Remarks by — in reply to a point of order raised by Mr. T. N. Ramakrishna Reddi: The usual parliamentary practice, when a motion to take into consideration the Public Accounts Committee Report is made, is that no question is put after discussion and the motion, that the Report of the Public Accounts Committee be taken into consideration, is simply made with a view to giving an opportunity to the House to have a full and thorough discussion on the points arising within the Report of the Public Accounts Committee and no question is put. The question relating to excess grant has been coupled with the first part in the particular case on which the point of order has been raised, because it arises out of the Report with which the first part deals, and so no question will be put relating to the first part. The only question that will be put will be that the Assembly do approve the excess expenditure. 1913-14.

PRESIDENT, MR. (THE HONOURABLE SIR SHANMUKHAM CHETTY)—contd.

Question re transfer of the control of the Badrinath Temple to the — of the Tehri Estate. 1032-34.

RULING(S) BY MR. PRESIDENT (THE HONOURABLE SIR SHANMUKHAM CHETTY)—
Bill(s)—
As Standing Orders are silent on the point as to what kind of amendments (restricted or of a general character) can be moved to the motion of a Mover of a Bill for eliciting public opinion by circulation, it is for the Chair to decide what amendments to such motions would be in order. 210.
Even though one particular clause of a — may be ultra vires of the Legislature, that does not make the whole — ultra vires. 1188.
Even though the provisions of a new amending — may be inconsistent with any or all of the provisions of any Statute of the Indian Legislature, that will not make it ultra vires. 707.
It is not within the jurisdiction of the Indian Legislature to make a law for the conduct of a subject of an Indian State for an offence committed within the jurisdiction of that State. 1085.
The Legislative Assembly has no power to enact any — for punishing offences committed by non-British Indian subjects outside the territory of British India. 1221.

The mere fact, that in a — before the House there is one clause on which there is doubt with regard to the jurisdiction of the Indian Legislature, need not debar the House from discussing the —. 1089.
The powers of the Indian Legislature are defined in the Govt. of India Act, and not in the Queen's Proclamation, and if an Honourable Member wants to draw the attention of the Chair to the fact that a certain — is ultra vires of the Indian Legislature he must draw attention to the relevant portion of the Government of India Act and not to the Queen's Proclamation. 994.
When a Honourable Member, at the time when another Honourable Member is making a motion in connection with a —, wants to raise a point of order, he shall do so after the Honourable Member, making the motion has finished his speech. 993.
While replying to a debate, Honourable Members cannot attempt to traverse the whole ground again in detail. 411-12.
Closure—
So far as closing of a debate is concerned, the Chair, even without the application of a closure motion, can always put the question, when the Chair is satisfied that there has been a full and fair debate. Therefore, applying that principle, the Chair does not think that it is bound to put the closure to a division, when only one or two Honourable Members want a division. 1819.
Indian Medical Council Bill—
If the Law Member of the Government of India is a Member of the House when the motion to refer a Bill to Select Committee is made and even if, in the meantime, the personnel of Office is changed, there is no necessity to make a specific motion that the new incumbent of the Office be nominated to the Select Committee. 55.
Joint Committee—
This House can only recommend to the Council of State that a Joint Committee be set up, and this House has no power to restrict the right of the Council of State to determine the composition of that Committee. 1508.

RULING(S) BY MR. PRESIDENT (THE HONOURABLE SIR SHANMUKHAM CHETTY)—contd.
Joint or Select Committee—
A Committee of this House, whether a Joint Committee or a Select Committee, is set up by a motion of this House, and every Honourable Member, whoever he is, has got the right to sit on that Committee, if he is elected to that Committee, and no Resolution of this House, can debar an individual from sitting on a Committee like that. 1508.
Jurisdiction of the House—
This House cannot have jurisdiction over acts committed by Indian State subjects in an Indian State. 1088.
Miscellaneous—
A matter which is appealable must be considered as sub judice and, as such, cannot be discussed in the House. 1120.
An Honourable Member who makes a maiden speech must be given a patient hearing and not be interrupted. 383.
Honourable Members cannot criticise the action of His Excellency the Viceroy. 997.
It is no defamation to call a person a "Bombay Man". 1068.
No question can be asked in this House with regard to a foreign territory. 683.
The jurisdiction of the Indian Legislature is covered by the provisions of the Government of India Act which is in force for the time being. 1086.
Motion for Adjournment—
So far as the House is concerned, especially in the matter of a —, neither the Chair nor the House will take notice of any private correspondence that takes place between one Honourable Member and any Member of Government. 555.
The answer to a question by itself cannot be sufficient ground for moving the adjournment of the House unless the subject-matter of the question itself conforms to the rules and regulations relating to the adjournment motion. 783.
The policy of the Local Government or the Central Government, in administering an ordinary law of the land, is not a matter of urgency within the meaning of the rules, and as such, the — re forfeiture by Government of the Free Press Journal deposit is not in order. 1120.

Motion for Adjournment—contd.
Though generally the policy of the Government in relation to a particular matter cannot be considered to be one of recent occurrence, occasions may arise when the policy and attitude of Government may become a matter of urgent public importance. 1391.
Point(s) of Order—
A Member of the Executive Council of the Governor General, who is not a Member of the Legislative Assembly and who exercises his right of addressing the Assembly on any occasion, has also the right of raising any — during the debate in which he takes part. 1692-93.
There cannot be a — when the division is on. 1227.
When the Chair has asked for an explanation from an Honourable Member, no — ought to be raised until that explanation has been given. 1088.
Question(s)—
Discussion cannot take place on a —. 255.
When an Honourable Member for the Government plainly states that he is not prepared to disclose the stages passed through by the Government in considering a proposal, it is no use for an Honourable Member pressing for the information by supplementary —. 88.
Reply to a debate—
Honourable Members will not be in order in replying to a debate on a motion which the House has already passed. 1544.
Untouchability Abolition Bill—
Whatever might have been said in the Queen's Proclamation, it is not a part of the written or unwritten law of Great Britain and Ireland and, therefore, it is not covered by section 65 (2) of the Government of India Act. The — is, therefore, intra vires of the Indian Legislature. 995.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

MAINTENANCE OF THE FAMILY OF HYDER ALI AND TIPU SULTAN.

1. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Are Government aware that a scheme was framed for permanent provision for the descendants of Hyder Ali and Tipu Sultan from generation to generation ?

(b) Is it a fact that the said scheme, i.e., the Capitalization Scheme of 1860, could not be carried into effect ? If so, why ?

(c) Is it a fact that it was approved to make the provision operative for a lifetime only ?

(d) Is it a fact that by the said scheme the grandsons and the then fatherless great-grandsons of Tipu Sultan were recipients of the corpus of the fund and, in order to give effect to the same, two trust deeds were duly executed ?

(e) Are Government aware that the said trust deeds were declared invalid by the Honourable the High Court of Judicature and that within a few years the whole of the said funds were squandered by the recipients and that they were left heavily encumbered and that the beneficiaries could not get any benefit out of the capital stock ?

(f) Are Government aware that on account of the loss of capital stock the family of Hyder Ali and Tipu Sultan was absolutely ruined and that even their representation in 1902 was met with feeble response from His Majesty's Government ?

(g) Are Government prepared to consider the desirability of making some provision for the family of Hyder Ali and Tipu Sultan consistent with their position in life and their descent from a sovereign ?

(h) Is it a fact that under the Mysore Treaty an annual sum of rupees seven lakhs had been set apart from the revenues of certain districts which had been incorporated in the dominions of the East India Company to provide effectually for the suitable maintenance of the whole family of Hyder Ali and Tipu Sultan and also on the basis of various resolutions, despatches, etc., issued by the authorities with reference to the Mysore family ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : With your permission, Sir, I will answer questions Nos. 1 and 2 together. In reply to the Honourable Member's first question, the Government of India have under their consideration a memorial from the descendants of Hyder Ali and Tipu Sultan in which, among other points, the questions (a) to (h) raised by the Honourable Member have been put up for the consideration of Government. As no decision has yet been reached on this memorial the Government consider that they cannot appropriately answer the questions raised by the Honourable Member without prejudicing any decisions to be arrived at on the memorial.

In reply to part (a) of the Honourable Member's second question, I would refer him to the answer I have just given.

(b) The case of Mohammad Nasiruddin, great great-grandson of Tipu Sultan, will be considered in connection with the general question of the treatment of the descendants of Hyder Ali and Tipu Sultan which is under consideration of Government with reference to the memorial presented by these descendants.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the Honourable Member be pleased to say what was the original scheme by which certain help or subsidy was given to the descendants of Hyder Ali and Tipu Sultan and whether any funds were passed over to their descendants to be squandered ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : I shall require notice of that question.

Kunwar Hajee Ismail Ali Khan : Will Government lay on the table a copy of the original scheme ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : I should require notice of that question also.

Mr. Amar Nath Dutt : What was the contribution of Hyder Ali and Tipu Sultan towards the building up of Indian civilisation and culture ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : I think the Honourable Member can perhaps judge that best for himself.

Mr. Amar Nath Dutt : I could not find anything in history. I thought Government might have something on that subject in their archives.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : We will not put any supplementary question if the Honourable Member is not in a position to answer them, but I would like to know if any funds were provided for the descendants ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : I can only repeat that I cannot give this information at present. I should require notice of that question.

MAINTENANCE OF THE FAMILY OF HYDER ALI AND TIPU SULTAN.

†2. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Are Government aware that the members of the third and fourth generations of Tipu Sultan submitted a combined memorial to Government on the 16th October, 1930, laying their grievances before Government and praying for certain relief on the grounds that their claim was based on the distinct pledges given by Government to maintain and provide for the Mysore family at least upto the fourth generation and even beyond, and more particularly on account of the failure and frustration of the Capitalization Scheme of 1860 for which the beneficiaries were not responsible ? If so, are Government prepared to consider it favourably ?

memorialists) is in receipt of a poor pension of Rs. 50 per month only from Government ? If so, do Government propose to raise his pension and also treat other members of the Mysore family standing in the same degree of relationship to Tipu Sultan in the same way ?.

STATE PRISONERS IN CUSTODY.

3. Mr. B. N. Misra : Will Government be pleased to state :

(a) the total number of State Prisoners in custody

(i) under Regulation III of 1818, and

(ii) the Bengal Ordinance ; and

(b) (i) the total number of State Prisoners getting no allowance at all for their families and dependants ;

(ii) the total number of prisoners getting upto Rs. 600 per annum ;

(iii) the total number of State Prisoners getting Rs. 600 to Rs. 1,000 per annum for the upkeep of their families and their dependants ;

(iv) the total number of prisoners getting Rs. 1,000 to Rs. 2,400 per annum for the upkeep of their families and their dependants ; and

(v) the total number getting more than Rs. 2,400 per annum ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) (i) 36.

(ii) The Honourable Member presumably refers to the Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act, 1930. The number of persons detained under the Act was 1,439 on the 31st July.

(b) (i) 16. One case is under consideration.

(v) 3.

The figures relate to State Prisoners under Regulation III of 1818. I regret I am unable to give similar information regarding the family allowances of detenus whose cases are dealt with by the Government of Bengal under the provisions of the Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act.

Kunwar Hajee Ismail Ali Khan : What is the maximum amount which a State Prisoner is getting ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am afraid I have not got the figures with me. Perhaps the Honourable Member will put down a question on the subject.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the Honourable Member be pleased to say how many prisoners in each province there are, who have been detained under Regulation III of 1818 ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I have not the information with me.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Are there any rules providing what allowances should be given ? Are there any other conditions to be gone through ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. The allowances are given in accordance with what Government judge to be reasonable.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Does that depend on the will or whim of the officer who gives them ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : It is laid down in the Regulation itself that Government shall make such provision as is reasonable.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Have the Government framed any rules on the subject ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : It is not possible to frame rules as to how much allowance should be given to individuals in consideration of their individual circumstances ?

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Do they get allowances on the same level or do they differ ? Is any differentiation made in the allowances to be given to State Prisoners ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think if the Honourable Member had listened to the answers which I gave to his original question, he would have understood that allowances are given on different scales to different prisoners and I enumerated in accordance with his requirements the allowances given under five separate heads.

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : Who is to decide the amount of the allowances ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The Government.

Sardar Sant Singh : Does the list of the men who have been detained under Regulation III of 1818 include the Chiefs of Native States who have been detained ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. My answer refers to those who are detained in custody in connection with revolutionary movements.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Is it the Local Government or the Central Government that make the allowances ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : By the Central Government.

Sardar Sant Singh : The answer is not clear to me. My question is whether the Chiefs of Native States who have been detained are included in the number 36 you gave.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : My answer was " No ".

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Who decides the amount of the allowances in each case ? Does the Honourable Member himself go into each individual case ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think it is fair to say that each case comes up to me.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : What are the considerations that generally determine the amount of allowance in each particular case ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Very largely, the family circumstances whether it is necessary to provide for the families of the persons detained.

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : If a detenu dies in custody, do the Government make any provision for the family ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Where do you get your information from as to the circumstances of the family of the person detained—from the C. I. D. ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : We get a report from the Local Government.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Is the Local Government itself aware of each individual case or do they depend upon the C. I. D. ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The Local Government depend upon their officers, as they ordinarily must.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Do they depend ultimately on the police officer in charge of the particular locality where the detenu was residing before arrest ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Not necessarily.

Mr. S. G. Jog : In view of the fact that the Regulation is more than a century old, will Government take steps to revise it ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : We have no such proposal under consideration.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Has the Honourable Member received any representation complaining about the inadequacy of these allowances ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think we have received a number of representations at various times. Any representations received are always examined.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Has any such representation resulted in any enhancement of the allowance ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I should require notice of that question.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know from the Honourable Member if it is impossible for the Government to lay down a scale ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I should be very glad if the Honourable Member will suggest what he has in mind.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : I only know this that the Honourable Member has not followed my question. The Honourable Member said that it depended upon the discretion of the officer who gave them these allowances. I am asking whether it is not possible that the officer may frame a scale of the allowances to be given and that those should be continued ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I said, Sir, that it depended on the individual circumstances of the detenu. I do not quite understand how the Honourable Member proposes to tabulate those individual circumstances.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Next question.

SEPARATE MUSEUM FOR ORISSA.

4. Mr. B. N. Misra : (a) Will Government be pleased to state :

(i) the amount of money set apart for archæological work in the various provinces of India ;

(ii) the amount set apart for Bihar and Orissa ; and

(iii) the amount spent every year in Orissa ?

(b) Has the amount spent in Orissa been found sufficient for the purposes of the archæological findings in Orissa ?

(c) Will Government be pleased to state the place in Orissa where the Archæological Department has worked ?

(d) Do Government propose to institute a separate museum for Orissa which is going to have a separate Province of its own ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : (a) and (b). If the Honourable Member will kindly indicate the years for which the information is required, I shall endeavour to obtain it for him.

(c) The principal monuments where special repairs have been carried out are the Black Pagoda at Konarak, Rock Edicts of Asoka at Dhauli, Raja Rani and other temples at Bhuvanesvara, the caves of Khandagiri and Udaigiri, etc.

(d) 'Museums' are a provincial subject under the Devolution Rules, and it will be for the new provincial Government of Orissa to consider whether or not to establish a museum.

DISSATISFACTION OF ORIYAS ON ACCOUNT OF NON-INCLUSION OF CERTAIN AREAS IN THE PROPOSED ORISSA PROVINCE.

5. Mr. B. N. Misra : (a) Are Government aware of the dissatisfaction of the Oriyas on account of the non-inclusion of (i) the Singbhum District (Bihar and Orissa), (ii) the southern portion of Midnapur (Hijli District in Bengal), (iii) Parlakhimedi, Tarala, Mandasa, Tekkali of the Ganjam District, (iv) the Jaipur Agency of the Vizagapatam District, and (v) Fuljhar of the Central Provinces ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to state the number of meetings that have communicated to Government the dissatisfaction felt by the Oriyas ?

(c) Are Government aware that there is a very influential section among the Oriyas who say that unless all the areas demanded by the Oriyas are included they will not accept the province ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : (a) and (b). Up to the 31st July, 1933, the Government of India have received 87 representations protesting against the omission from the proposed Orissa province of all or some of the areas referred to by the Honourable Member. Not all these representations purport to be the outcome of meetings held ; some are from individuals and others from local associations or bodies. 80 out of the 87 representations received deal with Ganjam areas.

(c) Government are not aware of such an attitude on the part of any influential section among the Oriyas.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Is it a fact that the separation of the Orissa province has affected four provinces, that is, Madras, Bengal, Central Provinces and Bihar ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I think that is quite correct.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Was there any Muslim member on the Orissa Boundary Committee ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : My Honourable friend has put a question on that point. When I come to it, I will give him a reply.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : What step was taken by Government to know the Muslim point of view about the boundary of Orissa ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I have no doubt that the Committee appointed conducted a very complete inquiry and received representations from individuals interested.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Are Government aware that the claim of the Oriyas to the inclusion of Singbhum in their new province is quite unjustified ?

(No answer.)

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Are Government aware that the Committees which were appointed in this connection have unanimously rejected the claim of the Oriyas for the inclusion of Singbhum in their new province ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : My Honourable friend may refer to the reports of the Committees concerned.

Mr. Amar Nath Dutt : May I put a question to the questioner himself ? May I know the grounds on which the Oriyas have asked for the inclusion of the southern portion of Midnapore in the province of Orissa ? Is it on the ground of conquest or what else ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : That question is not addressed to me, Sir.

Mr. Amar Nath Dutt : If it is not on the ground of conquest, will he kindly state whether he will claim up to the northern portion of Burdwan, that is, Katwa ?

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it not a fact that on ethnological, historical, linguistic and racial grounds Singbhum cannot be included in the new province of Oriyas ?

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : To whom is the question addressed ?

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Anybody can answer it—either the questioner himself, or the Government Member. (Laughter.)

Maulvi Muhammad Shafee Daoodi : May I know whether the protest made by Oriyas includes Singbhum also definitely ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I think so, but I am not quite definite upon that point.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Are not Government aware that the people of the Midnapore district strongly protested against their inclusion in the newly created province of Orissa ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I take my Honourable friend's word for that.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it not a fact that the people of Singbhum also protested against the proposed inclusion of Singbhum in the Oriya province ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : It is likely.

DIFFICULTIES AND HARDSHIPS OF PILGRIMS RETURNED FROM HEDJAZ.

6. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : (a) Has the attention of Government been drawn to the statement of Mrs. Mariam H. Shariff Hussain, given to the Associated Press on May 6th, 1933, that there were innumerable difficulties and hardships in the way of pilgrims who had just returned from Hedjaz ?

(b) Are Government aware that the disembarkation at Jeddah is very troublesome and that the belongings of pilgrims are mixed up while unloading the same, causing great inconvenience to the pilgrims ?

(c) Do Government propose to take any steps for the thorough reformation of the Muallims ? If so, what steps ?

(d) Are Government aware that the pilgrims who travel third class in steamers have meagre arrangements for fresh air, water, latrines and bathrooms and are supplied with very coarse and unsatisfactory food by hotels on board the steamers ?

(e) If so, will Government be pleased to state what steps the Haj Committee have recommended to guard against such inconveniences, and what steps do Government propose to take in the matter ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : (a) Government have seen the report of the statement made by one Mariam Khatun, wife of Hafiz Sharif Husain, which appeared in the Aljamiat of the 16th May, 1933.

(b) In order to minimise such difficulties Government approved, as an experimental measure during the last season, of the introduction of an arrangement by which the shipping Company undertook responsibility for the transport of passengers and their luggage from ship to shore and vice versa in return for a fixed sum of money. This arrangement will be continued, if the reports, which have not yet been received from the authorities at Jeddah, indicate that it proved successful.

(c) As the Honourable Member is already aware, a Bill to regulate the activities of persons who offer to assist pilgrims to the Hedjaz was introduced in this House and referred to a Select Committee. Further action to be taken in regard to this Bill is under the consideration of Government.

(d) and (e). The question of improving the arrangements on board the pilgrim ships has for some time engaged the careful attention of Government. A report of the Haj Inquiry Committee which deals, inter alia, with this subject will be found in the Library of the House. It is probably within the memory of the Honourable Member that in the light of the recommendations made by this Committee, the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1923, was amended during the last Legislative Session. A draft of statutory rules under the Amending Act has been prepared and will soon be published. It is expected that the rules will come into force before the commencement of the next pilgrim season.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state whether there is any recommendation in connection with part (b) of this question in the confidential report of the Haj Inquiry Committee ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : My Honourable friend seems to assume that there is a confidential report.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Do Government suggest that there is no confidential report by the Haj Inquiry Committee ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : So far as I know.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Was any item of the confidential report of the Haj Inquiry Committee considered by the Standing Haj Committee on Hedjaz ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : My Honourable friend is a member of the Haj Committee and if any confidential matters were discussed by the Committee, I hope he will, as a member of that Committee, treat them as confidential. (Laughter.)

Kunwar Hajee Ismail Ali Khan : In view of the fact that this House has passed the Port Haj Committee Bill to remove such difficulties of the pilgrims, may I know what steps Government have taken and when these Committees will come into existence ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : My Honourable friend is aware that Port Haj Committees have to be set up by the Local Governments. We have addressed Local Governments and have impressed upon them the desirability of bringing these Haj Committees into being before the next season starts.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Is it a fact that minutes of the proceedings of the Standing Haj Committee are confidential ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : My Honourable friend as a member of that Committee ought to be aware as well as I am of the procedure which is followed by that Committee and the conditions under which its proceedings are recorded.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Is it not a fact that several portions of that minute were referred on the floor of the House by the Honourable Members at the time of the discussion of the Merchant Shipping Act ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : I do not recollect having read verbatim anything from the proceedings of the Haj Committee.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will the Honourable Member be pleased to see the debates ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : It is open to my Honourable friend to contradict me after referring to the debates.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the Honourable Member be pleased to say if there is any truth in the allegations made by Mrs. Mariam ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : Well, Sir, the statement covers very wide ground and I daresay that there is an element of truth here and there.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May we, then, know that there are difficulties which have to be overcome ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : Sir, I have never suggested that there are no difficulties that have not to be overcome.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know, therefore, if there is any Committee or any persons deputed to take care of the luggage of the pilgrims when they arrive at Jeddah ? Is there any arrangement at present to vouchsafe the difficulty that is pointed out by Mrs. Mariam ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : If the Honourable member had followed the answer which I gave to part (b) of his question, he would have appreciated the fact that we have made arrangements which are being tried, and, on receipt of the report of the working of those arrangements during the last Haj season, Government will decide what further steps, if any, are necessary.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I concisely know what are the arrangements ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : With your permission, I will read the answer again :

"The shipping company undertook responsibility for the transport of passengers and their luggage from ship to shore."

Mr. Muhammad Azhar Ali : Did the Honourable Member make enquiries about the complaints made by Mrs. Mariam H. Shariff Hussain ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : No such enquiry was necessary, because most of the complaints made by the lady had already been dealt with by the Haj Enquiry Committee.

RELEASE OF MAHATMA GANDHI.

7. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : (a) Will Government be pleased to state if any move was made by the Indian National Congress or by any other public men for the release of Mahatma Gandhi ?

(b) What are the grounds and conditions on which Mahatma Gandhi has been released ?

(c) Are Government in a position to state that the Civil Disobedience Movement has been withdrawn ?

(d) Was Mahatma Gandhi or any Congressman given to understand that the Government would not consider the Civil Disobedience Movement withdrawn merely by its suspension ? If so, what was the response ? If not, why not ?

(e) Were there any conditions laid down for the release of political prisoners ? If so, what ?

(f) Were these conditions brought to the notice of Mahatma Gandhi when he suspended the Civil Disobedience Movement ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) to (f). I think the Honourable Member's question was drafted some time ago and refers to conditions now out of date. I do not think there is anything I can add to the Government communiqués and the various statements issued by Mr. Gandhi and Mr. Aney, which the Honourable Member has no doubt read.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know whether Government are aware that Mahatma Gandhi said that if he was allowed an interview he would place facts of such nature that they would be acceptable to Government ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Mr. Gandhi made some statement of that sort, but when he was asked exactly what he meant I think he made it clear that he had nothing definite in his mind, but that he intended to rely on the inspiration of the moment.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Inspirations many times are not wrong.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I have every respect for inspiration.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Was Mahatma Gandhi actually asked as to what he had to say at the interview ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. We did not pursue that question.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Was it not fair to give an opportunity to Mahatma Gandhi to unfold what he had in his mind ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The position of Government is stated in the telegram which was sent on behalf of His Excellency the Viceroy.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : May I ask whether Government can give us some information as regards the recent relation between the Government and Mahatma Gandhi and his fast ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : There is a short notice question on that subject later on.

Mr. Muhammad Azhar Ali : Did the Government in any way stop Mahatma Gandhi from unfolding his feelings or expressions of mind ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir.

ENFORCEMENT OF THE ATTENDANCE OF PERSONS AT POLICE STATIONS BY POLICE OFFICERS.

8. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : (a) Will Government be pleased to state if there is a practice in India in general and in centrally governed areas in particular that police officers enforce the attendance of persons without any order in writing on the pretext that such persons are supposed to be acquainted with the facts and circumstances of the case before them ?

(b) Is it a fact that they keep them in attendance for a long time without examining them and only allow them at intervals to go for their meals and night rest ?

(c) Is it a fact that the provisions of section 160, Code of Criminal Procedure, which require the enforcement of attendance by order in writing and also require subsequent attendance by order in writing ? If so, what steps have Government taken against such methods of the police ?

(d) Do Government know that such persons, as are so brought to the police stations on the pretext of getting information from them, are detained and eventually arrested and sent up as accused persons ? If so, under what law or order of Government is this procedure carried on ?

(e) Will Government be pleased to state if suspects are being called upon to appear before police officers without being arrested under section 54 and other sections of the Code of Criminal Procedure, are kept with the latter on the ground of making enquiries from them, are many times passed on to the hands of the Zamindars for getting information from them and finally arrested and sent to Court, reckoning the time of the arrest when they finally put handcuffs on them and send them to Court without showing their entire detention ?

(g) Are Government aware that such procedure as aforesaid has been condemned by various High Courts in India from time to time ? What steps have Government taken to see such procedure remedied ?

(h) Are Government prepared to issue a clear and definite circular, warning the police officers against such acts, and taking such other measures as Government deem necessary ? If not, why not ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : My replies to the various clauses of this question are confined to centrally administered areas, with which the Government of India are primarily concerned, but I have no reason to suppose that the alleged practices exist in the provinces.

(a) and (b). The answer is in the negative.

(c) The question does not arise.

(d) and (e). No such cases have come to notice.

(f) No.

(g No such judgments have been specifically brought to the notice of Government. The second part does not arise.

(h) As the answers to the preceding clauses show, there is no need for the issue of any instructions on the subject.

Sardar Sant Singh : Did the Government make enquiries from the Local Governments of centrally administered areas as to the way in which section 160, Code of Criminal Procedure is administered ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Enquiries were made from all the centrally administered areas.

Sardar Sant Singh : May I inform the Honourable Member that the practice complained of is widely prevalent and the answer is not in accordance with facts ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am giving the House the gist of the answers received from the administrations.

Sardar Sant Singh : May I inform the Honourable Member that the practice exists in almost all the police stations throughout India. The suspects are sent for, detained there without arrest in order to avoid peremptory provisions of section 167, Code of Criminal Procedure, and are harassed a good deal ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I can only reply that the officers from whom we enquired deny the existence of this practice.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : As the question pertains to the whole of India, may I know whether the Government are precluded from making enquiries from other provinces and knowing the truth ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The Government of India have a special responsibility in regard to centrally administered areas.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know whether the Government of India have no responsibility with regard to what happens in other parts of India ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The Government of India prefer not to interfere more than is necessary with the administration of Provincial Governments which, we hope, before long, will be autonomous.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know if Local Governments do a great wrong and it comes to the notice of the Government of India by a regular question in the House, yet the Government of India will abstain from making enquiries ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : May I remind the Honourable Member that Provincial Governments have their own Legislative Councils in which it would seem natural that questions of this kind, if indeed abuse does exist, would be raised ?

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know, therefore, with such autonomy as at present exists, the Government of India have no interference at all in a question like this ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The Government of India do not propose to take the matter up with the Local Governments.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know definitely one thing ? Have the centrally administered areas informed the Honourable Member that there is actually a practice going on in this manner that suspects are called to the thanas, they are kept there without any warrant for three or four days.....

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Honourable Member cannot make a speech.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : What I am submitting is that these suspects are put up before a Magistrate after an unauthorised detention of five or six days, my question is whether the Honourable Member knows this ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I have already answered the Honourable Member's question that the allegations were brought to the notice of the centrally administered areas and the Chief Commissioners have said that they are not aware of any such cases.

Mr. B. R. Puri : May I know if the Government realise the utter futility of making enquiries from the parties concerned against whom allegations are made and may I also add that the Government would be pleased to indicate the nature of the evidence that they expect in support of the allegation that this scandal does actually prevail and before what forum we are to place that evidence ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : If there were any such cases, I should suppose there would be complaints which would come to the notice of the local administration.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know from the Honourable Member whether he is prepared to issue orders even in the centrally administered areas that in view of these things being brought to the notice of the House the challan should show that they were arrested from the moment they were brought into the thana ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think the reference which we have already made to the local administrations as a result of the Honourable Member's question would be sufficient notice or reminder to them of the state of the law, but I am perfectly prepared to forward copies of these supplementary questions and answers to the local administrations concerned.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : And also to the Local Governments ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Yes, Sir ; I do not mind sending to them also.

Sardar Sant Singh : Do Government propose to make inquiries from the Bar Associations of the various districts under the direct control of the Central Government ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir ; I do not propose to make any further inquiries.

Mr. B. R. Puri : May I know, why ? Do Government really believe that the Bar Associations are not competent to give sound information on this point or is it because the Bar possess first-hand information as to what is actually happening ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I take it that we have had the views of the Bar Associations before us. We know what the allegations are and the Local Governments will now know also.

PERSONS WHIPPED IN CONNECTION WITH THE CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE MOVEMENT.

9. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai: (a) Will Government be pleased to state how many prisoners were whipped in the years 1932 and 1933, respectively, for offences connected with the Civil Disobedience Movement ?

(b) Were they whipped under the sections of the Indian Penal Code for offences involving theft, damage to property and assembly for unlawful purposes or under any other law ?

(c) Were they so whipped under the orders of the Magistrates who convicted them or under the executive orders, or both ?

(d) Will Government be pleased to state if in the opinion of the Magistrates no other punishment was suitable for these prisoners in place of the sentence of whipping ? If the answer be in the affirmative, what were the reasons for the same ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) 541 in 1932 ; 85 in 1933 up to the 30th June.

(b) In the great majority of cases the punishment of whipping was inflicted for offences under the Indian Penal Code. In some instances this punishment was awarded for offences under other enactments.

(c) The whipping in all cases was inflicted under magisterial orders.

(d) I have no doubt that magistrates passed sentences of whipping in view of the fact that they considered them suitable.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : Do Government remember that a Resolution for including whipping in the list of punishments for crimes against women was opposed by Government in this House last year ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Yes, Sir ; I think that is correct.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : Do Government think that these technical offences are more heinous than crimes like abduction, rape, etc. ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am not prepared to accept the suggestion that these offences were all technical.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : Is it not a fact that these offences were connected with the Civil Disobedience Movement ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Sentences were passed in the ordinary course of events and perhaps the House will remember that in connection with the legislation which was passed last autumn we made a provision which we hoped would relieve magistrates from the necessity of this kind of punishment, namely, that the responsibility in the case of juveniles was placed on the parents.

Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal : Is it not time that the Government of India considered the desirability of abolishing this punishment ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I must leave the Honourable Member to argue that out with his Honourable friend sitting behind him (Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen).

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Can the Honourable Member state if the instructions of Government are being faithfully followed ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think the Honourable Member will notice from the figures I have given that the number of punishments of whipping was very much reduced in 1933.

HOUSING PROBLEM OF THE INDIAN EMPLOYEES OF THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY AT JAMALPUR.

10 Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Is it known to Government that the housing problem of the Indian employees of the East Indian Railway at Jamalpur is growing more acute day by day, no quarters having been provided for them and there being hardly any private quarters available there ?

(b) If it is not known to the Government, are they prepared to enquire into this ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : Government are aware that there is a demand for more quarters for Indian employees at Jamalpur.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : What provision is being made for meeting that demand ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : That is dealt with in the next question.

HOUSING PROBLEM OF THE INDIAN EMPLOYEES OF THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY AT JAMALPUR.

11. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Is it known to Government that a plot of land measuring 119.3 acres at a cost of Rs. 98,467 was purchased at Jamalpur for building quarters for the Indian employees as far back as 1922 and that not even a brick has been laid in the course of these ten years involving the Railway in loss of interest for the capital thus blocked ?

(b) Will Government please say if it is their intention to build quarters in the near future ?

(c) If the answer to part (b) be in the negative, will Government please state how they propose to solve the housing problem of the Indian employees at Jamalpur ?

(d) Is it a fact that out of 235 quarters at Jamalpur 212 have been let or reserved for the European and Anglo-Indian employees, leaving only 23 quarters for the Indians ?

(e) If the answer to part (d) be in the affirmative, will Government please state how they propose to remove the racial discrimination ?

(f) Is it a fact that at times some quarters are allowed to remain vacant indefinitely and are not let out to Indian claimants, involving the Railway in loss of rent ?

(g) If the reply to part (f) be in the affirmative, do Government propose to stop the practice in order to let out as many quarters as possible to Indians applying for them ? If so, how ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a),(b) and (c). The plot of land referred to was acquired for building not only quarters for Indian employees but also a High English School and a hostel for Indian apprentices. These two buildings, as well as quarters for certain staff of the Technical School, have been built on the land up to date, but owing to financial stringency further expenditure on the provision of quarters has had to be deferred. The Administration reports that more quarters will be built as funds become available.

(d) There are at Jamalpur 220 quarters of European type, 72 quarters of Indian clerical type and 249 quarters for inferior employees.

(e) Government understand that the question of racial discrimination does not arise, as the existing quarters are generally allotted to and occupied by the staff for whom they were originally provided.

(f) and (g). Vacancies of quarters are generally of short duration and of unavoidable nature. Moreover, as recognised by the Honourable Member in his next question, European type quarters are not always suited to Indian employees and sometimes not liked by them.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state whether Indian employees are more in number than Europeans at Jamalpur and whether the number of quarters is greater for Europeans or for Indians ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I have already given the information as regards the second part of the question. As regards the first part, I should think the answer is obvious.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : That is, the Indians are more in number ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : Of course.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : But the number of quarters is less.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Will the Honourable Member take into consideration the fact that although Indians prefer Indian style quarters, they might prefer European style quarters instead of having no quarters at all ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : As a matter of fact, the Administration recognises that and does make quarters that are likely to be vacant for long periods available to Indian employees.

HOUSING PROBLEM OF THE INDIAN EMPLOYEES OF THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY AT JAMALPUR.

12. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Is it a fact that the few quarters let out to the Indian employees of the East Indian Railway at Jamalpur are not provided with arrangements such as squatting, latrines, courtyards separated from adjoining Europeans' quarters ?

(b) If so, what steps do Government propose to take in the matter ?

(c) Is it a fact that for the last two years the white-washing and cleaning of the quarters which is most essential for sanitation and health have been stopped ?

(d) Is it a fact that in certain cases house-building advances have been refused to employees desiring to build houses of their own (which is admissible under the rules) on the ground that there are Railway quarters at Jamalpur, while the Railway administration cannot provide quarters when requested ?

(e) If the answer to part (d) be in the affirmative, do Government propose to issue instructions to the Railway administration not to refuse such advances ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) All Indian clerical type quarters are provided with courtyards and latrines to suit Indian customs but it is possible that some Indian employees have been occupying European type quarters which are not provided with such facilities.

(b) The present state of affairs will be remedied when additional Indian type quarters are provided as funds become available.

(c) No. The Administration reports that, although revenue expenditure has been curtailed during the last few years, whitewashing and cleaning of quarters essential for sanitation and health have been carried out.

(d) In three cases, in which house building advances have been refused, Government understand that railway quarters were available which though of European type were similar to those occupied by other Indian staff in similar categories to the applicants.

(e) I am sure the Administration will deal sympathetically with requests for house building advances from staff for whom railway quarters cannot be made available.

SUPPLY OF RULE BOOKS TO THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY EMPLOYEES.

13. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Is it a fact that one of the clauses of the service agreement executed by the old East Indian Railway employees states that each of them has been supplied with a rule book under which they are guided, whereas for the employees no rule book pertaining to them has been supplied to them nor are they available for purchase ?

(b) If the answer to part (a) be in the affirmative, do Government propose to take action to print such rule books and to supply each of the employees with a copy or at least offer them for sale ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I have called for information and will lay a reply on the table in due course.

EMPLOYMENT OFFICER AT THE JAMALPUR WORKSHOPS.

14. Mr. S. C. Mitra : Will Government please say how the appointment of an Employment Officer at the Jamalpur Workshops has been justified compared with such an appointment in the North Western Railway ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : There is not much difference in the arrangements in the two railways. In the North Western Railway workshops at Moghalpura there is an officer who, though called by a different name—Assistant Personnel Officer—performs practically the same duties as the Employment Officer at Jamalpur.

CONTINUANCE OF THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY BAND AT JAMALPUR.

15. Mr. S. C. Mitra : Will Government please state the reasons for the continuance of the East Indian Railway Band at Jamalpur at a monthly cost of Rs. 850 chargeable to Revenue and Rs. 750 chargeable to Staff Benefit Fund in these days of economy when the staff are being discharged ? Is it a fact that it serves only a very small fraction of the employees of the administration ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : The question of the future of the East Indian Railway band as well as of similar bands on other Railways is at present engaging the attention of Government.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED BY THE INDIAN NATIONAL CONGRESS HELD IN CALCUTTA.

16. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Are Government aware that the following are some of the resolutions passed at the 47th Session of the Indian National Congress held in Calcutta recently :

" (i) This Congress re-affirms the resolution passed at its 44th Session at Lahore in 1929 declaring complete independence as its goal, (ii) This Congress holds civil disobedience to be a perfectly legitimate means for the protection of the rights of the people, for the vindication of national self-respect and for the attainment of the national goal " ?

(b) Are Government aware that the Congress also passed resolutions declaring its adherence to the programme of civil disobedience and the boycott of British goods, and condemned the White Paper as " inimical to the vital interests of India, and devised to perpetuate foreign domination in this country " ?

(c) Will Government kindly state how, in spite of elaborate precautions, such resolutions came to be passed ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) and (b). The Honourable Member has correctly described some of the resolutions which it was intended to pass if the Congress Session had been held at Calcutta.

(c) The holding of the Session was prevented and no resolutions were actually passed.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it not a fact that these Resolutions were actually passed even when the assaults on the delegates were taking place in the tram shed at the Esplanade Junction ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir ; my information is that the resolutions were not passed.

Kunwar Hajee Ismail Ali Khan : May I know what was the attendance in the session ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I suppose there were a few hundred people present.

PERSONS ARRESTED, RELEASED AND PROSECUTED IN CONNECTION WITH THE HOLDING OF THE CONGRESS SESSION IN CALCUTTA.

17. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government be pleased to state even approximately the total number of persons arrested in the country in connection with the holding of the recent session of the Congress in Calcutta, the number of persons released, and the number of persons against whom prosecutions were instituted ? Under what sections of the law were such persons arrested, and subsequently released ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I lay on the table a statement giving the required information.

Statement showing the approximate number of persons arrested and released in connection with the attempt to hold the Congress Session at Calcutta and the number against whom action was taken.

Total Number of persons arrested.	Number released.	Number prosecuted.	Section of the law under which arrests were made.
1,765	1,441	324	Action was mainly taken under section 17 of the Criminal Law Amendment Act of 1908 and section 151 of the C. P. C., and in a few cases under section 54, Criminal Procedure Code, section 188/511 of the Indian Penal Code; section 18 of the Indian Press (Emergency Powers) Act of 1931, sections 3 and 14 of the Bombay Special (Emergency) Powers Act, 1932, and section 3 of the Bengal Public Security Act, 1932.

ALLEGATIONS OF ASSAULT MADE ON THE CONGRESSMEN AFTER THEIR ARREST IN CALCUTTA.

18. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Will Government be pleased to state if the enquiry made by the Government of Bengal into the allegations of assault, made on the Congressmen after their arrest in Calcutta, contained in the statement of Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya, a copy of which was forwarded to the Honourable the Home Member, was a public enquiry, or a judicial enquiry ; and were the persons on whom the assault was alleged to have been committed examined ? If not, why not ?

(b) Are Government aware that Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya has challenged a public enquiry into the affair ; or, in the alternative, he challenges Government to prosecute him ?

(c) In view of the serious nature of the allegations, do Government propose either to hold a public and impartial enquiry into the matter, or to sanction prosecution of Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya ?

(d) Do Government propose to lay a copy of the report of the Bengal Government on the table, with such other connected papers as may be available ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) and (c). I would refer the Honourable Member to the Communiqué issued by the Government of India on the 29th May, 1933, which makes it clear that the Government of Bengal caused a departmental enquiry to be made into these allegations. The departmental enquiry satisfied the Local Government that no case was made out against the police, and there is therefore no occasion for Government to take any further action. If the persons alleged to have been assaulted were prepared to establish their case before a judicial tribunal, the Courts were open to them and they could have instituted criminal complaints. This, however, they did not choose to do. The persons said to have been assaulted were not examined in the course of the departmental enquiry as they were all released between the night of 1st April and 7th April, while the statement of Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya which was the basis of the subsequent enquiry was not put forward till the 9th April.

(b) Yes.

(d) No.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Was Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya written to to substantiate his charges ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Why ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Because the Government thought it desirable in the first place to hold a departmental inquiry.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Who were examined in the course of this departmental inquiry and who held the inquiry ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The inquiry was held by the Commissioner of Police.

Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal : What kind of inquiry was it, public or private ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : It was a departmental inquiry and that means it was private.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Who were the persons, if any, who were examined in the course of that inquiry ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The statements of the officials concerned were taken and the whole circumstances were very carefully reviewed.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : The very officers against whom allegations of assault were made were examined and they denied it : is that the position of the Government ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The whole circumstances of the case were examined very carefully : there were written records regarding the reception of these people : various facts were known to the public and the Government ; and on top of that the Commissioner of Police held a very careful departmental inquiry.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : What time did this farcical inquiry take ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I cannot accept the description of the Honourable Member and the adjective that he has applied to the inquiry : it was in fact a very careful one. The allegations of Pandit Malaviya were made, I think I said, on the 9th April, and we received the conclusions of the Bengal Government towards the end of May.

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : Has the attention of Government been drawn to the recent statement in this connection made by Mr. Prentice in the local Legislative Council ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I have not got it with me.

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : Is it not a fact that Mr. Prentice stated on the floor of the Bengal Legislative Council that a light lathi charge was made ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : That is quite possible : it was not denied that the crowds at the Congress session time were dispersed : that is not denied.

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : Light lathi charges were made by the police ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : What is denied by the Government is the assertion that delegate after delegate, as he stood up to move the resolutions, was violently attacked by sergeants wielding lathis with all their might.

Mr. B. R. Puri : May I know what was the agency which conducted the inquiry in the first place ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I have already answered that question.

Mr. B. R. Puri : The Police Commissioner was the officer inquiring into the allegations made against the police subordinates : is that the position ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I have already answered the question.

Mr. B. R. Puri : May I know if, apart from the actual parties concerned, namely, the police officers against whom allegations were made, any independent evidence was also recorded ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I have not got with me the full record of the departmental inquiry : that is with the Government of Bengal.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Under the circumstances, do the Government of India feel quite satisfied, knowing as we do that no other evidence was at all recorded ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Yes ; we are quite satisfied.

Mr. B. R. Puri : In view of the assurance that the Honourable Member has just now given, that it is open to any parties who feel aggrieved to seek redress in proper Courts by proving their cases against the offending police officers, may I know if the Government of India are prepared to give the assurances that the necessary sanction will be given to the parties who seek that sanction before these police officers can be prosecuted ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : That is a question that must be addressed to the Local Government. The Government of India are not administering the affairs of Calcutta, and that is a question which both in law and in practice must be addressed to the Local Government.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Do the Government of India recognise the utter hollowness of this suggestion which is now being given to us on the floor of this House that an aggrieved party should seek his redress in the ordinary Courts, when they are not prepared to tell us or give us an assurance that the proper sanction, which is an impediment in the way of a private party seeking redress, will be given ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Has the Honourable Member got any reason to suppose that anybody has applied for sanction and that any difficulty has been put in his way ?

Mr. B. R. Puri : I can cite a recent instance of the Lahore D. A. V. College Professor who was assaulted by the police : I was a party who applied for the sanction and I was refused that sanction and ultimately we had to sue the offending police officers on the civil side and we got damages to the extent of Rs. 10,000.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The Honourable Member has misunderstood the point of my question. I was not referring to conditions in the Punjab : I was referring to the incidents in Calcutta.

Mr. B. R. Puri : It is all one Government.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know from the Honourable Member a definite reply whether on the inquiry that they have made into the allegations of Pandit Malaviya, they take it that what Pandit Malaviya has said is absolutely untrue ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The position of Government is explained very fully in the Government communiqué.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Are Government aware that I have got in my possession letters written by some of those who were assaulted during police custody, from my province of Bihar, and are Government prepared to make inquiry into this matter ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No : I was not aware of that.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : If I followed the Honourable Member correctly, he said that in the departmental inquiry they could not examine the persons who were assaulted, because they were released : is that the case ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No : I think that by the time the allegations were made, all the persons who were alleged to have been assaulted were no longer in police custody.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : May I take it that Government do not doubt that the assaulted persons are very material witnesses and that it was within the power of the Government to get the addresses of these people who were released at the time of enquiry and their addresses must have been in the police registers ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : They came no doubt from different provinces, but I do not deny that it would have been possible to get hold of them had the Government been satisfied that there was a 'prima facie case for making an inquiry : of that they were not satisfied.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Do not Government think that the evidence of the persons who were assaulted by the police is material and that they are satisfied with recording the opinions of the police officers who were only examined in the departmental inquiry ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The view of the Government was that there was no prima facie case.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Why was not Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya prosecuted for making such a serious allegation against the police ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : That, I think, would have been quite an unnecessary proceeding.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : That will expose the truth, you mean ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No : we do not want to encumber our Courts with cases whenever an allegation is made, which we do not consider to be true.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : My question is : the Government did not dare prosecute Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya for fear that the truth might come out : is that correct ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No ; Government are perfectly satisfied about the truth of this case.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : But not the public.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Is it a fact that one circumstance on which the Government communiqué reflects is that, although the Bengal Legislative Council was open till the 4th of April, no allegation of this character with regard to the assaults committed upon certain people in the police station were made in the Bengal Legislative Council itself ? 12 NOON.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : That is one of the points put forward by the Bengal Government.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Does the Honourable Member know that the people who made those complaints were actually in police custody till the 4th of April, and that the process of their release began from that date and went on till the 7th, and that the Bengal Legislative Council had meanwhile adjourned, namely, on the 4th of April ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : That does not cover the allegations about what happened when the attempt to hold the session, on, I think, the 1st of April, was made.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Does that cover the point with regard to the assaults committed upon people in police custody ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir ; that argument only goes a certain distance, and I have indicated the limits of it.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Is the Honourable Member now prepared to say that the official communiqué itself, in no far as it did not distinguish between the two sets of allegations, tried to mislead the public with reference to a very important particular, namely, that although the Bengal Legislative Council was open, none of these allegations were made in that Council ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir ; I cannot at all agree that the communiqué was in any way misleading.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Does the Honourable Member challenge the fact that I have mentioned, namely, that the people who were assaulted remained in custody till the 4th April, and that the Bengal Legislative Council adjourned on that date ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I must again repeat what I have already stated to the Honourable Member that the first of these allegations was undue violence in the dispersal of the crowd on the 1st of April.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Does the Honourable Member recognise that Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya's statement complained more about the assaults committed upon helpless people in police custody than upon assaults committed upon delegates when the session was held, because he said they were perfectly prepared for that kind of violence ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Whatever the point of Pandit Malaviya's complaint may have been, he made these allegations which were not true, in fact the incidents took place on the 1st of April and no complaints were made in the Bengal Legislative Council though it was in session till the 4th April.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Does the Honourable Member recognise then that it was physically impossible for these complaints to be made in the Bengal Legislative Council in so far as those complaints related to incidents which happened in the police stations, simply because the people who might have made these complaints were in police custody till the 4th, if not till the 7th ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : That may be so ; but I still maintain my original point that with regard to the dispersal of the crowd on the 1st of April, that is a perfectly good argument.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Does the Honourable Member then recognise that the press communiqué in so far as it did not distinguish between these two sets of allegations did seek to mislead the public ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Certainly not.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Will the Honourable Member now issue a press communiqué correcting the previous communiqué in this particular matter ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir ; I have no doubt quite sufficient publicity is given to the Honourable Member's question.

SHORT NOTICE QUESTION AND ANSWER.

MR. GANDHI'S FAST.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Will Government please state whether Mr. Gandhi has started a fast unto death ?

(b) If so, will they please state :

(i) what facilities were denied to him for untouchable work which were unacceptable to him ;

(ii) what restrictions on interviews and correspondence were imposed ;

(iii) what were his demands ; and

(iv) why these demands were unacceptable to Government ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I would refer the Honourable Member to the press communiqué issued by the Government of India on the 18th August, 1933.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the Honourable Member kindly inform us what that communiqué was ? We do not remember it now.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I should be very glad to lay a copy on the table of the House.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : For the purpose of putting supplementary questions, I should be glad if the Honourable Member would kindly give a concise statement of it.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I must explain to the Honourable Member who apparently is not in the habit of reading newspapers that it was a long and elaborate communiqué, and I am afraid I am not in a position to summarise it.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : I do read communiqués which appear to me to be reasonable, but I say that I forget what that particular communiqué was, and if the Honourable Member will give us a brief summary of it, I shall be very glad.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government be pleased to give us the latest information with regard to the condition of Mahatma Gandhi's health ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : A telegram which we received last night said that the general condition of Mr. Gandhi at noon yesterday was reported to be fair.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know, Sir, what is meant by Government by abandonment of civil disobedience ? Does it mean that the Civil Disobedience Movement should be ceased and should not be revived at any time ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think, Sir, that when in the past we have used the phrase abandonment of civil disobedience we have not intended that any one should pledge himself never for fifty or a hundred years to have recourse to the weapon, but that they should genuinely and unequivocally abandon it now.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Is it a fact that the facilities given to Mahatma Gandhi on the previous occasion have been denied to him now ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : That is so.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : What are the facilities that are denied to him now ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : On the previous occasion Mr. Gandhi was allowed full freedom to see any visitors and to conduct any correspondence, to give press interviews, in fact to behave in this particular respect as if he were a free man. On the present occasion the Government have declined to allow Mr. Gandhi to give press interviews, they have restricted the number of visitors to two a day and have also restricted the number of letters that he should be allowed to write to five a day.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to say whether the facilities that were given to Mahatma Gandhi on the previous occasion were in any way misused by him ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : It is not a question of misuse, but whether they can really be reconciled with the position of a prisoner.

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : Will Government explain what they mean by mass civil disobedience and individual civil disobedience ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : These are not phrases invented by Government. They occur, I think, in Mr. Aney's statement, and I think it would be for Mr. Aney or Mr. Gandhi to explain precisely what they mean.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : May I ask what a State Prisoner is ? Is he a prisoner ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : He is, Sir, but as we were discussing earlier this morning, he has certain privileges which are not enjoyed by an ordinary prisoner.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Is Mahatma Gandhi a prisoner ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Yes.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Then why is he given facilities which are denied to other prisoners who have been convicted for civil disobedience, mass or individual ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : That is certainly a pertinent question, and it was a matter which Government took into very serious consideration before they reached their conclusion on this occasion, but they thought that as they had given certain facilities for the prosecution of this movement, it would not be reasonable to withdraw them altogether.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Do I take it then that there is no question of principle involved in this particular decision of the Government in so far as they have already allowed certain relaxations in the ordinary jail rules ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Well, Sir, we can argue for a long time as to what is a principle and what is not. But I would say that unlimited facilities are not really consistent with jail discipline.

Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal : If some concessions have now been made in the case of Mr. Gandhi, would it not be fair to give him all the concessions which were granted to him as a State Prisoner and which he did not abuse on that occasion ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. We considered that very carefully and we came to the conclusion that the facilities offered to Mr. Gandhi were ample to enable him to make the contribution which he might require to make to that movement.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : May I take it that the facilities and privileges given to him were given as a matter of political consideration, unlike in the case of other prisoners ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. I think one must recognise that the underlying motive was that there should be no unreasonable obstacle interposed to work which was believed to be of social importance.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Do the Government think now that it is not of social importance—doing work for untouchables—or are there any other grounds now for thinking that the conditions have changed as regards the work for untouchables ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. The position of the Government is that the facilities they have offered they consider quite sufficient to enable Mr. Gandhi to make an effective contribution to that movement.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Why were not those restrictions imposed on the last occasion ? Whether State Prisoner, or ordinary prisoner, they are all prisoners in the ordinary legal sense of the term.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Well, perhaps, it was unwise not to impose these restrictions originally. But the House must remember that at that time the movement was just started and Mr. Gandhi's contention really was that he must have certain facilities in order to inaugurate that movement ; otherwise, it might be still born.

Mr. Muhammad Azhar Ali : Are Government aware that the limitations now imposed are against the Poona Pact ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. I do not understand the argument.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Do Government contemplate any trouble in allowing Mr. Gandhi the same facilities which were allowed to him on the previous occasion ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Yes, great trouble to jail discipline.

Mr. B. R. Puri : May I know, is it on account of the fact that the Government are in sympathy with the Harijan movement that these concessions are given, or is it on account of the personality of the man ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Government did not want to appear to be impeding efforts to raise the status and condition of the depressed classes.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Is that the only consideration for which these concessions are made, or is there any other consideration also, relating to the personality of the gentleman ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. I think it is fair to say that that is the real reason.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Are Government prepared to release Mr. Gandhi on medical grounds if they find his life in danger ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am not prepared to make any statement as to what our action may be in the future.

Mr. B. R. Puri : If these concessions have no reference to the personality of Mahatma Gandhi, are the Government prepared to allow the same concessions to other prisoners also who may be disposed to take interest in the Harijan work or in any other noble work ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. It is not a question of the personality of Mr. Gandhi, but of the position that he occupies with reference to this Harijan movement.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Is it, then, the Harijan movement, or Mahatma Gandhi ? I want you to recognise the distinction. If the Government of India are showing these facilities to Mahatma Gandhi because he is Mahatma Gandhi, then let the Government make it clear. But if it is on account of the nature of the work with which the Government are in sympathy, then Government should frankly say so as other questions might arise. Therefore I want the Honourable Member to state what the position of the Government is. Are you showing these facilities because the nature and quality of the work is such that the Government want to see it promoted, or is it because it is constrained to show these concessions because the man with whom Government are dealing is a Mahatma Gandhi ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I have already answered my Honourable friend's question.....

Mr. B. R. Puri : You have successfully evaded giving a definite reply.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : ....to the best of my ability by saying that these concessions are given because of the position that Mr. Gandhi holds in this Harijan movement.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Would you grant similar concessions to Mr. Aney or any other Congressman if he were to intimate to you that he is about to start a similar work ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir ; he would not have the same position in the movement.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Then it is both position as well as nature of the work ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Yes.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Well, then, why did you not say so in the beginning ? (Laughter.)

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : That is precisely what I said in my first answer to the Honourable Member's question which apparently he did not listen to. (Laughter.)

Mr. B. R. Puri : May I know on what considerations the Government have put Mahatma Gandhi in " A " Class ? He is obviously not a man who is leading European mode of life, but just the opposite of it, and he is a man who possesses no property. If it has no reference to the personality of the man, may I know on what other considerations he was put in " A " Class—certainly not under any recommendation of the Court ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Mr. Gandhi appears to have a traditional claim to " A " Class.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Then, I take it that you concede the principle that inside the prison wall Mahatma Gandhi is entitled to preferential treatment—you concede that, don't you ? Once you clear your position with regard to that point, then I shall get along to the next question.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. It seems to me that I am being put to an elaborate cross-examination which I hope will not continue until lunch time.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Mine is a simple question. I would like to know from the Honourable Member if the visitors who visited Mahatma Gandhi when he was a State Prisoner were sent in with the permission of the Superintendent or not, and whether some of them were rejected or not ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : My impression is that anybody who claimed to see Mr. Gandhi to discuss these untouchable questions was allowed to go.

UNSTARRED QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

RETRENCHMENT OF ACCOUNTANTS FROM THE MILITARY ACCOUNTS DEPARTMENT, RAWALPINDI.

1. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh: (a) Is it a fact that six passed Accountants (Subordinate Accounts Service) were compulsorily retrenched from the Military Accounts Department, Rawalpindi, while unpassed and unqualified clerks were retained ?

(b) If the reply to part (a) be in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to lay on the table a statistical statement showing the total number of Accountants, passed Subordinate Accounts Service permanent and temporary clerks retrenched in the Military Accounts Department in each District ?

(c) Is it a fact that Government, with the concurrence of the Secretary of State, have decided to re-employ the retrenched individuals in the vacancies that might occur in future ?

(d) If the reply to part (c) be in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to state the reasons as to why the temporary clerks in the Military Accounts Department have recently been confirmed ?

(e) Is it also a fact that the Military Accountant General has stated that he does not intend to re-employ the retrenched individuals in the Military Accounts Department ?

(f) Is it true that certain individuals in the Military Accounts Department, Quetta and Lahore, on the recommendations of their respective Controllers, were immediately taken back after being served with notice of discharge ?

(g) If the reply to the above questions be in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to state the reason for not taking similar action in cases of Rawalpindi retrenched passed Accountants (Subordinate Accounts Service) who were also recommended very highly by their Controller ?

The Honourable Mr. A. H. Lloyd : (a) In the Rawalpindi Office ten accountants (Subordinate Accounts Service) and six clerks, who had passed the qualifying examination for this service but were not yet placed in vacancies, were retrenched because the Selection Board found them to be definitely inefficient. Many efficient clerks, included in a different grade of the Military Accounts Department from the Accountants and Subordinate Accounts Service passed clerks, were retained in service. No person is admitted to the Department in a clerical capacity unless he has certain specified educational qualifications and in addition has passed an initial qualifying examination.

Retrenchment was carried out in the Military Accounts Department in all grades of subordinate appointments. The Selection Boards classified all men who in their opinion fell below the standard of efficiency required in their grade in order of positive demerit ; and those who stood highest in that order were retrenched to the extent of the quota of reductions required in that grade.

(c) While Government have decided to consider favourably the re-employment of those discharged for no fault of their own, they are certainly not prepared to re-employ those discharged for inefficiency ; and inefficiency was the sole criterion employed in the recent retrenchments in the Military Accounts Department.

(d) In view of what has been said above this does not arise. Temporary clerks are confirmed on their merits as vacancies arise.

(e) Yes : for the reasons already given in reply to parts (a) and (c).

(f) " No " as regards Quetta. In Lahore, one man who had been selected for retrenchment owing to extreme deafness but who had not demitted office and who later obtained an instrument overcoming his only disability was continued in service.

(g) Does not arise.

TRANSFER OF THE CONTROL OF THE BADRINATH TEMPLE TO THE RULER OF THE TEHRI ESTATE.

2. Pandit Ram Krishna Jha : (a) Is it a fact that Government are going to transfer the control of the Badrinath Temple to the Ruler of the Tehri Estate ? If so, what has led to this change in the matter of control of Badrinath Temple (district Garhwal, U. P.) ?

(b) Are Government aware that the Sanatanist institutions and the leading Sanatanist Hindus throughout the country are against the transfer of the control of the Badrinath Temple (district Garhwal, U. P.), from the Government to the Ruler of the Tehri Estate ?

(c) Are Government aware that such transfer will affect the scheme laid down by the High Court in 1899 with respect to the traditions of worship observed at the Badrinath Temple ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : The question of the transfer of the Badrinath temple to the Tehri State has been raised by the Tehri Darbar and is at present being considered by the Government of the United Provinces whose attention has been drawn to the Honourable Member's question.

DIVERSION OF THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY PUNJAB MAILS FROM THE MAIN LINE TO THE GRAND CHORD.

3. Mr. Bhuput Sing : Will Government be pleased to state whether the authorities of the East Indian Railway intend to divert the Up and Down Punjab Mails via Grand Chord (Gaya line) ? If so, what are the benefits to be gained by the change and are Government aware :

(a) that by such a change a vast portion of the travelling public going over long distances will be put to inconceivable inconvenience, as the Punjab Mail is the quickest train having connections everywhere on the main line ;

(b) that by this contemplated change a large influx of passengers coming from Loop line, North Behar and Patna will suffer considerably ;

(c) that through the Grand Chord line, with no important stations or centres excepting Gaya, are run two mails and three expresses ; and

(d) that it would be extremely convenient for the large number of travelling public from Patna and Mokama and all other portions of North Behar if the original arrangement is retained, so that they can get direct through connections both up and down country ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : Government understand that it is intended to run the Up and Down Punjab Mails via the Grand Chord from 1st October, 1933, but at the same time to extend the 5 Up and 6 Down Mails, which at present run only between Moghalserai and Lahore to Howrah, running via the main line practically to the same timings as the Punjab Mails now run. This it is considered will improve the service.

(c) By suitable re-arrangements the number of trains over the Grand Chord and the main line will remain the same as at present.

(d) In view of the fact that a through 1st and 2nd class carriage will run between Patna, Delhi and Kalka or Lahore via Allahabad, Government consider that the proposed changes will not result in any inconvenience.

DIVERSION OF THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY PUNJAB MAILS FROM THE MAIN LINE TO THE GRAND CHORD.

4. Mr. Bhuput Sing : (a) Will Government be pleased to state how the proposed running of 5 and 6 Lahore Mails to Howrah and running them via Patna—as a substitute—will in any way remedy the extreme inconveniences to be caused by the diversion of the Punjab Mail to the Grand Chord ?

(b) Do Government know that no direct connections from Loop and Main lines are kept through Moghalserai to Delhi and to Allahabad, Cawnpore and other important stations of the East Indian Railway ?

(c) Before finally deciding on the change, do Government propose to put the matter before the Central Advisory Committee ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) and (b). As I have already stated Government are of opinion that the proposed changes will not result in any inconvenience to any appreciable portion of the travelling public.

(c) This is more a matter for the Local Advisory Committee of the East Indian Railway.

RETRENCHMENT OF ACCOUNTANTS FROM THE MILITARY ACCOUNTS DEPARTMENT, RAWALPINDI.

5. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Is it a fact that six passed Accountants (Subordinate Accounts Service) were compulsorily retrenched from the Military Accounts Department at Rawalpindi, while unpassed and unqualified clerks were retained ? If so, why ?

(b) Is it a fact that Government with the concurrence of the Secretary of State, have decided to re-employ the retrenched individuals in the vacancies that might occur in future ?

(c) If the reply to (b) above be in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to state the reasons as to why the temporary clerks in the Military Accounts have recently been confirmed ?

(d) Is it true that certain individuals in the Military Accounts Department at Quetta and Lahore, on the recommendations of their respective Controllers, were immediately taken back after being served with notice of discharge ?

(e) If the reply to (d) above be in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to state the reason for not taking similar action in cases of Rawalpindi retrenched passed Accountants (Subordinate Accounts Service), who were also recommended very highly by their Controller ?

The Honourable Mr. A. H. Lloyd : The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the reply given to his unstarred Question No. 1 placed on the table today.

RECRUITMENT OF THE MINISTERIAL ESTABLISHMENT OF THE CONTRACTS DIRECTORATE, ARMY HEADQUARTERS.

6. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Is it a fact that the ministerial establishment of the Contracts Directorate, Army Headquarters, is recruited independently of the Public Service Commission ?

(b) Is it because the Director of Contracts wanted to recruit men with special commercial training that this exemption was given ?

(c) Is not the work of the Indian Stores Department and the Contracts Directorate identical ? If so, why has not the exemption been extended to the former Department ?

(d) Will Government be pleased to state what are the special commercial qualifications of officers of the Office of the Director of Contracts ?

(e) Is it not necessary that officers and clerks should all be recruited from the commercial community ?

(f) Is it a fact that two officers of this office are due to vacate their appointments in 1934 ? If so, do Government propose to appoint in their place Indians having commercial attainments ?

(g) Is it a fact that some new clerical appointments have been sanctioned for this office ? If so, will Government be pleased to state the names of those appointed and the special commercial training each of them underwent before appointment ?

(h) Is it a fact that the Director of Contracts held an examination for the recruitment of these men ? If so, will Government be pleased to state why this examination could not be conducted by the Public Service Commission ? Can Government not arrange all recruitment to this office through the Public Service Commission, fixing certain minimum commercial qualifications ? If not, why not ?

(i) Is it a fact that some clerks recruited in this office in 1928 are still temporary ?

(j) Is it a fact that these temporary clerks were not allowed to appear in the Departmental Examination held by the Public Service Commission in 1931, whereas temporary clerks having one year's service in other offices were allowed to appear at that examination ? If not, why not ?

(k) Will Government be pleased to state what steps they propose to take to enable those clerks to try elsewhere ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : (a) Yes.

(b) Partly for this reason, and partly because it was considered desirable to test personally the commercial qualifications of the candidates and their general aptitude for the special work that they would be called upon to perform.

(c) The work of the Contracts Directorate is similar to that of the Indian Stores Department. That Department has not found it necessary as a general rule since 1924 to recruit men with commercial experience, but it has been necessary, even since that date, to recruit a small number of individuals otherwise than through the Public Service Commission in view of the technical qualifications or previous experience required.

(d) There is no question of academic commercial qualifications in the case of officers. A knowledge of army requirements is essential ; and officers for the Contracts Directorate are selected from those who have showed marked business capacity in the quasi-commercial services of the Army, namely, the Ordnance and Army Service Corps.

(e) No.

(f) The answer to the first part of the question is in the affirmative. The answer to the second part is in the negative, as special military knowledge is required.

(g) 11 new temporary appointments were sanctioned last January

The names of those appointed are as follows :

1. S. Mayuranathan.
2. Ram Chand Mehra.
3. Kasturi Lal Sobti.

4. Nikka Ram Law.
5. Vidya Parkash Lal Tejpal.
6. Shokat Husain.
7. Harbans Lal Jain.
8. Shiva Shankar Lal Rohatgi.
9. Parkash Rup Kaila.
10. Jogindar Singh.
11. S. F. Rahman.

Government are not prepared to publish the qualifications of individuals in their service.

(h) The Director interviewed the candidates personally with reference to the particular duties they would be called upon to perform; and also tested their general intelligence by giving them a general knowledge paper and a paper on commercial arithmetic to answer in writing. As previously explained in answer to Mr. Lalchand Navalrai's question No. 1368, dated 7th November, 1932, it is considered that better results are obtained in this way than by depending on a regular examination held by the Public Service Commission.

(i) Yes.

(j) The special examination in question was held for the benefit of temporary clerks in offices for which the ordinary recruitment is made by the Public Service Commission, and was not therefore open to the temporary clerks in the Contracts Directorate.

(k) It has always been open to the temporary clerks of the Contracts Directorate to take the open competitive examination held by the Public Service Commission if they satisfy the prescribed conditions.

GRIEVANCES OF THE MUSLIM EMPLOYEES OF THE DEHRA DUN POSTAL DIVISION.

7. Lieut. Nawab Muhammad Ibrahim Ali Khan: (a) Will Government be pleased to state the number of Muslims appointed in the Mussoorie Head Post Office and its town Sub Offices in the inferior cadre during the years 1931, 1932, 1933, in officiating and permanent vacancies, and, if the ratio of 33 per cent. is not maintained, are Government prepared to take suitable action in case any deliberate evasion to observe the recent and repeated orders of the Government is noticed against the Post Master, Mussoorie?

(b) Are Government aware of the grievances of the Muslim Postal employees of the Dehra Dun Division, which were duly represented to higher authorities? If not, are Government prepared to call for the original files and peruse them so that truth may dawn?

(c) What action do Government propose to take in the matter in order to redress the grievances of the aggrieved community and punish the party at fault?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce: (a) I regret that the information is not available; I may point out that the Honourable Member appears to be under a misimpression, as there is no rule that Muslims should constitute 33 per cent. of the staff.

(b) I do not know to what grievances the Honourable Member refers.

(c) Government are not in a position to take any action, in the absence of information as to the grievances and of evidence that any person is at fault.

EXAMINATION FOR RECRUITMENT OF POSTAL CLERKS.

8. Lieut. Nawab Muhammad Ibrahim Ali Khan: Will Government be pleased to state their reasons for not sending the papers of the examinees at the examination held for recruitment of clerks for approval to the Postmaster-General, during the month of March, 1930? Is it a fact that the orders for the stoppage of recruitment were received later on in the month of June, 1930?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce: I regret I am unable to answer the Honourable Member's question for want of particulars as to the incident to which he refers. If he will be more explicit both as to the examination and to the Postal Circle about which he requires information I will do my best to obtain it for him.

MOTION FOR ADJOURNMENT.

RESERVATION OF APPOINTMENTS FOR MINORITY COMMUNITIES.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty): Order, order. I have received a notice from Sardar Sant Singh that he proposes to ask for leave to make a motion for the adjournment of the business of the House for the purpose of discussing a definite matter of urgent public importance, which runs as follows:

"The proposed reservation of appointments in all departments under the Government of India and controlled by it for minority communities whereby out of 33 1/3 per cent. of the appointments reserved for nomination for minorities 25 per cent. are proposed to be reserved for Muslims, 6 per cent. for Anglo-Indians, the remaining 2 1/3 per cent. for other minorities, totally excluding the depressed classes from such reservation."

Before enquiring whether any Honourable Member has any objection to this motion, the Chair would like to hear from the Honourable the Mover how he considers his motion to be in order especially in relation to rule 12, sub-rule (ii) which says that the motion must be restricted to a specific matter of recent occurrence. The Chair would like to know what is the matter of recent occurrence which has given rise to this motion.

Sardar Sant Singh (West Punjab: Sikh): Sir, this motion is in order, because the matter is of recent occurrence. I understand that a confidential circular was issued by the Government of India to the heads of Departments some time after the last Session and before the beginning of this Session, in which they have stated that further recruitment, which depends upon nomination only, should be on the lines mentioned in my adjournment motion.

As I understand the Standing Order, I think that anything that occurs in the interval when the House is not sitting is of recent occurrence on the day when the House opens and that is my justification for putting forward this adjournment motion on this, the first meeting day of the House.

[Sardar Sant Singh.]

As regards the subject matter of this motion, the Government propose to lay down a policy in the matter of the recruitment to the services and as such my submission is that the Members of this House come to know of a certain policy of Government from various sources. My information is that at a certain meeting of the Members comprising the Government of India certain instructions were laid down and certain decisions were arrived at. In those decisions, I complain that too much importance has been given to one community,—and other communities, especially the Sikh community and the depressed classes have been denied those rights.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Honourable Member need not go into the details of his motion at this stage. Does the Chair understand him to say that he has got definite information in his possession that the Government of India have taken a decision that with regard to the recruitment of services the principles laid down in his Resolution now should be adopted in future ? Does the Chair understand the Honourable Member to say that the Government of India have taken that decision and that that is his information ?

Sardar Sant Singh : That is my information. The Government of India have taken that decision in regard to the services controlled by them.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Has the Leader of the House got anything to say on this ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore (Leader of the House) : Yes, Sir, I take objection to this motion and I base that objection....

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Chair does not want to hear any objection from the Honourable Member just now. The Chair wants information from the Honourable Member. Has the Government of India taken any decision, according to which the recruitment to services will be made according to the principles enunciated in this motion ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : The Government have taken no decision in regard to that matter. The question of communal proportions in the services is undoubtedly engaging their attention, but they have taken no final decision in the matter.

Sardar Sant Singh : In that case I do not want to press my motion.

GOVERNOR GENERAL'S ASSENT TO BILLS.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : I have to inform the House that the following letter has been received from the Private Secretary to His Excellency the Viceroy :

"I have the honour to inform you that the following Bills which were passed by both Chambers of the Indian Legislature during the Delhi Session, 1933, have been assented to by His Excellency the Governor General under the provisions of sub-section (1) of section 68 of the Government of India Act :

1. The Indian Marine (Amendment) Act, 1933,
2. The Children (Pledging of Labour) Act, 1933,
3. The Indian Forest (Amendment) Act, 1933,
4. The Cotton Textile Industry Protection (Amendment) Act, 1933,
5. The Wheat Import Duty (Extending) Act, 1933,
6. The Salt Additional Import Duty (Extending) Act, 1933,
7. The Indian Finance Act, 1933,
8. The Indian Tariff (Ottawa Trade Agreement) Supplementary Amendment Act, 1933,
9. The Provincial Criminal Law Supplementing Act, 1933,
10. The Auxiliary Force (Amendment) Act, 1933,
11. The Indian Merchant Shipping (Amendment) Act, 1933,
12. The Indian Income-tax (Amendment) Act, 1933,
13. The Safeguarding of Industries Act, 1933, and
14. The Indian Tariff (Amendment) Act, 1933."

STATEMENTS LAID ON THE TABLE.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig (Home Member) : Sir, I lay on the table the information promised in reply to starred question No. 1119 asked by Mr. Muhammad Muazzam Sahib Bahadur on the 3rd April, 1933.

CASUALTIES DUE TO RASH DRIVING IN NEW DELHI AND DELHI CITY.

*1119. The number of casualties due to rash driving during the three years in question was as follows :

1932	13

The number of prosecutions for rash driving not attended with untoward results was as follows :

1932	43

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce (Member for Industries and Labour) : Sir, I lay on the table the information promised in reply to parts (d) to (h) of starred question No. 429 asked by Mr. Muhammad Anwar-ul-Azim on the 21st February, 1933.

APPOINTMENT OF MUSLIMS IN THE SIND AND BALUCHISTAN CIRCLE.

*429. (d) No.

(e) and (f). Do not arise in view of the reply given to part (d).

(g) No. The Muslim population both literate and illiterate in Sind is 73 per cent., in Baluchistan 89 per cent., and in the entire Postal Circle 76 per cent.

(h) 29.84 per cent., including the Railway Mail Service.

The Honourable Mr. A. H. Lloyd (Finance Member) : Sir, I lay on the table :

(i) the information promised in reply to starred question No. 1122 asked by Mr. B. N. Misra on the 5th April, 1933 ;

(ii) the information promised in reply to starred question No. 1123 asked by Mr. B. N. Misra on the 5th April, 1933 ;

(iii) the information promised in reply to starred question No. 1132 asked by Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh on the 5th April, 1933 ; and

(iv) the information promised in reply to unstarred questions Nos. 73 and 74 asked by Kunwar Hajee Ismail Ali Khan on the 8th March, 1933.

COMPLAINTS ABOUT ADULTERATION IN COUNTRY LIQUOR BOTTLES.

*1122. (a) Government have received no such complaints from the public.

(b) No. Differences in retail prices may, however, have prompted smuggling.

DUTY ON COUNTRY LIQUOR.

*1123. (a) Yes. In 1931-32 the country liquor shops were licensed on fixed fees whereas in 1932-33 the licenses were put to auction, resulting in an increase of 111 per cent. in license fees. The duty on country liquor was reduced from Rs. 10 to Rs. 7-8-0 per gallon.

(b) Yes. The duty on country liquor has again been reduced to Rs. 6-4-0 per gallon for the current year. The licenses auctioned in February, 1933, resulted in a decrease in revenue by Rs. 1,530 only.

(c) The decrease being negligible, no special reasons can be assigned to it.

(d) Yes. The sale price of Rs. 3 per bottle of country liquor in Delhi leaves very little margin of profit to the licensees as a bottle of the liquor costs him about Rs. 2-13-0 (Re. 1-7-0 being purchase price and Re. 1-6-0 being incidence of license fees) excluding such other expenses as cost of carriage, rent of shop, pay of staff, etc., etc.

RETRENCHMENT OF INCOME-TAX OFFICERS IN BIHAR AND ORISSA.

*1132. (a) Of the three officers retrenched, one volunteered himself for retrenchment. As regards the other two, the principle of selection for retrenchment on the ground of inefficiency was applied.

(b) Yes.

(c) The answer to the first part of the question is in the affirmative. The correctness of the allegation in the latter part of the question is not admitted.

(d) As inefficient officers were involved, there was no reason to consider any such question.

(e) No.

(f) No.

LICENCE FEES FOR Charas SHOPS IN DELHI.

73. The revenue from license fees for Charas shops in Delhi during 1931-32 exceeded the revenue for 1930-31, 1929-30 and 1928-29 by Rs. 35,010, Rs. 66,310 and Rs. 109,260, respectively.

INCREASE OR DECREASE IN THE EXCISE REVENUE IN DELHI.

74. The excise revenue realised from license fees in Delhi for 1932-33 and 1933-34 exceeded the revenue for 1931-32 by Rs. 1,04,116 and Rs. 1,13,576, respectively.

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler (Foreign Secretary) : Sir, I lay on the table :

(i) the information promised in reply to starred questions Nos. 55 and 56 asked by Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad on the 2nd February, 1933 ; and

(ii) the information promised in reply to starred questions Nos. 94, 95 and 96 asked by Mr. Nabakumar Sing Dudhoria on the 27th September, 1932.

(e) No. Political pensions are paid to members of the Delhi ex-Royal family residing elsewhere than Delhi.

PROPERTIES OF THE NAWAB NAZIMS OF BENGAL AND BIHAR AND ORISSA.

*94. (a) Though it has always been maintained that the Nawab Nazims had no right to alienate Nizamut property, nevertheless the British Government ruled in 1836 that the Nawab Nazim should not be allowed to alienate lands, buildings, plate and other hereditary property belonging to the Nizamut.

(b) The decision was communicated to the Agent to the Governor General for his guidance in case the Nawab evinced a disposition to alienate lands, etc.

(c) No.

(d) No jagirs or gifts appear to have been granted by any Nawab Nazim after Nawab Mobarak-ud-Dowlah.

PROPERTIES OF THE NAWAB NAZIMS OF BENGAL AND BIHAR AND ORISSA.

*95. (a) No document can be traced among the old records showing the origin of the Nizamut lands or any definite recognition of them by the Supreme Government. The British Government having, apparently, on acquiring the country admitted the Nazims to possession of the ramnas and continued it unquestioned ever since.

(b) After considerable difficulty and the examination of innumerable papers, some of which were proved to be forged while the authenticity of others was doubtful, the Commissioners prepared lists of State and private properties.

(c) A copy of the list is laid on the table.

(3) 25 million gallons per month.

(9) Hot weather. 10 million gallons per month.

Winter. 16.5 million gallons per month.

(b) There are seven public stand-posts on the roads in New Delhi. In addition water taps are available near Tonga Stands, Dhobi Ghats and Peon quarters. These water taps are accessible to the public. During summer temporary 'Piaos' are permitted at suitable places.

(c) Yes.

(d) The exact meaning of the question is not understood.

Mr. P. R. Rau (Financial Commissioner, Railways) : Sir, I lay on the table the information promised in reply to starred question No. 634 asked by Seth Haji Abdoola Haroon on the 3rd March, 1933.

PLACING OF CERTAIN CLERKS ON SPECIAL DUTY IN THE OFFICE OF THE AGENT, NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY.

*634. (a) Yes.

(b) The Agent, North Western Railway, reports that four temporary posts were created in the following grades for varying periods during the years 1931 to 1933 for work in connection with retrenchment, co-ordination of Personnel work, Labour Commission, etc., but against the four posts referred to above, two permanent posts, viz., one in Grade VII and one in Grade V were held in abeyance for the periods 17th July 1931 to 23rd October 1932 and 1st January 1932 to 31st January 1933, respectively. Consequently only two temporary posts, viz., one in Grade VII and one in Grade I are now in operation :—

2 posts in Grade VII on Rs. 500 each,

1 post in Grade V in the scale Rs. 215—15—275, and

1 post in Grade I in the scale Rs. 29—3—60.

(c) The clerks appointed to two Grade VII posts were given Rs. 500 each and the clerk appointed in Grade V post was given Rs. 215 in the scale Rs. 215—15—275. Extra pay allowed to the clerks placed on special duty and the percentage which that bears to their substantive rate of pay are shown below :

	Substantive pay of the incumbent of each temporary post.	Rate of extra pay allowed during the incumbency of temporary post.	Proportion which the extra pay bears to substantive rate of pay.
	Rs.	Rs.
Grade VII post (i)	330	170	51·5
Grade VII (ii)	440	60	13·6
	460	40	8·5
	480	20	4·2
Grade V post (iii)	190	25	13·2
	200	15	7·5
	200	30	15·4
	200	60	30·0

(iv) The Grade I post was filled by the appointment of a temporary typist on Rs. 30 per mensem in grade Rs. 39—3—60.

DEATHS OF SIR ZULFIQAR ALI KHAN AND KHAN BAHADUR SARFARAZ HUSSAIN KHAN.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore (Leader of the House) : Sir, it is once more our mournful duty to record the passing of yet another Member of this House. Sir Zulfiqar Ali Khan was connected with the reformed Indian Legislature ever since its inception in 1920, first as an elected Member of the Council of State, then as an elected Member of this House and subsequently as a nominated Member of this Assembly. But, Sir, his connection with the public life of this country was not limited to his parliamentary activities. He was a member of the Indian Central Committee which was appointed to work with the Statutory Commission on Constitutional Reforms. He was also a member of the Indian Delegation to the Assembly of the League of Nations at Geneva. His record of service for the public and for his community was both long and varied, yet I venture to think that he will be specially remembered for those personal qualities which impressed those with whom he was brought into contact—for that delightful old-world courtesy worthy of one whose name finds a place in the golden book of the Punjab, for that never failing urbanity which seemed to be proof against all trials, for that kindliness and generosity which marked the true gentleman. I would ask you, Sir, to convey to his widow and his relatives our deep sense of loss at his demise and our warm sympathy with them in their bereavement.

Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury (Assam : Muhammadan) : Sir, on behalf of the Independent Party I desire to associate ourselves with the tribute that has been paid by the Honourable the Leader of the House to the memory of Nawab Sir Zulfiqar Ali Khan. By the Nawab Sahib's sad and sudden death the Assembly has lost one of its outstanding personalities and the Muslim community one of its most distinguished leaders. The Assembly is distinctly poorer to-day by the loss of a Member of his eminence. He was undoubtedly one of the leaders of thought in the Assembly and his wise, sagacious and experienced utterances were always heard with respect and attention in the various sections of the House. The Honourable the Leader of the House has already made a reference to his personal qualities. He was pink of courtesy, highly cultured and was the finest specimen of gentleman that we have ever come across. He was held in very great esteem by all sections of the House. The loss to the Assembly by his death is great, but the loss to the Muslim community is irreparable. He belonged to that glaxy of leaders who devoted their time and energy for the awakening of political consciousness and creating healthy public life in our community. It is sad to contemplate, Sir, that in recent years we had to mourn the loss of men like Maulana Muhammad Ali, Sir Ali Imam, Mian Sir Muhammad Shafi and Mr. Hasan Imam, and to-day we are expressing our deep sorrow at the passing away of another towering figure in the person of Sir Zulfiqar Ali Khan.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh (Muzaffarpur cum Champaran : Non-Muhammadan) : Sir, I beg to associate myself and the members of the Nationalist Party with all that has fallen from the lips of the Leader of the House. In the death of Nawab Sir Zulfiqar Ali Khan we have lost a very charming personality who, by his urbanity of manners and winning disposition, won the hearts of all of us. The Honourable the Leader of the House has already recounted the various activities of the late Nawab Saheb, and I do not want to repeat them. I only request you, Sir, that you will be pleased to convey an expression of our sincere condolence, to the members of the bereaved family.

Mr. R. S. Sarma (Nominated Non-Official) : Sir, in the absence of the Leader of our Party, I wish to associate the Centre Party and myself with the sentiments of sorrow and regret expressed by the Leader of the House and Leaders of other Parties on the loss sustained by this House and the country by the demise of Sir Zulfiqar Ali Khan, whose unselfish services ungrudgingly rendered in the cause of his community and country will be remembered long and gratefully by his countrymen.

Mr. G. Morgan (Bengal : European) : Sir, I should like to associate myself and the Party which I represent with the sentiments expressed by the Leader of the House at the great loss which has been sustained by the death of Sir Zulfiqar Ali Khan. I feel it a personal loss, as I esteemed it a great privilege to count him as a friend and it was a great shock to me to see his death stated in the public press. I, therefore, ask you, while associating myself with the sentiments expressed by the Leader of the House, to convey to his bereaved family the sense of loss which we in this House have sustained.

Captain Sher Muhammad Khan Gakhar (Nominated Non-Official) : Sir, I rise on behalf of these Benches as well as on my own behalf to associate with the sentiments which have been so ably and pathetically voiced by the previous speakers. Nawab Sir Zulfiqar Ali Khan combined in himself the very best of Indian and European culture. His was a noble personality. When I recall to mind his highly polished manners and his characteristic simplicity, I feel that the Punjab may well mourn the loss of a son of whom she might be proud. Besides his political career, he was a veritable student of history throughout his life. His books on that subject bear ample testimony to his keen insight. In Sir Zulfiqar Ali Khan's demise the community has suffered an irreparable loss. On this occasion I cannot do more than pay my tribute to the memory of the deceased.

Sir Abdulla-al-Mámün Suhrawardy (Burdwan and Presidency Divisions : Muhammadan Rural) : I rise, Sir, to associate myself with what has fallen from the Leader of the House and other previous speakers and, in doing so, I desire to pay my personal tribute to the memory of one with whom I was closely connected in public life. Scarcely had we recovered from the shock of the untimely death of Sir Muhammad Shafi and Sir Ali Imam when Death singles out and removes from our midst yet another of our veteran leaders. Nawab Sir Zulfiqar Ali Khan was a Member of the old Imperial Council. His aristocratic name and fine personality early captivated my imagination. I first became acquainted with him in Calcutta when he went there to attend meetings of the Imperial Legislative Council. Amongst the Muslim Members of the old Imperial Council he alone took a deep and keen interest in the welfare of the Muslims of Bengal and, in order to gain first-hand knowledge, he took the trouble of visiting distant provincial towns like Barisal and Dacca. Many years flew over our heads since then and with the transfer of the capital to Delhi, Calcutta ceased to be the centre of attraction for men of light and leading like the late lamented Nawab Sahib. But when I came to the Assembly in 1926, I found Nawab Sahib here as an elected Member. Our old acquaintance was renewed and with his help and co-operation we founded the All-India Muslim Legislators' Association with His Highness the Aga Khan as its President and Nawab Sir Zulfiqar Ali Khan as one of its Vice-Presidents. With his help and co-operation we also founded the Central Muslim Party in the Assembly which he led with conspicuous ability, tact and success during the whole term of the last Assembly. In 1928, Nawab Sir Zulfiqar Ali Khan and myself were appointed members of the Indian Central Committee and for nearly two years we travelled together with the Simon Commission in India and in England and worked in the closest association and co-operation with each other. Of late, the late Nawab Sahib rarely visited and attended the Assembly and when he did so he was morose, silent and quiet. Little did I realise then that the sands of his time were running fast and the Hour Glass of his life was about to be shattered. His death creates a void which cannot be easily filled and is an irreparable loss to Islam and to India. To me it means a painful wrench and a great personal loss. As the Leader of the House has remarked, a perfect gentleman, a generous host, a genuine friend and the pink of courtesy, he always maintained the high and noble traditions of the ruling house to which he belonged. I dare say long would the House miss the tall aristocratic figure which adorned the Benches of this House and long and deeply would I mourn the loss of a true friend and echo the words of the poet :

O, for the touch of a vanished hand,
And the sound of a voice that is still.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : I would like to associate the Chair with the tribute that has been paid to the memory of our late colleague, Sir Zulfiqar Ali Khan. The death of this great personality has not merely created a gap in the public life of this country, but has left in the minds and hearts of many of us a deep sense of personal loss, for all those in this House who had the privilege of working with him will remember the personality of the late Nawab and they would for many years to come cherish in their memories recollections of his hospitality and friendship. It will be my duty to communicate to the members of his family the deep sense of sorrow and loss that this House feels on the passing away of one of its Members.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Sir, it is my melancholy duty to bring to the notice of the House the death of another colleague of ours, the late Khan Bahadur Nawab Sarfaraz Hussain Khan, who was a Member of this Assembly for many years. He occupied a very prominent position in the public life of my province, Bihar. He was for about 25 years intimately connected with the Patna City Municipality as its Chairman, and sometime as its Vice-Chairman. In that capacity he rendered yeomen service to the local public. He identified himself with the nationalist activities of his province, and even beyond the range of his province. He was the President of the Bihar Provincial Conference which was held at Monghyr some years back. He was loved and respected both by Hindus and Mussalmans alike. He was singularly free from communal tinge, and in his work as a Member of the Legislative Assembly, he identified himself with the Swaraj Party which was then formed under the leadership of the late Pandit Motilal Nehru. He worked here for many years, and his assiduousness to duty and his sense of discipline and regularity of attendance were remarkable. He was loved and respected by every section of the House, and in his death we have lost a very charming personality, and one who occupied a prominent place in the public life of this country. His death has created a void in public life ; and I would request you, Sir, to convey to the Members of the bereaved family an expression of our heartfelt feelings of sympathy and condolence.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : Sir, Khan Bahadur Sarfaraz Hussain Khan was a Member of the first, second and the third Assemblies. He was known personally to a great many of us here and I think I can say without fear of contradiction that in his time there was no other personality in the Assembly who was more universally liked. Quiet and unassuming, he made a host of friends and, I am sure, never a single enemy. As regards his work, I can say this, that it left an impression upon my mind of great assiduity and of tireless energy and I am sure that I will be voicing the feelings of Members on this side if I associate myself very warmly with what has fallen from Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh.

Maulvi Muhammad Shafee Daoodi (Tirhut Division : Muhammadan) : Sir, I was intimately connected with Khan Bahadur Sarfaraz Hussain Khan and his public life. Although he belonged to a very aristocratic family of Bihar, he led the life of a commoner and his house was the rendezvous of all who have had anything to say to him. His life as the Chairman and Vice-Chairman of the Patna Municipality was well known to everybody. No one had any complaint against him. An overwhelming majority was satisfied with his work, but when the public life of India took a different course, he associated himself with the new state of things with the same zeal although he was of mature age. He was a zealous Member of the Assembly and a very enthusiastic member of the Swaraj Party. By dint of his labour, he has shown how a public man should discharge his duty. Even in the last days when he could not come to the Assembly, on account of ill health, he took a keen interest in the proceedings of the Assembly. He used to read the reports of the Assembly and took a great interest in seeing what the other Members of the Assembly were doing. When he was called upon to explain any important question which was agitating the mind of the Assembly, he would take delight in discussing the pros and cons of it. He was a man of charming personality and he has left us to mourn his loss very deeply.

Mr. R. S. Sarma : The warm tributes paid to one who was known as the Father of the House, are warmly shared by the members of my Party.

Mr. G. Morgan : I rise to associate myself and the European Group with the sentiments expressed by the Leader of the House and the leaders on the other side.

Captain Sher Muhammad Khan Gakhar : I rise to associate myself and those on these Benches with the expression of sorrow expressed by the Leader of the House and the Leader of the Nationalist Party and other Members of the House.

Sir Abdullah-al-Mámún Suhrawardy : I rise to pay my personal tribute to the memory of the departed. I believe I am the only Member of this House who was a colleague of the late Khan Bahadur Sarfaraz Hussain Khan in the Bengal Legislative Council before the creation of the province of Bihar. When I first entered the Bengal Legislative Council under the Morley-Minto Reforms, I found there, amongst others, Mr. Ali Imam, Mr. Wasi Ahmad, Maulvi Fakhruddin and Khan Bahadur Sarfaraz Hussain Khan. Alas, the hand of Death has fallen heavily of late on the province of Bihar and Sir Ali Imam, Mr. Hasan Imam, Sir Muhammad Fakhruddin and Khan Bahadur Sarfaraz Hussain Khan have passed away in quick succession. With Khan Bahadur Sarfaraz Hussain Khan disappears the last of the stalwarts of Bihar. With these words, I associate myself with what has fallen from Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh and the Leader of the House.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : I should like to associate the Chair with the tribute that has been paid to the memory of Khan Bahadur Sarfaraz Hussain Khan. It was my privilege to work in close association with the Khan Bahadur in the second and third Assemblies. I distinctly remember the enthusiasm and the energy which Khan Bahadur Sarfaraz Hussain Khan put forth in his work which was the envy of the younger Members of this House. He was regular in his seat and he took the greatest interest in the work of the Assembly. He loved the work of the Assembly and the Assembly in its turn loved the unassuming but charming personality of Khan Bahadur Sarfaraz Hussain Khan. It shall again be my duty to convey to his relatives the deep sense of sorrow that this House feels at the loss of one whom they all so well loved.

THE INDIAN MEDICAL COUNCIL BILL.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The next item on the order paper of the day is a motion in the name of Mr. G. S. Bajpai " that the Honourable Sir Bepin Behary Ghose be appointed to the Select Committee on the Bill to establish a Medical Council in India and to provide for the maintenance of a British Indian Medical Register ". With regard to this motion, the Chair would like to make an announcement. A similar question arose in the past as to whether in cases when the Law Member was not a Member of the House at the time the motion was made, but was subsequently nominated to the House, it was necessary to have a specific motion that he should be included in the Select Committee. On that occasion a ruling was given by my predecessor that :

" My opinion is that the Law Member does not, under Standing Order 40, become an ex-officio member of a Select Committee constituted before he became a Member of the Assembly."

The circumstances under which this ruling was given were, however, different from the present circumstances. On the last occasion the Law Member of the Government of India was not a Member of the Legislative Assembly at the time the motion for a Select Committee was made. Subsequently the Law Member of the Government of India was nominated a Member of this Assembly and in those circumstances my predecessor held that he does not become an ex-officio member of the Select Committee but that a specific motion must be made to that effect. But in this particular case the House would remember that the Law Member of the Government of India was a Member of this House when the motion to refer the Medical Council Bill to Select Committee was made. But in the meantime the personnel of the office changed ; the Honourable Sir Bepin Behary Ghose has taken place and he has also been nominated as a Member of this Assembly and he has taken the oath of allegiance. Under those circumstances I hold that it is not necessary to make a specific motion as contemplated by Mr. Bajpai to enable the present Law Member to take his seat in the Select Committee.

THE INDIAN PETROLEUM BILL.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce (Member for Industries and Labour) : Sir, I move for leave to introduce a Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the import, transport, storage, production and refinement of petroleum and other inflammable substances.

The motion was adopted.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : Sir, I introduce the Bill.

THE INDIAN INCOME-TAX (THIRD AMENDMENT) BILL.

The Honourable Mr. A. H. Lloyd (Finance Member) : Sir, I move for leave to introduce a Bill further to amend the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922, for certain purposes (Third Amendment).

The motion was adopted.

The Honourable Mr. A. H. Lloyd : Sir, I introduce the Bill.

THE INDIAN MERCHANT SHIPPING (SECOND AMENDMENT) BILL.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The House will now resume consideration of the following motion moved by Mr. A. Raisman on the 12th April, 1933 :

"That the Bill further to amend the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1923, for certain purposes (Second Amendment), be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Deputy President, the Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore, Bhai Parma Nand, Mr. S. G. Jog, Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh, Mr. Muhammad Azhar Ali, Mr. B. V. Jadhav, Mr. S. C. Mitra, Sir Leslie Hudson, Khan Bahadur Haji Wajihuddin, Mr. B. N. Misra, Sir Muhammad Yakub and the Mover, and that the number of members whose presence shall be necessary to constitute a meeting of the Committee shall be five".

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai (Sind : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Sir, I feel fortunate that I have caught your eye first to speak on this Bill which, as it is, might be considered as only a formal Bill and as such the House might give it that weight, but, Sir, from my point of view, and, I think, from the point of view of many others, this is an important matter in which there are certain principles involved.

Now, there is no doubt that what is now asked is that this Bill, which is called the Indian Merchant Shipping Amendment Bill, be sent to Select Committee. The discussion which took place on the last occasion when this Bill came up before the House supports me in the view that there are certain principles from the Indian point of view which must be ventilated and which should be favourably considered by this House. As the Bill stands, it is said that it is intended to have more precautionary measures for the safety of passengers and goods on steamers and for that purpose this Bill should be enacted to give effect to those safeguards. So far as that goes, I would call this Bill not only a harmless but a useful one, because everybody would like that when passengers and cargo are carried by sea there must be all kinds of precautions against accidents and against other casualties which would go to jeopardise marine transport. From that point of view it is all right, but, in considering that, I would point out to the House that Indian interests, so far as this marine business is concerned, are absolutely neglected by Government. In the first place, I must draw the attention of the House to the fact that Government have for a long time been adopting a practice which appears to me to be very objectionable and it is this that whenever they have to make any law of this nature or of its kind, they mature everything, themselves give their sanction to it, or enter into agreements, and then bring them to the House for, so to say, a formal sanction. This is most objectionable. In this case what we find is this. It is asked that sanction should be given to the International Convention that has been already made on this question. It is not only in this instance that such a procedure has been adopted which seems to me to be quite objectionable but we remember the case of the Ottawa Pact where everything was cooked up, finished and then brought before this House. I ask, Sir, is it fair ? I think this practice should now cease and matters that are brought before the House should be brought as original and sanction obtained before pacts are made. In this case also, before this International Convention was entered into, the points that were decided there, should have been discussed here first and sanction obtained to them from this House.

I will now pass on to the other question. The second question which is very important is that Government should let this House know how far they have helped Indians in this marine line business, in having their own merchant ships, and how far they have helped Indians to carry goods and passengers in their own ships. To me it appears Government have entirely failed. Last time speeches were made on this point, but it was late at night, following the Parliamentary practice, though done with vengeance because it is not the Parliamentary practice to sit for the whole day from 11 o'clock in the morning and again at night, but that apart in the speeches made at that time this important point was raised, and it is very fortunate that this discussion was not finished then. On this point I find that the first speaker was the Honourable Mr. B. Das who is an engineer himself and we know what interest he takes and what ability he possesses. He has said that the Indian marine intellect is not being advanced at all in India and it is high time now that the Government should turn their attention in that direction. The complaints that will be made on that point are these : the first is that there is no encouragement given to the creation of Indian merchant ships ; and the second is that there is no encouragement or help given by Government to candidates or people to go and train themselves for this mercantile marine. With regard to the second complaint, the Honourable Mr. Das said that there were no Board of Trade examinations in India : those examinations were a passport to the.....

1 P.M.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore (Member for Commerce and Railways) : May I interrupt the Honourable Member on a point of information ? Not only are there Board of Trade examinations in India, but they are held every month.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : I know that that was the reply given by Mr. Raisman, and I was not going to leave it at all—I was going to touch upon it and add to what Mr. Das said : but what I wanted to emphasise by a personal experience, which would satisfy the Honourable the Leader of the House and also Mr. Raisman, was that there were no facilities given for passing that examination. What Mr. Raisman then said on a point of explanation was :

"May I say that anybody can take the Board of Trade Examination in India and that people do so every month."

The point is this : it is certainly news to me that every month they have been taking these Board of Trade Examinations. But may I say that there are certain preliminaries to be gone through before a certificate is obtained, and the facilities are not given for these preliminaries. I do not think Indians can get themselves easily qualified to appear for this examination. Last February, when this Assembly was sitting, a young man came to me from Sind and he wanted to pass this examination, and for that he said to me that he had to go through a training of 18 months on a British or any other ship that goes abroad to foreign countries ; and, unless and until he had that training, he could not appear for this examination. I asked him for further information and he satisfied me that he was a fit and experienced person in that line for being allowed to get this training on a ship in order to enable him to pass the examination. I say, when these people are coming forward anxiously desiring to take this course, they should be given every help and encouragement. I approached several persons in this connection and I must say that I approached even Sir Leslie Hudson on this point, and he very kindly told me that he would speak to the P. & O. Company and gave me a letter to them. I handed this over to that young gentleman and he went round. But he could not get entrance for training anywhere on a foreign boat. He got the reply that only British and foreign people were allowed to take this training. If this is not a fact that they do not allow Indians or at any rate put impediments in their way in that direction, I would like to be corrected. The young man told me that even if he got into any Indian company, it was no good, because the Scindia Steam Navigation Company was a company working on the coast and if a man goes and gets his training on coastal ships, he would not be entitled to appear for this examination. Under these circumsstances, it is for the Government to answer what encouragement or assistance they give in these matters : but, I must say, it is a deplorable thing. They say here that people are passing the examination every month. This is news to me : and, with all deference to the Honourable the Leader of the House and to Mr. Raisman, I will not be satisfied with a general statement of that kind. I would like to know who are those people who were allowed to appear and who have passed the examination and where they got these preliminary facilities. Unless I get full information on this point, I will not be satisfied and the Government remain condemned on this question of Indianisation. I may say that the young man I was talking about is so enthusiastic about it that he is still at Bombay trying to get these facilities and he is still unable to get into any foreign company for this purpose. Of course, the interests of Indians are ignored or neglected but I have nothing to say against the principle of this Bill which is that certain measures are to be taken for the purpose of creating more precautions for the safety at sea. But I do say that there is another principle that the Government should follow and that is that the Indian intellect should be increasingly directed to this marine side so that we may have our own ships carrying cargo and passengers : what happens at present is that shipping belonging to British and foreign countries carry goods and passengers, including Indians, and they take so much money from us : but they do nothing in return by way of Indianising or training Indians. I would certainly not object to this Bill going to Select Committee, because, after all, it is a useful Bill. It is for the Committee to deal with the details. but I must insist upon this position that the Government must consider this question of Indianization of marine before this Bill is passed. I trust and hope that satisfactory explanation will be given as to how far they are going to advance the Indian intellect in this marine line ; and, after they satisfy the House on that point, I will be in a position to give my vote in favour of the Bill.

The Assembly then adjourned for Lunch till Half Past Two of the Clock.

The Assembly re-assembled after Lunch at Half Past Two of the Clock, Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) in the Chair.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : Sir, I would like to make a short appeal to this House to allow this Bill to go to the Select Committee without further debate. No one anticipated, Sir, that such dry and technical matters as those dealt with in this Bill would have inspired such continued oratorical efforts as we heard on the last day, or, should I say, last night of the last Session. Evidently, Sir, we had failed to take full account of the stimulating effect of an after dinner sitting, an effect which seems to have persisted till today. I would, however, like very shortly to refer to two or three matters which have been raised in the course of the debate both on the last occasion and on this.

My friend, Mr. Mitra, and, if I remember rightly, Mr. Ranga Iyer as well, felt some difficulty in understanding the principle of the Bill. Now, Sir, I would like to explain the main principle of the Bill in just a few words.

Most of the maritime nations of the world agreed recently on two main points connected with shipping. They agreed firstly that in the interests of human life at sea certain standards of construction and equipment should be insisted on in respect of passenger vessels, and, secondly, they agreed that in respect of safety of human life and property at sea certain common international rules should be imposed to prevent overloading of passenger and cargo vessels. Now, Sir, all that this Bill does is that it seeks to ratify the International Conventions which give effect to these principles and which were agreed to at certain International Conferences. Now, Sir, if I remember rightly, on the last occasion when we discussed this matter, my friend, Mr. Maswood Ahmad, who is not here unfortunately, interjected that he could not accept the principle of the Bill. I would have liked, Sir, if he had been present here, to give him a solemn assurance that this Bill does not impose any limit to the number of questions which an Honourable Member may ask in this House ; but, Sir, I do not think that my friend, Mr. Maswood Ahmad, would object to securing a greater measure of safety for human life and property on the high seas.

I come next, Sir, to my friend, Mr. B. Das. Unfortunately he also is not here today. Mr. B. Das travelled entirely outside the scope of the Bill, and in that he seems to have found a docile, a blindly docile, supporter in my friend, Mr. Lalchand Navalrai. He left on one side entirely the principle of the Bill and he denounced the Government for having failed to do what they could to stimulate a sea sense among educated Indians. Now, Sir, that is exactly what we have been trying to do in the training ship "Dufferin", and I would have asked my friend, Mr. B. Das, if he could spare the time, to spend three years in the "Dufferin", for, I am perfectly sure we would have made a new man of him. I extend the invitation to Mr. Lalchand Navalrai.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Is that ship risky now ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : No, Sir ; not at all.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : It was so said in the Standing Finance Committee, and some money was given to put it right.

[Sir Frank Noyce.]

the Act has been greatly enlarged, for we have no desire to make any distinction between Government employees and others in any respect so far as this Act is concerned. The definition of a plantation has been widened and we have included persons engaged in gas works. Finally, at the end of the Schedule Honourable Members will find three entirely new classes of workers. I think, therefore, that Honourable Members will realise that the number of additional workers whom the Select Committee propose to include is very substantial, and they will, I hope, agree that we have gone about as far as it is reasonable to do at the present time. I hope that in the future, as in the past, Government will from time to time add fresh classes of workers by notification, and I may add that Government are engaged at present in framing a satisfactory definition of the forest workers who should come under the Act. I have every anticipation that in the course of a few weeks we shall be in a position to issue a notification in this respect.

Sir, I move.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Motion moved :

"That the Bill further to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923, as reported by the Select Committee, be taken into consideration."

Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury (Assam : Muhammadan) : Sir, as I am one of those who have appended a minute of dissent on some of the recommendations of the Select Committee, I want to say a few words explaining our position.

This Bill has emerged from the Select Committee, with many important changes, and I gladly recognise that the Honourable Sir Frank Noyce was very sympathetic in considering cases of inclusion of fresh categories of workers within the scope of the Bill, and, as he claims, the measure has been liberalised to a very considerable extent. But I must say at the same time that while he gave with one hand he took away with another. In some very important respects he has gone back on the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Labour,—I am referring particularly to the recommendation about the maximum and minimum scale of compensation to be awarded in case of death or permanent disablement. The Government justify their action on the ground that since the Royal Commission recommended there has been a considerable change in the price level. My Honourable friends, Messrs. Morgan and Mackenzie, also support this view that the change in the price level necessitates a change in the scale of compensation. That argument, I submit, is entirely irrelevant. The Royal Commission was never influenced in their recommendation by the consideration of price levels, and for this reason. When the Workmen's Compensation Act came into operation in 1924, the index number for all articles stood at 155. When the Commission made their recommendation in 1930, it came down to 137. If the Royal Commission were influenced by the consideration of price level, they would have recommended a reduction of compensation instead of an increase, because there was a fall of 18 points in the cost of living index. I maintain that the consideration of price level has nothing to do with the scale of compensation. Price level is a fluctuating item, and the scale of compensation is fixed and permanent.

The principles, Sir, on which the Royal Commission based their recommendation are entirely different. They based their recommendation about the maximum and minimum scale on this. They fixed their minimum just to avoid the granting of an excessively low amount as compensation ; and they fixed the maximum on the principle that the industry should not be hit hard Acting on these two principles, and not on a consideration of price level, they made their recommendations. I may remind the House that the Royal Commission included such eminent industrialists as Sir Victor Sassoon, Sir Alexander Murray, Mr. G. D. Birla, and Sir Ibrahim Rahimtoola, and they agreed to this higher scale, because they considered it reasonable. When the Bill was circulated for opinion, the employers raised the objection that the industry was being hit hard by this high scale of compensation. We are very familiar in this House with the usual cry of the employers that this industry or that industry is in danger. The Government of Bombay, which is the Government of an industrial province, considered that this scale of compensation was quite suitable, and as far back as 1932 the Government of India too had the same opinion and incorporated this recommendation in the Bill, but it is a pity that under the pressure of capitalist employer class the Government have surrendered to their unreasonable demands.

This is all I have to say for the present.

Mr. N. M. Joshi (Nominated Non-Official) : Sir, when the Bill was sent to the Select Committee, I had hoped that the Select Committee would make many substantial improvements. I quite recognise that in the matter of bringing new classes within the scope of this legislation some improvement has been made, but in this connection we have to remember that the Royal Commission has admitted that in the matter of workmen's compensation there is no justification for restricting the classes to be brought within the scope of this legislation only to the organised industries or to hazardous industries and, therefore, the sooner we bring all the classes of workers within the scope of this legislation, the better it is. In this connection I would like to suggest to the Honourable Member in charge of this Department that he should seriously consider the question of compulsory insurance against the risk of accidents. It is admitted that unless there is a system of compulsory insurance, the workmen's compensation works as a hardship against individual employers. Therefore it is necessary that a compulsory system of insurance should be established so that it would be easier to bring in the employees of smaller employers within the scope of this legislation. I, therefore, suggest that he should seriously consider the question of compulsory insurance against the risk of accidents for the employees in all trades and industries, because unless that is done, it will be difficult for the scope of the Bill to be enlarged. It is a matter of satisfaction that the Honourable Member has an intention of publishing early rules as regards the application of this legislation to the workers in the forest industries, but our disappointment in regard to the report of the Select Committee is in regard to the rates of compensation. We had hoped that the rates of compensation which the Royal Commission has recommended and which the Government had included in their original Bill would be improved. On the other hand the Government have gone back upon their original proposals. This is due to the influence of the capitalists. Evidently the Honourable Member in charge of this Department seems to be very susceptible to the influence from that direction.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I protest against the statement of my Honourable friend, Mr. Joshi. It has been my endeavour in dealing with all the recommendations of the Labour Commission to hold the scales as evenly as is possible for a fallible human being to do.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : The Honourable Member may have done his very best to hold the scales even, but it is quite possible that when he made those attempts he might have made mistakes and I hope he will recognise that he has made a mistake in spite of the great effort he has made. When he introduced the Bill originally, I am quite sure he had considered the Bill very carefully. I do not know what happened between the introduction of the Bill and the meeting of the Select Committee which made him change his views. If the influence of the capitalists had no effect, I do not know what other thing produced that effect upon him. I do not wish to deal with that point in detail as I have got an amendment on that point. On the whole I feel that in the matter of the rates of compensation Government should have been more generous and in this connection we must remember this, that it is always said that our industries are backward, that our standards of life are low in India, but I would like Members of this Assembly to consider this. How long are we going to be obsessed by this feeling that our standard is low and, therefore, we should not undertake bold measures. If we are always influenced by this sort of inferiority complex, we shall never come up to the level of people in the other countries. We should get over this feeling that we are a backward country and that our standard of life is low and, therefore, it must remain very low. Let us be a little bold and take bold measures and not be frightened by the fact that if we act boldly, our industries will suffer and our country will go to the dogs. I have nothing more to say at this stage.

Mr. S. G. Jog (Berar Representative) : I had no intention of prolonging this discussion, but, as a member of the Select Committee, I had much to do with the report. Those of us who were in the Select Committee would recognise that we had to meet two extremes, Mr. Mody, the capitalist, on one side, and Mr. Joshi and his followers on the other. I am myself not a capitalist. I have not involved myself in the labour movement. We had to see that an even balance is maintained. In the discussions that took place in the Select Committee, there was a regular scuffle between Mr. Mody on one side and Mr. Joshi on the other. I must congratulate Mr. Joshi on his enthusiasm for the welfare of the workers, but at the same time we must see that we face things as they are. The Labour Commission sat long ago and world conditions have undergone such a change that its recommendations must undergo a fresh and more critical and closer examination in the light of existing circumstances. At that time probably the state of the industry was very prosperous, but since then things have gone wrong throughout the world and India is no exception to this. Many of us had to see that the welfare of labour is maintained. At the same time we wanted to see that no unnecessary restriction is placed on the industry. If the industry survives and prospers, there is every chance of securing prosperity for the workers, but if the industries are affected, what will happen to the workers ? I hope this aspect of the case will appeal to Mr. Joshi and those of his way of thinking. I do not yield to Mr. Joshi in my desire for the welfare of labour. Many of these people made representations to me and I tried to meet their wishes in the Select Committee to the best of my ability. At the same time I could not ignore the difficulties of the industrial class and on many occasions we had to find out the golden mean between two extremes. As you will observe, I am a signatory to the majority report and in considering the compensation we had to take into account the changed circumstances, the changed living and the fall in prices. When the recommendations and the scale of compensation were given, things were quite different and we had to change many of those things under the changed circumstances. We have given the best consideration to both the views of the labour as well as of the industrialist. I must also say that on many points the Honourable Member in charge, Sir Frank Noyce, was extremely sympathetic and he tried to meet more Mr. Joshi than Mr. Mody. On the whole, I find that the report of the Select Committee is extremely satisfactory although it may not have come up exactly to the expectations of Mr. Joshi. I hope, with these few remarks, that the Select Committee's report will be adopted.

3 P.M.

Dr. R. D. Dalal (Nominated Non-Official) : Mr. President, I rise to speak very briefly on a topic raised by my Honourable friends Mr. Joshi, Mr. Jadhav, and other signatories of the minutes of dissent to the report of the Select Committee, to which the Bill further to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act was referred. The subject involved is the question of inclusion of hookworm disease (Ankylostomiasis) within the scope of compensation for Industrial Diseases. My Honourable friends make a recommendation that hookworm disease should be classified as an occupational disease for workers working on plantations and in mines. This subject was brought forward at the second meeting of the Select Committee, and I took an active part in this question. So far as I understand the Workmen's Compensation Act, the object of the Act as regards the scheduling of Industrial Diseases is preventive ; so I presume that the contention advanced by my Honourable friends for the extension of compensation in case of hookworm disease is that the extension would ensure greater care on the part of employers and would have enormous effect in the improvement of sanitary condition of plantations and mines. I heartily congratulate my Honourable friends Mr. Joshi and Mr. Jadhav on the deep interest they take in the health and welfare of the labourer, and I admire their boldness to plunge into public health questions. My Honourable friend Mr. Jadhav was my Chief in Bombay, and I entertain warm affection and regard for the Labour Representative from Bombay ; and much as I should like to please them, I deeply regret being unable to see eye to eye with them in this matter.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : You saw eye to eye with us in the Select Committee.

Dr. R. D. Dalal : Now, Sir, if the House will only bear with me for just a few minutes, I hope to be able to show that hookworm disease cannot be considered as a disease incidental to the nature of employment. It is true that hookworm disease is prevalent on plantations and in mines, but, Sir, when we turn to this question, we find that it is a most difficult and complicated question ; and we are at once plunged in a maze of uncertainty. It has to be determined whether the labourer is suffering from Ankylostomiasis, whether or not the disease did arise from his work, and who is the particular employer who ought rightly to be called upon to pay compensation, because the labourer passes from employer to employer, and so it is a very difficult matter indeed to fix the date when the infection was contracted. I may remind the House that coolies on plantations and in mines are recruited from parts of the country, where hookworm disease naturally exists. The highest incidence of Ankylostomiasis is met with in the Madras Presidency, next comes Bihar and Orissa, then Bengal, Assam and so on. A study of the Epidemiology of Ankylostomiasis shows that the degree of hookworm infection is the same amongst organised labour force and uncontrolled villagers. I admit that sometimes hookworm infection is regarded as being greater amongst organised labour force than amongst villagers. But, Sir, this can be easily explained. On plantations and in mines the medical and public health arrangements are of a high order, and the organised labour force are under the control and special care of qualified medical officers who draw attention to hookworm infection amongst the Coolies and treat them for it, whereas villagers are not under any medical supervision, so nothing is heard of hookworm prevalence amongst them, and it is assumed that hookworm is relatively uncommon amongst them. Sir, I am profoundly convinced that occupation plays no part at all in the Epidemiology of Ankylostomiasis. Compensation should be restricted to cases in which disease is really specific to an Industry. If Ankylostomiasis be included in the Schedule for Industrial Diseases, the same arguments would apply equally to Malaria, Kala Azar, and water-borne diseases which are prevalent on plantations and in mines as well as amongst the general population. If we regard Malaria, Kala Azar, Ankylostomiasis and other diseases as diseases incidental to employment on plantations and in mines, we shall get into hopeless muddle. Now, Sir, to pursue the subject further, I shall with your permission explain to the House that Ankylostomiasis is caused by the presence of hookworms in the upper part of the Small Intestine. I need hardly point out that promiscuous soil pollution is an almost universal habit in India ; so the larvæ of the worms enter the body through the skin of the feet of the persons who walk bare-footed on fæcally contaminated infected soil, or from the infected soil to the food by dirty hands, or by drinking dirty muddy contaminated, infected water. Now, this at once brings us to the measures for the control of Ankylostomiasis. Keeping the feet off the polluted soil or keeping the feet covered by boots during the act of defæcation is a most powerful factor in controlling hookworm infection and in bringing it down to a negligible and harmless level. Therefore, the ideals for the eradication of hookworm infection are the prevention of indiscriminate soil pollution by the construction of suitable sanitary latrines and the provision of pure drinking water supply. But, Sir, these ideals are already provided for by legislation. Sections 5, 9, 13 and 14 of Indian Factories Act of 1911 and sections 6 and 17 of Indian Mines Act of 1923 contain express provisions for adequate latrine accommodation and for sufficient and suitable supply of water fit for drinking and for the inspection thereof. But, Sir, apart from legislation, apart from the Factories and the Mines Acts, the health of the labourer on plantations and in mines is a question of primary importance to the employer, who realises that in carrying out the duty of conserving the health of his worker, he is also serving his own best interests. A high morbidity rate—a high sickness rate amongst the Coolies would handicap production and would reduce earning capacity, and it stands to reason that it is much easier to attract labour to and to keep labour on healthy plantations and healthy mines than on unhealthy areas where Malaria, Kala Azar, Ankylostomiasis and other diseases are rife ; so, apart from legislation, the employers themselves of their own accord voluntarily provide hospitals and dispensaries, medical and public health arrangements, and recreation facilities. Now, Sir, let me turn for a moment to the common law of nature, which has in my opinion an important bearing on this question. All of us are mortal, and our death is preceded by some disease caused by something in our environment touching the weak spot in our separate organisations. That is the common law of nature. Then, Sir, is it not true in one sense that our diseases are due to our occupations ? That is to say, the human frame breaks down because the weak spot is touched or affected by something in our surroundings. It, therefore, behoves us not to make legislation an absurdity by attempting in a Bill dealing with compensation for workmen to deal with common misfortunes and universal maladies from which none of the general population are free and which could not be dealt with in any measure directed against particular and special misfortunes. Sir, one of the objects of the Workmen's Compensation Act is to reduce litigation as much as possible ; so, I feel very strongly that the House should not take a false step or the House might land the workmen in a most unfortunate and unsatisfactory position arising out of the litigation they might be compelled to engage in in their attempts to prove their case. I, therefore, earnestly hope that the conclusion which I have advanced in reasoned order with such clarity, conviction, and force as I am capable of will not be refused if it cannot be refuted.

Mr. Muhammad Azhar Ali (Lucknow and Fyzabad Divisions : Muhammadan Rural) : I do not claim to belong to the capitalist group nor do I belong to such workmen to whom this Act would apply, but still I am a sort of worker and I am glad to say that from the sections that are incorporated in the Act, I have not been able to spot such sections which are to work great hardship on the poor workmen. This is all due, as several of our friends referred, to the sympathetic attitude of the Honourable Member in charge of the Bill. I do not see why my Honourable friend, Mr. Joshi, should be so much agitated as to have said what he did about the susceptibility of the Honourable Member. I would like to lay the blame on the members of the Committee themselves and, if they were in a majority, it was for them to have taken objection to those objectionable portions of the Bill. Sir, my Honourable friend cannot blow hot and cold in one breath. Today my friend says that the Act was so framed that it was due to the Honourable Member's sympathy. At the same time he says, he is at least susceptible to some other influence. I should say that it is not a question of susceptibility. I do not hold any brief for the Honourable Member, because he can take charge of himself. As I have been through the Bill, I find there are very few objectionable portions. There may be one or two points as regards the price level, but I think that question too does not work much now in the present state of affairs in our country to the hardship of the workmen in the country. Sir, nobody can say that the capitalist at present is not trying his level best to reduce the unsatisfactory condition of the workmen. I think the workmen should take charge of themselves and they have got several cures in their own hands. They can at any time stand up for their rights and Mr. Joshi, I think, can lead them very easily. From what I found in this Bill before it came from the Select Committee, I find now that the Bill is much better and it has been much improved in the interest of the workers. I heartily support that this Bill be passed.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I have only very few words to add to this discussion. I am very glad that my Honourable friend,

[Sir Frank Noyce.]

Mr. Azhar Ali, has made the point that an Honourable Member in charge of a Bill has only one voice and one vote in a Select Committee. The members of the Select Committees are chosen from all parts of the House and the decisions of the majority must be taken to represent the views of the House. There is one point which I should like to impress upon the House. Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury and Mr. Joshi said that the Bill made sweeping reductions in the amount of compensation which could be awarded. That is very far from being the case. If the House will look at the Schedule which is attached to the Bill, they will find that there are no less than 17 classes of workmen included in it. The changes made by the Select Committee as regards death and permanent disablement of adults affect only four of these classes, two at the top and two at the bottom, those whose wages are below Rs. 10 and from Rs. 10 to Rs. 15 and those whose wages are between Rs. 100 and Rs. 200 and above Rs. 200. These are the sweeping changes which we are alleged to have made in the scale of compensation. There are also three small changes in the compensation for temporary disablement which were meant to smooth out the scale. As to the reasons which actuated the Select Committee in making these reductions, I shall have more to say when we come to discuss the amendments which stand in the name of Mr. Joshi. Mr. Joshi tells us that he had hoped that Government would be more generous in this matter of compensation. I would ask him why Government should have been more generous than the Commission of which he was a member. I would also ask him why he should talk of generosity on the part of the Government. They are not here dealing with their own money, but they are dealing with the money of the employers and it is to that extent.....

Mr. N. M. Joshi : Have you accepted the recommendations of the Commission ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : That, Sir, is another question. That was not the burden of Mr. Joshi's complaint as I understood him. His complaint was about the scales in the original Bill and he expected that they would have been more generous. As I am endeavouring to point out, there is no reason whatever why the Government in framing this scale should have gone beyond the recommendations of the Commission of which he was a member. I should like to express my agreement with him on one point. I do agree with him that compulsory insurance is the true solution of this problem. But, Sir, that is unfortunately an idea for the future. As the Royal Commission pointed out in their report, the administrative expenses would be tremendous and it is out of question to inflict them on industry in present conditions or, I fear, in conditions that are likely to obtain for some period to come. That is all I have to say except to express my own firm conviction that the Select Committee, in the course of their examination of this Bill, made changes which have given the workmen far more than they have taken away.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

"That the Bill further to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923, as reported by the Select Committee, be taken into consideration."

The motion was adopted.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is that clause 2 stand part of the Bill.

Mr. G. Morgan (Bengal : European) : Sir, I beg to move the amendment which stands in my name :

"That for part (i) of clause 2 (a) of the Bill, the following be substituted :

'(i) in clause (d), after the word 'unmarried' in both places where it occurs, the words 'or widowed' shall be inserted'."

The reason for this amendment, Sir, is not in any antagonism to the Bill or the principle of the Bill nor with any so-called capitalist feeling. We all know that the rights of labour must be recognised and the care of labour should receive sympathetic attention. But, in analysing this clause, we feel that there will be practical difficulties in accepting the clause as in the Select Committee's report. Proof of dependence is one which may give rise to considerable difficulties and will, we think, let in the lawyer element. Indeed the amount to be paid to some of the dependants who have got to prove dependence might be exceeded by the fees which they have to pay to those who plead their cause, and, if there were any difficulties of that description, it would be certain to cause labour discontent and unrest, which, from the employer's point of view, is to be deprecated. The effect of this amendment would be to abolish the Committee's proposal to divide the dependants into two categories, to abolish the proposal that those in the second category should be called upon to prove dependence and to abolish the Select Committee's proposal that illegitimate children and widowed daughter-in-law should be added to the list of dependants. It is a reversion to the original list of dependants as in the existing Act, but to the existing Act is added (a) a widowed daughter, (b) a widowed sister. My amendment would then read as follows :

"(d) 'dependant' means any of the following relatives of a deceased workman, namely,— a wife, a husband, parent, minor son, unmarried or widowed daughter, married daughter who is a minor, minor brother, unmarried or widowed sister, and includes the minor children of the deceased son of the workman, and where no parent of the workman is alive, a paternal grandparent."

That is the clause of the Bill which was submitted to the Select Committee, and the main object of my amendment is to decrease the large numbers of dependants which were added by the Select Committee, and to do away with the proof of dependence. I recommend my amendment to the acceptance of the House.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Amendment moved :

"That for part (i) of clause 2 (a) of the Bill, the following be substituted :

'(i) in clause (d), after the word 'unmarried' in both places where it occurs, the words 'or widowed' shall be inserted'."

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai (Sind : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Sir, I have no intention to enter into the fight between capitalist and labour. I am neither a capitalist nor a labourer, but I speak from a disinterested point of view. The object of the proposed amendment is that the specific relatives mentioned by Mr. Morgan should be given compensation whether they are dependant upon the worker or not. Another amendment is coming which says that others, when not wholly or partly dependent on the workman, should also get compensation. Sir, I do not see eye to eye with these amendments. I find that it is necessary that the relatives should be given compensation, but only those relatives who can be presumed to depend upon the workman or those who prove that they were actually dependent upon the workman. If you are not going to put that bar that they should prove that they are dependants, then it would mean that any person can come forward and say that he should get it as a relative. They go as far as the grandparent to get compensation, but why not, further on, three degrees or five degrees removed ? They will come forward and say that they want compensation. Therefore, I submit, that the provision that has been made.....

Mr. N. M. Joshi : Sir, on a point of order, may I ask you how this point arises on the amendment moved by Mr. Morgan ?

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : I will explain. Mr. Morgan does not want that the widowed sister should not be dependent upon the worker. You say that the widowed sister and other relative should be added and the words " dependant " or " not dependant " should be taken away.

Mr. G. Morgan : I read out the clause and it begins :

" ' Dependant ' means any of the following relatives, etc."

and in that is included widowed daughter or widowed sister. These are the two additions I wish to make, and that is the only amendment I move at the present moment.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : If that is the meaning of the amendment, I cannot understand why, if a widowed sister or widowed daughter has any other means of support, they should be given any compensation. My point is only this that the relatives that have been mentioned in the Select Committee's report are such as can be presumed to be dependent and that will mostly remove the question of the proof of dependence. Therefore I think that what the Select Committee have done, they have done rightly and disinterestedly. I think any insinuation that they have taken sides is out of the question. But what I submit is that they have given their full consideration to a matter which was a great contest between capitalist and labour. Both were pulling their strings very hard and I think they found out a reasonable medium. I should, therefore, like not to support this amendment.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav (Bombay Central Division : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Sir, I rise to support this amendment. The question now is, how is the compensation to be divided. Mr. Morgan wishes to enlarge the list and bring in more members of the deceased workman's family who were omitted in the Bill.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : May I interrupt the Honourable Member ? Mr. Morgan does not wish to bring in a new class, but to change the category.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : I do not mean that Mr. Morgan wanted to bring in a new class, but he wants to bring in more members of the workman's family.....

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : No.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : In addition to the unmarried daughter he wants to bring in the widowed daughter.....

Mr. G. Morgan : Might I explain ? It seems to me so clear that I cannot understand what the trouble is. My amendment is the clause in the original Bill which was sent to Select Committee, with the additions of " or widowed daughter or widowed sister ". The dependants in my amendment, which, with your permission, Sir, I may read out again—though it is rather tiring for the House—are as follows :

" ' dependant ' means any of the following relatives of a deceased workman, namely, a wife, a husband, a parent, minor son, unmarried or widowed daughter,—(that is an addition)—married daughter who is a minor, minor brother or unmarried or widowed sister—(that is an addition)—and includes the minor children of a deceased son of the workman and where no parent of the workman is alive, the paternal grandparent."

This is the full clause as it would read if my amendment were accepted.....

Kunwar Hajee Ismail Ali Khan (Meerut Division : Muhammadan Rural) : I could not understand one thing from the amendment of the Honourable Member. How can a married daughter be a minor ? Under the Sarda Act there can be no minor married daughter !

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : I understand that wherever the word " unmarried " occurs, the words " or widow " should be inserted : that is to say, just as an unmarried daughter is entitled to a share in the compensation, so also a widowed daughter will be entitled to a share in the compensation according to the amendment moved by Mr. Morgan. In the same way, as an unmarried sister is entitled to a share in the compensation, so also a widowed sister is entitled to a share in the compensation according to the amendment ; and I support both of these. In case of an unmarried daughter, her claim to a share is undisputed : in the case of a widowed daughter, some may object that she may have other means of subsistence and, therefore, she is not in need of any share in the compensation : if she has got nothing left from her late husband, then of course she would have to come back to the original family and she will be dependent on the workman. We may presume that among workmen there is not much property left behind for the maintenance of widows, therefore, almost in every case the widowed daughter is almost sure to go back to her father's house. The same is the case with regard to the widowed sister and, therefore, I support Mr. Morgan in his amendment that wherever the word ' unmarried ' occurs, the words ' and widowed ' should be added.

Mr. A. G. Clow (Government of India : Nominated Official) : May I explain, Sir ? I think the Honourable Member who spoke last is under a misapprehension. The whole House, as far as I know, is agreed that these two relatives mentioned by Mr. Morgan should be included in the Bill. The effect of Mr. Morgan's amendment will be, in the first place, to exclude certain other relatives whom he mentioned, and, in the second place, to include these particular relatives without any proof of dependence. Whether Mr. Morgan's amendment is accepted or rejected, the two relatives in question will be dependants in some circumstances or other.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : In other words, Mr. Morgan's amendment means that a widowed sister or daughter would be entitled to share in the compensation without proof of dependency ?

Mr. A. G. Clow : That is so : though it would still rest with the Commissioner to decide whether they should share or not.

Mr. S. C. Sen (Bengal National Chamber of Commerce : Indian Commerce) : Sir, I have been trying to understand what was the meaning of Mr. Morgan's amendment : but unfortunately I have not been able to follow it. There are two amendments here : one is No. 3 and the other is No. 4. I can quite understand No. 4—he wants to get rid of the distinction made in the Bill, namely, those who are to be held to be dependants and those who have to prove that they are dependants. That is the effect of amendment No. 4. But I do not understand whether we are dealing with the two amendments or only with one amendment, and what is that.....

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : We are dealing with No. 3.

Mr. S. C. Sen : Then may I understand that by No. 3 he means that wherever the word ' unmarried ' is mentioned, the words ' or widowed ' should be added ? If we are dealing with amendment No. 3 and it refers to the original Act and his amendment is only to add those words, then I do not think anybody can have any objection. But we are changing the whole clause (d) here by the Bill and we have put in a new clause (d) in place of the one in the original Act. So, if he sticks to amendment No. 4, how this amendment No. 3 can be worked ? That is my difficulty. Amendment No. 3 relates to (d) as it now stands in the original Act, but here in the Bill we have changed (d) and put in a new (d).....

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : If the chair has understood the position correctly, according to the Workmen's Compensation Act the Commissioner has to decide which of the dependants of a workman are entitled to a share in the compensation : these dependants are divided into two classes, those who can get compensation by proving dependency and those who can get it without proof.

Mr. A. G. Clow : At present there is no need of proof of dependency ; as the Act stands, all the relatives named are treated as dependants ; they have merely to prove relationship. What the Select Committee has done has been to divide the dependants into two categories, and to enlarge the list : they have divided them into those who need not prove that they are dependants, and those who have to prove that they are dependants. The object of Mr. Morgan's amendment is to go back upon that decision and to have only one category, and slightly to enlarge the list of dependants under the present Act.

Mr. S. C. Sen : As I understand Mr. Clow, if amendment No. 3 is allowed, amendment No. 4 cannot remain, because amendment No. 3 only refers to the definition of dependants as it now exists in the Act. It has nothing to do with the Bill. Therefore, if that is passed as it exists in the original Act, amendment No. 4 cannot come in at all. Amendment No. 4 only applies if.....

Mr. G. Morgan : On a point of order, Sir. Amendment No. 4 has not been moved.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Honourable Member might discuss this point when amendment No. 4 is reached.

Mr. S. C. Sen : Then, Sir, I have nothing more to say.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce (Member for Industries and Labour) : Sir, it will, I venture to think, save the time of the House if I, with your permission, deal comprehensively with all the three amendments which have been put forward to clause 2 of the Bill as it might possibly have the effect of clearing up a considerable amount of misapprehension. Now, Sir, as was stated by the Select Committee in their Report, this clause of the Bill as introduced into this House was designed to add certain relatives to the list of those included in the definition of " dependants ". I had better give the House that definition, I think. This is the definition in the Act as it stands at present :

> " ' Dependant ' means any of the following relatives of a deceased workman, namely :—a wife, husband, parent, minor son, unmarried daughter, married daughter who is a minor, minor brother or unmarried sister, and includes the minor children of a deceased son of the workman and, where no parent of the workman is alive, a paternal grandparent."

Now, Sir, in the Bill as introduced into this House it was proposed to add certain relatives, and those relatives were widowed daughters and widowed sisters,—the subject of Mr. Morgan's amendment. The majority of the Select Committee, however, thought it desirable to add certain other relatives who, though not infrequently dependent on a deceased workman, would not be included in the definition of " dependants " even as enlarged by the Bill. They felt, however, as has been stated in their Report, that so long as no proof of dependence was required, it was inexpedient to enlarge the definition, as every addition must obviously increase the risk of compensation going to persons who have no equitable claim. They, therefore, endeavoured to meet this difficulty by dividing the dependants into two categories, placing in the first category those who are practically in all cases actually dependent, and, in the second, those who may or may not be in that position ; and they provided that, whilst those in the first category need not be called upon to prove dependence, those in the second category should be so required. They felt that, if this modification were made, certain additions could safely be made to the second category. They therefore included illegitimate children, widowed sisters and widowed daughters-in-law. Now, Mr. Morgan wants to go back to the Bill as it was originally introduced. Mr. Joshi wishes all proof of dependence eliminated. I have listened with great respect to what Mr. Morgan and Mr. Jadhav have had to say, but I think they have failed to meet the main points in favour of the Select Committee's proposals. I will state very briefly what, in my opinion, those points are. Looking at the matter from the point of view of the employer, I do not see how the new system need add one anna to his costs. It will still be open to him to say that he does not want to be a party to the distribution proceedings. In the alternative he can contest relationship, but not dependence. In other words, in no case need an employer contest dependence so that he can treat the Act exactly as if it did not contain the provision to which objection is now taken. At the same time, he has the option, if he desires it, of contesting the claims of certain dependants on a ground which was not previously available. Looking, Sir, at the matter from the point of view of the dependants, I would point out that the second category includes those who are not ordinarily dependent. It is important to remember, as regards this category, especially in the case of the relatives, the Labour Commission wanted to add to it, that is, the widowed daughters and sisters, that the presumption is against dependence; for these relatives are generally supported by the family they are married into, and not by the family they are born in. And I need hardly point out to the House that the inclusion of illegitimate children, if no proof of dependence is required, opens the door for a very large number of spurious claims. As I understand the position as it is at present,—I was myself for a short time a Commissioner of Labour,—some proof of dependence is or should be always required by the Commissioner in the case of relatives in the second category. Personally, when I was Commissioner myself, as I said it was only for a very short period, if I found that there were any dependants in the first category, I did not award any compensation to any one in the second category without very good evidence of the extent of dependence.

Another point, and I think it is an important point in favour of the Select Committee's proposal, is that the present Act has the effect in some cases of giving the whole of the compensation to persons who never got a pie from the deceased in his lifetime. I admit that such cases are rare, but I have no doubt that they do occur, and it seems to me that an added advantage of the amendments which have been made in the Bill by the Select Committee is that they make it possible to prevent such an anomaly.

I cannot agree with the argument that there has been any departure from the principle underlying the Act as it is at present. It is not, in my view, a principle underlying the Act that compensation should be given to relatives whether they are dependent or not. The Act relied on the Commissioner to ensure that compensation was really compensation; in other words, that it went, as far as possible, to compensate those who actually suffered by the death of the deceased and was not a gift to people who were in no way financially injured. The result of the amendments introduced into the Bill by the Select Committee is merely to alter the method by putting this conception into the Act itself, and, in so doing, it maintains a principle which is common to all Workmen's Compensation legislation.

To sum up, it is, I maintain, and as the Report of the Select Committee observes, quite impossible to go on adding to the list of dependants and still to provide that there should be no proof of dependence. The acceptance of Mr. Morgan's second amendment and if Mr. Joshi's amendment would mean that in cases where the only relatives left is one of the more distant ones, that relative would get the whole of the compensation whether he or she was actually dependent or not. As some of the relatives included will not, amongst Hindus at least, ordinarily be dependent on the deceased, I submit for the consideration of the House that this would be an improper provision. It is for these reasons that I regret I must oppose all the three amendments. I trust that I have done something to clear up the position to the satisfaction of the House.

Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury: I am glad that my Honourable friend Mr. Morgan realises the difficulty of proving dependence. It may be necessary to divide the workers into two categories, one having a prior claim over another, but to insist on proof of dependence will involve them in great hardship, because the workmen are generally illiterate poor men living in distant villages, and if they are to produce proof of dependence it will involve them in litigation which I think will swallow up a good bit of the compensation that we are trying to give them. Again, the trouble and worry and expense of adducing proof of dependence will deter many of them from putting in their claim for compensation, and surely we should not prescribe a course that will have such a deterrent effect. The Labour Commission never recommended that proof of dependence should be insisted upon.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce: The Labour Commission never recommended the addition of so many relatives to the list. Obviously if you introduce such relatives as illegitimate children, you must insist on proof of dependence.

Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury: I may refer to the views of the Bombay Government in their memorandum submitted to the Royal Commission about the difficulties of administering the Act if proof of dependence is insisted upon. This is what they say:

"The bulk of the employers favour proof of dependence, although some of them recognise the considerable administrative difficulties involved in getting proof of dependence. Workers' interests are divided on the subject. While it is true that the assumption of dependency often leads to considerable sums of money being paid out to people who have not the slightest claim ever to have been dependent on the deceased workman, for example, husbands in respect of the death of their wives, the joint family system, which is still common among the working classes in India, means that all the members of a joint family are in some degree or other inter-dependent upon each other. It would, therefore, be extremely difficult to administer the Act where proof of dependency was required to entitle a person to compensation. If any provision insisting upon proof of dependency were introduced, it would open the door to a large volume of litigation between relations which would be a very distinct drawback to the Act. Moreover, it would enormously increase the work of the commissioners and entail long delays in the distribution of compensation. A comprehensive list of dependants, as at present, but with no proof of dependency, seems to be the best system for Indian conditions."

I find that Mr. Morgan and Mr. Joshi are in agreement on this point. From the point of view of the Government there is administrative difficulty if proof of dependence is required. Why should Government then go out of their way and change the Act and bring in the necessity of proving dependence when the Royal Commission does not recommend it?

Mr. N. M. Joshi: Mr. Morgan seems to have two objects in view. His first object is that the requirement of proof of dependence should be taken away. I am in sympathy with that. His second object is that the list of dependants should not be increased to the extent to which the Select Committee has increased. I do not sympathise with that object. I think Mr. Morgan has got another amendment on the paper. He will be well advised to move that amendment and I am sure that he will get more sympathy for it.

[Mr. N. M. Joshi.]

As regards the point raised by the Honourable Member in charge of Industries and Labour—I admit I must speak about him with great caution as his nerves seem to be very sensitive today—I would like the Honourable Member to consider this carefully. He must choose either of two courses ; either he must agree to give to the man who is injured compensation in accordance with his responsibilities. If he has a large number of dependants depending upon him the compensation should be sufficient for the maintenance of the dependants. I can understand his saying, let there be proof of dependence, if the object is that the responsibilities which he has on his shoulders ought to be met by the employers. As a matter of fact, the English law requires proof of dependence, but the English law makes provision that if the man has got more children compensation should be increased. That is what the English law does. If the Honourable Member is willing that the compensation should be increased when the number of dependants is larger and dependence is proved, I can understand it ; but so long as he is willing to give only a certain amount of compensation there is really no meaning why he should ask for proof of dependence. As a matter of fact, this question has been very carefully considered even by the Royal Commission. The Royal Commission does not recommend that the previous system which our workmen's compensation law has followed should be changed. If the Honourable Member wants to change that system, let him do so, but he cannot do it by merely asking for proof of dependence. If he wants proof of dependence, then he shall have to change the whole system of workmen's compensation law which we have followed so far and also give compensation in accordance with the responsibilities which the injured man has. I would therefore suggest that the Honourable Member who moved this amendment should not press it, but that he should move his next amendment with which we sympathise.

Mr President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

" That for part (i) of clause 2 (a) of the Bill, the following be substituted :

' (i) in clause (d), after the word ' unmarried ' in both places where it occurs, the words ' or widowed ' shall be inserted '."

The motion was negatived.

Mr. G. Morgan : Notwithstanding the fact that the Honourable Member has already told us that he will oppose it, I move the amendment which stands in my name and which reads as follows :

" That in part (i) of clause 2 (a) of the Bill, for the proposed clause (d) the following be substituted :

' (d) ' dependant ' means any of the relatives of a deceased workman, namely, a wife, a minor legitimate son, an unmarried legitimate daughter, a widowed mother, a husband, a parent other than a widowed mother, a minor illegitimate son, an unmarried illegitimate daughter, a daughter legitimate or illegitimate if married and a minor or if widowed, a minor brother, an unmarried or widowed sister, a widowed daughter-in-law, a minor child of a deceased son, or, where no parent of the workman is alive, a paternal grandparent '."

The effect of this amendment is merely to do away with proof of dependence and to classify all dependants under one head. It leaves the list of dependants exactly the same as was suggested by the Select Committee, but does not make it necessary for those dependants to prove dependency.

The reason why we wish to do away with proof of dependency is that we see great difficulty in practical working, and also, as I have said before, there is the possibility of applicants becoming a prey to legal advisers if I may use that word. They would, instead of gaining by any sum which the Commissioner might give them, find that they had to pay something extra. I think I am right in saying that the Honourable Member in his remarks said—I stand corrected if I did not hear him properly, it is very difficult to hear in this House—when any one in the second category came forward with a claim he himself required very good evidence before any relief was given. If I am wrong in what I say, I shall be no doubt corrected.

4 P.M.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : The Honourable Member is perfectly right. I said that if there were any relatives in the first category, such as a wife, a minor legitimate son, an unmarried legitimate daughter or a widowed mother, they had the first claim. They seemed to my mind, as they must to all Commissioners of Labour, to have the first claim and if more distant relatives appeared and made claims, one had to make quite sure, in order to be just to the nearer relatives, that they were actually in receipt of assistance from the deceased.

Mr. G. Morgan : That is my point. Then I was correct in what I said. If that was the position under the old Act there is no necessity now to make it a statutory obligation. The Commissioners themselves say : " We must have further proof. We do not admit your claim ". That is perfectly just. The Honourable Member himself says that there would be no compensation unless the Commissioner himself is satisfied. I am quite ready to accept that position, but if you make it a statutory obligation, they will have to come forward with proof. That brings in the legal aspect of documentary proof which will be an extra expense for those who wish to bring forward proof. If this amendment is accepted, it would be better for the practical working of this clause.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Amendment moved :

" That in part (i) of clause 2 (a) of the Bill, for the proposed clause (d) the following be substituted :

' (d) ' dependant ' means any of the relatives of a deceased workman, namely, a wife, a minor legitimate son, an unmarried legitimate daughter, a widowed mother, a husband, a parent other than a widowed mother, a minor illegitimate son, an unmarried illegitimate daughter, a daughter legitimate or illegitimate if married and a minor or if widowed, a minor brother, an unmarried or widowed sister, a widowed daughter-in-law, a minor child of a deceased son, or, where no parent of the workman is alive, a paternal grandparent '."

Mr. A. G. Clow : I listened with some care to see if my Honourable friend would meet the arguments of the Honourable Member in charge of the Bill in dealing with the previous amendment ; but so far as I have been able to follow him, he has not attempted to deal with any of the reasons which induced the Select Committee to introduce the distinction to which he objects. This amendment, if I may say so, is open to much more objection than the one which he previously moved. So long as you are willing to stand by the list of the relatives that the Labour Commission suggested, up to that point, I see no very great objection in doing without proof of dependence. But if you want to introduce a considerable number of other relatives, including illegitimate children, it seems to me you are incurring a very grave danger, if you say that these should be treated as dependants whether they were in fact dependent or not. Mr. Morgan suggested that as the Commissioner requires proof already, there is no object in making this a statutory requirement. But the point is that if there are no relatives in class 1, and there are relatives in class 2 who were not really dependent, it is no use the Commissioner calling for proof, because he cannot reject their claim. Even if he finds that they never saw the deceased in their life or drew an anna from him, if they are the only dependants left, he must disburse the full amount of compensation to them under the present Act. I oppose the amendment.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : I do find that Mr. Morgan has made his amendment very clear. He means to say that he wants to lay down a definition of dependant. I submit that that will be very wrong. I am a Hindu and I know how widowed daughters and widowed sisters are maintained. The widowed daughters and sisters, at least in our part of the country, remain in the house of their husbands even after their death. They have enough of property to live upon and if this amendment is accepted, an anomaly will arise. I will illustrate my point. A workman has a son and also a widowed daughter. If the widowed daughter is dependent upon the workman, the son will be very willing to give her a share, but if she is not and has means of her own, then this amendment will compel the Commissioner to give her also a share, whether she deserves it or not. Therefore, I submit that this amendment should not be accepted. I oppose it.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : I think Mr. Navalrai is under a misapprehension. The Workmen's Compensation Commissioner has full discretion as regards the distribution among the various relatives. Where there is only one relative, he has no discretion. He must give the compensation to that relative, but if a man has got several relatives dependent upon him, then the Workmen's Compensation Commissioner has full discretion to distribute the amount to whoever he likes.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Without proof ?

Mr. N. M. Joshi : Proof he will require. He will make inquiries as to whom he should distribute. That is for the distribution and not for the payment of compensation by the employer. On the whole, I think that Mr. Morgan's amendment will meet my purpose. The proof of dependence will not be necessary and the list of relatives is in accordance with the recommendation of the Select Committee. I, therefore, hope that the House will accept his amendment.

Mr. S. C. Sen : I oppose this amendment. The Select Committee went into the matter carefully and came to the conclusion that there should be some distinction between persons who are heirs or actual dependants and those who may not have known the workman, who have no connection with him, except that after his death they come forward and put forward a claim on the basis of relationship. For whose benefit was this distinction made ? For the benefit of the persons who are closely related to a workman and are real dependants and if the workman had been alive or had the capacity to make a will he would have provided for those persons. That is the first category. The second category includes persons who would never have got any portion of the assets of the deceased workman under ordinary circumstances. Why should they come before the Commissioner and try to minimise the compensation to be paid to other persons who are really dependants of the workman ? Therefore, the Select Committee came to the conclusion that there ought to be some proof of dependency in the second case, and, as Mr. Joshi says, the Commissioner in distributing the compensation has to take proof from all claimants as regards their relationship under the present law—at one stage or another, the Commissioner has to make an inquiry. It is to prevent that inquiry, so far as regards the first named persons, that this provision has been made, namely, as regards certain classes of persons who are presumed to be dependants. There ought not to be any enquiry. They are not to adduce any proof, but they will be paid the compensation which the Commissioner will fix. As regards the other persons, the Commissioner will take evidence as to whether they are dependants or not and this he will have to do under the present law. Therefore, I do not see what difficulties may arise in providing for the two classes of persons separately. I, therefore, oppose the amendment.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

" That in part (i) of clause 2 (a) of the Bill, for the proposed clause (d) the following be substituted :

' (d) ' dependant ' means any of the relatives of a deceased workman, namely, a wife, a minor legitimate son, an unmarried legitimate daughter, a widowed mother, a husband, a parent other than a widowed mother, a minor illegitimate son, an unmarried illegitimate daughter, a daughter legitimate or illegitimate if married and a minor or if widowed, a minor brother, an unmarried or widowed sister, a widowed daughter-in-law, a minor child of a deceased son, or, where no parent of the workman is alive, a paternal grandparent '."

The motion was negatived.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is that clause 2 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was adopted.

Clause 2 was added to the Bill.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is that clause 3 stand part of the Bill.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : Sir, I move :

" That in part (i) of clause 3 (a) of the Bill, for the word ' seven ' the word ' three ' be substituted."

This clause refers to what is called waiting period. At present if a man is disabled for only ten days, compensation is not paid. The Royal Commission recommended that this period should be reduced to seven and the Bill makes provision with that object. My amendment seeks that this period should be reduced to three days. The only argument that I have seen used against the reduction of the number of days is that the number of cases that will arise will be very large. Personally, I hold that the number of such accidents is not very large. If you take those organised industries for which statistics have to be maintained as regards accidents such as factories and mines, the number of minor accidents is not so large that we should hesitate to introduce this reform and I do not know why we should refuse compensation to a man who receives minor injuries. I therefore suggest that my amendment should be accepted. We should not cause the poor labourer some loss of four days' wages. After all, wages mean something to these labourers. If a labourer does not get his wages for four days he loses a great deal and we should not put him to such a loss. I therefore hope that the House will accept my amendment.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Amendment moved :

" That in part (i) of clause 3 (a) of the Bill, for the word ' seven ' the word ' three ' be substituted."

Mr. A. G. Clow : I regret, Sir, that I must oppose this amendment. The Labour Commission gave a good deal of thought to this question and, in fact, Mr. Joshi was one of those who agreed originally to a period of seven days. He now wants to reduce that period to three days. He suggests that the number of cases will not be very large. Now, that is a point on which statistical experience is available. If you take the accidents in any country, experience tends to show that there is not a very great difference between the proportion of accidents that incapacitate a man for one, two, three or four days and those which incapacitate him fatally or permanently. Now, we have not complete statistics in India and I must therefore rely on experience elsewhere. It tends to show that if you abolished the waiting period of a week altogether, you would add 60 per cent. to the possible claims. I cannot give an exact figure for Mr. Joshi's reduction of three days, but I estimate that it would be in the neighbourhood of 30 per cent. In other words, even a small reduction of the waiting period adds enormously to the number of potential claims.

And what does it give in return ? It gives extraordinarily little. Suppose we take the average workman as being in receipt of about Rs. 20 a month, which, Mr. Joshi will agree, is a fair figure. He gets roughly as compensation 7 annas a day. In other words, taking the extreme case where the injury lasts the whole seven days, he is going to get under Mr. Joshi's proposal Rs. 1-12-0. In other cases he will get sums of Rs. 1-5-0, 14 annas or 7 annas. In dealing with sums of that kind, the administrative expenses are out of all proportion to the benefits received by the workman. If the case is contested, the workman has got to give notice. The Insurance Companies have to be consulted, the employer has got to appear and in the result a sum far exceeding the total amount of compensation will be spent in disposing of the claim. There is one further objection to this three days period and that is that in section 11 of the Act the employer is entitled to three days from the time of the receipt of notice to decide whether he wants a medical examination. If you accept this period of three days, I imagine that in a good many cases when the doctor turned up, the man would be back at work. He might say : " I was seriously ill for more than three days but I am glad to say that I am now better and I should like to have compensation ".

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

" That in part (i) of clause 3 (a) of the Bill, for the word ' seven ' the word ' three ' be substituted."

The motion was negatived.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : Sir, I move :

" That in part (ii) of clause 3 (a), after the words ' resulting in death ', the following be inserted :

' or in disability causing loss of 50 per cent. or more earning capacity '."

This amendment is intended to give effect to the recommendation of the majority members of the Royal Commission. The principle of Workmen's Compensation legislation is that those who start industries bring into existence certain risks by starting those industries. Those who bring into existence these risks should pay for the results of the accidents caused by those risks. This is the simple principle of workmen's compensation legislation. The workmen's compensation legislation has nothing to do with the negligence either of the employer or the employee. Although that is the principle of workmen's compensation legislation, but on account of the fact that capitalists are very influential they have got a clause put in the legislation of England and in some other countries that where a workman is negligent in certain matters he should not be given compensation.

Mr. A. G. Clow : " Wilful disobedience ".

Mr. N. M. Joshi : Wilful negligence. This insertion of the consideration of wilful negligence on the part of workmen is really against the principle of workmen's compensation legislation altogether. Somehow, on account of the influence of the capitalists in the legislature this defect crept in. Then attempts were made to remove the defect. In Great Britain legislation was passed which provides that this consideration of wilful negligence on the part of workmen should not be a bar to his dependants or to himself getting compensation in the case of death or in the case of serious permanent injury. This legislation was passed in Great Britain many years ago, I think 1906. We pass our legislation long after this British legislation was passed. But in spite of that fact our Government which prides itself upon being the Government of a backward country pass legislation in 1923 which was changed in Great Britain long before that. They put in this clause barring the workmen securing compensation when his wilful negligence was proved. The Royal Commission considered this question and its recommendation is that this wilful negligence on the part of workmen should not be a bar to his securing compensation in case where the accident causes death. That was unanimously passed and in case where permanent disablement is caused, it was passed by a majority of votes of the Royal Commission. The Government did not accept the recommendation of the majority of the members of the Royal Commission. They have given effect to the provision that workmen should not be deprived of their compensation on account of the plea of wilful negligence where death is caused. I am proposing by my amendment that even where serious permanent disability is caused, that is a disability on account of which he loses 50 per cent. of his earning capacity, the right to compensation should not be taken away on account of wilful negligence. I am quite aware that there are certain lawyers who somehow feel that this is against the principle of the law that a man who is wilfully negligent should not get compensation. Lord Birkenhead who was then Mr. F. E. Smith had made a speech on this point in the House of Commons. I am quite sure Members of the Assembly will recognise that Lord Birkenhead was a distinguished lawyer. He stated very clearly in the House of Commons, when this point was discussed there, that he could not imagine a workman wilfully doing something which will cause his death or permanent injury to himself. He was therefore in favour of that proposal. I shall read his actual words : " The point of view which appealed to me so strongly was this, a workman would not commit a breach of rules for any improper motive if the result of that breach was likely to inflict upon him a permanent disablement or death ". What Lord Birkenhead says is this that you cannot say that a man wilfully will commit something by which his death will be caused or serious permanent disability will be caused to him.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Do you know people commit suicides.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : To say that a man will do so, he says, is to go against human experience. There are people who commit suicides. I quite realise that, but we are not dealing with suicides. I am dealing with a man who causes permanent serious disablement but not suicide. If you are thinking of suicide it is provided by the Bill. What I am providing for in this Bill is that a man should not be deprived of his right to compensation on the ground that the accident was caused by his wilful negligence if that action involves a loss of a limb or permanent incapacity to the extent of 50 per cent. of his earning capacity. I hope the House will accept the amendment.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Amendment moved :

" That in part (ii) of clause 3 (a), after the words ' resulting in death ', the following be inserted :

' or in disability causing loss of 50 per cent. or more earning capacity '."

Mr. S. C. Sen : I opposed this proposal when it was made in the Select Committee and I oppose it in this House. I oppose the whole principle that a man if he is guilty of negligence should be allowed compensation simply because he is a workman. That is against the principle of natural justice and against everything that we know to be honest and common sense. Why should a man who wants to get rid of his limb or life and deliberately commits a breach of rules—I mean safety rules—be employed in a factory and then will have the satisfaction of knowing that for his negligence his employer would be made liable. That is a very nice proposition. However, a majority of the Select Committee accepted the view that a distinction should be made between accidents resulting in death and not resulting in death and I also agreed to that. Because, if the man is dead the evidence which he could have adduced whether he was negligent or not would be lost and therefore you will have very great difficulty in disproving the fact of negligence. But if the man is alive there is no such difficulty. He can give evidence combating the theory that there was any negligence. And moreover, what is the position of the employer ? The onus will be on him to prove that this accident was due to the negligence of the man who has met with the accident. Therefore he shall have to prove his case and not the workman himself. Moreover, in such a case the workman's evidence will be very important, and even Lord Birkenhead when he said that was probably actuated by the fact that the evidence to be given by the workman was not available. In these circumstances I do hope that the House will reject the amendment moved by Mr. Joshi. Mr. Joshi always thought and still thinks that the recommendations of the Royal Commission are sacrosanct, but on the last occasion he departed from that and even now he wants to depart from that position because he thinks that the gentlemen who formed the minority were wrong.

Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury : Sir, unlike my Honourable friend, Mr. Sen, I was one of those who, when the Bill was referred to Select Committee, pressed for conceding the right of compensation to the workman who suffers loss to the extent of 50 per cent. or more of his earning capacity even when the injury was due to his own wilful negligence. I pressed this in Select Committee also but with no result. I should like to put one question to Mr. Sen. Suppose there is a regulation that soldiers in the trenches should wear a steel helmet, and a soldier in the trenches against that regulation removes his steel helmet wilfully and gets shot. Will you deprive him of his pension ? If you do not deprive the soldier of his pension because of his wilful negligence of the safety regulation.....

Mr. S. C. Sen : In that case there is no question of accident. His death may not be directly due to his removing the helmet but here the occurrence is due directly to his negligence.

Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury : Both are on the same grounds. The shooting of the soldier was due directly to his disregarding the safety regulation. Again my friend, Mr. Sen, expressed his righteous indignation at the inequity of giving compensation to the workman because it is due to his own wilful negligence. He forgets what Mr. Joshi just now mentioned as to the fundamental principle on which the Workmen's Compensation Act was based. That principle, as my friend, Mr. Joshi, just now explained, is what is known as the principle of occupational risks. When Mr. Sen starts a factory or coal mine he is responsible for all the accidents that flow from that factory or from that mine. That is the principle on which the Workmen's Compensation Act is based and that is the principle on which the amendment is based. I support my friend Mr. Joshi.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : Sir, I regret that I must oppose this amendment. I submit for the consideration of this House that the position taken up in the Bill is the only logical one. There is one reason and one only that has been advanced for giving compensation in the case of fatal accidents to a workman who meets his death as a result of being at the time under the influence of drink or drugs if wilfully disobeying safety orders and if wilfully disregarding safety devices. My Honourable friend, Mr. Joshi, kept talking about wilful negligence. I must confess that I do not understand the expression. The Act says : " Wilful disobedience of orders expressly given and wilful removal or disregard by the workman of any safety guard or other device which he knew to have been provided for the purpose of securing the safety of workmen ". As I said, Sir, there is only one argument for giving compensation in the case of death resulting from accidents attributable to these causes and that is that the man is no longer there to confute the employer's case. That argument obviously does not apply to non-fatal cases. The workman can adduce evidence to show that he was not under the influence of drink or drugs, that he did not disobey any orders or that he did not disregard safety devices. That, Sir, is the case for Government's action in accepting the recommendation only in so far as it has the unanimous support of the Royal Commission on Labour and in making compensation applicable to fatal accidents and not to non-fatal ones. It is true, as Mr. Joshi has said, that the majority of the Commission recommended that the exceptions should not apply in cases where a permanent loss of 50 per cent. or more of earning capacity results from the accident. I must confess I cannot understand the line of reasoning behind this recommendation. What is the result ? The anomalies to which it would lead us would be that if a workman lost an eye he would get no compensation, but that if he lost a leg below the knee he would get it.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : That happens under the present Act, he gets different amounts of compensation.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : Where would you stop ? That is my point. If you stop at 50 per cent., why not stop at 25 or 10 per cent. ? Where are you going to stop ? There must be some definite line and I submit that the criterion should be whether or not the workman is in a position to bring forward evidence. The criterion can only be fatal accidents where the workman is no longer in a position to adduce evidence that his death was not due to the causes I have mentioned. Unless we have a criterion of that kind we lose ourselves ; we slide from one hard case to another. For these reasons I am compelled to oppose the amendment.

Mr. B. R. Puri (West Punjab : Non-Muhammadan) : Sir, it is more with a view to clearly understanding the underlying principle of this Bill that I rise to make just one or two observations. We have been told that the underlying principle of this Bill is that those who introduce new industries bring along with them certain species of dangers and risks to which the workpeople are exposed ; and, therefore, there is a moral or perhaps a legal obligation placed upon them to compensate those whom they expose to such dangers. This principle, Sir, has not impressed me. I see that there is a certain force in it ; but at the same time there are always two sides to a question. No doubt it is a convenient principle to adopt.....

Mr. N. M. Joshi : It is accepted all over the world.

Mr. B. R. Puri : I am not denying that—all I say is that it is a very convenient principle from the labourer's point of view ; but at the same time the point of view of the industrialists and the capitalists should not be ignored. I am not an industrialist myself nor a capitalist. If anything, I have got my sympathies with the labourers ; but at the same time I cannot disregard the obvious fact that if a capitalist, by setting up a particular factory or manufacturing concern, exposes to a certain measure those who have got to work there to certain risks and dangers, can it not be plausibly said that those, who go and seek employment for consideration, do so with their eyes open and, therefore, they should be deemed to have consented to the necessary and incidental dangers involved in such undertakings ? If the capitalist has offered a certain amount of temptation to the labourer to take up a hazardous kind of work on payment, it is open to the other party in view of the gravity of the risk to say " I will not risk my life or my limb ". But if with his eyes wide open and for proper compensation and consideration he chooses to run that risk for the sake of making a gain, can it not be reasonably urged, that he is not entitled to any compensation ? Is not it a case of contributory negligence ? What is then the true principle of such legislation ? It is because we have misconceived the real principle of such legislation that we find difficulty in reconciling some of the clauses of the Bill. The true principle is the giving of a compassionate allowance to those who are probably more in need of assistance than the capitalist. And on this principle you can justify the distinction you are making, in the case of death when you grant relief, even if it was proved that it was a case of wilful negligence. Otherwise your position will become inconsistent : wilful negligence is wilful negligence whether it results in the death of the man or in his permanent disablement. In principle there ought to be no difference at all. But it is because we are moved more by merciful and compassionate feelings, more with a view to helping those who perhaps need more help than the capitalist that we are making a departure and an exception in the case where death occurs. That seems to me the real principle because if you try to maintain any other principle, you say that in the case of death the man is no longer available to show that he was not guilty of wilful negligence and, therefore, it should be presumed in his favour that there was no wilful neglect on his part, that will not wash at all for this simple reason : Would you relieve the employer if he is prepared to assert that he can, in spite of the fact that the man is not there, put his relatives into the witness box or produce other evidence to show that the man was really guilty of wilful negligence which brought about his death ?.....

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : May I interrupt the Honourable Member ? I would request him to remember that it is wilful disobedience and not wilful negligence : the two things are not the same.

Mr. B. R. Puri : I apologise for the mistake : wilful disobedience of certain rules or regulations which have brought about the death of the person would still entitle his relatives and his dependants to a certain amount of allowances. Would not that be so ?.....

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : As I understand him, the Honourable Member is asking me whether, in the case of wilful disobedience or disregard of safety devices which brings about a man's death, his relatives are entitled to compensation. Under the present Act, they are not ; under the new Bill, if it becomes law, they will be.

Mr. B. R. Puri : That is exactly how I understood it. I was saying that you are not taking up a logical position. Suppose in a hypothetical case, by the most unimpeachable evidence it was proved that the man lost his life by deliberately disregarding rules of safety : still it will be no use to the employer : he will still have to pay compensation. Therefore this could not be really the reason in your mind. This cannot be treated as the basic principle of the Bill ; and we are forced back to the position that the real honest way of dealing with this Bill is to acknowledge once for all that the underlying principle is what I have said it to be—that it is merely by way of compassion that we compensate the labouring classes at the expense of those who can perhaps afford the money more easily than the employees.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : May I say a few words ?

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Honourable Member has no right of reply on an amendment. The question is :

"That in part (ii) of clause 3 (a), after the words 'resulting in death', the following be inserted :

'or in disability causing loss of 50 per cent. or more earning capacity'."

The motion was negatived.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : I may inform Honourable Members that we shall ordinarily adjourn the House at a quarter to five every day. The House now stands adjourned till tomorrow morning at 11 O'clock.

The Assembly then adjourned till Eleven of the Clock on Wednesday, the 23rd August, 1933.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Wednesday, 23rd August, 1933.

The Assembly met in the Assembly Chamber at Eleven of the Clock, Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) in the Chair.

MEMBER SWORN :

Khan Bahadur Malik Allah Baksh Khan Tiwana, M.B.E., M.L.A. (Nominated Non-Official).

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

FIXATION OF PERCENTAGE FOR APPOINTMENTS IN GOVERNMENT SERVICE FOR MUSLIMS AND OTHER COMMUNITIES.

19. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Has any circular been recently issued by the Home Department, or any other official source fixing the percentage of appointments in Government service, for the Mussalmans, the minority and majority communities ? Are any such instructions under contemplation ; and will Government be pleased to lay a copy of them on the table ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The answer to the first part is in the negative. As regards the second part, the question of some modification of the existing orders regarding representation of minority communities in the public services is under consideration.

Sardar Sant Singh : May I know whether there was any conference of the Heads of Departments on this matter in May or June last ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The matter has been under consideration for several months.

Sardar Sant Singh : Was there any conference in which all the Members of the Government of India participated and certain provisional or tentative proposals were formulated and decisions arrived at ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am afraid I cannot reveal the processes of consideration in the Government of India.

Mr. B. R. Puri : What we want to know is not the details of the conversations or the decisions, but the mere factum whether such a meeting did or did not take place.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am not prepared to state what processes go on when a case is under consideration in the Government of India.

Kunwar Hajee Ismail Ali Khan : Are Government aware that in the majority of the Departments of the Government of India the Muslim percentage is very very low ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think I should require notice of that question.

Sardar Sant Singh : Is it a fact that a circular marked confidential was circulated to all the Heads of the Departments, wherein it was definitely laid down that in future recruitment to the Departments controlled by the Government of India or centrally administered, out of the 33 1/3 per cent. reserved for nomination, 25 per cent. should be given to the Muslims, 6 per cent. to the Anglo-Indians, and the remaining 2 1/3 per cent. to other minorities, and the depressed classes were excluded ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. No such circular has been circulated.

Sardar Sant Singh : Is it not a fact that a letter with this circular containing the above proposal was circulated to the Heads of Departments ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. As I have said before, various proposals are under consideration and have been under consideration for some months, and I am not prepared to say any more about it.

Sardar Sant Singh : What I want to know from the Honourable Member is whether any letter was circulated to the Heads of Departments drawing their attention to this proposal and inviting their opinions thereon ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I have said before that I am not prepared to explain the various processes gone through while a matter is under consideration in the Government of India.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is the Honourable Member prepared to deny the statement of Sardar Sant Singh ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I have already stated that no such circular was issued.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state what time they intend to take in deciding this question, that is, the representation of minority communities, and specially of Mussalmans in the services of the Government ?

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : They want to keep up a perpetual quarrel.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I admit that is a fair question. The matter has been under consideration for a good many months, but it is a question of very considerable complication and all I can say is that the Government hope to reach a decision as soon as possible.

Sardar Sant Singh : Is it a fact that a second conference was called in the month of August in which the.....

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Order, order. When the Honourable the Home Member has plainly stated that he is not prepared to disclose the stages passed through by the Government in considering a proposal, there is no use for the Honourable Member putting a question like this.

Sardar Sant Singh : May I explain that we on this side of the House seek information on this particular subject, and I have yet to know under what Standing Order we shall be deprived of seeking such information. I want a ruling of the Chair on this point.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : This is not a question of depriving the Honourable Member of the right of asking any question, but when the Honourable Member repeats the same question in a different form to which an answer has already been given, the Chair has got a right to intervene.

Sardar Sant Singh : I put this question with your permission. Is it a fact that certain communications are passing between Sir Samuel Hoare, the Secretary of State, and the Government of India, in regard to the representation of Anglo-Indians in the railway services ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am afraid I cannot state on the floor of the House what communications may pass between the Government of India and the Secretary of State.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : May I ask whether the Government consider that it is a matter of some importance that a certain proportion of jobs should be given to boys belonging to the working classes, and that the middle classes should not monopolise all the jobs ? If this is considered as a matter of some importance, may I know what steps the Government are taking to see that the boys coming from the working classes get their due share ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The Honourable Member is, I understand, putting up a new claim for communal representation. Well, Sir, I hope that he will put the claim before the Government in the usual way. I do not think it is a claim that has so far been considered.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is there any bar to the employment of boys of working classes if they fulfil the requisite educational and other qualifications ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. No bar.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : May I ask whether there is any bar either for the Muhammadans or the Hindus or for the depressed classes ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the Honourable Member please tell me if all the communications that were made and all the stages of consideration on this point were confidential, and if they were not, may I know why he should not disclose them ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Yes, they are confidential.

Sardar Sant Singh : May I know what the position of the Sikhs is in the proposals under consideration—whether they are regarded as an important minority community or not ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am not in a position to state what the proposals are, because they have not reached that stage at which a statement can be made.

Sardar Sant Singh : My question is whether the Sikhs are regarded as a minority community whose claim for a share of the services should be given due consideration ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : As my Honourable friend is aware, the Sikhs have always been treated as a minority community.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : But not as an important minority community ? (Laughter.)

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know from the Honourable Member whether the Hindus in Sind are in minority or majority ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : We have not gone into the question of provincial majorities and minorities.

Sardar Sant Singh : May I know since when Government have receded from the position which was taken up in the Montagu-Chelmsford Report that the Sikhs are an important minority community and should be given due weightage in the services of the Government ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I did not suggest that there had been any change in our attitude towards the Sikh community.

INADEQUATE APPOINTMENTS OF MUSLIMS AS TEMPORARY ASSISTANT INCOME-TAX OFFICERS IN THE UNITED PROVINCES.

20. Lieut. Nawab Muhammad Ibrahim Ali Khan : (a) Is it a fact that, consequent on the lowering of the taxable limit, eighteen temporary Assistant Income-tax Officers have been appointed in the United Provinces so far, and that out of these only four are Muslims, instead of six, according to the percentage allotted to that province ? If so, what steps do Government propose to take in order to redress the grievances of Muslims ?

(b) Is it a fact that in making appointments of Assistant Income-tax Officers, a very junior non-Muslim clerk has been taken in supersession of a number of senior Muslims ?

(c) What is the percentage of Muslims and non-Muslims in the appointments of temporary establishment (ministerial) made on the lowering of the taxable limit in the United Provinces ? If the percentage of Muslims is lower than what is allotted to that province, what steps do Government propose to make up the deficiency ?

(d) Is it a fact that there is no Muslim clerk in the office of the Commissioner of Income-tax, United Provinces, in spite of the policy of the Commissioners of Income-tax in the past ?

The Honourable Mr. A. H. Lloyd : (a) Sixteen and not eighteen temporary Assistant Income-tax Officers have been appointed. Of these, four are Muslims. I cannot admit the Honourable Member's suggestion that any definite percentage of appointments has been allotted for Muslims ; but even if there had been such a general rule it would not have been applicable to these appointments since they were temporary ones and the selection of men to fill them was confined to those already in Government service.

(b) Yes ; such promotions are regulated by merit as well as seniority and not by seniority alone.

(c) The percentage of Muslims is 30. As regards the latter part of the question, attention is invited to the reply given to part (a) of the question.

(d) Yes.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Do Government propose to stop this system of supersession, because it is always used adversely towards Indians ?

The Honourable Mr. A. H. Lloyd : I do not admit that there is any system of supersession.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state what is the proportion of cases in which non-Indians have superseded Indians to the cases in which Indians have superseded non-Indians ?

The Honourable Mr. A. H. Lloyd : To the best of my belief there are no non-Indians in the rank of Assistant Income-tax Officers in the United Provinces, to which this question relates.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : I put this question in a general form. It does not refer to this question alone.

The Honourable Mr. A. H. Lloyd : If the question is put in a general form, I would suggest that notice should be given to the Honourable the Home Member. (Laughter.)

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad: I will do that.

SUSPENSION OF THE CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE MOVEMENT.

21. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : (a) Will Government be pleased to state what view they take of the suspension of the Civil Disobedience Movement ?

(b) Do Government propose to continue the repressive policy ? If not, have they abandoned it ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) and (b) . I would refer the Honourable Member to the reply I gave yesterday to his question No. 7.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know if repression was stopped when the suspension of the Civil Disobedience Movement was brought about ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I do not quite know what the Honourable Member means by repression. If he means dealing with those who break the law, then it certainly did not stop. On the other hand I may mention that for several months past Local Governments have been releasing civil disobedience prisoners before the expiration of their sentences if they were satisfied that such releases were not likely to encourage the revival of the Civil Disobedience Movement.

Kunwar Hajee Ismail Ali Khan : Are Government prepared to make a compromise with the Indian National Congress ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. I think it is clear from the statements that have been made that that is not the position.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : The Honourable Member knows that there were many kinds of repression with regard to the Civil Disobedience Movement and my question is, if that was stopped ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think, Sir, I have answered the Honourable Member's question very fully.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : I am not satisfied with the reply, but I would submit that beyond what the Honourable Member just now said about releasing prisoners, there was other kind of repression, for instance, lathi charges. Has that stopped ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : If there are unlawful activities which result in the assembly of unlawful crowds, they have to be dealt with, but if the Civil Disobedience Movement is suspended, no such crowds will collect.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Is it a fact that the Civil Disobedience Movement has really stopped ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think it is fair to say that all the main manifestations of it are now in suspense.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Thank you. In view of this, are Government prepared to release generally those who were sentenced to various terms of imprisonment before the expiry of their terms in consideration of the fact that the Civil Disobedience Movement has practically ceased to exist, except in individual cases.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I have already explained the policy that has been followed for several months past by Local Governments with the full approval of the Government of India. It has resulted in the release of a number of civil disobedience prisoners before the expiry of their term.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Might I know from the Honourable Member why was it that Mahatma Gandhi was re-arrested and sent to jail ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Because he did not abandon civil disobedence, and deliberately attempted to revive it.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know if any overt act was done ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : He had issued a statement which was a definite incitement to civil disobedience.

Sardar Sant Singh : May I know if preparation for an offence is an offence itself under any system of jurisprudence ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The point was that in view of the activities of Mr. Gandhi it was necessary to serve a notice on him and, as a result of that notice, he disobeyed the order and broke the law.

Sardar Sant Singh : The Honourable Member is well aware that no offence is said to be committed unless some overt act is done towards its commission. Is that not the law?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The Honourable Member is no doubt a much more experienced lawyer than I am. I should not like to put my view against his.

LLOYD BARRAGE SCHEME ON THE INDUS RIVER.

22. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : (a) Will Government be pleased to state if they had taken any interest in the formation of the scheme or planning the Lloyd Barrage on the Indus river ? If not, were the plans submitted to the Government of India for approval ?

(b) Do the Government of India know that the Indus river has ever since its existence remained a navigable river ?

(c) Do the Government of India know that the Indus river served a very important purpose by its navigation ?

(d) Is it a fact that the navigation in this river proved very useful to the East India Company and to the British Government both politically and commercially ?

(e) Do the Government of India know that the Barrage at Sukkur has cut off navigation absolutely below the Barrage from Sukkur right up to Ketibundar on the Arabian Sea ?

(f) Will Government be pleased to say why the navigation was totally stopped ? Was it with the sanction of the Government of India and the Secretary of State ? Was any definite and specific sanction of the Bombay Legislature and the Government of Bombay obtained to cut off this navigation which existed from pre-British days ?

(g) Do the Government of India know that in similar schemes on other rivers where free navigation was not possible the locking system has been provided for ? Was this system considered for the Sukkur Lloyd Barrage ? If not, why not ?

(h) Is it a fact that no kind of navigation was provided for below the Barrage on the allegation that the navigation below the Barrage was not as much necessary as above it upto Sukkur town ? If so, how do Government justify this, and will Government be pleased to place on the table materials in support of it ?

(i) What is the length of the river below the Barrage upto Ketibunder and what important towns lie on its bank on both sides and at near distances ?

(j) Is it a fact that the navigation of the Indus river served trade and commerce throughout the length of the river upto Ketibunder ?

(k) Is it a fact that all kinds of goods and commodities which used to be carried down by the river below the Barrage are now being carried by rail, and do Government realise the inconvenience, more expense and more freight caused by stopping the aforesaid natural navigation by the river ?

(l) Do Government propose to direct suitable methods to be provided for in the weir by locks or other means to renew the navigation in the river below the Barrage ? If not, why not ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : The information asked for by the Honourable Member is being collected and will be laid on the table of the House in due course.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Might I put one question—whether there is any intention or any endeavour on the part of the Government to see that there is some arrangement made for the navigation of the Indus river at Sukkur by putting locks or by some other means in existence elsewhere where weirs have been put up ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I have already explained to the Honourable Member that the information is being collected. The matter is primarily one which concerns the Government of Bombay and I have had to consult them in order to be able to reply to the Honourable Member's question.

DISTURBANCES IN KASHGAR AND YARKAND.

23. *Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government be pleased to make a statement relating to the disturbances in Kashgar and the Yarkand area, giving the causes of the outbreak, the number of Indians killed, injured, imprisoned, or otherwise affected and the steps taken by the Government of India in the matter ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : The Honourable Member is referred to Press Communiqués issued by the Foreign and Political Department of the Government of India from time to time. A complete copy of the Communiqués has been placed in the Library. The rising in question appears to have originated in grievances of the Tungan and Turki tribes against the Local Government. So far as is known 11 Hindus were killed and nine injured, and one Kashmiri Christian was imprisoned but subsequently released. The property of all the murdered men was renewed and also the property of seven Indians at Posgam, three at Goma and one at Aksu. Silk and carpets belonging to a Hindu trader of Yarkand were looted from the Serai of the murdered Aksakal at Karghalik. At the commencement of the present rebellion His Majesty's Consul-General at Kashgar was instructed to inform the local Chinese authorities that His Majesty's Government held them responsible for the safety of British subjects and their interests. But after the general rising of the population against the Chinese with the consequent complete collapse of Chinese control throughout the province His Majesty's Government and the Government of India have had to depend on the Consul-General at Kashgar to protect the lives and property of their subjects.

ESCAPE OF CERTAIN LIFE CONVICTS FROM PORT BLAIR.

24. *Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it a fact that three life convicts, Bura, Surain Singh, and Surja Uraon, escaped from Port Blair between August and October, 1932, and have not yet been arrested ? What are the facts of this incident ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The three convicts mentioned escaped from the Settlement between the months of August and October, 1932. One of them was recaptured in the Punjab in March, 1933. These prisoners were working as Talabdars in the Settlement and as such they enjoyed liberty of movement by day.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT NEAR DHARAMPUR ON THE KALKA SIMLA RAILWAY.

25. *Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government be pleased to make a statement relating to the railway accident to a passenger train near Dharampur Station on the Kalka Simla Railway about the 17th April last, giving the cause of the accident, the number of casualties, and the steps subsequently taken in the matter ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : At about 6-55 hours on the 17th April, 1933, No. 85 Up Express from Kalka to Simla was derailed on a curve at mile 19|40 between Sonwara and Dharampur stations. The engine and three bogies coaches left the rails. One person was grievously injured and after being given first aid was admitted into the Railway Hospital at Kalka. Nine others including three of the train crew received minor injuries. The Senior Government Inspector of Railways, Lahore, held an enquiry into the circumstances attending the accident and found that it was due to the train travelling at a speed in excess of that sanctioned on this section. The Driver of the train has been punished and removed from the Kalka Simla Section. The question of fitting the engines on this section with speed indicators is being examined.

PRESENT CONDITION OF THE HEALTH OF SAROJ RANJAN ACHARYA DETAINED IN THE DEOLI DETENTION CAMP.

26. *Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government be pleased to state the present condition of the health of Saroj Ranjan Acharya, detained in the Deoli Camp ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : On July 15, 1933, the detenu was reported to be free from any appreciable functional or organic disease. His weight was then only a pound less than his weight in October, 1932, when he was admitted to Deoli Detention Jail, and he himself stated that his health had improved.

INDIANISATION OF THE OPIUM DEPARTMENT.

27. *Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Is it not the policy of the Government to Indianise the Opium Department ? If so, with what result ?

(b) Will Government kindly furnish a list showing the number of Indian and European officers in the Opium Department, during the last five years ?

The Honourable Mr. A. H. Lloyd : (a) Yes. The figures furnished in reply to (b) show the result.

(b) A statement showing the number of European, Anglo-Indian and Indian Officers in the Opium Department, during the last five years is laid on the table

Statement showing the number of European, Anglo-Indian and Indian Officers (gazetted) in the Opium Department during the years 1928 to 1932.

Year.	Total number of officers.	Europeans.	Anglo-Indians.	Indians.
1929	27	9	16	2
1930	26	9	15	2
1931	28	7	16	5
1932	20	2	14	4

PROHIBITION OF THE IMPORTATION INTO INDIA OF TROTSKY'S HISTORY OF THE RUSSIAN REVOLUTION.

28. *Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it a fact that Government have prohibited the importation into India of Trotsky's History of the Russian Revolution ? If so, why ? Is there any reference in the book to India, or Indian conditions ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The book was held up pending examination, but eventually it was decided not to prohibit its importation.

RAILWAY ACCIDENT NEAR MOKAMEH ON THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.

29. *Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government be pleased to make a short statement relating to the Railway accident near Mokameh (East Indian Railway) recently, giving the cause of it, the number of casualties and the steps taken ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : At about 23-23 hours on the 2nd May, 1933, No. 2 Down Punjab Mail got derailed near the Howrah end of a long masonry viaduct at mile 273|20 between Dumra and Burhee stations on the East Indian Railway.

The Senior Government Inspector after enquiry concluded that the accident was due to the track having been tampered with by some unknown persons with the criminal intention of wrecking the Mail.

The casualties were 5 dead and 13 injured and the damages to rolling stock and permanent way amounted to Rs. 48,000.

The first aid box on the train was brought into use and the rescue work was quickened up on arrival of relief trains with the medical staff from Mokameh, Jhajha and Jamalpur.

Some of the serious cases were sent for treatment to Mokameh Hospital by the first available train ; the other injured were removed to Dinapore Railway Hospital.

The police investigation is proceeding. It is understood certain arrests have been made.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Have the culprits been arrested ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : It is understood that certain arrests have been made.

Maulvi Muhammad Shafee Daoodi : Who are the officers who have made these inquries ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : The Senior Government Inspector of Railways makes the inquiry.

Maulvi Muhammad Shafee Daoodi : Was any independent inquiry held in this matter as it was given to understand that the cause was not as was described by the railway authorities in the matter ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : The inquiry is one contemplated by the Railways Act. The Senior Government Inspector is quite independent of the East Indian Railway administration.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Will the Honourable Member kindly give us some indication why it was concluded that it was not due to the accident but was due to the mischievous action of the culprit ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : No, Sir. I am afraid I am not in a position at the present moment to give any more information than I have already given.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it a fact that punitive police is stationed at the scene of the accident and that they are harrassing the people in many ways ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I am not aware of that. But if the Honourable Member wants further information, I shall be able to get it for him.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Please do so.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Is this the only occasion on this section that an accident has happened during the last six or seven months ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I should ask for notice of that question.

Maulvi Muhammad Shafee Daoodi : As it is creating a sensation in the locality, may I request the Honourable Member to hold an independent inquiry in the matter to see whether the report received is true ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : As I have already informed the House, the inquiry is an independent inquiry and is conducted by the Senior Government Inspector who is not in any way connected with the railway administration. This is the inquiry that is contemplated under the Railways Act.

TELEPHONE CONNECTION OF INDIA WITH LONDON, ETC.

30. *Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government be pleased to make a statement relating to the telephone connection of India with London, or other parts of the world, and the financial effect (if any) of the scheme on India ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : A direct radio-telephone service was established between Bombay and Poona on the one side and the British Isles on the other on the 1st May, 1933. It has subsequently been extended to most countries in Europe and to North America, South America, Australia, South Africa, Egypt and Palestine. In India the service has been extended to Calcutta, Madras, Nagpur and some smaller places, and it will gradually be further extended to a number of other important places on the trunk telephone system. The results hitherto have been satisfactory and it is expected that the traffic will increase.

The charge for a call of three minutes between India on the one side and Great Britain on the other is Rs. 80, of which one half accrues to India. For calls to other places the total charges are higher. The Indian share is divided between the Indian Radio and Cable Communications Company, Limited, and the Government of India, in the ratio of three quarters to one quarter. The revenue thus derived is all new revenue to the telephone system, and to the Company, which latter has borne the greater part of the initial expenditure involved in establishing the service.

As the service is in its infancy and had not yet been extended to some important centres the full financial results cannot yet be stated, but I shall be happy to furnish a statement to the House in the course of the winter session.

Mr. B. R. Puri : How much expense have the Government of India had to incur in this connection ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I am afraid I must ask for notice.

Mr. Vidya Sagar Pandya : May I ask the Honourable Member whether it is possible to reduce the rates in the near future ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : That will probably depend upon the amount of traffic, but the rates compare quite favourably with those for the corresponding distances in other parts of the world.

Mr. Vidya Sagar Pandya : Does the Honourable Member think that the rate between London and Madras compares favourably with a similar distance in other parts of the world ? The rate between London and Madras seems to be prohibitive.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I do not think that is the case, Sir.

DEATH OF CERTAIN POLITICAL PRISONERS IN THE ANDAMANS.

31. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government be pleased to state the circumstances under which the prisoners in the Andamans recently met their death, together with their names, the Provinces from which they came, the causes of the hunger-strike, and the subsequent developments, if any ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I would refer the Honourable Member to the communiqués relating to the hunger-strike which Government issued from time to time, copies of which I lay on the table. Since the termination of the strike the Government of India have been in communication with the Chief Commissioner, Andaman and Nicobar Islands, with a view to considering whether there were any matters in regard to which it might be reasonable to amend the rules. As a result, the Chief Commissioner, with the approval of the Government of India, has now introduced certain changes in the treatment of the prisoners. In the case of the B class prisoners the principal changes are that they will be given more newspapers and allowed more frequent interviews. The C class prisoners will, if literate, be allowed lights in their cells, will be supplied with newspapers and will also be allowed more frequent interviews.

Communiqué.

The Government of India have received information from the Chief Commissioner of the Andamans that on the 12th May twenty-nine prisoners convicted of crimes connected with the terrorist movement went on hunger strike in the Cellular Jail as a protest against certain alleged grievances not being redressed. They have since been joined by several others. One of these prisoners, Mahabir Singh, who was convicted and sentenced to transportation for life in the Lahore Conspiracy Case, died on the 17th May. He started his hunger strike on the 12th May. Up to the 16th his condition was satisfactory, though he was weak. The Senior Medical Officer saw him on the morning of the 17th and considered that his general condition was then such that artificial feeding was necessary. Accordingly at 11 A.M. milk and sugar were given by nasal feeding. The patient resisted very violently both while the tube was being inserted and while the milk was being administered. At 1 P.M. he was showing evident signs of shock. The Senior Medical Officer saw him twice during the afternoon and evening and prescribed treatment. In spite of this he gradually sank, and death occurred soon after midnight. A post mortem examination was held and no signs were found of either external or internal injuries as a result of the operation of feeding. The patient's resistance in his weakened state caused a severe shock to his system and led to his collapse and death. The Chief Commissioner is fully satisfied that all due precautions were taken from the moment that forcible feeding was decided upon.

The Government of India also regret to announce that another prisoner, named Mankrishna Nama Das, convicted of dacoity in Bengal died of pneumonia on May 26th. He started a hunger strike on May 16th and on the 17th food was administered through his mouth without resistance. On the 19th he was admitted to hospital with lobar pneumonia. Throughout his illness he took whatever was prescribed for him and gave no trouble whatever. His death was due to natural causes and was in no way accelerated by his abstinence from food for one day.

There are at present 39 prisoners on hunger-strike. With one or two exceptions their condition is reported to be quite satisfactory.

HOME DEPARTMENT, SIMLA,
The 28th May, 1933.

Press Communiqué.

The Government of India regret to announce that another prisoner, named Mohit Mohan Maitra, convicted in connection with the terrorist movement in Bengal and transferred to the Cellular Jail, Andamans, died of double lobar pneumonia on the 28th May. He started hunger-strike on May 12, and on the 19th developed pneumonia, from which he died nine days later, his vitality being impaired by the hunger-strike.

HOME DEPARTMENT,
Simla, the 31st May, 1933.

Communiqué.

The latest report received from the Chief Commissioner in regard to the hunger-strike which was the subject of communiqués issued on May 28 and 31 shows that there are now no cases of pneumonia and that the condition of the strikers is generally satisfactory.

The strike started among C class convicts who demanded concessions which would, if granted, have had the effect of placing these convicts approximately in the same position as those in class B. These concessions included the supply of lights in cells until 10 P.M., and of a diet which the free inhabitants of the Islands cannot obtain. Some B class convicts joined the strike mainly out of sympathy with the demands of the C class men and partly in support of demands of their own which included the supply of foreign newspapers and permission to receive money for personal expenditure.

The Government of India, with the permission of the Government of the Punjab, have asked Lieutenant-Colonel Barker, O.B.E., I.M.S., Inspector General of Prisons, Punjab, who has special experience of hunger-strikes, to proceed to the Andamans for consultation with the Chief Commissioner in regard to the medical arrangements. Lieutenant-Colonel Barker will sail from Madras on June 11.

HOME DEPARTMENT,
Simla, the 7th June, 1933.

Communiqué.

The following members of the Legislative Assembly, Messrs. Azhar Ali, Amar Nath Dutt, B. V. Jadhav, S. G. Jog, B. N. Misra, S. C. Mitra, Gaya Prasad Singh and K. B. Thampan met the Honourable Sir Harry Haig, Home Member, this morning and discussed with him the situation arising out of the hunger-strike of certain prisoners in the Andamans. Mr. Jadhav, in opening the discussion, referred to the apprehensions which had been caused by the information given in the Government Communiqués and expressed regret that Government had not thought fit to publish the names of the prisoners on hunger-strike which would have had the effect of relieving the anxiety of the relatives of those prisoners who are not on strike and of giving the relatives of the others an opportunity of persuading them to give up the strike. He also suggested that the deaths which had occurred might have been due to the vitality of the prisoners having been lowered by the climate of the Andamans and to defective and inadequate medical arrangements. In conclusion he stated that the Cellular Jail had been closed and the transfer to it of these prisoners had aroused suspicion in regard to the motive of Government which would best be allayed by the publication of periodic statements and the holding of an impartial enquiry.

Messrs. Mitra, Jog, Thampan, and Gaya Prasad Singh also took part in the discussion. Mr. Mitra stated that he had been advised by doctors that pneumonia might result from food being given unskilfully, and, as an argument against the transfer of prisoners to a distant place like Port Blair he urged that the isolation of prison life affects the mentality of prisoners and that if relatives and public men could have had an opportunity of using their influence with the prisoners they could have persuaded them to give up the strike. Mr. Jog asked whether it would not be possible for Government to allow relatives to see the prisoners and also whether Government could not end the strike immediately by conceding their claims. He also suggested that an enquiry should be held so that the Government might benefit by the experience of the present strike and be in a position to avoid similar trouble in future. Mr. Thampan asked for a sympathetic attitude towards the prisoners and for an attempt to be made to meet their grievances. He also suggested that the names of the men on hunger-strike should be published periodically. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh proposed that the Chief Commissioner should be asked to answer letters from persons asking whether their relatives were or were not on strike.

Sir Harry Haig after an expression of his appreciation of the feelings that had prompted the deputation to come to see him began his reply by a reference to the type of men who had resorted to hunger-strike. All are men who had been convicted of crimes of violence or intended violence in connection with the terrorist movement either in Bengal or elsewhere. They were sent to the Andamans because it had been found impossible to deal with them satisfactorily in jails in their own provinces, particularly in Bengal. Local Governments had made very strong representations to the Government of India to the effect that so long as these men were kept in provincial jails there was an ever present danger of their communicating with their fellow conspirators outside and that such communications could not always be effectively stopped. There was also the danger of escape. In some cases prisoners actually had escaped and their safe custody was a constant anxiety to the Local Governments. Lastly experience had shown that the attitude of the prisoners towards jail discipline and their attempts to defy the jail authorities were having a serious effect on the discipline of other prisoners. Mahabir Singh, one of the men who died by his defiance of the authorities in the Central Jail in Bellary in September last, had instigated a riot of serious nature which might have had very dangerous results. These were the reasons which had led the Government of India to transfer these terrorist prisoners to the Andamans. The hunger-strike had been begun as a protest against certain alleged grievances but in the opinion of the local authorities, with which the Home Member agreed, the grievances were put forward as a means of attempting to force their will on the jail authorities and to break the discipline of the jail. Concession to the prisoners' demands would no doubt, as Mr. Jog had suggested, end the strike. But it was not difficult to realise what would happen in future, if these men thought that by going on hunger-strike they would obtain their way. In the last year Government had had on several occasions to oppose attempts by prisoners to force the jail authorities to grant demands by the threat or practice of hunger-strike. If prisoners resort to hunger-strike they cannot reasonably expect consideration to be given to any alleged grievances.

In regard to medical arrangements Sir Harry Haig after referring to the strain imposed on the local medical authorities by the hunger-strike of about 50 prisoners stated that in his opinion these authorities had coped with the difficulties of the situation very well indeed. Since, however, there seemed no prospect of the hunger-strike coming to an end quickly Government thought that it would be wise to send one of the most experienced officers in India in dealing with hunger-strikes, Lieutenant-Colonel Barker, to the Andamans to see whether he could make any suggestions for improvement. Lieutenant-Colonel Barker sailed from Madras on Sunday. There had been a few cases of influenza among the prisoners on hunger-strike but the latest reports showed that there were now only two cases and both were doing well while the general conditions of the other hunger-strikers was good.

Dealing with the suggestion that the prisoners who died must have been in weak health when they started the hunger-strike, Sir Harry Haig stated that, owing to a complaint about the quality of the food, the Chief Commissioner had had all the prisoners weighed towards the end of April and had found that their weights compared favourably with their weights on the dates of admission and that there was no substance in the suggestion that the diet was inadequate. Of the three prisoners who died the weights of two at the end of April were greater than their weights on admission and the weight of the third had decreased by less than 5 per cent. The death of Mahabir Singh was no doubt due to his being on hunger-strike and resulted from the effects of his violent resistance to artificial feeding on his weakened constitution. Of the two men who died of pneumonia the first died from purely natural causes which had nothing to do with the hunger-strike. The man did not resist feeding. Medical opinion was, that he must have been already infected with the pneumonia microbe and actually in the incubation state of the disease when he went on hunger-strike. The other man who died from pneumonia did resist feeding but there was reason to suppose that he too was in the incubation stage of the disease when he went on hunger-strike and that the disease was unconnected with the artificial feeding. The Director General, Indian Medical Service, had examined the case-sheets of both these prisoners and was satisfied that the medical authorities had done everything possible to save their lives.

In regard to the question of communication with relatives, Sir Harry Haig stated that the Government of India considered it was undesirable to publish the names of the hunger-strikers because it helped to advertise the strike and possibly to confirm the prisoners in their attitude, while the object of Government was to bring the strike to an end as soon as possible. He appealed to the members of the deputation, whose desire it was that the prisoners should not continue their hunger-strike to refrain from saying anything which would lead the prisoners to suppose that by continuing the hunger-strike they would secure their aims. The Government of India fully appreciated the anxiety of relatives and were prepared to do what they could to allay this. At present there is no need for anxiety in regard to any of the prisoners as the latest report is that the condition of all is good. Government will, however, be prepared to consider the possibility of sending information to the relatives of any prisoner whose condition in the future may give rise for anxiety. In concluding Sir Harry Haig pointed out that Mr. Jadhav was wrong in thinking that the Cellular Jail had ever been closed. I was, in fact, kept open in accordance with the recommendation of the Jails Committee.

Communiqué.

In the course of the discussion on the 13th June between the Home Member and certain Members of the Legislative Assembly regarding the hunger-strike in the Andamans, it was suggested that in the event of the condition of any prisoner who is on hunger-strike giving cause for anxiety, steps should be taken at once to inform the relatives by telegram. It has accordingly been arranged that in such an event, the Chief Commissioner will take the necessary steps to have the prisoner's relatives informed by telegram. At the present moment there is no case which is giving cause for anxiety.

It is announced that influenza cases referred to in the last communiqué are continuing to do well. Lieutenant-Colonel Barker has arrived in the Andamans.

HOME DEPARTMENT,
Simla, the 17th June, 1933.

Communiqué.

In the course of the discussion between the Home Member and certain Members of the Legislative Assembly on June 13 the question was raised whether communications from relatives and others to prisoners on hunger-strike in the Andamans urging them to give up the strike would be delivered. It has been ascertained from the Chief Commissioner that communications sent with this object not only from relatives but from other persons which are expressed in plain and unequivocal language will be delivered.

HOME DEPARTMENT,
Simla, the 19th June, 1933.

Communiqué.

A message issued by the Free Press from Bombay on June 17th states that the condition of 8 prisoners who are on hunger-strike in the Andamans is extremely serious. This statement is incorrect. In a communiqué, dated the 17th June, the Government of India stated that at that time there was no case which was giving cause for anxiety. On the 18th June a telegram was received from the Chief Commissioner reporting that one prisoner was suffering from post Influenza congestion of lungs, and that his condition caused slight anxiety though he was not at present dangerously ill. The Chief Commissioner communicated this information to his relatives in accordance with the procedure recently announced. In a telegram, dated the 19th June, the Chief Commissioner has reported that the condition of this prisoner is slowly improving. There is no other prisoner whose condition gives cause at present for anxiety.

HOME DEPARTMENT,

Simla, the 20th June, 1933.

Communiqué.

The Government of India have received news from the Chief Commissioner, Andaman and Nicobar Islands, that the hunger-strike was abandoned by all prisoners on June 26.

HOME DEPARTMENT,

27th June, 1933.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Why were not these changes introduced before, because if they had been so introduced they would have saved the lives of three prisoners ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Well, Sir, as the Honourable Member will remember, certain demands were put forward not in a reasonable way, but under threat of a hunger-strike. As I explained to the Honourable Members who were kind enough to see me on this subject some months ago, we could not really consider the demands before the hunger-strike was withdrawn. But when the hunger-strike was unconditionally withdrawn on the 26th June, we looked into the various points and decided that on the whole it was reasonable to make certain changes.

Sardar Sant Singh : Were not representations for these facilities made before the convicts went on hunger-strike ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I understand that the only representations made were made under threat of hunger-strike.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Do I understand the Government's position to be this that although the demands of the prisoners were reasonable, they could not be met because the prisoners threatened to go on hunger-strike ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The demands were not examined until after the hunger-strike.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : The prisoners made certain demands, but they were not examined by Government. They then went on hunger-strike and were allowed to die, and their demands were then examined and found to be reasonable. Is that the reasonable attitude to be taken up by the Government ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : They were made under threat of hunger-strike and under those circumstances it is not reasonable that the complaints should be remedied.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Before they gave out the threat of hunger-strike, did they not make a representation to the Jail authorities or to the Government of India for consideration of their demands ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I have no information to that effect.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Is it a fact that there is no other course open to the convicts in the Andamans to approach the Government of India except through hunger-strike ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : This is not a question of approaching the Government of India. It is a question of approaching the Chief Commissioner. They have ample facilities for making representations to the Chief Commissioner.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Is there any other way open to these convicts to approach the Government of India except through hunger-strike ? I do not mean approaching the Chief Commissioner who is the Head of the administration. Is there any other course open to the memorialists to approach the Government of India ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : If a representation is made to the Chief Commissioner and if he considers it in any way reasonable, then he will consult the Government of India.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Is not the Government of India aware that all the petitions made to the Government of India disclosing their grievances were withheld by the Chief Commissioner, time after time ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : It is perfectly true that the convicts have no right to address the Government of India directly.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Is it a fact that in this particular case the local authorities responsible for jail administration were informed about the grievances of these people before they gave out the threat of hunger-strike and that those representations never reached the ears of the superior authorities ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I have no information to that effect.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Will the Honourable Member please enquire into the matter and find out whether it is not a fact that their grievances were laid before the jail authorities in the Andamans and that they were not forwarded to the superior authorities there ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : If the Honourable Member will put down a question on the subject, I shall be happy to make enquiries.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : In view of the statement made by the Honourable Member, will he state as to who is responsible for their death and whether Government have awarded any compensation to their heirs ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am afraid I must consider that persons who go on hunger-strike are themselves responsible for that.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : In view of the statement made by the Honourable Member that the changes made in the rules were actually such as were thought desirable, does the Honourable Member still think that the Government were not responsible ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir ; out of a considerable list of demands, the Government of India, on going into the matter, thought that it was not unreasonable that certain changes should be made, but others were rejected as altogether unreasonable.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Are not the jail authorities who refused to forward the representation of these prisoners to the higher authorities before the threat of hunger-strike really responsible for the death of these prisoners ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The Honourable Member perhaps does not understand that the Chief Commissioner is in the position of a Local Government. He is the authority to whom these representations are forwarded by the jail authorities and they were duly forwarded to him.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it the case of the Government that the representations made by these prisoners to the jail authorities were duly forwarded to the Chief Commissioner, Andamans ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I assume so, Sir.

Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal : Is it not a fact that the Andamans were given up as a convict settlement sometime back ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : There is another question on the paper dealing with the policy of maintaining the Andamans as a penal settlement.

CONTEMPLATED ESTABLISHMENT OF MILLS AND FACTORIES IN INDIA BY JAPAN.

32. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Are Government in possession of any information to show that Japan contemplates to establish mills and factories in India ? If so, what action, if any, is proposed to be taken in the matter ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : Government have no definite information, but they have no reason for supposing that any substantial expansion of Japanese enterprise in the direction referred to is contemplated at the present time. The second part of the question does not arise.

ACTION TAKEN UNDER THE SAFEGUARDING OF INDUSTRIES ACT.

33. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government be pleased to state what action, if any, has been taken, since the passage of the Anti-Dumping Bill into law ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : An exhaustive questionnaire has been issued to each applicant for assistance under the Safeguarding of Industries Act, to which, I presume, the Honourable Member refers. The answers to the questionnaire, or so many of them as have been received, are under examination in the Commerce Department.

SEPARATION OF BURMA.

34. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government be pleased to state if they have made any recommendations with regard to the question of the separation of Burma, in relation to the recent discussion on the subject in the Burma Legislative Council ? If so, what ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I regret that I am unable to disclose the recommendations of the Government of India on the question of the separation of Burma. As the Honourable Member is no doubt aware, the main question is now before the Joint Select Committee of Parliament.

EXPLORATION OF THE POSSIBILITY OF MAKING BRAZIL, BRITISH GUIANA, OR SOME OTHER PLACES AS A POSSIBLE OUTLET FOR THE SOUTH AFRICAN INDIANS.

35. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Is it a fact that Government are exploring the possibility of making Brazil, British Guiana, or some other places, as a possible outlet for the South African Indians ? If so, why do Government countenance a proposal which would have the effect of removing the Indians from one colony to another ?

(b) Is it a fact that the Government of India, through the Government of Bombay and the Police, issued orders some time back on any individual not to publish any information about Brazil ? If so, on whom was such an order issued, and why ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : (a) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the Press Note on the subject issued by the Government of India on the 15th June, 1933.

(b) In March, 1932, the Consul for Brazil at Calcutta brought to the notice of the Government that a society named the Indo-South American Travellers' Aid Society, Bombay, was carrying on propaganda in favour of emigration to Brazil, while in point of fact the Brazilian Government, by a decree dated the 12th December, 1930, had prohibited all immigration into Brazil. The Consul further informed the Government of India that his Government had never made any contract with the above Society or its Secretary, Mr. C. L. Singh, for the settlement of emigrants from India in Brazil. The Government of India therefore requested the Bombay Government to warn Mr. C. L. Singh to cease his propagandist activities.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will the Honourable Member lay on the table of the House the communiqué to which reference has been made in reply to part (a) of my question ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : I do not know whether it is necessary to lay a copy on the table of the House. I will put it in the Library of the House.

RUMOURED TRANSFER OF A PART OF KENYA TO ITALY.

36. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is there any truth in the report that a part of Kenya was going to be transferred to Italy ? If so, have the people concerned been consulted ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : Sir, there is no truth in the report.

CITY MAGISTRATE OF DELHI.

37. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it a fact that so far not a single Hindu, Mussalman, or Sikh has been permanently appointed as City Magistrate of Delhi ? If so, why ? Does this appointment carry any allowance ? If so, how much per month ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Appointments to the post of City Magistrate, Delhi, are made on the basis of suitability, not on communal or racial grounds.

The last two permanent incumbents of the post have been Indian Christians. Before them a Hindu held the post in a permanent capacity for a year.

I may add that a Muslim officer officiated as City Magistrate from February to October, 1932, in leave arrangements, and is again officiating during the current year.

The City Magistrate, Delhi, draws a special pay of Rs. 100 a month.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : How long has this appointment been in existence ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I shall have to ask for notice.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : I presume this appointment has been in existence for a long number of years and do I take it that no Hindu, Mussalman or Sikh was found suitable to hold this appointment ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think the Honourable Member has misheard my answer. An Indian Christian is surely an Indian, also a Hindu and also a Muslim.

Sardar Sant Singh : When will the turn for a Sikh come ?

ACTION TAKEN ON CERTAIN RECOMMENDATIONS OF THE DRUGS ENQUIRY COMMITTEE REPORT.

38. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Will Government please state what steps have been taken by the Government of India to give effect to the recommendations of the 'Drugs Enquiry Committee' about the establishment of Provincial Pharmaceutical Councils and the 'General Council of Pharmacy' mentioned in paragraphs 439 and 443 of the Drug Committee's report ?

(b) Have Government taken any steps for registration of pharmacists or regarding the profession of pharmacy as recommended in paragraph 429 of the Committee's report ? If not, why not ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : (a) and (b). The Government of India are unable to formulate their conclusions on the recommendations of the Drugs Enquiry Committee until they are in possession of the views of the Local Governments who are intimately concerned. Replies from some of the Local Governments are still awaited.

ABSENCE OF A DIRECT TRAIN BETWEEN DELHI AND KARACHI.

39. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : (a) Are Government aware that there is no direct train between Delhi and Karachi ?

(b) Is it a fact that people of Sind have been clamouring for this convenience being given to them ?

(c) Is it a fact that the Railway has hitherto considered the question from only the commercial point of view and not the convenience of the people ?

(d) Is it a fact that the Railway has very great profit from the freight of goods on that line and that people in consideration of it have been urging upon the Railway since long to provide a direct train viz Samasatta and Bhatinda ?

(e) Are Government aware that the Imperial City of Delhi is connected by direct trains with all the important sea ports of India except Karachi which is not only a sea port but also the first air port of India ?

(f) Do Government propose to meet the wishes of the people and give this very necessary convenience ? If not, why not ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) Yes.

(b) It is understood that no proposals have been made for a direct train, though direct through coaches have been suggested.

(c) I hope my Honourable friend does not expect Railways to be worked otherwise than from a commercial point of view, but that does not exclude from consideration the convenience of the travelling public ; at the same time the cost of any such services and the return that may be expected have also to be carefully considered particularly in these days of economic depression.

(d) The profit from the freight on goods on the Samasata-Bhatinda Section is, so far as I know, not abnormal.

(e) Yes. There are direct trains between Delhi, Calcutta, Bombay, and Madras.

(f) The question of a direct train was recently discussed with the members of the Karachi Advisory Committee and they were of the opinion that a direct train was not justified but that the running of direct through coaches would be a convenience. The running of through coaches was tried on various occasions but they were discontinued as the number of passengers availing themselves of the convenience did not justify their continuance.

The Agent, North Western Railway, has reported that the running of a through Sind-Delhi Coach throughout the year is not justified by the traffic offering, but that he is arranging to run direct coaches both upper and lower during the coming Christmas vacation if the traffic offering warrants it.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the running of these coaches during Christmas only remove the difficulty ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I understand that at a census taken in 1930 the average number of through passengers per day was, first class, .11, second class, .74, intermediate class, .9, and third class, 36.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : I know how census is taken, but are there no railways where trains are run, not for commercial purposes only but for convenience also ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : If the number of passengers availing themselves of this convenience is so few, I am sure my Honourable friend would not expect the North Western Railway to run a coach merely for such a small number of passengers.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I inform the Honourable Member that in taking a census only people who go from Karachi to Delhi direct are counted, and not the people who use the train at intermediate stations ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : The census was taken when the through coach was in existence.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Can the Honourable Member challenge my statement that they only count those who travel direct from Karachi to Delhi and not those who get up on the way ? May I also ask the Honourable Member whether the convenience of one man is not also to be considered ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : No, Sir ; not to the extent of running a train for him.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : As the number of third class passengers taking advantage of the through coach is considerable, will Government again ask the Railway Company to have a third class through carriage between Karachi and Delhi ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I will ask the Railway to consider that point.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Does the Honourable Member know that there are coaches which contain composite third, intermediate, second and first class compartments ? Why should not such a coach be run so that there may be passengers ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : As I have already pointed out to the House, the Agent of the Railway is considering whether direct coaches could be run when the traffic requires it.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : I hope the Agent will consider this not only for Christmas, but for all the year round.

Mr. P. R. Rau : I shall send a copy of these questions and answers to the Agent.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Is the Honourable Member aware that there are three trains running direct from Karachi to Lahore ? And cannot one of these trains be diverted to Delhi via Bhatinda ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I am afraid, Sir, I am not as familiar with the time-table of the North Western Railway as my Honourable friend.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the Honourable Member ask the Agent to consider this scheme ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I think the running of a through train from Karachi to Delhi would not meet the requirements of passengers from Karachi to Lahore.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Considering the attitude of the Railway authorities in affording public convenience, are Government surprised that people prefer to travel by motor buses rather than by rail wherever possible ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : The attitude of the Railway authorities in this matter is to cater for the traffic which exists.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Cannot a census be taken of passengers who travel by those through trains from Karachi to Lahore and then come from Bhatinda to Delhi ? Cannot one of those trains be diverted at Samasata and run to Delhi ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : That would mean one train less to Lahore.

Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal : And leave the Lahore passengers on the road ?

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : No, those passengers will go by the other two direct trains.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Order, order. Next question.

ABSENCE OF A DIRECT TRAIN BETWEEN LAHORE AND KARACHI viâ DADU.

40. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : (a) Are Government aware that at present there is no direct train between Lahore and Karachi via Dadu ?

(b) Is it a fact that for the aforesaid reasons people of Sind have been urging since long for a direct train between Lahore and Karachi via Dadu ?

(c) Is it a fact that such a train was in existence some years ago and are Government aware that it did really afford a very great convenience to the people ?

(d) Do Government propose to see their way to meet with the wishes of the people in this matter ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) Such a train was run but was discontinued as there was insufficient traffic to justify its continuance.

(d) The question of restoration of a through train depends entirely on a sufficient revival of traffic to justify it. I understand the position is being watched by the North Western Railway Administration.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Does the Honourable Member know that when I agitated over this question last time in the Assembly, even the train which is not going direct to Karachi but going up to Kotri was proposed by the Agent to be discontinued, but, on better sense, it was allowed to be continued ? Was it not vindictiveness ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I do not think the Agent of the North Western Railway would be so vindictive as to cut out a train because questions are asked in the Assembly.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : This question has been discussed several times. A train is needed directly via Dadu to Karachi and the Agent has once refused it. Does he now think his prestige will suffer if he listens to these cries of the people ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : No, Sir ; questions of prestige do not enter into this at all.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will the Honourable Member please state what is the number which he thinks would justify a through train ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I am afraid I cannot give a categorical answer to this question at a moment's notice.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will the Honourable Member think over this and state it on the floor of the House in due course ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : It depends upon the circumstances in each case. I cannot say what particular number of passengers justifies a through train at a particular moment.

HUNGER-STRIKE BY CERTAIN POLITICAL PRISONERS IN THE ANDAMANS.

41. *Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : (a) Will Government be pleased to state if any political prisoners detained in the Andaman Islands went on hunger-strike recently ?

(b) Is it a fact that about thirty-nine prisoners have gone on hunger-strike in the Andaman Islands ? If not, how many ?

(c) Will Government be pleased to state what were their reasons for going on hunger-strike ?

(d) What attempts, if any, were made to remove or meet with the causes which led to their hunger-strike ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : With your permission, Sir, I will answer questions Nos. 41 and 42 together. I would refer the Honourable Member to the answer which I have given to Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh's starred question No. 31.

DEATH OF CERTAIN POLITICAL PRISONERS IN THE ANDAMANS.

†42. *Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Is it a fact that two of the political prisoners in the Andamans, Mahabir Singh from the Punjab, and Mankrishen Namandas from Bengal, actually died on account of their fast ?

TRANSPORTATION OF POLITICAL PRISONERS TO THE ANDAMANS.

43. *Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : (a) Will Government be pleased to make a full statement as to what actually necessitated the transportation of political prisoners, used to the climatic conditions and environments of India, to the Andamans ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to lay on the table papers regarding any notifications, rules and the policy of Government for sending prisoners of all kinds to the Andamans ?

(c) Is it a fact that a committee under the chairmanship of Sir Alexandar Cardew had recommended that prisoners should no more be sent to the Andamans and those already there be gradually returned to India ?

(d) How far have these recommendations been given effect to and carried out ?

(e) Do Government propose to call back the political prisoners from the Andamans, and try not to send prisoners to the Andamans ? If not, why not ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) The reasons for the transfer of these prisoners to the Andamans are stated in a communiqué issued on the 13th June last recording the results of a discussion which I held with a deputation of Honourable Members of this House. A copy of the communiqué has just been laid on the table.

(b) The policy of Government is fully explained in the Home Department Resolution No. F. 20/26-Jails, dated February 27, 1926.

†For answer to this question, see answer to question No. 41.

(c) The recommendation of the Indian Jails Committee is contained in paragraph 566 of their Report. It will be seen that they recommended that deportation to the Andamans should cease except in regard to such specially dangerous criminals as the Governor General in Council may direct.

(d) The Resolution which I have just mentioned explains the extent to which effect was given to the Jails Committee's recommendations.

(e) No.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Is that recommendation of the Committee that only specially dangerous criminals should be sent there being carried out ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The whole question which is rather complicated is very fully discussed in the Home Department Resolution of February, 1926, to which I have referred. Actually the position is that a certain number of prisoners who volunteer for the Andamans within certain limits are sent there and in addition this special class of dangerous prisoners is being sent there. That is briefly the position.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Who decides that they are dangerous, the magistrate ?

The Honourable [illegible] Haig : No : that is the decision of the Government.

Mr. [illegible] What is a dangerous class of prisoners, those convicted [illegible] or anything else ?

The Honourable [illegible] Harry Haig : At the present moment the prisoners we are referring to are those convicted in connection with terrorist crime.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : In deciding whether a prisoner is dangerous, do Government take into consideration the conduct of the prisoners in the Indian jails, whether they have behaved themselves politely and well ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The main thing is the nature of the offence : but the behaviour of the prisoners is naturally a matter which is taken into consideration.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Is it a fact that in transferring prisoners from Bengal in not a single case was the behaviour of the prisoner in jail taken into consideration, at least in the past ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I must make it clear that as a class the behaviour of these terrorist prisoners was considered dangerous in the Bengal jails.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Are not the Government of India aware that the persons convicted of these anarchical crimes may be very civil and meek and law abiding in the jails and according to what was contemplated in the Jail Committee's report they should not be considered as dangerous ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am afraid that has not been the experience of Bengal jails.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : May I take it that the recommendation of the Jails Committee was that persons who in jail acted violently or in a very disturbing manner should be transferred : but now Government in giving effect to that recommendation did not consider at all the conduct of these prisoners after their conviction in jail, but are merely guided by the sections under which they are convicted : is that fair ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No : I think that the Jails Committee clearly contemplated certain classes of prisoners being sent to the Andamans : they said " such prisoners as the Governor General in Council may by special or general order direct ".

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Did they mean persons convicted under certain sections of the Indian Penal Code or did they mean the conduct of these prisoners in jail as regards jail discipline ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think the action that has been taken is clearly covered by what I understand to be the intention of the recommendation of the Indian Jails Committee.

DEATH OF CERTAIN POLITICAL PRISONERS IN THE ANDAMANS.

44. Mr. A. Das : (a) How many deaths have taken place amongst political prisoners sent to the Andamans ?

(b) Have Government made enquirie[illegible]ause of their death ?

(c) Will Government be pleased to p[illegible] the correspondence regarding this matter ?

(d) In view of such frequent death[illegible] prepared to consider the advisability of removing the [illegible]oners to some other jails ?

(e) Have Government enquired into the jail administration in the Andamans and, if so, do they propose to remove the causes which led to the recent deaths of certain political prisoners there ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a), (b) and (e). I would refer the Honourable Member to the reply which I have given to Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh's starred question No. 31.

(c) I regret that I am not prepared to publish correspondence.

(d) The deaths of the prisoners occurred in circumstances which do not make any change of policy necessary.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : May I know if the communication to which reference has been made contains the name of the prisoners who died as well as the provinces from which they came ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Yes : they contain the names of the prisoners.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : As well as the places ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think so : but two of them, I think, came from Bengal and one from the Punjab.

Mr. A. Das : May I know what objection has the Honourable Member to place on the table the correspondence regarding this matter ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Because it is confidential.

SUGGESTIONS FOR ECONOMY ON THE RAILWAYS.

45. Mr. A. Das : (a) Is it a fact that one Mr. Panna Lal of Narainpur in the district of Mirzapur submitted to the Railway Board a few suggestions in a pamphlet No. 167|R.C., dated the 1st April, 1932, regarding economy in the expenditure of Railways which the Board acknowledged in their letter No. 1314-B., dated the 10th June, 1932 ? If the reply be in the affirmative, which of his suggestions have been accepted for adoption ?

(b) Is it a fact that suggestion No. 12 of the pamphlet regarding return journey cheque passes was originally made by Mr. Panna Lal in 1927 to the Agent of the East Indian Railway, who replied in his letter No. G.-46|27, dated the 30th July 1927, that his committee had rejected it ?

(c) Is it also a fact that the rejected suggestion was actually adopted by the same Agent in 1928 ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) Yes. None of his suggestions was adopted. (b) and (c). The suggestion to issue one pass for the combined outward and return journey was originally made by Mr. Heseltine, Officer on Special Duty on the East Indian Railway, and was accepted by the Agent, East Indian Railway, in January, 1927, or six months before the receipt of Mr. Panna Lal's letter by the Agent, East Indian Railway, in July, 1927. Mr. Panna Lal was informed that a single form for outward and inward journeys was being adopted for home line passes but that a similar arrangement for foreign line passes had not been accepted by the Indian Railway Conference Association.

Mr. A. Das : May I know if it is not a fact that some of his suggestions have been adopted ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : No : I am not aware of any that have been adopted.

Mr. A. Das : What about suggestion No. 12 ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I have replied to that : it has not been accepted : the suggestion to issue one pass for home line passes was accepted long before he had made the suggestion : the suggestion to have one pass for foreign line passes has not been accepted.

SUGGESTIONS FOR ECONOMY ON THE RAILWAYS.

46. Mr. A. Das : (a) Is it a fact that rules regarding allowances to relieving staff of Railways were changed early in 1932 so as to grant full allowance for 10 days, and half allowance for the remaining 20 days of a month to a servant on the relieving list ?

(b) Is it a fact that Mr. Panna Lal criticised the above change by pointing out in his suggestion No. 7 of his pamphlet regarding economy in Railway expenditure that the altered rule was against the interest of the Railway as well as of the staff, and that his criticism was accepted ?

(c) Is it a fact that suggestion No. 2 of Mr. Panna Lal's pamphlet (regarding the conversion of " A " class stations) is under consideration for its adoption on the East Indian Railway ?

(d) Is it a fact that suggestion No. 11 of Mr. Panna Lal's pamphlet regarding the issue of daily return tickets has been introduced on a certain section of the North Western Railway and the Bombay, Baroda and Centra India Railway ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) and (b). Certain orders were issued in 193 delegating powers to sanction daily allowances to heads of Department and other officers subject in the latter case to the condition that ful daily allowance will be allowed for the first ten days and half daily allowance for the next 20 days. These were revised in 1932 when the limits were withdrawn, but it was provided that when it could be foreseen that the relieving staff would be required for more than six weeks, no daily allowance would be admissible, as they would be considered as temporarily transferred. So far as I am aware, Mr. Panna Lal's suggestion had nothing to do with either of these decisions.

(c) No.

(d) Any action that may have been taken on the North Western Railway and the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway in the matter of issuing daily return tickets cannot be attributed to Mr. Panna Lal's pamphlet because this is a perfectly normal procedure in railways and one which a railway has always to consider with regard to the possibilities of improving traffic.

LIGHT OF RAILWAY SIGNALS.

47. Mr. A. Das : (a) Is it a fact that Mr. Panna Lal of Narainpur in the district of Mirzapur prepared and published an everlasting calendar and suggested in the same an improvement regarding the "back light" of railway semaphore signals (which was received and acknowledged by the Railway Board in their letter No. 1216-Tench., dated 10th July, 1927) ?

(b) If so, has the Government Railway Inspector accepted the suggested improvement ? If not, what are the reasons for not accepting the same and how is it intended to remove the defect pointed out by Mr. Panna Lal regarding the light of the signals ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) Government are not aware of the publication of an everlasting calendar by Mr. Panna Lal, but a letter was received from him in 1929, in which he made a suggestion regarding back lights of signals.

(b) It is not admitted that there is any defect in the existing practice, and Mr. Panna Lal's suggestion has not been accepted because it is not considered to be an improvement on the existing arrangement.

ALLEGED ASSAULT ON THE PEOPLE AT THE ESPLANADE TRAM-SHED IN CALCUTTA.

48. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Has the attention of Government been drawn to a letter published in the Amrita Bazar Patrika, dated the 3rd June, 1933 (page 7) from Mr. F. C. Bancroft, Y. M. C. A., 73, Paddapukker Road, Calcutta, addressed to H. E. Sir John Anderson, Governor of Bengal, in the course of which the writer says as follows, with refereuce to the assault on the people at the Esplanade tram-shed where the Congress was held in Calcutta :

"About nine-tenths of those under the shed were sent away, but only after very severe lathi beating ; I personally saw several women struck quite fiercely over the shoulders, necks, and backs. After this, a number were rushed into the lorry, and one man who stumbled on the steps was very brutally beaten before he could rise. Unfortunately, we could see no more, because at this juncture we were all driven down Dharrumtolla by an indiscriminate lathi charge, none of the blows of which happened to fall upon myself."

(b) Was the writer of this letter examined in the course of any enquiry ?

(c) Are Government prepared to place a copy of the official report in this connection on the table ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) I have seen the letter. Mr. Bancroft, though he gave the Y. M. C. A. as his address, has in fact not been connected with that Association for some considerable time. The Association informed Government that Mr. Bancroft who had been a member of their staff resigned on May 31st, 1932.

(b) Mr. Bancroft was not examined in the course of the enquiry. His letter was not written until after the official enquiry had been made and the results published, and nearly two months after the event. The account he gave of what occurred at the Esplanade Corner is not borne out by the official report. No person who was arrested there and taken to Lall Bazar had any injury nor did any complain of having received any injuries, though two Deputy Commissioners of Police visited the lock-up and enquired whether any prisoner had any complaint to make. With regard to the allegations of beating of women, the account, moreover, is at variance with the statement of Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya, which expressly stated that women delegates were not beaten.

(c) I would refer the Honourable Member to the reply I gave yesterday to part (d) of his question No. 18.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it not a fact that the address Mr. Bancroft gave was merely to indicate that he was residing there at the time and not to indicate that he was connected with the Y. M. C. A. at the time when the letter was written ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : That, I am afraid, I cannot say : I do not know whether he was at the moment residing in the Y. M. C. A. building.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Did not Mr. Bancroft send another letter to the papers in which he made this point clear ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am afraid I did not see that.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Is this Mr. Bancroft a Britisher by nationality or an undesirable alien ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I do not know whether he is an undesirable alien, but he is a national of the United States of America.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : May I know if any non-official was examined in connection with the allegations made by Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya or by Mr. Bancroft with regard to the incidents which happened at the Esplanade Corner ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No ; I think I made that point clear yesterday.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Have Government considered the desirability of taking steps to bring this gentleman to book for indulging in propaganda of this character ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No : so far, I am afraid, the statement has not been taken so seriously as that by the Government.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Do I interpret the meaning of the Government correctly when I say that the Government regard the statement contained in that letter to be false ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Certainly to be inaccurate.

Mr. B. R. Puri : What is the difference between inaccurate and false ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I always like to use mild language.

An Honourable Member : May I know why no steps have been taken so far against Pandit Malaviya or Mr. Bancroft over these false statements which they are alleged to have made ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : That is a question which I answered yesterday.

Sardar Sant Singh : Is it a fact that Sir Samuel Hoare said that if such statements are repeated action will be taken ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am not aware of it.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Then why not refer to Sir Samuel Hoare and take steps against these gentlemen for making those statements ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I said I was not aware of any such statement by the Secretary of State.

MOTION FOR ADJOURNMENT.

FACILITIES GIVEN TO MAHATMA GANDHI IN JAIL.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : I have received a notice from Mr. S. C. Mitra that he proposes to ask for leave to make a motion for adjournment of the business of the House for the purpose of discussing a definite matter of urgent public importance, as follows : 12 NOON.

"The unsatisfactory reply of the Honourable the Home Member to the short notice question of Mr. Maswood Ahmad regarding the facilities given to Mahatma Gandhi in jail to carry on his untouchability movement."

I have to inquire whether any Honourable Member has any objection to this motion.

(No objection was taken.)

As no objection has been taken, I declare that leave is granted and that the motion will be taken up for discussion at 4 P.M. this afternoon.

THE WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION (AMENDMENT) BILL.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The House will now resume further consideration of the Workmen's Compensation (Amendment) Bill.

The question is that clause 3 stand part of the Bill.

The motion was adopted.

Clause 3 was added to the Bill.

Clauses 4, 5, 6, 7 and 8 were added to the Bill.

Clauses 9, 10, 11, 12 and 13 were added to the Bill.

Sir Lancelot Graham (Secretary, Legislative Department) : Sir, I move :

"That in sub-clause (a) of clause 14 of the Bill, after the word 'substituted' the words 'and in the proviso the word 'registered' shall be omitted' be inserted."

Sir, this apparently complicated motion is really a very simple drafting amendment of a consequential nature. The House has already, by passing clause 2 of this Bill, struck out from the original Act clause (j) of section 2 of that Act. Now, clause (j), Sir, in the original Act contains the definition of a "registered ship". Consequentially on that, Sir, in clause 10 of this Bill, Honourable Members will see that the word "registered" has already been struck out. That is one consequential amendment, but, Sir, by a slight oversight on the part of the draftsman the word "registered" has not yet been directly struck out from section 21 of the Act, that is to say, the omission is now rectified by inserting clause 14 to the Bill, and the further provision would strike out the word "registered" where it occurs in section 21 of the Act. Sir, I move.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Amendment moved :

"That in sub-clause (a) of clause 14 of the Bill, after the word 'substituted' the words 'and in the proviso the word 'registered' shall be omitted' be inserted."

The question is that that amendment be made.

The motion was adopted.

Clause 14, as amended, was added to the Bill.

Clauses 15 and 16 were added to the Bill.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is that clause 17 stand part of the Bill.

Mr. G. Morgan (Bengal : European) : Sir, I beg to move the following amendment to clause 17 of the Bill. It reads thus :

"That in clause 17 of the Bill, in the proposed further proviso to sub-section (1) of section 30, the words 'not less than one-tenth of' be omitted."

It is proposed to add a further proviso to sub-section (1) of section 30 to the effect that no appeal by an employer under clause (a) shall lie unless the memorandum of appeal is accompanied by a certificate by the Commissioner to the effect that the appellant has deposited with him not less than one-tenth of the amount payable under the order appealed against. If those words are deleted, Sir, then the whole amount has to be deposited, and not merely one-tenth. My second amendment will explain that more fully, but so far as this amendment is concerned, I am merely moving for the deletion of the words 'not less than one-tenth of'.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Amendment moved :

"That in clause 17 of the Bill, in the proposed further proviso to sub-section (1) of section 30, the words 'not less than one-tenth of' be omitted."

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce (Member for Industries and Labour) : Sir, at the risk of being accused by my Honourable friend, Mr. Joshi, of once again succumbing to the blandishment of the capitalists, I may say at once that I am prepared to accept both Mr. Morgan's amendment to clause 17, and also his second amendment to clause 18, which is very closely connected with it. I must frankly confess to the House that I am always most reluctant even to appear to go back to the smallest extent on what has been decided in a Select Committee to the Report of which I have appended my name without a minute of dissent ; but if the House will bear with me a little, I hope I shall be able to convince even my friend, Mr. Joshi, that, in this case, there are very good reasons for doing so. When the Bill was under consideration in my Department, I felt that the two provisos which Mr. Morgan wishes to omit were admittedly open to criticism on the ground of equity. The Labour Commission felt the same and recognised that their suggestion which is embodied in the Bill is not entirely satisfactory. They put it forward as a possibility rather than as a clear suggestion. It is obviously not a sound principle that, because a person is poor, he should finally get part of something which he is found to have been awarded in error. That is the position under the proviso to section 30 A. of the Bill as inserted in clause 18 :

"Provided that the Commissioner may distribute, in such manner as he may think fit, out of any sum in deposit with him, a sum not exceeding one-tenth of the sum payable under his order, or one hundred rupees, whichever is less, among persons entitled under his order to receive compensation who, in his opinion, are unable to support themselves, and in the event of the appeal being successful, such sum shall not be recoverable by the employer."

Under that proviso the employer has to pay one hundred rupees or one-tenth of the compensation, whichever is less, whether the appeal goes in his favour or not, and as I have said, Sir, that does not appear equitable. A number of members of the Select Committee felt that that was so and that there was some justice in the contention that it is not fair, but they could not see a better way out of the difficulty, and I confess that at the time I could not see one myself. It was felt that, without some provision of this kind, appeals would be filed by employers so as to postpone paying the money, often in the expectation that the dependants would be dead or gone by the time the appeal was settled. Now, Sir, it seems to me, and I trust the House will agree, that, looking at the matter from the broad point of view, the employers' offer, as it has been put to us by Mr. Morgan, does provide a better way out of the difficulty. What we have to do, as the Labour Commission tried to do, is to find out what in the long run is to the best advantage of the labourer, and I have no doubt myself that a deposit of the whole amount involved will act as a much more effective check on appeals than the deposit of one-tenth of the compensation or Rs. 100 whichever is less, even though in the latter case the employer will not get his money back though his appeal may be successful. The argument in favour of the clause of the Bill, as it stands now, and I think it is the only argument, is that it gives the dependants something to go on with pending the disposal of the appeal. But Rs. 100, more or less, is not going far in that direction. My point, and I hope I have made it clear, is that in my view, which I trust will commend itself to the House, it is far better for the workpeople as a whole that the number of appeals should be substantially reduced than that a few dependants should benefit by a small amount. I would, therefore, ask the House to look at this matter from the broad aspect—the benefit of the greatest number—and it is for that reason that I accept these amendments on behalf of Government, and I trust that the House will do so too.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

"That in clause 17 of the Bill, in the proposed further proviso to sub-section (1) of section 30, the words 'not less than one-tenth of' be omitted."

The motion was adopted.

Mr. G. Morgan : Sir, I formally move :

"That in clause 17 of the Bill, in the proposed further proviso to sub-section (1) of section 30, the words 'or one hundred rupees, whichever is less' be omitted."

I have nothing to add in putting this before the House. The Honourable Member in charge has explained the position and has accepted the amendment.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

"That in clause 17 of the Bill, in the proposed further proviso to sub-section (1) of section 30, the words 'or one hundred rupees, whichever is less' be omitted."

The motion was adopted.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is that clause 17, as amended, stand part of the Bill.

The motion was adopted.

Clause 17, as amended, was added to the Bill.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is that clause 18 stand part of the Bill.

Mr. G. Morgan : Sir, I move :

"That in clause 18 of the Bill, in the proposed section 30A, after the words 'withhold payment of any sum in deposit with him' the following be inserted :

'and where the appeal is awarded in favour of the employer, the total compensation and costs, if any, deposited with the Commissioner, shall be refunded in full to the employer'."

The reason for that is this. There is provision for withholding payment, but there is nothing in the clause to show that the money should be refunded when the appeal has been settled and won by the employer. Sir, I move.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : Sir, I regret that I must oppose this amendment. In the first place, it is unnecessary, and in the second, it is objectionable. It is obvious that, where an appeal is awarded in favour of the employer, the order of the Court will cover payment of the compensation in full to him. The second part deals with the question of costs. There is no provision in the Act anywhere which provides for the deposit of costs. For that reason, I consider that it is unnecessary to provide for them here. I have also stated that the amendment is objectionable. The reason for that is that it involves undue interference with the discretion of the Court. Sir, I oppose the amendment.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai (Sind : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : I find this amendment to be a very reasonable one. It is said that the Court, on deciding in favour of the employer, will make an order for refund, but unless and until the Act provides that the refund should be made, the hands of the Court will be tied down and will not pass such an order. I do not think any authority has been quoted to show that there is any general law to the effect that such payments could be refunded. If there is no general law on the subject, I do not think it will be within the province of the Court to order such refund. But even granting for the sake of argument that the principle is that it will be refunded, what is lost by making a distinct and specific provision in this Act? It is more or less accepted by the other side that the refund must be made, and if, instead of making a specific provision, you say that the Court will do it, that will certainly be unreasonable. And what is this House for? This House is here for making specific and clear provisions in order to give power to the Court to order refund. I hope the House will see the reasonableness of this amendment, and, even though it is opposed by Government, it would accept it

Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury (Assam : Muhammadan) : I rise to oppose this amendment, and the reason is very simple. Here is a case in which compensation has been awarded by the Commissioner. The employer prefers an appeal. The appeal is not on a question of fact, but on a question of law. This appeal may take time in the High Court, and in the meantime what is to be done with regard to the poor workman and his dependants? Therefore, it has been provided in the Act that the Commissioner will be entitled to distribute Rs. 100 or one-tenth of the deposit to the workman. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai asks whether it is just to withhold from the employer the full amount of the compensation. Now, I would ask him, suppose the workman wins the appeal. What happens? If the workman wins the appeal, during this long period of time when his need was the greatest, he has been deprived of his rightful compensation and, to obviate this difficulty, the Government have placed the responsibility on the shoulders best able to bear it.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the Honourable Member excuse my interruption? Here is a compensation unlawfully or unjustly paid and, if the appeal is decided in favour of the employer, then the money must be refunded. What harm is there in that?

Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury : The workman is deprived of any assistance when his need is the greatest.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : It is a question of refund.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : There is some confusion. The question of the Rs. 100 has already been dealt with in the two previous amendments of Mr. Morgan. We are now dealing with the question of appeal in regard to the total amount.

Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury : Under section 17, one-tenth of the whole amount is to be deposited and under this section out of this whole amount, deposited with the Commissioner, Rs. 100 must be paid to the workman.

Mr. A. G. Clow (Government of India : Nominated official) : This proposal relates to Mr. Morgan's amendment No. 16 which has not yet been moved and which aims at the omission of the proviso altogether. The result would be that the employer will be compelled to deposit the whole amount of the compensation, but none of it will be distributed. It will be kept intact for him pending the decision of the appeal.

Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury : If we accept this amendment of Mr. Morgan, that means that the Commissioner of compensation is debarred from paying Rs. 100 according to the next proviso to the workman.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : That is the proviso. We are not discussing it now. Mr. Morgan's amendment is to this effect. The present clause says " Where an employer makes an appeal under clause (a) of sub-section (1) of section 30, the Commissioner may, and, if so directed by the High Court, shall, pending the decision of the appeal, withhold payment of any sum in deposit with him ". Mr. Morgan wishes to add there " and where the appeal is awarded in favour of the employer, the total compensation and costs, if any, deposited with the Commissioner shall be refunded in full to the employer ". We are not now dealing with the question of the Rs. 100 at all. I endeavoured to explain just now as regards the Rs. 100 that I was prepared to accept Mr. Morgan's amendment. This has nothing whatever to do with the question of Rs. 100

Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury : If we accept Mr. Morgan's amendment, then the entire amount will be refunded to the employer.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : This particular amendment does not affect that question in any way.

Mr. N. M. Joshi (Nominated Non-Official) : I have great pleasure in supporting my Honourable friend, Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury. If Mr. Morgan's amendment is not adopted, the workmen's compensation Commissioner will be prevented from taking advantage of the proviso to clause 18 and we certainly cannot allow the deletion of this proviso. If we vote for this amendment, then we certainly cannot do what we propose to do. I, therefore, must oppose this amendment.

Mr. A. Das (Benares and Gorakhpur Divisions: Non-Muhammadan Rural) : I wish to oppose this amendment at least so far as the second portion is concerned. I think there is no reason for fettering the discretion of the Court as to whether it will or it will not allow full cost to the successful party. If this amendment is allowed, it will mean that the appellate Court will be bound to refund the whole cost to the successful party. Supposing the Court is of this opinion that the costs should not be allowed, in that case I submit that the hands of the appellate Court should not be fettered in that respect and, therefore, I oppose this amendment.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav (Bombay Central Division: Non-Muhammadan Rural) : I rise to oppose this amendment. Mr. Morgan has contrived to split one amendment into two amendments in order to conceal from the Members of this House the real import of his amendment. If this amendment is accepted, then even if the proviso be retained, there will be inconsistency and, therefore, we have to oppose this amendment as well as the next one. Had he combined the two amendments into one, then it would have been rather consistent but he has split it up into two amendments in order to confound us. We have to oppose the amendment.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

" That in clause 18 of the Bill, in the proposed section 30A, after the words ' withhold payment of any sum in deposit with him ' the following be inserted :

' and where the appeal is awarded in favour of the employer, the total compensation and costs, if any, deposited with the Commissioner, shall be refunded in full to the employer '."

The motion was negatived.

Mr. G. Morgan : Sir, I move :

"That in clause 18 of the Bill, the proviso to the proposed section 30A be omitted."

The object of this amendment is to cut out the proposal contained in the Bill that the Commissioner, pending the decision of the appeal, may distribute in such manner as he may think fit, out of any sum in deposit with him, a sum not exceeding one-tenth of the sum payable under his order. This amendment brings all my amendments together. Sir, I move.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : I oppose this amendment. What Mr. Morgan is aiming at is that even though the workman may have difficulty in supporting himself during the period of the appeal, the Compensation Commissioner should have no discretion in giving him a small amount of money. It does not mean that the Compensation Commissioner will in every case distribute Rs. 100. The Workmen's Compensation Commissioner will judge the circumstances of the workman. If he finds that the workman is likely to remain hungry and to starve, then he will give him a sum up to Rs. 100. I do not think there is any injustice in this. When the employer by his own action prolongs the period, the workman should get the amount which may be given to him by the Workmen's Compensation Commissioner. Moreover, when the Workmen's Compensation Commissioner gives his decision, at least the presumption is that the workman deserves the compensation. So, if a small amount of money, after that presumption has arisen, is spent in those cases where the workman is unable to support himself and when he is starving, I think there is nothing unfair at all and, therefore, his amendment should not be accepted.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : Sir, I have already informed the House that I am prepared to accept Mr. Morgan's amendment. Mr. Joshi, as is his usual habit, wishes to have it both ways. I submit it to you, Sir, that it would have been fairer to the House if, on the previous amendment, Mr. Joshi had explained what his position was going to be on this question. I did my best to make it clear to the House,—the majority of the Members of which did not serve on the Select Committee and are not as familiar with the details of this Bill as is Mr. Joshi—I endeavoured to explain that what we were doing was, instead of asking the employer to deposit one-tenth of the amount due or Rs. 100, whichever was less, to compel him to deposit the whole amount of compensation in the hope of reducing the number of appeals. As a counterweight to that, we were relieving him of the obligation, or rather the risk, of losing Rs. 100, which, in the event of his appeal being successful, he would have no chance of getting back. The two amendments, as I explained, are very closely connected and, as the House has already passed one, Mr. Joshi wishes to get the benefit of that by persuading it to reject the other. I submit that that is not a fair course and I trust that the House will agree with me in accepting Mr. Morgan's present amendment.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : May I inform the Honourable Member, Sir, that I took no part at all in the discussion of the amendment on clause 17.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : My point was that Mr. Joshi should have declared his attitude during that discussion in view of the fact that the two amendments were very closely, in fact, essentially connected.

Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury : We never understood it to mean that the acceptance of clause 17 carried with it the acceptance of this deletion of the proviso also.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I tried my best to explain that.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

"That in clause 18 of the Bill, the proviso to the proposed section 30A be omitted."

The motion was adopted.

Clause 18, as amended, was added to the Bill.

Clauses 19 and 20 were added to the Bill.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is that clause 21 stand part of the Bill.

Mr. N. M. Joshi: Sir, I move :

"That in clause 21 of the Bill, the words 'otherwise than in a clerical capacity', wherever they occur, be omitted."

This phrase occurs in several sub-clauses of this clause. It occurs in sub-clauses (i), (ii), (iii), (v), (x), (xiv), (xviii) and (xix). My amendment is that this phrase from these places should be omitted. The object of the amendment is to permit compensation being given to clerks engaged in the industries in which the workers are given the right of getting compensation. I think there is no justification for omitting clerks from the benefit of this clause. If a clerk goes near the machinery in connection with some of his work and meets with an accident, he deserves compensation. But if a clerk has no business at all to go near the machinery, there will be no accidents. In either case, either the compensation is justified or there will be no need for compensation. One cannot, however, say that clerks engaged in factories will have no work at all to go near the machinery. They may sometimes have to go ; as a matter of fact, they do go. Similarly, some railway clerks have to go near the wagons and if they meet with an accident, although they may be generally employed in a clerical capacity, they deserve compensation. I think that if my amendment is accepted, there would be no hardship on the employers at all, because if a clerk does not go near the machinery, he will not meet with any accident and in that case he will not be eligible for compensation. But if he has got to go near the machinery and an accident takes place, he deserves the compensation. I, therefore, hope that my amendment should be accepted by the House.

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury (Bengal : Landholders) : Sir, though this Bill does not concern me or my community, still I hold the view that there must be a fair and reasonable treatment to all the employees and I am glad that Mr. Joshi has moved an amendment to that effect and I have great pleasure in supporting it. My argument is based on the ground of common sense. If workmen are going to get the compensation, why should not the clerks get the same. It is quite clear from the observations which have just been made by Mr. Joshi that there are occasions when the clerks also have to go near the machinery and sometimes it happens that accidents do occur to them. That being the case, why should they be deprived of the natural right of compensation. I think that it is a very reasonable demand and ought to be acceded to. Of course, if it is not the business of a clerk to go anywhere near the machinery, there will be no accidents and no compensation will be paid to him. But because on very rare occasions a clerk has to go near the machinery and meets with an accident there, I do not see any reason why he should be deprived of the right to get the compensation. From the humanitarian point of view he should also be entitled to the compensation and I hope that the Honourable the Mover of the Bill will accept the amendment.

Mr. A. Das : Sir, I support the amendment of my Honourable friend, Mr. Joshi, and for this practical reason. Coming as I do from the Gorakhpur district where there are a large number of sugar factories, I can say that it is not unlikely that such accidents do happen. As a matter of fact, only recently, just a few months ago, one of the boilers consisting of several tons of sugar juice gave way with the result that a number of men were injured including those who were clerks or office managers and who had no concern in the working of the machinery. I submit that it is not proper that the members of the clerical establishment who may happen to be injured while standing near the machinery should not be given the benefit of this Bill. If this amendment is not accepted, the result will be that they will be penalised for the mere fact that they are clerks. For this reason, I submit that those men who are injured or disabled by any accident in the machinery whether they go near the machinery or not should also be entitled to the benefit of this clause. I, therefore, support the amendment of my friend, Mr. Joshi. For the information of the House, I may say that the sugar factory, the boiler of which gave way, is situated in the district of Basti.

Mr. Muhammad Azhar Ali (Lucknow and Fyzabad Divisions : Muhammadan Rural) : From a legal point of view I think the whole theory of compensation is based on the fact that a man does not commit any act of negligence himself. It does not matter whether he is a clerk or a workman or an officer, in whatever capacity he may be, if he does not contribute towards his own negligence, I think, under the theory of compensation, it will be held that every one is entitled to be compensated if he is hurt or is affected in any way by any explosion or by any act which is not in his power to avert. I think this should not exclude anybody unless and until he is himself to blame. It is on that theory that I support this amendment and I think compensation to clerks also ought to be given.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : I feel I must support this amendment. It appears to me that the object of this act is that whosoever is likely to be exposed to danger must be given compensation. I ask a direct question. Are clerks exposed to danger or likely to be exposed to danger in factories or not ?

An Honourable Member : No.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Here is an example which contradicts the "no", that is given in the House. My Honourable friend, Mr. A. Das, gave an instance where clerks and even managers were exposed to danger in a factory, and were actually injured. If the intention of the Act is that whosoever is exposed to such danger must be given compensation, then no exceptions should be made, whether he is a clerk or a manager or whether he is an actual driver of the machinery. In this case it might be known to the House that in factories there are offices close by the boiler room and if there is explosion the clerks are also injured. It is not a sound principle that clerks should not be given compensation and that others should be given. I think the Honourable Member will realise the reasonableness of the amendment and accept it.

Mr. A. G. Clow : Sir, I have listened to the speeches that I expected to hear from Members who are naturally sympathetic with the position of clerks employed in factories. I would put before the House the considerations which in my view justify supporting the conclusion which was reached by the Select Committee.

Before dealing with the subject on its merits, I would merely point out that Mr. Joshi's amendment, if accepted, will have an effect which I am sure he does not anticipate, in that it will exclude a large number of railway workers from the operation of the Bill. He has omitted to notice that in the first clause of the Schedule the wording is different, namely : " employed, otherwise than in a clerical capacity or on a railway ". The words " on a railway " are inserted because, if those words were not there, the limit of Rs. 300 would apply to all railway workers. Therefore, if he reads the clause as it would stand after the amendment, it reads : " employed or on a railway ", and in so far as it means anything it includes railway workers there, and, therefore, excludes them from the privilege of being included without any limit of pay. I think he would agree with me, therefore, that some alteration would still be necessary even if his present amendment were accepted.

As regards the merits of the general question, I will ask Honourable Members to think first of the title of the Bill and of the Act. It is the Workmen's Compensation Act and I suggest that there is a sound reason for distinguishing between workers and other classes of the community. That is that for the most part they are not in a position to protect themselves ; they have not as a rule the education, or the facilities or the pay which will enable them to insure against the risks of life. In the second place, this is a proposal to include a large fresh class under the Act. Now, I suggest that if you are going to include fresh classes, which I admit is a desirable thing to effect gradually, you should go first for classes which undergo greater hazards. The hazards of a clerical occupation are extremely small, there are cases in which clerks may be injured, but none of us is free from the hazards of life. I have known Members of the Assembly sitting in pursuit of their avocation subjected to serious danger from bricks falling from the roof.

Captain Sher Muhammad Khan Gakhar (Nominated Non-Official) : What about the casual visitors ?

Mr. A. G. Clow : They are also subject to these dangers. If you wish to amend the Act, you should as far as possible begin by taking those who are exposed to most dangers. Mr. Joshi referred to the special case of railway workers. I admit that that is a special case ; I admit that clerks employed in various capacities in railways often undergo particular risks. But I would point out to the House that we have really covered those and that in the case of railway clerks, it is only particular classes of clerks that are excluded. In section 2 (1) (n) (i) of the Act, we include all railway servants who are " not permanently employed in any administrative, district or sub-divisional office of a railway ". In other words, we include clerks except when they are working in offices where they incur no special risks on account of their being connected with a railway. So far as the occupations dealt with in the Schedule are concerned, I suggest that in the ordinary case a clerk incurs virtually no more risks than a clerk in a commercial office ; and if we happen to include workmen in certain classes of premises, that is not a sufficient reason for including the clerks.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

" That in clause 21 of the Bill, the words ' otherwise than in a clerical capacity ', wherever they occur, be omitted."

The motion was negatived.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : I move :

" That in clause 21 of the Bill, in the proposed clause (ii), for the word ' ten ' the word ' five ' be substituted."

This Bill proposes that those workmen who are employed in factories which work with power and which come under the Factories Act and which engage ten persons or more should be covered by the compensation legislation. My amendment seeks to give the benefit of this legislation to the workmen employed in smaller factories where five persons and more are employed. Sir, I do not see any justification for restricting the benefit of this legislation only to those workmen who are employed in what we may call the larger factories and deny it to those who are employed in smaller factories. Nobody can say that in smaller factories the risk of accident is less. As a matter of fact, smaller factories, not being under any kind of regulation, there is a greater risk, and I, therefore, think that these workmen deserve the benefit of this legislation a little more than the workmen employed in larger factories. I, therefore, hope that my amendment will be accepted.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : Sir, Mr. Joshi's assiduity reminds me of the French General who stated that his method of dealing with the enemy was by the nibbling process. Our recommendation in the Bill follows that of the Commission of which he was a member. To the best of my knowledge, he did not dissent from the conclusions of the Commission on this point. They thought " ten " was a suitable number and we have adopted it. Sir, I think I need say no more.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

" That in clause 21 of the Bill, in the proposed clause (ii), for the word ' ten ' the word ' five ' be substituted."

The motion was negatived.

Sir Lancelot Graham : Sir, I beg to move :

" That in clause 21 of the Bill, for item (iii) the following be substituted :

' (iii) employed for the purpose of making, altering, repairing, ornamenting, finishing or otherwise adapting for use, transport or sale any article or part of an article in any premises wherein or within the precincts whereof on any one day of the preceding twelve months, fifty or more persons have been so employed ; or '."

The reason for moving this amendment is not that there is any intention of changing the clause as we intended it to stand, but that item (iii) of the Bill, as it now stands, is too wide in two respects, that is to say, wider than the authorities who initiated the Bill intended. In the first place, it will be observed that a liability is planted upon the premises although those premises may only be used for manufacturing purposes for one day in the year. What is desired is to make the employer liable in respect of workmen doing certain kinds of work, but the effect of the item, as it stands, is that the liability is planted on the place itself. That is the reason why instead of saying " employed in any premises " we propose to say " employed on particular kinds of work " and these particular kinds of work are part of the definition of " manufacturing process " as contained in the Factories Act, but not the whole. The words now standing in the item before the House are " employed in any manufacturing process ", and that, Sir, is wider than was the intention of the authors of the Bill, because it includes power processes and refers to factories. What we are really trying to get at in this Bill is workshops, not employing power for conduct of manufacturing processes. Those processes are covered by the last item in the definition, and we do not want to take the extension too far. Therefore starting with the definition of " manufacturing process " from the Factories Act, the amendment now takes only the first part of that definition. I trust, Sir, that I have succeeded in making the purpose of this amendment clear. It is to restrict the law to the intention of the originators. The present clause, as it stands in the Bill, goes too wide in two respects and in those two respects we have sought by this amendment to narrow the contents of the item to its original intention. Sir, I move.

Mr. G. Morgan (Bengal : European) : Sir, I should like to ask one question. In the amendment proposed by my Honourable friend the words " otherwise than in a clerical capacity " have been omitted. Is that a drafting omission or is it a deliberate omission ?

Sir Lancelot Graham : It is not a drafting omission, but the point is that clerks are not employed in making, altering, repairing, etc. We have actually now put in the occupation and that occupation excludes clerks employed there.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

" That in clause 21 of the Bill, for item (iii) the following be substituted :

' (iii) employed for the purpose of making, altering, repairing, ornamenting, finishing or otherwise adapting for use, transport or sale any article or part of an article in any premises wherein or within the precincts whereof on any one day of the preceding twelve months, fifty or more persons have been so employed ; or '."

The motion was adopted.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : Sir, I beg to move :

"That in clause 21 of the Bill, in the proposed clause (iii), for the word 'fifty' the word 'twenty-five' be substituted."

My amendment is not out of order even after the passing of the last amendment. The Bill proposes that in those workshops where fifty people are employed, the benefit of the Workmen's Compensation legislation should be given to the workmen. My amendment is that the benefit of this legislation should be given to the workmen employed in those workshops where 25 or more than 25 persons are employed. Now, Sir, there are many kinds of workshops where no power is used and where even a smaller number of people are employed and machinery is used. I can give you one instance. Take the printing presses specially in district towns. No power is used, but sometimes 25 people are used and sometimes even a smaller number of people is used. There is always some risk of accidents taking place, and certainly you should provide against these accidents. I, therefore, think that the number of persons should be reduced from 50 to 25. I do not think any harm will be done to any industry if my amendment is accepted.

Then, Sir, the Honourable Member said that I am following nibbling tactics. Well, Sir, I am not a tactician, but a simple man and I never follow the kind of tactics which he has in mind. Then, again, not once but several times it has been said that I was a member of the Royal Commission and I had signed its report and on some points on which I moved amendments I had not written minutes of dissent. I never care to reply to such accusation or insinuation against me : but I think it is well that I should explain my attitude in this matter. I admit that my career in public life is not without defect, but still I know this much : if I commit myself to a certain thing, generally speaking I should stick to it. I admit that. But at the same time there are circumstances which compel us, in spite of this sound rule of public life, to go against it. I believe in a parliamentary form of Government and discussion ; and I feel if there is to be legislation on a subject like workmen's compensation, the workers' point of view should be expressed and even pressed... If I had felt that, if I did not move amendments against those points against which I had not spoken in the Royal Commission's Report, there will be some other people ready to do it, I would certainly not move amendments on those points. But if I had not moved my amendment, would there have been amendments which an ordinary workman's representative could have moved ? Is it the right kind of parliamentary form of Government that labour legislation should be discussed in a Legislature and amendments could be moved on behalf of the capitalists and there should be no amendments on behalf of labour, simply because the gentleman who happens to speak sometimes on behalf of labour also happened to be a member of the Royal Commission on whose recommendations these proposals are based ?

There are certain people who also think, what is the use of moving these amendments. The nibbling process could have succeeded in France, but will not succeed here. After all, whatever is supported by Government in this Legislature will be carried and nothing else can be carried : in these circumstances, why should I move my amendments ?

My reply again is the same. I believe in a parliamentary form of Government, and parliamentary form of Government means discussion. Take for instance the British Parliament. The opposition moves amendments and has divisions on every point. Why ? Because they believe in discussion ; they believe that after all it is the discussion that matters and not the vote. If I had believed that it is the vote only that matters, I would not have moved my amendments at all. I know that Government have got their votes, but I continue to move my amendments, because I believe in the parliamentary form of Government. It is true that new ideas of Government are arising all over the world. Mussolini started them and Hitler has followed. Unfortunately I still stick to my old faith in the parliamentary form of Government and I, therefore, continue to move my amendments in the belief that there will be some day when these amendments will have some effect on public opinion, especially public opinion as represented in this case. But there is another reason why I move my amendments although I had not written dissenting minutes to the Royal Commission report : that reason is this : I am not a member of Government, especially of the British Government, and I do not consider that I am above making any mistakes. It is true, when I signed the report I had accepted certain propositions. It is quite possible that after two years I may find that I had made a mistake in not writing a minute of dissent. Governments do not admit their mistakes : it is not considered to be good form for a Government to admit its mistakes.....

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh (Muzaffarpur cum Champaran : Non-Muhammadan) : They never make a mistake.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : They never make a mistake and, even if they do, they do not admit it. But is it wrong for an ordinary human being like myself to admit his mistakes ? If you ask me whether my failure to write any dissenting minutes to the report of the Royal Commission on this point was a mistake or not, I am quite prepared to admit today openly that I feel that I made a mistake in not writing a dissenting minute to that report. I am not ashamed to admit my mistake : I have done.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : Sir, I should like to disprove one remark that Mr. Joshi has just made and that is that it is not the habit of any Member of Government to admit a mistake. I do feel that I owe him an apology and I should like to make it. It is not fair, and I frankly admit it, that one should cast up against him the fact that his amendments go beyond what the Royal Commission of which he was a member recommended. I too have been a member of various Committees and Commissions and I have never regarded myself as specifically committed to every point of detail which has appeared in a report over my signature. While saying that, I think the position we have adopted in this respect is that our proposals are based on the recommendations of the Royal Commission of which Mr. Joshi was a member and embody a view which must be a reasonable view because he certainly held it at one time.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : Is it always reasonable ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : That is the position : the recommendations of the Royal Commission were the best we could have in this respect, and when they were unanimous, they obviously carried much greater weight. They were unanimous in this case in regard to the number of 50, and that is the reason why we have adhered to it and why I am unable to accept Mr. Joshi's amendment that it should be reduced to 25. I regret that I must oppose it.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

"That in clause 21 of the Bill, in the proposed clause (iii), for the word 'fifty' the word 'twenty-five' be substituted."

The motion was negatived.

Mr. G. Morgan : Sir, I beg to move the following amendment :

"That in clause 21 of the Bill, for the proposed clause (xviii) the following be substituted :

'(xviii) employed, otherwise than in a clerical capacity, on any estate not less than ten acres in extent, whether held by one person or by more persons than one as co-owners, and whether in one block or in two or more adjacent blocks, which is maintained for the purpose of growing cinchona, coffee, rubber or tea, or such other products as the Governor General in Council may, after giving not less than three months' notice of his intention so to do, specify in this behalf by notification in the Gazette of India ; or'."

Sir, with regard to the extension of persons to be benefited under this Bill, my Honourable friend, Mr. Mackenzie, and I wrote a minute of dissent in which we said that we saw no justification for extending the Bill to cover all estate labour other than factory labour. We gave our reasons in the Select Committee, and were compelled to append a minute of dissent. However, if it is decided that the provisions of the Bill should apply to estate labour, then we hold the opinion that it will be more satisfactory if it was on an acreage basis rather than on the basis of the number of people employed. Clause 18 in the Bill, as amended by the Select Committee, reads :

"employed otherwise than in a clerical capacity on any estate which is maintained for the purpose of growing cinchona, coffee, rubber or tea, and on which on any one day in the preceding twelve months twenty-five or more persons have been so employed."

Well, Sir, I understand that in many instances estates have different blocks and adjacent blocks, and the definition of "estate" might not cover this particular partition. Therefore, in my opinion it will be better, and more practicable, to work it on an acreage basis instead of on the basis of the number of people employed on the estate. Sir, I move.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Amendment moved :

"That in clause 21 of the Bill, for the proposed clause (xviii) the following be substituted :

'(xviii) employed, otherwise than in a clerical capacity, on any estate not less than ten acres in extent, whether held by one person or by more persons than one as co-owners, and whether in one block or in two or more adjacent blocks, which is maintained for the purpose of growing cinchona, coffee, rubber or tea, or such other products as the Governor General in Council may, after giving not less than three months' notice of his intention so to do, specify in this behalf by notification in the Gazette of India ; or'."

The Assembly then adjourned for Lunch till Half Past Two of the Clock.

The Assembly re-assembled after Lunch at Half Past Two of the Clock, Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) in the Chair.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The House will resume consideration of Mr. Morgan's amendment No. 23.

Mr. A. G. Clow : Sir, I find it somewhat difficult to follow the object of this amendment. The first effect is clearly to substitute for the criterion of numbers employed, a criterion based on acreage. Mr. Morgan informed the House that in this case it was more suitable, but he did not inform the House why it was more suitable. I confess I am completely in the dark as to why an acreage basis should be better than the basis of numbers. We do generally throughout the schedule adopt the basis of numbers ; we have done so in the present case. In fact, the Select Committee, in deference I think to the views expressed by Mr. Morgan, did reduce the minimum number employed from 50 to 25 in this case. I do not know any reason for altering the form of the definition in that respect.

Mr. R. T. H. Mackenzie (Nominated Non-Official) : Might I explain ? In certain parts of southern India estates owned by individuals or groups of individuals are divided up into small portions which are sometimes not absolutely adjoining one another, and each individual portion of that estate will not be covered by the clause as it now reads as employing 25 persons, whereas if the present suggestion is applied, they would probably be covered.

Mr. A. G. Clow : They must be very small estates, but I can only reply to that, that I cannot see why it should prevent an employer from declaring it to be a separate estate. It would rather be easier to evade the Act by dividing the area than by dividing up the labour force. I think it would be extremely difficult to get a very small labour force separately for each separate lot, but I suppose it is fairly easy to divide the estate up into small pieces.

Mr. R. T. H. Mackenzie : The estates are divided into small pieces and that is why we have put in our definition that an estate need not necessarily be in one block, but it may be a number of blocks. The definition says : "whether in one block or in two or more adjacent blocks, which is maintained for the purpose of growing" various products. As the matter stands at present, each of those individual blocks is regarded as being a separate estate even though they all belong to the same owner or to a number of co-owners.

Mr. A. G. Clow : I notice it refers to adjacent blocks, but I thought from what Mr. Mackenzie said that they were not adjacent but scattered in different places. I suggest to the House that it is safer to go by the criterion of numbers employed.

But the second part of the amendment is infinitely wider in its sweep, for you will notice that Mr. Morgan proposes to confer upon Government the power to include by notification estates growing any other products. In other words, it would be possible by a mere notification to include agricultural labourers on all the larger holdings in India, possibly to include by notification more persons than come under the Act already, to double the number of persons under the Act. Well, Sir, as a bureaucrat it would be ungracious on my part not to acknowledge this touching faith in the discretion of the bureaucracy. But I suggest to the House that they should watch rather carefully the power they give to extend an Act of this kind by executive action. There is already in the Act a clause which gives Government adequate power in the case of hazardous occupations, and I suggest that that goes quite as far as is wise to go under the circumstances. Sir, I oppose the amendment.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

" That in clause 21 of the Bill, for the proposed clause (xviii) the following be substituted :

' (xviii) employed, otherwise than in a clerical capacity, on any estate not less than ten acres in extent, whether held by one person or by more persons than one as co-owners, and whether in one block or in two or more adjacent blocks, which is maintained for the purpose of growing cinchona, coffee, rubber or tea, or such other products as the Governor General in Council may, after giving not less than three months' notice of his intention so to do, specify in this behalf by notification in the Gazette of India ; or '."

The motion was negatived.

Clause 21, as amended, was added to the Bill.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is that clause 22 stand part of the Bill.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : Sir, I move :

" That in clause 22 of the Bill, after the proposed entries the following new entry be added :

' Hookworm—Any process involved in the work on estates or in mining '."

Sir, I feel that I should make a confession on this point, and that is that I received my inspiration for this amendment from what I had heard from my Honourable friend, Dr. Dalal, on this subject in the Select Committee.

Dr. R. D. Dalal (Nominated Non-Official) : Sir, on a point of personal explanation. Whenever a Bill is sent to a Select Committee, we are in duty bound to consider it from every conceivable point of view. So, I took an active part in this question in the Select Committee. I have already expressed my views on this subject.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : I am not blaming the Honourable Member for going back upon the view which he expressed in the Select Committee. I am just informing the House that I do not know anything about diseases and I got my inspiration from my Honourable friend, an authority on diseases. Otherwise I would not have ventured to put forward an amendment on this subject which I do not understand at all. I do not know why this amendment should not be accepted by the House. Hookworm is a disease which is prevalent amongst people who follow certain occupations on plantations and in mines, and that disease is due to certain conditions existing in those industries. These conditions may exist somewhere else, but the fact remains that the workmen do get the disease on account of the fact that they work in mines and on plantations where conditions causing hookworm exist. I think this very fact makes the disease an occupational one, and, therefore, it should be included in the list which is given in this Bill. I hope the House will accept the amendment.

Mr. G. Morgan : I cannot say that I quite understand this amendment. Many years ago, I attended a conference on hookworm during Lord Lytton's governorship in Bengal. So far as I remember, it was a very large conference and we were presented with live hookworms and pictures of people from all over Bengal and Assam in various stages of the disease engendered by hookworm ; but I am perfectly certain I am right in saying that there was no process mentioned as having been the cause of this hookworm disease as far as plantations and mining were concerned. It seemed to me from the discussion that took place that it was more a question of sanitation than of the actual process in an industry and I am sorry I cannot support the amendment of my Honourable friend. If you examine the statistics of hookworm in Eastern India, you will find, I do not know what the actual percentage is, but it is enormous. The disease arises all over the country, and I think I am right in repeating that it is insanitary conditions which are more the cause of the prevalence of hookworm or the continuous spread of hookworm than any process in any industry or plantation. I, therefore, oppose the amendment.

Mr. A. G. Clow : Sir, this amendment was dealt with in anticipation fairly fully by Dr. Dalal yesterday, and Mr. Morgan has added some strong arguments against it. To these, I would only add one further point, and that is that there are two ways of getting compensation for disease. If a disease arises from an accident, whether it is specified or not, you can get compensation ; but in addition to that there are certain scheduled diseases. My Honourable friend, Mr. Joshi, did not make it quite clear to the House what the effect of his amendment would be, because these scheduled diseases are subject to a rather peculiar provision. The Act says that where a workman contracts one of these scheduled diseases and has been employed in the process specified, " the contracting of the disease shall be deemed to be an injury by accident within the meaning of this section and, unless the employer proves the contrary, the accident shall be deemed to have arisen out of, and in the course of, the employment ". In other words, the Act virtually takes away nearly every possible defence from the employer in the case of a scheduled disease contracted in a scheduled occupation. The object of that is to avoid unnecessary litigation and difficulty. There are certain diseases so closely associated with certain occupations as to make it a practical certainty that, if a man contracts a disease in the particular occupation, he has contracted it as a result of that occupation. For example, in the Bill itself we are proposing to include compressed air illness, and the scheduled occupation is " Any process carried on in compressed air ". It will be fairly obvious to the House that in a case like that it is impossible for a man to acquire compressed air illness except through his occupation. Now, in the case of hookworm, as Dr. Dalal explained, you have enormous percentages of the population, particularly in Eastern India, who are infected. It will be impossible, however, for an employer to prove that they had not contracted hookworm while in his employment, and, therefore, the amendment would place employers generally in an impossible position in resisting claims of this kind. I oppose the amendment.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

" That in clause 22 of the Bill, after the proposed entries the following new entry be added :

' Hookworm—Any process involved in the work on estates or in mining '."

The motion was negatived.

Clause 22 was added to the Bill.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is that clause 23 stand part of the Bill.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : Sir, I move :

" That in clause 23 of the Bill, for the proposed Schedule IV, the following be substituted :

' SCHEDULE IV.

This Schedule deals with the rates of compensation for certain types of accidents. This is one of the subjects on which several Members, who took part in the discussion of this Bill, expressed their views. Some said that if they accepted the proposals of my amendment, industries might be ruined, and the Honourable Member in charge of the Department said, it would mean being generous at the cost of some other people and that he would like to hold the balance even. I do not know much about holding the balance even. I was never a grocer. As regards showing generosity at the cost of others, I plead guilty to that charge, but, at the same time, if I am to accept the Honourable Member's view that Government will never be generous at the cost of others, it will mean that the Government can never be generous, because Government have always got to be generous at the cost of others. My amendment seeks to restore the original proposals which Government themselves have made as regards the rates of compensation. These proposals had also the unanimous support of the Royal Commission on Indian Labour. Government somehow after the introduction of the Bill came to the conclusion that the rates were unfair. I do not want to go into the question of how the Honourable Member was persuaded to change his view. I do not know what influenced him very much. I shall not touch on that question today. I shall first explain to the House what my amendment means and what is going to be the burden on the industry if my amendment is carried. Yesterday when the Honourable Member in charge of the Department spoke on this subject, he said after all why I should complain about his going back as after all he had made changes only in four items. That is what his argument was. There are many items in each column and he said that he changed only 4. Now, I would like those Honourable Members who wish to follow his argument to turn to page 12 of the Select Committee's Bill.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : May I correct the Honourable Member ? I said that four items in columns 2 and 3 have been changed. I also mentioned that 3 items in column 4 have also been changed.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : He said 3 items out of 4.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : 3 items out of 4 ?

Mr. N. M. Joshi : That is what you said.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I said nothing of the kind. What I said was that 4 items in columns 2 and 3 have been changed, and 3 items in column 4 have been slightly changed. It means that 11 items out of 51 have been changed.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : If you will look to page 12 and column 2, you will find that he has made some changes. In the original Bill, the first item was Rs. 600 ; he has changed Rs. 600 into Rs. 500. The second item was Rs. 600 ; he has changed it into Rs. 550.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I am very sorry to interrupt the Honourable Member again, but he continues to say that I have changed this and that. May I point out to him that we are here dealing with the report of the Select Committee. If he would be good enough to say that the Select Committee has changed this and that, it would be a more correct representation of the facts.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : I apologise to the Honourable Member. If he wants the Select Committee to share the responsibility, I am quite prepared to leave the credit or discredit also to the Select Committee. But the Honourable Member will admit that the Select Committee acted under his guidance in this matter. Well, Sir, I am prepared to say that it was the Select Committee and not the Honourable Member alone which made these changes. The Select Committee changed the second item from Rs. 600 to Rs. 550. In the first column, they also changed the item of Rs. 3,750 to Rs. 3,500 and from Rs. 4,500 to Rs. 4,000. Now, Sir, the Honourable Member thinks that after all the changes in these items are not a serious change and that he has allowed the other items to be retained as they were. Now, Sir, I would like the House to understand this that it is in these 4 items which he has changed that there was substantial increase in the rate of compensation. In the other items in some cases there is absolutely no increase at all provided in this Bill. Now, where no increases were provided at all, how could the Honourable Member show either any generosity or hold even the balance even. He can say that it was a great mercy on his part that he did not propose that the rates given to the workman for the last 10 years were not reduced by him. What is the use of his taking credit that he did not make any changes in those items. Now, take those people who received Rs. 21 a month. What do they get under the present Act ? They get 30 times their wage ; they get Rs. 630. The same amount is provided for in the Bill. How could the Honourable Member make any change there unless he really wanted to reduce the rate already given. Therefore, what is the use of taking credit that he only changed a few items. I am not suggesting, Mr. President, that he did not allow any increase to remain. There are certain items in which the increase has been small and he has allowed that increase to remain. But where the increase was substantial, he has made changes. That is really the point. Now, Sir, if you will follow the figures given on that page, you will find that the Royal Commission and the original Bill gave substantial increases to two classes of workers. Firstly, those who were the lowest paid, people whose monthly wages were, say, up to Rs. 10. They gave a very substantial increase there. Under the old Act a man getting Rs. 10 as his monthly wages got a compensation of Rs. 300. The Royal Commission proposed that he should be given instead of Rs. 300, in the case of death, Rs. 600. It was a substantial increase. They also substantially increased the compensation given to people whose wages vary from Rs. 10 to Rs. 15. A man getting a monthly wage of Rs. 15 under the present Bill would get compensation of Rs. 450 ; the Royal Commission recommended Rs. 600 ; and the Honourable Member has reduced it to Rs. 550. Then when we go down, you will find that in some cases there is absolutely no increase and in some cases there is a very small increase. Take, for instance, a man whose wages are from Rs. 18 to Rs. 21. The man who gets Rs. 18 has a certain increase in the rate of compensation ; the man who gets Rs. 19 has a little less increase ; the man who gets Rs. 20 has a still lesser increase and the man who gets Rs. 21 has absolutely no increase at all. What the Select Committee have done is that where the increase was substantial, they have reduced it ; but where the increase was very small indeed, they have kept it where it was. Now, Sir, they have also made a change in the case of those whose wages are higher, that is, people whose wages vary from Rs. 100 to Rs. 200 per mensem. Under the old Act, they got the maximum compensation of Rs. 2,500. The Royal Commission and the original Bill proposed that they should get compensation of Rs. 3,750. In the case of those people whose salaries or wages were more than Rs. 200, the maximum proposed in the original Bill was Rs. 4,500. That has also been reduced now to Rs. 4,000. Now, Sir, it is clear that the Honourable Member has reduced the compensation where the compensation was substantial. Why should he have done that ? After all, the number of people who are affected by the increases is much smaller than the number of people in whose case the increase is not very substantial. Take for instance those people whose wages vary from zero to Rs. 10. Let us remember, these wages are the wages of adult workers. I ask, what is the percentage of adult workmen in India whose wages will vary from zero to Rs. 10. The number will be very small. Therefore, the total effect upon the country is not likely to be very great even if the increase is large. But the Royal Commission recommended a substantial increase in this case for a very good reason. After all these people are paid very low wages and there must be some minimum below which compensation should not go. They fixed the minimum at Rs. 600. It is not the fault of the man that circumstances compelled him to work on such a small wage as Rs. 10 a month. The Royal Commission thought and the Government at one time accepted that view that even though it may be the misfortune of that man to accept a small wage of Rs. 10 in the matter of compensation he should not be penalised, but he should get a certain minimum rate of compensation. In the case of those people whose wages are higher, there also the Royal Commission increased the rate because in the present Act the rate of compensation given to people whose salaries were high was very meagre. The maximum fixed by the present Act is Rs. 2,500 which is a compensation for death in the case of a man whose salary is more than Rs. 100, and this is much less than what is due at the rate of thirty months' wages which is given to others. The compensation of Rs. 2,500 will not support the family of a man whose salary varied from Rs. 100 and more. It is for that reason the Royal Commission recommended that it should be increased. After all, here again, the burden on the industries of the country is not likely to be very great. What is the number of workmen in Indian industries whose monthly wages will vary from Rs. 100 and more ? Their number is bound to be small and so the total burden on the country is not likely to be very great. The largest number of people will be covered by the intermediate classes. Therefore, even if the proposals of the original Bill and the Royal Commission were accepted, these proposals apply to a smaller number of people and although the increases are substantial, the total burden on the industries of the country will not be very large. If there had been substantial increases in the rates of compensation paid to the intermediate classes, then I am sure the burden would have increased substantially. I would like to deal now with the actual effect if my amendment is carried. I will give my estimate of the total burden of my amendment. The latest report published on the working of the Workmen's Compensation Act has given certain figures of the total amount of compensation paid during the year. I think the total amount of compensation paid during 1931 was 10 lakhs. The Royal Commission has estimated that the total number of workers covered by the present Act is about four millions. So the present Act throws a burden of 10 lakhs of rupees on industries which employed 40 lakhs of men and the burden of workmen's compensation per employee employed by these industries is about four annas per year. Nobody can say that this burden is too much. You would like to know, Sir, what is going to be the additional burden which will be thrown on these industries if my amendment is carried. It is true that in the case of some categories of workers there is, say, an increase of 100 per cent. But, as I have said, the number of people who will be covered by that 100 per cent. increase is extremely small. People who have got 100 per cent. increase are those people whose wages vary from zero to Rs. 10. What will be the total number of such men ? If you make an estimate of the total increase in the average rate, my own estimate is that there will not be more than 10 per cent. average increase over the rates given in the present Act. In order that my argument may not be vitiated by a slight mistake here or there, I am prepared to say only for the sake of argument that the average increase given by the original Bill and by the proposals of the Royal Commission and by the proposals made in my amendment will not be more than 20 per cent. I am sure, the estimate of the Honourable Member in charge of Industries and Labour will not go beyond 20 per cent. increase on the average rate if you take all these categories of workers together. In 1931 the total amount spent was 10 lakhs. Suppose there is an increase of 20 per cent. on that. The total amount spent on workmen's compensation will be 12 lakhs. This will not be much greater burden. If you accept my amendment the additional burden on the industries of the whole country will be about two lakhs a year. Is this a burden which will affect injuriously the industries of the country, if you take into consideration that some of the industries are not very small industries not running with small capital ? Consider these two lakhs being spread over, say, the cotton textile industry in the whole country, the jute industry of the country, the mining industry of the whole country, the shipping industry of the whole country, the docks and the railways in the whole country. Will the burden of two lakhs distributed over all these industries injuriously affect any one of these industries. This bogey of the industries suffering is started just to justify the action of the Select Committee. The Select Committee made a mistake and, therefore, those people who were members of the Select Committee must justify their action. My Honourable friend, the Member in charge of Industries and Labour, may say or the members of the Select Committee may say that this Bill is also increasing the number of people who will come within the scope of legislation. It is true that we are bringing in new classes of workers within the scope of this legislation. The Royal Commission has given certain estimates of the number of people who will be brought within the scope of this recommendation. The Royal Commission estimates that about one million more people will be brought within the scope of this legislation. The recommendations of the Select Committee perhaps have gone a little further. I take it that the total number of additional men to whom this legislation will apply will be 2,500,000. Now what will be the total compensation ? When the total number of workmen covered was four millions, the total compensation was 10 lakhs. Suppose we extend the sphere of the Compensation Act and include 2,500,000 people more, the additional compensation will be about six lakhs and another lakh of rupees will be added on account of increased rates. Thus the total burden of my amendment is three lakhs of rupees. Is this going to affect injuriously any one of the industries in the country ? We need not talk of being generous at the cost of others and we need not talk of the industries being in danger. The burden is too small. It is true the Honourable Member and the Select Committee both state that the prices have gone down and, therefore, the value of the present rates of compensation has gone up. Now, Sir, I should like to ask the Honourable Member and the members of the Select Committee one question. It is true that the prices have gone down, but is it a blessing or a curse ? I do not know what the opinion of the Honourable Member is and what the opinion of the members of the Select Committee is on that point. If it is a blessing, by all means stabilise it, and then take advantage of the fall in prices and say that the rates of compensation need not be higher. But if the present low level of prices is a curse, certainly neither the Honourable Member nor the members of the Select Committee would want these prices to be stabilised. If you do not want the prices to be stabilised, I take it that the Government of India, helped by the members of the Select Committee, will see that the prices are raised. If that is so, it is a wrong policy to base your proposals for the rates of workmen's compensation on the present low prices.

Mr. S. G. Jog (Berar Representative) : How would the raising of the commodity prices benefit the disabled people ?

Mr. N. M. Joshi : This argument of prices is not mine ; it is an argument to which the Honourable Member has given his approval in the Select Committee. I suggest to the members of the Select Committee that it is wrong to keep the prices at that low level. Therefore it is wrong to base your legislative proposals on the present low level of prices. I, therefore, hope that the Honourable Member and the members of the Select Committee will not make use of this present low level of prices as an argument against the increase of the rate of compensation.

Then, Sir, I would also suggest to the Honourable Member and the other members of the Select Committee to consider this that it is true that the present level of prices is very low. But let them study what the world is doing in order that the present low level of prices should be raised. Let the Honourable Member in charge of the Department as well as his friends on the Select Committee study what President Roosevelt is doing in order that the price level should go up. He is not thinking of reducing the rates of workmen's compensation. On the contrary he is by dint of his power increasing the wages in the country. He is shortening the hours of work ; he is trying to put more money into the pockets of the working classes of America in order that the price level should be raised. Therefore, do not talk of these low prices. It is wrong to stabilise low prices and to base your legislative proposals on the present low prices. If your object is to increase the prices, unless you give a little more money to the working classes your level will not be raised. I, therefore, feel, Sir, that this argument of prices is a very wrong one and is fallacious. Sir, I do not wish to take up any more time of the House, but I am sure the Members will recognise that I have shown that my amendment which had the distinguished and powerful support of the Government of India of few months ago and of the Royal Commission on Labour and which is not likely to cost to the industries covered more than three lakhs of rupees should be accepted.

Mr. G. Morgan : Sir, I am sorry I cannot support the amendment moved by my Honourable friend, Mr. Joshi. The reasons for the changes made in the Select Committee.—leaving out the question of the low prices which point I will not argue at all.—are given very fully in paragraph 4 of the report. On my Honourable friend's showing, the

[Mr. G. Morgan.]

Royal Commission made a minimum of Rs. 600. That may be quite true. The changes made by the Select Committee on the two lowest, were for the reason, if I remember rightly, that a man getting Rs. 10 under the original Schedule and the Schedule as per my Honourable friend's amendment is exactly the same as the man who will be getting on the basis of wages of Rs. 18. And I think, if I remember rightly, the argument was that there should be some differentiation. As the report shows, the increase is very considerable even on the basis of Rs. 500 for wages of Rs. 10. I do not think that any one can cavil at the amount as stated in the Schedule in the Bill.

With regard to the last two, the others remaining the same, the amount has been reduced from 3,750 to 3,500 and from 4,500 to 4,000 in the case of death and from 5,250 to 4,900 and 6,300 to 5,600 in the case of permanent disablement—a very large increase over the rates in the present Act—over 60 per cent. My Honourable friend, Mr. Joshi, has claimed that it is a very small amount for the industries to pay. I am prepared to grant that, if it were possible, when accidents occur, for each individual industrialist or owner of a concern to pay pro rata a percentage of the claim. Then this two or three lakhs would be all right. But it is the individual concern to whom the accident refers, who has to pay the claim.....

Mr. N. M. Joshi : I am talking of voluntary insurance.

Mr. A. G. Clow : But you did not allow for any insurance expenses.

Mr. G. Morgan : What I want to bring out is this : my Honourable friend, Mr. Joshi, labours the question of the small amount which the industries and employers would have to pay in such large industries as cotton textiles, jute, etc. I grant that as a whole. But the individual concerns in which the injury occurs have to bear it ; it is not spread over the industry as a whole.

I am sorry I cannot support my friend, because although I am accused of voicing always the capitalist ideas and feeling in this House, I can assure him that I have every sympathy with labour and I think for the past two years or so even those awful people, called the capitalists, have certainly come to the conclusion that the care of labour and the wage-earner is the most important part of any industry, and I am perfectly certain that everything will be done to give the labourer a square deal in the matter. But I do not think my friend's arguments can hold good at all in this case, and the Schedule, as attached to the Select Committee's report, is, in my opinion, ample and provides a very large increase over the previous rates for death and disablement. I, therefore, oppose the amendment.

Mr. S. G. Jog : Sir, it is not out of a mere sentiment of tenacity that I am rising to support the report of the Select Committee. I will be really glad if my friend's amendment is approved by the House and I will be really glad if the workers get anything more as suggested by my friend. It is not because I have put my signature to the Select Committee Report that I am rising to justify the action taken by us. I must congratulate my friend, Mr. Joshi, upon the elaborate explanation he has given of the Schedule. He has clearly mentioned that in the case of workers getting low wages, the amount which they should have got under the Act has been reduced by Rs. 100. He has also pointed out several other things where the workers have been affected. On a mathematical calculation, he has shown that the only increase of the burden on the industries will be to the extent of three lakhs of rupees. I should like to give my friend the assurance that matters like these cannot be settled by mathematical calculations. Take a general and broad outlook of the whole thing. You cannot apply mathematics to everything. As said by my friend, Mr. Morgan, with each individual case probably it may work hard ; at the same time other industries may not be hit at all : we have to look at it from a broad point of view. If, as a matter of fact, my Honourable friend feels.....

Mr. G. Morgan : Sir, may I explain ? What my friend says is not quite correct. I did not use the word " hardship ". I said that my Honourable friend, Mr. Joshi, was not quite correct in saying that the burden on the industries was only three lakhs. If it was distributed pro rata among the whole of the industries, it might not be much : what I said was that individual concerns would have to find the money. I did not say that it was a hardship. I did not introduce the word and I will not use the word " hardship ". I only wanted to point out that it was the individual concern which would have to pay and that the amount of three lakhs was not spread over the whole industry.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : May I interrupt the Honourable Member and say this : that I spread the three lakhs over the whole industry, because there is a method possible for the employers in industry to insure against this risk and to spread the risk over the whole industry so that the risk should not fall upon the few individuals in whose factory or works the accident took place. If the employers do not choose to insure, then they will suffer ; but the method of spreading the burden over the whole industry is open to that industry.

Mr. S. G. Jog : I do not think that suggestion comes within the scope of the Bill before us.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : It is a voluntary insurance.

Mr. S. G. Jog : We are not concerned with that now. My friend, Mr. Joshi, has also asked whether the present low level of prices is for the good of the worker or to his disadvantage. But we are not concerned now with this wider question which has puzzled many people. He has gone beyond the legitimate scope of the present Bill and has brought in Mr. Roosevelt and world prices and the world depression. I think we should restrict ourselves to the present issue before us. The present issue is that in case of death and disablement what compensation should be given which will keep that disabled man alive for the rest of his life. In old days what he used to get for Rs. 50, he can get now for Rs. 40. We are not at all concerned as to the raising of the price level : we are concerned as to the price we are paying as compensation for disablement or death and what will put him in a proper position to keep alive. In coming to this conclusion, we exercised our own independent judgment and, after exercising that judgment, we put our signature to this report. I would like to draw the attention of the House as to what induced us to change the rates :

" The increases proposed by the Bill in these classes are heavy and it seemed to the majority of us impossible to ignore the fact that, since the Royal Commission reported, there has been a very substantial change in the price level."

[Mr. S. G. Jog.]

I admit that we have been influenced by this fact :

"The increases proposed by the Bill in these classes are very heavy and it seemed to the majority of us impossible to ignore the fact that, since the Royal Commission reported, there has been a very substantial change in the price level. The Commission indicated that their proposals were based on conditions prevailing in 1929 and early 1930. Since then the prices have fallen to a much lower level and wages have been reduced to some extent. The greater part of the Schedule is based directly on wages, and, therefore, reductions in wages make themselves felt automatically in reducing the amount of compensation. But this does not hold good at the extreme ends of the Schedule, for the maximum and minimum are fixed sums."

The main consideration that influenced us in coming to our decision in this matter was what would put the disabled worker in a proper position. I should like to point out to my friend that, after all, this law of granting compensation to workmen is a progressive legislation. Each time we will have to judge by the circumstances that exist, and I think we will have to revise the present scale of compensation if the world conditions change, if the commodity prices go higher. This is only progressive legislation, and I think if we compare the present law with the old legislation, we have made sufficient progress. It is very difficult to lay down any hard and fast rule, it is very difficult to draw an exact line as to what should be the exact amount of compensation. We have to draw the line somewhere. We thought that the present Schedule would meet the present requirements of the workman and will certainly improve his lot. That was the thing that chiefly influenced us in coming to our present decision, and I would suggest that for the time being my friend Mr. Joshi should remain satisfied with the Report of the Select Committee to which we have attached our signatures, because we have arrived at these figures after a good deal of thought and consideration. With these words, Sir, I support the Select Committee's Report, and it is with great pain that I have to oppose Mr. Joshi's amendment, although I would be glad if his amendment were passed.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : Sir, I am really surprised at the halting support which the Honourable gentleman who just sat down has given to this amendment. The main argument on which the majority of the Select Committee tried to justify the reduction in the first two items of the Schedule from the amount laid down by the Royal Commission is the low prices that are now prevailing. But every one knows, Sir, that the present low prices are not permanent, and every one knows that the low prices should disappear, and a proper scale of prices should return as early as possible. The prosperity of the country depends upon that, and every one knows that even the revenues of the Government will be affected if the present scale of low prices remains for any length of time. But my friend from Berar recommends that when the prices rise, the scale in the Schedule might be raised. He ought to remember that legislation is not changed every now and then. Prices may fall in one month, and they may rise in another month, and the Government cannot take that kind of thing into consideration at all. When the Workmen's Compensation Act was first passed, a scale was prescribed, and the same scale remains up till now. A little increase has been proposed by the Royal Commission, and that too is sought to be whittled down by,—I shall not say by the Honourable Member opposite,—but by the Select Committee behind which he wants to shield himself. It was not due to the attitude of the non-official members of the Select Committee that this reduction was proposed. The proposal first came from the Government side, and the capitalist section of the Select Committee eagerly caught the idea, and thus the majority was formed and they whittled down the scale which was thought to be adequate and just by the Royal Commission.

Now, Sir, let us take each item,—the monthly wages of the workman injured, but not more than Rs. 10—the Royal Commission recommended that for the death of an adult getting that amount of wages the compensation should be Rs. 600. Now, the Select Committee has reduced it to Rs. 500. Every one knows that an adult who gets Rs. 10 a month is a mere novice in an industry ; he has to learn there ; he will not know much about any industry, but as his knowledge increases, as his experience increases, he will get higher and higher wages. So if an adult at the age of, say, 18, 19 or 20 loses his life in the beginning of his career, then in paying compensation the point ought to be considered that he was the prop of his family, he was the hope of his family. If he is suddenly cut away by an accident when working in the factory, then the whole family is ruined, and it is only natural to expect that some substantial compensation should be paid to his family in consideration of the fact that their future hope is taken away ; his aged mother or aged father were looking up to him for support in their old age ; his younger brothers might have been expecting support from him, or his younger sisters needed his help for their marriage, and so on. We should not merely look to the wages that he was getting at the time he lost his life, but we should look to the potentialities, because by his death the whole family is ruined. So the scale proposed by the Royal Commission of Rs. 600 in such a case is not very excessive or extravagant, and to suggest that a man getting Rs. 10 or a man getting Rs. 15 and a man getting Rs. 18 should be assessed for the same sum is, to say the least, absurd. It is not the actual wages that a man was getting that should be taken into consideration, but the potentialities of his future advancement and his future higher wages that should be taken into account. Sir, in the same way the Royal Commission recommended for the higher salaries of Rs. 100 and Rs. 200,—sums which the Select Committee has thought fit to reduce. In the Select Committee, to make a compromise, I proposed that I would accept the lowering down of the scale for the higher wages on condition that the scale was not reduced for the poorer man, but then we were outvoted ; we appeal to this House to right the wrong and to accept the amendment so ably moved by Mr. Joshi.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad (Patna and Chota Nagpur cum Orissa : Muhammadan) : When I see the amendment and the original provision in the Bill, I find it very difficult either to support or to oppose to amendment. Had the amendment been in the form that there would be increase for the men who were getting low wages, such as Rs. 10, 15 or 20, I would have supported it. I find in the amendment an increase is proposed for men who will get Rs. 10, 15 or 18, but for men getting Rs. 24, 27 or Rs. 30, and so on, up to Rs. 100, no increase has been suggested. And for men getting Rs. 100 and more, some sort of increase in the compensation has been proposed by my Honourable friend, Mr. Joshi. Again, when we see the fourth column, we do not find any increase for men who get low pay, such as Rs. 10 or 15, or men who get Rs. 100 or 200, but in the middle there is some increase. Though I have got every sympathy with labour, I find that this amendment is not consistent, and so I oppose it.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : Sir, I have very little to add to the able defence of the Select Committee's report which has been made by my Honourable friend, Mr. Jog. There is one point on which I should like to remind Mr. Joshi, and that is that it was not I who introduced this Bill. He wishes to know what has caused a change in Government's views since the Bill was introduced. He wanted to know why the scales have been altered since then. I did not introduce the Bill, but I have no doubt that, if I had, I should have adopted the course which my predecessor did, as regards the inclusion of the scales shown therein. I would remind the Honourable Member that, after this Bill was introduced, it was circulated for opinion, and as he knows, perfectly well, we got some hundreds of pages of opinions on the Bill. His argument seems to me to be that Government should in no case listen to the opinions they receive unless those opinions support his view. As I said, when I was moving the motion for reference to a Select Committee, as was naturally to be expected, the labour interests wished the scales to be increased ; the employers wished them diminished. The Local Governments, on the whole, were in favour of them and they thought they hit a happy mean ; one of them, that of the United Provinces, held that they were too liberal. It was only after consideration of all the opinions that had been received that the Government placed their views before the Select Committee and left it to the Select Committee to decide. Now, Sir, I should like to ask the House to consider the alleged illiberality of our treatment of the first two and the last two classes. I would draw their attention again, as has been done frequently in the course of this debate, to paragraph 4 of the Select Committee's report. If they compare the scales there given with those under the existing Act—I admit comparison is not altogether easy, because the classes under the present Act and those in the Bill are not quite the same—they will see that we are proposing to give the first class Rs. 500 for death instead of Rs. 240, and Rs. 700 for permanent total disablement instead of Rs. 336, which I think I am correct in saying is the amount admissible under the present Act. I am not going to state in detail the differences in the higher classes as I do not think Mr. Joshi is really very interested in those. All I would say is that the increases proposed in those classes under the Royal Commission's proposals were very steep indeed, and even as left in the Bill, are quite liberal. We are giving Rs. 3,500 in one case and Rs. 4,000 in the other for death against Rs. 2,500 under the present Act and Rs. 4,900 and Rs. 5,600 against Rs. 3,500 for permanent total disablement. The point I wish to impress upon the House is that the alterations in the lower scales and in the higher scales are very steep. I have a graph here which conclusively proves that. It, therefore, seemed to Government not unreasonable that some reduction should be made in those scales. I do not propose to follow Mr. Joshi in his discussion of prices. All I would say is that the Select Committee, as had the Royal Commission, had to consider the state of affairs as it existed today. The Select Committee dealt with the facts as they are now and they had to take into consideration the present level of prices. It was not for them to foresee the future. I can only hope that my Honourable friend's belief that prices will rise is well founded.

There is one point to which I should like to draw the attention of the House in dealing with this question of compensation for the two lower classes. What I should like the House to consider is that, when you are dealing with a wage of less than Rs. 10 a month, the amount that the person is going to spare for his dependants must be extremely small. A person who gets that wage cannot live on nothing and five annas a day does not leave much margin to support dependants. What is the object of compensation ? I maintain that it is not to fine the employer, nor is it intended to provide for bereavement as such. The sole object is to provide an insurance against financial loss arising on account of accidents, and I think it can be claimed that Rs. 500 ought to place dependants in these cases in as favourable a position as they were before the accident. As a matter of fact, in most branches of industries, a wage as low as this amount generally represents a part time worker or possibly a woman, and many of those on this wage would be able to afford nothing to their relatives. That, Sir, is the point I wish to emphasise. The sole object of compensation is to provide insurance against financial loss and in the case of work people drawing such low pay, the sums we have provided in the Bill are reasonable and I maintain even liberal. I cannot follow Mr. Jadhav's argument that a workman getting Rs. 10 or less is likely to be the prop of his family. In any case, the Bill does not provide for potentialities ; it merely deals with the facts as they exist. I do not wish to detain the House longer, and will only state once more that I am compelled to oppose the amendment.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

"That in clause 23 of the Bill, for the proposed Schedule IV, the following be substituted :

The motion was negatived.

Clause 23 was added to the Bill.

Schedule IV was added to the Bill.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Order, order, Mr. Mitra.

MOTION FOR ADJOURNMENT.

FACILITIES GIVEN TO MAHATMA GANDHI IN JAIL.

Mr. S. C. Mitra (Chittagong and Rajshahi Divisions : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Sir, I move that the House do now adjourn. By this motion I desire to raise a specific issue, whether this Assembly will approve of the attitude of the Government in restricting facilities afforded to Mahatma Gandhi this time, restricting these much more unlike the previous occasion, which has compelled him to resort to fast unto death. I am not actuated very much by any idea of moving a vote of censure on the Government, but I think it my duty to express the public feeling in the country as a representative of the people, as a public man, so that it may not be said later on, as it has been said on other occasions, that while the Assembly was sitting there was no discussion about the treatment that is now being meted out to Mahatma Gandhi. I do not care whether I win or lose at the time of voting. I know the depleted condition of the elected Members on this side of the House and I also know that the Government have got packed benches. I do not blame anybody. The constituencies will take care of the elected Members if they fail to discharge their duties. Those who are present in the House, it is their duty to give expression to their views.

4 P. M.

Sir, the policy of the Government is neither logical nor politic. However much one may regret, yet one could appreciate the Government's position if they had maintained the strict rule of law. Whoever breaks the law will suffer the consequences. The Law is no respector of persons. Fortunately for all, the Government have not accepted that narrow interpretation of law. Laws were made for men, and men were not made for laws ; and I am very glad that Government have followed the spirit and the fundamental ideal of law, and have conceded privileges to Mahatma Gandhi, which have been denied to other prisoners of unblemished character, punished for the same offence under the same law. But I have no fetish for logic as well. I say when once it is conceded that Mahatma Gandhi is not to be treated like an ordinary prisoner, why should be there this petty-mindedness on behalf of the Government ? Whatever we may say here, we all know that Mahatma Gandhi is not an ordinary man. Kingdoms and Empires will vanish into oblivion, but the name of Mahatma Gandhi will still survive. He is a prophet of non-violence and, if I have time, I shall develop how he is fully justified in not even accepting the conditions of Government to secure his own freedom on the condition that he will restrict his activities merely to Harijan work. The Honourable the Home Member said yesterday that " no unreasonable obstacle should interpose to any work which was believed to be of social importance ". That was the manner in which Mahatma Gandhi was treated during his last imprisonment. We congratulate Government for their decision to give Mahatma Gandhi even this time some extraordinary privileges. We also appreciate the high sentiment that actuated Government in releasing Mrs. Gandhi to attend on Mahatma Gandhi during the days of his fast. But I lay stress on my former point. It has been truly said that the great Empires and little minds go ill together. Government can certainly now afford to be generous. What is there which stands in the way of Government allowing Mahatma

[Mr. S. C. Mitra.]

Gandhi the same privileges that were given to him only a few months back ? If we analyse the particular items of the differences, it comes to this. Government want to allow him two visitors a day, and not more than that. It stands to reason that it may not be necessary for Mahatma Gandhi to have more than two visitors every day, but on a particular day it may be necessary for him to have interviews with four or five provincial leaders who may like to consult him about the untouchability work. Similarly, there is a restriction about letters. He is allowed to write three letters a day, but when he has to address all the provincial workers, he might, on some occasions, require more letters to be written. If you pay a little attention to these particular items you will find that they are unnecessarily restrictive. It is not to serve any great purpose that these humiliating conditions are now imposed on him. As I have already said, Government should be generous and should do away with these little pin-pricks. It has been said that Government offered Mahatma Gandhi to secure his release on condition that he will restrict his actitvities to Harijan work only. Those who know Mahatma Gandhi and have any intimacy with his writings know for certain that this condition cannot be acceptable to him. If he is anything, he is a man of very strict and strong principles. He believes in the principle of non-violence and he believes that everything can be attained by civil disobedience. I maintain that civil disobedience by itself cannot be considered as unconstitutional. Of course, when it is taken up in order to subvert the Government, there may be occasions when it may be necessary to declare it illegal or unconstitutional. But every kind of civil disobedience cannot be considered as an illegitimate weapon. To speak of individual disobedience, it requires no argument that it can never be regarded as unconstitutional. Suppose a particular man feels in his conscience that he cannot strictly abide by a particular law, what course is open to him ? He is agreeable as an honest citizen to undergo penalties that are enjoined for the breach of these laws. If he willingly suffers the consequences and by his suffering draws the attention of the country and of Government, what is there which is wrong, morally or even legally and that such a man should not take recourse on the principles of individual civil disobedience. Now, it is at least ideally conceded that war is a barbarous method and it is not a civilised method for the settlement of any disputes and thus civil disobedience is the only method by which one can expect to bring round his opponents to his views and settle their differences. It has never been maintained that the actions of the majority are always good and what is left for minority except civil disobedience to resist the evil. Mahatma Gandhi is determined not to hurt the feelings of anybody, but to suffer himself and thus to induce other people to come to the right way of thinking. It is a matter for very attentive and clear thinking. Individual civil disobedience or, as a matter of fact, even mass civil disobedience are not necessarily unconstitutional and illegal. The high ideal that is now gaining ground is I think,—even the International conscience is slowly accepting the view—that for rectifying our wrongs and for settling our disputes, we, as civilized people, should not wage war against each other. What is left, then, except to agree voluntarily to suffer the consequences to get those wrongs remedied ? I maintain that as an honest man and as a great man that he is, Mahatma Gandhi had no other course open to him when he was asked but to tell the Government that he was not willing to secure his liberty restricting his activities to the Harijan work alone.

One other point I should like to make clear and here I shall quote from the Government communique itself that, when facilities were given to Mahatma Gandhi, he did not misuse them in the least. The Government communique says quoting Mahatma Gandhi :

"I miss Government's response to meticulous care with which I am endeavouring to observe jail discipline and as prisoner tender co-operation which as a citizen outside prison walls I consider it a religious duty to withhold. I have read your notes three times and each reading has increased my grief to discover that Government cannot appreciate the desperate need there is for me to do Harijan work without let or hindrance."

I think the Honourable the Home Member also admitted that not only in mere technicalities of the rules, but in its true spirit, Mahatma Gandhi kept his word of honour about the restrictions that were imposed upon him on the last occasion. In vain I tried to understand from the Honourable the Home Member how he makes a difference between a State Prisoner and an ordinary prisoner. He had to admit that all these privileges are not allowed to ordinary prisoners. He had to admit under stress of cross-examination by my friend, Mr. Puri, that Mahatma Gandhi is treated differently from other 'A' class Prisoners. I found it even in the communique itself that the Government have admitted it. They say :

".....should not be allowed any special treatment. Nevertheless the Government have been reluctant to take action which would be regarded as unreasonable interference with the work of social reform or to take their stand too rigidly on the fact that Mahatma Gandhi is by his own deliberate act a prisoner convicted for breach of the law. In spite of the inconvenience to jail discipline and the anomaly of the position....."

So it requires no argument from me. Government admit it as an anomaly and that Mahatma Gandhi is not an ordinary prisoner. In the best interest of the country and of the Government themselves they should treat Mahatma Gandhi exceptionally and to accede to his reasonable requests. It is a social work, the same social work for which he was allowed all facilities.

By oppressions and tyrannous acts Government may be carried on for some time, but it is well known even to Government that they can not carry them for all time. It is a very opportune moment and a psychological moment, and I say, Government can be generous and can settle many of our problems and troubles. The people of India will appreciate if Government can bring themselves up to that attitude of mind and offer Mahatma Gandhi the facilities for his work, social work, and I understand the Government do not disapprove of the nature of social work in which Mahatmaji is at present engaged.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Honourable Member has two minutes more.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : I have tried to impress upon the House the point that the Mahatma will not in any way abuse or misuse any of the concessions that will be allowed to him. I think the Government also is absolutely certain that there is no risk on that account. When they have conceded to a certain length, no good will be obtained by these half-hearted measures. Either he should be treated as an ordinary prisoner or an extraordinary prisoner. When he appeared before the tribunal, I remember I read in the papers that he did not demand to be classed as 'A' class prisoner. He said he was a farmer and a weaver and that he would be satisfied if he was classed as an ordinary prisoner. Once you concede—it may be that the Honourable the Home Member does not agree that it was for political consideration, let it be from any other consideration—once you concede a certain special privilege it is but right that you should concede the whole of his reasonable demands and thus save the life of this great man who is a great asset not only for this country, I say also for the Government. His ideal of non-violence has saved the country from many a trouble. It may not be known to everybody—I think the Honourable the Home Member knows it well—that this great ideal of non-violence greatly helped in keeping the country very quiet. Do not put any obstacle against the spread of this high ideal of non-violence and Truth, which is India's cherished ideal, by killing this apostle of non-violence. On these considerations, I commend my motion for the acceptance of the House.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Motion moved :

"That the House do now adjourn."

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen (Presidency Division : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Sir, I have listened to the speech of my Honourable friend, Mr. Mitra.

[At this stage Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) vacated the Chair which was occupied by Mr. Deputy President (Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury).]

I am sorry to say that I have to oppose the motion. I realise that I am in a rather awkward position, because I will have to oppose not only my Honourable friend, Mr. Mitra, but also many of my friends on this side of the House. But I would be failing in my duty if I would not give expression to my views on this important question.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai (Sind : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Do you want Mahatma Gandhi to die ?

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : Certainly, I do not. My Honourable friend in this motion refers to facilities for conducting the untouchability movement, although in his speech he referred to the civil disobedience movement also. I will confine my remarks to the untouchability movement only. My Honourable friend has his grievances, but we too have our grievances regarding that movement. Our grievance is not that facilities have been curtailed, rather that facilities should at all have been given to him. You may give him every facility in other directions, but so far as this movement is concerned, when there is a volume of opposition to this movement, it is only reasonable on the part of the Government that they should maintain perfect neutrality which means no change of existing jail rules.

Sardar Sant Singh (West Punjab : Sikh) : May I know whether the Honourable Member is in order in discussing a principle which has already been conceded by Government themselves by granting a few facilities to Mahatma Gandhi to carry on the work of untouchability. The question is whether full facilities should be granted or not. This is the subject of the motion as I understand it.

Mr. Deputy President (Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury) : The Honourable Member is perfectly in order in saying that no facilities should be granted to Mr. Gandhi.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : I have every sympathy for a man who, through some mistaken belief or ideals, is about to commit suicide. But I shall be the last person to allow a man any facility for conducting a propaganda which is opposed by a large number of people with all their might, although they cannot create so much noise as is being created by the other party. I do admit that Mr. Gandhi.....

An Honourable Member : Say Mahatma.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : We, orthodox people, refuse to call him a Mahatma, because he has got his frailties some of which are more serious than those of ours.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Is that your definition in your Shastras ?

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : Yes, a Mahatma should not have ordinary frailties. I do admit that Mr. Gandhi or Mahatma Gandhi if you like (Laughter) is a big personality and, if he were not a big personality, I think he would have been hauled up under some section of the Penal Code for attempting to commit suicide. However that may be, Government certainly cannot identify themselves with a propaganda when there is so much opposition to that propaganda from some other quarters.

So far as the fast is concerned, I think it is as irreligious as the propaganda itself. Mr. Gandhi pins his faith exclusively on the Gita,—a queer insistence indeed ! Be that as it may, the Gita itself condemns such a fast in unequivocal language.

An Honourable Member : What is the sloka ?

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : I will give it if you want it. This fast as well as its predecessors are intended to achieve some object ; that means, some kama or raga, i.e., desire or attachment. And in his occasional utterances we come across his rather peremptory orders that such and such thing should be done by such and such date, otherwise he will fast unto death, and so forth. This smacks of what is called dambha and ahankara, i.e., pride and vanity. Such a fast has been condemned by the Gita. My friend wants the slokas. The slokas are these :

"Ashāstra-vihitam ghoram tapyante ye taho janāt
Dambhāhamkāram āsritya kāma-rāga-valānwitāh
Karsāyantah sarīvastham bhūtagrāmam achetasah
Mām chaivāntah-sarīvastham tān viddhyāsura-nischayār."

And there are other slokas also :

"Yah shāstra-vidhim utsrijya varttate kāma-chāratah Na sa siddhim avāpnoti na sukam na parām gatim."

An Honourable Member : Translate please.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : The first two slokas mean this : " Those unwise people who practise severe penance under the influence of desire and attachment, pride, vanity and strength and emaciate their limbs as well as Myself living within are to be known as having a demoniac determination." That is the true translation of the slokas. I can see that my Honourable friends on this side are inclined to take exception to the expression " demoniac " but that is not my language. I am simply quoting the text ; I am not responsible for the exact phraseology.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : That does not apply to Mahatma Gandhi.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : Yes. His fast is intended to achieve an object and not for the purification of his own self. He wants to screw out something from another party. And the sloka, which I quoted last, means this :

" He who does not follow the Shastric injunctions and is pleased to conduct himself according to his own whim does not attain success nor happiness nor salvation."

It may sound strange to some people that Mr. Gandhi failed to distinguish right from wrong, but there is nothing strange in it ; because the same Gita says :

" Pravrittim cha nivrittim cha janā na vidur āsurāh."

" Those who are under an evil influence cannot discern what is right and what is wrong."

There is nothing strange in it. He may be a Mahatma, but at times it is quite possible that he fails to be a Mahatma, because there is a constant conflict between good and evil in every individual. You may be a Mahatma just now, but the next moment you may turn out to be a durātma.

Sir, under the circumstances I think the right course for every well-wisher of society would be not to give him undue facilities for carrying on an unholy propaganda, but to dissuade him from undertaking such an unholy fast. And my suggestion to Government is that they should forthwith release Mr. Gandhi and we should like to see what he can do against us openly without being allowed to attract some artificial sympathy from the people for his unholy work.

Rao Bahadur M. C. Rajah (Nominated Non-Official) : Sir, you have just now listened to the graceful speech of Pandit Sen. It is his pride and vanity that he should obstruct Mahatma Gandhi's great work on behalf of the depressed classes. He belongs to the 18th century. Let me not touch him ; I leave him alone.

Sir, first of all let me thank the Government of India for giving Mahatma Gandhi unlimited facilities during the last September fast for inaugurating a movement for the abolition of untouchability in India. That act of Government did really help the cause of the depressed classes to a great extent. There is no doubt that Mahatma Gandhi is sincere in raising the status and condition of the depressed classes whom he calls Harijans,—God's people.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : And are the others Satan's children ?

Rao Bahadur M. C. Rajah : Might be ; if the cap fits them, they can put it on.

His personality, his influence and the position he occupies in the Indian society are factors to be counted that go to help the cause he has so nobly undertaken. Sir, I was glad to learn from the reply of the Honourable the Home Member to the short notice question yesterday that there should be no obstacle interposed to any work which is believed to be of social importance. So the work that Mahatma Gandhi has undertaken is of social importance. I was also glad to hear that Government do not want to appear to be impeding the efforts to raise the status and condition of the depressed classes. The raison d'être of British rule in India is to secure just treatment for the depressed classes and to stimulate and guide progress among weaker communities, and one of the justifications of British rule in India is the rendering of justice to, and the liberation of, our oppressed communities. Therefore, they should welcome a movement in the Hindu community itself to reform its religious practice in respect of the treatment and status accorded to the depressed classes. This is what Mahatma Gandhi is doing by inaugurating the movement and pushing it through. It is but right that every facility should be given to him for the prosecution of this very important movement.

Sir, whatever the Government may say, we are all convinced that the Government are treating him as a special prisoner and not as an ordinary prisoner and they have been giving him extraordinary facilities and concessions. Was not Mahatma Gandhi allowed to interview Lord Irwin in New Delhi half naked ? Was not Mahatma Gandhi allowed to go in a motor car to interview His Excellency Lord Willingdon in Simla ? Had he not an audience with His Majesty the King in London half naked, while he was attending the Round Table Conference ? Did not the London police suspend all traffic regulations for him when he was in London attending the Round Table Conference ? Now that he is in hospital, you have rightly released Mrs. Gandhi so that she may attend on him.

When he began his fast in September last in the Yerrawada prison, you gave him all facilities to discuss the question of the system of electorates for the depressed classes with the leaders of the Hindu communities. Subsequently you gave him unlimited facilities for carrying on the Harijan work and you say you gave him such facilities on account of the position that he occupies with reference to the Harijan movement.

Mahatma Gandhi did not misuse those concessions. I have no doubt Government are interested in the work of the amelioration of the depressed classes and the abolition of untouchability. Then, why not allow him the facilities you once gave him to conduct the very same work ? I do acknowledge, and I acknowledge it gratefully, that Government have done in the past something for the amelioration of the condition of the depressed classes. It was His Excellency Lord Willingdon that inaugurated the movement in the Madras Presidency when His Excellency was the Governor of that province, and I know he has the interests of the depressed classes at his heart. But you cannot go forward to abolish untouchability. You say " We can go this far and not further ". But here is a man whom you acknowledge having a position in the Harijan movement, with ability, tact, knowledge and influence, coming forward to carry on the work, and I dare say if he is given such facilities he will achieve tremendous results.

Mr. R. S. Sarma (Nominated Non-Official) : Sir, I listened to the eloquence of the Mover very carefully and though I should like to congratulate him on the sober tone and the pleasant temper of his speech this afternoon, I fail to find even a single argument in favour of the motion that he initiated. On the other hand, the whole of his speech was a passionate appeal to the Government to give greater facilities to Mr. Gandhi for his Harijan work. If this motion, instead of being one of censure against the Government for the unsatisfactory reply of the Home Member yesterday, had been a straight Resolution or a motion recommending to the Governor General to give Mr. Gandhi all the facilities that he enjoyed before, I for one would have wholeheartedly supported him and I am not sure whether out of respect for the feelings of this House or to the appeal made by the Members of this House, Government would not have reconsidered their decision and sympathetically responded to their request. But this motion is one of censure against the Home Member.....

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury (Bengal : Landholders) : It is not a motion of censure : it is definitely stated by the Mover of this motion that it is not a motion of censure.

Mr. R. S. Sarma : No, Sir. This motion is one to secure Government regarding the unsatisfactory nature of the Home Member's reply. What was the unsatisfactory nature of the replies given by the Home Member yesterday ? It was sought to be made out in the course of that long cross-examination yesterday that Mr. Gandhi was a great personality, that it was in virtue of that personality that certain privileges were given to him on the first occasion and that the same privileges should now be given because he continues to be the same personality ; and if you now withdraw certain privileges that you gave him on the first occasion, you are lacking in the observance of certain principles. I will answer these two points at once. In the present instance to my mind from the replies that emanated from the Honourable the Home Member yesterday, it was evident that there were three issues before the Government for consideration before taking the step they took. The first was the strict observance of the jail regulations ; the second was the great personality of Mr. Gandhi, and the position he held towards the Harijan movement ; and the third was the request that Mr. Gandhi himself had made in this connection. First, as the Home Member said, it was necessary from the point of view of the Government that jail discipline ought to be enforced. With regard to the second point Government felt that in view of the great public interest in the Harijan movement and Mr. Gandhi's desire to further the interests of that cause, Mr. Gandhi ought to be given certain privileges for doing his Harijan work, however, limited it might be. With regard to the third request, Mr. Gandhi himself, before the magistrate who sentenced him, made the following statement :

"I intensely dislike the classification of prisoners into A, B and C classes. I have no desire whatsoever to enjoy special comforts which for other prisoners are denied. I would like to be classified along with those whom Government considers to be the lowest."

Therefore, taking into consideration the observance of jail discipline, taking into consideration the Government's sympathy towards the Harijan movement and the great position which Mr. Gandhi held, and taking into consideration also the request of Mr. Gandhi himself, I think Government made a fair compromise and gave him limited opportunities of service. But there is no question of principle involved in this. Of course it may be that this cannot be defended on principle, that while you could give him facilities on one occasion why should you deny it on another occasion ? In this world we have to make compromises ; and however much compromises may be indefensible on principle, it is always found out in practical life that they are the best via media and satisfactory to all parties. That is why I think they gave him this limited opportunity of service. If the Members of this House really want Mr. Gandhi to be spared, if they really want that this work should go on, if they are really anxious that he should continue this Harijan work, then, instead of making an appeal to the Government, I think they would be well advised in making an earnest appeal to Mr. Gandhi himself to give up his fast and to use the limited opportunities that have been given to him for the Harijan work ; or if he wants to get wider opportunities, to accept the very graceful offer that the Government have made that they are willing to release him so that he may do wholehearted service for the Harijan movement if he abandons the Civil Disobedience Movement.

Sardar Sant Singh : Sir, unlike the Mover of the Resolution, I must censure the Government if in my humble opinion I find that the Government are pursuing a policy which is harmful to the best interests of my country. I have chosen rightly or wrongly to co-operate with the present Government.

[At this stage, Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) resumed the Chair.]

I must share the responsibility with the Government for the good or evil administration of this country. Therefore I would not shirk the responsibility if it falls upon my shoulder to censure the Government. With these remarks I come now to the attitude taken up by the Honourable Mr. Sarma in connection with this motion. I charge the Government with following an inconsistent policy with regard to Mahatma Gandhi. The Book of Proverbs says—and it is an English book—"Inconsistency, thy name is woman." I think after hearing the questions and answers on the subject of Mahatma Gandhi's conviction on the floor of this House and after reading the various communiqués and the correspondence that has passed and that has been published, the proverb should undergo a metamorphosis and should read in future "Inconsistency, thy name is the Government of India of 1933." Why I say so will be made clear in a few words. If I am not wrongly posted with the facts of the arrest of Mahatma Gandhi this time, it was brought about in this way : that Mahatma Gandhi was not arrested under the old rusty barbarous Regulation of 1818, but he was arrested under the newly created weapon, that is to say, the Ordinance which was enacted into law by this House. Within a brief space of two days he was arrested and released, he was re-arrested, tried and convicted. The last act did not occupy more than an hour in its operation. Why was this staged ? Did not the Government of India know at the time they ordered the arrest of Mahatma Gandhi under the Ordinance that he would disobey any direction or instructions that might be issued to him ? They knew full well that he would not obey the notice that would be served upon him ; they also knew perfectly well that after he was released he would disobey the notice, and he would be tried, he would be convicted by a competent court of law and would be sent to jail. Honourable Members are aware, and it appeared in the Press before the arrest of Mahatma Gandhi, that this time he would be regularly tried and convicted. The position is this. Government deliberately adopted the policy of treating him as a prisoner. They deliberately avoided the reproach this time of keeping him behind the bars without trial. Therefore, they took up the more straightforward course of treating him as a prisoner this time. So far so good. Probably all the formalism to which the law courts are subject were observed. Salmond, in his work on Jurisprudence, regards formalism a necessary evil connected with the administration of law through law courts. However, the position is that the Government of India deliberately adopted the policy of treating him as a prisoner. May I ask, why do the Government of India refuse to follow up this policy to its logical conclusion ? Why should not Mahatma Gandhi be treated as a prisoner now ? Why don't they permit him to die as they permitted the convicts in the Andamans to die when they wanted certain facilities under the threat of hunger-strike ? If the Government of India claims the virtue of consistency, they should shoulder the responsibility and face the consequences that are likely to follow Mahatma Gandhi's death behind the bars. If they cannot shoulder that responsibility, if they think that Mahatma Gandhi's death behind the prison bars will be another crucification of Christ, let them have the courage of their conviction, and let them release him to work out the salvation of the country according to his lights. I am really at a loss to understand the attitude of the Government in the matter. Let the Government be consistent. We have a right to demand it of the Government. Why there should be a tug of war between the two big personalities, an important personality like the Government of India with full physical force behind them to carry out their orders and they leave their naked Faqir wielding immense influence with his countrymen ? Why should not, with all the physical force behind them, Government act up to it, why should they not use that force if they think the occasion demands it ? If on the contrary they think that the occasion does not demand it, then they should not delay entering into a compromise with Mahatma Gandhi. Let the Government hasten to change the conditions which may go to allow an honest man to live in this country. Really, one feels that a tug of war is going on between the Government of India and Mahatma Gandhi. A little incident inside the prison sets the telegraph wires in motion between Bombay and Simla and Simla and Whitehall. Why, Sir ? Are we being ruled by the Government of India or by Mahatma Gandhi ? I think virtually we are being ruled by Mahatma Gandhi, and not by the Government of India. If my friend, the Honourable the Home Member, thinks that the Government were strong enough to have put down the Civil Disobedience Movement completely, why does he not allow Mahatma Gandhi with his beggar's bowl to walk over India to preach the gospal of truth and non-violence ? Have the Government forgotten that when Mahatma Gandhi came into the field of politics, there were terrible conditions in Bengal, and violence was taking the place of constitutional agitation ? Did he not serve the Government by promoting the spirit of non-violence in the country ? He did so, and I think he saved the country from many deplorable results.....

[Sardar Sant Singh.]

Mr. S. C. Mitra : During the war he helped recruitment.

Sardar Sant Singh : May I remind this House that it is our duty to see that the Government carry on a consistent policy. If the Government are going to shoulder the responsibility for the death of Mahatma Gandhi, and if they are going to turn him out of the jail when he is on death bed, then they cannot reasonably say that they are not responsible for his death. That Mahatma Gandhi has a strong hold on the masses of India, nobody can deny for a moment. Even the prejudiced mind of my friend, Pandit Sen, could not control his tongue, and it involuntarily escaped him when he called him Mahatma and said that Mahatma Gandhi is a dynamic force in this land. Sir, if Mahatma Gandhi dies in jail, it will give birth to another Krishna in jail. His death in jail will be the birth of another Krishna in jail. His death will be another crucification and it will be the darkest blot on the civilized name of this country. Sir, the real difficulty that faces the Government at this juncture is the delay in bringing about the reformed administration. I cannot understand, Sir, why five years should have been taken to bring about a reformed constitution. Five long years have been allowed to pass without satisfying the political aspirations of India. Therefore, Sir, if it is delayed any longer, I am afraid more complications will follow. I think the best course for the Government to adopt would be either to listen to the demands of Mahatma Gandhi and to yield to him till the reformed constitution comes into existence, or be prepared to face the consequences that will follow the death of Mahatma Gandhi. Nobody can deny that Mahatma Gandhi has a hold even upon those who happen to differ from him in his programme or in his policy ; everybody regards him to be a sincere son of India. Everybody knows that he wants a reformation of the Government, of the system of administration. The idea is laudable ; nobody can deny that. But the difficulty is that somehow or other we are standing on false ideas of prestige and we are not admitting that Government require to be radically changed before it becomes suitable for being co-operated with. Therefore, I will censure the Government for this that they are not playing the game by this country.

Nawab Major Malik Talib Mehdi Khan (North Punjab : Muhammadan) : Sir, this is not the first time that Mahatma Gandhi has been sent to jail. He has been in and out of it, and always came out with a set of promises. We have to see whether the promises he made with the Government or the line of action he chalked out for himself have been fulfilled or followed respectively. No doubt, the Mahatmaji is worshipped as a saint, but the time of idealism is gone, we are governed by circumstances which are materialistic and we have to see whether a man is doing what is required at the time. Mahatmaji has seen that all his pet schemes have gone to nothing. The civil disobedience is gone, non-co-operation is gone, the charkha cult is gone, and what have they left in their train ? Hundreds and thousands are lamenting the loss of their sons or relatives. There are others, who are going astray and using a path which is not fit for the sons of India who aspire to be her saviours, or leaders, and so forth. Excuse me for saying that this is all due to the cult which Mahatmaji has started. This reformation of Harijans—this is not the first time that it has been put forward by him. If I remember aright, he came out from jail recently with the same object, but are my friends prepared to say, that he kept to that, and succeeded in raising the status of that unfortunate body of God's creatures, called untouchables, to any appreciable degree? I would be the last person to say that he should cease to work, I would rather like every human being to do it. But what are the means, what are the steps that are being adopted to attain that object? Are we in earnest about it? Mahatmaji has got round him many illustrious persons who do not seem to be playing the straight game, I am sorry to say, because if they all combined together and put their shoulders to the wheel, I am dead sure all this unteuchability would have vanished. But, Sir, platform personality is one thing and private another. If the Government are doing what they are charged with, it has done so under regulations and according to law, and it could not do more under the circumstances. We are at this moment confronted with the question of life and death of Mahatmaji. Every one would be sorry to lose him, but the question is whether it is the Government's doing or his own.

An Honourable Member : He is committing suicide.

Nawab Major Malik Talib Mehdi Khan : Looks like it. The Government, as is known, went out of their way many times in allowing facilities to him. Have they been properly and wholly availed of? I am afraid, not. How long should this game of fast and loose be played? We ought to come to the realities, we ought to face the facts as they are forced on us. Well, what good did Mahatmaji do for this poor country? Did he attain Swaraj for it? Did he train people for it? Did he fill up the gap that exists between communities and communities who are constantly at war with one another? By studying facts, the plain answer is "nothing". If we come to the realities, I am sorry to say we find the whole country in a chaos. Economic depression is eating into our very vitals..... (An Honourable Member : Is that due to him?") Agriculture is neglected. (An Honourable Member : "All due to Gandhi?") No doubt it is the result of the cult that has been taught, it may be by him, or by others. We should not lose sight of the fact, and it is our primary duty to fight all these enemies that are devouring us. Gentlemen, we should not abuse Government simply because Mahatma Gandhi does not wish to come out of the jail. All the facilities that have so far been awarded are quite sufficient to enable him to pursue the work that he has set before him if he is in real earnest. Mahatmaji is getting very old, his power of resistance is almost nil, and he is starving himself. Excuse me, but I must say that it will take a long time for him to pull up if at all and be a man to work all that he has put his shoulder to. It is time that some of his bosom friends came forward, and relieved him of the hard task that he has put before himself, and for which he is not fit. It is good that he is left to his fasting, to his prayers and to his God. The work in the world is very hard and we have heavy odds against us. The whole world is passing through various phases and its wisest politicians are trying to bring out something. My friends, do you think seriously that Mahatmaji alone is able to solve these difficulties? I say, no. He should be relieved by now.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Who will be his successor?

Nawab Major Malik Talib Mehdi Khan : It is for the country to find out, and not for me alone. Pray let us put our heads together and find him out.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Then the Honourable Member should not denounce Mahatma Gandhi.

An Honourable Member : "Lalchand Navalrai".

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : No. He is not capable.

Nawab Major Malik Talib Mehdi Khan : I have laid before the House the realities of the problem. I would beg my friends, the Honourable Members, to be cool and see what is to be done. With these words, I resume my seat. (Applause.)

Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury (Assam : Muhammadan) : I have gone very carefully through the communiqué that was issued by the Government of India on Mahatma Gandhi's fast. I also listened very attentively to the answers that had been given by the Honourable the Home Member to the volley of supplementary questions that were hurled at him and the impression I formed in my mind from a study of the communiqué and the answer is that the Government position is entirely untenable. Government has not treated Mahatma Gandhi as they have treated any other ordinary A class prisoner. They have given him facilities which they have denied to other A class prisoners and in the Government communiqué it is said that the position is anomalous and that it means inconvenience to the jail authorities. Still they have given all these facilities to Mahatma Gandhi. I do not question nor do I deprecate this departure on the part of the Government from the actual jail regulations. On the contrary I appreciate the wisdom of the course they have adopted. What are the facilities they have granted to Mahatma Gandhi? They have allowed him the use of periodicals, the use of a typist, two interviews and they have allowed him three letters a day.

5 P.M.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig (Home Member) : Five.

Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury : I am glad to hear that. Now, what are the things they have refused? So far as I could find out from the Government communiqué, they have limited the number of visitors to only two and no more, and disallowed Press interviews. These are the restrictions that have been placed. As regards the interviews, what I do not understand is this. Mahatma Gandhi wants facilities not for political work but for Harijan work. You allow him to write to the Press on the Harijan movement and what is the harm in his speaking to the pressmen about the Harijan movement? As regards interviews, having regard to the state of Mahatma Gandhi's present health, the time at his disposal, his preoccupations, his prayers, his reading and his charkha, it is inconceivable that there will be any great rush of visitors to interfere with jail discipline. The difference between what Government has granted and what still remains to be granted is so small that I am surprised that Government allowed such a momentous crisis to develop on such a trivial issue. The Government gave the whole show away by treating Mahatma Gandhi in an exceptional way and if I may say so, after swallowing a whole camel, it is now too late for the Government to strain at a gnat. Yesterday when my Honourable friend, Mr. Puri, put the Honourable the Home Member under a severe cross-examination, however cleverly and ingeniously he evaded an admission, the fact remains that they are treating Mahatma Gandhi in this way because of his unique personality. He is undoubtedly one of the greatest men of the age and in recognition of that fact Government have granted him those special facilities and it is absurd that Government should endanger so valuable a life merely on the petty issue whether he should have two interviews or more or whether he should see the pressmen or not. We expect from the Government a better sense of proportion than that.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav (Bombay Central Division : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : In 1930 when Mahatma Gandhi started on his historic march Government made very light of the thing and when he started breaking the salt laws Government was obliged to arrest him. Although at that time he had broken a law by which Government derived salt revenue, Government did not think it right to bring the Mahatma to trial and they simply detained him in prison under Regulation III of 1818. Again in 1932, when Government again wanted to restrict the movements of the Mahatma, they had to keep him under that same Regulation. Now, Sir, when the mass Civil Disobedience Movement was completely stopped and replaced by individual civil disobedience and when all secret conclaves and secret meetings and secret propaganda was banned by Mahatmaji, and everything was to be worked in the open, Government thought it right to make the Mahatma commit a nominal crime and then bring him to trial and got him convicted. In 1930 he had actually committed a crime against a statute of very long standing. In 1933, the offence of which he had been convicted was an Ordinance Bill offence and I think every man of self-respect in the same circumstances will think it more honourable to break that law than to obey it. This time Government wanted to treat the Mahatma as a convict and that is the reason brought forward to deny him the same facilities that were given him on the previous occasion. I am at one with Government in their action in restricting the movements of the Mahatma. I have my agreement with them that they should not allow Mahatma to go again out in the villages and preach non-violent civil disobedience. No sane Government would allow such a thing to be done. But I do not approve of the conduct of Government in getting him convicted and kept as a convict in Yeravada. He ought to have been treated much better—on the same lines as he was treated on the previous occasions and his claim that he should be given the same facilities for Harijan work as on the former occasion is a perfectly legitimate one and a right one. Government by themselves cannot right the wrong that has been done to the Harijans for so many generations. Government cannot interfere. Government expect the community itself to right this wrong. And for this purpose it is necessary that proper facilities should be given to Mahatma Gandhi to carry on that work. Mahatma Gandhi has never broken his work ; he has never taken advantage of the Harijan movement to make propaganda in other directions. Government may safely rely upon him that he will work honestly and without transgressing any laws. But Government seem not to trust him. Although they say that they are very eager for the Harijan work, they have in a way showed to the world by putting restrictions on the conduct of Mahatma Gandhi that they are not themselves so very zealous in the cause of the uplift of the Harijans. This charge might be brought against them and I trust Government will do everything in their power to leave no ground for that charge. The mere assertion that they are very eager of the uplift of the Harijans will not do. I look upon Mahatma Gandhi as a peace-maker and as a great asset in the preservation of law and order in India. He is preaching non-violence and many will realise that but for his efforts the violent movement would have gained more ground outside Bengal. In the province of Bombay, Sir, his influence has kept the movement on non-violent lines and I shudder to think what the consequences will be if Gandhi succumbs to this fast. His loss will be a greater loss to Government than to the society. The prestige of Government will receive a great flow and at the same time Government will be instrumental in loosening the spirits of violence. He is the greatest and the most zealous policeman Government have ever had.

An Honourable Member : Not paid.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : The present Civil Disobedience Movement which is called the individual Civil Disobedience Movement has made it quite easy for Government to put it down. Each and every leader that goes out to disobey gives a previous warning or notice to Government of his intention that at such and such time and at such and such place he is going to commit such and such an act. So, the police have to be ready at that hour and at that place simply to arrest him. The work of the secret police has been taken away and it will be seen that in a way Mahatma Gandhi has by his action made use of the Ordinance laws unnecessary. The Ordinance laws simply provide Government with the power of obliging the so-called offenders to commit technical crimes so that they should be convicted and sent to prison for six months, a year or two years. As a matter of fact, on account of this open Civil Disobedience Movement the necessity of the Ordinance laws is taken away and the sooner the Government get the laws into disuse the better for them. I therefore think that the life of Mahatma Gandhi is a great asset in the interests of Government themselves. His leadership is wanted by the people ; his leadership is the leadership of peace and progress. If that leadership is taken away and the country is deprived of this Mahatma as a leader, one does not know who will take his place and what course of political activity we shall have to face.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Sir, the Honourable Mover of this Resolution put his case in his opening words by saying that the course that the Government had adopted was neither logical nor politic. He did not, however, feel disposed to pursue the argument of illogicality, but I think the accusation of illogicality was based on this point that if a man is a prisoner he should be treated as a prisoner and should receive no concessions at all. Now, Sir, that is a perfectly arguable position and it is one which is held with conviction by certain Members in this House, by Pandit Sen for instance. But I gather it is not, in fact, held by the majority of those who have spoken in favour of this motion. I do not, therefore, propose to direct my main argument to that. The complaint, I gather, is that it was not politic on the part of the Government not to concede to Mr. Gandhi on this occasion precisely the same treatment that was given to him on the previous occasion, and that is what is described as impolitic, inconsistent, untenable and by various other adjectives that have been used by Honourable Members opposite. Well, Sir, let us remember the circumstances in which those very exceptional facilities were given to Mr. Gandhi last autumn. Mr. Gandhi, in the first place, was at that time a State Prisoner. Honourable Members opposite themselves recognise that it is reasonable and not uncommon to give to State Prisoners facilities wider than those that can be allowed to ordinary prisoners. He had been imprisoned in connection with the Civil Disobedience Movement. While he was in prison, there was suddenly launched in dramatic conditions a new movement for the uplift of the depressed classes—a movement which, in general terms, could hardly fail to enlist the sympathy of people in general.

Now, Sir, it might be claimed and in effect it was claimed by Mr. Gandhi that without his personal and unhampered direction that movement could not make reasonable progress and that it could not be properly launched. Government did not wish to stand in the way of the inauguration of that movement and in the very special circumstances they did agree to give Mr. Gandhi the widest possible facilities for launching that movement. Now, I wish to draw the attention of the House to what has happened since. Honourable Members will remember that last May Mr. Gandhi was released from jail unconditionally. It was thought at that time that he was devoting himself entirely to this social movement. He was undertaking in connection with that movement a 21 days fast. But, as we all know, when he recovered from the fast, he threw himself actively into politics and during all the time between his recovery from the fast and his re-imprisonment, there were no signs that I could observe that the Harijan movement was occupying his mind to the degree to which it appears to occupy it when he is in jail. He has now deliberately courted imprisonment on a political issue and at once it appears that life ceases to interest him unless he can do Harijan work just as if he were a free man. It appears to me that Mr. Gandhi wishes to combine simultaneously two incompatible policies, deliberate self-incarceration in jail and complete freedom to carry on his social work. I think that an ordinary man would never dream of supposing that those two processes were compatible, much less claiming as an indefeasible right that he should be allowed to do both at once. When, therefore, with his arrest he claimed his previous facilities, it was a question to be very seriously considered whether he should be allowed any facilities at all. I would remind the House of what those facilities previously granted amounted to. It is argued that they did not encourage civil disobedience. I concede that. But they had very undesirable effects on the administration and discipline in jail, and they were, when one looks at them, fundamentally inconsistent with the position of a prisoner. Mr. Gandhi was allowed to interview as many visitors as he liked. The number of persons who came to him averaged over a long period 64 visitors a week, and at the same time he was conducting an extensive correspondence which, being a prisoner, had to be censored and he was giving interviews to the Press. Well, Sir, our view was that facilities of that kind were really not consistent with the position of Mr. Gandhi as a prisoner. At the same time Government felt particularly in view of what they had done before that it was undesirable that they should take steps which could reasonably be described as hampering social reform, a social reform which in its general aspects they are certainly in sympathy with. They, therefore, after very careful consideration gave Mr. Gandhi facilities which they consider are ample to enable him to make an important and effective contribution to the work he has at heart. Those facilities were given with no niggardly hand and they represent the maximum which appeared to the Government to be consistent with the observance of ordinary jail discipline. What was the effect of this offer? Mr. Gandhi rejected the offer. It has been said that we are standing on certain trivial points, but I hope I have made it clear to the House that the Government took its decision and went as far as it felt it is reasonable to go. If there are only really small points which divide the Government and Mr. Gandhi, it is Mr. Gandhi who is to blame and not the Government. Mr. Gandhi really refuses to accept for himself the normal concomitants of imprisonment and in effect he is claiming to dictate the terms of his imprisonment and moreover he enforces that claim by a fast. It does seem to me very lamentable that this feature of the coercive fast should have found its way into public life in India. I am well aware that Mr. Gandhi claims that his fasts are not coercive but I think that is the interpretation which public opinion unmistakeably places upon them. They are intended, at any rate, they do create sympathy and a certain feeling of horror at the possibility of Mr. Gandhi's death and under the influence of those feelings it appears that people are deprived of their judgment. We all know what happened at the time of the Poona Pact. That, I understand, Mr. Gandhi claimed was not a coercive fast, but at the same time people carried away by their feelings no longer judged a public question on the issue whether it was right or whether it was wrong, but whether it was necessary to take certain action in order to save Mr. Gandhi's life. Sir, the Government of no country can be carried on on those principles (hear, hear). A year ago when Mr. Gandhi launched on that first fast, I ventured in this place to warn the House of the implications of a fast of that kind, and I said that the country if it accepted these methods would be subjecting itself to a dictatorship of a novel kind. I do think that the facts of the last year have borne out that warning. I admit that it is difficult to follow the workings of Mr. Gandhi's mind. Certain processes of thought or, as he would perhaps claim, inspirations.....

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Honourable Member has one minute more.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : .....lead him to conclusions which he is so convinced are right that he feels justified in employing the most extreme means to force them on other people. I hope, Sir, that Government will have the support of the House in the action they have taken and in making a stand against these methods.

Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal (Jullundur Division : Non-Muhammadan) : Sir, listening very carefully to the speech of the Honourable the Home Member it occurred to me that the task of the jail-keeper is a very unfortunate one. It took my mind back a century when somewhat similar circumstances arose and the British Government had to take charge of an illustrious prisoner. The Emperor Napoleon after Waterloo was kept by the British Government at St. Helena. How Sir Rudson Low, the counterpart of Sir Harry Haig, performed his duty is a matter of history. The task was not a congenial one and, as Lord Rosebery has recorded, it is a sombre chapter in history out of which neither Napoleon nor the British Government come out any the better. I hope, Sir, that when history records its decision the Honourable Sir Harry Haig will have a better verdict. But let us examine this position a little more carefully, because I feel that the issue is grave and the last word on it will not be said in this House nor within a short time to come. The issue is very grave indeed. What is it after all that we are considering? As the communiqué put it, Mahatma Gandhi soon after his arrest or re-arrest, if I may say so, claimed in a communication to Government that he should be allowed to carry on Harijan work which he had been doing as a State Prisoner in the Yervada Jail before,—a tall claim. I am quite free to admit that if Sir Harry Haig had been the jail-keeper that other people in his position might have been and had been devoid of imagination, he might have taken up the Jail Administration Manual, and said to such a prisoner who had been convicted of a breach of the law of the land, " Such a demand is absurd ; I refuse to accept any such demand or any such claim and you must be treated as any other prisoner ". Then, Sir, one would have said this is perfectly logical. As my Honourable friend, Mr. Sarma, was at pains to point out, Mahatma Gandhi himself did not claim any special privileges which the lowest prisoner would not have. Then the situation would have been perfectly logical. But what is it that the Honourable Sir Harry Haig and the Government did ? They said, " Oh yes, let us examine the position. He wants the unlimited right of having visitors, we shall give him two or three a day ; he wants the right to have a typist and a stenographer, we shall give him a convict ; he wants to have the right of having interviews for the Press and for the public, we shall give him only the right of interviews for Harijan work, and so on ". Notice, Sir, that it was not a total repudiation of the claim tall as it was ; it was an admission of that claim to a certain extent. What is the implication of it ? Mahatma Gandhi put it in that communiqué which I have here, that in the Yervada Pact entered into when he was in jail last September it was implicit that the Government of India recognised that that work is being carried on with their consent. We may take it, Sir, that this work is so important, this work of ameliorating the lot of 40 million people is of such a great magnitude that the Government of India at long last have softened to it, are prepared to extend facilities even to a prisoner in jail and to relax the rules of jail discipline. If that is so and if they are prepared to concede certain rights to him, then the question arises, is it right or proper, is it just and fair or politic to deny him all those rights ?

Now, Sir, one or two observations which fell from my Honourable friend opposite may be examined. He said the Government of India is not sticking at trifles ; it is Mahatma Gandhi who is sticking at trivial points. I make a present of that to my Honourable friend opposite. If it is on trivialities that Mahatma Gandhi is insisting, cannot the Government of India out of the fullness of their heart give way on trivialities ? Where is the question of principle involved ? We were at pains to find out yesterday if any question of principle was involved in the refusal of these requests. We were able to ascertain that no question of principle was involved because we have conceded the position that Mahatma Gandhi must be given certain privileges. We have conceded that position ; but having conceded that position, are we not prepared to go to the fullest extent, to the extent that privileges had been accorded to him either out of deference to his position or out of regard for the work that was being done when he was a State Prisoner ? Now, Sir, the net result of all that has happened between May and August is that from the position of a State Prisoner the Mahatma has been reduced to the position of an ordinary convict. If the jail rules are to be studied at this time, certainly the rules of discipline were there to be studied when he was a State Prisoner. If those rules gave way to the considerations of untouchability work or, what I think is more important perhaps and is a more important reason, to the outstanding personality of the Mahatma, then certainly that blue book of jail discipline can yield now as well. Where is the point of sticking at trifles, as has been said ? Well, Sir, the real question is neither of jail discipline nor of dictation. Some people appear in a century who are inconveniently great, the esteem in which they are held by the people is so great and they have such a hold on the affections of the people that they defy not only jail rules but they defy classification ; and my Honourable friend is faced with that contingency. Similar was the case, as I pointed out, with Napoleon Bonaparte, the Emperor Napoleon as I will call him, who surrendered himself to the Captain of the " Bellerophon ". An amusing incident comes to my mind. The Captain of the ship inquired of the British Government, " How shall we address him ? " The mighty Napoleon who had upturned more thrones and created more thrones, swallowed up more princes and princelings than anybody else in the last century, about him this funny question was put to the British Government, " How shall we address him ? " The British Government ransacked papers and thought furiously, and what was the result ? The result was, " Refer to him as General Bonaparte ". They might have called him Bishop Bonaparte ; he was head of the church as he was head of the army, or head of the State, and the British Government had entered into negotiations with him as such at Amiens 14 years back. But after that furious thinking, they said he was General Bonaparte. Are we going to deal with these things in this petty manner, to ransack our dictionaries and to find out whether for this mighty man, for whom history shall have to record a verdict, our jail rules make any provision ? No jail rules in the world will ever make provision for such an inconvenient prisoner. The role of a jailor is a very unfortunate one and I must pity the Government of India for having to lock him up and let him out over and over again. It is just as well that we came to terms with him. It would lead to the peace of the country, it would lead to the progress of the country and it would lead to a lasting solution of many important problems that sorely await solution. But if this game of hide and seek goes on then my Honourable friend will in vain look into the jail rules for a solution ; he has to make use of his imagination. Part of it he did use. The keeper of Napoleon Bonaparte had not got a bit of it, he was absolutely without it. Sir Harry Haig is better, sitting on the heights of Simla. I only wish he had soared a little bit more. The idea that he is dictating the terms of his imprisonment or that he can be making Government impossible is one of those things which have been borrowed from no one knows where. Who ever considered that the Mahatma was for dictating anything ? It is a question of your having a particular point of view with regard to negotiations which you carry on with him. As has been remarked more than once he is the man who can deliver the goods—perhaps the goods have perished or another change has come over the Government of India ; but the position remains that you shall have to take serious account of the Mahatma and his following and the movement that he launched ; we are not safe, no constitution in this country will be safe with Mahatmaji within the jail walls or with Mahatma Gandhi on the wrong side. Now, the issue that we have to face at this time is, is the Government of India prepared with that meticulous sticking to jail rules for the serious consequences that might ensue if the Mahatma dies in jail because he sticks at trifles ? The Government of India would look ridiculous before the Bar of the world because he is well known not only in this country, but also in Europe and America and your action will be indefensible. Are you prepared to face the consequences that because the Mahatma stuck at trifles therefore you were also stuck up and you were not prepared to yield an inch ? That is the position that has emerged out of the statement made by the Honourable Member opposite. I submit I looked for much better arguments and reasoning from my Honourable friend than what I have received. With regard to this matter, as has been said before, let us look at it properly. The whole position has been that the Mahatma left the thread of his movement in the jail when he was released in May, and has now gone back to take it up at the very place where he left it. Apart from the fact whether he is a State Prisoner or an ordinary prisoner, the tale is where it was. There is no difference in essentials and if you are prepared to concede part of the ground that you have conceded, you are treating him as a special prisoner. Otherwise how could he be put into A class ? I would put it to my Honourable friend opposite by what rule of logic did you put him in the A class ? He never goes anywhere near the European style of living, he owns no property ; why did you not put him in class C ? By what rule do you put him into A class ?

An Honourable Member : He is a barrister.

Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal : He is a spinner ; he is an agriculturist ; he refuses to have anything to do with barristers or with law.

Mr. B. R. Puri (West Punjab : Non-Muhammadan) : Many a barrister is rotting in C class.

Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal : Therefore your jail rules have already yielded ; they are not there, if that is so.....

An Honourable Member : He is an English barrister.

Another Honourable Member : He is no longer an English barrister : he has been struck off the rolls.

Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal : My friend says that he is an English barrister. I had not forgotten it, nor had the magistrate ; but it is not because he is a barrister that he has been put in the A class. If that were so it would be an incitement to all barristers to commit civil disobedience. (Laughter.) It is not so and I would wait for that assurance from the opposite benches. If that is so and if all barristers were to be placed in the A class, I am sure, the jails will again be overcrowded and the A class would have to be modified. I say, these jail rules have given way and if they have given way, what is the point in sticking at trifles ? As I said, either you do not want to parley with him or a change has come over the Government of India and they have become self-sufficient for the time being : but I think one may safely say that you are in that state, then the only thing that you can say is that you cannot stand dictation by a prisoner as to the terms of his imprisonment or that his imprisonment is self-inflicted or that you find it very difficult to classify him under the jail rules. In that case, I am afraid, you have not got much justification for the stiff-necked attitude that you have taken up.....

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Honourable Member has got one minute more.

Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal : If you had started like that from the very beginning and taken your stand on the jail manual, you might have been correct. But it does not follow that everything correct in an extraordinary situation like this would be the most proper thing to do. I make a present of that to my friend opposite. Let him beware that the same verdict of history which was passed on Sir Hudson Low is not passed on him : he will pardon me for the parallel if he thinks it is an affront to him ; but I cannot help pointing out that the verdict on this question may be recorded by an authority other than that of this House.

Several Honourable Members : The question may now be put.

Mr. Muhammad Azhar Ali (Lucknow and Fyzabad Divisions : Muhammadan Rural) : Sir, this motion by my friend, Mr. Mitra, is not a motion that can be regarded as a mere academic discussion in a debating society. I would ask the Government to consider this question with that coolness of mind, heart and head which is the characteristic of the British nation on very serious occasions. The difference between the Government and these Benches is that the Government are not actually very serious about this question, but we on this side are serious. We consider this matter to be of very great importance not only to this country, but also to the whole world at large. We as representatives of the people have come here to co-operate with the Government and to represent to the Government the true feeling and the true sentiments, not of our own, but of our constituents, and if any of the Members here do not represent the views of their constituents, I am sure they are misleading the Government on this point. The Government do not still seem to be serious about this question. They have of course pride and prestige : they have their army and police behind them, owing perfect allegiance to them ; but our position is that we are here to represent the people and we have the interests of the country at heart. To the Government it may not appear a country-wide question. But so far as I have been able to read in the papers and the Government communiqués, what I find is this : that Government have always been impervious at first and have not listened to the reasonable arguments of the people on such occasions. As a lawyer I will say that we are always blamed to resort to legal quibbles and to legal hair-splitting. But in this case I find that Government have done more hair-splitting and the question of a prisoner and accused and so forth has been raised and thus the issues have been clouded. But it is no use now saying more as I know that the time at my disposal is very short and other speakers might be willing to speak. I will place before you, Sir, the latest telegrams which were received from Poona. They read as follows :

"From Special Commissioner—I shall be failing in my duty to press, public and Government if I don't take earliest opportunity of bringing to their notice publicly very grave risks which Government as well as country are running if there is no immediate change in treatment accorded to Gandhiji as it is inevitable that under present treatment Mahatmaji's condition likely assume grave proportions without any previous warning."....

Mr. Vidya Sagar Pandya (Madras : Indian Commerce) : Sir, to shorten the proceedings I wish to put a question, whether it is not a fact that at 3-45 P.M. to-day Mahatmaji has been released.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I do not know what the Honourable Member's authority for that statement is.

Mr. Vidya Sagar Pandya : The Associated Press, if you please. Just now they have got the news and that is why I want confirmation or contradiction of it.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The news has not reached me.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Is there any possibility of his having been released without the Honourable Member knowing it ?

Mr. Muhammad Azhar Ali :

" Poona Special Commissioner—I shall be failing in my duty to press, public and Government if I don't take earliest opportunity of bringing to their notice publicly very grave risks which Government as well as country are running if there is no immediate change in treatment accorded to Gandhiji as it is inevitable that under present treatment Mahatmaji's condition likely assume grave proportions without any previous warning. There are two aspects to question which agitates public mind over deadlock which prevails between Gandhiji and Government. Predominant aspect pertains to measures taken by Government to safeguard Gandhiji's health. Other and more secondary aspect pertains to rights and wrongs of issues in dispute between Gandhiji and Government. Present position with regard to treatment accorded Gandhiji is that he continues to be convicted prisoner removed to Sassoon Hospital by Yeravada prison authorities with view enable one their prisoners whose physical condition causing anxiety attended to better effect in hospital. Since Gandhiji continues prisoner entire responsibility for medical attendance, nursing and provision other facilities borne by Government. Civil Surgeon who Chief Officer of Sassoon Hospital Chief Medical officer in charge. Civil Surgeon assisted by other surgeons attached to Hospital according to routine prevailing in Hospital. Civil Surgeon visits Gandhiji in morning and in evening. Other surgeons also in close touch through nurses. There are certain hospital nurses ministering to Gandhiji in usual routine way. Gandhiji placed in enclosed balcony on first floor. It is in this very room that Gandhiji underwent his operation in 1924 as prisoner for appendicitis. Gandhiji because he is prisoner under constant vigilance of two police officers. One of police officer sergeant always inside room. Other Indian takes his seat outside room which is again covered from public by screen shutting out light and air to that extent. As concession Government Bombay agreed allow two visitors meet Gandhiji one of whom Mathuradas Tricumji other at present Andrews. This in addition to interviews in connection with Harijan publications. In addition Kasturbai whose sentence suspended allowed stay with Gandhiji during day time. Kasturbai remained with Gandhiji on Monday from 4-30 till 8 P.M. On Tuesday Kasturbai remained with Gandhiji throughout whole day retiring to Parnakuti at 7 P.M. With regard to interviews allowed to Andrews and Mathuradas Tricumji Civil Surgeon stipulated that interviews shall for half an hour only and that one interview shall be allowed between 11-30 and 12 noon and other interviews between 4 and 6. Mathuradas Tricumji had first interview at 4 P.M. on Tuesday....."

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : May I know for how long these interviews were permitted ?

Mr. Muhammad Azhar Ali : For half an hour.

An Honourable Member : May I know, Sir, if this telegram is addressed to the Honourable Member alone or it is addressed to all Members ?

Mr. Muhammad Azhar Ali : It was a Free Press telegram.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad (Patna and Chota Nagpur cum Orissa : Muhammadan) : It is true, Sir, that Mahatma Gandhi has been released. I have just now got the news confirmed.

An Honourable Member : The Local Government had no time to consult the Government of India.

Mr. Muhammad Azhar Ali :

" Andrews saw Gandhiji in forenoon, but it would appear that condition to condition on which interviews allows is that no disclosure shall be made of Gandhiji's condition to press. Nor do Government propose issue any official communiqué. Reasons which have led close students of situation reach conclusion that unknowingly in all probability Government are heading towards crisis. Mahatmaji's health can be readily stated. This is not first time Mahatmaji faced fast. Therefore, there are available authentic data of reactions of system of fasts. Experience of previous fasts proved that minimum conditions which are essential for Mahatmaji's good health are, one, selection of site which is open to fullest extent of light and air, two, provision regular scientific massage similar to what Dr. Dinshaw Mehta used to provide Mahatmaji in last fast, three provision regular anemas and taking all necessary steps to secure regular and complete working eliminatory system. Four taking necessary steps ensure Mahatmaji taking necessary quantity of water that his kidney may be kept in good working condition, five, provision necessary congenial mental environment. So far enquiries able elicit selection Sassoon Hospital specially particular room most unfortunate. It is true room has adequate windows but friends who have visited room in 1924 have clearest recollection that it is most inadequately open to light and ventilation. Room certainly according to nature cure experts most ill-suited for fasting patients. In opinion friends Mahatmaji would have been better situated in Yeravada Prison under mango tree....."

(Interruption.)

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Honourable Member should not be interrupted. He can proceed.

Mr. Muhammad Azhar Ali :

" If there was feeling that mango tree was luxury, European cells in which Gandhiji lodged it is asserted compare favourably with room in Sassoon Hospital. It is stated that it is possible for any fasting patient lodged in present room in Sassoon Hospital avoid having headache agues all over body, frequent recurrence of nauseas. Similarly Mahatmaji has to do without massage. It is believed that nurses apply to Mahatmaji's feet oil massage, but it cannot be considered adequate substitute for scientific massage which would tone up system of fasting patient. If Gandhiji been lodged in Yeravada Prison and allowed Girdhar Kripalani Mahadeo Desai and Baba Kalelkar they should be able serve efficient nurses.

No adequate news available regard working eliminatory system Mahatmaji. There is reason however to believe that owing to ill-lighted and ill-ventilated room and absence scientific massage eliminatory system not working satisfactorily resulting in pain in limbs, headaches, etc. There is also reason to believe owing unsatisfactory conditions in which fast conducted Mahatmaji unable take necessary quantity of water which very essential for proper working kidney. It needs be hardly stated there is no congenial.....

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Honourable Member has got only half a minute more.

Mr. Muhammad Azhar Ali : Very well, Sir. I will read a telegram which has just been received :

" Free Press, Bombay, Free Press, Simla. Gandhiji released unconditionally at three fortyfive afternoon, looking very week. He is staying Parnakuti. Fast broken." (Applause.)

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The House stands adjourned till 11 O'clock to-morrow.

The Assembly then adjourned till Eleven of the Clock on Thursday, the 24th August, 1933.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

The Assembly met in the Assembly Chamber at Eleven of the Clock, Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) in the Chair.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

TRANSFER OF ADEN TO HIS MAJESTY'S GOVERNMENT.

49. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is there any proposal for the transfer of Aden to His Majesty's Government ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : The answer is in the affirmative. The Honourable Member has no doubt seen the Press Communiqué on the subject which was issued by the Government of India on the 20th June 1933, of which I lay a copy on the table.

Government of India Press Communiqué, dated the 20th June, 1933.

His Majesty's Government have recently received representations from different communities among the inhabitants of Aden as well as from certain quarters in India expressing their various views in regard to transfer of the administration of Aden from the control of the Government of India to His Majesty's Government. The matter is one which is now receiving the consideration of His Majesty's Government and of the Government of India in connection with impending constitutional changes. Full opportunity will be given for discussion in the Indian Legislative Chambers at their next Session and for all interests concerned to state their views. Meanwhile, His Majesty's Government think that it would be convenient that the considerations which suggest the desirability of a transfer of the administration and the conditions that would be entailed by such a transfer should be made known, so that the problem can be discussed with full knowledge of the facts. The reasons which suggest that Aden should not remain linked with India under the new constitution are that it is an area geographically remote from India ; that it would not naturally fit into the new federation ; that it is already to some extent under Imperial control and that it is inseparable in practice from the Aden Protectorate, which has already passed wholly out of Indian control. If it should be decided that the administration of Aden should be separated from that of India, His Majesty's Government contemplate that the following conditions would be established :—

(1) India would be relieved of the annual contribution of approximately £150,000 sterling or rupees twenty lakhs at present payable towards the military and Political administration.

(2) The right of appeal in judicial cases to the Bombay High Court would be maintained.

(3) His Majesty's Government would maintain the existing policy of making Aden a free port unless some radical change in the present economic situation should take place. From their own point of view abandonment of this policy would clearly, in existing economic conditions, be financially unsound since the prosperity of Aden depends largely upon its transit trade.

(4) His Majesty's Government would do their utmost to maintain the present standard of administration and would not impose any additional taxation unless such a course became in their opinion absolutely necessary.

(5) A proportion of Indian Service Administrative personnel would be retained in the Aden Service for some years after the transfer took place.

(6) No racial legislation or segregation would be permitted by His Majesty's Government.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Are Government aware of the obvious geographical fact that Aden is nearer to India than to England ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : Government are aware of that, but I think possibly it would be better to defer discussion on that point until the matter is debated on the floor of this House. An opportunity is being given for such a debate.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Are the Government of India aware that there is a very strong feeling amongst Indians against this transfer, and will this House be given an opportunity to express their views on the subject ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : I would refer the Honourable Member to the reply I have just given to Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : I could not follow the Honourable Member. Will he repeat his reply ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : An opportunity will be given for a debate on the floor of the House with regard to Aden.

ALLEGATIONS AGAINST THE MILITARY IN CALCUTTA.

50. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it a fact that on the 27th May last, about 25 Indian soldiers with a havildar, and an European officer, entered into the compound of the Shiva temple, which has been in existence for over 100 years, situated at the St. George's Gate, Hastings, Calcutta, cut down flower plants in the temple garden, and prevented the Hindus from going into the temple for worship ? Has the General Officer Commanding, Fort William, been addressed on the subject by the Hindu Sabha of Calcutta ? What are the facts of the incident, and the steps, if any, taken in the matter ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : I am informed that the facts are as follows. A small temple has existed for many years in the Ordnance Lines in question, for the use of the Hindu lascars living in the Lines. It possesses no egress to the main road and has never been open to the general public. Some time within the last seven years the priest of the temple encroached on a piece of ground measuring 139′ by 32′, which he made into a garden. The Lines themselves are being given up by the military authorities and it is intended to sell the property. Before doing so the military authorities naturally desired to regain possession of the encroachment ; and on the 27th May some sepoys under a warrant officer were directed to take possession of the ground. They were unable to do so, as objections were raised, and so they retired. No force was used and no flowers were cut.

The military authorities have never interfered with the site of the temple itself and they are prepared to hand it over to the Hindu community. They are now negotiating with the Hindu Sabha about the encroachment and it is hoped that an amicable settlement will be arrived at.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : When did this alleged encroachment by the priest of the temple take place ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : Some time during the last seven years.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Were any steps taken by the military authorities concerned in a Civil Court or otherwise to regain possession of the land which was encroached upon ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : As I said, we are trying to arrange the matter amicably without going to Court.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : My question was, before the sepoys entered into the compound and tried to take possession of the land, had any civil action been taken by the military authorities for regaining possession of the land ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : No, Sir.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Under what law did the military authorities want to take possession and enter into the land ?

An Honourable Member : Martial law !

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : The military authorities held that the ground which had been encroached upon and made into a garden did not belong to the temple and that the land belonged to them.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : My question was this. This alleged encroachment took place during five or six years and, during this period, no action was taken by the military authorities either in the Civil Court or Criminal Court. Then, under what colour of law did the military authorities try to enter into the land and take possession of it ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : I am not a lawyer, but I imagine there is a law of property under which one is entitled to take this sort of action.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Was it under the orders of the higher officers of the military—the Havildar and the European officer—that they entered ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : Yes.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Did they do any damage to the garden ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : No.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : What is the way in which they tried to take possession of the land—mere entry into the ground or what ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : Mere entry.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Did the higher officers decide that this was not a private temple but that it belonged to the Government ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : I have given their opinion.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Did the other party admit that it was a case of encroachment ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : No, Sir. I will read to you what the other party said, or rather what the other party did :

"The military party went to this particular spot on the 27th May and were met by two pandits of the temple. One of them raised a lathi above his head and threatened to strike the warrant officer if he entered the spot, and the other with a kukri threatened to cut the hands off of any one who tried to enter into any part of the garden. The warrant officer wisely withdrew the sepoys."

Mr. B. R. Puri : I take it that they did dispute the claim that they had committted any encroachment ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : Apparently.

Mr. B. R. Puri : If they did, beyond the fact that you had your own opinion that it was a case of encroachment, had you any other authority in support of your claim that it was a case of encroachment ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : Yes, Sir. There is the fact that the temple authorities have no documents of any kind to show that they have any right to the land.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Had you any documents which you could have produced earlier ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : We know that the land forms part of the Ordnance Lines which belong to the military authorities.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Was the temple-keeper asked to produce his witnesses in support of his claim and was he a party to the enquiry that was made by the military authorities ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : Will the Honourable Member kindly repeat his question ?

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : When the Government afterwards made an enquiry were the pandits at least asked to put in their claim and to produce their evidence, and were they a party to the proceedings, or was it a mere ex parte enquiry ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : No enquiry was made before this action took place, but an enquiry is now taking place and we hope to reach an amicable settlement.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Are those pandits now being asked to put in their claim ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : They have no doubt been asked to put in their claim. We are discussing the whole matter and we hope to reach an amicable settlement.

Sardar Sant Singh : Are we to understand that the military authorities made themselves the judges of the dispute between themselves and the temple authorities ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : No, Sir. The military authorities claimed the plot as part of the military land in the Ordnance Lines and, when they met with objection, they have been trying to settle the matter amicably.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : But don't you think that the proper course for them would have been to have gone to the Civil Court or Criminal Court instead of trying to take possession of the land under colour of no law ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : That is a matter of opinion.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : What is the documentary evidence in possession of the military authorities to justify their claim ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : Exactly the same as their title in the Ordnance Lines.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : What steps are Government taking to bring about an amicable settlement ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : They have got into touch with the Hindu Sabha on the subject and they are discussing the matter.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to communicate the result of that inquiry to the House ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : Certainly.

ACCIDENT TO THE 8 DOWN DELHI EXPRESS AT ASANSOL.

51. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government please state the cause of the accident to the 8 Down Delhi Express at Asansol in June, the number of casualties, and the steps taken in the matter ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : The accident referred to occurred at Gomoh on the 3rd June.

At about 12|25 hours on the 3rd June, 1933, the outgoing engine of No. 8 Down Express, while backing on to the train which was standing on the Down Main Platform line, collided with the train stock resulting in slight injuries to 17 passengers, who were travelling in the front bogies of the train.

The Sub-Assistant Surgeon of Gomoh was immediately summoned. He attended with his staff at 12|40 hours, and rendered first aid to the injured passengers, who elected to continue their journey to destination.

An enquiry was held and the conclusion arrived at was that the collision was due to a sudden attack of fainting on the part of the driver at the moment he was nearing the rake. This finding has been accepted by the Senior Government Inspector.

TREATMENT METED OUT TO MR. M. S. ANEY IN THE MIDNAPUR JAIL.

52. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Has the attention of Government been drawn to the statement made by Mr. M. S. Aney, Acting Congress President with regard to his treatment in Midnapur Jail, in the course of which he says that he was not given any concession during the period of his detention as a Division II under-trial prisoner, that he had no complaints to make against the rule to search as such, but against the method in which the search was conducted in defiance of all sense of decency, and that he was made to sit and stand forcibly when the Jail Superintendent visited the Jail ?

(b) Was any enquiry made into the allegations before the official denial was issued on the subject ? If so, who made the enquiry ; and was Mr. Aney, or any one else examined ? Are Government prepared to accept Mr. Aney's challenge that he is prepared to prove his allegations if Government gave him an opportunity ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) and (b). I have seen a Press report on the subject. Mr. Aney himself has not addressed the Government in the matter. The facts were stated in my letter to Mr. Jog after due enquiry had been made by the Local Government on the complaints brought to notice by him. No further action is proposed to be taken.

As regards the complaint that Mr. Aney was given no concession as a Division II undertrial prisoner, I may note that in the case of undertrials there are only two divisions, not three as in the case of convicts. A Division II undertrial prisoner is not entitled to any concession.

Mr. B. R. Puri : May I know, inasmuch as the word " inquiry " is frequently occurring here, what is the exact significance of the inquiry according to the lights of the Government.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am afraid I cannot enter into an elaborate definition of what is meant by an ordinary word such as inquiry.

Mr. B. R. Puri : In order to enable you to appreciate what I am driving at, would you consider it to be an inquiry at all, if the inquiry was entrusted to the head of a particular department, the subordinate of which department is alleged to have offended any rule or regulation and after recording the denial of the party in question the inquiry is completed, would the Government regard that as a satisfactory and sufficient inquiry ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I now apprehend what the point of the Honourable Member's question is and I think I may answer him by distinguishing between two forms of inquiry. One is what might be called a formal inquiry involving the taking of a number of statements, what we call a departmental inquiry or a judicial inquiry. The other is a form of inquiry with which, I think, Honourable Members must be perfectly well acquainted—to ask a person what the facts are. That is all the inquiry that was made on this occasion. The Local Government asked the Superintendent of the Jail or the District Magistrate what were the facts and he reported.

Mr. B. R. Puri : In this particular case do the Government regard that the inquiry has been sufficient and satisfactory from their point of view ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Yes.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : The Honourable Member has not replied to one part of the question. There is an allegation that the search of Mr. Aney was conducted in defiance of all sense of decency and that he was made to sit and stand forcibly when the Jail Superintendent visited the jail. May I know if Mr. Aney has himself been asked whether he alleges that he was put to this treatment or not and what is the reply to this ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. As I have already stated, Mr. Aney himself has not addressed the Government in the matter at all.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know, therefore, that the reply to this question is that he was not put to that indecent treatment ?

Th Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I do not propose to go any further into the matter. Mr. Aney has not thought fit to make a complaint to the Government, and Government do not propose to take any further steps.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Is it a fact that this incident took place ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I have made no further inquiries into the matter. It appears to me from Mr. Aney's subsequent statement that the matter was of such a trivial nature that the Superintendent did not know even what the matter complained of was.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Then, the Superintendent did not go into such a serious allegation as this ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I do not think it is a serious allegation.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Was Mr. Aney examined in the inquiry that was made ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : As I have already said, it was not a type of inquiry in which people are examined.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Mr. Aney was the person most interested in the matter and do the Government think that any inquiry could be complete or satisfactory when the party most affected in the matter was not examined ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : If, as the Honourable Member says, Mr. Aney was the person most concerned, I should again like to draw his attention to the fact that Mr. Aney has made no complaint.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know from the Honourable Member, if an ex-M.L.A. is made to sit and stand and put to that sort of treatment, if that treatment is insignificant or not a bad treatment at all ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am afraid even an ex-M.L.A. when he goes to jail must expect to submit to the ordinary jail discipline.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Is this method of making a person sit and stand when the Jail Superintendent visits the jail a matter of ordinary rule or jail discipline.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think it is certainly an ordinary rule that when a superior officer visits the jail, prisoners must stand to attention.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : When he refuses to do so, does the jail rule permit anybody to make him forcibly stand ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I should think that it will be preferable to inflicting any severe punishment upon him.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Does not that amount to an assault ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am afraid I must consult my legal advisers on that point.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Was Mr. Aney an undertrial prisoner or a convicted prisoner when this sort of treatment is alleged to have been accorded to him.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : He was an undertrial.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it in the jail rules that a prisoner should stand and sit, and if he does not do it, he should be made to do that forcibly ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Prisoners must certainly submit to jail discipline.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : An undertrial prisoner is not a person who has been convicted by a competent court of law, and under what rule can he be made to sit and stand forcibly.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am afraid he must observe the ordinary jail rules of discipline.

Mr. B. R. Puri : If the Superintendent chooses to multiply his visits, what would be fate of the poor man ? After all the Superintendent is not the National Anthem that everybody should stand to attention ? (Laughter.)

NON-GRANT OF A PASSPORT TO MR. SUBHAS CHANDRA BOSE TO VISIT ENGLAND.

53. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it a fact that Mr. Subhas Chandra Bose has not been given a passport to visit England ? Have Government sent any recommendations in this matter to the authorities in England ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : As regards the first part of the question, I would refer the Honourable Member to the reply given by me to Mr. S. C. Mitra's question No. 878 on the 23rd March. The answer to the second part is in the negative.

ALLEGATIONS AGAINST A CLERK IN THE OFFICE OF THE CONTROLLER OF RAILWAY ACCOUNTS.

54. Mr. B. N. Misra : (a) Is it a fact that there is a bogus clerk in the office of the Controller of Railway Accounts, actually working in the name of his ten years old son, as an agent of the Bombay Life Insurance Company, monopolising all the offices of the Government of India Departments for his profession and thus deliberately defying the Government Servants' Conduct Rules ?

(b) Is it a fact that in December, 1926, a report to this effect was made against that clerk to the officers by the Superintendent of his section but the matter was hushed up by the intervention of Rai Bahadur B. D. Puri, the then Deputy Director of Finance in the Railway Board, who got that clerk transferred temporarily to the Railway Board's office on 20 per cent. more pay than that which he was getting in the office of the Accountant General, Railways ?

(c) Is it a fact that after his re-transfer from the Railway Board's office the said clerk continued and still continues the insurance work ?

(d) Is it a fact that in April, 1932, Mr. I. S. Puri, the then Deputy Controller of Railway Accounts, stopped the increment of the said clerk on account of his inefficiency and passed on his increment papers very adverse remarks ?

(e) Are Government aware that soon after the transfer of Mr. I. S. Puri from the office of the Controller of Railway Accounts and on arrival of Mr. P. G. Shaw in that office, the papers containing the adverse remarks mentioned in part (d) above were destroyed by the said clerk and a fresh increment slip was prepared and sanction for the same was obtained by the mediation and help of superintendents ? If so, what steps have Government taken as to a complete inquiry into the case ?

(f) Are Government prepared to issue instructions to all the clerks of the Government of India and attached offices to desist from doing any kind of insurance work either in their own names or in the names of their relatives ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a), (b) & (c). I am informed that there is a clerk in the office of the Controller of Railway Accounts whose father and minor son jointly hold the agency in question, and that he used to assist his father outside office hours. In 1926 a report was received against him and he was warned that he should not engage in any private business without sanction. It is understood that he is now not doing any insurance work either directly or indirectly. The clerk in question was employed under the Railway Board temporarily for four months in 1926-27.

(d) & (e). The original increment slip was lost but the question whether an increment should be granted was carefully considered on its merits before it was sanctioned.

(f) The instructions contained in the Government Servants' Conduct Rules are considered to be sufficient.

QUETTA CLUB.

55. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : (a) Will Government be pleased to state if there is a " Quetta Club " existing in Quetta ?

(b) Who are eligible to be members of this club ?

(c) Is it a fact that this institution was granted a large area of land by Government free of charge for their premises ? What was the original idea of this club being established ?

(d) Does this club supply wines, provisions, oilman stores and other advantages to people other than the members of this club ?

(e) Are Government aware that their last balance sheet showed a turnover of Rs. 2,27,027 in one department (wines and stores) in six months only with a profit of Rs. 13,626-7-6 ?

(f) Are Government aware that at present this club is working in competition with those having business in the same lines in the town of Quetta ?

(g) Does this club pay income-tax to Government ?

(h) Is this club exempt from licence and excise taxes and does this club pay any rents or taxes on club grounds, etc. ?

(i) If the answers to parts (g) and (h) be in the negative, will Government be pleased to state how much loss in that direction has been suffered by Government during the last three years ?

(j) Do Government propose to stop regular business and trade that this club has been doing which affects other dealers in Quetta and impose income-tax on its profits and other rates and charges leviable from this club ? If not, why not ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : Information is being obtained from the Local Administration and will be given to the House when it is received.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Have the Government issued any interim order that the activities of the club should cease, pending the inquiry.

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : No.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Why not ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : Because I have not yet received information on the subject.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Without any further information being received, why should not an interim order be issued making the club stop these activities, or these illegalities as I would call them. There will be nothing lost if an interim order is issued to this effect.

Mr. B. R. Puri : How much time will this inquiry take ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : I hope to have an answer very shortly.

Mr. B. R. Puri : In another week or 10 days ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : In about a week.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Then no interim order need be issued.

INTRODUCTION OF ELECTIVE SYSTEM IN THE QUETTA MUNICIPALITY.

56. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : (a) Is it a fact that the Quetta municipality consists of members nominated by Government ?

(b) When was this system introduced ?

(c) Do Government propose to introduce the elective system in the Quetta municipality ? If not, will Government be pleased to state their full reasons for not doing so ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : (a) The answer is in the affirmative.

(b) In 1896 when the Quetta Municipal Law was enacted.

(c) Government are prepared to consider the matter if and when a local demand for such action is manifest.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the Honourable Member send a copy of these questions and answers to the Local Government to show that there is at least a demand from a Member here that the elective system should be introduced and, therefore, they may consider it ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : Yes, Sir.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Thank you.

PROFESSIONAL REPRESENTATION IN THE CIVIL AND CRIMINAL COURTS OF QUETTA.

57. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : (a) Are Government aware that professional representation in the civil and criminal courts of Quetta is a restricted one and that members of the Bar are being allowed to appear only with special permission in very special cases only ?

(b) Do Government propose to allow unrestricted representation by the members of the Bar on the lines prevailing in the neighbouring province of Sind ? If not, why not ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : (a) Professional representation in Civil and Criminal Courts in Quetta is not restricted. Any qualified legal practitioner may appear as such in civil and criminal cases provided he obtains authority from the Agent to the Governor General and Chief Commissioner in Baluchistan. It is not the practice to grant such authority in very special cases only. There is no Bar in Quetta but thirteen qualified legal practitioners are permanently in residence there.

(b) Government do not propose to alter the existing system which appears to meet the requirements of the public who have expressed no desire for any change.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Did the Honourable Member say that there are 30 members of the bar ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : I said 13.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : As it was a news to me, I was saying 30. According to my information, there are only two or three members of the bar. What I wish to ask is this. Is there any correspondence or move going on to the effect that British Baluchistan will become a separate province ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : No, Sir. I do not think so.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know what are the reasons for not allowing the legal practitioners without any permission to appear if they are qualified ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : Because, as I have already said, the present system appears to meet the requirements of the public, who have expressed no desire for change.

Mr. B. R. Puri : I can answer that question better : because of the Regulations which lay down the law on the subject.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the Honourable Member be pleased to consider whether the Regulation which places a bar against the members of the bar without a special authority be withdrawn ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : I shall require notice of that question.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Was sanction at all refused in any known cases during the last year or two ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : I am afraid I cannot say that. I must require notice of that question.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Would you kindly take this as a notice that an inquiry might be made as to how many applications were actually rejected ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : What sort of an enquiry ? (Laughter.)

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Has the Honourable Member suggested that Baluchistan is not going to be made a separate Governor's province ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : As far as I know, it is not ; but I shall require notice.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : You have said in reply to a supplementary question by Mr. Lalchand Navalrai that it is not going to be made a separate Governor's province.

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : I said, as far as I know, is it not. But if you press the question, I shall require notice.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Are Government aware that there is an overwhelming demand from the Muslim community that Baluchistan should be made a Governor's province ?

An Honourable Member : Who will pay for its administration ?

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : We will pay.

FACILITIES GRANTED TO PROFESSOR S. C. SEN IN COMPLETING HIS STUDIES AND TAKING A CAREER THEREAFTER.

58. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Are Government aware that Prof. S. C. Sen, M.Sc., A.F.R.Ae.S. (London), is the only Indian who has been given practical training at the workshop and air port of the Deutsche Luft Hansa (German Air Service) at Berlin and Munich, and carried on advance studies and research in the University of Munich, and has now gone to Croydon aerodrome, where necessary facilities have been granted to him by the authorities of Imperial Airways ?

(b) Have the Government of India or His Majesty's Government given this Indian any facility, financial or otherwise, in completing his studies and taking a career thereafter ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) In the correspondence which has passed between the Director of Civil Aviation and Professor S. C. Sen who has written from time to time asking for information in connection with training facilities and the possibilities of obtaining employment in Civil Aviation in India, Professor Sen has stated that he has taken practical training in the Workshops and air port of the Deutsche Luft Hansa for about one and a half years and that he intended to take further short training at the Croydon ærodrome. Government have no information whether he is the only Indian who has been trained at the Deutsche Luft Hansa.

(b) Professor Sen has not applied for any financial assistance, but he has been given all possible assistance in the matter of advice and facilities for training in æronautical engineering and allied subjects.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Are Government aware that this gentleman, Mr. Sen, studied æronautics and the modern methods of æronautical research, such as, wind tunnel experiments and X-Ray analysis of materials at the Munich University ? I have got his letter with me.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I am quite prepared to take the Honourable Member's statement as correct.

SUM TO BE TAKEN FROM INDIA AS A RESULT OF THE OTTAWA AGREEMENT.

59. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government be pleased to state if a sum of £2,880 per year is to be taken from India as a result of the Ottawa Agreement ? If so, for how many years and why ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : The Honourable Member is probably referring to the recommendation contained in paragraph 358 of the Report of the Imperial Committee on Economic Consultation and Co-operation which met in London a few months ago as a result of a resolution adopted by the Imperial Economic Conference held at Ottawa in 1932. The Committee have recommended that the several Governments of the Empire should agree to contribute annually £24,000 for a period of three years in the first instance from the 1st October, 1933, towards the financing of certain Inter-Empire Economic Organisations, one of the most important of which is the Imperial Economic Committee. The amount of India's share of contribution has been fixed at £2,880 while larger contributions have been recommended in the case of some of the Dominions and the United Kingdom. I may add for the Honourable Member's information that contributions of the several parts of the Empire have been calculated after considering the statistics of general trade, exports from each part of the Empire to other parts of the Empire, the agricultural production of each part of the Empire, and the benefits likely to be received. The Government of India have accepted the recommendation of the Committee, subject to the concurrence of the Legislature. These contributions have no bearing on the Ottawa Agreement by which presumably the Trade Agreement between the United Kingdom and India is meant.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : May I ask whether any Indians will be employed in this organisation ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I think, Sir, that very largely, it consists of organisations which are engaged with research and investigation work. I am not in a position at the present moment to say whether Indians are or are not employed, but I shall certainly make inquiries on that point.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : What will be the benefit to India as a result of this annual contribution ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I think we have, as a matter of fact, been contributing for some time to this organisation and, as far as I remember, a great deal of benefit has accrued to India from research work connected with mycology, agriculture and things of that description which are common to many parts of the Empire. But, as I have said, any new expenditure connected with this proposal must, as a matter of fact, come before the Standing Finance Committee which will have to be fully satisfied.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : May I ask if there are Indians in this organisation on the executive body ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : As I have promised my friend, Mr. Joshi, I shall make inquiries.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : I do not mean the employees. I want to know if there are any Indians on the executive body of the organisation, such as, the High Commissioner ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I think the High Commissioner is there.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Is there anybody else ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I really cannot give my Honourable friend any precise information, but I shall make inquiries.

RETENTION OF THE POST OF THE EDUCATIONAL COMMISSIONER WITH THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

60. *Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Will Government be pleased to state if it is proposed to retain the post of the Educational Commissioner with the Government of India ?

(b) If so, on what pay ?

(c) What was the recommendation of the Retrenchment Committee in this connection, and what is the name of the present incumbent ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : (a) Yes.

(b) For the present, on a salary of Rs. 1,250—50—1,500 and a special pay of Rs. 250 per mensem, subject to a total pay of Rs. 1,500, besides overseas pay, if the officer is of non-Asiatic domicile and entitled to such pay. In view, however, of the desirability of reviving the Central Advisory Board and Bureau of Education as soon as possible, it has been decided to appoint to this post, in the near future, a retired educational officer of wide experience on a salary of Rs. 2,250 per mensem plus his pension.

(c) The Retrenchment Committee recommended that the salary of the post should be subject to a maximum of Rs. 1,500 per mensem. The present incumbent of the post is Mr. Leitch Wilson.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : What was Mr. Leitch Wilson before his present appointment ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : He is an Inspector of Schools in the Punjab and he is merely holding the post temporarily until the beginning of October.

ALLEGATIONS AGAINST CERTAIN SERGEANTS DURING THE CONGRESS SESSION IN CALCUTTA.

61. *Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Has the attention of the Government of India been drawn to a report published in the Amrita Bazar Patrika, dated the 10th June, 1933 (page 8) from Pt. Hargovind Misra of Patna, in which he says that he as well as the delegates who were holding the Indian National Congress at the Esplanade tram-shed were " violently attacked by the sergeants wielding batons with all their might, supplemented by kicks and blows ? ", that Pt. Binodanand Jha of Behar " was assaulted by kicks and batons " and the writer of the report was operated upon as an indoor patient in the Medical Hospital Bed No. 91, in the Eye Ward ?

(b) Were any of the persons mentioned in the report examined in course of any enquiry ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) Government have seen the report that Pandit Hargovind Misra was injured, but the injury was not as serious as the report would suggest. He received a lacerated injury on the lower lid of the left eye which necessitated stitching. No other operation was required. The eye-ball was in no way injured and no piece of glass entered it.

(b) Neither Pandit Hargovind Misra nor Pandit Binodanand Jha made any complaints to the authorities in Calcutta. Neither of them were examined in the course of the official enquiry. I would point out that Pandit Hargovind Misra's statement was only published in the papers on the 9th June.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Was any inquiry made in the medical hospital regarding the incident reported by Pandit Binodanand Jha ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I do not know what incident was said to have been reported by Pandit Binodanand Jha.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : The incident reported was that he was very severely assaulted in the eye and that he was injured and that he was operated upon as an indoor patient in the Medical Hospital Bed No. 91, in the Eye Ward ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think the Honourable Member must be referring to Pandit Hargovind Misra.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : I am referring to part (a) of my question. Yes, it is a report from Pandit Hargovind Misra. My question was whether any enquiry was made in the Medical Hospital to find out whether this portion of the report is correct or not ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. The function of the medical hospital is to attend to the injuries of the patients.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : And not to report whether a particular patient was attended to in the hospital or not ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Oh ! Yes ; there is the medical report certainly.

Sardar Sant Singh : Is it not part of the duty of the medical officer of a public hospital to report the matter to the police if such a case comes to them ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I have not heard that. It is a new doctrine to me.

Sardar Sant Singh : It is not a new doctrine. It is a well recognised practice in the Punjab, and if a doctor does not do it, he is punished for it.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : The same practice prevails in Bengal ; in the case of cognizable offences, the medical authorities have to report to the police.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : How is a medical officer to know whether it is a cognizable offence or not ?

Mr. S. C. Mitra : When the assault is very severe, or, in other cases, like poisoning, it is the duty of the medical officer to inform the police.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I have already explained that this was not a very serious injury.

TROUBLES OF THE HINDUS OF THE ALWAR STATE.

62. *Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Have Government received any representation from or on behalf of the Hindus of Alwar regarding their troubles ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : Yes.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : What steps have the Government taken with regard to the representation ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : I want notice of the question.

Kunwar Hajee Ismail Ali Khan : What was the nature of the representation from Alwar ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : I cannot discuss the question without notice.

Kunwar Hajee Ismail Ali Khan : Will the Honourable Member lay a copy of the representation on the table of the House ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : I require notice.

Captain Sher Muhammad Khan Gakhar : Can we discuss State matters in the House ?

INSULTING TREATMENT METED OUT TO DECK PASSENGERS AT THE TIME OF THEIR VACCINATION AT RANGOON.

63. *Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Are Government aware that the deck passengers travelling by the British India Steam Navigation Company steamers from Calcutta to Rangoon are generally subjected to rough and insulting treatment at the time of their vaccination at Rangoon before disembarkation, and that I myself witnessed such a treatment meted out to them on the morning of the 28th April last when the S. S. Egra reached Rangoon ? Do Government propose to take any steps in the matter ?

(b) Is vaccination compulsory or optional ? If compulsory, why ? Why are not the deck passengers coming from Burma to India vaccinated on their arrival in Calcutta ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : (a) The answer to the first part is in the negative. The Government of Burma have made an enquiry into the particular instance referred to by the Honourable Member and have reported that the passengers were not subjected to treatment which was either exceptional or exceptionable.

(b) Under the Burma Vaccination Law Amendment Act, 1909, as amended by Burma Act IV of 1928, all persons arriving in Burma are liable to be vaccinated if they cannot produce evidence that they are already sufficiently protected against small-pox. This measure is regarded as essential in the interests of public health in Burma, as some of the emigrants may have come from districts infected with small-pox Vaccination of deck passengers coming from Burma to Calcutta is not compulsory under the regulations issued by the Local Government, presumably because the risk of the import of small-pox infection is small.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Why does the Honourable Member accept the result of the enquiry held by the Burma Government in preference to the result of the enquiry held by my Honourable friend, Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : I am not in possession of the result of the enquiry held by Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : That is what the question refers to.

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : The question does not state that.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : The question says " I myself witnessed ".

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : It is perfectly true. If my Honourable friend very meticulously studied part (a) of the question, he will see that all that the questioner says is in general terms of rough and insulting treatment. That is the statement of the Honourable Member which I communicated to the Government of Burma and they say they have made enquiries and came to the conclusion that no rough and insulting treatment was meted out to them. Unless I am in possession of particulars which came to the notice of my Honourable friend, I am not able to controvert what the Burma Government have said.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Are Government aware that I received the following telegram from Mr. Ratilal Desai, Secretary, Citizens Public Meeting, Rangoon :

" Crowded Rangoon Citizens public meeting, Presidentship Dr. Dugal. The Corporation President convened 13th August under auspices Burma Provincial Hindu Sabha, Burma Indian Association 17 others for considering steamer passengers' grievances strongly supports your contention regarding overcrowding vaccination hardships other grievances."

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : My Honourable friend's first question was whether I was aware that he had received that telegram. As divination is not one of the attributes of Government, I must answer that part of the question in the negative. As regards the telegram itself, if the Honourable Member will be so good as to communicate a copy of it to me, I shall see whether any action is necessary.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Are Government aware that in the course of a public meeting of the citizens of Rangoon which was held on 13th August, at the Arya Samaj Hall under the presidency of Dr. R. S. Dugal, a number of resolutions were passed, one of which runs as follows :

" This public meeting begs to bring to the notice of the authorities concerned the scandalous overcrowding in the boats between Rangoon and India and the way in which passengers are huddled together without much regard for privacy and in a most humiliating way. This public meeting urges on Government to take immediate steps in the matter."

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : Well, Sir, I must repeat what I said in answer to the previous supplementary question. Unless the Honourable Member communicates to me the text of these resolutions, it is impossible for Government to be aware of those resolutions. If the Honourable Member will communicate a copy of these resolutions, as I have already promised, we shall see what action can be taken. But I should like to take this opportunity to say that what is referred to in the question is primarily overcrowding which is neither insulting nor rough.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Sir, on a point of order. As the veracity of an Honourable Member of this House has practically been questioned, will you direct my Honourable friend, the questioner, to make a statement in support of the question which he has asked ?

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : It is always well understood that when an Honourable Member of this House makes a statement, he makes himself responsible for the accuracy of that statement. The Chair does not think there is any question of the veracity of any Honourable Member here being doubted. The Honourable Member, Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh, brings to the notice of Government certain incidents which he witnessed from which he wants the Government to draw an inference that the passengers were given insulting treatment. On that the Burma Government have made an inquiry and the Honourable Member for Government says that no insulting treatment was meted out to the passengers. There is no question of doubting the veracity of any Honourable Member in those circumstances.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : I wish to point out that what my Honourable friend, Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh, states is that he witnessed certain definite kinds of treatment which appeared to him to be very rough and insulting, and unless he is permitted to make a statement before this House as to what he actually witnessed, it will be very difficult for this House to judge whether the Burma Government are to be believed in preference to my Honourable friend.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : On a point of order I should like to ask a question. When an answer is given to a question asserting certain things, are we debarred from putting supplementary questions in order to sift it and satisfy ourselves ?

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Chair does not see how the point of order arises. Does the Honourable Member, Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh, want to make a statement on this ?

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : My statement is based on certain incidents which I myself witnessed while I was on board the steamer on the particular dates mentioned in the question, and my statement is borne out by the resolutions which I have received on this subject and which I am going to put in the form of supplementary questions in support of my statement. My question was based on my own observations.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Honourable Member is quite entitled to ask supplementary questions provided they arise out of the main question. For that there is no ruling required. But the Chair understood Mr. Neogy to raise the point whether Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh would be allowed to make a statement in support of the allegation that he makes in this question, and the Chair is asking the Honourable Member whether he wants the permission of the Chair to make any such statement.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : I am making my statement in the form of supplementary questions and call upon Government to deny it. Are Government aware that deck passengers at the time of vaccination are treated more as suspects and criminals than as bonâ fide deck passengers ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : No, Sir, Government are not aware of that. And if I may say with reference to what fell from my Honourable friend, Mr. Neogy, a little while ago, it is not the intention of Government or the individual who is speaking on behalf of Government at the present moment to doubt the veracity of what my Honourable friend said. I merely stated that there was a general statement and a general complaint in this. We referred it to the Government of Burma and they said that in fact such a thing did not take place. It is open to the Honourable Member, and I have made the offer to him, to communicate to me the particulars, which he considers, cover this particular statement. It is not necessary, if I may submit to the House, that those statements should be made here as I have undertaken to receive those statements and examine them.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Before those particulars are communicated, I take it that you must be informed as to what actually happened there. Therefore, I should like to know what were the facts from which those conclusions arose which have been put down and incorporated in the question.

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : If the House wishes to have those particulars read out, and you permit that, Sir, I have no objection.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : In allowing Honourable Members to ask supplementary questions, the Chair must take into consideration the utility of the supplementary questions and the answers given at a particular stage. The Chair thinks that in order that the House may judge whether there is anything in the allegation made by Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh, he ought first to communicate to Government the facts which led him to come to this conclusion and the Honourable Member representing the Government has undertaken to make inquiries if those facts are given to him. So the Chair thinks the proper thing for the Honourable Member to do just now will be to communicate to Government the facts on which he based these conclusions and to put down questions later on after Government have had time to make inquiries. Otherwise if the Honourable Member were to give a catalogue of the incidents, the Government Member's reply would be that if that is communicated to him he will make inquiries ; and the time of the House will be wasted.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : In view of the fact that with regard to one incident, vaccination, exception has been taken by my Honourable friend and a doubt has been cast on the statement which I made, I may be permitted to ask just one supplementary question on it. Are Government aware that in the public meeting to which reference has been made another resolution, which was passed with regard to vaccination, runs as follows and a copy of which I will communicate to the Honourable Member later on :

"This meeting, while appreciating the principle underlying the Vaccination Act of 1927, brings to the notice of the Government the hardships deck passengers have to undergo in the matter of vaccination immediately on their landing on the wharf and requests that measures be taken to so operate the provisions of the Vaccination Act as would remove the existing hardships and grievances of the passengers and, to achieve this, instruct the Port Health authorities to provide facilities and conveniences which would mitigate the hardships."

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : I have already said that Government have not received a copy of these resolutions from any source.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : May I know who made that inquiry to which reference has been made in the course of the answer ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : The inquiry was made by the Government of Burma from the Assistant Port Health Officer.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : What kind of inquiry ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : There has already been a sufficient disquisition on the various kinds of inquiry that can be made.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Are Government aware that I questioned the doctor who was in charge of vaccination at the time on the wharf with regard to the way in which passengers were compulsorily made to stand and go about from place to place and roughly handled by some of the peons of the doctor ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : No, Sir ; I am not aware of that fact.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Then why do you deny it ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : I have denied nothing and I have affirmed nothing. I only communicated to the Honourable Member the report which I have received from the Government of Burma.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Order, order. The Chair would suggest for the convenience of the House that in future when Honourable Members put down questions relating to incidents which they have themselves witnessed, they would do well, both for their own convenience and for the convenience of this House, that they should, along with the question, send up to Government a full statement of the facts to which the question relates.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : I may explain my position and say that I received these papers from Rangoon only recently.

PRESENT POLITICAL AND ADMINISTRATIVE POSITION OF GILGIT.

64. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : What is the present political and administrative position of Gilgit, and what is the amount of money, if any, which is at present spent over it annually by the Government of India ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : Gilgit proper is a part of the Kashmir State by which it is administered. The Government of India maintain a Political Agent in the Gilgit Agency and also contribute towards the cost of Kashmir State troops stationed in the Agency. The expenditure incurred by the Government of India is being ascertained and will be communicated to the Honourable Member in due course.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : May I request that instead of communicating to me individually, a copy of the paper may be laid on the table ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : Certainly, Sir.

EXPENDITURE ON THE CHAMBER OF PRINCES FROM THE INDIAN REVENUES.

65. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government be pleased to state if the institution of the Chamber of Princes entails any expenditure to Indian revenues ? If so, how much approximately per year ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : The answer is in the affirmative and the figure is about Rs. 10,200 a year on an average.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Are printed copies of the debates which take place in the Chamber of Princes available ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : I want notice of that question.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Since India is made to contribute annually to this institution of the Chamber of Princes, will Government kindly take into consideration that printed copies of these proceedings should be made available to the Members of this House as representing the taxpayers of India ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : I shall be glad to convey the Honourable Member's suggestion to the Department concerned.

Mr. B. R. Puri : Have Government absolutely no information as to what the Princes do inside the Chamber ? When we pay for it, are we not entitled to know something ?

NOMINATION OF THE MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY TO THE JOINT PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE.

66. Sardar Sant Singh : (a) Will Government be pleased to state if it is a fact that Members of the Legislative Assembly nominated to the Joint Select Committee of Parliament made applications for being so nominated ? If so, when were such applications invited ?

(b) If the answer to part (a) be in the negative, is it a fact that representations either oral or in writing were made by the candidates for such nomination putting forward their claims ? If so, will Government be pleased to state what was the nature of such representation by each candidate ?

(c) Were there any cases where such representations were rejected ? If so, in whose case ?

(d) Is it a fact that Government received letters of thanks from any or all of the nominees for having been so nominated ? In case Government as such received no letter of thanks, is it a fact that any Honourable Member of the Government of India received such letter or letters ? If so, will Government be pleased to lay a copy of those letters on the table of the House ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : With your permission, Sir, I propose to reply to questions Nos. 66 and 67 together.

It is possible that the Honourable Member is under a misapprehension regarding the procedure followed in the nomination of Indian representatives to sit with the Joint Select Committee. Power was given to the Committee by the Resolution appointing it to call into consultation representatives of the Indian States and of British India. The choice of such representatives was for the Committee itself alone. As stated by the Secretary of State in the House of Commons on the 7th March, 1933, he had some informal correspondence with His Excellency the Viceroy on the subject of the selection of delegates but no commitments were made which might embarrass the liberty of action of the Committee. There was no question of applications being invited or received or in any way dealt with by the Government of India.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to say what was the difficulty in sending elected representatives of this House to the Joint Parliamentary Committee and to the Statutory Railway Board and Reserve Bank Committees ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : As regards the representatives sent to the Joint Parliamentary Committee, my friend should address his question to the Joint Parliamentary Committee and not to me.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Is it not a fact that the persons selected were informed by Government or by responsible officers of Government about the fact of their having been selected long before the Joint Parliamentary Committee ever met and had an opportunity of formally considering these selections : and is it not also a fact that accommodation had actually been secured for these members in the P. & O. boats by Government in anticipation of their voyage to England ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : My Honourable friend will realise that I am not in a position, since I did not deal directly with this matter, to give him a definite reply, and I shall, therefore, have to ask for notice of that question.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : You will have it.

Sardar Sant Singh : May I request the Honourable Member to explain whether the names of the persons who were subsequently sent to the Joint Select Committee did not originate from the Government of India ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I have dealt with that question in my answer. My answer was that there was no question of applications being invited or received or in any way dealt with by the Government of India.

Sardar Sant Singh : How did the Government of India decide whom to recommend as members of the Joint Parliamentary Committee ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I have explained to the Honourable Member that the Government of India made no recommendations whatsoever.

Sardar Sant Singh : Am I to understand then that the members of the Joint Parliamentary Committee knew the names of all the members of the Indian Legislature who were subsequently sent there ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : May I ask the Honourable Member to listen to my answer ? I said that there was undoubtedly informal correspondence between the Secretary of State and His Excellency the Viceroy.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Do I take it that the Honourable Member denies having ever had any share in the selection, formal or otherwise, of these members personally ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I certainly have had no direct voice in the selection of these members.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : I did not mean direct voice : did the Honourable Member have any hand at all in the selection or in the determination of the choice of the representatives ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I cannot claim that I had.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Is it a fact that this House has not been given a chance to send its representatives to attend the Statutory Railway Board Committee ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : That is dealt with in the next question.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Was the Honourable Member ever approached by any individual non-official Member of this House for the purpose of securing his good offices in regard to this matter ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : Does the Honourable Member refer to me personally ? If so, to the best of my recollection.....

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : No question can be addressed to a Member of the Government except in his capacity as Member of the Government.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Exactly : as a Member of the Government, not as Sir Joseph Bhore.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : To the best of my recollection, no.

Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal : What about the letters of thanks ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I said we have received no letter of thanks.

Sardar Sant Singh : With reference to question No. 67, I want to know whether the facts mentioned in the question, that the full text of the speech of a particular Member was cabled to the Secretary of State and then the Secretary of State changed his view and accepted his nomination, are correct ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I certainly have no information on that point whatsoever.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : With reference to the statement made by my Honourable friend that there was some informal consultation between the Secretary of State and the Viceroy in this matter, may I know if there was any informal consultation between the Viceroy on the one hand and my Honourable friend on the other ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : That, Sir, I am not in a position to say anything about.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : You are not in a position to deny either ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I am not in a position to disclose any matters regarding the Executive Council.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : May I know if the selection of delegates took place soon after the Ottawa betrayal agreement was discussed in this House ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : My Honourable friend is aware of the dates concerned.

NOMINATION OF THE MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY TO THE JOINT PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE.

†67. Sardar Sant Singh : Is it a fact that certain recommendations for nomination by the Government of India to the Joint Select Committee of Parliament were turned down by the Secretary of State on the ground that the person nominated was not considered 'safe' ? Is it also a fact that the Government of India cabled the full text of the speech of the so-called 'unsafe' nominee to explain or to convince the Secretary of State that the gentleman nominated was quite 'safe' and that it was only then that the recommendation of the Government of India was accepted ?

†For answer to this question, see answer to question No. 66.

QUALIFICATIONS OF MEMBERS NOMINATED TO THE RESERVE BANK AND STATUTORY RAILWAY BOARD COMMITTEES.

68. *Sardar Sant Singh : Will Government be pleased to state the academic as well as commercial qualifications of those Honourable Members who are nominated to the Committee of the Reserve Bank and to the Committee of the Statutory Railway Board ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : The Honourable Member is under a misapprehension in speaking of a committee of the Reserve Bank or a committee of the Statutory Railway Board. No committee was formed to deal with either subject. As announced in a communiqué of the 25th April last His Majesty's Government invited certain Members of the Indian Legislature to attend discussions in London on the Reserve Bank and Statutory Railway Board preliminary to formulating precise proposals under each head. The essential qualification of those invited was that they should be Members of the Indian Legislature. It appears to have been the intention of His Majesty's Government to take Members representative of the more important Parties and Groups in the Legislature.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Is it a fact that they attended the meeting in their private capacity or as representatives of the Assembly ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I do not know that I can describe their attendance as being in their private capacity : they were asked and invited to go because they happened to be Members of the Assembly.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Do Government take them as representatives of this House ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : Does my Honourable friend mean to cast doubt upon the representative character of the elected Members who sit in this House ?

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : I said " representatives of this House ", not representatives of the people of India : no doubt they are representatives of the people of India ; but I want to know whether they attended the meeting in their capacity as representatives of this House and whether they were invited as such.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I have made it quite clear that they were invited as being Members of the Indian Legislature.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : What was the trouble in giving a chance to the Assembly to elect their representatives to attend these meetings ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I do not think in cases like these election is the best way of securing the best representation of all important interests in the House.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : In so far as the question of the Statutory Railway Authority relates to the Department of which my Honourable friend is in charge, will he state whether he had any voice, or whether he was consulted at any stage by anybody either here or in England, with regard to the choice of these members ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I must refuse to give any reply to such questions, because any reply that I might give would be disclosing information which I am not in a position to disclose to the House or to anybody else.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Were the Government of India as a whole consulted in regard to this matter ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I must ask for notice of that question.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Might I know from the Honourable Member if the respective parties in the House were consulted with regard to the nomination of the members who are considered representative ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : To the best of my recollection, the majority of those invited sit on the front benches of this House, and I think that that is a sufficient justification for the invitation extended to them.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Is it also a fact that some of them consistently vote with the Government ?

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Are Government aware that whatever decisions these gentlemen will arrive at will not be binding as representing the voice either of this House or of the country outside ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I am quite aware of that, Sir.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know if those Members who sit on the front benches are considered sufficiently representative even to be sent to Committees, and not the other Members ?

12 NOON.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : My friend is asking me to pronounce between the respective merits of different individuals in this House. My reply to him must be of that of the examinee at the theological examination who, being asked to give a list of the major and the minor prophets, replied " far be it from me to decide between these holy men ".

Mr. S. C. Mitra : May I know when did the Government of India come to the decision that the elective system has ceased to secure proper representation in this House ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I assume that when parties in this House elect from among themselves individuals to sit on the front benches, Government may take that as the best indication of the trust and confidence which the parties have in the individuals concerned.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Every Member who was selected was not a front bencher ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I said, Sir, the majority.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : What about the minority ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : If my friend is referring to minorities, I will say that Mr. Joshi who, at any rate in Delhi, does not sit exactly on the front bench was also invited. He represents a minority interest.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : You said the majority of the Members who sit on the front benches were selected ; but what about those who do not sit on the front benches and yet they were selected ? Was it for voting with the Government ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I did not select them.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Who was responsible for their selection ? Why did you select those who do not sit on the front benches ? What was the criterion by which you made the selection of such people ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : My friend must address that to the authority who was responsible for their actual selection.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know from the Honourable Member if he said that all those who were selected were sitting on the front benches ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I thought I said the majority of those who were invited occupied seats on the front benches.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Why was the minority taken from the back benches ?

Mr. Amar Nath Dutt : Is it a fact that there is a warrant of precedence among the Members sitting on this side ? Have the Government framed any warrant of precedence for the Members of this House ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : They have no warrant of precedence, but I think that leaders of parties are always accorded some preferential treatment in consultation on matters of public interest.

Mr. B. R. Puri : May I know why this extraordinary solicitude was shown to this Legislature on this particular occasion ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : Does my friend object to the solicitude shown to it ?

Mr. B. R. Puri : I object, because on more important matters the position of this Legislature had not been recognised, and, therefore, I want to know why this special recognition was shown on this occasion with regard to this particular subject ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I shall certainly bear my friend's point of view in mind in future.

STATEMENT OF BUSINESS.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore (Leader of the House) : With your permission, Sir, I desire to make a statement as to the probable course of Government business for the week beginning Monday, the 28th August. You have already directed that in that week the House shall sit for Government business on the 28th and 30th August, and the 1st September.

On Monday, two motions will be moved for the election of members to the Committees attached to the Department of Commerce and the Department of Industries and Labour.

Thereafter, leave will be asked to introduce the following Bills :

(1) A Bill to protect the Administrations of States in India which are under the suzerainty of His Majesty from activities which tend to subvert, or to excite disaffection towards, or to interfere with such Administrations, and

(2) A Bill further to amend the Cotton Textile Industry (Protection) Act, 1930.

Thereafter, Government will give time for Mr. S. C. Mitra's motion for leave to amend Standing Order 17 of the Legislative Assembly Standing Orders.

On the conclusion of the above business, the following legislative programme will be brought forward.

The business unfinished on yesterday's list will be taken up in the order shown on the combined agenda for the 22nd and 23rd instant.

A motion will then be made to circulate the Indian Petroleum Bill for eliciting opinion. Thereafter, a motion will be moved for referring the Indian Income-tax (Third Amendment) Bill to a Select Committee. These two Bills were introduced on Tuesday last.

This business will be followed by motions to take into consideration and pass :

(1) The Indian Wireless Telegraphy Bill, as reported by the Select Committee,

(2) The Land Acquisition (Amendment) Bill, as reported by the Select Committee, and

(3) The Murshidabad Estate Administration Bill.

STATEMENTS LAID ON THE TABLE.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore (Member for Commerce and Railways) : Sir, I lay on the table :

(i) the information promised in reply to starred question No. 941 asked by Mr. N. M. Joshi on the 27th March, 1933 ; and also (ii) the information promised in reply to part (b) of starred question No. 987 asked by Mr. Nabakumar Sing Dudhoria on the 28th March, 1933.

NON-MAINTENANCE OF THE RECORD OF POOR BOX COLLECTIONS MADE ON VARIOUS SHIPS BY THE SHIPPING OFFICE, BOMBAY.

*941. (a) A regular record is maintained, but it is not practicable to record the individual collections of each ship. The collections are placed in the safe and locked in a cash box in the presence of a gazetted officer. The amounts when large enough are counted in the presence of the Shipping Master and paid into the Imperial Bank of India.

(b) The present Shipping Master recently made an enquiry into the system in force in regard to the crediting of poor box collection.

(c) The Assistant Shipping Master and the Cashier have been responsible for the work.

(d) No. The procedure is as stated in the reply to part (a) of this question.

(e) The Shipping Master has decided to stop temporarily all poor box collections as the interest on the amount standing to the credit of the Distressed Seamen's Fund is now sufficient to meet the expenditure in connection with the relief of distressed seamen. Government do not consider that any further action is necessary at present.

ABOLITION OF THE APPOINTMENTS OF THE DEPUTY AND ASSISTANT SHIPPING MASTERS IN CALCUTTA.

*987. (b) (i) The duty of the Superintendent, Continuous Discharge Certificate Department, was to superintend the work of that Department under the supervision of the Assistant or Deputy Shipping Master. The present Assistant Shipping Master holds charge of the Branch Shipping Office and, apart from his administrative functions, his duties are to issue Continuous Discharge Certificates of all types, to investigate cases of fraud in connexion with these documents, and to impose penalties or prosecute offenders. He also acts for the next senior official when occasion arises.

(ii) The average daily number of new, duplicate and higher issue continuous discharge certificates issued during 1922-23, when the post of Superintendent existed, was 40. Since the creation of the post of Assistant Shipping Master, the average has been 26.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce (Member for Industries and Labour) : Sir, I lay on the table—

(i) the information promised in reply to starred question No. 315 asked by Mr. Muhammad Muazzam Sahib Bahadur on the 9th February, 1933 ;

(ii) the information promised in reply to starred question No. 746 asked by Mr. Rameshwar Prasad Bagla on the 13th March, 1933 ; and

(iii) the information promised in reply to starred question No. 1017 asked by Mr. Muhammad Anwar-ul-Azim on the 28th March, 1933.

REMOVAL OF THE SORTING OFFICE TO THE MADRAS GENERAL POST OFFICE BUILDING.

*315. (a) Government have seen the article.

(b) Yes, the transfer of the sorting department to the same building as the other departments of the General Post Office is expected to be conducive both to substantial economies and increased efficiency.

(c) Presumably the Honourable Member wished to know the floor space available for each branch of the sorting department. This is as follows :

	Sq. ft.
Parcel branch	1,625
Registered letter, Registered packet and ordinary letter branches	2,911

(d) 151. According to departmental standards a floor area of 5,840 sq. ft. is justified.

(e) Yes, it is short by 1,300 sq. ft. in the aggregate.

(f) The building was constructed by the Madras and Southern Mahratta Railway for the Posts and Telegraphs Department. A monthly rent of Rs. 384-15-1 is paid to the Railway.

(g) Yes, for an additional rent of Rs. 295 a month.

(h) Yes.

(i) There is no lease.

(j) Yes.

(k) Yes, but possibly by a re-distribution of departments it may be located on the first floor.

(l) 12 ft.

(m) 32 ft. by 50 ft.

(n) No.

(o) The description of the location of the hall it is proposed to use and the condition in which work is conducted in the surrounding departments as stated by the Honourable Member is not accurate. Artificial light is necessary for certain periods of the day only. Fans are installed throughout the building.

(p) Yes.

(q) No. The staff of the Postal Stock Depot was considerable and in the adjoining portion other departments have worked for years without ill effects.

(r) No structural alterations are contemplated.

(s) and (t). The ground floor is not a basement. The Executive Engineer, North Presidency Division, and the Architect to the Government of Madras who were consulted are of opinion that the changes which it is proposed to make are quite feasible.

(u) Government do not consider this necessary.

(v) No apprehensions of such results are felt.

(w) There is no reason whatever for imputing this policy to Government.

(x) Yes. Government see no reason to forbid an examination of the proposal.

RETRENCHMENT IN THE AMRITSAR HEAD POST OFFICE.

*746. (a) The fact is that three Hindus and two Muslims were retrenched out of 26 Hindus, 43 Muslims and six Sikhs in the cadre of postmen and the communal ratio existing before the retrenchment was thereby slightly disturbed.

(b) Yes.

(c) One Hindu was retrenched in excess of the communal ratio through a misunderstanding of the orders on the subject. The Retrenchment Board was formed of officers holding certain specified posts and not on a strictly communal basis.

(d) The Postmaster-General has since ordered the reinstatement of the Hindu retrenched in excess of the communal ratio. Government do not propose to order the constitution of Retrenchment Boards on a communal basis.

GRIEVANCES OF THE MUSLIM STAFF OF THE QUETTA HEAD POST OFFICE.

*1017. (a) No. The request for an interview came explicitly from the Muslim Union in a letter from that body, dated the 14th September 1932.

(b) No. Though unable to comply with the request in the letter just referred to the Director gave interviews freely to individual Muslim members of the staff.

(c) and (d). Do not arise.

The Honourable Mr. A. H. Lloyd (Finance Member) : Sir, I lay on the table—

(i) the information promised in reply to starred questions Nos. 968 to 973 asked by Khan Bahadur H. M. Wilayatullah on the 28th March, 1933 ; and (ii) the information promised in reply to starred question No. 1204 asked by Maulvi Sayyid Murtuza Saheb Bahadur on the 10th April, 1933.

CONSTITUTION OF THE OFFICE OF THE ACCOUNTANT-GENERAL, POSTS AND TELEGRAPHS.

*968. (a) The existing constitution is shown below :—

(i) Accountant-General	1
(ii) Assistant Accounts Officer	1
(iii) Accountants	6
(iv) Upper Division Clerks	44
(v) Stenographer	1
(vi) Typists	3

(b) Yes.

STRENGTH OF THE NON-GAZETTED STAFF IN THE OFFICE OF THE ACCOUNTANT-GENERAL, POSTS AND TELEGRAPHS.

*969. No precise formula has been or can be devised for determining the non-gazetted strength of the office for the reasons given in the reply to (c) of the previous question. The staff is calculated on the estimated amount of the different kinds of work to be done based on past statistics as in the case of other administrative and Secretariat offices of Government.

ABOLITION OF THE OFFICE OF THE ACCOUNTANT-GENERAL, POSTS AND TELEGRAPHS.

*970. (a) It is not within the knowledge of Government that any officer of the Indian Audit and Accounts Service has made this statement. The office is a very necessary one.

(b) Government consider that the abolition of the office of the Accountant-General, Posts and Telegraphs, is wholly impracticable.

ACCOUNTANTS IN THE POSTS AND TELEGRAPHS ACCOUNT AND AUDIT OFFICES.

*971. The question of the localisation of the Accountants' cadre is still under the consideration of Government. No specific provision is necessary for adequate representation of minority communities. The general orders of the Government of India on the subject, which are followed by all offices of accounts and audit, are applicable also to the Posts and Telegraphs Audit Offices.

REPRESENTATION OF MINORITY COMMUNITIES IN THE OFFICES OF THE ACCOUNTANT-GENERAL, POSTS AND TELEGRAPHS.

*972. (a) The orders mentioned are those of the Government of India.

(b) The questions do not arise in this connection because the orders quoted by the Honourable Member do not apply to departmental promotions : they apply only to initial recruitment and there was no fresh recruitment in 1932 either for substantive or officiating vacancies.

APPOINTMENT OF THE ASSISTANT IN CHARGE OF THE ADMINISTRATION BRANCH IN THE OFFICE OF THE DEPUTY ACCOUNTANT-GENERAL, POSTS AND TELEGRAPHS, DELHI.

*973. The appointment of Superintendent, Record, is made by the Deputy Accountant-General, Posts and Telegraphs, Delhi, who selects a suitable member of the Upper Division cadre, with due regard to his experience, length of service, and aptitude for administrative work.

POST OF THE PERSONAL ASSISTANT TO THE ACCOUNTANT-GENERAL, POSTS AND TELEGRAPHS.

*1204. (a) No.

(b) Does not arise.

Mr. G. S. Bajpai (Secretary, Department of Education, Health and Lands) : Sir, I lay on the table—

(i) the information promised in reply to a supplementary question to starred question No. 509 asked by Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad on the 25th February, 1933 ; and (ii) the information promised in reply to unstarred question No. 170 asked by Mr. Goswami M. R. Puri on the 1st April, 1933.

CIVIL HOSPITAL, DELHI.

*509. Under the rules at present in force the following inclusive charges are levied from paying patients in the Civil Hospital, Delhi :—

For a large room	Rs. 2 per day.
For a small room	Re. 1 per day.

ENHANCEMENT OF WATER TAX IN THE TIMARPUR QUARTERS, DELHI.

170. There are four types of quarters at Timarpur, B, C, D and E. B type quarters are metered. No representation has been received from the occupiers of the C and D type quarters for reduction in water charges. The occupiers of E type quarters have made a representation which is at present under the consideration of the Notified Area Committee. No representation has been made to the Chief Commissioner. The discontent has apparently arisen from the fact that in New Delhi the tax charged on an E type quarter is Rs. 1-8-0 per mensem against Rs. 2-8-0 charged in Timarpur. Previous to January, 1933, the Public Works Department charged water rate at Rs. 1-8-0 per mensem irrespective of pay, type of quarter and area. The Notified Area Committee, who have now taken over the collection of water rate charges, have increased the charge to Rs. 2-8-0 per mensem. This rate has been fixed after taking into consideration the average cost of water consumed in such quarters.

It is not true to say that in the New Delhi Municipality only one rupee per tap per mensem is charged for a continuous daily supply of 24 hours.

Mr. P. R. Rau (Financial Commissioner, Railways) : Sir, I lay on the table the information promised in reply to starred question No. 1092 asked by Mr. Uppi Sahib Bahadur on the 1st April, 1933.

...ery ... placed by the Great Indian Peninsula Railway on the In... 16th February, 1933.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Order, order. The House will now resume consideration of the following motion moved by Mr. C. S. Ranga Iyer on the 24th March, 1933 :

"That the Bill to remove the disabilities of the so-called depressed classes in regard to entry into Hindu temples be circulated for the purpose of eliciting opinion thereon by the 30th July, 1933, and the amendment moved thereto by Pandit Ram Krishna Jha that the Bill be circulated amongst the heads of the Religious Institutions, secular heads, trustees or administrators of the village temples in consultation with the Hindu villagers and Collectors of Districts for ascertaining the opinion of lay people likely to be affected by this Bill and not amongst the Arya Samajists, the Brahmos and Hindu Mahasabhites who have no faith in temple worship."

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad (Patna and Chota Nagpur cum Orissa : Muhammadan) : On a point of order, Sir. If you will kindly look at the list of business, you will see that the Bill was to be circulated and opinions were to be elicited by the 30th of July, 1933, which date has now elapsed. Are we in order to discuss this motion now, because if we pass this Resolution now opinions will be received long after the 30th of July, which was the date mentioned in the original motion. So are we in order to discuss this matter now, as the date is past ?

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : It is really a matter of procedure. The Honourable Member will himself observe that there are various amendments on the paper in which more suitable dates are given, and, at the time when the question is put, it will be for the House to decide as to what date they should decide upon. It does not arise at this stage.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen (Presidency Division : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : I have given notice of two amendments, one for the purpose of eliciting opinion thereon by the 31st December, 1934, and the other by the 30th June, 1934. Before I move any of these, I should like to know from the Honourable the Home Member whether he is prepared to support my first amendment. I want 31st December, because I want the discussion to take place at Delhi as the attendance at Simla is always very thin and the subject is very important.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig (Home Member) : Does the Honourable Member want me to make a statement now on behalf of the Government before there has been any debate on this point ?

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : I want that the next stage of discussion should be taken up at Delhi and not at Simla. That is my intention in specifying the date as 31st December ; otherwise it will come up next August at Simla.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : What exactly does the Honourable Member want ?

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : I wish to know whether I will get support from the Government for my first amendment ; if so, I will move the first amendment ; otherwise I will move the second one.

An Honourable Member : You take your own chance.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : In order to enable the Honourable Member to make up his mind as to what amendment he is going to move, he wants to know the attitude of the Government in the light of which he will decide what amendment he should move.

Before he came to this House this morning, he should have found out from Government what their attitude was going to be, and the Chair does not think that the Honourable Member can utilise this opportunity and ask the Honourable the Home Member to make a statement on the subject. The Honourable Member must make up his mind as to which of his amendments he is going to move.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : In that case I will move the second amendment.

Mr. R. S. Sarma (Nominated Non-Official) : On a point of order, Sir. Before the Honourable Member moves his amendment, there is an amendment next to his, standing in my name which is of a more general character, while the amendment of Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen is of a restricted nature. Therefore, I feel that you will give me an opportunity of moving that amendment before he moves his.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : It has been the practice in this House, and that practice is being followed on the present occasion, to allow various Honourable Members who have given notice of various amendments to move those amendments and to have a comprehensive discussion on all those amendments and the original proposition. When the time for voting comes, it will then be for the Chair to decide which is the more comprehensive amendment and the Chair will naturally put to vote that amendment which it considers to be more comprehensive. The Chair understands that Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen does not want to move amendment No. 2 on the list, but wants to move No. 3. Is that correct ?

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : Yes, Sir

Mr. K. C. Neogy (Dacca Division, : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : I should like to know under what Standing Order this particular amendment which my Honourable friend wants to move is in order, because Standing Order No. 39, which, I take it, is the Standing Order bearing on this particular question, runs as follows :

".....if the member in charge moves that his Bill be taken into consideration, any member may move as an amendment that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee, or be circulated for the purpose of eliciting opinion thereon....."

I do not suppose that this Standing Order contemplates a restricted circulation as my Honourable friend desires, and that observation would also apply to the amendment which has been moved by my Honourable friend, Mr. Jha. I should like to have your ruling on this particular point.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : What exactly is the point that the Honourable Member wishes to raise ? Will he repeat it ?

Mr. K. C. Neogy : As far as I can see, Standing Order No. 39 lays down in specific terms the amendment that can be moved at this particular stage, and that does not seem to me to be of a restricted character at all.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : What sub-clause of Standing Order No. 39 please ?

Mr. K. C. Neogy : (2) (a).

[Mr. K. C. Neogy.]

May I make a reference to the previous Standing Order? It says :

"When a Bill is introduced, or on some subsequent occasion, the member in charge may make one of the following motions in regard to his Bill, namely :

(a) that it be taken into consideration by the Assembly either at once or at some future day to be then specified ; or

(b) that it be referred to a Select Committee ; or

(c) that it be circulated for the purpose of eliciting opinion thereon."

That is the specific nature of the motion that it is permissible for a Member in charge of a Bill to make, and if some other Member makes a motion by way of an amendment to a substantive motion moved by the Member in charge, then also the amendments must be in similar language as stated in sub-clause (2) (a) of Standing Order No. 39, which says :

"……if the member in charge moves that his Bill be taken into consideration, any member may move as an amendment that the Bill be referred to a Select Committee, or be circulated for the purpose of eliciting opinion thereon by a date to be specified in the motion……"

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : On what Standing Order does the Honourable Member rely for his contention that when the Member in charge moves that the Bill be circulated for the purpose of eliciting opinion thereon, only a particular kind of amendment can be moved to that ? The Chair is not able to find that Standing Order.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : The Standing Order is silent on the point, but these are the only motions that are permissible under the Standing Order to be moved, and, that particular motion having been moved, I do not suppose that any amendment of the kind contemplated by my Honourable friend, Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen, is in order.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Honourable Member must realise that no explicit provision is made in the Standing Order as to what kind of amendments can be moved to the motion of a Mover of a Bill that the Bill be circulated for eliciting opinion thereon. When Standing Orders are silent on the point, it will be for the Chair to decide what amendments to such motions would be in order, and the Chair in this case has held that Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen's amendment is in order.

Pandit Ram Krishna Jha (Darbhanga cum Saran : Non-Muhammadan) : So far as my amendment is concerned, it was moved on the 4th March and there was a debate on it and my Honourable friend's point of order is rather too late.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : I beg to move :

"That the Bill be circulated amongst the temple-going Hindus for the purpose of eliciting opinion thereon by the 30th June, 1934."

As the House is aware, a similar amendment was moved by my Honourable friend, Pandit Ram Krishna Jha, at the last Delhi Session which runs as follows :

"That the Bill be circulated amongst the heads of the Religious Institutions, secular heads, trustees or administrators of the village temples in consultation with the Hindu villagers and Collectors of Districts for ascertaining the opinion of lay people likely to be affected by this Bill and not amongst the Arya Samajists, the Brahmos and Hindu Mahasabhites who have no faith in temple worship."

Sir, I have practically accepted all the points of that amendment, for instead of a roundabout phraseology, I have put it in a simple expression, namely, temple-going Hindus, and, as I want to put it in the prescribed form, I have inserted a time-limit, viz., 30th June, 1934. If I were to have my own way, I would rather oppose the Bill outright instead of moving a circulation motion, but, as there is very little chance of achieving any success in that direction, I am constrained to move this amendment for circulation.

In the first place, I will argue that this Bill is ultra vires of this Legislature. It was never the intention of our rulers or of the British statesmen that such Bills should be brought forward for discussion in the Legislature because it involves serious religious questions which cannot be discussed by the Members of this House. They are not experts in those matters. I will, first of all, refer Honourable Members to the memorable notification issued by the Government of India on the 16th May, 1857. The pertinent portion runs as follows :

"The Government of India have invariably treated the religious feelings of all its subjects with careful respect. The Governor General in Council has declared that he will never cease to do so. He now repeats that declaration and emphatically proclaims that the Government of India entertains no desire to interfere in the religion or caste."

This notification was confirmed and ratified by the Queen's Proclamation which runs thus :

"We do strictly charge and enjoin all those who may be in authority under Us that they abstain from all interference with religious beliefs and worship of Our Subjects on pain of Our highest displeasure."

If I seek protection under these Proclamations and notifications, it is my duty to show that this Bill affects the religious feelings of the Hindus. I think it will require no arguments to prove that temple affairs are religious affairs. It is a prima facie case that temples are purely religious matters, and this Bill is not only religious, but it is subversive of all religion, because the real demand of the reformists is not temple-entry alone, but something beyond that. Dr. Ambedkar, one of the leaders of the Depressed Classes, has put it very clearly. He says :

"What is required is to purge it of the doctrine of Chaturvarna. Do Mahatma Gandhi and Hindu reformers accept this as their goal and will they show courage to work for it ? But whether they are prepared for this or not, let it be known once for all that nothing short of this will satisfy Depressed Classes and make them accept temple-entry."

And this demand has been practically acceded to by Mr. Gandhi, the high priest of the sacrifice of religion. Writing in the Harijan, dated the 11th February, he says :

"It is highly likely that at the end of it we shall all find that there is nothing to fight against in Varnashram. If, however, Varnashram even then looks an ugly thing, the whole Hindu society will fight it."

That is the ultimate demand of the reformers.

Now, I will speak a few words to remove the misconception of many of my Honourable friends regarding Mr. Gandhi's view in respect of inter-dining and inter-marriages. They are under the misconception that he does not insist on these things, but in the course of his statement which appeared in the Hindustan Times of the 6th December, he says clearly that:

"Restriction on inter-caste-dining and marriage is no part of the Hindu religion."

He goes on to say :

"Wherever, therefore, the people voluntarily take part in functions where touchables and untouchables, Hindus and non-Hindus are invited to join dinner parties, I welcome it as a healthy sign." "Dining and marriage restrictions stunt Hindu society", and so on.

So the ultimate demand of these reformers is not temple entry alone or the abolition of untouchability, but the subversion of the basic principles of the Hindu religion. It is true that such Bills can be introduced with the previous sanction of the Governor General. The Indian Councils Act of 1861 and the Government of India Act of 1919 make provision for such introduction, but consistently with the previous Proclamation and notification to which I have referred, this previous sanction is to be regarded as an additional safeguard and evidently relates only to those Bills which do not infringe any religious laws and where the usages and customs are silent. This view was clearly expressed by Sir FitzJames Stephen when, in 1870, speaking on the Special Marriage Bill, he said :

"When silent, we can legislate for the best interest of those for whom we have to legislate."

That is the position as regards previous sanction. I must impress upon Honourable Members that they should not be led away by the previous sanction that has been accorded to this Bill by the Governor General. That absolute non-interference was the guiding principle of the British statesmen appears from the fact that in the very year in which the Government of India Act was passed, viz., 1919, another Act was passed in England, namely, the Church of England Assembly Act which conferred the power of discussing religious matters on the National Assembly of the Church of England. If that was the view taken in regard to England, which is practically governed by one religion, it goes without saying that their intention was certainly not to place India, which is governed by so many religions, at the mercy of the Legislature which is composed of such heterogeneous elements. Does it stand to reason that my religion should be dictated by Sir Harry Haig, or by Sir Abdulla Suhrawardy or by Mr. Dumasia. Our religion is going to be dictated by men who do not belong to the Hindu religion at all. So far as Bengal is concerned, I may mention two apostles, namely, Sir P. C. Ray and Dr. Rabindra Nath Tagore, neither of whom belongs to the Hindu religion. They are Brahmos and not Hindus.

An Honourable Member : Brahmos are Hindus.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : They themselves declare that they are not Hindus.

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury (Bengal : Landholders) : What caste do you belong to ?

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : I am Vaidya.

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : Are you admitted into the sanctum sanctorum of the Hindus ?

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : Yes, generally. That these things cannot be entrusted to the Legislature has been recognised by Dr. Finer in his work on "The Theory and Practice of Modern Government". On page 753, Volume II, he says :

"It is impossible for the ordinary institutions of Government to penetrate the depths, and master the complexities, of any modern branch of society and law without the special aid of those to whom the matter is one of lifelong and intimate acquaintance, and to whom all things are revealed owing to the vital quality of their interest in the result."

This view is also endorsed by Sir Arnold Wilson who, in an article, entitled "The Church and State" which appeared in the January issue of the English Review, quotes the view of Lord Hugh Cecil, and says :

"He would exclude the laity from the discussion of the mystery of sacraments which belongs to the Bishops and subordinately to the clergy. He would permit no intrusion by the laity on the stewardship of the mysteries of the Gospel."

Having argued this point, I would now discuss the principles of the Bill. It should be remembered that this Bill was sponsored at the instance of Mr. Gandhi. So, some discussion of the affairs which took place outside this House may not be irrelevant to the present discussion. At the outset I wish to make it clear beyond any doubt that we have no objection to much of the present propaganda. We do not object to this movement for the uplift of the so-called Depressed Classes—I do not admit that, really speaking, there are any Depressed Classes in our society—in matters educational, hygienic or vocational, and so forth. Give them facilities in every direction so long as our religious principles are not injured. I refuse to admit that the temple-entry is a part of their amelioration, because very few of them are anxious for that. In fact, one of the temples in Bengal, at Munshiganj, was thrown open to them, or rather they forced their entrance into that temple, but now a days the temple is being frequented neither by the caste Hindus nor by the Depressed Classes.

Sir, this Bill has three different aspects—the religious aspect, the legal aspect and the political aspect. I will discuss the three aspects one by one. First of all, I would say that the temple affairs are extraordinary affairs. They are spiritual matters which are technically called Adrishtarthak which means not drishtarthak, i.e., their results cannot be seen with our physical eyes ; they relate to spiritual matters. They are not within the scope of our ordinary common sense. When we recite some mantras before an image, it is invested with a peculiar sanctity. What common sense is there ? A round piece of stone, with one or two holes, with one or two navels within, produced by nature in the river Gandaki is regarded as an image of the Supreme Being ? What common sense is there ? These are beyond the scope of ordinary common sense. Now, Sir, what is the value of common sense ? It is not a constant thing. My common sense differs from the common sense of Mr. Jadhav, and his common sense differs from that of Mr. Mitra.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai (Sind : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Common sense means special sense.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : According to the common sense of Mr. Gandhi, the Gita is the only book of truth, and according to the common sense of another gentleman, Professor Dwijadas Datta, father of Ullaskar Datta, who has made a greater sacrifice than Mr. Gandhi, because he sacrificed his own life.....

An Honourable Member : Ullaskar is still alive.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : In his book " Rigveda unveiled " he speaks of the pernicious principles taught by the Gita. This is the value of common sense. The common sense of Mr. Gandhi dictates that there should be a legislation of this sort and the common sense of Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya dictates that there should be no such legislation. This is the value of common sense. How can we rely on the common sense of men who are not better than pygmies when compared with the sages of old in whom the sense of satva so much prevailed ? How can we rely on the common sense of a man who commits " Himalayan blunders " once every week and has to correct himself later on ? In 1921, he says, " to ask to inter-marry and inter-dine is tantamount to asking Hindus to give up their religion ". " Prohibition against inter-marriage and inter-dining is essential for a rapid evolution of the soul ". In 1932, he says :

" Restriction on inter-caste dining and marriage is no part of the Hindu religion. This reform is coming sooner than expected."

Just compare these two statements, and you will at once realise the infallibility of this super-man. In 1921, he said :

" I believe that caste has saved Hinduism from disintegration. I am inclined to think that the law of heredity is an eternal law and any attempt to alter that law must lead, as it has before led, to utter confusion."

In 1932, he says : " Caste is a social evil. Caste has got to go ". Just compare these two statements and you will realise at once how infallible this gentleman is. This being the position of common sense, I should say that our only guide should be the injunctions of the Shastras. Now, what do the Shastras say in respect of temple-entry ? The Shastras grant different privileges to different castes. The Brahmans have got the highest privileges ; next come the Kshatriyas, then the Vaishyas, then the Sudras and then come the untouchables, who are outcastes. I do admit that the untouchables have been given the least number of privileges and there are reasons for that. In order to make the view of the Shastras clear, it may be necessary to give a short account of the Hindu sociology in one or two sentences. Sir, children can be begotten in two ways, through lawful marriages and through promiscuous combination.

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : What is the promiscuous combination ?

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : You know that as much as I do. Promiscuous combination is of two kinds, firstly by the anuloma system, and secondly by the pratiloma system. The anuloma system is where the male belongs to a higher caste, and pratiloma system is where the male belongs to a lower caste. Pratiloma is more despicable than the anuloma.

Mr. Amar Nath Dutt (Burdwan Division : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : But when the woman belongs to no caste but professes another religion ?

Mr. B. V. Jadhav (Bombay Central Division : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Is pratiloma system a marriage ?

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : We refuse to call pratiloma a marriage, it is nothing more than a combination. These pratiloma children again give birth to other children more despicable than themselves. The worst types of these children are called Antyajas. This is not my own definition. This is what we have got in the Shastras. There are three kinds of untouchables. The worst type of pratiloma children comes in the first category. The second class are those who are guilty of seriously violating religious laws, and the third are those who belong to other religions. We are at present concerned with the first class of these untouchables, namely, those who owe their origin to serious violations of marital laws. I do realise that these children are not responsible for the violation of these laws. They are not responsible for the sins of their forefathers and, therefore, we do not hate them. Rather we look upon them with a certain amount of sympathy. We look upon them as the children of diseased parents. We simply keep ourselves in segregation. That is no disability imposed upon them, rather that is a check upon our own selves.

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : Do you believe in the dictum that sympathy is the universal solvent ?

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : Yes.

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : Then, why do you segregate yourselves ?

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : There must be a limit to everything. It is owing to the fact that they are untouchables that the least amount of privileges have been conceded to the antyajas. The Shastras say that if a chandala or a patita, i.e., a fallen man, enters into a temple, the temple gets defiled and it has to be purified by cow's urine, cow's dung, and so forth.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh (Muzaffarpur cum Champaran : Non-Muhammadan) : What is the definition of a chandala ?

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : My Honourable friend wants to have a definition of chandala. A chandala is the issue of a Brahman woman and a sudra father, not legally married, because no legal marriage can take place between the two.

Mr. R. S. Sarma : I want your ruling as to how far the observations of my Honourable friend are relevant to the amendment which he has tabled. I can understand his observations if he is totally opposing the circulation. Apparently he accepts the amendment and accepts circulation. I want to know, however much his observations may be relevant as an exhibition of his Shastric knowledge, can they be relevant in support of the amendment he has tabled ?

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : My object is to discuss the Bill at some length so that the public may be in a position to realise the real situation and to gauge the implications of the provisions of the Bill.

Mr. R. S. Sarma : If that be the object, then the amendment for circulation is to elicit public opinion and not to educate public opinion.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : It is argued that no man can be condemned for the whole life on account of the sins of his forefathers. He may be promoted to a higher caste by purificatory ceremonies and dikshas. According to our Shastras, jati and janma are identical things. Both the words are of the same origin ; they come from the root, jana—to be born. Of course, there were certain exceptions, such as in the case of Visvamitra, but those few exceptions go to prove the general rule. There should be no impatience on the part of any individual, because this birth is not the only birth. There is a fundamental difference between the philosophy of birth according to the Hindus and that according to other nations. Our birth is determined by the acts performed in previous births. The Chhándogya Upanishad says :

" Ramaníya-charanáh ramaníyám Yonim ápadyeran—Bráhmana-Yonim vá, Kshatriya-yanim vá, Vaishya-yonim vá.

Kapúya-charanáh kapúyám Yonim ápadyeran—swa-yonim vá, sirkara-yonim vá, súkara-yonim vá, chándála-yonim vá. "

Those who perform meritorious acts, get meritorious births—they are born as Brahmins, Kshatriyas and Vaisyas ; and those, who perform lowly acts, get low births such as those of dogs, hogs and chandalas. As I have already informed Honourable Members, Mr. Gandhi bases his faith on the Gita. The Gita also refers to these untouchables in unmistakable language. It is not, however, to be considered that these untouchables have no claim to salvation. They have got as much claim as we caste-Hindus have. Really speaking, in the case of the untouchables, the rules are less rigid than those prescribed for the higher castes. Only a single utterance of Harinam is more efficacious in the case of a chandala than severe penance practised by a Brahmin. This is the rule prescribed by the selfish Brahmins with regard to the untouchables. The Gita says :

" Mám hi Pártha Vyapásritya yepi syuh pápa-yonayah striyo vaishyá stathá súdrá stepi yánti parám gatim."

" Every body will be able to attain salvation provided he clings to me (referring to his own self), be he a Vaishya, be she a woman, be he a pápayoni."

[At this stage Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) vacated the Chair which was occupied by Mr. Deputy President (Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury).]

The Gita further says :

" Kim punar Bráhmanáh punyá bhaktá rájarshaya stathá. "

" Be he a Brahmin or a Kshatriya, everybody is entitled to salvation."

Honourable Members will notice that Lord Krishna refers there to four castes and their females and to some other people also. He refers to Brahmans, Kshatriyas, Vaishyas, Sudras, females and to the pápayonis, i.e., those who are of sinful birth. Who are these pápayonis according to the Gita ? They must be the untouchables, and this phraseology has been repeated by Manu also in regard to the Antyajas :

" Varnápetam avijnátam naram kalusha-yonijam. "

" They are outcastes, they are of sinful origin."

It is for this reason that the Shastras have not given them so much privileges as they have given to the Brahmans, the Kshatriyas, and so forth.

This much for the religious aspect of the question. I now turn to the legal side. Sir, a temple consists of four things—the deity, the founder, the trustee and the beneficiary. If the proposed innovations are introduced, we will be doing injustice to all of these. The object of the founder will be violated, the trustees have no power to deviate from the intentions of the founder, the beneficiaries will be deprived of their rights, and the deity will be defiled. Tudor, in " Charitable Trusts ", says :

" In cases relating to Charity, a majority cannot control the minority."

There are innumerable decisions of the High Courts of Bombay and Madras, etc., which clearly say that no deviations can be allowed. Justice Beaman of the Bombay High Court observes :

" Any extension or limitation of the scope of a trust so as to exclude those who were intended to be included, or to include those who were intended to be excluded, is really a breach—and a very serious breach—of trust."

I. L. R. 13 Madras says :

" A Hindu temple is not a public place in the sense in which a public road is a public place. It is open only to the persons belonging to the religious community for whose use and benefit it was dedicated."

As regards the referendum method advocated by our reformers, I. L. R. 20 Madras says :

" No amount of consent on the part of the public will justify a breach of trust by the Manager."

There is also another decision which says :

" A minority however small, holding fast by the tenet would be entitled to prevail against the majority, however numerically large, which could be shown to have receded from or renounced them."

So, in the teeth of the established custom of the land and in the face of these decisions of the Honourable High Courts, I think no legislation can be allowed in this matter. Sir, it should be remembered that even if there is no explicit rule in the Shastras, if there is an explicit custom to that effect, that custom is to be adhered to, because custom also, if it does not run counter to the Shastric injunctions, is to be regarded as an authority on Dharma. My Honourable friend, Mr. Jadhav, knows it very well :

" Vedokhilo dharma-múlam smriti-sile cha tadvidám Áchára chaiva sádhúnám átmanas tushtir eva cha. "

Sir, one word more regarding the referendum question. The folly is at its highest when it is proposed that these temple affairs are to be decided by taking votes. Does it stand to reason that a man who has devoted his whole life to the study of the Shastras will have only one vote and the man in the street also will have one vote ? So far as religious matters are concerned, the voting system is entirely foreign to the Hindu mind. Our Shastra says that even the word of one individual should prevail against the word of innumerable persons provided that that single individual is conversant with the subject with which he deals :

" Ekopi veda vid dharmam yam vyasyed dwijottamah
Sa vijneyah paro dharmo nájnánám udito yutaih. "

" Even the word of a single individual who is learned should prevail against the word of ten thousand people who are ignorant."

That is the true view of the Shastras.

Sir, I now come to the political aspect of the question. It is argued that if we do not give them certain privileges now, they will embrace other religions. But is that apprehension well-founded ? We have it on the authority of Dr. Ram Prasad, Provincial Secretary of the All-India Depressed Classes' Association, Delhi, who has issued the following statement :

" We are Hindus and we desire to remain as Hindus. As a matter of fact, it will be interesting to know that persons who become converts to Christianity come back to the Hindu fold seeing that there is no solace and comfort and equality in that Christian religion. Did not my friend, Dr. Solanki, M.L.C., of Bombay, come back to Hinduism after having once been converted to Christianity ? "

[Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen.]

That is the position. It is a misapprehension to hold that these people will go to other religions and find solace there, because there is no solace in any religion in this world to one's heart's content. Untouchability there must be present in each and every society, as has been admitted by Mr. Gandhi also. It is argued that they are 40 millions in number and, if they go away, we Hindus will be weakened. Sir, I do not know the exact number of these Depressed Class people. At one time we had it as 40 millions and that is the figure Mr. Gandhi put in his statement. A few days later, when my Honourable friend, Rao Bahadur M. C. Rajah, led a deputation to His Excellency the Viceroy, it came up to 46 millions in the course of a few days, and it has been put at 60 millions by Mr. Rajagopalachari, the worthy lieutenant of Mr. Gandhi. So I am inclined to believe that none of these figures is correct. They are all wrong figures and their number is not so much.

Rao Bahadur M. C. Rajah (Nominated Non-Official) : What is your figure ?

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : I am not prepared to give any figure. I simply prove the discrepancy in your figures.

Rao Bahadur M. C. Rajah : I took the figure as given in the Government census.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : Then Mr. Gandhi's and Mr. Rajagopalachari's figures are wrong.

Sir, they argue that some concession must be made according to desh, kala and patra,—very sweet and attractive words indeed. But desh, kala and patra cannot take us beyond the basic principles of religion. We must stick to the basic principles, and what are the basic principles ? The basic principles of the Hindu religion are three,—the authority of the Vedas, the existence of God and the existence of re-birth. These are the three basic principles. We cannot go beyond the Vedas. The Vedas enjoin us to do certain things and we are bound to do them. We know what the value of numerical strength is : we Hindus are a majority community. What is the value of a Hindu today ? We are nowhere ; and what is the value of Russia against Japan ? Nothing. The one thing needful is to have sincere people belonging to a particular community : only one man will suffice. There is no value to be attached to numbers. (Interruption.) I would, therefore, urge that my Honourable friends will be pleased to oppose this Bill. If they really want to consult the opinion of the people—we have been flooded with telegrams—my Honourable friend, Pandit Ram Krishna Jha, has got in his pocket some 150 telegrams.....

1 P.M.

Mr. R. S. Sarma : Who financed them ?

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : I do not know : it may be you or my friend, Mr. Rajah. Sir, I reiterate that the Depressed Class people should not be fomented against the caste Hindus. They have lived in perfect amity and concord for thousands of years past owing their allegiance to caste Hindus. They should be taught the religious principles which made their forefathers loyal to the Brahmins. That will bring them solace and comfort. Otherwise they will find no comfort. Let me assure the Honourable Members of this House again that we are prepared to give them every facility and every relief : we are prepared to give them their living, give them high posts if they are competent to hold them, give them seats in the Legislature if they want to have them. (Interruption.)

I may refer here to another point also. If you really want to ameliorate their condition, it is not by allowing them temple entry which they really do not want, but by bringing them back to their hereditary profession of which they have been robbed, not by caste Hindus, but by reformers under western influence. We are always prepared to make every concession for them : they have their proper share—the washerman and barber and other Depressed Classes have their share on ceremonial occasions : we give them alms specially on religious occasions such as eclipse, etc., though my Honourable friend, Mr. Navalrai, is not prepared to give them alms even. He gave notice of a question which unfortunately was not reached this morning—I will read out that question : he is annoyed by beggars on station platforms ; he is annoyed by the exhibition of their diseased bodies....

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : I am also annoyed by the Pandit beggars on the railways and elsewhere.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : I may tell my friend that the beggars mostly belong to the Depressed Classes and are not Pandits.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : My Honourable friend should understand that that is a different question altogether : my question refers to the harassment that they cause : and this should not be mixed up with the other question.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : But you should give them alms, after all.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Yes, but not in that harassing manner.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : Sir, temple entry is no part of Swaraj ; Swaraj is concerned only with political emancipation ; and this is even no part of their spiritual emancipation : they have got their own temples and idols and their priests and they are at liberty to worship there ; but unfortunately they do not do that ; though they have the right of making worship of Shiva and Shakti, they are hankering after temple entry at the instigation of others ; they should be made to realise their own situation and they should be made to live in amity and concord with caste Hindus as they have done for the last thousands of years.

One word more and I have done. Instead of putting it in a general form, I have inserted the expression " temple-going Hindus ". I find that that point was recognised by the Government also in the Government communiqué which was published on the 23rd January. They say :

" But the Governor General and the Government of India desire to make it plain that in their opinion it is essential that the consideration of any such measure should not proceed unless the proposals are subjected to the fullest examination in all their aspects not merely in the legislature but also outside it by all who will be affected by them. This purpose can only be satisfied if the Bill is circulated in the widest manner for the purpose of eliciting public opinion and if adequate time is given to enable all classes of Hindus to form and express their considered opinion."

That is the point. So I want to have it circulated amongst the Hindus only, and by Hindus I mean not the Brahmos as was demanded by Mr. Navalrai, but the temple-going Hindus only. And there is another point. I put the time limit at the 30th June. Generally three or four months time is allowed for the purpose of circulation for ordinary Bills. But this is a Bill of a sensational character and, therefore, I think nothing short of ten months will be adequate. The communiqué says :

"This purpose can only be satisfied if adequate time is given."

With these few words, I move my amendment.

Mr. R. S. Sarma : Sir, I move :

"That the Bill be circulated for the purpose of eliciting opinion thereon by the end of June, 1934."

I do not think I shall be justified in wasting the time of this House by making a speech in support of this amendment, because it is so simple that I do not think any speech is called for in support of the amendment. It is more or less on the same lines as that of the previous speaker, with this difference, that his is a more restricted one and contains words which, in my opinion, are absurd and impracticable, namely, temple-going Hindus. I do not know how it can be found out who will find out who are the temple-going Hindus. With regard to this, the Government spokesmen had made it clear from time to time that Government are anxious to give the widest possible publicity to the provisions of this Bill and to elicit public opinion in this matter. Therefore, there is more or less general agreement that the Bill ought to be circulated, except that there are some enthusiasts who want public opinion to be elicited before a particular date before the end of this year, and there are other die-hards like Pandit Sen who want that the time limit should be the next year or the year after that. To my mind, both are impracticable. As for those who want to have it circulated and opinion obtained before the end of this year, I think the time is so short that it will not be practicable to get adequate public opinion before the end of this year. On the other hand, if this House agrees or if the Government support the amendment that public opinion should be elicited before December, 1934, it may lend colour to the impression that Government are standing in the way of this useful social reform. Therefore, as a compromise, I suggest that 30th June, 1934, is a proper date by which public opinion should be elicited. I may inform the House that in this I have the support of my friend, Mr. Rajah, who is a representative of the Depressed Classes in this House than whom there is nobody more interested in the welfare of the Depressed Classes, and I hope Government will see their way to accept this and show bona fides of their sympathy for the great cause.

Mr. Deputy President (Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury) : Order, order. The House stands adjourned till half past Two.

The Assembly then adjourned for Lunch till Half Past Two of the Clock.

The Assembly re-assembled after Lunch at Half Past Two of the Clock, Mr. Deputy President (Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury) in the Chair.

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : Mr. Deputy President, I am very glad that you have called my name and given me the opportunity of expressing my views on this important subject. I have said on different occasions that I am one of those who do not believe in social reform by legislation ; and, as such, I will oppose all the measures at every stage in whatever form they come before the House. I feel sorry that my Honourable friend, Pandit Sen, has been so uncharitable towards Mahatma Gandhi. Even Pandit Sen had the courage to address the Mahatma as "Mr. Gandhi", and, further, he remarked last evening that the Mahatma was doing all these things out of "Dambha" and "Kama" which mean vanity and passion. I cannot tolerate these remarks against the Great Mahatma whose sincerity and honesty cannot be challenged by anybody. It cannot be denied that the treatment meted out to these Depressed Classes is so distressing that I am rather glad that the Great Mahatma has taken up their cause, and he has cherished the idea of doing social good to these people. I quite appreciate that. I also appreciate the feeling with which he starts the campaign against untouchability even at the cost of his life. He is doing everything he can to ameliorate the condition of the Depressed Classes. No one can deny that something should be done for the uplift of the Depressed Classes. I am sure that my Honourable friend, Mr. Rajah, who is present in this House, has better experience of the pinch of the shoe for he is one of the sufferers. It is a fact that in Southern India they are dealt with even worse than animals, like cats and dogs. No one can deny that.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : In towns, or in villages ?

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : In towns, in villages, and even in Pandit Sen's house, I say. (Laughter.)

But I do believe and believe sincerely that, by moving a measure like this, the real object can never be served. Sir, the minority problem has played a foremost part and a dangerous part, if I may say so, in the field of politics. If we look into the parliamentary debate of 1910, we will find that there was a strong move to establish a minority party in India. The object of the British politicians has been served and they have gained their purpose. The Communal Award and the Poona Pact have doomed Bengal for ever. It was rightly said by the Home Member last evening that even though many of us felt the effect of the Poona Pact, we were absolutely silent in order to save the life of Mahatmaji. We did not raise a single protest against the pact though it was extremely dangerous to Bengal, and, practically speaking, the future of Bengal is absolutely dark economically, socially and politically, and every citizen of Bengal is groaning under the burden of this Communal Award, especially under the Poona Pact.....

Mr. Deputy President (Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury) : We are not discussing the Poona Pact. We are discussing the Temple Entry Bill.

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : Yes, Sir. I am not discussing the Poona Pact ; I am discussing the Temple Entry Bill, but, at the same time, this is the right and opportune moment to record our protest constitutionally, and this is one of the main reasons that I am objecting to this

[Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury.]

Bill. I may state that the Poona Pact has done enormous injury to the whole of Bengal. But that does not mean that one should criticise the Mahatma so severely. His past cannot be shaken off by one of his present actions. I strongly resent the remarks which were passed by my friend, Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen, yesterday about Mahatma Gandhi. He calls himself a Pandit, and, may I ask, whether he knows the definition of a Pandit which is given in the Gita ? The definition is :

" Yasya sarvesamarambha
Kama sankalpa varjita,
Jnanagni dagdhakarmanam,
Tamahah panditam budhah."

That is the definition of a Pandit. (An Honourable Member : " Translate it.") I am going to translate it :

" One who has given up all kinds of worldly desires and ambitions and one who is bereft of taking any initiative in any worldly affairs and one whose worldly activities are burnt in the sacred fire of knowledge is said to be a Pandit by the wise men."

Now, may I ask the Honourable Member whether he knows how that Pandit will behave with the untouchables. That sloka runs as follows :

" Vidya Vinayasampanna,
Brahmaney gobi hastini,
Shunichaiva swapakecha,
Panditah samadarshinah."

Which means that " Pandits should not differentiate between learned, amiable Brahmins, cows, elephants, dogs and chandala (untouchables) ".

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : When you are in need of milk you will approach a dog and not a cow !

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : I do not know what my Honourable friend means. But I can say that a Pandit should embrace every body, whether he be a Brahmin or an untouchable.

Mr. S. C. Mitra (Chittagong and Rajshahi Divisions : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : He is a Vaidya Brahmin, don't you admit it ?

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : Now, Sir. There are three aspects under which I oppose this Bill—socially, politically and spiritually. Socially I say that there will be so many differences between the Depressed Classes and the caste Hindus that instead of bridging the gulf, the differences will be so widened that no power, however strong it might be, will be able to bring them round. My conviction is that social uplift should go pari passu with political uplift. Until the country is politically advanced and attains political liberty, social liberty is bound to be very remote. At this stage I must state frankly and candidly that the author of this Bill, who could not exercise his brain to uplift the cause of politics in this country, has thought it fit to take up the cause of social uplift by means of this measure.

Now, I come to the political side. The political aspect of this question is very grave, but this is not the proper occasion for dealing with it, because the Chair will rule me out of order. But one thing I want to emphasise is that there are great many estates and properties in this country which are endowed in the name of a temple, and if this Bill is passed, many of the temples which get contributions will be deprived of those contributions. There are many families which have been maintaining their livelihood from the contributions of the temple for ages and, as a landlord, I feel that if this Bill is passed, it may deprive their rights of enjoying those contributions. It is so comprehensive in its scope. From my scrutiny of the temples in India, I find that there is not a single temple in India which can be called a public temple, because a temple, according to Hindu religion, is personal. It is not like a Christian Church or a Muslim Masjid. If any gentleman erects a temple out of sincere devotion to his religion, it is his bounden duty to look to the interests of that temple so that the temple may not be polluted by others. He opens the temple to the particular caste to which he belongs and he may not like other castes to enter into it. If this Bill is passed, there will be great difficulty in conducting the management of the temple and even the necessary obligations.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : There is nothing in this Bill about the management of the temple. It is only about the entry.

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : The trouble is that the temple entry is only the beginning. When other classes enter the temple by a majority of the votes in a particular locality, they will claim the right to direct the management of the temple. This is only the first move. So, from this point of view, this Bill ought not to be passed by this House. Take for instance the Jagannath temple. There is no question of untouchability there. Every one can enter that temple, but even that temple belongs to the Raja of Puri. That is not a public temple. The management at present lies with the Court of Wards. There is an officer in charge who conducts the management. So also about Badrinath and the Kalighat temples. That is one aspect of this Bill. Then, another aspect is this. My idea of a Hindu temple is that a Hindu goes there for the realisation of his own self. It is called a mandir in Sanskrit. A mandir is a place where you can go and concentrate your mind to attain the truth or the absolute. That is the ideal of the temple. Temple entry can only be had by those people who really believe in the existence of God.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Do not the Depressed Classes believe in God ?

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : They do. That is why I say that they must have temples of their own. They are after all the creation of God.

Now, the Depressed Classes number 40 millions in India and there is nothing to prevent them having their own temples for their own prayers. They can manage them themselves. That is my real point. I do not minimise the position of the Depressed Classes in any way.

[At this stage Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) resumed the Chair.]

They must have a place of their own where they can concentrate their mind on God. Every one of us who is born in this world has got spiritual claim of worship in him and no one can deny that every man has the right to worship God. But passing a legislation of this kind, you should not infringe on the rights of those who have erected and endowed these temples for a particular purpose out of their generosity and firm belief in their respective religion. That is the reason why I am objecting to people entering a temple, the donors of which never contemplated that those people, who belong to other castes, would enter the temples. They erected them only for a particular class of people belonging to his community. I will never take any objection to the Depressed Class people having their own temples and worshipping in them. That is my point which has forced me to take my stand against this Bill. I verily believe that Mahatma Gandhi has taken up a very right attitude for the uplift of the Harijans, but I appeal to him in the name of truth, justice and equity, not to set up one community against the other ; in that case he will hardly be able to attain his object. The land of India is sanctified with the blood of so many disciples who were born and died here in the name of their religion. India is a place where every man can forsake his property and wealth, but no one will be prepared to forsake his own religion. India is a place where so many prophets were born. In this connection I blame also the Treasury Benches for having allowed this Bill to be discussed on the floor of this House. Their policy has been not to infringe the customs and rights of any people by any law or legislation, but unfortunately in this House we have got the right to discuss any matters, be they social or political or religious. But I do hope that the Treasury Benches will at least take up the cause of the particular community which stands to lose a good deal if this Bill is passed into law. If they will allow this Bill to be passed, I may tell them with all the emphasis that I can command that there will be such a social revolution, instead of peace and amity in this country, that no power in the world will be able to control it. If the executive of this country also meddle with the religious rites and customs of the people, then their administration also will be in jeopardy. I do not understand the attitude of Pandit Sen. Why has he come here with folded arms to move a dilatory motion. We must fight very strongly on this point and should not hesitate even to shed our blood in the temples, because I do believe in the fact that, in the name of religion, bloodshed has occurred in this country several times. At the same time, we must always keep a soft corner for those who have been badly treated in this country. If any schools and other institutions are started for them, I declare it, on the floor of this House, that I am prepared to help them in every possible way, but let them not infringe the rights of the Brahmans and others in the temple. That is not a proper thing for them to do. I am a Brahman, Sir, and am speaking in the name of Brahmans today. Of course, I am not a Brahman of the orthodox type, but a moderate Brahman, because my mode of living and my customs are quite different from those of orthodox persons. To me every human being is human and there is no difference between one soul and another. That is the highest conception of the Hindu religion. Sir, I am a Vedantist. I believe in the doctrine of Brahma the absolute. But I feel for those Brahmans whose feelings are such that they cannot tolerate any infringement upon their religious rites and customs. I hope that the executive will take up that attitude seriously. Let them remember that India is a country where thousands of religious wars have taken place and the pages of its history are full of such religious bloodsheds.

Rao Bahadur M. C. Rajah : Mr. President, the reason why I intervene in this debate is to clear certain misconceptions that are lurking in the minds of some of my friends in the House. Sir, I am extremely sorry that my revered leader, Raja Bahadur Krishnamachari, is not here today. The other day, on the 24th March, 1933, while opposing this Bill, he said that as far as human memory could go, these gentlemen (referring to Depressed Classes) never entered a temple and that their entry would desecrate the temples. Sir, I shall presently show to the House that the Raja Bahadur was not correct in this.

It is most unfortunate that there should be in this country a class of people who believe that the exclusion of certain classes from temple worship is based on the true interpretation of the precepts of Hinduism. Little do those, belonging to this class, realise the injury they are inflicting upon the religious and political well being of the Hindus. It will be out of place to go into the very debatable question of how far the ancient and sacred books support the case for or against the untouchables. It will be more interesting to consider that such a sentiment is purely of a historical growth and was an evil growth of certain political conditions that existed in this country in the past. This inferiority was a political condition caused by the conquest of the country by the White Aryan races and it is no wonder that the White races effecting a slow domination over the Coloured races developed a sentiment of superiority over the conquered, and the literature of the conquerers refer to this sentiment. There can be nothing inherent in the nature of the people to justify such a permanent assignment of a place of inferiority. It can be easily understood by those who have a knowledge of historical growth of institutions and customs. Sir Herbert Risley, writing in the " Census of India (1901) " remarks :

" In Madras, the Mala, the Nair and the Pariah of whom the last retain the traditions of a time when they possessed an independent organisation of their own had been delegated to a low place in the Hindu social system."

Sir, the Depressed Classes represent the earliest civilization of India. Long before the Aryans came to India, the Depressed Classes had their own political and social institutions :

3 P.M.

" A time before this when the Aryans came to India "

says F. A. Steel in India through Ages :

" they found a people in India civilised enough to have towns and disciplined troops ; to have weapons and banners ; women, whose ornaments were of gold ; poisoned arrows whose heads were of some metal that was probably iron ".

These were the ancestors of the present Depressed Classes, a tawny race as compared with the white skinned Aryans. The Aryans called them :

" the neglectors of sacrifices, who decorated with gold and jewels ", and " dwellers in iron cities ".

There are at the present day some relics of their ancient rights and privileges which show beyond doubt the former greatness of these people, which are still to be found in the village organisations. Their decision in disputes concerning ownership of land is considered as final. Mr. W. F. Sinclair calls the Mahar as the guardian of boundaries and of public peace and health.

In an inscription of the eleventh century A. D., we find recorded the decision of one Vesali Parian and his councillors to be a final one in a civil case concerning the ownership of a piece of land belonging to a temple. The special privileges the Depressed Classes enjoy even to this day point to their former greatness. At the annual festival of the tutelary Goddess of George Town in the premier city of Madras, the Thali or marriage badge is tied round the Goddess by a member of the Depressed Classes in the name of the entire community. A member of the Depressed Classes officiates as Priest at the bull games at Dindigul ; during the great Hindu annual festival at Conjeevaran, Srivilliputtur, Kumbakonam, Trivottyur and other places in the South, the members of the Depressed Classes are allowed to pull the ropes of the huge cars containing the idols. During the festival of Siva at Tiruvalore in the Tanjore District, the headman of the Depressed Classes is specially honoured by being placed on the temple elephant along with the God and made to carry the Chowry in his hand for fanning the idol. In the famous temple of Krishna in Melkote, in the Mysore State, members of the Depressed Classes are accorded special privileges.

[Rao Bahadur M. C. Rajah.]

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : Where do you get all these ? Why special privileges ?

Rao Bahadur M. C. Rajah : You are ignorant of facts and figures, and yet you call yourself a Pandit. Your ancestors were more sensible than you are and so they accorded special privileges. Melkote is the chief seat of the Sri Vaishnavite Brahmins and the place where Sri Ramanuj lived in the 12th century. They enjoy a similar privilege at Sriperambadur in Chingelput district. In the case of a number of temples, there is a periodical admission of the Depressed Classes even under the present practice. Yet Raja Bahadur Krishnamachariar says, as far as human memory could go, these gentlemen never entered a temple. The Valluvars, a section of the Depressed Classes, were priests to the Pallava Kings, before the advent of the Brahmins and even for some time after. Sir Harold Stewart, in the Census Report of 1891, quotes an unpublished Vatteluttu of the 9th century which says that Sri Valluvar, the temple minister, will employ six men daily and do the temple service.

Dr. Gustav Oppert in his book, " The original inhabitants of Bharatvarsha or India ", says :

" Valli is a well-known female name common among the Pariahs and Pallars ". " Subramanya, the South Indian representative of Kartikeya, the son of Siva, is credited with having chosen a South Indian girl called Valli as his wife ". " That Subramanya's wife, Valli, was a low caste South Indian woman ". " Parvati, the wife of Siva and daughter of the mountain Himalaya, is even worshipped as a Pariah woman in her disguise as Matangi."

Sir, there are many sacred places and many holy temples, in South India, but for inspiring the pure joy of religious ecstasy there is perhaps no place equal to Chidambaram where the Divine Essence of the Universe is represented as engaged in an eternal dance of delight. Here, Nanda, belonging to the Depressed Classes whose very existence is one long story of unremitting toil rewarded by poverty, social degradation and religious excommunication panted for a glimpse of that God whose heart is love and whose feet, ever active and ever moving and ever balanced in joy. Did not God release Nanda from bondage to a master who was both an orthodox Brahmin and a landlord ? Did not Nanda aspire for a vision of God while he was still enclosed in flesh ? The image of Nanda is found in all Saiva temples and is worshipped even to this day by the devotees. Among the 63 Nainars or Saivite Saints who are worshipped as Gods the well known Nanda and the holy Thiruvalluvar belong to the Depressed Classes. Did not God order the Brahmin priest to carry Tirupan Alwar, the untouchable vaishnava saint, on his shoulder right into the temple ? Do not the orthodox Brahmins accept that Tirupan Alwar has become one with God Sri Ranganatha at Srirangan in South India ? Do not the Vaishnavite Brahmins chant the verses in the famous work of Tirupan Alwar, " Amaran Adhiparan " in all Vaishnavite temples side by side with the Sanskrit hymns ? Is not the image of the Tirupan Alwar now found in all the Vaishnavite temples in South India and universally worshipped ? Among the twelve Alwars or Vaishnavite saints who are now being worshipped as Gods in Vaishnavite temples, the famous Tirupan Alwar, Nambaduvan and Maraneri Nambi belong to the Depressed Classes. Ravi Das of Oudh, Chokamela of Maharashtra and Hari Das of Bengal have all sprung up from the untouchable classes. So also Arundhati, the wife of Brahmarishi Vasisth, one of the Sapta Rishis, who was famous for her chastity.

An Honourable Member : Where do you get all these from ?

Rao Bahadur M. C. Rajah : I am surprised that these people should call themselves orthodox Pandits and yet are quite ignorant of Hindu history and Hindu religion. These Honourable gentlemen come here in the name of religion to defend Hindu religion and it is a shame that they are ignorant of these things. When Abhimanyu, son of Arjun, was hit by an arrow, what did Subhadra, his mother, do ? She invoked the blessings of Arundhati and her son recovered. What does this show ? This shows the high veneration with which she was held by women of all classes. Jambavan, who was called a bear in Ramayan by the Aryan poet in his conceit, belonged to the Depressed Classes. Jambavan was the custodian of all ancient learning and a mighty warrior. Yet, Sir, Raja Bahadur Krishnamachariar says that the entry of these gentlemen into the temples would desecrate these temples. Sir, these facts show that the so-called untouchables were intimately connected with the important Hindu temples in India and that these temples originally belonged to them. All the ancient Hindu temples in India belonged to the Depressed Classes and not to the Aryans. They were gradually taken over from the Depressed Classes. The following extract from O'Malley's Indian Caste Customs will show how the Brahmins usurped the rights of the Depressed Classes' priests. Sir, O'Malley says :

" A curious example of the way in which Brahmans become associated with non-Brahmanical worship may be mentioned. In Bengal there is a Godling, called Dharmaraj, who is now worshipped in the shape of a stone and credited with powers of healing. His priests are commonly men of the scavanger castes, such as Hari and Dom. In one district some Brahmans suffering from diseases believed to be incurable turned in despair to Dharmaraj, vowed to make offerings if cured, and were miraculously cured. They had to redeem their vows but would not make their votive offerings through the established priest, who was an untouchable Hari. A way out of the impasse was found by installing a low Brahman who was ready to associate himself with the Hari in order to make it a living. The two became partners, each having a clientele of his own, but the Brahman was predominant partner, for he forced the Hari to make his sacrifices of pigs and cocks in the jungle behind the building housing Dharmaraj. Finally the Hari family died out and the Brahman remained in sole possession."

Sir, this was how these temples which belonged to the Depressed Classes passed into the hands of these cunning Brahmans. Sir, in this connection I may also lay certain facts before you to show that God does not make any difference between untouchables and the high caste men. Have you heard of the " Midday Pariahs " a Brahmin sect of old cursed by God Shiva and made outcastes for 90 minutes every day ? This curse continues to this day in Tiruwalur in Tanjore district, from where my leader Raja Bahadur Krishnamachariar comes. Certain high caste priests in Tiruwalur once decided upon holding a yagna or great sacrifice and to request Ishvara or God to be present on the occasion and to receive the offerings in person. A deputation waited on the presiding deity. But the deity would not think of moving from his place, but wanted the offerings at the temple. Through the intervention of the Goddess word came to them that God Shiva would be present at the function, but that he would not be dictated to as to the mode of his dress. The priests agreed saying, " Oh, yes, let him come as he pleases ; what difference can it make to us ? " The priests were dressed in immaculate dress. The sacrificial fire was glowing and the smell of butter hung heavily in the air. There were only a few seconds more for Shiva to arrive. But no signs of his coming. But just at twelve, the appointed hour, the priests saw an outcaste, carrying a carcass on his back and followed by four dogs with his wife in Pariah garb. To avoid their being getting polluted by this outcaste and his wife, they took to their heels not caring what became of their yagna. But the deity, for it was He who had come with the Goddess in that dress with the four Vedas as the dogs, symbolically accepted the gifts, blessed the really pious and departed in haste. But He outcasted the priests who had fled. Through the intervention of the Goddess, Shiva laid it down that they shall be untouchables only for half a jama (90 minutes) a day. All men are equal in the eyes of God. God is for the sinners and the oppressed and not for the orthodox, who think they are righteous.

Sir, these clearly indicate that such a low state was never a natural state and those responsible for creating such a state could have easily sought and found an authority for such a state in the ancient and sacred books. The state of law was in so confused a condition, so capable of being lent for any interpretation, that it was no wonder that any number of texts could be found in the ancient books by those who were anxious to search for it to prove that the ancestors of these untouchables were real devils. Imagine in what state these authorities must have been in those dark ages when the white races flushed by the sense of conquest sought to create and render permanent its own superiority and the corresponding inferiority of the conquered races. How easy would have been the task and are we for ever to be in a state of religious serfdom because of these texts ? Sir Thomas Strange, whose monumental contribution to the development of Hindu law is well recognised, writes thus :

" To those who have made the Hindu law a part of their study, it cannot appear strange that it is so unsettled and contradictory. Many of the opposing writers are in point of credit equal to each other, and regardless of consistency texts are adopted for each for the purpose of sustaining his own end. The obsolete is confounded with the acknowledged law. The context is often omitted and passages which ought to be relatively considered are quoted as if they are absolute and independent in themselves. We cannot therefore wonder that so little satisfaction is obtained from authority. Nor can we but lament that some effort has not long since been made to distinguish and separate those which are not rules of action."

These remarks of a great scholar in Hindu law correctly describes the state, and one wonders how any correction can be centred on a state of law in this condition. We believe that ignorance alone can justify so blind a faith and the objection from the class that swears on the holy books may be set aside as unworthy of consideration.

The learned author of this Bill considers the impossibility of the disability being ever removed by any method beside legislation. The final pronouncement of the highest judiciary in the land in 35 Indian Appeals, 176, shattered the hopes of those who believed that by a series of judicial decisions this much desired removal of disability could be effected. But the pronouncement of the Privy Council would be no surprise to those who knew the unwillingness of the British jurist to interfere with the personal usages and customs of the people of India. Though those now trained in a system of democratic jurisprudence realise all the inequity of certain rules of law they are unwilling to interfere. But whenever the legislature did intervene to correct such inequities they have been beneficent measures. In actual life we have experienced the benefits of legislation and we need have no apprehension for the future in putting this Bill on the Statute-book. The sooner this disability is removed the better for our religion and the sooner these ancient barriers are broken, the ancient gulf is bridged, the earlier will be the unity of the race of Hindus realised.

Sir, there is no ingredient in the universe separate from Brahma, that to look upon the world of merits and demerits with an eye of absolute equality is the only means of liberation, that to view all things as Brahman is the only means of salvation. To the pure all things are pure. This is the basic principle of Hinduism. What did Sree Krishna say in the Gita ?

" See me in every one. If you insult any one, you insult me in him. If you disdain any one, you disdain me in him. If you love me, love every one, for then alone do you really and fully love me."

Sir, this Bill confers on millions of untouchables certain benefits and removes from them the age-long stigma of inferiority, confers on the emancipated a sense of self-respect and is the greatest contribution towards the abolition of untouchability in this land.

With these words, I support the amendment of my friend, Mr. Sarma, that the Bill be circulated for eliciting opinion thereon by the end of June, 1934.

Rai Bahadur Kunwar Raghubir Singh (Agra Division : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Sir, at the outset I must admire the ingenuity of the authors of the Bill, but, before I express an opinion on the Bill, I must show the genesis of the measure. It is undoubted that the majority of the educated people in the country are in favour of temple entry and all the English papers except the Indian Mirror are in favour of temple entry. There is no doubt also that the religious consciousness of the people is on the increase and I have heard the objections and read the views of the orthodox people on this question. Their first objection is the want of cleanliness in the Depressed Class people. But, Sir, that objection is gradually failing. I have seen even in villages that the Depressed Class people are cleaner than the Brahmans or the high caste people. The second objection is about customs and usages. But, Sir, when the times are changing, I do not see how the old customs and usages can continue. We must and we will have to change with the times if we are to live in this world. The third objection, as the Honourable Member has just pointed out, is that Dr. Ambedkar does not want temple entry. Well, what he said was that temple entry was a side issue, but he wanted bread for the poor people. The fourth objection is that the mere sight will pollute the deity or idol. But this view does not stand on strong ground, because we see in melas when the processions are taken out, and when the idols are taken out, everybody sees them, and there is no prayaschit or cleaning of the idol after the procession has been taken out. The fifth objection is that the jugmohan or the place where the idol is installed is too sacred to allow anybody to go there : it is sacred even for the ordinary people ; even a Brahmin like myself cannot go inside the jugmohan, and I cannot go unless I am dressed as the priest wants me to dress.....

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Are you orthodox or liberal ?

Rai Bahadur Kunwar Raghubir Singh : I am a liberal. I do not see any objection if these people are allowed to enter the compound, if not the jugmohan. The sixth objection is that twice-born people only can go there. By twice-born what I have understood is that those who are invested with the sacred thread are considered to be twice-born. But now with the change of times, I see that even the Depressed Classes are using the sacred thread. So I do not know how this difficulty is going to be solved. The seventh objection of these orthodox people is that the private temples cannot be thrown open to these Depressed Classes, but the public temples are always open. Now, Srijut Dhirendra Kanta Lahiri Chaudhury said that there was no public temple. But in our provinces there are goddesses under the trees : they have a small temple and everybody has a right to go there, and if there is an image of Lord Shiva, then if nobody is there to look after the image, it is open to everybody and everybody goes there and can do puja and worship.....

An Honourable Member : Then what more is wanted ?

Rai Bahadur Kunwar Raghubir Singh : I am giving your views and your objections, and I will come to my views later on. Their last objection is that, if this Bill is passed, then the orthodox people will not go to the temples, that they will leave off visiting the temple and so the purpose for which they were built will not be attained. But I see that orthodox people, barring a few exceptions, are not very keen on going to temples. I myself go to the temple once a year or twice a year.....

An Honourable Member : So frequently as that !

Rai Bahadur Kunwar Raghubir Singh : So seldom I should say. The next consideration in this connection, as has been pointed out, is that God did not differentiate between man and man. If we see a man, we cannot say that he is a Depressed Class man or that he is an orthodox man or a Sanatanist or Arya Samajist : it is not written on his forehead that he is an untouchable. If an outsider were asked to see Rao Bahadur Raja and Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen, he cannot differentiate between them. (Laughter.) Then we know that there was Raidas in my province, a great bhakta or worshipper of God ; he was a chamar by caste ; and there was Sadna, a butcher ; and Kabir who was a spinner, not of the Gandhi type, of course, but he was a great worshipper of God : they were all great bhaktas.....

Mr. B. R. Puri (West Punjab : Non-Muhammadan) : Kabir was a Punjab man.

Rai Bahadur Kunwar Raghubir Singh : But he lived in Benares ; they were all Depressed Class people, but they are considered to be the teachers of mankind. Honourable Members must have heard the name of Mira, the great Princess of Udaipur, who is considered to be the Rani of all Hindus : she belonged to that family and she became a worshipper of God, a bhakta, and she went to Benares and adopted this Raidas as her Guru. So it is admitted on all hands that these people have been teachers of mankind. So there are people even among the Depressed Classes who are good ; all men are not of the same kind. There is a proverb or motto which is believed even by Christians, and perhaps also by Muhammadans, that " to serve man is to serve God ". If we cannot serve God in a proper manner, we have to serve man ; if we consider man to be below beasts, we are not serving God. There is a story, I think it is a fact, that Lord Ram Chandra, who is considered to be an avatar of Vishnu, ate the eaten berries of a Bhilni (wife of a Bhil).....

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : Where did you get it from ?

Rai Bahadur Kunwar Raghubir Singh : Everybody knows it : it is in the Ramayan, and I can show it to you.

In view of all these considerations, I come to the conclusion that the Depressed Class people should be allowed to enter into the outer precincts of the temple. As for the notice spoken of in the Bill, private temples should be excluded from the notice which is required to be given by those who want to enter the temple.

There has been another suggestion by Mr. Lahiri Chaudhury that they should build their own temples ; but the Depressed Classes are very poor people and they cannot afford to build so many temples as to afford facilities to everybody. So I would suggest to the orthodox people to contribute to and start a fund to build new temples for them ; and I would advise the orthodox people not to think that the great Sanatan Dharma, which has stood up for several centuries, in spite of the attacks by other religions, can be killed by this temple entry question. I do not think so. It will go on as it has been going on. If we show any regard for the Depressed Classes, then there is no doubt that national solidarity is bound to come. This is one result which will be produced by allowing facilities to the Depressed Classes ; and the other which some speakers doubt is Swaraj. But I know also the fact that most of my constituents are against temple entry as such, because most of them are illiterate and hence oppose it. Therefore, I will support Pandit Ram Krishna Jha's amendment that it should be sent for eliciting opinion, because religious matters should not be brought before Legislatures and this is the opinion expressed by our great Sanatanists leader, Pandit Madan Mohan Malaviya.

Then, the fear has been expressed that there may be civil war among the Hindus, but I say that this is just the time when such a thing should not happen, and, therefore, Sir, I would advise caution in the matter. There is no doubt that great interest has been aroused and no disabilities of any kind must remain so far as the Depressed Classes are concerned ; but, Sir, these disabilities cannot be wiped out in a day ; it will take time. Orthodox people are alienating the sympathies of their own kith and kin which, I am afraid, will recoil on their own heads. So I will request them to be equally cautious. They should remember that the days of orthodoxy are numbered and we cannot plough the same furrow for ever.

Mr. Amar Nath Dutt : Sir, at the very outset I must make my position clear. I am not an orthodox Hindu, but I am a representative of a division with a population of 15 lakhs, the majority of which are orthodox Hindus. Sir, my constituency includes the sacred town of Katwa where Shri Chaitanya Dev had his initiation or Sanyas. Be that as it may, I have always held that this Legislature is not the proper place where we can discuss things of this character. These are questions which are personal to every individual. A man may believe in one God, or several Gods, and may be an idol worshipper, or he may be an atheist or agnostic. When I heard some of the speakers, who preceded me, I felt that I was in a theological class room taking my elementary lessons on God and how to worship Him. If I had been really a student, I would have been in difficulty to decide whether to follow my friend over there, Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen, or my friend over here, Mr. Rajah.....

Rao Bahadur M. C. Rajah : Follow me.

Mr. Amar Nath Dutt : But in my judgment these things are matters for discussion in a theological class room and not in this Legislature. A man's faith is his personal concern and should not be interfered with by the Legislature. It is for me also to choose what company I shall keep, and what faith I shall pursue. If I say to my friend, Pandit Sen : "Pandit Sen, excuse me, I cannot bear your sight, please be off from me",—the Legislature ought not to force me to associate with Pandit Sen.

Mr. B. R. Puri : If that becomes law, you would see the opposite benches cleared and English people packed off.

Mr. Amar Nath Dutt : I am not so narrowminded as my friend over there from the Punjab. It has been our lot to live here with several foreigners, in fact we who are the descendants of our Aryan forefathers, are also foreigners. We came from Central Asia. It is one thing for the Dravidians from the South to say that they are not foreigners, but we Aryans, who came from Central Asia, are also foreigners. After us came the Rajputs, then came the Pathans and Moghuls and after them came the Englishmen. Sir, if we are to drive out any foreigner, I think India will have to ask every one of us to make an exit excepting my friends from the land of Jambubans. What I submit is, we should seriously consider whether it is the function of the Legislature to legislate on matters like these. I think I may claim to be a member of the Depressed Class, and I would like to be a member of the Depressed Class considering the Poona Pact and its effect on Bengal ; I welcome to be a member of the Depressed Class, and the Kayasthas would welcome to be members of the Depressed Class in view of the political advantage we are likely to gain in Bengal owing to the blessed Poona Pact.....

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Is it only for election purposes ?

Mr. Amar Nath Dutt : Yes, in these days, election covers every field of activity as my friend knows very well. If my friend's political life goes away, then he is nowhere. I think he will admit this. I know there are Brahmins who will not take water from my hands, but I have never made a grievance of it. I have my own family God, as every Hindu has, and I know the Honourable the Law Member has also got his own family God in his village which is just close to mine, but he is not allowed, in spite of his high position, to touch his own God,—and I am sure he will bear me out, that neither he nor his brother of revered memory ever made a grievance of it. These are questions which one must settle for himself outside this hall. Here we are concerned mainly with the laws of the country and the policy of the Government, and not with urging any social or religious reform. One thing is quite clear, that the men who are very keen on temple entry are men who are themselves not believers in idol worship, and it appears to me that they are carrying on a sort of vendetta against the orthodox community.....

An Honourable Member : It is a political game.

Mr. Amar Nath Dutt : I did not support the orthodox community when they excommunicated the people who went abroad in those days. They were compelled to live the life of a foreigner in their own land ; they were almost like outcastes. Of course, those days have gone now, but without taking names—many names occur to me, and I think my friend over there from East Bengal who is laughing knows what they are,—many people carried on a tirade against idol worship, and established another theistic Church by the name of Brâhmo Samaj, and it is at their instigation that this vendetta is being carried on against the orthodox community, to which I cannot be a party. As I have already said, it will be a negation of democracy if we are allowed to legislate about faiths and social customs and manners, unless it be of the nature of Sati. Had it been a permissive legislation, I would not have minded it. It is all very well now to play to the galleries and say that all the newspapers are supporting it excepting the one paper the Indian Mirror. Many of us know the fourth estate, and nothing has pained me more than this that they have at times to say things which will help them to sell their paper well. That is really a deplorable state of things.

Sir, as I do not wish that Pandit Sen, or, for the matter of that, Pandit Ram Krishna Jha, should compel me to keep a chutka over my head or recite sandyavandan or not to take food brought by men who are not of my caste—as I do not like that they should have any right to legislate like that, so also I do not wish to compel them to act in a way in which I would like to see them act—that they should throw their idols away, or they should take food from the hands of my Honourable friend over there, Mr. Rajah, or, for the matter of that, from the hands of those who are non-Hindus. I do not want to compel them to do so. This is a simple thing, whether or not we can force our own views upon others as you do not like that they should subject us to accepting their views in matters of faith and social custom. I do not believe that those gentlemen who are very keen and vociferous about the support of this Bill really in their heart of hearts think that it is necessary. I for my part can say for Bengal that there is no such thing as untouchability in my own province, and the division into Depressed Classes and Caste Hindus which has been made by the Poona Pact is one of the greatest blows that have been offered in recent years to the political progress of my province.

My Honourable friend has quoted from the Vedas and other sacred books, while my friend over there has quoted Mr. O'Malley and Sir Thomas Strange. Both of them tried to give certain interpretations about religious rites and customs and about the historical origin of certain religions. But one thing about which my Honourable friend quoted, namely, from Mr. O'Malley,—I think I know better than many of us here, probably save and except the Law Member, about the Dharmaraj which is peculiar to Western Bengal and that part of Western Bengal from where we hail. My Honourable friend did not really follow the true spirit of Mr. O'Malley's few lines, for if he had understood them, he would have seen that they did not support his case. On the other hand, it supported my Honourable friend, Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen's case. Be that as it may, I am not here either to support Pandit Sen or to oppose him, but I say this that Bills like this should not be allowed to come into this House. Unfortunately when it has been allowed to come in, I think that if we make short work of that, it will be better for us. With these words, I appeal to the House not to waste its time any more on wrangling about matters on which we cannot agree, and about which we intend not to agree and are determined not to agree.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I rise on behalf of Government not to express any opinion on the merits of this Bill, but to say quite shortly that we agree to the proposal that the Bill should be circulated for opinion. In saying that, I do not want the position of Government in any way to be misunderstood. Our agreement to the circulation of this measure must not be taken in any way as implying support to its provisions. It is true that the Government, as I think most Honourable Members in this House, have a feeling of sympathy for the Depressed Classes and are anxious to do what they can to promote their social and economic improvement. But it was made sufficiently clear by my Honourable friend, Mr. Lahiri Chaudhury, that it is possible to hold those views and yet to oppose the Bill.

Now, Sir, I think it would be most convenient if you will permit me to read out a portion of the statement which the Government issued on the 23rd January last, because memories are short and this was a considered statement of the position of the Government and I should like on this occasion, if I may, to repeat it :

"The Governor General is not prepared to deny to the Central Legislature an opportunity of considering these proposals and is therefore according his sanction to the introduction of the Bills. But the Governor General and the Government of India desire to make it plain that in their opinion it is essential that the consideration of any such measure should not proceed unless the proposals are subjected to the fullest examination in all their aspects, not merely in the Legislature, but also outside it, by all who would be affected by them. This purpose can only be satisfied if the Bill is circulated in the widest possible manner for the purpose of eliciting public opinion, and if adequate time is given to enable all classes of Hindus to form and express their considered views. It must also be understood that the grant of sanction to the introduction of these Bills, in this as in other cases in which previous sanction is required, does not in any way commit the Government to acceptance or support of the principles contained in them and that the Government of India retain a free hand to take at later stages such action in regard to these proposals as may, upon a full consideration of the circumstances, appear necessary."

That, Sir, is the position of the Government.

With regard to the date of circulation, there is little for me to say, for only one date is in fact before the House, that is, the 30th June, 1934. That, Sir, seems to us to be a reasonable date in order to secure the objects we are aiming at, namely, eliciting public opinion in the widest possible manner and giving adequate time for views to be formed and expressed.

The only other point I have to deal with is the question whether the Bill should be circulated in the ordinary way or should be circulated only to certain limited classes. I think I may say that the view of Government is that, if the Bill is to be circulated, we should secure the fullest possible circulation. We want this matter fully ventilated, fully discussed and fully considered.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : Is it not against the spirit of your communiqué ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. I think it is entirely in accordance with it. It refers to all classes of Hindus.....

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : All classes of Hindus.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : And I think from a practical point of view, it would hardly be possible to limit the circulation of the Bill as has been proposed by some Honourable Members. Government, therefore, propose to give their support to the amendment of my Honourable friend, Mr. Sarma.

Some Honourable Members : Let the question be now put.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : Sir, the orthodox point of view has been ventilated at great length for about two days and the other side of the case has not been put to the House.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : There is certainly no objection to allow the discussion to continue. The Chair only thought that those who support the Bill are anxious to send it out for circulation.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : I am very much obliged to you for giving me an opportunity of expressing my views on this very important Bill. It is very well known that this Bill has been opposed by a section of the Hindu community who call themselves Sanatanists, but I may assure this House that I consider myself to be a better Sanatanist than many of them. I believe in one God and I believe in the brotherhood of many. I consider all men to be equal. It is the Sanatanists who want to create divisions among Hindus and want to perpetuate them. My learned friend, Pandit Sen, defined Dharma in three categories, belief in the infallibility of the Vedas, belief in the existence of God and belief in re-birth. But I may tell him that the Mimamsa School, who have a strong faith in the infallibility of the Vedas, do not believe in the existence of God and still my learned friend will not deny that the followers of the Mimamsa School are Sanatanists or Hindus.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : It is not a fact that the Mimamsa School does not believe in the existence of God.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : It is a fact. You may read the books on the subject.

Pandit Ram Krishna Jha : A little knowledge is a dangerous thing.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : Quite true. You may wear that cap, it will fit you. As regards re-birth, many of the Hindus do not believe in it and still they are Hindus. I believe in re-birth ; but I have come across a number of men who do not believe in it and still are as good Hindus as you and I. So I want to point out that the definition of Hinduism that my learned friend has given not be accepted in its entirety. As a matter of fact, I have said it is hardly possible to define Hinduism accurately.

[Mr B. V. Jadhav.]

Now, the second point that I wish to touch upon is that the Sanatanist always relies on the Queen's Proclamation and says that Government ought not to interfere with religion. I may draw the attention of the House to section 67 of the Government of India Act and I do not think that the framers of that Act or the British Legislature that passed the Act had no regard for the Queen's Proclamation. They had every regard for the Queen's Proclamation and I do not think they have violated the terms of that Proclamation by enacting this law. Section 67, sub-section (2) says that it shall not be lawful, without the previous sanction of the Governor General, to introduce at any meeting of either Chamber of the Indian Legislature any measure affecting the religion or the religious rites and usages of any class of British subjects in India. So, with the previous sanction of the Governor General, any such measure can be introduced in either House and if both Houses accept that measure, it can pass it into law with the Governor General's sanction.

I may point out that according to the Manu Smriti, on which the Pandits mainly rely, the fountain head of religious usages is the King. It is he who has to determine what is religion and what is not, what is proper and what is not proper. He is to be advised by a council of learned Brahmins, but they are councillors and their advice may be taken, accepted or rejected. It is the king who has to determine everything. And if you will look into the practice, you will find that the King has intervened on many occasions. In my own Presidency, there had been many instances in which the king settled cases even against Brahmins. It is the king who can put Brahmins out of caste and re-admit them into the caste. This practice was followed in the days of the Muhammadans also. They did give their decisions on religious matters. After the advent of the John Company in Calcutta, it is on record that in the days of Warren Hastings, the Courts of East India Company decided such matters and the Hindu Bania of Warren Hastings presided in his stead. In the province of Madras also, there were religious courts presided over by English Collectors and their decisions have been brought into execution. A foreign Government, a Christian Government, saw the inconvenience of giving decisions in religious matters and the British people ultimately adopted the policy of neutrality. The Queen's Proclamation affirms that attitude of neutrality. The British Government by themselves will not interfere in religious matters. They will observe religious toleration and will allow people to go in their own way. But, beyond this, the Queen's Proclamation cannot go. Now, Sir, the Indian Legislature has been formed and rights of autonomy have been given to a certain extent. Therefore, it is but natural that religious questions should be allowed to be discussed in the Legislature and decided according to the votes of the majority. It is for the Governor General to see that the majority does not rule over the minority unreasonably or that the religion of the minority is not interfered with unnecessarily. For that purpose the provision in section 67 of requiring the sanction of the Governor General is made and that is quite enough.

Shastras are flung in our face and it is said that the Rishis have say, this and said that and that usages ought not to be changed. But, 1934. examines the course of events in ancient India and of even my secure the it will be found that religious practices have been consta in the widest

My learned friend said that there were no temples in the Krita and 4 P.M. Yugas, and he says that these temples were duced in later ages. Is it not a change in the religious practices ? The religion has been always changing, although learned Pandits and Sanatanists have been boasting of its remaini constant and unalterable according to their ideas of what they think a constant and unalterable. But if they will think for a moment, they will find that every age, nay every day there have been material changes going on.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : There has been no change in the basic principles.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : Basic principles ! We left them long long ago. There is only one basic principle, namely, there is one God and there is one Varna. The one Varna you have split into four and added the fifth, although the Vedas particularly say that there is no fifth. You have now split that into thousands of castes.

Now, Sir, let us see how this untouchable community came into existence. My learned friend has given us the clue and I have read the same thing in the only paper that is supporting Sanatanism, the Indian Mirror. By the by, I may point out to the House that there was an admission on the part of the Sanatanists that the whole Indian Press, with the exception of this newly started Indian Mirror, is in favour of temple entry.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : The papers have been bought over.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : But the papers are for the people and if the people like the ideas promulgated in these papers, you cannot deny that the whole majority of their readers are for temple entry and in favour of the doctrines that are preached in these papers. The Indian Mirror is a paper brought out by the Sanatanists and I have to express my thanks to the management of that paper that they give me a copy gratis. I would not pay for it, certainly. And I do make some use of that paper.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : You are again making the mistake of relying upon votes.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : In this House we have to rely upon votes : so the argument against votes does not stand in this House.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : But this House was not intended for discussing religious matters.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : We shall speak about it afterwards. It is the ng that has to decide in religious matters and the present Legislature nds in the place of the King. The King is there to give the ultimate tion. Now, the Indian Mirror also said, as my friend, the Pandit, has that the Chandalas came into existence as a result of connections. It not say promiscuous connections. I grant, for the sake of argument, e issues of a Brahman woman and a Shudra were classed as Chan- Perhaps a Brahman woman may have thought a Shudra to be a ate, but that is by the bye. There is no expiation according to the nd his doctrine is that once a Chandala is born, he and his for hundreds and thousands of generations should remain What is this argument ?

ndit Satyendra Nath Sen : I did not mean that. A ala may be born as a Brahman in the next birth.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : One does not know when that next birth is to e. We are living in the present time and you cannot ask the Chandalas be satisfied with the promise of better birth in the future. Sir, it is a ery anomalous position that the Sanatanists have put themselves into. The Sanatanists are great advocates of the four fold system of Varnas and hey particularly say that there is no fifth. So, what do they say ? Do hey say that the untouchables or the Chandalas belong to the Shudra lass or do they belong to some class other than Shudras ? If they are Hindus, they must come somewhere within its fold of the four Varnas. f they do not come within that fold, then they must be outside Hinduism. do not know what stand the Sanatanists are going to take. I do not now whether they are going to admit them as Shudras or going to put them utside the pale of the four Varnas.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : They belong to no Varna.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : If they do not belong to any Varna, then, I subit, that they do not come within the fold of Hindu religion; because, the Hindu religion is based upon the four fold division of Varnas. If they re outside these Varnas, then they are not Hindus and then the question ecomes very simple.

My learned friends have got great sympathy for the Chandalas or the epressed Classes and my friend, the Pandit, advises them to stick to their rofessions and not aspire for higher loaves and fishes. He instanced proessions such as washerman, etc. I heard him say something about washerien and barbers. But in a private talk with him, he admitted that barbers ere not untouchable. but the washermen, are. Now, on my side I may oint out that a washerman is not an untouchable at all. What about the asherman who washes the clothes of the learned Pandit ? The washerman is an untouchable, but the clothes he washes are not untouchable.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : They are washed at home.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : Yes, a few drops of water are sprinkled on them. hat practice was followed in my younger days. But what a travesty of leanliness that is. If a few drops of water can purify a cloth washed by asherman who is a Chandala, then the conscience of my learned friend ust be a very convenient one and it becomes satisfied by a very small purication. The less said about this affair, the better. My learned friend ays that if the untouchables enter into temples, the Gods will be polluted.

What is going to purify those Gods which are being polluted ? It e droppings of the cow. A cow goes every where and eats all undesiral ings and perhaps even the droppings of the untouchables themselv nd that cow is very sacred for my Honourable friend. I know, some ears ago, in the temple of Srirangan, a Smartha Brahmin Sanyasi wen rostrated himself before the God, and the learned Brahmins of that aishnavites, declared that the God was polluted by the Smartha S owing down to the God, because he belonged to another sect. llution was washed away by the Brahmins in dinners. When rahmins think that expiation ceremony should be performed, the mptuously feast themselves for purification. These pollution he belly of the Brahmins. When the untouchables will be and when they will be allowed to rise in life, and they will feed th mins, those Brahmins will write out some books in which they w that they have descended from certain Kshatriya Kings or from e Rishis, and so on.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : Try to make them rich first.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : But you don't allow them to become rich.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : But why temple entry, if they wan to become rich ?

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : Temple entry is a symbol. There is my friend, Mr. Lahiri Chaudhury, who sympathises with everybody and gives a very good tip to Mr. Gandhi and those who are the friends of the Depressed Classes. He says, let them have separate temples. A very good idea indeed. As I said just now, the question of temple entry is not the be-all and end-all. Those who ask for the temple entry, ask people to recognise that the Depressed Classes men are men and, as human beings, they have got their own rights. Up to this time the children of the Depressed Classes were not allowed to attend ordinary schools conducted at the expense of public money. They were not allowed to make use of Dharamsalas which were erected at the expense of public money. These elementary rights of equality of all subjects were denied to these unfortunate people. The question on their part is the demand of equality and it is to be seen whether this House is going to recognise their claim to equality or not. This question of temple entry is merely a symbol. If they are Hindus, they have got the rights of other Hindus and if the other Hindus go to pay their obeisance to the Gods, then a fortiori, the Depressed Classes ought to be allowed to do the same.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : Have all the Caste Hindus equal rights ?

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : They ought to have. If they have not, it is a wrong which ought to be righted as early as possible. One wrong will not justify another wrong.

Sir, I should like to say only a few words about the condemnation of the Poona Pact by the people of Bengal. I fully realise that the condition of the advanced communities in Bengal who are technically called Bhadraloks.....

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : Is a reference to the Poona Pact relevant to the present discussion ?

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : There has been reference already to the Poona Pact in the course of the discussion.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : The Honourable Member, Mr. Lahiri haudhury, was ruled out of order by the Deputy President when he made eference to the Poona Pact.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : A de d discussion will not be allowed, but if any Honourable Member just a reference, that will be in order.

r. B. V. Jadhav : Upto this time the Depressed Classes, and even ho do not belong to the fortunate class of Bhadraloks, were com lost sight of in Indian politics and were not allowed to have any ation in the Councils. Now, when by efforts of their own leade

B. V. Jadhav.]

. Ambedkar and Mr. Rajah, their claims have come to be recognised hen the Bhadraloks see that the tables are likely to be turned upon they are going to condemn the Poona Pact. It is very inconvenient hem, for they will suffer in the Legislatures. There is no doubt about t and I sympathise with them. But all these years they have been sing as the leaders of the Depressed Classes. The Brahmins in my part f the country and also in your part of the country, Sir, did the same a ew years ago. But the non-Brahmins began to demand their rights and o demand equal position in society and in the Legislatures and in the ame way it is but right and natural that the claims of the Depressed Classes ought to be adequately recognised. My advice to the advanced ommunities or to those who now feel strongly against the Poona Pact is hat if the voting strength is with the Depressed Classes, then, according o the voting strength, they must secure seats. If you are ready to do hem justice and if you want to win their confidence, then in the long run ou will not suffer, because the total number of Hindu seats will remain he same. But if you desire to exploit them and take advantage of their ackwardness, then certainly the representatives of the Depressed Classes vill have to oppose you in the Indian Legislatures and claim their rights. his is but natural. All these troubles have been brought about by the elfish motives and the selfish actions of certain Sanatanist communities.

Mr. Amar Nath Dutt : Please use better expression.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : If that expression offends you, I am ready to withdraw.

Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen : You need not withdraw. We are ecustomed to these offensive expressions.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : All I say is that the Depressed Classes ought to e recognised as human beings and if they are Hindus—and I hold them to e Hindus—they should enjoy all the rights of the Hindus. I give my upport to this Bill and to the motion of Mr. Ranga Iyer that it be circulated for eliciting public opinion. I may point out that according to the mendment tabled by Sanatanists, I shall have every right to give my ote. I do not come under any of the categories they intend to exclude. question may be asked whether I will go to temples.

Mr. Amar Nath Dutt : You do not go to the temples, but your wife oes.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : I went to the temple in my childhood. I do not hink there is any use going there now.

Mr. Amar Nath Dutt : So the temple is pure.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : They have been as pure as they were before. Th rahmins who do puja have not improved in their manners, or their mora do not support the original motion. I hope the motion for circulat ill be carried.

Some Honourable Members : The question may be put.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) uestion is that the question be now put.

The motion was adopted.

and, therefore, my Honourable friend, the Mover of this Bill, has thou it to put the word " vicinity " instead of the word " locality ". It ma said that locality might be considered to be vicinity. But vicinity wo mean close neighbourhood. Objection may be taken that there might be houses or villages nearby within three or four or five miles of scene and that if a person is brought from another place further a he may not be considered to be a person of the vicinity. But such ca where the distances are very long are very rare and in those case even if this change is made, vicinity will mean the nearest place thoug the nearest village may be six or seven miles away. Therefore, knowing the mischief that is now being done, I would recommend that this amendment should be made.

I pass on to the third amendment. This is with regard to section 167 of the Criminal Procedure Code. Under this section the police are authorised to take prisoners in custody to the magistrate if they wa to investigate the case for more than 24 hours, for what is technic called a " remand ". The present practice is that if the police th there is no representation on behalf of the accused, they take the acc to the Court : but often they take him to the residence of magistrates, and what is objected to by this amendment is that should not be taken to private residences of magistrates. Another a ment is that before giving a remand, the accused must be hear his counsel should be given a hearing. I say, this is a very s amendment. At present the police take a man before a magist the magistrate passes an order ex parte : I suggest that the giving should be done publicly, and if it is done publicly, i done in Court and, therefore, this amendment is a good one. to the other point about the accused being accompanied his being allowed to say his say whether a remand dinarily the police want remands that. They are not jurisdiction hat. I ase and section 205 should be amended in order to take away t ord "summons" occurring there, and to alter it to say that whe r an accused person is complained against, it will be in the discretion the magistrate to give him personal exemption. I need not say nything more and I think this will appeal to the House.

Then I proceed to section 386. This section refers to cases where an accused person is sentenced to fine and in default he is directed to undergo imprisonment. Now, the section itself provides that if he undergoes imprisonment and his fine has not been recovered till then, the magistrate has got power either not to issue warrant or to issue warrant for the purpose of realising that fine. Now, this amendmer proposes that if the man has already undergone imprisonment in lieu o that fine, the fine should not still be taken from him and the power o agistrate that is vested in him to issue a warrant or not to issue it ould be amended. If a man is not able to pay the fine or the money s not been recovered till he has actually undergone the imprisonment, should the sword of Damocles, I mean the warrant, hang over him ? ore, I think this amendment is also quite reasonable.

s I was saying, my friend has selected very reasonable amendments he Criminal Procedure Code. I hope I have shown that all are very important points, and there remains only one more, which very briefly allude to.

, Sir, this remaining amendment refers to section 406 of the Procedure Code. This allows an appeal when a man is con- for what is popularly called "badmashi". d by the Mover is that section 30 should be omitted now. It will l that this section 30 was originally intended, as appears from th ing of the section, to apply to those non-regulated provinces where were no Sessions Courts and the Courts' work was mostly done by tant Commissioners and Deputy Commissioners. At present it applies Burma, Sind, Central Provinces and certain parts of the Punjab where here are Commissioners. This section appears in the Criminal Procedure Code since long, and is it not time now for Government not to give these powers to magistrates ? We find that in Sind, for instance, which was formerly considered as a non-regulated province, there are now Sessions Courts in every district. Not only that, but there are also Additional and Assistant Sessions Judges. There are also first-class Subordinate Judges who have got criminal powers and yet these magistrates are given such large powers. I submit that it is not required at this time and, so far as this section is concerned, it is high time that it should now be deleted. It may be said that at present there are very few magistrates who are given these powers, but that is not so. I assure you that in every district you will find one or two magistrates having powers under section 30 and they exercise these powers in the face of the Sessions Court sitting only at a short distance. I do not understand why these powers should be given to them. If there is any political consideration, it would be different, but it is not done from that point of view at all. It applies to ordinary persons, and why should the people, who are accused before them, not claim to be tried in a regular Sessions Court where the procedure is better, the consideration is better and the authority is better.

Sir, I will now deal with the second amendment which is with gard to section 103 of the Criminal Procedure Code. I will explain to the House what section 103 is. It says that the police have got power to go and search a certain person's house if they suspe ave got reasonable grounds for believing that he has goi operty or any such thing in his house. Section 103 require some respectable persons of the locality must be present at the the search. At present the word in the Criminal Procedur "locality". This word in practice has been abused by the p I will explain how. The intention of the Legislature is clea namely, that they should take some respectable people from bourhood, so that they will be such persons as can see that do not do anything wrong and, if they do anything wrong, bours will have the courage to come forward and speak th not join the police in the fabrication of anything wrong. of the police now,—and I say it as a result of an experience practice,—is this : They start from their thana which or seven or eight miles away from the scene and take with persons from their own thana town—not police officers, but are more or less at their beck and call or at any rate peop be ready to join hands with them if there be any difficulty fo tion. These persons are considered to be persons of the l scene be so many miles away. What is wanted by th this, that the very object of the section should be namely, persons of the neighbourhood should be pre

THE CODE OF CRIMINAL PROCEDURE (AMENDMENT) BILL.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The House will now take up further consideration of the following motion moved by Sardar Sant Singh on the 9th February, 1933 :

"That the Bill further to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Honourable Sir Harry Haig, Sir Hari Singh Gour, Mr. S. C. Mitra, Rao Bahadur B. L. Patil, Mr. Lalchand Navalrai, Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury, Mian Muhammad Shah Nawaz, Mr. B. R. Puri, Sir Abdur Rahim, Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh, Mr. D. G. Mitchell, Rao Bahadur S. R. Pandit and the Mover, and that the number of members whose presence shall be necessary to constitute a meeting of the Committee shall be five."

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai (Sind : Non-Muhammadan) : Sir, this is a legal subject and I find I have every right as a lawyer to say something or this Bill. Sir, it appears to me that the sections of the Criminal Procedur Code which are sought to be amended are very important sectior One mistake that I consider has been done by the Mover is this that wants six sections to be amended at once by one Bill. That might com- te and might confuse at least those who are not lawyer Member er, I shall try to put the sections clearly to the House to s r the proposed amendments are reasonable or not. The fi. of the Criminal Procedure Code which the Honourable the Mover amend is section 30. That section provides that even ere be a Sessions Court working, Government have got the power t special Magistrates who can be given full powers to pass any less than death. In other words, a magistrate having first-class he can ordinarily give only two years' imprisonment, is given section power to pass sentences up to anything less than death. nd that such magistrates are given these powers after a few eir service and we find that these magistrates always pass nces. They are given big cases, for instance, cases under sec- the Indian Penal Code which deals with attempt to commit they pass sentences in these cases. And you can see clearly agistrate's Court the procedure is that of a magistrate and not essions Court where cases are tried with the aid of a jury or e can sit as a magistrate, go through the prosecution and ss sentences which I have mentioned. QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

IMPORT AND EXPORT OF CERTAIN COMMODITIES SINCE THE RATIFICATION OF THE OTTAWA PACT.

69. Sardar Sant Singh : (a) Will Government be pleased to state the quantity of the following commodities that were exported to Great Britain since the ratification of the Ottawa Pact by this House and also the quantities exported in the same period of the previous year to Great Britain :

Wheat, oil seeds, jute, tea, rice, cotton, coffee, steel and hides ?

(b) What was the effect of the Pact on the export of these commodities to countries other than Great Britain during the same period ?

(c) Will Government be pleased to state the quantity of imports from Great Britain into India during the same period before and after the Pact of the following goods :

Piece-goods, machinery, motor cars and chassies, cinema-films, woollen goods and photographic materials ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : (a) and (c). I lay on the table two statements containing the information asked for.

(b) Another statement is laid on the table showing India's tota exports of the commodities mentioned to countries other than Unite Kingdom. It is however too early to draw any conclusions as to th effect of the Ottawa Trade Agreement.

BEGGARY IN INDIA.

70. *Mr. Lalchand Navalrai: (a) Are Government aware that beggary has very much increased in India and is generally causing a nuisance?

(b) Will Government be pleased to state if there has been or is any project with the Government of India to checkmate beggary? If so, will Government be pleased to make a full statement on the subject?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig: (a) The statistics of the 1931 census suggest that the number of beggars in India has decreased since 1921.

(b) The answer to the first part is in the negative, the subject being one for legislation by Local Governments. The second part does not arise.

BEGGARS ON THE STATION PLATFORMS OF STATE RAILWAYS.

71. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai: (a) Are Government aware that beggars are allowed on the station platforms almost on all State Railways to beg from the travelling public and that they become very importune and exhibit their disabled bodies and limbs to the annoyance of the public ? If so, is this allowed by any rule or regulation or is it done by the connivance of the station staff ?

(b) What steps do Government propose to take in order to eradicate this sort of evil ?

Mr. P. R. Rau: (a) On most railways there is, I understand, a definite order prohibiting beggars being given access to station platforms and railway premises.

(b) Government are not aware that there is any chronic breach of this order. If the Honourable Member will kindly let me know at which stations or on which railways this order is systematically disregarded, the attention of the Agent or Agents concerned will be drawn to the irregularity.

DEVICES ADOPTED BY CERTAIN PERSONS TO EVADE THE CHILD MARRIAGE RESTRAINT ACT.

72. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing): (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether their attention has been drawn to the peculiar devices adopted by certain persons to evade the Sarda Act by resorting to Chandernagar and Indian States simply for a day for the actual performance of the marriage after performing other ceremonies in British India ?

(b) Do Government contemplate to make suitable amendments in the Act to remove anomalies by preventing such evasions ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig: (a) No.

(b) The answer is in the negative.

RETENTION OF THE POST OF THE EDUCATIONAL COMMISSIONER IN THE FUTURE CONSTITUTION OF INDIA.

73. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing): (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether it has been finally decided to retain the post of the Educational Commissioner in the future constitution of India ?

(b) If so, will the post be filled by an Indian or otherwise ?

(c) Are Government aware that there is a strong feeling in the country that the next vacancy should be filled by an Indian ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai: (a) and (b). Whether the post will be retained after the new constitution comes into force is a question which must be left to the Government set up by the new constitution. The present Government of India propose to retain the post and to appoint to it an officer possessing wide educational experience.

(c) No.

REPAYMENT OF 4 PER CENT. CONVERSION LOAN.

74. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing): (a) With reference to the recent communiqué notifying repayment of 4 per cent. Conversion Loan at par of 1916-17 with all interest due up to date, on 1st July, 1933, will Government please state why the loans carrying higher interest rates, e.g., six per cent. 1930-33 Bonds, are not being paid up earlier ?

(b) What is the total amount of rupees which will be required for repayment of this loan ?

(c) Has the attention of Government been drawn to the recent resolution passed at the Behar Chamber of Commerce regarding their loan policy in this country as compared with that in England and criticisms in the Press with regard to it ?

(d) Do Government propose in future to take the advice of the Legislative Assembly before issuing any fresh loan or notifying the repayment of a previous loan ?

(e) Is there any proposal of issuing any fresh loan in the near future ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster: (a) There are no 6 per cent. 1930-33 bonds and I presume that the Honourable Member refers to the 6 per cent. Bonds 1933-36. According to the terms of issue, these bonds could not be redeemed earlier than the 15th August, 1933. They have been notified for repayment on that date.

(b) The amount of 6 per cent. Bonds 1933-36 outstanding on the 31st May, 1933, was Rs. 8,96,48,000.

(c) No.

(d) and (e). I would invite the Honourable Member's attention to the reply given in this House on the 23rd September, 1931, to parts (d) and (e) of starred question No. 775, by Lala Rameshwar Prasad Bagla and on the 8th September, 1932, to part (e) of starred question No. 116 by Dr. Ziauddin Ahmad.

REPRESENTATIVES OF INDIA AT THE WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE IN LONDON.

75. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh: Will Government kindly state the names of those who "represented" India at the World Economic Conference in London recently ? Why were Sir Purshotamdas Thakurdas and Mr. A. Rangaswamy Iyanger proposed to be added as mere "advisers" and not members ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore: The Honourable Member is referred to the Press Communiqués, dated the 9th and the 16th June, 1933, issued by the Private Secretary to His Excellency the Viceroy, copies of which are in the Library. I have nothing to add to the announcements already made.

Mr. B. Das : Is the Honourable Member aware that after the resignation of Sir Purshotamdas Thakurdas and Mr. A. Rangaswami Iyengar, the officials of the India Office were hunting about in London to get substitute Indians to represent India at the World Economic Conference ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I am not aware of that.

Mr. B. Das : Is the Honourable gentleman aware that one or two names were put in just on the morning of the day on which the Conference met ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I cannot recall all the dates upon which the names of the various members of the Delegation were published. If the Honourable Member will give me notice of that question, I will give him the dates.

Mr. B. Das : What are the special qualifications of the various lawyer politicians that came in as advisers to the Indian Delegation to the World Economic Conference ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I am afraid that my Honourable friend cannot expect me to discuss on the floor of the House the respective merits of the public men of this country.

Mr. B. Das : Were they all public men that were chosen as advisers to the Delegation ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I think that all the non-officials may certainly be classed under that category.

Mr. B. Das : It is the view of the Government and not of this side of the House.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : My Honourable friend is entitled to his own views in the matter.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it a fact that, consequent on the refusal of Sir Purshotamdas Thakurdas and Mr. A. Rangaswami Iyengar to act in the capacity of mere advisers to the World Economic Conference, the Government selected some other gentleman to act, not as an adviser, but as a member of the Delegation ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I think my Honourable friend's memory is quite correct.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : May I know why this gentleman, whose name was subsequently added as a member, was not chosen at the very outset ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I would like to make the position perfectly clear to the House in regard to all matters in which it is assumed that the Government of India are concerned. Matters which are discussed in the Executive Council are confidential and I am not in a position to disclose to this House whether any reference was made to the Executive Council or not, if so, what their views were, and if so, whether their views were communicated to His Majesty's Government. I want to make that position perfectly clear to the House, so that they may not charge me with not giving them the information which I am in a position to give.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : I did not ask that question. My question is a simple one, and I do not want to pry into the secrets of the Executive Council. My question was merely this, why was not this gentleman, whose name was added subsequently, chosen as a member of this World Economic Conference at the very outset ? That is all. I did not want to know your secrets.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : My Honourable friend cannot ask me questions which may be concerned with matters which are vitally concerned with the discussions in the Executive Council.

Mr. B. Das : Arising out of the reply of the Leader of the House, did not the World Economic Conference represent the Governments of the different countries of the world, or did it represent the Governor General alone ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I think my Honourable friend is right in suggesting that it represented the Governments of the countries.

Mr. B. Das : Then, how is it that the Executive Council is not responsible for the bad choice or good choice of the delegates going there ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I again repeat what I said, Sir. I am not in a position to say whether the Executive Council was or was not responsible for this choice.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : May I ask whether, in the opinion of the Government, this House is not entitled to discuss the merits of the appointments made by Government to these Conferences ?

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Discussion cannot take place on a question.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : May I ask whether this House is not entitled to ask for information as regards the merits of the appointments made by Government ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : My Honourable friend is perfectly at liberty to hold his own opinion as to the merits of individuals. He is not entitled to ask me my opinion as to the merits of individuals.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : What was the objection of the Government to sending Sir Purshotamdas Thakurdas and Mr. A. Rangaswami Iyengar as members and not as advisers especially when they accepted another gentleman as a member subsequently ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : As I told you, Sir, I am not in a position to discuss the respective merits of these public men.

PRESIDENTIAL SPEECH OF MR. SUBHAS CHANDRA BOSE IN THE RECENT POLITICAL CONFERENCE IN LONDON.

76. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Has the attention of Government been drawn to the presidential speech of Mr. Subhas Chandra Bose in the recent political conference in London, in the course of which he has condemned the suspension of Civil Disobedience Movement " as a calamity of the first magnitude ", and has advocated the adoption of another fight for freedom " on a bigger and more extensive scale " ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I have seen a copy of the speech.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Has this speech been prohibited from being circulated in India ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Yes. I, therefore, probably have the advantage over the Honourable Member in that respect.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will the Honourable Member be pleased to lay a copy of that speech on the table so that we may judge whether it is objectionable or not ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. I am afraid I must ask to be allowed to retain my advantage.

Mr. S. G. Jog : Is it not a fact that a summary of the speech was allowed to be published in India ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : It is possible that a certain telegraphic summary of the speech reached India before it was prohibited.

Mr. S. G. Jog : Was there any objection taken to the publication of that summary ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir.

Mr. S. G. Jog : Did it suit the purpose of the Government at that time to publish the summary ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : It was only when the full text of the speech reached us that we found that considerable portions of it were, in our opinion, very objectionable.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : What were those objectionable portions ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The Honourable Member is very persistent in trying to get information which I am unable to give.

BOYCOTT OF INDIAN COTTON BY JAPAN.

77. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it a fact that Japan has boycotted Indian cotton ? If so, how has this affected our cotton trade ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : Government have received information that a resolution to boycott Indian cotton was adopted by the Cotton Spinners Association, Japan, on the 13th of June, 1933. It is not yet possible to estimate the extent, if any, to which the Indian cotton trade has been affected. The situation, however, is being carefully watched.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : May I know if there is any information in the possession of Government to indicate whether the Resolution which was passed in Japan has been given effect to or not ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : That, Sir, is a very difficult matter for me to answer. I have no information which will lead me to the view that the boycott is effective.

Mr. T. N. Ramakrishna Reddi : Has not the Honourable Member received representations from primary producers saying that the prices have been considerably affected on account of this boycott by the Japanese ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I cannot remember whether I have received any direct representation from cotton growers, but I have seen this statement made in the newspapers.

Mr. B. Das : Have the Government seen any indication on the part of the Indian millowners, as a result of this boycott by the Japanese people, to increase their purchase of Indian cotton, since the Anti-Dumping Act was passed ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : If my Honourable friend studies the agenda for the next non-official Resolution day, he will see that the first Resolution deals with this question and this will give me an opportunity of placing what, I hope, will be very complete information before the House on the point which he has raised.

CEYLONESE DEPUTATION IN SIMLA.

78. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government kindly state the purpose for which the Ceylonese deputation visited the Government in Simla some time back ; and is it intended to give preference to any article from Ceylon such as copra, etc. ? Will Government be pleased to lay on the table the result of any negotiations between Ceylon and India in this connection ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : The Ceylon Deputation visited India to discuss with the Government of India the question of mutual tariff preferences between Ceylon and India. The negotiations between the two countries have not yet been concluded.

With regard to the second part of his question, the Honourable Member is referred to the Indian Tariff (Ottawa Trade Agreement) Amendment Act, 1932, by the operation of which the preferences mentioned in Schedule 'H' to the Trade Agreement between India and the United Kingdom have already been accorded to British Colonies including Ceylon. These preferences include cocoanuts, cocoanut oil and copra.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Before any decision is arrived at between the two countries, will an opportunity be given to this House to discuss the subject ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : My Honourable friend may rest assured that no change in the tariff can possibly take place without the full concurrence and approval of this House.

Mr. S. G. Jog : May I know whether the Ceylon Deputation came at the instance of the Ceylon Government or it was a voluntary affair ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : It represented the Ceylon Government.

ADDITIONAL INCOME-TAX OFFICER AND ASSISTANT INCOME-TAX OFFICER, KARACHI.

79. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will Government be pleased to state :

(a) From what date the Additional Income-tax Officer and Assistant Income-tax Officer, Karachi, commenced their work ;

(b) How many notices under section 22 (2) were issued by each of these two officers during 1931-32 and 1932-33, respectively ;

(c) In how many cases were assessments made by each of these two officers in respect of the same party against whom the Income-tax Officer, A and B Divisions, had also instituted proceedings for assessment ;

(d) How many "letters of interview" were issued by each of these officers to parties who had been dealt with by the Income-tax Officers in charge of the A and B Divisions up to the end of March, 1933 ;

(e) In how many cases were double assessments made and how many such assessments still stand ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : (a) The Additional and Assistant Income-tax Officers, Karachi, entered upon their present duties, connected with the assessment of incomes below Rs. 2,000, from 19th January, 1932, and 4th July, 1932, respectively.

(b) The Additional Income-tax Officer issued 1,987 notices during 1931-32 and 1,350 during 1932-33 under section 22 (2). The Assistant Income-tax Officer did not issue any during 1932-33. In 1931-32, his appointment was not in existence.

(c) Additional Income-tax Officer	4
Assistant Income-tax Officer	21

In addition, 20 cases were transferred to the Income-tax Officers, A and B Divisions, Karachi, on its being ascertained that they had already been dealt with by those officers.

(d) The information is not readily available. Such letters were issued only in exceptional cases when the officers considered the personal attendance of an assessee essential.

(e) Double assessments were made in 18 cases, but none of them are still standing.

ASSESSMENT PROCEEDINGS UNDER THE INDIAN INCOME-TAX ACT IN SIND.

80. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will Government be pleased to state if it is a fact that, in a number of cases in Sind, assessment proceedings under sections 22 and 34 of the Income-tax Act were commenced and completed the same day ? If so, in how many cases and why ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : No. There were only two such cases in 1931-32 and none in 1932-33. The assessment proceedings in the two cases were commenced and completed the same day at the request of the assessees and in order to avoid inconvenience and trouble to them.

ASSESSMENT PROCEEDINGS UNDER THE INDIAN INCOME-TAX ACT IN SIND.

81. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : In how many cases were assessments reopened under section 34 of the Income-tax Act in charge of every Income-tax Officer in Sind separately in the years 1931-32 and 1932-33 and what reasons necessitated the same ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : The number of assessment cases reopened under section 34 of the Income-tax Act by the Income-tax Officers in Sind was as under :

Charge.	1931-32.	1932-33.
Income-tax Officer 'A' Division, Karachi	38	66
Income-tax Officer 'B' Division, Karachi	74	70
Income-tax Officer, Hyderabad ..	29	38
Income-tax Officer, Sukkur ..	31	43
Income-tax Officer, Shikarpur ..	4	13
Income-tax Officer, Larkana ..	46	87
Income-tax Officer, Thar Parkar ..	..	4

The reason for taking action under section 34 is always as stated in that section, namely, that income liable to tax has escaped assessment or has been assessed at too low a rate.

TRANSLATION OF THE FORM OF NOTICE OF DEMAND OF INCOME-TAX IN SINDHI.

82. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will Government be pleased to state whether any steps have been taken to translate into Sindhi the form of notice of demand under the Income-tax Act ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : The form of notice of demand (I. T. 15), under section 29 of the Indian Income-tax Act is already available in Sindhi.

ASSESSMENT OF INCOME-TAX FROM CONTRACTORS IN SIND.

83. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Is it a fact that the Commissioners and Assistant Commissioners of Income-tax have issued instructions that when the contractor assessees do not produce books or produce unclosed books, a flat rate of 15 per cent. should be charged on the contract figures, and is it a fact that in other places a flat rate of 10 per cent. is charged ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : When an assessee, be he a contractor or any one else is unable to prove his actual profits, the deciding authority be he an Income-tax Officer, an Assistant Commissioner or a Commissioner, has to make an estimate of the income liable to tax. Government are not aware of any general instructions having been issued as to the rate of profit which is to be assumed for the purpose of making such an estimate.

AMENDMENT OF SECTION 61 OF THE INDIAN INCOME-TAX ACT.

84. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : (a) Are Government aware that a move was made to amend section 61 of the Income-tax Act in order to restrict representation on behalf of the income-tax assessee in the proceedings under the Income-tax Act ?

(b) Is it a fact that it was brought to the notice of Government that the present practice of allowing any man authorized by the assessee to appear on his behalf as a so-called expert was objectionable ?

(c) Is it a fact that Government while amending the Income-tax Act kept this matter in abeyance for further information and consideration ?

(d) Do Government propose to amend section 61 of the Income-tax Act in that connection ? If so, when ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : (a) Yes.

(b) Objections were taken in certain quarters to the present practice.

(c) Yes.

(d) Government have no immediate intention of taking up the matter again.

COMMUNAL COMPOSITION OF INSPECTORS AND ASSISTANT EXAMINERS, ETC., IN THE INCOME-TAX DEPARTMENT, SIND.

85. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : (a) What is the percentage of incumbents belonging to different communities in the higher grades of Inspectors, Assistant Examiners and others such as bailiffs, notice servers, peons and chowkidars in Sind Income-tax Department and what is the ratio fixed for communal equilibrium by Government orders ?

(b) Is it a fact that amongst minorities, viz., Muhammadans and other castes as a rule, the proportion is 30 per cent. ? If so, is this rule being observed in Sind ? If not, why not ?

(c) Is it a fact that there are five Muhammadans out of seven Assistant Inspectors Examiners in Sind ?

(d) Is it a fact that not a single Hindu has been confirmed as Inspector or Examiner during the last five years ? If so, what steps do Government propose to take to remove this inequality ?

(e) Is it a fact that two Hindus who had acted for a pretty long time as Assistant Inspectors—Examiners have been made to revert to make room for Mussalmans ?

(f) Is it a fact that the Hindu employees in the Sind Income-tax Department are not being allowed to appear for income-tax officer's examination and as a result thereof two Gujratis have been imported in Sind ?

(g) Is it a fact that all notice servers and peons in the Larkana Income-tax Circle are Muhammadans ?

(h) Do Government propose to consider the claims of Hindus for these posts ?

(i) Is it a fact that the Shikarpur Income-tax Officer appointed a Hindu peon but his order was turned down in favour of a Muhammadan ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : (a) and (b). A statement is laid on the table showing the percentage according to communities of members of the staffs in the Income-tax Department in Sind. The general orders of Government must be well known to the Honourable Member and are being observed. These orders do not prescribe any definite percentage for any particular community.

(c) There are five Muhammadans out of eight temporary Assistant Inspector-Examiners.

(d) No. On the contrary two Hindus have been confirmed as Examiners. The second part of the question does not arise.

(e) No.

(f) The Departmental Examination is meant for those who are appointed to officiate as Income-tax Officers and are to be confirmed as such. At a time when a large number of vacancies of Income-tax Officers were to be filled up, Inspectors and Examiners who appeared fit to be appointed as Income-tax Officers were allowed as a special case only to appear for this examination in order to simplify selection and have men who would not have to be reverted subsequently. As a result of this, a large number of officers passed the examination and until they are provided for, there would be no advantage in allowing others to take the examination. An exception has been made in favour of Muhammadans as there was only one member of that community who had passed the examination and was awaiting a vacancy.

(g) and (h). Yes. In the mofussil in Sind, Hindus are not easily available for such posts. If suitable Hindus were to apply, their claims would be duly considered.

(i) Yes.

Statement showing the percentage according to communities of Members of the staffs in the Income-tax Department in Sind.

	Hindus. Per cent.	Muhammadans. Per cent.	Others. Per cent.

DISABILITY PENSIONS DRAWN BY PREVENTIVE OFFICERS AND INSPECTORS IN THE KARACHI CUSTOMS HOUSE.

86. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : (a) Will Government be pleased to tate how many Preventive Officers there are in the Karachi Customs ?

(b) How many Inspectors are there ?

(c) How many of each are drawing a disability pension and for how ong ?

(d) Is it necessary for every Government servant especially those erving in the executive branches to be physically fit ?

(e) Did those drawing a disability pension produce a certificate of hysical fitness to continue in service after being found disabled ? If not, hy not ?

(f) How many Preventive Officers are entitled to passages under the ee Commission Rules ?

(g) Are any of the disabled pensioners entitled to passages and have they taken advantage of any yet ?

(h) What pay are those disabled pensioners getting from Government and what pension are they getting, and for what period are they drawing this pension ?

(i) What are the special circumstances which necessitated an Inspector of Preventive Service, Karachi Customs, being granted extensions after the age of 55 years ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : (a) Thirty-three.

(b) Four, including the Chief Inspector.

(c) One Inspector has drawn a disability pension since 1917.

(d) Yes.

(e) Yes.

(f) Two, and one Inspector.

(g) The disabled Inspector has had one free passage under the rules.

(h) The disabled Inspector draws pay at the rate of Rs. 400 a month. He has drawn from His Majesty's Government since 1917 twelve shillings a week for himself and three shillings for his wife.

(i) The temporary shortage of officers with experience as Inspectors.

MILITARY DAIRIES IN SIMLA AND LAHORE.

87. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : (a) Will Government be pleased to state how many military dairies exist in Simla and Lahore ?

(b) Is it a fact that there are private dairies also in Simla and Lahore ?

(c) Is it a fact that these Government military dairies were intended for the dairy requirements of the military ranks and their families within regimental areas ?

(d) Is it also a fact that vast tracts of valuable lands were granted to military dairies, wherever they are situated, free or on nominal value for the sake of military necessity ?

(e) Will Government be pleased to state if there was an intention to run these dairies in competition with private dairy concerns in civil populated areas ? If there was or is any such intention, will Government be pleased to state reasonable justification for the same ?

(f) Is it a fact that these military dairies have lately started a campaign against the private dairy enterprises by sending out their produce for sale at the residences of civil population outside their regimental areas ?

(g) Is it a fact that some of the private dairy owners from Lahore brought this fact to the notice of the Quartermaster General in India, Army Headquarters ?

(h) Will Government be pleased to state what action has been taken to remove this grievance of the private dairy concerns ?

(i) Do Government propose to restrict the Government military dairies to supply the requirements of only military people within regimental areas as originally intended ? If not, why not ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : (a) There is one Military Dairy at Jutogh and one in Lahore Cantonment.

(b) There is a private dairy at Taradevi which sells dairy products in Simla ; and there are also several milk and butter shops in Simla and Lahore, but so far as is known, none of the latter owns a dairy herd.

(c) Military dairies are intended to supply pure dairy products to troops, army departments and establishments in peace and in war. They are required to meet the fluctuating demands of hospitals and troops and must also be capable of expansion in war : It is incumbent upon Government to see that they work as economically as possible.

(d) No. Interest is credited to Government on the assessed agricultural value of all lands held by the Military Dairy Farms.

(e) The military dairy farms have no desire whatever to compete with private firms, which can supply dairy products up to the standard required.

(f) There has been no change of policy. For many years military dairies have been allowed to sell surplus produce, when available, at remunerative rates to non-military Government officials and their families and also to the public, except in Simla.

(g) Representations have been received.

(h) and (i). The matter is at present under the consideration of the Government of India.

CONTRACTS OF STALLS AT RAILWAY STATIONS.

88. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : (a) Will Government be pleased to state what is the rule or practice in vending contracts of stalls at Railway stations ? Are they given by auction or in any other manner ? If so, what ?

(b) Is it a fact that one Wadhumal has been given contracts of six (mostly junction stations) stations on the Sind and Baluchistan Section and one Muhammadan has been given for several stations on the Sind, Baluchistan and Punjab sections ?

(c) Will Government be pleased to state why these men have been favoured by being given contracts at several stations ?

(d) Is it a fact that the Railway rules and also practice provide that each station should be given to one individual contractor ?

(e) Which office is responsible for giving these contracts of stalls in Sind ?

(f) Do Government propose to direct a fair distribution of these vending contracts of stalls to different people particularly unemployed educated persons of the Districts in which the stalls exist ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) On the North Western Railway to which I presume, my Honourable friend is referring, vending contractors are selected personally by the Divisional Commercial Officer of the Division from among applicants who have the necessary professional qualifications. In the case of important stations, this selection is subject to confirmation by the Divisional Superintendent concerned.

(b) to (f). These refer to detailed arrangements which are within the competence of the Railway Administration and I have sent a copy of this question to the Agent for consideration of the suggestions made. I might add that Government do not consider the grant of such contracts can be used to any extent as a solution of the difficult problem of unemployment. The question has to be looked at from the point of view of selecting the persons most likely to render efficient service to the travelling public.

EXPORT OF SILVER FROM INDIA TO AMERICA.

89. *Seth Haji Abdoola Haroon : (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether they have delivered silver from India recently for export to America ?

(b) Is it a fact that it has fetched a price of 50 cents per ounce ?

(c) If the reply to part (b) above be in the negative, at what rate has the Government of India made over to the British Government this 20 millions ounces of silver ?

(d) What quantity of silver do the Government of India still possess for sale ?

(e) How do the Government of India propose to utilize the same ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : (a) Yes.

(b) It is understood that this is the rate at which the Government of the United States of America afforded credit to the Government of the United Kingdom in respect of this token payment.

(c) The silver was sold on the basis of 20 $\frac{7}{16}$ d. per standard ounce for delivery in London. As however the silver was shipped to the United States of America without going through London, charges for transport will be subject to a deduction equivalent to the amount that would have been paid by the Government of India if the silver had been shipped to London.

(d) and (e). Information regarding the amount of silver in the possession of Government is given in the weekly abstracts of the Accounts of the Currency Department published by the Controller of the Currency, but the silver is not necessarily for sale.

Mr. S. G. Jog : Is it a fact that the Finance Member at Bombay made a statement to the representatives of the Press that he himself knew nothing about these transactions ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : Is the Honourable Member referring to me as the Finance Member ?

Mr. S. G. Jog : Yes.

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : Then it is certainly not a fact.

Mr. F. E. James : May I ask the Honourable Member in connection with the recent silver agreement, on which, I am sure, the whole House would wish to congratulate the Finance Member, whether it is a fact that that agreement will require the ratification of the Legislature and, if so, will that ratification be sought during the present Session of the Legislature ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : It certainly is a fact that ratification of that agreement does require the approval of the Legislature, and that agreement will be put before the Legislature at the earliest convenient opportunity. I cannot state exactly what the date will be.

ALLEGATIONS AGAINST ONE MR. MANGHARAM, SUB-POST MASTER, KAMBAR.

90. *Seth Haji Abdoola Haroon : (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether their attention has been drawn to the leading article which appeared in the New Era of Sukkur, dated the 8th May, 1933 ?

(b) If so, are the allegations contained therein true ?

(c) Is it true that both Hindus and Mussalmans of the locality submitted petitions to the Superintendent of Posts and Telegraphs, Upper Sind Division, narrating their grievances against Mr. Mangharam, Sub-Post Master, Kambar, as referred to therein ?

(d) What steps have the authorities taken on those petitions ?

(e) Was an impartial inquiry made on those petitions against Mr. Mangharam or was a one-sided inquiry made as referred to therein ?

(f) What steps do Government now propose to take to meet the wishes of both Hindus and Mussalmans of the locality as urged in their petitions ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) to (f) Government have not seen the article and have not been able to obtain a copy of the New Era in spite of application to the Manager and are therefore unaware of the nature of the allegations to which the Honourable Member refers. It is, however, a fact that certain complaints against the Sub-Post Master, Kambar, were made in a petition addressed to the Superintendent of Post Offices, Upper Sind Division, signed by both Muslims and Hindus. The complaints were investigated and were found to be groundless, but the Sub-Post Master in question has since been transferred from Kambar.

SIMLA EXODUS.

91. *Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Is it a fact that projects for the expansion of seating arrangements in the Legislative Assembly and Council of State, New Delhi, are in hand ? If so, what exactly are the plans, and how much money is estimated to be spent in this connection ?

(b) Is it intended that in future the autumn session of the Central Legislature in Simla is to be cut out, and that the session will be held in Delhi only ? If so, what approximately will be the amount of saving thereby effected ? Is it a fact that the Council Chamber in New Delhi is being provided with cooling apparatus ? If so, to whom has the contract been given, and for how much ?

(c) Is it proposed to abandon the Simla exodus altogether and keep the Government of India located in New Delhi only throughout the year ?

(d) Is it proposed to build additional quarters for Members of the Federal Legislature and for the staff in New Delhi ? If so, how many such quarters are to be built and at what approximate cost ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) and (b). No decision has been reached.

(c) Government have reached no decisions beyond that stated on page 23 of the Summary of the Results of Retrenchment operations in Civil Expenditure, copies of which are in the Library.

(d) It is proposed to construct 37 officers' bungalows, 627 clerks' married quarters and 33 legislators' quarters at an estimated cost of Rs. 49,50,000 made up as below :

	Rs.
Officers' bungalows	10,50,000
Clerks' quarters	28,50,000
Legislators' quarters	5,00,000
Preparation of site, levelling and grassing ..	1,00,000
Establishment	4,50,000
Total ..	49,50,000

PAYMENT OF WAR DEBT BY ENGLAND TO THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA WITH SILVER ACQUIRED FROM INDIA.

92. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Is it a fact that the War Debt has been paid by England to the United States of America with silver acquired from India ?

(b) If so, what is the amount involved ?

(c) In what way have England and India benefited by this transaction ? Did the Government of India approve of this transaction, and are Government prepared to place all correspondence in this connection on the table ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : With your permission, Sir, I shall answer (a), (b) and (c) together.

The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the answer which I have just given to starred question No. 89 asked by Seth Haji Abdoola Haroon.

The Government of India approved of this transaction. They are not prepared to place the correspondence on the table.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : What is the reply to this ? In what way have England and India benefited by this transaction ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : I regret that the answer does not seem to have dealt with that specific part of the question. So far as India is concerned, India was enabled to sell 20 million ounces of silver at a price which, on the date when the transaction was arranged, represented more than a penny an ounce above the prevailing price of the market, and a price which today represents very nearly 3*d* an ounce more than the prevailing price. That is a definite advantage to India.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : Was it necessary for India to part with her silver at this time ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : I think that Honourable Members will agree with me that to have sold silver at that price was an advantageous transaction to India.

REPRESENTATION FOR THE POSTPONEMENT OF THE AUTUMN SESSION OF THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY TO NOVEMBER.

93. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it a fact that a representation was made by certain Members of the Legislative Assembly who proceeded to London, suggesting the postponement of the Autumn session of the Assembly to November ? If so, on what grounds ? Will Government kindly give their names, and lay a copy of their representation on the table, together with any note which might have been made on it ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : Some Members of the Legislative Assembly who were then in England requested the Secretary of State to suggest to the Government of India the postponement of the present Session of the Assembly in view of the fact that it might not be possible for some of them to return to India before the beginning of the Session. No direct representation was received from any Member by the Government of India, and there are no papers which can be laid.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the Honourable Member be pleased to state if it is considered by the Government of India or the Secretary of State that the House will be thin and that the Government will have the day ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I can assure my Honourable friend that these considerations did not weigh with the final decision in the least.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : May I know, Sir, if a copy of the representation which was submitted by these gentlemen to the Secretary of State was forwarded to the Government of India ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I am not aware that any representation other than the oral or verbal representation referred to was made.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will the Government be pleased to give the names of those gentlemen who sent in that representation or wrote that letter to the Secretary of State ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I am trying to explain to my Honourable friend that it was an oral or verbal representation. I am not in a position to know even what the exact terms of it were.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : I am sorry I could not hear the reply.

Mr. B. Das : Is it not a fact that these very gentlemen were most active during the summer Session of the Assembly to secure, by the backdoor, nomination or election to go to England to participate in the Joint Committee or the subsidiary Committee ?

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Next question.

EXTENSION OF TRANS-CONTINENTAL AIR SERVICE FROM KARACHI TO SINGAPORE.

94. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government kindly make a statement regarding the extension of Trans-Continental Air Service from Karachi to Singapore and its feeder lines, indicating the Indian interests as regards Directorate, Finance, the Indian personnel in its service, training of Indians, and whether the Company will be floated with rupee capital in India ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the Government of India, Department of Industries and Labour (Civil Aviation), Press Communiqué, No. V.-10, dated the 9th May, 1933, a copy of which is laid on the table.

The Trans-India Air Service was inaugurated on the 7th July, 1933, by the opening of the Karachi-Calcutta section, the first service being operated by an Indian aircraft, owned by Indian Trans-Continental Airways, Limited.

The number of Directors of Indian Trans-Continental Airways, Limited, is seven, of whom four are Indians. Of these, one has been appointed by the Government of India, one by Indian National Airways Limited and two by Imperial Airways, Limited.

The capital is held in the following proportions :

Government of India 24 per cent.

Indian National Airways 25 per cent.

Imperial Airways 51 per cent.

Proposals regarding the inauguration of feeder services in connection with the Trans-India Air Service are being examined. They are not yet at an advanced stage.

Statement.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

DEPARTMENT OF INDUSTRIES AND LABOUR,

(CIVIL AVIATION).

No. V.-10, DATED SIMLA, THE 9TH MAY, 1933.

PRESS CAMMUNIQUE.

Trans-India Air Service.

Arrangements have been made for the inauguration of an air service between Karachi and Singapore as a joint enterprise to be worked by an Indian Company (Indian Trans-Continental Airways, Limited), to be formed as explained below, together with Imperial Airways, Limited, and simultaneously for the formation of a second Indian Company, Indian National Airways, Limited, for the operation of feeder and other services in Northern India.

2. The capital of Indian Trans-Continental Airways, Limited, will be rupee capital and will be subscribed jointly by the Government of India, Indian National Airways, Limited, and Imperial Airways, Limited, the Directors will be selected by the shareholders and the majority will be Indians.

3. Indian Trans-Continental Airways and Imperial Airways will each provide one-half of the fleet required for the service. Indian Trans-Continental Airways will employ the largest percentage reasonably possible of Indian personnel as soon as individuals of the requisite standard are available, and Imperial Airways will arrange for the training of a limited number of Indians in their commercial and engineering departments, while the fleet and equipment for Indian National Airways and Indian Trans-Continental Airways are being procured.

4. The arrangement for the joint working of the Karachi-Singapore Service will continue till 31st March, 1939, the date on which the existing agreement between His Majesty's Government and Imperial Airways for the England-India Air Service expires.

5. By means of this arrangement the participation of an Indian Company employing Indian personnel, is secured, not merely in a service operating within India, but on an important section outside India (viz., from Rangoon to Singapore), of the Imperial route to Australia.

6. The fleet of the two operating companies will be homogeneous and of a modern type, carrying passengers and freight as well as mails. The details of the route across India and the time-table of operation have not yet been finally settled. It is hoped that the first section of the service as far as Calcutta will be inaugurated during the summer, to be followed by an extension to Rangoon and possibly Singapore immediately after the monsoon.

7. Indian National Airways, Limited, will be formed with rupee capital. Plans for operating certain branch services are already in preparation.

(Sd.) J. A. SHILLIDY,
Secretary to the Government of India.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh: Is it not a fact that the Imperial Airways is a foreign company, not with a rupee capital ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : That is so, if the Honourable Member, in the word " foreign ", includes a British Company. The capital of Imperial Airways is not rupee capital. As I have explained, there are two companies and, as the Honourable Member will find in the communiqué to which I have referred, the Karachi-Calcutta service is operated by Indian Trans-Continental Airways, Limited, which is an Indian Company with rupee capital.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it not a fact that the Standing Finance Committee laid down the rule, which, if I remember aright, was approved by this House, that the capital should be rupee capital with a majority of Indian directors ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : The capital of the Indian Trans-Continental Airways, Limited, is rupee capital and it has a majority of Indian directors. There are four Indian directors out of seven. If the Honourable Member wishes to know their names, I shall be happy to give them. They are :

Chaudhri Zafarulla Khan,

Rai Bahadur Badri Das Goenka,

Rai Bahadur Lala Ramsaran Das, and Sir H. M. Mehta.

REFUSAL OF PASSPORT TO MR. B. J. DEORUKHKAR, NATIONALIST LEADER OF THE DEPRESSED CLASSES, TO PROCEED TO LONDON.

95. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it a fact that Mr. B. J. Deorukhkar, Nationalist leader of the Depressed classes, who wanted to proceed to England at his own expense to secure proper representation of their case before the Joint Select Committee, has been refused passport ? If so, why ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Mr. Deorukhkar applied for a passport to proceed to England to help his friends in giving evidence before the Joint Parliamentary Committee, and also to study the social conditions of sweepers and tanners in London. In view of the part he played in the labour disturbances at Bombay, and of his association with the Civil Disobedience Movement, the Government of Bombay considered it inexpedient to give him a passport, and rejected his application.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : May I know, Sir, what part did he play in the labour movement in Bombay ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think one might say, Sir, a part tinged with communism.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : What part did he take in the Civil Disobedience Movement ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am afraid I have not the details with me.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : May I know, Sir, if participation in the Civil Disobedience Movement is considered to be a disability in regard to the grant of a passport ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Not necessarily, Sir.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Does not the Honourable Member think that, if he had gone to England, India would have been freed from his activity in the Civil Disobedience Movement ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Possibly, Sir ; but I am not sure that the interests of his own community would have been much advanced thereby.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : If participation in the Civil Disobedience Movement is not necessarily a disqualification for obtaining a passport, why was he refused a passport ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig: I think, Sir, the main reason was his communistic activities in the labour disturbances in Bombay a few years ago.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : May I know that the refusal of the passport had nothing to do with his participation in the Civil Disobedience Movement, and that it was refused because of the part which he played in the labour disturbances ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am giving, Sir, the reasons given to us by the Government of Bombay who refused the passport.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Was this gentleman ever prosecuted in any Court of law for his participation in communistic activities ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am afraid I must ask the Honourable Member to put down a question on that point.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Is the Honourable Member going to accept what the Bombay Government has done without any further inquiry or investigation as a gospel truth ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Yes, Sir.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : Was it the idea of the Bombay Government to save the English people from the bad teachings of Mr. Deorukhkar in communism there ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : It is our general policy, Sir, to be very careful about the grant of passports to communists.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Would it not have been more convenient from the point of view of Government to get rid of him even for a time, because he is so undesirable from their point of view ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Unfortunately the grant of a passport is not equivalent to an order of externment from India. He will always return.

ARRESTS AND DETENTION IN CONNECTION WITH ALLEGED REVOLUTIONARY ACTIVITIES IN THE DELHI PROVINCE.

96. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government please furnish :

(a) the figures of the total arrests and detention of young men effected in connection with alleged revolutionary activities in the Province of Delhi from July, 1932, to June, 1933 ;

(b) the average period during which such arrested persons had to remain in Police custody ;

(c) the number of such arrested persons sent up for trial and convicted ;

(d) the number of young men externed from Delhi Province during the above period ; and

(e) the number of young men interned in the different wards of the city or subjected to similar orders under the Emergency Powers Ordinance and the Punjab Criminal Law Amendment Act of 1932 ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) 55.

(b) 12.7 days.

(c) 43 were sent up for trial and 37 were convicted.

(d) 37 persons were externed from the Delhi Province during the period in question. All belonged to other provinces. They were by no means all young men.

(e) 21 restriction orders were passed during the period under the Emergency Powers Ordinance all of which lapsed at the end of 1932. Seven restriction orders were passed under the Punjab Criminal Law Amendment Act during the first six months of 1933.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Are Government prepared to allow those gentlemen who have been disallowed to enter Delhi and who are not members of such organisations which have any connection with the Civil Disobedience Movement now ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am afraid I did not quite gather the purport of the Honourable Member's question.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmed : I want to know if Government are prepared to allow those men who are not members of any organisations which have anything to do with the Civil Disobedience Movement now to enter into Delhi ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think this question refers to revolutionary activities and not primarily to civil disobedience.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Very well. I will give a notice for this question.

REMAND TO POLICE CUSTODY OF PERSONS ARRESTED FOR DISTRIBUTING UNAUTHORISED LEAFLETS IN DELHI.

97. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Is it a fact that persons arrested in connection with the distribution of unauthorised leaflets in Delhi are invariably remanded to Police custody where they are detained for more than the maximum period allowed by the Criminal Procedure Code ?

(b) Has it come to the notice of Government that some of such arrested persons have been kept in Police lock-ups for a month without the sanction of the Local Government ? Are Government prepared to enquire into this ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) No.

(b) No person has been detained in police custody beyond the legal period or without proper orders.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know from the Honourable Member if when the police time of 24 hours expires, these people are also taken before a magistrate for taking a remand under section 167 ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Yes, Sir. Certainly.

NON-RELEASE ON BAIL OF PERSONS ARRESTED FOR OFFENCES UNDER SECTION 18 OF THE EMERGENCY PRESS ACT, 1931, IN DELHI.

98. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Is it a fact that persons arrested for offences under section 18 of the Emergency Press Act, 1931, in Delhi are not released on bail and that to make the offence non-bailable they are given out as arrested and detained under sections 302|117 and 115, I. P. C. ? How many of such arrested persons have been challaned under sections

302|117 and 115, I. P. C. from July, 1932, to June, 1933, and with what results ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : There have been four cases relating to the publication and distribution of red revolutionary leaflets. These cases were registered under sections 115|117, Indian Penal Code. So far, one person has been convicted in connection with the publication of these leaflets under section 18 of the Indian Press (Emergency Powers) Act, 1931.

INDIAN STUDENTS OUTSIDE INDIA.

99. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government please state the number of Indian students in the United States of America, Canada, United Kingdom and in other countries outside India ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : I would refer the Honourable Member to section II and appendix IV of the Report on the work of the Education Department of the High Commissioner for India for the year 1931-32, which give all the available information. A copy of the Report is available in the Library of the House.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Cannot the Honourable Member give the number of students ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : I can, but not in great detail. There are 1,753 in Great Britain and Ireland, 195 in the United States of America and 117 on the Continent of Europe.

CONSTRUCTION OF THE NEW NARBADA BRIDGE ON THE BOMBAY, BARODA AND CENTRAL INDIA RAILWAY.

100. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Will Government please state whether sanction of the Legislative Assembly was obtained for the purpose of providing funds to the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway for constructing the new Narbada Bridge ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to state from which firm the steel for the Narbada Bridge has been purchased and in what quantity ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) Yes. (The work was first included in the budget for 1931-32).

(b) The contract for the fabrication, supply and erection of the necessary steel work, amounting to about 13,000 tons, has been placed with Messrs. Braithwaite and Company (India), Limited.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it an indigenous company or a foreign company ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : It is a firm registered in India.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Do they manufacture steel ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : They fabricate the steel work required. The steel is, I believe, got from Tatas.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : With a rupee capital ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I want notice of the question.

PAY OF NEW ENTRANTS TO THE INDIAN CIVIL SERVICE AND THE INDIAN POLICE SERVICE.

101. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Will Government please state whether they have placed before the Secretary of State in Council their views in regard to the pay of new entrants to the Indian Civil Service and the Indian Police Service ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to lay on the table the decision of the Secretary of State in Council on their proposal ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) and (b). Local Governments have been consulted and their views are at present under consideration by the Government of India.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : By what time the Government of India will decide this question, as it is more than a year since which this question has been hanging ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I do not know if it is pending for more than a year. But the Honourable Member will realise that while the Assembly is in Session, it does not leave very much time to the Government of India to make progress with controversial questions outside.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the Honourable Member tell me if any suggestions were sent on this question to the Joint Parliamentary Committee ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir ; no suggestions at all.

INTRODUCTION OF NEW SCALES OF PAY FOR NEW ENTRANTS TO SERVICES UNDER THE CONTROL OF THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

102. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state the result of their consideration of the proposal to introduce revised scales of pay for new entrants to services which are under their control ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : Revised scales of pay for new entrants to services under the control of the Government of India are in the course of publication.

CONSULTATION WITH THE LOCAL ADVISORY COMMITTEES ON DIFFERENT RAILWAYS IN FIXING RATES FOR EATABLES AND AERATED WATER.

103. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether local Railway Advisory Committees are consulted in fixing the rates for eatables and aerated water sold on Railways including the stations ?

(b) Are Government aware that rates for food and aerated water have gone down for the last two or three years ?

(c) Do Government propose to fix the rate for eatables and aerated water in consultation with the Local Advisory Committees on different Railways every year ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) Not generally.

(b) Yes.

(c) I understand these rates which are fixed by Railway Administrations with reference to local conditions are open to discussion by the Advisory Committees whose views will, I have no doubt, be taken into careful consideration by the Administration.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Are not Government sure of their reply, because the words " I understand " have been used by my Honourable friend, Mr. Bajpai ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I have not consulted each individual railway administration.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : What are the reasons for the Honourable Member not consulting the members of the Advisory Committee on this important question ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : If any member of the Advisory Committee wants to take up this question, I am sure, he will have full opportunity for raising this question in the Committee.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : If certain questions are raised by members of the Advisory Committee, is it not in the hands of the chairman of the committee to allow them or not ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : Is the Honourable Member in a position to state that this question has been raised by a member of the Committee and has been disallowed ?

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : My question was, whether it was not in the hands of the Chairman to allow or to reject any question suggested by a member of a Committee ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : The Chairman of every Committee usually has that right.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it not a fact that no question could be brought forward in the local Advisory Committee without the previous sanction of the Chairman of the Committee who is invariably the Agent of the railway concerned ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : The preparation of the agenda for the Committee is usually subject to the approval of the Chairman.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Is the Honourable Member aware that sometimes the Agents do hold such questions, sometimes relevant and other times irrelevant, when they are put before the Advisory Committee ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : Can the Honourable Member give me any instance where any Agent had held such questions irrelevant ?

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : I am asking whether in his experience he has got information from Agents as to how they treat such questions.

Mr. P. R. Rau : I have no experience of such Advisory Committees.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the Honourable Member enquire from the Agents ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : Not unless a prima facie case is made out for making an enquiry.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Why should the Honourable Member shirk asking the Agents ? An Honourable Member has made the allegation.....

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Which Honourable Member makes the allegation ?

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Mr. Maswood Ahmad has made it.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : That a question of this nature was turned down by the Chairman of any particular Advisory Committee ?

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Not of this particular question, but that it is in the hands of the Chairman whether to accept or not.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Does any Honourable Member make a statement here that questions of this nature are turned down by the Chairman of Local Advisory Committees when they are sought to be raised by members ?

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : In reply to the Chair, I would say that I had been a member of an Advisory Committee and questions like this—I cannot at present exactly remember with reference to all these articles—but questions such as these have been turned down by the Agents as not being relevant. I am asking my Honourable friend only to make enquiries from the Agents whether they allow such questions ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I do not think that it is reasonable for me to ask all railway administrations whether they have, as a matter of fact, refused to allow discussions of questions vaguely described like these.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : You may ask the Agent of the North Western Railway.

Mr. P. R. Rau : On what particular point ?

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : With regard to eatables and ærated water.

Mr. P. R. Rau : I have already promised the House that if any Honourable Member can give me any instance of this sort that a question relating to eatables and ærated waters or even the general question connected with vending on the station platforms has been disallowed by any Agent, I shall certainly be prepared to make enquiries.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : That will be a complaint against the Agent. I am asking for the laying down of certain procedure. Is the Honourable Member prepared to ask the Agents on that subject ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I have already told the House that the inclusion of items in the agenda is subject to the permission of the Chairman who happens to be the Agent and, I am sure, the House will understand that considerations of time and giving full opportunity for discussion make such a rule necessary.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it not a rule for the guidance of the Local Advisory Committees that no business can be put on the agenda without the previous sanction of the Chairman of that Committee, and that the Chairman of the Committee has absolute discretion in allowing or not allowing a particular item to be put on the agenda ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I dare say that there is such a rule, but I have already explained to the House that such a rule is necessary for the proper conduct of business.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Do Government propose to ask the Agents to place before the Local Advisory Committees all the rates for eatables and ærated waters for their information and discussion there ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I believe this question is among the list of business for discussion in the Central Advisory Committee on Railways at the next meeting and I suggest that a discussion of this subject would be more appropriate there than in this House.

DISPROPORTION OF CERTAIN APPOINTMENTS ON THE NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY.

104. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state the result of their investigation regarding the disproportionately small number of non-reserved appointments on the North Western Railway for which alone the Inspectors are eligible as compared with other Railways ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : The seeming disproportion is due to the fact that the North Western Railway was a State-managed Railway where the accounts and audit had been combined under the Auditor General and consequently, in order to safeguard the interests of the then existing staff, a larger number of posts had to be reserved for the Audit Department when separation was effected.

EDUCATIONAL REQUIREMENTS OF THE NEW INDIAN ARMY.

105. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state whether the question of providing for the educational requirements of the new Indian Army has yet been considered or not ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : The question has been considered and it has been decided that no immediate change can be made in the system by which British officers of the Army Educational Corps are supplied to meet the educational requirements of the Indian Army. As soon as qualified Indian commissioned officers become available through the normal channels, the question will be taken up of seconding them for educational duties with Indian troops.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Is there any correspondence going on to increase the number of cadets in the Dehra Dun College ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : I do not quite see, Sir, how that question arises in this connection.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : With regard to this particular question, I want to know whether there is any scheme for enhancing the number of cadets in the Prince of Wales College and the Academy.

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : I think, if the Honourable Member wishes to have information on that point, he should put down a separate question. There is nothing at all in this question on that point.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the Honourable Member take this as a notice ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : No, Sir. I understand that a Resolution has been tabled on this subject which will very likely come up for discussion in the course of the present Session.

AGE LIMIT FOR CERTAIN APPOINTMENTS IN THE ARMY.

106. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Is it a fact that the age limit is waived in the case of British Warrant Officers selected for commissions n the Army Educational Corps and Quartermaster's appointments in the Training Battalions of the Indian Army ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to state the reasons for not including n the scheme the waiving of the age limit for the Indian officers (with the Viceroy's commission), if they fulfil other required conditions for the rant of King's commission ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : (a) Yes, but the men so promoted cannot ope to hold other appointments or to attain high rank in the Army.

(b) The source from which the Indian Commissioned Officers will be btained for educational duties has not yet been finally settled ; but the eneral intention, in order to secure the necessary standard of educaonal qualifications and adequate opportunities for promotion to the high-t rank, is that all the commissioned officers required for the new Indian rmy should be obtained from the Indian Military Academy.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Is it a fact that this subject, which is menoned in part (b) of the question, was under discussion even in 1932 ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : I think the matter was started by a quesn which was asked in this House in 1932.

EPLACEMENT OF BRITISH CLERKS AT THE HEADQUARTERS OF COMMANDS OF THE INDIAN ARMY BY INDIAN CLERKS.

107. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to ate the reasons for not replacing the British clerks of the higher grades the Headquarters of Commands of the Indian Army by Indian clerks ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : The Corps of clerks consists of a British ing and an Indian Wing ; and the higher grades in each wing are filled by omotion from the lower. The strength of the Indian Wing has been creased more than once since 1924 ; and the possibility of increasing further and reducing the strength of the British Wing will be kept in nd. But an extension of Indianisation must be started from the bottom d cannot be applied direct to the higher grades.

CERTAIN SCHEMES IN OPERATION IN JAPAN.

108. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state whether or not the starred questions Nos. 49 to 53, regarding certain schemes in operation in Japan, asked on the 2nd February, 1933, and their answers were sent to Local Governments for information ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : No, Sir.

RE-PAYMENT OF WAR DEBTS BY ENGLAND OUT OF THE SILVER RESERVES TRANSHIPPED FROM INDIA.

109. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether their attention has been drawn to the statements of the Presidents of Indian Chambers of Commerce recently published in the Press, about the re-payment of War Debts by England on 15th June last out of the silver reserves transhipped from India or lying in London to India's credit ?

(b) What reply have the Government to offer with respect to the allegations made therein ?

(c) Were the Indian Government consulted beforehand ? If so, what reply did they give ?

(d) Is the story of the alleged loss to India of one crore of rupees from this transaction correct ?

(e) What was India's share of the contribution made to the payment of the War Debts by England ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : (a) Yes.

(b), (d) and (e). The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the answer to starred question No. 89 asked today by Seth Haji Abdoola Haroon.

(c) Yes. They approved.

TRANSFER OF THE SUPAUL AND MADHIPURA SUB-DIVISIONS IN THE BHAGALPUR DISTRICT TO PURNEA DISTRICT FOR INCOME-TAX PURPOSES.

110. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Will Government be pleased to state the reasons why the Supaul and Madhipura Sub-Divisions in the Bhagalpur District have been transferred to Purnea District for Income-tax purposes ?

(b) Are Government aware of the considerable inconveniences caused to the assessees especially of Supaul Sub-Division by this transfer in having to go all the way to Purnea for the hearing of their cases ?

(c) Have any instructions been issued to the Income-tax Officers of Purnea to fix the cases of the assessees of these two sub-divisions at the headquarters of these sub-divisions without requiring their attendance at Purnea ? If not, why not ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : (a) Supaul and Madhipura sub-divisions of the Bhagalpur District have been transferred to Purnea in consequence of the re-distribution of Income-tax Circles in the Province as a measure of economy. The areas adjoin and some parts of Madhipura sub-division are more easily accessible from Purnea than from Bhagalpur.

(b) and (c). General instructions have been issued to all income-tax officers to fix cases and examine accounts as far as possible at centres near the place of business of these assessees and in consequence they will not have to go to Purnea.

PAYMENT OF REFUNDS TO INCOME-TAX ASSESSEES.

111. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether they are aware that it has become a practice amongst the Income-tax authorities not to pay refunds unless applications after applications and hard "Pairbis" are made by the assessees involving considerable inconveniences and unnecessary expenses to them ?

(b) Do Government intend issuing instructions to the Income-tax authorities to send all refunds whether arising from appeals or under sections 18 and 27 to the assessees by money order or by cheques to the assessees without waiting for applications from them and to prepare a monthly statement of all refunds due and paid ?

(c) Do Government propose to give refunds of income-tax promptly keeping in view that the accounts should remain clear and adjusted ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : (a) No.

(b) Instructions have already been issued by the Commissioner of Income-tax to the Income-tax Officers regarding the payment of refunds without application. Monthly statements of refunds due and paid are always prepared and duly verified.

(c) Yes.

DEATH OF PRISONERS FROM HUNGER-STRIKE IN THE ANDAMANS.

112. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Will Government be pleased to state the total number of prisoners at present confined in the Andamans ?

(b) How many of these are political prisoners ?

(c) What is the total number of deaths till to-day from the recent hunger-strike there ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) The total number of prisoners at present confined in the Andamans is 6,537.

(b) There are 112 terrorist prisoners.

(c) I would refer the Honourable Member to the answer given by me to Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh's starred question No. 31 on the 23rd August.

OPINIONS ABOUT THE UNIFICATION OF STANDARDS OF THE MEDICAL LICENTIATES.

113. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Is it a fact that the Government of India have asked for the opinion of the Provincial Governments regarding the question of unification of standards of the medical licentiates ?

(b) Have they issued any instructions as to the medical and public bodies whose opinions are to be forwarded to the Government of India ?

(c) Are Government aware that in the Presidency of Bengal the only body that is asked to give opinion is the State Medical Faculty ?

(d) Are Government aware that the State Medical Faculty is a purely nominated body with the Surgeon-General as President and it is a purely examining board not entrusted with the control or fixing the standard of medical qualifications ?

(e) Are Government prepared to enquire why the Bengal Government did not consult the (a) Council of Medical Registration, (b) Indian Medical Association, or other similar public bodies ?

(f) Will Government be pleased to state whether the other Local Governments also followed the same procedure as in Bengal by consulting the State Medical Faculties or similar examination boards in those provinces ?

(g) What steps are the Government of India taking to secure the opinion of the non-official medical associations or other public bodies ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : (a) Yes.

(b) No.

(c) and (d). Yes.

(e), (f) and (g). The Government of India asked for the views of Local Governments and left it to them to decide whether they should formulate their views, in consultation with medical associations and other public bodies or independently. Some Local Governments appear to have resorted to consultation with other bodies. The Bengal Government consulted only the State Medical Faculty, which had recently been discussing the question of raising the standards for licentiates.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Has the Honourable Member received the replies from Provincial Governments ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : Yes, Sir ; replies have all been received from the Local Governments and circulated to members of the Select Committee on the Bill.

BAN ON GOVERNMENT SERVANTS FROM JOINING THE INDIAN MEDICAL ASSOCIATION AS MEMBERS.

114. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Is it a fact that the Government of India issued a circular drawing the attention of the medical men in Government services to the following clause of the Rules of the Indian Medical Association :

> Rule No. 2 (i).—" Support the candidature of a member or members of the Association for any medical or legislative bodies or any public body in which questions affecting public health, the medical profession, medical education and medical relief are considered." ?

(b) Are the Government of India aware that the Indian Medical Association has since taken steps to do away with the said clause ? If so, are Government now prepared to withdraw the ban on Government servants for joining the Indian Medical Association as members ? If not, why not ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : (a) The Government of India have issued no such circular. They informed the Indian Medical Association in March, 1933, that as one of the objects of the Association, as defined in rule 2 (i) of its rules, was to support the candidature of members of the Association for legislative bodies, a Government servant could not become a member of the Association without bringing himself within the mischief of sub-rule (2) of rule 23 of the Government Servants' Conduct Rules. A copy of this letter was sent to Local Governments.

(b) Yes. The Association had already been informed that, if rule 2 (i) of its rules were deleted, the provisions of sub-rule (2) of rule 23 of the Government Servants' Conduct Rules would not act as a bar to Government servants joining the Association.

GRIEVANCES OF THE STATE PRISONERS CONFINED IN THE DAMOH SUB-JAIL.

115. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Will Government be pleased to state if Messrs. (1) Bhupati Mazumdar, (2) Suresh Chandra Das, (3) Purna Chandra Das, and (4) Jyotish Chandra Ghosh, all State prisoners under Regulation III of 1818, are at present confined in the Damoh Sub-Jail in the Central Provinces ?

(b) Is it a fact that they are confined in a small ward of the above-mentioned sub-jail for the last one year and a half and not allowed to have any exercise outside the yard ?

(c) Is it a fact that Messrs. Purna Chandra Das and Bhupati Mazumdar have long been suffering from eye troubles and their repeated requests to the Superintendent of the Jail for having their eyes examined by a specialist have not been acceded to ?

(d) Do Government propose to take immediate necessary steps in the matter ?

(e) Is it a fact that these State Prisoners applied to the Central Provinces Government for an increase in their diet allowance and both the official and non-official visitors of the Damoh Sub-Jail including Mr. Ekramulla, Assistant Deputy Commissioner, recommended the increase several times ?

(f) Is it not a fact that some of their staple food is brought from Calcutta and other distant places, paying freight charges, and in this a considerable portion of their present diet allowance, viz., Rs. 1-8-0 each per diem is spent ?

(g) Do Government propose to sanction an increase in the diet allowance of these State Prisoners as recommended by the local jail visitors ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) Yes.

(b) The State Prisoners are allowed to move about freely in the yard.

(c) and (d). The eyes of the State Prisoners are being tested as they complain of occasional headache from eye-strain, which is due to excessive reading. There is nothing seriously wrong with them. Their eye-sight was tested last year but no special action was considered necessary.

(e) No representation has been received from the State Prisoners since the dietary allowance was last fixed, beyond a verbal request to the Sub-Divisional Magistrate, Damoh.

(f) I would refer the Honourable Member to the reply given by me to his question No. 826 on the 26th September last.

(g) It is not considered that there is any necessity to raise the rate of diet allowance.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Is it a fact that prisoner No. 4, Jyotis Chandra Ghosh, has been suffering from paralysis and has been confined to bed for some time ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am afraid I have no information with me at the moment on that point.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Is it not a fact that Regulation III of 1818 requires periodical reports, bearing particularly on the health of the State Prisoners, to be supplied to the Government of India ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : That is perfectly true, and these reports are supplied.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Is there any responsible officer in the Home Department who makes it his duty to look into these reports regularly as soon as they come ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Yes, Sir.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Does the Honourable Member himself have any opportunity or occasion to look into them ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : They are frequently put up to me whenever any special matter requires my attention.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : When was any such report placed before the Honourable Member for the last time ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think, Sir, I have probably examined certain reports in connection with the answer to this very question.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : So is it only when questions are asked in this House that these reports ever come to the knowledge of the Honourable Member ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir ; I do not think it would be fair to make that assumption.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Will the Honourable Member inquire into the statement that I have made with reference to the condition of health of this particular prisoner ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Yes, Sir, I shall be pleased to do so.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Are Government prepared to consider the question of transferring these prisoners from one jail to another when they are confined for a long time in a small yard in a particular jail ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I do not think there is any case at present for the transfer of these prisoners.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : I shall make my question clearer. When a person is confined in one jail in a small yard for months or years together, will Government consider the question of transferring him to other places for a change of climate or place ? I speak from personal experience ; it is a great strain to be confined in the same place for years in a small yard.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : All I can say is that I do not think, from the medical reports received, that there is sufficient reason for considering the transfer of these prisoners from Damoh.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Arising from the reply to part (f), about their diet allowance of Rs. 1-8-0 a day, has the Honourable Member considered the particular point raised that the major portion of the daily allowance is spent on freight charges ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The diet allowance is fixed in consideration of the local prices, which would no doubt include the cost of freight.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : The Honourable Member has, I think, missed my point : it is not of the local price of these things that I asked, but of food-stuffs that must be obtained from distant places like Calcutta.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : By local prices I mean the prices at which the articles are available in the locality.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : And if they are not available in the locality but have to be brought down from distant places, will Government then consider the question of freight ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : My point is that it is taken into account.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Is it a fact that the reason for the headache has been stated by the Honourable Member to be due to much reading ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Yes.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Are Government aware of what the other reasons are for this headache ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think that is a medical question and should be addressed to some other Honourable Member.

CENSORSHIP OF THE CORRESPONDENCE OF POLITICAL PRISONERS.

116. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Is it a fact that the correspondence of the political prisoners is censored ?

(b) If so, who is responsible for censoring the letters of the Bengali State Prisoners ?

(c) Is it a fact that the censoring authorities withhold the letters written by the State Prisoners to their relatives without assigning any reason ?

(d) If so, do Government propose to inform these State Prisoners as to the objectionable matters in those letters ?

(e) Is the censor of letters guided by any rule or principle approved of by the Government of India ?

(f) If so, will the Honourable the Home Member be pleased to place a copy of those rules on the table ?

(g) Is it a fact that the censor takes a long time, sometimes months, to inform the prisoners concerned about withholding of the letters ?

(h) Are Government prepared to issue necessary instructions to make better arrangement in the matter of censoring ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) and (b). I would invite the attention of the Honourable Member to the reply given by me on the 27th February, 1933, to parts (a), (b) and (c) of his question No. 526.

(c) Yes.

(d) This is not considered necessary.

(e) No rules have been framed by the Government of India as none are considered necessary.

(f) Does not arise.

(g) and (h). I would refer the Honourable Member to the answer given by me on the 27th February last to parts (d) and (e) of his question No. 526.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Arising out of the answer to part (d), if the political prisoners are not informed why objection is taken to particular passages, how can they rectify in future when writing their letters and guard themselves against being censored ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think they will be able to form their own opinions.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : In a big letter if a particular portion is considered objectionable and, on that account, the whole letter is withheld and the State Prisoner is not informed of the reason, how can he infer what portion is considered objectionable by the Government ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I do not think he would have much difficulty in forming his opinion.

NON-SUPPLY OF CERTAIN BOOKS TO STATE PRISONERS CONFINED IN THE DAMOH SUB-JAIL.

117. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Is it a fact that the jail authorities in the Damoh Sub-Jail did not allow such books as " Pak Pronali " (art of cooking in Bengali) and the Prime Minister Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's book named " Socialism " to the State Prisoners confined there ?

(b) Is there any special staff meant for censoring of the books supplied to the political prisoners ?

(c) If so, what are their qualifications ? Why was the book, " Pak Pronali " forbidden ?

(d) Is it a fact that a well-known Bengali drama named " Nildarpan " was sanctioned for Mr. Jyotish Ghosh whereas disallowed in the case of Mr. Suresh Das, both of whom are State Prisoners in the same jail ?

(e) If so, will the Honourable the Home Member be pleased to state the reasons for this discriminating treatment ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) " Pak Pronali " was allowed but none of the books on " Socialism ", including Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's book were allowed. I am making further enquiries about this.

(b) Yes.

(c) The staff works under the control of a Superintendent of Police. The second part of the question does not arise in view of the reply to (a).

(d) Yes.

(e) The disallowance in the case of State Prisoner Suresh Das was due to an oversight which was subsequently set right.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Is it not a fact that a book on cookery can be as dangerous as a book on communism ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : You mean to the physical condition of the prisoner ?

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Yes.

SEARCH BY POLICE OF THE ROOM AND BELONGINGS OF STATE PRISONERS CONFINED IN THE DAMOH SUB-JAIL.

118. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Is it a fact that the Deputy Superintendent of Police of Saugor (a district in the Central Provinces) went to the Damoh jail by the middle of last March to search the room and belongings of the State Prisoners confined there ?

(b) Is it true that the State Prisoners objected to the police search and wanted to see the search warrant but the above-mentioned police officer did not pay heed to their objection and no authority for the search was shown to them ?

(c) Is it a fact that the Police Officer searched the belongings of the State Prisoners for six hours from 12 A.M. to 6 P.M. and seized some note-books ?

(d) Will the Honourable the Home Member be pleased to state under what section of the Criminal Procedure Code and under what special circumstances the search was authorised and by whom ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) Yes.

(b), (c) and (d). The search in question was made as information was received that one of the State Prisoners had prepared a scheme of communistic activities. During the course of the search a notebook was seized which contained a scheme for the organisation of Communist societies. A search warrant under Chapter VII of the Criminal Procedure Code is not necessary for the search of a prisoner or his cell in jail which is permissible under the Jail Rules.

FORCED FEEDING OF MAHABIR SINGH, A LATE POLITICAL PRISONER IN THE CELLULAR JAIL, ANDAMANS.

119. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) What were the weights of Mahabir Singh, one of the deceased political prisoners in the Cellular Jail, Andamans :

(i) While in Indian Jail before a month of his transfer to the Andamans,

(ii) At the time of transfer to the Andamans,

(iii) Just after arrival in the Andamans,

(iv) On the day he began hunger-strike,

(v) On the 17th May when forced feeding was taken recourse to ?

(b) What was the special condition in his case after five days' hunger-strike which compelled the medical authorities to advise forced feeding ?

(c) Is it not a fact that for ordinary adult persons abstention from food for 10 or 12 days does not lead to the risk of life ?

(d) Did the Jail authorities in the Andamans consider Mahabir Singh to have been the ring-leader of the hunger-striking prisoners and consequently wanted to teach him a lesson ?

(e) Is there any truth in the rumour that the jailor with heavy boots sat upon the chest of Mahabir Singh so that his mouth may be opened when Mahabir resisted ?

(f) Is it not a fact that Mahabir vomitted blood just after the operation of such forced feeding ?

(g) Why of all prisoners was Mahabir Singh selected first for forced feeding ?

(h) How many persons pressed his chest to make his mouth open ? Were any blows given on his face ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) Mahabir Singh's weight was 127 lbs. on admission to the Cellular Jail, Port Blair, and 128 on April 24, 1933, that is 18 days before the hunger-strike began. No further information in regard to his weight is available.

(b) The prisoner had lost condition rapidly and in the opinion of the Senior Medical Officer it was necessary to begin to feed him, along with other prisoners, artificially on May 17.

(c) I am not aware of any general rule on the subject.

(d) Certainly not. The sole object of the authorities was to take the action which on medical grounds they thought most likely to avoid risk to life.

(e) There is no truth at all in the rumour.

(f) No.

(g) A number of prisoners on hunger-strike on May 17 were fed artificially. Mahabir Singh was not singled out for this treatment.

(h) No person pressed his chest and he was not struck on the face.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Who is the special medical officer who suggested forcible feeding on the fifth day of the hunger-strike ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : This was under the directions of the senior medical officer.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : I wanted to know what his qualification was ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : He is an officer of the Indian Medical Service.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Can the Honourable Member tell us from his wide experience throughout India whether, on the fifth or sixth day of a hunger-strike, forcible feeding was resorted to, say in the case of Mahatma Gandhi or any other person, ordinary or extraordinary ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I cannot say : I have not a record of the period that usually elapses before artificial feeding is resorted to ; but I have consulted medical opinion on what was done and, I am assured, that the circumstances may very well have justified the action.

Rao Bahadur B. L. Patil : Will the Honourable Member state what is the method of forcible feeding ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : There is a later question on that subject.

DEATHS FROM PNEUMONIA IN JAILS IN THE ANDAMANS.

120. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) How many deaths have occurred from pneumonia in the Andaman Jails during the last one year before the deaths of these hunger-striking prisoners ?

(b) If any, who are they and on what dates ?

(c) If not, why had these hunger-strikers a peculiar tendency to such attacks ?

(d) Is there anything peculiar in the atmosphere of the Andamans which easily gives rise to such a disease ?

(e) What process was adopted at the time of feeding these prisoners forcibly ?

(f) How many persons were requisitioned to set the feeding tube into the mouth or nostrils of each hunger-striker, when the latter resisted ?

(g) Is it a fact that it was considered necessary for some men to sit on the chest of each hunger-striker to frighten him and make his mouth open when he resisted ?

(h) If so, are those operations responsible for the present weakened state of the health of the hunger-strikers ?

(i) Do Government propose to see that recourse is not had to feeding by force in future and allowing the hunger-striking prisoners to die a peaceful death, if they so choose ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) Twenty three convicts in the Andamans died from pneumonia in 1932.

(b) The details are not available.

(c) Does not arise.

(d) Actually the incidence of pneumonia among prisoners in the Andaman jails is less than in the Indian jails taken as a whole and also less than in Bengal. The average incidence per thousand prisoners in the years 1922—1931 was 7.2 in the Andamans, 11.7 in the Indian jails as a whole, and 10.2 in Bengal.

(e) The prisoners were laid on a low bed with heads slightly raised on a pillow, attendants held the head and limbs steady, while the doctor inserted the tube.

(f) Few prisoners offered serious resistance and the tubes were ordinarily inserted without difficulty. In cases of resistance three or five men, according to the degree of resistance, were employed to keep the arms, legs and head steady while the doctor administered the food.

(g) No.

(h) Does not arise.

(i) It is not proposed to change the existing principle, in accordance with which it is considered to be the duty of the jail officials to do all they can to preserve the lives of prisoners.

STATEMENTS LAID ON THE TABLE.

12 NOON. The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce (Member for Industries and Labour) : Sir, I lay on the table :

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler (Foreign Secretary) : Sir, I lay on the table the information promised in reply to unstarred question No. 148 asked by Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad on the 30th March, 1933.

SECRETARY TO THE BOARD OF HIGH SCHOOL AND INTERMEDIATE EDUCATION, RAJPUTANA AND CENTRAL INDIA.

148. (a) Yes. Following the practice of the United Provinces, the system was adopted for the Board when it was instituted in 1929.

(b) Yes. The proposal was not moved because the Chairman had already ordered that in future certificates should be signed by the Secretary.

(c) Yes. He is 58½ years old and retired in October, 1929.

(d), (e) and (f). Yes.

(g) Government regret they are not at present in a position to make any definite statement.

Mr. G. S. Bajpai (Secretary, Department of Education, Health and Lands) : Sir, I lay on the table the information promised in reply to starred question No. 1086 asked by Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen on the 1st April, 1933.

TRADE CARRIED ON IN NEW DELHI.

*1086. (a) and (b). As already stated in my previous reply, no such notification as is referred to in part (a) of the question has been issued by the Government of India. The Government of India have, however, sanctioned the imposition of a terminal tax and a tax on cows and buffaloes in New Delhi. The former has been imposed to enable the rate payers of New Delhi to participate in the proceeds of the longstanding terminal tax imposed by the Delhi Municipal Committee, of which the New Delhi Municipal Committee had previously received no share. The area under the jurisdiction of the two Municipal Committees will be regarded as one for the purpose of this tax. The object of the cows and buffaloes tax is not to remove cattle from the New Delhi area but to prevent overcrowding and improve sanitation. The installation of meters in clerks' quarters is directed to the control of wastage of water.

(c) (1) The answer has been given above.

(c) (2) The trade carried on in the Gole Market and the Connaught Place areas in New Delhi is of a general character, and no statistics as to the annual value of any special trade in these areas are available.

Mr. P. R. Rau (Financial Commissioner, Railways) : Sir, I lay on the table :

(i) the information promised in reply to starred question No. 635 asked by Seth Haji Abdoola Haroon on the 3rd March, 1933 ;

(ii) the information promised in reply to starred questions Nos. 646 and 647 asked by Mr. B. N. Misra on the 6th March, 1933 ;

(iii) the information promised in reply to parts (a) to (c) of starred question No. 846 asked by Pandit Satyendra Nath Sen on the 21st March, 1933 ; and (iv) the information promised in reply to starred question No. 999 asked by Mr. N. M. Joshi on the 28th March, 1933.

RE-APPOINTMENT OF RETRENCHED STAFF OF RAILWAYS IN THE INVERSE ORDER OF THEIR DISCHARGE.

*635. (a) Yes, subject to such adjustments as may be necessary to maintain the proportions of the various communities approximately at the levels at which they stood prior to retrenchment.

(b) and (c). Yes.

(d) Yes. It is understood that from length of service as a clerk Kanshi Ram is senior to Abdul Khaliq, but was incorrectly discharged first.

DEMOTION OF CERTAIN INSPECTORS OF CREWS ON THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.

*646. (a) Yes.

(b) (i) As a result of the abolition of the Crew System their posts were also abolished. But instead of being discharged from service, they were, as an alternative, offered posts in the new scheme on reduced pay and allowances.

(ii) The whole system was temporary and consequently none of them were confirmed.

(c) No.

(d) Yes.

(e) The answer to first part of the question is in the affirmative. As regards the latter part of the question, under the State Railway Provident Fund Rules only permanent staff can subscribe to the Fund.

(f) The answer to first part of the question is in the negative, the second part therefore, does not arise.

(g) The ticket checking staff have been permitted to retain the old scales of pay of the posts which they held substantively. The Inspectors of Crews referred to were only temporarily employed in the Crew System and on the abolition of that system were absorbed in the Moody-Ward Scheme on lower scales of pay and allowances to avoid discharge.

CONSOLIDATED ALLOWANCE OF INSPECTORS OF CREWS ON THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.

*647. The rates of consolidated allowance quoted are not quite correct. The correct rates are as follows :—

Staff drawing pay.	Consolidated allowance.
	Rs.
Less than Rs. 100	35
Rs. 100 to Rs. 199	50
Rs. 200 and over	65

(b) The Honourable Member's attention is invited to my reply to part (g) of his starred question No. 646.

RECRUITMENT OF QUALIFIED CLERKS AS ACCOUNTANTS IN THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY ACCOUNTS DEPARTMENT.

*846. (a) The number of vacancies from August is nine. I am informed that these (as well as five permanent vacancies which occurred previously) were filled by the promotion of clerks eligible for promotion under the rules.

(b) I understand this is not the case.

(c) The question does not arise.

PROMOTION OF INDIAN ASSISTANT STATION MASTERS AS GUARDS IN THE MORADABAD AND LUCKNOW DIVISIONS, EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.

*999. Government are informed that the normal channel of promotion for Assistant Station Masters (Lower grade) is to Station Masters (Lower grade) and not to Guards and the question of such promotion does not, therefore, arise.

One Assistant Station Master has, however, been transferred to the Guard's List at his own request on the Lucknow Division since the amalgamation of the Oudh and Rohilkhand Railway with the East Indian Railway.

ELECTION OF THE STANDING COMMITTEE FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore (Member for Commerce and Railways) : Sir, I beg to move :

"That this Assembly do proceed to elect, in such manner as the Honourable the President may direct, three Non-Official Members to serve on the Standing Committee to advise on subjects in the Department of Commerce."

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad (Patna and Chota Nagpur cum Orissa : Muhammadan) : May I know, Sir, from the Honourable the Commerce Member how many meetings of the Standing Committee were held last year ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I regret I cannot give the Honourable Member the information straightaway, because I only returned from leave last October, but I know that I have just now circulated a notice inviting Members to meet early next month.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Thank you, Sir.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

"That this Assembly do proceed to elect, in such manner as the Honourable the President may direct, three Non-Official Members to serve on the Standing Committee to advise on subjects in the Department of Commerce."

The motion was adopted.

ELECTION OF THE STANDING COMMITTEE FOR THE DEPARTMENT OF INDUSTRIES AND LABOUR.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce (Member for Industries and Labour) : Sir, I beg to move :

"That this Assembly do proceed to elect, in such manner as the Honourable the President may direct, three Non-Official Members to serve on the Standing Committee to advise on subjects, other than 'Roads' and 'Broadcasting', dealt with in the Department of Industries and Labour."

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad (Patna and Chota Nagpur cum Orissa : Muhammadan) : May I know, Sir, how many meetings of this Standing Committee were held last year ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I shall be very glad to tell the Honourable Member. There were two meetings last year, there has been one this year, and I am arranging for another in the course of this Session. It is the endeavour of my Department to have a meeting of the Committee every Session.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty): The question is :

"That this Assembly do proceed to elect, in such manner as the Honourable the President may direct, three Non-Official Members to serve on the Standing Committee to advise on subjects, other than 'Roads' and 'Broadcasting', dealt with in the Department of Industries and Labour."

The motion was adopted.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : I may inform Honourable Members that for the purpose of election of Members to the Standing Committees for the Departments of Commerce and Industries and Labour, the Assembly Office will be open to receive nominations upto 12 NOON on Friday, the 1st September, and the elections, if necessary, for both the Committees, will be held on Monday, the 4th September, 1933. It is proposed to adopt the same procedure for holding the elections for these Committees as was followed in the case of some Committees during the last Delhi Session and Honourable Members will be informed of that procedure by a circular to-day. The elections will be conducted in accordance with the principle of proportional representation by means of the single transferable vote.

THE INDIAN STATES (PROTECTION) BILL.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig (Home Member) : Sir, I move for leave to introduce a Bill to protect the Administrations of States in India which are under the suzerainty of His Majesty from activities which tend to subvert, or to excite disaffection towards, or to interfere with such Administrations.

The motion was adopted.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Sir, I introduce the Bill.

THE COTTON TEXTILE INDUSTRY PROTECTION (SECOND AMENDMENT) BILL.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore (Member for Commerce and Railways) : Sir, I move for leave to introduce a Bill further to amend the Cotton Textile Industry (Protection) Act, 1930.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Motion moved :

"That leave be granted to introduce a Bill further to amend the Cotton Textile Industry (Protection) Act, 1930."

Mr. B. Das (Orissa Division : Non-Muhammadan) : Sir, if I go out of my way and become unconstitutional for once in opposing a Bill at the introduction stage, it is because the Honourable the Leader of the House has gone behind the pledge which he gave last Session on the floor of the House that he would publish the Report of the Tariff Board and then bring out a Bill whether any further protection could be given to the textile industry. This House gave ample power under the anti-dumping Act to the Government to counteract the Japanese menace, and now my friend wants that the millowners should receive further protection for another period of six months. If the Honourable Member would read the speech which his predecessor, Sir George Rainy, made in 1930, he would find that in this House at no time it was defined that the textile industry would receive perpetual protection.....

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : May I know if the Honourable Member is opposing the introduction of the Bill ?

Mr. B. Das : Yes, Sir. I am opposing it, because the Government have gone behind their pledges and promises.....

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Honourable Member must remember that the statement he chooses to make on this occasion should be a very brief one and not an elaborate speech.

Mr. B. Das : Thank you, Sir. On this side of the House we are doubtful whether the cotton textile industry needs any protection at all from the Legislature or from the Government, and the Government for that purpose made the Tariff Board produce a Report which they have not so far published. I do not know why my friend is sitting tight over it. The question of Japanese menace has no bearing on the issue whether the cotton textile industry should receive protection for a further period from this Legislature. My friend has got ample powers to protect the mill industry by the Anti-Dumping Act from the Japanese menace. He has to enter into negotiations with the Japanese representatives or with the Lancashire representatives who are coming to India after September, but he should not go behind his promise and postpone publication of the Tariff Board's Report which ought to have been made public property for these last six months. My friend, in introducing the Bill, gave no reason whatsoever for this rather out-of-the-way procedure he chooses to follow by coming to this House for a second time and asking it to extend the period of protection for another six months. So, Sir, I do hope that, by my opposition, the Honourable Member will withdraw the Bill and publish the Tariff Board Report and introduce a proper Tariff Bill before the House.

Mr. K. P. Thampan (West Coast and Nilgiris : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Sir, I do not oppose the Bill at this stage ; but.....

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : Sir, knowing my friend, Mr. B. Das, as I do, I am not surprised at the opposition which he has raised at this stage, though it is certainly not in accordance with the accepted practice of this House. I was going, when I made another motion in respect of this Bill, to give the House a full statement of the reasons why it was necessary for me to come before it and ask for an extension of the existing measure. I still propose to leave to that occasion a full explanation of the reasons which have actuated the Government in taking this step. For the present I need only say that I am sure this House and everybody outside it will recognise that it was quite impossible for the Government to come forward with specific proposals in regard to the protection of the cotton industry when we were within sight of negotiations with Japan. I can only say that any specific proposals which might now have been put forward before this House might possibly have had a disturbing effect upon negotiations which, as I have said, we are upon the threshold of. I am sure that my Honourable friend will receive no support for his opposition.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

"That leave be granted to introduce a Bill further to amend the Cotton Textile Industry (Protection) Act, 1930."

The motion was adopted.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : Sir, I introduce the Bill.

AMENDMENT OF STANDING ORDERS.

Mr. S. C. Mitra (Chittagong and Rajshahi Divisions : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : I beg to move for leave to amend Standing Order No. 17 which runs as follows :

"Questions, which have not been disallowed, shall be entered in the list of questions for the day, and shall be called, if the time, made available for questions, permits, in the order in which they stand in the list before any other business is entered upon at the meeting."

By my amendment I desire to add this proviso :

"Provided that not more than four questions standing in the name of a member shall be called for answer on the same day."

Sir, I move.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Motion moved :

"That leave be granted to amend the Standing Orders of the Legislative Assembly in the following manner :

'That to Standing Order 17 the following proviso be added, namely :

'Provided that not more than four questions standing in the name of a member shall be called for answer on the same day'."

I have to ask whether Mr. Mitra has the leave of the House to make this motion for the amendment of the Standing Order.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad (Patna and Chota Nagpur cum Orissa : Muhammadan) : No, I oppose it.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Objection having been taken, I request those Honourable Members, who are in favour of leave being granted, to rise in their places.

As more than 25 Honourable Members have stood in their places, the Honourable Member, Mr. S. C. Mitra, has the leave of the House to make this motion.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : I move that the proposed amendment be referred to a Select Committee.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

"That the proposed amendment be referred to a Select Committee."

The motion was adopted.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : I have to announce that nominations for the Select Committee on the amendment of Standing Orders will be received up to 12 NOON on Friday, the 1st September, and the election, if necessary, will be held on Tuesday, the 5th September, 1933. It is proposed to adopt the same procedure for conducting the election for this Committee as was followed in the case of some Committees during the last Delhi Session, and Honourable Members will be informed of that procedure by a circular today. Under Standing Order 56 (2), the Committee will be composed of the President, the Deputy President and seven Members elected by the Assembly by the single transferable vote.

THE WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION (AMENDMENT) BILL.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The House will now resume consideration of the Bill to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923, as reported by the Select Committee. The question is that clause 1 stand part of the Bill.

Mr. A. G. Clow (Government of India : Nominated Official) : Sir, I move :

"That in sub-clause (2) of clause 1 of the Bill, for the word and figures 'July, 1933' the word and figures 'January, 1934' be substituted."

I regret that it should be necessary to propose this postponement for six months, but unfortunately the anticipations of the Select Committee have not been fulfilled. Honourable Member will realise that when they suggested the 1st July, 1933, a date which is already past, they hoped that the Bill would be passed in the Delhi Session. Unfortunately, for reasons well-known to the House, that proved to be impossible.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

"That in sub-clause (2) of clause 1 of the Bill, for the word and figures 'July, 1933' the word and figures 'January, 1934' be substituted."

The motion was adopted.

Mr. A. G. Clow : Sir, I move :

"That in sub-clause (2) of clause 1 of the Bill, for the word and figures 'January, 1934' wherever they occur, the word and figures 'July, 1934' be substituted."

This is a corollary of the previous amendment. The sections to which this date refers are those which very greatly enlarge the Act—the number of workmen coming under the Act and the scales of compensation—and it is important that employers should have reasonable time to make the necessary preparations in these matters.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

"That in sub-clause (2) of clause 1 of the Bill, for the word and figures 'January, 1934' wherever they occur, the word and figures 'July, 1934' be substituted."

The motion was adopted.

Clause 1, as amended, was added to the Bill.

The Title and Preamble were added to the Bill.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce (Member for Industries and Labour) : Sir, I move that the Bill, as amended, be passed.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Motion moved :

"That the Bill, as amended, be passed."

Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury (Assam : Muhammadan) : Now that the heat and dust of the controversy is practically over and we have reached the final stage, I desire to express my appreciation of the serious and earnest efforts that Government are making to implement the recommendations of the Royal Commission on Labour. Though this Bill in several respects does not go so far as some of us would like it to go, the provisions of the Bill are undoubtedly an improvement on those that they amend. In this Bill fresh categories of a large number of workers have been included ; the list of dependants has been increased ; the waiting period has been reduced ; and the scale of compensation has been increased though it would have been more satisfactory if the recommendation of the Royal Commission with regard to maximum and minimum scale for permanent disablement and death had been given effect to. Then, again, the right of compensation has also been acceded in the case of fatal accidents though it may be due to wilfulness or negligence of the workers. I wish the same right had been conceded in the case of permanent disablement also. Still I consider that what has been achieved has been a considerable achievement. Particularly in this Assembly, where the capitalists have such a powerful influence, I think the voice of my Honourable friend, Mr. Joshi, would have been a mere cry in the wilderness if we were not backed by the active support of Sir Frank Noyce. Sir Frank Noyce claims that he has tried to hold the balance evenly. My impression has been, if he will permit me to say so, that in more cases the scales have been weighed in favour of labour than in the case of the capitalist, and I congratulate the Government on the passing of this useful measure.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I need say no more than that I deeply appreciate what has fallen from the Deputy President.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is that the Bill, as amended, be passed.

The motion was adopted.

THE INDIAN RAILWAYS (AMENDMENT) BILL.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore (Member for Commerce and Railways) : Sir, I beg to move :

"That the Bill further to amend the Indian Railways Act, 1890, for a certain purpose (Road Motor Services), as reported by the Select Committee, be taken into consideration."

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Motion moved :

"That the Bill further to amend the Indian Railways Act, 1890, for a certain purpose (Road Motor Services), as reported by the Select Committee, be taken into consideration."

Mr. T. N. Ramakrishna Reddi (Madras ceded Districts and Chittoor : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : I beg leave to oppose the motion for consideration. In this connection I have an amendment. May, I move it ?

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Chair thought the Honourable Member wanted to speak on the original motion. If it is his intention to move his amendment, the Chair would first call upon Dr. DeSouza to move his amendment.

Dr. F. X. DeSouza (Nominated Non-Official) : Sir, I rise to move :

"That the Bill, as reported by the Select Committee, be re-circulated for the purpose of obtaining further opinion thereon in the light of the decisions taken at the recent Rail and Road Conference and the Mitchell-Kirkness Report."

The Select Committee have returned the Bill in a greatly amended form, but all the same it seems to me to have overlooked certain very material points which have emerged in the course of the Mitchell-Kirkness report as well as in the course of the discussions at the recent Rail-Road Conference, which points, in my opinion, require further careful examination in the light of public opinion. The Bill is an attempt to find a solution for the competition between railways and road transport which is becoming more and more acute all over the world and is growing in intensity daily even in this country. From the Mitchell-Kirkness report, it appears that the loss sustained by the Railways during the year 1931-32 in consequence of competition with motor bus services amounted to as much as two crores of rupees, nearly 50 per cent. of their normal yearly earnings. The loss threatens to grow more and more every year and it concerns the finances of the Railways as well as those of the Central Government. Now, the solution proposed in this Bill to meet the alleged unfair competition of the motor buses is by stimulating counter competition on the part of the railways by empowering them to own and operate motor services on their own account.

The first criticism I would like to offer to this Bill is that it provides no machinery of any kind to see that this counter competition will be run on fair and equitable lines. When the railways complained that the competition by the motor buses was unfair, they appealed to the Commerce Member, and the Commerce Member has brought this Bill in order to set matters right ; but if the competition of the railways will be unfair, as I fear it will be, to whom are the bus services to appeal ? Has there been any referee provided by the Bill in order to see that the competition will be on fair and equitable lines ? None. That this objection of mine is not a mere academic one, but that it is a real live objection, will be seen from what has happened in England. Whenever the railways come on the road, they become super competitors. The Report of the Royal Commission on Transport in England in the year 1931 states as follows :

"Railways got on to the road in 1928. They entered into rate cutting wars with companies so as to force the public to return to the railway by first killing competition and then closing down the motor services."

These were the tactics adopted and successfully adopted in England by railways and those tactics were not to continue the running of motor buses on improved lines, but to close them down once the motor bus companies were driven out of the field, so as to compel the public to return to the railways. When great inconvenience was caused to the public by the closing of the motor service, Parliament had to intervene and to enact the English Road Traffic Act of 1931 by which Traffic Commissioners were appointed to see that the public were not deprived of the amenities to which they were accustomed.

[Dr. F. X. DeSouza.]

If that was the case in England where the motor services are so powerful and so highly organised, what will be the case in this country where motor buses are owned by single private owners or owner driven. Already, in anticipation of this Bill becoming law, several railways in this country have begun rate cutting wars with bus services. I shall refer to only one railway, the Darjeeling Himalayan Railway. In that railway, before the advent of the motor lorry, the charges for the transport of tea used to be thirteen annas six pies per maund. After the advent of the motor bus, the charges have been lowered to nine annas per maund. I understand that nine annas per maund hardly pays the operating charges of the motor lorries. The Government are asked to intervene, because it was said, the competition of motor buses with railways was uneconomic. Here, I venture to say, the boot is on the other leg. It is the railways which are responsible for the uneconomic competition, and not the motor buses. Similarly, by the same railway the passenger fares have been reduced as follows since the advent of the motor bus :

	Former rate. As. Ps.	New rate. As. Ps.	Bus fare. As. Ps.
From Siliguri to Nuxalbari (22 miles) ..	7 0	2 6	6 0
From Siliguri to Bagdogra (8 miles) ..	4 0	2 0	3 0
From Siliguri to Matigari (3 miles) ..	1 3	0 6	1 0

It may be urged that the Bill provides for sanction by the Governor General before any scheme empowering railways to run motor services on the roads is sanctioned and that the Governor General will make inquiries from the Local Governments who consult such further interests as may be involved before sanctioning such a scheme. But I venture to say that when the sanction of the Governor General is sought for this purpose, he will be guided by the advice of the Railway Member and the Railway Member naturally will be guided by the advice of the Railway Board. Is it at all likely that the interests of the motor bus service will be in a position to make themselves felt in this departmental inquiry that will be held ? I think not. It will be necessary that an opportunity should be given to motor bus services to make their case heard directly by means of especially organised authorities as have been organised in England for the purpose, viz., the Traffic Commissioner about which I shall speak presently.

It is conceded by Mitchell-Kirkness report that if the railways are empowered to run the motor services on roads running parallel to lines, something in the nature of monopoly will have to be granted to them as otherwise they will find it impossible to work. If that is so, what will happen to a large number of private motor buses that are plying now on those roads ? They will be driven away. Who is there to suggest alternative routes for them ? Provision should be made for some kind of machinery by which motor buses will be provided for in such a case.

Mr. N. M. Joshi (Nominated : Non-Official) : What will the Legislature do ? The Legislature can see that the monopoly is not abused.

Dr. F. X. DeSouza : The monopoly will have to be granted and it will have to be regulated by a body of men like the Board of Communications about which I shall speak presently.

My objection to this Bill is : why is it rushed in this way ? As long ago as 1912, the Acworth Committee recommended that a Ministry of Transport should be established with a Board of Communications which will consider and co-ordinate all questions of transport, and yet, curiously enough, this Bill is being rushed in this House for reasons which seem to me to be inexplicable. The Bill was introduced before the Mitchell-Kirkness Committee had made its report. It was rushed through the Select Committee before the Committee's report was in the hands of the Select Committee and it is now proposed to be enacted into law long before there is any possibility of the safeguards contemplated by the Acworth Committee, namely, the appointment of a Ministry of Transport and of a Board of Communications, can be inaugurated.

My second criticism of this Bill is that it is an instance of piecemeal legislation in favour of one mode of transport without any reference to its reaction on other modes of transport. The dangers of piecemeal legislation of this kind are illustrated by the Madras Vehicles Taxation Act of 1931. Ostensibly, it was an Act for the abolition of tolls, but in reality it has succeeded in practically taxing the motor bus industry in Madras out of existence, in ruining the roads of the Madras Presidency and in disorganising the finances of the provincial as well as of the Central Government. The taxation imposed by this Act in lieu of the toll which is to be abolished is a provincial tax on motor buses ranging from Rs. 500 to Rs. 960 per bus per year. In addition to that, a further taxation of Rs. 400 is to be levied for district board licence fees. What was the result of this exorbitant taxation amounting to nearly Rs. 1,500 a year on the buses plying for hire ? The law of diminishing returns has asserted itself. The number of motor buses plying in the Presidency diminished from 4,171 in 1931-32 to 1,935 in 1932-33, a reduction of 2,236 buses in the Presidency in one year. What was the consequence ? The consequence was that the provincial revenues suffered a loss of 11.18 lakhs.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Will the Honourable Member tell me how this is relevant to the motion before the House ?

Dr. F. X. DeSouza : I want to show disabilities from which the motor buses are already suffering in the Presidency of Madras and how adversely will the motor industry, which has already been crippled, be affected by an Act of this kind. That is what I want to show.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : May I explain the position ? So far, at any rate, as the two Company railways which traverse the Madras Presidency are concerned, namely, the South Indian Railway and the Madras Southern Mahratta Railway, this Bill will not apply to either of them.

Dr. F. X. DeSouza : I may say in answer to that that although this Bill will not apply to these Railways, yet what those Railways will require for the purpose of running motor buses will be merely to get an order from the Governor General in Council.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore: No, Sir. That is entirely incorrect. They will need an Act of Parliament.

Mr. K. C. Neogy (Dacca Division : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : I rise on a point of information, Sir. Is it not contemplated that as soon as this Bill is passed, steps will be taken in England for necessary amendment of the corresponding British Statute ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I have no such course under contemplation and I can remove my Honourable friend's apprehensions at once.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : I dare say my Honourable friend has read the observation in the Mitchell-Kirkness Report on this point.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I can only tell him what is in my mind and I give him the definite assurance on this point that so far as I am concerned, I have, certainly at present, no such procedure in contemplation.

Dr. F. X. DeSouza : I was going to illustrate the dangers of a piecemeal legislation of this kind on one form of motor transport without considering its reaction on other modes of motor regulations. I was illustrating this position from what has actually happened under the Madras Motor Vehicles Taxation Act, 1931. I was also trying to point out under what difficulties the motor buses already plying in the Madras Presidency suffer from and how this industry has already been crippled by taxation in order to insure the sympathy of this House so as not to expose it to further competition from railways by this Act.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Honourable Member can refer to the Madras case, but not go into detailed discussion on that point.

Dr. F. X. DeSouza : Without going into further details, I think I have made my position clear that this taxation has not only crippled the industry, but has ruined the roads on which motor buses are running. In view of your ruling, Sir, I do not propose to enter into details showing the extremely exasperating and harassing manner in which this Act has been worked in the Madras Presidency, causing annoyance and resentment in the minds of the users of motors as well as owners of the motor lorries.

My third criticism is this. It is true that this Bill takes no account whatever of the point of view of the travelling public. True, there have been complaints and proper complaints against the motor services and against their over-crowding and against their not observing the scheduled time and many other points, but the proper remedy for this is by appointing a Traffic Commissioner as has been done in England. To the travelling public at large in this country the motor bus at present presents a far better proposition than railways for short distances, because the motor bus picks the passenger up at his house and leaves him at his destination. If that is so, to give a monopoly to the railways and to deprive the public of the amenities given by the motor service seems to me to be unfair. It seems to me that the railways are for the public and not the public for the railways.

It is said that a large amount of capital is sunk in the railways amounting to over 800 crores and that the interest of the tax-payer, so far as this capital is concerned, will be safeguarded. But what about the capital sunk in the 45,000 private buses which are plying in the country, buses purchased at a cost of Rs. 4,000 or Rs. 5,000, amounting in all to 22½ crores. What about the value of buildings, garages, service stations, petrol stations and part and accessory shops ? Should no attention be paid to this capital ? What about the unemployment ? It is reckoned that nearly seven lakhs of people earn their living from this motor bus industry or other industries depending on it. If they are going to be thrown out of work, how are they to be provided for ?

It is said that competition by motor buses with railways is unfair. But, as I have already said, in the Central Provinces, the taxation amounts from 21 per cent. to 23 per cent. of the working expenses and, in Madras, it amounts to as much as 35 per cent. to 40 per cent. of the cost of operating. If that is so, how can competition be said to be unfair ? Taxation nearly killed the motor industry in Madras and to bring further competition by this Bill would be ruinous.

If I were disposed to attribute motives of Machiavellian strategy to my Honourable friend, the Commerce Member, I should have said that it was his intention to cripple the motor industry in the provinces by inspiring Local Governments to pass legislation of the kind already described and then to completely destroy them by a frontal attack by passing this Bill into law. But, as I said, nobody who knows the Honourable Member would ever attribute to him Machiavellian motives or strategy.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : Nobody will, who knows the present constitutional position.

Dr. F. X. DeSouza : I was going to add that the same cannot be said of the members of the Railway Board.

In conclusion all I wish to say is this. I agree that the present position cannot be allowed to stand. It is necessary to give up the policy of laissez-faire and take some action, but the present Bill is merely tinkering with the problem. What should be done is not to introduce one-sided legislation in favour of only the railways. You should take a proper and general view of all the means of transport, and as the Minister of Transport in the Federal Government that-is-to-be—a position which I have no doubt the Honourable the Commerce Member will adorn with great distinction—I ask him, Sir, to consider the vast net-work of communications by roads, by rail, by air and by water, and think out an elaborate scheme co-ordinating all these so as to provide the best service throughout the country on the most economic lines. Sir, I move.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Amendment moved :

> "That the Bill, as reported by the Select Committee, be re-circulated for the purpose of obtaining further opinion thereon in the light of the decisions taken at the recent Rail and Road Conference and the Mitchell-Kirkness Report."

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : On a point of personal explanation. It has just been brought to my notice, with reference to what my Honourable friend, Mr. Neogy, said, and in justice to him, I should take the earliest opportunity of referring to it, that the Honourable Sir

[Sir Joseph Bhore.]

C. P. Ramaswami Aiyar, when he introduced this Bill, made the following remarks :

" I may, with reference to another remark which fell from the Honourable Member, say that this Bill, if it receives legislative sanction and is passed into law, will be then a kind of jumping-off ground so that we may approach Parliament in order that they may proceed with reference to those lines in regard to which Parliamentary sanction or Parliamentary legislation is necessary."

I can only say, Sir, that I have no such intention and most certainly until the effect of this Act has been gauged and we are in a position to know what consequences it has for the motor bus industry, I personally would be no party to taking action on those lines.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Perhaps in the interest of economy of time I might request the Honourable Member to make another statement with reference to Resolution No. 3 which was adopted by the Road Rail Conference held in April last ? Resolution No. 3 says :

" This Conference considers that the statutory provisions which at present limit the operation of motor services by certain Railways should be repealed."

The Resolution is in such general terms that it would comprise the case of Parliamentary enactment as also enactment by this Legislature. Do I understand that this Resolution has no reference to the British Statute in so far as it may need to be amended on this particular point ? And I should also like to know from the Honourable Member whether this particular Resolution is under the consideration of the Government of India and whether the Government of India think that this Resolution should be interpreted to mean only legislation by this House.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : Sir, I find some difficulty in replying to the Honourable Member since I was not primarily concerned with the conduct of the Conference. I can only speak of the impression left upon my mind by the discussions of that Conference, and the impression left was that the Conference was considering at the moment only this Bill and the implications of this Bill. I can only give the Honourable Member my personal impressions.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : I am very sorry to prolong these interruptions, but may I point out that while speaking on that Resolution itself the Chief Commissioner of Railways, Sir Guthrie Russell, said :

" The Legislature has recently been considering a suitable amendment of section 51 (c), (meaning the present Bill), which governs certain domiciled companies in this matter and the clause of the British Statute, by which guaranteed lines are restricted, will require similar amendment by an Act of Parliament." ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I think that is perfectly right. That merely states the legal position. It does not necessarily bind the Government of India to taking at once any course or line of action.

Mr. F. E. James (Madras : European) : May I ask one further question of the Honourable Member ? If this Bill goes through, what is the justification for leaving certain railways under a disability in regard to this matter of running their own motor vehicles ? I see no justification for the position taken up by the Commerce Member if this Bill goes through.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I think the position really is that the light railways have been far more affected by this competition than the other railways and it was the light railways who made application for action to be taken along these lines. The other railways have not done so.

Mr. T. N. Ramakrishna Reddi : Sir, I beg to move :

" That the Bill, as reported by the Select Committee, be re-circulated for the purpose of obtaining further opinion thereon from the public including the District Boards and Automobile Associations, wherever they exist, by 30th June, 1934."

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : It is not necessary for the Honourable Member to move this amendment. The amendment moved by Dr. DeSouza covers that point also.

Mr. T. N. Ramakrishna Reddi : I have fixed a date and it is for that reason that I move my amendment. The previous amendment does not give any date by which time opinions have to be called for.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Then the best course for the Honourable Member will be to move that the words " by the 30th June, 1934 " fixing a time limit should be added to Dr. DeSouza's amendment.

Mr. T. N. Ramakrishna Reddi : I have no objection to the course suggested by the Chair.

It may be said, Sir, that this Bill has already gone to the country for eliciting public opinion and there are a number of public opinions that are placed in our hands. But, Sir, if you peruse those opinions, you will find that only a certain number of persons and a certain number of associations were consulted, and the general public and the associations which are directly affected by the passing of this Bill have not been consulted. That is one of the reasons why I want its re-circulation. There is another ground also why I want this to be re-circulated. The Bill went to the Select Committee and the Select Committee have completely changed the Bill, the very principle of the Bill, beyond recognition ; and what we find in the Bill, as it emerges from the Select Committee, is its title and preamble. I need not labour that point at great length, because the Select Committee themselves have clearly stated that they had to amend the Bill on three different principles. I will briefly state what the scope of the original Bill was and how it emerged from the Select Committee. The original scope of that small Bill, as was introduced in the beginning, was to give a carte blanche power to the railways to open up bus services, air services and waterways unconditionally and without any obstruction at all ; whereas, in the Select Committee, it has undergone very many modifications. In the first instance, Sir, they have restricted the operation of this Bill to only two ways, that is to say, motor buses and airways, and they have not given the power to open waterways. Secondly, the original Bill was aimed at giving unconditional powers to the Governor General, but in the Bill, as amended by the Select Committee, they have clearly stated that whatever decisions the Governor General in Council will take must get the approval of the Local Governments also, because they are the Governments which are very much affected by this Bill. Thus, while the original Bill wanted autocratic powers, the amended Bill has restricted those powers.

Then, Sir, there is another principle which the Select Committee have applied. In the original Bill they wanted to give the railways the power to open bus services and have the monopoly of such bus services. But, in the Select Committee, they have specifically stated that there should be no such monopolies or privileges at all and a railway company, if at all, is allowed to run a bus service, it must do so on equality of terms with the private bus services. And, in the notes appended to the Select Committee Report, they have clearly stated thus :

"In accordance with these decisions, clause 2 of the Bill has been entirely recast by us. Instead of amending clause (e) of section 51, we propose to insert a new section 51A consisting of five sub-sections."

Thus the whole Bill has undergone a complete metamorphosis, and that is the justification for the Bill to go to the country once again for eliciting public opinion. Sir, the Mitchell-Kirkness report states that on account of this bus competition the railway companies, including State-managed, Company-managed, as well as light railways must have sustained, according to their estimate, a loss of one crore and 83 lakhs of rupees. And if we eliminate the bigger railway services and take into consideration only the light railway services, the loss will be very much less, and, in order to recoup that loss, what is the proposal of the Government ? The proposal of the Government is to enter into a direct competition with the private bus services that are existing in this country. Now, they want to empower the railway companies to run motor bus services. According to the Mitchell-Kirkness report, which I will quote subsequently, the railway companies cannot run a bus service with profit without having a monopoly or preference. That monopoly or preference has been knocked on the head in the Bill as it has emerged from the Select Committee. Now, if the railways get this power to run bus service, then one of two things will happen : either it will succeed in ousting the existing bus services in the country, or it may go under because it cannot stand the competition. If it succeeds in eliminating all the other bus services that are running in the country, the effect of it will be that the Local Governments, who are deriving a large amount of income from these bus services, and also the local boards, will suffer a heavy loss by the elimination of private bus services. It is estimated by the Mitchell-Kirkness report itself that these bus services and motor trade in general are getting to the Government, both Central and Provincial, an income in the neighbourhood of Rs. 840 lakhs ; and that, taking the bus services alone, the income to the Government, mostly to the Provincial Governments, is 243 lakhs of rupees. The effect, therefore, if the railway companies succeed in running their own buses, will be that the Local Governments and the local boards stand to lose a great portion of their revenues, which they are not going to surrender. On the other hand....

1 P.M.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : Excuse me : they do not stand to lose anything, because, under the Bill as at present recast, a railway motor bus service will be subject to the same taxation and the same conditions as ordinary buses.

Mr. T. N. Ramakrishna Reddi : In answer to that, the Kirkness report has clearly stated that if the railway service runs its own bus service on equal terms, then it is not going to have any profit at all : it is sure to sustain loss. In that case, why introduce this Bill ? That is my contention. I am putting both sides. I have stated what the effect will be if it succeeds. As I have said, it will mean a loss of revenue to the Central and Provincial Governments. On the other hand, if it does not succeed, which is likely, it will mean additional loss to the railways and to the Government which means ultimately to the tax-payer. So, considered either way, it is not advisable to empower these railway companies to start railway bus services.

What are these private bus services doing ? These private bus services are bringing more traffic to the railways : it is estimated that the railways are getting 53 lakhs of rupees of additional income by transporting petrol from one place to another, for consumption by these buses ; and the Mitchell-Kirkness report has not clearly shown by statistics what amount of additional traffic these private buses are providing from the interior to the railways. If it is estimated, I think it will be a considerable amount ; and all this the tax-payer stands to lose if this power is given to the railways.

It has been pointed out that at least fifty per cent. of these railway lines have been laid along the trunk roads already existing, because they wanted to capture the traffic and they expected very good traffic from the cities and towns served by the trunk roads. Now, the Central and Provincial Governments have been spending a lot of money over the maintenance of these trunk roads for their own purposes, to the neglect of the other country roads ; and hence when this bus traffic came, naturally they ran the buses also along the trunk roads, because there would be less wear and tear and there was chance of greater traffic along the main roads. I submit, therefore, that this competition is of the Government's own making. If the Government had developed the rural parts and if they had linked important villages to the railways, this bus traffic would have been diverted to those roads and the railway companies would have got more revenue and these private bus services would have served as feeders to railways. Hence I consider this Bill premature. In the first instance, the Government should tackle the problem how best to develop village communications. It is after developing village communications and showing other ways for this bus traffic to employ itself that they can bring in this Bill empowering the railways to open bus traffic. Instead of doing that, they are putting the cart before the horse by introducing this Bill and thus cutting the throat of private bus enterprise. I may here state that the Imperial Government is getting income from the petrol tax which they have been distributing over the various provinces and they have earmarked that money to be spent only on trunk roads. I can give a very recent instance of my own district : a bridge was constructed on the trunk road with the grant from petrol tax, costing Rs. 83,000. The Government have all this time been earmarking this petrol tax for developing only trunk roads and not rural tracts ; and now I find in this Rail-Road Conference a resolution to revise their rules and empower the Local Governments to spend this money on the development of rural roads. Both the Railway Department as well as the Government have charged these motor buses with running the buses at uneconomical rates and with lowering the rates considerably below the rates prevailing in the railway companies. This cannot stand examination for a minute. If the motor buses, after paying heavy taxation, are going to run their buses at the most uneconomical rates, then there would have been no bus service at all. On the other hand, we find from the Mitchell-Kirkness report that there are nearly 45,000 buses plying on the roads ; and I can also quote from this very same report that that is not the case. Of course there are cases of cut-throat competition, and in those cases it is only the buses among themselves that enter into this cut-throat competition : for instance, if on a particular line one man is running a bus with profit, then four or five other services run and there is competition, and after some time the weaker buses go under and then they enter into some sort of agreement among themselves in the way of revising their rates or keeping their rates above certain levels or to fix certain hours for each service or running them alternately ; and thus they again come back to the original rates. This cut-throat competition can exist only for a few months and it cannot go on indefinitely. On the other hand, the Mitchell-Kirkness Report has quoted numerous instances pointing out that private bus services have charged higher rates and yet they continue to be popular among the people. This is what they say at page 38 of their Report :

"But it was quickly found that this was an uneconomic fare and the rate has been raised to four or five pies per mile ; and on one service run by this company in direct competition with the railway a charge of 6 pies a mile is made, and the service is still largely patronised by the public owing to its convenience.

In our reports on Madras, Bengal and the Central Provinces, cases have been quoted where the fares on buses running in competition with the railway are in excess of the railway charge, but where the buses still apparently command the patronage of the public."

Thus, Sir, there are numerous instances which show that buses are charging higher rates than the railway company, and yet they are being largely patronised by the public, and so the charge that is levelled against the bus services that they are running the services at a very uneconomic rate does not hold water for a moment. On the other hand, light railways have been running on a monopolistic basis before the bus service entered the field, and they had their own timings, their own method of running trains, and at some stations these trains used to be stopped for half an hour sometimes without moving on ; in some cases they used to put on old rickety carriages. Hence, as soon as the bus service was started in competition with these railways, the public eagerly took to it, as it provided a greater convenience to them ; and we cannot deny this convenience to the public simply because the railways want to run their own bus service. On the other hand, instead of bringing forward a measure of this character, what the railways should do is to improve their timings, they should make the railways more attractive to the public by running their trains in proper time and by putting better carriages and by affording all sorts of convenience to the travelling public. The Report also gives instances to show that where a company had improved its service they regained their trade which they had lost at one time, and on such lines, the number of bus services has diminished. Therefore, Sir, the remedy lies in improving train service to afford general convenience and giving better facilities to the travelling public and not in introducing this Bill.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The House stands adjourned till half-past Two.

The Assembly then adjourned for Lunch till Half Past Two of the Clock.

The Assembly re-assembled after Lunch at Half Past Two of the Clock, Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) in the Chair.

Mr. T. N. Ramakrishna Reddi : Sir, regarding the investment made by the private bus owners, the expert Report estimates that there are about 45,000 motor buses running in the country, and, if we estimate that each bus costs about Rs. 4,000 to Rs. 5,000 then the outlay on the buses alone would come up to about Rs. 20 crores. Not only that, these private bus owners must have invested equal amounts by way of garages, repair shops and accessories, and so many other things. Their interests also have to be looked after. Again, as I have already pointed out, the Provincial Governments and the Imperial Government are getting nearly Rs. 2½ crores of income from them, and we should not, as representatives of the people, do anything which would reduce this income and put these private bus owners in any worse position.

Now, Sir, with regard to the working of bus services by railways, according to the expert Report, both official and non-official view is against it. At page 34 we find :

"Generally official and unofficial opinion appears to be opposed to railways operating road transport, chiefly lest a monopoly should result which would lead to the public being badly served, and also because of objection in principle to public invasion of fields of enterprise."

Again, these larger railway companies do not want to open this bus system. We find at page 38 of the Mitchell-Kirkness report :

"The larger railway administrations have generally been averse from engaging in road motor transport because they anticipated certain other difficulties, apart from the impossibility of competing on equal terms with the owner-driven bus now common."

The Honourable the Commerce Member has just now said that according to the Select Committee the railway bus service would have to compete with private bus service on equal terms and hence there would be no loss to private bus owners. But here is the expert Report which says that even on equal terms, if railway companies start this service, they do not stand to gain, and various difficulties are enumerated in the report as to why larger railway companies do not propose to run bus services. They are :

"(i) considerable capital outlay would be necessary on vehicles, workshops and garages ;

(ii) the organisation of an extra department would be necessary ;

(iii) it would be difficult to secure to the railway the revenues earned from motor buses ; and

(iv) it would be difficult to ensure control over expenditure of consumable stores."

These are the difficulties which the larger railway companies feel in regard to starting their bus services, and if these are the difficulties felt by larger railway companies, how much more difficult will it be for the smaller and light railways to run bus services ? Because, when a railway company starts a bus service, it must maintain a very good bus service, its servants must be paid on the same scale as other railway employees, and all these difficulties which the larger railway companies feel must also apply to the smaller and light railways. So, when the larger railway companies do not want these bus services, when the public opinion, official and non-official, do not want it, I wonder why the Government should go on with the present Bill.

Then, Sir, I think it is highly doubtful how far the present legislation would be in order. What I mean is that, if this Bill is passed, you will be empowering the railways to run motor buses on trunk roads and other roads. But roads are a provincial subject, and the Imperial Government have absolutely no control over roads. This has been emphasised by the Honourable Member in charge of Industries and Labour when he presided over the Rail-Road Conference which was held last April. He said :

"We recognise fully, just as the provincial representatives do, that roads are a provincial transferred subject and that the Government of India, therefore, cannot interfere in it. It is for that reason that we have asked you to come here today (that is to say, referring to the representatives of Local Governments) and we wish to secure your co-operation in helping us to deal with one of the biggest problems that face India now. We can no more interfere with your roads than you can interfere with our railways."

This has been supported by another Member of the Government of India, namely, the Finance Member. He said :

"We, on the Government of India side, fully recognise that we can only proceed by voluntary co-operation. We recognise fully the authority of the Provincial Governments in this matter (referring to the roads). Some of the provincial representatives have felt it necessary to speak rather in a defensive manner on this point, but I do want to make it clear that we fully recognise that the Provincial Governments have full responsibility and authority in their own field and that it is only by voluntary co-operation that we can arrive at the desired result."

This is the opinion of two Government Members.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : That is my opinion too.

Mr. T. N. Ramakrishna Reddi : I am glad there is another weighty opinion in favour of that contention. So, whatever legislation we may pass here will not be binding upon the Local Governments. Of course you can pass any legislation you like under section 65 of the Government of India Act affecting all persons, all Courts and places, and so on. What will be the effect in actual practice ? Suppose a railway company goes to the Local Government for a licence to run a bus service. According to the Select Committee's Report, they must work on the same terms as the private bus. They cannot claim any special privilege at all. Supposing the Local Government feels that on account of the railway company working this bus service private service would be eliminated entailing loss of revenue and refuse licences to the railway company. The railway company finds itself helpless inspite of this Bill. The Select Committee says :

"In particular, our intention is that they (the railway buses) should not enjoy any exemptions from taxation or from licensing regulations, but should compete with private enterprise on level terms."

Now, what is the opinion of this expert committee which the Government of India themselves appointed ? The Mitchell-Kirkness report says :

"It must be admitted that if railways are allowed to operate road motor service, they would require to be protected under present conditions. It would be impossible for railways to compete with any of the buses now running on parallel roads. Railways would be expected to provide a good standard of vehicle subject to strict periodical inspection. The staff working the vehicles would be railway staff working under railway conditions and the service would be regulated as regards time, speed and the freight charged. Adequate protection of the railway bus service would, therefore, involve a monopoly", and so on.

So it is clear that unless the railway company obtains a monopoly or special protection, it is not going to be a profitable concern and, as I have pointed out, the Select Committee clearly says, no special privileges are to be given to the railway company. Then the Honourable Sir Frank Noyce, as Chairman of the Rail-Road Conference, said :

"For the present, therefore, where it may be decided that a railway should be allowed to operate the road motor transport, we believe that it should do so in all respects on terms of equality with the existing concerns."

This is a definite statement and the representatives of the Local Governments have also clearly laid stress on this point. They said that, if any monopoly were given to the railway companies, they would be no party at all to that arrangement. The Honourable Sir Muhammad Yusuf, the Minister, speaking on behalf of his Government, said :

"The only thing that we must very carefully bear in mind is that we cannot contemplate to give monopolies to the railways."

The Honourable Sir Jogendra Singh, another Minister, says :

"It has been made quite clear that it is not the aim to give the railways any monopolies or to put them in any preferential position in relation to motor traffic and that the Local Governments will continue to enjoy full authority in this matter as now."

It is only on that condition that the Local Governments gave their consent. My point is that, if the railways are not given any special privileges, they will run bus service at a loss. That is also the opinion of this expert committee. We have got the examples of the corporations of Calcutta and Bombay where the buses started by the corporations sustained heavy losses and even in Madras, where the tramway company opened motor bus service, they sustained heavy losses. We have also the examples of other corporations starting buses and coming to grief. So, if the railways start their buses, it will be suicidal to them. That is also the opinion of the representatives of Local Governments, namely, that they will not make any profits at all. Here is the opinion of Mr. Conran Smith, the representative from Madras :

"As to whether it would pay the railways to run a fleet of buses, that of course is another point."

The Honourable Mr. Bijay Prasad Singh Roy agrees with the opinion of members from Madras. He says :

"I am also very doubtful whether it will pay the railways to run buses, because bus service must not only be self-supporting, but also earning a sufficient income."

Mr. Samnad is another representative who says that he is very doubtful whether rail road service will be able to do more than perhaps pay their way. He says :

"To my mind, the solution lies more in the tightening up of the standard efficiency of road services."

That is a solution which he suggests and not the passing of this Bill. Of course, we have also to see that the railways do not sustain heavy losses, because this is also a national concern. At the same time, you must also see that private enterprise also exists which has brought so much revenue to the Government and it has also helped in many ways the railways by bringing the traffic from the interior to the railway companies, and so we must also see to their existence. So the remedy lies not in this legislation, not in this competition, but in a co-operative effort by both the Central and the Local Governments. This point has also been accepted by the Rail-Road Conference. They have passed a resolution wherein they have clearly stated that both the Central and Provincial Governments must collaborate and find out means how best to see that the economic waste is prevented. What I would suggest is that, instead of proceeding with this Bill, let them form a board of communication having representatives from the Central and the Local Governments and local Boards which are primarily affected and also representatives of the bus services, and then devise ways and means for preventing this uneconomic competition which exists at present here and there. That can be done only by allowing each service to keep to its own line of operation and, at the same time, tightening up the rules that govern bus services, limiting the number of buses on any particular line where they consider that it is competing uneconomically with the railway line and also by opening out interior villages by means of roads so that they might serve as feeder lines. In that case these private buses which are now running parallel to the railways and competing with them will divert their attention to these interior roads and thus you will provide other routes for these motor buses to run their services. The solution lies only in that way by collaborative effort between the Central and Local Governments and not by passing this legislation. I anticipate, the leader of the House might quote this very same Report of the Rail-Road Conference and say that Local Governments have given their approval to the passing of this Bill. I may point out that they have given their approval on one condition that there should be no monopoly and on the principle that " the more the merrier ". They would welcome this Bill, because there would be more applications for running bus services and they would stand to gain by getting more taxes. It is only on that principle, they have given their consent. But every one of them have clearly stated that these bus services are not going to gain any profit. That is the most important thing. It is for us, representatives of the tax-payers, to see whether we would allow Government to pass this Bill and enable the railway companies to run bus services which have been proved to be running at a loss and thus spend more good money over bad money. It is for us to see whether we would allow them to run bus services which have been proved to end in loss. We are on the eve of some constitutional changes and we have also seen the report of the Railway Committee on the constitution of statutory railway authority to be established. Hereafter, the Assembly will have absolutely no control over that body. Hitherto the Public Accounts Committee was scrutinising over the expenditure and this has led to some restrictions with regard to spending and with regard to the opening of new services. We had at least so much control. Hereafter, there will be no such control. Even the Member in charge of Railways will have no control over the internal working of the railways. Supposing we give this power and the railways, not only light railways, but, bigger ones, run these bus services. They may be sustaining heavy losses over which the Assembly will have no control. We will be leaving it to the sweet will and pleasure of the railway authorities. I submit, it will be imprudent to give our approval to the passing of this Bill. Public opinion has not been sufficiently brought to bear upon this, and it must go again to the country for eliciting public opinion. In this connection, as suggested by you, Sir, I would amend the original amendment by inserting the date, " 30th June, 1934 ". I also suggest the inclusion of the words " including District Boards and Automobile Associations ". The District Boards are mostly affected by this Bill, because the District Boards mainly rely upon taxes which they get from bus services and it is they that are responsible for maintaining the District Board Roads apart from the provincial roads for which they get a grant from Provincial Governments ; and the public also must express their opinion, because it is the public that will be affected by passing of this Bill. Supposing a railway company starts a bus and then, after eliminating all the other buses, establishes a monopoly and then, afterwards, thinks of withdrawing the bus service, the public will be put to a lot of inconvenience, and so the public opinion also has to be taken in considering this Bill. So, Sir, I should like to include these words also and amend the original amendment in this way :

3 P.M.

" That the Bill, as reported by the Select Committee, be re-circulated for the purpose of obtaining further opinion thereon from the public including the District Boards and Automobile Associations, wherever they exist, in the light of the decisions taken at the recent Rail and Road Conference and the Mitchell-Kirkness Report, by the 30th June, 1934."

I commend this amendment for the consideration of the House.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : If the House agrees to substitute for the amendment of Dr. DeSouza the one suggested by Mr. Reddi, it will simplify discussion. I take it that the House has no objection and the amendment would therefore run as follows :

" That the Bill, as reported by the Select Committee, be re-circulated for the purpose of obtaining further opinion thereon from the public including the District Boards and Automobile Associations, wherever they exist, in the light of the decisions taken at the recent Rail and Road Conference and the Mitchell-Kirkness Report, by the 30th June, 1934."

The discussion will take place on this amended amendment.

Mr. F. E. James : Sir, we do not support the amendment for re-circulation, but support the passage of the Bill as it stands into law partly because of the history of this measure and partly because of its intention. But, in saying that, I desire to offer two observations of which one will be directed to the Honourable Member for Railways and the other will be directed more specially to the Honourable Member for Industries and Labour. It is unfortunate that on the matter of transport and communications generally we have to address ourselves to two Honourable Members. It would have been far more convenient if we had to address our remarks to one Honourable Member in charge of the communications portfolio. That, I hope, will come in a short time.

Now, Sir, the first observation I wish to make is this, and it arises out of some information which we elicited from the Hononurable the Commerce Member this morning. As I understand the position, there are three classes of railways, that is, State railways, light railways and Company-owned railways. I am not now speaking of the District Board railways. A State railway, I understand, has already the power to run a bus service. This Bill is designed to give the light railways more particularly that same power, but it cannot touch the powers of those railways which derive their constitution and authority from an Act of the British Parliament. I understood from the Honourable Member this morning that he did not propose to take any steps in that direction unless he was specifically asked by one or other of those railway companies to secure an amendment of their Acts so as to enable them to enjoy the same facilities which he proposes to give to the light railways. The point I wish to make now is that if such companies do make an application, will the Honourable Member consider favourably taking steps to put them in exactly the same position as the other railways ? For, apart from that, I see no justification whatsoever, as I said this morning, for any differentiation in this matter. The whole difficulty in this question of transport is that we have dealt with it in a piecemeal manner This Bill obviously rectifies the position in regard to one class of railways acting under authority in this country. I should have thought that, if the position of railways generally were to be regularised, steps should have been taken to place all railways on the same basis. That, therefore, is my first observation. In passing, I would like to point out in reply to some of the remarks that have been made on the other side of the House that both this Bill and the further steps that I propose should be taken by the Hononurable Member for Commerce are entirely consistent with the conclusions which were reached by the Mitchell-Kirkness Committee. You will find those conclusions particularly in paragraphs 36-39, 34-35, 42, 43 and 52. I will summarise the more important recommendations of that Committee which go to show that railways must be given the same facility in regard to road transport, if they are to fulfil their functions, competing adequately with ordinary motor transport. This is a brief summary of paragraph 53 :

"There are of course objections to railways coming on the roads, but, in view of the amount of public capital invested in railways, it is arguable that where the railways and particularly the light railways, having developed a route, cannot offer on the railway the facilities which motor transport offers, they should at least have the option of doing so on the roads."

And also there is another paragraph which, summarised, reads as follows :

"The solution in many cases may lie with the Railways themselves operating motor transport on parallel roads."

The railways would of course have to be protected from uneconomic competition from other concerns ; and I will add as a corollary to that, that the other concerns would likewise have to be protected against uneconomic competition from railways. Therefore, I think that the Honourable Member for Commerce is absolutely on safe grounds as far as the general principle which underlies this Bill is concerned. My only concern is that it is another example of piecemeal action in regard to a question which is crying out to be dealt with on a more comprehensive scale, and I do beg the Honourable Member for Commerce to give this House some assurance that the same facilities will, if they are asked for, be provided in the case of railways operating under Acts of Parliament.

Now, Sir, the second observation I wish to make would be addressed to Sir Joseph Noyce. (Laughter.)

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I am glad to find, Sir, that the Honourable Member recognises that in this matter Sir Joseph Bhore's heart and mine beat as one. (Laughter.)

Mr. F. E. James ; I am very glad to have the assurance of Sir Frank Bhore (Laughter), and, if I may, to address my remarks now to the Siamese twins of Government. (Laughter.) I want once more to take the opportunity which I believe is afforded to me under the discussion of this Bill to call attention to the need for a really constructive plan in regard to the whole question of communications, both road and rail, and to inquire what stage has now been reached in carrying out investigations in regard to some of the proposals which were made at the recent Rail-Road Conference. I would refer particularly to three Resolutions which bear on this question of rail-road competition. I would remind the House that this Conference consisted of representatives of Local Governments as well as representatives of the Government of India, of representatives of the railways and of representatives of public bodies and interests general. The first Resolution stated that the Conference was of the opinion that the time had come for increased co-operation and more intelligent co-ordination of effort between the various authorities and interests concerned in the matter of (i) future railway development, and (ii) the future development of road communications whether used for motor transport or other purposes. And the Resolution goes on to state that in areas where uneconomic competition between railway and road transport has been proved to exist, such increased co-operation and co-ordination may necessitate the adoption by mutual agreement of measures designed to reduce such uneconomic competition to the minimum compatible with the maintenance of healthy competition. Nobody can possibly deny that in different parts of the country there is the most hopelessly uneconomic competition between the railway and the road. I can quote at least five important routes in the Madras Presidency itself where on parallel lines road and rail are indulging in the most foolish and ridiculous competition over passenger traffic. Similarly, there is equally stupid and unnecessary uneconomic competition in regard to the transportation of goods. Those of us who have followed the proceedings in the British Houses of Parliament in regard to the Road-Rail Bill—I think it is called the Traffic Bill—which has recently passed the House of Commons, will know that one of the most important proposals there is the establishment of advisory councils which will go into the question of this very important point of uneconomic competition in regard to passenger traffic and in regard to the carriage freight as between road and rail. I wonder whether, if this Bill goes through and railway companies assume the facilities which are being given by it, there is any machinery contemplated whereby hopeless cut-throat competition can be avoided, with the result that both the bus services and the railway companies are injured.

A further point which was made by this Conference was that any comprehensive or uniform plan of general development must sooner or later involve the gradual extension of facilities for rural motor transport complementary to the railways and to other arterial forms of transport ; but as internal district communications are largely controlled by local bodies, there must be some inter-provincial co-ordination of effort in the first place. Now, as far as development of rural communications is concerned, every one who takes an interest in provincial matters particularly knows that this has become a matter of urgent importance, in view of the great increase in population. Therefore if the provinces are to develop both by means of opening up of roads and by the development of motor transport, independent of and ancillary to the rail service, there must be as soon as possible some co-ordinated effort in the provinces as well as at the centre ; and I should like to know from the Honourable Member who deals particularly with the subject as to what steps are being taken to make the necessary inquiries which will lead to the implementing of these proposals made at this Road-Rail Conference.

We feel that it is a very urgent matter and a very important matter. It is true of communications as of everything else that, where there is no vision, the people perish : in other words, the people suffer where there is no largeness of constructive plan. Unless now the matter is taken in hand in the largest possible way with the combined vision of the two Members who are in charge of these two great portfolios, then I fear that ultimately the District Boards, of which my friend Mr. Reddi spoke just now, will suffer : the people will suffer ; the railways will suffer ; and those who are interested in motor transport itself will suffer. Therefore, while giving our support to the passage of this Bill, we make these two observations, and we appeal to the Members concerned not to rest upon the passage of this Bill. If I may put my attitude to this Bill in a parodied form of an old verse, I would say :

"It is not enough,
This piece-meal stuff ;
We ask for more,
Sir Joseph Bhore : "

and we shall go on asking for more until we get it.

Shaikh Sadiq Hasan (East Central Punjab : Muhammadan) : Sir, I beg to move the following amendment which stands in my name :

"That the Bill, as reported by the Select Committee, be re-committed to the Select Committee."

Sir, I am opposed to the Bill as it has emerged from the Select Committee. If the Honourable Members were to read carefully the opinions, they will find that, with very few exceptions, all the Indian representative bodies have opposed this Bill. Amongst them I would mention the names of the Indian Chamber of Commerce, the Indian Merchants' Chamber, Bengal Trades Association, Bengal National Chamber of Commerce, the Southern Indian Chamber of Commerce, and, besides these, it is quite natural for the motor transport companies and workers to oppose this Bill. It may be said that this Bill has been altered by the Select Committee and their opinions have changed. But I have got the admission of the members of the Select Committee who say that the main principles of this Bill have not been changed and there have been changes only in detail. One great principle they have established they say is this : that there will be no differential treatment between railway companies who run motor buses and the other motor bus companies, and, for this, I propose, the country should raise statues to them. I would say plainly that the Assembly will be playing into the hands of the railway companies if they allow this unfair competition to take place. It is an admitted fact that the railway companies have got great financial resources : they have got brains behind them ; they have got all sorts of help and facilities from the Government. There is not the least doubt that in their own business they have got a monopoly, because no one can run parallel lines to theirs. Now these people want to compete against whom ? If they were to compete against big motor companies, I would have conceded that it would be a fair competition. But unfortunately the competition is very unfair. Whereas on the one hand they have got such big resources, on the other hand who are the people with whom they are competing ? Poor people who have bought buses mortgaging their houses, selling their wives' ornaments, and, in certain cases, possibly borrowing money from money-lenders—these are the people against whom the railway companies are going to fight. What is going to be the result ? The result will be what everyone knows. These people are going to be wiped out with the result that all the money invested by these poor people will be lost ; and I consider that the Government will be mainly responsible for their ruination. I would say that it is very easy for these railway companies to defeat these poor individuals. These railway companies have got big resources and so they can easily cut down freights and fares as my friend, Dr. DeSouza, has shown, reading from a report. I may tell the House that the same thing happened in the case of Turner Morrison, with the result that they wiped out two Indian companies, Schustery and others ; and the proprietors of those companies are at the door of begging, and the same will happen in the case of bus owners. The danger, I have said, is not only the loss of money of these poor individuals, the bus owners, but also the avenues for business in this line will be shut and closed to many young men and ex-soldiers. At the present moment students, ex-soldiers and many other people, who want to earn their livelihood as chauffeurs, work on these motor buses, gain experience and begin to earn their livelihood independently after a time by running their own motor buses and lorries. When the railway companies will start to compete with these bus owners, it will not be possible for these poor people to earn their livelihood, with the result that this avenue of business will be closed to them.

An Honourable Member : Will not the railway companies employ ex-soldiers ?

Shaikh Sadiq Hasan : Ex-soldiers will have no chance of becoming bus owners and plying their own trade.

Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal (Jullundur Division : Non-Muhammadan) : How many ex-soldiers have Messrs. Martin and Company engaged in their service ?

Shaikh Sadiq Hasan : I do not know how many people they have engaged. Now, Sir, it is not only these people who would suffer, but, as the House is aware, many people have opened motor workshops and accessories shops ; they have invested thousands of rupees, and there are hundreds of these shops all over the country. If this motor and lorry business is closed, the result will be that these workshops also will have to be closed, because the railway companies will have their own workshops. I consider, Sir, that the duty of the State is to help the poor people, to create new businesses, and not to close down existing businesses. Our benign Government have done nothing to help the poor in starting new business ventures for the last so many years ; on the other hand, by this measure they are going to ruin the poor people who have been in this line for so many years. Let us consider for a moment why these railway companies are anxious to ply bus and lorry services. They say, they are losing heavily in these days. Whose fault is it ? Why should they have such top-heavy administration ? I do not know much about the light railway companies, but I know something about the administration of the North Western Railway, and I suppose it will be the same in these light railway companies. The North Western Railway has a very highly paid staff. I do not mind if they are well paid, but they do not do much work, because there is not much work to do ; but still these cushy jobs are kept on to pay big salaries to the officials. If these companies want to earn a profit, they should work like other companies on a commercial basis. They should consider that they are not Government Departments. The function of the Government Departments is to rule, while these railway companies are commercial concerns and they should work in an economic manner. They should have better management, they should be more courteous to the travelling public.

I would also point out that when the prices of all the commodities have gone down, there is no earthly reason why the railway companies should not reduce their tariff rates. If the railway companies were to adopt all these things and improve their service, I am sure, these railway lines could be worked more profitably and they will be able to compete very successfully with people owning buses and lorries.

Sir, I wanted to propose the rejection of this Bill, but unfortunately I find there is an overwhelming Government majority backed as it is by a large number of non-official Members, and so I cannot make any such proposal at present ; but there is one thing which is satisfactory. We have got the Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore in the Select Committee. He has always been very sympathetic, and I think, if the Bill goes back to the Select Committee, he may again ponder over the whole problem and find out some way to see that the interests of the poor people are not in any way injured. I have two suggestions to make. First of all, these railway companies should not be permitted to operate any motor services on roads or in areas where there is already some other private service in existence. Certainly, I would welcome their opening new services in undeveloped areas, because such services will be of great use to the country and also beneficial to the railway companies themselves as they will be able to make more income ; but where the buses are already plying, if the railway companies also start cut-throat competition, it will be disastrous to every one. My second suggestion is, if the Government cannot agree to my first proposal, at least they should prevent uneconomic competition, and that could be done just as Signor Mussolini has done in several cases by compulsory arbitration, and by fixing the rate of hire and freight.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Further amendment moved :

"That the Bill, as reported by the Select Committee, be re-committed to the Select Committee."

The discussion will now take place on the original motion and the two amendments moved.

Rao Bahadur B. L. Patil (Bombay Southern Division : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Sir, I rise to support the amendment moved by my friend, the last speaker. In my opinion, there is one principal objection to the Bill passing into law as it now stands emerging from the Select Committee. If we look at the newly added proposed section, we find that it is extraordinarily indefinite. It simply means that the Governor General wants to take full powers in his own hands. It is not possible for this House to know or for the country to know under what circumstances or under what conditions such schemes will be sanctioned by the Government. Therefore, my simple suggestion to this Assembly will be to provide in this Bill a clause which would give power to Government to make rules, and further, I should like that those rules should be placed on the table of this House. This is my simple suggestion, and I support the amendment for the re-committal of this Bill to the Select Committee.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad (Patna and Chota Nagpur cum Orissa : Muhammadan) : Sir, I have listened very carefully to all the speeches that have been made here on this subject. In the beginning, I thought I would be able to get some new proposals or ideas from Honourable Members to enable us to change our mind, but I am sorry to say that nothing new has been said by any of the speakers who have preceded me. Many questions have been raised in the course of the discussion, and considerable stress was laid on the fact that a severe competition will take place between the big railway systems and the poor bus owners, but I say that this will not be the case at all. We want to give power to poor railways, i.e., the smaller railways. The big railway systems, the State-managed railways, have already all these powers which are not given now to light railways and other poor railway companies, and so we want to give these powers to them.

Then, Sir, something was said about Local Boards and Local Governments. In this connection I may say that we carefully examined all these questions. There is no new question before us, and we have stated that sanction will be accorded only after consulting the Local Governments. This question was also discussed with Local Governments, and Local Governments generally give their opinion only after consulting the District Boards and others.

If my Honourable friend, Shaikh Sadiq Hasan, or Mr. Reddi, or others, who have spoken opposed the Bill in toto, then it would be something, but when they want to circulate it or to re-commit the Bill to the Select Committee what useful purpose will be served ? The Mitchell-Kirkness report, the opinion of all the Local Governments, and every other information were before the Committee.

I am aware of the fact that in my own province the Local Government sent this Bill and connected papers to District Boards as well and that matter was considered in the Patna District Board of which I was a member. I also believe that that matter was discussed by other District Boards as well in my province. I believe the same thing has happened in other provinces. So, by sending this Bill again for circulation, no useful purpose would be served. There will be no use referring this Bill again to the Select Committee, because all the points that have been raised were discussed there already.

The other point raised is that roads are a provincial subject. In this connection, I want to say this The matter will certainly go before the Local Governments as recommended by the Select Committee and, before giving their opinion, they will consult Local Boards, District Boards and interested local authorities, and satisfy themselves that the thing is necessary in the interests of the public. I want in this connection to quote the case of a light railway in Bihar which runs between Bukhtiarpore and Rajgir. That company is seriously affected by this motor bus competition, rather by motor taxi competition. The share of the income of the Patna District Board was Rs. 55,000 a year, but owing to motor competition—though the motors were very bad buses and people sometimes suffered very much while travelling in those buses—the share of the Patna District Board was reduced to Rs. 7,000. In the end, the Patna District Board moved a resolution and sent it on to the Government asking them to take away the whole of the light railway line from that road and to put it on at some other place. You may imagine how much money will have to be spent in taking the line from that road and putting it on on some other road. These things are happening every day. I warn Government that if we pass this Bill, it does not mean that we approve that the State-managed railways also should run these bus services. If that question is under consideration, I will suggest that this be placed before the Assembly separately. With these words, I support this Bill.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh (Muzaffarpur cum Champaran : Non-Muhammadan) : Sir, my Honourable friend, Mr. James, in lending his support to the Bill referred to the history of the legislation. I wish he had been more explicit. Does he refer to the resolution which was passed by the Associated Chambers of Commerce of India and Ceylon in December, 1930, with which Association I presume my Honourable friend must be associated in some way or other, and on the lines of which this legislation proceeds ? I should like to know in this connection from the Government whether they received representations from Indian associations or Indian public bodies suggesting the lines of this legislation ? However that may be, the object of the Bill is to authorise certain classes of railways to run motor buses in competition with private motor buses. Indian public opinion is decidedly opposed to giving any sort of authority to the railways concerned. Let me refer to the Mitchell-Kirkness report. In the first place, this enquiry was conducted by two gentlemen,—Mr. Mitchell who, at that time, was the Road Engineer to the Government of India, and Mr. Kirkness, who was an officer on special duty with the Railway Board. No Indian, no non-official was connected with this enquiry, and, last of all, no representative of automobile associations, the trade which is most directly affected, was included in this enquiry. I am not going to cast any sort of reflection upon the impartiality of these two gentlemen, but I must point out that consciously or unconsciously, I shall be charitable enough to assume that unconsciously, they were imbued with a sort of bias in favour of the proposal of the Government and of the railways rather than against it. What does this report say ? In the first page it says :

"..... nearly one-half of the total mileage of railways in British India has a metalled road parallel and within ten miles of it, and probably most of the roads were there first."

That means that in old times roads existed before railways, and, when the traffic on the roads became lucrative, the railway companies started building their own railway lines in order to take off the traffic from the roads. In those days, most of the traffic on the roads was confined to ekkas and bullock carts. Now the railways, having opened their railway lines parallel to these roads, took off the traffic that was then going on the roads. The owners of these ekkas and bullock carts being poor people, illiterate and unorganised, had no voice in the matter. So, the railway companies had in everything their own way. Why did people leave off road traffic at that time, and take to railway traffic ? For the obvious reason that the railways at that time afforded a cheap and convenient mode of conveyance, exactly for the same reason that many years after wards, motor cars and buses which have now started are cheap and convenient, and, therefore, are taking off the bulk of the traffic from the railways in their vicinity. It has been stated that railways are losing about Rs. two crores every year on account of this motor competition. The railways have virtually enjoyed a monopoly in this country for a long time, and now they want to encroach upon private trade as well when they find that certain portions of their railways are not economically self-supporting. Motor buses provide a rapid and frequent service for short distances, and the railway can hardly hope to compete with them on equal terms.

With regard to this legislation, I began by saying that the volume of public opinion is decidedly against it. And this has been admitted by the Report to which I have referred. At page 30, for instance, this is what it says :

"We have found a volume of opinion in favour of allowing unrestricted motor competition to develop unchecked. Generally these opinions were based on the alleged unsatisfactory service often provided by railways. It was argued that healthy competition would stimulate railways to meet the needs of the public better than, it is stated, they are doing ; that railways have hitherto been disposed to take advantage of their monopoly and ignore public needs ; and that already such motor competition, as there is, has to some extent made railway administrations more reasonable."

Then, again, the same point has been expressed on page 34, paragraph 43 of the report to which I need not refer more specifically. Now, the question which will arise in this connection is whether the railways will be in a position to compete on level terms with private motor transport service. Well, it is the opinion of the Report that they will not be able to do so unless they are given some sort of protection or monopoly as it were. This is what they say on page 37, paragraph 48 :

"It must be admitted that if railways are allowed to operate road motor services, they would require to be protected. Under present conditions, it would be impossible for railways to compete with many of the buses now running on parallel roads. Railways would be expected to provide a good standard of vehicle, subject to strict periodical inspection ; the staff working the vehicles would be railway staff working under railway conditions ; and the services would be regulated as regards time, speed, and the fares charged ; adequate protection of the railway bus services would, therefore, involve a monopoly ; otherwise if a railway operated buses on a route and developed traffic on it, a number of owner bus drivers might obtain permits on the same road and indulge in a rate cutting war which, while it might temporarily benefit the public, would not ultimately be to their interests."

It is abundantly clear from the quotation which I have read out that the scheme contemplated in this Report is that the railways concerned should be given some sort of monopoly over particular routes, and the local licensing authorities should not give licences to private motor buses to run their buses on those routes on which the railways would be entitled to run their service. This, I submit, is a most unwarranted interference with the rights of private enterprise in this matter, and I would strongly deprecate any such action being taken. Now, the majority of those who run motor buses or motor cars are their own owners. It is easy for them to run their motors on very economic terms, while it would be difficult for the railways to do so if they are left to compete on equal terms. As I have stated, there is a volume of opinion against the proposal embodied in the Bill. I need not refer to all of them, but I must say in passing that the Bangalore Trades Association, the District and Sessions Judge of Raipur in the Central Provinces, the Indian Chamber of Commerce of the Punjab, the Bihar and Orissa

[Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh.]

Government, the Indian Merchants Chamber of Bombay and all motor associations are opposed to this course being adopted. Now, I will just refer to the opinion of the Indian Chamber of Commerce, Punjab. This Chamber says as to the reasons why railways have been unable to compete successfully with private buses, that railways are at present working on uneconomic lines and no attempt has been made to commercialise them, that their administrative expenditure is top-heavy, and that the railway buses shall not be able to compete with private bus owners as their supervision and working expense will be very heavy.

The Committee has given further reasons why the railways have failed to compete with the motor buses and also their shortcomings in many ways. The first thing is extravagance and the unbusiness like manner in which the finances were handled during the prosperity days of the railways. Secondly, the failure to organise the accounts of the system in accordance with the report of Sir Charles Dickson, thirdly, increase of railway fares and the consequent fall in the passenger traffic in the present days of depression, incivility and discourtesy on the part of the railway staff to the Indian passengers generally, even the black Anglo-Indian women ticket collectors insult respectable Indian lady passengers. Now, this is a notorious thing that third class passengers specially are subjected to incivil treatment, and racial discrimination is rampant on some of the railways. A question has been asked in this House with regard to a certain incident which happened on the 8th August, on the Kalka-Simla Railway. It is said that on the 8th August, some Indian ladies were travelling from Summerhill to Simla with a dog, and they were asked to purchase a dog ticket by the Summerhill station staff, and they were asked by the Simla staff to present their dog ticket on their arrival in Simla, but it is stated that a European lady had two dogs in a first class compartment travelling by the same train, and no dog ticket was asked for from her at the Simla station. This question will, I understand, come up for answer in this House in a few days' time, so I shall not say anything about this incident ; but it is the experience of many of the Indians travelling that racial discrimination still prevails on some of the railways, and that is one of the reasons why the railways are deserted in favour of road motors, wherever possible, on short distances.

Now, I will refer to one little point in my own province of Bihar. There is a ferry service between Paleza Ghat on the B. N. W. Railway, and Digha Ghat on the East Indian Railway, crossing the Ganges. From Digha Ghat to Patna Railway junction there used to be a regular railway service, but for some years they have entirely discontinued that service, with the result that passengers were put to a lot of inconvenience in travelling between these two points, a distance of four or five miles. They naturally took to roads, and motors and ekkas and other private conveyances came into existence, with the result that the former inconvenience of passengers has disappeared. The East Indian railway, so long as it was remunerative for them, kept up the railway service between these two points, but as soon as it was inconvenient for them by frequent shifting in the course of the Ganges, and as it was not paying, they abandoned the whole line altogether leaving the passengers to their fate, with the result that motor buses, motor cars and other means of transport came into requisition, and passengers are now being transported without much trouble and inconvenience. There is another point to which, I should like to make a reference, and it is this. From Patna Junction to Delhi there used to be a through carriage attached, but on the ground that it was not remunerative for them, they have discontinued it for some time with the result that passengers travelling from North Bihar to Delhi or Simla have to put up with a lot of inconvenience at Patna, and we have now to travel by Bengal and North Western Railway up to Benares, and then take the East Indian Railway. If this through carriage had been continued, the traffic which is now taken away by the Bengal and North Western Railway would have gone to the East Indian Railway. I myself raised this question, but was referred to the Agent, East Indian Railway, and that being a State railway, public opinion was not much heard and nothing has been done up till now.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai (Sind : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Does the Honourable Member know that we sail in the same boat ?

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : I am glad to hear that, Sorrow shared is sorrow soothed. The Punjab Mail, a very important train, connecting Kalka with Calcutta has been running for a long number of years, since its very inception, on the main line. Their project is to divert the Punjab Mail, via the Grand Chord with the result that it will be very inconvenient for passengers in north Bihar and Patna to travel comfortably.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Is the Honourable Member in order in referring to all these ?

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : I was going to suggest that the bulk of traffic has been taken away by the road motor due to the neglect and negligence of the railways concerned in ministering to the comfort and convenience of the travelling public. That is the opinion of the Indian Chamber of Commerce, Punjab, to which I have made a reference. The other reasons are slackness to afford proper facilities to passengers in hot and cold weather, bribery and corruption and wastage in goods and parcels and consequent diversion to the traffic of motor buses. So, it is the railways concerned which have to thank themselves if their lines are being deserted in favour of motor buses wherever possible. There are 45,000 motor lorries and buses in India which bring about eight crores and 30 lakhs to the Government yearly in the supply of passengers as feeders to railways, and by way of transport of petrol and other accessories. We have just read the report of the railway committee in London which proposes to set up an independent railway authority. Whatever little control we have over the policy of railway administration will be taken away from our hands if that authority is constituted. If the proposal is carried out, that authority will be constituted as a result of legislation not of this House but by an Act of Parliament. Under these circumstances, we shall be depriving ourselves of whatever little control we have over railway administration by giving liberty to the railways concerned in plying their own motor service in competition with private enterprise. The question of Indian hands and indigenous materials is also to be considered. The private motor buses are owned mostly by Indians and they engage indigenous materials. They have got no monopoly, no rate competition, and so on. But if the railways concerned are allowed to run their own motor services, it will mean that foreign agencies will be employed, foreign materials will be purchased, and that, by indulging in rate cutting competition, private motor buses will be wiped out of existence, and then virtually a monopoly will be secured to these railway companies. What was the opinion of the Railway Board itself on this point when the Indian Road Development Committee submitted its report. At page 19 of the Report, the Railway Board say :

"Generally speaking, any scheme by which the development of the road system of India will receive an impetus, will be welcomed by the railway administration. The benefits that may be expected from it probably far outweigh the losses that may be suffered in some areas from the competition that will arise from road motor traffic. It is natural that in the replies received by the Committee from railways the latter should have expressed themselves as opposed to the construction of roads parallel to and running alongside the railway lines, but it must be recognised that a road system will have to be connected up and cannot be limited to roads more or less at right angles to railways."

At page 52 of the same Report, the Road Development Committee state as follows :

"In our opinion, monopoly services are undesirable, because they restrict competition and may lead to many obvious abuses."

The proposal which the Government have in view in this Bill will lead virtually to a monopoly for the railways concerned, and, therefore, it is undesirable both from the public point of view and the point of view of private motor enterprise. I am opposed to allowing this motion to be passed. As regards the proposal of my Honourable friend that it be recommitted to the same Select Committee, I have absolutely no sympathy with it. I do not know what advantage will be gained by referring the matter to the same Select Committee which has already expressed its opinion according to their lights. Therefore, the best thing under the circumstances would be for Government to abandon this legislation now, but considering the facilities which Government have in this House, as it is constituted at present, I am afraid that my suggestion will not be acceptable to them, and they will force the motion on the House and pass the legislation which they have in view.

Khan Bahadur Haji Wajihuddin (Cities of the United Provinces : Muhammadan Urban) : Sir, this Bill empowers the railway companies to operate motor vehicles in conjunction with the existing system of railways, which has not only created a great consternation amongst those thousands of people in this country who are at present making a living out of the business of motor transport, but it has also caused a serious misgiving among the whole motor trade itself owing to the various implications that this Bill would entail.

Sir, it is common knowledge that the business of motor transport is already overburdened with taxes and restriction, and this will be a further step in the direction of curtailing a valuable industry and depriving poor Indians of the advantage they are enjoying today.

In a country so vast as this continent of India, the advent of motor transport has been a great boon to millions of people by providing for them easy and inexpensive means of transport from one place to another, particularly for short distances. In this poor country where people generally have not money enough to invest in big industrial concerns, the motor transport opened up a very easy and simple business to many a one who could afford to invest a small initial capital of a few hundred rupees in buying a lorry or taxi on hire purchase system which gave them not only a wide range of service anywhere they liked, but also gave them a modest return on their small investment. Sir, it may be noted that as soon as this business began to flourish and people in large numbers began to flock into this line of business, new rules and regulations, combined with high rates of licence fees, in many places, were imposed on them which no doubt have already restricted this mode of transport to a certain extent. Sir, I quite realise that the railway earnings have dwindled to a great extent, but I assure the House that it is not only on account of the competition by private enterprise of lorries and bus-owners, but it is largely due to the unsympathetic treatment of the educated railway staff with ignorant third class passengers who now prefer to patronise private enterprise. I, therefore, ask, Sir, is it fair that with a view to saving the railway companies from all healthy and fair competition with private taxis, this Bill has been brought before us which, I think, you will agree with me, restricts the activities of thousands of private owners who are catering for public convenience and thereby making an honest living for themselves after paying the Government a fair share of their incomes ? Sir, a perusal of the Select Committee's report shows that the railway companies should not receive any differential treatment whatsoever, but should compete with private enterprise on "level terms". I appreciate such a pious wish on their part, but, Sir, it is quite apparent that there can be no "level terms" on a basis of unequal financial resources and, sooner or later, the vast financial superiority of the railways will surely drive the private buses altogether out of the Indian roads. If, however, Sir, the railway bus services are to be considered for all practical purposes as quite apart from the actual railway systems and just as good as any other private concern, I think there should be a clear clause in the Bill to the effect that the accounts and finances of the two should be kept entirely separate and that, under no circumstances, should any funds from the general revenues of the railways be spent in aid of the railway bus service in case it happens that the service cannot pay itself or is bound to run at a loss owing to open competition from private combines. The object of this Bill should be fair competition with other concerns and not sole monopoly for railways. The aim should be better service for the public and not highest dividends for railway companies alone. In conclusion, let me say frankly that the rights and privileges of all those concerned, namely, the private owners and the poor passengers as well as motor traders should be adequately safeguarded in the Bill. With these observations, I will resume my seat.

4 P.M.

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury (Bengal : Landholders) : Sir, I am a man who has always got at least the courage of his convictions, and it is rather a painful duty on my part to differ from my friend, Mr. Reddi, nd my friend, Mr. Sadiq Hasan, and I am giving my reasons for that.

[Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury.]

Here we have got the Report of the Select Committee. I have got experience in this Assembly for eight years and I have not seen any other Report of a Select Committee without a minute of dissent. Here we find that all the signatories of the Report have agreed with it. Are we to take it that those members who sat in this Committee did not consider all the aspects of this question or that, simply because they were members of the Select Committee, they blindly followed the Chairman of the Committee? And what I find from the Report of the Select Committee is that an effort has been made to amend the Bill in a form which will be and ought to be acceptable to the House and to the country. I am taking some of the aspects of the Report of the Select Committee. Here, the Select Committee have very rightly considered some of the most important points. It cannot be said that they have ignored totally the interests of the private bus-owners. It has been rightly pointed out by different speakers on the floor of this House, and even an assurance has been given by the Member in charge of the Bill, in reply to a question by Mr. Neogy, that the bigger railways are not raising this point and are not going to compete with the private motor bus-owners. So the object is only confined to the small railways. From the different speeches which have been made on the floor of this House, it can be easily detected that the speakers practically failed to follow their argument that the private bus-owners will be losers in this concern. If I may take the point of my friend, Mr. Reddi, he quoted from the opinion of the Madras Government where it is generally stated :

"The Government of Madras understand that the Corporations of Calcutta and Bombay and the Madras Electric Tramways Company have tried the experiment of running their own buses and have lost heavily."

Here he made a little mistake and I think the Honourable Member did not go through it quite as properly as he ought to have done. It is not the Calcutta Corporation, but the Calcutta Electric Tramway Company that were running buses at a loss. Now we can decide from that that practically speaking even if the railway company starts competition, that will not injure the interests of the private bus-owners. That is the real point which ought to be looked at. Then, again, there is another point that Mr. Reddi made that the Local Government will not have power to control these motor buses. I think he is under some misapprehension, because it is clearly stated in the Report of the Select Committee that the Local Government will be consulted and that they will consult the private bus-owners of the locality and, after considering their views, they will recommend to the Central Government who will direct the local railways to administer it.

Mr. S. C. Sen (Bengal National Chamber of Commerce : Indian Commerce) : Where do you find that the Local Government will consult the private bus-owners ?

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury : It is in the Select Committee's Report.

"We decided that, for the present, it will be best to leave the decision to the Governor General in Council, acting in consultation with the Local Government, to determine the extent of each service, on a full consideration of all the local circumstances."

So it may be assumed that the Local Government will certainly consult the private bus-owners. If the Honourable Member will take the pains to read further on, he will find that the Local Government in consultation with the private bus-owners will recommend to the Central Government and, on that, the Central Government will empower the small railways to start motor buses. One point is this that the Local Government will make the report in consultation with the private bus-owners. That is a fundamental point which should not be missed by Honourable Members here. Then one point I want to emphasise is this. What are the small companies gaining ? If they do not gain, they will not start the motor buses. I congratulate Mr. Reddi on the soft corner that he has in his heart for the small companies when he says that they may be losers, and so this Bill is not necessary at all at this moment. Mr. Reddi has made it quite clear that the railway companies which will run the buses will be losers and so the Bill at present is not at all necessary. I think the people in the railways have got sufficient intelligence not to start such a scheme, if it will be a losing concern. If they lose, they will not start it : they will stop it from a mere commercial point of view. But if it is not, why should not the small railway companies be allowed to run their buses if they do not stand in the way of the private bus-owners ? It is evident in many places where there is regular competition that the private bus-owners are not losers. In Calcutta, where there is such keen competition among motor buses, the private bus-owners are still not losers. It is not, therefore, right to say that the passing of this legislation will hamper the private bus-owners. It will not. Rather it will create good competition and give good facilities for transport. The first and foremost duty of Honourable Members here is to support anything which will give increased facilities for transport and nobody can deny that this measure is such and should not, therefore, be objected to. To enlighten my friend, Mr. Sen, I will read out a portion of the Select Committee Report :

"The third important decision we reached was that railway companies should not receive any differential treatment whatsoever in respect of these new services. In particular our intention is that they should not enjoy any exemptions from taxation or from licensing regulations, but should compete with private enterprise on level terms."

That is a safeguard for these private owners. There cannot be any more safeguards than that.

In this connection I will draw the attention of Honourable Members to what has been said that District Boards will be losers if this Bill is passed. I think that the District Boards will be gainers, because if there is keen competition and motor buses run on the roads of District Boards, they will derive additional income. And, as I have pointed out, there will be no preferential treatment given to any one. That is a point which ought to be taken into consideration.

Then, as a landlord, I am one who believes that our interests and prosperity and happiness depends on that of the agriculturist ; and, if there is any improvement in the price of agricultural produce, automatically the condition of the landlords is improved. It is really a fundamental theory of economics that, by exchange of imports and exports, the agricultural condition of the country can be improved ; and if, by this or any other scheme, we can bring some machinery or capital from foreign countries, naturally it enables our produce to be exported. We know how our agriculturists are suffering in the present financial crisis and if any measure is passed, however insignificant it may be—and I do not believe that only by passing this Bill the agriculturist will improve greatly—even if it be a drop in the ocean, I do not see why we should not take it by all legitimate means. As one of those, therefore, who have dealt with this Bill on its merits and who has an independent view, I stand shoulder to shoulder with every observation that has been made in support of this Bill ; and I think when the Select Committee has unanimously supported the Bill and amended it in a form which is really reasonable and justified, giving every facility to transport in this country, I cannot stand in opposition to this particular Bill. I would request Honourable Members who are present here to realise that particular point : that any Member sitting on this side of the House should agree with me on this particular issue of ameliorating the condition of the agriculturist : their condition can be improved only by improvement of exchange of imports and exports ; and if we bring out capital from foreign countries in one way or other, it is only then and then alone that we can ensure the improvement of our own indigenous products. For these reasons and for the other reasons that I have stated already, I conscientiously support the Bill and oppose the motions, both for circulation and for recommittal to Select Committee.

Mr. A. Hoon (Allahabad and Jhansi Divisions : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Sir, although I have not had the pleasure or the honour of sitting on the Select Committee, I rise to support this Bill as it has emerged from the Select Committee, and recommend that it may be passed into law. When I heard Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh, I thought it was the day of the budget, because he began to ventilate domestic grievances which he always does in connection with the annual debate on the budget.

I believe the debate in this respect has drifted into channels which have nothing to do with the matter in hand. The points which have been made by certain Honourable Members are three, first, " why create a monopoly " ? ; second, which is really a point of greater importance, " that a large number of people will be thrown out of employment and will have no work to do " ; and the third, that probably the traveller will not get the same facilities and the same courtesy which he now gets from the ordinary bus-owner. I submit that the point of monopoly is really a double edged argument. If we do not permit the small feeder railways to run motor services, it can be said that the other party gets the monopoly. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh might say that feeder railways are fortified in their work by the fact that they have a licence. But I would tell Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh that if he can form a Company to run a feeder railway parallel to any old feeder railway and he asks for a licence, I shall heartily support that proposal in this House. Probably he will not be able to have that much of organisation, that much of capital and that much of technical knowledge which is necessary to start a feeder railway.

Then, with regard to the question of the people being thrown out of employment, I hope the Honourable Members who have taken up the cause of the private bus-owner will forgive me, when I say, that these buses are really not run by organised concerns and that they are mostly a one-man show. There is lack of capital, lack of organisation, lack of technical knowledge, and, in fact, lack of everything. The efficiency of the drivers also is of an extremely low quality. On behalf of people who are in the habit of travelling, as I am, by these buses,—whenever I go out into the mufassil,—I can assure the House that it is extremely unpleasant to travel in them ; and you can attribute all the inconvenience to the extreme want of organisation. The trouble is that the whole thing is managed by one man—generally a retired postmaster, or an Assistant Inspector of Schools who gets some provident fund and begins to ply a bus or two to make a sort of living.

Mr. S. G. Jog (Berar Representative) : You might put restrictions on them.

Mr. A. Hoon : But the experience teaches us that too much of restrictions will again bring about other troubles. Now, if, under those circumstances, the small railway companies are allowed to start their motor bus services side by side with private motor service, it will be really conducive to the comfort of the public, and, as far as the question of courtesy goes, I think we are getting more courtesy now from the railway employees than we used to get before, and I do not think that, taking everything into consideration, there is any longer much danger regarding the question of courtesy.

Then comes the question of employment to which reference was made by one or two speakers. If the railway companies start a bus service in a certain locality, they would certainly be in need of a large number of trained hands, and, I am sure, if these companies can get competent drivers and competent mechanics, now working for private owners, they will be ever ready to employ such people, and I may also say that the jobs of these people will be much more safe in the hands of the railway companies than in the hands of private individuals or private companies.

Further, it has been said that this competition will entirely cut out the private bus-owners. I do not think so. When the railways run their motor services, they will run their buses at regular hours, at regular rates, and there will be uniformity and regularity. We all know that regularity has a charm and irregularity has also got a charm. There will be many a man amongst us who would like to travel at odd hours, who would like to bargain for the fare, who would like to go from door to door instead of getting into the bus from one terminus and getting out of it at the other terminus and then carrying his packages to his house. I think there is a good deal to be said on that point, because if the railways run their service regularly from one terminus to the other, still there will be room for men to collect packages and passengers from door to door and stop their buses wherever they like, and even in between two stations if there be a fair going on, and if the majority of the passengers want them to stop to see the fair. I submit that under those circumstances, the right kind of bus-owner will survive, and it will be a case of the survival of the fittest. The man who can go round and canvass for passengers and goods, the man who can show courtesy, and the man who can manipulate his fares according to demand and supply is bound to survive, and I do not think we need entertain any serious fear that the owners of decent private buses will suffer heavily. We shall have competent drivers and competent mechanics. My friend, Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh, also said that many a man has invested huge sums of money in starting motor workshops, but I can assure my friend that no useful work has been done by any of these workshops. How many times the tyres puncture on the road, how many times the engine goes out of order on the road with these private buses ? Besides that, as these buses are run at irregular hours, the owners not only try to cut each other's throat so far as fares are concerned, but they run risks which I am afraid result in very serious accidents to passengers. I submit that under those circumstances we need not entertain any serious fears on that point.

Then, there is the question of public sympathy. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh and all the other Members have said that there is a very large amount of public sympathy on this question. I quite agree. The public sympathy is mere sympathy with individuals, because I know when people who possess motor buses say that they are likely to suffer by this Bill. I also sympathise with them. My own opinion is that Honourable Members who sympathise with such people do so merely for the sake of showing sympathy, but this sympathy does not take into consideration all the wider questions involved as well as the general welfare of the public and the country at large. For these reasons, I commend that the Bill, as it has emerged from the Select Committee, be passed into law.

Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal : Sir, this measure was supported by my friend, Mr. James, with some reservations, but from this side of the House the last two speakers have supported it without any reservations, very heartily indeed. It is just as well to look into the reasons which led them to support it. One is free to admit that this Bill in the Select Committee has undergone some improvement. The Governor General in Council, after consultation with Local Governments, will certainly lay down conditions and schemes for transport which will not be the blank cheque which was sought to be given by the Honourable Member in charge of the Railways to the railway magnates. But, Sir, there are certain reasons which still make this Bill objectionable, and whether we succeed in removing those objections or not, it is just as well to draw attention to those points, because, otherwise, they are likely to be missed. The first thing that I would like to point out is that even though the Bill has a restricted scope, and applies to private railway companies only, leaving out the State-managed railways and guaranteed railways, the principle underlying it is objectionable. We know that the King's highway is open to all and sundry. You can bring your ekka, you can bring your tum tum or your car, and travel on it without let or hindrance, provided you satisfy certain local regulations. Then came the railway with huge State support and huge subsidies. What did the railways do ? They had a track to themselves, they monopolised the track, not like the original roadway on which everybody could bring his vehicle ; they had a monopoly of the track, and, with the assistance of the State, they had a huge staff, they imported locomotives and other mechanical contrivances. What has been the net upshot of all this railway adventure in this country ? The Honourable the Railway Member will pardon me if I remind him that, with these guarantees, the railway working has been a huge drain on the Indian Exchequer. Money, to the extent of about seven hundred crores, has been spent on capital undertakings. We have been seeing in the railway budget during the last two years that they are drawing on their reserves and from their depreciation fund, and the Indian Exchequer is getting nothing out of the money spent on the railway undertakings ; they are barely able to pay interest. And, in the past, during the last fifty years, from 1850 right up to 1900, barring one year, the famine year, they never paid anything to the Exchequer. It is only during the last 20 years that they have become a paying proposition.

Now, Sir, what is the principle underlying this Bill ? The railways had a monopoly of their track, and now they want to be on the road as well. It is a strange proposition. Let me put it the other way. Suppose some road company or a bus company were to ask the railway magnates to allow them to work their track for running road motors, would that be tolerated for a minute ? It is only to be mentioned to be dismissed as preposterous.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : May I ask who paid for the railway track ?

Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal : The public, the long suffering public, of this country.

Now, Sir, I need not go into the chapter of extravagance of these railway companies, particularly of the East Indian Railway Company. The guarantee was given by the Government of India and the Secretary of State in such a manner that the Company was only concerned with the amount which was certified as having been spent. Whether the money was thrown into the Hooghly or whether it was spent on railways, was nobody's concern. Well, Sir, the principle is, the railways have a monopoly of their track. The road is open to all and sundry. Now the railways want to get their track and want to be on the road. Why is it ? That shows that, during the last ten years, there has been a great development of road transport. It is lucky that it is so. At a time of emergency, it is very lucky indeed—those of us, who can recall to their minds the great trouble that we had in the year 1919 at the time of the Third Afghan War and of troubles in the Punjab, will remember that railway travelling was a matter of considerable difficulty, you had to get passes and it was only with very great difficulty that you could get your goods booked. In those days, this road motor transport did not exist. If a situation like that arose, it would be lucky if you had road transport which would be useful for the military as well. In the Great War we know that all the private motor cars were requisitioned at a time of difficulty by the French Government. It is lucky that we have an alternative means of transport. But what is the position, and why do we object ? I say, this Bill is an argument of despair, it is a position of helplessness. By sheer competition the railways have failed to maintain their ground, and now they are coming to the State for help, to give them a right to compete, if I may say, on unequal terms with the private bus-owner. It may be said, it is over-stating the case to say that the railways are coming to the State for aid to compete on unequal terms. I quite admit, no monopoly is being granted in favour of the railway ; that is clear from the Bill itself. But then, as has been pointed out in this Report, which has been quoted by so many speakers, the railway, whether Company-owned or State-owned, is a huge capitalistic concern and its competition with a private bus-owner is certainly unfair. There can be no question of what the result of that competition would be. The private owner would go to the wall. My Honourable friend, Mr. Hoon, goes into raptures over that period when the private bus-owner, with his rickety bus or his engine failing at times, or punctures in the tyre, will go to the wall and disappear, and he is thinking of the London coaches which will be put on the road by the railway companies. I congratulate him for his foresight, but the point is that this idea of displacing the private bus-owner opens up an alarming possibility. I look at it from two points of view. If it is a case of a huge capitalist company killing out a private individual or an individual owner—the driver is generally the owner also,—then I stand up in opposition to that proposition, because you should not allow a huge capitalistic concern to kill out private owners and small traders doing business in their own way. And, Sir, what is more ? They have shown during these ten years of working in a fair field with the railways with their huge capital and staff that they can win and retain the favour of the public. There is a great point underlying it. They have made use of the roads and contributed to the Exchequer, as has been said, to the extent of Rs. 830 lakhs as their contribution to the Provincial and Central Governments, 45,000 buses are plying and they employ about 90,000 people annually in working them, and still many more in other auxiliary services. And there is further the fact that they have brought any amount of traffic to the railways the extent of which was calculated even in the Mitchell-Kirkness report to be something in the neighbourhood of Rs. 53 lakhs (An Honourable Member : "Only for petrol.") only for petrol. I ask, is it right to kill this bird which lays these golden eggs without even an expression of sorrow, because the result of this competition can very well be foreseen ? The question is, why is it that this bus-owner has been able to survive and been able to keep his footing ? The railways are not able to retain their long monopoly and they are coming to the State to help them to be put on the road. Why is it that the bus-owner has been able to get on ? One of the things is that their fares are cheaper, but I will put it, it is something more, it is the great convenience. You start from your place and you get to the other place without having to travel to the railway station, without being hustled about by persons who won't tell you where to get your ticket, without getting into a wrong train, and finding it out after you have travelled some distance. And particularly the goods traffic part of it, the carriage of goods is a luxury by these road motors. You hand your consignment, and within a few hours it gets on to the next place to the man to whom you wanted to send it. There is no pilfering on the way, and there are no risk notes with their troublesomeness and litigation. There is no question of delay. It is expedition itself. If that is so, then the point before us is, why is it that it is considered necessary to arm the railway service with power to be on the road ? I say the roads have taken care of themselves, the public whose ultimate interest should be our guide have taken to the road buses. If they want the road bus, then certainly the railways should manipulate their own policy in such a way that they win the favour of the public. This is unfair. If the public are the ultimate judge of these matters, then I must say that this is an attempt to divert the choice of the public. Mr. Lahiri Chaudhury came forward with a suggestion—he said that he was bringing an independent mind to bear on the subject and he wanted to look at the thing on its merits. He said that agriculture will prosper. I do not see how it can do that. If the agriculturist is to prosper, he must prosper by his ekka and bullock cart, and not by these buses which the railways will put on the road, because, if the railways have thought of putting on these bus services in undeveloped areas, in rural areas where there was no bus service before, then, of course, the Bill would be the best of all measures. But that is not the point. The railways are pinched, they are suffering loss of earnings due to competition on the road parallel to their lines or reaching their lines. That is not the agricultural place where Mr. Lahiri Chaudhury wants the buses to be. It is wholly beside the point to think that the railways are going to open up by their bus service those areas which will lead to any prosperity for agriculturists or will develop agricultural resources. The railways have opened up areas, but these bus services of theirs are not intended to do anything of the kind which my Honourable friend spoke of. They are simply to keep up the earnings of the railways.

The question is, how is the situation to be met ? If the public wants to patronise the bus service, is it fair to give to the railways, who are a competing agency, an unfair advantage in this connection ? They have a monopoly of one track and they want to exercise the right of running on this track with all the resources of capital and organisation that they have. Now, Sir, it may be said, "Oh, yes. With private buses there are alarming accidents. There is no schedule of rates, and so on". The answer to that is, do not kill them. They have served a useful purpose. The best thing to do is to have a board of traffic control. You have some kind of traffic control at the present time, and if you want more facilities, if you want to have this thing organised, insist on the Honourable Member for Industries and Labour whose Department it is,—and he is unfortunately too close to the Railway Member (Laughter)—to constitute these bodies. An Honourable Member put it, this alliance between the two Departments is an alarming proposition. If the Honourable Member had been looking after roads, he should have developed motor transport, and framed rules which should prescribe for safety and punctuality of the service. Private enterprise has developed road motor to such an extent that the railway magnates have got frightened, but this is not the time for the road buses to receive a kick. This motion for circulating the Bill again for eliciting public opinion has something behind it for this reason. Those people who are affected by it are unorganised ; they had not perhaps had sufficient opportunity to digest this mass of material which an official agency has brought into existence after consultation with various interests, official and non-official, and the results of these various Conferences. Besides, Sir, we are having another railway administration coming into existence, the Statutory Railway Board will come into existence under the new Constitution, and if the danger to the railways is of such a great magnitude that they are on the point of starving, certainly some more remedy is needed than an attempt to kill this private bus-owner on the road. Now, my learned friend said : "Oh, well, this private bus-owner has been able to survive, even though there has been great competition in Calcutta", and so on. If my friend will pardon my saying so, he is used to get into the bus, but he seems to know precious little about the bus driver or the bus-owner and that for a very good reason. All that I am referring to is that in his place in

[Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal.]

Calcutta the bus-owner comes from another place than Calcutta. My province supplies the bus-owners in Calcutta, and, therefore, it is just as well that Mr. Lahiri Chaudhury, with his tongue in his cheek, should try to inflict a blow on these Punjabis whom he perhaps wants to clear out of Calcutta. Therefore, I hope that Mr. Hoon will think twice before falling into the trap of Mr. Mitra and Mr. Lahiri Chaudhury. They want to deal a lefthander to the Punjabi and they do not seem to have much love for these bus-owners and bus drivers on the roads of Calcutta. Some of the opinions on this subject have been read by my friend. One of them is very interesting and I venture to place it before you. It says :

"The Government of Madras understand that the Corporations of Calcutta and Bombay and the Madras Electric Tramways Company have tried the experiment of running their own buses and have lost heavily. If so, these examples do not encourage the hope that the Railways will be able to make this bus enterprise a paying proposition."

I make a present of it to the railway magnates. It is just as well that they run their service, but what is the point of coming and competing with another man who is also pursuing his vocation unostentatiously on the King's highway, on which every man has a right to travel. The railway people have a monopoly on their track and let them stick to it.

The Assembly then adjourned till Eleven of the Clock on Tuesday, the 29th August, 1933.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Tuesday, 29th August, 1933.

The Assembly met in the Assembly Chamber at Eleven of the Clock, Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) in the Chair.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

HUNGER-STRIKE BY CERTAIN POLITICAL PRISONERS IN THE ANDAMANS.

121. *Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Is it a fact that the political prisoners now detained in the Cellular Jail, Andamans, first resorted to hunger-strike some time between December, 1932 and February, 1933 ? If so, what was the actual date of commencing the strike, and what were the demands of the prisoners then ?

(b) Were the grievances of the prisoners at that time brought to the notice of the Government of India ?

(c) Is it a fact that the hunger-strike was given up after a week on an assurance from the Superintendent of the Cellular Jail, to remedy the prisoners' grievances ?

(d) Is it also a fact that the Jail authorities did not act according to their promise and that was the cause of the second hunger-strike, started on 12th May, 1933 ?

(e) Has Government's attention been drawn to the statement made by Swami Jnanananda, a prominent public worker in Bengal, on the 19th April and again on the 15th May last that appeared in almost all the leading nationalist papers of India ?

(f) What action was taken by Government on the statement referred to above which made some revelations of Jail negligence in the Andamans and disclosed the news of the first hunger-strike in the Cellular Jail ?

(g) Is it a fact that no action was taken at that time and that gave occasion for the second hunger-strike ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) Seven B class prisoners were on hunger-strike for a few days in January, 1933. Their demands were numerous and comprehensive, and were put forward under threat of hunger-strike.

(b) The answer is 'in' the negative.

(c) and (d). The Superintendent made no report to the Chief Commissioner that he had given any such assurance and it is obvious that he had no authority to make any promise which involved an alteration of the rules.

(e) Government have seen these statements.

(f) and (g). Government took no action owing to the manner in which the demands were put forward.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the Honourable Member be pleased to say whether the terrorist prisoners are still being sent to the Andamans ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Yes, Sir. There is no change in the policy.

CELLULAR JAIL IN THE ANDAMANS.

122. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Has the attention of the Government of India been drawn to the following remarks on page seven of the Census Report on the Andaman and Nicobar Islands for the year 1931 ?

" During Colonel Beadon's (Chief Commissioner) tenure from 1920 to 1923 orders were received to close the Penal Settlement with the exception of 1,400 Moplah rebellion prisoners and some Punjabis and no more convicts were received ''..... ..... During Chief Commissioner, Colonel Ferrar's tenure from 1923 to 1931 " All troublesome habituals or violent convicts were repatriated. The recruitment of convicts was placed on a voluntary instead of a compulsory basis and volunteers, to be accepted, had to be youngish men free from pronounced criminal taint ''.

(b) Will Government please explain how this statement is consistent with the remarks of the Honourable the Home Member, Sir Harry Haig, made in the concluding portion of the communiqué of the 13th June last which runs as follows :

" In concluding Sir Harry Haig pointed out that Mr. Jadhav was wrong in thinking that the Cellular Jail had ever been closed. It was, in fact, kept open in accordance with the recommendation of the Jail Committee '' ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) The Government have seen the remarks in the Census Report. The Honourable Member, however, has not correctly quoted the first passage and he has thereby changed the meaning of what was actually written. The Report did not say that no more convicts were received, but that with the exception of 1,400 Moplah rebellion prisoners and some Punjabis, no more convicts were received. It is correct that at that time deportation was confined to prisoners from Madras and the Punjab, and that later it was placed on a voluntary basis.

(b) My statement was correct. The Penal Settlement was never closed. A certain number of prisoners continued to be sent from India and all these prisoners were sent to the Cellular Jail for a period after arrival in the Andamans. This was in accordance with the recommendation contained in paragraph 566 of the Indian Jails Committee's Report.

DIVERSION OF THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY PUNJAB MAILS FROM THE MAIN LINE TO THE GRAND CHORD.

123. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Is it a fact that the East Indian Railway authorities intend to divert the Up and Down Punjab Mails from the main line to the Grand Chord, via Gaya, as a precaution against train-wreckers ? If so, are Government aware of the hardship this will entail upon the travelling public of Patna, and of North Bihar generally, who constitute the largest number of passengers ?

(b) Are Government aware that with the diversion of the Punjab Mail, via Gaya, the Grand Chord will have two mails, and three Express trains, while the main line will be deprived of the only mail train it has at present ?

(c) Do Government propose to take steps to prevent the diversion of the East Indian Railway Punjab Mails from the main line to the Grand Chord ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) On and from the 1st of October, 1933, the Up and Down Punjab Mails will run via the Grand Chord (via Gaya) instead of via the main line (via Patna) to the following timings :

1 Up.	2 Down.
Dep. Howrah 21-36.	Dep. Delhi 8-25.
Arr. Delhi 20-30	Arr. Howrah 8-0.

These timings are more convenient than the present ones and the time taken on the journey each way will be reduced by over 2 hours.

Nos. 5 Up and 6 Down which at present run only between Moghalsarai and Lahore will be extended to Howrah and will run via the main line (via Patna) practically to the same timings as the Punjab Mails now run. To meet the convenience of through passengers a first and second class composite will be attached to 5 Up at Patna and transferred to 1 Up at Moghalsarai for Kalka in the summer and Lahore in the winter. A similar arrangement for through carriage will be made in connection with 2 Down and 6 Down.

These changes are not being made as a precaution against train wreckers but in order to improve the train services generally.

Government consider that, so far as can be seen, and particularly in view of the fact that through carriages will run between Patna and Delhi via Allahabad, the proposed changes in the East Indian Railway time-tables will not result in inconvenience.

(b) I understand that with other re-arrangements that are being made the number of mail and express trains over the Grand Chord and the main line will be the same as at present.

(c) Government do not consider that there is any necessity for their interference in the matter.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : What would be the arrival time of the 5 Up and 2 Down and 6 Down at Patna ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : The 5 Up will run to the present timing of 1 Up.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai: Were the members of the Advisory Committee consulted over these changes ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I do not know.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it a fact that this matter was actually put in the Advisory Committee and some members took strong exception to it ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I should like to have notice of that question. I am not aware of what happened in the last meeting of the Advisory Committee.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Have Government received any representation from the Bihar Chamber of Commerce and other public men of Patna about this ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I am informed that the Honourable Member himself wrote a private letter to a Member of the Railway Board.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : May I ask, Sir, whether the timing of the trains is not more a concern of the Local Advisory Committee than of this Legislature ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I entirely agree, Sir, and shall welcome the adoption of such an attitude by this House.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the Honourable Member be pleased to say that these questions are properly discussed by the Local Advisory Committee ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I am sure that if any member wishes to raise such questions, he will have an opportunity of doing so.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : May I know, Sir, if the Bihar and Orissa Chamber of Commerce lodged a protest with the railway authorities against the proposed change ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I have seen no such resolution.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : Will Government see to the convenience of the third class passengers by having a whole through carriage from Patna ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I will forward that suggestion to the Railway Administration.

PROMOTION OF SUBORDINATES IN THE ENGINEERING DEPARTMENT OF THE GREAT INDIAN PENINSULA RAILWAY.

124. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Is it a fact that there are 16 posts in the Engineering Department of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway, for the promotion of subordinates ?

(b) Is it a fact that since the creation of this service in 1930, one subordinate only has been promoted who was officiating in the " Junior Scale " at the time ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) The sanctioned number of working posts in the Lower Gazetted Service of the Engineering Department of Great Indian Peninsula Railway is 16.

(b) Since the introduction of Lower Gazetted Service in 1931 only one subordinate has been permanently promoted to that Service.

SURPLUS POSTS IN SUPERIOR CADRES ON THE GREAT INDIAN PENINSULA RAILWAY.

125. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Is it a fact that owing to the reduced number of posts in superior cadres (senior and junior scales) on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway there was on the 1st April, 1933, a surplus of 17 officers :

(i) six in the senior scale, and

(ii) eleven in the junior scale ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to lay on the table the printed " Statements of gazetted establishment, as on 1st April, 1933 " of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway, vide the Agent's office reference No. 21619-R. of 1st April, 1933, in which

(i) the six posts referred to in part (a) (i) above, are styled as " Supernumerary Executive Engineers ", and

(ii) the eleven posts referred to in part (a) (ii) above, are styled as " Supernumerary Assistant Executive Engineers " ?

(c) Is it a fact that in the face of the 17 surplus officers four temporary Engineers are still retained in the service ? Is not this retention to the detriment of the promotion of subordinates ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) There is no excess on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway as a whole, but in the Engineering Department there are six senior scale officers and eleven junior scale officers in excess of the sanctioned cadre.

(b) There is only one copy available in the office of the Railway Board and I shall be glad to show it to my Honourable friend if he calls for it at the office.

(c) It is a fact that four temporary Engineers have been retained. It was decided by Government in 1931 that certain selected temporary Engineers among those who were to be retrenched may be retained against vacancies in the Lower Gazetted Service.

PERMANENT VACANCIES IN CERTAIN DEPARTMENTS OF THE GREAT INDIAN PENINSULA RAILWAY.

126. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Is it a fact that according to the printed " Statements of Gazetted Establishment as on 1st April, 1933 of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway " there are six permanent vacancies in the under-noted departments of the Great Indian Peninsula Railway ?

(1) Agency :—Four.

(i) Superintendent of Statistics—one post :

(ii) Assistant Deputy Agents—three posts :

(2) Engineering—Bridge Branch :—One post of Assistant Bridge Engineer, consequent on promotions due to the retirement of Mr. A. E. Mould :

(3) Stores :—One post of District Controller of Stores ?

(b) Is it a fact that in four out of these six posts Engineers are officiating only, viz. :

(1) (i) Mr. C. N. B. Smart.

(ii) Mr. J. E. Jack.

(2) Mr. K. C. Bakhate.

(3) Mr. J. E. Barton ?

(c) Will Government please state (i) why six (including the four mentioned in para. 7) of the total surplus of 17 Engineers have not been transferred permanently to these vacancies, in accordance with the Railway Board's instructions, vide their letter No. 847-E.G. of 13th June, 1932 to the Agent, Great Indian Peninsula Railway, and (ii) why the four temporary Engineers are still retained in the service in view of the 17 surplus hands ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) and (b). Yes.

(c) (i) One post has been held in abeyance and another is actually held by an Engineering Officer.

(c) (ii) I would invite the Honourable Member's attention to the reply I have just given to part (a) of his question No. 125.

REMOVAL OF SURPLUS POSTS IN THE ENGINEERING CADRE OF THE GREAT INDIAN PENINSULA RAILWAY.

127. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Are Government aware that the Agent's statement in paragraph 2 of his letter No. 21619-2 of 3rd April, 1933 to the Railway Board does not explain that six of this surplus could be, but are not yet, removed from the Engineering Cadre by transfers to vacancies in the departments ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to lay on the table a copy of the letter No. 21619-2 of 3rd April, 1933 from the Agent, Great Indian Peninsula Railway to the Railway Board ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) and (b). The letter referred to is a purely departmental document and Government are unable to place it on the table of the House or to discuss its contents on the floor of this House.

PROMOTION OF SUBORDINATES TO LOCAL GOVERNMENT SERVICE IN AN OFFICIATING CAPACITY ON ALL STATE RAILWAYS EXCEPT ON THE GREAT INDIAN PENINSULA RAILWAY.

128. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Is it a fact that the Engineering subordinates on all the State-managed Railways except on the Great Indian Peninsula Railway are promoted to local gazetted service in an officiating capacity ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to explain the reason for this differential treatment ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) and (b). The rule is the same on all State-managed Railways. Qualified subordinates are eligible for promotion to the Lower Gazetted Service ; but actual promotion depends on the vacancies available.

SEPARATION OF THE DIFFERENT CADRES OF EACH RAILWAY.

129. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Is it a fact that the Railway Board are considering the separation of the cadres to make the cadre for Engineering subordinate and local gazetted service of each railway independent of others and before doing so contemplate making certain transfers to balance the cadres and make the prospects of promotion of officers in each railway comparable ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : The cadres for Engineering Subordinates and Lower Gazetted Services have, to the best of my knowledge, always, been separate for each State-managed Railway and there is no question of separating them now.

The Railway Board have under consideration a scheme for transferring certain officers between State-managed Railways roughly with the object mentioned by the Honourable Member as far as they may prove to be practicable.

NON-APPOINTMENT OF A MUSLIM ON COMMITTEES FORMED IN CONNECTION WITH THE SEPARATION OF ORISSA PROVINCE.

130. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Is it a fact that in all the committees formed in connection with the separation of Orissa Province such as Orissa Boundary Committee and Committee for enquiry into problems of administration under the Chairmanship of Mr. J. A. Hubback, I.C.S., no Muslim member was appointed ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : In regard to both Committees mentioned in the Honourable Member's question, the fact is as stated.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to say if there was any Committee in which not a single non-Muslim was taken ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I am afraid I do not quite follow the implications of my Honourable friend's question.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : My implication is that this is the Committee in which not a single Muslim was taken, and what I want to know is, if there was any Committee formed by the Government or by the Secretary of State in which not a single non-Muslim was taken ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : Obviously, Sir, I shall require notice of that question.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state the reasons for not taking any Mussalmans for the Committee in connection with Orissa ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : No, Sir, I cannot give my Honourable friend any reasons for the fact. I take it that the selection of members for these Committees was based upon considerations of suitability.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Do Government propose that in future Muslims will be taken in connection with committees regarding Orissa ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I can give the Honourable Member no assurance on that point.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to say how they propose to safeguard the interest of Muslims in Orissa if their attitude is such step-motherly towards them ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I suggest to my Honourable friend that he should read the White Paper.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Are there not Depressed Classes and Sikhs in Orissa, and how many of them were appointed to serve on these committees ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I want notice of the question.

Mr. B. Das : Is it not a fact that although Muslims are only 1.5 per cent. in Orissa, there has never been any difference between Muslims and non-Muslims in Orissa and that was why the Government of Bihar and Orissa never suggested the name of a Muslim on this Committee ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I am quite prepared to take my Honourable friend's suggestion on that point.

AMOUNT PAID TO WITNESSES FOR GOING TO LONDON FOR GIVING EVIDENCE BEFORE THE JOINT PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE.

131. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Is it a fact that funds were provided to some of the witnesses for going to London for giving evidence before the Joint Parliamentary Committee ?

(b) If the reply to part (a) be in affirmative, will Government state what amount has been paid to different witnesses (each witness separately) ?

(c) If the reply to part (a) be in affirmative, will Government be pleased to state whether the previous sanction of the Legislative Assembly was taken or not ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : (a) His Majesty's Government have offered financial assistance to a specified number of witnesses from each association or organization invited by the Joint Select Committee to give evidence before it.

(b) I have no information.

(c) No. The expenditure is a charge on the British Exchequer, not on Indian revenues.

Mr. B. Das : Is it not a fact that the Government of India, through the Reforms Office, arranged the passages of these witnesses who went to London to give evidence ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : That may be so, but in that case the Reforms Office were only acting as agents of His Majesty's Government.

Mr. B. Das : Is the Honourable Member aware that the Reforms Office not only arranged the passage for one of these witnesses, but also arranged the passage for his cook, because he alleged that, as the representative of 250 million orthodox Hindus, in England he must have his food cooked by his own orthodox cook on the boat ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I have no information on that point.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : May I take it that the Reforms Office is in possession of the names of witnesses whose passages were arranged by them ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I think so.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will the Reforms Office give the names of these witnesses to the House ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I will have no objection to give my Honourable friend that information if he puts down a question on the notice paper.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Those witnesses whose passage money was paid by Gofernment ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I made it quite clear that the Government of India paid no passage money for these witnesses. It was His Majesty's Government who bore all the expenses.

Mr. B. Das : Will the Honourable Member please enquire whether the passage for a cook was paid for Mr. M. K. Acharya, and the P. & O. made special arrangements for his cooking ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : If my Honourable friend will put down a question on the notice paper, I shall give a reply.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : How many went there on this pleasure trip ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : If my Honourable friend means to ask how many witnesses gave evidence before the Joint Parliamentary Committee, I shall be happy to provide him with the information if he gives me notice.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Is it a fact that these witnesses were invited to the Joint Parliamentary Committee on the recommendation of the Government of India ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : Yesterday I made my position in regard to this matter perfectly clear and I have nothing to add to or subtract from what I said.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will the Honourable Member please say whether the Government received any letter from any person in the name of the Secretary, Jamiat-ul-Ulema-i-Hind to give evidence before the Joint Parliamentary Committee ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : Does my Honourable friend refer to Mr. Abdul Aziz ?

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : No, Sir.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I have no information on that point, and will need notice.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Were the delegates, who were sent to the Joint Parliamentary Committee, also paid by His Majesty's Government ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I want notice.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Is it a fact that some one in the name of the Secretary, Jamiat-ul-Ulema-i-Hind, applied to the Government to allow him to go as a witness and to pay his expenses from the Indian Exchequer ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : My Honourable friend must really give me notice of such questions as I cannot carry in my head all details.

REPRESENTATIVE OF THE ALL-INDIA MUSLIM LEAGUE FOR GIVING EVIDENCE BEFORE THE JOINT PARLIAMENTARY COMMITTEE.

132. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Have Government received any letter from Mian Abdul Aziz, Bar.-at-Law, President, the All-India Muslim League informing the Government that no representative has been elected by the All-India Muslim League for giving evidence before the Joint Select Committee ?

(b) Have Government paid any amount to any witness for being the representative of the All-India Muslim League ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : (a) Yes.

(b) The Government of India have no concern with payments to witnesses appearing before the Joint Select Committee.

CONSTRUCTION OF QUARTERS IN NEW DELHI.

133. *Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Is it a fact that tenders for building 600 additional quarters for Government of India clerks, assistants, superintendents and other gazetted officers have been invited by the Central Public Works Department, New Delhi ?

(b) If so, will Government be pleased to state the number of each type of orthodox and unorthodox quarters for which tenders have been invited ?

(c) Will Government also be pleased to state the sites on which such quarters are being proposed to be built ?

(d) Are Government aware that there is a strong feeling amongst the Government of India staff against the defective plan and construction of the quarters that are already in existence ?

(e) Do Government propose to consult the Service Associations of the different classes of Government servants for whom new quarters in New Delhi are being constructed as to the modifications in those quarters that might have been found necessary by their experience ? If not, why not ?

(f) Will Government be pleased to state whether they received any representation from the Service Associations of the Government of India employees regarding additions, alterations and modifications to the existing quarters, and if so, how many representations were received by them since 1920 and in how many cases they accepted the suggestions ?

(g) Do Government propose to carry out all the suggested alterations, additions and modifications that have been received by Government from time to time from the different Service Associations in constructing the new quarters for which tenders have been invited ? If not, why not ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) and (b). Tenders have been invited for building additional quarters for the Government of India staff. A statement showing the number of each type of quarters which it is proposed to construct is laid on the table.

(c) It is proposed to build the quarters on vacant sites in the developed area in New Delhi and in the undeveloped area between the old city wall and the main railway line in the vicinity of the Government Press.

(d), (e), (f) and (g). I propose, with your permission, Sir, to answer the last four parts together generally. The various suggestions made by the Service Associations from time to time have been given due consideration by the architects, and as many of those suggestions as possible have been incorporated in the revised plans, consistent with economy and cost. If the Associations concerned wish to make further suggestions, they will be carefully examined, but Government cannot give an undertaking that the different associations will necessarily be consulted before plans are approved.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know from the Honourable Member whether tenders were actually invited and, if so, whether the contract will be given to the lowest bidder or will it be settled in any other manner ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : Tenders have been invited and they will be dealt with in the usual manner.

CONSTRUCTION OF NEW QUARTERS FOR MEMBERS OF THE LEGISLATURES IN NEW DELHI.

134. *Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether any quarters are being proposed to be constructed for the Members of the present Legislative Assembly or the future Indian legislatures ? If so, how many ?

(b) Have Government consulted the House Committee of the Legislative Assembly and the Council of State regarding the modifications, additions and alterations that they might suggest for making them more suitable to Indian Members both orthodox and unorthodox ? If not, why not ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) Yes, 33 quarters.

(b) The design suggested for the Legislators' quarters is the type for which there is the greatest demand and it has been influenced by suggestions made by the House Committee from time to time. If the House Committee wish to make further suggestions, Government will gladly give them careful consideration.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government lay their proposals before the House Committee so that they may be able to give their considered opinion thereon ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : If the House Committee desire to see the plans, I have no objection to doing so.

Sirdar Harbans Singh Brar : Is the Honourable Member aware that the Chief Engineer gave an undertaking in the House Committee that on his own motion he will lay the plans before the House Committee for their approval ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I have no information on that point, but I would assure the Honourable Member that, if the Chief Engineer gave such an undertaking, it will be duly honoured.

Sirdar Harbans Singh Brar : Will the Government be pleased to give the preference to the quarters of legislators instead of to the quarters of officers, because the officers' quarters cannot be ready before March and cannot be occupied before October of next year ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : The intention is that all parts of the scheme should proceed pari passu and that the legislators' quarters should be taken in hand at once although I cannot give an absolutely definite assurance on the point without further inquiry. I have no doubt that the intention is that the scheme should be taken up as a whole.

Sirdar Harbans Singh Brar : Do not the Government think that it is unfair that when the money was not even sanctioned by the Standing Finance Committee that tenders were invited and that tenders are again going to be invited from the public ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : No, I do not think so. We had to take advantage of the opportune moment. I do not think that there has been such a change since tenders were first invited as to make it necessary to call for new tenders.

Diwan Bahadur Harbilas Sarda : Do I understand that Government propose to lay before the House Committee plans and specifications of each of the quarters for Members of the Legislature that are to be built and will they consider the suggestions made by the House Committee before taking actually into hand the operations ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I am informed by my Honourable friend opposite, who is a member of the Standing Finance Committee, that the Chief Engineer gave an undertaking that he would place the plans before the House Committee. That must obviously be done and the views of the House Committee will certainly be obtained before any further progress is made.

CONSTRUCTION OF QUARTERS IN NEW DELHI.

135. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether the construction of quarters in New Delhi is being proceeded with before consulting the men who are expected to live in the quarters ? If so, why ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to state whether they have decided to stop the Simla exodus ? If so, from what year ?

(c) Is it a fact that the construction of quarters is to be completed before the 31st March, 1934 ? If so, will they be pleased to state whether they propose to stop the move in 1934 in toto or in part ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) The Honourable Member is referred to the answer to the last four parts of his question No. 133.

(b) Government have reached no decisions beyond that stated on page 23 of the Summary of the Results of Retrenchment operations in Civil Expenditure copies of which are in the Library.

(c) The reply to the first part is in the negative. As regards the second part, no decision has been reached.

ARMY HEADQUARTERS SPECIAL TRAIN BETWEEN SUMMER HILL AND SIMLA.

136. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Is it a fact that the Government of India Army Department pay about Rs. 720 per month for a Special train from Summer Hill to Simla and vice versa for the free conveyance of clerks of the Army Headquarters ?

(b) Is it a fact that under the agreement between the Railway Department and the Army Headquarters the clerks of the Army Headquarters residing in Summer Hill quarters are entitled to be accommodated in the three third class bogies reserved for them in that Special train ?

(c) If so, will Government be pleased to state the number of clerks of the Army Headquarters residing in Summer Hill who were given free passes to travel by the said Specials during each of the last five years and also this year ?

(d) Will Government be pleased to state what will be the monthly saving to Government, if the clerks of Army Headquarters residing in Summer Hill are provided a third class monthly ticket at a cost of Rs. 5 a month for coming to and going from office by the daily passenger train leaving Summer Hill at 9-17 A.M., instead of running this Special train from Summer Hill at 9-22 A.M.? Are Government aware that the Army Headquarters clerks can return to Summer Hill by the train leaving Simla at 4-20 P.M. ? If so, do Government propose to abolish this Special train for economy ? If not, why not ?

(e) Will Government be pleased to state whether the Khansamas, Mehtars, Bearers and other menial servants belonging to the said clerks of the Army Headquarters and other inferior servants of Army Headquarters are provided with free passes to travel free between Summer Hill and Simla ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : (a) and (b). Yes.

(c) Figures for 1929 and 1930 are not available. Those for 1931, 1932, and 1933 are 75, 79 and 80 respectively.

(d) If third class bogies were not reserved for the personnel in question, they would probably have to be given second class and not third class tickets, in which case there would be no economy. The suggestion of the Honourable Member will, however, be considered and I can assure him that the present arrangements will be discontinued if it is found that the objects in view can equally well be secured by cheaper methods.

(e) The answer is in the negative.

ARMY HEADQUARTERS SPECIAL TRAIN BETWEEN SUMMER HILL AND SIMLA.

137. *Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Is it a fact that the Railway Staff are not allowed to check the passes of the occupants of the three reserved bogies on the Special train running between Summer Hill and Simla without the permission of the Sergeant-in-Charge of the Summer Hill Camp ?

(b) Is there any system by which passes are daily checked ? If so, what is the system adopted for such a check ?

(c) Are Government aware that persons not authorised by the Army Headquarters do travel in these bogies ? If not, do they propose to enquire ? If not, why not ?

(d) Are Government aware that the Railway Staff on duty do not daily check the passes in those reserved third class bogies, whereas they check daily both morning and evening the tickets of other Indian passengers holding monthly season tickets and travelling in other compartments attached to that Special ? If not, do they propose to enquire into the matter ? If not, why not ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) No.

(b) A Ticket Collector travels by this train daily to check tickets, and surprise checks are made now and then at Simla station.

(c) The North Western Railway administration reports that enquiries have already been made and it has been ascertained that this is not the case.

(d) The Railway Administration reports that it has no reason to believe that the facts are as stated.

PROVISION OF A CLUB FOR INDIAN CLERKS LIVING IN SUMMER HILL QUARTERS.

138. *Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Is it a fact that Government have provided a Club House for the European clerks of the Army Headquarters residing in Summer Hill ? If so, will Government be pleased to state whether they have made provision for a Club House for the Indian clerks living in Summer Hill quarters ? If not, do they propose to make suitable arrangements for a Club House for the Indian clerks residing in Summer Hill quarters ? If not, why not ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : The answer to the first part of the question is in the affirmative, except that the Club is open to all European and Anglo-Indian clerks and not only those at Army Headquarters. The answers to the 2nd and 3rd parts of the question are in the negative. The answer to the last part is because the number of Indian clerks residing in Summer Hill is not large enough to make it worth while to provide them with a Club House. I understand that where there are a large number of Indian clerks, e.g., at Phagli, a Club House has been provided for them at a nominal rent of Rs. 12 a year.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Is the Honourable Member in a position to state the number of Europeans and Anglo-Indians there as also the number of Indians ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : I can only give the number of Europeans and Anglo-Indians. It is about 60. I could not give off-hand the number of Indians.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : The Honourable Member said that the number of Indian clerks is small. Can he give us an approximate idea about the number of Indian clerks, otherwise how can he say that Indians are small in number ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : I was informed that their number was less, but I have not got the exact number.

ARMY HEADQUARTERS SPECIAL TRAIN BETWEEN SUMMER HILL AND SIMLA.

139. *Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Are Government aware that the Army Headquarters clerks holding third class passes occupy inter class compartments attached to the Army Headquarters Special for accommodating inter class monthly ticket holders, debarring the legitimate inter class passengers from occupying such compartments ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to state whether the clerks of Army Headquarters for whom a special train is run are entitled to travel by any other trains excepting the Army Special ? If not, are Government aware that a large number of European clerks of Army Headquarters travel daily by 4-20 train debarring other legitimate passengers who travel by such trains on payment ? Do Government propose to take steps for stopping such clerks holding Army Headquarters passes from travelling without payment by all the other regular trains between Simla and Summer Hill ? If not, why not ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) The Railway Administration reports that only passengers holding tickets are allowed to travel in the carriages attached for the public.

(b) Clerks of Army Headquarters, for whom a special train is run, are not entitled to travel by any other train, and those who travel by the 4.20 train are required to purchase tickets.

PROVISION OF FACILITIES FOR FREE CONVEYANCE TO THE CIVILIAN CLERKS LIVING IN SUMMER HILL QUARTERS.

140. *Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Will Government be pleased to state the number of ministerial staff belonging to Army Headquarters, (i) who have been officially allotted quarters, (ii) who are living with other tenants in Summer Hill quarters, and (iii) who are living in private houses in Summer Hill and will Government be pleased to state the total number of passes issued by Army Headquarters during the current year up-to-date ?

(b) Is it a fact that only the ministerial staff of the Army Headquarters who have been allotted Government quarters are entitled to the free passes for travelling between Summer Hill and Simla by the Army Special ? Are Government aware that even children of the Army Headquarters ministerial staff going to school in Simla are allowed free passes by the Army Headquarters between Summer Hill and Simla ? If so, will Government be pleased to state why the children of the ministerial staff of the Civil side of the Government of India living in Summer Hill are not allowed free conveyance to Simla schools and back ? Do Government propose to issue free passes to the school-going children of such employees ? If not, will Government be pleased to state the reasons why this invidious distinction is being made ?

(c) With reference to the reply to the supplementary question by Dr. Ziauddin Ahmad arising out of starred question No. 637 by Mr. Lalchand Navalrai on the 22nd September, 1932, will Government be pleased to state whether they have looked into the question of the provision of facilities for free conveyance to the ministerial staff of the Civil Departments on the same lines as their colleagues in the Army Headquarters ? If so, what is the result of such enquiries ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : (a) (i) 54.

(ii) 14.

(iii) 14. The total number of passes is 80. This includes passes for 12 children of certain soldier clerks who are entitled to free conveyance as explained in part (b). In addition, passes were inadvertently issued this year to five persons who were not entitled to travel by the Special train. These have been cancelled.

(b) The concession is given to all members of the ministerial staff at Army Headquarters who are residing in Government quarters at Summer Hill. It is not admissible to the children of all Army Headquarters clerks, but only to the children of military technical personnel residing in such quarters and being educated in Simla. The reason in their case is that under military rules, they are entitled to free education and free conveyance to school, if the distance is over ½ mile. I am informed that there are no reasons for allowing free conveyance to the children of the staff in the Civil Departments and Government do not propose to issue free passes to the school-going children of such employees.

(c) Government have looked into the question and have come to the conclusion that there is no case for the provision of facilities for free conveyance to the clerks concerned.

House Rent charged from the Ministerial Staff of the Civil Departments.

141. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) With reference to the reply to the supplementary question by Dr. Ziauddin Ahmad arising out of starred question No. 431 on the 19th September, 1932, will Government be pleased to state the reasons why house rent at a rate more than 10 per cent. is charged from the ministerial staff of the Civil Departments ?

(b) Do Government propose to amend the rules for allotment of Simla Government quarters by which no one should be charged more than 10 per cent. and the excess of the house rent allowance refunded to the employees ? If not, why not ?

(c) Are Government aware that there are cases where the staff of the Civil Departments are asked to pay the difference between the assessed rent of a quarter of his class and the house rent allowance that he is entitled to draw ? If not, do Government propose to enquire about such cases and remit them from the liability of the extra rent ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The matter is being examined and the information will be laid on the table in due course.

Free Railway Passes allowed to Army Headquarters Clerks living in Private Houses in Summer Hill.

142. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Is it a fact that even the clerks of Army Headquarters who live in private houses in Summer Hill of their own choice are given free passes to travel by the train known as the Army Headquarters Special ?

(b) Is it a fact that the families, servants and dogs of such clerks are also given passes by the Army Headquarters to travel between Summer Hill and Simla by the Army Headquarters Special ?

(c) Is it a fact that the Army Headquarters claim that as they pay for third class carriages out of their budget they can carry any number of passengers and dogs in such compartments ?

(d) Is it a fact that there is a move by the Army Headquarters that this special should be treated as a military train and other passengers should not be allowed to travel by this train ? Will the Railway Department be pleased to state what is the total earning they are deriving monthly during the summer from monthly passengers and other civil passengers travelling between Summer Hill and Simla during the last and the current year ?

(e) Is it a fact that the income is gradually increasing owing to the occupation of Summer Hill Quarters by Government of India ministerial staff of the Civil Departments and Offices ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : (a) No.

(b) No.

(c) No.

(d) The answer to the first half of the question is in the negative. The total earnings during May, June and July of last year, were Rs. 1,254 as compared with Rs. 908 for the corresponding months of the current year.

(e) There has been a definite decrease in the earnings during the months of May and June as compared with the same months last year. The month of July, however, shows an increase and this is attributed to the incessant rains during that month this year.

Running of a Special Train for Civilian Clerks between Summer Hill and Simla.

143. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Is it a fact that, owing to the Summer Hill quarters being classed as unorthodox and owing to the rule of compulsory occupation by the staff electing unorthodox style, a large number of men are being compelled to occupy Summer Hill quarters ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to state the total number of staff of the Civil Offices that are going to be allotted quarters in Summer Hill for the next summer ? If the number of such persons are larger than that of the Army Headquarters clerks living in Summer Hill, do Government propose to run a Summer Hill shuttle train suiting the times of the opening and closing of Civil Offices ? If not, why not ?

(c) Will Government be pleased to state the reasons why a train should be run for a smaller number of Army Headquarters clerks and not for a larger number of men of the Civil Offices and their children ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) No, it is not correct to say that a large number of men are being compelled to occupy Summer Hill quarters. The position is that the clerks' quarters in Simla, which were previously intended for Europeans and Indians have now been classed as European and Indian style of living quarters. The clerks concerned have the option to elect for European or Indian style of living quarters, and those electing for European style are liable to be allotted Summer Hill quarters.

(b) The allotments for the next summer season have not yet been made and it is, therefore, not possible to supply the information.

(c) It is not a fact that of the clerks to whom quarters have been allotted in Summer Hill a smaller number comes from Army Headquarters than from the Civil Offices.

ARMY HEADQUARTERS SPECIAL TRAIN BETWEEN SUMMER HILL AND SIMLA.

144. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that " a military train " is defined to be a train run for carrying troops for mobilisation ? If so, will Government be pleased to state the reasons for the proposed treating of the Summer Hill Army Headquarters Special meant for conveyance of clerks as a military train debarring others from travelling by that train ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to state the reasons why the Army Headquarters Special should be run on payment from the Army Budget for the conveyance of Army Headquarters clerks consisting of a large proportion of civilians and lady clerks who do not come under the category of regular troops ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : (a) I am not aware of any definition in the terms mentioned by the Honourable Member, nor is there any proposal to debar the public from travelling by the train in question.

(b) The reason why the Special train was sanctioned and the personnel in question were given free passes by it was to ensure that they should reach office punctually in the mornings and be given a chance of returning to their quarters at a reasonably early hour in the afternoons, without being compelled to walk the comparatively long distance to and from Summer Hill, where they are required to live. Moreover some of them who still retain a military status are entitled, under regulation, to free conveyance.

MEDICAL AID TO NON-GAZETTED GOVERNMENT SERVANTS.

145. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Is it a fact that non-gazetted Government servants are entitled to free medical attendance for themselves and at half rates for their families ? If so, are Government aware that Government servants very scarcely get medical help at those prescribed rates ?

(b) Are Government aware that in cases where the doctors do not expect any fees they generally postpone their calls to a later date ? If not, do Government propose to make an enquiry into the matter through the Service Associations ? If not, why not ?

(c) Is it a fact that non-gazetted Government servants are entitled to get the aid of the Civil Surgeon through the Assistant Surgeons at Rs. 5 a visit ? If so, will Government please give a statement as to the number of cases attended to by the Civil Surgeons, East and West, respectively, during the last three years through the Assistant Surgeons in which Rs. 5 have been charged by each of them ?

(d) Do Government propose to enquire from the Service Associations the cases where the Civil Surgeons have charged full fees for treating non-gazetted Government servants even if they have been sent for through the Assistant Surgeons ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : (a) All non-gazetted Government servants in Simla are entitled to free medical attendance. For medical attendance on families of employees of Civil offices there are special concessional rates of fees laid down in the Education, Health and Lands Department Resolution No. 780, dated the 12th December, 1922, a copy of which has been placed in the Library of the House. The answer to the second part is in the negative.

(b) Government have not received any such complaint. If the Honourable Member has any information in his possession and would care to communicate it to me, I shall gladly have it examined.

(c) The appointed medical attendant of a Government servant can, when he considers it necessary, call in for consultation the medical attendant of the next higher class. A Civil Surgeon is not entitled to any fee when thus called in for consultation on a Government servant.

(d) No, Sir ; Government have no reason to assume that if the Association has any grievance in the matter, it will not make suitable representations.

FEES CHARGED FOR OPERATIONS PERFORMED IN THE RIPON HOSPITAL, SIMLA, ON THE DEPENDANTS OF GOVERNMENT SERVANTS.

146. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Is it a fact that Government servants are charged fees for operations performed in the Ripon Hospital on the dependants of Government servants, gazetted and non-gazetted ? If so, will Government be pleased to state whether they have got any prescribed rates for such operations ?

(b) Is it a fact that Government servants are made to pay a heavy operation fee and that over and above that fee they are made to pay separately the fees for the sterilization of instruments, for anaesthetics, etc. ?

(c) Will Government be pleased to state whether they have any prescribed rules for such charges from Government servants serving in the Government of India Headquarters ? If so, will they be pleased to lay a copy of such rules on the table of the House ? If there are no prescribed rules, do Government propose to frame them for the guidance of the Civil Surgeons and also for the Government servants ?

(d) Are Government aware that in certain cases the operation fees and other fees charged from Government servants exceed their monthly salary ? If not, do Government propose to enquire through the Service Associations ? If not, why not ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : (a) and (c). The dependents of Government servants are not entitled to free surgical attendance at the Ripon Hospital, Simla. A copy of the rules of the Hospital showing the scale of fees chargeable for operations, sterilisation of instruments, etc., has been placed in the Library of the House.

(d) The scale of fees is graduated according to the income of the patient and cannot be regarded as excessive. Government have no reason to believe that medical officers charge more than the prescribed scale of fees.

FREE MEDICAL ATTENDANCE BY THE CIVIL SURGEONS, SIMLA, TO INDIAN GOVERNMENT SERVANTS.

147. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Is it a fact that Indian gazetted Government servants or Indian Government servants drawing more than Rs. 600 per mensem are entitled to free medical attendance by the Civil Surgeons of Simla ? If so, are Government aware that they never attend an Indian officer who does not pay them full fees of Rs. 16 ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to state how many times the Civil Surgeons of Simla have attended on Indian officers without charging full fees during the last two years ?

(c) Will Government be pleased to state whether the Civil Surgeons are entitled to send bills for their fees to officers entitled to free attendance by them ? If not, are Government aware that they do send such bills for payment ? If so, what action do Government take in such cases ?

(d) Will Government be pleased to state the number of years Colonel Whitamore has been in charge of the Ripon Hospital ?

(e) Are Government aware that the Colonel never attends any Indian officer unless he pays full fees for attending on him ? If not, do Government propose to enquire into the matter ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : (a), (b) and (c). All gazetted officers and all Government servants in Simla drawing Rs. 500 a month and more are entitled to the services of one of the Civil Surgeons. Government have no reason to believe that unauthorised fees have been charged for attendance on Indian officers.

(d) Since March, 1930.

(e) Government have received no such complaint and do not propose to make any inquiries.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : Am I to understand from the reply that officers, drawing Rs. 500 and more, get free attendance by the Civil Surgeon while poorer people have to pay the fees of the Civil Surgeon ? Is that the position ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : No ; that is not the position ; officers are classified according to their income with regard to the class of the officer who has to attend on them free of charge. Officers drawing Rs. 500 a month or more are entitled to the services of the Civil Surgeon ; officers drawing between Rs. 150 and Rs. 500, are entitled to the services of the Assistant Surgeon ; people drawing less than Rs. 150 are entitled to the services of the Sub-Assistant Surgeon.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : May I ask whether Government have inquired whether the giving of medical attention by a superior class of medical officer according to the means of the officer is the right method or giving the attendance of a superior medical officer according to the seriousness of the disease is a better method ? Have they ever inquired into this ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : Government have provided for both. There is such a thing as the number of individuals to be dealt with, and, therefore, it is not possible to make all employees of Government entitled to the services of the highest medical officer available on the spot. But I stated in reply to an earlier question that if a doctor, to whose services the Government employee is entitled, is in need of consulting somebody possessing higher qualifications, he can do so free of charge.

CIVIL SURGEON IN CHARGE OF RIPON HOSPITAL IN SIMLA.

148. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : Do Government propose to make a rule that no Civil Surgeon should be placed in charge of the Ripon Hospital in Simla for more than two calendar years ? If not, why not ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : Government do not see any necessity for altering the existing practice.

RACIAL DISCRIMINATION IN THE FIXATION OF HOSPITAL CHARGES IN THE HINDU RAO HOSPITAL, DELHI.

149. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Is it a fact that the Hospital charges fixed for the Hindu Rao Hospital, Delhi, by rules made by the Government of India are different for the officers of Asiatic domicile and non-Asiatic domicile living in European style ? If so, will Government be pleased to state the reasons for this racial discrimination ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to lay a copy of such rules now in force on the table of the House ?

(c) Do Government propose to amend the rules, doing away with the racial discrimination in matters of hospital charges in the Hindu Rao Hospital both for the officers and their families ? If not, why not ?

(d) Will Government be pleased to state the hospitals under the charge of the Government of India where such different charges have been fixed on grounds of domicile ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : (a) to (d). A copy of the rules of the Hindu Rao Hospital as approved by the Government of India in September, 1931, has been placed in the Library. When these rules were framed, officers of non-Asiatic domicile belonging to Superior Civil Services were entitled, as a result of the Lee Commission's recommendation, to certain concessions, which were not admissible to officers of Asiatic domicile, in the matter of treatment in a hospital, e.g., free nursing. It has, however, recently been decided that the same concessions should be extended to all officers of the Superior Civil Services, in all hospitals, irrespective of considerations of domicile. The rules will be revised accordingly.

RULES OF HOSPITALS UNDER THE ADMINISTRATION OF THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

150. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : Will Government be pleased to lay a copy of the rules in force now in the different hospitals under the administration of the Government of India and also of such hospitals where the Government of India pay any contribution either by loan of their medical officers or by a grant ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : The information asked for by the Honourable Member is not readily available and its collection would involve an expenditure of time and labour which Government have no reason to believe would be commensurate with the results. If the Honourable Member will be good enough to specify any hospital, or hospitals in any particular locality, in respect of which he desires the information, I shall endeavour to obtain it.

NON-ADMISSION OF INDIANS IN THE WALKER AND PORTMORE HOSPITALS IN SIMLA.

151. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : (a) Is it a fact that Indian officers and subordinates are not admitted into the Walker Hospital and the Portmore Hospital in Simla ? If so, will Government be pleased to state the reasons for not admitting Indian officers and subordinates living in European style and unorthodox types of Government quarters ?

(b) Do Government propose to amend the rules in such a way as to admit Indians living in European style into these Hospitals ? If not, why not ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : (a) and (b). A copy of the rules of the Walker Hospital and the Portmore Maternity Home has been placed in the Library. There is no bar to the admission of Indians to either institution provided that they are willing to abide by the rules.

ALLEGED INHUMAN TREATMENT METED OUT TO TAMIL LABOURERS IN SENGORRA DISTRICT IN SIAM.

152. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Are Government aware of the "inhuman treatment meted out to Tamil labourers in Singora District" in Siam ; that "A considerable number of Tamil Labourers are being sweated by Chinese Torokies with impunity", in the words of Dr. Lanka Sundaram, Director of the Indian Institute of International Affairs ?

(b) Is it a fact that if the Sengorra Indians are sent back to Malaya, the Indian Immigration Fund in that country is legally obliged to send them back to India ?

(c) What is the approximate number of Indians in Siam and what steps have been taken in the matter ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : (a) I have seen the Statement by Dr. Lanka Sundaram referred to and am aware that complaints have been made about the treatment of Tamil labourers in the Sengorra District.

(b) A certain amount of migration of Indians from Malaya into Siam appears to be going on, though, considering that the number of Indian labourers in the area mentioned is understood to be only about 200, the volume of such migration must be small. Government have no information as to whether it is voluntary or induced by employers of labour in Siam. Indians assisted to migrate from India to Malaya are entitled to repatriation at the expense of the Indian Immigration Fund under certain conditions. Those who cross over from Malaya to Siam and then return to Malaya would also appear to be entitled to repatriation to India provided that those conditions are fulfilled.

(c) Government presume that the Honourable Member refers to the number of Indian labourers who have migrated from Malaya to Siam. The approximate number of such labourers now in the Sengorra area is understood to be about 200. Enquiries into the conditions under which they work and live have recently been made by His Majesty's Vice Consul at Sengorra and it is intended that as soon as the Government of India's new Agent has taken over his duties in Malaya and can conveniently visit Siam he should, with the permission of the Siamese authorities, do so in order to look into the question of immigration and to investigate the condition of the unskilled Indian labourers there.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : With regard to the answer to part (a) of the question, may I know what steps have been taken by the Government to redress the grievances of the Indian labourers in that territory ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : Government are in communication with His Majesty's Minister at Bangkok and, acting on his advice, we are awaiting the report of the British Agent for Malaya. As soon as we receive that report, we shall take steps to bring to the notice of the Government of Siam state of affairs as shown by that report and the attitude that we think they should adopt towards it.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : How long has this correspondence been going on ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : Since about April, I think.

Mr. B. Das : Is it not high time that the Government of India should appoint their own agents in these Asiatic countries than go through the circuitous channel of corresponding through the British Agents and British Consuls in those countries ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : The Agent in Siam of His Majesty's Government is the Minister and the Consul.

Mr. B. Das : May I address my question to the Leader of the House ? Is it not time that the Government of India should think of appointing Indian Agents in these Asiatic countries, rather than correspond through the circuitous channel of British Ministers and Consuls who are not directly responsible to this Government ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : My Honourable friend is asking me for an expression of opinion.

Mr. B. Das : Not at all : I am asking for the views of the Government of India at present, whether they intend to do so : when they have got Agents in South Africa and in Ceylon, why not in Siam ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I have no doubt that in time the number of our Agents abroad will increase.

Mr. B. Das : What is the present position, that is what I want to know ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : In regard to what ?

Mr. B. Das : The present position regarding the appointment of Agents in Siam, in Kenya and other African and Asiatic countries ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I regret to say that I have no knowledge about Siam.

Mr. B. Das : The Honourable gentleman leaves it to the safe Department—the Foreign and Political Department—over which this House has no control.

IMMIGRANTS LEFT STRANDED AT AKRA, KIDDERPORE.

153. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Is it a fact that about 400 returned immigrants are left stranded at Akra, Kidderpore (Calcutta), absolutely helpless and homeless and almost starving ?

(b) From what colonies have they returned and under what circumstances ? What steps Government have taken in the matter ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : (a) So far as Government are aware there are about 169 emigrants still at Akhara living in the house of Rai Bahadur Seth Sukhlall Karnani. Some of them are reported to be in straitened circumstances.

(b) The Honourable Member is referred to the answer given by me on the 16th November, 1932, to Rai Bahadur Sukhraj Roy's question No. 1256 and to the supplementary questions arising out of it. A statement describing subsequent developments is laid on the table.

Statement describing subsequent developments regarding grant of relief to the returned emigrants at Matiabruz.

As regards the further steps taken in the matter, I may mention, with your permission, Sir, for the information of the House that on the 20th December, 1932, the Government of India had suggested to the Government of Bengal and to the Committee set up by that Government to look after these emigrants that a permanent solution of the problem created by their presence in Calcutta should be sought by inducing such of them as were genuinely anxious to profit by Government aid (a) to shift from Calcutta to villages in Bengal where offers of work or land might be forthcoming, or (b) to take advantage of schemes of colonisation in other provinces, or (c), in the last resort, to find work or land for them in or near their village homes in the provinces of their origin. Investigation disclosed the fact that offers of work or land in Bengal were not forthcoming. Inquiries made from the Governments of Bihar and Orissa and Madras with regard to the possibility of finding work or land for these returned colonists in or near their original villages proved unfruitful. The Government of the United Provinces alone offered to co-operate in settling at least some of the returned emigrants in Mirzapur district. The situation was then discussed with the Government of Bengal and, with their full concurrence, it was decided to help such of the returned emigrants as were genuinely willing to take advantage of the prospects of land settlement in Mirzapur to migrate there. As regards those who were unwilling to take advantage of this opening, it was decided to inform them that the gratuitous relief would be discontinued after a certain date and gratuitous relief was accordingly discontinued with effect from the 19th March, 1933. It cost Government Rs. 6,153. The majority of those who had been in receipt of relief in the Camp at Akhra refused to go to Mirzapur. Of the 120 who were willing, 62 have been sent for settlement on the estate of the Raja of Bijaygarh. The Government of India have undertaken to defray the cost of their transport from Calcutta to the estate, to maintain them there for a reasonable time until they can support themselves which, it is hoped, they will be able to do after they have raised one crop and also to advance funds to enable them to build houses and purchase agricultural implements and cattle. This is estimated to cost Rs. 4,400 of which a portion would be recoverable as taqavi. For the few, who, although they were willing to go to Mirzapur, and could not be settled there, the Protector of Emigrants in Calcutta has been placed in funds to make compassionate grants in order to enable them to maintain themselves until they can find some work.

PROHIBITION OF THE ENTRY INTO INDIA OF PUBLICATIONS BY RASH BEHARI BOSE.

154. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Is it a fact that the monthly publication entitled the New Asia edited and published by Rash Behari Bose, or any other publications by him, wherever and in whatever language they may be printed, have been prohibited under the Sea Customs Act ? If so, why ?

(b) Where is New Asia printed and what are the names of the other publications by the same author, which have been prohibited ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) Yes. Rash Behari Bose is a proclaimed absconding offender, wanted on charges of conspiracy and murder, and Government do not consider it to be in the public interest to allow publications of a man of these antecedents to be circulated in India.

(b) The New Asia is printed in Japan. I do not propose to give publicity to the names of other publications.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Are we to take it that Government proscribed his book without even reading through it, because it was written by a man who is an undesirable person ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No. Government have seen the publication.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Are they seditious or objectionable, or are they proscribed because of their author ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : It is undoubtedly objectionable. His activities even now are of an extremely objectionable character.

Mr. B. Das : Is the Honourable the Home Member aware that Japan is a country where anything seditious or communistic is strongly suppressed by the Government of Japan, and how did the Government of Japan allow Rash Behari Bose to publish seditious things in the New Asia ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The activities of this man are directed not against the Japanese Government, but against the Indian.

MURDER OF ONE SARDAR SHER SINGH IN CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

155. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it a fact that Sardar Sher Singh, a prominent Indian, was shot dead by an unknown person at Elcento, California, United States of America, in July, 1933 and, if so, was any enquiry made and with what result ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : The Government of India have received information from Washington that a thorough investigation held by the United States authorities shows that Sher Singh committed suicide after killing a Mexican girl.

CONDITION OF THE HEALTH OF MUKUL RANJAN SEN AND BIREN ROY, POLITICAL PRISONERS IN THE ANDAMANS.

156. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Is it a fact that political prisoners Mukul Ranjan Sen and Biren Roy were sent to the Andamans ? If so, on what dates ?

(b) Is it also a fact that they have been brought back from the Andamans ? If so, why and when ?

(c) Had Mukul Sen been suffering from tuberculosis for over a year and Biren Roy from other ailments before their transfer to the Andamans ?

(d) Who examined their health in the Alipore Central Jail at the time of their transfer ?

(e) Who are the Members of the Medical Board in the Alipore Central Jail to examine the health of the political prisoners on their way to the Andamans ?

(f) Are Government prepared to reconstitute the Medical Board to ensure better examination of the health of the prisoners ?

(g) What is the present condition of the health of these two prisoners ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) The prisoners were sent to the Andamans on the 15th August, 1932.

(b) Mukul Ranjan Sen and Birendra Nath Roy were retransferred to Bengal on the 22nd March, 1933, and the 12th December, 1932, respectively on medical grounds.

(c) As far as is known Mukul Ranjan Sen was not suffering from tuberculosis, nor Biren Roy from any diagnosable disease, at the time of their deportation.

(d) to (f). The prisoners were examined by a Committee constituted in accordance with rule 824 of the Bengal Jail Code and were certified to be fit for transfer to the Andamans. Government do not consider that there is any ground for altering the rule.

(g) The latest report regarding the health of prisoner Mukul Ranjan Sen is that he shows no signs of active tuberculosis. His temperature is normal and his weight for some months has been steady at 98 lbs. Biren Roy has no complaint at present and his weight has increased.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : What were the reasons which led the Government to send these prisoners back from the Andamans if they were not suffering from tuberculosis ? What were the diseases these persons were suffering from when they were in the Andamans and for which they were retransferred to Bengal ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think I should have to ask the Honourable Member to give me notice of that question.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Are Government now satisfied that, as these prisoners were sent back only after a few months, that the medical examination by the Medical Board was not quite thorough or satisfactory ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir ; these men were re-examined after their return, and I have given the House the results of their medical examination.

CONDITION OF THE HEALTH OF CERTAIN POLITICAL PRISONERS IN THE CELLULAR JAILS, ANDAMANS.

157. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Is it a fact that the condition of several political prisoners in the Cellular Jail, Andamans, named below :

1. Sjt. Satish Pakrashi,
2. Dr. Narayan Chandra Roy,
3. Dr. Bhupal Bose,
4. Sjt. Batukeshwar Dutta,
5. Sjt. Niranjan Sen Gupta,
6. Sjt. Sushil Das Gupta,
7. Sjt. Sudhangshu Dass Gupta,
8. Sjt. Nisha Kanta Roy Choudhury, was serious during the last hunger-strike and they vomitted blood ?

(b) If not, what was their condition during the hunger-strike and how are they at present ?

(c) Is it also a fact that all the prisoners on hunger-strike were subjected to forced feeding ?

(d) If not, was prisoner Bidhu Sen subjected to forced feeding ?

(e) What are the reasons for his condition being so serious ?

(f) Was he not keeping good health since his transfer to the Andamans ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) No. The condition of none of these prisoners was ever serious, and the suggestion that any one of them vomitted blood is untrue.

(b) Nos. 2, 3, 5, 6, 7 and 8 suffered from no illness. No. 1 was in hospital for suspected malaria and No. 4 for mild influenza.

(c) and (d). All the prisoners were fed artificially. A large number of them took the food without any resistance.

(e) I understand that Bidhu Sen suffered from influenza and subsequently developed post influenzal congestion of the lungs which gave cause to some anxiety. Later, after the hunger-strike had terminated, he developed pneumonia.

(f) The Government of India have no further information about the health of this prisoner except that he has now completely recovered.

REPLY OF TELEGRAMS ENQUIRING ABOUT THE HEALTH OF POLITICAL PRISONERS IN THE CELLULAR JAIL, ANDAMANS.

158. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) How many telegrams had been received by the Chief Commissioner, Andamans, and the Superintendent of the Cellular Jail, from the relatives enquiring about the condition of the prisoners' health ?

(b) How many of these telegrams were replied to ?

(c) Is it a fact that Mr. Mohini Mohan Das Gupta of Kalia (Jessore) and Mr. Thakur Das Roy of Calcutta sent reply-paid telegrams to the Superintendent of the Jail enquiring about the former's son Sushil Das Gupta and the latter's brother Dr. Narayan Roy respectively ?

(d) Why, in spite of the pre-payment of the telegraphic charges, was no reply given ?

(e) Do Government propose to issue instructions to send prompt replies to all such enquiries in future ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) to (e). I have no information in regard to the number of telegrams sent, the names of their senders or of the number to which replies were sent. Government had no desire to give publicity to the names of the prisoners on hunger-strike and therefore decided to inform only the relatives of those whose condition gave cause for anxiety. This decision was announced in the communiqué issued on June 17, 1933. The relatives who received no information were in a position to know that there was no cause for anxiety. If no replies were sent in regard to the condition of Sushil Das Gupta and Doctor Narayan Roy it was because these two prisoners were never ill.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know from the Honourable Member if any relatives of these prisoners had gone to the Andamans to visit them after they were taken to the Andamans ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think the answer to that is given to the next question.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : May I know from the Honourable Member what is the difficulty on the part of Government to reply to a pre-paid telegram saying that a particular prisoner is well and thus remove the anxiety from the mind of his relatives ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I explained the position to the Honourable Member and to other Honourable Members of this House when they were good enough to visit me in June. The position was that we were anxious not to advertise the strike and possibly confirm the hunger-strikers in their attitude by publishing their names in the papers, and naturally if anybody could send a telegram to the Superintendent of the Jail asking : "Is so and so on hunger-strike ?" and get an answer, that is equivalent to publishing the names of the prisoners on hunger-strike.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : If the inquiry is from a relative asking "how is so and so ?" and if he sends a pre-paid telegram, what is the difficulty on the part of Government merely to say that such and such prisoner is well ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The same result was achieved by the procedure which we adopted of undertaking to inform relatives of prisoners whenever there was any cause for anxiety.

INTERVIEW WITH POLITICAL PRISONERS IN THE ANDAMANS BY THEIR RELATIVES.

159. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) How many applications or telegrams from relatives of the political prisoners have so far been received by the Jail authorities in the Andamans for permission to interview prisoners there ?

(b) Has any one of those relatives been given permission as yet ?

(c) If not, why not ?

(d) Is it a fact that Mr. Ramesh Sen of Sankrail (Howrah) has sent a reply-paid telegram to the Superintendent, Cellular Jail, soliciting permission for an interview with his sick brother Bidhu Sen ?

(e) If so, why has no reply been given ?

(f) Is it a fact that the permissions sought by Mrs. Uttama Sundari Roy and Mr. B. K. Das Gupta to interview former's son Kali Pada Roy and latter's brother Sushil Das Gupta, respectively, at Port Blair have been refused by the Superintendent of the Cellular Jail ?

(g) If so, will Government please state reasons therefor ?

(h) Do Government propose to issue instructions to the Jail authorities in the Andamans to give all possible facilities to the relatives to interview prisoners there ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) Seven applications for interviews were received up to the 9th August.

(b) Permission was given to the relatives of two prisoners both of whom were ill.

(c) Permission was refused in five cases because the prisoners were not ill and by going on hunger-strike had forfeited the privilege of an interview.

(d) and (e). Bidhu Sen was allowed to see his brother on July 19.

(f) and (g). The convicts were on hunger-strike and therefore forfeited their privilege of an interview.

(h) No special instructions are required. The grant of interviews is governed by the rules framed under the Prisons Act, 1894.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know, Sir, if the relatives mentioned here and who visited these prisoners in the Andamans were already in the Andamans or they went from India merely to visit these prisoners ? If they went from India, at whose expense did they go there ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I imagine, Sir, they went from India. I do not think that the relatives of any of the terrorist prisoners are normally inhabitants of the Andamans.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know the reply, Sir, to my second question, namely, who paid for the expenses of these relatives ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : They must have paid their own expenses ; that is the normal rule.

HUNGER-STRIKE BY CERTAIN POLITICAL PRISONERS IN THE ANDAMANS.

160. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) What are the reasons that led the political prisoners in the Cellular Jail to resort to hunger-strike ?

(b) Were their demands in accordance with the Jail Code provisions ?

(c) Has the attention of Government been drawn to the statement made by Swami Jnanananda on the 9th June last that appeared in this connection in the leading nationalist papers ?

(d) What are the terms of settlement of the hunger-strike ?

(e) Have the prisoners any more grievance at present ?

(f) If so, what are they and why cannot those be redressed ?

(g) Has Lieut.-Col. Baker, Inspector General of Prisons, Punjab, returned to India from the Andamans ?

(h) How long did he stay in the Andamans ?

(i) What special service was rendered by him during the hunger-strike ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) to (f). I would refer the Honourable Member to the reply given by me to Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh's starred question No. 31 on the 23rd August.

(g) Yes.

(h) From June 14 to June 22.

(i) He was sent to consult with the Chief Commissioner regarding the medical arrangements, and the result was in the opinion of the Government of India very satisfactory.

RULES FOR RECRUITMENT OF INDIANS TO THE INDIAN ARMY VETERINARY CORPS.

161. Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal : (a) With reference to the declaration by Government during the last session of the Legislative Assembly that rules were being framed for the future recruitment of Indians to the Indian Army Veterinary Corps on the same lines as Englishmen were recruited, provided the Indians were M.R.C.V.S., are Government prepared to expedite the publication of those rules so as to give a chance to Indian M.R.C.V.S. now in England to be recruited to the Indian Army Veterinary Corps ?

(b) Will the selection of recruits be made in England, and by what authority and when would it be made ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : (a) and (b). The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the Press Communiqué issued on the 16th May last, a copy of which will be found in the Library. There are many important points connected with pay, leave and pensions, etc., which have not yet been settled ; and it is unlikely that the new rules will come into force before the first batch of Cadets receive their commissions from the Indian Military Academy at the end of next year.

Every effort will, however, be made to publish the rules in advance so as to give ample notice of the changes.

Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal : What about part (b) of this question, Sir ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : Those are among the details which have not yet been settled.

GROUND ENGINEERS EMPLOYED IN DIFFERENT FLYING CLUBS IN INDIA.

162. Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal : (a) Are Government in a position to state how many ground engineers are employed in the different flying clubs and the Tata air services in India ? How many are Englishmen and how many are Indians, and what is their respective pay ?

(b) How many England-trained Indian ground engineers are unemployed, and when did they return from England ?

(c) Have Government considered the question of taking steps towards the employment of these Indians in the different flying clubs, and the Tata air services, after necessary training in the Trans-Indian Continental Air Service and Imperial Airways ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) There are 14 Ground Engineers employed by Flying Clubs in India and Tata's Air Mail Service, seven of whom are Europeans, one a Mauritian and six Indians. In addition, one Indian is employed by the Madras Air Taxi Service. The salary paid to these Ground Engineers is not known.

(b) So far as the Government of India are aware, none of the Indian Ground Engineers who have returned from England are unemployed at present. Government have no definite information as to when these persons returned from England.

(c) I would invite the attention of the Honourable Member to the reply I gave on the 30th November, 1932, to part (a) of his question No. 1523.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Is there any difference in the pay of Europeans and Indians ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : As I said, I am unable to give particulars of the pay they are drawing. That is a matter between the Ground Engineers and the Flying Clubs.

Mr. Jagan Nath Aggarwal : Will it not be desirable to keep a register of such persons who are qualified in England and in this country and also showing whether they are employed or unemployed ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I shall be very glad to consider that suggestion.

PROPOSED REMOVAL OF AN ANCIENT SHRINE AT AZIMGANJ BY THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY AUTHORITIES.

163. Mr. S. C. Mitra (on behalf of Mr. Bhuput Sing) : Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that the authorities of the East Indian Railway intend to remove a long and ancient shrine in the shape of a Shivlingam that falls within the jurisdiction of the East Indian Railway at Azimganj (Bandel-Barhwara Loop line) ? If so, are Government prepared to stop such action ? Are Government aware that its removal will be harmful and injurious to the sentiment of the Hindus and will revolt their feelings ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : The reply to the first part of the question is in the negative and the other parts do not arise.

DISCHARGE OF TEMPORARY STAFF OF CENTRAL PUBLICATION BRANCH.

164. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Will the Honourable Member in charge of the Department of Industries and Labour be pleased to state whether it is a fact that Government proposed to discharge the temporary staff of the Central Publication Branch on the eve of transfer of the office to Delhi from Calcutta ?

(b) If the answer be in the affirmative, was the sanction for the temporary establishment in existence at the time ?

(c) Will the Honourable Member be pleased to state :

(i) How many temporary men were actually discharged ?

(ii) What were the respective lengths of their services ?

(iii) How much were these temporary men drawing in Calcutta ?

(iv) Whether these men have been re-appointed at Delhi ?

(d) If the answer to part (c) (iv) be in the affirmative, will the Honourable Member be pleased to state whether these men are drawing the same pay as they used to draw in Calcutta ?

(e) If not, what are they drawing now at Delhi ?

(f) Were they allowed the travelling allowances admissible according to the Fundamental Rules ?

(g) If not, what are the reasons for the non-grant of travelling allowances ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) and (b). Yes.

(c) (i)—11 clerks and one labourer.

(ii)—Nine clerks—between three and four years, two clerks under two years, one labourer—five years.

(iii)—Seven clerks—Rs. 40 each, four clerks—Rs. 45 each, one labourer —Rs. 16.

(iv)—Yes.

(d) and (e). Yes, with the exception of four clerks who were in receipt of Rs. 45 per mensem each, and are now drawing Rs. 35 per mensem.

(f) No.

(g) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to the reply given by me to Kunwar Hajee Ismail Ali Khan's starred question No. 689 on the 7th March, 1933.

NON-GRANT OF ADVANCE INCREMENTS TO THE STAFF OF THE CENTRAL PUBLICATION BRANCH ON THEIR TRANSFER TO DELHI.

165. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Are Government aware that the staff of the Central Publication Branch sent a memorial to Government for advance increment on account of transfer ?

(b) Is it a fact that the memorial was turned down ?

(c) If so, was it on account of financial stringency ?

(d) Is it a fact that the staff of the office of the Director-General of Posts and Telegraphs were granted advance increment when the said office was transferred from Calcutta to Delhi ?

(e) If so, what were exactly the circumstances that led to the non-grant of advance increment to the staff of the Central Publication Branch ?

(f) Will Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing the scales of pay of the clerical staff of the Office of the Director-General of Posts and Telegraphs at the time of transfer ?

(g) Will Government be pleased to state the scales of pay of the staff of the Central Publication Branch ?

(h) Is it a fact that there has been a saving of funds out of the Budget allotment for carrying out the move of the Central Publication Branch ?

(i) If so, will Government be pleased to say how much was saved ?

(j) Referring to unstarred question No. 688, dated 7th March, 1933, are Government inclined to reconsider the memorial of the staff of the Central Publication Branch in respect of advance increment in consideration of the saving ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) and (b). Yes.

(c) and (e). The reason for rejecting the memorial is stated in the reply given by me on the 7th March, 1933, to part (f) of the starred question No. 688 by Kunwar Hajee Ismail Ali Khan. I have nothing to add to that reply.

(d) No. They were allowed some personal pay to be absorbed in future increments.

(f) A statement is laid on the table.

(g) I am placing a statement on the table in connection with another question by the Honourable Member which I am answering to-day.

(h) Yes.

(i) It is anticipated that savings will amount to Rs. 43,600 approximately.

(j) No.

Scales of pay of the clerical staff of the office of the Director-General of Posts and Telegraphs at the time of its transfer from Calcutta to New Delhi in 1927.

Classes of posts.	Scale of pay. Rs.
Superintendents	500—25—700.
Assistant Superintendent and Chief Clerk, Simla Camp Office	350—20—450.
Head Assistants including Budget Assistants	250—20—350.
Personal clerk to the Director General	250—20—350 plus Rs. 50 special pay.
Head clerks	150—10—200.
'A' class clerks	80—80—100—5—150—10—250.
Cashier and Stamp Clerk, Calcutta office	80—80—100—5—150—10—250 plus Rs. 50 special pay.
Cashier, Simla Camp Office	80—80—100—5—150—10—250 plus Rs. 40 special pay.
Special pay for Stenographers	80—80—100—5—150—10—250 plus Rs. 25 special pay subject to the condition that pay plus special pay should not exceed Rs. 160 per mensem.
'B' class clerks	50—50—3—80—4—140.

DIFFICULTIES OF THE STAFF OF THE CENTRAL PUBLICATION BRANCH DUE TO ITS TRANSFER TO DELHI.

166. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Are Government aware that the staff of the Central Publication Branch has been hard hit owing to (i) extreme climate of Delhi, (ii) loss of domicile consequent on transfer, (iii) remoteness from their hearth and home, and (iv) financial hardship ?

(b) Is it a fact that the Standing Finance Committee sanctioned the expenditure for the move for the following reasons emphasised by the Department :

(i) the paucity of sufficient accommodation felt in Calcutta, and

(ii) bad arrangement of stock in Calcutta and the resultant faults in the Store Accounts ?

(c) If so, will the Honourable Member for the Department of Industries and Labour be pleased to state whether the location of the office at Delhi has done away with all the difficulties enumerated above ? If not, will Government kindly say in what light success of the move can be correctly assessed ?

(d) Will the Honourable Member be pleased to state whether stock-taking was undertaken in April, 1933, by the Central Publication Branch ?

(e) If the answer to the above be in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to say whether the ledger and stock balances of publications have been reconciled ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) Most officials prefer to serve near their own homes, but Government do not consider that special hardship is involved when this proves impracticable.

(b) I have no reason for thinking that the Standing Finance Committee's conclusion was based on the examination of difficulties relating to accommodation and stock-taking in Calcutta to the exclusion of the other considerations put before them.

(c) I have satisfied myself by personal inspection that the transfer of the Branch to Delhi is serving its purpose. The second part does not arise.

(d) The stock of publications was counted before despatch from Calcutta and again on receipt in Delhi. This was in effect a taking of stock, and a separate stock-taking, as such, in April, 1933, was therefore unnecessary.

(e) The Central Publication Branch is at present engaged in the work of reconciliation between the ledger and stock figures as they stood on the 31st March, 1933.

SALARIES DRAWN BY THE NON-GAZETTED STAFF OF THE CENTRAL PUBLICATION BRANCH.

167. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Will Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing the respective salaries drawn by the non-gazetted staff of the Central Publication Branch ?

(b) Will Government kindly lay on the table a statement showing the actual amounts deducted from their respective salaries on account of house rent ?

(c) Is it a fact that the Government sanctioned an advance loan of two months' pay subject to a maximum of Rs. 200 ?

(d) If so, will Government kindly lay on the table a statement of monthly deductions made in respect of each individual of the staff to recoup the advance loan ?

(e) Is it a fact that the Notified Area Committee, Delhi, charges Rs. 2-8-0 per mensem on account of water supply in the quarters ?

(f) Will the Honourable Member be pleased to lay on the table a statement of respective net balances of salaries of the staff that were actually left in hand in the month of June last after meeting the obligations enumerated below :

(i) Electricity charge,

(ii) Water supply,

(iii) Deduction on account of advance loan, and

(iv) 5 per cent. emergency cut ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) I place a statement on the table showing the scales applicable to the superior staff.

(b), (d) and (f). Rent is recovered according to the usual rules, and in no case exceeds 10 per cent. of salary, and recoveries of advances are made at the rate of 10 per cent. of salary monthly. I am not able to supply particulars relating to individual cases.

(c) An advance of two months' pay was given, but no maximum limit was fixed.

(e) Yes.

Statement showing the scales of pay of the superior non-gazetted staff of the Central Publication Branch.

Posts.	Scales of pay.
	Rs.
Assistant Manager	300—20—400.
Accountant	250—10—350.
Head Assistant	200—10—250.
Assistants (including Cashier)	80—80—100—5—150—10—200.
Clerks (including Addressograph Operator) ..	45—45—50—3—65—4—85—4—105—5—140.
Typists	45—45—5/2—100.
Sarkar and Junior Addressograph Operator ..	25—1—35.

ACUTE DISTRESS OF THE STAFF OF THE CENTRAL PUBLICATION BRANCH ON ACCOUNT OF THE BURSTING OF MONSOON.

168. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Has the attention of the Honourable Member in charge of the Department of Industries and Labour been drawn to the report in the newspapers Hindustan Times and National Call of 29th June, 1933, regarding the acute distress of the staff of the Central Publication Branch on account of the bursting of monsoon ?

(b) Is the Honourable Member aware that a telegram was sent to Mr. A. G. Clow, I.C.S., Secretary, Industries and Labour Department, by the staff appealing for immediate relief ?

(c) If so, what steps did the Department take to remove their sufferings ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : Government have read the articles referred to in The Hindustan Times and The National Call, but both the newspaper accounts and the complaints made by the staff were greatly exaggerated. The officers of the Public Works Department took very prompt action to carry out the necessary repairs.

CONDEMNATION OF CERTAIN QUARTERS IN TIMARPUR, DELHI.

169. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Is it a fact that " E " Class quarters of Timarpur were condemned by the Public Works Department as being unfit for residential purposes ?

(b) If so, will the Honourable Member be pleased to state who is responsible for the allotment of condemned quarters ?

(c) Is it a fact that these quarters were constructed only for use for a short period ?

(d) If so, has not the specified period elapsed ?

(e) Is thorough overhauling of the quarters being considered by Government ?

(f) Is it a fact that these quarters were originally used by the industrial staff of the Delhi Press ?

(g) If so, are the industrial staff and the clerical staff of the same status ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) No.

(b) Does not arise.

(c) and (d). It was, I think, believed when the quarters were constructed that they would not be permanently required, but no period was specified.

(e) No ; but necessary repairs are being done.

(f) The majority were occupied by members of the industrial staff but some were allotted to clerks.

(g) In respect of house accommodation all press employees drawing the same pay have the same rights.

MITIGATION OF THE HARDSHIPS OF THE STAFF OF THE CENTRAL PUBLICATION BRANCH.

170. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Is it a fact that the office of the Central Publication Branch has been located in the old Press Buildings, Civil Lines, Delhi ?

(b) If so, is the said building in a dilapidated condition ?

(c) Is it a fact that during the monsoon in Delhi, considerable damage has been done to the stock of publications ?

(d) Is it a fact that the walls of the building may collapse very soon ?

(e) Is it a fact that the building was erected only for temporary purpose for a fixed period ?

(f) Is it a fact that the roofing is made of corrugated tin sheets ?

(g) Is it a fact that the Controller of Printing and Stationery refused sanction for Khus for the offices of the Central Publication Branch during the summer ?

(h) Is it a fact that the Honourable Member was appealed to telegraphically by the staff to order sanction for Khus ?

(i) If so, did Government take any steps to mitigate the hardships of the staff ? If not, why not ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) Yes.

(b), (c) and (d). No.

(e) It was believed when the building was erected that it would not be permanently required, but no period was specified.

(f) The roof is of corrugated iron.

(g) and (h). Yes.

(i) No ; it is not the practice of Government to take any action on direct applications of this kind. I may add that the telegram, which did not bear the name of any member of the staff, was most intemperately worded.

ILLNESS OF SAROJ RANJAN ACHARYA, A DETENU IN THE DEOLI DETENTION CAMP.

171. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Will the Honourable Member in charge of the Home Department be pleased to state whether Saroj Ranjan Acharya, B.A., detenu, is now lodged in the Deoli Detention Jail ?

(b) Are Government aware that he has been suffering from nervous prostration ? If so, what steps have been taken for his medical treatment ?

(c) Is it a fact that Kaviraji medicines are now being used by the detenu at the expense of the detenu's family ?

(d) When was he arrested ?

(e) Is it a fact that he has turned almost deaf in the course of his detention ? If so, what steps did Government take to cure his deafness ?

(f) Is it a fact that he underwent surgical operation at the Medical College Hospital, Calcutta ? If so, for what ailments ?

(g) Is it a fact that he underwent surgical treatment at the Alipore Central Jail Hospital for the second time ? If so, for what ailments ?

(h) What is the present condition of his health ?

(i) Is his weight well maintained ?

(j) Is it a fact that he was previously detained in the Buxa Detention Camp ? If so, when was he transferred to Deoli Detention Jail ?

(k) Was his widowed mother allowed any interview prior to the detenu's transfer outside Bengal ? If not, why not ?

(l) Was his mother informed of his transfer to Deoli Detention Jail ? If not, why not ?

(m) Is it a fact that a petition was sent to the Government of Bengal praying for his home-internment on the ground of ill-health ? If so, what steps have Government taken on the petition ?

(n) Do Government propose to consider the home-internment of the detenu now ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) and (b). Saroj Ranjan Acharya is in the Deoli Detention Jail and has been suffering from nervous trouble. He has been treated by the Additional Civil Surgeon, Ajmer, and is reported to have improved in health.

(c) Some Kaviraj medicine was sent to him about three months ago by a member of his family.

(d) April 22nd, 1930.

(e), (f) and (g). The detenu was deaf before his detention. In a petition submitted 2½ months after his arrest, he stated that he had been suffering from deafness and nasal catarrh for five or six months. At his own request he was examined in the Medical College Hospital, Calcutta, and underwent regular treatment there till August, 1931. He was operated on for infected tonsils in April, 1931. He was transferred to Buxa Detention Camp in September, 1931, but on the recommendation of the Medical Officer was subsequently sent back to the Alipur Central Jail and operated on for fistula. A specialist at the Medical College Hospital again examined him and reported that he was suffering from chronic middle ear deafness.

(h) and (i). I would refer the Honourable Member to the reply given by me to Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh's starred question No. 26 on the 23rd August last.

(j) Yes. He was transferred to Deoli on the 23rd September, 1932.

(k) His mother and brother were granted permission to interview him on the 19th August, 1932. His mother actually saw him on the 2nd September, 1932, as she failed to avail herself of the permission previously given.

(m) and (n). Yes. The petition is under the consideration of the Government of Bengal.

HUNGER-STRIKE BY DETENUS IN THE DEOLI DETENTION CAMP.

172. Mr. S. C. Mitra: (a) Will Government please state on how many occasions the detenus in the Deoli Detention Camp went on hunger-strike ? What was the last occasion ? How long did it last ? How many detenus took part in it ? What were their grievances ?

(b) Is it a fact that two detenus were on hunger-strike for 16 days and two others for 11 days in the latter half of June, 1933 ? How did the strike end ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : There have been two hunger-strikes in the Deoli Jail. In regard to the first, I have nothing to add to the information given in my reply to the Honourable Member's short notice question on December 1, 1932. The second strike occurred in June of this year. Two detenus were on strike for 16 days and two for 10 days. Their grievances, as stated by them, related to diet, accommodation, medical arrangements and water supply, and included complaints against the staff. These grievances were found to be groundless.

ALLEGATIONS AGAINST THE BRITISH INDIA STEAM NAVIGATION COMPANY.

173. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : (a) Are Government aware that the Honorary Secretary of the Muslim Teachers' Association, Rangoon, has sent a representation, dated the 21st May, 1933, to the Agent, British India Steam Navigation Company, Calcutta, in course of which it is stated that :

(i) when the Indian teachers of Rangoon were travelling by S. S. " Egra " to Calcutta, the cover over the deck was taken away when the ship came into the Calcutta river on 30th March, 1933, and passengers were " heated under the shining sun for about eight hours. Some women and children took shelter in the second class deck, but they were driven back by the Chief Officer by the shower of blows " : and

(ii) when they were returning to Rangoon after the vacation, on the 12th May, 1933, by S. S. " Karapara ", the passengers were forcibly made to vacate the front deck by the false report of a sudden storm, and then " the crew began to play cricket ", and when some passengers came back to their places they were driven down " by the Chief Officer kicking them very mercilessly ", and the passengers in the lower hold were " under great difficulties for want of air " ?

(b) Do Government propose to hold a thorough enquiry into the serious allegations made above, and communicate the result to the House ? Are they aware that such complaints of wild treatment and mismanagement on the British India Steam Navigation Company line plying between Calcutta and Rangoon, are common ; and what steps do Government propose to take to remedy this state of affairs ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : (a) The Government of India have not received a copy of the representation referred to, but it is understood that a representation on the subject was made by the Honorary Secretary of the Muslim Teachers' Association, Rangoon, to Messrs. Mackinnon Mackenzie and Company, Managing Agents of the British India Steam Navigation Company, Calcutta.

(b) An enquiry on the subject was made from Messrs. Mackinnon Mackenzie and Company and the Company reported that on neither of the two occasions were any of the passengers subjected to violence or abuse by the ships' officers.

As regards the specific allegations made by the Honorary Secretary of the Muslim Teachers' Association, Rangoon, it is understood that what actually happened was that on the voyage of the S.S. " Egra " from Rangoon to Calcutta, awnings were taken down as usual at Fulta Point, two hours (and not eight hours) before arrival at Garden Reach, in order to facilitate the discharge of passengers, mails, cargo and baggage without delay on arrival. On the outward voyage of the S.S. " Karapara " from Calcutta the weather was threatening and the awnings were therefore taken down on leaving the river in anticipation of inclement weather, but as fair weather prevailed later and as there was only a comparatively small number of passengers on board (viz., about 400 deck passengers as against the maximum permissible number of about 1,000), one side of the foredeck was used for a short time by members of the ship's staff for their recreation. The Company state that this did not cause any real inconvenience to the passengers. With a view, however, to avoid the possibility of any such complaints from deck passengers in future the Company have issued instructions that passenger decks should not be used for the recreation of ships' officers on the voyage in question.

Government are not aware that such complaints on the British India Steam Navigation Company's steamers plying between Calcutta and Rangoon are common and in view of the position I have fully explained above they do not propose to take any further action in the matter.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : May I know if any person connected with the Muslim Teachers' Association was examined in connection with the enquiry which is said to have been made ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I have made it clear that the enquiry was addressed to Messrs. Mackinnon Mackenzie and Co., and that we did not ourselves hold an enquiry into the matter.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : My question was this. Did Messrs. Mackinnon Mackenzie and Co. invite the Muslim Teachers' Association to give their version of the case before submitting the result of their enquiry to the Government of India ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I cannot say. I have no information on that point.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the Honourable Member tell me if the Government expected that those persons of that Company who were alleged to have kicked and given blows to the passengers would admit their guilt ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I think that, if anybody is assaulted, he has his remedy in a Criminal Court.

Mr. B. Das : Since the Deck Passengers Committee's report was published, what machinery did the Honourable gentleman's Department establish to control the encroachment of the Steamship Companies on the liberties of deck passengers ?

12 NOON.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : So far as an answer is possible, I must have notice of that question.

Mr. B. Das : May I remind the Honourable Member, judging from the reply which he now gave, that there has been encroachment of the liberties, rights and privileges of deck passengers by the crews and the officers of the Steamship Companies ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I think I made it clear that the Company have issued instructions to see that such encroachment, assuming it was an encroachment, does not occur again.

STATEMENTS LAID ON THE TABLE.

The Honourable Sir George Schuster (Finance Member) : Sir, I lay on the table the information promised in reply to starred questions Nos. 641 to 645 asked by Sardar Sant Singh on the 6th March, 1933.

RECRUITMENT TO THE SUBORDINATE ACCOUNTS SERVICE.

*641. (a) Since 1st January, 1930, eight candidates have been recruited directly on the Civil side and one on the Posts and Telegraphs side. Of these, one was a Sikh, seven Muslims and one a domiciled Christian. The total strength of the Subordinate Accounts Service on the 31st December, 1932, and its distribution by communities were as follows :—

None of the apprentices who have appeared in the Examination since 1930 has passed. Some of the successful candidates during the last three years have had lower educational qualifications than the apprentices, while some have had equal qualifications.

(d) Government are satisfied that the papers in the Examination are properly and impartially valued and are not prepared to appoint an examiner from outside to revise the marking.

(e) Extra chances have been allowed where they were considered justifiable. The case of each apprentice is decided on its merits.

EMPLOYMENT OF SIKHS IN THE OFFICE OF THE DEPUTY ACCOUNTANT GENERAL, POSTS AND TELEGRAPHS, DELHI.

*643. (a) The total number of Sikhs on the roll is as follows :

Class.	No.
A	3 (Includes one man transferred from a Calcutta Office).
B	3
C	1

(b) In the 1924 examination 33 candidates were successful of whom one was a Sikh taking fifth place. In the 1928 examination 22 candidates passed of whom one was a Sikh placed 8th.

(c) All recruits that passed in the 1924 Examination and continued in the office have been confirmed, except one (a Sikh) who failed to produce satisfactory evidence of his age and was not confirmed. Those who passed in 1928 have not been confirmed in view of the contemplated reduction of the Upper Division cadre.

SUPERVISOR OF RECORDS OF THE OFFICE OF THE DEPUTY ACCOUNTANT GENERAL, POSTS AND TELEGRAPHS, DELHI

*644. (a) Yes. The number of temporary clerks recruited since June 1928 is 122 of whom about 21 are Kayasths, mostly retrenched clerks of the Pay and Accounts Offices and Central Accounts Office, Public Works Department. The allegation in regard to the Supervisor is baseless, and the last question does not, therefore, arise.

(b) The present Supervisor belongs to Panipat, Karnal District. No definite orders of the nature referred to were passed, and the other parts of the question do not therefore arise.

CONFIRMATION OF ONE MR. BASHIR AHMAD AKHGAR IN THE OFFICE OF THE DEPUTY ACCOUNTANT GENERAL, POSTS AND TELEGRAPHS, DELHI.

*645. The replies to both the questions are in the affirmative. Mr. Bashir Ahmed Akhgar was confirmed in a permanent vacancy owing to the misapprehension that the orders did not apply to the then existing posts in the Lower Division cadre in which no retrenchments were to be made. It would be impracticable to cancel the confirmation at this stage.

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler (Foreign Secretary) : Sir, I lay on the table—

(i) the information promised in reply to starred questions Nos. 916, 917 and 918 asked by Khan Bahadur Makhdum Syed Rajan Bakhsh Shah on the 24th March, 1933 ; and

(ii) the information promised in reply to unstarred question No. 198 asked by Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh on the 10th April, 1933.

ALLEGED GRIEVANCES AGAINST THE MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, AJMER.

*916. (a) Yes.

(b) Government are not in a position to say whether the assumption, on which this question is based, is correct.

(c) A number of questions relating to Ajmer Municipal affairs have from time to time been asked in the Legislative Assembly both before and since Colonel Howson ceased to be Chairman.

(d) Several such leaflets the authors of which were mostly irresponsible persons have been circulated.

(e) There has not been an abnormal number of representations relating to Municipal affairs since Colonel Howson ceased to be Chairman.

(f) Action has been taken whenever necessary.

(g) No action on the part of Government appears to be called for. The Committee have recently elected a new Chairman.

NON-PAYMENT OF THE SALARIES OF SOME SWEEPERS OF THE MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, AJMER.

*917. (a) Three sweepers of the Ajmer Municipality complained to the Executive Officer of non-receipt of their wages for the month of February, 1932. Enquiries were immediately made and it was found that thumb impressions had been obtained on the salary bill in token of the amounts having been received by the payees. The matter was referred to the Thumb Impression Bureau, for examination of the thumb impressions appearing on the salary bill with those of the complainants and for report to the Special Sub-Committee formed to enquire into the matter.

(b) Yes.

(c) Before the report from the Thumb Impression Bureau was received, the sweepers lodged a complaint, against the Sanitary Inspector, in court. The matter being sub judice, the Special Sub-Committee had no alternative but to resolve that the case should be kept pending till the Court had given a decision. The case is still pending in the Magistrate's Court.

APPOINTMENT OF AN EXECUTIVE OFFICER IN THE MUNICIPAL COMMITTEE, AJMER.

*918. (a) Yes—vide rule XLII of the rules framed under sub-section (1) of section 34 of the Ajmer Municipalities Regulation, V of 1886. This regulation has been repealed by Regulation VI of 1925, but the rules under the old regulations are still in force as none have been framed under the new Regulation.

(b) An Executive Officer was appointed for the Municipality from the 8th August, 1931, on a salary of Rs. 450—25—600 plus Rs. 75 per mensem as car allowance.

(c) Yes. The question of delegating wider powers to the Executive Officer is under consideration.

(d) No. This is hardly a correct description but it is certainly desirable that he should have more extensive powers.

(e) An additional allowance of Rs. 60 only per mensem by way of house rent has just been sanctioned.

(f) The Executive Officer is doing useful work.

AMOUNT SPENT ON THE QUEEN MARY ZENANA GHAT, PUSHKAR.

198. (a) The work relates to the Pushkar Shamlat Committee and is being carried out through the agency of a Contractor under the supervision of the District Board Engineer, Ajmer, as a contributional work.

(i) information not available,

(ii) the 12½ per cent. supervision charges levied by the District Board include all expenses incurred for officers and establishment. The total supervision charges amount to Rs. 3,465.

(iii) Rs. 2,000.

(b) No.

(c) Rs. 94.

(d) Rs. 34,000. Yes.

(e) No. The pressure on foundation was however reduced under expert advice.

(f) The Brahamans of Basti Khurd of Pushkar have applied for the formation of a similar Shamlat Committee and the matter is under consideration.

(g) Under the terms of the Sanad permanent alienation of land is not permissible. in some cases the transfer of Biswadari rights may have occurred with the sanction of the Collector under the Ajmer Alienation of Land Regulation, 1914.

Mr. P. R. Rau (Financial Commissioner, Railways) : Sir, I lay on the table—

(i) the information promised in reply to supplementary questions to starred question No. 2 asked by Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh on the 1st February, 1933 ;

CONSTRUCTION OF THE NARBADA BRIDGE ON THE BOMBAY, BARODA AND CENTRAL INDIA RAILWAY.

*2. The general practice on Company-managed Railways, in connection with calling for tenders for bridge-work, structural steelwork and other similar works, is to call for tenders only in India in the case of small or unimportant works. In the case of large or important works simultaneous tenders in India and England are invited. In the former case the tenders are opened in India and dealt with by the Agents, without any reference to their Home Boards, but in the latter case, although the tenders received in India are ordinarily opened here on the due dates, particulars of the tenders received are cabled to the Home Boards for consideration along with the tenders received in England, and it is the Home Boards who arrive at a decision in such cases. In the case of the Nerbudda Bridge, which is a work of exceptionally large magnitude, the Home Board of the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway did not follow the usual procedure, but instructed the Agent to send them un-opened the sealed tenders received in India.

MUSLIM DRAFTSMEN RETRENCHED FROM THE OFFICE OF THE CHIEF ENGINEER, SURVEY AND CONSTRUCTION, NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY.

*636. (a) The reply to the first part of the question is in the affirmative; as regards the second part, the Agent reports that Mr. Prabh Das was appointed in a temporary post in the office of the Executive Engineer, Hyderabad, in view of the fact that he possessed qualifications which were not possessed by either Mr. Abdul Rashid or Mahomed Shafi. After his discharge from this temporary post, Mr. Prabh Das was again employed in short temporary vacancies because he was considered more suitable, but there is no intention to permit Mr. Prabh Das to secure any advantage by this temporary arrangement in regard to employment against a permanent vacancy.

(b) The reply is in the affirmative.

SINDHI HINDUS DISCHARGED FROM THE OFFICE OF THE CHIEF ENGINEER, SURVEY AND CONSTRUCTION, NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY.

*637. (a) 11.

(b) Discharges were made due to reduction of construction work on account of financial stringency.

(c) Men employed for purely temporary purposes or special jobs were discharged on cessation of work for which employed and their names have not been brought on to the waiting list for re-employment.

(d) Four have secured permanent employment and 3 have been appointed against temporary vacancies.

(e) The Agent has assured the Railway Board that the re-appointments have been made according to rules and the latter part of the question does not arise.

PERIODICAL INSPECTION OF STATIONS ON THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY BY THE INSPECTORS OF ACCOUNTS.

*874. The Railway Servants Hours of Employment Rules, 1931, which were framed to give effect to the Hours of Work (Washington) Convention, and the Weekly Rest (Geneva) Convention, do not apply to the Inspectors of Railway Accounts.

APPOINTMENT OF LILLOOAH ex-APPRENTICES AS WARD-KEEPERS, ETC., ON THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.

*917. (b) The Agent reports that both the European and Anglo-Indian who were appointed respectively as Ward-Keeper and Assistant Ward-Keeper had passed the Technical Examinations and that there were no Indian ex-apprentices who were as well qualified to take up the duties required in these appointments.

APPOINTMENT OF ex-APPRENTICES OF THE LILLOOAH WORKSHOP.

CONFIRMATION OF ASSISTANT CONTROLLERS ON THE NORTH WESTERN RAILWAY.

139. (a) It is presumed that the Honourable Member refers to the confirmation of men named in the question as Assistant Controllers. If so, it is a fact that they were confirmed after two to four years' service but it may be pointed out that these confirmations took place more than eight years ago and are not in any way connected with the 51 Assistant Controllers who were confirmed in January, 1931.

(b) There are only two such men, one of whom was included among the 51 originally confirmed in January, 1931, and one whose case was overlooked at the time of the original confirmation.

(c) This question is not understood.

(d), (e) and (g). The Honourable Member's attention is invited to the reply given in the Assembly by Mr. A. A. L. Parsons on the 13th November, 1931, to Mr. S. C. Jog's Question No. 1291.

(f) The Fundamental Rule has been correctly quoted by the Honourable Member.

(h) The 14 men referred to had worked in the Control Branch for varying periods from two years and four months up to four years and eight months and drew officiating pay in the grade of Rs. 300—10—350 during these periods but on reversion to their substantive posts they were given the pay to which they were entitled under the rules. Those who have been confirmed as Assistant Controllers have been given the pay admissible in the scale, Rs. 300—10—350.

(i) The men who have been selected to fill the posts of Assistant Controllers are considered deserving to draw the pay attached to the post and there was no adequate justification to give those who have been reverted more than their substantive pays.

(j) The case of each individual, who has not been confirmed has already been very carefully considered and Government do not consider that there is justification for the action proposed.

THE CODE OF CRIMINAL PROCEDURE (AMENDMENT) BILL.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty): The House will resume further consideration of the motion moved by Sardar Sant Singh :

"That the Bill further to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, be referred to a Select Committee."

Mr. A. R. Cox (Madras : Nominated Official) : Mr. President, though I have several friends amongst the Honourable Members of this House, to most of the Members, I presume, I must be an absolute stranger, and I should like by way of preface or introduction to the few remarks that I am privileged to make today to inform the Honourable Members who do not know me who I am, what I am, and what qualifications I believe I have that justify me in being so bold as to intervene in this debate at this stage. No doubt Honourable Members will assume from the position from which I rise—and they will assume rightly—that I am a Nominated Official Member of this Honourable House. I may also tell them that I belong to that class of much maligned officers, much maligned by a certain section of the public, called District Magistrates. I have been exercising magisterial powers for nearly 31 years in this country, and I have been privileged to be a District Magistrate for nearly a period of 15 years, with, of course, interruptions on leave and other duty. I, therefore, think that I have a not inconsiderable experience which qualifies me to make a few remarks on this motion.

I have no doubt that it is within the memory of Honourable Members present here that this motion was discussed at Delhi as long ago as six months, and they may or may not remember what was said on the subject on that occasion. I myself did not have the privilege of being present then, but I have had the advantage of perusing in cold print the proceedings that took place on the 9th February of this year in Delhi. Now, the Honourable Member who fathered the Bill, or rather I should prefer to call it, "mothered", spoke at considerable length. About three quarters of the way through his speech he was pulled up by the Chair for going into too many details. The Chair was, as you, Sir, may remember, occupied by your Honourable self in your capacity as Deputy President. Now you are our esteemed President. You, Sir, then stated in the course of your ruling that you recognised that in the case of a Bill of this description it was difficult to define what exactly was the principle involved, and you expressed your desire that the speakers should refrain from making more than general remarks as far as possible. I will endeavour, Sir, to follow that ruling, although it is not exactly an easy task considering the nature of the Bill. It consists of various amendments, I may say practically seven heads of amendments, to the Criminal Procedure Code, which is practically the Bible of the Magistracy and the Police in this country. And necessarily a Bill, composed of so many amendments, must be based on different principles. The second Honourable Member to speak was the Honourable Mr. P. C. Dutt, to whose seat I have the privilege of succeeding, in view of the fact that he has become an Honourable Member of another House. His speech was brief and to the point, and he opposed the motion ; and it is not surprising that I, who wish to follow in his footsteps, should be found repeating some of the arguments which he used. The third speaker was the Honourable Mr. K. Ahmed who touched on only two of the clauses and opposed the motion. The fourth speaker was Mr. Seaman, a Nominated Member from the Central Provinces, who also opposed the motion in a speech which, to my mind, was full of very good points ; and I wish, Sir, that, instead of my feeble piping, his words could still re-echo in this Chamber. I am afraid what he said has, by reason of the delay, been a great deal forgotten by the Honourable Members of this House. The next speaker was Mr. Aggarwal, who spoke at considerable length in support of the motion, and he became the father of the Bill whose mother, as I have already suggested, is the Honourable Sardar Sant Singh. After him, another Nominated Official, Mr. G. S. Dutt, from Bengal, spoke at great length ; and I observe that he cannot be said to have obeyed the ruling of the Chair perhaps owing to the fact that, while he was speaking, an Honourable Member, who was not the Deputy President, was occupying the Chair.

Mr. B. Das (Orissa Division : Mon-Muhammadan) : Is it fair to criticise the Deputy President's or the President's ruling ?

Mr. A. R. Cox : I am only judging from what I have seen in print. After a few remarks from my Honourable friend, Major Nawab Ahmad Nawaz Khan, who likewise opposed the motion, another Honourable Member, Mr. Mitra, put forward another claim to paternity of the Bill.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai (Sind : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : We are anxious to hear your original remarks.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Order, order. Honourable Members must observe that an Honourable Member who makes a maiden speech must be given a patient hearing and not be interrupted. (Applause.)

Mr. A. R. Cox : I come now to briefly review the provisions of the clauses of the Bill. They fall, as I said, under seven headings.

[Mr. A. R. Cox.]

Clauses 2, 3, 4 and 5 can be clubbed together, as they deal with the proposal to abolish all magistrates who have been especially empowered under section 30 of the Criminal Procedure Code. I may say that at one time, when I was the Collector and District Magistrate of the Bangalore Civil and Military Station, I was exercising these powers conferred upon me by the Chief Commissioner of Coorg. I think I tried then three cases under that section. Coming as I do from Madras, I have not much acquaintance with the extent to which what we may call section 30 magistrates exercise judicial functions in this part of India. We have very few such magistrates in Madras. In fact, this section does not refer to Madras as a whole, but only to non-regulation parts thereof. I understand, however, that in certain parts of India, where this section is in force, about nine times the number of cases are tried by section 30 magistrates than are tried by Sessions Judges and Assistant Sessions Judges with the aid of assessors or jury. It seems to me that if section 30 magistrates are to be abolished in the provinces where they are now employed, there will be a large number of Additional Sessions Judges who will have to be appointed, the cost of whose appointment will be a considerable factor to be reckoned with. The necessity for abolishing them arises from one of the principles which underlie this Bill, namely, distrust of the magistracy. It was previously mentioned six months ago in the Delhi Session that this distrust of the magistracy was a new thing. Very often the police have been distrusted, but the idea of distrusting the magistracy was rather a new one. I may say that it seems to abound throughout this Bill. Clauses 6 and 8 seem to me to be somewhat trivial, rather too trivial to justify the intervention of this Honourable House. What is the exact difference between "vicinity" and "locality" it is perhaps difficult to say. The Honourable the Mover has admitted in his speech, delivered six months ago, that he is not particularly enamoured of the word "vicinity", and he desired that the Select Committee, to whom it is proposed to send this Bill, should decide what word they think to be correct. I ask, Sir, is it reasonable to ask the Select Committee practically to draft an amendment like this? I think the Honourable the Mover believes that the word "vicinity" is rather narrower than "locality". I doubt that myself. I think if you say that a certain village is in the vicinity of Simla, it is probably not so near as if you use the word "locality". I am entering into details and disobeying the ruling which I mentioned before. It is so trivial that we may apply to it the legal maxim "de minimis non curat lex". The same remarks apply to clause 8, which deals with the exemption from personal appearance of certain accused persons. I do not think that a sufficient number of reasons have been adduced to show that there is any necessity to amend that section of the Criminal Procedure Code. Clause 7 deals with remand, and it is based on the principle of distrusting the magistracy as well as the police. Now, I have read through this section and I cannot understand in what better way the intention of the Legislature could be carried out than in the phraseology which is at present used. As regards the upholding of the dignity of the magistracy by insisting that a magistrate should go to his Court in order to remand an accused person who is supposed to be forwarded to him by the police, I should like to state that magistrates do not always sit in their Courts at their headquarters. At least a number of magistrates in Madras have to go on tour. I have myself the experience of a number of extraordinary incidents in connection with the trial of cases. I remember one case which, with your permission, Sir, I will mention to the House. I was camping at a little travellers' bungalow where, just before dinner time, a jutka turned up, having come 24 miles away from my headquarters. It contained—as I found when the occupants got out—a police sergeant and a European young gentleman. I could not understand what they were calling for at that time of night. So I asked them what the matter was. The sergeant said: "I have brought this young Ceylon planter. He is charged with a breach of the law under the Sea Customs Act." So, I asked my boy to bring two whiskies and sodas and add some more water to the soup and said we will have dinner in a few minutes time. I was then the prospective magistrate. I was actually working as a sub-divisional magistrate. So, the prospective magistrate, the prospective prosecutor and the prospective accused were sitting down together and having dinner together. I persuaded the young gentleman to waive his rights to be tried as a European British subject and to go back another 24 miles in the same jutka and appear before the Indian sub-magistrate next morning. I mention this only as an illustration of the curious positions in which sometimes magistrates find themselves. I do not think there is any necessity to amend clause 7. If the police do their duty, and if the magistrates do their duty under this section, then it is exactly what I gather my Honourable friend, the Mover, wishes to take place.

Clause 9 deals with a section in the Criminal Procedure Code which allows discretion to a magistrate when he has ordered that imprisonment should take place in the event of non-payment of a fine and, if that imprisonment is undergone, to order or not an accused to pay the fine, or to have the fine realised from the accused in the usual way. It is noticeable that the section distinctly says that steps should not be taken to realise the fine unless the magistrate for particular reasons thinks that it should.

Mr. S. G. Jog (Berar Representative): Special reasons.

Mr. A. R. Cox: I think that on most occasions magistrates are inclined not to take any steps. In fact, in my experience I very rarely noticed that a magistrate orders a fine to be collected from a person who has undergone the alternative imprisonment. Where a man is fined a certain amount, and especially in cases where compensation has been ordered by a Court to be paid to the complainant, or to the injured person who has suffered by the offence committed by the accused prisoner, I think it is only right that, if a person can afford to pay the fine and deliberately chooses not to pay it on the spot, and goes to jail to work out what is probably a very short term imprisonment, I think it is only right that steps should be allowed under the Act, to compel him to pay that fine even though he has undergone that imprisonment. I think this is another clause which rests on the principle of distrust of the Indian magistracy. It is to be remembered in this respect that the magistracy is becoming now much more manned by Indian gentlemen than it used to be. I think it would be a great pity if at this stage anything were done by this House to show or to indicate or suggest that we have not confidence in the Indian magistrates.

[Mr. A. R. Cox.]

Clause 10 deals with the power of the Local Government to order that appeals in security cases should be heard by District Magistrates instead of by the Sessions Judges. I personally am not aware of any case, since this amendment was made, of that order being made by the Local Government under which I serve. This, again, is a case in which the superior magistracy—the District magistrates in this case—are suspected as not being competent to perform their duty impartially. If a District Magistrate finds that a case comes up to him on appeal with which he has had previous dealings in an executive capacity, I do not think, Sir, that there is any magistrate holding his position who will not report that fact and say, "I do not feel capable of dealing with this case". I, therefore, think that this power should be retained.

As regards clause 11, it is proposed in that clause to abolish the ban on certain appeals in certain cases. Again, that presumes that mistakes are too frequently made by the subordinate magistracy. Sir, junior and senior magistrates, and even High Courts, are liable to commit mistakes. All humans are fallible. It will cause an enormous waste of time if superior Appellate Courts are to be compelled to entertain petty cases in which presumably, in most cases, in ninety-nine out of a hundred cases, the accused has no real grounds of appeal whatever. My opinion is that if this motion were carried and the Bill were referred to the Select Committee, they would send it back practically retaining the words of the existing Criminal Procedure Code. It has been said that this Bill is an omnibus Bill ; indeed it has many heads. It tried to be born in Delhi six months ago, and after, what I see one Honourable Member said or suspected to be, an insufficient period of gestation. It was not then born. It was pushed back into the womb of Time, and is now trying to be re-born again. Is it necessary to send that infant, mothered by my Honourable friend and fathered by several others, is it reasonable to send that to a committee of doctors and experts to attend its birth ? I think, Sir, that considering its parentage, I do not mean the human parentage, I mean considering the principles which are the parents of the Bill, distrust of the magistracy on the one side and distrust of the police on the other, I make bold to say that, if there was a suggested marriage between principles of that kind in Germany at the present moment, and if such a marriage could not be prevented, I am pretty sure that at a very short interval some Hitlerite official would come along and say that the parents should be sterilised so as to prevent any possibility of such an issue. I hope, Sir, I have not trodden on anybody's toes very severely. I claim the indulgence of the House if I have unwittingly and unknowingly trespassed on or broken any rules or conventions of this Honourable House. I would like Honourable Members to read what was said before, and I think I have said enough to show that it does not require a steam roller to pulverise this little butterfly, which, I think, ought not to see the light of the day. With these words, I oppose the motion before the House.

Hony. Captain Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Lal Chand (Nominated Non-Official) : Sir, all the Members, who have spoken so far, have begun by laying stress on the claims they have to speak on this motion. The Honourable the Mover, Sardar Sant Singh, has based his claim, on his 25 years' experience as a lawyer on the Criminal side, in a heavily criminal district like Lyallpur ; and the Honourable Mr. Cox has similarly described his experience as a Collector and Magistrate. I base my claim on stronger grounds than any that have been mentioned so far. In the first place, I lay claim to 21 years' experience as a criminal lawyer, but my second ground is stronger than any that have been placed before this House. I belong to a community which is chiefly concerned with crimes. If a census were taken of those section 30 cases in the Punjab where violence is involved, my community will certainly surpass all other communities put together. So, it is not only my experience at the bar, but some sort of personal interest is involved in what I say before the House.

As has already been remarked by several Honourable Members, there is no one principle involved in this Bill. Indeed if we have a look at the different sections, there is no similarity of principle and the disparity is apparent on the face of it. Clauses 2 to 5 relate to the abolition of section 30 magistrates existing in the Punjab and Burma. Clause 6 relates to searches, clause 7 relates to remands, and clause 8 relates to the power of the magistrate to dispense with the personal attendance of the accused. Then there are two clauses, in one of which appeals are sought to be lodged with the Sessions Judge and not with the District Magistrate and, in the last clause, clause 11, it is sought that appeals should be provided for in all petty cases. So, it is clear that there is no principle involved in this Bill and each clause has to be discussed on its individual merits.

As regards deletion of section 30, if the amendment were based on mere sentimental grounds and, if Sardar Sant Singh were to come before this House on the ground of simply removing a disparity between the Punjab and other provinces, meaning thereby, that this section was casting a slur or a sense of inferiority on the Punjab, then I would certainly have agreed with him. But, there is no inferiority and this is so, as the Punjab is different, I mean the criminal side of the Punjab is different from every other province, and a perusal of any one year's criminal report will show that violent and serious crimes are rampant in the Punjab, and unless speedy justice is done in those cases, it will be difficult to carry on the administration. It was with this object only, without any sense of inferiority, that provision was made that there should be a class of experienced first class magistrates between the ordinary first class magistrates, and the Sessions Judges. Sir, during the last ten years, the number of section 30 cases has been going up and every day we find several magistrates in the criminal districts busy in trying these serious cases. I perfectly agree with Sardar Sant Singh when he says that some of these magistrates are weak and should not be entrusted with these powers. But he will admit that they are exceptions rather than the rule. Besides, there are two very strong safeguards against any misuse of power by such weak magistrates. In the first place, the Punjab Government, before giving these enhanced powers to any magistrate, always consult the High Court, and there has not been any case where they have gone against the wishes of the High Court. The High Court bases its recommendations on the judgments of those first class magistrates that come before them in appeals or revisions ; and so it cannot be said that it is at the sweet will of the executive that these powers are given to magistrates. Secondly, whenever the High Court is not satisfied with the work of any section 30 magistrate, it recommends to Government that the powers should be withdrawn, and the Punjab Government have never hesitated to do so.

Sardar Sant Singh (West Punjab : Sikh) : May I ask the Honourable Member to quote an instance during the last ten years when these powers were withdrawn from any magistrate in the Punjab ?

Hony. Captain Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Lal Chand : Yes, to give one example, to satisfy my friend, I may mention that Mr. Stephens, the Sub-Divisional Magistrate of Sonepat, held an enquiry in a murder case, in which I appeared for the accused and in which grave irregularities had been done during this inquiry which was conducted by that magistrate. The case came up before the District Magistrate ; and he recommended that such a magistrate should not be given criminal powers at all and the Punjab Government not only withdrew section 30 powers, but withdrew all criminal powers, and that gentleman was posted as Treasury Officer at Dalhousie. I could quote many other examples also during recent years, but I do not wish to bring in individuals. So my submission is that it is the High Court that in practice controls these section 30 magistrates, and not the executive side of the Government, and the latter is very particular and does not allow efficiency to suffer.

Then, Sir, my friend has alluded to the sanctity attached to a Sessions Court. I mean no disrespect to any Court when I say that I have seen Additional Sessions Judges, I.C.S., officers with three or four years' experience, trying serious cases where they had not learnt the elementary principles of law. In one case, I remember, a Sessions Judge was shown a ruling of the Lahore High Court with which he did not agree. He did not follow it and said : " Well, I do not agree with the High Court. The first thing that I will do, when I become a Judge of the High Court, will be to overrule this ruling." So, it is the particular individual that counts, and there is no charm in the designation of a section 30 magistrate or a Sessions Judge. The harm, that will be done to accused persons charged with these serious crimes if they were, in all cases, to go to Sessions Judges, can better be illustrated by giving a particular case. Only last Friday I had to conduct a case at Rohtak in which eight persons were involved under section 395 (dacoity). It was a very serious offence and, if the case had gone to the Sessions Court, they would have remained in lock-up for three or four months in order to get their turn. But the Additional District Magistrate took up the case as a section 30 magistrate. In a couple of hours, he examined the four witnesses who were alleged to be on the spot and he found that there was no case and all were discharged. If these people had been forced to go to the Sessions Court, it would, of course, have meant some gain to me or to my colleagues, but it would have ruined all the accused financially, it would have ruined their crops. Now they are at liberty to carry on their business, and it has cost them only 15 days' lock-up and two hours' trial. It is not the only case ; there are numbers of cases that are being speedily disposed of by section 30 magistrates, which would not be the case, if every such case were to go to the Sessions Judge. Can my Honourable friend imagine how many Sessions Judges would be required in the Lahore district alone, where at the present moment no less than six section 30 magistrates are busy dealing with these cases ?

Even in a district like Gurgaon, which is not criminal at all, I find that last year there were no less than four section 30 magistrates busy trying these cases at one time. There is another thing and probably that might with reason have been brought to light by my Honourable friend, the Mover. I cannot believe that it has escaped his notice during his extensive practice. Ever since the amendment in the bail provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code in 1923, there has been a tendency on the part of the prosecution to show that every small case is a section 30 case. That is the evil that is going on and, against that, my friend should have proposed a remedy. Most of these so-called section 30 cases are not section 30 cases at all. Every 379 case, ever since this amendment, becomes a dacoity case ; every 457 case becomes a 459 case or a 458 case. The police and the prosecution do this in order to keep the prisoners in the lock-up during the trial, because, if they did not do that, the prisoners would be out, owing to the further discretion that has been given to the magistrates by section 497 of the Criminal Procedure Code. This process is really an abuse of power and, if my friend had raised his voice against this, I would have agreed with him and would have supported him. Indeed I have seen cases which have been put before magistrates under section 307, Indian Penal Code (attempt to murder) where the doctor's evidence only showed that it was a skin deep superficial scratch, and on that, people have been chalanned under section 307 and have been kept in the lock up. That was a complaint which my friend ought to have brought before this House. Such cases are a waste of the time of section 30 magistrates when conviction ends in section 323 only. These cases do come before these magistrates and, against that, my friend ought to have raised his voice. I cannot admit that these section 30 magistrates are not doing justice to the people. My friend has not quoted in his arguments any case where a section 30 magistrate had been under the influence of the police, and had favoured the prosecution. He could quote cases from statistics whereby he could show percentage of results of appeals having been accepted from such cases, where such cases were tried by Sessions Judges, and the percentages of results of appeals in cases where they were tried by section 30 magistrates. Nothing of the sort has been shown by him in his able speech. I congratulate him on the fact that he has argued his case very well. If he cannot convince Honourable Members of this House, it is because he has got a very weak case to argue.

Now, I come to the second clause which relates to searches. It has been very well discussed by Mr. Fox and Mr. Seaman and they have given the difference between " locality " and " vicinity " ; and they have shown that, by substituting " vicinity " for " locality ", things do not improve at all. Besides, I would point out that there are any number of villages which are very small, where not a single person could be trusted to come forward and speak against his co-villager ; and if a lambardar or zaildar or a respectable person from a neighbouring village is brought in, no harm is done. It is only to ensure that the man will not be won over when the case goes into Court that these witnesses are brought from outside. I hope my friend, Sardar Sant Singh, does not wish that facilities should be provided for accused persons to win over prosecution witnesses.

Then, I come to the remand clause, No. 7. The Honourable Mover's complaint is that remand in some cases is granted in places where the

[Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Lal Chand.]

Court does not sit, or, in other words, instead of the accused being brought to the Court, the Court goes to the accused. He quoted an instance of a case from Lahore Fort. That may be a very serious and extraordinary case ; but every one of us who has to deal with criminal cases knows very well that nearly in all cases the accused are brought before the Courts. Of course the police always choose, I must confess, a convenient Court for this purpose where they can get a remand easily ; but even so, the change proposed does not improve matters : it is the individual magistrate who counts and the amendment of this clause will not affect any magistrate at all.

Clause 8 is simply dispensing with the personal attendance of accused. I think I cannot do better than refer to the High Court decision that was quoted by my Honourable friend wherein they cancelled the warrant and issued a summons, and in that way the difficulty was overcome. This same procedure could be adopted by any magistrate, as was adopted by the High Court ; and I have seen in practice magistrates taking this course when they find that the accused person's presence should be dispensed with. So no hardship has so far been done in ordinary cases.

Then, Sir, there is clause 9 in which the recommendation is that fines should not be realised if imprisonment has been undergone. I agree with my friend in this ; but as there is no one principle involved in this case, my agreement with one section does not avail, because either the Bill should be rejected or should be accepted in full.

As for clause 10, it is a very vital section, and as it relates chiefly to the Punjab, I have to submit that the procedure adopted and the power of appeal extended to District Magistrates is a very healthy provision in my Province. As a matter of fact, not only as a criminal lawyer, but as one who is living in the midst of those who are committing these violent crimes—I am not referring to crimes to which my friend's community is accustomed, like cheating, forgery, embezzlement and fraud, etc., which are called civilised crimes (Laughter)—I am referring to those offences only wherein the element of violence is predominant—I have known cases in my practice and I could quote many instances, where the preventive sections have not been properly used or rather have not been used by the police or magistracy. That is a general complaint in the Punjab and I have said this more than once before to those who are concerned with this matter, that the preventive sections are not being fully utilised, and that most of the crimes in the Punjab are due to the fact that Courts go on technicalities, particularly in section 107 and section 110 cases. Sir, the only thing that the Punjab Government has done is that they have empowered all District Magistrates to hear appeals in cases which ordinarily ought to have gone to Sessions Judges. I think they have done the right thing. It is very necessary that a District Magistrate should be in touch with the nature of crimes in his district. If this power were also taken away from him, when the heavy work that has been imposed on him on account of his other duties has already taken away section 30 cases from him, and if he is not to interest himself in criminal administration except in hearing appeals from second class magistrates, then I think, that will cut him off from the criminal administration of the district. Besides, during my practice I have never come across a case of an appeal before a District Magistrate in preventive section cases, wherein it could be said that gross injustice has been done.

Well, Sir, the last clause aims at providing appeals in all petty cases. I have no quarrel with that. If Government could find appellate Courts and if important work will not suffer, then, there is no harm. The difficulty, however, that was contemplated by my friend is no difficulty at all. He quoted cases wherein a respectable man had been given a light sentence by a first class magistrate which was not appealable and for which he had to go through the Sessions Judge to the High Court ; and although the Sessions Judge was in sympathy with him, yet, there was no remedy except that the case had to be sent up to the High Court. Section 438, I think, provides that Sessions Judges, while recommending such cases to the High Court, could suspend the execution of that sentence. The men in such cases are all released on bail, and, therefore, no particular hardship beyond the fact that their cases have to go to the High Court is done to them. Sir, as I said before, it is a case of individuals who will work the provisions of the present Criminal Procedure Code, and neither these amendments nor any other amendments could change the minds of certain persons. There are, I admit, certain persons who have shown weakness for prosecution, as we call it, but such cases are an exception rather than the rule. I remember a case of this kind. I brought it to the notice of the District Magistrate privately, and told him that it was given out that the District Magistrate wanted this to be done, and, therefore, the magistracy was feeling themselves very weak. The District Magistrate, to my knowledge, called a meeting of the magistrates and told them plainly that they were not to do injustice to anybody on any ground and that they were to sit in Courts as judicial officers. There may be exceptions, as my friend has quoted, but they are not the rule. But those exceptions could be found amongst Sessions Judges also, and not only among section 30 magistrates. Sir, generally speaking, the Criminal Procedure Code was amended so recently as 1923. All the sections were then very carefully sifted by this House, and I think no case has been made out for a revision of this section, and, therefore, I oppose it.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav (Bombay Central Division : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Sir, I rise to support the motion to send the Bill to a Select Committee. My Honourable and gallant friend, who has just sat down, has opposed the motion, but if one were to read between the lines of his speech, he will find that my friend was the staunchest supporter of the Bill. He has eulogised the magistracy before whom he had many occasions to appear, and the eulogy was of such a high order that one would see that the conditions that prevail in the Punjab call for a remedy, and that the method suggested by my friend, Sardar Sant Singh, is the right one. Fault has been found, Sir, with this Bill that it contains many principles. That I do admit. Had my friend, Sardar Sant Singh, been in the House for a long time when he tabled the Bill, I think he would have split up the Bill into three or four different Bills, and this attempt would not have been characterised by the remark that there is not one single principle in the Bill. But, all the same, Sir, the Bill is intended to amend several sections of a big Procedure Code, and as these sections apply to the Procedure Code in cases brought before certain magistrates, I do think that no great harm has been done. My Honourable and gallant friend has admitted that at least one section is a very good one. When the whole Bill is sent to the Select Committee and the Select Committee do not approve of the changes in other sections, but they approve of the change in that one section which has met with the approval of my gallant friend, then there would be no objection for the Select Committee to reject all the other sections and to keep the only one section which, according to him, is a very sound one.

Hony. Captain Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Lal Chand: But that is a very important section. It is not worth the trouble and time that will be wasted.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav: It may be important or unimportant. It all depends upon the point of view one takes. What is unimportant to my gallant friend may be important to others. Sir, at one time he waxed so eloquent that I was persuaded to think that it would be very advantageous for my Presidency, the Bombay Presidency, to have section 30 magistrates introduced there. I was almost on the point of drafting a Bill, but then I realised that this House would not accept that Bill, because it is for the Local Government to ask for those powers, and so I left the matter at that, and at last when I realised that Sardar Sant Singh wants to deprive his province of the benefits that are now derived by the system of this magistracy and then I found that there was something wrong in that system, or the Presidency was criminal, and, therefore, it required to be singled out and punished so very summarily.

Sir, I need not take the time of the House any longer, but I would compliment my new friend, Mr. Cox, on the fine maiden speech that he delivered. I must admit that I greatly admire his hospitality in calling the prosecutor and the accused to his table. But, then, how many are the magistrates who would act in that generous way towards the accused ?

1 P.M.

Mr. S. C. Mitra (Chittagong and Rajshahi Divisions : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Particularly if they are Indians.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav: And my Honourable friend, Mr. Mitra, adds, particularly if they are Indians. The accused and the ordinary police do not even find a decent shelter when the latter take the accused persons to a magistrate, especially when he lives in a travellers' bungalow. The magistrate is very comfortable no doubt ; he gets his whisky and soda ; but the prosecutor and the accused have to go many a time without a meal, and, as for shelter, the shade of a tree is supposed to be good enough for them. All these hardships ought to be avoided as far as possible and, therefore, some improvement in the procedure is actually necessary. The attempt of my Honourable friend, Sardar Sant Singh, is in the right direction. We have to look to his intentions and not to the execution. There are, I admit, many faults in the drafting and that is the reason why the motion is put forward for reference to a Select Committee. All those defects and deficiencies in the language will be corrected by the members of the Select Committee, and I hope that, when the Bill is returned to this House, it will be found to be completely acceptable to it. I support the motion.

Mr. A. Das (Benares and Gorakhpur Divisions : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : I rise to support this motion which has been brought forward, I think, at the proper time, by my Honourable friend, Sardar Sant Singh. It is no justification while opposing this motion to say, as my Honourable friend has said from the opposite Bench, that the Criminal Procedure Code was only recently amended about three years ago and that, therefore, it was perfect. There are certain defects which have been brought out by the Honourable the Mover of this motion, and though I have no experience of the Punjab, I from the United Provinces can say that the grievances enumerated in this Bill, particularly under clauses 7 and 9, do need speedy redress, and as far as clause 9 is concerned, even my Honourable friends on the opposite Benches have admitted its justice. All those points which have been elucidated in the course of the discussion today will, I have no doubt, be considered by the Select Committee, but so far as the principle of this Bill is concerned, not a word has been said so far as to why it should not be adopted.

Hony. Captain Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Lal Chand: There is no one principle.

Mr. A. Das: There are several principles involved if my Honourable friend will look into the Bill. It is not right to say that this Bill does away with speedy justice. My Honourable friend, on the other side, has said, "We want speedy justice". So do we. But speedy justice does not mean injustice. There are cases in which injustice has occurred to which my Honourable friend, Sardar Sant Singh, has drawn the attention of the House, and I think it is the duty of this Legislature to pass this motion and to so legislate that those cases of injustice will never occur. There is another aspect from which one can well say that this Bill involves a principle, namely, want of confidence in the executive. None of us here are perfect. I do not think it can be said that the judiciary or the executive is perfect. So, there is no question involved so far as the impartiality of the executive is concerned, but numerous cases have happened and are happening in the country where the injustice involved by the improper application of the Criminal Procedure Code has caused very serious consequences. What is the justification,—when a man has been imprisoned and has been awarded a fine and has served, because he is not able to pay the fine,—for another term of imprisonment—why should he be caught over and over again, as has been done by the executive, for the realisation of that fine ? Even after he has served a term of imprisonment in lieu of fine which he could not pay, the police will not allow him to rest in peace. So long as he has a lota, or a thali, the police will go after him in spite of the fact that he has served out another term of imprisonment in lieu of fine. Therefore I strongly support this motion so far as clauses 7 and 9 are concerned and I think the complaints do need a speedy remedy. So far as the other provisions of the Bill are concerned, I do not think we have any section 30 magistrates, but all those objections, which have been raised to it, can be carefully considered by the Select Committee which consists of a large number of gentlemen here representing both the Government side and the popular side. I have no doubt that when the Bill has been considered by the Select Committee and emerges from it, it will be acceptable to all parts of the House. But I submit that there is no justification for stifling this motion for referring the Bill to a Select Committee.

Rai Bahadur Lala Brij Kishore (Lucknow Division : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Sir, having been long connected with the administration of the Code, which is proposed to be amended, I wish to express a few words on the subject. About section 103, the Honourable the Mover objects to the word " locality " and he wants to replace it by the word " vicinity ", and he further says that if in the Select Committee a better word can be found he has no objection to change the word. Sir, it matters little when the police officer is bound to search in the presence of two or more respectable persons whether they may be of the locality or of the vicinity.

About section 167, the Mover complains that, when an accused is sent up before the magistrate for remand, the magistrate does not often record his statement and does not even see him. I entirely agree with the Honourable the Mover that, before an order of remand to the police custody is made, the magistrate ought to have the accused before him in person, and, if he so desires, with his pleader, to show or prove whether he deserves to remain in police custody or not, for the law does not presume a man to be guilty until he is proved guilty and so he ought not to suffer troubles before he is proved guilty. But to require the magistrate to give remand in Court only seems to me impracticable, for this means that the magistrate should not give remand in holidays even in cases of urgent necessity.

Sir, the amendment of section 205 is a formal one. Really it restricts the discretion of the magistrate to grant exemption from personal attendance or appearance only in cases where summonses have been issued in the first instance. Such instances often occur in which great difficulty arises by this restriction. So the magistrate should have his discretion in dispensing with the personal attendance of a particular accused in particular cases and, consequently, this section requires to be amended. As regards the amendment of section 386 of the Criminal Procedure Code, this is a question of imprisonment in default of payment of fine. Really the Mover of the Bill has suggested this with a noble object. The accused undergoes imprisonment in default of payment of fine, but even then the power of realising the fine is given to the magistrate and the fine is realised by the attachment of his moveable property and thus it is a double hardship to the accused. We should all realise this, but there will be one difficulty in the amendment that no compensation can be given to the aggrieved party. In many cases it so happens that the magistrate, while awarding the sentence of fine, also makes an order that out of the fine realised some portion is to be given to the other side by way of compensation. So the section can be amended, but for those cases only where no compensation is paid out of the fine. Sir, this section should be used as a means of putting pressure on the accused to pay the fine specially when he can pay, but does not deliberately pay the fine. The magistrate has to issue the warrant of attachment of the moveable property as soon as he passed orders of imprisonment in default of payment of fine. At least this is the practice on our side. Much of the purpose of the Mover can be served if the matter is really left to the entire discretion of the trying magistrate. With these words, I conclude what I have to say.

The Assembly then adjourned for Lunch till Half Past Two of the Clock.

The Assembly re-assembled after Lunch at Half Past Two of the Clock, Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) in the Chair.

Mr. Muhammad Azhar Ali (Lucknow and Fyzabad Divisions : Muhammadan Rural) : Sir, I rise to support Sardar Sant Singh's motion for the reference of this Bill to a Select Committee, my foremost reason being that this Bill has been brought into this House by a very experienced criminal lawyer of the Punjab and it has already been supported by other civil and criminal lawyers. This Bill, on the other hand, was not sent out to obtain opinions from the public or from the High Courts, and the Bar Associations. Thus I will be right if I say that the opinion of the non-official section of this House about this Bill, under these circumstances, ought to carry a great weight. Government on their side have also come out with certain objections and those objections are mostly by those official Members of the House who can claim to have some experience of the administration of the criminal law. Yet, their wish to administer the law as it is and to retain power in their hands is rather strange. Sir, the powers given by this Code which my Honourable friend, Sardar Sant Singh, wants to amend are undoubtedly such as are always considered by the official section as being very necessary for them. Their experience may be anything, yet to the Indian public those amendments are extremely necessary ; not only because they are harsh laws, but also, as at the present moment when we are entering into a new Constitution, the atmosphere ought to be very clear, and the status of Indians ought to be raised. I suppose also that these amendments, proposed by Sardar Sant Singh, are in accordance with jurisprudence, the spirit of the times, and the Treasury Benches ought to reconsider their position. When I go on with each section, they will, I hope, reconsider their position and will not oppose this Bill, because the official section has opposed it and, therefore, their experience alone should carry great weight with them. Sir, there is a criminal class with which my Honourable friend, Captain Lal Chand, seems somehow to be affiliated. Sir, I do not belong to this class nor do I think any official Member of this House belongs to such a class. Therefore, his obsession too should not come in the way of these amendments. Those ideas of old day justice ought to be removed from the minds of the present day Indian administration and Indian justice. India's claim for about hundred years for the separation of judicial and executive functions has been on the anvil, but it is a great pity and we are very sorry that it has not yet been taken in hand. If that great thing had been performed, I am sure these amendments would not have been necessary today. When I take the amendments of Sardar Sant Singh seriatim, I find that there is an amendment to clause (2) of section 30 and clause (3) of section 34 of the Criminal Procedure Code. Nobody would deny that the administration, as it is carried on in India by the help of the assessors or the jurors in the Sessions Court, is to a great extent satisfactory than those carried on by a single magistrate sitting as a single and sole authority. Section 30 does not provide anywhere that the magistrate would call the assessors or the jurors for his help. Therefore, this special privilege should either be extended to the District Magistrates or they should not have that authority under section 30 to carry on trials or deal with the cases unless with the help of the assessors ; otherwise on the face of it, the whole position appears to be absurd. Sections 30 and 31 are applicable not only to the

[Mr. Muhammad Azhar Ali.]

Punjab, but also to a very loyal province, namely, my own province of Oudh. It may be said, as Captain Lal Chand said, that there are criminal tribes on his side, but I assure you, Sir, that Oudh is not a criminal province and there are very few criminal cases which require the administration of sections 30 and 34. I know that in my province the number of Assistant Sessions Judges has also been increased and the work can now be entrusted to them for speedy action. Section 30 says :

"In territories respectively administered by the Lieutenant Governors of the Punjab and Burma and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh, the Central Provinces, Coorg and Assam, in Sind, and in those parts of the other provinces in which there are Deputy Commissioners or Assistant Commissioners, may, notwithstanding any thing contained in section 29 invest the District Magistrate or any magistrate of the first class, with power to try as a magistrate all offences not punishable with death."

When I read this section, my blood really boils. I do not see any reason why these provinces only have been dubbed as the most criminal provinces. The people of Madras, Bombay and other provinces may be highly cultured and highly civilized, but I stand here to protect my own rights and I would say that my province is as civilized as the other provinces are. When we have become a Governor's province, I do not see any reason why such serious laws should be administered in our province now. When I read the object of section 30, I find that it is to confer special powers on District Magistrates, only to shorten the proceedings of the trial by avoiding the commitment to the Sessions Court which sits only at considerable intervals. In my own province I find that though on certain occasions the Sessions Judges do go and try cases on their tours, there are also Assistant Sessions Judges and the Subordinate Judges who have been given powers of Assistant Sessions Judges, to try criminal cases. So the objection that cases are tried at considerable intervals cannot hold water. I think it is now very easy for these Assistant Sessions Judges to try these cases instead of sending them to District Magistrates or Special Magistrates.

Sir, the next amendment is to section 103. My friend, Sardar Sant Singh, in his Statement of Objects and Reasons and also in his speech before this House last time, explained that the great importance of this section lies in the words "respectability of the inhabitants of the locality" and not in the word "locality". Different High Courts have interpreted the word "locality" in different ways and the criterion of respectability is neglected. Therefore, I do not think I have much to say about it beyond saying that it is a very salutary amendment which Sardar Sant Singh has proposed and the House should carefully consider the suggestion.

Coming to section 167 (1), the amendment, Sir, is :

"after the words 'such magistrate' the words 'where he ordinarily holds his Court' shall be added."

This also is a matter which depends upon the great experience of a great lawyer. Great hardships were recounted on the floor of the House by my Honourable friend, Mr. Jadhav, which the accused suffers and that is the experience of every lawyer. It may not be the experience of the officials, because just as they are sitting in this House resting in their seats, they also do the same in Courts and they themselves have every facility when they go out on tour to try these cases. They can go to a village or a subdivision and they will be amply provided in their needs and comforts by the tahsildar. It is not even the lot of the poor lawyer whenever he goes out to plead the case of an accused, although the police also, when they go out into the interior of a district, have got those facilities. Therefore, I submit that the amendment proposed by my Honourable friend is a very salutary one and if we do not keep the words, "where he ordinarily holds his Court", then a magistrate can hold his Court at any place he chooses to the inconvenience of others. There is another amendment to this section at the end of clause 3, which says that the following words shall be inserted : "after hearing the accused or his counsel if the accused so desires". I ask the Official Benches, where is the harm in giving the accused a chance of explaining. Where is the harm if a magistrate hears the accused or his counsel on his behalf if there are good reasons. I suppose this is an inherent right of the accused and if there is any important thing to be decided against the accused, then he ought to be given a chance to be heard fairly and squarely. Therefore, this amendment too is a very salutary one. Next we come to section 205 which reads "whenever a magistrate issues a summons, he may, if he sees reasons so to do, dispense with the personal attendance of the accused, and permit him to appear by his pleader". My Honourable friend's motion is "the word 'whenever' and the words 'issues a summons' should be omitted". To every one it will appear to be a reasonable amendment. After the amendment, Sir, the section will read :

"A magistrate may, if he sees reasons so to do, dispense with the personal attendance of the accused, and permit him to appear by his pleader."

The object of clause 1, as amended, will be served by clause 2 if this motion is accepted. The Mover has also given one of the best reasons in his Statement of Objects and Reasons. He says :

"the Courts had to circumvent these provisions by adopting the procedure of first cancelling the warrants and then ordering the issue of the summons, in order to make the section to cover the case".

My only object in supporting the amendment is why give the magistrate a handle to circumvent certain things when you can give him a direct right to issue the summons or warrant. As the amendment is also a reasonable one, I hope the House will not withhold its support. Next we come to section 386 which empowers the issue of warrants for the levy of fines. What my Honourable friend's amendment proposes is that this double penalty should be removed. When I read Mitra's commentary on the Criminal Procedure Code, I find that in 1923, this very section was amended :

"Firstly, the main object of the amendment was, under the old law a fine could be recovered only by distress and sale of moveable property. Under the present law it can be recovered by sale of immoveable property also as is provided in clause (b) ; secondly, under the old law a fine could be recovered by distress and sale, even though the offender had undergone a full term of imprisonment in default of payment of fine. The present section ordinarily prohibits the recovery of fine in such cases and allows it only on special reasons."

What the Sardar's amendment wants is that we should delete the words "unless for special reasons to be recorded in writing it considers it necessary to do so". This is a very small amendment and, in view of the lines that I have just read that the present section ordinarily prohibits the recovery of fine in such cases and allows it only on special reasons, I do not see why special reasons should be mentioned when the Court can already prohibit the recovery of fine. Therefore, my submission is that all the amendments propsed by my Honourable friend, Sardar Sant Singh, should be adopted.

The Honourable Sir Bepin Behary Ghose (Law Member): (Applause.) Sir, I rise to oppose the motion. I regret that the first time I open my lips here I should have to oppose the motion of my Honourable and learned friend for whom I entertain great esteem. Sir, I am devoid of the gift of oratory ; I am not a ready or a practised speaker and although my friends having remembered all my years cheered me when I got up to address the House, it will not be my lot to command the applause of listening senates when they hear me out. I will, therefore, Sir, ask the indulgence of the House for my halting speech and for my want of command over language.

I find from the records, Sir, that you have ruled that we must speak shortly on the principles of the Bill. As many Honourable speakers before me have pointed out, it is very difficult to find the principle of the Bill in the several clauses which have been brought forward by the Mover in his Bill. But one learned and Honourable speaker has helped me to find out one principle at least with regard to clause 2. He said, why should these provinces,—and he particularly spoke of the Punjab,—be marked with a badge of inferiority under the provisions of section 30 of the Code ? And he also pleaded for uniformity. Now, Sir, I must protest against the opinion that any section of any law in the country could brand the Punjab with the mark of inferiority,—inferiority indeed ! Throughout the whole of India and probably beyond that, the Punjab has always been considered as the land of brave men,—and may I add,—of fair women. (Laughter.) I have had the privilege of the friendship of many gentlemen hailing from the Punjab in Calcutta, cultured men who have occupied the highest offices under Government, in medicine, in engineering, in the accounts department, and also commercial men of very high repute. I have known them and enjoyed their friendship ; and could any man say that those gentlemen and their ladies could not hold their own against any people of any country ? Therefore, Sir, I submit that the badge of inferiority is only an imagination in the minds of the Honourable gentlemen and also of the Mover, because he also used the word " inferiority " in his speech. That is a mistake. I have said, Sir, that the people of the Punjab have always been remarkable for their bravery, but bravery, if not softened by the humanitarian influences of education and culture, has its defects. Those who are cultured and educated are brave as well as humane. But in certain parts of the Punjab,—and I say this parenthetically because in the few months that I have been here it has been my duty to deal in the first instance with petitions for mercy,—to my regret I have noted that one strong word leads to an exchange of abusive expressions, and then one of them comes out with a dang, which probably means a lathi, or a chhabi which means a spear or a dagger and that is thrust into the anatomy of his opponent. Now, Sir, the Punjab, as Captain Lal Chand has said, is one of the pre-eminent provinces for this sort of bravery. A brave man does not care for his own life and he has very little care for the life or limb of a man whom he dislikes. One of the learned and Honourable Members yesterday spoke of the invasion of Bengal and of Calcutta by taxi drivers from the Punjab. Well, Sir, they are brave and, of course, many of them are Sikhs. They are very brave, but we poor timid Bengalis are afraid of their bravery (Laughter) and I for myself always tell my driver to avoid passing along or in front of a Sikh taxi or bus driver, because they would not hesitate for a moment for crashing into some other person or car or even a lamp post (Laughter) if they are supposed to be delayed. Sir, I would, therefore, point out to this House that there cannot be uniformity of treatment in that part of the Punjab where they stick a knife or spear into their opponents on the slightest provocation. And there is another province, the sister province of the Punjab, which was part of it, but has now been separated, the North-West Frontier Province. I have found within the few months of my experience as Member of Government here, that the North-West Frontier Province, the Punjab and Burma supply more crimes of violence than all other provinces put together. I may tell my Honourable friends that for about a fortnight I have not got anything from Burma. But from the North-West Frontier Province and the Punjab cases always flow in. Even this morning I had to deal with two cases from the Punjab where, on the very slightest provocation and for the slightest reasons, men have been murdered. Now, Sir, if there is no murder but loss of limb and grievous hurt and all that, why should not cases be decided by the magistrates when the issues are very simple ? Because in most cases I find there is no elaborate evidence. There is hardly any attempt to conceal facts and except a plea of alibi there is hardly any defence. These cases, I submit, may very well be disposed of by magistrates having special powers. Now, Sir, I am familiar with one place, more familiar I think than with other places, i.e., the Sonthal Parganas. I will tell you an instance, which was vouched for by a very reliable person, of a trial in the Sonthal Parganas. A friend of mine was in a civil case before a Deputy Commissioner in the Sonthal Parganas who had,—I do not know the state of affairs now,—the powers of a Subordinate Judge. That gentleman was sitting in Court when a Santhal was brought up before him on a charge of grievous hurt. When the charge was explained to him, he was asked what he had to say. In his broken Bengali he said : " Yes, I have done it, but that man there (pointing to a petition writer) asked me to say that I have not done it. But I would not speak a falsehood." The Deputy Commissioner awarded him some sentence, I forget what, may be three or four months. Would it have been a kindness to send him to distant Bhagalpur, which used to be the Sessions Court for the Sonthal Parganas in those days, where he would probably be in the lock up for months and months before his case could be taken up, and probably the same sentence or a higher sentence awarded ? My Honourable friend probably thinks that the Sessions Judges award lower sentences than magistrates with these special powers. My experience does not always accord with the view of my learned friend : if I drop the word " Honourable " now and then, I hope Members of the House will pardon me, because here we are all, all Honourable men.

3 P.M.

I may cite another instance from the experience I have of many years, longer than I care to remember, longer than I think of any gentleman in this House. People are brought up for petty offences who have previous convictions. In one part of Bengal—of course in the Chittagong hill tracts and the Sonthal Parganas which was part of Bengal, Magistrates and Deputy Commissioners were given this special power : but in other parts they have not. Now, a Magistrate sent up a case of a poor dhobi who was in the bad habit of stealing his customers' clothes. He had three or four previous convictions and the Magistrate thought that he should be given more than two years and sent up the case to the Sessions Court. What did the Sessions Judge do ? The dhobi was in hajat,—I do not know whether the word hajat is understood here : hajat means when an under-trial prisoner is kept in the lock up—we use it in Bengal and probably also in the United Provinces : as I was saying, he was in hajat for several months, because the Sessions Judge could not take up his case, and when the case was taken up, the accused was sentenced to transportation for life. These men are really a nuisance, but not a danger to society ; but the Sessions Judge sentenced him as above. I dare say, no Magistrate would have thought for a moment of awarding such a sentence. I submit, therefore, that the question of uniformity does not arise. This is a country of many cultures : there is the highly intellectual man ; there is the poor Santhal and Bhil and all those people who have not been sophisticated by the improving influences of civilisation to speak an untruth in a plausible way so as to tax the highest abilities of learned advocates in cross-examination. These people blurt out the truth : even if they tell something false at the very commencement at the teaching of prowlers about the Court—as I have given the instance of the Santhal—they always in the end speak the truth ; and would it be kind—I think it would be cruel kindness—to send these people to the Sessions Court, to which a Magistrate can send an accused person only after going through all the evidence, and writing a commitment order ? The Sessions Judges may not take up the case for months. As one of our friends, Captain Lal Chand, said, nine times the number of cases are disposed of by Magistrates under section 30 in his province than those disposed of by the Sessions Judge ; and you will have to increase the number of Sessions Judges by nine times if his idea is correct. The Honourable the Mover will probably say that it is better to undergo the expense than to have perfunctory justice. I submit that within a short time the Punjab will be autonomous and then my friends may pay as much taxes as they like in order to have nine times the number of Sessions Judges for dispensing justice with regard to people who are notoriously addicted to crimes of violence. My friend, Mr. Azhar Ali, has spoken about Oudh ; but probably he is under some mistake, because I find that in the United Provinces of Agra and Oudh section 30 of the Code is only applied to the Kumaon division—Garhwal, Almora and Naini Tal. I do not know whether my Honourable friend ever went to practise in Garhwal or Almora or even Naini Tal, and, therefore, I am afraid he cannot speak with first hand knowledge of how cases are tried by these magistrates. Garhwal, of course, is a place rather difficult of access : there are no Sessions Judges and it seems Sessions Judges are not required there ; there may be a few minor cases of violence and up to now I have not found any within the time I have been here : there are probably simple cases of simple hill tribes which may be decided without much elaboration, and, therefore, I submit that the House will consider whether it would be expedient or proper to take away the powers of the Local Government to invest magistrates with this special power under section 30. It is an enabling section ; no Local Government is bound to confer this power ; and if any particular magistrate does wrong and does not try cases properly, it lies with the gentleman whose knowledge is first-hand with regard to the misbehaviour of a particular magistrate to bring it to the notice of the authorities ; and I dare say, as each province has its Legislative Council and Ministers, the accusation of the gentleman who brings facts forward will be listened to. As a matter of fact, I find in the papers with me that instructions have been issued to the various Local Governments by the Government of India that only magistrates of experience, who have had at least been three years in the exercise of first class powers and who have been well spoken of, should be invested with this power.

[Sir Bepin Behary Ghose.]

The Honourable and Learned Mover has spoken of one fact, and it pains me to think if it is so. He stated that the High Court of the Punjab has made a rule that a magistrate should dispose of a certain number of cases within a certain time. I must say, Sir, that I cannot approve of any such rule, because one case may take five minutes, while another case may take five days. In the happy land from which we come, the High Court is not concerned with the magistrate's business. The executive Government probably looks to that. The High Court only looks to the work of the Civil Judges and Sessions Judges, and I know that in most cases the Sessions Judges do not find time to take up cases expeditiously, and for months and months cases lie undisposed of. Therefore, I submit that in certain cases and in certain areas where the number of crimes of violence is far in excess of other provinces, it is a salutary provision that the magistrates may be invested with this power. And, as I have said,—I do not want to repeat it at length—if any magistrate tries cases wrongly, that is a question, as has been said by other Honourable Members, which relates to the personnel. There are bad magistrates as well as bad Sessions Judges. Probably the Honourable the Mover has heard of cases or seen cases where the Sessions Judges are accused of moving their pen on paper to show as if they are taking down the cross-examination properly, but, as a matter of fact, they are doing nothing.....

An Honourable Member : Some of the magistrates also do the same thing.

The Honourable Sir Bepin Behary Ghose : Magistrates, of course, are said to be worse than Sessions Judges. The point is that committing cases to the Sessions Court may not always meet the remedy desired by my friend. In one case I may say, without irrelevancy, a Sessions Judge was accused of sleeping all the time when counsel was addressing the Court. There was a complaint before the High Court, and when the High Court asked for an explanation, the Sessions Judge said in answer : "As a matter of fact, I did not sleep ; the voice of the counsel was so harsh and raucous that it was impossible to sleep when he was addressing, but as counsel was repeating himself over and over again, I shut my eyes."

Now, Sir, as I have stated, in the province of Oudh, there is nothing like this power exercised by the Local Government. In Bihar and Orissa, the Local Government desire it for Hazaribagh, Palamau, Singhboom and the Sonthal Parganas. I have told the House about the Sonthal Parganas, and all those districts are inhabited by the same class of simple and lovable people. In Madras they want this power in the Agency Tracts only and nowhere else. Therefore, Sir, I think I have made my point clear as best I may that there cannot be any uniformity with regard to this provision. It is really an enabling provision which the Governments under their discretion may or may not exercise. One Honourable Member said that where the magistrate is disposing of cases under section 30, within a few steps there is the Sessions Judge—why should not the accused be taken from this Court to that ? Now, Sir, if cases were tried—as in the case of primitive people,—if the Sessions Judge sat under a tree dispensing justice without the formalities of this Code, the annotations of which by some editors have run into two big volumes, that might have been practicable. But, under the Criminal Procedure Code, before a Sessions Judge tries a case, the magistrate has to hear the whole evidence on behalf of the prosecution, then write out a commitment order and then send it to the Sessions Court. The Sessions Judge fixes the date of the hearing of the case having regard to the state of his file. All this takes months and months. It may be, Sir, very good to say as my learned friend, Mr. Navalrai, said, why should not the accused be taken from this Court to that. But it must have been said only to create an effect, and my friend knows much better than I do—my experience of Criminal Courts is very limited—that there must be a commitment order, and so forth. I do not think that it is at all necessary to say anything more on this clause.

[Sir Bepin Behary Ghose.]

Then, Sir, with regard to clauses 3, 4 and 5, they are consequential to clause 2. If the House thinks that it would not cause very great mischief, if the permissive powers under section 30 are retained on behalf of the Local Governments, then it is not necessary to speak about these clauses.

Next I come to clause 6. With regard to this clause, much has been said very forcibly by several Honourable Members. Not being well versed in the niceties of the meanings of words in the English language, I find very great difficulty in understanding the difference between the words "locality" and "vicinity". One Honourable Member on this side stated that locality is more circumscribed, and with great respect I should also think so, of course subject to correction by those friends of mine whose vernacular is English. If I say that Qutab Minar is in the vicinity of Delhi, I do not think that I should be very far wrong, and I suppose in a geography book if it is stated that Barrackpore is in the vicinity of Calcutta, although it is about 15 miles away, would that be wrong? Therefore, I submit, the word "locality" was advisedly used by the framers of the original Act. Now, Sir, it is certainly right and proper that people from the locality should be brought for making the searches. My Honourable friend has cited an instance from a Criminal Law Journal where some Judge held that locality means a place which may be far distant from the place where the searches was made. I confess I fight shy of these law journals. Although I am afraid of offending gentlemen who are concerned with law journals, either as reporters, or as proprietors or as editors, I must say that the great vice of these law journals is to pack up as many cases in their publications as possible. There is a race run amongst themselves about the number of cases to be reported. I have not read this particular case; I suppose it is better that I should not. Probably in that case the Judges had to decide as a question of fact whether the place from where the witnesses were brought, having regard to the special circumstances, came within the meaning of "locality". I do not know if that case was cited before a magistrate as an authority. I personally know that on questions of fact cases from law journals are cited—I can cite an instance. A case was reported in one of the law journals where it was said that on a moonlit night a man could be recognised from a certain distance. That case was cited before a judge as an authority for the proposition that on a moonlit night a man can be recognised at a distance of 50 yards or so. I, therefore, submit that if a law journal is cited to the effect that it is a question of law that the "locality" is at a distance, that page should be torn out from the book.

There is another thing which I may say, but I am afraid I am taking more time of the House than I thought. I was going to say, if the object of the Honourable the Mover is to get witnesses from the immediate neighbourhood, there may often be very great difficulties. As Captain Lal Chand has said, in various parts of the country there are hamlets which are apart from the main village in which people of a certain class reside; it may be half a mile or a mile distant.

Suppose there is a dacoity and the police think that one of the houses should be searched. All these men of the hamlets are tied to one another by bonds of interest or relationship or friendship; or it may be that they were participators in the dacoity. Is it possible for the police to get any of them from the near neighbourhood to be search witnesses who would speak the truth? I know it may be said that police sometimes plant things. But what are the lawyers for? What are these eminent gentlemen whom I see here for, if they cannot turn the police officers inside out in the witness box and compel them to admit that the thing was not found there? Of course, criminal lawyers, who always appear for the defence, have their own views. They think that every accused person they get out of the clutches of the law adds a feather to their cap, and briefs flow from all criminals from all parts of the country to them. But there is the question of justice. The peaceful inhabitants also require protection. If my Honourable friend, Sardar Sant Singh's house is burgled or if robbers come and rob him, as it happened the other day, in the heart of the city of Delhi, would he be satisfied if in making a search of the house of the criminal suspected to have stolen the goods, the police take a near neighbour, who has himself probably hidden some of the articles, to make a search, and the witness says in Court that the articles were not found there? Would my friend be satisfied because of the law that the search witnesses must be from the immediate neighbourhood? I, therefore, submit with great respect that this also should be rejected by the House.

Then comes the other thing: "No evidence other than the list drawn up in accordance with the provisions....." That, I submit, is also inadvisable, because there must be evidence of identity of goods. The owner must have to say: "These are the things which belonged to me". As I have said with regard to the previous provision, the cause of justice must be protected and if you shut out evidence which is relevant and which may lead to the discovery of the criminal, I think, for the peaceful public, it would be a calamity.

Then comes clause 7. The inexpediency of this provision has been pointed out by Members whose experience has been that of magistrates. It may be asked, what is the harm if the culprit is taken to the magistrate's house at a time when he was not sitting in Court. The law provides that the accused must be produced before the magistrate. In another capacity I know that application for bail had come to me when I was in my bath, as it was a holiday. I had to do this sort of work more than once and others like me had to do this. I do not think there is any harm in that. But if the magistrate shirks his work or acts illegally, is it the fault of the law, or the fault of the man? I do not think, therefore, that there is any charm in saying that the man must go to the Court, sit there in all his glory, probably at a time when the Court has dissolved and there is nobody there. However, Sir, I submit that there is no harm if the accused is taken to the magistrate's house. The Sardar Sahib has stated that sometimes the magistrate does not care for the accused being brought before him. That would be a serious breach of the law, because the section provides that the accused should be brought before him. Now, if there is a dishonest magistrate, the law should not be changed, but the dishonest magistrate should be chucked out. Then, as to the net proposal, any magistrate worth his salt would not refuse to hear the accused or his counsel. So far as my experience goes, I think they hear him, but seldom listen to his prayer. That is another thing. But what would be the effect of this addition if the magistrate says " Oh, stop, that is sufficient " ? Therefore, I submit, it is useless to add clause after clause to an old Procedure Code which has been in existence for years and years. If magistrates do such wrong things, as stated, they should be set right.

With regard to clause 8, my learned friend himself pointed out, it is useless. I submit, if a magistrate issues a warrant in a case which is not a warrant case, he has the inherent right of recalling the warrant and issuing a summons as soon as it is pointed out to him that he has issued a warrant where it ought not to have been issued. Why should he not recall it and issue summons ? In warrant cases discretion has not been allowed to the magistrate. Probably the legislators of those days thought that they should not trust the magistrates. I hope my friend, the Sardar Sahib, will excuse me for saying this, if he is accused of an offence for which a warrant should be issued....

Mr. Amar Nath Dutt (Burdwan Division : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : He was once.

The Honourable Sir Bepin Behary Ghose : I think there will be no magistrate in his province who would not desire to dispense with his personal appearance because of his position. He is a leading practitioner in the Courts and they would do so, but the Legislature thought that this privilege should not be allowed to people who have been accused of an offence for which a warrant has to be issued. I submit, therefore, the very power which is inherent in every Court to correct mistakes would always be exercised by the magistrates, if they issue a warrant under misapprehension, but if they issue a warrant rightly, I should think that the personal attendance should not be dispensed with. There are often cases in which the accused is very rich and has been accused of a grave offence. Now, if the magistrate, after issuing a warrant, because of the wealth of the accused dispenses with his personal attendance, I for one, as a peaceful inhabitant of the country, would object.

I now come to clause 9. Here I must say that my Honourable friends, who have spoken in support of the motion, have actually gone wrong. Under section 70 of the Penal Code, the Court is empowered to sentence an accused person in a fit case to imprisonment in addition to a fine. Out of the fine it is sometimes necessary to allow compensation to the complainant. One very bad case was cited in this House by Mr. Seaman. There a girl was molested and the accused was sentenced to imprisonment in addition to fine and compensation was awarded to the complainant. That man elected to serve the term of imprisonment although he had money. Would it be wrong in such a case to get money out of that person ? A special reason has to be cited by the magistrate in such a case. If my friend, the landlord's representative here, has a troublesome tenant who would not pay up the rents, what does he do ? He sends an elephant to break up the house of the tenant.

Mr. D. K. Lahiri Chaudhury (Bengal : Landholders) : I contradict that statement.

The Honourable Sir Bepin Behary Ghose : My friend may not do it. His gumasta or agent may do it, and suppose he is sentenced to imprisonment as well as payment of the fine. The magistrate knows that the fine will be paid by the master. If the man does not pay and works out his term of imprisonment and the tenant's house has been damaged, then what happens ? My friend, the Kumar, probably lives in a primitive place. I may suppose his people exercise this power more frequently than does my friend, Mr. Lahiri Chaudhury.

Kumar G. R. Roy (Surma Valley cum Shillong : Non-Muhammadan) : Not at all. Those days are over.

The Honourable Sir Bepin Behary Ghose : My friends will excuse me, I state as hypothetical cases. I submit this is a salutary provision. My Honourable friend, the Mover, speaks of the poor man being oppressed, but the accused is not always poor and the complainant may be poorer than his prospective clients. The complainant is entitled to some consideration in some cases and if the accused chooses to serve his term of imprisonment instead of paying the fine, although rich enough to do so, on account of spite, the magistrate should always have the power to realise the fine to award compensation which would go to the benefit of the complainant. When another Honourable friend said that the person's lota or his thali is being attached time after time, there must be some special reasons which the magistrate gave. There must be some special reasons, otherwise the magistrate has got no power. I submit, therefore, that the House should not accept even this amendment. I will not take much more time of the House. As I said, I am not a practised speaker and, therefore, I want the indulgence of the House. I am sorry if I have offended any Honourable Member by taking the time of the House. (Honourable Members : " Not at all.")

With regard to the 10th clause, I have nothing further to add except this that if any magistrate has instituted the proceedings under section 107 or 110, would he hear the appeal himself ? I cannot possibly think that there would be such a man as that. As one of the speakers on the previous occasion pointed out, in every town now there are Sub-Divisional Magistrates and they initiate proceedings and the appeal goes to the District Magistrate. If the Sessions Judge were to be drowned with appeals for these trivial things, his Court will be hampered in the disposal of his more important cases.

Then, Sir, there is a small provision in section 111. It is to give a right of appeal in every trivial case. Now, I would ask the Honourable the Mover if there is any use in prolonging the agony. It may be that a rich man may go up to the Privy Council as it recently happened when a person was awarded a short sentence of simple imprisonment. He went up to the Privy Council to appeal. Of course, his counsel got a considerable fee for his pleasure trip, as my friends on the other side said on another occasion.

Mr. S. C. Sen (Bengal National Chamber of Commerce : Indian Commerce) : In this case too there was a pleasure trip.

The Honourable Sir Bepin Behary Ghose : That is what I say. There was a pleasure trip and my friend, Mr. Sen, knows the instance. Therefore, I submit that it is useless to give the right of appeal in every small case. Where there is a wrong thing done by the magistrate, there is a power of revision. I remember a case in which a magistrate fined a person Rs. 10 for cutting off the tail of the cow, because it had entered the shed of his cows and eaten their fodder. So he took a dah and cut off the tail of the offending cow. The owner of the cow prosecuted him and the magistrate sentenced him to a fine of Rs. 10. He went up to the District Judge who referred the case to the High Court. There is ample opportunity for setting matters right. I submit, therefore, it is no use giving the right of appeal in trivial cases. If I have taken more time of the House than I should I apologize. (Applause.)

Sardar Sant Singh : Sir, I must confess that I have listened with great interest the maiden speech of the Honourable the Law Member which was very interesting as well as humorous.

[At this stage Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) vacated the Chair which was occupied by Mr. Deputy President (Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury).]

The way in which he started disclaiming any title to rhetoric or eloquence gave greater zest to the speech as it proceeded from clause to clause. I must also congratulate my friend, Mr. Cox, on his interesting maiden speech. At the same time, I regret that the speeches of those gentlemen who adorn the Treasury Benches have not convinced me that they are on the right. My effort to introduce reform in the current criminal procedure of the land, according to my own lights, no doubt, was not actuated by any motive which has been assigned to me by the nominated officials and non-official Members. I would presently discuss purely from the jurist's point of view and show that my amendments are in consonance with the principles of British jurisprudence taught to me in the Law College and which principles have been a guiding light to me in my career at the Bar. One Honourable Member claimed experience extending over 31 years as District Magistrate and other higher positions. But I may as well humbly submit that I too have been practising at the Bar from the 1st July, 1908, up till now. I do not want to lay any claim to anything, but I do want to submit for the consideration of this House that my practice has neither been mean nor of a routine kind. I have kept my eyes and ears open. I have studied the magistrates and I have studied the members of the Bar and have been closely watching the working of the Criminal Procedure Code. When I was elected to this House, I was persuaded to place before the Honourbale Members certain defects in the criminal procedure of the land.

Sir, dealing with the merits of my Bill, I submit that certain objections have been raised to its provisions. The first of these objections is that there is no common principle running throughout the various clauses of the Bill. I may point out at the outset that this Bill claims to amend a procedure Bill and there can be no principle in the procedure Bill. Such a Bill can only be confined to the process of litigation and what course litigation is to run. It does not deal with substantive rights or wrongs, it only deals with the process that leads to the enforcement of those rights or the dispensation of justice as the jurisprudence calls it. How can you expect a uniform principle to run through the various clauses of the Bill ? If there is any principle that runs throughout the Bill, it is that the process of litigation, the process by which rights are enforced or crimes punished and justice administered, should be the same and based on the same principles which find a place in the British jurisprudence after the experience and wisdom of ages. The different provisions dealing with different methods must contain a principle, each clause is a principle in itself and that is the principle of the whole Bill. Therefore, I have no apology to offer that the Bill does not contain a uniform principle throughout all the clauses.

The second objection is that it betrays distrust of the police and of the judiciary. Really I have not been able to follow Honourable Members who come forward with such an argument, because, to me, it is an elementary principle of British jurisprudence and the preliminary chapters of a text on jurisprudence will tell you the distinction between Courts of law and Courts of justice. No civilised Government at this time of the day claims that Courts of law are Courts of justice. The fact is that the law takes the place of individual discretion and places in the forefront of jurisprudence the accumulated wisdom of the Legislature in preference to the wisdom of the individual person who happens to preside over the Court at a particular time. I will strengthen my argument by reading out from the book of jurisprudence of Sir John Salmond under the heading " Justice according to Law ", where the whole subject has been thoroughly discussed :

" For this reason we require in great part to exclude judicial discretion by a body of inflexible law. For this reason it is that in no civilised community do the judges and magistrates, to whom is entrusted the duty of maintaining justice, exercise with a free hand the viri boni arbitrium. The more complex our civilisation becomes, the more needful is its regulation by law, and the less practicable the alternative method of judicial procedure."

If the Honourable Members would take the trouble of reading this Chapter, they will find that the one principle which has been emphasized by the learned jurist is that individual discretion is a dangerous thing and it must be regulated by legislative rules and laws. When we come to enact a certain provision in order to restrict individual discretion and replace it by the discretion that has been laid down in the form of rigid law, we do not distrust the magistrate, we do not distrust the judiciary, but rather we assist such public officers. We bring to their notice the accumulated wisdom of the legislatures and ask them to prefer it to their individual common sense and wisdom. Apart from whatever opinion I may hold about the administration of justice by weak or timid judges, I may submit that whenever a certain measure is introduced in the legislature, with a view to checking the individual discretion, it does not betray any distrust in the magistracy. I think I have made this point clear. Therefore, the objection that my Bill betrays a distrust of the magistrates is absolutely unfounded. Every restriction that you place in the exercise of a right and in the methods in which that discretion is to be exercised would not be a distrust of the magistrate. Let there be no misunderstanding on this point and let nobody be frightened that I am casting a slur upon the body of public men who are charged with the administration of justice. If I am doing anything, I am trying to help the administration in making their place permanent in this land by administering real justice and by creating confidence in the administration of justice than I am trying to destroy that confidence. Therefore, this portion of the objection I do not take seriously.

[Sardar Sant Singh.]

I will now deal with the merits of the Bill as I have tried to place before the House. The first point which my Bill aims at reforming is to make the law uniform for the whole of India by repealing section 30, Criminal Procedure Code, and incidental amendments of sections that follow later on. It has been pointed out by those Honourable Members who sit on this side of the House that it is an anomaly in these days to have magistrates with enhanced powers where they can punish a man to a long term imprisonment with probably not a qualification enough to administer that justice. We say the highest Court should be charged with dealing with those crimes where the crimes are grave or the justice demands that more calm and cool consideration should be given to the examination of the case as it is brought before them. The Honourable the Law Member has started by paying a tribute to the Punjab, that they were a brave people. He was giving by the right hand which, soon after, he took away by the left. Probably the left never knew what the right was giving. At one time he eulogised the bravery of the Punjabis and at the same time condemned them as violent criminals.

The Honourable Sir Bepin Behary Ghose : If not tempered by the humanitarian influence of education.

Sardar Sant Singh : I bow to the experience and wisdom of the Honourable Member and, I say, whether it is tempered by humanitarian conditions or not, the fact remains that the Punjabis do stand in need of being done justice in the same way as the Bengali does. If my Honourable friend wants for Bengal that justice should be administered by the highest tribunals, why he should grudge the same right to the Punjab is incomprehensible to me. I will certainly bow to my Honourable friend if he comes forward with the provision for deleting all those clauses where trial by jury is claimed by non-Indian subjects living in this land. Why do they attach so much importance to jury trial and trial by judges of a particular status ? It is a right which every individual has inherent in himself that justice shall be done to him in accordance with law. When I say that section 30 magistrates have multiplied like mushrooms in the Punjab, I mean that I have a genuine grievance. If any Honourable Member of Government, who has not come in contact with the system of justice as actually administered, is prepared to and visit incognito the Court of a section 30 magistrate, he will be able to judge for himself what justice is administered there. He will come out of the Court room with only one opinion that it is more of a fish market or a vegetable market than a Court of justice. I remember, that Mr. Ramsay Macdonald visited the Court of a section 30 magistrate at Delhi and he sent a chit probably to some higher authority that he had visited a fish market and not a Court of justice. I challenge any gentleman who may come with me to these Courts to say that justice is administered there. If I am permitted to draw the picture of a so-called Court of justice, I will paint it like this. You see a magistrate sitting in the middle of a table : on his right sits his reader and on his left his stenographer with a typewriter in front of him. The witness stands in the front making what is, in most cases, a tutored version. The Public Prosecutor, with a posse of Police Officers behind him, goes on dictating what he thinks. The witness is deposing and the defence counsel continues disputing the correctness of the facts as dictated. The magistrate meanwhile is busy signing a bundle of papers brought to him by a chaprasi. The Reader is busy making a bargain with a poor litigant. Yet everybody believes that justice is being administered. It is very easy to sit here in arm chairs and say that justice is administered. We are asked, Sir, always to respect the judgments of the judicial tribunals. I quite concede that no administration can run for a single moment unless it respects the judgments of its Courts. That is one of the fundamental and essential conditions of civilised administration. But, at the same time, is it not the duty of the administrator to see that more powers are not given to an undeserving judiciary ? My Honourable friend, the Law Member, says that a circular has been issued to all Local Governments by the Government of India that powers should be given after three years' experience at the Bench as first class magistrates. But if you appoint committees of inquiry to look into the judgments of so-called first class magistrates,—committees manned by British jurists who are not imbued with any political bias to examine these judgments, I am sure, such a committee is sure to recommend that most of the present day magistrates should be deprived of their powers than be given enhanced powers. In the Punjab, I have seen during the last two years that new I. C. S. gentlemen, with only a couple of year's training, have been appointed as Sessions Judges. How can they be expected to administer justice in accordance with law ? It is the lawyers alone who know how difficult it is to understand and weigh the facts of a particular case. My friend has got experience, and I appeal to that experience when I say, can you possibly expect a new gentleman, however eminent he may be in intellectual training, coming fresh from college and fresh from a foreign country to rightly judge the conditions in this country ? Can my Honourable friend deny that posts of Sessions Judges and Additional Sessions Judges have been given to fresh youngsters coming out from college ? They do not know what the difference between relevant and irrelevant fact is. I remember I was once cross-examining a witness and the judge said that it was an unnecessary question. I told the judge that I had read the whole of the Evidence Act and I know of relevant and irrelevant questions, but I had never come across the phrase " unnecessary question ". Either he should overrule me on the ground that it is an irrelevant question or allow me to go on as I am the best judge of my client's interests to decide whether it is a necessary question or not. Once a Sessions Judge asked me why I was lengthy in my cross-examination. I told him that I was lengthy, because I could gain a point in favour of my client only when I could successfully outwit the Court, the prosecutor and the witness. If any one of them comes to know what point I am leading to, he will warn the witness to be careful on that point. If the Court sits as a partisan for the prosecution, if the prosecutor does not hesitate to tell the witness in the witness box that he should reply in a particular manner, which in legal language will mean that he encourages him in perjury, the defence counsel cannot but be lengthy in his cross-examination, and circumventing the whole situation before he can be able to gain a point which may help his client. So my submission is that section 30 powers are powers which can only be exercised by eminent judges. They should be fully conversant with legal principles so that they may be able to do justice. How many judges, among those who sit on the benches, are imbued with this idea that justice is to be administered according to law and not according to something which they consider to be justice and which they call substantial or moral justice ?

4 P.M.

[Sardar Sant Singh.]

Our judges today say that they do substantial justice between man and man. I say, you have no power to sit as preachers and priests and reformers. You are given a certain code of law and you must administer that law according to the directions given in the law itself. But they never care ; the District Magistrates encourage them in their wrong notions of their duty. The police openly asserts that in a particular case the man is guilty though they have brought forward false evidence to prove his guilt. The only illuminating judgment that I had the good fortune to read was a judgment of the Allahabad High Court, recently delivered by Mr. Justice Young. That judgment really lays down the true principles as to how justice should be administered. He says, in the course of a judgment and I quote it from memory, that the time has come when the Courts should convict people more of perjury than of crimes which some have committed. These illuminating and noble ideas are at times found in the judicial reports. I wish that it should be a common thing and not an exceptional thing in India. Therefore, I say that section 30 magistrates must cease.

The second ground on which objection is taken is that it will involve the State in heavy expenditure.

Mr. S. C. Mitra (Chittagong and Rajshahi Divisions : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Do you want this for the Punjab only or for the hill tracts also ? Do you demand it for all ?

Sardar Sant Singh : I demand it for all: I make no exception. I think the poorest man is entitled to justice according to law and not according to the fancies and whims of a particular magistrate. A particular magistrate may do substantial justice, but no civilised Government today can afford to permit administration of justice according to any standard but of law. Everybody is entitled to be governed by a uniform system of law.

Now I come to the second objection that the repeal of section 30, Code of Criminal Procedure, will involve the administration in great expense. My first reply to this argument is that if the same expense can be incurred in Bengal, why should it not be incurred in the Punjab ? But I do not rest my argument alone on this.....

The Honourable Sir Bepin Behary Ghose : Bengal is an insolvent province : probably my Honourable friend does not know it.

Sardar Sant Singh : The second point will clear the idea and that is that the most fundamental and essential function of the State consists in two activities—to defend the country against foreign invasion, and to maintain pure the administration of justice in the country itself. Those are the fundamentals that every jurist has given. A Government can call itself a civilised Government if it administers justice amongst its various peoples. If the State is not prepared to incur expenditure for maintaining justice and for maintaining law and order in the country, that State need not exist. Therefore, I will submit that the expenditure or cost should have no consideration where the question of administration of justice comes in, where the proposition is that people should have full confidence in the administration of justice of these Courts. You can curtail your activities in other respects ; but you cannot afford to curtail your activities in the administration of justice. Therefore, this is no plea. The Honourable Captain Lal Chand says that nine times the number of cases are disposed of by section 30 magistrate than are disposed of by Sessons Judges—it may be nine times or nine hundred times, I do not care. I claim that every one individual has inherent right that justice should be administered to him in accordance with law. The one well known principle of jurisprudence is that every man should be regarded as innocent until he is proved to be guilty and the other principle is that let 99 guilty men escape, but one innocent should not be punished. The British jurists did not lay down such strict and fundamental principles and conceptions for the mere pleasure of laying down something which excites admiration but they meant them to be followed in administering justice. I wonder how the argument can be advanced that it will involve the State in extra expenditure. Therefore, this position that, by repealing this particular section, a particular province will have to spend more on the administration of justice, does not hold any water.

[At this stage, Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) resumed the Chair.]

The third point in this connection is that the accused shall have to wait for the disposal of a particular case, because Sessions Judges are preoccupied. It might be so. After all, to be tried in a manner which convinces the accused that justice has been done to him, which convinces the public that justice has been done to the accused, is more valuable than a few days or hours in the judicial lock-up. Therefore, on this point, the case for the repeal of this section has been clearly made out.

Coming to the other amendments, the first one is about section 103. As I explained in my speech at the time when I moved that this Bill be referred to a Select Committee, I pointed out that I am not wedded to the word "vicinity" at all : the word "neighbourhood" might be used.....

Hony. Captain Rao Bahadur Chaudhri Lal Chand : Or brotherhood !

Sardar Sant Singh : At the same time I made myself very clear. I want that there should be no fabrication of evidence. I never said that I want that the criminal should go free if he has committed a crime. I never advanced that proposition. I never said that, where a person is guilty, he should not be punished. What I said was that he should be punished in accordance with law and on evidence which is not perjured or fabricated. I do not think anybody can take exception to this. I quoted the commentators of section 103 where it was said that the real object of this section is that evidence or incriminating articles should not be planted and that there should be genuine discovery. That is my position. What objection can there be on principle to this point ? Today what happens ? A sub-inspector of police.....

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Honourable Member cannot attempt to traverse the whole ground again in detail in replying. No doubt the Honourable the Mover of a motion has got the right of reply, but he must exercise it judiciously.

Sardar Sant Singh : I have to meet the arguments advanced by the other side.....

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Honourable Member realises that the House is already handicapped in discussing this motion. There is no particular principle discoverable in the Bill, and, therefore, the Chair said it was very difficult to control the discussion. Especially in his reply the Honourable Member will be well advised just to touch upon the main grounds and not to go into so many details and attempt to cite detailed illustrations in support of them.

Sardar Sant Singh : All right, Sir. I will keep this before my mind. Similarly I may quote in this instance a recent judgment of Mr. Justice Agha Hyder Khan where he disbelieved the evidence of discovery, simply because it was supported by lambardars and zaildars. My main principle is that some way should be discovered by which real truthful evidence will be brought to bear in order to prove the guilt of the accused.

Coming next to section 167, it has been objected that no particular value attaches to the remand being given in Court and not in the house itself. My submission is that what is done today in remand cases is a game of hide and seek. Accused's counsel wants to know why the accused is being detained and what evidence there is so far in the possession of the police ; but the police think that they should find out a way in which the accused's counsel should never know where the accused is going to be produced. This game of hide and seek must be ended. Let us do justice, and justice according to the law. This legal provision should be observed in spirit as well as in letter. That is my point. There is no other point in this.

Coming to the next section 205, it has been agreed that the law, as it stands, is defective ; but it is said that judges find no difficulty in administering it. I only say that the letter of the law may be brought in conformity with the spirit. Here I find myself between two fires ; first of all I was charged with betraying distrust of the magistracy ; and now when I want to raise the dignity of the Court and raise the confidence in the magistrates and plead for more powers to the magistrates, I am charged that this is a trivial matter. However, there is no reason, why should not the law be what the practice is ? It should be the same.

Next comes the amendment of section 386. Here, again, the Honourable the Law Member has charged me with overlooking two kinds of cases. In some cases justice requires that compensation should be given to the aggrieved party, in some cases justice demands that the accused should be punished with fine. I quite concede this. There are cases when grant of compensation to the aggrieved person is in the interest of justice and there are cases when justice demands infliction of fine. I do not deny that ; they are sometimes most necessary. What I say is, we must consider how the same end may be achieved, what is the process by which the compensation should be made effective and the fine should be realised. If you know that a particular person can pay the fine straightaway, issue a warrant, use the forces of the State to realise the fine—I don't say no to it. Let that provision be there, but if you once decide to send him to jail in default of payment of fine and if he has undergone the punishment in default of the fine, then do not punish him doubly, because double punishment for a single offence is not just. It is a well established proposition that a man who has undergone a sentence for an offence is no longer an offender, he has expiated the crime by undergoing the sentence ; but, in this case the crime follows him like a shadow ; it does not leave him. That is my grievance : therefore, I say, there should be no double punishment.

Next comes the question of forum of appeals in the security case, whether they should be made to the District Magistrates or not. I have already given my reasons in my speech and I do not want to enlarge upon them. This, again, is a distinctive treatment given to the Punjab, and it does not exist in several other provinces. If appeals are heard in Bengal by Sessions Judges, why should it not be so in the Punjab ? After all, there is one Central Government for the whole country, and there should be uniformity in law. It will tend to create greater confidence in the administration of law.

Lastly come a few sections whether right of appeal should be given. I have fully explained this in my Statement of Objects and Reasons. I do not want there should be any anomaly in the administration of justice. A Sessions Judge can remit a fine without limit, but in cases where the fine is less than Rs. 50 and he is of opinion that the conviction is not justified, he must recommend remission of fine to the High Court. This certainly wastes the time of the Courts. Therefore, I appeal to Honourable Members of this House that this Bill is a step forward in the reformation of our legal procedure and they should vote with me in referring it to the Select Committee I have proposed.

Sir, before I close, I wish to say only one word, that in this motion the name of Mr. D. G. Mitchell appears as one of the members of the Select Committee. He is no longer a Member of this House, and, therefore, Sir, with your permission, I want to propose that the name of the Honourable Sir Lancelot Graham be substituted for it.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The Chair would first ask the consent of the House whether it agrees to substitute the name of Sir Lancelot Graham in place of Mr. D. G. Mitchell.

The question is :

"That the name of Sir Lancelot Graham be substituted for that of Mr. D. G. Mitchell."

The motion was adopted.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

"That the Bill further to amend the Code of Criminal Procedure, 1898, be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Honourable Sir Harry Haig, Sir Hari Singh Gour, Mr. S. C. Mitra, Rao Bahadur B. L. Patil, Mr. Lalchand Navalrai, Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury, Mian Muhammad Shah Nawaz, Mr. B. R. Puri, Sir Abdur Rahim, Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh, Sir Lancelot Graham, Rao Bahadur S. THE INDIAN COASTAL TRAFFIC (RESERVATION) BILL.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav (Bombay Central Division : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Sir, I beg to move :

"That the Bill to reserve the Coastal Traffic of India to Indian Vessels be continued."

This Bill was introduced in the Assembly and a motion for referring it to a Select Committee was tabled on two occasions, but it could not be moved and, according to the Standing Orders, it has lapsed. I, therefore, make this motion that the House may give me permission to continue the Bill. It is a very important measure in the interests of the country and I, therefore, request that permission may be granted.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

"That the Bill to reserve the Coastal Traffic of India to Indian Vessels be continued."

The motion was adopted.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh (Muzaffarpur cum Champaran : Non-Muhammadan) : As all the opinions on this Bill have not yet been received, I do not want to make the motion* today.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh (Muzaffarpur cum Champaran : Non-Muhammadan) : I do not want to make the motion† today.

THE HINDU WIDOWS' RIGHT OF MAINTENANCE BILL.

Diwan Bahadur Harbilas Sarda (Ajmer-Merwara : General) : Sir, I move :

"That the Bill to fix the amount of maintenance to which Hindu widows are entitled, be referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Honourable the Law Member, the Honourable Sir Harry Haig, Sir Hari Singh Gour, Sir Abdur Rahim, Mr. C. S. Ranga Iyer, Pandit Ram Krishna Jha, Mr. Muhammad Yamin Khan, Mr. N. M. Joshi, Mr. A. Das, Mr. S. C. Mitra, Mr. B. R. Puri and the Mover, with instructions to report by the 25th January, 1934, and that the number of members whose presence shall be necessary to constitute a meeting of the Committee shall be five."

In commending this motion to the favourable consideration of the House, I only wish to say that the object of this Bill is only to ameliorate the lot of the widows. With that object I introduced, in 1929, a Bill which was called the Hindu Widows' Right of Inheritance Bill. That Bill proposed to give a share to the Hindu widows in the family and personal properties of their deceased husbands. That Bill did not commend itself to the acceptance of this House, because the Honourable the Law Member, who is the keeper of the legal conscience of the Government of India, opposed it and said that the provision to give the widows a share in property cuts across the Hindu law of inheritance ; the Hindu law of inheritance is to him sacrosanct.

*"That the Bill to provide for the protection of the names 'Khaddar' and 'Khadi' used as trade descriptions of cloth spun and woven by hand in India, be taken into consideration."

†"That the Bill to abolish the punishment of death for offences under the Indian Penal Code be circulated for the purpose of eliciting opinion thereon."

[Diwan Bahadur Harbilas Sarda.]

Convinced that no Bill would be able to pass this Assembly at the present time, unless it has either the support of the Government or it is able to persuade Government to adopt towards it an attitude of benevolent neutrality, I approached the Law Member and asked him to suggest to me lines on which a Bill should be drawn up, which would aim at ameliorating the lot of the widows and yet be acceptable or at least not unacceptable to the Government of India. He kindly gave me certain suggestions and put them in writing. On those suggestions I have drawn up this Bill, and the provisions of this Bill strictly follow those suggestions. I have not swerved an inch either this way or that.

The principle of the Bill is not a new one. The Hindu Law gives the Hindu widow a right of maintenance and this Bill does nothing more than set up a standard for the purpose.

The Hindu Widows' Right of Inheritance Bill was widely circulated and opinions were received. They were circulated to Members. There was a consensus of opinion with regard to the fact that the lot of Hindu widows was very unsatisfactory and in some cases deplorable, considering that they inherit nothing either from their paternal estate or from their deceased husbands' property. In some quarters, however, an objection was raised that no right of inheritance, that is a share in property, should be given to the widows. This Bill, which I am asking the House to consider favourably, does not give any share in property to the widow. That was the chief objection raised by some people when that Bill was circulated. That objection too now disappears and, therefore, it is quite unnecessary to circulate this Bill.

Even such an orthodox gentleman as my Honourable friend, Pandit Ram Krishna Jha, has introduced a Bill with the same object and with nearly the same provisions as this Bill. Therefore, there can be no objection to referring it to a Select Committee. By circulating it we will only be delaying taking even the first step in doing justice to a very deserving and helpless class of women.

There is no standard at present to guide judges in fixing the amount of maintenance. This Bill only furnishes a standard for that purpose. As I have said, it does not cut across the law of inheritance and, as it fully conforms to the views expressed when public opinion was taken on the former Bill, I appeal to the Honourable Members that they will consider my motion favourably and refer it to a Select Committee. With these words, I commend my motion to the consideration of this August House.

The Assembly then adjourned till Quarter Past Twelve on Wednesday, the 30th August, 1933.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Wednesday, 30th August, 1933.

ADDRESS BY HIS EXCELLENCY THE VICEROY TO THE MEMBERS OF THE COUNCIL OF STATE AND THE LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

His Excellency the Viceroy : Gentlemen, it is a great pleasure to meet you, the Members of the Indian Legislature, once again and to welcome you to the labours of another Session. May I in the first place congratulate both my old friends, Sir Maneckji Dadabhoy and Sir Shanmukham Chetty, upon their elevation to the very important offices which they now occupy, as this is the first occasion upon which I have addressed you since their election as Presidents of the Council of State and Legislative Assembly, respectively. I offer them both my best wishes in the execution of their functions and responsibilities.

It is now my duty to give you an account of current affairs since last we met in Delhi, and, in doing so, it will not be necessary for me to keep you from your Parliamentary labours for so great a length of time as I have done on previous occasions, for I am glad to say that I think I can fairly claim that general conditions in India today are more satisfactory in many ways than they have been for a considerable period, and consequently there are fewer matters of a controversial nature for me to bring to your notice. And I should like very sincerely to thank you for your share in bringing this about, not only by the sound and steady judgment which you have generally shown in the debates which have taken place in both Houses, but also by your votes on the many important matters which have come before you. Criticism there certainly has been—criticism there should be—fair criticism is of value to any Government and, I am sure, I can rely on my Government receiving from you that same fair and helpful criticism during the present Session as they have received in the past thereby assisting them to work for our common purpose—the increasing welfare of your country.

In regard to Foreign Affairs, I am happy to be able to inform you that cordial relations continue to be maintained with all our neighbours. You will, however, regret to learn that a rebellion which broke out this spring in the Sinkiang Province in China against Chinese rule has resulted in the murder of a number of British Indian subjects and of certain loss in property. Much though I deplore this loss of life, I am glad to be able to record that the presence of His Majesty's Representative at Kashgar has been of considerable effect in minimising the danger to British Indian subjects and that he is making every endeavour to bring about the arrest and punishment of the perpetrators of these crimes.

The long standing disputes between the Afghan and British tribes on the Kurram border have recently been satisfactorily settled through a joint Indo-Afghan Commission, the result of which will, I trust, ensure the peace of this portion of the border for a considerable time to come.

[H. E. the Viceroy.]

I must now refer to certain events on the North-West Frontier Province which have recently been creating a considerable amount of interest. I wish from the outset to emphasise that we as a Government are responsible for maintaining friendly relations with our neighbours and for preserving law and order within the confines of India. In view of the recent constitutional changes in the North-West Frontier Province and the coming changes in India as a whole, it is particularly important that these responsibilities should be faithfully discharged.

In the particular case to which I refer the Government of India received information that certain ill-disposed persons had arrived in Bajaur, who were likely to prove not only disturbers of the peace within our Frontier, but also a source of grave embarrassment to our neighbours across the Border.

We have already had experience of the extent of trouble such agitators are capable of causing by events which occurred in Khost earlier in the year, and it was clearly the bounden duty of my Government to take any and every step to prevent the recurrence of such incidents. In the meantime, for motives of their own and egged on by hostile agitators, the Upper Mohmands made a sudden and unprovoked attack from their semi-independent territory on one of our most loyal tribes, the Halimzai. Whether the action of the Upper Mohmands was in any way connected with the activities of the agitators in Bajaur it is impossible to say, but realising that this particular portion of the Frontier holds many firebrands, whose main occupation in life is to flout all recognised forms of law and order, and knowing the pace at which infection is likely to spread on the Frontier, I, in consultation with my Government, decided that immediate action was imperative.

This action was not forced upon us by any overt rebellion against our own authority, but it was our obvious duty to support our assured clans against unwarranted aggression, and for this reason a column was despatched into the Halimzai country, to support the Halimzai and to afford them some measure of protection. The column was received with professions of gratitude and has had precisely the effect desired. The loyal elements among our clans have been encouraged and fortified, and the hostile lashkars have now dispersed and disappeared.

The problem in Bajaur was not so simple for, owing to the inaccessibility of the villages in which the agitators had taken up their abode, direct action of the nature mentioned above within a reasonable time was impracticable, in fact impossible, owing to the destruction by floods of the bridge over the Panjkora River.

Again, after full consideration, we decided in the first instance to issue notices to certain individual Khans who were known to be harbouring the offenders, demanding their surrender. We even went so far as to offer a reward for their surrender, and to intimate that no action would be taken against them beyond removing them to a safe distance from the Frontier. On the other hand, we made it clear that failing compliance with our orders, the Government would take such action as they considered necessary.

These notices produced no effect; and it was then, and only then, after considering the alternatives open to us, that Air action was instituted against a single small and remote village called Kotkai in which it was known that the principal offender was being harboured.

In view of the criticism which this decision has evoked during the past few weeks, without perhaps a full knowledge of the facts, I wish to make it quite clear that our action has in no way infringed the canons of international law or the dictates of humanity; Air action of this type has been taken on many occasions in the past 12 years without exciting comment or protest. It is not directed against the inhabitants of the villages, much less against women and children; it is never undertaken without the express authority of the Government of India and without due warning; and it seldom results in the destruction of human lives. On the present occasion no loss of human life occurred and as far as we know only one man was injured. Its effect lies in the economic loss inflicted by the destruction of dwellings and by the inconvenience and disturbance caused to normal everyday life.

I can assure you once more that our sole object is to maintain those conditions of peace and good relations on the Frontier which are so essential to the ordered progress of the country as a whole.

Although internal disturbances have, I am glad to say, been less frequent than in the preceding two years, there have been occasions on which the aid of troops has had to be invoked by the civil power. The promptness and efficiency with which the Army and the Royal Air Force have met all calls upon them command my admiration and should, I venture to suggest, be a matter of congratulation to us all. Heavy retrenchments have been made in the Defence Estimates and the search for further economies has by no means been abandoned. Special attention is being paid to certain suggestions that were made by Honourable Members in the last Budget debates; but it is becoming increasingly clear that further savings cannot be secured on a scale to compare with the very large retrenchment of the past two years.

The Imperial Council of Agricultural Research has continued to do useful work in the promotion of agricultural research. Since its inception it has been able to allocate funds aggregating 43 lakhs to no less than 49 research schemes most of which extend over a five-year period. There is evidence of an increasing appreciation of the Council's efforts to supplement the work which is already being carried on by the Agricultural and Veterinary Departments of the various Provinces, and at the Central Research Institutes at Pusa and Muktesar. Though in common with other beneficent activities the work of the Research Council has had to be curtailed during the present period of financial stringency, the existence of its Research Fund, which was created in 1929 on the recommendation of the Royal Commission on Agriculture and with your approval, has saved much useful work from interruption. Though my Government has not yet been able to restore the Council's annual research grant of five lakhs, it was found possible, again with your approval, to make a supplementary grant of five lakhs to it last March. This enabled the Council to start a number of useful schemes which were awaiting the provision of funds.

It is only four years since the Research Council was established and less than three since its first research schemes came into operation, so that it is too early to expect results. But I was interested to observe that at the recent Sugar Conference convened by the Government of India several Provincial Ministers for Agriculture and Industries spoke appreciatively of the work done by the Sugar Technologist and by the Sugar Committee of the Council.

The Council has recently taken on new responsibilities in connection with the development and utilisation of the tariff preferences on agricultural products secured to India by the Ottawa Trade Agreement; and rightly so, for unless Indian agricultural produce is as well-handled and graded, and of as good a quality as that of our principal competitors, the full advantage of these important preferences in the United Kingdom will not be realised.

As you are aware, the Whitley Commission made a number of suggestions for the revision of the Factories Act. These have now been examined in detail by the public, by the Local Governments and by my Government and we shall shortly place before you our proposals in the form of a new Factories Bill, designed to replace the Act of 1911 and the various amending Acts passed since that date.

Another measure that you will have to consider is the question of affording protection to Indian States against activities in British India which tend to subvert or to excite disaffection towards their administrations.

It has been represented to my Government that the existing law is inadequate for the purpose, and my Government feel that the Indian States are entitled to a similar measure of protection against unfair and subversive activities in British India as the present law affords to British Indian Provinces. The Indian States have invariably co-operated with the British Government in suppressing activities in their States subversive to the administration of British India, and I feel there is little need for me to stress the desirability of what I may best characterise as reciprocity in this matter, especially when we envisage the proposed Federal Constitution of which States and Provinces will alike be Units.

When I addressed the Legislative Assembly last January, I made a brief reference to certain matters relating to Indians overseas. The hope, which I then expressed, that our representations to the Union Government on the subject of Indian unemployment in Natal would prove fruitful, has been realised. Relief to unemployed Indians is now being given in Durban and Pietermaritzburg. The Commission to enquire into the occupation of proclaimed land by Indians in the Transvaal continues its labours. Our Agent and his staff have been assisting the Indians in the Transvaal to place their views before the Commission. Two recent events in East Africa may be of interest to Honourable Members. The Indian community in Uganda has long been desirous to see its representation on the Legislative Council of this territory increased. His Majesty's Secretary of State for the Colonies has announced that a second Indian member will shortly be nominated to the Council. Members are appointed to the Council, not to represent communities but by reason of their fitness to serve the general interests of the country. Indians in Uganda will, I feel sure, justify the choice, which will now fall on one of them, by using this opportunity to promote the welfare and prosperity of Uganda. In Kenya Indians have decided, without prejudice to their preference for the principle of a common electoral roll, to enter the Legislative Council. The Government of India consider this a wise decision and hope that, by the contribution which this will enable them to make to the common weal of that territory, complete harmony among the different communities may be rapidly established.

It will be remembered that towards the end of the last Session of the Legislature the Government of India were compelled to ask His Majesty's Government that formal notice should be given of their desire to terminate the Indo-Japanese Trade Convention. This serious step was taken with the utmost reluctance and only under the threat of grave injury to many of the indigenous industries of India. Our action was conceived in no spirit of hostility or aggression; it was purely a measure of self-defence and it is regrettable that in certain quarters it has been otherwise construed. The problem with which we were confronted was a difficult one. The depreciation of the currency of Japan relatively to the rupee had given to that country an advantage in Indian markets which rendered competition impossible. Our choice lay between inaction—which spelt ruin to many of our industries—and the denunciation of the Convention which had governed the friendly trade relations of India and Japan for so many years. No other practical solution offered itself and notice of denunciation of the Convention was therefore given, and the Convention will expire on 10th October next.

Though by the denunciation of the Convention and by the passing of the Safeguarding of Industries Act we have taken power to protect our own interests, we have nevertheless been ready at all times to consider any alternative solution that might be put forward. We ourselves were fully conscious of the disadvantages of a discontinuity in our treaty relations with Japan, and I am happy to say that, as a result of preliminary conversations, a Delegation from Japan will shortly arrive in India with a view to the negotiation of a fresh trade agreement. I take this opportunity of welcoming the representatives of Japan now on their way and of expressing the earnest hope that a solution may be found satisfactory to all the parties whose interests are involved. The fact that these negotiations will take place in Simla between the Government of India and the Government of Japan is one of great significance for India.

Of significance too is the fact that India is to be the scene of a tripartite conference between the textile industrialists of India, Lancashire and Japan. In this conference the Government of India will not take part, but they would welcome any agreement consonant with the welfare and interests of India as a whole.

You will be invited to give legislative sanction to the agreement that has been reached between the tea growers of India, Ceylon and the Netherlands East Indies. The Restriction Scheme which they have themselves evolved is as yet in its initial stages and it is perhaps too early to proclaim it a success, but it has already engendered in the trade a very welcome feeling of buoyancy and confidence.

[H. E. the Viceroy.]

I now turn to the question of Finance about which in these times of unparalleled uncertainty it is necessary to speak with caution. I think it is fair to say that on all sides there is a feeling of greater confidence and that it is possible to detect signs of definite improvement in many directions. The World Economic Conference, though it failed to produce any agreed plan of co-operation, has at least done much to clear the air, while the discussions between the Empire countries in which India's representatives took a prominent part led to a declaration of a monetary policy which justifies the hope of an improvement in the sterling prices—and therefore also in the rupee prices—of commodities.

So far as our budgetary position is concerned, it is too early yet in the year to make any reliable forecasts. The results for the four months to the end of July are interesting. Exports of merchandise show an increase of about Rs. 7½ crores over last year, while imports of merchandise are lower by about Rs. 11½ crores. The result is that customs receipts to date are disappointing, but on the other hand India's favourable balance of payments has been much larger than last year, and Government has been able to remit exceptionally large amounts of sterling—over Rs. 19 crores—as compared with less than Rs. 1½ crores at the same period last year.

The reduction in imports may signify that India is relying more on her own industrial production, and this combined with the increase in the favourable balance of payments can be interpreted as signs of strength in the intrinsic position of India. But it also shows how such an improvement in the general position, and in particular how the replacement of dutiable imports by Indian manufactures, may actually increase the budgetary difficulties; so that we cannot contemplate any relaxation in our policy of rigorous economy in recurrent expenditure.

In the meanwhile it may be said that our position remains one which compares favourably with that of any other country. The credit of the Government stands high and the favourable results as regards remittance have a significance at the present juncture to which I wish to call special attention. These remittances have enabled us so to strengthen our sterling balances that if this position continues we shall have made the provision of adequate external reserves for setting up a Reserve Bank an immediate practical possibility.

This brings me to a question which will be of close interest to you—not only from the financial, but also from the constitutional standpoint—that of early legislation for the setting up of a Reserve Bank. I have been particularly glad to note the most satisfactory course of the discussions in London on this subject at which the Indian Legislature was strongly represented and which has resulted in the production of a unanimous report. I should like to take this opportunity of expressing my appreciation of the valuable service rendered by the Members of the Legislature and other Indian representatives in these discussions. With this report to guide us, we propose to introduce a Bill into the Legislature this Session and to proceed to the stage of recommending to you that it should be referred for detailed examination by a Select Committee of both Houses. If this procedure is approved by you, it is our intention to arrange for the further stages of the Bill as reported by the Select Committee to be taken at a special Session to be convened in the latter half of November. It is our earnest desire to proceed as expeditiously as possible with the inauguration of the Reserve Bank in view of its importance in the general constitutional plan, and, with your help, on which I now feel that I can confidently rely, combined with the improvement of our position as regards external reserves to which I have already called attention, I have every hope that it will be possible to have the Reserve Bank successfully functioning well in advance of the earliest possible inauguration of the new constitution.

Before leaving the field of Finance, there is one other matter which I must mention. One practical result of the World Economic Conference was the conclusion of an agreement between the representatives of the countries interested in silver, the details of which have already been fully reported in the press. We believe that this agreement will operate to the substantial advantage not only of India but of the other countries concerned, while it offers the further great advantage of removing what was a cause of friction and misunderstanding between this country and the United States of America. This agreement is subject to ratification by the Legislatures of the various countries concerned, and it will be put before you for your consideration at the earliest convenient opportunity.

When I addressed you in February last I ventured to express the belief that the march of events would gradually carry the leaders of the civil disobedience movement further and further away from the sterile methods of negation and obstruction, and that they would find themselves caught up in the living forces of constructive politics which the near approach of the new constitution is releasing on all sides. I think that what has happened in the last few months has borne out that belief. It is true that civil disobedience still maintains a precarious existence through the personal influence of its author, but the popular judgment has really discarded it, and the pathway to happier conditions is broadening out before us. The minds of men and women are turned in the direction of constructive work rather than of continuing an unmeaning struggle. I hope we can feel that an unhappy page in the history of the country has been turned over, and that advanced political thought in India can henceforth address itself to the problems of the future. In that, new India to which we are advancing there is need, and there will be scope, for the co-operation of many diverse elements. I believe that those whose main political outlook is usually summed up in the word "nationalist" will find in the new constitution satisfaction for their claim that the centre of gravity in the Government should be shifted unmistakably from the officials to the representatives of the people, and will discover ample scope for new activities and new policies in dealing with the many urgent social and economic problems that confront the country. The conservative elements will also have their part to play, as they have in every country, balancing enthusiasm with caution and ideas with facts. The struggle, for we can never get away from struggles in politics, will be no longer between those who would break and those who would uphold the law, or between those who would maintain and those who would destroy the British connection, but it will be a struggle between different policies for meeting the practical problems that face us, problems that have perhaps never been in any age so insistent and so complicated as they are now throughout the world. Out of that struggle will emerge, I hope, solutions that will truly advance the welfare of the peoples of this great country.

The improvement in the situation in Bengal in regard to the terrorist movement of which there were some signs last February has, I am glad to say, continued, and there has been no serious outrage in recent months. But the movement, though checked, is still active. It would be the greatest mistake to suppose that these subterranean forces have yet been overcome or that there can be any relaxation of the steady and unremitting pressure to which, in conjunction, I hope, with an improved, convinced and active public opinion, they will in the end yield. The success which has been so far achieved in Bengal has been due to an unswerving resolution on the part of the Government of Bengal that this menace should be faced and beaten, and to the admirable efforts made in pursuance of that policy by the servants of Government, both civil and military, and the effective co-operation of all those who have been engaged in this campaign. It was a matter of great satisfaction to me that His Majesty the King-Emperor recently conferred a special mark of his appreciation on two officers, one civil and one military, whose work has been most valuable in securing the great improvement which is evident in conditions in the Chittagong District.

But while conditions in Bengal are slowly improving, we have had a reminder recently of the manner in which the infection of these poisonous doctrines may spread to parts of India which have hitherto happily been free from this form of crime. Recently terrorist outrages or attempts at outrages have occurred in the Madras Presidency. I am glad to think that the prompt and effective action of the Madras Government and Police has succeeded in dealing with this development in its initial stages, and I have no doubt that the people of Madras will give all possible co-operation to the authorities in their efforts to prevent the youth of the Presidency becoming tainted with these disastrous doctrines, doctrines which are essentially alien to the culture of the people among whom it is sought to propagate them.

When last addressing you on the question of Constitutional Reforms, the third Round Table Conference had concluded its session, and with feelings of keen anticipation we were awaiting the presentation to Parliament of the proposals of His Majesty's Government. I have frequently described the progress of the Reforms discussions of these past years in terms of the stages of a journey. The publication on the 18th March of the Indian White Paper marked so definite a stage that I feel I can well ask Honourable Members to look back for a moment to the stages we have covered before they cast their eyes forward to those which lie ahead. When the Government of India Act of 1919 was passed, Parliament recognised that the constitution then given was transitional and made provision for its review. By virtue of that provision the Indian Statutory Commission was appointed and its labours opened the way to the great developments which followed the publication of its report. The first Round Table Conference will for all time hold an honoured place in the constitutional history of this country, for it was at that Conference that the conception of bringing this great continent within the embrace of an all-India Federation was first brought within the range of practical politics. That ideal we have since held consistently before us. It is now the corner-stone on which we have built. Each of the two succeeding Conferences made its own particular contribution to the completion of our task, and the intervals were occupied with expert enquiries into one aspect or another of the many difficult problems inherent in so great a constitutional change. When I look back over this period of preparation, my confidence in the future is stimulated by the encouragement I derive from that splendid spirit of common endeavour, which has throughout inspired the free exchange of views between the representatives on the one side of His Majesty's Government and on the other side of British India and the Indian States. Compressed within the pages of the White Paper there lie the evidences of this collaboration, in which by the help so readily given the Indian representatives have played so notable a part.

While the Joint Parliamentary Committee has been at work in London, but without prejudice to its conclusions, my Government has set up a Committee of officials and non-officials to consider administrative problems relative to the separation of Orissa. It is intended also to set up a similar Committee for Sind to assemble and start work early in the coming cold weather.

The White Paper is now in the hands of the Joint Parliamentary Committee. Its terms of reference charge the Committee with the momentous responsibility of considering the future Government of India and, in particular, of examining and reporting upon the proposals in the White Paper. We have all followed with close attention the reports appearing in the press of the Committee's proceedings, and, conscious of what Indian co-operation has achieved in the past, I rejoice to think that Indian opinion is again given the fullest opportunity to make itself felt at this last and formative stage when the work that has been done comes finally before Parliament for decisions to be taken. No part of the Committee's proceedings has given me greater pleasure than the generous acknowledgments by Indian delegates of the great contribution made to the discussions by the Secretary of State, who in the course of his evidence displayed a grasp of these great constitutional issues which evoked tributes from representatives of all sections of opinion in the Committee. Early in October the Committee will reassemble and resume its labours. I would ask Honourable Members to join with me in wishing the Committee and its collaborators an early and successful conclusion to their great work of investigation, scrutiny and review before the Committee places its own recommendations before Parliament for consideration.

In conclusion, let me turn for a moment to the future. If we are to ensure the rapid progress which we all desire in the way of Constitutional Reforms, we must create the atmosphere in which that progress can develop. Little can be done by Government alone. An equal responsibility must lie upon Honourable Members themselves and other leaders of political thought in India to whom we must look to use their influence by their speeches, by public meetings and propaganda to see that the electorates of the future are made fully aware of the great advance we are striving to achieve through the White Paper proposals. I appeal to you, therefore, with all the sincerity at my command, to take up this responsibility with courage and energy so as to help your country forward to the attainment of her ultimate goal as an equal partner in the shaping of the destinies of the British Empire.

The Assembly met in the Assembly Chamber at Quarter Past Twelve of the Clock, Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) in the Chair.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

SUFFERINGS OF DECK PASSENGERS COMING FROM RANGOON TO CALCUTTA DUE TO OVERCROWDING.

174. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Are Government aware that deck passengers coming from Rangoon to Calcutta by the British India Steam Navigation Company steamers often suffer from over-crowding, and that a number of them are huddled together at odd corners and places on the deck, and that I myself witnessed their plight when travelling by the S. S. " Arankola " which left Rangoon on the morning of 9th May last for Calcutta ? Do Government propose to take any steps in this matter ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : As a result of the enquiries made in the matter it is understood that the British India Steam Navigation Company's steamers running between Rangoon and Calcutta seldom carry the full complement of deck passengers which they are certified to carry. In the specific case of the S. S. " Arankola " cited by the Honourable Member the actual number of deck passengers carried by her on the voyage in question was 1,232 whereas the steamer was certified to carry 1,250 deck passengers. I may add for the information of the Honourable Member that under the rules and instructions in force such ships are, prior to their departure from a port, inspected by a Government official who sees that the number of passengers carried does not exceed that which the ship is certified to carry and that the vessel complies with other requirements of the law. In the circumstances the Government of India do not propose to take any further action in the matter.

EXPORT OF DUTY-PAID FOREIGN SUGAR FROM KARACHI TO KASHMIR AND JAMMU STATES.

175. Seth Haji Abdoola Haroon : (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that duty-paid foreign sugar is exported from Karachi to Kashmir and Jammu States ?

(b) If so, do the Karachi Customs authorities, after sealing the sugar bags, give certificate to sender showing therein the amount of duty paid ?

(c) What quantities of sugar have been exported from Karachi to the above States during the official years 1931-32 and 1932-33 ?

(d) Is any part of the duty received retained by the Government of India ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : (a) Yes.

(b) Yes.

(c) During the year 1931-32, 5,302 tons were exported from Karachi to Kashmir and during 1932-33, 5,073 tons.

(d) No.

EXPORT OF FOREIGN SUGAR TO AFGHANISTAN AND DUZDAP.

176. Seth Haji Abdoola Haroon : Will Government be pleased to state :

(a) Whether it is a fact that sugar on which duty is not paid is transhipped to Afghanistan and Duzdap (Persia) from Karachi ?

(b) Whether there is also in force a practice under which consumers who buy duty-paid sugar get refund on receipt of goods in Afghanistan and Duzdap (Persia) of customs duty paid at Karachi after deduction of 10 per cent. on production of a certificate proving payment of duty at Karachi ?

(c) What quantity of foreign sugar has been exported to Afghanistan and Duzdap (Persia) during the official years 1931-32 and 1932-33 ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : (a) Sugar intended for the Government of Afghanistan is allowed to be re-exported without payment of duty. All other sugar whether intended for Afghanistan or Persia is liable to duty in the first instance.

(b) Sugar on which duty has been paid is entitled to a refund of 15|16ths of the duty on proof of arrival in Persia. Sugar on which duty has been paid and which has been declared at the time of import as being intended for Afghanistan is entitled to a refund of the whole duty on proof of arrival in Afghanistan.

(c) During the year 1931-32, 4,982 tons of sugar were exported to Afghanistan and during 1932-33, 6,990 tons. These figures represent the quantity certified as having entered Afghanistan.

During the year 1931-32, 780 tons were exported to Persia and during 1932-33, 165 tons. These figures represent consignments despatched from Karachi under Customs supervision for transmission to Persia.

EXPORT OF FOREIGN SUGAR FROM KARACHI TO PERSIAN GULF PORTS.

177. Seth Haji Abdoola Haroon : (a) Will Government be pleased to state whether it is a fact that foreign sugar on which customs duty is not paid is exported to Persian Gulf ports from Karachi ?

(b) If the reply to part (a) be in the affirmative, will Government state what quantity of such sugar has been exported to Persian Gulf ports during the official years 1931-32 and 1932-33 ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : (a) Yes.

(b) The quantity of foreign sugar exported from bonded stock without payment of duty was 2,743 tons during 1931-32 and 3,446 tons during 1932-33.

ENLISTMENT OF ' Y ' CADETS.

178. *Sardar Sant Singh : Will Government kindly state the number of ' Y ' Cadets, who have been enlisted up-to-date since June, 1931, their names with academic qualifications and the regiments to which they are now attached ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : A statement is laid on the table giving the names of the gentlemen and the units in which they are serving.

List of Indian gentlemen enlisted since June 1931 under special terms with a view to qualifying for a nomination to the Indian Military Academy.

Name.	Unit with which serving.
1. Indar Singh	Passed into I. M. A.

29. Abdul Hamid Khan	5th Bn., 2nd Punjab Regiment.
30. Wazir Chand	10th Bn., 1st Punjab Regiment.
	3rd Bn., 7th Rajput Regiment.

ENLISTMENT OF ' Y ' CADETS.

179. *Sardar Sant Singh : (a) Is it a fact that, when ' Y ' Cadets were selected in 1931, the non-commissioned officers of the Indian Army were not eligible for King's Commission ?

(b) Is it a fact that ' Y ' Cadets were given to understand that they would be given every facility for nomination to the Indian Military Academy ?

(c) Is it also a fact that after the selection of ' Y ' Cadets and the understanding referred to in part (b) above, the non-commissioned officers were made eligible for King's Commission ? If so, from what date, and why was the old rule altered ?

(d) Are Government aware that the alteration of the rule in favour of the non-commissioned officers has affected the ' Y ' Cadets adversely in regard to their nomination to the Indian Military Academy ?

(e) Are Government aware that this change of rules having affected the ' Y ' Cadets adversely after their selection has been the cause of grave apprehensions in the minds of the parents of ' Y ' Cadets in regard to the latter's future career ?

(f) Are Government also aware that this change of rules has been interpreted to be a definite breach of understanding given at the time of the selection of ' Y ' Cadets ?

(g) Do Government propose to remove the grievance of the ' Y ' Cadets and their parents by reserving at least 75 per cent. of the nominations to Indian Military Academy for the ' Y ' Cadets so long as they are not absorbed ? If not, why not ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : Before answering this question I should like to remove an evident misapprehension as to the meaning of the term " Y " cadet. The term used to be applied in England to men from the ranks who were admitted to Sandhurst in order to be trained as officers, but no one was a " cadet " until he actually joined the College. The same term has been loosely applied to a number of Indian gentlemen who failed to pass the open examination for entry to the Indian Military Academy but who were given a chance of qualifying for a nomination to the Academy by passing through the ranks of the Army. They cannot strictly be described as cadets before they join the Academy.

The answers to the various parts of the question are as follows :

(a) Yes.

(b) They were told that they would, be given every help, e.g., by being commended to the special attention of their Commanding Officers, but they were certainly not given to understand that they would be specially favoured.

(c) Yes, the change formed part of the general revision of the rules regarding the recruitment of Indians for King's Commissions recommended by the Indian Military College Committee. The new rules were actually introduced in September, 1932.

(d) and (e). Certainly not. The gentlemen in question were well aware that the change was likely to take place when they were offered enlistment ; and the increase in the number of Indian Army vacancies at the Academy has actually been in their favour.

(f) There is no justification for such an interpretation. As I have already explained, the gentlemen were given no promise of any kind and were fully aware that their chance of obtaining a nomination depended on their own efforts.

(g) No. It would be prejudicial to efficiency and to the success of the scheme of Indianisation if nominations were not given to the best men. But I can assure the Honourable Member that the claims of the persons in question will receive every possible consideration at the hands of the military authorities and that every effort will be made to give nominations at the Indian Military Academy to those who prove themselves likely to make good officers.

DISPOSAL OF CERTAIN PUBLICATIONS AS WASTE PAPER ON THE EVE OF THE TRANSFER OF THE CENTRAL PUBLICATION BRANCH TO DELHI.

180. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Will the Honourable Member in charge of the Department of Industries and Labour be pleased to state whether he is aware that a large stock of publications of various descriptions was disposed of as waste paper in Calcutta on the eve of the transfer of the Central Publication Branch to Delhi ?

(b) If so, will the Honourable Member kindly lay on the table a statement showing the following details :

(i) The titles of the publications ;

(ii) The number of copies of each of the publications ;

(iii) The total value of the stock of such publications on the basis of their respective published prices ;

(iv) The total amount of sale proceeds obtained and credited to Government account on disposal ;

(v) The period during which the work of disposal of stock as waste paper was undertaken ;

(vi) The total weight of the publications disposed of ; and

(vii) The rate per maund at which these publications were sold ?

(c) Will the Honourable Member kindly say if the vacant space caused by the disposal of stock as waste paper would suffice to obviate the difficulty on the score of paucity of accommodation, referred to in the Proceedings of the Standing Finance Committee sanctioning the expenditure for the move ?

(d) Will the Honourable Member kindly say whether the following aspect of the question received due consideration before going in for sanction of transfer : whether the difficulty regarding insufficiency of space could be overcome by pursuing the process of weeding out the superfluous stock of publications ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) Yes.

(b) The total weight of publications sold was 1,601 1/2 maunds. The rate per maund was Rs. 1-12-0 and Rs. 2,802-11-3 was credited to Government. I am not in possession of a list of the publications or of their published prices, but lists can be consulted in the office of the Controller of Printing and Stationery at New Delhi. The weeding of stocks of old publications is carried on throughout the year.

(c) No.

(d) Yes.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : In view of the fact that Government had to dispose of their own publications as waste paper, will they reconsider their policy as regards the free distribution of Government publications to public and to Members of the Legislature ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I do not see any justification for that. If any of these publications were wanted, they would have been purchased.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : May I ask Government whether they are aware that there are many public libraries and public men also who are anxious to read these publications and cannot do so because of their high price ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I imagine that is the case, but I do not consider it a sufficient reason for making a free gift of the publications.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : May I ask, Sir, whether it is more economic and more in the interests of the public that these publications should be sold as waste paper instead of being given free to those people who are anxious to read them ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I believe it is the case that publications have occasionally been offered to public bodies at cheap rates and sometimes even free.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I ask the Honourable Member whether it is not a fact that these publications are published in more abundance than they are required ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I understand that an investigation has been made into that question and that experience has shown that it is not the case. I believe that the practice now is that the number of copies of any particular publication which should be published is scrutinised more carefully than was the case in the past and I need hardly say that it will be our endeavour to follow that practice in the future. We will take every step we can to ensure that the number of copies of any publication is not likely to be in excess of the demand. But my Honourable friend will, I am sure, understand that everybody is liable to make mistakes and that incorrect estimates at times are possible.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Is it not a fact that most of these publications, that were treated as waste paper, were the reports and evidence volumes of many of the Royal Commissions and other Committees ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I have no information on that point.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : My question referred to that. I wanted to draw the Government's attention that, instead of wasting these valuable books as waste paper, they might have been distributed, as my Honourable friend, Mr. Joshi, has suggested, among the Members of the Assembly and of different Local Councils.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I cannot find any reference in the Honourable Member's question to Reports of Royal Commissions.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : I wanted to know the names of the publications ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : There is a great number of them. I can make the list available for the Honourable Member's inspection if he is willing to wait until we move down to New Delhi.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : I know that most of the volumes are the reports and evidence volumes of such Commissions as the Royal Commission on Labour, on Agriculture and many other such Commissions. I want to know what was the difficulty in selling them at a reduced price or even distributing them free to the Members of the Legislature ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I am quite prepared in future, before these publications are sent to the waste-paper basket, to have a list placed in the Library of the House so that if any Honourable Member wishes to have a copy, he can do so.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : May I ask, Sir, whether Government will consider the utility not only of placing the list in the Library of the Legislature, but also sending it to the public bodies and Libraries of the country asking them whether they wanted any of the volumes before they are thrown in the waste-paper basket ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I doubt if that would be worth while. I think if any public body regarded a report of a Royal Commission as really worth having, it would be prepared to pay for it.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : Are Government aware that I wanted a set of the report of the Royal Commission on Indian Labour and I could not get it from the Department of Industries and Labour ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I think every Member of the Royal Commission was presented with a free copy of the report and evidence.

Mr. N M. Joshi : I have got two libraries and I wanted two sets instead of one. (Laughter.)

Mr. B. Das : Is it not a fact that the Stores Retrenchment Committee, after visiting, and making an inspection of, the Calcutta Publication Branch, recommended that all these obsolete documents, books and forms that were lying there, should be disposed of and, in accordance with that recommendation, these documents were sold ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I cannot remember all the details of the recommendations of the Stores Retrenchment Committee. I am perfectly prepared to accept my Honourable friend's statement.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know if these publications were, as a matter of fact, sold as waste paper ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : They were, Sir. The ones referred to in the question.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know whether it has ever been considered to amalgamate the two presses, the one at Calcutta and the other at Delhi and locate them in one place ?

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : That question does not arise out of this.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Before the Government treat these books as waste paper, they can reduce the price so that there may be a chance for public bodies to purchase them at reduced prices. If the original price is, say, Rs. 80 or Rs. 100 per volume, and if they are sold for Rs. 10 or Rs. 12, it is much more than what Government could get by selling them as waste paper.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I think that has been done in most cases, but I shall be very happy to examine how much farther we can take the procedure suggested by my Honourable friend.

EXPENDITURE INCURRED ON THE TRANSMISSION OF PUBLICATIONS FROM THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA PRESS, CALCUTTA, TO THE CENTRAL PUBLICATION BRANCH, DELHI.

181. Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Will the Honourable Member in charge of the Department of Industries and Labour kindly lay on the table a list of priced publications, including journals and periodicals, that were printed off from the Government of India Press, Calcutta, in the course of the last six months ?

(b) How many of those items of publications were transmitted to the Central Publication Branch, Delhi ?

(c) Will the Honourable Member be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing the total amount of railway freight that was incurred by the Central Publication Branch, Delhi, in the course of the last four months to clear consignments of publications that were sent to Delhi by the Government of India Press, Calcutta ?

(d) Do Government realize that the Central Publication Branch has been saddled with this expenditure only because of the said office having moved away to Delhi ?

(e) If so, will Government kindly say how is it proposed to cut down the expenditure on account of railway freight for publications that are to be received by the Central Publication Branch from the Calcutta Press ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) The list desired by the Honourable Member includes 521 items and runs to 31 pages. I do not propose to lay it on the table but it can be consulted in the Industries and Labour Department if the Honourable Member so desires.

(b) 350.

(c) The amount was Rs. 3,277.

(d) No : a considerable portion of the expenditure would in any case have been incurred by the Central Publication Branch if it had remained in Calcutta in distributing publications required by offices in Delhi or Simla.

(e) Does not arise.

SANCTION OF ADDITIONAL STAFF FOR THE CENTRAL PUBLICATION BRANCH TO COPE WITH THE WORK CONNECTED WITH THE TRANSFER OF THE PATENT OFFICE SPECIFICATIONS.

182. *Mr. S. C. Mitra : (a) Is it a fact that the stock of about 20,000 kinds of patent office specifications has, of late, been transferred to the Central Publication Branch from the office of the Controller of Patents and Designs, Calcutta ?

(b) If so, do Government propose to sanction additional men for the Central Publication Branch to cope with this additional work ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) Yes.

(b) No.

ARRANGEMENTS FOR LIGHTS IN THE COMPARTMENTS OF THE BROACH JAMBUSAR RAILWAY.

183. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state what action was considered necessary, and whether any action has been taken, by the Agent, Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway in regard to the arrangements for lights in the compartments of the Broach Jambusar Railway and the extinguishing of light at Samni Station just after the leaving of the train ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : With your permission, Sir, I shall reply to this and the next question together. The matter being within the competence of the Agent, Government merely brought it to his notice leaving them to him to take such action as he might consider necessary, and have not asked for a report from him on the subject.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will the Honourable Member be pleased to have a report from the Agent and place it before the House ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : The Government expect that the Agent has taken all the necessary action to remove the inconvenience complained of and, unless the Honourable Member has any reason to believe that no action has been taken, I do not consider any useful purpose would be served in obtaining the information.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : What is the source for Honourable Members of this House to know what action has been taken by the Agents ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : These are matters which can be discussed in the Local Advisory Committees.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : What is the source for Honourable Members of this House to know what action has been taken by the Agent about matters which were referred to him by the Railway Board ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I take it, Sir, but I speak subject to correction, that interpellations in this Assembly are meant to bring matters that require correction to notice and not merely, if I may say so, to satisfy an idle curiosity.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : I think questions are asked for getting information as well. Do Government agree with this ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : No, Sir ; Government consider that in these matters of trifling importance minute examination by Government is unnecessary.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : In what scale do Government weigh and decide whether a matter is trifling or not ? It is for the Member who asks a question to decide.

Mr. P. R. Rau : It seems to me that if Government are to be responsible for the running of railways, they must, as a practical measure, devote their attention to matters of major importance.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : When a question is admitted by the President, it becomes a matter of public importance. Do Government agree to that ?

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Government cannot but agree to that. Otherwise there is no meaning in allowing that.

HARDSHIPS FELT BY PASSENGERS VISITING THE FAIR AT AJMER.

†184. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state what action was considered necessary, and whether any action has been taken, by the Agent, Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway, in the matter of the inconvenience mentioned in question No. 79 asked on the 2nd February, 1933 ?

FARES OF DIFFERENT CLASSES ON STATE RAILWAYS.

185. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Will Government be pleased to state what is (i) the average cost per first class compartment, (ii) the average income per first class compartment in a year, (iii) the average contribution to the depreciation fund for each first class compartment, and (iv) the average running and recurring cost per first class compartment ?

(b) Is it a fact that fare for first class is generally double that of the second class on all the State-managed Railways ?

(c) Will Government be pleased to state whether or not the cost of a first class compartment is also double that of a second class compartment ?

(d) Are Government aware that a first class compartment is not a paying concern ?

(e) Do Government propose to consult the Central Advisory Committee for Railways about examining the question of fares for the different classes, and placing their recommendations before the Railway authorities ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) (i). The approximate proportionate cost of a modern first class broad gauge compartment intended to seat six persons is Rs. 14,000.

(ii) The average earnings per first class seat amounted to Rs. 226 in 1931-32.

(iii) The contribution to the Depreciation Fund on account of a carriage is 1|35th of the capital cost.

(iv) The average annual proportionate cost of workshop and running repairs for a modern first class broad gauge compartment is about Rs. 400.

†For answer to this question, see answer to question No. 183.

The average cost of hauling a bogie vehicle, which ordinarily consists of four first class compartments and a servants compartment, was 62.9 pies on State-managed Railways in 1931-32.

(b) This is generally so, but there are exceptions.

(c) The approximate proportionate cost of a second class compartment intended to seat 12 passengers is roughly Rs. 12,400.

(d) This is a matter of opinion.

(e) These are matters where uniformity is not possible. Rates and fares must be fixed for each individual railway separately, though the maxima and minima are fixed by Government, and the question of fares is therefore more suitable for discussion in Local Advisory Committees.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : May I ask whether part (d) is a matter of opinion ? Are Government aware that a first class compartment is not a paying concern ? May I ask whether this is a matter of fact or a matter of opinion ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : Government consider that it is a matter in which opinions might vary.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : How is it a matter of opinion whether a compartment is a paying concern or not ? It is a matter of fact.

Mr. P. R. Rau : It all depends upon what the Honourable Member means by " paying ".

Mr. N. M. Joshi : May I ask the Honourable Member what his conception of " paying " is ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : That is a matter of opinion.

RESTRICTION ON THE POSSESSION OF SWORDS.

186. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Will Government be pleased to state in which areas restriction on the possession of swords has been imposed by the Central or Local Governments ?

(b) Have Government received any complaints that the discretion for granting licences for fire-arms is unreasonably exercised by the Local Governments ?

(c) Do Government propose to direct the Local Governments to mention the reasons for not granting licences to the persons who are entitled to have licensed arms ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) The general position is that except in the Punjab, Burma and Delhi, swords have been exempted by the Government of India from all the prohibitions and directions contained in the Arms Act, but Schedule II of the Indian Arms Rules, 1924, empowers Local Governments to apply all or any of the said prohibitions and directions in respect of any class of persons or of any specified area. I am not in possession of complete information of the restrictions which in exercise of this power the various Local Governments have found it necessary to impose on the possession of swords.

In the Punjab the possession or carrying of swords does not require a licence in a number of districts, but in the remaining districts this privilege is confined to certain specified classes. In Burma and Delhi swords are subject to all the prohibitions and directions contained in the Arms Act.

(b) No.

(c) Certain persons are exempt from the provisions of the Arms Act but no person is entitled to a licence for an arm or arms. The rules under the Arms Act provide for appeal against an order of a licensing authority rejecting an application for the grant of a licence. Government do not consider it necessary to issue the instructions suggested by the Honourable Member.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Do Government realise that when the Honourable the Home Member of the Government of India is not in a position to say in which parts the keeping of swords has been prohibited by Local Governments, how can the public be able to know which areas are prohibited areas ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The Government of India are not supposed to know all the details of local administration in every province in matters which have been deliberately left to the discretion of the Local Governments.

Mr. S. G. Jog : Is it a fact that Local Governments have recently become rather stricter in granting licences to the local people ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Does the Honourable Member refer to swords ?

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state what sources the public have of knowing what areas are prohibited or not ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think there is not the smallest difficulty. The inhabitant of any district is well aware whether licences are or are not required for the carrying of swords.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Is the Honourable Member aware that there was exemption for these swords in the Bombay Presidency and that recently the exemption has been taken away ? Have not the Bombay Government, therefore, become stricter ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I was not aware of that. As I have already said, I am not aware of the action taken by the various Local Governments in exercise of the discretion vested in them.

Mr. S. G. Jog : Is it a fact that the Government of India have issued any special instructions to the Local Governments ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The Government of India have certainly, in connection with terrorist outrages, given instructions to Local Governments to tighten up the administration of the Arms Act so far as relates particularly to revolvers and pistols. But I am not aware that we have issued any instructions about swords.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the Honourable Member be pleased to inquire from the Local Governments whether these instructions are being applied to terrorists only or to the general public also ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. So far as swords are concerned, the discretion is left to the Local Governments and I do not propose to interfere with it.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state what are the reasons for not mentioning in the order on what grounds the licences are not granted ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I suggest to the Honourable Member that as an appeal lies it follows that some reasons must obviously be given and, therefore, it is unnecessary for the Government of India to address Local Governments on that matter.

Mr. S. G. Jog : Is the Honourable Member aware that there have been complaints in the Central Provinces and Berar as regards the grant of these licences ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir ; but I would suggest that matters of this sort which relate to the administration of the Arms Act might be raised in the Local Councils concerned.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I know if there is any second appeal or revision to the Government of India ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir ; certainly not.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Are Government aware that in Bihar and Orissa, on these applications it is simply written : " Disallowed " ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am not aware of that, but if the Honourable Member has any complaint, I would suggest that he should ventilate it or get it ventilated in the Bihar and Orissa Legislative Council.

SALE OF FIVE PICE AND FOUR PICE POSTAGE STAMPS.

187. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Is it a fact that the sale of five pice stamps in the year 1932-33 was less in number than the sale of four pice stamps in 1930-31 ?

(b) Is it a fact that Government did not gain any amount by raising the postal rate ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) Government have no information as separate statistics are not maintained for the sale of individual denominations of postal stamps.

(b) No. I would draw the Honourable Member's attention to the reply given to starred question No. 611 asked on the 2nd March, 1933, by Lala Rameshwar Prasad Bagla.

REDUCTION OF THE COST OF POST CARDS.

188. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Is it a fact that the additional duty on imports and postal rate for envelopes were increased by 25 per cent. ?

(b) Is it a fact that the rate for poormen's post card was raised by 50 per cent. ?

(c) Do Government propose to reduce the increased rate of post cards ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : (a) Yes.

(b) The internal post card rate has been raised from six to nine pies irrespective of the sender's financial position.

(c) Not at present.

REPRESENTATION OF MUSLIMS IN THE SERVICES UNDER THE CONTROL OF THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

189. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to explain their recent policy as regards the representation of the Muslim community in the services under their control ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : As explained in the Home Department Office Memorandum No. F. 176|25-Ests., dated the 5th February, 1926, a copy of which is available in the Library, the policy of the Government of India is to prevent the preponderance of any one class or community in the public services. Instructions were issued in 1930 for the recognition of the position of Muslims as the most important of the minority communities in the application of this policy. There has been no change in the policy, but Government have under consideration the question of some modification of the existing orders on the subject.

Sardar Sant Singh : May I know since when have Government created these different degrees of importance among minority communities, i.e., important, more important and most important minority communities ? (Laughter.)

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I should have thought it was an obvious fact that the Muslim community was the largest and, I suppose we must conclude, the most important minority community in this country.

Sardar Sant Singh : Are not Government prepared to call the Muslim community the second major community in India ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : If the Honourable Member prefers that nomenclature.

FACILITIES FOR THE MOUNT EVEREST AIR EXPEDITION.

190. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Will Government be pleased to state what facilities were given to the Mount Everest air expedition in 1933 ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to state what facilities are ordinarily given to such expeditions by the Government of India ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : (a) The following facilities were afforded to the Mount Everest Air Expedition in 1933 :

1. Loan of the services of six airmen. (Insurances, travelling and incidental expenses, other than contribution for pay and pensions were borne by the expedition).
2. Loan of three canvas hangars. (Transport, erection and damage were paid for by the expedition).
3. Permission to use the Royal Air Force Landing Ground at Purnea.

4. Exemption from customs duty in respect of their equipment and stores.

(b) The facilities extended by the Government of India to scientific expeditions depend upon the nature of each expedition. Exemption from customs duty in respect of their equipment and stores is, as a general rule, granted to scientific expeditions which pass through India and operate outside it. Such other assistance is given as circumstances may permit.

Mr. S. G. Jog : May I know whether a money grant was given to this expedition by the Government of India ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : I do not think so.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Is it a fact that certain Indian gentlemen wrote to the Government of India for the usual facilities for a Mount Everest expedition, but that they were refused to them ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : I have no information on that point.

UTILISATION OF THE TWO ANNA PETROL TAX.

191. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to place on the table of the House a statement for the financial year 1932-33 showing :

(a) the total amount realised from the two-anna petrol tax for the construction of roads in India in each Province ;

(b) the total amount of 10 per cent. reserve with the Government of India for making experiments on roads ;

(c) a detailed account as to how the 10 per cent. reserve with the Government of India has been spent till now ;

(d) the balance from the 10 per cent. reserve with the Government of India, and how Government propose to utilise this fund ;

(e) the conditions on which money is lent to each Provincial Government from this fund ; and

(f) the total amount lent to every Province from this fund ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : I lay on the table of the House a statement containing the information asked for by the Honourable Member, so far as it is available.

Statement showing the information relating to the amount of revenue, expenditure, etc., in the Road Development Account.

(a) Information relating to the amount of revenue credited to the road development account during the entire financial year 1932-33 is not yet available. The revenue for the first six months of the year 1932-33 is however estimated to be Rs. 55,54,351 and including this figure, the total amount realised up to the 30th September, 1932, is Rs. 3,58,51,209. This is the proceeds of the additional duty on petrol of two annas per gallon up to September, 1931, and with the 25 per cent. general increase of duties, two and a half annas subsequently. On the basis prescribed by paragraphs (2), (3) (a) and (b) of the Legislative Assembly Resolution of February 4th, 1930, a sum of Rs. 70,000 has been set aside in respect of civil aviation and the balance of Rs. 3,57,81,209 has been distributed as follows :—

	Rs.
10 per cent. reserve with the Government of India	35,78,120
Share of Madras	48,58,163
Share of Bombay	57,63,690
Share of Bengal	47,83,395
Share of United Provinces	19,38,999
Share of Burma	33,75,045
Share of Burma (Shan States)	2,76,199
Share of Punjab	23,63,120
Share of Bihar and Orissa	12,36,152
Share of Central Provinces	10,77,423
Share of Assam	7,11,496
Share of North-West Frontier Province	6,77,855
Block grant for minor Administrations and States ..	48,59,422
Balance on hand with the Government of India as margin for adjustment of differences in allotment for the year 1932-33	2,82,132
	3,57,81,209

(b), (c) and (d). It will be convenient to furnish the information asked for under these three heads in one statement :—

The amount so far credited to the reserve is :—

	Rs.
(1) As above	35,78,120
(2) Voluntary contribution by the oil companies in 1929 ..	9,38,900
	45,16,020

This has been applied as follows :—

	Rs.
A. Administration (Road Engineer and office, etc., expenditure to March 1933)	1,21,537
B. Earmarked for grants for experimental works ..	5,00,000
C. Reserved for special grants for special works ..	38,94,483
	45,16,020

B. Grants amounting to approximately Rs. 1.45 lakhs have been sanctioned for experiments in various Provinces and States.

C. On the assumption that the total amount available in the reserve for special grants for special works in the five year period for which the account has been instituted would amount to about Rs. 40 lakhs, the Government of India, on the advice of the Standing Committee, have made a selection of works for which grants have been or are being offered, vide proceedings of the Standing Committee on Roads of March 19th, 1932, copies of which are in the library. Under the provisions of the Resolution of the Legislative Assembly above referred to, any balance in the reserve not eventually utilised for these purposes will be distributed in the same manner as the rest of the receipts in the Road Development Account.

(e) and (f). The Honourable Member is referred to the reply given to parts (e) and (f) of Nawab Naharsingji Ishwarsingji's starred question No. 82 in this House on the 2nd February, 1933.

IMPORT OF MOTORS INTO INDIA AND THE DUTY THUS REALISED.

192. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad: Will Government be pleased to supply a statement showing :

(a) the total number of motors—buses, touring cars and trucks—of English, French, Italian, American and other makes imported into India during the years 1931-32 and 1932-33 ; and

(b) the total amount of duty realised from, and the rate of duty, on these cars ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore: (a) and (b). I lay on the table a statement furnishing the information required.

Statement showing the number of motor cars, etc., imported from certain countries and the amount of duty realised from and the rates of duty on these cars.

Countries whence imported.	1931-32.		1932-33.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Order, order. In this connection the Chair would suggest to Honourable Members to use their discretion in deciding what ought to be a starred question and what ought to be an unstarred question. Questions Nos. 191 and 192 of Mr. Maswood Ahmad simply ask for the laying on the table of certain statements, and the Chair would suggest to the Honourable Member that such questions might be left as unstarred questions. (Applause.)

PERSONS IN JAIL IN CONNECTION WITH THE CIVIL DISOBEDIENCE MOVEMENT OR OTHER POLITICAL MOVEMENTS.

193. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad: Will Government be pleased to state the number of persons in jail in different provinces (each province separately) on the 30th June, 1933, in connection with the Civil Disobedience Movement or other political movements ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig: I lay a statement on the table giving the information in my possession relating to the Civil Disobedience Movement.

Statement showing number of persons (under ordinary law and central and provincial Acts) undergoing imprisonment.

DETENUS KEPT IN DIFFERENT PLACES.

194. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad: Will Government be pleased to state the number of detenus kept in different places on the 30th June, 1933, with their nationality and community ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig: I lay on the table a statement giving the particulars required so far as they are available.

Statement of persons in jails or internment camps under (a) the Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act, and (b) as State Prisoners under Regulations III of 1818 and XXV of 1827.

(a) The number of persons detained in jails or detention camps under the Bengal Criminal Law Amendment Act on the 30th June, 1933, was 1,407 all of whom were in Bengal except 97 in Deoli. These persons are all inhabitants of Bengal.

(b) The number of State Prisoners in jail was 35 as follows :

GOLD EXPORTED FROM INDIA SINCE GREAT BRITAIN WENT OFF THE GOLD STANDARD.

195. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state the total weight in tolas and the total value of gold exported from India since Britain went off the gold standard up to the 30th June, 1933 ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : 18¼ million fine ounces of gold were exported from India between the 22nd September, 1931, and the 30th June, 1933, of a value of approximately as 141½ crores.

Mr. S. G. Jog : In view of the large exports of gold, is it likely that there will be any change in the policy of the Government of India as regards putting a ban on the export of gold now ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : The answer is in the negative.

Mr. B. Das : Will the Honourable Member kindly tell us how much of this huge amount of gold exported is distress gold ? What proportion does it bear to the total quantity exported ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : Will my Honourable friend please give me a definition of " distress gold " ?

Mr. B. Das : What this side of the House understands by " distress gold " is gold that comes out of the sale of trinkets of the peasants and the distressed people of this country to pay the land revenue of the Government and the dues of the landholders and also to satisfy the gnawing hunger to which they are victims owing to economic distress.

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : I am afraid it is impossible to answer my Honourable friend's question, but I would refer him to the very full statement that I gave analysing the effects of the export of gold in my budget speech for the Budget of 1933-34.

Mr. B. Das : As far as I recollect, did not the Honourable Member say at the time that about £9 million came from distress gold ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : I think my Honourable friend will find that I was very careful not to use the expression " distress gold " at all.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Might I know from the Honourable Member what is his definition of " distress gold " ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : I think that is clearly a request for an expression of opinion on my part.

DETENUS SENT TO THE DEOLI DETENTION CAMP.

196. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state how many more detenus were sent to Deoli Detention Camp in the month of July, 1933, and what are their names ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : 97 detenus were sent to Deoli in July. I do not propose to publish their names.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Was the majority of detenus from Bengal ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Yes : all from Bengal.

FOREIGN COMPANIES DOING INSURANCE BUSINESS IN INDIA.

197. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Will Government be pleased to state : (i) how many foreign companies are doing insurance business in India, and (ii) how much Indian capital has been invested in these companies ?

(b) What amount was paid as income-tax by these firms to the Indian exchequer ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : (a) (i). 146.

(ii) The information is not available.

(b) The information is not available as we do not compile separately income-tax statistics for tax paid by foreign insurance companies.

DERAILMENT OF THE PUNJAB MAIL IN THE DINAPORE DIVISION, EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.

198. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Is it a fact that some accident took place in Dinapore division, East Indian Railway, in the month of May, 1933, and the 2 Down Punjab Mail was derailed ?

(b) Is it a fact that 16 Down Express passed before that accident on the same line ?

(c) Is it a fact that the Divisional Superintendent, Dinapore, or some other officer of that division passed in a saloon by the 16 Down Express and he had some talk with the Station Master at Kiul Junction ?

(d) Will Government be pleased to lay on the table the list of the casualties on account of the accident ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) Yes. At about 23-20 hours on the 2nd May, 1933, No. 2 Down Mail was derailed between Dumra and Burhee stations on the East Indian Railway.

(b) Yes.

(c) The Divisional Superintendent, East Indian Railway, Dinapore, was advised of the accident at Jasidih Junction while on his way to Calcutta on duty by 16 Down Express and returned from that station to the scene of accident by 1 Up Punjab Mail.

(d) The casualties were 5 killed and 13 injured.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Who was the officer who was travelling on this 16 Express ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : The Divisional Superintendent, East Indian Railway, Dinapore.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Did he feel any jerking when he was going by the 16 Express ? My information is that there was some jerking and that he asked the Station Master at Kiul : and so I want to know this.

Mr. P. R. Rau : I am afraid, I must ask for notice of that question.

SEPARATION OF ADEN FROM INDIA.

199. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Is it a fact that Government have recommended to the Secretary of State for India in Council the separation of Aden from India ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to state whether the different interests in Aden were consulted ?

(c) Will Government be pleased to lay on the table the opinion they have received and the correspondence which has passed between them and the Secretary of State for India on this matter ?

(d) Do Government propose to give some chance in this Session to discuss the question of separation of Aden on the floor of this House ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : (a) and (b). I have nothing to add to the information given in the communiqué issued by the Government of India on the 20th June of which I lay a copy on the table.

(c) It would not be in the public interest to comply with this request.

(d) Yes.

Government of India Press Communiqué, dated the 20th June, 1933.

His Majesty's Government have recently received representations from different communities among the inhabitants of Aden as well as from certain quarters in India expressing their various views in regard to transfer of the administration of Aden from the control of the Government of India to His Majesty's Government. The matter is one which is now receiving the consideration of His Majesty's Government and of the Government of India in connection with impending constitutional changes. Full opportunity will be given for discussion in the Indian Legislative Chambers at their next session and for all interests concerned to state their views. Meanwhile, His Majesty's Government think that it would be convenient that the considerations which suggest the desirability of a transfer of the administration and the conditions that would be entailed by such a transfer should be made known, so that the problem can be discussed with full knowledge of the facts. The reasons which suggest that Aden should not remain linked with India under the new constitution are that it is an area geographically remote from India ; that it would not naturally fit into the new federation ; that it is already to some extent under Imperial control and that it is inseparable in practice from the Aden Protectorate, which has already passed wholly out of Indian control. If it should be decided that the administration of Aden should be separated from that of India, His Majesty's Government contemplate that the following conditions would be established :—

(1) India would be relieved of the annual contribution of approximately £150,000 sterling or rupees twenty lakhs at present payable towards the military and Political administration.

(2) The right of appeal in judicial cases to the Bombay High Court would be maintained.

(3) His Majesty's Government would maintain the existing policy of making Aden a free port unless some radical change in the present economic situation should take place. From their own point of view abandonment of this policy would clearly, in existing economic conditions, be financially unsound since the prosperity of Aden depends largely upon its transit trade.

(4) His Majesty's Government would do their utmost to maintain the present standard of administration and would not impose any additional taxation unless such a course became in their opinion absolutely necessary.

(5) A proportion of Indian Service Administrative personnel would be retained in the Aden Service for some years after the transfer took place.

(6) No racial legislation or segregation would be permitted by His Majesty's Government.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Might I know from the Honourable Member if the opinion of the public of India has been secured on this question ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : Yes ; the opinion of the public of India has been secured.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : May I know whether the opinions of the different classes of people affected in Aden have been collected, and whether they will be laid before this House when the question of the transfer of Aden comes before us for discussion ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : Yes : I think I am right in saying that the opinion of the different communities in Aden has been received, and Honourable Members, during the discussion, will have an opportunity of inquiring what that opinion is, and will be informed.

Mr. B. Das : Will the Honourable the Leader of the House kindly give us an indication of the probable date on which the subject of Aden will be discussed on the floor of this House ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I am afraid I cannot give any information at this moment ; but when I am making an announcement as to the course of public business, I will in due course make mention of the date on which the Resolution will be taken.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Have Government received any representation from any one in India favouring the idea of the separation of Aden from India ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : No : I do not think we have.

RE-OPENING OF THE CELLULAR JAIL IN THE ANDAMANS.

200. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Is it a fact that the Cellular Jail in the Andamans has been re-opened for the deported political prisoners from India ? Are Government aware of the vehement popular feeling against this re-opening ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The Cellular Jail has never been closed. The amount of feeling aroused by the transfer of terrorist prisoners to that jail is a matter on which the Honourable Member and I would probably differ.

ILLNESS OF MR. DHIRENDRA CHANDRA KUNDU ROY, A DETENU IN THE DEOLI DETENTION CAMP.

201. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Is it a fact that Dhirendra Chandra Kundu Roy, B.A., detenu in Deoli, is suffering from insomnia, piles and other diseases ?

(b) Was any prayer for home internment at Munshigunj made by his father ?

(c) Is it a fact that his condition is taking a serious turn now and his life is in danger ?

(d) Do Government propose to give facilities to him to be treated in his home district by his family doctor ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) and (c). The detenu is suffering from insomnia and piles but not severely. He has been working hard for the Intermediate Law Examination and is neurasthenic. He was recently examined by the Chief Medical Officer in Rajputana and treatment was prescribed for him.

(b) and (d). Yes. The petition is under the consideration of the Government of Bengal.

GOLD AND SILVER RESERVES IN INDIA.

202. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Have Government increased their gold reserves in India since England went off the gold standard, i.e., from the 22nd September, 1932 ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to lay on the table a statement showing their gold reserves and silver reserves, in fine ounces or tolas in India and in England (separately) on the following dates :

(i) 31st March, 1931,
(ii) 22nd September, 1931,
(iii) 31st December, 1931,
(iv) 31st March, 1932,
(v) 31st December, 1932,
(vi) 31st March, 1933,
(vii) 31st July, 1933 ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : (a) and (b). A statement is laid on the table.

RESOLUTIONS PASSED BY THE PROVINCIAL CONFERENCE OF THE TRANSVAAL INDIAN CONGRESS HELD AT JOHANNESBURG.

203. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Are Government aware of the resolutions passed by the Provincial Conference of the Transvaal Indian Congress held at Johannesburg on 24th and 25th May, 1933, under the Presidentship of Mr. C. K. T. Naidoo ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to lay on the table a copy of those resolutions ?

(c) Is it a fact that the Agent of the Government of India was represented by his Secretary ?

(d) What steps Government have taken in the matters referred to in the resolutions ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : (a) and (b). Government have only seen Press reports of the resolutions so far and are therefore unable to comply with the Honourable Member's request at present.

(c) The Secretary to the Agent in South Africa attended the meetings.

(d) Government have not been approached by the Congress to take any action, nor does the reported subject matter of the resolutions disclose that, where the Government of India have not already taken action, their Agent in South Africa would not be in a position to do whatever might be necessary.

Mr. B. Das : May I inquire if the Honourable Member has not received officially a copy of these resolutions from the Agent in South Africa ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : No : because it is the practice of the Agent to forward copies when he receives them from the Congress ; and he does not appear to have received official copies from the Congress.

Mr. B. Das : May I inquire if the Agent or his Secretary does not furnish the Honourable Member's Department week by week with the trend of events in South Africa ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : Certainly ; we get a fortnightly report from the Agent and a monthly report from the Secretary, but the question relates to resolutions passed by the Congress and not to the general trend of events.

BODIES IN TRANSVAAL REPRESENTING THE INDIAN INTERESTS.

204. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Is it a fact that there are two bodies in Transvaal representing the Indian interests, namely (i) Transvaal Indian Congress, and (ii) Transvaal Indian Commercial Asiatic Association ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : The answer is in the affirmative ; but the proper designation of the second body is the Transvaal Indian Commercial Association.

AMOUNT CONTRIBUTED BY THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA TO DIFFERENT PROVINCES FOR THE BENEFIT OF AGRICULTURE.

205. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : What amount have tre Government of India contributed to the different provinces (each province separately) for the benefit of agriculture ?

Mr. G. S. Bajpai : The Government of India do not give direct financial aid to provinces for the benefit of agriculture. They place a lump sum annually, for research work, at the disposal of the Imperial Council of Agricultural Research, which considers all schemes of all-India importance, including those submitted by Local Governments, and decides the measure of financial assistance to be given in each case. A statement showing the amounts placed at the disposal of various Local Governments since the Council came into being is laid on the table.

EXPORT DUTY ON RICE.

206. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Are Government aware that the export duty on rice has affected the export of rice to a very great extent ?

(b) Are Government aware of any foreign country where there is export duty on rice ?

(c) Are Government aware that in foreign markets Indian rice cannot compete with the rice of other countries on account of the export duty ?

(d) Are Government aware of the cost of growing (including the cost of separation and polishing) rice in India and the average selling price of rice in India in 1932 and 1933 ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : (a) and (c). Government have received representations containing statements to this effect.

(b) Export duties are levied in Siam and Indo-China—the two principal rice producing countries whose products compete with Indian rice in foreign markets.

(d) There are no reliable data on which to base an estimate of the cost of production of rice in India. A statement showing the average prices of rice at four different centres in India for the period January to June, 1932, and January to June, 1933, is laid on the table.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Are Government aware what are the rates of export duty in those countries ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : No ; I have not inquired into that matter.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will the Honourable Member be pleased to inquire and lay in due course this information on the table ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I shall certainly do so.

SEATS FOR MUSLIMS IN THE BIHAR AND ORISSA LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

213. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Is it a fact that according to the Premier's previous decision, 24 per cent. seats in the whole House were given to Muslims by separate electorate in the Bihar and Orissa Provincial Legislative Council ?

(b) Is it a fact that the combined Muslim seats in the Bihar Province and in the new Orissa Province compared with the total strength of the legislatures of both the provinces according to the Premier's second announcement are less than 22 per cent. ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : (a) and (b). The answer is in the affirmative, except that the decision in each case was the decision not of the Prime Minister, but of His Majesty's Government.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Do Government propose to inform the Secretary of State of this fact ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I should say that the Secretary of State is already aware of this " fact ".

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : He is so well aware that in the second award the percentage of Muslims has been decreased. Is that not so ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I have no reason to assume that His Majesty's Government were not aware of the full facts of the case before they came to their final conclusion.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Are Government aware that some of the facts may escape his notice, because, after all, the Secretary of State is also a human being ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I believe, Sir, that no relevant facts have escaped the notice of His Majesty's Government.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Are Government prepared to forward a representation containing full facts to the Secretary of State, if they receive one ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I shall wait, Sir, until we receive that representation.

Mr. B. Das : Is it not a fact, Sir, that one of the Muslim delegates raised this question in England ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : I am not aware of that.

VALUE OF SERVICE STAMPS.

214. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state whether the value of service stamps is shown in the income of the Postal Department ?

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : By " Postal Department ", the Honourable Member presumably refers to the " Posts and Telegraphs Department ". If so, the reply is in the affirmative.

ACTION TAKEN ON THE RECOMMENDATIONS CONTAINED IN MR. K. M. HASSAN'S REPORT.

215. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Have Government issued any order or circular on Mr. K. M. Hassan's report ?

(b) If the reply be in the negative, will they be pleased to state at what stage the recommendation of the Railway Board is pending ?

(c) Will Government be pleased to state when they propose to issue any circular on the recommendation of the Railway Board for Muslim representation in Railway services ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) No.

(b) and (c). The whole question of the representation of the minority communities in the Services, including the Railway Department, is still under the consideration of the Government of India.

GOVERNMENT'S SHARE IN COMPANY-MANAGED RAILWAYS.

216. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Will Government be pleased to state what is the proportion of their share in the Bombay, Baroda and Central India Railway ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to state what is the proportion of their share in the Assam Bengal Railway ?

(c) Will Government be pleased to state what is the proportion of their share in the Bengal-Nagpur Railway ?

(d) Will Government be pleased to state what is the proportion of their share in the Madras and Southern Marhatta Railway ?

(e) Will Government be pleased to state what is the proportion of their share in the South Indian Railway ?

(f) Will Government be pleased to state what is the proportion of their share in the Burma Railways ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : It is presumed that the Honourable Member wishes to know Government's share in the capital of the six Railways named. I may explain that all these Railways are already the property of Government and one of them, the Burma Railways is managed by Government and the whole of the capital is Government capital. In regard to the other five Railways, the information required by the Honourable Member is contained in Accounts Nos. 25 and 25-A of the Finance and Revenue Accounts of the Government of India, copies of which are in the Library, but I place a statement on the table giving in each case the Government capital outlay, the share capital and debentures found by the managing company and capital contributed by other parties, e.g., Indian States and District Boards.

QUALIFICATIONS FOR APPOINTMENT AS CHIEF CLAIMS CLERK IN THE OFFICE OF THE DEPUTY CHIEF COMMERCIAL MANAGER, EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.

207. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Is it a fact that qualifications required for appointment as Chief Claims clerk in the office of the Deputy Chief Commercial Manager, East Indian Railway, Calcutta, are special aptitude for commercial work, intelligence and education with ability to guide, direct and control the staff subordinate to him ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to state what is the test for the qualifications mentioned in part (a) ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) Yes. My Honourable friend is apparently quoting from a reply I gave in this House in February last.

(b) Obviously these qualifications will be judged by the past record of the clerks from among whom a selection is made.

PASSES OF DIFFERENT CLASSES ALLOWED TO RAILWAY EMPLOYEES.

208. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state the principle according to which passes of different classes are allowed to Railway employees ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : Gazetted Officers (including those holding honorary rank) get first class passes ; as regards subordinates the class depends on the pay drawn and the classification is not exactly the same on all railways ; but generally persons drawing over Rs. 125 get second class passes and those drawing less than Rs. 50 get third class passes. The others get intermediate class passes.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Is it a fact that teachers of the Oakgrove School do not get first class passes apart from this rule ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I think, Sir, my Honourable friend has another question on the paper regarding that.

ISSUE OF RAILWAY PASSES TO GOVERNMENT SERVANTS INSTEAD OF GRANTING TRAVELLING ALLOWANCE.

209. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Will Government be pleased to state the principle according to which first and second class fare is allowed to the Government servants other than Railway employees ?

(b) Do Government propose to allow passes to all the Government servants instead of allowing them Railway fare for travelling allowance ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : (a) Government servants of the first and second grades are allowed 1½ first class or second class fares respectively when on tour in order to cover the cost of their own transport as well as inevitable incidental expenditure.

(b) No.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Are Government aware that issuing of passes would lead to decrease in expenditure ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : I am not in possession of any information which leads me to suppose that Government will gain anything. The proposal was considered very carefully some time ago, and the change in procedure would involve considerably increased amount of accounting work, and it was rejected on that ground.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Was the question of issuing passes discussed ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : Yes.

PERSONS DETAINED IN DIFFERENT DETENTION CAMPS IN INDIA.

210. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state the total number of persons who are still detained in different detention camps ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Up to the end of July, 1933, which is the latest information I have, there were 1,139 persons under detention in detention camps including those confined in the Deoli Detention Jail.

FIRST CLASS RAILWAY PASSES ALLOWED TO THE HEAD MISTRESS OF THE OAKGROVE SCHOOL.

211. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state whether the allowing of First class passes to the Mistresses of Oakgrove School was a personal concession to the Head Mistress who was in service in the time of the late Board of Directors of the East Indian Railway Company or was it personal for all the Mistresses of the Oakgrove School ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : The privilege of allowing first class passes to the teaching staff of the Oakgrove School has been treated as personal to the present permanent incumbents and it has been decided that it will not apply to their successors.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Do Government propose to discuss this question of issuing passes to mistresses and other teaching staff of the Oakgrove School at the next meeting of the Central Advisory Committee for Railways, because this school is intended for two Railways, the N.-W. R. and the E. I. R. ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I am not sure, Sir, what question the Honourable Member wishes to discuss. I have already informed the House that it has been decided that this privilege will not be continued to the successors of the present staff.

EXTENSION OF CERTAIN PRIVILEGES TO THE BIHAR AND ORISSA AND CALCUTTA MUSLIM CHAMBERS OF COMMERCE.

212. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Is it a fact that the question of extending the privileges to the Bihar and Orissa Muslim Chamber and the Calcutta Muslim Chamber of Commerce which are usually extended to recognised Chambers of Commerce, has been under consideration ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to state what is their decision in the matter mentioned above ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : (a) Yes.

(b) Both the Bihar and Orissa Muslim Chamber of Commerce and the Muslim Chamber of Commerce, Calcutta, have been included in the in the United States of America normally connotes the indigenous North American Indian.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Are Government aware that the term " Hindus " for Indians has misled many people in that country ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : No, Sir ; I am not aware of that.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Are Government aware that in India there are many classes of people who call themselves Hindus, Muslims and Sikhs, and, that therefore, is it not better that instead of calling them Hindus the term " Indians " should be used for all of them ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : In that case apparently there will be some difficulty in the United States of America in distinguishing them from the North American Indian.

Mr. S. G. Jog : Is it not a fact, Sir, that Mussalmans there are called Hindus ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : Yes.

EXAMINATION FOR RECRUITMENT OF ASSISTANTS AND CLERKS IN THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA SECRETARIAT AND ATTACHED OFFICES.

220. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Have Government's attention been drawn to a letter by a candidate, published on Tuesday, 4th July, 1933 in the Sind Observer in connection with the competitive examination to be shortly held by the Public Service Commission for appointment of Assistants and clerks in the first and second divisions of the ministerial establishment of the Government of India Secretariat and attached offices ?

(b) Is it a fact that in the notice inviting applications no idea was given as to how many appointments had to be filled up from amongst the candidates appearing for the examination ?

(c) Is it a fact that the number of seats reserved on the communal basis and the number of seats for general competition were announced so late as only about a week before the date of the examination ?

(d) Is it a fact that only six appointments were intended to be filled up by general competition ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) and (b). The replies are in the affirmative.

(c) The examination referred to was held on the 3rd July, 1933, and the notice announcing the number of vacancies expected to be available for the examination was issued on the 22nd June.

(d) Six appointments were offered for open competition, and six to be filled by competition among members of minority communities. The vacancies announced are those that were reported to the Public Service Commission at the time of the issue of the notice. As vacancies that may occur up to the 30th September, 1934, are under the rules, to be filled on the results of the examination in question, the number of vacancies announced is not necessarily the maximum. I understand that some additional vacancies have since been reported to the Public Service Commission.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Is there any difficulty in giving the approximate number of candidates that would be taken up so that many candidates may not apply ? Will it be difficult for the Honourable Member to advise the Public Service Commission to always state the approximate number of candidates that would be appointed ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The difficulty, Sir, arises out of the fact that the examination is held not only for a certain number of vacancies that have already occurred, but for those that will occur apparently during the next year.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : It is, therefore, that I have used the word " approximate ".

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : It is very difficult to give an estimate of the number of vacancies that will occur during the coming year.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Will the Honourable Member be pleased to enquire from the Public Service Commission whether the course that I am suggesting would be very difficult or impossible ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am not quite sure what the suggestion of the Honourable Member precisely is.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : The suggestion is, will it be very impossible for the Public Service Commission to gauge how many candidates have to be appointed ? Could they not know the approximate number of vacancies likely to occur ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : As far as possible, the Public Service Commission do carry out the procedure suggested by the Honourable Member, that is to say, they make enquiries from the various Departments as to the number of vacancies which may be regarded as certain and they do announce those, but that is not necessarily the maximum.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : What I wanted to know was whether they give in the notice the approximate number of vacancies that are likely to occur ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : It is obvious that the later that information is collected the more complete it is likely to be.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : May I request the Honourable Member to issue instructions to the Public Service Commission that they should consider the advisability of giving the approximate number of vacancies in their notice ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I am not sure what the Honourable Member means by the notice.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : I mean the notice published in the papers that the Public Service Commission is going to hold an examination. In that notice they do not say how many candidates are going to be appointed, at least approximately, so that people may know. If there are only six vacancies, 1,500 people will not apply as at present. What I am suggesting is that the Public Service Commission should be instructed to mention in the notice the approximate number of candidates that they are going to take up.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : If the notice to which the Honourable Member refers is published a long time before the examination, as I have explained, the estimate would be likely to be far from accurate, but I am perfectly prepared to pass on the Honourable Member's suggestion to the Public Service Commission for their consideration.

MURDER OF ONE SARDAR SHER SINGH IN CALIFORNIA, UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

217. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Is it a fact that one Sikh, Sardar Sher Singh Sathi, who was a member of the Sikh community in the United States of America, was murdered at Elcentro in California ?

(b) Are Government aware of the number of Indians in California and in the whole of the United States of America ?

(c) Are Government aware of any Ghadar party in California ?

(d) Is it a fact that the late Sardar Sher Singh was murdered in connection with the Ghadar party ?

(e) Will Government be pleased to state the information which they are in possession of about the Ghadar party ?

(f) Is it a fact that three more victims during the past 18 months in the United States of America, were Sant Ram Pandi, Ram Dhani and Lal Singh ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : (a) and (d). The Honourable Member is referred to my answer to Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh's question No. 155.

(b) 1930 Census shows 2,233 Indians resident in California and 5,850 in all in the United States of America.

(c) Yes.

(e) The Honourable Member is referred to the judgment in the Lahore Conspiracy Case of 1915 and the complaint in the Mandalay Conspiracy Case of 1915 which gave the origin object and the activities of the Ghadar party. That party is known to be still in existence but it will not be in the public interest to disclose Government's information of its present activities.

(f) According to the information received by the Government of India, Lal Singh was murdered on the 26th November, 1931, by one Achal alias Bhagat Singh, in California, who when arrested was wearing the pin of membership of the Hindustan Ghadar party. Government have no information about the murder of Sant Ram Pandi and Ram Dhani.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Is there a copy of that judgment, to which the Honourable Member refers, in the Library of the House ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : I do not know. I should think it probably is. I am not certain.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : If that copy is not in the Library, will the Honourable Member please see that a copy is placed there so that we may refer to it ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : Certainly, Sir.

REPORTS OF MR. I. M. PEKHAM, UNITED STATES ATTORNEY, ABOUT THE Ghadar PARTY MAGAZINE.

218. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Is it a fact that the United States Attorney, Mr. I. M. Pekham, in a report says :

"All Hindus, though but few of them can read, are forced to subscribe to "Kirti" the Ghadar party magazine at five dollars a year. So fear-striken and benighted are the Ghadar that they dare not refuse the demands for money which they are told is in payment for bringing them into the United States and keeping them here. Two thousand dollars from the war chest was recently sent to Lahore to defend bombers who killed a high British officer" ?

(b) Are Government in possession of all the four reports of the Attorney, Mr. I. M. Pekham, in this connection ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : (a) Government have seen the report which was published in the San Francisco Chronicle of April 25, 1933. If the report is correct the answer is in the affirmative.

(b) No, Sir.

CALLING OF INDIANS AS HINDUS IN THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA.

219. *Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : (a) Is it a fact that Indians are called Hindus in the United States of America ?

(b) Do Government propose to draw the attention of the authorities in the United States of America through their representatives there to mention Indians in official records as Indians and not as Hindus ?

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler : (a) While Indians are generally called 'Hindus' in the press, the term "East Indian" is understood to be normally used in official circles.

(b) Government do not consider that any useful purpose would be served by making such representations, especially as the term "Indian"

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : I thank you very much.

Bhai Parma Nand : May I know from the Honourable Member what he means by the minority community in Sind ?

Some Honourable Members : There was no question like that.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I do not think that there was any reference to Sind.

Bhai Parma Nand : My question is whether Sikhs are regarded as a minority.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I referred to all minority communities.

Mr. Muhammad Anwar-ul-Azim : Will the Government of India tell us whether it is a fact that last time when candidates were called for by the Public Service Commission, the Government earned about Rs. 50,000 by that process and ultimately it was found that there were only six vacancies ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The next question on the paper relates to that matter.

ADMISSION FEE FOR THE EXAMINATION FOR RECRUITMENT OF ASSISTANTS AND CLERKS IN THE GOVERNMENT OF INDIA SECRETARIAT AND ATTACHED OFFICES.

221. Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : (a) Will Government be pleased to state how much admission fee for the Public Service Commission examination for the First and Second Divisions of the Government of India Secretariat was levied from each candidate and how much in aggregate was gathered ?

(b) How do Government justify so large an amount being recovered ?

(c) Is it a fact that about 1,500 candidates have been admitted for six appointments only ?

(d) Do Government propose to reduce the admission fees for such examinations, especially when the number of candidates is likely to be so large and the number of appointments to be filled so small ? If not, why not ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : (a) The fee fixed for admission to the examination was Rs. 20 per candidate. The total amount of fees realised was Rs. 26,580.

(b) and (d). The Government of India do not consider that there is justification for reducing the fees for this examination which are not excessive in themselves.

(c) 1,278 candidates were admitted.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : What was the cost which was incurred by the Government of India on this examination ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I doubt whether it will be possible to calculate the cost precisely, because it depends on the work of a permanent staff.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : How do the Government justify the appropriation of so much money when only six persons were to be appointed ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : It is not intended to be a commercial transaction. (Some Honourable Members : " Oh, it is ".) It is necessary to fix a definite examination fee and the Public Service Commission feel very definitely that there would be practical disadvantages in lowering that fee, because it would only result in an unmanageable number of candidates coming forward. As it is, they regret the fact that a large number of candidates, who have no possible chances of success, insist on entering and paying that Rs. 20.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : So much money has been recovered and only a few candidates have been successful, and will the Honourable Member consider the question of refunding the fees to the unsuccessful men ? (Laughter.)

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Does not the Honourable Member recognise in this large number of candidates for a small number of appointments an index of the unemployment that prevails among the educated young men of the country ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Yes, I think it certainly is an index, but at the same time one has got to bear in mind that apparently a large number of candidates who, as I say, have no possible chance of success, because their qualifications are obviously inadequate, still enter imagining that they may have some chance.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Having regard to the fact that the Honourable Member recognises that this state of things reflects a serious condition of unemployment among the young men of the country, what action do the Government of India propose to remedy the situation ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : That, Sir, is not a question, I am afraid, that should be addressed to me.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : May I ask whether this system of imposing fees does not lead to Government jobs being given only to those people who can gamble away with the amount of the fee ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : It would if the rate of fee were very high, but the fee is only Rs. 20.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Does the Honourable Member consider it to be compatible with the moral principles observed by Government, to allow the Public Service Commission to earn a dividend for the Government of India ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Well, Sir, the Government would be very pleased if the Honourable Member could suggest to us some means whereby the number of candidates can be reduced.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : I thought the Government of India could be expected to have a policy of their own in regard to reduction of unemployment in the country. I am not the Government of India.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir. I thought the Honourable Member's suggestion was that the Public Service Commission were in some way responsible for deriving undue revenue from these fees. I maintain that that is not so, and, so far as the Public Service Commission is concerned, they would be very glad if the number of candidates could be strictly limited to those who really have a chance of passing the examination.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : Would it not be true to say that the Government of India are trading upon the distress of the unemployed in the country in this particular fashion ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No. It certainly would not. I have to repeat for the third time that the majority of these fees come from persons who, whether there was unemployment or there was not unemployment, could not possibly succeed in the examination.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government seriously consider the question of asking the Public Service Commission to mention in their notice the approximate number of appointments that are likely to be offered ?

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Order, order. That question has been asked and answered.

Mr. T. N. Ramakrishna Reddi : Will Government seriously consider the question of closing down many of the arts colleges which are turning out so many educated people without any employment in Government service, and opening technical and commercial institutions so that students may find employment elsewhere by taking to trade and commerce ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : That again, I think, is a question which might be addressed to one of my Honourable colleagues.

Mr. C. S. Ranga Iyer : Is there not a danger, if the fee is lowered, of the number of unqualified or incompetent candidates increasing abnormally.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : That is precisely the point. I entirely agree.

PANEL OF CHAIRMEN.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : I have to inform the House that under Rule 3 (1) of the Indian Legislative Rules, I nominate Mr. H. P. Mody, Mr. K. C. Neogy, Sir Leslie Sewell Hudson and Sir Abdulla-al-Mámún Suhrawardy on the Panel of Chairmen for the current Session.

COMMITTEE ON PETITIONS.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : I have also to announce that under Standing Order 80 (1) of the Legislative Assembly Standing Orders, the following Honourable Members will form the Committee on Petitions :

Sir Leslie Sewell Hudson.

Mr. B. Sitaramaraju.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh.

Kunwar Hajee Ismail Ali Khan.

The Assembly then adjourned for Lunch till Half Past Two of the Clock.

The Assembly re-assembled after Lunch at Half Past Two of the Clock, Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) in the Chair.

STATEMENTS LAID ON THE TABLE.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig (Home Member) : Sir, I lay on the table the information promised in reply to starred question No. 1190 asked by Mr. B. N. Misra on the 10th April, 1933.

MOTOR DRIVERS OF POLICE OFFICERS IN DELHI.

*1190. The posting of personal orderlies to gazetted officers of Police is sanctioned by the Punjab Police Rules which apply to the Delhi Police. Provided that the sanctioned scale of orderlies is not exceeded officers are allowed to employ an orderly as motor driver and cleaner, but they are not allowed to employ a police constable on this duty over and above the sanctioned scale of orderlies.

Major W. K. Fraser-Tytler (Foreign Secretary) : Sir, I lay on the table the information promised in reply to starred question No. 275 asked by Mr. Lalchand Navalrai on the 8th February, 1933.

COMPLAINTS AND HARDSHIPS OF INDIANS IN THE PANAMANIAN COUNTRIES, AMERICA.

*275. (a) and (b). Government have no precise information which would enable them to reply to the Honourable Member's question. The number of Indians in Panama in 1931 was stated to be approximately 1,000, the majority of whom were interested in business.

(c) Government have no reason to suppose that British Indians in that country are treated less fairly than any other class of foreigners. Panamanian law requires that the employees of all business establishments operating in the Republic shall consist to the extent of at least 75 per cent. of Panamanian nationals. This obligation rests upon all such establishments, whether they be owned by Panamanians or by foreigners. In the case of British Indian firms, however, the proportion of Panamanian employees to be engaged by them will, for special reasons and as a special concession, amount to no more than 50 per cent. up to December 19th, 1935, after which date the full quota of 75 per cent. will be applicable.

(e) Government have no information on this subject.

(f) Some scurrilous circulars have been distributed, it is suggested, at the instigation of native labour organisation. But there is nothing to indicate that the Panamanian authorities approved of such distribution or that they were in any way privy to it. The circulars do not appear to have attracted much attention.

(g) Government have no information about this. If however the Honourable Member is referring to Immigration laws it is understood that no special restrictions are now placed on the entry of British Indians into Panama.

(h) There is a British Minister at Panama.

(i) and (j). The case of British Indian merchants in the matter of the employment of Panamanian nationals was duly presented by His Majesty's Minister to the Government of Panama from which it received the fullest measure of sympathetic consideration possible in view of the stipulations of the law.

(k) Government will again bring to the notice of His Majesty's Minister at Panama any further complaints which Indians in Panama may have to make.

Mr. G. S. Bajpai (Secretary, Department of Education, Health and Lands) : Sir, I lay on the table :

(i) the information promised in reply to starred question No. 789 asked by Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh on the 20th March, 1933 ; and (ii) the information promised in reply to starred questions Nos. 1206 and 1207 asked by Mr. Uppi Sahib Bahadur on the 10th April, 1933.

CLOSING TO THE PUBLIC OF THE VICTORIA PARK IN QUEEN'S GARDEN, DELHI.

*783. The so-called Victoria Park is a grass plot, 1,433 sq. yds. in area, which has not been open to the public for some years mainly to protect the lawn and thus provide an appropriate setting to the statue of Queen Victoria which it surrounds.

PROTECTORS OF HAJ PILGRIMS AT KARACHI.

*1206. (a) Khan Sahib Abdul Kadir Umar Khan.

(b) A clerk in the Office of the Commissioner in Sind and then Mukhtiarkar and Mir Munshi to the Commissioner.

(c) Sixty-six years.

PROTECTORS OF HAJ PILGRIMS AT KARACHI.

*1207. (a) and (b). The local authorities from whom enquiries were made have stated that the Khan Sahib is fit for the post, both physically and mentally, and that he has been performing his duties to their complete satisfaction.

Mr. P. R. Rau (Financial Commissioner, Railways) : Sir, I lay on the table :

(i) the information promised in reply to starred question No. 389 asked by Rai Bahadur Lala Brij Kishore on the 21st February, 1933 ;

(ii) the information promised in reply to starred question No. 997 asked by Mr. N. M. Joshi on the 28th March, 1933 ;

(iii) the information promised in reply to starred question No. 993 asked by Mr. Nabakumar Sing Dudhoria on the 28th March, 1933 ;

(iv) the information promised in reply to starred question No. 1096 asked by Rai Bahadur Lala Brij Kishore on the 1st April, 1933 ;

(v) the information promised in reply to parts (a) and (c) of starred question No. 1218 asked by Mr. B. N. Misra on the 12th April, 1933 ; and (vi) the revised information to be substituted for the information laid on the table of the House on the 7th April, 1933, in reply to starred question No. 964 asked by Mr. B. N. Misra on the 28th March, 1933.

LEVEL CROSSING ON EITHER SIDE OF THE RAILWAY STATION AT UNAO.

*389. (a) Yes.

(b) 16 Up and 16 Down trains.

(c) Yes, but this refers particularly to the gate at the West end of the station.

(d) It is understood that, with the recent introduction of cabin interlocking at Unao and the construction of the Unao-Madhoganj line, delays to vehicular traffic at these level crossings have increased in duration.

(e), (f) and (g). The Railway Administration reports that complaints have been made by the public regarding the inconvenience caused at the level crossings, and the question of minimising the inconvenience has been receiving the careful consideration of the Administration. Arrangements are being made to provide—

(1) additional platform starters for broad gauge lines at the West end of the station,

(2) a sand dead end siding at the West end of the station to permit of two broad gauge trains being crossed more readily, and

(3) barrier type lifting gates at the West end to admit of quicker manipulation.

(h), (i) and (j). It is expected that the steps which are being taken will considerably minimise the present detentions. The cost of providing a sub-way or overbridge has not been estimated, but such a project is bound to be very expensive and may not be feasible, due to the close proximity of residential buildings.

PROMOTIONS OF THE OLD OUDH AND ROHILKHAND RAILWAY STAFF TO VACANCIES OF THE OLD EAST INDIAN RAILWAY STAFF.

*997. (a) No.

(b) Does not arise.

(c) No.

ALLEGATIONS AGAINST A RAILWAY OFFICIAL OF THE DINAPORE DIVISION.

*993. (a), (b) and (d). The Agent, East Indian Railway, reports that he has no knowledge of any such occurrence.

(c), (e) and (f). Do not arise.

(g) No.

PROMOTION OF INDIAN ASSISTANT STATION MASTERS TO THE POSTS OF PLATFORM ASSISTANTS ON THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.

*1096. (a) and (b). It is not a fact that Indian Assistant Station Masters are debarred from promotion to the grade of Platform Assistants at big junction stations.

There are four grades of Assistant Station Masters, viz.,—

(1) Rs. 40—4—68.
(2) Rs. 70—5—95.
(3) Rs. 100—5—110.
(4) Rs. 260—10—280.

Intervening between grades (3) and (4) above are the following grades :

Station Masters—
(1) Rs. 78—4—90.
(2) Rs. 95—5—120.

Controller, grade II—
Rs. 85—10—145.

Guards, grade I—
Rs. 90—10—180.

Relieving guards—
Rs. 210 (fixed).

Platform Assistants—
Rs. 200—10—240.

Four of these grades intervene between the grade of Assistant Station Master (Rs. 100—5—110) and Platform Assistant's grade (Rs. 200—10—240). The reason why the promotion to the Platform Assistant's grade (Rs. 200—10—240) is normally made from the Relieving Guard's grade (Rs. 210) is because this is the normal channel of promotion to the next higher grade. The Controller's grade II (Rs. 85—5—145) is open to all Assistant Station Masters and thereafter the Guards grade I and the Relieving Guard's grade (Rs. 210) are also open to them.

No Indian Assistant Station Master has yet been promoted to the grade of Platform Assistant for the reason that none have so far passed through the intervening grades, but they may advance in time to the grade of Platform Assistant on their individual merit as vacancies occur.

RE-ORGANISATION OF THE RAILWAY SCHOOL AT CHANDAUSI, EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.

*1218. (a) Yes.

(i) Yes.

(ii) I am not aware that the Court of Enquiry made any such recommendation. The standing instructions of Government are that when it is proposed to effect a comparatively large reduction of staff—say 100 employees or more, the recognized trade union should be informed.

(iii) It is understood they will not be discharged but arrangements will be made to absorb them elsewhere as opportunity offers.

(c) The present Superintendent has not previously held charge of a school but the Agent reports that he is fully trained in all technical and administrative matters and competent to hold the post.

DENIAL OF HILL ALLOWANCE TO THE RAILWAY-STAFF STATIONED AT DEHRA DUN.

*964. Owing to the unhealthiness of and higher cost of living on the Hardwar-Dehra Dun Section, the staff stationed there are granted an allowance. This allowance is not paid to subordinate staff stationed at Dehra Dun, in whose case the allowance is included in their rates of pay. They are, however, granted a house allowance at Rs. 5 per mensem, if not provided with railway quarters. The inferior staff at Dehra Dun receive an allowance of Rs. 2 per mensem.

Mr. P. R. Rau : In this connection I have to apologise to the House for the wrong information supplied which on further investigation was found to be inaccurate.

THE INDIAN RAILWAYS (AMENDMENT) BILL.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The House will now resume further consideration of the motion moved by the Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore that the Bill further to amend the Indian Railways Act, 1890, for a certain purpose, as reported by the Select Committee, be taken into consideration, together with the two amendments, one for circulation and the other for re-committal to the Select Committee.

Mr. K. P. Thampan (West Coast and Nilgiris : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Sir, as a member of the Opposition, I do not feel called upon to support the Government in a measure of this kind, but as one who was a member of the Select Committee and had a large share in shaping the Bill in its present form, I owe it to myself and to the House to explain what we did in the Select Committee and what were the reasons that actuated us to recast the Bill in the manner we did. Sir, what the House should remember at this stage is that, by its first reading, it has committed itself to the principle involved in the Bill, namely, that of allowing certain railways to start schemes of motor and other means of transport. What we in the Select Committee were asked and expected to do was to make it as acceptable as possible to the popular demands. It was in that light that we entered the Select Committee and I may say that in our humble way we have done our best. We were supplied with literature of all kinds including the opinions collected on the subject and we very carefully went into the whole of it and tried our best to meet all the points that were raised. I may say that the present Bill is not only an improvement on the old Bill, but it has been recast in such a manner that every possible objection has been satisfactorily removed. It is due to the Government that we should acknowledge that they accepted all the suggestions that were put forward by the non-officials, and, if the Bill is not more acceptable to the popular demands, the fault is perhaps, if I may say so, on our side and not on the side of the Government.

So far as I could understand, the chief objections to the Bill were, (1) that these railway companies, without confining themselves to their own tracks, are making an encroachment upon the public roads : (2) that with the enormous resources at their back they will crush all the private enterprises : (3) that as many as 45,000 bus owners in the country will suffer, and (4) that if this Bill is passed into law, about 90,000 people, depending on this service, will be thrown out of employment. These, Sir, were the chief objections which, so far as we were able to see, we had to deal with as contained in the literature that was supplied to us. With regard to the objection that the railways were encroaching upon the public roads, I would say that though it was a question of principle on which the House has already given a decision, it is not all the great railways, such as East Indian, Great Indian Peninsula and North Western Railways, that are invested with the right of starting motor services, but only the light railways and the feeder railways. I will present one aspect of the question. You know, Sir, that in the Presidency from which you and I come, the District Boards are the owners of these feeder railways and it is out of the money paid by the tax-payers in the shape of a special cess that these feeder railways were started. It is our duty to protect and safeguard the interests of the tax-payers and as such it is highly necessary that these District Boards ought to be allowed to start motor services over the roads which they themselves built if they would thereby be able to keep them up. The other light railways stand more or less on the same footing. With regard to the second objection, namely, that the railways have enormous resources and they would soon crush the private enterprise, it does not apply to this class of railways. They are very impecunious and, it is because of their impecuniosity, that they have been forced to approach the Legislature to get permission to start schemes of this kind.

With regard to the apprehension that special privileges are sought to be given by this measure, if Honourable Members will kindly read the present Bill, particularly sub-clause 4, it will be apparent that railways are allowed to work only on level terms with other services and subject to all rules and regulations. How this will act prejudicially to the railways I will show later on. With regard to the fourth objection, namely, that a large number of bus owners and people who eke out a livelihood from them will suffer, unfortunately the official report with regard to rail and motor controversy does not specifically mention the number of buses that will be affected if this Bill is passed. The figure 45,000 is for the whole of India and not the number that is going to be affected. I am sure, there will be only a very small number of buses and people depending upon them that will suffer, because it is only here and there that these services will be started. With regard to the complaint that it will work as a hardship to private owners and other vested interests, we thought the very fact that roads and communications, being transferred subjects, are administered by the popular Ministers in the provinces was sufficient guarantee. These Ministers are responsible to the people at large and as all those people who have got buses have their own votes in their capacity as tax-payers they will be in a position to dictate the policy of Local Governments in this respect. So, if there are local interests and parties that are going to be affected and aggrieved, the Ministers of Local Governments will see that such special interests are duly considered before permission is given to open these schemes. As a matter of fact, we have provided that no scheme can be launched upon without the permission of the Local Government. The clause specifically provides for that. Now, Sir, even with regard to the so-called level terms, I must say that the balance of advantage is on the side of private bus owners. I shall explain myself. A private owner has not got to apply to the Government of India or to the Local Government before he starts a service. He has only to pay the money to the District Board and get a permit. They are bound to give him a permit. There was recently a case in Madras where it was decided that the District Boards were bound to give a permit for running a motor service in any line whenever a party applies for it. They are not competent to go into the question whether conditions in the particular line justifies the grant or not. The only thing necessary is payment of money. But, according to this Bill, if a railway wants permission to introduce a scheme, they have to apply to the Governor General in Council who will refer to the Local Governments which mean the Ministry who will in turn consult the local boards concerned. It is a long and tardy process and finally sanction might be refused. A private owner has not got to do anything like that. He has only to go to a District Board, pay the money and get the permit and start the service straightaway. Further, there is a provision for the withdrawal of sanction or modification of the terms if any Local Government thought that a particular service was acting prejudically to the local interests. A private bus owner has nothing like that to face. What I maintain is that though the terms are said to be on a level basis, the weightage of restrictions is very much against the railways. With regard to the utility of this Bill, I must confess I have my doubts. A Railway can never compete with private service. We have seen in Madras the electric tramway company once tried bus service and lost a good deal. There were similar cases elsewhere. These public bodies have got to maintain an expensive staff of conductors, drivers, cleaners, and so on. In the case of the private owner, the owner himself is a driver, conductor, cleaner and also a mechanic, with the result that private service can be done on very cheap basis as compared with a railway company or an electric tramway company who has to meet heavy expenses on staff and overhead charges. As a business proposition, I am afraid, this Bill is not going to be utilised by any railway. My own fear is that it will remain more or less a dead letter. For these reasons, I think there is no need either to re-circulate this Bill or remit it back to the Select Committee. If the Government are anxious to proceed with this measure, there is no harm in allowing this Bill to go through. That is my considered opinion.

Mr. K. C. Neogy (Dacca Division : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : As one who did not give a very enthusiastic reception to this measure when it first came up for consideration, I owe it to this House to acknowledge the great improvement that has taken place in the Select Committee in the measure as originally introduced. My Honourable friend, Mr. Thampan, need not have stated that he was largely responsible for the improvements that we find in the measure before us. I, for one, know it full well that when Mr. Thampan is on any Select Committee, he can be depended upon to see to every possible improvement of an obnoxious measure. But the Bill has been so much improved that that itself is a ground for supporting my Honourable friend, Dr. DeSouza's motion. As Honourable Members will note, if they compare the Bill, as it was originally introduced, and the Bill, that has subsequently emerged from the Select Committee, the only passages common to both are the title and the preamble of the Bill. I entirely agree that the Select Committee did their best to improve the measure, but then my quarrel with the Select Committee is that, in spite of the drastic changes that they have made in this measure, they thought that the changes were not of such a character as to warrant the Bill to be recirculated. The expression " blank cheque " has been used by a previous speaker in characterising the original Bill. If the original Bill was a blank cheque, it was a blank cheque demanded in favour of the railways of a certain category from this House ; and the only distinction that has been brought about in the present amended measure, as far as I can see, is that that blank cheque is now demanded of this House in favour of the Government. Government say : " Depend upon us. We will fill in the details, the amount, the name of the company to whom it should be endorsed. Leave everything to us." So it is still a blank cheque, the only distinction being that the cheque will be drawn in favour of Government instead of being drawn in favour of a large body of unknown railways which are governed by this Act I do not think that such a measure can be given support by any Legislature in the world with the possible exception of this.

An Honourable Member : Why this ? You are here.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : I know my strength and it will be ascertained when the matter goes to division. The position is indicative of the helplessness of the Legislature in India and it is indicative of the place that the Legislature occupies in the Government of the country. I have had occasion to go through various measures of British legislation which have been passed to secure more or less the same object as is aimed at under this Bill, and I found that all possible details were provided by legislation there. Nothing was left beyond some very petty details to the Government to determine either by way of framing rules or by way of the exercise of their executive discretion. Now the Honourable Members opposite will say, as has been said by my friend, Mr. Thampan, that, when we make it obligatory upon the Government of India to consult the Local Governments, they can-tainly will do all that is needed for the purpose of ascertainment of public opinion in the matter.

Now, Sir, the problem unfortunately is not a very simple one and it has got to be faced as a comprehensive question which will be beyond the competence of any single provincial Government to deal with effectively. That indeed was recognised by the summoning of the Road Rail Conference that met here in April last ; and any one who has cared to go through the proceedings of that Conference will bear me out when I say that the problem, as disclosed there, is a very complicated and a very complex one, and it is not right to attempt to find a partial solution of that problem by a piecemeal legislation of this character. Now, Sir, it has been said that the scope of the present Bill is very much restricted in so far as the Indian Railways Act deals with a particular category of what I may call the smaller railways, and that the State Railways are under no statutory disability, and they are in a position at the present moment to have their own road services if they like, and further that it is not intended at the present moment, at least by the present Honourable Member in charge of the portfolio, to suggest any amendment of the corresponding British Statute. I am very glad to have that assurance from the Honourable gentleman, because several other authorities, including his immediate predecessor, thought differently, at least to my mind, on this particular point.

Now, Sir, I am not quite clear,—I may be exposing my ignorance,—but I am not quite clear as to how it is that the State Railways enjoy this privileged position. I had a cursory look at the Railways Act and, to my mind, the particular section of the Railways Act does not make any distinction in favour of the State Railways ; and although it uses the expression " railway company ", when we turn to the definition of that expression, I for myself cannot make out whether it is intended by the Act to make any distinction in favour of the State Railways. However, as I say, I may be disclosing my own ignorance and I am perfectly open to conviction in the matter. Whatever that may be, assuming that the State Railways are under no statutory disability, can it be imagined for a moment that the State Railways would be allowed by the Government of India and by the Railway Board to take to the road, as they say, while the company lines suffer from this kind of disability ? Therefore, I say, Sir, that even though theoretically it is possible for the State Railways to have their own road services, from the practical point of view, unless this House endorses this policy in this particular measure, the State Railways are going to do nothing of the kind ; and that similarly the disability imposed by the British Statute cannot be removed so long as the corresponding disability imposed by the Indian Act continues in the case of the particular category of railways to which it relates. Therefore, although in a sense, this particular measure has a restricted scope, the problem which it presents to us for consideration is a very comprehensive one and we cannot do justice to that comprehensive and complex problem by merely trying to find a tentative solution for a particular category of the less important railways. This problem, Sir, is not confined to India. Indeed it is a far more serious problem in other parts of the world, and everywhere legislatures and public men have striven to find a proper solution of this problem, not in this summary fashion, but by trying to tackle with the very fundamental facts that go to constitute the particular problem. In England they had to appoint a Royal Commission to go into this question. Then the Royal Commission was followed by a Conference called the Salter Conference, and they had to enact detailed legislation to tackle with the different aspects of the problem. They have tried to find a solution in that blessed word " co-ordination ", and not merely co-ordination but rationalisation and even " nationalisation " of all forms of transport which alone, according to some, perhaps including my Honourable friend, Mr. Joshi, would provide a real and abiding solution for this problem. Similarly, the Conference, that met in Simla in April last, in a series of Resolutions, began by saying that the time had come for increased co-operation and more intelligent co-ordination, etc.,—that is the first Resolution,—and they end by saying that suitable machinery should be established in the centre and in the provinces to ensure adequate co-ordination between all forms of transport and their future development. I should like to know from the Honourable Member in charge as to how far the spirit of those Resolutions can possibly be carried out under the provisions of this particular enactment The Honourable Member is merely going to authorise a few of the less fortunate railways,—I will at once admit,—to operate their own road transport services just as a measure of self-defence. But what about the poor competitor who is already in the field ? You cannot possibly penalise him. So long as the disability stood as it does, under the Railways Act, in respect of railways, it was perfectly open to private enterprise to come and capture the road. Now, as we are called upon to undertake a deliberate amendment of that measure, we should see to it that the legitimate interests of the people, who were not at all at fault in this matter in having captured the road, are protected in an adequate manner. My Honourable friend desires, —intensely I take it,—that this measure would prove a success so far as safeguarding the interests of the smaller railway companies is concerned. If he wishes them success, is he not at the same time wishing that failure should overtake the competitor who may be already in the field ? As far as I have been able to see, the Mitchell-Kirkness Report proceeds on the assumption that in many instances, if not in all, the private road services are being run at uneconomic rates. Therefore, Sir, there being no further field for reduction in the rates, the only effect of putting a comparatively powerful company on the field will be to crush its smaller competitors out of existence. Now, Sir, I daresay, that is not the intention of Government. The discussions of the Road-Rail Conference go to show that that was never the intention of Government. They have put forward a very elaborate scheme as to how far the needs of the country as a whole would be met by a better balancing, as they said, of the transport system. I take it the intention of Government is to see the interior of the country developed as much as possible, and that the private bus owner, if he must be diverted, should be diverted to the new roads that might spring up for the purpose of serving the interests of the interior of the country so far undeveloped. I also assume that, in so far as the railways are being hit by the motor competition at the present moment, the intention of Government is to see to it that the road services to be operated by the railways were confined more or less to competitive roads and not that they should be diverted to the new roads that are in contemplation and which will open up the country as desired at the Road-Rail Conference. Therefore, unless and until something has been done in regard to the development of these supplementary road schemes in the provinces, what is going to happen to the poor bus driver who will have to meet with stern competition from a powerful rival ? Therefore, I say, that unless and until we have a comprehensive programme of balancing the traffic system of the country and of providing feeder roads and making them suitable for motor transport, it is not right that we should be placing a particular party in an advantageous position, because it has got to be admitted that inspite of the disabilities, to which reference has been made by my friend, Mr. Thampan, which attach to the railway companies in the matter of operating a bus service, they are certainly in a position to command capital far better than the average bus owner whom we know, who is also very often the bus driver and a man of very limited means. Therefore, I do not like the haste with which this House is being asked to give this large power to this particular category of railways. At least I should have liked to hear from the Honourable Member in charge of the Department of Industries and Labour as to what progress has been made with regard to the other items of the programme which was laid down at the Road-Rail Conference over which he presided. Now, my Honourable friend, Mr. Aggarwal, was filled with consternation at seeing the Honourable Member in charge of the Department of Industries and Labour occupying a seat next to that of the Honourable Member in charge of the Railways.....

3 P.M.

[Mr. K. C. Neogy.]

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore (Member for Commerce and Railways) : I am not an untouchable ! (Laughter.)

Mr. K. C. Neogy : You would be under the statutory railway authority. I do not share that consternation of my Honourable friend. As a matter of fact, one point on which I wanted to have information was as to when this amended Bill refers to the Government of India, whether both the Departments which are represented on that particular Bench will put their heads together in considering the scheme, or whether it will be the Member in charge of the Railways alone who will determine.....

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : My Honourable friend may take it that any decision that may be come to in connection with or arise out of the administration of this Act will certainly be come to after the fullest consultation between the Department of Industries and Labour and the Railway Board.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : I am very pleased to have that assurance from the Honourable gentleman, because I feel that if anybody in the Government of India is responsible, to a certain extent, for having encouraged private bus service, that gentleman is sitting next to my Honourable friend who has just spoken, because, in so far as my Honourable friend's Department has a voice in the determination of the application of the allotment from the road funds towards the improvement of the provincial road system, the Honourable gentleman has indirectly encouraged the private bus system to compete with the railways, because, as far as I know from the experience of my province, the roads on which the choice of my Honourable friend's Department has fallen have been almost invariably the very roads along which it is possible to compete with the railways.....

Mr. T. N. Ramakrishna Reddi (Madras ceded Districts and Chittoor : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : The condition is the same in regard to Madras.

Mr. K. C. Neogy : I am assured by my Honourable friend that the same remark applies to Madras. Therefore, if anybody is responsible for having brought about this state of affairs, so far as the Government of India is concerned, it is my Honourable friend, Sir Frank Noyce.

The Honourable Sir Frank Noyce : May I remind the Honourable Member that my Honourable colleague on my left was Member in charge of the Industries and Labour Department before I was ?

Mr. K. C. Neogy : There ought to be really an internecine quarrel between the two gentlemen, if not also between Sir Joseph Bhore, the Labour Member and Sir Joseph Bhore, the Railway Member.

Now, in all these discussions in Conferences and Committees and in the discussions here, I have not so far found any Member on behalf of the Government acknowledging the necessity of the railways themselves to improve their services. That is a point that has not been touched upon by any Honourable Member sitting opposite ; and although the cartoonist has made us familiar with a portrait of Sir Frank Noyce holding the scales even between Mr. Joshi and Mr. Mody, I find that, at the Road-Rail Conference, the way the discussions went compelled my Honourable friend to give a stern reminder to no less a person than the Honourable Sir Jogendra Singh that the Conference was not entirely in the interests of the railways and Sir Jogendra Singh had to exclaim : " I see ! " Now, that is the spirit in which all the discussions that have gone on in this House and elsewhere have been conducted, so far as the Government are concerned. Nowhere do we find any single word proceeding from any responsible Member of the Government in which it has been recognised that there is something to be done by the railways themselves by way of improving the facilities that they offer to their customers ; and yet what a strange contrast it is when I turn to the Report of the Royal Commission on Transport where, in the Final Report, in paragraph 141 and paragraph 142, they have discouraged the anxiety of the railways to-have their own motor service on the roads. This is what they say in one sentence.

" On the general principle of the policy now being followed by the railway companies "

—they are referring to the policy of the railway companies acquiring large interests in the road transport services in England and getting more or less a kind of controlling voice over the private road services,—

" on the general principle of the policy now being followed by the railway companies, we cannot refrain from expressing a feeling of doubt whether it is wise for companies to expend large capital sums for the purpose of establishing services which may be in direct competition with their business as railways ".

Then, Sir, I find that, in a later publication, the Chairman of that Royal Commission has put the matter far more clearly. He summarised the conclusions of the Commission over which he presided, and he said that the Commission held that the Railway Companies must " take every possible step themselves to render their services efficient and attractive to the public, and that this was the way by which lost traffic should be recovered ".

Then, further on, he says :

" They appear to be more anxious to get on to the roads themselves, and in some cases actually to compete with their own rail services than to improve the latter. "

[Mr. K. C. Neogy.]

Now, Sir, there is one particular suggestion of a very small character that occurs to my mind and which I should like to present to the Government for their consideration. We are aware that, so far as the larger railways are concerned, they have Advisory Councils attached to their administrations which furnish a point of contact between the railway companies and their customers. As far as I know, none of the light railways has got an Advisory Council for that purpose, and I should request my Honourable friend, apart from the subject matter of this legislation, to take up this point and pursue it for the purpose of bringing about uniformity in regard to the facilities which the public at large have in connection with the larger railways for putting forward their grievances.

Now, Sir, I have in my hand copies of certain correspondence that has passed between a railway concern and its principal customer. I do not want to divulge the names of the parties, because it may not be altogether fair to do so, but if my friend gives me an opportunity of going into this matter informally with him, I will certainly give him the papers that I have in my possession. Now, here is an instance of a light railway which, under the curious process of sub-infudation that is permitted in the matter of railway administration in this country, is owned by a company with a second company as managing agents which get an allowance for simply not managing the railway, and the railway management is actually conducted by a third company. Now, in the process of the division of the profits of such a concern, the original shareholders of the company owning the railway come in for a very small share, with the result that in this particular case when I met the principal shareholder of the company he had not a single word of sympathy for this railway. He had his grievances regarding very many matters, particularly in regard to the high rates prevailing on that particular light railway, and he told me that he was prepared to put on the road a competitive service himself, a person who should be more than anybody else interested in fighting for the railway in which he happens to be the largest shareholder. Then, Sir, when I met the representative of what I have already described to be the largest customer of this particular light railway, a British gentleman, belonging to a first class firm in Bengal, and it was he who placed these papers in my possession,—he also made a similar complaint that he was finding that, as a result of a recent change in the policy, the rates that were being quoted for the carriage of sleepers were so high as not to enable him to compete in the market. And that particular firm, a first class firm, addressed a letter on the 29th of November, 1932, to the company concerned drawing their attention to this particular position. When I inquired as to whether any reply was received, this is what they wrote : " I would inform you that no reply was received by us ".

This is dated the 5th of August, 1933. About 8 months later, they say that no reply was received by them from so and so " barring a postcard acknowledgment ". Now, I ask, is that the way to treat your principal customer ? Now, Sir, in this case also, this particular firm, at least the representative of that firm who saw me in this connection, said that he would be happy to see a road service started with powerful lorries which might carry his sleepers. Here we have an instance in which the principal shareholder and the principal customer of a particular light railway are agreed in thinking that they are not getting the attention that they deserve at the hands of this light railway, and both are thinking of having a competitive road transport organized. What are we to do to help concerns like these who are absolutely oblivious to their own interests, who have so far followed the policy of " take it or leave it " having been in the position of monopolists ? And now that they are confronted with some kind of competition, they come up to my Honourable friend and he readily obliges them with this kind of legislative protection. Sir, I support the motion that has been so ably moved by my friend, Dr. DeSouza.

Mr. E. Studd (Bengal : European) : Sir, I have listened with considerable interest to the speech of my Honourable friend, Mr. Neogy, and to quite a number of other Members who have spoken in the same strain. It seems to me that one of the main arguments they tried to use in support of the circulation of this Bill has been that, because there is admittedly a very large problem to be tackled in connection with road and rail transport throughout the country, it is quite wrong to attempt to introduce what they were pleased to term a sort of piecemeal bit of legislation of this kind. I confess, Sir, I cannot see that their argument holds any water. Surely, if you are losing money, and you realise that something has got to be done to re-arrange your finances, and amongst other things you find that you have a hole in your pocket, you do not refuse to mend the hole, simply because that is only one of the various measures which you have got to take. My Honourable friend also complained that they were being asked to give a blank cheque to the Government. He seemed to suggest that it was a very dangerous process. He admitted that the cheque was not quite as blank as he originally thought it was going to be, but I submit to him that unless you are prepared to have a certain amount of trust in the people you are dealing with, you will never draw a cheque at all, you will never enter into any sort or kind of business negotiations.

Now, Sir, a good deal has been said as to the injury and the injustice that would be done, it is alleged, to the private bus owner or lorry owner, if this Bill is passed, but no one, as far as I have heard, has referred to the position of the railways, particularly the light railways which for years have been working with their hands tied behind their backs, which years ago foresaw that this competition was going to come, and, that unless they were allowed to run some kind of motor service of their own, this competition would inevitably take away a great deal of their income. If I have any complaint with regard to this Bill, it is only that the Government have taken three or five years too long to introduce it, and I am perfectly convinced that if this measure had been introduced and passed into law five years ago, there are a number of light railways which are now making losses for which the Government have every half year to produce a large cheque in order to pay the guaranteed dividend to shareholders—which would not be making the losses, but would be earning sufficient to pay that dividend themselves. I confess that it has surprised me somewhat that a House, which, in my comparatively short experience of it, has always been jealous of the interests of railways and vehicles. If Government are going to do that also, then why should they not themselves manage the whole transport system ? If Members really believe that the whole transport system should be left to private people, I can understand it, but they are not prepared to do that. Whenever any party suffers a loss, it goes to the Government and says : "I am suffering loss. Therefore we should control only that matter on account of which I suffer a loss ". I, therefore, feel that the evil which has arisen on account of the whole system being based on a wrong principle cannot be remedied by what my Honourable friend, Mr. James, said was only a patchwork, a reform by bits. I agree with him there. If you want to remove these evils, it is wrong to take up these measures bit by bit. Let us deal with our transport system as a whole and then, I am sure, a large number of the difficulties which have arisen will disappear. We are undertaking by means of this Bill to do something by which I have absolutely no doubt a monopoly will be established on the high roads of this country. If the railways decide to compete with small bus companies or private owners, the railways are bound to beat the private bus owners and the small companies. They are going to establish a monopoly on those roads which are near the railway track. Now, I am not against a monopoly if that is run in the interests of the public. But I am certainly against a monopoly being established by a private railway company and I do not understand why Government should do anything by which any private company will be able to establish a monopoly. I now wish to say a few words on the second defect which I mentioned appears in the management of our transport system, namely, want of forethought. The question which I would like to ask the Member in charge of this Department is this. If there is an evil now on account of roads running parallel to the railway and being used competitively by buses, whose fault is it ? Who made the roads—not any private people. These roads were made either by Provincial Governments or by statutory bodies. Why did it not occur to the Government that when these roads were made, they should not be made parallel to the railway line. I am not suggesting that under no circumstances should any road run parallel to the railway line, but certainly if competition arises to such a dangerous extent, it would have been better if the roads had not been made to run parallel to the railways, wherever this could be avoided.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh (Muzaffarpur cum Champaran : Non-Muhammadan) : I do not want to interrupt the Honourable Member, but he will find from the Mitchell-Kirkness report that the majority of the roads were there and the railways were built later on.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : I have no desire to blame any one party. My point is that there was no forethought.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : On the part of the railway.

Mr. N. M. Joshi : I do not suggest on the part of anybody in particular. My object is not to blame any one party. My object is to show that there was no forethought. It is wrong to allow your roads to run parallel to your railway tracks or to make the railway run among parallel roads. I quite realise that all the objects of the road cannot be served by the railway, nor can the roads serve the purposes of the railway. There are certain things which the railways alone can do and there are certain things for which the buses are more suitable, but, at the same time, it will also be recognised that if your roads and rails run parallel, you are bound to have competition with which you would have to deal with. I, therefore, think that some of the evils could have been avoided if there had been forethought in the management of our transport system. That has been the fault of this Government, not only in the management of our transport system, but in the management of every affair. Take, for instance, our development of industries. If we had taken sufficient care to see, while we were developing industries, that there should be no slums, no money would have been necessary for slum clearance. Similarly, if we had taken care to see that there should be no competition as far as possible between these two systems of transport, we could have avoided some of the difficulties with which we are faced now.

Then, Mr. President, there is the third point on which I wish to speak. Some of the difficulties that we have to face today are due to want of co-ordination. In the first place, it is much better that the whole transport system should be controlled centrally. That is my view. There must be the ultimate control with the Central Government for the whole transport system if you want to avoid wasteful competition. But even if you do not agree to that principle and if you decentralise your powers over the roads as well as the railways, you must take care to see that there is some co-ordination. If you do not want centralisation, if you believe in decentralisation, at least take care to see that there is co-ordination. There are going to be buses, there are going to be railways and there are going to be tramways and, unless you co-ordinate all these means of transport, you are going to have competition and you are going to have evils. It is, therefore, much better that the Government, showing some forethought, should always take care to see that there is some means by which there will be co-ordination between the roads, the railways and the other methods of transport.

[At this stage Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) vacated the Chair which was then occupied by Mr. Deputy President (Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury).]

My friend, Mr. Neogy, dealt with what has been done in England. He said, there was a Royal Commission and they recommended certain things. Here I wish to suggest that what England had to do, after suffering a great deal, let India do without suffering those losses. For instance, in England, especially in London, they had buses, tramways, underground railways and surface railways, and on account of these various systems, everybody began to suffer a loss. Then they appointed a Royal Commission and now they have formed what is called the London Transport Board. I suggest to the Government of India and to this Legislature that instead of waiting to see all these evils crop up, let Government wake up now and devise a bold scheme covering all these systems of transport, so that there will be co-ordination among them. There will be no waste caused and the public also will get benefit from the right principle on which our transport system will be based from the forethought which the Government will show and from the co-ordination of all these systems. So far as this Bill is concerned, I am not interested either in delaying or in passing it at this moment.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav (Bombay Central Division : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Sir, I was not a member either of the Select Committee or of the Road Board Committee and, therefore, I can speak with an unbiassed mind. The present Bill is for authorising railway companies to start competitive services on the roads on which the bus service has been running and depriving the railway companies of their profits. It is said that the companies that were registered under a charter will not be authorised under this Bill and that the present Government of India have no intention of applying to get those charters amended by getting the Parliamentary Sanction.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : This is not what I said, but I shall refer to it in my reply.

Mr. B. V. Jadhav : Whatever that may be, it is a fact that the bus service at present is competing with the railway services and on that account the earnings of the railways have suffered a great deal. If a shopkeeper in a street A builds up a great clientele simply for the reason that there was no competitive shop, and then after some years he finds that another shop dealing with similar commodities has been opened in an adjacent street, he need not think of starting a rival shop in the next door premises of his rival's shop, but he ought to see why his hitherto customers were attracted by the other shop. The railway companies have suffered because their passengers have now taken to the road ; they are taking advantage of the buses that are running and the companies are suffering losses. But then the companies ought to see what better facilities are offered by the rival bus service. The companies are not examining their own deficiencies. The companies hitherto have enjoyed a monopoly and, as such, they were as a rule callous and indifferent to the comforts of the travellers. The railway trains were not suitable in their timings; the overcrowding was not attended to. If complaints were made, they were not promptly heard. The railway companies attended very indifferently to their patrons. When their patrons found a new method of getting better comforts and better service and have left the original companies, they now come forward to open up other similar service to that which is competing with them. The best course for the railway companies will be to study the requirements of their customers. The narrow gauge and feeder railways have suffered the most, and why ? They have not been properly managed, their speed never exceeded 15 miles an hour, perhaps on the average it was about 10 miles ; so if the people complained that time was wasted on the route, they were not wrong. Now, the worst bus goes at a speed of at least 20 miles an hour. So the ordinary traveller finds that it is more speedy to go on the bus than by the railway. The timings of these feeder railways were fixed up with a view to the convenience of long distance passengers and the short distance passengers were never even thought of. The trains started at 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning and the conveniences of the people were never consulted. So, the short distance passengers naturally took to the bus when they found it gave a better service and a speedier service and a service which cared for his conveniences. It is for the small feeder railways, if they want to secure their clientele, to study the wants of the passengers. The best advice that could be given by Government is to start a rival bus service on the railways and not on the roads. They should have railway trains at convenient times and at good speed running between two stations, so that those passengers who now patronize private buses will be attracted to the rail buses. I would give an instance from my part of the country. Kolhapur and Poona is a distance of 190 miles by railway and 146 miles by road. Three companies have been running regular motor services and the M. & S. M. Railway Company found that their traffic was dwindling. So they studied the wants of the people and what they have now done is that they have reserved two special bogey cars, one containing first, second and third class compartments and another bogey car for third class passengers only to be attached to the mail train from Miraj to Poona. In that way a passenger leaving Kolhapur at about 7 P.M. in the evening reaches Poona comfortably at 6 A.M. and, ever since this through arrangement was made, nearly 100 passengers have been taken by these two cars from Kolhapur to Poona. Had this arrangement not been made for the convenience of the passengers, at least half of them or about 60 per cent. of them would have gone by the buses. So the railway company woke up in time and they saw that, in order to compete with the bus service, they must offer better service for the convenience of travellers. So they are now running a through train from Poona to Kolhapur in order to preserve their passenger traffic. A man starting from Bombay at 8 A.M. in the morning can easily reach Kolhapur in the evening at 10 P.M. in about 14 hours and, on the return journey, he can leave Kolhapur early in the morning at 6 A.M. and reach Bombay at about 7 P.M. in the evening. So you will see that this railway company studied the convenience of their passengers and found out why their passengers were leaving them and thus they were able to retain their old passengers. If other railway companies would copy the example of the M. & S. M. Railway, they will prosper. If the M. & S. M., on the other hand, had resolved to start a competitive bus service, they would have ruined themselves in competition with the bus service. It is well known that the present bus owners are able to run their service at very cheap rates, because their expenses are very low. If a railway company starts a bus service, it will have to incur heavy expenditure not only in rolling stock but also in repairs and also in inspectors, checkers and ticket collectors, and so on. But a private bus owner is one and all and he does all the work himself and, therefore, it is very difficult, I may almost say impossible, for a railway company to compete successfully with a private bus owner. I fear even if this Bill is passed and the feeder railways are allowed to start a competitive service, they will not be able to gain much. They will have to invest a heavy amount in this competition and, if the competition is fairly carried on, their gain will be nil. What I mean to say by fair competition is that the private bus owners should not be unnecessarily harassed by the law and police authorities should pass their cars and supervise them with a view to see that they are running in a safe and sound manner. Sometimes it happens that zealous police officers are very strict and unnecessarily harass bus drivers and owners and in that way many a time unnecessary prosecutions are launched against them and the magistrates fine them very heavily. If this is carried on in the interest of the railways, and the people fear that the police and the magistracy will be on the side of the railway companies, then of course the competition will not be fair and the bus owner will be handicapped and in that way the bus traffic is likely to be killed. So I say that the railway companies ought not to be allowed to start competitive bus services. If they want to regain their old traffic, it is in their own hands. The railways were constructed for the purpose of affording cheap transport for goods and for passengers. If they have now lost custom and the passengers are taking to the buses, then the fault does not lie with the buses, but it lies with the railway companies who up to this time neglected the convenience of their patrons. In the case of goods traffic also the indifference of the railway services has led to the diminution of this traffic also. I will give one instance again on the M. & S. M. In the Bombay bazars, vegetables and fruits are brought from Sasvad Road on that railway. A new station master claimed a certain share of perquisites and he asked the vegetable dealers to give him one anna per basket which was exorbitant and the dealers refused. He also refused to book the vegetables, and the poor merchants were at a loss as to what to do. Then the bus owners came to their rescue and they loaded the baskets of vegetables at Sasvad Road and took them to the Crawford market in Bombay. In about two weeks time, the railway companies, the M. & S. M. and the G. I. P. saw that it was a serious loss to their revenue, and they opened up negotiations with the merchants. The merchants simply thanked them for their good wishes, but were unwilling to give up their patronage to the bus services for the simple reason that the bus service studied their requirements better. The baskets were loaded actually at the gardens and they were unloaded actually at the market. Transport by railway required loading at the railway station and, therefore, the merchants could not have the facilities of loading them at their gardens and, in the case of the railway, the merchants had to transport the baskets from the narrow gauge to the broad gauge and again unload them at the Victoria Terminus station to be taken to the bazar. So the bus owners served their clients much better and they have taken away that custom. There are many such instances which can be multiplied. All I can say is that the railway companies should afford facilities to their clients and study how to get rid of their inconveniences. A rival motor service may be paying for a short time, but, I am afraid, if the competition is fairly carried on, the railway bus service has not got much chance of a success against the road motor service conducted by private owners. So the best advice that should be given to the railway companies is to improve themselves and, if this is done, I do not think there is any necessity for this Bill. It would be much better for Government to withdraw this Bill.

Sirdar Harbans Singh Brar (East Punjab : Sikh) : Sir, the main purpose of this Bill appears to be to safeguard the light railways which, as I understand it, are mostly owned by the local bodies or by small shareholders. Mr. Joshi has spoken at some length for co-ordinating the transport services meaning thereby the nationalisation of transport services, but avoiding the use of that word. I think as the arrangement regarding all the Indian railways is that the State is to purchase them after their leases expire, the nationalisation of the railways will automatically be attained. It is only a question of time. In some cases, when the time has actually arrived to purchase a railway line, the State does not find itself financially strong enough to acquire it. So there is no lack on the part of the administration or unwillingness on its part to nationalise the transport services as far as they can. The road services at present are, as we all know, running at very uneconomic rates, and if the railways which are already losing are prepared to lose more by running their transport services on the road also, let them try it ; there is no harm, because as at present the lorry owners are not making much out of it, the railways cannot be expected to make much out of it either. The roads being parallel to the railway line is not the fault of the Government, because the roads were in existence long before the construction of the railway lines and it is only on the main lines or on the trunk lines where the roads generally run parallel to the railways. And there is some advantage in that too. They are more or less useful for strategical purposes and, if, at a time of emergency, the railways break down, the road can be resorted to. The Bill was examined by the Select Committee in all its details and they have given a very good report which is signed unanimously,—that speaks very much in favour of the Bill. All interests and all provinces appear to have been represented on that Committee, and, it having been so minutely examined and reported upon, there does not appear to be much useful purpose to be served by delaying the passing of this Bill. It is always open to the Legislature, if afterwards it finds that the Act has not worked successfully, to repeal it. At present a very good case appears to have been made out for allowing these light railways to run their own bus services in places where it appears necessary or desirable. The Local Governments have been given sufficient powers to safeguard the interests of the public in those areas when it has been provided that the Governor General in Council will consult the Local Government before giving permission to a light railway to operate a service on the roads. Provincial autonomy being almost in sight and, even at present, this Department being a transferred Department in the provinces where the Ministers, who are under the control of the Legislatures, administer this Department, we can safely rely upon them to safeguard the interests of their constituents and of the public in those provinces. Therefore, I feel that no useful purpose is likely to be served by circulation and that the Bill may be passed as reported unanimously by the Select Committee. With these few words, I support the consideration of the Bill and oppose the circulation motion.

Several Honourable Members : The question may now be put.

Mr. Deputy President (Mr. Abdul Matin Chaudhury) : The question is that the question may now be put.

The motion was adopted.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : Sir, I will apply myself first to the motions for circulation. I regret that my Honourable friend, Dr. DeSouza, should have thought fit to bring forward a motion which, I submit, is purely dilatory in character. The only ground on which the motion could have been supported was the ground that the Bill has been so entirely changed in Select Committee as to make it for all intents and purposes an entirely new measure. Now, Sir, that point has been already met by the remarks of the Select Committee ; but I would add another argument. Most, if not all, of the changes that have been made by the Select Committee have been made in order to meet the criticism which was elicited during the first circulation of the Bill and during the discussion of the measure in this House. I submit, Sir, that it is wholly unreasonable that changes which have been made as a result of circulation should themselves be circulated for eliciting further opinion. But, Sir, if I remember rightly, that was not exactly the ground upon which my Honourable friend, Dr. DeSouza, moved his amendment. He desired that the Bill should be recirculated for opinion in the light of the Mitchell-Kirkness Report and of the Resolutions passed at the Rail-Road Conference. Be it remembered, Sir, that at the Rail-Road Conference, Ministers from every province were present and they were in possession of the Report to which my Honourable friend has referred. Now, Sir, the Report of that Committee as well as the relevant Resolution to which he refers are entirely in favour of the principle of this Bill. Does my Honourable friend wish for circulation to cast discredit on the Report and the Resolution referred to ? Or does he desire that public opinion should be given an opportunity of changing as a result of the perusal of the Report and the Resolution ? If the former, I can say that the reference is wholly irrelevant for our present purpose, and, if the latter, it is totally unnecessary. If my Honourable friend had asked that the House should be invited to consider this measure in the light of the Report and the Resolution referred to, I should have been entirely with him. I would ask the House, Sir, to reject this motion as a pure waste of time.

I need not deal with the amendment of my Honourable friend, Mr. Sadiq Hasan. It has received, if I may say so, no support at all in this House, and I may allow it to die a natural death.

I will refer now, Sir, to some of the criticisms that have been levelled by Honourable Members in discussing this Bill. I would like once more to state my position in regard to Parliamentary legislation in respect of those companies which require it. I should like to make it clear that what I said was that I do not personally intend to initiate any action in this direction until this piece of legislation has been in operation for a sufficiently long time to enable us to gauge its consequences on all the interests involved.

Next, Sir, let me turn to what fell from my Honourable friend, Mr. Neogy. He described this as a partial solution of a very big problem and he deprecated its being dealt with by piecemeal legislation. I would point out that a great deal is to be gained by this so-called partial legislation. For one thing it will give us most invaluable experience in dealing with the wider problem when it comes before us. My Honourable friend suggested—and on this point I am in agreement with him—that an Act of this nature cannot by itself save railways which are suffering from competition with motor services. I entirely agree that railways must make their services more attractive and that they must endeavour to meet competition by the provision of greater amenities ; but I do not admit that our railways are not fully alive to this. In the present case, what this Bill does is that it merely removes a disability and this removal, I hope and believe, will be of considerable help and assistance. It does not confer an advantage : it removes what I take to be an unjustifiable disadvantage.

[At this stage Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) resumed the Chair.]

Then, my Honourable friend, Mr. Neogy, suggested that the light railways might well consider the appointment of advisory committees in order to enable them to get into closer and more intimate contact with the public which they serve. I am quite ready to pass on that suggestion to these railways, though, as he will recognise, I have no authority to enforce it, and I can do no more than make the suggestion.

Mr. James and, I think, also Mr. Neogy wished to know what action was being taken on the Resolutions which were passed at the Rail-Road Conference. I may assure this House that these Resolutions are at the moment receiving most careful examination in consultation with Provincial Governments. My Honourable friends will realise that the constitutional position being what it is we can only proceed by reason and argument, and that before securing general agreement considerable time may elapse. My Honourable friend, Mr. Joshi, delivered himself of a speech which left me in doubt, until the last sentence, as to whether he was supporting or whether he was opposing this measure. My Honourable friend said he did not understand what was meant by uneconomic competition. Let me give him an example, which was cited by an official at the Rail-Road Conference—an official from Madras : he told us of a case in which private bus owners had offered to carry passengers free, and, in addition, to present them with an umbrella and a handkerchief or a loin cloth, I forget which ! (Laughter.) I would say that that was uneconomic competition.....

Mr. N. M. Joshi : It would pay them to do so ; afterwards they would recoup that expense !

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : My Honourable friend complained that more forethought and planning was not exercised in our road and railway schemes. As my Honourable friend knows, these began to come into existence probably more than half a century ago, and I can only express regret that my Honourable friend was not born 75 years ago ; for, then, he might have saved us all this trouble.

I must confess to a total inability to understand the reason for the opposition to this measure. Of course I know that vested interests outside this House are averse and very naturally so to further competition. Such further competition, as might result from the institution of services by railway companies, must surely be in the interests of the public and it is a little difficult to understand the solicitude for the interests of private bus owners and the entire ignoring of the interests of the public. It has been assumed that as soon as the bar which at present exists to railway companies running motor services is removed, they will at once embark upon cut-throat competition, that with their superior resources they will ruin their poorer rivals, and, as soon as they have eliminated all competition, they will then dictate their own terms to the public. I do not for one moment believe that this sequence of results can or will result from the removal of what I hold to be an unjustifiable inhibition. My Honourable friend, Mr. Neogy, threw some doubts upon the suggestion that we have always put forward that State Railways are free to run their own motor services. I have great respect for the legal acumen and experience of my Honourable friend. When I retire into private life, I should like to come to him with my legal difficulties provided, of course, he tempers his charges to the shorn ex-civil servant. But, with all due regard to my Honourable friend, I can only say that such advice, as is at present available, seems to justify us in this opinion ; and it is upon that opinion that we have proceeded. But holding that view, my point is that no State Railway has up to the present instituted such services. As regards monopoly, I myself hold that it is wholly unlikely. It may be that railway motor services once established may cut fares, but I suggest that there can never be anything like monopoly, because the moment they raise their fares, competition is bound to reappear. I do suggest to those who are afraid of monopoly that the ever impending threat of possible competition will be a salutary safeguard so far as unfairly high rates are concerned.

Then the assertion has been made over and over again in this House that private bus owners can run their services far more cheaply than any railway company can do. Well, Sir, I consider that there is a great deal of truth in those assertions ; but, Sir, if those assertions are true, then where is the difficulty ? My friend, Mr. Jadhav, just now said that he is satisfied that railway companies will ruin themselves if they compete with private buses. If that is so, then why should there be any objection to allowing railway companies the pleasure of ruining themselves ?

Mr. K. C. Neogy : We do not want to help them to commit suicide.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : My own view of the case is rather the view that was expressed by Mr. Hoon the other day. I believe that private buses will provide a cheaper service, but, on the other hand, I believe that railway companies will provide a safer, more comfortable and more regular, if a costlier service. Now, Sir, if there are sections of the public who desire such a service and are prepared to pay for it, why on earth should they be denied it ? Apart altogether from the question of greater safety, greater comfort and greater reliability, I personally, Sir, would prefer to travel by a service which is owned by an authority from whom, in the event of an accident, I should be able to recover damages.....

An Honourable Member : God forbid.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore :.....or from whom in the event of fatality my heirs would be able to recover compensation even if I had to pay higher fares. On the other hand, there are many others who may prefer immediate economy to safety, why should both types of clients not be catered for ?

Then, as regards the possible abuse which, as is feared by certain Honourable Members in this House, might result from the railway companies being allowed to run services, I would only point out that the new clause which has been inserted in this Bill gives the Government very wide powers even to the extent of actually stopping such services. I believe, Sir, that the apprehension entertained in this House was largely due to the fear that, if railway companies were allowed to operate their own services, they would be placed in some sort of privileged position as compared with private bus owners. I attempted on the last occasion to make it perfectly clear that that was not our intention, but now, Sir, that the relevant clause of the Bill makes this clear beyond all possibility of doubt or misunderstanding, I hope that the opposition to this measure will also disappear.

Sir, only a few words more and I have done. I think Honourable Members opposite will admit that I have gone very far,—I went very far in the Select Committee, to meet them in this matter. In fact, I went so far, Sir, that I could not possibly go any further without scrapping the Bill. I want to make the position perfectly clear so that any support that I may get may not be under any misapprehension. I propose, Sir, to oppose the amendments that have been tabled. I do submit that the Bill, in its present form, meets all reasonable objections that have been taken, and I would ask Honourable Members of this House to accord their approval to the Bill in the form in which it has been recommended by the Select Committee.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The original question was :

"That the Bill further to amend the Indian Railways Act, 1890, for a certain purpose, as reported by the Select Committee, be taken into consideration."

Since which an amendment has been moved :

"That the Bill, as reported by the Select Committee, be re-circulated for the purpose of obtaining further opinion thereon from the public including the District Boards and Automobile Associations, wherever they exist, in the light of the decisions taken at the recent Rail and Road Conference and the Mitchell-Kirkness Report, by the 30th June, 1934", and a further amendment has been moved :

"That the Bill, as reported by the Select Committee, be re-committed to the Select Committee."

The question that I have now to put is :

"That the Bill, as reported by the Select Committee, be re-circulated for the purpose of obtaining further opinion thereon from the public, including the District Boards and Automobile Associations, wherever they exist, in the light of the decisions taken at the recent Rail and Road Conference and the Mitchell-Kirkness Report, by the 30th June, 1934."

The motion was negatived.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question that I have now to put is :

"That the Bill, as reported by the Select Committee, be re-committed to the Select Committee."

The motion was negatived.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question that I have now to put is :

"That the Bill further to amend the Indian Railways Act, 1890, for a certain purpose, as reported by the Select Committee, be taken into consideration."

The motion was adopted.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is that clause 2 stand part of the Bill.

Mr. T. N. Ramakrishna Reddi : Sir, I beg to move the amendment that stands in my name, namely :

"That in clause 2 of the Bill, in sub-section (1) of the proposed section 51A, for the words 'motor transport' the word 'waterway' be substituted."

Sir, now that the House has agreed to give the railways the power to run motor buses, I should like to give them power also to open up waterways, because I do not see any reason why the railway companies should be prevented from developing waterways in this country. We all know that waterways are a very economical means of transport of goods from one place to another, and many of the western countries have developed their trade and commerce by means of their waterways. India is wanting in her waterways. India is noted for her large navigable rivers, and it will be to the advantage of the country if more waterways are opened and developed. By opening up waterways, we can develop irrigation works also. Therefore, Sir, I move that the railway companies should also be given power to open waterways in this country. Sir, I move my amendment.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Amendment moved :

"That in clause 2 of the Bill, in sub-section (1) of the proposed section 51A, for the words 'motor transport' the word 'waterway' be substituted."

Mr. C. S. Ranga Iyer (Rohilkund and Kumaon Divisions : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Sir, I should like to know from the Honourable the Leader of the House, who is also the Railway Member, whether this subject of waterways could not be taken with advantage in a Provincial Council, because it comes more within the jurisdiction of the provinces than within the jurisdiction of the Central Government.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : Sir, with reference to what my friend, Mr. Ranga Iyer, said, I can only say that I am not amphibious. I am a little perplexed by this amendment. On the face of it, it seems to suggest that my Honourable friend desires that railways should not be allowed to open motor services but that waterways should be substituted for road services.

Mr. T. N. Ramakrishna Reddi : I do not quite follow what the Honourable Member says.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : But his speech on the amendment rather indicates that he merely wanted to add waterways.

Mr. T. N. Ramakrishna Reddi : Yes. The next amendment deals with motor buses.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : What exactly is the purport of this amendment ?

Mr. T. N. Ramakrishna Reddi : Of course, when I gave notice of my amendments, I intended that this amendment and the next amendment should form into one amendment. Now that the office has divided it into two amendments, it may look, as the Honourable the Leader of the House has stated, that my desire is to substitute waterways for motor buses. As a matter of fact, that is not my intention. My intention is to substitute here waterways for motor buses and my subsequent amendment will clearly show that motor buses are also included.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Does the Chair understand that the amendment that has now been proposed, No. 3, is consequential upon No. 4 ?

Mr. T. N. Ramakrishna Reddi : I cannot say consequential. My amendment No. 4 gives restricted power for running motor buses. That is why I have dealt with it in a separate clause.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : To cut short this discussion, much as I should like to see railways go both on water and on land, I must say that this question was discussed in the Select Committee. The Select Committee came to the conclusion that waterways should be eliminated and I must stand by the decision of the Select Committee. It is for that reason and for no other reason that I oppose my Honourable friend.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

"That in clause 2 of the Bill, in sub-section (1) of the proposed section 51A, for the words 'motor transport' the word 'waterway' be substituted."

The motion was negatived.

Mr. T. N. Ramakrishna Reddi : Sir, I move :

"That in clause 2 of the Bill, in sub-section (1) of the proposed section 51A, after the words 'managed by such company' the words 'and a motor transport service only on roads that run parallel to railway lines with a terminus on either end at or near a station on the railway owned or managed by such company' be inserted."

As I understand this section, the amended Bill empowers a railway company to run a bus service throughout the country wherever railways exist, with one limitation, that is to say, that it must have a terminus at a station. That is the only restriction that the Select Committee has put on a railway company running a motor bus service. The effect of that will be that a railway company can run motor bus services either parallel to the railway line, or having only one terminus near the station and running to the interior. But, as a matter of fact, the danger that the railways apprehend from the motor bus service is only the danger of competition on parallel lines. A private motor bus service coming from the interior to any railway station does not compete with the railway service at all. On the other hand, it acts as a feeder and brings goods and traffic from the interior villages to the railway station, and so there is absolutely no competition at all. The point of view of the Government is that there should be no uneconomic competition of the motor bus service running parallel to the railway line and thus taking away its traffic, and that has been emphasised in the Rail-Road Conference that took place in Simla recently. In fact, the whole attention of that Conference was devoted to the fact as to how best to eliminate this competition on parallel lines. I have moved this amendment in order to allow these railway companies to run motor buses only on parallel lines where there exists competition and leave other lines for the private bus service. If powerful railway companies enter into competition with private bus service, the latter will go to the wall and then they must have some place where they can ply their trade. So, my amendment seeks to restrict the right of the railway company to run motor bus services on parallel lines. Sir, I move.

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : Sir, we considered this point in Select Committee and we came to the conclusion that it would in all probability defeat the entire purpose of the Bill if the limitation now suggested by my Honourable friend were introduced. Let me give to the House an illustration of what I mean. There are two points on a railway A and B. The railway line between those two points forms a curve or detour intended to serve another point between A and B. If my Honourable friend's amendment is adopted, the railway company could not possibly run a motor service from A to B, because, assuming that the road goes straight from A to B and does not follow the bend, it would not be parallel to the railway ; but that is just one of those cases in which it would be of the greatest value to the railway to retain the traffic between A and B. It was for that reason that the Select Committee came to the conclusion that it was inadvisable to limit the provision in the way suggested by my Honourable friend. As a matter of fact, in a very large majority of cases, the services will actually be parallel services, but we cannot run the risk of defeating the real intention of this measure. Sir, I oppose.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : The question is :

" That in clause 2 of the Bill, in sub-section (1) of the proposed section 51A, after the words ' managed by such company ' the words ' and a motor transport service only on roads that run parallel to railway lines with a terminus on either end at or near a station on the railway owned or managed by such company ' be inserted."

The motion was negatived.

Mr. A. Das (Benares and Gorakhpur Divisions : Non-Muhammadan Rural) : Sir, I move :

" That in clause 2 of the Bill, to sub-section (1) of the proposed section 51A, the following proviso be added :

' Provided the scheme does not involve any preferential treatment or creates a monopoly against private enterprise '."

The two cardinal points which, it appears to me, are vital to the consideration of any Bill relating to transport of passengers and goods are facility to public and cheapness. Regarding facility, there is no doubt that the present bus and lorry service provides large facility to the passengers who are brought nearer their homes whether they start from any bazar or their houses than is the case when they have to get into trains at fixed stations and alight also there. There is also much inconvenience about the strict punctuality of the time not being observed and during the way they can get down at any intermediate place that they may like which would not be possible if they had to travel by rail. Regarding cheapness, take an example which is nearest home. A car from Kalka to Simla can easily accommodate four passengers with about two or three maunds of luggage and the total cost is not more than Rs. 12 per car, while the second class and third class single fare from Kalka to Simla is Rs. 11-3-0 and Rs. 3-6-0 each way besides Rs. 2-14-0 per maund of luggage. Thus, if a man travels with three servants and two maunds of luggage, if he comes by train, he will have to pay about Rs. 27 and the journey will not be half as comfortable, while, if he came by motor, it would cost him only Rs. 12 and he would have the whole monopoly of the car to himself. Look at the enormous difference. A private man who runs his own car for hire is its owner, driver and cooly, and he is satisfied if he makes about Rs. 2 or Rs. 3 per trip, which gives him about 12 per cent. return, with which, in these days of depression, he is well satisfied. Is it ever possible for a railway company to run it as cheaply ? My friend, the Honourable Member in charge of the Bill, said that that was not the object of his Bill. If that is the position, then why have the Bill at all ? That is why the passing of this Bill was opposed, but, with the House, as it is at present constituted, with a solid official block most of the Nominated Members being on their side, and the Opposition being divided into various parties and factions, it is hopeless to carry any legislation or Resolution against the official wish. Since, however, the passing of this Bill cannot be delayed and it has to be considered clause by clause, I have tabled the amendment which stands in my name. It only incorporates the principle of the Select Committee report in paragraph 2 (3) which says :

" The third important decision we reached was that railway companies should not receive any differential treatment whatsoever in respect of these new services. In particular our intention is that they should not enjoy any exemptions from taxation or from licensing regulations, but should compete with private enterprise on level terms."

Since on this point, there is no note of dissent, I take it that this principle was accepted by all the members forming the Select Committee. There was much discussion on the floor of this House only a day or two ago that the Bill should not create any sort of monopoly, or ruin the private owners or companies by any unfair competition. I am glad that the Honourable Member also assured on that point in his reply to the debate. My amendment safeguards that purpose. The stock argument that the passing of the Bill is necessary in order to safeguard the light railways against the loss which they are suffering has already been ably replied to in the speech of Mr. Aggarwal and the proposition, that in order to save loss to one concern you can ruin another, will not appeal to any fair minded business man. From a financial point of view, the utility of framing any such scheme which will help any light railway without injuring the trade of others is very doubtful. I for myself will welcome the Bill and any scheme which may be prepared under it if it increases the facility of transport consistent with cheapness. I, therefore, move this amendment for the acceptance of this House. I do not see how this House can refuse my amendment without making itself liable to the serious charge of being inconsistent, as I understand that the Government, when asking for the passing of this Bill, have accepted the recommendations of the Select Committee and my amendment is only a part of that recommendation. Sir, I move.

The Assembly then adjourned till Eleven of the Clock on Thursday, the 31st August, 1933.

LEGISLATIVE ASSEMBLY.

Thursday, 31st August, 1933.

The Assembly met in the Assembly Chamber at Eleven of the Clock, Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) in the Chair.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Mr. President (The Honourable Sir Shanmukham Chetty) : Question No. 222. Lala Hari Raj Swarup.

Mr. A. Das : Question No. 222.

Mr. President : Have you been authorised to put this question ? Lala Hari Raj Swarup authorised Mr. Thampan to put this question on his behalf, but as both of them are absent, the Honourable Member cannot put it.

AGREEMENT ON THE PRODUCTION OF SUGAR REACHED IN THE WORLD ECONOMIC CONFERENCE IN LONDON.

222. Lala Hari Raj Swarup : (a) Will Government be pleased to state if any agreement on the production of sugar has been reached between the various representatives assembled in the World Economic Conference in London ?

(b) If the answer to part (a) be in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to state the details of such agreement ?

(c) Will Government be pleased to state what undertakings the members of the Indian Delegation have given on behalf of India ?

The Honourable Sir Joseph Bhore : (a) No, Sir.

(b) and (c). Do not arise.

APPEALS PENDING BEFORE EACH ASSISTANT INCOME-TAX COMMISSIONER IN THE UNITED PROVINCES.

223. Mr. A. Das : (a) Will Government be pleased to state, how many appeals were pending before each Assistant Income-tax Commissioner in the United Provinces upto 31st March, 1933, in connection with assessments made by Income-tax Officers or Additional Income-tax Officers ?

(b) Will Government be pleased to give the names of Income-tax Officers or Additional Income-tax Officers and the number of their cases which are up in appeal before their Assistant Commissioners in the United Provinces ?

(c) What examination in Law, LL.B., or especially in the Indian Evidence Act, are Income-tax Officers or Additional Income-tax Officers required to pass before they are appointed and how many such Income-tax Officers or Additional Income-tax Officers passed the LL.B., or a similar standard in the Law of Evidence as per Indian Evidence Act ?

(d) Are Government aware of the alarming increase in appeals to Assistant Commissioners of Income-tax against the assessments made by Income-tax Officers and Additional Income-tax Officers, and have any confidential Revenue Board Circulars been issued on the subject ?

(e) Are Government aware of the harassment, expense and worry to the public referred to in part (d) above ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : (a) A statement is laid on the table.

(b) It is not in the public interest to give detailed information regarding the work of individual officers.

(c) Income-tax Officers are not required to pass any of the examinations specified. They have, however, to pass a departmental examination in Income-tax Law and Rules, etc., before they are confirmed as such. The latter part of the question does not therefore arise.

(d) Owing to the lowering of the minimum taxable limit and the consequent very large increase in the number of assessees, the number of appeals has increased, but Government have no reason to suppose that the increase is 'alarming'. The Central Board of Revenue has not issued any confidential circulars on the subject.

(e) The answer is in the negative as beyond the ordinary trouble and expense involved in prosecuting an appeal, there is nothing special in these cases.

Mr. A. Das : How are the appointments of Assistant Income-tax Officers made ? Are they made by selection or by nomination ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : I think I must ask my Honourable friend for notice of that question.

Mr. A. Das : Will Government consider the advisability of having a competitive examination for the same ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : I will inquire into that point.

Mr. A. Das : Do Government consider the knowledge of the rudimentary principles of law as necessary for these appointments ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : I am afraid I must ask for notice of that question also.

Mr. A. Das : Are Government aware that such appointments have been made from the ranks of Naib-Tahsildars who have no knowledge of law ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : I am not aware of that at present. I will inquire into the matter.

ASSESSMENT OF INCOME-TAX FROM GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES HAVING A PRIVATE INCOME OF OVER RS. 1,000.

224. Mr. A. Das : (a) How many Government employees having a private income of more than Rs. 1,000 are being taxed for income-tax ? Will Government give the figures for each province ?

(b) What is the number of the Government employees who are paid rupees one thousand or more as their Government pay yearly, and who are taxed on their private income apart from the Government pay as compared with such similar employees who are not so taxed ?

(c) Are all the Government employees drawing a Government salary of Rs. 1,000 or more yearly required to fill up the income-tax return and submit them to the Income-Tax Officer of their respective districts ? If not, why not ?

(d) If the reply to part (c) be in the negative, are Government prepared to issue proper orders to tap this source of income or is it the desire of the Government to exempt them from such income-tax or afford them preferential treatment ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : (a) and (b). The information required is not compiled.

(c) No. If every Government Officer getting a salary of Rs. 1,000 per annum or more is to be required to fill up a return of income, a large extra staff would have to be entertained, which experience shows is not likely to be justified by the results.

(d) This source of revenue is already being properly tapped. Returns of income are called for whenever there is a prospect of additional income being brought under assessment. Government do not therefore consider it necessary to issue any further orders.

Mr. A. Das : Are Government aware that there is only one central officer in each province for assessing the income on the Government officials and that they are not assessed separately in each district ?

The Honourable Sir George Schuster : I am afraid I did not exactly catch what my Honourable friend said, but I think I am right in saying that at present I am not aware of it, but I will inquire into the matter.

EXTERNMENT OF MAULANA SULTAN AHMED FROM DELHI.

225. Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Will Government be pleased to state why Maulana Sultan Ahmed, Naib Mufti of Jamiat-ul-Ulema-i-Hind has been externed from Delhi ? Will Government be pleased to state the nature of his activities which were considered objectionable and also whether this organisation has been declared an unlawful association ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Maulana Sultan Ahmed was externed for activities calculated to stir up disaffection against the Government. The Jamiat-ul-Ulema-i-Hind has not been declared an unlawful association.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Are Government aware that the Jamiat-ul-Ulema-i-Hind has abandoned the Civil Disobedience Movement now ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I have received no official information to that effect, Sir.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Are Government prepared to allow Maulana Sultan Ahmed to come to Delhi if the Honourable Member is satisfied that the Jamiat-ul-Ulema-i-Hind has suspended the Civil Disobedience Movement ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The activities of Maulana Sultan Ahmed cannot be described as activities merely in support of the Civil Disobedience Movement. He made an extremely violent anti-Government and racial speech.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : Why was he not prosecuted under the ordinary law ? He might have been prosecuted under the law of sedition or any other proper section of the penal code.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : Well, Sir, I think it is possible that action could have been taken against him under the penal law, but the Chief Commissioner preferred to take the milder action of externing him from Delhi.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : If the Government were so sure of obtaining a conviction, why did they not take the obvious course instead of externing him without putting him to trial ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I do not know why the Honourable Member is so anxious that the Maulana should be sent to jail.

Mr. Gaya Prasad Singh : So long as he is not convicted under the ordinary criminal law of the land, he must be presumed to be innocent ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The action taken by the Chief Commissioner appeared to him the most convenient and I am not prepared to question his discretion.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Do not the Government realise that if the Maulana were prosecuted under the ordinary criminal law, he would have got a chance of refuting the charges that were lodged against him ? It may be that the allegations are false and he has not been given an opportunity to refute them.

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I fancy that in addition to a particular speech or two there were other activities which satisfied the Chief Commissioner of the desirability of making that order.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : Then what is the object of having the criminal law courts ? Is it not the object of the criminal law that every one should get a chance of refuting the allegations made against him ? Do the Government mean to say that every prosecution that they bring about ends always in conviction ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir ; but I think in this particular case the procedure adopted was more convenient.

Mr. S. C. Mitra : It may be more convenient to Government, but what about the Maulana who is deprived of the opportunity to defend himself and justify his course of action in a court of law ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : I think it was thought that it was more convenient for the Maulana himself.

Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Are Government aware that the Maulana Sahib was the Naib Mufti whose duty it is to decide religious questions ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : No, Sir, I have no information about the precise duties of the Naib Mufti.

POLITICAL PRISONERS CONFINED IN JAILS IN INDIA AND IN THE ANDAMANS.

226. Mr. M. Maswood Ahmad : Will Government be pleased to state how many prisoners convicted under the ordinary law or under any Ordinance in connection with the Civil Disobedience Movement or with the other movements connected therewith are at present confined in jails in India and in the Andamans ?

The Honourable Sir Harry Haig : The number of persons, convicted of offences connected with the Civil Disobedience Movement, undergoing imprisonment at the end of July, 1933, was 4,683.

None of these prisoners are in the Andamans.

EXPERIMENTAL CHECK OVER THE TRAVELLING TICKET EXAMINERS' WORK ON THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.

227. Khan Bahadur Haji Wajihuddin : (a) Will Government be pleased to state if it is a fact that the East Indian Railway authorities are contemplating trying an experiment to conduct a super-check over the Travelling Ticket Examiners' work under the control of the Watch and Ward Department ?

(b) Is it a fact that for this purpose the services of Guards, Controllers, Gunners and Pointsmen, etc., are being transferred to the Watch and Ward Department ?

(c) Is it a fact that these men, who are going to be entrusted with the ticket checking work, are not qualified in Coaching and ticket checking duties ?

(d) Is it a fact that Travelling Ticket Examiners and the Ticket Collectors have to pass a qualifying efficiency test of ticket checking duties ?

(e) Why has the condition of periodical tests on the Travelling Ticket Examiners and Ticket Collectors been imposed ?

(f) Why have not the services of the existing Travelling Ticket Examiners been utilised for the purpose of this check ?

(g) Will Government be pleased to state whether the Guards, and other Transportation staff as mentioned in part (b) above are surplus to warrant their temporary transfer for ticket checking purposes ?

(h) What would be the approximate additional expenditure on this experimental check under the Watch and Ward Department ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : With your permission, Sir, I propose to deal with questions Nos. 227 to 229 together. I am informed that the Agent, East Indian Railway, has, as a temporary and experimental measure, decided to utilise the services of certain staff who are available owing to slack traffic conditions to have a check conducted under the control of the Watch and Ward Department in addition to the ordinary check exercised by Travelling Ticket Examiners under the system recently introduced. The intention is that this experiment should be tried out for three months, and it has been reported that the approximate additional expenditure for the whole period is about Rs. 7,000. I am unable at present to give a complete reply to the various details that the Honourable Member desires to know, but I am obtaining a fuller report from the Agent of the East Indian Railway and shall place further information on the table of the House at a later date.

Mr. Lalchand Navalrai : Is there any idea to try these experiments on other railways also ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : I have already promised to obtain a full report and place further information on the table of the House. I have not got complete information on this point at present.

EXPERIMENTAL CHECK OVER THE TRAVELLING TICKET EXAMINERS' WORK ON THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.

†228. Khan Bahadur Haji Wajihuddin : Will Government be pleased to state :

(a) If they have considered whether it will be efficient to place the ticket checking branch under Watch and Ward Department ?

(b) Whether the Watch and Ward Department is responsible for the safeguard of financial interests of the East Indian Railway ?

(c) Whether the Watch and Ward staff will be qualified to exercise a check on money matters concerning excess fare, etc. ?

(d) Whether the Watch and Ward Department will be authorised to check the booking office records and other relevant documents ?

(e) What is the present function of the Watch and Ward Department ?

EXPERIMENTAL CHECK OVER THE TRAVELLING TICKET EXAMINERS' WORK ON THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.

†229. Khan Bahadur Haji Wajihuddin : (a) Will Government be pleased to state why such super-check on the East Indian Railway has not been conducted under the Accounts Department ?

(b) For what administrative reasons has the Watch and Ward Department been given control in preference to Accounts control ?

(c) Will Government be pleased to state whether the Watch and Ward Department control will be consistent with the recommendations of Messrs. Moody and Ward, Officers of the Crew Enquiry Committee, on whose recommendations the Accounts control has been replaced by that of the Operating ?

(d) Will this experiment be conducted on any other State Railway or with reference to my question No. 849 and supplementary questions thereon by Sir Henry Gidney and Dr. Ziauddin Ahmad, dated 18th March, 1932, will the East Indian Railway only be selected for such experiments ?

†For answer to this question, see answer to question No. 227.

PROPOSAL TO CHECK ILLICIT TRAVELLING BY USE OF Lathis ON THE EAST INDIAN RAILWAY.

230. Khan Bahadur Haji Wajihuddin : Will Government be pleased to state :

(a) if by entrusting the ticket checking work to the Watch and Ward Department the East Indian Railway authorities are contemplating to check illicit travelling by use of lathis and dandas ;

(b) whether they are aware that such a step on the part of the East Indian Railway authorities will be a source of harassment to the travelling public ?

Mr. P. R. Rau : (a) No.

(b) Does not arise.

RIGHTS AND DUTIES OF THE VICE-PRESIDENT OF A CANTONMENT BOARD.

231. Lala Hari Raj Swarup : (a) Will Government be pleased to state what are the rights and duties of the Vice-President of a Cantonment Board ?

(b) Can the Vice-President inspect officially any institution under the control of a Cantonment Board ?

(c) If the answer to part (b) be in the affirmative, will Government be pleased to state the reasons why Mr. R. S. Vidyarthi, Vice-President, Cantonment Board, Meerut, was not allowed to inspect the High School of the Board officially ?

Mr. G. R. F. Tottenham : (a) The attention of the Honourable Member is invited to sections 22, 25, 215 and 241 of the Cantonments Act, 1924.

(b) Yes, if so empowered by the President under section 22 (2) or with the previous sanction of the President under section 242 of the Cantonments Act, 1924.

(c) There was no objection to the Vice-President's or any other member's visiting the school and making suggestions or criticisms as a result of such visit. It is, however, the policy of this particular Board, as expressed in one of their resolutions, that formal inspections should be left to the members of the particular committee concerned.

INTRODUCTION OF TENDER SYSTEM FOR SALE OF COUNTRY LIQUOR IN DELHI.

232. Mr. Goswami M. R. Puri : Will Government be pleased to state :
