I

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Order made by the President of the Madras Legislative Council under Standing Order No. 15 on the 4th December 1924.]

1. Starred questions to be put at a meeting of the Council with their answers shall be printed and placed on the Council table an hour before the President takes his seat.

The Secretary shall call out the name of each interpellator in the order in which the names are printed, specify the serial number of his question and make a sufficient pause to give him or any other member a reasonable opportunity of rising in his place and putting a supplementary question. Supplementary questions must be put immediately after the principal questions to which they relate.

2. If a member responsible for a starred question happens to be absent when it is called, it will be open either to him or to any other member to put supplemental questions thereon after the other starred questions for the day have been answered, provided question-time is not thereby exceeded.

3. Questions, not starred, will not be called in Council, but they will be printed with their answers and placed on the table of the House along with the list of starred questions. Oral supplementary questions will not be allowed in regard to unstarred questions.]

STARRED QUESTIONS.

Fisheries.

Issue of salt to the fish-curing yards on the West Coast.

* 1553 Q.—Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

(a) what was the quantity of salt issued to curers in the several fish-curing yards in the West Coast in the year 1924-25;

(b) what was the cost to the Government for the salt issued and the establishment charges of the fish-curing yards on the West Coast for the above period; and

(c) what was the profit or loss to the Government in this transaction for the above period?

A.—(a) 169,585 maunds.

(b) The cost to Government was Rs. 1,48,796. The establishment charges including pensionary charges amounted to Rs. 62,791.

(c) There was a profit of Rs. 394.

Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN:—"May I ask the hon. the Minister for Development whether he is going to continue this system of selling the salt at Rs. 2-8-0 per bag?"

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—"Certainly not."

Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN:—"May I know whether it is the intention of the hon. Minister to meet the cost of fisheries establishment from the profit obtained from the sales of salt? May I know whether it is not the object of the Government to ameliorate the condition of the fishermen community rather than to make profits out of the transaction of salt?"

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—"Exactly so."

[16th March 1926]

Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN:—"May I know whether it is not a fact that when the fish-curing yards were in the Salt department all the charges were debited to the Salt revenues whereas they are now debited to the curers and the Government are actually making a profit out of the transaction?"

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—"I want notice of the question."

Industries.

The Kerala Soap Institute.

* 1554 Q.—Mr. K. UPPI SAHIB: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

(a) the reasons for changing the 'Government Calicut Soap Factory' into 'Kerala Soap Institute';

(b) whether it is now a factory or a technological institute;

(c) if it is the latter, whether any student or students have ever been trained in that institute;

(d) if not, why not;

(e) whether there is a laboratory attached to the institute; and

(f) if so, what was the object of it and what is the cost of the same?

A.—(a) The change was made with a view to emphasize the fact that the main object of the venture was not merely to demonstrate that soaps could be manufactured at a profit but also to help in the development of the soap industry in the Presidency by training a number of men in the art of soap manufacture.

(b), (c) & (d) It is now run principally as a commercial concern, pure and simple; owing to lack of accommodation until 1923 and the uncertainty of its future thereafter it has not been found possible hitherto to admit and train apprentices on any regular system though short courses have been given to a few students now and then. The Government have now under consideration a proposal that the institute should be continued for a term of three years with a view to admit and train apprentices.

(e) & (f) The institute has a small laboratory in which analyses are being made of samples of various oils received in the factory for manufacturing purposes and soaps manufactured at the institute are being tested for quality. Samples of soaps, oils and other products received from private firms are also examined and reports furnished. The apparatus in the laboratory have been valued at Rs. 5,776 on the 31st March 1925.

Alleged protest against the continuance of Kerala Soap Institute.

* 1555 Q.—Mr. K. UPPI SAHIB: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Government received any complaint or protest against the continuance of the Kerala Soap Institute from the European Chamber of Commerce of Calicut or of any other place or from any European firm;

[16th March 1926]

- (b) whether any European firm or individual ever made any offer to purchase the Kerala Soap Institute ;
 (c) whether any Indian gentleman made any offer to purchase the same ;
 (d) whether the Government propose to continue to keep it or part with it ; and
 (e) if they propose to keep it, whether it is as a commercial institute or as a technological institute ?

- A.—(a) The Government received a copy of the proceedings of the meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of India and Ceylon held on 5th December 1923 at which the continuance of the institute was put forward as an instance of Government competition with private enterprise.
 (b) The Government have had no definite offer for purchase.
 (c) Yes ; but the offer was conditional on the 75 per cent of the purchase money being treated as a loan under the State Aid to Industries Act and therefore the individual was asked to apply to the Director of Industries in the first instance as required by the Act.
 (d) & (e) The question is under consideration.

Veterinary.

Compulsory inoculation in South Kanara.

* 1556 Q.—Mr. D. MANJAYYA HEGGADE : Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

- (a) whether it is a fact that compulsory inoculation has been enforced in some taluks of South Kanara against rinderpest and if so, in how many taluks ;
 (b) how many veterinary assistant surgeons are working in the affected areas ; and
 (c) whether any extra hands have been sanctioned to cope with the work of compulsory inoculation and if not, why not ?

- A.—(a) Yes, in four taluks.
 (b) Five.
 (c) Of the five employed on the work, three have been deputed from the reserve staff.

Education.

Adi-Dravidas and the Vellakinar Board Higher Elementary School.

* 1557 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN : Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether the Government are aware that after the examination of an Adi-Dravida boy on 1st October 1925 by one of the teachers employed in the Vellakinar Board Higher Elementary School, Vellakinar, Coimbatore taluk, the Headmaster said that the Adi-Dravida boy by name Mahalingam would be admitted into the higher standard (who was reading in another school before) on consultation with the caste villagers and then the boy was asked to go away without admission ;

[16th March 1926]

- (b) whether they are aware that about 154 pupils, male and female, belonging to the other castes are reading in the school and that there has not been even a single pupil belonging to the depressed classes admitted in the school from the very commencement ;
 (c) whether the Government are aware that this school is located in the taluk board building along the public road quite apart from the quarters of the caste villagers ;
 (d) whether the Government are aware that four Brahman teachers were appointed in the school but not a single Adi-Dravida teacher has been appointed ;
 (e) for how long the school has been going on in the village ; and
 (f) if the Government have no information, with reference to clauses (a), (b), (c), (d) and (e), whether they will be pleased to call for the information ?

- A.—(a) The Adi-Dravida boy in question was admitted into the school on 9th December 1925.
 (b) One hundred and seventy-three pupils are studying in the school. There is at present one Adi-Dravida pupil in the school.
 (c) Yes.
 (d) Yes. It is reported that no Adi-Dravida teacher employed in other schools under the board is willing to serve in Vellakinar.
 (e) Since 1893.

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—“ May I know, Sir, whether it is the same Mahalingam Adi-Dravida boy or some other boy reading in the school ? ”

The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—“ I should like to have notice of the question.”

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—“ May I know, Sir, whether the Government have issued any Government Order to the effect that the Adi-Dravida boys must be admitted in all public schools and that those institutions which disregard this rule will be severely dealt with ? ”

The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—“ Circulars were issued by the Government drawing the attention of the managers of the public schools to the fact that there should be unrestricted admission of all classes of pupils to the schools.”

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—“ With reference to the answer to clause (d), may I know whether it is due to the boycott of other teachers or for any other reason that no Adi-Dravida teacher employed in other schools under the Board is willing to serve in the Vellakinar Elementary school ? ”

The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—“ I learn that no Adi-Dravida teacher was available to serve in Vellakinar.”

Mussalman School, Nellore.

* 1558 Q.—Mr. S. SATYAMURTI : Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) whether representations have been made to him by the Muslim public of Nellore to raise the Mussalman Muhammadan school there to a high school ;

[16th March 1926]

(b) the reasons why the Government have not raised the middle school to a high school; and

(c) whether they have any intention to do so in the near future?

A.—(a) The answer is in the affirmative.

(b) The Government were not convinced of the necessity of raising the institution to the status of a high school.

(c) The answer is in the negative.

Hindu Religious Endowments Board.

Demands for contributions from institutions under the control of the Hindu Religious Endowments Board.

* 1559 Q.—Mr. S. SATYAMURTI: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) the demands issued by the Hindu Religious Endowments Board on the institutions under their control for payment of contributions under the Act;

(b) the date or dates when the demands were issued and the amounts of the several demands; and

(c) the collections up to date and the arrears due?

A.—(a) & (b) The Government understand that between May 1, 1925, and January 31, 1926, the Board issued a circular memorandum to the trustees of about 10,000 institutions requesting them to furnish figures of the income of the last three fasli years and to remit the contributions, leaving them to calculate the amount due on the annual average of their own figures as a provisional measure.

(c) The collections up to 31st January 1926 amounted to Rs. 31,800. As the total amount due has not been determined, it is not possible to calculate the amount in arrears.

Local Boards and Municipal Councils.

Nomination to the Nidamangalam Union Board.

* 1560 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether a memorial was received addressed to the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government signed by several Muhammadan gentlemen and other non-Muhammadan gentlemen during the month of April last making complaints with reference to ignoring altogether the claims of Muhammadans and depressed classes by the president of the taluk board as regards nomination to Nidamangalam union board, Tanjore district;

(b) whether it is a fact that out of two nominated seats one was given to one Pillai who was a defeated candidate at an election and another was given to a member of the Ahamudaiya community though five Ahamudaiya gentlemen had got through election to that union board;

(c) whether it is a fact that the president of the Nidamangalam union board recommended one member of the depressed classes and another Muhammadan gentleman for the two seats for nomination to the president of the taluk board; and

[16th March 1926]

(d) whether a list containing the names of the elected and nominated members to this union board together with their caste or community to which they belong will be called for and placed on the Council table?

A.—(a) The answer is in the affirmative.

(b) A Pillai (Ahamudaiya) was appointed to one of the nominated seats. It is reported that he had not been defeated in an election. Only four of the elected members belonged to the Ahamudaiya community and not five as stated by the hon. Member. The second nominated seat on the union board was filled by a member of the Melagara (drummer) community.

(c) The answer is in the affirmative.

(d) A list ^a is laid on the table.

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"With reference to the answer to clause (c), may I know the reasons for the refusal of the President to nominate these gentlemen belonging to the minority communities?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"The power of nomination is vested in the president and he must have used his discretion in exercising that power."

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"May I know whether the Government have cancelled any such illegal nominations before?"

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"Illegal nominations?"

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"Nominations made contrary to the spirit of the law."

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"The question whether the Government can interfere in such cases is not free from doubt."

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"Sir, in spite of the fact that there are four members of the Ahamudaiya community one more has been nominated. May I know the reason why the spirit of the law has been violated by the appointing authority?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"I have already said that the power of nomination is vested in the president and it is expected that he exercises his power reasonably."

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"May I know, Sir, whether in nominating these members the total population of each community is taken into consideration and may I know what is the population of the Muhammadan, Depressed classes and the Ahamudaiya communities respectively?"

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"That is a subject for another separate question."

Representation of the depressed classes in the District Board, Nellore, and in the taluk and union boards under its jurisdiction.

* 1561 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) the name of the member of the depressed classes nominated to represent the said classes in each of the taluk boards of the Nellore district;

[16th March 1926]

(b) the name of the member of the depressed classes nominated to represent the said classes in each of the union boards;

(c) the name of the member of the depressed classes nominated to represent the said classes in the Nellore District Board; and

(d) if the Government have no information with reference to all clauses, whether they will be pleased to call for the information?

The Reverend P. Abraham has been nominated to represent the depressed classes on the Kandukur Union Board.

Nellore District Board M.R.Ry. Dasari Adivayya Garu.

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"With reference to the answer to clause (b) I find that there are no members of the depressed classes on several of the union boards. May I know whether the Government have taken any steps in the matter?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"Sir, the Government have issued circulars to the presidents of the district boards and of the taluk boards to see that due regard is paid to the representation of the unrepresented communities when they nominate members of the taluk boards and the union boards."

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"May I know, Sir, whether the Government cannot do anything effectively in this matter unless the Act is suitably amended?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"That question is under consideration."

Nominations to the Nidamangalam Union Board.

* 1562 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state why no member of the depressed classes or of the Muhammadan community has been nominated to the Nidamangalam Union Board, Tanjore district?

A.—No member of the depressed classes was nominated to the union board as in the opinion of the President, Taluk Board, there was no one suitable for nomination. As the Muhammadans in the village are divided into factions from which the union board itself is not free, the President, Taluk Board, decided to defer the nomination of a Muhammadan, until the next vacancy occurs which will be in June 1st, 1926.

Public Health.

Vaccination of Adi-Dravida children in Ambattur.

* 1563 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) why a few months back a vaccinator asked the teacher in charge of the Adi-Dravida school, numbering about sixty pupils in Ambattur cheri, Saidapet taluk, Chingleput district, to send to one of the pandals of the house in the caste quarter at Ambattur, where there are only about fifteen castemen houses, for vaccination instead of vaccinating the Adi-Dravida children in the Adi-Dravida school premises itself; and

(b) whether there is any rule relating to vaccination to the effect that children should go to the places fixed by the vaccinator?

A.—(a) The Government have no information on the subject.

(b) Under the instructions issued by the Government for the working of vaccination in non-municipal areas, the place at which vaccination is to be done is fixed by the vaccinator. It is usually the village chavadi or some other public building in the village. Children of one village should not be required to be taken to another for the purpose of vaccination.

Village Panchayats.

Sanctioning of the taxes of Therkupatti Village Panchayat by the Registrar of Village Panchayats.

* 1564 Q.—Mr. Chavadi K. SUBRAHMANYA PILLAI: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that certain taxes proposed by the President of the Therkupatti Village Panchayat, Tinnevely taluk, and not recommended by the President of the Taluk Board, Tinnevely, have been sanctioned by the Registrar of Village Panchayats?

A.—The answer is in the negative.

Grant to village panchayats.

* 1565 Q.—Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether any circular has been sent by the Registrar-General that a grant of Rs. 150 will be given to each panchayat; and

(b) how many panchayats have received the grant?

[16th March 1926]

A.—(a) A circular was sent by the Registrar-General of Panchayats to all village panchayats to the effect that a grant not exceeding Rs. 200 for starting a new library and a grant not exceeding Rs. 100 for the improvement of an existing library would be made to any village panchayat willing to provide an equal amount from its own funds. No other circular has been issued.

(b) Library grants have so far been distributed to 96 village panchayats.

Constitution of Districts.

Selection of capital for West Godavari district.

* 1566 Q.—MR. P. SAGARAM : Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Government have received the views of the members of the Legislative Council belonging to the West Godavari district on the selection of its capital and if so, what they are ; and

(b) whether they have received a monster petition praying that Nidadavole may be fixed as the capital ?

A.—(a) One member belonging to the West Godavari district has communicated his views in writing to Government on the question of the location of the headquarters. His opinion is that Nidadavole should be selected as the headquarters of the West Godavari district. At the meeting of the Legislative Council held on 25th August 1925 two members urged that Ellore should be made the headquarters of the district.

(b) A petition signed by certain inhabitants of West Godavari has been received by Government.

Deputy Collectors.

Control over Deputy Collectors.

* 1567 Q.—THE RAJA OF RAMNAD : Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the control over the Deputy Collectors hitherto exercised by the Revenue Secretary in the Secretariat has been transferred to the Board of Revenue ;

(b) whether this question of transferring the control was considered previously by the Government on more than one occasion and rejected ; and

(c) what are the reasons for rejection on earlier occasions and adoption now ?

A.—(a) Control over Deputy Collectors has at no time vested in the Revenue Secretary nor does it now vest in the Board of Revenue to any greater extent than it always has done.

(b) & (c) Please see answer to clause (a).

THE RAJA OF RAMNAD :—" Sir, presumably the hon. the Revenue Member has given a different meaning to the word, 'control' from the one that I intended. May I now ask him whether it is not a fact that there was a transfer of powers regarding appointment, postings and so forth from the Secretariat to the Board of Revenue ? "

THE hon. MR. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" I have already answered that question in this House on a previous occasion."

THE RAJA OF RAMNAD :—" May I ask him whether in that answer he has given the reasons ? "

THE hon. MR. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" I shall refer him to that answer, Sir."

Land Revenue.

Levy of tax on trees in backyards in Nannilam taluk.

* 1568 Q.—MR. S. MUTTAYYA MUDALIYAR : Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that in the Nannilam taluk, Tanjore district, tax on bamboo clusters and other trees in backyards have been levied at one rupee a cluster in fasli 1334, contrary to the provisions of Standing Order 18 ; and

(b) whether the Government will lay on the table of the House all Government Orders and Proceedings of the Board of Revenue connected with the cultivation of backyards and levy of assessment thereon ?

A.—(a) The Government are not aware that a charge for each bamboo cluster has been levied in Nannilam taluk. All cultivation of backyards except by flowers, vegetables and fruit is liable to assessment, at the highest dry rate of the village, subject to a minimum charge of one rupee.

(b) The hon. Member is referred to paragraph 4 of Board's Standing Order No. 21 which embodies the Government Orders and Proceedings of the Board of Revenue on the subject.

Criminal Justice.

Prohibition of the Arya Samajists from entering the Kalpathi Agraharam during the Car festival.

* 1569 Q.—MR. R. VEERIAN : Will the hon. the Law Member and the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Government have cancelled the order of Mr J. A. Thorne, I.C.S., Collector of Malabar district, and thus prevented the Arya Samajists from entering into the Kalpathi Agraharam during the three days of the recent Car festival ;

(b) the names of the persons belonging to the depressed classes against whom the prohibitory order was issued under section 144, with a view to prevent them from passing through the Kalpathi Agraharam ;

(c) whether any prohibitory order was issued against any of the Brahman leaders remaining in the Kalpathi Agraharam ;

(d) who assaulted or caused provocation to the Ezhuvu Arya Samajists when they were first passing through the Kalpathi Agraharam at the beginning of this month in a lawful manner ;

(e) whether the Brahmins of Kalpathi have already established their rights, or proved in the court of law that the Kalpathi Agraharam road or pathway is intended for their use only, and that the Depressed classes cannot establish any right of entry ; and

[16th March 1926]

(f) whether the Government will be pleased to lay on the Council table all the correspondence that took place between the Subdivisional Magistrate and the Pandit Rishi Ram and Swami Sraddhanandji?

4.—(a) No.

(b) The order was not directed against individual persons, but against Ezhuvans, Thiyyans, Panans, Cherumas, Parayas, Nayadis, and converts to the Arya Samajam from these classes.

(c) No.

(d) The Stationary Sub-Magistrate, Palghat, convicted six persons under section 160, Indian Penal Code, on a charge of committing affray on 31st October 1925 in the Kalpathi Agraharam and sentenced each of the accused to pay a fine of Rs. 5. Three of the accused were Brahmans and three Arya-samajists. The opinion of the Sub-Magistrate was that the parties elected to fight, though, either of them, had they wished, could have avoided a collision. The decision of the Sub-Magistrate was upheld on appeal by the Subdivisional Magistrate.

(e) So far as the Government are aware neither party has established its claims in a civil court. The situation in this respect has not changed since the issue of G.O. No. 37, Public, dated the 9th January 1925.

(f) The correspondence * between Pandit Rishi Ram and the Subdivisional Magistrate is placed on the table. There was no correspondence between Swami Shraddhananda and the Subdivisional Magistrate.

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—"With reference to the answer to clause (b) may I know whether this prohibitory order under section 144 applies in the case of all the depressed class members serving under Government?"

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"It is a matter of construction of the order, Sir. It seems to me that if the question is to be raised definitely, I should like to ask for notice of the question."

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—"May I know whether any constable or inspector belonging to the depressed classes was on duty in connexion with the Kalpathi car festival last year?"

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Not that I am aware of."

Issue of order under section 144, Criminal Procedure Code, on the Ezhuv community.

* 1570 Q.—Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR: Will the hon. the Law Member and the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) why the order under section 144, Criminal Procedure Code, was issued by the Subdivisional Magistrate of Palghat, warning and enjoining members of the Ezhuv community and some others not to enter the streets of the Brahman Agraharams of, in and around Kalpathi in Palghat during the car festival from the 13th to 16th November 1925, both days inclusive;

[16th March 1926]

(b) whether there was any and, if so, what communication between the district authorities of Malabar and the Government regarding this matter before the order under section 144 was issued;

(c) whether the district authorities reported to the Government that there would be a breach of the peace if the order under section 144 was not issued;

(d) whether the Government directed the local authorities to issue the order under section 144;

(e) what the reasons were which induced the Government to direct the local authorities to issue the order under section 144; and

(f) whether the Government have any intention of departing from the policy laid down in G.O. No. 2660, L. & M., dated 25th September 1924?

4.—(a) The order issued by the Subdivisional Magistrate * is placed on the table. It contains the Magistrate's reasons for issuing it.

(b) The attention of the hon. Member is invited to the answer given to clause (b) of question No. 1170 asked at the meeting of the Legislative Council on the 18th December 1925.

(c) No; it was not necessary for the district authorities to do so.

(d) No.

(e) The question does not arise.

(f) No.

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"Sir, with reference to the time taken to answer this question, may I again draw the attention of the hon. the Law Member and other Members of the Government to the undue delay taken in answering this question? The question was sent by your office to the Government department concerned on the 12th December 1925 and the answer was received in your office only on the 27th February 1926, i.e., after a period of nearly 2½ months. The Kalpathi affair has now become so notorious that not much of investigation is necessary for giving the answer. The answer is given now when the matter has become very stale. I would request the hon. Members of the Government to be good enough to answer the questions without undue delay."

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—"Sir, with reference to the answer to clause (b), may I know whether there is any likelihood of a prohibitory order being passed every year when there is a car festival?"

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"That is a hypothetical question."

Motor Vehicles Act.

Motor accidents in the City of Madras.

* 1571 Q.—Mr. K. RAOCHANDRA BALLAL: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) what is the number of accidents caused by motor vehicles in the City of Madras for the last three years extending up to date;

[16th March 1926]

- (b) how many of such accidents have proved fatal ;
 (c) how the persons that caused the accidents have been dealt with ;
 (d) what is the sanctioned speed for taxi-cars in the Madras City ; and
 (e) whether the Government propose to order a reduction in the speed with a view to avoiding accidents as far as possible ?

A.—(a), (b) & (c) The statistics are subjoined—

Year.	Total number of accidents caused by motor vehicles.	Of the number shown in column (2) number that proved fatal.	Number of cases treated as mere accidents.	Number of cases dropped for want of evidence.	Number of cases ending in conviction.	Number of cases acquitted.	Number of cases withdrawn.	Number of cases pending trial.
(1)	(2)	(3)	(4)	(5)	(6)	(7)	(8)	(9)
1924 ..	258	12	84	64	96	12	2	..
1925 ..	409	23	136	114	84	21	23	31

There were 21 fatal accidents caused by motor vehicles in 1923. Statistics regarding the total number of accidents during that year are not available.

- (d) There is no speed limit prescribed for taxi-cabs. As regards motor buses a speed limit of 20 miles per hour has been prescribed.

(e) No.

Mr. D. MANJAYYA HEGGADE:—"With reference to the answer to clause (e), may I know whether the Government are going to put a stop to these accidents ?"

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"The whole question of traffic regulation is being reviewed."

Police.

Regulation of traffic in Tuticorin during His Excellency the Governor's visit.

* 1572 Q.—Mr. V. PANTULU AYYAR: With reference to the answer given to my question No. 1175 put at the meeting of the Council held on 18th December 1925 regarding 'Regulation of traffic in Tuticorin on the day of the visit of His Excellency the Governor', will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state whether the necessity to 'issue definite instructions about the regulation of traffic on such occasions' has been finally considered and if so, with what result ?

A.—The Government do not consider it necessary to issue any such general instructions.

[16th March 1926]

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS.

Co-operative Societies.

Referring some arbitration cases of rural Credit Societies in Rasipuram taluk to one Mr. Chinniah Pillai.

1573 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Deputy Registrar of Co-operative Societies, Vellore, has referred certain arbitration cases of certain rural credit societies in Rasipuram taluk of the Salem district to Mr. T. M. Chinniah Pillai, Vakil, Salem, for disposal ;

(b) whether the usual practice in such cases is to refer them to one of the members of the governing body of the local Co-operative Union for disposal or to the Honorary Assistant Registrar of that area ;

(c) what the special reasons were which made the Deputy Registrar, Vellore, to transfer the arbitration references of one Co-operative Union to a resident of another and distant union area ;

(d) whether it is a fact that such conduct on the part of the Deputy Registrar involves the Rural Co-operative Society in unnecessary and heavy travelling expenses ;

(e) whether it is a fact that as a result of referring such cases being referred to a distant place for inquiry the defendants oftentimes are too poor to travel to those distant places and thus allow the claims against themselves to be decided ex parte ; and

(f) whether Government propose to allow this practice to continue ?

A.—(a) No.

(b) to (f) Do not arise.

Fisheries.

Price of salt sold in fish-curing yards.

1574 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Government have received any petitions from the fisher-folk protesting against the enhancement of the price of salt sold in the fish-curing yards from 10 annas to one rupee and four annas per maund ; and if so what action has been taken to reduce the price to the old rate ;

(b) what is the net average expenditure per annum incurred by Government on account of the maintenance of these yards (i) when they were under the control of the Salt department, and (ii) after they were transferred to the Fisheries department ;

(c) whether it is a fact that the Government were obliged to open the fish-curing yards to save the fish-curing industry from utter ruin on account of the prohibitive price of salt as a result of the imposition of the salt tax ;

(d) whether it is a fact that till recently all the charges of maintaining these yards have been borne by the Salt department ; and

(e) as the salt revenue goes to the treasury of the Imperial Government, whether the Local Government have to bear all charges that are incidental to the imposition of the salt tax ?

A.—(a) Yes. The Government do not propose to reduce the price until after further experience has been gained of the working of the yards. The financial results of the working in 1924-25 do not justify any reduction.

[16th March 1926]

- (b) (i) The net average expenditure per year during the three years preceding the date on which the yards were transferred to the control of the Director of Fisheries, viz., 31st March 1924, was Rs. 1.39 lakhs.
- (ii) During the year 1924-25 the working of the yards by the Fisheries department resulted in a loss of Rs. 6,765-11-5.
- (c) Fish-curing yards were first opened with a view to supply salt for curing operations at a reduced price and thus relieve the curers of the burden of the salt tax.
- (d) No; a portion was met from the provincial revenues.
- (e) The question is not clear. No duty is levied on salt issued to curers.

Public Works.

Reconstruction of bridges washed away in 1924.

1575 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether during the heavy rains of 1924 two of the bridges on the only road connecting Coorg with the important towns of Tellicherry and Cannanore were washed away;

(b) whether it is a fact that for only about four months in a year the rivers covered by these bridges can be crossed over by means of temporary causeways and that during the rest of the year passengers and goods have to be transhipped across the rivers;

(c) whether the bridges which have been washed away had been built by the Madras Government;

(d) what the reasons are for the delay in replacing the bridges; and

(e) what steps Government have taken or propose to take for replacing the bridges?

A.—(a) Yes.

(b) It depends on the rain but the hon. Member's suggestion is more or less correct.

(c) The Kuttupuzha bridge was constructed by the Malabar District Board. The Government are not sure whether the District Board or the Public Works Department constructed the Iritti bridge in the first instance.

(d) The preparation of plans and estimates and the provision of funds.

(e) Approximate estimates have been prepared and it is proposed to provide money to enable the reconstruction of the bridges to be begun next year.

Local Boards and Municipal Councils.

List of members of the local boards in Tinnevely and Ramnad districts.

1576 Q.—Rao Bahadur CRUZ FERNANDEZ: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to call for and place on the Council table a list of elected and nominated members of the various union boards taluk boards and district boards in the districts of Tinnevely and Ramnad castewar?

A.—The required lists have been prepared and have been placed in the Council Library.

Meetings of District and Taluk Boards in South Kanara.

1577 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) what the language used at the meetings of the District and Taluk Boards in South Kanara is;

(b) whether the proceedings are recorded in the official vernacular of the district;

(c) whether the proceedings are published in the official vernacular of the district in the District Official Gazette; and

(d) what the practice is as to points in (a), (b) and (c) in the neighbouring districts of Malabar and Coimbatore?

A.—(a) to (d) The Government have no information.

WALK-OUT OF THE SWARAJISTS, ETC.

* Rao Bahadur C. V. S. NARASIMHA RAJU:—"Sir, I am obliged to you for allowing me an opportunity to make a statement on behalf of the Congress Party on whose behalf I have the honour to speak here to-day. The House must be aware of the resolutions passed by the Indian National Congress at Cawnpore in December last and of the instructions issued by the All-India Congress Committee in pursuance thereof from Delhi on the 7th instant. It is now my duty, Sir, to state on behalf of not merely the Swarajists to whom the said instructions constitute a mandate but also on behalf of the rest of us, Congressmen, who have wholly accepted the policy and the programme laid down by the Congress in this behalf that we do not propose any longer to remain and work in the present legislatures as heretofore. The reasons that have induced all of us to take this step have been explained in clear and unambiguous terms by Pandit Motilal Nehru in his speech in the Legislative Assembly and it is not my purpose to weary the House by attempting to reproduce that historic announcement.

"It is, however, necessary for me on this occasion to say a few words on the attitude of the Madras Government in particular, that has abundantly justified this step. The policy adopted by this Government in both its halves towards not merely the National demand but also towards every attempt made by us to take a step forward in the realization of responsible Government must be well within the recollection of all. The Government has managed to impose additional taxation over and above the heavy taxes of the Central Government in the province to the tune of many lakhs and has moreover during the past two years obtained about 183 lakhs of remission in provincial contributions, and the only result to the people out of all this money squeezed from the tax-payers is an increase in the already bloated establishments of the services and increased opportunities of patronage which have been grossly abused. This Government has steadily resisted every attempt made by the representatives of the people to have legislation introduced in order to place the land revenue policy of the Government on the just and equitable basis of a permanent settlement or to give control to this Council over land revenue settlement and resettlements. I need not mention the manner and the method adopted by the Government regarding the Irrigation Bill and the Malabar Tenancy Bill. This Government has steadily refused to take steps to carry out the notoriously overdue reform of the separation of the executive from the judicial functions in this province, notwithstanding the repeated resolutions passed in this House. This Government has also defeated by dilatory and obstructive methods the proposals repeatedly made in this House for getting rid of the immoral excise revenue of this province and to introduce a policy of total prohibition and this Government has also steadily resisted and frustrated every attempt made to place Local Self-Government and its administration of this province on a pure, sound and truly self-governing basis. The working of the provisions of the Reforms Act and of the rules made thereunder have been no less reactionary. I believe, Sir, that this province will claim the first place among all the provincial Governments in India in the number of grants restored under the certifying powers of the Act. (Mr. S. Satyamurti: hear, hear.) Sir, the country knows that when the Indian Government launched its policy of unparalleled repression in 1921 and put the best of our patriots and political leaders into jails, the Madras Government was not only not behind the other Governments, but it had the unique satisfaction of having a Ministry that was whole heartedly seconding its acts of ruthless repression and constituted indeed an integral part of the very happy family. The leaders of the Ministerial Party then openly gloried in the ill-treatment of political offenders and vied with each other in their support of the bureaucracy. The unity and co-operation of the two diarchic halves have always expressed themselves in measures calculated to injure the ryots or the labourers and the Ministerialists took political revenge on the Tanjore district by opposing and defeating the efforts of its representatives to obtain even a small amelioration in the ruinous enhancements of the land assessments imposed on the unfortunate agriculturists of that district. If this, Sir, is the way that diarchy has succeeded, is it to be wondered at, Sir, that we, as Congressmen, are determined that we shall no longer help to perpetuate such a state of things and that we shall use every legitimate means in our power to carry the programme of the Congress?

"I do not want to multiply instances, but I have referred to a few to show how we have fared under the so-called Reform-regime. The Madras Government have claimed that diarchy was worked very successfully in this province, but even this, Lord Birkenhead was not prepared to accept at its face value because in his oft-quoted statement in the House of Lords last year he used very cautious words indeed. He said, 'the Madras Government say that they have worked diarchy successfully.' It is for the Madras Government to judge how far this left-handed compliment will help them.

"One word, Sir, as to the position of those of us who are not Swarajists and who have now decided to abide by the Congress mandate and programme. We are convinced and we sincerely believe that the Indian National Congress continues to represent the National will and is the truest representative of our National demands and our aspirations. It has been said, Sir, that in taking the step we are about to take to-day we are acting against the wishes of the constituencies that have sent us here. We feel, Sir, on the other hand, that far from acting against the wishes or instructions of our constituencies we would be failing in our duty to the constituencies if we did not on their behalf carry out in this House the mandates of the Congress. Ever since the Congress took upon itself last year to guide and direct the work in connexion with the Central and Provincial Legislatures, there has been abundant evidence in this province in particular that the electorates stand firmly and loyally by the Congress. The two recent by-elections which have taken place since the Cawnpore programme was laid down, in the South Kanara and North Arcot districts, tell a tale which it is impossible for any true lover of the country to ignore or overlook. We demand, Sir, in the circumstances that the verdict of the country should be obtained in this respect by a general election in this province at as early a date as possible, and we have therefore decided that until such a general election takes place we shall not be justified in being here and carrying on any work contrary to the instructions of the Congress. We do not now vacate our seats. In the event of any special or unforeseen circumstances, we will come to the Council and take part in the proceedings with the permission of the special committee of the Congress. We are convinced that in this we represent and carry out the wishes of our constituencies in every respect.

"With these words, Sir, I desire to state that I propose to withdraw from the House and I call upon my Friends on this side of the House to follow me."

As the Leader of the Opposition left the Council Chamber, the under-mentioned Members belonging to the Nationalist and Swarajya Parties followed him:—

1. Rao Bahadur T. A. Ramalinga Chettiyar.
2. Mr. P. Siva Rao.
3. " C. Gopala Menon.
4. " K. Koti Reddi.

* MR. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"With your permission, Sir, I wish to make a statement, on behalf of those who are on this side of the House, to justify our remaining in the Council and to also explain our position with regard to the statement that has been so laboriously read out by the hon. the Leader of the Opposition. I had thought that we were not going to have this morning, controversial politics of any kind introduced with reference to the walk-out motion which, we know, was contemplated by my Friends opposite. But I regret to notice, contrary to what took place elsewhere, instead of limiting the statement to the exigencies and circumstances of the case and instead of limiting it to the mandate which is now going to be observed by some Members of the Opposition, the hon. the Leader of the Opposition has gone far out of the way to make statements which cannot be justified by the facts of the case by any one who has followed the proceedings of the Legislative Council. We, Sir, on this side of the House, are no wit behind any other section of the House or any one outside, in the country, in our desire to see that in the provinces full provincial autonomy is attained at as early a time as possible. In fact, our position has been for the last three years, and is that at least Madras is ripe for full provincial autonomy. We think that such a reform is overdue for this province. If, in spite of that, we have decided not to adopt those methods which have been recently advocated—and I see unfortunately followed by some Members of the Opposition to-day—it is because we are convinced that our attitude, our line of programme, our methods of work will bring in and usher in that era of reform to which all of us are so keenly turning our attention. We feel on behalf of the constituencies which we represent as much as some of the hon. Members opposite. Those who have studied the working of constitutions elsewhere will feel that in that line of work or that attitude lies the salvation of the country. It lies in trying to work the reform scheme, to give battle to those who are in privileged position at every stage possible and to try and wrest more and more power from them in the best methods and ways possible and by legitimate and constitutional means. It is to enforce that mandate of our constituencies which we consider as a higher mandate than the mandate of any ad hoc body which may be praised by the powers that be and it is with reference to that mandate that we have decided to stay on in this Council and continue our rather difficult task. Mr. President, the hon. the Leader of the Opposition has quoted a list of acts of commission and omission by the Ministry. I have defended, if defence was indeed necessary; and I have justified, if justification was indeed called for, the acts and measures of the Ministry during the last six years; and my hon. Friends—abler, more eloquent and more capable of defending these things—have done so. I do not want to go into those details except to say on behalf of every one who is on this side of the House, that there is no vestige of truth—I use the mildest parliamentary word I can think of—and that the hon. the Leader of the Opposition has been guilty of terminological inexactitudes in the statement that he has so laboriously made with reference to the actions of my party or of the Ministry. Nothing can be farther from the truth than the statement, for instance, that this province has been more reactionary than other provinces, that this province has put a larger number of political prisoners in jail and that the Ministry has accepted that policy. Any one who witnessed the events of the year 1921-22 and any one who knew that the Criminal Law Amendment Act was not extended to this province will see that those are statements made not indeed on facts but on the dire necessity to justify the attitude that has been taken at present. Mr. President, Sir, I have only one word more to say. I do not believe in secession; those who sit on this side of the House do not believe in secession. They have the look of being dictated by a policy of hopelessness; I do not join in that attitude or frame of mind. They have the appearance of being dictated by a loss of temper. I will not, representing the constituencies and representing the vast electorate, lose my temper on the floor of the House however provocative the occasion may be. I rather believe in that silent reserve of dignity, in that patience that is the outcome of wisdom. It is in that spirit that we, on this side of the House, shall continue to work the constitutional reforms believing that in that way lies the salvation of the country. Hitherto, Mr. President, our work has been made a little difficult. Part of the time—in fact the greater part of the time—we have been engaged in defending the innumerable attacks that have been levelled only on the Transferred half. There is a silver lining in every cloud and without meaning anything disrespectful or provocative to my hon. Friends opposite, I do venture to think that hereafter during the term of the Legislative Council that is open to us, on this side of the House, we shall have the opportunity, the occasion and the freedom to take greater interest and to partake more in discussion of those subjects which we feel are hampering the progress of the country.

"I do not wish to say more, except that we feel keenly on behalf of our constituencies, on behalf of those to whom we have made electoral promises by which we feel we are bound indeed till the next general election comes and we have consulted the interests of the country and the interests of progress and of political constitutionalism. We stay on in spite of the temptation to join those who have walked out. In conclusion, I wish to say that we have decided to stay on in the firm belief that our attitude and our action will be marked as the action of those who have the interests of the country at heart and of those who sincerely wish for the cause of progress of this country."

Sir K. Venkataraddi Nayudu rose to speak.

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"I do not think we will have a debate on this question. The Leader of the Opposition made a statement while he and his party were leaving the Council and on behalf of those who are staying to take part in the business of the House, a statement has been made. I think we should be satisfied with those two statements. I do not suppose the Members of the Treasury Bench have to say anything."

Rai Badadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"I wish to say a few words on behalf of the Independent Members of the House."

* MR. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"Sir, I had already asked for your permission to make a statement as to why I did not intend to go out with my hon. Friends who were for leaving the Council. Sir, the hon. the Leader of the Opposition has explained in detail the reasons for the grave dissatisfaction that exists in the country at the policy pursued by the Government. I do not want to go over the same ground once again. With those sentiments, I and those who continue to be with me here entirely agree. But, Sir, I am one of those who belong to the school of thought which does not believe in imposing on ourselves self-denying ordinances of the sort described by the hon. the Leader of the Opposition. I do intend to stick on to my position here and to give all the fight I can to the benches on the opposite side and perhaps at times more to the one than to the other. My hon. Friend, Mr. Ramaswami Mudaliyar, wanted to prescribe wholesome advice for the hon. the Leader of the Opposition, but he has himself departed from it and gone into party matters. One statement he made which I think is not quite fair. He said that the discussion in this House was always to attack the Transferred side rather than the Reserved side." If he and his party did not hitherto attack the Reserved side, they have only themselves to thank for it."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" I am afraid the hon. Member is just drifting to what is prohibited by you "

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" I am glad that Mr. Krishnan Nayar has intervened. If there is any special reason which Mr. Ranganatha Mudaliyar wishes to adduce for staying here, he may do so. But if he is going to deal with the controversial points raised by the hon. Member, Mr. Ramaswami Mudaliyar, the proceedings will degenerate into a debate."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" I have already told you, Sir, that I entirely shared the dissatisfaction which the hon. the Leader of the Opposition gave expression to in regard to the policy of the Government and by my sitting here it should not be understood that I endorse in any way the view that what has taken place hitherto in the country and has been done by the Government is satisfactory."

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—" May I say one word? It is not my desire to enter into any debate. But it has occurred to me that the performance which we have witnessed just now is not merely due to what has been apparent in the paper that has been read to you. There is something perhaps behind it, something connected with the electorates and the constituencies, and if you think, Sir, there is any such thing involved in that it would not be right "

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" A point of order, Sir. The hon. Member, Sir Venkatareddi Nayudu, is pursuing the course of action which has been ruled out of order by you."

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—" He is judging before time. I do not mean to say that they have not got really at heart what they said but I think there is behind it another purpose."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" I do not think the hon. Member is justified in going into the reasons behind the statement made by the Leader of the Opposition. If he wants to adduce any reason why he is continuing to sit in the Council, I shall be glad to hear him, provided he adduces any new points not raised by Mr. Ramaswami Mudaliyar."

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—" We have learnt in Courts, Sir, that Judges will be very angry if we raise points already raised; and being a lawyer of about 25 years' standing, you may take it that I won't repeat arguments already advanced. I only wanted to say one thing, and that was with reference to the coming elections. I only say this that this performance of to-day was meant really as an election tactics."

h March 1926]

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Question."

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—" They are not doing any service to this country or to themselves by this performance. On the other hand, we want to tell them in this Council, so that the country may know, that this performance is really a great injury to the country inasmuch as it is putting back the clock of progress in this land. It has been said that the reforms have been reactionarily worked in this province. On the other hand, instances after instances are known to you, Sir, as the President of this House, and to other Members of this Council that if there is any one province which has worked the reforms in the spirit in which they were conceived and with a sense of responsibility that they should succeed, it is only this province. Now, to-day, this act on the part of the Members might perhaps work a mischief which was not calculated by the gentlemen who have just now walked out. Are they not doing an injury to the country? Are they not doing an injury to the further advance of reforms in this country by this act of theirs? I wanted to mention this here, Sir, because it has been said that once a falsehood gets ahead, it is very difficult for truth to overtake it. I think that these words of mine will reach the country. I have nothing to quarrel with them. In fact, I will be missing many of the Members on the other side, especially the Member for the University of Madras, because it is really he who very often gave me the fillip to speak in this House. Personally, I feel it is a great loss to lose these Members from this House; but if it is a matter of election tactics, they have miscalculated and the country will tell them what it is that they were expected to do."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" Sir, I have to tell you, something of the attitude of the Independents of whom I have the honour to be a Member. There is absolutely no difference of opinion between the Independents and the Swarajists or even the Ministerialists as regards the goal to be attained by the Indians, namely, the attainment of swaraj. As regards that, there is no difference of opinion. Here I will not say whether I am going to agree or disagree with the sentiments expressed by the Swarajists and other Congressmen to-day in this House. Nor am I going to say anything against or in favour of the sentiments expressed by the Ministerialists. As I already said, the goal being the same, the difference between us, the Independents and the Swarajists, is as to the method to be pursued in the attainment of that object. We, the Independents, believe in the justice, in the uprightness and in the ultimate beneficence of the British Government. We believe that we have to work in co-operation with the Government and thereby to justify ourselves in getting at the goal that we all so earnestly desire for. At the same time, it is not our purpose to support the Government through thick and thin. You would have noticed, Sir, that on 90 out of 100 occasions, I have supported the Opposition and I had once the honour to sit along with the Opposition Members. Latterly, some difference of opinion arose as regards the method to be pursued in this House for the attainment of the object. One method was obstruction. I said 'No'. Another method was to adopt tactics somehow or other to thwart the Government. I said 'No'. I said that we, the Independents, are out for openness, for righting the Government wherever they are wrong, for supporting the Government when their measures are for the benefit of the people. We are here to support the Ministry when their measures are beneficent to the people and to oppose the Ministry when their measures are opposed to the interests of the people. In that spirit, I have opposed several measures brought in by the Ministry in this House. You very well know it, Sir. In short, the difference between us, the Independents and the Swarajists, is a difference in method, the object to be attained being the same. That being so, they think, they honestly think, and perhaps rightly think, that by future non-co-operation with this Government, they could attain their ends sooner than we. We believe that it is not the right method to pursue. We shall rather attain it later than earlier, if we are sure that we are going to attain it. I am one, Sir, who is always hopeful, who always placed confidence in the British justice. There may be people who may not be willing to give us our due rights, but on the whole the temper of the British nation is sound. We still think and believe so, and in that hope, Sir, and in that confidence, I, as a Member of the Independents and representing the Independents here, say that we have chosen to stay here and work with them and work against them until we get our object."

Mr. C. Natesa Mudaliyar rose to speak.

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"I think that we have had enough of these statements."

III

ELECTION OF A MEMBER TO THE COURT OF THE INDIAN INSTITUTE OF SCIENCE.

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"With reference to Regulation No. 8 of the scheme for the administration and management of the properties and funds of the Indian Institute of Science in Notification No. 1-10 (T), dated the 12th February 1926, made under sections 5 and 7 of the Charitable Endowments Act, 1890, the Director of the Indian Institute of Science has requested me to inform him of the name of the nominee of the Legislative Council on the Court of that Institute. For this purpose, the Council will proceed to elect a Member, and I prescribe 3 p.m. to-day as the latest time at which nominations of candidates should be presented to the Secretary. If the number of nominated candidates exceeds one, an election will be held and ballot papers for election will be distributed to the Members at some convenient time to-morrow. The ballot papers, after being marked, should be deposited in the ballot box provided for the purpose before 5 p.m. to-morrow, when the counting of the votes will commence. The election will be by the ordinary method and not according to the method of the single transferable vote."

ELECTION OF MEMBERS TO THE MADRAS AND SOUTHERN MAHRATTA RAILWAY ADVISORY COMMITTEE.

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Mr. President, Sir, I move that with reference to G.O. No. 55 Railway, this Council do recommend to Government to communicate to the Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway Company the names of two persons elected by this Council in accordance with the arrangements made in that behalf by the hon. the President to sit on the Advisory Committee of the said Railway on the 31st March 1926 when the term of office of the present Members of the Committee will expire."

The hon. Khan Babadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"I second it."

The motion was put to the House and carried.

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"It now remains for me to lay down the method by which election is to be held. I would suggest that hon. Members hand in nominations to the Secretary before 3 p.m. to-day. If the number of nominated candidates exceeds two, ballot papers will be distributed to hon. Members at any convenient time to-morrow for the purpose of holding an election. The election will be by the ordinary method and not according to the method of single transferable vote. The ballot papers should be deposited in the ballot box provided for this purpose before 5 p.m. to-morrow when the counting of the votes will commence."

MOTIONS ON THE BUDGET FOR 1926-27.

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"Before taking up the motions on the Budget, I have to inform the House that the Local Government have, under section 72-D (3) of the Government of India Act, indicated in italics in the Budget Estimates for 1926-27 those items in regard to which they are not submitting proposals to the House. They are ordinarily called 'non-votable' items. Under sub-rule (2) of rule 29 of the Madras Legislative Council Rules, His Excellency the Governor has been pleased to fix one day as the maximum for the discussion of the motions on each of the following Demands, viz., Land Revenue—Demand I, Education (Transferred)—Demand XIX and Civil Works (Transferred)—Demand XXX; and half a day as the maximum for motions affecting each of the other demands. In working this allotment, I propose to treat a day ordinarily as equivalent to five hours and half a day as equivalent to two and a half hours. But that definition will not apply to the total of ten days allotted; they are to be taken as ten ordinary days of sitting of the House."

"Neither the Rules nor the Standing Orders prescribe any time-limit for speeches to be made at this stage. I have, however, following the precedents of previous years, resolved to fix ten minutes as the time-limit for an hon. Member who moves the omission or reduction of a grant or of an item of a grant and also ten minutes for the hon. Member of the Government who has to answer the motion. All other hon. Members will have five minutes each."

"Hon. Members will kindly remember that under rule 29 (3) it will be my duty at 5 p.m. on the 26th March to put every question necessary to dispose of all outstanding matters in connexion with the Demands for Grants. The 29th March 1926 will be the day for the presentation of Further Demands for Grants."

DEMAND I—LAND REVENUE.

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"Mr. President, Sir, on the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor, I move "that the Government be granted a sum not exceeding 252.29 lakhs under the head 'Land Revenue Department'."

[16th March 1926]

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"I move the following motion, viz.—

'that the allotment of Rs. 9,10,100 for pay of permanent establishments be reduced by Rs. 37,692.'

"My object is to urge the omission of the provision made for extra twelve tahsildars, one deputy tahsildar, two deputy surveyors, one revenue inspector and 38 peons. It will be found from page 40 of the Civil Budget Estimates that there were in the current year 12 tahsildars, 50 deputy surveyors, 1,066 revenue inspectors and 12 peons. In the coming year it is proposed to increase the strength by the number I have indicated in my motion. It will be remembered, Sir, that there was a resolution passed in this Council that the Land Records establishments should be abolished. Accordingly, the Government abolished it for some time, but subsequently they sought to reintroduce the establishment partially. With the present increase in the strength, the whole staff would be reintroduced. I cannot see how this strength is required for the efficient discharge of public duties. I wish also to know whether any insurmountable difficulty has been felt in working without this establishment, especially as they had got on for some time without it. I now find that the revenue officials of the districts have got much less work than they had before. Some years before they were discharging various duties relating to Local Self-Government, Excise and even Income-tax. All this work has been taken away out of their hands and I do not see any reason why this establishment, which was once removed, should be restored. I am inclined to think that this sort of tactics on the part of the Government to introduce a part of the establishment this year and the other part in the next is not creditable to them. And when once they come to know of the decision of this House, it is their duty to loyally follow it and not to evade it in this manner. I submit this is not one of the methods that commend themselves to me. And I therefore submit that the provision should be deleted. At the same time, I do not press for the omission of the entire provision. I would allow the provision to be retained in the current year, but I am against increasing the strength in the coming year. I therefore submit, Sir, that the Government will be graciously pleased to accept my motion, especially in view of the fact that there are not so many Members here on the Opposition side to give their support to my measure and that it will be found very easy for the Government to oppose the motion with success. If the Government win now, there is not much glory in their success. But if they yield there is much glory in doing so. And I therefore appeal to the Government not to increase the number in the coming year."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 9,24,800 for pay of establishments be reduced by Rs. 101.'

"Sir, in giving notice of this motion I had in my mind a purpose more or less similar to that of my hon. Friend, the Member from Uddapah. As I have stated in the notice paper, it is to omit the provision for tahsildars if there is no well-considered scheme before the Government to carry out the Land Records work. I doubt in my own mind whether the Government have any very clear policy in regard to the Land Records administration of the province. Here is an endeavour made by the Government to reintroduce the tahsildars who had been done away with at one time. I want to know what exactly is the policy they have of which this forms a part. Is it their idea to reintroduce the entire system as it once existed in this Presidency? Are they going to have the Land Record revenue inspectors separately working under these tahsildars? Are they going to reappoint the Land Records Superintendent and the Director of Land Records? I want to know what it is that is proposed to be done in regard to this matter. There will be only one Land Records tahsildar for a district. Do they really expect that this tahsildar would be able to attend to the work of seeing that all the survey marks are properly maintained? There are not going to be evidently separate Land Records revenue inspectors. In other words, the ordinary revenue inspectors will be expected to do the work in addition to their duties. If that is so, why cannot the ordinary tahsildars also attend to the maintenance of these survey marks? It is with this idea that I have tabled this motion."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"Mr. President, Sir, in the first place, I would like to assure the hon. Member who first moved that the Government are always willing to consider any question on its merits irrespective of whether the Council has carried or rejected it. I can assure the hon. Member personally that I attach great value to his criticisms. In this particular matter the original scheme for ensuring the proper upkeep of land records registers and maps was that there should be an officer for the whole Presidency, under him some officers for certain groups of districts and under them again a tahsildar for each district and revenue inspectors. I am in agreement with those who argued that that system as a permanent arrangement was misconceived and wrong, and was rightly done away with. But as the revenue system of this Presidency requires the making of constant changes in our registers and maps and as, if they are not made, the registers get out of date and it entails very considerable expenditure to revise them, it is the duty of the ordinary revenue staff to carry out the changes as they arise and as they are sanctioned. It is the business of the ordinary revenue inspector, the ordinary tahsildar and the ordinary divisional officer to do this work. But it is necessary in this country to have inspecting agencies to see that the work is done, not only that, but in some cases to see to the technical processes that have to be performed and to assist the ordinary staff in cases of particular difficulty. It is not intended in any way to reintroduce or create a separate department but it is only intended to give the Collectors in each district some agency which will enable them to get inspections done and to satisfy themselves that sufficient attention has been paid to the subject by the karnams and other revenue subordinates who have received the necessary technical training and also to place at their disposal some agency for doing the difficult cases which happen to be beyond the power of the ordinary inspectors and tahsildars. It is with that object that a scheme for attaching an extra tahsildar to each district was laid before the Finance Committee. That Committee approved of the scheme but, having regard to the financial state of the province, they suggested that only half should be introduced in that year while the other half should be added the next. It was no crafty design on the part of the Government in some way to conceal the scheme from the cognizance of the House. The Government have simply adopted the advice of the Finance Committee and put one-half of the provision in the Budget for the current year which the House was pleased to grant and to put the other half in the Budget for the next year."

"Then, Sir, the hon. Member who spoke next on the motion asked what was the ultimate object, what was the policy of the Government on this matter. It is to do away with the necessity for resurveys and additional surveys and to keep the records up to date and in agreement with the actual holding so as to enable us, if the House approves of the scheme when it is fully developed, to introduce some system whereby our revenue registers will become records of title instead of merely serving as the bases of statistical information and as revenue collection registers. That is the policy, and it is only by training the staff and enforcing the various rules and orders of the Revenue Department by constant supervision that we can hope to bring the records in such order that we can venture to ask this House to sanction or approve of any legislation in the direction of making a record of rights. That is a goal which some may consider to be very distant but which we are hopeful of reaching if we are allowed to adopt sufficiently efficient administrative arrangements to see that the work which is proposed to be done is really done. That is the object of having this staff now. The method of introducing it piecemeal was adopted at the instance of the Finance Committee. I hope that the House will be pleased to approve of it."

12 noon.

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"Will the Government be agreeable to the out which I propose in the Survey department? If this is allowed, I do not wish to press this motion."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"The hon. Member cannot anticipate."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"Very good, Sir. Then I press the motion."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"I want to know whether the hon. the Revenue Member really has faith in what he has stated. Does he expect that these tahsildars will do away with the necessity for resurveys and revision surveys? I am afraid, Sir, that he really does not believe very much in what he says."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"Order, order. The hon. Member is not justified in saying that a Member of the Government does not believe in what he says."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"I was led to think so, Sir, from the tenor of the speech made by the hon. the Revenue Member. If I am wrong, I withdraw that expression. After all, these tahsildars cannot possibly undertake or satisfactorily discharge the work that is expected of them by the hon. the Revenue Member. If they cannot do it, then what is the use of proceeding with these appointments? The Government can wait and perhaps take one year more and prepare a scheme under which this work can be more satisfactorily attended to, and then come before the House for its approval of the scheme. I take strong objection, Sir, to this method of achieving their object by piecemeal introduction of items. At one time they come and ask for some tahsildars, and nobody knows what they are for; the House sanctions the expenditure; and next year they come again and ask for some more tahsildars, and so on."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"Sir, the hon. Member says that these officers are not going to do any work. But if all our village officers are properly trained and if our revenue inspectors are also well trained and supervise the work which the former are supposed to do, I do not see why we should not attain a much higher degree of accuracy than we have been able to attain so far. In the past, this mistake has always been made; one system was started and was worked for a year or two, and then another system was tried. Naturally there was little progress. We must in these matters follow a continuous policy. The system now under discussion has not been lightly devised. It was planned after very considerable discussion and examination, and very detailed rules have been issued on the subject, of which I shall be pleased to send the hon. Member a copy if he wishes, so that he may give me the benefit of his criticisms. He need have no doubt as to the earnestness of the Government in the matter. One hon. Member urges that the Revenue staff has little or nothing to do, the other hon. Member says that they cannot possibly do this record work. I do not see why they should not do this work efficiently; it is a matter of organization, supervision and training, and we hope, if in this matter a continuous policy and method is followed, that we will achieve the object we aim at. It is said that the number of tahsildars is arbitrarily fixed. It is not, because one tahsildar is provided for each major district in the Presidency, and a deputy tahsildar for the Nilgiris. The introduction of the scheme in halves in successive years, as I said before, was made at the instance of the Finance Committee and not at the instance of the Government."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"Finance Committee presided over by whom?"

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"Not by me, Sir."

The motion of Mr. Narasimhacharlu was put and lost.

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"My motion is covered by that of my hon. Friend, Sir, and so I do not press it to a division."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"I move, Sir,

'that the allotment of Rs. 92,400 for Miscellaneous under "Supplies and Services—General" be reduced by Rs. 80,000.'

"If we look at page 41 of the Budget, Sir, it takes away one's breath to see the provision of Rs. 92,400, whereas in the revised estimate of the current year only Rs. 3,000 is put; the budget estimate for the current year was Rs. 4,000 and in the accounts of 1924-25 you find nothing. I tried my best to understand it. It may be my fault that I did not avail myself of the good services offered by the hon. the Finance Member to go to him to remove any difficulties. But while I had this constitutional way of removing my difficulties, I felt it difficult to go to him to his chambers to remove my difficulties. I have to remove my own difficulties without going to his chambers and talking to him in camera. Therefore, I cannot at all understand why a large provision of Rs. 92,400 has been made under this heading 'Miscellaneous'. I have some idea of 'Miscellaneous' in dealing with Local Self-Government. Miscellaneous includes many things, some good, some bad, some indifferent, some expressible and some non-expressible, and so on. So, I think this is a provision which ought to go."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"Mr. President, Sir, there are various lands in this Presidency which were in the occupation of the Military department, and when the Military department no longer required them, the former practice was to hand them over to the Local Government which was at liberty to utilize them for public purposes. Since the Reforms, the Central departments have become separated from the Provincial departments, and the question was raised as to whether the value of such lands should not be credited to the Military department. The question was pending for a long time and was finally settled recently by the Secretary of State who laid down certain rules under which, in certain circumstances, the Local Government has to pay the value of the land which it takes over from the Military department when it wants that land for public purposes. Of the amount of this demand, some Rs. 59,000 represents the cost of such lands as we have already taken over and utilized subject to the settlement of the question referred to. We have therefore now to provide, in accordance with the decision in the matter, for paying that sum to the Army department. The other item is a sum of Rs. 30,000, which is provided for the payment of lands relinquished by railway companies in regard to which a similar principle applies, and we have to pay for those lands which they relinquished because they were not acquired at the cost of the Government but at the cost of the Central Government. That is the explanation of this provision of Rs. 92,400."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMACHARLU :—"Sir, I wish to know why we are bound to take the lands back either from the railway company or from the Military department. Are they really required by the Provincial Government either for giving them to the depressed classes or for some such beneficent purposes? Simply because the Military department says 'We do not want these lands', are we bound to take them back paying money for it? If they take the lands at first for a certain time and then return the lands to the Provincial Government, are we bound to pay for those lands back? If the Government really want these lands for our purposes, I can understand the meaning of it. But if we are to take back what is given to us, I must protest against such helplessness of the Government to the dictates of the railway company or even the Military department."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"I can assure the hon. Member, Sir, that we did not take the lands in the way he described. This provision refers only to such lands as were actually wanted for public purposes and were taken in past years subject to the settlement of the question of payment. I cannot give the hon. Member particulars of this matter which extended over five or six years. We are not bound to take the lands. If we do not want them, they may be sold to others. But if we want them, we must in certain circumstances pay for them."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"What I say is this: This amount is proposed to be spent next year. But I understand the hon. Member to say that we have taken those lands for public purposes. If so, they should have come before the House for a supplementary grant or must have made a provision in the last year's budget, in anticipation of the taking over of the lands. Some such thing must have been done. I do not understand him when he says that he took these lands for public purposes and that we are going to pay for it next year. I do not really understand how it was that the Government took possession of those lands in anticipation of approval of this House."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"It was because we wanted those lands. We first contended that they should be handed over to the Local Government without payment, but the matter has been ruled against us, and the orders have just come, and so the required amount is put into the budget. There was no need to move for a supplementary grant, as the matter has been brought before the House now, by a provision in the budget."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"May I know for what purposes the lands are required? That, I submit, is a reasonable question. I want to know why these lands were required, for whom, for what purposes. The hon. Member may answer the question seeing the reasonableness of it."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"May I ask the hon. Member to put all his questions in one speech?"

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"But these questions arise out of the answers given, Sir. Let him give all the answers all at once. That is the difficulty." (Laughter.)

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"The hon. Member has spoken about half a dozen times so far."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"As regards the lands taken from the Military department, I now learn that they were taken from that department to be sold to the Telephone Company, the receipts from which have been shown in another place in the budget, on the Revenue side."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"So, these lands are taken for the benefit of the public. But there are items in the succeeding pages of the budget which may not be quite satisfactory. If we get a set-off for this in other items of the budget, I do not press my motion."

* The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"May I move the motion No. 12 in the agenda paper standing in the name of Mr. Peddiraju, Sir?"

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"The hon. Member ought to be in his place. This is not like ordinary resolutions which are balloted for. No ballot is required for these motions and if Members send notice and are not present, they must take the consequences."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—"Sir, I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 13,48,000 for Charges of Administration be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"My object in moving this token motion is to suggest to the Government that coconut and jack plantations may be exempted from payment of assessment for the first eight years. According to the rules and the standing orders of the Board of Revenue, no waste land is liable to the payment of assessment the moment it is fenced round, and if the fence is kept for three years continuously the land is brought under assessment permanently.

"Sir, before planting coconut or jack or pepper it is highly necessary that a fence should be put up to prevent cattle from preying upon them. It requires under normal conditions six to eight years before the coconut or jack begins to bear fruit. Therefore those people who plant these have not only to incur the incidental expenses in connexion with the planting but have also to pay the revenue every year for some time. In other words, payment of assessment until the trees begin to bear has also to be treated as additional capital outlay. It will be a great inducement for people to start fresh plantations if the assessments on these lands are remitted. I hope Government will see their way to accept this proposal."

p.m.

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"Sir, the hon. Member who has made the motion was not correct in stating the case and drawing an analogy with the rules regarding plantations. He has forgotten to mention the fact that owing to the peculiar custom in Malabar nearly all waste land is private land and is not assessed. No rate is paid until and unless it is cultivated or occupied. In the east coast land is at the disposal of the Government and Government can assign them on assessment as they choose. Further, the climatic conditions in the east coast are such that there is need for encouraging tope plantations, whereas in the west coast they have a copious rainfall."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—"On a point of personal explanation Sir. My motion is confined only to the west coast where I know this system works great hardship."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"Yes. I am merely saying that the analogy is not quite complete. It is not fair to argue that there are such rules in the east coast. Land in Malabar is not as a rule at the disposal of the Government. It belongs to the ryot and he only pays the assessment if and when it is cultivated. The question that we should encourage coconut and jack cultivation in Malabar is a question which has not been raised before. I shall be glad to have it examined though I am not prepared to give any assurance about the result of the examination."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"I am afraid my hon. Friend the Revenue Member, has not understood the arguments which have been advanced by Mr. Prabhakaran Tampan. He did not make any comparison in respect of this motion between east coast and Malabar. What he stated in respect of this motion is that it is unfair to assess a particular plot simply because it is enclosed with a fence. For the purpose of rearing coconuts and jacks to the fruit-bearing stage it is necessary that at least eight years should pass and in order to protect these plants as soon as they are planted it is necessary to enclose them with fence. As soon as it is put up tax is put on. That is the ground that is urged in this proposition. No comparison has at all been made or attempted to be made between the conditions in Malabar and the east coast. Practically the whole argument of my hon. Friend, the Revenue Member, was based on the presumption that such a comparison was made. He has not understood the object of the motion. Even with reference to the conditions obtaining in Malabar there is nothing peculiar in the conditions of Malabar which makes the coconut and jack bear fruit earlier than the usual period. It was said that Malabar has copious rainfall. Very often in Malabar also rain fails. Even supposing it is not so these trees do not begin to bear fruit before six to eight years. Therefore there is nothing peculiar to Malabar. The hon. the Revenue Member said that land was not at the disposal of the Government in Malabar. I think these conditions have nothing to do with the question before the House. In the latter part of the hon. Member's statement he said he would examine these conditions, and that he has not examined them before and therefore he could not give any assurance that the particular Standing Order would be cancelled."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"It is a condition of the settlement and not a Standing Order."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"It is with reference to a Standing Order that this tax is levied. Whatever it is, whether it is a Standing Order or settlement, he has promised that he would examine the conditions and I think if he is convinced that there is nothing peculiar with reference to Malabar and that equity, good conscience and justice require that this tax should not be imposed, I hope Government will find their way to cancel it. Having regard to the observations of the hon. the Revenue Member, I may ask my hon. Friend to withdraw the motion."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—"Inasmuch as the hon. Member for Revenue has promised to examine the matter I beg leave of the House to withdraw the motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—"I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 13,48,000 for charges of Administration be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"As has been already stated by me the tahsildars have not got so much work to do as they used to have some years ago. The income-tax work has been taken away from them. At the same time the patta transfer work has been transferred to the Registration department. Moreover the Local Boards Act has relieved them of some of their work. The divisional officers also have not got so much work as they used to have some years ago. As presidents of local boards they had to do some work which they have not got to do now. In these circumstances, Sir, it will be better if the taluks and divisions are regrouped so as to give them sufficient work. Again with regard to the regrouping of the villages so as to provide for the restoration of the village officers who have been thrown out, no provision has been made in the budget. I do not know what the object of the Government is. According to the recent Bill which has been passed by this Council some of the village officers have to be restored by the end of this year—i.e., in December 1926. So, Sir, I should like to know what the object of the Government is with regard to these village officers."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"Mr. President, with regard to the question of regrouping taluks and divisions it is to be supposed that the hon. Member is aware that this question has been examined in every district in the Presidency and such regroupings have been made in several cases. I will just give a list of the cases. In Ramnad the Deputy Tahsildar division was abolished at Virudupatti. In Bellary, Siruguppa taluk was abolished and I see one hon. Member has tabled a motion to restore that. In Guntur, in Malabar, Cuddapah, Nellore, Coimbatore and other districts regroupings are under consideration and are strongly opposed by hon. Members representing the districts."

* Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"Yes, Sir, I opposed the proposal."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"Yes, Sir, it is opposed. What I wish to point out is that although we examine the matter and pass orders according to circumstances in each district so as to effect retrenchment, local opinion is always strongly against such abolition. Where it is possible and where it is to the public advantage we have reduced the number of taluks and divisions."

[Mr. N. E. Marjoribanks] [16th March 1926]

"As regards the village officers hon. Member must be aware that the main condition which was mentioned at the outset before the restoration Bill was passed was that the total cost must not exceed the present cost. The Act has not yet come into force. Instructions have however been issued to the Board of Revenue to be ready to make the necessary changes with effect from the 1st July. But budget totals will not be affected."

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—"In view of the explanation given, I beg leave to withdraw the motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—"I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 13,48,000 for charges of Administration be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"Let me first of all thank you for giving me this opportunity for making this motion. Sir, my grievance is that Government orders regarding communal representation are being neglected by the Government themselves. Sir, I move this resolution not with a feeling against any community in the land, because I love all the communities. (Hear, hear.) I move this resolution because I am convinced that the elevation of the country depends upon the elevation of all the communities in this land. (Hear, hear.) If appointments are given to these communities they will have power in their hands and that will stimulate them to further progress. If I stay in this House to-day without walking out with the Swarajists, it is because I am convinced that the party to which I belong have got this communal plank and they are doing constructive work towards a permanent Swaraj. Swaraj built upon this communal foundation alone will be a permanent one. So, Sir, though I want Swaraj to-day, while the Swarajists want Swaraj to-morrow, I am here in this Council. Among the ten appointments for provincial service officers in the cadre of Collectors, there is only one non-Brahman Collector and that is a Muhammadan Mr. Bazl-ul-lah. Sir, about the other staff employed in the various Collectors' offices 25 per cent alone are distributed over the 97 per cent of the communities including non-Brahmans, Muhammadans, Indian Christians, Anglo-Indians, Jains, Parsees, Domiciled Europeans, etc. All these communities number 97 per cent of the population while all the appointments are given to one community. Here too, I may say that I have nothing against any particular community. I am only moving this motion to plead for all the communities and for the elevation of the country. Then, Sir, taking the Chingleput district, in the Revenue establishment, there are 256 appointments out of which only 46 appointments were made available for all the other communities in this land. With these few words, I move my motion."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"Sir, the hon. Member has voiced his dissatisfaction in the matter which we have often heard debated in this House, viz., the extent to which communal representation should be given in the services, and the extent to which effect should be given to the Government orders on the subject. The hon. Member must be aware, since he is a member of that committee, that the Government appointed a committee of this House last year to make such proposals as are feasible and right for rectifying any defect that might have been found in the working of those Government orders. As a matter of fact, they have not worked so very badly, having regard to the short time that they have been in force. I see from the latest statement that there has been a considerable readjustment of the proportions between the different communities in the last three or four years. Naturally, that readjustment has taken place more in the initial stages of recruitment than higher up. Because, it is not possible to deny the promotion that is due to deserving officers and promotion has to be made irrespective of caste or creed. I really do not know what the hon. Member wishes the Government to do. They have appointed a committee and are awaiting their recommendations. If the hon. Member will examine the statement of appointments made, he will find there has been a good deal of effect given to the orders of Government. I have no doubt that when the recommendations of that committee come in, Government will be able to see their way perhaps to doing something more in the desired direction."

* Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"Mr. President, I have given notice of a similar motion in connexion with another portion of this Revenue budget. But since I see that all the points relating to this question have also been raised under this motion, I also wish to speak on that point at this stage. My motion is No. 64 on the agenda paper under Collectors and Magistrates. I have no objection to reserve my speech till that stage is reached. But, as the whole ground has been traversed here, I do not want to be shut out at this stage."

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Cannot the hon. Member move it now?"

* Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"With regard to Collectors, my hon. Friend has already touched on the points in his speech."

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"With regard to the latter portion of Mr. Ramaswami Mudaliyar's motion regarding Magistrates, he may move that later on."

* Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"Then, may I have the liberty to speak on the Collectors at this stage?"

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Yes, yes."

* Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"Mr. President, I must confess to a feeling of helplessness in trying to tackle this question of communal representation. We have passed resolutions innumerable; we have asked questions galore; we have tried to make representations in several ways. It may be our own fault, it may be that the Government does not know how to approach this question. I am aware, Mr. President, and the hon. the Revenue Member has reminded us that a committee of this House is sitting to consider this question. With reference to one aspect of the question, I should like to make a personal appeal to the hon. the Revenue Member. No doubt, it is perfectly true that it is more easy to make inequalities equal at the initial stage. I also recognize that there is a certain vested interest among those officers who are already in service and it may not be as fair as in the other cases that men who are already in service should have their claims overlooked. But, it seems to me, Sir, especially in considering the higher services that the question of communal representation has been neglected almost entirely. I shall reserve my remarks on the Judicial service and the Civil service to a later occasion, and I will confine myself to the Revenue department at present. As my hon. Friend has just pointed out, there are ten gentlemen in the position of Collectors to-day, of whom nine belong to one particular community and only one belongs to the Muhammadan community. Of the six permanent Collectors, only one is a Muhammadan, and of the four temporary Collectors none of them are either non-Brahmans, Christians or Muhammadans. Let me just compare that position with the position as it obtained previous to the Reformed Council, previous to this agitation regarding communal representation and previous to the resolutions passed by this House on the subject. At that time, Sir, there were two Muhammadan gentlemen as permanent Collectors, and there was an Indian Christian, your late distinguished predecessor in office, who held the position of the grade of a Collector, and there were two gentlemen belonging to the Brahman community. Out of five we had three non-Brahmans, using that term in the broadest sense possible. At present out of ten, we have one.

"Now, Sir, a great deal is made of seniority of claims of those who are already in service. As I began my speech, I wish to respect those claims wherever possible. But it seems to me that in the communal representation order issued by Government if it was recognized that promotions would not be wholly by seniority, the hon. the Revenue Member would be the first to repudiate the suggestion that appointments to the grade of Collectors are made wholly on considerations of seniority. Let me put another aspect of the question which I am certain the hon. the Revenue Member will recognize immediately. There are appointments called listed appointments, places reserved for officers of the Provincial Service. Now, it happens, it has happened in the past more than once, and my friends in the Indian Civil Service will bear out that statement, that while those of the Indian Civil Service have put in a longer term of years, some of the Provincial Service who had put in a shorter term of service were promoted over the heads of those Indian Civil Service men, to the listed appointments. Now, I ask if there is not an underlying injustice in that sort of appointments, and if that injustice is permitted, what is the use of those rules made by the Secretary of State? Now I ask where is the injustice in earmarking a definite percentage of appointments in these highest of all appointments which no man can naturally expect to get, which no man can claim to be eligible to merely because of his seniority, where is the injustice in earmarking a certain percentage of these highest appointments to unrepresented communities? If a Provincial Service man could become a permanent Collector, as indeed it has happened in the past, in his 31st or 32nd year of service,—I do not want to go into personalities; I am certain the House will realise it—now after 15 or 16 years a Provincial Service officer could be made a permanent Collector. While members of the Indian Civil Service, Europeans and Indians alike, men belonging to the ruling class, men who have had their training in England and been sent to the 'steel-frame' service, could not within that space of time get the appointment of permanent Collector, are you prepared to say that it is an injustice to earmark a few appointments? What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander. If by the members of the Indian Civil Service themselves it is looked upon as the highest of the appointments to be made permanent Collectors, where is the injustice in earmarking a few of the appointments for a particular set of people? I ask, where is the difficulty for Government in earmarking a certain number of those appointments to men of particular communities. Personally speaking, I do not want to make a differentiation of castes, and I know that sort of thing is dangerous (Mr. A. Ranganatha Mudaliyar: 'Hear, hear'). I am very glad that I have got the approbation of my hon. Friend from Bellary to what I said. Sir, if that cannot be done, I really think that we might give up this question of communal representation altogether. Let us not repeat it ad nauseum. Let the hon. the Revenue Member get up from his place and say 'I shall not countenance this agitation. There is no good of your worrying me. It is a hopeless affair.' We know special appointments will be created; we know all those people will get them. Not only that. Supposing there are four appointments at present thrown open to members of the Provincial service and you give the four appointments to the seniors, in course of time, they will multiply into eight. These four appointments will in two years become six, from six it will become eight. Another Special Officer may be appointed for acquisition work. He is now called a Special Officer, but he will become a Collector very soon. Then there are other appointments. The Director of Industries is thrown open to the Provincial Service. Appoint another in his place. Then, I ask where is the injustice again in earmarking these new appointments at least, in earmarking a special percentage out of the total number of appointments, to particular communities. If in the service when they entered as deputy collectors, they did not expect to have any more than four appointments that will be open to them, their cadre has been increased and the opportunities of getting more promotions have been increased, and yet the hon. the Revenue Member on behalf of the Government is pursuing a policy which will keep us permanently out. If you say that seniority is the only test and if you say when a senior is there that merit is the only test, we are between the deep sea and the other thing. Now, I make a personal appeal to the hon. the Revenue Member. I know that constantly he is in sympathy with many of our ideas.

"I am aware that what is human in him will respond. I do not want to take my stand on the Government order on communal representation or on the number of questions we are in a position to put. I say I have ceased to believe in this, namely, that resolutions of the House are going to be of any effect, so far as this particular matter is concerned. You are backed up by the idea that though we may pass resolutions by an overwhelming majority, there is yet a strong vocal minority which will help you, which will plead your case, which will come to your rescue, and there lies the strength of your power in opposing communal representation. Therefore I do not stand by the resolutions of this House. What is the position in the districts. If nine districts are ruled by persons of one caste—I have excluded by calculation members of the steel frame, then of course we have no voice. What is the position in this presidency? I now find that a new policy is being followed with reference to the recruits in the Indian Civil Service. At one time the Madrasis who passed into the Indian Civil Service almost invariably got into other presidencies. I find there is a danger here too. I want to strike a note of warning, not indeed for the Government, because Government may give very little heed to what I say, but for my own people, if in the case of recruits recruited in the very province of their origin, the wholesome policy of what is applicable to other provinces is departed from, that is a note of warning not to members of Government, but to my own community. It is for them to devise ways and means. There is the final test. There is sufficient authority behind these demands that we have repeatedly placed before the Government. I have had an opportunity of going to several parts of the Presidency; and without trying to cast any slur on any official or head of the district, I may say there is a deep seated, rankling feeling amongst members of the community that things are not going on all-right. The other day you published an administration report. Fortunately or unfortunately, you appended a note regarding employment of different communities there. Are you satisfied, I ask the Treasury Bench, with the position of affairs revealed by the very note? In regard to gazetted appointments, including all communities, Anglo-Indians, Europeans, the depressed classes and the 300 and one castes in Southern India, we have not got as many appointments as one single community has. Not only in gazetted appointments. As to appointments on Rs. 100 and above it is the same thing. In regard to appointments between Rs. 35 and Rs. 100 it is the same thing. We have got vested interests, we have got all our interests protected by a benign Government, when it comes to a question of appointments below Rs. 35. I am sorry that nothing has been done even after the communal Government Order. I do not want to suggest that the Staff Selection Board, about which I have spoken so often even to weariness, has not done anything. Only the other day, the question of selection of Sub-Inspectors for my district came up well, the less said about it, the better. There are other questions like that. I do not want to go into those questions of detail, of minor policy. Here is the question of main policy with reference to the officer, who is the representative of King-Emperor in the district. What are you going to do? Are you going to perpetuate this position? We shall take the answer and we shall try to seriously think over the matter again. I do not want to pursue the matter. I make a human appeal to the hon. the Revenue Member. I know if he has got the power of his other colleagues he will do it. I am emphasising on the highest administrative posts. I am not considering the question of Staff Selection Board and the S.S.L.C. candidates, I am referring to the highest administrative posts—posts that have been newly opened up, posts started last month—how are these administrative posts to be filled in? If we see no hope, well, as I said, we shall have to revise our opinions."

p.m.

[Mr. A. Ramaswami Mudaliyar] [16th March 1926]

* Mr. P. N. MARTHANDAM PILLAI:—"Mr. President, Sir, some of us are really serious about communal representation. I ask Government whether they are really serious about this question. We have been repeatedly agitating this question both here and outside. Has the Government bestowed that amount of attention that the subject deserves? My answer to it is an emphatic 'No'. My hon. Friend from Chingleput limited himself to the highest administrative posts. I will take you through the lower administrative posts. I can understand cases in which vested interests are sought to be put forth, people who have already entered service. They are crying out that their promotion has been jeopardised when communal representation comes in. What about the initial recruitment? Take the various cases of sub-inspectors and deputy inspectors of the various departments of Government."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"We are now concerned with the Revenue Department."

* Mr. P. N. MARTHANDAM PILLAI:—"I will confine myself to the Revenue inspectors, tahsildars and deputy collectors. In all these cases, have the interests of the non-Brahmans been looked after? Have the Government done anything to advance their interests? Time and again we have agitated on the floor of this House. Did the hon. the Revenue Member satisfy himself that the claims of the non-Brahmans, that the Government order on communal representation have been given effect to? We are satisfied that the interests of the non-Brahmans have not been attended to. We represent the large millions of this Presidency; we are agitating for our rights. What we ask for is to take a reasonable view of these things and attend to them at an early date."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"Mr. President, Sir, while my non-Brahman friends are very eloquent over the neglect of communal representation in services, I beg to point out to the House that the non-Brahman Ministry and those who are responsible for the appointment . . ."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"The Revenue Department is not under the jurisdiction of any of the Ministers. We are now on the Revenue Department only."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"I will mention an illustration."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"That is for a later stage."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"At least those who advise the Revenue Department; The non-Brahman Ministry is bound to advise the other half on various appointments. They entirely exclude the interests of Indian Christians. They think that Indian Christians are either like a Brahman community or are in the position of a new untouchable community like Brahmans and leave them alone. The Indian Christians in the regular departments are entirely neglected. I do not want to give figures. But I raise this note of warning against my non-Brahman friends ignoring the interests of Indian Christians. They want to ignore them deliberately by saying that they are overrepresented in the services in proportion to their numbers. I for one would urge upon the attention of the Government and the House, the importance, of bearing in mind, at least in the case of Indian Christians, their sacrifice of men and money in the cause of education and their great progress in education. I think this fact of their great progress in education should be recognized as an important factor, because our community is on the whole, except in one or two towns, where there is some sort of advance in wealth, very very backward economically, and those in villages are very very backward in education too. Considering these facts I hope the Reserved Half as well as the Ministry will take into consideration not merely our numerical strength but also the great advance we have made in education, the large number of candidates that are now qualified in proportion to the number and give sympathetic consideration to the claims of this community."

Mr. R. MADANAGOPAL NAYUDU:—"Sir, I wish also to submit that due recognition has not been given to the Government Order regarding communal representation. I am glad that Mr. Saldanha has expressed his practical sympathy with our aspirations, though a few minutes back I thought he was giving up his case because when he was quoting figures he quoted the extent of literacy among Brahmans and said that Indian Christians came nearest to them and suggested that the interests of his community should be safeguarded. If he pleaded for merit and merit alone, then the highest community or the community which had a greater amount of literacy would occupy every place leaving none for his community, so that in supporting communal representation I am glad of his not advocating the claims of his particular community to-day but has left it in the hands of the movers of this motion. I therefore feel that the time has come when special attention should be paid to the enforcement of the particular Government Order."

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" Sir, I wish to make a few observations in connexion with this communal representation. We have passed G.O. No. 658, dated 15th August 1922, regarding communal representation in the public services. What do we find after all here after passing this grand Government order? Only the other day I quoted figures to show how far the depressed classes are being represented in public services. If you will kindly go through the proceedings of Wednesday, the 4th November 1925, page 945, you will readily see that the members who are overrepresented in several departments of Revenue are being encouraged. Is this called communal representation? In this country, we have numerous communities. Only the other day I have quoted that there are three thousand and odd different communities and castes. When such is the case I think it is very essential that members of all communities should be given the opportunity to serve in the public services. So far as the depressed classes are concerned, I am very sorry to state that the result of the resolution is far from satisfactory. In several of these departments I find that owing to sentimental objection they are not at all being encouraged. I hope that hereafter at least due regard will be given to the very order passed by the Government. I am glad the hon. the Revenue Member in charge of this department is making a noble attempt. But we are not at all concerned with the attempt that he is making. He might make one thousand and one laudable attempts. But what is the result. We are particular only about results. Can the hon. the Revenue Member boast of one single achievement in this direction? I ask the hon. the Revenue Member to give due regard to the Government order passed by Government, so that the depressed classes may have ample opportunities of entering and serving in the public departments of Government."

1 p.m.

Mr. ABBAS ALI KHAN SAHIB :—" Sir, I want to associate myself with hon. Members who have spoken on this motion. As regards the Muhammadan community I know, Sir, that the hon. the Revenue Member is anxious to do what he can for the benefit of the Muhammadan community and yet I find that no representation has been given to the Muhammadan community in the Secretariat of Madras"

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Which Secretariat ?"

Mr. ABBAS ALI KHAN SAHIB :—" Revenue Secretariat."

* " I hope that the hon. the Revenue Member will illustrate his sympathy practically by giving one of the appointments in the Revenue Secretariat to the Muhammadan community."

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—" I am very glad that my hon. Friend Mr. Saldanha has been supporting me so well. He has always stood as an anti-communalist and yet fighting for his own community (laughter)."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" I assert that I am against Mr. Natesa Mudaliyar in this matter. So far as some of the Indian Christians are concerned, I base my claims on their merit and the greater advance which they have made in education than some of the other communities. If there are other communities who have neglected their education and yet want to share the plum, I will not support their claims. I have made it very clear that I base my claim on merit and merit mainly, and we want that justice should be done to those who have got merits in them for holding appointments in public services. I feel that great injustice has been done to my community in every department. I have drawn up the figures"

16th March 1926]

* Mr. P. N. MARTHANDAM PILLAI :—" On a point of order, Sir. Is that personal explanation ?"

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Yes."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" I do assert that I did not stand for merely communal representation."

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—" I have been telling nothing but that. I submit that we too, Sir, take our stand on merit and communalism. Coming to the remarks of Mr. Ramaswami Mudaliyar who said that higher administrative appointments should be given to our community, I say that we should have appointments even to the last grade distributed to the various communities. Some members may not want it, but I have been fighting for this principle for all my life time and I will fight for it in this Council till I leave it. Communal resolutions have been passed in this Council not only by one party, but sometimes by all parties in the Council including the Brahmans. In spite of all this, I do not see why Government should be so stubborn as not to observe the Government Order. With all the arguments advanced by the hon. the Revenue Member I can assure him that Government are not observing the Government Order and if there are any who are non-co-operating with Government it is the Government subordinates. Sir, there is no meaning in telling that adjustments are being made. We are worse off than what we were before the Reformed Council came into existence, and before resolutions on communal representation were passed in this Council. As for the claims of the Indian Christian community for whose cause my hon. Friend Mr. Saldanha has been fighting, I think the increase in the percentage of appointments given to the non-Brahman community in general is due to the fact that the Indian Christian community has been given many of the appointments, because they are available. I do not grudge this, because I have been fighting for them and also for my Muhammadan friends."

Mr. ABBAS ALI KHAN SAHIB :—" Hear, hear."

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—" Let all Indian Christians and all Muhammadans think that we, as belonging to the non-Brahman community, are fighting and will never hesitate to do anything in our power for advancing their interests and that anything we are doing, we are doing not only for our own communities but also for other communities."

Mr. ABBAS ALI KHAN SAHIB :—" Question."

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—" Well, Sir, in fact the non-Brahman Hindu community have not been conferred so much benefit as other communities including Anglo-Indians and domiciled Europeans as the result of the Party's work. We are doing good to all communities including the community to which my hon. Friend, Sir Alexander MacDougall, belongs (laughter). We want elevation of all the communities and therefore we will do all that lies in our power to elevate all the communities that deserve elevation.

"Sir, we have been in this Council for the last six years and we have been passing resolutions after resolutions and also Government Orders, and what is the result? If you go to the electorate now, you will have to say that you have done nothing for them. At least the Reserved half have done nothing for the various communities. In the beginning we had hopes that they would do something. Now, Sir, everything is hopeless. I do not know how we are going to face the electorate. I do not know what the attitude of the Government is and why they are so stubborn with regard to the claims of the non-Brahman communities. Now the hon. the Revenue Member tells us that a committee was appointed and has not submitted its report. I ask, Sir, if that committee has not reported, what prevented the hon. the Revenue Member from observing the Government Orders strictly which have already been passed by the Government. I am extremely sorry that he has not followed that step. Although I have got my personal respect to the hon. the Revenue Member, I am compelled to press this motion to a division."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR:—"Personally I regard it somewhat of a misfortune to the administration of this Presidency that we should never cease from having this question of communal representation in the services being brought up in this House. Let it be admitted that at the time when the Reforms were introduced the services, the provincial services, and more especially the higher ranks of these services, were largely manned by members of a particular community. But it was not because the Government at that time had any special partiality for that community or desired in any way to show it special favour. The plain fact is that that community with the development of administration in this country and the opportunities for employment which this afforded devoted themselves to acquiring that standard of education which the Government prescribed as forming the minimum qualification for the different grades in the services. That is a fact which I do not think any one can deny, that one particular community more than any other took advantage of those opportunities and the consequences that followed from that were perfectly natural and, I may say, inevitable. I do not propose to discuss in detail the attitude of other communities but I may say this much: that since the Reforms there has been a greater desire on the part of the members of those communities not only to raise themselves to a position of equality in the public services but also to place themselves in that position of political equality which education confers on members of all communities. And as a natural consequence of this desire they proceeded to raise a cry for appointments and claim that they should be represented in the public services in proportion to their numerical strength. That principle, generally speaking, the Government has accepted and has no desire to depart from, and given those qualifications which any Government must set down as the minimum qualifications which are essential for the efficiency of administration, in making appointments to the services the Government agree that belonging to any particular community or communities which are only slightly represented in the public services must not be regarded as any disqualification for such appointments. But while admitting that, that we should every six months or once a year dig this whole question up and consider how matters are progressing seems to me to be proceeding entirely on wrong lines. Inequalities of this kind cannot possibly be redressed within a few years."

[Mr. T. E. Moir]

"At present I am concerned only with what has happened in the case of the Revenue Department. If some members of the House think that the opportunities in this department which have been afforded to those communities which are now struggling for this method of expression have been limited, may I point out to them that it is very largely due to the direct action of this House itself? Ever since the Reforms came into existence there has been persistent pressure upon the Reserved half of the Government to curtail their establishments and abolish some of these appointments."

(Mr. A. Ramaswami Mudaliyar took the chair.)

"To this expressed desire of the House the Revenue Department has given very full adherence. I have a few figures here to show that in a period of 4 years, i.e., from 1922 which more or less corresponds to the date at which Dr. Natesa Mudaliyar and others brought this issue into prominence, in the case of non-gazetted officers on Rs. 35 to 100 there has been a reduction of 452 posts. In the case of non-gazetted officers on Rs. 100 and over there has been a reduction of 27 posts. Now, Sir, I have no intention of entering on a discussion of the question as to whether 'A' had a preferential title to a particular appointment or 'B' had. I merely wish to draw attention to the results as a whole. As regards the non-gazetted officers on Rs. 35—100 where there has been a total reduction of 452 appointments there are now 518 fewer Brahmans holding appointments of that nature."

"That at any rate is some measure of the extent to which the Revenue Department has carried out what was the intention underlying the resolutions passed in this House. In the case of non-gazetted officers on Rs. 100 and over where there has been a reduction of 27, the reduction in the case of the Brahman community has been 36. That is to say in the case of these two very large classes of appointments in the Revenue Department that one community has lost considerably more than the total number of posts reduced. It is perfectly true that if we take those castes, which for purposes of classification, are scheduled as non-Brahmans there is a slight decrease in their cases also. In the first class, that is to say, non-gazetted officers on Rs. 35—100 there is a reduction of 13. In the case of non-gazetted officers on Rs. 100 and over there is a reduction of 2. But I know my hon. Friends Dr. Natesa Mudaliyar and Mr. Ramaswami Mudaliyar, when they refer to the non-Brahman community, did not use the term in that restricted sense. I understand that so far as they are concerned they agree that an increase in the number of Muhammadans or Indian Christians or of members of the depressed classes who are holding appointments under Government would equally satisfy the desire and the object with which these resolutions were moved."

"I may give a few figures more regarding the Indian Christian community for Mr. Saldanha's benefit. There is a reduction of 12 in the case of appointments on Rs. 35 to 100, an increase of three in the case of non-gazetted officers on Rs. 100 and over. In the case of Muhammadans where owing to their late entry into the field we might naturally expect to see the largest increase, there is an increase of 76 posts in the case of non-gazetted officers on Rs. 35 to 100; and in the case of non-gazetted officers on Rs. 100 and over there is an increase of 11. I am unable to give the House the exact figures regarding the depressed classes, because their classification seems to have given rise to considerable trouble and they have now been classified as "Depressed classes and others." At present therefore I am unable to say what exactly the position is in regard to the depressed classes. But on the larger issue, surely, these figures do not show that in the Revenue Department due consideration is not being shown to the claims of various communities."

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—"The statistics are given in the Proceedings of this Council, dated 4th November 1925, at page 945. That shows that even punkah-pulling work is not allotted to the members of the depressed classes." (Laughter.)"

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"The figures I have do not tally with those of the hon. Member. But, Sir, surely these figures do show, having regard to what has happened during the last few years, that the Reserved half has had due consideration to the object which was in the mind of the House when they moved these resolutions."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"Except in the case of the Indian Christian community."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"I do not think the Indian Christian community have fared at all badly, or that it has borne an undue share of the reduction which has taken place in the number of appointments in a department in which any increase of any kind is jealously scrutinized and challenged by this House. The Indian Christian community, a highly educated community, like some of the important non-Brahman communities, finds that it has to make way for those other communities which are not duly represented and are now pushing their way to the front. That seems to me to be the inevitable consequence of the principle that as far as possible every community in the country shall have a fair share in the administration of the Revenue or any other department. I do not think that there is any justice in the complaint that the Revenue Department has been neglectful of this question of communal representation or that the facts give any reason to press for a vote against the department."

* Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"What about superior appointments?"

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"As regards the superior appointments those that are under the control of this Government relate to the Provincial Civil Service. The higher posts in that service comprise of posts that were once reserved for the All-India Service and have now been listed. The number of posts has been increasing during the last two years, and has not yet been finally fixed. As regards the principle upon which those posts should be filled, the Local Government awaits the decision of the higher authorities as to the extent to which provision should be made for communal representation in recruiting for the All-India Services. Hon. Members are perhaps aware that last year the hon. the Home Member of the Government of India stated in the Legislative Assembly that one-third of the appointments of the All-India Services would be reserved for the purpose of meeting the demand of communal representation. We have been waiting for the rules on the subject in order to consider what rules we should adopt here. The hon. Member referred to the existing appointments. If he would look at the list he would find that the officers who are holding the appointments have been holding them for a very considerable number of years past. I think there has been only one appointment recently made. It was a very special and temporary appointment and, there is no likelihood of its becoming a permanent one. The officer concerned retires next year. I do not think the blame, if there is any blame, rests on this Government. I do not think that anybody in this House would urge that people who have been holding the appointments for a considerable number of years should be deprived of them simply on the ground that they are of a particular caste or community. As regards the future, we are awaiting the rules to be framed by the Secretary of State so that we may issue rules regarding the provincial services generally."

[Mr. N. E. Marjoribanks]

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"May I request the hon. Member to speak up a little so that the whole House may hear? The reporters also are anxious to hear. I also should like to hear what the hon. Member says."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"As regards the other services generally, we are awaiting the report of the Committee to see whether it would be possible for us to issue any further instructions besides the Government Orders with which the House is already familiar."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"Is the hon. Member, Mr. Natesa Mudaliyar, pressing this motion?"

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—"Yes, Sir."

The motion was put to the House and declared lost.

A poll was demanded by Mr. Natesa Mudaliyar and the House divided thus:

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—“ 20 hon. Members voted for the motion, 25 against it; and 9 hon. Members remained neutral. The motion is lost.”

The House then adjourned for lunch.

After Lunch (2-30 p.m.)

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—“ I move

‘that the allotment of Rs. 1,40,200 for temporary establishments be reduced by Rs. 50,000.’

“ Every year, surveys and settlements carry away a lot of money by way of temporary establishments. The temporary establishment never ceases to exist and it is of a permanent character. It is of a temporary permanent character. The Government have not thought fit to reduce this temporary establishment. I would suggest that instead of abolishing all the temporary establishment altogether, the Government would find their way to reduce the temporary establishment costing Rs. 50,000. I submit, Sir, that this motion of mine is by way of raising a protest against the Government keeping this temporary establishment. Every year we find provision for such temporary establishments.”

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—“ I have given notice of a motion for reduction with the same idea, regarding these temporary or permanent professional survey parties. I am referring to my motion (No. 25).”

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—“ They are different motions. They are not token motions but regular motions for reduction.”

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—“ Sir, the item now under discussion is the allotment for the temporary establishment in the Central Survey Office. This establishment is on a temporary and not on a permanent footing because the work is of such a nature that it cannot continue for any considerable time; and if we make the establishment permanent we would incur heavy pension charges. The particular demand that the hon. Member is taking exception to is first, for a small establishment for preparing the maps of municipal towns which have been surveyed, second for establishments preparing geographical details for the district maps; and third for a large staff to do work for the Government of India Survey Department and that Government pay for it. The budget estimate gives the amount we recover for the latter item. The other two items, I submit, are very desirable pieces of work, and I do not see why this House should wish that we should not do them. It would not be justifiable to make the establishment permanent because this work, by its very nature, will come to an end in a few years.”

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—“ Sir, I move

“ I refer in this connexion to the survey that was undertaken or might be going on in South Kanara. With fairly good knowledge of my own taluks—northern taluks—I know that they have already been surveyed. The opinion of a large number of land-owners and land-lessees is that the resurvey is quite uncalled for. The survey of South Kanara was done in the year 1901 at a cost of something like nine lakhs of rupees and there was settlement afterwards at a cost of seven lakhs of rupees as a result of which, the assessment was raised to over ten lakhs of rupees practically more than double the original revenue. Having had to pay increased revenue and after such a tremendous cost of nine lakhs and seven lakhs of rupees for survey and settlement, we look aghast at a further survey of our district. We have the experience of several hon. Members representing other districts of the survey, re-survey and resettlements going on periodically and perpetually with a permanent establishment, with additional establishment and with temporary establishment. We wonder why the re-survey is undertaken and what is the necessity for it. We have got, Sir, a large establishment, what is called the Land Records establishment, which was temporarily abolished by this Council but which has been revived now with one tahsildar on an average for each district. The work of this department is to revise and correct the survey records from time to time and from year to year as there are changes in the demarcation of land by partition or by construction of new railways or for any other reasons, so that the revision of the survey records is kept on always and there is an up-to-date record of the survey, though not a record of the rights for which I have been urging. We have at least a very carefully drawn up record of the survey and of the changes in the division of the lands or in the demarcation of the lands so that, if the land record revision is made carefully in every district—it is made very carefully in my district—I am sure that there would be no need for resurvey of the majority of the districts. The other day I put a question as to whether Kanara was to be fully resurveyed and I got the assurance from the hon. the Revenue Member that the point was under consideration, that it was very likely that the survey would stop with Kasaragod where there was necessity to resurvey it and that there would probably be no resurvey of the other taluks. We were glad to have that assurance from the hon. the Revenue Member. I am sure the hon. Member with his sympathy and experience of our people will not insist upon a resurvey of our district if it is not absolutely necessary.

“ I therefore appeal to the hon. the Revenue Member that in spite of the pressure that there might be from the Survey department, Government will be kind enough not to sanction any resurvey of the district unless it is absolutely necessary. I am sure our people in Kanara who are a very industrious class of people, who do much work for cultivation at their own cost and who are very careful payers of revenue, will do their utmost to help the Land Records department by furnishing a very correct record of the lands to the Settlement Officers when they come for settlement operations which must have commenced by now. I am sure that our ryots will not hesitate to supply the Settlement Officers with a correct record of their land, so that whatever the assessment—I hope there will not be any necessity for increase—the officers will have no difficulty in getting a correct estimate of the extent of the land and the produce of the land.”

p.m.

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" Sir, in the first place, I would assure the House that the Government have not the intention of resurveying any area unless it is absolutely necessary in the interests of the ryotwari holders. In South Kanara the only taluk where it has been found necessary to have a resurvey because of the imperfection of the existing records is Kasaragod. It is the taluk in which one of the survey parties is engaged. The work has not been completed. In the current year there are 250 square miles to be done by the party that is working there. The rest of the district has not been ordered to be resurveyed, and as far as I can foresee, it will not be necessary to resurvey it. But the contrary view has been strongly urged on the Government, and therefore we have not yet distinctly vetoed it as I wish to be quite certain that the existing records are sufficient for the owners of property there. There are six parties in all provided for in the budget. The one in the South Kanara district is working in the Kasaragod taluk. Another is working in two taluks of Malabar where also the records are well known to be defective, namely, the Ponnani and Ernad taluks and in some area of the Walluvanad taluk where the records were destroyed during the rebellion of 1921. There is no idea at present in the minds of Government of resurveying any other part of the district. A third party is working in the southern taluks of Salem where again it is well known that records are defective. The other three parties are working in East Godavari, West Godavari and Kistna. When these areas are done, as far as can be foreseen at present, there will be no more resurvey to be done; but there will be a large number of proprietary areas, the proprietors of which want their estates to be resurveyed, and there will be a good deal of supplementary survey work to be done, at each revision of the registration of holdings at settlement. When we proceed to issue new draft pattas at the time of resettlement, people come forward with petitions for the revision of their holdings and record of the transfers which they have effected and then it is usually necessary to employ a special survey staff to get this work done in time. But that of course will not be anything of the dimensions of a complete resurvey. We therefore hope that possibly in the coming year and certainly next year, the number of these parties will be reduced; it will not only be reduced, but we shall soon get down to the permanent strength of the department which has been provisionally fixed at I think, two or three parties. The question may of course be asked why the survey was defective in those areas. Well, Sir, it is due just to the policy of retrenchment in those days. The work was being done well and carefully by the Survey department, but the order went out that it must be done cheaply with the consequence that much of it was badly done and done in an imperfect manner; and we have now got to pay the penalty for the cheapness that we then achieved. In order to prevent a similar experience in the future, I would ask the House to allow the work to go on and let the staff be gradually reduced as the areas which we know are defective are completed."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" I do not press the motion"

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Sir, I move that—

'the allotment of Rs. 18,400 for the Pay of Officers be reduced by Rs. 101'

"I wish to make the following observations. Sir, all papers connected with the posting of deputy collectors, the granting of leave to deputy collectors and similar things were hitherto being disposed of in the Secretariat of the Government. Instead of that, all this work is being done now in the Board of Revenue office. It may be asked, Sir, what difference that change makes to these people. The hon. the Revenue Member, experienced as he is, will easily recognize the difference to officers when matters relating to them are dealt with by the junior officers in service and by senior officers in service. It is an undoubted fact, Sir, that when these questions are dealt with by experienced officers who have put in considerable service in the department, they receive a consideration quite different from that which it is likely to command at the hands of inexperienced junior officers. Now, Sir, such junior officers are more likely to be in the Board of Revenue than in the Secretariat. There is a growing discontent, Sir, among the deputy collectors that this change has in fact affected the prestige and dignity of their position. I think it is time now that Government recognised this fact and did what was necessary to allay and not to give room for that discontent. My hon. Friend, the Raja of Ramnad, asked a question in regard to this, and the hon. the Revenue Member referred to an answer which was given some time ago. Now that this question comes up specifically before him, I hope he will give us some satisfactory solution for the difficulty."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" Mr. President, in the first place, it is the general policy of Government, to leave to the heads of departments wherever practicable, questions relating to the posting and transfer of officers. That is a matter of administrative routine, which it is not the intention of Government to deal with. It is the business of Government to deal with matters of policy and to leave the administrative routine to heads of departments. The other objection regarding the experience and seniority of the officers who deal with the subject cannot, I think, be seriously meant. There is practically little difference between the experience and seniority of Members of the Board of Revenue and of the Secretaries to Government. As a matter of fact, the Members of the Board of Revenue are, as a rule, the senior and more experienced. In the matter of knowledge of the men's work, it is obvious that the Members of the Board as heads of the Revenue department are in a much better position to gain personal knowledge of the officers and of their work than any Secretariat officer can do. Such matters when dealt with in the Secretariat, so far from being treated with the importance that they deserve, tend to become routine and to be left in the hands of ministerial officers which is not good either for the service or for the officers concerned. I do not know, and I am not aware, that the officers concerned are in any way dissatisfied with this. If they are, I am afraid it does them no credit, and it is rather an indication that a little more control over them is perhaps needed."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" I just want to know, Sir, why, if he thinks this sort of control and supervision is so very essential in the case of the Provincial Service officers who are Indians, the same supervision and control are not equally desirable in the case of the junior members of the Indian Civil Service. If he thinks this change is not good for Civil Service, I think I must protest against its application to the case of Indians. I am afraid, Sir, there is more in this, than the hon. the Revenue Member is willing to acknowledge at once. I think, Sir, it will assume an aspect which it is undesirable it should assume. It will become a question of race, a question of the Civil Service and the Provincial Service, and I do not think the Government are justified in giving ground for legitimate criticism on those points. Why should not then, Sir, all the confidential papers relating to the Sub-Collectors be dealt with hereafter by the Board of Revenue. Why should this Provincial Service officer alone be singled out for such treatment, at the hands of the Board of Revenue? I think, Sir, whatever might be the fate of the resolution, for my part, I cannot agree with the hon. the Revenue Member and should press it to a division."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"The hon. Member, Sir, in his second speech has shifted his ground. He now strives to import some racial consideration into the matter. I would ask him to remember that the Indian Civil Service consists of Indians also and every year will become more and more Indianised. There is no question of race in the matter at all."

p.m. "The administrative difference is that the services of the Deputy Collectors are mainly employed in the Revenue department whereas the Civil Service is an all-India service scattered over and employed in many departments. So that, what holds good in the one case does not hold good in the other."

The motion was put and lost.

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"Sir, I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 1,19,300 for Board of Revenue—Settlement be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"The object of my motion is to bring to the notice of this Council once again the desirability of abolishing that old, hoary and I may say useless institution, namely, the Board of Revenue. The motion which precedes mine and which has not been moved on account of the absence of my hon. Friends, Mr. Srinivasa Ayyangar and Mr. Anjaneyulu, is not like mine a token motion but one for the omission of the entire provision.

"This is not the first time that this question comes for consideration before the House. In the first year of the Reformed Council, in 1921, this question came before the House and the Government appointed a committee consisting of officials and non-officials to enquire into the matter and report on it. And I believe two of the non-official members who were on the committee reported that there was no need to retain the Board in any case in its present strength. But the majority consisting of officials and some non-officials also were in favour of reducing the strength of the Board. Subsequently this question came again before the Council at the time of the budget discussion last year, and also the year before. On both those occasions this Council passed resolutions to the effect that it was not necessary to maintain this institution. The motion was carried but in spite of it, the institution is still there. And the amount reduced by the House was certified and restored by His Excellency. The question has therefore come again before the Council.

"Having regard to the fact that it has been discussed threadbare on previous occasions in this Council, I do not wish to go in detail into the arguments. I shall just refer to the salient features. A large portion of the work that was formerly being done by the Board has been taken over from it. For example, the Board was formerly doing the work connected with the Forest department. The whole of that work has now been taken over from the Board and vested in the Chief Conservator. Again, work relating to the Department of Agriculture is no longer done by the Board as a separate department has come into being for that work. So also the veterinary work which was formerly done by the Board has been transferred to the Veterinary department. Again, Co-operation has been similarly taken away while Income-tax and work connected with the Salt department have practically ceased to be part of the work of the Board because they have become Central subjects.

"As for the two Commissioners, one for Land Revenue proper and the other for Settlement, it is by an accident that we happen to have them both for work relating to land. Speaking from memory, I may say that the Settlement Commissioner originally was not a member of the Board of Revenue. Somewhere in the fifties of the last century there was a Superintendent of Survey and that Superintendent was drafted on to the Revenue Board as the Director of Agriculture or under some such designation. Subsequently he was incorporated into the Board of Revenue and made an integral part of it. And it is in this way that we happen now to have two officers. What is the nature of the work done by them? As a matter of fact the same paper goes to these two different Commissioners from two different departments. And sometimes conflicting orders happen to be passed curiously enough on the same paper on the same subject. And they were separately issued to the Collectors to their embarrassment. That probably is not now done for the reason that three years ago the Committee to which I referred and which was appointed by the Government went into that question and the Revenue Board themselves recommended to the Committee that one of the two Secretaries working under the Commissioners for Land Revenue and for Settlement might be abolished. They referred to this aspect of the case and stated that very often conflicting orders were passed by the two Secretaries and therefore by the two Commissioners which were issued to the Collectors so as to cause a great deal of confusion and embarrassment and to the discredit also of the Board. The Board therefore recommended that one Secretary was sufficient for both the Commissioners and that recommendation was accepted. And I believe the Government have abolished the place. But the main fact, namely, that there is no need for two Commissioners dealing with the same set of papers, I submit, exists even now. It is stated that one reason for the retention of the Board is that under certain Statutes the Revenue Board alone has the power of dealing with certain appeals presented against the decisions of revenue officers such as the Collector. But when we go into the question, we find that all the appeals relate more or less to very minor matters and if a change in the Statute is necessary, it can be easily effected. As a matter of fact formerly the strength of the Executive Council was very much less than it is now. Now there are four Members of Council. In addition to them there are the Ministers. The Revenue Member can therefore devote more attention to revenue matters than before. And provided the necessary statutory changes are made, the appeals can be disposed of by the Revenue Member.

"For these and for other reasons referred to at very great length in the authorized reports on previous occasions it is not necessary to retain the Board and I therefore move this motion which though it is a token motion is intended to effect the same object as the motion for the total omission."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" Mr. President, as the hon. Mover himself has said this is a matter which has been debated in this House before at considerable length and if I thought hon. Members wished to consider the question on its merits, we might go at some length into it. But, I do not know why, it has in the past been a sort of article of faith that this House should wish to abolish the Board of Revenue. I intend advertising to that aspect of the matter later. I shall for the present briefly traverse the ground covered by my hon. Friend. He has pointed to the fact that several branches of administration have been removed from the Board of Revenue and otherwise provided for. Because of this, one Member of the Board has been abolished. Then he has stated that the Survey and Settlement departments were under separate departmental officers outside the Board of Revenue. It was exactly, Sir, owing to that arrangement that there was such a lack of co-ordination and much of the work done was so imperfect that we are now obliged to pay the penalty and incur such heavy expenditure over resurveys. Had the step been taken in the beginning of co-ordinating these departments and placing them under the immediate control and direction of the Board of Revenue, we should have been saved a great deal of money."

"Another criticism has been that the same paper used to go separately to two Members. That is beyond my comprehension. I do not understand what the hon. Member can possibly refer to."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" I refer to the printed note supplied to the members of the Committee of whom I was one by the Revenue Board itself. The fact that I stated is there, namely, that identical papers passed through both the Commissioners."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" I have not got the paper before me, Sir. But I am constrained to think that the hon. Member must have misconstrued what was stated in the note because the work of the Board of Revenue is regulated by an Act of the Madras Legislature. The subjects are, in a manner somewhat analogous to that applicable to the Members of Council, divided between the different members and notified in the gazette. There are also certain subjects which are put down as subjects to be dealt with by two Members. I do not see how under a system like that the same paper could go independently to two Members and receive two disposals. I fancy that it must be either a misapprehension or if such a thing had occurred it must have been due to some Secretariat breakdown."

"Again, as in last year, my hon. Friend has forgotten the Court of Wards. I only mention that because it is a very important duty of the Board of Revenue. There are at present only two Members of the Board instead of the original four. The third Member is only a member in name. He is really the Commissioner of Excise and is only nominally a member of the Board for the purpose of exercising control over the Collectors in excise matters. Of course, he sometimes helps the Board with his advice. But that is a different matter."

"The main reason, however, why the Board cannot be abolished is, as I have said already, that the policy of the Government is to have a head for each department to attend to its administration. It is not the function of the Government to manage the details of the administration directly and such detailed administration should properly be left to the head of the department."

[Mr. N. E. Marjoribanks]

"As regards the argument that the Government has time to look after such work, of course, it is easy to make such statements but I wish I could invite hon. Members to change places with me for a short while and I am sure their view would change remarkably."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" Sir, one of the motions for reduction here stands in my name. That is No. 48, in the agenda and it covers the same ground as the motion under discussion."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Would the hon. Member rather speak on this motion and waive his right to the other motion ? "

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" Yes, Sir. The Revenue Board has been attacked off and on and I believe this motion is an annual affair in the House, and I hope it will be so in future also. As regards the abolition of the Board of Revenue, to a great extent this House expressed the public feeling on the subject, and public opinion in a matter like this, I think, must be respected. In some other Presidencies, Bombay for instance, corresponding to the Board, there are Commissioners, and the feeling there also is that these Commissioners are not required at all, that they are a sort of stopgap between the Government and the Collectors and some other officers. There is some sort of work created for these Commissioners and Board of Revenue by Acts and Regulations and we have only to amend those Regulations and Acts and then the work will adjust itself. I think the appellate work that the Board is doing can be divided between the Collector and the Government. The work done by the Collector is done to a great extent by the deputy collectors. The deputy collectors who are really deputies are in fact Collectors; they can do all work which the Collectors have to do; and the Collectors say of one or two districts might have a kind of appellate jurisdiction over the deputy collectors. Some revisional jurisdiction can be given to the Government. The appellate and revisional work at present done by the Board of Revenue in respect of settlement and other matters may be done away with. And if it is done away with, there is really no work for that Board. There is a great deal to be said about the appellate work done by the Board and the revisional work in settlement matters and matters relating to village officers etc. In 10 per cent of the cases the Board interferes and in other cases there is no interference. The Collectors generally act correctly in these matters and I think the Government can very well interfere and do justice in some cases, which will be small. I do not say that this appellate and revisional work should be done by the Revenue Member alone. There are other Members, the Law Member, the Finance Member and the Home Member, and they can do some work, in cases where justice is to be done. There are four Members and it can be arranged. We have got some statutes which can be amended and the first thing we should do in the Council is to bring a Bill amending these Acts and Regulations dealing with the Revenue Board. I believe the House will pass it without much difficulty, and thus get rid of this Board of Revenue. It is useless, I believe, to bring forward any resolutions any more. This will be the final resolution. There must be a Bill, and I wonder why I did not bring forward the Bill myself (laughter). Probably I shall bring it forward, and I think I shall have the support of this House, though there is some apprehension that we must go to the Government of India. That is my fear. I have got some Bills which have had to run the gauntlet of the Government of India's sanction. They refused sanction in one case the other is still awaiting sanction. But I believe this will not stand in the way of my hon. Friend bringing forward a Bill. This Revenue Board is not needed at all. It is a stumbling block in the way of proper work of Collectors, and the Collectors, I am sure, do not relish it very much. I think the Collectors should be trusted much more in the work done by them in the districts. They are heads of districts which are bigger than two or three counties put together, and I think the Collector must have some more power. Now the Ministers and others go and open bridges, etc. I think that ought to be left to the Collectors. I have mentioned some time ago the way in which the Ministers go and boss over the Collectors. I think the Collectors should be entrusted with more power in the matter of appeal and in looking over the administration of the districts. He is a sort of king there, and was even more than that in the past. But now the Collector cannot exercise much power. The presidents of local boards are another set of collectors and act sometimes as greater bosses than the Collectors. If we should strengthen the hands of the Collector, I think the Revenue Board will not be needed at all, and any work in the nature of appeals, etc. can very well be done by the Members of the Government and also by the Ministers (laughter). I therefore strongly support this token motion moved by my hon. Friend."

[Mr. J. A. Saldanha]

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"Sir, I crave the indulgence of this House if on this question I raise certain important issues on the answer to which will depend—in regard to many other items also I think—as to how this is to be voted upon. Sir, this budget is presented to us by the Government and I take it, Sir, that the Transferred half had also its share in the business, in framing this budget and in presenting it to the House. This important item in the budget, Sir, we have a right in presuming had the approval of the Ministers. Now, Sir, a prominent Member of that party raises this issue and wants this Board of Revenue to be abolished. Now, I should like to know whether this motion of this prominent Member of the party has been made with or without the approval of the Ministerial Leader of this House. If that has been done with the approval of the Ministerial Leader of this House, then I should say he was not correct in giving his consent to this item when it was discussed in the Cabinet. If, on the other hand, he did not give his consent, then I think that a Member of the position and status of Mr. Krishnan Nayar should not have brought it here without his consent. Now, the question would arise as to what policy he is going to pursue. Would he also be a party to raising an issue like this, and then leave it to the vote of the House as it likes? Constitutionally, I think it should be his duty to support the Government in regard to a provision to which he has been a party already. That is the issue I want to raise, and I think it is a very important issue, and on the answer to it I shall have to decide as to how I should vote."

* Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"Sir, we have had many surprises since we began the sitting this morning, but I think the greatest of those surprises is the constitutional purloinitism that we have listened to just now (laughter). My hon. Friend from Bellary now comes forward and talks of the constitutional principle. He is more at home with famine and forest grievances and the grievances of the ryots with whom he is more intimate, both in his official capacity in the halcyon days when he was capable of doing some good to them, and in these latter days. I think the House will readily agree that the issue he has raised is an utterly trivial issue which every baby in politics can easily answer. He has raised the question that the Ministerial party should share responsibility for this provision for the Board of Revenue. We have been working the diarchic system. The hon. Member seems to forget that there is no Ministerial connexion with the Reserved half. There is no responsibility attached to the Ministers with reference to the Reserved subjects, and we who are called Ministerialists, we who are followers of our leaders in the Ministry have a free hand with reference to the Reserved subjects, if such occasions arise, in speaking in this Council and voting on them. That the hon. Member from Bellary should have raised this point shows either to what lengths he is driven, to what position he is reduced, in order to prove a defect where there is none."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"May I say this as a personal explanation? I have raised and have been raising this question more than once, and yet it has not been taken up and answered by responsible persons."

* Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"That only proves how absurd the question raised is. It means that nobody ever took it seriously. He has raised it and raised it again and again, and yet everybody knows full well that the question is of such a trivial nature that it is not worth while to answer it. I am really very sorry for the hon. Member for Bellary when he says that he has raised as a serious proposition a question like that. Surely the hon. Member knows, or if he has read anything of the Montagu-Chelmsford report, if he followed the discussion before the Joint Parliamentary Committee, if he read the report of the proceedings of that Joint Committee himself, he would have known the position as between the Ministers and the Reserved half in regard to subjects relating to the Reserved half. He knows that a convention has been established and is proposed to be observed by the Joint Committee that in matters where Ministers differ from Members of the Reserved half they ought not to speak or vote against the Reserved half, normally speaking, but the widest latitude is given to the Ministers themselves to differ from the Members of the Reserved half. That is one of the fundamentals of the diarchic system. Otherwise where is the chance of a portion of the responsibility being effective? If we say that all the items in the budget, whether they are Transferred or Reserved, are passed and put in the budget with the consent and connivance of the Ministers, that means you abolish the whole system of responsibility in the Government. You cannot say which is that portion of the Government that is responsible to the House, which is responsible to public opinion, and which is that portion of the Government which hears you and might be influenced by the vote of this House as much as possible but is aided in view of its responsibility by higher authorities as well. My hon. Friend is not doing justice to the constitution under which he is working. He is not serving the people aright by this. He is trying to cloud the issues, and thus he would be misleading the electors by this game which has been played by all detractors of the Ministerial party to shove on the head of the Ministers that responsibility which by no stretch of the imagination can berown upon them. Surely that is not the way of working the constitutional principle. My hon. Friend has not walked out this morning and I was out to congratulate him for it, but it seems to me that there are other things for which I must feel very sorry for the hon. Member. If this is the art of constitutionalism that he is going to give to his electors, then I must say 'God save his electors'. This is not the way in which you are going to work responsibility, this is not the way in which you are going to show in what way the Ministers are responsible to the House. Where there may be defects, they can be taken to task. But if the Criminal Law Amendment Act is to be enforced, are the Ministers to be held responsible for it? If the Board of Revenue is retained, are the Ministers to be held responsible? I know, as a Member of the Finance Committee—the hon. Member must have been aware also—about the financial responsibility in these matters. Does he not know that there are what are called 'standing sanctions' which are passed automatically year after year? They are not placed before the Cabinet but are automatically passed year after year and go into the budget. I refer to part I or class I of budget items. Surely the hon. Member cannot pretend that he does not know these things. And yet he says there is the budget provision put before the House and therefore the Ministers must have known that this was brought before the Cabinet, that their views must have been taken on it, that they were brought round, that they must have explained the position, and so on. I do not know what qualifications my hon. Friend has got to say that these things have taken place. I do not possess any esoteric qualifications, but I would only say this, that as a Member of the Finance Committee I know how these things are done. If he remembers his ego as a Member of the Finance Committee, he will himself know how they are done. But to raise this question and expect an answer to this question is courting ridicule."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"So many Members of the other side have taken their seats on this side and therefore there is a natural confusion of ideas (laughter). We do not know where we are and what they are doing." (Laughter.)

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"I hope the hon. Member was listening when Mr. Ramaswami Mudaliyar was making his speech. From his speech the hon. Member should know from which side he was speaking."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"From the sides they have taken and the speeches they have been making we are led to some sort of confusion. The public also will be confused by the sides they have taken and the speeches they have been making."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"Every one judges the speeches by the arguments and not the side upon which they are spoken."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"I am always reluctant to enter into constitutional questions. I would ask the House to remember that the Reserved half of this Government has its responsibilities and that it cannot seriously be asked to adopt every resolution of this House as it cannot make the House responsible for the consequences. I am sure whatever the House wishes to do it does not wish us to go against our convictions and our sense of duty in this matter."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR:—"I wish to say one word in reply and it is this. With reference to the constitutional issues raised by the hon. Member from Bellary, my Friend, Mr. Ramaswami Mudaliyar, I believe, has convincingly answered to them so that I do not wish to refer to that point again. My hon. Friend, the Revenue Member, referred only to one new point and that was in regard to the work done by the Board of

[Mr. M. Krishnan Nayar]

Revenue as Court of Wards. One suggestion that I have to make about this is that the Court of Wards work may be transferred to the Collectors who are at the seats of the wards. Another suggestion is that the work may be transferred to the hon. the Revenue Member. To my mind these suggestions are practical and there will be no difficulty in carrying them out. By adopting one or the other these difficulties can be got rid of. I am sorry that this motion has been opposed not by the non-official Members but by Government. It is the attitude indicated by the opposition to motions of this kind and by the certification that was adopted with reference to similar motions last year and the year before last that is really the cause of the feeling of despair that prompted many of the Members of the Opposition to walk out this morning. It is this attitude of Government with reference to motions like this that causes considerable discontent in the country. For these reasons I am very sorry that Government have thought it fit to oppose this motion. Government must know that this Council is very particular about this and that it has been so is shown by its attitude during the past years. I press my motion."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"I only rise, Sir, to protest against the imputation of unreasonableness and the allegation that this matter affords any ground of despair. The constitution, as my hon. Friend is perfectly well aware, divides the administration into two and makes the wishes of the Council mandatory in one field and advisory in the other. It seems to me an extraordinary proposition to put forward that where any view that is expressed by virtue of the advisory power is not accepted, it becomes a matter for despair. I cannot see, at any rate, how this question is vital. The Board of Revenue is an agency for the administration of a subject for which the Governor in Council is responsible. We have done our best to consider alternative methods or agencies. We have not been able to find any other method of administering the department which would be as cheap or as efficient as the one we have at present. I do not see how it can become a vital constitutional issue that we are unable to accept the wishes of the House in this particular matter."

The motion was put and declared lost.

A poll was demanded and the House divided thus:

Ayes.

16. hon. Members voted for the motion and 31 against it. The motion was lost.

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—" Sir, I move that the allotment of Rs. 66,200 for pay of officers be reduced by Rs. 1,000."

"With regard to the Land Revenue Settlement Bill it has been stated that it is with the Government of India and that the sanction of the Government of India is expected every moment. We do not know what it is going to be. At the same time the Government have been going on with the operations of resettlement. Until the policy is definitely declared by the Government, I think, Sir, the settlement operations that are going on now should be suspended. With these words I move the motion."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"I could have understood the hon. Member if he had suggested that there should be no revision of assessment until the proposals with regard to the Bill were better known. But the settlement operations in progress have little to do with the rates of assessment. They very largely consist in making registration correct and complete and where the scheme report has not been prepared in collecting material which will be useful when the Bill on the subject is passed. I do not see what will be gained at the present stage by stopping settlement operations. Before any revised rates of assessment are introduced, I think, it is quite certain a definite statement regarding the Bill will be made. As a matter of fact there is no revision of rates pending now or in the immediate future so far as I am aware."

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—"The consequence of the settlement will be the raising of the rates."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"I do not understand the hon. Member. Surely he does not propose that we should cancel settlements already introduced."

The motion was then by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—"Sir, I move that the allotment of Rs. 23,38,900 for Survey and Settlement be reduced by Rs. 100, to raise the question of the grant of darkhast lands to members of the depressed classes."

"I am not going to make any general observations in the matter of the depressed classes. I have several specific instances but I am not going to state the facts in all the districts. The Adi-Dravidas of Kallamangalam village, Tanjore taluk, were applying to the District Collector of Tanjore for the past few years for the assignment of darkhast land survey No. 220 and the Collector was pleased to order the reservation of 20 acres of land for assignment and it was transferred to assessed dry waste in his communication, dated 14th November 1925, No. 4177/25. Afterwards the Collector took steps to alter the classification of the land to assessed dry only on the repeated requests of the petitioners and he had also ordered that out of 20 acres 10 acres should be assigned to the depressed classes and 10 acres to ex-military men.

"Sir, a very interesting thing then took place. The Labour Department had the land subdivided into tiny pieces with a view to assigning them to Adi-Dravidas. Afterwards, the powers of assignment were transferred to the Revenue Department, and the question of assignment of lands to poor Adi-Dravidas was kept in suspense. Then, Sir, those people were informed to their surprise on a reminder petition put by them, by the tahsildar in his communication, dated 26th February 1926, No. 3710/26, that the land that was subdivided previously to be assigned to Adi-Dravidas was to be assigned to ex-army men alone, contrary to their original expectation. This is not the only instance, Sir, and there are two more also which I wish to quote."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Would it not be better for the hon. Member to communicate his catalogue of instances to the hon. the Revenue Member, instead of quoting them on the floor of this House?"

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—"I have communicated these things, Sir. But what I find is that they communicate the whole thing to the District Collectors concerned, and the District Collectors only uphold the views of their subordinates. They do not take the statements made by the poor Adi-Dravidas, but they take only the words of their subordinate officials as Gospel truth. So where is the salvation?"

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Does the enumeration of these instances mend matters?"

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—"Then, I have, Sir, a few more instances to enumerate (laughter). It will be very interesting and it will be very pathetic to hear them also, as to how the members of the depressed classes are being treated with reference to the assignment of lands."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"The hon. Member has only ten minutes for his speech."

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—"Very well, Sir. The Government should take a special interest in the matter of assigning lands to members of the depressed classes as in the case of the ex-military men. That is my point. Also, Sir, the assignment of land should be made to those members of the depressed classes who are socially very low. There are so many sub-sects among the depressed classes, and the assignment of lands should be made to such members of the depressed classes as are socially very low. I think, Sir, that the hon. Member representing such a community, Mr. L. C. Guruswami, will join with me on this point, because they refer to the grievances of his community mostly. I really feel for that community because they do not possess even a bit of land. They are not being encouraged, because they have no god-fathers. That is my own impression, Sir. What I want to point out again is that when Adi-Dravidas cultivate lands spending enormous amounts, they are being deprived of those lands because the officials want to give preference to ex-army men. But they can pitch upon some other land. There are so many other lands. They particularly pitch upon these lands of Adi-Dravidas. They want to give such lands to other classes of people. Is it because those poor Adi-Dravidas have no influence in these days? It is not justice, and we expect justice at the hands of the Government, and when we see that no justice is done to them, it is very pathetic to hear their cry.

"There is another difficulty also. The Board of Revenue has already issued a notification No. 1187, dated 5th March 1925, wherein it is stated that darkhast lands set apart for Adi-Dravidas should be made known to the people and that a list of such lands should be hung up in places where the depressed classes live and also in chavadis and other places. But these things are not at all being actually carried out. Such instructions were issued on the 5th of March 1925. It is nearly a year, and practically no effect has been given to them, and even in places where such lands exist the lists are not at all exhibited. I hope at least hereafter effect will be given to it, so that Adi-Dravidas may be able to get at least the lands set apart for them."

* Rao Sahib R. SRINIVASAN:—"I second my hon. Friend Mr. Veerian's motion. There are several instances of injustice. But I should like to mention only one instance. In a village called Illapur in Sriperumbudur taluk, Chingleput district, a depressed class man applied for land and he got from the Tahsildar a plot of about two acres. After he had broken the soil and brought it under cultivation, as usual, the village officials like the karnam, munsif and other caste people wanted to drive him out. Accordingly they arranged in such a way that the piece of land was assigned to ex-military men. The poor man who was originally given the piece of land was given notice of ejectment from it, though he had been cultivating it for over five years and paying penalty. I represented the matter to the Revenue Divisional Officer and I got a reply to say that it was transferred to the Tahsildar. I wrote to the Tahsildar and he said that it was assigned to ex-military men. So I had to raise the question in this Council and after I got the answers I submitted them to the Collector and said that sivayi-jama right should be given to him. I asked the Collector to call for the records and go through them. Afterwards, he called for the records and transferred that plot of land to the poor man, and the ex-military men were given some other land. Well, Sir, what I want to bring to your notice is that these people are ignorant and have no means of knowing where lands are available. They are not supposed to find out where the M.L.C.'s are and to represent to them, so that they may bring their grievances to the notice of the Government and enquiries made into them. I would therefore respectfully ask the hon. the Revenue Member to see that special attention is paid to these poor people by the Revenue Officers, the Tahsildars, especially the revenue inspector, the village karnam and the monigar, who are the traditional enemies of Adi-Dravidas, and in fact as they hold hereditary appointments, I say, they are their natural enemies. If the Government cannot be expected to do anything in these matters, it is impossible to get justice done. For the last thirty years the Government have been trying to assign some lands to these poor people, but they have not succeeded. They succeeded to a small extent after they created the Labour Department. In the beginning this department was manned by Deputy Collectors, men of some experience and qualifications, and they did something here and there. But they were replaced by Tahsildars, and the department is not doing so much now for the depressed classes. A good portion of poramboke lands and those lands on which depressed classes were allowed to cultivate for the last 30 or 35 years are now given away to ex-service men who should have been paid in money for the services they had rendered. Of late, these poor people are not able to get such lands. Good lands available are given away to the ex-military people, to whom preference is given, and not to the tillers of the soil. When land has to be given to some ex-service man, the depressed class people are sent away from lands they were cultivating. It is not fair to the Government to take away the lands from the peasant labourers. If the Government wanted to do anything to the depressed classes, the Revenue Department should bestow special attention to these poor people. What I would suggest is that the assignment of lands should be made to those people who will make it a direct and independent means of living. Everything is in the hands of the ordinary revenue inspectors and Tahsildars who go round the villages. There are also the village officials from whom it is impossible to expect anything favourable to these poor people. These people have no chance of expressing their grievances to any higher official, and their needs should be met by the Government so that they may make their living."

* Mr. L. C. GURUSWAMI:—"Mr. President, Sir, I wish to present the Government with a fact which might perhaps astound it because of the poor performance of the Collectors of this Presidency. It may be strange to most of the hon. Members, too, because they might not have had occasions enough to know of it. It is this: Of the members of the depressed classes, the Arundatiyas or Madigas are the most depressed. Before giving any details to corroborate my statement, I am anxious to appeal to the hon. Members of this Council to sympathize with this class of people whenever they happen to go to them beseeching help, for some of my community go all the way to Madras to find help from a Member of the Legislative Council, whom they consider to be all in all to remedy their grievances by ventilating them in this House and before His Excellency the Governor. When I ask them to resort to Madras Legislative Councillors very near them, they say they meet with the reply that they have their own representatives in the Council. I do not like to say anything more in the matter, and leave it to the sympathetic hearts of my hon. Colleagues here. It is in connexion with the method of the disposal of lands under darkhast applications to the Tahsildars and Collectors in several districts that I find fault with.

"I know there are complaints from all communities regarding the procedure adopted by the Revenue Department on this account. But those complaints are the results of intelligent fight for more lands to add to their own estates. What I bring to your notice is the begging for alms by poor classes of people, without one meal a day whose leather work does not bring in sufficient income to feed them, and who could not find any other supplemental occupation.

"No doubt some of these people are uneconomical and addicted to vices of drinking and what not. But cases there are where genuine poverty makes men seek for lands to cultivate the soil to feed the hungry mouths of a large family. I have reasons to say that even those people cannot gain their object because of the oppressions of not only the castemen, but also the official caste which has not yet learnt to cut away the bonds of their superstition. Even European and non-Brahman Collectors are afraid to break the old records probably on the plea of breach of peace in villages if lands are assigned to the depressed class men, especially the Arundatiyas who cannot approach the villagers even to the extent of their brethren of other depressed classes—the Adi-Dravidas—whose services the landlords could not dispense with very easily. I do not mean to say that the Adi-Dravidas or Adi-Andhras have become the real sons of the soil. Comparatively speaking, Arundhatiyas occupy a lower scale in the order of gifts by the Government also. I had several cases of report of utter negligence and indifference to men of my community and the treatment afforded to them by the karnams, village munsifs, revenue inspectors, Tahsildars, Deputy Tahsildars and a host of the official hierarchy.

“I began a correspondence with the Tahsildar of Chingleput in September 1924 on receipt of his disposal of an application by one Ponnai of Iohangarani for darkhast in his village. It dragged on several months and finally I wrote to the Secretary of this Council in my letter, dated 15th January 1925, fourteen months ago this date requesting him to get for me information regarding the details of assignments of lands. The reply, dated 15th February 1925, was to the effect that no information was available in the office regarding them and that I could apply to the Collectors concerned direct. Thereupon I prepared the following printed form and sent them on to the Collectors of all the districts on the 7th September 1925. The Collector of Salem says: ‘I invite your attention to note 4 of the notes for the use of non-official Members of the Council printed on page 99 of the Madras Legislative Council Manual, Volume II, according to which the requisition of a Member for information should be addressed to the Secretary to the Legislative Council’. In spite of the copy of the letters received from the Government referred to a few minutes before, sent to him as well as to the other Collectors, it is surprising to find that he replies in this vein.

“The Tanjore Collector asks what useful purpose will be served by preparing such statistical statements which involve much work, including a statement apparently of all waste lands in the district.

“The Trichinopoly Collector remarks it is a laborious process to fill up the forms sent and he has given the total area reserved and assigned for the depressed classes.

“Wherever the information is available, it is deplorable to find that a very small area of lands only is assigned to the Madigas. For example, taking Chingleput, our neighbouring district, we find only 46 acres out of 5,000 acres available have been assigned to the men of my community and these few acres are to be found scattered in seven taluks, whereas 2,460 acres are distributed among other depressed classes. South Kanara boasts of 29 acres 22 cents assigned and Tinnevely 22 acres. Ganjam has been most liberal to assign 5 acres 12 cents out of 2,857 acres to this class of people.

“I have more figures to quote, but I am afraid my time is not sufficient. I need hardly say that the Collectors should be more condescending to the depressed classes and more ready to furnish statistics needed by the Members of this Council through the Government.

“Next, I have to bring to light another irregularity of some of the Collectors and their subordinates. It is very difficult to get a reply even acknowledging our letters. If they reply at all, they seem to think it a matter of grace. I am prepared to produce lots of correspondence with one Collector which I had to make for getting a reply ‘nil’ or ‘not possible’ or ‘the letters not traceable’.”

(The Member then proceeded to discuss about nominations of depressed classes, but on being called to order by the hon. the President he resumed his seat.)

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—“I move

“Mr. President, there is a department called the Survey Department which is permanently temporary. The members of this staff have put in a service of 25, 30, 35, 40 and even 45 years and in one case 47 years. They are asked to go home because they are no more able to work, and the pay they receive when they are employed is not enough to maintain themselves and so they are not able to save anything. If they are sent home, they are not able to eke out their livelihood in any other way, and they are reduced almost to starvation. I know a case in which one man has almost starved after serving in the Survey department for over 47 years. They have no pension, they have no gratuity. Last time, at the Budget, I requested the hon. the Revenue Member to see that something was done in their case, and I also requested that if such people after serving for 20 or 25 years are sent home on account of retrenchment, they might be given preference if there were vacancies. But I do not think anything has been done in the way, and there are many people who are asked to go away and who are not given any gratuity. So, I request the Government to see that people who have put in more than 25 years' service, the pensionable period, are given some gratuity at least.”

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—“Sir, in regard to the lists of lands reserved for grant to particular classes, the Government have issued orders that lands which have been enjoyed by the cultivator for three years should not be reserved or granted to other people unless the cultivator has first had the option of taking it on patta himself. And as regards the non-publication of lists of land reserved for grant to the depressed classes, the hon. Member who spoke on the subject made similar representations to me personally in January, and circulars were issued, asking that Government officers on their tours should verify whether the orders as to publication have been carried out and see that they are carried out. As far as orders go, therefore, I do not see that Government can do more than they have done. But I am fully aware that there are very considerable difficulties in getting these orders translated into action. I do not know of any remedy for that except for hon. Members to keep on pegging away as they now do till the opposition, or what I may call passive resistance, of other interests gradually dies down.

“The hon. Member who spoke of the incident from Chingleput has well illustrated how by dint of persistence he got the orders observed and got the land granted to the party who ought to have got it. In that case, I do not understand why he in the course of his remarks said there was no use appealing to the Collector because when he did appeal to the Collector he apparently got the land. Apart from issuing orders, the Government have constituted a special staff in connexion with the Commissioner of Labour's department to watch over the interests of the depressed classes and to help them in getting the lands which are reserved for them. I think hon. Members who have spoken to-day will admit that we have done a great deal, and it is only by steady perseverance and constant insistence upon our orders that in time we hope that the practical difficulties will diminish.

[Mr. N. E. Marjoribanks]

"As regards individual cases, when the facts are brought to our notice, we can send them on to the local authorities to look into them and deal with them in the light of the orders we have issued. This may seem cold comfort in some respects, but I can assure hon. Members, if their memories go as far back as mine does, they well recognise that there has been a very great change for the better in the prospects of the depressed classes getting land. This was impossible thirty years ago because the darkhast rules stood in the way. One of the first acts of the Government I can remember in the direction of the present policy, was to amend the darkhast rules so as to abrogate the preferential claims of the adjoining holder, and the policy has steadily developed since. So, I do not think the representatives of these classes have any need really to despair so long as they continue to persevere and do not omit to bring to notice all cases of failure to carry out orders that Government have issued.

"Coming to the Revenue Department, the case that the hon. Member (Mr. Natesa Mudaliyar) mentioned referred to certain reductions made in the Central Survey Office. As I promised him last year I did look into the matter and I found that a majority of those who had over five years' service who had been brought under reduction were provided for in other posts in the Parties and the Director is doing his best to provide posts for the remainder.

"Of course it is inevitable that as the work of the Survey Department is completed a good many of the staff will have to be dispensed with. If a man spends all his service on a non-pensionable footing he can hardly expect Government to provide him with a pension at the end of his service. He is supposed to have made provision during his service for that contingency. It is, I admit, a great hardship to the individual but it is one inseparable from the very nature of the work and, probably, it will not be so hard as it seems, because there are always number of miscellaneous surveys going on in connexion with estates and litigation; a good many of the people whose services have been dispensed with will find employment in connexion with these works. I do not recollect any other matter on which hon. Members have spoken in connexion with this grant, and I should be glad to be reminded of anything that I have omitted."

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—"Sir, I wish to say a few words in reply to what the hon. the Revenue Member has so out-spokenly said in connexion with the depressed classes. He says that we should cry hereafter. It is true that only crying children will get milk. We shall take up the sound advice and make frequent representations. Well, Sir, I admit that a good deal of improvement has been made in the condition of the depressed classes and I must point out that the hon. Member in charge has driven the nail. I am very glad of it. But I am sorry to say that the nail has not reached the very bottom, but it has reached only half way. I hope the hon. the Revenue Member will try his best to drive the nail to the very bottom so that the depressed classes may not have any room for complaints."

The motion of Mr. Veerian was by leave withdrawn.

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—"I thank the hon. the Revenue Member for the steps he has already taken for entertaining those gentlemen who were asked to go away some five or six years ago. I request him to look into the cases of those people who have put in some 40 or 45 years' service. He says these people may get appointments in the estates. Supposing a man is 60 or 67 years old, I ask which estate will take him as a surveyor, or in other capacity. I would therefore ask the hon. the Revenue Member to consider such classes of cases and see whether any gratuity could not be given to them. I am not pressing this motion to a division to-day as the House is very thin and as the Government will carry all these motions by official and nominated votes. However, I would request the Government not to depend for the success of these motions on the votes of nominated and official members but to see whether the majority of the votes are from the elected members or not. It is only then the Government will know the public opinion. As I have already said I do not want to press my motion as I am aware what its fate will be. In these circumstances I only request the hon. the Revenue Member whether he cannot see his way to grant a gratuity to those people who have put in 30, 35, 40 or 45 years' service."

[Dr. C. Natesa Mudaliyar]

The motion of Mr. C. Natesa Mudaliyar was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"Sir, I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 97,400 for Board of Revenue, Financial Commissioner and establishments be reduced by Rs. 101.'

"My idea in moving this motion is to invite the attention of the House to the present strength of the Court of Wards Section and to the possibility of making a reduction in its establishment. About thirty years ago the Court of Wards Section was managing thirty-nine estates. That number has been steadily going down till to-day or it is managing only about eighteen estates. Surely the hon. the Revenue Member will concede that the work involved in the administration of thirty-nine estates—some of them were important and big in the old days—was far more than that involved in managing eighteen estates. I would ask him whether he is satisfied that the establishment which he still entertains is quite necessary. I want him to examine and say whether the same staff which existed about thirty years ago still continues, possibly with some additions. I think, Sir, that in the interests of economy which will not impair efficiency, a case is made out—if what I have stated is correct as I have tried to verify it—for him to reduce the present establishment, because the work is not enough for the officers and the staff. I hope he will make a serious endeavour to effect this retrenchment."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"Sir, the hon. Member who has moved this motion for reduction, some time ago put a question on the subject and I then had the matter examined. I did not go back as far as thirty years, because the circumstances which existed then and the circumstances which exist at the present moment are far different, but I took fifteen years as the basis for my comparison. I find that the number of estates under management has remained fluctuating between 18 and 22 during the last fifteen years. The establishment in the Office of the Court of Wards has remained exactly the same except the reduction of one lower division clerk which has been effected within the last four years."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"What about the Superintendent? Is that post not an addition?"

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"The establishment consists and has consisted of a manager, a superintendent where there used to be a head-clerk, six clerks where there used to be six clerks and four clerks where there used to be four routine clerks and two typists where there used to be two typists. The number of menials is the same. The amount of correspondence shows very little variation, and there is the further consideration, namely, that the entire cost is paid for by the estate concerned and it is not a charge on Government."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"I am surprised at the remark that because one is prepared to pay, you should be extravagant in your expenditure. As I have already submitted, in fasli 1292, there were thirty-nine estates under the Court of Wards. I am only asking the hon. the Revenue Member to go into the matter and if there is not as much work now as there was thirty years ago, to consider the question whether there ought not be a reduction in the establishment. If he will undertake to examine the question I shall withdraw my motion, otherwise I would press it."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"I should gladly undertake to do so, had I not already done so. The difference between the hon. Member and myself is only about the period. I think it is not proper to go back so long as thirty years because the circumstances were very different to what they are now both as regards quantity and quality of work done by the Court of Wards. People are not easily satisfied now-a-days and everything has to be done very carefully. For the last fifteen years there is no material alteration and in 1922 when the question of retrenchment was particularly taken up it was found possible to reduce one clerk. The maintenance of the Court of Wards Office does not cost the Government anything and I do not think that in the interests of the estates it would be wise to reduce the staff which checks the accounts and returns which come from these estates."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"Sir, the motion which stands in my name runs as follows:—

'That the allotment of Rs. 7,04,700 for pay of establishments be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"Sir, last year during the budget debates it was this Council that passed a resolution by a majority that a Committee should be appointed to enquire into the grievances of non-gazetted men and I brought an amendment that in this category the grievances of unpassed men should be included. That grievance is well known to the Members of this House, and it is this: by an order of the Government when unpassed men were promoted to the grade of Rs. 20 they automatically rose to Rs. 50 because the resolution was so worded that even the Accountant-General or the Audit Officer when they were consulted on this matter said that the order of the Government did apply equally to the cases of unpassed men also.

P.M.

"The order was not clearly worded owing probably to the carelessness of some clerk or generosity of some officer. The Collectors or the Audit Officer who had to do with the order construed it also in the same light and treated unpassed men in the same category as passed men. These poor clerks got their increments for the last two years and no doubt spent them for their own absolute wants. Now after they have enjoyed the incremental scale for two years the hon. the Revenue Member says not that the order was wrong but that the interpretation of it was wrong and that the clerks should be asked to refund them. A resolution was passed by this House to investigate into the grievances of these clerks, but Government refused to accept the recommendation. I do not want to go into the details of the resolution which was solemnly passed by this House. But the Government flouted the wishes of the House. I am not now surprised if a large number of Members of the House have become so disgusted—many of us also feel that disgust—that they walked out of the House in a body. I should not be surprised if many more also walk out hereafter. This is a matter of very great importance to the unpassed men. I do not think the Government would lose anything by appointing a committee. We are in touch with the condition of the low-paid clerks and we know the pinch of distress that they feel in their families. I earnestly trust that Government will at least now appoint this committee and do this act of justice to the poor clerks. It is a very dangerous thing to have discontent among these non-gazetted servants. I am sure ninety per cent of them if not more would deeply sympathise with the action of these Members who have chosen to walk out of the House. After all discontent of any sort is a dangerous thing to the State. There might have been a misunderstanding of the order of the Government; but the Government might have very well condoned their promotion and stopped them at their present scale. They need not have asked the clerks to refund the excess that they have drawn. After constant agitation Government at last passed an order that they would consider the waiver of the refund of the excess amount if they applied to the Government. I ask, Sir, what the Government would have lost if they had said, 'we have done a mistake; there have been appeals from various quarters; what has been done is forgiven. All those that have refunded the amount might recover the amount.' That would have been appreciated by the clerks. Instead of that each clerk has now to apply to the Government. I earnestly appeal to the hon. the Revenue Member and the hon. the Finance Member to consider this solemn request of the Council contained in its resolution and appoint a committee."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"Mr. President, Sir, the total cost of the non-gazetted staff has during the last few years increased by about 60 per cent. The increase in the lowest scale has been from Rs. 20 to Rs. 35. I do not now wish to lay down positively that it is a sufficient increase; but I think the House will admit that it is a very considerable increase and it is very difficult for the Government to find larger funds for this purpose with due regard to the other demands on the public purse. In the memorials and representations received from the non-gazetted servants their grievance is as a rule set forth in the form of a request for more pay. But that, in one form or other, is a grievance which we all, whether officials or non-officials, have; we all would like to have more income. If the Committee that was asked for were appointed I do not see what it could do unless the Government said that they had got so much more money to spend on the services. When we know that there is nothing to be gained by the appointment of a committee, to appoint one would only be raising expectations in the minds of the clerks which we would not be in a position to satisfy. That, I believe, was the reason why the Government last year did not see their way to appoint a committee. Here again, I do not know why that should be called 'flouting' the wishes of the House. Is the Council prepared to find funds for any material increase on the present scale of salaries in preference to many other objects on which they have clearly intimated their desire? It is no use, to get indignant and leave the Council when you are not prepared to say how your desire is to be carried out.

"As regards the other point regarding unpassed men, I myself do not see how it could appear to any person who applied his mind to the question, that people who had been exempted specially to hold a post on Rs. 20 would be entitled to have the benefit of the incremental scale as soon as it was introduced and to rise to Rs. 60. There were some officers who did construe the rules so. I do not think they paid any attention to the orders at all; they granted the increments as a matter of course without any examination of the question. I admit it is hard on those who have to refund. The matter is however under the consideration of Government. Our difficulty is that the action taken varied in different departments and we do not wish to be unfair as between one department and another. In that matter also I do not see what a committee could do. The facts are known to us. As a matter of fact I do not remember whether the Committee was recommended for that purpose or not. I think it was rather to consider the general question of pay. I do not think the Government is in any better financial position to make it in any way expedient or desirable to appoint a committee and thereby give rise to hopes in the minds of all subordinates when we know we have not got the money to pay them any more."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Does the hon. Member wish to press the motion?"

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I wish to press the motion."

"This Council foresaw that if the committee inquired into the matter and recommended some increase, we should have to find the money required. With a full knowledge of this fact, that resolution was passed. Increase of salary need not be paid to every department. There are some departments in which there need not be any increase of salary. But there are some departments whose grievances might have been redressed by slightly increasing the rate of salary. The increase need not be very much. It is a fact that there has been an increase of 60 per cent in the pay of the higher services of every department. In the Judicial department for instance, the salaries were raised considerably. In Bombay there was increase of pay from Rs. 150 to Rs. 200 or 300. Here also there was considerable increase in the salary of the subordinates of the Judicial service. In any case, the poor clerks are generally men of some education and they have to spend money almost on necessities as much as a district munsif. The difference is not much. So the increase of salary in the lower grades might have been greater than in the higher services. In any case, the matter was discussed at length by both the official and non-official Members and a solemn resolution was passed."

"I had given notice of a motion with regard to the case of the unpassed men. My motion for a cut came lower down. For fear of my motion not being reached at all, I tacked it on as an amendment to the main motion for the appointment of a committee. The hon. the President, your predecessor, allowed the amendment to go in for fear of my motion not being reached."

[Mr. J. A. Saldanha]

The motion that a committee should be appointed to inquire into the grievances and to propose a remedy was passed. So in the case of unpassed men this House has solemnly passed a resolution. I do not reiterate the arguments in favour of the unpassed men. But I wish to bring to the notice of this House—it is again and again overlooked—that once a time-scale of pay supersedes a graded system, it ipso facto follows that a clerk has a right to rise and get the incremental salary. In the case of a graded system it is different. To rise to Rs. 25 from Rs. 20 would require special sanction. If once a clerk is admitted to get Rs. 35, he must get his increments in the time-scale year after year."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"It is not so."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"The Accountant-General's opinion is different. Several departments have consulted the Accountant-General. The High Court consulted him. When I asked the Government what the opinion expressed by the Accountant-General on the subject was and to place the opinion on the table of the House, the Government as usual did not publish it. As a matter of fact the Accountant-General gave his opinion. I have got it in my record; I can easily get it. The Accountant-General solemnly expressed his opinion that the clerks were entitled to get increments in the time-scale. Be that as it may. Here is a resolution passed by this Council and it should be respected. Therefore I press the motion."

The motion was put to the House and lost.

Diwan Bahadur P. C. ETHIRAJULU NAYUDU :—"Mr. President, Sir, I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 1,15,000 for Travelling allowances be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"I have given notice of this token motion just to bring to the notice of the Government the undesirability of transferring Collectors very often. My district has suffered very badly in this respect during the last five or six years. During the last six or seven months we had five Collectors and within one year, seven Collectors. Take the last three or four years; the case is the same. What I wish to say is that it is difficult for an administrator however efficient he may be to understand the district before six months. Just before he gets into touch, with the people he is transferred and a new man is posted. He goes through the same process. Then a third man is appointed with the result that my district suffers in its administration. All I wish to say is that not only public money is wasted in the shape of travelling allowance but the real administration of the district also suffers. This is not the first time during the budget debate that I have brought this fact to the attention of the Government. Two years ago I made the same sort of complaint. I also wish to draw the attention of the Government to the fact that Sir Charles Todhunter expressed his regret and promised that he would minimise the transfers. But the promise has not been kept up. There may be some difficulties. But so many transfers in a district in a short period is really astonishing. I could not think of any reason for doing so. The hon. the Revenue Member who knows the district very well and the importance of the district will see his way to minimise the transfers and post a man who can stay there for some time so that he can understand the people. I might also say that some of the Collectors posted to Guntur were juniors. I hope and trust that the hon. Member in charge will post senior Collectors. I have given notice of this token motion just to draw the attention of the

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" Mr. President, Sir, the evil the hon. Member has spoken of is a real one and it is a matter that causes the Government considerable concern. It is an evil not due to any action of theirs. They cannot help officers falling ill and applying for leave under the more elastic rules which are now in force. The Government are always careful not to make any transfer that they can help. They have gone further and made it a rule that except on medical certificate no officer will be granted leave if one-fifth of the cadre is on leave. Guntur seems to have had luck in the matter of the Collectors falling ill and applying for sick leave. The last change was due to sickness and before that the officer took leave on some private affairs and the leave could not be denied. In order to prevent changes elsewhere, junior officers were put in as stop-gaps between the postings of senior officers. That is why the number of changes is so large. But I do not quite see how the Government can avoid the main changes and I can assure the House that the Government have no wish to remove any officer from a district of their own accord. It is only when an officer falls ill or applies for leave which cannot be denied that we have to make some arrangements. We post junior officers only to avoid disturbing the senior officers from other districts. At the same time I quite admit that the changes are too frequent and the Government will have to consider whether they should not further restrict the number of officers who can go on leave at a time at present. Beyond doing that, I do not think that it is in the power of the Government to avoid making a certain number of changes under the present conditions."

Diwan Bahadur P. C. ETHIRAJULU NAYUDU :—" I cannot understand the hon. Member in charge saying that the Government are helpless. The Government have been pursuing this policy for the last three or four years. Surely, when the hon. Member is the head of the department, he can help the district by making officers stay there for some time longer. My district specially requires a man with some experience of the district. Otherwise one will find it difficult to manage. The district requires a man of some experience in service to be posted. If he is posted for a couple of years he will get himself acclimatised and he would not get sickness. The hon. Member was in Guntur and he did not fall ill. He was hale and hearty and was quite all right. I dare say that other officers also will remain there for a long time. I do not want to press my motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Sir, I move that

'the allotment of Rs. 11,07,900 for Collectors and Magistrates be reduced by Rs. 101.'

"I wish to elicit from the Government the reasons for treating the pay of some Collectors as non-votable."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" To cut short discussion, I may say that it is a mistake and that a supplementary demand will be moved by the Government to correct the mistake. It was a mistake made by the department owing to a misconstruction of certain statutory rules."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" I shall confine myself only to the other question which I have specified in regard to my motion and that is that there are a number of people, Sir, who are acting as Collectors for a number of years without being confirmed in their places. There are perhaps no permanent vacancies in which they could be confirmed, but at the same time I wish to submit to the Government, Sir, that they have omitted one or two appointments which hitherto were open for the Provincial Service men, for some mysterious reason known to themselves. I will refer to one case. The appointment of the Judicial Secretary to the Government was for a long time not included among the 'listed' posts; but, Sir, two or three years ago—we cannot find out the reasons for that change—it has been treated as one of the 'listed' posts. The result is that an appointment which hitherto has been held or rather one appointment which was available for Provincial Civil Service officers has been denied to them. Now, Sir, I take it that there are six 'listed' posts at present. I am not sure if that number is not going to be increased very soon. Advantage should be taken of the increase in the number of listed posts, to confirm the acting people; because to continue the present arrangement is a serious disadvantage to the senior officers among Deputy Collectors. Usually, officers in the selection grade are appointed to these acting appointments; but people in the ordinary grade are not promoted to the selection grade in the acting arrangements. This, I think, Sir, is a disadvantage to people who have put in long years of service. That is why I have tabled this motion, Sir."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" I do not quite follow the point made, Sir. There are a certain number of listed superior posts, either executive or judicial. The superior executive post may be either a collectorship or a secretaryship or any other post graded as a collectorship. As a matter of fact—it may be a coincidence and it need not necessarily happen so—a Provincial civil service officer is at present the Law Secretary to Government."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Shall I explain, Sir, to save time? What I mean to say is this: At one time including the post in question, there were seven appointments which were held by the Provincial civil service officers and the office of the Judicial Secretary was not treated as one among the listed appointments; but subsequently, it was treated so, with the result that only six officers now hold the superior posts."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" The number of listed posts has never been decreased, Sir. It has been steadily increasing and under the present proposals will increase slightly still further. But the listed posts are not all specified posts. There are only a certain number of specified posts and this number has always been filled by Provincial civil service officers. Of course, it is not possible to confirm the acting Collectors, Sir, unless the 'listed' posts they hold become permanently vacant. Some of our Provincial civil service officers who are holding superior executive posts have been for some years on leave or on deputation elsewhere. We have not turned out anybody; but at the same time there is no permanent vacancy."

"As regards the point about promotion of officers to the selection grade, under the Fundamental Rules, acting promotion is not admissible to the selection grade unless there is a special rule to that effect. There are certain departments where the rules permit promotion to the selection grade, but the Revenue Department is not one of them. The Fundamental Rules were made with the sanction of the Secretary of State. I cannot remember exactly the grounds on which the Revenue department was not included."

[Mr. N. E. Marjoribanks] [16th March 1926]

I did not know that the hon. Member would raise that point; but as a matter of fact, I recollect having answered a question of his on the subject some time ago. If I have not, I shall be glad, if he will put down a question, to look into the matter and give him the necessary information."

The motion was, by leave of the House, withdrawn.

The House adjourned (5-7 p.m.) to meet again at 11 a.m. the next day.

Letter from M.R.Ry. Rao Sahib M. KUNHIRAMAN NAYAR Avargal, B.A., Sub-divisional First-class Magistrate, to Pandit RISHI RAM, Arya Samaj Madam, Palghat, dated the 12th November 1925.

[Kalpathy Car festival—Entry of Arya Samajists.]

I have no objection to the Arya Samajists going to see the car festival at Kalpathy. But in view of the fact that the inhabitants of Kalpathy and adjoining aghaharams refuse to treat Ezhuvas and other depressed classes converted by the Arya Samajists as entitling to entry in the aghaharams, I have to treat such converts to Arya Samaj as members of the classes to which they originally belonged for purposes of entry into Brahman Aghaharams till the converts prove their claims in a Civil Court.

Proceedings of the Subdivisional Magistrate, Palghat, dated 13th November 1925.

M.R.Ry. Rao Sahib M. KUNHIRAMAN NAYAR Avargal, B.A., Subdivisional Magistrate.

Order under section 144 of the Criminal Procedure Code.

To all Thiyyas, Izhuvas, Panans, Cherumas, Parayas, Nayadis and converts to Arya Samajam from all these classes of people.

Whereas it has been made to appear to me that a disturbance of the public tranquillity or a riot is likely to occur if members of the classes mentioned below, namely, Izhuvas, Thiyyas, Panans, Cherumas, Parayas, Nayadis and converts to the Arya Samajam from these classes of people, attempt to enter the Brahman aghaharams in and around Kalpathy, during the car festival, I do hereby prohibit them from entering the villages of Kalpathy, old and new, Chathapuram, Govindarajapuram, Vydianathapuram, 12th street, and the single street west of the Achan's house and strictly warn and enjoin all persons of the above classes not to enter these villages from to-day the 13th of November 1925 to 16th November 1925, both days inclusive.

Given under my hand and the seal of this Court, this 13th day of November 1925.

M. KUNHIRAMAN NAYAR, Subdivisional Magistrate, Palghat.

I

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Order made by the President of the Madras Legislative Council under Standing Order No. 15 on the 4th December 1924.]

1. Starred questions to be put at a meeting of the Council with their answers shall be printed and placed on the Council table an hour before the President takes his seat.

The Secretary shall call out the name of each interpellator in the order in which the names are printed, specify the serial number of his question and make a sufficient pause to give him or any other member a reasonable opportunity of rising in his place and putting a supplementary question. Supplementary questions must be put immediately after the principal questions to which they relate.

2. If a member responsible for a starred question happens to be absent when it is called, it will be open either to him or to any other member to put supplemental questions thereon after the other starred questions for the day have been answered, provided question-time is not thereby exceeded.

3. Questions, not starred, will not be called in Council, but they will be printed with their answers and placed on the table of the House along with the list of starred questions. Oral supplementary questions will not be allowed in regard to unstarred questions.]

STARRED QUESTIONS.

Criminal Justice.

Alleged attack of non-Devangas on Devangas in Chennur village.

* 1578 Q.—Mr. S. MUTTAYYA MUDALIYAR: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Government have made any inquiries about the incident that took place in Chennur village, Gudur taluk, Nellore district, on 15th October 1925, when the non-Devangas of the place are said to have attacked the Devangas and committed dacoity;

(b) what are the causes that led to such outbreak of hostilities; and

(c) what steps have been taken to prevent similar occurrences in future?

A.—(a) The Government have received a report on the riot from the District Magistrate.

(b) The riot is ascribed to resentment at the increase in the wealth and importance of the weavers and to their alleged attempts to encroach on the privileges of the Kapus at the annual jatra in the village and on other occasions.

(c) A special police outpost has been opened as a temporary measure at Chennur, and Security proceedings under section 107, Criminal Procedure Code, have been launched against 20 Devangas and 20 Kapus. The question of the further continuance of the Police outpost will be considered after the conclusion of the Security cases.

Land Revenue.

Taxes on palmyra trees.

* 1579 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether there is any difference in rates in connexion with palmyra trees in Tinnevely district as compared with those in other districts;

[17th March 1926]

(b) if so, what is the rate prevailing at present in Tinnevely district for palmyra trees and the rates in other districts for the same trees; and

(c) whether there is any difference in rate in connexion with fruit bearing and non-fruit bearing palmyra trees?

A.—(a) & (b) The hon. Member is referred to the following statement showing the rates of tax on palmyra trees in the several districts:—

			Palmyra.

Fruit-bearing.
Leaf-cutting.

No tree pattas.
No rates notified.
No tree tax levied.

No tree pattas granted.

Sriharikota island alone.
No tree tax levied.

Smooth } Srivilliputtur and Rough } Sattur taluks only.

Smooth.
Rough.

* Except in six villages of the Srivaikuntam taluk where the rates are six pies for a smooth tree and three pies for a rough tree.

Notes.—A smooth tree is one fit for regular climbing; a rough tree is one not fit for regular climbing.

(c) There is a difference in rate between fruit bearing and other trees in Coimbatore and in certain taluks of Tanjore district it is not customary to charge on male palmyras.

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"Sir, I find there is a vast difference between the rates in Anantapur and those in Tinnevely. May I know why?"

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"The rates in other districts are on scattered trees. I believe in Tinnevely, palmyras are grown in regular topes. And if the hon. Member refers to the Settlement reports he will see that the land is assessed by counting the number of trees on it and calculating at the rate of 4 pies per tree and fixing the amount as the rate on the land. The case of Tinnevely is different from other districts."

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" Again, Sir, while in many districts the rate is 2 annas, in Cuddapah it is 4 annas. May I know why? "

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" I don't know, Sir, but I suppose it is due to the local conditions. The comparative rarity of the tree makes it more valuable in that particular locality. "

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" With reference to (c), I find there is a difference in rate between fruit bearing and non-fruit bearing trees and this is confined to Coimbatore and Tanjore only. May I know why? "

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" There again, Sir, it is due to the local custom. "

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" May I know then, whether the custom in other districts are different in any way? "

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" Apparently so, Sir, in the case of these trees. "

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" May I know whether there would be any difference in the palmyra trees, fruit bearing and non-fruit bearing, in the other districts due to local custom. "

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" Not in the tree but in the use to which people put it, I suppose. "

District Labour officers.

* 1580 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN : Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) the names of the districts in which the District Labour officers were vested with powers to assign darkhast lands to the members of the depressed classes straightway; and

(b) if all the District Labour officers were not vested with such powers, the reason for not giving such powers in their cases?

A.—(a) District Labour officers have no power to assign lands in any district.

(b) The assignment of land is not the function of the District Labour officers but of the Revenue Department.

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" May I know the functions of the District Labour officer? "

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" That, Sir, is a question that should be addressed to my hon. Colleague. "

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" That is a matter for a separate question. "

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" The answer says, Sir, that the assignment of land is not a function assigned to the District Labour officer. I wish to know what the functions are that are performed by the officer. "

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" That is a matter for a separate question. "

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" I want to know whether the District Labour officers are engaged in starting co-operative credit societies. "

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Order, order. That is a separate question in other form. "

[17th March 1926]

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" It is said in answer to clause (b) of the question that it is not the function of the Labour officer to assign lands, but of the Revenue department. May I know if the Labour officers have been informed of this, because I find in some places that they do usurp this function? "

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" I can only presume that they have been informed. But in view of what the hon. Member has stated, the matter will be looked into. "

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" Are the District Labour Officers consulted before land is assigned to the Depressed classes? "

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" There, again, it is a matter of practice. I am not aware that there is a rule on the subject; but if the hon. Member will give me notice, I shall look the matter up. "

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" Are the Government aware that in the guise of Depressed classes, people other than the Adi-Dravidas and the Adi-Andhras, I mean caste Hindus calling themselves as Depressed classes, get lands assigned to them? "

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" I hope not. "

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" Will the Government enquire into whether such assignments have been made? "

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" I must have something more definite to go on than a general statement. If the hon. Member can give me a little more definite information, I shall be very glad to make an enquiry. "

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" May I know whether the District Labour officers have at least the power of making recommendations for assignment of lands or house sites? "

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" If they are asked to give an opinion, they will do so. "

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" I only want to know whether they are vested with the power of making recommendations. I do not want to know whether they give any opinion. "

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" Every officer of Government has this power. "

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" But, Sir, recommendations of District Labour officers are bound to be more effective because there is a presumption that only they are working in those places for depressed classes. "

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" That is a very low estimate of the hon. Member's powers. "

Encroachments on channels and pathways in patta lands.

* 1581 Q.—Mr. S. MUTTAYYA MUDALIYAR : Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to lay on the table of the House further proceedings of the Board or Government connected with the Board's Proceedings, Mis. No. 894, dated 30th May 1922, as regards encroachments on channels and pathways in patta lands?

A.—No further orders have been issued either by the Board or by the Government on the subject.

[17th March 1926]

Minor Irrigation.Pay and travelling allowance of Minor Irrigation overseers.

* 1582 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that several Minor Irrigation overseers in the Revenue Department have submitted memorials to the higher authorities as well as to His Excellency the Governor of Madras praying for an enhanced scale of pay and adequate travelling allowance;

(b) whether it is a fact that they are at present paid only Rs. 50—2½—100 whereas supervisors in the District Public Works, whose duties are nearly similar to those of the Minor Irrigation overseers, are paid Rs. 80—7½—125;

(c) whether it is a fact that the Minor Irrigation overseers have to travel over a whole taluk carrying their levelling and other instruments and whether they are paid only a fixed travelling allowance of Rs. 22-8-0 per mensem and on condition of a minimum touring of 20 days;

(d) whether it is a fact that overseers of the District Public Works are paid Rs. 30 (thirty) per mensem and supervisors Rs. 40 as travelling allowance; and

(e) whether it is a fact that chances of promotion are almost nil in the case of the Minor Irrigation overseers owing to the abolition of Minor Irrigation supervisors' posts?

A.—(a) Yes.

(b) Their present pay is Rs. 50—2½—100 and their duties are similar to those of Public Works Department overseers, who also receive the same scale of pay. Their duties are not similar to those of Public Works Department supervisors, whose pay is Rs. 80—7½—125—efficiency bar—130—10—250.

(c) Minor irrigation overseers have usually to travel over a whole taluk and take their instruments with them. Each overseer has a lascar to assist him. The travelling allowance of an overseer travelling over a single taluk is as stated in the question. An overseer travelling over two taluks gets Rs. 27-8-0 per mensem.

(d) No. The travelling allowance for Public Works Department supervisors is Rs. 40, but for Public Works Department overseers only Rs. 22½.

(e) Owing to the small number of supervisors' posts, a Minor Irrigation overseer's chances of promotion are limited.

Arms and Explosives.Issue of licences for guns, etc.

* 1583 Q.—Mr. K. RAGHUCHANDRA BALLAL: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) how many licences for guns, revolvers, rifles, pistols and swords have been issued by the District Magistrate of South Kanara for the last three years ending on 31st December 1925;

[17th March 1926]

(b) how many of those licences have been renewed for the next year;

(c) whether any renewal applications have been rejected, and if so, on what grounds;

(d) what are the qualifications for a licensee to hold a licence;

(e) whether it is the option of the licensing authority to grant or refuse the licences;

(f) whether the licensing authority is not bound to assign reasons for the grant or refusal of such licences;

(g) how many licences for arms have been issued during the said period for the whole of British India in the Presidency; and

(h) what are the qualifications for the issue of licences in the Madras Presidency?

A.—(a) & (b) The Government have no information but have called for it.

(c) The Government have no information, but any person who is refused a licence by the District Magistrate on inadequate grounds can appeal to the Government.

(d) & (h) The hon. Member's attention is invited to paragraph 7 of the Resolution of the Government of India, Home Department (Police), No. F. 829-1-22, dated 3rd November 1923, published at pages 1340-1343 of Part I of the Fort St. George Gazette, dated 27th November 1923.

(e) Yes.

(f) No.

(g) The total number of arms licences in force in this Presidency in 1923 and 1924 was as follows:—

1923	...	...	...	...	62,223
1924	...	...	...	...	68,977

Figures for 1925 are not yet available.

Criminal Tribes.

Machinery to watch persons registered under the Criminal Tribes Act in Anantapur district.

* 1584 Q.—Mr. G. RAMESWARA RAO: Will the hon. the Home Member, the hon. the Law Member and the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) what the machinery is that is employed in Anantapur district to watch the persons registered under the Criminal Tribes Act;

(b) how it differs from that existing in other districts;

(c) whether any additional expenditure is incurred for the purpose of watching the registered members; and

(d) if not, whether the existing village officers and Police officers have been found sufficient to cope with the increasing number of registered members?

[17th March 1926]

A.—(a) & (b) The machinery for watching registered members of criminal tribes consists of the Police and village officers. The machinery in Anantapur does not differ from that in other districts.

(c) No.

(d) No representation has been made to Government that the existing Police and village officers are not sufficient.

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—“ May I know whether the people who were registered under this Act are required to report themselves two or three times a day ? ”

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—“ As I have said in connexion with the Budget debate, I have called for a report on the subject.”

Forests.

Discontinuance of conveyance allowances of Forest Rangers.

* 1585 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR : Will the hon. the Home Member and the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that Forest Rangers and Police Sub-Inspectors alike had been receiving conveyance allowances provided they maintained serviceable double-bullock bandies or cycles respectively instead of ponies ;

(b) whether such allowance was discontinued only in the case of Forest Rangers with effect from 1st June 1925 ;

(c) whether Forest Rangers have to tour more extensively than Police Sub-Inspectors generally have to do ; and

(d) if so, what was the reason for discontinuing the allowance in the case of Forest Rangers ?

A.—(a) Till 1st June 1925, Forest Rangers were entitled to draw a conveyance allowance of Rs. 15 per mensem for keeping a pony ; but Conservators could exempt a Ranger from keeping a pony when a cart or other means of conveyance would be more useful to him for the efficient performance of his duties. For a bicycle the allowance was Rs. 5 per mensem.

As regards Sub-Inspectors of Police in the mufassal (except Railway Police) employed otherwise than as prosecuting sub-inspectors and readers, a conveyance allowance of Rs. 25 per mensem or Rs. 5 per mensem for maintaining a double bullock bandy or a cycle respectively is granted in particular localities where such means of conveyance are considered by the Deputy Inspector-General of the range to be most suitable.

(b) With effect from 1st June 1925 only those Rangers who keep a serviceable pony are entitled to draw a pony allowance of Rs. 15 per mensem.

(c) No such comparison is possible.

(d) Does not arise.

Conveyance allowances of Forest Rangers and Sub-Inspectors.

* 1586 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR : Will the hon. the Home Member and the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that Sub-Inspectors of Police were given notice some time ago to the effect that they need not maintain conveyances ;

(b) whether, in spite of timely notice, several Sub-Inspectors of Police were given the conveyance allowance as long as they continued to maintain the conveyances ;

(c) whether any such notice as in (a) was given to Forest Rangers as regards their maintaining double-bullock bandies or cycles, and if not, why such timely notice was not given them ; and

(d) if the answer to (c) is in the affirmative, why similar exemptions have not been made in the case of Forest Rangers as was done in the case of Sub-Inspectors of Police, viz., continuing the conveyance allowance to such of those as maintained conveyances ?

A.—(a) No.

(b) Does not arise.

(c) No such notice was considered necessary.

(d) Does not arise.

Local Boards and Municipal Councils.

Representation of depressed classes in the Madanapalle Union Board.

* 1587 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN : With reference to question No. 1005 regarding strength and constitution of the Madanapalle Union Board, answered at the meeting, dated 14th December 1925, will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) why no representative of the depressed classes was nominated to the Madanapalle Union Board by the President of the Madanapalle Taluk Board ;

(b) whether any consultation was made by the President of the Madanapalle Taluk Board among the depressed classes for nominating one member among them to the union board ;

(c) whether the power of recommending candidates for nomination to union boards is vested in the hands of the presidents of union boards ; and

(d) whether there is any proposal by the Government to amend the Local Boards Act in order to give compulsory nomination to the depressed classes to union boards, taluk boards and district boards ?

A.—(a) The hon. Member is referred to the answer given to clauses (g) and (h) of question No. 1005 at the meeting of the Legislative Council held on 14th December 1925.

(b) The Government have no information.

(c) There is no provision of law or rule to this effect.

(d) The hon. Member is referred to the answer given to question No. 1393 at the meeting of the Legislative Council held on the 12th February 1926.

[17th March 1926]

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" With reference to clause (c), may I know who generally makes recommendations ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" The appointment is made by the Taluk Board President, who may, if he likes, consult the presidents of of union boards. "

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Sir, in view of the very many questions asked in this matter and of my request to the hon. the Minister to be so good as to communicate the view of the Government that in the matter of these nominations there should be at least one Adi-Andhra, one Muhammadan, one Indian Christian, to which the hon. the Minister promised that he would consider the matter, I wish to know whether the hon. the Minister has advised the boards as to the necessity of nominations being more representative than hitherto. "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" Sir, the presidents of the district and taluk boards have been repeatedly told that they should pay due regard to the representation of the depressed and minor communities. "

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" I just want to know whether the hon. the Minister has invited the attention of these people since my request was made to him or before that. "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" I cannot exactly say that. Requests have been made ever so many times, but I am sure that after the request was made communications have been issued. "

Purchase of the portrait of the late C. R. Das for the Polur Taluk Board office.

* 1588 Q.—Mr. S. SATYAMURTI : Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Taluk Board, Polur, in the North Arcot district, passed a resolution to purchase a copy of the photograph of the late Desabhandu C. R. Das for the taluk board's office at a cost not exceeding Rs. 50 ;

(b) whether the Government declined to sanction the purchase ; and

(c) the reasons for that action of the Government ?

A.—(a) & (b) The answer is in the affirmative. The Board proposed to incur an expenditure not exceeding Rs. 15.

(c) The Government are of opinion that such expenditure is not a legitimate charge on public funds but should be met from private subscriptions.

Jurisdiction of Civil Courts over disputes connected with municipal elections.

* 1589 Q.—Mr. S. SATYAMURTI : Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Government have in contemplation any proposal to deprive the civil courts of their jurisdiction over disputes in connexion with elections to municipalities ;

(b) if so, the reasons for this step ; and

[17th March 1926]

(c) whether the Government propose to consult the Legislative Council before passing final orders in the matter ?

A.—(a) The answer is in the affirmative.

(b) The reasons are—

(i) to secure speedy and final decisions in election disputes, and
(ii) to minimise litigation in civil courts in regard to elections.

(c) The answer is in the negative. A draft of the rules for the decision of election disputes as proposed to be amended will however be published in due course in the Fort St. George Gazette for information and criticism.

The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—" May I ask the hon. Minister in how many cases of election disputes orders passed by Government have been upheld in courts and in how many they were reversed. "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" I am afraid the question is rather a wide one and it is impossible for the Government to give any answer without notice. If the hon. Member gives notice, I will be glad to give him the details. "

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" It is said that the Government are contemplating the proposal to deprive the civil courts of their jurisdiction. May I know what agency the Government propose to substitute ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" The matter is under consideration. "

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" May I know what are the different agencies they are thinking of, of which one or the other will be substituted ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" I do not think any purpose will be served by a statement of what is still under consideration. "

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Evidently all except civil courts. "

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Will the hon. the Minister give an opportunity for the House to express its opinion before the matter is decided ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" The draft rules will be published in the Fort St. George Gazette and it will be open to the hon. Members to criticise them. "

Medical.

Use of indigenous products for medical purposes.

* 1590 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA : Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether Government have received any proposals for the establishment of their own medical stores for use in the public hospitals maintained by them or by local boards ;

(b) if so, what action Government have taken ;

(c) whether Government have taken stock of various indigenous products of South India that may be purchased for their own stores ;

(d) whether the medical virtues of sardine oil manufactured by the West Coast Fisheries Company and other firms have been brought to their notice ; and

[17th March 1926]

(e) what steps Government have taken or contemplate taking in order to encourage the use of indigenous products for medical purposes, such as sardine oil?

A.—(a) & (b) The suggestion that the Madras Government should establish a separate Medical Stores Depot emanated from the Government and not from any outside source. They have recently appointed a committee to report on the best method of reducing the cost of drugs and other medical necessities supplied to local fund and municipal medical institutions. One of the methods suggested in that connexion is the opening of a Medical Stores Depot to be maintained by the Madras Government. The report of the Committee is awaited.

(c) The answer is in the negative. The Government have, however, recently deputed a Civil Assistant Surgeon and a Chemist to carry out an investigation into the indigenous drugs of South India in the School of Tropical Medicine and Hygiene, Calcutta, for a period of three years.

(d) Yes. The question of substituting Sardine oil or 'Sardinole' for Cod liver oil in Government hospitals has been considered. 'Sardinole' was tried but experience showed that it was not an efficient substitute for Cod liver oil.

(e) The attention of the hon. Member is invited to paragraph 940 of the Civil Medical Code (3rd Edition) regarding the use of indigenous drugs and their preparations.

Sale of quinine.

* 1591 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state what orders have been passed or are proposed to be passed as to the sale of quinine at cheaper price or its distribution free by post offices and other agencies in malarial areas?

A.—The matter is under the consideration of the Government.

Public Health.

Location of market and slaughter-house in Panruti.

* 1592 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Union Board, Panruti, in South Arcot district, has allowed a private market and slaughter-house to be located in the heart of the town (Panruti);

(b) whether the inhabitants of Panruti have been for a long time agitating for their removal on the score of sanitation as well as of sentiment, and if so, how long this agitation has been going on;

(c) whether the District Collector, the President of the District Board, the President of the Taluk Board or the District Medical and Sanitary Officer visited the place or enquired into the grievances on receipt of the mahazars from the public; and

[17th March 1926]

(d) whether it is a fact that the Panruti Union Board has passed a resolution to construct a public market and slaughter-house and if so, when and why that resolution was not given effect to?

A.—The Government have no information but have called for it.

Religious and Charitable Endowments.

Salary and expenses of the Commissioners appointed under the Hindu Religious Endowments Act.

* 1593 Q.—Mr. S. SATYAMURTI: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) the arrangements he has made for the salary and expenses of the Commissioners appointed under the Hindu Religious Endowments Act;

(b) the authority under which such arrangements were made; and

(c) the reasons why the Legislative Council was not consulted in the matter?

A.—(a), (b) & (c) The Legislative Council at the meeting held on the 6th November 1925 voted an advance of Rs. 1,65,000 to the Board of Commissioners for Hindu Religious Endowments for meeting its expenditure during the current year.

Appointment of Mr. P. V. Nataraja Mudaliyar as Member of Hindu Religious Endowments Board.

* 1594 Q.—Mr. S. SATYAMURTI: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether Mr. P. V. Nataraja Mudaliyar has been appointed a member of the Hindu Religious Endowments Board;

(b) whether Mr. Mudaliyar was at the time of his appointment and still continues to be a trustee of the Pachaiyappa's Charities;

(c) whether the Pachaiyappa's charities include endowments made to Hindu temples, choultries, and Sanskrit patasalas;

(d) whether he has to inspect the endowed institutions as a trustee of the charities and also supervise the same as a Commissioner of the Board; and

(e) whether the Government intend to take notice of what is in any case an anomaly and if not, why not?

A.—(a) & (b) The answer is in the affirmative.

(c) The Government understand that endowments to certain Hindu temples form part of Pachayappa's charities. Endowments to choultries and Sanskrit patasalas unconnected with temples or maths do not come within the scope of the Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act.

(d) Not necessarily. According to the scheme for the management of Pachayappa's charities which is at present in force and which was passed by the High Court of Judicature at Madras on 12th February 1909 and modified on the 19th July 1920 the Board of Trustees shall, at least once in every three years, cause all charities under their management to be locally inspected and reported on by one or more of their own body or any other person to be specially deputed for that purpose. In view of his position on the Hindu Religious Endowments Board M.R.Ry. P. V. Nataraja Mudaliyar would, for obvious reasons, not undertake that duty.

- (e) Of the religious institutions which are benefited by Pachayappa Mudaliyar's bequest, the temple of Sabha Nayagar in Chidambaram and the pagoda of Ekambereswaraswami in Conjeevaram are within the territorial jurisdiction of M.R.Ry. P. V. Nataraja Mudaliyar as a Commissioner of the Hindu Religious Endowments Board. The Board is arranging to entrust the supervision of these temples to another Commissioner.

The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—" May I ask the hon. the Minister, Sir, whether, in view of the answers given, he cannot advise Mr. P. V. Nataraja Mudaliyar to resign either the one or the other of the two places he is holding ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" The President of the Endowments Board was of opinion that he need not resign either. But if necessary, he will not have anything to do with the Board of which he is a trustee, as the Pachayappa's Trust."

The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—" The Act prohibits trustees from becoming members of the Board as the Board has to sit in judgment over the conduct of trustees. Now the hon. the Minister says that the President of the Religious Endowments Board was of opinion that the combination of functions in one Commissioner is nothing undesirable. Is it a matter left to be decided by one of the members of the Board, the President himself, or is it a matter of public opinion which the hon. Minister is bound to respect and regard ? I think, Sir, it is really objectionable and I earnestly request the hon. Minister to consider the matter."

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" If the Act prohibits, it is open to the hon. Member to question the right to existence of Mr. Nataraja Mudaliyar on either of these institutions in a court of law."

The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—" We have no means of questioning him in the Board of which we are not members. Of course, the aggrieved party may take the matter to a court of law. But that is not a simple affair. The Government cannot commit irregularities and ask the subjects to go to court. But people aggrieved may go to courts. And certainly the Religious Endowments Board is not a thing which has not already been taken to court. But this is an obvious irregularity and it is certainly for the hon. the Minister, if he has any regard for public opinion, to take action himself."

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" I do not quite understand what the hon. Member means by this being an obvious case of irregularity. I do not know if the hon. Member is aware of any section of rule made under any section of the Endowments Act which makes a man who is in charge of trust property disqualified for commissionership on the Endowments Board."

The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—" Am I to understand the hon. Minister would receive applications from trustees of temples for commissionership on the Board, when the time comes for the next selection ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" Each case will be considered on its merits."

[17th March 1926]

Alleged levy of entrance fee from Malayalis in Rameswaram temple.

* 1595 Q.—Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR : Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether an entrance fee of one rupee is levied from every Malayali who goes to worship in the temple of Rameswaram before he is permitted to enter the temple ;

(b) whether such entrance fee is levied from other worshippers in the temple ; and

(c) whether the Government will take steps to abolish the collection of such entrance fees from the Malayalis ?

A.—(a) The answer is in the affirmative. The Government understand that the levy has been in vogue for more than a century.

(b) A fee of one rupee was also levied from every Brahman for admission to the Arthamantapam of Sri Ramanadhaswami Sannidhi. At the instance of the Hindu Religious Endowments Board the levy of the fee has been discontinued.

(c) At the instance of the Hindu Religious Endowments Board, the Rameswaram Devasthanam Committee has decided to abolish the levy of the fee.

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" Sir, with reference to the answer to clause (c), wherein it is stated that 'at the instance of the Hindu Religious Endowments Board, the Rameswaram Devasthanam Committee has decided to abolish the levy of fees,' is the hon. the Minister in a position to tell me now whether this decision of the Religious Endowments Board has already taken effect, or from which date it will take effect ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" I am informed that it has already taken effect."

Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN :—" May I ask the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government whether there was a committee appointed so far as the management of the Rameswaram Devasthanam is concerned, just before the Hindu Religious Endowments Board was constituted ? "

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" That does not arise from any of these questions."

Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN :—" I just wish to draw the attention of the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government to this matter, Sir. I want to know whether he has authorized such a committee to exclude members of backward communities from entering into the temple. That is my question."

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" Sir, the committee was appointed under a scheme framed by the High Court."

Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN :—" May I ask the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government whether he is aware that that committee consisting of Brahmans and non-Brahmans decided that the members of backward communities should be refused permission to enter into the temple ? "

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" What jurisdiction has the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government over a committee constituted under instructions from the High Court ? "

[17th March 1926]

Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN :—"I am asking the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government whether he has authorized any such committee to exclude members of backward communities from entering the Rameswaram temple."

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—"There is no such authorization at all."

Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN :—"May I know whether the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government is aware that a respectable member of a so-called backward community, holding a decent position in public life, was excluded the other day from entering the Rameswaram temple by this committee consisting of Brahmans and non-Brahmans including a gentleman named Mr. Vanamamala Pillai who protested against such a step?"

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"That is not within the cognizance of a Member of the Government."

Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN :—"In the answer to clause (b) it is stated that a fee of one rupee was also levied from every Brahman for admission to the Arthamantapam. The question is whether this fee is generally levied from people who enter into the temple, but the answer is that it is levied from Brahmans. May I know whether the fee is levied from the non-Brahmans also?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—"Sir, I have already answered that these fees levied in the past from non-Brahmans have been of late not levied and have been abolished."

The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—"Will you permit me, Sir, as a member of the committee, to say a few words on this question?"

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Yes, if it will clear up the matter."

The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—"As a member of the committee I may state at once that the committee has not passed any resolution to this effect, preventing any member of any community from entering the temple, but there is the local usage and custom restricting admission. The gentleman referred to by my hon. Friend Mr. Gopalan, that is, Mr. Vanamamala Pillai, is not a member of the committee. He is the treasurer, a paid servant of the committee. And regarding the admission to the temple there is no prohibition except as regards communities which have by custom no right to enter the temple. There is the Arthamantapam, which is next door to the sanctum sanctorum, into which only Brahmans are allowed to enter. Visitors to the temple, if they are not residents of Rameswaram but outsiders, all have to pay the fees. Non-Brahmans have no admission into the Arthamantapam."

Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN :—"After what I have heard from the Raja of Ramnad, I will just mention for the information of the Raja and the House that the other day when I went to Rameswaram . . ."

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"What is the question?"

Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN :—"I want to know whether the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government is aware that Mr. Vanamamala Pillai insisted upon my giving a declaration to the effect that I am not a member of either Ezhuva, Chanava or Chonan community, and said that unless and until I give such a declaration I would not be admitted. I had to give a declaration that I am not a member of any of those three communities mentioned."

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—"I have no information, Sir, on the subject, except what the hon. Member has just now stated."

The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—"The practice in the temple is that, when a member of a particular community goes there and there is no information as to his caste, a temple official would ask the particular gentleman to state the community to which he belongs. If he gives the name of a community which has no right of entry, the admission is denied. I do not know what his community is, but if my information is correct then the members of the community to which the hon. Member belongs have no right of admission to the Rameswaram Devasthanam."

Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN :—"I have already had entry into the temple on two occasions. It was only when I went there on the third occasion that I was asked by Mr. Vanamamala Pillai to give a declaration that I am not a member of Ezhuva, Chanava or Chonan community. I cannot understand the reason why Mr. Vanamamala Pillai, a member of the committee appointed by High Court, should insist on the third occasion for a declaration but not on the first two occasions unless he was forced to do so by Brahman members?"

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"The activities of the Rameswaram Devasthanam Committee are not the primary concern of the Government."

Village Panchayats.

Inspection of Therakupatti Village Panchayat.

* 1596 Q.—Mr. CHAVADI K. SUBRAHMANYA PILLAI: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Therakupatti Village Panchayat, Tinnevely taluk, was inspected at any time (1) by the Registrar or Assistant Registrar of Village Panchayats, (2) by the President of the Tinnevely Taluk Board, (3) by the Revenue authorities, i.e., Tahsildar or Revenue Divisional Officer, and if so, whether any adverse or good remarks have been made by any of them; and

(b) whether this panchayat is properly maintaining its proceedings book and other records from the time of its origin and whether these were inspected by the Registrar or Assistant Registrar?

4.—(a) The village panchayat was inspected by the Personal Assistant to the Registrar-General of Panchayats in company with the President, Taluk Board, Tinnevely, on 24th August 1925. The Personal Assistant remarked in his note of inspection that taxes had been assessed by the panchayat in an unsympathetic manner owing to the fact that all the members elected belonged to one of the two factions in the village. The Government have no information as to whether any officers of the Revenue Department have inspected the panchayat.

(b) The panchayat is reported to be properly maintaining its proceedings book and other records. They have been inspected by the Personal Assistant to the Registrar-General of Panchayats.

[17th March 1926]

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Did the Government take any measures at all to ascertain whether or not it is true that the taxation was assessed unfairly, owing to factions existing in the village? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" The Personal Assistant to the Registrar-General noted that there have been factions and that taxes were assessed in fallacious spirit."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" If, as I surmise from the answer of the hon. the Chief Minister, the remarks of the Personal Assistant were justified, I want to know what steps he took to relieve the people from such unjust and unsympathetic assessment of taxation."

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" The question as to whether it would be possible for the Government to interfere in the matter will be considered."

Powers of village panchayats.

* 1597 Q.—Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR : Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many panchayats are enjoying the right of holding markets, the right of fishery and the control of poramboke lands;

(b) whether the Registrar-General of Panchayats has any power to over-ride the taluk board decisions disallowing anything asked by panchayats; and

(c) whether the president of the taluk board has any power to appoint a presiding officer to conduct panchayat election?

A.—(a) The Government have no information.

(b) The answer is in the negative.

(c) Under the rules issued under the Madras Village Panchayat Act, 1920, the Registrar-General or the person specified by him or any other person which such person may depute shall preside at the meeting of the voters and conduct the election. If the person specified by the Registrar-General happens to be the president of a taluk board, he can depute another person to preside over a panchayat election.

Co-operative Societies.

Number of Co-operative Unions in each Assistant Registrar's section.

* 1598 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR : Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

(a) the number of Co-operative Unions in each Assistant Registrar's section in the Presidency, in the year 1924-25 (as on 30th June);

(b) the amount received as 'rebate' from the Central Bank or District Banking Union in each of the Assistant Registrar's section for the period mentioned in (a) above;

(c) the amount of 'supervision fund' collected from the Co-operative Societies by the Co-operative Unions, in each of the Assistant Registrar's section for the period mentioned in (a) above; and

17th March 1926]

(d) the total amount of money spent in each of the Assistant Registrar's section in this Presidency under

(i) the pay of the supervisors and travelling allowance;

(ii) the travelling allowance of governing body members; and

(iii) contingencies?

A.—(a) The information is furnished below :—

Name of section.	Number of unions on 30th June 1925.	Name of section.	Number of unions on 30th June 1925.

Industries.

Loss in the working of the Fruit Preserving Institute.

* 1599 Q.—Mr. G. RAMESWARA RAO : Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

(a) to what head or sub-head would the loss of Rs. 23,681-10-9 accrued in 1924-25, in the working of the Fruit Preserving Institute, be debited;

(b) the reason for such a heavy loss;

(c) how the Government propose to recoup the loss;

(d) whether the products of the Institute are able to compete with imported stuffs and if not, why not;

(e) whether there are any proposals either to reduce the expenditure on the Institute or otherwise to work it with a view to economy and profit; and

(f) whether the fruit and sugar required for the Institute is purchased locally and; if so, on what terms or whether they are obtained from departmental gardens, farms and factories?

A.—(a) The figure quoted represents the loss on working arrived at by applying the principles of commercial accounting; as the Institute has not been commercialised, the hon. Member will not see this figure in the Government accounts.

* This number includes ten District Federations of unions.

N26-2936

[17th March 1926]

- (b) & (d) The products of the Institute are not able to compete with imported jams owing to the fact that cheap 'Bounty fed' Australian and other jams are imported in large quantities and are offered at cheaper rates.
- (c) It is not possible to recoup it.
- (e) Orders have been issued to close the Institute.
- (f) Fruits are generally purchased locally from private parties and the Government Botanical Gardens (Sims Park). Some fruits such as pineapples and roselles are got from Cochin, Travancore, Nellore, etc., where they are available at cheap rates. Sugar is purchased largely from Messrs. Parry and Company, the only firm who can supply sugar of the standard quality required for jam making.

Sale of the products of the Fruit Preserving Institute.

* 1600 Q.—MR. G. RAMESWARA RAO: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

- (a) whether the products of the Fruit Preserving Institute are exported to other countries or to other provinces in India and if so, to what extent;
- (b) where and how these products are advertised; and
- (c) the quantity of the sales effected in consequence of the advertisements?

A.—(a) The products of the Institute are not exported to other countries. A small quantity is supplied to other provinces.

(b) The products were widely advertised in the press till recently but in view of the poor results achieved thereby this has not been continued.

(c) Information is not available.

The Madras Ink Factory.

* 1601 Q.—MR. S. SATYAMURTI: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

- (a) the cost incurred by the Madras Ink Factory in buying jars and glasses for bottling the inks;
- (b) whether the Government propose to make the glasses and jars themselves; and
- (c) if not, why not?

A.—(a) The cost incurred up to 31st January 1926 was Rs. 15,118;

(b) & (c) The question is under consideration.

MR. B. RAMACHANDRA REDDI:—"May I know, Sir, whether the ink produced in this factory is of a good quality?"

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—"It is certified to be of very good quality."

[17th March 1926]

MR. B. RAMACHANDRA REDDI:—"May I know, whether the Government indenting upon this factory for all the supply of ink necessary for the Government?"

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—"It is all done under the orders of the Superintendent of Stationery."

MR. B. RAMACHANDRA REDDI:—"May I know at the same time whether the Government does not indent upon this factory for any supply of ink?"

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—"The officer of the Government who is interested in the matter is the Superintendent of Stationery, and he is not in my department."

Printing class attached to the Madras Trades School.

* 1602 Q.—RAO BAHADUR M. C. RAJA: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

(a) whether there is a printing class attached to the Madras Trades School;

(b) when this was opened and how many are now being trained;

(c) whether it is a fact that there was a similar class attached to the Government Press, Madras, over a decade ago, and if so why that was abolished, when that was abolished and what was the strength of that class then;

(d) when there are sufficient facilities for this class in the Government Press, what was the necessity for attaching this class to the Trades School;

(e) what is the amount paid to the various lecturers attached to the printing class in the Trades School; and

(f) what was the amount paid to the lecturers then attached to the printing class in the Madras Government Press?

A.—(a) Yes.

(b) On 2nd November 1925; 17.

(c) Yes; it was abolished in April 1919 for the reasons that the Superintendent, Government Press, or his men could find no time to devote to it, and that the class was held outside working hours and as working hours in the Press are by no means few the attendance became irregular and the working of the class consequently unsatisfactory. The average attendance for the six months preceding the closing of the class was 39 out of 102 on the rolls.

(d) There is no suitable accommodation in the Government Press. The Government did not consider that it would be right to ask the Superintendent of the Government Press to admit into his works lads from outside presses over whom he would have no control apart from the fact that such an arrangement would tend to discourage recruits from other presses being sent by their employers. The Trades School is organized to provide trade instruction for apprentices and learners in the City; the class was therefore opened in that institution. Moreover the class if conducted at the Government Press would entail extra expenditure on peons, lighting, general supervision, etc., which are provided as a matter of course in the Trades School.

- (e) Rupees 20 per lecture and Rs. 2 per demonstration of two hours' duration each.
- (f) The Government have no definite information as to the amount but they understand that the small sum given by the Industries Department as grant-in-aid was divided among such of the staff as worked overtime in the conduct of the class.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS.

Forests.

Strength and cost of the Forest Panchayat staff.

1603 Q.—Mr. G. RAMESWARA RAO: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

- (a) whether the Forest Panchayat staff has been increased; and if so what is the additional strength and what is the total strength; and
- (b) what is, and what was the total cost of the Forest Department, which has been replaced by the panchayat staff?

A.—(a) The strength of the Forest Panchayat staff at the end of March 1925 was as follows:—

One Panchayat Officer.	Two clerks.
Six Inspectors.	Eight peons.

The following additional staff was sanctioned in September 1925:—

One Additional Panchayat Officer.	One clerk.
Ten Special Deputy Tahsildars.	Twelve peons.

(b) A statement* is appended.

Local Boards and Municipal Councils.

Arian Tidal burial and cremation ground, Kadambadi.

1604 Q.—Rao Sahib R. SRINIVASAN: With reference to question No. 899 regarding Arian Tidal burial and cremation ground in Kadambadi put at the meeting of the Council on 2nd November 1925 and the Government reply thereto that "the Government have no information," will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state whether Government will be pleased to call for information?

A.—The Chairman, Municipal Council, reports that the pathway to the burial-ground has now been made and is in good condition. No encroachment on the burial-ground has been made by the cultivators of the adjacent fields. A wooden bridge over the irrigation channel within the municipal limits has been constructed. The second of the two channels referred to in clause (d) of the question is outside municipal limits and the Government have no information in regard to the provision of a bridge over it. They have called for it.

* Printed as Appendix I on page 163 infra

[17th March 1926]

Construction of a second bridge across the Cauvery at Kumbakonam.

1605 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Rate-payers' Association of the old 7th Ward of the Kumbakonam Municipality have asked Government for a second bridge across the river Cauvery at Kumbakonam; and

(b) whether Government propose to sanction the construction of such a bridge at an early date?

A.—(a) & (b) No.

Religious and Charitable Endowments.

Members of the Hindu Religious Endowment Board acting as trustees of charities also.

1606 Q.—Mr. G. RAMESWARA RAO: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether any members of the Religious Endowments Board are also trustees of any charities like the Pachaiyappa's charities, which include endowments to Hindu temples;

(b) whether trustees of such charities can also occupy the position of a member of the Board supervising their own acts done in the capacity of trustees;

(c) whether the Government propose to take steps to remedy such anomalies; and

(d) whether Mr. P. V. Nataraja Mudaliyar is in the position of both a trustee and a member of the Board?

A.—(a) & (d) None except M.R.Ry. P. V. Nataraja Mudaliyar Avargal who is a trustee of the Pachaiyappa's charities.

(b) & (c) The attention of the hon. Member is invited to the answer to question No. 1549.

Roads and Communications.

Addition to the list of trunk roads.

1607 Q.—Mr. K. SITARAMA REDDIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government and the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether the District Boards of South Arcot, Tanjore and Trichinopoly were consulted in the matter of adding to the list of trunk roads the road from Cuddalore to Trichinopoly via Serakuppam, Shatiatope, Lower Anicut, Kumbakonam and Tanjore;

(b) what were the opinions of the three boards;

(c) what was the final order of the Government on this matter;

(d) what is the estimated cost to the Government if the road is treated as a trunk road in respect of (1) initial capital expenditure, and (2) recurring annual expenditure; and

(e) whether the Government will be pleased to treat this road as a trunk road at least with effect from 1926-27?

[17th March 1926]

- 4.—(a) The presidents of the three boards were asked whether, if the road were included in the list of trunk roads, their boards would agree to bear the initial cost of bringing the existing roadway up to the standard of trunk roads and to a revision of the maximum grant for the maintenance of second-class roads in the district.
- (b) The Trichinopoly District Board expressed its inability to bear any portion of the initial cost. The Tanjore District Board agreed to bear the whole of it whilst the South Arcot District Board was willing to bear half. None of the three boards was in favour of a revision of the maximum grant for the maintenance of second-class roads.
- (c) In these circumstances the proposal was dropped.
- (d) The total initial capital expenditure was estimated by the three boards at Rs. 4.21 lakhs. The question as to what portion of this should be borne by Government has not been examined. The recurring cost to Government would be about Rs. 59,500.
- (e) No.

II

SECESSION FROM THE COUNCIL.

Mr. V. C. VELLINGIRI GOUNDER :—“I thank the hon. the President for giving me an opportunity for a few minutes to make my statement. I am sorry I was unable to be present yesterday. In view of the Congress mandate, in view of the statement made by our Leader yesterday, and in view of the interest which I gather it has evoked on the part of the public, I find that we are very much wanting in effective representation to the Government and I also find satisfactory response wanting on the part of the Government.”

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—“Is the hon. Member going to explain why he is going to walk out to day?”

Mr. V. C. VELLINGIRI GOUNDER :—“Yes, Sir.”

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—“Then would he kindly content himself by saying that he is walking out for the same reasons for which his colleagues walked out yesterday, and save time?”

Mr. V. C. VELLINGIRI GOUNDER :—“I beg leave of the Council to walk out, Sir, for the reasons mentioned by the Leader of the Opposition yesterday.”

The hon. Member then left the hall.

PLACE OF NEXT MEETING.

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—“Mr. President, Sir, with reference to the meeting arranged to take place in June for the purpose of considering the Irrigation and the Malabar Tenancy Bills, certain hon. Members of this House have told me that they would be willing—I would not say anxious—to have the meeting in Ootacamund. Others say that the meeting might be held at Madras. In matters of this kind I thought that, with your leave, I might get the opinion of the House on the matter so that we might make the necessary arrangements in Ootacamund if this hon. House should decide upon having a session in Ootacamund.”

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—“Personally I would like very much to have the meeting at Ootacamund, for there is a large number of Members coming from Malabar, and Ootacamund is nearer to Malabar than Madras, so that, so far as they are concerned, it is more convenient to them, that is, Members coming from Malabar. On all sides of the House Members generally wish to go to Ootacamund and have the meeting there instead of having it here. There is also this other consideration that in June it would be intensely hot in Madras, and it would be to the convenience of all Members, not only Members from Malabar but from all districts, to have the meeting in Ootacamund. And so far as I have been able to ascertain, the majority of those whom I consulted are in favour of having the meeting at Ootacamund. Having regard to all these considerations, personally I would like very much to have the meeting in Ootacamund.”

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—“May I ask for information with regard to one point, and that is the relative cost to the Government if the meeting is held at Ootacamund or at Madras?”

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—“Sir, I think I can throw some light on that subject. Certain questions, which the hon. Members of this House are aware, were raised with reference to the Select Committee on the Irrigation Bill and then we went into the matter, and it was found that, taking things all round there was a certain amount of saving in regard to Members coming from Salem, Coimbatore, North Malabar, South Malabar, South Kanara and such districts. There was of course a greater expenditure for people coming from the Northern Circars. But on the whole it was found that the difference in cost was scarcely perceptible.”

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—“Of course, my hon. Friend the Law Member knows these things much better than myself. But my impression is that on the whole the cost would be less, if the meeting is held in Ootacamund. I may be wrong and speak subject to correction. My hon. Friend the Law Member knows better, particularly with reference to this matter.”

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—“Sir, I am sorry that, even in a minor matter like this in regard to the Tenancy Bill, I have to oppose my hon. Friend Mr. Krishnan Nayar. (Laughter.) I am against holding the meeting at Ootacamund for two reasons. In the first place, we all raise such a hue and cry with reference to the annual exodus of the Government, and when it concerns us it is not fair we should treat it differently. And, personally I do not think I shall be able to stand Ootacamund weather in June. If the meeting takes place in April or May I would be able to stand it. As I happen to be leading the opposition to the Malabar Tenancy Bill, the discussion of the Bill in my absence will be almost like enacting Hamlet without the Prince of Denmark. There are other members also who cannot stand high altitudes. My Friend the Raja of Challapalli is against holding the meeting at Ootacamund. So, I think it would be advisable to hold the meeting here instead of going all the way to Ootacamund."

[Mr. K. Prabhakaran Tampan] [17th March 1926]

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"Sir, the two measures that are going to be discussed are the Irrigation Bill and the Malabar Tenancy Bill; and these two measures are of a controversial character tending to raise heat to a certain extent (laughter), and if we hold the sessions in Madras, the heat will be accelerated (renewed laughter), so that from a heated discussion it may go to anything (loud laughter) I would therefore suggest that we should keep our heads cool and Ootacamund is the best place to have a discussion on these two Bills. Whether it should be in the end of May or the beginning of June is a matter that can be decided or even precipitated by the Government. So, Mr. Prabhakaran Tampan's doubt about this withstanding the too much coolness of the climate, I submit, may be set at rest if the session could be held at the end of May or in the beginning of June. I think the Bills are almost ready, the drafts are almost ready, and I think they can be discussed in the end of May instead of June."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"If nobody else wants to make any observation may I say this? I take it that Mr. Prabhakaran Tampan is under the impression that the meeting may perhaps be held during the monsoon. It is felt that it will not be proper thing to hold it in the monsoon time especially as many Members may be new to Ootacamund. Steps will be taken to hold it either in the first week of June or in the last week of May so as to make it sure that it will not coincide with the monsoon."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN:—"I have nothing to add to what I have already said."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"The monsoon bursts in the beginning of June."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"No."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"It is a question of days. I am not aware of it exactly."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"I take it that the opinion of the House is that the next meeting is to be held at Ootacamund provided we find accommodation both for this hon. House and for the Members."

MOTIONS ON THE BUDGET FOR 1926-27.

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"May I draw your attention, Sir, to the delicate situation in which the House is placed at the present juncture? It is not that there is no quorum. But there is something which is next to no quorum. The House is practically filled up by the official members and the nominated members who are as good as official members for all practical purposes." (No. no.)

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"I should like to know whether the hon. Member is speaking on a point of order or is making a personal explanation."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"It is neither a point of order nor a matter of personal explanation. I appeal to you, Sir, that in a matter like this if my surmise is correct that the nominated members"

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"Order, order. Is the hon. Member asking me how I can go on with the meeting?"

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"Yes, Sir, the very thing."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"As long as there is quorum under the Act, I have to conduct the business of the House." (Hear, hear.)

'that the allotment of Rs. 11,07,900 for District Collectors and Magistrates be reduced by Re. 1.'

"This I do to draw the attention of the Government to the unsympathetic nature of Revenue Department to the local bodies. Well, Sir, ever since the powers under the Local Self-Government Department have been transferred from the Revenue Department to the local boards separately I perceive, and I have no doubt that the House will believe what I say, that the Revenue Department has not been sympathetic towards the local boards in the discharge of their arduous duties that are imposed upon them. For instance in the matter of collection of profession tax and other taxes we have been accustomed to the help of the Revenue Department, the village munsifs, the karnams and others. We are also prepared to pay and are paying five per cent of the collections as an honorarium to the officers who are engaged in the collections. But with all that these officers are not at all doing their work satisfactorily so that you will find, Sir, that a very great amount of this tax has been in arrears and the Local Self-Government Department and the local bodies are taken to task for incompetency in the collection. You will notice, Sir, that the financial powers of the local bodies are very limited and they are not expected to spend large amount in the matter of collections. These taxes are very small and if a fair amount of it is spent on collections then what is left will be so very inconsiderable that it will not be worth while to take the trouble of assessing the tax at all. That is one thing. When this matter is brought to the notice of the higher authorities, I submit, Sir, they do not say 'no' but they do the worse thing, viz., they ignore our requests and even our protests. Next in the matter of police also considerable help was being given by the Revenue Department. Now on account of the unsympathetic nature of the Revenue Department we are made to shift for ourselves. It is no use multiplying the number of institutions. What I would request is that the Government may issue instructions to the Revenue Department that as far as it lies in the power of the Revenue Department in the mufassal they should come forward to help us and to co-operate with us in the matter of the administration of the local bodies in the mufassal. After all it must not be forgotten that the Local Self-Government Department is only a branch of the Government itself and local bodies must be considered part and parcel of the other branches of the administration in the mufassal. Unless there is co-operation between the two departments, I think, Sir, there is no use of blaming one department for not being efficient without the help that was being rendered when the official President or the Collector was in charge of the department. I submit that the Local Self-Government Department in the mufassal should be so treated as to drive away the apathy now found which is a matter to be deplored. I therefore request that the Government—of course they need not issue an order that they should do this and that and so forth—must see that this complaint is communicated to the Collectors and they may be requested to help us as far as it lies in their power. Otherwise I think however much we may try to improve the department and make it efficient, we will find it very difficult to get on with our administration without the co-operation and help of the Revenue Department. It is in that spirit that I framed this motion. In all other token resolutions I have put down thousand rupees. In this I have made it one rupee just to make it token and nothing else. So I request Government will be pleased to consider my request and say 'yes' and not to be unsympathetic."

* The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—"I beg to support this motion and to place certain facts before the Members of Government so that they may take early steps to remove the serious difficulties under which many local bodies now suffer. In my district, Sir, there is a great friction between the Collector and the local bodies and the result is that while the predecessor of the present Collector had decided that prosecutions by the local bodies should be conducted in certain cases by the police the present Collector has cancelled that order. The result is that prosecutions are undertaken by local bodies at great expense and the delinquent is let off with a nominal fine of one rupee. To secure that nominal fine local bodies had to spend something like 50 to 100 rupees on each prosecution. Moreover many prosecutions by the local bodies end in acquittals. I do not suggest that the subordinate magistrates are in any way responsible for this. But it is a truism to say that if the prosecutions are launched or conducted by the police the results are far more satisfactory. Another matter is about the collection of various amounts by the village officers on behalf of the local bodies. Collections were made hitherto on behalf of the local bodies such as fishery rent, usufructuary rent of avenue trees, etc., by the revenue subordinates, particularly the village officers. Now, Sir, that has been cancelled and the local bodies are asked to entertain their own staff and make the collections. I remember the hon. the Revenue Member taking these local bodies to task for slackness in collections. I beg your pardon, Sir, it was the hon. the Finance Member. It is a fact to some extent the local bodies are not responsible for this state of affairs. It is such action of non-co-operation on the part of the revenue establishment that is responsible for the large arrears left uncollected. In the matter of acquisition the Collector wants special establishments from the local boards' funds. The result is that in one case I found that the establishment cost went to a much higher figure than the cost of the acquisition itself. When I pointed out to the Collector on various occasions that it will be a mere waste of money, he was not prepared to give any relief in that direction. These are the various difficulties. I can multiply such instances. I think when the hon. the Revenue Member is pleased to institute an enquiry he will get all the facts to decide on the matter. In the matter of one of my taluk boards, Government said that the president should be a divisional officer for a specified period. The Collector was not willing to that arrangement. I believe it was done against his consent. I had no means of knowing it. From the correspondence he had with me which was not confidential it was clear that the Collector was for appointing a Brahman retired Deputy Collector as the president of the taluk board.

"But when the Deputy Collector was eventually appointed, I understand, Sir, he has been asked not to attend the meetings of the district board. The result was that the Deputy Collector President of the taluk board ceased to be a member of the district board by not taking the oath of allegiance, and he did not attend a single meeting until he was transferred. Now, the other day I requested him to attend the meeting for giving the benefit of his views on certain matters concerning particular taluk boards, and I understand that the Deputy Collector President of the taluk board had to telegraph to the Collector and get his permission to come to the headquarters to attend the meeting. If this is the kind of treatment that is accorded to local bodies, all I can say is, either we should entirely not have any kind of official interference and should be given the necessary powers by statutes, or in the absence of it, the hon. the Revenue Member should see that these people give to the local bodies the help which they were hitherto getting when they the officials themselves ran the show. Otherwise, I am afraid the Local Self-Government administration cannot possibly be carried on smoothly."

Diwan Bahadur P. KESAVA PILLAI :—"Sir, I associate myself wholly with the remarks made by my hon. Friends, the Raja of Ramnad and Mr. Narasimbachari. I have been president of a district board for the last seven years, and I find that there is more or less a sort of estrangement between the Revenue Department and the Local Self-Government Department. I know some Collectors who give us their help but some do not. But generally, the village officers would not mind the denudation of our avenue trees near their own fields. They are not afraid of any prosecution. We are afraid to prosecute them, as my hon. Friend says. Very often, the local magistrates are not very kindly disposed towards the local board overseer or the taluk board president or people of the kind. I think some steps should be taken by Government in order to ensure harmonious working of these departments. I hope they will try to make their subordinates co-operate with us and not to non-co-operate with us. We are accusing the Swarajists as non-co-operators, and we have also to accuse the Government as non-co-operating with the local self-government bodies."

[Mr. P. Kesava Pillai]

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" Mr. President, Sir, I must in the first place assure hon. Members who have spoken that the Government have full sympathy with them in their difficulties. I do not think the wording of the motion is very happy. It is not, I feel sure, due to any lack of sympathy on the part of the Revenue officials that their difficulties arise, but to the administrative changes which have taken place and which in a transition stage as we are in at present must necessarily cause a great many difficulties before matters can adjust themselves. Apart from the question of the administrative changes, the complaint is that the agency of the revenue officials is not now available to do the work of local bodies, and it is said that in former days this work was almost all done by the agency of revenue officials. I must respectfully point out that I was a president of a district board for many years, and I took care during that time to see that the agency of revenue officials was not employed on the work of the district boards. I found it was quite possible for the local boards to do their work with the staff at their command. Of course, in cases where the village officer is paid a percentage in order to do certain work, he ought to do that work, and if he fails to do that he ought to be taken to task. But in other cases where the duty does not fall on revenue officials, I think the local boards will find that it is quite possible to make arrangements to do the work without the intervention of officials to do duty which cannot be rightly considered to be theirs."

* The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—" May I interrupt the hon. Member, Sir? There are statutory duties which cannot be performed by local bodies, for instance, the acquisition. That must be done by the revenue staff only. If additional staff be demanded and they are not given them we have no means of getting things that we want done at our cost."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" Individual cases do not affect the general question. It is possible that there are cases where on account of individual disagreements, difficulties are enhanced in that direction. But that does not affect the general question. Land acquisition is the duty of the Government staff, and where land has to be acquired and the correct valuation settled under the Act, it is the duty of the Revenue Department to see that acquisition through. That is not doubted. I was referring to the general work of administering lands which are vested in the boards and collecting the revenues which accrue to the boards from those lands. Although as I have just said I found it possible myself to have this work done by the agency of the boards themselves, I admit that in some places it has been the practice for revenue officials to do it and owing to that practice the whole question was examined two years ago by the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government and my predecessor, and they came to definite conclusion and issued definite instructions as to what items of work should be done by revenue officials for the boards and what items the boards would be expected to do by their own agency. If the hon. Members who have spoken will study that report and point out those items which they think might be modified or changed, I am sure the hon. Minister for Local Self-Government and myself will be only too glad to consider the matter. I would tell hon. Members, if they will go through the instructions actually issued, and as presidents of district boards write to us and tell us where the shoe pinches exactly, we shall be only too glad to do what we can to help them."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" I am very glad for the sympathetic way in which the hon. the Revenue Member has spoken. But perhaps he does not know where the shoe pinches. The shoe pinches just exactly at the place where he may not know it at all."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" That is why I am asking the hon. Member to write to us and tell us."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" The shoe pinches in this way. Suppose there is a prosecution under the Forest Act, or under the Abkari Act, or under any other Act, which is ushered in by the Government officials. The subordinate magistrates generally throw the burden of proof on the accused, whereas when we prosecute for cutting away the branches of avenue trees or for other encroachment on our properties or otherwise, the Revenue officials think, 'we have been deprived of our powers, they do not want officials because the Act says no official can be elected; so we are not now having those powers; they think they can manage the whole thing themselves; let them do it', and so they cast a double burden of proof on the prosecution. That is where, Sir, the shoe pinches. Now, that is the thing I wanted to say. The Revenue Department is quite unsympathetic towards the local bodies. Now, what I would request is, let them get rid of that idea that the local bodies are alien bodies, let them carry the idea that the local bodies are as much the department of Government as the Forest Government or the Abkari Government . . ."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" There is no Abkari Government!"

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" Yes, Sir, I mean the Abkari Department or the Police Department. So I submit in this wise that I want the sympathy of Government and nothing else. The hon. Member invited me to go into the question over again and tell him exactly in what respects we require remedies. I will be glad and we shall take an early opportunity to do so. So I may be permitted to withdraw my motion."

The motion was by-leave withdrawn.

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" Sir, I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 5,63,100 for Pay of Officers be reduced by Rs. 100'.

"My object in moving this reduction is to urge on the Government and particularly on my hon. Friend, the hon. the Law Member, the need for the separation of the judicial from the executive functions. I referred to this question, Sir, during the time of the general discussion on the budget. The subject is a very old one, a very stale one, but nevertheless it remains as important now as ever. I stated at the time of the general discussion that this question has been before the country for about a century, that is from about 1838, when Sir F. J. Halliday wrote his famous minute on this question, and since then the Government themselves had occasion to consider this subject. I referred also to the memorials submitted by Sir Richard Garth and many other eminent judges and jurists to the Secretary of State in 1889, urging upon him the need for the separation of these two subjects, and the fact that the Secretary of State sent that memorial to the Government of India for enquiry and disposal. Then, again, I referred to the fact that Sir Harvey Adamson who was himself a judge for some years and who was afterwards a member of the Bengal Government wanted the separation, and subsequently to the report of the Public Services Commission, especially to the dissenting minute of Sir Abdur Rahim where he advocated a complete separation of these two functions, and lastly to the report of the Coleridge Committee which was appointed by this Government itself.

"The Coleridge Committee submitted its report and that has been before the Government for a long time, I believe, for about two years, and nothing has come out of it. The late R. C. Dutt showed that there would be no material increase in the cost if the separation is effected. As I said, the subject is a very stale one, an old one. Therefore I do not wish to refer to the huge volume of literature that has gathered about it. I noticed the other day, and I am very glad to notice it, if my hon. Friend has been correctly reported in the newspapers, in a reply which he gave to the Kumbakonam Bar Association, he spoke words to this effect, that the separation would soon be effected and there was opportunity to the younger members of the bar for getting appointments. I hope he has been correctly reported. If that is so, certainly my Friend is moving in the right direction. And in the Imperial Assembly, more than one member has referred to this question. For instance, there was a reference recently by the hon. Sir Alexander Muddiman, and before that there was a reference by his predecessor and what his predecessor said in the Council was that it was a matter for the local Governments to take up and for the local Governments to move in the matter and make recommendations to the Government of India and the Government of India would give effect to those recommendations. And my Friend himself was questioned by me and others in this Council many a time, and what he told us on those occasions was that this Government was in communication with the Government of India on this question. I hope something definite will be done by this Government and I hope that this Government will take a definite and firm stand and press this question strongly upon the Government of India. It is not likely that the Government of India will turn a deaf ear to such a request from this Government, seeing particularly that the Government is supported by such a large volume of public opinion. Practically, it is a question on which there is no difference of opinion. I do not think even Members of the Reserved half differ from us on this question. It has been referred to as the counsel of perfection, and so far as practical difficulties are concerned, as I said, there are no financial difficulties, and even if there are financial difficulties, certainly this is a matter which has to be looked into. I hope the Government will do everything in their power to effect this."

17th March 1926]

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Mr. President, Sir, I am glad to have this opportunity of making the position of this Government absolutely clear on this matter. For that purpose and with your leave, Mr. President, let me take the House into the history, very recent history, of this particular matter. In pursuance of a resolution in the Legislative Council in 1922, the Government appointed what is called the Coleridge Committee and the Coleridge Committee made a certain report on which the Government have come to certain conclusions and the report of the Committee and the proposals of the Government were placed before the Legislative Council during the budget session of 1924. A vote on the budget motion was taken, and that vote indicated, and the Government themselves said that they would take the vote of the House as indicating, that it was in favour of the majority report. Now, Sir, we have obtained the permission of the Government of India to place before this House the following facts, as till now all I could say was that the matter was under correspondence between the Government of India and this Government. This was considered by this Government as unsatisfactory. Therefore we have taken specific permission of the Government of India to say what has been happening. The Government of India informed this Government that the question of separation of judicial and executive functions should be treated as an all-India topic, and that the sanction of the Secretary of State should be awaited for the introduction of any scheme connected therewith. On the 22nd February 1925, the Government of India intimated that the matter was under consideration, and then we had certain resolutions sent in to us with regard to this very matter; and therefore on the 12th of August 1925, the Government of Madras made up their mind to remind the Government of India that we are waiting for an answer and should be glad to get the answer; and we wrote to them that we wanted to know in what stage the matter was and when final orders might be expected. On the 25th of August 1925, the Government of India's letter says: 'I am directed to say that the scheme for the separation of judicial and executive functions is still under the consideration of the Government of India and it is expected that the Local Governments will be addressed on the general question, at any rate, soon after the conclusion of the August-September session of the Indian legislature, if not before.' Then later on we wrote to them early in February asking them that this Government might be informed when the promised communication was likely to be received and we have got a letter, dated 1st March 1926, in which they say: 'In reply to your letter, dated 16th February, I am directed to say that the question is under consideration and that no definite date can be given.' That is where the correspondence stands. If matters stood there, it would of course look somewhat hopeless. But the position, however, has been stated to a certain extent accurately by the hon. Member from Malabar. Sir Alexander Muddiman from his seat in the Legislative Assembly has stated that the Government are exploring a way out and they are very seriously considering the passing of orders in the near future. Also in answer to certain questions in the Bihar and Orissa Legislative Council, it was stated that they have been informed that orders might very soon be expected; and all that we can say is that we expect orders very soon on this matter as it has been under discussion for a very long time and there are reasons to think that the decision may be expedited. All that I am concerned to point out is that the Government are anxious to put the matters in train and they will not lose time, as soon as the orders of the Secretary of State and the Government of India reach them to take steps upon the basis of those orders."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"Mr. President, I feel that the statement which has been made by the hon. the Law Member raises a very interesting and important constitutional issue. I am not surprised, Sir, at the dilatory ways of the Government of India with reference to this all-important question. They took years and years before they discovered that the question was of such importance that it ought to be solved as an all-India question, and now we are told that orders may be expected very soon. I do not want to indulge in the hope the hon. the Law Member has chosen to indulge in. Knowing the past of the Government of India and the nature of the correspondence that has dragged on between the two Governments, I do not see any justification for the expression of hope. But, Sir, I am faced with this situation, the question of the administration of the Judicial Department both on the civil side and on the criminal side is not a Central subject; it is a Provincial subject transferred to the control of the province. There are subjects which are Central subjects in which any authority that may be delegated to the provincial officers or heads of administration is afforded merely by way of delegation, merely as agents to the Government of India. But this is not one of those subjects. You will find, Sir, in the schedule to Devolution Rules that these subjects are classified as Provincial subjects."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Item 30 of Schedule I, Part I, Criminal law, including criminal procedure, is a Central subject."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"Page 132, Item 17, Administration of Justice, including constitution, powers, maintenance and organization of courts of civil and criminal jurisdiction within the province, is a Provincial subject. My Friend has got a wrong quotation on this occasion. The more important thing is what is the constitution of the tribunal which has to be determined in these courts."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"The only important thing is the criminal procedure."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"The procedure is adjunct to the constituted court. But the vital thing is, the course adopted. The criminal procedure has been amended in the past. What we are concerned about on the question of the judicial and executive functions is really the question of separation of the functions; not the processual law, not the adjectival law to which my hon. Friend refers, but the very functions that ought to be exercised and the bodies which ought to exercise those functions. Surely, criminal procedure does not involve questions as to what sort of court should try these. The constitution of the courts is a Provincial subject. Therefore, I feel that if the Local Government has given in to the Government of India under the wrong idea that they are bound to carry on whatever the Government of India may dictate to them, they have done injustice to their own sense and what is due under the constitutional law. The classification is quite plain, namely, constitution, powers, maintenance and organization of courts of civil and criminal jurisdiction within the province. What are we asking in this demand for the separation of the judicial and executive functions? We say that the same court ought not to be invested with the powers, both civil and criminal, both administrative and judicial. We say that a certain person ought to be merely trying only criminal cases and that he ought not to have revenue work also thrown upon him. Surely, the hon. the Law Member knows that in this very province experiments have been carried on from time to time. The appointment of stationary sub-magistrates is an instance in point. The hon. the Revenue Member knows how the scheme of stationary sub-magistrates was incorporated in this Presidency. This is to a certain extent giving in to the cause of those who advocate the separation of judicial and executive functions. There have been other courts similarly constituted by the Local Government where first-class magistrates have exclusive jurisdiction to try only criminal cases, having a sort of revenue functions attached to them. At this stage of the day, for the Government of India to say that the whole thing will be treated as an all-India subject and that orders may be awaited, merely means that they are putting off the solution to Greek Calends. I have myself very little hope that the Government of India will come forward with a satisfactory scheme in this respect. I only take this opportunity to impress once again the necessity of the Local Government asking the Government of India to treat this province and its case apart from the cases of other provinces. There is not the sameness with respect to the judicial administration in all the provinces. It will be a misleading factor if the Government of India were to take into its head that what obtains in the North-West Province shall be a guide for what ought to be in the Madras Presidency. There are backward tracts, there are scheduled areas, there are new provinces come into existence. I am not going to say anything against them, but I only plead that so well established an old province as the Madras Presidency with its own traditions of conducting its cases both on the civil side and on the criminal side might be judged on its own merits and the scheme introduced at an early date. I have very little hope from the statement that has been made by the hon. the Law Member that we can see a dawn of the new day when the separation of the judicial and executive functions will be an accomplished fact. I take this opportunity of emphasizing again the great necessity of doing away with the present evil system which is doing havoc in the country."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Sir, with a great deal of what fell from the hon. Member from Chingleput I have no quarrel. But irrespectively of the Devolution Rules and the classification of subjects into Central and Provincial, the hon. Member is sufficiently a student of constitutional law to know that in the matter of the administration of Reserved subjects we are under the orders of the Secretary of State and the Government of India. This is quite irrespective of any question of delimitations of functions, and when I said that on the 22nd of March 1924, when we had certain proposals of the Coleridge Committee before us, the Government of India definitely told this Government, as well as other Governments, not to go on with their schemes, that schemes should not be placed before the Legislative Council without the sanction of the Secretary of State, that they (the Government of India) proposed to treat it as an all-India subject, that we were not at liberty suo motu to proceed further with the subject, and that, thereafter, the Government of India had been from time to time addressing this Government—when I said all these, all that I was anxious to impress upon the hon. Member from Chingleput and other Members who might feel with him in the matter was that, so far as this Government was concerned, no pains had been spared to make it clear to the Government of India and to the Secretary of State that we were considering this matter as one demanding a speedy solution. It may be that I am optimistic in my estimate of the speedy solution of this question. If so, I am sorry, but nevertheless any prophecies as to when the development of the scheme of separation, or partial separation, of judicial and executive functions will come into effect have nothing to do with the main issue, namely, that, so far as this Government is concerned they have been told both by the Government of India and the Secretary of State not to proceed with this matter, but to treat it as an all-India matter and we are bound to obey them in the administration of Reserved subjects. That is the position which I am anxious to elucidate before the House."

p.m.

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"I understand from the hon. the Law Member that he is very anxious and is really in favour of the question of separation of judicial and executive functions. I do not want to say very much on this point because he was himself a distinguished ornament of the bar and he knows the importance of this subject. But having regard to what fell from him, namely, that he is anxious to give effect to the proposal of separation of judicial from executive functions, and also to strengthen his hands, I press this motion to a division."

The motion was put to vote and lost.

* Mr. K. SITARAMA REDDI :—"The motion that stands in my name runs as follows :—

'That the allotment of Rs. 11,700 for medical establishments be omitted.'

"Sir, this motion is intended merely to elicit information as to how sub-divisional establishments require special medical establishments for their help. I am not able to understand how the sub-collectors and revenue divisional officers who contribute to the expenditure under this head require this special establishment."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"These medical establishments are intended to tour with certain officials in the Agency tracts and they afford medical relief not only to these officials but to the people also when they go on tour. This medical establishment is mainly intended for affording medical relief to the people of those areas in which these revenue officials tour. I have got figures to show that the number of cases which the sub-assistant surgeons have dealt with in a year average about 2,000. Of course, we are opening dispensaries in some places in the Agency tracts, but still we find that some supplemental aid is necessary and the cheapest and the most convenient way is to give such relief through the medical officers when touring in those areas."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

The Demand I that Government be granted a sum of Rs. 252.29 lakhs for the Land Revenue Department was put and carried and the grant was made.

17th March 1926]

DEMAND II—EXCISE DEPARTMENT.

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"I beg to move that Government be granted a sum of Rs. 37.93 lakhs for Demand No. II—Excise Department."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"The motion which stands in my name runs as follows :—

'That the allotment of Rs. 20,000 for pay of officers be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"Sir, this subject has been recently discussed and I only want to draw the attention of the hon. the Excise Minister to some of the salient points involved in this question. I am at a loss to understand what exactly is the policy of the Government in regard to this question. I wonder whether they have any policy at all, although the Ministerialist party's resolution was to the effect that they should aim at total prohibition within a period of 20 years. From what I have been able to see, their policy really tends to encourage intemperance on the one hand and encourage importation of European liquor on the other. One glaring instance of this policy is the introduction of total prohibition in five taluks in Southern India. In these five taluks we are told that Government have not stopped importation or the sale of European liquors with the result that the sale and the consumption of European liquors have increased. I do not illustrate the subject by other instances. If really the Government were very keen about the introduction of a policy of temperance, not to speak of total prohibition, surely they would have stopped all sorts of trade in liquors, specially European liquors. In this connexion, I may draw the attention of the Government to the sale of liquors that is going on in clubs. I am at a loss to see how Government are allowing these clubs to sell liquors. What distinction is there between a shop-keeper and a club, I mean even an Indian club? Practically many of the clubs get liquors free of duty."

Mr. T. M. ROSS :—"On a point of order, Sir. Is the hon. Member correct in saying that clubs get liquors free of duty?"

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"What I meant to say is that these clubs import liquor wholesale and they get their liquors paying only customs duty, and no other duty is paid by them just as it is paid by other shop-keepers. Here as well as in Bombay, the clubs have to pay only customs duty, whereas, supposing a shop-keeper in Mangalore imports liquor, he has to pay not only customs duty but also an additional duty in connexion with the sale of liquor. European clubs and European Missionary societies who import liquors are paying only one class of duty and that is the customs duty. In Bombay last year they passed a Bill whereby clubs were prohibited from selling foreign liquors without paying licence duties also. If ordinary shops which sell liquors are levied licence fees, I do not see any reason why clubs alone should be exempted from such payment. What I wish to say is that in the interests of Excise administration clubs should not be exempted from paying licence duties. I do not know the text of the Bill which was introduced in Bombay but I know the Excise Minister there did introduce a measure to that effect."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"I am sorry the hon. Member does not remember what was contained in the Bill. But can he tell us what the policy is?"

[17th March 1926]

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"I may say this much: that clubs somehow or other have escaped from paying a duty, which shop-keepers are asked to pay. I only hope that the hon. the Minister for Excise will bring in a similar Bill in this Council just as it was done in Bombay."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR:—"Can the hon. Member tell us what the policy is? He cannot remember what is contained in the Bill. But we should very much like to know what it is he is advocating."

(A VOICE: You had better bring in a Bill.)

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"I have thrown out my suggestion for what it is worth. I may assure the House that I can bring in a Bill."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"The hon. Member must address the Chair."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"I am sorry I was not addressing the Chair I was addressing another hon. Member who was addressing me."

12-30 P.M. "The clubs should not be exempt from any form of taxes to which the shop-keepers are subject. Necessary legislation should be introduced in this House to tax foreign liquors in the same way as Indian liquors."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"Sir, I am sure the House has listened with great interest to what the hon. Mover has said. He has thrown considerable light on the very technical problem of the sale of European liquors with licence and without licence, with price and without price. It would have been more useful for this House and especially to the Minister in charge if the hon. Mover had given some definite facts as to the practice, which he said, prevailed in Bombay. Then we would be very willing to examine that practice and thereby get a lakh of rupees of revenue which according to the hon. Member is going for nothing. The hon. Member wants us to investigate into the matter. He has given us no hints to make enquiries whether licence fees are levied on clubs. Both as a measure of temperance and as a financial proposition, it may be worth investigating."

"My hon. Friend who takes a very keen interest in this matter is anxious that liquor of the proper quality should be supplied for consumption in South Kanara; he has never made a secret of it. I have placed the matter in the hands of the Commissioner who has already issued instructions to the manufacturers. I am glad the managing agent of the well-known firm is here; he has already taken steps in the matter. My hon. Friend admitted that there was improvement in the quality of the liquor now supplied to the people. He will have no more complaints to make this year as he made last year."

"As regards European liquors, I shall ascertain whether there is any such practice as alluded to by the hon. Member and if it is found to be possible and practicable I shall certainly adopt his suggestion. But for the information of the hon. Member, I may say that European clubs are required to pay fees like every other shop. They have to obtain a licence from the Commissioner under rules 9 and 10 of the Excise Manual. Any man may import foreign liquor on payment of the prescribed duty under the Indian Tariff Act. Section 13 of the Abkari Act permits the possession of foreign liquor by a person for his private use and not for sale. Imported foreign liquor can be sold only under licence. Under Standing Order 10 of the Excise Manual, clubs other than those of a proprietary character are not bound to take out licence to supply liquor to its members. The rules apply to European as well as Indian clubs. Non-proprietary clubs are of course not run for profits. If there is any difference in procedure elsewhere which if adopted here would bring in a revenue to the Government, that will be investigated and given effect to not only as a step towards temperance but also as a financial measure. At present I may say that our practice seems to be a sound one. We have every control over the foreign liquor clubs, proprietary as well as non-proprietary."

Mr. J. A. DAVIS:—"Sir, I should like to ask the hon. Minister for Excise to make a declaration of policy as to the partial prohibition that he has introduced among the hill tribes in the Nilgiris. In the interests of the economic condition of the Badagas, the hon. Minister has introduced partial prohibition among them. The House recently passed a resolution that the goal of prohibition should be reached in 20 years. I was watching very carefully whether the Minister was going to treat the resolution sympathetically. Unfortunately, I was the only one on this side who supported the resolution that at least one shop should be abolished in this city. I am sorry to say that the Minister voted against the resolution. I take it that once the resolution is passed by this House, it is the duty of all of us to co-operate and move towards the goal. In spite of the special appeal made by the hon. Members of the Opposition, the hon. Minister would not consent to close one shop. It strikes me that he has no intention whatever of giving effect to the idea of total prohibition within twenty years. If it is his intention to give effect to prohibition in the twentieth year, I do not think the hon. Minister will be of much help to us. I would ask him now to make a definite statement of his policy towards the hill tribes considering their economic condition. I do not want to go into the question of the foreign liquor, because it is consumed by people who know their financial condition and their ability to pay and so on. But in the case of the hill tribes, I would request the hon. Minister to make a statement that he would go a little further in his policy of prohibition. I request him to give effect at least to some small extent to the resolution that was passed by the House the other day."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"Does the hon. Member wish to press his motion?"

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"Sir, I should just like to explain what took place in Bombay last year." (The hon. Member began to read from the proceedings of the Bombay Legislative Council).

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"Is the hon. Member going to read from the proceedings of the Bombay Legislative Council? I think it would be sufficient if he would kindly state what the policy of the hon. Minister there was. That is all we are concerned with at present."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"The Minister there brought in a Bill which was passed at one sitting though the non-official Europeans opposed it. The effect of the Bill was that clubs should pay the excise duty besides the customs and other duties, if any. These non-proprietary clubs import liquors direct from Europe and they do not pay any duty to the Excise Department for bottling and selling the liquor in their own premises to their members."

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Indian liquors do not pay any customs duty."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" Indian liquor is not sold in the premises. The shop-keepers complain that the clubs sell the liquor at a cheaper rate than they themselves could sell after having paid their duties."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" It is only to the members of the club that they can sell liquor."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" Yes, Sir. As the members increase, the import of foreign liquor direct by the club increases. There are two or three stages, one when the liquor is brought down in barrels, secondly when it is bottled and supplied to the members. The duty that is paid by the ordinary shop-keepers is not all paid by these clubs; hence is the complaint. Clubs must be placed on a par with the shops and made to pay all the duties so that there may be a check on the consumption and few more rupees of revenue might be got to the Government."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—" Sir, with regard to the point raised by the hon. Member from the Nilgiris, I must say that even before the House passed the resolution in February last the Government had adopted a policy of temperance. The system has been revised with a view to see that the people are accustomed to the restrictions imposed by the department. The experiment has been going on for the past two years in the Nilgiris. During this time we have had to combat illicit distillation and sale of arrack. Clubs were formed ostensibly for the purpose of selling tea, but foreign liquor was freely smuggled in. Several difficulties had to be met; the staff had to be increased. We have done all these long before the resolution of the House was passed. We are taking every possible step to see that the rules framed by the department are not disobeyed, and that there is no abuse of the regulations. The experiment is intended to be tried over a period of three years and one year more has yet to elapse. At the end of the period we would take stock of the situation and see whether we could not take any further step in that direction. At this stage it seems to me that we cannot take any definite step in the matter before the experiment has run for the full three years."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" The most important point is to stop the sale of European liquors in the five taluks. I want to know whether the Government have taken any steps in that direction. I want an assurance from the Government on that point. The important point is that the Government should introduce the policy of total prohibition in the five taluks and should do something practical to stop the sale of European liquors."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—" May I explain that the experiment which is going on in the five taluks is to see that there is no arrack or strong liquor available to the people of those localities? It is not said that we are going to abolish altogether the import of European liquor. We have been examining the question whether there has been any increase in the sale of cheap European liquors. If we are satisfied that there is any danger in that direction, then we will consider the question of how to combat it. But at the present moment it is not possible for me to say that the Government are going to cancel the licences given for the last so many years in that locality."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" My point is that the consumption of foreign liquor has increased. Licences are given only for a year. I want an assurance from the hon. the Minister that after the licence period is over, the importation of foreign liquor will be stopped. It is only then that the experiment will be a real and thorough one."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" The hon. the Minister said that he was watching the experiment."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" The hon. the Minister said that the licences were running their course. After the period is over, I want an assurance from the Government that they will stop the issuing of licences earnestly and try the experiment of total prohibition which is very important. We should like to know whether the experiment will be undertaken earnestly and carried out earnestly. Our suspicion is that this policy is undertaken only with a view to throw dust in the eyes of the public. It is only by putting a question that we got the information that there is an increase in the quantity of European liquors sold and consumed. We have not been given any assurance that after the licence period is over, the Government is in right earnest in carrying out the policy of total prohibition. My assumption is that the Government is not really earnest. I press my motion."

The motion was put to the House and lost.

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 21,90,900 for District Executive Establishments be reduced by Rs. 100.'

" My object is to urge the adoption of measures to effectively put a stop to the sale of intoxicating liquor after the fixed hours through the secret doors in the licensed shops and to prevent chokra vendors from selling eatables exposed to dust, mud and flies. There are two principles involved in this matter. One is selling liquor after the closing hours and the other is the sale of liquor through the secret doors. If the hon. the Minister in charge will accompany me, I will point out to him that such things happen even within the City of Madras. Sir, I have seen often women dressed up like men entering the liquor shops after the closing hours. I found out this in disguise. I know it for certain that the tavern in the Seven Wells Street sells arrack, beer and other liquor after the closing hours through secret doors and windows. The taverns appoint two peons, one on one side and the other on the other side, to see whether any officers of the department come to inspect them. The peons go and tell the proprietor that a motor-car is coming and that they should be alert. They at once close all the doors and shut out all the people. In that way, things are going on. I hope the hon. Member in charge will kindly see that effective steps are taken to prevent such things. I do not find anything in the conditions of the sales. In the Fort St. George Gazette of the 14th July 1925 all other conditions except this have been mentioned. I find clause 9 is to the effect that no arrack shop or foreign liquor shop shall be opened before 9-30 a.m. Toddy shops in Salem town shall not be opened before 9 a.m. No other shop shall be open before sunrise. Clause 10 says that no shops shall be open after 8 p.m. except under special authority. Collectors may, at their discretion, order the closure of any shop before sunset and for sufficient reasons order the closure of any shop at any earlier hour if they consider that it is in the interests of the public. No shops can be open after 8 p.m. I do not find anything about secret doors. In almost all tavern shops you will find such doors. There is no necessity to have secret windows and doors where they have main doors. I think that the inspecting officers take no delight in finding out these things. This is a very important matter and as long as we have such doors, I think there is every reason to believe that drunkenness will increase. I hope the hon. the Minister will at least issue orders to see that there are no secret doors.

"Coming to the other point, it is a great nuisance to allow the chokra vendors who sell eatables to sit outside the premises. Several respectable ladies find it very difficult to pass by the side of the taverns, especially at 6 o'clock. There is a great hindrance for traffic and for respectable men and women to pass by the street. The vendors never sit inside the premises and therefore all the drinkers congregate in large numbers around the eatable vendors. They should sit only within the premises to avoid such a crowd on the public pathway. They take delight in coming out, chit-chatting, dancing and falling on respectable persons with a view to molest them. They pretend that they are fully drunk. Such things are happening. It is necessary to put a stop to them. I think the hon. the Minister in charge will realize the difficulties and see they are put a stop to. This will not cost the Government very much. I cannot say that the hon. Minister has achieved anything wonderful in this direction. I hope that at least hereafter he will issue orders to prevent having such trap doors and secret windows and eatable-vendors outside the premises also."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"Certainly, I agree with my hon. Friend that I cannot work miracles; nor can I create wonders for him. It is a well-known fact that the excise problem is not one of to-day. It is not a problem that has been before the country only for the last six years. It comes from the days of our ancestors, from the days of the Soma juice and from the days of Chanakya. It has come in various aspects and in various forms. Therefore, it is not a surprise that I am not able to work any miracle; nor is it any wonder that more rapid progress could not be made, shown or demonstrated on paper for the purpose of appealing to the electorate that this could be done and that could be done. If solid work is to be shown and if substantial work is expected, the evil has to be put down steadily and gradually having in mind the conditions in which we are situated financially and socially."

"In regard to the particular question which the hon. Member has raised, I am one with him and say that there is no doubt that this rule is abused in certain places. We are conscious of this fact. The Excise administration is aware of the abuse of the rules relating to hours of sale. I shall give you an instance how the Excise administration has been taking steps to prevent the abuse of these rules. When it was brought to the notice of the Assistant Commissioner that in certain localities in the City of Madras the rule was violated, the Inspector of the circle and the Assistant Commissioner were instructed to see that the abuse was put down. The Inspector started in a motor-car without his uniform and had also a posse of his excise men without the uniform. While they went in one direction with a view to come round indirectly to the particular shop it happened that by the time they came there a motor-car engaged by the traders and drinking classes was already there at the shop. Not only one shop but two or three shops were informed of the approach of the officers and any possibility of detecting the offence disappeared altogether. Nevertheless, the Assistant Commissioner and the Excise Inspector with the constables put up a ladder and they climbed up to the terrace. From the terrace they suspended ropes, got into the shop and found certain badmashes were still drinking. The Excise officers could not get them as the badmashes ran away on the approach of these officers. But the shop-vendor was prosecuted and punished."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"Were not the entrances being watched during the search?"

The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"That is a question which will arise when the matter goes to a court of law. But for the purposes of administration what is done is to see that crimes are prevented. As soon as the crimes are brought to the notice of the department, the officers are very alert to take action in such matters; such steps are taken at great danger to the officers themselves. A few days back a very sad event occurred. A young man of 38, an Assistant Inspector who was a very able man, was stabbed to death while he was trying to prevent illicit distillation. He had to lose his life while discharging his duty to prevent excise crime and illicit distillation."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"His head was chopped off."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"The result is the same."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"Hon. Members will realize the great danger to the life of the Excise officers while discharging their duties. It is easy for us to make rules. We have prepared so many rules for the guidance of the officers. But in the execution of the rules there is great danger to the life of the officers. Another case which was brought to the notice of the Government by the Excise Inspector of the circle was that there was some abuse of the rule in the particular locality referred to by my hon. Friend. The Inspector started with a few constables and asked the help of the influential people of that locality in the matter of detection of the crimes. None would come forward to help them in the detection of the offences. Nevertheless, the Inspector of the circle and the constables discharged their duty in the midst of danger. They prosecuted the man and he was fined; and the shop was resold. The officers of the department are detecting crime even at the risk of their lives."

"Therefore, all credit should be given to the officers who have been discharging their responsibility with great ability in the midst of danger. In spite of that, to throw cold water over their efforts and to say that they have not done this thing or that thing seems to me not to realize the gravity of the problem. Therefore my hon. Friend will be convinced that the administration is not unmindful of the situation that exists now, and the department is taking every precaution necessary to combat the evils of illicit sale and illicit consumption. Under conditions 9 and 10 which my hon. Friend has also referred to, the hours for liquor shops are fixed in the abkari and opium licences between 9-30 a.m. and 8 p.m. and there is no reason to suspect that these hours are not generally adhered to. Under rule 3 of the general conditions applicable to abkari and opium licences, licensees have to keep their shop premises in a sanitary condition and all means of ingress and egress except the recognized one into the main street have also to be kept under lock and key under the seal of the officer of the Excise Department. Therefore, the private doors which the hon. the Mover has referred to are not to be kept open. They are to be kept under lock and key under the seal of the officer of the department after the hour fixed in the licence. The inspecting officers of the department take suitable action whenever it is brought to their notice about the unsatisfactory arrangement of the shop or shop premises and also about any violation of the law. I submit to the House that the department has been doing its best in the matter and if there is greater co-operation on the part of the public in working out the rules properly and effectively the department will be very grateful. I pointed out a sad instance, where the department wanted to discharge its duty with the co-operation that was expected from the public. These are cases that occur here and there; but, on the whole, I say the department has been carrying out and enforcing the rules that have been prepared for their guidance."

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—"Sir, I want to say only a few words. It is very well for the hon. the Minister to say that it is all due to the insufficient help rendered by the people to the department in detecting cases. We are quite prepared to render help, as far as possible, in putting a stop to these evil happenings. But we ought to be very careful. What would happen, Sir, if they come to know that such people would be sent to the other world in order to have eternal sleep there? They may not be willing to give us any help. Will these people be ready to go for eternal sleep there? No, Sir, they will think twice or thrice before they decide to go. So, unless police power is given to such people, I do not think they will come forward to help the department. Give them police help and then see whether they are coming to help you or not. That will be very reasonable instead of making a general remark that these people should render help as far as possible to diminish the crime. (Laughter.) Then, Sir, I only want to say that trap doors and windows should not be allowed. Why should there be holes in the wall, Sir? There is no necessity at all for them. With a view to issue liquor after the closing hours, they are having all these things. The officers must go and inspect where these things take place and then they must ask the vendors to close these things. It will be very easy to do so if they are given the power. There is no extraordinary thing about it. I only wanted the hon. the Minister to move a little bit faster. He is going as slowly as a tortoise. I say he should not move slowly, because the spirit of the day is not like that. I only want him to run faster as far as possible. I hope he will issue instructions to the department concerned to see that these secret doors and windows are closed and that liquor is not sold after the fixed hours. If the officers do not go suddenly to a shop but wait and see, instead of entering suddenly, they will be able to find these things out. They must go there, stand at a distance and see for themselves all the things that are going on."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Order, order. All this advice may be given to the Excise Commissioner. Is the hon. Member going to press his motion?"

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—"I am not going to press my motion, but I think, Sir, that the hon. the Minister would like all these useful suggestions (laughter) so that he may communicate these suggestions to the department concerned. He may not be aware of these things. He may not be well versed in all these things. I hope the hon. Minister will take these suggestions and issue instructions to the head of the department, and do the needful in the matter."

[17th March 1926]

The motion was, by leave of the House, withdrawn.

* Rao Sahib R. SRINIVASAN :—"Sir, I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 21,90,900 for District Executive Establishments be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"My object is to draw attention to the illicit distillation of liquor and manufacture of toddy.

"Sir, I do not think that even after 20 or 30 years we can stop this evil of drink. What I have said the other day and what the hon. the Minister has been just now saying go to prove this statement of mine that drink cannot be completely stopped. If that is so, some method must be adopted to reduce the evil as much as possible. We have been told that by putting restrictions, as is being done now, the object can be achieved. But these restrictions have had the effect of injuring the drinker's health and of inducing the vendors to have recourse to mix with drink stuffs like ganja, kankarakoi, such other poisonous drugs and opium as well. It has been suggested that the duty on drinks should be high and the strength of the liquor should be reduced considerably. The vendor who wants to make as much money as he can seeks some poisonous drugs in order that the drink may be sufficiently intoxicating to draw his customers. Men who are accustomed to drink go there and take the poisonous stuff. Naturally, they get sick because of the stuff that is sold, and in this way many men are being killed. There is nobody to check it, and it seems that it cannot be checked. It is a serious matter. It is very simple to say 'Do not drink', but you must look to the welfare of such persons as well who got into the habit of drink. They too should be taken care of, for they are also subjects of the State and they should not be left to themselves.

"Now, I do not wish to be misunderstood, Sir. I was reported in the local papers the other day to have said that drink was necessary for the depressed classes. I hope, Sir, that the reporters are as correct as possible. As a result of such a report, many people came and asked me 'What, Sir, you have been saying that drink is necessary'. I had to deny the statement. But once the report goes out, it is very hard for any one to correct it. Though I did correct it, it has gone abroad. It has poisoned the minds of many people. That was not my object. My object was to urge that the drinkers should get good stuff for the money that they are paying. Supposing the price of ghee, for instance, goes high, it naturally happens that the quality gets adulterated, but all the same it cannot be said that consumption should be stopped on account of that, and I maintain that, like ghee, drink also is a commodity. What we want is good commodity for the money the drinkers pay. Let us not deceive them. Excuse my expression, Sir, I am not arguing for drunken brawls, nor am I arguing for any man who sleeps with a bottle under his pillow; nor am I speaking for any gentleman who goes about with a cork screw in his pocket and a Bible in his hand. I am only speaking of the men who are moderate drinkers and who wanted decent drinks after their day's toil. Let them go as gentlemen to a shop where there is drink, let it be a decent place, not a dirty hut like the one which I came across the other day. But to sell adulterated stuff to such people is unreasonable. Then again, liquor should not be confounded with toddy. Liquor and alcohol, I admit, are intoxicating, but toddy is invigorating. Most of us will agree that it is so in the case of motherless infants and infants that are not in a position to take their mothers' breasts. Then again, it will be conceded that barren women beget children by taking toddy. Toddy is therefore not an imperious commodity as that of liquor. But I do not wish that every one should drink. Only those who are accustomed to it, who want it, must not be deprived of it. The practice of mixing ganja and other poisonous things which have a serious effect on health must be put an end to. Ultimately, the question comes to this: to sell a pure stuff for the lowest price and to do away with a very large controlling staff. It may be asked that having regard to the financial condition of the country how could the revenue be met? That is a problem to be solved not so easily. I am only suggesting that land revenue is very lightly assessed in stray villages, where landlords, who lease out their lands to middlemen and rack renters, always obtain a very high rent. Such lands might be over-assessed. Take that money out of them and give it to the public revenue. That is one way in which the problem could be solved. I do not want to take much time; but I shall conclude by saying that this is an idea which must be pursued by the Government. I do not mean to advocate or encourage drink; but, at the same time, let us see that some good is done to those men who are accustomed to drink."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"Sir, the hon. Mover who stands for moderate drink and has no patience with drinkers, with his large and wide experience has told us that the steps taken by the Government so far in regard to temperance and restriction of consumption, namely, reduction of hours of sale, reduction of the strength of liquor and abolition of the shops, all these have tended to increase illicit consumption and illicit sale. That is one view, I take it, which is put forward by Mr. Srinivasan; but we do believe, Sir, in placing restrictions on the consumption of liquor and in the reduction of consumption as early as possible.

"That is the policy which we have been pursuing, namely, the removal of facilities, wherever possible, for drink. This, the hon. Member says, has had the result of large illicit sales and illicit consumption. As a matter of fact, whether these conditions have directly resulted in illicit sales and consumption is a matter on which I am not prepared to agree with the hon. Member. All that I say is that we have been pursuing the policy, the drastic policy, of reduction of shops, enforcing the hours of sale and reducing the strength of liquor and also restricting women and children from frequenting these shops, all temperance measures among the drinking classes. The figures show however that there has been an increase in illicit manufacture of toddy within the last three years, ever since we have been enforcing the restrictions. In 1922-23 the number of cases of illicit manufacture of toddy was 6,623. In 1923-24 it was 6,427 while in 1924-25 it has gone up to 7,250. In the matter of illicit distillation of liquor similarly there has been an increase as well. In 1923-24 there were 2,123 cases, in 1924-25, 2,131, and so on. But these figures relating to excise crimes do not justify any inference that crimes are increasing abnormally. On the other hand, the steps that are taken to prevent illicit manufacture and illicit sale are in steady progress. I may, for the information of the House, give an instance to show how people resort to illicit consumption wherever we place restrictions and abolish shops. There is the practice growing in the rural areas. Two or three people join together and have a small mechanism by which they can brew without any limitation as to degree and get themselves drunk for a day or two. There is what is known as 'Sontiserugu' which is prevailing in the City of Madras and its neighbourhood by which dried ginger powder and babul arrack powder are strewn over a big heap of boiled rice, the whole thing is then mixed up and held over night and in the morning when the thing gets fermented, it is spread on a mat and when it dries up and gets hard, it is taken in handfuls with water. It is said to yield a good intoxicating drink. Several cases of this kind have been detected in the City of Madras and in the neighbourhood. There is therefore some justification for the hon. Mover to state that the steps taken for restriction of liquor and promotion of temperance should not result in illicit sale and illicit consumption. To fight against this evil, we have to increase the vigilance staff. And we want this House also to remember that unless the staff is increased, unless our hands are strengthened in the matter of detecting these cases with a large number of subordinate officers, it will not be possible for us to prevent it. Prevention is one thing that we are paying our attention to in the matter of drink. But prevention requires almost doubling the present staff. And according to the evidence that has been placed before the Excise Advisory Committee, we have to increase the staff three times and even four times if we want to effectively prevent the illicit consumption and illicit distillation of liquor. I am sure the House will support me when the motion comes before it for increase of staff for the prevention of excise crimes. I have every sympathy with the hon. Mover in what he has said and we have been taking the necessary steps in the matter of minimizing the evil which he has referred to."

* Rao Sahib R. SRINIVASAN:—"Sir, just a word with your permission to make my position clear to the hon. Members here. I have been drinking for forty years. I am not ashamed to say that. I am not a habitual drinker. I used to take drink occasionally whenever it is required. I can go without drink for years together. I remember in a foreign country where I was during the election time all the shops had been closed and my servant and others joined together, engaged a motor-car and travelled a long distance to have their drink. The case of these people as a whole must be considered. I feel for them and wish that they should be made to get for the money that they pay what is good for them, to claim which they have their individual right and privilege."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"I move
'that the allotment of Rs 37.93 lakhs for Excise Department be reduced by Rs. 1,000.'

"My object is to discuss the question of penalties and forfeitures. I should like to know, Sir, the total amount of income under the head 'Penalties and Forfeitures' from the southern districts, especially Tinnevely and Ramnad. For, Sir, I understand that the Nadars in these two districts are unwilling to tap for toddy and they are forced by the officers of the Excise Department to tap for toddy. And whenever they tap for sweet toddy they are prosecuted for illicit tapping and made to pay the penalty

Sir, this question has been agitated for the last three years and nothing has been done till now. Petitions have been submitted to the Collectors as well as to the hon. Minister but no steps have been taken to relieve the Nadars from the sufferings they undergo at the hands of the Excise officers. I hope the Government will take some steps in the matter and if the hon. the Minister will give an undertaking, I am prepared to withdraw my motion."

*The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"Sir, I shall be very glad to enquire if there is any specific instance where any particular officer has forced people to tap trees against their wish. Certainly tapping is going on for sweet juice but there is the danger of the man drawing the sweet juice abusing the right by simply smearing the pot with a little lime when the juice becomes fermented and can be offered as toddy. There are therefore restrictions imposed and the department have to be very cautious in regard to them. If there is any particular locality where the officers are too rigorous in the matter, I shall certainly be very glad to ask the Commissioner to examine the matter and see that hardship is not caused to the people unnecessarily."

*Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"The whole difficulty arose on account of the people joining together and passing a resolution not to tap toddy. When they refuse to tap for toddy the Excise officers in order to force them to do so bring in illegal prosecutions and levy a lot of fines and penalties. I should like to know from the hon. the Minister whether petitions were submitted to the Government on this matter."

*The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"I am very glad to hear, Sir, that there has been such a consciousness among the community that they should not carry on the tapping trade. Such healthy spirit I would certainly encourage in any community. As regards applications or mahazars referred to, I may say that a particular petition came in connexion with one village. That matter was inquired into by the Commissioner and a report was received and we did not find that the allegations made were substantiated and the case had to be dropped."

*Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"Perhaps in that matter there was no strong evidence to substantiate the case. If the hon. Minister will issue a circular to the officers not to unnecessarily harass or molest the people, I shall be glad."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Mr. T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"Sir, I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 37.93 lakhs for Excise Department be reduced by Rs. 1,000.'

Sir, this is a token motion brought forward in order to discuss the policy of Government regarding Excise and to suggest that local option should be tried. Sir, ever since the Reforms were given effect to, and the Excise Department was handed over to the Minister, let us see whether any definite policy has been thought of, laid down or adopted by the Minister in charge of the department to minimise the evil, to reduce it and to making the people dry in the end. I am not unaware that the task is a very difficult task. As the hon. Minister has said, in a country which has been indulging in drink for very many years, in fact centuries, it will be really difficult for any one person to chalk out a policy and to enforce it so as to prohibit drink altogether within a definite period of time. I no doubt see the difficulty of the task. But is it desirable on account of the inherent difficulty in it that we should not think of a definite policy with a view to get rid of this evil altogether within a reasonable distance of time? Are we to sleep over the matter and say that it is the Karma of ages, the Karma of our ancestors that they have imbibed this evil of drinking, that they have handed it down to posterity, and that we at this stage cannot do anything at all to minimise the evil. In my opinion, Sir, all the arguments that have been put forward by the hon. Minister for Excise simply amount to this: I feel helpless in the matter and therefore I cannot hope to do anything in the near future to minimise the evil.

"But if the Minister and the Members who are associated with him in the administration of this Government had only taken that opportunity when it existed and encouraged that opportunity, I think he would have been considerably helped in the wish or desire to make the country dry; I mean, Sir, the opportunity afforded by the non-co-operation movement. Whatever may be said about the question of non-co-operation itself, the movement had also its beneficent side, and that side they showed by propaganda work to the people, by proving that they were deteriorating both in their physique and in their economic condition by this drink. They were doing this propaganda work and they were telling the people about this, approaching them in persuasive terms; with arguments which were telling and clear they were inducing the people not to drink. At that time what did our Government do? I cannot say that what they did was to their credit. If they had only encouraged the people with the machinery at their command at that time and helped the people, and supplemented the efforts of the non-co-operators in this propaganda work, I think, Sir, the solution would have been long long ago made possible. Instead of that, the hon. the Minister for Excise and those who supported him have taken up a militant attitude against those who were engaged in that propaganda work. Even now it seems to me that it is not by the present policy of repression, of taking repressive action against the people for disobeying the Excise laws, that he can hope to minimise the evil of this drink. It is by propaganda work, by persuasion, by telling the people the evil of drink, by telling the people that they will deteriorate in their bodies, that they will become economically bad gradually, it is only by such means that you can bring the people to the side of the Government; and then it will be possible to introduce measures which will in course of time altogether remove the drink evil. I do not think the Government have even thought of pursuing such a policy of persuasion. Many people will come forward, voluntary workers will come forward to help the Government in the direction of telling the people and preaching to the people the good that will come in the long run by abstinence. The hon. the Minister says 'well, I have tried the question of prohibition in selected areas'. What do we find? He does not take the confidence of the people for his support, but he simply puts into force the fiat of his rules and ordinances in trying to enforce prohibition among certain selected areas. That won't do. He must have prepared the minds of the people beforehand, as to the beneficent effects of abstinence from drink. When the people's minds are prepared, then he can introduce any measure which is calculated in the long run to remove the evil of drink. He throws his seed as it were now on a barren soil without preparing the soil, without ploughing it, without making it soft, without manuring the soil, without watering it and thus making it fit for receiving the seed. What he now does is this: he simply goes and throws the seed on the barren soil and says, 'Well, I have thrown the seed. But it would not sprout at all!'

p.m.

[Mr. T. M. Narasimhacharlu] [17th March 1926]

"Sir, the hon. the Minister has set up a deputation. Though there was a report from the deputation, nothing came out of the deputation. He has set up a committee, and from the report of the committee nothing has come up, and he has been trying his best, by repressive measures, by taking rigorous action, by putting his rules and law into rigorous force against people, to put it down. He thinks he can get rid of this drink evil by this action. I submit, Sir, he cannot. The only way successfully to eliminate drink altogether from the people is to help them to do so, and what work has he done till now?"

Mr. T. M. MOIDU SAHIB :—"On a point of order, I think there is no quorum now, Sir."

The bell was rung and there was found to be a quorum.

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"What has he done till now? He has not done anything in that direction. I would therefore suggest, Sir, that he should begin in the right direction and by so doing he will be able to win the confidence of the people. Recently we passed a resolution—that milk and water resolution of my hon. Friend, Mr. Krishnan Nayar—and however weak it has been, it has not been tried to be given effect to. In these circumstances, I think the policy he should adopt is the policy of inviting the co-operation and the confidence of the people to his side and then try to eliminate this drink evil. Having once prepared the minds of the people, this is what he should do. As regards local option, wherever people are prepared for local option, give them an opportunity of trying it. I think that is the policy pursued in America, and that is the policy that ought to be pursued by every right-minded Government. And in that direction, the hon. Minister has not made any advance. I hope he will take note of this way of persuading the people to his side, of preparing the soil and then throwing the seed in it. Then, he will see that local option will be very easy to be experimented upon, and it will prove successful. Already five precious years of his Ministry have been wasted, or rather elapsed, without bearing any fruit, and I submit, Sir, it is high time that he takes the right direction even at the present juncture."

The House then adjourned for lunch.

After Lunch (2-30 p.m.).

The House re-assembled with the hon. the Deputy President in the chair.

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"Mr. Deputy President, Sir, the hon. Mover of this motion has characterized the policy of the Government as one of helplessness and he suggested that Government lost a splendid opportunity at the time when the non-co-operation movement was working for temperance, and that it was the duty of the Government to have co-operated with the non-co-operators and to have carried on the policy of temperance. In the matter of policy being helpless I wish very much the hon. Member was present during the discussion of the Excise Policy on the Report of the Excise Advisory Committee. Therein I stated definitely the lines on which excise reform is carried on, that it was a progressive policy to restrict consumption and to remove facilities for consumption of liquor. It was a policy of raising the difficulties as many as possible in the way of liquors and to abolish as much as possible the temptations of drink. I described the measures by which we have achieved this result. In a few words it was a progressive policy of temperance reform (with a view to help the country for progressing towards temperance and what some others would be pleased to call total abstinence but at the same time I placed before the House all the facts to show that any time-limit that would be fixed in this matter is not practicable. There should be a large amount of co-operation from the people in carrying out the policy, that the revenue is not the only question that Government is anxious about, and as facilities are available for recouping the revenue Government would be very glad to carry on in a great measure the reform that has been introduced. It is needless for me to repeat what all I said on the occasion but I might assure the hon. Member that our policy has been one of progress in the matter of temperance. It is, as he realizes, a practical and a wise reformer he is—that there are difficulties in our way. We have to combat all these difficulties. While trying to overcome them we are also advancing the cause of temperance reform. The co-operation of the people we very much need. In regard to the second point which the hon. Mover adverted to, viz, that it is the duty of the Government to carry on propaganda work and persuasion work I wish very much that the hon. Member had shown some definite indication of that propaganda work and work of persuasion among the people from those that are interested in temperance reform. If Government failed to co-operate with them then it would have been a valid charge. With regard to the party he referred to, we felt ourselves unable to co-operate with the non-co-operators because it was a political factor that they wanted to make out and it was for political reasons that they carried on their work. If it were a social reform, if it were a social service, if it was actuated by motives of humanity for up-lifting the people and not for destroying existing things if it were purely a non-violent movement certainly it deserved the sympathy and support of every right-minded man. But it was not so. There was violence in their procedure and picketing was resorted to. I do not want to recite all the details that have come to our notice, or that have been reported in the press, and the ways and means adopted by that movement in order to achieve the end. We could not subscribe to the means adopted by them, however laudable may be the end and the object which they had in view. Therefore we differed. We did not want to encourage violence. If there was peaceful agitation, peaceful social reform, in a law abiding form, certainly they would have received my whole-hearted co-operation. Even then we tried to see if it was possible that we could work with them. But things were so changed and so altered that it was not at all possible for us to work in a constitutional way and hence, Sir, our difficulty in not being able to take advantage of the situation which the hon. Mover has adverted to. As a department we cannot carry on social reform work. We can encourage and support those social reformers who are working the cause. If they laid any difficulties in the way of social reformers it is a charge against the department. On the other hand wherever it was possible for the public to help and co-operate with the department, the department has been taking advantage of it and helping the cause of reform. If there is any band of voluntary workers who would like to devote themselves for the cause of reform and temperance, not with a political end and a political view but with the object of working with the people for better ways, then the department is not averse to co-operate with them. The hon. Mover has not pointed out any direction where the department has erred or refused to co-operate. The only instance he pointed out was as I said not a purely disinterested one and hence our regret for not being able to co-operate with them. So the hon. Mover is not at all correct in saying that the policy of this department is one of helplessness. I repeat again and ask my hon. Friends to refer to the discussion that took place on the Excise Advisory Committee's report. It will convince him that the department has been endeavouring sincerely and earnestly to carry out excise reform. We are here to-day to state if there is co-operation on any side our work will be much facilitated. Then the hon. Member said that one of the ways in which Government can effect reform and can advance the excise policy is by local option. Here again he would have saved me and the House much time had he referred to the arguments that were advanced for and against local option as a measure of temperance reform. These have been discussed at length the other day and I would not repeat them again. This House had not accepted the motion on local option as an effective measure of temperance reform and therefore I am one with this House and I am bound to carry out what this House has recommended. Again, Sir, in another matter this House has said that while the House recommends that prohibition should be the goal of Excise policy, a certain period should be fixed within which this goal should be reached. At the same time, Sir, wisely and in a business-like way this House has suggested that pari passu along with temperance reform there should be a Committee—the Finance Committee—to devise ways and means of recouping the loss of revenue and bridging the gulf that will be created by following this policy. Therefore we have decided to ask the Finance Committee to go into the matter and suggest ways and means by which the gap may be filled and as soon as their report is reached we wish to proceed with the resolution. Before even giving effect to that resolution, Sir, we have already discussed how far we can give effect to local option in the matter of advisory committees and licensing boards. The licensing board, as it is, is only limited to the City of Madras, but we are extending the scope of the board to all big cities in the Presidency. We are also extending the power of the board in the local areas. It means that the opinion of the local people interested in temperance reform will be consulted, that their sympathy and support will be enlisted in carrying out the Excise policy and that there will be Members, non-official Members, to advocate their views on the Committee and thereby bring pressure on the Government. We have also given power to these licensing bodies and we have seen that the Excise Commissioner should not brush aside the views of the licensing board. Power will be given to approach Government ultimately. These are the lines that I have indicated in the address the other day and these are the lines on which we are trying our best to see that the licensing board and the advisory committee are reformed. This, Sir, I submit is a step towards what my hon. Friend terms as local option because the opinion of the non-officials there is considered. These bodies are to consist of a majority of non-officials. Therefore in an indirect form we have been trying to introduce the principle of local option though in a limited form. Thus, there is nothing which we have not investigated which would be useful to help in carrying out our Excise policy and therefore I hope the hon. Member will now be satisfied that we have taken steps in the direction of local option."

[Sir A. P. Patro]

[Sir A. P. Patro]

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—" Mr. Deputy President, Sir, I am glad I have this opportunity taking part in a debate on Excise without adverting to the extraneous considerations, political and otherwise, which have so far disfigured the debates on Excise policy. I feel I am more free to-day to talk as a temperance reformer and as one who is interested in the cause of promotion of temperance and it is purely from that point of view that I am going to make a few observations. I am glad to see that the hon. Minister is going to adopt the recommendation that has been made by this Council a few weeks back. I am glad to be assured of that position. I am glad also that new licensing boards with non-official majorities in many cases of an elected nature are surely going to be inaugurated and we have definite assurance that the recommendations of these boards will not be brushed aside, as they have always been in the case of other boards that have till now been in existence. I am sure that the licensing boards have not always given advice purely from a temperance point of view. There are movements to which reference has been made by the hon. Mover of the resolution which came into existence quite recently and which are supposed to give an impetus to the cause of total prohibition. I do not want to speak more on the movement except to express that the people connected with it were not actuated solely by humanitarian motives and that it was brought into requisition simply to level general charges against the Government.

" We, Sir, to-day are speaking in a different atmosphere, where there is no need to advert to those movements. The other day, speaking on this debate, I referred to what I call the theory of counter-attractions. I had not, owing to physical reasons, the opportunity of finishing my speech that day. But I do not propose to take up the thread of that speech. I just want to ask the hon. the Minister for Excise whether he has given any consideration to the question of the important part that counter-attractions play in the cause of the promotion of temperance. I know in many countries they form a very important part. Apart from what these advisory committees are able to do, and apart from local option that may to a certain extent be brought into play by means of these advisory committees, the cause of temperance has to a very large extent to be promoted by the propagandist temperance reformer, the member of the Total Abstinence Fraternity, and other organizations of temperance work. The work of the temperance reformer perpetually goes on and never ends even if you carry into effect total prohibition. I am firmly led to believe this by what I have already observed elsewhere, by the lessons taught to us by America, that the temperance reformer must be always busy and the temperance man must be prepared to carry on his work. The Government therefore would be well advised in harnessing those forces and trying to help the cause of temperance.

" With reference to the theory of counter-attractions, one aspect of affairs strikes me, and that is the idea of having canteens. I know there were canteens in this city, one somewhere in Mount Road. I do not know what has come out of it. I see it is closed. I was told quite recently there was a canteen also near the Elephant Gate. I do not know what happened to that; probably it has been closed. Now, the theory of running canteens is not a new theory. It was very much in vogue during the war and shortly after the war was over, and in several countries canteens find a definite, prominent place in the social organization, and they are to a very large extent used as a counter-attraction to wean the drunkard from the temptations of taking to drink. I believe myself that running a canteen is one of the easiest ways of accelerating the process of taking away the temptation from the drunkard. As I said elsewhere, I do not very much believe in taking away the saloon from the drunkard as in taking the drunkard away from the saloon. The work that has to be done by those non-officials who are exponents of the cause of temperance is the work of organizing society, of doing their propaganda, of infusing into the mind of man the evils of drunkenness, and of taking away the temptation of approaching the saloon if a saloon should exist somewhere or other. That is my stand. As to the other task to which the temperance reformer should divert his attention, viz., of removing away from the land all liquor shops, of closing down beer shops and taverns, I quite recognize that is also a direct task, that the number of shops should be reduced and in fact our resolution has referred to it. But I want this afternoon to emphasise the other aspect of affairs, that it is essential to take away the man from the saloon and you can only do it by trying to put before the man some attractions which will serve as a relaxation to the hardworked man. I was talking about canteens, and I say that if the Excise Minister wins the confidence of the hon. the Finance Member -- I am sure he will join us in such a cause; you can do something by way of counter-attractions, and the temperance organizations can be induced to take up the running of canteens, and with the aid of a grant from the Government they can run these canteens at a cheap price. It would be a great help to the temperance organizations and temperance associations who are anxious to alienate the drunkard from the temptations of the saloon. I am not talking merely hypothetically. Because, I know it has been done with success elsewhere, and I am certain, Sir, with what little knowledge I have of temperance institutions either in this city or in the mufassal stations, where they exist, that they will take up this work much more readily and much more eagerly, if only the helping hand is given by the Government. After all, Mr. Deputy President, every body has said repeatedly in this Council that a great amount of revenue of this province comes from excise, nearly half, or very nearly half, and it seems to me that it is only fair that a portion of that revenue should be utilized for ameliorating the condition of those classes, the labouring classes, who pay that revenue. It seems to me that it is nothing out of the way, nothing which will offend financial proprieties or canons on which the hon. the Finance Member is so keen. If I were to make the suggestion, a portion of that revenue might be allotted for providing counter-attractions. I make this definite suggestion, because, if a temperance organisation comes up and asks for a grant to run a canteen provided the Government is satisfied about the position and the status of that temperance association, provided they are satisfied that they will subject themselves to all sorts of checks by the Government in this matter, provided they are satisfied that this temperance association is composed of gentlemen who are interested in temperance and who will conduct these affairs properly, I feel that both the hon. the Minister for Excise and the hon. the Finance Member could not find a better use of some of that money than to give a grant to these associations for running such canteens.

"Then again, Sir, there are other ways by which propaganda work can be carried on by the temperance worker, the question of magic lanterns, the question of exhibitions and things like that. It might strike an eager reformer that what I am suggesting is a very slow laborious process, that it will take decades before the millennium is reached. I cannot think of reforms which will at once solve everything. Reforms no doubt come before we are aware. It is impossible to act the prophet and indicate the duration of time with reference to any particular reform. Somehow we move slowly in the beginning but it does not follow that that will be the rate of progress for all time, and that we will reach the end also very slowly. It is a geometrical acceleration very often in these matters. The first steps may be slow, but later ones may be very fast. It is a geometrical progression and not an arithmetical progression. I do feel that from the point of view of the temperance reformers and from the point of view of the Government also it will be realized that it is a very necessary and essential thing to do. The temperance worker now cannot do anything. He cannot do any substantial work himself. He has not got the funds at his disposal. You may say charity must contribute. But charity has a hundred different tasks to do, and it is not always possible to depend on charity for this purpose. Therefore the temperance man looks to the Government, and before he is able to make the Government close these shops, to make the Government restrict the consumption of liquor, he has no other outlook to which he could extend his energy in the cause of temperance, and the Government stand to gain to a certain extent if they spend their energy in other directions, and allow the temperance worker to run the canteens and to provide for some kind of counter-attraction or other. I hope that the hon. the Minister for Excise and the hon. the Finance Member will consider this aspect of affairs."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"I am rather glad to see that the hon. Member for Chingleput has from this side of the House been saying those things which many Members on this side have already been saying. I hope, Sir, he will end by saying other things as well with even more vehemence than any of us. I wish I could share the pleasure he felt when he said that the hon. the Minister has definitely undertaken to give effect to the resolution of this House. I wish, I say, Sir, I could share that pleasure, because experience has shown that such promises have ended in disappointment. I wish to take this House through the history of the question. It was in August 1921 the hon. the Minister agreed to examine the question of how consumption in intoxicants could be reduced. He promised then, Sir, to refer this question to a Standing Committee. That was in August 1921. But he took no immediate steps whatsoever to appoint a committee. After a delay of four months he appointed a committee. But that committee was not a standing committee but it was an advisory committee. Sir, there is a difference between an advisory committee and a standing committee. A standing committee has more powers, and is responsible to this House to a greater extent than an advisory committee. But even the

he did not refer this question of bringing about a reduction in the use of intoxicants to that committee. In February 1922, I asked the hon. the Minister as to what he had done in this advisory committee and what work it was doing. He said that it would be convened whenever the Secretary thought fit, and there the matter ended. In March, Sir, I complained that this question had not been referred to the advisory committee though it was nine months since he promised to do so. Then the hon. the Minister said that he was going to constitute another committee presided over by Sir Charles Todhunter and that he would refer the question to that committee. Another five or six months again passed, Sir, and nothing was done. We do not know whether he approached Sir Charles Todhunter to preside over the committee, or asked others to be members of the committee, or whether they, when invited, accepted or declined the invitation. But after five or six months, he deputed a Special Officer to go into this question, and we had Mr. Strathie's report as a result of that and afterwards Mr. Shanmukham Chettiyar was associated with Mr. Strathie to tour about the country and make suggestions, as to how the excise administration might be improved. They sent their report in November and the report was not made available to this House immediately. Sir, in January, i.e., about two months afterwards, Mr. Saundara Pandiya Nadar asked the Minister whether he would make the report submitted by Messrs. Strathie and Shanmukham Chettiyar available to us, and the answer was that he would do so in due course. Will, Sir, another two months elapsed, and during the budget debate the Minister was again asked whether he would make up his mind and let us have the report, and he said then that he would place it before this House. Sir, I do not want to use exaggerated language to express our dissatisfaction with the policy pursued by the hon. the Minister. I shall simply quote the words of Sir R. Venkataratnam Nayudu, who, at least, cannot be accused of any bias against the Ministry. He pointedly denounced the lethargy of Government in the following words:

'Sir, we have had the hope that with the change in the system, with the inauguration of the Reforms, with the installation of a Ministry composed of the representatives of the people this anachronism would disappear, and the Government view point would be brought into line with the view point of the nation. But I find, Sir, after two and a half, certainly very busy, years we are told that the high licensing system which has been in vogue is the only salvation for the country.'

'That was the way in which he deplored the lethargy of the Government. He went on to say

'I venture to urge that a change must come; that Government must be prepared to adopt another standard. Our Government should not fight shy of this good chance.'

'Mr. Shanmukham Chetti expressed his despair in similar language and concluded by saying that in the matter of excise policy, the House was between the deep sea and the amiable gentleman on the other side.

'Two months later, in May 1923, the hon. the Minister asked the advisory committee to meet in Ootacamund; the committee chose some witnesses for examination and a date was fixed for their appearance. August 9 and 10 were fixed for the witnesses to appear. Witnesses did appear on those days. But did the Minister offer to examine them? On the other hand, his Secretary, Mr. Thangavelu Pillai, brought forward a motion that the witnesses need not be examined and they might be sent back home, and they were accordingly sent back. That is the history of the question as happened in the last Council and may be verified from the records, and the present House is very well aware of what the Ministry has been doing in regard to this question during the last two years and a half. Sir, I would not complain if the Ministry is really unable to do anything. I want them to go into the question dispassionately and honestly and come to a conclusion as to what things could be done. If it says that it is impossible to do anything in the matter, let it say so. We are not so unreasonable as to expect the Minister to do the impossible. But my complaint is that the Minister has never tackled the question seriously, he has never been earnest. I would conclude by saying what he did in the end. At a meeting of his own party men, a resolution was passed fixing ten years as the limit within which the goal of prohibition should be reached, and yet he would not make himself responsible for that proposition in this House. My hon. Friend from Chingleput referred to the licensing board and the Minister also referred to that. My Friend from Chingleput hoped that the Minister would not treat the new licensing boards with the same scant courtesy as he did the former boards. One must be thankful for this confession, belated though it be from the other side. But what about the new licensing board? What is its constitution? The Minister speaks of the non-official majority on the licensing boards. Who are the non-officials, how are they elected? Are all of them elected by representative bodies? No, Sir. The board would consist of people nominated by the Minister or the Government, so that these non-officials . . .

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"I have very carefully read the report of the advisory body. It is not so. In some cases it is by election, and only where you cannot have an electoral college formed for the purpose of sending elected representatives, Government has taken the power of nomination. At least that is the recommendation of the Board."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"The report is there: the recommendations are there. Take the composition. What is its total strength? How many officials are there, how many of the non-officials are nominated, and how many of them elected? You will see that my statement will be borne out that officials and non-officials combined are more than the elected members. Can you expect good to result from such a constitution? Unless this House is more alive to this question than it has been in the past, unless the electorate outside takes greater interest than it has till now in this problem and brings more and more pressure on the Government, there is no hope of this question being solved to the satisfaction of the poor people for whom my hon. Friend from Chingleput spoke so eloquently."

* Mr. J. A. SILDANHA:—"I thought this question has been threshed out to a considerable extent during the recent debate. The hon. the Excise Minister spoke to-day his old platitudes and he indulged in a long speech with attacks upon the methods of non-violence and other measures of the political party, points which were very controversial and which he would have been well advised to have avoided. But as he indulged in unnecessary criticism on these points, I am afraid we shall have to enter into more details. I would only show by quoting extracts from the administration reports how little endeavour there has been on the part of the hon. the Minister on a real temperance policy for which credit has been taken by the hon. the Chief Minister in his speeches on the decrease of consumption as having been due to the deliberate efforts of the department. But the reports of Government belie this statement. I refer first to the reports of 1923-24. 'With the exception of certain agency tracts, there were no changes. The number of shops opened increased from 5,917 to 5,932, but illicit consumption of country spirits fell from 100,575 proof gallons to 100,528 proof gallons. The decrease in consumption was due mainly to unfavourable season and economic distress in some districts, etc. Then as to foreign liquors, for 1923-24, there was also an increase in the import; the quantity of foreign liquor increased by 45,878 gallons. The quantity of locally-manufactured foreign spirits issued during the year was 9,246 proof gallons as against 10,392 in 1922-23. Then in the report for 1924-25 it is stated that the number of shops opened fell from 5,932 to 5,915, and licit consumption of country spirits decreased from 100,528 proof gallons to 100,468 proof gallons. The decreased consumption was due to a certain extent to unfavourable seasons and economic distress in various parts of the Presidency. Then, it refers to arrack shops in five taluks in the Presidency and says that prohibition of liquor to hill tribes except on medical certificates was also a contributory cause, and so on. No mention is made of the increase in the consumption of European liquors. Well, there was an increase in the consumption of foreign liquor in these five taluks, and we have got no assurance from the hon. the Minister that when the present licences are run out they will not be revived. Then, in the present year—I have not the detailed report for 1924-25—we are only favoured with old reports. It was placed on the Editors' Table last week though Government reviewed it long ago. We are not in a position to refer to the reports for 1925-26. Last year also there has been economic distress. If there is any fall in the consumption, I am sure it is due to the economic distress, the poverty of the people, not to the conscious efforts of the department. I am sure there is no conscious effort. Reference has been made by Mr. Veerian to the employment of certain classes of people. I referred in the beginning of the debates on the excise policy to the practice prevailing in certain districts, Vizagapatam or some other place, and now I refer to what I know to take place in South Kanara, the northernmost taluk, where women are employed for the sale of toddy and liquor in the shops. The rules allow women of the family to sell liquors. I cannot understand why in India women should be allowed at all to sell liquor."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"It is always the shopkeeper, the owner of the shop or his wife and not any other women."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"Wife is a very indefinite term in western districts. In South Kanara, among the lower classes there is no such thing as marriage. That is what the High Court have held. With that idea prevailing, there may be not one wife but several wives to a man and there may not be wives at all. So I say that the employment of women is a direct encouragement to sale. Thus there has not been any direct encouragement in reducing consumption."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"The point is that the wife should not sell toddy or liquor."

* Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"Mr. Deputy President, Sir, this is a subject on which there should be constant dinning. Unless there is constant dinning, the Government will never move. I mention this because the hon. the Minister said that at the last debate I was not present, otherwise I would never have raised it again. Whether I was present or not this is a subject on which there ought to be constant dinning unless and until we reach the goal that we long for. The hon. the Minister said that the efforts made by the Government are of a progressive character tending towards abstinence, but I was unable to see how those efforts have tended progressively to the attainment of our object. On the other hand, the facts and figures show, taking them for the last ten years, that in spite of the efforts of the Government to reduce consumption, in spite of the efforts to reduce the facilities for illicit distillation, both these things have been running up and they have been producing enormous revenue. Added to that, as my hon. Friend (Mr. Saldanha) said, European liquor has been increasing in quantity year after year, though at the same time my learned Friend assures me that the quality has not improved. If as a result of these series of efforts to reduce consumption and minimise the chances of illicit distillation, we find that the result is not satisfactory, how can the hon. the Minister say that the policy he has been pursuing is the proper one to put down drink and to attain the object of total abstinence from drink? I think this is a simple thing which will appeal to every simple mind unless that mind has been in a way perturbed by the drink itself. Now, I ask, is it or is it not a fact that in spite of the best efforts we are still in a worse position? If that is so, it is high time that the Government gives up the present policy and adopts another policy. The hon. the Minister also told us that he has been seriously trying to give effect to the recommendations of the Committee and as a step towards this he is trying to introduce licensing boards or the advisory boards—call it by whatever name you like—in the mufassal also, so that their opinion will be treated with very great respect, though he does not assure us that they will be given effect to absolutely without being set aside by the Excise Commissioner or by the Government.

"Well, Sir, if that is the only way in which he is going to introduce local option, then I submit that he is not pursuing the right policy, the right method, to speak gently about it. My submission is that we have failed in our past efforts and let us therefore evolve a policy which will attain our object. The suggestion that I wish to make—if I begin to go into details it will occupy very much of my time and I am afraid the time allowed for me will be over—is that Government should begin propaganda work in all the villages, either through the existing agencies, or creating new agencies or by helping the existing temperance agencies. They must send out people to each and every village and tell them, not in an authoritative way or Governmental way, but in a mild way that they should leave off this drink habit, that they should not allow their wives and children to take to drinking which leads to deterioration of their health and economic condition in general. I shall also lend the Government the assistance of the health officers at my command, and I have no doubt that all the presidents of district boards will do likewise in helping Government in this propaganda work. They must prepare the ground in this way, and after preparing the ground introduce the question of local option asking people to give their votes as to whether they want drink or not. If they do this then the Government will be able to find that in a very short time it will bear very good results. No doubt they may say that Mr. Narasimha Charlu is saying several things without knowing what he is saying (voices 'No'). Sir, what can I do here except saying with all the powers at my command what I have to say? I can give only that advice and I have no more power than that. I

p.m.

[Mr. T. M. Narasimhaacharlu] [17th March 1926]

submit let them consider this method and try it. If they take the people more into their confidence, the people instead of cursing them will bless them in the long run. I would ask the Government that inasmuch as they have failed in their present policy, they should try to pursue the policy which I have indicated above if they want to evolve the right policy."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"Sir, one or two allegations which the hon. Member from Cuddapah has made in the course of his speech are so sweeping in their nature that I think it is my duty to say that they are not well founded. He has stated that the country is now in a worse position than it was in previous years. That is an allegation which is not supported by facts and figures. On the other hand the consumption of licit liquor has decreased by about 5 per cent. There is an increase of revenue for the reason that we have raised the price of liquor to place it beyond the reach of the drinker. It is to make it costly, to make it difficult for the people to drink, that the price has been raised. If there is an increase in revenue there has been a decrease in consumption of liquor."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"It is due to economic causes."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"The consumption has not risen. It is a very great thing for any country to be proud of, viz., that there has not been any progressive increase in consumption of liquor. That is a concrete fact which temperance reformers forego in their enthusiasm in discussing this problem."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"I do not say that by quantitative test the consumption has increased. But I say the decrease is due to inherent economic causes."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"May I submit that is no personal explanation."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"It is rather for me to decide."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"There has not been any increase in the consumption of liquor. The quantity of drink has fallen by about 5 per cent. This, Sir, is a thing which any Government can be proud of."

"Then again he has referred to the steps to be taken by the Government in helping temperance reformers. He has advised the Government that they should convert themselves into a body of social reformers, that the whole of the Police and other departments should undertake to carry on propaganda work and that he will be so kind and generous as to place the services of the health officers of the local bodies at the disposal of Government so that the former may co-operate with the officers of the Revenue Department and the Police Department in carrying on this propaganda. It is a proposition which, if seriously analysed, will be found not only impracticable, but shall I say (Here the speaker paused)."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"Absurd."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"Yes. In regard to the statement that if there is co-operation of the people we can progress more rapidly, it is that that I have been asking for time after time on the floor of his House. Has there been any institution, any organization in the rural areas which has been working day in and day out and which has been disinterested in devoting itself for the cause of temperance? Is there any organization which visited the people in various villages sat with them on their pials and enquired into their condition and talked to them heart to heart purely in a spirit of humanitarian friendship and not with any patronising air or political end? Has there been any such work? If there is any such work in particular areas, certainly the Government will co-operate with such people and then it will be a case for consideration whether local option cannot be introduced in that area as advocated by the hon. Member from Cuddapah. In the absence of such a work and in the absence of any indication of such a work, it seems to me too much to ask that Government itself should be converted into a social reform organization. I am sorry I cannot accept such a proposition. The policy of the Government is one that is directed to the restriction of consumption and thus advance the cause of temperance reform, and it has been effectively done."

7th March 1926]

The motion was put to vote and declared lost.

A poll was demanded by Mr. Saldanha which was taken and the House divided as follows :—

DEMAND III.—STAMPS.

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"On the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor I move

'that Government be granted a sum not exceeding Rs. 5.35 lakhs for Stamps'."

[17th March 1926]

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 5,200 for the Presidency town be reduced by Rs. 100'

"My object in bringing forward this motion is to discuss the question of the reduction of stamp duty on instruments. I have also given notice of another motion which appears further down in the list to reduce the court fees to the old rates. At the time when these fees were increased we were led to believe that they would be of a temporary character and that as soon as the financial condition of the Presidency improved they would be reduced. More than half of our contribution to the Central Government has now been restored and it is therefore high time that the Government had considered the desirability of reducing these fees. It is this kind of taxation that directly affects the poor ryots. They are in needy circumstances and have often to borrow and are mulked with the cost of the stamps and registration fees. The Courts also invariably give the costs to the plaintiff and thereby the poor people are made to suffer.

(At this stage the hon. the President took the chair.)

"Inasmuch as our finances have improved now it is high time that the Government take into consideration the reduction of both the stamp fees."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" I should like to know whether both the stamp duties and the court fees are going to be discussed together? "

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" Sir, I wish to support this motion. The increase in the court fees and the stamp duties was made in the year in which there was a deficit of 106 lakhs. The discussion in the House on those two Bills for the enhancement of the court fees and the stamp duties showed clearly that it was the wish of the House to have these duties and fees only so long as there was a deficit and the Government were in financial difficulties. It will also be remembered that there was then a decided fall in the abkari revenue brought about by picketting of shops. Strenuous efforts were made by this House and by the hon. Mr. Moir, then Finance Secretary to this Government, to get a reduction in our contributions to the Imperial coffers. The success of those efforts was not then in sight. Under the circumstances the fees were enhanced by about 50 per cent. I speak subject to correction when I say that Sir K. Srinivasa Ayyangar and Sir Muhammad Habib-ul-lah stated that the enhancement was only temporary and that the rates would be reduced to their former level as soon as the financial condition of our Presidency improved. As a matter of fact, though there is a deficit budget this year our contribution to the Central Government has been released to the extent of 183 lakhs of rupees as a result of the vigorous fight put up by our Finance Member, Mr. Moir, in the Legislative Assembly. Therefore it seems to me that there is no justification whatever for the continuance of the present rates of duty. These high rates press very heavily on the poor litigant public and as a consequence they have to borrow money and pledge their property. I submit that it is very desirable and necessary that the stamp duties and court fees should be brought down to their original level."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" Sir, the court fees and the stamp duties have come to stay. It would tax the brains of the Government to abolish them and find out that income from other sources. But some relief must be afforded to the poor people from the heavy taxes in the form of court fees and stamp duties.

17th March 1926]

"The Indian Taxation Enquiry Committee has gone very carefully into the subject and I hope the Government and the hon. Members of the Legislative Council would study the report of the Committee very carefully and see whether the remedies suggested therein are sound and how far they could be taken advantage of by our Province. I am personally of opinion that the suggestions there are very sound. Our own Secretary to the Legislative Council has spent a lot of labour and his suggestions appear to me to be based on a very sound principle. We are indebted to him for his valuable suggestions and the share he has had in the moulding of the report.

"One or two matters have been overlooked in the past. Plaints in the Panchayat Courts are not liable to pay any fees at all. Hence there is a good deal of abuse of this freedom of litigation. Suits up to the value of Rs. 50 are free from any fees. In this connexion I am anxious to see that some fees are charged for these plaints also and the amount realised be utilised to pay the actual charges incurred by the Panchayat officers in travelling to their posts of duty. Sometimes they have to walk long distances in order to attend the courts. I do not want that we should levy more than one-third of the fees levied on suits in the ordinary courts: it may be even one-fifth or one-tenth. But some fee should be levied and the Panchayat officers should be paid at least the actual cost incurred by them in travelling such long distances. Of course the present system of law and the way in which it is administered encourages litigation and increases the cost of litigation. There are, of course, many kinds of dilatory methods. The vagueness of our laws is another source of much litigation. I expected that the Laws Delays Committee would discuss these matters carefully and that Government would take action on the recommendations made by them.

"The report is somewhat unsatisfactory on many of these points and leaves matters in the old state of inordinate delay. Neither the Government of India nor the Local Government have as yet taken any action. I am not aware of any action taken at all by either Government to remedy the state of things which is a great discredit to our judicial administration. One has only to get entangled in litigation in a court of justice to realise how costly litigation is, apart from the high fees that have to be paid to pleaders on account of numerous adjournments. The cases are adjourned from day to day, month to month and year to year, and there are endless delays. I would suggest that some drastic action should be taken first of all to put a stop to delays and to the costliness of litigation."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" The hon. Member is going into a very large question, the question of the law's delays."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" I incidentally referred to it. What I wish to bring to the notice of the House is that every delay costs the litigant. You have to put in so many applications, and every application has to be stamped. That is another source of revenue. There are courts which insist upon putting written applications—the object being to increase the court fees—when the applications can be heard orally; I myself allowed oral applications freely. (Laughter). There are any number of applications that can be made orally if the Judge has patience to hear the pleader or the applicant. But there are Judges and I think the majority of them insist on written applications being put in. Written application means stamping of 4 annas or 8 annas. To a great extent, every application has got to be stamped. I have brought to the notice of the Government and I think the Judicial Committee had dealt with the question of the great rise in the expenditure of litigation by a number of applications being put in if there are any adjournments. I incidentally referred to this matter. Serious steps have to be taken in this matter. I am sure the hon. the Law Member and this House will put their heads together and see how they can relieve the present state of things and lessen the cost of litigation, not to speak of delays. I have already drawn the attention of the Government to the fact that litigation is much simpler and less costly in the continent than in our province. If the hon. the Law Member had studied the subject from works—unfortunately such works are not in our library—he would find that there are various ways to lessen the enormous cost of litigation specially by reducing court fees. I might point out to the House that there are no high court fees levied at all in the continent. People in civilized countries such as France, Germany, etc., get on without having to pay high court fees. That is because litigation is very simple there. Litigation is costly in India and full of delays. In order to meet the cost of the administration, court fees have to be levied. What I understand from books is that litigation in the continent is simple and that there are very few delays and very little expenditure of public money. Under the present circumstances poor people suffer most. England is a worst example we have. England has led the way to the enormous cost of litigation. Litigation in England is very costly. We have copied the Anglo-Saxon example with the result that litigation in India is enormously costly."

[Mr. J. A. Saldanha]

*The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Mr. President, Sir, may I, with your leave, try to deal with some at least of the many points so comprehensively adverted to by the previous speakers? It is not my purpose now to compare the systems of the administration of law in the continent of Europe and in England. Of course, erudite lawyers, like the hon. Member from South Kanara, would recognize the inherent difference between the systems of the administration of law which prevail on the continent of Europe and in England and also the doubtful advantage of the administrations of law in France and Germany in not having law reports to be quoted. I take it that the hon. Member is aware that codification of the law there has proceeded to the extent that practically no precedents are allowed to be quoted. The Germanic Code or the Code Napoleon is the ultimate authority and what remains is only a question of its construction. The system here is quite different. The system depends for its efficiency upon a highly-paid judiciary. So far as the French and Germanic systems are concerned the Judges are some of the lowest paid officers of the hierarchy of the State. They are really quasi administrative in character. Of course there are the Counts of Cassations in which the functionaries are highly paid. But the whole system of administration in France and Germany is different. The precedents and the value that is paid to precedents of reported law cases are not similar in England and Europe. I do not suppose my hon. Friend asks me to follow that system."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" Why not ? " (Laughter.)

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" My hon. Friend was referring to the quoting of precedents. I may tell him that even in the earlier history of Indian Judicature under the old system and mediæval systems there were precedents allowed, and we had exactly the same system as is pursued in England and in the old days these were the pradvivakas. Lawyers would know of course the origin of fatwas given by pandits, kazis and moulvis. I do not wish to take much of the time of the House. The whole continental system is different and we cannot advert to it with any use.

" Let me next deal with the question of stamps and court fees, and let me pay a tribute at this juncture to the very careful report of the Taxation Committee on this matter. I may say that the report of the Taxation Committee has made a great advance in the whole matter of the system of taxing instruments."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" Is the report available for sale ? "

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Yes, Sir. I may touch the main points and I may point out at once that the Committee have come to the conclusion that the whole system of taxation with regard to bonds must be changed. They have come to the conclusion . . . "

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" Are copies of the reports available for sale at the Government Press, Madras ? "

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Yes, Sir. They have come to the conclusion that the duty on documents of indebtedness, bonds and mortgage deeds should be reduced as soon as circumstances should permit. The recommendations of this Committee go far beyond any kind of undertaking given in this House. They want to arrive at a definite system of taxation so far as transactions and litigation are concerned on certain general principles and in order to illustrate those principles they arrive at these conclusions :

" The duty on documents of indebtedness such as bonds and mortgage deeds should be reduced as soon as circumstances permit. The distinction drawn between documents by which possession is given and that by which it is not should be removed. The rate charged on conveyances should be reduced to 2 annas. The duty on deeds of transfer should have regard to the value of the rights actually transferred."

" I may say in general that it is recommended that the distinction for purposes of duty between documents that are attested and those that are not, should be done away with and also that it should not be optional to the parties to fix values for purposes of duty other than the true values. The result will be that while they come to the conclusion that a certain amount of taxes is fairly and legitimately leviable on transactions such as bonds, mortgage deeds, etc., they arrive at the conclusion by which the duty on some of the ordinary transactions dealt with in the schedule will have to be revised. That is so far as transactions are concerned.

" As to court fees, the line that they take is even more noteworthy. They have done me the honour of adopting one of the suggestions that I made during one of the meetings of the Legislative Council that there ought to be a distinction drawn between what may be called luxury suits which ought to be made liable to a high scale of fees and other suits relating to ordinary transactions on which the fee should be fixed as low as possible. They have come to the following conclusion on this matter: That the pitching of the scale of fees in the Court Fees Act and the schedules thereto need a thorough revision by an expert committee. Section 7 of the Bill should be recast and a schedule should be prepared similar to that in the Indian Limitation Act, of suits and appeals which commonly arise in civil courts with a method of valuation prescribed for each. They also make a very useful provision, namely, that in certain cases where poor men may not be able to pay the whole of the court fees at once, a proportionate court fee should be exigible on the institution of the suit, i.e., one-third or one-half should be paid along with the plaint and the balance should be recoverable at the conclusion of the suit. Moreover they arrive at conclusions which are adopted in some courts here, for instance, the Presidency Court of Small Causes. Supposing a certain fee is paid at the institution of a suit and the suit is settled before issues are framed or before any trial takes place, there must be a refund, to a certain extent, of the fees. These are very large recommendations and we suggest that the whole matter should be considered by expert committees. We expect the orders of the Government of India on this matter and it is possible that they will have an all-India Committee sitting on this matter because the Court Fees Act and the Stamp Act are of all-India incidence. From many points of view it would be embarrassing to arrive at one set of rules for one Presidency and another set of rules for another Presidency, for this reason that, supposing it is cheaper to institute a suit in Madras than in Bombay, naturally the cheaper province would be preferred for instituting the suit if other conditions permit. Similarly if it is less costly to execute a document in one province rather than in another, steps would be taken by ingenious-minded people to see that the transaction is entered into in the cheaper province. From that point of view it may be more useful to have an all-India Committee and recommendations. Whether the Government of India are going to appoint an all-India Committee to deal with the question or will ask us to proceed independently with special reference to the conditions of this province we do not know. But that is how the matter stands.

"In regard to court fees, I may say that, so far as this Presidency is concerned, the question of revising them was again mooted in the last year's budget debate. The High Court was consulted in the matter and the High Court obtained the opinion of the Judges, of selected Sub-Judges and District Munsifs and of Bar Associations. There was much diversity in the opinions expressed and the final conclusion is this: The conclusion suggested by a perusal of the report appears to be that there is no evidence that the Act of 1922 has led to denial of justice. It is possible that in a few cases the increase has been very heavy. One such important class is and suits as pointed out by many of the Bar Associations consulted. That is the gist of the report. The points of view suggested by the report of the High Court and of the Bar Associations are not different from the points of view taken by the Taxation Committee. The whole question of the incidence of stamps and court fees will have very soon to be examined and on behalf of the Government I can only undertake that such examination will take place without any avoidable delay."

17th March 1926]

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"I should like to say, Sir, that last year in the course of the budget debate

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"There was one suggestion, Sir, a revolutionary suggestion, if I may so characterise it, about the village panchayat courts, made by my hon. Friend Mr. Saldanha. What he said was that the village courts do not now exact any institution fees and he suggested that they should levy a fee. I may say that the whole object of relieving these courts from that necessity was to popularize these courts, to make people having small demands to go to these courts in preference to other courts, and I for one cannot consent to discourage any one from going to these courts."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"Sir, last year during the course of the budget debate, the then Finance Member repudiated the idea that additional stamp duties were levied by giving an undertaking that these measures would be only temporary. Whatever may be the idea, Sir, that has led the Council to pass those two Amendment Bills, the question is: Is our financial condition at the present moment so very rosy as to think of going back upon our stamp and court fees duties? The budget has yet to be balanced and I should also like to point out that the most important nation-building subject is that of ameliorating the condition of the depressed classes. If Government had more money at their disposal, I am sure they certainly would have done much better in the way of extending the activities of the Labour department to more districts than two. Under these circumstances, Sir, I think Government will not be justified in trying to reduce the stamp duties at the present moment; but I can assure the House that when more favourable circumstances occur, i.e., when our financial condition is more favourable, or when the Government of Madras are called upon to consider the recommendations of the Taxation Committee, Government will take that opportunity to examine the question of revising the stamp and court fees duties."

Mr. K. SITARAMA REDDI:—"Sir, I beg to associate myself with the observations that fell from my hon. Friend Mr. Krishnan Nayar. When these Bills were introduced I believe three years back, we were distinctly told that they would be temporary measures and that as soon as the finances of the province improved, there would be a reduction in the court fees and stamp duties. In spite of the fact that we have had a remission of two crores of rupees nearly, we are not faced with an easing of the situation in this direction. The hon. the Home Member may say that if more funds were available, the Labour department would be favoured. Another member probably may say that if more funds were available, another department of his would be favoured. All these may not weigh with an ordinary ryot. It is a very hard thing for a ryot to pay, especially as the Law Member said, on bonds indicating ordinary transactions such as debt bonds or mortgage bonds, which tell heavily upon these people. With regard to the court-fees duty, I know instances where people have been afraid of getting into law courts because of the heaviness of the initial court fees that they will have to pay. They generally go on renewing their bonds even though they know that there is no likelihood of getting their money from the debtors, and after all, what is the result? Probably justice is denied to them in the course of some years; the debtor becomes more and more insolvent and the creditor, not expecting any relief or not being able to pay the whole fees even for the institution of the suit, loses in the end his own money. With regard to the recommendations of the Taxation Committee referred to by the hon. the Law Member, may I suggest one remark—I do not know if the Taxation Committee have dealt with this question—I see that in the High Court of Madras, the initial fee, whatever may be the value of the suit for the purpose of court fees, is Rs. 30."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"That was so until last year. They have since revised the fees. It is now Rs. 150."

* Mr. K. SITARAMA REDDI :—"And even in cases where the subject-matter is about crores of rupees, the initial fee is Rs. 150, whereas in the case of a mufassal suit the court fee is, I believe, levied on the value, i.e., Rs. 3,000. The maximum is Rs. 3,000. I would suggest that in the case of suits in the mufassal courts, the system that is prevailing in the metropolis courts may be introduced. I would also suggest that in cases where suits are decreed ex parte or where suits are settled before the settlement of issues, this initial fee may alone be insisted on and not the full fee that is now demanded. A party now goes to a court and on the next hearing day he gets the suit settled; but all the same he has to pay full fees irrespective of the fact whether the court has spent any time over it or not. I would suggest that this question may be taken up by the Government and the system that is now prevailing in the Madras courts may be introduced in the mufassal courts also."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"Sir, I wish to confine myself to a few aspects of the question because other points have been dealt with by the previous speakers. In the case of court-fees, in my opinion, the present incidence is very arbitrary, anomalous and, I may also say, inconsistent. For instance, take the case of immovable property, lands. An acre of land may be worth Rs. 2,000. Its land assessment—take it as a ryotwar land—will be say Rs. 10, and the court fees is levied at present on Rs. 100 i.e., about Rs. 11. Suppose I have to institute a suit on a bond against a person from whom I may not after all be able to recover anything. That is a different matter so far as the Government are concerned. In that case, I suppose I have to institute a suit for Rs. 2,000. I have to pay the full stamp duty at the rate of Rs. 11 and odd per hundred on the Rs. 2,000

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"Does my friend want an increase?"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"I would strongly advocate a perusal of the report as this very case has been dealt with exhaustively in that report."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"I will come to that. My submission is, whether I recover my money or not, I pay very heavy stamp duty. In the case of money suits, lower denominations might be ordered. At the same time, as the hon. the Law Member has said, some initial fee may be taken and the other portion of the fee may be levied at the time of the suit, because when once the question of settlement of issues comes, then there will be a contest. Prior to that stage there is no question of contest, and therefore parties might be asked to give only one-third fee or half-fee. That will greatly reduce the burden on the poor people. After all, Sir, suppose a money-lender has to file suits against his borrowers. These borrowers are all poor people in villages and if heavy court fee is levied from the lender, no doubt he pays the money from his pocket because he knows all well that this money is recoverable from his debtor. So, ultimately who is the person that suffers? It is the poor man who is driven to the necessity of borrowing and who in addition to his not being able to pay the debt itself is asked to pay a heavy court-fee, heavy fee for the vakils and in the case of applications and other things, increased court-fees. I think, Sir, after all it is the poor people that suffer, it is not the money-lender that suffers; because he gets his money back from the property of the borrower. The Government do not see that aspect of the question at all. I submit, therefore, that the incidence of court-fees, how it should be levied on immovable property, how it should be levied on purely money suits, all these things must be revised thoroughly and relief must be given to the poor people who are compelled to borrow on account of their family difficulties. We are now having an Act of 1870. When we last revised it, we revised it only to increase the fees and not to relieve the poor people from the burden that they have been groaning under. We are now nearly sixty years in advance of the year 1870 and till now the Government have not at all taken the trouble to do the proper thing to the people. Now the hon. the Law Member says: 'Well, we have got the Taxation Enquiry Committee's report, we shall have to see whether an all-India Expert Committee is going to be appointed hereafter, what they are going to do, and after that, an all-India legislation should be undertaken' and all that. I think, Sir, it makes the heart of the poor man throb very very severely when he hears such a thing. That means that the Government are saying: 'We won't take any action now. The Committee report is now in our way. Therefore let the poor people continue to suffer.' I submit, Sir, the poor legislature has got the power to revise the fees at least in the case of with this people. I submit the Government of India will never find fault for it, I Government. On the other hand, the poor people will thank their Committee thought that he would be the last man to take shelter under that report, is not a tee's report and to shelve this question for ever. That report sort of curse; blessing to us, to the poor people; but I think it seems to be given to the people. I submit, therefore, that he should not use these fees were increased report, but begin to fulfil the promise given when the people deserve his sympathy and to see to it in right earnest. Well, the poor man. I submit that in many pathy and therefore it should be given to the cases relief is already overdue.

earned, he knows perfectly well. So far as the non-Judicial stamps are concerned, money. As the law says—that it is the case of the poor people borrowing money. Sir, to tax the poor people and it is the practice also—it is the poor people. Sir, to tax the poor people on bonds or on promissory notes. I think any benefit from them is a sin. in so many ways and then to try to tax the poor people. Let them not take Every day the Government shut the question for ever. Let shelter under that report and take no relief to the people. That is my submission, Sir, and I hope it won't be of any use.

* Mr. Chavadi K. SUBRAHMANYA PILLAI:—"Mr. President, Sir, the Stamp Act and the Court Fees Act were amended in 1922 and this House gave the seal of consent on the clear understanding that it was meant only to relieve the financial needs of the Government in those abnormal times when their financial position was not very hopeful. We are now having our normal revenues for the past four years. The rise in the court-fees and stamps has affected the poor men very much. This may, if necessary, be investigated immediately and an amendment Bill be brought forward as early as possible. I think it is our duty to restore the old rates when we are sure that there is no justification for the increase. I would therefore request the hon. Members to realize the difficulties of the poor men and restore the old court-fee rates and thus redress their grievances. The price of the copy stamp papers has been increased to annas three from annas two. The increase has also affected the poor men, for, even the very poorest men have to take copies of the records in favour of or against them. This may also be considered and the old rates restored."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR:—"Sir, I have of course no intention of objecting to or protesting against any revision of either non-judicial or judicial fees or duties if it be the case that under the existing rates certain classes of transactions or certain classes of documents are treated unfairly as compared with others. And that is a matter which my hon. Friend the Leader of the House has said will naturally come under examination when we have the opportunity of dealing with the report of the Taxation Committee. I have further no intention of exploring the dark places of the judicial system, of which my hon. Friend, Mr. Saldanha, was once an ornament, nor am I competent to pass any opinion on his suggestion that the remedy in cases where the duties fall severely upon those who go to the law court rests largely either in their own hands or in the hands of those who represent them in the courts. But I do not wish the House to be under any misapprehension that so long as the House keeps before its mind certain lines of policy the removal of these duties or their reduction will in any immediate future become a matter of practical politics. In the year 1921-22, the year previous to the increase in the fees and duties, the total revenue derived from them was Rs. 186.35 lakhs and in 1924-25, the last year for which we have the complete figures, the total revenue was Rs. 233.17 lakhs, an increase that is to say in three years of Rs. 46.82 lakhs under both items or roughly speaking an increase of 25 per cent. Hon. Members of the House who were present at the debate on the proposal to increase the duties will remember that it was anticipated that in the first year alone there would be an increase of Rs. 70 lakhs, that the new revenue would supply our deficit to the extent of Rs. 70 lakhs. Personally I greatly regret that we did not get that seventy lakhs, and that our anticipations have not been realized. My position to-day would be very much easier if I had besides the 46 lakhs, the additional revenue which we would have had if our hopes had been realized. Does any Member of the House, bearing in mind the many policies to which the House stands committed, measures for social improvement, for education, for improved condition of works of irrigation and in a thousand other ways, really suppose that it is a practical proposition to-day to surrender nearly 47 lakhs of our revenue? We can do so on two conditions. One is that alternative revenues are provided. The other is that we reduce our expenditure by the extent of this 47 lakhs. I go the hon. Member, Mr. Krishnan

[Mr. T. E. Moir]

Nayar, in referring to the reasons which were put forward at the time when the duties were enhanced mentioned the position of our excise revenue at that time and the inroads which had been made upon it by a certain campaign. The suggestion is, I think, that our position in respect of these revenues is now different. If so the hon. Member seems to be labouring under a misapprehension. As I have explained in my budget speech, our revenues under that head are showing a steady and progressive decline and we have only to-day heard a debate in which the demand was made that measures should be taken to expedite and increase that decline. I am sure therefore that the hon. Member cannot plead any anticipations in connexion with the excise revenue as a ground on which he could base his demand for the reduction of these duties to the level at which they stood two or three years ago. Personally I am afraid that unless much greater financial good fortune is going to accompany us in future years—I cannot however see any evidence of it—we must regard the increase in these duties as one of the sources from which we are going to meet the demand for increased expenditure on the one side and for the abolition of certain sources of revenue on the other. It may be that the existing scales of duties can be modified, or re-arranged so as to deal with cases of real hardship. But I am afraid that I shall have to consider very carefully any proposals for this end lest any re-adjustment which we are going to make should result in a further inroad into our very inadequate revenues."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"Sir, I would never have intervened in this debate but for a remark that fell from the lips of the hon. the Law Member. The hon. Member said that he was against the institution of any fees in the panchayat courts when admitting cases to their file because he thought that that would discourage people from going to those courts. I am one with him when he says that nothing should be done to discourage people from availing themselves of these village courts. But my point is that the present system does not really lend itself to the free use of these courts by the people and for this reason the panchayat courts are in the position of a man on a steed the reins of which are in another's hands. These panchayat courts are to be helped by the village officers and the village officers are not amenable to any influence that may be brought to bear on them by the panchayats. There are the processes to be served, the decrees to be executed and for all these they want some establishment. The hon. the Law Member would turn round and say that he is willing to give them the necessary establishment provided they have about nine hundred cases on their file. Does he want these courts to foment litigation, to ask for cases to be brought to their files whether there is legitimate reason for such a course or not? Otherwise how can they produce, each one of them, nine hundred cases on its file and so secure the services of an officer? That is the difficulty, Sir. In my own district, I know of one court at the headquarters at Bellary which collected a fee for every case that it took on its file on its own initiative. With that money it found a man to carry on the work connected with the court and so long as it was collecting these fees, the court was popular. There was some satisfaction in the minds of the people; but when this practice came to the notice of the Collector, he had to make a reference to the Government and ultimately to prohibit the levy of these fees. The result was that the establishment which the court had entertained temporarily was disbanded and there was none to carry on the work and people ceased to take cases to its file. It was the same in regard to the court at Rayadrug. The hon. the Law Member in reply to one of my questions admitted that there was a heavy pendency on the file of that court. If the hon. the Law Member would give them the necessary staff to carry on the work and make satisfactory arrangements for the despatch of work or give them the power to levy a nominal fee of As. 8 or Re. 1 per case, and allow them, with the proceeds of such levy, to entertain the necessary staff to carry on the work, I think, Sir, that the courts would work satisfactorily. My hon. Friend Mr. Saldanha's proposal, it seems to me, is not so revolutionary as the hon. the Law Member tried to make out. I think, Sir, there is very good reason behind the remarks he has made, and I think it is a matter which must engage the serious consideration of the Government. Otherwise these courts, I am very sorry to say, are not likely to serve the purpose for which they have been intended. Perhaps, if the hon. the Chief Minister brings in his Bill with reference to the village panchayats some steps will be taken in the direction of giving these courts the necessary machinery to carry on the work; but as I have said, it is a matter for the future in the lap of the Gods."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" Sir, I have only a few words to speak by way of reply. We had the pleasure of hearing on this question three hon. Members on the Treasury Bench. The hon. the Finance Member dealt with the financial aspect of the question. I am a very bad financier myself, and I don't feel competent to criticise him; but I may assure the hon. Member that if the court fees were moderate enough, side by side with the increase in the file, there would have been, under normal conditions, an increase in the court fees. The hon. Member has said that there was only about a sum of 47 lakhs by way of increase after the amendment of the Stamps and Court Fees Acts. I am one of those who believe that even if the old rates were continued, the income from stamps would certainly have improved. As regards our inability, judged from the view point of our wants, I may say that relief could have been given in this matter, if we had confined our building programme to a definite amount and got some savings thereby. We find about 135 lakhs of rupees or so allotted for Civil Works. I did not have the patience to go through the several items of proposals for building quarter for officers, etc."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" On the whole, the allotment goes to one crore and thirty-eight lakhs."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" I therefore feel confident that if only our programme was limited to a definite amount, we should have effected some savings."

"The hon. the Law Member said that in view of the Taxation Committee's report we can afford to wait. Sir, I have a vague memory that he assured us more than once in the Council that except in respect of declaratory suits without any prayer for consequential relief, a reduction would soon be made."

* The hon. Sir O. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" I instanced that as one of the class of suits which I classed as luxury suits, that is, suits by reversions declaratory suits and such litigation. In such suits, the court fees might well be heavy, whereas suits for the recovery of money on bonds might pay less."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" Something like that. I thought he was satisfied that a reduction of stamp duties could be made in all other kinds of suits. If he feels with us in that matter, it is up to him to remedy the state of things. My hon. Friend Mr. Usman Sahib said that the conditions of finance are not rosy and so on. What I have to submit to him is this. In respect of court fees it is only suits of the value of Rs. 500 or so that are affected by the new Bill, whereas with regard to duty on instruments, even loans of Rs. 10 and Rs. 15 have got to be stamped with the enhanced fee. If he will fix the minimum at Rs. 500 or Rs. 1,000 for instruments also, the poor people will very much be benefited. I request him to consider that aspect of the question, if there is likely to be some delay in considering the question of amending the Act so that some relief might be given at least to those people who transact below Rs. 500. With these few words, if you will permit me, Sir, I beg leave to withdraw my motion."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" May I say, Sir, that I have got my motion on which I spoke?"

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" The hon. Member did not move any resolution. He spoke on Mr. K. Prabhakaran Tampau's motion."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" Have we got power to withdraw a motion without the approval of the House, Sir?"

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" I do not think any other Members than Mr. Prabhakaran Tampau moved any motion. They spoke on his resolution."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" He never consulted us before withdrawing."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" It is not necessary."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" May I say one word on this point? We do not find it necessary to mention or repeat every point we wish to press. When I gave a motion, intending to raise some points, and wanted the motion to be put separately, I should have the right of reply. But only because I did not unnecessarily reiterate the points already mentioned, I should not lose that right."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" The hon. Member may have intended to move, but as a matter of fact, he did not move his motion. I was following his speech carefully and he spoke simply supporting Mr. Prabhakaran Tampau's motion."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Would one be right therefore in presuming that the discussion hitherto centred only on the motion of Mr. Prabhakaran Tampau and that it would be open to those who spoke on his motion to move their resolutions now?"

"The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Not now. When I called them, they had the option of moving their resolutions or merely speaking on Mr. Prabhakaran Tampau's motion. When I called them it was their business to move the resolution or only to speak in support of Mr. Prabhakaran Tampau's resolution. Has the hon. Member (Mr. Prabhakaran Tampau) the leave of the House to withdraw his motion?"

The House signified its approval and the motion was by leave withdrawn.

The Demand No. III for a sum not exceeding Rs. 5.35 lakhs for stamps was then put and carried and the grant was made.

DEMAND IV—FORESTS

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"Sir, I beg to move

'that the Government be granted a sum not exceeding Rs. 45.26 lakhs for Forests.'

* Mr A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"Sir, I beg to move

'for the reduction of the allotment of Rs. 70,700 for general direction by Rs. 101.'

"My object, Sir, in tabling this motion is to invite the attention of the hon. the Home Member and of the House to the way in which forests, I mean the ryots' forests, are at present administered. Sir, the Government are committed to the policy that what are called ryots' forests should hereafter be entrusted to the management of the villagers and that experienced and expert officers like the Forest officers should not be employed for such petty forests. Now, Sir, I want the Government to bear in mind a few principles in regard to the administration of these forests. They must see whether their policy meets with the approval and satisfaction of the villagers concerned. Are they more contented under their present system of administration than under the old one? They must also consider whether the terms on which they allow these forests to be managed are attractive enough to induce honest people to come forward and take up the management of these forests. And they must also see whether ultimately these forests do not suffer by the change in the administration. Judged by these principles, I am afraid that their present system leaves very much to be desired.

"First of all, as regards the amount of rent which the Government are fixing for these forests, I want to say this. When these forests were under the control of the Government they had their costly machinery to administer them. They had certain rules under which they were levying fees at so much for a cow or an ox, so much for a sheep, and so much for a buffalo. They must be in a position now to know what amount they were deriving from these forests when they were under their management. They should also be in a position to say what they cost them at the time they were managing these forests, the establishment they employed, the rates at which they paid them and the other expenses they incurred. Now, I want the Government to state really how much they were gaining from these forests when they were controlling them. With reference to what they were obtaining for all those years, I contend that they must fix the amount at which they lease forests to the villagers. If the Government at the time they were managing these forests were not getting any income at all, I think they would not be justified in demanding a high amount for these poor forests. If they were getting, say Rs. 10, for over a thousand acres, I say it would be wrong on their part to demand a rent of Rs. 300 for it simply because they are not managing these forests now but somebody else is managing, or is forced to manage them. This is the first point.

"The second point is this. You must use your discrimination and try to get the best people to manage these forests. At present it is practically the panchayat officer or one or the other of his men who selects the people to manage the forests. He meets, during a very rapid march, some interested people and comes to an arrangement with some of them, fixes the amount and disposes of the matter straightaway, so that they are allowed to manage the forests for two or three years without the people concerned being given an opportunity to satisfy themselves whether the persons selected by the officers are really best fitted to manage these forests. I should therefore suggest that when they form these forest panchayats, they must convene a meeting of all the people of the village and assemble them all in one place, and ask them to choose five from among themselves. I am willing to give the Government officers discretion to reject any one of the persons nominated for satisfactory reasons. But I think the people should be associated in the selection of the members of the panchayats. The lease amount, as I have already said, should be more or less nominal, and certainly not anything more than what the Government were getting when they were themselves managing these forests. And again at present the Government prescribe that there should be so many watchers, that there should be so many guards, that there should be such and such a clerk, and when all these are appointed what their rates of pay should be. I say that they need not interfere so much with the internal management of the forests. What does it matter to them how many people are employed or at what rates of pay they are paid? Should not the panchayats be allowed to freely manage their forests according to their convenience and in the best way they please? All that you need insist on is that the forests should not suffer by the change of management. If all the five panchayatdars should take it into their heads that they should themselves visit the forests and see that the forests do not suffer, what does it matter to you? Why should they employ some paid agency to do this work? Again, you must not impose conditions which are impossible of fulfilment. The Government say, for example, that there should be no goats at all entering these reserves. I am not one of those who say that goats should be allowed to go freely into the forests. They do cause damage to the forest, but at the same time there is no gainsaying the fact that every flock of sheep should have some goats to lead them along. Say, 5 per cent of the flock may consist of goats. What is the good of imposing conditions which the Government, myself and all those who know anything about the subject know perfectly well are never fulfilled? So, I say that you must make a few simple rules which are effective and can be easily worked. It is with that idea that I have initiated the discussion on this subject."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"Sir, I have got a motion on the same point later on in the agenda, No. 199."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"Is the hon. Member now going to speak on that motion?"

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"No, Sir, I shall speak on it later on. But now, I only want to support the motion just now moved by Mr. Ranganatha Mudaliyar."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"I think we will save time if we allow the Government Member in charge to speak."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"Sir I would just like to point out that these panchayats have been recently formed, and we are awaiting the results of their working. I am prepared to examine the questions that have been brought forward by way of this motion. I intend to examine all the points raised now in the the Forest Advisory Committee. If my hon. Friend is willing to accept this assurance, he may withdraw the motion now. I may again repeat that I intend to bring these points before the Forest Advisory Committee and come to some definite conclusion."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"I do not know, for example, during the past one year or two how often the Forest Advisory Committee did really meet. I do not say that the hon. the Home Member is to blame, but some of the members of that committee did not perhaps attend. I am not concerned as to who is responsible for the committee not meeting. . ."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"With regard to the Forest Advisory Committee, I may say that I have been calling the meeting a number of times, but was very much disappointed to find that the members did not attend it. I shall convene a meeting very early and discuss all these points."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"I do not know nor do I care to know who is responsible for the delay. Here is my grievance which I have explained and I am a poor man, and I cannot afford to be at the whim or convenience of these people. I am suffering seriously, and I have a right to expect the Government to take up this question very soon, whether they choose to do so by themselves or in consultation with the committee. And I would urge that the hon. the Home Member should put a little more driving power into this branch of the administration."

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"I cannot put pressure on the members, Sir, or compel them and I do not know how he wants me to use this driving power."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"There is no sanctity, Sir, in regard to any person here as far as the work is concerned. The work must be done and the necessary relief afforded to the sufferers. It cannot be delayed for others' convenience; if it is the non-official, he must be brushed aside, and if it is the official, he must be equally brushed aside. I do not see why the hon. the Home Member and others should fight shy of tackling this question. I do not see where his partiality or hesitation comes in. After all, it is the people who are concerned in the matter, and he is administering that branch of administration. So I do not think other irrelevant consideration should be allowed to stand in the way of justice being done to the people who are suffering. With these words, I withdraw the motion, Sir."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"I beg to move.

'that the allotment of Rs. 1,60,000 for forest produce removed by private agency be reduced by Rs. 101.'

"In doing so I request that the Government would permit the removal of head-loads of grass and fuel free and cart-loads, on permits of six annas per cart. I know that after some agitation Government have agreed to the removal of head-loads of grass. They have not done so with regard to fuel. I think the forest officers are agreed that if they allowed the dry fuel to remain on the soil without being removed there is some risk attending it. If so, why should they not allow the free removal of head-loads of fuel? Again, the Forest Department imposes certain conditions in regard to the removal of these things which are impossible of fulfilment. The legislature seems to be very busy with making laws which nobody can fulfil. The people who are allowed to take out fuel are not allowed to carry a small axe or blade. Can they break with their own hands wood which is three inches thick. There are the agencies of the department who can look after these forests and see that there is no undue damage of these forests. For the removal of green manure in other districts one rupee is charged. My district is not in any way better than Chittoor. Why should they not allow the same rate in the case of the Bellary district? It is to invite the attention of the Government to these grievances that I have tabled this motion."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"With regard to leaf manure, Government have called upon the Chief Conservator and the Director of Agriculture to submit a report on this question. We have also asked the Chief Conservator to consult public opinion. When that opinion is received by Government the question of seigniorage rate will be considered by Government as my hon. Friend has suggested. Before that I regret I am unable to do anything. As for the head-loads of grass and fuel, it is a matter for the forest panchayats and it is left entirely to their discretion."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"I wish the hon. the Home Member recognizes facts before he makes a statement. Does he mean to say that the forests have been or will be handed over to the panchayats before a few months? There are any number of forests. It is two years since the policy was inaugurated and how many forests have been given to the panchayats? At this rate how long will it take to hand over all the forests? Until then should the people groan under the same disabilities? I do not know why Government should hesitate to do what is asked of them so long as they are responsible for the management. The moment these things are transferred to the panchayats it is for the people to go to the panchayats. But till then should they continue the present unfair system when they are responsible for the management, when the machinery is theirs and when the forest administration is theirs? I am most surprised at the attitude of the Government and I cannot say anything more. Because the Government hope to transfer these forests to the panchayats in the course of a century should we keep quiet until then? A more astounding and unfair proposition it is impossible to make. The question of seigniorage rates I have been pressing for some years, yet it is under consideration and consideration and I do not know how long more it will be under consideration. It seems he has some hesitation in touching the sensitive non-officials. He may be a little more willing to put energy so far as the officials are concerned and see that this is accepted."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"Government think that the best solution for this is to hand over the forests to the panchayats. With that object in view we are trying to transfer as many as possible and we hope to complete the transfer before the end of this year."

[17th March 1926]

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" May I take it that if he does not do that he will adopt my suggestion ? "

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" The policy of the Government is to see that the ryots' forests are transferred to the panchayats as early as possible. "

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" I have got papers here to show that this answer is being given since 1923. Still the very song is repeated and the thing is going on merrily. "

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Is the hon. Member pressing his motion ? "

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Well, Sir, I withdraw. "

The motion was then by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" I move
' that the allotment of Rs. 53,600 for protection from fire be reduced by Rs. 100. '

" Sir, this is a token motion intended to suggest to the Government that their operation of fire-protection must be confined within the area of Government forests. I have known instances where Government opened a fire line outside Government forest area and set fire on the other side with the result that the fire extended to a mile and did a great damage to the owners of those forests. "

Mr. V. PANDRANG ROW :—" Where ? "

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" In Malabar. I hope it was only a rare instance and it is not a custom generally adopted. "

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" He wants the area to be localized. Malabar is a very wide tract. "

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" Tiruvalamkunnam-side, just adjacent to forests belonging to my own family. It was open to us to go to the court of law and claim damages. But obviously it was difficult process and we gave up the idea altogether. Such things should be avoided and due care taken for the protection of the property of other people. Government should confine their operations within their own areas. I hope the hon. the Home Member will make an enquiry and put a stop to such practice in the future "

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" I should like to say that the fire protection operations will be undertaken only within the reserved forests and I do not know how the burning operations have been extended outside through carelessness. This question has been tackled in the administration report and the district forest officers have been asked to camp in the area during operations. Therefore the department is taking care in the matter. As to the specific instance quoted, I shall see what it is. "

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" I am obliged to the hon. Member. I withdraw. "

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" I seem to be in a happy position because I see support from unexpected quarters. I move ' that the allotment of Rs. 1,46,700 for organization, improvement and extension of forests be reduced by Rs. 101. '

[20th March 1926]

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" I suppose the extra amount will lapse if the judges do not continue after October. "

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Let me elucidate the points, at all events attempt to do it. There is no question of any statutory limitation with reference to entering the figures in the budget. We have got the right to extend the term of the judges to two years. I say Government have not arrived at any conclusion with reference to any further extension which further extension is not vested in the Local Government but in the Secretary of State. But so far as the budget is concerned it is only an estimate of probable expenditure. As I said we have not come to any conclusion and that is an assurance we have given. It is possible that we may in fact have to continue them to the end of the year and the budget is only an estimate of the probabilities. It does not mean that we will spend it. If the Secretary of State does not sanction an extension, it will not be spent. Having regard to the volume of pendency we have not come to any decision. We keep an open mind. "

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—" The only course for them if they have not come to any conclusion at all is not to think of it as a probable expenditure which will be spent in the year but to look upon it as an unforeseen expenditure and move for a supplementary grant. "

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" No supplementary grant is necessary. "

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—" That is just the point. "

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" They are preparing for the worst. "

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—" Well, Sir, if the Government is preparing for the worst, I am also preparing for the worst. "

" I do not wish to press the motion. "

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—" I beg to move
' to reduce the allotment of Rs. 6,08,600 for High Court by Rs. 1. '

" I have tabled this motion in order to urge upon the Government the necessity of appointing Muslims whenever opportunity occurs in respect of the posts of High Court Judge, Advocate-General, Legal Remembrancer and offices like that. I am glad, Sir, that the motion for the appointment of a Muslim High Court Judge has been carried away. (Laughter.) I mean carried. I will therefore merely content myself with moving this as an alternative so that the Government might consider over the possibility of appointing Muslims to places like the Advocate-General and the Legal Remembrancer. "

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" There is no office like that. "

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—" I want to talk about that. "

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Perhaps the hon. Member wants to create one. "

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—" I want that the above appointments should be considered as an alternative to the appointment of the High Court Judge. If the contention put forward by the hon. the Law Member

17th March 1926] [Mr. A. Ranganatha Mudaliyar]

“ My object is specified in the paper and that is to remove boundaries of forests so as to leave at least half a mile between the residential villages and the forests and to allow grazing in all forests in an entire range on a single permit. This House has already given expression to such a view and the Government have not noticed and given effect to that resolution. I have not asked that these forests should be removed half a mile beyond the cultivated fields of the village. I am only asking that the limits should be fixed half a mile from the residential portion of the village. I have prepared a statement to find out how many villages are within this half a mile limit, but I do not want to tire the patience of the House with those details. There are three villages close to the Sivapuram extension reserve. There are three villages adjoining the Bandri reserve. Now, Sir, when villages are so close to the reserve, or rather the forests are formed to be so close to the villages, the inconvenience to the people is very obvious. They cannot keep their cattle penned up in their houses. They have to let them go out. When the reserves are so close they cannot prevent trespass by their animals for the short time they are let out. When I first asked the Board of Revenue about it they told me that the matter is under consideration. They had to say that, because these forests were then still under their control. They waited sufficiently long and after some time said that they could do something as the reserves would be handed over to village panchayats. I would very much like the transfer. But where are the panchayats? They have not been constituted. If they had been we can seek redress at their hands. Until such time the Government should not shirk their responsibility. Even supposing the forests are transferred I do not think Government are absolved from the responsibility of shifting these boundaries. Whoever may be there the inconvenience is there. I ask again, Sir, that grazing should be allowed in all forests in a range on a single permit. Here again the hon. the Home Member may say that it will be left to the panchayats to allow free grazing. But there are no forest panchayats whom I can approach. Most of these forests are still under the forest administration. The department is still issuing the permits. So long as the department issues permits, it might issue them for the whole range and thus minimise trespass possible.”

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—“ We have introduced grazing in the entire range with a single permit in three districts. I understand that it will be extended to other districts. I hope that will satisfy my hon. Friend. With regard to the other point raised I should like to say that Government cannot agree to a general rule like that because we shall have to give up some valuable forests. If specific cases are brought to the notice of the Government, I shall examine them.”

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—“ I am glad that the hon. the Home Member has suggested that when specific cases are brought to his notice he would examine them. Though the hon. Mover is surprised to expect support from unexpected quarters, I am also surprised that once I am in a position to agree with him.

“ I am glad, Sir, that the hon. the Home Member said that at least specific cases brought to his notice would be examined in this matter. I am referring to the first object of this motion of my hon. Friend from Bellary. Though he may be surprised at the unexpected support that he has got from me on this particular occasion, I am surprised that for once at least I am in a position to agree with him in what he says. This Council passed a resolution some time ago that forests within one mile from the village areas should be disafforested. We do not know how it has affected particular villages. It may be that there are very large forests which may be seriously affected by this rule of one-mile distance from villages. I think it will be realized by any one who has anything to do with village life that there are some forests which are merely an apology for forests. I said in the course of the general discussion on the budget that in my district of Chingleput I could point to a series of shrub jungles with plants. I will not call them trees as they are not even 4 or 5 feet high, which have been called reserved forests. As the hon. the Home Member wanted specific instances, I would invite his attention to Satyavadi, a little village in the Chingleput district, where within a few feet from the village you have the reserved forest, which cannot by any stretch of imagination be called a forest but a mere shrub jungle which does not give any assistance to the Government in any way whatsoever. There is no valuable timber or forest produce of any kind, and yet the whole area round Satyavadi village is reserved forest. Similar is the case in Varadayapalaiyam. In another part of the district round about a particular hillside there are trees which yield valuable timber. But near Varadayapalaiyam you have merely shrub jungle which ought to have been disafforested long ago and in any case even if it cannot be disafforested, I think such jungles adjacent to villages ought at least to be transferred immediately to forest panchayats. I believe when this scheme of forest panchayats is widely extended they will hand over all those areas to the forest panchayats. But, recently, I am led to believe that there is a lull in the operations of the Forest department in that direction. I feel that there is a stalemate come over the activities of the Forest department in transferring the forests to the management of forest panchayats, and it is in this connexion I would make an appeal to the hon. the Home Member to call for statistics to show how progress has been made month after month by the department in handing over forests to forest panchayats. In my district, there is another peculiarity. Owing to the abolition of the District Forest Officer in the Chingleput district—I think it is a right move—the District Forest Officer of Nellore is now in charge of those forests near the area that I have described. It is far away from him in an out-of-the-way corner. Naturally his supervision cannot extend in such detail over these forests as it might extend to those forests in the Nellore district with which he is more closely associated, and the result will be that forest administration will be led into those undesirable directions which have been so seriously criticized in this House time after time. I have nothing to suggest against the various officials now in charge of those areas. I know personally the forest ranger there, and he is a very desirable officer. We know if supervision is relaxed there is a tendency for things to drift. Therefore, it is all the more necessary that villages in these particular areas of Satyavadi and Varadayapalaiyam should be handed over to forest panchayats and in certain cases should be disafforested. I trust the hon. the Home Member will consider those instances I have given with reference to the specific grievances that I have brought to his notice this evening."

[Mr. A. Ramaswami Mudaliyar]

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"I am much obliged to the hon. the Home Member for extending the concession of allowing grazing in all forests in an entire range on a single permit. I only request him to expedite the orders and to see that they reach the people in time so that the people may know this concession before permits are issued for the next year. Unfortunately, we know of cases where assurances had been given expression to in this House by the Members on the Treasury Bench, but the information never reached even their officers in the districts, and they went on doing things contrary to what the Government had said on the floor of this House, and it took a considerable amount of time and trouble to undo the harm that has been done. Therefore, I request the hon. the Home Member to issue prompt orders and to communicate them to the officers concerned.

"As regards villages close to the reserved forests, my hon. Friend from Chingleput specified many cases. I can refer to many such cases myself but I will refer only to one—erniki, where the forest is very close to the village. I may also tell the hon. the Home Member that on a representation made to the Conservator of Forests he has directed the range officer to submit a tracing of the district tour map showing villages within half a mile from reserved forests, so that, if that is available one would be in a position to tell which villages are so close to the reserved forests as to need relief. It may be that in regard to other districts where there are valuable forests you may have to be a little more careful in determining whether or not the boundary should be shifted, but not in a district like mine where forests are proverbially poor. I withdraw my motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

The House then adjourned at 5-7 p.m. to meet again at 11 a.m. the next day.

I
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Order made by the President of the Madras Legislative Council under Standing Order No. 15 on the 4th December 1924.]

1. Starred questions to be put at a meeting of the Council with their answers shall be printed and placed on the Council table an hour before the President takes his seat.

The Secretary shall call out the name of each interpellator in the order in which the names are printed, specify the serial number of his question and make a sufficient pause to give him or any other member a reasonable opportunity of rising in his place and putting a supplementary question. Supplementary questions must be put immediately after the principal questions to which they relate.

2. If a member responsible for a starred question happens to be absent when it is called, it will be open either to him or to any other member to put supplemental questions thereon after the other starred questions for the day have been answered, provided question-time is not thereby exceeded.

3. Questions, not starred, will not be called in Council, but they will be printed with their answers and placed on the table of the House along with the list of starred questions. Oral supplementary questions will not be allowed in regard to unstarred questions.]

STARRED QUESTIONS.

Agriculture.

Crop pest in South Kanara.

* 1608 Q.—MR. D. MANJAYYA HEGGADE: Will the hon. the Minister for Development and the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state whether the Government have received any report from the Collector of South Kanara about the recent crop pest known locally as 'Bambooch' which did much injury to the first paddy crop and caused heavy loss to the ryots?

A.—In the season report for the week ending 5th September 1925 it was stated that in parts of Karkal taluk standing crops were affected by 'rice bugs'.

Co-operative Societies.

Promotion of Inspectors of Co-operative Societies.

* 1609 Q.—MR. R. VEERIAN: With reference to question No. 362, answered at the meeting of the 25th August 1925, will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

(a) how many members belonging to the depressed classes were promoted as Chief Inspectors of Co-operative Credit Societies from the rank of Inspectors after the promotion of about nine Chief Inspectors to the place of Assistant Registrars of Co-operative Credit Societies; and

(b) the total number of Inspectors of Co-operative Credit Societies belonging to the depressed classes together with their educational qualifications, and the service they have put in?

A.—(a) None. The post of chief inspector was abolished in consequence of the reorganisation and a new grade of inspectors on higher pay created in its stead.

18th March 1926]

(b) Six. The details connected with them are given below:—

Names.	Educational qualifications.	Service on 1st Maro. 1926.
		Years.	Months.	Days.
1. J. P. Arokiaswami	Nil.	5	6	28
2. K. Shanmugam	Secondary School-Leaving Certificate.	4	3	11
3. K. Narasimham	Do.	4	6	4
4. C. Vaidivelu	Do.	4	..	15
5. Thangavelu	Do.	1	8	22
6. S. Ratnam	Do.	2	11	20

MR. R. VEERIAN:—"Sir, may I know whether out of the six mentioned in answer to clause (b), any of them has been appointed as inspectors with higher pay, created in the place of chief inspectors?"

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—"I cannot answer that question without notice."

MR. R. VEERIAN:—"Here it is specifically mentioned with reference to clause (b) that there are already six members of the depressed classes working as inspectors who have put in a service of five years and above. May I know whether these inspectors were given promotion as inspectors on higher pay?"

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"The hon. the Minister says that he cannot answer that question without notice."

Reorganisation of the Co-operative department.

* 1610 Q.—MR. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Development and the hon. the Member for Finance be pleased to state whether the recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee were kept in mind when the new reorganization scheme of the Co-operative department in Madras was inaugurated?

A.—Yes.

Excise.

Closure and sale of toddy shops.

* 1611 Q.—MR. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to give the number of arrack and toddy shops in each district—

(1) that were closed for want of bidders at the time of auction sales last year; and

(2) that were sold privately after the auction?

A.—The Government have no information.

[18th March 1926]

Local Boards and Municipal Councils.Toll-gates between Srivilliputtur and Sattur.

* 1612 Q.—Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state whether the Government are satisfied that the three toll-gates between Srivilliputtur and Sattur in Ramnad district, a distance of twenty-five miles, are necessary?

A.—The Government have no information as to the facts of the case. Under section 111 of the Madras District Municipalities Act, 1920, and section 105 of the Madras Local Boards Act, 1920, the sanction of Government is not required to the location of toll-gates by a municipal council or a district board.

Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"May I know whether there is any limit as to the number of toll-gates within a specific distance?"

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"Before that question is answered by the hon. the Secretary of Local Self-Government, may I ask him as to whether these three toll-gates belong to three different local bodies?"

Mr. F. NOYCE:—"The rule is that toll-gates should not ordinarily be closer than twenty miles. If they are nearer than twenty miles, that is not in accordance with the rule."

Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"The difficulty in this case is there are two municipalities within a distance of twenty miles and these two municipalities have two toll-gates. In addition the district board has got a toll-gate and so there are three toll-gates. I should like to know whether no arrangement can be suggested to the municipalities and district board concerned to minimise this trouble to people?"

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"May I ask a further question on the answer given by the Secretary whether excluding these municipalities the distance of this road is thirty miles within which distance there is no other toll-gate belonging to the district board?"

Mr. F. NOYCE:—"I am afraid I have no information with regard to the question of the hon. the Raja of Ramnad. As regards the question of Mr. Chidambara Nadar, it is a matter for agreement between the local bodies concerned."

Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"I should like to know whether the Government would take some interest in this matter and ask these local bodies to devise some means by which this trouble to the people may be diminished."

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"The local bodies have the power."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"Arising from the answer of the Secretary to Local Self-Government, may I ask whether it is not permissible to open a toll-gate on a road which is less than twenty miles in length?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"As it is, the discretion is with the local bodies."

Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"It is said that the local bodies have power. The whole difficulty is that the municipality or the district board wants to have as much money as possible by means of these toll-gates. There are no means of these local bodies coming to any agreement. As I understand, there is already a rupture between the municipality and the district board."

18th March 1926]

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"The only way they can do it is by insisting upon a joint committee to consider the question."

Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"Do Government undertake to appoint such a joint committee?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"Government cannot undertake it. It is open to the local bodies to have the joint committee appointed. If the committee comes to a decision, that decision will be approved or not approved by the Local Government."

Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"Have the Government nothing to suggest then?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"There is provision in the Act for the appointment of a joint committee."

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"It is not the primary concern of the Local Government to undertake any such action."

Mr. P. K. S. A. ARUMUGA NADAR:—"Do not the municipalities contribute to the district board out of the levy of toll fees?"

Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"I want to know whether Government are going to suggest to the municipalities and district board to have such a committee?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"The question will be considered."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"May I ask whether these municipalities are not paying a share of their toll income to the district board?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"They are."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"When that is so, is the Government justified in opening additional toll-gates when they are already having a share of the toll levied for traffic on the road?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"My hon. Friend is wrong in saying that the Government propose the institution of toll-gates. It is the local bodies that institute toll-gates."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"Is not the hon. the Minister responsible to some extent for the proper administration by these local bodies?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"No doubt the Minister is responsible, but so far as the institution of toll-gates is concerned, the discretion is left to the local bodies, and the Government do not propose to fetter their discretion in such cases."

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"With reference to the undertaking given to have the matter examined with reference to the particular locality, may I request the hon. the Minister to consider the case of other localities where similar difficulties occur? For instance, in the Mettupalayam road, there are 5 or 6 toll-gates within a distance of 36 miles. I do not know why the hon. the Minister should bestow his consideration on this particular locality only."

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Because the question refers to toll-gates in a particular locality."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Is it open to the Raja of Ramnad to ask questions about toll-gates which have not been referred to in the question on the paper ?"

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" That is what I am suggesting to the Raja of Ramnad."

Absence of local board presidents from headquarters.

* 1613 Q.—Mr. K. RAGHUCHANDRA BALLAL : Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is not obligatory on the part of presidents of local boards to reside during the regime of their office at the place where their boards' offices are located save while on official tours ;

(b) if so, whether the Government are aware that the present president of the Mangalore Taluk Board in South Kanara is mostly residing at Mulki, a place about 21 miles away from Mangalore town which is the headquarters of the said board ;

(c) if so, from what funds the unnecessary postal charges, etc., incidental to his working the taluk board office in his executive capacity from such a distance are met ; and

(d) whether the Government are aware of any such instances on the part of other presidents in the Presidency ?

A.—(a) The answer is in the negative.

(b) The Government have no information.

(c) The expenditure is incidental to the taluk board administration and as such is met from the general funds of the taluk board under rule 1-B (12) of Schedule V of the Madras Local Boards Act, 1920.

(d) The Government have no information ; but it is not unlikely that there are other instances of presidents of taluk boards who do not reside at the headquarters of the boards.

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Is it not objectionable for the taluk board presidents to live outside their headquarters ? If they are still within the jurisdiction of the taluk board, does it not matter ?"

The hon. the RAJA of PANAGAL :—" As the law now stands, they can live outside the headquarters of the taluk board."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" But within the jurisdiction ?"

The hon. the RAJA of PANAGAL :—" Yes."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Is there no time limit beyond which they cannot stay out of the jurisdiction of their respective areas within a year ?"

The hon. the RAJA of PANAGAL :—" There is no time limit. When they are outside the jurisdiction, the duties are discharged by vice-president."

[18th March 1926]

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Does it follow therefore that if a president of a taluk board remains out of the district or taluk board area for nine months in the year that is not contrary to the Act, and that such a case will be looked upon with equanimity by the Minister ?"

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" That is asking for information."

The hon. the RAJA of PANAGAL :—" The question does not arise out of the answer given. Most of the taluk boards have the privilege of electing their president. If any president does it, it is open to the electorate to teach him a lesson."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" If the boards consist of elected members only ?"

Criminal Tribes.

Women and girls in the settlements of criminal tribes.

* 1614 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN : With reference to question No. 990 answered at the meeting dated 14th December 1925, will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether women and young girls also come under the expression 'criminal tribes' ;

(b) if so, how many women and young girls are in the settlements of criminal tribes that exist at present in different places ;

(c) whether there are schools for them, including their children, in all the settlements ; and

(d) whether any honorary workers are allowed to go to the settlements with a view to give moral advice to these criminal tribes regularly at a fixed time and period ?

A.—(a) Yes.

(b) The attention of the Member of the Legislative Council is invited to the statement in paragraph 48 of the Administration Report of the Labour Department for 1924-25, recorded in G.O. No. 2914, Law (General), dated 21st September 1925, which has been placed on Editors' Table. The statement gives the number of women and children in the various criminal tribes settlements on the 31st March 1925.

(c) Yes. Attention is invited to paragraph 49 of the report referred to in the answer to clause (b) above. There is a school in every settlement and attendance is compulsory on all children of school-going age.

(d) No such application has been received by the Government. If suitable honorary workers apply, the question will be examined.

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" With reference to (c), may I know whether they impart manual training in almost all schools in the criminal settlements ?"

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" I suppose so."

[18th March 1926]

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—"With reference to (d), in jails they appoint honorary workers to give moral instruction and advice, and the Collectors appoint these persons, perhaps with the permission of the Government. May I know whether there is any such provision in the case of criminal settlements?"

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"If we receive applications from the people there, they will be considered."

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—"May I know who gives information to include members belonging to a particular community under criminal tribes?"

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"The Police and the District Magistrate."

Treatment of the members of the 'criminal tribes'.

* 1615 Q.—Mr. G. RAMESWARA RAO : Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) the methods which are employed in practice to watch the registered members of the 'criminal tribes' ;

(b) whether any complaints have come to the notice of the Government as regards these methods ;

(c) whether any tahsildar and subdivisional magistrate have been consulted on these points ; and

(d) what is the number of convictions under Criminal Tribes Act in Anantapur district under each of the penal sections of the Act ?

A.—(a) The procedure for watching registered members of criminal tribes is laid down in rules 8 to 18, Part I, of the rules framed under the Criminal Tribes Act.

(b) Yes.

(c) Not by Government.

(d) The Government have no information.

Registration of persons under the Criminal Tribes Act in Anantapur district.

* 1616 Q.—Mr. G. RAMESWARA RAO : Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether persons owning lands and permanently residing in certain villages are being registered in the Anantapur district under the Criminal Tribes Act ;

(b) whether the fact that one is related to a suspect or a convict is taken as sufficient to register one under the Act irrespective of the remoteness of the relationship and the distance at which the latter resides ; and

(c) whether the age of a person and his antecedents are taken into consideration before registering a man under the Act ?

A.—(a) Yes. The test applied before registration is the same for all persons, namely, whether they are believed to be addicted to crime. Ownership of land, especially in the district of Anantapur, does not necessarily connote freedom from criminal tendencies, but where complaints have been received from persons owning land and permanently residing in villages, the District Magistrate has enquired into the reasons for their registration.

[18th March 1926]

(b) The registration of members of a criminal tribe is left to the discretion of the District Magistrate.

(c) Under rule 5 of the rules framed under the Criminal Tribes Act no child under 12 years of age should be included in the register.

Principles underlying the registering of persons under the Criminal Tribes Act.

* 1617 Q.—Mr. G. RAMESWARA RAO : Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether the case of each member to be registered under the Criminal Tribes Act is separately considered before he is registered ;

(b) what the criterion is in the case of one of good antecedents for registering, not registering, or cancelling the registration of one of the declared criminal tribe ;

(c) whether the Government considers the case of each individual, or whether the District Magistrate is the final authority in the matter ;

(d) whether any general or special directions are issued to the District Magistrate apart from the rules published in the Criminal Tribes Manual as regards the policy or principles regarding registering tribes or classes or parts of the same ; and

(e) what the criteria are for selecting a part of a class or tribe for purposes of registration under the Act ?

A.—(a) Yes. By the District Magistrate.

(b) No persons are registered unless they are believed to be addicted to the commission of crime. Registration may be cancelled if the District Magistrate is of opinion either that the registration was wrongly made or that the person registered has ceased to be addicted to the commission of crime.

(c) The District Magistrate is the final authority in matters of registration.

(d) Government have occasionally issued instructions to District Magistrates.

(e) A part of a class or tribe is notified instead of the whole tribe, if one part of a class or tribe only is addicted to the systematic commission of non-bailable offences and that part can be clearly differentiated from the rest of the class or tribe.

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"Sir, if the criterion is that the person concerned is believed to be addicted to crime, would it be right to register under this Act persons who, after they have been charged with a specific offence, are acquitted or discharged of that ?"

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"I am afraid I am unable to give a definite reply. In regard to the registering of criminal tribes, the Government register them on the advice of the Inspector-General of Police."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"There is an idea on the part of district officials that if they put up some case against a number of people and they are discharged, they can proceed to register them under the Criminal Tribes Act. That I think is a misuse of the Act."

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"No such thing is generally done unless we know that a certain class of persons are habitually addicted to crime."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"If they have not been proved to be addicted to crime by a judicial tribunal?"

Commission of offences by persons registered under the Criminal Tribes Act in Anantapur district.

* 1618 Q.—Mr. G. RAMESWARA RAO: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) the number of offences committed in each year by each of the castes or classes of persons registered under the Criminal Tribes Act in Anantapur district from 1913 till the end of 1925;

(b) whether all of them were against property or person and, if so, the details regarding the classes of offences and their nature;

(c) what the total number of offences was in each year in the same district under the same category or classification; and

(d) the number of persons of each caste convicted for offences of the class or category referred to in (b) and (c) above in the same district within each of the last five years?

A.—(a), (b), (c) & (d) The Government have no information but have called for it.

Exceptions in registering members of caste declared a criminal tribe.

* 1619 Q.—Mr. G. RAMESWARA RAO: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether he would lay on the table of this House the information promised by Sir Arthur Knapp in answer to question No. 1271 on 3rd December 1924 regarding various tribes under the Criminal Tribes Act;

(b) whether owning and possessing property is taken into consideration in registering members of a caste declared a criminal tribe;

(c) whether all of a caste are registered without exception; and

(d) if exceptions are made in practice, what are the general principles which bring a member of a tribe under the exceptions?

A.—(a) A statement^a is laid on the table.

(c) No.

(b) & (d) The registration or exemption from registration of members of a criminal tribe notified as such is left to the discretion of the District Magistrate.

Procedure for watching men registered under the Criminal Tribes Act.

* 1620 Q.—Sriman SASIBHUSHAN RATH Mahasayo: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether there is any uniform practice or procedure for watching the men registered under the Criminal Tribes Act;

^a Printed as Appendix I on pages 252-255 infra.

[18th March 1926]

(b) whether it is a fact that in certain instances village headmen are asked to keep watch over them and in other cases they are asked to appear in police stations;

(c) if so, the need for such a different treatment; and

(d) whether it is a fact that these men have to travel miles at night to appear before the Police authorities?

A.—(a) & (b) The procedure is laid down in rules 8 to 18, Part (1) of the rules framed under the Criminal Tribes Act.

(c) Under rule 8, Part (1) of the rules framed under the Act, every registered member of a criminal tribe shall report himself at the times prescribed by the District Magistrate either to the headman of the village or to such other person as the District Magistrate may direct. It will sometimes be more convenient for a registered member himself to report at a police station rather than to the village headman.

(d) The Government have no information.

Forests.

Control of certain reserved forests in South Kanara by Revenue Department.

* 1621 Q.—Mr. K. RAGHUCHANDRA BALLAL: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether a circular has been issued by the Forest Department that reserved forests of groups III and IV in South Kanara would be entrusted to village panchayats and their control to the Revenue Department from 1st July 1925;

(b) if so, whether the same have been brought into force; and

(c) what the beneficial result of the said arrangements accruing to the ryots is?

A.—(a) No.

(b) & (c) Do not arise.

Forest grievances of the ryots of Baindoor division.

* 1622 Q.—Mr. K. RAGHUCHANDRA BALLAL: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether they are aware that the people of twelve villages in the Baindoor division sent a memorial to the Government on 24th February 1924 seeking redress of forest grievances; and

(b) if so, what orders have been passed on the said memorial and how far the grievances have been redressed?

A.—(a) A memorial dated 29th April 1924 was received.

(b) The memorial was transferred to the Chief Conservator for disposal. As the Chief Conservator had already issued orders on a copy of the same petition which he had received direct, no further action was taken on the copy of the petition transferred to him. As to the concessions granted by the Chief

[18th March 1926]

Conservator on the points raised in the memorial, the hon. Member's attention is invited to the answer given to clause (2) of Legislative Council question No. 479 asked by Mr. J. A. Saldanha during the August meeting in 1924.

Removal of leaves and dry wood by ryots for fuel from the forests of South Kanara.

* 1623 Q.—MR. D. MANJAYYA HEGGADE: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether permissions were being freely granted to ryots by the District Forest officer of South Kanara to remove green leaves and dry wood and leaves for fuel from the neighbouring reserve forests, four or five years ago; and

(b) if so, whether it is a fact that ryots are not allowed the same concession at present and if the answer is in the affirmative, the reasons for the same?

A.—(a) & (b) Prior to 1922 the practice as regards the supply of green manure leaves, dry leaves and dead fuel in South Kanara was as follows:—

Green manure leaves.—The removal of green manure leaves had been completely stopped for some time before 1920. Early in 1922, portions of the local reserves were set aside to meet the demand and the right to collect the leaves was annually sold by auction.

Dry leaves.—Removal was permitted on payment.

Dead fuel.—The ryots had to get it from purchasers of fuel coupes.

In 1922, free removal of green manure leaves of unclassified species and dead fuel was permitted and early in 1924 free removal of dry leaves was also permitted. These concessions were allowed only in reserves in which the forest village system was in force. In July 1924, these concessions were allowed in all the reserves in the district and they are still in force.

Jails.

Mappilla Colonization in the Andamans.

* 1624 Q.—MR. S. SATYAMURTI: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Government have decided to stop the scheme of colonizing the Andamans with Mappillas;

(b) whether the Mappilla families already there will be repatriated; and

(c) if not, why not?

A.—(a) The hon. Member is referred to the answer to question No. 1314 given on the 9th February 1926.

(b) & (c) The Government will await the issue of final orders on the report of the deputation before taking the subject under consideration.

[18th March 1926]

The Andamans Committee.

* 1625 Q.—MR. K. UPPI SAHIB: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Andaman Committee was appointed in accordance with the Resolution of this Council;

(b) whether the members were nominated by this Government or the Government of India; and

(c) whether the Committee has submitted its report?

A.—(a) & (b) The hon. Member is referred to the answer to question No. 1314 and the supplementary questions and answers given at the meeting of the Legislative Council on 9th February 1926.

(c) The Government have no information.

Settlement of Mappilla prisoners in the Andamans.

* 1626 Q.—MR. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Home Member and the hon. the Law Member be pleased

(i) to place before this House the report of the Committee sent to the Andamans to report on the conditions of the islands in view of the projected settlement therein of Mappilla prisoners; and

(ii) to state—

(a) on whose reports the decision of Government had been formed to send the prisoners to the Andamans;

(b) for whose benefit the scheme was formed apart from the Mappilla prisoners, if it was to benefit them at all;

(c) whether Government now propose to carry out the scheme; and if so, subject to what conditions; and

(d) whether Government have decided to release any of the Mappilla prisoners and if so, how many and when?

A.—(i) The deputation to the Andamans was appointed by the Government of India and the members will submit their report to that Government.

(ii) (a) & (b) The hon. Member is referred to the supplementary answers to questions Nos. 653 and 459 given at the meeting of the Legislative Council of the 26th March 1925 and 26th August 1925 respectively.

(c) The hon. Member is referred to the answer to question No. 1314 given on 9th February 1926.

(d) No.

Land Revenue.

Alleged dismissal of one K. Gopalan Nayar.

* 1627 Q.—DIWAN BAHADUR M. KRISHNAN NAYAR: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Government have received a memorial from K. Gopalan Nayar, the late adhikari of Kodinhi amsam, Ernad taluk, Malabar district, stating the circumstances which led to his dismissal from his appointment as adhikari and praying for the cancellation of the dismissal order; and

(b) what orders the Government have passed on the memorial having regard to the peculiar circumstances of the case?

[18th March 1926]

A.—(a) Yes.

(b) The memorial is under consideration.

Allotment of house-sites for non-depressed classes in Tannirkulam village.

* 1628 Q.—MR. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that a piece of land is being parcelled out as house-sites for certain non-depressed class applicants, among whom the village karnam is one, in the village of Tannirkulam, village No. 40 of Tiruvallur taluk, Tolur post, Chingleput district, in survey No. 57 where the depressed classes have been from time immemorial enjoying the right of worship and offering sacrifices to the village goddess on periodical festival occasions;

(b) whether there are no other sites to the south of the village available for allotment for house-sites for the needy non-depressed classes; and

(c) whether the Government are aware that a petition was sent on 9th instant to the Revenue Secretary, Madras, Commissioner of Labour, Madras, and the Collector of the district, Saidapet, to look into the matter with a view to set right the defect?

A.—A letter on the subject from the hon. Member was sent to the Collector of Chingleput for disposal, and the hon. Member was informed accordingly. The Government have no further information in the matter.

Public Service.

Communal representation in the office of the Director of Industries.

* 1629 Q.—MR. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue and the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

(a) the number of Brahmans, Non-Brahman Caste Hindus, Christians, Muhammadans and depressed classes or Adi-Dravida clerks employed in the office of the Director of Industries at present;

(b) whether it is a fact that an Adi-Dravida clerk employed in the office has been given a memorandum communicating that he should appear for the Staff Selection Board examination for confirmation of his appointment either through his department or by the Staff Selection Board; and

(c) whether the operation of the Staff Selection Board is extended in the case of depressed classes and Adi-Dravidas also?

A.—(a)	Brahmans	...	...	20	Muhammadau	...	...	1
	Non-Brahman	Caste	...	5	Adi-Dravida	...	...	1
	Hindus.	...	...	...	Anglo-Indian	...	...	1
	Christians	...	...	3

(b) No written memorandum was given to the clerk but he was informed orally to that effect.

(c) Yes; it applies.

MR. R. VEERIAN:—“With reference to the answer given to clause (a) that the number of Brahmans employed in the office of the Director of Industries is 20, may I know whether these people were appointed after the communal Government Order was issued?”

[18th March 1926]

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir, T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—“It is new information which the Member asks and I want notice of the same.”

MR. R. VEERIAN:—“I put that supplementary question in anticipation of getting some definite information because I thought that the hon. Minister would have got all the information in connexion with this question from the concerned department when I put the original question.”

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—“The question which the hon. Member originally put, viz., ‘the number of Brahmans employed in the office of the Director of Industries office’ has been answered and the answer is given in clause (a) of the answer. Now the hon. Member wants to know whether these Brahmans came in after the communal Government Order was issued. That is a supplemental question which the hon. Minister says he cannot answer without notice.”

MR. R. VEERIAN:—“I was under the impression that the hon. Minister would have understood the purpose for which we put such questions.”

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—“Hon. Members and Ministers know a good deal but they do not know the minds of other hon. Members of this Council.”

MR. R. VEERIAN:—“It is only for the purpose of ventilating our grievances that the claims of a particular community alone are taken into consideration by the Government, and since the claims of the communities such as the depressed classes and others are not looked after, we put such questions here.”

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—“The intention of the Member should have been made much clearer than it is expressed in this question.”

Village Establishments.

Omission of the usual prefix of courtesy in communications to village officers.

* 1630 Q.—MR. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that in communications addressed to village officers from the office of Tahsildars as well as of Collectors the usual prefix of courtesy, such as ‘Mr.’ or ‘M.R.Ry.’ is invariably omitted; and

(b) whether in such communications even the caste appellation is usually contracted in an offensive manner, such as ‘Mudaliyar’ into ‘Mudali’ and so on?

A.—(a) In 1920 the Board of Revenue was requested to issue instructions regarding the form of communications to village officers. The Government are not aware of the instructions actually issued or of the actual practice in this matter.

(b) They have no reason to suppose that it is usual in such communications to contract caste appellations in an offensive manner. The question and answer will be communicated to the Board of Revenue.

Civil Justice.Transfer of Sarishtadars of the Collectorate and District Court, Mangalore.

* 1631 Q.—Mr. K. RAGHUCHANDRA BALLAL: Will the hon. the Law Member and the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether under the rules Sarishtadars of District Courts and Collectorates are liable to periodical transfers;

(b) whether the Government are aware that the Sarishtadars of the Collectorate and District Court at Mangalore are the natives of the place and have been for a long time occupying their respective offices at the same place; and

(c) why in spite of this fact they have not been transferred to other districts and whether their transfers are contemplated or not; if not, why?

A.—(a) Sarishtadars of District Courts.—There are no rigid rules requiring the periodical transfers of such officers. The High Court calls for reports every year regarding sarishtadars who have been for five years or more in one station and the question of transferring them is decided with reference to these reports.

Sarishtadars of Collectorates.—The term of office of Huzur Sarishtdars in Collectorates is limited to three years except in cases where the Collector for special reasons permits an extension to a total period not exceeding five years. But this rule does not prevent a Huzur Sarishtadar being transferred even earlier.

(b) Sarishtadar of District Court.—The present Sarishtadar of the District Court, South Kanara, has been Sarishtadar since the 31st July 1915. There is no information as to whether he is a native of the place.

Sarishtadar of the Collectorate.—The civil lists and the Revenue establishment lists of the South Kanara district show that the officer who held the post of Huzur Sarishtadar on 1st April 1925 (the latest date up to which the establishment lists are available) was appointed to it between April and July 1922. The Government have no information whether he is native of Mangalore.

(c) Sarishtadar of District Court.—The Sarishtadar has not been moved from his present station on grounds of administrative convenience.

Sarishtadar of the Collectorate.—The post of Huzur Sarishtadar is included in the cadre of Tahsildars, who are not ordinarily transferred outside their districts.

Criminal Justice.Release of Mr. M. P. Narayana Menon.

* 1632 Q.—Sriman SASIBHUSHAN RATH Mahasayo: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether he has received a copy of a resolution from the public of Perintalmanna to release Mr. M. P. Narayana Menon; and

(b) whether he has placed the matter before His Excellency the Governor of Madras to release the said Mr. Menon as an act of mercy?

[18th March 1926]

A.—(a) Yes.

(b) The resolution has been seen by His Excellency the Governor.

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—“Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to say whether the Government have received any memorial from any other public meeting held in Malabar and also from four European gentlemen in this city?”

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—“Government have received a number of memorials and copies of resolutions passed at public meetings. Government have not received any memorial from four European gentlemen referred to by the hon. Member but they have reason to believe that His Excellency has received one.”

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—“Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state further whether Government have any intention of granting the prayers contained in the various resolutions passed at public meetings in Malabar and also in the memorial sent to His Excellency by these four European gentlemen?”

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—“I cannot say what the intentions of the Government will be on this matter in future.”

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—“Cannot my hon. Friend the Law Member in his capacity as Law Member advise His Excellency the Governor to exercise the right of clemency vested in him?”

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—“Such an acute and constitutional lawyer as the hon. Member Mr. Krishnan Nayar must be aware that I cannot answer that question off-hand.”

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—“May I say that there is nothing objectionable either in law or practice for my hon. Friend giving an answer to this question?”

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—“The advice tendered or about to be tendered by members of this Government to His Excellency the Governor is a matter which cannot be discussed on the floor of this House, added to which the prerogative of clemency is not exercised by His Excellency but it is exercised under the Criminal Procedure Code by the Local Government.”

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—“I wish to know from my hon. Friend the Law Member, who is part of the Local Government, whether they have any intention of exercising their right of clemency in this case?”

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—“As I have already said, I do not know what the intentions of the Government will be on this matter in the future. Till now they have not moved in the matter.”

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—“I want to know whether my hon. Friend will be pleased to move in the matter hereafter?”

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—“The matter will receive consideration.”

[18th March 1926]

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS.Co-operative Societies.Resignation of honorary assistant registrars.*

1633 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

- (a) the number and names of honorary assistant registrars who have resigned their office since their appointment during their current year; and
(b) the reasons why they have resigned?

1. M.R.Ry. Sambamurthi Ayyar Avargal.	Arcoot, South ..	Inability to cope with the work.
2. Reverend J. Tomas. Lewis	Cuddapah ..	Transfer to Anantapur.
3. M.R.Ry. Narasimhadevara Satyanarayana Garu.	Godavari, East..	In his opinion the appointments of Honorary Assistant Registrars are in present conditions useless and of no advantage to the unions.
4. M.R.Ry. K. Malliah Sastri Garu.	Vizagapatam ..	Ill-health and consequent non-residence in union area.
5. M.R.Ry. T. M. Vishnu Nambisan Avargal.	Malabar ..	Ill-health and domestic difficulties.

Contributions by urban banks, etc., to local unions.

1634 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

- (a) the amount of supervision fund contributed by urban banks and other limited societies in each district to the local unions to which they are affiliated; and

- (b) the amount of rebate paid by central banks on behalf of such urban banks mentioned in (a) to the concerned local unions?

A.—(a) & (b) The Government have no information.

Avaram lease to co-operative societies on a fixed rent.

1635 Q.—Mr. G. RAMESWARA RAO: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

- (a) whether the District Co-operative Conference at Anantapur passed a resolution requesting that avaram lease may be given to co-operative societies on a fixed rent instead of by open auction;

- (b) whether the matter has been considered by the Government and if so, with what result;

- (c) whether the request would be complied with this year; and

- (d) whether any societies have been organized for gathering avaram in Anantapur district and if so, how many?

[18th March 1926]

- A.—(a), (b) & (c) No such resolution has been communicated to the Government.

- (d) The Government have no information.

Education.Training schools for teaching the deaf, dumb and blind.

1636 Q.—Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

- (a) how many schools there are to train teachers in the teaching of the deaf, dumb and the blind;

- (b) how many teachers have been trained from the beginning till now in each school;

- (c) what is the amount spent on training till now;

- (d) whether the pupil-teachers are admitted in such schools irrespective of creed; if not, what steps are being taken by the Government to seek admission for Hindu teachers in such schools; and

- (e) the names of all the teachers (men and women) so trained and the names of schools in which they are working now?

- A.—(a) Two schools for the blind, and one for the deaf and dumb, at Palamecottah.

- (b) Up till March 1924, 26 teachers had been trained in the deaf and dumb school. It is not known how many were trained during 1924-25. No teachers were admitted for training during 1925-26.

The Government have no information as regards the schools for the blind.

- (c) The grants paid to the deaf and dumb school for the training of teachers were as follows:—

Year.	Grant.
	Rs.
1918-19	2,820
1919-20	2,820
1920-21	2,820
1921-22	2,820
1922-23	2,820
1923-24	2,020

- (d) In 1923 the Government received complaints to the effect that non-Christian teachers were refused admission in the deaf and dumb school. They issued orders directing that, if non-Christian teachers were not admitted into the school for training, the grant due to the school should be reduced.

There is no information as regards the schools for the blind.

- (e) The Government have no information.

[18th March 1926]

Stipend for a pupil-teacher in the Madura Deaf and Dumb school.

1637 Q.—Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that he promised to give on behalf of the Madura Deaf and Dumb school a stipend for a pupil-teacher who underwent training at Mysore; and

(b) whether any sum was granted accordingly and, if so, what amount and how it was fixed?

A.—(a) No. At the meeting of the Legislative Council held on the 6th March 1924, it was stated that if an application for scholarship was made it would be considered.

(b) No application has been received by Government.

Local Boards and Municipal Councils.

Bills to amend the District Municipalities Act, Local Boards Act and Village Panchayats Act.

1638 Q.—Mr. G. RANESWARA RAO: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) when the Bills regarding the amendments to District Municipalities Act, Local Boards Act and Village Panchayats Act are likely to be introduced; and

(b) whether they are proposed to be merely amending Bills or consolidating Bills?

A.—(a) Bills Nos. 1 and 2 of 1926, to amend the Madras District Municipalities Act, 1920, have been published in English in the Fort St. George Gazette on the 19th January 1926 and 2nd February 1926, respectively. They will be introduced at the March meeting of the Council. The Bills to amend the Madras Local Boards Act, 1920, and the Madras Village Panchayats Act, 1920, will be introduced after due publication as early as practicable.

(b) All these Bills are amending and not consolidating Bills. The question of introducing a consolidating Bill is under consideration.

Condition of road between Lalapet and Tiruvalam toll-gate.

1639 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the 'temporary' road between the Lalapet (civil) road and Tiruvalam toll-gate is in a very bad condition and in certain places dangerous to cart-traffic;

(b) whether the ryots of the villages of Lalapet, Ekambarallur, Thakkampolaiyam, Kammanatham, Seekarajapuram, etc., have no other means of reaching Vellore and other towns in the North Arcot district from their villages except by this road; and

(c) whether the Government intend to put this road in order or whether there is any proposal to lay another road for these villages to connect them with the main road?

[18th March 1926]

A.—(a) & (b) The Government have no information.
(c) The matter is one for the local body concerned.

Removal of municipal chairmen.

1640 Q.—Rao Bahadur A. S. KRISHNA RAO PANTULU: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Government consulted (i) Collectors of districts, or (ii) municipal councils, or (iii) chairmen of municipal councils, in regard to the new provision in the draft District Municipalities Act Amendment Bill, recently published, conferring additional power on the Government and on municipal councils to remove chairmen of municipal councils;

(b) if so, which of them were consulted and what opinions they have given; and

(c) if not, why they have not been consulted?

A.—(a) No.

(b) The question does not arise.

(c) The Local and Municipal Advisory Committee was consulted. The Government considered this sufficient.

Appointment of Revenue Officers for municipalities.

1641 Q.—Rao Bahadur A. S. KRISHNA RAO PANTULU: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Government consulted (i) Collectors of districts, or (ii) municipal councils, or (iii) chairmen of municipal councils, in regard to the new provision in the draft District Municipalities Act Amendment Bill, recently published, conferring additional power on the Government and on municipal councils to appoint a Revenue Officer for each municipality;

(b) if so, which of them were consulted and what opinions they have given; and

(c) if not, why they have not been consulted?

A.—(a) No.

(b) The question does not arise.

(c) The Government did not consider it necessary. The Bill has been published for general information and it is open to the authorities mentioned in clause (c) to offer their remarks on any provisions in it.

Medical.

Muhammadan representation in Provincial Medical Service.

1642 Q.—Mr. MUHAMMAD MOOSA SAIT: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state the total number of officers in the Provincial Medical Service and the number of Muhammadans in the above cadre?

A.—According to the latest Quarterly Civil Medical list, the total number of permanent officers in the Provincial Medical Service is 216 and of these six are Muhammadans.

[18th March 1926]

Appointment of assistant and sub-assistant surgeons.

1643 Q.—Rao Bahadur A. S. KRISHNA RAO PANTULU: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether any local boards have applied for permission to appoint assistant surgeons and sub-assistant surgeons to hospitals and dispensaries other than those at taluk headquarters on a separate cadre, suitable to the districts concerned; and

(b) if so, what local boards have done so and what orders have been passed in each case?

A.—(a) Yes.

(b) First part.—The names of the district boards are (1) Malabar, (2) Kurnool, (3) Guntur, (4) Tanjore, (5) Coimbatore and (6) Nellore.

Second part.—Malabar District Board. A district cadre consisting of one assistant surgeon and twelve sub-assistant surgeons has been sanctioned.

Kurnool and Guntur District Boards.—The Presidents were informed that their proposals could not be considered unless the taluk boards concerned agreed to them.

Tanjore, Coimbatore and Nellore.—The applications are under the consideration of the Government.

Public Health.Grants to local boards for roads and water-supply.

1644 Q.—Rao Bahadur A. S. KRISHNA RAO PANTULU: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state whether the Government have made any and if so, what provision for grants to local boards for village roads and water-supply during the next year?

A.—No provision has been made in the Civil Budget Estimate for 1926-27 for either of these purposes.

Village Panchayats.Organization of village panchayats.

1645 Q.—Rao Bahadur A. S. KRISHNA RAO PANTULU: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many village panchayats were organized under the Madras Village Panchayats Act, 1920, in each district of the Presidency during each of the years 1920-21, 1921-22, 1922-23, 1923-24 and 1924-25;

(b) how many persons were appointed either as Registrars of Panchayats or as honorary organizers of the panchayats during each of the above years;

(c) how many of them were (i) presidents of local boards, (ii) other members of local boards;

(d) how many informal panchayats were organized in each district of the Presidency prior to the coming into force of the Madras Village Panchayats Act and in what years those informal panchayats were organized; and

(e) whether village panchayats under the Madras Village Panchayats Act were organized after watching the progress made in the working of the informal panchayats organized on a voluntary basis?

[18th March 1926]

A.—(a) The organization of village panchayats under the Madras Village Panchayats Act, 1920, was begun in the last quarter of 1921-22. A list^a of the panchayats constituted during each of the years 1921-22 to 1924-25 is laid on the table.

(b)	Year.	Honorary Registrars.	Honorary Organizers.
	1920-21	Nil.	Nil.
	1921-22	9	Nil.
	1922-23	6	Nil.
	1923-24	Nil.	46
	1924-25	Nil.	25

(c) All the honorary registrars were presidents of taluk boards. Twenty-six of the honorary organizers were members of local boards, of whom three were presidents of union boards.

(d) A list of the informal panchayats which were in existence in each district at the end of 1918 is laid on the table. There is no later information; nor is information available as to the year in which each informal panchayat was organized.

(e) Most of the informal panchayats established prior to the passing of the Madras Village Panchayats Act, 1920, had languished for want of statutory powers. As there was then no progress to be watched, it was unnecessary to delay the organization of statutory panchayats.

Organization of village panchayats in rural parts.

1646 Q.—Rao Bahadur A. S. KRISHNA RAO PANTULU: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether any proposals are under contemplation to organize village panchayats in the rural parts of the Presidency on a compulsory basis; and

(b) if so, what those proposals are?

A.—(a) & (b) The Government have appointed a committee to investigate the possibility of making the village panchayat the basis of local fund administration. The question whether panchayats should be organized on a voluntary basis as hitherto or whether they should be formed compulsorily for all villages will be examined by the committee.

Criminal Tribes.Strength of the Jutur mixed gang registered under the Criminal Tribes Act.

1647 Q.—Mr. G. RAMESWARA RAO: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) the strength of the Jutur mixed gang registered under the Criminal Tribes Act at the time of registration;

(b) its present strength;

(c) whether any registrations in this gang were cancelled at any time;

[18th March 1926]

- (d) whether any reports regarding all the individuals registered were received or made severally and, if so, when such report was last made;
 (e) whether it is proposed to cancel any already registered; and
 (f) the total number of convictions in this gang under each of the penal sections of the Act within the last five years?

A.—(a) Sixty-nine.

(b), (c), (e) & (f) The Government have no information but have called for it.

(d) No.

Depressed Classes.

Supply of drinking water for the depressed classes of Nunjaimakkathuvalkkai.

1648 Q.—Rao Sahib R. SRINIVASAN: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether a site in the village of Nunjaimakkathuvalkkai, near Chidambaram, has been acquired and a pond dug to provide drinking water for the depressed classes in the village; and

(b) if the answer is in the negative, what proposal the Government have to provide the depressed classes in the village with drinking water during the next summer season when the irrigation channel Khan Sahib's Canal is closed for repair?

A.—(a) Notification under section 4 (1) of the Land Acquisition Act has been issued for the acquisition of a site required for the purpose.

(b) Does not arise.

Forests.

Permission for taking green manure leaves from Palamadi reserves.

1649 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that ryots are not allowed to take green manure leaves from the Palamadi Reserve in the Vellore Range of the North Arcot district; and

(b) if so, the reason for this prohibition?

A.—(a) Yes.

(b) The hon. Member's attention is invited to paragraph 7 of the joint report of the Chief Conservator and the Director of Agriculture at page 8 of G.O. No. 1069, Development, dated 17th June 1921, placed on Editors' Table.

Land Revenue.

Assignment of certain lands in Mulluvadi and Arumbakkam villages.

1650 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that serial numbers 352, 353, 355, 356, 358, 359 and 378 in No. 125 Mulluvadi and Arumbakkam villages, in Wallajah taluk, North Arcot district, are treated as common pasture in the last resettlement of the district;

[18th March 1926]

(b) whether the Deputy Collector, Ranipet, and the previous District Collector, Mr. Molony, have held the view that the above survey numbers should be treated as common pasture;

(c) whether in 1925 certain ryots cultivated the above survey numbers and whether 'B Memos' were served on them;

(d) whether the usual procedure under these circumstances is for the Government to levy penalty from these ryots as per terms of the 'B Memos';

(e) whether in the present instance the present District Collector, in his order Dis. No. 15426/25, dated 18th December 1925, has ordered that these lands should be granted to the ryots on pattas (under sivayijama);

(f) whether it is a fact that the Revenue subordinates are actually proceeding to subdivide the lands in question with the view to assign the plots to the ryots;

(g) whether it is the fact that the ryots of the two villages, 125 Mulluvadi and Arumbakkam, have no other pasture land for their cattle except the lands mentioned in (a) above; and

(h) what objection, if any, Government have to postponing the assignment of the land pending the decision of the Board of Revenue?

A.—(a) S. Nos. 352, 353, 355, 356, 358 and 359 of Mulluvadi village were registered as grazing ground poramboke. There is no S. No. 378 in Mulluvadi and S. No. 378 in Arumbakkam was registered as patta land.

(b) The Government are not aware whether these officers held this view.

(c) & (d) The hon. Member is referred to Board's Standing Order No. 26. It is usual to report such cultivation on B Memoranda and to levy a penalty if the cultivation is considered objectionable.

(e), (f) & (g) The Government have no information on the points referred to in these questions.

(h) As the Board of Revenue has full power if it thinks fit to postpone assignment pending its decision Government do not propose to intervene in the manner suggested.

Public Service.

Clerks confirmed in the Revenue department, South Kanara.

1651 Q.—Khan Bahadur HAJI ABD-UL-LAH HAJI QASIM SAHIB Bahadur: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) the number of acting clerks who have been confirmed in the Revenue department of the South Kanara district since the receipt of G.O. No. 658, dated 15th August 1922, which contemplates appointment and promotion by selection in consideration of communal representation; and

(b) how many of them were Mappillas?

A.—(a) From the South Kanara district Revenue establishment list corrected up to 1st April 1925, it is gathered that 26 clerks have been confirmed since 15th August 1922. The Government have no further information.

(b) One.

Irrigation.Allotment for irrigation works in Anantapur district.

1652 Q.—Mr. G. RAMESWARA RAO: Will the hon. the Law Member and the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) what was the amount allotted for irrigation works in Anantapur district for (1) minor, (2) major works and (3) for any investigation;

(b) what was the amount spent on each head;

(c) what, if any, are the works for which investigation was made and with what result, how many of them are tanks and how many channels; and

(d) what the amount is which has been included in the coming budget under each of the above three heads?

A.—(a) & (b) The allotment for the current year for minor works in charge of the Revenue department was Rs. 23,000 and the expenditure up to 30th September 1925, Rs. 18,531. Figures for minor works in charge of the Public Works Department are not available separately for the Anantapur district, as it is included in the Madanapalle and Bellary Public Works Divisions. The only work in Anantapur for which capital and revenue accounts are kept is the Yellanur tank. For that the maintenance allotment for the current year is Rs. 100.

(c) No investigation of new works is being made in the current year.

(d) The amount proposed for minor works in charge of the Revenue department in the Budget Estimate for 1926-27 is Rs. 51,350. For the Yellanur tank the usual maintenance allotment of Rs. 100 is proposed.

IIDISCUSSION ON CERTAIN CONSEQUENCES OF THE WALKING OUT OF THE MEMBERS OF THE OPPOSITION

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"I have got one doubt. Some Members of this Council walked out the other day on the ground that they could not take part in the proceedings of this Council. I find that a number of questions have been entered against the names of those Members who have walked out of this Council. I wish to know, since their departure, whether they are supposed to be present in the Council or whether they have ceased to be members of this Council."

*The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"They have not ceased to be members of this Council, so their questions also have been printed. The hon. Member has been a Member of this Council for over four years and he ought to know that a question is entered in the Order Paper whether the Member who put that question is present or not."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"Such a thing has not happened all these four years, and that is why I want to know whether their questions are entered as if they are present and as if they partake in the proceedings of this Council."

18th March 1926]

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"They are still Members of this Council."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"Before we proceed further I may say one thing and that is this: if you will give us permission to move some of the motions notices of which have been given by Members not present here we shall be able to move them. You are aware of the circumstances under which this contingency has arisen in the Council and some of us did not give notice of some motions because we thought there were others who had given notice of similar motions and when they were moved we could speak upon them. I think it would be placing us at disadvantage if you absolutely refuse us permission to move such among those motions as we may desire to move, of course, with your permission. I think it is a matter entirely within your discretion, and if you are disposed to consider our requests as and when they are made, we shall be satisfied."

*The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"As was very rightly pointed out by the hon. Member from Bellary, the matter is entirely within your discretion. But it appears to me that the request made by the hon. Member from Bellary cannot be complied with for many reasons. If it were the case that hon. Members who moved a cut in concert with others had made it perfectly evident that other members withheld notices of their motions because the former had given such notices, then Mr Ranganatha Mudaliyar's argument would have been valid. But as will be seen from these notices and as indeed the practice has been all these years, each Member selects certain items of budget on which he wishes to concentrate and in regard to which he wants a discussion raised, or wishes to go into greater detail, so that I submit he gives notices of these motions in his individual capacity. I think I am right in saying—I do not want to dogmatise on this topic—that so far as the practice which has hitherto been followed is concerned, that persons who did not make themselves responsible for particular cuts have not been allowed to move them. But if more than one person had given notices of motions dealing with the same topic under one grant in order to inaugurate a discussion upon that topic, then any one of the persons giving notices of such motions may be allowed to move them. That I think is the practice still followed and I submit it is a wholesome practice."

* The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"May I ask for a piece of information? I wish to know if any of the hon. Members who have walked out of the Council did take part in the ballot in your office yesterday. I have been in the Council for the last ten years and I know that they can take part, but I only want to know whether they did take part."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"With regard to the point raised by Mr. Ranganatha Mudaliyar, I think I may repeat what I observed on the first day of the budget discussion, namely, that these motions for reductions in the budget grant are not subject to the vagaries of the ballot box, and therefore only those who choose to send notices of motions for reduction have the right to move those motions. So, while I am prepared to consider applications for permission to move ordinary resolutions which are subject to the exigencies of the ballot box, I do not see how I can permit budget motions to be moved by hon. Members on behalf of Members who are absent."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"I do not want to claim the right on behalf of others. I should very much like to claim it on my own behalf

[Mr. A. Ranganatha Mudaliyar] [18th March 1926]

I think under the rules if a motion for a grant is made by the Government, any Member here may move a reduction to it at any time. Probably the Government may ask for notice, and it is open to you to excuse the prescribed notice."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"That is a different matter altogether. Any motion which an hon. Member wants to move will be considered on its own merits. In the present case I think the hon. Member was speaking on behalf of members who are absent."

"With regard to the point raised by the Raja of Ramnad, I think the Members who have walked out of the Council still continue to be Members and as such they have the right to vote upon any matter that may come up before the Council."

* The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"I did not say that they cannot take part. I only wanted to know whether they did take part in the ballot and whether that information was available in your office. I am not asking for information as to which candidate any Member gave his vote."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"I do not really follow the difficulty felt by the hon. Member the Raja of Ramnad. Albeit some of the Members of this Council have walked out of the Council they still continue to be Members of this Council, and as such they have every right to take part in the ballot. It may be that their action is quite in consonance with the sense of propriety or it may not be, but there is nothing to prevent them from taking part in the ballot that was held yesterday. In fact they may change their minds at any moment and attend the Council at any time."

* The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"I did not say that they cannot take part. I merely asked you, Sir, to tell us whether as a matter of fact they did take part and whether your office could tell us whether they came and voted. Others may not know this but surely your office can tell us because they know each particular Member, and when a Member goes and puts his voting paper in the ballot box they can easily find out which of the hon. Members who walked out of the Council came and voted there. I fail to see how the hon. the Leader of the House said something which was not what I said."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"The information asked for by the Raja of Ramnad must be available in the office and it can be elicited by an application to the office."

III

THE FINANCE COMMITTEE.

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR:—"Sir, I beg to move that the Council do request the existing Members of the Finance Committee to continue in the exercise of their functions. As hon. Members are aware, the Finance Committee, although not like the Public Accounts Committee a Statutory Committee of this House, has a majority of Members elected by the House. There are six elected Members and three nominated Members. The main function of this Committee is to scrutinize all proposals for new expenditure and, as the Council is aware, such proposals arise mainly in connection with the budget of each year when the Finance Committee has a large volume of business to get through. That task has been accomplished, so far as the budget now before the House is concerned. There will be only one more meeting of the present Council before the election takes place and it is probable that in connexion with that meeting there will be at most one or two items to place before the Finance Committee. Following, therefore, the precedent of 1923 when the then Finance Member moved an exactly similar motion, and on the same grounds I submit this motion to the House. The sole object is to enable the Council, if it so desires, to refrain from going through the formalities of an election to very little purpose.

18th March 1926]

"I have, of course not consulted my hon. Colleagues on that Committee but I trust that, if the Council accepts this motion, they will consent to continue their services. 11-30 p.m.

"The Public Accounts Committee is to be appointed after the opening of the financial year and its work commences with the Audit and Appropriation Reports which are generally available only towards the end of the calendar year. The appointment of that Committee may, therefore, well wait until the new Council meets after the general election. For the information of hon. Members I may say that the present constitution of the Finance Committee is as follows:—

"The elected Members are

Mr. C. Ramalinga Reddi,
Mr. P. N. Marthandam Pillai,
Mr. K. Prabhakaran Tampan,
Mr. Ghouse Mian Sahib,
Mr. Muhammad Moosa Sait and Khan Bahadur P. Khalif-ul-lah Sahib Bahadur.

"The nominated Members are Diwan Bahadur K. Suryanarayanamurti Nayudu, Mr. Boag and myself."

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"I second it."

* The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"As one of the Members of the Committee, Mr. Ramalinga Reddi has accepted an office under the Government, he cannot function any longer as a Member of this Council and consequently of the Finance Committee."

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"Not an office under the Crown?"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Sir, that is a matter which requires much more elucidation. But speaking on the spur of the moment, I venture to doubt whether a person appointed under a statue like the University Act is necessarily a servant of the Crown. I do not want to express an opinion definitely now; the constituted legal advisors of the Government will have to look into the matter carefully. Now that the question is raised, I shall if necessary, look into the matter."

* The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"Yes, Sir, that requires further consideration. As regards the statement made by the hon. the Finance Member that exactly a similar motion was made by Sir Charles Todhunter three years ago for extending the term of the Finance Committee, my own recollection is that it was done for a different purpose altogether. At that time the Finance Committee itself had to attend to the Retrenchment proposals and I remember Sir Charles Todhunter saying that it would create a great confusion if that Finance Committee was not allowed to continue and finish their labours. It was for that purpose that Sir Charles Todhunter made that proposal. I fail to see the difficulty in getting another set of Members elected; because whether the old Members continue or new Members are elected all of them must vacate their seats when the Council is dissolved. I am not very particular whether the old Members continue to act or the new Members come in. I am not going to be one of the aspirants for a seat on the Committee. All the same, I think that no case has been made out for departing from the established rule. I do not oppose the motion; but I request the hon. Finance Member to reconsider the matter before he asks us to agree to the proposal."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"Sir, if I move this resolution to-day it is only to avoid a certain amount of perhaps unnecessary trouble. I thought that the Council would not wish to go through the usual formalities. As regards the grounds on which a similar motion was made in March 1923, perhaps, I might quote the words of Sir Charles Todhunter. He said

"As regards the Finance Committee there is no reason why we should not elect the Committee as usual, and I am quite ready to make a motion to that effect, if such is the wish of the House."

"My attitude also is exactly the same to-day. But he added

"It seems to be hardly worth while to do so since the amount of work that is likely to fall to be done before the election is very small."

"As regards the Retrenchment Committee which at that time happened to be the Finance Committee he merely stated

"Meanwhile I observe from questions received that hon. Members are beginning to be very critical of expenditure on committees and if we continue the Retrenchment Committee, we shall be acting in the interests of economy if we ask the same committee to deal with any questions requiring reference to the Finance Committee that arise between now and the elections."

"There is no longer a Retrenchment Committee now; but the position in respect of the Finance Committee is, I think as hon. Members will realise from the passage which I have cited, exactly the same to-day as it was when Sir Charles Todhunter moved that resolution three years ago. But, of course, if the House prefers to go through the formalities to elect a new Finance Committee, neither I nor any of my hon. Colleagues have any objection of any kind whatsoever."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"Sir, I agree with the hon. the Finance Member that the trouble is hardly worth while taking. But some provision may have to be made to fill up the vacancies caused by such of the Members of the Committee as have refused to take part in the work of the Council and walked out. But even in their case, I doubt whether anything need be done as they have reserved to themselves the right to return at any time."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"I do not think there is any such Member on the Committee, Sir. I shall read the names of the Members again for the information of the House." (Read the list again.)

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"Sir, I do not wish to oppose the motion; I am entirely in favour of it. With regard to the membership of Mr. Ramalinga Reddi, the hon. the Law Member said that he would examine the question. There is a technical difficulty. We do not know what the result of the examination will be. In order to avoid any such difficulties, can we not appoint another Member in his place? I put this question for the consideration of my hon. Friends."

[18th March 1926]

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Sir, I think I must make the position clear. I have had similar questions to deal with. Speaking off hand I may say that it is my opinion that Mr. Ramalinga Reddi does not forfeit his seat in the Council on account of his accepting the Vice-Chancellorship of the Andhra University. Not being the constituted legal adviser to the Government, I do not want, naturally, to give any final opinion in the matter. But there is another aspect of the matter which the House might consider. This Finance Committee will perhaps be called upon to function only in connection with one or two demands for additional grants or supplemental grants. It may sit for a day or two days and it is hardly worth while going through the formalities of an election."

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"I do not object to the resolution, Sir."

The question that the existing members of the Finance Committee do continue in the exercise of their functions, was put to the House and carried.

IV

MOTIONS ON THE BUDGET FOR 1926-27.

DEMAND IV—FORESTS—cont.

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"Sir, I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 1,77,600 for pay of officers be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"I wish to draw the attention of the House to the large increase in the expenditure on the various departments. The hon. the Home Member has not endeavoured to enlighten us as to the grounds of this increase. Turning to page 71 of the Civil Budget Estimate, I find that under District Establishments there is an increase from Rs. 3,67,400 to Rs. 3,73,100 in the non-voted allotment as compared with the revised estimate for 1925-26. Under the head of Regeneration again we find that the allotments have correspondingly increased from Rs. 52,900 and Rs. 61,000 to Rs. 76,800 and Rs. 83,500, respectively. The establishments in the superior and the non-voted services are gradually increasing. In page 72 we find again that there is some increase in the Deputy and Assistant Conservators, some decrease in the Rangers and the Conservators. In page 74 we find that there is a special Conservator for the work of regeneration. Under this head there is also an increase of five Deputy and Assistant Conservators. I want to know what is this regeneration. Was this not done in the past?"

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"I think the hon. Member will have an opportunity of discussing regeneration at a later stage as he has given notice of a motion on the subject."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I would just anticipate that point in order to draw the attention of the House to the excessive increase of the establishments in spite of the assurance given by the hon. the Home Member to my hon. Friend Mr. Ranganatha Mudaliyar that these forests will be handed over to the panchayats. The system of forest exploitation itself is of doubtful utility and I shall have occasion later on to speak on it. Regeneration is an old system at least so far as South Kanara is concerned. It is carried on by the District Forest officers with whose work I have been acquainted. They pay as much time to regeneration as to conservancy. When such is the case I want to know the reason why there should be an additional conservator and some more deputy and assistant conservators for this work of regeneration.

[Mr. J. A. Saldanha]

11-45 a.m. "There is a rumour in South Kanara that there is a proposal to appoint another District Forest officer. There are already two District Forest officers, one for North Mangalore and another for South Mangalore. My impression is—it is based to a great extent upon a careful watch of the work done by the officers—that two District Forest officers are too many for our district. One would be quite enough. We hear now that another officer is going to be added. The attention of the House will kindly be drawn by the hon. Member in charge as to how the establishment of the District Forest officers is to be settled for the next year, whether there will be an increase or not and if there is an increase, on what grounds it will be justified. We want to know the grounds for extraordinary expenditure on the department instead of a decrease of expenditure in view of the fact that the forest panchayat system is to be introduced. A large number of forests are going out of the control of the Forest department. The hon. Member in charge of the department has held out an assurance that on account of the forest panchayat system, there will be considerable decrease in the number of highly-paid technical men employed in the Forest department. I want to know how this assurance is going to be fulfilled and when. I think that the introduction of the forest panchayat system is based on no proper and carefully drawn-up rules. In the answer to a question of my hon. Friend to my right (Mr. Ranganatha Mudaliyar), the Government have not stated what those rules will be."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"If the hon. Member objects to my assurance I withdraw the promise made by me yesterday and would leave things as they are."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"What we want is that things should be done with a definite plan. What are the rules by which the forests are to be transferred to the management of the forest panchayats? There is no definite set of rules. Draft rules should be drawn up in the Secretariat with the aid of the Forest officers. When a large number of forests are to be handed over to the forest panchayats which will work under the control of the Revenue department, we should expect and the public would expect that a draft scheme should be placed before them. The hon. the Home Member has not taken this House into his confidence as to the system under which the forest panchayats will be created and how it will decrease expenditure. It is a source of great disappointment that there is an increase of expenditure under Forests, instead of a decrease."

"So far as the regeneration system is concerned, it is an old system under a new name. We expect a reduction of expenditure in the coming year as we have the assurance that the forest panchayat system will be carried out in its completion. I think that the hon. Member has got in his sleeves a number of arguments in support of his policy. What I am always objecting to is the manner in which the Government approach this Council. When we read Parliamentary proceedings we are accustomed to see what are called the Finance budget statements by eminent and distinguished statesmen the Chancellors of the Exchequer in England. We are accustomed to the elucidation of the policy on which the budget is based. We had the lucid explanation of the hon. the Finance Member. It is one which an able Accountant-General could have given. We expect the hon. the Finance Member or other hon. Members who are in charge of the departments to elucidate the principle . . ."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR:—"Might I point out that at the end of my budget speech I extended an invitation to all hon. Members of the Council that if there was any point in the budget which they were unable to comprehend or understand, I and Mr. Boag were at their service to give them the fullest information? The hon. Member Mr. Saldanha is evidently labouring under many misapprehensions and difficulties as regards the Forest budget. I am exceedingly sorry that he did not respond to my invitation."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"That is just the manner of asking us to approach the hon. the Finance Member or the Finance Department that I object to. We ought to be enlightened within the Council and not by seeing the Finance Secretary or the Finance Member. Would Mr. Gladstone have asked the hon. Members of the Parliament to come to his room to elucidate the budget? The Parliament would expect the Ministers to come forward on the floor of the House with a complete elucidation of the principles on which the change of policy or of figures is based. Why should we labour under any misapprehensions? What we expect is that we should not be placed under any misapprehensions and that we should be enlightened. The whole policy of this particular department is enigmatical and unintelligible. When the Forest department is changing its policy from time to time we expect that the hon. Member will enlighten us. We are not experts in forest matters. It is just for that reason I say that it is the duty of the hon. the Home Member to take us into his confidence. It is not for us to go and batter at his doors. I am very thankful to the hon. the Finance Member for his assurance that explanatory reasons will be given when supplementary grants are moved."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR:—"My offer still stands, Sir."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"But in this case we ourselves have been searching the Finance Statement . . ."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"The hon. Member might have gone to the hon. the Finance Member or the Finance Secretary."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"I do not want to do that. We have no time. Moreover we cannot disturb hon. Members when they have to attend to so many other matters. The hon. the Finance Member and the Finance Secretary are the busiest officers in the Secretariat unless the hon. the Revenue Member claims that honour. Having regard to these facts, we cannot be expected to go to their rooms and find out things. It is the bounden duty of the department to place before us the facts and the principles which underlie the increase or decrease of establishments, etc."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"I have listened to my hon. Friend carefully. He has not thrown any light by his criticisms. He attacked the Forest department, and said that the Forest department would not take him into confidence. My hon. Colleague has extended an invitation to the whole House. He said that he would take the hon. Members into his confidence and supply the information they wanted."

[Mr. Muhammad Usman Sahib] [18th March 1926]

The hon. Member (Mr. Saldanha) is now criticising my hon. Colleague for this. I cannot understand my hon. Friend's mind this morning. He has said 'what is the use of the Forest department,' 'what is the use of exploitation, why do you want' . . . ?"

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I did not say what was the use of the Forest department. I want an explanation of the figures, whether there is increase or decrease and what it is due to; what does regeneration mean?"

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"He asked us 'why do you want so many officers and so much establishment'. All these are questions which I am not prepared to answer here. My hon. Friend showed great ignorance when he said that the forest panchayats are working without any rules whatever. Surely, my hon. Friend would have seen G.O. No. 393, dated 28th February 1924, in which rules have been laid down by the Government. There is no use of passing criticisms without studying the papers on the subject. My hon. Friend said so many things, but I am not able to understand them at all. I can reply to one or two points which he raised.

"With regard to the Conservators, I may say that in the year 1921 their number was raised from four to six. But in the year 1925 the whole question was examined and one Conservator's post with his office establishment was abolished. Now we have only five Conservators.

"With regard to the question of regrouping of divisions, I have given an assurance that when the forest panchayat system is extended, we expect to save about a sum of one lakh of rupees. When that system is completed, the question of regrouping will be considered. At present we cannot reduce the number of superior officers of the department.

"With regard to the question as to why there is an increase under the non-votable item, I may say that the increase is due to the fact that, in accordance with the recommendations of the Lee Commission, the Secretary of State has re-appointed some officers to the higher grades. Therefore their pay is non-votable. Provision for four such officers has been included under the non-votable expenditure.

"My hon. Friend raised the question of the undesirability of appointing another Forest officer to South Kanara. I shall consider the question when the proposals come up before the Government.

"At the present moment I am unable to give any assurance to the House with regard to the reduction in the number of superior officers because the time is not come for regrouping the divisions. That question will be considered later on."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I wish to point out that there is not only an increase in the number of Conservators but also in the number of Deputy and Assistant Conservators from one to six in the budget estimate for 1925-26. These conservators—I think it is better to call them regenerators instead of conservators—I think it is a misnomer . . ."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"This is another question which will be discussed later on. If he waits for some time, he will get the information on the matter."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I am not going to press this motion, Sir."

The motion was, by leave of the House, withdrawn.

18th March 1926]

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"I wanted to move the reduction of Rs. 14,94,200 for pay of establishments by Rs. 100 to urge the appointment of panchayat deputy tahsildars from rangers."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"We have already passed beyond that item."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"I thought, Sir, my Friend Mr. Saldanha was speaking on motion No. 181 on the paper. I thought I could urge the consideration of the question raised in motion No. 182 on my own behalf."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Mr. Saldanha may finish the other resolution of which he has given notice."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"Sir, I move that

'the allotment of Rs. 14,94,200 for pay of establishments be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"I wish to press for the improvement of status and salary of rangers. I have already drawn the attention of the House to the fact that the number of forest rangers is proposed to be reduced from 198 to 173 and foresters from 685 to 637. It seems to me, Sir, that what we want is not so many conservators and District Forest Officers in the districts but we want more rangers. The work of the rangers is always very hard; especially in South Kanara it is beset with great impediments and dangers to life by wild animals of all sorts. We have another danger in that our forests are frequented now by elephants which did not exist before in the hills of our district. Now, considering all these dangers and discomforts to which the forest rangers are subjected, I would urge, Sir, that the number should not have been decreased. Secondly, I would urge that the pay of these officers should be increased, or that the daily allowance, travelling and other allowances that are now given to them should be increased in order to provide them with such necessities of life as are so greatly important in the South Kanara district. One who has to lead the life of a ranger has to live within his range in the jungles all through day and night. A District Conservator of Forests goes round the district with all comforts of life—most of them come and go in motor cars—and stay there for a day or two in excellent bungalows—and the Forest Department bungalows are very well known for their excellence and comforts. All these comforts are denied to the poor rangers. I therefore urge that more attention should be paid to this matter."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"Sir, I do not think my hon. Friend has made out any case for the revision of the salary of these rangers. He simply said that these rangers reside in jungles; and so more pay should be given to them. He has not however adduced any reason for his argument. Before 1921 these forest rangers were getting up to Rs. 200. I should like to mention the various grades—

	Rs.		Rs.
First grade	200	Fifth grade	100
Second grade	175	Sixth grade	80
Third grade	150	Seventh grade	60
Fourth grade	125

[Mr. Muhammad Usman Sahib] [18th March 1926]

"In 1921 the following revised scale came into force:—

	RS.		RS.
First grade	225	Fifth grade	125
Second grade	200	Sixth grade	100
Third grade	175	Seventh grade	80
Fourth grade	150

"As far as I can see, there is no point in the hon. Member's argument. There has been no discontent among the rangers. Whenever they are posted to unhealthy localities, they get some special allowance. Therefore, they are thoroughly satisfied. If my Friend says that there are unhealthy places in his district, I am sure the rangers will be given some kind of special allowance for living in unhealthy localities. Therefore, Sir, I do not see any reason why the Government should undertake to revise their salaries now."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"Sir, there was a memorial from these forest rangers a year or two ago. A copy of it was placed in my hands, but I am sorry it is not here. I do not know how far that memorial was responded to. However that is not a point, I think, on which I should say anything more, as the hon. the Home Member has promised that the South Kanara rangers will be treated with some consideration."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"Sir, I never promised that they would be shown special consideration. I said that if South Kanara is really an unhealthy place, naturally the rangers there will get a special allowance."

The motion was, by leave of the House, withdrawn.

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"Sir, in moving for the reduction of the allotment of Rs. 14,94,200 for pay of establishments by Rs. 100, I beg to urge on the consideration of the Government . . ."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"We have already come to Motion No. 183. I do not know on whose behalf the hon. Member is moving it."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"I am doing it on my own behalf, with the permission of the hon. the President."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"The hon. Member applied to me for permission to move this motion, and I asked him to request the hon. the Home Member whether he would be willing to waive notice."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"Instead of Rs. 50,000, I thought my purpose would be served by moving a token motion for reduction by Rs. 100. My reason is this: I want the Government to consider the desirability of recruiting for the office of deputy tahsildars a few people from among the class of rangers. I know, Sir, that objection might be raised on the ground that these rangers have been so long associated with the Forest department which was very unpopular with the people and that any person recruited from that department would make the system itself unpopular. Sir, if the people objected to the forest rangers, they did not object so much to the rangers as to the system under which they were then working. Now the system itself has been changed and we are allowing all these forests to be managed by panchayats and we want to appoint some officers to form panchayats and to advise the panchayats as to how these forests

"should be managed and how and at what time they should plant trees or take the necessary measures for improving the forests. Surely, Sir, some knowledge of the forests and of the working of the forests would be very desirable in the case of these officers. I do not say that the deputy tahsildars should necessarily be forest rangers, but I do want that Government should remove the ban which they seem to have now imposed, namely, that no forest ranger, however honest, good and efficient, will be eligible for appointment as a deputy tahsildar. I think justice requires that these people, many of whom may be thrown out of employment, if good and desirable, should be absorbed in the new staff created. It was with that idea, Sir, that I have taken leave of you and the hon. the Home Member to move this motion."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"Sir, this question was considered by Government on more than one occasion and Government came to the conclusion that it was better, in the interests of the forest panchayats, that these officers should be taken from the Revenue department. This question was also placed before the Forest Advisory Committee and they came to the same conclusion. Further, the Collector, were also consulted and they also said that it is better, in the interests of the panchayats, that officers belonging to the Revenue department who are in touch with the people should be appointed."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"May I know, Sir, when the Forest Advisory Committee was consulted on this matter?"

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"I am not able to give the date now, Sir."

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"I am a Member, Sir, of the Forest Advisory Committee. I may be mistaken, but I do not remember to have been consulted on this matter. I speak subject to correction. My friend Mr. Ramaswami Mudaliyar is a Member of that Committee, as also my friend Mr. Ranganatha Mudaliyar. I do not know if they were consulted . . ."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"Sir, I learn that in 1921 the question was considered by the Forest Advisory Committee."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"Mr. President, I should request the hon. the Home Member to reconsider his decision with reference to the advisability of appointing an officer from the Forest department as a special officer for forest panchayats. Last year, Sir, I raised this question in the course of a debate and the then Secretary of the Development department, Mr. Bracken, suggested that I might place the matter before the department. I remember to have written a letter both to the Chief Conservator of Forests and to the Development Secretary to consider the advisability of having a forest official who knows himself how to manage forests, how village panchayats could manage these forests, to be a forest officer and to associate as far as possible in the management of these forest panchayats members of the forest service itself, so that they may know better what to do with respect to these matters. I say that this is a very ancient opinion of the Forest Advisory Committee. The personnel has considerably changed since then, but I am not so much depending upon the personnel as upon the fact that the system of forest panchayats was not then working. In 1921, it was quite a tabula rasa and the Forest Advisory Committee, I am sure, had not the materials that we have now before us for coming to a decision in this matter. I am fairly certain that the opinion of the Forest Advisory Committee will be different if it were to be consulted at this time of the day. I would only suggest to the hon. the Home Member—I do not want him to make up his mind immediately, because he cannot do so—that the question does require reconsideration, and in any case that the present Forest Advisory Committee's opinion may be taken in this matter. As regards the special officer, it is better to take forest officers themselves as far as possible in connexion with this work, and I am sure the Chief Conservator of Forests as the head of the department cannot possibly object to his own officers, members of his service, being associated with this work, and I am also sure that the Revenue department is not over-anxious that its officers should be taken to that sort of work. I do not see any conflict of jurisdiction or opinion from either department, and, so far as I can see, non-official opinion in this matter—I have consulted some of my friends and have ascertained the opinion of others—is enormously in favour of having forest officers associated with this work.”

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—“ Sir, I am sorry that the discussion has taken a range wider than that which was intended by me. I urged, Sir, that some of the deputy tahsildars' appointments may be given to some of the rangers. I did not raise the question of the appointment of the forest officer who is a presidency officer and guides the entire policy, under the general control of the Chief Conservator of Forests. That is a bigger question, and I am not going into it. I am sure that on that point opinions are bound to differ, and I, for my part, would not agree to that question being mixed up with the appointment of these forest rangers. When the Government are laying down a policy, I do not see why they should not employ forest rangers to carry out that policy. I shall be perfectly willing, if, as suggested by the hon. Member for Chingleput, this question of appointing deputy tahsildars from among rangers is sent up to the Forest Advisory Committee for consideration and if the hon. the Home Member will consult them and take their recommendation and do whatever he thinks proper in this matter.”

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—“ Sir, all that I want to say is this. Government have to appoint a second panchayat officer. Government have already passed orders that the second officer should be recruited from the Revenue department. After the remarks made by my hon. Friend, I would like to tell him that I am prepared to consider the question when the next vacancy arises and do what I can. I may state that our object is to get the best man for the office, and if the hon. Member thinks that from the Forest department we can get proper men, I shall certainly consider the question. Of course, that would not apply to the appointment already sanctioned.”

The motion was, by leave of the House, withdrawn.

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—“ I move, Sir,

‘that the allotment of Rs. 21,22,000 for district establishments be reduced by Rs. 100.’”

[18th March 1926]

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—“ Sir, on a point of order. I thought this question had already been discussed. I thought it was the same as motion No. 169 on the agenda.”

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—“ As a matter of fact, when the discussion on this subject was going on, I considered this point and I thought that I had a right to move this motion.”

“ My hon. Friend, the hon. the Home Member, is probably referring to motion No. 181 on the notice paper. That, Sir, relates to the subordinate forest officers in general, while this motion is a special one confined to Conservators. And in any case, whether I have the right or not, I have your permission, Sir, to move it. I therefore move

‘that the allotment of Rs. 21,22,000 for district establishments be reduced by Rs. 100.’

“ My object is to suggest the desirability of reducing the number of Conservators. Till 1921, there were only four Conservators. The number was subsequently raised to six. After the report of the Retrenchment Committee the strength was reduced by one, so that the number of Conservators at present is five. This question has been before the Council on many previous occasions and arguments have been urged over and over again to show that these Conservators serve practically no useful purpose in the department. They serve as a sort of post office or as conduit pipes through which information to and from the Government passes. Therefore, I think it is not necessary to have these officers at all. At the top there is the Chief Conservator and below the Conservators at present there is a large number of Deputy and Assistant Conservators who are highly paid expert officers, clever persons who had special training, some of them in England and some in India, and they are perfectly competent to discharge the duties connected with the offices. So that there is no need whatsoever for them to send the communications through the Conservators to the Chief Conservator and there is no need again for the Chief Conservator to send his orders and opinions to these competent men, the Deputy and Assistant Conservators through the Conservators. I do not go so far as to suggest that all these Conservators may at once be abolished. It will take time and what I now urge upon the Government is to continue the policy which they themselves adopted of reducing the number of Conservators. Last year, they reduced the number by one and this year they may reduce it by another. Even then we would be having four Conservators, the strength as it was five years ago. My object therefore in making this motion is to urge the reduction in the number of Conservators at least by one.”

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—“ Sir, I am glad that my hon. Friend has said that the object of his motion is not to see that the reduction takes place immediately but that the Government should remember the request contained in the motion.”

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—“ I am afraid that my hon. Friend has misunderstood me. What I said was that I did not at once want the abolition of all these offices but that I wanted a reduction of the number at least by one.”

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—“ I am sorry, Sir, I am unable to give any such promise. At the present moment we have got five Conservators for five circles. And the question will be examined only when, as I have said, the panchayat system is completed and the regrouping of divisions is to be considered. That is the time when we shall examine the number of Conservators necessary and until then, I am sorry I am unable to give any undertaking."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" May I know when that time will come ? "

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" We hope to complete the system of panchayat management before the end of the year and I think it will not be long before this question will be taken into consideration."

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" Having regard to this statement from the hon. the Home Member that the question will be considered before the expiry of the year, I do not want to press this motion. But I wish to give the hon. Member a fair warning that if the question remains unsolved before the next budget, the motion will crop up again."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" I have only said, Sir, that the question will be examined before the end of the year."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" Sir, I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 15,000 for pay of officers for Regeneration be omitted.'

" Sir, there is a suspicion in the minds of many that what the Government have been doing is to create a new department out of an old one with a new name. This department did not exist before the 1925-26 budget. By reducing the Conservators department they have created a Regeneration staff, shifted one Conservator to this new work and added considerably to the establishment. That is a point on which we should like to be enlightened. I should like to know if regeneration is a thing different from conservation. I do not think that it is at all distinct for when a ranger or a conservator goes to a forest he looks not only to conservation but also to regeneration of the forest. Conservation requires regeneration and both go side by side. I want to know what these officers are going to do. Does it mean that one officer goes to the forests to see that they are conserved and another to see to the regeneration, to the cultivation and nurseries in the forests. These things ought to be and can be, I think, done by one officer. It is with that idea that I move for this omission."

* Mr. V. PANDRANG ROW :—" Perhaps I may explain to the hon. Member, Sir, that regeneration means working plans and the whole money shown under this head is for the working plans circle."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" That again requires explanation, Sir. What does 'working plans' mean ? "

* Mr. V. PANDRANG ROW :—" I am quite ready to explain, Sir. A working plan is a written arrangement sanctioned by a proper authority for the systematic treatment of a forest the object being to work the forest in an orderly, useful and economic manner."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" Sir, I wish to ask whether or not the Conservators of the ordinary staff were attending to this work. For aught I know, both these functions were looked after by the ordinary establishment."

18th March 1926]

* Mr. V. PANDRANG ROW :—" The work used to be done before by the ordinary establishment but it was found to have been done badly. And the Chief Conservator was of opinion that unless a new circle is formed with a Conservator in charge and a regular establishment is made to work under him, the work could not be done properly."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" What is objectionable is the creation of a number of departments where the same officers were doing the work formerly. It is only throwing dust into our eyes by saying that there is a reduction in the strength and at the same time have a new department with the officer under a changed name. The officer is now called an officer for regeneration or working plans. I do not know the reason why the present Conservators of Forests and the District Forest Officers who are doing their work very carefully and the rangers under them could not be made to do this work more efficiently. I think this is a matter for a good deal of suspicion to us that the Government are only maintaining the old state of things and encouraging the department to divide work which used to be concentrated in the same hands."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" Sir, I have given notice of a similar motion which comes a little further down in the list. With your permission, Sir, I shall speak now. I do not want to move for the omission of the total allotment for this grant. I shall confine myself to the item under discussion. I also believe, with my hon. Friend, Mr. Saldanha, that regeneration work can be done by the ordinary establishment, instead of a special Conservator with five or six Assistant Conservators specially employed for the purpose. I believe if a ranger or any subordinate officer is specially deputed in each circle for the purpose, the work could be carried on very satisfactorily. Considering the promise which the hon. Member in charge has given us that the whole question will be looked into in the near future, I do not want to press my motion, but I would request the hon. Member that this aspect of the question should receive due consideration at his hands at the time when he examines what retrenchment can be effected in the service."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" Sir, the provision of Rs. 83,500 represents the whole expenditure under regeneration of which Rs. 15,000 represents the pay of officers—voted. The provision for regeneration includes the provision for research and working plans. The increased provision made for the next year is due to the fact that working plans scheme was sanctioned only in 1925 as we were not satisfied that the special work could be done by the ordinary District Forest Officers. Accordingly a working plans circle was formed with a Conservator. A majority of the working plans already prepared left much to be desired on account of the absence of check over their work. On the recommendation therefore of the Chief Conservator the new circle has been constituted with a Conservator of Forests who has under him four All-India Service officers, four Provincial officers and 10 rangers. It was only in 1925 that the circle was sanctioned and it is now too early to say whether it has justified its existence or not."

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" I did not want to take part in the discussion on this motion. But after hearing my hon. Friend, the Home Member, I think it is necessary that I should say one word. I do not think, Sir, that any special circle or any special officer is necessary for preparing the working plans. Travancore, I may say, contains forests which are not nominal forests, but dense jungles, part of the Western Ghats. And there are immense possibilities there and the working plans are prepared there by the ordinary forest staff. It seems to me—and my hon. Friend has himself said—that this is a new experiment and it is only recently that the special officers were appointed. Working plans, I think, should be prepared by the ordinary staff. I may explain that 'working plans' briefly means this. A special area is taken, a number of trees is to be cut from that area and in order to replace these trees new trees are to be planted. That is briefly the object of the working plans. And for that, I do not think that a special staff is necessary. But if the hon. Mover of the motion is willing to withdraw, I shall not stand in the way."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"Considering the strength of public opinion on this point, if the work of regeneration had been done imperfectly in the past, the officers ought to have been told that they had not done their duty well and that is not a sufficient ground for creating a new department. If the ranger, the District Forest Officer and the Conservator neglected their duty in the past, we should not pamper them by the creation of a new department and taking the work from them. The Government ought to have reduced the pay of the officers or punished them in some other way."

"There is a strong suspicion in the public mind that this Forest Department is only continuing its old dodges of keeping up unnecessary establishments and creating new establishments without any need. And having regard to the fact that the explanation on this point is not very satisfactory, I regret that I must press this motion to a division."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"Sir, I hoped that the hon. Mover of this resolution would have accepted what seemed to be the very reasonable suggestion of my hon. Friend from Malabar that in view of what has been stated it is unnecessary to press this resolution to a division. Of course, it is very difficult to reply to or deal with the arguments of an hon. Member of this House to whom the Forest Department is merely a collection of officials who spend their time in perpetrating jobs or inventing dodges in order that extravagant and unnecessary burdens may be placed upon the public purse. Now, the Forest Department,—I am sure it does not complain on that account—has always been subjected to attack and to very rigorous scrutiny at the hands of this Council and its predecessors even before the Reforms. And I am perfectly certain that the last thing that the Forest Department or those who are responsible for it desire to do is by unnecessary proposals, or what my hon. Friend refers to as dodges, to accentuate that critical spirit with which, as I have said, this Council quite rightly views a department to which very important interests both economic and financial are entrusted. But I might, with your permission, Sir, explain to the Council why it is that these new measures and this new grouping of the activities of the Forest Department under different heads are necessary and why it is that these heads such as regeneration and exploitation have been introduced in this budget? It is not, as the hon. Member from South Kanara suggests, because Government want to conceal old offences under new terms, but because it does wish in the form of this budget to call the attention of this Council to the fact that there are very important and new developments going on in its organization and that these developments are for a definite and specific purpose. Every Member of this House is aware, and the budget we are discussing to-day shows it, that our financial position is by no means as satisfactory as we should like. We have therefore to look round and see what assets we have that are capable of development, and undoubtedly one of those assets is our forest resources. But if those resources—and the hon. Member from South Kanara is aware from his knowledge of his own district how great they are—are to be developed properly and in the most economical manner, it is essential that we should know exactly what we are going to do. It is no use turning our officers or engineers loose into our forests and telling them 'Go and make revenue out of our forests'. We have in different departments and I dare say in the Forest Department itself much experience in the past of the inevitable results of such unscientific methods of procedure. What is necessary is that first a selection should be made of those areas in which, as far as our information goes on all points bearing on the subject, exploitation is most likely to be profitable. Having selected these areas, it is essential that before we spend money on men, on plans, on roads and on buildings, that we should have a very clear idea as to whether it is going to be, commercially speaking, a paying proposition. It is in order to establish this very point that the working plan circle and its officers are employed. Personally, I may say that should proposals for setting up mills, constructing roads and all the various items necessary for exploitation be sent up to me in the Finance Department, and if I found that the question as to whether it was going to be a paying proposition or not had not been thoroughly examined, I would have no option but to turn them down, and I think that every Member of the House would agree with me that I would be justified in doing so. I hope that hon. Members will agree with me when I say that working plans are an essential part of any programme for the development and exploitation of our forests. It seems to me that the only issue which really arises is whether such plans should be made by the ordinary rangers or the district forest officers in the midst of their various other duties or should be entrusted to a special staff. As far as I am concerned, it seems to me that there can be only one answer to that question, that if you want an important work of this kind properly done it ought to be entrusted to men who give their whole time to it and who would thereby become familiarized with all those problems which must arise in the working out of any plan for the exploitation of the forest areas. There may be differences of opinion on that point, but that is the object with which this working plan circle has been created. The hon. Member from South Kanara is perfectly entitled to hold other views, but I think it is a pity that he should, without any consideration of the real facts of the case, accuse the department that those who are in charge of its administration have adopted a policy of this kind to serve some under-hand or illegitimate purpose which they wish to conceal. If they had wished to conceal anything, there need have been no reference to regeneration or exploitation in this budget. They could have resorted to any other form of presentation which would in no way distinguish between the various activities of the Forest Department."

[Mr. T. E. Moir]

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"Sir, after the clear explanation that has been given, I beg leave to withdraw the motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

[18th March 1926]

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" Sir, I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 59,400 for pay of officers under "Exploitation" be omitted.'

"Exploitation is a subject which has been very carefully elucidated by the Chief Conservator of Forests and other officials in a number of pamphlets and reports published, and I believe that articles have also been published at various times. I for one would strongly support the movement in the direction of the exploitation of our forests, especially on the west coast, but the question has been raised as to whether out of the several agencies, the private agencies could be entrusted with the work. The private agencies will be glad to undertake this exploitation themselves provided the Government do certain things which are preliminary and which are necessary for the exploitation. The other day an appeal was made by more than one Member, and I believe my hon. Friend Mr. Wood appealed to the Government to encourage private agencies for working the industries of this country. And here is a forest industry which could, I think, be entrusted to private agencies. The point was discussed at some length when a supplementary grant was asked for in regard to the saw mill at Beypore. Strong feeling was aroused at Calicut and other places against this expenditure of the Government in having a saw mill of their own where private agencies could establish and work saw mills. There are firms and individuals who can start saw mills also in South Kanara. The forests in South Kanara are much in excess and are extensive and if the Government does the preliminary work necessary, in constructing roads up to the edge of these forests, and provide such facilities, I am sure they can be relieved of the big burden of this exploitation. So far the Government have not been able to show that their schemes of forest exploitation have been profitable or paying in fact."

* Mr. V. PANDRANG ROW :—" Nilambur? "

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" We hear about a number of these schemes. Of course there might be one or two schemes which are paying but unless the Government can show that these forest exploitation schemes are started with a view to guide other private agencies to exploit these forests, not as a monopoly of Government, I think this expenditure would be in the wrong direction. Government might very well start, say, one scheme for each district to show to the people how this can be worked, and make the necessary roads, etc., because some sort of guidance on the part of the Government would be needed, as has been urged with regard to the other industries."

* Mr. V. PANDRANG ROW :—" Will the hon. Member kindly mention the private agencies which are available? "

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" I cannot mention names now, but there are private agencies which are anxious to undertake this work. There is a big company started at Bangalore. It has come to Mangalore and has already got a large number of shareholders. It is a joint-stock company started at Bangalore and it is very anxious to exploit the forests of Kanara. It is under European management, and would do all the work which the Government have undertaken. I shall place further information about the private agencies before the concerned department, if necessary. But I would only urge upon the hon. Member to bear this fact in mind, and I am sure that the hon. Member with his sympathy for Indian industries would encourage any private agency that would undertake forest exploitation on the lines laid down by the Government by starting some preliminary work of exploitation like saw mills and other things just for guidance. I hope that this would not be carried to such an extent as to interfere with the efforts of private agencies."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" Sir, the 12-45 exploitation of forests, I may say, is a new introduction to our country. P.M.
The Government think that forests have got very great future possibilities, in that they will be paying a good deal after some years. In America they have spent millions of pounds before forests began to pay. We are also spending a lot of money in this direction with the hope that after some years the forests will be a real source of revenue to Government. We have got plenty of timber in the Presidency. On account of lack of exploitation and demonstration, what happens is foreign timber is imported into the country. Exploitation work is quite new to the country and no private company has yet come forward to undertake the work. Our object is to demonstrate to the country what work in this direction could be done and how it could be done. If any private agency should come forward, I would say the object of the Government has been served. Simply because it is absolutely a new industry we have to get experts from America and after demonstrations it is hoped that the people would take up to this work. In the circumstances, the object of the Government is the same as that of the hon. Member."

The motion was not pressed and was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 70,100 for Forest College be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"My object in making this token motion is to suggest to the Government the desirability of affiliating the Forest College to the Madras University. Sir, it is now several years since the Forest College at Coimbatore was started. The time has come when the college might be run under the supervision of the University, a more competent and academical agency for the purpose. The Engineering College, the Law College, and such institutions have all been affiliated to the Madras University and I do not see any reason why the Forest College also should not be. It will certainly give a higher status and prestige to the alumnies of the college. I believe that the provisions of the Madras University Act will permit the affiliation of the Forest College. If so, I should be glad if Government takes earliest opportunity of affiliating this institution."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" The instruction given in this institution is not of such a high order as to make the University come forward and establish a new degree. All that I can say is that I am prepared to consider the suggestion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Rao Sahib R. SRINIVASAN :—" I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 31,000 for the pay of establishments be reduced by Rs. 100.'

[Mr. R. Srinivasan]

"When these forests were under the management of the Government they were considered as common to all classes including the depressed classes. Since the panchayats were created these forests are considered as the properties of the caste men and not the depressed classes. Their grievances are too numerous and of course the causes also are as many. They take advantage of these and keep out these depressed classes from these panchayats. In most of these panchayats the depressed classes are not allowed as they are considered to be incapable and untouchables. I do not want to make much of it though there is much in that. What I want to impress upon the hon. Member in charge of the portfolio is to see that the Panchayat officer goes to the village cheri and calls upon these untouchables and explains to them what the panchayat is and what benefit they could derive from them. They should be made to understand that if they have any grievance they could be redressed by a representation to the panchayats. If on the other hand the officer gets into the caste village, sends for these depressed classes men and dismissed them in a few words then any amount of representations or memorials will have no effect. The hon. Member will kindly see that the panchayat officer gets into the cheries and enquires into the grievances of the depressed classes. That is all what I want."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"With regard to the grievances mentioned by my hon. Friend I shall see that the panchayat officers bear them in mind. With regard to the fact that there has been no members of the depressed classes in the village panchayats I do not know whether it is true or not, and I shall examine the question and see what could be done."

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—"I feel I should say something in this matter. I know for certain, Sir, that whenever they form such village panchayats, no information is given to the members of the depressed classes. They send for only non-depressed classes and form the panchayat among themselves. The depressed classes have very many interests in the forests. I have travelled in many of the districts and I am quite certain that the members of the depressed classes are not represented in the village panchayats. The only thing is that the hon. Member in charge of the portfolio should change his mind. There is no use of telling for anything and everything that he would sympathetically consider the question. It is not in any way better than the parrot's reply."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Order, Order, the hon. Member must not use such contemptuous words with reference to other hon. Members of the House."

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—"I only wanted that the hon. Member should change his heart. If he does I am sure some substantial good to the depressed classes will be done. These panchayats are constituted either under the Government orders or under the rules. There should be some specific rule to give representation to the depressed classes and I hope, Sir, that the hon. Member in charge of the portfolio will see that some provisions are made in that rule so that there may be adequate representation to the depressed classes."

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"The hon. Member Mr. Veerian is not serving the cause of his community by the aggressive manner in which he sometimes speaks in this House. I have already said in reply to Mr. Srinivasan who has represented the case in such a dignified manner that I would ask the panchayat officer to enquire into the question. I am not sure whether there are members of the depressed classes in the panchayat or not. If there are no members I would certainly like to see them represented. I have already given this undertaking."

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—"It is not with the object of making any painful criticism that I gave expression to those words. I really feel that the members of the depressed classes are not represented. There are several such instances. My point is that unless there are specific provisions made in the rule there will be no substantial good and my remarks were not made with the object of criticising the hon. Member. I represent that community and I feel that remedy lay in including a specific provision in the rules so as to avoid such complaints as stated by me."

The motion was by leave of the House withdrawn.

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"Sir, I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 62,000 for panchayat officer be reduced by Rs 100.'

"I want to press on the attention of the Government the peculiar state of things in South Kanara. We are told that there is hardly any scope to increase what are called 'ryots forests'. It is said that there is hardly any forest which can be handed over to the panchayats. To a great extent this is true but there are forests which could be handed over to the panchayats, supervision being vested in the Forest Department. Complaint has been made that the rules are very indefinite and arbitrary and of a character interfering with the autonomy of a panchayat. I think they have come to the notice of the Government in connexion with the Gangolia Forest Panchayat. It has also been brought to my notice that the forest along the ghats are increasing and encroaching upon cultivable lands to such an extent that a number of villages are being depopulated and sooner or later will be entirely depopulated. It is natural to expect such a state of things. Coming to the Hospet forest which has been handed over to the panchayat one will observe that the restrictions imposed by the panchayats are so high that as a matter of fact the forests have developed to a much greater extent under the panchayat than they could have been under the Forest department itself. The Hospet forest is now infested with a number of wild animals including wild boars and monkeys which do considerable damage to the crops. The result is that the population has to move elsewhere in a state of despair and everybody will realize what is taking place. Unfortunately I had to preside over a meeting of the villagers . . ."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Why unfortunately?"

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"Because they ought to have sent the proceedings much earlier which would have facilitated the discussion here. It was left to me some months ago to do that. I then began to study this question. The subject was forced on my attention. Because I was not interested in forests and I have never studied it. A number of Members of the Legislative Council were invited to this meeting and I alone was present. So they put me in the chair with the result that I was forced to study the question. I only wanted to bring these facts and the grievances of the people to the notice of Government."

1 p.m.

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"Sir, I should like to point out to my hon. Friend, that in South Kanara we have not got the local forests which may be transferred to the panchayats, on account of the fact that the forests we have there are generally classed as first-class forests, where we have very valuable timber. There we have the panchayats under the forest village system. I find from my hon. Friend's speech that he is being troubled very much by wild boars and other animals. I am sure the Chief Conservator of Forests, who is here and has been listening to him, will go into this matter and see that those grievances are redressed."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"I beg leave to withdraw the motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. B. RAMACHANDRA REDDI:—"I move, Sir,

'that the allotment of Rs. 25,74,600 for establishments be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"My object in moving this motion is to invite the attention of the hon. the Home Member to the points I have mentioned, viz., (1) to the necessity for allowing goat-browsing in the ryots' forests, (2) to raise the one-mile boundary question, and (3) the appointment of panchayat officers."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"On a point of explanation, I may say that the last two questions have already been disposed of."

* Mr. B. RAMACHANDRA REDDI:—"That is exactly what I was going to say. Points (2) and (3) have already been disposed of, and I shall confine myself to the first point. Ever since the Forest department has taken charge of all the available forests, on account of the very hard forest rules and on account of disallowing goat-browsing in the forests, whatever might be their state whether productive or unproductive, there has been a great deterioration in the number of goats and a consequent deterioration in the condition of the ryots. In many parts goats form the wealth of the village folk, and forest rules having been very strict, they have to cut short the number of their own stock, and consequently they are getting more and more poor day by day. After the new classification of forests is made and after the panchayats are formed, I would suggest that goat-browsing may be allowed without any difficulty. The only argument against goat-browsing that has been put forward by the forest experts was that it did not allow the growth of trees to any extent. But in the forests that have been classified as ryots' forests there will be very little scope for the Government for the growing of any timber producing trees. I only suggest that in those forests which are small scrub jungles goat-browsing may be permitted with advantage to the ryot. I may further say, Sir, that the question of manure is becoming more and more difficult to the ryots in the far off villages. The deterioration in the number of goats is also the cause of the insufficiency of manure. Thus, allowing goat-browsing would to a great extent improve the condition of the ryots. So I request reconsideration of the question and a relaxation of the forest rules will go a great way to improving their condition."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"Sir, I am sorry I cannot give a favourable reply to my hon. Friend. For this question has been thoroughly examined by the Government on more than one occasion. In 1912 the Forest Committee came to the conclusion that goats should be strictly excluded from reserved forests. The Government after consulting the various experts, have come to the conclusion that goat-browsing is incompatible with any system of silviculture. Goat-browsing was tried in the Chittoor forests and afterwards it was prohibited on account of the destruction to which the forests were subject. I find at the present moment that panchayats in many districts have taken steps to exclude goats from the areas in their charge, because they find from experience that those forests are ruined on account of goat-browsing. Goat-browsing is fatal to our forest growth, and I am sorry I am not able to satisfy my hon. Friend, because the Government have examined the question and come to the conclusion that they can do nothing in the matter. The question has also been taken up by some of the panchayats, and they also strongly feel that they could not allow goats into the forests."

* Mr. B. RAMACHANDRA REDDI:—"May I ask whether wherever panchayats are willing to do so goat-browsing will be permitted in those places?"

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"That is a matter entirely for the panchayats to consider."

* Rao Sahib R. SRINIVASAN:—"Sir, goats ought to be protected just as forests are to be protected, because goats also form the wealth of our country. They should not be neglected at all. Breeding of goats is also a question to be considered."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"All I can say is that we consider forests as far more important than goats." (Laughter.)

* Rao Sahib R. SRINIVASAN:—"We want goat skins which are very valuable."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"There are other ways of feeding goats?"

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"Avenue trees on the roads are resorted to after this forest administration has come in."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Diwan Bahadur P. KESAVA PILLAI:—"Sir, I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 5,61,600 for Forests—Capital outlay charged to Revenue, be reduced by Rs. 100 (to raise a debate on the grievances of the people and the policy of levying contributions from the forest panchayats).'

"I do not know if this question has been disposed of"

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"I think this question has already been disposed of. It is the same as Motion No. 171 in which I gave an undertaking to my hon. Friend, Mr. Ranganiatha Mudaliyar, that it would be examined by the Forest Advisory Committee."

Diwan Bahadur P. KESAVA PILLAI:—"What I want to draw the hon. Member's attention to is that the amounts fixed by the department to be paid by the forest panchayats are very heavy and that they ought to be nominal, so that the spirit of co-operation in the village might be stimulated."

[Mr. P. Kesava Pillai]

As it is they strike an average for some years, and they levy so much on every panchayat. They feel it difficult to find the money; so they would not undertake the responsibility of panchayats. As a matter of fact, the hon. Member must be aware that District Forest Committees, the Collectors, the Forest Officer and the non-official Members have recommended that these panchayats should not be asked to pay more than a nominal contribution or taxation to the Government for working the forests in the interests of the people. The object of the Government is to make people take interest in forest administration and to encourage the formation of panchayats so that they may co-operate and do the work. That is the object and not to levy contributions. Now, of course, the people are free from the interferences of forest guards and others, and I believe Government contemplate to hand over all the forests except some important forests to the panchayats for administration. There are several forests which are not worth anything, as my Friend Mr. Saldanha pointed out. They only shelter wild pigs and boars, and they breed very rapidly, twice in a year, and they cause enormous damage to the crops in the surrounding villages. I hope Government will be well advised to disafforest more of those prickly-pear forests and also reduce the amount of contribution which they levy from the panchayats in order to encourage them. That is the object with which I am drawing the attention of the Government. Everybody has recommended it. I have been taking interest all along in forests, and I know the details of the administration, unlike my distinguished judge Friend, Mr. Saldanha, who comes from the top, but I come from the bottom. I have invariably taken interest in the matter, and I know there are other grievances which I want to place before my hon. Friend, the Home Member, for liberal consideration, such as not stinting the grants to panchayats for improving water sources, etc."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"As I have already said, the policy of the Government as regards scrub jungles is to hand them over to panchayats."

"With regard to the question of levying contributions, I gave an undertaking to my hon. Friend, Mr. Ranganatha Mudaliyar, that the question would be examined by the Forest Advisory Committee. After consulting them Government will come to a decision."

Diwan Bahadur P. KESAVA PILLAI:—"I hope he will also abolish the worthless scrub jungles."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"I am unable to say anything at present on the point."

Diwan Bahadur P. KESAVA PILLAI:—"I beg to withdraw the motion."

* Mr. R. SRINIVASAN:—"I think some provision may be made for goats being allowed to graze."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"That question has not been raised at all."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"I move, Sir,

'that the allotment of Rs. 45.26 lakhs for Forest be reduced by Rs. 1,000.'

"Sir, I have noted five points on which I wish to obtain information. The first point is why should there be more in non-voted and less in voted in 1926-27 than in the previous year. If you will kindly turn to 8 (a) Forests—Direction, you will find that more amount is put in in non-voted item and less amount in the voted, comparatively speaking, than in the previous years. I should like to know why such a step has been taken in the budget provision. My second point is that hitherto more attention has been paid to the protection of the forests. I am glad also to note that activity has recently been commenced on the development of commercial aspects of the forests. I welcome it and urge upon the Government to devote more attention. Thirdly, as a consequence it follows that unproductive forests should be disafforested. At present you will find a certain number of vast reserved forests which yield nothing, containing only scrub jungles with the hope that as the Forest Department say if you go on conserving it for a number of years some things might grow up which may turn out to be very useful for future generations and also bring greater rainfall to the country. We have waited and waited in vain all these years, for either the growth of anything useful or for greater rainfall in the Ceded districts. Only this much has remained, namely, the tyranny and the trouble to the people living on the skirts of these unproductive forests. I therefore strongly urge that while the department should devote more attention on the development of the commercial aspect, they should at the same time disband a number of forest subordinates and disafforest a number of useless forests. Fourthly, there should be no forest reserved within a radius of a mile of any village. The question has been dealt with by the Council. Fifthly, some time ago, there was a committee in every district of which the Collector was the chairman and they met several times and made certain recommendations regarding classification of forests and the handing over of some of them to the ryots and so forth. I wish to know what steps Government have taken with reference to this question."

[18th March 1926]

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"With regard to the first question why there should be more in non-voted and less in voted expenditure I have already answered it. The reason for the increase in the non-voted expenditure is due to the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Superior Civil Services. The Secretary of State has reappointed some members of the Indian Forest Service and their pay has become non-voted in the budget estimates for 1926-27."

* Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"May I know what the hon. the Home Member means by 'reappointed'?"

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"They were already in service."

* Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"May I say that the provincial service officers have been put on non-voted list?"

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"They have been promoted from the provincial service."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"Just as provincial service officers whose pay has become non-voted?"

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"They have been promoted to the Indian Forest Service."

Diwan Bahadur P. KESAVA PILLAI:—"So, it is not a question of re-appointing."

[18th March 1926]

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"They have been reappointed by the Secretary of State. In regard to the second question that activity should be more concentrated on development on commercial side, in the course of the discussion to-day various facts have been brought forward which go to show that Government have been devoting their attention to development on commercial basis also, and it is only about three months ago the Government established three saw mills in South Kanara, Mount Stuart and Wynad respectively. We have got a saw mill at Heypur, at Olavakode and at Russelkonda and thus we are doing all we can in the work of exploitation.

"As regards the unproductive forests being disafforested I should like to know what exactly my hon. Friend means. If he means by unproductive, unremunerative, all I can say is that forests which are working at a loss have to be maintained for climatic purposes. We cannot disafforest these forests. On the other hand, if my hon. Friend meant by unproductive, the scrub jungles, I may say that it is the policy of the Government that scrub jungles should be handed over to the panchayat management.

"With regard to the question that there should be no forest within a mile radius of any village, that has already been disposed of. With regard to the fifth point raised, namely, what has become of the reports sent by the district committees, of which the District Collectors were the Chairmen, regarding classification of forests and handing over some of them to the forest panchayats, the Government have not yet received their reports. When the reports are received the Government will consider the question."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"I am glad that the Government are taking steps to introduce new saw mills. May I know whether the Government have thought of exploiting the red saunders timber in the Cuddapah forests. Much of this timber is not being put to proper use. By way of advertisement in other countries and other ways, it must be brought to the notice of people in other places where it can be more profitably sold. I wish to know whether anything has been done in the way of finding markets for this very good and useful timber. For posts and pillars it is said to be very strong. I wish to know whether any steps have been taken to popularise the red saunders in the Cuddapah forests."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"I understand that the hon. Member has brought this question before the Forest Committee, and the Chief Conservator of Forests has been asked to report on it. When that report is received, Government will consider what steps to take."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"Sir, I request permission to move the following motion standing in the name of Mr. P. N. Marthandam Pillai, viz,

"that the allotment of Rs. 45.26 lakhs for Forests be reduced by Rs. 100."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"No. 208 on the notice paper stands in the name of Mr. Manjappa Heggade: he was not even called. It is a point which concerns our district, and naturally I am interested. It refers to the desirability of assigning arable lands in the reserved area on darkhast."

[18th March 1926]

Mr. D. MANJAYYA HEGGADE:—"Sir, I beg to move

"that the allotment of Rs. 23,400 for Capital outlay on Forests—Establishments, be reduced by Rs. 100."

"Sir, my object in pressing this motion is to bring to the notice of this House as well as the Government the innumerable difficulties the ryots living in the vicinity of reserved forests are put to. These forests exist very closely to cultivable land and the ryots suffer many hardships. Firstly, as my hon. Friend Mr. Saldanha pointed out, there is the danger of wild beasts, such as deer, bison."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"Will the hon. Member confine his remarks only to the second part of the question, namely, the desirability of assigning arable lands in the reserved area on darkhast."

Mr. D. MANJAYYA HEGGADE:—"There are so many lands within the area of the reserved forests and these can be assigned to the poor ryots on darkhast, and it will conduce to increased cultivation in rural areas. Then again, Sir, there is another point, which has been urged by so many members regarding the removal of boundary line by the side of the cultivating fields. It is true that Government, by granting these concessions, may lose a part of the reserved forests, but this may be made up by assigning portions of the lands on darkhast to the ryots."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"The course suggested by my hon. Friend has already been adopted by Government. They have passed orders that lands suitable for wet cultivation should be assigned. The order is contained in G.O. No. 53, dated 11th January 1922. According to that, 327 acres have been disafforested in South Kanara. Therefore the course of action that the hon. Member suggests now has already been taken by the Government."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"May I point out that these 327 acres from 1922 to 1925 is too small a number for handing over to the ryots for cultivation. If people are anxious to cultivate, I do not see why much more land cannot be given for cultivation. I know that forest officers consider the fostering of forests as more important than fostering the interests of humanity. That is my impression; they do not care at all for the interests of human beings. Whether malaria ravages their villages, whether wild beasts destroy and devastate their crops, that is not a matter which concerns the Government. They take no interest at all. The Revenue officers have got a dread for us as much as for the Forest officers and they do very little. I am glad this point has been pointedly brought to the notice of Government by my hon. Friend from South Kanara. Living as he does very close to the jungle he knows more than myself the condition of people living along the outskirts of the forests. With these words, I would press on the attention of Government that much more forest land should be handed over to the cultivators who desire to cultivate, and that will not only conduce to increased cultivation but also prevent unnecessary growth and the dangers to which the people are subject there."

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR:—"Sir, my hon. Friend, the Home Member, said that by a Government Order, 327 acres have been assigned for cultivation in reserved forests. I do not know the contents of that Government Order. I do not know whether it contains any qualification. If the Government Order unconditionally says that cultivable land in reserved area may be assigned to the applicants, I do not think it will be a beneficial act, so far as the Forest department is concerned. We know that in a reserved area there are swampy lands for cultivation and very fertile lands too, and it is very natural that ryots living in the vicinity of forests containing such swampy areas should be desirous of getting these for cultivation. Now, some of these patches of swampy land may be very small and others may be very extensive. I think there is considerable danger in allowing these small swampy areas to be registered for cultivation in the name of the ryots living in their vicinity.

"If, however, there are vast extensive areas containing 1,000 acres and more which are fit for cultivation, it is desirable that these lands should be assigned to ryots for cultivation. But if the area is very small it is not desirable that such lands should be given to ryots because it will not be possible for the Forest department to protect these forests. For the protection of these forests, observance of certain rules is necessary. I do not know whether this aspect of the question was carefully considered when the Government Order under reference was issued. It seems to me that there is a real danger if the Government Order does not refer to the area of the lands to be assigned to the ryots, so that they may convert them into arable lands. I hope the hon. the Home Member will bear this point in his mind and my hon. Friend Mr. Tireman . . ."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"Reference to Secretaries on the Secretaries' Bench is not in order."

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR:—"Mr. Tireman is not a Secretary."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"Any reference to any officer on the Secretaries' Bench is not in order."

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR:—"I shall shut my eyes from even seeing Mr. Tireman. I hope the Chief Conservator of Forests will bear this in mind and I am sure the hon. the Home Member will issue instructions to the Conservator of Forests with reference to this point. I think it is a very important matter."

Diwan Bahadur P. KESAVA PILLAI:—"I am really very much surprised that my hon. Friend Diwan Bahadur Krishnan Nayar, who waves a red flag of danger is asking the hon. the Home Member not to give any lands which are arable lands to the cultivator unless they are thousands of square miles in area."

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR:—"No, no. Square miles are different."

Diwan Bahadur P. KESAVA PILLAI:—"Well, thousands of acres. As a matter of fact if my hon. Friend who was for some time Diwan of Travancore were to visit some of the forests in that State . . ."

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR:—"It was only with reference to my experience as Diwan of Travancore that I made those observations."

Diwan Bahadur P. KESAVA PILLAI:—"Then he has made those observations in his capacity as an executive officer."

"Sir, coming to the point, as a matter of fact he must have seen that in most of the forests in any districts in this Presidency there are small patches of cultivable lands on which the poor villagers depend for their livelihood. If my hon. Friend, the Home Member, will give away these lands it will go a great deal to protect the poor people and in return it will also bring revenue to the State. As a matter of fact, the villagers are depending upon these lands for their very livelihood. I am simply surprised at the attitude of this ex-Diwan of Travancore who seems to be so hard against the Government Order that was issued some time ago. Perhaps the Government might have issued that Government Order in a moment of generosity. I would rather appeal to my hon. Friend the Home Member to look at the question from the point of view of the ryots; I appeal to him that the ryots are not so bad as my hon. Friend from Malabar seems to think."

[18th March 1926]

[Mr. P. Kesava Pillai]

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"In view of some of the pertinent remarks that have been made just now, I am prepared to examine the question further."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Mr. A. Ramaswami Mudaliyar stood up to move the motion standing in the name of Mr. Marthandam Pillai.

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"I am afraid I must follow the general rule that Members who could be present should be present in their places if they want to move their motions. It is only in regard to Members who are absent on account of illness or other unavoidable causes that I shall allow other Members to move."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"As I have already said, my hon. Friend Mr. Marthandam Pillai—I must make that statement in fairness to him who was present here till 1-15—was suddenly called away on account of some urgent business which he could not neglect and therefore he asked me to request for your permission to move this motion on his behalf. If permission is given I shall move it. He was one of those who did not take note of the motion standing in his name."

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU:—"The hon. Member, Mr. Marthandam Pillai, may turn up by lunch time."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"The time allowed for this demand expires by 1-40, and that is also the time before which we must rise for lunch."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"If the hon. Member wants any information I shall be happy to furnish it to him later on."

Demand No. IV that Government be granted a sum of 45.25 lakhs under Forests was put and carried and the grant was made.

The House then adjourned for lunch.

After Lunch (2-30 p.m.).

The hon. the Deputy President was in the chair.

DEMAND V—REGISTRATION.

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"Sir, on the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor I move 'that Government be granted a sum not exceeding Rs. 25.67 lakhs for Registration.'"

[18th March 1926]

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" Sir, I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 28,800 for pay of establishments be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"My object in giving notice of this motion is to discuss the policy of Government in recruiting directly from outside to the upper grades of the Registration department, and also to know the reason why the Indian Christians are not duly represented in the services. The sub-registrars have made strong representations to the Government against this direct recruitment to the upper grades. These officers have to wait for a long time before they rise to the higher grades, and it would be a heavy blow to their future prospects if Government recruit men directly to the upper grades. All of them work intelligently and satisfactorily. When this is not done in the judicial and other departments I do not see the reason why this should be done in this department alone. This sort of patronage is not conducive to the healthy development of the department. Government may, instead of recruiting two men every year, recruit only one every year or may recruit two in alternate years.

"As regards the other point, I am very reluctant to dwell at length upon it, since it is liable to be misunderstood when it comes from a Member on this side of the House who stands for equal opportunities to all communities and who does not stand for communalism. I am against communalism. But no one should be penalised simply for the reason of his belonging to a particular community. But the Indian Christians are practically penalised in this case. The hon. Minister once said that the Indian Christians were excessively represented in the department. When I asked him on what basis he made that statement he gave a very evasive reply and said that Government wanted to see that every community was adequately represented. I submit that the hon. Minister's statement about the Indian Christian community is beside the mark. In this connexion I should like to draw the attention of the House to the fact that the Indian Christian community is comparatively more educated than other communities. Among the Hindus the percentage of literacy is 8, among the Muhammadans it is 9 per cent; whereas among the Christians it is 17 per cent. In higher or English education, the percentage is 1 for the Hindus, $\frac{1}{2}$ for the Muhammadans and 5 for the Indian Christians. Having regard to these facts I think the community is entitled to at least 20 per cent of the appointments. But I do not want 20 per cent; I shall be satisfied if at least 10 per cent of the appointments are given to this community. But we have not got even 5 per cent of the appointments. From the statistics placed before the House every six months I find that the Indian Christian community has not had a proportionate increase. From 1st April 1922 to 1st April 1925 in posts on Rs. 100 and more the Brahmans have increased from 187 to 239—I hope I am not incorrect in my figures—the non-Brahmans have increased from 87 to 94 whereas the Indian Christians have increased from 18 to 19, only by one. The Muhammadan community has increased from 13 to 17. Is this what the hon. Minister calls excessive representation of the Indian Christian community? I think, Sir, that the Muhammadan representatives here will draw his attention also to this inadequate representation of their community. When there was direct recruitment last year about forty Indian Christians, most of them graduates and double graduates, applied for posts.

[Mr. J. A. Saldanha]

About twenty of them were called for and were marched before the Staff Selection Board; but not one of them was selected. Perhaps one or two of them were selected but were not appointed. Last year there was one non-Brahman and one Muhammadan. In the previous year there was one non-Brahman and one Anglo-Indian. In any case he is not an Indian Christian though it is some consolation to me that he is a Christian. For the last three years not even one Indian Christian has been appointed. I hope that the hon. Minister will look into the matter and see that the balance is restored and equal opportunities are given to all the communities. My friends here who are members of the Communal Representation Committee will agree that at least 10 per cent of the appointments should be given to the Indian Christian community. With these remarks I close my speech and I want to know what the hon. Minister has to say on the subject."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"Sir, as regards the reasons why direct recruitment is made, I may submit to the House that the Sub-Registrars become District Registrars at the fag end of their service. It requires great energy on the part of the officers to supervise the work of the newly introduced index system. Sub-Registrars rise to the position of Registrars very late in service and they usually have two or three years more to retire from service. So, they are not competent to cope with the work given them. It is therefore thought that we should introduce some fresh blood into the service and appoint properly qualified persons and those who have high family traditions and are well qualified would be able to cope with their responsible work in the course of six or seven years. They will have the energy and training to carry on the work that is demanded of them. It is for that purpose that direct recruitment is made just as it is done in many other departments of Government. The introduction of this system in the department has worked well; the people who were recruited during the last three years have been doing very excellent work and they have justified their selection.

"As regards the representation of the Indian Christian community, the subject has been interpellated several times by the hon. Member from South Kanara and he was supplied with the necessary figures. It is impossible that any communal preference can be given to any community. What ought to be done certainly is communal justice."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"That is what I want."

The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"When we have people of equal qualifications both at the time of initial recruitment and at the time of promotions, their claims have to be considered and justice has to be done to them. To demand in season and out of season and irrespective of qualifications that you have to appoint this man or that man, is unfair. You cannot pull out people who are already in service and create vacancies for the Indian Christians or any other community. You have to carry on administration on efficient lines. There should be contentment in the services so that efficiency may be maintained. Therefore it is unreasonable for any particular community to say that they should have 10 per cent or 20 per cent of the appointments. However, as desired by the Council, the question is under the consideration of a committee. A committee to consider this question was appointed by the Government and, whatever their recommendations may be, the Government will consider them very carefully. The existing Government Orders will be fully carried out. Therefore I am unable to agree with the hon. Mover that 10 or 20 per cent of the cadre of any particular department should be Indian Christians."

[Sir A. P. Patro]

Mr. ABBAS ALI KHAN :—" Sir, I support the motion of my hon. Friend. When the Registration Department and the Education Department were administered by European and Brahmau gentlemen I was glad to notice that the number of Muhammadans in the service was very great. Since the reforms when the non-Brahman party came to power, they fought on the pulpit and on the platform for communal representation and said that they were going to give representation for all communities. But what do we see here? Here is a Minister who has been in office by the popular franchise of a particular party. The Muhammadans come within the pale of the non-Brahman community. Muhammadans have fared very badly in the Registration Department. Muhammadan interests have not been protected by the hon. the Minister. I can say this much. If there is any Minister who has not the confidence of the Members it is the Minister for Education and Registration. I say with all the responsibility attached to my office on the floor of this House that if the Muhammadan community wants to detach itself from the Ministerialist party, it is on account of the tactics of the hon. the Minister for Education. Young Muhammadans who have returned from Oxford and Cambridge come forward. The hon. the Minister says that he will be doing injustice to the people in service and that he should promote men who are in permanent service. There is no other Minister who has been callous to the interests of the Muhammadans as Sir Patro. I say this with all responsibility again. When European and Brahmau gentlemen were holding this office, Muhammadans were specially treated and the percentage of appointments was high. I do not want to say more because I am excited. Excitement may bring forth acrimonious discussion. I do not want to indulge in harsh words."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" I want to say just a word about the policy of recruiting upper grade Sub-Registrars from outsiders. It is very well for the hon. the Minister to say that he is anxious to introduce fresh blood in the grade of officers. But does he contemplate the logical sequence of the policy he is pursuing? Here are officers—many of them honest and conscientious—who have done work of reliable nature, who have put in long services and who are looking forward anxiously for the time when they can reach to the top of the service. Just when there is a vacancy at the top and when probably they expect to get the appointment, he gets told of some person who may belong to a high family and who may have high family traditions—he may not show those high traditions in himself—and pitchfork him into that post. But what would be the feeling of the unfortunate man who has been denied this chance just when he was about to get it? It has naturally a very bad effect on the morale of the people. They feel that there is no inducement to work conscientiously. They say, 'Let us make hay while the sun shines. What is the good of being honest? Because honesty does not pay us in this department. We thought that it used to pay.' I beg the hon. the Minister to reconsider the policy in regard to this matter. It is not a big appointment like that of the provincial officers who are recruited from the top. It carries poor scale of pay; to bring in outsiders, and to deny the people the reward which is rightly theirs is not just. The policy should be re-examined."

[18th March 1926]

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—" I am afraid the speaker representing the Muhammadan community spoke without any information. If he had quoted any figures I would have replied him. Not having quoted any figures and relying on indefinite information, it is not worth while to reply to his observations. As we are accustomed to the hon. Member changing from time to time and from place to place, we know what value we should attach to his statements. I need not say more on that matter at present."

" The figures quoted by the hon. Member from South Kanara do not relate to the whole cadre. They relate to promotions only. Hon. Members of the House are aware that there are no promotions for officers on time-scales. There are promotions only for men in the higher ranks and in special grades. The whole strength of the Mussalman and Indian Christian officers was not given. It is therefore a misrepresentation of the figures given in the answer to the interpellation put by the hon. Member from South Kanara. To have wrong basis, to take false data and to build up arguments on them is not at all reasonable."

" As regards what the hon. Member Mr. Ranganatha Mudaliyar said, I have very great sympathy with those people who are in service. But the exigencies of the service require that we should introduce fresh blood into the service due care being given to the claims of those who have rendered good service."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" Sir, the first point of the hon. the Minister can be met in this way. For energetic work it is true that we require people who are young and who have vigour of brains as well as vigour of body. But the question is can they not be found in the department. The hon. the Minister must know that there are sub-registrars who are young, who are vigorous both in mind and body and who will do any kind of work as well as any new recruit. I wonder what the hon. the Minister means by men of family traditions. Do you want aristocrats, zamindars, rajas and maharajas in the department? I think they are generally muddle-headed. We can find better and vigorous youths."

* The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" Sir may I say that rajas and maharajas do not wish to earn the notoriety of being muddle-headed."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" With the experience of my own relations I may say that men with high family traditions are generally very weak in brains as well as in body. What I say is this. We find vigorous brains, intelligent brains and bright brains among poor classes. It is from the villages that we get recruits to our colleges and schools. My experience is that it is from the villages and poor people we get most vigorous and practised brains. If you study the university calendars you will find that the boys who pass in the Presidency ranks are not sons belonging to high families but that they come from poor families. Never mind the high traditions. But I am sure that the hon. the Minister will find men vigorous, intelligent, bright and honest in the department itself. It is a great injustice, I think, to the senior men that they should be superseded every year by men of high traditions. That is all bash. This is a new idea. I think it will bring in only men who are unfit."

[Mr. J. A. Saldanha]

"As to the other point, viz., figures, they are as follows. Among the lower subordinate grades between Rs. 35 and Rs. 100 which include sub-registrars and others the number of Brahmans was 1,400 in 1922 and 1,200 in 1925, Non-Brahmans, 800 and 966, Indian Christians, 71 and 80 and Muhammadans, 100 and 156. So far as Indian Christians are concerned the increase is not very much at all. The argument put forward by the hon. Minister is this. We must consider merit, ability and all such matters. I challenge the hon. the Minister whether he can find as many men of high qualifications in any other community as there are in the Indian Christian community. During the recent selection of the Staff Selection Board there were candidates with very high qualifications, honours graduates and brilliant candidates physically able and educationally highly qualified. In the service itself there are men with high qualifications and merit, and I wonder why the representation of my community in the service should be so low, far too low for our numerical strength among the highly educated people."

Mr. ABBAS ALI KHAN :—"The hon. Sir Patro referred to my changes from time to time and from place to place. It is not my privilege only; many eminent men of the country have done so. The hon. Minister seems to have given the go-by to the Government Order on communal representation. He says that communal claims ought not to be the only criterion for appointment in Government service; efficiency should be the criterion. He has given the go-by to that Government Order."

p.m. *The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"Sir, I must strongly object to the statement that I gave the go-by. If the hon. Member did not understand or is incapable of understanding the Government Order, I cannot help it. On the other hand, the hon. Member has changed the seat. A few months back he bestowed the highest praise on the Ministers and now he has nothing but abuses for them. The reason is self-evident and I need not comment more."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"Better avoid personal references."

*The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"What I say is that he talked without considering the matter in the least. He has not had facts before him, he has no information before him, and yet he makes allegations which he cannot prove."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"I think enough has been said. Are you pressing your motion, Mr. J. A. Saldanha?"

*Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"Yes, Sir. I have got to press it."

The motion was put to the House and lost.

*Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"Sir, the motion which stands in my name is this:

'that the allotment of Rs. 82,100 for Superintendence be reduced by Rs. 101.'

"Sir, at present one of the sub-registrars at Bellary is deputed to go once a week and do registration work in the village between 12 and 3. The results of that experiment, Sir, have been encouraging. Because about 400 documents were registered at that place last year, though the officer went there to work only once a week. Sir, another 300 or 400 documents of the villages which are served by this Kudatini temporary office are registered at Bellary itself, so that if one office is opened permanently at that village, Kudatini, there are likely to be at least 700 documents registered every year, and I think that number is a very satisfactory number to begin with and to justify the hon. the Minister in concluding that the office would be self-supporting. This arrangement would also give very great relief to the officers at Bellary who on certain days are very much overworked. I therefore suggest, Sir, that an office might be opened at Kudatini."

*The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"I will consider the suggestion made by the hon. Member and enquire whether an office could be opened in the particular place if the figures he suggested are correct and if there are sufficient number of documents to be registered at the office."

*Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"I ask for nothing more, Sir, and I withdraw my motion."

The motion was by leave of the House withdrawn.

*Mr. R. VERRIAN :—"I beg to move, Sir,

'that the allotment of Rs. 22,31,000 for Pay of Establishments be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"This is to discuss the question of not giving the same treatment to the depressed classes as to others whenever they go to registration office on business to register documents.

"I only want to point out, Sir, the way in which the members of the depressed classes are treated whenever they go on business to the registration offices. I can quote several instances, Sir, but I should like to confine myself to a very few. There is a place called Kammapuram in the South Arcot district I have seen that place. It seems the registration office is in a Government building. There are no trees even in that compound for the members of the depressed classes to take shelter and they are not allowed even to get upon the pial of that registration office. There are no verandas on all sides; but there is a small place, Sir, where the members of the other communities take shelter. They take delight in sitting on the benches placed there; but in the case of the depressed classes, they will have to go and sit outside the premises. Even in the matter of taking thumb impression, Sir, the peons are helping the non-depressed classes by touching their hands and putting them on the slate and then asking them to put their thumb impression on the documents; but in the case of the depressed classes, they used to tell them 'All right, here is the space. You had better put your thumb impression there.' Instead of putting the thumb impression, Sir, in the place where they ought to put it, they used to put it in some other place. For that, Sir, the peons used to abuse them. But what I want to point out, Sir, is that what they do in the case of the non-depressed classes they should also do in the case of the depressed classes. There is another office at Tiruppur in the Coimbatore district. There also the members of the depressed classes are not allowed to get up on the pial to take rest until they are called for the transaction of business. They will have to go and sit outside the premises. They remain there during all seasons, rainy as well as hot seasons, and the officer in charge or the other members of the staff never take care of these people with a view to help them from humanitarian point of view. What I want to point out to the hon. Minister is that he will kindly issue some effective instructions to the department so that at least hereafter due regard may be given to the Government circulars. I should also like to point out, Sir, that there should be a column, whenever they submit their periodical or annual returns to the head of the department to this effect, so that they may point out in that column whether such distinctions are made or not in the case of the depressed classes. It would be very effective. We will then come to know something actually about the depressed classes. Therefore, Sir, I think that the hon. the Minister in charge will see that a separate column is provided in the returns, to find out whether such distinctions exist or not. I think that during the time of Mr. J. Venkatanarayana, the previous Inspector-General, very strict orders were passed; but I do not think that they are being carried out strictly in all places. I hope the hon. the Minister will kindly see that some strict orders are being issued, so that the officers may give due effect to the circulars."

[Mr. R. Veerian]

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"Sir, last year a circular was issued to all the officers by the Inspector-General drawing their attention to the injustice, if any, done to the depressed classes, in not allowing them into the office premises. Again, a second reminder was sent by the Inspector-General's office drawing their attention to one or two cases when the hon. Mover has drawn my attention by means of interpellations. So, if there is any case in which injustice has been done, I should be very glad to call the officer's explanation as to why in the circumstances he has not treated the depressed classes properly."

* Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"Sir, I am not going to press the motion. But I want to say a few more words. Still that reproachful and degrading word 'Parian' has to be mentioned when the question is put as to what community they belong. I think that they take a particular delight in that question. If the reply is 'Adi-Dravida' or 'Adi-Andhra' they ask 'What community is that?' We do not understand whether there is such a community. It is very peculiar to put such questions to the depressed classes. Purposely they want the men to utter that degrading and reproachful word 'Parian'. I request the hon. the Minister to see that the officers and staff do not ask the men to utter that word: I hope the hon. Minister will find time to see to that."

The motion was by leave of the House withdrawn.

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"I beg to move my motion, viz.,

'that the allotment of Rs. 25.67 lakhs for Registration be reduced by Rs. 1,000.'

"I want to raise the question of the possibility of reducing charges for Registration; secondly to raise the question of the possibility of reducing charges for search fees; and lastly to raise the question of payment of extra allowances to Joint Sub-Registrars.

"Sir, if you will turn to page 19 of the Civil Budget Estimates, you will find that the fees for registering documents has been mounting up. According to the accounts of 1924-25, it was 30.32 lakhs. The Budget Estimate for 1925-26 was 30.9 lakhs and the Revised Estimate was 31 lakhs. The Budget Estimate for the coming year is half a lakh more, i.e., Rs. 31½ lakhs. Under 'Miscellaneous', i.e., '9. c' there are three items; one is search fees. According to the accounts of 1924-25, it was Rs. 5,46,344—I mean revenue. In the Budget Estimate for 1925-26 it was Rs. 5,75,000. The Revised Estimate for the current year is Rs. 5,80,000 and the Budget Estimate for 1926-27 is Rs. 6,15,000. So also in other receipts you find a correspondingly increasing amount, so that you find that year after year the revenue is going up under this head. Now, Sir, my submission is that registration charges have been raised in 1922, I believe, on account of the fact that there was continued deficit in the finances of our province. In addition to the increase in the charges for stamps, both judicial and non-judicial, the registration fees also have been increased. Now, Sir, you find that there is considerable relief in the matter of our provincial contribution to the central revenues and we have it now reduced by 183 lakhs. The hope was then held out that whenever our finances improved, these charges would be decreased—I mean the registration charges. We do not find any hope of relief in that direction. As regards the search fees, I submit I do not understand how the Government are entitled to claim such an enormous amount as six lakhs and odd on account of search fees. Even when I specify the year, the date of the document, the volume of the index and the page and everything, they ask for certain fees. They say: 'Just put something into my hand' and then only they begin to open the book and see it. I submit, Sir, that this is a thing which we hear of only in certain temples where as soon as we go they say 'If you want to go into it, pay me something'. It is like that. I cannot understand how the Government can get these fees from the poor people.

Very often people go to Registration offices for mortgages and for sales 3-15 and these charges are taken from them. It is high time, I think, that both p.m.
the registration charges and search fees should be reduced considerably. This reduction will relieve not the rich but the poor. If a man has to borrow he has to mortgage his land and he has to pay the additional stamp duty for the document, he has to pay the increased registration charges and of course the manuls also. They have raised the stamp duty and along with that the manuls have also suffered an increase. Of course there is not much of them now, but that is another matter. My point is that as regards search fees and registration fees it is high time that the hon. Minister should consider the question seriously of reducing the charges. He will be helping the poor and earn their deep gratitude. Let him not bring forward the wooden, unfeeling argument that these are inevitable and that the Government could not get on without these things. I request him to give us some hope of relief.

"Lastly, as regards the sub-registrars who are in the headquarters, they are made to do more work than the sub-registrars in the mufassal. In the headquarters registration office, the sub-registrar does much of the work of the registrar and the work is really very heavy. He attends to all that and I do not see any reason why some allowances in the nature of what may be called duty allowances in olden days now called special pay should not be given him and indemnify him for the extra work that he is made to do."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"Sir, I agree with the hon. Mover that there should be relief for the poor in the matter of registration or any fees charged for rendering services to them. But in this case, my hon. Friend has missed the point, namely, that the really poor are protected. The recent increase of fees has saved the poor classes of people. There has been an increase of a small per cent over documents which are above Rs. 200 and all documents between Rs. 10 and Rs. 200 remain unaffected. The old rate of fees is charged on them. In regard to the documents above Rs. 200 and below Rs. 500, and those between Rs. 500 and Rs. 1,000 there is a gradual rise. A perusal of the registration statistics will show that the bulk of the documents registered are those between Rs. 10 and Rs. 200; the higher classes of documents of higher value are comparatively small in number. The poor classes of people who go to the registration office are thus protected and there has been no change in their case. There is thus no hardship in their case whatever. The matter was recently investigated by the Inspector-General and he, the present officer and his predecessor as well, has stated after a careful examination of the situation that the enhanced registration fees relating as they do to the higher classes of documents have not affected the poor class of people. There has been no fall in the number of documents that have been presented for registration below the value of Rs. 200. The Inspector-General was also asked to examine whether the increase has affected detrimentally the number of documents registered and whether there is a consequential decrease in the number. The report shows that there has not been a fall in the number nor has there been a decrease in the fees collected. Thus, hon. Members will see that there is no case whatever made out at present for any decrease in the rate that is charged by the department. Just as hon. Members will see that if a post card is taken to the post office for registration they charge a fixed fee even so in the case of the Registration department, a fee is charged for services rendered. And that charge is quite adequate and proper and no excessive charge is levied on any document. If at any time the charge is found excessive or unnecessary, certainly it is open to urge a revision. But at present, I do not see that it is open to revision. Since I said so last year, the matter has been brought to my notice by means of an interpellation. We have had that matter also investigated and we find that there is no difficulty caused in the matter of these fees. If there has been any specific instance where it can be shown that it has caused some difficulty, I shall certainly be inclined to have the matter examined.

"Then, in regard to the question of the possibility of reducing the search fees, I should say that search fees were not enhanced at any time. The same old fees continue. When an application is made for a document, say of twelve years or when an encumbrance certificate is applied for, a charge is levied for services rendered and the same old rate continues even now. And there is no reason to say that it is excessive or falls heavily on the poor people.

"Then, as to the payment of extra allowances for the joint sub-registrars, it has been engaging our attention. Because when these people are posted to the headquarter offices, they are compelled to incur heavier expenditure than in the rural areas and that question has been brought to the notice of the Government and we are considering how best we can give relief to such people."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"My contention, Sir, is that there has been a rise in the charges levied by the Government. From the figures relating to the revenue and expenditure we find that the Government makes nearly 14 lakhs of profit out of this department. I wish to ask why the Government should make any profit and when they have a profit why should they not now reduce the charges to the normal level. The hon.

Minister says that there has been no increase in the case of documents below Rs. 200. But my point is does a man cease to be poor if he takes a document say of the value of Rs. 300. It all depends upon the necessities of each case. A man is in the opinion of the hon. Minister considered to be poor if he borrows Rs. 200. And I ask does he cease to be poor if he borrows Rs. 205 or Rs. 210. This kind of argument on the part of the Government may be justifiable from the view point of revenue and the profit made by the Government. But that is not the proper argument at all.

"As regards search fees I am not at all convinced how Government are receiving money for services rendered. What is the service rendered? When I say that the document relates to the year 1895 and give the particular date and refer to the particular volume in which it is to be found if I give all the particulars, why should they ask for a fee. Of course, when I apply for a copy of it, I pay the copying charges. Over and above that, no search fee should be charged. What do they search in this case I have mentioned. They have simply to open the book and take the page. This has been long allowed without a demur but I now raise the protest. My submission is that what they now take is out of all proportion to the services which they actually render. I think the hon. Minister will consider the matter again.

"As for the last point raised by me, I see that some sympathy is shown to these people who have to incur additional charges and do additional work. I hope that that sympathy will be translated into action soon."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT:—"Is the hon. Member withdrawing the motion?"

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"What else can I do, Sir (Laughter); because all will vote against me?"

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Mr. D. MANJAYYA HEGGADE:—"Sir, I request permission to move the motion standing in the name of my hon. Friend next to me, Mr. Raghuchandra Ballal, who desires that I should do so, as it would be convenient if the motion is made with a speech in English."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT:—"I do not think that that can be allowed especially as the hon. Member who has given notice of the motion is present. I am sure the House is prepared to listen to a Kanarese speech."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"May I suggest this, Sir? If the hon. Member, Mr. Raghuchandra Ballal, will move it in Kanarese, the other hon. Member, Mr. Heggade, can speak on it in English. In that way the ruling of the hon. the Deputy President can be conformed to."

Mr. K. RAGHUCHANDRA BALLAL, in moving for the reduction of the allotment of Rs. 25.67 lakhs for Registration by Rs. 100, said:—

"ಅಯ್ಯಾ, ರಿಜಿಸ್ಟ್ರಿ ಇಲಾಖೆ ಬಾಬು ರೂವು 25.67 ನ್ನು ರೂವು 100 ಕ್ಕೆ ತಗ್ಗಿಸಬೇಕೆಂದು ಸೂಚಿಸುವಲ್ಲಿ ನನ್ನ ಅಭಿಪ್ರಾಯವೆಂದರೆ, ರಿಜಿಸ್ಟ್ರಿ ಅಧಿಕಾರಿ ಕಛೇರಿಗಾರರ ವಾಸಸ್ಥಾನಗಳಿಗೆ ಸಂದರ್ಶನಮಾಡಿ ದಸ್ತಾವೇಜುಗಳನ್ನು ರಿಜಿಸ್ಟ್ರಿ ಮಾಡಬೇಕಾದರೆ ಈಗ ರೂವು 20ನ್ನು ಕಮ್ಮಿ ಕನ್ ಫೀಸು ವಸೂಲುಮಾಡುತ್ತಾರೆ. ಅದನ್ನು ಅರೆವಾಸಿಗೆ ತಗ್ಗಿಸಬೇಕೆಂದು ನನ್ನ ಅಭಿಪ್ರಾಯ. ರಿಜಿಸ್ಟ್ರಾರರು ವಾಸಸ್ಥಾನಗಳಿಗೆ ಹೋಗುವ ಸಂಕೇತಗಳು ಮುಖ್ಯವಾಗಿ ಕ್ಯಾಲೆಂಡರಿನ ಕಛೇರಿಗಾರರ ಬಾಬಿನಲ್ಲಿ ಮತ್ತು

p.m.

Mr. D. MANJAYYA HEGGADK :—"Sir, the chief object of this motion is to get the commission or fees charged for attendance from Rs. 20 to Rs. 10. This commission is charged on account of the visits paid by the registration officers at the residences of parties for registering documents, at the parties' request. These fees are also to be paid by persons who are by custom prohibited from appearing in public. This seriously affects especially gosha ladies who do not, by custom, appear in public; in their case it works very hard. For these reasons I support the motion."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"Sir, the fees are charged for attendance at home. If there is no requisition that the party should be attended upon at home, they need not pay the charge at all. But this charge has not been complained of up till now as being excessive or heavy. If in any particular case we find that the parties are poor though they observe gosha and are unable to pay the charge, such a case will be considered. But as a general rule, the charge cannot be reduced from Rs. 20 to Rs. 10. In particular cases we can consider the difficulty and the particular circumstances in which the people are situated, and then we may consider the question of reduction in that case. But generally it is not possible to reduce it because Rs. 20 is fixed by the department as a reasonable fee."

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"I am sorry, Sir, that the hon. the Minister says that it is not possible to reduce it to Rs. 10. Formerly it was Rs. 10, and it was only recently that it has been raised to Rs. 20. I was under the impression that it was raised to Rs. 21, but whether it is Rs. 20 or Rs. 21 it does not much matter. People in country parts really feel this a hardship, and after all, I do not know whether the amount of revenue which the Government is able to collect by way of this commission is very much. My own impression is that the amount which the Government are able to collect by way of commission, by the enhancement from Rs. 10 to Rs. 20, is certainly immaterial, whereas the hardship caused to the people is material. So I hope that my hon. Friend will consider the desirability of reducing the fee and that at a very early date to its former level."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"I feel, Sir, that the answer to this question will largely depend on what the policy of the Government is, whether they consider that the Registration Department should be made a money-making department, or whether the revenue in that department should be restricted to meet legitimate expenditure for the administration of that department. I think that Registration, and Justice should not be costly for the poor people because after all the people on whom the burden of registration falls are poor people and I think nothing should be done by the Government to make their lot worse still. I do not think the Government can legitimately make a profit of 14 lakhs out of the misery of the poor people who have to pay these high fees for registering their documents. If once the Government concede that principle, they will at once see the necessity for reduction of charges for registration. This does not seem to be a matter in which people only on one side or the other are concerned. If we read the paper before us, we find that hon. Member from all sides of the House have given notice of motions urging reduction in the registration charges. And I think, Sir, that the hon. the Minister for Registration also in the days when he was less trammelled by office than he is now, perhaps entertained similar sentiments in regard to this matter, and I only wish that he will remember those days, as the facts existing then are equally true to-day, and see if he cannot reduce the charges for registration including the charges levied for attendance at houses for registration to something reasonable."

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—"Sir, I thought the argument that money should not be made out of the service-rendering departments was effectively answered the other day by the hon. the Finance Member when he pointed out that there was as much as about 70 lakhs of deficit for this year, and if department after department is attacked in this manner by saying 'You are making so much money out of this service, which you should not', and so on."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"I did not refer to all departments, Sir. I said that 'Justice', 'Registration' these should not be made the means of making money."

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—"That is no doubt true, Sir, but if we exclude Land Revenue and Excise--and my hon. Friends on the other side, I suppose, would very much like the Excise revenue wiped out--(A voice: 'Some on your side also'), then, where is the department which will yield the revenue necessary to meet the expenditure of the State? Now, Sir, there are three or four departments which can be said to bring in large sums of revenue and if revenues from all these departments cannot be scraped and put into other departments which do not bring in any revenue at all, such as the Department of Education, where will the money be coming from to meet the expenses of these departments? I can very well understand so far as the present point is concerned, the request for reduction of the fee levied for attendance at parties' houses for registering documents. Cases may arise, for instance, cases in which women are concerned, in which this may prove a hardship, and among women there may be gosha women also. If for such a reason these people are to be allowed some redress, and if the fee is to be reduced to Rs. 10 in their case, one can understand it to be a necessary argument to which the Government may be expected to give a sympathetic reply. But to put it on a broad basis and say that the Government cannot make any money out of these departments such as Justice, etc., is a thing which will one day launch us into a much more serious deficit budget than the one we have got now. Money has to be obtained for the expenditure of the State and if hon. Members are prepared to show a source from which these deficits are to be met (Rai Bahadur T. M. Narasimhaiah: 'Yes, I shall show'),--and this item of 14 lakhs is not a small sum--then that would be more practical. They will have to show some other source from which they can meet the deficit. Until this is done, I do not think it is right for hon. Members to put forward this argument. As I said, I would, however, appeal to the hon. Minister to see his way if it is possible, to reduce the fees levied for attendance at parties' houses in particular cases, not in all cases because able-bodied men can certainly go to the office and they cannot plead inability to come, and men who execute wills in their last days can pay Rs. 20 for the attendance. But I do recognize that cases are existing in which poor women owing to social conditions cannot go to the registration offices. In such cases the point raised by my hon. Friend from Malabar is certainly reasonable, and I hope that some sympathetic reply would be given on that point."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"Sir, the hon. the Minister says that in particular cases the question of reduction will be considered. Are we to understand that for every particular case application must come to the Government and the Government will sanction it, or are we to understand that certain discretion is to be given to the Registrars and sub-registrars in exercise of which they may forego a portion of the fees now collected? That is the point which I desire to be cleared up. If it is intended that in every particular case the application must come to the Government and the Government must give sanction, I submit he would be prescribing an impossible condition. If discretion is allowed to the officers, I submit it is something, but it very often happens that the discretion is exercised more in favour of the Government than otherwise. As regards the other question which the hon. Member, Sir K. Venkatarreddi Nayudu Garu, raised he seems to be a special champion to-day for the Finance Department."

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—"I have always been one, Sir, if you will excuse my saying so."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"Anyhow, Sir, the elections are coming, please do not be so loud." (Laughter.)

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—"I am not so much afraid of the elections, Sir, as he seems to be."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"I desire that the hon. Member should be returned and therefore gave that advice." (Laughter.)

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—"I thank the hon. Member for his kindness but he need not entertain any apprehensions on my account."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"I am very glad to be told like that, Sir. The hon. Member told us that there is a deficit in spite of the relief from contributions, and asked 'How are we to meet the deficit unless we pool all these extras and make them available for expenditure of the State?' Well, here is the answer to it. If we turn to the budget memorandum prepared by the Finance Secretary, page 83, appendix 3, it contains a number of schemes to be met from current revenues. From page 83 to page 117 it extends, and there are 315 such schemes. The provision for 1926-27, recurring, is 11,32,620; non-recurring expenditure is 61,22,380 the total comes to 72.55 lakhs. Well, Sir, if there is really a deficit, why make provision for all these schemes? Now what are all these schemes? Most of them are buildings, officer's quarters and so on. Cannot these buildings wait for one year? I submit, Sir, this budget is prepared very cleverly in order to arrive at a deficit so as to tell the India Government that unless they give relief from contribution there is no chance for our province. Now, please go through these 315 new schemes which are to be introduced next year at an expenditure of Rs. 72.55 lakhs. Even if you cut off half of it, there is still 36 lakhs left, and we will be in the plus. Therefore when we can really be in the plus when we can avoid so many buildings, and we can save so much money, why do you want to take money from the poor people, and then say we are really in a deficit and we must cover it? Perhaps the hon. the ex-Minister does not want to go into these things and see for himself whether it is not possible to avoid the deficit."

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—"May I just make a personal explanation, Sir? I understood that expenditure mentioned by him to mean certain services rendered to the people, certain works intended for the purpose of making progress in certain directions. Perhaps what the hon. Member from Cuddapah means to say is that he would have no progress at all but would be satisfied with the present state of things."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"That is not a personal explanation."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"I would request my Friend, my hon. and Learned Friend, to go through these things, and if he does so, he will find that these schemes consist of quarters for forest officers, loading platform and crane at Dignvamma, acquisition and extension of telephone lines in the Anamalais, etc."

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—"That is a service, Sir."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"Every thing is a service from his point of view. Most of these schemes are of buildings and if these buildings are put off for one year, there will be really no deficit at all. So, I submit the argument that is now advanced on behalf of the Government as if the Government are wanting in resources in respect of arguments I submit, Sir, is not correct. It is not doing the right thing by the people who have sent us here. So, I submit that this department need not make so much profit out of the poor."

Mr. K. Raghuchandra Ballal requested (in Kannarese) permission to withdraw the motion, and the motion was by leave withdrawn.

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"If he had told us before this, we would have saved so much trouble."

The Demand for Registration was then put and carried and the Grant was made.

DEMAND VI—IRRIGATION CIVIL—OFFICERS.

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"Mr. President, Sir, on the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor, I move

'that Government be granted a sum not exceeding Rs. 14.36 lakhs under the head Irrigation—Civil Officers.'

* Rao Sahib R. SRINIVASAN :—"Sir, I beg to move—

'that the allotment of Rs. 2,23,800 for Minor Irrigation—Establishment be reduced by Rs. 10.'

"My object is to discuss the grievances of the lease-holders and peasant labourers holding small plots of land. Especially these depressed classes who own small plots of land, find much difficulty in getting water for irrigating them. There are several instances of this hardship, but I shall only mention just one or two. At Krishnapuram near Chidambaram, the Adi-Dravidas or depressed classes have got lands, each owning ten acres or five acres, and those lands were irrigated for thirty years, and in all records it was noted that irrigation should be effected through a certain kanni. But the caste villagers were jealous of it and so they came and closed this kanni, and then there came litigation.

"After a long trouble they went to the revenue divisional officer who ordered to close the kanni and then ordered the engineer not to allow them. I had to go to the Collector and explain these things. Then he called for the records and issued orders. Then, Sir, where is the remedy for these people? Moreover, there is another way in which these poor people are being harassed and that is by dragging them to the civil courts. I do not know if Government can find some means to relieve these people. Because the castemen are wealthy people and these men are poor, they could not meet them on the same level. In a particular village the castemen have collected Rs. 5,000 to put these people to some trouble or other and take away the land from them. In every village the peasant labourers have some grievance or other and I think the Government must find some means to relieve the trouble of these agriculturists."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"Mr. President, Sir, the hon. Mover has nothing to complain of in regard to the proposal to repair the irrigation works. He instances cases where poor people have been oppressed by their neighbours. He asks Government to take some means of preventing it. Well, one of the means, Sir, that has been taken is to have representatives of such people in this Council and the very case the hon. Member told us clearly shows that his intervention had the desired effect and resulted in justice being done to these poor people. As it becomes known that they are not unchampioned and that there are people who will bring cases of oppression to notice and so long as our officers do justice I feel sure that the grievances will diminish and people will realize that they have able and excellent advocates such as the hon. Member who has spoken."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. K. SITARAMA REDDI :—"Sir, I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 14.36 lakhs for Irrigation—Civil Officers be reduced by Re. 1.'

"My object in tabling this motion is not in the least to suggest that any reduction should be made under this item but to suggest certain ways and means by which these works could be carried out. All the members of this House must be really glad to find that a sum of nearly 3½ lakhs has been provided extra this year for this kind of works. But a reference to page 85 of the Civil Budget Estimate shows that for the year 1924-25 actuals for maintenance and repairs were Rs. 5,70,000 and the establishment charges came to Rs. 2,19,000, thereby working up nearly to 35 per cent. Taking again the revised budget estimate for the current year we find for a proposed expenditure of nearly 8 lakhs the establishment has been provided for to the extent of 2 lakhs thereby coming to nearly 25 per cent of the whole expenditure. It is probable that before the closing of the year they may not be able to spend the whole of the allotment and then the establishment will work more than 25 per cent. What I wanted to suggest by tabling this motion was that there are officers of other departments who are traversing the same area as these minor irrigation officers. For instance take the Public Works Department. There are expert officers of that department who can be entrusted with this work. If any suggestion is thrown out that they are already overworked, I may say that there is the Local Fund department. As President of the South Arcot District Board I can say this with some authority. The Engineering department can spend this amount probably more usefully than the Minor Irrigation department is now doing. This question, I understand, has long been agitated upon and I do not see why Government do not give heed to the proposal."

[Mr. K. Sitarama Reddi]

* Mr. B. RAMACHANDRA REDDI :—"Mr. President, Sir, I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 14.36 lakhs for Irrigation—Civil Officers be reduced by Rs. 1,000.'

"I wish to point out that the vast area of land which constitutes the Nellore district is not adequately provided with irrigation facilities. I would like to take another opportunity of discussing the matter with regard to the bigger schemes and comprehensive projects. I will now confine myself to the existing minor irrigation tanks which have been neglected for decades by the Government. Many of the minor irrigation tanks have been neglected. Some of them have been encroached upon by the Forest department and the existing ones are not properly supplied with water. I would like to invite the attention of the Government to the condition of certain tanks the water-supply for which is inadequate. If only some care is taken by the Government, the advantages will be enhanced both to the ryots and to the Government. For example, Sir, in Kandukur taluk there is a long chain of tanks—Bitragunta, Somarazupalli Raju cheruvu, Somarazupalli Marri-cheruvu, Somarazupalli Kondrazugunta, Pakala new tank, Pakala old tank, Pakala Raju tank and Binginapalli tank. These tanks are in a chain and the first tank that receives supply is the Bitragunta tank. The surplus water of this tank feeds the Razu tank which can command the ayacut of Marri tank of Somarazupalli in case its supply is increased. From Razu tank water goes to the new and old tanks of Pakala. The old tank can command not only the whole ayacut of Kondrazugunta of Somarazupalli but also a greater portion of the ayacut of Binginapalli tank. At present there is no source of permanent and unfailing supply to these tanks and the only source of supply is the rain that falls in their catchment areas. In consequence of this, there have been failures of crops which resulted in the remission of assessment. Even during the years when full assessment was collected, the yield of the crops was very poor for want of adequate water-supply. In recent years the ryots of the locality have engaged a Bachelor of Engineering for surveying and taking levels from the bed of the Paleru within the limits of Veukana-palem, hamlet of Palukuru. The levels have been taken and plotted. The results are very encouraging as the bed of the river itself is 5.18 feet higher than the F.T.L. of the topmost tank, viz., Bitragunta tank. The ryots are assured that the channel might be constructed at a cheap cost and that it would relieve them of the constant loss that they are put to for want of water to their tanks. The ryots are assured that if the supply is increased to the existing tanks by taking a channel from Paleru it will give an additional income of Rs. 10,000 to Government every year and will irrigate an additional area of 2,000 acres. The existing acreage is 2,665 getting an income of Rs. 16,793 and a mamul tirwajasti to 432 acres.

"Then in the very same taluk there are the Machavaram, Mopad, Madanagopalapuram and Kandakur tanks. There are in these four villages 600 acres of unoccupied wet land left waste for want of adequate supply of water. There are besides 3,266 acres of dry land in the four Government villages mentioned above. Eight hundred and six acres in the Government village of Palur, 829 acres in Atmakur, 293 acres in Vogur village and 335 acres in the shrotriyam villages of Madanagopalapuram and Dondapad in all 5,479 acres commandable by these two tanks if properly improved. I mean the Mopad and Machavaram tanks. A major extent of the dry lands in the Government villages of Mopad, Kondamudsupaliam and Anandapuram are of saline soil and unfit for dry cultivation. The question of improving the two tanks with a view to bring this vast tract under irrigation occupied the attention of the authorities some years back but the scheme was dropped before proper investigation commenced. The Machavaram tank is now fed by the Tumuleru, a natural channel and the supply is not regular. The Mopad tank is mainly fed by the Pandivagu which carries with it a percentage of salt fatal to the agriculturist. The lands under the Mopad tank have become extremely saline on account of the saline water and crops do not thrive. If these two tanks have to be improved in their capacity and also in their water supply, the best method that can be suggested is that a channel might be taken off from Mannaru to these two tanks. There is already a channel that is in good condition except for half a mile at its mouth where it has silted up either on account of the neglect of the Government or of the ryots. If this scheme is taken up, it will not cost more than a lakh of rupees and it will be highly remunerative, as the estimated extent of increased irrigation is 5,500 acres. At the very lowest figure of Rs. 5 per acre, the gross revenue will be Rs. 24,500, and deducting the maintenance charge it will give a net revenue of more than Rs. 12,000.

"In addition to the two examples that I have given, in the Gudur taluk there is a channel called Ohallakalava channel which submerges nearly one thousand acres belonging to Kota, Zarugumalli and adjoining villages, and when these one thousand acres are being submerged, the Government is not kind enough to give remissions to the submerged portions. If a flood bank is raised on the other side of the channel itself, these one thousand acres will be saved, and the ryots also will improve their economic condition. I have given this example, Sir, only to show how far the Government has been either neglecting the whole question, or not realising the difficulties of the people. My submission, now, is that an immediate investigation be undertaken by the Government, and the non-officials and the more experienced ryots of the locality are willing to co-operate with the Government in suggesting the proper and advantageous methods of improving those facilities."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" Mr. President, Sir, the speech we have just heard, I think, indicates some misapprehension in the minds of some hon. Members as to the scope of this minor irrigation grant. Irrigation works generally are in the charge of the Public Works Department. This grant has only to do with small tanks and minor works which irrigate less than 250 acres each, and do not form part of any system. That is because it would be uneconomical to put them in charge of the Public Works Department; they have been entrusted to the Revenue Department, to safeguard the local interests of the villagers with the assistance of the Revenue officers who would be better qualified to look after them. The remarks of the hon. Member therefore do not apply to the works for which we have made provision here. He is referring to works which will need investigation by the Public Works Department, and to quite considerable schemes. I have no doubt my hon. Colleague has been listening with great interest to these remarks, and will bear them in mind when he comes to deal with the subject of irrigation generally.

"As regards the provision made for these smaller tanks, then it may still be interesting to my hon. Friend from Nellore to know that we have provided for the coming year for the repair of those tanks Rs. 32,500 in lieu of Rs. 18,000 for the current year. We hope that this will go far to keeping the smaller and minor tanks in good order.

"Coming to the larger question raised by my hon. Friend from South Arcot, although these works are not in charge of the Public Works Department, periodically that department reviews the conditions of all works in the district and put all tanks, big and small, into order, and it is for the purpose of maintenance and repairs they are then entrusted to the Revenue Department. It will not be an economical arrangement to employ the agency of the highly trained and highly paid Public Works Department to look after these petty and scattered out-of-the-way works. My hon. Friend suggests that the Local Fund Department might look after them. As to that he must remember that these works are very numerous in most districts, and are scattered, many of them in very out-of-the-way places. I do not think he will find that the Local Fund Department will be able to attend to this work without neglecting their present duties."

* Mr. K. SITARAMA REDDI :—" May I know the number of minor irrigation tanks that are proposed to be repaired in South Arcot ? "

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" I am sorry, Sir, I have not got the figures here. I can assure him that these works number hundreds if not thousands, and are scattered over the districts. South Arcot is one of the districts where the tanks are most numerous. It is for this reason that, when investigation was made in the past, it was decided that it would not be a practical proposition to put them under the charge of the Local Fund Department. That was at the time, a bad old time, when all these things were under the Collectors. We heard yesterday from my hon. Friends from Cuddapah and from Anantapur all the difficulties which the local boards have of administering the lands entrusted to their charge with the existing establishments. Is it a wise thing at this stage to add yet another task to them, and give yet one more field in which there should be chance of friction between them and the Revenue Department ? The percentage of establishment, whoever employs it, to the works to be done must inevitably be high when we are dealing with a lot of petty scattered works where we cannot concentrate supervision and expenditure. If we succeed in keeping it down to 20 or 25 per cent, I think we ought to congratulate ourselves. I am afraid it is sometimes much higher. But if the Council will permit us in succeeding years, if we have funds, to spend as much as we propose to do this year, I think we can have a more satisfactory percentage of supervision to expenditure."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Demand VI was then put and carried, and the Grant was made.

DEMAND VII—IRRIGATION—PUBLIC WORKS OFFICERS.

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Sir, on the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor, I beg to move 'that the Government be granted a sum of Rs. 205.85 lakhs for Irrigation—Public Works Officers.'"

[18th March 1926]

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—" Sir, I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 2,50,200 for maintenance and repairs of the Buckingham canal be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"In making this motion, I wish to draw the hon. the Irrigation Member's attention to two points which have been to a certain extent adverted to in the general discussion on the Budget in connexion with the Buckingham canal. The first point, as was referred to by my hon. Colleague from Chingleput at the time of the general discussion, is with regard to the nature of the Buckingham canal from Madras southwards, the silting up that has been going on, the extreme difficulty that is being felt by people in the way of navigation in the Buckingham canal. That amount of attention which ought to be bestowed on the canal to see to it that navigation is made possible towards the south of Madras has not been paid hitherto. My hon. Colleague drew pointed attention to the fact that here was a great navigation way meant not for so much human traffic as for traffic of goods, which was not being availed of owing to the fact that Government has not bestowed proper attention on it. Here, Sir, it seems to me that in this country we do not wish to have two competing systems working. The system of monopolies has been completely accepted in the case of railways. In other countries, it is just the opposite. Monopolies in the matter of communications is rather resisted by all local authorities and by Governments. In England, no railway company has got a monopoly for any particular area. My hon. Friend the Finance Member will bear me out when I say that there are at least four different means by which we can travel from London to Edinburgh.

"In other words, without a sort of communication, monopoly is not certainly allowed in England. The little scope that there is for navigation, for the plying of boats either for pleasure or for carrying on goods is availed of to the utmost capacity by all advanced countries. The river Thames is not very attractive, is not a wide river or a beautiful river, but it has been made all the three. My hon. Friend knows very well that one can go on the Thames to Buckingham, Windsor [Dr. P. Subbarayan. 'And to Oxford'] and to Oxford as my hon. Friend from Oxford says. Here it seems to me that a certain impression is abroad that communication by the Buckingham canal has been to a certain extent not made possible by Government or, if I may put it in an alternative way, has been discouraged by the Government because of the conflict it may have in competition with the Railways. I do not know what justification there is for that impression, but to a certain extent among the lay public the idea has been prevalent. For instance, on the Uddapah-Kurnool canal which has been a navigable canal and which was done as a famine work for the purpose of navigation mainly and secondarily for the purpose of irrigation, as much attention has not been bestowed after the system of railway has come into force; and there is the same sort of—I will not say accusation—impression regarding the Buckingham canal also. I think notwithstanding the very hopeful reply given during the time of the general discussion by the hon. the Irrigation Member, he will be well advised to reconsider his position and try to see whether the Buckingham canal, especially south of Madras, cannot be made more navigable than it is.

"The second and more important question that I wish to raise is in regard the eternal Cooum itself. This House has repeatedly discussed this question (Mr. T. M. Narasimhachari : 'ad nauseam'), and my hon. Friend,

[18th March 1926] [Mr. A. Ramaswami Mudaliyar]

the departed leader Sir P. Tyagaraya Chettiyar took special interest in it. As the President of the Corporation, and as a Member of this House, he has done everything to draw the attention of the Government to the necessity for making the Cooum less offensive than it is at present. He tried his best to improve the amenities of the city, and the health conditions of the city, but first and foremost to improve the Cooum and make it a tidal river, if possible. We thought at one time, at least from the communications in the press—and the special articles in the press led us to believe and hope—that it was going to be an accomplished fact very soon. We had had committees sitting in judgment over the scheme, we had a special officer brought from Calcutta who sat in the committee, whose advice was appreciated very much, and went into the whole question. We had more than one Chief Engineer of our own Government to look into the question. Last year a small provision was made for the purpose of making a beginning or for the purpose of finding out how it could be done. This year, there is no provision so far as I can see. I do not know what has become of this scheme. It is one of those abandoned schemes which are taken up in a hurry, which are considered very important when the fever of it lasts—if I may use the expression—and then are allowed to be dropped or abandoned. I consider that the health of the city will never improve unless Government tackle this problem more seriously. The hon. the Law Member I remember—at least I was not present at the time he gave his reply on the last budget motion owing to extraneous reasons—I believe the hon. the Law Member said that the difficulty of going ahead with the scheme was because the Corporation of Madras was not willing to come to terms with the Government of Madras. This is a question which raises a much larger issue than the matter of dispute between the Corporation and the Government. It may be that the Corporation does not want to give a share of its revenues for expenditure on this scheme which it ought to. I am not concerned with that. I am here merely speaking as a general tax-payer, not merely confined to the City of Madras. I feel whether the Corporation comes to terms with the Government or not, this scheme ought to be taken in hand and carried through. If the Government think that the Corporation ought to pay a share of it, well, either they can recover it from them or if they do not recover it it is open to them to cut the grant to the Corporation in some other respect. I do believe that in such a big scheme as this in a metropolitan city like Madras, where the conveniences will promote the health not merely of the residents of the city but also of the several thousands of people who are occasional visitors, the Government ought to take a move forward and not wait on the mere good will and pleasure of the Corporation. I should like to know from the hon. the Irrigation Member whether he has finally dropped the scheme or whether he means to proceed with it. His Excellency Lord Willingdon, when he was Governor of Madras, assured us that he was in great sympathy with this proposed improvement. I know he gave much thought to this scheme and gave personal attention to it. But somehow it has not progressed very far. I want to know from the hon. the Irrigation Member what is the position if the Corporation does not come to terms with the Government of Madras, if the Corporation refuses to budge an inch further, if it says that it cannot provide the funds either in a certain proportion or in any proportion at all to the ultimate expenditure which will be involved in this scheme. I feel myself, as I said, that the scheme itself is of such vast importance generally to the health of the whole Presidency, because, Mr. President, as you know very well, disease in Madras is propagated all over the Presidency. An epidemic in Madras does not confine itself to Madras as an epidemic in rural parts. It is a vast distributary centre, it distributes epidemics all over the Presidency. Therefore a metropolitan city like Madras has to be treated as under exceptional circumstances. I therefore suggest to the Government that they should take the scheme on hand. I should like to know what the position really will be if the Madras Corporation does not come to terms. Am I to understand that the scheme will be dropped? I hope not. I move the motion that stands in my name."

Mr. C. MUTAYYA MUDALIYAR :—" Sir, as one that has tabled a similar motion, I beg to associate myself with the views expressed by my hon. Friend from Chingleput. I gave this as a token motion in order to draw the attention of the Government to the unsatisfactory condition of the Buckingham canal. I referred to this in the general discussion of the budget and also on more than one occasion before. The fact is that this canal which is very useful to the public is neglected in spite of the attention that has been repeatedly drawn to it in this House. Casuarina trees for fuel are brought to Madras through this canal. On account of the silting, fuel which was selling at 15 rupees a ton is now selling at Rs. 25. I hope the hon. Member will reconsider the question and see his way to find more funds to keep the canal in a satisfactory condition."

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—" Mr. President, Sir, because, so much is talked about the Cooum and Madras I rise to speak on that subject. The ambition of every citizen of Madras is to see the Cooum and the Buckingham canal improved and made more navigable. I think last time the hon. the Law Member assured us that they were projecting a scheme for the purpose, and I do not know at what stage the matter now is. Late Sir P. Tyagaraya Chettiyar was agitating about this for many years, and he died without seeing the Cooum improved. Now, Sir, I ask the hon. the Law Member whether any step will be taken at least in my life time."

"About the remark made by my hon. Friend, Mr. Ramaswami Mudaliyar, it is not Madras that is spreading epidemics to other districts, but other districts bring epidemics to Madras. It is people coming from other places that bring the epidemics. We are trying to make Madras as far as possible healthy."

"Coming to the Buckingham canal, it is in a very disgraceful condition now. It is being silted up. There is a rumour that it is allowed to be silted up because the Government wants to encourage the Railways. Sir, I request the hon. the Law Member to look into this question. About 200 villages are sending articles of food to Madras. We are getting our firewood chiefly through the Buckingham canal and we are getting our lime shells and food-stuffs also through this canal. So the Buckingham canal is an important thing for us. You know that to get articles through water is much cheaper than getting it through railway. Moreover, this Buckingham canal keeps Madras cooler than what it would be without the canal. Of course the smell is bad in certain seasons. But it is on account of the Buckingham canal and the Cooum that Madras is not so hot as it would otherwise be. Taking these things into consideration, I hope the hon. the Law Member will give us a very satisfactory reply."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Sir, I shall at once deal with the second of the questions which have been mooted in the course of the debate on this series of motions, regarding the Cooum. The position is shortly this: it has been rightly observed by the hon. Member from Chingleput that some time ago an expert committee, or rather a series of expert committees, was appointed for the purpose of examining the question of permanent improvement of the Cooum. After deliberating upon the rival schemes that were put forward in regard to this matter, the Government with its resources at its command came to the conclusion that the most feasible and the most economical course was to adopt measures, to keep the mouth of the Cooum open for tidal action and adopt a scheme of dredging. In this connexion I may interrupt the train of argument for a moment and point out that the two difficulties in regard to the Cooum are the following. Firstly, differently situated as Madras is from places like Bombay and Karachi, where the difference between the high tide and the low tide is sometimes anything between 10 and 30 feet, the difference between the highest tide and the lowest tide is less than three feet here. So that unless there is some other additional expedient adopted, the difference between the high tide and the low tide does not enable the tidal action to sweep out what may be called the scum, the sewage that is collected in the Cooum. In other countries, more fortunately situated, in such rivers as the Hoogli, the difference between high tide and low tide is so great that when the high tide comes in the water enters and during the low tide recedes very fast practically sweeping away all the scum. That is not the case here. You must also keep the mouth of the river open so as to prevent the silting-up action. On that I think I addressed certain remarks on the last occasion, that is, the action of the winds in Madras is such that the mouth of the Cooum is always liable to silting up. I think I pointed out last year that the East Coast has been formed in such a manner by the silting of oceanic or sea deposits. Now the second thing necessary is to have a dredger constantly working at the mouth of the Cooum. Also, we have to drain the Cooum and keep the banks within certain limits, so that such little tidal action as there is may operate beneficially. With regard to this, a scheme for nearly five lakhs has been approved. Now where the Corporation comes in and why there is no provision in the budget is this. The Corporation has not yet made any attempts to divert that constant influx of the Chintadripet sewage into the Cooum. Our main difficulty is that. If the difference between the high tide and low tide is bigger it would not matter. But the constant influx of the Chintadripet sewage which is dropped into the Cooum makes the position very difficult and unless the Corporation comes to the rescue—I am speaking wholly individually and not binding the Government—I cannot do it; if that problem is solved by the Corporation I do not think there will be any other difficulty."

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—" Has the Corporation refused to do it?"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" More than once an attempt has been made in this direction but to no purpose. There is more than one influential Member of the Corporation present here and I am perfectly willing to initiate any conference if necessary. We have asked the Corporation whether they will pay any portion of the cost but they have not replied favourably. If they will pay one-third of the expense and if they will also make some arrangements to see that the Chintadripet sewage is not drained into Cooum, then I shall make a move in the matter. After all, I think the Madras Corporation should pay some share of the expenditure. I grant what Mr. Ramaswami Mudaliyar has stated, namely, that the improvement of the Madras City is not in any way a local question. It is the metropolis of the Presidency and therefore the improvement of Madras is an improvement which will affect the whole of the Presidency, and also it is true that otherwise the diseases that are prevalent in Madras will be carried elsewhere. Surely the Corporation is in some way responsible to the country at large and it ought to pay some share of the expenditure. Therefore my first appeal is that Corporation should pay some portion of the expenditure. I may assure the House that Government will not insist upon their paying 50 per cent of the expenditure or anything like that. The second point is that Chintadripet sewage should not be allowed to drain into Cooum. As soon as these outstanding questions are dealt with by the Corporation, Government, I may say, will make an immediate attempt to start a scheme which consists of two parts: (1) keeping the mouth of the Cooum open by training the bank as far as the sea and (2) by flushing the river with sea water up to the Napier bridge. There is no use of flushing the river up to the Napier bridge if all the sewage is dropped into the Cooum. I may say here that it is not with a view to postpone the scheme which it is stated, started just like 'hectic fever' some time ago that this small provision has been made. I appealed to the President of the Corporation at the time of the general discussion of the budget to help us in the matter but he did not reply. For many reasons unconnected with this matter he is away from the House just at present. There are many influential Members of the Corporation in this House, and if they will bring pressure to bear upon the Corporation to come to some settlement for the purpose of sharing the expenditure as far as their funds permit, and if they will also devise some means for preventing the Chintadripet sewage from draining into Cooum, Government will certainly make a move in the matter. That is what I desire to say so far as Cooum is concerned.

"Now, dealing with the Buckingham canal, I may say that Government are not actuated by a desire to discourage traffic. I say deliberately that they are not actuated by a desire to discourage traffic or to divert it to the South Indian Railway. On the other hand the Government recognize that there are certain kinds of traffic which it is easier to carry on through waterways than along the railways. The kind of traffic that goes through the Buckingham canal is casuarina fuel and it has been found cheaper to carry on this traffic through this waterway than through the railway. Hon. Members will realize that the expenditure on the Buckingham canal—Maintenance and repairs were Rs. 2,11,000 for 1923-24 and Rs. 2,33,000 for 1924-25 and the clearing of silt is regularly done.

"While I realize the improvement of Buckingham canal both from the point of view of the traffic which is carried on along that canal and also from the point of view of its influence upon the health of the city, the question is how far it is practicable to start any bigger improvements than what we are attempting at present. I may say that the Superintending Engineer has reported with regard to certain proposals made by the Retrenchment Committee. In April 1923 the Retrenchment Committee suggested that the question of improving the Buckingham canal should be examined. They suggested also that the possibility of increasing the tolls and the possibility of closing what they call unremunerative reaches, and retaining such reaches as are likely to be self-supporting should be investigated. That matter was examined by the Superintending Engineer and I think he has arrived at the very sound conclusion that it is not practicable to close the reaches and that the fees cannot be raised in the present condition of the canal. With regard to the traffic that is now passing through the canal he has submitted certain proposals for the improvement of the canal and they are likely to cost some 2½ lakhs. One of the proposals is the deepening of the South canal. This matter has been in correspondence with the Chief Engineer and he has been asked to submit an approximate estimate for deepening the South canal by one foot and improving the reaches as far as possible. I may say that a provision of 2½ lakhs has been made and if it is found necessary to increase the provision to some extent it will be done. But any bigger schemes we have not been contemplating and it would cost us immense amounts if we were to bring forward any such scheme. Any bigger question of making the canal deeper will have to be considered with greater deliberation; and with our finances we have considered the scheme mentioned above as the only feasible scheme."

Mr. R. MADANAGOPAL NAYUDU:—"I only want to draw the attention of the hon. the Law Member to the fact that a greater portion of Chintadripet sewage is already being drained by underground drains."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Only a portion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU:—"Sir, there are five motions tabled by me, namely,—

- 'To reduce the allotment of Rs. 3,000 for remodelling the Tapeswaram South side channel by Rs. 100 ;
- 'To reduce the allotment of Rs. 1,500 for remodelling the Thossipudi North side channel by Rs. 100 ;
- 'To reduce the allotment of Rs. 2,000 for remodelling Anathavaram channel by Rs. 100 ;
- 'To reduce the allotment of Rs. 2,000 for constructing an inlet on Sahapuram drain, etc., by Rs. 100 ;
- 'To reduce the allotment of Rs. 1,00,000 for improvements to the upper portion of Yenamadurru drain by Rs. 100.'

"It is not my intention to press any one of them to a division. I should like to put all of them under one category. All of them are intended to obtain information from the Government.

"The first of these is with reference to what is known as the remodelling scheme. The Godavari anicut was constructed nearly three-fourths of a century ago and the present canals are the result of a scheme which was evolved in those good old days. The scheme no doubt has been working very well, but in practice owing to the excessive increase in the ayacut that is brought under wet irrigation, circumstances have arisen which made it necessary for the Government to consider the question of remodelling the scheme. The question of remodelling has arisen in this way: under the same canal system lands of the same level and also lands of different levels have come under cultivation. The result was that even some portions were left without cultivation. The lower lands, if not actually submerged by the irrigation of the higher lands, at least received so much of the percolated water, with the result that if they were not cultivated in the earlier portions of the season, the crops thereon would be damaged owing to the percolated water. It is to remove this difficulty that the system of remodelling was thought of nearly one-fourth of a century ago, but unfortunately no progress has been made in that direction.

"I know some fifteen years ago a very well known engineer was appointed to remodel the canal in the Central delta in the Amalapuram taluk. We do not know what happened to that afterwards. Some money was spent but the scheme was not carried to its completion. What I want to know is whether Government have got a programme for a number of years during which they will complete this remodelling scheme and see that all lands are brought under cultivation by irrigation through canals which are now specially intended to irrigate certain type of lands only. The difficulty which may be removed by the remodelling scheme is that the lower lands may be irrigated from a different channel and their irrigation will not be affected by the irrigation of higher lands. That, Sir, is the scheme of remodelling. I know Government have got a scheme but nevertheless it is difficult to understand why they choose one canal or another and after choosing it they do not complete the scheme. That is all my difficulty. I only hope that Government will be able to complete the scheme of remodelling in the very near future. I do not know exactly the cost of the great Godavari anicut. But I know this much that the money which was borrowed at that time for the construction of this great anicut was borrowed at a very low rate of interest perhaps 3 per cent or so. I know the Government used to collect from us $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent, 3 per cent, 4 per cent and then we reached a stage of paying Rs. 5 per acre and during the last three-fourths of a century Government have received not only all that was invested in that great work, but are now receiving something like 20 or 25 per cent on their investment. We are grateful to the Government for the construction of this great work and if to-day you should go to those parts you will find that Sir Arthur Cotton who was instrumental in constructing this great anicut is recognized as Maharishi Cotton. What I propose is this. You are getting lakhs and lakhs of rupees from this great work: why don't you spend a portion of it? We are not asking like other members of other districts to reduce the rates from other sources and thereby give relief to the people. Here is a case where we are paying crores and crores of rupees for generations. We have been paying these revenues for our own benefit. We want that some portion of it may be spent on schemes which will be beneficial to the national interests because it means larger production and increase of national wealth, and incidentally we the people of the districts will be benefited and Government also will be benefited because they will be able to bring more lands into cultivation and thereby derive larger revenue. That is my first submission.

18th March 1926] [Sir K. Venkatarreddi Nayudu]

"The second point is in reference to a new irrigation scheme. There are two streams which take their origin somewhere in the Agency tract of Godavari known as Pamileru and Chimmeleru. These two streams join together at a certain place and their combined waters sometimes submerge large areas of fields. We know that large quantities of water which are discharged from these two streams are now going as waste into the sea. A scheme has been suggested to the Government and that is of combining these two streams and utilizing their waters for the purpose of converting them into an irrigation work. This scheme is connected with another scheme known as the Thorrigada scheme. The Thorrigada scheme is this:—A few miles north of Rajahmundry there is a breach in the bank bund and it is a big breach and it has never been filled up. The damage that is caused to the fields in the surrounding area during the flood season is immense. What happens is this: Floods in the river Godavari sometimes rise by 30 to 40 feet and large volumes of water discharge themselves into the river during the season and when the fields are full of crops they are submerged in water. Not only this, all the drainage water in that area together with the waters of these two streams come and submerge thousands of acres and destroy the crops that are ripe for harvest. Now the scheme that is proposed is to block up the bund and fill up this breach not allowing Godavari water to go round that dry area.

"In ordinary times when there is no rain water it is easy enough; but in the months of September and October when the river is in floods the difficulty is great. The river water mixes with the rain water and thus submerges a great part of the land. My suggestion is to block up the river bund and combine the two streams. The water then can be utilized for irrigation purposes; a lakh of acres of land might then be brought under cultivation. It would benefit the city of Rajahmundry—I call it a city in spite of the fact that the census report shows its population as less than 50 thousands, for it was taken at a time when something like 10 or 20 thousand people had gone out for a festival. The drainage system was originally designed to send some water down to the river. There were complaints that the drinking water of the river was contaminated by the drainage water. There is a place known as Ava which is low enough. It is filled up during the rainy season. The present scheme is to combine the Rajahmundry drainage scheme with that of Ava, so that the drainage water of Rajahmundry can be discharged into Ava and the whole water may be used for irrigation purposes. The damage caused by the floods can be stopped. I mentioned this scheme an year or a year and a half ago to the hon. the Law Member, but I have not heard anything about it till now. If Government have not done anything till now there is no harm in Government promising to do something now at least.

"Then, Sir, we requested that six-inch pipes might be placed instead of the four-inch pipes. The smaller pipe does not work satisfactorily. Conference after conference has been held; argument after argument has been advanced including that of the heavy taxes paid by the ryots and the large income got by the Government, asking the Government to afford greater facilities by replacing the four-inch pipe by a six-inch pipe. I wonder whether hon. Members of the House clearly follow me when I complain of the difficulties caused by the presence of a small pipe only. It is not so well known in other parts of the Presidency. It is not like the Cauvery delta. The Godavari irrigation system is a scientific system where every drop of water is measured and then allowed to the ryots. It can be easily found out how much of water flows through a four-inch pipe. Of course, a great deal depends on the head of the fall. The Irrigation Officers who are intelligent in their own way have given certain figures showing that if the section of the pipe is increased there would be some difficulty to the crops. I quite concede that they might be right theoretically; but in actual practice the ryots have felt the difficulty of the four-inch pipe. I hope the hon. the Law Member will see his way to remove the difficulty, not because I ask for it, but because the people are actually feeling the difficulty.

"Then again, Sir, there is the question of raising the height of the Godavari anicut from 1' 9" to six feet. At first sight it looks as if it would be a very expensive item. But an experiment was recently made in the Kistna district. I must thank the hon. the Law Member for having completed the work. I know the people of the Kistna district and Guntur district are thankful to him for his work. But I submit to him that unless he takes up the Godavari district also which has a larger delta his work will be incomplete. If the height of the shutters of the Godavari anicut is raised a larger quantity of water will be stored. On account of the construction of the bridge over the anicut there are five or six huge pillars which stop the flow of sand. Of course a large part of it is washed away on account of the depth between the pillars. As a consequence the depth of the river is decreased on account of the sand hills that are formed. You may remember, Sir, that Godavari was once famous for its sugarcane production. But now, on account of the inability of the Public Works Department officers to supply water all through the year this crop had been given up altogether. It is not for me to speak here of the importance of the production of sugarcane in larger quantities. India is perhaps one of the countries where sugar is consumed in very large quantities. There was a time when India produced her own sugar; but to-day millions and millions of tons are imported from Java and other places. I request the hon. the Law Member to afford facilities for growing sugarcane in greater and greater quantities. It is a very long crop and requires water all the twelve months of the year. If the height of the anicut shutters is raised, not only will you be able to increase the area of the second crop zone, but also you will be able to supply water all through the year for the sugarcane crop. The attempts of the Agricultural department to plant Java varieties here have proved futile till now for the reason that water is not supplied all through the year. Kistna anicut costs five or six lakhs of rupees and if we want to raise its height it would not cost more than 20 lakhs of rupees. But as a consequence of it the production would increase hundred times. In the course of ten years you will not only be able to take back the money invested in the undertaking, but it would be bringing a permanent increase of revenue to the general purse.

"One other subject which I want to mention is the improvement of the Godavari delta, both the western delta and the eastern delta. I am sure that if my friend Mr. Peddiraju were here he would have given details. Reference was made several times to the unfortunate condition of this drainage system. In the evidence given before the Irrigation Committee of the year 1900-1902 an experienced Superintending Engineer said that the work of the irrigation system would be useless unless the drainage system also is kept in a way that is conducive to the free flow of water. Of course paddy fields can retain a large quantity of water. But the water collects in the drainage for years and years together without being attended to. Sometimes this goes on for a quarter of a century. One of my hon. friends here suggests that malaria also would be produced; of course it is said that all irrigation works would produce malaria. But we will put up with malaria even, if we can produce all the food necessary not only for our districts but also for the so-called famine districts of Bellary, etc."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"Why 'so-called'?"

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU:—"I beg your pardon, Sir. I shall then say, 'for the famine districts'. If want of food is not felt by those districts now, it is due the excellent irrigation system of our districts which supply them with food. We only want to perfect it and to improve it. I hope that Government will do something in this matter in order that the people may be benefited, the country may be benefited and may, I also add that the Government may be benefited."

The House adjourned at 5 p.m. to meet again at 11 a.m. the next day (19th March 1926).

I

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Order made by the President of the Madras Legislative Council under Standing Order No. 15 on the 4th December 1924.]

1. Starred questions to be put at a meeting of the Council with their answers shall be printed and placed on the Council table an hour before the President takes his seat.

The Secretary shall call out the name of each interpellator in the order in which the names are printed, specify the serial number of his question and make a sufficient pause to give him or any other member a reasonable opportunity of rising in his place and putting a supplementary question. Supplementary questions must be put immediately after the principal questions to which they relate.

2. If a member responsible for a starred question happens to be absent when it is called it will be open either to him or to any other member to put supplemental questions thereon after the other starred questions for the day have been answered, provided question-time is not thereby exceeded.

3. Questions, not starred, will not be called in Council, but they will be printed with their answers and placed on the table of the House along with the list of starred questions. Oral supplementary questions will not be allowed in regard to unstarred questions.]

STARRED QUESTIONS.

Electricity.

Proposed hydro-electric schemes in the next five years.

* 1653 Q.—Mr. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state in what places the Government propose to create hydro-electric power within the next five years with the power expected to be created in each of those places and the cost of creating the power, the cost proposed for selling a unit and the probable time when the work is expected to be commenced and finished in each case?

A.—The Government cannot at present forecast their programme for the next five years. The schemes that are likely to be taken up first are—

- (i) the Pykara which will supply 37,200 kilowatts, and with which may ultimately be connected a Moyar scheme to give another 10,560 kilowatts.
- (ii) the Pinjikavi scheme, with a Kumbhar connexion, to develop about 18,000 kilowatts.
- (iii) the Papanasam scheme to develop about 21,000.

The latest estimate of cost for the Pykara scheme full development is about 238 lakhs. Figures cannot be given at present for the others—nor is it possible to say yet what will be the selling price per unit. No dates can yet be given for the beginning or completion of the several schemes—but the Government hope to begin on Pykara, at least, during 1926.

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—“The hon. the Law Member says that ‘no dates can yet be given for the beginning or completion of the several schemes’. May I know if he can say at least within how many years the Pykara scheme is expected to be completed?”

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—“Two and a half years. In regard to this question I would suggest to the hon. Members that I am going to make a statement.”

[19th March 1926]

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—“Is the scheme expected to yield any profit?”

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—“All I can say is that the Mysore Government hope to cover a portion at best of their revenue deficits by means of the profits from the hydro-electric scheme.”

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—“We also hope to do the same.”

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—“That will depend upon other factors.”

Irrigation.

Estimates for the Bellary West Canal project.

* 1654 Q.—Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state the orders passed by the Government on the estimates submitted by Mr. Hawkins with his report No. 2040/25-A 1-D, dated 18th August 1925, for the Bellary West Canal project?

A.—No orders have yet been passed. The proposals have been referred to the Director of Agriculture and the Chief Engineer has been asked for some further information about the effect which the scheme may have on the Kurnool-Cuddapah canal irrigation.

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—“May I know with reference to what points a further reference has been made to the Director of Agriculture?”

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—“It is with regard to the question whether the soil is apt for extensive wet irrigation.”

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—“May I know, Sir, what is the meaning implied in the last sentence, here—‘the Chief Engineer has been asked for some further information about the effect which the scheme may have on the Kurnool-Cuddapah canal irrigation’?”

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—“With regard to that matter I propose to make a statement on the Ceded Districts Irrigation Committee report which, I think, will elucidate the matter.”

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—“What guarantee is there that it will be reached at all?”

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—“I am ready to make a statement now. The question is whether the Kurnool-Cuddapah canal may itself be utilized and become part of the bigger scheme which has been referred to in by the final report of the Ceded Districts Irrigation Committee. Whether the existing canal can be made an integral part of the bigger scheme is one of the questions to be discussed.”

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—“May I ask the hon. the Law Member through you to make a statement with regard to the steps the Government are going to take with reference to the report made by the Ceded Districts Irrigation Committee. What I fear is that under the grant, this item will not be reached at all. We have only one hour.”

[19th March 1926]

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"I do not know what the reasons for the hon. Member's diffidence are. Because after all, only 48 minutes have elapsed. We have nearly two hours more. I do not think there is any difficulty."

Marine.

Sale of the steam launch at Mangalore.

* 1655 Q.—MR. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Port Officer of Mangalore, who had under his control a steam launch, has sold it;

(b) if so, for what price; and at what loss or profit as compared with its original price;

(c) (i) what use it was put to,
(ii) why it was sold,
(iii) whether it is intended to replace it and if so, at what cost,
(iv) whether it is quite necessary to have a steam launch for the use of the Port Officer or his establishment or for any other purpose,
(v) whether a life boat cannot serve the purposes of the port; and

(d) to what fund the price and cost of maintaining the steam launch are charged, whether the Landing and Shipping Fees Fund or any other Port Fund?

A.—(a) The launch was sold on the recommendation of the Landing and Shipping Fees Committee.

(b) For Rs. 17,500 at a loss of Rs. 61,470.

(c) (i) For port purposes and for towing native vessels.

(ii) Because it was found unsuitable for the port as the river had silted up.

(iii) The question is under the consideration of Government.

(iv) A launch is required for the port.

(v) No.

(d) The charges on account of the launch are debitable to the Mangalore Landing and Shipping fund.

MR. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"It is said that the steam launch is to be replaced. Have the Government ascertained whether the new one will not share the same fate as the previous one having regard to the fact that the river is silted up?"

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"It is with reference to the conditions of the river after silting up, that the launch will be purchased."

Appointments.

Government Order No. 493, dated 18th May 1925.

* 1656 Q.—MR. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether a G.O. No. 493, dated 18th May 1925, has been passed relating to Staff Selection Board; and

(b) if so, whether a copy of the Government Order will be placed on the table of this Council?

19th March 1926]

A.—(a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

Depressed Classes.

Facilities for drinking water in Sindavalam village.

* 1657 Q.—MR. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) the strength of the depressed class population in Sindavalam village, Bellary district; and

(b) the action taken on the petitions of the depressed class members of the village complaining of lack of facilities for drinking water for their use?

A.—(a) & (b) The Government have no information.

MR. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"Have the Government any objection to call for the information?"

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"I have absolutely no objection."

MR. R. VEERIAN:—"May I know if the Government have taken any steps to enquire from the president of the local board whether any sum is set apart in the budget every year for water-supply to the particular area?"

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"That is a separate question."

MR. R. VEERIAN:—"With reference to clause (b) I think, Sir, that the people would have submitted a petition to the president of the taluk board. Therefore I want to know whether the Government have made any enquiries whether any amount is set apart for water-supply to this locality every year."

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"In the first place, the Government do not know to whom the petition was sent."

MR. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"The hon. the Home Member was good enough to say that he would call for the information. May I ask him whether he will call for a list of villages where there are no wells for the depressed classes?"

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"I shall consider it."

Mahazar from Virapandianur depressed classes.

* 1658 Q.—MR. R. VEERIAN: With reference to question No. 1183, regarding the mahazar from Virapandianur depressed classes, answered at the meeting dated the 18th December 1925, will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state whether any enquiries have been made by the Commissioner of Labour and, if so, with what results?

A.—The mahazar was forwarded to the Commissioner of Labour for necessary action. The Government have not received any report from him.

[19th March 1926]

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" May I know whether the Commissioner of Labour disposes of such petitions of his own accord without making a reference to the Government ? "

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" If he thinks that a reference to the Government is necessary he will do so. "

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" The same answer was given to my question answered on the 18th December 1925. I want to know whether he can dispose of the matter even if it is an important one. "

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" If he thinks so he can dispose of the matter. "

The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—" May I know how long the senior Member of the Board of Revenue is likely to be Commissioner of Labour ? "

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" Till Mr. Paddison returns to Madras. "

Local Boards and Municipal Councils.

Representation of various communities on the Therkupatti Village Panchayat, Tinnevely taluk.

* 1559 Q.—Mr. K. Chavadi SUBRAHMANYA PILLAI: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) what the strength of the Therkupatti Village Panchayat, Tinnevely taluk, is according to the communities to which the members belong;

(b) whether any of its members are related to the President of this Village Panchayat; if so, how many; and

(c) whether it is a fact that additional members have been sanctioned to it by the Registrar of Village Panchayats; and, if so, why?

A.—(a) The panchayat consists of seven members, of whom four are Adi-Dravidas, two are Konars and one is a Muhammadan.

(b) The Government have no information.

(c) Yes. It is reported that all the seven members originally elected belong to one of the two factions in the village. The strength of the panchayat has therefore been increased by six in order to enable all parties in the village to obtain representation on it.

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" It is said that the strength has been increased by six to enable all parties to obtain representation. I wish to know how this can be reached. Have they a system of proportional representation or what ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" I should like to have notice of the question, Sir. "

Alleged illegal collection and misappropriation of taxes by the President, Therkupatti Village Panchayat.

* 1660 Q.—Mr. K. Chavadi SUBRAHMANYA PILLAI: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that memorials were submitted by the villagers to the Registrar of Village Panchayats in respect of certain improper and unjust measures taken by the President of the Therkupatti Village Panchayat, Tinnevely taluk, against the villagers, and, if so, what steps were taken by him for the amelioration of the grievances of the people of this village;

(b) whether it is a fact that the taxes collected by the president of this village panchayat remained in his hands for some months and, if so, the total of such amounts and the time for which they were kept by him;

(c) whether there is any limit of time during which public money can be under the custody of the president of the village panchayat;

(d) whether any steps were taken by the Registrar of Village Panchayats to investigate the temporary misappropriation, in cases where there were delays in making payments into Government treasuries or Post Office, of taxes collected by the president of this village panchayat; and

(e) whether any tax collected by the president of this village panchayat from the villagers was considered to be illegal by the Registrar or Assistant Registrar during their inspection and ordered to be refunded, and, if so, what was the total amount so ordered to be refunded to the parties and what steps were taken by the Registrar or Assistant Registrar of Village Panchayats to obtain the explanation of the president of the village panchayat for his unjust and improper collection of such taxes?

A.—(a) The answer to the first part is in the affirmative. The Registrar-General of Panchayats deputed his Personal Assistant to enquire into the matter. This officer visited the village in company with the President, Taluk Board. They were of opinion that the taxes had been assessed by the village panchayat in an unsympathetic manner and that one of the two factions in the village alone was represented in the panchayat. The Registrar-General has, on their recommendation, increased the strength of the panchayat by six to give a fair chance of representation to all parties in the village.

(b) The Government have no information. At the time of the visit of the Personal Assistant to the village, the President had with him about Rs. 200.

(c) & (d) Panchayat funds are not remitted into Government treasuries. They may be lodged in the local post office savings bank or may, with the Registrar-General's approval, be kept in any bank or in the local co-operative society. They may also, with his approval, be left in the custody of the President or other respectable person. There is no post office in the village. The President of the panchayat has been directed to send a resolution of the panchayat requesting the Registrar-General to authorize the President to have custody of the Panchayat funds.

(e) The panchayat's proposal to levy a tax on dealers in sheep and goats at three pies per head sold was sanctioned by the Registrar-General. It did not, however, levy the tax on the number actually sold but on an estimate of the approximate number that the dealers would sell in a year. The Personal Assistant to the Registrar-General held that this levy was illegal and the President of the panchayat has been warned. The question of refunding the tax already collected is under correspondence.

Supersession of municipalities and municipal chairmen by Government.

* 1661 Q.—Mr. S. SATYAMURTI: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Government propose to vest in themselves the power to supersede municipalities and municipal chairmen if in their judgment they act in a manner calculated to bring municipal administration into contempt;

(b) if so, the reasons for this step; and

(c) whether the Government propose to take the opinion of the Legislative Council in this matter?

A.—(a), (b) & (c) The attention of the hon. Member is drawn to clauses 21 and 22 of Bill No. 1 of 1926 which has been published for general information. No further change in the existing law than is embodied in these clauses is at present proposed.

Delegation of powers of municipal and local board chairmen.

* 1662 Q.—Mr. S. SATYAMURTI: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Government propose to empower chairmen of municipalities and presidents of other local bodies to delegate their powers to others than vice-chairmen and vice-presidents;

(b) if so, the reasons for this step; and

(c) whether the Legislative Council will be consulted in this matter?

A.—(a), (b) & (c) The persons to whom and the extent to which chairmen of municipalities and presidents of other local bodies can delegate their powers are prescribed by the Madras District Municipalities Act and the Madras Local Boards Act, no amendment to which can be made except by the Legislative Council.

Election of Mr. Prakasa Rao to a vacancy in the Cocanada Taluk Board.

* 1663 Q.—Mr. S. SATYAMURTI: With reference to the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government's answer to question No. 60 given on 4th February 1925, will he be pleased to state—

(a) whether his reply to a supplementary question of Mr. A. S. Krishna Rao, namely, 'The Government are awaiting the decision of the High Court in appeal' was based on any information supplied to him by his subordinate officers, and if so who they were;

(b) if not, the source from which the information was obtained; and

(c) whether the Government had ascertained that the petition to the High Court had been filed?

A.—(a) & (b) The President, District Board, informed the Government that the petitioner had expressed his intention to file a revision petition against the order of the Subordinate Judge, Cocanada.

(c) The revision petition was filed in the High Court on the 16th March 1925.

19th March 1926]

Nominations to district boards.

* 1664 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) the number with names of the Indian Christians nominated by Government as members of the various district boards in the Presidency and still holding those appointments as well as the members elected;

(b) the number with names similarly of the Adi-Dravidas, Adi-Andhras, Adi-Karnatakas and Adi-Keralas who have been nominated and elected as members of various district boards; and

(c) whether representations have been received from any members of these communities or their representative associations asking for nomination from among them to seats in district boards, and what action Government have taken on them?

A.—(a) & (b) The hon. Member is referred to the annual Civil List for 1926 which will issue shortly.

(c) The question does not admit of answer, as no specific period has been mentioned.

District boards without elected presidents.

* 1665 Q.—Sriman SASIBHUSHAN RATH Mahasaya: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state how many district boards are still without the power to elect their presidents?

A.—Nine.

Roads and Communications.Sweepers of Rasipuram Agraharam road.

* 1666 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: With reference to question No. 1036, regarding sweepers of Rasipuram Agraharam road answered at the meeting of the Council on the 15th December 1925, will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state whether the Government will be pleased to state whether any information has been called for and what it is?

A.—A report has been called for from the President of the Salem District Board, but it has not yet been received.

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"It is stated in the answer that a report has been called for from the President of the Salem District Board. I want to know whether the President has got anything to do with the right of the depressed classes to pass through public roads and pathways."

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"I do not think there is any. A report was received recently. The President has been asked to supply some other information."

Education.Appointment of a peon in the Government Girls' Secondary School, Salem.

* 1667 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether the post of a peon appointed by the Inspectress of Girls' Schools, Western Circle, Coimbatore, recently in the Government Girls' Secondary School, Salem, is filled by an ex-military man or otherwise;

[19th March 1926]

- (b) what salary the post carries; and
 (c) how many applications were received for the post?

A.—The Government have no information.

Depressed classes girls in the Government Girls' Secondary School, Salem.

* 1668 Q.—MR. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state how many girls belonging to the depressed classes are reading in the Government Girls' Secondary School, Salem, in each standard?

A.—The hon. Member is referred to the subsidiary tables appended to Volume II of the Report on Public Instruction in the Madras Presidency for 1923-24. The report for 1924-25 will be published shortly.

Communal representation in the office of the Inspectress of Girls' Schools, Coimbatore.

* 1669 Q.—MR. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state how many Brahman clerks and how many non-Brahman clerks are appointed in the office of the Inspectress of Girls' Schools, Coimbatore?

A.—The Government have no information. A report has been called for.

MR. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"Is it the idea of the Government that there should be proportionate representation of different communities not only in each department of the whole province but in each office of the department also?"

THE hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"The question does not arise out of the answer given."

MR. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"In answer to the question how many Brahman clerks and how many non-Brahman clerks there are in the office of the Inspectress, the Government say that a report has been called for. There must be something behind that answer and I take it, it is to see whether there is adequate representation of the communities. So, may I ask whether it is the idea of the Government that there should be proper representation of different communities for the province not merely in each department but in each office?"

THE hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"That does not represent the idea."

The medium of instruction in secondary schools.

* 1670 Q.—MR. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state the schools the managers of which have so far chosen one or other of the mother tongues of the Presidency as the medium of instruction in Forms IV, V and VI of secondary schools?

A.—The Government have called for a report.

[19th March 1926]

Singanallur Board Elementary Girls' School.

* 1671 Q.—MR. R. VEERIAN: With reference to question No. 1195, regarding Singanallur Board Elementary Girls' School, answered at the meeting, dated 18th December 1925, will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether the report said to have been called for has been received; and

(b) if so, whether the Government will be pleased to lay a copy of the same on the table of this House?

A.—(a) Yes.

(b) The substance of the report has already been communicated to the hon. Member.

Excise.

Location of toddy and arrack shops.

* 1672 Q.—MR. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to give the number of (a) arrack shops and (b) toddy shops which are being located (1) on, or close to, the roads in each district, (2) close to weekly markets in each district, and (3) close to factories in each district?

A.—The Government have no information.

Co-operative Societies.

Co-operative credit societies for depressed classes.

* 1673 Q.—MR. R. VEERIAN: With reference to question No. 1021 answered at the meeting of the Council on the 15th December 1925 regarding co-operative credit societies and stores in North Arcot district, will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

(a) how many co-operative credit societies and stores are in each of the other districts except North Arcot district, solely intended for depressed classes and run by them, stating the qualifications of the presidents and secretaries of such societies, including conservancy societies and stores of the municipalities and local boards for their menial servants belonging to depressed classes;

(b) what are the principles adopted in appointing honorary assistant registrars; and

(c) why there are no honorary assistant registrars among the depressed classes in several of the districts?

A.—(a) The following statement gives the number of societies as on 30th June 1925 composed wholly or mainly of members of the depressed classes. It does not include special societies for Kallars, fishermen, hill tribes, municipal menial employees, and criminal tribes. There are also two trading unions in the Tanjore district which perform the function of distributive societies for Adi-Dravidas besides their other activities:—

District.	Number of societies.	District.	Number of societies.
Anantapur	20	Madras	47
Arcot, North	25	Madura	10
Arcot, South	156	Malabar	9
Bellary	6	Nellore	80
Chingleput	148	Nilgiris	..
Chittoor	17	Ramnad	28
Coimbatore	44	Salem	16
Cuddapah	81	Tanjore	417
Garjam	5	Tinnevely	42
Godavari, East	227	Trichinopoly	16
Godavari, West	20	Vizagapatam	1
Guntur	126
Kanara, South	45
Kistna	70
Kurnool	82
		Total	1,738

No records are maintained in the offices of the Registrar or his subordinates from which the qualifications of Presidents and Secretaries of societies can be ascertained. This information can be secured only by making an elaborate enquiry all over the Presidency which the Government are not prepared to undertake.

(b) & (c) Honorary Assistant Registrars are appointed to such of the unions as desire them and the unions are generally given a free hand in selecting them.

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—“With reference to clause (c), may I know the number of the honorary assistant registrars belonging to the depressed classes?”

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—“Notice, Sir.”

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—“My own information is that there are ten. I do not know whether it is correct. I want to know how long such appointments last? Is it for one year?”

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—“They last for one year.”

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—“May I know by whom these appointments are made by the Registrar himself or by the Government?”

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—“They are made, on the recommendation of the Registrar, by the Government.”

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—“I want to know the approximate date when candidates are selected for these appointments.”

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—“Some time before the end of the co-operative year.”

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—“In the statement it is given that there are 1,738 societies in all the 24 districts intended for the depressed classes. May I know the reason why members of the depressed classes are not appointed? Is it for want of suitable candidates or for any other reason?”

[19th March 1926]

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—“If the question refers to the honorary assistant registrars, the answer is given for clauses (b) and (c). If the societies ask for honorary assistant registrars among the depressed classes, the Government have no objection to appoint them.”

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—“No such opinion was taken from one of the unions in the North Arcot district. The appointment was given after a petition was submitted by an individual candidate and after it was recommended by the Assistant Registrar. I do not know what the principle involved is.”

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—“I do not know what particular reference is made to the North Arcot district. If it is a point of reference I shall make the necessary inquiries.”

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—“With reference to clause (c), I wish to know what arrangements exist in the matter of the selection of these officers by the unions?”

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—“They are consulted in the matter.”

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—“Are their recommendations invariably acted upon by the Registrar?” 11-15 a.m.

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—“Generally.”

Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN:—“May I ask the hon. the Minister for Development whether there is any proposal to appoint honorary assistant registrars for the economic amelioration of the depressed classes societies, and without any special reference to unions?”

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—“I do not think the question arises.”

Fisheries.

Purchase, etc., of the fishing trawler.

* 1674 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

(a) whether the fishing trawler, the purchase of which was sanctioned by the Legislative Council at the last sitting, has been purchased; and if so, at what cost;

(b) what its dimensions and conditions are and the purposes for which it can be used, and its capacities;

(c) whether it has arrived in India and if not, when it will arrive;

(d) the cost of its voyage from England to India;

(e) what establishment it will require for being used in India; and

(f) for what use it will be put during this year, and with what profit or loss?

[19th March 1926]

A.—(a) Yes; the prime cost was £3,000.

(b) & (f) The Government have not yet received information regarding the dimensions, condition and capacity of the vessel but presume that as she was purchased by the India Office in consultation with Captain Gribb, she would be found serviceable for the purposes which they have in view. It is not possible to say whether the deep sea fishing experiments which will be conducted from the vessel would result in profit or loss.

(c) The vessel is expected to arrive in India in April 1926;

(d) It is estimated at £2,000.

(e) The question is under consideration.

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"From the answers given to clauses (b) and (f), I am led to think, Sir, that the Government sanctioned the purchase of this boat or trawler without any idea as to its dimensions, condition or capacity. They also had no idea of the establishment that would be required for the purpose for which it was purchased. Am I to understand from the answers given that this is a fact?"

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—"The dimensions and capacity are of the ordinary type and the ship also is of the ordinary type."

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"What is ordinary or extraordinary type? The question asked is about the dimensions, condition and capacity of the vessel, and the answer given is that the Government have not received any information regarding them. The hon. the Minister now says that the vessel is of the ordinary type. I think this is an answer of the ordinary type."

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"Hon. Members must not expect extraordinary answers from Ministers."

Industries.

Sale of jam manufactured at Coonoor Government Fruit Preserving Institute.

* 1675 Q.—Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state the agents or firms, if any, with whom they have entered into an arrangement for the sale of jam manufactured at the Government Fruit Preserving Institute, Coonoor, together with their addresses?

A.—A list* of wholesale distributors and stockists appointed is appended.

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"May I know, Sir, the terms entered into between the agents and the Government regarding the commission to be allowed to them?"

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—"I shall have to make a long statement, Sir. But in the absence of records, I cannot make it."

* Printed as appendix on page 382 infra.

Promotion of bone-crushing installations.

* 1676 Q.—Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state whether the Government are giving any special help to promote bone-crushing installations and, if so, of what kind and where?

A.—No.

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"Sir, was any representation received by the Government that help should be rendered to promote bonecrushing installations, either from the public or from their officers?"

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—"I think the answer is contained in the one already given that there has been no special help given to promote bone-crushing installations. I do not believe that any representation has been received."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"Sir, has not the Director of Industries, for example, recommended that bone should not be allowed to be exported from the country?"

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—"It is the Director of Agriculture that recommended it."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"Yes, has he not recommended that?"

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—"Yes, he did."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"May I know what action has been taken by the Government thereon?"

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—"The matter is under consideration."

Veterinary.

Veterinary dispensaries in the province.

* 1677 Q.—Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state the number of veterinary dispensaries in the province and whether service bulls are maintained at each of them and, if not at all, at how many of them?

A.—There are 79 veterinary institutions in the Presidency. Breeding bulls are not usually kept at the veterinary institutions, but the Government understand that two bulls which have been lent to the Madura municipality are kept at the Veterinary Hospital, Madura.

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"May I ask the hon. the Minister for Development how many bulls are kept, and where, whether the Madura municipality applied and whether the department entrusted the bulls to the care of the Madura municipality, and also whether other municipalities have been asked as to whether they would also take these bulls and use them in their veterinary hospitals?"

[19th March 1926]

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—"The stud bulls are generally in charge of the Agricultural department. The Madura municipality specially asked for two bulls, as they wanted them in the station for the Veterinary Hospital, Madura. Their request was complied with."

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"What is their number and where are they kept?"

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—"Possibly, the hon. Member will see that this question cannot be answered without notice."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"What is the result of these bulls, i.e., of keeping these bulls—whether they have produced any good results?"

Mr. ABBAS ALI KHAN:—"Sir, I come from Madura and I may say that they produce very good results."

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"May I know, Sir, the charges levied for the services rendered by the bulls?"

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"That is a separate matter and a separate question should be put."

WITHDRAWAL OF CERTAIN UNPARLIAMENTARY EXPRESSIONS USED.

Mr. ABBAS ALI KHAN:—"Mr. President, Sir, before we proceed to the next order of the day, I crave your indulgence for a few minutes to make a personal statement about what took place yesterday. In the heat of the moment, I made certain remarks which are calculated to cast some reflections upon the hon. the Minister for Education. As I am very anxious to build up, along with my Colleagues, parliamentary traditions in this country and also in this House, I want to express my sincere regret for the expressions that I used; and I withdraw them. I hope the hon. the Minister for Education will accept this. As regards the other expression that I used in the course of the budget debate, that the Ministerialist party would like to be the bridegrooms in a marriage procession and corpses in a funeral procession, if they . . ."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"That is very ancient history."

Mr. ABBAS ALI KHAN:—"I was only giving a quotation from Mark Twain."

* The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"It is only an apology for a statement made weeks back. Is this the time for an apology to be tendered for a statement made weeks back?"

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"That is what I was suggesting to the hon. Member."

Mr. ABBAS ALI KHAN:—"I trust, Sir, that the hon. the Minister will relegate it to the limbo of past history."

ELECTION OF MEMBERS TO THE MADRAS AND SOUTHERN MAHRATTA RAILWAY ADVISORY COMMITTEE AND THE COURT OF THE INDIAN INSTITUTE OF SCIENCE.

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"I have to announce to the House that Mr. R. Madanagopal Nayudu has been elected as a Member of the Court of the Indian Institute of Science. I have also to announce to the House that Diwan Bahadur P. C. Ethirajulu Nayudu and Rao Bahadur M. C. Raja have been elected as members of the Advisory Committee of the Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway Company."

IV

MOTIONS ON THE BUDGET FOR 1926-27.

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Mr. President, I am sorry to find that the hon. Member Sir K. Venkatarreddi Nayudu is not here, because he made very exhaustive statements relating to the position of irrigation in the Godavari delta and made several constructive suggestions for which I may say the Government must feel thankful to him. And out of regard for the trouble he had taken, I prepared a statement which I want to read. Therefore I feel some kind of regret that he is not here. With your permission, Sir, I will make the statement."

"In July 1925, Mr. Peddiraju put down a question asking whether the Government have called for a programme of work with regard to silt clearance and conservancy of the irrigation channels in the Godavari delta and also with reference to the appointment of a special staff for remodelling of channels and a programme for the purpose. At that time, the Government stated that they awaited detailed proposals from the Chief Engineer for the constitution of a special division for the investigation of the remodelling of the channels and the improvement of drainage in the delta. This was rendered necessary because notwithstanding that a prior discussion was initiated in March 1924, no action could be taken for want of staff."

"When Mr. Sitayya moved a motion on the 6th February 1925 in the matter of improvement of irrigation and drainage of the Godavari and Kistna deltas and desired the appointment of a committee to consider the matter, it was observed that what was wanted was not committees but staff."

"In this connexion, it must not be forgotten that this and allied questions were also discussed when the Polavaram Island project was sanctioned as a productive work and plans and estimates amounting to 18½ lakhs were sanctioned on the 23rd April 1925. It must not also be forgotten that to relieve the irrigation staff of the Kistna delta and the Godavari Western Delta from the heavy work thrown on them, two subdivisions and 12 additional sections have been proposed. The Chief Engineer has now sent in a proposition statement embodying detailed proposals for the constitution of a special division for the investigation of the remodelling of the channels and the improvement of drainage in the Godavari delta. That is now undergoing scrutiny."

[Sir C. P. Ramaswami Ayyar] [19th March 1926]

"With regard to the six and four inches pipes, the Government have admitted the cogency of the arguments underlying the observations of the Members from the delta. I stated that we have no doubt about the policy, that we were taking away the smaller pipes and that what was wanted was extra staff to go on with the work. I added during the last budget debate that proposals for an increase of staff in the Kistna district were under consideration as the existing staff was altogether inadequate. The hon. Member will, no doubt, be gratified to see that two subdivisions and 12 additional sections in the delta area in the Bezvada circle have since been sanctioned.

"So far as the Polavaram project is concerned, it will be noticed that Rs. 2,16,535 have been entered for the year under reference. Subsequently, however, on a further representation from the Chief Engineer, the amount has been fixed at three lakhs. If more money is required by the local officers in the course of the year, there will not be special difficulty in finding it and the hon. Member may rest assured that the project will not be allowed to drag on for want of funds.

"Higher shutters for the Godavari and the general question of the Anicut.—In October 1925, after dealing with the construction of new shutters over the Kistna anicut and pointing out that irrigation to the extent of about 14,000 acres is anticipated, I stated that data for the construction of higher shutters over the Godavari anicut and for improving the Vijeswaram head sluice were under scrutiny. We have not yet been able to collate the data and arrive at a decision; but the importance of the two deltas to the prosperity not only of the areas immediately affected but their general importance as great food-producing tracts will not be lost sight of.

"During the budget debate of last year, the remodelling of the Thossipudi North Side channel, and the combination of Pammuluru and Sithapalleru for the purpose of irrigating the Rajahmundry taluk were brought to the notice of Government as well as the Torrigedda scheme. I stated then that Government proposed to investigate the scheme for constructing a reservoir across the Sithapalli vagu, one of the tributaries of the Godavari. The investigation of the scheme for the construction of a reservoir just above Ramanayyapeta was also under contemplation. But the investigation has not been done for want of the necessary staff. The original proposal to construct the Torrigedda outfall sluice has been abandoned and the scheme for utilizing the waters of the Sithapalli river and supplementing the supply with water from Pammuluru was found financially impracticable. The scheme, however, for the proposed reservoir above Ramanayyapeta village will be taken up for investigation. It will be noticed that we have been steadily increasing the staff and that there has been no remissness on the part of the Government in this matter."

* Khan Bahadur P. KHALIF-UL-LAH SAHIB Bahadur:—"Mr. President, Sir, in moving this motion . . ."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Sir, I believe Sir K. Venkatarreddi Nayudu yesterday moved a cut and said that he did it only as a token motion. He was making some observation relating to one particular cut that he moved—I believe it was the one standing against his name, No. 257. He started with that and made the observation. I think it will be more formal to take it now."

19th March 1926]

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"I do not know what has become of motion No. 257 on the paper on which Sir K. Venkatarreddi made a speech. Has it been withdrawn? Who has withdrawn it? I quite remember that he did not want to move the motion."

* The hon Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"It is quite open to you, Mr. President, to take it as not moved, because it has not been pressed."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"My impression is that he made a speech and referred to the points raised in the notice given. My impression is that he did not formally move it."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR:—"What he stated was that he would speak on the motions but that he had no intention of moving them."

* Khan Bahadur P. KHALIF-UL-LAH SAHIB Bahadur:—"Mr. President, Sir, in making my motion to reduce the allotment of Rs. 2,70,000 for Kattalai scheme by Rs. 100, my object is to impress upon the Government the urgent necessity for starting the dam work at Kattalai. As I feel that I cannot put the case more strongly than the Mirasidars' Association of Trichinopoly I shall, with your permission, Sir, read what they say on the matter: 11-30 a.m.

"The Kattalai anicut is long over-due, as the irrigation of our district has been classified equal to that of Tanjore so early as 1894 and high assessment levied from us without the corresponding equality in the system.

"The history of the korambu irrigation of this district has swelled into a big volume. The precariousness and the uncertainty of water-supply from korambus had been the very reason for classifying the korambu channels as II class sources in the first settlement of 1864 and the Government published for the guidance of the Settlement Officers the Manual of the Madras Revenue Settlement compiled in 1887 by Diwan Bahadur J. Lakshmikantha Rao Garu under the orders of the Government. Section 8 of Chapter II of the said Manual reiterated the old principle that only anicut channels are to be grouped as I class sources—other channels being graded lower.

"Despite this, the korambu channels of this district were however raised to I class sources, in the resettlement of 1894 and the rates of assessment of the Tanjore anicut system were introduced here also and collected till now.

"And in 1903, when Tanjore was affected by floods, the masonry bar across the Coleroon at the Upper anicut was lowered by three feet either not caring for the interest of this district or not knowing its effect. Since then, the cry of the landowners of this district had been incessant and increasing. The Government considered it absolutely necessary to improve the irrigation scientifically and with that object . . ."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"I am sorry to interrupt the hon. Member. Is the hon. Member going to read out the whole of the document on the floor of the House? I suppose he intends reading only extracts from it."

* Khan Bahadur P. KHALIF-UL-LAH SAHIB Bahadur:—"I am only reading portions from it, Sir:

"The total failure in the last three years has necessitated the grant of remissions. The poor yields in the previous years had impoverished many a land-owner. The disastrous Cauvery floods of July 1924 have completely destroyed the padugaie, the leading channels and the banks of almost all the korambus, and have made it absolutely impossible to retain the korambus. The Public Works Department expressed that it would be impossible to give any regular supply unless an anicut at Kattalai is constructed and that the existing irrigation and revenue could not be maintained without it."

"Finally they say:

"The construction of the anicut is necessary especially on economic grounds. The recurring annual expenditure on korambus is about Rs. 1.85 lakhs in 1925-26 and yet the gauge readings in many of the channels were zero for weeks together. The remissions granted in 1924-25 and 1925-26 prove the failure of our irrigation beyond doubt. For instance, the assessment on the aysut of the Marudur Nattu Vaikkal is about Rs. 56,000 of which more than Rs. 20,000 had to be remitted in 1924-25 . . ."

[Mr. P. Khalif-ul-lah Sahib] [19th March 1926]

"So also, Sir, with reference to other channels that take their source from the Cauvery. I beg to point out therefore that unless and until the supply to these channels is regulated by some permanent means there will be absolutely no redress for the people of Trichinopoly. Not only the people but even the Government will have to suffer a great deal by way of grant of remissions of revenue. I feel grateful to Government for the several promises that they have given in this matter. We all hope however that some provision would be made in this year's budget for putting up the dam and we still hope that the Government will come to our rescue by making a provision for the purpose even now. It is only with a view to impress this necessity that was being keenly felt in the district that I move this motion."

* Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"Sir, I beg to associate myself with the remarks made by my hon. Friend from Trichinopoly. It is regrettable that more representatives from that district are not here to press the case of the ryots of the district on this very important subject. I know how acutely this is felt by the residents of the Trichinopoly district. And it was only recently, I believe, that a large deputation of the landholders of Trichinopoly waited on the hon. the Irrigation Member on this matter. It seems to me that Trichinopoly has been peculiarly affected by flood damages and a grievance like this which has been long before the public and before the Government deserves some consideration. My hon. Friend has referred to the peculiar system now in operation. I had had the advantage of being present at the time when the deputation waited on the hon. the Irrigation Member and I am sure the hon. the Irrigation Member would also have seen the numerous photographs that were brought by the members of the deputation to show how the scheme was working. Thousands of coolies are being employed on temporary work year after year and the practice is not economical. I would suggest to the Finance Department in particular to consider whether the time is not come to get rid of these barbaric, primitive methods and to once for all undertake the construction of a permanent dam which will be of immense help to the locality. I believe, Sir, there is an idea, I do not know if the hon. the Irrigation Member is impressed with it, that to a certain extent the lower riparian owners may be adversely affected. At any rate I had the impression that citizens of Tanjore are likely to object to some extent to the scheme. I do not feel myself that there will be any justification for that objection. Of course, I am not an expert nor have I examined the question as carefully as I should like to. But prima facie from the opinion that has been expressed I do not think that there is any good ground for any such objection. It is usual that wherever a thing like this is taken up there is alarm at once created. There was the alarm with reference to the Kannambadi dam but to a certain extent it was perhaps justified. But this is nothing compared to the Kannambadi dam and that ought not to influence the hon. the Irrigation Member. It seems to me, as I have said before, that it is more economical to construct the dam than to have this sort of work carried on annually as at present. With these words, I beg to associate myself heartily with my hon. Friend, Mr. Khalif-ul-lah and join in his hope that the Government will do something in the matter."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Mr. President, Sir, I think I may at once meet one of the contentions that have been adverted to—I will not say raised—by the hon. Member from Chingleput and that is with reference to the apprehensions of some of the mirasidars of Tanjore. Many of the ryots in Tanjore and indeed even persons who ought to have known better, imagine or seem to imagine that this work was a kind of big reservoir and would impound the waters on a large scale and would therefore hold up waters going down to Tanjore. I think my hon. Friend from Trichinopoly who did me the honor of accompanying me during my survey of the tracts in question will bear testimony to the fact that wherever possible—I was also seen by a large number of Tanjore mirasidars at that time—I impressed upon them and also at a public meeting said that the apprehension was unfounded and that there was no idea of impounding water and of having anything like a dam in the ordinary sense of the word. The exact expression, 'bed regulator' was not properly understood. What was said to have been contemplated was a reservoir or a dam. It seems to me that I can at once give an assurance from my place here that this scheme of a bed regulator has absolutely nothing to do with the impounding of water but is a device for the purpose of regulating the proper and adequate supply of water without resort to the korambu system. From that point of view, if the hon. Members from Tanjore who unfortunately are not here and those who share any misapprehension in the matter bear in mind what I have stated now, their fears should cease forthwith.

"The second point that I wish to make is this. It is no doubt a fact that within the last few days a number of telegrams and letters emanating from the hon. Member for Trichinopoly or rather one of the hon. Members from that place were sent to His Excellency, and other telegrams to me and to the department under the belief or mistaken impression that the Government have come to some kind of conclusion to give up the Kattalai scheme altogether. It has been pointed out that under the detailed Irrigation Budget, page 34, a sum of Rs. 2,70,000 has been budgeted for in the estimate for 1926-27 and the marginal note will make it clear that the revised estimate for Rs. 10,56,000 is under consideration of Government. When it is borne in mind that the first estimate that came to Government was for about 6½ lakhs, and that the revised estimate is for 10½ lakhs, hon. Members will realize that the Government cannot at once arrive at a conclusion on the matter and that a great deal of scrutiny is necessary. It is that kind of scrutiny that is taking place. And we shall go into the matter, investigate the question and no avoidable delay will take place. If necessary, we shall be going on with the scheme and shall come before the House with a demand for a supplementary grant. There is no difficulty in a matter of this kind. It is of great importance and has been very much pressed forward by a number of people. The provision is made, I think, for as much as could be spent on the work. If the scheme is sanctioned and the work is started and if more funds are required, we shall come to the House for more money. But my submission to the House at present is that the whole subject is under the consideration of the Government just now. With reference to the telegrams and the number of representations and letters, and the personal statements made by an influential deputation from Trichinopoly, and in reply to the various hon. Members of this House who were good enough to call upon me, we have called for information especially as it seems to have been thought that the local officers had condemned the scheme or wanted to give it up. I may say that the proposal is under investigation with reference to the further estimate that has been made and that the investigation will be made as soon as possible. I do not want to say more than this, that there is no intention on the part of Government at present to give up the scheme which as I said is under investigation."

* Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—" May I ask, Sir, whether the allotment in the budget is made for this scheme ? "

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" The present budget allotment is for part of the bigger scheme."

* Khan Bahadur P. KHALIF-UL-LAH SAHIB Bahadur :—" The apprehension in the minds of the people is about this matter. The allotment made in the budget is stated to be for canal improvements which has nothing to do with the bed regulator about which we are now debating. The apprehension in their minds is that absolutely no provision has been made for the bed regulator as such and if only the hon. the Law Member would give us the assurance that a part of this provision would be spent on the bed regulator, our apprehension would cease."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" I think I shall make a statement which may satisfy hon. Members. As soon as the investigation by the Chief Engineer with regard to the estimate is made, a communiqué will be issued by the Government without any avoidable delay saying what the Government propose to do, how they intend to make use of the money and what period would be taken by them."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Sir, I move

' that the allotment of Rs. 1,18,06,100 for Irrigation Works—Productive be reduced by Rs. 101.'

" Sir, the hon. the Law Member has more than once said in this House that the need of the Ceded districts among which Bellary is included for improved sources of irrigation is very urgent.

" He added further, Sir, that the needs of the districts would not be met by small projects, but can only be met adequately by a big project which will depend not on the local rainfall, but on supplies which depend on rainfall elsewhere. And he has been good enough also to employ a staff for a certain period of time in order to make investigations into this matter. The result of it was that an estimate was prepared for what is called the West Canal Project. It was hitherto said that any project which may be initiated in these districts was not likely to be remunerative. But when once they seriously tackled this question and investigated it and prepared plans and estimates, the plea hitherto urged forward, namely, that the projects initiated there may not prove remunerative holds no longer good. What does the Chief Engineer for Irrigation say in his report of this scheme? He says that more than 60,000 acres of wet crop might be raised under this canal and that the return on the money spent on that would be somewhere about 8.38 per cent. So, considered from the point of view of remuneration, this seems to be quite as good as any of the other schemes which may be tender the consideration of the Government. And as regards the need for these schemes in these districts, Sir, there are no two opinions, and yet I am sorry to say that this scheme seems to make no further progress from where it was in August 1925. In answer to one of my questions the hon. the Law Member said to-day that the matter had been referred once again to the Director of Agriculture and the Chief Engineer for further information. He said that a reference was made as to whether the soil was fit for growing wet crops thereon. I would only refer him to the remarks made in the report of the Chief Engineer wherein it is stated that the soil is entirely red loam and is fertile and is entirely suited to wet crops. Where then is the need for this further reference, Sir? It cannot be contended that this scheme should be hung up because of other schemes that may need investigation. The hon. the Law Member admitted the other day that even if this West Canal Project is executed and subsequently the East Canal scheme is initiated, the loss to the Government would not be considerable being limited to the submersion of a thousand acres. That surely cannot stand in the way of the initiation of this project. And then, I want to know what provision he has made in the budget for the execution of this project or whether he intends to apply for a supplementary grant in regard to this. Then again, what about the East Canal Project? Is he going to employ any staff for revising the old estimates and adapting them to the present requirements? On these points I want information from the hon. the Law Member, and I have tabled this motion for that purpose, Sir."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Mr. President, Sir, I am glad to have the opportunity to review the position with regard to the irrigation of the Ceded districts, especially as my hon. Friend from Cuddapah put some questions to me regarding the Cuddapah-Kurnool canal and his queries have been supplemented by what has fallen from the hon. Member, Mr. Ranganatha Mudaliyar. Now, Sir, hon. Members of this House are fully aware that a committee composed of the representatives of the Ceded districts with Mr. Arokyaswami Mudaliyar, a very experienced Irrigation Engineer, who had special knowledge of the Ceded districts as Chairman, was constituted for the purpose of going into the whole matter. They submitted a preliminary report and they have also now submitted their final report. May I, Sir, with your leave, advert very briefly to the conclusions embodied in the final report? I may say at once that the Government have not yet considered and passed final orders on the report of the Ceded Districts Irrigation Committee but expect to do so very shortly, indeed almost immediately after the budget season is over and we have some time for the necessary conferences."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" I have to state one thing, with regard to that final report. Many members have not signed it or seen it. I think it is still under circulation, and so far as I am concerned, I do not know what its contents are."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" I shall then not refer to it, Sir, inasmuch as I do not want to raise any question of controversy. It may be that in the formulation of the recommendations or final report of which I have got only a proof copy, the hon. Members may have some differences inter se and therefore I wish to say nothing which might prejudice this question. But I think I am perfectly safe in stating this, that they, in the main, taking the final report in conjunction with the preliminary report, agree with the proposition that these small reservoir and irrigation schemes in the Ceded districts have failed because of the soil and rainfall of those districts except in certain isolated instances and because of the difficulty of retaining water sufficiently well and long in order to produce the effect desired, and that therefore the best solution of the difficulty would be to embark upon some such project as the Bellary West Canal Project or the Tungabhadra Project. I find that my hon. Friend, Mr. Ranganatha Mudaliyar, is looking very distressed just now over the statements that I have made. Apparently he is referring to the ancient and supply channel schemes from Chinnahagari river and the schemes of the Hadagalli taluk and so forth which I know are very dear to his heart. (Mr. A. Ranganatha Mudaliyar: 'Along with this'.) Yes. I am not referring to specific schemes like that. There are certain small schemes which are useful and can be initiated in the Ceded districts."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" May I just say this, Sir, that my distress was not so much about the references to the small schemes by the hon. the Law Member as about what he said about the soil, etc. I did not quite catch what he said."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" In the case of some reservoir schemes that have been started and which have failed in the Ceded districts, they have failed, because the water is not retained and the scantiness of the rainfall and the nature of the soil are such that the water cannot be retained. That has been the report submitted to us. Now, Sir, I may at once refer to what has happened. This question of irrigation facilities for the Ceded districts has been urged on the Government for some time and the preliminary report was considered by Government, and we found it necessary to call for a final report. There has been no delay in action being taken on the Committee's report because the final report has not even been circulated wholly. The West Canal Project, I may say, has been referred to the Director of Agriculture for examination and report on the suitability of the soil, its irrigable nature and other conditions, and has also been referred for revenue forecast. The point is this. Hon. Members will have noticed that there has been a certain amount of experience gained both with regard to the Sukkur Barrage scheme and with regard to the Punjab scheme. What was once taken to be axiomatic, namely, that the bringing in of water to a tract will necessarily be useful for the purpose of production of wet crops is not now accepted at face value as it was some time ago. Very much depends upon the soil, and there are questions raised which went up to Parliament with regard to Sukkur on the topic of the suitability of the soil for wet cultivation from the waters impounded in the barrage. The question of alkalinity has also been raised in the Punjab. It is in order to meet all these difficulties that the Director of Agriculture has been asked to report on that matter, and I do not think there will be much delay over his report. I realize that the Chief Engineer has already stated that the soil is favourable for the purpose of irrigation. Now, I may also say that as soon as the reports from the Director of Agriculture and the Chief Engineer are received, we shall take up the Bellary West Canal Project for execution. The Government are pledged to do so. I have said so already last year and we are pledged to it, and it may be taken that Government are anxious to make a beginning with a really useful scheme of irrigation in the Ceded districts and to relieve the undoubted distress there, as the best form of famine insurance, as I said more than once,

" So far as the bigger project, the Tungabhadra Project or the Sangameswaram Project is concerned, hon. Members are aware of the difficulties of the Madras Government. I do not want to repeat the remarks I made on the last occasion as to what those difficulties were. A reservoir could very advantageously be started on the borders of Hyderabad State and of Madras. That was the original scheme, and there were many difficulties encountered in that matter, because His Exalted Highness the Nizam of Hyderabad wanted the transfer of allegiance in regard to some of the territories of this Government as a compensation for submergence. That could not, for various reasons connected with high state policy, be acceded to. At present the idea is to explore the possibilities of a reservoir on the borders of Bombay and Madras where similar difficulties will not arise. Government are convinced that in order effectively and adequately to meet the problem of the Ceded Districts irrigation, it is not much use tinkering with small schemes, but they should take up a big scheme of impounding waters in a dam like the Mettur or the Kannambadi dam and proceed on that basis. At the present moment, I think the Ceded Districts Irrigation Committee has arrived, tentatively at all events, at the conclusion that the best means of approaching this problem would be to explore the possibilities of a reservoir on the borders of Bombay and Madras. Now, that being so, as soon as the report is considered by the Government, if Government finds itself supported by the report, the investigation will be started without any avoidable delay with regard to that matter. And I may say that in the budget provision is made for a certain amount of work apart from the big schemes. I do not say it is sufficient but the question of appointing a staff for investigation of the Hagari river scheme has been now referred to the Revenue Department for remarks, and after the report is received orders will be passed upon it almost immediately. I have expressed myself so often on the whole question of the Ceded Districts irrigation that I do not wish to repeat my remarks, but would only say that we are awaiting with anxiety and interest the final report and the observations of hon. Members who are members of that Committee, and will take action on the matter as soon as the report has been considered by the Government."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Sir, I have to refer, I think to two or three points made by the hon. the Law Member. The first of them refers to the small schemes. My idea is not that the Government should embark on small schemes which will become superfluous by the execution of either the West Canal or the East Canal Projects. There are certain tracts in the districts which will be unaffected by the execution of either of these schemes and they are also in need of irrigation facilities. I agree with him when he says that any scheme that might be initiated in those districts would be insecure if it depends only on the rainfall of the district. So I do not want that he should embark on any schemes depending on the rainfall of the district. But there are rivers like Chinahagari and Peddabagari which take their source in plateaus where there is abundant rainfall and which will give enough supply to any fairly big irrigation scheme that might be executed in those parts. It was with reference to those possibilities that I have mentioned those two or three schemes which were read out by the hon. the Law Member. They are paying schemes and the money spent on them will not be much, and the return will be adequate, and they depend for their supply on water which comes down that river due to rainfall which falls in the Mysore

[Mr. A. Ranganatha Mudaliyar] [19th March 1926]

State. So, I do not think his argument that no small scheme in that district is likely to prove remunerative because of the climatic conditions there has much weight."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Sir, I think I was careful in my speech to say that my general remarks do not apply to Hagari or other schemes which have been put before the Revenue Department for forecast and investigation."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Very well, Sir, then as regards the other thing, I too am not for the carrying out of any scheme which is dependent upon the generosity or the caprice of His Exalted Highness the Nizam."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Order, order. Hon. Members must not use words like 'caprice' with reference to an ally of the Government."

12 noon.

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" On his pleasure shall I say it ?"

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" That is more parliamentary."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" As a matter of fact there are many sites within the British territory on which these reservoirs may be built up. In fact the Chief Engineer's report mentions that fact. He said that the possibility of a huge reservoir higher up was under consideration and that the prospects were very bright. So it only remains with the Government to push forward investigations in these directions and expedite matters. These are the two observations that I wanted to make and without further taking up the time of the Council I will withdraw the motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. B. RAMACHANDRA REDDI :—" I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 1,26,92,500 for Irrigation works be reduced by 1 lakh.'"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" May I venture to enquire from the hon. Member whether he means a reduction or a token motion ?"

* Mr. B. RAMACHANDRA REDDI :—" I was just going to say that it will be a token motion."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" He might modify it into 100."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" If it is merely an expression of his feelings, Sir, I do not object to it."

* Mr. B. RAMACHANDRA REDDI :—" The feeling was so much that I had to put it as one lakh." (Laughter)

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Why did the hon. Member stop with one lakh then ?"

* Mr. B. RAMACHANDRA REDDI :—" Sir, yesterday while I moved a cut with reference to the minor irrigation tanks and the necessary improvements to be made for them in the Nellore district, I informed the House of the very bad state of the minor irrigation tanks. But when the hon. the Revenue Member was replying to that he gave me to understand that the hon. the Irrigation Member was giving a patient hearing to those things. And now when answering the previous motion the hon. the Irrigation Member has said that the Tungabhadra project scheme is almost dropped."

19th March 1926]

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" No, Sir, on the contrary."

* Mr. B. RAMACHANDRA REDDI :—" Then, Sir, my position is easier. For more than two decades this Tungabhadra scheme has been under consideration and for the last couple of years I think it has been seriously taken into consideration. In Mr. Morgan's report it is said that Bellary, Anantapur, Kurnool, Cuddapah and Nellore districts are going to be benefited by this Tungabhadra project. Now, Sir, the Ceded Districts Irrigation Enquiry Committee that has been appointed and that has submitted a report has totally neglected the interests of Nellore district. On a former occasion I invited the attention of the hon. the Irrigation Member to this mishap and I once more, if I do not tire his patience, ask him."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" May I crave your leave, Sir, to say a word which though not on a matter of personal explanation might have the effect of shortening the observations of my hon. Friend? It is no doubt a fact that the preliminary report of the Ceded Districts Irrigation Enquiry Committee did not consider any schemes directly affecting the Nellore district. But I think I can say that in the final report that will be shortly placed on the Editors' table they have proposed a modification of the original Tungabhadra project in which they have indicated certain component works in the order of priority and have included the extension of irrigation in the Nellore and the Sangam deltas."

* Mr. B. RAMACHANDRA REDDI :—" Now that this information has been given to me I do not like to take the House once more into the details of the Irrigation Committee report. I would only urge upon him the necessity of looking towards the Nellore district also when considering the Tungabhadra project. Further the existing irrigation sources in the Nellore district apart from those that I have dealt with yesterday are not quite adequate. The Pennar river canal system and the Kanigiri reservoir, the Sangam delta, as it is called, all these require some attention. It is not even four decades since the reservoir has been formed and the full tank level of the reservoir is 21 feet. Within these few years it is silted up to the extent of 7 feet and the supply channel that takes water from the Pennar river to the reservoir is also silted up thereby making the supply into the reservoir unsatisfactory. Some means must be devised to see that the silt is removed gradually at least though not all on a sudden. If that is not done, the project that has been first constructed to serve a lakh and a half acres in Kovur taluk will not in the long run, nay, even very soon, be able to irrigate even a quarter of that. As it is, the fullest extent that has been irrigated under this reservoir has come to only 70,000 acres and even for the first crop water is insufficient and a great deal of difficulty is felt by the ryots in reaping their first harvests. We have been hoping that the extension of the Tungabhadra project will go a great way to diminish the difficulties of the ryots under this delta and if that is realized that will surely be conferring a boon upon that locality. Another thing to which I wish to draw the attention of the hon. the Irrigation Member is that that particular reservoir is not properly provided with a drainage scheme."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Which ?"

[19th March 1926]

* Mr. B. RAMACHANDRA REDDI:—"The Kanigiri reservoir. Estimates have been prepared I was told but none of them have been properly considered and none of them have been passed. The result is that the difficulties with regard to the drainage system of that particular reservoir, the Kanigiri reservoir, stand where they are. It so happens sometimes in the rainy seasons that on account of the excess of supply both from the Pennar river and also from the catchment area of this reservoir there will be an imminent danger of the tank bunds breaking up. At that juncture there is no possibility of removing water from the reservoir out into the sea or into the Pennar river once more. The consequence is the ryots in that particular locality are always under the apprehension whenever the reservoir is full that the tank bunds will break involving considerable loss to all concerned. This is a thing which should engage the attention of the Government immediately. I hope, Sir, the hon. the Irrigation Member has taken note of all that I have said yesterday and to-day and will provide for remedying the grievances."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Mr. President, Sir, to continue what I stated by way of interruption when my hon. Friend from Nellore was speaking, may I say that the Ceded Districts Irrigation Enquiry Committee recommends the extension of irrigation in the Nellore and Sangam deltas and second-crop extension? It contemplates a reservoir on the Pennar at Someswaram. It adverts to the north canal from Someswaram to Panneru and the south canal from Someswaram to Palar. The committee has not been unmindful of the interests of Nellore but on the other hand a very ambitious scheme has been provided. So ambitious is it, Mr. President, that I must at the risk of disappointing certain expectations say this that this is not only a 3-crore or 4-crore scheme but an 8-crore scheme as now finally adumbrated. It has therefore to be designed with great care and many factors have to be examined and put in proper perspective before it can be set in motion, not the least of these factors being the financial aspect of the matter, and I already see my hon. Friend to the right (Finance Member) looking somewhat sombre at the possibility of an 8 crore scheme being suddenly dumped on his devoted head. In any case it seems to me there are possibilities of immediate mitigation of distress in some of these tracts. That is possible, so I have been told, and portions of these schemes can be started separately to be connected up with the bigger schemes when they come to pass. The possibility will be explored and the idea will not be lost sight of. I have kept in view the remarks that have fallen from the hon. Member for Nellore and I shall remember all that has fallen from the hon. Member and see what I can do."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Khan Bahadur P. KHALIF-UL-LAH SAHIB Bahadur:—"May I know what has become of my motion?"

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"I thought he was not moving that: he can now move."

* Khan Bahadur P. KHALIF-UL-LAH SAHIB Bahadur:—"Mr. President, Sir, as I have already stated my only object in making this motion, viz., that the allotment of Rs. 95,00,000 for Cauvery-Mettur Reservoir project be reduced by Rs. 100 is to impress upon Government the very strong necessity that is being felt by not only my district of Trichinopoly but also the neighbouring districts of Salem and Coimbatore in the matter of taking advantage of the large schemes which are connected with the Mettur project.

"I should think that every Member of this hon. House is aware that all these three districts may very well be classed as famine-stricken, or at any rate that famine conditions are prevailing very often in these districts of late. I do not know personally the actual conditions of Coimbatore and Salem. But with regard to Trichinopoly, my district, I may say that famine conditions are obtaining on account of several reasons. We have suffered very heavily on account of the rains and also for want of rains. Every one of us is aware how Trichinopoly suffered during the last floods of 1920 and 1924, and also, Sir, we are aware how we are suffering now, in the year 1925-26. If any proof is needed, I need only refer to the very flourishing progress made in recruitment by the Labour Commission which has its headquarters at Trichinopoly. The very rapid way in which numbers of labourers accumulate in the depots at Trichinopoly is ample evidence of the fact that the conditions that obtain to-day at Trichinopoly are not favourable for the retention of its labouring classes. It is therefore, Sir, that I beg to point out that it is the primary duty of the Government to see that something is done to this district to relieve the situation, and so far as it strikes me I should point out that the Mettur project affords a very good occasion for some material good being done to my district. If my information is right, at one time in the life of this project my district had come in for its own share of the scheme. When last I had a talk with the hon. the Irrigation Member what he told me was that we were rather too late in urging our demands upon Government. From that I would not be wrong if I say that the hon. the Law Member was really convinced of our claims, and it was only for that reason, I take it, he said that we were rather late in urging our claims. If I am right in my interpretation, I should think that justice can never be demanded too late and it can never come too late, and provided you are satisfied with the justice of our claims, you must render it whether we ask for it early or late. So far as Trichinopoly is concerned, what I urge here is that, instead of taking the water that is conserved for the Mettur project along the beaten tract of the Coleroon, and taking it right through all those three districts for the supply of the Pattukkottai taluk in the Tanjore district, it may be taken through another tract to the same Pattukkottai taluk, at the same time giving a little share to the dry portions of the Trichinopoly district, the main portion of which lie in the Trichinopoly and Kulittalai taluks of the Trichinopoly district. There are in this area very large tracts of dry land which are capable of being converted into first-class wet area and it is in this area especially that the Kallar class of the Trichinopoly district are mostly congregated. If you convert this area into good cultivable land, Government will be not only doing their duty in the matter of irrigation but also will be relieving the Labour Department and also other departments of this Government of a good deal of their work. This Kallar class would be induced to give up their nefarious ways. Most of these people who are now engaging themselves in illegal practices will by this irrigation process be induced to resort to a more honest means of living. This will lead to a direct increase of revenue not only of the Government, but also of the local boards, and I cannot be wrong if I include also the municipalities in this matter. By bringing a larger area of land under irrigation, the source of revenue of local boards is directly improved, and thus there will be a good increase in the revenues of the local boards which will be utilized for the improvement of the local roads, for the improvement of education of these classes, and for the improvement of the health of these people. So, it is, Sir, that I urge that this is a prime necessity for the district of Trichinopoly, and I also feel that will be the same for the districts of Coimbatore and Salem. I am only sorry that hon. Members from Salem and Coimbatore are not present here except Dr. Subbarayan. I hope he will himself give more definite information than I have given, so far as Salem and Coimbatore are concerned. I urge, Sir, that the case for Trichinopoly and the other two districts is very strong, and it deserves the most urgent consideration at the hands of Government. I only hope that the hon. the Law Member will be pleased to give due consideration to our very legitimate claims and come to our rescue."

p.m.

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Mr. President, Sir, I think I may say a few words in elucidation of the general programme and position with reference to the Mettur Reservoir scheme. It will be remembered, Mr. President, that not one of the least important objects of the Mettur scheme, I may almost say the primary object of the particular scheme—is to impound within a reservoir water which is flowing fitfully in 'uneven lumps' as has been put in a note before me and at diverse times, and is often wasted in the sea, in order to impound all that water for the purpose in the first place of conserving the present irrigation of the Cauvery delta. In much of the discussion that has taken place with regard to the Mettur scheme, it is forgotten that the extension of irrigation to the extent of 300 or 400 thousand acres that is to be one of the results of the Mettur scheme is when properly considered only a secondary aspect, or a bye-product of the scheme. The main object of the Government is to see to it that alternations of scarce water and over abundant water do not disturb the irrigation of the Tanjore and Trichinopoly tracts, so that Trichinopoly and Tanjore might have an assured supply at all times, by means of a reservoir from which water can be passed out in regulated and adequate quantities. That is the first proposition which I am contending for this House, namely, that the object of the Mettur scheme is not so much for the purpose of increasing or extending irrigation to the Pattukkottai and Arantangi taluks of the Tanjore district, as for safeguarding the variable floods and regulating the manner in which water goes down to the deltas and impounding it so that you may be sure of a continuous and sufficient supply at all times. The next position is one which was very correctly, and, if I may say so, very accurately put by the hon. Member Sir K. Venkatarreddi Nayudu in speaking of Godavari and Kistna deltas. He pointed out with great force that the object of the State should be at the least cost to produce the greatest amount of food grains. Now, the question is if we are going to spend 5 or 6 crores for the scheme what is the way of spending it so as to produce the greatest amount of food grains for the least expenditure. That is, if you can by spending X Rs. produce a certain amount of grain at the least expense in a particular locality that is not really benefiting that locality so much as conferring a benefit to be derived by the country as a whole. Now, Sir, Government is at present considering—I may probably save labour on the part of other hon. Members by saying so—the Chief Engineer is considering the question of Salem and Coimbatore also. As regards Coimbatore, I may at once say this; the hon. Members from Coimbatore have urged as an alternative a scheme called the Upper Bhavani scheme which really will bring into cultivation about 300 to 400 thousand acres in a tract which is at present naturally dry. That matter is now receiving immediate attention from Government. Mr. Macmichael recently visited certain localities in the Punjab where dry tracts were irrigated by a scheme like that, and we are awaiting his report; and the Upper Bhavani scheme will be adopted if it is found to be more expedient, for the reason that it would be more advantageous to bring a big tract of dry land under irrigation rather than merely intensify wet irrigation. That is so far as Coimbatore is concerned. So far as Salem goes,—the hon. Member for Salem has already referred to it—the question of possible extension to Salem is a question of engineering possibility. You cannot make water flow uphill, and the levels are the problem. The matter has been very carefully considered by Government from that point of view.

"In regard to Trichinopoly, what I meant to say was this: the particular extension to Trichinopoly which was advocated by my hon. Friend from Trichinopoly and certain others was considered years and years ago when the original Mettur scheme was on the tapis and was given up. Then there was no lack of willingness on the part of the Government to help Trichinopoly. But somehow or other they let it slip. Then plans were formulated, schemes were prepared and for 30 years discussion has proceeded on the schemes formulated on the basis that a particular tract which was proposed to be irrigated by the original scheme was not within the ambit of the new scheme. Now that we have gone to the Secretary of State and obtained the sanction to a particular scheme and made a move on, it is very difficult to change the whole aspect of the scheme. But the Mettur Committee has made certain reports, and we shall place the results of the reports in regard to Salem, Coimbatore and Trichinopoly on the table of the House. I do not wish to give any hope but I do not wish to say anything which will shut the door. All I can say is that the question will have to be considered from the two points of view, which I have stressed, namely protection with reference to the existing irrigation of the Cauvery delta and the extension only so far as would be most economical from the point of view of food production with reference to the conditions of the Presidency taken as a whole."

Dr. P. SUBBARAYAN :—" Sir, I am very glad of the assurance given by the hon. the Law Member and I quite agree with the two points he made. I only want to traverse the conclusions drawn by him. The engineering experts whom I have consulted and who have served in the district have assured me that it is not such an impossible feat as all that and the levels are not so hopeless as the Law Member and his advisers make out. It is only from that point of view I wish to consider the scheme. The Cauvery is the chief source of irrigation in the district I come from. If you cannot do anything from the Cauvery, it is impossible to do anything for the district. For the last four or five years when the monsoon failed in this particular locality, there is not even fodder for the cattle, let alone food-grains for the people. I only wish the hon. the Law Member will take the trouble to go through the whole area through which the Cauvery passes and he will then realize what difficulties the people are subject to there.

[Dr. P. Subbarayan]

"Secondly, I am glad to hear he is considering the Upper Bhavani scheme and if it is advantageous he would take it up. I am only referring to the second point, that is, the large quantity of grain that is to be produced in the presidency. I shall refer the hon. the Law Member to the report of the Director of Agriculture wherein he says that the agricultural population of the Coimbatore district and the two taluks of Salem district which the community to which I have the honour to belong inhabit, are the most scientific agriculturists in the whole presidency and they generally try to produce as much as they can out of the land. Even though their methods of agriculture may be crude, still they are shrewd agriculturists. From that point of view alone, I hope the hon. the Law Member will take the matter into consideration and see to the Mettur project being useful to Coimbatore and Salem, as the two taluks to be affected are the taluks in which the particular community resides."

* Khan Bahadur P. KHALIF-UL-LAH SAHIB Bahadur :—"Sir, the hon. the Law Member remarked that the main object of the Mettur project is to conserve the present supply of water in the Cauvery. Even on that view I would urge the necessity for its diversion across the district of Trichinopoly. Of course, as the hon. the Irrigation Member knows too well, any new diversion will only help to lessen the floods in channels and thereby act as a very good medium for conserving the present channels. I do not want to press the motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"I rise to move that the allotment of Rs. 1,26,02,200 for Irrigation, Navigation, etc., be reduced by Rs. 1,000.

"Sir, I would not have moved this motion at all but for certain remarks which fell from the honourable lips of the hon. the Law Member." (Laughter.)

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Is it Parliamentary, Sir?"

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Does the hon. Member (Mr. Narasimhacharlu) mean it ironically?"

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"Honourably. I always consider that whatever falls from his lips is uttered with the object of fulfilling it." (Laughter.)

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"It is not necessary to describe the lips as honourable because the whole includes the part." (Laughter.)

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"Only I wanted to put it more expressively. If it is not wanted, I am not going to give it. (Laughter.) He says with reference to the Ceded districts—I wish particularly to invite his attention to the Cuddapah district, where there are a number of rivers which are not of any use to the district but which may be made useful in several ways—'what is the use of thinking about small schemes?' I submit, Sir, that from his point of view they may not be very useful, but from the point of view of the district I consider them to be very useful. When he is dealing with crores and crores of rupees perhaps he may ignore these small lakhs as unworthy of his consideration."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"No, Sir."

[19th March 1926]

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"I am very glad to hear that. So I submit, Sir, that even if they are small schemes they should be taken up, investigated and estimates prepared and then the schemes should be carried through. As regards the Cuddapah-Kurnool canal, even in February the canal dries up, so that there is no hope of any second crop being successfully raised on the land. It may be that this canal may not be productive from the Government point of view, but I submit that if you consider Cuddapah separately, you will find that, so far as Cuddapah district is concerned, this canal is very largely used and is really productive, but when tacked on to Kurnool it does not appear to be productive. I therefore submit that every effort should be made to improve the water that is now being let into the Cuddapah-Kurnool canal, so far as the Cuddapah district is concerned."

"Thirdly, we thought of a scheme whereby water from the Kistna may be drawn on through the Kurnool district and to Badvel taluk. This taluk contains a large number of tanks. Therefore, if water is brought from the Kistna through Kurnool into Badvel and Sidhout taluks it would afford a very useful supply not only to the existing tanks but also for new facilities for the purpose of irrigation in these taluks. I submit this is a matter which should not be ignored. There are also some other schemes, for instance, the Cheyyur project and other projects. All this will be useful to particular taluks. This, on account of the smallness, should not be ignored altogether. It should not be the policy of the Government to give water to those that already have it and ignore the interests of those that have not got it. Sir, this is a famine zone. You have spent a large amount of money in affording relief to the famine-stricken. My hon. Friend from Trichinopoly said that Trichinopoly is a famine-stricken place. If Trichinopoly can be called famine-stricken, I do not know by what name to call the Ceded districts and more especially Cuddapah. I submit that there is no one to look after our interests. I have no doubt the hon. the Law Member has got a very good case here, but all his attention is being diverted to Mettur project, Kattalai dam, Kannambadi dam or some such thing."

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"The Maharaja of Mysore will not allow us to divert our attention to the Kannambadi dam because it is his property."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"He has devoted some attention and brought about a useful compromise. I am only referring to that. So, I say he is only diverting his attention to these things. But if he will divert his attention to these small things that I am referring to, he will earn the gratitude of thousands and thousands who are now starving. Let him not forget small schemes. In addition to that, he may launch upon big schemes which will bring perennial supply of water to those districts."

"The hon. the Law Member then dwelt upon the nature of the soil. He said that the soil is such that it is unfit for wet cultivation. I do not know who gave this information to him. I do not find any such thing. We have got a large number of tanks which retain water. The soil there is very fertile and people in the Cuddapah district really wish to convert their dry lands into wet. It is only in Kurnool that people find it otherwise. I think he is not properly informed so far as the conditions in Cuddapah district are concerned. I find no provision at all for any kind of estimates for the Ceded districts or for investigation or preparation of plans. Nothing of the kind is provided for in the Budget estimates. I submit he ought not to leave the matter here, but he ought in right earnest to take it up. If he does so, the thanks and the blessings of the really famine-stricken districts will be upon him and his posterity. I ask whether he is going to earn them or leave this world without earning them."

[Mr. T. M. Narasimhacharlu] [19th March 1926]

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" It was, I think, on a different occasion that my hon. Friend adverted to his prerogative of offering advice and blessing in a sacerdotal capacity. Sir, I have listened with some interest and with much profit to what has fallen from the hon. Member from Cuddapah. And if I give an answer which may not wholly please him, I trust I shall not earn those rewards which I am afraid he is preparing to bestow. Now, Sir, it is not a fact that Government have solely concentrated their attention either upon Mettur or upon any such scheme as the Bhavani scheme to the detriment and disadvantage of the famine-stricken parts. The fact of the matter, as my hon. Friend Mr. Narasimhacharlu will realize, is this. During the last two years we have had to spend large sums continuously for the purpose of relieving people from flood and distress. What may be called our normal irrigation programme has really been deflected by the fact that from time to time we have to spend out of revenue large sums of money in Tinnevely, Trichinopoly, Tanjore and other places. (Rai Bahadur T. M. Narasimhacharlu: 'All in the South.') For the South has suffered from the floods, and surely my hon. Friend—I won't call him provincial—is too Cuddapaish; if all the sufferings take place in the Tambraparni tract on account of floods there or if on account of the unparalleled and devastating havoc that was wrought in Tanjore and Trichinopoly the people there are suffering, then am I to take it that all these things will not move his heart?

12-45 p.m. " Now, with regard to the first observation that he made, what I was endeavouring to point out was that, following upon projects designed long ago, a number of reservoirs were constructed in various places in Ceded districts and many of them have turned out to be failures because these projects and reservoirs depended, and frankly depended, upon seasonal rainfalls. The reservoirs which were constructed for the retention of water retained it for sometime but afterwards failed. Such failures are well known to residents, certainly of Kurnool, and also of Cuddapah. It is in order to obviate such risks and in order to prevent such avoidable waste of money the Government after a very careful consideration came to the conclusion that it was no good spending upon schemes depending for their supply of water upon local rainfall but the best plan is to concentrate upon schemes which might get a perennial supply of water so that they might be useful not only to the districts in which they are started but also to districts outside. It is only with reference to this consideration that I said that Government were not very much enamoured of schemes which were embarked upon in the past. We are all anxious to concentrate our attention upon schemes which would bring water from outside to fertilise the areas in the Ceded districts. That is one point I wish to make clear. I, however, realise the point made by my hon. Friend, viz., the distinction between Kurnool and Cuddapah with regard to those schemes. He pointed out in regard to Cuddapah that there are certain rivers and other sources of water-supply which may be availed of. He has been a diligent student and naturally should have gone through Morgan's report."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" That report is antediluvian."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" It is antediluvian but we must also learn from the past. It is dated 1921. Five years may be in certain cases equivalent to five millenniums. All I can say is the report was published and the scheme was estimated in it to cost 42·8 lakhs of rupees, and it was expected that this outlay would return an yield of 356 lakhs which is equivalent to a return of 2 per cent. It is on account of this poor return the scheme was given up, and not because people were oblivious to the interests of the Ceded districts.

" My Friend from Cuddapah also referred to the possibility of starting investigations with regard to small works in Cuddapah district. All I can say is I shall bear this in mind and if any differentiation can legitimately be made between Kurnool and Cuddapah in the starting of certain schemes and if such schemes were to be beneficial to the district as a whole, they will receive my due consideration. But if they are small schemes which would be of use only to isolated tracts, they cannot be embarked upon. However, it seems to me that the real solution of the problem of the Ceded districts irrigation apart from those large schemes of Sangameswaram or the Tungabhadra is a big expansion of well irrigation. It is on these lines that irrigation of the Ceded districts should be developed. It is in this direction the activities and energy of the Members of Government can most usefully and legitimately be employed, and I may say that Government are not oblivious to this aspect of the problem."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

V

MOTION FOR THE ADJOURNMENT OF THE HOUSE sine die.

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" Before I go to move my motion I propose to move, under Standing Order No. 34, the adjournment of the present business in which this Council is engaged sine die."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" In the absence of a seconder I am afraid the motion falls to the ground."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" No, Sir, I thought you wanted to read the rule. However, I am going to give my reasons."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Why did the hon. Member resume his seat?"

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" Because you got up. You were referring to the book. I thought you were referring to the Standing Orders."

" I move under Standing Order No. 34 for adjournment sine die of the present business in which this Council is engaged, namely, the budget debate, because this House has practically ceased and finds itself impossible to function from these causes among others—(1) the exodus and absence of the majority of its elected Members in their hopeless despair to effect anything good."

[19th March 1926]

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Not shared by the hon. Member."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"And (2) the failure of Government to take the small rump into confidence . . ."

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"I must object to the use of this objectionable expression with reference to any portion of the House."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I am sorry. However the word is used in the English History."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"That everybody knows. But the hon. Member must not use such expressions."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I shall then use the word . . ."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"The hon. Member has not withdrawn it."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"Yes, I withdraw it. I think the word 'remnants' would be better."

"Coming to my motion, I may say (2) the failure of Government to take the small remnants of the House into confidence by a clear enunciation of the principles and policy underlying the excess demands on some very important matters and (3) the impossibility of pressing any reasonable motion to a division with any hope of success on account of Government's determination to take undue advantage of their official majority in an unrepresentative House. These reasons need hardly be proved by facts. I may only draw attention to the fact that the elected Members of this House have been defeated on some important motions which had been pressed with success on several previous occasions, disasters which my hon. Friend from Chingleput could not evidently have foreseen when he gloried over the exodus of the Congress Members from the House as if it left his party to win its spurs unfettered and unchecked. The evasive way the hon. the Minister for Education faced the question of representation of the minorities in the Registration department was soon matched by the superficial manner of and unwarranted display of indignation by the Treasury Bench . . ."

* Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"On a point of order, Sir. The hon. Member is attacking other hon. Members in the guise of making a statement to which we will have no chance of replying. I am sure he is aware that he will have no seconder and therefore he is taking this opportunity of making this speech without any deliberation."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"The hon. Member may make a speech after he has secured a seconder."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"I second it."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"The hon. Member from Chingleput is quite mistaken in his idea that I am making this speech without any deliberation. I say that I am making it after due deliberation."

"Coming to the point, I may say that the evasive way the hon. the Minister for Education faced the question of representation of minorities in the Registration department was soon matched by the superficial manner of and unwarranted display of indignation by the Treasury bench over the quite justifiable suspicions of those Members who attacked the forest policy of Government for want of details and a clear explanation of the new mysterious development which ought to have been furnished at the very commencement of the debate rather than at the close of the controversy that naturally arose. I might mention by the way that after a further study of the facts I am still at a loss to see why Government should not use members of the Forest service which is being gradually relieved . . ."

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"The hon. Member is making a speech on the various questions which have been disposed of. The hon. Member should adduce arguments as to why the House should be adjourned and not repeat arguments which have been used in attacking the forest policy."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"Of some of its functions; for what is after all the same old work of regeneration as mentioned in the budget is now what is explained to be working plans. This work can as well be done by the old staff instead of adding considerably to the establishment. Sir, the impatience shown by Government in hurrying through this budget debate leaves no hope for a patient discussion of the most important part of the budget estimates, namely, the hydro-electric schemes on which very little light has been thrown in order to show us a proper basis for starting discussion and, unless the hon. the Law Member follows the Gladstonian policy of taking the House into confidence by giving life and light to his figures which we now behold in a lifeless mass amidst gloomy darkness, we cannot realise the position. I specially refer to the hydro-electric schemes."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"When, why and where?"

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I put a question long ago, and I asked for information on various points. What I contend is that we ought to be furnished with more information before we are called upon to vote for a particular grant. The burden of proof lies upon the hon. the Law Member --the Law Member can understand what is meant by 'burden of proof' because he is a lawyer (laughter)--to give us all possible facts before ushering in any big schemes, and then only we can have a basis for discussion. We are laymen and we therefore expect him to furnish us with information on the various points raised in any motion."

"Sir, the House is thinning and our debates are becoming hopelessly stale. Is it fair to our dignity and fair name that we should sit idle, gape and even sleep without being able to do the least good to our electorate and the poor masses of this Presidency? For the honour of this House and in public interests let us end this debate by a formal adjournment, or I respectfully beg the elected hon. Members of this Council to walk out in all solemn dignity as did the hon. Congress Members the other day. The several defeats sustained by the Ministerial Party within the last few days ought to be a ground for the hon. the Ministers to tender their resignation to His Excellency the Governor and to ask him to dissolve the Council and to order immediate re-election and walk out with their followers."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"Sir, when you asked whether any hon. Member was going to second the motion I said I would second it. Would that prevent me from what I am going to say hereafter?"

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"No."

[19th March 1926]

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Sir, very large questions have been raised indirectly and a surprise motion has been placed before this House without the possibility of that consideration and deliberation which a motion of that kind ought to have evoked and exacted if adequate notice had been given of it. But, Sir, if my hon. Friend from South Kanara will permit me for the moment to be personal, may I say that his speech is in marked distinction with his own conduct? If he believed that his presence here was ineffective or ineffectual and that the 'remnant' was one not worthy of serious consideration as a Parliamentary body, it is unaccountable—I hope the hon. Member will forgive me for saying this—that he should have stayed. He spoke of persons who gaped and slept and passed through other intricate evolutions. Any one who had listened to the series of speeches delivered by the hon. Member will see that he practically monopolised the attention of the whole House during those two or three days. Certainly he neither gaped nor slept, but felt that business was being done and much attention was directed to the business. It seems to me that this remark does not come quite appropriately from the hon. Member from South Kanara. Then, Sir, what did he ask us to do? He said that the Government were riding roughshod over the will of the people and that they were impatiently hurrying through the budget and that they did not pay sufficient consideration to the feelings of Members either elected or nominated. Sir, I wish now, once and for all, to dispel the illusion which is often produced in this House by the marked cleavage that is sought to be drawn between the nominated and the elected Members. I must say this by way of protection of the nominated Members that they have as much right to be present here and to voice the desires and the aspirations of those whom they represent as the elected Members have. (Hear, hear.) Why is it that some Members are nominated? It is because there are certain communities which have not regimented themselves sufficiently and have not acquired sufficient coherence to function for the purpose of election. In order that their interests and aspirations may be sufficiently protected and voiced forth in the House, His Excellency the Governor has been vested with the right of nominating certain Members. Once they are nominated they are in every sense Members of the Legislative Council as much as the elected Members. It may be five years later, or ten or 15 years later, that every one of these communities will send up their own representatives either through the general electorate or otherwise. But to draw a distinction between the elected and the nominated Members as is often sought to be done in this House is neither fair to the elected Members nor to their colleagues the nominated Members. They are performing a duty which is as sacred, inviolable and useful for the development of the constitution as the duty performed by any one else. Surely those who have thought over the proceedings of the Council during the last two days will see, albeit some of the hon. Members have withdrawn themselves from the House, that the business of the House has not been interrupted and that it is going on as thoroughly as ever before. I do not see where this question comes in. If some hon. Members for reasons of which they themselves are the best judges have chosen to walk out of the House, do they make the House the less a House so long as there is a quorum? Does not this House function as it is its duty to function? Is there not a duty which each hon. Member owes to his constituency, the elected Member to the constituency which sent him and the nominated Member to the constituency to represent which he has been nominated? Mr. President, let us not have more of this diversion; let us proceed with the business of the House." (Applause.)

[19th March 1926]

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Sir, the very fact that I refused to go out but chose to remain and do my work here shows conclusively that I hold the view and still maintain it that the House, thin as it is, is capable of doing some useful work. Yet, Sir, I seconded the motion of my hon. Friend Mr. Seldanha. I owe an explanation to you and the House why I seconded the motion in spite of my belief that walking out of the House is a mistake and not conducive to the interests of the poor people. I may allude to two or three useful concessions that have been gained to the people. The hon. the Home Member promised that he would take steps to permit grazing in different ranges with a single permit. The value of it to the poor people cannot be appreciated by the more fortunately circumstanced people here. Again, can any one have a proper conception of what it meant to the poor people when the hon. the Law Member from his place pledged himself to put into execution the West Canal project? Further, Sir, the hon. the Revenue Member was approached with a request to put off the collections of loans in villages where more than a year's land revenue was collected for this year and I am sure, Sir, he is going to do it. I cannot be sufficiently thankful on behalf of the poor people. One who identifies himself with the poor people cannot but be thankful for these concessions. In spite of these considerations I seconded the motion of my hon. Friend from South Kanara for two reasons. I did not want that the motion should go for want of a seconder. Secondly, the hon. Member from Chingleput said that the hon. Member for South Kanara had deliberately sprung this resolution on this House in order to make a speech knowing full well that he had no seconder, that he might have all his say and leave his opponents without a chance of replying. I did not want that charge to be levelled against him for having brought forward this discussion."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Generally hon. Members second resolutions with which they are in agreement." (Laughter.)

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" I do not know, Sir, if I am wrong; but I feel I would have done this for any person even on the opposite side of the House."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Seconding a resolution merely for the purpose of making a discussion possible is entirely foreign to the whole principle governing the seconding of resolutions."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" Sir, a similar question arose in the time of your distinguished predecessor Sir P. Rajagopala Achariyar, and he said that there was no objection to a seconder of a motion opposing it."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" If I remember aright; the question arose this way. A motion was moved and seconded and the seconder proceeded to vote against the motion which he had seconded. The question arose then and your distinguished predecessor said that there was nothing to prevent either the mover or the seconder of a resolution from being converted by the arguments advanced on the floor of the House. If the seconder has been converted, let him demonstrate his conversion."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Evidently there is here a conversion before discussion."

The motion for the adjournment of the House sine die was put to the House and lost.

VI

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" The time allotted for the discussion of this demand being over, I have to put the demand to the House."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" Will you not allow us the time taken to discuss this question? "

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" It is out of question altogether."

* Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—" By this action of the hon. Member for South Kanara he has deprived himself and others of an opportunity to discuss the hydro-electric scheme about which he himself complained that very little was known of it."

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" I think the hon. Member himself realized what he was doing when he brought forward this motion."

The question that Government be granted a sum not exceeding Rs. 205.85 lakhs for Irrigation—Public Works Officers was put to the House and carried, and the Grant was made.

DEMAND VIII—GENERAL ADMINISTRATION—HEADS OF PROVINCES.

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" On the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor I move

'that Government be granted a sum not exceeding Rs. 7.67 lakhs for General Administration—Heads of Provinces.'"

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Sir, I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 20,500 for Government House furniture be reduced by Rs. 101.'

"I wish to urge upon the Government that Government buildings should not be leased out for racing clubs. The House is already familiar with this matter and I shall only refer to a very short paragraph from the speech of the hon. Member, Mr. U. Rama Rao, in the general discussion of the budget in the year 1924-25—

"I feel so strongly on this subject that I am constrained to protest with all the emphasis I can command against the conduct of Government under whose very nose things inimical to the interests of the people are being committed and yet are condoned, nay, even applauded by them as acts of chivalry and sportsmanship. I do not object to racing pure and simple, but when racing is something more than mere sporting, where indiscriminate betting is openly permitted, there comes the rub. The Race Club, in this respect, is an offender of the highest magnitude and the Members of the Government and other notables are its accomplices. Sir, in my daily rounds as a medical man, I have to visit several patients in the city, mostly middle and poorer classes, and the cry everywhere is the financial wreck caused to their families by the Guindy Races."

"If these things are done by private individuals, perhaps it might not be a matter so much for us to notice. But, however, when it is made to some extent possible by the help of the Government, we are justified in asking the Government not to be a party to this business. That is my object in moving this motion."

DEMAND VIII—GENERAL ADMINISTRATION—HEADS OF PROVINCES 297

[19th March 1926]

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" Sir, the House knows that Government have been letting these buildings for the last two or three years. I understand that the Club is building its own quarters and it will not be long before they move out of the Government buildings. I hope my hon. Friend will not press his motion."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Will the hon. Member please tell us approximately when the buildings will be completed? "

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" It will not be more than a year, Sir."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" The question is that the Government be granted a sum not exceeding 7.67 lakhs for General Administration—Heads of Provinces." 1-15 p.m.

The Demand was put to the House and carried and the Grant was made.

DEMAND IX—GENERAL ADMINISTRATION—LEGISLATIVE BODIES.

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Mr. President, Sir, on the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor I move 'that the Government be granted a sum not exceeding 3.10 lakhs for General Administration—Legislative Bodies.'"

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 1,12,000 for travelling allowances be reduced by Rs. 1,000.'

"My object in moving this motion is to suggest to you and to the House the desirability of changing our method of sitting in the Council. Instead of sitting for a few days every month or every other month, we might adopt the procedure of the Assembly and of some of the other Provincial Legislatures. Let us have seasonal or periodical sittings in the autumn and winter, budget sittings in March, etc., at a stretch until the work accumulated in the period is disposed of. We, coming from the mufassal, have our own business to attend to and we find it inconvenient to come here almost every month."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" This is a very important matter. May I request the hon. Member to illustrate what he means when he speaks of, for instance, seasonal sittings and what he would have? "

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" We may have a March sitting for the budget. We may have a sitting in June or August for a month at a stretch and another towards the end of the calendar year in December for about a month or 20 days until the whole business is disposed of; so that we need not come to Madras almost every month. I am sure there will be enormous saving in the travelling allowance also. I think the majority of the Provincial Councils and the Imperial Assembly and the Council of State have therefore adopted that procedure. I wish to suggest to you and to the House the desirability of adopting that procedure at least in the future."

[19th March 1926]

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Sir, I did not know from the terms of the motion the exact object which the hon. Member had in view. In another connection I had occasion to elicit information from various hon. Members as to whether they would prefer the course suggested by my hon. Friend, to the present, viz, whether they would prefer to sit each month for a few days or sit at a stretch for two weeks or three four weeks, or finish the business and go away. Among the hon. Members of this House there are a number of busy men, not only professional men but also others, land-owners, etc., who will find it difficult to stay away from their places for three weeks at a stretch. I may say that the opinion of the bulk of the House would be against any change and I do not want to say anything more. We are here all the time. Any course would suit us. But in the interests of the hon. Members at large, it would be extremely detrimental to their business to be here continuously at a stretch."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" It seems to me that my hon. Friend, the Law Member, is right and my hon. Friend from Malabar is wrong. (A voice :—" as he is always.") He is not always in the wrong. Except in the matter of the Malabar Tenancy Bill he is always in the right (laughter). As my hon. Friend, the Law Member, stated, I think it will be more inconvenient not only to the hon. Members of this House who are professional men but to others as well if the sittings be held at a stretch for a month or more. My friend, Mr. Prabhakaran Tampan, the mover of this motion, says that it will be more suitable for the transaction of their private business if the meetings are held at a stretch for a long time instead of sitting for a period of a week or so every month. So far as I am personally concerned, it will be more inconvenient for the transaction of my private business to be here in Madras and attend the sittings of the Council for a month at a stretch than to sit every month for a week. I think that this question was informally discussed on a former occasion in this House and the general opinion of the House on that occasion was that the present course would be better."

Dr. P. SUBBARAYAN :—" I think that if the hon. Member, Mr. Krishnan Nayar, were in the Assembly, he would have to sit continuously. If the hon. Members of the Assembly sit continuously, I do not know why the Provincial Legislatures should not come into line with the Assembly. It will be more convenient for the transaction of business if the House meets day after day as the House of Commons does in London."

Mr. A. V. BHANOJI RAO :—" I entirely agree with the hon. Member, Mr. Krishnan Nayar. It is not possible for us to be here and attend the Council day after day for a month or more. The hon. Member, Dr. Subbarayan, said that in the Assembly they sit for a month. It is so there because the Members have got beautiful and special quarters. They have a few days rest in the interval. It is possible for them to sit continuously. They do not sit every day. They have rest for a week or so every month. It will not suit some of the hon. Members of our Council. It is better to follow the present course of sitting for a few days in the month instead of having to sit for a month or two at a stretch."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" The Members of the Assembly have to come from all Provinces, from Burma, Bengal and so many other places. It will be extremely inconvenient for them to attend every month. Under those circumstances they all assemble together for a period and afterwards disperse. I think that the analogy of the Legislative Assembly will not be applicable so far as the Provincial Councils are concerned. I think that the existing practice may continue."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" I have no objection to withdraw the motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Rao Bahadur K. KRISHNASWAMI NAYUDU :—" Mr. President, Sir, I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 1,12,000 for travelling allowances be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"This is to raise the question of reduction of the rate of travelling allowances to Members of the Legislative Council to one first and one third class fares."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" I move, Sir,

'that the allotment of Rs. 1,79,200 for Provincial Legislative Council be reduced by Rs. 101.'

"In doing so, I beg to suggest to the House that the rules of the travelling allowance of the Legislative Council Members may be modified so as to make it more fair to all the Members concerned. I wish to illustrate what I mean by referring to specific examples. Take two places—Dharmavaram and Berhampur. The distance from Berhampur to Madras is 650 miles, and that between Dharmavaram and Madras is 350 miles. Let us take it that they travel by first class. But over and above a first class fare to which the Members are eligible for their own journey, the present rules allow them to claim an additional three-fifths of the fare I take it for other conveniences. The gentleman coming from Berhampur is eligible for Rs. 45 and the other from Dharmavaram is eligible for Rs. 20. But so far as the trouble, the inconvenience, the expense and the time involved in the journey are concerned, I think, Sir, that they are more or less the same; and perhaps they are really more in the case of one who comes from Dharmavaram. The time taken for the journey from Berhampur to Madras is 26½ hours and that for the comparatively shorter distance—which is not even half—is 25½ hours. Judged by any standard, it seems to me that there is no plausible objection for allowing only Rs. 20 in the one case and Rs. 45 in the other case. As my hon. Friend who has preceded me said, I would suggest that hon. Members may get an allowance equivalent to one first-class fare and one third-class fare if a servant accompanies them. As regards the extra expenses, I have no objection to their being given a daily allowance for the days spent in the journey, not exceeding Rs. 15. It may be Rs. 10; because if it is Rs. 15 it will cost us more."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" If I may venture to make a suggestion to the hon. Member from North Arcot and the hon. Member who spoke last, may I say that the more convenient course will be to have a small committee which, I think, may be appointed to examine this question with reference to the points adverted to by both the speakers. Otherwise it will be very difficult to work out the proposal. It may be that the figures indicated by my hon. Friend point to one conclusion. It may be on the other hand that there are other aspects of the matter which have not been kept in mind and which may make the proposal really a matter of inconvenience. If I may give this undertaking, with your permission and with your consent, let a small committee be appointed of five or seven of those interested in this matter, let them thrash out the matter and make suggestions for action. I think that is far preferable to discussing this matter now without all the data before us."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"I submit, Sir, that there seems to be a good deal of misconception as regards the travelling allowances drawn by Members of the Legislative Council. The hon. Mover says that we are pledged to do service to the country and therefore we may take something less. Let the hon. Members from North Arcot and from Bellary take it or do away with it. I do not understand these self-denying ordinances. It depends upon the individual pleasure of every Member to forego it. I cannot understand how you can ask the professional men to give up the allowance. If I am there, I will get Rs. 100 daily. I devote my time here and I do work for the people. That itself is a sacrifice. I submit, Sir, to come forward before this House and say that we shall take something less than what we actually take is not right. I submit there is no reason in it."

p.m.

"It may look of course disinterested. But I think, Sir, that people do not expect us to be disinterested in that way. I do not like to be in any way less than the public officers. The Collector draws one and three-fifths and the other public officers draw the same thing, and I do not like to be put in any lower class than these public servants and public officers. We do want to make a sacrifice, but I would sacrifice in the way in which we are now doing it. Let us at least be paid out of the public exchequer the travelling expenses that we are put to now and I do not see any reason for altering the rules. I very much thank the hon. the Law Member for his readiness in so quietly telling you to form a committee. I oppose any such committee and I oppose any such reduction. I crave your pardon for being open in my speech."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Sir, if I may borrow an expression from my hon. Friend from Cuddapah, I am afraid there is some misconception in regard to this matter. It is not that I was convinced by the arguments of Mr. Krishnaswami Nayudu or Mr. Ranganatha Mudaliyar. I said certain facts have been presented by them, certain inconveniences elucidated or adverted to; but there may be other arguments tending the other way and therefore instead of adopting it in this House, I said let us have a committee. Now, Sir, so far am I from misconceiving the position of the hon. Member from Cuddapah that I may point out a circumstance perhaps very well known to you, Sir, and to other hon. Members who have paid any attention to this matter, that in the House of Commons there is a scale of allowances; but what happens is, as has been indicated in the speech of the hon. Member for Cuddapah, there are a large number of Members. I venture to say the majority of Members never draw it (Hear, hear), with the result that there is money accumulating. Of course, every one is entitled to the allowances; but it is quite open to them either to draw or not to draw the allowances. But there is one other argument, viz., railway fare. One and three-fifths railway fare is not intended for the purpose of the railway journey alone, but for various incidental expenses incurred during the journey. Now, Sir, it is immaterial to Government whether they have any self-sacrificing ordinance passed and placed before them; but it seems to me that if you are going to debate this matter and adopt the heroic remedy suggested by the hon. Member from Cuddapah, it will be very necessary that this matter be discussed in a committee."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR:—"Sir, I may, on behalf of the Finance department, say that all we wish in this matter is that the rules now framed on the subject of travelling allowances to the hon. Members of this House should receive general acceptance and be recognized as reasonably providing for all ordinary contingencies in travelling to and fro between mofussal centres and Madras. For that reason, I was quite prepared to accede to the suggestion of my hon. Colleague, the first Member, that, if necessary, these matters should be rediscussed in a committee; but we have no desire to call a committee if the House regards it as unnecessary. If any of the proposals which are at present before the House receive its support and the general opinion of the House is that the present rules and conditions are not reasonably satisfactory, we should not challenge that in any way. But I am not quite sure what exactly is the aim of the resolution of my hon. Friend from the Ceded districts. He proposes that the rules as regards railway fares should be modified, but that there should be an increase of 50 per cent in the daily allowances."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"I hope, Sir, the hon. the Finance Member heard me when I said that I would leave it at Rs. 10, the present rate."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR:—"I did not quite understand, and it seems to me that on the question of actual expenditure his proposal would, so far from reducing the expenditure now incurred, only increase it. But personally I should like as far as possible in order to avoid complications, and to keep the travelling allowance rules applying to the Members of this House on lines which apply to Government officers, because in the case of Government officers—and this subject has been discussed threadbare—the existing provision of one and three-fifths fare has been agreed upon as reasonably representing an allowance for those various contingencies—porters, bandy to stations and other incidental expenses on a journey; also the cost of servants' tickets when any one travelling takes servants with him. It is regarded as a reasonable adjustment of these various contingencies; and it was assumed that if it was a satisfactory arrangement in the case of the higher Government officers, it would similarly meet the incidental expenses of the Members of this House. Of course, if there is any real grievance, the Finance Department will be perfectly prepared to consider any suggestion which the House regards as necessary. But in respect to individual cases such as a journey between Berhampur and say Dharmavaram or Bellary or some other place between which and Madras distances vary, I am afraid that no possible rules could be devised which will accurately adjust the incidental expenses one has to incur in a journey of 400 miles as compared with another journey of 600 or 700 miles. (Hear, hear.) If we attempt to go into greater detail and try to regulate our rules by every 50 miles of travel or call upon hon. Members to submit statements of actual expenses, I am afraid that it will not promote any greater satisfaction. All we should do would be to burden ourselves with more elaborate accounts, with further clerks to keep them, and worry, in my opinion quite unnecessarily, the hon. Members of this House with the necessity of keeping detailed accounts or remembering them and preparing statements and so on. But, as I said, if the general feeling is that the present allowance rules are not satisfactory, I shall have no objection to any machinery by which the question may be considered."

[Mr. T. E. Moir]

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"Sir, before you put this motion to the vote, I wish to know how we can ascertain the views of the committee, I mean of the Council, with reference to the appointment of a committee for the motion will either be carried or negatived. From that, what conclusion can be drawn with reference to the need for appointment of a committee? For instance, there may be Members in this House who may be against the appointment of a committee but who may at the same time vote for this motion. It seems to me that it will not be possible to ascertain the views of this House with reference to the appointment of a committee by putting one of these motions to vote. I do not want to controvert any course that is named by you, Sir."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"I take it, Sir, that what is meant is this : that the sentiments of the House are that if this matter is to be investigated at all, it should be investigated by a small body or committee. Therefore, the vote that will be taken now will be either for no investigation or, if there is investigation, for investigation by a committee."

The motions were put to the House and lost.

The House then (1-41 p.m.) adjourned for lunch.

After Lunch (2-30 p.m.)

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"Sir, I move the motion standing in my name, namely,

'that the allotment of Rs. 1,79,200 for Provincial Legislative Council be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"The object of my motion is to bring to the attention of this Council and also of my hon. Friend, the Law Member, the need for increasing the pay of the reporters of this Council. The reporters of this Council, I may submit, Sir, are on the whole an efficient staff. Some of them, of course I shall not mention names, are particularly clever and on the whole they are a very efficient body and, I submit, deserve encouragement. And though they are under your personal disciplinary control, so far as the financial consideration is concerned they are under the financial control of the Government. And I urge upon the Government the need for increasing their pay.

"This subject was brought to the attention of this Council during the time of the budget discussion last year and it was then pointed out that the pay of the official reporters in the Legislative Councils in the Punjab, United Provinces, the Legislative Assembly and other legislative bodies up in the north was very much higher than the pay of the official reporters of this Council. With reference to that, my hon. Friend, the Law Member, I may say, rightly pointed out that the pay of this staff, that is, the official reporters of Madras, should not be compared to the pay of those in the north of India for two reasons, one of those being that in the north efficient reporters cannot be had and that practically all the reporters that are employed in the offices there are from Madras. For that reason it is necessary that the pay of the men who are taken to the north should be higher than that of those who are employed in the province itself. It was also rightly pointed out, if I may say so, that the cost of living in the Punjab and other places is very much higher than the cost of living in Madras. For that reason also the pay of our official reporters cannot be compared with that prevailing there. But there was another argument which was adduced and which I should repeat on this occasion and that is this. The pay of the reporters of this Council may rightly be compared with the pay of the shorthand writers in the High Court. I would invite my hon. Friend's attention to page 470 of the Civil Budget Estimate where it will be found that the shorthand writers of the High Court are paid a minimum of Rs. 150 and maximum of Rs. 250 with annual increments of Rs. 10, so that they reach their maximum in a period of ten years. In the case of the reporters of the Council on the other hand, the minimum is found to be Rs. 125; though the maximum is the same, the maximum is reached only during a period of twenty years, double the period which obtains in the case of the shorthandwriters of the High Court. The scale is fixed at Rs. 125—5—200—10—250. There is thus a difference also in the annual increments fixed in the two cases. I submit it is not quite fair to our reporters. My hon. Friend himself saw the justice of the representation on their behalf in this Council, and what my hon. Friend stated on the last occasion during the time of the budget discussion was this :

"One thing, I might at once say, namely that there is a great deal of force in the argument while comparing the scale of pay obtaining in the High Court with that of the Council Reporters."

"And after making some other observations, he wound up by saying

"While I am perfectly prepared to pursue the analogy with regard to the High Court, I am not quite so convinced by the analogy of the pay drawn in other Councils."

"So that, practically my hon. Friend himself made a promise on the last occasion that he would consider the case of the official reporters of this Council. But I do not find any provision made in the current budget for increase of their pay to the level obtaining in the High Court. Though no provision is made in the budget, if my hon. Friend would accept the motion the necessary changes can be made in the budget. And I hope in consonance with the practical promise he made—I do not say he made a distinct promise, but it is a promise which he practically made on the last occasion—he will accept this motion."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Mr. President, Sir, I think till now we have proceeded on the basis (though I understand that two opinions have been held on that matter) that the staff of the Legislative Council including the reporters are under the Madras Legislative Council Rules, Rule 5, deemed to be appointed by His Excellency the Governor and they are deemed also to hold office during his pleasure. I may say at once that the only thing that I can promise to do on this occasion is to place the proceedings of this debate before His Excellency the Governor and my hon. Colleague, the Finance Member, for consideration. It was in G.O. No. 356, dated 6th September 1924, that time scale of pay was sanctioned by His Excellency, a scale of Rs. 125—5—200—10—250, the rule also making it clear that the efficiency bar should be strictly enforced. The question of the inadequacy of the rate of pay was raised in the Council in the shape of a motion by Mr. R. Srinivasa Ayyangar and I think my hon. Friend also took part in that motion. And I promised to look into the matter. I may say that the matter was considered by Government and the Government came to the conclusion that we could not in the present circumstances make any modification. I know that something can be said on both sides of the case. The argument on the other side is of course that though the quality of the work compares and compares favourably with the quality of the work done by the shorthand writers of the High Court, they have not got such continuous work as those in the High Court. The other argument is, and I want the hon. Members of the House to realize that, we sit only for about 70 days and even taking committee work into consideration it will not be more than 100 days in the year. It cannot be said to be commensurate with the quantum of work turned out by the shorthand writers of the High Court. On the other hand, the argument has been urged and urged with force that the shorthand writers of the Legislative Council have to take down the speeches of those who speak fast and those who speak slow, speakers who vary in very many particulars and that their task is one of great difficulty and that high equipment in their own profession is needed for the purpose of effective and adequate discharge of their duties. I am not minimising that for a moment but at the present juncture I cannot do more than this, to say that I shall place my hon. Friend's opinion and all that can be said on this matter before His Excellency the Governor and my hon. Colleague."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" I wish to say only one word in reply and that is this. My hon. Friend himself has stated things that can be said in favour of and also against the reporters. In addition to what my hon. Friend has said in favour of our reporters, I may add this. Though no doubt the reporters in the High Court have to work all the year round and though our reporters have to work only when the Council is sitting, the actual work that they have to do during the days on which the Council actually sits is very much greater, when spread through the whole year, than probably the work which the shorthand writers of the High Court do. Our reporters work under very high pressure; for instance during this sitting which lasts for about a fortnight or so, they work at very high pressure, practically the whole day from eleven till five, taking down what is spoken on the floor of this House. If this work is spread through the whole year, it will compare very favourably, I think, with the quantum of work and would even be greater than the work turned out by the shorthand writers of the High Court. Though the answer to my motion given by my hon. Friend is not quite disappointing, allow me to say that it is not quite satisfactory. What he said was that he would place it before his hon. Colleague, Mr. Moir, before His Excellency the Governor and I suppose before the Government as a whole. I believe the hon. the Finance Member will sympathetically consider their case when it is placed before him and I do not think he will be so hard-hearted as to turn the proposal down altogether. As for His Excellency, I feel confident that His Excellency will be very kind. Having regard to what fell from my hon. Friend by way of reply, I do not wish to press my motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

19th March 1926]

Dr. P. SUBBARAYAN :—" May I have permission to move motion No. 330 on the paper ? "

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" That is Mr. Koti Reddi's motion. I have been following a rule that in the case of these budget motions permission should be given only to those who have given notice of those motions." 2-45 p.m.

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" May I point out also, Sir, that while it is useful to follow the rule which has been formulated by you, there are other occasions in this demand, for instance motion No. 334, when my hon. Friend can place his views before the House. It is not as if there is no opportunity."

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" I beg to move, Sir,

'for the reduction of the allotment of Rs. 62,000 for elections by Rs 100.'

" Since there are differences of opinion regarding the coming representation of the members of the depressed classes in this House, I wish to make my humble suggestion that while making such nominations for representation, it is advisable to consult the different leaders of the depressed classes."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" But who is the appointing authority ? "

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" His Excellency the Governor is vested with that power, Sir, and it would be advisable to take the advice of the leaders of the depressed classes. They may be of service in making some useful suggestions."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Is there any Member of the Government who would advise His Excellency the Governor in regard to these nominations ? If there is, then I would allow the discussion of the motion."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" I suppose the hon. the Law Member advises the Government."

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" The hon. the Law Member is in charge of the portfolio and I think, Sir, that he advises His Excellency."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Mr. President, Sir, though it is not correct to say that any one Member advises His Excellency particularly with regard to nominations, I may say this. Because this matter is dealt with in the portfolio of elections, these nominations pass through me."

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" It is left to the option of His Excellency to nominate the Members, but it would be useful and advisable to take the opinion of the different leaders of the depressed classes. It is only a guide so that the members of the depressed classes in the various districts may not grumble after the appointments are made. It is in order to avoid that, I wanted to make this humble suggestion, and I hope it would appeal to the hon. the Law Member. The nomination is entirely left in the hands of His Excellency the Governor, but I suggest that this kind of consultation with the Leaders would be useful and helpful."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Mr. President, Sir, as has been rightly pointed out, the right to nominate hon. Members to this House is solely vested in His Excellency the Governor, who is at liberty to take advice from every one qualified to give advice, and indeed he generally does so. All that I can say on this motion is that I shall convey to His Excellency the idea that has been adumbrated in the course of this debate that there is this avenue to be explored, and that the leaders of the depressed classes may also be consulted in the matter. I cannot say more."

[Sir C. P. Ramaswami Ayyar]

[19th March 1926]

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"Sir, I am not able quite to understand the efficacy of the machinery suggested by my hon. Friend Mr. Veerian."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"I may say frankly, Sir, that there is no machinery. His Excellency can consult any one or may consult none. The idea is that the leaders of the depressed classes who are presumably entitled to advise as to who are the best men to be nominated are also to be consulted."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"If the idea is to choose such people as would be most acceptable to the depressed classes, I do not think that that object will be achieved by consulting one or two members here who may be more in evidence before the Government than other people. The proper thing, I submit, would be to constitute an electorate of these classes and ask them to choose the Members for the Council. They may be taken note of by His Excellency in nominating Members to this Council. Otherwise, I think there will be plenty of room for misunderstanding and difficulty."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"I think the hon. Member who spoke last is not aware of what has really happened in this matter, as my hon. Friend Mr. Veerian is aware. Arising out of certain discussions that took place in this House, an attempt was made to see whether electorates or constituencies could be created for the purpose of making recommendations to His Excellency the Governor in regard to nominations. Certain groups of people were invited and the opinions of various persons were also sought, but I think I am right in saying that the representatives of these classes themselves, excepting in two centres—I think the two centres mentioned were Madras and the Nilgiris were impressed by the difficulty of the task of creating in the present circumstances and in the state of education among these communities, effective constituencies which will function so as to bring about the result contemplated by the framers of these rules and they concluded that they would rely upon the discretion of His Excellency the Governor."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"Mr. President, Sir, I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 62,000 for elections be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"As will be seen, this is just a token motion and I wish to raise very important issues under it. The elections are coming on and there has been recently a debate in this House on the point as to how by-elections are conducted. At any rate, there was an attempt at a debate. I wish to emphasize the necessity of so providing a proper machinery for the conduct of the elections that there may be no room for complaint from any source whatsoever. In the first place, I wish to suggest that the number of polling booths is not adequate at present. In several districts the complaint is that several voters are not able to exercise their franchise as too many voters are grouped under one polling area, and as too many of them have to go to the polling booth during set hours. In many of the polling areas in my district, 800 to 900 and sometimes 1,000 voters are grouped under one polling area, and it is not possible for them all to exercise the franchise. I do not suggest that all the 800 or 900 people come. But even if 500 or 600 come, it is sometimes found very difficult to exercise the franchise. I think the highest number that it has been possible to register in my district has been about 550."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"The number is 300 in our district."

* Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"As usual, the Ceded districts are backward, and the polling officers there are able to register only 300. But it seems to me that there must be some arrangement by which the other polling areas may be multiplied, or additional relieving polling officers may be appointed and better facilities provided for these pollings. It is also true, as some of us have known by experience from the last two elections, that in the grouping of these villages under one polling area villages far removed from the polling centre have been included. What happens is, generally speaking . . ."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Would my hon. Friend please repeat his last observation? I did not quite catch it."

* Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"In grouping villages under a single polling area, villages far removed from the actual polling centre are sometimes clubbed together. What seems to happen is this, that revenue divisional officers and others take the geographical area of the district and find out that the villages are within a radius of five or six miles, and bring all these villages within the jurisdiction of a single polling area, whereas, as a matter of fact, the man has to walk ten or thirteen miles to come to that polling centre. I know that wide latitude has been given to the revenue divisional officers in this matter and they are the final authorities within certain limitations—I suppose limitations that have been laid down by rules, or orders of the Government from time to time. Wide latitude has been given to the revenue divisional officers to see that villages are properly grouped under certain polling areas. But even so, it is very difficult to get them to make a move in this matter, and still more difficult to make them increase the number of polling centres. The difficulty seems to be that the increase of polling centres is not encouraged because that leads to additional cost."

"There is another matter which is likely to be dealt with soon—in fact, I believe the committee is sitting this evening—and that is with reference to illiterate voters. I myself believe that this is not the time for tinkering with that question. I do not think that it can be satisfactorily solved at this stage, and any attempt at a solution will lead to greater difficulties than have been experienced hitherto. We have had two elections so far run on the same system and I would prefer to have the third election also working under the same system. Of course I know that there may be abuses, and I understand that in one district there is reason to believe that there have been abuses inasmuch as literate voters have been compelled to declare themselves illiterate, but I am sure that this is not the experience of all districts. An objection may also be raised that the illiterate voter is threatened or coerced and therefore the secrecy of the ballot is not kept up. But I feel that at the stage of illiteracy existing in this country now, no other alternative system can be useful or will in any way better the situation. That, of course, I need not discuss at present because the whole thing is before a committee and I do not wish to anticipate its decisions.

"There is one other matter, Sir, which I want to touch, and here I feel that I am on very delicate ground. It is possible that my observations may be very much misunderstood, but I have to make them all the same because as representatives of the people it is not always given to us to undertake pleasant tasks. I have been as the chief organizer of my party, going about several districts in the mufassal, and have been therefore hearing many things from many persons. I am perfectly willing to concede that all I heard has not got proper justification. But impressions are abroad regarding the attitude of this or that gentleman, or the conception that people have of the attitude of this or that gentleman with regard to the coming elections."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"Is that said to be the attitude of public officials?"

* Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"It is with reference to public officials, Sir. And I cannot put it higher than this, that we should take every opportunity to prevent such conceptions forming among the generality of the public. It is possible to say that Caesar's wife must be above suspicion, but I am sure Caesar's wife, if she is told about it, would have said that it is the very last task that she can fulfil with satisfaction. It is not given to any of us to see to it that we are above suspicion. We can only try to act in such a manner that we should be beyond suspicion, and I feel therefore that something must be done to prevent that suspicion while realizing the limitations as far as possible. It is possible that there are people in the districts who are so unreasonable as to believe that merely because the hon. the Law Member for instance is in charge of this portfolio therefore a certain amount of prejudice is created in the minds of the electors with reference to the coming elections. I do not want to give the slightest credence to that sort of thing. But I am certain and I say this not with hesitation but after deep thinking that the hon. the Law Member will consult his own dignity if he were to think of changing the subject to another of his Colleagues. As I said in the course of my speech, nobody can be responsible for the impressions that are abroad."

"I realize it more than anybody else. And while I feel it is possible that my remarks may be misunderstood, I feel also as one who is interested in trying to see that the prestige of every Member of the Government is kept up, that no man of any party should be in a position to say that any particular member is either in favour of or against any organization. I do not wish to put it higher than that, Sir, but I feel that a wide impression is abroad. I do not say that there is any justification for it, but I make the suggestion for what it is worth."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR:—"I wish to say one word so far as the polling stations are concerned, Sir. Probably the conditions in different districts vary. My Friend Mr. Ramaswami Mudaliyar stated that in his district of Chingleput some polling stations are at considerable distances from the residences of the voters. So far as Malabar is concerned, Sir, we have a real grievance in the matter. No doubt I know very well that if the distances between the polling stations and the residences of the voters are decreased, the number of polling stations will have to be increased. The number of polling stations during the last elections and the one before that in the district of Malabar was about 250 speaking in round figures. I had to appoint roughly about 249 agents to represent me at the polling booths. The voters have to walk over a distance of about ten miles and that means they have to walk a distance of ten miles for coming to the polling stations and ten miles for returning home. Practically the whole day is spent in coming to and going back from the polling stations. I think it is very desirable and certainly it must be possible to increase the number of polling stations, so that the voters may have to walk only shorter distances. In the interests of the electors, in the interests of the candidates and in the interests of the public, it is desirable that the number should be increased. With reference to the other complaint referred to, namely, that the number of polling officers also should be increased, I do not know what the practice in his district is. So far as Malabar is concerned, we have no cause for complaint, for, in each station according to the number of voters we have sometimes one, sometimes two, and sometimes three and even four polling officers. So far as the polling officers are concerned, the average number of votes which one has to record is 250, so that when we have 750 voters in a particular station the Collector appoints three polling officers. So far as that is concerned, we in Malabar have no complaint. So far as the number of stations is concerned, I hope the number will certainly be increased so as to afford relief to these voters. After all, we could not shut our eyes to existing facts. No doubt it is well and good to say that it is in the interest of the people themselves that the voters have to walk some distances. But it is not practicable. Many of these present voters are agriculturists and all of them, it must be admitted, have not yet been able to follow and realize the value of votes. That is another consideration that has to be kept in view by the Government."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"I think I should ask all hon. Members who have given notice on allied subjects to speak on this because they are subjects connected with elections."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Let them deal separately with their various topics. But if any hon. Member wishes to speak on this, he may speak because there may be special features."

Dr. P. SUBBARAYAN:—"I agree with what has fallen from the hon. Member for Chingleput regarding the polling stations. So far as Salem is concerned, the polling stations are at long intervals and sometimes people have to go 14 to 15 miles and the number of voters in the Salem district is 66,000 for whom there were 146 polling stations. In some big stations there were 1,100 voters. Even if additional polling officers are appointed, they find it difficult to cope with more than 500. In a particular polling station there were 800 voters, out of whom 3 or 4 had to return as not being able to vote within time in spite of the fact that there were two polling officers. The second thing that I wanted to say is this. I disagree that the same method should be followed in regard to these illiterate voters. In my personal experience even though the voter may be willing to vote for a particular individual, he is not allowed to do it because the agents are around him. He has to mention the name to the polling officer and he gives the name of one for whom the number of agents are more influential than the one who is a poorer man though he originally did not want to give his vote to the former. The other general complaint in the district is that the polling officers themselves do not mark correctly. Under these circumstances, it would be desirable if some method could be devised by which the illiterate voter could record his vote in favour of the man whom he prefers."

[Dr. P. Subbarayan]

Mr. R. MADANAGOPAL NAYUDU :—" Mr. President, Sir, I also feel that provision ought to be made for the increase of polling stations. A number of people from the mufassal districts have stated their grievances in this respect. They ought to be very great considering the difficulties that we have been feeling even though there are 30 polling stations. There are certain divisions where the area is broad or where we find it difficult to get all the voters to come together. Though there were 23,000 voters, the total number who came were about four thousand and odd. That shows even in such a small area as Madras owing to the fact that there is not a sufficiently large number of polling stations, people do not turn in sufficient numbers. Further, Sir, there is rush in certain quarters in the mornings and evenings and it is not possible to distribute them the whole day. Therefore special arrangements should be made for providing sufficient number of polling officers. Relief ought to be given in the mornings and evenings when generally there is a rush.

"I agree there has been some difficulty in the matter of illiterate people voting. The difficulty experienced in the city was that proper instruction was not given. The polling officers do not feel inclined to read all the names. They want to read the first four names within which the whole thing is finished though they wanted to vote for other people. Therefore proper instructions in that way ought to be given in this election. The question of cost ought not to weigh with the Government and the number of polling stations ought certainly to be increased. As regards the illiterate voters excepting that instructions can be given in a particular manner as regards their free choice, I do not think that any other thing will be correct; for the vote will become invalid. In the circumstances, the present system of voting provided for the illiterate people ought to be continued unless something extraordinary could be found out and suggested to the Council later on which is better than what at present obtains. Till then, Sir, the present system ought to be continued. I therefore appeal that even though it costs something, some special arrangements ought to be made to increase the polling stations and provide a large number of polling officers to see that larger people go to vote. I hope Government would see that as much as possible the voters go to the polling stations and the number is not curtailed for want of facilities which Government might provide."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" Mr. Deputy President, Sir, I whole-heartedly agree with many of the suggestions made by the previous speakers. I feel it my duty to raise a protest against the statement made by my very particular and hon. Friend Mr. Ramaswami Mudaliyar with reference to the portfolio held by the hon. the Law Member."

19th March 1926]

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" I would beg all hon. Members to leave that matter to be dealt with by me."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" I know he is capable of defending himself. Anyhow I do not want to mention anything about it. I have got only one or two suggestions to make with reference to the question of these elections. It is well known that in the mufassal the distances between the polling stations and the places where the voters reside are generally very large, say ten miles on an average. Then they say that they should not be provided with any sort of convenience. The rules also say that although these people in the heat of the day come from long distances they should not be given even drinks or kanji or coffee or tea. I submit, Sir, that these rules might have been very good in England. But I do not think that these rules could be of any usefulness or efficacy in India. We know, Sir, as a matter of fact that India is famous for its hospitality. We won't allow any person who comes for our business, i.e., for the business for which he is called upon, viz., to vote on a public matter, to be starving, or should be feeling thirsty or feeling hungry. I hope, Sir, that Government will relax the rule in this matter and say that it is not opposed to any rule or that it is unlawful if these people are given every convenience. There are ladies among these people and there are also old men. I submit, Sir, in these circumstances the rules relating to these matters may be relaxed and that they may be provided with these necessities."

* The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—" By the candidates?"

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" Of course by the candidates. Otherwise, there is no meaning in my urging that point at all. Why should I urge upon the generosity of others leaving the candidates out? Let it be provided by the candidates. What they do now is they do everything secretly. They evade the rule. You make them dishonest. Why not allow this rule and say 'All right, do it openly'. I think Government is indirectly causing the evasion of the rules by making such rules. We cannot see other people starve or feel thirsty under those circumstances. That rule is in existence more for breaking it than for observing it."

"Another thing is that in my district there is one taluk, Kamalapuram, which has got only three polling stations. If for one taluk you have got only three polling stations, you can easily see what difficulties and hardships the voters will be put to. So, I think the suggestion as to the increase in the number of polling stations may be very usefully adopted."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" I have to urge a few points for the consideration of the hon. the Law Member. First, I would request him to see that places which have the larger number of voters are constituted polling stations. If, for instance, a place has 250 voters, it is wrong, I consider, to make the voters of that place to go to another place where perhaps there are only 50 voters. Taking into consideration the numbers involved, I think it is but fair that as little inconvenience as possible should be caused to the larger number of people."

"Secondly, I should so arrange the polling stations that no one of them would be required to serve the needs of more than a specified number of voters. Analysing the figures of the last elections, you may fix the number at 500 or 600, whatever you consider the number that can be reasonably recorded at each polling station."

[Mr. A. Ranganatha Mudaliyar] [19th March 1926]

"The third point I wish to submit for the consideration of the hon. the Law Member is that no village of more than a particular distance from the polling station should be included within that area, say, no village beyond a radius of five miles. That, I think, should be the limit for the polling area.

"Then, fourthly, Sir, I found last time that there was a good deal of laxity in the matter of the registration of voters. The names of many people who had the right to exercise the franchise had been omitted, and I think it desirable that early instructions should issue to the Collectors concerned to see that the village officers do not shirk their work and restrict the number of people who are eligible to exercise their franchise. The fifth point relates to the matter of the selection of polling officers in which care and discretion should be used. It has often happened that officers of one or other of the candidates in their other capacities have at times been selected as polling officers. I need only mention that fact for the House to condemn that arrangement altogether.

"As regards the difficulty of illiterate voters, more than one Member has referred to it. It is a fact that these poor illiterate voters are subject to unnecessary troubles and inconveniences with the result that they are not able to exercise their franchise in the way they would desire to do. You have the Bombay system working there and elsewhere. If the Government have ascertained what the result of the working of the system in those provinces has been and if the system has been working satisfactorily there, and if the conditions here are not far dissimilar to those prevailing there, I think that system may be tried here. If you are not able to introduce the Bombay system here, then I would urge that the illiterate voters should not be asked to declare the names of the candidates they prefer publicly. They must be taken into the polling booths with the agents of the candidates, if they care to go in, and there the name of the candidates they prefer should be ascertained privately within the polling booth in the presence of the agents, and there, the polling officer should record it, and not as is done now in several parts publicly and before all people, voters and non-voters alike.

"I am not able to agree with my hon. Friend, the Member from Cuddapah, that candidates should be permitted to provide refreshments for the voters. (The hon. Deputy President: 'You cannot.') As you remind me, Mr. Deputy President, it is true that I am not in a position to provide refreshments even if I had the inclination to do so. In the interest of the voters themselves, I would deprecate that arrangement, because I am quite positive that in all these constituencies there will be a number of candidates, five, six or eight of them, and if each of them should try to be hospitable to these voters and compel them to partake of the refreshments, and if the voters feel that they must oblige them lest they should be misunderstood if they declined the offer, I rather pity the poor voter who is put in that predicament.

"He mentioned, Sir, that a particular taluk had only three polling stations. I am not quite sure if that taluk is not the smallest taluk of that district and consists perhaps of 60 villages (Rai Bahadur T. M. Narasimha-charlu: 'Yes, 60 villages') so that I deprecate allotment of polling stations by taluks without reference to the number of villages included in those taluks.

19th March 1926] [Mr. A. Ranganatha Mudaliyar]

"I do not want to refer to what my hon. Friend from Cuddapah has already dealt with which was deprecated by the hon. the Law Member. If I were free to speak on it, I should be able to say what I feel in the matter, and perhaps I . . ."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT:—"The hon. Member had better not go into it."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"I am not going to do it, apart from saying that I do not agree with my hon. Friend from Chingleput."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Mr. Deputy President, Sir, I shall deal with those matters in the order in which they have been dealt with. With regard to the polling stations and presiding and polling officers, what was done in 1923 was this; the Returning officer was consulted for each constituency, and as many polling stations as he thought necessary were fixed. That is the rule. We instructed the Returning Officers in the following manner:—

'in selecting polling stations due regard must be paid to the convenience of electors, the distance they have to travel and the facilities of communication. Ordinarily there should be one polling station for each polling area. But in the case of large polling areas it is permissible to have more than one centre so that electors may have reasonable facilities for voting. It is considered necessary to prescribe the maximum number of electors for whom a separate polling station should be provided, and Returning Officers shall decide with reference to circumstances of each locality how many electors can conveniently vote at a polling station always remembering that polling has to be completed on the date fixed.'

"Now, I realize that so stated the general proposition may have to be qualified according to the circumstances of particular places. Suppose, for instance, that in a particular area, the number of illiterate electors is very large, the process of going through the register of votes certainly takes more time than the mere writing down of the name by a literate voter, and these are matters as to which we have some record with reference to the last two elections. I may say here that the matter will be carefully examined with reference to the observations that have fallen from hon. Members. I take it that the idea animating hon. Members who have spoken on the subject is that first of all you must have these booths in places where there is a certain minimum of population so that there may be ample accommodation, and, secondly, that there must be sufficient number of booths to allow of practically all or indeed all the voters to come in and vote within the time fixed for the purpose, namely, one day. I shall also pay attention to the other question of grouping villages which are now far removed.

"As to the illiterate voters, the matter stands thus. In Bombay, the system is that each candidate is assigned a symbol, a horse, or a cow, or a castle, or whatever else is chosen. The voter is asked to choose either the horse or the cow as the case may be. Now, it has been pointed out that certain animals are handicapped as against certain other animals; for instance, it has, I think, been the experience in those elections that a cow has a certain unfair advantage over certain other animals in relation to a large number of Hindu electors. Unless persons are lovers of donkeys, they may not particularly care for the donkey or the member whose symbol it is. But, Sir, there is another difficulty. The difficulty that is pointed out also is this, that there are places where the men are so illiterate, or so ignorant that, for instance, they cannot easily distinguish between a horse or a donkey. (Laughter.) I would not mention it at all, but for the fact that prominent attention of this Government was drawn to it by responsible officers who have been in charge of the conduct of elections, viz., that there are certainly localities where the accurate differentiation of animals has not entered into the sum total of the knowledge of the particular voter. Indeed, Sir, these are undoubtedly some of the difficulties attached to the system of assigning symbols to the particular candidates. At the present moment the procedure that is adopted is that an illiterate man goes there, and a certain list of persons is read out to him, and he nods his head vigorously or faintly as against each man, and if he nods up to the number of three or four or whatever it be which is the number of candidates to be elected there it stops; thus there are more facilities for his conveying a wrong impression of what he really wishes to be done. Now, Sir, the question of illiterate voters is essentially a complicated question and can only be solved in the one manner in which most other problems in this country are to be solved, viz., by further extension of education. But I realize that there is much force in the remarks that fell from one hon. Member, namely, that the shouting out or naming the candidate's name in public may be avoided and that the two agents,—not necessarily two—the agents of the candidates along with the voter may go into a place somewhat removed and the opinion of the elector may be ascertained in that manner. I submit, Sir, that the suggestion has a great deal to commend it, and I do not see why attempts should not be made to put that suggestion into practice."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT:—"Why not colours, if I may venture to suggest?"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"With regard to that

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR:—"I suppose my hon. Friend will not give a final expression of his opinion with reference to those suggestions. I preferred, as my hon. Friend himself suggested, not to refer to it seeing that a committee is to meet this evening or some other evening. That is why I particularly refrained from making any observations on that subject. I hope my hon. Friend will not give expression to any final views of his."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Let me at once say that Government have constituted a committee for discussing this matter, and that Government will to a certain extent be guided by the deliberations and the conclusions of that committee. I am only placing before the House certain difficulties which have been brought prominently to our attention by officers who have worked this system of symbols.

"Now, the hon. the Deputy President was good enough to suggest colours. But, Sir, he is too much of a travelled-man, too much of a student of affairs not to know that colour-blindness is not an uncommon phenomenon (laughter). Indeed it has been stated that there are some people who ought to know better but who do not always distinguish between green and blue. These things have been stated, but the matter has no doubt to be discussed more fully by the committee referred to just now.

P.M.

19th March 1926] [Sir C. P. Ramaswami Ayyar]

"I come to the very interesting suggestion made by the hon. Member from Cuddapah regarding the liberty to be allowed to 'treat'—I am using the word in its technical sense—to treat the voters, the candidates being at liberty to fill up his elector so that he may be made sufficiently complacent and sufficiently willing to undertake the arduous duties of voting for the best man. In addition to the embarrassments indicated in the somewhat humorous remarks of my Friend Mr. Ranganatha Mudaliyar, there is another aspect. It may be that one candidate may be foremost in the race and may fill up the elector, who may not be willing to be treated by the other man; may not have the complacence to say 'yes' to a second 'treater' or he may be filled up an inconvenient number of times. But I do not wish to pursue the matter. The only solution will be in some places, like certain parts of the Ceded districts where people have to walk a long distance and come in the heat for Government to make arrangements for quenching their thirst, but even that is open to certain difficulties. It is a matter which I think we may try. But so far as these elections are concerned, if there is a general sense of hunger and thirst among the electors which manifests itself, in real demands we may then see at the next elections what has to be done (Rai Bahadur T. M. Narasimhachari: Not the thirst of another kind). I think these are the main points that have been raised.

"I shall deal finally with the point—an undoubtedly important point—raised by the hon. Member from Chingleput and it was deliberately that I made an appeal with reference, to it. Certain hon. Members were requested not to deal with it because it is a matter concerning me and I thought it is most appropriate that I should deal with it. Sir, I may at once say that there seems to be a certain amount of misconception as to the functions of the Member in charge of the portfolio of elections. The Member in charge of the portfolio of elections has nothing to do with the elections properly so called. He only issues general circulars or orders which are printed in the newspaper and placed on the Editors' Table, these orders regulating what may be called the general conduct of the elections and laying down the law in certain matters, fortified as he undoubtedly will be by the advice of the constituted legal authorities of the Crown. He will also have to interpret election rules when asked to do so by the local authorities or he has to arrange for the conduct of elections. Let me therefore assure the hon. Member in the first place that the Member in charge of the elections does nothing more and does not pretend to do anything more except laying down the general lines on which elections should proceed, laying down rules and regulations such as those indicated just now. Sir, it is just possible that on account of the community to which I belong, that on account of the influence I wield, there may be misconceptions. All I can say is that I desire very firmly and very emphatically from my place in the House to say that I should consider myself unworthy of the position I hold, unworthy of the trust that has been reposed in me by calling me to high office were I consciously to succumb to any influence in the conduct of the business which is essentially judicial in nature and character. Sir, these aspersions, these suggestions may be made by prejudiced persons though I guard myself against suggesting the slightest possible bias or bitterness on the part of my hon. Friend who spoke with a certain amount of restraint and delicacy which I appreciate. But I say that it is quite natural that these ideas may be entertained in some quarters. All I can say is that I shall endeavour to see that in the conduct of these elections such ideas are not allowed room to develop. I may say further, before I sit down, that if I really thought that at any stage my opinions or my own ideas were such that my duty demanded a different course of action I shall be the first to follow the dictates of my conscience. I assert there is no room for suspicion notwithstanding that my position may be invidious, and I think it is the part of courage to stay where I am notwithstanding these remarks."

* Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"Mr. Deputy President, I have only one observation to make with reference to the illiterate voter. I am a member of the committee which has been appointed to go into this question and as I had suggestions that the question of colours and the question of animals could be taken up into consideration and as I have also had through the kindness of the department the rules from Bombay placed before me, I took some pains to write to my Bombay friends to find out how this system was working. I shall lay before the committee what they say. I may assure this House however that some of the most important members of the Bombay Council, persons occupying high posts stated—I shall not say further than that—I have the assurance from the Bombay members of the Legislative Council, that candidates and electors generally are not satisfied with that position. The hon. the Law Member has adverted to other considerations like colours. And I say that there is a great deal of force in what he says. One suggestion coming from the hon. Member from Bellary I readily agree to. I am not precluding opinions being formed by the committee, but as the subject has been raised for discussion I should like to say I feel that as far as possible the vote of the illiterate voters should be known only to the agents and the polling officer. In this connexion, may I, with your permission, supplement the remarks though I ought to have made them in the first instance, regarding the conduct of affairs at the polling booth, and especially place this consideration before the hon. the Law Member, both in his capacity as holding the portfolio of elections and in his capacity as holding the portfolio of police. I feel, Sir, that latterly there has been a tendency to too much of hooliganism at the polling booth and I think more than the illiterate voter, the respectable voter has been much frightened to enter the polling booth by the hooliganism that has been going on in several of the elections, which I have myself witnessed. It is safe therefore that some steps should be taken to have a proper police protection at places where the candidates may forewarn the officials concerned where they expect hooliganism. It is not in all places. There are several rural areas where it is not possible. But there are again urban parts and particular rural parts where the candidate will know beforehand that much crowd will gather; people who are not electors, people who are not voters, will carry on their work of hooliganism in such a way that the respectable men and women will not enter the polling booth. These are facts, I think, within the knowledge of most of the Members of this House. Therefore while I appreciate the suggestion of the hon. Member from Bellary that as far as possible the illiterate voter should be taken into the polling booth away from the set of people that are gathered round and made to mention the name of the candidates to the hearing only of the agents and of the polling officer, it has also to be generally recognised that as far as possible the common crowd ought to be kept away from the polling booth. That is my experience during the last two elections. When this is not done it is impossible to regulate the conduct of affairs there. Polling officers and assistant polling officers are perfectly helpless in this matter. Therefore, I would appeal for some general police precautions to be taken, so that the crowds of whichever party or whichever candidate, may be kept away, decently away from the polling booth, so that also the work of voting may be carried on smoothly.

"There is one other matter to which I must refer. As I began my remarks, it was with a feeling that I was undertaking an unpleasant task, that I was laying myself open to misconstruction when I made these remarks. I see that the remarks that I have made have already produced useful results, the fact that the hon. the Law Member has stated from his place in this House the extent and scope of his duties as a Member in charge of the election portfolio; that fact published broadcast by the newspapers all round will go a great deal towards settling public opinion in this matter. I feel that I have gained something, however invidious the task that I have undertaken may be, by publicly telling the people through a responsible Member of the Government the limitations of that work that he has undertaken being in charge of that portfolio. And I am also glad that the hon. the Law Member has assured us—indeed such assurance is not necessary so far as I am individually concerned,—from his place in the Legislative Council that he certainly has no bias in the matter and will not be influenced in the slightest degree one way or the other. I do not intend to convey, even if my words suggested otherwise, that I felt there was any bias in the matter or that I felt any justification for this suspicion. I do not say I guarded myself by language which was very clear or very cogent, but at least it was my idea that I should guard myself against raising the implication that I felt myself that he had given in to bias of this or that nature. If I have been bitter in my remarks or if there was any suggestion that there was bitterness in my remarks or personal acrimony, I can only say that my words have failed me and not my intentions. I feel, Sir, that whatever that be, I have done useful work in eliciting from the hon. the Law Member the reply he has given. I shall not press this motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I move that the allotment of Rs. 62,000 for elections be reduced by Rs. 100."

"Sir, I move this motion in order to urge expedition in revising lists of voters carefully and exhaustively. From my knowledge of South Kanara and Malabar in which there are peculiar land tenures, I find that there are hundreds or perhaps thousands of people who are entitled to vote but are not included in the list of voters. I am not in the committee, but I hope somebody or other will go into the question."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Which committee?"

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"Some committee."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"There is no committee for elections. What the hon. Member refers to apparently is the committee which has been appointed for the purpose of dealing with the question of illiterate voters, and as to whether signs and symbols or colours may be adopted. There is no other committee. My hon. Friend need not be under the apprehension that there is any other committee, of which he is not aware."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I am not at all sorry for not being selected to the committee. I am not anxious to be in more committees than I am already in. But the point is very important. There is the Mulgavidar, the permanent tenant or holder of land. The cultivator is one, whereas the landlord is another. In the case of these permanent tenants, according to law of election they are entitled to be entered in the lists. I know there are several of these people who are not in the lists. In Malabar, we have the kanamdar, the verumpattam tenants, and I think they too must be on the lists, as well the janmis. From the representations made to me from Malabar I think many more people must be in the list than there are now."

p.m.

"It is high time that some assurance is given by the hon. the Law Member that orders will be issued for the preparation of the list at an early date. I do not think that orders have been issued. (A voice: 'They have already been issued.') If they have already been issued, that is all right. I submit that there should be more expedition in the preparation of this list, so that we may be in a position to know how many more have been added in the list. This is a matter which is important not merely from my own point of view but it is important from the point of view of voters because our aim is that as many people as possible should have the right of franchise. If special influence of officials . . ."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"I do not know whether expedition in the preparation of voters' lists would require the influence of officials."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"Let us hear what Mr. Saldanha has to say. I think the hon. the Law Member should be delighted to hear Mr. Saldanha."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"I am always delighted to hear my hon. Friend Mr. Saldanha but at the same time we have to observe certain rules in our debate."

* The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"I think the hon. Member Mr. Saldanha had better omit the word 'official'."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I am referring to non-officials, I am referring to the Ministers."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Now that we have got an indication of the ambit of discussion in regard to the revision of electoral lists, may I request you, Sir, to give a ruling."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"The hon. the Law Member has already stated that he has issued instructions. Why does Mr. Saldanha labour the point further?"

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"As I have been interrupted in the middle, I do not want to say anything more upon this point."

"So far as the preparation of the electoral list is concerned, I hope that all Members of the Legislative Council will be consulted by the Collector or the Revenue Divisional Officer or the Tahsildar in what respects the lists are wanting, so that we may give our help in drawing up complete lists. I do not mean to say that we should go into all the details in connexion with the preparation of the electoral lists, but I think it will help us if the Collector were to ask us in what respects the present list requires amendment."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"I would like to make a suggestion to the hon. the Law Member. I request the hon. the Law Member to issue instructions to the village officers that when they prepare the electoral lists and send them on to Tahsildars and through them to the various Collectors they must show the number of pattadars who pay Rs. 10 and above according to their registers and the number actually registered in the electoral list. If the disparity between the number of people who are actually registered, and the number prima facie eligible to vote according to the village accounts is considerable then it will give a clue to officers whether the village officers have satisfactorily discharged their duty. If this is done, the results would be far more satisfactory than they are at present."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"I wish to say one word with reference to the substance of what has been stated by my hon. Friend from South Kanara. So far as Malabar is concerned, the electoral list must be very large. At present the number of electors is only 35,000, or 40,000. I know personally that there are a large number of persons holding lands under registered documents and paying a kist of over Rs. 10. There are many such persons whose names ought to be found in the electoral list but whose names are not now found in the list. I quite understand that however careful may be the officers who are responsible for the preparation of these lists there will be some defects. But at the same time it is certainly possible to have these lists far more accurate than they are at present. I believe that so far as my district is concerned, there are a large number of persons whose names have been omitted and it is quite possible to have a more or less accurate register. I do not mean to say that such mistakes are intentionally committed but I desire to point out that the village officers upon whom the duty of preparing these lists rests do not bestow that amount of attention which their duty requires them to do. I hope my hon. Friend, the Law Member, will issue strict instructions to the Returning Officers and others who are responsible for this work to bestow particular attention upon the preparation of these lists, though no doubt as my hon. Friend from South Kanara has pointed out it will give far greater trouble to the candidates themselves, if the number of voters is greater, than it is at present."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Circulars have been issued to Registration Officers impressing upon them the importance of preparing correct and accurate lists of voters. Provision is also made for the amendment or for correction of the voters in the electoral roll. The privilege is given to the electors of putting in claims and objections which will be considered by the revising authority. So far as the next elections are concerned, instructions have already been issued asking Registration Officers to take up the preparation of the lists. I desire to say a few words on the wider aspect of this question. I take it that we are approximating to the European system of election. As a student of electoral law and the law relating to registration, I may say that what is done in any parish in England is this: the parish authority is the authority responsible in law for the preparation of the electoral roll or registration roll, but as a matter of fact it is taken for granted—for centuries it has been taken for granted—that the work of bringing the electoral list up to date and revising it and also expediting the claims and objections of persons whose names are not found in such lists, rests on the various party organisations. What is done is that the various party organisations and others who take interest in the various candidates take up the list and find out who are entitled to vote and who not and then they prefer claims to the authorities concerned. I may say, Sir, that so far as departmental instructions are concerned, every endeavour will be made to impress upon the local bodies the necessity for a speedy preparation of the list with exhaustive information. I grant that the suggestions made by the hon. Member from Bellary are very useful. I may say speaking for myself that his suggestion is well worth being followed. Over and above all that I think it still depends upon the vigilance and efforts exercised by the candidates and their party organisations for bringing these lists up to date. In saying this I do not for a moment derogate from the ultimate responsibility and obligations of the officers to give a correct and accurate list. I am only asking that full co-operation may be given to these officers, that their errors may be corrected and that their efforts may be supplemented by the continuous efforts of those who are responsible for the work or the success of parties or candidates."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I withdraw my motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 72,000 for elections for Indian and Provincial Legislatures be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"Sir, my object in moving this motion is to elicit information as to when the existing Council will be dissolved. I hope it will be possible for my Friend the hon. the Law Member to give us some indication, though not accurate information, as to the probable date on which this Council is likely to be dissolved. We hear all sorts of rumours. Some say that it is likely to be dissolved in September and others in October. Others say that it is possible that the Council will be prorogued together with the Assembly at Delhi in September or so. In any case what I want to know is the probable month, if not the probable date, in which this Council is likely to be dissolved, and also the probable date on which the election to the next Council is likely to take place."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"It is very difficult to give an answer for the following reasons. In the first place we do not yet know the course of business in the Legislative Assembly. It will be very expensive if we fix one date for the election to the Assembly and another date for the election to the Council. I may say that it is one of the subjects within the discretion of His Excellency to dissolve the House and he may choose to dissolve it at any time. But the holding of the election will largely depend upon considerations not unconnected with finances. For instance if the Legislative Assembly has got a September session I may say we may have to take account of that fact in coming to a conclusion. If it were found that irrespective of the fact that the Legislative Assembly is contemplating a

September session we must hold the election at a particular time, we may have to take other steps. So until we know what the chances are as to the Assembly election, it is impossible to arrive at any conclusion. However I may say this: that the experience of the last two elections has impressed this fact on Government that it is necessary to avoid both the monsoons. Some elections have had to be set aside because of the difficulties in the way of the candidates and electors reaching the various polling booths. On that account as it is fairly clear that until the end of July one monsoon will be in full force in some part of the presidency or other, perhaps also in August as also is fairly clear that from the middle of October until December the other monsoon will be in full force. Therefore normally speaking the election will be held after the close of one monsoon namely 7th or 8th September and before the beginning of the other monsoon in the middle of October. This is the idea. Of course as to the actual date of the next Council very much will depend upon the Assembly's programme. It may be that the Assembly may choose to sit till October. Of course we may have to hold the election irrespective of the Assembly. At the present moment the intention of the Government is, subject to what public opinion may declare in favour of, to hold the election between the close of one monsoon and the beginning of the other monsoon, and we are awaiting the opinion of the people on this matter and also the opinion of the Government of India."

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—"Is there no possibility of the Council being held in September or October?"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"The Assembly."

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—"No, not this Council?"

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"You are very near. (Laughter.)"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"All that I say is that if we have one set of election for this Council and another set of election for the Assembly it means more expenditure to the Government. We would like as in the past to combine the Assembly and the local elections together. If it is impossible we shall not do so."

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—"I only wished to be assured whether there will be no meeting of this Council either in September or October."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"I think I made it abundantly clear to the House on another occasion when the hon. Member from Malabar put some questions relating to the meeting to be held in connexion with the Irrigation and the Malabar Tenancy Bills that the June meeting would probably be the last meeting of this Council."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"I quite follow that the dissolution of this Council and the date of the next election must depend upon the date of the dissolution of the Assembly in Delhi and also the date of its next election. Of course it is true and it is desirable that from financial considerations the elections to the Legislative Assembly and to this Council should be held together."

[Mr. M. Krishnan Nayar] [19th March 1926]

4 p.m. "My hon. Friend stated that if the elections to the Assembly were likely to be held in the month of September or October, our elections also would be held at the same time. Naturally he did not commit himself to any definite statement. He also added that the chances were that the elections would be held after the close of the south-west monsoon and before the beginning of the north-east monsoon, somewhere in September. Here again, in different parts of the Presidency the conditions vary. As far as Malabar is concerned, practically one monsoon runs into the other. (A voice: 'No elections then in Malabar'.) I have no intention that the elections should not be held for that reason. The dates on which elections were held in 1920 and 1923 would suit Malabar quite well. In 1920 it was held on the 30th November and in 1923 it was held on the 31st October. These dates fall about the end of the north-east monsoon. The other date somewhere in September would not suit the West Coast. September is the time of monsoon and also it is the time when the agricultural population would be in the fields. Most of the voters who are agriculturists would not take the trouble of going to the polling booths."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

The Demand that Government be granted a sum not exceeding Rs. 3.10 lakhs for General Administration—Legislative Bodies was put to the House and carried and the Grant was made.

DEMAND X—GENERAL ADMINISTRATION—SECRETARIAT.

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"Sir, on the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor I move 'that Government be granted a sum not exceeding Rs. 7.35 lakhs for General Administration—Secretariat.'"

* Mr. P. K. S. A. ARUMUGA NADAR:—"Sir, I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 79,200 for Executive Council be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"In moving the token motion I beg to make the following observations. It is a well-known fact that my community is not at all represented in superior grade or selection grade in Government services. It is very easy for the hon. Members to say sympathetically and to throw out their responsibility by saying that the Staff Selection Board does not select Nadar applicants; and so, they are not responsible. So far, the argument of the hon. Members in defending the Staff Selection Board, is that the Board considers efficiency only. I am not going to say anything in detail about the difficulties of our men; one time they were not able to get the application forms even in due time. Anyhow I shall state one instance here for the information of this hon. House. A student passed his B.A. examination in 1925; he stood first in rank in the Presidency in his subject, had training in the U.T.C., won medals and prizes in football teams and for good conduct, but was not able to get himself selected even by the Staff Selection Board. Sir, one who is qualified to such an extent is not selected by the Staff Board. I may be satisfied to some extent if the Staff Selection Board had summoned the applicant and tested his efficiency according to their principles and then come to the decision of rejecting the applicant with remarks some way or other. But it is not so. In this case, unless the members of the Staff Selection Board are (if I may say so) prophets, I am afraid they cannot pass any remarks simply on seeing the application form itself. It is clear from this, that efficiency is not a qualification by itself. Unless the hon. Members make up their minds and sincerely consider the position of my community in Government services, I am afraid our attempts will never be fruitful. So, I appeal with all respect to them to consider favourably the Nadar applicants, when any direct recruitments are made to the superior services by them or through them."

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"Sir, in seconding the motion of my hon. Friend Mr. Arumuga Nadar, I wish to say that we have been agitating over this question for the past many years. In spite of all that, sufficient attention has not been bestowed upon it by the Government. Whenever we approached the hon. the Revenue Member in connexion with appointments, he refused to comply with our request where the Staff Selection Board was concerned. Perhaps he did so on good grounds. We are handicapped a good deal by the existence of the Staff Selection Board. I do not say that we have not got sufficient number of intelligent and educated men in our community. But so far as I can see the principle of communal representation has not been taken into account by the Staff Selection Board. Under the circumstances I would appeal to the hon. the Revenue Member to remind the Staff Selection Board of the existence of the communal Government Order and see that as much representation as possible is given to such minority communities as the Nadar community. With these words I support the resolution."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"Mr. President, Sir, it is perfectly natural that hon. Members who have just spoken should wish to see the members of their own community in the superior posts in Government service. I think they are under a misconception as to the method by which people arrive there. It is not usual, in fact I do not know that there is any department in which direct recruitment is made to the superior grade, particularly to the selection grade. That would be a contradiction in terms. Direct recruitment is made to a comparatively subordinate grade and the people there have to work their way up to the higher grades. I do not think hon. Members are quite fair to the Staff Selection Board when they complain that it is because of the board that representatives of their community are not to be found in any considerable number in the superior grades of Government service. The Board selects a number of qualified candidates representing all the communities or as many communities as practicable from those who apply to them for appointments. The list is sent to the appointing authorities who are expected to consider the existing constitution of their departments and choose such men as will give a fair opportunity to all communities in that department. I am not quite sure what particular community it is that the hon. Members represent. I know it is the Nadar community and that there are a large number of Nadars in Government service. It has been suggested to me that there are Christian Nadars and . . ."

* Mr. P. K. S. A. ARUMUGA NADAR:—"I am not advocating the cause of Christian Nadars now."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"I am not quite sure that there are not a number of Hindu Nadars also in the Government service. I have no doubt that there might be more. After all, this system of selection has been working only for the past two or three years and we hope to replace it soon by a Public Services Commission. If any member of the community will succeed in getting himself selected he will soon raise himself to the higher posts. But having once decided on the principle of selection by a Public Services Commission, it is very difficult for Government to intervene at the same time and make direct appointments from particular communities. Even if we were to do so, we would immediately meet with very considerable difficulties. I do not quite know how many particular communities there are in this Presidency. I am told that there are two or three hundred. Where one or two appointments have to be made it is very difficult for Government to satisfy the claims of two or three hundred different communities, not to mention the various sub-communities and the various differentiations based on religious persuasions in the communities themselves. Hon. Members would realize that it is not at all easy to do so. The way that would lead sooner to the fulfillment of their desires would be to encourage members of their community to qualify themselves in educational and other ways for entering Government service. I may assure hon. Members that Government have no prejudice against any particular community. We shall only be too glad to find promising members of minority communities in the Government service. We do not see that by direct intervention of Government in the matter of appointments there will be any prospect of satisfying the aspirations of all the communities. The problem is so difficult of solution that we do not envy at all the task of the committee of this Council which is now engaged in considering the subject with the object of suggesting to the Government the means by which any existing inequalities between the different communities may be removed until time has had its effect.

[Mr. N. E. Marjoribanks]

p.m.

"But any suggestions that they feel themselves able to make will, I may assure hon. Members, receive most sympathetic consideration at the hands of the Government. I do not feel that I can give any definite pledge or promise in the matter. The hon. Members who have spoken can hardly expect such a pledge. But we shall be very pleased when members of their community do enter Government service in larger numbers and they will, I have no doubt, be in no way slower than other communities to make their way up to higher posts when once they get in. As I began by saying, we do not recruit directly to the higher posts."

* Mr. P. K. S. A. ARUMUGA NADAR :—"I withdraw the motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 48,100 for pay of establishments be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"I move this token motion to urge the need for rearrangement of Secretariat Departments on a more natural and rational basis.

(At this stage Rai Bahadur T. M. Narasimhacharlu took the chair.)

"The public as well as hon. Members of this Council find it difficult to address Secretaries to Government. With a list in my hand of the various departments and with my intimate knowledge of the Secretariat Departments I am puzzled at the distribution. For instance, if one wants to address Government in connexion with Labour matters, naturally one would suppose that Labour would come under the Development Department or some other department. But strangely enough, when I look at the list I find that Labour comes under Law Department. Suppose we have to address Government on the appointments of Judicial officers, one would naturally address the letter to the Secretary, Law Department. But it is strange to see that he has nothing to do with Judicial. We have to address the Chief Secretary. On the other hand, the Secretary, Law Department, has to deal with a large number of miscellaneous Judicial heads. He has to deal with treasure trove. (Laughter.) I wonder how the Law Secretary can deal with treasure trove. Life Assurance Companies—I wonder how they come under Law, Miscellaneous, Judicial. Carbide of Calcium comes under Miscellaneous, Judicial Head. Planters' Labour Act comes under Law. I had to address Government several times on this matter. I addressed the letters to the wrong persons. Education comes under Law. I thought at first that our Law Member was in charge of Education also. Hon. Members are puzzled very much at the division of subjects. Under Education come libraries, museums and so many other things. Civil Orphan Asylum comes under the Secretary, Law Department. The Law Secretary deals with Registration. A list of subjects in charge of the hon. Members of Government is published along with the proceedings of the Council at the instance of the hon. Member Mr. Marthandam Pillai. Before this list was published I was not aware whom I should address in regard to any subject. I have to refer to it constantly. Naturally one is apt to forget. The arrangement is not a rational or a natural one. There is the Secretary for Railways. He would naturally deal with Tramway. (Laughter). Tramways come under the Secretary, Local Self-Government Department. I have drawn the attention of the Government to the puzzles of the present arrangement. In any case, Judicial Department should be under the Secretary, Law Department. My suggestions are more or less tentative ones. I think a more natural and rational distribution of work will be devised. Judicial, Police and such other matters would naturally come under the Secretary, Law Department. Papers on these subjects will go from the Law Secretary to the Law Member. Tenancy should go naturally to the Secretary, Revenue Department. It is a question intimately connected with revenue matters. I had to write to Government for information as to the attempt made by them for the introduction of a system of permanency of tenure among the present temporary tenants, a point on which my hon. Friend Mr. Prabhakaran 'Iampun is very keen. I addressed letters to the Revenue Department because tenancy is connected with that department. There was lot of difficulty in finding out that letter. It ought to have gone to the Law Department. When I went to the Revenue Secretary my letter could not be traced at all. I do not know how the letter was found."

19th March 1926]

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"It was found and I replied to it." (Laughter.)

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"There must have been a lot of difficulty in finding it. I place these points before the Government to have a rational distribution of work so that the public will not be inconvenienced. We may also have Secretaries allotted so that the Reserved half will have one or two Secretaries exclusively to themselves to do work directly under them ; and the Ministers can have Secretaries directly working under them having nothing to do with the Reserved half. I would suggest that at least the Secretaries attached to the Transferred half should be all Indians recruited from the Provincial Service or directly in India."

[Mr. J. A. Saldanha]

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU (from the Chair):—"How is that point relevant?"

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"That is only by the way. (Loud laughter.) Before the new Council meets it is necessary to have a more proper arrangement and distribution of work."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU (from the Chair):—"Does the hon. the Revenue Member propose to reply?" (Laughter.)

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"I am not surprised at the Chairman's doubt. (Laughter.) I think it is my duty to reply to the more important remarks of the hon. Member. In the first place I do not for a moment pretend to defend the terminology of the different departments. The list was drawn up and the work was from time to time allotted to the different Secretaries as different subjects came into prominence. We have tried on several occasions to make a more logical distribution. The Secretaries to Government have themselves discussed this matter in committees more than once. It was found that it was very difficult to make any rearrangement on a more logical basis. That would result in making the work of some Secretaries too heavy and that of others too light. We cannot have the luxury of a Secretary for every separate department and we have to distribute the work so as to make as far as possible, the burden of each department equal. By practical experience we find that it is very difficult to make any radical change in the present distribution.

"As regards the practical inconvenience complained of, the matter is set out distinctly in the distribution list and it does not cause any great inconvenience to the working of the departments. As regards the other point, viz., addressing letters, it is open to hon. Members to write to any Secretary who may seem to them suitable and they may be sure that the letters would be transferred to the proper departments. I think the case has very rarely occurred of a paper being actually lost simply because it is addressed to the wrong Secretary. Even in the case of the hon. Member from South Kanara, the letter reached its proper destination and was answered. As regards the suggestion made by the way, I may also remark by the way (laughter) that no doubt, the time will come when most if not all the Secretaries will be Indians."

p.m.

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU:—"I will mention only one point, if the hon. the Revenue Member will permit me to say a word. So far as my hon. Friend Mr. Saldanha is concerned, the remarks that he made in the early portion of his address were certainly worth considering, i.e., that possibly it may not be difficult for the same number of Secretaries to rearrange the subjects so as to have some internal connexion between the subjects. As regards the by-the-way or out-of-the-way matter, it would be more convenient for every Indian Member to have a European Secretary with an Indian Under Secretary, and similarly in the case of every European Member to have an Indian Secretary with an European Under Secretary. The opinions both from the Indian point of view as well as the European point of view would be placed before the Member of Government.

19th March 1926] [Sir K. Venkatarreddi Nayudu]

As far as we know, there are only two Indian Secretaries and there are only two Indian Members. So, there need be no difficulty in their rearrangement. I want to impress upon the Members of Government the importance of their obtaining both Indian and European opinions, from officers serving directly under them. I may say that if European Members have Indians as Secretaries and Europeans as Under Secretaries, they will be able to get both the European and the Indian points of view. Similarly, if Indian Members will have European Secretaries and Indian Under Secretaries, they will have the advantage of knowing both the points of view; so that all the views may be placed before them. I cannot agree with my Friend, Mr. Saldanha, that all of them should be Indians, though I should like that all of them are Indians; but let us hope that the day will come when we shall have all of them Indians. As long as that cannot be had, an arrangement of the kind will, in my opinion, be more advantageous to us."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR:—"I wish to add this, Sir. It seems to me that though my Friend's remarks caused much merriment in this House, there was considerable substance in what he said. Of course the hon. the Revenue Member said that the difficulty was in equalising the work of the different Secretaries and Secretariats if a different arrangement from that which prevails now is made. His arguments for that difficulty I cannot understand. I think it must be possible to make a more logical arrangement than what obtains now, and I hope a fresh attempt will be made to make such an arrangement."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"Sir, as regards what has fallen from the hon. Member, I may say that we tried to rearrange the work of the Secretariats; but we found it impracticable without making unduly heavy some Secretariats and making others too light. As regards the remarks that fell from the hon. Member from East Godavari, I think there has been some little misapprehension. Although it is customary for people to refer to particular Members of Government as being in charge of particular departments, yet all the Members of the Executive Council are equally responsible in all subjects. I have often listened to remarks from Members of this House which attributed decisions and courses of action to a Member for which his colleagues were equally and perhaps more responsible. I do not know how this arrangement of Secretaries according to race would work unless responsibility is much more divided than it is. Apart from that, we want the Secretaries and Under Secretaries to deal with the merits of the question, and not from any racial standpoint. I am sure that I do not wish to know the merits of any question from any Secretary according to a racial standpoint—and I am sure hon. Colleagues do not want to do so either. The point of view of the public is expressed in this Council and in the public Press generally. I do not think it is desirable at the present stage of Government that a racial rule should be developed in the Secretariat. We would much sooner go according to the fitness of the particular officer to present the merits of the case in a particular department in a full and complete manner for the decision of the Members of Government. As regards the principle of Indianization, however, no doubt as time goes on, Mr. Saldanha's ideal will be more and more realised."

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU:—"Mr. President, on a matter of personal explanation I want to say this. I think I have been a little misunderstood by the hon. the Revenue Member, not intentionally

[Sir K. Venkatarreddi Nayudu] [19th March 1926]

I am sure, but because I have not made myself clear. I did not in the least intend that there should be any racial discrimination made in the appointments of the Secretaries. What I said was that questions might arise in which it is possible that there may be two different view points—the Indian view point and the European view-point. When such questions arise, I thought it might be for the benefit of the Members concerned if they know all the views. It is only that more information may be placed before the Members that I said that, not that I wanted that there should be in the least any racial question introduced. No doubt, Sir, the Secretaries place all the points of view before the Member and in fact from their experience they are expected to place a full discussion of all the views, apart from the previous history of each case. At times occasions do arise, problems do arise, for the solution of the Government. I take it, Sir, that all the Secretaries are very able officers; of course, they are picked men, men from the service who have served all their life and who are known to be very useful officers, and they fill up these places. I do not make the least distinction between the one or the other Secretary, at least any racial distinction. What I said was that certainly there would be cases or questions of policy which might have to be settled in any particular manner, either from an Indian or an European point of view and in such cases the view-points might be properly placed before the Members. That is all that I wanted, and I hope the hon. the Revenue Member will take it from me that any racial distinction was far from my mind."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Sir, while I yield to none in my desire for the Indianization of the services, I must say, Sir, that I cannot agree with the arguments advanced by my hon. Friend Sir K. Venkatarreddi Nayudu. He said that wherever there is an European Secretary, he must have an Indian Under Secretary. If it is carried on to its logical conclusion, it might mean, Sir, that wherever there was an Indian head of the department, it does not matter if all the officers below—Deputy Secretaries, Under Secretaries and others—should be Europeans and vice versa."

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—" That is not at all what I said. I was saying that if the Member happens to be an Indian, his Secretary may be an European, so that he may have the benefit of the European point of view. In that case, the Under Secretary will be an Indian. That is what I said, and not that everybody else should be so."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Why, Sir, when the chief of the department is himself an Indian, according to Sir K. V. Reddi he may very well afford to have non-Indians for all the other posts under him. I do not think there is any force in the argument advanced by him. I think we are all for the Indianization of services. We want the Indian point of view and I do not see any special need for the European point of view in all matters. Certainly, in a Cabinet where the majority of Members are Indians, if you restrict them to an European personnel, it is a dangerous thing which cannot contemplate with equanimity."

The motion was, by leave of the House, withdrawn.

(At this stage the hon. the Deputy President took the chair.)

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" Sir, I wish to move that the allotment of Rs. 5,800 for Staff Selection Board be reduced by Rs. 100.

19th March 1926]

[Mr. R. Veerian]

" I move this to raise the question of having examination for all classes of candidates making exemption in the case of depressed classes alone.

" Sir, I have said enough on this matter during the budget discussion, and I therefore have every reason to believe that the remarks I offered on that day will be quite fresh still in the minds of the hon. the Law Member. However, I want to say a few words."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" We are accustomed, Sir, to very articulate utterance on the part of the hon. Member and I am afraid he is now speaking in such a low voice that some of us cannot hear."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—" You might ask him to speak loudly. You please go on, Mr. Veerian, in your usual style."

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" I am sorry I am unable to speak louder, because my throat is bad to-day (Laughter). Therefore, hon. Members cannot expect a louder voice, but I shall endeavour my best to raise my voice. Now, Sir, I don't want to make any lengthy speech on the matter, but I want to say that if the depressed classes are exempted from the operation of the Staff Selection Board, I am sanguine that the members of the said community will not only admire the hon. Member in charge of the portfolio for his benevolence and kindness, but also for his political sagacity. With these few words, I do not want to press my motion and withdraw it."

The motion was, by leave of the House, withdrawn.

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—" I move, Sir, that the allotment of Rs. 73,000 for Chief Secretariat be reduced by Rs. 100.

" I want to discuss the question why Provincial Service men are not entertained as Under Secretaries to Government.

" Sir, my hon. Friend Sir K. Venkatarreddi Nayudu in connection with a previous motion advised the mixture of Indian and European Secretaries (laughter) and suggested the necessity of having both European and Indian Secretaries."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—" You should not yourself laugh. Others might laugh." (Laughter.)

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—" I am enjoying the laughter of other hon. Members. In that connection, Sir K. V. Reddi mentioned that there are two Indian Secretaries. I do not know, Sir, whether these Secretaries were not there before. With regard to the Under Secretaries Sir, I am told that of the several Under Secretaries' posts three of them were till very recently held by three Provincial Service men.

" Now, Sir, I understand there is not even a single Provincial Service official as under Secretary. All of them are at present Indian Civil Service officers. Moreover, all the Under Secretaries are Europeans except one solitary individual in the person of Mr. Ramuni Menon."

Dr. P. SUBBARAYAN :—" May I point out that he belongs to the Indian Civil Service?"

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—" What I meant to say was that all the Under Secretaries were Europeans and that Mr. Ramuni Menon was the only Indian among them. Sir, we have been agitating for Indianization of services and we have heard something about it just now. If this is the way in which the services are going to be Indianized, no one knows when our ultimate goal, namely, Swaraj, will be attained."

[15th March 1926]

*The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" Mr. Deputy President, Sir, the question with which the hon. Member started was why members of the Provincial Service were not employed as Under Secretaries. The post of Under Secretary is not intended as a prize appointment for officers who have risen as nearly all officers of the Provincial Service have, from very subordinate posts and who if they should fill any such appointment at all, could fill it only towards the end of their career. It is meant rather as a post for the training of young men in Secretariat work. As a matter of fact, there is at present one of the Under Secretaries who belongs to the Provincial Service but that is an exception.

"The other point raised was that there should be Indians among the Under Secretaries, though they be members of the Indian Civil Service. That will naturally come about when the number of Indians in the Indian Civil Service increases. If the hon. Member would see the Indian Civil Service List he will find that the number of Indians in the Indian Civil Service has considerably increased in the last two or three years and I have no doubt that it will have its effect in a year or two in the Secretariat as in other appointments.

"These are two points which the hon. Member has touched in this question. To the first, I would say that the appointment is not one which can suitably be filled as a rule by members of the Provincial Service for the reason that when they come to the end of their service, they happen to be men of some seniority and advanced in age and considerable experience so that their prize appointments consist in the 'listed' posts. The other argument that they should be Indians is part of the general plea for Indianization of the services and is met by the fact that there is an increasing number of Indians who are being recruited to the Indian Civil Service every year which according to the recommendations of the Lee Commission will ultimately result in half the superior posts being filled by Indians."

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—" Mr. President, Sir, so far as the second point about Indianization is concerned, I think that has been sufficiently answered. But I think the real object of the mover of this motion is to know why Provincial Service men were not entertained as Under Secretaries. And the answer given, if I understood the hon. Member aright, was to the effect that most of the Provincial Service officers who are fit for the place were probably reaching the end of their service while the Government wanted young men as Under Secretaries. But I take it that the Government recognize the necessity of training Provincial Service men also and when it is found that direct recruitments for some of the higher appointments are going on for some time it ought not to be difficult for the Government to get young men and yet sufficiently high in the service who may be usefully trained in the Secretariat, so that when his turn comes, he may fill a Secretary's place. As we have got one now in the Secretariat originally from the Provincial Service who has risen to the Superior Service, it will be to the advantage both of the candidates as well as of the Government that some men—it need not necessarily be a large number, some one or two men—might well be tried. And I remember, Sir, when I was the Minister, my Under Secretary was a Provincial Service man. And I must admit that I did obtain very good help from him but in that case he happened to be a man of very long service. I think that it ought not to be difficult for the Government to obtain men from the Provincial Service not too old to occupy the place. Service in the Secretariat is considered to be very useful service and I am sure there are many young officers sufficiently high in the grades willing and quite ready to work there if not for the Government and the country, at least in their own interests. I think it is only fair that some opportunity should be afforded to them. I am not pleading on behalf of any one. But I think, Sir, more members than we have at present may well be tried so that they may have the necessary training for higher places from there."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—" I did not mean to suggest that there was any bar to the appointment of Provincial Service officers to the post of Under Secretaries. What I wanted to bring out was there was not the same strength in the argument for appointing those men now as there was at a time when practically the only avenue by which Indians entered the services was through the Provincial Civil Service. Now when we have young Indian officers entering the Indian Civil Service in such large numbers it is to them Government look in filling these posts as a general rule rather than to the Provincial Civil Service men who are on the whole regarded more fit for executive work. However, this does not mean whenever we know of a young and capable officer who might with advantage be tried, that there is any bar to his being appointed or being tried : It is only that as young Indians are entering the Indian Civil Service in large numbers, it is quite natural that we look when vacancies occur to them rather than to men of the Provincial Service."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" Sir, I consider this question as of great importance which requires much more careful handling than is promised by the speeches that have been made. As it is already five minutes to five, I think we might as well adjourn the debate till to-morrow. Not that I want to speak to-morrow, for I will finish my speech now."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—" The subject cannot be adjourned till to-morrow. The hon. Member may finish his speech."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" Very well, Sir. If we go at the rate proposed by the hon. the Revenue Member, I think we shall have to wait till the Greek Calends to get our services in the Secretariat among the Under Secretaries Indianized. I want to know what extraordinary magic there is in the Indian Civil Service. Surely, we ought not look for recruits among the Indian Civil Service to be administrative officers of the Secretariat, especially Under Secretaries. In the Secretariats in Bengal and I think in Bombay also, the recruitment for these places has gone on from two or three different fields. Firstly, so far as the Revenue Department and kindred departments are concerned, the recruitment is made from Revenue officers like Deputy Collectors and surely, among them even here, we will find young vigorous men able enough to discharge the duty of an Under Secretary. We had more than one Under Secretary in the Revenue Department recruited from Deputy Collectors who did very good work and such men were afterwards promoted to higher appointments as Assistant Collectors. The next field of recruitment, for the Judicial department, is the large body of Subordinate Judicial officers. Lastly, in the Secretariat there must be able men under our Government as under other Governments who are capable of taking up the post. I think that considering the amount of good work that is turned out by the clerks in the Secretariat, it should be found possible to select men from among them. I am sure even our Secretaries here derive as a rule much benefit from the services of these people and to a great extent the work of a Secretary is work done by the intelligent clerks under him. Considering the main object that we have in view, namely, Indianisation of service, the Government must make it a point to throw open at least one-third of the number of Secretaries to Indians, not of the Indian Civil Service, for I would exclude that service altogether from this category. I would confine the recruitment from capable men to be found among Deputy Collectors, District Munsifs and men in the Secretariat. Some of our Subordinate Judges may happen to be too old for the purpose. There is a suspicion now among the public that Deputy Collectors and officers of the Revenue Department are debarred from promotion to this place. I hope it is not true but still the suspicion exists that because a number of them gave evidence before the Commission that their abilities were not recognized, they were debarred permanently from being promoted to any place in the Secretariat. If there is any ground for that suspicion, I think the sooner it is removed by the Government, the better it will be. In any case, it must be earnestly hoped that—I shall not say as soon as possible but—immediately, within the shortest period, the posts of Under Secretaries and Secretaries at least to the extent of one-third should be held by Indians, not necessarily of the Indian Civil Service."

[Mr. J. A. Saldanha]

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—"One word, Sir, before I withdraw my motion. I am told, Sir, that it is a rule in the Secretariat that at least two Provincial Service men should be in the posts of Under Secretaries establishment."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"There is no such rule, Sir."

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—"In such a case, I should like to press my motion, Sir."

"But as the House is however in favour of the motion being withdrawn, I beg leave to withdraw it."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

The House adjourned to meet again at 11 a.m. the next day.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Order made by the President of the Madras Legislative Council under Standing Order No. 15 on the 4th December 1924.]

1. Starred questions to be put at a meeting of the Council with their answers shall be printed and placed on the Council table an hour before the President takes his seat.

The Secretary shall call out the name of each interpellator in the order in which the names are printed, specify the serial number of his question and make a sufficient pause to give him or any other member a reasonable opportunity of rising in his place and putting a supplementary question. Supplementary questions must be put immediately after the principal questions to which they relate.

2. If a member responsible for a starred question happens to be absent when it is called, it will be open either to him or to any other member to put supplemental questions thereon after the other starred questions for the day have been answered, provided question-time is not thereby exceeded.

3. Questions, not starred, will not be called in Council, but they will be printed with their answers and placed on the table of the House along with the list of starred questions. Oral supplementary questions will not be allowed in regard to unstarred questions.]

STARRED QUESTIONS.

Co-operative Societies.

Extension for overdues to the rural primary societies.

* 1678 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state the amount under principal overdues and interest overdues for which extensions have been granted by the District Banks to the rural primary societies in each district during the years 1923-24 and 1924-25?

A.—The Government have no information.

Exemption of co-operative societies from company's tax.

* 1679 Q.—Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state if the Government have directed the exemption of co-operative societies from payment of the company's tax?

A.—The attention of the hon. Member is invited to the answer to clauses (a) and (c) of Mr. Adinarayana Chettiyar's question No. 721 answered in Council on the 30th October 1925.

Industries.

Production of areca-nuts in the Presidency.

* 1680 Q.—Mr. D. MANJAYYA HEGGADE: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

- (a) all the areca-nut producing areas in this Presidency;
- (b) the total quantity of areca-nut exported per annum; and
- (c) consequent income to the Government, if any?

A.—(a) The chief districts are Malabar, South Kanara, Salem and Coimbatore.

(b) & (c) The Government have no information.

[20th March 1926]

Publication of the enterprises of the agricultural, etc., departments.

* 1681 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state what steps Government have taken or are going to take to give publicity to the enterprises and concerns of the agricultural, industrial and fisheries departments?

A.—The activities of these departments are reviewed in the annual administration reports which are placed on the Editors' Table. The Agricultural department is also giving publicity to its activities by means of leaflets, bulletins, villagers' calendars, cinema films at fairs and festivals, and the issue of monthly digests setting forth the operations of the department in the different parts of the presidency each month. Demonstrations are held on the ryots' lands and agricultural demonstrators take advantage of jamabandi camps to deliver lectures to the assembled ryots. The presence of boring parties of the department of Industries in any taluk is notified in the district gazettes concerned.

The products of these departments are brought to the notice of the public in one or more of the following methods:—

- (1) advertisement in newspapers,
- (2) exhibition at the various shows and exhibitions held from time to time,
- (3) fixing of placards in important places,
- (4) appointment of stockists in large towns and appointment of sales agents,
- (5) issue of letters and samples to principal consumers, and
- (6) maintenance of depots at important centres.

Advertisement of the products of institutions under the Director of Industries.

* 1682 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state how the products and manufactures of the institutions, workshops, industries, etc., under the management of the Director of Industries, Agriculture and Fisheries, are advertised?

A.—The hon. Member is referred to the answer to question No. 1681.

Education.

Nominations to the Tanjore District Educational Council.

* 1683 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether there is any member of the depressed classes nominated to the Tanjore District Educational Council; if so, what is his name and when he was appointed; and

(b) if there is no depressed class member, the reason for not nominating one among the depressed class to this District Educational Council?

[20th March 1926]

A.—(a) M.R.Ry. K. Katheperumal Pandaram Kulandaivelu Nayanar of Mannargudi is the present representative of the depressed classes on the District Educational Council, Tanjore. His appointment was notified in the Fort St. George Gazette, dated 2nd February 1926.

(b) Does not arise.

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—“ With reference to clause (a), may I know the name of the gentleman appointed before the nomination of Mr. K. K. Kulandaivelu Nayanar on the District Educational Council ? ”

The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—“ I do not know the name of the predecessor of the present member, Sir.”

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—“ May I therefore take it that this gentleman was appointed only after the constitutional representation made by me ? ”

The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—“ It may be, Sir ; but I cannot say.”

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—“ May I know whether there is any provision in the Act to make it obligatory on the appointing authority to have members of the depressed classes nominated to all the district educational councils, as in the case of the local boards ? ”

The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—“ There is no such obligation, but it suggests that certain classes may be represented by nomination.”

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—“ May I therefore take it that the provision in the Act requires suitable amendment with a view to make it obligatory in the case of depressed classes to have such members nominated to all the district educational councils ? ”

Public Health.

Water-supply to the depressed classes in certain villages in the Nellore district.

* 1684 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN : Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether his attention has been drawn to the scarcity of water-supply to the depressed classes in nearly over nine villages in the Nellore district, such, for instance, as Tharunayi, Vavvuru, etc., and that the taluk boards concerned have not allotment of funds for the purpose ; and

(b) what steps the Government propose to take to relieve this hardship to the depressed classes in the said villages ?

A.—(a) The Government have no information.

(b) A grant of Rs. 29,000 has been made to the Nellore District Board to assist it in effecting improvements to the rural water-supply and it has been instructed to keep the needs of the depressed classes in view when utilizing this grant and to meet them as far as is practicable.

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—“ With reference to clause (b), I wish to know whether any condition or undertaking was taken when giving this grant of Rs. 29,000 to the Nellore District Board.”

[20th March 1926]

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—“ Instructions were issued that the representation of the depressed classes should be considered.”

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—“ My point is this, Sir. I want to know whether, while giving this grant, they have taken any undertaking from the President of the District Board to the effect that he should contribute an equivalent amount, so that he may have more wells provided.”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—“ Yes.”

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—“ I want to know whether the Government is aware that this grant for water-supply cannot be spent before the end of the current year, and if so, whether the Government will be pleased to continue the unspent grant for the next year also.”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—“ I have already stated, Sir, in this House that after the demands are voted, there will be further demands for the purpose of providing funds for the completion of unfinished works.”

The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—“ I want to ask this very question, Sir, though in a different form. I want to know whether the hon. the Minister will consider the applications of local bodies for extension of time favourably.”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—“ The concession that I am prepared to make, namely, providing funds in the budget for 1926-27, is much greater than what is asked for.”

Religious and Charitable Endowments.

Rules under the Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act.

* 1685 Q.—Mr. K. RAGHUCHANDRA BALLAL : Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the rules framed under the Madras Hindu Religious Endowments Act have been duly published ; if so, when and in what languages ;

(b) whether any objections or suggestions have been received in regard to those rules ; if so, how they have been dealt with ; and

(c) whether the rules have been finally approved and brought into force, and if so, whether a copy thereof may be placed on the table of the House ?

A.—(a) The draft rules were published in English in Part I-A of the Fort St. George Gazette dated 30th October 1925.

(b) Yes. They are under consideration.

(c) No. The Government do not propose to place a copy of the rules as finally approved on the table of the House. They will be published in the Fort St. George Gazette.

Mr. D. MANJAYYA HEGGADE :—“ With reference to clause (a), may I know, Sir, why these rules were not published in other languages ? ”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—“ The rules have been published in English, but as it would be very difficult to translate these rules into the various vernaculars, it was not considered necessary to publish them in other languages.”

[20th March 1926]

Mr. D. MANJAYYA HEGGADE:—"Then how can the people who do not know English understand these rules, Sir?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"I see the hon. Member's difficulty. It will be borne in mind."

Land Revenue.

Auction sale of forest lands in Narasinganur village.

* 1686 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that about 100 acres of forest land in Narasinganur village, Villupuram taluk, South Arcot district, were sold in auction some years back for Rs. 1,500 to two rich Reddis, one of whom is the village munsif of the place;

(b) whether it is a fact that a major portion of the land is still remaining uncultivated without any use;

(c) why the 100 acres were sold at such a low rate in auction;

(d) in whose presence the auction took place;

(e) how many Adi-Dravidas and how many caste people were present;

(f) why no announcement was made in the Adi-Dravida quarters before the auction took place;

(g) if they had made proper announcement, whether the signatures of all the Adi-Dravidas or the signatures of the prominent members among them were taken at the time;

(h) why the proceedings of the Board of Revenue, Routine No. 1187, Press, dated 5th March 1925, regarding lists of lands available for assignment to depressed classes was not announced in the Adi-Dravida village; and

(i) why no copy of such a list was put up in the communal meeting place of the depressed classes, or in cheri temple or in any place where they meet together?

A.—(a) The Narasinganur reserve measuring 428 acres was sold in auction in blocks of about 50 to 100 acres about 1918 by the Forest department. The names of the successful bidders and the price realized are not in the records with Government.

(b) The Government do not know what area of this land has been brought under cultivation.

(c) to (g) The sale took place eight years ago and Government regret that they have not information on the points mentioned.

(h) & (i) Orders to this effect were not in force in 1918.

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"With reference to clause (g), may I know whether they got signatures from almost all members who attended the auction, after the auction was over?"

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"I do not know if the hon. Member refers to this particular auction. If so, we cannot say what was done. It was eight years ago, and even if the signatures were taken, the records would have been destroyed by this time."

[20th March 1926]

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"I only want to know what they do in the present cases, whenever any auction takes place, whether they take signatures from all those that attend the auctions."

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"I must ask for notice, Sir. I do not know."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"Has not the plan of the Forest department, namely, selling land in big blocks of 50 and 100 acres, had the effect of preventing poor people from competing for lands?"

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"I do not know, Sir, whether it has had that effect, but we may presume that it is calculated to have that effect and it is for that reason, so far as I know, that the practice was put a stop to."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"What is the period prescribed for the destruction of these records, Sir? Is it not ten years?"

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"I expect the hon. Member knows better than I do, Sir."

Assignment of darkhast lands to caste ryots.

* 1687 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: With reference to question No. 1107 answered at the meeting dated 16th December 1925, will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Government have received the representation made by me dated 26th January and 30th January 1926 regarding assignments of darkhast lands to caste ryots or ex-service men of lands already broken and brought under cultivation by the depressed classes in various districts;

(b) if so what steps they have taken in the matter and with what results; and

(c) what definite orders they have issued in the matter?

A.—(a) Yes. The hon. Member was informed on January 29th and February 3rd that these representations had been received.

(b) & (c) Extracts of the representation dated January 26th were sent to the Collectors of the districts concerned for inquiry and disposal. That dated January 30th was sent to the Board of Revenue for disposal after inquiry.

Civil Justice.

Action taken on the Civil Justice Committee's recommendations.

* 1688 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) what action has been taken or is being taken by the Local Government and the Madras High Court on the recommendations contained in the Civil Justice Committee's report so far as each is concerned; and

(b) why there has been so much delay in their taking the required action?

[20th March 1926]

A.—(a) & (b) The attention of the hon. Member is invited to the answer to question No 165. Most of the recommendations have been examined, and necessary action has either been taken or is being taken to give effect to the several recommendations. The recommendations cover a very wide field. If the hon. Member will single out any specific subject or group of subjects, he will be furnished with information as to the action taken.

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"May I ask the hon. the Law Member whether he has taken any steps to empower sub-judges to hear rent appeals, which work is now being done exclusively by the District Judges? To do this may require some statutory alterations."

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"The matter is under consideration."

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"May I ask the hon. the Law Member whether he is taking steps to post senior judicial officers to over-worked courts, I mean courts where the pendency of cases is somewhat heavy? That does not require any statutory alteration."

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"No. Senior officers are not necessarily the most competent."

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"What is the test then? Is there any principle in posting these officers?"

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Men who have displayed special aptitude for civil work, for instance, are posted to heavy courts. Sometimes the High Court is not always able to arrange this, but as far as possible the most congested courts get the most competent officers."

Pay of Civil Court Copyists.

* 1689 Q.—Mr. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Government have received a copy of the memorial presented to His Excellency the Governor by a copyist of the Kulittalai District Munsif's Court for increase of pay and other reliefs to Civil Court copyists;

(b) whether it is a fact that the work of Civil Court copyists is practically the same as that of the copying clerks in Registration offices; and

(c) whether the Government have in contemplation any schemes to afford some reliefs to the Civil Court copyists and, if so, when and in what manner the reliefs will be granted?

A.—(a) Memorials addressed to His Excellency have been received from certain copyists in the Trichinopoly district.

(b) The answer is in the negative.

(c) The attention of the hon. Member is invited to the answer given to question No. 1447.

[20th March 1926]

Irrigation.

Improvements to the Romperu drain.

* 1690 Q.—Mr. P. ANJANEYULU: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether any memorial has been submitted by the ryots of Bapatla regarding the improvements to be made to the Romperu drain in the Bapatla taluk in the Guntur district; and

(b) if so, whether the Government have taken or propose to take any action in the matter?

A.—A memorial was received and referred to the Chief Engineer in December. The Chief Engineer's report is awaited.

Upper Bhavani and Lower Bhavani projects.

* 1691 Q.—Mr. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Law Member and the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Government have received any reply from the Board of Revenue regarding the Upper Bhavani and Lower Bhavani projects and, if so, to what effect; and

(b) whether the Government have any intention of beginning soon one or both the works referred to above and, if so, when?

A.—(a) & (b) The Board of Revenue have sent an interim report recommending the deputation of a special officer to examine the prospects of the upper scheme afresh in view of the great changes that have taken place since Mr. Innes wrote his report in 1906. The Government are considering this recommendation, and hope to pass orders when Mr. Macmichael returns from the Punjab, where he has gone to study methods of 'dry' irrigation. It is not possible to say now when either of the schemes is likely to be sanctioned for execution.

Proposed channel at Chettipatti.

* 1692 Q.—Mr. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state whether any investigation has been carried on since July 1925—

(a) as to the feasibility of irrigation with Cauvery water by taking a channel at Chettipatti or any other place near Kaveripuram and, if so, with what result; and

(b) as to the total area that can be irrigated with water from the dam up to the Bhavani river and below that point and, if so, with what result?

A.—(a) No further investigation has been made into the proposal to take a channel off at Chettipatti or near Kaveripuram. The country there is above the proposed full reservoir level and is hilly, and the proposal is therefore impracticable.

(b) Investigation is being made and the Chief Engineer hopes to report the result in May.

[20th March 1926]

Lands irrigated from Kalingarayan channel.

* 1693 Q.—Mr. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) the extent of lands irrigated by baling water from Kalingarayan channel in the Erode taluk of the Coimbatore district;

(b) whether the practice has been till now to irrigate lands with the baled out water without any restriction; and

(c) whether any restriction has been imposed recently or is there any intention of doing so and, if so, why?

A.—(a) The figures for 1924 were—

First crop, 2,228 acres.

Second crop, 1,618 acres.

(b) & (c) The Government have no information.

Progress of the Hebbala project.

* 1694 Q.—Mr. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state in what stage the Hebbala project in Kollegal taluk, Coimbatore district, is at present?

A.—The Chief Engineer hopes to submit estimates next month.

Irrigation projects in Kollegal taluk.

* 1695 Q.—Mr. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether there are two irrigation projects in Kollegal taluk besides the Hebbala and Gundal river schemes and if so what they are; and

(b) whether the Collector and the assistant engineer recently visited the localities, whether they have made any report and if so to what effect?

A.—(a) Yes: a scheme for utilizing the Uduthorahalla and improvements to the Doddaranganatham supply channel.

(b) The Government have not received any report.

Repair of breaches in channels from Amaravathi river.

* 1696 Q.—Mr. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether there were serious breaches in all the channels from the Amaravathi river in Udampet taluk of Coimbatore district owing to heavy rainfall in December last;

(b) whether there has been damage to crops owing to the breaches and, if so, what is the value of the losses;

(c) how much money has been spent by Government in temporary repairs and how much is to be spent in permanent repairs; and

(d) whether it is a fact that most of the channels and especially the Komaralingam channel run very close to the river for some furlongs from the anicuts and whether it is a fact that much of the damage is due to this and, if so, whether estimates are being prepared or whether they will be prepared to divert the courses of the channels for some distance?

[20th March 1926]

A.—(a) Yes.

(b) There was some damage, but the value has not been reported.

(c) Immediate steps were taken to carry out urgent repairs. The cost was estimated in December at about Rs. 3,500. The Government cannot say how much has been spent up to date. The Chief Engineer applied for Rs. 36,000 for work to be done in 1926-27.

(d) It is proposed to divert the Kumaralingam channel—the reports received do not show whether any other permanent diversion will be necessary—but the Executive Engineer and the Superintending Engineer have the question in hand.

Marine.Organization of the Cochin Port Trust.

* 1697 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Cochin Port Trust has been organized, and what the personnel of the Trust is; and

(b) if not, when it will be organized and what the cause for the delay is?

A.—The Cochin Port Trust Act, 1925 (VIII of 1925), has not yet been brought into force pending its acceptance by the Travancore and Cochin Darbars and the promulgation by the latter of a corresponding Ordinance. The Trust can be constituted only after the Act is brought into force.

Panchayat Courts.Constitution of Village Panchayat Courts in the Presidency.

* 1698 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: With reference to question No. 1063 answered at the meeting of the Council on the 15th December 1925 regarding panchayat courts, will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state how many village panchayat courts have been constituted up to this in the Presidency and how many members belonging to the depressed classes were able to get through the elections?

A.—Information has been called for.

Panchayat courts in the district of South Kanara.

* 1699 Q.—Mr. D. MANJAYYA HEGGADE: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) the number of panchayat courts in the district of South Kanara;

(b) the number of villages without panchayat courts; and

(c) what steps the Government take to introduce and popularise panchayat courts in villages where there are no such institutions at present?

[20th March 1926]

- A.—(a) Seventy-eight.
 (b) About 405.
 (c) Collectors are alive to the importance of constituting such courts wherever possible. They have been instructed to submit proposals for the establishment of courts wherever local conditions permit. As a result of the efforts of Collectors, the number of these courts in the Presidency has increased from 1,700 in 1921 to 3,196 in 1924 and the number of suits disposed of from 28,005 to 140,007 during this period.

Mr. D. MANJAYYA HEGGADE :—“ With reference to clause (c), it is stated in the answer that Collectors have been instructed to submit proposals for the establishment of courts wherever local conditions permit. I want to know what are those local conditions, about which Collectors are asked to submit proposals.”

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—“ There is a general feeling that resort to panchayat courts should be had in petty litigation. Sometimes in spite of the establishment of panchayat courts, people are not willing to take advantage of them.”

Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—“ Is it a fact that the panchayat court system is not so popular as it ought to be on account of the fact that no facilities are offered or provision made for the courts' establishment charges, for furniture and for so many other things that are required for their efficient working ? ”

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—“ Is that with reference to South Kanara ? ”

Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—“ Yes.”

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—“ My hon. Friend has been stressing that quite often and the Government is going into those matters. But then, the figures do not quite bear out the unpopularity of the system, because the number of these courts has risen from 1,700 in 1921 to 3,196 in 1924.”

Membership of Village Panchayat Courts.

* 1700 Q.—Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR : Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state the orders passed by the Government on the proposal of the Collector of Trichinopoly that (i) literacy must be made a condition of election as a member of the Village Panchayat Courts and (ii) that pleaders, their clerks, petition-writers and all others who make a living by the law should be debarred from membership ?

A.—As regards (i), the attention of the Collector having been drawn to rule 4 (iv) of the rules framed under the Village Courts Act, 1888, which makes literacy a necessary qualification for panchayatdars, he reported that no modification of the rules was necessary.

As regards (ii), it was decided by Government that such persons need not be precluded from becoming members of panchayat courts for the present.

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—“ May I know the reasons which influenced the Government in coming to the conclusion that pleaders and petition writers need not be debarred from membership of the panchayat courts, seeing that some of them may have to appear before the courts ? ”

[20th March 1926]

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—“ In certain places it has been reported to us that the range will be very much limited if we adopt a rigid rule of exclusion. As far as possible steps will be taken to see that they are not chosen, but sometimes in localities where the range is limited, if there is a rigid rule of exclusion, suitable men may not be obtained.”

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—“ Is it the policy of the Government that they must have some panchayat court or other whatever be the composition of the court ? ”

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—“ It is felt that if a pleader is put on a panchayat court, during the time he is in the panchayat court, he will at all events display that sense of impartiality which we expect from him.”

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—“ The mere fact that there are pleaders in a place is an indication that there are many others qualified to sit in the courts. Otherwise there will be no pleaders there.”

Police.

Constables stationed for bandobust during Kalpathi car-festival.

* 1701 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN : Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) how many constables and head constables were stationed or brought to Kalpathi for bandobust during the recent Kalpathi car-festival ;

(b) how many of them belonged to the depressed and untouchable community ; and

(c) how many constables and head constables were brought for bandobust during the car-festival which took place during the year 1924 ; and how many of them belonged to the depressed classes ?

A.—(a) Ten head constables and sixty-three constables and a reserve party of three head constables and thirty constables were on duty.

(b) None.

(c) Ten head constables and sixty-seven constables and a reserve party of three non-Commissioned officers and thirty men of the Malabar Special Police were brought. The reserve party was not actually employed. None of the party on duty belonged to the depressed or untouchable classes.

Railways.

Train accident near Pattukkottai.

* 1702 Q.—Sriman SASIBHUSHAN RATH Mahasayo : Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) when the accident to the train on the District Board Railway near Pattukkottai took place ;

(b) when the Collector and District Magistrate of Tanjore was asked to hold a public inquiry into the circumstances connected with the accident ;

[20th March 1926]

- (c) when the Collector and District Magistrate held the inquiry; and
 (d) whether he submitted any report and whether Government would be pleased to place that report on the table of the House?

A.—(a) 11th December 1925.

(b) The Collector and District Magistrate was not asked by Government to hold an inquiry. The inquiry was held under the rules issued by the Railway Board under the Indian Railways Act, 1890, and the District Magistrate informed the Government at once that he intended to hold an inquiry.

(c) 22nd December 1925.

(d) Yes; the report is laid on the table.

II

COMMUNICATION TO THE COUNCIL.

The Secretary laid on the table a copy of G.O. No. 194, Development, dated 8th February 1926, recording the audit report for 1924-25 on Cinchona.

III

MOTIONS ON THE BUDGET FOR 1926-27.

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—" I beg to move that the allotment of Rs. 58,700 for Public Works Department be reduced by Rs. 1,000.

a.m.

" Sir, a new Secretariat has been created with a Secretary, Assistant Secretary and so on and the cost comes to Rs 98,700 of which the votable item comes to Rs. 58,700. I do not know how the necessity for a new Secretariat has arisen. It seems to me that this work has hitherto been done by the Public Works Department itself. Now, I do not know whether any curtailment of expenditure has been made in that department because of the transfer of its work to the Secretariat that has been newly created. Again, Sir, there is one other thing which is very puzzling to me. There is a provision for the creation of an expert adviser to the Local Government on Railway matters. Whenever a question is put on Railway matters we are told that Railway is a central subject and we have nothing to do with it. When such is the case why is an expert adviser sought to be provided now? Sir, I do not know how the necessity for them has arisen. Under these circumstances I move my motion, Sir."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—" Mr. President, Sir, hon. Members will remember that this question of the creation of a new Public Works Department Secretariat was very exhaustively discussed at a meeting on the 6th of November last. I notice from the list of division on that occasion that the demand was carried by 44 against 13. In this list the name of the hon. Member who just now moved the resolution does not appear. I suppose, Sir, that possibly the fact that it was discussed only a few months ago and that very fully in this House has escaped his notice."

* Printed as a Appendix on pages 404-406 infra.

b Placed on the Editors' Table.

20th March 1926]

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—" Is it by a motion in the Council?"

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—" Yes. I feel sure that the hon. Member will not wish me to weary the House by the repetition of the statement of the reasons which we had in view and which was made on that occasion as full particulars are available in the copy of the Council Proceedings for that date. But I may say very briefly that there were two main considerations. One was that the amount of Secretariat work which the Chief Engineers had to attend to had grown to such an extent that it was very seriously interfering with the discharge of their duties as Chief Engineers—a matter of very serious importance in these days when there is great necessity for careful supervision and inspection by these executive officers in respect of important problems and works which are being carried on. These works made the necessity for such supervision more important than ever. Another consideration was that we felt it most desirable that in dealing with many important questions which arise the Government Member or the Minister responsible should not have at his disposal the opinion of the experts alone and that as is the case with the other departments at the head of which there is an expert belonging to that department the Government should have at its disposal in dealing with these questions an independent examination of all important problems by a Secretariat officer who is entirely free from departmental predilections or enthusiasms. As regards the question of Railways that is a point which I think my hon. Colleague, the Leader of the House, is in a better position to deal with than I am."

* The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—" May I ask the hon. the Finance Member why if a separate Secretary is considered necessary—I think there ought to be a separate Secretary—the old practice of asking the Chief Engineers to do the same part of the Secretariat work still continues and why two or three Chief Engineers continue without being reduced to one? I find 3 or 4 or 5 Engineers are there. There is one for hydro-electric scheme, a new Chief Chief Engineer for Mettur and there is the Department Secretary. Surely it does not seem to be a measure in the direction of economy. Though I personally feel that a Secretary is necessary, I ask for this information."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" There is no Chief Engineer for Mettur. There is no Chief Engineer for Hydro-Electric works. Mr. Hawkins, who was doing the work of investigation and who has conducted the investigations up to a certain point, has been kept up because the Government of India have sent one of their Consulting Engineers, a member of the firm of Messrs. Merz and Mac Lennan to advise us as to the technical, financial and other possibilities in regard to the hydro-electric enterprise. Mr. Hawkins is only kept on for consultation and helping the investigations."

* The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—" With what designation?"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" I do not think there is any special designation. He advises us on hydro-electric matters and I do not know if there is any special designation. So far as I can see there is no Secretariat work done by the Chief Engineers. They only do the expert work. With reference to the question emanating from Mr. Chidambara Nadar, there was the Senior Inspector of Railways. Under the recent orders of the Government of India his name has been changed into Expert Adviser. That is all."

[20th March 1926]

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" With reference to what fell from my hon Friend, the Finance Member, viz, that it is desirable to have one in the Secretariat independent of the profession itself to examine the estimates and other recommendations that come up from the Chief Engineers, no doubt, I admit that there is considerable force in what he says. But there is also another aspect of this question, viz., that by the examination of the recommendations and the plans and estimates that are sent up by the professional heads of departments by laymen in the Secretariat it is likely to lead to conflict between the Secretariat and the professional heads of the departments "

Mr. F. B. Evans rose in his place.

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" Is it on a matter of personal explanation ? "

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Perhaps he wants to give information that would obviate the discussion. "

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" I do not want to be interrupted. What I wanted to say was that in spite of the advantage, necessarily a very good advantage referred to by the hon. Mr. Moir, there is this disadvantage also, viz., the chance of friction arising. When a friction arises between the Secretary and the professional Head of the Department, work is likely to be impeded and that will not be beneficial either to the department or to anybody. I do not want to support or oppose this particular motion. But I only want to point out this danger which has been experienced in other places. "

* The hon. Sir O. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" I think Mr. Evans who may or may not speak after me will bear me out when I say that the Public Works Department Secretary does not deal with the technical aspects of the matter. These are solely dealt with by the Chief Engineer and that is a point which has been absolutely emphasised by the Right Hon. the Secretary of State that the Public Works Department Secretary is appointed only for Secretariat work. "

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" Don't they do non-technical work ? "

Mr. F. B. EVANS :—" All the Secretariat work is done by me. Under the orders of the Secretary of State, I am specially prohibited from criticising the professional and engineering aspects of the proposals sent up. "

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—" I must confess I am puzzled by the different explanations that have been given with reference to the Public Works Department Secretary and his work. I am one of those who has voted for the Secretary and I consider that it is a very desirable innovation. You will remember that the Public Works Department Reorganization Committee suggested that course. I am not at present on the question of the reorganization of the Public Works Department Secretariat, and I do not want to go into that question. I am, as I said, puzzled as to what the work of the Public Works Department Secretary is. I can say that the work in all the different departments of the Secretariat proper is as far as possible to criticise the schemes that are sent up by the departments. For instance let us take the Local Self-Government Department which deals with the Medical administration. The Surgeon-General sends up schemes for a number of officers to be appointed for a particular purpose. In the olden days it was for cholera parties to be started. At present it is a question of Health administration. It is a professional subject and a technical subject too. I am sure the Secretary of the Local Self-Government Department discusses it most thoroughly and criticises it without any restriction. The Secretariat may say that the recommendations may be extravagant and that the administrative idea may not be quite compatible with the idea of the ordinary public man. I am perfectly certain that the Local Self-Government Department is doing that work and I think the Secretary will bear me out in that. With reference to the other departments also, it is exactly the same thing. I am told to-day that the Secretary of State has put a special embargo that the Public Works Department Secretary cannot criticise the estimates of the Public Works Department Chief Engineers. I quite realize that as a non-technical and as a non-professional man the Public Works Department Secretary cannot criticise the drawings or even the estimates that may be prepared by the Public Works Department. But I thought that one of the essential reasons why the Public Works Department Secretary was appointed was this, and at any rate, Sir, that is the reason that weighed with me when I gave my vote for the grant for the Public Works Department Secretariat. Till now, what happened is this: The Chief Engineer sends up an estimate to the Government, and before the Government approve of the estimate a sort of scrutiny takes place in the Chief Engineer's office itself, as the Chief Engineer was constituted Secretary for the purpose of correspondence with the Government; and this led to the Chief Engineer criticising his own estimates in his capacity as Secretary who sent them to Government. The Minister in charge of the Irrigation Member went through the estimates under the special diarchic system we are having in the Public Works Department, and sanctioned the estimates. Six months later, a revised estimate is sent and the Superintending Engineer says that the estimate has been exceeded and that a revised estimate is necessary. The Chief Engineer in his capacity as Secretary sends for the revised estimate and says that he approved of the revised estimate, and sends it to the Minister or Member in charge. The Member or Minister in charge is helpless to deal with the question as how the revised estimate was necessitated, how the revised estimate was made possible, how expenditure now put on record was not foreseen in earlier days, and so on and so forth. I am in a position to speak with some amount of detailed knowledge because I had something to do with these questions for a little time. I know on numerous occasions strong protests were made from above as to the necessity for revised estimates, as to the circumstances of not properly foreseeing things before sending up estimates, as to the difficulties which the Member or Minister felt in either acceding to those revised estimates or in refusing to sanction those revised estimates, and I know that orders have been issued placing a strict embargo on that system of revised estimates being sent up and making it obligatory on the Superintending Engineers to give detailed reasons for any departure from the estimates originally made. I thought that one task of the Public Works Department Secretary was the task of seeing that this vicious system of revised estimates was minimised as much as possible. I speak strongly on the subject because I am sure the hon. the Finance Member, at least as a Finance Member interested in the finances of the province, will realise what havoc the system of revised estimates is doing on the finances of the country and on the prognostications as to whether we will end with a deficit balance or a surplus balance. Only too often we have been surprised by revised estimates which sometimes amounted to double the original estimates. Now, is the Public Works Department Secretary in a position to check these revised estimates, to give an opinion on the necessity for the revised estimates, to point out the inconvenience of having to deal with revised estimates, or does it all come under professional, technical work? Where does the Secretary of State's embargo begin, and where does the restriction end? If the Public Works Department Secretary is not going to have that amount of latitude, I think the idea with which we have started the Secretariat will be a failure. I see signs of approval from the face of the hon. the Finance Member. I hope that the position is as I have stated, that the revised estimates in these matters will be carefully scrutinized by the Public Works Department Secretary, and time after time the Public Works Department, the Chief Engineer or the Engineer-in-chief, whatever the designation, will be hauled up if they unnecessarily send up revised estimates. The system is continuing in spite of all that has been done by the department. Every Member on the Treasury Bench will, I hope, realize the difficulty of dealing with revised estimates. They come to the Council, put forward a grant and get the sanction of the Council. Three months later, a revised estimate is sent up, and they are shocked at the amount that is now required by the revised estimates, and when they come before the Legislative Council, the Council is in a worse position either to sanction or refuse it. We sanction a particular project thinking that it would cost only say one lakh. If we knew beforehand that it would cost two lakhs we would never have sanctioned it. After the work has gone through to a certain extent, they come to us and ask our sanction for the revised estimates. Is it fair to do so? I do not know the technical difficulties that are involved in these estimates. I cannot myself appreciate it because I do not know much of engineering work. Why should revised estimates be so constant, and why is so much latitude given to the Public Works Department? Is it heard in any other department? I think from the observations made by the hon. the Secretary that the Secretary of State's rule has given some lurking fear that the Public Works Department Secretary has not got that wide latitude, and I should like to assure the hon. Member in charge that he has got that latitude, and I should like also to be assured how this system of revised estimates is being met and treated by the Public Works Department Secretary."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"As this is a matter coming within my grant, I think I may add a few remarks to what has been said. There is no restriction on the Secretariat examining Public Works schemes, except on points such as technical design, or quantities, or qualities of materials and technical matters of that sort. Revised estimates must be explained and the reasons for the revision carefully scrutinized and explanations obtained for any failure to frame the original estimates properly. I do not think hon. Members need have any fear on that score. As far as I know, one of the main reasons for appointing a non-professional Secretary was to enable this sort of scrutiny to be more efficiently and thoroughly made in the Secretariat."

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—"I should like to say a few words before I withdraw this motion."

20th March 1926]

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Mr. T. M. Narasimhacharlu may now speak if he wanted to abolish either the Public Works Department Secretariat or the Public Works Department."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"I want neither, Sir."

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—"With reference to the remarks of Mr. Ramaswami Mudaliyar, I may say that I was a member of the Public Accounts Committee. Many instances of waste of public money by the Public Works Department were brought to the notice of the Committee, and I even thought that the Public Works Department were even going out of the way and taking matters too much into their own hands. I think, Sir, under the circumstances, the Public Works Department Secretariat will exercise a healthy influence over this department. But what I should like to know is whether there is any retrenchment in the office of the Chief Engineer since this department has been newly created."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Is the hon. Member withdrawing the motion?"

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—"I should like to have that information as to retrenchment."

Mr. F. B. EVANS :—"I may say that there has been retrenchment. The matter was fully put forward before the Finance Committee when the proposals were made. I cannot give the figures now, because it was not anticipated that the question was going to arise. There was considerable retrenchment in both the offices of the Chief Engineer for Buildings and Roads and of the Chief Engineer for Irrigation."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"Sir, I hope the hon. Member will look up the papers placed before the Finance Committee and the proceedings of the Finance Committee placed before this House. If the hon. Member has got a copy, he will find the information. It is rather difficult to anticipate questions that may be put and still more difficult to have detailed statements of that kind at one's fingers' ends. I think I may merely add that the other point which the hon. Member drew attention to was really due to this; that is to say, cases such as those which were brought to the notice of the Public Accounts Committee were mostly due to the same reason, which led up to suppose that the executive control of the Chief Engineer has been insufficient owing to his stay in headquarters instead of in inspection of matters on which he might well be expected to bestow greater attention. It is hoped that by this proposal cases of that kind involving misuse of public funds will become less numerous than they have been in the past."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Mr. K. SITARAMA REDDI :—"Sir, I beg to move that the allotment of Rs. 10,500 for discretionary grants by Collectors be reduced by Re. 1.

"I have tabled this motion simply to elicit information regarding the principles governing the distribution of this amount among the various Collectors, and also regarding the manner in which these grants were spent during the last two years."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"Mr. President, Sir, this is an allotment for discretionary grants by Collectors. This was first made some years ago with reference to the recommendation of a Public Service Commission—I am not quite sure which one it was. The idea in making this allotment was that Collectors should have at their disposal a small sum out of which they could meet certain expenditure without going through the formalities of reporting and getting sanction. They could meet expenditure of a public nature involving small sums on their personal responsibility. The sum so allotted to each Collector for several years was Rs. 1,000. Then in 1922-23, the Retrenchment Committee recommended that this was not an absolutely essential item of expenditure and that it might be curtailed. Since then, the allotment was reduced to about Rs. 2,500 or Rs. 3,000 for the whole Presidency.

[Mr. N. E. Marjoribanks]

[20th March 1926]

11-45
a.m.

"The objects on which they were authorized to spend this money at their discretion were set forth in an order published long ago. The amount that may be spent in one case was limited to Rs. 250. Now that the allotment is small, the Board of Revenue retain the sum in their own hands till a Collector reports and applies for any sum to be granted for a particular purpose, for example, on such items as affording relief to people who get their houses burnt down, or where poor people have lost their property by floods or cyclones. As a matter of fact, this grant has in recent years not fulfilled the original purpose. If the hon. Member who moved wants a statement showing the exact objects on which the money has actually been spent, I am sorry we have not got those details for the reason that in the very nature of the case it is left to the Collector's discretion to devote the money to such objects as he considers fit. We do not get any reports from them, the only check on the expenditure being exercised by the audit officer, who sees that purpose is a public purpose. If you want full details of the actual objects on which this money has been spent, this can be done by getting detailed reports from all over the Presidency, and a statement can be prepared. I am sorry I have not got those details now."

* Diwan Babadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"Sir, I should like to know from the hon. the Revenue Member why this amount has been increased in the coming year 1926-27 to Rs. 10,500. We find that the budget amount in the current year 1925-26 was Rs. 2,500 and that was increased in the revised estimate for the current year by Rs. 3,500. The actual expenditure in 1924-25 was only Rs. 4,000 and odd, whereas in the coming year 1926-27 it has been raised about three times as much as the revised amount for the current year. If I remember correctly, before 1924-25, in the last Council, the discretionary grant to Collectors was Rs. 25,000. There was considerable discussion on more than one occasion with reference to that amount, and, if my memory does not fail me, it was as a result of these discussions that the amount was reduced in subsequent years, say, in 1924-25 to Rs. 4,000 and odd and next year to Rs. 2,000 and odd. I should like to know, if possible, from my hon. Friend why all on a sudden this amount has been increased so much. I do not mean that the amount Rs. 10,500 by itself is a very large amount. I should like to know why this large increase, an increase of four times, is necessary. If possible, I should like to get that information from the hon. the Revenue Member."

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"I was addressing myself to a different question. I thought what the hon. Member wanted was details of the money actually spent, not information as to the total sum. As for the history of the varying size of the grant, a sum of Rs. 27,600 was provided in the budget estimate of 1923-24. The Government resumed Rs. 22,400 of the allotment as a result of the recommendations of the Retrenchment Committee—I daresay the Retrenchment Committee reflected the general ideas of the House at the time—leaving a net amount of Rs. 5,000. This was subsequently increased by Rs. 10,000 for the relief of distress caused by the floods in South Kanara in 1923. The total amount in 1923-24 was therefore Rs. 15,000 and the actual expenditure Rs. 13,000. This Rs. 13,000 was spent partly in South Kanara for supplying bamboos and materials to destitute persons affected by the cyclone who were not relieved by the money raised by public subscription. Lesser sums were spent in Malabar and some other districts. In the budget estimate for 1924-25, Rs. 2,500 was provided, of which a sum of Rs. 2,000 was allotted to the relief of distress caused by the cyclone in the Ganjam district. The Legislative Council sanctioned an additional sum of Rs. 5,500 for the village of Vallampetta in Vizagapatam district. And of this allotment, a sum of Rs. 1,900 was subsequently surrendered. Thus, the total allotment in 1924-25 was Rs. 8,000 and the amount spent Rs. 4,370, of which Rs. 3,500 went to the Vizagapatam district. In the budget for 1925-26, Rs. 2,500 was provided and no additional allotment has so far been asked for, nor has any resumption been made. But if the amount of the Budget grant is exceeded, the Council will be approached for a supplementary grant if no reappropriation can be made. As a matter of fact, I do not think the grant will be exceeded. In the budget estimate for next year we have provided a sum of Rs. 10,500 to save applications for additional allotments, so that there may be some money in the hands of Collectors at once to be spent with reference to any floods or cyclone. If such disasters do not arise, so much will probably not be spent."

[Mr. N. E. Marjoribanks]

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"I beg to move that the total allotment of Rs. 7 35 lakhs for General Administration—Secretariat be reduced by Rs. 1,000.

"I wanted to urge on the following points :—

- (1) Sufficient attention is not paid to the condition of the Ceded districts
- (2) Revenue officers are not sympathetic to the people.
- (3) Sufficient irrigation facilities are not given to the people. Though there are many rivers and streams in Cuddapah, sufficient use is not made of them.
- (4) Proper steps are not taken to improve the generally backward condition of the people.
- (5) The incremental system in pay be stopped and graded pay be restored.

"The first four points noted by me have already been dealt with in this session in the previous sittings. I only wish to draw attention with reference to the fifth point, that the incremental system in pay be stopped and graded pay be restored. I have noticed in the budget speech of the hon. the Finance Member that it is the incremental system that is very largely due to the increased expenditure every year on this Government. When this system was introduced, I pointed out that it will prove a very disastrous thing.

[Mr. T. M. Narasimhaachari] [20th March 1926]

But the then Finance Member, Sir Charles Todhunter, said that as people were retiring from the service the new people will be introduced in the lowest pay so that on the average it will be all right. It just reminded me of the story of a man who did not know how to swim and wanted to cross a river full of flood. A mathematician just crossed the river and came to the opposite bank, and this gentleman without the knowledge of swimming asked him what the depth of the water was. The mathematician said on an average it is four feet. The man who did not know how to swim was six feet high like myself. So he thought he could safely cross the river. So he went into it and gradually went down and down. At one place it was nine feet and so he was drowned. Fortunately, there was a fisherman who just caught hold of him and saved him. Then he accosted the mathematician, 'What, you told me the average is four feet, now it has cost my life'. He said, 'Well, it is only the average; in one place it is two feet, in another place four feet and so on, but the average is four feet. So what I said was correct.' In the same way, he said that if you take the average of those who retire and the average of those newly introduced everything will be all right. Now, Sir, what happened to the man who relied on the average happens also to the Government. I ask, Sir, especially when the Finance Member is satisfied that this incremental system is disastrous, can we not revert to the old graded system? This has got its own advantages, because it will keep every subordinate and every officer on the alert. He would be doing his duty properly with a view to earn the grade; now automatically as it were the increments are coming and therefore there is no incentive to people to do good work. Is it not possible to revert to the old system now? That is a question that I wish to press on the attention of the hon. the Finance Member."

* The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—"I have no doubt the hon. the Finance Member will respond to the invitation if he is so disposed. At present it is my duty to answer. I may at once say that personally I find myself in very considerable agreement with what the hon. Member from Cuddapah has said. But we are faced with the fact that the Government has introduced a system of incremental scales in all the services and that under the Fundamental Rules the present incumbents are entitled to that scale of pay, unless if of their own choice they agree to accept any new scale that may be substituted. I am afraid the graded scale of pay would not be generally accepted. Thus practically we can only apply it to new entrants, and it would be perhaps a matter of considerable difficulty to work a system by which certain people would draw one scale of pay and certain others doing the same work would draw a different scale of pay. We have tried it in some departments where we realized the need for this change, especially in executive grades. We have tried to introduce the change, but we find as a matter of fact there is considerable practical difficulty. However, I think I may go so far as to say that the Government are considering this matter and they are glad to find that at any rate some Members of this House would support such a change."

12 noon Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"The House will be exceedingly thankful to the hon. Member from Cuddapah for raising before this House a very important issue in this prominent manner. The hon. the Revenue Member expressed his pleasure of the fact that there are some Members who are considering this fact and have brought this to his notice. I can assure him that this is not the first occasion that some hon. Members have spoken against the existence of incremental scale. In the very first year when this system was introduced I remember a good deal of discussion took place because some special concession was shown to the members of the public services by giving them increments from an anterior date to that on which this incremental scale was begun. It seems to me that this incremental scale of salaries led the Government to depths from which they cannot at all recover. I remember very well the mathematical calculations which the hon. Sir Charles Todhunter gave us and the eloquence with which he tried to convince us that the incremental scale was not only advantageous but that within the next two or three years the maximum would be reached, and that the Council need not fear this incremental system. I am glad to see that the present Finance Member at any rate realizes the responsibilities that are devolving upon the Government. I cannot do better than reading a portion of his speech in which he refers to this incremental system. This is what he says:

"In the first place, with few exceptions our officers and establishments are on the incremental scales which were introduced with the revision of salaries in 1921. These incremental scales which, save in cases of gross misconduct, are practically automatic in their operation, superseded graded cadres in which promotion was less regular in its operation and, as a rule, determined rather by the criterion whether promotion was justified than by the criterion whether there was sufficient cause to refuse it. In many cases, too, incremental scales were substituted for fixed pay. Provision was also made for their application to various establishments which though classified as temporary were semi-permanent in character. The minimum pay of new recruits was replaced by the new minima fixed, but in the case of existing establishments positions in the incremental scales were determined with reference to the nearest points in the new scales. As a result the full effect of the incremental system was not at once felt and year by year our charges, even with reference to the same number of Government servants, have been steadily increasing. The process is not yet at an end. For example, in the current year the additional charge on this account is estimated at 13½ lakhs and for next year a further charge of 9½ lakhs has to be provided for and so on."

"What we wish to know is when we shall reach the summit on this incremental scale. Are we ever to reach it at all? What is the process by which they have calculated the average on this incremental scale and when they expect the highest increment in the scale would be reached? With reference to the annual increase on our budget owing to this incremental scale I may say it is a very serious matter and we have entangled ourselves in a system the full consequences of which we do not know."

"Sir, the full effect of this incremental scale has not yet been realized. Where are we to stop? In what way would you work out the average increment? I quite realize that the constant increase to the staff is another aberration in the Finance Member's calculation of the average. We are aware that, so far as the number of public servants in this Presidency is concerned, there is a constant increase in it every year. But we wish to know how many years it will take before the full maximum of increment would be reached. The hon. the Finance Member suggested that for the budget year 9½ lakhs would be required for this incremental scale. For the next budget year, namely, 1927-28 have any calculations been made and what additional fund would be required merely to keep the existing services going—we do not know? If we realize the full results of this incremental scale and to what extent we have to commit ourselves on this account, I think we may quietly retrace our steps. I know perfectly well that those who are already in service cannot and ought not to be affected. They cannot be made to affect in our varying financial modes. It seems to me that in the best interests of the people of this Presidency and also in the interests of the finances of this Province this incremental system of salaries should be done away with. It leads us to unknown commitments. I think we can revise the system at least with reference to new entrants and put them on the graded scale and then we shall know where we are. Any man with an elementary knowledge of arithmetic can calculate if the graded system of pay were to be in existence, what the average cost would be per year. I only wish to know—I quite distinctly remember the statement of the hon. Sir Charles Todhunter who said that the full effect of this incremental scale would be a cost of 6 crores to the State; I think it is just the other way—whether the idea of changing this system is passing through the minds of Government as vigorously as I am led to hope by the remarks of the hon. the Revenue Member."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. Moir :—"I think, Sir, that the story which the hon. Member from Cuddapah told us is very apposite and exactly explains my position excepting that I do not see the friendly fisherman holding out his hand. I have no material at my disposal to examine the remarks made by my predecessor on the subject of incremental scale, and I am glad to find from the speech of the hon. Member from Chingleput that I have apparently refrained from in any way rashly committing myself to any estimate regarding the unknown. Of course, so far as mere calculation is concerned, it is possible to calculate what the average cost of a particular cadre containing so many officers on a particular incremental scale will be, and if at any point in the history of a service you could begin with so many officers, say so many hundreds of officers on a particular incremental scale, you could work out what, after a sufficient number of years had elapsed, would be the average cost of that service. As a matter of fact, owing to exigencies of services, no Government can exercise complete control over the average cost because it would never actually be attained. One year the cost would be something more than the average and another year it would be a little less. The same thing is manifested in the insurance world also. There the death-rate in a certain year is heavier and the next year it is lighter, and in calculating the average mortality they take into account all these factors. But I may say we never had a clear start when we changed from one system to another. We introduced the incremental scale in the existing services with reference to the state of things and the number of men who were employed at that time. One reason why—I think I am right in saying so—why it is taking a longer time to arrive at what may be called the average cost of a particular number of men is this: our new scale of increments is not only quite different from the corresponding graded scales which prevailed in previous years, but was also accompanied by a revision of salaries. That is to say, assuming that the average increase of maximum salary in a particular department for a particular cadre was 50 per cent, the vast majority of those serving in that cadre came in at a point much below the maximum ultimate pay they could expect to get. It seems to me that opinion, both in the departments and the House, has somewhat veered of late with regard to the manner in which we should regulate the salaries of our establishments; it was formerly urged—if I retain a correct impression of the discussions at the time and of the notes which were prepared by the Salaries Committee—that an incremental system would be the most suitable. I think that opinion has rather changed now. The hon. Member from Chingleput asked me whether I could come to any definite conclusion as to how long it would take before we arrived at what might be termed our normal expenditure in respect of these incremental scales, that is to say, eliminating as far as possible those disturbing elements to which he referred; namely, the abolition of appointments of one kind or the introduction of new appointments of another kind. I can only say this: I have not attempted to place before the Finance Committee any details with regard to the working out of this average cost because it would involve a very big calculation in which we might have to introduce new factors in order to arrive at the average cost. But from a certain study which I myself made of the figures, the impression that I have got is that our larger departments, i.e., those which employ a very large staff are approaching stabilization more rapidly than at one time I anticipated and there possibly the cumulative effect of the incremental scales will only manifest itself for a few more years. The younger the department however, the more difficult it is to arrive at a calculation. The larger the proportion of men lately entertained, the longer is the period before we arrive at any median line.

"I do recognize that it is a somewhat serious matter. In that respect it is no less embarrassing to me than it has been to my predecessors to come before the House year after year and to put forward demands for additional expenditure of so many lakhs of rupees simply arising out of the incremental scales, which as far as the development of the administration is concerned, do not seem to result in any benefit. I do propose to have that matter much more fully examined than it has been hitherto possible to do. In one or two cases we have changed back to the old graded system. I think I am right in saying that the Sub-Inspectors of Police are now in the graded system. (The hon. Sir C. P. Ramaswami Ayyar nodded assent.) I was rather under the impression that there were one or two other similar cases. When the examination of the question is complete, if I consider that any financial benefit is likely to be attained by reverting to the old graded system in the case of the new entrants into the service, I shall place the results of the examination before the House for its consideration. Of course, there will be considerable administrative difficulties in dealing with officers in the same cadre but in two different scales. But if the financial advantage that is to be derived will justify the step being taken, I shall give an opportunity to the House to consider whether they are prepared to take that line."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Demand X was then put and carried and the Grant was made.

DEMAND XI—GENERAL ADMINISTRATION—MISCELLANEOUS.

* The hon. Mr. T. E. Moir :—"Sir, on the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor, I move that Government be granted a sum not exceeding Rs. 6.59 lakhs under General Administration—Miscellaneous."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"Sir, I move that the allotment of Rs. 2,96,900 for Deputy and Assistant Examiners and District Staff be reduced by Rs. 100."

"I want to urge that there should be more careful supervision over municipalities and local boards. The audit reports should be placed without delay before a supervising committee independent of the municipal chairman and the officers. Government audit should be made in addition to the audit by the auditors appointed by municipal councils.

[Mr. J. A. Saldanha]

"The financial condition and management of the municipalities have been a subject of much discussion recently in more than one municipality. Government also, in order to place the system of collection and expenditure on a more correct basis, have recently brought in an amending Bill containing a provision for the appointment of a revenue officer independent of the municipality. These measures have aroused a storm of opposition, and I do not know if the Government are going to push the legislation through. The audit report comes before the Council after a very long time. I believe it is not published in the District Government Gazette. It takes a very long time for the discussion of the report. It is discussed at a time when the year had long past and the financial matters of the body are entirely forgotten by the Councillors. Just like the co-operative societies it is highly necessary that municipalities should have their own auditors besides the Government auditors. I do not want to go into the other details of the municipal administration; of course, the hon. Minister is bringing a Bill regarding them. I only want to draw the attention of the hon. Minister to the state of affairs prevailing in the Mangalore municipality, for example, and to urge that suitable steps may be taken to carefully investigate the financial condition of the local bodies."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. Moir :—"Sir, in dealing with this resolution I do not propose to trespass on the sphere which properly belongs to my hon. Colleague the First Minister, though I think both he and I are in entire agreement as to the desirability of the accounts and the audit of the local bodies being kept in an efficient condition. Of course the extent to which Government can intervene to supervise and control the local bodies is laid down in the Acts governing their constitution and powers. I feel sure that my hon. Colleague would be quite prepared to propose legislation to this House if in any matter he thinks that further supervision and control are necessary. The hon. Member from South Kanara urged that the audit reports should be placed before a supervising committee without delay. Well, Sir, under the Acts to which I have referred detailed instructions are given as to the appointment of such committees and the matters with which they might concern themselves. It seems to me that in regard to the audit of the accounts and the consideration of the audit reports, the appointment of a special committee would serve a useful purpose. The local bodies have already the power to do so in their own hands."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"Sir, on a point of personal explanation. My idea is that the supervising committee is to be appointed independently of the council. The co-operative societies which spend several lakhs of rupees have their own auditors appointed by the shareholders in order to check the work of the society. It has got a very salutary effect. My idea is the same. I shall propose that in connexion with the Bill that is going to be brought forward by the hon. the Chief Minister there must be some attempts to check the vagaries of the municipal councils, any actions done ultra vires or any fraudulent tendency. I know the state of affairs in Mangalore. There was an open air meeting and it was proposed to have what is called a managing committee or a standing committee."

20th March 1926]

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Order, order. Where is the personal explanation of the hon. Member?" (Laughter.)

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"That is all what I have to say, Sir." (Laughter.)

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"The hon. Member has said what he should not have said." (Laughter.)

* The hon. Mr. T. E. Moir :—"Sir, the hon. Member has strayed beyond the point and perhaps I may leave the remarks to which the hon. the President has taken objection unanswered."

"So far as his suggestion is concerned, it seems to me that it would rather be curtailing the development of local self-government in this country. If any control is to be exercised over the council or the executive it should be by the rate-payers themselves; for they are the sufferers if the executive or the council fail in their duty. My hon. Friend said that there ought to be an audit by an auditor appointed by the municipal council itself in addition to the Government audit. I think the hon. Member is thinking on wrong lines, because no mere duplication or reduplication of audit is going to be the remedy of the abuse with reference to which he makes the suggestions. If the accounts are so bad that there is any justification for the suggestion for double audit, then surely the proper remedy is not to multiply the audit but to improve the system of accounts and see that a proper staff is maintained to keep accounts by each local body. In any case, even if the suggestion of the hon. Member to have an audit by the auditor appointed by the local body itself is accepted, it would in nowise get rid of, or be a substitute for, Government audit. Because that is one of the functions imposed upon the Government by the present constitution under the Devolution Rules."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I will not take much of the time of the House. I will only say that the system of appointing auditors by the council or the rate-payers is in vogue in Bombay and Karachi. I do not want to go into any detail." 12-3 p.m.

* The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—"I endorse what the hon. the Finance Member in charge of the subject said in opposing the motion. I really wonder why the hon. Member from South Kanara should consider it necessary to have a committee appointed when there is regular audit every year. He resented the proposal of appointing executive officers to local bodies on the ground that the independence of those bodies would be curtailed if such officers were appointed."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"On a matter of personal explanation, Sir. I did not express that opinion. I only said that it raised a storm of indignation."

* The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—"I am glad to hear it. He referred to the storm of indignation that is in store in connexion with the proposal. I think he is himself in favour of the proposal."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I do not say anything myself."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"The hon. Member did not endorse the storm of indignation."

[20th March 1926]

* The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"I do not think that the appointment of such a committee is necessary at all. The necessary control is being exercised by the Audit department and the way in which that control should be exercised is laid down in the Act of 1920. I do not understand why a separate committee should be appointed to go through the accounts. It appears to me that it is uncalled for."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB:—"I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 3,44,500 for Local Fund Audit Establishments be reduced by Rs. 1,000.'

"This is to discuss the policy why the reorganization scheme was not given full effect to and to promote the interests of Muslims in the department.

"No doubt the subject is a sectarian one. I wish to say that I justify my position only by the sectarian vote of my community and I must take this opportunity of ventilating the grievances which the Muslims feel in the department. The object is two fold. Firstly, that the reorganization scheme was not given full effect to and that the scheme has worked some disadvantages to the staff in the department and secondly that the Government should bestow its attention and consider the claims of Muhammadans in the department. I shall say a few words about the reorganization scheme.

"This scheme was introduced in the year 1922 by G.O. No. 110. Before that, the Audit department was being controlled by the Treasury Deputy Collectors and the Accountant-General. There was bifurcation by which one section got under the control of the Treasury Deputy Collector and the Accountant-General and another section under the control of the Local Fund Audit department, under the Examiner of Local Fund Accounts. The latter is called the District Central Audit Department. It had control over the accounts of the municipalities and local bodies. The reorganization scheme gave effect to the appointment of three Assistant Examiners, the central Examiner being called Deputy Examiner. They have appointed an Assistant Examiner of Local Fund Accounts for the southern circle and another for the northern districts whose headquarter is Guntur. The District Central Audit Department is working under three Assistant Examiners, the central officer being called the Deputy Examiner and two Assistant Examiners for the northern and southern circles, all of them being under the control of the Examiner.

"That scheme, as it was introduced, took the entire staff which was under the District Collector and amalgamated it with the Audit department. By a G.O. of 1923 they have reduced the establishment to be amalgamated. At first it was stated that the entire clerical staff would be amalgamated. Some time later it was stated that they could take only two-thirds of the staff under their control. The result is this. If the clerks were in the District Audit establishment they would get higher pay. According to the second G.O. (of 1923) they have reduced the number to two-thirds, so that the remaining one-third of the staff who had a chance of getting higher pay are not now able to get that pay. For, no fault of theirs they are made to work on less pay. As soon as the establishment had been amalgamated with the Central Audit Department, various difficulties have arisen. One is, they have stated in a circular, that the clerks should undergo special tests examinations. Very hard rules have been introduced, namely, that while the clerks of other departments have to undergo examinations with the aid of books, those in the District Central Audit Department are examined without the aid of books. There are also various minor difficulties in the matter of travelling allowances and halting allowances which they are entitled to get. I understand that a memorial on behalf of the staff has been sent by the District Examiner of Salem stating that the grievances of the clerks are real. The Government has not shown any consideration to the grievances of the staff of the southern range. This is so far as the first point is concerned.

"As regards the second point that the Government has not considered the claims of Muhammadans, I wish to say this: one man who has already put in a service of more than 30 years at the time of the reorganization is still retained by the Government although there are departmental rules compelling people who have served more than 25 years to retire. The Deputy Examiner of Local Fund Accounts has put in a service of 30 years. He has not yet been asked to retire. For that vacancy, the Government should consider the claims of any Muhammadan in the department who is fit to occupy that post."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"The hon. Member may move the next motion also standing in his name."

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB:—"I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 6 59 lakhs for General Administration—Miscellaneous be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"This is to discuss that avoidable expenditure should hereafter be curtailed and to suggest that this Government should protest against the encroachment made on its revenues by the Central Government.

"This motion also consists of two parts. The first part is about the encroachment made by the Central Government on the revenues of this province and the second part is about the way in which this Government indulge in experiments and waste a lot of money which could otherwise be avoided. As regards the first point I must confine my attention to three matters. The Central Government has appropriated all the elastic revenues to itself and has thrown all inelastic revenues on the shoulders of the Provincial Government. In addition to that, since the year 1922 the Central Government is making encroachment upon encroachment upon even the legitimate income of this province. At the time when the contribution to be made to the Central Government was fixed the matter was not within the ken of this Government. In addition to taking contribution from us they are making encroachments. I will illustrate it."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"I am afraid that the question of encroachments made by the Central Government does not come under this particular item. Whether it comes under any other item will have to be decided later on."

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB:—"It does not come under any other item. As this demand is to be moved by the hon. the Finance Member I thought I could move my motion under this demand. Moreover I have given notice of a motion to reduce the total grant for Local Fund Administration."

[20th March 1926]

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"As the grant we are now dealing with is General Administration of the Provincial Government, as the hon. Member has shown, I think this is the appropriate place to discuss this motion."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"I am thankful to the hon. Member."

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—"The first instance is with regard to a part of the sum to be paid by this Government to the subvention scheme. This Government was asked to pay contribution towards the expense of the Indian Forest Service and Indian Civil Service people learning vernaculars in some of the universities of the United Kingdom before they came and took charge of work in Ind'a. This is a new item of expenditure which was not incurred up to this time and the first grant for this purpose was made during the February session; and we have granted a large amount. That expenditure ought not to be legitimately borne by the Provincial Government. It ought to be borne by the Central Government."

p.m.

The second instance is about awarding of scholarships. No doubt, expenditure under this head will be only small. All the same, it involves a principle. Therefore I want to discuss the matter. In the year 1922 the Secretary of State gave permission for people to learn the educational system of the United Kingdom and America. He has also given permission to the Government to award scholarships to persons who go and study the system in foreign countries. Till the year 1922 the entire expenditure for this purpose was borne by the Central Government. For want of funds, that scheme has been given the go-by and now only two or three scholarships are awarded. Now I understand that the Central Government have asked this Government to provide some amounts for the purpose of contributing towards scholarships for the purpose of studying the educational system obtaining in other provinces. As originally proposed, Sir, this item has also to be borne by the Central Government. On the other hand we have provided, as one of the Part II schemes, a list of which is attached to the budget memorandum, a sum of about Rs. 50,000 for this purpose.

"Another point, Sir, is in regard to the matter of deputations to study the conditions of timber in foreign countries and also for the purpose of advertising the Indian timber. This is also more or less a Central subject, and the expenditure ought to be borne by the Central Government. What we see is that this Provincial Government has been made to bear a part of the expenditure. These are some of the illustrations only on the basis of which, I wish to suggest to the hon. the Finance Member, such encroachments made on our revenues ought to be protested against, and the Provincial Government ought not to pay for those expenses."

"As regards the second point, Sir, namely, that in this Government avoidable expenditure is being wasted, I will illustrate it only with one example, namely, that some time back the Public Works Department wanted to construct a Victory Hall in the Marina. For the purpose of giving effect to that idea, they have spent about a lakh of rupees for acquiring lands near the Marina. Subsequently it has turned out that owing to the existence of some drain inside that place, the idea of erecting the Victory Hall has altogether been abandoned and the money, nearly a lakh of rupees that has been spent for the purpose of acquiring lands, is a sheer waste. This is only one example. If anybody takes care to peruse the Accountant-General's criticism on the accounts of the Provincial Government for the years 1923-24 and 1924-25, he will find that those two books contain many such instances where on the plea of starting new experiments, the Public Works Department have wasted a lot of amount and afterwards on some ground or other have suggested that the plot was not sufficiently useful or that they had changed the experiment, etc. On that basis a lot of amount has been spent"

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"The Public Works Department is the agent for the execution of the work which the administrative departments advise them to do."

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—"Anyhow, Sir, that is an expenditure which could be avoided, and I urge upon the Government and especially upon the hon. the Finance Member who has stated in his budget speech that one of the main sources of income is economy, to observe that economy and object to all such kind of rash and avoidable expenditure being incurred hereafter. (Hear, hear.)"

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"Sir, I shall first deal with the expenditure on the Local Fund Audit establishments and the reorganization which has taken place in the last two years. It is perhaps unfortunate that the answer to a question which has been put, I think on identically the same points which have been raised by the hon. Member, has not yet reached the agenda paper. Otherwise, I think it is possible that he would have found them the information which he seeks. I do not wish to weary the House by a long analysis of the history of this reorganization scheme and all its details; and I propose to confine myself to a brief summary of what actually has taken place. It was in December 1923 that the Local Fund Audit staff which was working under the Collectors was transferred to the control of the Local Fund Accounts department. With effect from the 1st April 1924, the posts of accountants of the district and local boards came under the control of the Examiner and in order to provide for these requirements, a number of men were temporarily recruited. These temporary hands were either employed as district accountants or were posted as audit clerks in the place of clerks who were transferred as accountants. At that time of course the scheme was a tentative one and actual requirements were not fully known until further experience has been gained of the reorganization. The next step was that it was found that the practice of providing each district board and taluk board with separate accountants was unnecessarily expensive and a scheme was introduced by which the compilation of both the taluk and district board accounts was centralized in the district board offices. This enabled a considerable reduction of the establishment to be effected and a considerable number of the clerks who had been temporarily recruited were disbanded. Meanwhile, scales of pay had been determined under which the new clerks of the audit establishment were to be brought. These scales were :

Second grade : Rs. 35, with certain increments up to Rs. 80.

First grade : Rs. 35 with certain increments up to Rs. 150.

"It was not possible to deal under this scale with the case of the temporary hands who had been entertained until the position in the new grade of the permanent clerks who had been taken over from the Collectors' establishments had been fixed. All these of course were permanent men and had a preferential claim over temporary hands. In the meantime, clerks who were transferred from the Collectors' establishments were allowed to draw pay in the scales on which they were in the Revenue department, pending a settlement of the question as to how many should be permanently retained in the audit staff. I may say that these questions have now been settled and that the new temporary clerks who were retained since 1st May 1925 as well as the clerks transferred from the Collectors' establishments have now been brought on one or the other of the two grades, details of which I have given. This change has been given effect to from the 1st May 1925. Any disabilities or difficulties under which these establishments may have suffered are but a common occurrence as when an establishment is in a state of transition or reorganization there is always a certain amount of inconvenience and possibly cases of hardship. I trust that as a result of this reorganization having been brought to a final shape we shall find that, whether they were newly recruited or whether they were transferred from the Collectors' offices, reasonable justice has been done to the hands which are employed in the Local Fund Audit department.

[Mr. T. E. Moir]

"As regards the point to which the hon. Member referred, namely, that his community was inadequately represented in the Local Fund Audit department, I may assure him that I personally regard the number of Muhammadans in that department as much below what I should like to regard as a reasonable average; but I may say that the fault does not altogether rest with the department. The fact is that Muhammadans with the necessary qualifications do not seem to apply for posts in that department. Possibly it is because the hon. Member's community is less attracted by the sedentary and routine life that the establishments of the Local Fund Audit department enjoy. However that may be, the fact is that there has been an almost entire absence of applications from this community. If he can inspire a little more interest about the department in the members of his community, I can assure him that we would welcome an addition of his community to its staff. We have received, I think, only two applications. One was offered a clerkship's place but did not reply. Another was a secondary school leaving certificate holder; but I think his aspirations were pitched somewhat high because the only position that could satisfy him was that of a District Inspector. We could hardly extend a preferential treatment to that degree. But, as I said, if the hon. Member can induce the members of his community to regard the Local Fund Audit department as an avenue for employment, I would personally welcome that.

"Now, Sir, I may perhaps turn to the second resolution with which the hon. Member's speech dealt. If I may take the two points in the order in which they are given in the resolution, the first relates to the question of curtailing avoidable expenditure. Now, Sir, there I entirely agree with him and I myself spent many hours engaged upon that task. But I must admit that in spite of all our efforts and of the assistance that my hon. Colleagues give me in the matter, cases do occur now and again in which, it is perfectly true, with perhaps a little more knowledge or a little more experience or a little more care, we might have saved something, sometimes possibly a considerable sum, for the public purse. But I would not like the House to assume that these cases are quite so numerous as might be judged from the remarks of the hon. Member. All cases which are of any importance are reviewed in the report of the Public Accounts Committee. All serious cases are dealt with there and though there are some which we have reason to regret, I am not prepared to say that the number or their nature indicate any very serious evil existing in the matter in our administrative departments.

[20th March 1926]

"There is one point perhaps I may mention to the House specifically referred to in the report of the Public Accounts Committee which will be placed before this House. And that is that in some of our younger departments the tradition of carefulness in accounts and of the necessity of mastery of the accounts of the department in which an officer is engaged has not quite established itself to the extent which was, and I think still is, the position in the older departments. That, I think, is why in departments in which officers are perhaps more interested in their departmental activities than in the rather tedious side-line of accounts and procedure we find an undue proportion of cases of this kind. I may instance perhaps the department of Agriculture and, if I may give another example, the Jails department where, as the House is aware, there is now very considerable expenditure on the manufacturing activities of a department which has hitherto had restricted experience of either manufacture or business activities. That is a matter which had been drawn attention to and I hope these departments will realize the importance of a thorough knowledge of procedure and of accounts on the part of the officers.

"Reference was then made to the Marina scheme. Personally I deeply regret what has happened in connexion with that scheme because for a long period we had been anticipating a scheme which to my mind was going to be of the greatest benefit to the city. I think I am right in saying that the causes which led to the abandonment of that particular scheme were not altogether such as could have been foreseen. And although we have been told that the site which was originally selected on the Marina was not altogether suitable for the requirements of the scheme which was associated with it, I may say that we are still in possession of the land which was acquired and is a very valuable asset to the Government. I am perfectly certain that our departments will not take long to find some useful purpose for it to serve.

"Then the hon. Member drew attention to what he termed as encroachments on our revenues by the Central Government. Perhaps, hon. Members will be ready to allow the Central Government that freedom which we desire to claim for ourselves, that is to say, that we should have the largest possible measure of control over revenues or objects of expenditure which are legitimately our own, and I think that we must concede a similar freedom to the Central Government. As regards probationers, which I think was the first point the hon. Member raised, I am afraid I am unable to agree with his view because it would mean that the Provincial Governments need not meet expenditure incidental to the training of the establishment which are to serve under them. That is, however, one of the fundamental principles of the financial settlement and I do not think that we could possibly claim that the Central Government, which in this case means all the other Provinces of India, should contribute to the expenditure connected with our Province. Bombay pays for its probationers; we pay for ours and Bengal does the same. And I do not think that there is anything inequitable in that rule.

"As regards scholarships, I am unable to recollect on the spur of the moment the exact case to which the hon. Member refers, but, so far as I am aware, I do not think that there has been any case of the Government of India forcing upon us or compelling us to pay for certain scholarships. There may have been one or two cases of the kind where we have been asked in connexion with certain educational or other activities whether we were prepared to meet our share of expenditure undertaken by the Central Government which would directly or indirectly benefit this Province. I do not think any case of our relations with the Central Government in the matter of education has gone beyond that. But if the hon. Member will give me a specific instance of what he refers to, I shall be very glad to have the matter examined and see whether we have been called upon to pay where we ought not to pay.

[Mr. T. E. Moir]

[20th March 1926]

"I am not quite sure whether the hon. Member was referring to any specific item on our budget."

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—"No, Sir. I am referring to item 69 at page 90 of the Budget Memorandum."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"The hon. Member, I may then say, has probably got in mind the fact that the Government of India at one time gave scholarships of this kind which were allotted to the provinces by rotation. But the Government of India are under no obligation of any kind now to give scholarships to the provinces and they have given up that system. We cannot ask them to resume it. It is a matter entirely within their discretion, but, as they have taken that course, we have been obliged to make certain provision for scholarships in the place of those which the Government of India have withdrawn."

"I wonder if the hon. Member would again give me reference to the item as regards timber which I have not been able to trace."

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—"Page 84, item 13, Sir."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"I do not know if it is the suggestion of the hon. Member that this matter is an item of expenditure which the Central Government ought to bear. I am afraid it is not so; because the question of advertising our timbers in the foreign market is within the sphere of our duties. I can assure the hon. Member that, as far as the development or exploitation of our forests is concerned, the burden of responsibility rests entirely with us, and I do not know of any rule or principle under which we could call upon the Central Government to bear expenditure which is intended solely to bring grist into our mill. There are of course items for which the Government of India, so far as they are concerned, make provision, but those are matters of general interest to the whole of India and not an item over expenditure on which we intend, I may say, to keep entirely and work entirely for our own benefit and not for the benefit of other provinces."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"Mr. President, I feel sure that there is a great deal of point in the hon. Member Mr. Ghouse Mian's remark regarding the encroachment of Provincial revenues by the Central Government. No doubt the examples that he has specifically given are not happy examples. But I think even with reference to this item, namely, the scholarships by the Government of India, the hon. the Finance Member will recollect cases which occurred during his regime as Financial Secretary and will realize that there has been some room for complaint. Scholarships were allowed by the Government of India in 1920-21 before the reforms came into operation and the students sent out under that scholarship for a period of say three years had to be paid by this Government as the burden of continuing these scholarships was suddenly thrown upon the Provincial Government. At any rate that is my recollection. I may perhaps explain the case still further, Sir. A student goes on Government of India scholarship for a certain number of years. In the first year of his course, he is paid by the Government of India as in the pre-reform days; but for the next two years, as a result of the reforms perhaps the Government of India says 'It is your burden and you are to shoulder the responsibility'. It is a little unfair, especially as in an arrangement of that kind we had really no voice in sending the student and probably if we had, taking into consideration our resources, we would not have sent the student at all. But the Government of India sent the student but threw the burden back on us. That is one instance that I remember at present."

[Mr. A. Ramaswami Mudaliyar]

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Is it not because the Department of Education became a transferred subject?"

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"Yes, Sir; but my point is that the undertaking was given before Education became a transferred subject by the Government of India and it was a recurring liability which the Government of India took upon themselves. And now, is it fair, I ask, to shove the responsibility all on a sudden to this Government which had no voice at all in the matter. I can understand that in the cases of scholarships granted in future for sending students to England and other places, the liability should be legitimately on the Government but for an undertaking which was given by the Government of India without consulting us, I do not see how we should be held in any way responsible. Then again, Sir, I remember very vividly during the time of Sir Charles Todhunter, the extreme annoyance which the then Finance Member felt at the sudden bills that were presented during the last days of the current financial year by the Central Government, without warning, without any notice, just when we thought that we were facing a line-clear budget, to use the ex-Finance Member's phrase. I remember how bills after bills were suddenly shoved on the Provincial Government and my hon. Friend Dr. Subbarayan who was then on the Finance Committee will now bear me out as to the difficulties that we in the Finance Committee felt then by these bills being presented without absolutely any notice. In many cases, Sir, these bills were presented long after they became due, and old accounts were probably raked up by the Central Government. In 1923-24 for instance a bill for an item of expenditure which was paid by the Central Government in 1921-22 and which ought properly to have been met by the Provincial Government was suddenly placed before us. I know there is no question of limitation between the Central and Provincial Governments; but equity demands that there must be a finality in these matters; and I am sure the hon. the Finance Member himself would desire to know where we stand and that we ought not to be suddenly presented with bills which are of very anterior date and of which we had not the ghost of any idea at all. In the present budget itself I see the hon. the Finance Member himself has referred to it in his speech that the Finance Member of the Government of India suddenly announced from his place in the Legislative Assembly that the refund of the customs duty would in future be withdrawn from those provinces to which part of remission of their contribution to the Government of India under Devolution Rule 18 has been allowed. That results in a loss of Rs. 194 lakhs to us. I cannot understand the connection between a remission of the contribution and the refund of customs duties that was withdrawn. Was it as a mere charity that the refund of customs duty was given to us? Have we no right to it at all, legal or otherwise? Were the Government of India hoping all these years that in getting this refund of customs duty, we were not entitled to any remission? What has in fact contributed to do with the refund of customs?

1-15
P.M.

"And if our provincial contribution reduction is gradually to be neutralised by this sort of miscellaneous adjustments—I do admit these are of a very miscellaneous nature,—I think the evil is far greater than the hon. the Finance Member thinks it is. Take again another case. Why should we be made to pay for election courts for settling disputes regarding the Assembly and the Council of State elections? We have nothing to do with it; in our province we do not want these elections. We are satisfied with the Provincial Councils. It is for the Government of India's purposes that the Legislative Assembly and the Council of State are constituted, and why should we pay for an election court to settle disputes as regards the Council of State and the Legislative Assembly elections? How is it a provincial job? The Government of India is so meticulous in these matters that it sends bills half a dozen years after they fall due and says that the expenditure is to be borne by the Provincial Government. Now, our Finance Department ought to be equally meticulous whatever the embarrassments of the Government of India may be and ought to see that these incursions on our provincial revenues are not tolerated and are protested against. I think, Sir, that the hon. Member from Trichinopoly has done very useful service in drawing the attention of the hon. the Finance Member to this aspect, and if it is said that the Government of India stand upon their rights, I think it is time that we too should stand up for our equally valid rights."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" Sir, before the hon. the Finance Member rises to speak, I want to ask whether the Government of India on their own initiative have not given us monies to our credit, for instance, our share of the unified stamp and the income-tax?"

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" With reference to this avoidable expenditure, Sir, my hon. Friend the Finance Member stated and stated quite naturally that he is himself against incurring avoidable expenditure and he is bringing pressure to bear on the several departments and heads of offices to avoid incurring such expenditure to which reference was made both by me and the hon. the Mover of this motion. In this connection I should like to know, if my hon. Friend Mr. Moir is in a position to give this information, viz., what has become of one scheme on which so much money was spent. I refer to the Victory Memorial Hall or some building which was proposed to be erected and the foundation stone of which was laid I believe in 1919 by Lord Chelmsford. I was myself present in the Government House compound. In fact all persons in the city who counted were there, and the whole of Madras was there and the Viceroy laid the foundation stone, and considerable expenditure, I think, was incurred on that. I do not remember to have heard anything about the subject during the past seven or eight years. I should like very much to have information as to what became of it if my hon. Friend is in a position to give information now in the matter, though I dare say he could not have come prepared as it was not specifically referred to in the motion as an item of avoidable expenditure."

20th March 1926]

* Khan Bahadur P. KHALIF-UL-LAH SAHIB Bahadur :—" Mr. President, Sir, I did not propose to take any part in the discussion of this motion but I am impelled to do so by reason of certain explanations given by the hon. the Finance Member. With reference to scholarships, the hon. the Finance Member told us that this Government could not force the Government of India to continue to bear the cost towards the scholarships of our students sent up from this Presidency. But was it not possible for us to protest against the withdrawal of certain scholarships when it affects students that were sent up from this province by the Central Government? One of the previous speakers, my hon. Friend from Chingleput referred to certain students who were sent up from this Presidency by the Government of India on the guarantee that their expenses would be met by the Government of India for the full course of their education. But then, suddenly after the advent of the reforms, the Government of India said that they would not bear those expenses and ordered that the Madras Government should bear the same. I ask the hon. the Finance Member whether it was not possible for us to protest against such a procedure which I consider to be very unjust and against the terms on which those students were sent up, saying that the finances of this province should not at all, for any reason, be saddled with such expenditure."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—" Sir, if I might first deal with the question of scholarships, perhaps I may say that it is entirely a matter of the past. There is no question of some expenditure being thrown on the budget of the present year or of the coming year, against which we might protest. It is merely a question as to whether at the time when the new financial system came in, we could have protested. Well, on the ground that the selection for these scholarships had really been the result of an act of the Government of India, it has been urged that they should bear the cost. On the general aspect of the question, I am afraid that if we adopted that attitude towards the reforms and repudiated any suggestion of responsibility or further concern with expenditure which has been incurred either under the direction of or as a result of action taken by the Central Government, we could never have got away, in any way, or in any department, from the all-pervading control of the Central Government which it was the object of the reforms to remove. It is perfectly true that with regard to many comparatively small items in our budget, we might have said to the Government of India that we considered that that Government should continue to be responsible for the whole expenditure under such items—scholarships in this instance—as it was in consequence of a policy laid down by the Central Government that the students were sent to Europe. The answer would have been 'Very well, it is a small matter, and provided you pay us the sum which the continuance of these scholarships for the period guaranteed by us would cost to the Central revenue, we should have no objection to do so'. The result would have been as far as our revenues are concerned, which is the principal point in issue, practically the same. We should have given a contribution to the Government of India for the period of the existing scholarships, and the contribution would have ceased when these particular scholarships expired. But as regards any further scholarships which might be awarded hereafter, they would appear in our budget and their cost be debited against our revenues as now."

"Then, the hon. Member for Chingleput suggested that we were continually having claims thrust upon us by the Government of India. While it is perfectly true that, as the financial working of the reforms proceeded, various items came to light over which there have been claims and counter-claims; I think I would be correct in saying that our counter-claims have considerably exceeded the claims of the Government of India. I will merely give two examples which appear in the current year's budget. We are getting a very large increase—I think it is something like 4 or 5 lakhs—under the head of unified stamps, a matter which we have fought out with the Government of India. We are also, as I stated in dealing with the budget, receiving a very large—to us at any rate very large—sum of about 17 lakhs for pension charges which were wrongly debited against us. There are many other matters which are from time to time raised and settled with the Government of India. Perhaps I may be allowed to say here, Sir, that it is not merely in the matter of the reduction of the provincial contributions that I have found the attitude of the hon. the Finance Member of the Government of India most sympathetic towards this province, but that in regard to all cases of our claims against the Government of India, this province has got no reason of any kind to complain of the manner in which he dealt with them. He has dealt with them throughout on generous and broad lines. (Hear, hear.)

[Mr. T. E. Moir]

[20th March 1926]

"The hon. Member also referred to the question of the imposition of customs duty on the provinces. It was of course a matter we regarded as open to question whether it was within the rights of the Government of India to do so in pursuance of their policy of protection or giving encouragement to goods produced in India or imported by private agency into India as against goods produced elsewhere or imported direct by Government. But the Secretary of State has decided that it was within their province, and they have thought it necessary in furtherance of this policy to declare that from a certain date they would no longer give this sub-vention out of their revenues to the Local Governments. I am not able at present to say anything more than that on this subject. The question whether they should further undertake to give preferential treatment to one province in the matter as against another is still under consideration, and there I think it is possible that the hon. Member's argument as to principle might apply more effectively.

"There are two more matters, I think, with which I have to deal. The first is about the elections. One hon. Member asked why we should pay for the cost of elections to the Central Legislature. I can merely say that this is one of those items which under the Devolution Rules schedule is a provincial item of expenditure. There may be very good reasons which could be urged why it should not be, but the fact remains that under the existing financial settlement that is the case.

"Then, as regards the Marina scheme which is, I think, the last point I have to deal with, I was referring to what, so far as I am concerned, is the most important financial issue that is to say to what extent the expenditure incurred has really been wasted, and therefore I pointed out to the House that the land remains in our possession, and I hope it is worth the sum we paid for it. But as regards details of the scheme with which, I must confess, I am not personally very conversant, I have no doubt that my hon. Colleague will give the information which the hon. Member desired."

* The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—"Mr. President, Sir, the scheme known as the Marina scheme was dropped because it was found that the soil of the site was altogether unsuited for the construction of a hospital. The idea was that the two funds, the Victory Memorial fund and the Prince of Wales Children's Hospital fund should be pooled together. With the funds at the disposal of the Dufferin Memorial Fund Committee and the Government should make the best use of the funds by utilizing for the Marina scheme of the Women's Hospital and Medical School. As the scheme was given up the Government thought it better to have these memorials raised in the shape of a tuberculosis hospital with three wards, one for the children, the Prince of Wales Children's hospital, another the women's ward to perpetuate the memory of the victory of the Great War and the third male ward will be built at the Government cost supplemented by Sir Muttayya Chetti's donation. The cost of the Marina scheme was estimated at nearly 24 lakhs whereas the cost of the other scheme of extension of Victoria Hospital and Women's Medical School will be 7½ lakhs. So by dropping the Marina scheme Government have gained by several lakhs of rupees. And besides, a tuberculosis hospital in the Presidency town was urgently needed and that was the reason why the original scheme was dropped and a new scheme was taken up."

[The Raja of Panagal]

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"What about the money already voted for some institution?"

* The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—"That is spent on the construction of the King Edward's Tubercular Institute."

The motions were by leave withdrawn.

Demand XI was then put and carried and the Grant was made.

The Council then adjourned for lunch.

After Lunch (2-30 p.m.).

The hon. the Deputy President took the chair.

DEMAND XII—GENERAL ADMINISTRATION—MINISTERS AND CIVIL SECRETARIATS—TRANSFERRED.

* The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—"On the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor I move that a sum of Rs. 3.54 lakhs be granted for General Administration—Ministers and Civil Secretariats—Transferred."

Mr. K. SITARAMA REDDI :—"I beg to move that the allotment of Rs. 29,300 for Registrar-General of Panchayats and Inspector of Municipalities be reduced by Re. 1."

"By tabling this motion it is not my idea to cast any reflection on the present officer holding this appointment. I know him personally and I have got the greatest respect for him. My object in moving this resolution is to know from the hon. Member whoever it is why this post has been changed from one of 'voted' to 'non-voted'. I find by a reference to the Civil Budget Estimate that for the next year the expenditure under this head is proposed to be increased by about Rs. 2,400 for his pay and instead of two officers dealing with this branch one is made Registrar-General of Panchayats and the Inspector of Local Bodies and the other is made his personal assistant. As Registrar-General of Panchayats and as Inspector of Local Bodies he is in charge of the local bodies in this Presidency and has control over the formation of the panchayats. I take it these are transferred subjects and are under the control of the Minister. When the pay of the Minister himself is not proposed to be non-voted, I do not see why any officer under him is made non-voted. I know the Secretaries dealing with certain subjects in the Transferred departments are non-voted. But I cannot see why an officer who is till now treated as voted should now be proposed to be treated as non-voted."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"I also wish to associate myself with all that my friend has just said. As my friend has rightly put it, there is no question of any reflection on the present officer. All of us know him as a capable man, a man of integrity, a man of character and a man of capacity. So far as the principle of taking away the pay of officers whose pay should be voted by this Council to the class 'non-voted' is concerned, it is one to which I should think strong exception should be taken. We know that it is stated in the Government of India Act that the pay of the officers whose appointments are made by His Majesty the King or the Secretary of State should be non-voted. Instead of restricting it, the attempt now made is to expand it. I submit this is a policy which will receive the strongest condemnation at the hands of this Council. As a matter of fact we all know that the powers possessed by this Council are very very attenuated and they should not be made more attenuated than they really are. It should be the other way. I wish to associate myself with all that has been said by the hon. Mover on this matter."

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—"Mr. Deputy President, Sir, I am sorry that this is brought under non-voted by a clerical mistake." (Laughter.)

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Demand XII was then put and carried and the Grant was made.

DEMAND XIII—ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE.

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"On the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor I move

'that the Government be granted a sum not exceeding Rs. 5,184 lakhs for Administration of Justice.'"

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"Sir, I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 5,84,300 for Judges and Registrar be reduced by Rs. 101.'

"Sir, it is said off and on that the work in the High Court is getting congested and that the number of judges in the High Court are not able to cope with the work and that perhaps temporary or permanent additions may have to be made to the number. Sir, I think a remedy for this can be found if the High Court Judges are required to work on Saturdays as their colleagues elsewhere do. For example in the Calcutta High Court the Judges are working on Saturdays, and I do not see why Judges here should not follow their example. It cannot be said that, all the five days in the week, they are doing such arduous work that they cannot do any work on Saturdays. High Court work is of varied sorts and kinds, some of an exacting nature, some of a trivial character: and so on. Surely if the Judges are inclined, they can so arrange their work that the work on Saturday will not tax them unduly."

20th March 1926] [Mr. A. Ranganatha Mudaliyar]

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Sir, I am glad the question has been raised because I think I can throw some light on the whole matter. The suggestion made by the hon. Member for Bellary that the Judges should sit on Saturdays is not a new one. The question that half at least of that day may be utilized was also examined. After full consideration in 1919 the Secretary of State and the Government of India came to the conclusion that the existing practice should not be interfered with. The question was again examined by the Judicial Retrenchment Committee of 1924. Among the recommendations of the Committee there was one, viz., that curtailment of holidays in the civil courts was desirable. As to the High Court Judges working on Saturdays, the opinion of the High Court was as follows. They said that in many cases the judgments were held over to be written on Saturdays and Sundays and practically all the Saturdays are required for writing judgments. Then what is also very important is looking to the administrative work of the High Court. Hon. Members will remember that calendar work and scrutinizing the records and diaries from the mufassal is a matter which is within the jurisdiction of the High Court, and though it does not come within the public cognizance it is an important part of their duties. Replying to references to Government is another matter. Probably hon. Members are not aware that their opinion on many important legislative and administrative matters is asked for. They have also to exercise the High Court's statutory powers of control and supervision of subordinate courts by perusal of judgments of sessions judges, and by perusal of second appeals prior to orders under Order 41, Rule 11 of the Civil Procedure Code. A new rule has been passed by which the second appeals are first posted before a single Judge to find out whether there is a case for being posted before a Bench. They have to be fairly familiar with the facts of the case before coming to court. Therefore they came to the conclusion that they could not sit on Saturdays. I may also say and I venture to put strongly this argument before the House that, strictly speaking, under the Letters Patent which is kept alive by the Despatch of 1865 the High Court has statutory power to determine the period of vacation and the number of holidays. It is because that it would not be fair to the High Court not to make this observation that I say this on the floor of the House."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"The hon. Member has not told us about the practice in other provinces."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"In Bombay excepting on the Original Side there is no work on Saturdays. On the other hand, on one afternoon the High Court Judges do not sit. In Calcutta, I believe, the Original Side sits on Saturday."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"Why not an innovation be made on the lines of Calcutta and Bombay?"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"I shall carry the desire of the House to the hon. Judges of the High Court."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"Meanwhile we can convey the opinion of this House by the vote of this House."

[20th March 1926]

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" I would strongly urge upon the House against any such thing. Strictly speaking, we have no right to dictate. I have given the undertaking to communicate to them that there is an opinion in this House that an attempt should be made in this direction."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" I hesitated because once before when the suggestion was made that Registrars ought to be appointed from the Bar or the Provincial Services, the hon. the Law Member almost made a promise that the High Court was agreeable to the proposal, but it was not carried out at all. I thought I might strengthen the position of the hon. the Law Member by a vote of this House. But in view of what he has said, I do not propose to press my motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

2-45
p.m.

* Khan Bahadur P. KHALIF-UL-LAH SAHIB Bahadur :—" Mr. Deputy President, if I rise to move the motion which stands against my name, viz.,

'that the allotment of Rs. 5,84,300 for Judges and Registrar be reduced by Rs. 100',

I do so with a high sense of responsibility that I feel towards the community which I have the honour to represent in this House. So far as the High Court is concerned, it was after a great deal of public agitation in this province that one belonging to my community was raised to the High Court Bench about fifteen years ago, and after all that trouble we got only one representative in the wide field of appointment to the High Court Bench, and we thought we had established a precedent so well and so strongly that the Government felt itself bound, even during the short vacancy which occurred when Sir Abdur Rahim had to go on special duty elsewhere, to appoint to that temporary vacancy a Muslim and none else. But what is it that we see to-day? On his appointment as Executive Council Member of Bengal, when he left the High Court Bench of this province, when a vacancy was created permanently in that seat, there was absolutely no attempt made to give due consideration to the claims of my community. Not only at that time but even later several other vacancies have occurred in the High Court, and still absolutely no thought seems to have been bestowed upon the legitimate claims of our community. Some two years ago, the hon. the Law Member was kind enough to ask me to consult my hon. Muslim Colleagues in this House and let him know what the real feeling was in the matter of appointment of High Court Judges. I thought that was a real attempt made in the direction of trying to meet the demands of my community, and forthwith I consulted them."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Sir, I have no objection to my hon. Friend referring to a conversation which took place between me and certain members of the Muhammadan community. But what I then, at the instance of His Excellency the Governor who presided over the destinies of this province at that time, did was to endeavour to find out the feelings of the Muhammadan community with reference to the appointment of Muhammadans from outside this Presidency."

* Khan Bahadur P. KHALIF-UL-LAH SAHIB Bahadur :—" Quite so. I am not saying anything different. I had not yet finished my say on that matter when the hon. Member interrupted. I consulted the other Muslim Members of this House, and they gave it as their opinion and I can say with the approval of the hon. the Law Member, that the demand of my community is very strong that some proper Muslim should be appointed to the High Court. So far as the person is concerned, they preferred to have one from the province itself. But if the Government was of opinion that they could not find a proper person to fill the place, they suggested they had absolutely no objection to a stranger to this province being appointed provided he was a Muslim. We thought then, Sir, as I said, that it was some serious attempt made to satisfy the public demand. But still we have waited and waited long too without realizing anything out of that. Of course, we have often been told that there is no proper person available. I think many of my hon. Friends here are aware of what was told us at the time when Sir Abdur Rahim was appointed to the High Court Bench. We are told that some bearded man was appointed simply because he happened to wear a beard."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" It was not at that time. I do not think he wore a beard at that time."

Mr. ABBAS ALI KHAN :—" I saw him the other day at Calcutta. He is quite young."

* Khan Bahadur P. KHALIF-UL-LAH SAHIB Bahadur :—" Anyhow, I am not referring to his personal appearance. At any rate, people who were making that remark and others too expected that a Muslim should wear a beard, and only in that sense, and in no other sense, I referred to it. My hon. Friends have known and seen Sir Abdur Rahim, and we are all aware that he never wore a beard. That is by the way. Now, Sir, a Muhammadan was elevated to the High Court Bench, and Sir Abdur Rahim was appointed because he happened to be Muhammadan. He has acquitted himself in this office so creditably that I feel proud to say,—there will be no dissentient voice if I say so—that he added lustre to the illustrious list of High Court Judges that have honoured this province. So far as my community is concerned, I can say with equal pride that my community can boast of many illustrious lawyers and jurists. Coming to the present times, I need only mention the names of Justices Mahmood, Tyabji and Ameer Ali, to show that my community is certainly not lacking in the quality of men for such high places as that of the High Court Judge. All that I mean to say is that if only a real and earnest attempt is made to see that the Muslim claim is met, there would be absolutely no difficulty in finding one for the place. Of course, we cannot expect one to announce himself to be the most fitted. But throughout the length and breadth of this big continent, I am sure we must be able to find out one to fill up the post, however high it may be, with credit and with success. This being so, my community feels it as a great disappointment that the Government have not even made a move in that direction, though it is already more than five years since the vacancy has happened. As I have already said, during the general discussion on the budget, the hon. the Law Member is a great lawyer, and therefore he would have much respect to the precedent which took a long time for my community to establish, some precedent certainly, when Sir Abdur Rahim was appointed. I call it a precedent because it was so strongly felt also by this Government at that time that the temporary vacancy was filled up by a Muslim. So, what we see now when a permanent vacancy had actually happened is that not even an attempt is made to appoint a Muslim. Hence, it is that I make this motion before this House, and I hope that all sections of this House will feel with me and show that unity and brotherhood by unanimously joining me in supporting this motion."

* The hon. Sir O. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Mr. President, Sir, let me in the first place say this: that as a lawyer of some standing it is impossible for any one who has practised the law to forget the contribution made by the Mussalman community to jurisprudence in general, at the inception of jurisprudence itself as a science in the western world and to Indian jurisprudence in particular. Sir, I make bold to say that no student of law can fail to remember with gratitude, with respect and with admiration the names of men like Justice Mahmood, probably the subtlest lawyer and the most cultured writer of chaste and expressive English that we have had. It is not therefore out of any feeling that Mussalmans have not amongst them competent men worthy to occupy and occupy with glory to themselves and to their country the highest place in the judiciary of the land, that there has been any want of action on the part of the Government. Let me say that Justice Abdur Rahim was never regarded as any the less a scholar than a lawyer, by those who have studied his Tagore Law lectures. Any one who has gone through that volume on the Outlines of Islamic Jurisprudence would have known that he was most scholarly in outlook and thoroughly cultured not only in the jurisprudence of his own country but generally in the jurisprudence of the world. Now, therefore, it is not because that there is any the slightest idea or suggestion that among the Muslim communities of India there is not anybody who is wanting in any respect, that the appointment has not been made. I am glad that my hon. Friend has referred to the conversation that took place between me and certain members of the Muhammadan community some years ago. His Excellency Lord Willingdon, I may be permitted to say, was extremely anxious to have a Muhammadan appointed to the Madras High Court, and therefore he asked me to find from the Muhammadans here in Madras whether generally they would welcome the appointment of a Muhammadan Judge if the Government had to import a Muhammadan from outside the Presidency. All I can say is—I cannot say more as to what happened—that it was as a result of that enquiry that the action that the Government took was taken, as we found there was a cleavage of opinion on this point.

3 p.m. "Whatever the past may be, in the years 1927 and 1928, two permanent vacancies will arise in the High Court, and I may say that every attempt will be made by the Government to bear in mind the very strongly expressed views of the Muhammadan community in this particular, and an attempt will be made for the purpose of recruiting a suitable Muhammadan, if possible, to the judiciary of the highest Court in the land."

Mr. T. M. MOIDU SAHIB :—" Mr. Deputy President, I tabled a similar motion, not because I know that a resolution of this nature will have some effect in the appointment of a Muhammadan High Court Judge, but because I know the feeling of the Muhammadans all over the Presidency is that the Government should have long before appointed a Muhammadan Judge. I think I was one of those who was a signatory to a meeting held in the Lawley Hall at Madras for the purpose of urging on the Government the necessity of appointing a Muhammadan as High Court Judge and later on, as the hon. the Law Member has just explained, I was one of those who waited in deputation on the hon. the Law Member for this purpose. But as he has explained the majority of the Muhammadans who were in the legal profession did not want an outsider to be appointed on the High Court Bench and finding that the importation of a Muhammadan from outside was not very tasteful to them, they did not make the appointment. But at the same time, public opinion among Muhammadans is that the absence of a Muhammadan Judge on the High Court has led them to think that the administration of justice relating to Muhammadan jurisprudence and Muhammadan usage and customs has had some bad effect. But I am not of those who say that the absence of a Muhammadan Judge on the bench will have anything to do with matters of that kind. Anyhow I think it is highly essential that out of fourteen judges, there must be at least one Muhammadan. Recently we heard that two temporary judges have been appointed. I think it was the proper occasion for the Government to have selected a Muhammadan and appointed him to the High Court.

"Recently we were told there was a chance of a Muhammadan being appointed to the Bench very soon, as some of the temporary judges are going to vacate their seats. If I remember right, I even mentioned this matter to His Excellency Lord Goschen when I had the honour of an interview with him in connexion with a deputation to urge some matters on his attention. In these circumstances, I think it a matter of such importance that the Government will see its way to find a remedy."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—" Mr. Deputy President, my hon. Friend from Trichinopoly has called on the different sections of the House to associate themselves with the desire he has so eloquently expressed for the installation of a Muhammadan Judge on the High Court Bench. I cordially agree with him in all that he has said on the desirability of appointing a Muhammadan to the highest judiciary of the land. I am not one of those who believe in the much-trotted-out theory of efficiency. It plays its own purpose; it is used for its own purpose. I do not therefore think that the oft-repeated argument of efficiency can really stand in the way of getting a proper Muhammadan gentleman to preside over the High Court Bench.

"My hon. Friend referred to the appointment of Sir Abdur Rahim to the High Court. I was just then beginning my career at the bar and I distinctly remember—and I can affirm the idea that has been given expression to by my hon. Friend—the idea that it was not a proper selection. Men at the bar, leaders of the bar, eminent gentlemen with extensive practice who had never known Sir Abdur Rahim and probably had only attended or read his Tagore Law lectures which we in those days at college used to read—gentlemen like that went about saying that this was a sort of communal appointment made without regard to efficiency. Justice Abdur Rahim came, saw and conquered. Those who went to scoff remained to pray, and they are yet to see on the High Court Bench more gentlemen of his standard, of the calibre, the integrity and independence of view of Sir Abdur Rahim. Mr. Deputy President, in these matters relating to the highest appointments in the land, as I have often expressed in this House, I hold very strong views on the desirability of associating members of various communities. There is one aspect which will be readily accepted by all sections of the House. We often speak of Indianisation of the services; we speak of the necessity of placing the Indians in high administrative posts. We do not then trot out the theory of efficiency. We do not say that a capable man is not found.

[Mr. A. Ramaswami Mudaliyar] [20th March 1926]

Under the statute now we must have two Indians on the Executive Council; under the statute, we must have so many men as Collectors, Indians promoted from the Provincial Civil Service; under the statute, we must have a certain number of gentlemen appointed as High Court Judges. Now, in all these circumstances, the theory of efficiency is not very much to the front. Of course we say that all these appointments are made only after proper selection. But what I want to impress on the House, the distinction that I want to point out is this, that you must get that number of men somehow or other. Of course, you are able to get efficient men. In the same way, if you earmark one appointment in the High Court for a Muhammadan gentleman, I am fairly certain that you could get an efficient gentleman who will do credit to himself, to the community to which he belongs and to the position that he occupies. I know, Sir, there has been a cleavage of opinion among Muhammadan gentlemen in this province regarding the desirability of importing a Muhammadan outsider. But there has been not unnaturally, as my hon. Friend the Law Member will see how it is natural, there has been a feeling not unnatural among the legal section of the Muhammadan community, that as far as possible, an outsider ought not to be appointed. But I do not recollect so far as I came into touch with that opinion that it ever went to the extent of saying that in no circumstance could an outsider be brought. It was with very great difficulty, as my hon. Friend has well pointed out, that the innovation, the precedent was set up of having a Muhammadan gentleman on the High Court Bench, when Sir Abdur Rahim was appointed.

"I may draw the attention of the hon. the Law Member to the circumstances under which that appointment was made. He as a politician of the olden days may remember quite well the agitation for the Muslim community getting appointments being in the forefront, when Mr. (latterly Lord) Morley became the Secretary of State. He may remember the Aligarh controversies, the Muslim League resolutions, the difference between the Congress and the Muslim League in those days and the necessity for the Government of India and the Right Hon. the Secretary of State for trying to strengthen the Muslim element in the high offices of the State. I think it is not good from the point of view of the Government or fair to the Muhammadan community to ignore these considerations which were so oppressive on the Government in the troublous days of 1907-1908-09. Now to say whenever possible at the earliest moment if we can find a Muhammadan of efficiency we shall appoint him on the High Court Bench, surely the Muhammadan community must have a grievance in the matter. When at a time of stress, at a time when it was politic or supposed to be politic to appoint a Muhammadan the Government were quite willing to appoint one, but at a later time when that stress has lost some of its importance, when that pressure was relieved a little, when the relations between the two communities were not so uncordial as they were in the days of 1907, 1908, boycott days, partition of Bengal days, when political significance attaching itself to the appointment of a Muhammadan was lost, it was not made. I do not suggest that it was the sole ground, I do not suggest that it was the only ground, but I do say that the Government is doing injustice to itself by lending itself to the impression that once the pressure of the Muslim opinion and of the Muslim community was removed from the Government, once the idea of trying to help the Muhammadan in these matters was over, the Government need not move in the matter. My hon. Friend knows well that those were the days when Viceroys and Governors referred to the two wives they had, the Hindu wife and Muhammadan wife, and when we were told that they referred to the two eyes, the Hindu eye and the Muhammadan eye, it seems to me that from a stage of bigamy they have come to a stage of widowhood. I do venture to think that the impression is very strong, the thing is very keenly felt by Muhammadan members; I have come across several sections of the public, that there must be a representative of their class on the High Court Bench. I see nothing unjustifiable, nothing unfair, nothing against the theory of efficiency in that demand which the Muslim community is so strongly and so insistently and to-day so eloquently from the mouth of my hon. Friend here, put forth for the appointment of a Muhammadan gentleman as High Court Judge. I feel there are persons in the Presidency who can well be selected, members of the Provincial Service, who would do honour to the Government, who would grace the Bench if they were to be appointed, members in the independent profession of law who would by their culture, by their education, by their erudition, by their legal knowledge would be ornaments to the High Court Bench. But if, for any reason, the hon. the Law Member or those who advise the Government or His Excellency the Governor considers that in this matter their field of choice must be wider, then I think the Muhammadan community, well, will rather than have no loaf at all have half a loaf, rather than go without any Muslim representation on the High Court would rather have an outsider imported. I think that is the general fundamental agreement that a large majority of Mussalmen in this province will come to. I am aware there may be exceptions, I am aware there may be strong minorities protesting against the idea of having any outsider at all, and rather preferring to wait for some years before they could find one of their own provincial men fit to occupy the place. My hon. Friend the Law Member held out that in the next permanent vacancy there would be a Muhammadan gentleman appointed to the bench. That is only a hope. Let me hope that it is more than a pious hope, but in the interval if there should be any chance of a vacancy arising either in the matter of temporary judges or in the matter of permanent judges, I am sure I am echoing the voice of the Muhammadan community when I say that they would like to have their claims considered, and not merely considered but recognized on such an occasion. I strongly associate myself with the demand that has been made by the hon. Member Mr. Khalif-ul-lah for the appointment of one of their community as a High Court Judge, and I feel that the decision of the House on this matter will strengthen the hands of the hon. the Law Member in any endeavour he may have to make to give effect to it."

Dr. P. SUBBARAYAN :—"It is a well-known fact that I am not a believer in communal representation of any kind. In this instance I do feel as much as a Muhammadan—and we all want to live in peace with them—that this demand made by my hon. Friend Mr. Khalif-ul-lah is a just one. It is not because there is such a thing as Muhammadan jurisprudence—I will not go to such a length that if there was no Muslim Judge there will not be a correct interpretation of the Muslim law—because in spite of not having a Muhammadan on the bench we have still learned decisions which any Muslim lawyer will admit as just and wise. Still there have been some decisions on Muslim Law which any learned Muslim lawyer will not be ashamed to admit as laying down great principles of Muhammadan Law. But I will say this much: this House as a whole ought to support my hon. Friend, Mr. Khalif-ul-lah, because I do feel that in the interests of communal unity such a demand as coming from Mr. Khalif-ul-lah Sahib ought to be supported by the House."

Mr. ABBAS ALI KHAN:—"I never wanted to intervene in this debate but for the fact that I wanted to sound the feelings of the Muhammadan community in this matter. A meeting was convened in the Lawley Hall and quite a number of young Muslim lawyers, not aged lawyers, hailed from the mufassal and also from towns. Representing the younger generation of lawyers, I may say on the floor of this House that the opinion amongst them is this: if there is a Muhammadan lawyer competent and able enough in this province to fill up the place by all means appoint him, rather than importing people from other provinces. It was also suggested that instead of importing men from other provinces live pleaders who are qualified to occupy these posts might be trained as district munsifs, as subordinate judges, and as small cause court judges, so that when the vacancy arises in the High Court one of these people might be translated to the High Court. I may say that the feeling of Muhammadans was very strong—I say this without casting any aspersion on the hon. the Home Member—when there was a vacancy in the Executive Council and when it was thought that a Muhammadan should be brought from outside and that none was available in this province. If His Excellency Lord Goschen had heeded to this, we would never have the brilliant ornament who is adorning the benches on the other side. It behoves the hon. the Law Member to support and encourage the indigenous talent rather than extraneous talent. Further, one or two people say that people from northern India look down upon Muhammadans of this province as converts from Hindus. (Voices: 'No, no'.) They do say, Sir, I stick to my guns. People coming from northern India besides drawing fat salaries have no touch with local Muhammadans. They do nothing to improve the morale of the Muhammadans of this province. For a Collector's post we can appoint a man with mediocre ability, for a District Judge's post we can appoint a man with mediocre ability—he is a blinking judge and when complicated cases of law arise he blinks—but to appoint to the highest judiciary in the land a man with mediocre ability is not a sound proposition. High Court Judgeship is the highest judicial appointment in the land and as such efficiency must be maintained. I therefore submit that there is a large section of the Muslim population which intimately feels more than the dumb public that it would be better to train a number of people in small appointments in the first instance and ultimately make them reach the goal rather than getting a man from outside. As regards the charge levelled by Mr. Moidu Sahib that the High Court is not at all an institution unrivalled in the matter of Muhammadan Law."

Mr. T. M. MOIDU SAHIB:—"I never said that."

Mr. ABBAS ALI KHAN:—"You were smacking at it or hinting at it."

*The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT:—"When he says that he never said it, why should the hon. Member say that he hinted at it?"

[20th March 1926]

Mr. ABBAS ALI KHAN:—"Very well, Sir, I beg to submit that the decision laid down by the Madras High Court is entitled to the greatest respect. I may say I am a practising lawyer and have got a considerable practice in my own district (laughter) and I have quoted these decisions with respect and admiration. Both European and Indian Judges have mastered the principles of Muhammadan law very quickly and very soon, and it is not a fact that they find it difficult to understand the Muhammadan law. I hope the hon. the Law Member will take more interest towards some of the live Muhammadan lawyers of this Province and see that the place is left vacant, so that any one of the Muhammadan lawyers of this Presidency may get it."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"I very heartily associate myself with the remarks made by my hon. Friend Mr. Khalifullah Sahib. I am generally opposed to communalism. Unhappily for this Province this communal question has been often and often raising its head to the disadvantage of nationalism."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"Question."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"Yes, my hon. Friend from Chingleput always questions and very rarely he expects to get a right answer. My point is that as long as this communal question is directed against public interests, so long there will be demoralization in this Province. That is my considered opinion upon that question but in the matter of Hindu versus Mussalmans it is quite a different matter. The Mussalmans have come and stayed in India as separate religionists and as a separate social organization."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"The Christians?"

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"Yes, when Mr. Saldanha raises the question of High Court Judgeship, I shall gladly support him. My point is that so long as the two communities, the Hindus and the Muhammadans, are to live side by side, we have to adjust ourselves and we have to see that like the Hindus they are provided also with highest appointment available in the Province."

"Now as regards the question of efficiency, I do not think it is a very difficult job at all to be a High Court Judge."

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Question."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"By a High Court Judge you have always got another Judge and the best legal talents are available in the bar. They go through from the plaint upwards to the highest case law on the subject. Any lawyer will be able to understand these things if he devotes a little attention to them. You may take up the question of efficiency in the case of Hindus but in the case of Muhammadans you cannot expect that high standard of efficiency. You must make some allowance for them."

Mr. ABBAS ALI KHAN:—"I strongly question that point."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"I am going to answer the third point, which my hon. Friend from Madura has raised. He says: there may not be efficient gentlemen who can fill up the post of High Court Judge but let a beginning be made by appointing gentlemen like the hon. Mr. Abbas Ali Khan Sahib. (Laughter.) He said that live pleader."

[Mr. T. M. Narasimhacharlu] [20th March 1926]

laughter) may be appointed to posts of munsifs, district judgeships and small Cause Court Judgeships, so that they may be able to fill up the appointment of High Court Judgeships when a vacancy arises. The hon. the Law Member must appoint some of them to the posts mentioned above, so that when a vacancy arises in the High Court any one of them may be translated to that post.

"Sir, the whole question of efficiency is not a ground which Government can urge with any force. They must make some allowance. With these few words, I heartily associate myself with the remarks of my hon. Friend Mr. Khalif-ul-lah Sahib."

Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—"I am very glad to associate myself with the remarks of the hon. Mover of this motion. I also thank my hon. Friend, Mr. Narasimhacharlu, for having supported this motion. I never expected that from a gentleman belonging to that profession and to that community . . ."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"I suppose he is disillusioned now."

Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—"Yes, I thank him very much, or whenever I was fighting for communal claims he was fighting for the cause of particular communities of Hindus. What is good for Hindus must also be good for Muhammadans. It was I that fought for a long time for the claims of Muhammadans. I think that 15 per cent of the higher appointments should be reserved for Muhammadans. I am very glad that this rule was observed in the case of Executive Councillorship and we are proud to have our Friend Mr. Usman Sahib Bahadur on the Treasury Bench. The hon. the Law Member said that there were not efficient men available in Madras. I want to know whether that is a fact. If nobody is available, Muhammadans of this province are ready to take anybody from outside. There was Sir Abdur Rahim and the hon. Mr. Justice Tyabjee who were brought from other provinces and therefore let the Government not bring the excuse that efficient men are not available here. So far as his Presidency is concerned, there ought to be at least one Muhammadan Judge on the High Court Bench. On the basis of 15 per cent calculation there ought to be more than one Muhammadan Judge in the High Court. In this connexion I may mention that the hon. the Law Member began his career as a very successful lawyer and I have congratulated him on more than one occasion for having done splendid services in connexion with the filling up of certain appointments. My fear is that there has been a falling off on his part in this direction and I only ask him whether he cannot continue to do so. I hope he will rectify the mistake and will do everything that he can to satisfy the claims of all men in all castes and communities. He was a politician first and then only he has become the hon. the Law Member. He knows the difficulties and grievances of the people and if he cannot do anything to redress their grievances, I do not think any Minister can do it."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"Sir, I am at a loss to understand the trend of the arguments here. (Laughter.) Some of my hon. Friends want that the Government should treat the Muhammadan community or any other community for the matter of that, say the Christian community, as a privileged community or a backward community or some other kind of community which should be petted, brought up and trained for the High Court Judgeships. This suggestion has been made by more than one of my hon. Friends. It has been suggested that if they are unfit and unqualified they should be trained first as a district munsif and so on. I for one stand for justice to all the communities. I do not want at all that a particular community should be petted and trained like birds. (Laughter.) If there are among the Muhammadan community or the Christian community or for the matter of that any community men of talents and ability eminently fitted to hold the posts of High Court Judges, let not one but two or three or as many as you please be appointed as such. As a matter of justice, surely we cannot have on the bench one competent judge and another incompetent judge working together. I am quite surprised at the suggestion of my hon. Friend from Cuddapah that on the bench there might be one judge who is competent and another not so very competent, each sharing the competency or the incompetency of the other. (Laughter.) This suggestion would be an indignity to the members of my community. We want the judges on our bench to be men of wide learning, great common-sense and ability. I do not want any incompetent judge to share his incompetency with another competent judge. I do not grudge any community the highest place in the High Court whether he is a Brahman or not. If there be a Christian appointed a Judge, though he is incompetent, I would consider it an insult to our community." (Hear, hear.)

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—"Sir, this is purely a communal question and we would be failing in our duty to the electorate which sent us here if we do not stress the claims of the community whenever an opportunity occurs."

(At this stage the hon. the President took the chair.)

"In this matter the Government has completely omitted to placate the Muhammadans. This question has been hanging fire for the past half a dozen years. Promises had been made by the Government to find out a capable Muhammadan to be the Judge. But fine words do not butter parsnips. There must be a change of mentality. Some attempt must be made to find out a suitable Muhammadan and see whether he is fitted to occupy the position. The question is whether a suitable Muhammadan is available in this Presidency. My humble opinion is that if the Government really intend to give the appointment to a Muhammadan even without infringing the rule of efficiency one is easily available. To quote an instance, Sir, the hon. Mr. Venkatasubba Rao has been elevated to the bench after a practice of about 15 to 17 years. Are there not among the Muhammadan community vakils who have practised for more than 17 years? Are they not capable also? If the Government want really to satisfy the feelings of the Muhammadan community by making such appointments, they can easily find out a person. If there is any difficulty in the way of getting a Muhammadan gentleman in this Presidency, they may as well get one from outside. An experiment has been tried with two such cases and those two people who have been imported into this Presidency have really rendered meritorious service. At the same time, I want to thank the hon. Law Member for speaking in appreciative terms about the Muhammadan Judges of old. Recently also, Sir Amir Ali has been elevated to the bench of the Privy Council. Without quoting more instances I appeal to the Government to enter heart and soul into the matter and do something to satisfy the feeling of this community. I may also mention that in all the other High Courts there are to be found one or two Muhammadan Judges and such a practice is to be followed here also. I wish to repudiate the suggestion of my hon. Friend from Madura that in the selection of Judges for the High Court efficiency must be considered as one of the important tests. No doubt it must be considered. But due allowance must be made to the rarity of men among the community to occupy that post and there might be a sacrifice of efficiency to some extent. Of course if the occupant of the post is found to be utterly incapable then the Government might say that no efficient man can be found in the community to occupy the post. This thing cannot be said by the Government at present considering that efficient candidates are available. More than all these it is very necessary that in the highest tribunal of the land there must be a Muhammadan judge who will alone be able to feel and judge in all matters purely Muhammadan. I might say this without any disparagement to the hon. Judges who are now occupying the bench. In a matter of purely Hindu Law a Hindu Judge will be in a better position to appreciate the sentiment, and the motive power that has driven the parties to the Court. In legal matters which are highly complicated in regard to Muhammadan law a Muhammadan Judge would be better able to appreciate and understand the feelings and the motives of the parties than anyone else. On the principle of communal representation also, it is necessary that not only High Court Judges but District Judges, District Munsifs and Sub-Judges should be appointed from the Muhammadan community in proportion to their population. In course of time they would be in a position to represent the community even in the highest posts."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" Sir, I wish to support the motion moved by my hon. Friend. There is considerable force in many of the arguments advanced by my hon. Friend Mr. Saldanha. The hon. Member Mr. Narasimhacharlu said that it did not require much learning or capacity or wisdom to be a High Court Judge. According to him a person possessing some knowledge of the law will do quite well as a High Court Judge."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" Sir, what I said was that you cannot expect the same amount of efficiency in a Muhammadan gentleman as you expect in the case of a Hindu gentleman. You must make some allowance in the matter of appointment. Not that I said that any man can be a High Court Judge."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" If what my hon. Friend states now was the statement he actually made before, I differ from him more emphatically than before. (Hear, hear.) It is an insult to the community to say that among them there cannot be lawyers as competent as Hindus to be High Court Judges. According to the doctrine laid down by my hon. Friend even in the amended form, even persons not up to the mark may be appointed as High Court Judges for the simple reason that they belong to a particular community. My hon. Friend went on explaining his point by saying that such a judge's incapacity would be made up by the capacity or the ability of his colleague. The remarks of my hon. Friend from South Kanara with reference to this doctrine are quite apposite. I believe, Sir, that if an incompetent man is appointed as a High Court Judge for the mere fact of his belonging to a particular community, the administration of justice would be brought into contempt and would suffer thereby. (Hear, hear.) That is a matter of everyday experience. If the learned practitioners of the Court learn that the judge sitting on the bench is not up to the mark they will have no respect for him. In that way the administration of justice would suffer. Confidence in the capacity of the judge who is to lay down the ultimate law of the land is a prime necessity for sound administration of justice. Therefore, the first essential thing, if a Muhammadan is to be appointed as a High Court Judge, is that he should be as capable as members of the other communities. Of course, I agree with some of my predecessors who stated that the administration of Muhammadan law has not suffered, because there has not been for the past few years a Muhammadan Judge on the High Court. In a general way I agree with that. But in this connexion, may I be permitted to say that for the sound understanding and administration of the jurisprudence of the different communities, the Hindus and the Muhammadans, it is necessary that a person born and bred in the community to which the jurisprudence applies should be in the High Court Bench.

"As a matter of fact, without any disparagement to any of the eminent Judges who have adorned the High Court Bench from time to time, I venture to submit—I speak as a Malayali—that Malabar Law has suffered in their hands. I do not blame them. Naturally, a Malayalee is the proper person to understand the various springs of Malayalee action and language and intricacies of Malabar. It is no wonder that strangers—eminent Hindu Judges, Muhammadan Judges, and English Judges—have made mistakes in the administration of justice to Malabar; and we Malayalees and others are always desirous, if possible, to have at least one Malayalee Judge when questions of Malabar come up for decision. So also with reference to the Muhammadan Law. It is a very intricate law; for instance, the right of inheritance. I come from a district where there are a large number of Muhammadans—there are 10 lakhs of Muhammadans—and where the questions of partition often arise. Suit for partition is the ordinary form of suit amongst Malabar Muhammadans. As a matter of fact, the Muhammadan clients and Muhammadan lawyers have sometimes to go to Muhammadan Moulvis for determining the shares. It is a very complicated law. With reference to the shares that fall to the different persons of the kith and kin, I think that the Muhammadan law is the soundest system of jurisprudence and gives shares to persons who are in any way entitled to it. Sometimes the share may be one out of five thousand. It is a very difficult law, so that it is quite essential that for the sound administration of the Muhammadan Law, a Muhammadan should be appointed. It is altogether not correct to say—none of us is wanting in our respect to the High Court—that Muhammadan Law has not suffered, because there has not been a Muhammadan Judge. With reference to the question of competency, to which I have already referred, if a competent Muhammadan lawyer—competent in every way from experience, from learning, from wisdom, from position and from possession of commonsense—can be found in this Province, by all means let the Government appoint him; if the Government think that no such person is at present available here, let them appoint a Muhammadan from an other province. I understood the hon. the Law Member to say that because there was difference of opinion on the desirability of importing a competent Muhammadan from outside the province, a Muhammadan was not appointed. If that be the case, may I, in all humility, give my advice to the Government that it is better to have a Muhammadan Judge from outside the province than to have no Muhammadan Judge at all?"

3-45

[Mr. M. Krishnan Nayar]

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Mr. President, Sir, many points have been dealt with by the various hon. Members who have spoken on this topic. With your permission, Sir, I shall first deal with the points on which I have the misfortune to differ from some of those hon. Members who have spoken on this subject. It is suggested that, in the opinion of some of the hon. Members at least, the administration of Muhammadan Law has suffered and the elucidation of Muslim jurisprudence has been affected prejudicially on account of the absence of a Muhammadan on the High Court Bench. Sir, in my opening remarks on this debate I made it abundantly clear that in my opinion the Mussalman population in India has given birth to Mussalman jurists who can stand the strictest comparison with anybody else. But Sir, I must join issue with that statement. Those who know anything of the doctrine of Mushaa in the Muslim jurisprudence and the difficulty of that doctrine will also realise that the very best and the most erudite exposition of this most intricate doctrine was by Hindu Judges.

"The theory will not easily be admitted that a Muhammadan alone is necessary for the elucidation of the Muhammadan Law and, Sir, may I say, a thing which is perhaps known to most people that my friend Sir Tej Bahadur who has adorned the Viceroy's Executive Council is probably a finer Persian and Arabic scholar than many Moulvis who exist in India to-day. Again, there are Hindus who are adepts not only in the system of Muhammadan jurisprudence but in Persian and Arabic literature. Now, Sir, that is by the way.

"I grant the cogency and the weight of the demand, although it does not follow that a Muhammadan Judge is needed or ought to be used for deciding points of Muhammadan Law alone. But there is one matter to be borne in mind and it is from that point of view that I shall invite the attention of the hon. House to the exact wording of the motion which, I trust, will be changed. The appointment of a High Court Judge is made by His Majesty under Royal Warrant and it is made by His Majesty on the advice of the Secretary of State; and the authorities in India act merely and solely in an advisory capacity and therefore, Sir, before this motion is proceeded with, I trust it will be so altered as to make it plain that all that the House desires by this motion is to give expression to the feeling that the Mussalmans are very anxious to have proper representation of Muslims on the Bench of the High Court. That is a suggestion I throw out either to be taken or not, as the hon. Members of this House decide.

"Then, Sir, I turn to the very few remarks made by my hon. Friend from Madras. After making certain remarks which were perhaps undeservedly kind, he referred to certain appointments which His Excellency the Governor made on my recommendation and expressed the fear that there has been a falling off in our standards. Sir, His Excellency the Governor, having reference to the claims of the community, confirmed one Muhammadan gentleman as a District Judge. It is not unlikely that another Muhammadan gentleman will be confirmed as a District Judge at an early date; and in the other ranks—the lower ranks—it is perfectly clear that, whenever it is expedient and whenever possible, His Excellency the Governor has given scrupulous attention to the claims of the Muhammadan community and that is a point which I desire to make before passing away from that subject.

[20th March 1926]

"Sir, I desire to say this by way of recapitulation: in the first place, this appointment is made by His Majesty. In the second place, I agree with those who demand and insist on the highest possible talent in the holders of the highest judicial office under the Crown. In many ways, the office of a High Court Judge is superior to any other office under the Crown and indeed, as will be seen, the Chief Justice ranks in precedence next only to His Excellency the Governor. The High Court is the foundation of our rights and the palladium of justice and the Judges of the High Court ought to be exemplars of character and talent and from that point of view I wish to join issue with those who demand different standards of equipment from different members of the judiciary. The highest possible talent and equipment are required for that exalted position. In saying that, I do not for a moment say that there are not, amongst the Muhammadans of India, those who are fitted by character, by training and by erudition to fill that place. There may be temporary difficulties in one province. I take it that the feeling of a large number of persons in this House is that rather than have this important community unrepresented in the highest court of the realm, they would get a man from outside. Sir, if that be so, the feeling will be noted; and those responsible for advising His Majesty in this matter and His Excellency the Governor will take note of the feeling and sentiment of this House. Beyond that I cannot say because the appointment itself is in the gift of the Crown."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" With your permission, Sir, may I just say one word? My hon. Friend stated that the appointment is really in the hands of His Majesty and made some suggestions for changing the form of his motion. It seems to me that the motion as it stands is quite right. It is only by way of the reduction of the allotment by Rupee 1 or Rs. 100, that we can give notice of such motions. What is given in the bracket is the object of the motion: 'With a view to give expression . . .'"

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" The words in the brackets are not part of the motion itself."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" What I say is that the object of the motion is indicated by the words in the brackets and the motion can only be made for the reduction of the allotment so that it seems to me that nothing is necessary by way of change."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" The hon. the Law Member thinks that it is a token motion."

* Khan Bahadur P. KHALIF-UL-LAH SAHIB Bahadur :—" I wish to say a few words. I must certainly thank the hon. the Law Member for saying that he does not for a moment think that there are not men among my community who can fill that place with distinction and credit. At the same time what appears strange to me is, when he admits the existence of such men, why no attempt has been made so far to give that place to a Muhammadan gentleman. We have not been told that attempts were made but without success. The only natural conclusion that any one can draw from the statements made in this House so far by the hon. the Law Member is that no attempt has been made to fill that place by a properly qualified Muslim. This being so, Sir, shelter cannot be taken under the plea that there has been a difference of opinion in my community. I have already referred"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"I thought I made it sufficiently plain that a couple of years ago an attempt was made; and for obvious reasons I cannot go into more details."

* Khan Bahadur P. KHALIF-UL-LAH SAHIB Bahadur :—"I said, Sir, that a difference of opinion was referred to exist in my community. I am aware of the public meeting that was held and that some live objections were taken. But I may at once point out that it was the feeling then—and I have sounded the feeling ever since—and that the live objections came certainly from individuals and not from the community as a whole. Ever since that day I have made it a point to consult all the leading Muslims, whomsoever I met and whenever I met them, what their opinion was in this matter. Every one of them gave me to understand that they would certainly prefer a provincial man if the Government think that there is a fit and properly qualified person in the province. If the Government should come to the conclusion after due consideration that there is no person who is properly qualified to fill the place in this province with credit there is absolutely no objection from my community to import a Muslim from outside. This was done once and found satisfactory; and no objection was taken then to the invidious distinction that was made in that matter."

"Sir, it is very regrettable indeed that an hon. Member has referred to a certain feeling among the Muslims of the north. The allegation is that they look down upon the Muslims from the south as raw converts. Sir, this is the first time I have heard of such enmity on the part of my Muslim brethren from the north. If there is any community it is the Muslim community that can claim universal brotherhood and if this credit is not given to my community by an hon. Member who calls himself a Muhammadan, Sir, it is highly regrettable, at least I regret it. This credit is given by the whole world and it ought not to be left to a Member of my own community to deny it."

"So far as the question of efficiency is concerned, I have always been urging that a fit and proper person must be chosen for the place. It is not my claim that because one happens to be a Muhammadan he must be lifted."

"As a rule, Sir, the High Court Bench is one of the highest positions in the State and as such, must be filled by men of lustre, by men of illumination and eminence and certainly not by men of any ordinary merit or qualification. As such, Sir, I submit that such eminent men can be found among my community and if the Government are of opinion that such a person cannot be found within this province, my community has no objection to one being imported from outside."

"More than one Member has referred to the Muhammadan Law not being properly appreciated by the non-Muslim Judges. I am a lawyer, however humble in my profession, and I must say that I have absolutely nothing to complain about the non-Muslim Judges who have decided cases of Muslim law. They have certainly done a good deal to set the law in order and define the law that must obtain among the Muslims of this province and among the Muslims of India and even the Muslims outside India, I may go so far as to say that. The one point that I want to submit for the consideration of this House, Sir, is that it is not the mere technical side of the question, the mere mechanical understanding of the subject that I want. We can expect only a Muslim Judge to enter into the real spirit of the Muslim law, to think along with the Muslims fighting cases before him and to give a decision that will suit the natural conditions that really obtain among the Muslims. What I want to point out is only this, that a Muslim Judge would certainly do better justice to the Muslims according to their own sentiments. I think, Sir, that one and all the Members will give their support to the resolution which I have moved before the House. I would once more request that all sections in this House will join me in unanimously supporting this motion."

The motion was put to the House and carried.

Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—"Sir, I move my motion for reducing the allotment of"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"I should like to know, Sir, before my hon. Friend moves this motion whether he means to omit the whole allotment, thus stopping the work of the High Court, or whether he moves it only as a token motion."

Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—"With your permission, Sir, I would convert it into a token motion."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Yes."

Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—"I move

'to omit the allotment of Rs. 6,08,600 for Administration of Justice.'

"Sir, there is a grievance in the High Court among the various communities who are employed there that merit and seniority are not at all taken into consideration and that appointments are made according to the whims and fancies of the authorities concerned. Sir, among the interpreters, there are senior and very experienced men and also very capable men; but when an opportunity occurred to reward them, when there was a vacancy of the Chief Interpreter's place, those senior men with merit were neglected and it was given away to somebody whom the authorities liked. Then, Sir, I understand now that the gentleman who was appointed was not at all in service. When the place of the Official Referee was vacant, it was not given to those people who were in the run for it. Although there were Senior Assistant Registrars, some gentleman who was occupying—I do not mean anything personal—an Interpreter's place was transferred as Official Referee. Then, Sir, there are a number of Assistant Registrars non-Brahmins rotting as Assistant Registrars for many years. Sir, there is also another department called Law Reporting department or Law Reporting office. There, there is not a single non-Brahmin, to whatever community he may belong—Muhammadans, non-Brahmin Hindus, Christians; but there is only one community. That is a grievance. Now, Sir, there is so much of grievance among the staff employed in the High Court. I am sure our Law Member will tell us, as he has been telling us often, that the Government of Madras has no control over the High Court because, according to the Letters Patent, High Court Judges are independent of His Excellency's Government. But, Sir, should not they at least as a matter of etiquette carry out the resolutions of this Council, especially the recommendations of the Government based upon the resolutions of this Council? Sir, when they do not care for us—of course here also I must say that I have very great respect for the High Court Judges—but when they do not care for us, when they are not amenable to the persuasion of the Government, it is the duty of the Government to join with the Legislative Council. What I wanted was to delete the whole votable portion of the grant; what I meant to move was the omission of the whole votable portion. Let the High Court Judges remain because their salaries are not votable, and let us omit the allotment for the establishments and let us see what they will do with the High Court. Under such circumstances, when a community's claims are not cared for, we can as well be without the High Court and we can manage with Arbitration Courts. When there is so much grievance in the country, when people are insulted by the High Court not caring for public opinion, for the opinion of this Council representing public opinion, what is the use of allowing that High Court to work. We can be without such a High Court. Therefore, I want to see that no grant is made for the establishments. Let the High Court and the Judges remain there. Now, Sir, it is the duty of the Government—because the hon. the Law Member was often telling us that the High Court was not caring for the Government, he was telling us that the resolutions of this Council were communicated to the Members ./. .”

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—“I do not think, Sir, I ever made myself responsible, nor could I have made myself responsible for the statement or suggestion that the High Court did not care for the Government or for this Council.”

Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—“Sir, all the same the result has been this: often resolutions of this Council were communicated to the High Court. If it is not the present Law Member, the previous Law Member at least has told us that he communicated the resolutions of this Council to the High Court. I think my memory is right when I say that the late Sir K. Srinivasa Ayyangar told us that he was communicating the resolutions of this Council to the High Court and the High Court had not taken any steps towards observing them. That means that the High Court does not care for us. The result is the same whether the hon. the Law Member accepts my statement that the High Court does not care, or not. There is the fact that the High Court is not caring. So the Council can vote for this resolution and tell the High Court that what they are doing is not correct. I hope the Government in this respect will join, if I press this resolution, in voting with the Members of this Council and communicate the result to the High Court.”

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—“Mr. President, Sir, I regret I cannot join in the invitation extended to me during the close of my hon. Friend's remarks. I do not think that the Government can join him or those of his persuasion in voting this demand down and either omitting the whole allotment for the Administration of Justice or voting for it even as a token motion for many reasons. Now, Sir, I think, he is perfectly correct to this extent. He has pointed out what I had intended to point out that, under clause 8 of the Letters Patent, the power of appointing ministerial officers and of fixing their remuneration is vested in the Chief Justice of the High Court, and that the Government have no powers in this matter. Now it seems to me that when this hon. House passes resolutions, it advises the Government to do certain things. It may be that my honoured predecessor Sir K. Srinivasa Ayyangar stated on the floor of this House that he communicated certain resolutions of this House to the High Court. I may also say that I have communicated certain resolutions of this House to the High Court. But, Sir, it seems to me that there has been no case made out for the charge levelled against the High Court by the hon. Member for Madras. I do not think he has established or can establish a case of indifference in the matter to which he referred. Now, let me deal with some of these matters. He speaks of the Law Reporting Office. He knows quite well that the appointment of Law Reporters, the nomination to Law Reporterships, is vested in what is called a Council of Law Reporting, which is a body which consists of a certain number of High Court Judges, of certain law officers and of certain non-official lawyers and they forward recommendations in the matter of the appointment of the Reporters and this is how that appointment is made. With reference to the Deputy and Assistant Registrars, I am certain that my hon. Friend will realise that at the present moment Mr. Mir Amir-ud-din is the Deputy Registrar on the Original Side and Mr. P. Kandaswami is at the present moment acting as Deputy Registrar on the Appellate Side and also is the Secretary of a Committee appointed for the purpose of reorganizing the establishment of the High Court, when he realises that they are there as the two most important ministerial officers of the High Court next to the Registrar himself, will he not concede that his charge that there has been a communal preference cannot be legitimately levelled against the High Court? Sir, my hon. Friend said that if the High Court cares so little for the recommendations of this hon. House or of the Government, as according to him it does, the High Court may be abolished and Arbitration Courts may be erected in the place of the High Court. I take strong exception to that statement. I think general opinion is almost unanimous in this country that of all the benefits that have been conferred by the British system of administration, the erection of High Courts which are and ought to be above and beyond executive or legislative interference and which are the ultimate refuge of a citizen is the greatest benefit. That being so, I trust that my hon. Friend when he reflects over the matter will see to it that he will not persist in this statement about abolishing the High Court. After all, it is a difficult task they are discharging and it seems to me that remarks of this kind in a matter in which we have no jurisdiction are not calculated either to enhance the essential dignity and the prestige of the Court or to maintain that attitude of mutual co-ordination and harmony which, I am sure, the hon. Member from Madras will realise ought to subsist between the Government, the Legislative Council and the High Court.”

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—“I must apologise to the House, Mr. President, in the first place for the two frequent occasions on which I have found myself this day necessitated to address the House, solely because subjects of vast importance, subjects in which I am particularly interested, have come up too frequently somehow or other in the course of the day. I am certain, Sir, that my Friend Dr. Natesa Mudaliyar has done a great public service by the proposition that he has brought for the consideration of this House. I wish to speak with all due respect about the High Court, and I think, myself belonging to the profession of law, it will not be questioned that I yield to anyone in that respect for constituted authority, especially for legal authority, to any other Member of this House or to any outsider. I am not one of those who believe in Arbitration Courts, I am not one of those who do not realize that the system of British jurisprudence has been one of the greatest blessings which the British Government, the British connection has bestowed on us.

4-15
p.m.

"Having said that, may I not appeal to my hon. Friend the Law Member to try and feel with us, to realise to the extent that he can, that there is a running sore throughout the community at the way in which appointments are being made by the High Court? I do not wish in the slightest extent to use language of an exaggerated nature. But the hon. the Law Member must realise that this perennial complaint, that this annual ventilation of grievances, must have something more substantial at its foundation than a mere ex cathedra statement of opinions of certain hon. Members. We are not here, Sir, as I have said before, merely to give expression to personal feelings and to personal opinions. For my part I frankly confess that appointment under Government is not the highest of my ambition, nor so far as I know most members on my side of the House have that ambition. But at the same time we must realise that public appointments at the present juncture in our country have a very direct and a very important bearing on public life. And the one set of appointments more than any other which to a certain extent direct, I was about to say, control public opinion and the formation of public opinion is the judicial establishment. I do not want to go into greater details, for I am certain the hon. the Law Member realises that the situation of the judiciary has a very direct bearing on the formation of an efficient bar. I myself have been at the bar, Mr. President, and have appeared both at the High Court and in the mufassal courts. And I will say that with the utmost confidence, without the fear of any contradiction by any one who has known the system of the working of Courts in the mufassal that the constitution and the personnel of the judiciary in the mufassal has a very important bearing.

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"At present we are discussing the ministerial staff of the High Court which it is the object of this motion to reduce."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"Quite so, Mr. President, I think the power which the High Court exercises of appointing district munsifs comes within the scope of the motion."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Sir, that comes in under a separate motion and the present one relates only to the establishment of the High Court. The present motion relates to the items contained at pages 139 to 141 of the Civil Budget Estimate, such appointments as Deputy Registrars, Assistant Registrars, Bench clerks, Shorthand writers and interpreters."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"In that case, Mr. President, may I request you to permit me to move the next motion which I have given notice of and under which I certainly intend to discuss the question of the power of appointment which is vested in the High Court?"

Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR:—"Mr. President, Sir, of course the hon. the Law Member was trying to explain the state of things as regards the Assistant Registrars and I thank him very much for giving out the names of two members of our community that are occupying the place of Deputy Registrars. May I request him to explain also why the Interpreters in the High Court were not given preference when the Chief Interpreter's place fell vacant, why the place of Official Referee was not given to one of the Assistant Registrars of the High Court or to any non-Brahman gentlemen from the many High Court Vakils in the City. The hon. the Law Member said that the office of the Law Reporter was entrusted to a Council consisting of High Court Judges among others. I should like to know why the High Court Judges did not consider the claims of any non-Brahman available for the place.

"Sir, communal representation is not a new idea. So long ago as 1819 when deciding the case of a temple in Triplicane the High Court consisting of European Judges decided that the three dharmakartas should be of three different communities and not of the same community. Even the present High Court Judges, Indians—I have very great respect for them—went to the length of giving reservation for minority communities. They reserved one seat for a Brahman dharmakarta, one for a Komati and a third one for all the non-Brahman communities. While the High Court Judges realised the necessity for communal representation in temples, why should they not go the length of recognising it in the cases of the various offices in the very temple of justice. As for the learned Judges of the High Court, I have got the greatest respect for them. I am convinced that the High Court is the highest tribunal where we get the best of benefits. With all that, I should say that, so far as communal representation is concerned, I am sorry they are spiting us, spiting the whole Council."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"I do not think the hon. Member is justified in using that term in regard to the High Court. I am sure he realises that the High Court to which he attaches so much dignity and prestige will treat the resolution with the respect that it deserves."

Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR:—"I have already said, Sir, that I have got very great respect for the Indian members taking their seat there. But when I said they are spiting, I meant only that they were ignoring us."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"There is a world of difference between spiting and ignoring."

Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR:—"May I request the hon. the Law Member to persuade the High Court to see that there is no destruction of this kind as to the persons employed in the High Court especially the Interpreters and the Assistant Registrars?"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Sir, I am glad to have the opportunity of meeting the specific points made by my hon. Friend. I must in the first place point out that speaking personally—and I have never made a secret of my feeling in that matter—I should be glad that every community is represented both in the High Court and the establishment of the High Court, but I cannot possibly subscribe to the doctrine that each office and sub-office must be taken and the doctrine should be applied to each one. Nevertheless, even doing so, my hon. Friend spoke of the Official Referee. Who was the first Official Referee? Mr. Masillamani Pillai. The next was Mr. Hakim. The third was a Brahman gentleman. I have given my views on the appointment of Official Referee and I have stated, Sir, that many lawyers think, and I am one of them, that the Official Referee must if possible be recruited from the ranks of the bar. That has been my view. But as I have said the right of appointment is vested in the hon. the Chief Justice. He has chosen that person and presumably exercised a right choice."

[Sir C. P. Ramaswami Ayyar] [20th March 1926]

And it seems to me that having regard to the history of this particular office, it cannot be said of the High Court that they have been biased in any particular manner or desired either to spite or prejudice the claims of any community. My hon. Friend spoke of the Chief Interpreter. My hon. Friend knows quite well that there have been all communities represented in that office and it cannot be said that in the interpreters staff also there was any ignoring of any community's claim. All that I desire to say now is that this is a matter in which I hope and trust that the High Court will pay adequate attention to the resolutions of this Council, but we must also realize that the power of appointment is vested in them and we must give them credit for acting on the highest of principles that commends itself to them. It seems to me that it is not wise, it is not right, it is not, I would almost say, legitimate in a matter in which we have no statutory or other right, to interfere beyond giving advice.

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—" Mr. President, I move 'that the allotment of Rs. 6,03,600 for High Court be reduced by Rs. 1,00,000.'

"Mr. President, in the first place, let me make out that my motion is more than a token motion. Before I resumed my seat while speaking before, I was trying to point out to this House the importance of having a judiciary in the mufassal especially which would conduce to the formation of a healthy and diverse bar in the mufassal. I was pointing out, Sir, that during the last five years we have been repeatedly emphasising particularly this point about the judiciary, because we realize that the situation of the judiciary is unique, unparalleled, is something which has a very direct effect on the political development of the country."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" I wish to point out, Sir, that the hon. Member from Chingleput is speaking of the mufassal judiciary in a motion relating to the establishment of the High Court."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—" Sir, my point is this, that it is the High Court that appoints a portion of the mufassal judiciary."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Yes, but the allotment is intended for the ministerial staff of the High Court and the hon. Member should have spoken on the motion of Mr. Khalif-ul-lah or on a later motion relating to the mufassal judiciary."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—" My point is merely this. I did not want to take the non-voted amount and to move for a reduction. I shall not say, however, that this is intended merely as a token motion."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" He can then move the next motion."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—" That relates to the staff of the High Court also, and if you are of opinion that this comes under that, I shall accordingly do so."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" May I suggest a course? Motion No. 408 on the paper deals directly with the question of the Munsifs and Sub-Judges, and I think my hon. Friend may be allowed to speak on it."

[20th March 1926]

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" But the hon. Member in whose name that motion stands is not here."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—" In that case, Sir, I shall move motion No. 397 on the paper,

'to reduce the allotment of Rs. 6,08,600 for High Court by Rs. 100.'

"I do so on the understanding that I can make my speech with regard to the mufassal judiciary when motion No. 408 on the paper comes before the House. I propose to confine at present to the object stated here, namely, the discussion of the strength of the High Court and its staff."

"Mr. President, this House is quite aware of the discussion that we had at this time last year regarding the strength of the High Court. The decision which this House came to that the strength must be reduced should be fresh in the minds of hon. Members; and it will also be remembered that His Excellency the Governor in virtue of the prerogative conferred upon him thought it fit to certify the grant and restore the allotment disallowed by this House. Later on, His Excellency the Governor in the remarks when he addressed this House when it next met in August, stated as follows :—

"A press communiqué has been recently published regarding the expiration of the term of office of two additional Judges appointed to the Madras High Court and it is unnecessary to reiterate the grounds on which the Government have felt themselves obliged, in the interests of the public, to continue the two appointments till the end of February 1926. My Government trust that the congestion of the work in the highest Court in the Presidency is only a temporary feature and, before this period expires, it will be possible to secure disposal of old cases, the pendency of which has caused the hon. Judges much concern. Hon. Members will doubtless have noticed that the action taken has been on lines contemplated and indeed suggested by the Civil Justice Committee."

"That was in short the history of the case as regards temporary High Court Judges. Most of us expected that when the end of February came, the necessity for the temporary Judges would be over. But contrary to our expectations we find that the budget that has been presented now by the Finance Member makes provision for them and I take it for the entire period of one year."

"Now, Sir, I have a complaint to make, and I use the word advisedly on this matter so far as the hon. the Law Member is concerned. He knows very well the debate that we had on the last occasion. He knows that the House came practically to a unanimous decision on the point of the strength of the High Court, and, as I told you just now, he knows also the action that he advised His Excellency to take in the matter, and His Excellency stated that very probably in February 1926 the further necessity for continuing these Judges may not arise. Now here we find that an item of expenditure is smuggled into the budget without giving the slightest opportunity for this House to come to a decision on the point. I should have thought it was fairer to this House to have come by way of a resolution, to have told the House the circumstances under which it was necessary to increase the strength of the High Court or continue the existing strength, to have placed before us some statistics, to have told us the disposals already made and the possibilities of making further disposals if the appointments are continued, and he should have told us the period for which he expected these temporary Judges are to be continued. It is only on a stray motion like mine that we have an opportunity of asking the hon. the Law Member to elucidate the matter if he is prepared to give us the elucidation this evening and to what the reasons are that influenced the Government now to come to the conclusion that for one year more these temporary Judges are required. I saw a paragraph in a daily quite recently. I do not know how far there is any justification for what was contained in that paragraph. I saw a paragraph in a paper which generally publishes news of an authentic character and which is supposed to have sources of inspiration denied to others that it is possible.

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"Would the hon. Member be a little more explicit? It is a very difficult thing for hon. Members on the Treasury Bench to deal with such an innuendo."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"I did not make use of any innuendo, Sir. I am sorry that he has so grossly misunderstood me; after his experience of me in this House, he should have known that I do not make use of innuendos. The Madras Mail, Sir, . . ."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"If the hon. Member had stated that it was the Madras Mail, it would have been helpful. In fact we did not know what he was referring to; to refer to it as 'a newspaper' does not help us to any extent to answer a discussion on that subject."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"I was only objecting to the word 'innuendo' he used. If the bare mention of the Madras Mail removes that innuendo, I have no quarrel with the hon. the Finance Member. The Madras Mail, Sir, published, I think, two or three days ago a paragraph that these temporary Judges would only sit there till about the end of September."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"The Madras Mail published a copy of the order passed by His Excellency the Governor-General in Council."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"I am glad, Sir, that the Madras Mail at least has an earlier source of supply of information than the hon. Members of this House who are expected to pass budget demands."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"There was a communiqué addressed from Delhi. It was the communiqué of the Government of India regarding this matter."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"Now, Sir, when was this decision arrived at? Not certainly at the time when the budget allotment was made. If, as I am relieved to find, it is a fact that the temporary Judges would be continued only till October, why then does the hon. the Law Member make this motion? Why does he not reduce the provision by six months salary? Will he have his motion amended now by a reduction of Rs. 48,000? That would be the fairest course. Why does he want the full amount of Rs. 96,000? Will he permit me to move that the allotment be reduced by Rs. 48,000? According to his own arguments and according to what he has stated now the Government of India have decided, presumably with the consent of the Local Government, that the temporary Judges will be continued only till the 1st of October. I think it is only fair that he should in the circumstances move or allow these motions to be amended by a reduction of Rs. 48,000. There are innumerable precedents for such a course. When the Government have decided that a certain item of expenditure introduced in a budget was not necessary, they have taken care to say that before the motion is made they reduced their provision by a corresponding amount. I trust that the hon. the Law Member after the statement that he has chosen to make this evening will see his way to amend his own motion by reducing it by Rs. 48,000. There is no purpose in having a sum of Rs. 96,000 voted by this House and passed into the budget. I think it is only fair to the House to have it reduced by Rs. 48,000. If the Government have come to the conclusion that it is only until the 1st October that these temporary Judges are to be continued, I do not want to pursue the matter in order to raise any further debate over the appointment of these temporary Judges.

"I have referred to the question of the staff also in my motion. I just want to understand why the number of deputy registrars is increased from two to three. I do not know who the three deputy registrars are. I understand there is one deputy registrar for the appellate side, and one for the original side. But who is the deputy registrar who is neither on the original nor on the appellate side? I should like to have information also on that point."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Sir, the facts are obvious. I think I must now take the House through the figures relating to the justification for the extension of the term of the High Court Judges, but before I do so, let me point out two matters. The Local Government is entitled to extend the term of High Court Judges only for a maximum period of two years. The two years expire on the 19th October 1926, and therefore it is not within the competence or power of the Local Government to extend the term of the temporary Judges beyond the 19th October 1926. But the Government of India Act provides that every appointment of a temporary Judge should be made by His Excellency the Governor-General in Council. Whereas therefore the Local Government can come to a conclusion up to when they want these temporary Judges to function and to what period their term should be extended, the actual appointment of the Judges is made by His Excellency the Governor-General in Council. His Excellency the Governor-General in Council has therefore appointed the two additional Judges and asked them to continue until the 19th October 1926 when the power both of the Governor-General in Council and of the Local Government in that matter lapses. If any further necessity be felt—I cannot at the present moment say without seeing what the work of the High Court is and what they will do in the interim—such necessity will be represented to the Right Hon. the Secretary of State and the further appointments are solely under the control of the Secretary of State."

* The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—"Further temporary appointments or permanent appointments?"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Both. It is not open to any Government in India to appoint temporary Judges for a longer period than two years. Then the Secretary of State must function. Of course, he will function after knowing all the facts of the case. But the necessity has not yet arisen. We do not at the present moment proceed on the basis of such a necessity. But, Sir, there is no cause for any quarrel with the procedure adopted for the reason that before the budget was voted upon the term of the additional Judges would have expired; it did expire, and therefore it was necessary for the Government to come to a conclusion on that matter and they did come to a conclusion on the following data.

"Now, Sir, in the matter of Civil appeals, 542 first appeals were ready on the 1st November 1925, and 753 more were getting ready though not quite ready, and so the total pendency on the 1st November 1925 was 1,295. Original Side and City Civil Court appeals were about 176; second appeals ready were 1,705, not ready 1,468, and the total was 3,173. Now, this being so, we have first appeals pending to the extent of 542, Original Side appeals and City Civil Court appeals to the extent of about 200, and second appeals to the extent of 1,705. All other figures are more or less on the same footing. Civil revision petitions were 695, civil miscellaneous petitions 504 and so forth. In view of these figures, we came to the conclusion that the first duty of the Government was to see that these arrears were disposed of. It may be asked 'How do you expect these arrears to be disposed of?' We were satisfied on a perusal of the figures relating to the work turned out by the Judges that they have been working at very high pressure and have been endeavouring their best to get through these arrears, and have passed special rules in order to facilitate them in getting through these arrears, and they have been very successful in their efforts. It is because we thought that the continuance would lead to the successful grappling with these arrears and to a disposal of them that we arrived at that decision, and I submit there is no ground to quarrel with us as to this matter. Now, Sir, another remark was made."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"May we have some figures with regard to that Government decision, as to what was the number of cases disposed of when there were twelve Judges, and what was the number now at the present strength?"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Oh! Yes. I shall give a comparative statement of the works on the Appellate Side and then on the Original Side before the additional Judges were appointed, and then for the subsequent period—

Appeals pending on the 1st November 1924 were ...	1,302
Institutions from 1st November 1924 to 1st November 1925.	444

Total was ...	1,746
---------------	-------

Disposal from 1st November 1924 to 1st November 1925.	451
---	-----

"Therefore, the disposal out-paced the institution and they have reduced the pendency to a certain extent. The comparative statistics during the period 1923, 1924 and 1925 are these—

Institutions in 1923 ...	470
Do. in 1924 ...	469
Do. in the first three quarters of 1925 ...	308
Expected institution for 1925 ...	400
Disposals in 1923 ...	214
Do. in 1924 ...	385
Do. in for the first three quarters of 1925 ...	375

[20th March 1926] [Sir C. P. Ramaswami Ayyar]

"So that it will be seen that so far as disposals were concerned, in 1923 they were 214, in 1924 they were 385, and in the first three quarters of 1925 they were 375. Similarly, in regard to Original Side appeals and City Civil Court appeals, the disposals were—

In 1923 ...	106

and so forth.

Second appeals.

Disposals in 1923 ...	770
Do. in 1924 ...	1,782
Do. in the first three quarters of 1925 ...	1,193

Civil revision petitions.

Disposals in 1923 ...	873
Do. in 1924 ...	1,009
Do. in the first three quarters of 1925 ...	846

It seems to me, Sir, that in regard to the most important cases of appeals, namely, second appeals and first appeals, the disposals were in 1923, 214, and in 1924, 385 in the case of the former. Similarly, in the case of second appeals, the disposals in 1923 were 770 and in 1924, 1,782. Surely it cannot but be stated that the addition led to salutary results."

* The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—"Is this large percentage of disposals in recent years due to the addition of two Judges?"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Not only that; it has been also due to a revision of the rules by which, so far as second appeals are concerned, they are first posted before one Judge, and thus there is more man-power available for the disposal of the second appeals. The Judge finds out whether it is necessary that the case should go before a Bench. If he thinks there is no point of law involved, he will dispose of it himself. If he thinks there is a point of law involved in the case, he refers it to a Bench. I must say it may not be legitimate to argue that the increase of Judges has itself produced the whole of the result in regard to second appeals."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"Why did the hon. the Law Member require the allotment for the whole year when the temporary Judges are required only till October? Is it with the idea of invoking the jurisdiction of the Secretary of State to continue the appointments after October? Is it the real idea with which this provision has been made, i.e., with reference to a contingency the possibility of which they could not have already foreseen?"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"The point is this. The salary of the High Court Judges, as hon. Members know, is non-votable. As to the question of establishment, we could not arrive at the figures based on the disbanding of the establishment without further adjustments being made. When the adjustments are made, then the changes in the establishment will be made. It does not follow that because there are 12/14 of the High Court Judges after the 19th October there will be 12/14 of the establishment. The salary of the High Court Judges is put in not with a view to prejudging the question. We have not made up our minds nor have we applied our minds to the question."

that there is no Muhammadan in this province fit to hold the office of the High Court Judge is correct, there is at least this alternative of appointing a Muhammadan fit enough to hold the office of the Advocate-General. I hope the hon. the Law Member will investigate into the matter farther and recommend to His Excellency the feasibility of appointing a Muhammadan to this office.

"Secondly, as regards the question of the Legal Remembrancer, the hon. the Law Member has several times promised on the floor of this House that he is going to appoint a Legal Remembrancer in order to help the non-official members of this Council by giving them legal advice in regard to non-official Bills that are introduced in this Council. This system has been working well in other Presidencies like Bombay. Moreover the number of non-official Bills that are now being introduced is also great. The members will have a true guidance from this officer. If there is such an officer as the Legal Remembrancer, he will not only be an advice-giving officer to the President but he will also give advice to the non-official members. I understand that the Government have for some time past appointed an advisory committee to help the hon. the President in the matter of legal advice."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"Order, order. The Government has not proposed any advisory committee to advise me."

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB:—"I think so."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"Not that I am aware of."

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB:—"I think, Sir, Government have appointed some members of this House as a standing committee in order to give legal advice."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"I may tell my hon. Friend that he may dismiss any idea of the standing committee from his mind for the moment."

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB:—"I wanted to say that such an idea was at least in the mind of the Government. An attempt was made but it has been given up. I therefore urge upon the Government the necessity of appointing such an officer to help the non-official members in the matter of non-official Bills."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Mr. President, Sir, I shall first deal with the question of the Advocate-General. Like the High Court Judge the Advocate-General is appointed by His Majesty by a Royal warrant or Letters Patent. It seems to me that the question moreover does not really arise when there is a permanent Advocate-General acting as temporary Judge of the High Court."

"Now, the other point is as to the Legal Remembrancer. Now, Sir, there is some misapprehension as to what has been done with regard to the advice to be tendered to the hon. the President in matters legal. There was no standing committee of this House appointed for that purpose. Some hon. Members raised the point whether there should be a standing counsel to the hon. the President. A meeting was held at which it was left open to the hon. the President to choose such legal advice as he may deem necessary from time to time. What is called a Legal Remembrancer is quite a different official. There is a Legal Remembrancer in Bombay, and I think he is paid more than our Advocate-General. There is also a Legal Remembrancer in the United Provinces and Bengal. The function of the Legal Remembrancer is really that of the Law Department here, that is, he is a full-time official who advises firstly the various departments of Government on questions of law which are not so very complicated as to be referred to the Advocate-General either on account of their comparative pettiness or on account of their being merely of a routine character, viz., the Statutory Rules, formulation of orders and so forth, and he is in charge also of the scrutiny of orders passed by the various departments and sees if they are within the law and not ultra vires."

* The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"Is Legal Remembrancer a part of the High Court establishment? Otherwise how could we discuss it under this demand?"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"The Advocate-General is for budget purposes part of the High Court. Generally, as we are discussing the administration of law, I take it that it is permitted to discuss the Legal Remembrancer also. As a Legal Remembrancer has been suggested more than once on the floor of this House, some time ago the Government considered the position but did not arrive at any decision. I shall bear in mind what has fallen from the hon. Member in the course of the discussion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB:—"I move

'to reduce the allotment of Rs. 3,72,900 for Law Officers by Rs. 100.'

"This is merely for eliciting information as to the move made by the Government in order to appoint an officer to frame rules in accordance with the suggestions made by the Civil Justice Committee, and in order to give effect to the other recommendations of that Committee. If the hon. the Law Member makes a statement on the matter, I will be satisfied."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Mr. President, Sir, in regard to this matter, the Civil Justice Committee have made a large number of recommendations. The files relating to those recommendations are those which I hold in my hands. On certain recommendations, the High Court is taking the necessary action. Some of the recommendations are being referred to the Rules Committee of the High Court, which has been statutorily constituted. Others are being referred to a sub-committee appointed by the High Court. In certain other cases, the Government have approved the action suggested by the High Court, and draft rules have to be framed by it, and approved by the Government. Some of the recommendations have been carried out. Some of the recommendations have been given effect to even prior to the receipt of the report of the Civil Justice Committee as a result of the recommendations of what is called the Judicial Retrenchment Committee. It may be necessary in the course of working out these recommendations of the Civil Justice Committee to appoint a special officer to frame certain rules. If it becomes necessary, the Government will consider that possibility."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"I move

'to reduce the allotment of Rs. 34,500 for City Civil Court by Rs. 1,000.'

[Mr. T. M. Narasimbacharlu] [20th March 1926]

"In moving this motion, I wish to know in this connexion whether it is not possible to increase the number of City Civil Court Judges and reduce the number of High Court Judges by transferring business, or by making proper amendments to the existing law whether it is not possible to reduce the business of the High Court and transfer it to the City Civil Court and thus reduce the number of High Court Judges."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"I may say at once that this a matter on which the profession that may be said to be naturally interested as well as the mercantile and other communities in Madras ought to be consulted. It is not a new question at all. The question has arisen in connexion with the question of the reduction of the number of the High Court Judges. We collected opinion on this point, and as a matter of fact, it has been found that the commercial community and others that resort to the High Court are not keen on this matter, and at present the Government find from the statistics of suits that practically no real advantage will accrue from this course because in any case a number of appeals from the City Civil Court will have to be tried by High Court Judges. It has been found that the number of appeals from the original side of the High Court is less than the number of appeals from the City Civil Court."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"The time allotted for the discussion of this demand being over, I shall put this demand to the vote."

Demand XIII for Rs. 54.84 lakhs less Rs. 100 (on motion re appointment of Muhammadan Judges) was then put and carried, and the Grant was made.

The House then adjourned to meet again at 11 o'clock on Monday, the 22nd March 1926.

REPORT.

The accident happened at mile 246-10 and 11 of the District Board Railway, Mayavaram to Arantangi, in the limits of Inam Nattambalpuram village, at about half past midnight on the 11th December. The permanent way had been washed out by an accumulation of storm water that overtopped the line at this place, and the train consisting of an engine and seven bogies ran into the wash-out, the engine capsized, and three of the coaches telescoped. At the time of my inquiry, 22nd, the wreckage and debris had been completely cleared and the line restored.

Seven men and one child were killed at the accident, one man died from his injuries in hospital, seven persons were so severely injured as to require hospital treatment, thirteen were only injured slightly, and were treated on the spot by the local surgeon. The rest of the passengers, the number of whom is not known, left the train at once. I was unable to obtain even an approximate estimate of the number of persons on the train, but it appears that it was almost empty.

There is no reason to suspect any wilful damage. The scouring of the track was due to natural causes. I am further of opinion that none of the train staff or the Permanent Way staff is guilty of culpable negligence. The way had been kept in good running order and was regularly petrolled. This section had been petrolled as usual that night and found to be in order. The section beyond Pattukkottai railway station had also been patrolled, and found to be breached. I think there is no doubt that the wash-out took place after the patrolman had passed. Hence the train was allowed to proceed from Adirampatnam in the ordinary course.

I have next to consider whether there is any reason to suppose rash driving. The train left Adirampatnam at 12-18, and was making up time, being late. Time of the accident in the first report is said to be unknown. It is now said to be 12-38, but the guard of the train puts it at 12-30 a.m. The distance from Adirampatnam is nearly 7 miles, and if the guard's version is correct, the train must have run at over 35 miles per hour. But I do not consider that to be a dangerous speed on a properly laid track. I have not myself timed the running of trains on this railway, but I have had occasion to notice what appeared to be quite fast running, and making up time, without accident. I am surprised to find that the night trains run without any powerful search-lights on the engines. However, the engine driver is not responsible for that omission, and in the circumstances, as he cannot see the track or any obstacles that may be in the way, he is perfectly justified in assuming it to be all right. I therefore conclude no blame to attach to the engine driver.

Medical aid was rendered by Captain Chidambaram, the local surgeon and his staff, who arrived with the Police with lamps on motor buses kindly arranged by the Union Chairman about 3-30 a.m. Till then, the guard, the Permanent Way Inspector and the station staff had done what they could in the way of first aid.

So far as I have been able to ascertain the damage was caused solely by surface water. Though several tanks were breached near Pattukkottai, none of them affected this section of the railway line. The line runs here along the catchment of three yendals. Of these, two have definite feeder channels, to which the railway line has allowed small culverts, the third, at the site of the breaches, has no apparent channel, and there is no culvert to pass the storm water across the line. The lie of the ground is such that the water flowed rapidly as soon as it surmounted the line, and as the site is also a low dip between two gradients, I consider the omission of a storm waterway here to have been a fault in the design. It is admitted that the line has not breached here before, but Pattukkottai is sheltered from the north-east monsoon. The storm that caused the breaches was from a depression in the south, normally associated with heavy and sudden showers. As the land has been all taken up for dry crops, any moderate rainfall would be retained on the fields, and only rains heavy enough to overtop the field ridges will flow off as drainage. I consider, that, if the railway line allowed proper waterways, it would not probably breach, but I must also observe that this railway (the property I believe of the District Board) is of very light construction, though neatly kept. I consider that it ought to be raised at least to the standard of the South Indian Railway branch from Tanjore to Negapatam. The waterways could be increased at the same time. The mere fact that there were several other breaches at the same time, though none resulted in accidents, shows the inadequacy of the permanent way. I consider that very great credit is due to the South Indian Railway in managing to run the line and to carry the night passenger traffic over it, with accidents so rarely.

Besides the Railway staff, the Police, the local officials and the Surgeon, I understand that the following persons rendered timely and valuable aid :—

M. Ramaswami Pillai, Boy Scout.

Somasundaram, son of Subba Chetti.

Deva Asirvadam Pillai.

Ramanathan Chetti, son of Govindaswami Chetti.

The Health Officer, Pattukkottai, and Vaccinator Krishna Ayyar.

I

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Order made by the President of the Madras Legislative Council under Standing Order No. 15 on the 4th December 1924.]

1. Starred questions to be put at a meeting of the Council with their answers shall be printed and placed on the Council table an hour before the President takes his seat.

The Secretary shall call out the name of each interpellator in the order in which the names are printed, specify the serial number of his question and make a sufficient pause to give him or any other member a reasonable opportunity of rising in his place and putting a supplementary question. Supplementary questions must be put immediately after the principal questions to which they relate.

2. If a member responsible for a starred question happens to be absent when it is called, it will be open either to him or to any other member to put supplemental questions thereon after the other starred questions for the day have been answered, provided question-time is not thereby exceeded.

3. Questions, not starred, will not be called in Council, but they will be printed with their answers and placed on the table of the House along with the list of starred questions. Oral supplementary questions will not be allowed in regard to unstarred questions.]

STARRED QUESTIONS.

Irrigation.

Levy of water-rate for lands irrigated under the Mettur scheme.

* 1703 Q.—MR. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Law Member and the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that a water-rate of Rs. 15 per acre has been fixed for the area to be newly irrigated in Tanjore district under the Mettur scheme;

(b) whether any ryots have agreed in writing to pay the water-rate so fixed and, if so, ryots of which villages and when those agreements were given;

(c) whether it is a fact that during the recent tour of the hon. the Law Member in the Tanjore district, many ryots expressed their unwillingness to pay the water-rate of Rs. 15 per acre; and

(d) whether any memorials have been received by the Government or the hon. the Law Member either for or against the levy of such a water-rate?

A.—(a) Rs. 15 is the rate proposed. It has not been finally settled.

(b) No.

(c) No ryot declined to pay Rs. 15. Every one was anxious that it should be fixed at a lower rate, but they were told that it was not possible as our calculations were made on the basis of Rs. 15.

(d) No.

Acquisition of lands submerged under the Mettur Reservoir scheme.

* 1704 Q.—MR. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) how many deputy collectors have been appointed in Salem and Coimbatore districts for acquiring lands and houses to be submerged under the Mettur Reservoir scheme;

[22nd March 1926]

(b) whether there is any intention of appointing any more deputy collectors for acquisition in those districts;

(c) when the acquisition work is expected to be over in those two districts; and

(d) whether the Government have come to any decision on the request of the people concerned that they may be given at once the prices of lands and houses and permitted to be in possession of them for about two years so that they may be able to get new lands and houses?

A.—(a) Four.

(b) Not at present.

(c) It is not possible to say: but probably not before the end of 1928.

(d) The Government have laid down the general policy that acquisition should as far as possible keep a year ahead of construction, that is to say, that it should be arranged that awards are passed about a year before the lands in question will actually have to be occupied by the Public Works officers. This should give persons who are to be turned out of their houses sufficient time in most cases to make their arrangements. The Special Collector in charge of acquisition has also been instructed to allow persons to continue to hold their lands or houses on reasonable rental for longer periods after acquisition in deserving cases.

Help to people whose lands are acquired for the Mettur project.

* 1705 Q.—MR. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Law Member and the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether any help is being rendered to the people whose lands and houses are being acquired for the Mettur project in getting lands for cultivation;

(b) whether the Government have under consideration or propose to consider the advisability of disafforesting a portion of the reserved forest near the villages to be acquired;

(c) whether the houses and lands in and near Mettur required for building purposes, etc., below the proposed dam have been acquired and taken possession of by the Government; and

(d) whether the Government have any information as to where the owners of those houses and lands have gone and whether they have been helped by the Government in any way in getting new lands and house-sites?

A.—The hon. Member will find most of the information for which he asks, in the report of the Special Collector, Mr. Srinivasachari, which is being laid on the table.

Mr. Hawkins' report on Upper and Lower Bhavani projects.

* 1706 Q.—MR. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state the orders passed by the Government on Mr. Hawkins' report No. 2591/25-B-1, dated 5th August 1925, regarding Upper and Lower Bhavani projects?

[22nd March 1926]

A.—No orders have yet been passed on the scheme. The hon. Member is referred to the answer given to Mr. C. V. Venkataramana Ayyangar's question No. 1691.

Memorial from the ryots of Odugathur valley.

* 1707 Q.—Mr. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Government have received a memorial from the ryots of Odugathur valley in the taluk of Vellore, North Arcot district;

(b) whether it is a fact that as stated in the memorial the situation of the ridges and the sloping of the locality is such that by putting up a dam about 4,000 acres of land now registered as dry can be converted to wet ayacut;

(c) whether reports have been received from Government officers before or after the receipt of the memorial and, if so, whether they are for or against the scheme; and

(d) whether the Government have called for any reports from its subordinates regarding this matter and at what stage the question is now?

A.—The hon. Member is referred to the answer to the question on this subject put by Mr. Pantulu Ayyar.

Licences.

Restrictions on licences to dramatic companies.

* 1708 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Law Member and the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether in issuing licence for enacting dramas by different dramatic companies in several theatrical halls any restrictions are imposed to the effect that no objectionable part in the drama should be enacted with a view to wound the feelings of any community during their performance;

(b) all the conditions which the municipalities, local boards and the police in their respective jurisdictions impose while issuing licences for enacting dramas by different dramatic companies; and

(c) if the Government have no information, whether they will be pleased to call for the information?

A.—(a) Licences are not required for enacting dramas except in the three districts of Guntur, Kistna and West Godavari where section 10 of the Dramatic Performances Act, 1876, is in force. In these districts the District Magistrates refuse licences for the performance of dramas that they consider likely to wound the feelings of any community.

(b) Municipalities, local boards and the Police do not issue licences for enacting dramas. In Madras one of the conditions subject to which licences are issued by the Commissioner of Police under the Madras City Police Act, 1888, for places of public resort or entertainment is that he shall have power to prohibit any performance which, in his judgment, does not conform to the requirements of decency or is likely to lead to disorder.

22nd March 1926

Similar licences issued by municipalities under the Places of Public Resort Act, 1888, prescribe only certain conditions in the interest of the health and safety of the public.

(c) Does not arise.

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"With reference to clause (a), may I know whether there is any list of such dramas that are likely to wound the feelings of any community such as 'Dambachari Vilasam' or 'Nandanar Charitram'?"

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"I am afraid my hon. Friend is making a mistake; it is not dramatic performances like Nandanar and Dambachari that were in view. There was a play called Roshanara in which a character was introduced, namely, Aurangzeb's daughter who was supposed to make love to a Rajput prince. Certain passages in regard to it were such that Muhammadans took strong objection to it as reflecting upon the Muhammadan community. The dramas that are referred to are those that are likely to rouse feelings of hostility between the two communities on account of improper statements or allusions."

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"Was that one of mere history or fiction?"

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"That is a very difficult matter. On the one side it was asserted as history and on the other as fiction."

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"May I know whether any time-limit is observed, from public health point of view, till 3 o'clock or 4 o'clock in the morning?"

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"No one is bound to go to these performances."

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Or to stay there, Sir." (Laughter.)

Marine.

Maintenance of launches by the Cochin Port Trust.

* 1709 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) what is the annual expenditure incurred by the Cochin Port Trust over maintaining launches and for what purposes the launches are used;

(b) whether they are used for excursions or picnic parties; and

(c) whether persons other than the officers and staff are conveyed in these launches and, if so, who and why?

A.—(a) The expenditure incurred during the current year (up to the end of February 1926) on the maintenance of the Motor launch purchased by the Cochin Port Fund in 1925 comes to Rs. 2,500 including cost of a covered shed, establishment charges, stores, etc. The maintenance charges of the launch at Cochin under the control of the Harbour Engineering Department have been as follows:—

RS.			RS.
1920-21	...	3,177	1923-24	...	3,337
1921-22	...	4,918*	1924-25	...	3,286
1922-23	...	3,204

* Includes the cost of replacing the old engine.

[22nd March 1926]

The launches are used for port purposes and for the use of Government officials.

(b) & (c) No.

State Prisoners.

Release of M. P. Narayana Menon.

* 1710 Q.—Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Government have received resolutions passed by public meetings in many parts of Malabar praying for the release of M. P. Narayana Menon who was convicted by the Special Tribunal for the trial of offences committed during the Mappilla rebellion of 1921 as an act of mercy; and

(b) whether the Government intend releasing Narayana Menon?

A.—(a) Yes.

(b) No.

Public Service.

Graded pay system in the Police Department.

* 1711 Q.—Mr. G. RAMESWARA RAO: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue, the hon. the Law Member and the hon. the Member for Finance be pleased to state—

(a) whether the time-scale pay system has been replaced by the graded system in the Police Department and, if so, to what extent;

(b) the reasons which led to the change introduced;

(c) how far the reasons apply to other departments of public service; and

(d) whether it is proposed to introduce the same change in other departments as well?

A.—(a) The time-scale of pay has been replaced by the graded system in the cases of Sub-Inspectors of Police in the mufassal and Sergeants in the Madras City Police. It is also proposed to introduce a graded system of pay for City Sub-Inspectors.

(b) Sub-Inspectors.—The change was made on the recommendation of the Police Committee of 1923. It was considered that a graded system of pay was more appropriate to Sub-Inspectors than a time-scale, as the latter cannot be suitably applied to a cadre of officers, who, as is the case with Sub-Inspectors, are of very unequal merit and efficiency. It was considered essential that it should be possible to reward the best and most efficient workers by promotion and at the same time prevent the unsatisfactory officers from receiving more pay than they deserve. Applied to Sub-Inspectors, the time-scale had a deadening effect, whereas the hope of promotion is likely to afford a stimulus to good work.

Sergeants.—It was found difficult to interchange Sergeants in the City and in the mufassal, as the former were on a time-scale and the latter on a graded system. With a view to overcome this administrative difficulty, Sergeants in the City Police were also put on a graded system.

[22nd March 1926]

(c) Complaints are sometimes made that the change from a graded system of pay to a time-scale of pay has led to loss of efficiency.

(d) There is no such general proposal under consideration by the Government.

Land Revenue.

Introduction of the Land Revenue Bill.

* 1712 Q.—Mr. P. ANJANEYULU: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state whether and when the Government propose to introduce the Land Revenue Bill in the present Council?

A.—The hon. Member is referred to the answer to question No. 1522.

Non-gazetted Officers.

Committee to inquire into the grievances of non-gazetted officers.

* 1713 Q.—Mr. C. RAMALINGA REDDI: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state what action the Government have taken on the resolution of the Council recommending the appointment of a committee to inquire into the grievances of non-gazetted officers?

A.—The hon. Member is referred to item (14) in Appendix VI (on page 547) to the Proceedings of the Legislative Council, 21st August 1925 (Volume XXIV, No. 4).

Criminal Tribes.

Registration of persons under the Criminal Tribes Act.

* 1714 Q.—Mr. G. RAMESWARA RAO: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether peace-loving and honest persons are registered under the Criminal Tribes Act merely because they belong to a particular class or caste;

(b) whether persons owning lands, cattle and sheep are obliged to sleep in a distant police station away from their lands and animals for 20 days in the month;

(c) whether the persons aggrieved by such harsh treatment have complained of their hardships;

(d) on what basis or principle persons who are never convicted nor even suspected are registered under the Criminal Tribes Act;

(e) what safeguards are taken by the Government to protect the house and property including standing crops and cattle of the registered persons during their compulsory detention in a distant police station miles away; and

(f) whether the Government have enquired into the question of the hardships caused to the registered persons by their being compelled to walk all the distance from their residence to a distant police station and spend the whole night there?

[22nd March 1926]

A.—(a) & (d) The registration of individual members of a tribe which has been notified as a criminal tribe is left to the discretion of the District Magistrate.

(b) Persons registered under the Criminal Tribes Act and ordered under section 10 (1) (a) of the Act to report themselves at fixed intervals cannot be compelled to sleep at police stations. It has, however, been brought to the notice of Government that some persons do in fact voluntarily sleep at police stations either to save themselves trouble or to prevent suspicion resting on them in case crime is committed.

(c) The Government have received complaints from persons who represented themselves to have been harshly treated under the Act.

(e) Persons registered under the Act are not compulsorily detained at police stations.

(f) The Government have made inquiries in certain cases to which their attention has been drawn; the revision of the rules framed under the Criminal Tribes Act is under the consideration of the Inspector-General of Police who has been directed to ensure that section 10 shall not be used to restrict the movements of members of criminal tribes.

Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—" With reference to the answer to clause (c), may I know whether any steps have been taken in this matter ? "

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" That is why the Government have taken up the question of revising the rules."

Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—" In the case of specific complaints as to the hardship, I want to know whether any steps have been taken to alleviate the hardship."

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" The attention of the District Magistrate is being drawn to such cases."

Registration of persons under the Criminal Tribes Act in Anantapur district.

* 1715 Q.—Mr. G. RAMESWARA RAO : Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) the total number of persons registered in the Anantapur district under the Criminal Tribes Act;

(b) the total number whose registration has been cancelled by the Government; and

(c) the total number of those who are dead after registration?

A.—(a) The total number of persons registered in the Anantapur district at present is 2,251.

(b) Registration is cancelled by the District Magistrate and not by the Government.

(c) Twenty-nine.

22nd March 1926]

Forests.

Timber exploitation in Papanasam forests.

* 1716 Q.—Mr. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR : Will the hon. the Home Member and the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether Government have received any memorial from the President of the Tinnevely District Association or from any other person protesting against the schemes recommended by Mr. C. S. Martin for cutting timber in the evergreen forests of Papanasam;

(b) whether any report has been received as to the effect of the cutting of trees on a large scale on the supply of water for irrigation purposes in the Tinnevely district and, if so, whether the Government will be pleased to place it on the table of the Council; and

(c) whether there is a scheme for creating a large supply of electric power from the falls at Papanasam and whether that scheme is likely to be affected by any scheme of timber exploitation and if so to what effect?

A.—(a) No memorial has been received from the Tinnevely District Association. But representations have been received from other persons

(b) Yes; an extract from the letter from the Chief Conservator of Forests No. L. Dis. 2314/24, dated 26th March 1924, is appended.*

(c) A scheme for generating hydro-electric power at Papanasam is under investigation. The Government cannot say how it would be affected by 'any scheme of timber exploitation'.

Pensions.

Commutation of pensions of retired officers.

* 1717 Q.—Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR : Will the hon. the Member for Finance be pleased to state the number of applications of retired officers for commutation of pensions that are pending disposal by the Government for lack of funds and how many of them have been pending for over 2, 3, 4 and 5 years, respectively?

A.—The total number of applications for commutation of pensions received up to the end of February 1926 and pending disposal for lack of funds is 502. These are pending for periods less than one year.

Local Boards and Municipal Councils.

Notification by the Chairman of the Cannanore municipality.

* 1718 Q.—Mr. S. MUTTAYYA MUDALIYAR : Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the attention of the Government has been drawn to the notification by the Chairman of the Cannanore municipality, dated 28th November 1925, under section 249 of Act V of 1920; and

(b) what action has been taken by the Government in regard to that order?

* Printed as Appendix I on page 479 infra.

[22nd March 1926]

A.—(a) Yes.

(b) A petition received in regard to the notification has been referred to the Chairman, Municipal Council, Cannanore, for remarks.

Public Health.Amendment of the Lepers Act of 1898 to provide for the segregation of infectious cases.

* 1719 Q.—MR. J. A. SALDANHA : With reference to the answer to question No. 1188 given on 18th December 1925 regarding leper asylums in the Presidency, will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether Government have found it necessary to have any special legislation in amendment of or supplementary to the Lepers Act of 1898 as amended subsequently in order to provide for the segregation and cure of infectious cases and for the care and maintenance of non-infectious or burnt out cases where patients are not able to maintain themselves;

(b) if so, what measures Government have taken or propose to take for the required legislation;

(c) if no legislation is required for the purpose, what steps Government have taken or contemplate taking therefor;

(d) what will be the approximate cost of the proposed measures and what provision is going to be made in the budget estimates for 1926-27;

(e) what the position will be of privately managed leper asylums in the proposed scheme and what additional aids are Government contemplating to such asylums; and

(f) what measures Government have taken or contemplate taking in order to abate the nuisance from lepers congregating in the streets of Madras and other towns until the necessary legislation is undertaken and brought into force?

A.—(a), (b), (c) & (e) The question as to the steps to be taken to deal with leprosy in the Presidency is now under the consideration of the Government. The necessity or otherwise for special legislation in order to deal effectively with the problems and the part to be played by private asylums in any scheme which is framed, are two of the many points which are engaging the attention of Government in their examination of the question.

(d) Until the policy to be adopted is finally settled, it is not possible to estimate the probable cost of any scheme of leprosy relief.

(f) The Government have taken no steps nor do they contemplate taking any immediate steps to prevent lepers from moving about in the streets of Madras or any other town, pending a decision as to the policy to be adopted towards the leprosy problem as a whole.

MR. J. A. SALDANHA :—“ With reference to clause (a), are Government aware that the Lepers Act of 1908 has been amended by an Act of 1920, under which it is not applicable to the lepers at any stage? ”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—“ As stated in the answer, the points will be considered when the amending Bill is taken up.”

22nd March 1926]

The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—“ Is the Act extended to the Madras Presidency? ”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—“ Not yet.”

MR. J. A. SALDANHA :—“ Do not Government consider that it is at least necessary that lepers are segregated in a town like Madras? ”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—“ The whole question is now being considered, and before a conclusion is arrived at, it will not be possible to do so.”

MR. J. A. SALDANHA :—“ We have been told that the whole question will be considered. May I ask when the Government will come to a decision, whether it is the question of money or of policy that is delaying the matter? ”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—“ It is a very complicated question which involves Government in heavy expenditure. So the policy cannot be decided at once without serious consideration.”

Improvement of water-supply for the depressed classes of Ponnapuram.

* 1720 Q.—MR. R. VEERIAN : With reference to question No. 1037 answered at the meeting of the Council on the 15th December 1925 regarding improvements towards water-supply for the depressed classes of Ponnapuram, will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state whether the Government will be pleased to call for the information?

A.—The President, District Board, Coimbatore, reports that the well at Ponnapuram is full of water, and that it will not dry up for several months. He also states that the President, Taluk Board, is giving special attention to the well and that he will have it deepened as soon as it is dry. No information has been given with reference to clauses (a) and (c) of question No. 1037. The President, District Board, is again being asked to furnish the information.

MR. R. VEERIAN :—“ Sir, may I know whether Government have found out whether this particular well is a step well or a draw well, and whether Government have taken any steps for the conversion of step wells into draw wells, with a view to avoid Guinea worm and other epidemic diseases? ”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—“ As to the first portion of the question, the Government have no information. As to the second portion, I do not think that the question arises from the answer.”

Alleged prevention of depressed classes from using Neelothchera tank.

* 1721 Q.—MR. R. VEERIAN : Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the caste Hindus submitted a petition to the Chairman, Municipal Council, Calicut, during the month of December last requesting him that necessary steps should be taken with a view to prevent the depressed classes from using the water of Neelothchera tank within the Calicut Municipal Council and maintained by the council;

[22nd March 1926]

(b) how many such tanks are being maintained by the Calicut municipality by utilizing its funds for repairs, silt removal, etc.;

(c) whether Neelothchera tank is not so maintained by the Municipal Council;

(d) whether it is a fact that the petition of the caste Hindus was forwarded to the police for making necessary enquiries into the matter by the chairman;

(e) if so, with what results;

(f) whether the copy of G.O. No. 2660, L. & M., dated 25th September 1924, has been communicated to the Chairman of the Calicut municipality; and

(g) if so, why the petition was forwarded to the police?

4.—(a) & (c) A petition from the caste Hindus of G-1 ward of the Calicut municipality was received in the municipal office on 30th November 1925 protesting against the use of the Neelothchera tank by non-caste Hindus and Muhammadans. The tank is in a Nair village and is registered in the survey records as private janmam and not as Government poramboke or municipal property. The tank has been cleaned and repaired from municipal funds on a few occasions.

(b) There are nine tanks in the municipality registered as Government poramboke. Four or five of these tanks are maintained from municipal funds. The municipality has also spent money from time to time on cleaning and repairing three other tanks of which the tank referred to in the answer to clause (a) of the question is one.

(d) No.

(e) & (g) The questions do not arise.

(f) Yes.

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"Sir, with reference to clauses (a) to (c), may I know whether municipal funds may be utilized for such wells intended for the use of a section of the people, or the same may be utilized for all classes of people without any distinction of caste, creed or colour?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"It may so happen that a private well or tank may be a source of epidemocity. In such cases it is the duty of the Municipal Council to see that the well or the tank is cleansed."

Education.

Adi-Dravida students in the Adi-Dravida Hostel, Madras.

* 1722 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state how many Adi-Dravida students who are in the Adi-Dravida Hostel, Madras, and who are reading in various High schools, Secondary schools, and colleges pay full fees, how many of them pay half fees and how many of them are exempted from paying any school fees at all in consideration of their poverty?

[22nd March 1926]

4.—The information is given in the following statement:—

Name of Institution.	Number of Adi-Dravida students in the Adi-Dravida Hostel who study in the various institutions.	Number of students who pay
		Full fees.	Half fees.	No fees.
Wesley College, Royapetta ..	14	..	14	..

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"May I know why full fees are demanded from the Adi-Dravida students putting up in the Madras Adi-Dravida Hostel contrary to the spirit of Rule 92 contained in the Madras Educational Rules?"

The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"They are able to pay the fees."

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"The rule is to give half rate of fees for backward and depressed classes people on the production of a poverty certificate. My point is that the members of the depressed classes who are in the Government Adi-Dravida Hostel, Madras, have already produced poverty certificates for half fee concession. I wish to know whether the hon. the Minister for Education has taken any steps to make inquiries in the matter or whether he will be pleased to make inquiries with a view to help the poor Adi-Dravida students."

The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"The presumption of the questioner is that the Adi-Dravida students have already applied for half fee concession. If that is so, certainly concession will be given after an inquiry."

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"The hon. the Minister may take it from me that the Adi-Dravida students under reference have already applied for concession and a reference has already been made to the District Educational Officer giving the names of the students who are paying full fees contrary to the spirit of the Madras Educational Rules. May I therefore again request the hon. the Minister to make inquiries in the matter as to why the concessions were not allowed in their cases?"

Cosmopolitan section of the Government Training School Hostel, Calicut.

* 1723 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the cosmopolitan section of the hostel attached to the Government Training School, Calicut, is only an outhouse, that only an Adi-Dravida member is living there and that he is practically segregated from his fellow students;

[22nd March 1926]

(b) whether it is a fact that although the Tiya students in the hostel gave a written statement to the authorities that they were prepared to take the Adi-Dravida member with them nothing has been done, but instead, the former have been warned to be careful in their conduct; and

(c) how the Director of Public Instruction who was memorialized by the aggrieved Adi-Dravida boarder has disposed of the said memorial and what action the Government propose to take thereon?

A.—(a) & (b) The attention of the hon. Member is invited to the answers given to questions Nos. 874 and 912 given on the 2nd and the 3rd November respectively.

(c) The student was informed that that the Director considered that he had no cause for complaint.

The Government do not propose to take any action.

A.—(a) & (c) A

Public Works.

Communal representation in Public Works Department.

* 1724 Q.—Sriman SASIBHUSHAN RATH Mahasayo: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether there are any orders of Government on communal representation which definitely state that the list of temporary subordinates in the Public Works Department is to be recast placing junior non-Brahmans of one or two years service over senior Brahman of four to ten years service;

(b) if answer to this is in the affirmative, whether Government would be pleased to place such orders on the table; and

(c) if the answer is in the negative, how the existing list of temporary lower subordinates in the Waltair Circle has been framed?

A.—(a) & (b) The answer is in the negative.

(c) The Government do not know.

Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"May I inquire whether the general orders that were issued for all departments did not apply to the Department of Public Works? There are general orders on the subject."

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"But the question is with regard to appointments in the Public Works Department."

Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"There are general orders which apply to all departments. My question is whether the orders which were issued in 1922 do not apply to the Public Works Departments also?"

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"The original question is with reference to Public Works Department and the answer is in the negative."

Selection of head draughtsmen, etc., in Waltair Circle.

* 1725 Q.—Sriman SASIBHUSHAN RATH Mahasayo: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the posts of head draughtsmen and head clerks of Executive Engineers' and Superintending Engineers' offices are to be filled up wholly by selection; and

(b) whether this procedure is strictly followed in Waltair Circle and, if not, what is the criterion for selection of men for such posts in that and other circles?

[22nd March 1926]

A.—(a) Yes.

(b) The procedure is being followed in the Waltair Circle.

Co-operative Societies.

Administrative Inspectors of the Co-operative Department.

* 1726 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

MOTIONS ON THE BUDGET FOR 1926-27.

DEMAND XIV—JAILS.

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—“ On the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor, I beg to move

‘ that a sum not exceeding Rs. 30.80 lakhs be granted under Demand No. XIV—Jails ’.”

a Printed as Appendix II on pages 479-483 infra.

22nd March 1926]

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—“ I beg to move

‘ that the allotment of Rs. 10,000 under Miscellaneous grants to Andaman administration be omitted.’

“ I find from the newspapers and also from some of the speeches and communications made by some hon. Members of this Council who have gone on deputation to the Andamans that the Andamans are not the proper places for the colonization of the Mappilla and other persons. I wish to know whether the Government have arrived at any conclusion upon the question of colonization of the Andamans by the Mappillas or other inhabitants or convicts of the Madras Presidency. I wish also to know what this sum of Rs. 10,000 is intended for ? ”

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—“ In response to the resolution that was passed in this House the colonization scheme of the Andamans by Mappillas has been stopped for the present. The Committee appointed by the Government of India have reported to that Government and we have not yet got any orders from the Government of India as to what their intentions are in regard to the Mappilla colonization of the Andamans. As for the sum of Rs. 10,000 I may say that it is for the purpose of building mosques and schools in the Andamans for the Muhammadan population who are already there. This item was placed before the Finance Committee and they have approved it, and therefore I have come before this House for the grant. The Chief Commissioner of the Andamans has already reported that a sum of Rs. 5,985 has already been drawn and paid to the contractor for the purpose of building some of the mosques and schools. Whatever may be our decision with regard to the colonization of the Andamans, by the Mappillas this amount has to be paid.”

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—“ With reference to the last statement that this sum of Rs. 10,000 is intended for the construction of mosques and schools, I thought that four mosques had already been constructed there and that the grant asked for was intended for the construction of another mosque and some four schools. I wish to know with reference to this grant, whether there are not Muhammadan convicts and other non-convict population in the Andamans from other Provinces in India, and if so, whether other provinces have also contributed for the construction of the mosques and schools or only this Government is asked to contribute. If there are non-convicts and Muhammadan population from other provinces also in the Andamans, I believe it is not fair for this Government alone to make this contribution. I wish to know whether other Governments are contributing, and whether there are other Muhammadan population in the Andamans.”

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—“ At the present moment we have no information on this matter. All I can say is that because a lot of Mappilla prisoners have gone to the Andamans the Government decided that they should be provided with mosques and schools and this was done before the resolution of the Legislative Council to stop the sending of the Mappilla prisoners to the island was passed.”

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—“ I beg to move

‘ that the allotment of Rs. 44,600 for superintendence be reduced by Rs. 101.’

[Mr. A. Ranganatha Mudaliyar] [22nd March 1926]

"Sir, we have been hearing occasionally of cases where prohibited articles are smuggled into jails. We have also heard of cases where prisoners are not treated with that consideration that is due to them. I think, all these evils are not reported either in the papers or to the Government. Many things take place in the jails which do not see the light of day. Whatever might be the explanation, I think the system of administration prevailing in jails is bound to improve if a better class of people are to be recruited for the posts of warders, jailers and deputy jailers. The appointment of warders carries a good pay. I must say that there are very many appointments of warders which carry a pay of Rs. 40, Rs. 70 and even Rs. 100 and I do not know why as in the case of other departments the department should not insist upon proper educational qualifications for these posts. We are talking so much about unemployment of educated people and here is a department which has to deal with a number of appointments for which educational qualification would be an advantage rather than the reverse. I ask the Government therefore whether they cannot insist upon properly qualified people being appointed for these posts. The same argument would apply in the case of jailers and deputy jailers. I do not think any one will do for these posts. These officers should possess a good knowledge of human nature and psychology and several other subjects of that sort. I suggest therefore that the hon. the Home Member should take steps to recruit a better class of people for these appointments."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"For the information of the House I may say that the remarks made by him are in accordance with the views of the Government. As a matter of fact the Jails Committee presided over by Sir Alexander Cardew have stated thus 'Recruitment for the posts of jailers and deputy jailers should not be made at the last point, i.e., at the bottom of the clerical grade. We are having this idel before us and as a matter of fact recruitments at the present moment are made by the Staff Selection Board and those who have passed the B.A., the Intermediate and the School Final examinations have been called upon to apply."

"As regards the warders the case is quite different. It is not always that we can have anybody for this post. The present salary is small. What we want is men with strong physique and good educational qualifications and if we want such men we cannot have them for the small salaries that are provided for them. For gate-keepers the grade is Rs. 40—60. For the chief reserve head warders the grade is Rs. 40—60 and also from Rs. 30—40. For the warders who are actually doing the work, we have got two grades one selection grade from Rs. 25—1—30, and the other ordinary grade from Rs. 17—22. For these small salaries you cannot get educated people who have passed S.S.L.C. examination or the Intermediate."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"I find from the remarks made by the hon. the Home Member that he would bear the points raised by me in regard to the appointments of jailers and deputy jailers. I do not know whether I have made a mistake or the hon. the Home Member has been misinformed, but I find on page 158 there is provision made for one warder on Rs. 100—125, I am not concerned with other warders. There is one on Rs. 75—100 and three on Rs. 45—50. Turning again to page 160 there is a warder's post on Rs. 100, and again on page 162 there are 10 warders on

22nd March 1926] [Mr. A. Ranganatha Mudaliyar]

Rs. 40—60. So there are a number of appointments which carry a reasonable pay and I must say, a pay not less in any way than that of the lower division or upper division clerks. It is only in order to bring out that point I make this motion."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"Sir, these appointments are generally given to Europeans and Anglo-Indians. But this is only in a very few cases; in all the other cases the pay ranges only from Rs. 17 to Rs. 30."

a.m.

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"I am somewhat surprised at the statement of the hon. the Home Member which introduces a racial distinction in regard to these appointments. The prisoners concerned are mostly Indians and I do not see any particular reason why the warders, specially in the higher grades, should be exclusively recruited from a particular class of people. I am sure the hon. the Home Member himself realizes the unsatisfactory nature—I won't call it inequality—of the recruitments. I wish he gives us an assurance that he would look into the matter and see that a fairer distribution of these appointments is made."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"All that I can say is that I am unable to give any assurance to the hon. Member. This has been done for years."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"The mere fact that the system has been going on for a long time does not make it just; anyhow I shall withdraw the motion in view of the assurance of the hon. Member that he would look into the matter when new appointments are made."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. B. VEERIAN:—"Sir, I beg to move—

'That the allotment of Rs. 14,90,500 for Central Jails be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"Sir, I know that the hon. the Home Member is ever ready to sympathize with the feelings of the so called depressed classes and do what lies in his power to ameliorate their condition. In that hope I wish to place before him a few facts. All the members of the so-called depressed classes are not by profession totis; some of them are agriculturists; some others follow other trades; some others still are employed as domestic servants. I do not think it is reasonable to ask all the convicts belonging to the so-called depressed classes to do this toti work. If convicts of the toti class are not available in a particular jail, the jail authorities may arrange to get them from other jails. This can be quite easily done. Sir, every community has got feelings of their own, and the feelings of the depressed classes also should be respected. It is a sin to ask such members of the depressed classes who are not by profession totis to do this class of work. I feel it very much, Sir. I hope, after hearing this from me, that the hon. the Home Member will readily admit that it is a great sin. If, Sir, the members of the depressed classes were to take up this matter very seriously, to their minds, I am sure that there would be confusion and chaos. Unless rule 387 of the Jail Manual is altered the jail staff will always pitch upon the members of the depressed classes to do this work. They are so helpless, Sir, and they would never go against the orders of even the lowest jail authorities. I want to know, Sir, why there should be preferential treatment in jails. As I said before on a previous occasion, jails are not the houses of mothers-in-law and fathers-in-law. (Laughter.) I know, Sir, that in Bangalore, only such convicts who are put in jail often for offences, are asked to do this work with a view to teach them good conduct and reform them. On the other hand, Sir, if members of a particular community alone who are not accustomed to this work outside the jail are asked to do this work, can that be called right kind of reformation? Will not that degrade a particular community which forms more than one-sixth of the population of the country? Sir, I do not want to make a long speech (Laughter); for on account of my strong feelings in the matter I may utter very forcible and probably wonderful sentiments. (Laughter.) But in my heart I have got a great regard to the hon. the Home Member; for he belongs to the Mussalman community which knows no untouchability. It is for that reason I appeal to the hon. the Home Member to see that the rule in the Jail Manual is altered so that all the members of the depressed classes may not be pitched upon to do this work. The other day the hon. Member said that it would not be possible to introduce incinerators in the jails. Where is the difficulty in doing so? Different classes of convicts are removing their own night soil and urine from their prison cells without the aid of anybody. No objection is raised by them while doing the work. All the convicts therefore may be asked to throw their nightsoil in the incinerator. If this is not possible they can employ totis from outside, who are not convicts and they may be paid for the work. It is said that they would bring in epidemic diseases into the jail. Another way of tackling the problem is by means of the flushing system introduced. If they were to say that this is not suitable and that is not suitable, I do not know, Sir, what is suitable and what is not suitable. I hope that the hon. the Home Member will respect the feelings of the community and do his very best to put an end to the present practice."

[Mr. R. Veerian]

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"Sir, it is not the intention of the Government to insult any community by asking the members of the community to do this kind of degrading work. Government know it fully. There are certain difficulties with regard to the introduction of incinerators. They have been installed in the Alipuram jail, Bellary. That has been possible because the Alipuram jail was once a barracks for British soldiers. It is not quite possible to instal them in all the other jails. The other alternative is the system of flush-out latrines. This system requires a large quantity of water for its operation and most of the jails cannot afford to supply the required quantity. The only possible thing that can be done is to ask the members of the depressed classes who are by profession totis to do this work inside the jails. In this matter the hon. Member's representations to the Government have been of great use. The Inspector-General of Prisons has sent a circular to all the jails to the effect that only convicts of the sweeper class should be given this kind of work and if such convicts were not available in a particular jail, the authorities of that jail may apply for a transfer of such convicts from other jails. As I promised on a previous occasion, the Inspector-General is coming here to see me to-morrow to discuss this subject also, and I shall draw his attention to the remarks made by the hon. Member."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

[22nd March 1926]

* Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"Sir, I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 14,90,500 for Central Jails be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"Sir, in moving this resolution I do not want to make a long and forcible speech. (Laughter.) The warders who belong to the depressed classes are made to live in separate quarters away from the warders belonging to the other communities. I have seen only lepers being segregated; but here I do not see any reason why the warders should be treated as lepers. They are also human beings. It is a great insult from many points of view to make these warders of the depressed classes, who are also Government servants, to live in separate quarters. I appeal to the hon. the Home Member to make enquiries in the various jails where such things prevail and put an end to this system."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"Sir, all the warders employed in the jails are provided with quarters except in the Penitentiary at Madras where they are given an allowance. The question of providing separate accommodation for the Adi-Dravida or the depressed class warders is rather a difficult matter. It is not possible to provide separate quarters for caste Hindus, depressed classes and Muhammadans. It is very much better that the depressed classes live with the members of the other communities."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"The hon. Member's complaint is that they are segregated."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"I do not think they are segregated generally."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"If there is any particular jail in which this takes place the hon. Member may give the information to the hon. the Home Member."

* Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"In the Coimbatore Jail, Sir, there is a row of houses separately set apart for the warders belonging to the depressed classes. They are segregated like lepers. The hon. Member may kindly call for the information and have an idea of the deplorable situation."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur:—"Certainly, Sir, I shall call for the information."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHHOUSE MIAN SAHIB:—"I beg to move

'to reduce the allotment of Rs. 30.80 lakhs for jails by Rs. 100.'

"This is to discuss the unwisdom of the policy of Government in releasing the long-term prisoners with a ban that they should not go to their houses; and also to afford greater facilities to prisoners to observe their religious ceremonies, and to build mosques and temples as far as possible inside prisons and offer religious instructions at Government cost."

"Sir, the Government has pursued a policy of releasing such of the long-term prisoners whose character and conduct have been satisfactory, before the term expires, on the condition that they should not return to their homes. I think, Sir, that that policy is not a good one, and does more harm than the policy of allowing them to continue in the prisons themselves. The Government policy might be vindicated on one ground, viz., that the Government entertains a fear that if the long-term prisoners who have some landed property in their native places who have some influence are allowed to go there it would have a bad effect on the people. But most of the prisoners are not of that kind and they are poor people; I do not see why they should not be allowed to go to their homes when they are released. There is another reason why the Government should not adopt this policy as it will swell the number of beggars in the city and in other places. If the prisoners are released and not allowed to go to their homes, opportunities would be afforded to them to turn into vagabonds. It will do more good than harm if they are kept in the prison itself.

"Secondly, I urge upon the Government the necessity to afford greater facilities for the observance of religious rights. Last year, the hon. the Home Member's predecessor made a promise that a mosque and a temple would be constructed in the Alipuram Jail. I do not know how far that programme has been carried out. There was another promise that he would give greater facilities for the Muhammadan prisoners to observe Ramzan and to offer prayers inside a mosque. I do not know what facilities have been afforded.

"Thirdly, Sir, I wish to emphasize the fact that hereafter religious instruction in jails ought to be given at the Government cost. Hitherto the policy pursued by the Government was that, in case non-official members found proper and fit persons to give religious instructions, the Government was helping them to go and preach inside the prison; but the cost would be borne by non-official members themselves. That policy also was not given full effect to. Although there were three or four persons who were willing to give religious instructions inside the Trichinopoly Jail, they were not allowed to go and preach. There was much correspondence with the district collector as a result of which some concessions have been granted. This rule is not at all followed in other places than Trichinopoly. I wish to emphasize the fact that it would be better to adopt, in future as one of reformatory influences, the policy that religious instruction ought to be given at the Government cost. I hope, Sir, that the hon. the Home Member will consider these points favourably."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Sir, with reference to the point with which I am concerned, viz., the policy of the Government in releasing long-term prisoners, I may say that, long before notice was given of the motion before the House, the records of the past five years were looked into and only four cases have been traced where the condition was imposed, viz., that the prisoners ought not to return to their native districts. Those cases are connected with the rebellion and I have, since receiving notice of this motion, looked into those cases again and satisfied myself that it is because it is apprehended that this entry will give rise to difficulties at Malabar at the present moment they have been kept out and they are only four in number."

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"With regard to moral and religious instructions in jails and giving facilities for religious observances, I may at once say that in my non-official days I took a keen interest in these matters and I went before the Jails Committee which was presided over by Sir Alexandar Cardew and made certain proposals. I am very glad that those proposals have been accepted by the Jails Committee and they are being given effect to in almost all the jails in our Presidency. Whenever I visit jails I have always made it a point to see whether these things are observed. I am glad to say that facilities are given to prisoners who want to perform their religious ceremonies. As for the Muhammadan prisoners, my hon. Friend said that facilities should be given to say their prayers and observe fasts. I may at once say that they get in almost all the jails all the facilities they require to say their daily prayers and to fast during Ramzan. Further, certain changes with regard to their dress have been made. Trousers have been given to Muhammadan prisoners instead of shorts. Water is given for ablution; facilities for saying prayers exist in every jail in this Presidency. With regard to the construction of a temple in the Alipuram jail, it was not considered necessary as almost all the prisoners in that jail are Muhammadans. The question of providing a mosque in the same jail was carefully considered by the Inspector-General of Prisons and he came to the conclusion that it was better not to have congregational prayers in any jail because when prisoners assemble for prayers they may take advantage of the opportunity to conspire for the breaking of the jail discipline for which they would be put to trouble. Except this one suggestion, all the other suggestions made by the hon. Member have been adopted. Although there is no mosque in the Alipuram jail, I know as a matter of fact—I have visited the jail—the Muhammadan prisoners perform their daily prayers and are given water for ablutions."

* Khan Bahadur P. KHAIIF-UL-LAH SAHIB Bahadur :—"Sir, as one of the non-official visitors to the central jail I should certainly thank the hon. the Home Member for all that has been done in this matter. At the same time I should like to point out that something more useful can be done for the Muslim prisoners. During the month of the Ramzan, facilities should be given to the prisoners to observe their fasting. The rules regarding labour have not been relaxed. Especially now when the fasting season happens to be the hottest part of the year, unless some facilities are given in the remission of labour it is physically impossible for them to observe fast in any way. Unless they are so fanatical as to observe it in spite of the insurmountable difficulties, any man in ordinary circumstances would be forced not to observe. So I would suggest that, so far as Muhammadans are concerned, labour during the fasting season should be limited to at least 2 p.m."

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"I know the difficulty mentioned by the hon. Member is a real one: It will be difficult for people to do heavy work when they have to fast for one month without taking any food during daytime. I shall draw the attention of the Inspector-General to this matter."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—"May I know whether the Government make facilities for Hindu prisoners to perform their religious ceremonies, such as father's anniversary which are obligatory on their part?"

* The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—"I have no information. I shall certainly look into the question and see that facilities are given, if they are necessary."

Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—"In view of the statement made by the hon. the Law Member that in the matter of release of long-term prisoners it is not the general policy and that it is done only in special cases and in view of the other statement made by the hon. the Home Member, I do not wish to press the motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"The question is that the Government be granted a sum not exceeding Rs. 30·80 lakhs for Jails."

The demand was put to the House and carried. The Grant was made.

DEMAND XV—POLICE.

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Sir, on the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor, I move for a grant not exceeding

'Rs. 153·09 lakhs. under Demand XV—Police.'"

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—"Mr. President, Sir, I move 'that the allotment of Rs. 11,38,200 for Presidency Police be reduced by Rs. 100.'"

"My object in moving this motion is to place before this Council certain facts about the attitude of the Police at the time of the last elections. Sir, it pains me very much to do so. I hope the hon. the Law Member will not misunderstand me. There is an impression created in Madras that the Police were siding a particular political party. There is the impression that they were favouring a certain political party and that they allowed that party to molest other parties as they liked. Sir, what horror, what intimidation there was at the time of the elections? Loyalists people belonging to any political party were afraid to go out and canvass votes for their candidates. The workers of a particular political party were belaboured in the public streets. Boys carrying the placards of a certain political party were beaten in the open streets."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"To which election is the hon. Member referring to?"

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—"I am referring to the municipal elections. One man was chased and beaten within the premises of the Corporation itself. I said that a particular political party was allowed to do these things. Sir, in one case they molested the other parties as much as possible and when the other parties retorted they were arrested. Sir, that was the condition of Madras."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"To make these charges a little more real, may I ask the hon. Member to specify the localities in which these occurrences took place."

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—"Sir, Surendranath Arya was beaten at Lawders' Gate Road and Mr. Purushotham was chased and beaten in the Corporation compound itself."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"I am not concerned with the names at all."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"The hon. Member was written to and requested to give the Government some idea of the subject on which he wished to base his remarks on this motion but no reply has been received by the Government. But he is at perfect liberty, if he thinks that these facts had been sufficiently proved and takes the responsibility for making the allegations, to make them. Government, however, is in the position of being absolutely unprepared to meet those points nor has the department been asked about it."

22nd March 1926] [Sir C. P. Ramaswami Ayyar]

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—"I sent the reply. I do not know how it did not reach the Government; but I was under the impression that it reached the hon. the Law Member."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Anyhow, I have not got it."

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—"Sir, such was the condition of Madras, and there is an impression created that the Government is siding at particular political party. There is an impression created, Sir."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"May I know, Sir, if points similar to these were not raised and discussed on the motion of my Friend the Member from Chingleput?"

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"Absolutely not, Sir. I am the Member from Chingleput and since my name has been dragged, I may say that the hon. Member did not hear me; but I can assure him that no such point was raised by me."

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—"Sir, I am sorry that there is another impression created in Madras. I may not be able to substantiate it, but anyhow I am speaking of what happens in Madras. Sir, people are prosecuted and then after they are prosecuted, there is the magistracy to decide the question, to punish those people. There is a fear, Sir, that the portfolio of both the prosecutor and the judge are in the hands of one hon. Member of the Executive Council. Sir, may I request the hon. Member to see . . . ?"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Sir, I rise to a point of order and ask that these allegations be forthwith withdrawn. When judges appointed directly by His Majesty or by his delegates are trying prosecutions and they decide cases, it is in the highest degree derogatory to the dignity of the House and to the traditions of every parliamentary body that it should be suggested, because forsooth a member of one community is for the time being holding the portfolio of law and order, that judges decide cases in a particular manner. I trust, Sir, that in the interests of proper parliamentary development, in the interests of that respect for the Judiciary which is essential for any growth of self-governing institutions, in the interests, I may almost say, of ordinary propriety, that the allegation be forthwith withdrawn."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"I must also deprecate all such references to the action of the Judiciary. Just as we want to maintain our own dignity, we ought to help the maintenance of the independence and dignity of the Judiciary. Hon. Members are quite free to make charges against the Executive."

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—"Mr. President, I did not make any allegations. I only said there is an impression in Madras. If the hon. the Law Member likes, he can prosecute a man and punish him. That is the impression in Madras. Certainly . . ."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"How can he prosecute and punish?"

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—"Because he is the Police and he is the Judge."

[22nd March 1926]

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"It is certainly not in keeping with the dignity of the Magistracy and the Judiciary to say that they decide and punish people at the beck and order of the hon. the Law Member. He is attributing to the hon. the Law Member powers which he does not at all possess."

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR:—"I did not refer anything to the hon. the Law Member; but that is the impression. What I mean to say, Sir, is that when we are fighting for the separation of Judicial and Executive functions, if these two also are separated, I should be much obliged to His Excellency's Government. Sir, the impression is that the loyalists are not treated properly in fact, they are punished for their being loyal. Sir, between the Swarajists and ourselves there is not much difference; we want swaraj under the British Government and they say that they can exist with or without the British Government. That is the difference between us. If His Excellency's Government lay down the policy that they are against the loyalists, of course we can make up our differences with our Swarajist friends."

* The hon. Sir O. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Mr. President, Sir, I hold that the statement that has just now been made will, if it is seriously considered in the year 1929 by the Royal Commission that comes out to find how these self-governing institutions have been working, be one of the strongest arguments against the grant of further powers to a provincial legislature, Sir, if it is open to an hon. Member to say that his impression is that the Law Member is both prosecutor and judge, what is the meaning of that? Let me dilate on it a little further. The impression, translated into order phraseology, leads to this result that the hon. the Law Member apparently suggests that some prosecutions should take place, that after the prosecutions take place suggests to the judge that some particular persons should be convicted and thereafter they are convicted and punished."

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR:—"That is not my point. I never said anything of the sort; nor do I mean anything. Only to be on the safe side, to make the people believe that the Government is all right, I want the separation of the two functions."

* The hon. Sir O. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Sir, I propose to deal with the statements as they have been made on the floor of this House and as I understand them. I still maintain that one, at all events, of the deductions to be drawn from the speech of the hon. Member from Madras is that the Law Member is responsible for the prosecution, that the Law Member directs the Judge to punish, the Law Member directs that a conviction should take place."

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR:—"I object to the last sentence, Sir, and I should say it is not my impression."

* The hon. Sir O. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"I still propose to read it in that manner and I propose to answer it on that footing."

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR:—"Let it be his understanding and not my allegation."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"The hon. Member has made some statements and the hon. the Law Member is dealing with those statements as they were made. If the hon. Member says that it was not his intention to make the charges he is free to withdraw them even at this stage."

[22nd March 1926]

[The President]

* The hon. Sir O. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"While that statement has not yet been withdrawn, I am fortified in that argument. Now, Sir, I consider that what I have listened to is the most deliberate insult that could be offered to a lawyer and I regard the assertion as a particularly deliberate insult, as offered to the lawyer who occupies at this moment the position of the Law Member of Government. I regard it as an insult offered generally to the profession of Law and I regard it as a special insult offered to the Judiciary; moreover, I regard it as an unwarranted insult offered to that great body of faithful public servants who constitute the police in this Presidency. That it should be open to any Member of this hon. House to persuade himself to make these statements is a matter which evokes amazement and horror in me and I feel sure in every Member of the House. I trust that for the dignity, the future well-being of this House and the future of the Government of this Presidency, we shall not hear any such speeches or any such suggestions hereafter."

"Now, Sir, after having dealt with the general features of the argument, let me deal with another aspect of the matter. The other aspect of the matter is that the Government—meaning not only myself, but my hon. Friend Mr. Moir, my hon. Friend Mr. Usman Sahib, my hon. Friend Mr. Marjoribanks and my hon. Colleagues the Ministers, because the Government is composed of all these persons—that the Government is out to favour a party which incidentally is stated to have set itself up against Government. That may be so. It may be that my hon. Friend may have persuaded himself that one hon. Member is in that way inclined; but, Sir, this is not an autocracy. This is a system of Cabinet Government. This is a system of deliberate executives. Is it suggested, Sir, that seeing these things taking place, my Friend Mr. Moir shuts his eyes to these matters, my Friend Mr. Usman Sahib shuts his eyes to these matters, my Friend Mr. Marjoribanks shuts his eyes to these matters—I am only dealing with the Reserved subjects for the moment. If they do so, they are derogating from their duty, they are not fulfilling the trust and confidence reposed in them by His Majesty when he gave them the warrant for holding the appointments they hold or is it suggested that they are blind and will not or cannot see? I go further. Whatever the facts are, let me assume, that before I took up the office, I was a Swarajist, I repel that idea because, Sir, I fought the whole of the extreme block in the Delhi Congress and I was one of the few who fought the predecessors of the Swarajists arrayed in their thousands and my political life and political career are beyond the criticism of such men as the hon. Member from Madras. I have fought and shall continue to fight the Swarajists, because I think that one of their essential political doctrines i.e., of civil disobedience is poisonous and is intended to retard and not to foster the growth of political institutions. But assume, Sir, for a moment that before I took this post I had been a Swarajist, are there not certain oaths and obligations incidental to my taking up this office which every Member of the Government enters into, solemn oaths and obligations which he enters into with His Majesty the King-Emperor? He takes these oaths of office, Sir, and after having taken that office, whatever one's political preoccupations and prepossessions were, whatever my views may be of the rightness or wrongness of the procedure of certain political parties, and whether I consider that the Swaraj or any other party say, the party to which my friend belongs has a right to exist or not, my opinions are free and unrestricted and probably are known to most persons. But in the translation of those opinions into practice, if I allow any conscious bias or any prepossession to influence me, I should be unworthy of that confidence. And I trust, Sir, that these speeches, these insinuations which have not been isolated or singular in this House will no longer be made, that even the exigencies of elections will not evoke such speeches and sentiments.

"There is one other matter, Sir, with which I will conclude. Sir, it was said, and said more than once by the Member for Madras, 'I don't believe it, I do not entertain these opinions, but there is an impression.' Are we to repeat rumours in this House, are we, Members of the Legislative Council, not to exercise some fragmentary, elementary rights of sifting between the right and the wrong, of sifting between what is credible and what is incredible, of sifting what is decent from what is indecent? Are we to say 'there are these impressions, I trust these impressions are not true'. Sir, in that case, if I should repeat what rumours I hear about hon. Members and hon. Colleagues, where shall we be? This will be a bear-garden, and I trust, following the illustrious tradition of this House, following the tradition of the British institutions, following parliamentary traditions, such insinuations will no longer be allowed and that this House will, by a direct and substantial vote, make it clear to the hon. Member that this House will not tolerate such paltering with the decencies of public life, such dealing with people in a manner wholly unworthy of this House and of every component part of it." (Applause.)

Raj Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"Sir, I belong neither to the Ministerialist party nor to the Swarajist party nor even to the Government party. I belong to the Independent party and I am proud to say so, Sir. Now, Sir, it has considerably pained me to hear the other day by one of my best friends, the hon. Member from Chingleput . . ."

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"The hon. Member might restrict yourself to the speeches of to-day."

Raj Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"It has considerably pained me to hear on the floor of this House that the Member from Madras should have made a statement and while he professed not to make it as an allegation by him, was bold enough to say that that is the impression and that he was simply conveying the impression to the hearing of this House. I am unable to understand the difference between an allegation and the conveying of an impression. At any rate, the allegation has got this aspect, namely, that it is an honest expression of one's opinion. It is a bold statement of fact. I am prepared to face a reply on that. On the other hand, the way in which the hon. Member from Madras said that he was conveying an impression to the hearing of this House, I submit, Sir, has neither the boldness with it nor, may I say, the uprightness with it. I submit there is absolutely no difference between the two. My friend, Dr. Natesa Mudaliyar, if he had only been on this side of the House as he was some time ago, I do not think he would have made that statement; because he would have been pulled by the Members of the party and then they would have brought him to order. I submit, Sir, we have got the highest privileges, I mean the Members of this House have got the highest privileges, in that the law says that we are not to be prosecuted, that we are not to be sued against for whatever we may say on the floor of this House. Well, I take that as one of the highest privileges that have been conferred upon the Members of this House.

22nd March 1926] [Mr. T. M. Narasimhacharlu]

"I, therefore, say that when such a great privilege has been conferred upon us, we should be very cautious, greatly hesitant before we make any allegation on the floor of the House which will have either indirectly or directly the effect of casting any reflection on any Member of this House, not to say on any Member of the Executive Council. I say, Sir, that having been clothed with such privileges, we have got our own responsibilities. And I think, Sir, it is beneath the dignity of this House, it is beneath the dignity of any Member of this House to cast any aspersion however ill-founded it may be on the floor of this House simply because we cannot be called upon to answer in any court of law for such an allegation. I submit, Sir, so far with reference to the privileges of Members of this House and their responsibilities." 12-15 p.m.

"Sir, I have been closely watching, if you will permit me to say that, the career of the hon. the Law Member in this House. I am not holding any brief for him but I submit, Sir, I say with confidence that all his actions in this House and outside it have been beyond any kind of the least suspicion."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Sir, may I repeat the appeal which I made the other day that for many reasons it is well that it be left to me to defend myself because any defence of me made by my hon. Friend is likely to be misconstrued, especially as he shares my misfortune and belongs to my community and probably that may be another reason why further statements and suggestions will be made. I appeal to the hon. Member, Sir, through you not to speak for me, and I trust that nobody will come to my defence for if I am not able to defend myself, I am unworthy of this place."

Raj Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"I will do the same thing with reference to any Member of the Executive Council or the Ministry, Sir."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"Will not the hon. Member listen to me, Sir, and will he not refrain from dealing with the personal aspect?"

Raj Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—"All right, Sir. So far as the allegations or impressions which he gathered from outside, and which he conveyed to the House, they are allegations which are quite unfounded. And I beseech the hon. Member for Madras for the sake of our own honour, our own dignity and for the sake of the heavy responsibility that lies on Members of this House, as well as other hon. Members here not to dwell upon such aspects, to deal with every question on its own merits and not rely on this kind of rumour or that and say that that is the impression and not an allegation made by him on the floor of this House. I request the hon. Member as his friend, nay, as his brother, to withdraw the aspersions as it will add to his own dignity to do so, and add to the prestige of the House and help us to forget and forgive each other."

[22nd March 1926]

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—" Sir, I am sorry that the hon. the Law Member who knows me so well misunderstands me. Personally he knows what regard I have for him. More than that, we have been friends for the last thirty years, I think. And he knows, I believe, that he was a benefactor of my family in one way. I will therefore never impute anything against him. But what I say is the impression in Madras is that such and such a thing is taking place. If impression means alleging of course, I withdraw my statement. I shall simply request the hon. the Law Member to see that the things that took place at the last elections are not repeated in the coming elections too. Let him not make it personal. Even now I request Government to see that the portfolios of Police and Magistracy are assigned to different Members of the Cabinet. With these words, I do not want to press the motion."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" With great respect, Sir, before you allow the hon. Member to withdraw his motion, I should like to make a statement arising out of his speeches. Mr. President, Sir, it is perhaps as well that my hon. Friend from Madras has referred to the thirty years' acquaintance between us. I am glad that he remembers that at a time when his family was in difficulty in regard to a case concerning their properties, I had the honour and distinction of doing something by way of benefitting that family as their legal adviser. I am glad also that the hon. Member does not impute anything personal to me. Knowing Mr. Natesa Mudaliyar, knowing that he is not wholly responsible for any venom that may have tinged the statement that has emanated from him, I accept the assurance at its full value from the personal point of view."

"But, Sir, the hon. Member had still referred to certain impressions. Let me at once investigate what these impressions are. A certain political party carried on a procession in one corner of the city, I believe it was Tondiarpet and members of another party are alleged to have disturbed the procession and thereupon the police charged some persons belonging to both groups of assailants or opponents; they were all prosecuted, some were convicted while some were let off. Government could have had nothing to do with the initiation of the prosecutions, absolutely nothing. These papers never go through Government. The Commissioner of Police was an Englishman. Is it suggested that he was so suddenly smitten with the desire to benefit the Swaraj party or to injure the other party that he, an Englishman, suddenly made up his mind to prosecute men belonging to my friends party. Then, Sir, the charge was brought by the Police. The Magistracy heard it. I think more than one magistrate heard the case. There was conviction in certain cases. If it comes to that, the suggestion can evidently be made on the floor of the House that certain persons alone are to be convicted because they are unfriends of the Government and others acquitted because they are otherwise, Sir, then, there would be an end of British administration, there would be end of that sense of justice and fair play to which Britain has laid claim and gloriously vindicated. Such a suggestion is beneath notice."

"So far as the personal aspect is concerned as my hon. Friend has withdrawn his statement, I do not want to say anything more."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. D. MANJAYYA HEGGADE :—" Mr. President, Sir, I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 1,50,600 for Superintendence be reduced by Rs. 100'.

[22nd March 1926] [Mr. D. Manjaya Heggade]

"The main object of this token motion is to bring to the notice of the Government the inefficiency of the present police staff in detection work and to protest against any proposal to abolish a certain number of police stations in the Presidency. There are thefts and murders committed in a larger number in the country than before. This can be confirmed by the Police Administration report regarding the true cases of grave crimes during the three years ending with 1924. In 1922 it was 35,883, in 1923, 32,995, and in 1924 it was 36,410. Then again, let me refer, Sir, to the statement laid on the table on the 12th of the last month in reply to question No. 1474 of Mr. K. Raghuchandra Bellal with reference to murders in Karkal taluk of South Kanara. Out of three murders reported in 1924 in the taluk only one was charged which was discharged in the Sessions Court and two cases were undetected. Briefly from 1922-25 only 11 murders were reported, of which seven were charged and four were undetected. Of the seven charged only two were convicted. I do not wish to comment upon these figures for they speak for themselves."

"Now, Sir, turning to the proposal to abolish a certain number of police stations throughout the Presidency, I learn in the district of South Kanara about seven stations are to be removed. It appears that the stations to be removed or some of these are located in the interior parts of the district and this policy surely will not lead to the maintenance of peace and order in those rural quarters. Sir, in my district some police stations like Charmady are situated near the boundary of the Mysore State and such stations are necessary and important. In these hilly regions where communications are bad, robberies and thefts are not uncommon and life and property are not safe and it is very inadvisable to remove the existing police stations. Sir, in these days when ignorant people under the present circumstances of stringency and hardship due to the economic upheaval in the country are ready to commit crimes and to face the consequences boldly, it is regrettable that the Government are going to reduce the number of police stations."

"If this is a measure of retrenchment, I would then suggest that it is not the proper and safe means of reducing expenditure on the Police department. The number of sub-inspectors may be conveniently reduced and a number of outstations at least may be left in the charge of well-experienced head constables. I hope the hon. the Law Member will kindly consider these facts and take steps to improve the efficiency of the police. I therefore press this token motion to protest against the proposal to abolish a few police stations."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" I have got a motion, Sir, on the same point numbered 486 on the paper. I wish to take this opportunity of speaking on the matter. I intend to add a word to what the hon. Member has just said. In the first place, I must endorse his statements in all their details. But I wish to add that the present move for a decrease in the subordinate police, while we find at the top an increase of expenditure on the superior police services, is very much to be deprecated. Sir, South Kanara is not a non-criminal district to justify any reduction of the police force, of police stations or police sub-inspectors. What applies to South Kanara applies to other districts as well, whether more or less criminal. I find there is a reduction in the subordinate police all over the Presidency and South Kanara also comes in for a share. The whole district is alarmed, except of course, people who are inclined to crimes. A large number of thefts and other cases take place in our district and go undetected. Even if they are carried to the courts we find a large number of acquittals. I hope the Government will reconsider the position and see that the subordinate police force is not reduced."

[Mr. J. A. Saldanha]

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"The reduction in the number of police stations is consequent on the reallocation proposals of the police in the districts. This has been undertaken as a measure of retrenchment by the Government. And arising out of the reallocation of police in the South Kanara district on which orders have been issued, the financial effect so far as that district is concerned is a saving of Rs. 52,682 per annum in recurring expenditure. Proposals for the reallocation of other districts are also pending. It will thus be seen that in response to the request made on the floor of this House for this reallocation this step has been taken and

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"The reduction in the expenditure will so far as this one district is concerned, the reduction in the expenditure will be more than Rs. 50,000. Similar reductions are expected elsewhere and in replying to a later motion, I think I shall have to point out that as a result of general retrenchment in the department, the total saving is expected to be about 15 lakhs.

p.m.

"I shall endeavour to point out presently, that so far as this year is concerned, the retrenchment is about 5 lakhs. Something was said about the lack of retrenchment in regard to the higher ranks. When the question arises, and if it arises, I shall point out that it is not so. Even there, there has been a certain amount of retrenchment. We find that in almost every district where retrenchment has been practised, the inhabitants have said that the retrenchment is not necessary and that we must go back to the previous number of police stations and outposts and so forth. If we find that such requests are generally made and that such a feeling is generally prevalent, we shall have to retrace those steps. But at the present moment, I may say an order was issued on 2nd January 1926 so far as South Kanara is concerned, and that order was passed after very careful consideration. I think it is necessary to read what the District Magistrate and the District Superintendent of Police say as to that. The order is placed on the Editors' Table. This is what the District Magistrate of South Kanara says on the point:

"I support Mr. Cunningham's proposals to-day. I may mention that they were drawn up after consultation between Mr. Cunningham and Mr. Dawson (that is the District Superintendent of Police) and myself, and I think that they are the best that can be devised under the circumstances of this district. I should have been quite prepared to support a more drastic retrenchment in the numbers of the police force. When examining police stations, I have been struck by the extraordinarily small amount of work which each station has to do during the course of the year."

"I am afraid that my hon. Friend, Mr. Saldanha, has given a worse certificate to his district than the district authorities. They say that it is not very criminal, that it is comparatively law-abiding, as may be easily inferred from those reports. I may say that the general impression of the district authorities is that the South Kanara district is a very peaceable and law-abiding district. But what the District Magistrate says is curious:

"But, however, from the point of view of the public, a further reduction would not be advisable."

[22nd March 1926]

[Sir C. P. Ramaswami Ayyar]

because apparently the public are very keen that there should be no reduction. The Magistrate continues:

"As I have mentioned above, Mr. Cunningham's proposals have been drawn up after consultation in detail with myself and I commend them to the favourable consideration of Government."

"I may also say that the Inspector-General, the District Superintendents of Police and the Deputy Superintendents of Police have been asked to go into the whole question of the reallocation of the police stations and outposts in all districts. One point which they have been asked to keep in mind is that a police station should, as far as possible, be situated in a central locality so that other localities which may require scrutiny might be within easy reach. It was from that point of view that the reallocation took place. However, I may point out that, if in any particular district or locality—for instance, I remember a number of questions being asked about Karkal taluk of the South Kanara district which may be perhaps less law-abiding than other taluks of the district—special circumstances exist, they will be considered. As a matter of fact, in this Karkal taluk about 7 or 8 murders have taken place, and some of them have not been detected. I need not go into matters of detail; but I may say this. It may be that in the case of Karkal taluk in view of the fact that several murders are committed, some of which are undetected, a greater degree of protection is advisable. I am willing to transmit to the Inspector-General for scrutiny and consideration, and consider myself, any representations regarding individual cases. But it must be remembered that this retrenchment proposal leading, as I have already stated, to a total of about Rs. 14 lakhs in the Police expenditure is a part of a bigger arrangement, and I trust that excepting cases of specific localities as to which hon. Members may have definite ideas, they will not propose general increases because if these considerations are to be upheld in the case of South Kanara, they will have to be upheld in Madura, and also in Ramnad, and I think one hon. Member from Ramnad has seen me with regard to a particular outpost. These requests may be good so far as individual cases are concerned, but I would deprecate any general requests of this kind. We are working the system, and if at the end of the first year of the working of the system we find that on the whole we have depleted the ranks of the police or lessened beyond what I may call the margin of safety the number of police stations, then it may be a case for reconsideration."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"Sir, I beg to move my motion No. 476 on the paper."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"May I ask my hon. Friend whether it is a real cut or is a token motion?"

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"I wanted it to be a real cut, Sir, but after hearing the explanation or the reasons for retaining the present strength, I shall reconsider my position. Now, Sir, I want to reduce the allotment of Rs. 2,58,500 for pay of officers by Rs. 45,000.

"My object is to omit the provision for 14 Deputy Superintendents of Police out of the provision for 39 Deputy Superintendents. It will be seen on turning to page 178 of the Civil Budget Estimates that it is proposed to have 27 District Superintendents of Police, 25 Assistant Superintendents and, in addition to that, 39 Deputy Superintendents. These 39 posts and the other 35 come to 74, which gives an average of 3 Assistant or Deputy Superintendents of Police for each district. I may claim to have some knowledge of the work that these deputy superintendents do, and I cannot say, Sir, that they have justified the expectations originally entertained for the necessity of their appointments or their continuance. In my opinion, Sir, it seems to me that these gentlemen have almost an easy time of the day, and they are not taking any particular care either in helping in investigations or in the inspection of offices that are placed under them. I do not want to say more because that will be going into very unnecessary details. All I can say is that there is no justification for retaining so many of them, on an average of 3 per district. It may be also seen that in the motion No. 482 I have given a cut by one hundred inspectors. My object is that the persons who are engaged in investigation are the sub-inspectors, and these superintendents are more or less a supervising authority, and I am not satisfied either with their supervision or with the efficient discharge of their functions. They have not satisfied the expectations that were originally entertained of them. I therefore beg to move for the reduction."

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Mr. President, this matter has formed the subject of discussion in this House for a very long time and ideas more or less akin to those that have emanated from the hon. Member from Cuddapah have found expression on the floor of this House. I may say, Sir, that it is not an unreasonable attitude on the part of an hon. Member of this House who does not know at first hand the extent of work that they have to do, to come to the conclusion that the system is really one hierarchy of supervision—I am using an expression which was used on the floor of this House once. It was said that the constable does some work, somebody else supervises him, some other officer supervises him in turn and so on until it is supervision to the Nth degree—that is my own expression. But the exact phrase used on that occasion was 'hierarchy of supervision.' Now, when dealing with this matter, Sir Lionel Davidson made the following statement when there was a motion of Rao Bahadur K. Gopalakrishnayya to reduce the allotment of Rs. 1,88,160 for deputy superintendents by Rs. 75,000 and with your permission I shall quote those remarks:

'I do not think that either the mover or the seconder can realize what the effect of accepting this motion would be. The deputy superintendents of police constitute the Provincial Police Service and if they are annihilated the number of Indians in the superior ranks in the department will be very substantially reduced. The functions of deputy superintendents of police correspond ordinarily to the functions of the assistant superintendents of police (that is, their Imperial confreres). They hold subdivisional charges in the districts, and there is not the least doubt that there is ample employment in such charges for the present staff. The question of additions to it has, I think, on two occasions been before the Finance Committee this year or last year. The number of deputy superintendents has been carefully worked out with reference to the actual charges which have to be held. They are not all subdivisional charges and the deputy superintendents form the Provincial branch of the Madras Police Department.'

"Now, I may, for the information of the hon. Member, give from the Police orders an abstract of the duties of the deputy superintendent. The duties of a deputy superintendent in charge of a subdivision are these:

'He is responsible for all matters relating to the internal economy and management of the District police force and for the maintenance of its discipline and punctual and regular performance of all its preventive and executive duties. He is responsible for seeing that his assistants and deputies work efficiently and to bring to the notice of the Inspector-General any defects of character or temperament or want of zeal. He shall make constant tours of inspection. He shall not confine himself to examining only police stations, but shall visit villages and make himself acquainted with the local village officials and inhabitants and ascertain the state of crime and enquire into the work of his subordinates.'

22nd March 1926] [Sir C. P. Ramaswami Ayyar]

'The deputy superintendents in charge of subdivisions are entirely under the orders of the District Superintendent of Police whom they are bound to keep fully informed of their proceedings and of what is going on in the subdivision. Subdivisional police officers shall, whenever possible, investigate cases of the following classes, visiting the scenes of crime and superintending the enquiry: dacoity, highway robbery, murder, robbery of over Rs. 100 and any case presenting important features, thefts of a specially grave nature, any disturbance, riot or affray of a serious nature, all cases in which a native has met with his death at the hands of a British soldier, any important or specially grave cases, and counterfeit currency notes. They shall investigate in portant cases of lesser gravity which may occur near their halting places.'

"Now, it may be said, Sir, and it has been said on the floor of this House, that this is a counsel of perfection, that as a matter of fact many deputy superintendents are merely office heads or hacks, that they do not do very much of investigation, that they do not go to the villages, as they are required to do and so on. If so, Sir, may I again plead, as I have pleaded during the last budget and also on the occasion previous to that, that it is only to the extent to which the deputy superintendents of police realize that they are not supermen but in general are servants of the public to the extent to which the Police realize that they are servants of the public, will the administration of the department reach the highest pitch. But there must be active co-operation on the part of the public to secure the best results. If there are any specific instances of backsliding or misconduct or negligence prejudicial to the interests of the public, if you approach the Inspector-General or the Member who for the time being has the honour of holding the Police portfolio, you will see that there will be no remissness in bringing such people to book. But it seems to me to say that these men are supernumeraries is not taking the right line. Sir, may I conclude with what Sir Lionel Davidson said that this is not the direction in which I would ask the hon. Member to move."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"May I know, Sir, what are the classes of investigation attended to by the deputy superintendents of police, what are the classes of crimes investigated by them and the other officers? From the list read out by the hon. the Law Member, he gave us an idea that the deputy superintendent does not only supervision but also investigation."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"In connexion with the subject of inspectors which is coming up separately, I shall deal with it."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"No doubt, Sir, the hon. Sir Lionel Davidson appealed to the Indian sentiment to preserve this Indian cadre. I am very much flattered by it and of course that is the only way of appealing to us for retaining such provisions. Very well, as regards the duties, I have very carefully heard the list of the duties of the deputy superintendents of police, but I may say, Sir, that they are very delightfully vague, and any one can undertake such duties without feeling any difficulty whatsoever. My point is this. The question is not that they can do much work but that they do not do such work as they are expected to do.

"I only wish, Sir, that these gentlemen are stirred up and are asked to do their duties as public servants, servants of the public. It is all very well to say that the public must co-operate with the police. But as regards that point I may say that the police consider themselves masters and that is the reason for the rub. If all the public servants think that they are the servants of the public then there will be no difficulty whatsoever. Especially these gentlemen of the Police department consider themselves as masters and the people as their servants. That is to borrow an expression from some of our brother members here"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" I thought that the deprecation of such impressions was most emphatically urged by my hon. Friend from Cuddapah."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" With this difference that this is my impression and it is on my responsibility as a pleader in a criminal district. My experience is that they could do better work, that they could show better investigation and that they could do better inspection and supervision. Unfortunately they do not come up to the point. I do not borrow other people's impression but it is my impression. If the hon. Member will only kindly stir them up I should have been very much pleased. I do not want that the officers should go to their houses from their offices. I do not press my motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—" I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 2,58,500 for pay of officers be reduced by Rs. 100.'

" Sir, so far as the Police department is concerned there are two or three sub-inspectors in my community of whom one, I understand, is in the selection grade. Moreover, Sir, it seems he has rendered meritorious service as a prosecuting sub-inspector. In spite of that, he has not been promoted to the inspector's grade. Though we have not been fortunate enough to see that some of our younger generations are recruited to the higher appointments in the Police service such as deputy superintendents of police and circle inspectors, I shall be glad if the hon. the Law Member considers this single case of sub-inspector who, in spite of his meritorious service, has not been promoted."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" I think it was my hon. Friend, Mr. R. Veerian, who last year put me a similar question. May I suggest to hon. Members of this House that cases where particular individuals have got claims to recognition or to promotion are just the cases where they ought to come direct to the Inspector-General or to the Member in charge and make a reasonable representation. There are a number of similar resolutions. May I make a statement? One hon. Member has stated that there are not sufficient number of Nadars in the Police department. One other hon. Member—I think he is looking at me—has appealed to me to promote certain Tiyyas to higher ranks in the Police department. I think six motions have been tabled by hon. Members belonging to the depressed classes suggesting that members of the depressed classes be promoted. Now, Sir, I may say that in this matter I have the fullest co-operation, and also His Excellency in the advice that he gets has the fullest co-operation of the Inspector-General in this matter. But it must be seen that the appointment of sub-inspectors and inspectors never comes to the Government at all. All these appointments are made by the Deputy Inspectors-General and Inspector-General Grades above that come to His Excellency and the Member in charge. In all these cases the House will take it from me that very great care is taken to see that communities get adequate representation. I am not saying this ad hominem. The number of Muhammadan gentlemen who have been given high places in the Police department is very large. That is really because there were men who distinguished themselves. I may say this, if members of any community do good work and service it will lead to prompt recognition. Having said that, let me make a statement. To say that a person who is 76th on the police list should be promoted makes it very difficult for any department to take action. But the inevitable result is that all the 75 are up in arms against the 76th. If the 76th man is out for something which the others won't get, a general discomposure is produced to the detriment of the 76th and of discipline in general. I would strongly suggest that when such recommendations are made the most expedient course is that those suggestions be made to the Inspector-General or the Member in charge. Else the whole department is up in arms against the 76th. With this statement I assure the hon. Member that the department will carefully consider the various claims."

Rao Bahadur P. RAMAN :—" I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 2,58,500 for pay of officers be reduced by Rs. 100.'

" I beg to invite the attention of the hon. the Law Member to the fact that there is no member of the Tiyya community as Deputy Superintendent."

* Khan Bahadur P. KHALIF-UL-LAH SAHIB :—" I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 2,58,500 for pay of officers be reduced by Rs. 100.'

" My only object in moving this is to bring to the notice of the Government the reasonableness of appointing a fair number of Muslims as District Superintendents of Police. Since giving this motion I understand some appointments have been made in this direction. In view of this fact of course I do not want to press my motion. At the same time I want to urge upon the Government the reasonableness of giving a fair number of representation in this department to which at any rate my community can claim to have rendered loyal and faithful service."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" There is one Muhammadan gentleman in the cadre of Deputy Superintendents, Mr. Ammu Sahib by name. He is at present acting as Superintendent of Police in the district of Malabar. He will in due course be made a Superintendent when the turn comes. There are ten Muhammadan permanent Deputy Superintendents. Of these, one is on leave and one is officiating as Superintendent of Police, West Godavari district. It will be thus seen that we have not ignored the claims of this community. Government realise that this community is specially fitted both by tradition and personal qualities to fill up places in the Police department and we are doing our best to encourage them."

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—" With regard to the case I have mentioned, it is not a question of 76th or 86th in the list. It is a case of sheer neglect. So, Sir, if the Government at least communicates this matter to the Inspector-General I shall be very glad."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Certainly, Sir. If that statement had been made to me the communication would have been made and probably produced a greater effect."

[22nd March 1926]

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"In such a case I will withdraw the motion."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN:—"Sir, with reference to my hon. Friend Mr. Raman's motion in relation to the Tiyya community I wish to say a few words. I am a Malayali and the Tiyyas are a fairly advanced community among us. I am one of those who believe that we people of Malabar need not go to Government and make appeals for communal preferences and all such things. There is a Judge of the High Court recruited from the Tiyya community. It is not through efforts of this kind that he was made a High Court Judge. There are other persons among the Tiyyas who hold equally responsible appointments in Government service. They got into the service by dint of their sheer merit. The Tiyyas like other Malayalis are a highly educated community who can afford to stand on their own legs. I am confident without special pleadings on their behalf they will be able to get into service if only they deserve them. I therefore ask my Friend Mr. Raman to withdraw his motion."

* Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN:—"I wish to speak a few words with reference to Mr. Raman's motion and from what has fallen from Mr. Tampan. I heard the hon. the Law Member say that if the seniormost Tiyya is to be appointed as a deputy superintendent of police that step will mean the supersession of so many other people. Well, I submit for the information of the hon. the Law Member that lately when selection of candidates for the deputy superintendents of police was made I understood that a Tiyya candidate was selected by the Staff Selection Board and approved by His Excellency the Governor. If there was any objection to select the seniormost Tiyya thereby ignoring the claims of men above him, what I would submit to the hon. the Law Member is to have a direct recruitment. I understand the Tiyya candidate who was selected has lately qualified himself in the Malabar territorial force and that he is a second lieutenant in the force. I submit to the hon. the Law Member that if he cannot give promotion to the seniormost Tiyya he will at least sympathetically consider the claims of the Tiyya who has been selected by the Staff Selection Board and afterwards qualified himself in the territorial force. I heard him say that unrepresented communities are given representation in the Police department. When the members of the depressed classes or backward communities are concerned it is said that the very fact that they belong to the backward community is no good by itself but that efficiency and qualification are the sole test. I have to submit, Sir, that last year when the selection of sub-inspectors was made, ever so many members of the backward classes . . ."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"I think the House will consider the question of sub-inspectors and inspectors later on as there are notices of such motion."

* Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN:—"I am just mentioning this as I heard the hon. the Law Member to say that the depressed and the backward communities are given representation in the Police department. My grievance is that we are told that the very fact that we happen to be members of backward or depressed classes is no right or claim unless we have qualifications. Ever so many of our members have been trying to get the post of sub-inspectors and they are qualified S.S.L.C.'s. Not a single member of our community has been selected last year among the number of candidates

1 p.m.

[22nd March 1926]

[Mr. P. V. Gopalan]

taken as sub-inspectors, and, if my information is correct, they are not selected even if they are duly qualified candidates. This is the position in which we are placed, and so we, the members of the depressed and backward communities, have certainly to bring this to the notice of the Government. I appeal to the hon. the Law Member that hereafter he will bear in mind that the real progress of the country lies in giving genuine representation to the members of the depressed classes and backward communities."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Sir, while I generally sympathise with the remarks that have been made by my hon. Friend who spoke last, he will perhaps allow me gently to remonstrate with him on one statement, viz., that hereafter at least I should be in sympathy with those communities. I may say, Sir, that in 1923 a communication was addressed to the Inspector-General of Police which was adverted to on the floor of this House during a debate on a similar matter, wherein the Inspector-General had been requested prominently to keep in view the claims of communities which have not already been sufficiently represented in the Police department, and he, Sir, has assured us that he will do so. Let me reiterate, what I said: sub-inspectors and inspectors are recruited at the present moment in the mufassal by the Inspector-General and the Deputy Inspector-General—these will be replaced in time by the Staff Selection Board or the Public Services Commission when it comes; I trust it will come soon. So far as the Deputy Superintendents are concerned, the procedure is as follows: the Staff Selection Board makes a preliminary choice out of the applicants. There are 300 or 400 of them, and a few who are found to be qualified and also chosen with advertence to the principle that all communities must have equal opportunities, are placed before His Excellency who generally interviews the candidates in the presence of the Member in charge of the portfolio and the Inspector-General, and sometimes His Excellency and the Member interview the candidates. At such an interview a Tiyya candidate was present, but the choice fell upon a Coorg candidate who had exceptional claims and whose past career was such that we could not possibly think of a better choice. What may be said is this: that the Tiyya candidate produced quite a favourable impression. This year there are two assistant superintendents of police to be recruited and certainly also a fresh recruitment of deputy superintendents, and I may say that the principles for which the hon. Members have contended will be prominently kept in view."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"I understand that the three hon. Members are desirous of withdrawing their motions."

The motions were by leave withdrawn.

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 2,58,500 for pay of officers be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"Mr. President, this is merely a motion to get some information. I think we had a similar motion with reference to the Revenue Department, and it was said that it was by a mistake that all those officers were made non-voted. I should like to know whether the same sort of mistake has crept in here, or whether it has anything to do with any specific recommendations made by the Lee Commission or with any action taken thereon. I find that the district superintendents of police have been increased by three and all these are put in the non-voted list."

[22nd March 1926]

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"This is not a slip, Sir. What happened is that in pursuance of the principle of Indianisation of the district superintendents of police, certain persons from the Provincial Service were put into the Imperial Service and have been appointed district superintendents. On their appointment in the Imperial Service they have been put into the non-voted list."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"May I ask under what principles these persons, when they are put in the list of whatever appointment on whatever ground should be treated as non-voted?"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Under the Government of India Act all appointments made by the Secretary of State are non-voted. It may be inconvenient and embarrassing to hon. Members. But facts are facts. What happened was, the Secretary of State threw open two more places for being filled up by members of the Provincial Service who may be promoted to the Imperial Service. In pursuance of that principle, for instance, Mr. Govindan Nayar and Mr. Ramanuja Ayyangar who were made District Superintendents of Police have now gone into the Imperial cadre. The other place went to the new district of West Godavari for which a district superintendent of police became necessary."

"As for their being put in the non-voted list, I may refer the hon. Member to section 72-D. of the Government of India Act—

'Nothing in the foregoing sub-section shall require proposals to be submitted to the Council relating to the following heads of expenditure:— (iv) salaries and pensions of persons appointed by or with the approval of His Majesty or by the Secretary of State in Council.'

"As these appointments are made by the Secretary of State, they are not put in the voted list."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"Mr. President, Sir, the explanation that the hon. the Law Member has been pleased to give makes me ask you how these appointments were made. Were they appointments open to the Provincial Service men before, and have they since been absorbed into the Indian Police Service cadre? If so, may I know, Sir, how the Secretary of State came to throw open these appointments to the Indian Police Service? Did it happen that two more appointments were given to the Imperial Service so that the cadre was increased by two?"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Two appointments for which men would normally be recruited from England as assistant superintendents were allowed to be made by promotion from the ranks of the Provincial Service."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"I do not press the motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 80,65,000 for Police Force—General—Permanent—be reduced by Rs. 2,10,000.'

(i.e., to omit provision for 100 Inspectors of Police out of the provision for 253 Inspectors of Police)

"As I already intimated, it seems to me that we have got too many inspectors with very little work. Very often, Sir, I have noticed sub-inspectors and inspectors are, so to say, of contrary opinion as regards the investigation and progress of a particular criminal case. The result is that the investigation suffers, and people are not done proper justice. So far as the supervision question is concerned, I submit that there are the District Superintendent of Police and his assistants, viz., the Assistant Superintendent of Police and also the Deputy Superintendents in the district. As I have already submitted, there are three Assistants, either as Assistant Superintendents or Deputy Superintendents, on an average in every district to assist the District Superintendent in the matter of supervision. I do not at all understand why there is a necessity for 253 inspectors, when their work of supervision can be equally done by the superior officers, Assistant Superintendents and Deputy Superintendents and the District Superintendent, and when the work of investigation can be done and is being done by the sub-inspectors of police. Very often, the inspector's interference in investigation of cases causes only confusion in the case, and consequent improper investigation of the criminal case. I submit, Sir, that Government must consider this question, which is being raised every year, i.e., the question of the continuance of inspectors of police. It is possible that by reducing the number of inspectors you may increase the sub-inspectors. Sometimes the jurisdiction of one single sub-inspector is too large, and you may have two sub-inspectors for a single station, allotting one portion of the jurisdiction to one sub-inspector and the other portion to another sub-inspector, just as we post two district munsifs or two sub-judges to one station. In that way, you may increase the number of sub-inspectors, so that the sub-inspectors may do the work properly, the work of investigation of crimes. I submit, Sir, that that will be a proper way of spending our money instead of employing so many as 253 inspectors, which means on an average nearly 10 inspectors per district, and the amount that we spend on them is not at all justifiable. I therefore submit that as a first step a hundred inspectors of police might be reduced for the current year. In any case, my submission is that the question of supervision and the work done by the police do require further consideration at the hands of the Government, and I submit that unless the Government do really seriously consider the question there is every chance of the crimes being left undetected or unsatisfactorily detected."

[22nd March 1926]

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Mr. President, Sir, I am indebted to the hon. Member from Uddapah for, if I may use the expression, the reasonable speech which he has made in regard to this matter. The reasonableness of the speech, however, was somewhat in contrast with the unreasonableness of the request with which he wound up his speech, namely, the immediate abolition of 100 inspectors. Sir, let me take the House back to not very ancient days. I think it was last year the question was raised in a direct form and then I pointed out that in 1916 and 1917, the Government tried an experiment . . ."

* At this stage, Mr. Saldanha's voice in conversation from behind the official Benches being heard, the hon. the PRESIDENT said:—"May I say to Mr. Saldanha that there is one debate going on here, which only can be carried on, and not another debate in any other part of the House?"

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"I pointed out then, Sir, that in 1916-17 Government tried the experiment of abolishing inspectors of police and creating additional subdivisions in charge of Assistant

p.m.

[Sir C. P. Ramaswami Ayyar] [22nd March 1926]

Superintendents. The experiment was tried in Trichinopoly and Kurnool, where the inspectors were completely removed, and in a modified form in Coimbatore where two inspectors were attached to Subdivisional Officer for the purpose of investigation and control of crime, the system of circle inspectors being abolished. The experiment went on for about three years. In 1919, the Inspector-General of Police reported that the experiments were a complete failure and that supervision over the work of sub-inspectors had become bad. I am quoting his words: 'Investigation of crime becomes more and more unsatisfactory and discipline wholly below the mark' These were attributed to the absence of circle inspectors who were considered an indispensable link in the police grade. This position was accepted by the Government and the restoration of circle inspectors was ordered in 1919.

"Then in 1923, in connexion with the work of the Police Committee, it will be remembered that there was a very thorough and exhaustive enquiry of this specific question by the Police Committee on which there sat some hon. Members of this House and also certain very experienced and efficient members of the police force. The conclusions are contained in the Police Committee Report of 1923 at page 109. They are:

'that inspectors cannot be dispensed with though it may be possible to effect some reduction in the present number, that sub-inspectors should be retained as the officers in charge of stations and as the ordinary investigating agency, though an enquiry should be instituted as to the necessity of the existing number of stations.'

"I can further say that orders were passed on this report in September 24, 1923, in which the Government stated as follows:—

'The Government agree with the Committee that though it may be possible to effect some reduction in their numbers the grade of inspectors must be retained. A very important part of their duties is to guide and help the sub-inspectors and with their greater experience take on some of the more difficult parts of their work. The sub-inspector must continue as the officer in charge of a station and as the ordinary investigating agency. The Government are further of the opinion that the question of the pay of this grade needs serious and careful examination. The pay and status of the sub-inspector has been improved from time to time in the hope of recruiting the really good men who would improve the standard of work performed by the old station-house officer. While the Government admit that there has been considerable improvement since the old system was abolished, it is clear that the sub-inspector scheme has not on the whole been a success, a rather better class of station-house officer has been obtained, but at greatly increased expense. The Police Commission contemplated very definitely that the sub-inspector would be of the best type of the educated class. The effective commentary on the failure to secure this is the suggestion of the committee that the proportion of sub-inspectors to be recruited by promotion from the rank of head constable should be increased above the maximum of 30 per cent at present allowed.'

"But the fact of the matter was that the Government came to the conclusion that there was a defect in the system of recruitment of sub-inspectors, for we have not got that class of sub-inspectors which would enable us to dispense with the grade of inspectors. It is true that theoretically much may be said in favour of the system of having sub-inspectors as not only an investigating agency but as an agency which may be in direct correlation with the Deputy Superintendents, if sub-inspectors could be recruited of the kind of calibre which was originally contemplated. That was not practicable. The question of the abolition was examined by the Police Committee of 1923 and the Government agreed with the majority view. Consequent on the reallocation proposals, the number of sub-inspectors to be reduced permanently by 70, and we have not got that grade of sub-inspectors to enable us to dispense with the inspectors. We came to the conclusion that we might retain the sub-inspector purely and simply as an investigating agency. The propositions are now under consideration for the reduction at once in the course of this year of the sub-inspectorate by 56. This reduction will be increased next year. The present police budget for 1926-27 is based on the footing that 56 sub-inspectors go. That is the exact position to-day. In view of these matters I ask the hon. Member to bear in mind that the Government have been very anxiously considering the question of the reduction of the number of sub-inspectors and inspectors taken as a group, that they have come to the conclusion that on the whole any reduction that is to be effected or that may be effected should be rather in the ranks of sub-inspectors than in the ranks of inspectors, really because there is not very much difference in the matter of the quality of persons actually recruited, between the head constable, and the sub-inspector. We have not been able to realize our ambition to get as sub-inspector a person who would be of superior type, both by character and attainment so as to do away with the institutions of inspectors. If we are fortunate enough to get that class of person as sub-inspector, very much retrenchment in the ranks of the inspector would be possible. At present it is not possible. With these words, I would ask the hon. Member to bear in mind that the Government is not unalive to these matters."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"Sir, my hon. Friend the Law Member referred to the report of the Police Committee and said that in the opinion of the Government as well as of the Police Committee the recruitment of sub-inspectors has not been on the whole a success and therefore it is not possible . . ."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—"the quality of the sub-inspectors recruited has not been that which we hoped for."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"That is, the quality of sub-inspectors recruited is not of that quality which would make it possible to reduce the number of circle inspectors. That is how I understood my hon. Friend and that is how I understood the Police Committee report when I read it. It seems to me that that shows that there has been considerable fault in the system of recruitment of sub-inspectors. I know personally and I believe it must be within the experience of many Members of this Council, and possibly within the experience of my hon. Friend himself before he began to occupy that Bench that amongst the applicants for sub-inspectors places were men of very high education. I know personally there were many graduates who were applicants for appointments as sub-inspectors. And I know also that there are a few graduates among those who have been appointed as sub-inspectors; there are not many. If the recruitment, I am not confining my remarks to any particular district or area, it is a general observation, if the recruitment to the ranks of sub-inspectors had been more careful, this result, namely, that the sub-inspectors that have been actually recruited have not been of the desired quality, would not have happened; and if we have had the necessary quality in sub-inspectors that were actually recruited, then there would have been no necessity to retain the present number of inspectors. In fact, if we have sub-inspectors of the requisite quality, and deputy or assistant superintendents of the requisite quality, then there is no need for the circle inspector to stand midway between the two. There may be exceptional cases where the circle inspector may be necessary. I submit that this middle class officers is unnecessary, and if the quality of sub-inspector is not of the required type, it is due to the defect in the system of recruitment. So that, if my hon. Friend will impress on those whose duty it is to recruit sub-inspectors to pay particular attention to the quality and the qualification of the candidates, I submit the desired men may be easily got."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" May I thank my hon. Friend from Malabar for having put the matter, perhaps, in a more trenchant and better way than I was able to do. The real difficulty is, as I have stated, that we have not been able to get the right kind of men, not the head constable type, but of a type of men superior to the head constable. If we secure that type, then the number of sub-inspectors can be very considerably reduced. I shall keep in the suggestions that have been made by the hon. Member from Cuddapah and my hon. Friend from Malabar and impress on the department the expediency, indeed the necessity of recruiting to the first superior grade of the police, men of the required calibre and qualifications, and in the best possible manner."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" As to this want of quality in the recruitment, can it be due to recruitment on a communal basis ? "

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" If my hon. Friend will permit me, I do not think any single cause can be assigned to it; it may be lack of promotion, it may be there are other avenues which attract the better type of young men, it may be that the Police department is not as popular as it should be, there may be a hundred reasons, and it will be very difficult to assign any specific reason. I trust my hon. Friend will not pursue that line."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU :—" I will never pursue that line; it is not in my line. All I suggest is that the statements made by the hon. the Law Member clearly go to show that there must be some enquiry before we make this department efficient and attractive. I submit, Sir, as the hon. the Law Member has stated that he would make enquiries into these matters, I withdraw the motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—" I am going to withdraw my motion (No. 487 on the agenda). Before withdrawing the motion, I want to say

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" I wish the hon. Member would not speak of withdrawing so early, as he could not make a speech."

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—" Then in such a case I have nothing more to say except to thank the hon. the Law Member for his kindness in asking the police to take the necessary steps in the matter of the Nadars of Maveedupannai. Sir, it was a dispute between two communities, the Nadars and Brahmans."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" The hon. Member is already satisfied with the action taken by the hon. the Law Member."

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—" I want to thank the hon. the Law Member."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Motions of gratitude to Members of the front Bench are hardly in order on budget motions."

[22nd March 1926]

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—" I have been asked to convey the thanks to the hon. the Law Member in the open House."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" If hon. Members want to convey their thanks to Members on the front Bench, I am afraid very valuable time of the House will be taken up. I thought criticism was more legitimate."

The House adjourned for lunch at 1-30 p.m.

After Lunch (2-30 p.m.).

Rao Bahadur M. C. RAJA :—" I beg to move

' that the allotment of Rs. 1,21,59,400 for District Police be reduced by Rs. 100.'

" Sir, I have been giving notice of motions like this year after year to reduce the grant under Police and have been asking the hon. the Law Member to give more appointments to my community in the Police department, and every year I have been assured and also promised that it would be done so, but to no effect. The only department in which my people would be of great service is the Police department. You know, Sir, by long ancestry that it was our people who served in the Indian army from the earliest times of the East India Company up to the present day and as such we deserve every support from the Government in the Police department. In spite of this fact, the representation given to my people in the Police department is very very small. The other day with reference to a question tabled by my hon. Friend Mr. Veerian a statement was presented before the House that the number of candidates of the depressed classes that applied for posts of sub-inspectors of police, etc., in the Madras City was three, that the Staff Selection Board had the kindness of selecting one from among these three, and that the department had the generosity of rejecting even that one candidate. Then, again, Sir, as regards the appointments of probationary deputy superintendents of police there were three candidates from my community. The Staff Selection Board with their usual generosity selected one candidate and the department rejected even that one candidate. If that is the state of things that is going to prevail under the present Government, I do not know where we will stand in regard to our claims in the public services. I respectfully ask the hon. the Law Member to consider the question of recruiting more from the depressed classes to the Police Service and at least this year I hope he will give special instructions to the Inspector-General of Police to see that a larger number of my people are recruited in that department. The position is this: we do not ask that inefficient people should be entertained in that department, but other things being equal, I want that preference should be given to the members of the depressed classes when they apply for recruitment in the Police department. According to a statement furnished to me, I see that there are three candidates belonging to my community possessing the required qualification to be entertained as sub-inspectors of police but not one of them has actually been taken. In the other case three qualified men have applied and not one of them has been taken. That clearly shows the amount of sympathy which is extended to our community. I therefore request the hon. the Law Member to issue special instructions, special instructions I ask, to the Inspector-General of Police to entertain our men."

[22nd March 1926]

* Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"I am going to convince the hon. the Law Member (hear, hear) by facts and figures as to how the members of the depressed classes are being selected as constables in the Police department. I know for certain that selections are being made, not by the hon. the Law Member, but by the District Superintendent of Police on the recommendation of every circle inspector of police or the inspector of police or by some of the responsible officer in the department, or I think he can select them of his own accord without considering any recommendation from any of the responsible officers of the Police department. When I made several months ago my representation in a very constitutional manner to the hon. the Law Member with reference to this matter, he told me that he would issue a circular to the department to recruit men from among the depressed classes."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"It is not merely question of telling the hon. Member. A circular has been issued enjoining on the department the imperative necessity of seeing that as many as possible of the members of that community are enlisted."

* Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"I want to say that I am a believer in frequent circulars and not in one or two circulars. Because I am sure that by issuing frequent circulars the desired results will be achieved. I particularly request the hon. the Law Member in charge of the portfolio of Police (laughter) to issue frequent circulars. I am sure that if the members of the depressed classes are selected, it will be a great honour done to the depressed classes as a whole. I am very grateful for the small mercy shown towards the depressed classes by the hon. the Law Member in issuing circulars."

"Sir, I think the following qualifications only are required for persons to be selected as constables in the Police department namely satisfactory character, social status, and ability to read and write the vernaculars of the Presidency."

"They should be well-built in body. They should be loyal also. Do you think that the members of the depressed classes are lacking in any of these qualities? No, certainly not. I want to bring to the notice of the hon. the Law Member that no member of the depressed classes was selected in 1924-25 in the districts of Vizagapatam, Kurnool, Godavari East, Kistna, Godavari West, Guntur, Nellore, Cuddapah, South Arcot, Ramnad, Tinnevely, North Malabar, South Malabar, South Kanara, Railway Police Madras, Railway Police, Trichinopoly. In Coimbatore only one was selected in the year 1924; in 1925 none was selected. In 1925 also none was selected in so many of these districts. After all only 30 persons were selected in the year 1924 and only 28 were selected in the year 1925. This is far from satisfactory. I request the hon. the Law Member to issue frequent circulars so that they might have the desired effect."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Mr. President, Sir, I have heard with interest the businesslike and persistent appeal of my hon. Friend Mr. Raja. I have also listened with considerable interest to the somewhat thrilling statement made by the hon. Member Mr. Veerian, every one of whose actions and gestures proclaimed that he not only was moved himself with great emotion, but was obviously desirous of communicating that emotion to his hearers. (Laughter.) I realize that the state of things under which only 30 were recruited in one year and only 28 in another year is not quite satisfactory. Let me say that deliberately from my place here, Government are satisfied that recruitment can be accelerated from among the depressed classes. I realize what has fallen from Mr. Raja in regard to the qualities of the depressed classes which may enable them to become efficient police officers. They yield to none in their fine physique, in their instinct for discipline and loyalty to their superior officers. They have moreover martial traditions. Having regard to all these factors, Government deliberately enjoined upon the department the necessity of speeding up. I may here make one remark apropos what has fallen from the hon. Member Mr. Veerian regarding frequent circulars. Sir, there is no particular efficacy in frequent circulars. When the Government in a responsible capacity tells the Inspector-General that they expect him to do a certain thing, the Inspector-General knows what the intention of the Government is. I do not think, Sir, as sometimes happens in our domestic affairs, constant lectures whether they be curtain lectures or otherwise, are necessary from the head of the administration to the departmental officers. Let us hope that what I have said to-day and what I shall say as a consequence of the whole debate will result in much better statistics next year, when Mr. Veerian, I trust, will utilize his undoubted eloquence on some other subject and not on constables."

Rai Bahadur T. M. NARASIMHACHARLU:—"If he is renominated." (Laughter.)

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"I do not think I have said anything to cause amusement. I wish to state, however, that what I said is not to be taken as a pledge of renomination." (Laughter.)

Rao Bahadur M. C. RAJA:—"In view of the assurance given by the hon. the Law Member that he would do his level best to show better statistics next year, I beg to withdraw my motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"Sir, I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 10,100 for pay of officers be reduced by Rs. 1,000.'

"In spite of what has fallen from the mouth of the hon. the Law Member as to the calibre of the present day inspectors of police, I wish to know the necessity for an additional police training school."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Mr. President, Sir, I think there is a misapprehension on this matter and I shall endeavour to clear it up. There are now only two Central Recruiting Schools, one at Anantapur and the other at Vellore. The former is intended for the Telugu recruits. There is accommodation in the Central Recruiting School, Vellore, for the training of not more than 275 recruits at a time. The period of training is six months. In future the vacancies in the Tamil districts are expected to be 7 per cent per annum on the sanctioned strength of head constables and constables. After allowing for the reduction in the sanctioned strength of the police force which will be effected by the reallocation schemes now under the consideration of Government, it is expected on this calculation that about 382 Tamil recruits will have to be trained every six months. It is therefore necessary to re-open the Central Recruits' School at Coimbatore."

"After allowing for the reduction in the sanctioned strength of the police already mentioned there were 305 vacancies on the 30th October 1925, in the ranks of police constables in the Tamil districts; this was due to the stoppage of the recruitment of constables last year. There is room for only ten more recruits at the Central Recruits' School, Vellore, as there are already 265 recruits under training in that school. It is therefore necessary that in a central place like Coimbatore a school should be opened. The existing number of vacancies in the Tamil districts justify the re-opening of the Central Recruits' School, Coimbatore, from 15th April 1926."

[Sir C. P. Ramaswami Ayyar] [22nd March 1926]

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR:—"I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs 2,00,900 for Criminal Investigation Department be omitted.'

"Sir, when my hon. Friend, the Law Member, made his observations in reply to what I stated regarding the incident at Pondicherry when Mr. Venkataramana Ayyangar who went to see Mr. Arabindo Ghose was made to give his thumb impression, unfortunately I was not here; but I read them in the papers and having regard to these observations I have no desire to press the motion. But I wish to elicit this information whether there are any policemen, constables or head constables or sub-inspectors or other officers of a higher rank belonging to the British Police, that are stationed in Pondicherry and if so why they are there."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"I trust my hon. Friend who, in addition to his public experience, has also administered an important Indian State will realize the limitations that I labour under in giving a full information on the subject on the floor of the House. Suffice it to say this that there are certain British Police officials in Pondicherry the reason for their being there being purely political. I think I can say this; but I have to guard myself naturally. There are certain movements not only of an all-India but of a universal character which are engaging the anxious attention of the Government, the British Government and the Indian public. Such movements have amongst other objects the object of subverting all governments in this country. They are not imaginary as sometimes stated in the newspapers. The Communist and Bolshevik movements are really existing. Having regard to the position of Pondicherry, a certain number of people have always taken refuge there and have taken part in such movements. It is with reference to such movements and for that reason alone that the British Police is there—a small number of them—I may say. With regard to the particular matter referred to by the hon. Member I may say that the British Police had nothing to do with the procedure followed."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR:—"After the statement of the hon. the Law Member I have no desire to press the motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Rao Sahib R. SRINIVASAN:—"Sir, I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 6,03,900 for Railway Police be reduced by Rs 100.'

"My object is to discuss the necessity of maintaining a police staff with an inadequate contribution by the Railways."

22nd March 1926]

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Sir, I have got the papers here ready. I should like to know exactly what the hon. Member means. Does the hon. Member mean by his token motion that the Railways should contribute more or contribute less?"

* Rao Sahib R. SRINIVASAN:—"I do not see the reason why the rate-payers' money should be spent for the benefit of the share-holders of the Railway Company. The Company must arrange for the bandobast of their own goods and for the proper safety of the goods of the passengers. The rate-payers should not be made to pay for the benefit of the Railway Company."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"The word 'tax-payers' would be better than 'rate-payers' which is used only in the case of a municipality."

* Rao Sahib R. SRINIVASAN:—"Yes, Sir, the tax-payers. The tax-payers should not bear so much of the cost of the Railway Police."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Sir, if I were to explain the whole of the relations between the Government and the Railways as a result of arrangements between whom this contribution was arrived at, it would be taking an unreasonable amount of the time of the House. Suffice it to say, however, that the whole question was discussed in the year 1914 between the Government of India, the various Local Governments and the Railway administration. The principle laid down was that the various Local Governments should pay for the police stationed to prevent crime and maintain order and the Railway Companies were to pay for the watch and ward police. Government are responsible to see that the passengers are not molested, and that order is preserved in the Railway stations, that dacoity and theft do not take place and that things are kept safe in the various enclosures. The Government are responsible for what may be called the bigger items of preventive work while the Railway Companies make themselves responsible for the watch and ward, namely, guaranteeing to the various consignors and consignees the safety of their goods from pilferage. As to how far they have adequately discharged their responsibility is a matter which has been dealt with separately and on which I cannot enter just now. Acting on that principle what has been done is this. So far as the Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway is concerned, in 1922-23 they contributed 1½ lakhs while the Government contributed 3 lakhs. As far as the South Indian Railway is concerned, the Railway contributed 1½ lakhs while we contributed 3½ lakhs. The whole question has from time to time been engaging the attention of this Government and the Government of India and I may assure hon. Members that the point of view of this Government that the Railway Companies should bear an increasing proportion of the cost of the police has been pressed upon the attention of the authorities."

"Incidentally, I may mention that one of the great difficulties confronting the Railway Companies with regard to the prevention of thefts within the premises of Railway Companies is the absence of a law like the Pilferage Law which is on the tapis. I wish only to conclude with one observation bearing upon a remark which fell from the hon. Member, that all these moneys go to swell the shareholders' dividends. That is not quite correct so far as the policy of the South Indian Railway is concerned. The hon. Member is undoubtedly aware that with regard to the South Indian Railway that 13/14 of the shares are held by the Government and that only 1/14 of the share by the shareholders. It is not correct to say that the dividends of the shareholders alone are swelling."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN:—"Sir, I move that the allotment of Rs 3,31,000 for Malabar Special Police be reduced by Rs. 100."

"My object in bringing this token motion is to discuss the desirability of introducing legislation to place the Military Police on a statutory basis and other minor matters connected with it. Sir, before I approach the subject I must deprecate in my own humble way the manner in which the subject of the special police in Malabar is dealt with in this Council. I find two hon. Members have given notice of abolishing the force altogether and three other hon. Members have given notice of motions for reduction of the grant for the special police force. I am glad none of these motions has been moved. Sir, it is a matter which affects the life and death of the people of Malabar. Until the rebellion broke out in 1921 the Government of India had stationed a contingent of European soldiers at Malapuram and Cannanore. They were maintained for more than fifty years. Now that the Government of India on account of financial stringency have decided not to keep the military force, it is highly necessary that as long as the Mappilla mentality is not altered the special police of Malabar should be continued. I do not mean to say that all the six stations should be continued, or that the present number should be kept up. But what I do maintain is that a force is highly necessary and it should not be interfered with at all. The hon. the Leader of the Opposition, the other day, when the question of purchasing motor-cars came up for consideration doubted the legality of the question. He said also that it was more a Central subject than a Provincial one and that the matter ought to be dealt with by the Government of India. But as I have already stated, the Government of India have once for all told the Madras Government that they would have to depend on their own resources in such matters. I believe it was in connexion with the salary and other terms of service of the military police that Mr Stokes who was deputed to inquire into the matter, raised the desirability of placing the force on a statutory basis. I think, Sir, that in Burma or in some other province in India there is a similar enactment on the statute book and I should like to impress upon the Government if it is decided to keep the force in Malabar, that it is highly necessary that their service, pensions and emoluments should be statutorily guaranteed. That will also give an opportunity to the House to enter into the question fully in all its aspects and place it on a substantial basis. With these few words I commend the motion."

was originally anticipated. But there is nothing like adhering to the principle of the doctrine that prevention is better than cure. Now, Sir, while on this subject and with advertance not solely to the remarks that have fallen from the hon. Member who is speaking with a full knowledge of the subject and with experience of what took place in that beautiful country some time ago and has assured the House of the necessity of proper steps being taken in this matter but because this will dispel the doubt that prevails on the subject I may say that the extra expenditure involved in the proposed reorganization of the special police force will be more than counterbalanced by the savings effected by the reduction in armed reserve and other ranks. Let me say that Mr Stokes, in that report to which tribute must be paid in passing for his careful and exhaustive analysis of the situation and the masterly manner in which he has approached the problem, has suggested that there should be two special forces, the East Coast Special Police costing Rs. 43,003 and the Malabar Special Police costing Rs. 51,162. The total cost is Rs. 94,765. By the abolition of certain local allowances and by the abolition of parts of the older system of armed reserves which alone costs not less than one lakh of rupees we have indeed effected a slight saving.

"But let me deal with the matter specially adverted to by the hon. Member, Mr. Prabhakaran Tampan. It would be realized that what Mr Stokes said was this: 'The opinion has been strongly urged that the existing Police Act and Police Orders are not primarily designed for a force that is to be under strict military discipline and that the new striking forces if proper discipline and efficiency is to be attained, must be enrolled under some more suitable enactment. Not only are the existing law and rules deficient in that they make little or no provision for summary discipline, but it is open to any constable to give two months' notice and to quit the force at the expiry thereof without being liable to be dealt with as a deserter. In this opinion I agree and recommend that suitable legislation be undertaken on the model of the Assam Military Police Act. Considerable difficulty, I was informed by Mr. Sweney, has been felt during the present fituri operations in dealing with petty breaches of discipline, while on service under the existing Police Act and Rules, which require a personal hearing, the recording of explanations, etc., and contemplate an elaborate system of appeals.' I may say in answer to the criticisms which have been made that the object of the special force is not to create a military but a semi-military force, a striking force, which will take the place of a military force that for many reasons political and others, it is much better that there is a force organized on a semi-military basis which will deal with the situation rather than that military should be called in to deal with the situation according to martial law. It is on that basis that the Government of India have suggested that we ought to have these special forces. It is from that point of view that it is essential to emphasize that these forces are to be striking forces in the strict sense and must not be saddled with extraneous duties such as escort of prisoners and treasure guarding. I may say that the Government in reviewing that report and passing orders on the 12th February 1925 have arrived at the conclusion that they agree that the existing Police Orders are not primarily designed for a force which is to be under strict military discipline and that these forces must be enrolled under some more suitable enactment and they propose as soon as practicable to introduce legislation on the model of the Eastern Bengal and Assam Act III of 1812. The matter is receiving the consideration of the Government."

[22nd March 1926]

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—“ Sir, I am perfectly at one with my hon. Friend, the mover of this motion, and also with my hon. Friend, the Law Member, in thinking that this subject . . . (A voice: Inconsistent?). There is nothing inconsistent. I am perfectly at one with both in thinking that there is need for maintaining at present a special police force in Malabar. As has been remarked the relations between the Hindu community and the Mappilla community are fast being restored to the harmonious state that existed before that unfortunate rebellion of 1921 broke out. Whenever the necessity of maintaining this force in Malabar arose on the floor of this House I have always lent the support of my voice and vote for maintaining the force in Malabar. The question recently arose some time ago, I believe, during the last sitting of this Council in connexion with a supplementary demand, and I pointed out that the time for abolishing the force in Malabar had not yet come, and that it was necessary to continue to maintain this force for some time more. That supplementary demand arose in connexion with buying motor bicycles to the officers of that force. That was my opinion then; that is my opinion now.

“ But I differ from my hon. Friend, Mr. Prabhakaran Tampan, in thinking that a statute should be passed for this purpose, and that the special police force should be stationed in Malabar on a statutory basis. I would rather leave it to the executive orders of the Government; for, say what we may, we cannot shut our eyes to the fact that the existence of this force in Malabar is a source of soreness to the Mappilla community. I still maintain that it is necessary to have the force for some years more. But it would be a soreness to the Mappilla community if we place this force on a statutory basis. It is only after the repeal of that statute that the force can be abolished. If, on the other hand, the force is continued to be maintained at the present basis by executive orders of the Government, and as those orders will be based on the grants passed by this Council, the Government may at any time either abolish the force or reduce its strength. That will give very much greater freedom and proper latitude to the Government to deal with this force. I said that maintaining this force on the executive orders of the Government would enable the Government or this Council as the occasion required to reduce the force, increase it or abolish it altogether. So, I am certainly not for encumbering the establishment of this force and adding greater difficulty. Therefore I am against placing this force on a statutory basis.”

8-16 P.M. Mr. T. M. MOIDU SAHIB :—“ Mr. President, Sir, when I tabled a similar motion, I thought that the day has come to take away the special force from Malabar, because when I went through the Administration Report of the Police department in this Presidency for 1924, I found that Malabar comes next to Vizagapatam and Ganjam, that is, the least crime-committing districts, i.e., serious offences against persons and property. It is stated in the Administration Report that Malabar comes under 2,500 to 3,000, i.e., one crime for 2,500 to 3,000 persons. That is the next least in the Presidency. Under these circumstances, I think I can at least convince this House that Malabar is coming to normal conditions. I do not agree with my hon. Friend, Mr. Prabhakaran Tampan, that there will be always a necessity for a special police force in Malabar, but a day may be near at hand when we may dispense with the special police.”

[22nd March 1926]

* Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN :—“ Mr. President, Sir, I am sorry that I have to disagree with my hon. Friend who last spoke. Malabar, as we are aware, is divided into two parts, North Malabar and South Malabar. My hon. Friend who just spoke comes from North Malabar, and, as a matter of fact, we practically have no animosity and we bear not any malice for the people in North Malabar, because every one of them is educated. Unfortunately, my Muhammadan friends in the Ernad and Walluvanad taluks are uncivilized, uncultured and unlettered, and unless and until the conditions improve, they cannot stand on the same footing and level as my Muhammadan brethren in North Malabar. I for one would oppose any resolution of this hon. House to do away with the special police in South Malabar. In saying this, I have the assurance of one Muhammadan representative in this august assembly, I mean the Council, to say that he realizes the necessity for the retention of the special police in South Malabar, and it was that which prompted me the other day to oppose a motion for the wholesale release of political prisoners, after knowing my Friend Mr. K. Uppi Sahib approached the hon. the Law Member and requested him that the grandsons of the great Mampuram Thangal should never be permitted into South Malabar unless and until the political situation in Ernad and other places improved. What does this mean? It means that a Mappilla elected representative of Malabar comes forward and says that the political situation in Malabar is not safe and sound even now.”

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—“ May I appeal to my hon. Friend that these representations were made to me personally by hon. Members of this House, and I do not know whether it is quite in order to refer to that.”

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—“ I was under the impression that they were made on the floor of this House.”

* Rao Sahib P. T. GOPALAN :—“ Whatever it may be, Mr. President, my point is this. If an elected representative of the Mappillas of Malabar should approach any one Member of the Government of Madras and request that the time has not come for the . . . ”

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—“ I would ask the hon. Member not to refer to private conversations between Members of the Council and Members of the Government because we do not know what the conversations were about.”

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—“ I may say this, Sir. It may not be accurate to call it a private conversation, because it was a deliberate statement made by an hon. Member of the House and it is quite open to him to take any attitude in the matter. It is as well to keep out of open discussion that kind of representation made by Members of Council to Members of Government. That is what I say.”

* Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN :—“ If what I represent, Sir, is not correct, it is open for the hon. the Law Member to deny it. But I make special emphasis on the point, Mr. President, for this reason. If an elected representative of the Mappillas of Malabar could impress upon the Government the necessity that some people who have been deported should not be given passport to enter Malabar, that shows that Malabar has not resumed its normal conditions. Hence, I would oppose any proposal made in this House to do away with the police force in South Malabar. So far as my hon. Friend

[Mr. P. V. Gopalan]

[22nd March 1926]

Mr. Prabbakaran Tampam's views before the House are concerned, all that I say is that I would strongly oppose any measure from any one of this House to do away with the special police in South Malabar."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Mr President, Sir, following the appeal which I made to the hon. Member, I do not propose to refer to the instance that he has adverted to. But there is no doubt that there is a feeling amongst responsible persons in South Malabar that there ought to be no cessation of vigilance as to this matter. As to the statute I may say that the Government are contemplating this, but they will take the opinion not only of this House but of the public. They will publish their Bill for opinion and we shall see what the general opinion is. There is only one misconception which I should like to correct: that is, that this Bill would not be applicable solely to the striking force in Malabar. If there is going to be a striking force in any locality, that will be subjected to the regulation, so that the continuance or the permanence of the special force in Malabar will not be a kind of concomitant of the existence of the statute. Rather will the statute regulate the special force wherever it is stationed."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" In spite of what my hon. Friend on the left has said, I feel convinced that the continuance of the special force in Malabar is absolutely necessary for the peace and order of the district."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" Sir, a word of personal explanation. My friend certainly misunderstood me, or I was rather obscure in my statement. I did not say at all that the special police force is not necessary in Malabar. What I stated was that it is better to have it on the executive orders of the Government. Government may reduce it or abolish it whenever they think it necessary. It is not necessary and it is undesirable to place it on a statutory basis. That is my point. As I said, I was obscure myself or my friend has misunderstood me."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" One other point, Sir, that I wish to impress upon the House is that the special police has more than justified its existence during the rebellion and later in the fiteri. Sir, though it is stationed in Malabar, it may be availed of for similar service in any part of the Presidency. I only want that the Madras Government should maintain a striking force and that it should be located in Malabar so that it may be used whenever any emergency comes. That aspect of the question seems to have not received the attention of the House. Since the hon. the Law Member has told us that it is under the consideration of the Government to bring in a Bill, I do not wish to press my motion, if you will allow me to do so, Sir."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" The time allotted for the demand being over, it is now my duty to put the demand to the House."

The question that Government be granted the sum of Rs 153.09 lakhs for Police was then put to the House and carried. The Grant was made.

DEMAND XVI—PORTS AND PILOTAGE.

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—" Sir, on the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor, I move 'that the Government be granted a sum not exceeding 57 lakh for Ports and Pilotage.'

The motion was put and carried. The Grant was made.

[22nd March 1926]

DEMAND XVII—SCIENTIFIC DEPARTMENTS (OTHER THAN HYDRO-ELECTRIC SURVEYS).

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—" Sir, on the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor, I move 'that the Government be granted a sum not exceeding 52 lakh for Scientific Departments (other than Hydro-Electric Surveys).'

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—" Sir, I move my motion, viz.,

'that the allotment of Rs. 50,200 for Provincial Museums be reduced by Rs 100.'

"In doing so, I only want to bring to the notice of the Minister the hardships which the clerks and others employed at the Museum Library are undergoing. They have to go, Sir, at 7 o'clock in the morning and come back at 5 in the evening and to attend on holidays. So, what I would request the Minister is to see that the staff is increased, so that they may attend on holidays by turns, I mean not only the staff of the Library but also of the Museum."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—" Sir, we recently went into the question of revision of the staff of the Library and the Museum; but we found that there were no adequate grounds for a revision."

The motion was by leave of the House withdrawn.

The demand that the Government be granted a sum not exceeding 52 lakh was put to the House and carried. The Grant was made.

DEMAND XVIII—EDUCATION (RESERVED).

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—" On the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor, I move 'that the Government be granted a sum not exceeding 7.28 lakhs for Education (Reserved).'

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" Sir, I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 6,08,200 for direct grants to non-Government Secondary Schools—European—be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"Sir, I beg to refer to page 229 of the Budget Estimates wherein we find that so far as boarding houses for Indian boys are concerned, the grant is only Rs. 30,000 and so far as Europeans are concerned, on page 248, we find the grant is Rs. 2,22,500. It is true that in the case of Indians, i.e., Muhammadans and Hindus, they do not resort to a large extent to boarding houses and that to a large extent European boys resort to boarding houses; but at the same time, I must point out that in the case of Indians, the agencies imparting education should be asked to maintain boarding houses everywhere, just like in the case of European children—as we have got in Mangalore, in Madras and elsewhere, in fact wherever education is spreading.

"We must admit that education among the Indian Christians has spread very widely. And the provision of Rs. 30,000 in the budget is hardly sufficient to meet the requirements. There is an impression in the minds of the public that because the Indian Christians are able to devote so much in the interests of education, they are economically, advanced and progressive as compared with the other communities. I think that it is not a fact. In some towns it is true that the Indian Christians are economical, are advanced in trade and are much more enlightened. But taken as a community, the Indian Christians are in wealth lagging behind most other communities, I may say even behind the Muhammadans. Therefore it is not fair to consider this community as one not in need of a larger provision than is made at present. I do not think that it is in any way a concession to the community but I should urge that they are entitled to it as a matter of justice. Europeans and Anglo Indians are but a handful of the whole population and if they are to be treated as a privileged class, I do not know what is to become of the larger communities and the backward classes. The European and Anglo-Indian population for the whole Presidency will be about 25,000, while the Indian Christians exceed a million. We have got a population of over a lakh in South Kanara alone, in Trichinopoly about a lakh and in Madras slightly over that number. The large population of a million and 25 thousands surely require at least a lakh of rupees towards boarding houses. Just as in the case of the Europeans and Anglo-Indians, the missionaries experience a great deal of difficulty in maintaining boarding houses for the Indian Christian pupils. I am sure the hon. the Education Minister realizes it. But our grievance is that he has been able to get only a small provision from the Finance Member for these boarding houses."

[Mr. J. A. Saldanha]

[22nd March 1926]

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"What boarding houses does the hon. Member refer to?"

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I draw the hon. Member's attention to page 229 of the Budget Estimates where we find an allotment of Rs 30,000 for boarding houses for Indians. Over two lakhs have been provided for in the case of Europeans and Anglo-Indians for the same purpose. Even the missionaries have got a sort of racial prejudice in this case. And when I happened to ask a European why his community should have this special concession and not the Indian Christians whose habits of life are much similar to those of the Europeans, he said: 'Oh, the Government give us the sum'. And I asked: 'Where do the Government get it from; they do not get it from England. We pay; you get from our country, not from the English treasury.' Sir, we pay as much and even more than all the taxes collected from the European and the Anglo-Indian communities put together. This racial discrimination is very galling and painful to the Indian Christian community. Belonging as we do to the same religion, considering the progress that we have made in culture and in civilisation, we are surely entitled to better consideration at the hands of the Government. The Indian Christians are becoming sensitive more and more to their needs, to the amenities and comforts of life; and as they are advancing they have been adopting for good or for evil European habits and I think they deserve to be treated on a par with the Europeans. The provision for the other Indian communities is equally meagre and I do not see why no cut has been proposed to raise the point in this Council. I do not however argue their case. But in the case of the Indian Christians in future at least if a provision is not made equal to that for the European, there will be much discontent; and the Indian Christians would be entitled to agitate against this obnoxious and most painful racial distinction made in their case. For a long time we have been trained to be meek and humble, but we have now realized that our rights have not been recognized. I am reminded of the Kanarese proverb which says that the man who bows gets one kick more. (Laughter). As I have to speak further on the matter a little later, I shall for the present stop with this. We do not want any concession or favour from you. We claim justice at your hands. If we do not get it, we will see that it is got."

22nd March 1926]

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"Sir, I am afraid that the process of training to which the hon. Member referred will have to be continued for a still longer period in his case. And I must admit that I should have been much more alarmed to reply in view of the attitude of the hon. Member if it were not the case that he has been hanging up his hat on the wrong peg. I may say that so far as I am concerned, I am not responsible for matters connected with the education of the Indian Christian community or with their needs. And it seems to me that the hon. Member's speech should have been directed to my hon. Colleague, Sir Parasuram Patro. But the hon. Member raised a minor point, the only point which I have to deal with and that is the point as to the comparative expenditure. The hon. Member, I may point out, was comparing with the expenditure under boarding grants under secondary education in the case of European education with the grants under primary or elementary education in the case of education in charge of my hon. Colleague. So that even in that respect, it seems to me that the comparison fails. But I may point out to the hon. Member that the conditions in respect of the Anglo-Indian or Domiciled community when it comes to a matter of secondary education are entirely different from that of any other community in the Presidency. It is, as the hon. Member said, a small community, and it is impossible for us to maintain a secondary institution in all schools at every taluk headquarter or every big centre in the Presidency for their use. As a result, it is inevitable that boys and girls of that community have to be concentrated into a few centres where sufficiently equipped secondary institutions can be maintained with sufficient number of students attending them. That means that a very large proportion of the community in so far as secondary education is concerned must be educated in institutions to which boarding schools or boarding hostels are attached. That really is the fundamental difference on which alone this, I admit, considerable expenditure can be based. As regards the question whether it is in any case excessive, I may say that it is a point which we have under consideration, and if any economies can be effected as a result of our investigation, steps will be taken to that end."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"Sir, may I point out that we find in the case of the European boarding houses, a provision of over two lakhs is made, while in the case of Indian, taken as a whole, for boarding houses it is only 30,000. And that is not, I believe, the fault of the hon. the Education Minister. I think he must have asked for more like Oliver Twist. (Laughter.) Originally I recollect, it was as a result of a motion from my hon. friend Mr. Arpudaswami Udayar or some other Indian Christian M.L.C. there, we were given Rs. 15,000. Last year we got Rs. 30,000, and for this year, while we expected there would be a further increase, the provision has become stationary."

[22nd March 1926]

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir. A. P. PATRO :—"The provision of Rs. 30,000 which my hon. Friend refers to relate to orphanage and not boarding houses."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I have got the budget figures. It does not make such difference. In the case of the Europeans also I think a large number of them are orphanages. Call them orphanages or boarding houses, they are for school children who are given boarding and lodging. We had nothing formerly under this head. We had a small provision of Rs. 15,000 to begin with which was subsequently raised to Rs. 30,000. I am sure the hon. the Education Minister must have asked for a larger provision this year, and that he has not got it is not his fault. It is the duty of the Finance Department to have given us more. I hope at least next year a larger provision will be made. As it is a serious matter concerning the Indians as a whole, and the Indian Christians in particular, I do not want to withdraw it but feel obliged to press it to a division."

The motion was put and the House divided thus:

[22nd March 1926]

Mr. A. E. RENCONTRE :—"Sir, I beg to move
'that the allotment of Rs. 7.28 lakhs for Education (Reserved) be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"My object is to enquire when the report of the conference of heads of European schools held some time ago may be expected and to point out the inadequacy of the grant to aided schools. Some time ago, I think it was in 1924, in response to an address to His Excellency the Governor by the members of the Anglo-Indian Association, His Excellency promised to have a conference held to consider the question of European education in the Presidency. I remember also that Sir Arthur Knapp when he was Home Member did call for a report embodying a preliminary survey of European education in the Presidency. And I take it that that report has been seen by the present Home Member. I believe the present Home Member some time in December held a conference and invited some of the heads of European schools to consider the memorandum on the subject."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Not the present Home Member."

Mr. A. E. RENCONTRE :—"The hon. the Finance Member, the Member in charge of European education. I do not know what has been the result of the conference. What I wish to point out is that the community requires education which will suit the present needs. Many of the avenues of appointment that were available to them at one time are now practically closed to them and it is desirable that the community, the younger generation, should receive such education as will fit them for the further avenues of employment that will arise by the development of industries of the Presidency."

"The other matter to which I wish to draw attention is that I find from last year's budget that Rs. 9.07 lakhs were provided, and that was the demand asked for. The present amount is reduced to Rs. 7.28 lakhs. If the reduction in the demand means that there will be proportionate reduction in the grant to aided schools, I am afraid some of the schools will have to be closed. I know the management of these schools are mostly in financial difficulties and they find it very difficult to make both ends meet. Every year it is a very anxious time for the management of these schools when they have to make good the annual deficit. If some of these schools are going to be closed, it will become necessary for Government themselves to start institutions which will certainly cost them a great deal more than to give a grant to these aided schools. It is with the object of eliciting information on these two points that I move this motion."

* Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN :—"Mr. Deputy President, Sir, last year just at the time of the budget discussion, I had one or two out motions under the very same head, and therein I brought to the notice of the hon. Member who was then in charge of European education that due regard might be given for the percentage of Indians to be admitted to European schools, and that the double fees should be reduced to single fees. As a matter of fact Anglo-Indian boys and girls who attend the European schools are generally expected to pay one single fee, whereas Indians who then had only 6 per cent of admission had to pay double fees. The hon. Member then in charge of this portfolio, Sir Arthur Knapp, gave me an assurance that he would await the result of a conference which he was just then arranging. That is my first point."

[Mr. P. V. Gopalan]

[22nd March 1926]

"My second point is this. However bright the Indian boys may be in the European schools, they are very seldom given scholarships. I know in the Calicut St. Joseph's European Girls' School, a Parsee girl who stood first in the examination results was actually refused scholarships. I brought this fact to the notice of the hon. Member then in charge and he told me that he would make the necessary inquiries, and see that due regard is given for granting scholarships to Indian boys and girls as well. What I wish to impress upon the hon. the Finance Member who, I see, is now in charge of the portfolio of European Education is, that he may kindly take the necessary steps to see that a larger percentage of Indians are admitted into European boys' and girls' schools, and that the double fees are reduced to single fees on the same level with Anglo-Indian boys and girls, and that when they pass out from the schools with greater efficiency and qualification, without making any racial distinction, he will cause the necessary arrangements to be made that they also may be granted the necessary scholarships."

* Mr J. A. SALDANHA :—"Sir, I am called upon to make some remarks in connexion with the suggestion made by the hon. Friend from Malabar, Mr. Gopalan. Now, before I object to the concession he demands I must point out that I am not in favour of any privileged rates being given to European schools as compared with Indian schools. We must bear in mind that these institutions are the results of efforts of self-sacrifice of large missionary bodies, be they European or Indian. For aught I know, this school—what is called the European girls' school—at Calicut is maintained by Indian sisters, a large number of them belonging to my own community. They get no money from foreign countries for working these institutions. They are depending so far as teachers are concerned on the voluntary labour of a large number of ladies of our community who have sacrificed their future happiness in this world by becoming sisters and taken up a life of chastity, poverty, and obedience. And relying on the sacrifice of these people the schools are maintained with fees and grants. Though I am against any privileged rates being given to European schools, at the same time we must bear in mind that the substantial work that is done in these schools is due to Indian sisters. In the case of European children, there cannot be any doubt that they require an equipment for which a larger expenditure is necessary. The education of the Anglo-Indians is of a superior kind, because they are prepared for the higher examination for women which is a higher and more difficult test at least so far as English and general knowledge are concerned than the local examinations. Therefore they have to incur heavier expenditure. Now, in the case of purely Indian children, the difficulties in training them are these. As a rule, these children speak the Indian vernaculars at home, and when they are admitted to European schools where English is the main language, there is a great difficulty in training, especially infant children, and more labour has thus to be spent in training the Indian children in European schools than in the case of Indian schools, where the starting language is the vernacular. So, my hon. Friend from Malabar must understand the difficulties of our sisters in managing the schools, and if larger numbers of girls are admitted without paying double fees, their difficulty will be how to meet the extra expenditure that is involved in training these Indian children for the purpose of European education the basis of which is mainly English."

[22nd March 1926]

[Mr. J. A. Saldanha]

"So far as the other question of special scholarships is concerned, the parents who send their children to these schools are mostly Parsees and others who are generally well-to-do. If they send their children, I do not understand why they should claim any scholarship. The scholarships are meant for a very large number of Anglo-Indian children who are poor, poorer than the Indian children who study there. For these reasons, I think my hon. Friend from Malabar—I know distinctions are galling—will have consideration to the fact that the schools are maintained by our own Indian nuns and are incurring large expenditure for which they get nothing from Europe. For these reasons, Sir, I hope the hon. Member will not press his points."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"Mr. President, Sir, I will first deal with the two points raised by Mr. Rencontre. He asked what has resulted from the conference which was held in January last. He was perfectly right in saying that one of the resolutions arrived at in that conference was that a general survey should be made of the whole position of European education in this province. As a result of that, an invitation was issued to a very large number of individuals, of firms, of heads of Anglo-Indian schools and others who, it was supposed, were interested in this question asking them to place at our disposal all the information that they could on the subject. I am sorry to say that the response to that invitation was not nearly so ready or so general as we could have desired. The material which was collected was summarized by the Inspector of European Schools and in that form it was placed before the Government by the Director of Public Instruction. In the meantime there had been a change in the Member who had to deal with the subject of European education, and the result was that I came to it and if I may say so after having been disassociated from educational questions for a considerable number of years. The conclusion that I came to was that this survey did not deal adequately with the real issues which underlie the resolutions of that conference. The hon. Member has summarized those chief points absolutely correctly. There is no doubt that in recent years there has been a very considerable change in the avenues of employment which are open to the Anglo-Indian community. But the Anglo-Indian community remains and if it is to serve any useful purpose in the social organization of this Presidency it is obvious that it must not, if possible, drift into the ranks of the unemployed or unemployable. It is therefore necessary that the question where and how they could receive employment or find employment should be very carefully examined and that the existing educational system should be adapted towards fitting them for those avenues of employment which will be open to them in future. That, at any rate, is a very large question and I took the opportunity some little time ago to have it very thoroughly discussed at a small meeting of a number of those who are deeply interested in the question. As a result of our discussions, our enquiries are being further pushed and I do hope that it will not be very long before we shall be able to let the hon. Member know that we have arrived at some practical solution and that we hope to correlate the system of education with the practical needs of the Anglo-Indian community."

"To turn now to the second point raised by the hon. Member. He was apprehensive that the grants which were being devoted to Anglo-Indian education were being curtailed and reduced. Perhaps I may point out that it is only on one item that this reduction actually appears in the coming year. Under teaching, medical inspection and miscellaneous grants the allotments are exactly the same as they appear in the revised estimate for the current year. It is only under buildings that there has been a reduction and that is due to the fact that the requirements as regards buildings of the various institutions which come under the European School Code do vary from year to year. In one year there is a large demand and in another year they are not exactly the same. Next year we anticipate smaller requirements under the building programme than has been the case for some years past. I may point out that in the year 1924-25 the amount was Rs 58,200. The budget estimate and the revised estimate for the current year is Rs 1,38,400. These variations are due merely to the varying amount of building operations that are going on.

[Mr. T. E. Moir]

"Now I may refer to the points which were referred to by the hon. Member for Malabar. One was a request that the differentiation in fees between those attending these schools—between the Anglo-Indian community and the Indian community—should be done away with. I may say that orders have been issued to that effect and the only case in which any special fee in future will be demanded from Indian pupils are those where a special course has to be provided; because obviously an Indian child which has not a good knowledge of English will not be benefited by the special courses of study in these schools unless its knowledge of English and other essential matters is brought up to the standard required by further instruction. As regards the scholarships I regret I am unable to agree that these scholarships should be granted irrespective of financial considerations. The amount available is small and one of the questions which has been discussed in our recent meetings is the nature of the cases in which these scholarships should be granted. If we had unlimited funds we would be perfectly willing to grant them to any one simply on the point of merit. We have strictly to limit our scholarships to those who combine merit with financial inability to prosecute their studies. That it seems to me, ought to be the primary object of any system of scholarships. If we had abundant funds I would not object to extending them. But what must be our primary object is to encourage poor and deserving students; we ought not to give scholarships to those who can very well afford to send their children on to higher stages of instruction.

"As regards the remarks that fell from my hon. Friend from South Kanara I am entirely one with him in what he said about the great services which are rendered by the sisters and nuns of the Roman Catholic community in Mangalore and elsewhere. Wherever I have been in the mufassal—and I know Mangalore well—I have found that those services are not only most valuable but are highly appreciated. And I can assure the hon. Member that in so far as European education is benefited by the services which they render I shall not fail to recognise their value."

Mr. A. E. RENCONTRE:—"In view of the satisfactory explanation I beg to withdraw my motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

The demand was put and carried and the Grant was made.

[22nd March 1926]

DEMAND XIX—EDUCATION (TRANSFERRED).

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"On the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor I move

'for a grant not exceeding 148.98 lakhs for Education (Transferred)'. "

Dr. P. SUBBARAYAN:—"I beg to move

'that the allotment of one lakh for Grants-in-aid—Miscellaneous—Non-recurring be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"Mr. President, only a sum of one lakh is provided for in the budget for the Andhra University. I admit that it is the beginning of the new University, and before plans are submitted it is impossible for Government to provide more than what they have put forward. But I want an assurance from the hon. the Minister that when plans are ready and when the University gets into working order Government would see their way to provide with adequate grants so that the new University may not suffer for want of funds and so that it may not be strangled at its birth."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"I agree with the Mover that more funds should be provided to give effect to the purposes of the Andhra University Act. The hon. Member referred to one lakh. It is only a lump sum provided to meet more urgent needs of the University in the initial stages. As soon as the University bodies are formed and they are able to put forward schemes of education, Government will be prepared to provide for those. A lump sum is now provided to meet the initial expenditure."

Dr. P. SUBBARAYAN:—"I could understand it. But I hope that in the case of the Andhra University at least they would not suffer for want of funds as it has been in the case of the Madras University."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"I must again contradict that the Madras University suffered for want of funds. The charge is not well founded. At least such a charge could not be laid at the door of the Government. Under the University Act the University has to prepare the schemes and submit them for the consideration of Government. Last year the Madras University prepared three schemes and necessary provision for those schemes has been made. Three and a half lakhs more has been given to the Madras University. As soon as the University is in a position to prepare its scheme and communicate with the Government, they will be glad to consider those schemes."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB:—"Mr. Deputy President, Sir, will you allow me to move the motion standing in the name of Mr. P. N. Marthandam Pillai?"

4-15
p.m.

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT:—"Where is the objection?"

The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"The hon. the President has ruled that a motion standing in the name of one Member who gave notice of it cannot be moved by another."

Dr. P. SUBBARAYAN:—"In one or two particular cases, he did allow such a motion being made. For instance, Mr. Ranganatha Mudaliyar was allowed to move one."

[22nd March 1926]

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"No, no."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"Exceptions may be made."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"May I say one word before you give your ruling. I am speaking only on the point of order and not on the merits of this question. On the merits perhaps I would personally allow any Member of this House to move any motion standing in any other Member's name. But on this point of order, it seems to me that there must be some consistency in the rulings, particularly at a continuous sitting. The permanent President, the Hon. Mr. Ruthnaswami, ruled more than once during the course of this sitting,—and he also gave his reasons, elaborate reasons for the rulings—to the effect that when a motion . . ."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"I too heard them, and they need not be pointed out to me. What I would do is that if an hon. Member is prepared to move a motion as his own, I can dispense with the necessary notice and allow the motion to be made."

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—"I thank the hon. the Deputy President for kindly granting me leave to say a few words upon the most talked of matter, viz., the beginning that is now attempted to be made in starting a Tamil University in the south. Mr. Marthandam Pillai has left word with me that owing to some work which he had . . ."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"The hon. Member need not refer to Mr. Marthandam Pillai. He may move it as his own motion."

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—"I move, Sir, . . ."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"On a point of order, Sir, I do not wish to dispute any ruling of the Chair. But I should be glad to know whether you, Sir, consider your present ruling consonant with the ruling which the hon. the President gave on the matter. It seemed to me that the ruling which was actually given, I think, on at least two occasions in the course of our discussions would have naturally ruled out the course which has now been adopted by the hon. Member, as I understand, with your permission."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"I have just said I have got the power to dispense with the time necessary for giving notice of a motion. I consider that the subject is one that might be discussed now and that such an occasion may not arise for another year. I am not saying anything contrary to the ruling that has been passed by the President. I think if an hon. Member is absent on account of illness or for some good reason his motion may be allowed to be moved by another. Otherwise, such a motion cannot be permitted to be moved by anybody else. I looked into the motion and it raises an important subject, and if any hon. Member moves it as his own, I have got the power to dispense with the necessary notice . . ."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"I doubt whether it can be done under the circumstances, Sir."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"Order, order, please. When I am on my feet, no hon. Member should interrupt me. What I was saying is that I have dispensed with the time necessary for notice. I have consulted the Secretary, and I do not think any further discussion is necessary on the matter."

[22nd March 1926]

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"Perhaps, Sir, as we are still on the point of order, I merely wish to know—I am not questioning the ruling of the Chair I merely wish to know whether the Chair considers whether the present ruling is agreeable to the ruling of the President, or that the point which has now arisen is not covered by the ruling of the President. It seems to me most desirable that there should be no breach of continuity in our rulings and that we should not be given one ruling one day and another ruling another day. I merely wish to know whether the Chair considers that this is a new point which was not covered by the ruling of the hon. the President."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"I may say, at once, Sir, that such a courteous Member as the hon. the Finance Member, could never suggest even for a moment that you had deliberately given a ruling which is not in consonance with the ruling of a predecessor of yours. May I, as the person whose name has been brought into this matter by my hon. Friend Mr. Subbarayan explain exactly as to what took place? It is true that when I wanted to move a motion standing in another hon. Member's name on the agenda the President said he would not give the permission. Subsequently, I raised the question in this House, and requested the President to reconsider his position, and I said that we were under a disadvantage in regard to the motions put on the agenda in this House, as we thought that many of them might come up for discussion after being moved by some one Member or other and I submitted that if the Member was absent someone else who was very much interested in the question might be given the facilities to move the motion. I said, further, that I would move a particular proposition as if it was mine, without reference to the person in whose name it was noted down. Then, the hon. the President asked whether the hon. Member for Government objected to my moving that motion on the ground of want of notice, and the hon. the Home Member said—I think it was the hon. the Home Member—he did not mind the lack of notice. After that I did move a proposition, notice of which had not been given in the regular course but which was waived by the hon. the Home Member and the hon. the President. What I did move then was a motion made exactly under circumstances similar to the present one. I do not think there is really any inconsistency."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"Now, Mr. Ranganatha Mudaliyar has explained the matter, I do feel that what is wanted is only my permission to dispense with the notice necessary for the motion. I think that occupying the Chair I ought to have the discretion to do it and not to be bound by any ruling that might have been given by the Chair previously. The circumstances of each case has to be considered. Here is a proposition brought forward to make a cut in the demand for Grant with a view to raise an important debate, and the Standing Order No. 53 says :

"Provided also that in the course of the discussion of demands for grants, the President shall have discretion to admit new motions of demands for grants and motions for the omission or reduction of such grants, subject to such shorter period of notice as he may think fit."

"I have given the ruling. The hon. Member will now proceed."

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—"I am much obliged to you, Sir. The motion is—"that the allotment of Rs. 3,21,500 for grants to Universities be reduced by Rs. 100."

"Notice of it has been given, as is printed in the agenda, in order to elicit information regarding the establishment of a Tamil University. I want to move this motion in consideration of the very great importance which this subject has been evoking in the minds of all those who are representing the Tamil districts in the south of this Presidency. At the time when the Andhra University Bill was launched in this Council, there were many references and appeals made to the hon. the Minister for Education that in the near future he should lay the foundations of a Tamil University, and promises have been made on the floor of this House that he would favourably consider those requests and any schemes that may be put forward by those interested in the Tamil University. Not only that, Mr. Deputy President, there have been many resolutions passed by all the local bodies in the southern districts to the effect that in the near future a Tamil University ought to be started for the Tamil districts with Trichinopoly as the centre for that university. The Government on the receipt of those resolutions promised also that they would favourably consider those appeals. I need not emphasise too much on the importance of the necessary notice with the Andhra people have got one for themselves. The hon. the Minister for Education that the Government leave themselves. I emphasize and appeal to the Minister, viz., the beginning of the Tamil people also should be considered. The southern districts contain many first-grade colleges and in Trichinopoly alone there are three first-grade colleges giving education to the Tamil students, not only to the Tamil students but also to students from Malabar. There is also a move on the part of Malabar members, I understand, to open in the near future a Kerala University. The Government has already pledged itself to start as many universities as possible and to centralize them on the basis of the Andhra University. Without pressing further I move the reduction of the grant in order to bring home to the hon. the Minister for Education the importance of the subject and to appeal to him for rendering a helping hand in opening the university."

Mr. K. Chavadi SUBRAHMANYA PILLAI:—"Mr. Deputy President, I support this motion, my object in supporting this motion is this . . ."

Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"I rise to a point of order. So far as I can see from the speech of the Mover there is absolutely nothing to show that there is any scheme prepared, or any provision being necessary to be made in the budget. If there is a scheme well in hand and matured, then we can consider this question . . ."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT:—"If that rule were to be applied, many of the speeches should not have been made here." (Laughter.)

Mr. K. Chavadi SUBRAHMANYA PILLAI:—"My object in supporting this motion is this. I know how strong is the feeling of the people in the Tamil districts to establish a Tamil University of their own in the Madras Presidency, and I also know that it was long long ago settled by them that there should be a Tamil University founded soon. Many public meetings have been convened in several Tamil districts and resolutions passed unanimously for the establishment of one for the whole of the Tamil districts, viz., Chingleput, South Arcot, North Arcot (in part), Tanjore, Trichinopoly, (including the Pudukkottai State), Ramnad, Madurai, Tinnevely (including Nagarcovil), Coimbatore, and the Nilgiris and Salem. Considering the above circumstances, I think it my duty to endeavour my level best to better the education of my country and I therefore wish to raise the question of establishing a Tamil University for the Tamil districts. The main objects of the Tamil University are—

22nd March 1926] [Mr. K. Chavadi Subrahmanya Pillai]

(a) the development and enrichment of the Tamil language and literature;

(b) the development of historical knowledge and of the critical spirit among the Tamil people; and

(c) the adoption of the studies to the needs of the people with a view to give the general mass and the unemployed practical and useful knowledge to employ themselves in different sources instead of solely depending on Government for their livelihood.

"The Telugu district people are all very much satisfied on the establishment of the Andhra University and the Tamil district people are also anxiously waiting to establish one for themselves. I therefore request the hon. the Minister for Education to make necessary and immediate arrangements to have the bills, plans and estimates ready to urge upon the Government the immediate necessity of establishing the Tamil University. If the Government have the real idea of educating the masses, if they have really any sympathy for the people, and if they think very seriously over the matter, certainly the Tamil University can be started very easily. I do not think it is a question of finance but it is a question of real interest. The Government should take this question very seriously. I am not one of those who feel diffident about the possibility of providing funds for that purpose. If it is agreed that the question is sufficiently important, I think the question of finance ought not to deter us from taking further steps. I would suggest that some of those works which are budgeted in the next year's budget under Civil Works on buildings might be given up. I might also bring to the notice of the Government that there is also reduction of the provincial contribution and further reduction may be expected in the course of successive years. I think this House owes a duty to itself in pressing on the attention of the Government to establish a university for the Tamil districts as early as practicable. I therefore request the hon. the Minister for Education to make a start at once and I hope and trust that it would be possible to see at least the beginning of the Tamil University in the course of the year.

"As regards the type of university and its location, they may be considered later on.

"I hope and trust that the hon. the Minister will try his level best to bring the Tamil University scheme to success, as early as practicable."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"Mr. Deputy President in the Chair." (Laughter.)

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT:—"That is a very peculiar style of addressing the Chair. I think you can stick to the old style."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"Mr. Deputy President, Sir, on the question of the Tamil University there need be no apprehension whatever, because the Madras University Reorganization Act lays down clearly the policy, that in course of time other universities may be started, so that the Madras University may become a unitary and practically a residential university. The principle is conceded in that Act, and the Act

[Sir A. P. Patro]

also lays down the procedure in regard to the starting of new universities. Under section 16, clause 12 of the Act and section 58 of the Madras University Act, certain preliminary steps have to be taken and it is the university that has to take the initiative in the matter. When the hon. Mover referred to a resolution before the Senate for a Tamil University to be formed, with regard to the principle Government have had no objection. On the other hand, the Government said that if all the preliminary steps which the university had to take in order to mature the scheme and the details prepared and submitted to Government, it would not at all be difficult to consider such a proposal or scheme. Under section 58, the university has to find centres and the university will have to depute a committee to investigate whether there have been developments in university education in such centres with a view to make them the future universities. Under the provisions of the Act, the university has to submit such schemes to the Government and Government may pass orders thereon. These preliminaries are necessary in order to give any practical effect to the principle of the Tamil University. I need hardly refer hon. Members to the result of the resolution moved in the Senate. The resolution was that a committee be appointed consisting of certain members so that they may go into the whole question of the Tamil University and submit a scheme to the Government. The Senate seems to have discussed it at length; there were differences of opinion, and ultimately the Senate passed on to the next item of business on the agenda. The Senate has therefore considered that the question is not so very urgent. But when the Senate do take those necessary steps and submit the proposals, the Government will consider them.

"Then the hon. the Seconder has stated that it is not a question of finance but it is a question of willingness. As for the will to give effect to the principle, I may assure him that it is not at all wanting. One would be very glad, for myself I am very glad to examine any scheme that has been placed before the Government for inaugurating a new Tamil University and I shall also assist those that are interested in the scheme to determine the type of the university, so that the cultural development may be foreshadowed in any scheme for a Tamil University. If a university is intended to reflect the culture, the experience, the knowledge of the Tamil people, the ancient people of the Dravida, it is necessary to have a very well thought out scheme. It is not by a stroke of the pen or by imitating any particular type of university that you may formulate a scheme. It is necessary that the scheme should embrace all the activities of the nation, it should reflect the entire civilization of the people and if you want to develop the culture and tradition of a particular locality for which the university is intended, it must be examined by those persons interested in it and conversant with the traditions of the locality. Therefore the University Reorganization Act of 1923 rightly placed the obligation on the Senate which is the proper body of the university and which is more competent than any others to discuss such academical questions as these and advise Government. I have told you what the Senate has done very recently in the matter. If therefore a scheme is prepared and placed before the Government it will receive all the consideration that it deserves.

"As regards the financial aspect of it, the hon. the Seconder said that it is not a question of finance altogether, and he has also stated that there have been a remission of contributions, and therefore it is for th av

[Sir A. P. Patro]

Government to finance another university. A moment's reflection will show the present condition of our finance, and we know what it is as we are now dealing with the budget. If the Government of India did not come to our aid we should have had a deficit budget, and expenditure on new schemes would have come to nil, and all developments would have to be stopped. Hence if elementary education is to be developed as has been rightly urged by my hon. Friend Mr. M. C. Raja and others, and if secondary education is to be reorganized and put on a better basis so as to be of practical utility to the people, and in consonance with the progressive ideas of higher education, if these were to be recognized, we would have to reflect how far the finances would permit of starting new universities.

"My hon. Friend from Cuddapah would say 'Well, don't spend any money on universities.' He has given us a warning on the budget discussion—'Spend more money on secondary education.' I do not agree with him because all education, secondary as well as collegiate, must be developed as far as possible, it cannot be stopped because more funds are required at one stage and less at another stage. I cannot agree with him to stop altogether university and collegiate education and only develop secondary and elementary education. I therefore suggest that the financial problem is not a small problem. If a properly considered scheme is placed before the Government as required by the Madras University Reorganization Act of 1923, and if the University submits its proposals, we are prepared to consider them."

Mr. P. T. RAJAN:—"Is the hon. the Minister who is so sympathetic prepared to appoint a committee? If he is so sympathetic which he says he is, why should he not appoint a committee?"

* Khan Bahadur P. KHALIF-UL-LAH SAHIB Bahadur:—"With your permission, Mr. Deputy President, I wish to say a few words on this subject. Of course from the way in which personal interest is being taken by the Tamil Minister—I mean the Minister for Development—we all realize that the Ministers are taking some interest in the matter. What we want is some more active interest to be shown in this direction. That is all my Friend wanted to say when he moved his motion. There is a Tamil proverb which says 'வட்டு சரக்காய் கறிக்கு உதவாது'. The mere fact of the University Act mentioning certain procedure for starting a university will not give us a Tamil University. Something more has to be done. It is true that Government has taken some step in the matter. In referring to the action of the Senate, it has to be regretted indeed that the Senate should have passed on to the next subject on the agenda, thus making us believe that it at any rate considered that this was not a very urgent subject. I should take this opportunity of impressing upon this House that the subject is certainly not one which can be so lightly treated. There is a very strong feeling in the House that the matter must be taken in hand at once. The present Ministry has certainly to be congratulated for the expeditious manner in which the Andhra University Act was carried through this House, and the Andhra university has become a realized fact to-day.

"But so far as the Tamil University is concerned, I think it is needless for me to point out that the question of starting a Tamil University is as important as having an Andhra University, and that the Tamil districts deserve a separate university for their own area is a fact recognized much earlier than the cry for the Andhra University was raised in this Province.

[Mr. P. Khalif-ul-lah Sahib Bahadur] [22nd March 1926]

So, Sir, it is on these grounds that the starting of a Tamil University is certainly a very urgent matter, and unless the Government takes some special interest in the matter and sees that a committee is appointed to investigate into the necessary steps to be taken in that direction or sees that the Senate formulates its own proposals, a Tamil University can never be dreamt of in this province. I earnestly appeal to the hon. the Minister to take up this matter in hand and see that the establishment of a Tamil University becomes a realized fact as early as possible and without any avoidable delay."

Dr. P. SUBBARAYAN :—"I must thank you for having allowed me an opportunity to take part in this important discussion. I feel that the establishment of a Tamil University is dear not only to my Tamil brethren, but it is dear to my Andhra brethren also who, I am sure, will not grudge the establishment of a Tamil University when they have had their own. I hope when the Tamil University Bill comes on the anvil of this Council, my Tamilian friends will not follow the unseemly procedure which was followed by my Andhra friends. My Andhra friends did not know what Act they wanted and I hope my Tamilian brethren, when such a Bill comes before the Council, will settle their differences outside the House and not bring all their quarrels inside.

"I am glad that the hon. the Minister for Education said that he would consider the matter sympathetically if a plan came from the Senate. I would like to point out to him that the gentleman who has been really interesting himself in founding a Tamil University is his hon. Colleague, the Minister for Development. I am sure all of us read with interest the great address which he delivered at the Tamil University Conference. That address is a well-thought out address and is well worth the perusal of all the Members of this House. In fact I was very much impressed when I read that address in Delhi—because I happened to be at Delhi at the time when the hon. the Minister for Development delivered his address in Trichinopoly—and the Hindustan Times devoted a whole column for this address and also wrote a leader commenting upon this very able address and also asking people in the Northern India to follow the great lead given by the hon. Minister. It is great honour and glory to the Tamilian Minister, as has been described by my hon. Friend Mr. Khalif-ul-lah, that he should have been able to deliver his masterful address. I claim it as a great credit to the Madras Presidency that people in the Northern India should have taken note of an address which was delivered at Trichinopoly by our hon. Minister. When such is the case, it is rather hard for the hon. the Minister for Education to take up an attitude of non-possomus and say that the Senate has not produced any resolution and that therefore he is not going to act on this matter. This is just like an ostrich putting its head into the sand thinking that the world is not going to do any harm to it. That is the attitude of the hon. the Minister for Education in the case of the Tamil University. If he really were serious and wanted a scheme, he ought to have acted as he had acted in the case of the Andhra University. I do not mean to say that he shows any bias or was in favour of the establishment of an Andhra University but is against the establishment of a Tamil University. I am far from having any idea of that sort because once he took charge as Minister of this Province I thought he ought to have the interests of the whole province at heart. If it is merely a question of finances that frightens him from taking up the question in right earnest, I have nothing to say. But on other grounds I cannot accept his position and I would therefore appeal to him to follow the example which he followed in the case of the Andhra University and appoint a Committee for the promulgation of a scheme, for the Tamil University. If he were to appoint a Committee fully representative of the Tamilians of this Province and if that committee is not able to arrive at an agreement for the establishment of a Tamil University, then he can very well say frankly 'I gave you a committee and you are not able to come to an agreement. When such is the case how can I proceed further.' If the hon. the Minister were to appoint a committee and have the scheme drawn up, the establishment of a Tamil University will become an accomplished fact when finances are ready."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"I do not hesitate to appoint a committee when the hon. the Finance Member is able to provide the necessary funds."

Dr. P. SUBBARAYAN :—"I said that a committee ought to be appointed now, so that the scheme may be ready before the hon. the Finance Member is able to provide the funds necessary for this purpose."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"It is not possible for me to say when the hon. the Finance Member will be able to find funds, but for the appointment of a committee it is the co-operation of those that are interested in this question that is needed. If they indicate the lines on which they wish to proceed, we can select the members of the committee. But that, I think, will take time."

Dr. P. SUBBARAYAN :—"May I point out that we cannot give a scheme until he sets out to appoint a committee? No committee need be appointed if there was a cut and dry scheme."

* Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN :—"I just wish to know"

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"Are you a Tamilian?"

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"On a point of order, Sir. Are only Tamilian Members allowed to speak upon this motion regarding the establishment of a Tamil University?"

* Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN :—"With all good wishes for the Tamil University and for the existing Andhra University, I just wish to know from the hon. the Minister for Education by what name the Madras University will be known hereafter?"

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"The Committee that will go into the formation of a Tamil University will also decide what name the Madras University will hereafter bear."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"Are you (turning to Mr. Ghouse Mian Sahib) pressing your motion?"

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—"I thank the hon. Minister for Education for the kind words he has spoken, namely, that he would soon appoint a committee. I would ask him to show special interest in the matter and take the initiative himself, just as he took in the case of the Andhra University, without waiting and seeing that it should emanate from the Senate. It is from the Government that such an initiative should emanate. However in view of the assurance given by the hon. the Minister for Education, I withdraw my motion."

[22nd March 1926]

* Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—"I object to the withdrawal."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"I shall put the main question."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"Would not the correct and the best procedure be to ask the House whether it gives him permission to withdraw?"

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"The Secretary ought to know something of it. He tells me that there is some ruling in the matter. It has been done so in this very House. I am shown an instance by the Secretary. In his 'Parliamentary Practice,' Mr. May says 'if no one dissents he (the President) says 'the motion is withdrawn'.' But if a dissenting voice is heard he proceeds to put the question."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"With due deference, I rise to a point of order. Your predecessor did not put the question."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"I am not here to follow my predecessors. I beg your pardon. I must take note of the circumstances which are prevailing at the moment. The Secretary tells me that it has been done likewise once or twice before by my predecessor."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"The Secretary has no place in the Council."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"I think he ought to have a better knowledge of these things."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"He may tell you privately. He is not an authority on the matter within the Council."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"He assures me that it is the correct procedure. If you think that it is wrong, I have nothing to say further. I am referring to May's 'Parliamentary Practice.' If the House as a whole holds that what May says will not hold good so far as the present question is concerned and that the question of withdrawal of a motion should be voted upon by the House, that is another matter."

* The hon. Mr. T. E. MOIR :—"I merely wish to say that the House will not question a ruling which the Chair has taken so much trouble to elucidate. As far as I am concerned, I have nothing to say in respect of the ruling that has been given and I am sure we all accept it."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"I will just put the question whether the allotment of Rs. 3,21,500 be reduced by Rs. 100."

The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—"He has withdrawn the motion, Sir."

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"Somebody has objected to it."

The main motion was put to vote and declared lost.

The hon. the DEPUTY PRESIDENT :—"So far as I am concerned, I think this motion has elicited very much discussion and I hope it will give satisfaction to all Tamil people. I also think that the hon. the Minister for Education has shown his sympathy towards the establishment of a Tamil University. All this perhaps would have been lost if I had not allowed a discussion."

The House then adjourned to meet again at 11 a.m. the next day.

R. V. KRISHNA AYYAR,
Secretary to the Legislative Council.

*Extract from the letter from the Chief Conservator of Forests,
No. L. Dis. 2314/24, dated the 26th March 1924.*

(b) Very briefly the scheme is as follows :—

To exploit the timber forests for timber and firewood and the reed forests for paper pulp or matches. The area covered by timber is estimated at 35,200 acres, but of this only about 24,000 acres are workable. Of this workable area not more than at most 1/70th portion (i.e., about 343 acres) will be felled in any one year. Although the felling will be what is known as clear felling in reality all trees too small to be saleable will be left standing and immediate steps will also be taken to restock the cleared area with a new crop. The forest is evergreen and in all evergreen forests there is an abundant natural young crop of seedlings only awaiting the removal of the big trees to spring up and to take the place of the latter. This new crop is generally so dense that the ground will not be subject to erosion by rain and there is no possibility that the clearing of the forest will have any effect whatever on the run-off of the water.

I.—SCHEMES.(1) Permanent retention of the Government Elementary schools at Chatti and Padarkur in the Godavari Agency.

Abstract of the proposal.—In December 1922 sanction was accorded for the opening of a Government elementary school on a temporary basis in each of the villages of Chatti and Padarkur in the Bhadrachalam taluk in the Gōdāvari Agency. The schools in question are intended for the education of Koya pupils in the interior of the Gōdāvari Agency. Judged by the strength and the average attendance during the last three years, both the Government Agent, East Gōdāvari, and the Agency District Educational Officer, consider that there is a case for the permanent retention of the schools. The proposal has the support of the Director of Public Instruction. The extra cost involved in the proposal will be Rs. 746 a year against which there will be a saving of Rs. 480 under "Temporary establishment". Provision has been made for the schools in the budget estimate for 1926-27.

Recommendation of the Committee.—The proposal was recommended by the Committee for acceptance.

(2) Permanent retention of the Sub-Registry office at Adirampatnam.

Abstract of the proposal.—The Inspector-General of Registration recommends that the Sub-Registry office at Adirampatnam sanctioned as a temporary measure in April 1920 and continued from year to year for the last five years may be made permanent with effect from the 1st April 1926, the date on which the existing sanction expires. At the time when the opening of the office was first sanctioned, it was estimated that the figures under registration, collections and expenditure for a year would be 1,379, Rs. 2,063, and Rs. 1,416 respectively. The average registrations, collections and expenditure for the last five years have exceeded the estimates under these heads. The office is also self-supporting. Having regard to the convenience of the public, it is recommended that the office may be made permanent. The proposal involves an expenditure of Rs. 1,521 per annum and provision has been made for it in the budget estimates for 1926-27.

Recommendation of the Committee.—The scheme was recommended by the Committee for acceptance.

II.—SUPPLEMENTARY DEMANDS.(1) Appropriation for refund to the Polavaram District Board of the contribution paid by it on account of the pay of medical officers for the years 1923-24 and 1924-25.

Abstract of the proposal.—In February 1925 the Government waived the recovery of the contribution of Rs. 8,050 due to Government from the Polavaram District Board on account of the pay of medical officers employed at taluk headquarter stations for the years 1923-24 and 1924-25. But with reference to an earlier instruction issued in October 1924, the above sum had been paid to Government during the latter part of 1924-25. It is now proposed to repay the amount to the district board. As there are no savings in the allotment for Agency tracts, a supplementary demand will be moved under Grant XXXII. Agency Tracts—Reserved, the amount being met from the savings of Rs. 83,000 under "6.e. Excise—Cost-Price of Opium supplied to the Excise Department."

Recommendation of the Committee.—The proposal to move a supplementary demand for Rs. 8,050 in the current year was recommended by the Committee.

(2) Appropriation on account of refund of centage charges paid by the Polavaram District Board.

Abstract of the proposal.—Under an order issued in 1921, the Polavaram District Board has to pay centage charges on works executed by the Public Works Department, but is entitled to a grant-in-aid to cover the cost of the special executive establishment which it may employ to carry out local fund works. For the year 1924-25, the cost of the special executive establishment employed by the District Board was Rs. 4,359, while it paid centage charges amounting to Rs. 6,441. The Polavaram District Board requests that the whole amount of Rs. 6,441 should be paid to it in view of its unsatisfactory financial position. A sum of Rs. 5,299 can be met from the reserve with Government under Grant XXXII. Agency Tracts—Reserved. It is proposed to move a supplementary demand for the balance required, viz., Rs. 1,142.

Recommendation of the Committee.—The proposal to move a supplementary demand for Rs. 1,142 in the current year was recommended by the Committee.

III.—SCHEMES FOR INTRODUCTION IN 1926-27.(1) Establishment of additional stations and supply of rain gauges in the Chittoor and the Ceded districts.

Abstract of the proposal.—A deputation of the ryots of the Pattikonda taluk, Kurnool district, that waited on His Excellency the Governor at Kurnool in July 1924 urged that rain gauges should be supplied to all villages for the purpose of recording rainfall figures accurately. The Government decided that it was unnecessary to supply rain gauges to all village officers in the Presidency and that in the case of the Chittoor district and the Ceded districts which are liable to scarcity and where the number of authorized rain-registering stations other than village gauges is not sufficient, suitable centres where responsible officers such as sub-registrars and sub-assistant surgeons reside should be selected and rain gauges supplied to these officers. It is accordingly proposed to establish in 1926-27 sixteen stations in the districts of Chittoor, Kurnool, Bellary, Anantapur and Cuddapah. The approximate cost of rain gauges together with the cost of fixing them amounts to Rs. 800 and the amount will be met by reappropriation from the provision of Rs. 53,100 included in the budget estimate for 1926-27 under "22-R.E.a.—General Administration—District Administration—General Establishments—Collectors and Magistrates—Supplies and Services—General—Miscellaneous."

Recommendation of the Committee.—The Committee desired to have a list of the stations in these districts at which rain gauges are already in existence and information whether there are no other places where there are officers competent to look after rain gauges.

[22nd March 1926]

(2) Additional police establishment for the extension of the Madras Hackney Carriage Act, 1911, to certain parts of the Tanjore district.

Abstract of the proposal.—The District Magistrate, Tanjore, recommends the extension of the provisions of the Madras Hackney Carriage Act, 1911, to certain parts of the Tanjore district. The number of vehicles that are likely to be registered under the Act is 705 and the probable income that may be derived from licensing fees is estimated at Rs. 1,245 a year.

In the police reallocation scheme for the Tanjore district provision has been made for a hackney carriage establishment of three head constables and two constables. The present proposal will necessitate an addition of two more head constables to the hackney carriage staff of the district. It is also necessary to provide each of the two head constables with a Government bicycle. The additional expenditure will be Rs. 806 per annum recurring and Rs. 260 non-recurring, and will be more than covered by receipts. The expenditure will be met from the provision under "26. c. Police—District executive force—District police" in the budget estimates for 1926-27.

Recommendation of the Committee.—The scheme was recommended by the Committee for acceptance.

(3) Appointment of a Special Executive Engineer for the supervision of the construction of the Coleroon Bridge at Trichinopoly.

Abstract of the proposal.—The Government have ordered that the supervision of the construction of the new bridge over the Coleroon at Trichinopoly in its initial stages should be looked after by the Executive Engineer in charge of the Kattalai division. A full-time Executive Engineer will be necessary when the bridge work is in full swing, as when well sinking is started, it will not be possible for the Executive Engineer, Kattalai division, to devote enough time to the supervision of the bridge works. It is therefore proposed to sanction the appointment of an Executive Engineer for a period of one year and nine months from the 1st April 1926. The extra cost on account of the proposal will be Rs. 224 per mensem as shown below :—

	RS.
(1) Officiating allowance to an Assistant Executive Engineer who will be posted for the charge of the works	100
(2) Officiating allowance to the Senior Supervisor (on Rs 250) who will be posted for the charge of a sub-division in place of item (1) above	20
(3) Pay of a temporary Supervisor who will be appointed in place of item (2) above	80
(4) Pay of two peons for the Executive Engineer at Rs. 12	24
Total ..	224

22nd March 1926]

The extra cost during 1926-27 will be met from the appropriation under "41-e.—Civil Works—Transferred—Establishment".

Recommendation of the Committee.—The proposal was recommended by the Committee for acceptance.

IV.—PAPERS PLACED ON THE TABLE.

- (1) Further note on Land Mortgage Banks. (The Committee does not sufficiently understand the necessity or the aims of this new movement nor does it feel justified in taking the responsibility of advising the financing of further schemes of this nature by State aid.)
- (2) Note regarding further information on the reduction of staff consequent on the introduction of electric lighting at the Olavakkode Saw Mill.
- (3) Further note regarding the purchase of six lino-type machines for the Government Press at Madras.

FORT ST. GEORGE,
4th March 1926.

T. E. MOIR.

[20th March 1926]

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"I am aware of the fact that the salaries of the High Court Judges are not votable. But I could raise the question of the Judges only on a votable item. Though there may be a difficulty in reducing the staff, there will be no difficulty in asking for the reduction of six months' pay."

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"When I say that we have no power to ask for these temporary Judges beyond two years from the 19th October, the fact that the item is entered in the budget and entered before the decision was arrived at does not mean that we ask for the vote of the House. We do not ask for the vote of the House on the matter."

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR:—"I must confess I do not understand the intricacies of the constitution. Here is a Government who had the power to appoint temporary Judges for two years. That is by the statutory power they have. Now 1½ years of that power has gone by the 1st April 1926. They have only got six months' power. They ought to have made provision only for six months if they have not prejudged the Secretary of State's sanction. They don't know what the decision of Lord Birkenhead will be on the matter. Yet they have anticipated the decision on the matter. If your power was only for appointing for two years I could not understand how you could have foreseen the decision of the Right Hon. the Secretary of State and entered a provision in the budget for the pay of these two Judges for the full year, and secondly, for an extra staff for the full year for these High Court Judges. I do not understand wherein your power comes in for the full year either for the Judges or for the staff. I realize that the salary of the Judges is non-votable and to that extent you are not subjecting it to the vote of the House. You are placing it only for the information of the House. I am perfectly aware and acknowledge rather all the constitutional limitations on myself and this House. But I think, Sir, Government ought to explain why in a matter in which they have not got power to place provision in the budget beyond a definite period they have gone out of the way to place an estimate for a longer period exceeding their powers and anticipating the decision of the Right Hon. the Secretary of State. I wish I could be assured by what the hon. the Law Member says about the intentions of the Government in this matter. It seems to me prima facie that they have exceeded their power and there must have been some very good reason for the exceeding of that power. I am told that they have not addressed the Secretary of State on the matter. I am told that they have not come to any conclusion in the matter. I am also told that the question will be examined at the time when the two years period expires. How comes it then that they have put in an allotment in the budget for a period exceeding two years. How is it they have anticipated the making up of their own minds and the making up of the mind of the Secretary of State in the second place. I fail to understand the logic of that particular item in the budget. As to the conditions under which it has been put I should be very glad if the hon. the Law Member or the Finance Department would enlighten me on the point. The Finance Department is a department that scrutinizes very very carefully indeed. I am personally conscious of the very many limitations that it places on the Members of the Treasury Bench. I want to know how this full provision is entered in the budget which is not justified by the constitutional powers which are inherent in the Local Government."

THE MADRAS LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

I
QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Order made by the President of the Madras Legislative Council under Standing Order No. 15 on the 4th December 1924.]

1. Starred questions to be put at a meeting of the Council with their answers shall be printed and placed on the Council table an hour before the President takes his seat.

The Secretary shall call out the name of each interpellator in the order in which the names are printed, specify the serial number of his question and make a sufficient pause to give him or any other member a reasonable opportunity of rising in his place and putting a supplementary question. Supplementary questions must be put immediately after the principal questions to which they relate.

2. If a member responsible for a starred question happens to be absent when it is called, it will be open either to him or to any other member to put supplemental questions thereon after the other starred questions for the day have been answered, provided question-time is not thereby exceeded.

3. Questions, not starred, will not be called in Council, but they will be printed with their answers and placed on the table of the House along with the list of starred questions. Oral supplementary questions will not be allowed in regard to unstarred questions.]

STARRED QUESTIONS.

Factories.

Match factories in this Presidency.

* 1728 Q.—Mr. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

(a) whether any match factories are now working in this presidency and, if so, what are their names and what quantities are produced by each factory in a year;

(b) whether it is a fact that it is found difficult at present to cut sticks from Indian timber as thin as imported sticks and, if so, the reason for the same;

(c) whether any experiments are being made now in the Forest department to find out more suitable timber;

(d) whether the Government are giving any help towards the development of the match industry and, if so, in what ways and to what extent; and

(e) whether any timbers have been recommended till now by the Forest department as most suited for making match sticks and boxes as the result of the experiments carried out till now?

A.—(a) There are very few match factories operating on a commercial scale actually working in the Presidency at present. The small scale concerns, such as there are, are scattered over the Presidency. The names of the more important of these are furnished below together with information regarding the output of each, wherever available—

(1) The Swadeshi Match Factory, No. 143, Tiruvottiyur High Road, Madras. Outturn—about 25 gross per day.

(2) The Malabar Match works, Olavakkote (formerly known as the Safety Match Manufacturing Company). This is understood to belong to the same organization as No. 1 and serves as a feeder of splints and veneers to the latter. Outturn—about 50 gross per day.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

[23rd March 1926]

(3) The New Madras Match Factory, Madras, No. 1/267, Tiruvottiyur High Road, Madras.

(4) The Swadeshi Match Factory, Nellikunnam—Maximum capacity of the factory from 7 to 8 gross per day, the average outturn as gathered in 1923-24 ranging from 3 to 4 gross.

(b) The Government have no definite information on the point, but they have no reason to think that Indian timber cannot be cut thin enough for splints.

(c) No: but in the past, over 62 species have been tested, some of which have proved fairly suitable although there are none of outstanding merit.

(d) The attention of the hon. Member is drawn to paragraph 33 of the administration report of the department of Industries for 1924-25 printed in G.O. No. 1500, dated 19th October 1925, which was placed on Editors' Table. Match manufacturers, actual and prospective, are supplied with information and advice in regard to supplies of raw materials required, such as wood and chemicals as well as machinery and in regard to suitable locations for plant and results of past experiments. The grant of financial or other assistance to the industry is governed by the provisions of the Madras State Aid to Industries Act and it is open to any match concern to apply for aid in conformity with the provisions of the Act and the rules framed thereunder.

(e) Advice has been given to several manufacturers as to which of the 62 species referred to in (c) above are the most suitable.

Fisheries.

Recognition of one Mr. Anasthasius Motha as Jathithalaivan.

* 1729 Q.—Rao Bahadur CRUZ FERNANDEZ: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

(a) whether one Mr. Anasthasius Motha has approached Government or the Collector of Tinnevely for a Sanad recognizing him as the Jathithalaivan (headman) of the Bharatha community;

(b) if so, what orders have been passed on his application; and

(c) whether it is a fact that Government have on previous occasions declined to interfere in the succession of Mr. Anasthasius Motha?

A.—(a) Yes.

(b) The Government have directed that the Jathithalaivan should be allowed the concession which the previous jathithalaivans enjoyed, viz., the take of two boats of ten divers each every day of the fishery now being held off Tuticorin.

(c) Yes.

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—“Sir, may I know whether this Jathithalaivan has got anything to do with religion?”

The hon. Diwan Bahadur Sir T. N. SIVAGNANAM PILLAI:—“No, Sir; it has nothing to do with religion.”

[23rd March 1926]

Alleged protest against the appointment of Mr. Anasthasius Motha as Jathithalaivan.

* 1730 Q.—Rao Bahadur CRUZ FERNANDEZ: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

(a) whether Government have received any mahazar from the Bharatha people of Tuticorin protesting against the appointment of Mr. Anasthasius Motha as the Jathithalaivan of the entire Bharatha community and also objecting to the grant by Government of any Sanad to him in recognition whereof; and

(b) whether it is a fact that numerous protests in the shape of resolutions and telegrams are being received by Government from villages in the Coromandal Coast testifying to their disapproval of the appointment of Mr. Anasthasius Motha as Jathithalaivan?

A.—(a) Yes.

(b) The Government have received numerous communications on the subject, some in favour of and others against the individual mentioned.

Industries.

Spinning and weaving industries in South Kanara and Malabar.

* 1731 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to furnish a statement so far as concerns each of the departments on the following points in regard to the hand-spinning and handloom weaving industry in the western districts of South Kanara and Malabar;

(a) the economic condition of the two industries in the year 1925 and at present; and

(b) what steps have been taken by Government, municipalities and local boards for technical training for the industries and aiding them by pecuniary help and expert advice?

A.—(a) No economic survey of the condition of the two industries has been made and therefore it is not possible to furnish the information required.

(b) A Government Textile Institute has been opened in Madras for the purpose of training students in handloom weaving and allied textile branches. A peripatetic weaving party was posted to the South Kanara and Malabar districts, with Cannanore as its headquarters. It visited 104 weaving centres and introduced various improved weaving appliances to the value of Rs. 2,648-14-3. Further a special grant was given to the Young Men's Christian Association for training Mappillas in rebel areas in cottage industries including weaving. Government have no information as to the steps taken by the municipalities and local boards concerned for technical training in the industries referred to.

[23rd March 1926]

Education.

Appointment of Mr. Kunhalan Kutti as Deputy Inspector of Schools.

* 1732 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that one Mr. N. Kunhalan Kutti was appointed as Deputy Inspector of Schools during the last June;

(b) if so, what is his educational qualification and the number of years service he has put in, in the department;

(c) whether the claims of any depressed class member of the service have been considered as mentioned in the proceedings of the Director of Public Instruction, Dis. No. 2610/23, dated 23rd July 1923, for promotion to Deputy Inspector's cadre; and

(d) if not, why not?

A.—(a) Yes; Mr. N. Kunhalan Kutti is a Mappilla. He was appointed in the Mappilla Range.

(b) He holds a completed School-Leaving Certificate and a Trained Teacher's Certificate of the Secondary Grade. He has put in seven years' service.

(c) & (d) No vacancies have arisen except in Mappilla ranges for which Mappillas are preferred.

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"Sir, with reference to the answer to clauses (c) and (d), I want to bring to the notice of the hon. Minister the fact that there was one vacancy in 1923 and another in 1925 to which two non-Mappilla candidates possessing the same qualifications as Mr. Velan referred to in the proceedings of the Director of Public Instruction, were appointed. I want to know the reason why the claims of this applicant from the depressed classes were not considered."

The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"I do not know, Sir. The appointment is in the hands of the Director of Public Instruction. He may have very good reasons for his action. He has definitely stated that vacancies have not arisen in non-Mappilla ranges."

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"May I know, Sir, whether these two gentlemen who were not Mappillas were appointed in Mappilla ranges or elsewhere?"

The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"I am sorry I have no information."

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"Will the hon. Minister be pleased to call for the information since I consider this an important matter? The Director himself said that he would consider the claims of this gentleman who has got the same qualifications as the other two."

The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"Yes, Sir. The point will be noted."

Registration.

Diplot registers in the offices of District Registrars.

* 1733 Q.—Mr. K. RAGHUCHANDRA BALLAL: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether documents relating to property situated in any village are registered in the office of the District Registrar concerned on presentation with enhanced fees;

[23rd March 1926]

(b) whether the Government are aware that diglott registers of every village were maintained in the office of every District Registrar in order to verify the settlement description of the properties relating to such documents;

(c) whether it is a fact that such practice has been lately discontinued by an order of the Inspector-General of Registration; if so, what the reasons are for such an order;

(d) whether the discontinuance of such practice tends to the increase of rectification documents by reason of the fact that parties to documents are deprived of the opportunity to discover any errors in the description of the property;

(e) whether the Government are aware that by such deprivation the parties are put to unnecessary expense and trouble by having recourse to rectification deeds; and

(f) whether the Government have any objection to direct the renewal of such practice in view of saving the parties from such expense and trouble?

A.—(a) & (b) Yes.

(c) No.

(d), (e) & (f) The questions do not arise.

Local Boards and Municipal Councils.

Nominations to Municipal Councils.

* 1734 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state why in the case of nominations to municipal councils the Collector sends up recommendations (after consulting the Revenue Divisional officer), whereas in the case of district boards the president thereof makes the recommendation?

A.—Prior to 1894, recommendations for nomination both to municipal councils and district boards were submitted by the Collector. In that year, it was decided that, in order to simplify procedure and to reduce correspondence between the office of the Collector and that of the District Board which in this matter was purely formal as the Collector was ex officio President of the District Board, the recommendations for nomination to district boards should be submitted by the Presidents. The present practice therefore dates from 1894. Although Collectors are no longer Presidents of District Boards, it has not been considered desirable to alter it.

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—“Sir, may I point out that the presidents of district boards generally recommend their own adherents since they have got a direct interest?”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—“Sir, it is not question of interest. A convention was established in 1894 and has been observed ever since. Now the Collector is not the President of the District Board he is not asked to make recommendations for nomination of members of the board.”

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—“May I know, Sir, the reason for the difference between the methods of nomination in the municipal councils and in the district boards?”

[23rd March 1926]

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—“That is to be found in the Act, I suppose.”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—“Sir, it is a convention.”

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—“There is nothing in the Acts, Sir. I have digested both the Acts.” (Laughter.)

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—“I must congratulate the hon. Member then.”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—“The distinction was not for the first time observed now, but in 1894 and ever since that distinction has been observed.”

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—“May I ask the hon. Minister whether it is not advisable to change the practice also with the changed times?”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—“May I ask the hon. Member whether it is his desire that in the case of the municipal councils also the District Collector should not be allowed to send up recommendations?”

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—“It is not with that idea that I put that question. I suggested that the District Collectors might be vested with the power even in the case of the district boards instead of the presidents who might be interested in the matter and recommend their own adherents.”

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—“The hon. Member is making a speech.”

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—“I shall confine myself to the question, Sir, and ask whether the hon. Minister is not prepared to change the practice.”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—“If a change is to be effected, it must be in the forward direction and not otherwise. The officials used to send up nominations till now in the case of the municipal councils. If this system is to be changed, I think we should ask the chairmen to send up recommendations. But Government are not inclined to do so.”

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—“May I know what has become of the recommendations of the Advisory Committee which sat at Ootacamund on the 18th May 1925?”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—“Sir, they are under consideration. In fact, the Government wanted to issue rules, but it was found that the issuing of rules was not intra vires and they propose to introduce two changes in the law itself by amending the Act.”

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—“Sir, may I know the reason why the Government are not prepared to make the system of nomination to the municipal councils coincide with the system of nomination to the district boards?”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—“One of my reasons is that there are members like our hon. Friend Mr. Veerian who object to that procedure being adopted.”

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—“May I know whether the Government have found out that no undesirable results would ensue if the power of making nominations to the district boards is vested in the Collector himself, instead of in the presidents of district boards?”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—“The power to nominate is vested in the Government even now.”

[23rd March 1926]

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Sir, if hon. Friends like Mr. Veerian object to the power being transferred from the Collector to the chairmen of the municipal councils, I take it that they also equally object to the present power being vested in the presidents of the district boards."

11-15
a.m.

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" That question does not arise. The hon. Member Mr. Veerian wants is that there should be a change in the matter of nominating members to the municipal councils and district boards. The Government do not propose to effect any change now. I think it is better to leave things as they are."

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" I do not want any change so far as the municipal councils are concerned. I only want to know whether there will be a change with reference to nominations so far as the district boards are concerned. The power of making recommendations is different from the power of making appointments. The power of making appointments is in the hands of the Government and the power of making recommendations is in the hands of the president of the district board. I want to know whether the power of making recommendations will be vested in the District Collectors."

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" I do not think, Sir, that we can do that."

Appointment of a Brahman to the Trichinopoly District Board.

* 1735 Q.—Mr. S. SATYAMURTI: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that a Brahman member had sat on the Trichinopoly District Board for three terms and more;

(b) whether the Government received representations objecting to the appointment of Rao Sahib S. M. Rajarama Rao on grounds set forth therein;

(c) whether any investigation was made on the allegations contained therein, and if so, the nature and result of the investigation;

(d) whether it is true that some of the depressed classes, other minorities including Christians and missionaries, ladies, and the Railway department in respect of the appointment of which there are separate Government Orders, are yet unrepresented on the Board; and

(e) what conditions necessitated the overruling of all the statutes and rulings in this behalf in appointing the gentleman for the 4th or 5th term?

A.—(a) The hon. Member apparently refers to M.R.Ry. S. M. Rajaram Rao Avargal. Prior to his nomination to the District Board in October 1925, this gentleman had served as a nominated member from November 1916 to November 1919 and again from January 1920 to April 1921 and as an elected member from June 1921 to September 1922 and again from September 1922 to September 1925.

(b) Yes.

(c) No.

(d) There is at present no lady member on the Board, nor is there any representative of the Missionary, Indian Christian or Railway communities. The depressed classes are represented by one member who belongs to the Palla community.

23rd March 1926]

(e) M.R.Ry. Rajaram Rao was not nominated for a fourth or fifth term as assumed in the question. As stated in the reply to clause (a) of the question, he had served as a nominated member for less than two full terms. There was no breach of any provision of law involved in his nomination in October last.

Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—" Arising from the answer to clause (a), may I know the reasons why the member was renominated a third time? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" He was recommended strongly by the President of the District Board."

Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—" May I know for what reasons? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" I think the reasons are known to the President himself. But what I collected from his letter was that the member was particularly useful and that he was taking a great deal of interest in the administration."

Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—" Arising out of the answer to clause (b), may I know the sort of representation made objecting the nomination? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" I take it that the hon. Member wants to know on what grounds objection was taken. I should like to have notice of that question."

Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—" The answer to clause (b) is 'yes.' I want to know the sort of representation objecting to the nomination of that member."

Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" With reference to the answer to clause (d), I want to know how does it arise that there is no member representing the Indian Christian community on the District Board. They are maintained in the two or three colleges. May I know why that community is not represented on the District Board? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" The President, District Board, asked to give the next chance to a Christian member."

Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" I want to know why they should give only the next chance to a Christian member and why should not there be a permanent chance."

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" There was a Christian member and he ceased to be a member only recently after the nomination. The claims of Christians will be considered when the next vacancy arises."

Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" May I know why, when the Christian member ceased to be a member, another Christian was not appointed in his place? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" He was not a nominated member; he was an elected member. There was a Christian on the Board when the nomination was made. The president has been asked to consider the claims of an Indian Christian for the next vacancy."

[23rd March 1926]

Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—" May I know whether Mr. Rajaram Rao was appointed to a Christian vacancy or to any other vacancy ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" The vacancies of nominated members are not earmarked. The claims of communities are considered when there are vacancies. "

Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—" May I know why the Government did not deem it fit to appoint one Christian member out of five members nominated by the Government ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" At the time of nomination there was a Christian member on the board and there was the District Collector who was also a Christian. Therefore it was thought unnecessary to nominate another Christian member. "

Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—" I understand that the District Collector has been transferred. "

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" The hon. Member will kindly frame the question straightaway. "

Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—" Having regard to the fact that the District Collector has been transferred and his seat has become vacant, will the Government give this chance at least to a Christian member ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" I have already answered that question. The president will be asked to suggest the name of a Christian member to the vacancy which has occurred by the transfer of the Collector. "

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" May I know whether it is not a fact that, while making nominations to the local bodies, due regard should be given to unrepresented minority communities? I want to know whether there are already members who came in through the door of election. "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" I understand there are members who have come in through the door of election. "

Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—" May I know, Sir, the reason why in spite of the objections, the Government deemed it fit to nominate that individual ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" The question has already been answered. The president recommended strongly the nomination and it was for that reason that he was given preference. "

Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—" Was not that recommendation against the spirit of the Government Order that has been issued by the Government ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" No, Sir. "

Mr. F. NOYCE :—" May I read the recommendation of the president of the district board on this subject? He says: 'during my enforced absence for long periods in 1924 M.R.Ry. S. M. Rajaram Rao Gan exercised my delegated authority and after my return was elected vice-president of the district board. He discharged his delegated duties with conspicuous ability and has been of immense help to me throughout. I required his assistance in the decision of questions raised and investigated in my absence and therefore I require his presence on the board again.' In these circumstances, the Government accepted the recommendation of the president. "

[23rd March 1926]

Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—" May I know if that recommendation is so strong as to overrule the principle laid down by law that due regard must be given to the representation of minority communities ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" There is no question of overriding any principle because at the time of nomination the interests of all the communities were represented on the board. There was a vacancy and the person was considered to be particularly suitable for the appointment; the president wanted him to be nominated and the Government accepted his recommendation. "

Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—" My question is this. At the time when the vacancy arose this member was nominated. All the five nominated seats were filled in by the Government. No Indian Christian member was nominated. At the time when the vacancy arose it would have been proper for the Government

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—" On a point of order, Sir. The hon. Member is making a speech. "

Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—" It is a long question. "

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" The question must come earlier in the speech. "

Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB :—" Owing to the fact that no Christian was appointed to any one of the five nominated seats and that at the time of nomination, the particular seat that fell vacant was that of a Christian may I ask the Government why they did not give that vacancy to a Christian ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" I have stated that the Collector who was on the Board was a Christian. Besides him, there was an Indian Christian who was returned by election. So, there were two Christians. That was the reason why the vacancy that occurred was given to a Brahman gentleman who, I may say, also belongs to a minority community and who was recommended by the President. "

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" May I know whether the Government have perused the comment made in the sub-editorial column

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" To peruse sub-editorials is none of the business of the Government. "

Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" There is distinction between European Christians and Indian Christians. We are speaking of the minority community of Indian Christians. I want to know whether the European Christian would represent the Indian Christians. "

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" They are still more a minority community. "

Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—" May I know whether there is an elected Brahman member on the Council ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" I am not sure of that. Perhaps there might be one. "

Elected President for the East Godavari District Board.

* 1736 Q.—Sriman SASIBHUSHAN RATH Mahasayo: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Government are aware that the East Godavari District Board convened a special meeting in which a resolution demanding an elected President for the Board was passed by a large majority; and

(b) if so, what action they propose to take on the matter?

A.—(a) The answer is in the affirmative.

(b) The matter is under consideration.

Nominations to the Rasipuram Union Board.

* 1737 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) what steps the Government have taken in connexion with a representation made on 20th August 1925 by the Secretary, Adi-Dravida Association, Rasipuram, Namakkal taluk, Salem district, to the Secretary, Local Self-Government Department, the Commissioner of Labour, and the President, Namakkal Taluk Board, regarding the claims of the depressed classes for a nomination seat in the Rasipuram Union Board, Salem district;

(b) whether it is a fact that Mr. Bommana Chetti, Mr. Ramaswami Chettiyar and Mr. Naina Malai Kandappa Chettiyar were nominated on 31st July 1925 and 12th August 1925, respectively, by the President, Namakkal Taluk Board, Salem district, to the Rasipuram Union Board;

(c) what the necessity is to appoint three members belonging to Chetti community to the Rasipuram Union Board without giving due regard to the unrepresented depressed classes and other minority communities;

(d) whether the Government propose to take any steps to cancel the nominations made by the President, Namakkal Taluk Board, contrary to the spirit of the law;

(e) why one Mr. R. V. Nayagan, Secretary, Adi-Dravida Association, Rasipuram, was not appointed though he made several personal requests and representation also by means of writing to the President, Namakkal Taluk Board, to represent the depressed classes on Rasipuram Union Board; and

(f) how many Chetti community members got through the election to this board?

A.—(a) to (f) The attention of the hon. Member is invited to the answer given to question No. 1302 on the 9th February 1926 and the supplementary answers connected therewith. The Government are not aware of any representation made to the Commissioner of Labour and the President, Taluk Board, Namakkal, on the subject.

Public Health.Grant to Tanjore District Board for village roads and water-supply.

* 1738 Q.—Khan Bahadur V. HAMID SULTAN MARAKKAYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that Government have sanctioned a grant of Rs. 90,000 to the Tanjore District Board for village roads and water-supply on the condition that the taluk and district boards contribute an equal sum;

[23rd March 1926]

(b) whether it is a fact that the grant is further subject to the condition that they should be spent before the 31st March 1926 and that no undertaking is given to pay next year any portion of the grants sanctioned, which could not be utilized before that date;

(c) whether it is a fact that several presidents of taluk boards and the president, district board, have expressed their difficulty in getting the grants utilized before 31st March 1926 in view of the peculiar nature of the district and the shortness of the period at their disposal and requested the Government to reconsider their orders to credit the entire grants sanctioned before 31st March 1926 and to extend the period of execution till 30th June 1926;

(d) whether it is a fact that Government have passed orders that they are unable to comply with their request and, if so, the reasons therefor; and

(e) whether Government are aware that the working season at any rate for the Tanjore district is the month of March and subsequent periods and the sinking of wells and tanks especially cannot be satisfactorily executed before 31st March 1926?

A.—(a) & (b) Yes.

(c) & (d) The President, District Board, Tanjore, did so; but the Government declined to comply with his request as the grant was sanctioned for expenditure in the current year only. The question of reallothing in 1926-27 the unspent balance of these grants is, however, under the consideration of the Government.

(e) The Government were so informed by the President, District Board.

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"May I ask the hon. the Minister whether it is a fact that large sums of money that were allotted to the portfolio of the hon. the Minister, for distribution among the local bodies are being returned to the Finance unallotted?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"That will be known very soon. I think a large amount of money distributed to the local bodies from the provincial funds and that amount is not spent by them."

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"Are not local bodies given extension of time? Local bodies which say that they will spend the money are not given any money. Local bodies which are given money are not able to spend it. May I know why the Government do not give money to the local bodies which are able to spend it?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"That question has not yet been decided. I have already informed the Council that funds would be allotted from the unspent balance."

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"May I know when the amount is to be allotted and when it is to be spent? It will have to be spent before 31st of this month and we are on the 23rd."

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"The allotment will be made on the 29th of this month when further demands will be moved in this Council."

[23rd March 1926]

System of purifying the water from the Red Hills.

* 1739 Q.—Mr. S. SATYAMURTI: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) the reasons why the Government overruled the decision of the Corporation with regard to the system of purifying the water from the Red Hills;

(b) whether the Government have been advised by their experts as to the system of rapid filtration, and

(c) what extra cost is involved in carrying out this order of the Government and whether the Government propose to make any contribution thereto?

A.—(a) & (b) The attention of the hon. Member is invited to paragraphs 2 and 3 of G.O. No. 4345, L. & M., dated the 30th November 1925, which has been placed on the Editors' Table.

(c) No information is available in regard to the extra cost involved in the adoption of the system of rapid filtration. The question of a grant will be considered if and when the Corporation applies for it.

Religious and Charitable Endowments.Definition of 'gross income' under the Hindu Religious Endowments Act.

* 1740 Q.—Mr. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether doubts have been raised as to what should be considered as gross income under the Hindu Religious Endowments Act, 1925;

(b) whether any rules have been framed to define the phrase 'gross income'; and

(c) whether attempts have been made to include the sums paid towards the expenses for uthsavams and for feeding people as gross income though the whole of the money so paid is spent in such uthsavams and feedings and whether there have been protests against such inclusion; what opinion, if any, has been given regarding such things by the Government or their legal advisers?

A.—(a) & (b) The attention of the hon. Member is invited to draft rule 108 contained in Notification No. 1160 of Part I-A of the Fort St. George Gazette, dated 20th October 1925, which lays down the method by which the income of a religious endowment should be calculated. Representations in regard to the necessity of a clearer definition of gross income than that contained in this rule have been received and are under consideration.

(c) The question of including income from kattalais, ubhyams or other specific endowments under the term 'gross income' has been raised; and a representation against such inclusion has been received.

The Government have so far not taken any legal opinion in the matter.

[23rd March 1926]

Mr. B. RAMACHANDRA REDDI:—"With reference to clause (c) of the question, may I know whether the income from the temple service inams will be included in the gross income?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"I think, Sir, that it will be included if the inams belong to the temple."

Audit and Appropriation Reports.Transfer of control of the Local Fund Audit Department.

* 1741 Q.—Mr. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Member for Finance be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Local Fund Audit Department was under the control of the Collector till 31st March 1924 and whether it was then transferred to the control of the Examiner of Local Fund Accounts;

(b) whether, as the result of this transfer, the audit clerks that were in the Collectorate became subject to the control of the Examiner of Local Fund Accounts;

(c) whether besides the clerks transferred under (b) a large number of audit clerks have been appointed to do the Local Fund Audit work;

(d) whether the clerks transferred from the Collectorates and those newly appointed are practically doing the same work;

(e) whether the pay for the audit clerks has been fixed as Rupees 40—4—120;

(f) whether it is a fact that the new clerks only are drawing the pay fixed as shown in clause (e) and that the clerks transferred from the Collectorates are still drawing their original pay which is less than the pay fixed under (e) and, if so, why this distinction is shown; and

(g) whether the Government have decided to give the pay as shown in clause (e) to the clerks transferred from the Collectorates and, if so, when it is to be given effect to?

A.—(a) & (b) The local fund audit staff working under Collectors was transferred to the control of the Examiner of Local Fund Accounts from the 1st December 1923.

(c) From the 1st April 1924, the Examiner had to provide each district board and certain of the taluk boards with an accountant. For this purpose a number of men were temporarily recruited and either sent as district or taluk board accountants or posted as audit clerks in the place of clerks transferred as accountants.

From 1st May 1925, a scheme was introduced by which the compilation of the taluk and district board accounts was centralised in the district board offices. This enabled a considerable reduction of establishment to be effected or a large number of the clerks who had been temporarily recruited were disbanded.

(d) Yes.

(e) The scales of pay for audit clerks are—

First grade 35—5—40—4—120—3—150.

Second grade 35—5—40—2½—80.

[23rd March 1926]

(f) & (g) The new temporary clerks who have been retained after 1st May 1925 as well as the clerks transferred from the Collectorates have recently been brought on to one or other of the two grades mentioned in the answer to clause (e). This change has been given effect to from the 1st May 1925.

Salt.

Output of saltpetre in the Presidency.

* 1742 Q.—Sriman SASIBHUSHAN RATH Mahasaya: Will the hon. the Member for Finance be pleased to state—

- (a) what is the quantity of saltpetre manufactured annually in the Presidency of Madras;
- (b) whether the output is enough to meet the demand of the province;
- (c) whether any saltpetre is imported into the province from any other province in India or outside; and
- (d) whether it is proposed to close the industry?

A.—(a) The average annual output of refined saltpetre is 3,830 maunds.

(b) No.

(c) Yes.

(d) Not so far as the Government are aware; the Salt Department is, however, now entirely controlled by the Government of India.

Jails.

Treatment of Mappilla prisoners in Palayamcottah Reformatory Jail.

* 1743 Q.—Mr. K. UPPU SAHIB: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that a number of Mappilla adolescent prisoners in Palayamcottah Reformatory Jail were whipped a month or two ago; if so, for what reason;

(b) whether it is a fact that the then Superintendent issued orders prohibiting the reading of religious books within the jail and that he caused a number of religious books, including Holy Koran, to be destroyed; and

(c) whether there is any provision made in that jail to give religious instructions to Muslim boy prisoners and whether there is any special accommodation for their religious observances?

A.—(a) No. Whipping was last awarded on the 5th August 1925 to certain Mappilla adolescents (ten in number) for mutinous conduct and for assaulting three warders.

(b) No. As a disciplinary measure, for a short period after the disturbance above referred to, all books were removed from the prisoners and placed in the school library. These books were given to them from Saturday to Monday as soon as their behaviour showed signs of improvement. No religious book was destroyed. All religious books are allowed to be kept by the prisoners.

[23rd March 1926]

(c) On account of the language difficulty the services of a local Moulvi have not yet been secured. The District Magistrate is endeavouring to secure one for giving religious instruction to the Mappilla adolescents. Ample accommodation is available for religious observances.

Labour.

The Commissioner of Labour.

* 1744 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Commissioner of Labour has inspected the various tea, coffee, pepper, cinchona and other estates in the various districts and how many estates are yet to be visited by him with a view to find out the living and other conditions regarding accommodation, school, medical aid, wages and other facilities for the coolies and their children working on the estates;

(b) how many such estates exist in each district;

(c) the functions that are entrusted to the Commissioner of Labour;

(d) whether the Commissioner of Labour has visited several mills, factories and workshops in various districts;

(e) if so, how many such mills, factories and workshops exist in each district, how many he has visited and how many have yet to be visited; and

(f) what were the recommendations he made to the proprietors of such mills, factories, workshops, etc., on behalf of the labouring classes of people?

A.—(a) The Commissioner of Labour inspected a considerable number of estates in the Anamalais, Kodanad and Carzon estates in Kotagiri and the Naduvattam cinchona estates. The Government have no information as to the number of estates remaining to be visited by him.

(b) The Government have no information.

(c) The attention of the hon. Member is invited to G.O. No. 271, Revenue, dated the 2nd February 1920, which was placed on Editors' Table.

(d) & (e) The Commissioner of Labour as the controlling authority over the Factory Inspection staff inspects a few factories whenever necessary. But it is neither possible for him nor is it his duty to make a regular inspection of all the factories, mills and workshops in each district. During the year 1925 he inspected a few rice factories in Kistna district and some factories in planting districts. The regular inspection of factories is the function of the factory inspection staff. A report on the work done by them during the year 1924 will be found in G.O. No. 880, Development, dated the 17th June 1925, which was placed on the Editors' Table. Statement VIII attached to the report contains information as to the total number of factories in each district, number inspected and number not inspected.

(f) In the rice factories inspected, the Commissioner found that sanitary conditions were bad. Proposals for improving them are now under his consideration.

[23rd March 1926]

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" With reference to the answer to clause (a) of the question, may I know, Sir, the nature of the inspections made by the Commissioner of Labour during his visit to several estates mentioned ? "

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" That is a question which the hon. Member can answer for himself—the kind of inspection which an official makes."

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" There is something more involved in it. May I know whether he makes any inspection with reference to the accommodation of labourers and makes enquiries about medical aid, wages, etc. ? "

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" The hon. Member should put such specific questions."

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" There are a lot of things involved in it. When the Commissioner of Labour makes his inspections, naturally he would submit a report to the Government and the hon. the Home Member can get the information . . . ? "

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" What is the information that the hon. Member wants ? "

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" I want to know whether the Commissioner of Labour sees whether there are school facilities, medical relief, accommodation, sufficient wages, etc. ? "

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" I think he sees to all these things."

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" May I ask whether he submits a report to that effect ? "

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" He need not submit a report to Government."

11-30 a.m. Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" What I want to know is whether he sees to the wages of the coolies also."

The hon. Khan Bahadur MUHAMMAD USMAN SAHIB Bahadur :—" I suppose he does."

Employment of children in beedi shops.

* 1745 Q.—Mr. S. SATYAMURTI : Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state the number of children employed in beedi shops for making beedis, and their hours of work ?

A.—The Government have no information.

Agency.

Transfer of Sundernarayan Deo and others from Vizagapatam to Berhampur.

* 1746 Q.—Sriman SASIBHUSHAN RATH Mahasayo : Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) the reason or reasons for transferring Messrs. Sundernarayan Deo and Krishnachandra Deo of Kalyansinghur (Vizagapatam Agency) who were detained under Regulation II, 1819, at Vizagapatam, from Vizagapatam to Berhampur ;

[23rd March 1926]

(b) whether the detenus have complained before the authorities that the climate of Berhampur does not suit them and that they constantly fall ill there ;

(c) the amount of allowances that is given them and the restrictions placed on their freedom ; and

(d) whether the detenus have to launch some civil litigation in Vizagapatam courts and that the order fixing Berhampur as their place of detention seriously hampers their interests ?

A.—(a) The transfer to Berhampur was made in the interests of the public peace.

(b) They sent a petition to the Agent to the Governor, Vizagapatam, containing inter alia the complaint that the health of Sundernarayan Deo was affected by the change of climate. It appears that he had some throat trouble for which he was treated by the District Medical and Sanitary Officer, Ganjam.

(c) A maintenance allowance of Rs. 50 each per mensem and a joint house rent allowance of Rs. 30 per mensem. They are not allowed to leave Berhampur.

(d) The Government are not aware of such litigation.

General.

Alleged criticism of Government's policy by the Collector of Ramnad.

* 1747 Q.—The RAJA OF RAMNAD : Will the hon. the Member for Revenue, the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government and the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is open under rules, if any, to permanent officials of Government such as the Collector, etc., to criticise the Government's policy in matters educational, local self-government and alike ; and

(b) what action the Government propose to take against an attack made by the Collector of Ramnad district, against the Local Self-Government administration, while presiding over the Kamma Conference at Sattur, and his condemnation of the educational policy in a speech that he recently delivered at Madura ?

A.—(a) The rules on the subject are contained in rule 20^a of the Government Servants' Conduct Rules.

(b) The Government have read the reports of the speeches in the public newspapers and do not consider that the speeches condemn the particular policy of the Madras Government, and therefore do not think that any action is necessary.

The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—" Sir, may I ask the hon. the Revenue Member whether the statement—I only speak from memory and subject to correction—that for lack of spirit of discipline, one finds the Co-operative movement and the Local Self-Government Department in a muddle, is not a condemnation of the policy of the Transferred departments ? "

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" What is in a muddle."

[23rd March 1926]

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"The Co-operative movement and the Local Self-Government Department. I venture to think, Sir, that they fall under the prohibition of clause (a)."

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"Did the Officer say that?"

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"Yes."

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"I have nothing to add, Sir, to the answer on the paper."

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"Not having given the particular passage in the speeches in question, may I know, Sir, whether the hon. Member thinks that those statements do not offend the rule. It may be that he merely made a general study of those speeches and came to the conclusion on a general impression that they did not offend?"

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"The answer is itself based on the report which the Government perused."

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"I ask about those passages—whether he considers them unobjectionable?"

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS:—"As I said, I have nothing more to add to the answer on the paper."

Indian Civil Service.

Alleged distinction between Indian Civil Service divisional officers and Madras Civil Service officers.

* 1748 Q.—Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) the action taken on the representation of the Indian Officers' Association that the distinction made between the Indian Civil Service Divisional officers and officers of the Madras Civil Service in the matter of their appointments, postings and transfers be abolished and the orders passed, if any; and

(b) when the above distinction was introduced for the first time by Government?

A.—(a) The only representation made by the Association on this subject was regarding the appointment of a local officer to act as Collector in a short vacancy. The Association was informed that the Government considered that there was no sufficient reason to alter the existing practice.

(b) No distinction has been introduced by the Government. The status and conditions of the two Services have always been different.

Land Revenue.

Remission of suspended revenue in Bellary taluk.

* 1749 Q.—Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state the outturn in the current year of cotton, chulam and korra in villages of the Bellary taluk like Yettina Budihal, Nalludi, etc., where old land revenue assessment is yet to be collected, having been suspended in the previous years, and ryots have applied for a remission of the suspended revenue and postponement of the collection of current loans arrears and the orders of the Government thereon?

A.—The outturn in Bellary taluk of white chulam and cotton in the current fasli was estimated at not less than 12 annas.

Particulars of outturn of these crops in individual villages and of korra are not available.

The Government have on the recommendation of the Collector and the Board of Revenue ordered the collection of the arrears in the current fasli.

No petition has been received by Government requesting remission of the suspended revenue. Some ryots of a village in Bellary taluk have sent a petition praying for the postponement to next year of the collection of the suspended revenue and of current loan arrears. It is under consideration.

Public Service.

Refund of increments drawn by unpassed clerks.

* 1750 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether orders have been passed in regard to the refund of the increments drawn by and recovered from unpassed clerks, and if so, what orders;

(b) in the case of the unpassed clerks who had been confirmed in their posts prior to the introduction of the time-scale and have been exempted from the operation of article 1 of the Public Service Notification after the issue of G.O. No. 164, Law (Education), dated 4th February 1925, from what date they are allowed to draw their increments, whether retrospectively from 1st March 1923, taking into account their previous services or prospectively;

(c) if the latter, on what grounds;

(d) what course the Revenue Board has taken in this respect;

(e) whether the Accountant-General referred the matter to Government or was consulted by Government and if so with what effect;

(f) what the orders of Government or Accountant-General are;

(g) what action has been taken as to unpassed clerks in the Registration and Forest departments in South Kanara and other districts as to sanctioning increments retrospectively or prospectively;

(h) whether it is a fact that in their case exemptions have been given with retrospective effect from 1st March 1923; and

(i) what action has been taken in this respect as to clerks in the Civil Courts?

A.—(a) No.

(b) & (c) The question of allowing retrospective effect to orders sanctioning exemptions from examination rules is under consideration.

(d), (e) & (f) The Board of Revenue allowed unpassed clerks exempted by it after the issue of G.O. No. 164, Law (Education), dated the 4th February 1925, to draw increments from 1st March 1925. But the Accountant-General having held that the service for increments of these men counts only from the date of exemption, the Board has referred the question to Government and pending the receipt of the orders of Government it has directed Collectors to keep its orders in abeyance.

[23rd March 1926]

- (g), (h) & (i) The Chief Conservator of Forests, the Inspector-General of Registration and the High Court have all addressed Government on the question of the grant of exemption from examination rules with retrospective effect. No final orders have yet been issued.

Appointment of clerks by the Collector of Malabar.

* 1751 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue and the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the two ex-military Adi-Dravidas named Navutty and Keerutty who were employed as warders in the Huzur Sub-Jail, Calicut, submitted a memorial to the then hon. Home Member when the sub-jail was closed, that they might be given the next chances when menials were appointed under the Collector of Malabar and, if so, what was done with that memorial;

(b) how many menials, permanent or temporary, were appointed subsequently by the Collector of Malabar in various capacities;

(c) whether any of the Adi-Dravidas were appointed, if not, why they were not appointed; and

(d) whether the Government will be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing the number of clerks appointed and confirmed by the Collector of Malabar since 1st July 1922 till 10th November 1925 and the communities to which they belong?

A.—(a) No such memorial has been received by Government.

(b) & (c) The Government have no information.

(d) The Government have no information as to the number of clerks appointed by the Collector of Malabar during the period referred to. From the establishment list of the district corrected up to 1st April 1925 (latest list available), it is gathered that 31 clerks were confirmed between 1st July 1922 and 1st April 1925. The Government have no information as to the communities to which they belong.

Srirangam Temple.

Repairs to Srirangam temple.

* 1752 Q.—Mr. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether the question of repairing the Sri Ranganathaswami temple at Srirangam has been finally disposed of and, if so, in what manner;

(b) whether it is a fact that some villages were first given as inam to the temple and that at the time of the Karnatic Nawabs, the villages were taken over and a fixed sum of Rs. 50,000 a year was given to the temples and whether this fact is supported by the evidence of an ancient document which has recently been discovered; and

[23rd March 1926]

(a) whether the income from the villages referred to in the document mentioned in (a) was reduced after they came into the hands of the British Government and, if so, to what extent?

A.—(a) If the hon. Member refers to the Committee appointed to report what repairs are necessary, he is referred to the answer given to question No. 1433 on the 13th February 1926.

(b) & (c) In pre-British days the revenue from certain villages appears to have been at one time allotted to the temple. The Nawab Wallajah substituted a money allowance. The allowance was not a fixed one during the Muhammadan rule, but varied from year to year. The Government are not aware that any ancient document on the subject has recently been discovered.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS.

Education.

Special teaching grant to aided secondary schools.

1753 Q.—Mr. P. K. S. A. ARUMUGA NADAR: With reference to the special teaching grant to aided secondary schools, will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a condition for a school to participate in the aforesaid grant that the management should contribute a substantial sum or a sum equal to the Government grant;

(b) whether it is a fact that in past years several schools shared in this grant though their management made no contribution as stipulated in the terms of the grant;

(c) whether it is a fact that the Sivakasi Hindu Nadars Victoria High School participated in the special teaching grant in 1920-21 and 1921-22 with the management contribution and in 1922-23 even without it;

(d) why in the years 1923-24 and 1924-25 it was not given any special teaching grant even though it applied for it under the conditions in which the special teaching grant was sanctioned during 1922-23; and

(e) what consideration was shown on the representation of the Member (Mr. Arumuga Nadar) last year on behalf of the aforesaid school?

A.—(a) A substantial contribution from the management is insisted upon in all cases.

(b) There have been cases in which managements of schools at first promised to abide by the conditions and were awarded grants, but subsequently failed to do so. In such cases the managements were warned that they should continue their contribution if the grant was to be continued. If they specifically refused to continue their contribution, the grant was stopped.

(c) Yes.

(d) No grant was sanctioned for the school in 1923-24 and 1924-25 as the management failed to satisfy the conditions laid down by Government for the distribution of the special teaching grant.

[23rd March 1926]

- (e) Since the management was not prepared to abide by the conditions laid down by the Government, no special grant could be paid to the school.

Pay of the permanent teachers of Government elementary schools for girls transferred to local bodies.

1754 Q.—Mr. P. PEDDIRAJU: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Government have received a memorial from the permanent teachers of the Government elementary schools for girls now transferred to local bodies, regarding the grant of time scale of pay to them, and, if so, what action has been taken by the Government;

(b) whether the Government have granted time scale of pay to the teachers in Government elementary schools for girls and, if so, from which date;

(c) whether the Government have considered the advisability of extending the benefit of time scale of pay to teachers of Government girls' schools transferred to local bodies;

(d) what is the number of permanent teachers of the Government elementary schools for girls transferred to local bodies in 1922 and 1924, respectively; and

(e) whether it is a fact that some teachers who were previously getting a higher salary in the schools under the management of Government are now getting lower salaries after the transfer of schools to local bodies?

A.—(a) & (e) Yes. The local bodies concerned were informed that it was open to them to revise the pay of the teachers in question, if the additional cost involved can be met from their own funds.

(b) Yes, from 1st March 1922. The number of such schools excluding those in the Agency tracts is three.

(d) & (e) Particulars have been called for from the Director of Public Instruction.

Government grants to schools.

1755 Q.—Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state—

(a) what is the policy of the Government in allowing grants:

(i) to ordinary elementary schools;

(ii) to special schools for defective children;

(iii) to commercial schools such as short-hand and type-writing; and

(b) how the net cost of a special school which levies no fees for the pupils is to be arrived at?

A.—(a) (i) Grants to aided elementary schools are governed by the rules framed under the Madras Elementary Education Act, 1920, which have been published in the Fort St. George Gazette.

(a) (ii), (iii) & (b) The hon. Member is referred to rules 44 and 45 of the Grant-in-Aid Code.

Criminal Tribes.

Panchayats in charge of the criminal tribes.

1756 Q.—Mr. G. RAMESWARA RAO: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether there are any panchayats in charge of the criminal tribes;

(b) if so, how they are constituted and whether they are informal or statutory;

(c) the details of the functions of the said panchayats including their rights, duties, and the sanction attached to their opinions or orders and how far they can be enforced or are enforced in practice;

(d) what the localities are, in which the panchayats are working; and

(e) whether it is proposed to extend the panchayat system throughout the Presidency and if not, why not?

A.—(a), (b) & (d) Panchayats are now working in connexion with criminal tribes in the Kallar villages of the Madura and Ramnad districts, in the Tanjore and Pattukkottai taluks of the Tanjore district and in the localities of the Ganjam district in which the Dandasis live.

The panchayats—which are informal and not statutory—are constituted by the appointment of the leading members of the tribes as panchayatdars; occasionally others are also appointed panchayatdars to collaborate with those belonging to the tribe.

(c) The duties of the panchayats are to watch and report the movements of criminals belonging to their tribe, to report crimes in which members of their tribe are concerned, to surrender persons against whom there are warrants, to assist the police generally in the detection of crime committed by members of the tribe under their control and generally to endeavour to reform the latter and to look after their progress. So long as the panchayat carries out its duties satisfactorily the panchayatdars and the members of the tribe whom they control are exempted from the provisions of section 10 (a), Criminal Tribes Act, under which registered members have to report themselves at fixed intervals.

The panchayats have no legal sanction. In practice, it has been found, that the orders of a panchayat can be enforced only to a limited extent.

(e) No. The system is only applicable to certain conditions, and requires additional staff to secure its satisfactory working.

Civil Justice.

Applications from Muslims for district munsifs' posts.

1757 Q.—Mr. MUHAMMAD MOOSA SAIT: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state the number of applications from Muslims now registered by the High Court for selection of district munsifs?

A.—The Government have no information. The appointment of district munsifs is a matter solely vested in the hon. the Judges of the High Court.

[28rd March 1926]

II

WITHDRAWAL OF CERTAIN WORDS USED DURING DEBATE.

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR :—“ Mr. President, I desire to say, a word, Sir. It has been brought to my notice that in the course of some remarks I made yesterday, I used an expression, the word ‘poisonous’, with reference to a doctrine held by a particular political party. I wholly differ from that doctrine, but as I hold that expressions used in this House should comply with the rules of substantial as well as of verbal decorum, I should like to change it into ‘wholly misconceived’.”

COMMUNICATIONS TO THE COUNCIL.

The Secretary laid on the table copies of the following Government Orders :—

(1) G.O. No. 165 ^a, Development, dated 2nd February 1926, recording the accounts of the Kerala Soap Institute for the quarter ending 30th June 1925.

(2) G.O. No. 215 ^b, Development, dated 15th February 1926, recording the audit report of the Russellkonda Saw Mill for the quarter ending 30th September 1925.

IV

MOTIONS ON THE BUDGET FOR 1926-27.

DEMAND XIX—EDUCATION (TRANSFERRED)—cont.

* Khan Bahadur P. KHALIF-UL-LAH SAHIB Bahadur :—“ Sir, I move
‘that the allotment of Rs. 2,98,400 for pay of permanent establishment be reduced by Rs. 100.’

“ My only object is, as is stated there, to draw the attention of the Government to the present low and unsatisfactory scale of pay of the assistant professors. Sir, I think they are started on a scale of about Rs. 125 and go up to Rs. 250 and they are expected to reach the maximum in about 20 years’ time. I should think that it is very hard on the professorial staff to give them such a low scale of pay without any great scope for promotion. Their lot was much better in the past than it is now, and this is due to more causes than one. There is now-a-days every resort made to direct recruitment to the Indian Educational Service and, as such, the scope of promotion of these assistant professors has been very much limited. Again, as regards the scale which these professors are given, they also lack every convenience which other officers of the same department are getting. Some officers are given a Presidency allowance, whereas these assistant professors are denied that. Again, Sir, there is this distinction that has to be noted, namely, so far as the Indian Educational Service is concerned, the overseas allowance alone comes to more than the actual pay which these poor staff are given. Their case, therefore, Sir, is a very pitiable one and deserves the immediate attention of Government. It is on a contented staff that the progress of our rising generation lies and as such, Sir, I appeal to the hon. the Education Minister to pay his immediate attention to the improvement of the scale of pay of these professors as early as possible.

^b Printed as Appendix III on pages 571-573 infra.

23rd March 1926] [Mr. P. Khalif-ul-lah Sahib]

“ In this connexion, Sir, I may also draw the attention of this House to the fact that they waited in deputation on His Excellency the Governor of Madras. I hope the hon. the Education Minister will take up their cause and place them on a much better footing than they are at present.”

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—“ Sir, I entirely agree with the hon. Member that in the case of the assistant professors in colleges who are doing work in the Honours classes their scale of pay is not adequate and requires improvement. It was realized three years ago that that scale required revision and this was pressed on the attention of the hon. the Finance Member; but owing to financial difficulties, we were not able to effect any revision. Secondly, Sir, the scales of pay for these assistants as well as for all other subordinate services were fixed only a few years back on the scales corresponding to this service in other branches of the administration. The scales for the whole of the Government departments were then fixed and if one department’s scale is to be revised now, then all the other departments of the Government also will require revision and there will be a very heavy bill to be met. That is how the Finance Department answer our request from time to time. However, in the case of the particular class of professors, namely, the assistant professors in colleges, their case is entirely different from the other classes of subordinate service, and we pressed this fact on the attention of the Government. Their case is now under consideration and if the Finance Committee accepts the proposal, it is very likely that there will be some improvement, in the case of the college assistants’ cadre.”

* Khan Bahadur P. KHALIF-UL-LAH SAHIB Bahadur :—“ Sir, in view of the assurance given, I do not press my motion.”

The motion was, by leave of the House, withdrawn.

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—“ Sir, I beg to move

‘that the allotment of Rs. 6,76,400 for Arts College—Men be reduced by Rs. 1,000.’

“ Sir, my object in moving this token motion is to suggest to the Government the desirability of opening the Mathematics Group in the Government College at Palghat. Sir, I must, at the very outset, express our feelings of gratitude and thankfulness to the hon. the Education Minister for raising the College at Palghat to the first grade. Therefore I should not be presumed to be ungrateful or hasty in pressing the Government to incur further responsibilities, but I may say that at the time when Sir A. P. Patro promised to raise the Victoria College to the first grade, it was said that all those subjects which did not require large capital outlay such as Mathematics, History and Philosophy would be opened. Now, Sir, students who have taken the first or second group for the Intermediate examination have necessarily to take up Philosophy or History now and they are thus very much handicapped. It is only fair to those boys that facilities should be given to continue their studies in the same subject in the B.A. classes also. I know that an elementary course of Physics is also necessary for Mathematics for the B.A., but there are already the Physics and Chemistry laboratories of the Intermediate, and with slight improvement or modification, it should be possible to give facilities for the B.A. students also in them. It was said in the Government Order sanctioning the raising of the college to the first grade that want of accommodation and other things should be attended to by the Public Works Department at once; and if pressure was brought to bear upon them, the buildings would have been already finished by this time. The Education Minister happens to be in charge of the Public Works Department also, and if he only cares, it would be possible to have at least two rooms before the college re-opens in July and the fourth class is opened. Anticipating the buildings and other things, instructions may be issued even now to do the needful. If, however, there is a will, I am sure it will be possible for the hon. the Minister to find away and comply with our request. With these few words, Sir, I commend this suggestion for the acceptance of the Government."

[Mr. K. Prabhakaran Tampan] [23rd March 1926]

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR:—"Sir, I wish to associate myself with my Friend, Mr. Prabhakaran Tampan, in all that he has stated with reference to this particular motion. As a matter of fact, I believe—I speak from memory—that in the Government Order under which the college was raised from a second grade one to a first grade one, it was said that the college would be affiliated in Mathematics in the ensuing academical year. As a matter of fact, the only groups that are now taught in the B.A. class in the Palghat College are History, Philosophy and languages. There were and there are a large number of students who have taken up Mathematics in the Junior and Senior Intermediate classes, and even last year when the college was raised to the first grade, many of these students who had taken up Mathematics as their group for the Intermediate examination had to leave the Palghat College for other colleges for want of the Mathematics group in that college, and such of those as did not leave Palghat to join other colleges for taking up Mathematics and such of those as really stuck to the Palghat College, had to change their subject, i.e., Mathematics, for History or Philosophy. They naturally felt it as a hardship. Then, Palghat is a particularly intellectual centre where there are a large number of students taking up Mathematics. The only possible objection that could be thought of against this college being affiliated in Mathematics immediately is this: it may be said that there is want of accommodation. With reference to that, several professors who are engaged in the college as teachers had conversations with me on the subject, and all of them have assured me that it is possible to introduce Mathematics at once. It is a matter of internal arrangement. I do not like to go into the details of that arrangement. They have assured me, and I feel convinced that they were right, that it is possible, if there is some alteration in the time-table, to have accommodation for the teaching of Mathematics even in the accommodation that exists there.

a.m.

"And as has been stated it is possible to put up structural alterations, a small building for instance for the purpose of finding accommodation if necessary. The college will be re-opened only in July and there is yet ample time for putting up a building. Even before the building is ready, as I stated, it is possible to introduce this group by slight alterations in the time table. Of course we thank the hon. Sir Patro for having raised the institution to the first grade, but the full benefit of it can be had only if Mathematics is also introduced in the ensuing academic year. Of course in the year next to that, the idea is to construct a new building and to introduce all the science groups which require greater laboratory arrangements. I hope my hon. Friend will take immediate steps to affiliate the institution in the Mathematics group as soon as the college re-opens."

23rd March 1926] [Mr. M. Krishnan Nayar]

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"Sir, there is a will and a wholehearted desire to carry out the wishes of the hon. Members who have just spoken. But there are certain difficulties in the way of carrying out the scheme immediately. The buildings require to be strengthened and improved. And the monsoon is about to begin; it begins in May and continues till September. According to the Public Works Department, therefore, nothing can be done for five months to come. It will not therefore be possible for us to do anything in 1926-27. We have in fact prepared proposals for the introduction of Mathematics and Science classes during 1926-27. The scheme was placed before the Finance Committee. They have considered it and suggested that it will not be practicable to carry out the structural alterations and the additional buildings in the course of the year. The scheme was sent to the Finance Department even before it went to the Finance Committee and that department pointed out that May, June and July were monsoon months in Malabar and the construction of a laboratory which would be a necessary preliminary to the opening of the classes could be completed only after the term was over. It is thus found difficult to introduce these subjects in 1926-27. As Physics is to be taught, an extension to the laboratory is necessary for the introduction of the Mathematics branch. It cannot be done therefore in the ensuing year. As desired by the hon. Members, we are already committed to this scheme of opening the group in that college and we shall try to do it as early as possible, as soon as the structural alterations are finished."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN:—"Sir, I know that the Public Works Department would have pointed out this difficulty. After all it is a difficulty more fancied than real. If they want only to make structural alterations, it is perfectly possible to do so because we have yet got three more months before the monsoons by which time the alterations could be effected. As a private member I undertake to the hon. Minister to finish the work, if it be found difficult for the Public Works Department to do it. I am glad to hear that the scheme sanctioned by the Government includes the provision for these groups. Under the circumstances explained by the hon. Minister I request that the hon. Minister may be pleased to give effect to it at least in the financial year 1927-28."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR:—"Sir, I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 60,200 for Queen Mary's College be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"It has been stated on the floor of this House in answer to a question that the system of promotion that obtains in the Queen Mary's College is at present this: so far as the girls who are studying in the Junior Intermediate class are concerned, if they fail consecutively for two years, they are of course not promoted; that, one can understand. They are not also allowed to continue even in the same class unless they change their group. I submit this is very hard. So far as I am aware, this system of denying to the pupils the privilege of continuing even in the Junior Intermediate class without changing the group does not exist even in boys' colleges; and so long as these girl students are prepared to pay their fees and study in the class it seems to me that there is no reason why they should be compelled to change their groups. And that the girls should be compelled to change their groups I submit is very hard. I therefore submit that the Government or the college authorities may very well allow the girls to continue in the same class without being compelled to change their group. It seems to me that there is nothing reasonable that can be said in favour of the practice that obtains in the Queen Mary's College."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"Sir, I am afraid I do not see the force of the argument in support of the motion. If a student fails once in the first year class and fails a second time as well and does not get qualified for promotion, and if that student is to be allowed to continue in the school, it would mean the blocking up of many other girls, more intelligent girls to be admitted into the college. That is one aspect of it which I would request hon. Members to remember. Failing once, a second chance is given and if even that is not availed of and the girl does not show any improvement, it would seem fair for the authorities of the college to presume that the candidate could not cope with the subject and therefore they give her an option to change the subject. It is only an option and it is not obligatory. If the student changes and shows some improvement, she will have a fair chance. If she cannot, it does not seem to be worth while continuing her education. It is from this standard that we have to judge the matter. The point of view of the student, of the parent, has also to be taken into consideration. The parents should not waste their money on a student who is not able to equip herself properly in the course of two years in the Junior class. Though it would seem theoretically hard that such students should not be allowed to continue in the same groove in practice, and in the interests of educational efficiency it seems desirable that such slackers or dullards may take to some other pursuit of life than the education in the Arts colleges. It is that reason that prompted the Principal and the staff to make such a rule in the Government of the college. Therefore hon. Members will see that there is no hardship at all. If, on the other hand, a large number of girl students in the college were kept out under this rule, I would certainly consider that there was something wrong with regard to the quality of the students that are admitted to the college. If a large percentage is not promoted because they are not up to the standard, it requires to be examined why a college admitted such students without a preliminary examination. But, in all cases we have got other students waiting for admission and these students who have not taken advantage of their opportunities for study in the college will be blocking better students seeking admission into it. It was therefore that the college authorities thought it advisable to ask them to change the subject and afford them another chance to show some improvement. Instead of working the other alternative of altogether excluding from the college such students, the college authorities have considered it fit to give them another opportunity and it seems to me therefore that there is no hardship. If there are any particular cases where the rule is worked in such a way as to create a hardship, I am prepared to examine such cases; but as a general rule it is not fair that we should interfere with the college discipline and the college management."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"I am very much disappointed at the answer given by the hon. the Minister for Education. What the hon. Minister says is this: seeing that these girls failed twice in the Junior Intermediate class, if they are allowed in the same group, that will result in the exclusion of other girls brighter and more intelligent being admitted into the class. Does not the same principle apply to boys and should it not be extended to them also?"

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"May I explain, Sir? In the case of boys, there are several institutions and there is a large room for admission; but in the case of girls, there is but limited space in the Women's College, and we would be obliged to keep out really deserving and efficient students."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"I should correct my hon. Friend. I know from personal experience as a Member of the Committee for admission into the Palghat College that we are obliged, much against our will, to refuse admission to more than 50 per cent of the boys who after passing the School Final examination seek admission into the Junior Intermediate class in that college. My hon. Friend is not correct in stating that there is room for boys and that there is no room for girls. It seems to me if the principle seems to be so sound in the opinion of my hon. Friend, it should really be extended in the case of boys as well. But my hon. Friend, the Minister, is not prepared to concede that."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"If it is urged that it is necessary, we are prepared to examine that also."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"I do not urge that it is necessary, Sir. But I will leave it to my hon. Friend to extend it. My point is that such a restriction is very hard even in the case of girls. The reason namely that brighter girls or more intelligent girls will be excluded is not a sound one, and if it were so, the educational authorities and my hon. Friend the Minister would have thought it fit to extend it to the boys as well. Then, is it possible, Sir, that if, as my hon. Friend says, girls fail twice in the same group, there is a chance of their succeeding in another group? That seems to be altogether incomprehensible. A girl who has failed twice in a subject which she has studied in the Junior Intermediate and which she must necessarily have been studying in the sixth form for her School Final examination . . ."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"I should make a personal explanation, Sir. Instead of dismissing the student altogether from the college which the college has a right to by virtue of its powers for the internal discipline of the college, a student is given another opportunity of studying and an option to exercise."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"The student is given an option; yes, I understand it. I do not know what personal explanation there was in this statement. But I don't quarrel with my hon. Friend for interrupting me. What I still say is this. If a girl fails twice in the same subject in the first year class in a subject which she has been studying for two years in that class and which she must have certainly studied in the School Final class and in the Fifth Form as well, I ask, what chance is there for such a girl to succeed in another group if she is compelled to change the subject? It seems to me, Sir that the reason is all on my side, and there is absolutely no reason on my hon. Friend's side. (Laughter.) However, I do not like to press the motion and embarrass the hon. the Minister."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

[23rd March 1926]

Mr. P. T. RAJAN :—" Mr. President, I formally move the cut that stands in my name, that is,

'to reduce the allotment of Rs. 60,200 for Queen Mary's College by Rs. 100.'

(to consider the advisability of shifting the women's schools and colleges in Madras from the Marina to Nungambakam.)

"I will not detain the House long but will only say this: I think the locality in which these schools and colleges are situated is on the main thoroughfares. Privacy which ought to be the main feature of a girls' school or college is lacking in the present institutions. So I suggest that the schools and colleges should be shifted to a place like the Director of Public Instruction's office in Nungambakam. Sir, there are two distinct advantages in shifting these institutions to that place. Firstly, there is already a college there, the Women's Christian College, and if these colleges are shifted there inter-collegiate lectures may be arranged and other social relationship may be made easier. Secondly, subject to correction I say that a sum of Rs. 5 lakhs has been given to the Women's Christian College for scientific research and laboratory, and in that way science can be specialized in one college, arts can be specialized in another, and there will be no necessity for the hon. the Minister to give any contribution to the Women's College. Under these circumstances, from an economic point of view the Government will save money, and from the point of view of education certainly there is every chance of greater inter-collegiate lectures and social relationship, and so on. For these reasons I commend this motion to the acceptance of the House."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—" Sir, there is indeed a good deal to be said in favour of the resolution which the hon. Member has moved. (Laughter.) He says that there is the Women's Christian College and Women's Training College in Nungambakam, and he thinks that, if the Queen Mary's College is also located there, there will be inter-collegiate work and the possibility of economizing professorial work and that students from one college may be enabled to attend lectures in another college, thereby promoting real University life. To that extent I am sure the House will agree with me in saying that the proposal is very sound. But it seems to me in proposing that we are to shift the Queen Mary's College from its present very healthy surrounding to Nungambakam, the hon. Mover has not properly appreciated the conditions of the Queen Mary's College. I am sure he is not so selfish in the matter as to suggest that men's colleges and public offices should be on the beach and enjoy all amenities of life, whereas the women's colleges should be deprived of that advantage and benefit of free and pure air. I am sure it is not the case, because we know how chivalrous he is. But the point seems to be that the balance of advantage is in favour of the present situation. There is at present no need to shift the college from the Marina to Nungambakam. That is all I can say at present."

* Khan Bahadur P. KHALIF-UL-LAH SAHIB Bahadur :—" I would put in a suggestion, Sir, in this connexion that the other two colleges may be shifted to the Marina in order that all may be located together, instead of shifting the Queen Mary's College from a healthy locality to a less healthy place."

[23rd March 1926]

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—" Mr. President, I should like to endorse the suggestion that has been just put forward by the hon. Member for Trichinopoly. I remember, Sir, when the amendment of the Madras University Act was under consideration, the hon. the Minister consulted the Principals of the City colleges with a view to bring all the colleges together into one locality; the idea of developing corporate university life by arranging inter-collegiate lectures and at least getting the Honours and B.A. classes together in one locality so that they may all have common lecture classes from professors was very much in his mind. I should like to know from the hon. the Minister in what stage that proposal is. For the last two or three years, owing to some reason or other, there has not been that anxiety to bring all the colleges together to one common place as there was at the time. I remember quite distinctly the authorities of the Christian College having been consulted and my revered master, Dr. Meston, suggesting that it was possible for the teachers' mission to so arrange their accommodation in the present buildings as to shift the B.A. class at least to the Marina. It was also suggested to those in charge of the local institution over which you so ably presided till recently to remove some of the higher classes of that institution to the Marina. And Sir Charles Todhunter, the then Finance Member, was very much in sympathy with that point, and I think has also promised in a certain way to give as much facility as possible to all these institutions for coming to one central locality so that corporate university life may be developed and that the principle of concentration, which has been so much emphasized during the latter days, may be better exercised. I am thankful therefore for the opportunity that the hon. Member for Madura has unwittingly given of pressing this aspect of the question before the hon. the Minister, and I freely echo the wish expressed by the hon. Member for Trichinopoly that the other women's colleges may be brought to the Marina quarters and that the educational institutions may have that free, uncontaminated—uncontaminated in more senses than one—atmosphere which they very much need. I do not care very much where the public offices now on the Marina are going to be located. They can very well be in the squalid surroundings which they are eminently fit for. But educational institutions which constitute a desideratum ought to be in such surroundings, as in the case of the Queen Mary's College, and our resolve should be not to shift them to neglected nooks and corners of the City and unhealthy localities but to bring others to the same happy and healthy locality which this institution fortunately possesses. I have great pleasure therefore in opposing the motion of my hon. Friend from Madura."

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—" I do not think, Mr. President, that there would be any necessity for supporting or opposing the motion of my hon. Friend from Madura, for I am sure he will withdraw it. But, as my hon. Friend from Chingleput has said, this is an opportunity when certain state of affairs could very well be brought to the notice of the hon. the Minister for Education. Much has been said already on the motion, but I have only one other matter to touch upon, which has not hitherto been referred to, and to which I hope the hon. the Minister and the Government as a whole will pay some attention. It is this, Sir. When I was a student in Madras years ago, I used to find all the carriages—I won't say motor-cars because there were not many at that time (A voice :—" Were there any at all ?")—at that time used to be parked opposite to the Senate House, and the utmost limit they could reach was the Presidency College. For some reason unknown to me and probably not known to many other Members of this House this scene has shifted, though the band still plays opposite the Senate House and there is plenty of room between the Presidency College and the Senate House which is as good a ground for stopping these cars and carriages if only the owners care. I mean no reflection upon the car owners, but at the same time I cannot help thinking that the freedom of the girls, some of whom might be willing to go to the beach and come back to their quarters which are exactly opposite the beach or even to spend their time in the grounds of the school buildings, is very much denied to them now on account of the parking of these cars opposite the college, with the result that I am afraid at least some of the girls are obliged to spend their time on the other side of the buildings—the western side of the buildings. I am quite sure that the men passing in the carriages and cars can easily see what the girls are doing in their rooms, whether they are reading or standing there—not that there is real objection to it, but I would prefer that this parking of these cars straight opposite to this college is an objectionable thing which ought to have suggested itself long ago to the good sense of those that are stopping there. I do not know whether I can seriously suggest the blocking up of the road at that place and taking the road round the college so that people can go the other way to the southern side of the City like Mylapore. If that is impossible, I would certainly suggest both to the hon. the Minister for Education as well as the Minister for Local Self-Government to exercise their influence with the Corporation and Police authorities to see that these motor-cars are not parked in a regular line from one end of the college to the other straight down even to the Police Inspector-General's office. If at least that reform is effected it would go some way, and I would make this suggestion entirely in the interests of the girls.

"There are girls whose parents are not residing here, and though I am perfectly certain that there is excellent supervision, I would not allow their freedom to be restricted by this nuisance of cars. I hope that this would satisfy the hon. Member from Madura."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"Sir, some time ago a proposal was considered that the whole of the Marina from the Napier's bridge to San Thome should be devoted to University purposes, that all first grade colleges should be located there and they should be given facilities, as far as possible, to come over from Georgetown to the Marina so that we may have a whole block of University buildings and that should form the centre for educational purposes. This scheme was drawn up by me in consultation with the then Finance Member Sir Charles Toddhunter. We worked the scheme half-way, but then came the difficulty in regard to the location of the Victory Memorial and the Prince of Wales Children's Hospital. These memorials have come in the way. Once they were prepared to locate the memorial at a particular place, and the foundation stone was laid; that was shifted and the second foundation stone was laid as you all know and again a third one. These schemes have obstructed the further progress of the proposal which we made. Now, this Victory Memorial and the Children's Hospital are to be removed from that locality to another place which my hon. Colleague the Chief Minister has already indicated to you yesterday. Therefore the question will again be taken up and the authorities of the colleges in Georgetown will be asked to see if it would be possible for them to shift their college departments to this place. It is not an easy matter, because the colleges—both the Pachaiyappa's College and the Christian College—are having classes from the school courses to college courses. The shifting would mean expenditure of large sums of money for them and rebuilding the institutions. How far Government will be able to give them financial help is a matter which has to be considered first. Some time ago the Madras Christian College authorities wanted to come in there and they have been in search of a site. At present, I understand, they have resolved upon some site in Nungambakam, but if that is not available, and as the scheme of the Victory Memorial and the hospital has been dropped, it is possible that the college authorities may revise their proposals. I cannot at present say what will be the final result of the scheme. But this is certain, namely, that now that these memorials are out of the way, it is quite possible that the scheme that was in progress to some extent will be taken up again in order to see whether we cannot give effect to it in full if it would be possible and practicable.

"I also emphasized this aspect of it recently at the Loyala College and said that while the Loyala College buildings are located at Nungambakam it would be possible that other colleges in the town would be willing to come to one place so that there may be concentration and co-ordination of the work. In the interests of the University and in the interest of college education it is necessary that all the colleges should be located quite near each other. The principles underlying the Act was that this residential system and the teaching system could only be carried out in its essentials when these colleges are all together in a particular area. It was with a view to bring the colleges together to one area that the scheme was prepared and I hope it will be possible again to continue this scheme from where it has stopped owing to certain other intervening circumstances. In regard to the proposal of the hon. Member Sir Reddi Nayudu Garu it is suggested that some steps should be taken to shut out the vulgar gaze." (Laughter.)

Rai Bahadur Sir K. VENKATAREDDI NAYUDU :—"I did not use that expression."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"I am using it on my own responsibility. The hon. Member wanted steps should be taken to shut out the vulgar gaze of the people passing in the street. We have anticipated the difficulties in the matter. We wanted first to put up a compound wall and the science blocks for the college along the Marina Road. But the staff and the Advisory Council of the college suggested that it would be spoiling the beauty of the Queen Mary's College, that it would be interfering with the free passing of air into the premises and that it would be inadvisable therefore to put up a block of buildings in the east. Hence we shifted the locality to the western side of the building, passing the Lloyd's Road where the foundation will be laid very soon in order that the science buildings may be completed for the Queen Mary's College. We have asked the Public Works Department to take early steps to grow four or five rows of casurina trees so that the gaze of those that pass along the Marina may be as dim as possible. (Laughter). It is as I said left to the good sense of the people themselves. The public will have to co-operate with the department in trying to avoid the place as a place of resort. As he pointed out at one time the carriages and carts were not concentrated there. But recently no doubt there have been very big congregations there. It is possible when the public read the proceedings of the House and the opinion expressed on all sides the will realize that it is their duty to see that they do not congregate there, as much as they do and that they would like to avoid that place and go further south or north in order that they may have amenities of sea breeze, and that this particular place may be avoided. No rule can be imposed on the people. It is left to the good sense and judgment of the public, and I am sure that this discussion will have its effect in that direction. I therefore, Sir, think that there is no room at present to consider the proposal of the hon. Member for Madura."

[Sir A. P. Patro]

Mr. P. T. RAJAN :—"Sir, on the assurance given by the hon. the Minister I withdraw my motion. What I wanted was privacy as elaborated by Sir K. V. Reddi Nayudu. I have no objection whether the Queen Mary's College is located there or any where provided all these institutions get the privacy essential for them. I have no objection if all the colleges are shifted to Marina provided we don't make it a thoroughfare. That is the only objection on my part. I hope the hon. the Minister will consider the feasibility of making the necessary arrangements."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—"I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 7,36,600 for Government Arts Colleges be reduced by Rs. 1,000.'

"My object in moving this token motion is to suggest the desirability of beginning to concentrate in certain subjects in few selected colleges in the Presidency. Time was when there were very few colleges in the Presidency and they were located in distant parts of the Presidency also. In those circumstances it was desirable to equip all these colleges in an efficient state. Now we have a first-grade college practically in every other district, at any rate one for two or three districts. As for the Presidency town we have got four first-grade colleges. What I suggest is that the money which the Government could afford to spend on the equipment of laboratory, for instance, is spent on one institution with a view to make that institution very efficient and sufficiently fit to give advanced course of studies in that subject. Instead of frittering the resources of the Government by giving grants to large number of colleges, it is highly desirable to spend the money on one and the same institution and make it thoroughly efficient. For instance, in the Presidency College, facilities may be given to take advanced courses and make researches in Physics and Chemistry. In the Kumbakonam College which is also a Government College the subject of History may be given particular attention. Similarly in the Christian College, Mathematics may be specialized in. I have heard that Cambridge is the centre for the study of Mathematics, Oxford for History. I think it is time Government revises its policy which has been hitherto adopted and helps to create local Oxford and Cambridge. I commend this proposal to the consideration of the House and the hon. the Minister in charge."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"It is not a question of revising the policy of the Government. Our policy has been to concentrate in one place all these colleges so far as the Madras University is concerned. The essential principle of the Madras University Act is that there should be more inter-collegiate work, that the University should co-ordinate in the work of the colleges, that there should be a particular course of study in every college, and that one college student should be able to attend the lectures of other colleges. It is on these lines that University organization has been made. How far any progress has been made in that direction may be read from reports. There has been some collegiate work between the Presidency College and the Christian College, and I understand that the Syndicate is taking steps to bring about the principle into operation. In regard to the Andhra University also, I have to repeat the same thing. One has to restrict Science in one place, Philosophy in another and so on. I have already communicated the lines on which educational development is sought to be made under the Andhra University Act, viz., by the principle of concentration. Anantapur will develop in certain branches of study, Rajahmundry will develop certain others, and Waltair will develop something different. So under the Andhra University scheme concentration is to be the underlying principle. Similarly in regard to any other University the one underlying principle will be that all the colleges in Southern India will not repeat the same thing, but as far as possible a college will take up a particular subject for development so that there may not be waste of finance and waste of educational energy. We have been pursuing this policy as far as possible but as more universities are started and more educational development takes place in these centres, it would be quite possible to have this principle of concentration in a more effective form and in a more definite manner than at present."

[23rd March 1926].

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—"It seems to me, Sir, that there is some difficulty in accepting the suggestion of my hon. Friend at the present stage of University education in this Presidency. The existing University is undergoing a process of disintegration. The Madras University is being split up. The Andhra University Act has already become law and is to come into operation immediately. As my hon. Friend the Minister stated, the Andhra University Act has actually been brought into operation. So far as that particular University is concerned, within the limits of that University there will be places of concentration on different subjects. For instance, technological subjects will be dealt with at Vizagapatam, for other subjects at Rajahmundry and others again at Anantapur and so on. So that, within the area served by that particular University there will be places of concentration and it will be unnecessary to have the same subjects repeated in more than one place. Yesterday we had a pretty long discussion about the founding of the Tamil University and within the area served by that University there may be concentration. The same will be the case with reference to the other universities. If at the present stage Government is going to concentrate at particular places with reference to particular subjects the result will be that when these new universities come into existence difficulties will be felt. For instance within a particular area served by a particular university it will be found that there will be only one subject in which advanced teaching is given so that the result of introducing this policy advocated by my friend will be to introduce disadvantages in these university areas when new universities come into existence. So that it seems to me that the present time is inopportune to introduce and adopt the policy advocated. When these universities come to be established, then is the time to introduce the principle of concentration."

Mr. P. N. MARTHANDAM PILLAI :—"I wish to associate myself with what Mr. Tampam said as regards this motion. I only wish to point out that large sums of money are being wasted as grants to these various schools because they attempt to establish in their particular colleges all the branches of a particular course of studies. We, as Members of the Finance Committee, have been met with the difficulty of allotting these grants to the various schools and there we were acquainted with the necessity of making these grants which automatically come into existence whether the educational authorities like it or not. I wish to emphasize the position that under the Grant-in-Aid Code if a particular school wants to attempt a particular course of study and if it finds half the money under the Code, without the authorities having a voice in it, automatically Government gets itself committed to the other half. We found difficulties in allotting these grants to the various schools and if it is possible for Government to initiate the policy of concentration of particular course of studies in a particular area it would aid to a greater extent than the distribution of grants to the various schools. I wanted to bring to the notice of the Government the difficulty in making grants to the various schools without having an efficient voice on the schemes themselves. I therefore support the motion made by Mr. Tampan."

12-30
P.M.

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—"The hon. the Minister for Education has practically accepted the principle underlying my proposal. I am certain that in the Madras University Act also the idea is that only few colleges should be allowed to specialize in one and the same subject. But I found in the Finance Committee, as was referred to by my hon. Friend from Tinnevely, proposals for giving large grants for some of the colleges are put up for consideration. For instance, the Sri Minakshi College, Chidambaram, applied for Rs. 96,000 for fitting up a science laboratory. If the principle, as accepted by the hon. the Minister for Education, is to be adopted, there is no need to sanction any grant for that college, because the colleges in Madras are provided with efficient laboratories, and there is absolutely no need for another one at Chidambaram. There were one or two other instances also like that. I am one of those who believe that by fitting up all first-grade colleges with large and efficient and costly laboratories the Government are only incurring unnecessary expenditure. I only want to bring this aspect of the question to the notice of the hon. Member in charge of Education, and he is welcome to do what he chooses."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"I am afraid the hon. Members have not properly appraised the need of the Presidency in the matter of laboratories, etc. If as they suggest it is possible to have one college for the whole of the Northern Circars and one college for the whole of the Tamil districts for teaching one subject, the principle can be followed. But you find that there is such a large demand on the part of the people for the kind of study. If you have only one college situated in one district, you can imagine the difficulty of students who have to go from other districts to that district, or to go all the way from Tinnevely to Madras. There must therefore be some relief given to the students and for meeting the public demand in the matter. You cannot therefore say that, at present, as Mr. Krishnan Nayar pointed out very rightly, there are facilities to see that such a principle is put into practice. But it is admitted that what we are working at in regard to university education is to have concentration, so as not to fritter away money on several colleges teaching the same subjects. On the other hand, for instance, there is Madanapalle also to be developed in the Ceded districts which have no other college except Anantapur. If one college is developed in the north, another college has to be developed in the south, you find great difficulties felt by the people, and it is necessary that some provision must be made to meet that difficulty. If only we have got the other universities, then there can be concentration and co-ordination among the colleges in one university area like that of the Andhra University. Under the Madras University Act, we are at present making such a concentration in the City of Madras."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—"Though I do not believe there can be any difficulty in putting it into practice, I am prepared to withdraw the motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 15,000 for Law College—Honoraria for special lecturers be reduced by Rs. 100.'"

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"The hon. Member wants to draw attention to the need of research into Comparative, Historical and Ethnical Jurisprudence'. Does he mean that Government should provide facilities?"

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"This is a subject of highest importance to legislators as well as lawyers, as sooner or later we shall have to face at least one piece of legislation as the law of succession of Jains and others on which this subject of Ethnical Jurisprudence has a large bearing. At the same time, I may also point out that this subject is connected with many others. For instance, we have the grants to be made by the Government to the University in connexion with Oriental languages research, botany research, etc. I am not sure whether Government have sanctioned the grant only so far as the study of Dravidian languages is concerned and not for the Sanskrit language. What I would urge is that we should not take a narrow point of view of studies of languages. I will deal only with this point of Comparative, Historical and Ethnical Jurisprudence, which is more important to us, the lawyers, than as a matter of study of languages in general. In the study of Jurisprudence, we have what we call the Maine's Historical Society, and Maine specially dealt with what is called Historical Jurisprudence. What I want to draw attention to is the necessity for the study of Jurisprudence from a further point of view, that is of Ethnology and Philology. In the matter of the study of Philology we cannot confine our attention here only to Dravidian languages, and I do not think that there will be a sufficient and comprehensive research with such an on-look of the subject as it could have by a study of languages, not one language but in fact Sanskrit and all the other languages in the Presidency."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Does the hon. Member want to introduce the study of languages in the Law College? It is under that item that he is moving his motion."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I have overlooked the point of Law College I think I should not move it here." (Laughter)

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"The hon. Member has already moved it. Has the hon. Member the leave of the House to withdraw the motion?"

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

[23rd March 1926]

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 59,900 for Law College be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"Sir, there are two points which I want to suggest for the consideration of the hon. the Minister in charge of Education. One is for enforcing better discipline than is obtaining now in the Law College. We find, Sir, in the Law College more than two hundred to three hundred students in each class. As a matter of fact, I know that some students while remaining at home in their districts are marked regularly as present in the Law College. (The hon. Sir A. P. Patro: Not now.) Even this year, I have known instances of the kind. From what I understand the discipline that is enforced in the Law College is at a very low ebb. I would like the Government to pay some attention to it, and see that these scandalous incidents are stopped and put an end to.

"The other suggestion is that the admission into the Law College should be restricted. I am one of those who believe that we have too many lawyers in this country and that efforts should be made to see that their number does not increase in the same proportion as now. Admission to the Law College may be restricted. But my hon. Friend who is sitting beside me (Mr. Krishnan Nayar) wants me not to press this suggestion of mine which he thinks is full of danger and calamity to the country. I do not therefore press that point. With regard to the first point, I am anxious that the Government will give some consideration."

Mr. P. N. MARTHANDAM PILLAI :—" I must oppose the motion moved by my hon. Friend Mr. Prabhakaran Tampam. As regards the first point, viz., the one of discipline in the Law College, I do not think it is in any way worse than the other colleges. (Laughter.) When there are large numbers of students and if a particular student is absent, and somebody else answers 'Here' when his name is called, and if the teacher or monitor marks him present, I do not think it is right to attribute want of discipline in the particular college

"As regards the other point, namely, the restriction of admission into the Law College, it touches upon a very serious and important question which affects the lawyers as a class. I do not know whether it will be conducive to the well-being of the country if you are going to restrict the admission of students and the production of lawyers. Our wants in the struggle for existence will find their level. Why should you place an arbitrary restriction on admissions in particular years or in particular sets of students? Well, law is a study in this country which may be pursued for the benefit of the study alone, though not for the practice of it. I know as a matter of fact a number of people who have passed their B.L. and who are not practising as lawyers. Should the study of law be denied to men who do not want to practise it? If you want to restrict the practice of it to a smaller number, are there not other means of doing it than of restricting the admissions into the college? And there are several avenues in the struggle for existence, and these things are safely settled when they are left to themselves. I think my hon. Friend can leave this question alone, and it is a serious matter on which the opinions of lawyers and other eminent men should be obtained."

[23rd March 1926]

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" I wish to say one word with reference to the latter part of this motion."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" May I say that I did not press that point?"

Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" As a matter of fact, my Friend referred to the views I gave him and said that I advised him not to move it. But he did not actually take my advice. If he had taken my advice, he would not have taken that position. Therefore, I am going to oppose it. In addition to what was suggested by my learned Friend, Mr. Marthandam Pillai, I wish to say this, namely, the problem of unemployment exists to a very large extent in this country. Sir, the problem of unemployment among educated men is also increasing to a very large extent, and if it goes on increasing at the present rate, I do not know whether it will not become a serious political problem to be solved, and by restricting the admission into the Law College we are taking away from these graduates or those who have passed the B.A. examination one avenue for the outlet of their energies, and thereby we shall be adding to the discontent of these graduates who are now wandering about the country in search of employment, which they are not able to find. They cannot be blamed; those who cannot give them employment cannot be blamed; and those who have power and patronage in their hands absolutely find it impossible to give appointments to those that seek appointment, and those that seek employment find it very difficult to maintain their body and soul together. Now, if the suggestion of my hon. Friend, viz., that those who have passed the B.A. examination should be prevented from seeking admission into the Law College and thereby into the profession of law, be adopted, the number of people seeking employment will become so large that it will lead to a very serious state of affairs. There is, I submit, no right on the part of anybody to say 'thou shalt not enter the Law College'. That will be an interference not compatible with the freedom and liberty of individuals. I am therefore absolutely and wholly against that suggestion."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" May I ask my hon. Friend who spoke last whether those who pass out of the Law College and enrol themselves as lawyers do not generally apply for appointments?" 12-45 p.m.

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—" Sir, with regard to the suggestion of the hon. the Mover that there is slackness of discipline in the Law College, I must enter my strong protest, because the Law College is managed by an able Principal and there are now 12 assistant lecturers and other special lecturers and attendance is strictly enforced. I should therefore think that the hon. the Mover should have thought twice before he cast any reflections on the discipline of the college. The students of the Law College are all graduates and grown up young men with large promises of their future, and with a sense of responsibility. And it seems, Sir, very unfair to cast any slur on their discipline or conduct. Certainly I have not come across any such indiscipline in the Law College. The students of the Law College have shown themselves to be foremost in the games. If the other day my hon. Friend was present when the prize distribution was held he would have seen how they had carried away the cups in the various games, and the way in which they conducted the meetings of the Law College Societies there is very little ground for saying that there is any kind of indiscipline or want of discipline in the Law College. The discipline is as good as that in any other college. Therefore my hon. Friend is not at all justified in insinuating that there is any lack of discipline in the Law College."

[Sir A. P. Patro]

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—"Sir, I envy the hon. Minister's frame of mind. He is taking for granted that since he has appointed an efficient and able Principal and a set of good assistants and a council, everything is going on very well. I know that the attendance and the discipline enforced in the College is very questionable, and it is almost a scandal. I am afraid not only the students are culpable in that respect but also the staff who are conniving and abetting it. I am making the statement with a full sense of responsibility. I have brought it to the notice of the Government and I leave it there."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"Sir, may I raise my voice of protest against anything that is said not only against the Members of the House but also against institutions on very ill-founded information? My hon. Friend from Malabar has never been within the precincts of the Law College. If he expects in the Law College the discipline and methods which are observed, for instance, in a high school, he is quite mistaken. For aught I know—I have got friends in that College—the students in that College—they are not boys but men who have graduated—observe discipline compatible with the institution, young men who can be relied upon to show good manners and on behalf of those certain freedom should be allowed. (The hon. Sir A. P. Patro: Hear, hear.) Surely you cannot expect the methods and discipline enforced in a small primary school or high school. This is an institution where students come after graduating. If my hon. Friend has heard some impressions of some persons, this is not the place where information based on impressions of some other persons should be brought to cast reflections on the institution. Therefore I think my hon. Friend ought to withdraw his statement as befitting the dignity and decorum of this House."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—"I am not satisfied with the Minister's attitude in the matter. However, I withdraw the motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—"I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 1,06,000 for Government Secondary schools for boys be reduced by Rs. 100.'

(I move this to discuss the policy of not giving concession to depressed classes in the matter of school fees.)

"Sir, I understand the difficulties of the hon. the Minister for Education and I therefore wish to put myself in the position of the hon. the Minister for Education before I make my remarks in connexion with the subject. I say it in this realising manner as I think that only then it will appeal to him. I am grateful to the Government for providing rule 92 in the Madras Educational Rules with a view to give half-fee concession to pupils belonging to the backward and depressed classes. But I should like to point out, Sir, that it is not obligatory on the part of the correspondent, headmaster or superintendent of the school to admit pupils even on production of poverty certificate on this half-fee concession. This concession, Sir, as far as I understand the rule, is extended and made obligatory only in the case of

23rd March 1926]

[Mr. R. Veerian]

Muhammadans and Oriya girls. I do not know, Sir, what sin the members of the depressed classes have committed for not getting this concession whether they produce poverty certificates or not. I quite realize, Sir, that poverty is not the sole monopoly of one class of people, and I should like to point out pertinently to the Minister in charge of Education that rich people will never come forward, to whatever class they may belong, to ask for this small concession. I am sure, Sir, that rich classes of persons belonging to the depressed classes will never come forward and ask for this concession. After all, are there many rich people among the depressed classes? No, certainly not. If there are any rich people they may be able enough to have private tutors in their houses and they may not even show themselves as belonging to the depressed classes. It may be quite different in the experience of other members, but my experience is that when they become rich they do not like to show themselves as belonging to the depressed classes. Therefore, Sir, I say that there is no use of saying that poverty is not the sole monopoly of one class of people.

"Then, Sir, I should like to suggest that there is some difficulty in the case of mission and non-mission secondary schools, because in the case of mission and non-mission secondary schools, they get only teaching grant. In the teaching grant, they are not able to understand whether compensation of school fees also is included.

"But the position of Government is quite different; indeed, it is entirely different. Therefore I should like to go a step further and suggest to the hon. the Minister to allow all the members of the depressed classes freely in all the schools, I mean in Government schools, and if I may be permitted to say in other mission and non-mission schools at fees not more than one-fourth of the standard rate. I am sure that if the hon. the Minister for Education will make up his mind with the other responsible officers, viz., the hon. the Finance Member, the Director of Public Instruction, and the Secretary, Law (Education) Department, I do not think there will be much difficulty in doing all the needful for the members of the depressed classes. There is nothing impossible with the hon. the Minister because he is a mighty and bold Minister. (Hear, hear.) If I fail to get this concession during the regime of the mighty and bold Minister, I do not think I shall be ever able to get this during any other's regime. I give this credit to him, he deserves it, and I hope he will do his very best. I only wanted to lay this foundation, and to lay it well because I hope that this appeal will touch his heart though not now, at least in the long run."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"The hon. Member may also speak on the next motion of which he has given notice."

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—"I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 1,15,700 for Government Secondary Schools for Girls be reduced by Rs. 100.'

"I want to raise the question in the matter of giving full remission of school fees owing to poverty in the case of girls belonging to depressed classes.

"Sir, there is a girl in the Government Secondary School at Coimbatore, and that girl belongs to the Arundatya community. (My hon. Friend Mr. Guruswami is not here.) That is the only girl belonging to the depressed community receiving instruction in that school. There are about

[Mr. R. Veerian]

[23rd March 1926]

600 girls belonging to the non-depressed classes. When I made representation to make full remission of fees on behalf of that only one poor girl referred to, the Director of Public Instruction sent me the following letter which I shall read out in this hon. House:—

‘With reference to your letter of 6th February 1926 regarding full remission to Nagam-mal, V Standard, Government Training School, Coimbatore, I am to inform you that full remission of fees is inadmissible.’

“I made a representation also to the hon. the Minister for Education, some time ago at Ootacamund, and he was kind enough to send a cheque to the poor girl amounting to Rs. 15, because he realized the difficulty, but that amount was handed over to the girl by monthly instalments instead of in a lump sum. (A voice: Out of his own pocket?) Yes. Out of his own pocket; for, a lot of sanction is necessary to get money from the public funds. I really thank him on behalf of the community.”

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—“Will the hon. Member refer to the acts of the Minister as Minister?”

* Mr. R. VEERIAN:—“I mentioned so. Because some members asked about it. What I want to point out is that though the girl is reading in the secondary school, still she is reading in the lower standard, the V standard. There is a rule in the Madras Educational Rules, Rule 73 (1) and that applies only to the case of elementary schools, whether higher elementary or lower elementary, whether higher standard or lower standard to give full remission of fees. I do not know why the same rule should not be applied in the case of this girl who is receiving instruction only in the lower standard attached to the secondary school. I hope, Sir, that the hon. the Minister will kindly consider this question and the remarks made by me.”

(At this stage, Khan Bahadur Haji Abd-ul-lah Haji Qasim Sahib took the chair.)

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—“Sir, I am sure the House is well impressed with the persistent fighting which the hon. the Mover has been putting forward on behalf of the depressed classes, and if after these two and a half years of persistent fighting and insistence on the legitimate rights being granted to that community the House does not feel sympathetic towards him, it would be vain hope for the community to expect any good to be done to them. The hon. the Mover, however, realizes that the House and the Minister in charge of Education are very sympathetic toward the claims of those depressed classes which the hon. the Mover has been putting forward.

1 p.m.

“The House has listened with great interest to the appeal made by my hon. Friend Mr. Veerian, but his real point I am not yet able to understand. I do not know whether he wants that concession should be made applicable to the boys or girls, or to both. That is one difficulty which I feel. He began by saying that in the matter of concessions there were some difficulties and he developed the case and ended by saying that girls should be given full concession. If it is intended that rule 92 of the Educational Rules is not properly administered or given effect to by the school management I can understand him. To that end I have already issued instructions to the managements of schools that in interpreting rule 92 of the Educational Rules, they should be very liberal to all the communities stated therein, and for the information of the House I will read the rule.

[23rd March 1926]

[Sir A. P. Patro]

While the Educational Rule fixes a standard of fees to be levied in schools, exception is made in the case of certain communities on account of backwardness of education among them. Rule 92 reads thus:

‘In institutions of professional or special character fees shall be levied at such rates as may from time to time be sanctioned by the Director or as may be prescribed by any rules sanctioned for them. Fees in all institutions shall be levied at half the standard rates from Muhammadans, Oriyas, and members of backward classes and castes whose parents or guardians are poor or a concession is necessary to enable them to continue their studies. The production of a certificate to that effect from an honorary magistrate, president of a local board, or of a district secondary education board, or of a district educational council, or the chairman of the municipal council or a sub-magistrate or an officer of the Revenue department not lower than a deputy tahsildar should be required in case of doubt.’

“The important point that I would like to bring forward here is that an application for concession should be accepted by the management and concession should be given at once. The rule is obligatory on the management and it leaves them no option. When an application is made to the headmaster, the correspondent of a school, it will be accepted unless the management or any other authority concerned has doubt in the matter, a reasonable doubt to show that a particular application or that the application made for the concession is not bona fide. The rule is there framed by the Government and as a matter of fact obligation is cast on the part of the correspondent or headmaster of the institution to make half fee concession to certain communities. My Friend has drawn the attention of the Government to some specific cases where the rules were not properly worked. At once the management was communicated with and a memorandum was issued to all institutions explaining the way in which the rules should be interpreted. Presuming that a wrong interpretation of the rules might be due to the ignorance of the obligatory nature of rule 92, Government asked the Director of Public Instruction to issue circulars to all managers of institutions inviting their attention to the above interpretation of the rule. Therefore excepting there have been some specific instances in which mistakes were made by the authorities concerned and which were brought to the notice of the Government by my hon. Friend, Mr. Veerian, there does not seem to be any necessity for taking any further action in the matter at present. There is the policy and procedure outlined in rule 92 and it has been made obligatory for the management to grant half fee concession unless there is some doubt. Thus it will be clear to the House that the procedure which is already in the rules has been enforced as far as it could be done.

“Then the hon. Member has stated that in the case of girls it is necessary that full concession should be given. That is a matter which requires a very careful consideration of the Government. But if any schools were to decline the grant of half fee concession to the pupils of the depressed classes then they will be taken to task and their subsidies will be stopped, if they belong to local bodies, or grants if they belong to aided agencies. All agencies have been required to follow this rule and if it has not been done so, and if the attention of the Government is drawn to specific cases, necessary steps will be taken to enforce the rule.

“Further, the hon. Member suggests that even on production of a certificate the concession is denied. It will be entirely wrong on the part of the management if they do so. I am sure that there is no such unreasonable management where the rule has not been carried into effect. But if there has been any violation of the rule, I am prepared to inquire into it and will see that justice is done.

[Sir A. P. Patro]

[23rd March 1926]

"The hon. Mover has pointed out that the rule for levying half the standard rate of fees might be applied to institutions other than elementary schools for boys and girls belonging to communities provided therein, provided such pupils are certified to be poor. This question is engaging the attention of Government. Whether pupils belonging to the depressed classes will be able to get poverty certificates as easily as other classes of pupils is a matter which has to be considered. There are difficulties in the way of poor people belonging to the depressed classes approaching the authorities in order to obtain poverty certificates under rule 92. They may not approach the authorities or the authorities may not be accessible. Therefore this question as also the question whether pupils belonging to the depressed classes should be given half fee concession or full remission of fees are specially engaging the attention of the Government.

"Mr. Veerian recommends that poor girls belonging to the depressed classes, who really deserve such help, may be given some scholarships. Besides the concession referred to above, special scholarships are awarded by the Education department and the Labour department. In granting general scholarships, the claims of the various communities who are mostly in need of such scholarships are considered and the rule lays down that pupils who apply for these concessions should belong to Adi-Dravidas, Adi-Andhras or Muhammadans or Oriyas or backward communities. Therefore the kind of supplementary help that is demanded by Mr. Veerian is given by way of scholarships both in the Education department and the Labour department. Thus it will be seen that rule 92 is not an inflexible rule. If outside these rules there are cases which deserve help, provision can be made for them by means of remissions and scholarships. I know that particular community deserves encouragement and we are taking every possible step to help them in their wants in the progress of education."

Rao Bahadur M. C. RAJA:—"I want to be very brief in my remarks. I am glad to learn from the hon. the Minister for Education that Government are very anxious to do all that they can for helping the depressed classes. In the Government Order issued in 1925 by the Education Ministry, I see it is stated that it is difficult for the depressed classes parents to send their children to school, for they are poor and they are anxious to send their children for wage-earning occupations. That is not my view, but that is the view taken by the Government. This the Government themselves clearly indicate in their order. If that is the case, how can you expect the pupils of the depressed classes to pay half fees according to your rule? That is the very point which the hon. Mover of this motion wanted to impress on this hon. House. (Hear, hear.) The point is this: the depressed classes are clubbed along with other backward communities under rule 92. As I have very often said, the depressed classes are economically poor and the backward classes are well-to-do classes and the Government cannot place the depressed classes on the same level with the other flourishing and well-to-do classes of people. We have come here to respectfully urge before this House to consider the claims of the depressed classes who have been all along kept low and who have been all along kept economically in a backward condition so that the Government may render all possible assistance to those pupils who seek education. We would be thankful to the hon. Minister for Education who has been characterized as a bold and mighty Minister and subsequently as a sympathetic Minister and who has been in office for the last five years—I hope he will be our future Minister also—if he will make a standing record of his Ministry by giving as much concession as possible which we well deserve. It is all very well for every one of you to say 'that we are all very anxious to elevate the depressed classes'. It is all very well for you to say 'that we sympathize with your aspirations'. Sir, I would only request you to translate your sympathy into action by immediately changing this rule 92 by granting full fee concession to the pupils of the depressed classes. Certainly, Sir, I am not objecting to the system of asking for poverty certificates. I am not going to take advantage of the grant of the concession in the case of my children although I am not rich. Other members of the community who are able to pay will surely pay the fees, even the full fees. I am not saying that every boy and girl belonging to the depressed classes will take advantage of this hospitality of the Government and avail themselves of the full concession. As regards the girls, however, the hon. Minister himself knows that it is very difficult to get these girls educated and if at a time like this you are going to impose fees also on them, it will be very difficult for them to go to school. Once more, on behalf of the depressed classes, I appeal to my old friend, Sir Patro, who is now a valiant knight, to amend the rule and do this humanitarian piece of work for the benefit of the depressed classes, so that the members of the depressed classes might get full concession in the schools." 1-15 p.m.

[23rd March 1926]

[Mr. M. C. Raja]

Mr. P. N. MARTHANDAM PILLAI:—"Sir, I rise to say a few words in support of the motion in order to show that it is not the depressed classes alone that are asking for these measures, but that we also are anxious that we should do our best to remove their grievances in the matter. I appeal to the hon. Minister to give the members of the depressed classes full concession in schools if possible and help them in their struggle to make their condition much better than what it is to-day."

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"Sir, I think there is some misapprehension as to the remarks I made with reference to the half concession fees for the members of the depressed classes. What I wanted was a concession of full fees in the case of girls at least, if it is not possible in the case of boys also owing to financial difficulties. The hon. Minister referred to scholarships awarded by the Educational department. They are awarded to Mappillas and caste Hindu widows who are reading above the fifth standard, but not to the pupils belonging to the depressed classes. I saw the answer of the Government to my interpellation only the other day. There are some difficulties in getting these scholarships; the pupils must pass the examinations regularly. If the pupil fails in one year or if he is not considered a bright pupil they discontinue the scholarship. Reference was made to the Labour department which also gives scholarships. But those scholarships are only for pupils reading in the fifth standard upwards. The age restriction is observed there and that works hard against the depressed classes. The depressed class boys are not admitted in many schools and therefore they are obliged to keep from school till they grow old. If the age restriction is observed in their case it will create a great difficulty and real hardship. Therefore we never get any advantage either here or there. There will be one or two girls in all the Government schools. Therefore there will be no difficulty in giving full concession in the case of girls if it is not possible to give the same concession in the case of boys."

Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"Sir, I associate myself with the request of the hon. Member that the depressed classes should not be bracketed with the backward classes. I was till now under the impression that the depressed classes pupils were getting full concession. The depressed classes have been for the past so many centuries deprived of the elementary rights of humanity and citizenship on account of the arrogance of the higher castes including mine own. It is therefore our duty to give them full concession in regard to fees at least in the case of the girls if not also in the case of boys. This must be done in all Government schools. Scholarships and other facilities should be provided liberally. The converts to Christianity from the depressed classes should also be treated in the same category as the depressed classes. There is another ruling of the hon. Minister recently that converts from the depressed classes to Christianity should be treated as depressed classes, whereas converts from the backward classes to Christianity should be treated as elevated classes. I must point out that this is not true as a matter of fact. By conversion to Christianity the backward classes are not elevated at all economically; they may be elevated educationally, but economically they are backward still. I therefore urge upon the hon. Minister to make these concessions to the members of the depressed classes and the backward classes."

[Mr. J. A. Saldanha]

[23rd March 1926]

* Rao Sahib R. SRINIVASAN :—" Sir, I do not agree with my hon. Friend, Mr. Saldanha, when he says that the converts from the depressed classes should also be treated as members belonging to the depressed classes, or say Adi-Dravidas. When the missionaries converted the Adi-Dravidas they were assured that they would not be treated as heathens or untouchables. The converts were considered as belonging to a different and superior community. Some of them despised the Adi-Dravidas. Sir, I ask Mr. Saldanha whether any head of the Christian denomination or the Holy See would accept that these converts might be called Adi-Dravidas or untouchables? No! Now, when some special advantage is given to the Adi-Dravidas, by the Government, these converts and their ministers saw that they were not getting the concessions granted to Adi-Dravidas, they have come back to claim themselves as Adi-Dravidas and to share the advantages that are given to the Adi-Dravidas. These concessions were granted to Adi-Dravidas owing to the special difficulties they suffer from as untouchability and oppression. It was only the other day that Mr. Saldanha said that the Christians were a highly educated community next to the Brahmans in intellect. They would not agree to say that they are untouchables."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" On a matter of personal explanation, Sir. I said that the Christians sacrificed on the altar of education many men, women, and money, but at the same time we are economically backward. That is a fact which I think must be recognized. At least, so far as the Catholics are concerned, it is true. We are economically backward and mere conversion to Christianity does not elevate the economic condition of the backward classes. I may also point out that we have got our own schools for our converts. I want that there should be no misunderstanding between economic advancement and educational advancement."

* Rao Sahib R. SRINIVASAN :—" Sir, the same thing is seen in the Christian boarding schools also. The converts there are not treated as untouchables. Why do the converts want to share that concession with the Adi-Dravidas? They have deserted the Adi-Dravidas before and now because there are some concessions offered to the Adi-Dravidas, Christian converts wanted to take advantage of them. Where then is the line of demarcation? If the hon. Minister wants, let him give special grants to the Christian converts; Adi-Dravidas do not grudge it. Let them not come and share what little the Adi-Dravidas have got. Of course I realize that they are our brethren. But I do not want that the converts should come and join us so long as this benefit is derived by them and then leave our fold."

[Mr. R. Srinivasan]

The Chairman (Khan Bahadur HAJI ABD-UL-LAH HAJI QASIM SAHIB) :—" Does the hon. Member withdraw his motion?"

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" I want to know what the hon. Minister has to say . . ."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—" I have already said enough and I have also added that all the suggestions would be considered."

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" I asked for a remission of full fees at least in the case of the girls who will only be very few in number."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—" I already said that the question of full concession for girls in the primary schools is under the consideration of the Government."

The motions were by leave withdrawn.

The House then adjourned for lunch.

After Lunch (2-30 p.m.).

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" Mr. President, Sir, I move the motion that stands in my name. It is this :

that the allotment of Rs. 1,15,700 for Government Secondary Schools for Girls be reduced by Rs. 100.

" My object in moving this motion is this: Till very recently the fees from girls studying in girls' schools were being collected at a particular rate. For instance, the rates that were being collected from girls studying in Forms IV, V and VI were, I think, Rs. 2-10-0 per month. Recently this amount has been doubled. The girls in these forms who were paying Rs. 2-10-0 are now compelled to pay twice the amount, i.e., at the rate of Rs. 5-4-0 per mensem. This acts as a real hardship on the girls. Female education in our country has not advanced to such an extent as to make all the parents and guardians sending their children and wards to schools, pay whatever fees levied. Female education—especially English education—is still in an infant stage and it is necessary that the full rates which are being levied on boys should not be levied on girls. This was brought to my notice very recently about a month ago in Palghat; parents of several girls who are studying in the high school there, came to me and complained that they were compelled to pay this higher rate from December. That, I submit, is a real hardship. My hon. Friend may tell me that the rule has been in existence for some time. If so, that rule has not been enforced. Then I find from the rules in the Grant-in-Aid Code—Rule 92—that fees in all instances shall be levied on half the standard rates from Muhammadans, Oriyas and members of backward classes whose parents or guardians are so poor that the grant of this concession is necessary to enable them to continue their studies. That is to say, a parent or guardian who wants to pay only half the rate should declare himself to be so poor as to be unable to pay the double rate or the usual rate by whatever name it may be called. Respectable people though they are poor, are usually unwilling to go to the various persons who are authorised to give poverty certificates. Even if they go to them, where is the guarantee that they will get the certificates. It should be the rule that the double rate should not be collected from girls. Till now, as I submitted, only half the rate levied from boys was levied from girls. That should be the practice hereafter also. Otherwise, I am afraid that female education will suffer very much. I would ask my hon. Friend—apart from the condition of producing poverty certificates and apart from other hindrances—to make this the ordinary rule that the rate to be collected from girls should be only half the rate for boys."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I associate myself with my hon. Friend from Malabar in the appeal he has made to the hon. the Minister on this point. I have received protests from different quarters not only from South Kanara and Malabar but also from Ootacamund and from other districts which are outside my own electorate, such as Tinnevely and Tuticorin. They have appealed to me as they have appealed to their own representatives to remove the hardship which entails upon all classes of people and especially Indian Christians by enforcing this new rule. Really I do not know what occurred to the mind of the hon. the Minister for Education suddenly as to make this plunge from a highly generous treatment of female education and to say that the fees that will be collected hereafter will be double the original rate and only in cases where poverty certificates are produced, they will be exempted. Whenever there is a doubt or when a headmistress newly joins a school, certificates of poverty are required to be produced by every girl. What is the definition of poverty? That is another difficulty. I wish the hon. the Minister or any other hon. Member to tell us what constitutes poverty. Inspectors come and want to know why so many girls are admitted on poverty certificates. I remember that a large number of applicants came rushing to me the other day before I came here. I asked them what was the matter. They said that the Inspector of the girls' schools wanted them to produce poverty certificates. Even in the case of aided institutions, the girls have to go and get certificates from different persons. The number of persons from whom they can get such certificates is very limited. The names of M.L.Cs. are excluded from the list of such persons. M.L.Cs.' certificates would be treated with contempt."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Why does the hon. Member assume that names M.L.Cs.' certificates will be treated with contempt?"

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"I do not know whether their are included in the list of persons who can give poverty certificates."

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"That is a different matter."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"We must also bear in mind the unwillingness of many parents to go and ask for certificates. They feel it inconvenient to go to the Magistrate especially in the case of those whose position is considered to be high in the eyes of the public. If the people in India increase in anything at all, it is in having a large number of children. If a parent has two or three girls or half a dozen girls it will be so difficult for him to go and approach a Magistrate for certificates. Look at humiliation he is put to to get certificates. Would it not be humiliating, Sir, unless there is a near relation? Even if there is a near relation, would he like to give a poverty certificate? A man of his position may not be willing to do so. I think that every hon. Member will agree with me when I say that this method is not fair and that the rule works a great hardship on people who hold a somewhat high position in society. Yet, the hon. the Minister himself knows how people suffer on account of the enforcement of this rule and my hon. Friend from Trichinopoly will endorse this opinion. I have got a bundle of papers with me and my friends will ask me 'what is all this'. They all relate to this matter. This is a very important question and I hope the hon. the Minister will revert to the old generous policy and that the somersault that he has performed will be followed by another somersault very soon."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"Sir, the somersault, I am afraid, is more on the part of the hon. Member from South Kanara representing the Christian Constituency of South Kanara; because if he had taken care to observe steadily without making a somersault, he would have seen that the rule has been in existence since 1920. It is no new rule framed by the Ministry. The practice was a little different in different places, but the rule was the same and it was in existence before. Therefore it is not a new creation, nor is it a somersault as the hon. Member would like to make it appear. It is true, as stated by the hon. Members from Malabar and South Kanara, looking at it from the point of view of the girls, that it is a little hard that parents in order to obtain a concession for their girls, have to get a certificate from one of those officers mentioned in the list. But on the other hand we have to take this in its practical aspect, in its businesslike aspect. Is it wise on the part of an administration to allow free licence to everyone to say that he is poor and thereby obtain the concession? In order to obtain such concession, the tendency will be to say 'we are poor' and when it is represented to the management that the parents are not able to meet the fees of the girl, the management is bound to give them the concession unless there is a reasonable doubt as to the particular individual. The rule is very clear and it must be understood properly. If there was any misunderstanding or misinterpretation of it, we would set it right, and we have done so by a fresh memorandum in connexion with this matter. The rule reads:

"In institutions of a professional or special character fees shall be levied at such rates as may from time to time be sanctioned by the Director or may be prescribed by any rules sanctioned by Government. Fees in all institutions shall be levied at half the standard rates for girls and members of the backward communities, etc. . . and an officer of the Revenue Department, not less than a Deputy Tahsildar shall certify in cases of doubt."

"The poverty certificate is required only in cases where there is a doubt in the mind of the headmaster or the manager. Otherwise, in all cases, it is obligatory on the part of the correspondent or the manager to give half-fees to girls. If the rule has been wrongly understood and if it has not been properly interpreted by any management or correspondent, certainly it is not the fault of the rule, but it is the fault of the management. If the management is at fault and its attention is drawn to it, certainly the manager will be asked to see that it is set right. So, I am sure, hon. Members will realize that there is no hardship in the rule itself but in putting the rule into practice some managements may not be able to interpret it correctly; and that can be easily rectified. We felt this difficulty soon after the publication of the rules in a consolidated form recently when representations were made in the press and protests were received; and we have issued a press communiqué explaining the situation. The proposal was also placed before the Finance Committee at its meeting held on the 5th February 1926

[Sir A. P. Patro]

in order to place the matter beyond all doubt, and the Committee recommended as follows:—“The Committee were of opinion that the present rules place an unfair burden both on the parents and on the authorities who are, under the existing rules, empowered to grant certificates. Before any retrograde measure is adopted, the question should be considered whether the responsibility for giving the certificates could not be transferred to the headmasters or the management of the schools concerned.” The Finance Committee’s resolution, it will thus be seen, misses the main issue whether all girls irrespective of the financial condition of their parents should be given the half-fee concession. That is not directly dealt with by the Finance Committee, and therefore the matter will again be placed before the Finance Committee in order to get its advice on the direct issue in question. It is due more to the misunderstanding of the rule; but after we saw the opinion that has been repeatedly expressed in the press and the representations made to us through memorials, we referred it to the Finance Committee and asked them whether irrespective of the poverty of the pupils the half-fee concession might generally be adopted. That matter is therefore under consideration, and the advice of the Finance Committee will be taken.”

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—“Sir, as a Member of the Finance Committee, I may say here that the chief question raised before the Committee was not whether girls irrespective of their poverty or otherwise ought to be given any concession. We thought that asking the parents to go to a Sub-Magistrate or any other officer like that was putting an undue burden on them. The other question, if my memory is right, was never raised at all.”

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—“My Friend, the hon. Sir A. P. Patro, stated that the rule that is now in existence is not a new one and that it has been in existence for the past five years or so, since 1920 or 1921. It may be so, Sir, I do not contradict it, but my point is this: Whatever the rule was, personally I know that till December 1925, i.e., till two months ago, the fee that was being collected in the girls’ school in Palghat was only half the rate for boys; and for the first time in the history of that institution, the headmistress who is a graduate and an L.T. was compelled, by the authorities, i.e., the District Board who have the control of the school, to collect the same rate from these girls as that which is being levied from boys, that is, double the rate. As I stated, the fee that was being collected in Forms IV, V and VI was only Rs. 2-10-0 and that was raised to Rs. 5-4-0 per mensem. I do not contradict my friend by saying that the rule has not been in existence already but I only say that the collection was at half the rates. Then my friend referred to the resolution recently passed by the Finance Committee and said that it does not touch the point. I fully agree with my friend there and also with my Friend Mr. Prabhakaran Tampan. I do not know, whether the resolution passed by the Finance Committee was due to any misunderstanding on the part of the Finance Committee or due to any mistake in the reference made to the Finance Committee. That resolution refers only to the authority to grant the certificate. What has that got to do with the point now raised? Even now the authority to grant the certificate is a particular class of officers mentioned in the rule. Hereafter, the authority will be the managers or the headmasters or headmistresses of the institutions. That has nothing to do with the point now raised, as my friend correctly pointed out. My point is this: that the rule must be made absolute, and irrespective of considerations of poverty, fees should be levied from girls only at half the rates. I hope my friend will see to it that the consideration of this point is expedited and that the result of the consideration ends in favour of this motion. Seeing that my friend says it is under consideration, I request him to expedite, to speed up, the consideration.”

[Mr. M. Krishnan Nayar]

The motion was by leave of the House withdrawn.

* Diwan Bahadur K. SURYANABAYANAMURTI NAYUDU :—“Sir, I beg to move

‘that the allotment of Rs. 2,21,700 for Government Secondary Schools be reduced by Rs. 100.’

“Sir, my object in moving this token motion is to ascertain from the Government what steps they are taking in the matter of opening a High school for girls in Cocanada. A representation was made by the citizens of Cocanada to the Government and I believe the hon. the Minister for Education has realized the necessity for such an institution in the City of Cocanada. There are already two high schools for boys, one attached to the second-grade college maintained by the Maharaja of Pithapuram and another high school maintained by the Canadian Baptist Mission. The second-grade college is being raised to first grade. You will thus find that while there is so much provision for the education of boys, no provision at all is made for the higher education of girls. There is a lower secondary school originally maintained by Government, but now maintained by the municipality while the cost is borne by Government. The municipality is not in a position to maintain a high school for girls at its own cost, and therefore the citizens of Cocanada held a public meeting and sent a requisition to the Government for opening a high school for girls in that place. I know instances, Sir, where girls, after leaving the lower secondary school, had to give up higher education as there was no high school for girls. Sir, most of the girls that go in for high school education are grown up girls and as such they find it very inconvenient to attend schools intended for boys. Therefore I appeal to the hon. Minister to consider the matter favourably and open a high school at least in July next. I assure him there are facilities for opening such a school at Cocanada and that there will be a sufficient number of girl students.”

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—“Sir, it is true that the municipal council and the hon. the Mover have made representations that there is an urgent need for raising the girls’ school into a high school at Cocanada. Not only that, the hon. Mover has also interviewed me and the Director of Public Instruction and impressed upon us the necessity of having a High school at Cocanada. No doubt, Cocanada is one of the foremost cities in the Northern Circars and is of great commercial importance. When we were discussing the matter, I hoped that it might be possible to have some private agency or some philanthropist who would be able to come to the relief of the State and find the necessary funds. With a view to ascertain the public feeling in the matter and whether there will be such a private agency available to undertake the responsibility we have referred to the District Educational Officer. And we find that there is no such source available at present. We have therefore asked the Inspector of Schools to propose a scheme for raising it into a high school. The difficulty is whether the school is to be under the not cost system or whether the municipality should be prepared to pay a portion of the cost. I see the hon. Mover is shaking his head and says that the municipality will not be able to bear a portion of the cost. As soon as the scheme report of the Inspector of Schools is received we shall place it before the Finance Department and best consideration will be given to the matter and I hope it will be possible, if not this year, at least the next year to raise the school to a High school."

[Sir A. P. Patro]

[23rd March 1926]

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Mr. B. OBALESAPPA :—" Sir, I move

'to reduce the allotment of Rs. 2,25,000 for buildings by Rs. 100.'

"Sir, it is a token motion not intended to be pressed. But I would like to bring to the notice of the Government for favourable consideration the necessity for sanctioning a fresh building for the use of the Municipal High school at Anantapur. The school at present is located in the Munro's Old Taluk outcherry which, I think, was constructed nearly a century ago. This building is most ill-suited for school purposes. The surroundings are quite insanitary. The building stands in the middle of a busy, congested and dirty part of the old town. All sorts of things contribute to disturb the work of the school such as the rattle of carts, noisy altercations, marriage processions, the din and roar due to the market and the main bazaar. The atmosphere in and around the present building is always contaminated with foul gases exhaled from gutters, cesspools, latrines and cattle-sheds, inseparable from dwelling houses. Whenever epidemics break out, the surroundings of the school are the first to be affected. The accommodation capacity of the present building is quite inadequate to the average strength of the school. The present strength of the school is about 550. Some of the classes are conducted in the jail cells where some 12 years back prisoners used to be kept. I assure you, Sir, neither students nor teachers of the school are non-co-operators. Some classes are held in rented buildings which are too old and are in a dangerous state. The building is ill-lighted and ill-ventilated. Some of the rooms are so dark that they have long been the haunts of innumerable bats which commit nuisance on both the teacher and the taught. The school hall is also no better. A cloudy day makes it quite unfit for a class room or an examination hall. Some of the rooms such as science class room is so dark that even when the sun is shining brightly outside it is almost impossible for the students to see what they are doing in the chemistry class or seeing the physics apparatus. The building is also getting more and more dilapidated and the roof of some of the rooms have got so bad that sometimes tiles come down upon the heads of the students or teachers. There are several other things to mention, regarding the inadequacy of the accommodation or the unsuitability for school purposes of the present building, namely, Munro's Old Taluk outcherry. But I do not propose to dilate on the matter lest I should waste the precious time of the House. So I request the hon. the Minister for Education to provide a supplementary grant in the current budget for a new building for the use of the Municipal High school at Anantapur, so that the great hardships, especially the one affecting the eye-sight of the poor and young students may be redressed. If the hon. Minister for Education will kindly give an assurance that he will be taking immediate and necessary steps for the need and construction of a new building for the Municipal High school, Anantapur, I will be withdrawing the motion."

[23rd March 1926]

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"Sir I am sure the House is very much impressed with the doleful tale of the conditions of the High school at Anantapur. At the same time, I must warn the House that it is an overdrawn picture. The school is now situated in a tolerably good building and it is not true that the roof is likely to fall on the heads of students nor is the statement true that the street dust is getting into the school room. But the question is this school is under the management of the municipality and so the municipality is to contribute a portion of the cost of the building. The municipal chairman has been asked to consult the Public Works authorities and get plans and estimates prepared for the consideration of the Government, and told that the municipality will have to bear a portion of the cost. The estimates and plans seem to have reached the Director of Public Instruction. They will have to be scrutinised and the municipality will have to make its own contribution to the cost of the construction. As soon as possible when the plans and estimates are approved as being of the required standard, and the municipality resolves on its portion of the cost, the question of a new building for the school will be considered."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—"Sir, I move

'that the allotment of Rs. 11,13,000 for direct grants to non-Government secondary schools be reduced by Rs. 1,000'

"Sir, I want to suggest by means of this token motion to the Government that it should be made obligatory on the part of the high school authorities to send up all boys who have studied for one year in the sixth form to the school final public examination. In many institutions the custom is to detain several such boys in the sixth form to show a better percentage of success in the examination. I am one of those who believe that it ought not to be done. According to the present practice there are only 40 boys in a class and if a teacher who is entrusted with the coaching up of that number, is not found capable of teaching efficiently this small number during the course of one year, he is not fit to be placed there. Instead of detaining a boy at that stage, it would be better if he is not promoted from the fifth form. It is indeed very hard to detain him at this fag end of the school final career. Strict rules ought to be enforced in promoting a boy from the fifth form to the sixth. It is very hard upon the boys to be told at the time when applications for the public examination are sent, that they would not be sent up. In a district like Malabar where we have the adjoining State of Cochin where the rules are not so strict, what happens is that the boys so detained go there and appear for the examination. I may say that my school also occasionally sins in this respect. We detained two or three boys last year but they went to the Cochin examination with the result that this year we have sent up all the boys. I should suggest that in ordinary circumstances no boy should be detained in the sixth form having put in the full one year's course in that class."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"I am very sorry that my hon. Friend has brought this motion. It is educationally very unsound that the Government or the Legislative Council should interfere with the educational standards of schools. It is a matter entirely for the headmaster and the staff to decide whether a student is fit to appear for the examination or not. We cannot lay down the test, for it is they that are in close contact with the work and study of the student and in a position to judge as to the capacity of the student. Under the existing rules the headmaster of a school has to intimate to the Secondary School-Leaving Certificate Board the number of students that are qualified for appearing from his school for the public examination. He judges the students by their marks, by the class examinations which the headmaster and the teachers hold, by the general conduct, and by the general level of intelligence of the candidate. I should appeal to the House that in a matter like this it should be left purely to the discretion of the headmaster. My hon. Friend has pointed out that in some cases the headmaster and the staff may not be able to judge and that the record of work maintained in the school in the Secondary School-Leaving Certificate book may not be accurate. These are no doubt some of the drawbacks of the present Secondary School-Leaving Certificate system. They are all now being revised and considered by the Committee that is now sitting and going into the details of it. Because there has been an abuse in some places or because one headmaster of an institution has not been discharging his responsibility properly I should not certainly suggest that there should be a wholesale revision of the existing system. How best the system could be rectified must be considered. I am sure hon. Members realize that there are defects in the working of the Secondary School-Leaving Certificate system. There has been public agitation in the matter and we have realized that there are some defects. We have, therefore, appointed a committee to go into the scheme and revise the course, and in doing so, to see how best we can adjust it between the old Matriculation and the present Secondary School-Leaving Certificate and effect a compromise between the two. And it is utterly inadvisable for us to take upon ourselves to dictate to the Educational authorities that this should be the standard or that should be the standard, and that all boys of the VI form irrespective of their qualifications and equipment, irrespective of their study or anything, irrespective of the fact whether the boys are fit to be sent up for the examination, should be sent up to the Secondary School-Leaving Certificate examination. That is educationally unsound, and I may say from the point of view of the students, it would be disastrous. Far from rectifying the defects in the system, it will be enhancing the present difficulties. It is suggested that the headmasters sometimes take advantage of the position or the power vested in them and they abuse it in some cases. Very rarely no doubt such abuses are brought to notice. The remedy that is now suggested is that all boys of the VI form should be sent up for the examination, which means that you leave the headmasters and other teachers so as not to be strict in their work and not to enforce the standard that is necessary for the purpose of the examinations. All this will become lax and the educational standard will be very much lowered. Therefore the remedy that is suggested is not a proper one. If there is any other remedy that the hon. Member may suggest we will consider it, but this is not at all a proper one. It will enhance the present difficulty of selection, and does not enable them to take into account the record of the students in the IV, V and VI forms, and also the preliminary examination that is held. In every school what is generally known as the preliminary examination is held a few months before the Secondary School-Leaving Certificate examination, and boys are sent up to that examination from the results of this preliminary examination; and

[Sir A. P. Patro]

[23rd March 1926]

p.m.

[23rd March 1926]

[Sir A. P. Patro]

in the Secondary School-Leaving Certificate book they also state whether the boy is properly qualified to sit at the public examination. Hence I should think that this suggestion is not at all a proper one as by adopting it we will be interfering in the matter of purely educational management of schools."

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR :—" I am prepared to admit, Sir, that there is some force in what my Friend, the Minister for Education, has stated, but we have advantages and disadvantages on both sides and I am inclined on the whole to agree with my Friend Mr. Prabhakaran Tampam. ('Hear, hear'.) I know, Sir, it is the instinct of schoolmasters to send up only those boys who in their opinion will certainly pass in the examination, and that instinct of schoolmasters is based upon this circumstance, namely, that they want always to have a high percentage of passes so far as their schools are concerned. But there is the other aspect also, namely, the aspect of the students themselves and the aspect of the parents. The parents who spend money for these boys and the students who study are desirous of the boys passing the examination, and I can see no reason why a boy who is studying in the sixth form, who is prepared to spend the necessary amount of fees for the examination and who has been paying the fee to the institution itself should not be allowed to go up for the examination. My Friend, the hon. Sir A. P. Patro, says it is a matter that should be left entirely to the discretion of the headmasters and the staff. As a matter of fact, very often the headmasters and the members of their staff differ as to whether a particular boy should be sent up for the examination or not, and in the result what happens is this, that the will and opinion of the headmaster prevail, and not the opinion or will of the members of his staff. Sometimes it also happens that those students who in the deliberate opinion of the headmaster or of the staff, or of the headmaster and staff combined will pass, do not pass. We come across such instances very often and then what becomes of the infallible test which is based on the opinion of the headmaster? And then my Friend says to allow all the boys to appear for the examination is disastrous from an educational point of view. I cannot understand how it would be disastrous from an educational point of view. The boys go up for the examination, and they fail or succeed and take the consequences. And if this fetish of the schools caring only for the high percentage of successes from their institutions disappears, I submit no evil consequences will result, and there will be no disastrous consequences at all from an educational point of view."

* Mr. K. PRABHAKARAN TAMPAN :—" I believe, Sir, that, if the headmasters exercise that amount of care in promoting boys from the fifth form which they exercise in detaining the boys of the sixth form, I do not think this necessity will arise at all. If a boy who is promoted up to the sixth form and has studied for one year in the sixth form cannot be found fit for being sent up for the examination if he was given the ordinary tuition that is given in the schools, the inference is that the teachers are more anxious to get boys into the sixth form than to coach and send them up for the examination, and towards the end of the year they take it into their head to show efficiency by detaining the boys in the sixth form, and send up only the picked or selected few because it is upon the results of the School Final Examination that the efficiency of the school is judged by the authorities. After having received the tuition fee which in itself is very large and presses hard on the poor parents, a student ought not to be detained, and I think it is highly necessary that an order to that effect is issued. If my hon. Friend the Minister cannot accept the proposition, I have nothing more to say."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—" Sir, I beg to move

"that the allotment of Rs. 11,13,000 for direct grants to non-Government secondary schools be reduced by Rs. 100."

"The point I want to raise is quite a different matter. When I met some of the missionaries and non-missionaries some time back and when I asked them as to why a large number of depressed classes pupils were not admitted into their schools, they said that it would not be possible for them to admit those pupils unless the Government paid them compensation for granting remission of fees or granting a concession regarding the payment of fees. They generally admit pupils belonging to the forward classes because they are able to pay the school fees. Owing to poverty, the depressed classes are not able to pay the school fees in full. We see that very many Government secondary schools are being established in rural parts, and therefore the education of the depressed classes suffers very much, and unless the Government pay compensation to these bodies, I am sure they will not admit the depressed classes pupils at the half-fee concession rate at least. What I should like to suggest is that the Government should ask the management of the schools to submit a bill for the remission of school fees, and I submit it would be advisable for the hon. the Minister for Education to meet that bill. If such bills are met, I am sure that there will be no difficulty in these schools admitting many members of the depressed classes. What takes place at present is that Government, as I said before, gives only teaching grants. But we cannot say if that compensation is included in the teaching grant or not. Therefore, Sir, in order to make matters clear it would be advisable that the Government should accept such bills claiming the amount of the remission of full fees or half fees in the case of the depressed classes."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" Sir, I should like to remove some sort of misapprehension that seems to exist in the mind of my hon. Friend Mr. Veerian. We happened both of us, when I was once at Salem, to visit a Christian school, and Mr. Veerian who has been doing so much to improve the lot of the depressed classes inquired how many depressed class boys were studying in the school. It was found there were none in that school. As a matter of fact from what the teachers told us, it appears that that school is practically what is called a caste school. That school is held in the midst of a class of people who may practically be called 'caste Christians', and for the benefit of the depressed classes the missionaries have established a school near the railway station where most of them generally reside. So that, so far as the depressed classes are concerned, they have got a school there into which their boys are admitted practically without any fees. I do not think the missionaries would refuse to admit depressed class pupils without any fees, because their object is to give education at some sacrifice of money. But we must bear in mind an important point which my hon. Friend Mr. Veerian overlooks, that in Southern India, especially on the East Coast, caste distinctions are still observed among Christians. There are depressed classes among them and there are churches where these depressed classes are not admitted."

23rd March 1926]

[Mr. J. A. Saldanha]

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" Are there churches where they are not admitted at all?"

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" There are churches from which non-caste Christians are excluded practically, at least some of them, I mean the depressed class people. I know of a place at Palghat where I was told low-caste Christians are not admitted into the church or school. Now I shall confine myself only to schools. So far as this school is concerned, it is impossible to get non-caste children admitted; it is confined to the caste Christians. Be that as it may, there is a difficulty always that in the schools at any rate apart from the churches the depressed classes even among Christians are not admitted. So, the difficulty might be not on account of the need of compensation for lower rates of fees which are to be received from the depressed classes but on account of caste objection. In this matter some of us sympathize with the missionaries who at much sacrifice opened schools for the benefit of the depressed classes, while the caste Christians are rather particular that their school which is more or less maintained by them to a great extent should be more or less confined to the caste Christians."

* Rao Sahib R. SRINIVASAN :—" Is it not a fact that missionaries spend all the money on educating the higher class pupils and get all conversions from the lower class people?"

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" There might be some explanation for it. I shall take only one instance illustrative of what takes place. Here the missionary has got a school for the depressed classes and into that school the depressed classes are admitted. We visited both the schools, and this was a school particularly kept for the depressed classes, and in point of position it is at a convenient distance from their residences. And it is not that these missionaries devote all their time and money and energy only for the benefit of the caste people. I find the general tendency is to devote a good portion of the missionary money which they get from Europe for the benefit of the depressed classes, who may be Christians and also those who are not within the fold of Christianity."

* Mr. S. ARPUDASWAMI UDAYAR :—" Mr. President, Sir, there is some confusion in the House with reference to the treatment accorded to those who have been converted from the depressed classes. Mr. R. Srinivasan wanted to know whether these depressed classes were treated as untouchables: Speaking for the community which I represent, especially the Roman Catholic portion of it, which is 60 per cent of the Indian Christian community in the Madras Presidency, I have to say that I am ashamed to own it that the treatment accorded to the depressed classes by the caste Catholics is certainly very bad. (Hear, hear.) They are not allowed to mix with other people in their churches. A certain portion of the church is set apart for them, generally railed and marked from other portions. The difficulties raised by my friend from South Kanara with regard to the admission of the children of the depressed classes into the schools frequented by the children of caste Catholics is a real difficulty. The mission is very often forced to tolerate these things for the simple reason that if any rule is introduced there is sure to be an agitation. The persistence of this policy is due to the fact that the caste Catholics are very particular to maintain restriction on social grounds. They think that any relaxation may result their forfeiting the esteem of caste Hindus. So, on the one hand you have pleasant and agreeable spectacle of a caste Hindu coming out as a reformer and even orthodox Brahmans trying to elevate the depressed class while on the other you have the spectacle of people who believe in the teaching of the Fatherhood of God and the brotherhood of man keeping nearly 50 per cent of their congregation in that miserable condition. In the discussion affecting the depressed classes who happen to be Indian Christians, especially Roman Catholics, I hope my hon. Friend will remember this fact that, especially in Southern India and the East Coast as the hon. Member from South Kanara pointed out, their condition is far worse than that of an Adi-Dravida and that they should be allowed to share in the fee concessions extended to Adi-Dravida boys and girls."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—“ Apparently there seems to be some misapprehension in the mind of the hon. Mover of this motion that compensation is not given by the Government for the half fee given by the schools. In calculating the grant-in-aid, the concession that is given to the depressed classes is calculated at the full standard rate and the grant-in-aid is fixed. The rule says that in every case where the school admits depressed classes and concession is given to the depressed classes, in estimating the grant-in-aid the Director of Public Instruction has to take into consideration the bill that is prepared by the school management for having given the fee remission. The fee income that is lost to the management on account of the depressed classes under the concessional rules is taken into consideration. Therefore, there is no difficulty or disadvantage in the matter of the education of the depressed classes.”

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—“ I beg to move .

'that the allotment of Rs. 11,13,000 for grants to non-Government secondary schools be reduced by Rs. 100.'

" This is to urge the recognition of Indian Christian clergy and pastors as secondary school teachers (if not professors in colleges) according to their education and training. I have to bring to the notice of this House that a large number of Indian Christian clergy, both Catholic and Protestant, are now entrusted not only with parochial work but with education. In South Kanara every pastor and every Catholic clergyman is bound to be a teacher as well as a pastor. We find from experience that they are fully equipped for this purpose. I shall show how the training received by the secular clergy fits them up for such work. No person is admitted into a seminary unless he is a Matriculate or a S.S.L.C. holder. After passing the Matriculation or S.S.L.C., he has to undergo a long training before he is sent out. The first two years are given to the study of Latin, if he is not already a Latin scholar. Next comes rhetoric. Lord Curzon's book on elocution deals exhaustively with rhetoric. Rhetoric is a subject that covers a wide field. It deals not only with composition but with oratory and also teaching. It appeals not only to masses but to children. So, the whole course of rhetoric is a training course very useful in teaching. Then the other courses have no bearing on education dealing as they do with philosophy, science, theology, etc. During all this time the seminaries have to do what is called preaching and teaching

[Mr. J. A. Saldanha]

As to the question of the week after week. As to Protestant pastors, I can say that they are are not only in theology but also in teaching and preaching. A good of their time is spent in teaching. So they are eminently fitted to be of the Government have very kindly granted some very important concessions to the Jesuit fathers who are well known and famous in the world as of the Society. I hope the concession given to the Jesuit fathers will be given to the Indian Christian clergymen and pastors. The concession made to the European members of the Society is this:

of the / All European members of the Society of Jesus, Indian members who are graduates and are then / by the Superior-General of the Mission to have completed their novitiate and juniorate, and / Indian members who are undergraduates and are likewise certified to have completed the cessio " Now, Sir, exactly corresponding courses are adopted in seminaries. I as they have got no novitiate which is asceticism ; but have got something very co like the juniorate for two years. The course of training in philosophy is two years instead of three years. So they have to undergo more or less similar courses. What I now seek is this. The Indian clergy and pastors who are being appointed to look after parishes and congregations, have to attend to education and are in charge of elementary schools. We do not claim that they should be recognized as professors. That question will arise if they are to teach in colleges. What I ask and press for is that they should be treated as secondary trained teachers' certificate holders. This request has been pressed in the local papers, but I do not know if the cuttings are sent to the hon. Minister. I believe both the associations, the S.K. Catholic Association and the Indian Christian Association, the Civil League with Protestant and Catholic members at Mangalore, made this representation to the hon. Minister when he came there. What was the reply ? The reply was that they must conform to the rules and the necessary investigation would be made. I am afraid no investigation has been made. The present district medical officer knows little of what is going on in the seminaries."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—“ What has the district medical officer to do with this question ? ”

* MR. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I mean the district educational officer. Most people could hardly know what takes place in the seminaries. If one undergoes training for ten years, it is a course which is longer than the course for LL.B. or M.A. Such courses are given at Mangalore, Pondicherry and Trichinopoly. Recently two Indian Christian priests who had studied in these seminaries after a short stay at Rome obtained the degree of Doctor of Divinity and another priest from Kottayam got the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. They are eminent degrees qualifying them to be professors in the colleges. Considering the high degree of culture these priests and pastors are required to attain to, I request the hon. Minister to recognize them as fit to be teachers, at least as secondary grade teachers. Then that will enable them to get the grants which they will not otherwise be entitled to."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—“ Sir, I am very glad that the hon. Member has given so much information to this House as to the training given in the seminary at Mangalore (Mr. J. A. Saldanha: ‘also Pondicherry and Trichinopoly’) and in Pondicherry, Trichinopoly and elsewhere. No doubt, hon. Members are very much interested to know how well these brethren in charge of those institutions are doing. But we are now concerned not so much with their courses of study in religion, philosophy and theology, but with the particular standard of education necessary, that they may be recognized as certificated teachers. The rule of the Presidency is that grants are given to institutions employing teachers who are recognized as trained teachers under certain conditions. We have a course of training to qualify themselves as teachers. Certificates are issued to them, that they are eligible to be teachers of the secondary grade, or teachers in colleges and licentiates in teaching. Therefore, if we apply the rule as they are now in force, and if we are bound to carry out these rules, then as brethren to whom reference was made so eloquently by the hon. Member from South Kanara would not come under the category of the rule, ruled out by him, and that rule will show that they have to pass an examination corresponding to our examination here, and if it is certified by the head of their order that they have undergone the necessary two years' course, then they are recognized as teachers. Even the brethren who have qualified themselves in the seminaries, if they will satisfy the rules, will be entitled to an approved teacher's certificate. The rule is:

[Sir A. P. Patro]

"All European members of the Society of Jesus, Indian members who are graduates and are certified by the Superior-General of the Mission to have completed their novitiate and juniorate, and Indian members who are undergraduates and are likewise certified to have completed the full course of study and preparation prescribed by the society (namely, two years' novitiate, two years' juniorate and three years' Philosophy and Science) may be ranked as if they held collegiate trained teachers' certificates. Indian members, who are undergraduates and who are similarly certified to have completed only their novitiate and juniorate, may be ranked as if they held secondary trained teachers' certificates."

"The concession is given in favour of those members of the Society of Jesus and to the brethren who are also trained by these people. If they are graduate Indian members, they are recognized under certain conditions as having had training equivalent to the college training, and undergraduates who undergo certain courses of training are also recognized as being equivalent to secondary grade certificated teachers. Therefore, exemption is given to that particular class of people under those conditions. Otherwise, exemption cannot be given. The same view expressed by the hon. Member was pressed upon me when I was in Mangalore, and we discussed the matter thoroughly, and I had to tell the deputation that it is not possible to relax the rule and allow other people to be recognized as trained teachers. They are indeed very useful people; selfless work is done by them; service in all directions is rendered to the people: they set a noble example of work and sacrifice. But so far as educational work is concerned, we cannot recognize them as trained teachers or to be eligible for any grant under the Educational Rules, nor are the institutions in their charge entitled to any grants. Therefore, I am sure, the hon. Member will agree that if the brethren qualify themselves to come under rule 14, the Government will be prepared to give them the necessary concession of exemption, and give them approved certificates, so that when they are in charge of institutions they will become eligible for grants."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"What about the people who do not belong to the Society of Jesus? Mr. Saldanha's contention was that this concession which applied only to members of the Society of Jesus should be extended to the Indian clergy."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"It applies only to the members of the Society of Jesus. The rule itself says: 'Indian members, who are graduates and are certified by the Superior-General of the Mission to have their novitiate and juniorate, and Indian members, who are undergraduates and are likewise certified to have completed the full course of study and preparation prescribed by the society, may be ranked as if they held collegiate trained teachers' certificates. The rule with regard to the second class of men who are eligible for secondary grade teachers' certificates is: 'Indian members, who are undergraduates and who are similarly certified to have completed their novitiate and juniorate, may be ranked as if they held secondary trained teachers' certificates.' So under this rule, it is absolutely necessary that in order to get the exemption which is given to the members of the Society of Jesus they should qualify themselves for the certificate and then they will be entitled to ask for grants-in-aid."

23rd March 1926]

[Sir A. P. Patro]

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"These rules apply only to European and Indian members of the Society of Jesus. I want to know whether a similar concession can be given to Indian clergy who are not members of the society. I ask for a similar concession to be given to the secular clergy where they can get a certificate of that sort."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"It is apparent, Sir, that there is a difference between the two classes of people. In the first class they belong to the Society of Jesus; it is an order the members of which are trained under certain conditions where there is strict discipline, and educational instruction. In the case of the secular members, there is not that discipline and culture necessary to qualify themselves to come under this rule. Therefore the secular members cannot claim to be so well qualified as the brethren in the Society of Jesus, and they are therefore not entitled to be recognized as teachers."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"Still I have to make one request to the hon. the Minister. Of course, what is called the religious order of the Society of Jesus is bound by certain vows such as poverty and obedience, by which the secular clergy are not bound. So far as the necessary culture that is required to qualify them to be teachers is concerned, they are fit to be recognized and I have no doubt the Indian clergy receive practically the same amount of culture. This is a point which requires further investigation, though we can talk for hours together here about it. What I request is that the hon. the Minister should order an investigation into the matter and see whether the secular clergy who have received practically the same amount of education and training as the members of the Society of Jesus should not be entitled to the very limited concession which I claim for them."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"With regard to the last point suggested by the hon. the Mover, we have investigated the whole thing . . ."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—"The hon. Member did not take that into consideration then."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"We have revised the rules and published them in the Fort St. George Gazette, as hon. Members will see from G.O. No. 1212, dated 24th July 1924. These rules were revised by a special officer, and they have also been brought up to date. The rules and the appendices were published in the Fort St. George Gazette, and received the approval of Government on the 24th July 1924. These rules were discussed before final orders were passed. I am afraid that nothing more could be done."

[Sir A. P. Patro]

[23rd March 1926]

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"This question was never raised before. I feel that the hon. Member is not very much inclined to consider it. I am sorry however to have to withdraw the motion."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"I beg leave to move the motion standing against my name, viz.,

'that the allotment of Rs. 9,17,400 for grants to local bodies for secondary education be reduced by Rs. 101.'

"The object, as stated on the agenda paper, is to ask the Government to provincialize at least the cadre of the headmasters of the schools whose net cost is guaranteed by the Government in whole or in part and standardize the scale of pay of teachers in the schools in districts where conditions are more or less similar. Sir, in August last, I asked the hon. the Minister to furnish a statement showing the high schools in the Presidency whose net cost was being borne by the Government either in whole or in part, and the scale of pay of the headmasters concerned, and he furnished to this House a list containing the names of 62 such high schools whose net cost was borne by the Government either wholly or in part. If you refer to that statement, Sir, you will find that except for one or two schools all of them are either municipal schools or board schools. The scale of pay varies considerably from school to school. The minimum in some schools is Rs. 125, then for other schools Rs. 150, and as regards the maximum that again varies in several cases. In some schools whose headmaster's pay stands at Rs. 125, there is no scale to rise to; in other schools the maximum is prescribed at Rs. 150, and in some other schools at Rs. 175, yet in other schools at Rs. 200. The increment also varies; in some schools the pay rises by an increment of Rs. 5 every year, and in other schools by an increment of Rs. 10 every year. Now, Sir, I want that all these anomalies should be removed. These schools may legitimately be considered to be Government schools. Because the Government have made themselves responsible to defray the deficits of those schools. Now, Sir, there is no principle, so far as I can see, in the difference between the different scales of pay obtaining in the schools. Taking, for example, districts which are more or less similarly constituted in all respects, I find the headmaster of a municipal school at Anantapur starts with Rs. 125 and ends with Rs. 150. Anantapur, Sir, is the headquarters of a district, and naturally living is more costly there than that in the mufassal. Now, Nandalur is a small place in the Cuddapah district, and there the headmaster has also the higher scale of pay rising up to Rs. 175. Why should headmasters of schools like those at Bellary and Anantapur stop with Rs. 150, while headmasters of comparatively less costly and less important places are allowed to draw Rs. 175 as in the case of Nandalur, Rs. 200 in the case of Penukonda, Kurnool and Cuddapah? These anomalies, Sir, I should like to remove.

4 p.m. "I think also that this provincialization would be in the interests of the boys, and of the headmasters, at any rate, of the schools of the municipalities. I say advisedly boys, because the prospects as they are now are not very reassuring. Provincialization adds to the security of the appointments and to the dignity of the office. A better class of headmasters are sure to be recruited and the schools I have no doubt will be more popular than they are at present. I say obviously in the interests of headmasters, because they would prefer to hold an office in the cadre which is provincial. Their office at any rate would be more secure than it is at present, and the municipalities also if they consider the aspect correctly need take no exception to my proposal. They may think that in so far as their powers of appointment are taken away, it is an intrusion on their powers, but what happens now in the case of those schools whose headmasters are under the influence of the municipal chairman is not satisfactory. The chairman cannot transfer the headmaster to any other place, because he has got only one school, in most cases. If, on the other hand, the headmasters are given a provincial status, it would be possible to get the headmaster transferred from one place to another, so that he may be tried elsewhere before he is finally dismissed or severely dealt with.

"So, Sir, considered from any aspect of view, I think the provincialization at least of the headmasters seems to be a desirable step and a step in the right direction. I move therefore the motion standing in my name."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—"Sir, in regard to the net cost system of schools, there seems to be a mistaken idea. The net cost system was based on a calculation of revenue and expenditure of the school at the time when it was proposed to be taken up under the net cost system. If a municipality or local board was not able to maintain an institution either on account of the fall in the revenue or on account of rise in expenditure, it approaches the Government and says: This high school serves a real purpose in the locality but the municipal or local finance is not able to maintain it and we are about to close it; therefore the Government should come to the relief of the local area. When Government is thus approached, the question as to the necessity of the school is first considered and if the District Educational Officer or the Director is satisfied that the school serves a real purpose in that locality, the Government then takes up the question whether net cost of the school should be paid. In other words, the existing scale of salaries and the existing scale of expenditure is accepted as the criterion and as the standard. We cannot therefore now say: Because there are differences in various schools in regard to school fees and salaries paid to their teachers, therefore equalize it, provincialize them. Are Government to undertake the heavier liability in addition to the net cost of the school? It will be throwing an additional burden, and, saying that, even when we increase the salaries of the teachers, we should meet the expenditure; that is not what the net cost system implies. At the time when a local body employed an headmaster or an assistant master they entered into an agreement or contract with him. In every institution managed or maintained by a local body, there is an agreement or arrangement entered into between the local body and the teacher. Therefore the inequalities must exist according to the condition of the locality or a particular district. Where the supply is more than the demand, necessarily the local body fixes a salary much lower than is fixed by another local body where the supply is not able to meet the demand. Therefore the hon. the Mover's suggestion that there are inequalities in this way and the remedy is to increase the salaries in every area, to equalize them and provincialize them, so that the inequalities may be removed, is not at all a fair

[Sir A. P. Patro]

[23rd March 1926]

proposition. There is an understanding or arrangement entered into by these local bodies with the teachers. After all the responsibility will be on the local body; if they want to increase the salaries they must find out the money from their revenues, and the net cost system will entirely be frustrated if the principle advocated by the hon. Member is adopted.

"Then, Sir, with regard to the provincialization of the headmasters, in the way suggested, I would refer him to the condition of things in net cost schools. There are Ceded districts which are backward in the matter of education and where the scale of salaries offered by the local bodies is different from the scale of salaries either in Madura, or in Tanjore or in Godavari. And if those headmasters are to be provincialized, you are encouraging inequality in the areas where the supply is adequate to the demand and fixing a standard which it will be difficult for other institutions, and aided agencies to carry on. In the different schools, mission and non-mission, a certain scale of salary is fixed. If you provincialize the salary."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"I have said definitely standardize the scale of pay of teachers in the schools in districts where conditions are more or less similar."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"That makes the position worse. More or less similar; how are you going to decide it unless you have an educational survey made. The educational survey will have to fix it not with reference to the district only but with reference to every single institution that exists. The circumstances relating to these institutions differ. At the time of the adoption of the net cost system in regard to each individual institution, we took the facts and circumstances of the case and adopted the scale. Now to go back upon it and to provincialize the institutions will really be placing a handicap on the aided agency who cannot afford to pay the same standard rate. In regard to secondary education, Government depends largely on the co-operation of the aided agencies and it would be discouraging aided agencies if we are to provincialize them; because a certain school has been taken simply out of necessity under the net cost system, the next door aided agency will suffer. Provincialization in certain schools is not at all a practical problem."

"The proposal to provincialize the headmasters in board and municipal high schools was suggested first by the Local and Municipal Conference of 1920; the suggestion was 'that a provincial service be constituted for headmasters of high schools subject to the same conditions as regards postings and transfers as in the case of medical officers'. That was the recommendation of the municipal conference held in 1920. In discussing that problem, there was great difference of opinion. Some of us thought that it was not practicable to place the headmasters on the same basis as the medical officers in a district are placed. Even subordinate medical officers are not provincialized, and you find in the subordinate educational service the scales of pay are very different. If provincialization of headmasters is sought to be made, we have four classes in the Educational department, and in what class are we to place them? A new scale will have to be invented for the benefit of these headmasters who come under this net cost system. That is to say, because the Government consider that a particular school is to be helped or a particular local area is to be helped educationally, you want to place further liability on the Government. You say 'you have accepted the net cost system, therefore you pay them and provincialize the headmasters', which will be at the cost of the aided agencies whose income must be reduced in order to supplement the income of the local bodies. I am not in favour of encouraging higher education through the local bodies. I want aided agencies to be more and more helped, and more liberally helped. Aided agency is a great force in the Madras Presidency. It has been doing great service and we have not been able to pay as much as we ought to for the encouragement of aided agencies. If local boards and municipalities are to be aided in this manner you are placing a handicap on the expansion of education through aided agencies, which as I said is a better agency and is less costly to the provincial revenues. The tax-payer need not pay so much to the aided agency as he is now paying to the local bodies. We have had an investigation made recently by a special officer appointed to take a survey of secondary education, and the report has just reached the Government. We are to see whether there is any need for any high school in a particular locality. We have seen in certain districts, high schools which are struggling for existence; after working for two or three years under local bodies they say they are not able to meet the expenditure on the school, and so Government have to take them over and place them under the net cost system. There are five or six districts in which the system prevails and we are not able to distribute the grants liberally to the aided agencies. We have placed a special officer to systematize the thing and eliminate such institutions which are not necessary and are struggling for existence. Take Kistna, Madura, Trichinopoly and Godavari. The reports show that there are high schools started by local bodies which are in a very miserable condition. In some instances there are no play-grounds, no equipment of any kind worth the name and it hardly fits that such institutions should be called high schools and money expended on them. The local bodies come and say, 'Well, these are the high schools; the headmasters and assistants want certain scales of pay, we are not able to give them for the revenue is not sufficient, therefore take them over under the net cost system.' We find it very difficult to cope with such demands. Therefore a thorough review has been made recently and as soon as the report is received we are going to take action, and such of them as are not needed, such of them as are ill-equipped will be altogether removed and their grant given to the aided agencies for development of education in that area. This being our procedure and our policy, it seems impossible that I can accept the resolution of the hon. the Mover."

[23rd March 1926]

"The hon. Member suggests that at least the cadre of the headmasters of the schools whose net cost is guaranteed by the Government in whole or in part should be provincialized. Of the 211 local board and municipal secondary schools, the Government contribute towards the net cost, in whole or in part, of 183 schools."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"The list furnished to me only mentions 63 schools."

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—"That is an old list probably. Here you find complete statistics. If the headmasters of these 183 schools are to be provincialized, the headmasters of the remaining schools and the headmasters of aided schools will have to suffer. This is a proposition which the House will see cannot be accepted."

[Sir A. P. Patro]

[23rd March 1926]

4-15
p.m.

"The hon. Member has also stated that the scale of pay of teachers in the schools in districts where conditions are more or less similar may be standardized at the expense of the Government, and that the extra cost on this account would have to be met from provincial funds. The limitations on our educational fund I was explaining to this hon. House at the time of the general discussion of the budget. We have got a limited fund and we have to make the best use of this fund. Therefore we cannot take up such fanciful things as provincialization and so on, and spend our resources on schemes which do not go to expand education on proper lines. In one and the same district there may be schools financed by the Government and financed also by the local bodies. If the pay of the latter is raised the pay of the former will have to be raised. At present the pay in each school is fixed with reference to the condition of each school and the locality in which it is situated and it is open to the local bodies to make such alterations in the scale of pay and other items of expenditure connected with their schools as are necessary to keep them within the limits sanctioned by the Government. Any reasonable additional expenditure will be taken into account only at the end of three years. Therefore it seems to me that the standardization of scales is not a primary consideration of educational development.

"I beg leave to explain the fixed subsidy system further so as to avoid any future misapprehension on the question. Hitherto each management has been applying for grants very often and under the net cost system even the expenditure of a rupee will have to receive the sanction of the Government. There is no freedom for the local bodies or for the management in the matter of expenditure. Previously frequent complaints were made that local bodies had to wait for the sanction of the Government for months together for making even the necessary expenditure. It was thought therefore that local bodies should be given greater freedom, at the same time placing certain limitations on their expenditure. Formerly they used to incur expenditure without any reference to Government and afterwards approach the Government often and often for subsidies. It was found very difficult to help the local bodies very often and hence it was thought that the system would be better placed by taking the average revenue and expenditure for past years and then fixing a standard of expenditure which the local bodies were asked to adopt and beyond which they could not go. Supposing they incurred a reasonable additional expenditure during a certain period, they would have to apply to the Government at the end of that period for funds. In the meantime, they will have to meet their expenditure from other sources. Thus they are enabled to know within a period of three years where they are so far as their finances are concerned. The fixed subsidy system while placing them at a greater disadvantage assured to them the amount of subsidy they would be able to get thus giving them a guide as to where they are in regard to their finances and whether they can approach the Government at the end of a certain period for any more grant.

"I may assure the hon. Member from Bellary that all the observations made by him will be carefully considered by the Government. But I may say it is not possible to provincialize the posts of headmasters in areas which are similar in conditions. We are examining the question with regard to the educational aspect by a committee known as the Secondary Education Committee. A special officer has been appointed for the purpose of reviewing the situation and making a survey of the conditions of secondary education in this Presidency. When these matters are considered finally by the Government we hope that the system of secondary education will be placed on a very sound basis."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"The hon. the Minister for Education in the course of his remarks admitted that the reason for having undertaken to meet the net cost of these schools was the inability of the local bodies to maintain them. When an application was made to the hon. the Minister he went into the whole question and thoroughly examined whether or not there was any need for these schools in the places where they were required to be set up, and whether, in some places where there were aided institutions, they fulfilled the purpose for which new schools were sought to be established and found that in the case of new schools which were proposed to be established or the old schools which approached the Government for help, there was absolute necessity to help them and therefore undertook to pay the net cost thereof. Now, Sir, my point is this: having so far gone into the question and satisfied himself as to the absolute necessity of defraying the net cost thereof it is up to him to see that the staff gets a reasonable pay and the boys are assured a satisfactory course of instruction. That is my complaint in the matter. There is no dispute about the fact that schools are needed in these places, and if schools are allowed to continue, I think it is up to the Government to see that the teachers of these schools receive an adequate pay so that proper teachers may be recruited and satisfactory instruction given to the boys. Sir, you may say, why not local bodies provide money? If they were in a position to provide the necessary funds they would not have approached the Government for the same.

"Sir, the hon. the Minister said that the conditions of each district varied and that he would have to undertake a very elaborate survey and find out the scale of pay suited to each district. I am surprised at that argument. In other departments of Government, for instance in the Collectorates of all mufassal districts, the same scale of pay is prevailing, and this scale will have to be revised, because, according to the Minister, the conditions in no two districts resemble and the members of the staff in one district should be on a scale of Rs. 30-40 and in another place from Rs. 25-30 and so on. Surely that argument can be stretched too far. I ask whether by any conceivable standard it can be said that the conditions in the Ceded districts differ much? I have given the example of Kurnool, Cuddapah, Bellary and Anantapur. Here there are four schools in the headquarters of the districts. How can you justify that the headmaster in one school can be kept on a scale of Rs. 125-150, in another on a scale of Rs. 150-175 and in the third on Rs. 150-200? The conditions are similar and I do not think the hon. the Minister can seriously say that the conditions are not what they are described to be. The other day when it was complained that the scale of pay obtaining in the Pennu-konda Board school was low, the hon. the Minister increased the scale of pay. He must have some reasons for raising the scale of pay. Because in certain schools there are old headmasters holding offices for a long number of years and they have got long association with the schools and it is not possible for them to throw out their jobs, can that be made the reason for not increasing their pay? Simply because Government have entered into agreements with the local bodies concerned under conditions which no longer exist now, is it fair to keep the teachers on the same low scale of pay? This reminds one of the story of Shylock and his pound of flesh. I hope, Sir, the Government will take a broader view of the question and see whether or not a proper scale is desirable in these districts. If they think that there are insuperable objections and difficulties in the way of fixing the highest scale, by all means let them give up that idea. But for goodness sake let there be only one cadre of a uniform scale of pay—let it be any cadre—and let there be no room for heart-burning between one teacher and another. On no account should there be a difference in pay between one teacher and another in similarly situated districts. So far as I have been able to gather I do not see anything in his speech which goes to show that the hon. the Minister for Education is going to act from this point of view, and fix a reasonable scale of pay in these schools where the conditions, I may assure him, do not differ.”

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—“The hon. the Mover says that in other departments there is a scale of pay and asks why it should not be adopted here? But I may tell him that he has forgotten the fact that there is a time-scale of pay in regard to Government service. This is not Government service, nor do they come under a particular cadre of Government service. These are all persons employed by the local bodies to do their work. The pay is paid out of the local funds and an agreement is entered into between the local body concerned and the teachers by which the latter are made to understand that they will be paid only a particular scale and they accept it. Therefore the scale of pay having been determined by agreement between the local body and the teacher it is not fair to ask the Government to say why a local body has fixed a particular standard which is not fair and ask that the balance should be paid by the Government. I am sure the House will realize that this is not a fair proposition. You cannot now ask the Government to make up the deficit because the Government have undertaken to pay the net cost of the expenditure.

“Then the hon. the Mover said that in the interests of the boys it was necessary that Government should pay a higher scale of pay. If in the interests of boys you fix a particular scale at a certain time, supposing the teacher comes to you at another time and says that the scale should be revised, then what could you do? I submit to the House that the scale adopted by the local bodies or the aided agencies is regulated purely on grounds of supply and demand, and in certain managements if unconscionable bargains have been made by them with the teachers and their scales of pay have been fixed very low, then the Government may interfere with such managements and set right the matter. It was said that teachers were asked to sign for a higher pay than they were actually receiving. We have taken steps to see that managements where such irregularities exist, are brought to order. If there is any such case, the hon. Member can bring it to the notice of the Government, and we are prepared to consider it. I am, unable to accept his motion.”

* Mr. K. SITARAMA REDDIYAR :—“Sir, you will see that the next motion for reduction of the grant is against my name. I want to elicit from the hon. Minister some information about his policy of the net cost system, the policy which he is going to adopt in future years. He said just now that he appointed a committee to investigate the matter and that it has surveyed the whole situation and that the whole matter will assume a final shape very soon. If the hon. Minister would tell me when the committee was formed and what were its terms of reference and when the result of its labours will be made public I do not propose to move the motion that stands in my name.”

23rd March 1926]

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—“Sir, the distribution of the grant-in-aid is a difficult matter. I am aware that there has been agitation in several directions for revising the conditions of the grant-in-aid. Before we do so it is necessary for us to ascertain what are the schools that are in existence to which we should give grant-in-aid, and the schools which are under the management of the local bodies and which are aided institutions. The special officer has submitted his report recently and we have to see in what condition these institutions are, how many of them can be accepted for giving grant-in-aid and how many not. The Secondary Education Committee is now sitting and the next meeting will be held in June or July. When they make their recommendations and the financial effects of their recommendations are known the administrative department will have to consider them. I cannot at present say how many months it will take; but it is a very important matter and I wish to deal with it as early as possible.”

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—“Sir, I should like to press my motion. In doing so I want to say this . . .”

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—“The hon. Member is making two speeches by way of reply.”

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—“Just as you please, Sir, I press my motion.”

The motion was put to the House and lost.

* Mr. R. VEERIAN :—“I beg to move

‘that the allotment of Rs. 9,17,400 for grants to local bodies for secondary education be reduced by Rs. 100.’

“I want to raise the question of indiscriminately giving school-fee concessions to pupils of communities other than those mentioned in rule 92 of the Madras Educational Rules. In G.O. No. 855, dated 19th May 1925, it is mentioned that the concession is applicable only to the backward and depressed classes. But several instances of breach of this rule have come to my notice and I want to mention only one. In the case of the Coimbatore Municipality there are only a very few pupils of the depressed classes reading in their secondary schools. But I find that pupils of the forward classes also are receiving scholarships and are getting concession. I think, Sir, the local bodies cannot make this remission of fees without the approval of the Director of Public Instruction. The local bodies can only recommend the cases for the consideration of the District Educational Officer. If the local bodies think that there are pupils in other communities, Brahmans and Non-Brahmans, Vellalas also who are equally poor, even then they cannot take advantage of this rule. Even the Caste Hindu Vellala boys are not eligible to get this concession. Such being the case, how can they give full remission of fees in the case of Brahmans? The Adi-Dravida boys apply for concession; but for want of godfathers they do not get it. I hope the hon. Minister will look into the matter and set right the defect.”

* The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO :—“Sir, the hon. Mover has stated that rule 92 has been misused in a particular municipality and fee-concessions are given to pupils of communities which are not entitled to this concession. If a municipality abuses this rule and gives concession to pupils who are not entitled to receive the concession under this rule, then in calculating the amount of help or subsidy to the local body or the municipality

[Sir A. P. Patro]

[23rd March 1926]

we take it that the student in question has paid his full fees and the income of the school is measured accordingly. Thus by the abuse of this rule it is the municipality itself that suffers. I am sure the Coimbatore Municipality will not be so unwise as to misuse this rule; because they know that they could not derive any profit by that course. The rule reads thus:

‘92. Exceptions.—In institutions of a professional or special character, fees shall be levied at such rates as may from time to time be sanctioned by the Director or as may be prescribed by any rules sanctioned by Government for them. Fees in all institutions shall be levied at half the standard rates from Muhammadans, Oriyas, girls and members of backward classes and castes whose parents or guardians are so poor that the grant of this concession is necessary to enable them to continue their studies.

“Of course in cases of doubt such pupils have to produce poverty certificates to show that they are really poor and cannot afford to pay the full fees. The backward classes and castes are specified in a list that is attached to this rule. If concession is given to any class or caste that is not recognized in the list attached it is illegal and it is an abuse of rule 92 and Government will certainly not recognize such concessions in giving aid to such institutions.”

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—“Is the hon. Member withdrawing the motion?”

* Mr. R. VEERIAN:—“For the information of the hon. Minister I may mention that such pupils get full concession there.”

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—“The hon. Minister has already said that the institutions do so at their own risk.”

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—“The hon. Member Mr. Saldanha cannot move motions 574 and 575 on the paper under this Demand. They relate to the Local Self-Government Department.”

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB:—“Sir, I beg to move

‘that the allotment of Rs. 22,54,600 for secondary education be reduced by Rs. 1,000.’

“Sir, for want of time I want to confine myself to a mere statement of the facts without a great elaboration.

“Firstly, I want that Muhammadan education should be separated from the main cadre and put in charge of a separate officer under the Director of Public Instruction. Mr. President, the elementary education of Muhammadan boys is under the charge of a Muhammadan inspector and this officer has got other duties also to do besides this such as propaganda work to bring into recognition and aid schools which are in the nature of pial schools and other schools in which religious training is given to Muhammadan boys. The deputy inspectors in charge of the Muhammadan ranges are invested with the powers of recommending such recognition and admission to the grant-in-aid. But whenever they send in their recommendations for recognition or amalgamation the District Educational Officers who are not generally Muhammadans do not sympathise with the aspirations of the Muhammadan community.”

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—“If the hon. Mover wants a reply from the Government, he must be brief in his remarks. There are hardly four minutes more for the time allotted to the discussion of the Demand to expire.”

[23rd March 1926]

* Mr. MUHAMMAD GHOUSE MIAN SAHIB:—“Therefore, instead of asking these deputy inspectors to work under them, we may appoint a separate Muhammadan District Educational Officer for two or three Muhammadan ranges under whom these deputy inspectors will work. At that rate three or four districts might be brought under one District Officer. For the whole Presidency there need not be more than four or five District Educational Officers. I request the Government also to have an additional Deputy Director as they had in recent years in the person of Mr. Abdur Rahim who was transferred to one of the district charges. He was an experienced Muhammadan officer. I want the segregation of Muslim educational policy so that there might be some sympathy for the advancement of Muhammadan education.

“Secondly, Sir, with reference to the reorganization scheme, there has been a separation of the cadre of school assistants from that of deputy inspectors. I request that in future the strict separation of the two cadres might be abandoned and transfers from one cadre to another made possible. This will be very useful.

“Thirdly, Sir, I wish to draw the attention of the Government to the withdrawal of the allowances received by school assistants, a sum of Rs. 25 to Rs. 50.

“At the time when these officers were confirmed their allowances were withdrawn. At the time when this allowance was given, the understanding was that it would be consolidated with their pay when they were confirmed. I shall now discuss the educational policy.”

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—“The time for this grant has expired.

“The question is that the Government be granted a sum of 148.98 lakhs of rupees under Demand XIX—Education (Transferred).”

The Demand was put to the House and carried. The Grant was made.

DEMAND XX—MEDICAL.

* The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—“Sir, on the recommendation of His Excellency the Governor, I beg to move

‘the grant for Rs. 58.47 lakhs under Demand XX—Medical’.

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR:—“I move

‘that the allotment of Rs. 5,86,100 for medical establishments be reduced by Rs. 100.’

“Sir, I only wish to bring to the notice of the hon. the Minister the disabilities under which registered private medical practitioners are labouring now-a-days. Never were the private medical practitioners so humiliated as they are to-day. Sir, their medical certificates are not recognized generally by the heads of departments. Most of their certificates are sent for countersignature. The medical practitioner attends to the case and he knows the case much better than the District Surgeon to whom the medical certificate is sent for countersignature. Moreover, Sir, a private medical practitioner cannot prescribe an intoxicating drug without filling up a form that is supplied to him by the Collector of Madras. He cannot prescribe even half a dram of brandy, that is, 30 drops in cases of emergency without licence. These are the disabilities of the private medical practitioner which I hope the hon. the Chief Minister will look into

(At this stage the hon. the Deputy President took the chair.)

[Mr. O. Natesa Mudaliyar]

[23rd March 1926]

"Moreover, Sir, the Government generally insist upon getting physical fitness certificates from District Surgeons and not from private medical practitioners. The Staff Selection Board also insists upon a physical fitness certificate from a District Surgeon. Many a bright boy is prevented from appearing for the Staff Selection Board examination because he is not able to pay Rs. 15 which is required for getting a medical certificate from a District Surgeon.

"Coming now to the rural scheme, I wish to point out that the subsidy given to rural medical men is not adequate. When a medical practitioner settles himself in a place when the Government propose to establish a rural dispensary in that place, he is asked to shift himself to some other place. That defeats the object with which the rural scheme was started.

"On more than one occasion it was found out that when a Medical Board decides that a man was not fit for service, other expert Medical officers gave certificates that that man was fit for service. Recently there was a case in which a man was made unfit for service not because he was suffering from any disease but because he took two years' leave out of six years of his service. It is not the concern of the Medical Board to see whether he took two years' leave. The Medical Board is to concern itself with the fact whether he was suffering from any disease. Afterwards the very same man was certified by some other experienced expert Medical officers to be fit not only for civil service but for military service also. In hard cases it is better that the Government come forward and constitute other Medical Boards to examine the parties. The man thrown out by the Medical Board was drawing a pay of Rs. 105. This young man is left in the world without anything to do.

"Coming to honorary surgeonship, private medical practitioners should be made efficient for recruiting honorary surgeons and physicians for the various hospitals. To make private practitioners efficient, the Government should restrict consulting practice alone to those who are employed in various Government hospitals as honorary surgeons and physicians; or the Government should take the students that pass out from the Medical College as honorary house surgeons and promote them to honorary assistant surgeonship. Then they will be fit for honorary surgeonship. It is not necessary that there should be only one surgeon, one assistant surgeon and one house surgeon for a ward. There may be many house surgeons and many assistant surgeons for each ward. I learn that this practice is adopted in England. I appeal to the hon. the Minister that as soon as students graduate themselves they may be taken as honorary house surgeons for the various hospitals. I request the hon. Minister to look to these things."

* The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :— "Mr. Deputy President, Sir, the hon. Member for Madras has tried to make out a case that the private medical practitioners are suffering under great disabilities and he has pointedly mentioned what those disabilities are. To be brief, Sir, the disabilities he has referred to are that their certificates are not being valued by the departments. Secondly, he said that they were not made members of the standing committee from which Medical Boards were formed. Thirdly, he stated that the medical officers in rural areas who are given subsidies do not get sufficient remuneration. He has also referred to the question of appointing honorary surgeons to Government hospitals.

23rd March 1926]

[The Raja of Panagal]

"Taking the first of these alleged disabilities into consideration, I may say that the question as to whether it is a disability was carefully examined by the Government and it was considered that if the certificates were to be obtained from Medical officers holding appointments under the Government, they could be held responsible for the certificates they give. With regard to the question of constituting Medical Boards with private practitioners as members, I think it may be possible that some of them may be made members of the standing committee from which boards are constituted. These men may then have a chance to sit along with the Government Medical officers on the Boards. At present, there is a standing committee consisting of the four Presidency Surgeons and the Medical officers in charge of the Government hospitals in the Presidency. My hon. Friend suggests that private medical practitioners may also be made members of this standing committee so that when the Board is constituted they would have a chance of being members of the Board. I shall be glad to have this suggestion examined by the Surgeon-General.

"Then as to the subsidies paid to the Medical officers in rural areas, the Government, after careful consideration, fixed the rates at Rs. 600 and 400—Rs. 600 in the case of Medical graduates and Rs. 400 in the case of Licentiated Medical Practitioners. Representations were made by local boards that the subsidy was not sufficiently attractive and that it was difficult to secure the services of medical men under the conditions prescribed by the Government. The Government refused to raise the subsidy. They, however, informed the local boards that, if they found it difficult to secure the services of medical men who settle down in villages, they might in special circumstances give additional subsidy from their own resources.

"In regard to the appointment of house surgeons for Government hospitals at present, Medical graduates as soon as they take their degrees are taken in as house surgeons. The appointment of honorary surgeons is still in its experimental stage; there are just at present 12 sanctioned appointments. Out of 12 only 7 are fitted. The Surgeon-General has been addressed to report why he was not able to secure private medical practitioners for the remaining places. Recently some of these honorary officers complained that the term of one year was too short and the Government have agreed to allow them to continue only subject to the condition that if at any time the Government want to dispense with their services they can do so after giving notice of three months. If the honorary medical officers do not want to continue as honorary officers, they have to give three months' notice. They also requested that they should have telephonic connections at Government cost. The Government thought that there was no necessity to provide them with telephones. They further requested that if any remarks were made on them by the Superintendents of Hospitals, they should be given copies of those remarks. The Government compelled with this request. In these circumstances, I do not think my hon. Friend will press the motion."

* Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR :—"I thank, Sir, the hon. the Minister for all the information that he has given. I request him to consider the case of private medical practitioners, at least of those of certain standing and experience and let them be made equal to the District Surgeons so that their certificates will not be sent for countersignature. It is humiliating that our certificates should be sent for countersignature. It is the feeling of every private medical practitioner that he is not treated well by the Government. If he will consider that question I shall be very much obliged to the hon. the Chief Minister. I request him to give to the honorary surgeons all the privileges which the Government give to the permanent Surgeons."

The motion was, by leave, withdrawn.

The House then adjourned to meet again at 11 a.m. the next day.

Endorsement of the Accountant-General, No. H.A. Comml. 7/1027, dated 4th November 1925.

Forwarded.

2. The amount chargeable to the concern on account of audit fee (including travelling allowance and out-of-pocket expenses) for the quarter is Rs. 365-8-0 as against Rs. 375 shown as reserve for the purpose in the profit and loss account. The commercial auditors have been asked to adjust the difference in the accounts of the next quarter.

3. The following statement shows the monthly receipts, payments and balance (at credit of both No. 2 and 1 accounts) of the Kerala Soap Institute for the six months ending 31st August 1925 according to the figures available in the books of this office:—

The profit of Rs. 23,164-2-9 for 1924-25 will be adjusted to the debit of the personal ledger account on receipt of orders of Government on the balance sheet for 1924-25 forwarded with this office Endorsement No. H.A. Comml. 7/805, dated 23rd July 1925. It will be seen that even after this adjustment there has been, a balance of over Rs. 40,000 at the end of each of the months except June 1925. In view of the fact that the working capital is ordinarily fixed at a sum sufficient to cover all ordinary outgoings until they can be recouped from ordinary receipts and that Government have agreed to meet temporary emergencies by the grant of temporary accommodation, it is suggested for the consideration of Government whether the concern cannot be made to surrender a portion of the working capital of Rs. 50,000 sanctioned for it.

4. It is suggested that the Director be requested to keep the Government constantly informed of the realizations of debts due to the concern. It will be seen that bad and doubtful debts have increased from Rs. 1,729 in the quarter ending 31st March 1925 to Rs. 11,792 in the quarter under report.

IV

Letter from E. F. THOMAS, Esq., C.I.E., I.C.S., Director of Industries, to the Secretary to Government, Development Department, dated 4th January 1926, No. 252-E/25.

I have the honour to forward herewith a copy of letter No. H.A. Comml. 7/1243, dated 7th December 1925, received from the Accountant-General, Madras, and to state that the write-off was carried out by the auditors themselves in the course of their audit of the accounts of the Kerala Soap Institute, Calicut. I request therefore that Government may be pleased to accord their formal sanction for the write off of the amount of Rs. 667-15-6 reference to by the Accountant-General.

ENCLOSURE

Letter from the Accountant-General, to the Director of Industries, dated Madras, the 17th December 1925, No. H.A. Comml. 7/1243.

I have the honour to state that in the balance sheet of the Kerala Soap Institute as at 30th June 1925, the auditors have written off against the reserve for bad and doubtful debts a sum of Rs. 667-15-6 by credit to the profit and loss account. This amount represents the difference between the value of Rs. 1,100 at which stocks were originally sold to Messrs. Anantanarayan Brothers Bombay, and the stock value of Rs. 432-0-6 at which soaps returned by the company were taken into account.

[23rd March 1926]

I have the honour to enquire whether sanction to the write-off of the amount as required in the annexure to Chapter 17 of Madras Treasury Manual, Volume I, and article to 227, Civil Account Code, Volume I, has been obtained.

V

Letter from E. F. THOMAS, Esq., C.I.E., I.C.S., Director of Industries, to the Secretary to Government, Development Department (through the Accountant-General, Madras), dated 21st December 1925, No. 252-E/25.

With reference to Government Memorandum No. 3033-II/25-1, Development, dated the 20th November 1925, forwarding for remarks a copy of Accountant-General's endorsement No. H.A. Comml. 7/1027, dated 4th November 1925, I have the honour to reply as follows :—

Paragraph 3 of the Accountant-General's endorsement—Working capital.—The balance of No. 2 Account on 16th December 1925 was Rs. 42,835-11-0. If the sum of Rs. 23,164-2-9 being the profits earned during the year 1924-25, is adjusted the balance left will be only Rs. 19,671-8-3. This amount, the Superintendent reports and I agree, will be spent in the purchase of oils and other raw materials required for the use of the Institute. Yellow bar soap to the value of Rs. 44,944-3-0 has been supplied against the order placed with us by the Director of Contracts, Simla, for which payment amounting to Rs. 4,336-3-0 has been made so far and for the balance, viz., Rs. 40,608-0-0 invoices have not yet been sent pending the receipt of the delivery receipts from the respective consignees. It is not known when the full payment is likely to be made. When the full amount is received it would be possible for me to consider whether any portion of the working capital could be surrendered.

Paragraph 4 of the Accountant-General's endorsement—Bad and doubtful debts.—The increase under this item from Rs. 1,729 in the quarter ending 31st March 1925 to Rs. 11,792 in the quarter under report is not due to any new debts having been proved to be bad, but the following old debts which were considered good during the quarter ending 31st March 1925 were recast by the auditors during the quarter under report and taken under 'bad and doubtful debts' :—

	RS.	A.	P.	RS.	A.	P.	RS.	A.	P.
A. Kasipathis	5,692	10	2
Less his security deposit	2,000	0	0
				3,892	10	2

Kasipathi and
Murti & Sons ..	695	0	0
Do. do. against
				10,174	13	5

The auditors considered that it was inadvisable to treat these debts for which suits had been filed as good and had therefore classed them under 'Bad and doubtful debts'. In the case of the decreed amount of Mr. Erasa Menon, monthly payments are being regularly received and it is anticipated that the balance amount will also be paid in full. The amount of Rs. 300 paid to the Government Pleader on this account has also been decreed and is recoverable. These items may therefore be considered 'good'. A monthly statement showing the realization of debts due to the concern will be submitted to Government as suggested by the Accountant-General, if Government so desire.

2. The Government sanction the write-off of a sum of Rs. 667-15-6 being the difference between the invoiced value and the value at stock rates of the goods taken over by Mr. S. C. Dalal from Messrs. Anantanarayan Brothers, Bombay, and returned to the Institute.

[3rd March 1926]

3. Paragraph 3 of the Accountant-General's endorsement, dated 11th November 1925.—The Director is requested to report as soon as possible what portion of the working capital of the concern could be surrendered.

4. Paragraph 4 of the Accountant-General's endorsement, dated 4th November 1925.—The Government do not require a monthly statement of realizations of the debts due to the concern as they already have opportunity to review the position four times in the course of the year, but they consider that the Director should obtain such a statement from the Institute and take such steps as may be required for the early realization of all outstandings.

RUSSELLKONDA SAW MILL.

Report on the Accounts for the quarter ending 30th September 1925.

1. Fixed capital expenditure.—The small additions shown in the balance sheet as at 30th June 1925 have been written off in the current period to 'Repairs.'

2. Stock.—The stock of cut timber was valued at the rates adopted for the valuation of stock on 31st March 1925, and the logs at 4 annas per cubic foot.

3. Sundry debtors, Rs. 16,173-0-6.—This item includes a sum of Rs. 2,290-14-0 being the cost of and charges on saws returned to Messrs. Simonds Saw & Steel Co., New York.

4. Provision for expenses—Audit fees Rs. 1,419-10-0.—This is made up as under:—

	RS.	A.	P.
Audit fees and provision for expenses for the first quarter 1925-26	719	10	0
Audit fees and provision for expenses for the second quarter 1925-26	700	0	0

5. District Forest Officer, Cr. Rs. 27,954.—It was arranged that the mills pay to the District Forest Officer cash towards the amounts due to him for logs purchased, on the basis of the sales for each month. The cash balance was Rs. 55,191-0-11 as on 30th September, and we suggest that instructions are issued to the mills to pay off the present liability to the District Forest Officer in full and also pay monthly for further purchases.

6. Profit and Loss account.—The mill was closed during the quarter owing to accumulation of stock and no logs were received from the Forest Department except 54 cubic feet which were cut by hand.

No purpose can therefore be served by the division of expenses of the quarter as between production and selling charges.

Establishment account includes the full salary of the Manager Mr. Templeman who is on leave.

The sales for the quarter were 9,414.15 cubic feet timber realizing Rs. 26,007-7-9 at the average of Rs. 2-12-4 per cubic foot, the figures for the preceding quarter 1925-26 being 10,042.93 cubic feet realizing Rs. 27,845-8-6 at an average price of Rs. 2-12-4 per cubic foot.

The net profit for the year ending 31st March 1925 Rs. 1,894-12-4 was paid to Government on the 10th of October and the adjustment will be shown in the next quarterly balance sheet.

7. Subject to the foregoing we certify that we have obtained all the information and explanations we have required and that the balance sheet signed by us as relative hereto, in our opinion, exhibits a true and correct view of the state of the affairs of the Russellkonda Saw Mill, according to the best of our information and the explanations given to us and as shown by the books of the mill.

Reference from the Chief Conservator of Forests, Madras, No. 7900/25, dated the 15th December 1925.

[Subject.—Russellkonda Saw Mills—Audit report—Quarter ending 30th September 1925.]

Submitted to Government.

2. Paragraph 3 of the report.—In my letter No. 1669-25/A 2-4, dated 14th July 1925, disposed of in G.O. Mis. No. 1199, dated 18th August 1925, I stated that Messrs. Parry & Co. had reported that the expenditure incurred in returning the bandsaws of the wrong gauge to New York had been recovered from the suppliers and credited to the Russellkonda Saw Mill. With reference to Messrs. Fraser & Ross' remarks in paragraph 3 of the present audit report Messrs. Parry & Co. now report as follows :—

"We originally drew on Messrs. Simonds Saw & Steel Co. for the value of the saws returned to them and we credited the proceeds to mills account. Subsequently they intimated through our bankers that they would remit the amount to us direct after the inspection of the goods, and this necessitated our redebiting the mills. We have since received a remittance of Rs. 2,260-10-0 on the 3rd idem and have credited the same to the mills account. We expect to recover the balance of Rs. 45-4-0 made up of interest and cable charges incurred in connexion with the draft in due course."

3. Paragraph 5 of the report.—Messrs. Fraser & Ross' suggestion may be accepted.

H. TIREMAN,
Chief Conservator of Forests.

To the Secretary to Government, Development Department (through the Accountant-General) with Audit report.

III

Endorsement of the Accountant-General, No. H.A. Comml. 12-1325, dated the 12th January 1926.

Forwarded.

2. The second paragraph of Chief Conservator's letter Ref. No. 7900/25, dated 15th December 1925, illustrates the difficulties which may occur in making direct purchase of Europe stores without the assistance of the Stores Department, and I have marked this case for consideration in connection with my Audit Report for 1925-26.

3. With reference to paragraph 5 of the Auditors' report, I may mention that it has already been suggested to the Auditor-General—vide this office letter No. H.A. Comm. 12-382, dated 4th October 1924, of which a copy was also sent to Government—that the Forest

[23rd March 1926]

Department may be allowed to take credit for the timber as soon as it is supplied to the mill. As this proposal has not yet been agreed to, the present procedure based on the instructions of the Auditor-General in 1922, under which the mill pays for the logs as and when it sells the sawn scantlings, has to continue.

4. In paragraph 6 of the report, the Auditors bring to notice that the manager's salary to end of September 1925 has been debited in full as an establishment charge in the mill accounts. As, however, Government have accepted liability for Mr. Templeman's leave salary till the 12th September 1925 (3 months and 24 days from the 20th May 1925)—vide G.O. Mis. No. 1081, Development, dated 27th July 1925, and G.O. Mis. No. 1653, Development, dated 17th November 1925, the excess of Rs. 540 (at Rs. 900 per mensem from 13th to 30th September 1925) has to be repaid by the managing agents to the credit of the mill accounts.

5. The actual expenditure chargeable to the concern on account of audit for the quarter under report is Rs. 562-4-9 against Rs. 700 reserved for in the accounts; the Auditors have been asked to adjust the difference in the accounts of the next quarters.

I

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

[Order made by the President of the Madras Legislative Council under Standing Order No. 15 on the 4th December 1924.]

1. Starred questions to be put at a meeting of the Council with their answers shall be printed and placed on the Council table an hour before the President takes his seat.

The Secretary shall call out the name of each interpellator in the order in which the names are printed, specify the serial number of his question and make a sufficient pause to give him or any other member a reasonable opportunity of rising in his place and putting a supplementary question. Supplementary questions must be put immediately after the principal questions to which they relate.

2. If a member responsible for a starred question happens to be absent when it is called, it will be open either to him or to any other member to put supplemental questions thereon after the other starred questions for the day have been answered, provided question-time is not thereby exceeded.

3. Questions, not starred, will not be called in Council, but they will be printed with their answers and placed on the table of the House along with the list of starred questions. Oral supplementary questions will not be allowed in regard to unstarred questions.]

STARRED QUESTIONS.

Bucket Shops.

'Bucket shops' in the City.

* 1758 Q.—Mr. S. SATYAMURTI: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether his attention has been drawn to the existence of a number of 'bucket shops' in the City;

(b) whether he has made any enquiries in the matter; and

(c) whether the Government will take steps to put down the gambling which goes on in these 'bucket shops'?

A.—(a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) The matter is under consideration.

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"Sir, with reference to clause (c), the Government say that the matter is under consideration. I wish to know whether the question of putting down the gambling is under consideration or whether the measures necessary for putting it down are under consideration."

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"The legislation that has been attempted in the Bombay Presidency and the measures to be taken here for the purpose of discouraging these practices are both under consideration."

Mr. R. MADANAGOPAL NAYUDU:—"In connexion with the answer to clause (b), is the hon. the Law Member aware of the fact that there have been occasions when fraud has been committed on persons and that people who were keeping these 'bucket shops' ran away with the money?"

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Yes, Sir, at least two such instances have come to the notice of Government."

[24th March 1926]

Legislative.

Preparation of voters' lists for legislative bodies.

* 1759 Q.—Mr. G. RAMESWARA RAO: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that several names are omitted from the lists of voters for legislative bodies in consequence of the municipal registers not containing the names of persons qualified by holding land, military service, and paying income-tax; and

(b) whether any measures are in contemplation for making the lists of voters for legislative bodies as exhaustive as possible?

A.—(a) The Government have no reason to suppose that there are many such omissions. Every effort is made to make the electoral rolls as complete as possible and under the rules it is open to persons whose names are omitted to apply for inclusion.

(b) Instructions are being issued from time to time to registration officers, pointing out the necessity for ensuring that the rolls are as complete as possible.

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"With reference to clause (a), the Government say that they have no reason to suppose that there are many such omissions. Did they go into the matter at all to see whether many people who should have been registered were not registered?"

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"Some time ago a similar query reached Government and they have circularised various authorities on the matter. The answer to clause (a) represents what may be called the net result of those enquiries; but I do not mean to say that those are perfectly accurate; it may be that there are mistakes. But as a matter of fact, as pointed out in the answer to clause (a), it is open to persons whose names are omitted to apply for inclusion. May I also invite the attention of hon. Members to what I said in this connexion that it is as much the duty of the various candidates and of the voters themselves to take steps to do this, as of others? But I do not for a moment minimise the duty cast upon the authorities in this matter."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"The voters' lists are yet to be prepared for the coming elections and without those lists it is not possible for us to see what omissions there are going to be, and I think it is rather hard on us to be asked to supply all these omissions now all over the district."

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"What will be done this year is that the lists will be ready much sooner than on previous occasions for scrutiny and criticism by the public."

Mr. B. RAMACHANDRA REDDI:—"May I know, Sir, whether any instructions have been issued for the altering of the places of location of these polling stations wherever necessary?"

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"Order, order. This question is not about polling stations."

[24th March 1926]

Marine.Construction of the Cochin Harbour.

* 1760 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) what measures have been taken for constructing the Cochin Harbour under important heads, e.g.—

(1) dredging,

(2) docks,

(3) erection of causeways and what expenditure has been incurred under each heading;

(b) what the staff employed is, with the names of the officers, Engineers, Captains of dredgers and launches drawing a pay over Rs. 150 with their respective nationality, educational and other qualifications, antecedents, previous training, etc.;

(c) what establishment is employed with its cost in the Port Trust office, dredgers, boats, etc.;

(d) whether appointments for the several posts, made and contemplated, have been advertised in papers and if so, in what papers; and

(e) whether tenders for dredgers, plant and machinery have been notified to the public and if so, how and from what firms they have been ordered or are proposed to be ordered?

A.—(a) A dry dock has already been constructed at a cost of Rs. 4.21 lakhs. The estimates for the other works have been prepared and sanctioned and the necessary plant is now being procured. Most of the expenditure on the plant will be incurred in the United Kingdom and information about the payments made till now is not available. It is expected that expenditure in England during the current year will be £106,000.

(b) The gazetted officers employed in the Cochin Harbour division are the following:—

(i) Mr. F. G. Dickinson, M.C., B.ENG., ASSOC.M.INST.C.E., Officiating Executive Engineer.

(European; belongs to the cadre of Indian Service of Engineers; has been at Cochin since June 1920.)

(ii) Mr. H. Reed, ASSOC.M.INST.MECH.E., Mechanical Superintendent.

(European; has been at Cochin since September 1921—engaged on a five years' contract.)

(iii) M.R.Ry. T. P. Anantaram Avargal, B.E., Assistant Engineer.

(Indian; was head draughtsman in the office of the Harbour Engineer-in-Chief to Government prior to September 1925; has served in the department for three years.)

The Government have no further information.

(c) There is no Port Trust office at Cochin. The Port Trust has not yet been constituted.

24th March 1926]

(d) The Government have no information. The High Commissioner for India is arranging for the dredger staff. Applications received by the Deputy Harbour Engineer-in-Chief in India have been forwarded to the High Commissioner.

(e) Tenders were notified to the public by the High Commissioner in accordance with his usual practice. The firms from whom plant has been ordered are given below:—

(1) Messrs. Wm. Symons & Co., Limited, Renfrew.

(2) Messrs. Bow McLachlan & Co., Limited, Paisley.

(3) The Earl of Dudley's Round Oak Works, Limited, Brierly Hill.

Police.Lady Goschen's recent visit to Rock Fort temple.

* 1761 Q.—Mr. S. SATYAMURTI: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that during Lady Goschen's recent visit to the Rock Fort temple at Trichinopoly peaceful devotees going for their morning worship at the Ganesh temple at the foot of the rock were roughly ordered out of the way and not allowed to go to the temple from about 6 a.m. in the morning;

(b) whether the people going to bazaar were pushed out of the direct route and ordered to go by circuitous lanes; and

(c) the reasons why this action was taken by the Police?

A.—(a) & (b) The Government have inquired and find that the answer to both questions is in the negative.

(c) Does not arise.

Selection of Police sub-inspectors.

* 1762 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) how many members belonging to the depressed classes applied for selection as Police sub-inspectors during 1925 in the whole Presidency;

(b) how many of them were selected and the districts in which they were selected; and

(c) how many of them were appointed after selection?

A.—(a) & (b) The hon. Member is referred to the answer to clause (a) of question No. 1427. The figures in the statement relate to 1925.

(c) None.

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—“Sir, with reference to the answer to clause (c) that none of them was appointed after selection, I want to know whether they failed to pass the training examination and whether they will be asked to undergo training for a further period.”

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—“It depends on the particular cases, Sir. This training is a kind of probation. If they are fairly up to the mark and if they fail in one or two particulars, they may be given a further probation. If they are found particularly unsuitable, they will be sent away.”

[24th March 1926]

State Prisoners.Release of Mr. Narayana Menon.

* 1763 Q.—Mr. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) how many memorials and how many copies of resolutions passed in public meetings have been received by the Government for releasing Mr. Narayana Menon and how many for not releasing him; and

(b) whether the Government have taken all these into consideration and, if so, whether they have come to any conclusion on the matter?

A.—(a) Eleven memorials and twenty resolutions requesting the release of M. P. Narayana Menon have been received. One petition was received by the District Magistrate, Malabar, praying that he should not be released and four persons withdrew their signatures from a memorial praying for his release on the ground that they had been induced to sign through misrepresentation.

(b) Yes. The attention of the hon. Member is invited to the answer to clause (b) of question No. 1710.

Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"Sir, with regard to clause (a), may I know the ground on which the District Magistrate of Malabar prayed for not releasing Mr. Narayana Menon?"

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"One petition was received by the District Magistrate praying for the release, but the District Magistrate did not pray."

Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"What is the ground, Sir, on which he put in his application for not releasing him?"

The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—"I do not think it is necessary to refer to those grounds. I do not think it is expedient that I should do so."

Land Revenue, Survey and Settlement.Re-settlement in South Kanara district.

* 1764 Q.—Mr. K. RAGHUCHANDRA BALLAL: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) how many times the district of South Kanara has been surveyed by the Government since its annexation by the British;

(b) when the last survey operations were completed in South Kanara;

(c) whether it is a fact that a re-survey has been introduced in some of the taluks in the said district; if so, which of them;

(d) what are the reasons for the introduction of re-survey operations in South Kanara;

(e) whether it is a fact that re-settlement of lands in South Kanara is under contemplation;

(f) whether the Government are not aware that at the last settlement in the district the rates of assessment were very excessive, and whether it is a fact that the productive capacity of those lands cannot bear the existing rates;

24th March 1926]

(g) whether the Government are aware that great agricultural discontent exists in the district by reason of the floods of recent years and by reason of the rinderpest prevailing in many parts of the district; and

(h) whether, in view of the above facts, the Government propose to give up the idea of the introduction of re-settlement in the district?

A.—(a) Once.

(b) In the year 1896.

(c) & (d) The hon. Member is referred to the answer to clause (a) of question No. 335 asked at the meeting of the Council held on 24th August 1925.

(e) Yes.

(f) The attention of the hon. Member is invited to paragraph 36 of the report of the Settlement Officer in G.O. No. 982, dated 9th October 1905, which has been laid on the Editors' Table, wherein he has shown that 'the present settlement is far lighter than Munro's when the increase in prices and area under cultivation is taken into account'.

(g) The Government are not aware of any such discontent.

(h) The facts in the possession of the Government do not justify any such proposal.

Strength and occupation of villagers in Bindoor division.

* 1765 Q.—Mr. K. RAGHUCHANDRA BALLAL: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue and the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that twenty to thirty villages in Bindoor division of the Kundapur taluk in South Kanara are near the coast line and the western ghats;

(b) whether it is a fact that the said villages were grouped as special and first class at the last Settlement;

(c) whether it is a fact that the population of those villages is about seventy to eighty thousands;

(d) if not, what the correct population of those villages is;

(e) whether it is a fact that the majority of the population are actual cultivators of lands; and

(f) whether it is a fact that such cultivators have not the advantages of manure leaf supply in and about their lands?

A.—(a) to (e) The hon. Member has not given the names of particular villages for which information is required. His attention is drawn to G.O. No. 757, dated the 25th August 1902, and G.O. No. 982, dated the 9th October 1905, which have been placed on the Editors' Table. From these it is seen that 121 villages on the coast between Shirur and the Chandragiri river have been included in the special class, but the Government are not aware how many of them lie in the area referred to by the hon. Member as the Bindoor division.

(f) So far as the Government is aware, it is not a fact.

[24th March 1926]

Public Service.Special pay to acting officers.

* 1766 Q.—Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue and the hon. the Member for Finance be pleased to state—

(a) whether officers of the Madras Provincial services who are made to do the duties of heads of offices are generally not granted any additional privilege or pay or travelling allowance;

(b) whether the same disability exists in the case of men belonging to the Upper subordinate service acting in the Provincial Service; and

(c) in view of the increased responsibility that pertains to the acting appointments why a special pay is not granted to the officiating incumbent?

A.—(a), (b) & (c) The questions are not understood. An officer of a Madras Provincial or Upper subordinate service who officiates in a higher appointment than his permanent appointment will draw pay and allowances in accordance with the Fundamental rules on the subject.

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—“ I am sorry, Sir, I have not made myself clear on the point. I would rather illustrate it like this. Suppose an officer of the Provincial Service is made to act as Director of Agriculture. Would he, in that case, be able to draw his travelling allowance on the scale that is permitted to the Director of Agriculture? ”

The hon. Mr. N. E. MARJORIBANKS :—“ The matter is regulated, Sir, by the Fundamental Rules. As regards the special case which the hon. Member has put, I cannot undertake to answer it without notice.”

Local Boards and Municipal Councils.Nomination of depressed classes members to local boards in the Tanjore district.

* 1767 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) the names of all the taluk boards and union boards that are within the jurisdiction of the Tanjore District Board;

(b) the names of all the members belonging to the depressed classes that were nominated to each of the taluk boards and union boards by the respective local board presidents to represent the said classes in each of the taluk boards and union boards; and

(c) if the Government have no information with reference to clauses (a) and (b), whether they will be pleased to call for the information?

A.—(a), (b) & (c) A list* giving the available information is laid on the table. Information in regard to the union boards under the Papanasam Taluk Board has not yet been received from the President, District Board, Tanjore.

* Printed as appendix on page 668 infra.

[24th March 1926]

Mr. R. VEERIAN :—“ Sir, with reference to clauses (a), (b) and (c), Government have asked me to refer to the list. I find, Sir, from the list that in two taluk boards of the Tanjore district no member of the depressed classes has been appointed and in fifteen of the unions also no member of the depressed classes has been appointed. I want to know, Sir, whether the Government have sent any recent circulars to see that members of the depressed classes are appointed to these taluk boards and union boards according to the Act by the appointing authority, when the next vacancy occurs? ”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—“ The President of the District Board has been asked to report as to why he has not appointed members from the depressed classes. We have not yet received his reply.”

The non-representation of Viswakarma community in the newly formed taluk boards of Nilakkottai, Palni and Dindigul.

* 1768 Q.—Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether the Viswakarma community is taken as a minority community in Madura district;

(b) if so, why they were not represented in the newly formed taluk boards of Nilakkottai, Palni and Dindigul;

(c) whether Nayudus, Vellalars and Goundars are minority communities in the district and how many of them have been nominated to the newly formed taluk boards;

(d) whether any representation was made to the Government that Viswakarmas should be represented in those boards;

(e) whether the Government simply approved the nominations sent up by the President of the District Board, or made any alterations; and

(f) whether an elected member for Nilakkottai firka was taken as a member for Dindigul Taluk Board, and another was nominated for Nilakkottai in his place?

A.—(a) The Government are not in a position to express an opinion on the point.

(b) The President, District Board, Madura, did not recommend the nomination of Viswakarma.

(c) With reference to the first part of this clause, the hon. Member is referred to clause (a) above. The number of Nayudus, Vellalars and Goundars appointed as members of the new taluk boards is as shown below :—

	Taluk board.	Nayudus.	Vellalars.	Goundars.
Dindigul	...	5	...	1
Palni	...	...	3	4
Nilakkottai	...	...	2	1

(d) An application was received from a member of the Viswakarma community.

(e) The Government made some alterations.

(f) The answer is in the affirmative.

Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR :—“ With regard to clause (d), may I know, Sir, whether any steps have been taken on the application? ”

[24th March 1926]

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"Government do not think it desirable to take any steps."

Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"May I know, Sir, whether the Viswakarma community will be represented in any of the taluk boards at any time?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"It is rather difficult to answer that question. The Viswakarma community is not considered to be an important minority community in the sense that the Christian, the Muhammadan or the depressed communities are."

Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"Is there any list of the minority communities?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"I do not think so."

Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"Then, Sir, with regard to clause (e), may I know what necessity there was for making the alterations in the matter of these nominations?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"On the representation of the parties affected in the matter, the Government may make alterations."

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—"Does the Viswakarma community come under the class of Brahmans? I thought they were claiming it."

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"That is hardly a fair question to put to the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government."

Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"With regard to clause (c), Sir, the Government made some alterations on the application of the persons affected. May I know, Sir, who those persons are?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"I should like to have notice of this question."

Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NADAR:—"May I know, Sir, whether the persons who were affected are the persons who were nominated?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"I cannot say that off-hand."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"With reference to clause (b), Sir, may I know the taluk board under whose jurisdiction the firka is included? It is said that an elected member of one was taken as a member for a certain taluk board, and I wish to know whether that firka is included in this taluk board?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"Yes, in the Nilakottai Taluk Board itself."

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"Then, Sir, what was the need for nomination for Nilakottai? Are nominations made for areas?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"Yes. It was a newly constituted taluk board."

Representation of Jains in the Madras Municipal Corporation and Madras District Educational Council.

* 1769 Q.—Mr. K. RAGHUCHANDRA BALLAL: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government and the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state whether there are any Jains as members in the Madras City Municipal Corporation and in the Madras District Educational Council?

A.—The answer is in the negative.

24th March 1926]

Mr. D. MANJAYYA HEGGADE:—"Sir, may I ask the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government whether the Jains are entitled to nominations for the Municipal Corporation at the next election?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"There is no vacancy at present. When a vacancy occurs the claims of the community will be considered on their merits."

Contribution to Chingleput District Board by the Conjeevaram municipality.

* 1770 Q.—Mr. S. SATYAMURTI: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether representations were made to the Government in January 1922 by the municipality of Conjeevaram about the excessive contribution levied from them to the District Board of Chingleput from collections made from their toll-gates;

(b) whether the Government ordered that the municipality must pay a third of the collection to the district board;

(c) whether on 19th January 1924 the municipality unanimously passed the resolution requesting the Government to reconsider their decision and the Government refused to do so;

(d) whether subsequently the municipal council wanted the Chief Minister to receive a deputation on this matter;

(e) whether the Minister refused to receive the deputation and if so, the reasons; and

(f) whether it is a fact that the other municipalities in the district, e.g., Chingleput and Saidapet, are contributing only a fifth of their incomes from the toll-gates to the district board?

A.—(a) Yes; the Municipal Chairman reported in January 1922 that, having regard to its financial condition, it was not possible for the Council to continue to pay a contribution of one-third of its net toll receipts to the Chingleput District Board.

(b) Yes, in January 1924.

(c) Yes.

(d) Yes.

(e) Yes. The joint committee consisting of the representatives of both the local bodies appointed for the purpose was unable to arrive at an agreement as to what should be the proportion in which the municipal toll income should be divided between the Municipal Council and the District Board. After careful consideration of the representations received from both the local bodies the Government decided that the existing arrangements should continue. It was therefore considered that no useful purpose would be served by receiving a deputation on the subject. It is still open to the local bodies if they think fit to appoint another joint committee to settle the distribution.

[24th March 1926]

- (J) The Chingleput Municipal Council contributes to the District Board one-fifth of the net income from tolls; the Saidapet Municipal Council, on the other hand, has since 1923-24 received from the District Board a fixed annual contribution of Rs. 6,000 as compensation for waiving its right to open toll-gates of its own.

Acquisition of site for school play-ground.

* 1771 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

- (a) whether the Government intend to take any steps in regard to a protest made by me in letter dated 4th December 1925 against the proposal of the Coimbatore municipality for acquiring about nine Adi-Dravida houses in the Ninth ward, Thirumall street, Coimbatore, in spite of their unwillingness, for a secondary school building play-ground without acquiring the vacant spaces that are lying idle for the purpose; and
(b) whether they have given consent for such acquisition of nine Adi-Dravida houses on seeing their estimates?

A.—(a) & (b) The hon. Member was informed on 19th December that proposals for the acquisition had not yet reached Government and that when they were received, due consideration would be given to the points raised by him. A copy of his letter and of the Government's reply thereto was sent to the Collector of Coimbatore for information. No proposals for the acquisition have yet been submitted to Government.

Alleged use of 'Chakillian' in a notice issued by the Mettupalaiyam Union Board.

* 1772 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

- (a) whether the copy of G.O. No. 817, Law (General), dated the 25th March 1922, has been communicated to all the chairmen of municipalities, presidents of local boards and other heads of the Government offices; and
(b) if so, why the Mettupalaiyam Union Board within the Coimbatore taluk used the word 'Chakillian' in the printed notice issued by them on 27th July 1925 and served to one Posangan alias Nagan, Mettupalaiyam?

A.—(a) As the Government Order was placed on the Editors' Table, it was not thought necessary in the first instance to communicate it to all local boards and municipal councils. This has, however, recently been done.

(b) The Government have no information.

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"Sir, in spite of the issue of the Government Order not to use the reproachful term, I find that they are still using it. I therefore wish to know whether Government are going to take any further effective steps to see that their orders are obeyed."

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"It is not for Government to take action in the matter. The Government only said that they would not use it. If others use it, it is for the party concerned to take action."

[24th March 1926]

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"Sir, it is not any party that is using the term. The word occurs in the printed orders of the local boards."

The hon. the PRESIDENT:—"So, the action must be taken in the local boards."

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"The Government Order forbids the use of such terms in any of the Government records."

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"The records of local bodies are not Government records."

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"Are not local bodies part and parcel of Government, Sir?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"If, however, the hon. Member draws the attention of the Government to any particular instance, the Government will bring it to notice of the local body concerned."

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"Here is the particular instance of the Mettupalaiyam Union Board. They have used the word in a printed notice. And I have drawn the attention of the Government to that matter."

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"What I meant to say was that if the particular paper where the word is used is forwarded to the Government, the Government will refer it to the local body concerned."

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—"As I have given sufficient information in this question, will the Government be pleased to call for information?"

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"I have already said that if the hon. Member furnishes the Government with a copy of the document, the Government will refer the matter to the local body concerned."

Exemption of motor vehicles from tolls.

* 1773 Q.—Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state the steps taken by the Government to exempt motor vehicles from tolls on payment of an additional annual tax?

A.—At a joint meeting on 18th May 1925, the Local and Municipal and Public Health Advisory Committees suggested that motor vehicles might be exempted from tolls on payment of an additional annual tax. They desired that statistics of motor vehicles in each district and of the amount of tolls that would be foregone by each district board, if motor vehicles were exempted from tolls, should be called for. Complete information has not yet been received. When it has been obtained, the matter will again be placed before the Advisory Committees.

Medical.

Scheme for registration of indigenous medical practitioners.

* 1774 Q.—Mr. C. GOPALA MENON: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state whether the Government have a scheme for the registration of indigenous medical practitioners; if so, at what stage it is?

[24th March 1926]

A.—The Government have no such proposal at present under consideration.

Mr. R. MADANAGOPAL NAYUDU :—" Sir, in view of the fact that there is a Bill for the registration of the indigenous midwives, will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to consider the advisability of the proposal to register the indigenous medical practitioners also ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" If the Bill now pending before the House is passed, the matter may be considered. "

Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN :—" On a point of order, Sir. Order 2 of the orders made by the President under S.O. 15 printed at the beginning of the List of Questions and Answers says :

" If a member responsible for a starred question happens to be absent, when it is called, it will be open either to him or to any other member to put supplemental questions thereon after the other starred questions for the day have been answered "

" Is my hon. Friend in order in putting this question now ? "

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—" The hon. Member can put the question now. He is in order. "

Public Health.

Scheme for water-supply to Bellary town.

* 1775 Q.—Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR : Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the District Board of Bellary has resolved that water tax shall be levied in the union of Rayadrug only after the water scheme is completed and found to satisfy the needs of the town ;

(b) the maximum and minimum depth of water found in the Doddannabhavi wherefrom water is proposed to be pumped out for the supply of the town in each of the last three years ;

(c) whether any attempts were made in the past, by pumping water out of the well or by any other device, to find out the daily quantity of water from the well that can be safely counted upon even during summer to meet the demands of the town ;

(d) the population of the town and the number of gallons per head which the scheme on completion is expected to provide for the town ;

(e) the part or parts of the town, if any, that are not to benefit by the water scheme under contemplation and the population dwelling in such area ; and

(f) if Doddannabhavi by itself cannot meet the demands of the town, whether the Government have considered the question of supplementing its supply by sinking new wells or in other ways and, if so, whether the extra cost so resulting will be borne altogether by the Government ?

A.—(a) & (b) The Government have no information.

(c) No quantity tests have been carried out, but there are reported to be good springs in the well and the well besides supplying a large portion of the town with drinking water is said to have been used for irrigation.

[24th March 1926]

(d) The population of union was 9,565 according to the census of 1921. The scheme provides for a water-supply of about two gallons per head per day.

(e) None.

(f) The question of supplementing the supply from Doddannabhavi does not arise at present.

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Sir, have the Government received any memorial to the effect that that particular well is not likely to supply the needs of the town ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" No information is available, Sir. "

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Sir, in view of the fact that the District Board of Bellary has resolved that water-tax shall be levied only after the water-supply scheme is completed and found to satisfy the needs of the town and in view of a similar resolution of the Union of Rayadrug, will not the Government see first whether the well can supply enough water to the town. A portable engine may be brought and the sufficiency of the water may be found before embarking on a scheme costing thousands. I should think that the sufficiency should be tried, and a quantitative test applied before the scheme is embarked upon. "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" There has been no report from the local board and if there is such a report, the request will be considered. "

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" Would the Government then be pleased to call for whether or not the resolution of the kind mentioned in clause (a) has been passed by the District Board and the Union of Rayadrug ; if so, what their reasons were ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" I think it is for the local board to communicate the resolution, to the Government, of course, if they think it necessary to do so. "

Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—" In the meanwhile, are the Government proceeding with the work, Sir ? "

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—" Yes. "

Village Panchayats.

Village Panchayats' Conference, Sivakasi taluk.

* 1776 Q.—Mr. C. V. VENKATARAMANA AYYANGAR : Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state whether he has received a copy of the resolutions of the Panchayats' Conference and what action, if any, has been taken ?

A.—A copy of the resolutions has been received by the Registrar-General of Panchayats. They are now under the consideration of the Government.

Conference of Village Panchayats.

* 1777 Q.—Mr. A. CHIDAMBARA NAIDU : Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state whether he has received a copy of the resolutions of the Conference of Village Panchayats and what action, if any, has been taken ?

(a) whether the Government have passed in the conference of Village Panchayats any resolution regarding the Thiruthangal ; and

[24th March 1926]

(b) whether any action has been taken by the Government on the resolutions?

A.—(a) & (b) The attention of the hon. Member is invited to the answer to question No. 1776.

Constitution of village panchayats in the Presidency.

* 1778 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) how many village panchayats have been established or constituted in the Presidency and how many members of the depressed classes were able to get through the elections up to this;

(b) whether there is no provision for nomination to depressed classes in the Village Panchayats Act as in the case of Local Boards Act; and

(c) what are the activities of the village panchayats?

A.—(a) Up to 22nd February 1926, 874 village panchayats had been constituted. So far as information is available, 32 members of the depressed classes have been elected to ten panchayats.

(b) No.

(c) The hon. Member is referred to sections 15 to 25 of the Madras Village Panchayats Act, 1920, which describe the functions and powers of panchayats.

Mr. R. VEERIAN:—“With reference to the answer to (a), may I know whether, owing to the several practical difficulties experienced in the matter, the Government contemplate the inclusion of a provision in the Village Panchayats Act to the effect that members of the depressed classes shall be represented in the panchayat courts?”

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—“The Government are trying to divide the wards in such a manner as may give representation to the depressed classes.”

Education.

Proposal for treating untrained teachers of 15 years' service as trained.

* 1779 Q.—Mr. R. VEERIAN: Will the hon. the Minister for Education and the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) what has become of the proposal which was before the Director of Public Instruction, Madras, about treating the untrained elementary school teachers who have put in about 12 or 15 years' service and whose age also exceeds 40 or so as trained teachers giving them all the facilities that are being given to trained teachers at present;

(b) whether the proposal has been given effect to;

(c) if not, whether the Government now at least intend taking up such a proposal for their consideration;

(d) whether the Government are aware that an Adi-Dravida teacher employed by the Palladam Taluk Board, Coimbatore district, whose age exceeds over 40 and who has put in a service of about 17 years, has not been treated like other teachers with qualifications like his own and that his pay has been reduced from Rs. 18 to Rs. 16; and

[24th March 1926]

(e) what pay is given at present to all the untrained teachers employed by the Palladam Taluk Board, Coimbatore district, and why the pay of the teacher has been reduced?

A.—(a), (b) & (c) The Government understand that the Director of Public Instruction, after careful consideration, decided not to proceed with the proposal for the following reasons among others:—

(1) that he did not feel justified in recommending additional concessions such as were contemplated so long as the department was unable to meet in full the demands made by the District Educational Councils for paying grants to elementary schools at sanctioned rates and as there were more urgent claims on the funds at the disposal of the department; and

(2) that the rates of teaching grants to which untrained teachers are eligible have been recently increased. The Government do not intend to consider the proposal at present.

(d) The Government have no information.

(e) The minimum pay of an untrained teacher employed in elementary schools, under the Palladam Taluk Board, is Rs. 16 inclusive of a temporary allowance of Rs. 4. The Government have no information in regard to the latter part of the question.

Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN:—“Sir, may I ask the hon. the Minister for Education whether the first part of the answer to clauses (a), (b) and (c) relates to schools under private management or whether he does not find it reasonable to interfere in the case of aided schools managed by local bodies?”

The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—“Aided schools managed by local boards—there is an inconsistency in that.”

Mr. R. MADANAGOPAL NAYUDU:—“Is the hon. Minister aware of the fact that the Madras District Educational Council made a recommendation on similar lines some time ago?”

The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—“I am not aware of any such recommendation, Sir.”

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—“I heard the hon. Minister say that ‘aided schools under local boards’ was an inconsistency. May I ask whether local boards schools are not given any such grant in aid?”

The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—“They are subsidized, not given grants-in-aid.”

The RAJA OF RAMNAD:—“Subsidized under what provision of law or rule, if not under the Grant-in-Aid Code?”

The hon. Rao Bahadur Sir A. P. PATRO:—“Under the Grant-in-Aid Code.”

[24th March 1926]

Co-operative Societies.

Division of the Inspecting staff of Co-operative Societies for audit and administration.

* 1780 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Development be pleased to state—

(a) in how many sections of Assistant Registrars of Co-operative Societies the division of the inspecting staff for audit and administration is being followed at present;

(b) whether in any sections the division is not followed, and, if so, the names of those divisions and reasons for the same; and

(c) whether in any sections the division was followed only for a part of the year ending with 30th June 1925 but not during the whole of the year; and if so, their names and reasons for the same?

A.—(a) In all sections.

(b) Does not arise.

(c) The Government have no information.

Indian Companies Act.

Companies registered under the Indian Companies Act.

* 1781 Q.—Mr. C. GOPALA MENON: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) the number of companies in the Madras Presidency registered under the Indian Companies Act in existence at the beginning of 1915;

(b) the number of companies in the Madras Presidency registered under the Indian Companies Act for the last ten years beginning from 1915 to 1924 inclusive;

(c) the number of companies in the Madras Presidency removed from the register since the last ten years beginning from 1915 to 1924 inclusive; and

(d) the nominal share capital, the subscribed share capital, and the actual paid-up share capital through calls in each of the above-mentioned classes of companies?

A.—The attention of the hon. Member is invited to the answer to question No. 978 given at the meeting of the Legislative Council on the 14th December 1925.

Veterinary.

Pay and prospects of subordinates in Veterinary, etc., Departments.

* 1782 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Minister for Development and the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state—

(a) whether there have been representations made to the Government or Veterinary Department authorities from Veterinary graduates associations and others in regard to the inadequacy of pay of non-gazetted Veterinary subordinates;

(b) whether it has been found that they are paid comparatively on a scale far lower than the officers of corresponding rank in the other departments—Revenue, Agricultural, Medical, etc.;

24th March 1926]

(c) whether their work is appreciated and in demand by the public concerned so far as Government are aware;

(d) what are the educational qualifications required for Veterinary Assistant Surgeons;

(e) what are the various grades of appointments and pay of the subordinate officers in the Veterinary Department;

(f) what are the higher appointments (with pay) which they can aspire to;

(g) whether they are at liberty to have private practice and if so, what is the extent of this practice as a rule; and

(h) whether Government will be pleased to place before the House a comparative statement showing the appointments of the subordinate service in the Veterinary, Revenue, Agricultural and Medical Departments with their pay and permanent allowances and the higher gazetted appointments open to them?

A.—(a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) Yes.

(d) Secondary School-Leaving Certificate and diploma of the Veterinary College.

(e) The only appointments in the subordinate service in the Veterinary Department are those of Veterinary Assistant Surgeons on a pay of Rs. 60—4—120 with a selection grade of Rs. 125—5—175.

(f) The higher appointments are those included in the Madras Veterinary Service—Deputy Superintendents and Assistant Professor and Personal Assistant to the Principal on a pay of Rs. 250—25—550 (efficiency bar)—25—750.

(g) Yes; provided it does not interfere with the discharge of public duties. The Government have no information on the extent of the practice.

(h) The hon. Member is referred to the heads of account concerned in the Civil Budget Estimate and to Appendix E thereto for information regarding the detailed scales of pay of non-gazetted and gazetted appointments in the various departments.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS.Civil Justice.

Seating arrangements for distinguished visitors in South Kanara District Munsifs' Courts.

1783 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state—

(a) what arrangements there are for the seating of respectable persons interested in cases, who have to attend the Court but are not required to give evidence, in the District Munsifs' Courts in South Kanara;

(b) whether in some of the courts seats are provided for such persons but not in others; and

(c) whether there are any general instructions in this connexion?

[24th March 1926]

4.—(a) & (b) Benches have been provided in all the District Munsifs' Courts in South Kanara district for the benefit of those who attend courts either on business or as visitors.

(c) No.

Police.

Quarters for sub-inspectors of Police in the Madras City.

1784 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Law Member and the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state whether among the sub-inspectors of the Madras City Police Anglo-Indian sub-inspectors get better quarters than Indian sub-inspectors?

A.—The Government quarters provided for European, Anglo-Indian and Indian sub-inspectors were designed to suit their different habits of living. It has recently been reported, however, that the type-design for Indian sub-inspectors was unpopular and a revision of the design is now under consideration.

Motor cycle allowances of sub-inspectors of Police.

1785 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Law Member be pleased to state whether existing motor cycle allowances of the sub-inspectors are cancelled when they exchange or buy another motor cycle while the inspectors are allowed to sell or exchange them without their allowances being stopped?

A.—Before 1923 all sub-inspectors in the City were granted a conveyance allowance of Rs. 20 per mensem, the actual conveyance to be maintained not being specified, and the sub-inspectors in the mufassal were granted a conveyance allowance of Rs. 5 per mensem when an ordinary cycle was maintained and Rs. 25 per mensem when a horse or a motor cycle was maintained and used; all Inspectors in the City and all Reserve Inspectors in the mufassal were granted a conveyance allowance of Rs. 25 per mensem and all Circle Inspectors in the mufassal were granted a conveyance allowance of Rs. 25 per mensem which was reduced to Rs. 5 per mensem if only a cycle was maintained. In 1923, on the recommendation of the Retrenchment Committee, the conveyance allowance of sub-inspectors was withdrawn in the case of a Prosecuting and Court Sub-Inspector and those in the Mounted branch in the City and of mufassal sub-inspectors employed in the Railway Police or as Prosecuting sub-inspectors or readers and it was replaced by a cycle allowance of Rs. 5 in other cases except in the case of sub-inspectors of the Motor and the Intelligence departments in the City who were granted a conveyance allowance of Rs. 25 per mensem if a motor cycle was maintained. Sub-inspectors in the City and in the mufassal who already possessed motor cycles were, however, allowed to draw a motor cycle allowance of Rs. 25 per mensem, but this concession does not apply to any subsequent purchase of a new motor cycle. Divisional Inspectors, the Harbour Inspector, the Reserve Inspector, the Inspectors of the Motor and Intelligence departments in the City were granted a motor cycle allowance of Rs. 25 per mensem on condition of their maintaining a motor cycle. A similar allowance was granted to Circle Inspectors in the mufassal.

Public Service.

Number of Mappillas employed as Tahsildars, etc.

1786 Q.—Mr. T. M. MOIDU SAHIB: Will the hon. the Member for Revenue be pleased to state the number of Mappillas serving as Tahsildars, Deputy Tahsildars and Revenue Inspectors?

A.—The hon. Member is referred to the district establishment lists which give the names of the officials holding these posts.

Forests.

Disafforestation of the Palamadi reserve.

1787 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR: Will the hon. the Home Member be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact there are large areas in the Palamadi reserve in the Vellore range of the North Arcot district where there are no valuable trees whatever and which are situated close to villages; and

(b) whether there is any proposal to disafforest these forests in the very near future?

A.—(a) The Palamadi reserve measuring 8,160 acres is not valuable from a forest point of view. It is situated close to Vellore town.
(b) No. A portion of the reserve measuring 6,687 acres includes the catchment area of the Vellore Water Works and proposals for transferring it to the Vellore municipality are under the consideration of the Chief Conservator. The remaining portion of the reserve will be handed over for panchayat management.

Local Boards and Municipal Councils.

Cancellation of the increased water-tax imposed by the Kumbakonam Municipal Council.

1788 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that the Rate-payers' Association of the old seventh ward of the Kumbakonam municipality have been asking Government for the cancellation of the increase of $1\frac{1}{2}$ per cent on water and drainage tax imposed by the Kumbakonam Municipal Council in that ward;

(b) whether it is a fact that the Municipal Council did not forward the above resolution of the Rate-payers' Association to Government; and

(c) if the answer to (b) is in the negative, when and what recommendations were made to Government by the Municipal Council on the above request of the Rate-payers' Association?

[24th March 1926]

A.—(a) Representations were received by the Government in 1923 and 1924 from the Rate-payers' Association of the old seventh ward of the Kumbakonam municipality against the resolution of the Municipal Council in which it decided that the water and drainage tax should be levied in this ward at the same rate as in other parts of the town, i.e., that the rate of the tax should be increased from 2 per cent to $5\frac{1}{2}$ per cent. No petition regarding an increase of $1\frac{1}{2}$ per cent as mentioned in the question has been received by the Government.

(b) & (c) No resolutions of the Rate-payers' Association were submitted to the Government by the Municipal Council but they were considered by the Council before it decided to levy the tax at the enhanced rate. The Government, after consideration of the representations submitted to them direct, declined to interfere.

Nominations to Tanjore District Board.

1789 Q.—Mr. P. S. RAJAPPA: With reference to the answer given to my question No. 640 on the 29th October last, will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) the reasons for which the Government concluded that there was no need for nominating a zamindar to the district board; and

(b) whether it has reference solely to the Tanjore District Board or whether it is the policy of the Government in respect of all district boards in the Presidency?

A.—(a) The Government were given to understand that the zamindars of Tanjore district, most of whom belonged to the Kallar community, could easily secure representation on the district board by election in view of the strength of the Kallar community in the district.

(b) The answer has reference only to the Tanjore District Board.

Administration reports of municipalities and local boards.

1790 Q.—Mr. J. A. SALDANHA: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) why in the reports on the administration of municipalities and of local boards no financial summaries are shown showing the income under various headings of their income such as land cess, profession tax, tolls, etc., separately; and

(b) whether orders have been issued for showing the several receipts and heads of expenditure and if not, why?

A.—(a) & (b) Full details are given in the Comparative Annual Account which accompanies the administration report and the Government therefore consider it unnecessary that they should be given in the report.

Introduction of the Madras Local Boards Bill.

1791 Q.—Rao Bahadur A. S. KRISHNA RAO PANTULU: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state the progress made in the preparation of the Madras Local Boards Bill, and when it is likely to be introduced in the Council?

24th March 1926]

A.—The hon. Member is referred to the answer to question No. 1638.

Aid to the Madura Deaf and Dumb school for purchasing a weaving loom.

1792 Q.—Rao Bahadur C. NATESA MUDALIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether it is a fact that Devakotta Union Board was not allowed to pay Rs. 125 sanctioned by the union board to the Madura Deaf and Dumb school for purchasing a weaving loom; and

(b) if so, whether the Government will reconsider its orders and ask the Devakotta Union board to pay the sanctioned amount to the Madura Deaf and Dumb school?

A.—(a) The answer is in the affirmative.

(b) The answer is in the negative.

Imposition of enhanced taxes by the Tadpatri municipality.

1793 Q.—Mr. G. RAMESWARA RAO: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether any appeals of the rate-payers to the Tadpatri municipality against taxes imposed resulted in enhancement and if so, what they are;

(b) what was the tax levied at the outset and what was the enhanced tax in each case in each of the last three years; and

(c) whether the Government obtained any information in the matter of the grievance, whether any report was called for and received and if so, whether it will be placed on the table of the House?

A.—(a) & (b) The answer to the first part of clause (a) is in the affirmative. As regards the second part of clause (a) and clause (b), complete information is not available.

(c) The Government obtained a report from the Collector, but they do not consider that any useful purpose would be served by placing it on the table.

Amalgamation of Karkal and other taluk boards.

1794 Q.—Mr. D. MANJAYYA HEGGADE: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state whether the Government have come to a final decision regarding the amalgamation of Karkal, Udupi and Coondapoor taluk boards, and Kasaragod and Uppinangadi taluk boards?

A.—The Government have decided not to pursue the proposal for the present.

Mussalman Wakf Act.

Extension of the Mussalman Wakf Act to this Presidency.

1795 Q.—Khan Bahadur HAJI ABD-UL-LAH HAJI QASIM SAHIB Bahadur: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state whether the Government have any intention of extending the Mussalman Wakf Act (Act No. 42 of 1923) to this Presidency at an early date and if not, why?

A.—The matter is under the consideration of the Government.

[24th March 1926]

Tours.Tours of the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government.

1796 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government be pleased to state—

(a) whether he has undertaken any official tours for the purpose of unveiling portraits or laying foundation stones of public buildings; and

(b) whether the cost of travelling to and fro on such occasions has been debited to public funds and, if so, the amount thereof?

A.—(a) Official tours are undertaken for the discharge of public duties. In these tours as well as in their private tours Ministers do unveil portraits of notable persons or lay foundation stones of public buildings when invited to do so by public institutions or individual philanthropists, but no official tours are undertaken merely for the purpose of unveiling portraits or laying foundation stones.

(b) Does not arise.

Excise.Closure of liquor shops in Madras City.

1797 Q.—Mr. T. ADINARAYANA CHETTIYAR: Will the hon. the Minister for Education be pleased to state whether the hon. the Minister will be pleased to place the terms of the recommendation of the Madras Excise Licensing Board to close four shops in the ensuing year in the city of Madras and the orders of the Board of Revenue thereon on the table?

A.—The hon. Member's attention is invited to the discussion on his adjournment motion on this subject at the meeting of the Legislative Council held on the 12th February 1926.

[Note.—An asterisk (*) at the commencement of a speech indicates revision by the Member.]

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—“Sir, I sent a question asking for information as to the names of persons who were nominated for election to a taluk board in Bellary, their particular castes or sub-castes, the names of those finally returned and of those who were defeated, whether any of the defeated candidates have been nominated and whether any candidates proposed for nomination are of the same caste or sub-caste as the successful candidates. That question has been returned by your office as one not being the primary concern of the Local Government; but I find, Sir, questions similar to that, for instance, question No. 1767 put to-day relating to taluk boards, have been answered. May I crave your indulgence to send back the question to your office?”

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—“The question of admission or rejection of a question should be discussed in the office by means of a communication to the President instead of by a point of order raised in the House. What is the intention of the hon. Member I should like to know?”

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—“My point is this. Sir, I find among the questions answered here, questions like the one which I sent up but you have disallowed, and I wanted to bring it to your notice just to ascertain whether it was a mere oversight.”

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—“I think the office and the one who ruled out the question must have had sufficient reasons. If the hon. Member feels in regard to the matter, he should address the office.”

24th March 1926]

IIDISCUSSION REGARDING BUSINESS BEFORE THE HOUSE.

* Mr. B. RAMACHANDRA REDDI:—“Before we proceed to discuss the motions on the budget, may I request the hon. the Law Member to tell us how many days we are going to sit this week and how many during the next; and if we are to sit during the next week, what business has to be gone through.”

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—“It is very difficult to answer the question in the form in which it is put, but I take it that we shall go on until the evening or some time during the 26th, so far as the grants are concerned. There will be no sitting on the 27th and 28th, the last Saturday and Sunday of the month. On the 29th March there will be official business which may go on up to 31st. I do not expect the House to sit beyond the 30th.”

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR:—“May I know what the official business is? We have been informed that there would be some supplementary demands. I wish to know whether there is any other business in addition to it.”

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—“So far as I am instructed, Sir, in addition to the supplementary demands which may not take much time, there will be the Bill for the registration of Nurses and Midwives and some other Bills relating to the Local Self-Government Department.”

* Diwan Bahadur M. KRISHNAN NAYAR:—“May I ask the hon. the Chief Minister whether he intends introducing the District Municipalities Act (Amendment) Bill and the City Municipal Act (Amendment) Bill?”

* The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—“Yes.”

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—“I am told that there would be the report of the Public Accounts Committee also.”

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—“We are taken by surprise, Sir, that the District Municipalities Act (Amendment) Bill will be introduced now. We had no notice of the work that will be before us at this sitting. It is due to this House that some sort of intimation is given at the beginning at least of the sitting instead of our being told that such important Bills as the District Municipalities Act Amendment Bill are likely to be introduced at the last moment.”

* The hon. Sir C. P. RAMASWAMI AYYAR:—“I do not understand the difficulty, Sir. These particular Bills relating to the Local Self-Government Department were in the agenda of the last meeting. True it is that we have not specifically adjourned them to this meeting. But hon. Members need not be surprised if business on the list of Government business which was not taken up at the last meeting is brought up now.”

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA:—“My point is this. Why should items of business be placed before us like this? Already we find an attenuated House day by day.”

* The hon. the PRESIDENT:—“I think the hon. Member has used the word ‘attenuated House’ more than once. I think he had better take the House as it is.”

[24th March 1926]

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" My fear is that the House will get weaker and weaker day by day. Of course we shall have work enough but now in a Bill of this kind which should take a long time to read and long time to discuss, it is due to us that we should have some kind of intimation. Most of us have come with the impression that the discussion will last for only ten days for the budget and one for the discussion of the demands for supplementary grants and also the Bill which has already been discussed, the Bill for the Registration of Nurses and Midwives. We have our arrangements to make at home. We are now told that this important Bill which will take at least two days for discussion will be taken up. I do not say that I am not prepared to face it. We come from long distances and each one of us has got our affairs to attend to at home. To be told at the last moment that this Bill will be taken up is not fair. For the present, I do not raise any such objection but in future at least, I should expect that the Government would give us some idea of the work to be transacted at the beginning of each sitting."

III

MOTIONS ON THE BUDGET FOR 1926-27.

DEMAND XX—MEDICAL—cont.

a.m.

* Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN :—" Mr. President, Sir, the motion which I move runs thus :

'that the allotment of Rs. 1,10,500 for contribution to the United Free Church of Scotland Mission on account of the maintenance of the Leper settlement at Tirumani be reduced by Rs. 100'.

" I have tabled this out not for pressing for a reduction but for acquainting the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government with the actual state of affairs obtaining in the Puthayara leper asylum at Calicut. I am told that this asylum was made over to the Christian Association in the year 1923 when there were only about 40 lepers in that asylum. Till then the Calicut municipality was managing the asylum and they have been incurring an expenditure of about Rs. 4,000. Now I am told that the number of inmates in that leper asylum is over a hundred and the actual cost of running it comes to about Rs. 17,000 or Rs. 18,000. I am told that the Government of Madras gives only about 30 per cent of the expenditure and when a request was made to the Calicut municipality by the authorities of the leper asylum, that municipality refused to give any grant except a sum of Rs. 350, which works at the rate of two per cent of the expenditure now incurred by the authorities of the asylum. I would therefore appeal to the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government to have mercy on these so-called unfortunate inmates of this leper asylum (Mr. J. A. Saldanha: 'Why so called? They are really unfortunate people') and request him to grant more money every year for the maintenance of this asylum, the inmates of which come from different parts of Malabar, Cochin and Travancore. I am told that more than 25 per cent of the lepers do come from the municipality of Calicut and it is only fair that that municipality should contribute about Rs. 1,000 instead of 2 per cent of the expenditure of the asylum as they do now."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—" I have got a motion on a similar subject, and I wish to speak in general about leper asylums. Now, we have got before us motion No. 644 on the paper, from which you will find that the sum of over a lakh is budgeted for the leper asylum at Tirumani, and this amount is to be given to the mission which manages the asylum as a sort of contribution. We are not told for what particular object this money is to be spent, and what are the conditions under which this money is to be spent, what is the contribution made by the mission itself for the maintenance of this asylum and whether the Government is solely responsible for its maintenance or does the mission contribute something. Then we find that in spite of about 3 lakhs spent over the buildings and a lakh a year which is, I believe, the annual recurring charge, the condition of the lepers in the city of Madras has hardly improved. We find more or less the same number of lepers passing us everywhere in different parts of the town begging for bread and becoming a source of nuisance. At the same time apart from their nuisance, I wish to appeal to the House for merciful consideration of their distressful condition.

24th March 1926]

" Then with regard to the asylum at Calicut in the Malabar district, it is the one asylum the lepers have got for that area. The Government contribution to that asylum is only about 30 per cent. The municipality pays nothing and I do not know how much the district board pays. It says it has nothing to do with it, I suppose. At Mangalore we have got an asylum for which the Government pays Rs. 4-8-0 per mensem for each inmate. The municipality pays something like Rs. 500, but the district and local boards have stopped their contributions on the ground that that institution is semi-national. When I asked what the meaning of that expression was, I was told 'Look into the dictionary for the meaning'; and yet I must say that this is a very mysterious word. I think my hon. Friend, the Member for Chingleput, used that expression or something like that. But when I asked what it meant, I was told that I must look into the dictionary. When people are vague and are not earnest about doing the work, they will always tell us, when we ask the meaning of the policy underlying that word, that we should look into the dictionary. When I asked the President of the District Board what the meaning of the expression 'semi-national' was, he said that 'national means institution which is for the benefit of the whole of the Presidency, and 'semi-national' means partly for the benefit of the lepers of the Presidency and partly for the benefit of those of the district. It may refer even to the whole of India. That is the explanation given by the President of the District Board; he gave it to me in writing. Now, the District Board have stopped the contribution to this institution on the ground that it is semi-national in character. I asked the authorities of the asylum whether there are any inmates coming from outside, outside lepers, who have come from Malabar and elsewhere. And the answer was in the negative, that is, no lepers came from outside, and that all inmates were from within the district. Now in the district of South Kanara there are over 300 lepers, and in the whole Presidency the number of lepers according to the last census is about 1,500. And I believe in the hospital at Chingleput only 300 lepers are looked after. There are other asylums, one at Kumbakonam, and a few at other places, maintained mostly by Missionary bodies. They are very poorly aided by the Government and are leading a precarious life owing to the lukewarm support given by the Government. There are some district boards and municipalities helping them. But I think, Sir, in the matter of these lepers who, apart from their pitiable condition, are a source of danger to others on account of the infectious nature of their disease, and whose piteous condition evokes our sympathy, I think it is high time that Government adopt a forward policy of relief to lepers. I have been agitating for this relief since the very first meeting of this Council, and as yet the hon. the Chief Minister can only tell us that the Government are considering a comprehensive policy and an exhaustive settlement of the question. I may indeed give him credit for all this, but I have great doubt as to whether the Government are in earnest. The indifference of Government towards this matter can be seen from this. When I asked a question about lepers I referred therein to the Lepers Act and I received a demi-official letter asking me to mention the year in which that Act was passed. In fact they do not know whether it is a Government of India Act or a Madras Act. Then I replied that it was a Government of India Act of 1898. Again, they did not know that the Act was amended. The opinion in the old times was that leprosy was contagious in its later stages, but the present opinion is that in the early stage also it is contagious. I think the Act as amended is sufficiently comprehensive to enable the Government to take action."

[Mr. J. A. Saldanha]

* The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—"May I ask the hon. Member what the early stage of leprosy is? Does he mean the period of incubation?"

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"When it shows itself, or manifests itself I believe. The later period which is less infectious is the stage when the sores open. However, the Act will apply to both. The original Act of 1898 applied only to cases of leprosy at the later stage but in the present Act the words 'at a later stage' are omitted. Therefore it applies to all stages of the disease and Government can take action. I am at a loss to see from the answers given what further amendment the Act requires and what is the difficulty of Government to find the money and spend it on this object. I wonder how this one lakh is spent on this asylum near Chingleput, at Tirumani. I think this House must be anxious to know how this amount of 3 lakhs has been spent on buildings, if the buildings are completed, and if so, why 2 lakhs more are necessary to complete the buildings and how the annual contribution of one lakh is spent. And I suppose that this one lakh is sufficient for the relief of lepers of this city. It can be applied to the City of Madras, and if the scheme is worked, the City will be rid of lepers at all stages of the disease. And yet we find that the Government take no action. I think the policy of the Government in regard to this matter both from its financial point of view and from the meagre details that were supplied to us as to how the moneys were spent in the asylum near Chingleput and from the want of earnestness shown by Government and their callousness and indifference to the sufferings of the lepers and the danger of contagion to the public, is open to censure. I shall give one little instance to show how these lepers are a danger to others. Now these lepers are very persistent beggars. They come to the gate of the house and they open the gate even if it remains closed, and this will happen unless we lock the doors. They will open the gate with their hands which are full of sores and come into the house to beg. We can fancy the danger of contagion when that gate is again opened by healthy people. So, this is a nuisance and a danger to which hundreds of people at Mangalore are subject. I therefore appeal to the Government to take this question into their serious consideration and to take prompt steps to relieve the poor lepers and at the same time save us from the danger, the real danger, of the spread of the disease, which is now really spreading everywhere."

24th March 1926]

The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—"Mr. President, Sir, the leper asylum at Chayyur is in receipt of a capitation grant at the rate of Rs. 4-8-0 per mensem for every leper patient subject to a maximum of Rs. 8,000 a year. That rate, the rate of Rs. 4-8-0 is the rate at which grants to private leper asylums are distributed. The case of the Tirumani settlement is different. The Government had their own leper asylum at Rayapuram and have removed that asylum to Tirumani, and the liability of meeting the expenditure of the asylum is therefore on the Government, and the Government thought that by transferring the management to a Mission institution, it would be more economically conducted. We cannot therefore treat the case of Tirumani in the same manner as the case of other leper hospitals. In the case of private hospitals, grants are generally given at the rate of Rs. 4-8-0 per patient per mensem. The question of increasing this rate is under consideration. Sir, the hon. Member for South Kanara has charged Government with callous indifference in the matter of aiding private enterprise. I cannot understand how he is justified in levelling this charge against Government. He himself states that the Government have already spent 3 lakhs upon the construction of buildings for the leper settlement and they are spending more than a lakh of rupees a year. That statement is enough to answer the charge."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"What I said was that so much money is spent; the actual result is nil."

* The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—"It is not for the hon. Member to say that. It is for the people of Madras who have visited the institution, who have actually been there and seen how the work is being carried on, it is for them to pronounce an opinion on the result of the working of the settlement. It is not for the hon. Member for South Kanara to say that the settlement is not properly run. He has not visited the institution and he does not know what is being done there. I have inspected the asylum more than once. It is doing splendidly well. Then, Sir, he has asked the question as to whether leprosy is more contagious at the earlier stage or at a later stage. It is a matter for experts to answer that question. The hon. Member for South Kanara may have his own views on the subject."

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"I have no idea on the matter."

* The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—"He may have confidence in himself but the Government have confidence in their expert advisers."

* The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—"Mr. President, Sir, I remember having moved a resolution in the Pre-Reform Council recommending to the Government taking action immediately for segregating the lepers. Mr. Habibulla Sahib was then in charge of the department and he said that the resolution had all his sympathy and that early steps would be taken to provide accommodation for segregating the lepers. According to some investigation made—I do not remember the year—in a particular year up to that moment it was found that there were something like 11,000 lepers, 4,000 or so of whom were engaged in selling eatable articles. I am sure such a state of things continues even to-day. But what do you find? It is said that some settlement has come into existence in Chingleput. It provides accommodation for about 300 men which is a mere handful. What is this number when compared to 11,000? What is the effective step that has been taken in this direction? That question had not been answered. It is true that Government Members rely on experts to decide at what stage of the evolution of this disease it is infectious. We have literature and we have articles written by experts in this matter and I have personally heard, Sir, from the Secretary of the All-India Leprosy Association, who is interested in devising means for the eradication of this disease, something about this disease. Unless the hon. Minister says what steps he has taken for providing more accommodation and what steps he has taken for preventing lepers from selling articles of consumption, I believe the answer will not be satisfactory. Further, the hon. Member has told us that the Leper Act has not been extended to this province. Without extending the Act I do not think any effective steps can be taken either by Government or the local bodies. These are certain aspects which I would seriously place before the hon. Minister for his consideration and prompt action."

[The Raja of Ramnad]

* The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—"The Raja of Ramnad is perfectly right when he said that until the operation of the Leper Act is extended to Madras it will not be possible to control the movements of lepers and prevent the unfortunates from selling the eatable articles. But the question of the operation of the Act depends upon the availability of accommodation for leper patients in the asylum. That question is under consideration. The Government are taking steps. The existence of the Settlement at Tirumani bears testimony to their earnestness in the matter. They are now considering the possibility of four more settlements in different parts of the Presidency. Until the accommodation is made available for leper patients, it will not be possible to extend the operation of the Leper Act in this Presidency."

* The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—"May I just ask whether there is any provision in the budget for providing more accommodation this year or next year?"

* The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL :—"Provision can only be made when the schemes of settlements are ready for execution and as there are no schemes and as the whole question is still under consideration the Government could not provide any funds in the coming year's budget."

Mr. F. NOYCE :—"There is one point I should like to bring to the notice of this House in connexion with the motion now before it and that is the work which the British Empire Leprosy Relief Association may be expected to do in regard to the treatment of this leper problem. As the House is probably aware, a sum of about 19½ lakhs had been subscribed to that Association at the beginning of January last. It is, I think, the intention of the Association to use this money mainly on research, the provision of short courses of training in the diagnosis of leprosy and general propaganda work. It is possible that a sum of money may be placed at the disposal of this Presidency for converting some of our asylums into hospitals and providing infirmaries. I only say that there is this possibility. Whether it will be effective or not remains to be seen. As the Central Association has still to decide how the money is to be used, we cannot predict anything now."

[24th March 1926]

* The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—"Since the Secretary of the Local Self-Government Department has referred to the Central Association, I am in a position to say that they find themselves absolutely helpless without the extension of the Act to this province. I have heard this from no other than the Secretary of the Association Rev. Oldrieve. I therefore wish to say—I won't say shelving—that to expect from the Central Association any appreciable work in this province is not at all a practical proposition. Any effective step that ought to be taken must be by Government and the first step to take is the extension of the Act. At the same time provision ought to be made for accommodating patients."

* Rao Sahib P. V. GOPALAN :—"I would earnestly appeal to the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government to give more liberal funds to this leper asylum at Cheyyur for the reason that many deserving cases are shut out for want of room. The medical treatment now carried on there is according to the latest method of Dr. Muir. We were assured sometime back by the hon. the Minister that it was contemplated to get some people trained under Dr. Muir and the trained men will be touring in the different parts of the Presidency. Since the private associations are doing that work it is but fair that Government should help them. Since this association has got more than fifty asylums in India, it will be quite impossible to support it themselves unless liberal grants are given. A sum of Rs. 134 has been received as contributions to this asylum from all India and the Government of Madras give them only Rs. 6,709, and the mission has to bear Rs. 9,935. I therefore make this appeal to the hon. the Minister for Local Self-Government that he would always have a sympathy for those unfortunate brethren of ours and that he would sympathetically consider the institution at Cheyyur for its maintenance."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

* Mr. J. A. SALDANHA :—"There remains my motion, Sir."

* The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"The hon. Member said he would only make a speech."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR :—"I beg to move

'that the allotment of Rs. 10,85,400 for mufassal hospitals and dispensaries be reduced by Rs. 101.'

"I suggest, Sir, that the dispensary which was for a long time in existence in Kottur in the Kudligi taluk of the Bellary district may be reopened. There was a long felt want for a medical institution in that area. In 1914 Government came to the help of the district board and allowed a dispensary to be opened at Kottur. It was working satisfactorily for a number of years. Then there was a reorganization of the taluk boards and one taluk board which was financially considered to be in an unsatisfactory position in order to retain its place, recommended this drastic change, viz., the closing down of dispensaries and other useful services in the area. Now the taluk board has been abolished and I appeal to the Minister to see if he cannot find his way to re-establish this dispensary at that place. For the matter of that, Sir, there are many taluk boards in the province which are financially less sound than the taluk board to which exception was taken and when the abolition of the board was decided upon it is the poor people who were put to difficulties and not the taluk board as such. I once again appeal to the hon. Minister to re-establish the dispensary."

[24th March 1926]

The hon. the RAJA of PANAGAL:—"The dispensary at Kottur was abolished with effect from the 30th July 1924. The dispensary was abolished because the taluk board was not financially in a position to maintain it. The abolition is due to the poverty of the taluk board. The president of the district board asked the Government to cancel the taluk board's resolution abolishing the dispensary but Government could not do so as they had no power. It is true, Sir, that it is the duty of the taluk board to provide for medical relief for the people living in its area but the Government cannot interfere in the matter and force them to open medical institutions. If to-day the dispensary is reopened there it will earn the usual grant, at 10 per cent of the pay of the sub-assistant surgeon or 22½ per cent of the pay of the assistant surgeon employed there. Probably owing to the still unsatisfactory financial condition of the taluk board it might not be possible for the board to open a dispensary but it might open a rural dispensary. If the present taluk board of Hosur opens a rural dispensary at Kottur the Government will be glad to give the honorarium of Rs. 400 or Rs. 600 for a sub-assistant or an assistant surgeon as the board may be prepared to appoint."

* Mr. A. RANGANATHA MUDALIYAR:—"I am much obliged to the hon. Minister for his kind assurance. I take it that in addition to those that have already been sanctioned he is willing to consider favourably an application for a dispensary at Kottur."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

12
noon.

* Mr. K. SITARAMA REDDI:—"I move that the allotment of Rs. 10,85,400 for mufassal hospitals and dispensaries be reduced by Rs. 1."

"I wanted by this out, Sir, to know from the Government what exactly they propose to do with these taluk headquarter medical institutions. As matters stand at present, they are mostly hospitals, and there are some few dispensaries in these taluk headquarter stations. These hospitals and dispensaries are under the control of either the municipalities or the taluk boards. The district boards have more or less nothing to do with them. The taluk boards have to spend enormous sums on them. It must also be said that recently the Government came to the rescue of these taluk boards and municipalities and paid out of its own funds the pay of the medical subordinates of these institutions. Therefore, the taluk boards and municipalities have now to incur charges in connexion with the lower subordinates, viz., the midwife, compounder and other menial servants of the institutions and also the cost of medicines. Even now, these charges are very high. I will quote one or two instances to illustrate the position. For example, in the Tindivanam hospital—I am referring to that instance to show how enormous these items of minor expenditure are—we have to spend about Rs. 6,000 nearly in the shape of pay of those lower people and for medicine. Again, in Tirukoyilur it comes to about Rs. 4,000. Roughly, we may take it that the taluk board has to spend about Rs. 5,000 to Rs. 6,000 on every such institution. It must be remembered in this connexion that these institutions are mostly situated either in the municipalities or in unions, and under the Act which we have now in force, the union cannot contribute to the expenditure of these institutions. But as a matter of fact I know from figures that at least 90 per cent of the patients treated in these institutions are coming from the unions or the municipalities, and so I do not see why the taluk boards should be burdened with the charges of these institutions. Besides, these institutions, whatever amounts these taluk boards may now spend on them, are not properly maintained. My scheme therefore will be to provincialise these taluk institutions, the whole charges including the pay of the menial staff and the cost of medicines being met from provincial funds, and I may say that the Government with better finances than these taluk boards may be able to run these institutions much better, thereby relieving the taluk boards of this expenditure of money which they may spend on—I would not say more legitimate but—other equally legitimate items. I say these taluk boards are not bound legally to maintain these institutions because these institutions do not benefit the ratepayers of these taluk boards. According to my scheme the taluk headquarter hospital will be a central institution which may receive serious patients from institutions run by taluk boards or from other local institutions and these institutions may not take up operation and other serious cases. Rural dispensaries or other institutions maintained from taluk board funds may send their serious cases to the taluk headquarter hospital and the rural dispensaries may confine their attention merely to the treatment of out-patients without taking up major cases involving operation, etc. The taluk boards will thus be able to release that money for other expenditure. It was rumoured, Sir, that some time back there was such a scheme under contemplation by the Government, and, if so, I do not know why it has not reached the stage of fruition. If the Government propose to consider such a scheme, or if the Government say that they have not yet dropped that question, I would not press this motion."

24th March 1926]

[Mr. K. Sitarama Reddi]

* The hon. the RAJA OF PANAGAL:—"Mr. President, as matters stand, so far as the taluk headquarter hospital is concerned, the Government pay the entire salary of the medical officers, and the rest of the expenditure, consisting of the cost of medicines, the pay of midwife, compounder, etc., is being incurred by the taluk board itself. The Government have for a long time been considering to lay down the principles upon which the grant should be made to hospitals other than district headquarter hospitals. Only recently at a meeting of the Public Health Advisory Committee, this subject was discussed, and the Surgeon-General outlined a scheme. According to that scheme, the entire cost of the taluk headquarter hospital should be borne by the Government, and the cost of maintaining the other medical institutions should be borne by the local bodies. This scheme is now being considered. If the Government take up the management of the taluk headquarter hospitals and aid local boards with subsidies for rural dispensaries, the boards may not find it difficult to finance and maintain the other institutions."

The motion was by leave withdrawn.

Mr. P. T. RAJAN:—"The hon. the Raja of Panagal told us that there is a proposal to take up the control of taluk headquarter hospitals. What I would like to suggest is that all the hospitals should be taken control of by the Government, and it should not be left to the district boards or taluk boards to have anything to do with hospitals and dispensaries except by way of contributions towards their maintenance. I therefore formally move—that the allotment of Rs. 5,03,900 for Government Medical officers lent to local bodies be reduced by Rs. 100."

[24th March 1926]

Mr. A. RAMASWAMI MUDALIYAR :—"Mr. President, I wish to say a few words in connexion with the motion that has been moved. This motion, Sir, tries to raise the question of the control that is now exercised over the medical subordinates employed in local boards. According to a recent interpretation of the Act, it is now well understood that medical subordinates of the rank of sub-assistant surgeons employed by local boards are entirely under their control. The result of it is that a great many sub-assistant surgeons are being thrown out of employment, a most unfair system, and I do not wish to say on whom such an incidence of unfairness lies. The Government recruited a number of young men to the Medical department as sub-assistant surgeons with the prospect of permanent service and a pension according to the regulations after 25 or 30 years' service. But after six, seven and sometimes even ten years of service, the local bodies under the new powers under the amended Local Boards Act are telling these sub-assistant surgeons that they do not want their services and are giving them notice to find employment elsewhere. These sub-assistant surgeons find they cannot get employment elsewhere, and sometimes even after fifteen years of service they are cast adrift. Now, I do not want to say anything with regard to the progress of local boards, and I am sure my hon. Friend below the gangway (the Raja of Ramnad) will, as he has done before, so ably defend the position of the taluk boards and district boards. What I wish to emphasize is in regard to this unfairness, essential unfairness against these medical subordinates. It is not my point to attribute it either to one party or the other. What is the position? Is the Government going to look with equanimity at a number of these people being cast adrift? And I do not wish to say anything as to how presidents of district boards and chairmen of municipal councils appoint their subordinates in their places. But I do think that the evil—and I consider it an evil that men after putting in a number of years of service should be suddenly sent home, while they were entertained with the prospect of being made permanent and of earning a proportionate pension—I do think the evil is far-reaching, and the Government ought to see that these medical subordinates are not sent home after a number of years of service, while they had held out to them prospects of permanent service and pension. Those medical men on higher pay have had their prospects and pay and all other things assured to them over and over again, sometimes statutorily and sometimes by rules and regulations. I cannot understand the Government, which is so very solicitous about the higher employed staff, being so absolutely—I do not use the objectionable word 'callous'—so absolutely indifferent to the lot of these poor people. Now, Sir, it seems to me that at least this could be done, that whenever a man has been sent out by the local board, and he could not find employment in Government service, a certain amount of pensionary contribution at least should be paid by the local board. I say this with the greatest amount of restraint because I see the Finance Secretary opposite looking at me lest the finances of the Government should be encroached upon. When I say at least a certain amount of pensionary contribution ought to be given, the contribution should be proportionate to the number of years of service. I do think that the condition is growing so acute among this large staff of well-deserving medical subordinates, and the Government is bound to lend its hand in settling their grievances in this direction."

[24th March 1926]

* The RAJA OF RAMNAD :—"Sir, it is a matter of great surprise to me that every day my hon. Friend from Madura, Mr. Rajan, should bring forward some reactionary proposal. Yesterday he suggested the shifting of the Queen Mary's College (laughter) from such a healthy locality as the beach to such an unhealthy locality as the bank of the Cooum in Nungambakam."

Mr. P. T. RAJAN :—"On a point of order, Sir. I daresay Nungambakam is a very healthy place."

The hon. the PRESIDENT :—"Order, order. It is not a point of order."
