That for the purpose of maintaining and operating the properties now owned by the United States in the vicinity of Muscle Shoals, Alabama, in the interest of the national defense and for agricultural and industrial development, and to aid navigation and the control of destructive flood waters in the Tennessee River and Mississippi River Basins, there is hereby created a body corporate by the name of the "Muscle Shoals Corporation of the United States" (hereinafter referred to as the corporation). The board of directors first appointed shall be deemed the incorporators and the incorporation shall be held to have been effected from the date of the first meeting of the board. This act may be cited as the "Muscle Shoals act of 1928."

Sec. 2 (a) The board of directors of the corporation (hereinafter referred to as the board) shall be composed of three members, not more than two of whom shall be members of the same political party, to be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The board shall organize by electing a chairman, vice chairman, and other officers, agents, and employees, and shall proceed to carry out the provisions of this act.

(b) The terms of office of the members first taking office after the approval of this act shall expire as designated by the President at the time of nomination, one at the end of the second year, one at the end of the fourth year, and one at the end of the sixth year, after the date of approval of this act. A successor to a member of the board shall be appointed in the same manner as the original members and shall have a term of office expiring six years from the date of the expiration of the term for which his predecessor was appointed.

(c) Any member appointed to fill a vacancy in the board occurring prior to the expiration of the term for which his predecessor was appointed shall be appointed for the remainder of such term.

(e) Each of the members of the board shall be a citizen of the United States, and shall receive compensation at the rate of $50 per day for each day that he shall be actually engaged in the performance of the duties vested in the board, to be paid by the corporation as current expenses, not to exceed, however, one hundred and fifty days for the first year after the date of the approval of this act, and not to exceed one hundred days in any year thereafter. The general manager shall be appointed to hold office for ten years, but he may be removed by the board for cause, and his term of office shall end upon repeal of this act, or by amendment thereof expressly providing for the termination of his office. Should the office of general manager become vacant for any reason, the board shall appoint his successor as herein provided.

(b) The general manager shall appoint, with the advice and consent of the board, two assistant managers who shall be responsible to him, and through him, to the board. One of the assistant managers shall be a man possessed of knowledge, training, and experience to render him competent and expert in the production of fixed nitrogen. The general manager may at any time, for cause, remove any assistant manager, and appoint his successor as above provided. He shall immediately thereafter make a report of such action to

(g) May appoint such officers, employees, attorneys, and agents as are necessary for the transaction of its business, fix their compensation, define generally their duties, require bonds of them and fix the penalties thereof, and dismiss at pleasure any such officer, employee, attorney, or agent, and provide a system of organization to fix responsibility and promote efficiency.

(h) The board shall require that the general manager and the two assistant managers, the secretary and the treasurer, the bookkeeper or bookkeepers, and such other administrative and executive officers as the board may see fit to include, shall execute sufficient surety bonds, in such amount and with such surety as the board shall approve.

(f) The board shall commence the manufacture of fixed nitrogen at Muscle Shoals by the employment of existing facilities (by modernizing existing plants), or by any other process or processes that in its judgment shall appear wise and profitable for the fixation of atmospheric nitrogen. The fixed nitrogen for fertilizer provided for in this act shall be in such form and in combination with such other ingredients as shall make and be such nitrogen immediately available and practicable for use by farmers in application to soil and crops. The board is authorized and directed to utilize nitrate plant numbered 2 for experiments in the production of fixed nitrogen, to determine whether it is or is not commercially feasible to produce fixed nitrogen by such plant.

(g) Under the authority of this act, the board may donate not exceeding 1 per centum of the total product of the plant or plants operated by it to be fairly and equitably distributed through the agency of county demonstration agents, agricultural colleges, or otherwise as the board may direct for experiment, education, and introduction of the use of such products in cooperation with practical farmers so as to obtain information as to the value, effect, and best methods of use of same.

RESPONSIBILITY FOR THE WORLD WAR

Mr. Shipstead, by unanimous consent, submitted the following resolution (S. Res. 242), which was referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations:

Whereas article 231 of the treaty of Versailles declares as follows:

"The allied and associated powers affirm, and Germany acknowledges, that Germany and its allies are guilty of having caused all losses and damages which the allied and associated governments and their nations suffered in consequence of the war, which was forced upon them by Germany and its allies"; and

Whereas said article was founded on a judicial opinion of the Entente Commission of Fifteen, appointed by the victors on February 25, 1919, "to determine the responsibility of the war and punishment therefor"; and

Whereas the American Government was a party to said judicial opinion, which was approved and signed by its two delegates on the said commission, namely, Robert Lansing, chairman of the commission, and James Brown Scott; and

Whereas such a judgment to have had any legal or moral authority should have been pronounced by an impartial tribunal after careful study of the evidence and hearing both sides; and

Whereas since the formation of the treaty of Versailles abundance of testimony has appeared from the archives of the allied as well as the central powers, and from other sources, showing that the said article 231 was based on hysteria, hypocrisy, and falsifications "forged in the fires of war"; and

Whereas distinguished historians and statesmen of the United States, Great Britain, Canada, Italy, Russia, France, and Serbia as well as Germany and Austria, have declared that the evidence now available is sufficient to warrant a just and reasonable attitude on the part of the victors, and a reconsideration of the judgment which they allege was manifestly unjust, violative of judicial principles, and legal procedure and a grave obstacle to international understanding; and

Whereas the establishment of the facts and the truth as to the origin of the war is vital to a reconciliation of the peoples of Europe and to their moral disarmament: Therefore be it

Resolved, That the Committee on Foreign Relations of the United States Senate be, and is hereby, respectfully requested to hold an inquiry for the purpose of determining whether in view of the new evidence and other official material, the time is appropriate for the American Government, inspired by the sense of justice and fair play, to recommend to the allied powers either to amend this article without further delay, or to announce severally their intent on to disregard it.

Otherwise, to propose to the allied powers that the question of the responsibility for the World War be submitted to a commission of neutrals.

The Vice President thereupon signed the same, and it was delivered to the committee to be presented to the President of the United States.

AGRICULTURAL RELIEF

The Vice President laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States, which was read: To the Senate:

Senate bill 3555, called the surplus control act, is in some respects an improvement over Senate bill 4808 of the last Congress. It includes several provisions which, if unencumbered by objectionable features, would form a basis for a measure that should do much to develop stronger business organizations in agriculture. But the present bill contains not only the so-called equalization fee and other features of the old measure prejudicial, in my opinion, to sound public policy and to agriculture, but also new and highly objectionable provisions. In its entirety it is little less undesirable than the earlier measure. The bill still is unconstitutional. This position is supported by the opinion of the Attorney General, which is hereto attached.

In its essentials the objectionable plan proposed here is the stimulation of the price of agricultural commodities and products thereof by artificially controlling the surpluses so that there will be an apparent scarcity on the market. This is to be done by means of a board having supposedly adequate powers and adequate funds to accomplish such purpose through various agencies, governmental and private. The surpluses of the different selected commodities so accumulated by the board are then to be sold by export and otherwise directly or through such agencies at whatever loss is necessary in making the disposition. The fund to pay the losses and other cost while at first furnished by the Government is ultimately to be replaced and thereafter replenished from time to time by means of a tax or fee charged against the product. The theory is that the enhanced price of the commodity would enable the producer to pay the equalization fee and still reap a profit.

The recurring problem of surpluses in farm products has long been a subject of deep concern to the entire Nation, and any economically sound, workable solution of it would command not only the approval but the profound gratitude of our people. The present measure, however, falls far short of that most desirable objective; indeed, although it purports to provide farm relief by lessening the cares of our greatest industry, it not only fails to accomplish that purpose but actually heaps even higher its burdens of political control, of distribution costs, and of foreign competition. It embodies a formidable array of perils for agriculture which are all the more menacing because of their being obscured in a maze of ponderously futile bureaucratic paraphernalia. In fact, in spite of the inclusion in this measure of some constructive steps proposed by the administration, it renews most of the more vicious devices which appeared in the bill that was vetoed last year. This document is much altered from its previous form, but its substance, particularly as to its evident ultimate effect of tending to delude the farmer with a fantastic promise of unworkable governmental price regulation, is still as repugnant as ever to the spirit of our institutions, both political and commercial.

A detailed analysis of all of the objections to the measure would involve a document of truly formidable proportions. However, its major weaknesses and perils may be summarized under six headings:

- I. Its attempted price-fixing fallacy.
- II. The tax characteristics of the equalization fee.
- III. The widespread bureaucracy which it would set up.
- IV. Its encouragement to profiteering and wasteful distribution by middlemen.
- V. Its stimulation of overproduction.
- VI. Its aid to our foreign agricultural competitors.

These topics by no means exhaust the list of fallacious and indeed dangerous aspects of the bill, but they afford ample ground for its emphatic rejection.

I. Price fixing: This measure is as cruelly deceptive in its disguise as governmental price-fixing legislation and involves quite as unmistakably the impossible scheme of attempted governmental control of buying and selling of agricultural products through political agencies as any of the other so-called surplus-control bills. In fact, in certain respects it is much broader and more flagrant in its scope. The heights to which price lifting might be promised are freed from the limitations fixed in previous measures. The bill carefully avoids any direct allusion to such price-fixing functions, but there can be no doubt about its intentions and authorizations to the Federal farm board in this respect. There is apparently no change in the import of the bill in the resolution to impose upon the farmer and upon the consumers of farm produce a régime of futile, delusive experiments with price fixing, with indirect governmental buying and selling, and with a nation-wide system of regulatory policing, intolerable espionage, and tax collection on a vast scale.

These provisions would disappoint the farmer by naively implying that the law of supply and demand can thus be legislatively distorted in his favor. Economic history is filled with the evidences of the ghastly futility of such attempts. Fiat prices match the folly of fiat money.

The board would be compelled to arrive in some way at the premium on the domestic price which would be demanded from the consumer, and this figure would have to be fixed in the contracts which it would make with the millers, packers, canners, spinners, and other processors. Such prices and other terms fixed in the contracts would be used by the board to calculate the losses upon which it will base the size of the equalization fee. This procedure is the very essence of price fixing no matter how cumbersome and crudely camouflaged it may be. By throwing the very large resources of the Government into this operation the present bill gives the widest latitude for the most vicious temptations adherent in autocratic authority in complete command of vast industries and trades.

In previous bills definite yardsticks have been determined by which prices were to be established by the Government. They are omitted from this bill, which thereby leaves almost no restraint whatever upon the discretion of the board in this respect. The present measure, therefore, has even less merit than its predecessors in this regard since it carries no limitation as to the extent of price inflation which it can undertake.

II. The equalization fee, which is the kernel of this legislation, is a sales tax upon the entire community. It is in no sense a mere contribution to be made by the producers themselves, as has been represented by supporters of the measure. It can be assessed upon the commodities in transit to the consumer and its burdens can often unmistakably be passed on to him.

Furthermore, such a procedure would certainly involve an extraordinary relinquishment of the taxing power on the part of Congress, because the tax would not only be levied without recourse to legislative authority but its proceeds would be expended entirely without the usual safeguards of congressional control of appropriations. This would be a most dangerous nullification of one of the essential checks and balances which lie at the very foundation of our Government.

Incidentally, this taxation or fee would not be for purposes of revenue in the accepted sense, but would simply yield a subsidy for the special benefit of particular groups of processors and exporters. It would be a consumption or sales tax on the vital necessities of life, regulated not by the ability of the people to pay but only by the requirements and export losses of various trading intermediaries. It would be difficult indeed to conceive of a more flagrant case of the employment of all of the coercive powers of the Government for the profit of a small number of specially privileged groups.

It has been alleged that these operations would be inagrated only as a last resort, but this would be scanty assurance, indeed, since no board would be able to resist the pressure of the political forces which could be mustered in behalf of every staple commodity to demand that the Government should undertake the responsibility of attempting to legislate its prices above those fixed in the normal operations of the law of supply and demand.

III. Widespread bureaucracy: A bureaucratic tyranny of unprecedented proportions would be let down upon the backs of the farm industry and its distributors throughout the Nation in connection with the enforcement of this measure. Thousands of contracts involving scores of different grades, quantities, and varieties of products would have to be signed by the board with the 4,400 millers, the 1,200 meat-packing plants, the 3,000 or more cotton and woolen mills, and the 2,700 canners. If this bill had been in operation in 1925, it would have involved collisions upon an aggregate of over 16,000,000,000 units of wheat, corn, and cotton.

The bill undertakes to provide insurance against loss, but presumably only against reasonable and unavoidable loss. Just what this might be would involve judgment on the part of Government employees upon tens of thousands of transactions running into billions of dollars. This is bureaucracy gone mad. Cooperative associations, flour mills, packing plants, and grain elevators will cease to be private and become public agencies. If there is any conclusion that we can announce as final with regard to governmental business operations, particularly after the bitter and excessively costly war-time experiences with such enterprises, it is that we can not maintain a bureaucracy of such vast proportions engaged in buying and selling without constant danger of corruption, mismanagement, and prodigious tax burdens. No private agency of so gigantic and complex a character attempting to juggle with profound economic principles in such fashion could survive under such circumstances, and the chances for a governmental trading organization would be even less.

Swarms of inspectors, auditors, disbursers, accountants, and regulatory officers would be let loose throughout the land to enforce the terms of these contracts and to curb the inevitable attempts at evasion of the equalization fee. This plague of petty officialdom would set up an intolerable tyranny over the daily lives and operations of farmers and of every individual and firm engaged in the distribution of farm products, intruding into every detail of their affairs, setting up thousands of prohibitory restrictions and obnoxious inspections.

Such autocratic domination over our major industry, its dependent trades, and the every-day activities of hundreds of thousands of our citizens would, indeed, be profoundly repugnant to every instinct of our institutions. It would undermine individual initiative, place a premium upon evasion and dishonesty, and poison the very wellsprings of our national spirit of providing abundant rewards for thrift and for open competitive effort.

The arbitrary powers in the hands of the 12 members of the board are almost incredible. But even more extraordinary would be the veto power over the board which this measure places in the hands of the commodity advisory councils.

Acting with the board, these men could throw the entire machinery of the Government into an attempt to raise or lower domestic prices at will. Even though such efforts would ultimately be doomed to certain failure, these men would meanwhile, during the course of costly experiment, hold in their hands the fate of vast industries using farm products employing millions of persons and of great cooperatives with thousands of farmer members. They could disrupt the settled channels of trade and commerce; they could alter at will the cost of living, influence wage levels in all lines of industry, and affect conditions of business in every part of the country. The mere enumeration of such powers is the complete answer to the proposal that they be granted.

IV. Encouragement to profiteering and wasteful distribution by middlemen: As was pointed out in the veto last year, it seems almost incredible that the farmers of this country are being offered this scheme of legislative relief in which the only persons who are guaranteed to benefit are the exporters, packers, millers, canners, spinners, and other processors. Their profits are definitely assured. They have, in other words, no particular incentive toward careful operation, since each of them holding a contract, no matter how unscrupulous, wasteful, or inefficient his operations may have been, would be fully reimbursed for all of his losses.

This would be bound to encourage wholesale profiteering at the expense of the farmer and of the consumer. Every one of these processors could charge what he chose to his domestic trade and recoup the loss incurred on any one of his products thus made unsalable at home through excessive prices by dumping it at reduced rates in foreign markets. With such a complete guaranty of profit these concerns would be entirely without restraint or limitation as to profiteering and as to slovenly and wasteful processing and selling operations.

Surely there could be no more direct means of destroying the very germ of American commercial genius which is so frankly envied by our foreign rivals—the tireless search for better and more efficient business methods, the competitive zeal for superior service and for adequate returns through large sales of better merchandise at lower prices.

The packers could be commanded by the board to buy hogs enough to create a near shortage at home and then raise the prices to a fixed level. The unsalable surplus would then be dumped abroad at a loss, which would thereupon be made good out of the pockets of all taxpayers, including the farmers. The operations would involve an impenetrable maze of contracts between the board and hundreds of packers and provisioners. The result would be a bewildering snarl of entangled accounting problems because packing houses buy one kind of product and sell a wide range of highly differentiated specialties. To "equalize" the losses on these would indeed be a task of overwhelming difficulty.

These objections were raised against the previous measure and apparently an attempt has been made to meet them by broadening the discretionary powers of the board so as to escape the necessity of describing its functions and limiting its authority. The result, however, has been entirely the reverse from that which was intended. The board is endowed with vast powers over our basic industry, but unlike every other agency in the Government it would not be limited by congressional control over its appropriations since it would have within itself the power to raise funds without limit by means of the compulsory equalization fee.

V. Stimulation of overproduction: The bill runs counter to an economic law as well settled as the law of gravitation. In increased prices decrease consumption; they also increase production. These two conditions are the very ones that spell disaster to the whole program. The vaguely drawn clause in the measure to meet this obvious danger merely amounts to moral suasion and as a last resort the withdrawal of the equalization fee. Thus if 90 per cent of the growers of a given commodity heed the admonitions of the board and refrain from production, they will, nevertheless, be punished because of the evasions of the remaining 10 per cent who have ignored the board's requests. In other words, no farmer will be safe in directing his planning upon his individual judgment, for should the result be a stimulation of an increased yield the board will be likely to withdraw the support which encouraged the surpluses and allow the price to collapse under the weight of that artificially created excess. The annals of the industrial and agricultural world are replete with the catastrophes that have come in the wake of such attempted distortions of one of the most fundamental principles of commercial relations.

VI. Aid to our foreign agricultural competitors: This measure continues, as did its predecessor, to give substantial aid to the foreign competitors of American agriculture and industry. It continues the amazing proposal to supply foreign workers with cheaper food than those of the United States, and this at the expense of the American farm industry, thereby encouraging both the foreign peasant, whose produce is not burdened with the costs of any equalization fees, and also affording through reduced food prices the means of cutting the wage rates paid by foreign manufacturers. The latter step would promptly impair the prosperity of our manufacturing population, which is by far the leading and most profitable market for our farm produce. It is nonsense to say that our farmers are not interested in such a development, which can only result in unemployment and in consequent decreases in food consumption in the great industrial districts. It is surely poor business to transfer the farmer's market from an employed American workman to the latter's competitor in the low-wage scale countries across the seas, whose potential buying power and standards of living even at best are far below those of this country.

This is, indeed, an extraordinary process of economic reasoning, if such it could be called. Certainly it is a flagrant case of direct, insidious attack upon our whole agricultural and industrial strength.

By the inevitable stimulation of production the bill can only mean an increase of exportable surplus to be dumped in the world market. This in turn will bring about a constantly decreasing world price, which will soon reach so low a figure that a wholesale curtailment of production in this country with its attendant demoralization and heavy losses would be certain. Where is the advantage of dragging our farmers into such folly?

Furthermore, as the board undertakes to dump the steadily mounting surplus into foreign countries at the low-cost figures, it will come into direct conflict with the dumping and similar trade laws of many foreign lands which are interested in the maintenance of their own agricultural industries. We might, therefore, expect immediately a series of drastic, retaliatory discriminations on the part of these consumer countries. This will drive our surplus into narrower market channels and force even further price reductions with consequent increases in the burdens of the equalization tax.

Lastly, and most important, in connection with this aspect of the bill as an aid to our foreign competitors, the measure will inevitably devastate many of our important farm areas. For instance, the board is expected to obtain higher prices for the American farmer for corn by removing the surplus from the home market and dumping it over our borders at a lower level of prices. In other words, the hog grower in Ontario, Canada, may buy American corn at a very much lower level than the hog grower in the State of Ohio. Both being situated equally as to the European market for their pork products, we shall see immediately the migration of the Ohio hog industries across the border into Canada with consequent losses to our pork industry by this Canadian competition.

Likewise the dumping of cheaper American feeds for Dutch and Scandinavian producers of dairy products further subsidizes them in direct competition with the American industry. In other words, the framers of this measure naively submit a proposal to save the American livestock grower and dairyman by supplying his overseas rivals with abundant feedstuffs at reduced rates. It would be difficult, indeed, to conceive of a more preposterous economic and commercial fallacy.

To take another illustration, our cotton-manufacturing industry, which now has some 18,400,000 spindles in the cotton-growing States and 16,400,000 in the New England States, has been in a precarious condition for several years. Further handicaps imposed upon it by this bill might spell its ruin and the consequent serious crippling of our entire cotton-growing belt. Under this bill it would be quite conceivable that foreign mills could obtain American cotton for prices substantially less than those paid by domestic mills. Foreign mills could ship cotton goods to this country in spite of the tariff, since the equalization fee in this measure is not applied to cotton fabrics. Furthermore, foreign mills would undoubtedly capture our existing export markets for the 600,000,000 square yards which we ship abroad annually, valued at over $75,000,000. The very serious hardships thus inflicted upon the nearly 500,000 wage earners in the cotton-manufacturing industries and the consequent impairment of their consumption of farm produce, as well as of the raw cotton in the mills, would be indeed a tragic, if not disastrous, episode.

All of this assumes that the foreign countries will permit the carrying out of the plan, but many of those countries are interested in the production of their own agricultural industries and will not hesitate to impose higher tariff duties or antidumping laws to prevent such undue depression of their own markets.

Furthermore, they would be inclined to institute discriminatory measures in favor of our competitors by way of retaliation. The markets for our surpluses would thus be limited if not fatally obstructed. To stake the future prosperity of American agriculture upon the course of action to be taken by foreign governments acting under such hostile impulses is altogether too hazardous.

Many of the objections urged in my former veto message apply with equal force to the present bill. No good purpose would be served, however, by repeating them in detail.

The bill now under consideration also includes objectionable features not found in the one of the last session.

The present measure would authorize the board to insure cooperative associations against price decline and require the nonmembers as well as the members to bear the cost under the so-called "nonpremium insurance." All producers would be compelled not only to bear the risk of the few, but also to insure them against the consequences of bad management.

We all believe in sound cooperation; the Government has gone far in recent years to aid it, and I have recommended additional steps for its encouragement; but no system of cooperation founded on the favoritism contemplated under the name of "nonpremium insurance" could be of lasting benefit to agricultural cooperation.

This bill also provides that the equalization fee, collected on any agricultural commodity produced in the United States, shall in addition be collected on importations of that commodity. This provision would empower the board to do the following:

1. Regulate foreign commerce, for the equalization fee on imports would be in fact a tariff. This surely would be a delegation of legislative power, since no logical rule is prescribed to govern the board's actions in making this addition to import duties.

2. Raise the domestic price to the consumer, not only to the full amount permitted by the tariff but as far above that amount as the board might deem proper and expedient. This effect on domestic prices was clearly contemplated by the Committee on Agriculture of the House. Speaking of the effect of this provision on wheat, the committee said:

"Therefore, the maximum price for all wheat, whether of domestic or foreign origin, would approximate a level that included both the tariff and the equalization fee."

3. Nullify the provision of the tariff act that tariff rates shall be based on differences in cost of production here and abroad so far as that provision relates to agricultural products.

An effort has been made to create the impression that the present bill is an important concession to my recommendations for the control of agricultural surplus. It has been emphasized that the loan provision is what this administration has recommended and that loans to cooperative associations for the control of crop surplus constitute one of two alternatives, with the equalization fee the other alternative. It is said that the first alternative will be tried first and that the equalization fee will be resorted to only if the loan provision should prove inadequate. It becomes apparent, however, upon careful study of the present bill and of the supporting committee reports that these alleged alternatives can afford no real test of any plan of the kind I have recommended.

The board is authorized to invoke the trade agreement and the equalization fee only upon finding three facts: (1) "That there is or may be during the ensuing year a seasonal or year's total surplus * * * in excess of the requirements for orderly marketing or in excess of the domestic requirements for the commodity"; (2) "That the nature of the commodity—its durability, preservability, methods of marketing, etc.—adapts it to the operations contemplated"; and (3) that the cooperative associations are unable or unwilling to handle the surplus under the loan provision—I, e., that the "first alternative" is inadequate.

These conditions are always present. It is provided (sec. 8) that the board shall inquire into these facts upon request of the advisory councils, or organization of producers, or upon its own motion. The board could not escape making the three "findings" and would therefore be obliged to enter into trade agreements and to use the equalization fee from the beginning.

A surplus in excess of orderly marketing or (the word "and" is not used) in excess of domestic requirements is always present in many agricultural commodities. The exportation of any part of the domestic output proves the existence of such a surplus.

The second "finding" is equally inescapable because it is based on ever-present and obvious facts. Numerous commodities—cotton, wheat, corn, rice, tobacco, processed meats, and other products—always have the durability, preservability, etc., that render them adaptable to the operations contemplated in this bill.

The third "finding" is also assured in advance because it is certain that the cooperative associations would be both unwilling and unable to handle the surplus under the terms of this bill. Under the first alternative (the loan provision) the cooperative associations would be obliged to repay their loans with 4 per cent interest and pay their losses, if any, in the normal course of trade. Under the second alternative (the equalization fee plan) not only would the board make advances to the associations without interest but would also guarantee to pay their "losses, costs, and charges." Moreover, the equalization fee and the nonpremium insurance would enable the board to insure them against decline in the market price and against the consequences of bad management in merchandising their products, and to compel all producers of the commodity—member and nonmembers—to pay for the insurance. These inducements are surely sufficient to insure unwillingness of the cooperative associations to accept the first alternative.

Both unwillingness and inability of the cooperative associations to handle the surplus under the loan provision are made doubly certain by the central objective of the bill, which is to inflate domestic prices and to dump the surplus abroad at a loss. These associations, and everyone else who has given thought to the matter, know that this can not be done by loans and that it never was contemplated under the plan I have proposed.

The objectives of the type of legislation I have suggested and of this bill are radically different. The two proposals are therefore incompatible as practical alternatives. The object of my proposal is to aid in adjusting production to demand, to afford farmers a greater bargaining power, to handle surplus due to seasonal and other causes beyond the control of producers when unaided by strong business organizations, to minimize price fluctuations, and to reduce the margin between the price paid by the consumer and the price received by the producer.

The real objective of the plan in this bill is to raise domestic prices to artificially high levels by governmental price fixing and to dump the surplus abroad.

While agriculture has been distressed in many countries since the World War, the severity of the agricultural depression in the United States must not be underestimated. It is true there has been an increase in prices and purchasing power of agricultural products. Many important farm products have increased rapidly in price in recent months. Nor should we overlook the fact that our farmers have made noteworthy progress since 1921, both in the purchasing power of their products and in the output per worker in agriculture. The latter is the result of improved methods and equipment, and is in keeping with the fundamental cause of American prosperity—high productivity per worker. Moreover, we should avoid the error of seeking in laws the cause of the ills of agriculture. This mistake leads away from a permanent solution and serves only to make political issues out of fundamental economic problems that can not be solved by political action.

In conclusion, if the measure is enacted one would be led to wonder how long it would be before producers in other lines would clamor for similar "equalizing" subsidies from the public coffers. The lobbies of Congress would be filled with emissaries from every momentarily distressed industry demanding similar relief of a burdensome surplus at the expense of the Treasury. Once we plunged into the futile sophistries of such a system of wholesale commercial doles for special groups of middlemen and distributors at the expense of farmers and other producers, it is difficult to see what the end might be.

I have believed at all times that the only sound basis for further Federal Government action in behalf of agriculture would be to encourage its adequate organization to assist in building up marketing agencies and facilities in the control of the farmers themselves. I want to see them undertake, under their own management, the marketing of their products under such conditions as will enable them to bring about greater stability in prices and less waste in marketing, but entirely within unalterable economic laws. Such a program, supported by a strong protective tariff on farm products, is the best method of effecting a permanent cure of existing agricultural ills. Such a program is in accordance with the American tradition and the American ideal of reliance on and maintenance of private initiative and individual responsibility, and the duty of the Government is discharged when it has provided conditions under which the individual can achieve success.

I am still hopeful that legislation along the lines suggested in my last annual message, with which many of the provisions of this bill are in harmony, may be enacted, but this bill embodies substantially all of the objectionable features which I said, in that message to the Congress, I could not indorse. I am therefore obliged to return Senate bill 3555, entitled "An act to establish a Federal farm board to aid in the orderly marketing and in the control and disposition of the surplus of agricultural commodities in interstate and foreign commerce," without my approval.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

THE WHITE HOUSE, May 23, 1928.

OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL,
Washington, D. C., May 22, 1928.

SIR: In response to your request for an opinion as to whether the bill to establish a Federal farm board (S. 3555, 70th Cong., 1st sess.), if approved, would contravene the provisions of the Constitution of the United States, I submit my conclusions.

The bill resembles in many respects S. 4808, which you returned without your approval February 25, 1927, and which was dealt with in my opinion to you rendered February 25, 1927.

Much that was said in that opinion applies to the bill now under consideration, but the importance of the subject and the differences between the two measures justify an extended statement of my views.

The first question is whether this legislation may be sustained under the commerce power.

The Federal Government is a government of limited powers. It has only such powers as have been expressly given to it by the people in the Constitution or are implied as incidental to the powers as expressed.

In general, legislation under the commerce clause has been directed at carrying out the primary purpose of the commerce clause, which, as discussed in the decisions, was to prevent undue discriminations against and burdens or restraints upon interstate commerce, and most of the decisions of the Supreme Court under the commerce clause deal with such legislation.

Since, heretofore, Congress has never enacted legislation based on an assumed existence of a power to fix prices of merchandise bought and sold in interstate commerce, no case identical with this may be found.

The bill declares the policy of Congress to be, "through the execution of the provisions of this act, to provide for the control and disposition of surpluses of such commodities, to preserve advantageous domestic markets for such commodities, to prevent such surpluses from unduly depressing the prices obtained for such commodities, and from causing undue and excessive fluctuations in the markets for such commodities, to minimize speculation and waste in marketing such commodities"; the provisions of the act to be executed are for limiting the available supply for commodities by keeping them off the market by purchase and withholding in the country or sending them out of the country for the purpose of increasing the price in this country; and influence on the movement of merchandise in interstate commerce is only such as may incidentally result from the attainment of the primary result; and the question is whether fixing and maintaining prices of goods bought, sold, moving in interstate commerce, because of the incidental effect it may have on the movement of such goods, is or is not a valid regulation of commerce within the meaning of the commerce clause.

Another way of stating the question is: Has the Federal Government authority under the commerce clause to enter into the business of buying and selling—manipulating a market in—goods flowing in interstate commerce for the purpose of raising the prices of such goods between producers and consumers?

That I do not misinterpret or overstate the matter when I say the real objective is price maintenance, and effect upon commerce only an incident in the operation of this bill, I quote from the report of the committee of the House (p. 25):

"* * * The board is authorized and directed to enter into 'marketing agreements' with cooperative associations or corporations created and controlled by them, under which such associations or corporations agree either to withhold from the market or to buy, remove from the market, and export or otherwise dispose of such quantities of the agricultural commodity as are agreed upon.

"The fundamental purpose of this act is to enable the board to assist in controlling and handling crop surpluses. It is expected that prices will respond readily." (House committee report, p. 26.)

It is suggested that the tariff acts and laws regulating immigration and other legislation have an effect on domestic prices of merchandise and labor. In such legislation the effect on prices is the incidental result of the exercise of admitted powers under the Constitution. Here the fixing, establishing, and maintenance of prices of merchandise is not the incidental result of the exercise of power under other clauses of the Constitution, but is the primary result to be accomplished.

Because it has been held that the fact that an otherwise constitutionally authorized enactment may incidentally in its operation affect prices of goods flowing in such commerce does not make such regulation invalid, this legislation is said to be valid because the attainment of its purpose—raising and maintaining prices by governmental action in keeping off the market a portion of the supply of goods—may incidentally affect the flow of such goods in commerce.

"* * * This current [of commerce] may find itself stimulated at times and restrained at other times, as surpluses are disposed of or withheld." (House committee report, p. 40; Senate committee report, p. 25.)

It is further said:

"As to the * * * objection that the commerce power does not give Congress direct power to fix, establish, and maintain prices in interstate and foreign commerce, * * * the answer is * * * that no such direct power is given."

Let us examine this:

In the whole bill there is no provision for any action affecting commerce other than the removal from commerce—taking out of the market—and putting into commerce—selling—merchandise for the sole purpose of controlling the price of such goods in the interest of the producer.

In view of the further provisions of the act, section 8 (b) must be construed to read:

"(b) Whenever upon such investigation the board finds, subject to and with the approval of the advisory council for such commodity"—

The action provided for is:

"The board (subject to the approval of the advisory council) shall arrange for the marketing of the surplus through marketing agreements" providing for withholding from sale any part of the surplus or for the purchase of any part of the surplus and holding it off the market at Government expense with the risk of gain or loss in such transactions borne by the Government, all done with Government funds, and all done "through the execution of the provisions of this act" "to provide for the control and disposition of surpluses," "to preserve advantageous domestic markets," "to prevent surpluses from unduly depressing the prices obtained, and prevent causing undue and excessive fluctuations in the markets."

The board "may make such regulations as are necessary to execute the functions vested in it by this act." (Sec. 3 e.)

The member delivering to a cooperative association a commodity for withholding is to receive from the association an advance payment "fairly reflecting the current market value of such commodity," and further, is to be insured against decline in price during the period of withholding the goods from the market.

"In order that a cooperative association * * * may with reasonable security make payments to its members at the time of delivery of such commodity by the members, * * * the board is authorized to enter into an agreement * * * for the insurance of such cooperative association against price decline * * *." (Sec. 11 a.)

"Any such agreement for insurance against price decline shall provide for the insurance of the * * * association * * * against loss to such association or its members due to decline in the average market price for the commodity during the time of sale * * * from the average market price * * * during the time of delivery to the association." (Sec. 11 b.)

So the producer will deliver his goods to his association, receive from it an advance of Government funds to the amount of the then market price of the goods, and at the same time be insured against loss by decline from such price to any time when his commodity is sold within the year the insurance may run, notwithstanding how much higher the price may have been at any time between delivery and sale.

Not only are there these provisions for the control of such of the commodity as is delivered to associations by members, but further marketing agreements shall provide for the purchase of any part of such commodity not delivered to such association by its members and the withholding and disposal of the commodity so purchased and for the payment of the losses, costs, and charges arising out of such purchase, withholding, and disposal or of contracts therefor. (Sec. 8, c-2.)

And, finally—

"During a marketing period fixed by the board (with the consent and approval of the advisory council) for any commodity, the board may enter into marketing agreements for the purchase, withholding, and disposal of the food products of such commodity, and all provisions of this section applicable to marketing agreements for the purchase, withholding, and disposal of a surplus of the commodity shall apply to the agreements in respect of its food products. (Sec. 8 f.)"

This seems to put the Government and its agents, the board and the advisory council, and the cooperative associations, and other authorized agencies, into the market to buy up the crop and hold it or ship it out of the country, as the interest of the producer requires, and of manipulating the market, not only in the agricultural products themselves but in the food products made from them.

How can the price of any staple article of food be raised more certainly and effectively than by substantially diminishing the available supply?

Is there any limit to the height to which prices may be forced by the Government's purchase and withholding from use of goods?

The price at which a surplus or any part thereof is to be purchased or disposed of under any marketing agreement is not in any way regulated or limited.

At any time the state of the market, so far as purchases are concerned, must include, then, governmental action artificially limiting the supply available for domestic consumption, taken by agents of the Government acting in the interests of the producers and not responsible to the board or anyone for the prices at which they buy or the sacrifices in price they make in disposing of goods out of the country in order to make a scarcity here.

"The theory of this measure is not that the board shall fix artificial prices through definite prices named in the agreement, but that it shall assist cooperatives to influence the prevailing price indirectly through control and disposition of the surplus supply of the commodity under the marketing agreements. (Senate committee report, p. 5.)"

What is to prevent the representative of wheat, corn, or any other crop in which the board authorizes trading, from forcing the price to consumers of food made from it in this country to any height?

Without reviewing again the decisions cited in my former opinion, it is enough to say that in my opinion Congress has not been given power to fix the prices at which merchandise may be bought and sold.

Another question is whether this bill delegates legislative power to the board and the advisory council.

It has been said, and repeated many times in various forms, that the marketing agreements equalization fee plan of surplus control is not to be applied by the board to any commodity unless and until the provisions for surplus control through loans to cooperative associations have proven ineffective.

But such are not the provisions of the act as passed.

Quite to the contrary, the terms of the act are that the board shall arrange for marketing agreements when it finds, with the consent and approval of the advisory council, that there may be a surplus, and that operation of the loan provisions will not be effective.

The board shall investigate the supply and market condition, and if it finds, with the consent and approval of the advisory council, that there is—or may be—a surplus, and that the operation of the loan provisions of the act, either because of inability or unwillingness of cooperative associations to control surplus, will not be effective to control surplus, shall arrange for marketing of surplus by means of marketing agreements and nonpremium price-guaranty contracts to commence when the board and the advisory council determine.

Of course, there always may be a surplus.

"We produce, and we can not well avoid producing, a surplus above domestic requirements of certain agricultural commodities. (House committee report, p. 14; Senate committee report, p. 7.)"

There is no rule of law laid down for their guidance and observance. To say that they shall arrange for marketing agreements when they find that the operation of the loan provisions of the act will not be effective to control surplus, because of the inability of associations to control surplus with the aid of loans, is to say they shall do it when they think best.

What quality of fact has a conclusion of the board and advisory council that loan operations will not be effective because of inability to control, when no trial of loan operations has been had; when nothing is known as to what associations can accomplish with two hundred millions of capital at their disposal under a law giving them authority to buy up and hoard the food supply, and to sell, send out of the country, much or little when they please—manipulate the market as they will?

To say that the board and advisory council may find that operations under the loan provisions will not be effective, because of the inability of cooperative associations, with the assistance of loans, to control a surplus, leaves action to the opinion of the board and advisory council, based not upon any experience with loan operations but their own views as to what will happen if they should be undertaken.

Under the provisions of the act giving the board and the advisory council authority to decide whether operations under the loan provisions will be effective to control surplus, the Congress delegates to the board and advisory council authority to determine whether operations under the loan provisions shall ever be tried.

As elsewhere discussed, the purpose of this bill is to raise, maintain—control prices to consumers of food in the United States in the interest of the producers.

The officials intrusted with its administration are to be persons who are "producers" "interested in and representative of producers," persons selected by "cooperative associations," "other organizations representative of the producers of the commodity," "heads of agricultural departments, and governors of States," interested in the production of the commodity. Seemingly every opportunity that can be devised is given for the full exercise under authority of law of selfish interested control of price.

And, in addition, there is created a direct financial inducement to producers and those interested in and for them to reject all attempt at operations under the loan provisions.

The act provides that not exceeding $200,000,000 shall be available for loans to cooperative associations for carrying out the policy of the act, at 4 per cent interest (sec. 5b), and provides that at least two hundred millions shall be available for advances to the stabilization funds for financing marketing agreements (sec. 12) without interest (sec. 8d), so the whole four hundred millions authorized to be appropriated may be used for financing marketing agreements without interest.

The equalization fee "is a payment directly or indirectly by the producers for benefits received by them," but—

"The payment of the fees will in most instances be reflected in the price paid the producer for the commodity. (House committee report, p. 42; Senate committee report, p. 26.)"

That is, the equalization fee paid by the producer for benefits received by him is to be passed on to the consumer and paid by him.

There is not a word in the act as finally passed requiring a trial of the loan plan before determining that it will not be effective, or the ascertainment of any fact as to its operation, nor any implication to that effect. Facts are things which have come to be, which are, the existence of which has been demonstrated. What will happen if given experiments should be undertaken is opinion, not fact.

In considering whether the operation of the loan provisions will be effective, the board and advisory council will have before them one plan under which producers operating at their own risk and expense can borrow for use in limiting the domestic supply of foodstuffs $200,000,000 at 4 per cent interest, as against another under which they can have for the same use four hundred millions without any charge for interest, such funds being provided either by the Government or by the consumers in this country through the price paid by them, which is to include—"reflect the payment of"—the equalization fee, or by both, without expense or risk to the producer.

To the board and advisory council under such conditions is delegated the power to decide whether the loan provisions will be effective, with the resulting conclusion, of course, whether they shall be undertaken, because the board is not directed, but authorized only, to make loans.

Such a determination being without foundation upon prescribed ascertained facts is only an opinion; and action upon such opinion is only an exercise at discretion.

The continuance of the operations of removing from the available supply, and hoarding or other disposition, is to be so long as the board and advisory council judge it to be advisable, "to preserve advantageous domestic markets" and "prevent depressing of prices obtained."

It does not help to say that another element which may enter into the decision is the unwillingness of the cooperative associations handling the commodity to control the surplus, for that only makes one further delegation of authority—to the cooperative associations—to say whether the marketing-agreement provisions of the bill shall or shall not come into and continue in force; and then the whole matter of the beginning and end of the use of marketing agreements, including the establishment and collection of the equalization fee, is legislated into or out of existence, not by Congress, but by the cooperative associations.

And further, there is no way provided by which the unwillingness of the cooperative associations shall be ascertained. Does it mean unwillingness of any part of them, or a majority of them, or all of them?

If, as pointed out above, the primary duty of the board and advisory council is to determine the price at which certain agricultural commodities shall be bought and sold in the domestic markets, then to the board has been given the legislative power to determine that price in its entire discretion, without any rule or formula to guide its judgment prescribed by Congress, such as a provision that the price to be maintained as the objective of operations shall be based on cost of production, or reasonableness, or anything of that kind. The power of the board to control the price is absolute and the discretion unlimited.

The Congress undertakes to delegate to the board and advisory council authority to determine whether the provisions of this act shall or shall not be the law under which the business of selling and buying food commodities shall be conducted.

That is a legislative function which can not be delegated.

The board set up by the act is a governmental agency set between those who produce food and those who must eat to live, an arbiter whose sole guide is its own views as to what those who eat ought to pay to those who produce, an arbiter authorized, empowered, and directed to control by manipulation of the market the price.

"This provision makes it clear that the fundamental purpose of this act is, not to have prices fixed by the board, but to enable the board to assist in controlling the handling of crop surpluses. It is expected that prices will respond to such surplus control without any arbitrary price fixing by the board. * * * (Senate committee report, p. 13.)"

Assuming that the board is composed of men of absolute rectitude, of wholly impartial attitude, who will in all they do under the powers conferred upon them attempt to be fair to—look to the welfare of—the whole people of the country, not of producers of food alone, still this act does by its terms, as they appear to me and as claimed by its sponsors, commit to them absolute power to control, regulate, raise and lower at will at all times, so long as they deem it advisable, the prices which producers may obtain for their products, and all the people must pay or go without.

In addition to the decisions cited in the former opinion as to the delegation of legislative authority, reference may be made to the recent decision of the Supreme Court in J. W. Hampton, Jr., & Co. v. The United States, No. 242, October term, 1927, decided April 9, 1928.

It is not the purpose of the act that the board shall act impartially and in what it does under the powers conferred upon it look to the welfare of the whole people.

"The current will be so controlled, however, that the surplus will be withheld or eliminated from a glutted market, and its flow regulated in such manner as in the judgment of the board will immediately further the best interests of the domestic producers of the commodity. * * * (House committee report, p. 40; Senate committee report, p. 24.)"

"* * * The measure would permit producers of surplus commodities to receive an assured benefit from operations financed by fees collected upon such commodities. (House committee report, p. 2; Senate committee report, p. 2.)"

The marketing operations by the Government are to continue so long as the board and advisory council judge advisable in furtherance of a policy "to preserve advantageous domestic markets" and prevent "surpluses from unduly depressing prices obtained."

The act itself provides, and its sponsors understand and expect, that the board will not be an impartial arbiter between producers and consumers, but that it shall act in the interest of producers alone.

The amount of the fee is to be based upon the estimate of the board and advisory council from time to time of the probable expense and losses, and necessarily their estimate of the amount of the product which will be marketed; and whether it shall be paid on the sale, processing, or transportation of the goods is to be determined by the board.

Results of operations under marketing agreements can not be known until the goods withheld, bought, and removed from the market have been disposed of and proceeds collected and expenses paid.

So, any deficit arising from transactions under any equalization fee established can not be restored to the stabilization fund by increased exactions upon the goods involved in those transactions, and must stand as a loss to the fund; and the other way around, if the fee in force at the time of any transaction produces more than is required to reimburse the stabiliza-zation fund, the excess above such reimbursement will remain in the fund, with no provision for its return to those producers from whom it has been exacted and taken.

The expressed purpose of the act is to compel some producers to contribute to gains or making up the losses upon products of others.

"The consequence of any excess or deficiency in the amount of the fee is to be corrected through revision in the amount of the fee to be collected subsequently." (House committee report, p. 27; Senate committee report, p. 15.)

The law contemplates that the collection of the equalization fee shall cease when the operation ceases. If it is found when operations end that the equalization fee fixed has been too low to produce enough to meet the losses, the losses will be borne out of public funds raised by taxation, constituting the revolving fund, by loans from it to the deficient stabilization fund, which must remain unpaid.

It is not important to decide whether this charge is a tax or is not. Treating the equalization fee as not a tax, it is obvious that what is attempted by this act is to enable certain agencies under Government direction and supervision to engage in the business of buying, selling, hoarding, and otherwise disposing of agricultural products for the sole purpose of controlling prices.

The theory of the act is that giving producers permission to organize combinations in restraint of trade is ineffective to enable them to combine and fix prices, because some producers who do not contribute to the enterprise realize a gain without bearing any of the expense; and the purpose of the act is to force all producers, directly or indirectly, to make a contribution, not in the nature of a tax, toward the losses and expense suffered in operations for the common benefit of all producers wherever their products may be sold. Compelling some citizens to participate in business operations by requiring them to contribute to the loss and expense thereof is, in my opinion, in violation of the provisions of the fifth amendment and a taking of property without due process of law. (Parkersburg v. Brown, 106 U. S. 487.)

On the other hand, if it be a tax, then its proceeds constitute public funds in the Treasury, with the result that the Public Treasury would bear the losses and expenses and take the profits, if any, of the business of buying, storing, and selling of agricultural commodity.

Because the equalization fee is not called a tax, does not purport to be imposed as a tax, is not exacted on any provided basis of equality, is not to be paid into the Treasury of the United States, is to be imposed and collected or not at the will and favor of interested administrative boards without congressional chart or compass directing as to the time when it shall be imposed, the time it shall remain in effect, the amount of it or upon whom it shall be levied, I think it can not be sustained under the taxing power of the Constitution.

And, further, notwithstanding the length to which the courts have gone in sustaining legislative authority, I am unable to believe that in an act which provides, in substance, that, through governmental agencies, prices of certain farm products shall be determined upon, established, and maintained, Congress may lawfully delegate to Federal officers the unlimited discretion to decide whether the price-fixing operation shall be commenced; may lawfully delegate the complete discretion without any prescribed rule to determine what the price shall be; or may lawfully delegate the power to determine on whom shall be directly placed the burden of collecting the charge to provide the fund to conduct operations.

I think and advise that this legislation providing for the control, in the interest of the producer alone, by the Government, of prices of goods moving in interstate commerce, by keeping out of the channels of commerce a part of the supply of such goods available for consumption, is not a valid regulation of commerce between the States and with foreign nations within the authority of the commerce clause of the Constitution.

That the members of the advisory councils hold posts in the service of the United States is shown by the facts that their office is created by an act of the Congress, their term of office is fixed by an act of the Congress, their duties are prescribed, and their authority conferred by an act of the Congress, their compensation and expenses "within the limitations prescribed by law" are fixed by an act of the Congress, and they are specifically constituted a Government agency.

Under the provisions of this act, agencies entirely separate and apart from any department of the United States Government participate in their appointment.

The act provides that the board shall create an advisory council of seven members, selected annually only from lists submitted by the cooperative associations and other representative organizations and the governors and heads of agricultural departments of States where the commodity is produced.

Under these provisions, the board has no choice but to appoint from such lists, and all that the cooperative associations, other organizations, governors, and heads of agricultural departments need to do is to limit their list to seven persons, and they have made the appointment of the entire council.

But if they do not go that far, in any event the character, capacity, integrity, and judgment required in members of the advisory council are passed upon by persons, corporations, officers, in no way connected with or responsible to any department of the Government of the United States.

The board can take only what is offered to it; can make no independent selection on its own judgment.

Conceding that the legislative branch may prescribe qualifications to be possessed by an appointee to an office, still the exercise of the judgment and discretion to determine whether or not an individual possesses those qualifications, as well as other qualifications of ability, training, judgment, and character necessary to make a good public officer, may only be committed by the Congress to the appointing officers provided for that purpose and charged with that duty by the Constitution.

To provide that corporations, associations, organizations, and State officials who are not even officers of the United States shall designate a list from which only can appointees be selected, is not in any sense prescribing qualifications, but is authorizing these outside agencies to participate in—even control—the Executive function of appointment.

I am unable to find any constitutional authority for vesting the appointment of inferior officers of the United States by the Congress in anyone, outside of the President, with or without the advice and consent of the Senate, the courts of law, and the heads of departments.

"The Constitution for purposes of appointment very clearly divides all its officers into two classes. The primary class requires a nomination by the President and confirmation by the Senate. But foreseeing that when offices became numerous and sudden removals necessary, this mode might be inconvenient, it was provided that in regard to officers inferior to those specially mentioned, Congress might by law vest their appointment in the President alone, in the courts of law, or in the heads of departments. That all persons who can be said to hold an office under the Government about to be established under the Constitution were intended to be included within one or the other of these modes of appointment there can be but little doubt. This Constitution is the supreme law of the land, and no act of Congress is of any validity which does not rest on authority conferred by that instrument. (United States v. Germany, 99 U. S. 509, 510.) See Springer et al. v. Government of the Philippine Islands, Nos. 564 and 573, October term, 1927, decided by the Supreme Court May 14, 1928."

Therefore, I think and advise you that the delegation of authority to dictate the selecting of individuals for such appointments to cooperative associations, other organizations, governors, and heads of agricultural departments of States, and conferring upon the board the authority to make appointments, whether so selected or not, is not only without warrant in the Constitution but contrary to its express provisions.

The appointment of advisory councils failing, because of no constitutional provision for their appointment being made in the act, might not be so serious a matter, as perhaps those officers might be dispensed with and the balance of the provisions (if otherwise valid) carried out, but for another matter which seems to be inextricably interwoven into the whole fabric of the bill.

It is provided that none of the marketing operations, including fixing the amount of and collection of the equalization fee, shall be begun—or once begun ended—without the consent and approval of the advisory council for the commodity concerned.

The act vests "the advisory council with power to be exercised concurrently with the power of the board to examine the facts upon which the board's decision to commence or terminate a marketing period is based, or to approve the estimates which form the basis for determining the amount of equalization fees. Substantially the same delegation of power as to findings of fact is made to both governmental agencies, and their joint agreement is required as to the presence of certain prescribed conditions before part of the legislative power exercised in the bill becomes effective." (Conference committee report, 4, third paragraph.)

So the Congress delegates the final authority to determine whether the act shall go into effect, and how long it shall remain in force, to a body of officials for whose existence there is no constitutional warrant—a delegation to a body which can not exist, of legislative power which can not be delegated.

I have considered these questions with realization of the grave responsibility involved in passing on the validity of acts of Congress and with appreciation of the rule that the courts will indulge in every presumption to support the validity of legislation and that no act of Congress will be declared invalid unless plainly so, but nevertheless I feel bound to advise you that the act in question, if approved, would violate the Constitution of the United States, in that legislation having for its main purpose the control of the price of food in the interest of the producer is not authorized by the Constitution; in that if Congress possessed the power to do the things attempted by this act it could not delegate it, as it is legislative in character; in that it vests in those not officers or agents of the United States the power and duty of participating in appointments to fill places in the service of the United States; in that it contravenes the provisions of the Constitution against the taking of property without due process of law.

Respectfully,

JOHN G. SARGENT,
Attorney General.

The President,

The White House.

The Senate proceeded, as the Constitution prescribes, to reconsider the said bill, returned by the President of the United States to the Senate, in which it originated, which bill is in the following words:

[S. 3555. Seventieth Congress of the United States of America; at the first session, begun and held at the city of Washington on Monday, the 5th day of December, 1927]

An Act to establish a Federal farm board to aid in the orderly marketing and in the control and disposition of the surplus of agricultural commodities in interstate and foreign commerce.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

DECLARATION OF POLICY

SECTION 1. In order to stabilize the current of interstate and foreign commerce in the marketing of agricultural commodities and prevent suppression of commerce with foreign nations in such commodities and unjust discrimination against such foreign commerce, it is hereby declared to be the policy of the Congress to promote the orderly marketing of agricultural commodities in interstate and foreign commerce, and to that end, through the execution of the provisions of this act, to provide for the control and disposition of surpluses of such commodities, to preserve advantageous domestic markets for such commodities, to prevent such surpluses from unduly depressing the prices obtained for such commodities and from causing undue and excessive fluctuations in the markets for such commodities, to minimize speculation and waste in marketing such commodities, and to further the organization of producers of such commodities into cooperative associations.

FEDERAL FARM BOARD

SEC. 2. (a) A Federal farm board is hereby created which shall consist of the Secretary of Agriculture, who shall be a member ex officio, and twelve members, one from each of the twelve Federal land-bank districts, who shall be appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

(b) The terms of office of the appointed members of the board first taking office after the approval of this act, shall expire, as designated by the President at the time of nomination, four at the end of the second year, four at the end of the fourth year, and four at the end of the sixth year, after the date of the approval of this act. A successor to an appointed member of the board shall be appointed in the same manner as the original appointed members, and shall have a term of office expiring six years from the date of the expiration of the term for which his predecessor was appointed.

(c) Any person appointed to fill a vacancy in the board occurring prior to the expiration of the term for which his predecessor was appointed shall be appointed for the remainder of such term.

(d) Any member of the board in office at the expiration of the term for which he was appointed may continue in office until his successor takes office.

(e) Vacancies in the board shall not impair the powers of the remaining members to execute the functions of the board, and a majority of the appointed members in office shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of the business of the board.

(f) Each of the appointed members of the board shall be a citizen of the United States, shall be the producer of some one or more agricultural products or shall be interested in and truly representative of agriculture, shall not actively engage in any other business, vocation, or employment than that of serving as a member of the board, and shall receive a salary of $10,000 a year, together with necessary traveling expenses and expenses incurred for subsistence or per diem allowance in lieu thereof, within the limitations prescribed by law, while away from the principal office of the board on business required by this act, or if assigned to any other office established by the board, then while away from such office on business required by this act.

GENERAL POWERS

Sec. 3. The board—

(a) Shall annually designate an appointed member to act as chairman of the board.

(b) Shall maintain its principal office in the District of Columbia and such other offices in the United States as it deems necessary.

(c) Shall have an official seal which shall be judicially noticed.

(e) May make such regulations as are necessary to execute the functions vested in it by this act.

(f) May (1) appoint and fix the salaries of a secretary and such experts, and, in accordance with the classification act of 1923 and subject to the provisions of the civil service laws, such other officers and employees, and (2) make such expenditures (including expenditures for rent and personal services at the seat of government and elsewhere, for law books, periodicals, and books of reference, and for printing and binding) as may be necessary for the execution of the functions vested in the board.

(g) Shall meet at the call of the chairman, or of the Secretary of Agriculture, or of a majority of its members.

(h) Shall keep advised, from any available sources, of crop prices, prospects, supply, and demand, at home and abroad, with especial attention to the existence or the probability of the existence of a surplus of any agricultural commodity or any of its food products, and it may advise producers through their organizations or otherwise in matters connected with the adjustment of production, distribution, and marketing of any such commodity, in order that they may secure the maximum benefits under this act.

(i) Shall advise producers through their organizations or otherwise in the development of suitable programs of planting or breeding, so that burdensome crop surpluses may be avoided or minimized, in order that they may secure such benefits.

COMMODITY ADVISORY COUNCILS

SEC. 4. (a) Prior to the commencement of a marketing period in respect of any agricultural commodity the board is directed to create for such commodity an advisory council, which shall be a governmental agency composed of seven members fairly representative of the producers of such commodity. Members of each commodity advisory council shall be selected annually by the board only from lists submitted by the cooperative associations and by other organizations representative of the producers of the commodity in each State that produced in the preceding five crop years, according to the estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture, an average of 3 per cent or more of the average annual total domestic production of the commodity, and from lists submitted by the governors and by the heads of the agricultural departments of such States. Members of each commodity advisory council shall serve without salary but may be paid by the board a per diem compensation not exceeding $20 for attending meetings of the council and for time devoted to other business of the council and authorized by the board. Each council member shall be paid by the board his necessary traveling expenses to and from meetings of the council and his expenses incurred for subsistence, or per diem allowance in lieu thereof, within the limitations prescribed by law, while engaged upon the business of the council. Each commodity advisory council shall be designated by the name of the commodity it represents, as, for example, "The Cotton Advisory Council."

(b) Each commodity advisory council shall meet as soon as practicable after its selection at a time and place designated by the board and select a chairman. The board may designate a secretary of the council, subject to the approval of the council.

(c) Each commodity advisory council shall meet thereafter at least twice in each year at a time and place designated by the board, or upon call of a majority of its members at a time and place designated in the call, notice of such call being sent by registered mail at least 10 days before the date of the meeting.

(d) Each commodity advisory council shall have power, by itself or through its officers, (1) to confer directly with the board, to call for information from it, or to make oral or written representations to it, concerning matters within the jurisdiction of the board and relating to the agricultural commodity, including the amount and method of collection of the equalization fee, and (2) to cooperate with the board in advising the producers through their organizations or otherwise in the development of suitable programs of planting or breeding so that burdensome crop surpluses may be avoided or minimized, in order to secure the maximum benefits under this act.

(e) Prior to the commencement or termination of a marketing period with respect to any agricultural commodity and prior to the publication of the amount of any equalization fee with respect to any agricultural commodity, the board shall submit to the advisory council for the commodity a statement of the respective findings or estimate which the board is required to make and of the evidence and facts considered by the board in making such findings or estimate. Within 15 days after receiving such statement, the advisory council shall consider such findings or estimate and shall notify the board of its determination made with respect thereto. No marketing period with respect to any agricultural commodity shall be commenced or terminated and no equalization fee with respect to the commodity shall be collected, unless the advisory council for such commodity has determined (1) that the findings or estimate which the board is required to make are supported by the evidence and facts considered by the board, and (2) that the board has considered substantially all the material facts and evidence available for making the findings or estimate.

LOANS

SEC. 5. (a) The board is authorized to make loans, out of the revolving fund hereinafter created, to any cooperative association or corporation created and controlled by one or more cooperative associations, upon such terms and conditions as, in the judgment of the board, will afford adequate assurance of repayment and carry out the policy declared in section 1, and upon such other terms and conditions as the board deems necessary. Such loans shall be for one of the following purposes:

(1) For the purpose of assisting the cooperative association or corporation created and controlled by one or more cooperative associations, in controlling a seasonal or year's total surplus, produced in the United States and either local or national in extent, that is in excess of the requirements for the orderly marketing of any agricultural commodity or in excess of the domestic requirements for such commodity.

(2) For the purpose of developing continuity of cooperative services from the point of production to and including the point of terminal marketing services, if the proceeds of the loan are to be used either (A) for working capital for the cooperative association or corporation created and controlled by one or more cooperative associations, or (B) for assisting the cooperative association or corporation created and controlled by one or more cooperative associations, in the acquisition, by purchase, construction, or otherwise, of facilities and equipment, including terminal marketing facilities and equipment, for the preparing, handling, storing, processing, or sale or other disposition of agricultural commodities, or (C) for furnishing funds to the cooperative association or corporation created and controlled by one or more cooperative associations for use as capital for any agricultural credit corporation eligible to receive discounts under section 202 of the Federal farm loan act, as amended, or (D) for furnishing funds to the cooperative association or corporation created and controlled by one or more cooperative associations for necessary expenditures in federating, consolidating, merging, or extending the membership of cooperative associations or corporations created and controlled by one or more cooperative associations. The cooperative association, or corporation created and controlled by one or more cooperative associations, shall repay the loan, together with the interest thereon, within a period of not more than 20 years, by means of a charge to be deducted from the proceeds of the sale or other disposition of each unit of the agricultural commodity handled by the association or corporation, unless some other method of repayment is agreed upon by the board and the association or corporation.

(b) Any loan under this section shall bear interest at the rate of 4 per cent per annum. The aggregate amount of loans under this section, outstanding and unpaid at any one time, shall not exceed $200,000,000, but—

(1) The aggregate amount of loans for all purposes under paragraph (2) of subdivision (a), outstanding and unpaid at any one time, shall not exceed $25,000,000; and

(2) The aggregate amount of loans for the purpose of expenditures in federating, consolidating, merging, or extending the membership of cooperative associations or corporations created and controlled by one or more cooperative associations, outstanding and unpaid at any one time, shall not exceed $1,000,000.

INCREASED PRODUCTION

SEC. 6. If the board finds that its advice as to a program of planting or breeding of any agricultural commodity as hereinbefore provided has been substantially disregarded by the producers of the commodity, or that the planting or breeding of any agricultural commodity for any year is substantially greater than a normal increase, as determined by the board, over the average planting or breeding of such commodity for the preceding five years, the board may refuse to make loans for the purchase of such commodity.

CLEARING HOUSE AND TERMINAL MARKET ASSOCIATIONS

SEC. 7. The board may assist in the establishment of and provide for the registration of, in accordance with such regulations as it may prescribe, (1) clearing house associations adapted, in the opinion of the board, to effect the more orderly production, distribution, and marketing of any agricultural commodity, to prevent gluts or famines in any market for such commodity, and to reduce waste incident to the marketing of such commodity, and (2) terminal market association adapted, in the opinion of the board, to maintain public markets in distribution centers for the more orderly distribution and marketing of any agricultural commodity. Only cooperative associations or corporations created or controlled by one or more cooperative associations shall be eligible for membership in any clearing house association or terminal market association registered under this section. Rules for the governance of any such association shall be adopted by the members thereof with the approval of the board.

MARKETING AGREEMENTS

SEC. 8. (a) From time to time upon request of the advisory council for any agricultural commodity, or upon request of leading cooperative associations or other organizations of producers of any agricultural commodity, or upon its own motion, the board shall investigate the supply and marketing situation in respect of such agricultural commodity.

(b) Whenever upon such investigation the board finds—
First. That there is or may be during the ensuing year a seasonal or year's total surplus, produced in the United States and national in extent, that is in excess of the requirements for the orderly marketing of any agricultural commodity or in excess of the domestic requirements for the commodity;

Second. That the operation of the provisions of section 5 (relating to loans to cooperative associations or corporations created and controlled by one or more cooperative associations) will not be effective to control such surplus because of the inability or unwillingness of the cooperative associations engaged in handling the commodity, or corporations created and controlled by one or more such cooperative associations, to control such surplus with the assistance of such loans; and Third. That the durability, the conditions of preparation, processing, and preserving, and the methods of marketing of the commodity are such that the commodity is adapted to marketing as authorized by this section;—

then the board, after publicly declaring its findings, shall arrange for marketing any part of the commodity by means of marketing agreements with cooperative associations engaged in handling the commodity or corporations created and controlled by one or more cooperative associations. Such marketing shall continue during a marketing period which shall terminate at such time as the board finds that such arrangements are no longer necessary or advisable for carrying out the policy declared by section 1.

(c) A marketing agreement shall provide either—
(1) For the withholding by a cooperative association, or corporation created and controlled by one or more cooperative associations, during such period as shall be provided in the agreement, of any part of the commodity delivered to such cooperative association or associations by its members. Any such agreement shall provide for the payment from the stabilization fund for the commodity of the costs arising out of such withholding; or

(2) For the purchase by a cooperative association, or corporation created and controlled by one or more cooperative associations, of any part of the commodity not delivered to such cooperative association or associations by its members, and for the withholding and disposal of the commodity so purchased. Any such marketing agreement shall provide for the payment from the stabilization fund for the commodity of the amount of the losses, costs, and charges arising out of the purchase, withholding, and disposal, or out of contracts therefor, and for the payment into the stabilization fund for the commodity of profits (after repaying all advances from the stabilization fund and deducting all costs and charges provided for in the agreement) arising out of the purchase, withholding, and disposal, or out of contracts therefor.

(d) The board may, in its discretion, provide in any such marketing agreement for financing any withholding, purchase, or disposal under such agreement, through advances from the stabilization fund for the commodity. Such financing shall be upon such terms as the board may prescribe, but no such advance shall bear interest.

(e) If the board is of the opinion that there are two or more cooperative associations or corporations created and controlled by one or more cooperative associations capable of carrying out any marketing agreement, the board in entering into the agreement shall not unreasonably discriminate against any such association or corporation in favor of any other such association or corporation. If the board is of the opinion that there is no such cooperative association or corporation created and controlled by one or more cooperative associations capable of carrying out any marketing agreement for purchase, withholding, and disposal, then the board may enter into the agreement with other agencies but shall not unreasonably discriminate between such other agencies.

(f) During a marketing period fixed by the board for any commodity, the board may enter into marketing agreements for the purchase, withholding, and disposal of the food products of such commodity, and all provisions of this section applicable to marketing agreements for the purchase, withholding, and disposal of the commodity shall apply to the agreements in respect of its food products.

(g) Any decision of the board relating to the commencement, extension, or termination of a marketing period shall require the affirmative vote of a majority of the appointed members in office.

(h) The powers of the board under this section in respect of any agricultural commodity shall be exercised in such manner, and the marketing agreements entered into by the board during any marketing period shall be upon such terms as will, in the judgment of the board, carry out the policy declared by section 1.

(i) The United States shall not be liable, directly or indirectly, upon agreements under this act in respect of agricultural commodities in excess of the amounts available in the stabilization, premium insurance, and revolving funds.

EQUALIZATION FEE

SEC. 9. (a) In order to carry out marketing and nonpremium insurance agreements in respect of any agricultural commodity without loss to the revolving fund, each marketed unit of such agricultural commodity produced in the United States shall, throughout any marketing period in respect of such commodity, contribute ratably its equitable share of the losses, costs, and charges arising out of such agreements. Such contributions shall be made by means of an equalization fee apportioned and paid as a regulation of interstate and foreign commerce in the commodity. It shall be the duty of the board to apportion and collect such fee in respect of such commodity as hereinafter provided.

(b) Prior to the commencement of any marketing period in respect of any agricultural commodity, and thereafter from time to time during such marketing period, the board shall estimate the probable losses, costs, and charges to be paid under marketing agreements in respect of such commodity and under nonpremium insurance agreements in respect of such commodity as hereinafter provided. Upon the basis of such estimates, the board shall from time to time determine and publish the amount of the equalization fee (if any is required under such estimates) for each unit of weight, measure, or value designated by the board, to be collected upon such unit of such agricultural commodity during any part of the marketing period for the commodity. Such amount is referred to in this act as the "equalization fee." At the time of determining and publishing any equalization fee the board shall specify the time during which the particular fee shall remain in effect and the place and manner of its payment and collection.

(c) Under such regulations as the board may prescribe, any equalization fee determined upon by the board shall be paid, in respect of each marketed unit of such commodity, upon one of the following: The transportation, processing, or sale of such unit. The equalization fee shall not be collected more than once in respect of any unit. The board shall determine, in the case of each class of transactions in the commodity, whether the equalization fee shall be paid upon transportation, processing, or sale. The board shall make such determination upon the basis of the most effective and economical means of collecting the fee with respect to each unit of the commodity marketed during the marketing period.

(d) When any equalization fee is collected with respect to cattle or swine, an equalization fee equivalent in amount, as nearly as may be, shall be collected, under such regulations as the board may prescribe, upon the first sale or other disposition of any food product derived in whole or in part from cattle or swine, respectively, if the food product was on hand and owned at the time of the commencement of the marketing period: Provided, That any food product owned in good faith by retail dealers at the time of the commencement of the marketing period shall be exempt from the operation of this subdivision.

(e) Under such regulations as the board may prescribe, the equalization fee determined under this section for any agricultural commodity produced in the United States shall in addition be collected upon the importation of each designated unit of the agricultural commodity imported into the United States for consumption therein, and an equalization fee, in an amount equivalent as nearly as may be, shall be collected upon the importation of any food product derived in whole or in part from the agricultural commodity and imported into the United States for consumption therein.

(f) The board may by regulation require any person engaged in the transportation, processing, or acquisition by purchase of any agricultural commodity produced in the United States, or in the importation of any agricultural commodity or food product thereof—

(1) To file returns under oath and to report, in respect of his transportation, processing, or acquisition of such commodity produced in the United States or in respect of his importation of the commodity or food product thereof, the amount of equalization fees payable thereon and such other facts as may be necessary for their payment or collection.

(2) To collect the equalization fee as directed by the board and to account therefor.

(g) The board, under regulations prescribed by it, is authorized to pay to any such person required to collect such fees a reasonable charge for his services.

(h) Every person who, in violation of the regulations prescribed by the board, fails to collect or account for any equalization fees shall be liable for its amount and to a penalty equal to one-half its amount. Such amount and penalty may be recovered together in a civil suit brought by the board in the name of the United States.

(i) As used in this section—

(1) In the case of grain the term "processing" means milling of grain for market or the first processing in any manner for market (other than cleaning or drying) of grain not so milled, and the term "sale" means a sale or other disposition in the United States of grain for milling or other processing for market, for resale, or for delivery by a common carrier—occurring during a marketing period in respect of grain.

(2) In the case of cotton the term "processing" means spinning, milling, or any manufacturing of cotton other than ginning; the term "sale" means a sale or other disposition in the United States of cotton for spinning, milling, or any manufacturing other than ginning, or for delivery outside the United States; and the term "transportation" means the acceptance of cotton by a common carrier for delivery to any person for spinning, milling, or any manufacturing of cotton other than ginning, or for delivery outside the United States—occurring during a marketing period in respect of cotton.

(3) In the case of livestock, the term "processing" means slaughter for market by a purchaser of livestock, and the term "sale" means a sale or other disposition in the United States of livestock destined for slaughter for market without intervening holding for feeding (other than feeding in transit) or fattening—occurring during a marketing period in respect of livestock.

(4) In the case of tobacco, the term "sale" means a sale or other disposition to any dealer in leaf tobacco or to any registered manufacturer of the products of tobacco. The term "tobacco" means leaf tobacco, stemmed or unstemmed.

(5) In the case of grain, livestock, and tobacco, the term "transportation" means the acceptance of the commodity by a common carrier for delivery.

(6) In the case of any agricultural commodity other than grain, cotton, livestock, or tobacco, the board shall, in connection with its specification of the place and manner of payment and collection of the equalization fee, further specify the particular type of processing, sale, or transportation in respect of which the equalization fee is to be paid and collected.

(7) The term "sale" does not include a transfer to a cooperative association for the purpose of sale or other disposition by such association on account of the transferor; nor a transfer of title in pursuance of a contract entered into before, and at a specified price determined before, the commencement of a marketing period in respect of the agricultural commodity. In case of the transfer of title in pursuance of a contract entered into after the commencement of a marketing period in respect of the agricultural commodity, but entered into at a time when, and at a specified price determined at a time during which a particular equalization fee is in effect, then the equalization fee applicable in respect of such transfer of title shall be the equalization fee in effect at the time when such specified price was determined.

STABILIZATION FUNDS

SEC. 10. (a) For each agricultural commodity as to which marketing agreements are made by the board, there shall be established in accordance with regulations prescribed by the board a stabilization fund. Such fund shall be administered by and exclusively under the control of the board, and the board shall have the exclusive power of expending the moneys in such fund.

(b) There shall be deposited to the credit of the stabilization fund for any agricultural commodity (1) advances from the revolving fund as hereinafter authorized, (2) profits arising out of marketing agreements in respect of the commodity, (3) repayments of advances for financing the purchase, withholding, or disposal of the commodity, and (4) equalization fees collected in respect of the commodity and its imported food products.

(c) In order to make the payments required by a marketing or nonpremium insurance agreement in respect of any agricultural commodity, and in order to pay the salaries and expenses of experts, the board may, in its discretion, advance to the stabilization fund for such commodity, out of the revolving fund, such amounts as may be necessary.

(d) The deposits to the credit of a stabilization fund shall be made in a public depository of the United States. All general laws relating to the embezzlement, conversion, or to the improper handling, retention, use, or disposal of public moneys of the United States shall apply to the profits and equalization fees payable to the credit of the stabilization fund and to moneys deposited to the credit of the fund or withdrawn therefrom but in the custody of any officer or employee of the United States.

(e) There shall be withdrawn from the stabilization fund for any agricultural commodity (1) the payments required by marketing or nonpremium insurance agreements in respect of the commodity, (2) the salaries and expenses of such experts as the board determines shall be payable from such fund, (3) repayments into the revolving fund of advances made from the revolving fund to the stabilization fund, together with interest on such amounts at the rate of 4 per cent per annum, and (4) service charges payable for the collection of equalization fees.

INSURANCE

SEC. 11. (a) In order that a cooperative association handling any staple agricultural commodity may with reasonable security make payments to its members at the time of delivery of such commodity by the members, fairly reflecting the current market value of such agricultural commodity, the board is authorized to enter into an agreement, upon such terms and conditions as it may prescribe, for the insurance of such cooperative association against price decline as hereinafter provided. Such insurance agreement may be entered into by the board only with respect to any such agricultural commodity which, in the judgment of the board, is regularly traded in upon an exchange in sufficient volume to establish a recognized basic price for the market grades of such commodity, and then only when such exchange has accurate price records for the commodity covering a period of years of sufficient length, in the judgment of the board, to serve as a basis upon which to calculate the risks of the insurance.

(b) Any such agreement for insurance against price decline shall provide for the insurance of the cooperative association for any twelve months' period commencing with the delivery season for the commodity against loss to such association or its members due to decline in the average market price for the commodity during the time of sale by the association from the average market price for the commodity during the time of delivery to the association. The measure of such decline, where a decline occurs, shall be the difference between the average market price weighted for the days and volume of delivery to the association by its members, and the average market price weighted for the days and volume of sales by the association. In computing such average market prices the board shall use the daily average cash prices paid for the basic grade of such commodity in the exchange designated in the agreement. Any such agreement shall cover only so much of the commodity delivered to the association as is produced by the members of the association and as is reported by the association for coverage under the agreement.

(c) Whenever in the judgment of the board the use of such insurance agreements in respect of any commodity will stabilize the market substantially in the interest of the producers of the commodity, whether or not members of a cooperative association dealing in the commodity, then the board, during the continuance of any marketing period for the commodity as provided in section 8, may enter into nonpremium, or if the board deems it advisable, premium insurance agreements with cooperative associations dealing in the commodity. Whenever in the judgment of the board the use of such insurance agreements will not so stabilize the market, then the board may enter into premium insurance agreements only with the cooperative associations.

(d) Payments required under nonpremium insurance agreements in respect of any commodity shall be made out of the stabilization fund for the commodity. Payments under premium insurance agreements in respect of any commodity shall be made out of the premium insurance fund for the commodity to be established by the board under such regulations as it may prescribe.

(e) For insurance under a premium insurance agreement the cooperative association shall pay a premium, to be determined by the board prior to the making of the insurance agreement, upon each unit of the commodity reported by the association for coverage under the insurance agreement. Such premium shall be calculated with due regard to the past price records in established markets for the commodity. The premiums applicable to the commodity in the successive twelve months' periods shall be adjusted with due regard to the experience of the board under preceding insurance agreements. There shall be deposited in the premium insurance fund for any commodity the premiums paid by cooperative associations under premium insurance agreements in respect of the commodity, and advances from the revolving fund in such amounts as the board deems necessary for the operation of the fund. There shall be disbursed from the premium insurance fund for any commodity (1) the payments required by any premium insurance agreement in respect of the commodity, and (2) repayments into the revolving fund of advances made from the revolving fund to such premium insurance fund, together with interest on such advances at the rate of 4 per centum per annum.

REVOLVING FUND

SEC. 12. (a) There is hereby authorized to be appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $400,000,000: Provided, That at least $200,000,000 of such sum shall be made available by the board solely for use in making advances to the stabilization funds for agricultural commodities in respect of which marketing periods are commenced; and in the allocation of such amount among the stabilization funds of the several commodities, the board shall take into consideration the values of the respective commodities.

(b) All moneys appropriated in pursuance of the authorization made by this section shall be administered by the board and used as a revolving fund in accordance with the provisions of this act. The Secretary of the Treasury shall deposit in the revolving fund such portions of the amounts appropriated therefor as the board from time to time deems necessary.

EXAMINATIONS OF BOOKS AND ACCOUNTS OF BOARDS

SEC. 13. Expenditures by the board from the stabilization or premium insurance funds shall be made by the authorized officers or agents of the board upon receipt of itemized vouchers therefor, approved by such officers as the board may designate. All other expenditures by the board, including expenditures for loans and advances from the revolving fund, shall be allowed and paid upon the presentation of itemized vouchers therefor, approved by the chairman of the board. Vouchers so made for expenditures from the revolving fund or from any stabilization or premium insurance fund shall be final and conclusive upon all officers of the Government; except that all financial transactions of the board (including the payments required by any marketing or insurance agreement) shall, subject to the above limitations, be examined by the General Accounting Office, at such times and in such manner as the Comptroller General of the United States may by regulation prescribe. Such examination in respect of expenditures from the revolving fund or from any stabilization or premium insurance fund shall be for the sole purpose of making a report to the Congress and to the board of expenditures and agreements in violation of law, together with such recommendations as the Comptroller General deems advisable concerning the receipts, disbursements, and application of the funds administered by the board.

COOPERATION WITH EXECUTIVE DEPARTMENTS

SEC. 14. (a) It shall be the duty of any governmental establishment in the executive branch of the Government, upon request by the board, or upon Executive order, to cooperate with and render assistance to the board in carrying out any of the provisions of this act and the regulations of the board. The board shall, in cooperation with any such governmental establishment, avail itself of the services and facilities of such governmental establishment in order to avoid preventable expense or duplication of effort.

(b) Upon request by the board the President, by Executive order, (1) may transfer any officer or employee from any department or independent establishment in the executive branch of the Government, irrespective of his length of service of the board, and (2) may direct any governmental establishment to furnish the board with such information and data pertaining to the functions of the board as may be contained in the records of the governmental establishment; except that the President shall not direct that the board be furnished with any information or data supplied by any person in confidence to any governmental establishment, in pursuance of any provision of law or of any agreement with the governmental establishment.

(c) The board may cooperate with any State or Territory, or department, agency, or political subdivision thereof, or with any person.

(b) The provisions of sections 8, 9, and 10 shall not apply to perishable fruits and vegetables.

(c) Whenever any agricultural commodity has regional or market classification, or types which in the judgment of the board are so different from each other in use or marketing methods as to require their treatment as separate commodities under this act, the board may determine upon and designate one or more such classifications or types for such treatment.

For expenses in the administration of the functions vested in the board by this act, there is hereby authorized to be appropriated out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $500,000, to be available to the board for such expenses (including salaries and expenses of the members, officers, and employees of the board and the per diem compensation and expenses of members of the commodity advisory councils) incurred prior to July 1, 1929.

SEPARABILITY OF PROVISIONS

SEC. 17. If any provision of this act is declared unconstitutional or the applicability thereof to any person, circumstance, commodity, or class of transactions in respect of any commodity, is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of the act and the applicability of such provision to other persons, circumstances, commodities, and classes of transactions shall not be affected thereby.

(a) The provisions of sections 123 and 124 of the Penal Code, approved March 4, 1909, as amended, shall apply to any member, officer, or employee of the board; and, in addition, it shall be held a violation of section 123 of such code if any member, officer, or employee of the board at any time speculates, directly or indirectly, in any agricultural commodity.

(b) It shall be unlawful (1) for any cooperative association, or corporation created and controlled by one or more cooperative associations, or other agency if such agency is acting for or on behalf of the board under any marketing agreement, or (2) for any director, officer, or employee of any such association, corporation, or agency, to which information has been imparted in confidence by the board, to disclose such information in violation of any regulation of the board. To the House of Representatives:

Herewith is returned, without approval, H. R. 5681, a bill to provide a differential in pay for night work in the Postal Service.

Night work has always been a necessary and characteristic feature of employment in the Postal Service, and notwithstanding the continuous campaign that has been carried on by the Post Office Department for a number of years, with some measure of success, to induce the public to mail early in the business day rather than just before its close, it is evident that the expeditious distribution, dispatch, and delivery of the mails will continue to require the greater part of postal work to be performed between the hours of 6 o'clock in the evening and 6 o'clock in the following morning.

It is estimated that the provisions of the bill now returned would add $6,456,000 to the present annual cost of the Postal Service. The operating deficit in postal revenues for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1927, payable from the general fund of the Treasury derived from taxes, duties, and miscellaneous receipts, was over $31,500,000. For the fiscal year 1928 it is estimated that the deficit will be about $32,400,000, and for the fiscal year 1929 about $28,300,000. There is now pending before Congress a bill (H. R. 12030) revising postal rates. As passed by the House of Representatives it is estimated that the bill will cause an annual decrease in postal revenues, and a corresponding further increase in the postal deficit, based on current mailings, of $13,585,000. As passed by the Senate it is estimated that the bill will cause an annual decrease in the revenues and a corresponding further increase in the deficit of $38,550,000.

With these figures before me I am not disposed further to increase the burden on the taxpayers of the country for the maintenance and operation of the Postal Service, especially in view of the very substantial increases in pay given postal employees under the so-called postal reclassification act, approved February 28, 1925. Moreover, it is my understanding that a proposal to establish a night-work differential was considered by the proper committees of Congress in connection with the reclassification legislation, and eliminated by them because of the substantial flat-rate increases in pay that had already been agreed to and which were subsequently included in the reclassification act. If night work in the Postal Service has any basis whatever for a differential in pay, the action of the committees referred to would indicate that the present pay schedules include it.

It should be recalled that the postal-pay increases, which I approved, caused an increase in the Budget for 1926 of about $65,000,000. Every committee that approached me urged that this increase be granted because of certain night work that was involved in the duties of the postal clerks. It is well known that the pay received by those so employed is in excess of that which is paid for corresponding work in private enterprise. While I believe in good wages, they can only be advanced as our economic position improves. The burdens of the war debt have to be borne by all our people. The almost irresistible tendency of Government expenditure is to mount higher and higher. All increases which are not absolutely necessary ought not to be incurred. The officials of the Government who are charged with the conduct of its affairs ought not to yield to constant and organized clamor for increases in pay unless they are justified by the clearest evidence.

In lieu of the language put in by the House insert the following:

That for the purpose of maintaining and operating the properties now owned by the United States in the vicinity of Muscle Shoals, Alabama, in the interest of the national defense and agriculture and industrial development, and to aid navigation and the control of destructive flood waters in the Tennessee River and Mississippi River Basins, there is hereby created a body corporate by the name of the "Muscle Shoals Corporation of the United States"—hereinafter referred to as the corporation. The board of directors first appointed shall be deemed the incorporators and the incorporation shall be held to have been effected from the date of the first meeting of the board. This act may be cited as the "Muscle Shoals act of 1928."

Sec. 2. (a) The board of directors of the corporation—hereinafter referred to as the board—shall be composed of three members, not more than two of whom shall be members of the same political party, to be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. The board shall organize by electing a chairman, vice chairman, and other officers, agents, and employees, and shall proceed to carry out the provisions of this act.

(b) The terms of office of the members first taking office after the approval of this act shall expire as designated by the President at the time of nomination, one at the end of the second year, one at the end of the fourth year, and one at the end of the sixth year, after the date of approval of this act. A successor to a member of the board shall be appointed in the same manner as the original members and shall have a term of office expiring six years from the date of the expiration of the term for which his predecessor was appointed.

(c) Any member appointed to fill a vacancy in the board occurring prior to the expiration of the term for which his predecessor was appointed shall be appointed for the remainder of such term.

(d) Vacancies in the board so long as there shall be two members in office shall not impair the powers of the board to execute the functions of the corporation, and two of the members in office shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of the business of the board.

(e) Each of the members of the board shall be a citizen of the United States, and shall receive compensation at the rate of $50 per day for each day that he shall be actually engaged in the performance of the duties vested in the board, to be paid by the corporation as current expenses, not to exceed, however, one hundred and fifty days for the first year after the date of the approval of this act, and not to exceed one hundred days in any year thereafter. Members of the board shall be reimbursed by the corporation for actual expenses (including traveling and subsistence expenses) incurred by them while in the performance of the duties vested in the board by this act.

(f) No director shall have any financial interest in any public-utility corporation engaged in the business of distributing and selling power to the public nor in any corporation engaged in the manufacture, selling, or distribution of fixed nitrogen, or any ingredients thereof, nor shall any member have any interest in any business that may be adversely affected by the success of the Muscle Shoals project as a producer of concentrated fertilizers.

(g) The board shall direct the exercise of all the powers of the corporation.

(h) All members of the board shall be persons that profess a belief in the feasibility and wisdom, having in view the national defense and the encouragement of interstate commerce, of producing fixed nitrogen under this act of such kinds and at such prices as to induce the reasonable expectation that the farmers will buy said products, and that by reason thereof the corporation may be a self-sustaining and continuing success.

Sec. 3. (a) The chief executive officer of the corporation shall be a general manager, who shall be responsible to the board for the efficient conduct of the business of the corporation. Should the office of general manager become vacant for any reason, the board shall appoint his successor as herein provided.

(b) The general manager shall appoint, with the advice and consent of the board, two assistant managers who shall be responsible to him, and through him, to the board. One of the assistant managers shall be a man possessed of knowledge, training, and experience to render him competent and expert in the production of fixed nitrogen. The other assistant manager shall be a man trained and experienced in the field of production and distribution of hydroelectric power. The general manager may at any time, for cause, remove any assistant manager, and appoint his successor as above provided. He shall immediately thereafter make a report of such action to the board, giving in detail the reason therefor. He shall employ, with the approval of the board, all other agents, clerks, attorneys, employees, and laborers.

(g) May appoint such officers, employees, attorneys, and agents as are necessary for the transaction of its business, fix their compensation, define generally their duties, require bonds of them and fix the penalties thereof, and dismiss at pleasure any such officer, employee, attorney, or agent, and provide a system of organization to fix responsibility and promote efficiency.

(h) The board shall require that the general manager and the two assistant managers, the secretary and the treasurer, the bookkeeper or bookkeepers, and such other administrative and executive officers as the board may see fit to include, shall execute and file before entering upon their several offices good and sufficient surety bonds, in such amount and with such surety as the board shall approve.

(d) To cooperate with national, State, district, or county experimental stations or demonstration farms, for the use of new forms of fertilizer or fertilizer practices during the initial or experimental period of their introduction;

(e) The board shall manufacture fixed nitrogen at Muscle Shoals by the employment of existing facilities (by modernizing existing plants), or by any other process or processes that in its judgment shall appear wise and profitable for the fixation of atmospheric nitrogen. The fixed nitrogen provided for in this act shall be in such form and in combination with such other ingredients as shall make such nitrogen immediately available and practical for use by farmers in application to soil and crops.

(f) Under the authority of this act the board may donate not exceeding 1 per centum of the total product of the plant or plants operated by it to be fairly and equitably distributed through the agency of county demonstration agents, agricultural colleges, or otherwise as the board may direct for experimentation, education, and introduction of the use of such products in cooperation with practical farmers so as to obtain information as to the value, effect, and best methods of use of same.

(k) Upon the requisition of the Secretary of War the corporation shall allot and deliver without charge to the War Department so much power as shall be necessary in the judgment of said department for use in operation of all locks, lifts, or other facilities in aid of navigation.

Herewith is returned, without approval, H. R. 7900, a bill granting allowances for rent, fuel, light, and equipment to postmasters of the fourth class, and for other purposes.

The bill would necessitate an increase of approximately $2,865,000 in the annual postal expenditures, based upon the aggregate compensation of postmasters of the fourth class for the fiscal year 1927. This amount would be increased or decreased as the compensation of postmasters for the fiscal year 1929 increases or decreases.

It is well known that fourth-class post offices are generally carried on in connection with the private business of the postmasters, usually in country stores, and are regarded as beneficial to the business. The space occupied is ordinarily insignificant and the location of the post office in the storerooms seldom involves additional expense for rent, light, and fuel.

The compensation of postmasters of the fourth class was materially increased by the act of June 5, 1920; again by the act of July 21, 1921; and again by the act approved February 28, 1925. In the debates preceding the passage of these acts the fact that postmasters at offices of the fourth class are required to furnish at their own expense quarters, including light and fuel, was brought out. It is not improbable, therefore, that part of the increase in compensation granted by these acts was due to the fact that the postmasters are required to furnish these facilities.

I believe that postmasters of fourth-class post offices are now reasonably compensated and, therefore, am not in favor of the additional compensation which this bill provides for.

RETIREMENT OF DISABLED WORLD WAR EMERGENCY OFFICERS

The Vice President laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States, which was read:

To the Senate:

Herewith is returned, without approval, S. 777, a bill making eligible for retirement, under certain conditions, officers and former officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps of the United States, other than officers of the Regular Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, who incurred physical disability in line of duty while in the service of the United States during the World War.

This bill provides, among other things, that those who served as emergency officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps during the World War and who during such service had incurred physical disability in line of duty, and who have been, or may hereafter, within one year, be rated in accordance with law at not less than 30 per cent permanent disability resulting directly from such war service, shall be placed upon an emergency officers' retired list, and shall receive retired pay at the rate of 75 per cent of the pay to which they were entitled at the time of their discharge from their commissioned service, except pay under the act of May 18, 1920.

What this bill proposes is to compensate a limited number of emergency officers not according to their disability but according to the rank which they held in the World War. It breaches the fundamental principles of our Government to compensate service not rank. The policy which this bill proposes for the compensation of a limited number of disabled emergency officers is wrong. Aside from this, the bill discriminates against emergency officers of less than 30 per cent disability and all disabled enlisted men of the World War in favor of a limited number of disabled officers.

The most sacred duty of our citizenry is to enroll in the defense of their country in time of need. It is the proud record of our Nation that the sacredness of this duty has been recognized by all of the people at all times. When the emergency of the World War confronted us one of our great needs was an expansion of our regular military and naval services. Proper organization required that the expansion for the emergency be in commissioned officers and enlisted men. Both the commissioned officer and the enlisted man who entered the service for this emergency were serving in the same duty—the defense of their country. In this there was and could be no distinction between the two. There was no distinction as to the duration of their service.

We recognized no distinction in framing our laws for the care and benefit of those who were disabled. Under them both officer and enlisted man are treated alike. Their dependents are treated alike. We willingly and gladly recognized the merit of service, but we carefully guarded against the recognition of the rank or grade held during that service.

This Nation has pledged itself to care for the disabled of our World War veterans and their dependents. That pledge has and will be kept. No soldiers in history have been so bountifully cared for as we have cared for our veterans of the World War. If further aid is needed it should be bestowed not by changing the policy of our Government as is proposed in this bill, but by continuing that policy so that it will continue to apply alike to all disabled veterans of the World War.

In the perpetuation of our present policy the Nation will be secure. Full justice will be accorded alike to our veterans of the World War and to the other taxpayers of the country. This bill would practically double the cost of the compensation of the 3,297 emergency officers who are now 30 per cent or more disabled. Their present compensation amounts to $2,874,000 per annum, while the cost under this bill would be $5,204,000. This gives some idea of the immediate cost of the policy which this bill proposes. Once adopted, that policy will open the door to a flood of expenditures that will likely surpass anything of the kind that we have yet experienced. It will at once be apparent that it is a gross discrimination against the enlisted men. It will be difficult to make any answer to their demand for like treatment. If such a request were granted, the cost would be so great as to make it practically impossible to provide our country with national defense.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

THE WHITE HOUSE, May 22, 1928.

The Senate proceeded, as the Constitution prescribes, to reconsider the said bill, returned by the President of the United States, with his objections, to the Senate, in which it originated, which bill is in the following words:

[S. 777. Seventieth Congress of the United States of America; at the first session, begun and held at the city of Washington on Monday, the 5th day of December, 1927]

An act making eligible for retirement, under certain conditions, officers and former officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps of the United States, other than officers of the Regular Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, who incurred physical disability in line of duty while in the service of the United States during the World War

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That all persons who have served as officers of the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps of the United States during the World War, other than as officers of the Regular Army, Navy, or Marine Corps who during such service have incurred physical disability in line of duty, and who have been, or may hereafter, within one year, be, rated in accordance with law at not less than 30 per centum permanent disability by the United States Veterans' Bureau for disability resulting directly from such war service, shall, from date of receipt of application by the Director of the United States Veterans' Bureau, be placed upon, and thereafter continued on, separate retired lists, hereby created as part of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps of the United States, to be known as the emergency officers' retired list of the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps of the United States, respectively, with the rank held by them when discharged from their commissioned service, and shall be entitled to the same privileges as are now or may hereafter be provided for by law or regulations for officers of the Regular Army, Navy, or Marine Corps who have been retired for physical disability incurred in line of duty, and shall be entitled to all hospitalization privileges and medical treatment as are now or may hereafter be authorized by the United States Veterans' Bureau, and shall receive from date of receipt of their application retired pay at the rate of 75 per centum of the pay to which they were entitled at the time of their discharge from their commissioned service, except pay under the act of May 18, 1920: Provided, That all pay and allowances to which such persons or officers may be entitled under the provisions of this law shall be paid solely out of the military and naval compensation appropriation fund of the United States Veterans' Bureau, and shall be in lieu of all disability compensation benefits to such officers or persons provided in the World War veterans' act, 1924, and amendments thereto, except as otherwise authorized herein, and except as provided by the act of December 18, 1922: Provided further, That all persons who have served as officers of the Army, Navy, or Marine Corps of the United States during the World War, other than as officers of the Regular Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, who during such service have incurred physical disability in line of duty, and who have heretofore or may hereafter be rated less than 30 per centum and more than 10 per centum permanent disability by the United States Veterans' Bureau, for disability resulting directly from such war service, shall, from date of receipt of application by the Director of the United States Veterans' Bureau, be placed upon, and thereafter continued on, the appropriate emergency officers' retired list, created by this act, with the rank held by them when discharged from their commissioned service, but without retired pay, and shall be entitled only to such compensation and other benefits as are now or may hereafter be provided by law or regulations of the United States Veterans' Bureau, together with all privileges as are now or may hereafter be provided by law or regulations for officers of the Regular Army, Navy, or Marine Corps who have been retired for physical disability incurred in line of duty: And provided further, That the retired list created by this act of officers of the Army shall be published annually in the Army Register, and said retired lists of officers of the Navy and Marine Corps, respectively, shall be published annually in the Navy Register.

Sec. 2. No person shall be entitled to benefits under the provisions of this act except he make application as hereinbefore provided and his application is received in the United States Veterans' Bureau within twelve months after the passage of this act: Provided, That the said director shall establish a register, and applications made hereunder shall be entered therein as of the actual date of receipt, in the order of receipt in the Veterans' Bureau, and such register shall be conclusive as to date of receipt of any application filed under this act. COMMISSIONED STATUS FOR ARMY BANDMASTERS

The Vice President laid before the Senate the following message from the President of the United States, which was read: To the Senate:

Herewith is returned, without approval, S. 750, a bill to amend the act entitled "An act for making further and more effectual provision for the national defense, and for other purposes," approved June 3, 1916, as amended, and for other purposes.

This bill would authorize the appointment of 92 commissioned officers as bandmasters in addition to the number of commissioned officers of the Army now authorized by law. These appointments would be made from band leaders who now hold the grade of warrant officer, or from noncommissioned officers or other enlisted musicians who have had at least 10 years' service in Army bands.

There is no requirement in the military service for leaders of bands to be given a commissioned status. There should be such a requirement before the added cost which this bill contemplates is imposed permanently upon the taxpayer. This bill would increase our military expenses by about $36,000 per year. I would not hesitate to give my approval to this increased cost if it represented some real requirement. The Secretary of War is opposed to this proposed legislation on the ground that it does not serve to meet a need of the military service nor operate to improve that service. In fact, it is his opinion that to give commissions to band leaders, thus requiring them to exercise administrative and disciplinary control over the bands, would militate against the musical instruction of the bands, which is now and must always be their main function. I am therefore constrained to return this bill without my approval.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

THE WHITE HOUSE, May 22, 1928.

The Senate proceeded, as the Constitution prescribes, to reconsider the said bill returned by the President of the United States, with his objections, to the Senate, in which it originated, which bill is in the following words:

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That section 6 of the national defense act of June 3, 1916, as amended, is amended by adding to the end thereof the following:

"In addition there shall be created a new rank of bandmaster in the United States Army in lieu of the present warrant-officer band leaders, who shall be appointed and commissioned bandmasters by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate.

"SEC. 6a. CHIEF BANDMASTER.—A chief bandmaster shall be selected from among experienced Army bandmasters of the service by the Secretary of War, to serve until relieved by the Secretary of War, and shall have the assimilated rank, pay, and allowances of a major, fourth pay period, while so serving. He shall be charged with the duty for the uniform administration of all authorized Army bands, and shall advise The Adjutant General on all matters relating to the musical organizations in the Army.

"SEC. 6b. BANDMASTERS.—Bandmasters hereafter commissioned under the above section shall be entitled to the same benefits in respect to pay, allowances, and retirements as are applicable to commissioned officers of the various grades to which they are assimilated with, as follows: Less than three years, first pay period, to rank with second lieutenants; three to ten years, second pay period, to rank with first lieutenants; over ten years, third pay period, to rank with captains. All prior active band-leader service, commissioned, warrant and enlisted, shall be credited toward computing the pay period present band leaders shall receive on first appointment. There shall be one bandmaster for each authorized band of the Army. Appointment as bandmasters shall be made, first, from band leaders now in the service who are found to be physically and professionally qualified; second, subject to such examination as the President may prescribe from noncommissioned officers and other enlisted musicians who have had at least ten years' service in Army bands, with preference to such appointments to qualified graduates of the Army Music School."

SEC. 2. The limitations now prescribed by law upon the number of commissioned officers of the Army, and the number of commissioned officers in the various grades, are hereby increased to the extent necessary to give effect to the provisions of this act. The number of warrant officers authorized by law shall be decreased by the number of warrant officers receiving commissions in pursuance of the provisions of this act.

SEC. 3. This act shall take effect on the first day of the third month next following its enactment.

interoceanic ship canal over Nicaraguan territory, to remain available until expended, $150,000.

Mr. King raised a question of order, viz, that the amendment proposed general legislation on a general appropriation bill, and was therefore obnoxious to paragraph 3 of Rule XVI.

The Presiding Officer (Mr. Dale in the chair) sustained the point of order.

The bill having been further amended on the motion of Mr. Thomas, the motion of Mr. Bratton, and the motion of Mr. Vandenberg;

J. Res. 46) providing for the completion of Dam No. 2 and the steam plant at nitrate plant No. 2 in the vicinity of Muscle Shoals for the manufacture and distribution of fertilizer, and for other purposes.

Mr. King raised a question as to the presence of a quorum;

Whereupon

The Vice President directed the roll to be called;

When

Seventy-seven Senators answered to their names, as follows:

Messrs. Ashurst, Barkley, Bayard, Bingham, Black, Blaine, Blease, Borah, Bratton, Brookhart, Broussard, Bruce, Capper, Caraway, Copeland, Couzens, Curtis, Cutting, Dale, Dill, Edge, Fess, Fletcher, George, Glass, Greene, Hale, Harris, Harrison, Hawes, Hayden, Healin, Howell, Johnson, Kendrick, Keyes, King, La Follette, Locher, McKellar, McLean, McMaster, McNary, Mayfield, Metcalf, Moses, Norris, Nye, Oddie, Overman, Phipps, Pine, Pittman, Reed of Pennsylvania, Robinson of Arkansas, Robinson of Indiana, Sackett, Schall, Sheppard, Shipstead, Shortridge, Simmons, Smith, Steck, Steiwer, Stephens, Swanson, Thomas, Tydings, Tyson, Vandenberg, Wagner, Walsh of Massachusetts, Walsh of Montana, Warren, Waterman, and Wheeler.

A quorum being present,

Pending debate,

An objection was made to the consideration of the report on the ground that unanimous consent had not been given for its consideration.

Mr. Norris thereupon submitted a request for unanimous consent for its consideration, and

An objection thereto was interposed by Mr. McKellar.

The Vice President, in reply to a parliamentary inquiry by Mr. Norris as to whether the unfinished business would be displaced if the report were taken up on motion, made the following ruling:

Consideration of a conference report is privileged. The Chair looked up the precedents and is prepared to rule on the question.

Conference reports have always been regarded by both Houses as highly privileged matters, upon the theory that they tend to adjust differences of the two Houses in regard to legislation and thus bring them into an agreement, and except in certain specified instances may be presented at any time, taking precedence over pending legislation.

Because of such privileged status the consideration of a conference report does not, in the opinion of the Chair, have the effect of permanently displacing whatever matter might be pending before the Senate at the time it was taken up, but simply suspends further action thereon until the report is disposed of.

Thereupon the matter previously suspended by its consideration again comes before the Senate in no way prejudiced by the consideration of the conference report unless it be matters coming up in the morning hour, which, upon the expiration of that period, could not be longer considered.

The privilege possessed by a conference report is on a parity with that accorded to messages from the President or the House of Representatives, as set forth in Rule VII, paragraph 7, which provides that any question pending at the time of taking up said message for consideration shall be suspended for that purpose.

On motion by Mr. Norris that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the conference report,

Pending debate on the motion,
Mr. La Follette raised a question of order, viz, that, under Rule XXVII, the motion was not debatable.

The Vice President sustained the point of order.

The question being then taken on agreeing to the motion of Mr. Norris,

It was determined in the affirmative, (Yeas ----- 46
Nays ----- 28)

On motion by Mr. Moses,
The yeas and nays being desired by one-fifth of the Senators present,

Those who voted in the affirmative are—

Messrs. Barkley, Bayard, Black, Blaine, Blease, Borah, Bratton, Brookhart, Broussard, Capper, Caraway, Copeland, Couzens, Curtis, Cutting, Dill, Fess, Fletcher, George, Glass, Harris, Harrison, Hawes, Heflin, Howell, La Follette, Locher, McMaster, McNary, Mayfield, Norris, Nye, Pine, Robinson of Arkansas, Robinson of Indiana, Schall, Sheppard, Shipstead, Steiwer, Stephens, Thomas, Vandenberg, Wagner, Walsh of Montana, Waterman, and Wheeler.

Those who voted in the negative are—

Messrs. Ashurst, Bingham, Bruce, Dale, Edge, Gerry, Gillett, Greene, Hayden, Johnson, Kendrick, Keyes, King, McKellar, McLean, Metcalf, Moses, Oddie, Phipps, Pittman, Reed of Pennsylvania, Sackett, Shortridge, Simmons, Steck, Tydings, Tyson, and Walsh of Massachusetts.

So the motion of Mr. Norris was agreed to; and
The Senate proceeded to consider the said report.

The question being on agreeing to the same.

On motion by Mr. McKellar that the report be recommitted to the conferees with instructions to the conferees on the part of the Senate to insist upon striking out sections 15 and 16,

Pending debate.

Mr. Tyson raised a question as to the presence of a quorum;

Whereupon

The Presiding Officer (Mr. Tydings in the chair) directed the roll to be called;

When

Fifty-eight Senators answered to their names, as follows:

Messrs. Bayard, Bingham, Black, Blaine, Blease, Bratton, Brookhart, Bruce, Capper, Copeland, Couzens, Curtis, Dale, Deneen, Fess, Fletcher, Gerry, Glass, Hale, Harris, Harrison, Hayden, Heflin, Howell, Johnson, Kendrick, Keyes, La Follette, Locher, McKellar, McLean, McMaster, McNary, Metcalf, Norris, Overman, Phipps, Pine, Ransdell, Reed of Missouri, Reed of Pennsylvania, Robinson of Arkansas, Robinson of Indiana, Sackett, Schall, Sheppard, Shipstead, Simmons, Smith, Steiwer, Stephens, Swanson, Tydings, Tyson, Vandenberg, Walsh of Massachusetts, Walsh of Montana, and Waterman.

DEVELOPMENT OF MUSCLE SHOALS

The Senate resumed the consideration of the conference report on Senate joint resolution 46, relating to Muscle Shoals.

Pending debate.

On motion by Mr. La Follette to lay on the table Mr. McKellar's motion that the report be recommitted to the conference with certain instructions to the conferees on the part of the Senate.

Mr. Blease raised a question as to the presence of a quorum; Whereupon

The Presiding Officer (Mr. Couzens in the chair) directed the roll to be called;

When

Fifty-seven Senators answered to their names, as follows:

Messrs. Ashurst, Barkley, Bayard, Bingham, Black, Blaine, Blease, Bratton, Brookhart, Broussard, Bruce, Capper, Copeland, Couzens, Curtis, Cutting, Deneen, Hale, Hefflin, Harrison, Hayden, Hefflin, Howell, Johnson, Kendrick, Keyes, La Follette, Locher, McKellar, McMaster, McNary, Metcalf, Moses, Norris, Oddie, Phipps, Pine, Pittman, Reed of Pennsylvania, Robinson of Arkansas, Robinson of Indiana, Sackett, Schall, Sheppard, Shipstead, Simmons, Smith, Steck, Steiwer, Swanson, Thomas, Tyson, Vandenberg, Wagner, Walsh of Montana, Waterman, and Wheeler.

A quorum being present,

The question being taken on agreeing to Mr. La Follette's motion to lay Mr. McKellar's motion on the table,

It was determined in the affirmative. { Yeas ----- 38
Nays ----- 16

On motion by Mr. McKellar,

The yeas and nays being desired by one-fifth of the Senators present,

Those who voted in the affirmative are—

Messrs. Barkley, Bingham, Black, Blaine, Brookhart, Capper, Copeland, Couzens, Curtis, Cutting, Deneen, Hale, Hefflin, Howell, Johnson, Kendrick, La Follette, Locher, McMaster, McNary, Metcalf, Norris, Oddie, Phipps, Reed of Pennsylvania, Robinson of Arkansas, Robinson of Indiana, Schall, Sheppard, Shipstead, Simmons, Smith, Steck, Steiwer, Wagner, Walsh of Montana, Waterman, and Wheeler.

Those who voted in the negative are—

Messrs. Ashurst, Bayard, Bratton, Broussard, Bruce, Fletcher, George, Hayden, Keyes, McKellar, Moses, Pine, Sackett, Thomas, Tyson, and Vandenberg.

So Mr. McKellar's motion was laid on the table.

Mr. Bruce, while addressing the Senate, yielded to Mr. Bingham, who moved that the Senate adjourn; and

On the question of agreeing to the motion,

It was determined in the negative. { Yeas ----- 14
Nays ----- 50

On motion by Mr. Norris,

The yeas and nays being desired by one-fifth of the Senators present,

Those who voted in the affirmative are—

Messrs. Ashurst, Bayard, Bingham, Blease, Broussard, Bruce, Dale, Edge, Fess, Hayden, McKellar, McLean, Pine, and Waterman.

Those who voted in the negative are—

Messrs. Barkley, Black, Blaine, Borah, Bratton, Brookhart, Capper, Caraway, Copeland, Couzens, Curtis, Deneen, Dill, Fletcher, Gillett, Glass, Hale, Harris, Harrison, Hawes, Hefflin, Howell, Johnson, Kendrick, Keyes, La Follette, Locher, McMaster, McNary, Metcalf, Moses, Norris, Nye, Oddie, Phipps, Reed of Missouri, Reed of Pennsylvania, Robinson of Arkansas, Robinson of Indiana, Sackett, Schall, Sheppard, Shipstead, Smith, Steiwer, Tyson, Vandenberg, Wagner, Walsh of Massachusetts, and Wheeler.

So Mr. Bingham's motion to adjourn was not agreed to.

Mr. Bruce proceeded to address the Senate; when

Mr. Norris raised a question of order, viz, that Mr. Bruce, by yielding for the submission of a motion to adjourn being made, lost the floor.

The Vice President sustained the point of order.

During the delivery of a speech by Mr. Tydings, Mr. Norris raised a question of order, viz, that he was discussing what took place in an executive session of the Senate, and was therefore not in order.

The Presiding Officer (Mr. Sackett in the chair) sustained the point of order.

During the further delivery of his address, Mr. Tydings yielded for an inquiry by Mr. McKellar, who said:

Can the Senator see any reason why the committee of which the Senator from Nebraska is a member and of which for a long time he was chairman should adopt the course of taking from the State of Tennessee its property, and in another bill, namely, the Boulder Dam bill, provide as follows:

"If during the period of amortization the Secretary of the Interior shall receive revenues in excess of the amount necessary to meet the periodical payments to the United States as provided in the contract, or contracts, executed under this act, then, immediately after the settlement of such periodical payments, he shall pay to the State of Arizona 18½ per cent of such excess revenues and to the State of Nevada 18¾ per cent of such excess revenues."

Does the Senator see any fairness in thus treating the States of Nevada and Arizona by this very same committee and then taking the property of Tennessee?

Mr. Norris raised a question of order, viz, that under the guise of a pretended question Mr. Tydings permitted to be read a long extract and a speech to be made by Mr. McKellar; that he had therefore lost the floor; that he could not hold the floor and permit a speech to be made under the guise and pretense that he was being asked a question.

The Presiding Officer (Mr. Oddie in the chair) decided that Mr. McKellar was asking a question.

Pending debate,

CALENDAR DAY, FRIDAY, MAY 25, 1928

At the conclusion of his address, at 1.30 o'clock a. m. (May 25, 1928), Mr. Tydings suggested the absence of a quorum and accompanied it with a motion that the Senate take a recess until 12 o'clock m. to-day.

Mr. Norris raised a question of order, viz, that while a quorum could be called for, Mr. Tydings could not do both these things at once; but that when the absence of a quorum was suggested it became at that instant an impossibility for the Senate to transact any business until a quorum was present.

The Presiding Officer (Mr. Cutting in the chair) sustained the point of order, and directed the Secretary to call the roll;

When

Fifty-five Senators answered to their names, as follows:

Messrs. Ashurst, Barkley, Bayard, Bingham, Black, Blaine, Blease, Bratton, Brookhart, Broussard, Bruce, Copeland, Curtis, Cutting, Dale, Deneen, Dill, Edge, George, Glass, Hale, Harris, Hawes, Hayden, Hefflin, Howell, Johnson, Kendrick, Keyes, King, La Follette, Locher, McKellar, McMaster, Moses, Norris, Nye, Oddie, Pine, Pittman, Reed of Missouri, Reed of Pennsylvania, Sheppard, Shipstead, Shortridge, Steiwer, Stephens, Tydings, Tyson, Vandenberg, Wagner, Walsh of Massachusetts, Walsh of Montana, Waterman, and Wheeler.

A quorum being present,

Pending debate, at 4 o'clock and 13 minutes a. m.,

Mr. Blease raised a question as to the presence of a quorum;

Mr. Norris raised a question of order, viz, that no business had been transacted since the point of no quorum was last made, and that the suggestion was dilatory.

The Presiding Officer (Mr. Dale in the chair) sustained the point of order.

Mr. McKellar appealed from the decision of the Chair; when Mr. Norris moved to lay the appeal on the table.

Mr. Blease raised a question of order, viz, that there were only nine Senators in the Chamber, and therefore there was not a quorum present.

Mr. McKellar demanded the yeas and nays on his appeal, stating that there were 4 hands up and only 18 Senators present.

The Presiding Officer said: The Chair has to assume that there is a quorum present, and on that assumption there is not a sufficient number who demand a roll call. The Chair can not count a quorum from the chair.

The question then being taken on agreeing to the motion of Mr. Norris to lay the appeal on the table,

It was determined in the affirmative.

Mr. McKellar then raised a question as to the presence of a quorum;

Mr. Norris raised a question of order, viz, that no business had been transacted.

Mr. McKellar made the point of order that a vote had been taken on the motion to lay on the table, and that that was business.

The Presiding Officer sustained the point of order, and directed the roll to be called;

When

Thirty-eight Senators answered to their names, as follows: Messrs. Ashurst, Barkley, Black, Blaine, Blease, Bratton, Brookhart, Copeland, Curtis, Dale, Dill, George, Glass, Hale, Harris, Hefflin, Howell, Johnson, Kendrick, Keyes, La Follette, Locher, McKellar, McMaster, Moses, Norris, Nye, Oddie, Pine, Pittman, Reed of Pennsylvania, Sheppard, Shipstead, Steiwer, Tyson, Vandenberg, Wagner, and Wheeler.

The number of Senators present not constituting a quorum,

The Presiding Officer directed the names of the absent Senators to be called; when

Mr. Deneen answered to his name.

A quorum not being present,

On motion by Mr. Norris,

Ordered, That the Sergeant at Arms be directed to request the attendance of the absent Senators.

Pending the execution of the order, a quorum not being present,

On motion by Mr. Tyson that the Senate adjourn,

It was determined in the negative.

Pending the execution of the order, Mr. Thomas, Mr. Waterman, Mr. Smoot, Mr. Greene, and Mr. Sackett appeared and answered to their names.

Pending the further execution of the order, at 5 o'clock and 40 minutes a. m.,

The Sergeant at Arms, upon the request of Mr. La Follette, made a report.

Pending the further execution of the order to the Sergeant at Arms, Mr. Robinson of Arkansas, Mr. Stephens, Mr. Bayard, and Mr. Cutting appeared.

A quorum being present,

Pending debate,

On motion by Mr. McKellar that the conference report be recommitted to the conferees with instructions to the conferees upon the part of the Senate to insist upon the insertion at the end of section 16 of the following proviso:

Provided, That the corporation herein created shall be subject to all the laws of the States in which it operates, in the same manner and to the same extent as would a private corporation engaged in such enterprises, and when the Cove Creek Dam and power plant hereinafter provided for shall have been constructed by the United States Government the laws of the State of Tennessee and the regulations of the constituted authorities of Tennessee shall apply in full force and effect to the sale, lease, distribution, or other disposition of the power produced and the water released for power-developing purposes at all downstream plants or projects, to the imposition of taxes and tolls on all the properties, and to the regulation and control of all rates and charges: Provided, That the provisions of this section shall not apply to navigation locks nor the operations concerned therewith; that such a percentage of gross profits from the sale of power shall be paid to the State of Tennessee as would have been paid if the corporation had been privately owned.

Mr. Norris raised a question of order against the motion, as follows:

I make a point of order against the proposed motion. First, on the ground that it is out of order because it is illegal for the Senate to instruct its conferees and ask the House for a full and free conference with the conferees on the part of the Senate having their hands tied.

Second. It is out of order and illegal for the Senate to instruct its conferees as to what to do in a conference, unless there is a disagreement in the conference and the conferees have reported that disagreement to the Senate.

Third. It is illegal and violates parliamentary law and procedure for the reason that the proposed amendment, if inserted by the conferees, would make their conference report subject to a point of order both in the Senate and in the House, because it inserts an amendment matter that is not and has not been in either the Senate resolution or the House resolution.

Fourth. It violates the Constitution of the United States by providing for the taxation of United States property by State authorities.

The Vice President, in the following language, sustained the point of order:

The Chair has had ample time during the night for reflection upon this question.

The Chair has caused an investigation to be made into the question of recommitment of conference reports with instructions to conferees, and has found that there is a practical unanimity of opinion, where a conference report is before the Senate for consideration, that a motion to recommit with instructions at that stage is not in order. The rule appears to be that instructions are only in order after a motion to ask or agree to a conference has been agreed to, and prior to the appointment of conferees. In the present case, the conferees have already been named, and, following the rule established by the decisions extending over a period of several years, the Chair feels impelled to sustain the point of order.

On motion by Mr. McKellar to recommit the conference report to the conferees with instructions to the conferees on the part of the Senate to insist upon the insertion at the end of section 16 of the following proviso:

Provided, That the said corporation shall keep an accurate account of the cost of said dam, and of the cost of operation and maintenance, and shall out of the profits derived from the sale of power, create such an amortization fund as will repay to the United States Government in such a period of time as the said corporation may find feasible, the full amount of the cost of said dam, together with 4 per centum interest annually thereon. If during the amortization period said corporation shall receive revenues in excess of the amount necessary to meet the periodical payments to the United States and all costs of operation and maintenance as provided in the amortization plan adopted by the corporation for paying back to the United States the cost of said dam, then, immediately after the settlement of such periodical payments, the said corporation shall pay the excess revenues to the State of Tennessee annually. When all the cost of said dam, together with 4 per centum interest thereon, shall have been repaid, as herein provided, then said dam and other properties acquired and used in connection therewith shall be deeded to the State of Tennessee.

Mr. Norris raised the following point of order:

I make the point of order that it is improper and illegal to attempt to instruct the conferees in a case where there is an agreement of the conferees upon a report and that report is pending in the Senate; also, whether the Senator calls it an amendment or instruction—I do not know which the Senator calls it—if it is an amendment, it is illegal under all circumstances to amend a conference report. If it is an instruction, then it proposes to insert into a conference report a provision that is not in either the House or the Senate measure, and would, therefore, be subject to a point of order now if it were in the conference report.

The Vice President sustained the point of order.

After debate,

The question being taken on agreeing to the report,

It was determined in the affirmative, Yeas _____ 43
Nays _____ 34

On motion by Mr. McKellar,

The yeas and nays being desired by one-fifth of the Senators present,

Whereupon

When

On motion by Mr. Harrison,

STATUS OF THE PACKERS' CONSENT DECREE

Mr. Copeland, by unanimous consent, submitted the following resolution (S. Res. 248):

Whereas on February 27, 1920, a consent decree was entered in the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in the suit of United States v. Swift & Co. et al., known as the packers' consent decree; and

Whereas on May 1, 1925, the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia overruled motions by Swift & Co. and Armour & Co. to vacate the consent decree but suspended the operation of the decree as to California Cooperative Canneries; and

Whereas on March 19, 1928, the Supreme Court of the United States upheld the said consent decree and rejected contentions of Armour & Co. and Swift & Co. that the decree is void: Be it

Resolved, That the Attorney General be, and he hereby is, directed to report to the Senate all information as to the status of such consent decree in view of its suspension by the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia.

Ordered, That it lie on the table.

INVESTIGATION OF CONDITIONS IN CERTAIN COAL FIELDS

Mr. Watson, by unanimous consent, submitted the following resolution (S. Res. 249), which was referred to the Committee to Audit and Control the Contingent Expenses of the Senate:

Resolved, That the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce, or any subcommittee thereof, investigating conditions existing in the coal fields of Pennsylvania, West Virginia, and Ohio, and other matters in connection therewith, under authority of resolution No. 105, agreed to February 16, 1928, hereby is authorized to expend $10,000 from the contingent fund of the Senate in furtherance of the purposes of said resolution, in addition to the amount heretofore authorized to be expended in such behalf.

FREIGHT RATES ON AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTS IN NORTHWEST

Mr. Wheeler, by unanimous consent, submitted the following resolution (S. Res. 250):

Whereas the farming industry in the United States is in a deplorable condition, resulting in bankruptcy of thousands of farmers; and

Whereas permanent prosperity of American industry as a whole is dependent on the prosperity of the farming industry, representing 40 per cent of our population; and

Whereas no effort to bring about prosperity for the farmer can possibly succeed which does not seek to place the farming industry on an economic parity with other industries; and

Whereas the measures for agricultural relief, supported by the leading farm organizations of the country, have been defeated by the present administration; and

Whereas tables of freight rates compiled by the Interstate Commerce Commission in response to Senate Resolution 208 dealing with the relative rates on grain in the United States and in Canada give the following table of grain rates on page 2

of their report in Document No. 107 of the Seventieth Congress, first session—

Comparison of rates on wheat from points in North Dakota and Montana to Duluth with rates for like distances from points in western Canada to Fort William, Ontario

From—	To—	Miles	Rate
Fargo, N. Dak.	Duluth, Minn.	252	16.5
Devils Lake, N. Dak.	do.	384	19.5
Lydiatt, Manitoba	Fort William, Ontario	389	14
Bismarck, N. Dak.	Duluth, Minn.	446	23.5
Meadows, Manitoba	Fort William, Ontario	442	15
Glasgow, Mont.	Duluth, Minn.	779	35
Regina, Saskatchewan	Fort William, Ontario	776	20
Billings, Mont.	Duluth, Minn.	893	39.5
Morse, Saskatchewan	Fort William, Ontario	892	22
Bozeman, Mont.	Duluth, Minn.	1,033	42
Estuary, Saskatchewan	Fort William, Ontario	1,036	24
Hayre, Mont.	Duluth, Minn.	932	39.5
Cantuar, Saskatchewan	Fort William, Ontario	941	23
Helena, Mont.	Duluth, Minn.	1,131	44.5
Grassy Lake, Alberta	Fort William, Ontario	1,125	25
Kalispell, Mont.	Duluth, Minn.	1,195	48
Lethbridge, Alberta	Fort William, Ontario	1,177	25

And

Whereas according to this table the freight rates from Montana points to Duluth, Minn., average 18 cents per hundred pounds higher than the rates from corresponding Canadian shipping points; and

Whereas such difference in freight rates places the farmers of Montana at a disadvantage of 10 cents per bushel in competing with Canadian farmers; and

Whereas on Montana 1927 wheat crop of 79,702,000 bushels this differential in freight rates amounts to the sum of $7,970,200:

Resolved, That the Interstate Commerce Commission is requested (1) to make an investigation with a view of ascertaining whether rates similar to the Canadian rate on grain, livestock, and other agricultural products in the Northwest would be compensatory to American railroads operating in that territory, and, (2) if upon such investigation the rates similar to the Canadian rates are found to be compensatory, that the commission reduce said rates in the Northwest on said agricultural products so that the American farmer will be put on an equality with the Canadian farmer in this respect, and (3) to report to the Senate at the beginning of the next regular session of the Seventieth Congress the results of such investigation and any action of the commission in pursuance thereof.

The Senate proceeded, by unanimous consent, to consider the said resolution; and

Resolved, That the Senate agree to the same, and that the preamble thereto be stricken out.

PROSECUTION OF EDWARD L. DOHENY AND ALBERT B. FALL

Mr. Nye, by unanimous consent, submitted the following resolution (S. Res. 252), which was referred to the Committee on Public Lands and Surveys:

Whereas on November 30, 1921, Edward L. Doheny, who was at that time negotiating with Albert B. Fall, then Secretary of the Interior, for a lease or leases of oil lands within the naval oil reserves of the United States, caused to be transmitted to the said Albert B. Fall the sum of $100,000 in cash; and

Whereas during the month of May, 1922, Harry F. Sinclair, who had on April 7, 1922, secured largely through the activities of the said Albert B. Fall a valuable lease of oil lands in naval reserve No. 3, commonly known as "Teapot Dome reserve," caused to be transmitted to Albert B. Fall the sum of $233,000 in Liberty bonds and subsequently transmitted or caused to be transmitted to Albert B. Fall additional sums in cash and Liberty bonds; and

Whereas indictments were in due course returned by the Federal grand jury of the District of Columbia charging Edward L. Doheny and Albert B. Fall with the offense of bribery; and

Whereas the Supreme Court of the United States, after a review of the evidence in civil cases, instituted against the said Doheny and Sinclair for the recovery of the said oil lands, has denounced the transaction of both Doheny and Sinclair as corrupt and fraudulent and has characterized Fall as a faithless public officer; and

Whereas the prosecution of these cases was initiated by the Senate through appropriate resolution upon the basis of evidence developed by investigations conducted by the Committee on Public Lands and Surveys; and

Whereas the acquittal of Doheny and Sinclair upon charges of criminal conspiracy does not in any way act as a bar to prevent prosecution of the pending indictments for bribery against Doheny and Fall; and

Whereas the public interest demands every reasonable effort be made to bring to justice the individuals whom the Supreme Court has denounced as responsible for these corrupt and fraudulent transactions: Therefore be it

Resolved, That it is the sense of the Senate that the President of the United States should direct the special prosecutors selected by him in accordance with the Senate resolution of January 31, 1924, or such other special counsel as he may select, to prosecute vigorously the indictments for bribery against Edward L. Doheny and Albert B. Fall.

Resolved, That the Comptroller General of the United States be directed to reopen, restate, and resettle the account of the State of Nevada for moneys advanced and expended by reason of the assumption of the debts and obligations contracted by the Territory of Nevada in aid of the Government of the United States during the War between the States, and on such restatement and resettlement (1) to accept as a basis of calculation the balance due the State of Nevada on January 1, 1900, stated in the account set forth in the report of the Secretary of the Treasury printed in House Document No. 322, Fifty-sixth Congress, first session; (2) to add to such balance the interest certified by the controller of the State of Nevada as actually paid by said State from January 1, 1900, to May 1, 1928, on that part of the debt so contracted by the Territory of Nevada and assumed by the State and bonds issued to cover same, for which no applicable funds to redeem such bonds were available on April 1, 1879; (3) after deducting the amount repaid by the United States to the State of Nevada since January 1, 1900; (4) deducting the difference between the amount of interest on the sum found available in "the Territorial interest and sinking fund" of Nevada on April 1, 1879, for the redemption of Territorial debt bonds and the amount of interest credited to the State of Nevada in the account stated in said House Document No. 322 from May 1, 1879, to December 31, 1899; and (5) deducting the amounts, if any, included in said statement of account reported in said House Document No. 322, incurred by the State of Nevada, under the act of the legislature approved March 11, 1865 (Stats. Nevada, 1865, p. 389), for enlistments and expenses incident thereto in addition to those contracted under the Territorial act approved February 20, 1864 (Stats. Nevada Territory, 1864, p. 81), to report to the Senate the balance found due the State of Nevada.

DISPOSITION OF CERTAIN GOVERNMENT SUGAR PURCHASES

Mr. Blease, by unanimous consent, submitted the following resolution (S. Res. 255):

Whereas it is charged that during the period of the World War the United States Government, through its Food Administrator, bought up, owned, and controlled the entire supply of Cuban sugar, all of which is alleged to have been purchased at about 5½ cents per pound; and

Whereas it is further charged that this supply was retained in Cuba for months while the American people were paying 28 cents a pound for sugar; and

Whereas it is further charged that a great number of vessels carried American products to Cuba, but returned to this country in ballast and were not permitted to bring back to the United States sugar awaiting shipment during this time; and

Whereas it is further charged that large quantities of this sugar were shipped to Spain from time to time to the disadvantage of the people of the United States; and

Whereas similar charges then were and still are made with reference to the supply of Porto Rican sugar, and that it was dealt with in substantially the same manner as was the supply of Cuban sugar; and

Whereas these charges have continued to have wide circulation among the American people until there is a well-nigh universal demand to know the truth about the situation: Now, therefore, be it

Resolved, That the committee heretofore appointed to investigate the expenditures of candidates for the Presidency in the present campaign be empowered and instructed to investigate this entire sugar situation as set forth in the above preamble, and any other facts and circumstances relating to it, and report the same to the Senate, or, if the Senate be in recess when the report is prepared, to the President of the Senate and made public.

PROSECUTION OF COMPLAINT AGAINST THE CONTINENTAL BAKING CORPORATION

Mr. La Follette submitted the following resolution (S. Res. 258), which was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary:

Whereas the Federal Trade Commission, on December 19, 1925, following strong public protest against the formation of an alleged bread trust, filed a complaint (Docket No. 1358) against the Continental Baking Corporation, in which it was charged, after investigation by its chief examiner and full consideration by the commission, that the said Continental Baking Corporation had acquired the capital stock of a large number of baking companies in violation of section 7 of the Clayton Act; and

Whereas the Department of Justice of the United States, on February 8, 1926, also following strong public protest against the formation of an alleged Bread Trust, filed a petition in the United States District Court of Baltimore, Md., against the Ward Food Products Co., the Continental Baking Corporation, et al., in which it was charged that the defendants were engaged in a combination and conspiracy in violation of the Sherman Act, and also that said defendants had violated section 7 of the Clayton Act; and

Whereas on April 2, 1926, the Federal Trade Commission, without the sanction of its attorney assigned to the case, suddenly dismissed its complaint against the Continental Baking Corporation, under strange circumstances that raised a grave question as to whether the majority members who voted for the dismissal acted in the public interest or with a view of serving the ends of the Continental Baking Corporation and called forth a strong public protest from the minority members of the commission; and

Whereas on April 3, 1926, the Department of Justice suddenly terminated its suit against the Ward Food Products Co., the Continental Baking Corporation, et al., by a "consent decree" agreed upon and entered under strange circumstances that raised a grave question as to whether the Department of Justice acted in the interest of the public or with a view of serving the ends of the defendants, particularly the Continental Baking Corporation, and also as to whether or not the Department of Justice had perpetrated a fraud upon the court in which the "consent decree" was entered; and

Whereas this "consent decree," which is publicly branded as a "smoke screen" behind which the defendants, particularly the Continental Baking Corporation, will be able to continue their monopolistic operations with greater assurance of safety from attack than before, is set up by the majority members of the Federal Trade Commission as justification for dismissing the complaint against the Continental Baking Corporation made by the commission, notwithstanding the fact that the "consent decree" entirely ignores the well-grounded charge made both by the commission and the Department of Justice to the effect that the Continental Baking Corporation was guilty of violation of section 7 of the Clayton Act; and notwithstanding the further fact that the said "consent decree" left the Continental Baking Corporation entirely unpunished and entirely intact to continue the monopolistic course which called forth the public protest above referred to, and of which the Federal Trade Commission itself complained; and

Whereas in view of the strange circumstances surrounding the dismissal by the Federal Trade Commission of its complaint against the Continental Baking Corporation, and the termination by the Department of Justice of its suit against the Continental Baking Corporation by the said "consent decree," the United States, by Resolution No. 270, Sixty-ninth Congress, second session, instructed the Committee on the Judiciary to investigate and report upon the matter; and

Whereas the report of the subcommittee appointed by the Senate Committee on the Judiciary to make the investigation justifies the suspicion that the majority members of the Federal Trade Commission did not act in the public interest, but rather in the interest of the Continental Baking Corporation, when they hastily voted to dismiss the complaint against the said corporation:

Resolved, That the Federal Trade Commission be directed, and it is hereby directed, to reinstate forthwith the complaint against the Continental Baking Corporation which the said commission, by majority vote, dismissed on April 2, 1926, and prosecute the same with the vigor demanded by the public interest.

HEARINGS ON DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION BILL

Mr. Ashurst, while addressing the Senate, yielded for the purpose of permitting the Presiding Officer (Mr. Brookhart in the chair) to lay before the Senate the concurrent resolution (H. Con. Res. 40) providing for the printing, with illustrations, of 10,000 copies of the hearings before the Committee on Education of the House of Representatives on the bill (H. Mr. Bingham moved that it be referred to the Committee on Education and Labor.

Mr. Norris raised a question of order, viz, that if Mr. Ashurst yielded for the above motions being made he would lose the floor.

The Presiding Officer held that in view of the privileged status of the concurrent resolution under Rule VII, paragraph 7, action on the motions could be taken without depriving Mr. Ashurst of the right to the floor.

The question being then taken on agreeing to the motion of Mr. Bingham that the concurrent resolution be referred to the Committee on Education and Labor,

It was determined in the negative.

The question recurring on agreeing to the motion of Mr. Shipstead that the Senate concur in the said resolution, Mr. Ashurst resumed his address on the so-called Boulder Dam bill.

Pending its delivery,

PROPORTIONAL REPRESENTATION IN ELECTORAL COLLEGE

Mr. Walsh of Massachusetts (by request) submitted the following concurrent resolution (S. Con. Res. 23) (with an accompanying paper), which was referred to the Committee on Privileges and Elections:

Whereas the existing practice of having all the presidential electors in each State elected in one block, and of having the votes of such electors all cast for the presidential candidate who receives the largest number of votes, is detrimental to the interests of the Nation, because—

(1) It deprives of representation in the Electoral College, always some minority, often a large minority, and sometimes even a majority, of the votes of each State;

(2) It unjustly causes a part of the numerical strength of the voters of the State to be counted for candidates of whom they disapprove, thus giving in effect more than one vote to each citizen of the most numerous party, though that party may be a minority of the whole number of voters;

(3) It places an undue strain of excitement and temptation to corruption upon those States in which the principal parties are equally divided, and in which therefore each of the principal parties exerts itself to become the most numerous one;

(4) It deprives States in which either of the principal parties is sure of receiving a majority (or even a plurality) vote of the benefit of discussion and instruction of citizens in the principles of government and the issues of the day, which would result from an active effort to secure their votes;

(5) It deprives the National Government of the benefit of participation in its affairs by that great host of citizens in the sure States who, on the one hand, can not by voting give worthwhile expression to their convictions, or who, on the other hand, because of the practical changelessness of election results in their States, fail to take that interest in national affairs which patriotism demands;

(6) It nullifies the efforts of truly patriotic, thinking citizens who vote according to conviction by placing elections mainly in the hands of those who vote according to habit; and

Whereas proportional representation (both by the single transferable vote method used in England, Ireland, Canada, and some cities of the United States, and by the list method used in various continental European countries) has proved in practice to be easily workable, satisfactory to the voters, and just to all parties; and

Whereas the process of electing the President and Vice President of the United States is of grave import to the welfare of the Federal Government, yet Congress has no authority to modify it, because Article II, section 1, of the Constitution gives to the legislature of each State the sole authority to direct the manner of appointing the presidential electors for that State: Therefore be it

Resolved by the Senate (the House of Representatives concurring). That it is the sense of the Congress that the legislatures of the several States should establish by appropriate legislation proportional representation in the choosing of presidential electors, and that the Secretary of State is hereby requested to transmit a copy of this resolution to the governors of the several States.
