PRESIDENTIAL VETO

The SPEAKER laid before the House a message from the President, which was read, as follows:

To the House of Representatives:

Herewith is returned, without approval, H. R. 2029, "An act to authorize the coinage of silver 50-cent pieces in commemoration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the Gadsden Purchase."

This bill provides that in commemoration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the acquisition by the United States of the territory known as the Gadsden Purchase, there shall be coined in the mints of the United States 50-cent pieces to the number of 10,000, to be of a design fixed by the Director of the Mint and approved by the Secretary of the Treasury. The coins are to be legal tender and are to be issued only upon the request of the Gadsden Purchase Coin Committee, in such numbers and at such times as they shall request.

The matter is not perhaps one of large importance in itself, were it not for the fact of the great number of other similar proposals by the aggregate of which the principles of sound coinage are being jeopardized. Moreover, the multiplicity of these demands have largely destroyed their interest and value for the purposes intended.

During the past 10 years 15 such special coins have been issued, an average of one each 8 months, an aggregate of over 13,000,000 such coins having been authorized. There are now pending before Congress five other bills for such coinage and before the Treasury Department several other requests for support to proposals of the same character.

The monetary system of the country is created and exists for certain well-defined and essential purposes. Sound practice demands that it should not be diverted to other uses, if we are best to serve the needs of trade and commerce, satisfy the convenience of the people, and protect the integrity of our coins. Experience has demonstrated that the necessities and convenience of the people can best be served and the integrity of our coins can only be protected from counterfeiting by limiting the number of designs with which in the course of time the public can become thoroughly familiar. Indeed, the Congress itself has recognized the soundness of this principle by providing that "no change in the design or die of any coin shall be made oftener than once in 25 years from and including the year of the first adoption of the design, model, die, or hub from the same coin."

The growing practice of issuing commemorative coins, incidentally to be sold at a profit and provide funds for projects or celebrations, appears to me to run counter to this principle and by their multiplicity to have become a misuse of our coinage system. These coins do not serve for circulating medium, which is the real function of coins. They introduce an element of confusion and lack of uniformity. The danger of counterfeit coins being successfully passed is unquestionably increased by a multiplicity of designs, with which the public can not become thoroughly familiar. Furthermore, the very premiums at which these coins are sold stimulate counterfeiting of them.

There are a great many historical events which it is not only highly proper but desirable to commemorate in a suitable way, but the longer use of our coins for this purpose is unsuitable and unwise. This would seem to be clear from the very number of events to be commemorated, and past experience indicates how difficult it is to draw the line and how such a practice, once it is recognized, tends constantly to grow. If this bill is to become law, it is not apparent on what grounds similar measures, no matter how numerous, may be rejected. Yet their enactment in such numbers must bring further confusion to our monetary system. The Government would be glad to assist such celebrations in the creation of appropriate medals which do not have coinage functions.

HERBERT HOOVER.

THE WHITE HOUSE, April 21, 1930.

On motion of Mr. PERKINS, consideration of the message was deferred until to-morrow, immediately after the reading of the Journal.

The message was ordered to be printed, together with the bill.

THE TARIFF—CONFERENCE REPORT FILED

On motion of Mr. HAWLEY, by unanimous consent, the conferees were granted permission until midnight to-night to file the conference report (Rept. No. 1326) on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H. R. 2667) to provide revenue, to regulate commerce with foreign countries, to encourage the industries of the United States, to protect American labor, and for other purposes, together with a statement thereon, for printing in the RECORD under the rule.

LEGISLATIVE APPROPRIATION BILL

Mr. MURPHY, by direction of the Committee on Appropriations, under clause 45, Rule XI, reported (Rept. No. 1320) the bill (H. R. 11965) making appropriations for the legislative branch of the Government for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1931, and for other purposes.

Said bill and report were referred to the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union and ordered to be printed.

Page 1, line 7, strike out "$54,810" and insert $24,160.

When, on motion of Mr. IRWIN, said Senate amendment was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk notify the Senate thereof.

PRIVILEGE OF THE HOUSE

Mr. LUCE rose to a question of privilege of the House and submitted the following resolution:

Resolved, That a respectful message be sent to the Senate calling the attention of the Senate to the remarks of the Senator from Georgia [Mr. GEORGE], found in the proceedings of the Senate for April 25, 1930, with the request that such action be taken by the Senate as will eliminate from the RECORD such remarks as are in violation of proper parliamentary practice and the proper comity existing between the two Houses.

Mr. CRISP made the point of order that the resolution does not present a question of privilege of the House.

After debate,

The SPEAKER sustained the point of order and said:

"There is not the slightest question that there are several sections of Jefferson's Manual applying to comity between the two Houses, which would cover a case like this, if the Vice President had not made a ruling the other day in which he said that the Senate is not bound in any respects by Jefferson's Manual. The Vice President said:

"'The Chair is ready to rule on the question. The Senate has not adopted Jefferson's Manual as a part of the rules of the Senate. It is left to the discretion of Senators as to what they may or may not say about the proceedings of the House in connection with the resolution under consideration.

"'Mr. FESS. That is not a rule.

"'The VICE PRESIDENT. The Chair makes that rule now.'

"The matter under consideration in the Senate at that time was the matter to which the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. CRISP] has just referred. In other words, it is left to the conscience of Senators as to what they may or may not say about the proceedings of the House, and the last thing that the present occupant of the chair would be willing to rule upon is a question of that sort.

"The Chair holds that the resolution of the gentleman from Massachusetts is not privileged."

The question being put,

Will the House recommit the bill with said instructions?

On a division there appeared—yeas 23, nays 150.

CRIMINAL LAW ENFORCEMENT

The SPEAKER laid before the House a message from the President, which was read, as follows:

To the Congress of the United States:

In my messages of June 6 and December 3, 1929, I placed before Congress the urgency of certain improvements necessary to effective criminal law enforcement. Substantial progress has been made upon some of the measures proposed, yet we are nearing the end of the present session, and I can not too strongly urge the necessity of action upon all these recommendations before adjournment.

The most important recommendations made by me were five in number:

First. There should be a transfer of the functions of detection and prosecution of prohibition cases from the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice, and thus an ending of divided responsibility and effort. An act providing for this transfer was passed by the House of Representatives and has now been reported to the Senate by its Judiciary Committee.

Second. There must be relief afforded from congestion in the courts. While this congestion is evidenced by the dockets in many courts, its full implications are not shown by them. The so-called bargain days, when light fines are imposed as the result of pleas of guilty clear the docket, but the result distinctly undermines respect for law. No conclusion appears to have been reached as to the method of accomplishing this either by the Judiciary Committee of the Senate or by the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives.

Third. There must be extension of Federal prisons with more adequate parole system and other modern treatment of prisoners. We have already 11,985 prisoners in Federal establishments built for 6,946. The number of Federal prisoners in Federal and State institutions increased 6,277 in the nine months from June 30, 1929, to April 1, 1930. The Attorney General has stated that we can not hope to enforce the laws unless we can have some point of reception for convicted persons. The overcrowding of the prisons themselves is inhumane and accentuates criminal tendencies. Bills providing for this relief were passed by the House and are now, I understand, in course of being reported to the Senate by the Judiciary Committee.

Fourth. We are in need of vigorous reorganization of the border patrol in order to consolidate various agencies so as effectually to prevent illegal entry of both aliens and goods. Proposals to bring about such reorganization are before the committees of Congress.

Fifth. The District of Columbia is without an adequate prohibition enforcement law. A bill for that purpose has been introduced and hearings have been held before the Senate District Committee. It should contain the safeguards recommended by the Attorney General.

We have within the limits of existing legislation improved the personnel and greatly increased the efficiency of the existing Federal machinery in criminal law enforcement during the past year. The above reforms are necessary, however, if I am to perform the high duty which falls upon the Executive of enforcement of the Federal laws.

While a considerable part of this condition arises from the laws relating to intoxicating liquors, yet the laws relating to narcotics, automobile thefts, and so forth, which have been enacted by the Congress during recent years, also contribute to create the present conditions. This is well indicated by the fact that less than one-third of Federal prisoners are due to prohibition.

Our obedience to law, our law enforcement and judicial organization, our judicial procedure, our care and methods of handling prisoners, in relation to not only Federal Government but also to the State and municipal governments, are far from the standards that must be secured. These proposals, while they do not comprehend the whole which remains to be done in the Nation, are a step toward lifting the Federal standards which must have a general beneficial influence.

HERBERT HOOVER.

THE WHITE HOUSE, April 28, 1930.

The message was referred to the Committees on Ways and Means, the Judiciary, Interstate and Foreign Commerce, Expenditures in the Executive Departments, the District of Columbia, and Immigration and Naturalization and ordered to be printed (S. Doc. No. 136).

REIMBURSEMENT OF POLAND

The SPEAKER laid before the House a message from the President, which was read, as follows:

To the Congress of the United States:

I transmit herewith a report from the Acting Secretary of State in regard to a claim presented by the Polish Government for the reimbursement of certain expenditures incurred by the community authorities of Rzeczyczany, Poland, to which place an insane alien was erroneously deported. The conclusion reached by the Acting Secretary of State has my approval and I recommend that the Congress authorize an appropriation of $152.35 to be paid to the Polish Government.

HERBERT HOOVER.

THE WHITE HOUSE, April 28, 1930.

The message, together with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Foreign Affairs and ordered to be printed (S. Doc. No. 137).

The House proceeded to the further consideration of Senate amendments in disagreement in the conference report on the bill (H. R. 2667) to provide revenue, to regulate commerce with foreign countries, to encourage the industries of the United States, to protect American labor, and for other purposes.

On motion of Mr. HAWLEY, by unanimous consent,

Ordered, That the time for debate on the following amendment of the Senate be limited to 2 hours and 20 minutes, be equally divided and controlled by Mr. HAWLEY and Mr. HILL of Washington:

Amendment No. 1128:

Sec. 321. Export debentures

(a) Whenever the board provided for in the agricultural marketing act approved June 15, 1929, finds it advisable, in order to carry out the policy declared in section 1 of said agricultural marketing act, with respect to any agricultural commodity, to issue export debentures with respect to such commodity, said board shall give notice of such finding to the Secretary of the Treasury. Upon the receipt of such notice it shall be the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury, commencing and terminating at such time as the board shall prescribe, to issue export debentures to any farmer, cooperative association, stabilization corporation, or other person with respect to such quantity of the commodity or any manufactured food product thereof or any product manufactured from cotton or tobacco, if the cotton or tobacco out of which it is manufactured if exported in the raw material would have been entitled to receive a debenture therefor, as such person may from time to time export from the United States to any foreign country. The export debenture shall be in an amount to be computed under the direction of the Secretary of the Treasury, in accordance with such regulations as he may prescribe, at the debenture rate for the commodity or product that is in effect at the time of exportation. Any such computation shall be final.

(b) In order to procure the issuance of an export debenture, the farmer, cooperative association, stabilization corporation, or other person shall, in accordance with such regulations as the Secretary of the Treasury may prescribe, make application for such debenture and submit satisfactory proofs either (1) that the commodity to be exported was produced in the United States and has not previously been exported therefrom, or (2) that the commodity used in making the manufactured food product or any product manufactured from cotton or tobacco if the cotton or tobacco out of which it is manufactured if exported in the raw material would have been entitled to receive a debenture therefor, to be exported was produced in the United States and the agricultural commodity and the manufactured food product or any product manufactured from cotton or tobacco if the cotton or tobacco out of which it is manufuactured if exported ture therefor, have not previously been exported therefrom.

(c) An export debenture, when presented by the bearer thereof within one year from the date of issuance, shall be receivable at its face value by any collector of customs, or deputy collector of customs, or other person authorized by law or by regulation of the Seecretary of the Treasury to perform the duties of collector of customs, in payment of duties collectible against articles imported by the bearer. Title to any export debenture shall be transferable by delivery. In order to prevent any undue speculation in the handling of such export debentures, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and directed, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, to provide for the redemption of such export debentures from any money in the Treasury derived from the payment of duties collectible against articles imported into the United States at a rate of not less than 98 per cent of the face value of such export debentures.

(d) Debenture rates in effect at any time with respect to any agricultural commodity shall be one-half the rate of duty in effect at such time with respect to imports of such commodity, except that so long as no import duty is imposed on cotton the debenture rate thereon shall be 2 cents per pound. The debenture rate in effect at any time with respect to any manufactured food product of any agricultural commodity or any product manufactured from cotton or tobacco if the cotton or tobacco out of which it is manufactured if exported in the raw material would have been entitled to receive a debenture therefor, shall be an amount sufficient, as nearly as may be, to equal the debenture that would be issuable upon the exportation of the quantity of the agricultural commodity consumed in the manufacture of the exported manufactured food product, or any product manufactured from cotton or tobacco if the cotton or tobacco out of which it is manufactured if exported in the raw material would have been entitled to receive a debenture therefor, as prescribed and promulgated from time to time by said board.

(e) Regulations requiring that metal tags or other appropriate markings be placed on all bales of cotton produced in foreign countries and allowed transit through the United States for exportation may be prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury. Every person who violates any such regulation of said board shall be liable to a civil penalty of $100 for each such offense. Such penalty may be recovered in a civil suit brought by said board in the name of the United States.

(f) The Secretary of the Treasury shall prepare and issue all export debentures. Export debentures issued under authority of this act shall be obligations of the United States within the definition in section 147 of the act entitled "An act to codify, revise, and amend the penal laws of the United States," approved March 4, 1909, as amended (U. S. C., title 18, sec. 261).

(g) Any person who shall make any false statement for the purpose of fraudulently procuring, or shall attempt in any manner fraudulently to procure, the issuance or acceptance of any export debenture, whether for the benefit of such person or of any other person, shall be fined not more than $2,000 or imprisoned not more than one year, or both.

(h) In investigating differences in costs of production for any purpose, the commission shall obtain such costs for a normal and representative period. In connection with any such investigation of differences in costs of production, the commission shall inquire into the following matters and shall include in its report upon such investigation a summary of the facts with respect to such matters:

(1) The efficiency and economic operation and location of the domestic industry under consideration;

(2) The conditions of such domestic industry with respect to profits and losses, the extent to which productive capacity is utilized, and the extent of unemployment;

(3) The extent to which adverse conditions of production may be due to foreign competition or to other specified factors;

(4) The extent to which adverse conditions of production may be remedied by adjustments in the tariff laws, taking into consideration the substitution of articles used for the same purposes as the articles under consideration, and taking into consideration any other pertinent competitive factors; and

(5) The effects of any proposed increase or decrease in rates of duties on other domestic industries and on the export trade of the United States.

Amendment No. 1140, page 346, strike out the balance of the page after line 5, all of page 347, all of page 348, all of page 349, all of page 350, all of page 351, and all of page 352, and insert the following:

Sec. 336. Recommendations for adjustment of duties: (a) Upon its own motion or upon application of any interested party showing good and sufficient reason therefor, the commission shall investigate and ascertain the differences in the cost of production of any domestic article and of any like or similar foreign article. If the commission finds it shown by the investigation that the duty imposed by law upon the foreign article does not equalize the differences in the cost of production of the domestic article and of the foreign article when produced in the principal competing country or countries, then the commission shall report to the President and to the Congress such increases or decreases in the duty upon the foreign article as the commission finds to be necessary in order to equalize such differences in the cost of production. Any such increased or decreased duty may include the transfer of the article from the dutiable list to the free list or from the free list to the dutiable list, a change in the form of duty, or a change in classification. The report shall be accompanied by a statement of the commission setting forth the findings of the commission with respect to the differences in costs of production, the elements of cost included in the cost of production of the respective articles as ascertained by the commission, and any other matter deemed pertinent by the commission.

The President, upon receipt of any such report of the commission, shall promptly transmit the report to the Congress with his recommendations, if any, with respect to the increase or decrease in duty proposed by the commission.

Any bill having for its object the carrying out, in whole or in part, of the recommendations made by the commission in any such report shall not include any item not included in such report; and in the consideration of such bill, either in the House of Representatives or in the Senate, no amendment thereto shall be considered which is not germane to the items included in such report.

(b) No report shall be made by the commission under this section unless the determination of the commission with respect thereto is reached after an investigation by the commission during the course of which the commission shall have held hearings and given reasonable public notice of such hearings, and reasonable opportunity for the parties interested to be present, produce evidence, and to be heard. The commission is authorized to adopt such reasonable rules of procedure as may be necessary to execute its functions under this section.

(c) In ascertaining the differences in costs of production under this section the commission shall take into consideration, in so far as it finds it practicable—

(1) The differences in conditions of production, including wages, costs of materials, and other items in cost of production of like or similar articles in the United States and in competing foreign countries;

(2) Costs of transportation;

(3) Other costs including the cost of containers and coverings of whatever nature and other charges and expenses incident to placing the article in condition, packed ready for delivery, storage costs in the principal market or markets of the United States and of the principal competing country or countries, and costs of reconditioning or repacking wherever incurred;

(4) Differences between the domestic and foreign article in packing and containers, and in condition in which received in the principal markets of the United States;

(5) Differences in wholesale selling prices of domestic and foreign articles in the principal markets of the United States in so far as such prices are indicative of costs of production, provided such costs can not be satisfactorily obtained;

(6) Advantages granted to a foreign producer by a foreign government or by a person, partnership, corporation, or association in a foreign country; and

(7) Any other advantages or disadvantages in competition which increases or decreases in a definitely determinable amount the total cost at which domestic or foreign articles may be delivered in the principal market or markets of the United States; and

(8) Definition of costs of transportation: Costs of transportation for the purposes of this section shall be held to include, in so far as applicable:

First. Freight charges and all other charges incident to transportation, including transit insurance, costs of loading and unloading, and port charges and landing charges. These costs shall be computed to such principal market or markets of the United States as may most nearly insure equal competitive opportunity to domestic articles and like or similar foreign articles in the principal consuming region or regions of the United States. If this purpose may be best accomplished thereby, such costs on domestic articles and on like or similar foreign articles shall be computed to different principal markets of the United States.

Second. (A) In the case of an imported article, the cost of transportating such article from the areas of substantial production in the principal competing country to the principal port of importation of such article into the United States; and (B) in the case of a domestic article the cost of transporting such article from the areas of substantial production that can reasonably be expected to ship the article thereto, to the principal port of importation into the United States of the like or similar competitive article.

Amendment No. 1141, page 357, after line 8, insert the following:

(d) In the case of natural resources and products of manufacture therefrom the commission shall take into consideration the question of depletion and shall consider the facts both as to the available remaining supply of the natural resource in question and of its various important grades, species, or varieties, and give due weight to the necessity of reaching such conclusions as will conform to wise and sound policies of conservation.

Amendment No. 1151, page 366, strike out all of lines 23, 24, and 25, and on page 367, strike out lines 1, 2, and 3, and insert the following:

Sec. 339. Effect of reenactment of existing law: Notwithstanding the repeal by section 651 (a) of the laws relating to the United States Tariff Commission and their reenactment in sections 330 to 338, inclusive, with modifications, the unexpended balances of appropriations available for the commission at the time this act takes effect shall remain available for the commission in the administration of its functions under this act; and such repeal and reenactment shall not operate to change the status of the officers and employees under the jurisdiction of the commission at the time this act takes effect. No investigation or other proceeding pending before the commission at such time (other than proceedings under section 315 of the tariff act of 1922) shall abate by reason of such repeal and reenactment, but shall continue under the provisions of this act.

After debate,

By unanimous consent, the House insisted upon its disagreement to Senate amendments Nos. 1129, 1130, 1131, 1132, 1133, 1134, 1135, 1138, and 1139.

Mr. HAWLEY moved that the House insist upon its disagreement to Senate amendments Nos. 1140, 1141, and 1151.

Statehouse, Providence, R. I.

MY DEAR GOVERNOR CASE: Having been appointed by you as an associate justice of the Superior Court for the State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations and said appointment having been confirmed by the Senate of said State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations in accordance with law, I hereby tender my resignation as a Representative in the Congress of the United States for the third district of said State of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, said resignation to take effect on May 9, 1930.

On motion of Mr. CHINDBLOM, by unanimous consent, the Clerk was instructed to communicate the congratulations of the House to Mr. O'CONNELL.

COMITY BETWEEN THE TWO HOUSES

Mr. LAGUARDIA having obtained the floor, and during the course of his remarks said:

"The information which this Senate committee obtained is of vital importance at this time. We have been unable to obtain the hearings for some reason. I think I know the reason. The chairman of this committee was Senator Shortridge, of California. The committee consisted of three members. The personnel of the committee has been changed, and with the exception of Senator Shortridge I believe the committee is inactive.

"Now, the information obtained is public property; it is useful at this time. I should like to know what pressure is being brought on Senator Shortridge that he is improperly withholding this information."

Whereupon,

Mr. SNELL made the point of order that the gentleman was not in order in criticizing an individual Senator in connection with his legislative capacity.

After debate,

The SPEAKER sustained the point of order, and said:

"Since the ruling of the Vice President just referred to by the gentleman from New York [Mr. LAGUARDIA] on April 21 of this year, in which he specifically overruled the decision of the President pro tempore of the Senate made on July 31, 1917, on the subject, the Chair has regarded it as inevitable that a situation would speedily arise of which this House must take cognizance. A comparatively recent decision of the Senate is directly in point as to whether the rules of Jefferson's Manual do or do not, impliedly at least, govern the proceedings of that body, certainly with reference to matters spoken in derogation of the actions or attitude of Members of another body, or of that body itself.

"The Chair has taken the pains to look up a number of these decisions, some of which he will quote, because, as the Chair has already said, he was morally certain that a situation would speedily arise in which a final, definite ruling might have to be made in the House.

"On August 26, 1912, in the Senate during the consideration of the conference report upon the deficiency appropriation bill, Mr. Charles A. Culberson, of Texas, having the floor in debate, said:

"'I ask that the Secretary may read from the Record the marked paragraph which I send to the desk, from page 13016, in the debate in the House of Representatives.

"'The Secretary read as follows:

"'Mr. FITZGERALD. Mr. Speaker, I move the House adhere'——

"At that point Mr. John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, made the point of order that under the rules of the Senate it was not permissible to animadvert upon the proceedings of the other House. The President pro tempore, Mr. Jacob H. Gallinger, of New Hampshire, said:

"'The Chair thinks it will be found in Jefferson's Manual, not in the rules of the Senate.'

"Mr. Culbertson submitted that Jefferson's Manual, while persuasive in determining proceedings, was not in fact, part of the rules of the Senate. The President pro tempore ruled:

"'The Chair has always been of opinion that Jefferson's Manual, so far as it is pertinent, is, and has been recognized as a part of the rules of this body, and the Chair finds in Jefferson's Manual this statement:'

"And here he quotes from the precedent referred to by the gentleman from New York [Mr. SNELL]:

"'It is a breach of order in debate to notice what has been said on the same subject in the other House, or the particular votes or majorities on it there; because the opinion of each House should be left to its own independency, not to be influenced by the proceedings of the other; and the quoting of them might beget reflections leading to a misunderstanding between the two Houses.'

"He then proceeded with his decision:

"'While undoubtedly in debate in this body, and perhaps in the other body, that rule has not always been strictly adhered to, yet, the point of order having been made, the Chair feels constrained to sustain it.'

"On July 31, 1917—and this is the last decision of the Senate that the Chair has been able to find, and he is not aware that there has been any other decision on the subject up to the one recently made on April 21 of this year—the Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, had under consideration the joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution prohibiting the sale, manufacture, and transportation of intoxicating liquor.

Mr. William H. Thompson, of Kansas, being recognized for debate, proposed to have read at the desk a letter certifying that Jacob E. Meeker, a Representative from Missouri, was formerly a Congregational minister and had resigned under censure. Mr. Lee S. Overman, of North Carolina, made the point of order that the rules of the Senate did not permit the introduction of matter reflecting upon a Member of the House of Representatives.

"The Presiding Officer (William H. King, of Utah), President pro tempore, sustained the point of order and said:

"'There is a rule that would make it improper and out of order to refer to a Member of the House of Representatives in opprobrious terms and to impute to him unworthy motives. No Senator ought to make any statement that would be a reflection upon any Member of the House or impute to him improper conduct or an unworthy motive. He is not here to defend himself. It would seem to the present occupant of the chair unfair for any Senator to make any comment upon the life or character or political conduct of a Member of the House of Representatives that would reflect upon his honor or his integrity or his good faith. The point of order is sustained.'

"Mr. Thompson submitted that Mr. Meeker had himself, on a previous occasion, violated the privileges of debate by inserting in the Record an extension of remarks reflecting on the State of Kansas. The Presiding Officer said:

"'The Chair will say that an infraction of the rules of the House by a Member of the House would not, in the opinion of the Chair, warrant an infraction of the rules of the Senate by an attack upon a Member of the House. In the opinion of the Chair, nothing should be stated by Senators that would be a reflection upon the integrity or moral character of a Member of the House, or impute to him improper or unworthy motives. (Record, 65th Cong., 1st sess., 5597.)'

"On April 21, 1930, the Senate was considering a resolution (S. Res. 245) which provided that the Vice President should appoint a committee of five Senators to investigate the delay of the Speaker of the House of Representatives in not referring S. J. Res. 3 to a committee of the House and to report to the Senate what action, if any, should be taken in the premises.

"Mr. George W. Norris, of Nebraska, in speaking on the resolution, criticized the Speaker and imputed to him unworthy motives in not referring the joint resolution to a committee.

"Mr. Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio, made the point of order that under section 17 of Jefferson's Manual it was not in order for a Member of the Senate to criticize the actions of the Speaker of the House or of any Member of the House.

"The Vice President (Charles Curtis, of Kansas) overruled the point of order and said:

"'The Chair is willing to rule on the question. The Senate has not adopted Jefferson's Manual as a part of the rules of the Senate. It is left to the discretion of Senators as to what they may or may not say about the proceedings of the House in connection with the resolution under consideration.'

"Mr. Fess objected to the ruling and said:

"'That is not a rule.'

"The Vice President replied:

"'The Chair makes that ruling now.'

"The Chair has no hesitation in quoting these decisions in extenso, because it is a recognized principle that one House may refer to the parliamentary decisions of the other House in deciding questions of order (sec. 9442, Cannon's Precedents).

"So far as the Chair knows, the decision of the then Presiding Officer, Mr. King, is the last decision up to the recent one by Vice President Curtis which involves the question of how far the Senate is bound by Jefferson's Manual, and while it is true that the Senate never by express rule has made Jefferson's Manual a part of the Senate rules, as the House has done, nevertheless it has been fair for the House to assume, certainly up to 1917, and, if the Chair is not greatly in error, up almost to the present moment, that in the absence of a specific rule to the contrary Jefferson's Manual did wherever applicable govern the proceedings of the Senate.

"In the note of introduction to Jefferson's Manual of Parliamentary Practice it is stated, on page 93 of the House Rules and Manual, as follows:

"'Jefferson's Manual was prepared by Thomas Jefferson for his own guidance as President of the Senate in the years of his Vice Presidency, from 1797 to 1801. In 1837 the House, by rule which still exists, provided that the provisions of the manual should "govern the House in all cases to which they are applicable and in which they are not inconsistent with the standing rules and orders of the House." In 1880 the committee which revised the rules of the House declared in their report that the manual "compiled as it was for the use of the Senate exclusively and made up almost wholly of collations of English parliamentary practice and decisions, it was never especially valuable as an authority in the House of Representatives, even in its early history, and for many years past has been rarely quoted in the House" (V, 6757). This statement, although sanctioned by high authority, is extreme, for in certain parts of the manual are to be found the foundations of some of the most important portions of the House's practice.'

"But that was back in 1880. That statement or sanction by high authorities is strengthened, for certain parts of the manual are found to be the foundation of our parliamentary practice, and the Chair thinks that is daily growing more important as time goes on.

"The parliamentary practice of the House of Representatives emanates from four sources: First, the Constitution of the United States; second, Jefferson's Manual; third, the rules adopted by the House itself from the beginning of its existence; and, fourth, the decisions of the Speakers of the House and decisions of the chairmen of the Committee of the Whole.

"Scarcely a day passes in this House when Jefferson's Manual is not a basis for some of our legislative proceedings. On all matters relating to appointment of standing committees and designation of duties of chairmen, the Committee of the Whole, risings of the Committee of the Whole for various reasons, reports from the committee, and amendments of the committee, most of the provisions relating to the decorum and debate, many matters relating to bills and committees, to amendments in the House, to amendments between the Houses, and particularly to all matters dealing with amendments and conferences between the two Houses, the provisions of Jefferson's Manual are basic.

"There is no doubt, then, that even if the House had not specifically provided that Jefferson's Manual should govern in all cases where applicable, it could be safely laid down as a general proposition that Jefferson's Manual should so govern.

"In fact, it must be conceded that Jefferson's Manual is the primary authority for all parliamentary proceedings in this country, and the Chair thinks that if Thomas Jefferson had never done anything except to write this monumental manual he would merit the thanks of his countrymen.

"The Chair will not attempt to comment upon any phase of this question except that which relates to the rules of comity between the two Houses. There are three provisions, at least, of Jefferson's Manual which are particularly relative to this question. I read:

"'SEC. 301. It is highly expedient, says Hatsel, for the due preservation of the privileges of the separate branches of the Legislature that neither should encroach on the other, or interfere in any matter depending before them, so as to preclude, or even influence, that freedom of debate which is essential to a free council. They are, therefore, not to take notice of any bills or other matters depending, or of votes that have been given, or of speeches which have been held, by the Members of either of the other branches of the Legislature, until the same have been communicated to them in the usual parliamentary manner (4 Huts., 252; 4 Inst. 15; Seld. Jud. 53.)

"'SEC. 364. It is breach of order in debate to notice what has been said on the same subject in the other House, or the particular votes or majorities on it there; because the opinion of each House should be left to its own independency, not to be influenced by the proceedings of the other; and the quoting them might beget reflections leading to a misunderstanding between the two Houses. (8 Grey, 22.)

"'SEC. 367. Where the complaint is of words disrespectfully spoken by a Member of another House it is difficult to obtain punishment, because of the rules supposed necessary to be observed (as to the immediate noting down of words) for the security of Members. Therefore it is the duty of the House, and more particularly of the Speaker, to interfere immediately and not to permit expressions to get unnoticed which may give a ground of complaint to the other House, and introduce proceedings and mutual accusations between the two Houses, which can hardly be terminated without difficulty and disorder. (3 Hats. 51.)'

"The effect of the recent decision of the Vice President is to hold that the three sections of Jefferson's Manual just quoted do not govern the proceedings of the Senate, and that Senators may use their own discretion in making any comment, insinuation, or attack upon any Member of the House or any proceeding of the House.

"The Chair makes no criticism whatever of the decision of the Vice President. He wants that clearly understood. But he thinks it is clear that under these changed conditions relating to the comity of the two Houses the House must take some action one way or the other.

"Concerning those precedents in Jefferson's Manual, Mr. Speaker Clark went so far as to say that it is not in order even to compliment Members of the Senate. From Cannon's Precedents I quote the following:

"'SEC. 9444. It is not in order to refer to a Member of the other House even for the purpose of complimenting him.

"'On June 27, 1918, Mr. Ben Johnson, speaking by unanimous consent, in discussing the bill H. R. 9248, the antiprofiteering rent bill, referred to Mr. Atlee Pomerene, a Member of the Senate from Ohio.

"'Mr. Oscar William Swift, of New York, made the point of order that it was not permissible to refer to a Senator in debate.

"'Mr. Johnson argues that the rule applied to criticism only, and was not applicable to his remarks in praise of the Senator.'

"The Speaker ruled:

"'The rule is that a Member of the House can not discuss a Senator at all, not even compliment him, because if you do compliment him somebody might jump up and say he was the grandest rascal in the country, and you would then have on your hands a debate of a very acrimonious nature.'

"There would seem to be but two alternatives for us to adopt in dealing with this situation. If the House desired to retaliate, it might, by rule, provide that these rules in Jefferson's Manual relating to comity between the two Houses should not apply to proceedings in the House. In other words, to say that Members of the House should be guided solely by their own discretion in making any comment, insinuation, or attack upon any Senator, or any proceedings of the Senate.

"The other alternative is to rigidly insist upon strict adherence to both the spirit and letter of Jefferson's Manual.

"In the opinion of the Chair, the adoption of the first alternative would be violative of the spirit in which the House for 140 years has followed the precepts of Thomas Jefferson in our manner of association and dealing with the other legislative body. After all, Jefferson's general precepts are but a restatement of the manner in which all legislative bodies, particularly the British Parliament, have dealt with each other for centuries. They are but a restatement of what is and ought to be true sportsmanship in the dealings between the legislative branches of great governments.

"The Chair is firm, and he believes that the House will remain firm in our adherence to the rules of sportsmanship and comity as laid down in Jefferson's Manual.

"A situation arose sooner than the Chair expected where he was called upon to rule upon at least one phase of this question. On April 28, one week after the decision of the Vice President, the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. LUCE] offered, as a matter of privilege, a resolution providing that a respectful message be sent to the Senate calling attention to certain remarks of a Member of the Senate in which he criticized certain proceedings in the House. The debate upon this resolution, and the ruling of the Chair, are to be found on pages 8158 and 8159 of the Record and the Chair will not quote them here.

"Having had no notice in advance that such a resolution was to be brought up, the Chair had not then been able to give such investigation to this question as he has since. Nevertheless, he ruled that the resolution was not privileged in that the House, under Jefferson's Manual, had not the right to criticize the remarks of any Senator or occurrence on the floor of the Senate. Since then the Chair has had the opportunity to make more careful investigation of the principles and precedents governing this question, in anticipation that the question might again be brought up, and has already quoted what he believes to be the general rules underlying.

"The remarks of the gentleman from New York [Mr. LAGUARDIA] raise a question which, while it differs in form from that upon which the Chair has previously ruled, pertains to the same general governing principles.

"The question raised by the gentleman from New York is whether a Member may reflect in any way on the floor of the House against the actions, speeches, or proceedings of another Member or of the body itself.

"To put it in another way, Shall the House, notwithstanding any adverse action by the other body, adhere to the provisions laid down in Jefferson's Manual, which have always governed?

"The answer of the Chair is emphatically 'Yes.' Indeed, it appears to the Chair that it has become all the more necessary, if the rules of comity between the two Houses are to be at all preserved, that Members of the House should be limited even more rigidly than ever by Jefferson's rules prohibiting reference in terms of the slightest disparagement of the remarks or actions of Members or any of the proceedings of the other body.

"If no rules of comity are to be followed in either House, then legislation may become chaos indeed.

"In conclusion the Chair will say that so long as he remains Presiding Officer of this body he will see to it that the rules of Jefferson's Manual, in so far as they apply to the friendly relations between the Members of the two Houses and the Houses themselves, shall be enforced with the utmost rigidity, not only in the letter but in the spirit.

"The Chair therefore sustains the point of order."

The House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the consideration of the bill (H. R. 7) to amend sections 4, 6, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 25, 29, and 30 of the United States warehouse act, approved August 11, 1916, as amended; and after some time spent therein,

The SPEAKER resumed the chair,

When Mr. SIMMONS, Chairman, reported that the Committee, having had under consideration said bill, had directed him to report the bill back to the House without amendment, with the recommendation that said bill do pass.

On motion of Mr. HAUGEN, the previous question was ordered on the bill to its passage or rejection.

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, was read a third time by title, and passed.

AMENDING THE FEDERAL FOOD AND DRUGS ACT

The bill (H. R. 730) to amend section 8 of the act entitled "An act for preventing the manufacture, sale, or transportation of adulterated or misbranded or poisonous or deleterious foods, drugs, medicines, and liquors, and for regulating traffic therein, and for other purposes," approved June 30, 1906, as amended, was considered and read twice.

Mr. MENGES submitted the following amendment:

Page 2, line 23, after the word "require" insert a colon and the following: Provided, That the standards of quality and condition for any canned foods which have been or which in the future may be established by or under authority of any other act of Congress shall be and are hereby adopted for the purpose of this act as the official standards of the United States for canned foods.

Mr. CHINDBLOM made a point of order that the amendment was not germane.

After debate,

The SPEAKER sustained the point of order, and said:

"The gentleman from Illinois [Mr. CHINDBLOM] has made an argument which impresses the Chair in regard to the definition of class, but the Chair does not see where the word "class" is mentioned before. * * * As the Chair understands, the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. CHINDBLOM] founds his point of order on the ground that the class is defined in this act and that the amendment of the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. MENGES] goes beyond the class as defined in the bill? * * * The Chair rather thinks that it does, and sustains the point of order."

The bill was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, was read a third time by title, and passed.

A motion by Mr. HAUGEN to reconsider the vote whereby said bill was passed was, on his motion and by unanimous consent, laid on the table.

The House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the further consideration of the bill of the Senate (S. 108) to suppress unfair and fraudulent practices in the marketing of perishable agricultural commodities in interstate and foreign commerce; and after some time spent therein,

The SPEAKER pro tempore resumed the chair,

When Mr. LEAVITT, Chairman, reported that the Committee, having had under consideration said bill, had directed him to report the bill back to the House with an amendment, with the recommendation that the amendment be agreed to and that as amended said bill do pass.

On motion of Mr. HAUGEN, the previous question was ordered on the amendment and on the bill to its passage or rejection.

(2) The term "Secretary" means the Secretary of Agriculture;

(3) The term "interstate or foreign commerce" means commerce between any State or Territory, or the District of Columbia and any place outside thereof; or between points within the same State or Territory, or the District of Columbia, but through any place outside thereof; or within the District of Columbia;

(6) For any commission merchant, dealer, or broker, for a fraudulent purpose, to remove, alter, or tamper with any card, stencil, stamp, tag, or other notice, placed upon any container or railroad car containing any perishable agricultural commodity, if such card, stencil, stamp, tag, or other notice contains a certificate under authority of any Federal or State inspector as to the grade or quality of the commodity contained in such container or railroad car or the State or country in which such commodity was produced; and

(7) For any commission merchant, dealer, or broker, to conspire, combine, agree, or arrange with any other person to manipulate or control prices of any perishable agricultural commodity in interstate or foreign commerce: Provided, That this paragraph shall not be construed in any way to abridge or alter any of the rights or privileges under any other provision of law of any cooperative association qualified under the act entitled "An act to authorize association of producers of agricultural products," approved February 18, 1922.

Licenses

Sec. 3. (a) After the expiration of six months after the approval of this act no person shall at any time carry on the business of a commission merchant, dealer, or broker without a license valid and effective at such time. Any person who violates any provision of this subdivision shall be liable to a penalty of not more than $500 for each such offense and not more than $25 for each day it continues, which shall accrue to the United States and may be recovered in a civil suit brought by the United States.

(b) Any person desiring any such license shall make application to the Secretary. The Secretary may by regulation prescribe the information to be contained in such application. Upon the filing of the application, and annually thereafter, the applicant shall pay a fee of $10.

Sec. 4. (a) Whenever an applicant has paid the prescribed fee the Secretary, except as provided in subdivision (b) of this section, shall issue to such applicant a license, which shall entitle the licensee to do business as a commission merchant and/or dealer and/or broker unless and until it is suspended or revoked by the Secretary in accordance with the provisions of this act, but said license shall automatically terminate unless the annual fee is paid within thirty days after notice has been mailed that payment is due.

(b) The Secretary shall refuse to issue a license to an applicant if after notice and hearing he finds (1) that the applicant has previously been responsible in whole or in part for any violation of the provisions of section 2 for which a license of the applicant, or the license of any partnership, association, or corporation in which the applicant held any office or, in the case of a partnership, had any share or interest, was revoked, or (2) in case the applicant is a partnership, association, or corporation, that any individual holding any office or, in the case of a partnership, having any interest or share in the applicant, had previously been responsible in whole or in part for any violation of the provisions of section 2 for which the license of such individual, or of any partnership, association, or corporation in which such person held any office, or, in the case of a partnership, had any share or interest, was revoked. Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions, the Secretary, in the case of such applicant, may issue a license if the applicant furnishes a bond or other satisfactory assurance that his business will be conducted in accordance with the provisions of this act, but such license shall not be issued before the expiration of one year from the date of such revocation.

Liability to person damaged

Sec. 5. (a) If any commission merchant, dealer, or broker violates any provision of paragraph (1), (2), (3), or (4) of section 2 he shall be liable to the person or persons injured thereby for the full amount of damages sustained in consequence of such violation.

(b) Such liability may be enforced either (1) by complaint to the Secretary as hereinafter provided, or (2) by suit in any court of competent jurisdiction; but this section shall not in any way abridge or alter the remedies now existing at common law or by statute, and the provisions of this act are in addition to such remedies.

Complaint and investigation

Sec. 6. (a) Any person complaining of any violation of any provision of section 2 by any commission merchant, dealer, or broker may, at any time within nine months after the cause of action accrues, apply to the Secretary by petition, which shall briefly state the facts, whereupon, if, in the opinion of the Secretary, the facts therein contained warrant such action, a copy of the complaint thus made shall be forwarded by the Secretary to the commission merchant, dealer, or broker, who shall be called upon to satisfy the complaint, or to answer it in writing, within a reasonable time to be prescribed by the Secretary.

(b) Any officer or agency of any State or Territory having jurisdiction over commission merchants, dealers, or brokers in such State or Territory and any employee of the United States Department of Agriculture or any interested person, may file, in accordance with rules and regulations of the Secretary, a complaint of any violation of any provision of section 2 by any commission merchant, dealer, or broker, and may request an investigation of such complaint by the Secretary.

(c) If there appears to be, in the opinion of the Secretary, any reasonable grounds for investigating any complaint made under this section, the Secretary shall investigate such complaint and may, if in his opinion the facts warrant such action, have said complaint served by registered mail or otherwise on the person concerned and afford such person an opportunity for a hearing thereon before a duly authorized examiner of the Secretary in any place in which the said person is engaged in business.

(d) After an opportunity for a hearing on a complaint the Secretary shall determine whether or not the commission merchant, dealer, or broker has violated any provision of section 2.

(e) In case complaint is made by a nonresident of the United States before any action is taken thereon, that the complainant shall be required to furnish a bond of double the amount of the claim, the bond to be conditioned upon the payment of costs, including attorney's fees of respondents, in case of failure to sustain the case.

Reparation order

SEC. 7. (a) If after a hearing on a complaint made by any person under section 6 the Secretary determines that the commission merchant, dealer, or broker has violated any provision of paragraph (1), (2), (3), or (4) of section 2, he shall, unless the offender has already made reparation to the person complaining, determine the amount of damage, if any, to which such person is entitled as a result of such violation and shall make an order directing the offender to pay to such person complaining such amount on or before the date fixed in the order.

(b) If any commission merchant, dealer, or broker does not comply with an order for the payment of money within the time limit in such order, the complainant, or any person for whose benefit such order was made, may within one year of the date of the order file in the district court of the United States for the district in which he resides or in which is located the principal place of business of the commission merchant, dealer, or broker, or in any State court having general jurisdiction of the parties, a petition setting forth briefly the causes for which he claims damages and the order of the Secretary in the premises. Such suit in the district court shall proceed in all respects like other civil suits for damages except that the findings and orders of the Secretary shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated, and the petitioner shall not be liable for costs in the district court nor for costs at any subsequent state of the proceedings unless they accrue upon his appeal. If the petitioner finally prevails, he shall be allowed a reasonable attorney's fee, to be taxed and collected as a part of the costs of the suit.

Suspension and revocation of license

SEC. 8. Whenever the Secretary determines, as provided in section 6, that any commission merchant, dealer, or broker has violated any of the provisions of section 2, he may publish the facts and circumstances of such violation and/or, by order, suspend the license of such offender for a period not to exceed ninety days, except that, if the violation is a flagrant or repeated violation of such provisions, the Secretary may, by order, revoke the license of the offender.

Accounts and records

SEC. 9. Every commission merchant, dealer, and broker shall keep such accounts, records, and memoranda as fully and correctly disclose all transactions involved in his business, including the true ownership of such business by stockholding or otherwise. If such accounts, records, and memoranda are not so kept, the Secretary may publish the facts and circumstances and/or, by order, suspend the license of the offender for a period not to exceed ninety days.

Effective date and finality of order

SEC. 10. Any order of the Secretary under this act other than an order for the payment of money shall take effect within such reasonable time, not less than ten days, as is prescribed in the order, and shall continue in force until his further order, or for a specified period of time, accordingly as it is prescribed in the order, unless such order is suspended, modified, or set aside by the Secretary or is suspended, modified, or set aside by a court of competent jurisdiction. Any such order of the Secretary, if regularly made, shall be final, unless before the date prescribed for its taking effect application is made to a court of competent jurisdiction by the commission merchant, dealer, or broker against whom such order is directed to have such order set aside or its enforcement, operation, or execution suspended or restrained.

Injunctions

SEC. 11. For the purposes of this act the provisions of all laws relating to the suspending or restraining of the enforcement, operation, or execution, or the setting aside in whole or in part, of the orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission are made applicable to orders of the Secretary under this act and to any person subject to the provisions of this act.

General provisions

SEC. 12. The Secretary may report any violation of this act for which a civil penalty is provided to the Attorney General of the United States, who shall cause appropriate proceedings to be commenced and prosecuted in the proper courts of the United States without delay. The costs and expenses of such proceedings shall be paid out of the appropriation for the expenses of the courts of the United States.

SEC. 13. (a) In the investigation of complaints under this act, the Secretary or his duly authorized agents shall have the right to inspect such accounts, records, and memoranda of any commission merchant, dealer, or broker as may be material for the determination of any such complaint. If any such commission merchant, dealer, or broker refuses to permit such inspection, the Secretary may publish the facts and circumstances and/or, by order, suspend the license of the offender until permission to make such inspection is given.

(b) The Secretary, or any officer of employee designated by him for such purpose, may hold hearings, sign and issue subpœnas, administer oaths, examine witnesses, receive evidence, and require by subpœna the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of such accounts, records, and memoranda as may be material for the determination of any complaint under this act.

(c) In case of disobedience to a subpœna, the Secretary or any of his examiners may invoke the aid of any court of the United States in requiring the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of accounts, records, and memoranda. Any district court of the United States within the jurisdiction of which any hearing is carried on may, in case of contumacy or refusal to obey a subpœna issued to any person, issue an order requiring the person to appear before the Secretary or his examiner or to produce accounts, records, and memoranda if so ordered, or to give evidence touching any matter pertinent to any complaint; and any failure to obey such order of the court shall be punished by the court as a contempt thereof.

(d) The Secretary may order testimony to be taken by deposition in any proceeding or investigation or incident to any complaint pending under this act at any stage thereof. Such depositions may be taken before any person designated by the Secretary and having power to administer oaths. Such testimony shall be reduced to writing by the person taking the deposition or under his direction and shall then be subscribed by the deponent. Any person may be compelled to appear and depose and to produce accounts, records, and memoranda in the same manner as witnesses may be compelled to appear and testify and produce accounts, records, and memoranda before the Secretary or any of his examiners.

(e) Witnesses summoned before the Secretary or any officer or employee designated by him shall be paid the same fees and mileage that are paid witnesses in the courts of United States, and witnesses whose depositions are taken and the persons taking the same shall severally be entitled to the same fees as are paid for like service in the courts of the United States.

(f) No person shall be excused from attending, testifying, answering any lawful inquiry, or deposing, or from producing any documentary evidence, before the Secretary or any officer or employee designated by him, in obedience to the subpœna of the Secretary, or any such officer or employee, in any cause or proceeding, based upon or growing out of any alleged violation of this act, or upon the taking of any deposition herein provided for, upon the ground or for the reason that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him may tend to incriminate him or subject him to a penalty or forfeiture. But no natural person shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter, or thing, concerning which he is compelled under oath so to testify, or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, before the Secretary or any officer or employee designated by him, in obedience to the subpœna of the Secretary, or any such officer or employee, or upon the taking of any such deposition, or in any such cause or proceeding: Provided, That no person so testifying shall be exempt from prosecution and punishment for perjury committed in so testifying.

SEC. 14. The Secretary is hereby authorized, independently and in cooperation with other branches of the Government, State, or municipal agencies, and/or any person, whether operating in one or more jurisdictions, to employ and/or license inspectors to inspect and certify, without regard to the filing of a complaint under this act, to any interested person the class, quality, and/or condition of any lot of any perishable agricultural commodity when offered for interstate or foreign shipment or when received at places where the Secretary shall find it practicable to provide such service, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, including the payment of such fees and expenses as will be reasonable and as nearly as may be to cover the cost for the service rendered: Provided, That fees for inspections made by a licensed inspector, less the percentage thereof which he is allowed by the terms of his contract of employment with the Secretary as compensation for his services, shall be deposited into the Treasury of the United States as miscellaneous receipts; and fees for inspections made by an inspector acting under a cooperative agreement with a State, municipality, or other person shall be disposed of in accordance with the terms of such agreement: Provided further, That expenses for travel and subsistence incurred by inspectors shall be paid by the applicant for inspection to the disbursing clerk of the United States Department of Agriculture to be credited to the appropriation for carrying out the purposes of this act: And provided further, That certificates issued by such inspectors shall be received in all courts of the United States as prima facie evidence of the truth of the statements therein contained.

SEC. 15. The Secretary may make such rules, regulations, and orders as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this act, and may cooperate with any department or agency of the Government, any State, Territory, District, or possession, or department, agency, or political subdivision thereof, or any person; and shall have the power to appoint, remove, and fix the compensation of such officers and employees not in conflict with existing law, and make such expenditures for rent outside the District of Columbia, printing, binding, telegrams, telephones, law books, books of reference, publications, furniture, stationery, office equipment, travel, and other supplies and expenses, including reporting services, as shall be necessary to the administration of this act in the District of Columbia and elsewhere, and as may be appropriated for by Congress; and there is hereby authorized to be appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, such sums as may be necessary for such purpose. This act shall not abrogate nor nullify any other statute, whether State or Federal, dealing with the same subjects as this act; but it is intended that all such statutes shall remain in full force and effect except in so far only as they are inconsistent herewith or repugnant hereto.

SEC. 16. In construing and enforcing the provisions of this act, the act, omission, or failure of any agent, officer, or other person acting for or employed by any commission merchant, dealer, or broker, within the scope of his employment or office, shall in every case be deemed the act, omission, or failure of such commission merchant, dealer, or broker as that of such agent, officer, or other person.

Separability

SEC. 17. If any provision of this act or the application thereof to any person or circumstances is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of the act and of the application of such provision to other persons and circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

Strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

That there is hereby authorized to be appropriated the sum of $9,000,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, for acquiring and developing, except as in this section otherwise provided, in accordance with the provisions of the act of June 6, 1924, entitled "An act providing for a comprehensive development of the park and playground system of the National Capital," as amended, such lands in the States of Maryland and Virginia as are necessary and desirable for the park and parkway system of the National Capital in the environs of Washington. Such funds shall be appropriated as required for the expeditious, economical, and efficient development and completion of the following projects:

(a) For the George Washington Memorial Parkway, to include the shores of the Potomac, and adjacent lands, from Mount Vernon to a point above the Great Falls on the Virginia side, except within the city of Alexandria, and from Fort Washington to a similar point above the Great Falls on the Maryland side except within the District of Columbia, and including the protection and preservation of the natural scenery of the Gorge and the Great Falls of the Potomac, the preservation of the historic Patowmack Canal, and the acquisition of that portion of the Chesapeake and Ohio Canal below Point of Rocks, $7,500,000: Provided That the acquisition of any land in the Potomac River Valley for park purposes shall not debar or limit, or abridge its use for such works as Congress may in the future authorize for the improvement and the extension of navigation, including the connecting of the upper Potomac River with the Ohio River, or for flood control or irrigation or drainage, or for the development of hydroelectric power. The title to the lands acquired hereunder shall vest in the United States, and said lands, including the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway authorized by the act approved May 23, 1928, upon its completion, shall be maintained and administered by the Director of Public Buildings and Public Parks of the National Capital, who shall exercise all the authority, power, and duties with respect to lands acquired under this section as are conferred upon him within the District of Columbia by the act approved February 26, 1925; and said director is authorized to incur such expenses as may be necessary for the proper administration and maintenance of said lands within the limits of the appropriations from time to time granted therefor from the Treasury of the United States, which appropriations are hereby authorized. The National Capital Park and Planning Commission is authorized to occupy such lands belonging to the United States as may be necessary for the development and protection of said parkway and to accept the donation to the United States of any other lands by it deemed desirable for inclusion in said parkway. As to any lands in Maryland or Virginia along or adjacent to the shores of the Potomac within the proposed limits of the parkway that would involve great expense for their acquisition and are held by said commission not to be essential to the proper carrying out of the project, the acquisition of said lands shall not be required, upon a finding of the commission to that effect. Said parkway shall include a highway from Fort Washington to the Great Falls on the Maryland side of the Potomac and a free bridge across the Potomac at or near Great Falls and necessary approaches to said bridge: Provided, That no money shall be expended by the United States for lands for any unit of this project until the National Capital Park and Planning Commission shall have received definite commitments from the State of Maryland or Virginia, or political subdivisions thereof or from other responsible sources for one-half the cost of acquiring the lands in its judgment necessary for such unit of said project deemed by said commission sufficiently complete, other than lands now belonging to the United States or donated to the United States: Provided further, That no money shall be expended by the United States for the construction of said highway on the Maryland side of the Potomac, except as part of the Federal-aid highway program: Provided, That in the discretion of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission, upon agreement duly entered into by the State of Maryland or Virginia or any political subdivision thereof to reimburse the United States as hereinafter provided, it may advance the full amount of the funds necessary for the acquisition of the lands and the construction of said roads in any such unit referred to in this paragraph, such agreement providing for reimbursement to the United States to the extent of one-half of the cost thereof without interest within not more than eight years from the date of any such expenditure. The appropriation of the amount necessary for such advance, in addition to the contribution by the United States, is hereby authorized from any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated.

(b) For the extension of Rock Creek Park into Maryland as may be agreed upon between the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, for the preservation of the flow of water in Rock Creek, for the extension of the Anacostia Park system up the valley of the Anacostia River, Indian Creek, the Northwest Branch, and Sligo Creek, and of the George Washington Memorial Parkway up the valley of Cabin John Creek, as may be agreed upon between the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, $1,500,000: Provided, That no appropriation authorized in this subsection shall be available for expenditure until a suitable agreement is entered into by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission and the Washington Suburban Sanitary Commission as to sewage disposal and storm water flow: Provided further, That no money shall be contributed by the United States for any unit of such extensions until the National Capital Park and Planning Commission shall have received definite commitments from the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission for the balance of the cost of acquiring such unit of said extensions deemed by said commission sufficiently complete, other than lands now belonging to the United States or donated to the United States: Provided further, That in the discretion of the National Capital Park and Planning Commission upon agreement duly entered into with the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission to reimburse the United States as hereinafter provided, it may advance the full amount of the funds necessary for the acquisition of the lands required for such extensions referred to in this paragraph, such advance, exclusive of said contribution of $1,500,000 by the United States, not to exceed $8,000,000, the appropriation of which amount from funds in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated is hereby authorized, such agreement providing for reimbursement to the United States of such advance, exclusive of said Federal contribution, without interest within not more than eight years from the date of any such expenditure. The title to the lands acquired hereunder shall vest in the State of Maryland. The development and administration thereof shall be under the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission and in accordance with plans approved by the National Capital Park and Planning Commission. The United States is not to share in the cost of construction of roads in the areas mentioned in this paragraph, except if and as Federal-aid highways.

Sec. 2. Whenever it becomes necessary to acquire by condemnation proceedings any lands in the States of Virginia or Maryland for the purpose of carrying out the provisions of this act, such acquisition shall be under and in accordance with the provisions of the act of August 1, 1888 (U. S. C., p. 1302, sec. 257). No payment shall be made for any such lands until the title thereto in the United States shall be satisfactory to the Attorney General of the United States.

Sec. 3. Whenever the use of the Forts Washington, Foote, and Hunt, or either of them, is no longer deemed necessary for military purposes they shall be turned over to the Director of Public Buildings and Public Parks of the National Capital, without cost, for administration and maintenance as a part of the said George Washington Memorial Parkway.

Sec. 4. There is hereby further authorized to be appropriated the sum of $16,000,000, or so much thereof as may be necessary, out of any money in the Treasury of the United States not otherwise appropriated, for the acquiring of such lands in the District of Columbia as are necessary and desirable for the suitable development of the National Capital park, parkway, and playground system, in accordance with the provisions of the said act of June 6, 1924, as amended, except as in this section otherwise provided. Such funds shall be appropriated for the fiscal year 1931 and thereafter as required for the expeditious, economical, and efficient accomplishment of the purposes of this act and shall be reimbursed to the United States from any funds in the Treasury to the credit of the District of Columbia as follows, to wit: $1,000,000 on the 30th day of June, 1931, and $1,000,000 on the 30th day of June each year thereafter until the full amount expended hereunder is reimbursed without interest. The National Capital Park and Planning Commission shall, before purchasing any lands hereunder for playground, recreation center, community center, and similar municipal purposes, request from the Commissioners of the District of Columbia a report thereon. Said commission is authorized to accept the donation to the United States of any lands deemed desirable for inclusion in said park, parkway, and playground system, and the donation of any funds for the acquisition of such lands under this act.

Sec. 5. The right of Congress to alter or amend this act is hereby reserved.

Sec. 6. Section 4 of Public Act 297 of the Seventieth Congress, entitled "An act authorizing the Great Falls Bridge Co., its successors and assigns, to construct, maintain, and operate a bridge across the Potomac River at or near Great Falls," approved April 21, 1928, as amended, is hereby amended by adding at the end of said section the following:

"Provided, That after the George Washington Memorial Parkway is established and the lands necessary for such parkway at and near Great Falls have been acquired by the United States, the United States may at any time acquire and take over all right, title, and interest in such bridge, its approaches and approach roads, and any interest in real property necessary therefor, by purchase or by condemnation, paying therefor not more than the cost of said bridge and its approaches and approach roads, as determined by the Secretary of War under section 6 of this act plus 10 per cent."

When, on motion of Mr. ELLIOTT, said Senate amendment was concurred in.

Ordered, That the Clerk notify the Senate thereof.

MUSCLE SHOALS

On motion of Mr. RANSLEY, pursuant to House Resolution 222, the House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the further consideration of the joint resolution of the Senate (S. J. Res. 49) to provide for the national defense by the creation of a corporation for the operation of the Government properties at and near Muscle Shoals, in the State of Alabama, and for other purposes; and after some time spent therein,

The SPEAKER resumed the chair,

When Mr. MAPES, Chairman, pursuant to House Resolution 222, reported the bill back to the House with the following amendment adopted by the committee:

Strike out all after the resolving clause and insert:

That the President of the United States (hereinafter referred to as the President) be, and is hereby, authorized and empowered to appoint three eminent citizens of the United States, one of whom shall be identified with agriculture, and none of whom shall have any financial interest in any public-utility corporation engaged in the business of distributing and selling power to the public nor in any corporation engaged in the manufacture, selling, or distribution of fixed nitrogen, and these three shall constitute a leasing board (hereinafter designated as the leasing board) for the purpose of negotiating the contract or contracts hereinafter authorized, and the term of office of all members of the leasing board shall expire December 1, 1931. The members of said leasing board shall upon receiving notification of their appointment take an oath faithfully to perform the duties imposed by the provisions of this act, and upon the filing of said oath with the President, commissions shall be issued to them, and thereupon the President shall set a time and place for their meeting, when the leasing board shall organize.

The leasing board is hereby directed to appoint appraisers to appraise the United States properties constituting the Muscle Shoals development, separating the same into such parts as the leasing board may direct, and the value of each and all, as determined by such appraisers, shall represent the present fair value of United States properties involved, and shall, after approval by the leasing board, be final for all the purposes of this act: Provided, That if two or more leases shall be under consideration the leasing board may direct a rearrangement of the parts and a consequent reappraisal thereof.

The leasing board shall give notice, for a reasonable time and in such manner as to them shall seem most likely to insure the widest circulation, that they are ready to entertain proposals for the leasing of the Muscle Shoals property hereinafter described, and the leasing board shall furnish to any person on demand full information as to the appraised value of said properties or any part thereof. The concurrence of at least two members of the leasing board shall be necessary for any action, except in the case of the execution of a lease or leases which shall require the concurrence of all members of the leasing board. If any member of the leasing board die, resign, or be dismissed by the President for any cause whatsoever, the President shall fill the place thus made vacant.

When the leasing board shall have negotiated a lease or leases for the Muscle Shoals properties as hereinafter authorized they shall require an adequate performance bond effective for such period of time as the board may determine and shall then execute the said lease or leases by signing their names thereto, and the lessee or lessees shall affix their signatures thereto, and thereupon the draft of such lease or leases shall be submitted to the President, who shall consider the same, and who, in not less than thirty days nor more than sixty days after he shall receive the same, may approve of the same in writing, and if the President shall so approve they shall forthwith become effective and binding upon the Government of the United States and upon the lessee or lessees. But if the President withhold his approval thereof, the leasing board shall have the right to reopen negotiations, and if another draft of such lease or leases be agreed upon and executed, then the same shall be submitted to the President, and the like proceedings be had with reference thereto.

Lease authorization—principles and limitations

Sec. 2. The said leasing board, subject to the approval of the President as herein provided, is hereby authorized and empowered to enter into a contract or contracts on behalf of the United States for the demise and letting for a tenure or tenures not in any case to exceed fifty years of all or any of the properties of the United States generally known and designated as the "Muscle Shoals development," including Dam Numbered 2 (known also as Wilson Dam), and its electrical generating units, Waco Quarry, nitrate plant numbered 2, nitrate plant numbered 1, except that portion of the reservation west of Spring Creek, steam power generating plants, and all structures, plants, buildings, machinery, tools and equipment, franchises, rights, powers, and privileges, including authority to exercise the right of eminent domain, for the construction, maintenance, use, and operation thereof, as well as all lands, tenements, easements, servitudes, rights of way, riparian rights and the appliances, fixtures, and appurtenances thereunto, belonging, trackage, transmission lines, telephone and telegraph lines, supplies, and accessories, exclusive of locks for navigation purposes, such contract or contracts to be based on the principles and limitations hereinafter set forth:

Nitrogen fertilizer bases and fertilizers

(a) The use of the United States properties adapted to the fixation of nitrogen in the manufacture of fertilizer bases or fertilizers in time of peace for sale for use in agriculture, and of explosives or the essential ingredients thereof in time of war: Provided, That any and all contracts for the demise of any such properties for the production of fertilizer bases or fertilizers shall contain a stipulation that there must be manufactured annually at least a prescribed amount of nitrogenous plan food of a kind and quality and in a form available as plant food and capable of being applied directly to the soil in connection with the growth of crops: And provided further, That any and all such contracts shall contain a stipulation requiring the lessee or lessees to produce within three years and six months from the date such lease or leases shall become effective, such fertilizer bases or fertilizers containing not less than ten thousand tons of fixed nitrogen, and shall require periodic increases in quantity of such fertilizer bases or fertilizers from time to time as the market demands may reasonably require, and such lease or leases shall provide that such increases shall within twelve years after such lease or leases become effective reach the maximum production capacity of such plant or plants as the leasing board may find to be economically adapted or susceptible of being made economically adapted to the fixation of nitrogen, if the reasonable demands of the market shall justify the same, except when the nitrogen produced is required for national defense, or when the market demands for same are satisfied by the maintenance in storage and unsold of such fertilizer bases or fertilizers containing at least two thousand five hundred tons of fixed nitrogen, but whenever said stock in storage shall fall below the quantity containing two thousand five hundred tons of fixed nitrogen, the production of such nitrogen, and the manufacture of such fertilizer bases or fertilizers shall thereupon be resumed.

(b) The sale of such fertilizer bases or fertilizers shall be at a price to include the cost of production and not exceeding 8 per centum profit on the turnover produced, and the costs shall include whatever may be paid to the Government for the use of that part of Government property employed by the lessee or lessees in manufacturing such fertilizer bases or fertilizers and also not exceeding 6 per centum on any capital invested by the lessee or lessees in improvements to existing plants or in additional plants employed for such manufacturing purposes: Provided, That there shall not be included as a part of the cost of producing such fertilizer bases or fertilizers any royalty for the use by such lessee or lessees of any patent, patent right, or patented process belonging to the lessee or lessees, or in which the lessee or lessees have any interest, or belonging to any subsidiary or allied corporation, or belonging to or controlled by any officer or agent of the lessee or of the lessees or of any such allied or subsidiary corporation, and if the lessee or lessees should buy any patent, patent right, or patented process with the hope and expectation of thereby reducing the cost of manufacturing such fertilizer bases or fertilizers and/or of processing the same for agricultural purposes as aforesaid, then such sum of money as shall be so paid by the lessee or lessees shall be considered and treated in the accounting of the costs of such fertilizer bases or fertilizers as investment in the nature of plant account, and not as current expenses, and such costs shall be written off on the expiration of any junior patent or license so acquired. For the annual determination of the cost of such fertilizer bases and fertilizers there shall be appointed by the administrative board a production engineer, and by the lessee or lessees another production engineer and by these a firm of certified public accountants, and these three shall proceed to ascertain and compute the cost of producing such fertilizer bases and fertilizers; and in the event of any disagreement the two said engineers shall select a third production engineer, who shall hear and consider the contentions and decide the issues, and such decisions shall be binding upon all parties for the year for which the determination shall have been made. A copy of such audit and decision shall be filed each year with the administrative board and by it preserved. The expenses incident to this provision shall be paid by the lessee or lessees, respectively, and shall be charged as an item in the cost of producing such fertilizer bases and fertilizers. If such annual cost determination discloses that any purchasers have paid a price for fertilizer bases or fertilizers in excess of that allowable under this act, then the lessee or lessees affected shall refund such excess to the respective purchasers.

(c) Credit shall be allowed against the cost of producing such fertilizer bases or fertilizers in the amount of any profit on account of the sale of electric energy during the period of any temporary suspension of the operation of the nitrogen fixation or fertilizer plants, and in the amount of not less than 25 per centum and not more than 50 per centum of any profit on account of the sale of electric energy made available for such sale by reason of decreased electric energy requirements for the production of each ton unit of fertilizer bases or fertilizers.

(d) Such sale of fertilizer bases or fertilizers shall regard the widest practicable distribution, consistent with demand, and preference shall be given in such sales first to farmers and cooperative organizations of farmers, second to States and Territories or State and Territorial agencies engaged in processing and mixing fertilizers for resale to farmers, and these demands being supplied, such sale may then be made to fertilizer manufacturers, mixers, or merchants.

(e) The lessee or lessees shall be required to carry on reasonably continuous laboratory research to determine whether by means of electric-furnace methods and industrial chemistry, or otherwise, there may be produced on a commercial scale fertilizer compounds of higher grade and at lower prices than farmers and other users of commercial fertilizers have in the past been able to obtain, and to determine whether in a broad way the application of electricity and industrial chemistry may accomplish for the agricultural industry of the Nation what these forces and sciences have accomplished in an economic way for other industries.

Use of electric energy by lessee

(f) The development of electrochemical, and/or ferro-alloy, and/or other industries in addition to the fertilizer industry.

(g) The use of the primary and secondary electric energy produced by the properties so leased, enlarged and constructed in the production of fertilizer bases and/or fertilizers, and/or chemicals, and/or ferro-alloys, and/or other products: Provided, That no contract shall be made by any lessee with any person, firm, or corporation for the sale of any surplus electric energy for use by the purchaser in the fixation of nitrogen or manufacture of fertilizer bases or fertilizers, when such person, firm, or corporation is a member of any group, or a party to any contract or to any agreement express or implied, or to any understanding, arrangement, or device of any kind whatsoever, which shall have as its purpose or effect the fixing and maintaining of noncompetitive prices for nitrogen and/or nitrogen products.

Allocation and sale of electric energy

(h) The equitable allocation of surplus electric energy generated at Muscle Shoals among the States within economic transmission distance.

(i) The sale and equitable allocation of primary surplus electric energy and/or secondary surplus electric energy generated by the properties herein authorized to be let, to such States, counties, municipalities, and political subdivisions as may make demand and agree to pay a reasonable price therefor, and in case of dispute as to allocation, price, or length of term of contract, the Federal Water Power Commission is hereby authorized to determine the same. But except as herein provided no part of the dam or dams now constructed or to be constructed in connection with the Muscle Shoals project or any apparatus, either hydro or steam, for the generation of electric energy shall be contracted to or operated by any private power distributing company, subsidiary or allied corporation or creation thereof, or any corporation subject to the same control, nor shall any lease be assignable, without the consent of the President, and then not to such companies, and in case of any sale in bankruptcy or insolvency proceedings of the assets of any lessee or lessees no sale shall be made to any private power distributing company, its subsidiary or allied corporation or creation thereof, or any corporation subject to the same ownership or control in whole or in part: Provided, however, That the sale of primary surplus electric energy or secondary electric energy by contract or otherwise to any such power distributing company shall be permitted for periods of not to exceed ten years: Provided, further, That at no time shall primary surplus electric energy or secondary electric energy be so sold to such distributing companies until first the demands of States, counties, municipalities, and political subdivisions, and second, demand of manufacturing industries, have been satisfied, and then only for periods of not to exceed ten years: And provided further, That at any time prior to two years before the expiration of such contracts any State, county, political subdivision, or manufacturing industries shall have prior right to contract for such electric energy when it shall become available: And provided further, That in any proceeding to determine the justness or reasonableness of any rate charged for the sale of electric energy generated by the properties covered by this act there shall not be taken into consideration or allowed as evidence or elements of property value as part of the rate base either good will, earning power, or other such intangible factor.

Cove Creek Dam and Dam Numbered 3

(j) The construction, through the medium of a holding corporation or otherwise, of a dam in and across Clinch River in the State of Tennessee upon the dam site known as Cove Creek shall be required by the terms of any lease or leases, and the construction, through the medium of such holding corporation or otherwise, of Dam Numbered 3 in and across the Tennessee River upon a site approximately fifteen miles upstream from Dam Numbered 2 may be authorized by the terms of any lease or leases, so as to produce the maximum primary power at Dam Numbered 2, and to improve navigation on the Tennessee River, and to increase the facilities of flood control, and the President shall have the authority to issue a license or licenses for the construction and operation of the said dam or dams subject in all other respects to the provisions of the Federal water power act of 1920, as amended: Provided, That if the leasing board shall find upon investigation that the cost of construction of the Cove Creek Dam, or Dam Numbered 3, and of its or their operation for the improvement of navigation and flood control on the Tennessee River, will be in excess of what will be a reasonable cost of same for power purposes, the President may then issue a license or licenses on condition to be expressed in the license or licenses that the United States will reimburse the licensee or licensees in an amount deemed by the leasing board as a necessary contribution to the cost of said project for navigation improvement and flood control by applying annually until paid against such amount the proceeds obtained from the lease or leases of the hydropower plant at Dam Numbered 2, and application of the proceeds accruing from the lease or leases of the said hydropower plant for such purposes is hereby authorized.

Forfeiture and recapture

(k) The right of temporary recapture by the United States by order of the President in the event of war for the purpose of producing explosives or ingredients thereof, but if the Government shall exercise this right it shall pay to the lessee or lessees such fair and reasonable actual damages as it or they may suffer by reason of such taking but not including profits or speculative damages, leasehold value, good will, going concern, and any other intangible factor, and the amount of such actual damages shall be fixed in proceedings instituted in the United States Court of Claims by the lessee or lessees in accordance with the rules and regulations prescribed by that court for such proceedings, and said court is authorized to consider such proceedings as though instituted by departmental reference and may render final judgment.

(l) Permanent recapture by the United States of any or all existing properties so leased, and all rights and interests connected therewith, together with any additions or improvements thereon, in the event of failure by any lessee or lessees to comply with and to carry out the terms of said lease or leases, except that neither the said Cove Creek Dam when constructed, nor Dam Numbered 3 if and when constructed, nor any or all interests therein shall be subject to recapture under the provisions of this subsection. Suit for permanent recapture may be instituted at the direction of the administrative board hereinafter authorized by the Attorney General in the name of the United States, in any district court of the United States having jurisdiction of the lessee, or of any one or two or more lessees affected by such suit.

(m) No lease shall be made to any person or firm except to American citizens nor to any corporation unless the majority stock of same be owned and controlled by American citizens, and any lease shall provide that if at any time the majority stock of the lessee or the lessee corporation shall cease to be under the ownership and control of American citizens, then all rights under such lease shall immediately cease, and the United States by order of the President shall have the right of reentry and recapture without any compensation whatever to the lessee on any account whatsoever.

Maintenance for national defense

(n) To maintain in United States nitrate plants numbered 1 and 2, located at Sheffield, Alabama, and Muscle Shoals, Alabama, respectively, the buildings and equipment therein installed for the production of nitric acid by the oxidation of ammonia and for the production of ammonium nitrate from ammonia and nitric acid, said buildings and equipment to be maintained in an up-to-date condition so that they will be at all times ready for immediate operation in the event of a national emergency, and further such lease or leases shall provide that the administrative board, or its representative or representatives, shall at all times have access to the operations of the plants, laboratories, and the records thereof, in order that they may be kept fully informed as to the status of the fixation of nitrogen and the manufacture of nitrogenous products in their bearing on national defense and agriculture, but such information shall be confidential to the administrative board and shall not be made public.

Settlement of disagreements

(o) In the event that the leasing board, with the approval of the President, shall execute lease contracts with two or more lessees, there shall be included in each of said leases identical provisions binding each such lessee to cooperate with the other lessee or lessees in setting up a joint holding corporation, the voting stock of which shall be exclusively owned by such lessees, with power and authority to decide upon and to control the allocation among themselves of the electric energy generated and all other matters in connection therewith: Provided, That such lessee or lessees, board of control, or holding corporation shall deliver free of charge to the United States at any point on the grounds to be designated by the Secretary of War such electric energy as may be necessary for the operation of locks, navigation facilities, and lighting at and in the vicinity of the several dams involved in such leases.

(p) In any or all lease contracts there shall be incorporated identical provisions for the adjustment of all kinds of disagreements, either among the several lessees or between the several lessees or any one of them and the United States, and any adjustment made thereunder shall be subject to review in any United States district court as then constituted, subject to the law then applicable to change of venue, except that the right of temporary recapture by the President in the event of war shall be summary and not subject to the provisions of this section nor to any process of any court.

Rental and amortization payments

(q) The payment annually to the United States for the term of the lease or leases of a sum which at ½ per centum per annum compounded over a period of fifty years will insure repayment to the United States of the appraised valuation of the properties leased, except that the lessee or lessees of nitrate plant numbered 1 and nitrate plant numbered 2 shall not be required to make payments to amortize the appraised valuation of said plants as long as they or either of them may be employed by the lessee or lessees for the fixation of nitrogen for agricultural purposes.

(r) A fair rental for the use of the properties leased to be paid by the lessee or lessees at such times and in such amounts as the leasing board shall determine to be fair and reasonable and in such determination consideration shall be given to such secondary hydraulic power as may be rendered primary power by the use of the auxiliary steam plant or plants, and such other secondary hydraulic power as shall be ascertained to be available: Provided, That the amount of rental and the time of payment thereof for nitrate plant numbered 1 and/or nitrate plant numbered 2 as long as either or both may be employed by the lessee or lessees for the fixation of nitrogen for agricultural purposes shall be such as to offer incentives to the operation and continued operation of said plants for the production of nitrogen for use in agriculture.

Sec. 3. If prior to December 1, 1931, the leasing board, with the approval of the President, shall have executed a contract or contracts for the letting of the properties based on the principles, directions, and limitations enumerated herein, then with respect to the dam to be constructed by the lessee or lessees or by a joint board of control or a holding corporation or otherwise, at the site on the Clinch River, known as Cove Creek, by way of amplifying and amending the provisions of the Federal water power act of 1920, as amended, under the terms of which the lessee is or the lessees are to construct the said dam, the following provisions shall apply:

(a) The cost of said dam to the licensee and to the United States shall be amortized, at least in part, by the collection of a reasonable royalty from all hydroelectric power projects now existing or to be constructed on the Tennessee or Clinch Rivers downstream from the Cove Creek Dam: Provided, That the amount of said royalty shall be in proportion to the advantages accruing to such downstream hydroelectric projects from the construction and operation of said Cove Creek Dam and shall be determined by the Federal Power Commission in cooperation with the appropriate agency of the State in which said dam may be situated, and in event of disagreement between these agencies the President shall appoint a competent engineer who shall act as arbiter and whose decision shall then be final.

(b) At the expiration of the license for the construction and operation of said dam at the Cove Creek site the State of Tennessee shall have the right to recapture the interests of the lessee or lessees and licensee or licensees in said dam and appurtenant structures, including hydroelectric generating equipment, but exclusive of any barge lift or navigation appliances, by paying the lessee or lessees or licensee or licensees therefor an amount equal to the net investment, as defined in said

Federal water power act of 1920, as amended, made by said lessee or lessees and licensee or licensees in said dam and appurtenant structures: Provided, That in the event the State of Tennessee shall exercise the right hereby conferred, the State of Tennessee and its agents shall hold and operate the same in the interest of the development of the maximum primary power at Dam Numbered 2 and of navigation, and subject to the provisions of the Federal water power act of 1920, as amended, to the same extent as if the same were held and operated by the United States or a licensee thereof.

Sec. 4. In order to enable and empower the lessee or lessees, the licensee or licensees, through a holding corporation or otherwise, to carry out the authority hereby conferred in the most economical and efficient manner, said lessee or lessees, licensee or licensees, holding corporation, or other agency is or are hereby authorized and empowered, in aid of national defense and of navigation, and in the control of the flood waters of the Tennessee and Mississippi Rivers, constituting channels of interstate commerce, to exercise the right of eminent domain in the State or States where the properties affected thereby are situated, and to condemn all lands, easements, rights of way, and other area necessary in order to obtain a site for said Cove Creek Dam and/or Dam Numberd 3, and the flowage rights for the reservoir of waters above said dam or dams, and to negotiate and conclude contracts with States, counties, municipalities, and all State and county agencies, and with railroads, railroad corporations, common carriers, and all public utilities, and any other person, firm, or corporation, for the relocation of railroad tracks, highways, highway bridges, mills, ferries, electric-light plants, and any and all other properties, enterprises, and projects, whose removal may be necessary in order to carry out the provisions of this act, and the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Tennessee shall have and exercise exclusive jurisdiction of all suits and proceedings in condemnation for the purpose of acquiring all lands, properties, and rights necessary and/or proper to carry out the provisions of this act, and the proceedings in such suits or proceedings shall conform as nearly as may be practicable to suits at law in such court.

Sec. 5. All plants, buildings, machinery, and equipment installed by and at the expense of the lessee or lessees, situated upon the property owned by the United States, except such machines and equipment as may be installed for the purpose of completing, modernizing, or replacing worn out or defective parts of the dam, electrogenerating equipment or nitrate plants, shall be subject to all of the laws of the State in which they may be situated and the State and political subdivisions in which they may be situated shall have the power to levy and collect taxes in accordance with the normal procedure for the levying and collecting of taxes on such classes of property.

Sec. 6. The leasing board shall keep an accurate record of all its proceedings and shall report from time to time either orally or in writing to the President, as he shall require, and the leasing board shall file a final report in writing which shall be transmitted by the President to the Congress. The members of the leasing board shall be entitled to the actual expenses of travel and subsistence and to a per diem compensation for their services at the rate of $50 a day while actually engaged in the performance of the duties herein imposed, to be paid upon vouchers signed by a member of the leasing board designated for that purpose.

Sec. 7. The President and/or the leasing board hereby is authorized to employ such consultants and secretarial and clerical help as he and/or they may deem necessary and desirable to assist him and/or them in the execution of the powers herein conferred, and the President is authorized to detail to the leasing board from the executive departments such personnel as he may deem advisable.

Sec. 8. In the event that the properties embraced in any lease shall be recaptured by the United States or any lessee shall apply to the President for a change in any stipulation of any lease on the ground that compliance with any such stipulation has become impracticable because of changed economic conditions and/or the development of new scientific and industrial process or processes, the President may appoint a board of three eminent citizens, one of whom shall be identified with agriculture, who, after public notice and full hearing, may negotiate and execute new leases on such properties recaptured or may change the stipulation of any existing lease, subject to the approval of the President within not less than thirty days and not more than sixty days after the draft of such lease or the recommendations of the board as to such change in the stipulations of existing leases shall have been submitted to him: Provided, That in negotiating such lease or leases or in making such change in an existing lease the board shall consider the principles herein enumerated and shall be bound by the limitations herein set forth, but shall have no authority to alter the requirements as to quantity and quality production of fertilizer bases or fertilizers.

Sec. 9. If prior to December 1, 1931, or if under the provisions of section 8 hereof, the leasing board, subject to the approval of the President, shall have negotiated and executed a lease or leases under the provisions of this act, then for the purpose of administering such lease or leases and of securing full performance by the lessee or lessees of all obligations imposed upon him or them by the terms thereof, the Secretary of War, the Secretary of Agriculture, and the Secretary of Commerce shall constitute a board, which shall be charged with such administrative duties and shall be known as the Muscle Shoals administrative board (herein referred to as the administrative board). The administrative board shall meet at least once each year, and oftener as they may determine, or upon call of the President or of any two members thereof, and shall keep records of all proceedings and shall make an annual report to the President, who shall transmit said report to the Congress.

Sec. 10. All appropriations necessary for carrying out the provisions of this act are hereby authorized.

Sec. 11. MEMBER SWORN IN

Mr. THOMAS L. BLANTON, a Member elect from the seventeenth district of the State of Texas, appeared, prepared to take the oath of office prescribed by law.

Mr. CLANCY made the point of order that Mr. BLANTON'S credentials were not regular and not in order.

After debate,

The SPEAKER said:

"The Chair is prepared to express his opinion on this matter. There is sufficient ground here for contending that this certificate is not without fault, because it has used the word 'Congressman,' which is never used, and which has never been used, so far as the Chair knows, in swearing in a Member. The Clerk informed the Chair this morning that on a number of occasions he has returned certificates to Texas, where the word 'Congressman' was used, and when the correction was made and the certificate was returned here the Member was sworn in as a Representative in Congress. So far as the Chair knows, no man has ever taken the oath as 'Congressman' but only as 'Representative in Congress.' Under the circumstances, however, the Chair would not undertake to assume the responsibility of refusing administration of the oath to any person where the certificate was no more to be criticized than this. However, the Chair thinks that is a matter for the House to determine. Section 5 of Article I of the Constitution says:

"'Each House shall be the judge of the elections, returns, and qualifications of its own Members.'

"Under the circumstances the Chair will put the question to the House."

The question being put,

Does the House desire that the Speaker shall administer the oath of office to Mr. BLANTON?

It was decided in the affirmative.

Mr. BLANTON then presented himself at the bar of the House and took the oath of office prescribed by law.

Mr. CLANCY then submitted the following resolution (H. Res. 233):

Resolved, That the paid advertisement appearing in the Abilene Daily Reporter, a newspaper of Abilene, Tex., on May 19, 1930, setting forth the following:

"SERVICE OR SENTIMENT—VOTE MAY 20 FOR YEAR'S SERVICE—THE LAST FEW WEEKS OF EVERY SESSION OF CONGRESS

"Toward the close of each session of Congress many Members leave Washington. Those who remain become careless, with minds preoccupied with approaching campaigns and thoughts of home. During this period waste and extravagance run rampant, and bad bills of every kind pass without reading. Rules are suspended. Junketing trips abroad are arranged. It is at this time more than any other there is urgently needed on the floor at all times some Member to stand guard and watch the interests of the people.

"BLANTON ON THE FLOOR AT ALL SESSIONS

"When Governor Moody called this special election, why was it that the press reported a howl from some leaders in Washington? They believed that the people would return BLANTON to Congress. They knew he would upset some of their riotous spending and their arrangements for summer junkets.

* * * * * * * *

"BLANTON NEEDED ON GUARD IN CLOSING WEEKS OF THIS CONGRESS

"If you elect BLANTON on May 20, he will be sworn in on May 22. He will take his seat immediately. He will begin functioning immediately. He knows the rules and precedents as well as any other Member. He knows how to stop and kill steals when they are attempted. And he will attend the special session contemplated by Hoover in September and the regular session from December 1, 1930, to March 4, 1931. And during this time the 500,000 people of this district will have a man of experience to attend to their business with the several hundred bureaus of Government."

vitally affects the rights of the House collectively, its dignity, and the integrity of its proceedings; and, second, the rights, reputation, and conduct of Members individually in their representative capacity.

Resolved further, That the Speaker appoint a select committee of three Members of the House, and that such committee be instructed to inquire into the above-mentioned charges, and for such purposes it shall have the power to send for persons and papers and enforce their appearance before said committee and to administer oaths and shall have the right to report at any time what action should be taken.

Mr. STAFFORD made the point of order that the resolution was not privileged.

After debate,

The SPEAKER overruled the point of order and said:

"The Chair is prepared to rule.

"The question is whether these quoted statements form the basis for a question of privilege.

"Rule 9 provides as follows:

"'Questions of privilege shall be, first, those affecting the rights of the House collectively, its safety, dignity, and the integrity of its proceedings.'

"Query. Does this statement affect the integrity of the proceedings of the House; that is, the words—

"'During this period waste and extravagance run rampant and bad bills of every kind pass without reading.'

"And in another place 'he' [Mr. BLANTON]—

"'Knows how to stop and kill steals when they are attempted?'

"The only precedent of which the Chair is aware occurred on January 3, 1917 (64th Cong., 2d sess., RECORD, p. 807), when Mr. WOOD, of Indiana, rose to a question of privilege on some newspaper statements of Thomas W. Lawson, of Boston, in which, among other things, he used this phrase:

"'The good old Capitol has been wallowing in Wall Street leaks for 40 years, wallowing hale and hearty.'

"The gentleman from Illinois, Mr. Mann, supported it on the ground that this affected privileges of the House, and the Speaker so held.

"It seems to the Chair that the statements in the advertisement reflecting on the integrity of the proceedings of the House, are at least as bad as those of Mr. Lawson. The Chair therefore holds that the resolution is privileged."

Mr. CRISP moved to refer the resolution to the Committee on Elections No. 1.

The question being put,

Will the House refer said resolution to the Committee on Elections No. 1?

It was decided in the affirmative.

FURTHER MESSAGE FROM THE SENATE

A further message from the Senate, by Mr. Craven, its principal clerk, announced that the Senate having proceeded, in pursuance of the Constitution, to reconsider the bill (S. 476) entitled "An act granting pensions and increase of pensions to certain soldiers, sailors, and nurses of the war with Spain, the Philippine insurrection, or the China relief expedition, and for other purposes," returned by the President of the United States, with his objections, to the Senate, in which it originated, it was—

Resolved, That the bill pass, two-thirds of the Senate agreeing to the same.

SPANISH WAR VETERANS—VETO MESSAGE

The SPEAKER laid before the House a message from the President of the United States, which was read, as follows:

To the Senate:

I am returning this bill (S. 476) without approval. The bill establishes a new basis for pension of Spanish War veterans. I am in favor of proper discharge of the national obligation to men who have served in war who have become disabled and are in need. But certain principles are included in this legislation which I deem are opposed to the interest both of war veterans and of the public. My major objections to this bill are these:

1. In the whole of our pension legislation over past years we have excluded from such national award persons whose disabilities arise from "vicious habits." This bill breaks down that exclusion and opens the door for claims of disability incurred at any time in the life of the pensioner arising from venereal diseases, alcoholism, drug habits, etc. Certainly, such claims for public help can not be fairly based upon sacrifice to the Nation in war and must be opposed to national policy.

2. This legislation lowers the minimum service period from 90 days to 70 days for nonservice-connection disability pension. Under other provisions of law men who served only one day and during that day suffered injury or impaired health became eligible for pensions. This law, however, provides that if a man should incur any disability at any time in his life he may claim pension with only 70 days of service. The 90-day minimum service has been maintained against the Civil War veterans all these years because less service than this was not considered to imply personal danger or risk which warranted pension. If injury or impaired health incident to service is clearly proven, other laws cover such cases.

3. It seems to me that in the interest of justice to the taxpayer and to maintain the fine body of citizens comprised in our war veterans free from the stigma of encroachment upon the Public Treasury, there should be a requirement of "need" as well as disability as a basis for these pensions. It is to me the height of injustice that citizens who are less well placed should be called upon to support from taxes those whose station in life enables them to support themselves or to live in independent security. The whole spirit of the pension system is that of a grateful nation rising to the support of those who have served in war, were injured, or who have met with legitimate difficulties in after life which impose privation upon them. While many veterans may refuse to accept such pensions when they can get along otherwise, yet the cases of selfishness are bound to cause a contant irritation of feeling against a pension system that permits these unmerited and unnecessary payments.

MARKETING OF PERISHABLE AGRICULTURAL COMMODITIES

Mr. HAUGEN called up the following conference report:

The committee of conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the House to the bill (S. 108) to suppress unfair and fraudulent practices in the marketing of perishable agricultural commodities in interstate and foreign commerce, having met, after full and free conference, have agreed to recommend and do recommend to their respective Houses as follows:

That the Senate recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the House and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the matter proposed to be inserted by the House amendment insert the following:

That when used in this act—

(1) The term "person" includes individuals, partnerships, corporations, and associations;

(2) The term "Secretary" means the Secretary of Agriculture;

(3) The term "interstate or foreign commerce" means commerce between any State or Territory, or the District of Columbia and any place outside thereof; or between points within the same State or Territory, or the District of Columbia but through any place outside thereof; or within the District of Columbia;

(4) The term "perishable agricultural commodity" means any of the following, whether or not frozen or packed in ice: Fresh fruits and fresh vegetables of every kind and character;

(5) The term "commission merchant" means any person engaged in the business of receiving in interstate or foreign commerce any perishable agricultural commodity for sale, on commission, or for or on behalf of another;

(6) The term "dealer" means any person engaged in the business of buying or selling in carloads any perishable agricultural commodity in interstate or foreign commerce, except that (A) no producer shall be considered as a "dealer" in respect of sales of any such commodity of his own raising; and (B) no person buying any such commodity solely for sale at retail shall be considered as a "dealer" in respect of any such commodity in any calendar year until his purchases of such commodity in carloads in such year are in excess of twenty. Any person not considered as a "dealer" under clauses (A) and (B) may elect to secure a license under the provisions of section 3, and in such case and while the license is in effect such person shall be considered as a "dealer." As used in this paragraph, the term "in carloads" includes corresponding wholesale or jobbing quantities as defined for any such commodity by the Secretary;

(7) The term "broker" means any person engaged in the business of negotiating sales and purchases of any perishable agricultural commodity in interstate or foreign commerce for or on behalf of the vendor or the purchaser, respectively;

(8) A transaction in respect of any perishable agricultural commodity shall be considered in interstate or foreign commerce if such commodity is part of that current of commerce usual in the trade in that commodity whereby such commodity and/or the products of such commodity are sent from one State with the expectation that they will end their transit, after purchase, in another, including, in addition to cases within the above general description, all cases where sale is either for shipment to another State, or for processing within the State and the shipment outside the State of the products resulting from such processing. Commodities normally in such current of commerce shall not be considered out of such commerce through resort being had to any means or device intended to remove transactions in respect thereto from the provisions of this act.

Unfair conduct

Sec. 2. It shall be unlawful in or in connection with any transaction in interstate or foreign commerce—

(1) For any commission merchant or broker to make any fraudulent charge in respect of any perishable agricultural commodity received in interstate or foreign commerce;

(2) For any dealer to reject or fail to deliver in accordance with the terms of the contract without reasonable cause any perishable agricultural commodity bought or sold or contracted to be bought or sold in interstate or foreign commerce by such dealer;

(3) For any commission merchant to discard, dump, or destroy without reasonable cause any perishable agricultural commodity received by such commission merchant in interstate or foreign commerce;

(4) For any commission merchant, dealer, or broker to make, for a fraudulent purpose, any false or misleading statement concerning the condition, quality, quantity, or disposition of, or the condition of the market for, any perishable agricultural commodity which is received in interstate or foreign commerce by such commission merchant, or bought or sold or contracted to be bought or sold in such commerce by such dealer; or the purchase or sale of which in such commerce is negotiated by such broker; or to fail or refuse truly and correctly to account promptly in respect of any such transaction in any such commodity to the person with whom such transaction is had;

(5) For any commission merchant, dealer, or broker, for a fraudulent purpose, to represent by word, act, or deed that any perishable agricultural commodity received in interstate or foreign commerce was produced in a State or in a country other than the State or the country in which such commodity was actually produced;

(6) For any commission merchant, dealer, or broker, for a fraudulent purpose, to remove; alter, or tamper with any card, stencil, stamp, tag, or other notice, placed upon any container or railroad car containing any perishable agricultural commodity, if such card, stencil, stamp, tag, or other notice contains a certificate under authority of any Federal or State inspector as to the grade or quality of the commodity contained in such container or railroad car or the State or country in which such commodity was produced.

Licenses

Sec. 3. (a) After the expiration of six months after the approval of this act no person shall at any time carry on the business of a commission merchant, dealer, or broker without a license valid and effective at such time. Any person who violates any provision of this subdivision shall be liable to a penalty of not more than $500 for each such offense and not more than $25 for each day it continues, which shall accrue to the United States and may be recovered in a civil suit brought by the United States.

(b) Any person desiring any such license shall make application to the Secretary. The Secretary may by regulation prescribe the information to be contained in such application. Upon the filing of the application and annually thereafter, the applicant shall pay a fee of $10.

Sec. 4. (a) Whenever an applicant has paid the prescribed fee the Secretary, except as provided in subdivision (b) of this section, shall issue to such applicant a license, which shall entitle the licensee to do business as a commission merchant and/or dealer and/or broker unless and until it is suspended or revoked by the Secretary in accordance with the provisions of this act, but said license shall automatically terminate unless the annual fee is paid within 30 days after notice has been mailed that payment is due.

(b) The Secretary shall refuse to issue a license to an applicant if after notice and hearing he finds (1) that the applicant has previously been responsible in whole or in part for any violation of the provisions of section 2 for which a license of the applicant, or the license of any partnership, association, or corporation in which the applicant held any office or, in the case of a partnership, had any share or interest, was revoked, or (2) in case the applicant is a partnership, association, or corporation, that any individual holding any office or, in the case of a partnership, having any interest or share in the applicant, had previously been responsible in whole or in part for any violation of the provisions of section 2 for which the license of such individual, or of any partnership, association, or corporation in which such person held any office, or, in the case of a partnership, had any share or interest, was revoked. Notwithstanding the foregoing provisions, the Secretary, in the case of such applicant, may issue a license if the applicant furnishes a bond or other satisfactory assurance that his business will be conducted in accordance with the provisions of this act, but such license shall not be issued before the expiration of one year from the date of such revocation.

Liability to person damaged

Sec. 5. (a) If any commission merchant, dealer, or broker violates any provision of paragraph (1), (2), (3), or (4) of section 2 he shall be liable to the person or persons injured thereby for the full amount of damages sustained in consequence of such violation.

(b) Such liability may be enforced either (1) by complaint to the Secretary as hereinafter provided, or (2) by suit in any court of competent jurisdiction; but this section shall not in any way abridge or alter the remedies now existing at common law or by statute, and the provisions of this act are in addition to such remedies.

Complaint and investigation

Sec. 6. (a) Any person complaining of any violation of any provision of section 2 by any commission merchant, dealer, or broker may, at any time within nine months after the cause of action accrues, apply to the Secretary by petition, which shall briefly state the facts, whereupon, if, in the opinion of the Secretary, the facts therein contained warrant such action, a copy of the complaint thus made shall be forwarded by the Secretary to the commission merchant, dealer, or broker, who shall be called upon to satisfy the complaint, or to answer it in writing, within a reasonable time to be prescribed by the Secretary.

(b) Any officer or agency of any State or Territory having jurisdiction over commission merchants, dealers, or brokers in such State or Territory and any employee of the United States Department of Agriculture or any interested person, may file, in accordance with rules and regulations of the Secretary, a complaint of any violation of any provision of section 2 by any commission merchant, dealer, or broker, and may request an investigation of such complaint by the Secretary.

(c) If there appears to be, in the opinion of the Secretary, any reasonable grounds for investigating any complaint made under this section, the Secretary shall investigate such complaint and may, if in his opinion the facts warrant such action, have said complaint served by registered mail or otherwise on the person concerned and afford such person an opportunity for a hearing thereon before a duly authorized examiner of the Secretary in any place in which the said person is engaged in business.

(d) After an opportunity for a hearing on a complaint the Secretary shall determine whether or not the commission merchant, dealer, or broker has violated any provision of section 2.

(e) In case complaint is made by a nonresident of the United States before any action is taken thereon, that the complainant shall be required to furnish a bond of double the amount of the claim, the bond to be conditioned upon the payment of costs, including attorney's fees of respondents, in case of failure to sustain the case.

Reparation order

Sec. 7. (a) If after a hearing on a complaint made by any person under section 6 the Secretary determines that the commission merchant, dealer, or broker has violated any provision of paragraph (1), (2), (3), or (4) of section 2, he shall, unless the offender has already made reparation to the person complaining, determine the amount of damage, if any, to which such person is entitled as a result of such violation and shall make an order directing the offender to pay to such person complaining such amount on or before the date fixed in the order.

(b) If any commission merchant, dealer, or broker does not comply with an order for the payment of money within the time limit in such order, the complainant, or any person for whose benefit such order was made, may within one year of the date of the order, file in the district court of the United States for the district in which he resides or in which is located the principal place of business of the commission merchant, dealer, or broker, or in any State court having general jurisdiction of the parties, a petition setting forth briefly the causes for which he claims damages and the order of the Secretary in the premises. Such suit in the district court shall proceed in all respects like other civil suits for damages except that the findings and orders of the Secretary shall be prima facie evidence of the facts therein stated, and the petitioner shall not be liable for costs in the district court nor for costs at any subsequent state of the proceedings unless they accrue upon his appeal. If the petitioner finally prevails, he shall be allowed a reasonable attorney's fee, to be taxed and collected as a part of the costs of the suit.

Suspension and revocation of license

Sec. 8. Whenever the Secretary determines, as provided in section 6, that any commission merchant, dealer, or broker has violated any of the provisions of section 2, he may publish the facts and circumstances of such violation and/or, by order, suspend the license of such offender for a period not to exceed 90 days, except that, if the violation is a flagrant or repeated violation of such provisions, the Secretary may, by order, revoke the license of the offender.

Accounts and records

Sec. 9. Every commission merchant, dealer, and broker shall keep such accounts, records, and memoranda as fully and correctly disclose all transactions involved in his business, including the true ownership of such business by stockholding or otherwise. If such accounts, records, and memoranda are not so kept, the Secretary may publish the facts and circumstances and/or, by order, suspend the license of the offender for a period not to exceed 90 days.

Effective date and finality of order

Sec. 10. Any order of the Secretary under this act other than an order for the payment of money shall take effect within such reasonable time, not less than 10 days, as is prescribed in the order, and shall continue in force until his further order, or for a specified period of time, accordingly as it is prescribed in the order, unless such order is suspended, modified, or set aside by the Secretary or is suspended, modified, or set aside by a court of competent jurisdiction. Any such order of the Secretary, if regularly made, shall be final, unless before the date prescribed for its taking effect application is made to a court of competent jurisdiction by the commission merchant, dealer, or broker against whom such order is directed to have such order set aside or its enforcement, operation, or execution suspended or restrained.

Injunctions

Sec. 11. For the purposes of this act the provisions of all laws relating to the suspending or restraining of the enforcement, operation, or execution, or the setting aside in whole or in part, of the orders of the Interstate Commerce Commission are made applicable to orders of the Secretary under this act and to any person subject to the provisions of this act.

General provisions

Sec. 12. The Secretary may report any violation of this act for which a civil penalty is provided to the Attorney General of the United States, who shall cause appropriate proceedings to be commenced and prosecuted in the proper courts of the United States without delay. The costs and expenses of such proceedings shall be paid out of the appropriation for the expenses of the courts of the United States.

Sec. 13. (a) In the investigation of complaints under this act, the Secretary or his duly authorized agents shall have the right to inspect such accounts, records, and memoranda of any commission merchant, dealer, or broker as may be material for the determination of any such complaint. If any such commission merchant, dealer, or broker refuses to permit such inspection, the Secretary may publish the facts and circumstances and/or, by order, suspend the license of the offender until permission to make such inspection is given.

(b) The Secretary, or any officer or employee designated by him for such purpose may hold hearings, sign and issue subpœnas, administer oaths, examine witnesses, receive evidence, and require by subpœna the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of such accounts, records, and memoranda as may be material for the determination of any complaint under this act.

(c) In case of disobedience to a subpœna, the Secretary or any of his examiners may invoke the aid of any court of the United States in requiring the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of accounts, records, and memoranda. Any district court of the United States within the jurisdiction of which any hearing is carried on may, in case of contumacy or refusal to obey a subpœna issued to any person, issue an order requiring the person to appear before the Secretary or his examiner or to produce accounts, records, and memoranda if so ordered, or to give evidence touching any matter pertinent to any complaint; and any failure to obey such order of the court shall be punished by the court as a contempt thereof.

(d) The Secretary may order testimony to be taken by deposition in any proceeding or investigation or incident to any complaint pending under this act at any stage thereof. Such depositions may be taken before any person designated by the Secretary and having power to administer oaths. Such testimony shall be reduced to writing by the person taking the deposition or under his direction and shall then be subscribed by the deponent. Any person may be compelled to appear and depose and to produce accounts, records, and memoranda in the same manner as witnesses may be compelled to appear and testify and produce accounts, records, and memoranda before the Secretary or any of his examiners.

(e) Witnesses summoned before the Secretary or any officer or employee designated by him shall be paid the same fees and mileage that are paid witnesses in the courts of the United States, and witnesses whose depositions are taken and the persons taking the same shall severally be entitled to the same fees as are paid for like service in the courts of the United States.

(f) No person shall be excused from attending, testifying, answering any lawful inquiry, or deposing, or from producing any documentary evidence, before the Secretary or any officer or employee designated by him, in obedience to the subpœna of the Secretary, or any such officer or employee, in any cause or proceeding, based upon or growing out of any alleged violation of this act, or upon the taking of any deposition herein provided for, upon the ground or for the reason that the testimony or evidence, documentary or otherwise, required of him may tend to incriminate him or subject him to a penalty or forfeiture. But no natural person shall be prosecuted or subjected to any penalty or forfeiture for or on account of any transaction, matter, or thing, concerning which he is compelled under oath so to testify, or produce evidence, documentary or otherwise, before the Secretary or any officer or employee designated by him, in obedience to the subpœna of the Secretary, or any such officer or employee, or upon the taking of any such deposition, or in any such cause or proceeding: Provided, That no person so testifying shall be exempt from prosecution and punishment for perjury committed in so testifying.

Sec. 14. The Secretary is hereby authorized, independently and in cooperation with other branches of the Government, State, or municipal agencies, and/or any person, whether operating in one or more jurisdictions, to employ and/or license inspectors to inspect and certify, without regard to the filing of a complaint under this act, to any interested person the class, quality, and/or condition of any lot of any perishable agricultural commodity when offered for interstate or foreign shipment or when received at places where the Secretary shall find it practicable to provide such service, under such rules and regulations as he may prescribe, including the payment of such fees and expenses as will be reasonable and as nearly as may be to cover the cost for the service rendered: Provided, That fees for inspections made by a licensed inspector, less the percentage thereof which he is allowed by the terms of his contract of employment with the Secretary as compensation for his services, shall be deposited into the Treasury of the United States as miscellaneous receipts; and fees for inspections made by an inspector acting under a cooperative agreement with a State, municipality, or other person shall be disposed of in accordance with the terms of such agreement: Provided further, That expenses for travel and subsistence incurred by inspectors shall be paid by the applicant for inspection to the disbursing clerk of the United States Department of Agriculture to be credited to the appropriation for carrying out the purposes of this act: And provided further, That certificates issued by such inspectors shall be received in all courts of the United States as prima facie evidence of the truth of the statements therein contained.

Sec. 15. The Secretary may make such rules, regulations, and orders as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this act, and may cooperate with any department or agency of the Government, any State, Territory, District, or possession, or department, agency, or political subdivision thereof, or any person; and shall have the power to appoint, remove, and fix the compensation of such officers and employees not in conflict with existing law, and make such expenditures for rent outside the District of Columbia, printing, binding, telegrams, telephones, law books, books of reference, publications, furniture, stationery, office equipment, travel, and other supplies and expenses, including reporting services, as shall be necessary to the administration of this act in the District of Columbia and elsewhere, and as may be appropriated for by Congress; and there is hereby authorized to be appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, such sums as may be necessary for such purpose. This act shall not abrogate nor nullify any other statute, whether State or Federal, dealing with the same subjects as this act; but it is intended that all such statutes shall remain in full force and effect except in so far only as they are inconsistent herewith or repugnant hereto.

Sec. 16. In construing and enforcing the provisions of this act the act, omission, or failure of any agent, officer, or other person acting for or employed by any commission merchant, dealer, or broker, within the scope of his employment or office, shall in every case be deemed the act, omission, or failure of such commission merchant, dealer, or broker as that of such agent, officer, or other person.

Separability

Sec. 17. If any provision of this act or the application thereof to any person or circumstances is held invalid, the validity of the remainder of the act and of the application of such provision to other persons and circumstances shall not be affected thereby.

That the Senate recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the House and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the matter proposed to be inserted by the House amendment insert the following:

That the Secretary of Agriculture is hereby authorized to establish forest tree nurseries and do all other things needful in preparation for planting on national forests on the scale possible under the appropriations authorized by this act: Provided, That nothing in this act shall be deemed to restrict the authority of the said Secretary under other authority of law.

Sec. 2. There is hereby authorized to be appropriated for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, not to exceed $250,000; for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933, not to exceed $300,000; for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1934, not to exceed $400,000; and for each fiscal year thereafter not to exceed $400,000, to enable the Secretary of Agriculture to establish and operate nurseries, to collect or to purchase tree seed or young trees, to plant trees, and to do all other things necessary for reforestation by planting or seeding national forests and for the additional protection, care, and improvement of the resulting plantations or young growth.

Sec. 3. The Secretary of Agriculture may, when in his judgment such action will be in the public interest, require any purchaser of national-forest timber to make deposits of money, in addition to the payments for the timber, to cover the cost to the United States of (1) planting (including the production or purchase of young trees), (2) sowing with tree seeds (including the collection or purchase of such seeds), or (3) cutting, destroying, or otherwise removing undesirable trees or other growth, on the national-forest land cut over by the purchaser, in order to improve the future stand of timber: Provided, That the total amount so required to be deposited by any purchaser shall not exceed, on an acreage basis, the average cost of planting (including the production or purchase of young trees) other comparable national-forest lands during the previous three years. Such deposits shall be covered into the Treasury and shall constitute a special fund, which is hereby appropriated and made available until expended, to cover the cost to the United States of such tree planting, seed sowing, and forest-improvement work as the Secretary of Agriculture may direct: Provided, That any portion of any deposit found to be in excess of the cost of doing said work shall, upon the determination that it is so in excess, be transferred to Miscellaneous Receipts, Forest Reserve Fund, as a national-forest receipt of the fiscal year in which such transfer is made: Provided further, That the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized, upon application of the Secretary of the Interior to furnish seedlings and/or young trees for replanting of burned-over areas in any national park.

VETO MESSAGE OF THE PRESIDENT

The SPEAKER laid before the House the message from the President, which was read, as follows:

To the House of Representatives:

I am returning herewith the bill H. R. 1198 without approval. I attach hereto a statement from the Attorney General stating the reasons therefor.

HERBERT HOOVER.

THE WHITE HOUSE, June 6, 1930.

OFFICE OF THE ATTORNEY GENERAL,
Washington, D. C., June 6, 1930.

MY DEAR MR. PRESIDENT: I have the honor herewith to return H. R. 1198, a bill to authorize the United States to be made a party defendant in any suit or action which may be commenced by the State of Oregon in the United States District Court for the District of Oregon, for the determination of the title to all or any of the lands constituting the beds of Malheur and Harney Lakes in Harney County, Oreg., and lands riparian thereto, and to all or any of the waters of said lakes and their tributaries, together with the right to control the use thereof, authorizing all persons claiming to have an interest in said land, water, or the use thereof, to be made parties or to intervene in said suit or action, and conferring jurisdiction on the United States courts over such cause.

I recommend that this bill be disapproved.

There appears to be a controversy between the State of Oregon and the United States as to whether these lakes are navigable. If navigable, the title to the beds was vested in the State upon its admission to the Union. If nonnavigable, the title to the beds of the lakes remained in the United States and is still the property of the United States unless it has passed to grantees of the United States. Lands adjacent to the lakes formerly constituting part of the public domain have been patented by the United States to various individuals. These patentees claim that the lakes are nonnavigable and that the title did not pass to the State upon its admission to the Union. They also contend that patents issued by the United States carry title to the beds of the lakes. There is a controversy between these patentees and the United States and between patentees and the State. The purpose of this bill seems to be to provide a tribunal by which all the parties to this 3-cornered controversy may have their rights determined in one suit.

The bill purports to confer jurisdiction on the United States district court to entertain a controversy between a State and its own citizens for the decision of questions as to riparian rights and as to rights in the waters of these lakes which are local in character and are to be determined by local law. The constitutional jurisdiction of the Federal courts does not include such a controversy, and it is doubtful, to say the least, whether such jurisdiction would be constitutionally conferred upon the district courts by this act.

The bill provides that the suit may be instituted by the State of Oregon. It also provides that once the suit is instituted persons claiming interests in the lands and who may not have been made parties defendant by the State may intervene and in effect become plaintiffs against the State, asserting claims against it. The effect of the initiation of the suit by the State would therefore be to subject it to what amounts to suits by intervening plaintiffs. The effect of the institution of the suit by the attorney general of Oregon would be to waive the sovereign immunity of the State to suits by interveners. My attention has not been called to any statute of the State of Oregon which clearly authorizes the attorney general of that State on behalf of the State to waive its sovereign immunity in this way, and the question exists whether State legislation may not be necessary to make this act effective.

There is still another objection to the bill, and that is that it turns over to the State the initiative and conduct of litigation involving water rights and public lands in which the United States is interested. I know of no reason why that should be done. It has not been the practice of the past, and if the principle of this bill is adopted it would result in legislation applicable to other cases turning over to others the initiative and conduct of suits involving controversies over riparian rights and water rights in which the United States is interested. Tribunals already exist having jurisdiction to determine these controversies. The Supreme Court of the United States has jurisdiction to entertain suit by the United States against the State of Oregon to try the title to the beds of these lakes and to determine whether they are navigable and whether the title passed to the State upon its admission to the Union. The United States district court also has jurisdiction to entertain suit by the United States against individuals holding under patents from the United States and which would determine whether any part of the beds of the streams passed to the patentees if the lakes are nonnavigable. There might be some advantage if a tribunal existed in which all of the parties might appear in one suit, but because of these questions as to the validity and effect of this bill, instead of avoiding confusion and simplifying litigation, this bill, if it becomes a law, would raise new controversies and increase the confusion. If the existing facts are such as to show a substantial controversy over these matters, the proper course, in my opinion, is for the United States to bring a suit against the State of Oregon in the Supreme Court to try the question as to navigability. Even though the individual patentees or others claiming an interest in the beds of the lakes or in the waters thereof are not parties to such a suit, the practical effect of the decision of the Supreme Court would be to settle the question of navigability.

So far as the controversy between the patentees and the United States is concerned, following the determination of such a suit in the Supreme Court or pending it, suit could be brought in the United States district court against the individuals involved. The wise course for all concerned is to disapprove this bill and leave the initiation of the litigation to the United States and let it be determined in tribunals which now have jurisdiction.

Respectfully,

WILLIAM D. MITCHELL,
Attorney General.

The PRESIDENT,
The White House.

On motion of Mr. DYER, the message, together with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on the Judiciary and ordered to be printed (H. Doc. No. 455).

"That a commission is hereby created and established, to be known as the Federal Power Commission (hereinafter referred to as the 'commission') which shall be composed of five commissioners who shall be appointed by the President, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, one of whom shall be designated by the President as chairman and shall be the principal executive officer of the commission: Provided, That after the expiration of the original term of the commissioner so designated as chairman by the President, chairman shall be elected by the commission itself, each chairman when so elected to act as such until the expiration of his term of office.

"The commissioners first appointed under this section, as amended, shall continue in office for terms of one, two, three, four, and five years, respectively, from the date this section, as amended, takes effect, the term of each to be designated by the President at the time of nomination. Their successors shall be appointed each for a term of five years from the date of the expiration of the term for which predecessor was appointed, except that any person appointed to fill a vacancy occurring prior to the expiration of the term for which his predecessor was appointed shall be appointed only for the unexpired term of such predecessor. Not more than three of the commissioners shall be appointed from the same political party. No person in the employ of or holding any official relation to any licensee or to any person, firm, association, or corporation engaged in the generation, transmission, distribution, or sale of power, or owning stock or bonds thereof, or who is in any manner pecuniarily interested therein, shall enter upon the duties of or hold the office of commissioner. Said commissioners shall not engage in any other business, vocation, or employment. No vacancy in the commission shall impair the right of the remaining commissioners to exercise all the powers of the commission. Three members of the commission shall constitute a quorum for the transaction of business, and the commission shall have an official seal of which judicial notice shall be taken. The commission shall annually elect a vice chairman to act in case of the absence or disability of the chairman or in case of a vacancy in the office of chairman.

"Each commissioner shall receive an annual salary of $10,000, together with necessary traveling and subsistence expenses, or per diem allowance in lieu thereof, within the limitations prescribed by law, while away from the seat of government upon official business.

"The principal office of the commission shall be in the District of Columbia, where its general sessions shall be held; but whenever the convenience of the public or of the parties may be promoted or delay or expense prevented thereby, the commission may hold special sessions in any part of the United States.

"Sec. 2. The commission shall have authority to appoint, prescribe the duties, and fix the salaries of, a secretary, a chief engineer, a general counsel, and a chief accountant; and may, subject to the civil service laws, appoint such other officers and employees as are necessary in the execution of its functions and fix their salaries in accordance with the classification act of 1923, as amended. The commission may request the President to detail an officer or officers from the Corps of Engineers, or other branches of the United States Army, to serve the commission as engineer officer or officers, or in any other capacity, in field work outside the seat of government, their duties to be prescribed by the commission; and such detail is hereby authorized. The President may also, at the request of the commission, detail, assign, or transfer to the commission engineers in or under the Departments of the Interior or Agriculture for field work outside the seat of government under the direction of the commission.

"The commission may make such expenditures (including expenditures for rent and personal services at the seat of government and elsewhere, for law books, periodicals, and books of reference, and for printing and binding) as are necessary to execute its functions. Expenditures by the commission shall be allowed and paid upon the presentation of itemized vouchers therefor, approved by the chairman of the commission or by such other member or officer as may be authorized by the commission for that purpose."

Sec. 3. Notwithstanding the provisions of section 1 of this act the Federal Power Commission as constituted upon the date of the approval of this act shall continue to function until the date of the reorganization of the commission pursuant to the provisions of such section. The commission shall be deemed to be reorganized upon such date as three of the commissioners appointed as provided in such section 1 have taken office, and no such commissioner shall be paid salary for any period prior to such date.

Sec. 4. This act shall be held to reorganize and continue the Federal Power Commission created by the Federal water power act, and not to create a new commission, and no investigation or other proceeding under the Federal water power act pending at the time of the approval of this act shall abate or be otherwise affected by reason of the provisions of this act.

Resolved, That upon the adoption of this resolution it shall be in order to move that the House resolve itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the consideration of H. R. 12549, a bill to amend and consolidate the acts respecting copyright and to permit the United States to enter the International Copyright Union. That after general debate, which shall be confined to the bill and shall continue not to exceed two hours, to be equally divided and controlled by the chairman and ranking minority member of the Committee on Patents, the bill shall be read for amendment under the 5-minute rule. At the conclusion of the reading of the bill for amendment the committee shall rise and report the bill to the House with such amendments as may have been adopted, and the previous question shall be considered as ordered on the bill and the amendments thereto to final passage without intervening motion except one motion to recommit.

When said resolution was considered.

After debate,

On motion of Mr. PURNELL, the previous question was ordered on the resolution to its adoption or rejection, and under the operation thereof the resolution was agreed to.

Whereupon,

Mr. VESTAL moved that the House resolve itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the consideration of the bill (H. R. 12549) to amend and consolidate the acts respecting copyright and to permit the United States to enter the International Copyright Union.

Mr. BUSBY made the point of order that the bill was not properly reported according to clause 2a of Rule XIII.

After debate,

Mr. TILSON, Speaker pro tempore, sustained the point of order and said:

"The Chair is ready to rule.

"Paragraph 2a of Rule XIII reads:

"'Whenever a committee reports a bill or a joint resolution repealing or amending any statute or part thereof, it shall include in its report or in accompanying document—

"'(1) The text of the statute or part thereof which is proposed to be repealed; and

"'(2) A comparative print of that part of the bill or joint resolution making the amendment and of the statute or part thereof proposed to be amended, showing by stricken-through type and italics, parallel columns, or other appropriate typographical devices the omissions and insertions proposed to be made.'

"Section 84 of the bill provides:

"'The provisions of this act apply to existing copyrights save as expressly indicated by this act. All other acts or parts of acts relating to copyrights are hereby repealed, as well as all other laws or parts of laws in conflict with the provisions of this act.'

"The gentleman from Indiana argues well that it would be a task of considerable magnitude to do what is proposed here, and yet that seems to be the purpose of the rule that the Member making the report of the committee shall do the work of investigation and submit to the House the information as to what statutes are to be repealed.

"On March 17, 1930, a point of order was made against a bill in very much the same situation as this bill, that it did not conform to section 2a of Rule XIII. In that case the Speaker pro tempore, who happened to be the gentleman from New York [Mr. SNELL], chairman of the Rules Committee, that reports this rule, sustained the point of order. It seems to the Chair clear that the ruling then made was correct and that no other ruling can be made here than to sustain the point of order and send the bill back to the committee for a report in accordance with the rule. The Chair therefore sustains the point of order."

So, the bill was recommitted to the Committee on Patents and ordered to be printed.

NURSES' RETIREMENT BILL

Ordered, That the Clerk notify the Senate thereof.
