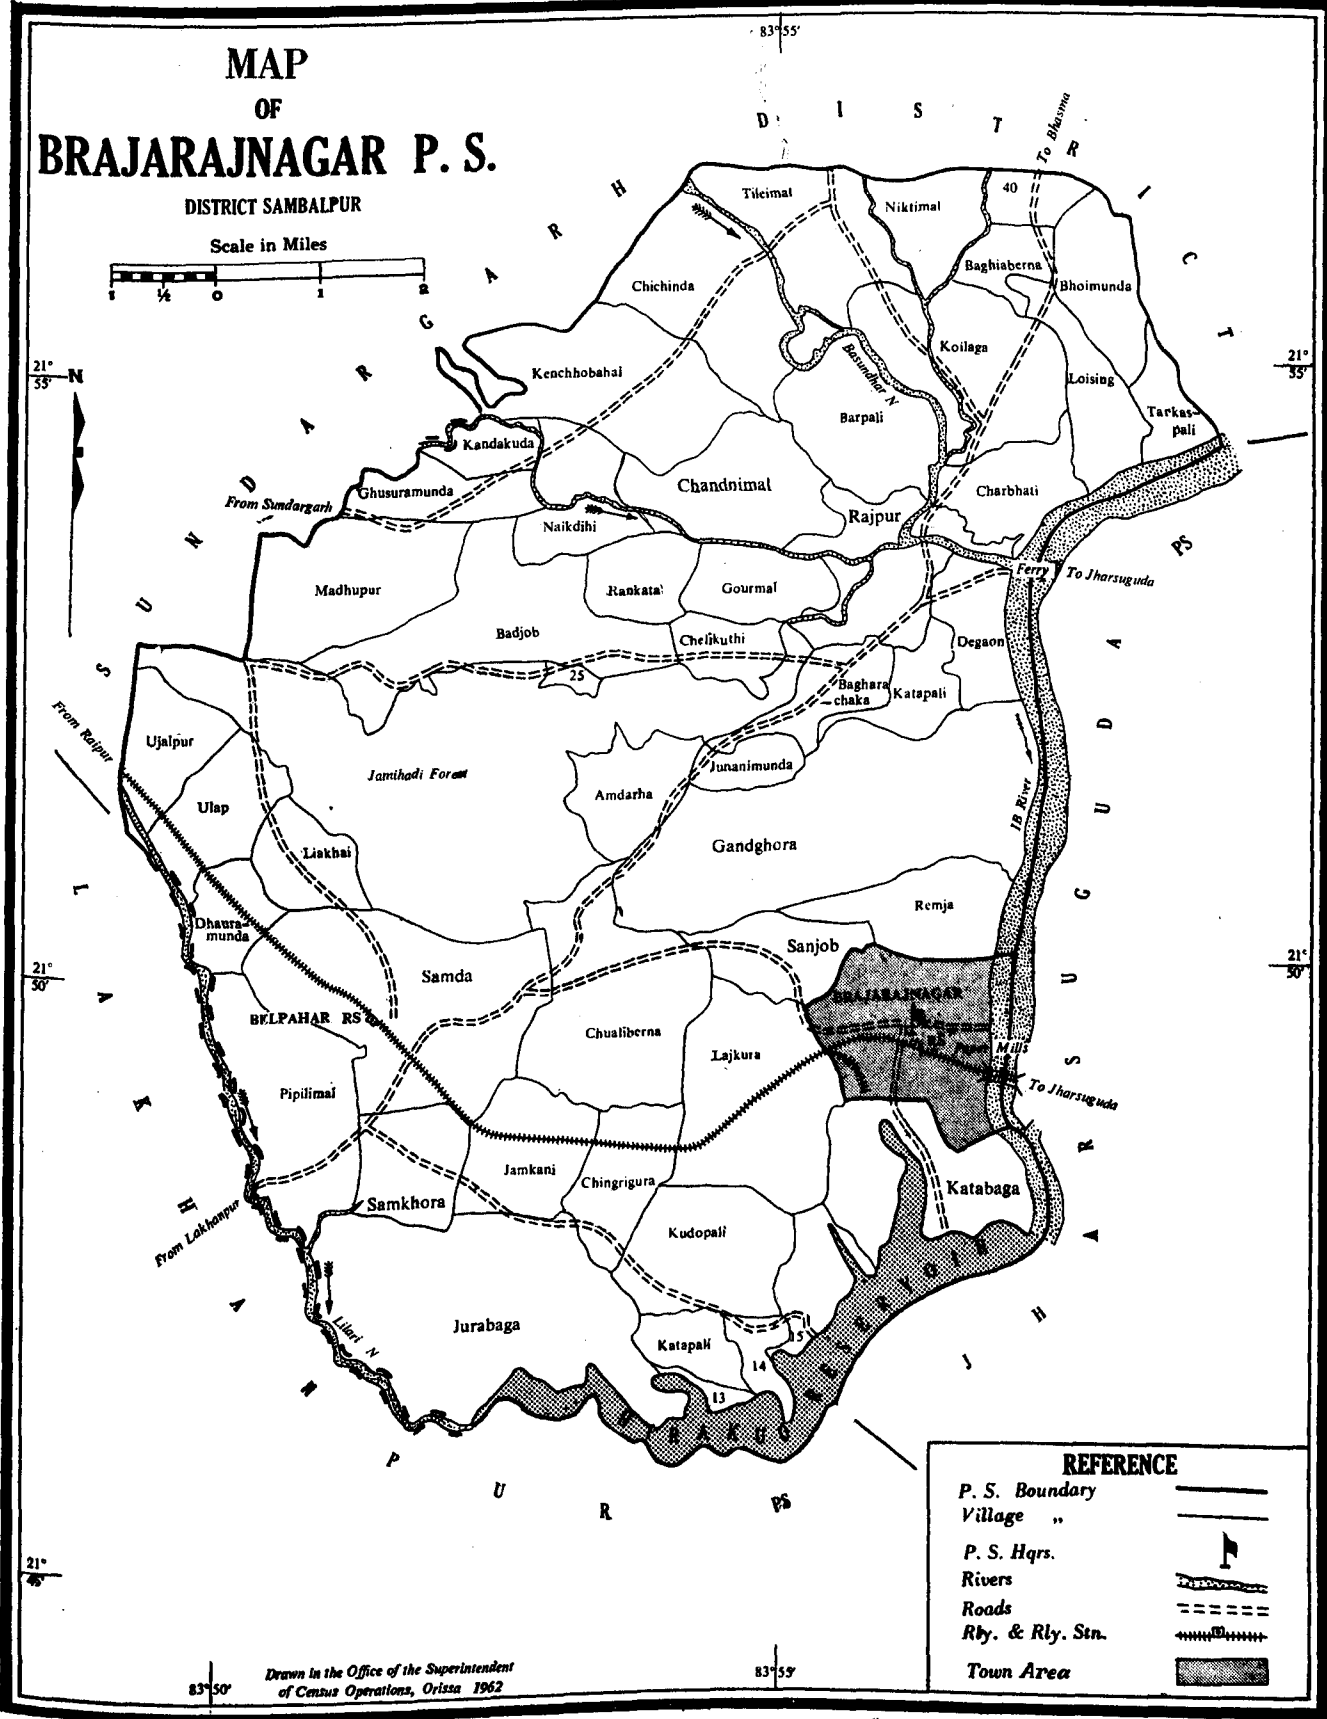

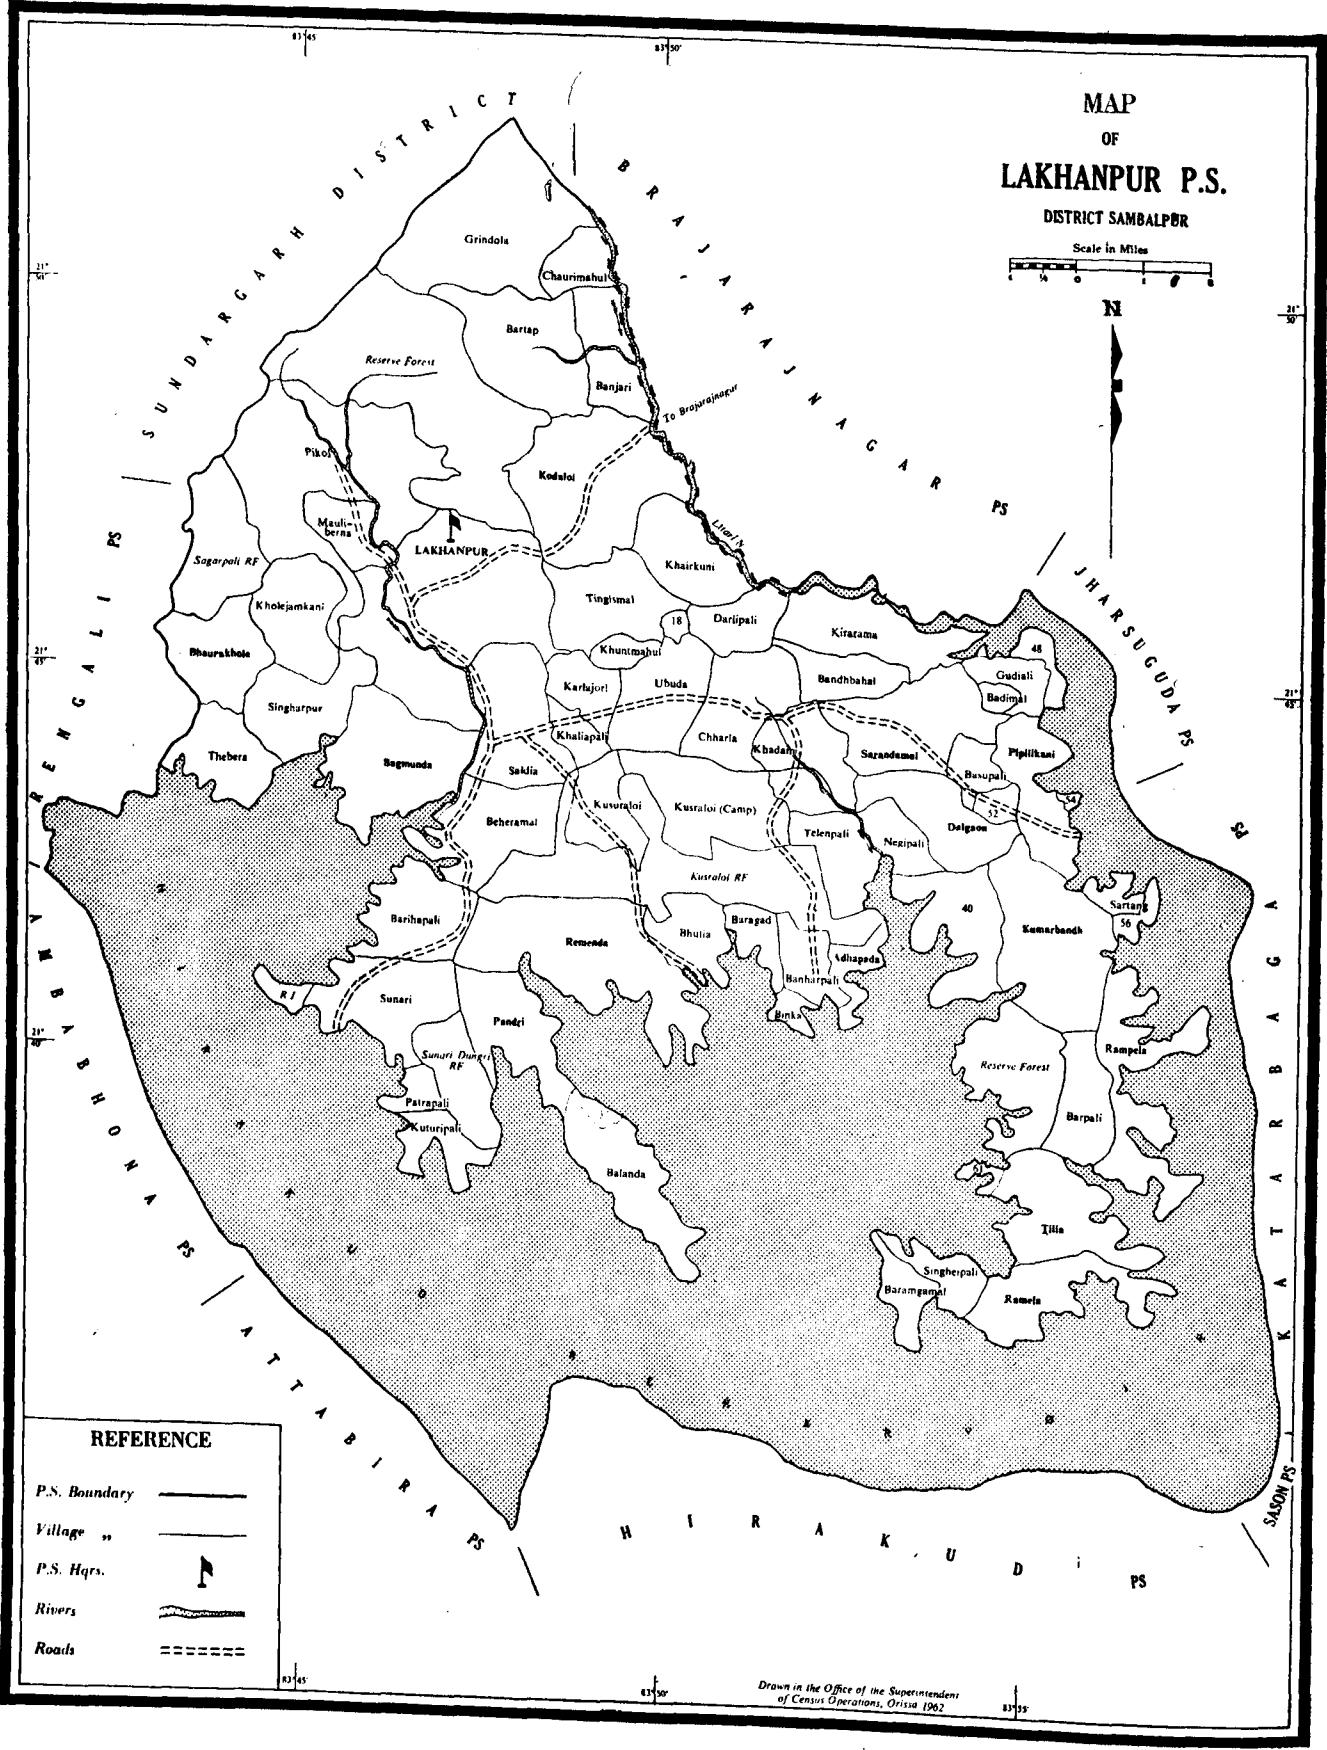

Industries—The number of industrial establishments in the district including those of the lowest scale, namely, household industries are 34,889. Classified according to the list in the I.S.I.C. Scheme there are 74 different kinds of industries. Below is a list of industries which are most extensively found in the district:

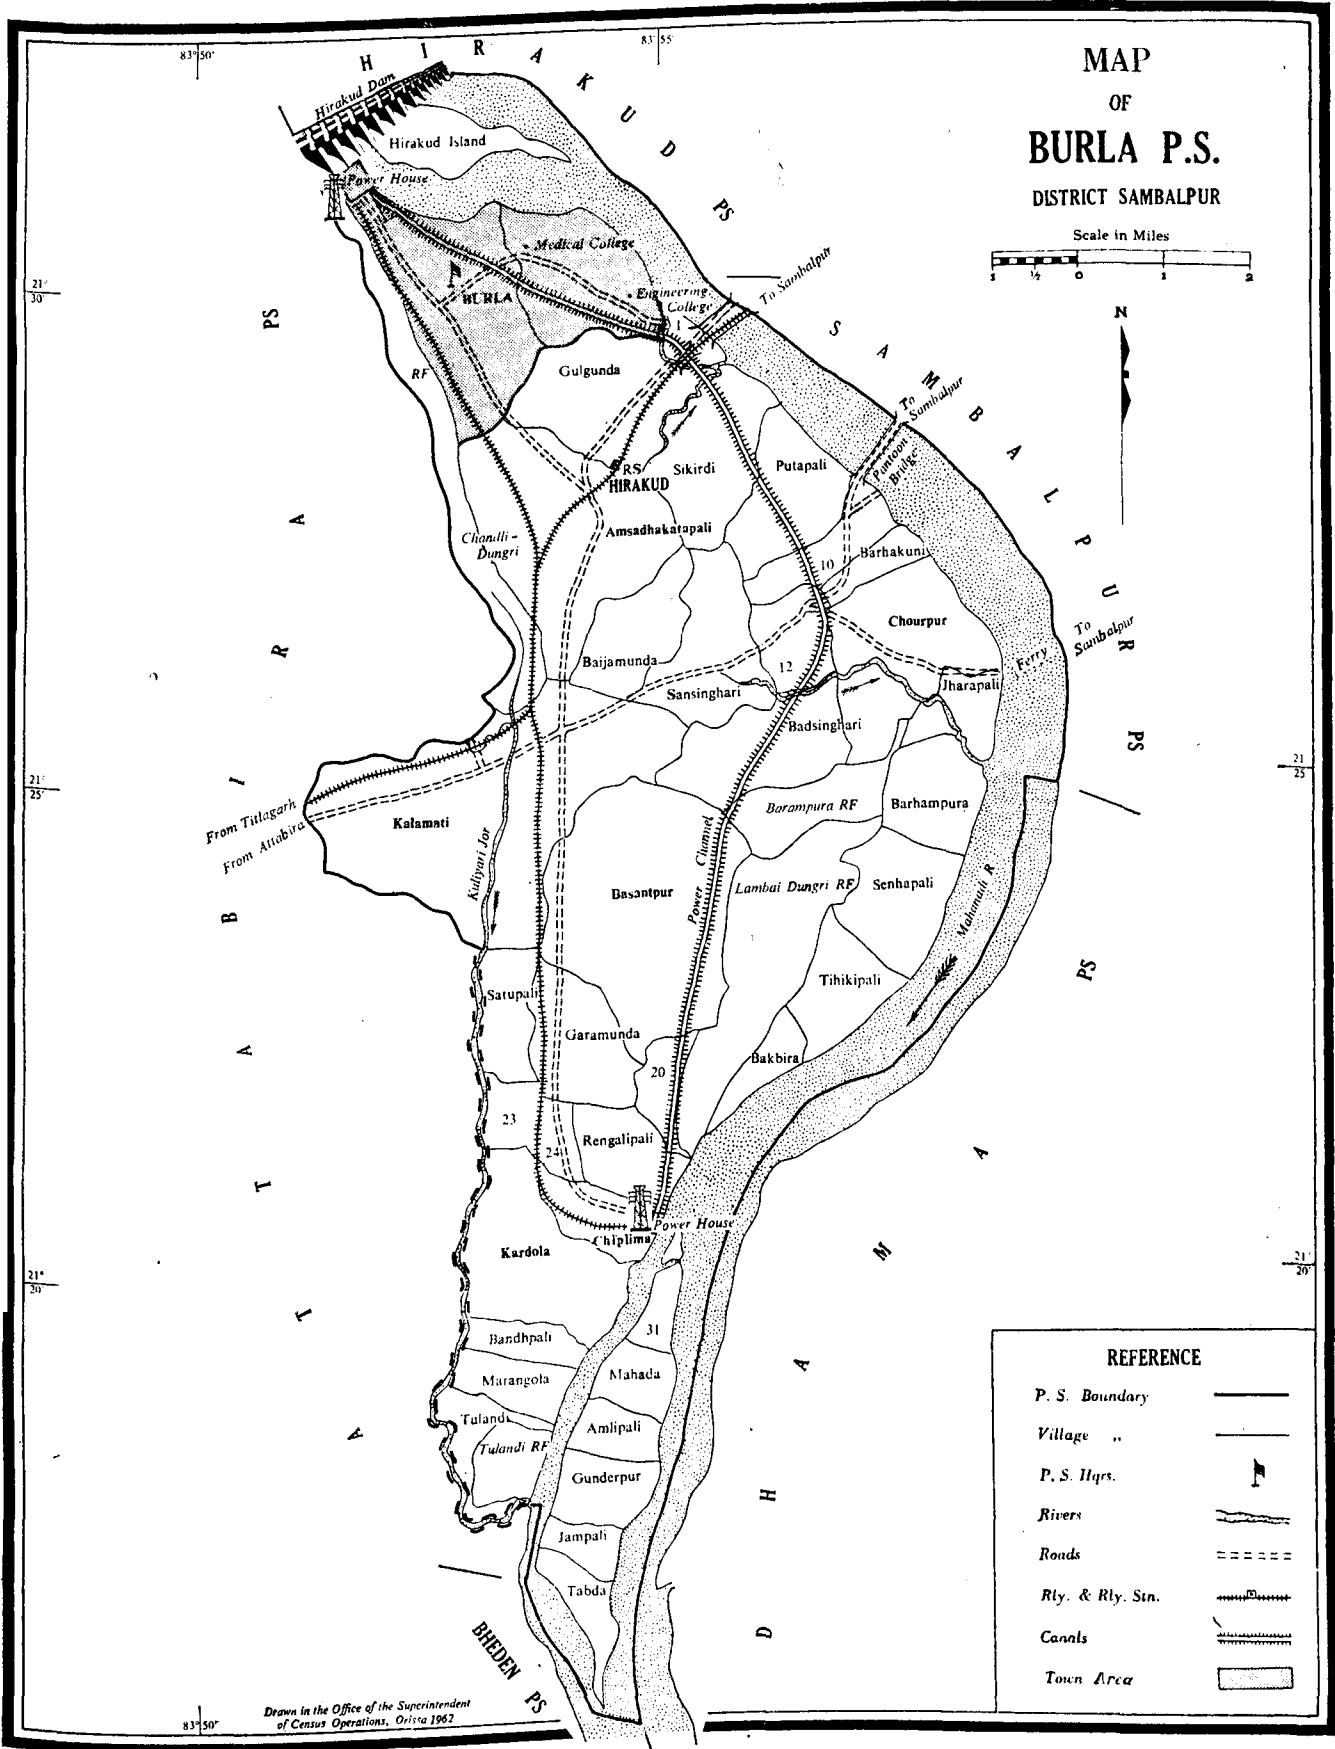

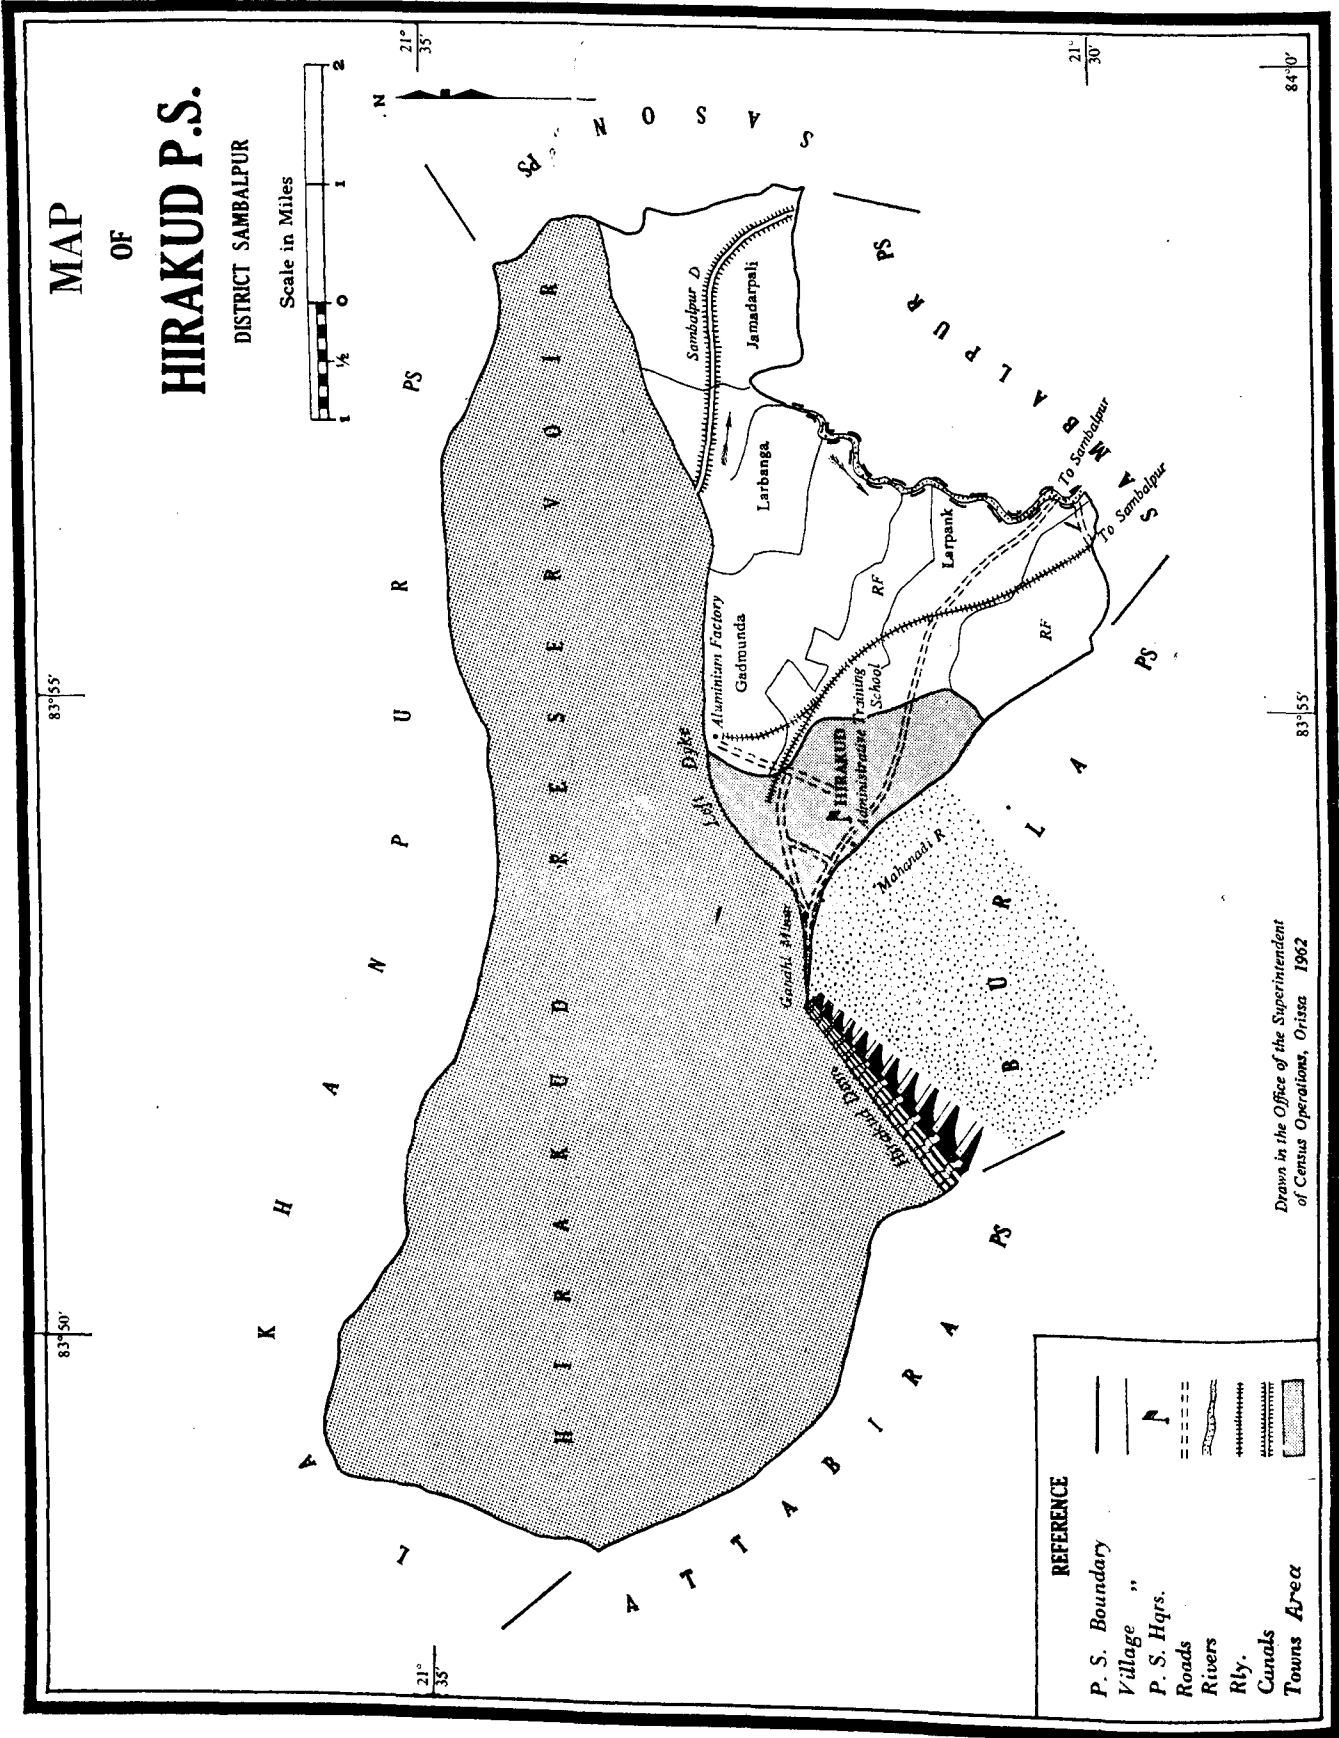

Name of industry	Total no. of establishments	No. of persons engaged
Cotton weaving in handlooms	11,928	41,271
Manufacture of materials from cork, bamboo, cane, leaves, etc.	4,726	14,472
Manufacture of bidi	4,009	11,894
Production of edible fats and oils (other than hydrogenated oil)	2,619	8,400
Manufacture of earthenwares and earthen potteries	2,614	8,602
Manufacture of sundry hardwares	1,856	6,179
Manufacture of structural wooden goods, such as, beams, posts, doors, windows	1,559	3,730
Manufacture of jewellery and wares using gold and other precious metals	1,353	2,956

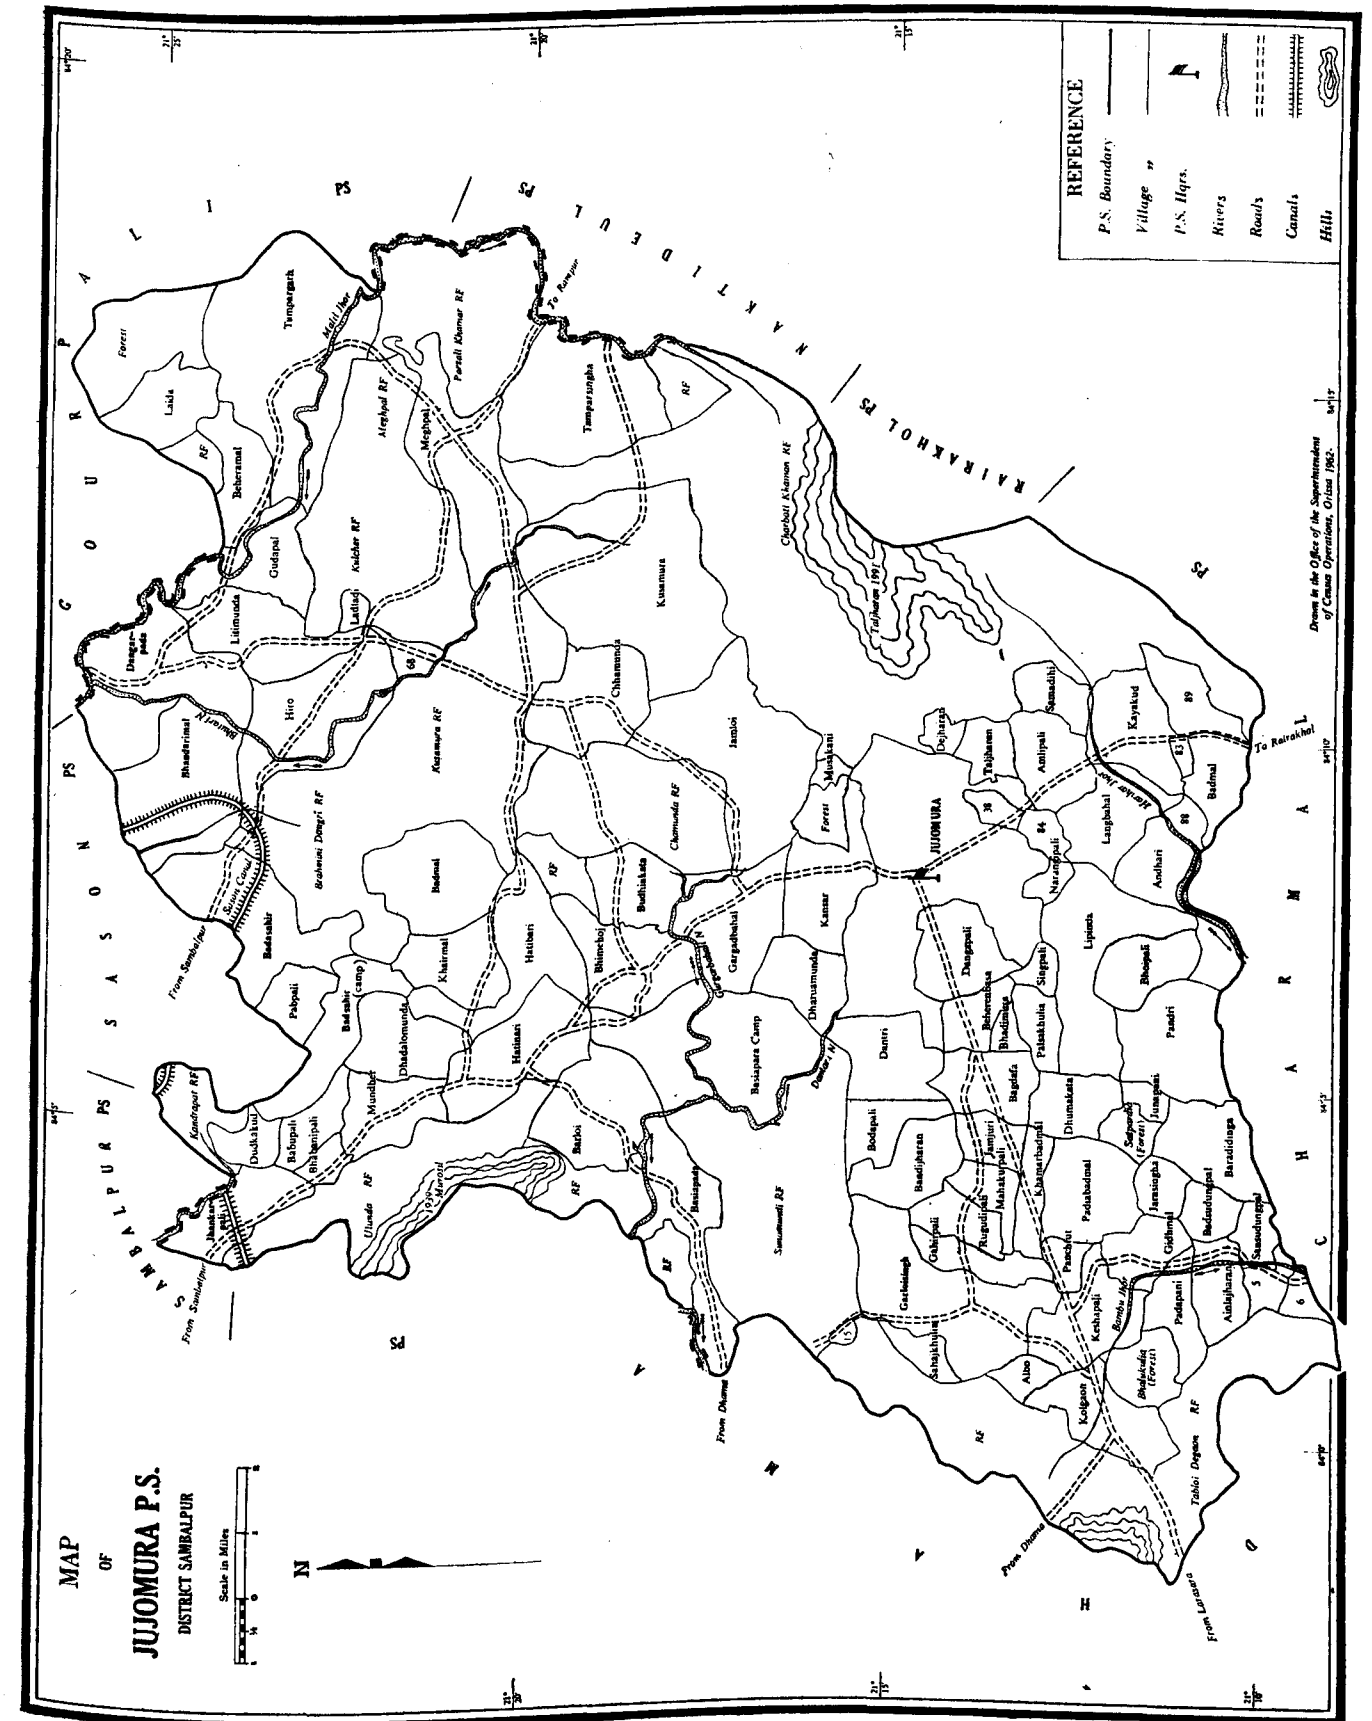

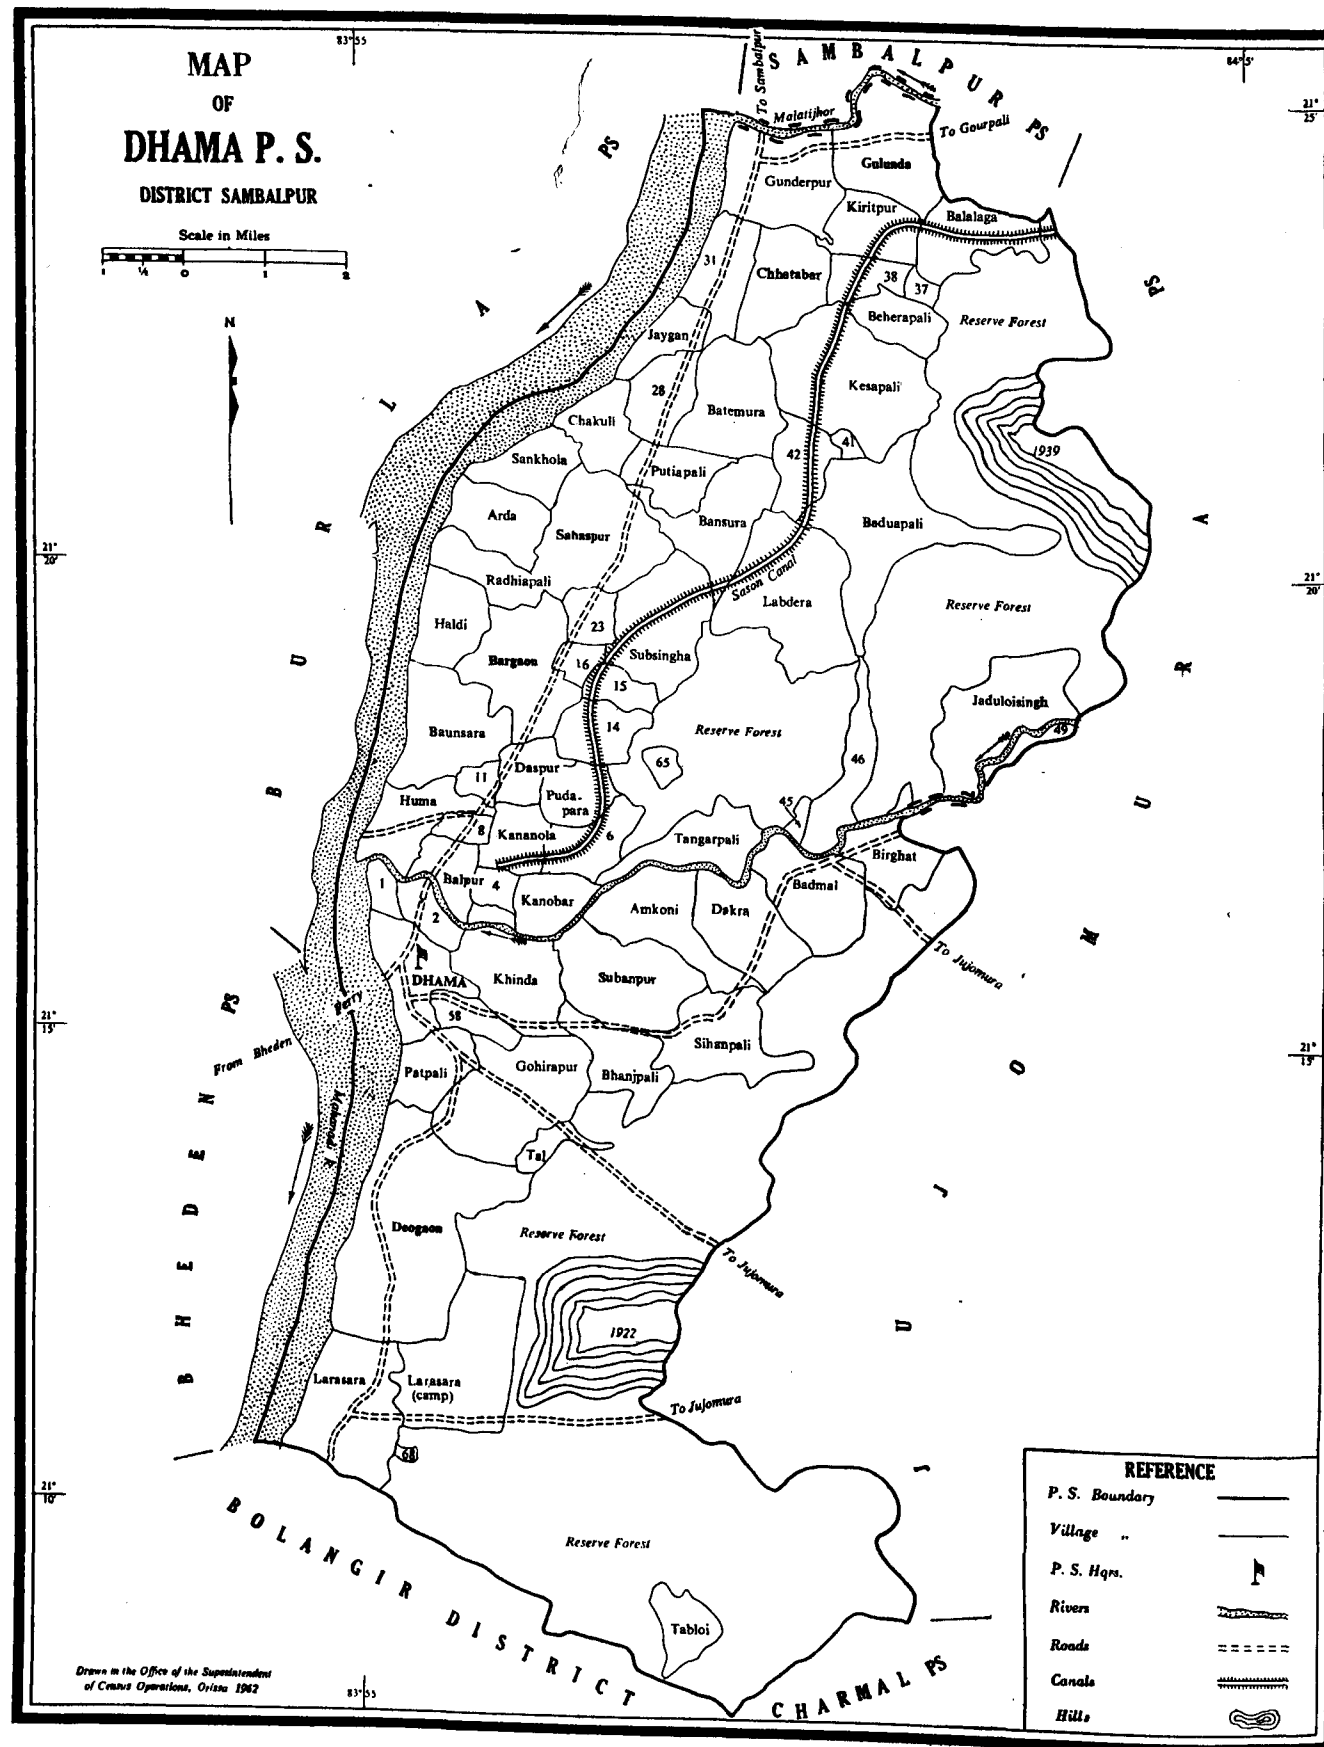

Agriculture—Out of the total area of the district comprising 4,329,344 acres, net area sown is 1,753,844 acres (40.5%), area under cultivation including current fallows is 1,895,750 (43.8%) and area under irrigation is 603,042 acres (13.9%). Rice, kodo and pulses, notably kulthi and black gram, constitute principal crops. The quantity of rice produced annually is 286,580 tons which leave some surplus after internal consumption for export each year.

BOLANGIR DISTRICT

Bolangir district is located in the western part of Orissa and lies between 20° 9' N and 21° 11' N latitudes and between 82° 41' E and 84° 16' E longitudes. It is bounded in the north by Sambalpur district, in the south and the west by Kalahandi district and in the east by Baudh-Khondmals district.

Physiography—The district has two distinct physical zones, namely, the hills of the west and the river valleys of the east. The western part of the district is an undulating tract with rugged, lofty and irregular hill ranges rising in various directions. The north-western boundary of the district is formed by a magnificent hill range known as Gandha Mardan, covered by forests which are for the most part dense and in which bamboo of excellent quality grows predominantly. Valuable timber of sal, sahai, piasal, dhaura, teak and ebony is available in large quantity in these forests. On the northern summit of this range, there is a famous spring which descends to the foot of the hill in fine waterfalls, reaching the village Narsingnath in Sambalpur district which is a sacred place of pilgrimage. The top of this range of hills is a fine plateau roughly 10 miles long with an average height of 3,000 ft. The eastern part of the district is occupied by Sonepur subdivision which is a flat and slightly undulating country with isolated hills of small heights seen here and there. It contains the confluence of many tributaries of the Mahanadi, namely, Tel, Suktel, Ong and Jira and may be described as the basin of the Mahanadi. This river and the tributaries constitute the principal river system of the district. There are also a few hill streams which fall into these rivers. The soils are mostly light and sandy. The western portion has laterite soil and eastern portion red soil with a patch of black cotton soil in the centre. Forests cover an area of nearly 722 sq. miles and are of northern tropical dry deciduous type. The rocks in this district are believed to contain huge deposits of manganese, graphite, bauxite, and in recent years some manganese and graphite mines have started working.

Climate and rainfall—The climate of the district is similar to that of the districts in the western portion of the State. The month of May is the hottest when the mean daily maximum temperature is of the order of 41.4°C. The temperature drops from the second week of June when the south-west monsoon comes over the district. But the drop in temperature is marked from November onwards, December being the coldest month of the year when the mean daily minimum temperature is recorded at 13.2°C. Sometimes there are short spells of uncomfortable cold weather. The average rainfall is 1,443.5 mm. (56.83"). There are 67 rainy days in a year. The summer is the driest part of the year but during the rains relative humidities are high.

Vital Statistics—Collection of Vital Statistics in this district started in 1952. During the period of 9 years from 1952 to 1960, births outnumbered deaths by 111,053 (56,139 males and 54,914 females). Many cases have, however, escaped registration. The birth and death rates during this period work out to 34.1 and 21.8 per mille respectively, the highest rates in the State. Infant deaths numbered 53,822 against a total birth of 306,767 and the highest infant death rate in this district, 175.5 is also the highest in the State. Deaths among children up to the age of 5 years is very high and constitute 43.80% of total deaths. Fever, notably malaria, accounted for 65.02% of deaths during this decade. Cholera and smallpox also took heavy tolls in the year 1952 and during the years 1958 and 1959 respectively causing 1.19% and 2.47% of total deaths during the period 1952-60.

Area and population of administrative units—The district occupies an area of 3,411.6 sq. miles or 8,836.0 sq. kms. and contains a population of 10.68 lakhs. It is divided into 4 subdivisions and 17 police stations. The area and population of each such administrative unit is given below:

Administrative units	Area in sq. miles	No. of villages	Population	Population per sq. mile

Towns—The district has 5 towns, namely, Bolangir (District Headquarters, 18,663), Patnagarh (7,592), Sonepur (7,108), Titlagarh (7,433), and Kantabanji (8,863).

Growth of population (1901-61)—The growth of population from 447,625 in 1901 to 1,068,686 in 1961 works out at 138.7% increase during 60 years. There is no decrease of population in any of the decades. The growth of 39.5% during the decade 1901-1911 is phenomenal. Subsequent decades have registered an increase at varying percentages, namely, 1911-1921 (15.5%), 1921-1931 (11.6%), 1931-1941 (8.3%), 1941-1951 (5.3%), and 1951-1961 (16.4%).

Trend of migration—The migrants to the district constitute 5.8% of the total population, out of which a small number (0.6%) are born outside the State. The number of migrants from other districts of the State as well as from outside the State are given below. Majority of the migrants from outside the State come from Madhya Pradesh, Andhra Pradesh and Punjab.

	Persons	Males	Females	Per-centage
1. Population of the district	1,068,686	534,219	534,467	100
2. Born in the district	1,006,081	511,601	494,480	94.2
3. Born outside the district but within the State	53,590	17,082	36,508	5.0
4. Born in States in India other than Orissa	6,762	4,189	2,573	0.6
5. Born outside India (but in Asia)	133	105	28	Negligible
6. Others including unclassifiable	2,120	1,242	878	0.2

Economic classification—The division of the population into two broad sections, namely, workers and non-workers and the subdivision of workers into nine industrial categories is a unique feature of the 1961 Census, the details of which are given below:

Section or category	Persons	Males	Females
1. Non-workers	553,844	188,015	365,829
2. Workers	514,842	346,204	168,638
(i) Cultivator	307,982	216,099	91,883
(ii) Agricultural labourer	93,925	63,076	30,849
(iii) Mining, Quarrying, Live-stock, Forestry, Fishing, Hunting and Plantations, Orchards and Allied activities	2,483	1,841	642
(iv) Household industry	41,689	22,055	19,634

(ix) Other Services	58,480	35,833	22,647

Scheduled Tribes—The population of Scheduled Tribes in the district is 220,916, which is 20.6% of the total population. It comprises 31 tribes, the most numerous being Gond (72,289), Kond (59,596), Saora (31,071), Binjhal (25,191), Shabar (7,789), Dal (7,675), Munda (5,710), Mirdhas (4,946) and Kolha (1,828). The district is the homeland of Dals. Literacy is confined to 8.3%. Cultivation and agricultural labour provide livelihood to the largest section of the population.

Scheduled Castes—There are 50 Scheduled Castes in the district having a population of 187,422 which is 17.5% of the total population. The principal castes are Ganda (154,147), Dhoba (9,072), Dom (4,311), Mahar (2,781), Bariki (2,654) and Chamar (1,415). Literacy is poor, being confined to 7.4%. Largest section of the population have cultivation and agricultural labour as their livelihood, although household industry and 'other services' are also popular.

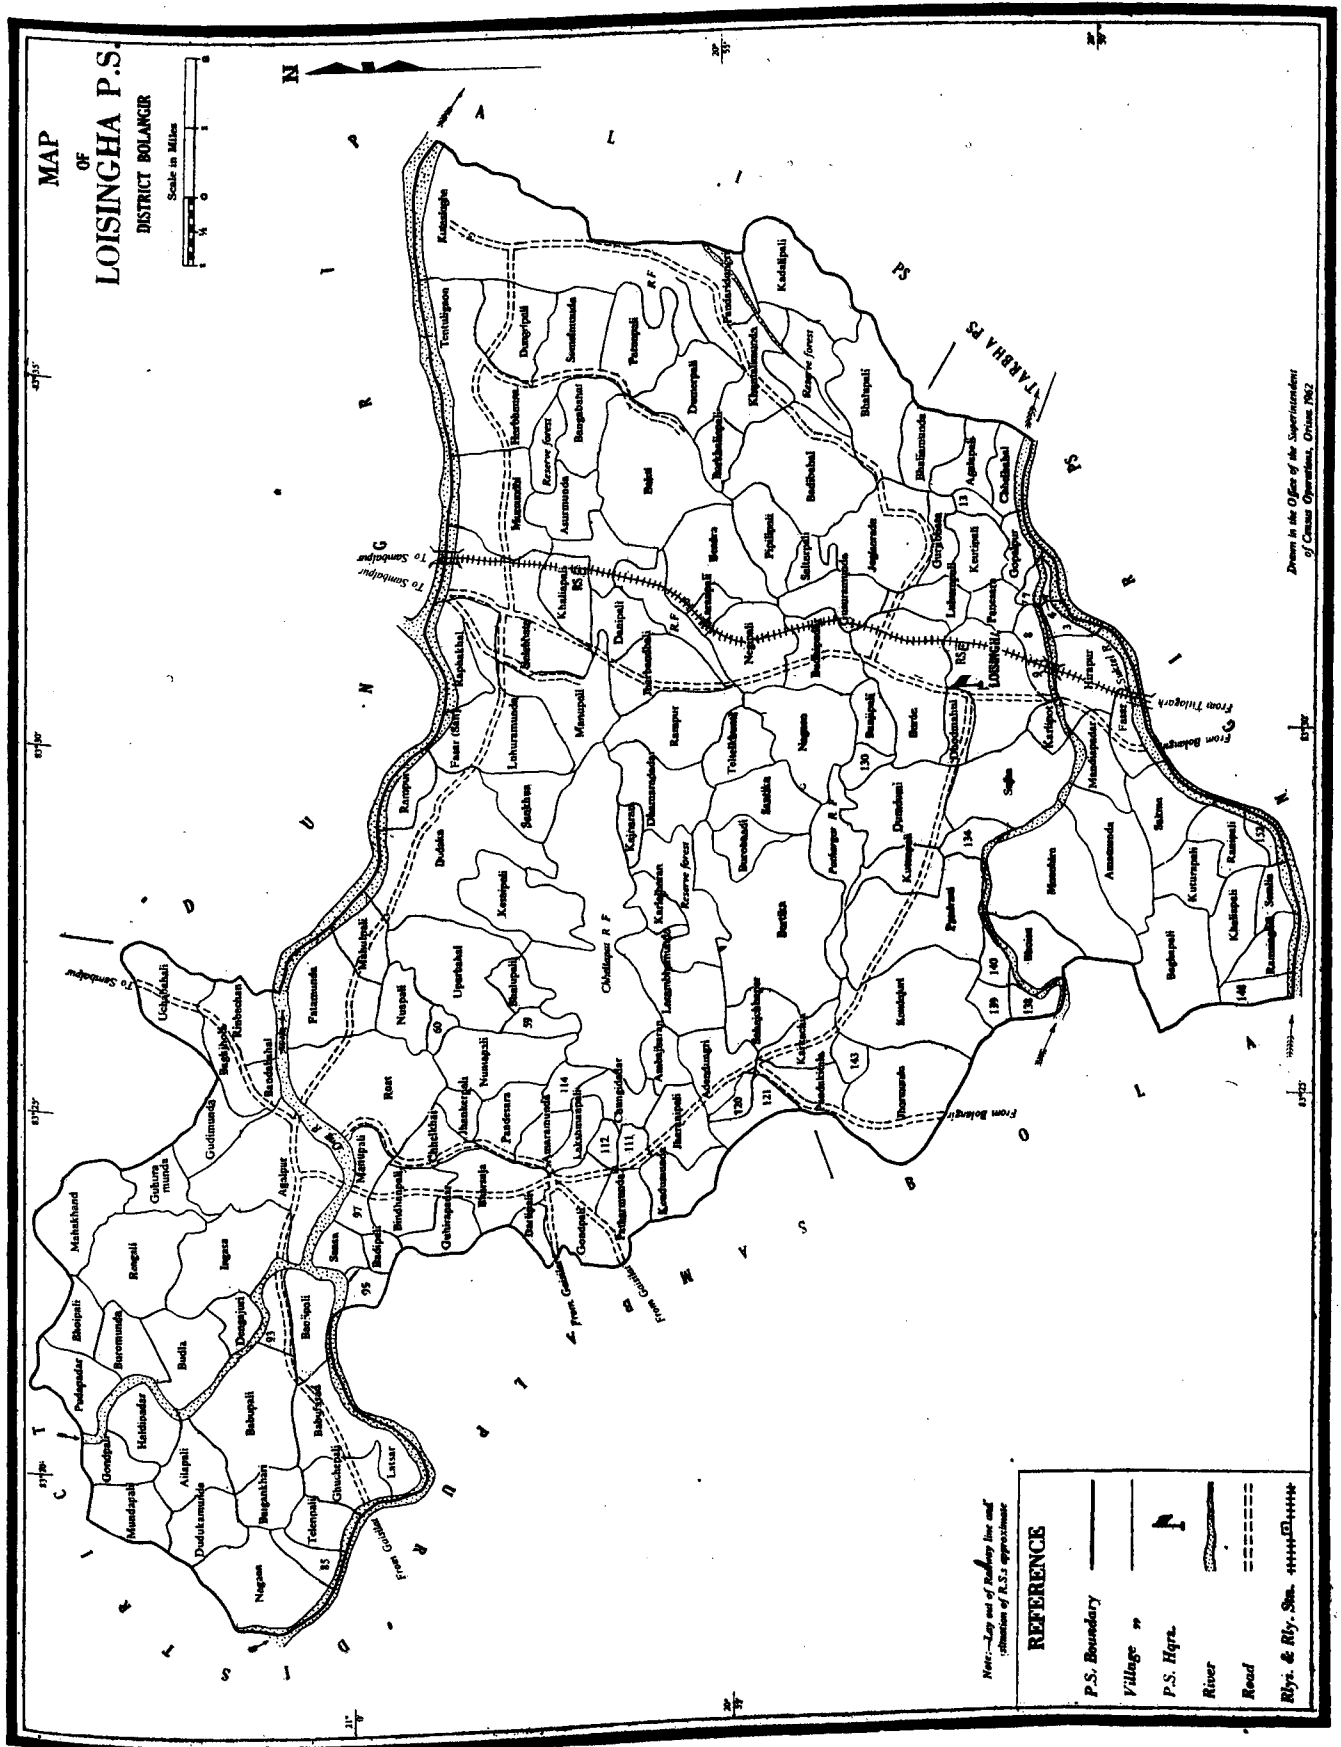

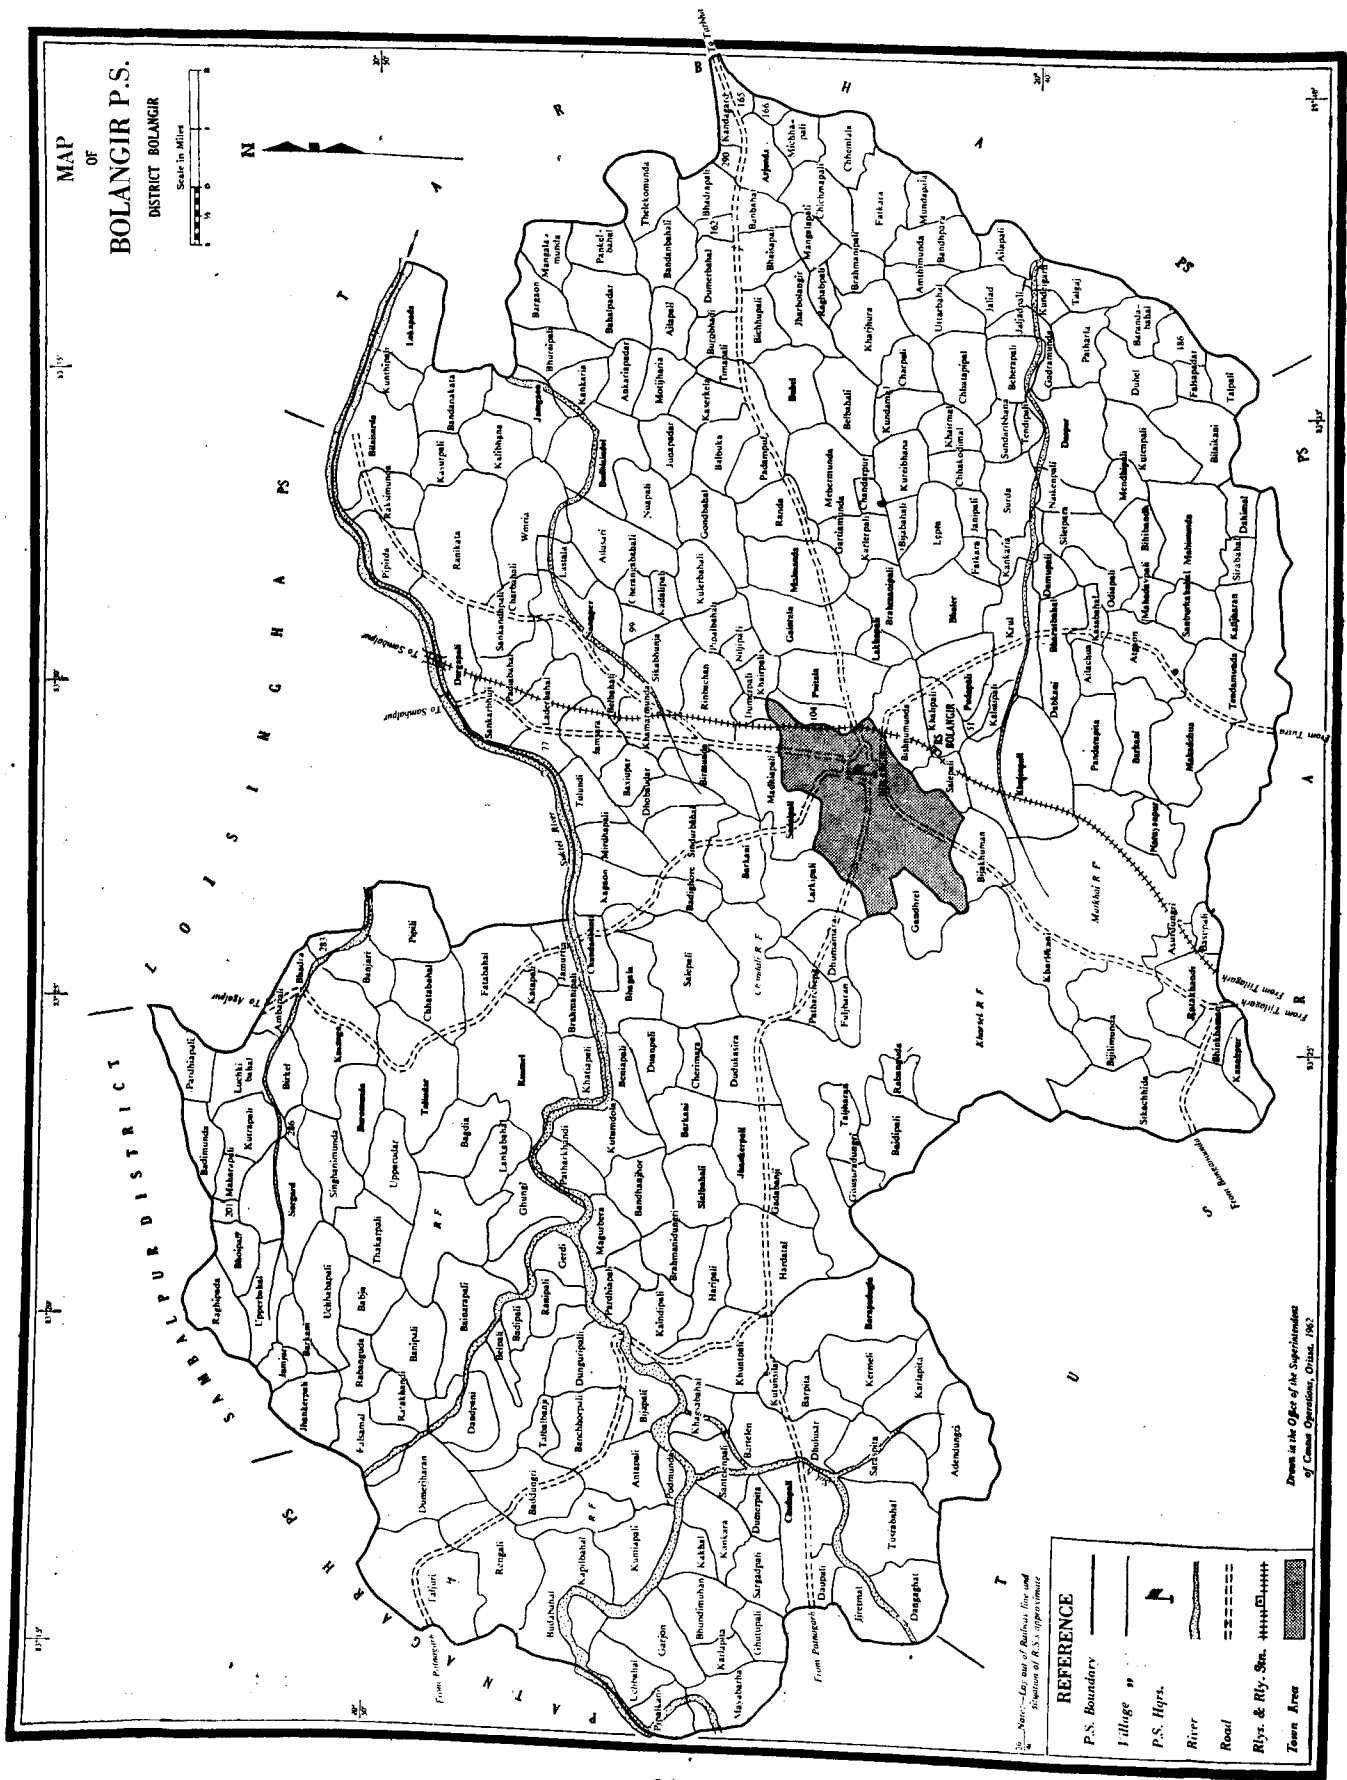

Literacy—Out of the total population of 1,068,686, there are 155,906 who have returned themselves as literates, thus bringing the rate of literacy to 14.6%. Among the males 24.9 per cent are literates whereas among the females the literates are 4.2 per cent. In 1951 the rate of literacy was much lower, namely, 10.1 per cent. The district has 1,058 Primary Schools, 52 M.E. Schools and 10 High Schools.

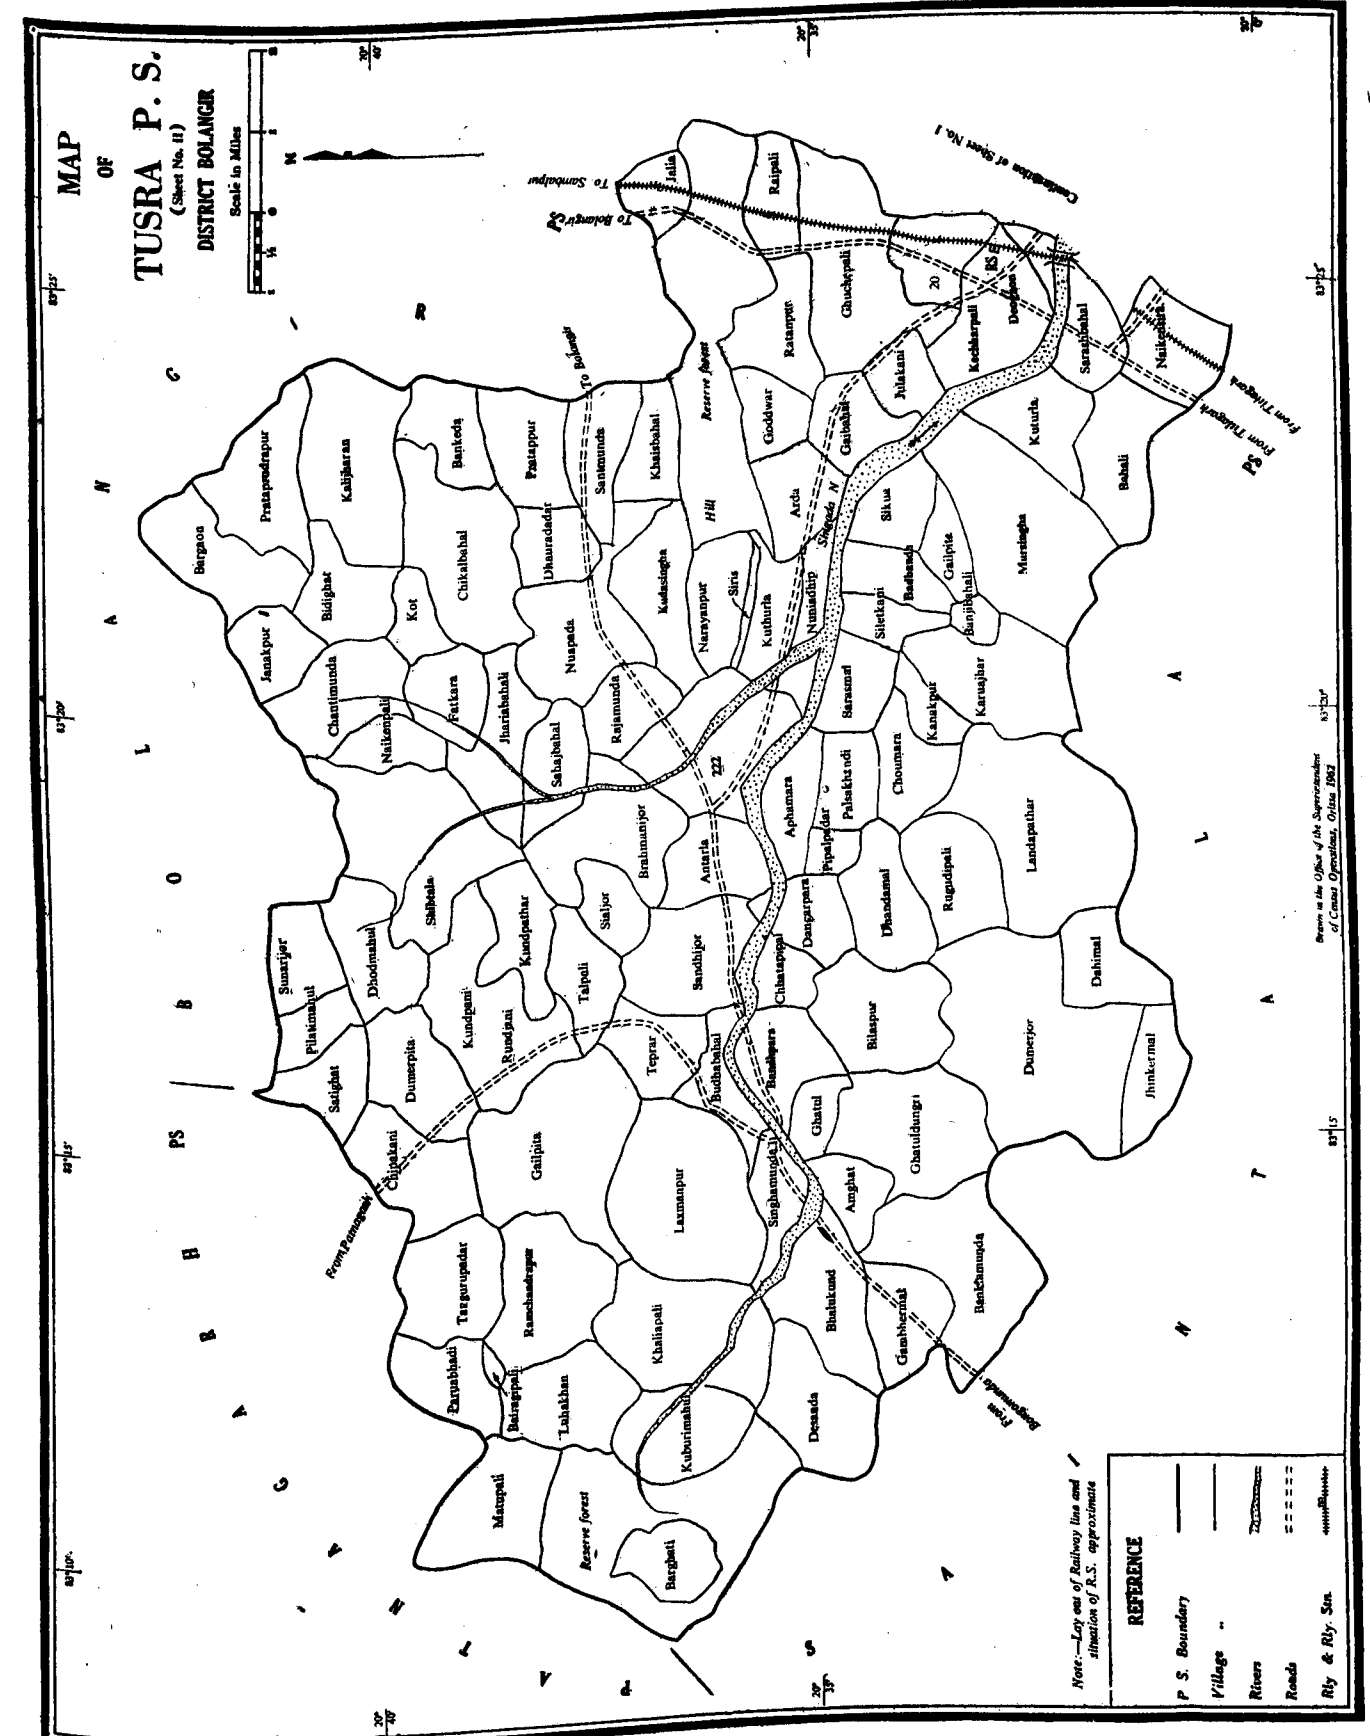

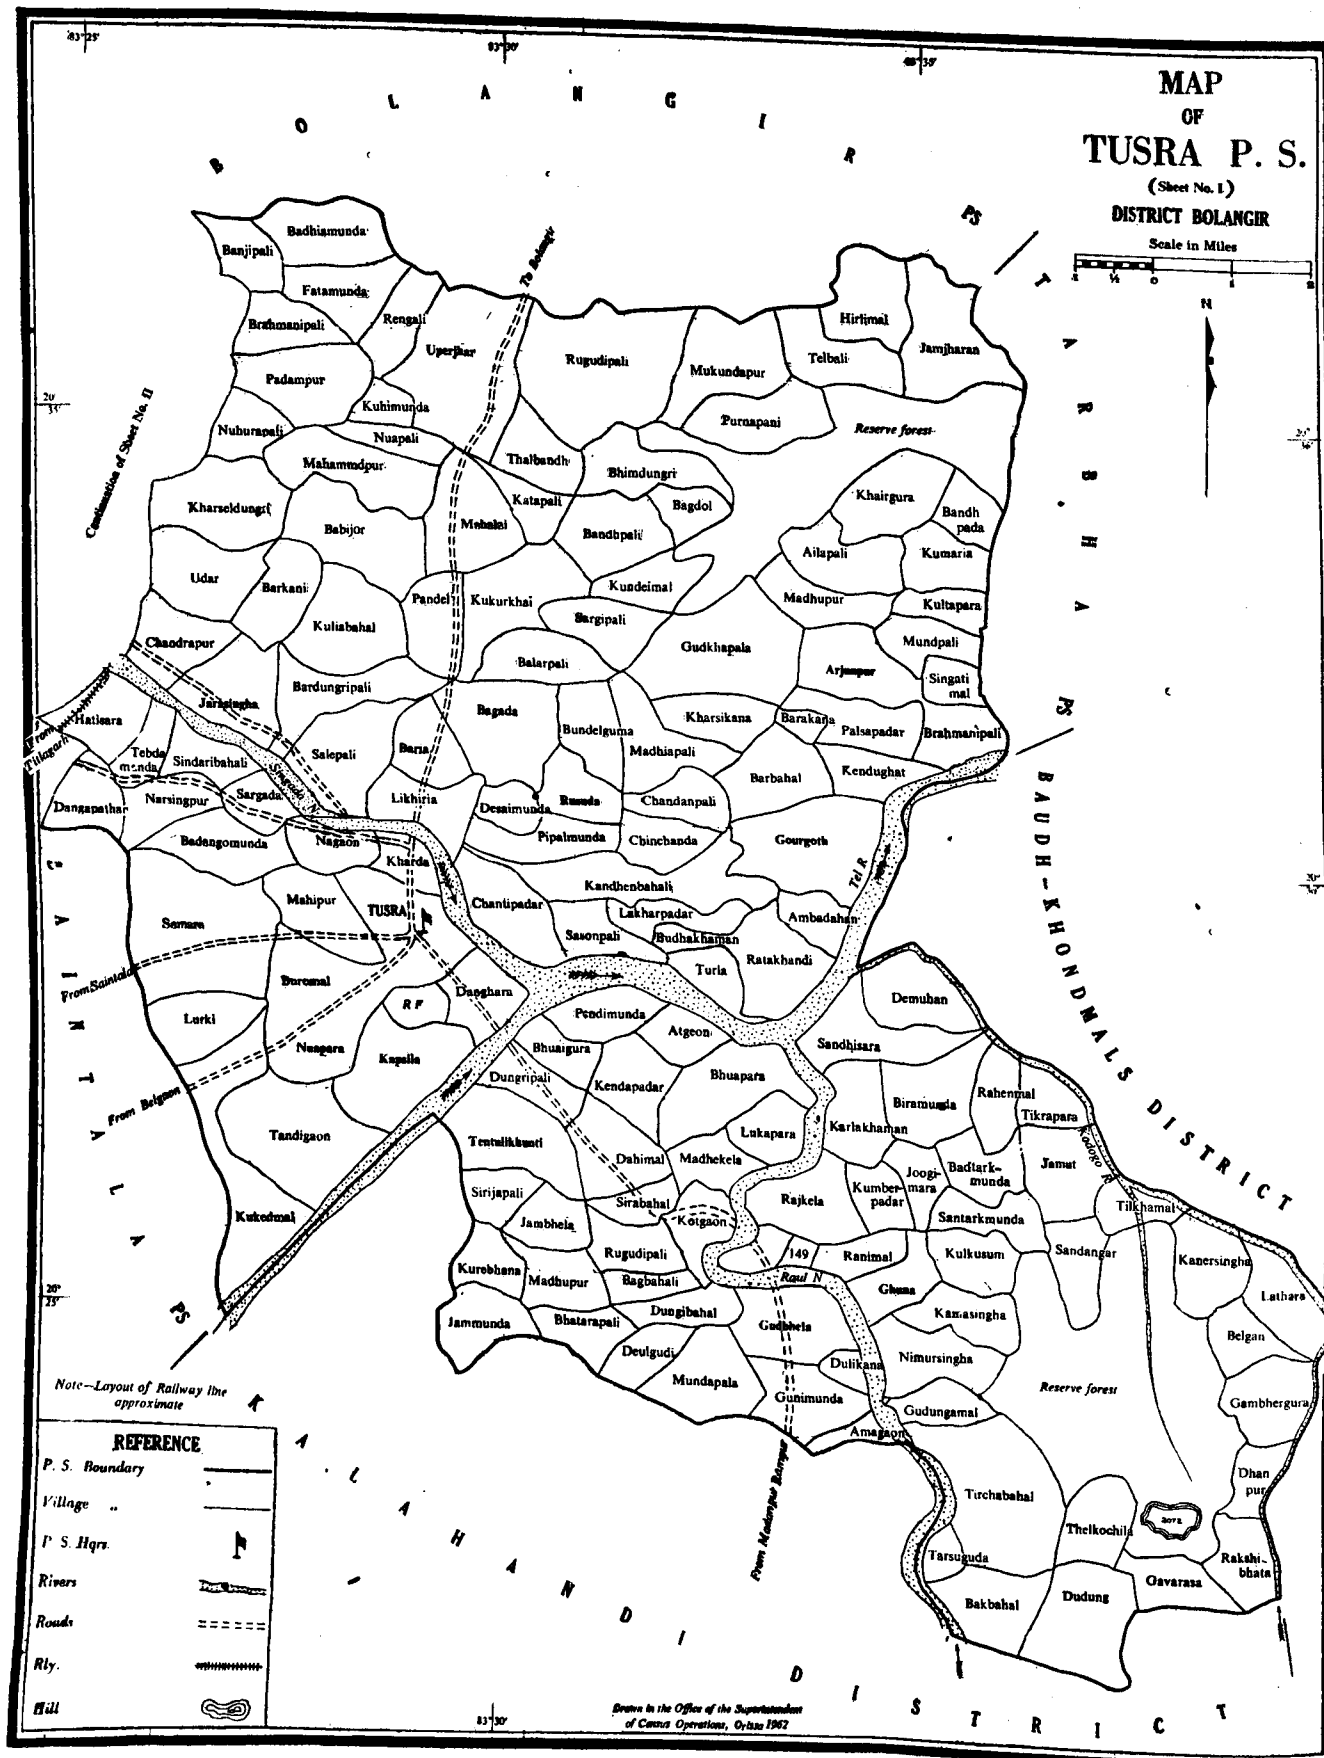

Industries—The number of industrial establishments including small scale industries carried in a household are 15,531 in the district. As per the list in the I.S.I.C. Scheme, there are 61 kinds of industries. The statement below gives a list of industries which are most extensively found in the district:

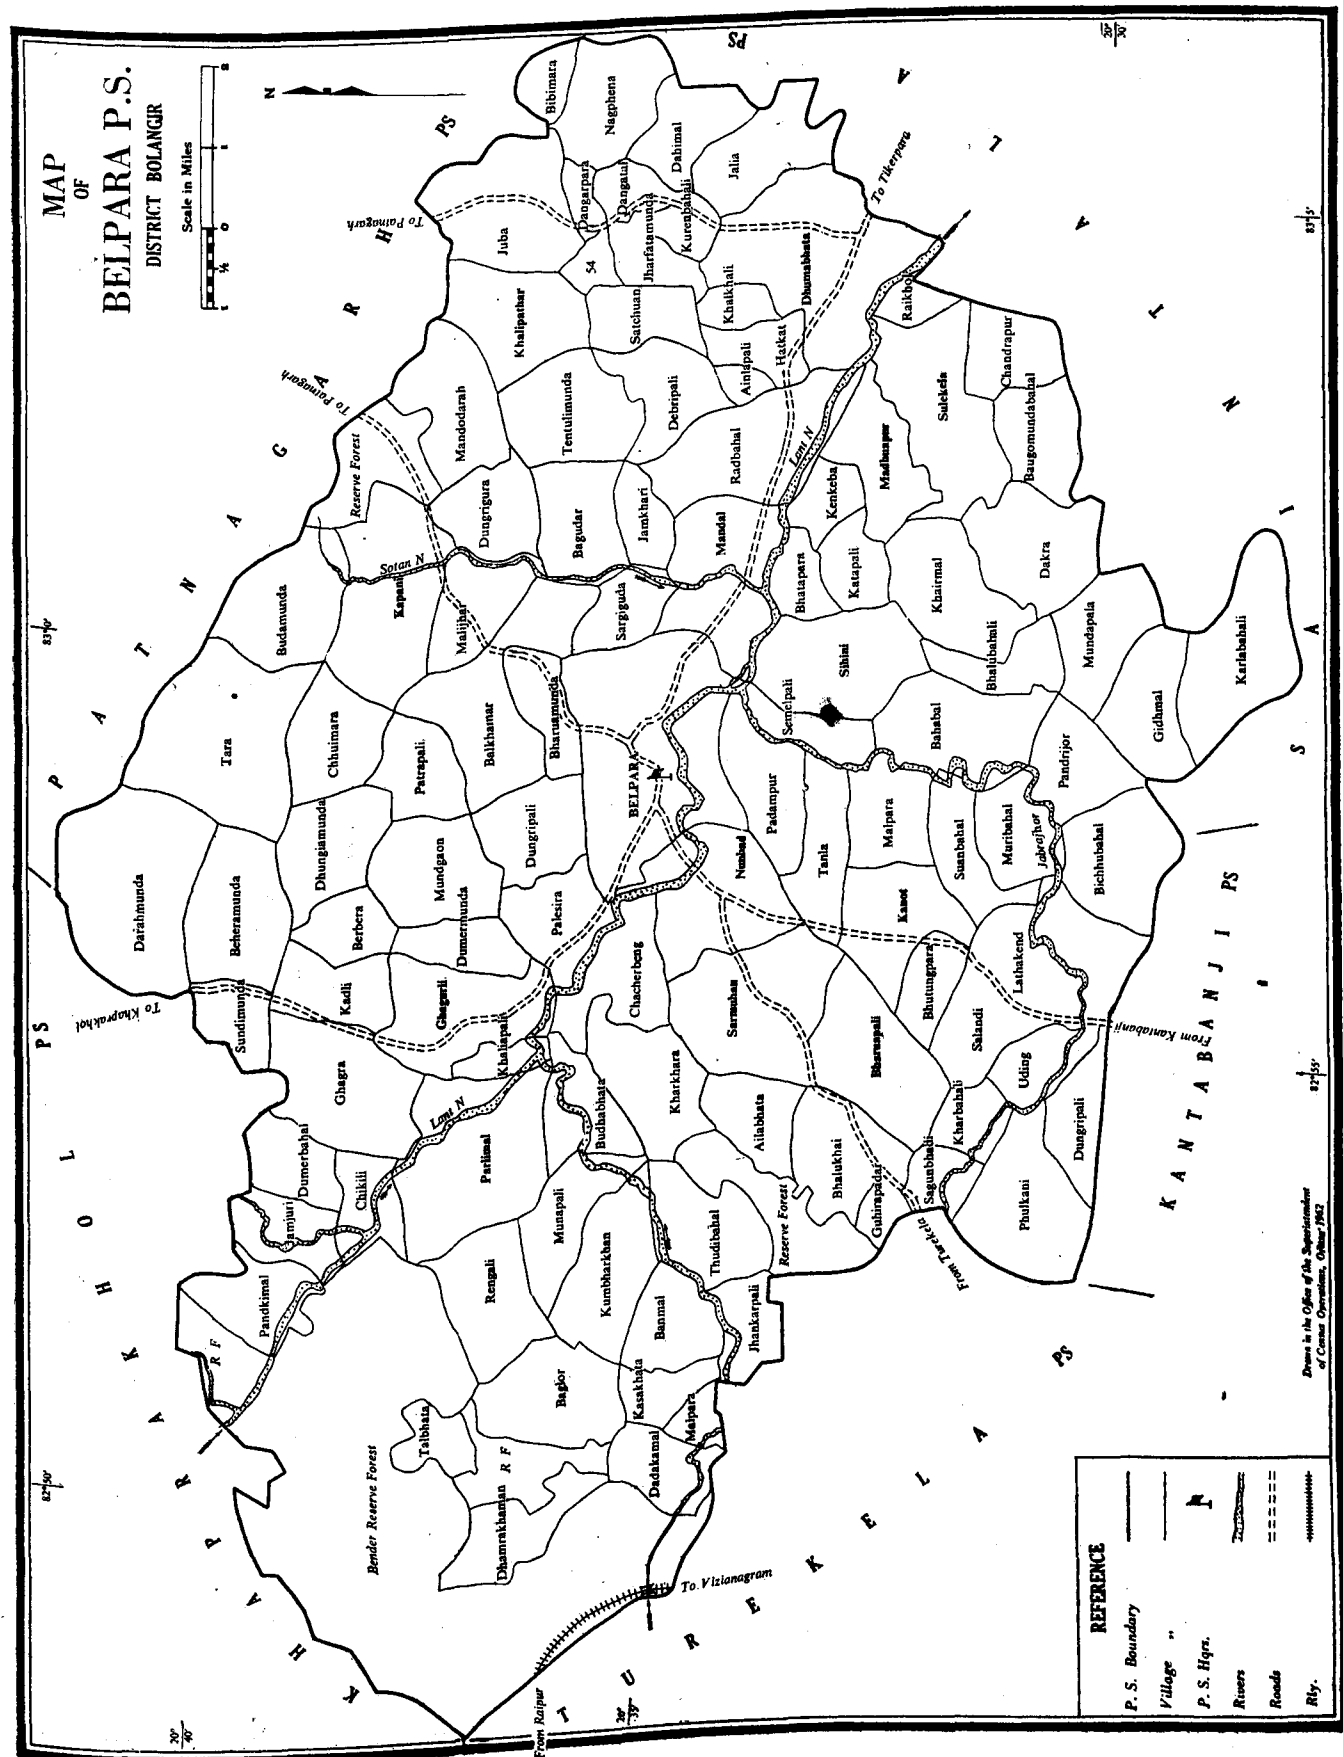

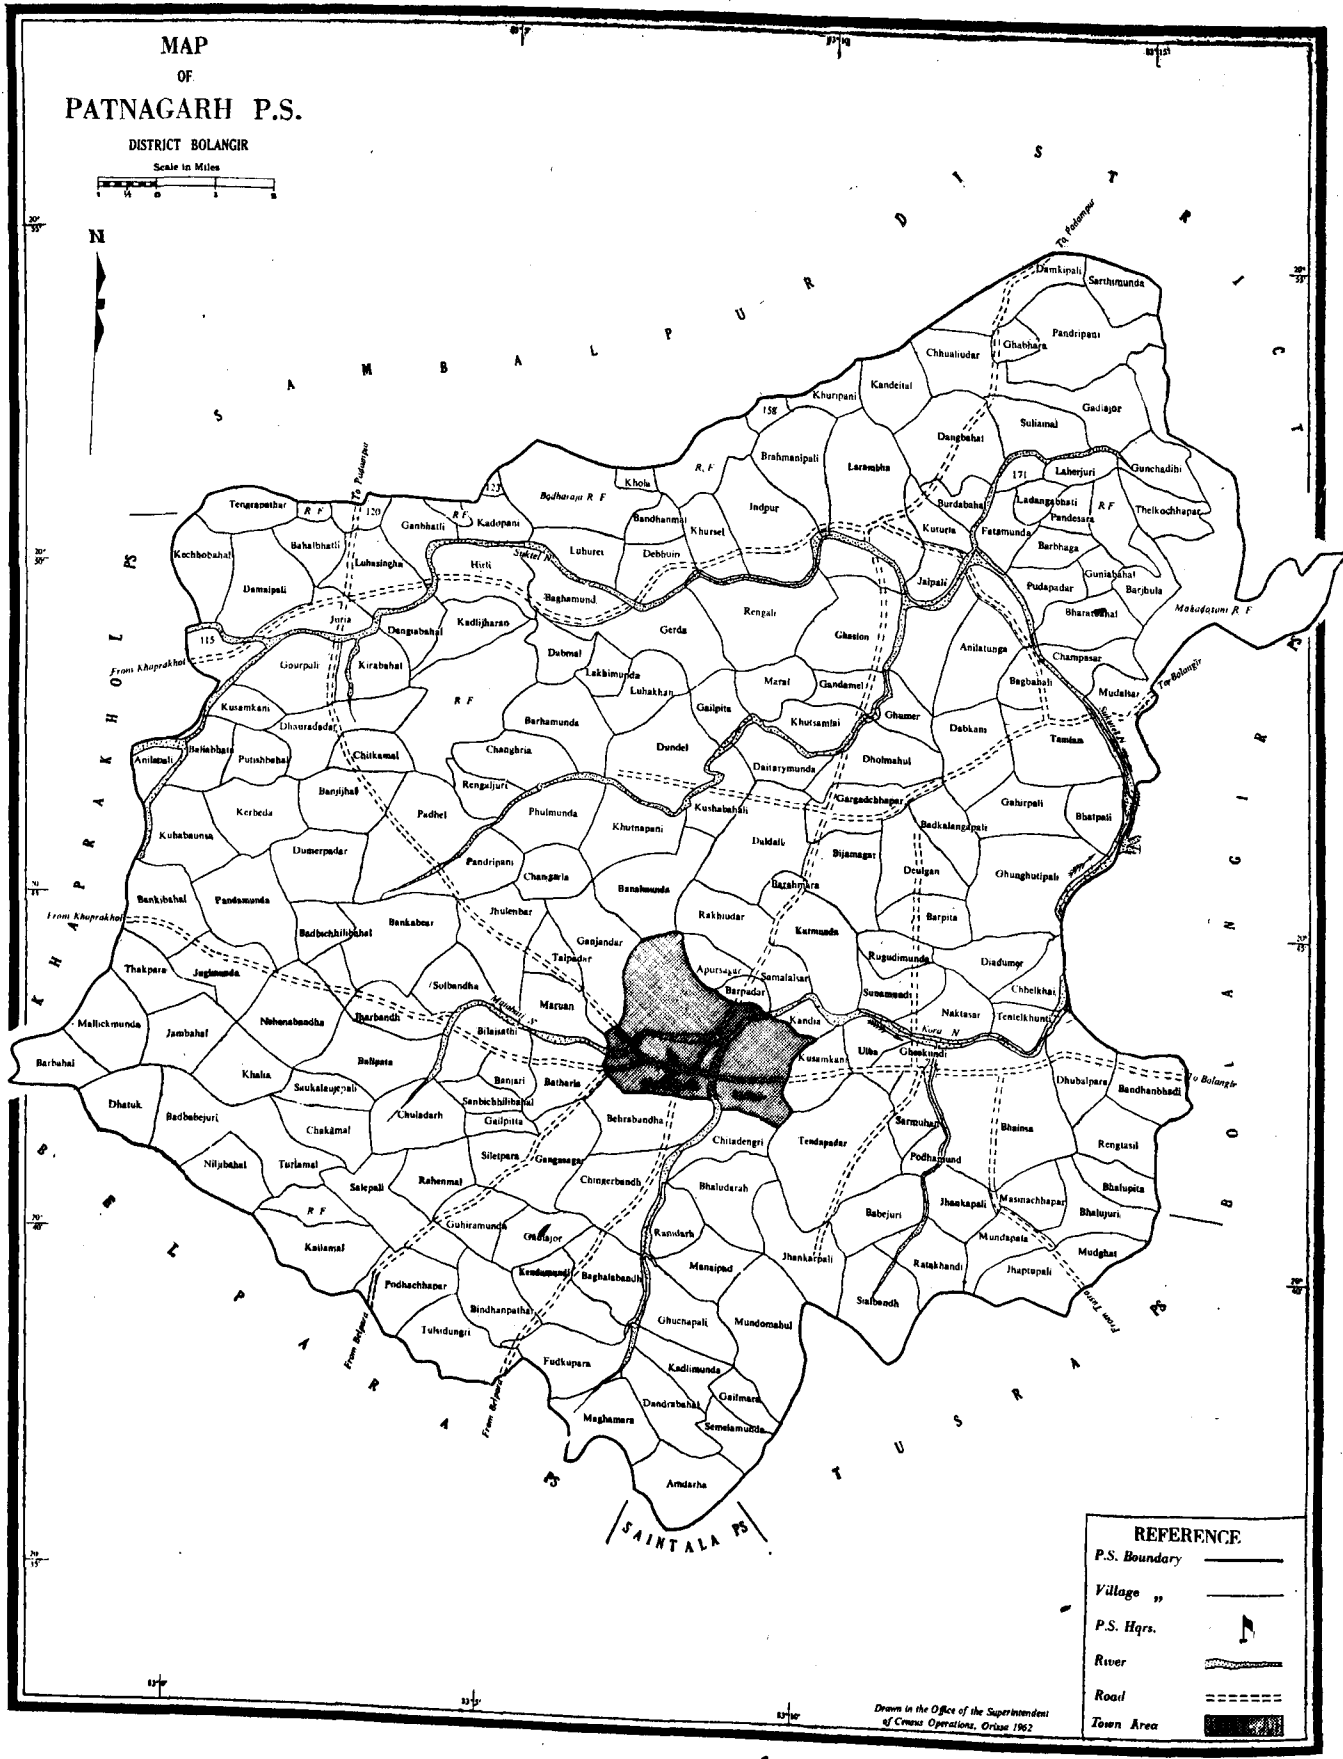

Name of industry	Total no. of establishments	No. of persons engaged
Cotton weaving in handlooms	6,450	22,403
Manufacture of earthenwares and earthen potteries	1,923	6,335
Production of edible fats and oils (other than hydrogenated oil)	1,665	5,315
Manufacture of jewellery and wares using gold and other precious metals	1,551	3,067
Manufacture of materials from cork, bamboo, cane, leaves, etc.	1,036	3,204
Manufacture of sundry hardware	791	2,480
Manufacture of structural wooden goods, such as, beams, posts, doors, windows	733	1,656

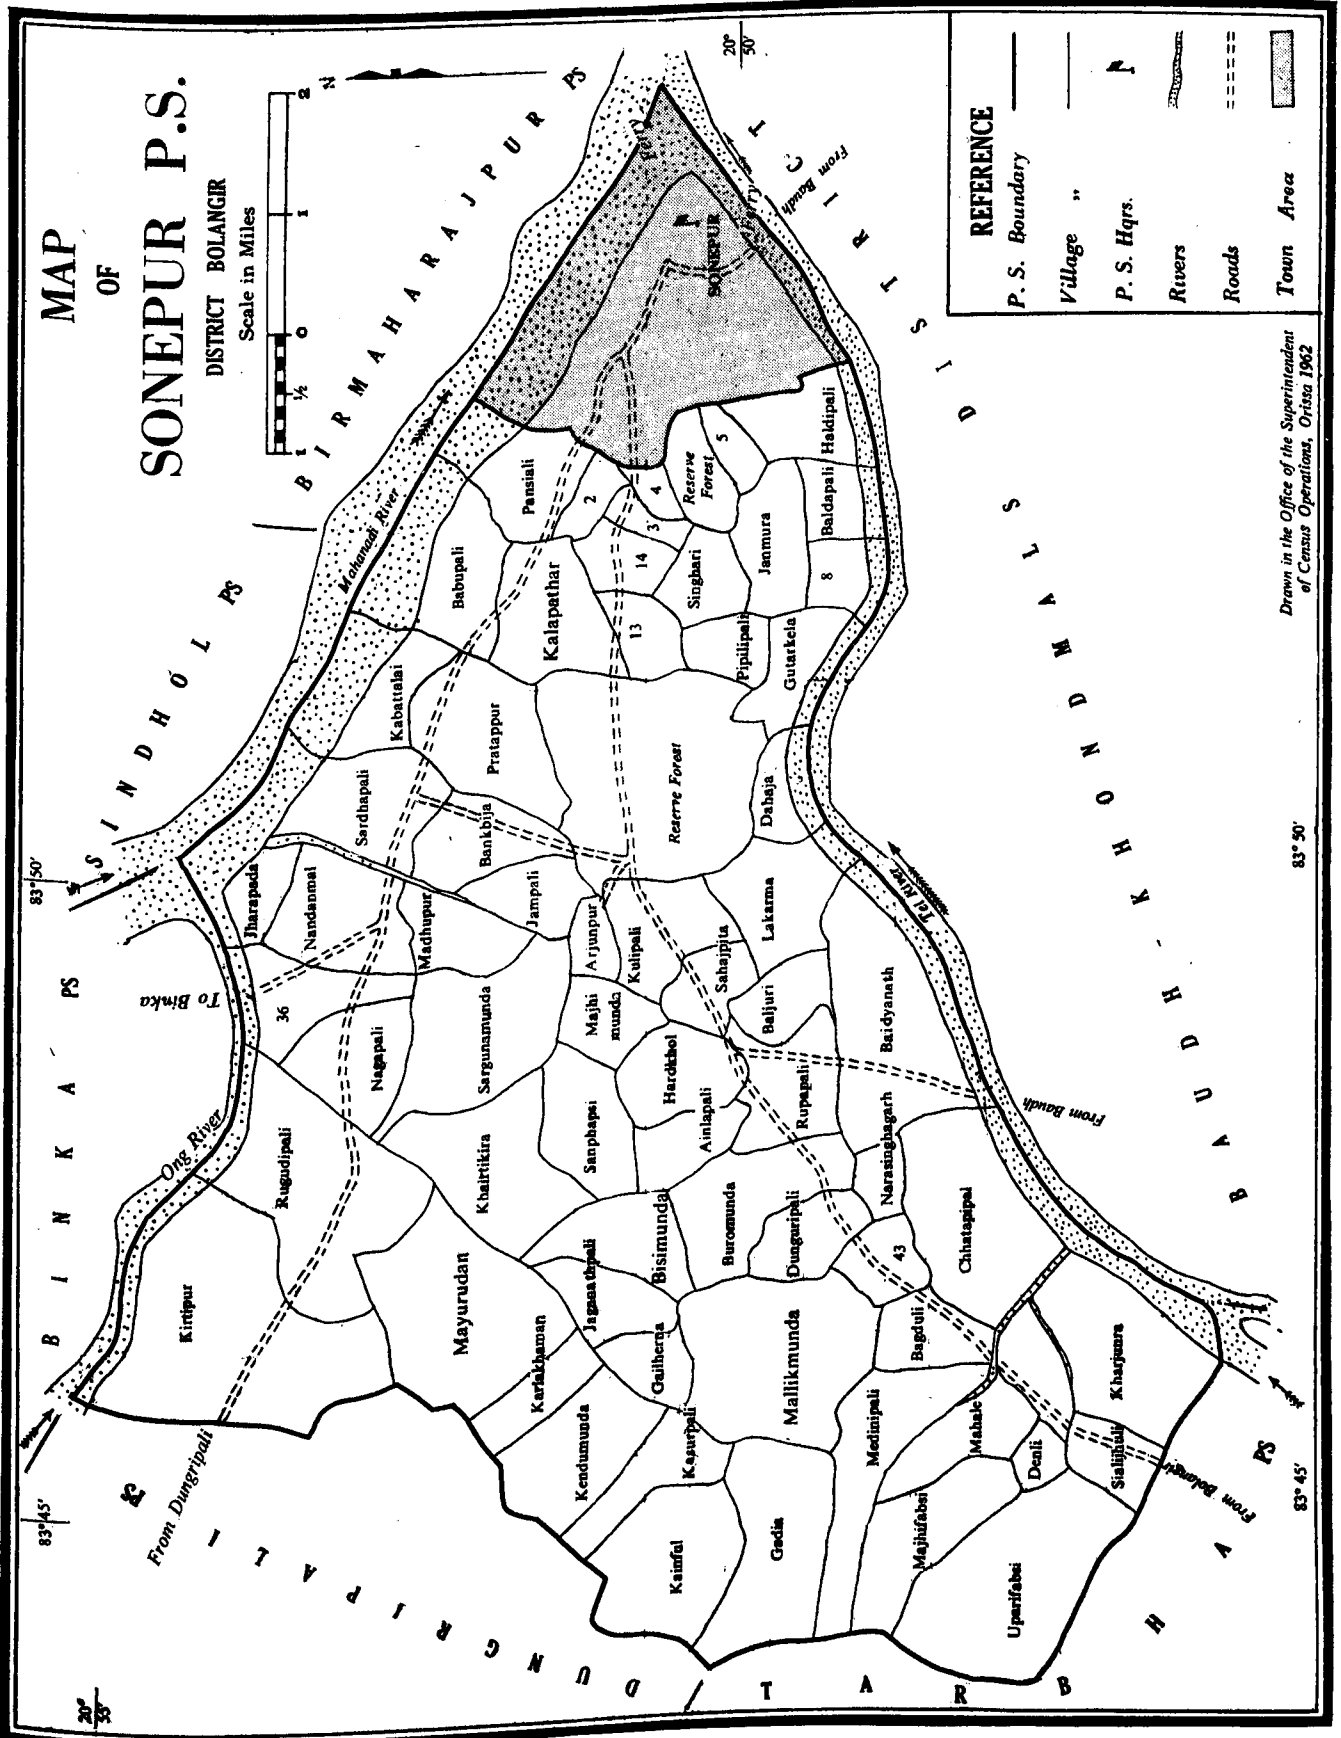

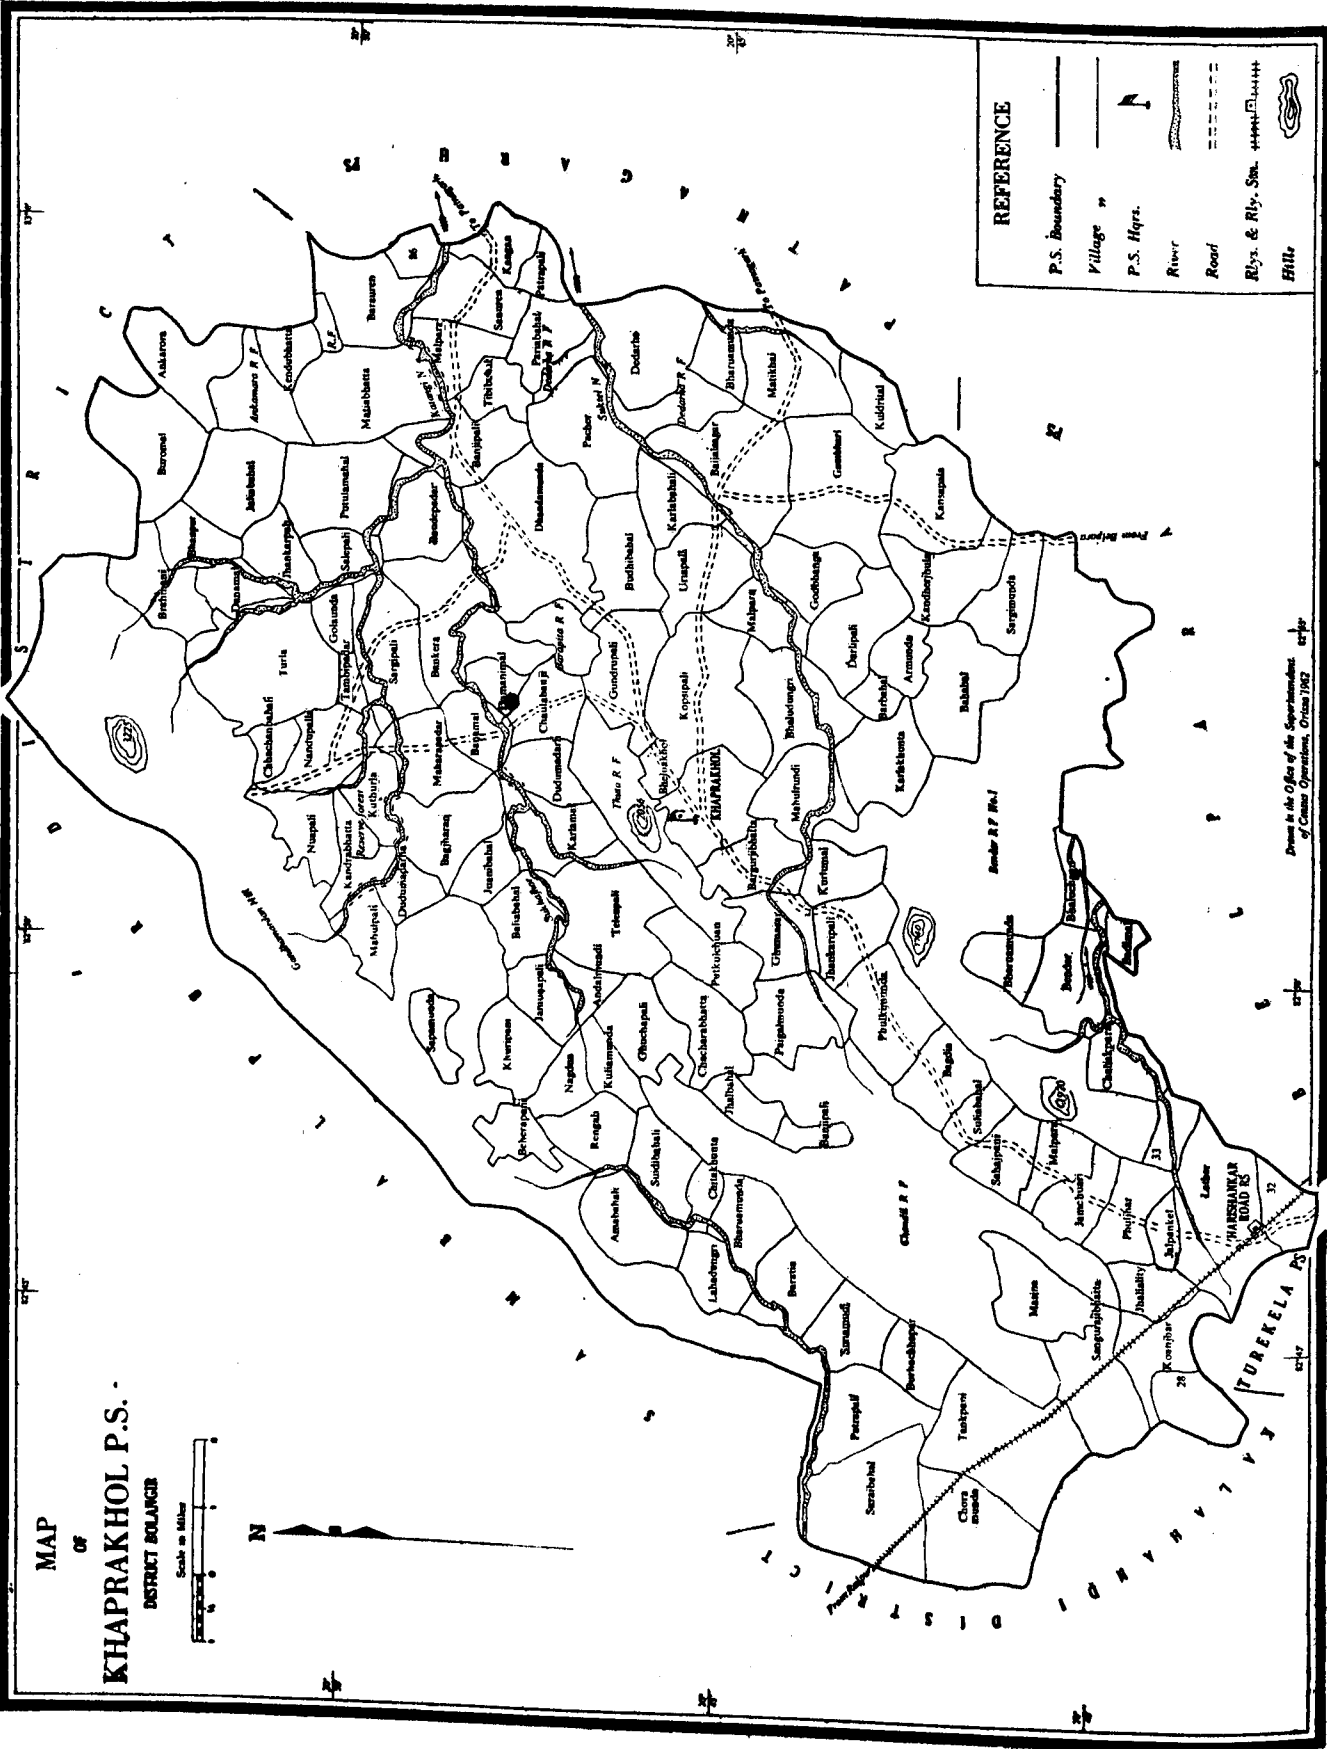

Agriculture—Out of the total area of the district comprising 2,183,424 acres, net area sown is 976,750 acres which increases to 1,023,424 acres (46.9%) if current fallows are included. The area under irrigation is 124,181 acres (5.7%). Rice, kodo and pulses, notably kulthi as well as oil-seeds, such as, sesamum constitute principal crops. The quantity of rice produced annually is 159,895 tons which is mostly used for internal consumption, leaving a small surplus for export in good harvest years.

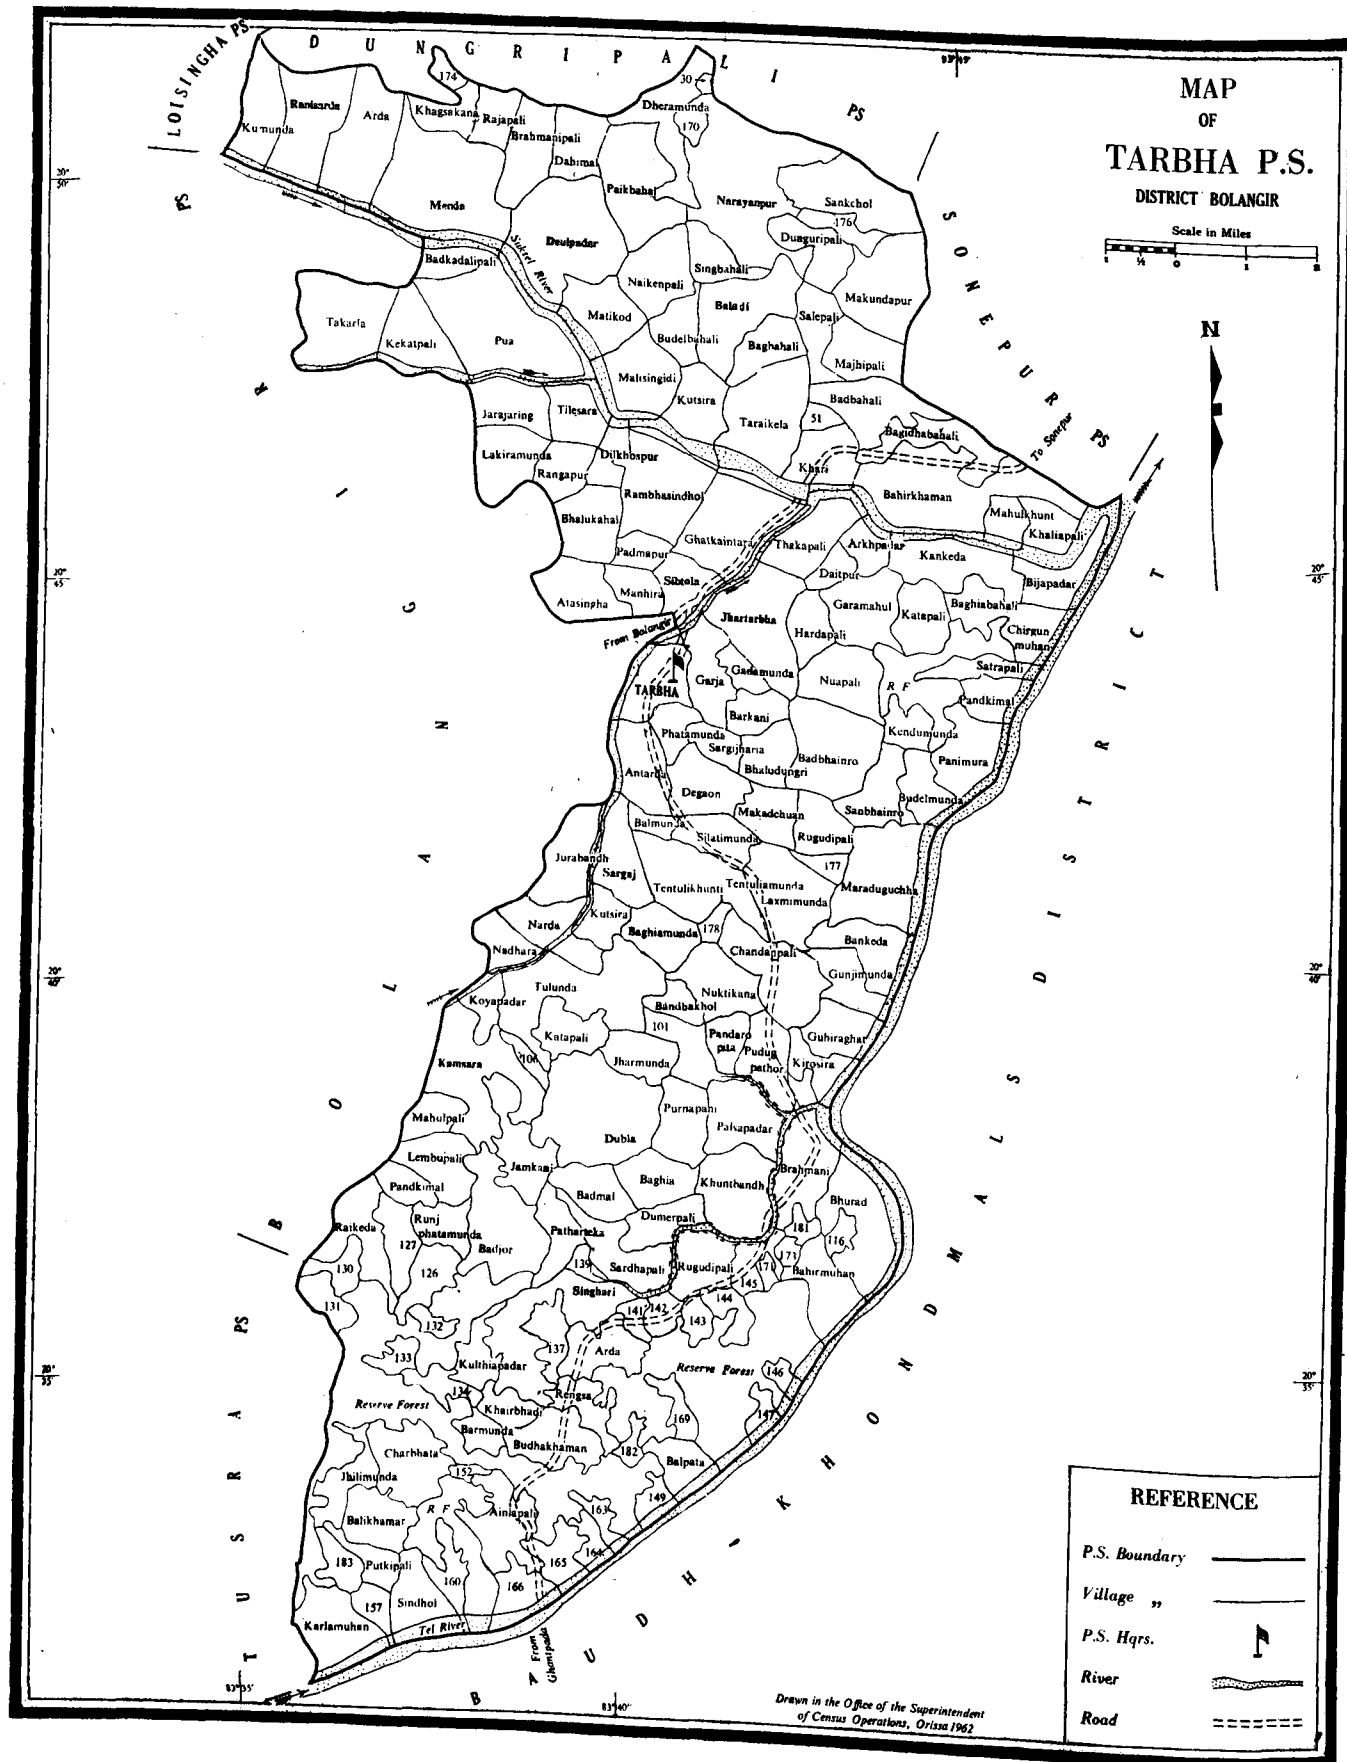

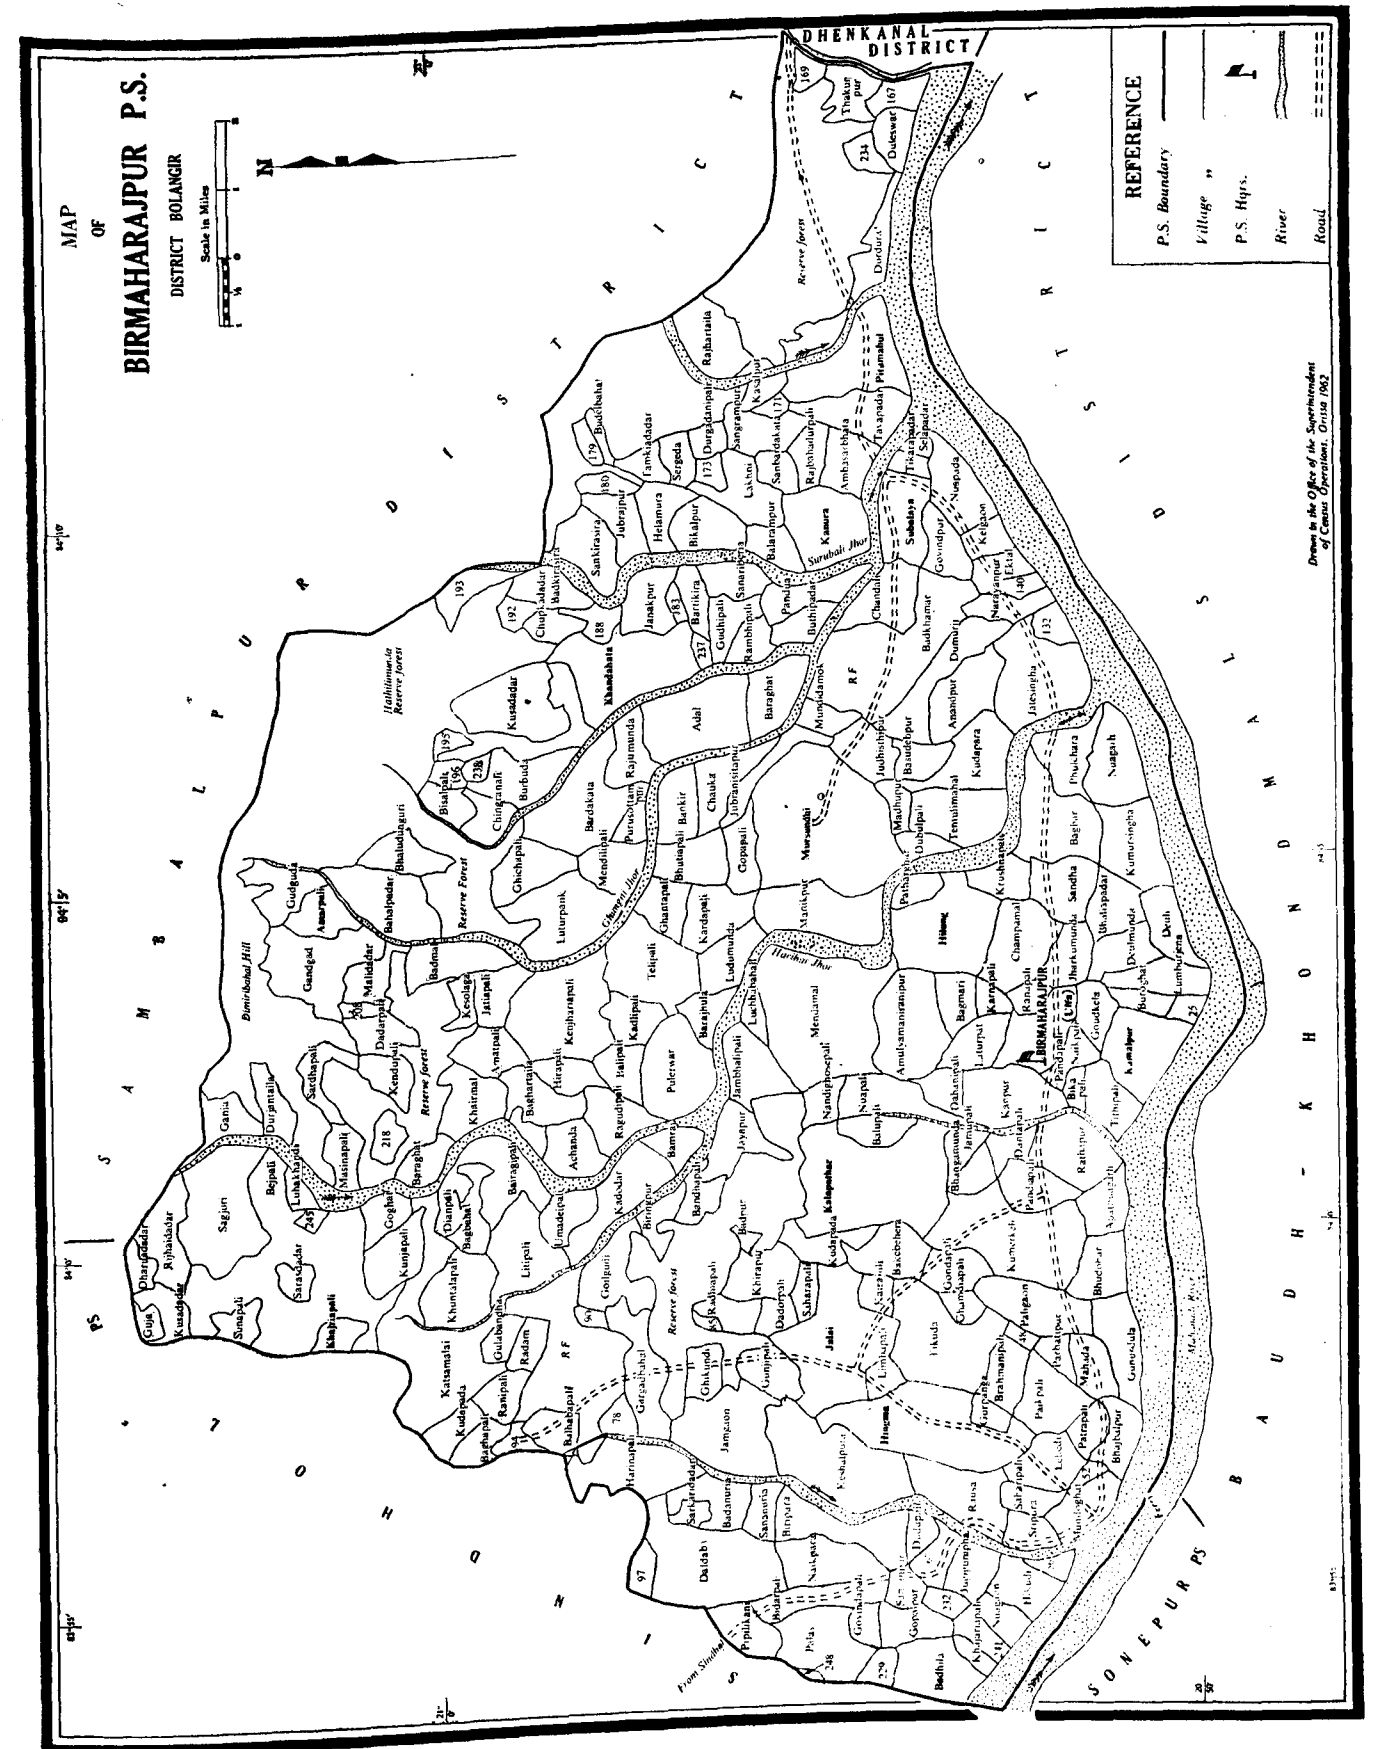

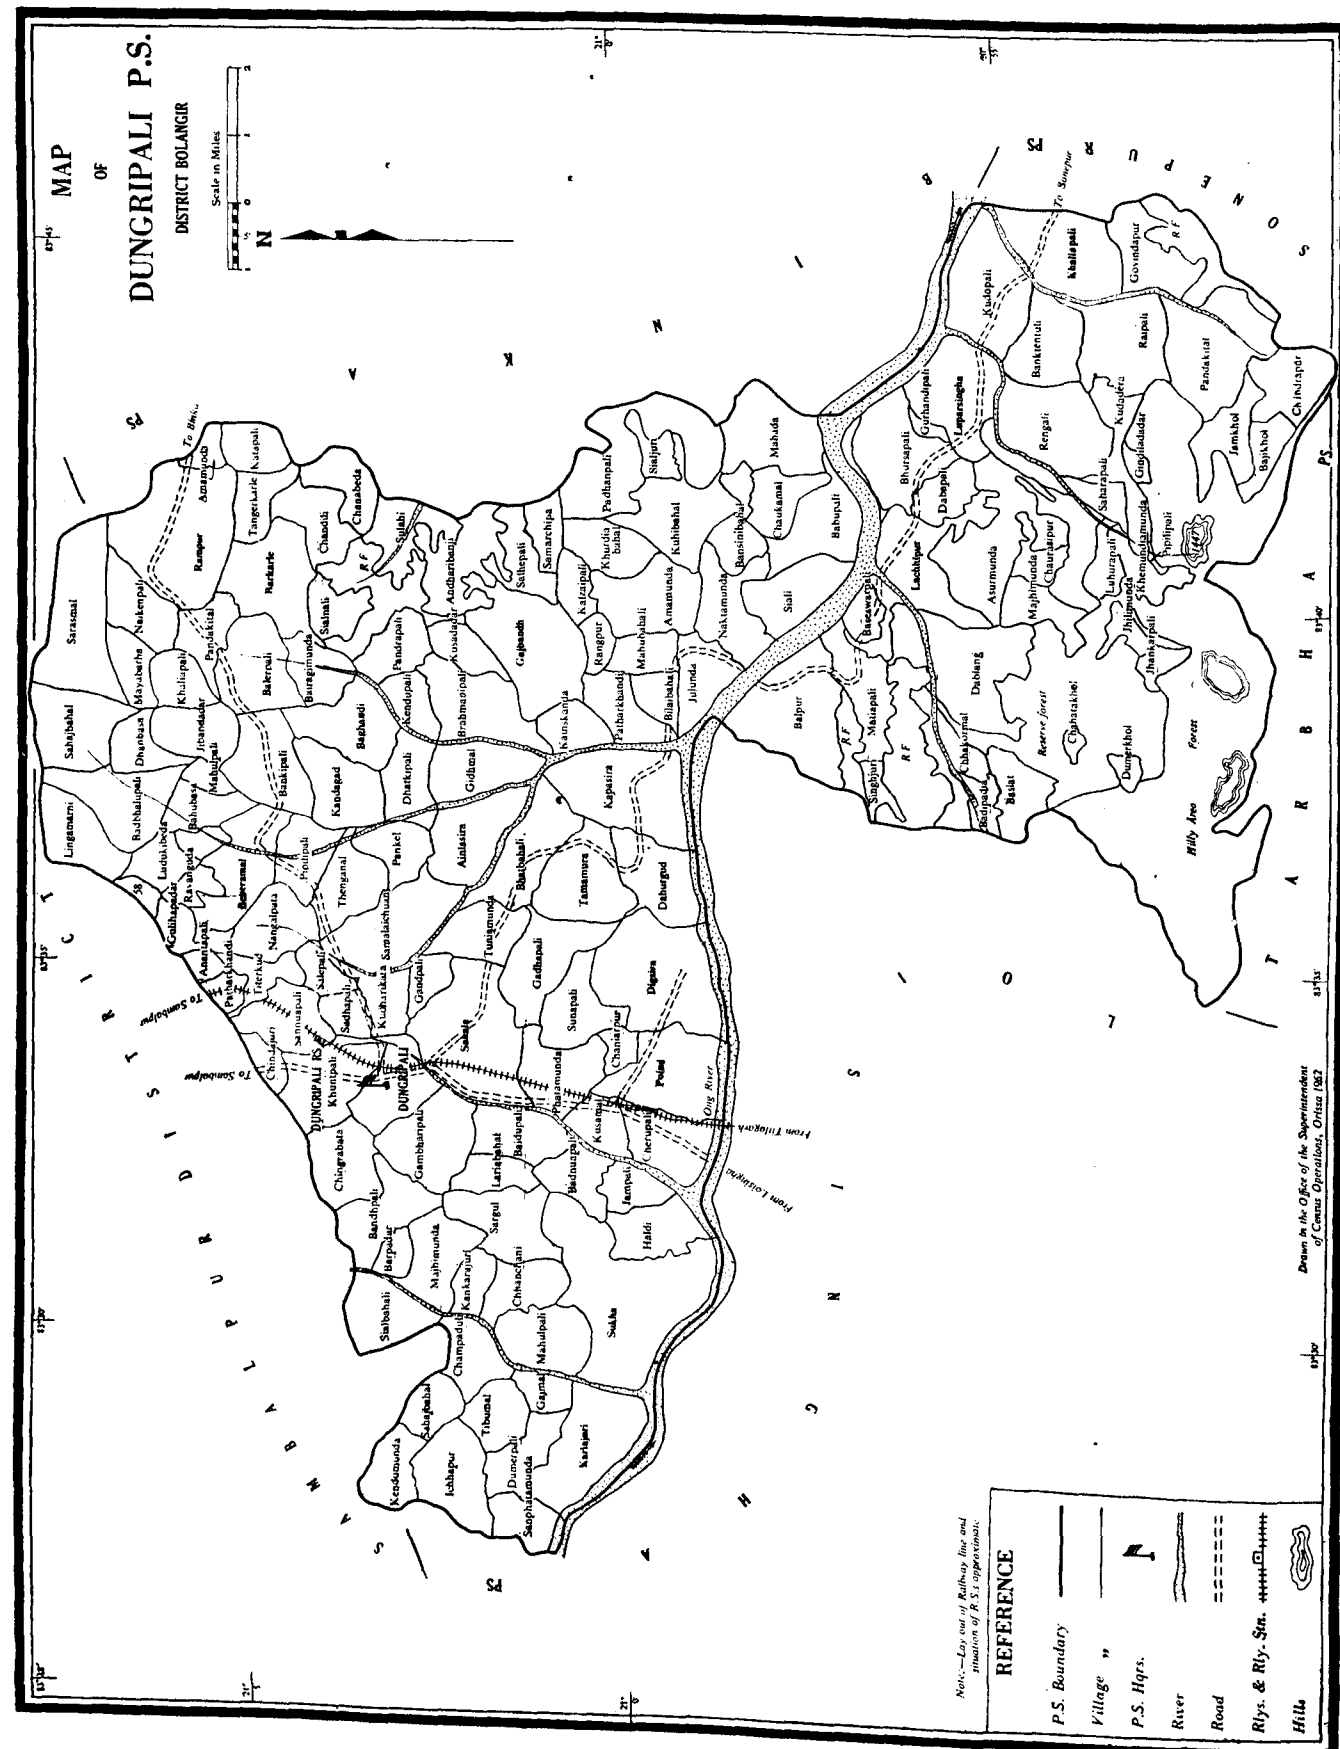

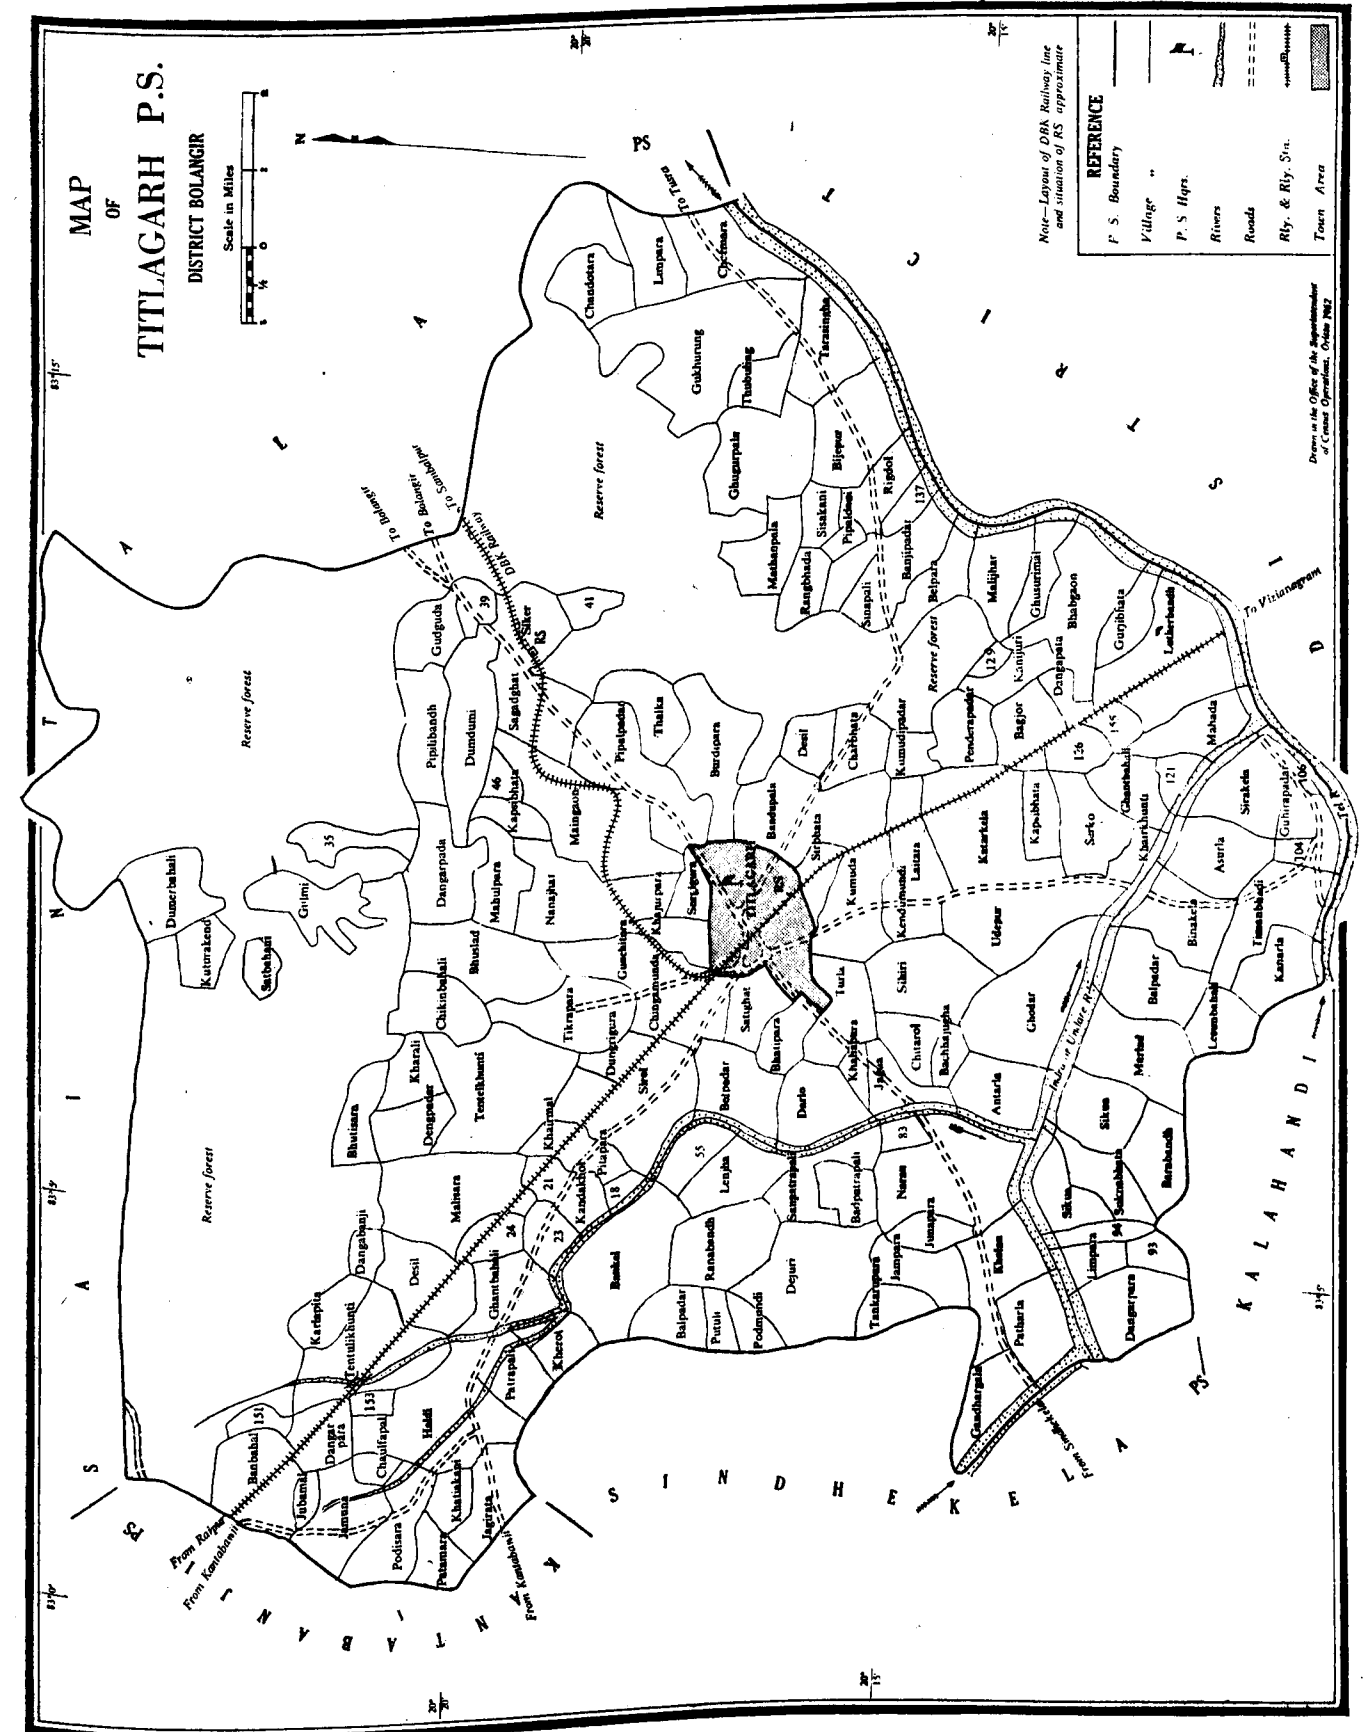

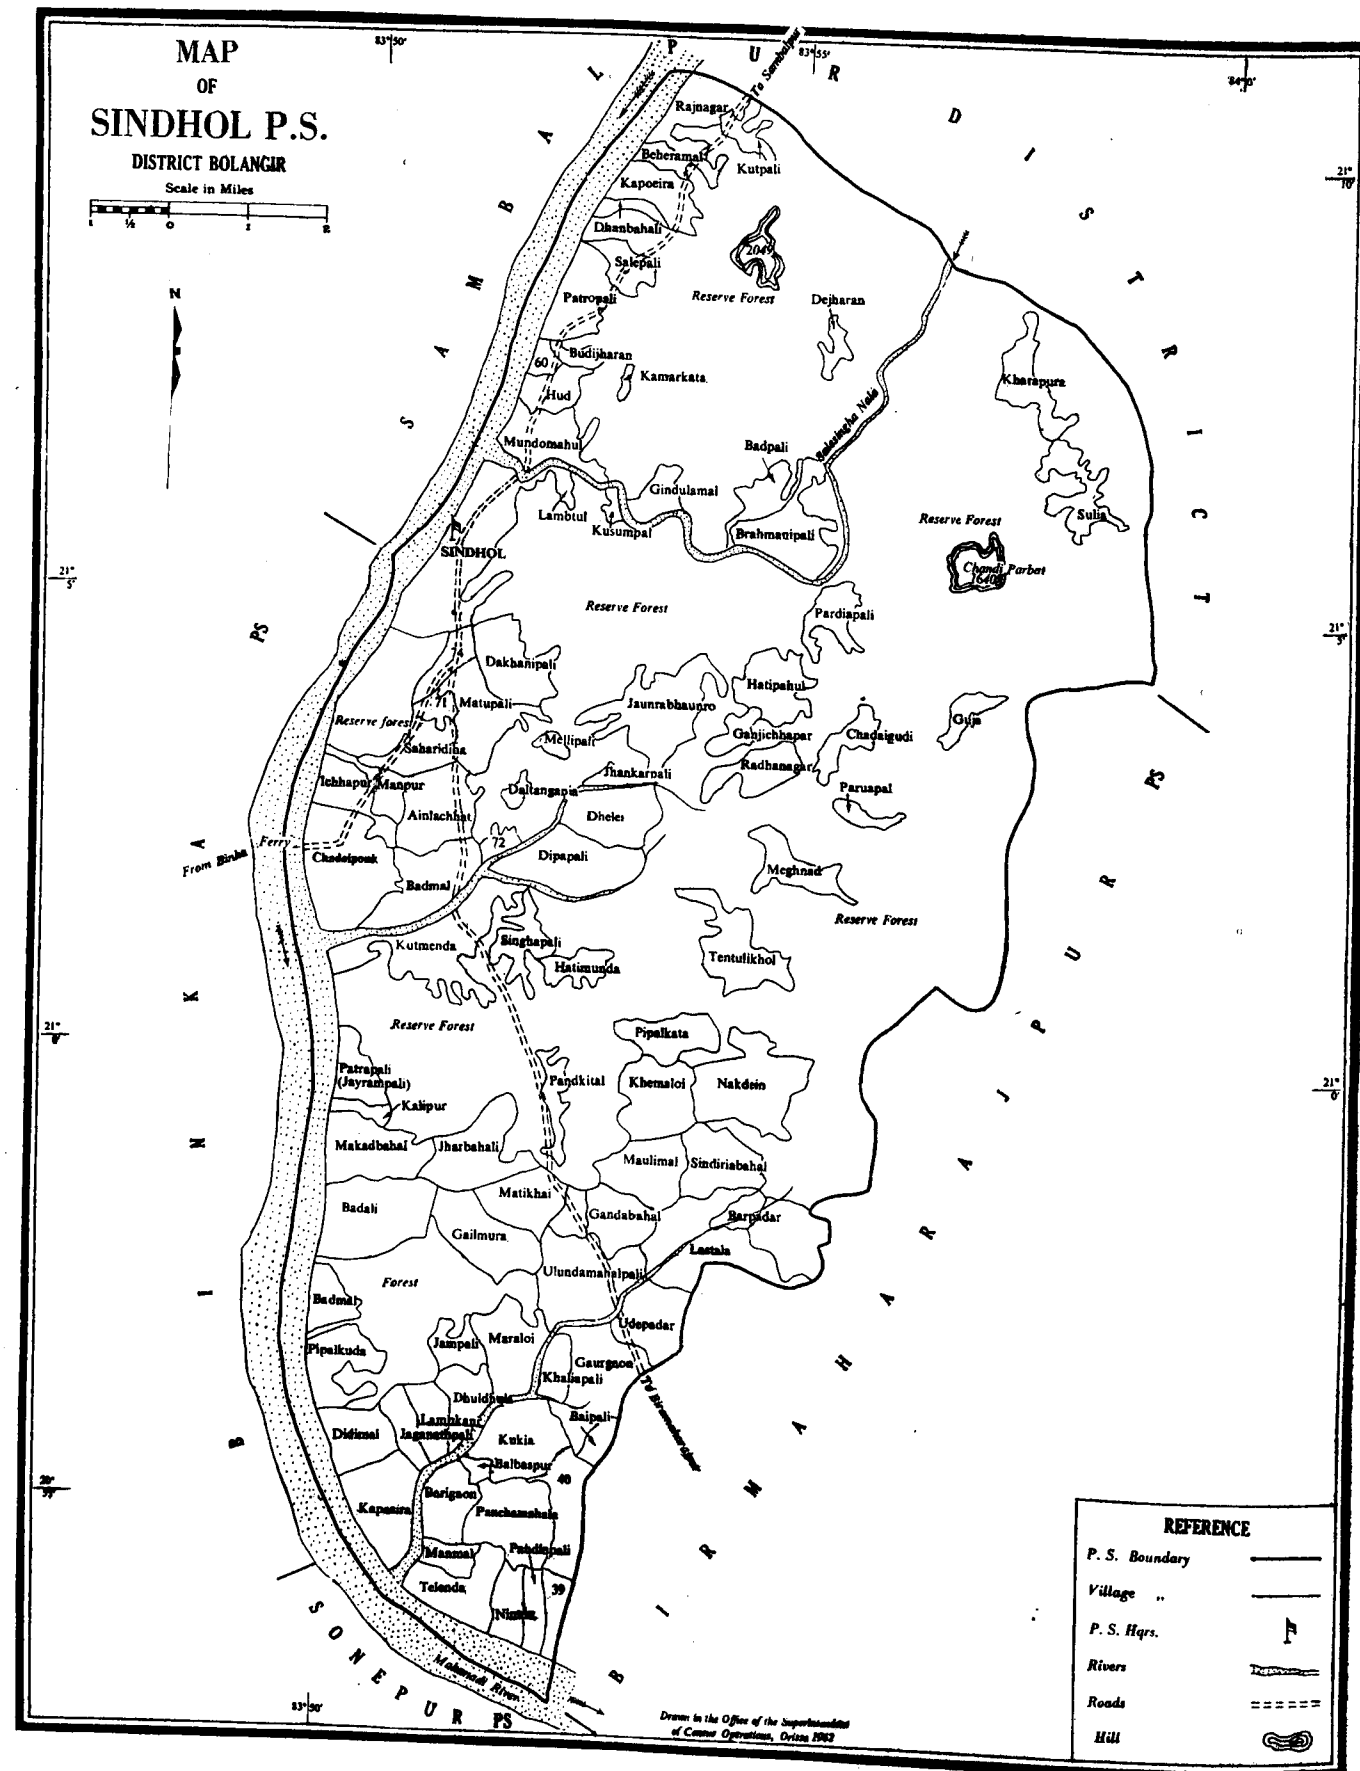

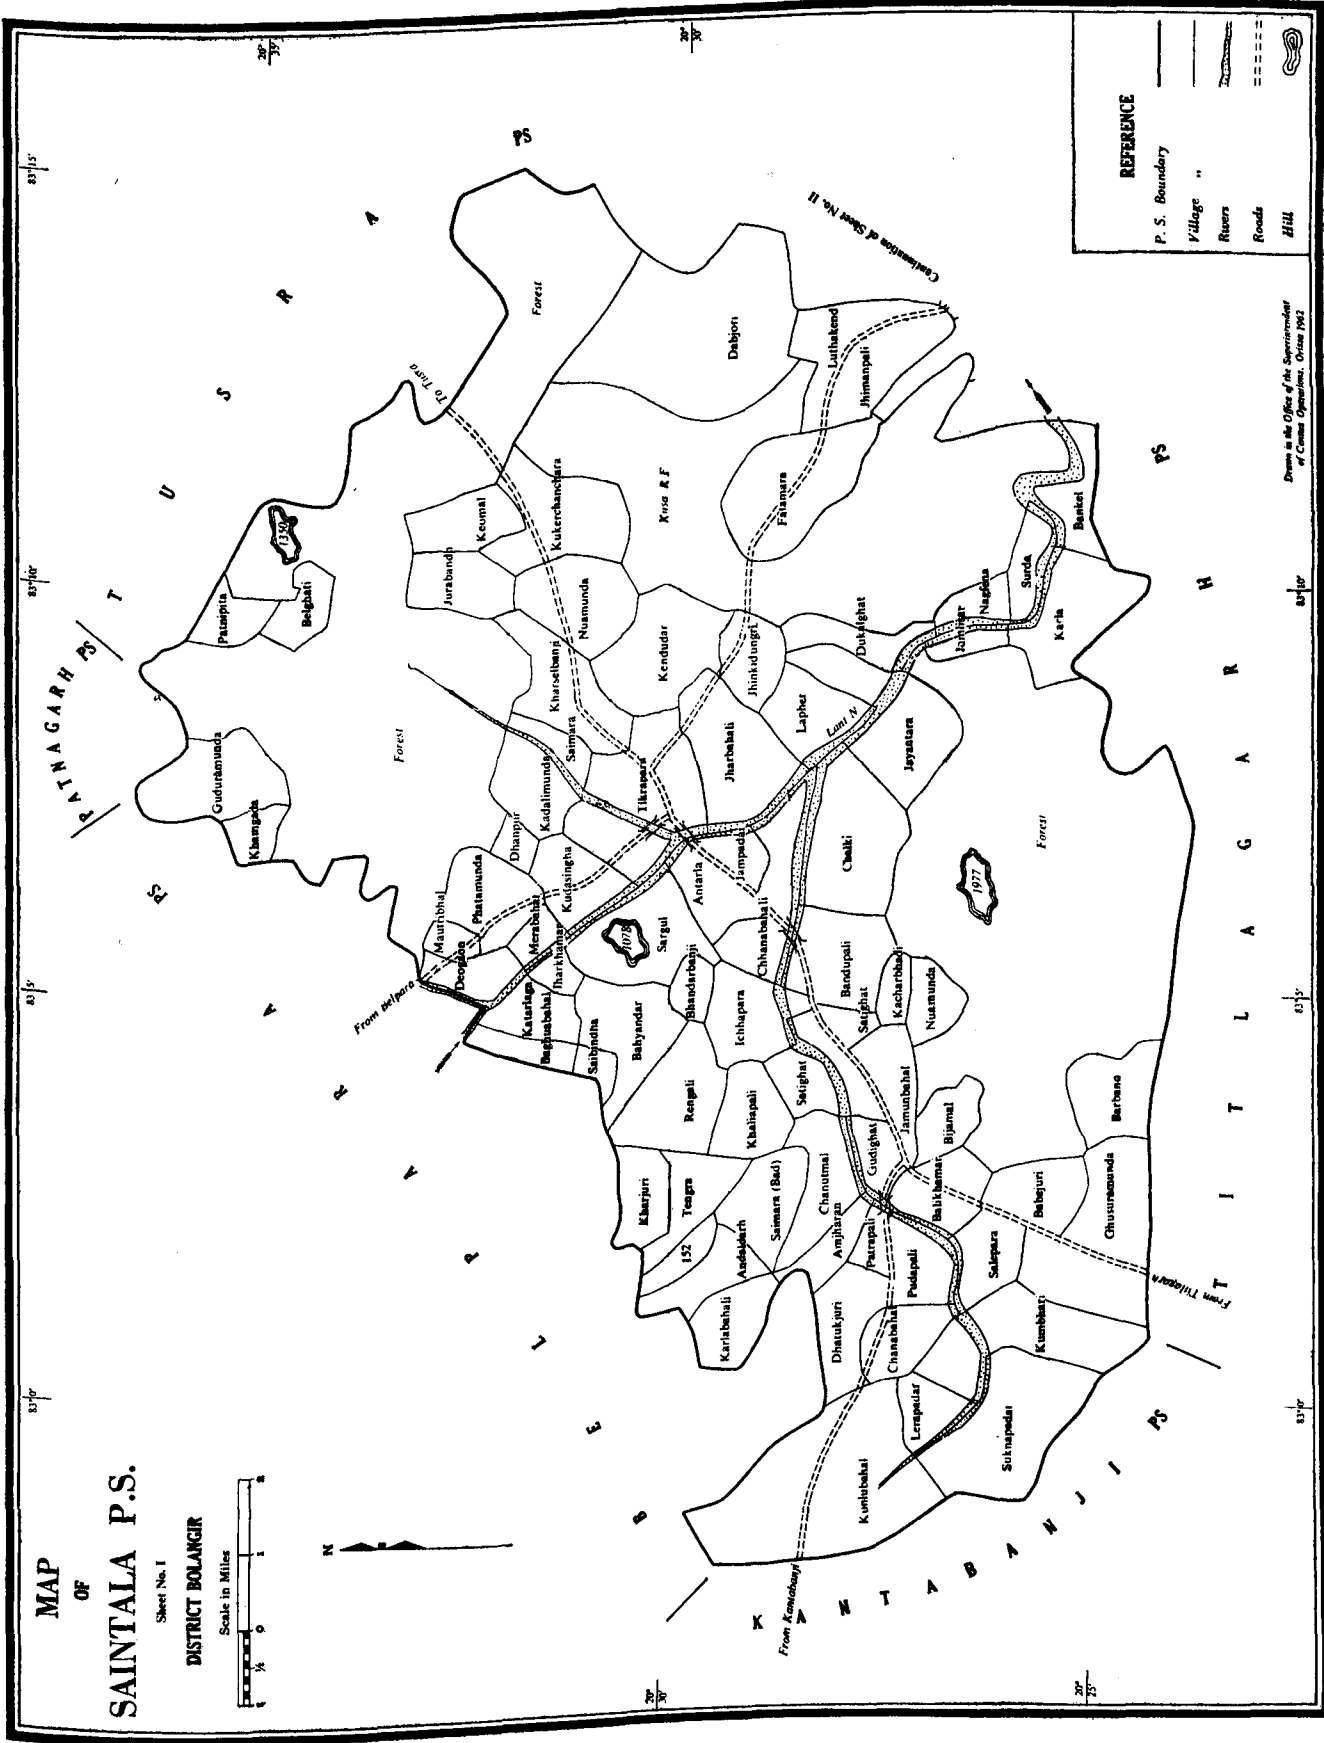

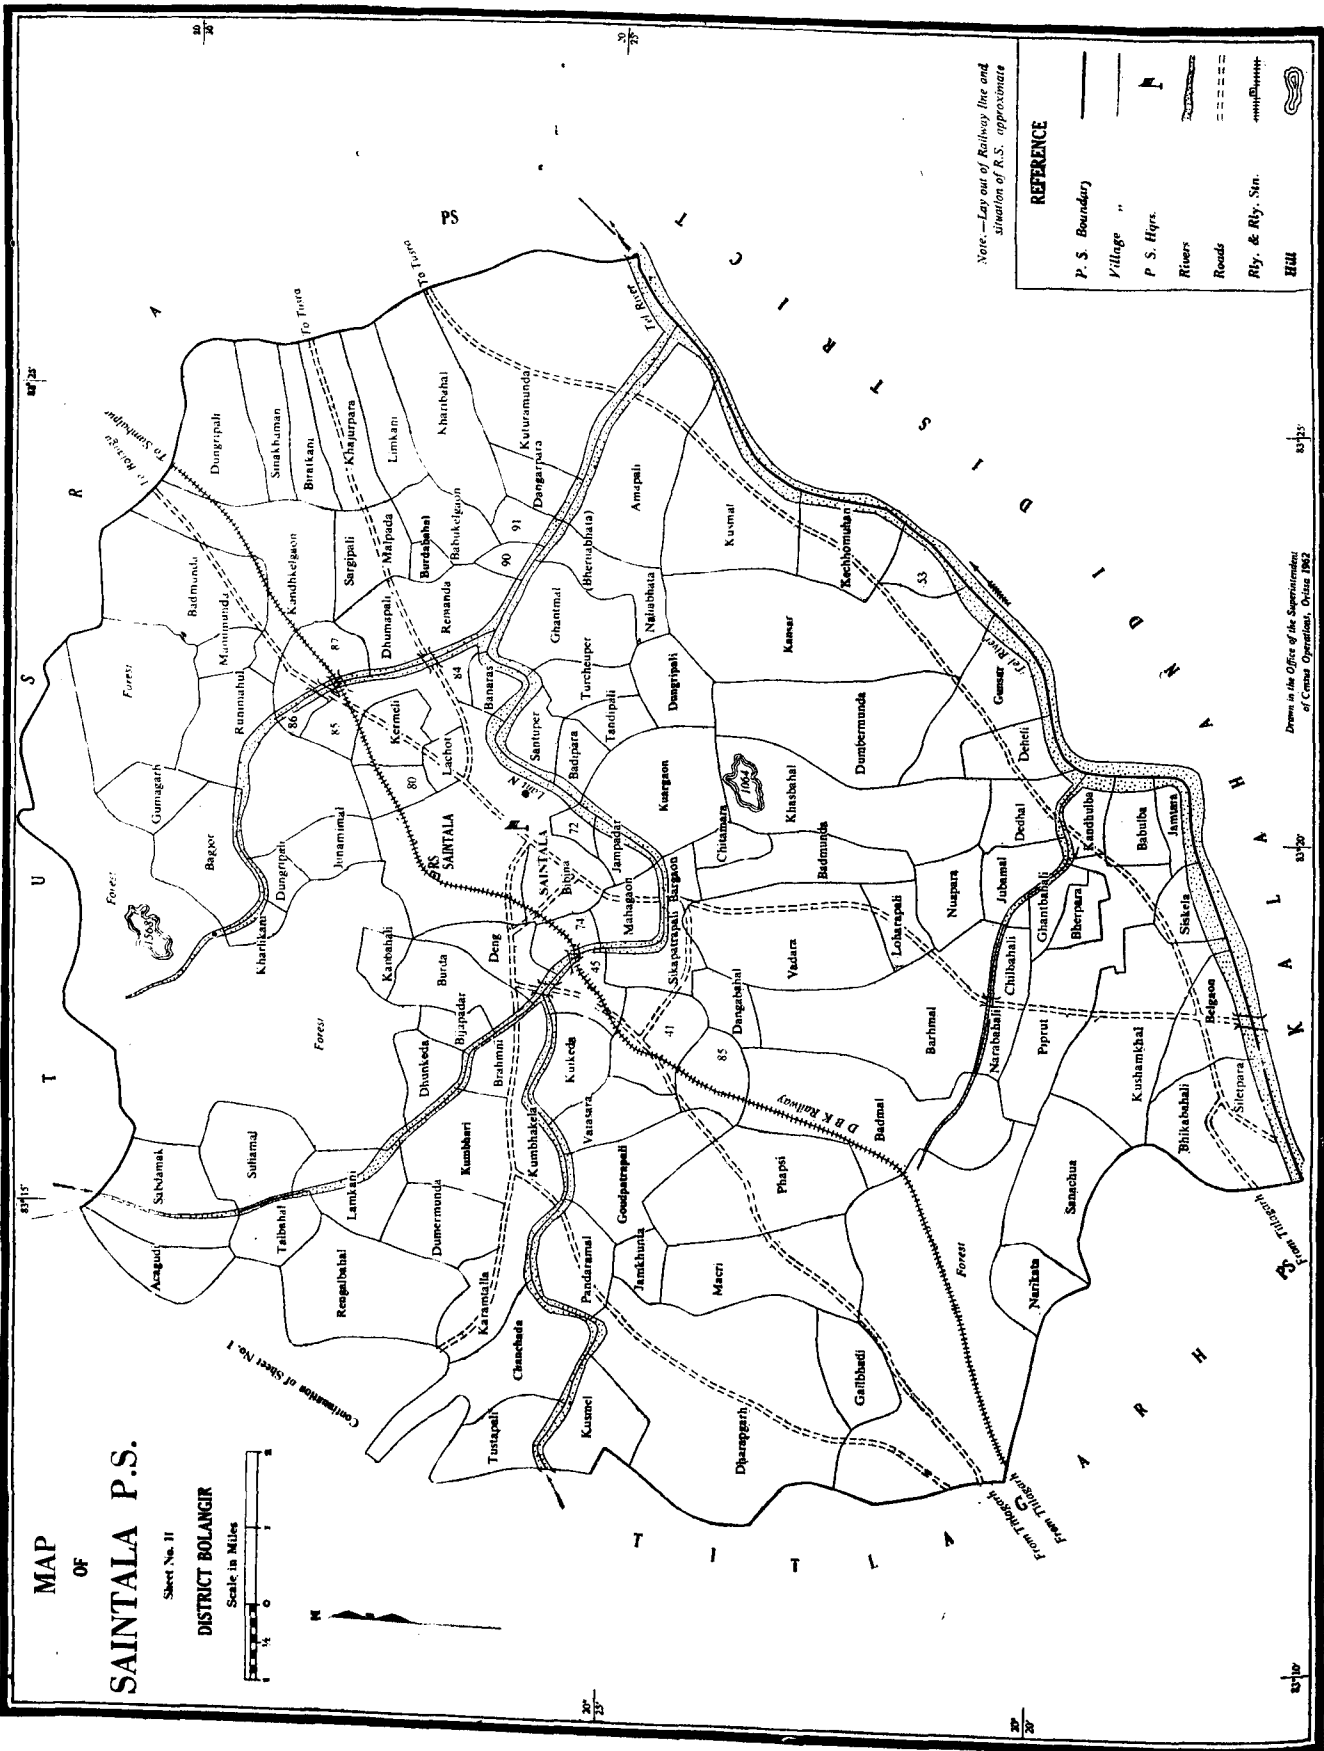

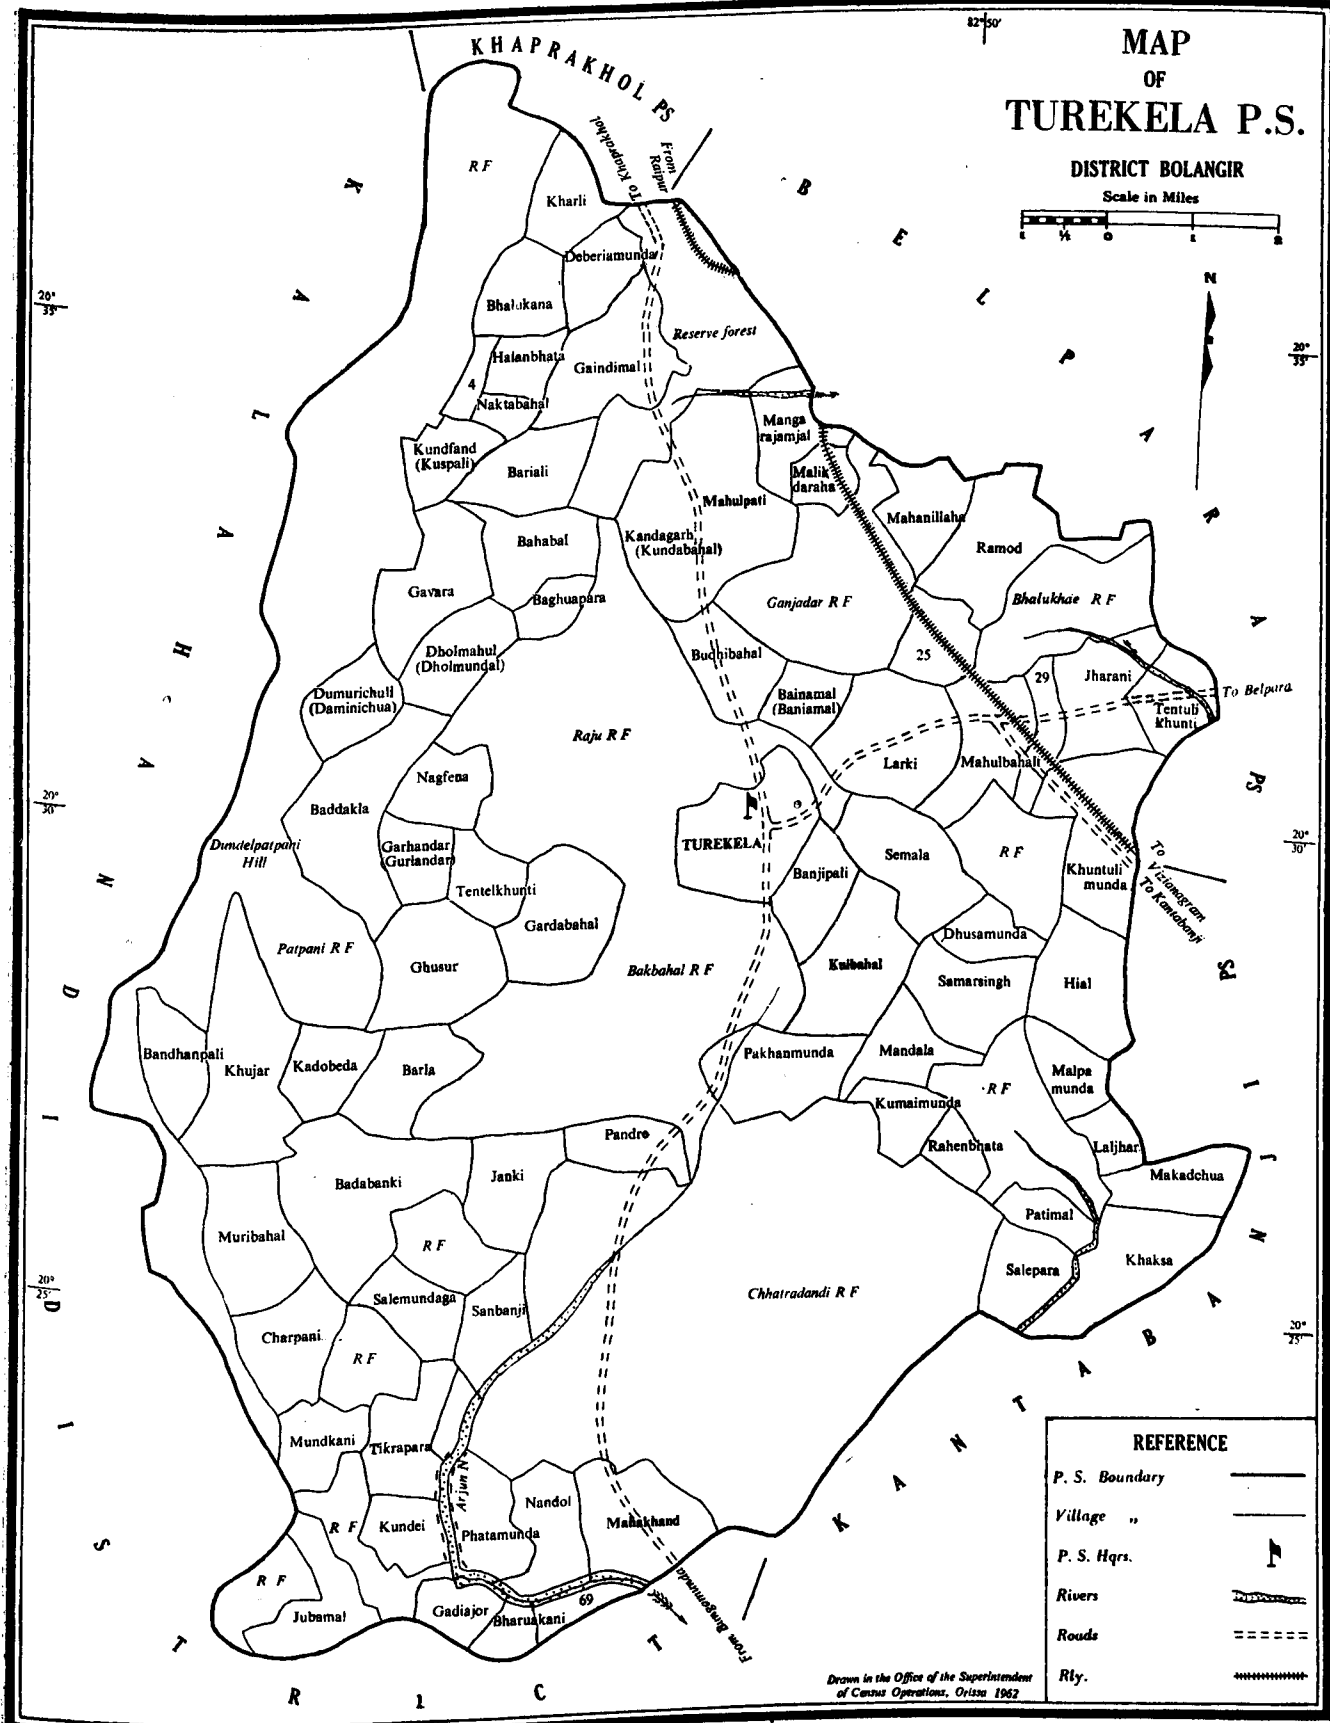

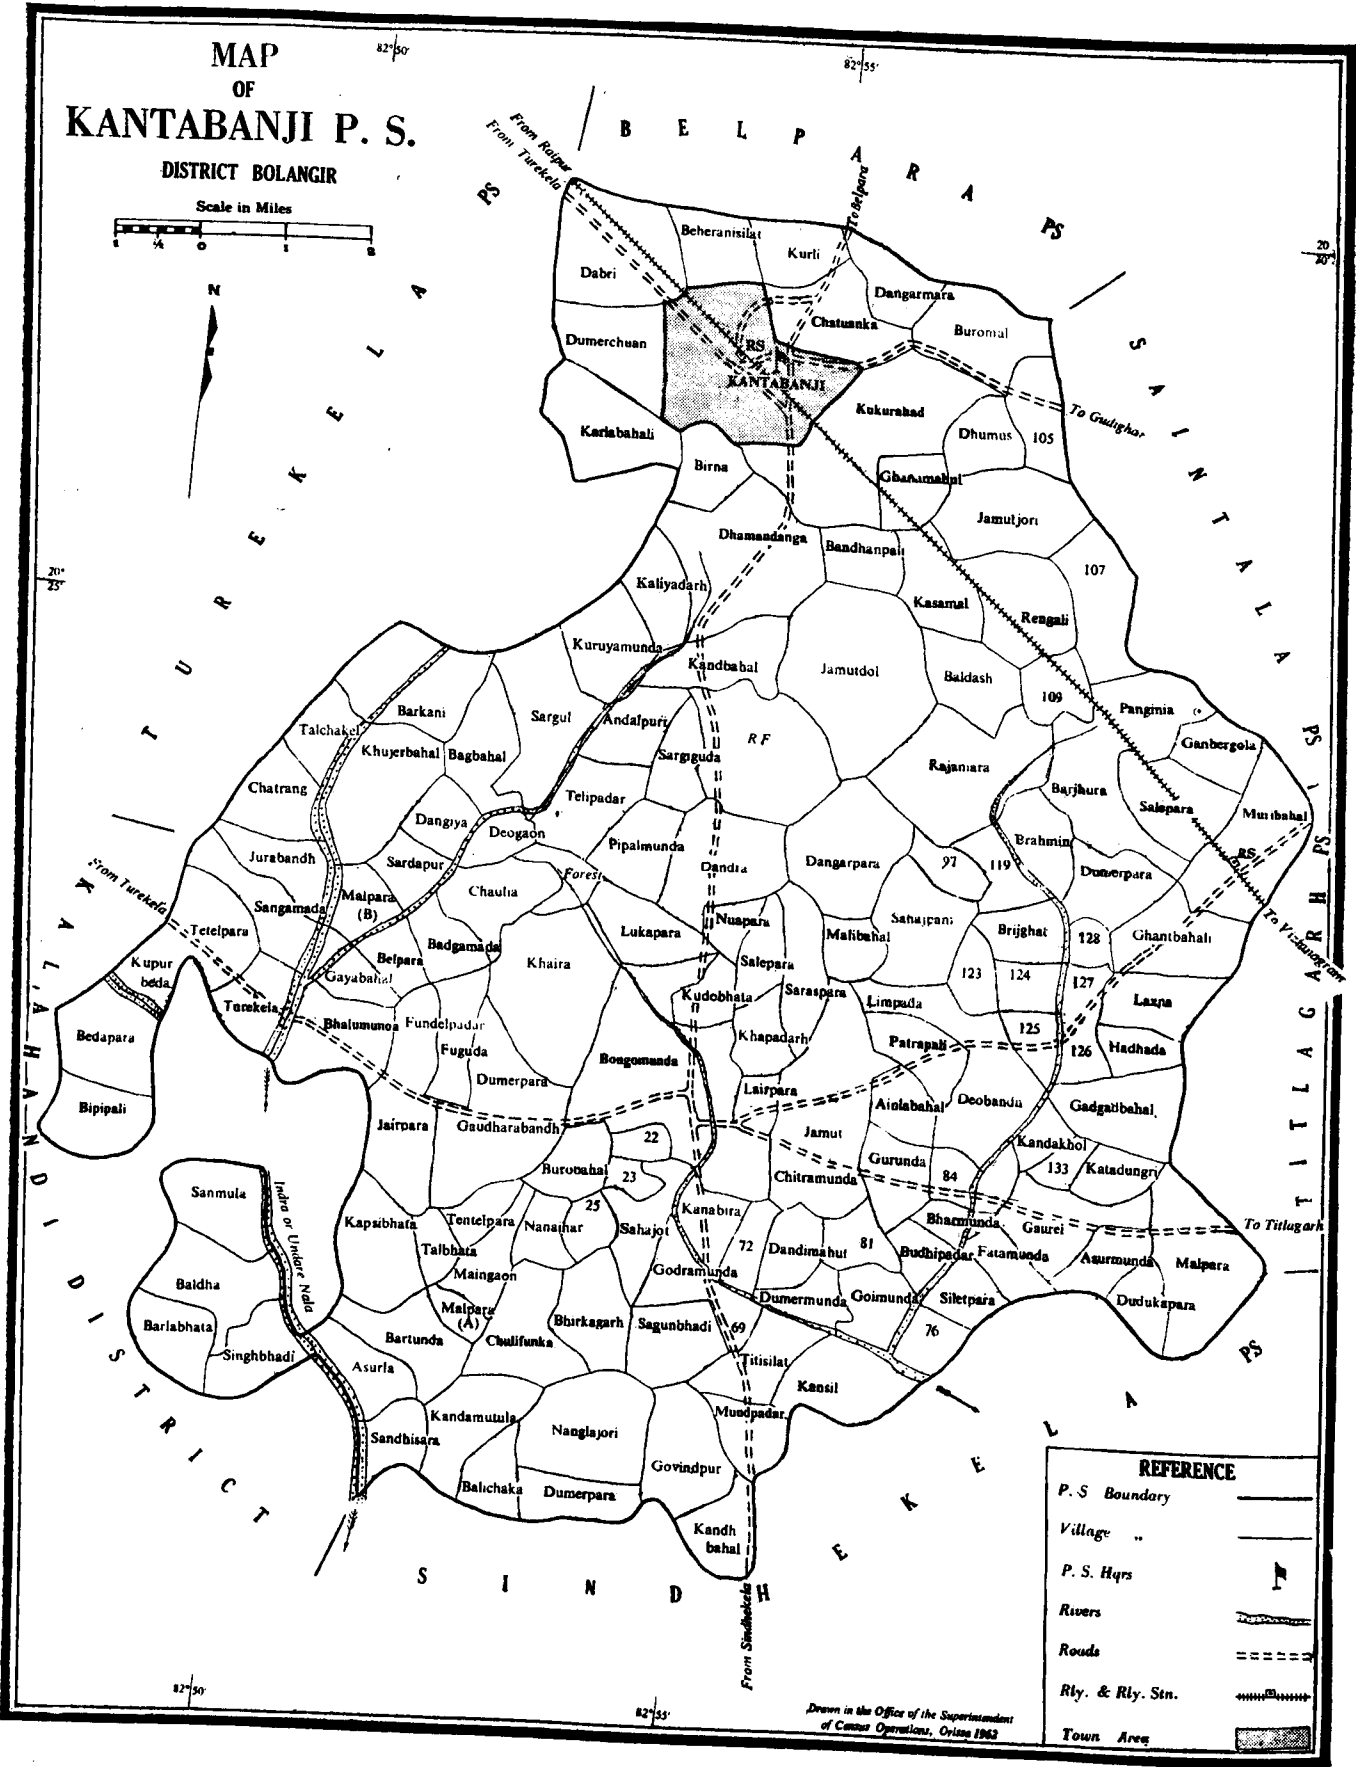

Sundargarh, a district in the northern extremity of Orissa lies between 21° 35'N and 22° 32'N latitudes and between 83° 32'E and 85° 22'E longitudes. Its boundaries extend in the north to Ranchi and Singhbhum districts of Bihar, in the south to Sambalpur district, in the west to Raigarh district in Madhya Pradesh and in the east to Keonjhar district.

Physiography—The district is formed extensively of hills and dales. There are two conspicuous river valleys, namely, the valley of the Ib in the western part and the valley of the Brahmani in the eastern part. There is an open well-cultivated plain country along the valley of the Ib, particularly in the south. The rest of the Sadar subdivision consists of undulating tableland about 700 ft in average height, dotted here and there with hills and peaks rising to nearly 2,000 ft in the westernmost tract of Hingir police station. In the north there is a gradual rise to the tableland of Chhotnagpur. The portion occupied by Bonai subdivision to the south-east has rugged forest-clad hills intersected by gorges and passes and having a narrow valley of the Brahmani and its tributaries. The country is broken up by many hill streams which sweep down in the rainy season with rapid torrents cutting off communications for brief spells of time. The east and the west of the Brahmani valley is filled with high ranges of mountains principal among which are Mankarnacha (3,639 ft), Chheliatoka (3,305 ft) and Bichakani (2,964 ft) in the east. The last named hill has acquired great importance by yielding millions of tons of iron ore for use in the Rourkela Steel Plant, which is transported by a new railway line running to the foot of the hill at Dumaro. The hill ranges to the west of the Brahmani valley are less useful and are lower in height, their peaks varying from 2,000 to 2,650 ft in height. The forests of the district which cover 2,083 sq. miles are of northern tropical dry deciduous type, mainly containing sal, asan and kurum. Among forest produce of lesser importance are bamboo, lac and gum. There is a stretch of coal bearing rock along the valley of the river Ib. Manganese, limestone, iron, kaolin and fire-clay mines are now worked extensively, giving a strong industrial bias to the economic activity of the people.

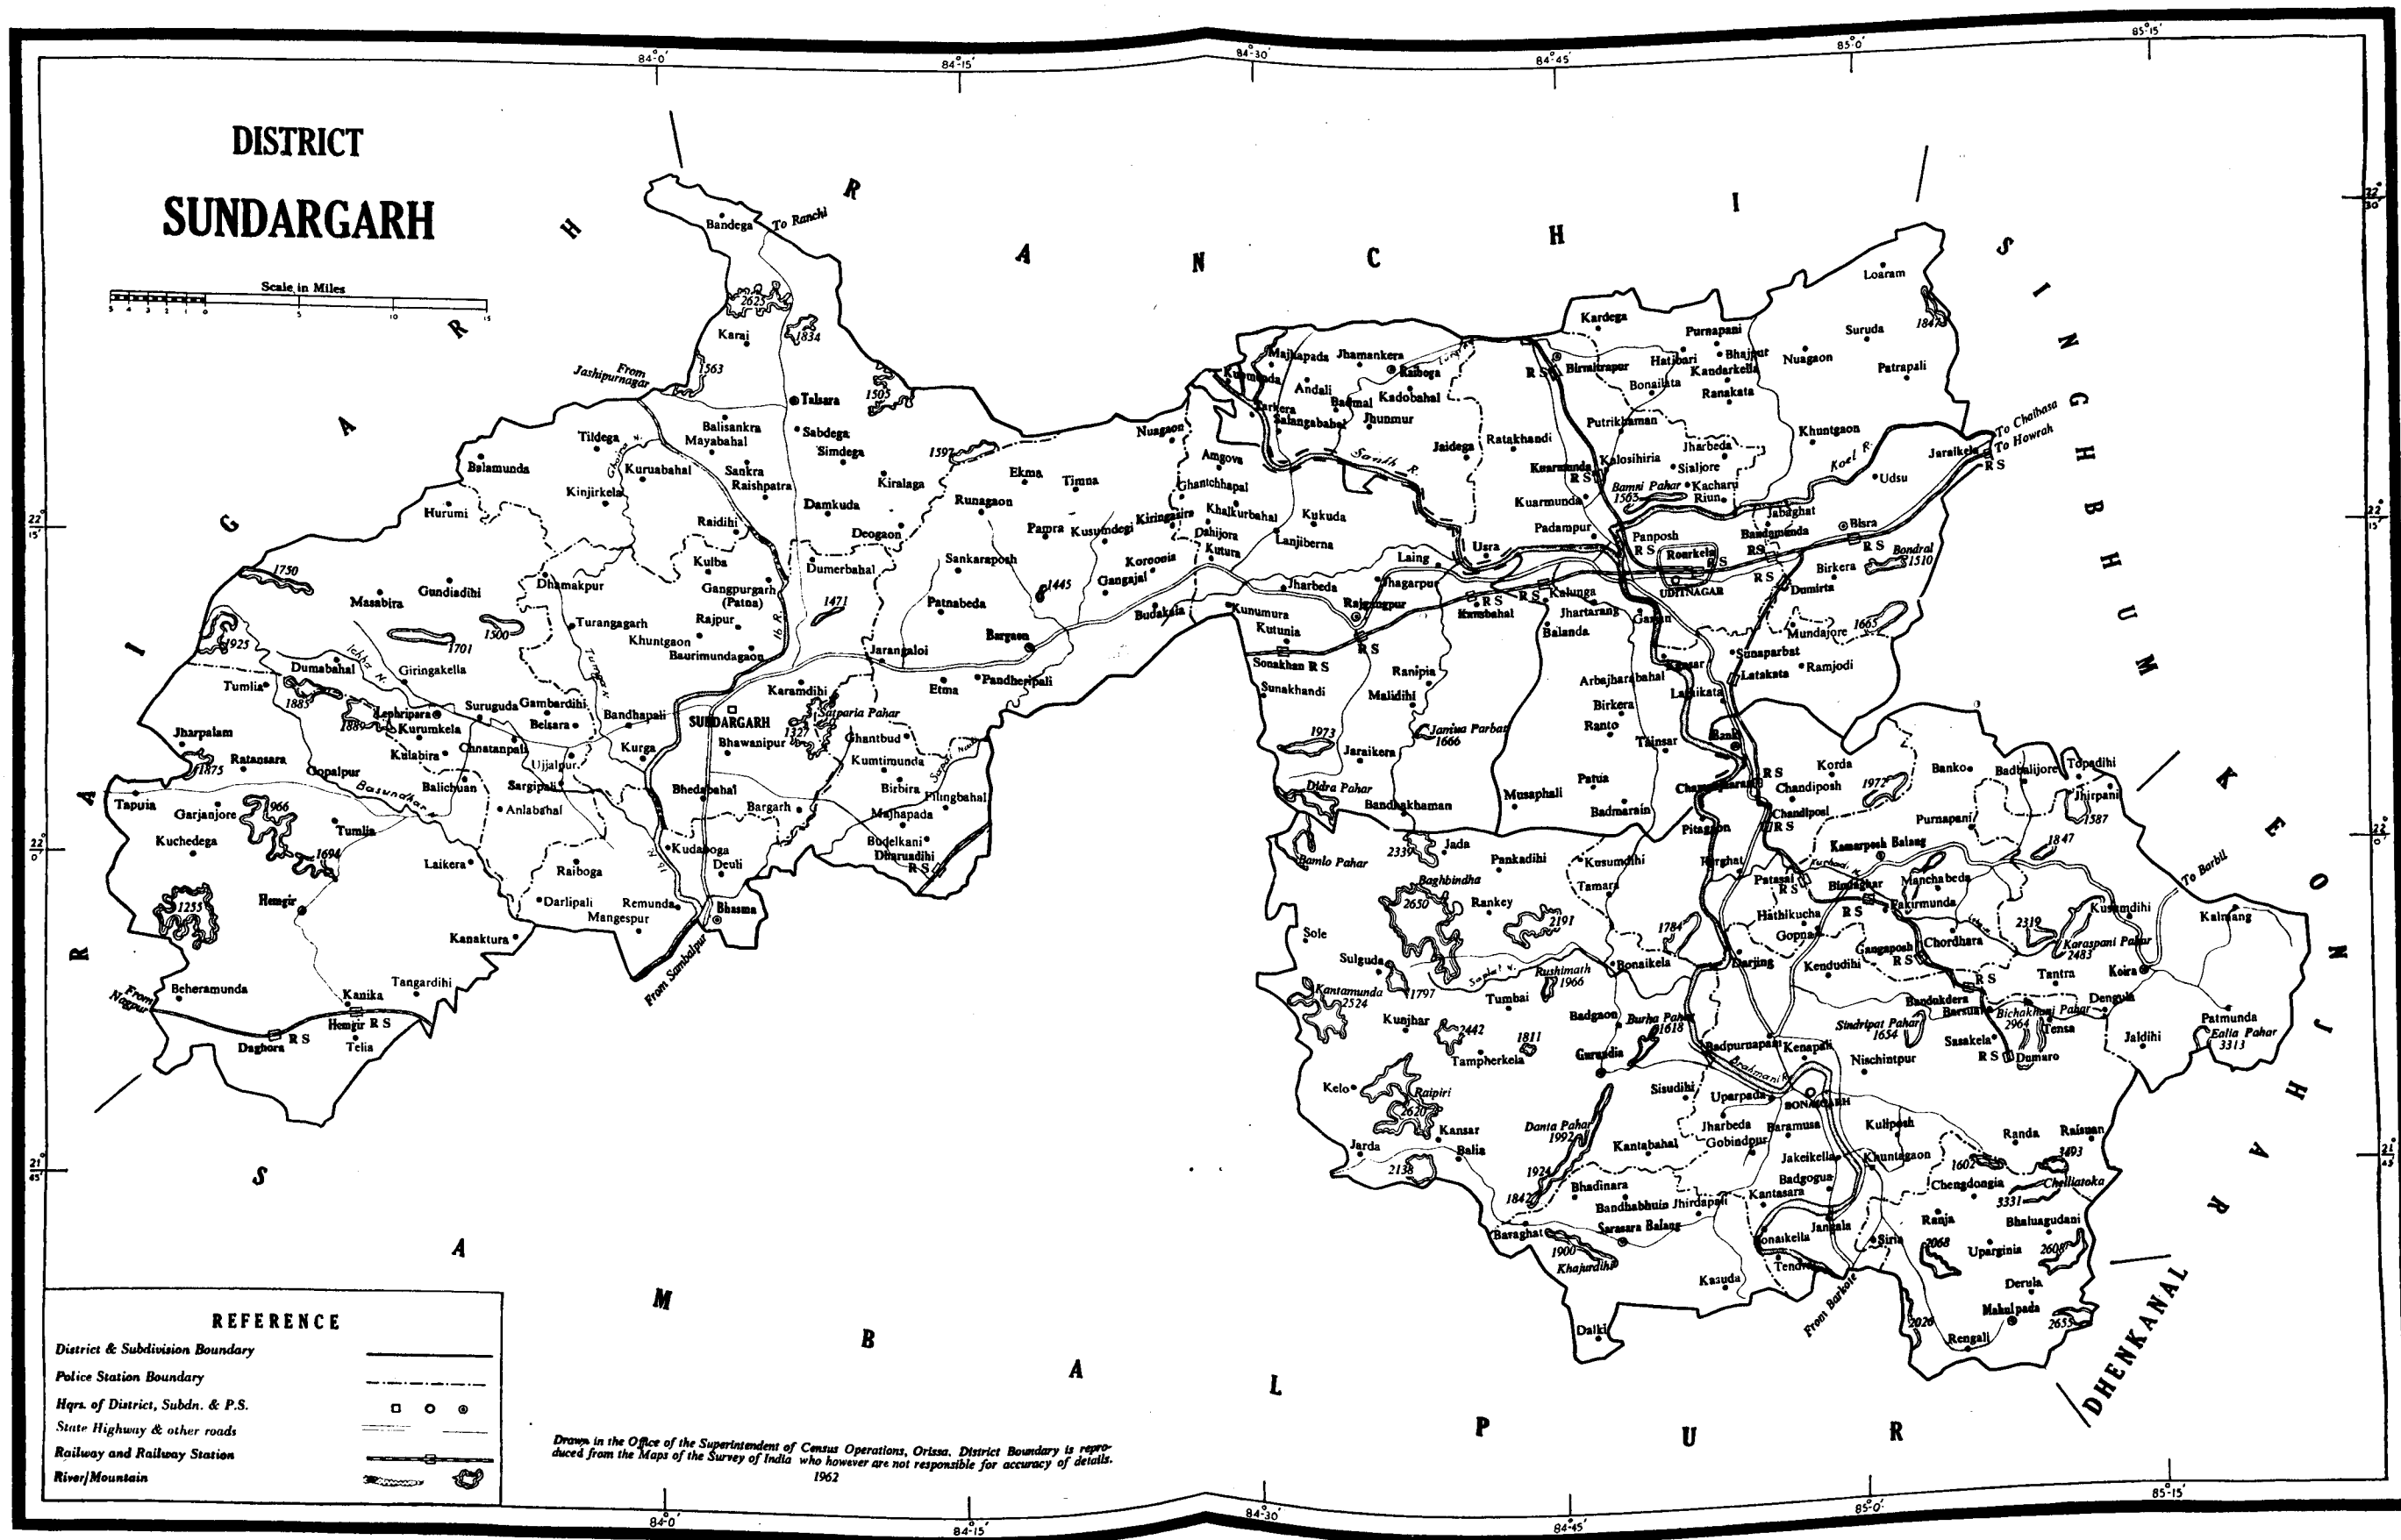

Climate and rainfall—The climate of the district is characterised by hot dry summer and whimsical heavy rainfall during the south-west monsoon season. The hot season starts early in March reaching maximum temperature in May, the hottest month, which records mean daily maximum at 41°C. The heat is intensive and oppressive and some relief is found with the onset of rains, but in localities with high altitude, namely, Koira and Tensa, the summer is cool though the winter is severe and frosty. The monsoon and post-monsoon months are not pleasant due to high moisture content in the air, but the nights become cooler in October. The cold season culminates in December with the mean daily minimum temperature of 12°C. The district is affected sometimes by spells of cold waves when the temperature drops down to 4°C. The average annual rainfall in the district is 1,647·6 mm. (64·86"). About 86% of the annual rainfall is received during June to September, July being the wettest month. On an average, there are 78 rainy days in the year. Sometimes storms and depressions originating from the Bay of Bengal cross the district causing strong winds and heavy rainfall.

Vital Statistics—Collection of Vital Statistics started in 1952. During the period of 9 years up to 1960, births outnumbered deaths in this district by 57,247 (27,909 males and 29,338 females). The figures, however, are not free from many omissions. The birth and death rates under the circumstances work out to 23·3 and 13·7 per mille respectively. Infant deaths numbered 14,781 against total births of 139,146 and constitute 18·05% of total deaths. Deaths among children up to the age of 5 years are considerable in number, constituting 32·86% of total deaths. Fever, notably malaria, accounted for 66·07% of deaths in the district during this decade. A small number of deaths occurred on account of cholera and smallpox being limited to 0·52 and 1·32 per cent respectively of total deaths.

Area and population of administrative units—The district covers an area of 3,788·0 sq. miles or 9,810·9 sq. kms. and a population of 7·58 lakhs. It consists of 3 subdivisions and 19 police stations. The area and population of each such administrative unit is shown in the following statement:

Towns—In addition to the two towns of Sundargarh and Birmitrapur of 1951 Census, two more towns, namely, Rourkela and Rajgangpur were enlisted in 1961, which shows that the urban growth of noticeable extent is of recent origin. Rourkela and Rajgangpur with population of 90,287 and 13,843 respectively are industrial centres, while Sundargarh with population of 11,329 is the District Headquarters. Birmitrapur which has population of 20,301 is known for its mining importance.

Growth of population (1901-61)—The population which stood at 277,173 in 1901 has risen to 758,617 marking a spectacular increase of 173·7% during the last 60 years. The phenomenal growth of 30·7% during the decade 1901-11 suddenly fell to 4·2% during the next decade 1911-21. Partial recovery was noticed during the subsequent decades 1921-31, 1931-41 and 1941-51 when the rates of growth were recorded at 15·7%, 12·3% and 12·5% respectively. The last decade 1951-61 has upset all the previous records by registering the highest growth of 37·4%, particularly due to the establishment of the steel industry at Rourkela.

Trend of migration—The industrial characteristic of this district has attracted a large number of migrants who constitute 16% of the total population. Out of these new-comers, 9·9% are born outside the State. The majority of the migrants have moved from Bihar, Madhya Pradesh, West Bengal, Punjab and Andhra Pradesh and a significant number from West Germany. The figures of migrants from outside the district, outside the State and outside the country are shown below:

	Persons	Males	Females	Per-centage
1. Population of the district	758,617	396,214	362,403	100
2. Born in the district	636,994	332,920	304,074	84·0

5. Born outside India (but in Asia)	2,223	1,354	869	0·3
6. Others including unclassifiable	1,964	852	1,112	0·2

Economic classification—The division of population into two broad sections, namely, workers and non-workers and further classification of workers into nine industrial categories is given below:

Section or category	Persons	Males	Females
1. Non-workers	375,588	143,459	232,129
2. Workers	383,029	252,755	130,274

Scheduled Tribes—The population of Scheduled Tribes in the district is 440,910 which is 58·1% of the total population. It comprises 40 tribes, the most numerous being Oraon (114,103), Munda (113,431), Kharia (53,243), Kisan (50,632), Bhuiya (45,168), Gond (34,849), Bhumij (4,288), Kolha (4,099), Kond (3,329), Mundari (3,094), Santal (2,262), Binjhia (2,140), Mahali (1,474), Poroja (1,220) and Shabar (1,076). The district is the homeland of Oraons, Mundas, Kisans, Kharias and Binjhias. Literacy is confined to 10·2%. Principal economic activity is cultivation and agricultural labour.

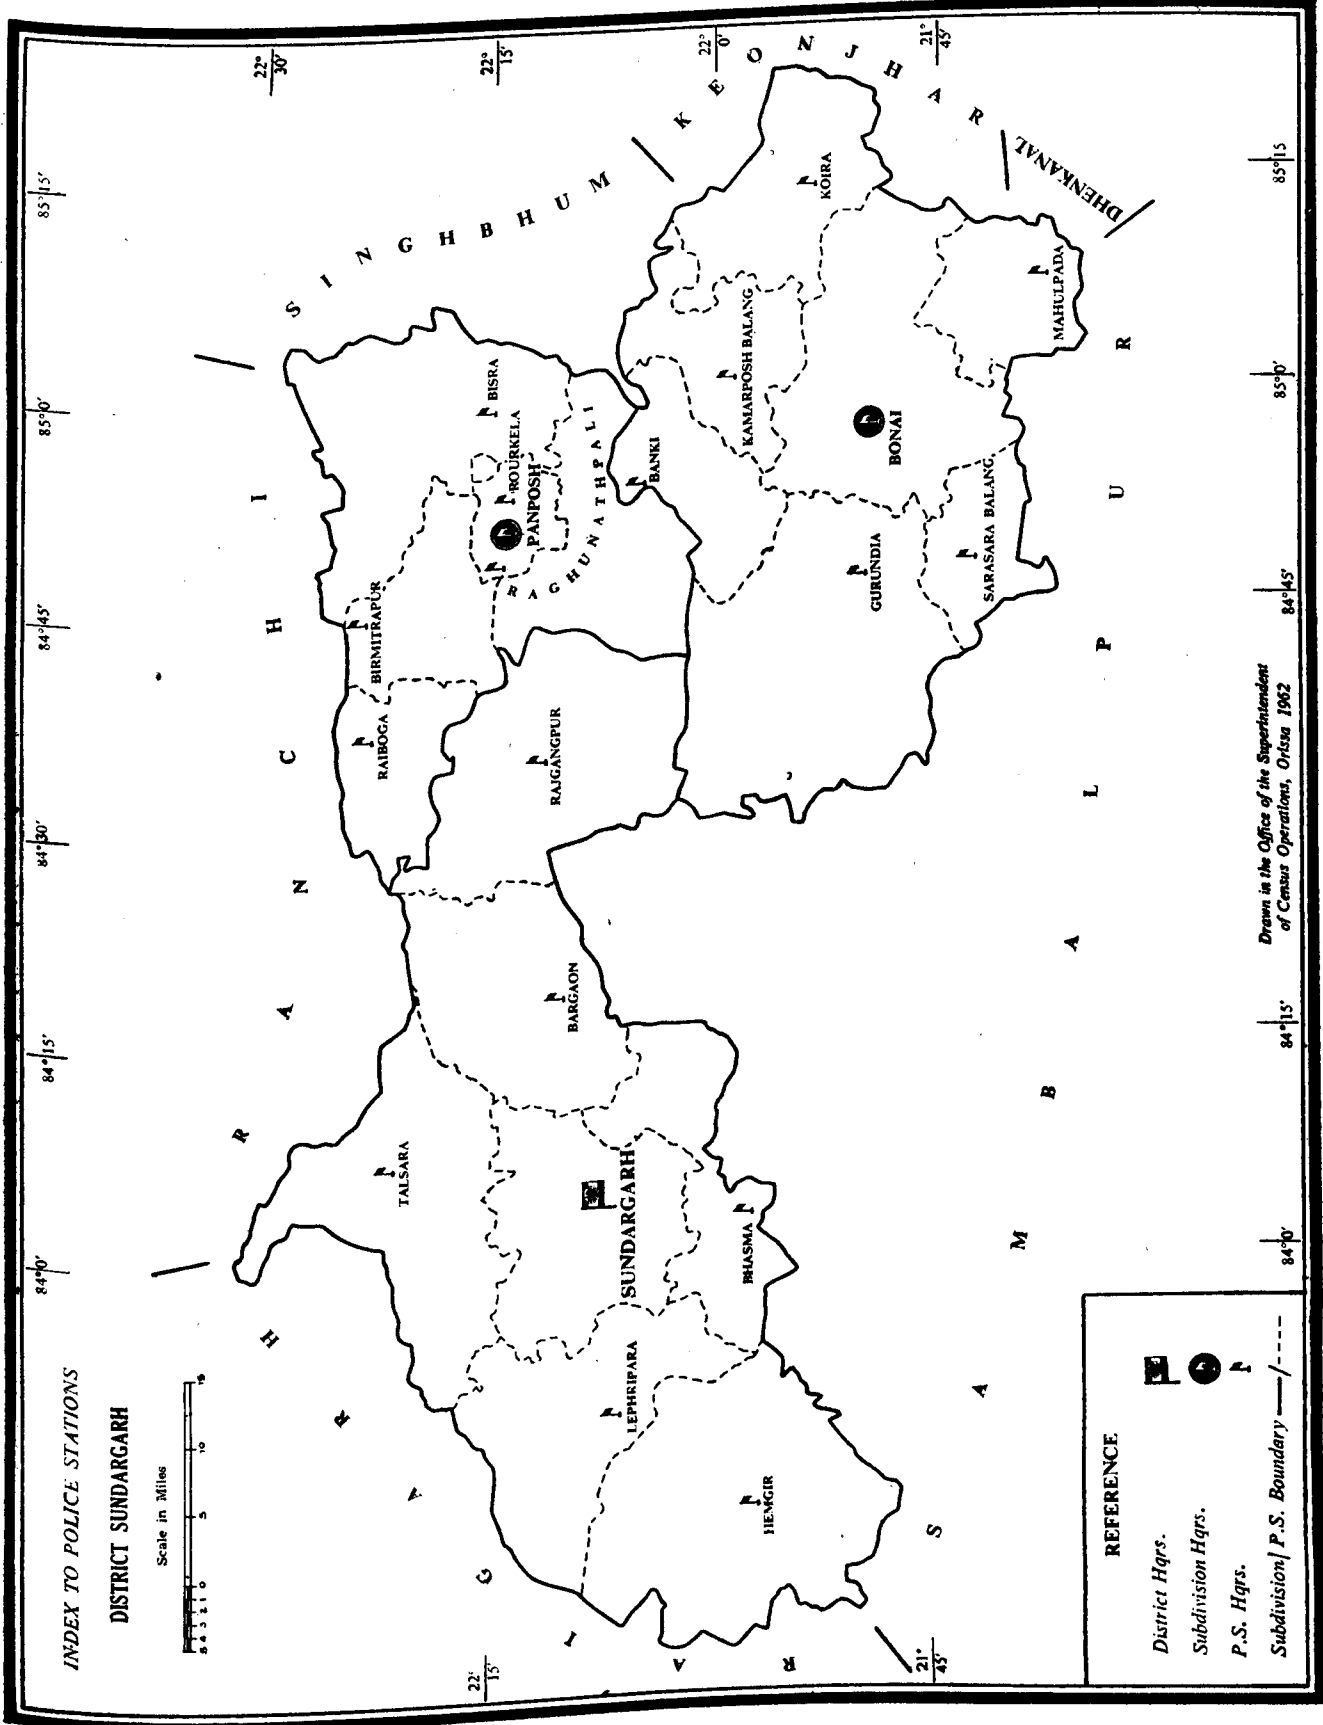

Scheduled Castes—There are 53 Scheduled Castes having a population of 73,134 in the district which is 9·6% of the total population. The principal castes are Ganda (21,322), Pan (17,209), Pantanti (9,549), Dhoba (4,884), Ghasi (4,065), Badaik (2,979), Chamar (2,517), Turi (1,634), Dom (1,335) and Pap (1,026). Literacy is confined to 11·5%. Cultivation and agricultural labour provide livelihood to the largest section of the population, although household industry and 'other services' are also popular.

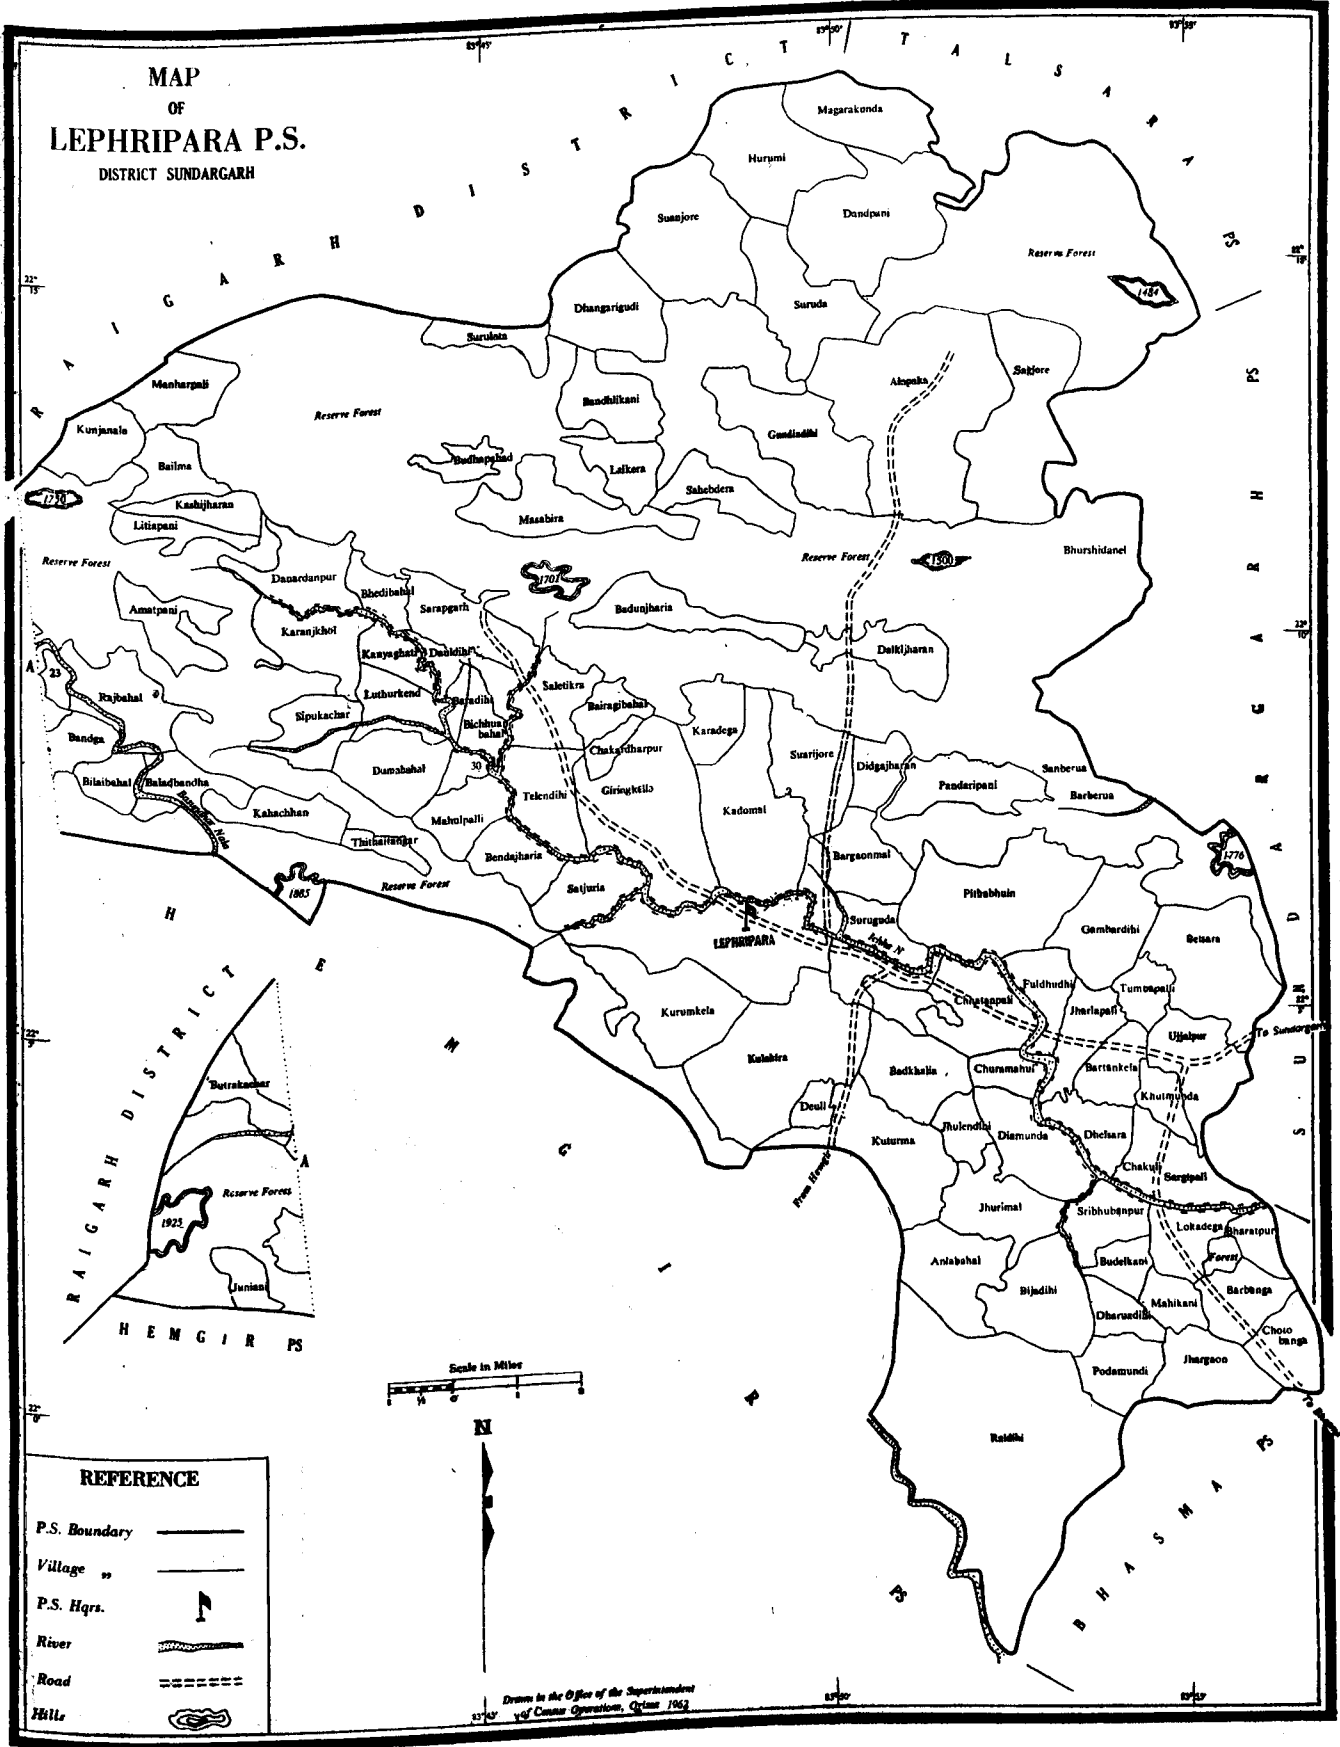

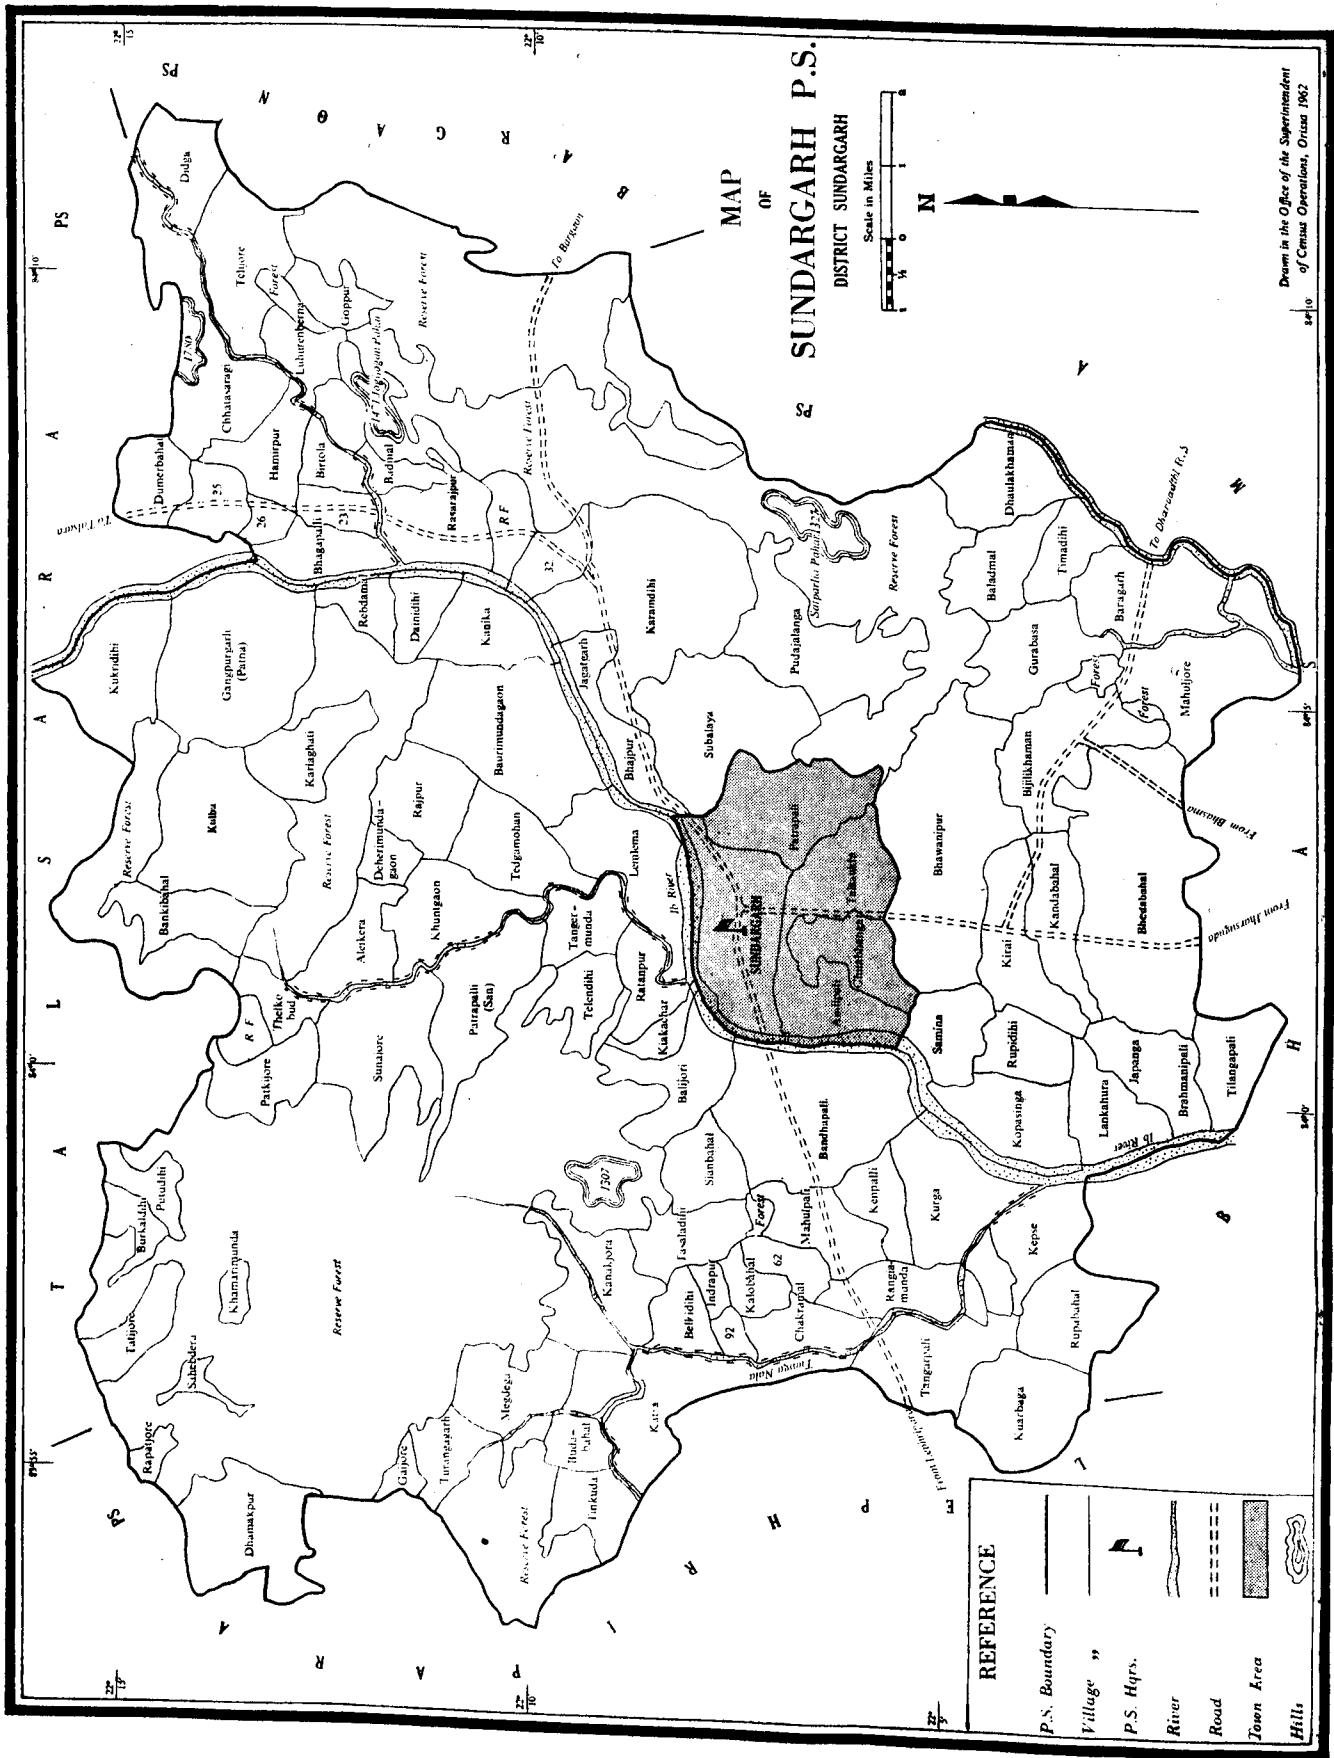

Literacy—149,546 persons out of the total population of 758,617 are literates. The rate of literacy thus works out to 19·7% as against 10·3% in 1951. Among the males, literacy has gone up to 30·4 per cent and among the females to 8·0 per cent. There are 832 Primary Schools, 66 M.E. Schools and 15 High Schools in the district.

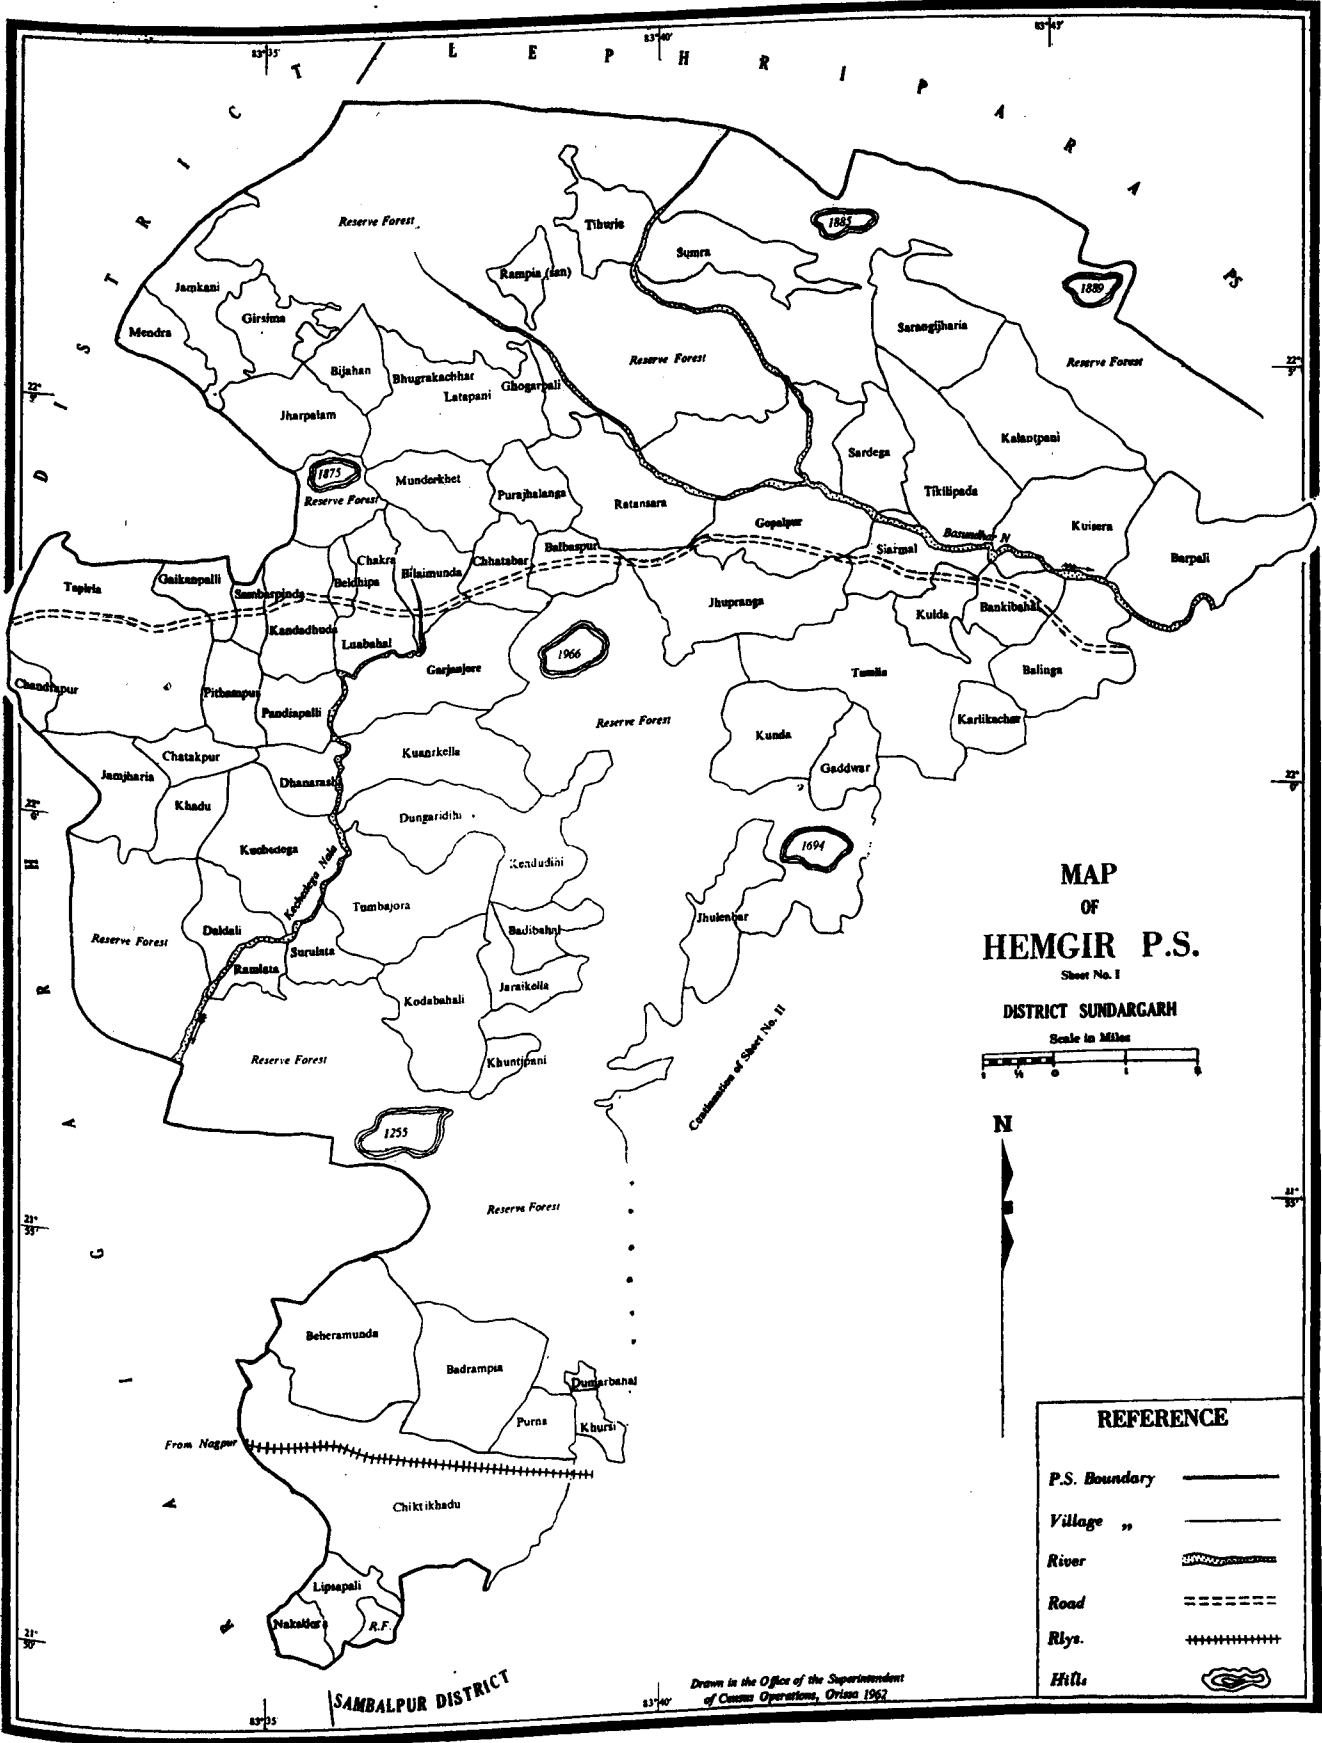

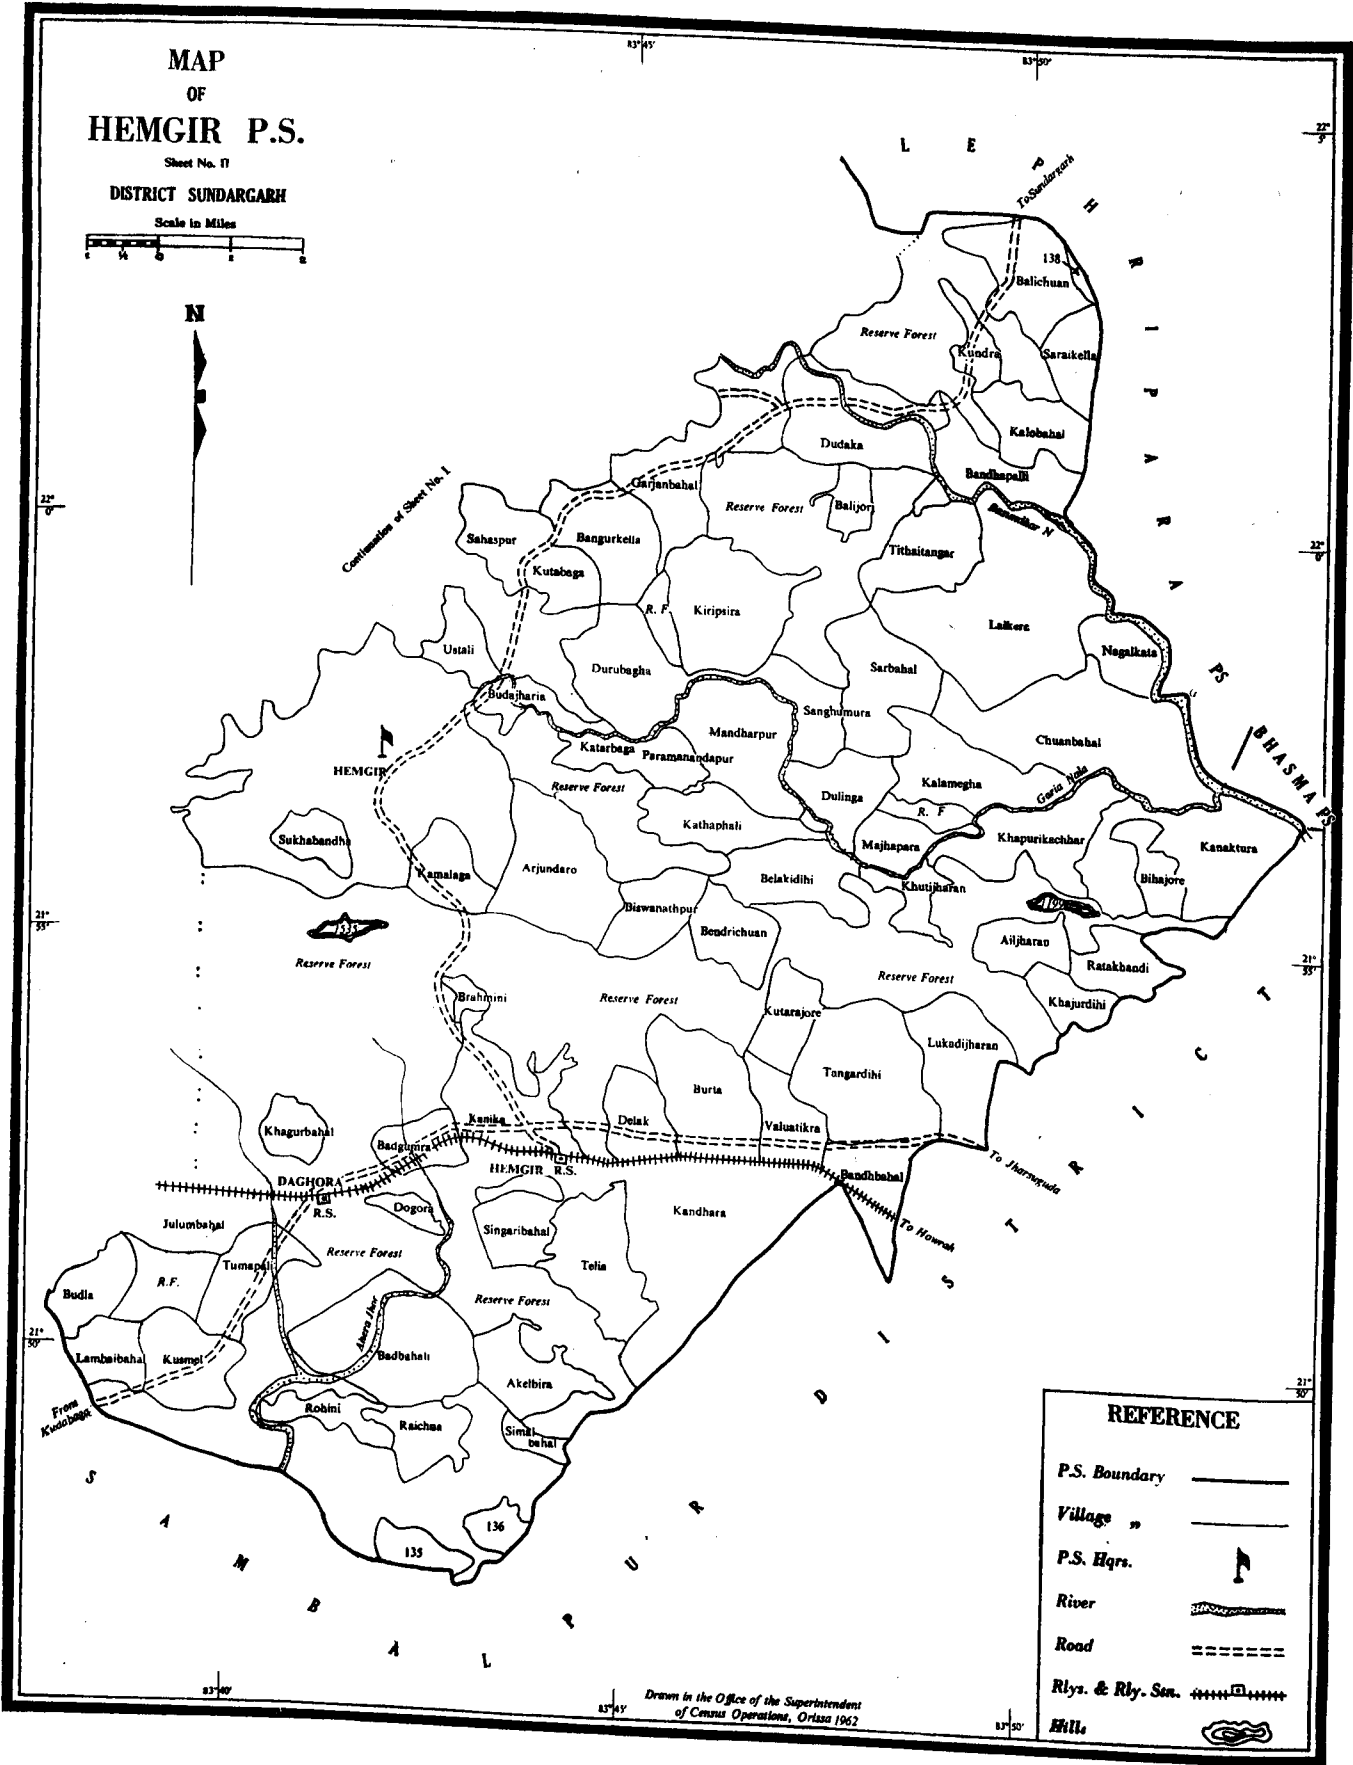

Industries—There are 6,245 industrial establishments in the district which include industries of the lowest scale carried on in the household. Classified according to the list in the I.S.I.C. Scheme there are 60 kinds of industries. The statement below furnishes a list of industries which are most extensively found in the district:

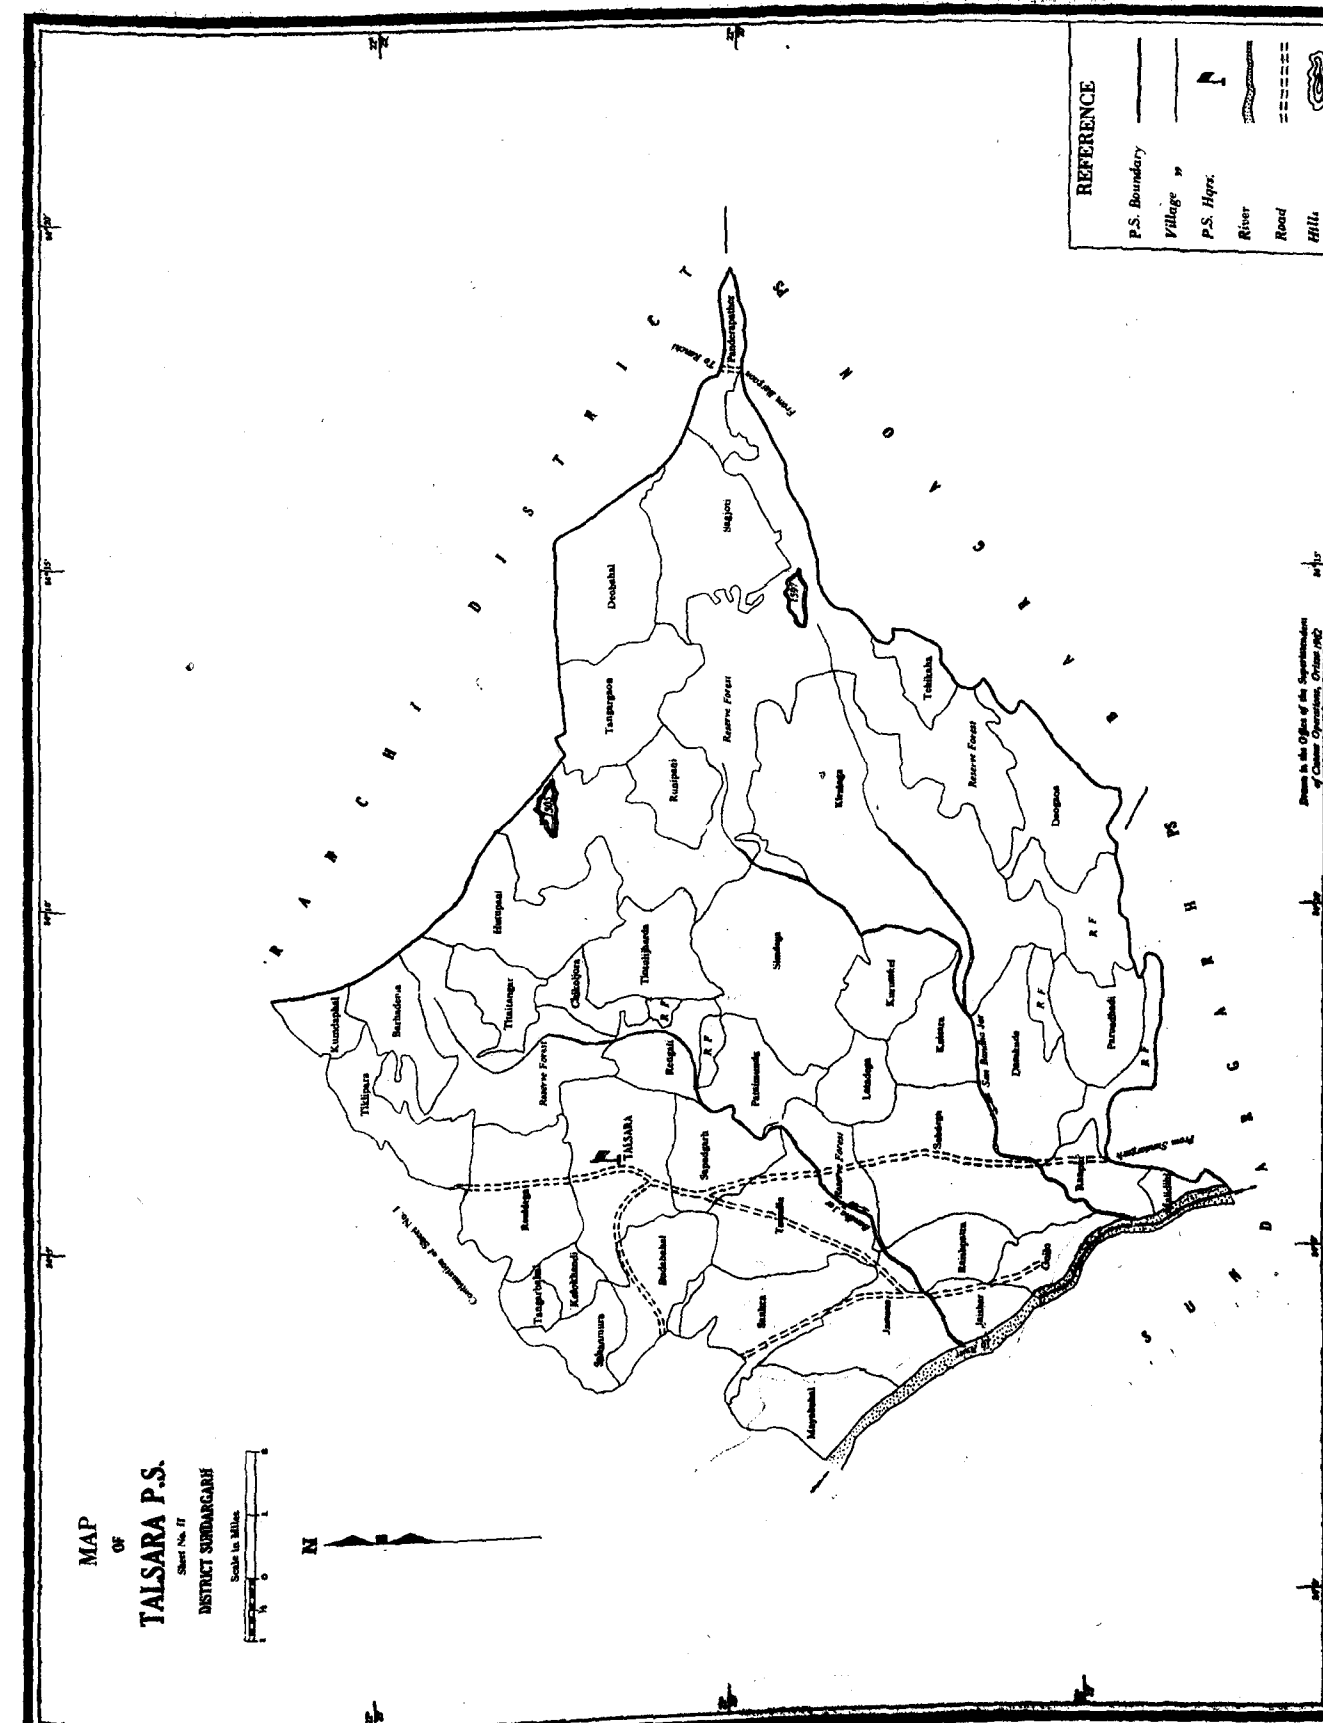

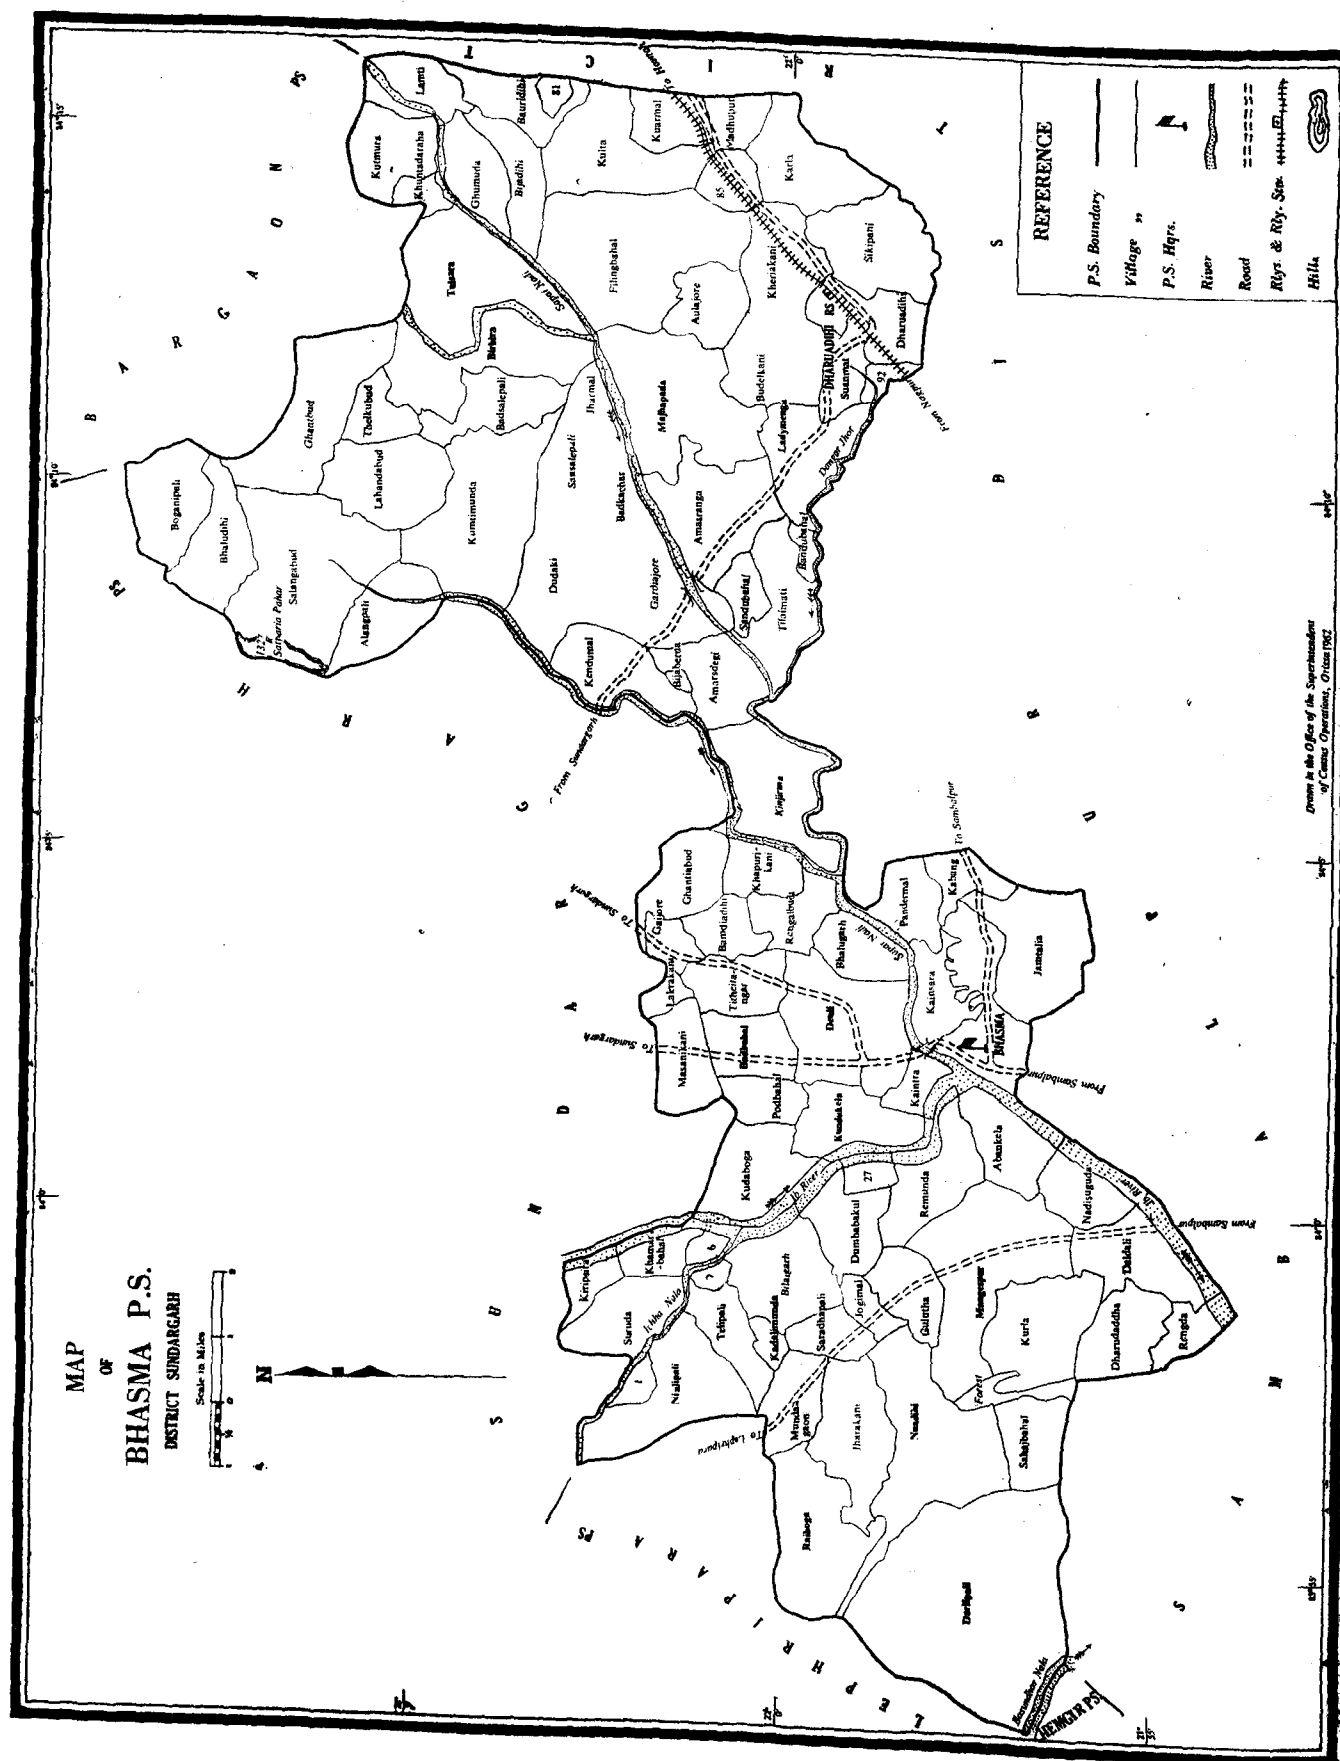

Name of industry	Total no. of establishments	No. of persons engaged
Manufacture of materials from cork, bamboo, cane, leaves, etc.	1,446	4,022
Cotton weaving in handlooms	1,157	3,743
Manufacture of sundry hardwares	932	3,057
Manufacture of earthenwares and earthen potteries	711	2,258
Production of edible fats and oils (other than hydrogenated oil)	385	1,238
Cotton spinning other than in mills	339	744
Manufacture of shoes and other leather foot-wear	271	683
Manufacture of structural wooden goods, such as, beams, posts, doors, windows	261	516

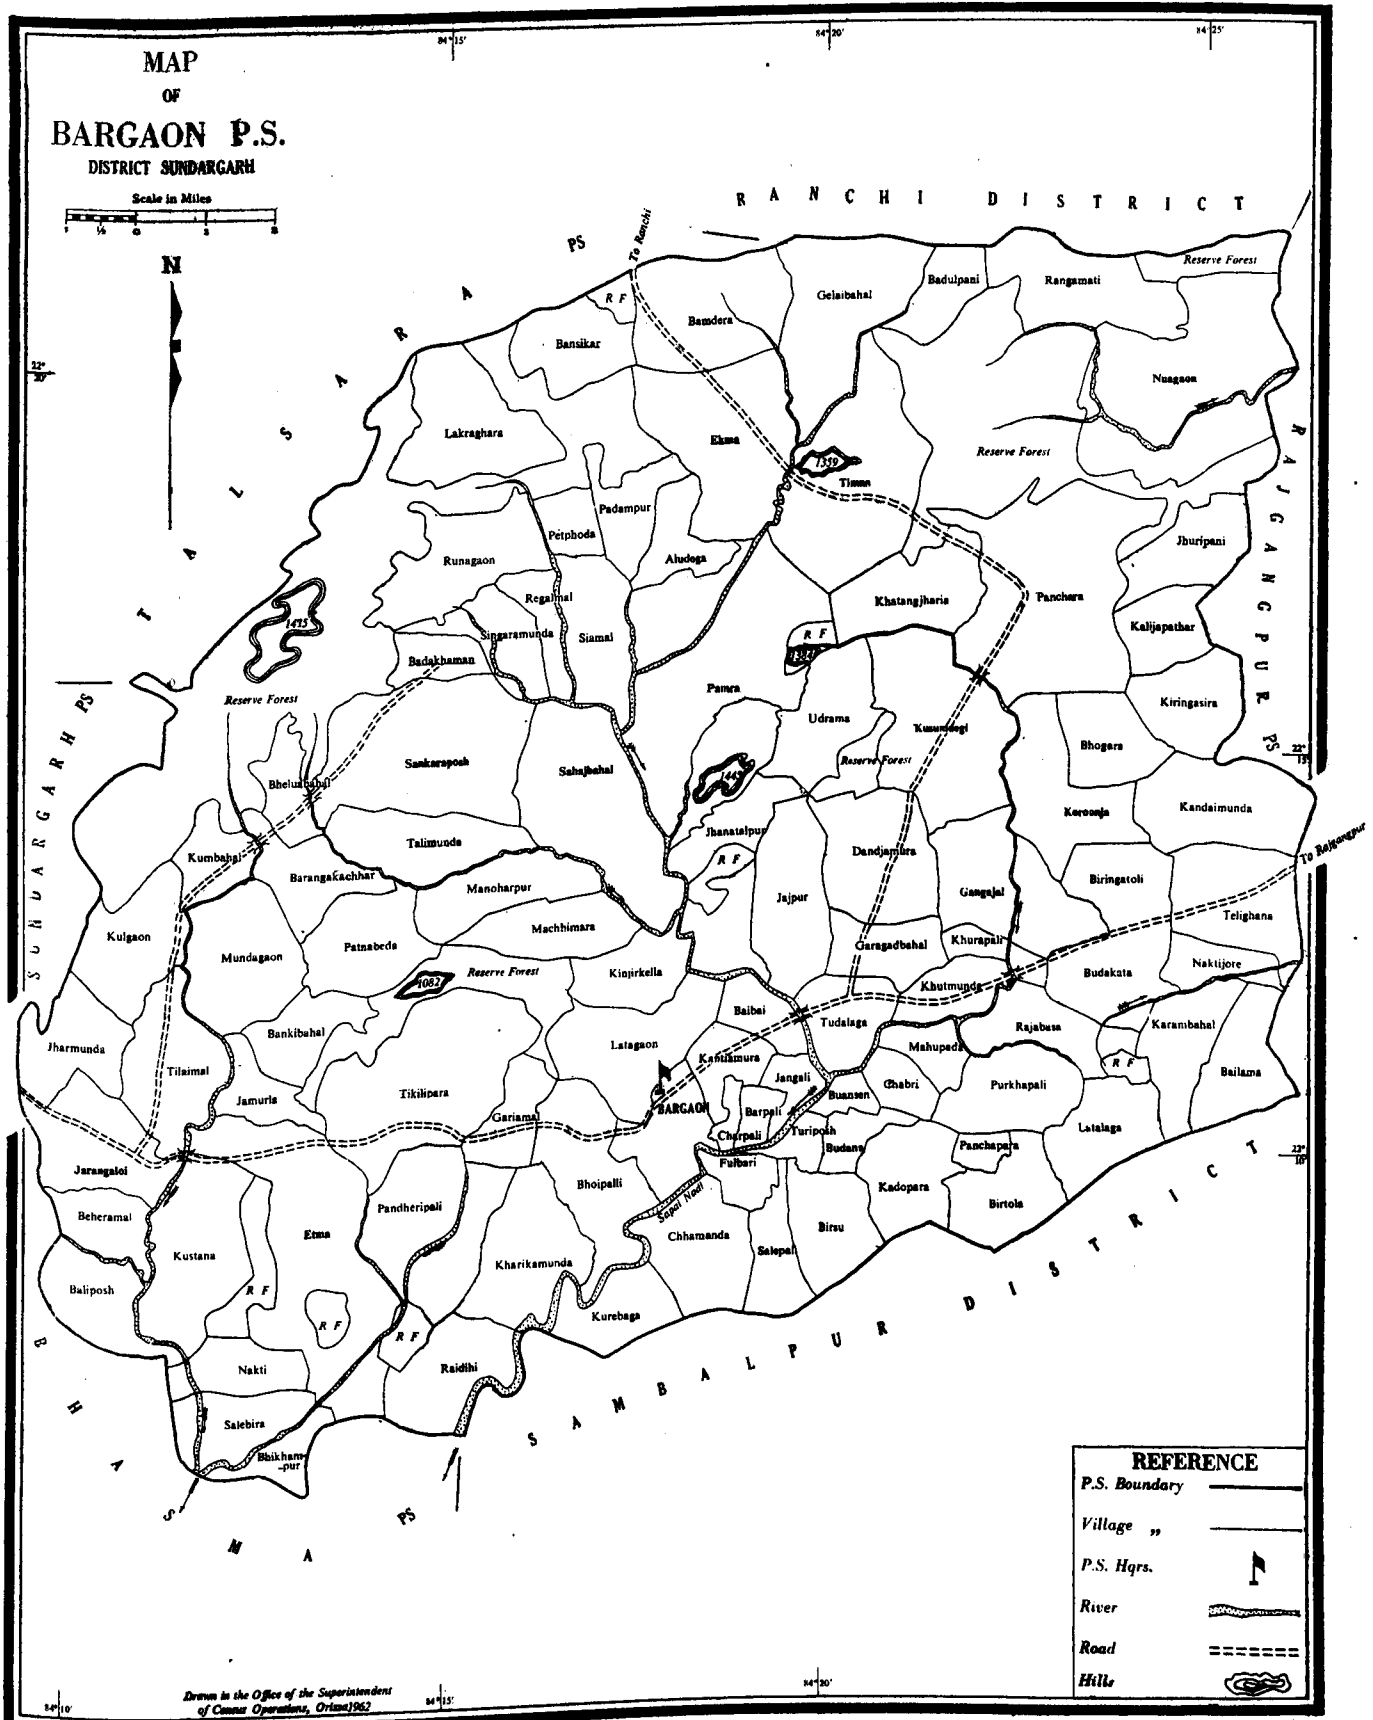

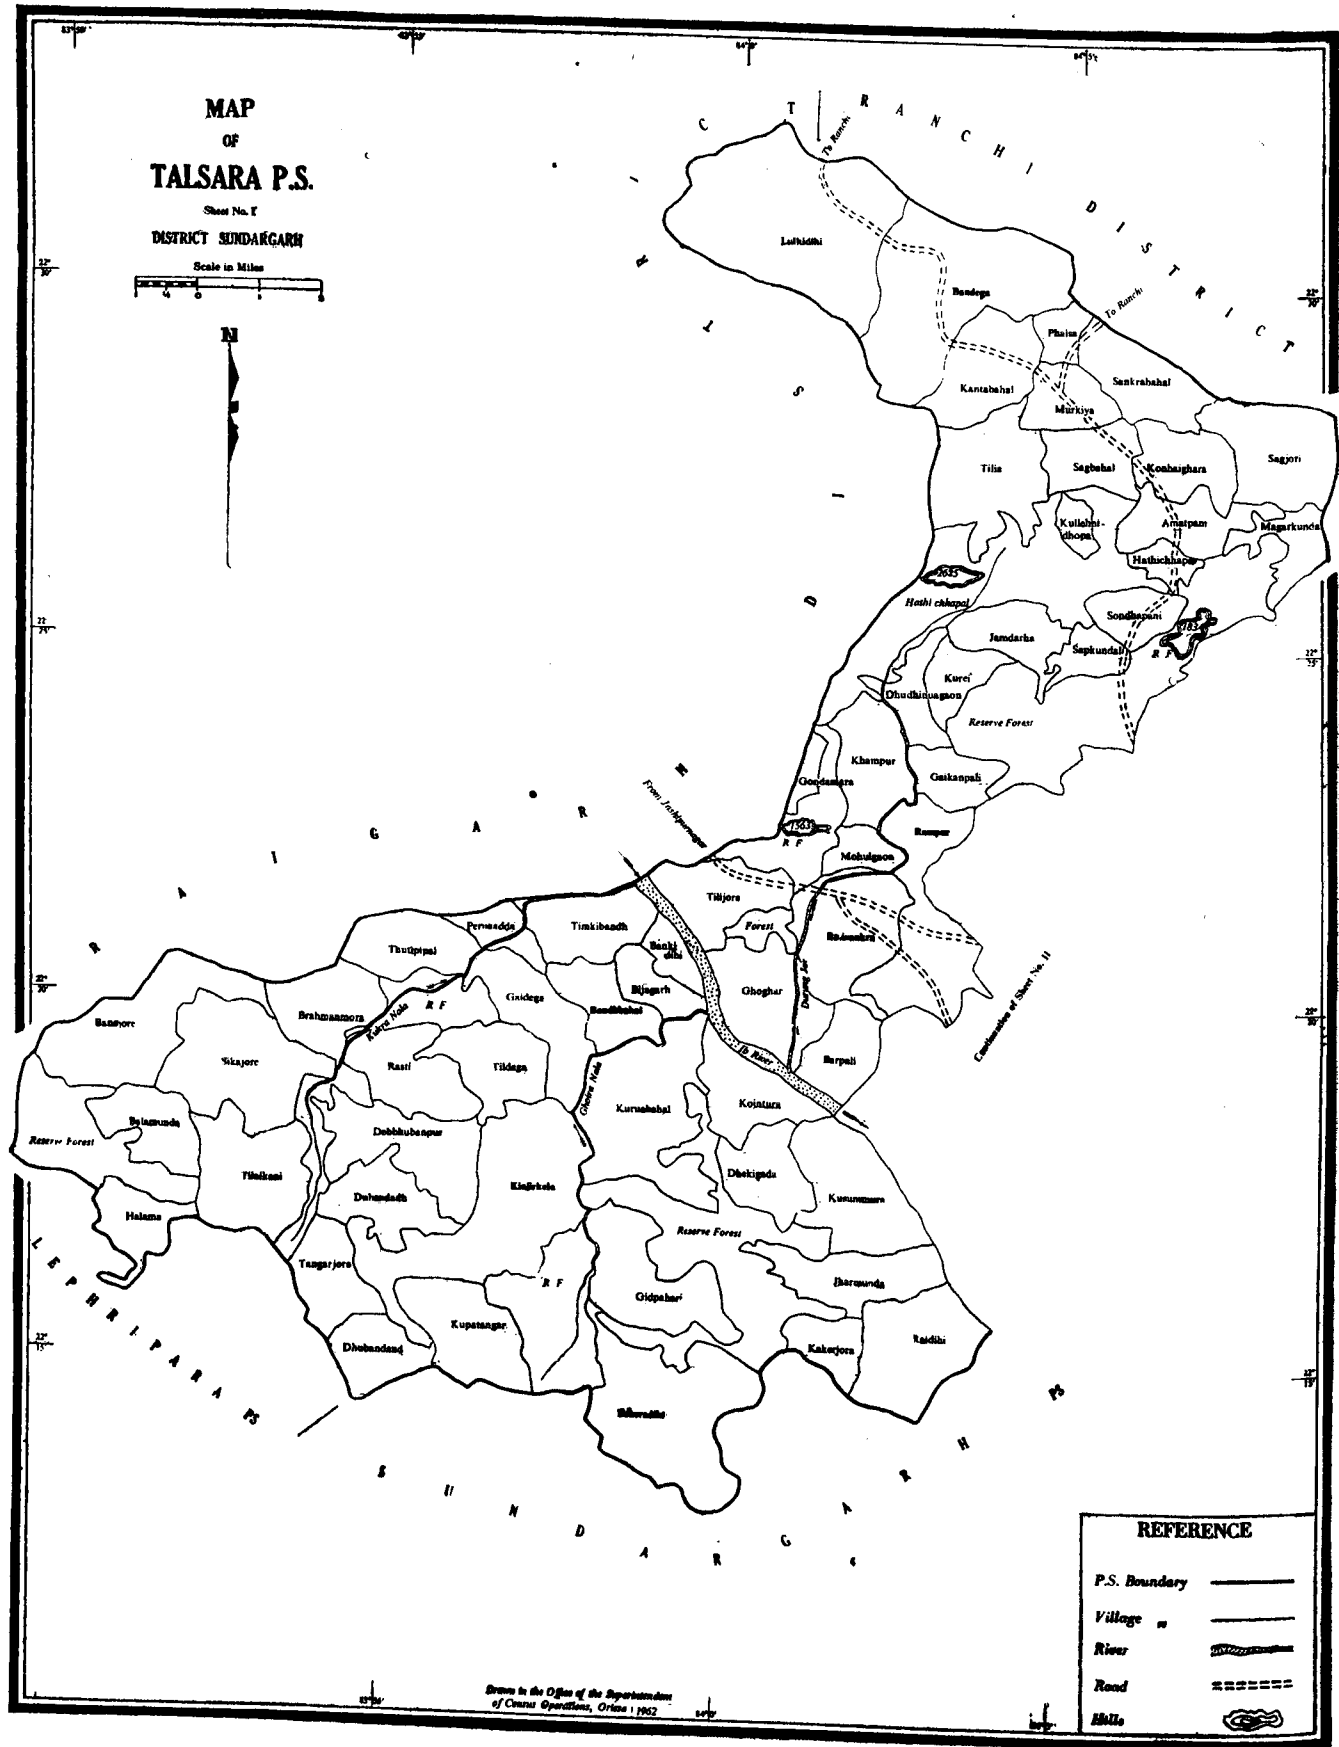

Agriculture—Out of the total area of the district comprising 2,424,320 acres, net area sown is 727,299 acres (30%), area under cultivation including current fallows is 775,783 acres (32%) and area under irrigation is 27,226 acres or 1·1% only. Rice, kodo and fibres among which cotton is grown extensively constitute principal crops. The quantity of rice produced annually is 130,570 tons which is not adequate for local consumption.

DHENKANAL DISTRICT

Dhenkanal district, one of the centrally located districts of Orissa, lies between 20° 29'N and 21° 41'N latitudes and between 84° 16'E and 86° 2'E longitudes. Its boundaries extend in the north to Keonjhar district, in the south to Baudh-Khondmals, Puri and Cuttack districts, in the west to Bolangir and Sambalpur districts and in the east to Keonjhar and Cuttack districts.

Physiography—The district has three natural divisions with a prominent feature bestowed by the river Brahmani, traversing centrally from north-west to south-east. There is a magnificent range of hills all along the north-eastern border, starting from the northernmost tip of Pallahara subdivision, where the Nagira hills attain a height of 2,682 ft and ending in the hills near by the eastern boundary of Kamakhyanager subdivision, where the height drops down to a little above 1,000 ft. In between, lie many thickly wooded and rugged hills, the most notable one being the Malya-giri (3,896 ft), towering above other hills in the range. This natural division of hills and dales is a continuation of the tangled mass of hills stretching from Bonai and Keonjhar, and are densely covered with forests containing the finest sal trees in Orissa. The second natural division comprises another great chain of hill ranges stretching almost continuously from the western end of Athmallik subdivision to the southern borders of Hindol. They run parallel to the course of the river Mahanadi which flows to the south. The highest hills are Panchadhar (2,956 ft) and Hingmandal (2,939 ft) in the west and Gamaria (1,922 ft) and Kapilas (2,086 ft) in the east, but the most picturesque ones are located in the region round about Tikarpara. In the central portion of this hill system, there is a compact hilly tract stretching northwards and covering over 30 sq. miles in Angul subdivision. The third natural region is the valley of the river Brahmani, lying in between the two hill systems described above. The country is undulating and contains a large number of fertile valleys. It is intersected by numerous hill streams, all flowing into the Brahmani or its tributaries. The undulating character of the country easily lends itself to easy irrigation, if dams or embankments are constructed. At some distance from the course of the Brahmani on either side are to be seen many isolated hills interspersed throughout the country which are small in height. The rest of the central tract has some open country here and there, particularly in portions of Talcher and Hindol. The district has extensive forests of northern tropical semi-evergreen type, covering 2,077 sq. miles and containing valuable timber, predominantly sal. Its soil belongs to different categories, mostly red soil, with patches of laterites and black cotton soil. The district contains extensive beds of low grade coal, now under exploitation.

Climate and rainfall—The climate of the district resembles more with that of the north-western districts of Orissa. The hot season commences in the beginning of March and the temperature starts rising rapidly till the hottest month of May, when the mean daily maximum temperature is about 40°C. With the onset of monsoons early in June, day temperatures drop appreciably and remain tolerable throughout the south-west monsoon season. From October the climate becomes agreeable. December is the coldest month of the year when the mean daily minimum temperature drops down to 11.5°C. The average annual rainfall in the district is 1,421.1 mm. (55.95"). Pallahara, which is on the northern border, has the maximum rainfall of about 1,782 mm. (70.17"), but the central part of the district receives much less rainfall. On an average there are 73 rainy days in a year. The district is affected by storms and depressions coming from the Bay of Bengal during the rainy season.

Vital Statistics—Systematic collection of Vital Statistics began in 1952, except in Angul subdivision which had the benefit of registration system from an early period. The collection work, however, suffers from many omissions in reporting vital events. During the decade 1951-60, births outnumbered deaths by 103,334 (55,377 males and 47,957 females). The birth and death rates work out to 27.9 and 16.0 per mille respectively. Infant deaths numbered 35,618 against total births of 241,441 and constitute 25.79% of total deaths. This district records the highest percentage of deaths of children up to the age of 5 years in the State, being 44.65% of total deaths. Fever, notably malaria, accounted for 63.15% of deaths in the district during the decade, but in 1957 smallpox took a toll of 1,359 lives. Deaths due to smallpox constituted 1.85% of total deaths, while cholera caused only 0.81% deaths.

Area and population of administrative units—The district extends over an area of 4,226 sq. miles or 10,945.4 sq. kms. and contains a population of 10.28 lakhs. It has the largest number of subdivisions which are seven in number and is divided into 23 police stations. The area and population of each such administrative unit is indicated below:

Towns—The names of the four towns in this district together with their population in brackets are as follows: Dhenkanal, District Headquarters (13,727), Bhuban (9,476), Angul (15,738) and Talcher (8,147).

Growth of population (1901-61)—The population which stood at 572,075 in 1901 has increased to 1,028,935 in 1961, the growth during the last 60 years being 79·9%. The nominal growth of 3·3% during the decade 1901-11 was followed by a sharp decline by 12·8% in the decade 1911-21. However, quick recovery is noticed during the decade 1921-31 when the growth was recorded at 23·4%. The decades 1931-41 and 1941-51 have also registered satisfactory growth of population varying between 16·7% and 13·1% respectively. The last decade 1951-61 witnessed substantial rise in the population by 22·6%.

Trend of migration—3·6% of the total population are migrants to this district of whom only 0·5% are born outside the State. Majority of the migrants hail from Bihar. Migrants born outside the district, outside the State and outside the country are indicated below:

	Persons	Males	Females	Per-centage
1. Population of the district	1,028,935	516,843	512,092	100
2. Born in the district	991,969	502,314	489,655	96·4
3. Born outside the district but within the State	31,840	11,553	20,287	3·1
4. Born in States in India other than Orissa	4,205	2,391	1,814	0·4
5. Born outside India (but in Asia)	336	255	81	Negligible
6. Others including unclassifiable	585	330	255	0·1

Economic classification—The population is divided broadly into two sections, namely, workers and non-workers. Workers are further classified into nine industrial categories. The number of persons with their sex break-up in each of the sections and categories are given below:

Section or category	Persons	Males	Females
1. Non-workers	603,675	209,983	393,692
2. Workers	425,260	306,860	118,400
(i) Cultivator	249,307	187,809	61,498
(ii) Agricultural labourer	62,022	39,240	22,782
(iii) Mining, Quarrying, Live-stock, Forestry, Fishing, Hunting and Plantations, Orchards and Allied activities	4,220	3,381	839
(iv) Household industry	43,100	25,345	17,755
(v) Manufacturing other than household industry	1,126	1,034	92
(vi) Construction	699	636	63
(vii) Trade and Commerce	4,991	4,123	868
(viii) Transport, Storage and Communications	763	739	24
(ix) Other Services	59,032	44,553	14,479

Scheduled Tribes—There are 26 Scheduled Tribes in the district with a population of 143,484 which is 13·9% of the total population. The principal tribes are Shabar (29,851), Kond (20,563), Gond (20,379), Saora (12,365), Juang (11,551), Kharia (8,675), Munda (7,878), Kolha (7,226), Kisan (6,010), Bhuiya (3,645), Kora (3,357), Matia (2,505), Bhumij (2,325), Ho (2,006) and Santal (1,783). The district is considered to be the homeland of the Juangs, Koras and Matias. Literacy is confined to 10·1%. Principal economic activity is cultivation and agricultural labour. Household industry and 'other services' are also popular.

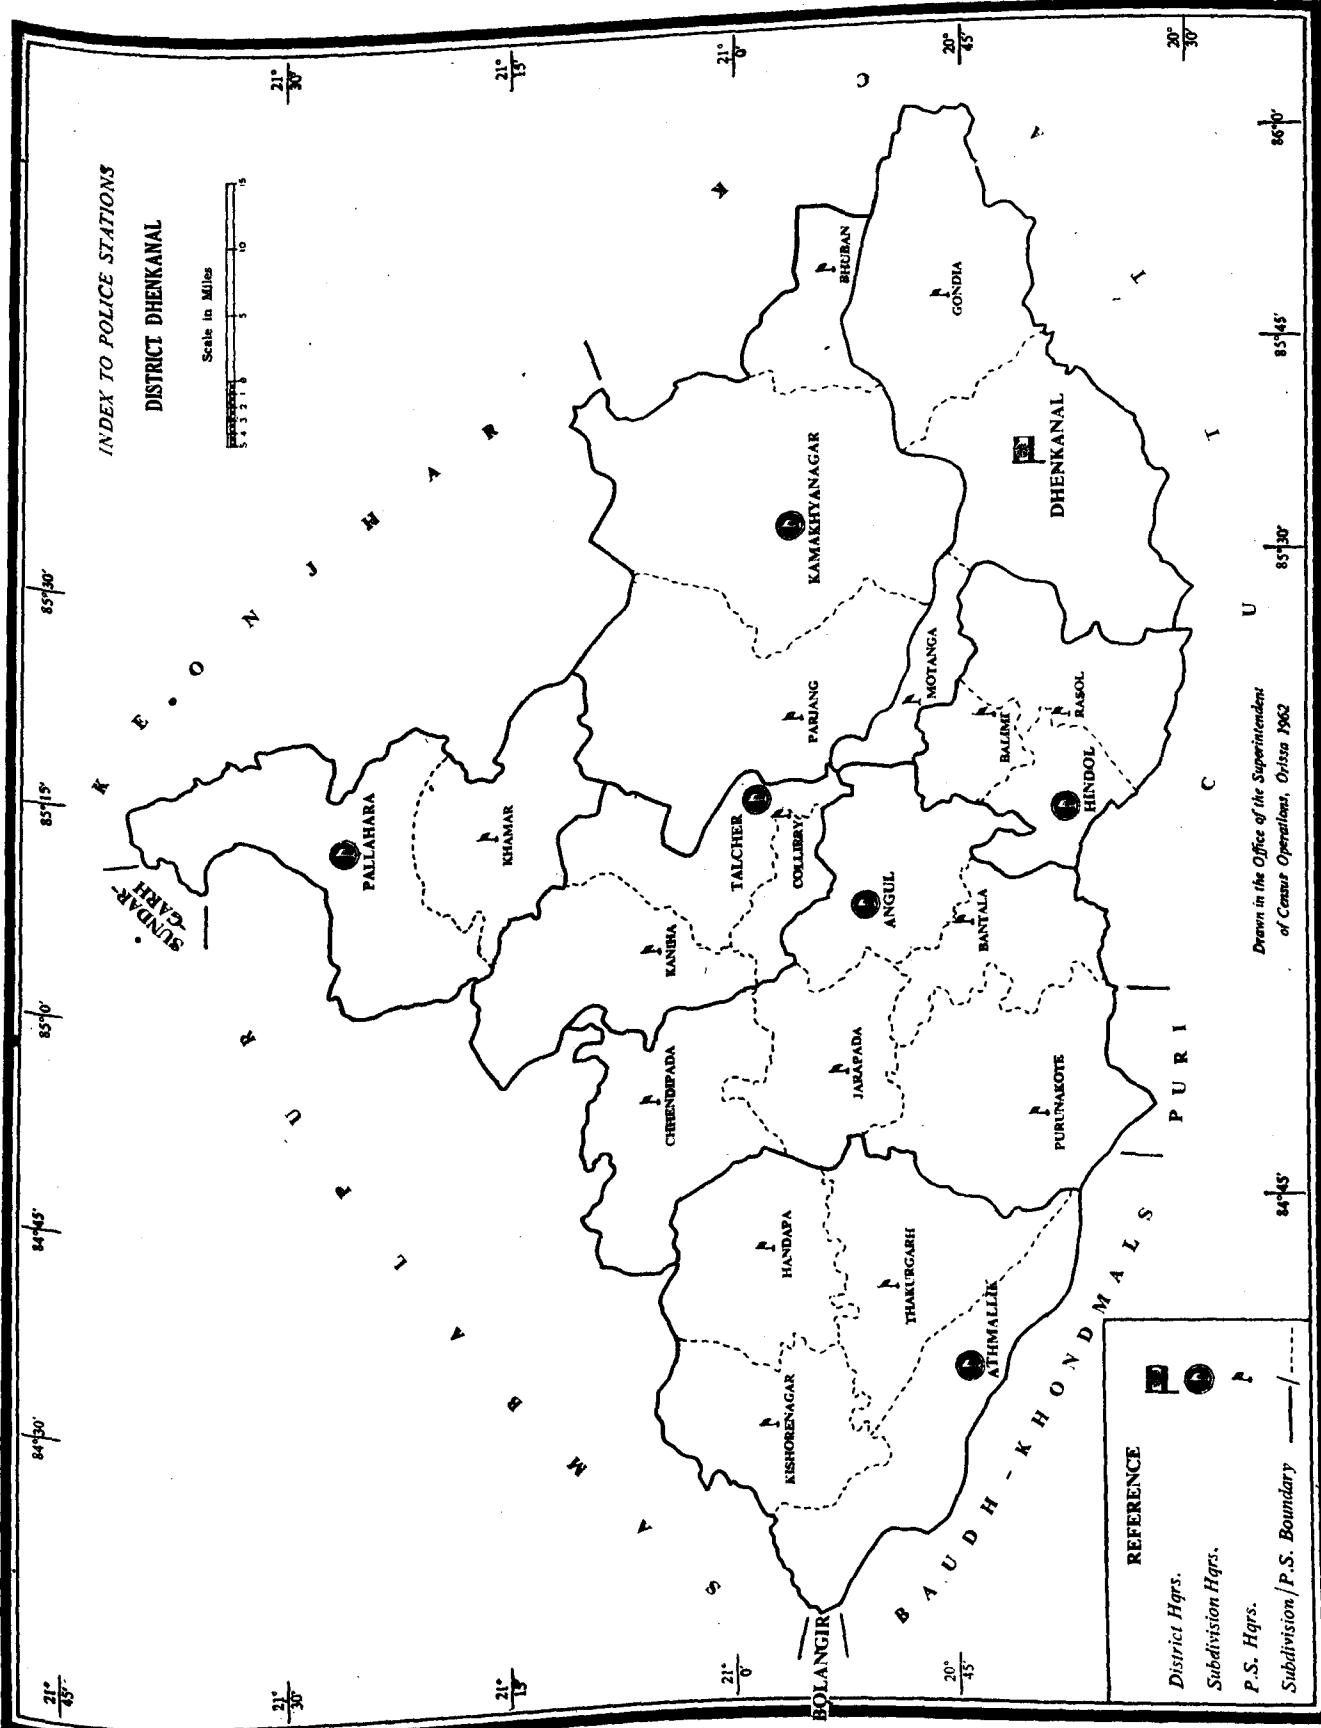

Scheduled Castes—The population of Scheduled Castes in the district is 187,156 which is 18·1% of the total population. There are 51 castes, the most numerous being Pan (110,485), Tanla (16,279), Dhoba (14,504), Haddi (11,380), Ghasi (6,046), Bariki (3,978), Chamar (3,451), Ganda (3,422), Dom (2,475), Siyal (2,212), Tiar (1,694), Godra (1,667), Bhoi (1,296), Pantanti (1,173) and Dewar (1,004). Literacy is confined to 12·1%. Cultivation and agricultural labour provide livelihood to the largest section of the population although household industry and 'other services' are also popular.

Literacy—About 23·5 per cent or 241,332 persons out of the total population of 1,028,935 are literates. The rate of literacy among the males has gone up to 38·9 per cent as against 7·9% among the females. In the Census of 1951, literacy was much lower, namely, 18·7 per cent. The district has 1,386 Primary Schools, 96 M.E. Schools and 22 High Schools.

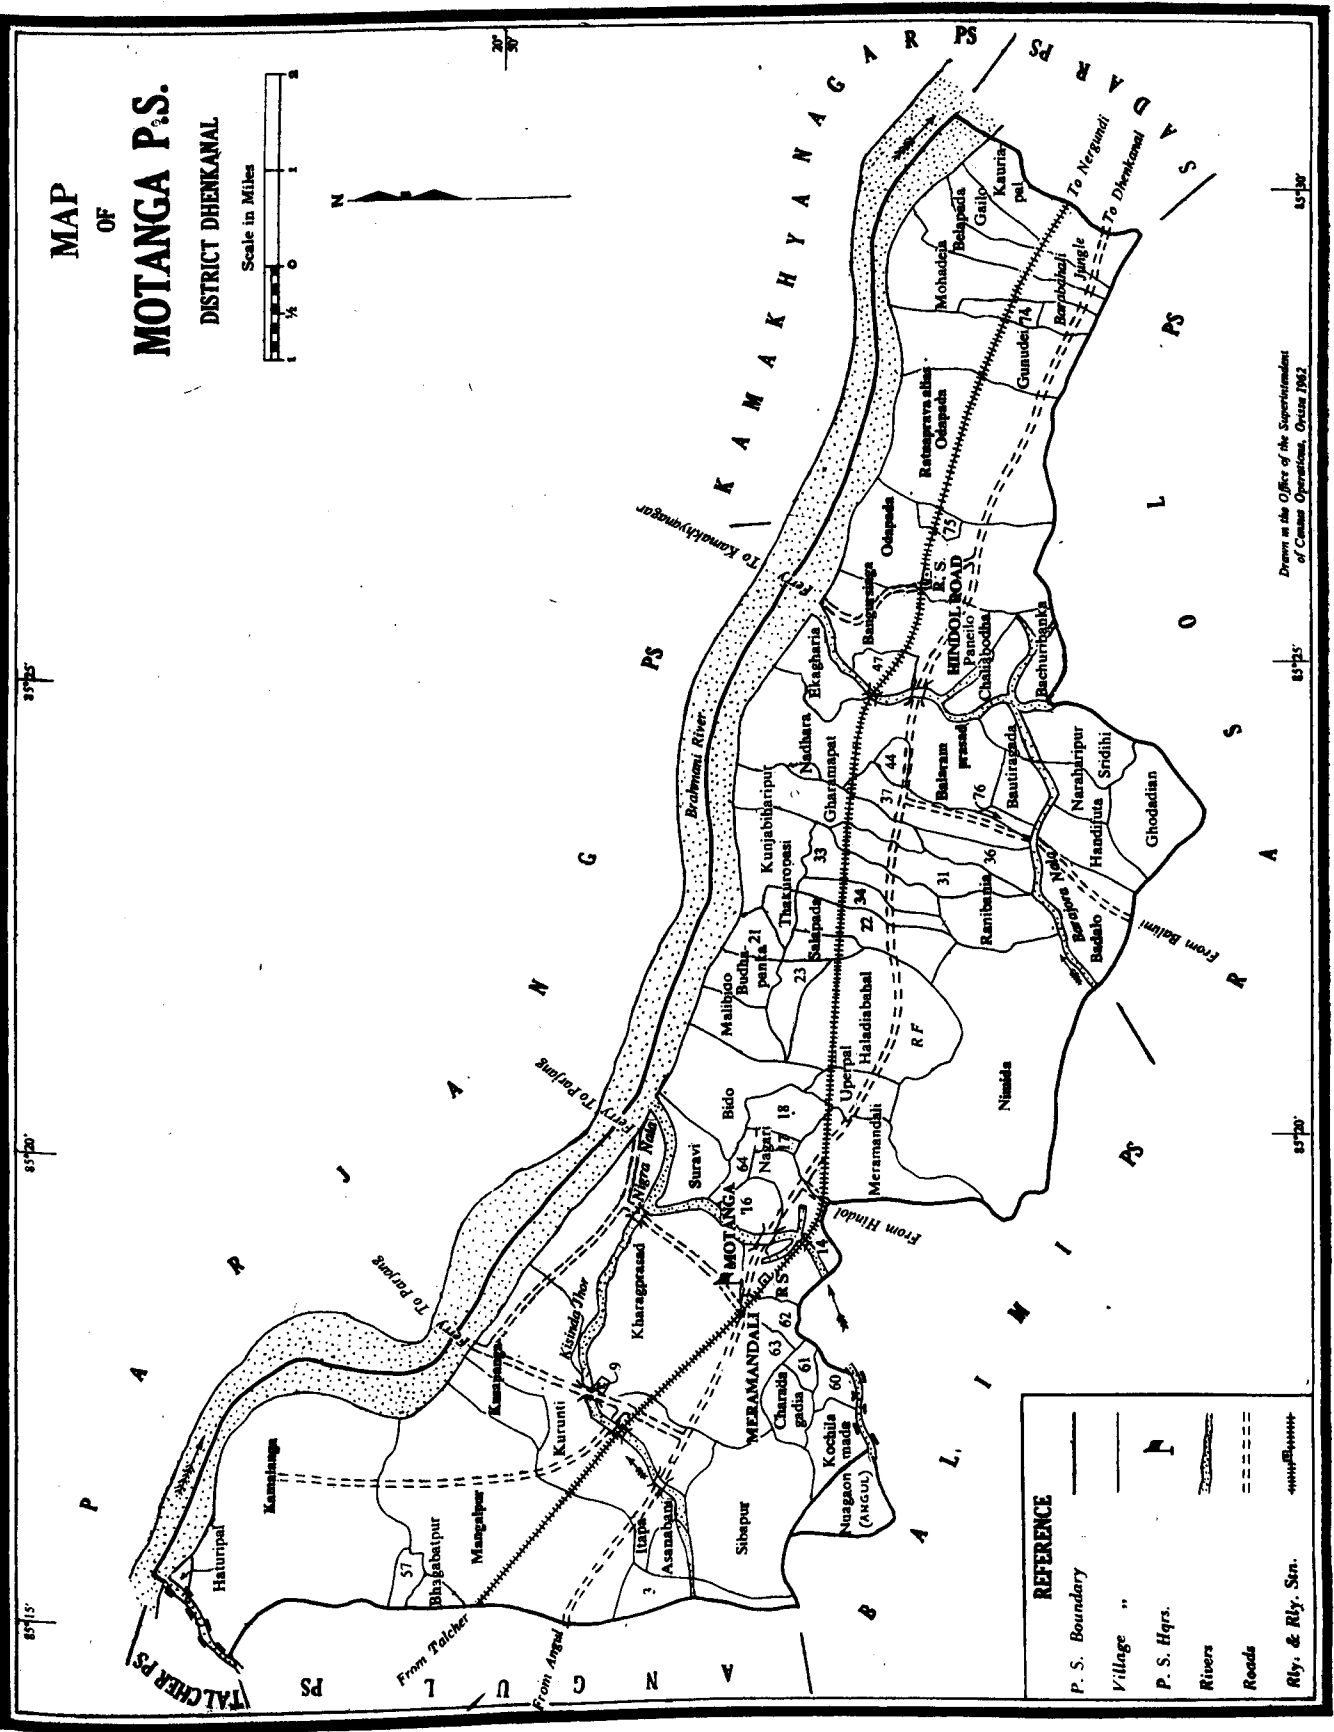

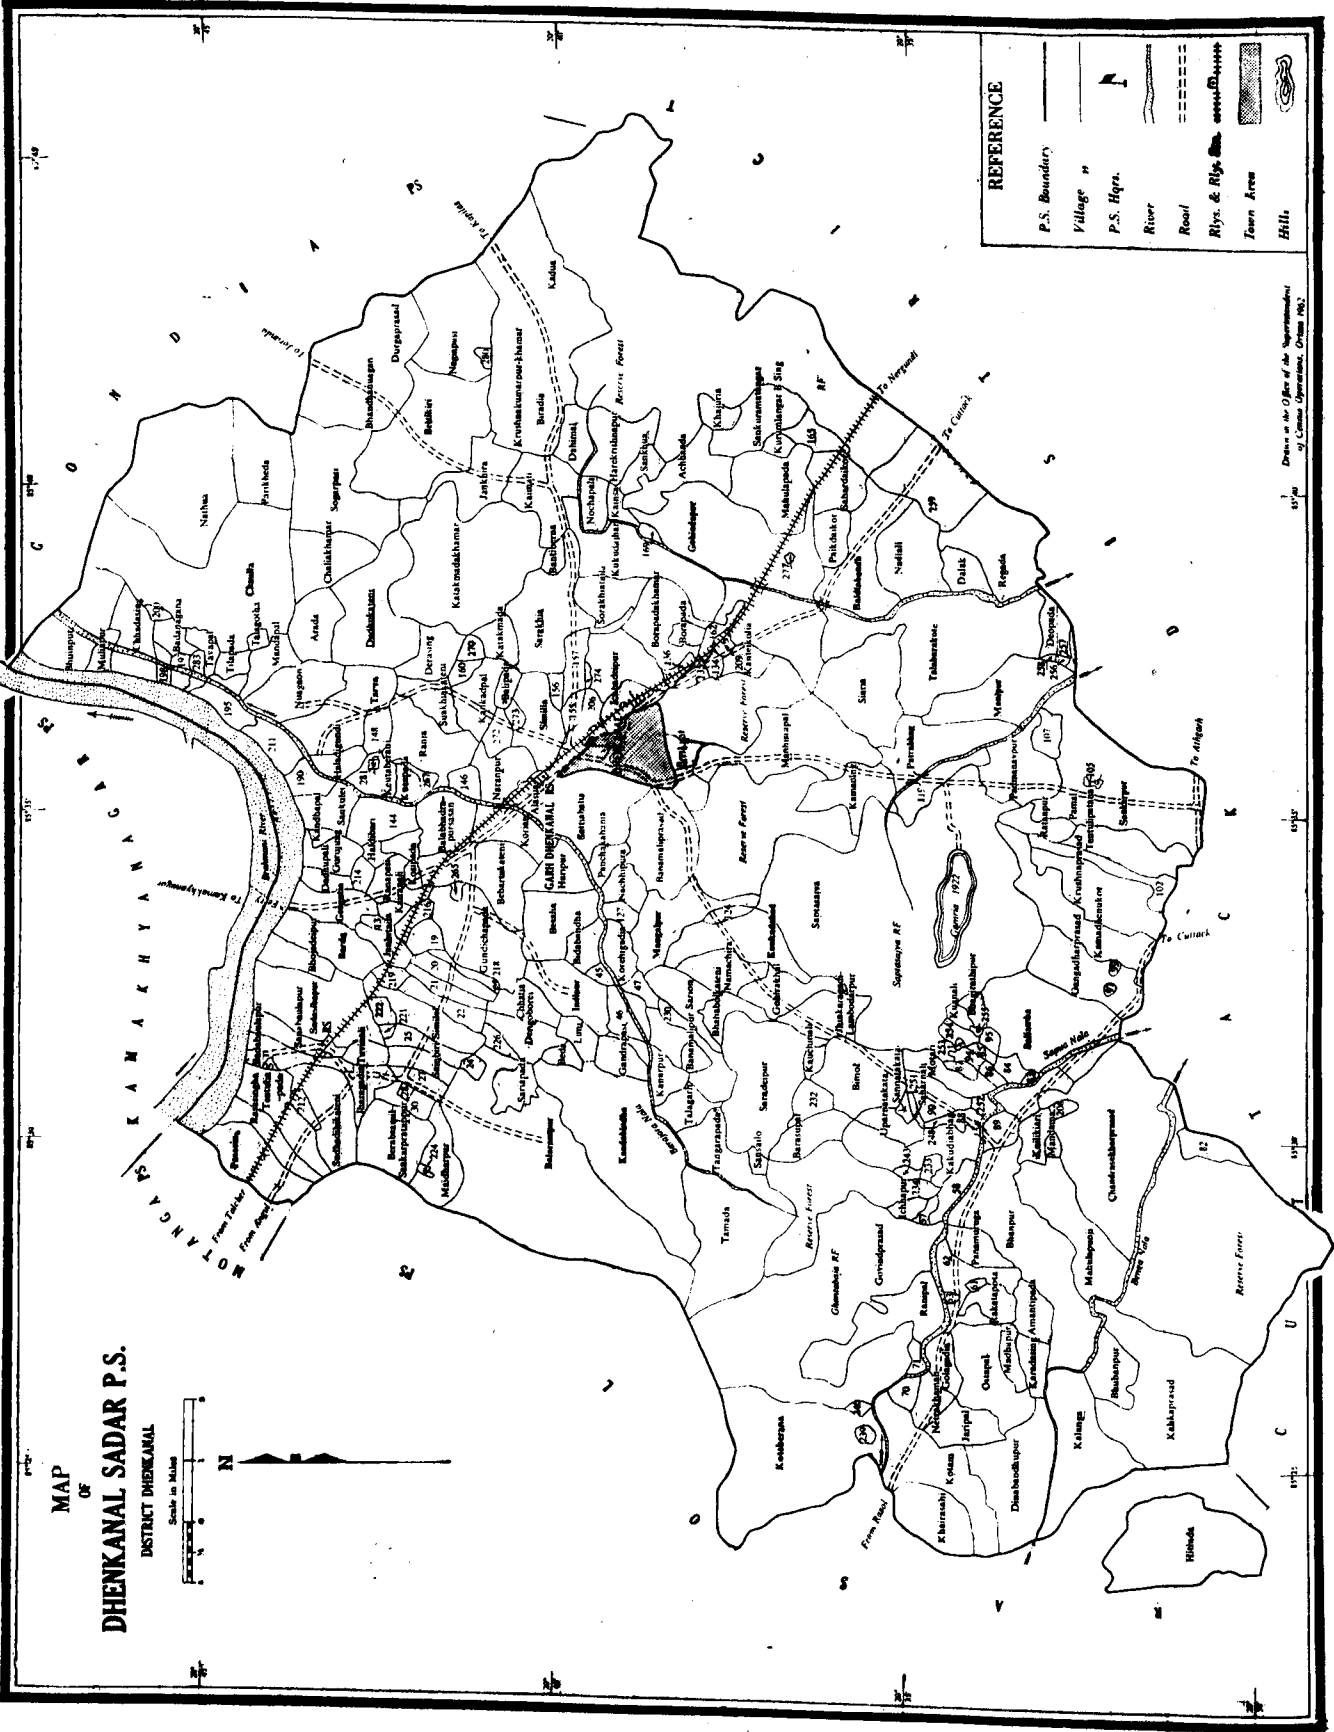

Industries—The number of industrial establishments including small scale household industries are 15,388 in the district. According to the classification of the I. S. I. C. Scheme, there are 56 different kinds of industries in the district. The statement below gives a list of industries which are most extensively found here:

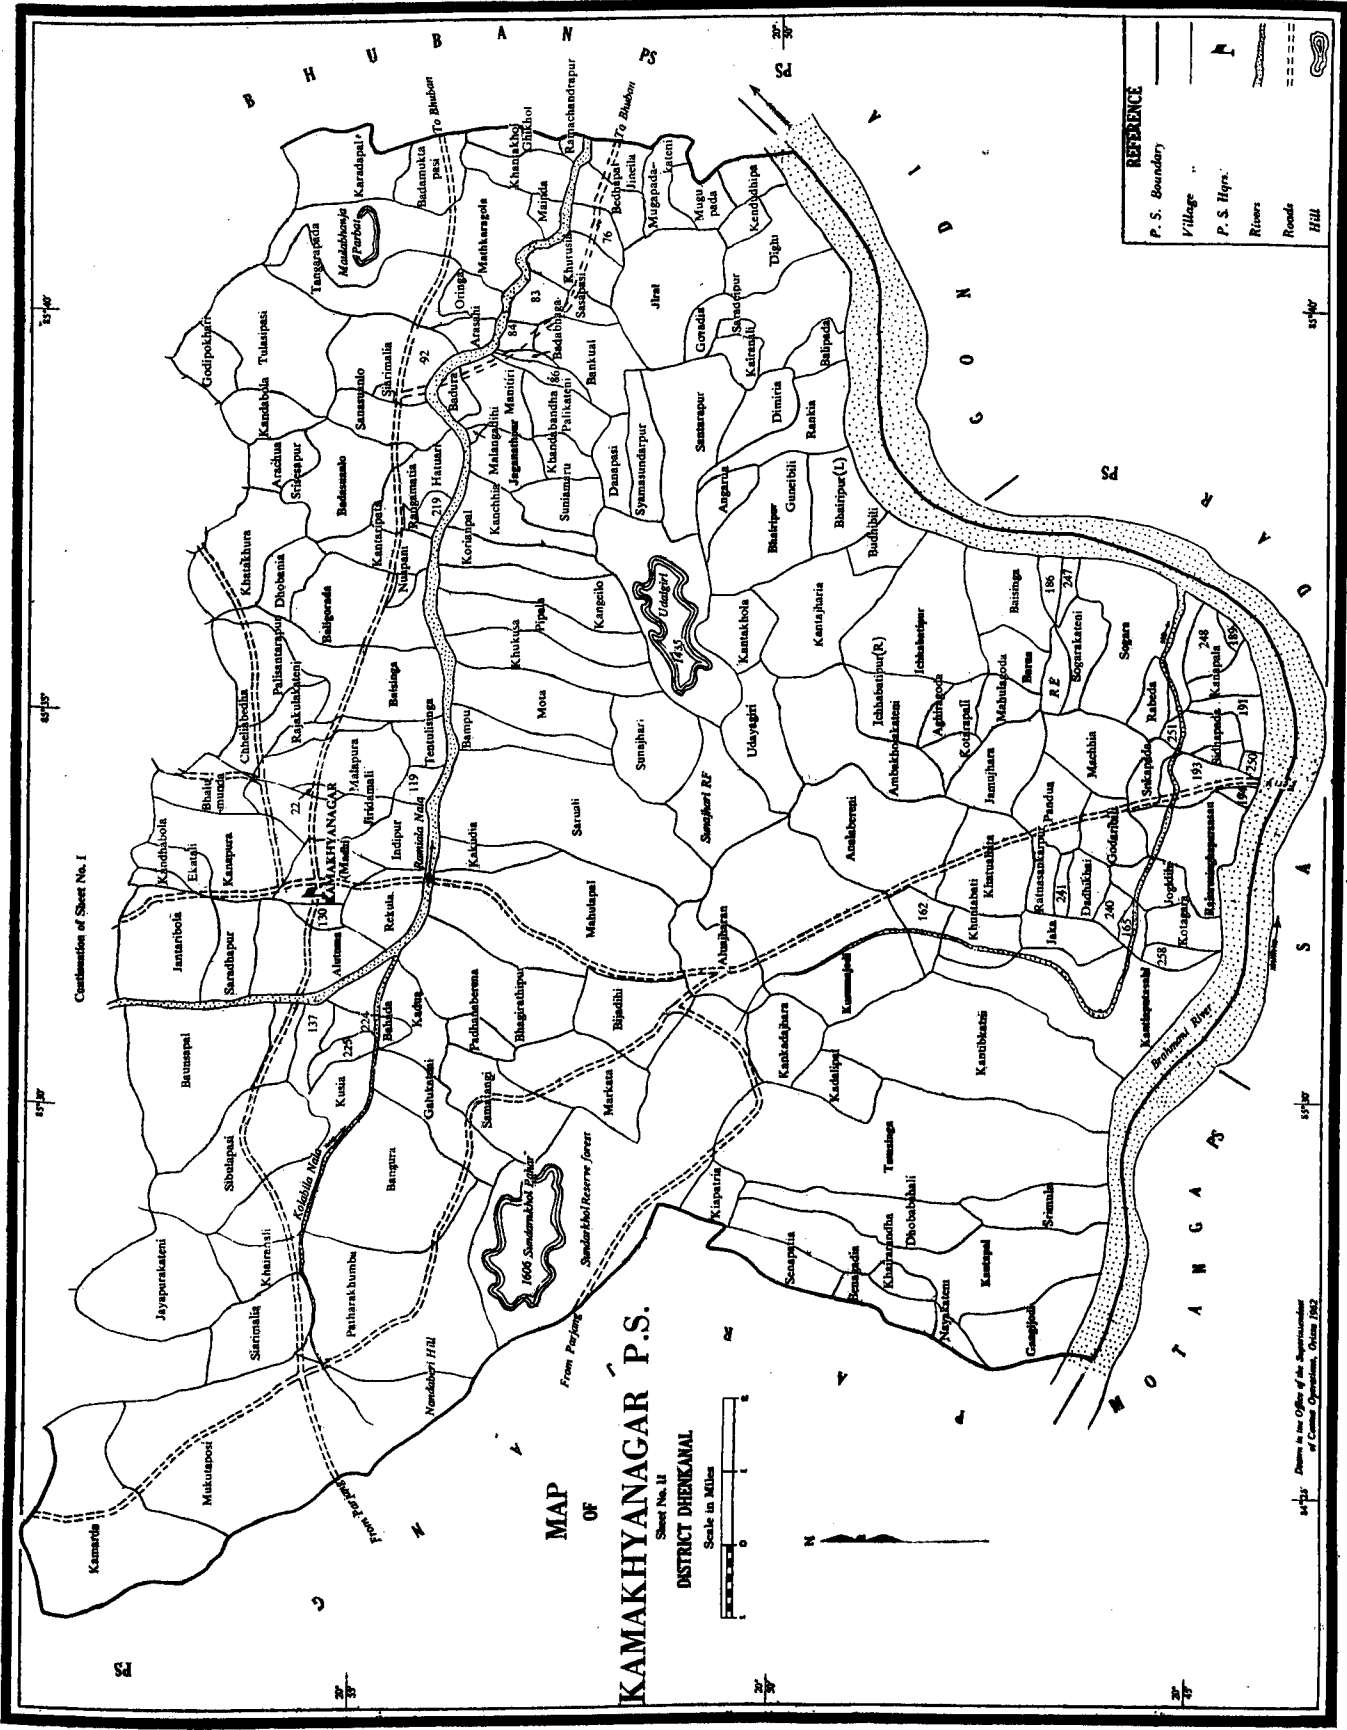

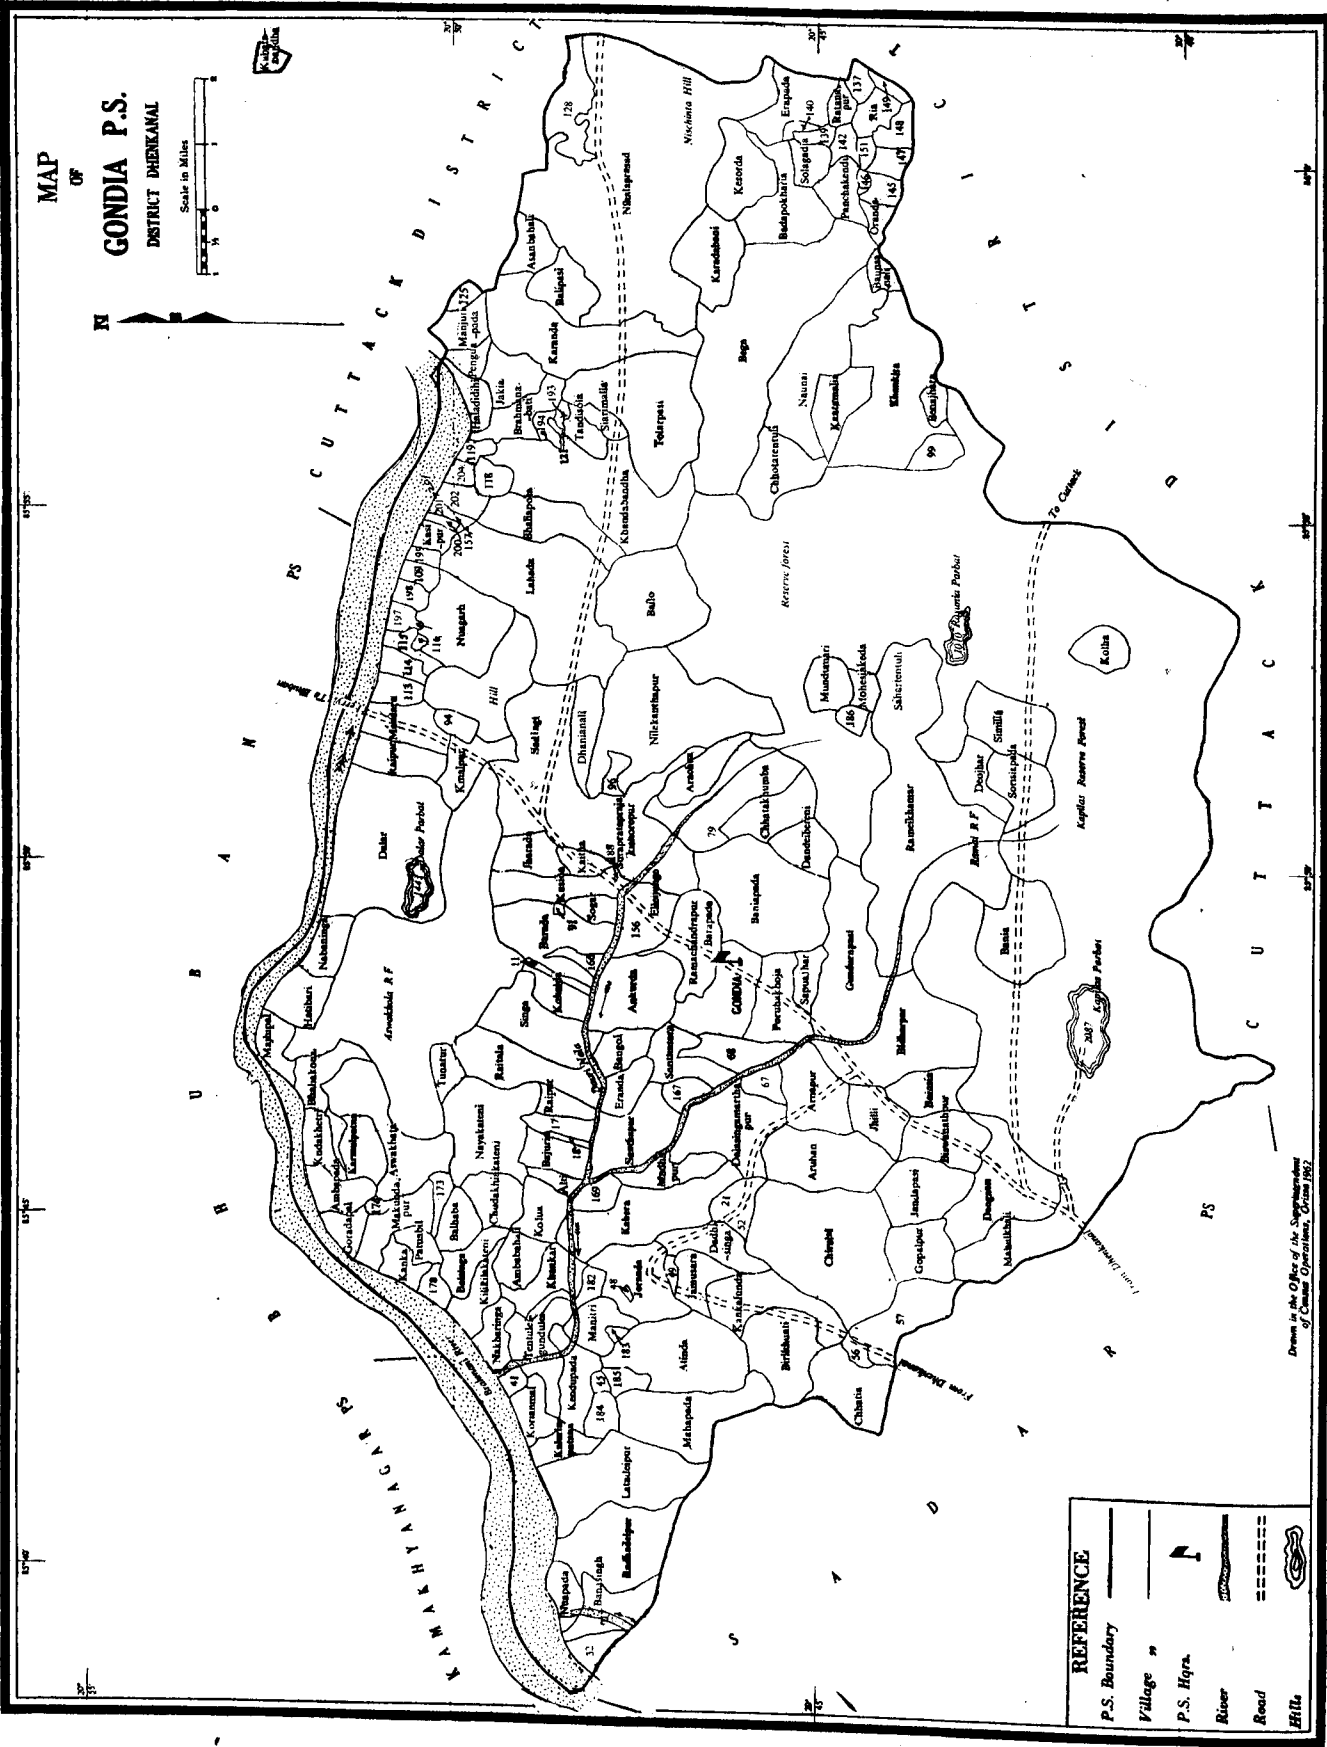

Name of industry	Total no. of establishments	No. of persons engaged
1	2	3
Manufacture of materials from cork, bamboo, cane, leaves, etc.	4,964	13,013
Cotton weaving in handlooms	2,480	7,065
Manufacture of earthenwares and earthen potteries	1,736	5,857
Production of edible fats and oils (other than hydrogenated oil)	1,295	3,625
Manufacture of sundry hardwares	1,094	3,271
Manufacture of structural wooden goods, such as, beams, posts, doors, windows	741	1,520
Manufacture of jewellery, and wares using gold and other precious metals	718	1,473
Manufacture of brass and bell-metal products	531	1,358

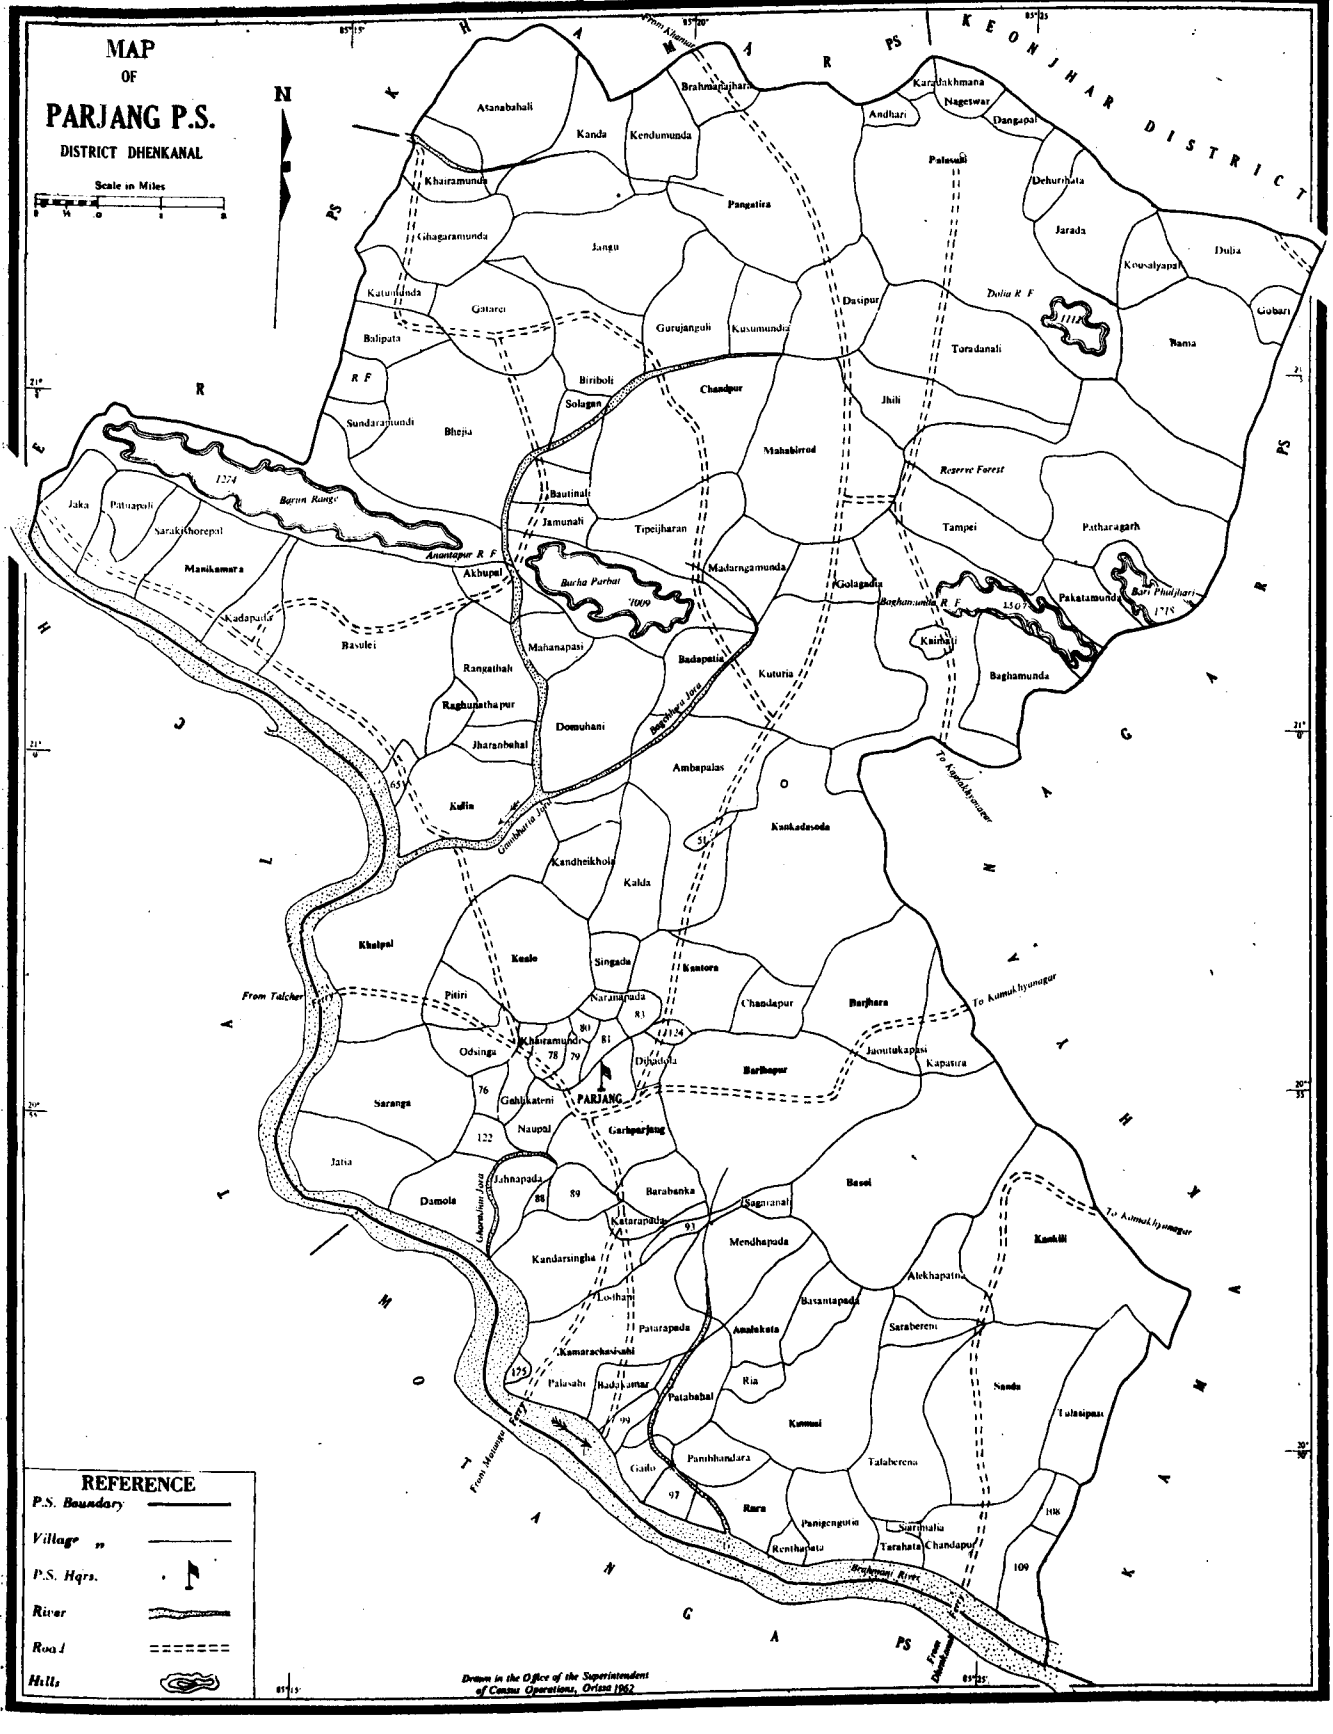

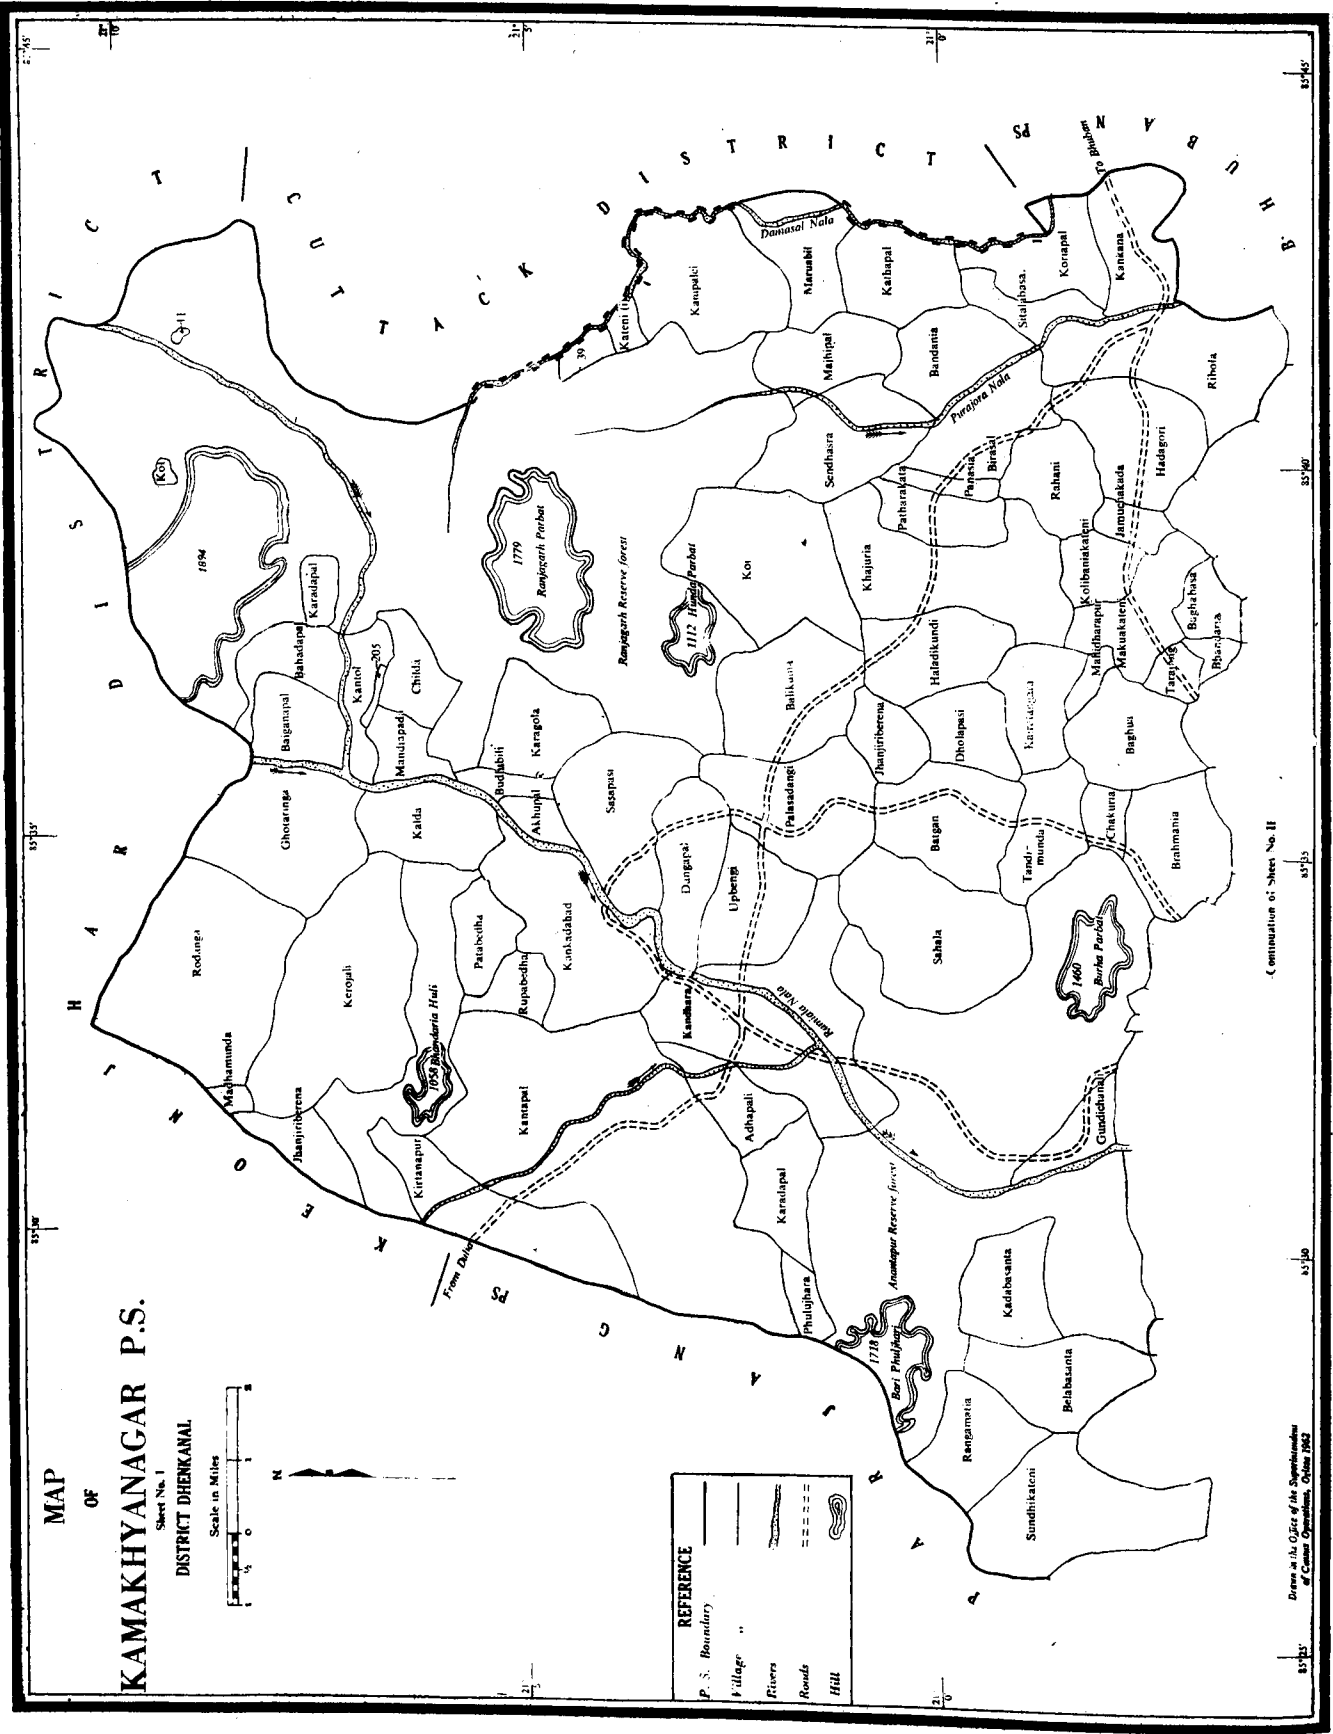

Agriculture—Out of the total area of the district comprising 2,704,640 acres, net area sown is 805,744 acres (29·8%), area under cultivation including current fallows is 863,160 acres (31·9%) and area under irrigation is 214,059 acres (7·9%). Rice, maize, kulthi and oil-seeds among which ground-nut is important constitute principal crops. The quantity of rice produced annually is 109,071 tons which is just enough to meet needs of internal consumption.

KEONJHAR DISTRICT

Keonjhar district located in the northern part of Orissa lies between 21° 1'N and 22° 10'N latitudes and between 85° 11'E and 86° 22'E longitudes. Its boundaries extend in the north to Singhbhum district in Bihar, in the south to Cuttack district, in the west to Dhenkanal and Sundergarh districts and in the east to Mayurbhanj and Balasore districts.

Physiography—The district has two dissimilar natural regions, approximately bisected by the State Highway from Chaibasa to Jajpur Road passing through the headquarters, Keonjhar. To the east of this Highway is a gentle slope from the belt of hills spreading out into the open plain country of Anandapur and a portion of the Sadar subdivision. The river Baitarani flows through this plain country having a number of confluences with its tributaries. It has little jungle and is dotted with a few low isolated hills. It has good cultivation and thick population. To the west of the State Highway is a range of lofty hills stretching extensively from the southern extremity to the northern and extending to Singhbhum district on the one hand and to the adjoining frontiers of Bonai, Pallahara and Dhenkanal on the other. It contains some of the highest peaks of Orissa, namely, Gandamardan (3,477 ft), Mankarnacha (3,639 ft), Thakurani (3,003 ft) and Gonasika (3,219ft). This range of hills serves as the water-shed of the river Baitarani on the north and Brahmani on the south. The water-shed is in the shape of a crescent with tips far apart in the north and the south, and is the home of interesting tribes, namely, Bhuiyas and Juangs. There are some tablelands on the summit of these hills which are fit for pasture and tillage but the slopes have loose stones and boulders with a network of hill streams running in all directions.

The total forest area of this district is 1,702 sq. miles and the forests are of the northern tropical moist deciduous type. The important species grown in these forests are sal, asan, bija, canes, kurum, kongra, etc., and other forest products, viz., tussar, cocoons, lac, etc. The soil for the most part is red soil though in the south there is a small patch of black cotton soil. Among minerals, iron, chromite and manganese are worked in huge quantities.

Climate and rainfall—The climate is characterised by an oppressive hot summer, high humidities and well distributed rainfall. The hot season commences by about the beginning of March when the temperature rises rapidly till May, which is the hottest month with the mean daily maximum temperature of 41°C. With the onset of the monsoons early in June, the temperature drops but the drop is more appreciable from October onwards. December is the coldest month of the year when the mean daily minimum temperature is 13°C. In the cold season short spells of cold weather are unpleasant. The average annual rainfall in the district is 1,534.5 mm (60.41"). About 76% of the annual rainfall is received during the monsoon months, of which July is the wettest. The district is affected by storms and depressions originating from the Bay of Bengal in the monsoon months.

Vital Statistics—This district came under registration system for collection of Vital Statistics from 1952. But it appears that all cases of birth and death are not reported or recorded. During 9 years from 1952 to 1960, births outnumbered deaths by 72,829

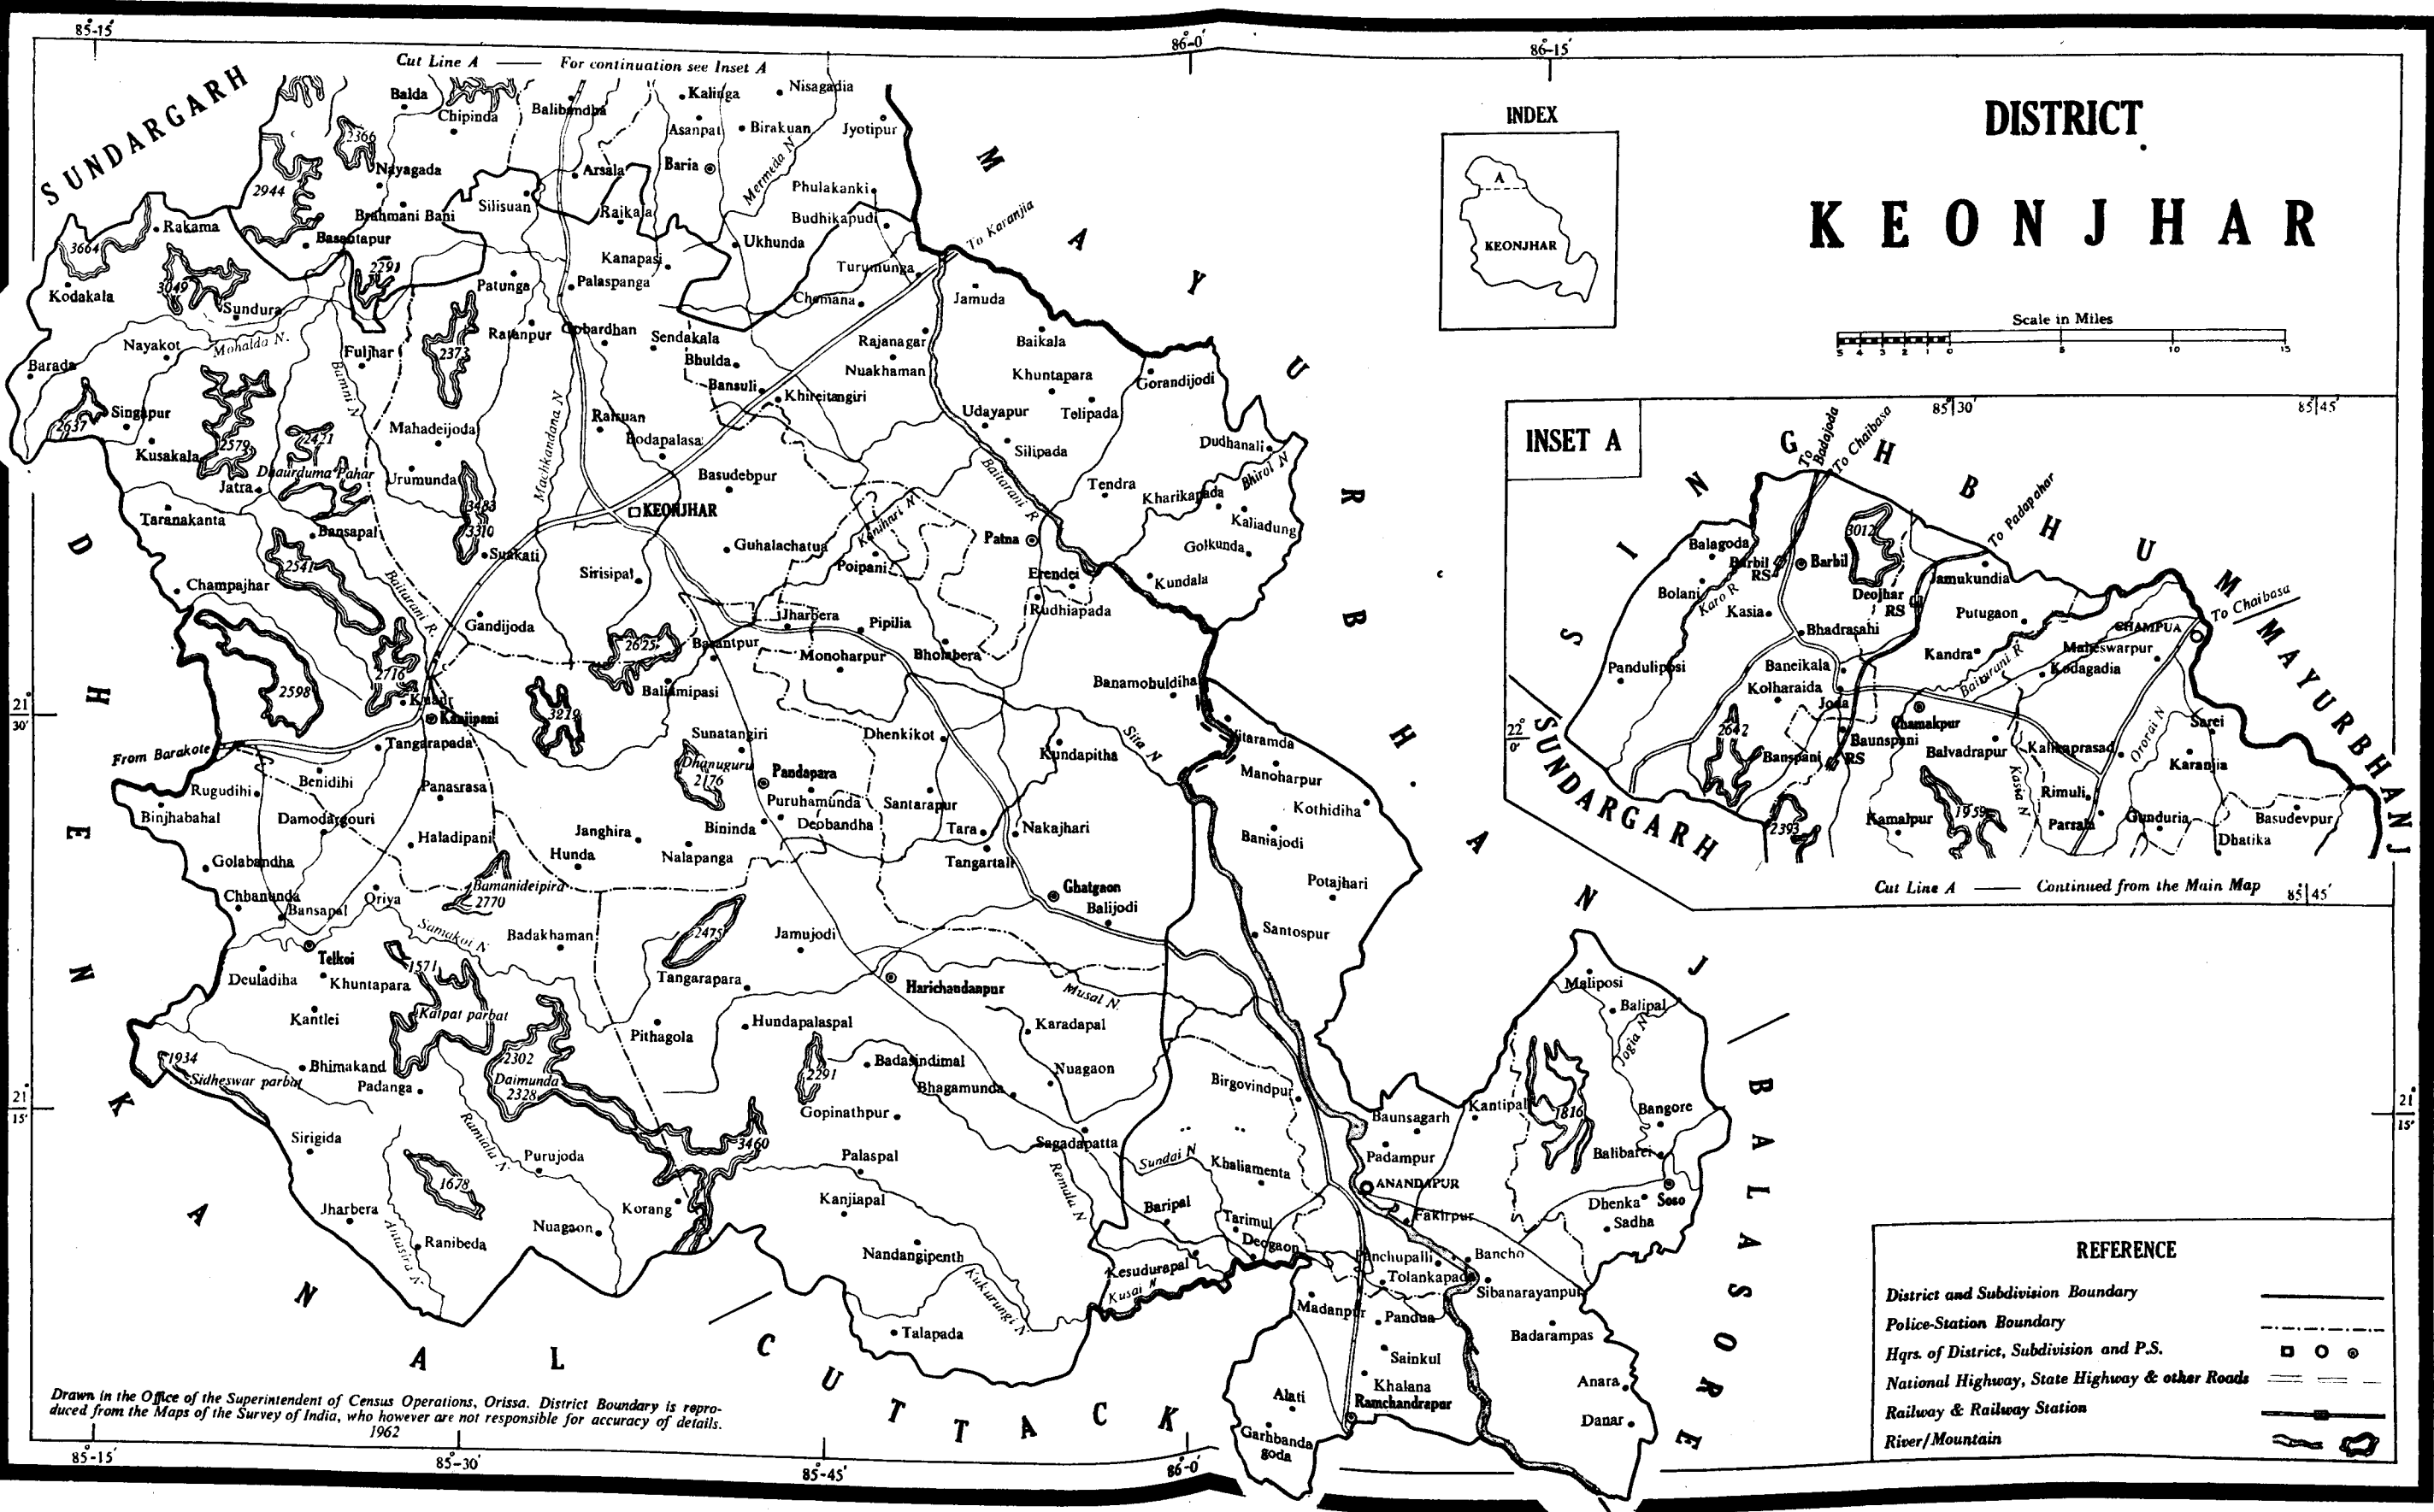

(37,115 males and 35,714 females). The birth and death rates during this period work out to 28.0 and 15.9 per mille respectively. Infant deaths numbered 20,114 against total births of 168,927 and constitute 20.93% of total deaths. Deaths among children up to the age of 5 years is appalling, being 38.94% of total deaths. Fever, notably malaria, recorded 80.81% of deaths in the district during this period, the second highest percentage in the State. Deaths from cholera and smallpox were only 0.43 and 1.46 in percentage.

Area and population of administrative units—The district covers an area of 3,216.5 sq. miles or 8,330.7 sq. kms. and contains a population of 7.43 lakhs. It is divided into 3 subdivisions and 14 police stations. The area and population of each such administrative unit is given below:

Administrative units	Area in sq. miles	No. of villages	Population	Population per sq. mile

Towns—The district has two towns of which Keonjhar with a population of 12,264 is the District Headquarters. The second town, Barbil with a population of 19,340 is noted for mining industry.

Growth of population (1901-61)—The population of the district grew from 285,758 in 1901 to 743,315 in 1961, an increase of 160.1% during the last 60 years. The decade 1901-11 saw the highest growth of population which was 27.6%. The rate of growth came down to 4.1% in the decade 1911-21; but the next decade 1921-31 registered a substantial increase of 21.4%. The decades 1931-41 and 1941-51 recorded moderate growth of 15% and 11.1% respectively while the increase of 26.3% during the decade 1951-61 indicates sharp rise in the growth of population.

Trend of migration—The migrants to this district constitute 7.3% of the total population out of which 2.6% are born outside the State. A majority of the migrants come from Bihar. The number of migrants from other districts of the State as well as from outside the State are given below:

	Persons	Males	Females	Per-centage
1. Population of the district	743,315	375,090	368,225	100
2. Born in the district	688,872	352,426	336,446	92.7

5. Born outside India (but in Asia)	621	417	204	0.1
6. Others including unclassifiable	402	231	171	Negligible

Economic classification—The entire population of the district may be divided into two broad sections, namely, workers and non-workers. Workers are further classified into nine industrial categories shown below:

Section or category	Persons	Males	Females
1. Non-workers	408,404	155,310	253,094
2. Workers	334,911	219,780	115,131
(i) Cultivator	221,368	149,827	71,541
(ii) Agricultural labourer	49,933	28,352	21,581

(viii) Transport, Storage and Communication.s	2,941	2,005	936
(ix) Other Services	24,921	17,650	7,271

Scheduled Tribes—The population of Scheduled Tribes in the district is 350,389 which is 47.1% of the total population. There are 37 tribes, the most numerous being Bhuiya (52,686), Kol (46,180), Gond (39,232), Bathudi (37,465), Kolha (31,715), Sounti (30,891), Munda (27,492), Santal (27,159), Juang (9,768), Ho (9,044), Saora

(8,410), Bhumij (8,122), Mundari (6,110), Shabar (4,281), Kond (4,048), Kisan (2,241) and Oraon (1,003). The district is considered to be the homeland of Bhuiyas, Sountis and Kols. Literacy is confined to 5.9%. Principal economic activity is cultivation and agricultural labour.

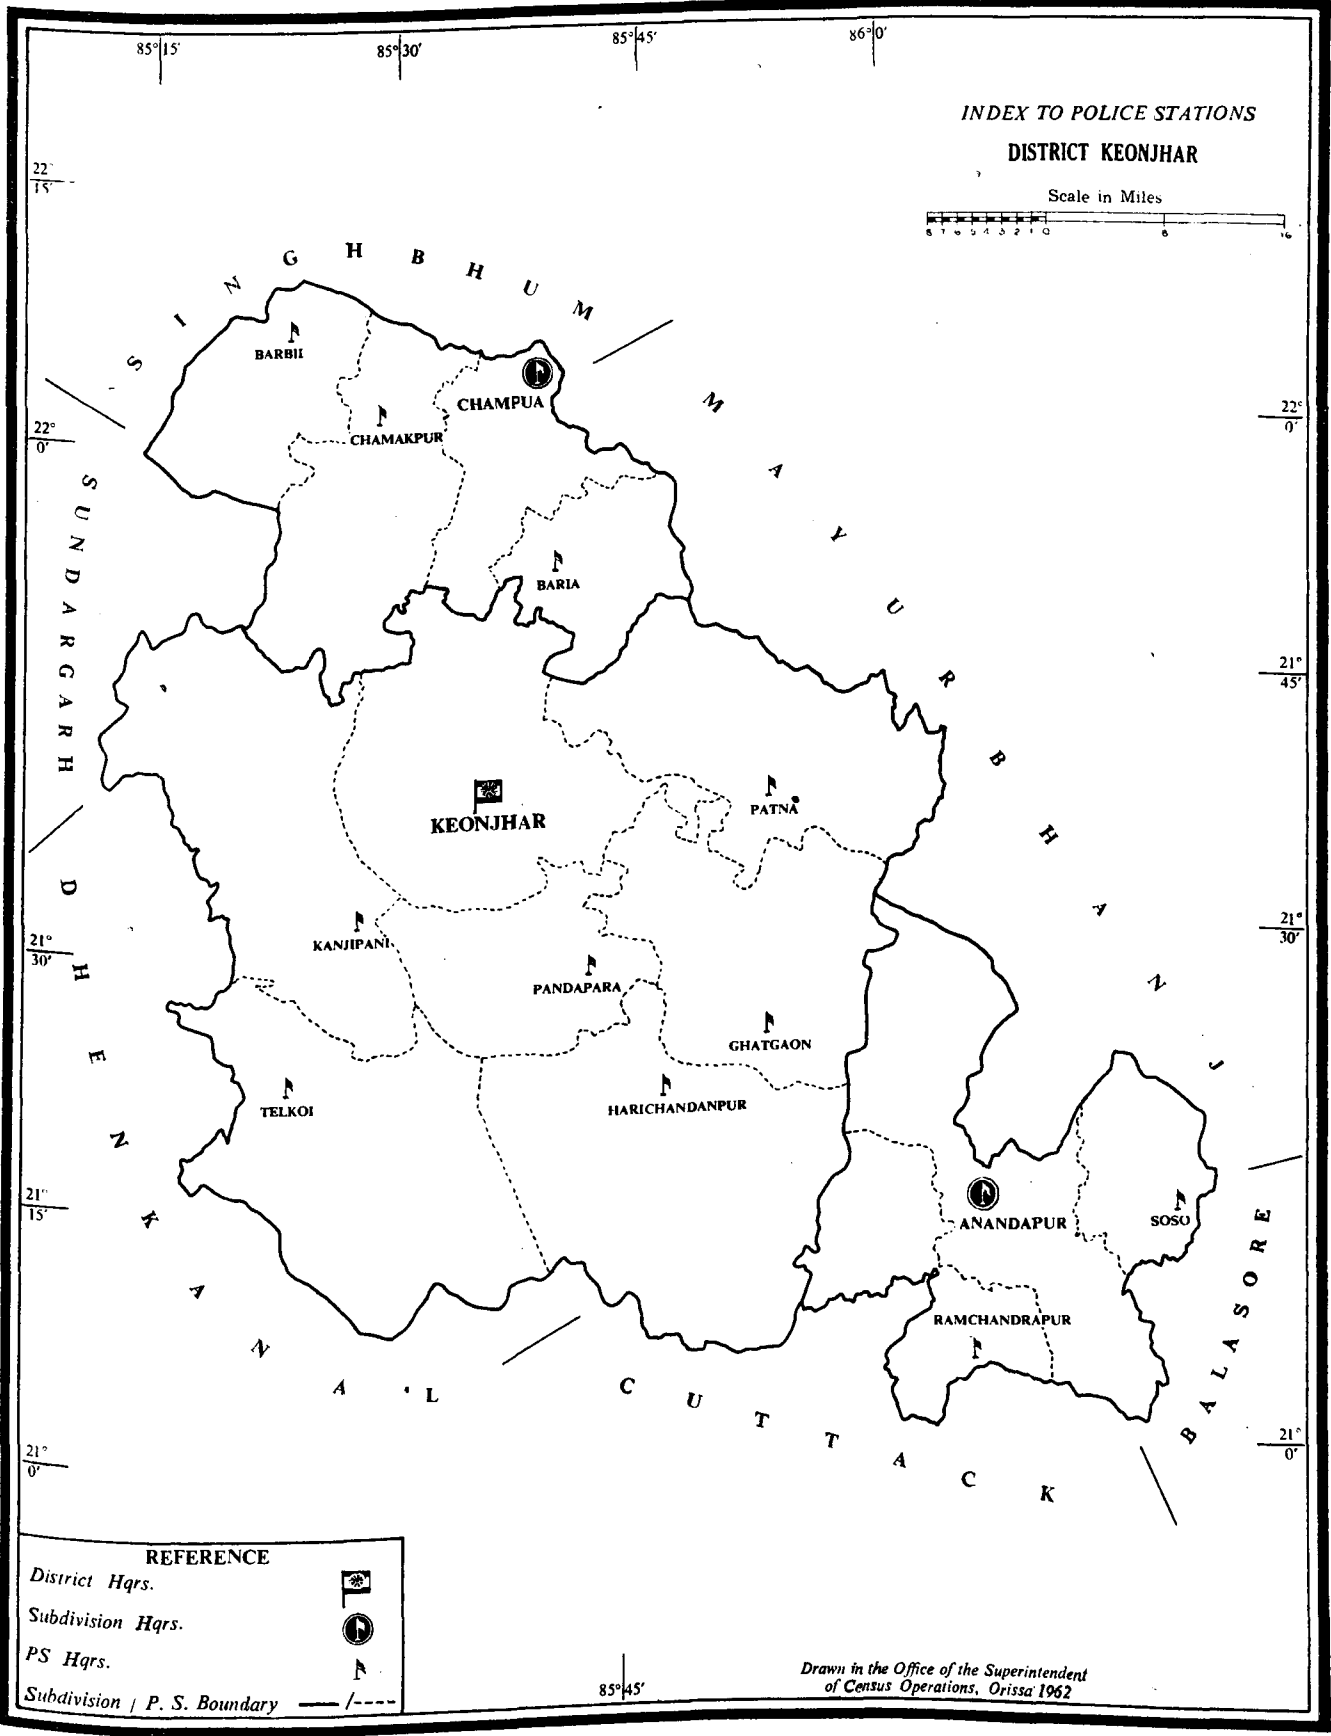

Scheduled Castes—There are 34 Scheduled Castes in the district with a population of 102,942 which is 13.8% of the total population. The principal castes are Pan (62,913), Dhoba (13,129), Patratanti (6,865), Dom (3,626), Pantanti (3,587), Ghasi (2,928) and Haddi (1,725). Literacy is confined to 15.4%. Cultivation and agricultural labour provide livelihood to a bulk of the population although household industry and 'other services' are also popular.

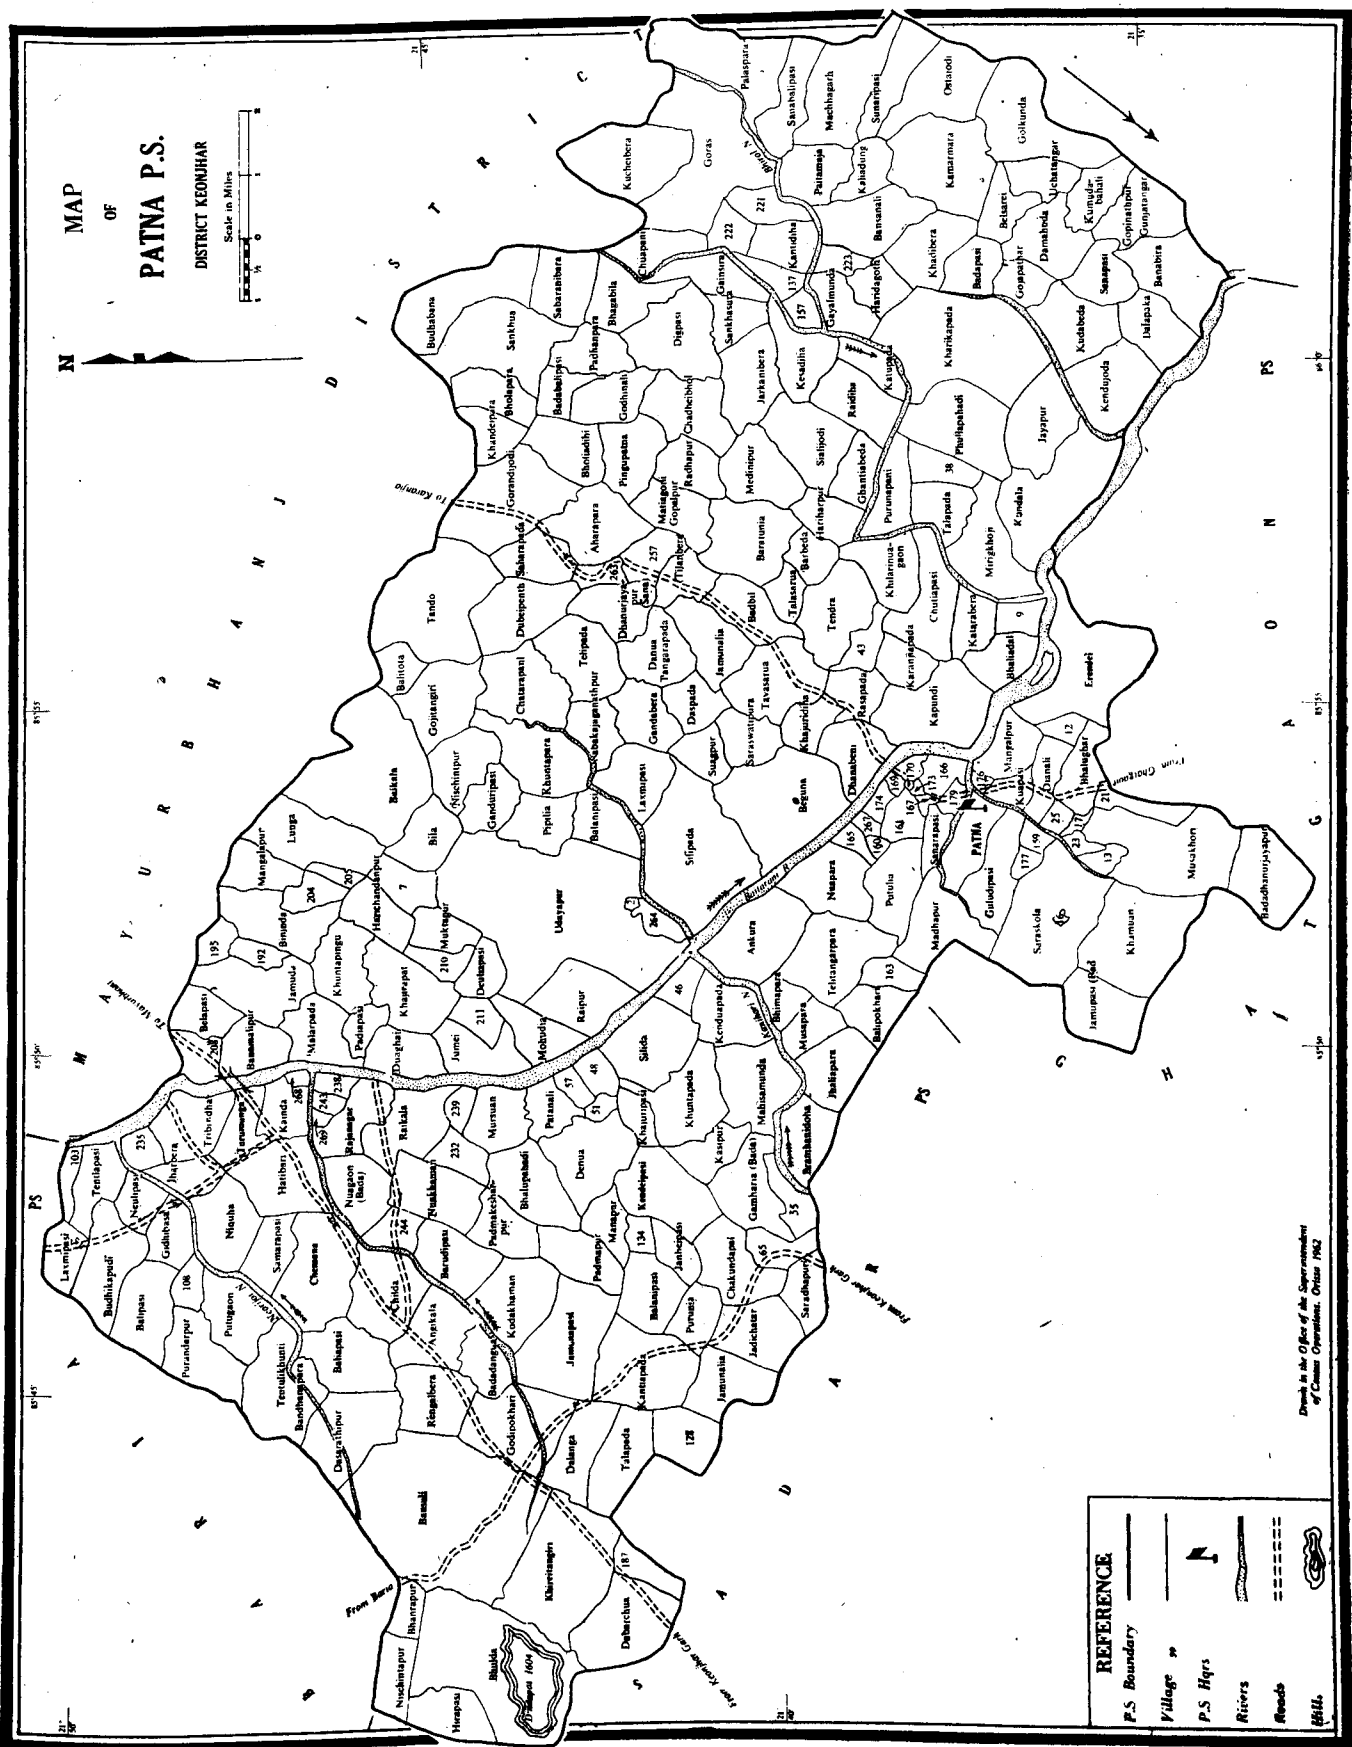

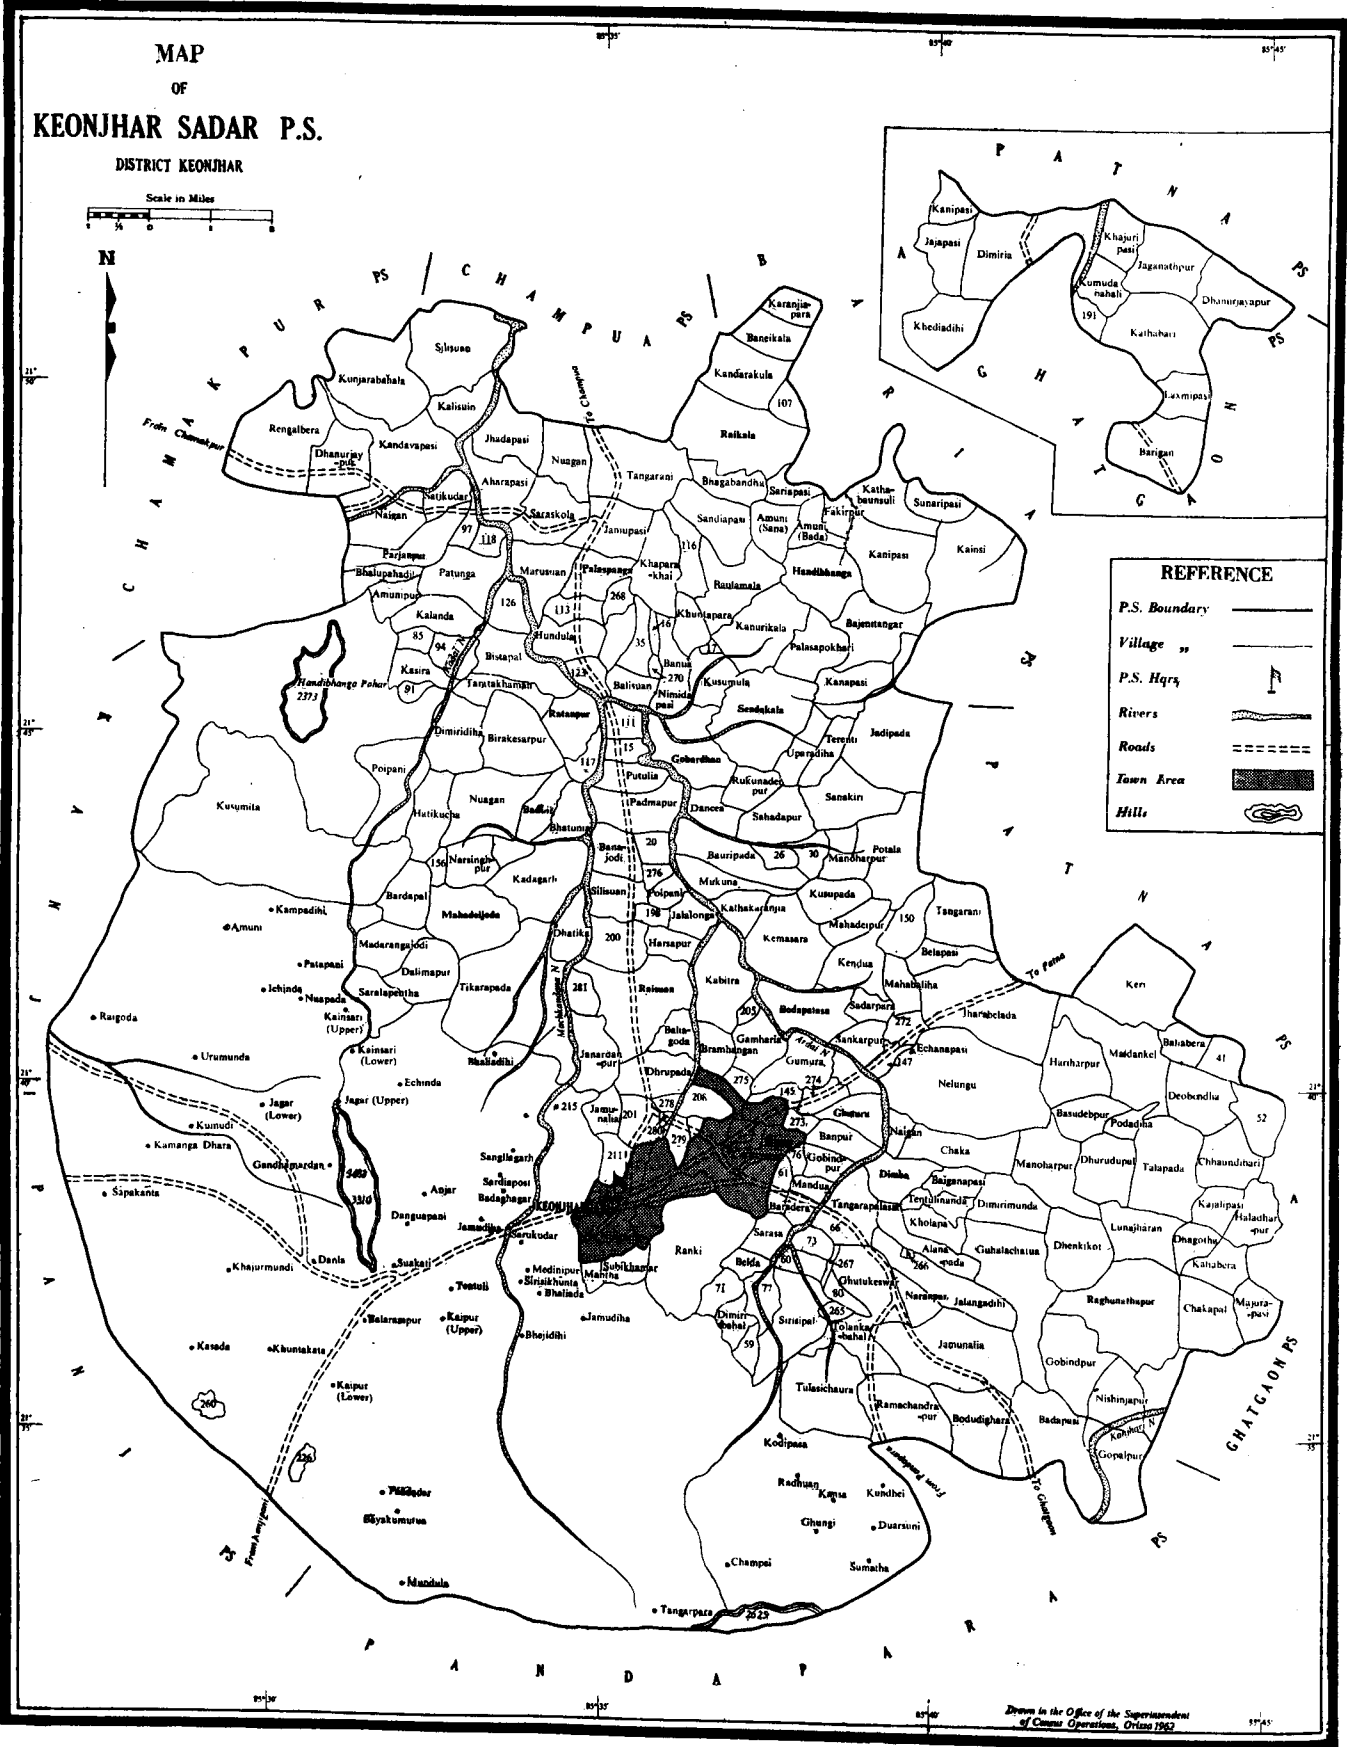

Literacy—131,258 persons or 17.7% of the total population numbering 743,315 are literates. Literacy among the males has gone up to 29.3 per cent and among the females to 5.9 per cent. In 1951 literacy was much lower, namely, 12.1 per cent. There are 852 Primary Schools, 60 M.E. Schools and 11 High Schools in the district.

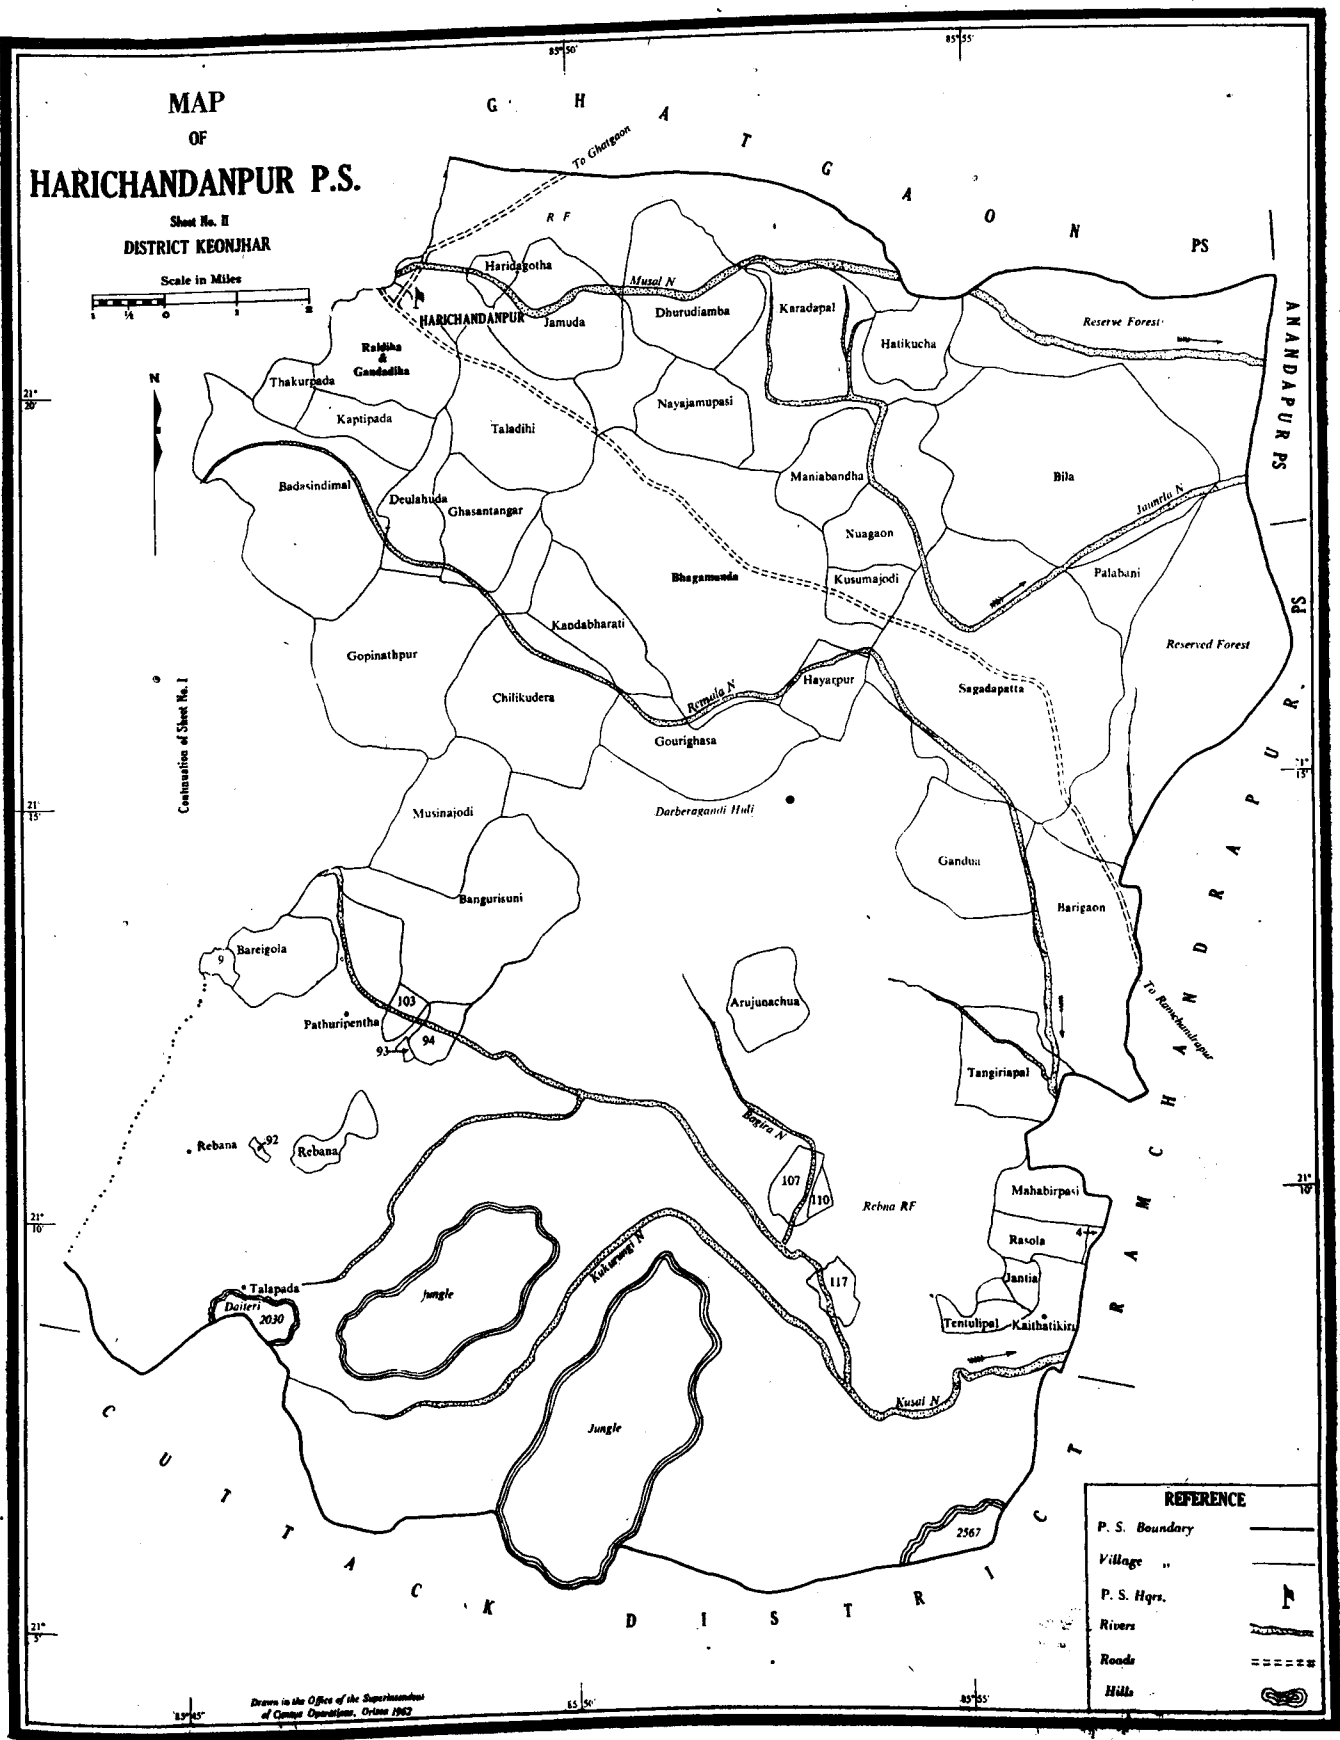

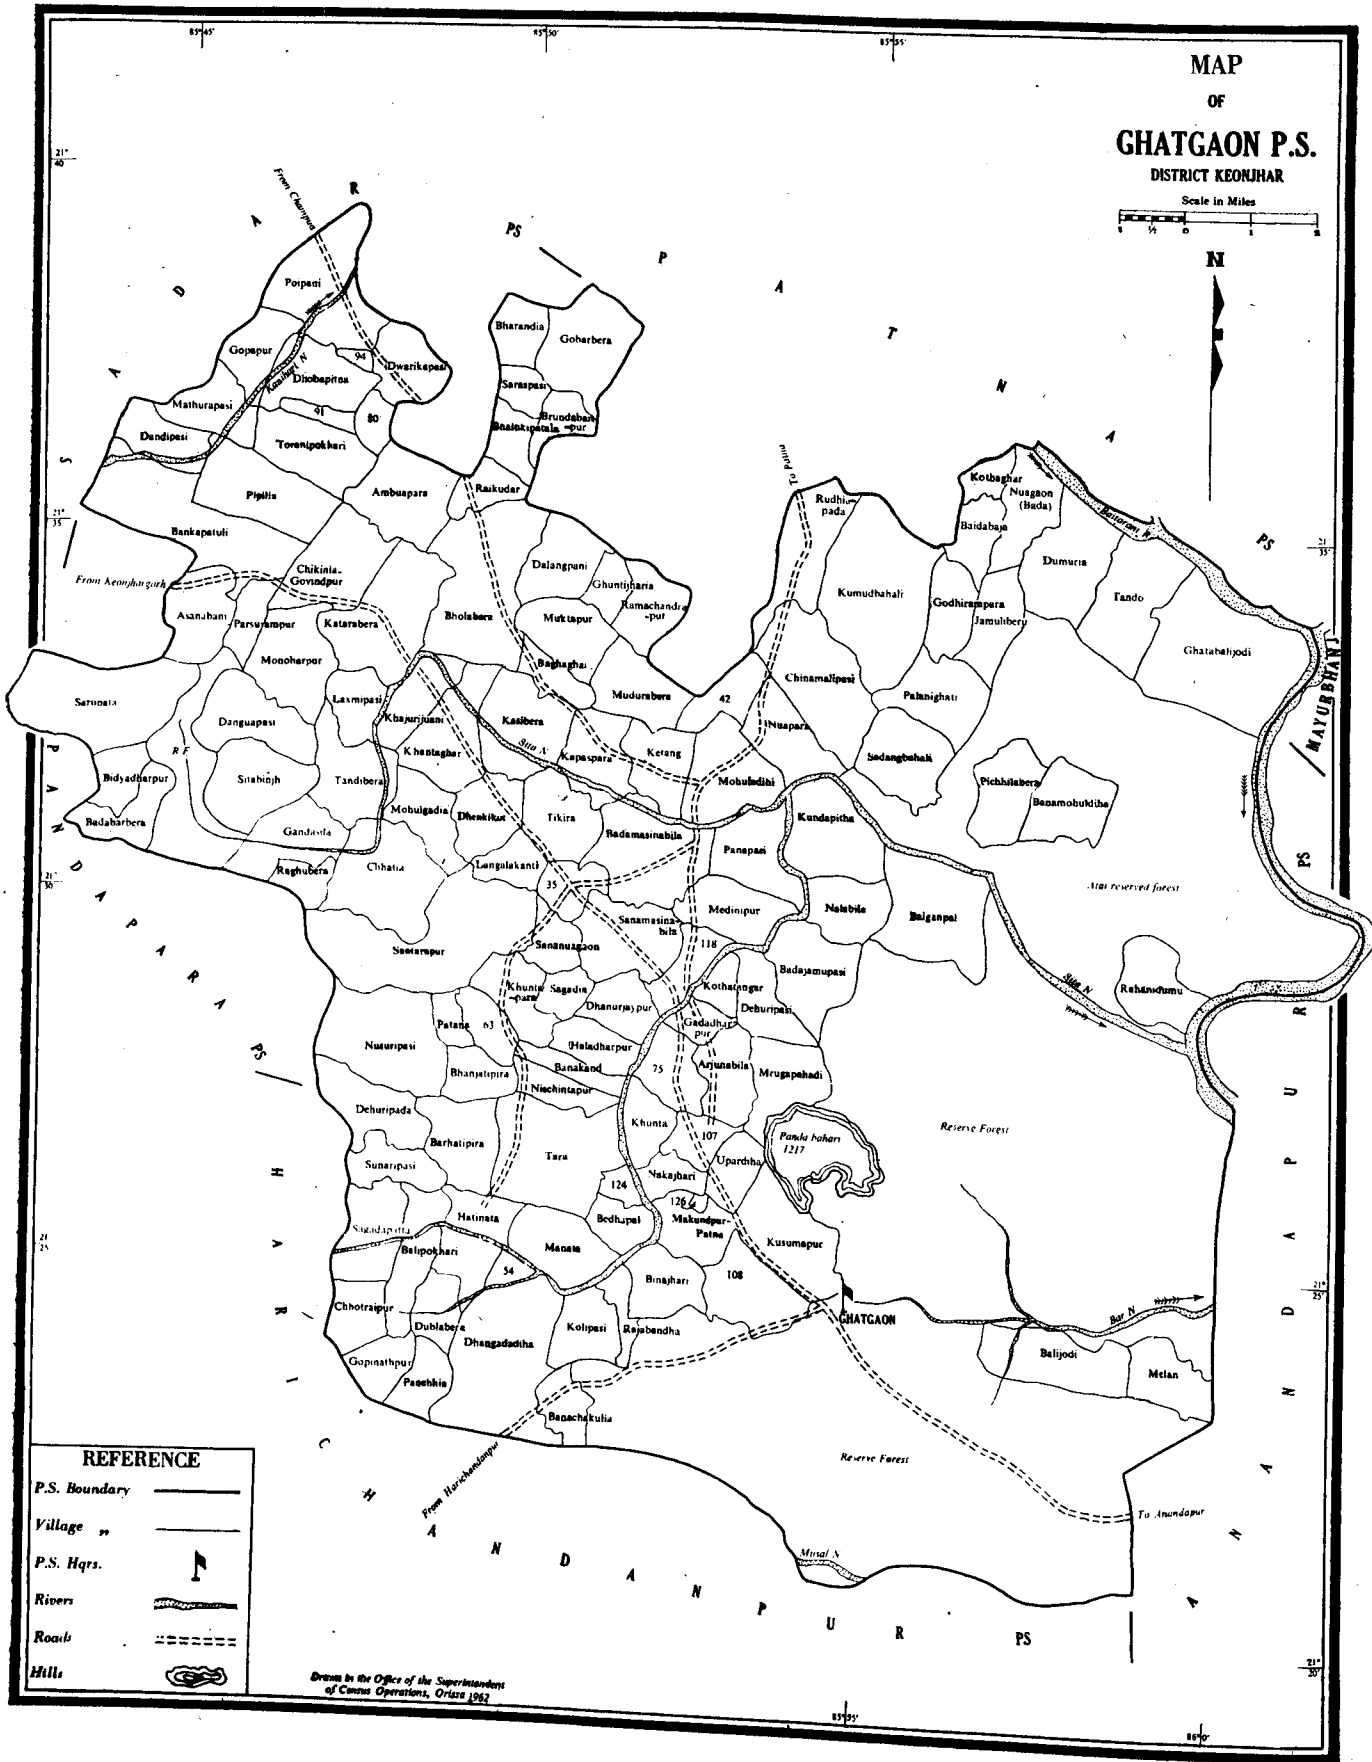

Industries—The number of industrial establishments including those of the lowest scale, namely, household industries is 8,445 in the district. Classified according to the list in the I. S. I. C. Scheme there are 56 kinds of industries. The statement below gives a list of industries which are most extensively found in the district:

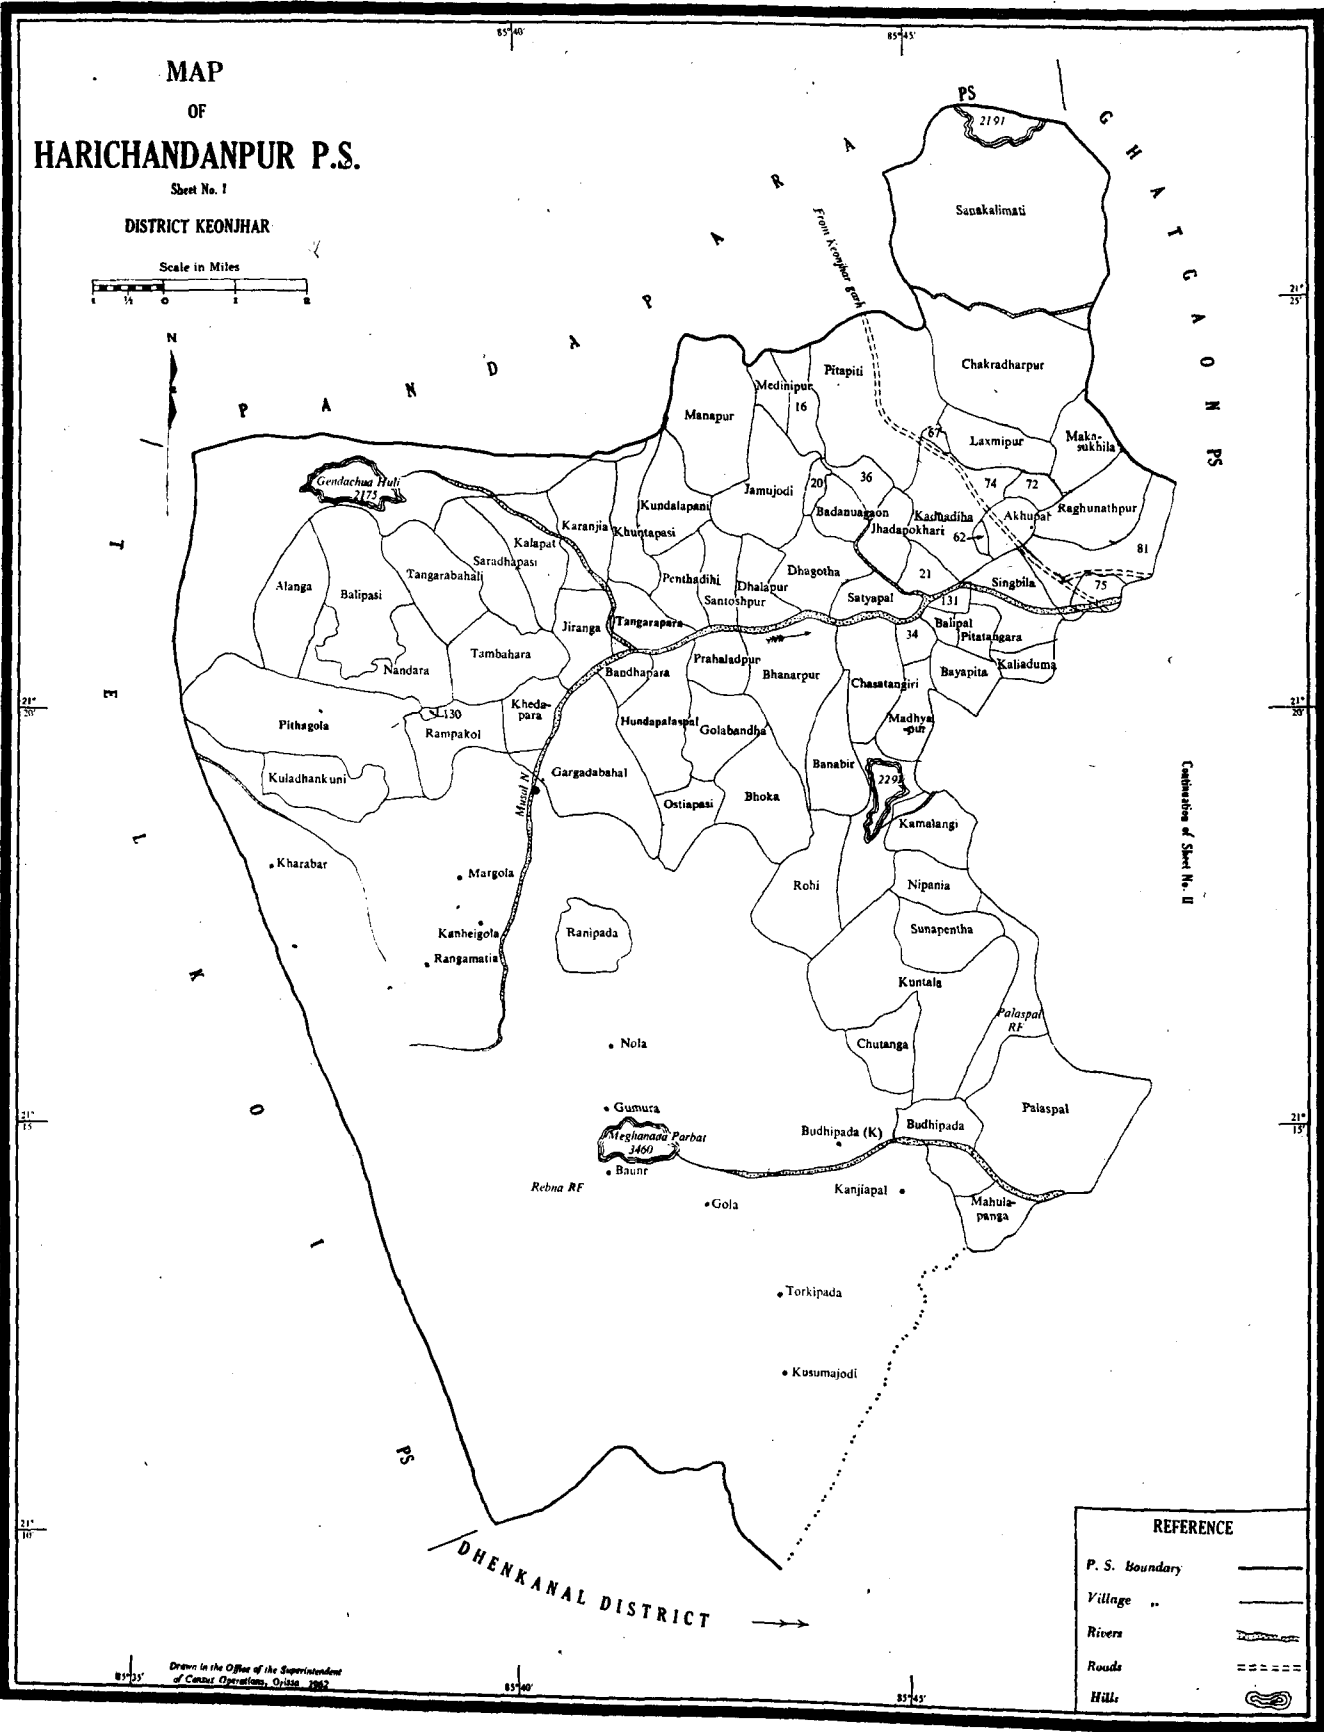

Name of industry	Total no. of estab-lishments	No. of persons engaged
Manufacture of materials from cork, bamboo, cane, leaves, etc.	2,462	7,118
Cotton weaving in handlooms	1,735	4,982
Manufacture of earthenwares and earthen potteries	1,043	2,676
Manufacture of sundry hardware	934	2,238
Manufacture of wooden furniture and fixtures	601	1,288
Production of edible fats and oils (other than hydrogenated oil)	300	676
Manufacture of jewellery and wares using gold and other precious metals	297	600
Manufacture of structural clay products, such as, bricks, tiles	225	750

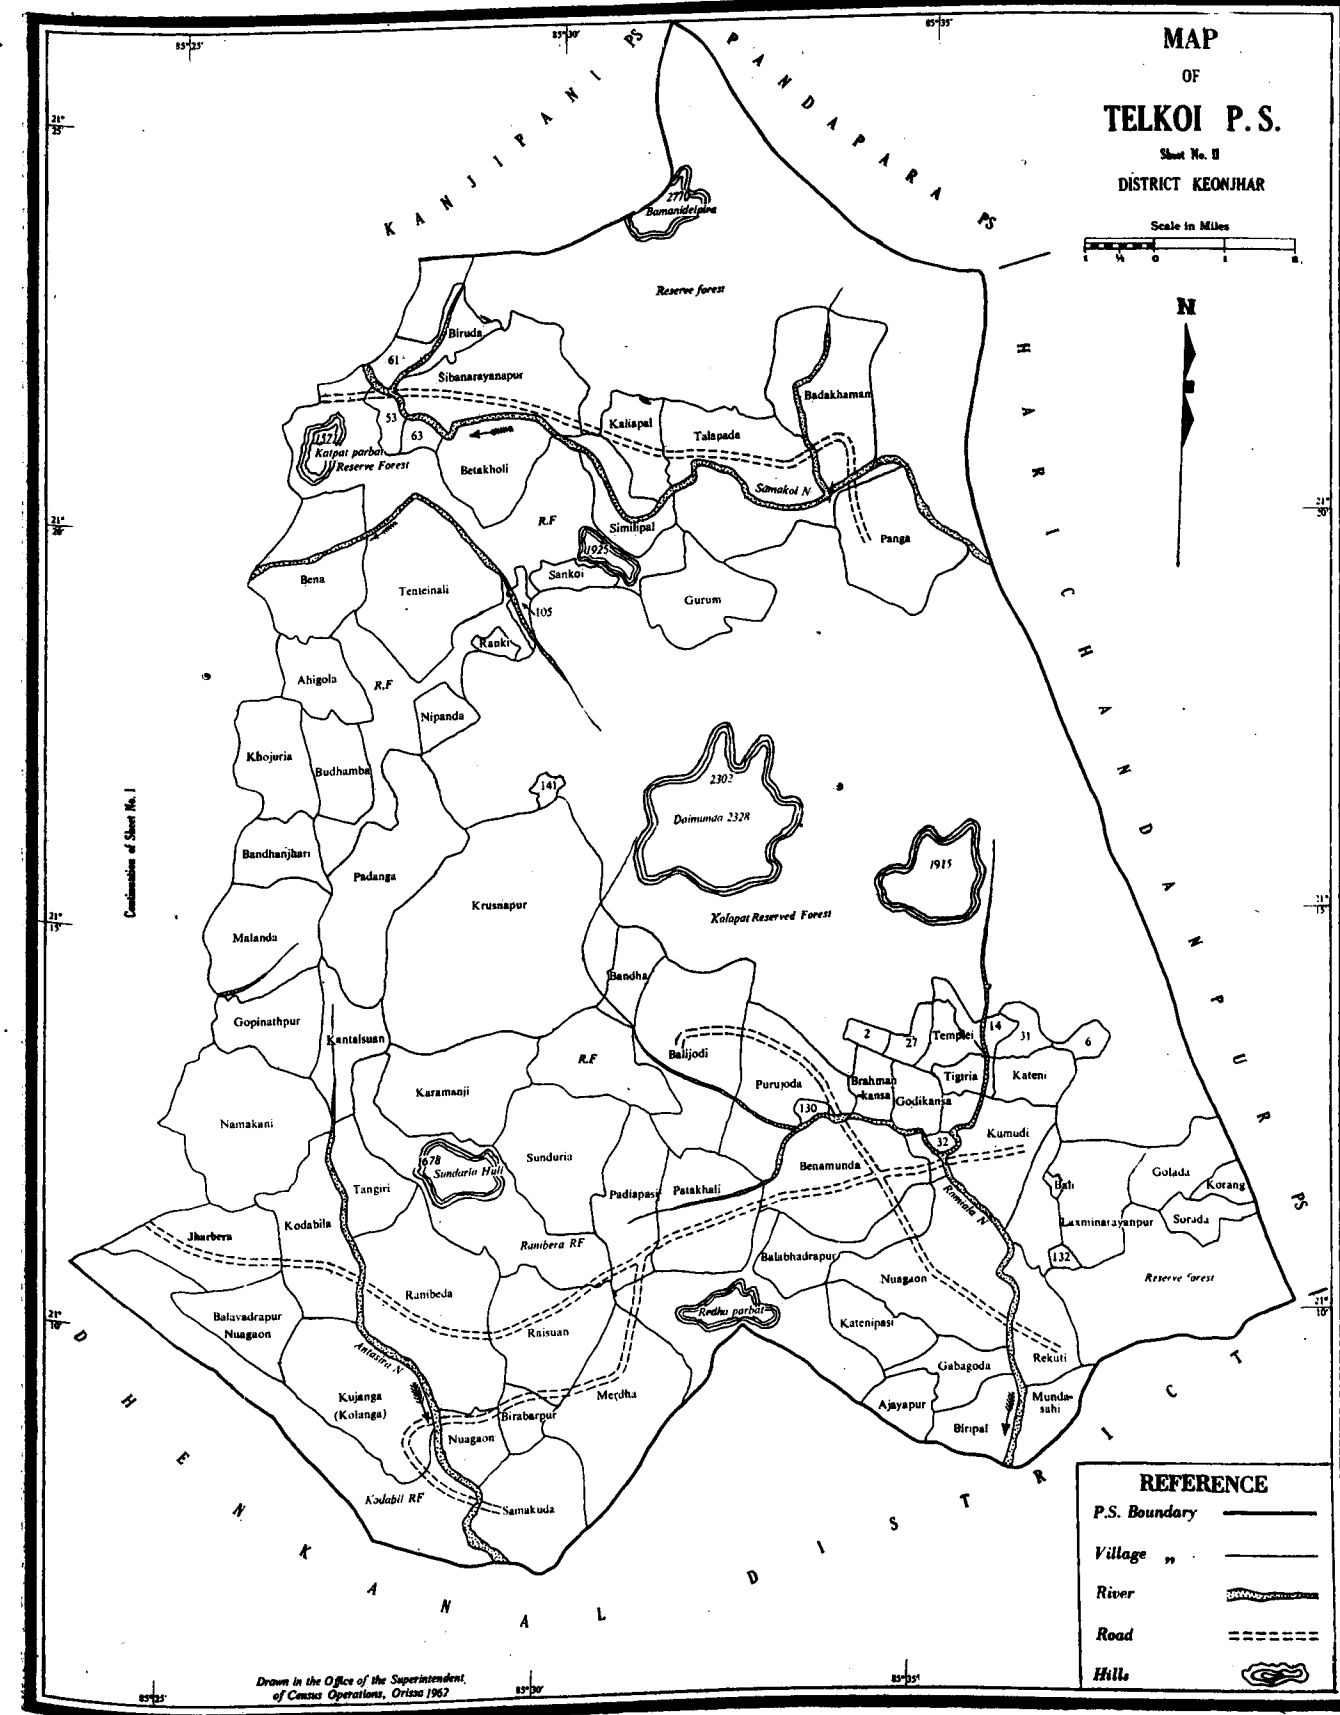

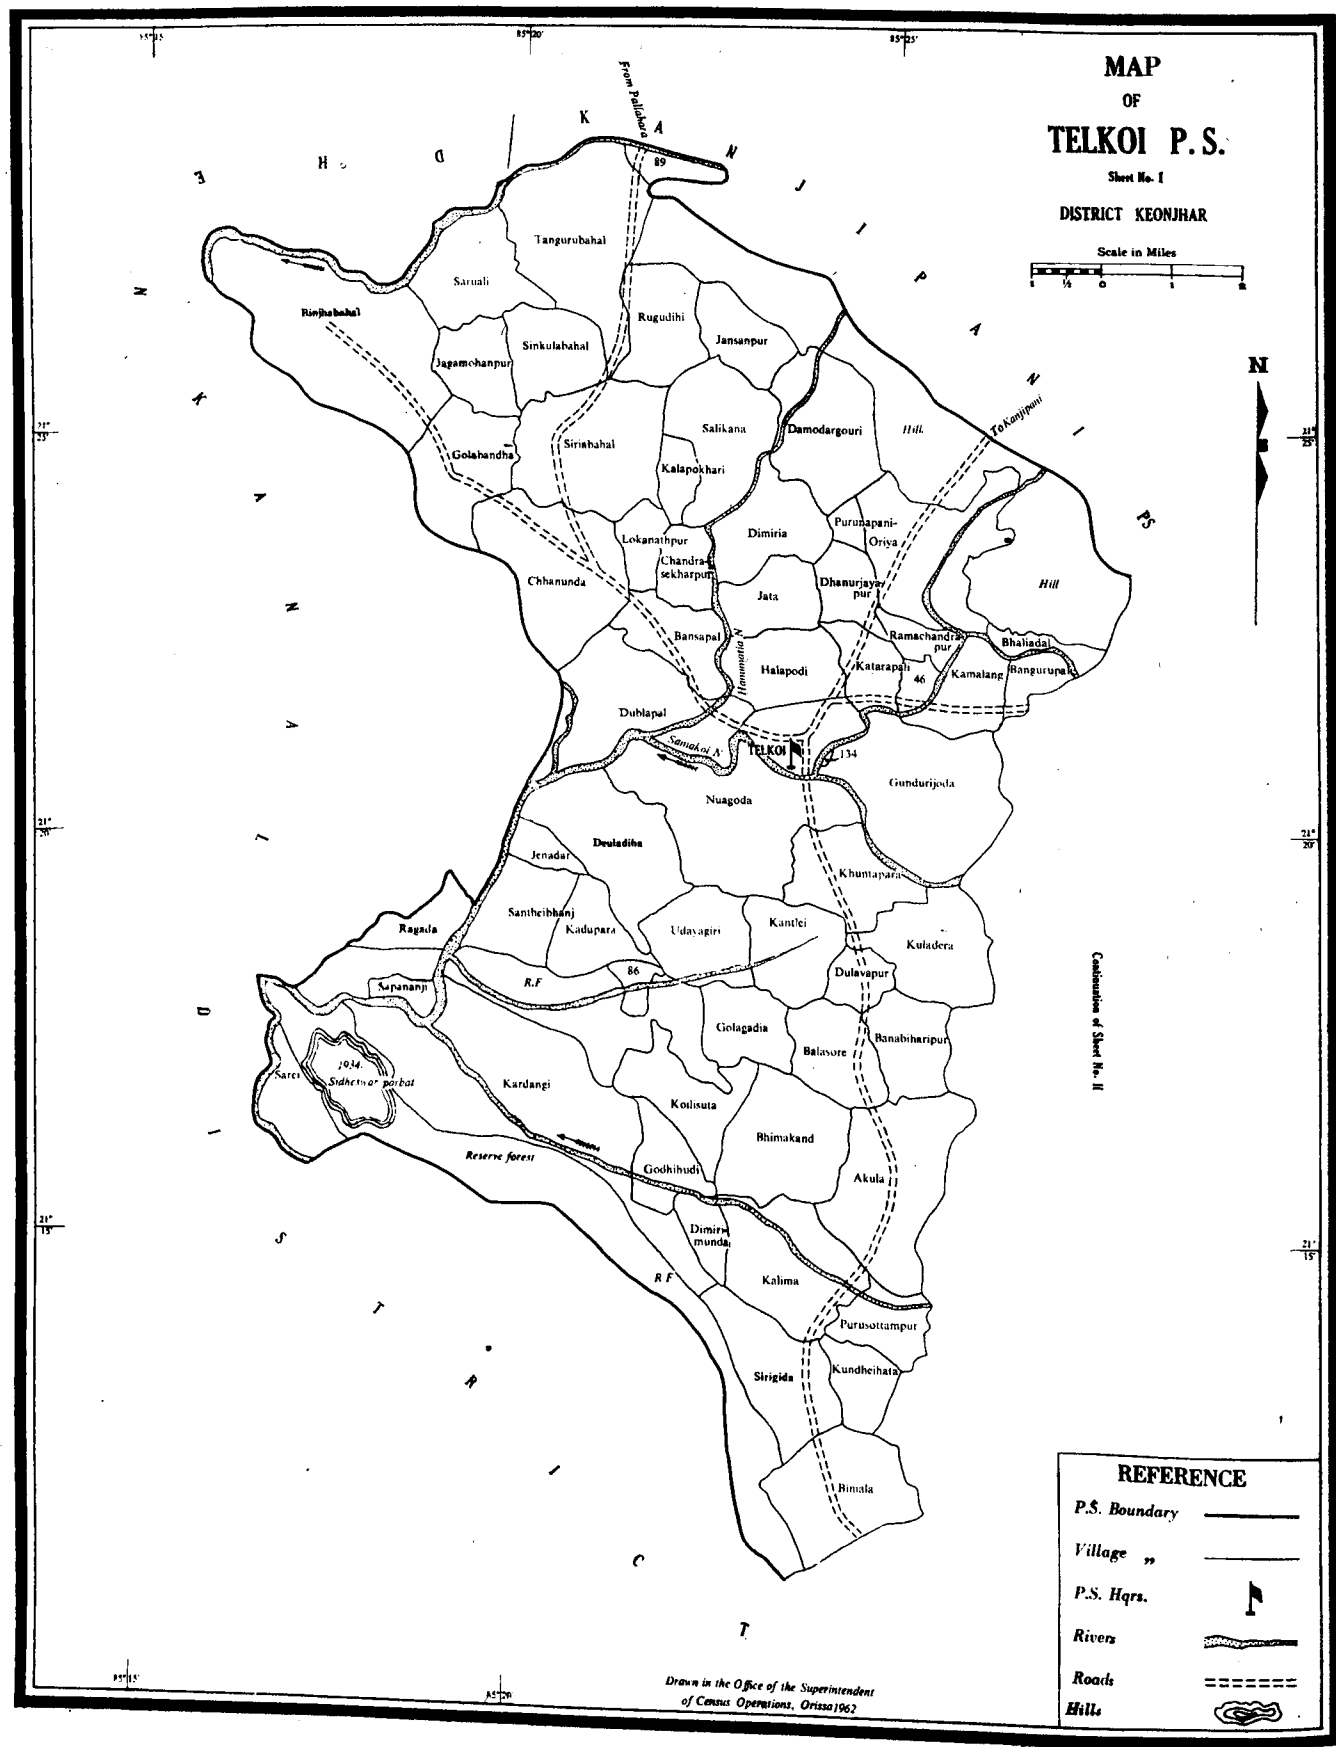

Agriculture—Out of the total area of the district comprising 2,058,560 acres, net area sown is 662,459 acres (32.18%), area under cultivation including current fallows is 705,167 acres (34.3%) and area under irrigation is only 32,271 acres (1.6%). Rice, maize and pulses, notably black gram and green gram, constitute principal crops. The quantity of rice produced annually is 122,295 tons which is mostly used for internal consumption leaving a small surplus for export in good harvest years.

FLYLEAF

The rural areas of Orissa contain 46,466 inhabited villages divided between 295 police stations. Besides, there are 5,659 uninhabited villages spread over all the districts of the State. The police stations are unequal in size, the largest, namely, Baliguda PS in Baudh-Khondmals district containing 797 villages, and the smallest, namely, Hirakud PS in Sambalpur district containing 7 villages. Some of the police stations, however, contain urban areas in addition to a certain number of villages within their respective jurisdictions. This is kept out of consideration for purpose of present subject matter. Similarly, the police stations, which are wholly co-terminus with certain urban localities, namely, Cuttack, Rourkela, Berhampur and Puri do not come into picture in the present consideration.

It is indispensable for various administrative purposes to maintain a correct and complete list containing specific names and number of villages within a particular police station. The district revenue authorities maintain some such kind of list, but as experience shows, the list is not complete so as to ensure a total coverage of the geographical limits of any administrative unit. Considerable difficulty is thus encountered on the commencement of an administrative operation which is expected to cover every bit of the country, whether inhabited or uninhabited, accessible or inaccessible. It was, therefore, usual for the decennial Census operations to start building up the list of villages once every ten years, even though this process used to cost much time and energy. The risk of errors in such ad hoc efforts could not be completely eliminated in spite of utmost care.

The publication of the present series of lists, which was initially compiled with usual care and attention for the Census enumeration work in 1961, is aimed at removal of the difficulty hitherto felt. In future, whenever any village comes into or goes out of existence, the list can be amended accordingly from time to time.

In the list, the villages have been arranged police-stationwise. The serial number of the map has been indicated below the title of the police station to facilitate reference to the map while consulting the list of villages. At the head of the list, a set of particulars regarding the police station as a unit, namely, its area, number of villages and towns, occupied residential houses or households, population, density of population per square mile, scheduled castes and scheduled tribes, literates, number of workers and of non-workers has been given. This is followed by the names of villages within the administrative jurisdiction of the police station, enlisted according to the serial number given to each village during the Census operations. Many of the villages have indeed got their own revenue serial number, but this was not adopted for serialising the villages, because the revenue serial order is incomplete and does not cover all the villages. The Census serial number as now given to each village is expected to be useful for identification in the Primary Census Register of population. Moreover, the serial number has been indicated within the boundary of the village concerned in the present set of maps wherever it was not possible to indicate the full name of the village for want of space. On reference to the map of a police station, it will appear that the names of most of the villages have been indicated within the respective boundary, but in case of some villages where adequate space is not available, the serial number of the village as given in the present list of villages is indicated. It will, therefore, be possible to know the name of the village by reference to the serial number.

There may, however, be a few cases of villages which find mention in the village list but not in the map and vice-versa. This is due to the reasons explained in the introduction to this volume. Some villages have got more than one name and some have the status of hamlets and are not full-fledged villages. These are primarily responsible for occasional difference between the list and the map.
