THE RAIL-BORNE TRADE.

The statements appended exhibit the rail-borne traffic of the Presidency for the official year 1901-1902. They have been compiled in the office of the Board of Revenue from quarterly returns furnished by the Government Examiner of Railway Accounts, Bombay.

2. The only important change that took place during the year was the omission of 'al' as a separate sub-head under the head dyes and lams.

The following addition to the open mileage of railways within the Presidency appears :—Calicut-Azhikal line, portion, Madras Railway—28·75 miles.

3. The volume of the trade in goods with other provinces showed large variations as compared with the preceding year. The imports increased by over a million maunds, while the exports fell off by nearly five millions. As regards the two small items of traffic—animals and treasure—the imports under the former and the exports under the latter showed considerable increases. The whole value of the external trade by rail for a series of years is particularized on the margin. These figures by themselves are, however, of but small import, as they show only a portion of the trade of the Presidency.

4. Season and prices.—The year opened favourably throughout the Presidency except in the Carnatic where the rainfall had been deficient. The south-west monsoon rains were not encouraging and were less than the average expected in the Circars and Deccan as well as in North Arcot. The rains set in late, but in July were generally good. In August, the rain was also disappointing and much less than the normal or average rainfall in many places, thus causing some anxiety over a large area of the Presidency. This was, however, partly removed by good rain generally in September. The north-east monsoon brought good rain in November over a great portion of the Presidency and greatly improved prospects, though the rainfall in October was not up to the average in several districts. There was also heavy rain during December in the Carnatic and some good falls in January in the Southern districts.

As the rainfall of the north-east monsoon of 1900-1901 was generally deficient whilst stocks had been depleted by the heavy exports of previous years, and high prices prevailed in other parts of India, those of the staple food-grains at the beginning of the year were high throughout the Presidency, as compared with the average, and rose further later on owing to the generally unfavourable character of the south-west monsoon. A fall, however, set in after the close of that monsoon, and at the end of the year rates were much easier than at the beginning. The fall ranged from 8 to 31 per cent. as compared with the previous year though rates as compared with the average were between 13 to 49 per cent. dearer.

5. Imports.—As usual, the bulk of these came from Hyderabad, while the imports from Mysore, especially those of ragi, showed some increase. Increased quantities were received from all provinces except Sindh, the Central Provinces and Assam, those from Bengal, the Punjab, the United Provinces and from Rajaputana being considerable. As usual, the largest proportion (34 per cent.) of the imports was sent to the sea-ports, but the amount received in the Deltas, the Deccan and the North Carnatic blocks was also large. The imports into the sea-ports, however, decreased on the previous year, but those into other parts of the Presidency except the Southern districts were much larger than in the previous year. The fluctuations in the quantities of the principal articles imported are more fully shown in the following table :—

The fluctuations in the quantities of the principal articles imported are more fully shown in the following table :—

The increase under coal consisted chiefly of Singareni coal and that under grain is more than fully explained by the resumption of imports of ragi from Mysore which have for several years been very limited. In several other cases, a mere comparison of the figures for two years, such as is now alone permitted, is misleading, as for instance in the case of the apparent increases in the imports of provisions, spices, liquors, oils and oil-seeds, or the decreases under dyes and tans and jute goods, in which cases the traffic of 1900-1901 was abnormal. The increased imports of sugar—chiefly refined sugars—is, however, noticeable, but they came chiefly from Mysore and only to a small extent from Bombay. The increase under cotton goods was also large, and consisted mainly of twist and yarn received from Bombay, though to some extent also of European piece-goods from the same port. Under hides and skins, a remarkable decrease occurred, and mainly under “hides”, and “dressed skins” from the Punjab; but the traffic of the previous year in “hides” had been very much larger than usual. It may be noted here, however, that with these decreases there was a moderate increase in the exports of hides and skins, more particularly of “raw hides” to Bengal from the northern districts.

6. Exports.—This trade shows a very remarkable decline as compared with the two immediately preceding years, owing chiefly to the very large decrease in the exports of coal and coke from Madras to the Kolar Gold Fields, and of grain and pulse to Bombay, Mysore and the Nizam's territories. These facts account mostly for the changes in the proportion of the several principal items exported, but the decrease in the exports of coal is being further enquired into. The following table exhibits the traffic in the principal articles as compared with the previous year:—

Articles exported.	Exports in thousands of maunds.		Percentage of the total exports in 1901-1902.
	1900-1901.	1901-1902.

The grain traffic of 1900-1901, as in 1899-1900, was altogether abnormal, but still remained at a high figure. Similarly the exports of 1900-1901 were abnormally large in the case of salt, sugars, oils, and those of railway plant very small. The despatches of railway plant, especially of “materials”, however, showed a further large decline, while a much smaller quantity of raw cotton was exported from the Deccan to Bombay. On the other hand, there was a large expansion of the trade in spices, chiefly “chillies” sent to Bombay from Madras and the Deltas; in oil-seeds to the same province, chiefly from the Deccan; and of “timber, unwrought” exported to Mysore probably for the Kolar Mines.

7. Internal trade.—This traffic (4½ millions of maunds) which, although incompletely recorded, amounted to more than double the whole of the foreign trade of the Presidency, increased by nearly 7 millions over that of the previous year and cannot, under existing instructions, be referred to fully here. The largest item of it, the grain trade, which accounted for 26.2 per cent. of the whole, was alone greater than the whole rail exports of the Presidency. The amount moved was the largest recorded since the commencement of the compilation of these statistics in 1885-86. The cases in which increases of over 50,000 maunds, as compared with the preceding year, occurred are shown below:—

Grain.	Exported		Increase.
	From	To
Gram and pulse	Madras	North Carnatic	Mds. 65,000
	Tuticorin	Southern districts	185,000
	Central districts	South Carnatic	59,000
Cholam and cumbu	Negapatam	Central districts	227,000
	Deltas	Northern Circars	75,000
	Do.	Deccan	156,000
	Do.	North Carnatic	109,000
Paddy (rice in the husk)	Do.	Central districts	59,000
	Deltas	North Carnatic	163,000
	South Carnatic	Central districts	324,000
Rice (rice not in the husk)	Do.	Do.	285,000
	North Carnatic	Calicut	109,000
	South Carnatic	Negapatam	224,000
	Do.	Tuticorin	59,000
Other grains	Southern districts	Do.	103,000
	Deltas	Northern Circars	75,000

Besides the active trade in grain, the chief articles carried by rail, the traffic in which is mainly influenced by the state of the season, are sugars, provisions, spices, oil-seeds, dyes and tans, raw cotton and tobacco. The volume of the traffic in these articles during the year amounted to over 10 millions maunds or 24.1 per cent. of the whole trade against nearly 8 millions maunds or 22.2 per cent. in the previous year. The large increase was owing to the extraordinary expansion of the trade in oil-seeds, principally “ground-nuts” carried from the South Carnatic block to Pondicherry and Cuddalore, while the growth of the traffic in dyes and tans alluded to in the previous years received some check, the decline appearing principally under “tanning barks” sent to Madras. There was little change in the traffic in salt, which accounted for 7 per cent. of the whole trade. The traffic in metals, coal and coke, railway plant, stone and lime and wood, which does not in the main depend on the state of the country, accounted for 27.3 per cent. of the whole trade. There was an increase in the total quantities carried, amounting to over 2 millions maunds, occurring chiefly under the last four articles mentioned, but the remark is also misleading as the traffic in coal and stone and lime of 1900-1901 was comparatively small. The large increase under railway plant was mainly in the despatches of “materials” inland from Madras, Cuddalore, Negapatam, Tuticorin as well as to the last-named port from the Southern districts; that under wood, in the supplies of “timber, unwrought” received into Madras from the Deltas, the Deccan and North Carnatic blocks, into the South Carnatic from Cuddalore and into the Central block from Malabar. The increase in the trade in metals took place chiefly under “iron and steel” despatched from Madras inland and under "unspecified sorts" (manganese ore) sent from the Northern Circars to Vizagapatam for shipment, while the traffic in oids continued to develop greatly owing to the increased quantities of kerosine-oil despatched from Madras, Tuticorin and Cocanada.

8. To summarize the whole trade of the Presidency, the receipts at the sea-ports expanded very largely, while the despatches, from Madras and Cocanada in particular, showed a considerable decrease. There was a very great development of the traffic of the other internal blocks, though the despatches from the Deccan decreased materially.
