PREFACE

Importance of directories is gaining momentum in the present set-up of trade and industry in our country. Like other sections of business a central organisation of publishers of directories is bound to be helpful in widening the scope of such publications besides being useful in getting co-operation from the Public and Private sectors in a greater measure.

While All India and State Directories serve to give an outline of the progress of the Country and State it is considered that directories covering smaller compact areas would be complimentary as they would throw more light on the potentialities of the areas, the progress made in the past and the developments in sight in the near future. So far as the Madras State is concerned four divisional directories seem to be worthy to be thought about — (1) Madras City and chingleput, (2) North Arcot, South Arcot, Tanjore & Trichy. (3) Madura, Ramnad & Tinnevely (4) Salem, Coimbatore & Nilgiris.

In the present directory, we have aimed to give as much information about Coimbatore and Nilgiris as has been possible. In spite of our endeavours to bring out the publication earlier, certain impediments have retarded our progress in work for which we request the pardon of our readers and well wishers.

Our thanks are due to the Government, Municipalities, organisations like the UPASI and all those who have responded to us by furnishing reference books and information for inclusion of particulars in the directory, and to our advertisers who have patronised us in our service for common good.

We shall be obliged to have healthy suggestions for improvement.

COIMBATORE DISTRICT - PHYSICAL FEATURES.

SITUATION - AREA AND POPULATION - HILLS AND RIVERS - RAINFALL AND CLIMATE.

The district of Coimbatore has earned a coveted place in the industrial map of India. Reasons are not far to seek. The location of the district, the moderate climate and rainfall during monsoons, facilities for agricultural research, availability of labour, transport facilities, have all proved to be advantageous for the establishment of several industries, small and heavy, in this District. Commensurate with the development of industries, there is general advancement in all other spheres also to meet the educational, medical and housing needs of its people.

Situation - It is purely an inland district in the south of the Madras State lying between 76° 39' and 77° 56' of the eastern longitude and 10° 12' and 11° 56' of the northern latitude. It is bounded on the north by the Mysore

State and Salem district, on the east by the Salem and Tiruchirapalli districts, on the south by the Kerala State and Madras district and on the west by the Kerala State, the Nilgiris district and the Mysore State. Coimbatore, the head quarters of the District is centrally situated between Mangalore and Madras on the Southern Railway, its latitude and longitude being 11° 00' N and 76° 58' E respectively.

Area and population - Prior to the reorganisation of states, the Kollegal taluk formed a part of this district. The taluk of Kollegal is now annexed to the Mysore State. The District now covers an area of 6024 sq miles and consists of 9 taluks grouped into three revenue divisions with headquarters at Pollachi, Erode and Gobichettipalayam.

Revenue Division	Taluk	Area in sq miles	No of inhabited towns & villages	Population 1941	Population 1951	Percentage of variation
Pollachi	Coimbatore	528	83	410,762	562,522	36.9
	Pollachi	709	136	316,540	384,677	21.5
	Udumalpet	555	84	181,047	190,442	5.2
Erode	Palladam	585	102	324,039	351,734	8.5
	Dharapuram	854	84	321,794	323,307	0.5
	Erode	599	191	380,656	439,641	15.5
Gobichetti-palayam	Gobichetti	1129	117	309,165	394,267	27.5
	Avanashi	493	83	237,826	272,536	14.6
	Bhavani	572	59	209,228	235,170	12.4
Total	9 taluks	6024	939	2,691,057	3,154,296

The recorded population of the District has registered an increase of 17.2% as against 14.9% in the previous decade. The present population may be, therefore, safely assumed to be near about thirty four lakhs.

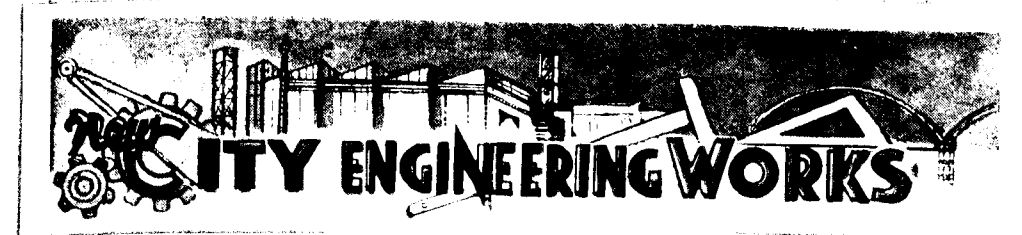

General features - The northern part comprising of portions of Gobichettipalayam and Bhavani taluks are elevated between 2000 and 3000 feet above sea level with hill ranges which are continuations of the Mysore State.

The Bhavani is a perennial river. It rises in the Kerala State and flows on the north-western part of Avanashi

The temperature varies inversely with the altitude, being highest in the low lying cauvery valley, moderate in the uplands on the west, coolest of all on the higher ranges of Anamalais. The average maximum temperature is 98° and the average minimum 61°.

Pre-historic days - Part of the district covered by Perurnadu extending along the Boluvampatti valley from the foot of the hills upto Vellalur along the basin of river Noyyal is rich with prehistoric remains. A significant relic specimen, a hero stone of 3' x 5' is found fixed on the ground on the southern bank of the central tank west of Valankulam. Two women in a worshipping posture and a youth fighting with a tiger are reliefs carved on the stone depicting that it is a tomb of a hero who had lost himself during fight with a tiger in his attempt to save his village from the ravages of the wild beast. In fields adjoining the Noyyal, big earthen tazhis have been unearthed. Deceased persons with articles they loved most, were placed in these tazhis covered by stone cubes. A large number of neolithic tools and iron age implements have also been discovered in this part of the district, which go to prove that the area was inhabited by people thousands of years back. Perur and Vellalur also furnish substantial evidence of flourishing trade activities in the past. Treasure troves with beautiful ornamental work containing hoards of Roman coins ranging from Augustus Caesar to Nero have been found out and preserved.

Coming to historic times, by about the first century A. D. Jains had come down to the South and have been responsible for the construction of five temples in Erode taluk at Vijaya-mangalam (Chandraprabhanathar), Arasannamalai (Neminathar), Thingalur (Pushpanathar), Punthurai (Parasana-thar), and Vellodu (Athinathar). The carving on the rock of the Tirumurthi hills is also attributed to them. Prominent among poets who lived in those times may be mentioned Karmega Pulavar, author of Kongumandalasathaka and Bhavanandi Munivar, author of Nannool.

During the rule of Gangas from the 2nd to 9th century, Pallavas were supreme over Thondainadu. Appar and Sambandar had toured this district making valuable contributions to tamil literature. Bhavani, Tiruchengodu, Kodumudi and Karur find place in the Thevarams of Sambandar. Kodumudi and Perur find mention in the Thevarams of Appar (6th century).

The first Pandiyan rule was short-lived. Sadayan Ranadhiran who earned the title of Kongar koman continued to rule from 680 A. D. to 710 A. D. He was succeeded to the throne by Arikesari (710-740 A. D.) who came upto Pandikodumudi. Nedunchezhan (740-770 A. D.) who was the next to succeed triumphed over Adikaman in battles at Iyirur, Pugaliyur and Ayiraveli. Shortly afterwards Thalaikattu Rajas again held their sway and during the reign of Ranavikrama the country had been peaceful.

From the inscriptions at Vellalur it is understood that Chera rulers entered the Kongumandala during the 8th and 9th centuries but were not successful in making much headway. The manuscript published by the Government states that the kongu country which remained a forest in days of yore inhabited by irula tribes was reclaimed and colonized by Karikala Chola with the help of Cheraman Perumal and Samaya Mudali.

Chola-Dynasty- It was in 894 that the first ruler Aditya I conquered Kongunadu Paranthaka who succeeded him extended his kingdom by the conquest of Madura and held under his sway the southern portion down to Capecomarin. Rajaraja Chola came to rule in 985 A. D. Successive victories followed and for two centuries chola sovereignty remained unrivalled and supreme. Important among the Chola rulers may be mentioned Vikrama (1004-1045 A. D.), Rajathiraja (1080-1110 A. D.), Uthama (1110-1117 A. D.), Virachola (1117-1135 A. D.), Viranarayana (1135-1144 A. D.), Kulothunga (1149-1183 A. D.), Virachola (1183-1206 A. D.), Virajendra (1207-1255 A. D.), and Vikrama (1255-1263 A. D.). Rajarajapuram, now known as Dharpuram, was then headquarters of their administrative divisions. According to charters Kongumandala is described as 'Athiraja Rajamandala' in the times of Rajendra Chola, as 'Viracholamandalam' in the times of Vikrama and as 'Chola Kerala-mandala' during the reign of Kulothunga Chola III, but these names did not continue for long.

Cholas ruled over Kongunadu through their representatives, who after a time held absolute sway over the country. They came to be known as Konguchola dynasty. First among Kongu Cholas was Virarajendran (1207-1252 A. D.) Many temples seem to have been constructed during his sovereignty. Inscriptions of his time afford a clear picture of the status of this District in all glory. During the two centuries of Chola rule tamil literature had received the highest patronage. After the fall of Kongucholas, the country broke up into a number of small principalities and was never a single political entity.

Hoisalas: In the north Hoisalas were in the forefront in Belur and Dorasamudra. In 1104 A. D. one Pittithevan alias Vishnuvardhan ascended the throne and during his reign Hoisalas began to penetrate into the Tamil country little by little. After him followed Narasimhan, Vallalan, Veerasomeswara (1235-1253 A. D.) and they had advanced as far as Thingalur. Viravallalan III (1292-1311 A. D.) captured portions to the north of Noyyal. The encroachment of Hoisalas paved the way for Kannada speaking people to emigrate into this tract. Ummathur and Terkanambi, chiefs ruled over a portion of the Country as governors of Kannada kings assuming independent powers to some extent in later days. Kannada inscriptions of those days are found in Perur and elsewhere. An inscription in Perur temple describes the town of Coimbatore as Kovanputhur alias Veerakeralanallur which gives us to understand that the place has been invaded by a Kerala chieftain 'Veerakerala' who named it after himself according to the then prevailing custom.

In 1293 A. D., for the first time, Mohamman rulers crossed the Vindhya mountains and entered the south. At the beginning of the fourteenth century South India was divided among four States all equally powerful. Yadavas of Devagiri, Kakatiyas of Warrangal, Hoisalas of Dorasamudra and Pandyas of Madura. Consequent on the series of raids carried on by the Mohamman armies all the four South Indian Empires fell to ruins and out of the ashes of the Southern kingdoms rose the empire of Vijayanagaram.

Vijayanagar Dynasty- They ruled for nearly two centuries and a half. First among them was Kempanna Udayar who made entry into Kongunad in 1368. The periods of the subsequent monarchs of this dynasty may be stated as follows

First Dynasty	Harihara II (1379-1399 A. D.), Devaraya I (1406-1412 A. D.), Harihara III (1412-1419 A. D.), Devaraya II (1419-1444 A. D.)
Second „	Krishnadevaraya (1509-1530 A. D.), Achutharaya (1530-1542 A. D.), Sadasivaraya (1542-1567 A. D.)
Third „	Venkatapathy I (1582-1614 A. D.)

The district was traversed by people of different languages during their reign. More and more Kannadigas came to settle in this tract. Arunagiri visited many places in Kongunad including Perur in the 15th century about which mention is made in his Thiruppukaz. In 1565 the glory of Vijayanagar was brought to a close by the combined armies of Decan sultans.

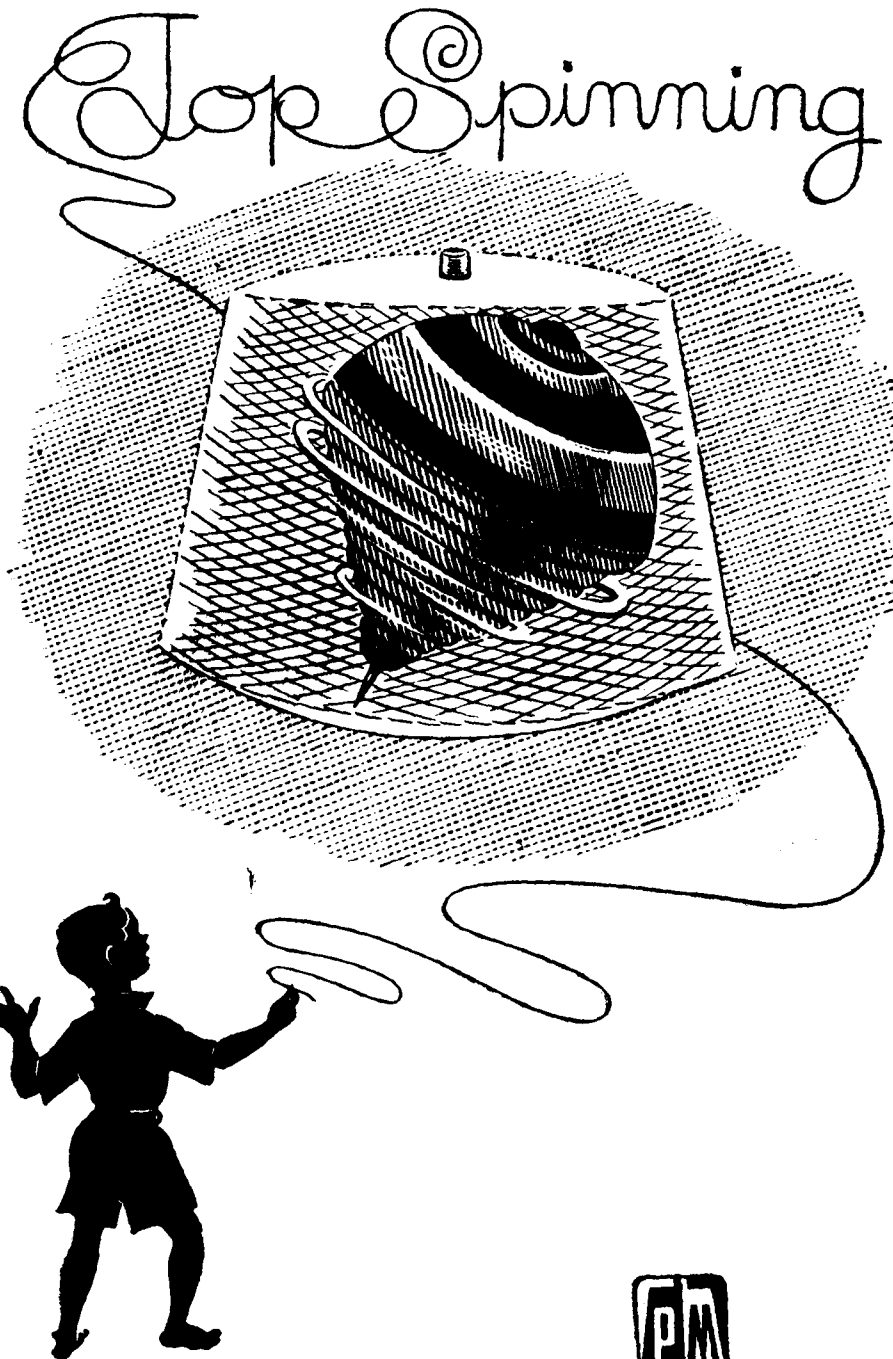

Naik Rule. During the decline of Vijayanagar, its feudatories, Mysore and Madura became gradually independent. The Odayars and Naiks vied with each other in extending their territories and came into conflict with each other over the intermediate territory of Kongunad. Madura Naiks began their domination as early as 1559 A. D. when Viswanatha Naik captured the area comprising of Coimbatore, Erode and Dharapuram. They attained the zenith of their strength under Tirumalai Naik who acceded to the throne in 1623 A. D. During their sovereignty, the territory under their sway was divided into 72 subdivisions called Palayams, many of which exist even to this day.

During the second half of the seventeenth century the whole district seems to have been a prey to constant wars and raids, owing to the conflict between the Vijayanagar deputies and the Mysore power of Mysore.

Mysore Domination. In 1641 Kanteerava Narasaraja captured many places around Coimbatore. Satyamangalam was annexed in 1653. In 1659 which records one of the most vindictive wars between Kanteerava narasaraja and Tirumalai Naik, both met with their death; but the fight went on. In due course Madura Naiks lost their strength while Mysore grew. Tottadevaraya reigned from 1669 to 1672 A. D. In 1672 a pitched battle took place between the Mysore Dynasty and Madura Naiks at Erode in which Tottadevaraya succeeded. During the reign of chikkadevaraya (1672-1704 A. D.) the whole of the District was under his supremacy. After his death in 1704, his son, who was both deaf and dumb ascended the throne and the rule went into the hands of one Nanjarajan, one of the ministers.

Mohammadan Rule. Haider, then a soldier in the Mysore army was made captain when he began to use his powers and later usurped the throne in 1761. After him, his son Tipu was powerful. During the forty years of Mohammadan rule which followed, the District had been the scene of incessant marches and counter marches, advances and retreats by the British and Mysore troops; and the forts scattered through it. Notably forts at Erode, Dharapuram and Coimbatore were constantly taken and retaken. Four pitched battles took place between the British and Mysore Powers-First Mysore war (1767-1769 A. D.), Second Mysore War (1780-1784 A. D.), Third Mysore war (1790-91 A. D.) and Fourth Mysore War (1799 A. D.). In the last of the wars Tipu was defeated and slain.

British Rule - In 1799 A. D. the District passed under British rule. It was first divided into two parts. Bhavani was made head quarters of the northern part and Dharapuram for the Southern section. Salem district was joined to the northern part. In 1804 Coimbatore District was constituted with Coimbatore as head quarters. Taluks to the east of Cauvery were separated to form the Salem district with Salem as its head-quarters.

Coimbatore - Name and its significance

It is interesting to know how the headquarters of the district assumed its name of Coimbatore.

One theory says that the name is due to the red soil of the place. The colour of the soil being deep as a ripe guava fruit, the place came to be called as "Kovai".

The second theory takes us to a remote past, almost 2000 years ago. On the bank of the river Noyyal, south of the town there inhabited a group of aboriginals called 'Irulars' and one 'Kovan' was the head of the group. It is said that the part of Coimbatore, inhabited by 'Kovan' and his followers known as 'Kovanpathi' has been responsible to its present name. The third theory is provided by history of the Sangam age. It is well known that Chera, Chola and Pandya kings had each of them, domains of their own in South India, over which they held absolute sway. The territory between Chola kingdom on the east ruled by Karikal Chola and the Chera dominion ruled by 'Cheraman Perumal' was during that period nothing but a thick forest. During the same time Samaya Mudalis were engaged in the propagation of religion. One of them soon came under royal patronage of Cheraman Perumal. Cheraman Perumal and the religious propagandist were warmly received by Karikala Chola who desired to convert the forest lying between their kingdoms into a beautiful town. During their pilgrimage, both the kings and the religious propagandist had to pass by 'Kovanpathi' to offer worship to Patti Perumal. In course of time numerous houses of varying designs sprang up and consequently 'Kovanpathi' in its new set up became 'Kovanputhur'. Later on the name is supposed to have changed into 'Koyamuthur' (Coimbatore) on account of its agricultural products being pearl like (Like Muthu) in its outlying fields.

Forts - The district has been famous for its mud forts. Many of them are not to be seen today; many have lost their form; but from the ruins that remain in a few places one cannot fail to admire the forethought and planning of the ancient rulers. On the bank of the Cauveri where Cauveri meets with Bhavani a fort wall had stood the tide of time in spite of floods in both rivers in 1924. The width of the mud wall in front of the temple is nearly 20 feet. The place selected for the fort with rivers on two sides, the width of the walls-all speak to the great foresight of the then ruler.

There have been as many as twenty-five mud forts within this district:- Kaveripuram, Sampalli, Andiur, Bhavani, Perundurai, Vijayamangalam, Velladi, Ponnapuram, Singanallur, Anniur, Orachimalai alias Vedagiri, Udumalpet, Kottaipalayam alias Koilpalayam, Garudankottai, Masanaickenpalayam, Kaniyur, Kozhuman alias Kozhumur, Attithurai, Kajjahatti, Satyamangalam, Kuthialathur, Dhara-puram, Talaimalai, Kanisiddankottai, Erode and Coimbatore.

For providing information about the march of foes 'Kaval' constructions were in existence in front of big forts. It is said that 'Nadukaval' in the vicinity of Coimbatore was one such place. The history of the fort area of Coimbatore town has a halo about it. For sometime in the 18th century Coimbatore was under the control of the British. The first invasion of the fort took place in 1768 by Haider Ali who won the battle and fortified the fort. About eleven years after, in 1780, fight ensued between the British and the French when the former captured Mahi. Hyder gave battle to the British for having crossed his territory. It went on for two years when Hyder's son Tippu also took part in it. In 1782 Colonel Fullerton captured the fort, but he was later defeated by Tippu. Peace was signed in 1784, according to which Coimbatore continued under the sway of Tippu. Under his regime much havoc was done to temples and properties. Coimbatore was renamed as 'Salamabad' and 'Podanur' as Husanabad; but with his death the names also died away. The third battle of Coimbatore fort took place in 1790 when the British attacked Tippu taking side with the Travancore Sovereign. Peace was soon restored and Coimbatore fell to the lot of Tippu, who destroyed the fort after killing those who failed him at the hour of crisis. This area continues to be known as the 'fort area' though no trace of the fort is available and several houses have now sprung up on the sides of 'Kottai Iswaran temple'. It is understood that there were 3,000 houses in Coimbatore during the reign of Hyder Ali and only 2000 houses in Tippu's time.

There is a village 'Pattali' near Eraimalai in Palayakottai which takes us to the times of Chera-Chola-Pandyas. It is said that a great battle was fought between the three kings in which heads of thousands of people fell to the ground. It is significant that a place 'Senkalam' finds mention in Silappadikaram as having been the battlefield of Pazhayar Maran, a Pandya representative and Cheran Senguttuvan.

'Korkai' was the head quarters of 'Tennankarainadu' formed of the south eastern portion of the present Dhara-puram taluk. The remains of a fort are visible. There is an old Sivalaya and temples of several goddesses along-side river 'ஆன் பொருண்' running nearby.

Andiur- (Bhavani taluk) - In ancient times this was described as 'Peruvayil or Azhakapuri'. The entrance to the fort faces a hill. An interest event is current about this fort which says that this Azhakapuri was inhabited by a wealthy class of merchants known as Vysyas. On one occasion a young boy, while swimming in the river entered the 'Niradum thurai' of the king where-upon the boy was sentenced to death. The unruly king imprisoned the community people who had assembled before him for the rendering of justice by minimising the punishment. The remaining thousand people who were frightened by the incident ran away to Erode. The matter was represented to the Chola king who later set free the prisoners after a fight. In the battle that took place the fort of Azhakapuri was smashed. The thousand Vysyas who later on moved to Madras and other places called themselves as 'Ayira Vysyas'.

Ilavanpathi. is a village in Palladam taluk famous during Sanga times. Remnants of a destroyed fort are seen here spread over an area of sixty acres. Lights and several ornamental vessels and treasures seem to have been unearthed here in olden times. Four to five feet below ground level structures of buildings are noticeable. This place is also described as 'Kazhumalam and Poigaiyur'.

At places where there had been forts, old Sivalayas and temples of village goddesses exist. They are renovated and held in great reverence to this day. Annual festivals are held in almost all the temples of the village deities which are attended to in large numbers by people of surrounding villages.

Temples. Though the district does not boast of many big temples as others, there are a few with time-honoured historical significance. The pillar carvings of Kanakasabai at Perur and Vedanayakiyar temple at Bhavani exhibit renowned sculptural skill and are a feast to the eye. All the ancient rulers had bestowed admirable attention to the construction of temples as institutions meant for the propagation of religion & ethics among the people. Even in the British regime, while Khero was collector stationed at Bhavani, it is said that he became a devotee of Vedanayakiar and had endowed many valuable gifts to the temple.

Coimbatore taluk:

Perur- Sri Patteeswarar temple - Patteeswarar and Pachainayaki-Three miles to the west of Coimbatore town-Many inscriptions are found in the temple. The sthalapurana throws light on the prehistoric importance of the temple. It is stated that the calf of Kamadhenu was roaming about in Pippalaranya and one of its limbs was caught by a hard object from beneath the earth whence blood was gushing out. The object was found to be a sacred sivalinga, around which the temple was later built. The place was once a mere field where cattle were grazing. Many kings have contributed to its constructions and greatness. The following events noted against the respective periods are significant.

- | | |
|------------------------|---|
| 1st century- | Garbagriha built by a chola king |
| 6th century- | St Appar visits the temple-mention is made in his Thevaram |

14th & 15th - Endowments given by Hoisala and Vijayanagar kings--construction of Teppakulam. St. Arunagirinathar visits the temple-mention is made in his Tiruppugal.

16th & 17th - Construction of famous Kanakasabai by Alagadri Naik of Madura

18th century- Invasion and attachment of temple properties by Tippusultan--Restoration of inams back to the temple by East India Company.

19th century- Main gopuram and small gopuram of Amman temple - renovation of Iswarar and Amman temples.

20th century- Construction of Kalyana Mantapa-Kumba-abishekam in 1952.

This ancient place has in itself much of religious, cultural and archeological significance. Many fine literary compositions like 'Cholan's Poorvapattayam', saiva literary poems, Tiruppugal of St. Arunagiri, Perur puranam of Kachiappa Munivar, several prabandams, the four religious books of St. Santalingar--all these refer to the religious and cultural instincts of people during different periods.

St. Sundarar refers to Perur in his Thevaram in the following terms:

“பேரூர் உறைவாய் பட்டிப் பெருமான்,
பிறவா நெறியானே”

“ஆரூரன் தம்பிரான் ஆரூரன்
மீ கொங்கில் அணி காஞ்சிவாய்ப்
பேரூர் பெருமானைப் புலியூர்ச்
சிற்றம்பலத்தே பெற்றோமன்றே”

This describes Perur as situate on the banks of Kanchinadi which is now called river Noyyal. Among the festivals held during the year, the Arudra darisan in December and Panguni Uttaram in March-April are of major significance. There are many choultries for pilgrims to stay conveniently.

Nalvar Madalaya (Perur)-This is perhaps the only temple dedicated to Manickavasagar, Thirunavukkarasu, Thirugnanasambandar and Sundaramurthi Swamigal. Built in the year 1929 this institution evinces great interest to propagate the teachings of 'Nalvar', to encourage tamil songs and poetry, to arrange thevaram recitals during marriage and other occasions and to instigate the habit of worship in tamil.

Vellingiris. This mountain is fifteen miles to the west of Perur rising to a height of 6000 ft. above M. S. L. The deity at the top is Panchalingamurthi in a small temple of cave-like formation. This is also known as 'Southern Kailas'. The way is clear for devotees to climb and reach the top of the hill during summer for a period of three months (March, April and May) At the bottom of the hill, choultries have been built to house the devotees during their brief stay.

Marudamalai- Seven miles north-west of Coimbatore, there is a temple of Muruga. One can enjoy from the hills a picturesque view of the town. The hills, about 2500 ft above M. S. L. and commanding an exhilarating natural scenery constitute a suitable place for week-end refreshing and picnics. Devotees gather in large numbers on Krithigai day of every month when religious discourses are also held. There are choultries around the temple to house pilgrims.

Coimbatore- Koniamman temple:

The rise of this temple is attributed to the labour of 'Irulars' who inhabited the place in remote past. It was later built by Karikara Chola. An interesting episode is current about the name of the deity which was first installed by one 'Irulan' the then leader of the folk. One day the idol was found to be slightly slanting. Since then it came to be called as 'Konaimman' and later as Koniamman. This is considered to be the guardian deity of the town. The annual festival is held in the month of February-March when many religious discourses are also conducted.

Fort Iswaran temple - This was built in the time of Karikal Chola in the 9th century. During the time of Mohammodan invasion, the priests had run away after removing and burying uthsava murthies. The original idol was accidentally discovered in 1919 and was taken away by the British and kept in the London Museum. Pettai Iswaran temple in Iswarankoil street, Chowdamman temple in Raja street, Mariamman temple in Avanashi Road, Kanyakaparameswari temple in Vysial street, Perumal temple in Big Bazaar street, Sai-Baba temple in Mettupalayam Road are important among the other temples in the town.

Mosques-

ATHAR JAMATH MOSQUE:

This beautiful mosque is situated in Oppanakara Street in the heart of the town and belongs to Athar Muslims who are ancient residents of the town with tamil as their mother tongue. This huge structure with an elegant appearance has been constructed by contributions amongst themselves at a great cost and the affairs of the mosque are conducted by an able bodied council held in esteem by the public.

Temples in other places of the District

Vellalur- Sivalaya known as 'Thenesuram'. This village was previously known as 'Annadanasivapuri' and 'Vallalur' which denotes that it was named in memory of one charitably disposed towards the poor. 'Vallalur' has changed to 'Vellalur' by usage.

Pollachi Taluk.

Pollachi. Amanalingeswarar temple, Arul Mariamman temple, Perumal temple near Devanampalayam.

Udumalpet taluk.

Udumalpet- Sivalaya, perumal temple, Mariamman festival in May.

Tirumurthi hills. Sivarathri festival in March is important. A pleasant place for picnics where people usually gather on Sundays and other holidays.

Malaikoil (hamlet of Somavarapatti) Mattupongal festival in Thai.

Kolumam- Sozheesurar temple was constructed in the times of Virachola in 12th century as known from charters. Mudiramalai and the adjoining plains were once under the rule of king Kumana, renowned for his charitable disposition. Due to a conflict with his brother, king Kumana had to run away to forests. A gift of thousand gold coins was pronounced to be paid to one who brought the head of Kumana. Perunthalai sathanar, a reputed poet of those days, having heard of the greatness of king Kumana met him in the forests to receive alms; but to his astonishment the king was ready to offer his head which would fetch a gift of thousand gold coins. The incident was narrated by his brother who repented for his action whereupon the brothers reconciled with each other. It is said that the place where Kumana lived was known as 'Kumanam' which by usage ought to have changed to 'Kozhumam'. Mudiramalai is now known as 'Kudiraimalai' evidently because the hill has the appearance of a saddled horse.

Dharapuram taluk.

Dharapuram. Korkai, about ten miles from Dharapuram was the headquarters of 'Tennankarainadu' one among the ancient divisions. Dharapuram is also described as 'Tharakapuri' and as 'Kundavai Vinnagaram'. Perumal temple, Tillapuriamman temple in the northern portion of fort ruins, temples of Perianayaki, Rathnamurthi and Korkaimari are of importance. Annual festival is celebrated in Panguni.

Sengodampalayam- On the way to Kangayam, about twelve miles from Dharapuram there is an ancient sivalaya at Udiyur otherwise known as Udiyanur. The hill adjoining this place was known as Udiyurmalai and also as Konganagiri due to the fact that a Siddha was practising penance at this place. The Kongana temple and a cave are still in existence. It is said that this hill was also known as 'Ponnudimalai' as gold was said to be produced from the juice of leaves on this hill. St. Arunagiri has referred to this hill as 'Udimalai' and as 'Konganagiri' in his Thirupukaz. A temple of the village goddess Karunkozhiamman is held in great reverence by the villagers.

Mulanur- On the way to Karur, sixteen miles to the east of Dharapuram is this village where there is a fort area. This was known as 'Vanjimanagaram' or 'Vanjipuri'. Near the fort ruins there is the temple of 'Vanjiamman' which is considered to be the presiding deity of the place. A sivalaya and a muruga temple are in the vicinity.

Ilampillai- Close to Mulanur is this village on the bank of Amaravathi, with a temple of the village goddess Ilampillai Selvi. A story in Kongumandala sathaka states that on one occasion devotees desirous of testing the greatness of the goddess placed grass before a mud horse and there was an undertaking by the section of nondevotees assembled that they would turn devotees if the grass was eaten by the mud horse. To the astonishment of all, grass was eaten by the mud horse. The form of a horse in the posture of eating grass is seen in this temple.

Paranjervalli. This is described as 'Paran Ser Palli' in charters. A temple of Madhyapureswarar is located in a central village known as 'Nattur' in the vicinity.

Kannapuram (hamlet of Pachapalayam) Mariamman festival in the month of Chithrai.

Vettamalai (hamlet of Kadayur)- Muthukumaraswami temple. Annual festival in the month of Vaikasi.

Air Travel :

Office- Indian Air Lines, Post Box
No. 113, Phone 343
India House, Trichy Road,
Coimbatore.

Indian Air Lines seven operate a regular service between Bombay and Cochin. This gives connection at Cochin for passengers travelling to Bombay from Coimbatore.

The air-port is about five miles from the town of Coimbatore on the Avanashi Road.

The Indian Airlines operate a daily service from Madras to Trivandrum and back via Cochin, Coimbatore and Bangalore. This service gives connection to the night service from Madras to almost all important cities like Bombay, Calcutta and Delhi.

Railway : Coimbatore is on the Madras Mangalore broad guage main line at a distance of 307 miles from Madras Central. Places in the district served by the two sectional railways are noted below. Trains from four directions (Mangalore, Madras, Mettupalayam (Nilgiris) and Madura meet at this junction. There is a town booking office at the Variety Hall Road, Coimbatore where tickets are issued and parcels are also accepted.

GENERAL INFORMATION AND LOCATION OF PUBLIC OFFICES

The administration of the district is vested with the district Collector with headquarters at Coimbatore. Till November 1957 the affairs of the District Board were carried on by fortyfive elected members. Since November 1957 the District Collector is in charge of its affairs consequent on the decision of the Government to transfer the functions of the Board to Panchayat unions in stages.

Coimbatore— The Municipal Council exercises control over the Town of Coimbatore consisting of portions of the following revenue villages: Coimbatore, Telungupalayam, Ramanathapuram, Krishnarayapuram, Sangapur, Anupparpalayam, Puliakulam, Kumarapalayam, Savaripalayam and Ganapathi covering an area of 10 sq. miles. The Central Jail is excluded from the administrative limits of the Municipality though the buildings and lands around this area are within the limits. The Municipal administration is carried on by 36 councillors elected from 30 wards. Three seats are reserved for scheduled castes and three for women.

Trunk roads within municipal limits to the extent of 10 miles 6 furlongs are in charge of the Highways Department. Other roads maintained by the Council aggregate to a length of 82 miles 2 furlongs and 286 feet.

Street lighting with mercury lamps and ornamental dome lights at important street corners lend beauty to the Town. The Council also holds a licence for the distribution of low tension power from the Pykara Hydro Electric system.

The Town has a protected water supply system the source being Siruvani. The scheme was originally designed for a population of one lakh of people at 20 gallons per head per diem. To cope with the needs of the present population which is well over two lakhs the duplication of the gravitation main to the entire length has been sanctioned by the Government. A low level reservoir has its feeder main connected to the distribution mains at two points (i) Rangai Gowder Street and (2) Raja Street near clock tower. Daily about 7 lakhs of gallons of water is drawn from the Head works into Low level reservoir. A pumping station at a cost of Rs. 20,000 has been erected at Periyar and water is pumped from the Periyar river to the gravitation main during summer. Water supply in Rathnasabathypuram, West Selvapuram, Marakkara Nanjappa Gowder Street is met by giving a direct bore connection from the 18" gravitation main and linked with the distribution system. Booster pumps have been erected in R. S. Puram at the junction of Crosscut Road, Jail Road and P. N. Palayam Road and Puliakulam Road for ensuring a satisfactory supply in these areas.

There are five municipal daily markets and two private markets within municipal limits. Seven parks — 1. Bharathi park, 2. Chidambaram Pillai Park, 3. Gandhi Park, 4. Brindavan Park, 5. Nehru Park, 6. Clock Tower garden, and 7. Thomas Park — are under Municipal maintenance. Dhalimkanas function in Gandhi Park, Chidambaram Pillai Park, Ukkadam and Lingappa Chetty Street and Dharmarajakoil Street where facilities are afforded to the public for physical culture exercises. One swimming pool is in use in Gandhi Park.

The Municipal wire broadcasting system consisting of a powerful audio amplifier with provision for Radio Microphone and gram in-put installed in the Central Wire Broadcasting Station and connected to loud speakers in different localities in the town by overhead wires is in operation since 1951. There are about fortyfive community listening centres. Radio programme of All India Radio are relayed in the mornings and evenings. Important programmes of the Council and announcements of public importance are relayed over the wire broadcasting system.

Pollachi— The area of the town is $5\frac{1}{4}$ sq miles divided into 22 electoral wards. The council consists of 28 members of which three seats are reserved for women and three for scheduled castes. There are no trunk roads within Municipal limits. The length of roads maintained by the Municipality is about $20\frac{1}{2}$ miles. Seven miles of road are maintained by the Highways Department.

There are two parks, one in the centre of the town and the other at Vadugapalayam. A public library and reading room is attached to each of the parks.

The town has a protected water supply since 1948 from a perennial river six miles away. Water is drawn through an infiltration gallery and the average consumption per day is about five lakhs of gallon. The Council maintains two markets, one weekly market known as Gandhi market and the other a daily market. A private market known as Mylan Shandy is licensed. A complete remodelling of the Gandhi market at a cost of about Rs. 1500000 is contemplated under the second five year plan.

Udumalpet— The area of the Municipality is 2.7 sq miles divided into 18 electoral wards. The sanctioned strength of the council is 20 of which two seats are reserved for women. The length of the roads maintained by the Municipality is 13.5 miles. The town is served by electric lighting. There is no piped or protected water supply and the town depends on the draw wells and tube wells for water supply.

Dharapuram— The Municipal administration is carried on by a council of 20 members. The town does not enjoy any protected water supply but depends on the river Amaravathi and two irrigation channels for drinking water. The council maintains two parks, a radio and a wire broadcasting system.

Tiruppur— The area of the town is $10\frac{1}{2}$ sq miles divided into 28 wards. The Municipal Council consists of 32 members. Two seats are reserved for women and two for scheduled castes. Trunk roads within Municipal limits are maintained by the Highways Department. The length of roads under Municipal maintenance is 40 miles 253 feet. The town is well lighted. Water supply is however inadequate. A part of the town gets protected water supply from Kovilveli about five miles to the South and to meet the needs of the people wells have been dug by the Municipality at 32 centres. Sanction of Rs. 108.45 lakhs has been obtained from the Government for fulfilment of a scheme by which 5 villages adjoining Tiruppur will also be benefitted by adequate water supply from the river Kunnur. Four parks known as Silver Jubilee Park, Iswaramurthy Park, Water tank Park, Mission Street Park are maintained by the Municipality. Radio receiving stations are installed in the Silver Jubilee Park and Water tank Park.

Erode— The Municipal council consists of 32 members elected from 27 wards. Two seats are reserved for scheduled castes and three seats for women. The length of roads maintained by the Municipality is 34 miles 2 furlongs. The town enjoys a protected water supply system. The scheme was originally meant to meet the needs of 25000 people in 1916. Improvements were effected from time to time and in 1948 a mechanical jewel filter and settling tanks were constructed at a cost of about Rs. 60,000 with installation of a 30 H. P. motor and 60 H. P. motor. The construction was completed in 1955 with a drawing capacity of 7,50,000 gallons per day. A distribution system has also been envisaged to split the town into four divisions— (1) Karungalpalayam (2) Town division, (3) Kottai division and (4) Kaikolan division for efficient supply of water to about a lakh of people. Five parks (1) Chidambaram Pillai Park, (2) Pannirselvam Park, (3) Thiru V. Kalyanasundaranar Park, (4) Golden Jubilee park and (5) Karungalpalayam Diamond Jubilee Park are maintained by the Council. Number One is prominent with radio installation, a gymnasium, a nursery garden and a play ground attached.

Gobichettipalayam— The area of the town is 2.9 sq. miles. The Municipal Council consists of 20 members. Two seats are reserved for scheduled castes and two for women. The length of the roads maintained by the Municipality pality is about 32 miles. A protected water supply scheme sanctioned at an estimated cost of Rs. 15.70 lakhs is nearing completion. The chief source of drinking water supply is Thadapalli channel. The Council maintains a weekly market at Modachur, and a daily vegetable market at Pudupalayam area. The Municipal Health park with a radio and another radio receiving station at Modachur maintained by the Municipality serve as recreation centres.

Mettupalayam— The town is 2.7 sq miles in area. The strength of the Municipal council is 20 with one seat for scheduled castes and three for women. The length of the roads maintained by the Municipality is 22 miles. The Ootacamund-Coimbatore road, Mettupalayam to Tirupur Road and Kotagiri road are under the maintenance of the Highways department. The town is provided with a protected water supply system since 1948. The headworks named 'Samanna Water Works' are situated on the right bank of the river Bhavani.

EDUCATION AND PUBLICITY.

Agricultural College, Coimbatore.

Date of starting	:	14—7—1909
Courses of study	:	B. Sc (Ag) Course and Refresher Course for young farmers
Administration	:	Managed by the Government of Madras

Students are given intensive practical training for a period of six months within the 3 years B. Sc (Ag) course. They have ample opportunities of learning the latest about research from the professors, who are specialists in their branches of Agricultural Science and who are the heads of research departments. A library is maintained. There are four research farms viz. Central Farm, Paddy Breeding Station, Cotton Breeding Station and Millet Breeding Station, where there are facilities to learn agronomy, plant breeding and experimental layouts.

Southern Forest Rangers College, Coimbatore.

(Government of India)

Year of starting:	1912. The College is administered by the Government of India since 1—7—1948.
Courses of study:	A 2 years course, designed to train men for the posts of rangers in the various states of the Indian Union and for foreign countries and a one year course for training foresters of Andhra, Madras, Mysore and Kerala States.
Administration:	The control of the College is vested in the President, Forest Research Institute and Colleges, Dehra Dun, subject to the supervision of the Inspector General of Forests to the Government of India. The Superior staff of the College consists of the Director of Forest Education, Forest Research Institute and Colleges, Dehra Dun, the Principal of the College, and the Instructors and Asst. Instructors.

The Principal is in direct charge and arranges the approved course of studies at the College and on tours.

Due to increased demand of trained personnel from various states, the strength of the students has been doubled from 1956—58 course. There are 189 students under training in rangers course and 20 in the foresters course.

Working of the Institution:

(i) The Academic year of the College is from 1st July to 30th June. Lecture terms at headquarters alternate with tours, these extending over nearly half the duration of the course.

(ii) Tours in selected forests of Madras, Mysore, Coorg, Travancore Cochin, Hyderabad and Madhya Pradesh for practical instruction constitute an integral part of the course.

(iii) Besides detailed training in forestry and its allied subjects, wherein the students' progress is watched by conduct of examinations, punctuality, regularity in attendance, behaviour, general discipline, organisational capacity, keenness and proficiency in games and sports, and extra curricular activities are also given great weight during the course.

(iv) No direct applications are entertained by the College for admission. The selection is made by the State Governments concerned, in conformity with the College rules. The selected candidates undergo a preliminary training of about 8 weeks in the forests to give them a forestry background, before joining the College.

(v) The successful students are granted 3 kinds of Certificates of the Madras Forest College, based on the results, and they are

1. Honours.
2. Higher Standard.
3. Lower Standard.

The certificates are awarded at the College Convocation held in June every year.

General. The College has its own estate wherein practical work in forestry and allied subjects is imparted at headquarters. A museum called the Gas Forest Museum is attached to the College, and contains a large number of interesting collections of forestry and scientific interest. Besides serving the students of the college, it serves to educate the public in Forestry and forest products.

Under the second five year plan the Government of India will be starting a Forest Research Centre at this college. The main units will be Silviculture (including soil science), entomology, mycology and botany.

Library Moment-

The District Central Library is housed in a beautiful building in the Chidambaram Pillai Park. It has a collection of a little over 13000 books. The library is kept open for public for 12 hours from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. every day for six days in a week except on Wednesday.

Thirtyseven branches have so far been opened in the District. Most of them have delivery stations within a range of 6 to 7 miles. 120 delivery stations function catering to villages with a population of 1000 to 5000. An additional 14 branches and 183 delivery stations are proposed to be opened in the near future. A scheme for imparting Social Education through lectures has been approved by the Director of Public Libraries.

A book mobile has been acquired. Educational films are arranged to be screened in villages. The library possesses a stock of 70 films. The Book mobile has a record player by which speeches on important occasions and entertaining songs are relayed. The District is divided into four zones. About 30 villages in each zone will be visited by the Book Mobile which carries a stock of about 4000 books.

Sri B. R. Krishnamurthy Naidu, M. A. L. T. is the chairman of the Local Library Authority. To promote social education it is proposed to build up a small museum of models and charts by collecting exhibits of educational interest-physiological, geological, astronomical and scientific-to be displayed in villages during festivals for public inspection.

On 26—9—1947, on the eve of his 60th Birthday, Sri P. S. G. Ganga Naidu, Peelamedu, created a Trust deed under the style of P. S. G. Ganga Naidu & Sons Charities, Peelamedu, endowing his personal properties worth more than Rs. 1½ Lakhs by way of immovable properties and working funds. The main object of the Trust is to conduct a Kannika Gurukulam wherein backward and harijan community girls of ages 7 & 9 are to be admitted and given basic training as per Gandhiji's ideals, giving them free food, clothing and lodging.

Necessary buildings were put up and the Gurukulam commenced functioning from June 1948 when initially 50 girls were admitted. Now the strength is 145. One Higher Elementary School and Harijan Hostel are also conducted in the above premises.

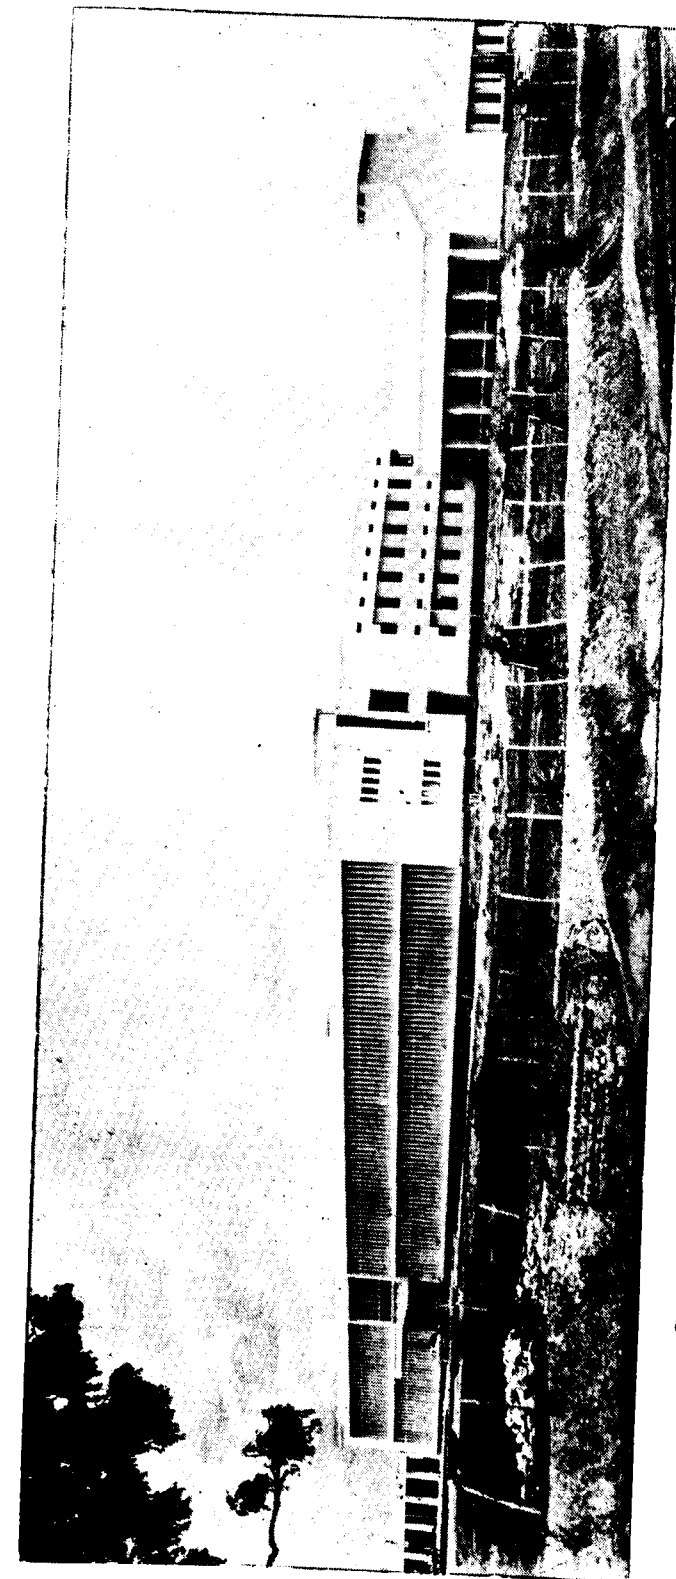

The above institution is now run from the income from the endowment properties and Government grants. Sri G. Ramaswamy Naidu is the Managing Trustee and Sri G. Govindaswamy Naidu is the Manager & Correspondent. The Board of Directors consist of eminent citizens of Coimbatore.

KESAVARDHINI PRODUCTS
 CROSSCUT ROAD - - - COIMBATORE

Kesavardhini Products, Crosscut Road, Coimbatore: Tel: 'SIRISHA', Telephone, "433" Manufacturers of Toiletry preparations including the famous "KESAVARDHINI".

The company is located in Coimbatore, the great industrial City of South India in calm environment near Coimbatore North Railway Station by the side of Pykara Central Power Station.

The Company owes its existence to the genius of its founder Late Sri K. V. Ramachandran, who established the same in a small way in the name and style of "South India Chemicals" in the year 1923 in Luz, Mylapore, Madras.

The turbulent times that followed consequent to the great slump of 1926 so soon after the commencement of the Institution was fought with the undaunted courage and persistent perseverance of the able and farsighted founder.

TO-DAY IT stands with pride as the Pioneer in the field of Hair Tonic Preparations in India and the FAR EAST. In addition to catering to the needs of the 400 millions of our countrymen, they also stand the pleasure of being called upon to serve the export markets of Ceylon, Burma, Malaya and as far as Indonesia.

Their Hair Tonic that goes under the style of "KESAVARDHINI" and their "SHAMPOO" have been household names in South India for a period of 3 decades.

From the outset emphasis has always been laid at every stage of manufacture being scientifically tested, maintaining absolute purity and uniformity in their products. Citizens of Coimbatore may well be proud of the Company's great achievements which has put the Town as one among the foremost in the Toiletry Map of India, with Mrs. R. Chellammal, the Managing Partner, a fitting successor of the Late Founder and Sri. R. Sankaran as Manager, efficiently organising and expanding its activities with varied allied additions in the field.

AGRICULTURE & ANIMAL HUSBANDRY

Sources of Irrigation — The principal sources of irrigation are the Bhavani, the Cauvery and the Amaravathi, the Noyyal and the Aliyar rivers, rainfed tanks and wells. Gobichettipalayam taluk is protected by the Kodiveri Anicut across the Bhavani river. Parts of the Bhavani taluk are served by the rivers Cauvery and Bhavani. Avanashi taluk is served to some extent by river Bhavani. The Kalingarayan Anicut across the Bhavani and waters of Cauvery cater to the needs of Erode taluk. Coimbatore taluk is served by the river Noyyal, rainfed tanks and spring channels. Wells form the principal sources of supply in Palladam taluk besides the river Noyyal. Amaravathi and Noyyal serve a portion of Dhara-puram taluk which depends on wells for irrigation purposes. Wells and spring channels form the chief sources of supply for Pollachi taluk. A part of the taluk is served by the Aliyar river. The one taluk which is worst affected and liable to famine was the Udumalpet taluk where irrigation is mostly dependent on well water. With the completion of the Amaravathi project, the possibilities of a stabilised cultivation is bright in future.

Projects. The Lower Bhavani Project is designed to conserve the freshes of the river Bhavani for utilisation at the proper time. The project consists of a dam across the river about 10 miles upstream of Satyamangalam in Gobichettipalayam taluk. The dam is 28,862 feet long and the catchment area 1621 sq miles. The main canal taking off on the right side runs a course of about 124 miles with several distributaries. The yield in a year of normal supply of irrigation water is expected to be about 30000 tons of millets and 40000 tons of cotton kappas with possibilities of 60% increase in millets in a year of abundant supply. The benefits of this project is available over an area of nearly 2,07,000 acres of land.

Mettur Canal Scheme. This is one of the major development schemes for excavating a canal from Mettur Reservoir for irrigating lands in Salem and Coimbatore Districts. The scheme consists of two main canals, namely the West Bank Canal and the East Bank Canal on either sides of the river Cauvery. The West Bank Canal takes off from the High Level supply channel of the Mettur Reservoir through a regulator constructed across the High level supply channel. The course of the canal is 27 miles in length of which 8 miles and 3 furlongs are in Salem District and the rest in Coimbatore District, with a major distributory of nearly 4 miles in the end. The East Bank Canal runs entirely in Salem Dt. The East and West Bank canals are intended to provide water for irrigating 18000 acres in Omalur taluk of the Salem District and Bhavani taluk of Coimbatore District and 27,000 acres in Omalur and Tiruchengode taluks of Salem District, the expected average yield being 15000 tons of foodgrains.

Amaravathi Project. The river Amaravathi, a tributary of the Cauveri rises in the Western Ghats near Munar at an altitude of 5000 feet above M. S. L. A dam of 3594 feet in length is constructed near mile 9-6 of Udumalpet-Munar Road consisting of a masonry section in the centre 1067 feet long and two earth dam sections on the flanks about 2527 feet long. The reservoir has a water spread of 2600 acres with a capacity of 3600 million cubic feet. The catchment is 324 sq miles. This storage is expected to stabilise irrigation of rice over 32000 acres. The 39 mile stretch of the canal will irrigate 6,318 acres in Udumalpet taluk and 5504 acres in Dharapuram taluk.

Area of crops

The area of crops cultivated in the district during the years 1953, 1954 and 1955 are given below. With the completion of the projects the acreage and yield can be expected to show a marked increase in the years to come.

Agricultural College and ResearchInstitute, Coimbatore.

The Agricultural College and Research Institute was established in 1907 at Coimbatore for 'the culture of the land and culture of the people who cultivated the land'. Even before this the beginnings of agricultural education and research were made in the State with the establishment of Agricultural College at Saidapet in 1876 and with appointment of an Economic Botanist in 1898.

The system of education in the College has undergone many changes. Till 1914, the syllabus prepared by the Board of Agriculture in 1906 was followed. From 1914 to 1920, two courses were provided, one a certificate course of two years largely practical in nature and a further higher course of one and a half years for which candidates were admitted from the first course. In 1920, the College was affiliated to the Madras University and admission was restricted to candidates who have passed Intermediate examination. The certificate course was conducted till 1924 when it was closed. In 1933-34 the Madras University recognized the Research Institute for conduct of research leading to M. Sc. and Ph. D. In the Agricultural College there were facilities for admission of 20 students till 1925. From 1926, the admission was increased to 48, when the new College buildings came into being. In 1944, faced with acute dearth of trained personnel, the admission to the College was increased to 96. With the great impetus given to the Agriculture section in the I and II Five years plans, the admission later was raised to 108 and 162 in 1956. A post graduatediploma course in Horticulture was run departmentally till 1952-53, after which it was affiliated to the Madras University. A short course in practical agriculture lasting from June to December every year is also conducted.

At the Agricultural Research Institute, there are 12 sections each with a specialist as the head, carrying out research on an elaborate scale. The entire research work both in the Institute and at the sub-stations is under the control of the Principal, Agricultural College and Research Institute, who is assisted by a Research council comprising of specialists and members. Outstanding results have been achieved in the isolation of superior strains, in tackling pests and diseases of the important crop etc. A short account of research carried out in each of the sections is given below.

Paddy Section started in 1915 is one of the oldest with eight sub-stations. Large number of high yielding strains have been released for cultivation in different tracts. Blast resistant and saline resistant strains have been evolved and they are popular with the ryots. An extensive collection of more than 2300 varieties has been built which serves as a germ plasm bank. Important agronomic problems have been tackled and economic manuring and cultural schedules have been worked out for different regions in the State.

Millets and pulses section— was opened in 1921 for the crop improvement work on Cholan, Cumbu, Ragi, Tenai, Samai and Varagu. So far 22 strains of Cholan, 6 in Cumbu, 9 in Ragi, 3 in Tenai, two in Varagu and one in Panivaragu have been released and they are popular in the State. By hybridisation, striga resistant strains of Cholan have been evolved and also dual purpose strains. Another important achievement is the practical utilisation of hybrid vigour in Cumbu. The hybrid Cumbu types are very heavy yields.

Cotton Section was opened in 1922. During the 3½ decades, the section has made great strides and a wide variety of problems in agronomy, genetics, and cytology of the irrigated Cambodia and rainfed desi cottons has been tackled. At present two strains MCU 1 and MCU 2 are under large scale cultivation and both of them have better yielding capacity of qualitative characters. The successful introduction of P 26 F cotton in the rice fallows is another achievement. The desi strains of cotton viz K2 and K5 have been released for rainfed areas. They yield 25% more lint, spin 4 counts higher and give Rs. 30 as additional income. Useful recommendations based on agronomic trials have also been made for the benefit of the cultivators.

Oilseeds Section has made important contributions to the agricultural research. Four high yielding strains of groundnut, three in gingelly and four in castor have been evolved. A dormant bunch strain evolved by hybridisation and big seeded desert types are being tested in the districts. Agronomic problems have been investigated and useful information regarding seed rate, cultural practices, manuring schedules etc has been passed on to the ryots. Physiological anatomical and cytological studies have also been taken up. In cocoanut, selected seedlings of known pedigree are produced on a large scale.

Horticulture Section was formed in 1941, though the first fruit station was in existence at Burliar from 1871. Research on fruits and vegetables is being carried on in the Section. Many high yielding varieties in the different fruits and vegetables have been spotted and are being distributed to the cultivation in large numbers.

Entomology Section was started in 1912 and work on pure and applied entomology is in progress. A very valuable and extensive collection of South Indian insects have been built up. Bee keeping and devising control measures against pests are other items of work of the section.

Mycology Section was constituted in 1910. Investigations on diseases of various crops and their control measures have yielded results of economic importance.

Agricultural Engineering Section— was formed as a separate unit in 1926 to devise improved agricultural implements. A number of useful implements and contrivances have been designed and the important among them are the Shanti multi-purpose plough, mechanical seed drill, bullock pump etc. Soil conservation is another useful line of activity of the section.

Chemistry Section is in existence from 1906. Research is carried out on various practical aspects of soil science, plant chemistry and nutrition manuring of crops, micro biology and agro industries. Surveys of important deltaic areas and project areas have been undertaken and useful information gathered.

Botany Section was started in 1902. Research is carried on fodder grasses and legumes, green manures, cover crops etc. The Madras Herbarium attached to the section is one of the best in India and has over two lakhs of plant specimens. Regional surveys are being undertaken to assess plant wealth.

Physiology and Cytogenetics sub sections were opened in 1946 for research on physiology and cytogenetics of important agricultural crops. With the growing importance of agronomy as one of the primary sciences, the agronomy section was formed in 1952. Many agronomic problems, like manuring, rotation etc are being tackled.

Agricultural Meteorology This sub-section is attached to the agronomy section and the work is directed towards investigations on crop-weather inter-relations. Attempts for artificial rain-making are also in the initial stages of progress.

Sugarcane Breeding Institute, Coimbatore

The Sugarcane Breeding Institute, Coimbatore gives an idea of the increased possibilities in crop production through scientific research with particular reference to sugarcane breeding. Work on the breeding, cyto-genetics and botany of sugarcane is carried on here under the auspices of the Ministry of Food and Agriculture, Government of India. The Institute was founded in 1912.

The Institute offers three postgraduate courses viz plant breeding and genetics with special reference to sugarcane (2 years course); Agronomy with special reference to sugarcane (2 years course) and an one year course in sugarcane Breeding. A short course of four month's duration is provided mainly for the use of employees in state Agricultural Departments, Sugarcane Factories, or cane estates. The Madras University recognizes the Institute as a centre for Post-graduate work in botany for the award of higher research degrees. Facilities also exist for honorary research work.

Plants and seeds available at the Government fruit stations and nurseries—

Kallar and Burliar Fruit stations.—Mongosteen seedlings, citrus seedlings
Kallar and Burliar gardens.—Jack grafts, jack seedlings, Avocado plants, Bread fruit rooted cuttings, bread fruit seedlings sapota grafts, Rambutan seedlings, Litchi layers, Guava seedlings, Carambola seedlings, banana suckers, langsat seedlings, kolanut seedlings, queensland nut seedlings, pine-apple suckers, clove seedlings, nutmeg seedlings, cinnamon seedlings, cacao plants, arecanut seedling.

Fruit and Vegetable Nursery, Coimbatore

Mango, grafts of mulgoa and bangana-palle, grafts of peter and amini.

Fruit specialist, Lawley Road post, Coimbatore—

Grafts of sapota varieties, grafts of jack, grafts of annonaceous fruits, layers of guava, grape rooted cuttings, bread fruit rooted cutting (seedless) papaya seedlings. Banana suckers. Gros Michel, Giant Governor, Chakkrakeli, Vamanakeli, Kais Peddapacka Arati, Rasthali, nendran varieties, thenkadali, ney poovan, thenkunnan, kapur, matti, virupakshi, sirumalai, ayiramka rasthali, nendra padathi, pacha nadan, kali, karim kadalai, Anai komban, Etta chingan, Thatilla Kunnan, Pey kunnan, Suganthi, Ney Mannan, Mayil Vazhai, Poovan, Krishna Vazhai, Thiruvananthapuram, Kosta, Bontha, Nalla bontha, Sambrani bonthan, Kuri bontha, Kallu bonthan, Booditha montha bathees, Nalla bontha bathees, Kullan, Manoranjitham, Vennetu Mennan, Chingan, Vannan, Elai Vazhai.

Vegetables— Seedlings of brinjal, tomato, chillies, bendai, amaranthus. Seedlings of cabbage, cauliflower, carrot, knolkol, beetroot, Tomato, snake gourd and bitter gourd, Brinjal, chillies, cowpea, drumstick, pumpkin, ribbed gourd and bhendi, ash gourd, cluster beans and radish.

Soil— The average ground water condition in the District may be stated to be as follows:

Coimbatore Taluk—G. W. L. below 30 feet. Boreholes 100 to 200 feet. G. P. M. 5 to 100

Bhavani Taluk—Good seepages below 40 feet. Boreholes 30 to 80 feet G. P. M. 5 to 20

Gobichettipalayam Taluk—Good seepages between 20 and 200 feet. Boreholes 80 to 200 feet. G. P. M. 5 to 15

Erode Taluk— G. W. L. below 30 feet. G. P. M. 5 to 15

Avanashi Taluk— Good seepages below 45 feet. Average boreholes 90 feet. G. P. M. 5 to 25.

In the Suler firka, the gneissic rocks generally contain more than two sets of water-bearing joints extending down to about 120 feet from the surface. It is found that they are frequently tapped by boreholes from bottoms of the earlier hand-dug well. The well water is mostly soft in regions occupied by gneissic rocks with the exception of parts of Coimbatore where rainfall is poor and the overlying soils contain calcareous tufa at ground water level. In such places water is hard.

Animal Husbandry

The usefulness of the cow as a source of life-giving food element viz milk, and bullocks for agriculture and transport had been fully realised from early days. Farm yard manure has ever been the cheapest form of manure used for revitalising soil for agriculture. In spite of the vigorous efforts by the Department the quality of the cattle throughout India has not been entirely satisfactory when compared with other countries. Indiscriminate breeding, conversion of pasture lands for cultivation purposes, under-nourishment have been the chief causes for the low quality. Many schemes like the Premium scheme, Male stock distribution scheme, District Board scheme have been in vogue in this State for the improvement of cattle. To ensure the pedigree of bulls the village life stock improvement scheme was put into operation by which male stocks of unwanted bulls are castrated and only approved bulls are made serviceable to cows.

For the purpose of administration the District of Coimbatore is divided into two sections - Coimbatore East District and Coimbatore West District-with offices at Coimbatore and Erode. Each section is in charge of a District Veterinary Officer.

Coimbatore East District.— There are three veterinary hospitals, eight veterinary dispensaries, six touring billets, three artificial insemination centres and six First Aid centres in this part of the District.

1. Veterinary hospitals at Erode, Tiruppur and Dharapuram.
2. Veterinary dispensaries - Satyamangalam, Gobichettipalayam, Bhavani, Kavandapady, Chennimalai, Nathakadayur, Malayampalayam, Bungalapudur.
3. Minor veterinary dispensaries-Kodumudi, Perundurai, Andiyur, Punjipuliampatti, Palladam, Kangayam.
4. Artificial Insemination Centres-Erode, Kavandapady and Malayampalayam
5. First Aid Centres-Arachalur, Modakurichi, Mettupalayam, Ekkattampalayam, Kurumandur, Siruvalur.

Breeding bulls of Kangayam and Murrah buffalo breeds are located at Veterinary institutions, at Erode, Tiruppur, Dharapuram, Satyamangalam, Gobichettipalayam, Bhavani, Kavandapady, Malayampalayam, Chennimalai and Bangalapudur in order to improve the local breeds of cattle. Poultry demonstration units attached to the veterinary institutions, at Erode, Tiruppur, Dharapuram Kavandapady and Malayampalayam are functioning well. A stallion is stationed at Veterinary Hospital, at Erode, and Tiruppur.

Coimbatore West District.— There are four veterinary hospitals, six veterinary dispensaries, four minor veterinary dispensaries and one touring billet in this part of the District.

1. Veterinary Hospitals - Coimbatore, Pollachi, Vettaikaranpudur, Uduimalpet.

2. Veterinary dispensaries-Singanallur, Annur, Mettupalayam, Ramachandrapuram, Malayandipatnam, Valparai.
3. Minor veterinary dispensaries-Avanashi, Perianaickenpalayam, Kurichikottai, Negamam.
4. Touring billet at Kinathukadavu.

The Veterinary Assistant Surgeons, in addition to their normal work at minor veterinary dispensaries attend to out-break reports of cattle diseases and inspection of breeding bulls under various livestock improvement schemes. Breeding bulls of Scindhi, Kangayam and Murrah buffalo breeds are located at the veterinary institutions, at Coimbatore, Annur, Udumalpet and Pollachi in order to improve the local breeds of cattle.

There is a Poultry demonstration unit attached to the veterinary hospital, Pollachi functioning satisfactorily. There are two key village centres, one at Cinchona and the other at Malayandipatnam and an artificial insemination centre at the veterinary hospital, Coimbatore to improve the local breeds of cattle by artificial insemination technique. A clinical laboratory has been established at the veterinary hospital, Coimbatore in 1956.

The Kangayam breed known as Kanganad, Konga or Kongani is a superior breed bred up in the southern and south eastern taluks of Coimbatore.

The pure variety found only in a minority is available in the herds maintained by the Pattagar of Palayakottai. These are of moderate size and are powerful as draught cattle. A smaller variety also exists. Ordinarily this breed may be put to the plough for work at 2½ years of age and to the cart at 3½ years. A pair of the pure breed is sufficient to cultivate about 10 acres of land. Feeding of this variety is also very economical.

Under the Key village scheme private institutions are recognized as supplementary agencies for bull production. Key farm centres have been opened in Palayakottai Cattle farm in this district. Bulls required and equipments for artificial insemination are supplied to such individuals or institutions on loan. The farms are worked by Veterinary Surgeons and Livestock Inspectors. Owners of such farms are paid subsidy for the maintenance of bulls. The superior germ plasm developed by the Central and State farms serve to meet the demands of breeders in the Key village areas to improve breeding of progressively superior bulls from year to year.

Sheep and goat development—Under the male distribution scheme pure breeding rams like Bikanir, Nilgiris and Nandya are distributed to the ryots free of cost to improve the woolly sheep and mutton variety. The scheme for carrying on propaganda and demonstration in improved methods of shearing and grading work is done in the centre at Coimbatore.

THE NILGRIS DISTRICT

General features—

The Nilgiris District is formed of three taluks—Ootacamund, Coonoor and Gudalur—covering an area of 920 sq miles with a total population of nearly three and a half lakhs of people. It is bounded by the Coimbatore District on the south-east, east and north-east, by the Mysore State and the Kerala State on the other sides. Mysore border commences from the 45th mile from Ootacamund and Kerala State from the 56th mile.

The Ootacamund taluk is a table land about 6500 feet high on the average and is upheaved where the ranges of the Eastern and Western Ghats meet. The plateau is divided into two by a range of hills running north and south of which Doddabetta is the tallest point 8790 feet high. Ootacamund town which forms the District headquarters is a valley surrounded by four peaks—Snowdown (8299 ft), Club Hill (8030 ft), Elk Hill (8010 ft) and Doddabetta (8790 ft). The Gudalur taluk consists of two distinct tracts—the Outcherlony valley on the east and Wynad, the table land of bamboo forests on the west. The average height of Coonoor Taluk is about 6000 ft.

The Southeast region is drained by the Kundah river. Two streams Avalanche and Emerald rising amidst a group of high peaks Devabetta, Karaikadu, Koulumbetta and Porthimund combine to form the river Kundah. It takes a south easterly course and is joined by the Sillahalla stream near Mandanai. Soon after there is a fall of about 200 feet. It is later joined by streams Kanarhalla, and Pegumbahalla before its confluence with Bhavani. The extreme west of the plateau is drained by the Pykara which rises on the bleak slopes of Mukartha peak, flows north, plunges by two fine falls, changes its name to Moyar and finally joins the Bhavani at the eastern foot of the plateau.

Population— The talukwar population of the district according to the census of 1951 is as follows: Gudalur taluk-45,573; Ootacamund taluk-1,26,084 and Coonoor taluk—1,39,813.

Badagas, Todas and Kottas of the plateau and the chetties, Kurumbas and Panyans of Gudalur taluk are the indigenous tribes of the District. The Badagas who speak a corrupt form of Kanarese have migrated from Mysore during the times of Tippu Sultan. The Panyans of Gudalur taluk are said to have migrated from Malabar. A majority of Badagas are inclined towards cultivation while a few take to trade. Todas are a pastoral people who depend on their cattle for their livelihood. The Chettiers of Gudalur are land owners while the panyans are mostly farm-labourers. Among the Spoken languages, tamil is predominant. Next in importance is Badaga language. Malayalam, Telugu and kanarese are spoken by a minority.

Climate and Rainfall— The climate is most temperate and equitable, the average of Ootacamund being 66.6°. The south-west monsoon prevails from June to August, which time is considered the healthiest and most invigorating period of the year. The north-east monsoon prevails from October to December when the days are clear and nights are frosty. The rainfall varies from 40" to 150" in different parts.

Communication— The Nilgiris rack railway runs between Mettupalayam and Ootacamund, the total length of the railway being 28.96 miles. There are first class roads from Mettupalayam to Ootacamund, Ootacamund to Kozikode and Ootacamund to Mysore via Gudalur. The distances from Ootacamund, the headquarters of the District to important places around are as follows:

Places of Stay-

The District Board maintains traveller's bungalows at Coonoor, Kotagiri, Gudalur, Masinigudi and Kundah bridge besides an inspection lodge at Kollacombai. The Coonoor Municipality maintains a rest house at Ralliah Dam. The Public works Department maintains a traveller's bungalow at Coonoor and two inspection bungalows at Ootacamund.

Fairs and festivals. Weekly shandies of major importance take place at Ootacamund and Coonoor on Tuesdays. Shandies take place on Sundays at Kundah, Naduvattam, Devershola, Barwood, Pandalur, Pykara and Kollacombai which serve the needs of the villages round about the meeting place.

Places of touring interest-

Ootacamund, described as the queen of hill stations, draws a large influx of people from all parts of India during the season when several amusements like the race, flower show, dog show etc are conducted. It abounds in spots of scenic beauty which has earned for it world-wide admiration. The Grassy downs at Wenlock Downs known as National Park, the Stonehouse hill, the Mukerti hill, river and dam, the Ooty lake where pleasure-boating is possible are a few among the places which captivate the interest of tourists.

Government Botanic Gardens

Ootacamund-

The Government Botanic Gardens, Ootacamund started in 1845 and maintained by the Agricultural Department of the Government of Madras since 1920, is under the charge of the Curator. Every visitor to the Nilgiris makes it a point to spend atleast a few hours in the pleasant environs and treasures for ever the sweet memories of the sojourn.

The Government Botanic Gardens, Ootacamund continues for over a century as the finest resort in the east for students especially of botany and horticulture and to the visitors young and old alike. The layout was almost completed during the year 1857--1867. The gardens 51 acres in area lie between 7,260' and 7,600' above mean sea level in a beautiful slope in a nook within the town, which enjoys a warm temperate climate with an average rainfall of about 54 inches, most of which is received during south-west monsoon.

Features- The Gardens can be roughly classified into six major sections and are covered by about 3½ miles foot-paths over all the sections, the distinctive features of which are dealt with below:

I. Lower Lawns.

The entrance is flanked on either side with an array of beds and mixed borders in their foreground and presents a beautiful view of the vast expanse of undulating green lawns of kikiyu grass which is unrivalled for its beauty, vigour and texture by any other grass on the hills. The lower public conservatory which houses collections of foliage plants is situated at the left in the midst of a patch of lawn. The beauty of the lawns has been enhanced by well designed flower beds, rose beds and ponds. The carpet bed design of the new map of the Republic of India is a work which never misses to engage the attention of the visitors for a considerable time. It is in these lower lawns that the Nilgiri Agri-horticultural Society holds in May, the annual flower show which attracts thousands of visitors.

New Gardens- The clock-work bed surrounded by stellate, horse-shoe and circular flower beds, the rockeries and a pond with a mixed border planted in its foreground are in this part of the garden. An aerial view of this section, either from the bandstand or from one of the slopes above, is alluring.

II. The bandstand-

The informal and landscape gardens from the entrance slowly but unexpectedly merge into a formal type of garden with old fashioned beds laid out in an Italian parterre surrounding the centrally situated Octagonal Bandstand. In the foreground is a vast crescent-shaped lily-pond for aquatic plants. The consensus of public opinion is that this is the most attractive colourful part of the gardens other than the public flower conservatory. The well laid-out beds and the carefully thought of planting designs with as many as 50 kinds of annuals and herbaceous perennials in the colour schemes lend beauty to this spot. On the lefthand side of the pond a rosery has been laid out. The grass covered slope below the Bandstand is much enjoyed by children as a natural slippery slide.

III. The Public Flower Conservatory and its surroundings.

The Public flower conservatory, built in 1912 displays the grouping in an attractive manner various gorgeously coloured flowering pot plants throughout the year. It commands a good view of the lower gardens. As one ascends the flight of steps to the public flower conservatory from the Bandstand, through the huge rockery, the National Emblem featured in carpet bedding comes into view. Surrounding the conservatory are formal designs of flower beds and rockeries.

The Bog garden, towards the east of this conservatory, provides the optimum conditions for marsh loving plants in and around the two hour-glass shaped ponds and looks natural in its surroundings.

The grassy slopes surrounding the Conservatory abound in a wealth of bulbous plants blooming in a wild state during one season or another of the year. Several of the valuable arboreal plants which are distinct either for their ornamental or economic importance, are located in these slopes.

IV. Fountain Terrage and picnic grounds.

The terrace, once with a fountain is laid out with symmetrical flower beds and is designed in the shape of a bouquet. The area has two summer houses, one of which commands an aerial view of the Fountain Terrace while the other overlooks the Public Flower Conservatory, the Bog garden and a portion of the Bandstand. The picnic grounds lie on the slope with the Bog garden at its foot and the Toda mund at its top. This has been made ideal for the purpose by planting trees to cast a canopy over that area.

V. The New Bandstand and its surroundings.

The New Bandstand which serves as a summer house is almost at the apex of the valley in which the entire gardens lie. This terrace with symmetrical flower beds overlooks the two ponds, the rockeries and crescent-shaped beds laid out above the fountain terrace.

VI. The Nurseries.

The Nurseries which are about 300' above the lower lawns consist of eight glass houses and a series of terraces for introduction, trial and multiplication of plants. The houses are utilised for growing begonias, ferns, cacti and succulents, orchids, bulbous plants and for providing a continuous supply of pot plants to be grouped periodically in the public conservatories. The terraces are utilised for growing plants for cut flowers and seeds and for trial purposes.

Activities:-

Apart from being a pleasure resort, the Government Botanic Gardens, Ootacamund undertakes to execute orders both local and mofussil for the supply of cut flowers, bouquets, wreaths, cross, button-holes, flower and tree seeds and seedlings, plants and bulbs and specimens for educational purposes. Expert free advice can also be had in the layout planting and maintenance of home gardens.

DODDABETTA, the highest peak is an ideal picnic centre. From its top a panoramic view of Ootacamund, Kotagiri, Coonoor and the plains can be clearly visualised.

PYKARA, about 16 miles from Ootacamund, on the way to Mysore is the place where the major hydro-electric works of the Madras State is situated. An electric tramway takes the visitor from the dam site to the Power-house at Singara.

COONNOOR the second largest town in Nilgiris has a climate milder than that of Ootacamund. The Municipal bus stand and its fine roads make a favourable impression on the tourist. The Lamb's Rock, the Drook, Lady Canning's Seat and the Dolphins are places worth visiting by tourists.

Sims Park-

The Sim's Park at Coonoor right from its inception more than 80 years ago has been a centre of attraction for the residents of Coonoor and Wellington and for the visitors to the hills and is planned and set in an orderly fashion in a central place to be a fine and exhilarating rendezvous.

It was in 1874 that the Park named after Mr. J. D. Sim the then Chief Secretary to Government came into existence. Though originally conceived as a pleasure resort the Park serves the additional functions of a botanical garden. Batches of students of botany and horticulture from the various colleges of the Indian Union come year after year on educational visits. It became and is even now an annexe to the Government Botanic Gardens at Ootacamund for such purposes and this has resulted in the introduction and trial of the various exotic species of rare systematic and economic importance.

The Park is situated in a beautiful basin in Upper Coonoor, two miles to the north of the Railway station and at an elevation of 5800 to 5900 feet above M. S. L. It extends over an area of about 30 acres of an undulating nature and possesses a number of admirable features. All roads from Ootacamund, Kotagiri and Lower Coonoor converge towards this place and thus it is within easy reach of all.

The Park enjoys a pleasant warm temperate climate, and an annual rainfall of about 60 inches, the bulk of which is received during the north-east monsoon period.

Many indigenous and exotic trees and shrubs, mostly for ornamental effects are planted from time to time. The park has well laid out paths with grass lawns in between and the various ornamental trees and shrubs decorate these lawns and grass slopes. The park incorporates features such as terrace gardening suited to the hills, topiary work, fountain, rosery, flower beds planted to suitable annuals and perennials, rockeries and lower down a beautiful pond. The Islands inside the pond, bridges to cross the small stream joining the park, summer houses and tennis court on one side of the pond, the impressive display of camellias, hydrangeas, azaleas and roses in various groups, the adjoining wild garden with striking tree ferns (Alsophila spp.) and the giant eucalyptus trees, distributed here and there along with other trees and shrubs are some of the other attractions of the park.

The Pasteur Institute of Southern India, Coonoor

The Association of the Pasteur Institute of Southern India which was founded in 1906 is a private body registered under the Societies Act 1860. The income of the Association is derived partly from voluntary contributions, partly from endowments and partly from revenue accruing from the sale of vaccines. The affairs of the Association are governed by a Central Committee which is composed partly of ex-officio and partly of elected members. Every person who subscribes not less than Rs. 5 annually to the funds of the Institute is entitled to membership of the Association provided that he shall have been accepted as a member by the Central Committee. Every member is entitled to attend and take part in all meetings of the Association, to receive free copies of the reports and other publications of the Association and in the event of his requiring it, to receive free treatment by inoculation against rabies or against any other disease in so far as the Association may be in a position to provide such treatment.

The objects of the Association are to make available effective means of preventing the occurrence of rabies, to spread the knowledge of such means among the public, and to undertake research work on rabies or any other disease in so far as the funds of the Association permit and the staff of the Institute is qualified to undertake such investigations.

The Institute is situated at Coonoor in the Nilgiri District of the Madras State and since its inception in 1907, it has served the needs of the Madras and the other States of South India, all of which are represented on the Central Committee. In recent years the Association has gradually undertaken more and more work of a general laboratory nature in response to the demands for the service of a first class general medical laboratory in this part of India. The enormous numbers of patients who have been treated with vaccine prepared at this Institute and the numerous papers of scientific interest and importance which have been published during the past forty-nine years indicate the important part which the Institute has played in medical and health work in South India.

The Pasteur Institute at Coonoor was for many years the only place where patients might receive antirabic treatment. In 1922, a few subsidiary Treatment Centres were opened as an experiment on the decentralisation of antirabic treatment. This step was made possible owing to improved means of preparing and preserving the vaccine, and the results obtained were so successful that a policy of further decentralisation has been pursued with caution up to the present time. Large numbers of hospitals, dispensaries and registered medical practitioners now receive their supplies of antirabic vaccine from this Institute.

The Government of India has established an Influenza Centre at the Institute since 1950. Its function is to study the incidence of influenza in the area, to isolate the viruses concerned and to co-operate with the World Influenza Centre, London, in a comparative study of the nature of the viruses.

Nutrition Research Laboratories, Coonoor

The Nutrition Research Laboratories were established in the year 1929 with Sir Robert McCarrison as its first Director. McCarrison's researches in the field of nutrition provided a sound basis for the development of nutrition researches in India. His researches were mainly directed to the elucidation of the effects of defective diets on animal organism and their influence on the structure and function of the Nutrition Research Laboratories was very broadly based to cover the following:

- (a) The investigation of the fundamental science of Nutrition and applied Nutrition.
- (b) The study of the agricultural aspects of nutrition.
- (c) The determination of the food values of various food materials in general use in India.
- (d) Investigations designed to make good the deficiencies of vegetable oils when these are used as substitutes for butter.
- (e) The study of the effects of faulty foods, in their infinite variety of combination, on the animal organism as a whole and on certain organs and tissues of the body in particular.
- (f) The experimental production, and the determination of the cause of specific diseases: pernicious anaemia, epidemic dropsy, scurvy-oedema, beriberi, new growths in the stomach, gastro-intestinal diseases, stone in the bladder and its sequelae.

Dr. W. R. Aykroyd succeeded McCarrison in 1935, and he was in charge till he retired in 1945. Clinical and public health nutrition were the two major aspects which attracted his attention. It was during his period that the dietary habits of the people in various parts of the country and the incidence of nutritional disorders related to faulty diets received greater attention. A large amount of work on the nutritive value of common Indian foods was carried out between 1935 and 1937, the results of which were published in the form of Health Bulletin No. 23 which has become a valuable guide for the assessment of the nutritive value of Indian foods and the planning of satisfactory diets.

Dr. V. N. Patwardhan succeeded Dr. Aykroyd in the year 1946. Since then a considerable expansion of the activities of the Laboratories has occurred. The problems which are engaging the attention of the various departments of the Laboratories include: Studies on vitamins, proteins, fats, rice, diet and fertility, field investigations and clinical investigations.

One of the most important problems which has been under investigation for the last five years is that of Protein Malnutrition in infants and children. Studies at Coonoor are directed to obtain a better understanding of the aetiological factors, the various clinical and biochemical features and response to treatment in this condition. Protein malnutrition known the world over as Kwashiorkor, affects primarily infants in the postweaning period and young children who are more susceptible to malnutrition than adults. Investigations are in progress to study the methods of utilising proteins from indigenous protein rich foods for the prevention of protein malnutrition. A considerable advance in this direction has already been made and easily assimilable protein rich food utilising locally available foods, rich in protein is being perfected in the Laboratories.

The experimental production of deficiency diseases in laboratory animals to promote a better understanding of similar conditions in humans, studies on the mode of action of vitamins and their inter-relationship, energy requirements of people engaged in various occupations, etc., are a few other problems which can be mentioned in this brief note.

Adequate facilities are also available at the Laboratories for the training of young workers in nutrition and allied sciences. Several universities in India have recognised the institution as a postgraduate training centre, a facility which has benefited many young workers. Short Courses in nutrition are held annually. The advice of the institution is sought on numerous occasions by various local bodies, the State and Central Governments, on matters pertaining to nutrition.

A wing for dissemination among the lay people of the results of researches carried out by the Laboratories is being organised. It is felt that in the near future this educational wing of the Laboratories will be found to be of immense benefit to the general public, giving them correct information on nutrition and diet.

The Laboratories are being financed by the Indian Council of Medical Research, an autonomous body, under the Ministry of Health, Government of India.

KOTAGIRI, the oldest hill station of the Nilgiris does not experience the virulence of the South West monsoon and is considered an ideal hill resort. It is 14 miles from Coonoor and 18 miles from Ooty by Road.

WELLINGTON is a military station where a military staff college and regimental centre are located. It is two miles from Coonoor enroute Ootacamund.

GUDALUR is the place where the wild life sanctuary is established. At the Mudumalai Wild Life Sanctuary, facilities are provided by the Forest Department for tourists to have a view of wild animals in the forest on an elephant ride.

Hydro-electric schemes The Pykara, Mettur and Papanasam Hydro-electric schemes were the first three power schemes of the Madras State that came into commission in 1932, 1936 and 1944 respectively. In the matter of generating power the Nilgiris District has attained major importance and with the completion of Kundah Scheme, it can be properly said that the District will rank first in the Madras State in the matter of power supply.

Pykara Hydro-electric scheme The source of water power for the scheme is the river Pykara. The Pykara dam is 615 feet long and 118 feet high. The storage capacity of the reservoir is 20000 lakhs of cubic foot. The Mukarti dam is 530 feet long and 84 feet high. The storage capacity of this reservoir is 18000 lakhs of cubic foot. The gross head is 3080 feet. The scheme was completed in three stages at a total capital cost of Rs. 1550.55 lakhs. The total installed capacity is 70,200 K. W. or 94200 H. P. and the number of units generated is 355.35 millions.

Moyar Hydro-electric Scheme This is included in the third stage of completion of the Pykara scheme. The tail race waters of the Pykara river supplemented by streams are utilised for generation of power at Moyar valley which is about ten miles from Pykara Power House and 26 miles from Ootacamund by road. The regulating reservoir at Maravakandi has a capacity of 280 lakhs of cubic feet. This scheme was completed in 1953 at a cost of Rs. 342 lakhs of capital outlay. The grosshead is 1300 feet. The total installed capacity is 54000 H. P. or 36000 K. W. and the number of units generated is 151.72 millions.

Kundah Hydro-electric Scheme This is the biggest scheme undertaken by the State Electricity Department inaugurated on 29th June 1956. The sources of water power for the scheme are the rivers Kundah and Bhavani.

The scheme envisages development of the Kundah and the adjoining basins in four stages. The first two stages estimated to cost Rs. 26 crores initially rising to 35.44 crores are expected to add an installed capacity of 145000 K. W. initially, rising to 180,000 K. W. ultimately to the State grid. A sum of Rs. 23 crores has been provided for the scheme in the second five year plan and the Canadian Government have offered machinery equipment to the tune of 20 million dollars under the Colombo plan.

Two dams, 200 feet in height, are proposed to be built across the Avalanche and the Emerald rivers. Their lengths at top will be 1200 feet and 1060 feet respectively. The net total capacity of the above two reservoirs will be 5400 Million cubic feet. A third dam known as the Forebay dam, 94 feet in height and 490 feet in length at top is to be constructed near Kundapalayam. The capacity of this reservoir will be 3047 million cubic feet. The total length of the three tunnels will be 35032 feet. Two power stations-one on the right bank of Kundah river at Kundapalam and the other on the left bank of Pegumbuhalla stream-with an installed capacity of 40000 K. W. and 14000 K. W. are proposed to be constructed and put into operation by 1960.

Agriculture- The main occupation of the people is agriculture. Potato, wheat, ragi, samai and vegetables are cultivated in the plateau. Paddy, ragi, pepper and tapioca are the chief crops grown in Gudalur taluk. Potatoes and vegetables are grown by small land owners. Coffee and tea plantations abound in the district.

Animal Husbandry- The department functions on two lines-Veterinary and Live stock. Safe-guarding the cattle wealth from diseases such as Rinderpest, Anthrax, Surra, Haemorrhagic Septicaemia and black quarter is given utmost attention. A quarantine station is opened at Theppakade village of Gudalur taluk which is the key way of cattle route from Mysore State to this district and the cattle are protected against Rinderpest by inoculation with the Free dried Rinderpest disease vaccine. Villages Kaguchi and Bullikombai are declared as endemic area for Anthrax for which Anthrax Spore Vaccine is used for protection. Spread of other diseases like Heomragic Septicaemia and Black quarter is arrested by preventive inoculation.

Two veterinary Hospitals at Ooty and Coonoor and one Veterinary dispensary at Gudalur, one minor Veterinary Dispensary at Kotagiri and five first aid centres at Thumanatty, Davani, Nanjanad, Prospect, Masanagudi and Pandalur function in this district mainly for the treatment of noncontagious diseases. In addition the Veterinary Assistant Surgeon treats noncontagious cases while on camp.

Livestock- Good and pedigreed breeding bulls under Government Livestock Distribution Scheme, cross breeding bulls of Milch type under the premium Scheme, Scindhi bulls under the District Board Scheme and National Extension Service Scheme-have been distributed to the public and stationed at various places to upgrade the local breed to a good milch breed. For improving the Nilgiri buffaloes, Jafferbadi buffaloes are distributed to Todas and one Murrah buffalo breeding bull is supplied under the Government Livestock Distribution Scheme. Through the 'Cross Breeding Scheme' partly financed by the State Government and partly by the Indian Council of Agricultural Research, New Delhi, pure Jersey semen is made available for improvement of local breed of cattle by artificial insemination. The scheme is popularised by enforcement of the provisions of the Madras Cattle Disease Act 1866 at the following places-Tuneri, Ootacamund (urban and rural) revenue firkas, Balacola and Ithalan villages of Kundah revenue firkas of Ootacamund taluk and Ketty revenue village of Coonoor taluk of the Nilgiris District. All scrub bulls are castrated.

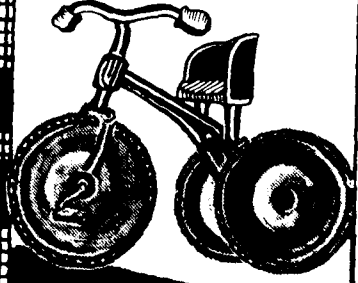

One sheep farm is functioning under the control of this Department at Dunsandle in an area of 600 acres with a stock of about 600 Nilgiri rams. Cross breeding is studied by introducing the Ramany Marsh sheep imported from Australia with the local Nilgiri sheep. Good bucks produced at the farm are distributed to the public for upgrading their sheep under Government Livestock Distribution Scheme and National Extension Service Scheme. The sheep of private owners are dewormed twice a year and the public are taught the economic way of shearing and producing more wool. One Wool Analysis Laboratory is also functioning in this District with a Veterinary Assistant Surgeon in charge who studies the quality of the wool and puts efforts to improve the quality of the wool further, by changing the mentriture and by selectional breeding.

Pedigreed cockrels are supplied to poultry breeders for improving desi birds. Periodical ranikhet disease vaccination is also done.

PLANTATION AND INDUSTRY

Plantation- Plantation in India owes a deep debt of gratitude to British endeavours for their organised attempts to set the industry on strong foundations. The industry has provided employment for nearly five lakhs of workers in the South and the production in South India during 1957 has been to the extent of 130 million lbs of tea, 30,000 tons of coffee, 21,000 tons of rubber and 1200 tons of cardamom. The Anamallais of Coimbatore District and the Nilgiris abound in estates producing tea and coffee and other minor products of plantation. Details of estates are given in the adjoining statement

Tea- The first experiments of tea plantation in Nilgiris was carried out in 1832 by Dr. Christie, a surgeon of the Madras Establishment. He died the same year but tea plants given by him to the commandment of Ooty exhibited a luxuriant growth. Till 1852 the improvement was negligible. As the demand for Assam tea began to assume a favourable turn in foreign markets in 1852, planting on a commercial scale was then contemplated in the Nilgiris. The development was however marked only after 1893.

Tea has earned the first place amongst agricultural crops in the matter of strengthening national economy by way of employment of labour and by way of earning foreign exchange by export of more than two-thirds of the production to places outside India. The present production of tea in India is about 675 million lbs in a year of which South India contributes more than one-fifth and the total export of Indian tea is to the extent of 450 million lbs.

Coffee. Planting Industry in South India commenced with coffee. It is said that a muslim pilgrim from Mecca planted seven seeds in the vicinity of Chikmagalur in 1600. Coffee estates are mostly situated in the hilly regions of Mysore, Coorg, Madras and Kerala in South India, the main species grown being coffee Arabica and coffee Robusta. The commencement of coffee plantation in Nilgiris was in 1840 when Messrs Lescelles and Pope on the Nilgiris obtained plants from Dr. Magrath, the Presidency surgeon at Mysore. The Hardathorai estate at Kotagiri was then commenced. About the same time Mr M. D. Cocburn started the Balakardar Estate on the Kotagiri ghat. A little later Bounhuti, popularly known as Hulical, was also commenced. Since then there has been gradual increase in the number of estates. What served as an impetus to the industry had been evidently diminution in world production of coffee and increase in consumption. The increase in yield and acreage has been phenomenal during the past ten years. In 1951-52 the yield was 21,235 tons where as it was 42,000 tons in 1956-57, the contribution of South India being 30,000 tons in 1956-57.

The method of controlled marketing of coffee and the benefit of a substantial internal market had been advantageous to the growth of the Industry in the past. At present, when production is exceeding targets it is hoped that by 1962 the Country would be in a position to export 20,000 tons of coffee every year after meeting the internal demands. The problem today is therefore to find out ways of increasing consumption in North India and exploring possibilities of export to places outside India.

Rubber, cardamom and Cinchona plantations exist in Anamallais and Nilgiris. It is proposed to concentrate Cinchona plantations on the Anamallais and switch over plantations in the Nilgiris and quinine factory at Naduvattam to other profitable purposes.

Textile Industry-

India is the second largest cotton growing country in the world. The textile industry is today one among the best organised industries of the Country. Next to tea and Jute, textile industry is important in the matter of earning foreign exchange. Indian textiles are exported to England, Aden, Burma, Ceylon, Singapore, Nigeria, Kenya Tanganyika, Sudan, Australia, Pakistan and Indonesia.

During the second plan period a per capita consumption of 18.5 yards is proposed to be reached against the target of 16 yards reached at the end of the first plan period. The production of cloth at the end of the second plan period is expected to be 8400 million yards annually - 5350 million yards of mill-made cloth and 3050 million yards of handloom and powerloom cloth.

Mills-

The first mill started in India was in 1818. Mills of South India are of much recent growth. The first mill to be established in Coimbatore was the Coimbatore Spinning and Weaving Co. Limited in 1888. In 1930 there were seven mills in and around Coimbatore. [These mills were depending on steam power in the initial stages and were so till about 1933 when Pykara Hydro Electric Power was made available at cheap rates] which gave a fillip to the industry. The moderate tropical climate of Coimbatore, suited for spinning yarn and weaving textiles, suitability of soil for growing cotton, plentiful supply of labour from the surrounding villages, easy transport facilities and the advent of the Pykara Electric power contributed to the commencement of several mills in this district. Till 1939 improvement had been gradual.

The second world war opened a new era in the life of the industry. Since then the industry has been prosperous. After cessation of war difficulties have cropped up in maintaining the export trade as several agricultural countries had taken to textile manufacture themselves.

Today export of mill cloth is facing a downward trend due to the higher cost of production of yarn and cloth in India. While in India a labourer looks after 280 spindles, a labourer is put in charge of 800 spindles in England and 1200 spindles in America. Similar disparity exists in the manufacture of cloth also. This can to a certain extent be circumvented by installing automatic looms; but the progress has not been satisfactory in this direction due to the foreign exchange position and the need for obtaining import of looms on deferred payment basis.

Powerlooms (plain), automatic looms, dobbies and drop boxes are manufactured by the Central India Machinery Manufacturing Company Limited, commonly known as the Cimmco Ltd., Birlanagar, Gwalior in their workshop considered one among the finest in India. They have also entered into collaboration with the Weco Company of Thann (France) to manufacture preparatory and ancillary equipment for textile fabric manufacture thus offering to the textile industry the 'Texweco' High Speed Winding Machine, Warping machine and the Vacuum Card Stripper for cotton carding machine.

To solve the problem of adequate supply of yarn to weavers, small spinning units were introduced. 'Kisan Charka' was the first stage and Amber Charka was a later improvement. Now the textool charka is considered more economic and advantageous than the other types. Textiles are processed by the United Bleachers at Mettupalayam and Venkatesa Bleaching and Dyeing Factory at Madathukulam.

Handlooms. Evidence from ancient Tamil classics is proof of the glorious past of the handloom industry. Coloured cloth of handspun yarn was exported to far off countries like Rome in remote years. From time to time the industry had to face several reverses; but what has sustained it, has been the skill of the weavers—change of patterns and the durability of handloom cloth when compared to powerloom and mill made cloth. Five lakhs of families are today dependent on this industry in Madras State. A sum of Rs. two hundred crores has been earmarked for the growth of small scale industries, of which Rs. 70 crores are proposed to be spent for the upkeep of this industry. Out of this the quota for Madras State would be Rs. 22 crores.

The total number of looms in the Coimbatore District is about 50,000. 22,270 looms are covered by 110 weavers' co-operative societies. Efforts are made to bring more looms under the co-operative fold to enable the weavers to enjoy the benefits accruing therefrom. A factory is also proposed to be started at Madras for the manufacture of better type of implements to help the weavers. Sarees, dhoties, towels, angavasthras, urumals, petas, bedsheets and plain pieces are manufactured in Coimbatore district, the main centres of manufacture being Coimbatore, Tirupur, Erode, Dharapuram, Bhavani, Avanashi, Chennimalai and adjoining villages.

Carpets manufactured at Bhavani bear ample testimony to the deftness of the weavers and their keen intellect in producing exquisitely beautiful patterns, both attractive and durable.

Khadi production is a valuable contribution to the Country's economy. The headquarters of the All India Spinners' Association, Tamilnad branch and the headquarters of the State Government's Khadi centre are at Tirupur.

Several hand dyeing, printing and bleaching factories and machine printing factories have established themselves in this district. It may be mentioned here that mineral khaki dyeing is also undertaken by Sri Venkatesa Colour Works, Tirupur who are approved dyers for Madras State Government and the Madras State Handloom Weavers' Co-operative Society.

Handloom fabrics manufactured in this district find market throughout India, Malaya, Singapore and Ceylon. American fabric experts have expressed the view that the United States is a potential market for quality handloom fabrics.

Knitting Factories—

Though of recent origin in this district the industry has progressed steadily during the past two decades. Madura, Salem, Karur and Tirupur are the main hosiery producing centres in Madras State. Now the industry has taken firm roots at Tirupur with nearly three hundred manufacturing concerns. This may be said to be partly due to the fact that Tirupur is a cotton growing and marketing centre and the existence of textile mills in large numbers in this district has been helpful to this industry also. It is a notable feature that the machinery employed for the manufacture of hosiery is mostly Indian-made though a few Japan-made machines also are installed. The capital investment for this industry exceeds Rs. 25 lakhs providing employment to about 3,000 workers.

Banians (ordinary and interlock), underwears, and other hosiery goods manufactured at Tirupur are widely in demand throughout the Country and they also find an export market in South Africa, Pakistan, Ceylon, Malaya and other places outside India.

Tanning Industry— There are about forty-five tanneries situated at Coimbatore, Erode, Podanur and Dharapuram. About 10.75 lakhs of pieces of cow hides, 1.96 lakhs of pieces of buff-hides, 3.66 lakhs of goat skins and 9.30 lakhs of sheep skins are produced annually in this district. Erode goat skins are famous for manufacture of tanned skins and glaze-kid leathers. Leathers of the red hairy sheep are useful for manufacture of rollerskins and special varieties in leathers. Tanners of this district export goods to countries throughout the world.

Engineering Institutions— (Machinery and Spares manufacture.) Next in importance to the textile industry, Coimbatore has developed as an engineering centre with great potentialities. Manufacture of goods by the engineering institutions covers the complete range of textile machinery, machine tools, and small tools, internal combustion engines, electric motors, starters and switches, power driven pumps, agricultural machinery and implements. Nearly 10000 workers are employed in engineering institutions of the two districts and scope for further improvement exists if supplies of pig iron, coke, ball and roller bearings and M. S. materials are made available to the necessary extent. It is also considered that it may be advantageous to form industrial estates near Coimbatore units. With the growth of industries, the need for establishing a proper industrial research centre with facilities for analysing and testing materials is also keenly felt.

P. S. G. & Sons Charity Industrial Institute— A trust known as 'P. S. Govindaswamy Naidu and Sons Charities' was founded in 1926 by Sri P. S. G. Venkataswamy Naidu, P. S. G. Rangaswamy Naidu, P. S. G. Ganga Naidu and P. S. G. Narayanaswamy Naidu-sons of Late P. S. Govindaswamy Naidu, of whom the first mentioned is the only surviving member. The object of the Charities was to develop engineering industry and promote industrial education. The P. S. G. and Sons' Charity Industrial Institute popularly known as the P. S. G. Institute and several educational institutions including the P. S. G. Arts College and P. S. G. College of Technology are managed by the Charity Trust. Sri G. R. Damodaran, B. Sc. (Elec). B. Sc. Mech (Durham), M. I. E. E (London), M. I. E., M. L. C. is the director of the Institute and Principal of the P. S. G. College of Technology. Sri G. R. Govindarajulu Naidu is the Managing Trustee and correspondent of the P. S. G. and Sons Charities.

Agricultural, industrial, electrical and textile engineering products are manufactured by the Institute, which is one among the major industrial concerns of this Country.

Textool Company Ltd.—

It was founded in 1944 with the object of manufacturing the complete range of textile machinery. The first ring spinning frame was produced in 1947. In 1950 the revolving flat carding engines, drawing and flying frames were manufactured. Today the institution is in a position to offer a complete unit of cotton spinning plant.

The factory is located at Ganapathy about three miles north of Coimbatore with a big mechanical workshop equipped with modern machinery. A research department is maintained with a view to advance knowledge and evolve new and improved machinery. The textool Charka, the latest improvement on the small spinning unit is considered an achievement and is much appreciated. Sri D. Balasundaram is the Managing Director.

Carbon Paper, Ink Manufacture— Carbonink Products, Podanur.

This factory is run under the guidance of Mr. G. D. Naidu.

Brass Utensils Manufacture-

For five decades and more Anupapalayam near Tirupur has been a chief centre for manufacture of brass and copper articles. About thousand families are dependent on this industry. The monthly production of utensils is valued at over Rs. two lakhs. Brass and copper sheets purchased wholesale by merchants at Tirupur are issued to workers on piece work basis for manufacture of several articles for domestic use. For the continuous availability of brass and copper sheets at reasonable prices, it is considered that the establishment of a rolling mill at this centre will prove useful to merchants and workers.

Button Factories-

In 1950 factories manufacturing buttons from nuts were mostly located in Amritsar and Coimbatore. Later factories were commenced at Calcutta and other places. Nut buttons produced by factories in Coimbatore have been in constant demand due to the fine quality of their manufacture. The introduction of cheap and durable plastic buttons took the place of nut buttons. This factor coupled with the high cost of labour involved in the manufacture of nut buttons have forced the pioneers of the industry to concentrate more on manufacture of plastic buttons with the help of semi-automatic machinery requiring less of manual labour.

Jewellery-

Coimbatore is today considered as the fashion creating centre in the manufacture of gold jewels. Artisans from several places have settled at Coimbatore and as a consequence varieties to suit the taste of different places in India are manufactured here. It is estimated that this industry provides work for about two thousand goldsmiths throughout the district.

Indo-Swiss Synthetic Gem Manufacturing Factory, Mettupalayam-

The factory, first of its kind in India was declared open by Mr. Manubhai M. Shah, Union Minister for heavy industries on the 20th December 1956. Capital investment is Rs. twentytwo lakhs and the maximum capacity of the factory 40 Kilos a day. Raw material necessary for the manufacture of synthetic gem stones are available in this Country. It is considered that the entire needs of India in the matter of gem stones could be met by this factory. It would thus be helpful to thousands of artisans also engaged in cutting, shaping and facetting gem stones on cottage industry basis.

Gramophone Needle Manufacture-Needle Industries (India) Private Limited, Ketti Post, Nilgiris-

The Company was established in 1949 at Ooty as a branch of the United Kingdom Company-Needle Industries Limited. Progress made by the parent company through their research organisation is communicated to this factory by frequent visits of their technical staff who train the local labour adequately to keep in line with the development achieved by the organisation and its many branches in other countries. The full range of loud tone, extra loud tone, pick-up, long play and golden long play needles are manufactured by this factory.

Glassware Manufacture-India Silicate Industries Limited, Mettupalayam-

The only factory in this district manufacturing chimneys, tumblers and bottles is situated at Mettupalayam. It is learnt that there is a future programme to manufacture low tension insulators also in this factory.

Cement-

Manufacture of cement in Madras State commenced in 1904, was then a partial success. A decade thereafter encouraging results were obtained at Porbandar in 1913. Many companies came into being during the period 1919-1925. To avoid unhealthy competition the Indian Cement Manufacturer's Association was formed in 1926. The Cement Marketing Company of India Limited was established in 1930 to build up the distribution and sales side of its member institutions in an organised manner. However, it was felt that amalgamation of the several manufacturing units will appreciably reduce manufacturing cost and increase production. Thus the Associated Cement Companies Limited came into being in 1936.

Twentyeight factories produce cement today in India employing about 35,000 people. Capital invested is to the tune of Rs. forty crores, of which Rs. fifteen crores and Rs. seven crores denote the investments of the Associated Cement Company Limited and the Dalmia group respectively. The balance of Rs. eighteen crores is the capital of other units functioning in the country inclusive of Government sponsored institutions. Total production of cement in 1956 was 4,928.4 thousand tons. An additional annual production of 5.6 million tons is contemplated by locating more manufacturing units throughout the Country, to keep pace with the accelerating demand for cement.

The Madukkarai Cement Works established in 1934 commenced with a production of 60000 tons annually in the early stages. The production has been increased to about three lakhs of tons. About two thousand workers are employed in the factory.

Ghee Industry-

Milk is a wholesome food available to mankind for proper maintenance of health. The fat contents of milk is preserved in the form of ghee which has a higher keeping quality than milk. To ensure purity of ghee, the Ag Mark was introduced by which system grading of ghee was done under governmental control according to standards of declared specifications. Just like the link between the master weaver and the ordinary weaver, manufacturers of ghee maintain contact with villagers from whom butter is collected, through authorised agents, for their requirements. Ghee produced in this district finds market mostly throughout India and Ceylon. It is however felt that this industry needs more fostering care standards of manufacture.

General-

The industrial potentiality of Coimbatore and Nilgiris is on the forward march. In conformity with the policy of the Government to accept foreign aid by way of capital and technical assistance, several proposals are under scrutiny. It may be of advantage to mention here about industries likely to be established in the near future.

Amaravathy Co-operative Sugar Factory. A 800 ton capacity plant is proposed to be installed and the scheme is to cost Rs. 80 to 90 lakhs. Government contribution is likely to be Rs. 60 to Rs. 70 lakhs and the balance is to be offered to the public in the form of shares.

Baby food Manufacture- The possibility of establishing a baby food factory at Ooty with Danish assistance regarding machinery is under scrutiny. The scheme is to cost Rs. twenty lakhs.

Paper Making Industry- As a result of investigations it has been found out that there are about 2700 acres of wattle plantation in Nilgiris. An addition of 12 300 15000 acres would yield 30000 tons of dry wattle wood suitable for making paper. Wattle may be used to produce rayon pulp.

Erection of a factory at Bhavanisagar to produce ordinary writing paper making use of bamboo pulp is also under consideration.

Rayon-cum-staple fibre plant. A plant is proposed to be installed at Coimbatore with the assistance of the firm of Italviscosa Eastern Trading of Milan and the Italian Government who have offered to give a long term loan to the extent of 80% of the capital requirements. The scheme is to cost Rs. seven crores. The capacity of the plant will be 10 tons of rayon and 10 tons of staple fibre a day.

Raw Film Manufacturing Factory- The possibility of locating a factory for manufacture of raw film near Ooty in Wenlock Downs is under scrutiny.

In general, plantations and industries in Coimbatore and Nilgiris districts are worked up on ideal conditions. There have also been successful attempts on farming on industrial basis, paving the way for the much desired coordination and contentment of workers on a par with those employed in industries.

Mr. Narottam, leader of the Ahmedabad productivity team on a recent visit to Coimbatore expressed: "We must really congratulate industrialists in the South for their foresightedness in expanding the textile industry to the present level thus enabling the private sector to contribute significantly to the Country's economy."

As a typical example may be mentioned The Coimbatore Pioneer Mills Ltd. established in 1935 with a capital of five lakhs. In 1947 the share capital was increased to Rs twentyfive lakhs. The present capacity of the mill is 27,226 spindles with two doubling frames. Three diesel power generators are installed to augment power supply at times of power scarcity. Machines are painted in agreeable colours and the inside of the mills rendered congenial with adequate provision for lighting and ventilation. Humidity conditions are maintained to the requisite standards. Laboratory tests are carried out everyday to maintain quality of manufacture.

For labour welfare, an industrial canteen is run by the Mills where food, refreshments, tea and coffee are served at cost price. Good drinking water is supplied through taps fixed near to departments. Perfect sanitary conveniences and rest sheds, medical care and maternity benefit, creche for children, facilities for sports, games, physical exercises, reading room and library are provided. Articles of daily requirement are sold through co-operative stores on credit subject to adjustment from pay emoluments. Provident fund scheme and Employees' State Insurance scheme are in vogue. Liberal bonus is paid and help extended for free education of children of workers in deserving cases. A Works Committee is constituted with twenty members to promote measures for securing and preserving amity and good relationship between the employer and workmen.

Out of the profits earned a 'B' mill has been constructed at Periyanaickenpalayam at a capital cost of Rs. thirtysix lakhs with all modern conveniences.

P. S. G. R. Sons' Estate, Vedapatti is a farm spread over an area of 285 acres run on industrial basis. "This model farm has shown how large scale cultivation on scientific lines can be successful and at the same time profitable" is the opinion expressed by Mr. A. B. Shetty, (then) Minister for Agriculture, Madras on a visit to the farm. Out of 285 acres, 49 acres are irrigated by Chitrachavady channel for six months in a year. Garden lands, which form the rest, are irrigated by 6 wells. Water is pumped from wells with the aid of centrifugal pumps attached to electric motors stored in high level tanks and distributed by syphon system. Fifteen cisterns are connected by concrete pipes in such a way that water can be tapped from one source to another. Tractors, bund farmers, levellers, chaff cutters, seed drills, harvesting machines, thrashing machines and modern contrivances are employed for agricultural operations while working animals are used for ploughing and transport of manure, green leaves, tank and silt.

The staff employed are 4 clerks, 5 maistries, 1 electrician and 2 drivers. Fiftyfive permanent male labourers are given free quarters. Others are employed on casual basis according to seasonal requirements. A basic school and a dispensary adjoining the farm are maintained by the P. S. G. & Sons charities.

A textile spinning Mill, the Pioneer Textiles with 10,000 spindles is run in the rural setting of the estate with a view to remove the disparity between agricultural and industrial labour.

South India Textile Research Association, Coimbatore- (SITRA)

SITRA is five miles from Coimbatore on the Avanashi Road. The late Dr. R. K. Shanmukham Chetty, largely responsible for the formation of the Association in 1951, was the first Chairman of the Council of Administration. After him, the Chairmanship of the Council is held by Sri G. K. Devarajulu. The capital and recurring expenditure for the functioning of the institution is met by the textile mills in South including Madras, Andhra, Mysore and Kerala States and the Government, through the Cotton Textiles Fund Committee.

The purpose was to establish an Industrial Research Laboratory for conducting research into the problems of the textile industry for the Southern Region. The first stage involving an expenditure of about Rs twenty lakhs included the erection of a suitable building and equip it with necessary machinery to concentrate on research dealing with fibre technology and yarn. The foundation stone for the building was laid by Prime Minister Nehru on December 25, 1955, and the building opened by Dr. S. Radhakrishnan, Vice-President, Indian Union in October 1958.

In the matter of planning and working out technical details of the scheme useful service is rendered by Sri K. Srinivasan, Honorary Director. A section for training supervisors employed in the industry is now functioning.

The second stage is expected to cost an additional sum of Rs. twenty lakhs. The Institution is expected to be greatly helpful in solving the day to day problems of individual units by application of scientific principles and methods, to advise the industry on new processes and better utilisation of machinery and also engage itself in work designed to help the handloom industry.

The United Planters' Association of Southern India, Coonoor (U. P. A. S. I.)

The Planters' conference held in 1893 at Bangalore led to the formation of the U. P. A. S. I. in 1893. In 1917 the South Indian Association was constituted in London for maintaining external relations with the United Kingdom. The U. P. A. S. I. became a member of the Employers' Federation of South India in 1923. In 1925 a tea experiment station was started by contribution amongst members & with the aid Government. It was only in 1933 that the Association acquired its own premises at Coonoor where it has been functioning since then. The same year a committee was formed to improve business relationship between India and England. The usefulness of the Association to its members was immense during the second world war, when it recommended applications for allocation of iron and steel, machinery imports, lease lend lorries and cement and assisted them in obtaining supplies of estate requirements like quinine, vegetable seeds etc. Jubilee was celebrated in 1943. In 1946 the tea industry faced a serious menace due to Blister Blight, and the tea scientific department came to rescue in time by working out saving measures. This led to the conducting of an exhibition in 1947 for the first time, mainly intended for affording opportunity to planters to see types of plant protection equipments and materials. Since 1947 exhibition is held annually, in which all leading manufacturers participate.

Hans Vihar, Pykara - (Nilgiris)

A place of natural beauty, a peaceful spot on earth - The HANS VIHAR lies on the bank of river Pykara near Pykara dam on the way to Glenmorgan. The Ashram was founded by Shri HANS DEV AVADOOOTH, a living Sadhu of Bharathiya sagehood. Aged 120, the Swami has a very big following throughout India. In his presence, one gets a glimpse of what the human soul can aspire to reach in a life time. Many foreign dignitaries and several spiritually minded citizen of India derive inspiration by visiting the Ashram at Nilgiris and other Ashrams founded by the Swami at Bihar, Surat and Broach.
