S. 51. An act to authorize the building up of the United States Navy to the strength permitted by the Washington and London naval treaties; to the Committee on Naval Affairs.

PRESIDENTIAL VETO

The SPEAKER laid before the House the message from the President, which was read, as follows:

To the House of Representatives:

I am returning without approval H. R. 4724, entitled "An act to confer to certain persons who served in the Quartermaster Corps or under the jurisdiction of the Quartermaster General during the war with Spain, the Philippine insurrection, or the China relief expedition the benefits of hospitalization and the privileges of the soldiers' homes."

This bill is identical with H. R. 6997, Seventy-first Congress, third session, from which I withheld approval for the reasons set forth in my message to the House of Representatives, of February 23, 1931, printed as House Document No. 778. Nothing has transpired since that date which would justify me in now approving this bill.

I can not concur in a proposal to single out one class of civilian employees who served during certain periods of hostilities and confer upon them a right to the benefit of hospitalization and domiciliary care provided by law for veterans of our wars. Such proposal would be establishing a precedent which, in all justice, would call for similar legislation in behalf of other civilians. It would ultimately involve the Government in hundreds of millions of expenditures by the usual accretions of wider spread inclusions of new and borderland groups. I am not unmindful of the value of the service rendered by these civilian components, but I do not feel that they should be made beneficiaries of the laws which have been enacted to care for our veterans—those who served under enlistments, enrollments, or commissions in the Army and Navy. Our first obligation is to these veterans and we should certainly not now reduce the availability of the hospital and home facilities which have been provided for them by throwing such facilities open to civilians.

HERBERT HOOVER.

THE WHITE HOUSE, May 9, 1932.

On motion of Mr. GASQUE, by unanimous consent, the bill and the message were referred to the Committee on Pensions and ordered to be printed.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE

By unanimous consent, leave of absence was granted—
To Mr. BULWINKLE, indefinitely.

VETO OF H. R. 6662, AMENDING THE TARIFF ACT, 1930

The SPEAKER laid before the House the message from the President, which was read, as follows:

To the House of Representatives:

I am returning without my approval H. R. 6662, entitled "An act to amend the tariff act of 1930, and for other purposes."

My first objection to the bill is the misimpression and uncertainty it may convey as to its purpose. If the purpose of the proponents of this act is to secure lower tariffs on the 35 per cent of our imports which are not on the free list, it would seem that the direct and simple method of so doing would be to recognize that tariffs are duties applied to particular commodities, and to propose definite reduction of the duties on such particular commodities as are believed to be at fault and upon which the full facts can be developed. Alternatively, the Congress is able to direct the Tariff Commission under the "flexible" provisions of the act of 1930 to act upon such schedules as are believed to be too high.

As a matter of fact, there never has been a time in the history of the United States when tariff protection was more essential to the welfare of the American people than at present. Prices have declined throughout the world but to a far greater extent in other countries than in the United States. Manufacturers in foreign countries which have abandoned the gold standard are producing goods and paying for raw materials in depreciated currency. They may ship their goods into the United States with great detriment to the American producer and laborer because of the difference in the value of the money they pay for their raw materials and the money they receive for their finished products. Under such conditions it is imperative that the American protective policy be maintained. If the intent or the effect of the proposed bill is to remove the possibility of Executive action or to reduce tariff protection, there never was a time more inappropriate on account of widespread domestic unemployment and the possibilities which lie before us.

The second objection to the bill is that it practically destroys the "flexible" tariff through the removal of Executive authority to render conclusions of the Tariff Commission effective. This bill would again reduce the Tariff Commission to a purely advisory body to the Congress, and thus defeat a reform so earnestly sought ever since its first advocacy by President Roosevelt and finally fully realized in the tariff act of 1930. By the act of 1930 the principle of a "flexible" tariff based upon determination by a bipartisan commission, subject to approval of the Executive, was firmly and effectively established. Beyond the ability to change the duties by 50 per cent, there lies within the provisions the development of the definite principle of preference of the home market for American industry, workmen, and agriculture, based upon the difference of cost of production at home and abroad plus transportation to the principal markets. This open process, upon the application of any responsible party, is an assurance against either excessive duties or nonprotective tariffs upon dutiable goods.

The broad purpose of the present form of Executive action upon the "flexible" provision is promptly to remedy inequities and injustices in the tariff as they may be discovered; to prevent any tariff system being frozen upon the Nation despite economic shifts, and by providing this flexibility to meet changing economic conditions greatly to lessen the necessity for periodic general revision of the tariff, with its disturbance to economic life and its orgy of politics and logrolling. The "flexible" provision has since the act of 1930 proved its high usefulness in these particulars. The commission has completed or has in progress investigations covering 291 different articles. Of those which come under the "flexible" provisions, the recommendations were for no change in about 54 per cent of the cases, increases in 16 per cent, and decreases in 30 per cent, which were placed in effect within a few days. This effective "flexible" tariff as a protection to sound progress and for the future protection of our farmers, workmen, industries, and consumers should be maintained in our American system. The proposal in the bill under consideration will effectively destroy it and is a step backward.

Under the present law the Congress has the benefit of the advisory functions of the Tariff Commission, upon which it can act at any time. If this bill is to have any practical result by reserving to the Congress incidental or occasional readjustment of the tariff, it simply opens the way for logrolling every time Congress is called upon to consider a report of the Tariff Commission recommending any specific change in rates or schedules. In an effort to avoid this obvious objection the act attempts to limit Congress, in legislating upon the recommendations of the commission, to the specific items included in the report. But no Congress can bind another Congress in any such manner, relating as it does to a question of legislative procedure.

My third objection to the bill lies in the conditions stipulated for action in an international conference which it is proposed should be called to deal with trade questions. I wish to say at once that I am in fullest accord with the proposal for an international action or conference to "eliminate discriminatory and unfair trade practices," "preventing economic wars," and "promoting fair, equal, and friendly trade and commercial relations among nations." The American Government has participated in several international economic conferences for these identic purposes since the Great War. They have resulted in very little accomplishment.

But the objectives proposed in this bill for such a conference are not limited to the constructive purposes above mentioned. Some of the proposals in the bill for such a conference raise questions of futility or alternatively of abandonment of essential American policies. The first legislative act of Washington's administration was a tariff bill. From that day to this one of our firm national policies has been that tariffs are solely a domestic question in protection of our own people. It is now proposed that an international conference should be called with a view to "lowering excessive tariffs." The very implication of calling other nations into conference with view to changing our tariff duties is to subject our tariffs to international agreement.

For myself, I hold that any inequalities or excessive duties in the American tariff can be corrected through the flexible provisions of the present tariff law. If other nations should adopt this principle and such an instrumentality, it would automatically remove excessive duties and unequal treatment throughout the world without interference with domestic control of tariff policies.

If the meaning of the Congress is that such a conference should discover and negotiate the elimination of particular excessive duties throughout the world, then I do not need to elaborate upon the direction in which such action leads; for it means simply attempting the futility of negotiating a world tariff amongst 60 or 70 nations subject to confirmation of their legislative bodies. If, on the other hand, what the Congress means is to undertake a general lowering of American tariffs in exchange for lowering of tariffs elsewhere in the world, and if the Congress proposes to make such a radical change in our historic policies by international negotiation affecting the whole of American tariffs, then it is the duty of the Congress to state so frankly and indicate the extent to which it is prepared to go.

I am fully alive to the effect on our own and world commerce of the many arbitrary restrictions now in existence. The Departments of State and Commerce are actively engaged in protecting our export trade from unfair discriminations and infractions. If at any time circumstances are such as to permit the hope that such barriers to international trade and commerce may be removed through the medium of an international conference without sacrificing American interests or departing from the historic policies followed by our country, I shall not hesitate to take the lead in calling such a conference.

If this measure is intended to do more than this, then the new policy should be clearly indicated for clarity to the American people and for the guidance and judgment of the Executive. An established national policy should not be changed by implication.

My fourth objection to the bill lies in the further request that I should "negotiate with foreign governments reciprocal trade agreements under a policy of mutual tariff concessions." This proposal is in direct conflict with the other proposals "to eliminate discriminatory tariffs; prevent economic wars; and promote fair, equal, and friendly trade," all of which latter are desirable.

A firmly established principle of the American tariff policy is the uniform and equal treatment of all nations without preferences, concessions, or discriminations (with the sole exception of certain concessions to Cuba). No reform is required in the United States in this matter, but we should have at once abandoned this principle when we enter upon reciprocal concessions with any other nation. That is at once unequal treatment to all other governments not parties thereto. That is the very breeding ground for trade wars. This type of preferential tariff agreement which exists abroad to-day is one of the primary causes of trade wars between other countries at the present moment.

It has been the policy of our Government for many years to advance "most-favored-nation" treaties with view to extinguishing these very processes, preferences, and trade frictions and to secure equal treatment to us by the other nations in all their tariff and economic arrangements. We have such treaties or executive agreements with 31 nations. If we adopted this complete reversal of policies and now negotiated reciprocal tariff agreements we should either under our "most-favored-nation" obligations need extend these rights to all nations having such treaties with us, or to denounce such treaties.

The struggle for special privileges by reciprocal agreements abroad has produced not only trade wars but has become the basis of political concessions and alliances which lead to international entanglements of the first order. These very processes are adding instability to the world to-day, and I am unwilling to enter upon any course which would result in the United States being involved in such complexities and such entanglements.

Of high importance to us, also in consideration of these matters, is that the principal interest of a majority of the 60 or 70 other nations which might be approached for mutual tariff concessions would be to reduce the American agricultural tariffs. No concessions otherwise than those related to agricultural products would be of any importance to those particular nations. The effect of such a shift in the basis of our agricultural tariffs would be to make us large importers of food products, to demoralize our agricultural industry, and render us more and more dependent upon foreign countries for food supply; to drive our farmers into the towns and factories, and thus demoralize our whole national economic and social stability.

Moreover, the futility of the Executive negotiating such treaties as reciprocal tariffs has been often demonstrated in our past. Before we definitely adopted the policy of equal treatment to all nations the Congress had from time to time authorized such treaties. Out of some 22 such treaties providing for reciprocal tariff concessions, the Congress either refused to confirm or failed to act in 16, and 2 of the remaining 6 failed of confirmation by other governments. On another occasion the Congress conferred upon the Executive a limited authority to conclude reciprocal or preferential tariffs without confirmation. Twenty-two such agreements were entered upon, all of which were repealed in subsequent tariff acts. The experience would not seem to be encouraging for this type of action.

There are other objections which might well be taken to this bill. It is enough, however, that this bill would destroy the effectiveness of the flexible tariff which, for the first time, gives protection against excessive or inadequate tariffs, prevents a system of frozen tariffs upon the country irrespective of economic change, and gives relief from logrolling and politics in tariff making. It would surrender our own control of an important part of our domestic affairs to the influence of other nations or, alternatively, would lead us into futilities in international negotiations. It would start our country upon the road of a system of preferential tariffs between nations with all the trade wars, international entanglements, etc., which our country has sought to avoid by extending equal treatment to all of them.

HERBERT HOOVER.

THE WHITE HOUSE,

R. 11897) making appropriations for the military and nonmilitary activities of the War Department for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933, and for other purposes.

Pending which,

On motion of Mr. COLLINS, by unanimous consent.

Ordered, That two and one-half hours of general debate be had on the first paragraph of said bill, under "Finance Department," from line 18, on page 8, to and including line 20, on page 12, and all amendments thereto, the debate to be confined to the bill and the time to be divided and controlled equally by Mr. BARBOUR and Mr. COLLINS.

The motion that the House resolve itself into the Committee was then agreed to.

Accordingly,

The House resolved itself into the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union for the further consideration of said bill; and after some time spent therein,

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. BANKHEAD) took the chair,

When Mr. LANHAM, Chairman, reported that during the consideration of the bill in the Committee, certain words, used in debate, were objected to and upon request were taken down and read at the Clerk's desk.

The Clerk read the words taken down.

Thereupon the Speaker pro tempore (Mr. BANKHEAD) said:

"The present occupant of the chair, of course, regrets personally that he is called upon to make a decision affecting this matter, because the Chair can readily understand how the words in question may have been construed to disparage the gentleman from Georgia, but it is only the duty of the Chair, under the circumstances, to undertake to construe, from a parliamentary standpoint, whether or not the words used are offensive in their nature or tend to bring the gentleman from Georgia into contempt or disrepute before the House.

"However much the Chair would like to have an expression of the House on this language that has been taken down, the Chair is compelled to come to the conclusion that the language in itself does not offend the rules."

On motion of Mr. MCSWAIN, by unanimous consent, the words were stricken from the RECORD.

The Committee resumed its session; and after some further time spent therein,

The SPEAKER resumed the chair,

When Mr. LANHAM, Chairman, reported that the Committee, having had under consideration said bill, had come to no resolution thereon.

So, the fourth amendment was agreed to.

The bill, as amended, was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, and was read a third time by title.

Mr. BARBOUR moved to recommit the bill to the Committee on Appropriations, with instructions to that committee to report the bill back to the House forthwith with the following amendments:

Page 8, line 19, strike out "$27,209,927" and insert $31,833,427; line 23, strike out "$8,356,200" and insert $8,545,011.

Page 9, line 4, strike out "$1,914,948" and insert $9,447,323; line 14, strike out "$4,648,006" and insert $6,281,824; line 15, strike out "$5,122,479" and insert $5,928,389; line 22, strike out "$133,257,790" and insert $137,042,204.

Page 10, line 1, strike out "$132,457,790" and insert $136,242,204; line 15, commencing with the colon, strike out the remainder of the paragraph.

Mr. COLLINS made the point of order that the instructions in the motion to recommit proposed to eliminate an amendment just agreed to by the House.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CRISP) overruled the point of order, and said:

"The Chair is advised that in the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union a perfecting amendment was adopted to the paragraph known as the McSwain amendment. The bill was reported from the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union to the House, the House has agreed to the amendments, and has ordered the bill engrossed and read a third time.

"The question is whether a motion to recommit, as offered by the gentleman from California, is in order which seeks to change something that the House has agreed to.

"The motion to recommit was placed in the rule to give a substantial privilege to the minority of the House—I do not mean any political minority but a minority of the House—so as to give them a chance to go on record as to legislation.

"In the Committee of the Whole House on the state of the Union there is no roll-call vote, so that the only opportunity that a minority may have to go on record is by means of a motion to recommit in the House. If the motion to recommit of the gentleman from California sought simply to eliminate from the bill the McSwain amendment, it would not be in order, because the question of estoppel would apply. When the House has acted on a matter it must be res adjudicata. However, as the Chair understands the proposition, the McSwain amendment was adopted as a perfecting amendment to the paragraph. The motion to recommit of the gentleman from California proposes to strike out a substantial portion of the paragraph comprehending the McSwain amendment. Under the general rules of the House, where a motion is made to strike out a paragraph, a perfecting amendment changing the paragraph is preferential and the vote is first taken on the perfecting amendment. If the perfecting amendment is adopted, then it is in order to move to strike out the entire paragraph, notwithstanding the House or the committee has adopted a perfecting amendment to the paragraph.

"The Chair thinks that the same rule applies to a motion to recommit where it is proposed in such a motion to strike out a paragraph or a portion of a paragraph which may have been perfected by amendments.

"The Chair is therefore constrained to rule that the point of order is not good, and overrules the point of order."

Mr. BLANTON offered the following substitute for the motion to recommit:

To recommit the bill to the Committee on Appropriations, with instructions to that committee to report the bill back to the House forthwith with the following amendments:

Page 16, line 4, before the period, insert:

Provided, That no appropriation contained in this act shall be available for or on account of any expense incident to the permanent change of station of any commissioned officer of the Army except (1) officers appointed to and relieved from positions that are filled by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, (2) officers detailed to and from Army schools as students, (3) military attachés, (4) officers ordered to and from duty in the Canal Zone and in the Philippines, and (5) officers ordered to replace officers who die or may be separated from the active list.

Mr. CHINDBLOM made the point of order that the substitute was not germane to the motion to recommit and that it proposed legislation on an appropriation bill.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. CRISP) overruled the point of order, and said:

"The Chair does not feel compelled to pass on the question of whether the substitute of the gentleman from Texas is germane to the original motion to recommit of the gentleman from California or not. The gentleman from California made a motion to recommit dealing with certain features of the bill. The previous question was not ordered. The gentleman from Texas has offered a substitute with instructions as to other features of the bill, and the Chair thinks it is clearly within the province of the House to pass on which one of the motions to recommit they desire to pass upon and will, of course, have a chance to pass on both of them. If the Blanton amendment as a substitute is adopted for the Barbour motion to recommit, that would eliminate the instructions in the motion of the gentleman from California [Mr. BARBOUR], and the question would come as to whether the House desired to adopt the instruction of the gentleman from Texas [Mr. BLANTON].

"The Chair overrules the point of order."

On motion of Mr. BLANTON, the previous question was ordered on the substitute and on the motion to recommit.

The question being put,

Will the House agree to the substitute for the motion to recommit?

On a division there appeared—yeas 98, nays 200.

Mr. BLANTON demanded that the vote be taken by the yeas and nays, which demand was not supported by one-fifth of the Members present, so the yeas and nays were refused.

So, the substitute was not agreed to.

The question being put,

Will the House agree to the motion to recommit with instructions?

It was decided in the negative, {Yeas---------- 182 / Nays---------- 201

The yeas and nays being demanded and ordered by one-fifth of the Members present.

TAX ON BEER—MOTION TO DISCHARGE COMMITTEE

Pursuant to clause 4, Rule XXVII, Mr. O'Connor called up the motion to discharge the Committee on Ways and Means from the further consideration of the bill (H. R. 10017) to provide additional revenue, and for other purposes.

Mr. BLANTON made the point of order that the motion to discharge was not in order for the reason that a motion to discharge a committee from consideration of substantially similar legislation had previously been acted upon by the House.

The SPEAKER overruled the point of order and said:

"This identical question was brought up in the Democratic caucus at the time it passed on the amendments to the rules prepared by the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. Crisp]. This same question was asked the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. Crisp], and this particular case was used as an illustration in the Democratic caucus. When the House was considering the adoption of this particular rule the gentleman from Georgia again illustrated the situation by this identical case, and, according to the Chair's recollection, the gentleman said that in case a motion to discharge a committee from considering a bill authorizing 2 per cent beer was voted down there could not be another motion for the purpose of voting on the question of 4 per cent beer, or even 1 per cent beer; but it was distinctly discussed and understood at the time that the question to amend the Constitution was one question and that the question of legalizing beer was another. The House has passed on the question of a constitutional amendment, but has not passed on the question of whether or not the House would provide a different definition of legalized beer. The Chair overrules the point of order."

After debate,

The question being put,

Will the House discharge said committee from the further consideration of said bill?

It was decided in the negative, { Yeas---169 / Nays---228 / Answering present---1 }

The yeas and nays being demanded and ordered by one-fifth of the Members present.

The SPEAKER resumed the chair,

When Mr. WOODRUM, Chairman, reported that the Committee, having had under consideration said bill, pursuant to House Resolution 221 reported the bill back to the House with sundry amendments.

The previous question under the resolution was ordered on the amendments and on the bill to its passage or rejection.

A copy of such certification and attached statement shall be furnished at the same time to any such officer or director. Not less than thirty days after such certification such board shall hold a hearing of which such officer or director shall have reasonable notice, and at which he shall have the right to be heard and be represented by counsel. If the Comptroller of the Currency shall prove his finding, the board shall by order notify the bank of which such officer or director is an officer or director that it has sustained the finding of the Comptroller of the Currency and that such bank is required to immediately remove such officer or director or to furnish the board with such assurances as the board may require that such officer or director will desist from the conduct, acts, or omissions which the board has found is detrimental to the safe operation of such bank. Sec. 208. Any bank which is not a member of the Federal reserve system may contribute to the fund and upon insolvency of such bank, the provisions of section 206 shall apply with respect to payments of the depositors of such banks. The board shall not permit any such bank to contribute to such fund except that such bank presents a certificate from the duly constituted State examining authorities that such bank is in a sound financial condition. As a condition to the privilege of any such bank contributing to the fund, the board may demand that any such bank shall semiannually or annually submit to the board a certificate of the duly constituted State examining authorities that such bank is in a sound financial condition.

Each such bank shall pay into the fund an initial contribution the amount paid under section 202 by a member bank of the same deposits and such annual contributions as thereafter be required and in the same amount as the contributions which are to be made under section 202 by a member bank. AMMONIUM SULPHATE

The SPEAKER laid before the House the following communication, which was referred to the Committee on Ways and Means and ordered to be printed:

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
Washington, May 26, 1932.

DEAR MR. SPEAKER: I am in receipt of House Resolution 213, dated May 14, 1932, requesting that if not incompatible with the public interest I submit to the House of Representatives, as soon as practicable, all the testimony, evidence, exhibits, documents, and records presented in or pertaining to the investigation conducted under the authority of the antidumping act, 1921, relating to the importation of ammonium sulphate.

In passing the antidumping act the Congress decided to provide that the initial decisions as to the existence of dumping should be made by the Secretary of the Treasury in accordance with administrative procedure. It has been the practice of the department in acting under this statute to treat all information furnished by interested persons as confidential and not to disclose it unless such persons consent to the disclosure. This practice is founded upon the necessity for the department to obtain complete information concerning manufacturers' and importers' business transactions which it would be practically impossible to obtain if those furnishing the information did not understand it would be treated as confidential and not divulged without their consent.

As consent has not been given to the disclosure of the information contained in the record before the Treasury Department, I am of the opinion that it would be incompatible with the public interest to comply with the request contained in the resolution.

Very truly yours,

OGDEN L. MILLS,
Secretary of the Treasury.

Sec. 2. That in the administration of the act of May 24, 1928, entitled "An act making eligible for retirement, under certain conditions, officers and former officers of the Army, Navy, and Marine Corps of the United States, other than officers of the Regular Army, Navy, or Marine Corps, who incurred physical disability in line of duty while in the service of the United States during the World War," no person shall receive retired pay thereunder unless he served as a member of the Military or Naval Establishment between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918, inclusive, and it be affirmatively shown that during such period he actually contracted a disease originating in the line of duty or suffered an injury in the line of duty as the result of and directly attributable to the performance of active military or naval service, or unless he served a period of ninety days or more between April 6, 1917, and November 11, 1918, and it be affirmatively shown that between November 12, 1918, and July 2, 1921, inclusive, he actually contracted a disease originating in the line of duty or suffered an injury in the line of duty as the result of and directly attributable to the performance of active military or naval service, and unless he is found by the Veterans' Administration to be not less than 30 per cent permanently disabled as a result of such disease or injury at the time of the enactment of this amendatory act under the rating schedule and amendments promulgated pursuant to subdivision (4) of section 202 of the World War veterans' act, 1924, as amended (U. S. C., title 38, sec. 477), in force at the time of the enactment of this amendatory act.

Sec. 3. The Veterans' Administration is hereby authorized and directed, from time to time and at intervals not exceeding five years, to review the case of every emergency officer in receipt of retired pay and, whenever deemed advisable, to reexamine such officer. In the event it is found that such officer is no longer 30 per centum permanently disabled under the provisions of the rating schedule and amendments promulgated pursuant to subdivision (4) of section 202 of the World War veterans' act, 1924, as amended, in effect at date of review, payment of retired pay shall be discontinued as of the first day of the third calendar month following the month during which such determination is made and thereafter such officer shall only receive such compensation as may be payable under the provisions of the World War veterans' act, 1924, as amended.

Sec. 4. (a) The Veterans' Administration is hereby authorized and directed to review all claims heretofore allowed with pay under the emergency officers' retirement act of May 24, 1928, and to remove from the rolls of emergency officers retired with pay the names of such officers as are not found to be entitled to such retirement under the provisions of this amendatory act. Payment of emergency officers' retirement pay in the case of any officer whose name is removed from the rolls by reason of the provisions of this section shall cease on the first day of the third calendar month following the month during which such removal is made. The Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, and the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs are also authorized and directed to transfer the name of each officer removed from the rolls of those entitled to emergency officers' retirement pay to the lists of emergency officers retired wtihout pay, and, if such officer is found entitled thereto, to pay, commencing with the first day of the third calendar month following the month during which the name of the officer is removed from the rolls as herein provided, compensation in accordance with the provisions of the World War veterans' act, 1924, as amended, notwithstanding that no previous application for compensation has been made.

(b) The review of claims under the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section shall be final, except that the claimant shall be given a period of sixty days following notice of disallowance under this mandatory act in which to appear and submit additional evidence or file a brief, after which final decision shall be rendered. No further review after such final disallowance shall be made in any case.

(c) For the purpose of the review of claims under the provisions of subdivision (a) of this section there is hereby created in the Veterans' Administration a board to be known as the emergency officers' retirement board and to be composed of two medical officers of the Army not below the rank of lieutenant colonel, two medical officers of the Navy not below the rank of commander, two legal members from the Veterans' Administration, and one legal member from the Department of Justice. The Administrator of Veterans' Affairs shall appoint the chairman from among the members. None of said board shall be on the rolls of retired emergency officers. The emergency officers' retirement board shall have sole and exclusive jurisdiction in the review of claims under this section. The Secretary of War, the Secretary of the Navy, the Attorney General, and the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs are hereby authorized and directed to detail, for membership on the emergency officers' retirement board, officers or employees qualified in accordance with the terms of this paragraph. The Administrator of Veterans' Affairs is further authorized to provide space, equipment, and supplies and to detail such additional personnel as the board may determine to be necessary to their proper function, and the appropriations of the Veterans' Administration are hereby made available for such purpose. The board shall issue such regulations as may be necessary governing the procedure in connection with reviews under this section. A majority of the board shall constitute a quorum and decide all cases reviewed under this section, but the board may designate individual members to hold hearings.

Sec. 5. After the date of enactment of this amendatory act no review shall be made of any claim under the emergency officers' retirement act of May 24, 1928, which has heretofore been or shall hereafter be disallowed by the highest appellate agency of the Veterans' Administration at the time of disallowance.

Sec. 6. Every person applying for or in receipt of emergency officers' retirement pay shall, as frequently and at such times and places as may be reasonably required, submit himself to examination by a medical officer or by a duly qualified physician designated or approved by the Administrator of Veterans' Affairs. He may have a duly qualified person designated and paid by him present to participate in such examination. If he shall neglect or refuse to submit to such examination or shall in any way obstruct the same his right to claim emergency officers' retirement pay under the emergency officers' retirement act of May 24, 1928, as amended by this amendatory act, shall be suspended until such neglect, refusal, or obstruction ceases. No emergency officers' retirement pay shall be payable while such neglect, refusal, or obstruction continues, and no emergency officers' retirement pay shall be payable for the intervening period.

Sec. 7. All provisions of the emergency officers' retirement act of May 24, 1928, in conflict with or inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby modified and amended to the extent herein specifically provided and stated as of the date of enactment, May 24, 1928.

SEC. 4. Said grants are to be made subject to the rights of all claimants or persons who shall have filed or made valid claims, locations, or entries on or to said lands, or any part thereof prior to the effective date of any conflicting grant hereunder, unless prior to such effective date proper relinquishments or quitclaims have been procured and caused to be filed in the proper land office.

POST OFFICE INVESTIGATION

Mr. SABATH, by direction of the Committee on Rules, under clause 45, Rule XI, reported (Rept. No. 1544) the following resolution (H. Res. 226):

Whereas the deficit in the Post Office Department of late years has increased beyond all reason; and

Whereas it is charged and evidence has been submitted before several committees that these deficits are due to excessive air mail, railroad, and steamship transportation, as well as to the reckless and extravagant prices paid for land and leases for post offices; and

Whereas it is also charged that collusion exists between contractors and the bonding companies which makes it virtually impossible for independent contractors not in the combination to obtain bid bonds and thereby prevents competitive bidding; and

Whereas it is charged that collusion exists between architects, contractors, and others, whereby changes in plans and specifications have been made after contracts have been let and whereby inferior materials and equipment contrary to those originally specified have been substituted; and

Whereas it is charged and evidence has been submitted to the effect that it is proposed to purchase power, light, and heat for Government buildings and additions thereto at exorbitant rates and under unjustifiable economic conditions, which if carried out will result in further increases in the postal deficit; and

Whereas it is further charged that plans and specifications covering engineering work for Government buildings are at times poorly drawn, which results in contractors placing higher bids than they would have otherwise placed, in order to protect themselves against the uncertainties occasioned by the said poorly drawn plans: Therefore be it

Resolved, That for the purpose of obtaining information necessary as a basis for legislation the Committee on the Post Office and Post Roads, as a whole or by committee, is authorized to investigate (1) if the contracts entered into for carrying mail, whether by air service, railroad, or steamship, are excessive and to what extent they should be reduced; (2) if the prices paid for land or sites acquired for post-office buildings in the last 10 years are reasonable or exorbitant and to ascertain the actual amounts paid for each site in excess of $10,000, and the names of those who have negotiated the purchases as well as the leases; (3) all contracts entered into for the construction of all post-office buildings wherever the cost of such buildings was in excess of $100,000 and to secure the names of all contractors; (4) to what extent collusive agreements have been sanctioned by the Treasury and Post Office Departments; (5) to what extent collusive agreements, if existing, have affected Government work from financial, architectural, and engineering standpoints; (6) prices paid and contracts entered into for power, light, and heat and, in addition thereto, estimated cost for generating power, light, and heat in buildings now under construction and contemplated where plans have been drawn and where the cost of building is above $500,000; and (7) the first costs and the operating costs for generating power, light, and heat for all Government buildings.

The committee shall report the results of its investigations to the House with such recommendations for legislation as it deems advisable.

Said resolution and report were referred to the House Calendar and ordered to be printed.

Sec. 321. (a) The last paragraph of section 6 of the Federal highway act, as amended and supplemented (U. S. C., title 23, sec. 6), is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Whenever provision has been made by any State for the completion and maintenance of 90 per centum of its system of primary or interstate and secondary or intercounty highways equal to 7 per centum of the total mileage of such State, as required by this act, said State, through its State highway department, by and with the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture, is hereby authorized to increase the mileage of the primary or interstate and secondary or intercounty systems by additional mileage equal to not more than 1 per centum of said total mileage of such State, and thereafter to make like increases in the mileage of said systems whenever provision has been made for the completion and maintenance of 90 per centum of the mileage of said systems previously authorized in accordance herewith."

The bill, as amended, was ordered to be engrossed and read a third time, and was read a third time by title.

Mr. HAWLEY moved to recommit the bill to the Committee on Ways and Means, with instructions to that committee to report the bill back to the House forthwith with the following amendment:

Strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

That the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized until June 30, 1933, to make loans or advances in accordance with the provisions of this act in sums not exceeding in the aggregate $300,000,000.

Sec. 2. (a) The corporation may make emergency loans to any State for relief of distress arising from unemployment in such State, upon a showing to the satisfaction of the corporation as to the necessity for funds for such purpose and that all reasonable means of otherwise obtaining such funds have been exhausted. The corporation may make such loans by the purchase or underwriting of bonds of such States or in such manner and in such amounts, for periods not exceeding five years, upon such terms as to repayment of the principal thereof and interest thereon, and subject to such other conditions, as the corporation may determine. No such loan shall be made except upon the application of the chief executive of the State pursuant to appropriate authorization of its legislature, or by referendum or initiative by the people of any State, and upon the direct and unconditional obligation of such State to repay such loan with interest thereon in accordance with its terms.

(b) If at any time the corporation shall find that any State has defaulted in the performance of the terms or conditions of any loan made to it under this section, and if such default shall have continued for a period of 60 days after written notice thereof by the corporation to the chief executive of such State, the Secretary of the Treasury, upon request of the corporation, shall withhold annually thereafter from such State such sum or sums, not exceeding one-fifth of the unpaid indebtedness of such State hereunder, as the corporation shall deem requisite for its protection from apportionments made to such State of Federal grants in aid of States or out of any moneys due or payable by the United States to or for the use of such State, until such default has been remedied or the indebtedness has been paid. The Secretary of the Treasury shall, upon request of the corporation, pay the amount so withheld, or any part thereof which it may specify, to the corporation to be applied upon such indebtedness. If prior to any such payment the corporation shall notify the Secretary of the Treasury that such default has been remedied or the indebtedness paid, the Secretary of the Treasury shall release the sum or sums so withheld.

Sec 3. (a) The corporation may also make emergency advances for relief of distress arising from unemployment in any State upon a showing to the satisfaction of the corporation as to the necessity for funds for such purpose, that such State, by reason of its constitution, is unable to provide funds needed for the purpose, and that all reasonable means of otherwise obtaining such funds have been exhausted. In such case the corporation may make advances in such manner and amounts and under such conditions as the corporation may determine upon the assurance of the chief executive that he will recommend the necessary legislative action under which advances made under this section may be funded into loans under section 2, and that every reasonable effort will be made to provide for the repayment to the corporation of all such advances with the interest thereon within a period not exceeding five years, in accordance with the conditions determined by the corporation.

(b) If prior to the expiration of 18 months from the enactment of this act, any advance under this section has not been funded into a loan under section 2, together with any unpaid interest thereon, in accordance with the conditions determined by the corporation, the Secretary of the Treasury, upon the request of the corporation, shall withhold annually thereafter from such State such sum or sums, not exceeding one-fifth of the advances and the interest thereon, as the corporation shall deem requisite for its protection from apportionments made to such State of Federal grants in aid of States or out of any moneys due or payable by the United States to or for the use of such State, until such advances and interest have been paid. The Secretary of the Treasury shall, upon request of the corporation, pay the amount so withheld, or any part thereof which it may specify, to the corporation to be applied in repayment of such advances and interest.

Sec. 4. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation act is amended by adding after section 5a the following new sections:

"Sec. 5b. The corporation is authorized and empowered to make loans to any State or political subdivision thereof, or to any agency constituted pursuant to the authority of such State, or to any corporation organized under the laws of any State or of the United States and having resources adequate for its undertaking, for the purposes of enabling them to finance the construction, replacement, or reconstruction of economically sound and useful projects, the construction, replacement, or reconstruction of which will provide employment at an early date for a substantial number of persons, subject to the limitations of section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act as to the periods within which the corporation may make loans and the amounts thereof. The corporation may make such loans in such manner and amounts, for such periods not in excess of five years, upon such terms as to repayment of principal thereof and interest thereon, and subject to such other conditions as the corporation may determine. Each such loan shall be fully and adequately secured, and shall be made only upon a showing to the satisfaction of the board that the State, political subdivision, agency, or corporation applying for the loan is unable to obtain sufficient funds for the purpose upon reasonable terms through banking channels or from the sale of its bonds or other securities to the general public, and that the operation of the project when completed will yield sufficient income to be self-sustaining, including the repayment of the loan made hereunder with the interest thereon in accordance with its terms and conditions.

"Sec. 5c. The corporation is authorized and empowered to make loans to bona fide financial institutions, organized under the laws of any State or of the United States and having resources adequate for their undertakings, for the purpose of enabling them to finance the carrying and orderly marketing of staple commodities produced in the United States. The corporation may make any such loan in such manner and upon such terms and conditions as it may determine subject to the limitations of section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act as to the periods within which it may make loans and the amounts and maturities thereof, and all such loans shall be fully and adequately secured.

"Sec. 5d. The corporation is authorized and directed until June 30, 1933, to allocate and make available to the Federal Farm Board such sums not exceeding in the aggregate $50,000,000 as the Federal Farm Board shall request from time to time to enable it to make additional loans to cooperative associations and stabilization corporations pursuant to the authority conferred upon said board by the agricultural marketing act of June 15, 1929, as amended.

"Sec. 5e. The corporation is authorized and directed until June 30, 1933, to allocate and make available to the Secretary of Agriculture such sums, not exceeding in the aggregate $50,000,000, as the Secretary of Agriculture may request from time to time for financing the exportation of agricultural commodities produced in the United States. The exercise of the authority hereby conferred upon the Secretary of Agriculture shall be subject to the limitation of section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act as to the periods within which loans may be made and the maturities thereof. The amounts which may be allocated and made available to the Secretary of Agriculture under section 2 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act shall be reduced by the aggregate of the sums made available to him under this section."

Sec. 5. The third paragraph of section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act is amended by striking out the second sentence thereof, which reads as follows:

"Except as provided in section 5a hereof, no loan or advancement shall be made by the corporation for the purpose of initiating, setting on foot, or financing any enterprise not initiated, set on foot, or undertaken prior to the adoption of this act: Provided, That the foregoing limitation shall not apply to loans made to agricultural or livestock credit corporations, or Federal land banks, joint-stock land banks, or Federal intermediate credit banks, nor to loans made to banks for the purpose of financing agricultural operations."

Sec. 6. The amount of notes, debentures, bonds, or other such obligations which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized and empowered under section 9 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act to have outstanding at any one time is increased to an aggregate of six times its subscribed capital stock.

Mr. McDUFFIE moved that the House recede from its disagreement to Senate amendment No. 46 and concur therein, with the following amendment:

In lieu of the matter proposed to be inserted by said amendment, insert:

Compensation defined

Section 101. As used in this title, the term "compensation" means any salary, pay, wage, allowance (except allowances for subsistence, quarters, heat, light, and travel), or other emolument paid for services rendered in any civilian or noncivilian office, position, or employment; and includes the retired pay of judges, and the retired pay of all commissioned and other personnel of the Coast and Geodetic Survey, the Lighthouse Service, and the Public Health Service, and the retired pay of all commissioned and other personnel (except enlisted) of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard; but does not include the active or retired pay of the enlisted personnel of the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, or Coast Guard; and does not include payments out of any retirement, disability, or relief fund made up wholly or in part of contributions of employees.

Limitation on jurisdiction of courts

Appropriations impounded

Sec. 108. The appropriations or portions of appropriations unexpended by reason of the operation of this title shall not be used for any purpose, but shall be impounded and returned to the Treasury.

Mr. LAGUARDIA made the point of order that the amendment to the Senate amendment was not germane, and that the conferees had not sponsored the recorded position of the House.

Mr. SCHAFER made the further point of order that the amendment goes beyond the range of difference between the action of the House and the Senate. The furlough plan incorporated in the bill by the Senate and the salary-reduction plan as passed by the House contain no salary reductions in salaries below $2,500 per year. I believe on that point alone the amendment is not germane, and therefore it is not in order, as the conferees have exceeded their authority.

The SPEAKER pro tempore overruled the points of order and said:

"The gentleman from New York [Mr. LAGUARDIA] interposes a point of order against the amendment offered by the gentleman from Alabama [Mr. MCDUFFIE] to the Senate proposal upon the ground that it does not affirmatively appear that the House conferees really took into consideration the action and voice of the House in the conference. That, of course, is a matter entirely beyond the province of the Chair, and is a matter of speculation, necessarily. The Chair, therefore, overrules that point of order.

"The gentleman from Wisconsin [Mr. SCHAFER] raised the point of order that the provisions embodied in the motion of the gentleman from Alabama to recede and concur with an amendment to the Senate amendment was beyond the limits fixed in either the House bill or the Senate amendment. The Parliamentarian has furnished the Chair with a syllabus of an opinion by Chairman Hepburn, of Iowa, made on February 26, 1902, which may be found in Hinds' Precedents (vol. 5, sec. 6187). It is as follows: 'In amending a Senate amendment the House is not confined within the limits of amount set by the original bill and the Senate amendment.' The Chair thinks that that decision disposes of the point of order raised by the gentleman from Wisconsin. The Chair desires to say in passing upon these points of order that in cases of this kind the only requirement is that the amendment proposed in the motion to recede and concur with an amendment must be germane to the Senate amendment. This question arose on May 3, 1922, when Mr. Speaker Gillett, in overruling a point of order similar to this, held that to a Senate amendment providing a new method of taxation in the District of Columbia and revising the fiscal relationship of the District of Columbia and the United States with other incidental propositions and an amendment proposing a different scheme is germane, although different in detail.

"The Chair thinks that these decisions fully cover points of order raised by the gentleman from New York and the gentleman from Wisconsin, and therefore overrules the points of order."

After debate,

On motion of Mr. MCDUFFIE, the previous question was ordered on his motion to recede and concur in Senate amendment No. 46 with an amendment.

The question being put,

Will the House recede and concur in said Senate amendment with an amendment?

It was decided in the negative, { Yeas 127 / Nays 243 / Answering present 4 }

The yeas and nays being demanded and ordered by one-fifth of the Members present.

Answering present—

So, the motion to recede and concur with an amendment was not agreed to.

Mr. MCDUFFIE then moved that the House recede and concur in Senate amendment No. 46 with the following amendment:

Title I.—Furlough of Federal Employees

Furlough provisions

Sec. 101. During the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933—

(a) The days of work of a per diem officer or employee receiving compensation at a rate which is equivalent to more than $1,000 per annum shall not exceed five in any one week, and the compensation for five days shall be ten-elevenths of that payable for a week's work of five and one-half days: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed as modifying the method of fixing the daily rate of compensation of per diem officers or employees as now authorized by law: Provided further, That where the nature of the duties of a per diem officer or employee render it advisable, the provisions of subsection (b) may be applied in lieu of the provisions of this subsection.

(b) Each officer or employee receiving compensation on an annual basis at the rate of more than $1,000 per annum shall be furloughed without compensation for one calendar month, or for such periods as shall in the aggregate be equivalent to one calendar month, for which latter purpose twenty-four working days (counting Saturdays as one-half day) shall be considered as the equivalent of one calendar month: Provided, That where the nature of the duties of any such officer or employee render it advisable, the provisions of subsection (a) may be applied in lieu of the provisions of this subsection: Provided further, That no officer or employee shall, without his consent, be furloughed under this subsection for more than five days in any one calendar month: Provided further, That the rate of compensation of any employee furloughed under the provisions of this act shall not be reduced by reason of the action of any wage board during the fiscal year 1933.

(c) If the application of the provisions of subsections (a) and (b) to any officer or employee would reduce his rate of compensation to less than $1,000 per annum, such provisions shall be applied to him only to the extent necessary to reduce his rate of compensation to $1,000 per annum.

Sec. 102. No officer or employee shall be exempted from the provisions of subsections (a) and (b) of section 101, except in those cases where the public service requires that the position be continuously filled and a suitable substitute can not be provided, and then only when authorized or approved in writing by the President of the United States. The Director of the Bureau of the Budget shall report to Congress on the first Monday in December in 1932 and 1933 the exemptions made under this section, divided according to salary, grade, and class.

Sec. 103. All rights now conferred or authorized to be conferred by law upon any officer or employee to receive annual leave of absence with pay are hereby suspended during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933.

INVESTIGATION OF CERTAIN MATTERS AFFECTING THE POST OFFICE DEPARTMENT

Mr. SABATH, by direction of the Committee on Rules, called up the following resolution (H. Res. 226):

Whereas the deficit in the Post Office Department of late years has increased beyond all reason; and

Whereas it is charged and evidence has been submitted before several committees that these deficits are due to excessive air mail, railroad, and steamship transportation, as well as to the reckless and extravagant prices paid for land and leases for post offices; and

Whereas it is also charged that collusion exists between contractors and the bonding companies which makes it virtually impossible for independent contractors not in the combination to obtain bid bonds and thereby prevents competitive bidding; and

Whereas it is charged that collusion exists between architects, contractors, and others whereby changes in plans and specifications have been made after contracts have been let and whereby inferior materials and equipment contrary to those originally specified have been substituted; and

Whereas it is charged and evidence has been submitted to the effect that it is proposed to purchase power, light, and heat for Government buildings and additions thereto at exorbitant rates and under unjustifiable economic conditions, which, if carried out, will result in further increases in the postal deficit; and

Whereas it is further charged that plans and specifications covering engineering work for Government buildings are at times poorly drawn, which results in contractors placing higher bids than they would have otherwise placed, in order to protect themselves against the uncertainties occasioned by the said poorly drawn plans: Therefore be it

Resolved, That for the purpose of obtaining information necessary as a basis for legislation the Committee on the Post Office and Post Roads, as a whole or by committee, is authorized to investigate (1) if the contracts entered into for carrying mail, whether by air service, railroad, or steamship, are excessive and to what extent they should be reduced; (2) if the prices paid for land or sites acquired for post-office buildings in the last 10 years are reasonable or exorbitant and to ascertain actual amounts paid for each site in excess of $10,000, and the names of those who have negotiated the purchases as well as the leases; (3) all contracts entered into for the construction of all post-office buildings wherever the cost of such buildings was in excess of $100,000, and to secure the names of all contractors; (4) to what extent collusive agreements have been sanctioned by the Treasury and Post Office Departments; (5) to what extent collusive agreements, if existing, have affected Government work from financial, architectural, and engineering standpoints; (6) prices paid and contracts entered into for power, light, and heat, and, in addition thereto, estimated cost for generating power, light, and heat in buildings now under construction and contemplated where plans have been drawn and where the cost of building is above $500,000; and (7) the first costs and the operating costs for generating power, light, and heat for all Government buildings.

The committee shall report the results of its investigations to the House with such recommendations for legislation as it deems advisable.

When said resolution was considered.

The following amendment recommended by the Committee on Rules was agreed to:

After line 15, page 3, insert:

For such purposes the committee, or any subcommittee thereof, is authorized to sit and act during the present Congress at such times and places in the District of Columbia or elsewhere, whether or not the House is sitting, has recessed, or has adjourned; to hold such hearings, to employ such experts, and such clerical, stenographic, and other assistants; to require the attendance of such witnesses and the production of such books, papers, and documents; to take such testimony, to have such printing and binding done, and to make such expenditures as it deems necessary, not exceeding $10,000.

The preamble was stricken out.

Will the House agree to said resolution as amended?

PERSONAL PRIVILEGE

Mr. LAMBERTSON rose to a question of personal privilege and said:

"Mr. Speaker, the gentleman from Kansas (Mr. STRONG) said this:

"'My colleague'—

"Referring to me"—

"'dated his remarks June 14, 1930, but it was not printed in the Congressional Record until July 7, 1930, four days after Congress had adjourned.'

"Then he said:

"'I call attention to the fact that after the last session of Congress two years ago, to which he refers and which adjourned on the 3d day of July, on the 7th of July my colleague put a speech in the Record by extension of remarks, four days after the Congress had adjourned.'

"We were not in session then, and I think I should have an opportunity to answer those remarks."

Mr. McDUFFIE made the point of order that Mr. LAMBERTSON did not state facts constituting a question of personal privilege.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. WOODRUM) sustained the point of order.

PRESIDENT'S ORGANIZATION OF UNEMPLOYMENT RELIEF (H. DOC. NO. 357)

The SPEAKER laid before the House the message from the President, which was read, as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

The second deficiency bill just passed omitted an appropriation for continuance of the activities of the President's Organization on Unemployment Relief. I urgently request that Congress make a special appropriation of $120,000 to continue this work over the next fiscal year.

This organization, of which Mr. Walter S. Gifford is director, is comprised of leading men and women throughout every State in the Union and has served to establish and coordinate State and local volunteer effort in relief of distress throughout the Nation. The organization has secured in a large way the cooperation of industry and labor, of the national social welfare organizations, and has assisted in mobilizing a large amount of voluntary funds and administering local resources to the best advantage. This organization is the only agency for national coordination and stimulation for the multitude of voluntary efforts and a clearing to these thousands of organizations with suggestions and methods for the alleviation of unemployment distress.

Should this organization be discontinued, not only would its important functions of stimulation of private giving and coordination be destroyed, but there would be grave danger of National, State, and local volunteer groups concluding that services such as they have rendered were no longer necessary. Voluntary effort amongst our people is of far more importance both morally and financially than the direct aid of local or other governmental agencies. To demobilize this organization might easily create widespread confusion and bring great hardships when the need is greatest.

It is obviously of the utmost importance that no action be taken which shall in any way diminish voluntary efforts which combine the intimate knowledge of local conditions with the sense of responsibility toward fellow citizens and neighbors in distress. Continuance of this organization with its background of experience is, in my opinion, most essential to the intelligent carrying out of the provisions of all relief activities, whether private or public.

The organization is made up primarily of volunteers serving without pay or expense. It is nonpartisan and representative of various economic and social groups. To function successfully it must have funds to employ a relatively small number of trained personnel, together with necessary office help.

The appropriation requested for continuance of this organization is infinitesimal in its ratio to the large resources which are put at the command of those in distress and thus also relieves burdens upon municipalities, States, and the Federal Government.

HERBERT HOOVER.

THE WHITE HOUSE, July 5, 1932.

The message was referred to the Committee on Appropriations and ordered to be printed.

BILLS PRESENTED TO THE PRESIDENT

Mr. PARSONS, from the Committee on Enrolled Bills, reported that that committee did on this day present to the President for his approval bills and a joint resolution of the House of the following titles:

H. R. 8766. An act to amend the sixth exception in section 3 of the immigration act of 1924 with reference to nonimmigrant status of certain aliens;

RELIEF LEGISLATION

Amendment numbered 1: That the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate numbered 1, and agree to the same with an amendment as follows: In lieu of the matter proposed to be inserted by the Senate amendment insert the following:

That this act may be cited as the "emergency relief and construction act of 1932."

Title 1—Relief of Destitution

Section 1. (a) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized and empowered to make available out of the funds of the corporation the sum of $300,000,000, under the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth, to the several States and Territories, to be used in furnishing relief and work relief to needy and distressed people and in relieving the hardship resulting from unemployment, but not more than 15 per centum of such sum shall be available to any one State or Territory. Such sum of $300,000,000 shall, until the expiration of two years after the date of enactment of this act, be available for payment to the governors of the several States and Territories for the purposes of this section, upon application therefor by them in accordance with subsection (c), and upon approval of such applications by the corporation.

(b) All amounts paid under this section shall bear interest at the rate of 3 per centum per annum, and, except in the case of Puerto Rico and the Territory of Alaska, shall be reimbursed to the corporation, with interest thereon at the rate of 3 per centum per annum, by making annual deductions, beginning with the fiscal year 1935, from regular apportionments made from future Federal authorizations in aid of the States and Territories for the construction of highways and rural post roads, of an amount equal to one-fifth of the share which such State or Territory would be entitled to receive under such apportionment, except for the provisions of this section, or of an amount equal to one-fifth of the amounts so paid to the governor of such State or Territory pursuant to this section and all accrued interest thereon to the date of such deduction, whichever is the lesser, until the sum of such deductions equals the total amounts paid under this section and all accrued interest thereon. Whenever any such deduction is made, the Secretary of the Treasury shall immediately pay to the corporation an amount equal to the amount so deducted. If any State or Territory shall, within two years after the date of enactment of this act, enter into an agreement with the corporation for the repayment to the corporation of the amounts paid under this section to the governor of such State or Territory, with interest thereon as herein provided, in such installments and upon such terms as may be agreed upon, then the deduction under this subsection shall not be made unless such State or Territory shall be in default in the performance of the terms of such agreement. In the case of a default by the State or Territory in any such agreement, the agreement shall thereupon be terminated and reimbursement of the unpaid balance of the amount covered by such agreement shall be made by making annual deductions in the manner above provided (beginning with the fiscal year next following such default) from regular apportionments made to such State or Territory from future Federal authorizations in aid of the States and Territories for the construction of highways and rural post roads. Before any amount is paid under this section to the governor of Puerto Rico or of the Territory of Alaska, Puerto Rico or the Territory of Alaska shall enter into an agreement with the corporation for the repayment of such amount with interest thereon as herein provided, in such installments and upon such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon.

(c) The governor of any State or Territory may from time to time make application for funds under this section, and in each application so made shall certify the necessity for such funds and that the resources of the State or Territory, including moneys then available and which can be made available by the State or Territory, its political subdivisions, and private contributions, are inadequate to meet its relief needs. All amounts paid to the governor of a State or Territory under this section shall be administered by the governor, or under his direction, and upon his responsibility. The governor shall file with the corporation and with the auditor of the State or Territory (or, if there is no auditor, then with the official exercising comparable authority) a statement of the disbursements made by him under this section.

(d) Nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize the corporation to deny an otherwise acceptable application under this section because of constitutional or other legal inhibitions or because the State or Territory has borrowed to the full extent authorized by law. Whenever an application under this section is approved by the corporation in whole or in part, the amount approved shall be immediately paid to the governor of the State or Territory upon delivery by him to the corporation of a receipt therefor stating that the payment is accepted subject to the terms of this section.

(e) Any portion of the amount approved by the corporation for payment to the governor of a State or Territory shall, at his request, and with the approval of the corporation, be paid to any municipality or political subdivision of such State or Territory if (1) the governor makes as to such municipality or political subdivision a like certificate as provided in subsection (c) as to the State or Territory, and (2) such municipality or political subdivision enters into an agreement with the corporation for the repayment to the corporation of the amount so paid, at such times, at such rates of interest, and upon such other terms and conditions as may be agreed upon between the corporation and such municipality or political subdivision. The amount paid to any municipality or political subdivision under this subsection shall not be included in any amounts reimbursable to the corporation under subsection (b) of this section.

(f) As used in this section the term "Territory" means Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

Title II—Amendments to Reconstruction Finance Corporation Act

Sec. 201. Section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act is amended to read as follows:

"Sec. 5. (a) To aid in financing agriculture, commerce, industry, and housing, including facilitating the exportation of agricultural and other products, and to assist in the relief of unemployment, the corporation is authorized and empowered to make loans, upon such terms and conditions not inconsistent with this act as it may determine, to any person when in the opinion of the board of directors of the corporation such person is unable to obtain funds upon reasonable terms through banking channels. Any receiver of any national bank is hereby authorized to contract for such loans and to pledge any assets of the bank for securing the same.

"(b) In the exercise of its powers under this section the corporation shall so far as practicable give preference to—

"(1) loans to, or contracts with (and the corporation is hereby empowered to make such loans and contracts), States, municipalities, and political subdivisions of States, public agencies of States, of municipalities, and of political subdivisions of States, public corporations, boards and commissions, and public municipal instrumentalities of one or more States, to aid in financing projects authorized under Federal, State, or municipal law which are self-liquidating in character, such loans or contracts to be made through the purchase of their securities, or otherwise, and for such purpose the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized to bid for such securities: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to prohibit the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, in carrying out the provisions of this paragraph, from purchasing securities having a maturity of more than 10 years;

"(2) loans to corporations formed wholly for the purpose of providing housing for families of low income, or for reconstruction of slum areas, which are regulated by State or municipal law as to rents, charges, capital structure, rate of return, and areas and methods of operation, to aid in financing projects undertaken by such corporations which are self-liquidating in character;

"(3) loans to private corporations to aid in carrying out the construction, replacement, or improvement of bridges, tunnels, docks, viaducts, waterworks, canals, and markets, devoted to public use and which are self-liquidating in character;

"(4) loans to private limited dividend corporations to aid in the protection and development of forests and other renewable natural resources, which are regulated by a State or political subdivision of a State and are self-liquidating in character; and

"(5) loans to aid in financing the construction of any publicly owned bridge to be used for railroad, railway, and highway uses, the construction cost of which will be returned in part by means of tolls, fees, rents, or other charges, and the remainder by means of taxes imposed pursuant to State law enacted before the date of enactment of the emergency relief and construction act of 1932; and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is further authorized and empowered to purchase bonds of any State, municipality, or other public body or agency issued for the purpose of financing the construction of any such bridge irrespective of the dates of maturity of such bonds.

"For the purposes of this subdivision a project shall be deemed to be self-liquidating if such project will be made self-supporting and financially solvent and if the construction cost thereof will be returned within a reasonable period by means of tolls, fees, rents, or other charges, or by such other means (other than by taxation) as may be prescribed by the statutes which provide for the project. All loans and contracts made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in respect of projects of the character specified in paragraphs (1) to (5) of this subdivision shall be subject to the conditions that no convict labor shall be directly employed on any such project, and that (except in executive and administrative positions), so far as practicable, no individual employed on any such project shall be permitted to work more than 30 hours in any one week, and that in the employment of labor in connection with any such project preference shall be given, where they are qualified, to ex-service men with dependents. The provisions of this subdivision shall apply with respect to projects in Puerto Rico and the Territories to the same extent as in the case of projects in the several States, and as used in this subdivision the term 'States' includes Puerto Rico and the Territories.

"(c) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation shall submit monthly to the President and to the Senate and the House of Representatives (or the Secretary of the Senate and the Clerk of the House of Representatives, if those bodies are not in session, a report of its activities and expenditures under this section, together with a statement showing the names of the borrowers to whom loans and advances were made, and the amount involved in each case, except that such statement shall not show the names of borrowers of the classes to whom loans could be made under this section before its amendment by the emergency relief and construction act of 1932, unless the loan or advance was made under subdivision (b) of this section.

"(d) In order that the surpluses of agricultural products which have accumulated in public and private warehouses and elevators may not have a depressing effect upon current prices of such products, the corporation is authorized and directed to make loans under this section, in such amounts as may in its judgment be necessary, for the purpose of financing sales of such surpluses in the markets of foreign countries in which such sales can not be financed in the normal course of commerce; but no such sales shall be financed by the corporation if, in its judgment, such sales will affect adversely the world markets for such products.

"(e) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is further authorized to create in any of the twelve Federal land bank districts where it may deem the same to be desirable, a regional agricultural credit corporation with a paid-up capital of not less than $3,000,000, to be subscribed for by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and paid for out of the unexpended balance of the amounts allocated and made available to the Secretary of Agriculture under section 2 of this act. Such corporations shall be managed by officers and agents to be appointed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation under such rules and regulations as its board of directors may prescribe. Such corporations are hereby authorized and empowered to make loans or advances to farmers and stockmen, the proceeds of which are to be used for an agricultural purpose (including crop production), or for the raising, breeding, fattening, or marketing of livestock, to charge such rates of interest or discount thereon as in their judgment are fair and equitable, subject to the approval of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and to rediscount with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the various Federal reserve banks and Federal intermediate credit banks any paper that they acquire which is eligible for such purpose. All expenses incurred in connection with the operation of such corporations shall be supervised and paid by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation under such rules and regulations as its board of directors may prescribe.

"(f) All loans made under this section, and all contracts of the character described in paragraph (1) of subdivision (b), shall be fully and adequately secured, except that in the case of loans (other than loans of the character described in paragraph (1) of subdivision (b) to States, political subdivisions thereof, municipalities, instrumentalities or agencies of one or more States or municipalities or political subdivisions thereof, or public corporations, the loan may be made if, in the opinion of the board of directors of the corporation, the payment of the interest on the loan and the payment of the principal of the loan are adequately assured. The corporation, under such conditions as it shall prescribe, may take over or provide for the administration and liquidation of any collateral accepted by it as security for such loans. Such loans may be made directly upon promissory notes or by way of discount or rediscount of obligations tendered for the purpose, or otherwise in such form and in such amount and at such interest or discount rates as the corporation may approve: Provided, That no loans or advances (except loans under subdivision (d)) shall be made upon foreign securities or foreign acceptances as collateral or for the purpose of assisting in the carrying or liquidation of such foreign securities and foreign acceptances. In no case shall the aggregate amount advanced under this section to any one person (including, in the case of a corporation, its subsidiary or affiliated organizations) exceed at any one time 2⅝ per centum of (1) the authorized capital stock of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation plus (2) the aggregate amount of bonds of the corporation authorized to be outstanding when the capital stock is fully subscribed.

"(g) Each such loan may be made for a period not exceeding three years, and the corporation may from time to time extend the time of payment of any such loan, through renewal, substitution of new obligations, or otherwise, but the time for such payment shall not be extended beyond five years from the date upon which such loan was made originally: Provided, That loans or contracts of the character described in subdivision (b) may be made for a period not exceeding ten years: Provided further, That loans or contracts of the character described in paragraph (1) or (5) of subdivision (b) may be made for a period exceeding ten years when it is the judgment of the board of directors of the corporation that it is necessary to purchase securities as provided in such paragraphs and that it is not practicable to require the reimbursement of the corporation, within ten years, through the repurchase or payment of such securities, or in any other manner.

"(h) The corporation may make loans under this section at any time prior to January 23, 1933; and the President may from time to time postpone such date of expiration for such additional period or periods as he may deem necessary, not beyond January 22, 1934.

"(i) No fee or commission shall be paid by any applicant for a loan under the provisions of this section in connection with any such application or any loan made or to be made under this section, and the agreement to pay or payment of any such fee or commission shall be unlawful.

"(j) No loan shall be made to a railroad or to a receiver of a railroad except on the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Any railroad may obligate itself in such form as shall be prescribed and otherwise comply with the requirements of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the corporation with respect to the deposit or assignment of security hereunder, without the authorization or approval of any authority, State or Federal, and without compliance with any requirement, State or Federal, as to notification, other than such as may be imposed by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the corporation under the provisions of this section.

"(k) As used in this section and section 8, the term 'person' means an individual, a trust, or estate, a partnership, a corporation (public, quasi public, or private), an association, a joint-stock company, a State, a political subdivision of a State, a municipality, and any instrumentality or agency of one or more States or municipalities or political subdivisions thereof. As used in this section and section 15 the term 'State' includes Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

"(l) No loans shall be made under this section to a State, a political subdivision of a State, a municipality, an instrumentality or agency of one or more States or municipalities or political subdivisions thereof, or a public corporation, except (1) loans to assist in the relief of unemployment, or (2) loans of the character specified in paragraph (1) of subdivision (b).

"(m) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation may make such rules and regulations as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section."

Sec. 202. Section 8 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act is amended to read as follows:

"Sec. 8. In order to enable the corporation to carry out the provisions of this act, the Treasury Department, the Federal Farm Loan Board, the Comptroller of the Currency, the Federal Reserve Board, the Federal reserve banks, and the Interstate Commerce Commission are hereby authorized, under such conditions as they may prescribe, to make available to the corporation, in confidence, such reports, records, or other information as they may have available relating to the condition of persons with respect to whom the corporation has had or contemplates having transactions under this act, or relating to persons whose obligations are offered to or held by the corporation as security for loans under this act, and to make through their examiners or other employees for the confidential use of the corporation examinations of applicants for loans. Every applicant for a loan under this act shall, as a condition precedent thereto, consent to such examination as the corporation may require for the purposes of this act and that reports of examinations by constituted authorities may be furnished by such authorities to the corporation upon request therefor."

Sec. 203. (a) Section 9 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act is amended by striking out the words "three times" each time such words appear in such section and inserting in lieu thereof "six and three-fifths times."

(b) The first proviso of section 2 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act is amended by inserting after "as set out in section 9" the following: "(as in force prior to its amendment by the emergency relief and construction act of 1932)," but the Secretary of Agriculture is directed to continue making loans to farmers under the provisions of such section 2.

Title III—Public works

Sec. 301 (a) For the purpose of providing for emergency construction of certain authorized public works with a view to increasing employment and carrying out the policy declared in the employment stabilization act of 1931, there is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $322,224,000, which shall be allocated as follows:

(1) For expenditure in emergency construction on the Federal-aid highway system, $120,000,000. Such sum shall be apportioned by the Secretary of Agriculture to the several States by the method provided in section 21 of the Federal highway act, as amended and supplemented (U. S. C., title 23, sec. 21). The amounts apportioned to the States shall be available as a temporary advance of funds to meet the provisions of such act as to State funds. The amount apportioned to any State under this paragraph may be used to match the regular annual Federal-aid apportionments made to such State (including the one for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933), and when so used such amount shall be available for expenditure in paying the share of such State in the cost of Federal-aid projects. No amounts apportioned under this paragraph shall be advanced except for work on the Federal-aid highway system performed before July 1, 1933: Provided, That the amounts so advanced shall be reimbursed to the Federal Government over a period of ten years, commencing with the fiscal year 1938, by making annual deductions from regular apportionments made from future authorizations for carrying out the provisions of such act, as amended and supplemented: Provided further, That all contracts involving the expenditure of such amounts shall contain provisions establishing minimum rates of wages, to be predetermined by the State highway department, which contractors shall pay to skilled and unskilled labor, and such minimum rates shall be stated in the invitation for bids and shall be included in proposals or bids for the work: And provided further, That in the expenditure of such amounts, the limitations in the Federal highway act, as amended and supplemented, upon highway construction, reconstruction, and bridges within municipalities and upon payments per mile which may be made from Federal funds, shall not apply. As used in this paragraph, the term "State" includes the Territory of Hawaii. The term "highway," as defined in the Federal highway act, approved November 9, 1921, as amended and supplemented, for the purposes of this paragraph only, shall be deemed to include such main State parkways as may be designated by the State and approved by the Secretary of Agriculture as part of the Federal-aid highway system.

(2) For expenditure in emergency construction during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933, $16,000,000, as follows: (A) For the construction and improvement of national-forest highways, $5,000,000; (B) for the construction and maintenance of roads, trails, bridges, fire lanes, and so forth, including the same objects specified in the paragraph commencing with the words "Improvement of the national forests" under the heading "National forest administration" in the agricultural appropriation act for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1932, approved February 23, 1931 (46 Stat. 1242), $5,000,000; (C) for the construction, reconstruction, and improvement of roads and trails, inclusive of necessary bridges, in the national parks and national monuments under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior, including areas to be established as national parks authorized under the act of May 22, 1926 (U. S. C., Supp. V, title 16, secs. 403 to 403c), and under the act of May 25, 1926 (U. S. "Whenever provision has been made by any State for the completion and maintenance of 90 per centum of its system of primary or interstate and secondary or intercounty highways equal to 7 per centum of the total mileage of such State, as required by this act, said State, through its State highway department, by and with the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture, is hereby authorized to increase the mileage of the primary or interstate and secondary or intercounty systems by additional mileage equal to not more than 1 per centum of said total mileage of such State, and thereafter to make like increases in the mileage of said systems whenever provision has been made for the completion and maintenance of 90 per centum of the mileage of said systems previously authorized in accordance herewith."

Sec. 305. After the date of the enactment of this act, in the acquisition of any land or site for the purposes of section 301 (a) (10):

(1) The period of solicitation of proposals by public advertisement shall be ten days in lieu of twenty days;

(2) In any case in which such site or land is to be acquired by condemnation, the provisions of section 355 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, shall not apply; and

(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 1 of the act entitled "An act to expedite the construction of public buildings and works outside of the District of Columbia by enabling possession and title of sites to be taken in advance of final judgment in proceedings for the acquisition thereof under the power of eminent domain," approved February 26, 1931 (U. S. C., Supp. V, title 40, sec. 258a), in any case in which any land or any interest therein is to be acquired by condemnation, the Secretary of the Treasury, through the Attorney General, may, prior to the institution of condemnation proceedings, file with the clerk of the district court of the district in which such land is located a declaration of taking, containing the matters required by such section to be included in a declaration of taking. The declaration of taking shall be accompanied by the deposit with such clerk, to the use of the parties who may be found to be entitled thereto, of the amount of the estimated compensation stated in the declaration. As soon as practicable after the filing of such declaration of taking, the Secretary of the Treasury shall cause to be posted in a prominent place upon the land a notice reciting (A) that the land or the interest therein is taken by the United States for public use, (B) that a declaration of taking in respect of such land or interest therein has been filed with the clerk of the court of the district, and (C) that there has been deposited with such clerk, to the use of the parties who may be found to be entitled thereto, the estimated just compensation for the land or interest therein taken. The Secretary of the Treasury shall give written notice similar to the posted notice by personal service in the case of actual occupants of the premises, or, if with reasonable diligence such personal service can not be made, he shall send such notice by registered mail directed to the premises, and he shall send notice by registered mail directed to their last known address in the case of all parties who the Secretary ascertains have or may have an interest in such land, and he may give such additional notice by newspaper publication or otherwise as he deems necessary. Upon posting notice on the land, title to the land or interest therein shall vest in the United States, and the right to just compensation therefor shall vest in the parties entitled thereto. The Secretary of the Treasury shall cause notice to be personally served upon or, if with reasonable diligence such service can not be made, to be sent by registered mail to actual occupants of the premises, setting a time (not earlier than twenty days after the service or sending of such notice) at which such parties shall surrender possession, and at the end of such time the right to possession shall vest in the United States. The Secretary of the Treasury may designate any person to serve any notice under the preceding provisions of this subsection, and such person shall have power to enter upon such land for the purpose of posting notice or to make personal service of notice. If any such party fails or refuses so to surrender possession, upon summary petition for an order to surrender possession filed in such district court by or on behalf of the Secretary of the Treasury, the court may, by writ of assistance or other process, order the surrender of possession. A petition in condemnation shall be filed in such district court as soon after the filing of the declaration of taking as practicable. In any such condemnation proceeding, no further declaration of taking shall be required, and the provisions of section 1 of such act of February 26, 1931, authorizing the court to fix the time when parties in possession shall be required to surrender possession, shall not apply. If such petition for condemnation is not filed within a reasonable time after the filing of such declaration of taking, any person entitled to just compensation in respect of the property so taken shall be entitled to sue the United States in the court in which such declaration of taking was filed. The procedure in such suit shall be the same as in suits against the United States founded upon contract, except that such suit may be heard even if the amount of the claim is greater than $10,000 and except that the procedure for the ascertainment of the amount of just compensation shall be the same as such procedure in condemnation proceedings. If the petition for condemnation is filed prior to the time the commissioners in condemnation, jurors, or other persons charged with the duty of valuing the property are empaneled, such suit shall be dismissed, except that such suit and the condemnation proceedings may, in the discretion of the court and under rules prescribed by it, be consolidated to such extent as the court may deem practicable. In any suit authorized to be brought under this subsection or in any condemnation proceeding involving land acquired in accordance with this subsection, the court shall enter judgment against the United States in favor of the parties entitled for the sum or sums awarded as just compensation, respectively, for the land or interest therein taken for the use of the United States, and such judgment shall be paid out of the sums deposited with the court, and such additional sums as may be awarded shall be paid in the same manner as sums awarded in judgments in cases in which the United States has consented to be sued. The provisions of such act of February 26, 1931, except as modified by this subsection, shall apply to all such suits or condemnation proceedings. The provisions of this subsection shall not be construed to be in substitution for, but shall be supplemental to, any method of acquiring land or interests therein provided in existing law.

Sec. 306. In the construction of post offices and of buildings for post offices and other offices provided for in section 301 (a) (10), the Secretary of the Treasury with the cooperation of the Postmaster General may use such standard plans (heretofore or hereafter prepared) as may be most adaptable to the particular building to be constructed.

Sec. 307. All contracts let for construction projects pursuant to this title shall be subject to the conditions that no convict labor shall be directly employed on any such project, and that (except in executive and administrative positions), so far as practicable, no individual employed on any such project shall be permitted to work more than 30 hours in any one week, and that in the employment of labor in connection with any such project, preference shall be given, where they are qualified, to ex-service men with dependents.

Sec. 308. For each fiscal year, beginning with the fiscal year 1934, there is authorized to be appropriated, for the purposes of the sinking fund provided in section 6 of the victory liberty loan act, as amended, in addition to amounts otherwise appropriated, an amount equal to 2½ per cent of the aggregate amount of the expenditures made, out of appropriations made or authorized in this title, on or after the date of the enactment of this act and on or before the last day of the fiscal year for which the appropriation is made.

And the Senate agree to the same.

PRESIDENT'S VETO MESSAGE—RELIEF BILL

The SPEAKER laid before the House the message from the President, which was read, as follows:

To the House of Representatives:

I am returning herewith, without my approval, H. R. 12445, "Emergency relief and construction act of 1932."

On the 31st of May last I addressed the Senate recommending further definite and large-scale measures to aid in relief of distress and unemployment imposed upon us by the continued degeneration in the world economic situation. These proposals were made after discussion with leaders of both political parties in Congress and in endeavor to secure united nonpartisan action.

They were in brief:

1. Authorization to the Reconstruction Corporation to loan up to $300,000,000 to State governments which are unable to finance themselves to care for distress, such loans to be made upon the basis of need.

2. Authorization to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to buy bonds or otherwise temporarily to finance public bodies and to provide part of needed loans in limited cases also to private industry, to increase employment through construction of sound self-liquidating or income-producing projects.

3. Authorization to the corporation to undertake to finance exports of agricultural products and to make loans to institutions on the security of agricultural commodities in order to assure the carrying of normal stocks and the orderly marketing of these commodities.

4. To increase authority of the corporation to issue securities by a further $1,500,000,000.

The bill now under consideration consists of three titles, of which I shall first refer to Title I and Title III:

TITLE I

As this title has been amended, it now stands in accord with my recommendation.

TITLE III

This portion of the measure proposes to expend $322,000,000 on public works. I have expressed myself at various times upon the extreme undesirability of increasing expenditures on nonproductive public works beyond the $500,000,000 of construction already in the Budget. It is an ultimate burden upon the taxpayer. It unbalances the Budget after all our efforts to attain that object. It does not accomplish the purpose in creating employment for which it is designed, as is shown by the reports of the technical heads of the bureaus concerned that the total annual direct employment under this program would be less than 100,000 out of the 8,000,000 unemployed. Strongly as I feel that this departs from sound public finance, and that it does not accomplish the purpose for which it is instituted, I am not prepared for this reason alone to withhold my assent to the bill provided there is a proper provision that (except for expenditure on public roads which is deductible from future appropriations, together with park and forest roads and trails) these works should not be initiated except on certificate of the Secretary of the Treasury that the moneys necessary for such expenditure are available, or can be obtained, without interference with current financing operations of the Government. The expression of this principle in the present bill is not in this form and is not adequate.

TITLE II

This title is the major extension of the authority of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. The creation of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation itself was warranted only as a temporary measure to safely pass a grave national emergency which would otherwise have plunged us into destructive panic in consequence of the financial collapse in Europe. Its purpose was to preserve the credit structure of the Nation and thereby protect every individual in his employment, his farm, his bank deposits, his insurance policy, and his other savings, all of which are directly or indirectly in the safe-keeping of the great fiduciary institutions. Its authority was limited practically to loans to institutions which are under Federal or State control or regulation and affected with public interest. These functions were and are in the interest of the whole people.

Our problem now is to further widen the activities of the Reconstruction Corporation in the field of employment, and to further strengthen agriculture in such a practical fashion as will benefit the whole people, as will not damage any part of the people, and confer no special privileges upon any of the people.

So far as those portions of the proposed extension of authority to the corporation provide authorization temporarily to finance self-liquidating works up to the sum of $1,500,000,000, it is in accord with my recommendations. The section dealing with agricultural relief does not provide for loans to sound institutions upon the security of agricultural products in order to assist in production and finance of normal holdings and stocks of these commodities and thus aid in the orderly marketing of agricultural products so sorely needed at the present time. Such action would contribute to improve price levels of farm products.

There are several secondary objections to this title with which I will not trouble the Congress, because my major objection to the measure, as now formulated, lies in the inclusion of an extraordinary extension of authority to the Reconstruction Corporation to make loans to "individuals, to trusts, estates, partnerships, corporations (public or quasi public or private), to associations, joint-stock companies, States, political subdivisions of States, municipalities, or political subdivisions thereof." The following objections are directed to this particular provision:

First. This expansion of authority of the Reconstruction Corporation would mean loans against security for any conceivable purpose on any conceivable security to anybody who wants money. It would place the Government in private business in such fashion as to violate the very principle of public relations upon which we have builded our Nation and render insecure its very foundations. Such action would make the Reconstruction Corporation the greatest banking and money-lending institution of all history. It would constitute a gigantic centralization of banking and finance to which the American people have been properly opposed for the past 100 years. The purpose of the expansion is no longer in the spirit of solving a great major emergency but to establish a privilege whether it serves a great national end or not.

Second. One of the most serious objections is that under the provisions of this bill those amongst 16,000 municipalities and the different States that have failed courageously to meet their responsibilities and to balance their own budgets would dump their financial liabilities and problems upon the Federal Government. All proper and insuperable difficulties they may confront in providing relief for distress are fully and carefully met under other provisions in the bill.

Third. The board of directors of the Reconstruction Corporation inform me unanimously that miscellaneous loans under this provision are totally impracticable and unworkable. It would be necessary to set up a huge bureaucracy, to establish branches in every county and town in the United States. The task of organization, of finding competent personnel, would not be a matter of months but of years. Hundreds of thousands of applications representing every diversity of business and interest in the country would immediately flood the board, all of which must be passed upon by seven men. The directors would be dependent upon the ability and integrity of local committees and branch managers. Every political pressure would be assembled for particular persons. It would be within the power of these agencies to dictate the welfare of millions of people, to discriminate between competitive business at will, and to deal favor and disaster amongst them. If it be contended that these hundreds of thousands of miscellaneous loans will be used to increase employment, then an additional bureaucracy for espionage must follow up each case and assure that these funds be used for such purpose.

Fourth. The sole limitation under the bill is that loans shall be secured and that the borrowers shall not have been able to obtain loans from private institutions upon acceptable terms. This at once throws upon the corporation all the doubtful loans in the United States. It would result in every financial institution calling upon their customers whom they regard as less adequately secured to discharge their loans and to demand the money from the Government through the Reconstruction Corporation. The organization would be constantly subjected to conspiracies and raids of predatory interests, individuals, and private corporations. Huge losses and great scandals must inevitably result. It would mean the squandering of hundreds of millions of public funds to be ultimately borne by the taxpayer.

Fifth. The bill provides only the funds to the corporation which the Senate with reason deemed the minimum necessary to aid construction projects and to cover loans to the States in aid of distress. There is, therefore, no provision in the bill for any sum of money for the purpose of these miscellaneous loans. The corporation would thereby be charged with a duty impossible to carry out in practice with no additional funds with which to make loans unless the unemployment projects and the loans to the States are abandoned or seriously curtailed and the fundamental purpose of the legislation defeated.

Sixth. Under the new obligations upon the Reconstruction Corporation to finance the additional construction activities and loans to the States in addition to its present activities, it will be necessary for the corporation to place over $3,000,000,000 of securities. It can place these securities only because the credit of the United States is pledged to secure these obligations. To sell any such vast amount of securities at a time like this is a difficult enough task, strong as is the credit of the United States, without having the credit of the Government undermined by the character of use to which it is directed that these moneys should be applied. As long as obligations of the corporation are based on wholly sound securities for self-liquidating purposes, of which early repayment is assured, there is no burden upon the taxpayer. There is an assurance of a strengthening of the economic situation. But if the funds of the corporation are to be squandered by making loans for the purposes here referred to, it will be at once evident that the credit of the Government is being misused, and it is not too much to say that if such weakens the whole economic situation by threatening the credit of the United States Government with grave consequences of disaster to our people.

CONCLUSION

This proposal violates every sound principle of public finance and of government. Never before has so dangerous a suggestion been seriously made to our country. Never before has so much power for evil been placed at the unlimited discretion of seven individuals.

In view of the short time left to the Congress for consideration of this legislation and of the urgent need for sound relief measures, the necessity of which I have on several occasions urged upon the Congress, I recommend that a compromise should be reached upon terms suggested by Members of both Houses and both parties, and that the Congress should not adjourn until this is accomplished. Such compromise proposal should embrace:

First. Title I of H. R. 12445, the act now under consideration, covering provisions for loans to States in amount of $300,000,000 for the care of distress in States where needed.

Second. Title III of this act, with the provision made applicable to all parts of the title except for roads and trails, that such works shall not be initiated except on certificate of the Secretary of the Treasury that the funds necessary are available and can be obtained without interference with the current financing operations of the Government.

Third. That there should be substituted for Title II the substance of the provisions in the substitute bill introduced by Senator WAGNER and passed by the Senate, or Senate bill 4822, introduced by Senator BARBOUR, or section 4 of the substitute bill introduced by Representative HAWLEY. Among them they provide not only loans for construction work of projects of self-liquidating character but also essential aids to agriculture.

Fourth. That the corporation be authorized to increase its issues of capital by $1,800,000,000 for these purposes.

With the utmost seriousness I urge the Congress to enact a relief measure, but I can not approve the measure before me, fraught as it is with possibilities of misfeasance and special privileges, so impracticable of administration, so dangerous to public credit, and so damaging to our whole conception of governmental relations to the people as to bring far more distress than it will cure.

HERBERT HOOVER.

THE WHITE HOUSE, July 11, 1932.

Mr. RAINEY moved that the message and bill be referred to the Committee on Ways and Means and ordered to be printed.

Mr. CHINDBLOM made the point of order that the question before the House has not been stated by the Speaker pro tempore. The question prescribed by the Constitution is whether the House, upon reconsideration, will pass the bill, the veto of the President to the contrary notwithstanding; and when that question has been stated, or if it may be assumed that it was stated, I desire to prefer a parliamentary inquiry whether, under the rules of the House, I may not be recognized to move upon that question, the previous question, as a preferential motion under paragraph 4 of Rule XVI.

The SPEAKER pro tempore (Mr. WOODRUM) overruled the point of order.

On motion of Mr. RAINEY, the previous question was ordered on his motion, and under the operation thereof the motion was agreed to.

A motion by Mr. RAINEY to reconsider the vote whereby said motion was agreed to was, on his motion and by unanimous consent, laid on the table.

MEMBERS OF THE RECONSTRUCTION FINANCE CORPORATION

The SPEAKER laid before the House the following message from the President, which was read, as follows:

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

Section 3 of the act creating the Reconstruction Finance Corporation provides:

"The management of the corporation shall be vested in a board of directors consisting of the Secretary of the Treasury or, in his absence, the Under Secretary of the Treasury, the Governor of the Federal Reserve Board, and the Farm Loan Commissioner, who shall be members ex officio, and four other persons appointed by the President of the United States, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate. Of the seven members of the board of directors not more than four shall be members of any one political party and not more than one shall be appointed from any one Federal reserve district."

The extraordinary heavy burdens placed upon the directors of the corporation during the past few months have resulted in the overwork especially of the ex officio members. It has within the past few days arrived at a point where there is danger of a physical breakdown among the ex officio members in their endeavor to carry dual duties.

I therefore recommend to the Congress an amendment to the act which would eliminate the Governor of the Federal Reserve Board and the Farm Loan Commissioner as members ex officio when successors shall have been appointed. It is important that the Secretary of the Treasury shall remain as an ex officio member and under the provisions for the Under Secretary to act as an alternate it offers the necessary relief. It is desirable that the Treasury should maintain its intimate association with the corporation because of the great financial problems involved in Government issues.

In order that the operations of the corporation may be conducted with certainty and public confidence, both as to its nonpartisan character and its personnel, I recommend that the number of the board be increased to eight, of whom not more than four shall belong to any one political party.

HERBERT HOOVER.

THE WHITE HOUSE, July 11, 1932.

The message, together with the accompanying papers, was referred to the Committee on Banking and Currency and ordered to be printed.

A motion by Mr. RAINEY to reconsider the vote whereby said bill was passed was, on his motion and by unanimous consent, laid on the table.

Ordered, That the Clerk request the concurrence of the Senate in said bill.

EMERGENCY HIGHWAY CONSTRUCTION—RELIEF

On motion of Mr. RAINEY, by unanimous consent, the bill (H. R. 9642) to authorize supplemental appropriations for emergency highway construction, with a view to increasing employment, with the following amendments of the Senate thereto, was taken from the Speaker's table:

Amendment numbered 1: Strike out all after the enacting clause and insert:

That this act may be cited as the "Emergency relief and construction act of 1932."

Title I—Relief of Destitution

Section 1. (a) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized and empowered to make available out of the funds of the corporation the sum of $300,000,000, under the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth, to the several States and Territories, to be used in furnishing relief and work relief to needy and distressed people and in relieving the hardship resulting from unemployment, but not more than 15 per centum of such sum shall be available to any one State of Territory. Such sum of $300,000,000 shall, until the expiration of two years after the date of enactment of this act, be available for payment to the governors of the several States and Territories for the purposes of this section, upon application therefor by them in accordance with subsection (c), and upon approval of such applications by the corporation.

(b) All amounts paid under this section shall bear interest at the rate of 3 per centum per annum, and, except in the case of Puerto Rico and the Territory of Alaska, shall be reimbursed to the corporation, with interest thereon at the rate of 3 per centum per annum, by making annual deductions, beginning with the fiscal year 1935, from regular apportionments made from future Federal authorizations in aid of the States and Territories for the construction of highways and rural post roads, of an amount equal to one-fifth of the share which such State or Territory would be entitled to receive under such apportionment, except for the provisions of this section, or of an amount equal to one-fifth of the amounts so paid to the governor of such State or Territory pursuant to this section and all accrued interest thereon to the date of such deduction, whichever is the lesser, until the sum of such deductions equals the total amounts paid under this section and all accrued interest thereon. Whenever any such deduction is made, the Secretary of the Treasury shall imediately pay to the corporation an amount equal to the amount so deducted. If any State or Territory shall, within two years after the date of enactment of this act, enter into an agreement with the corporation for the repayment to the corporation of the amounts paid under this section to the governor of such State or Territory, with interest thereon as herein provided, in such installments and upon such terms as may be agreed upon, then the deduction under this subsection shall not be made unless such State or Territory shall be in default in the performance of the terms of such agreement. In the case of a default by the State or Territory in any such agreement, the agreement shall thereupon be terminated and reimbursement of the unpaid balance of the amount covered by such agreement shall be made by making annual deductions in the manner above provided (beginning with the fiscal year next following such default) from regular apportionments made to such State or Territory from future Federal authorizations in aid of the States and Territories for the construction of highways and rural post roads. Before any amount is paid under this section to the Governor of Puerto Rico or of the Territory of Alaska, Puerto Rico or the Territory of Alaska shall enter into an agreement with the corporation for the repayment of such amount with interest thereon as herein provided, in such installments and upon such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon.

(c) The governor of any State or Territory may from time to time make application for funds under this section, and in each application so made shall certify the necessity for such funds and that the resources of the State or Territory, including moneys then available and which can be made available by the State or Territory, its political subdivisions, and private contributions, are inadequate to meet its relief needs. All amounts paid to the governor of a State or Territory under this section shall be administered by the governor, or under his direction, and upon his responsibility. The governor shall file with the corporation and with the auditor of the State or Territory (or, if there is no auditor, then with the official exercising comparable authority) a statement of the disbursements made by him under this section.

(d) Nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize the corporation to deny an otherwise acceptable application under this section because of constitutional or other legal inhibitions or because the State or Territory has borrowed to the full extent authorized by law. Whenever an application under this section is approved by the corporation in whole or in part, the amount approved shall be immediately paid to the governor of the State or Territory upon delivery by him to the corporation of a receipt therefor stating that the payment is accepted subject to the terms of this section.

(e) Any portion of the amount approved by the corporation for payment to the governor of a State or Territory shall, at his request, and with the approval of the corporation, be paid to any municipality or political subdivision of such State or Territory if (1) the governor makes as to such municipality or political subdivision a like certificate as provided in subsection (c) as to the State or Territory, together with a like certificate of the chief executive officer of such municipality or political subdivision, and (2) such municipality or political subdivision enters into an agreement with the corporation for the repayment to the corporation of the amount so paid, with interest at the rate of 3 per centum per annum, at such times, and upon such other terms and conditions, as may be agreed upon between the corporation and such municipality or political subdivision. The amount paid to any municipality or political subdivision under this subsection shall not be included in any amounts reimbursable to the corporation under subsection (b) of this section.

(f) As used in this section the term "Territory" means Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

Title II—Loans by Reconstruction Finance Corporation

Sec. 201. (a) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized and empowered—

(1) to make loans to, or contracts with, States, municipalities, and political subdivisions of States, public agencies of States, of municipalities, and of political subdivisions of States, public corporations, boards and commissions, and public municipal instrumentalities of one or more States, to aid in financing projects authorized under Federal, State, or municipal law which are self-liquidating in character, such loans or contracts to be made through the purchase of their securities, or otherwise, and for such purpose the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized to bid for such securities: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to prohibit the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, in carrying out the provisions of this paragraph, from purchasing securities having a maturity of more than ten years;

(2) to make loans to corporations formed wholly for the purpose of providing housing for families of low income, or for reconstruction of slum areas, which are regulated by State or municipal law as to rents, charges, capital structure, rate of return, and areas and methods of operation, to aid in financing projects undertaken by such corporations which are self-liquidating in character;

(3) to make loans to private corporations to aid in carrying out the construction, replacement, or improvement of bridges, tunnels, docks, viaducts, waterworks, including industrial water supply systems, canals, and markets, devoted to public use and which are self-liquidating in character;

(4) to make loans to private limited dividend corporations to aid in financing projects for the protection and development of forests and other renewable natural resources, which are regulated by a State or political subdivision of a State and are self-liquidating in character; and

(5) to make loans to aid in financing the construction of any publicly owned bridge to be used for railroad, railway, and highway uses, the construction cost of which will be returned in part by means of tolls, fees, rents, or other charges, and the remainder by means of taxes imposed pursuant to State law enacted before the date of enactment of the emergency relief and construction act of 1932; and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is further authorized and empowered to purchase bonds of any State, municipality, or other public body or agency issued for the purpose of financing the construction of any such bridge irrespective of the dates of maturity of such bonds.

For the purposes of this subsection a project shall be deemed to be self-liquidating if such project will be made self-supporting and financially solvent and if the construction cost thereof will be returned within a reasonable period by means of tolls, fees, rents, or other charges, or by such other means as may be prescribed by the Statutes which provide for the project. All loans and contracts made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in respect of projects of the character specified in paragraphs (1) to (5) of this subsection shall be subject to the conditions that no convict labor (except those on probation or parole) shall be directly employed on any such project, and that (except in executive, administrative, and supervisory positions), so far as practicable, no individual directly employed on any such project shall be permitted to work more than thirty hours in any one week, and that in the employment of labor in connection with any such project preference shall be given, where they are qualified, to ex-service men with dependents.

The provisions of this subsection shall apply with respect to projects in Puerto Rico and the Territories to the same extent as in the case of projects in the several States, and as used in this subsection the term "States" includes Puerto Rico and the Territories.

(b) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation shall submit monthly to the President and to the Senate and the House of Representatives (or the Secretary of the Senate and the Clerk of the House of Representatives, if those bodies are not in session) a report of its activities and expenditures under this section, together with a statement showing the names of the borrowers to whom loans and advances were made, and the amount and rate of interest involved in each case.

(c) In order that the surpluses of agricultural products may not have a depressing effect upon current prices of such products, the corporation is authorized and directed to make loans, in such amounts as may in its judgment be necessary, for the purpose of financing sales of such surpluses in the markets of foreign countries in which such sales can not be financed in the normal course of commerce; but no such sales shall be financed by the corporation if, in its judgment, such sales will affect adversely the world markets for such products: Provided, however, That no such loan shall be made to finance the sale in the markets of foreign countries of cotton owned by the Federal Farm Board or the Cotton Stabilization Corporation.

(d) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is further authorized to create in any of the twelve Federal land-bank districts where it may deem the same to be desirable a regional agricultural credit corporation with a paid-up capital of not less than $3,000,000, to be subscribed for by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and paid for out of the unexpended balance of the amounts allocated and made available to the Secretary of Agriculture under section 2 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act. Such corporations shall be managed by officers and agents to be appointed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation under such rules and regulations as its board of directors may prescribe. Such corporations are hereby authorized and empowered to make loans or advances to farmers and stockmen, the proceeds of which are to be used for an agricultural purpose (including crop production), or for the raising, breeding, fattening, or marketing of livestock, to charge such rates of interest or discount thereon as in their judgment are fair and equitable, subject to the approval of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and to rediscount with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the various Federal reserve banks and Federal intermediate credit banks any paper that they acquire which is eligible for such purpose. All expenses incurred in connection with the operation of such corporations shall be supervised and paid by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation under such rules and regulations as its board of directors may prescribe.

(e) All loans made under this section, and all contracts of the character described in paragraph (1) of subsection (a), shall be fully and adequately secured. The corporation, under such conditions as it shall prescribe, may take over or provide for the administration and liquidation of any collateral accepted by it as security for such loans. Such loans shall be made on such terms and conditions, not inconsistent with this act, as the corporation may prescribe, and may be made directly upon promissory notes or by way of discount or rediscount of obligations tendered for the purpose, or otherwise in such form and in such amount and at such interest or discount rates as the corporation may approve: Provided, That no loans or advances (except loans under subsection (c)) shall be made upon foreign securities or foreign acceptances as collateral.

(f) Each such loan may be made for a period not exceeding three years, and the corporation may, from time to time, extend the time of payment of any such loan, through renewal, substitution of new obligations, or otherwise, but the time for such payment shall not be extended beyond five years from the date upon which such loan was made originally: Provided, That loans or contracts of the character described in subsection (a) may be made for a period not exceeding ten years: Provided further, That loans or contracts of the character described in paragraph (1) or (5) of subsection (a) may be made for a period exceeding ten years when it is the judgment of the board of directors of the corporation that it is necessary to purchase securities as provided in such paragraphs and that it is not practicable to require the reimbursement of the corporation, within ten years, through the repurchase or payment of such securities, or in any other manner.

(g) The corporation may make loans under this section at any time prior to January 23, 1934.

(h) No fee or commission shall be paid by any applicant for a loan under the provisions of this section in connection with any such application or any loan made or to be made under this section, and the agreement to pay or payment of any such fee or commission shall be unlawful.

(i) No loan under this section shall be made to a railroad or to a receiver of a railroad except on the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Any railroad may obligate itself in such form as shall be prescribed and otherwise comply with the requirements of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the corporation with respect to the deposit or assignment of security hereunder, without the authorization or approval of any authority, State or Federal, and without compliance with any requirement, State or Federal, as to notification, other than such as may be imposed by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the corporation under the provisions of this section.

Sec. 202. The last sentence of the second paragraph of section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act is amended by striking out "5" and inserting "2⅝" in lieu thereof.

Sec. 203. The second sentence of the third paragraph of section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act is hereby repealed.

Sec. 204. Section 8 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act is amended to read as follows:

"Sec. 8. In order to enable the corporation to carry out the provisions of this act and the emergency relief and construction act of 1932, the Treasury Department, the Federal Farm Loan Board, the Comptroller of the Currency, the Federal Reserve Board, the Federal reserve banks, and the Interstate Commerce Commission are hereby authorized, under such conditions as they may prescribe, to make available to the corporation, in confidence, such reports, records, or other information as they may have available relating to the condition of applicants with respect to whom the corporation has had or contemplates having transactions under either of such acts, or relating to individuals, associations, partnerships, corporations, or other obligors whose obligations are offered to or held by the corporation as security for loans under either of such acts, and to make, through their examiners or other employees for the confidential use of the corporation, examinations of applicants for loans. Every applicant for a loan under either of such acts shall, as a condition precedent thereto, consent to such examination as the corporation may require for the purposes of either of such acts and that reports of examinations by constituted authorities may be furnished by such authorities to the corporation upon request therefor."

Sec. 205. (a) The amount of notes, debentures, bonds, or other such obligations which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized and empowered under section 9 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act to have outstanding at any one time is increased to an aggregate of six and three-fifths times its subscribed capital stock.

(b) The first proviso of section 2 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act is amended by inserting after "as set out in section 9" the following: "(as in force prior to the enactment of the emergency relief and construction act of 1932)," but the Secretary of Agriculture is directed to continue making loans to farmers under the provisions of such section 2.

Sec. 206. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized and empowered to make loans under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act to financial institutions, corporations, railroads, and other classes of borrowers specified in section 5 of such act, organized under the laws of Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico. As used in this title and in section 15 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act the term "State" includes Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

Sec. 207. No loan or advance shall be approved under this section or under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act, directly or indirectly, to any financial institution any officer or director of which is a member of the board of directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation or has been such a member within the twelve months preceding the approval of the loan or advance.

Sec. 208. (a) The first sentence of section 3 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act is amended, effective at the expiration of ten days after the date of enactment of this act, to read as follows: "The management of the corporation shall be vested in a board of directors consisting of the Secretary of the Treasury (or, in his absence, the Under Secretary of the Treasury), who shall be a member ex officio, and six other persons appointed by the President of the United States by and with the advice and consent of the Senate."

(b) Nothing in this section shall be construed to affect in any manner the terms of office of the appointed members of the board of directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, nor to require their reappointment.

Sec. 209. Section 9 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act is hereby amended by adding at the end thereof the following:

"The Secretary of the Treasury, at the request of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is authorized to market for the corporation its notes, debentures, bonds, and other such obligations, using therefor all the facilities of the Treasury Department now authorized by law for the marketing of obligations of the United States. The proceeds of the obligations of the corporation so marketed shall be deposited in the same manner as proceeds derived from the sale of obligations of the United States, and the amount thereof shall be credited to the corporation on the books of the Treasury."

Sec. 210. Section 13 of the Federal reserve act, as amended, is further amended by adding after the second paragraph thereof the following new paragraph:

"For a period of two years in unusual and exigent circumstances, the Federal Reserve Board, by the affirmative vote of not less than five members, may authorize any Federal reserve bank, during such periods as the said board may determine, at rates established in accordance with the provisions of section 14, subdivision (d), of this act, to discount for any individual or corporation, notes, drafts, and bills of exchange of the kinds and maturities made eligible for discount for member banks under other provisions of this act when such notes, drafts, and bills of exchange are indorsed and otherwise secured to the satisfaction of the Federal reserve bank: Provided, That before discounting any such note, draft, or bill of exchange for an individual or corporation the Federal reserve bank shall obtain evidence that such individual or corporation is unable to secure adequate credit accommodations from other banking institutions. (1) For expenditure in emergency construction on the Federal-aid highway system, $120,000,000. Such sum shall be apportioned by the Secretary of Agriculture to the several States by the method provided in section 21 of the Federal highway act, as amended and supplemented (U. S. C., title 23, sec. 21). The amounts apportioned to the States shall be available as a temporary advance of funds to meet the provisions of such act as to State funds. The amount apportioned to any State under this paragraph may be used to match the regular annual Federal-aid apportionments made to such State (including the one for the fiscal year endng June 30, 1933), and when so used such amount shall be available for expenditure in paying the share of such State in the cost of Federal-aid projects. No amounts apportioned under this paragraph shall be advanced except for work on the Federal-aid highway system performed before July 1, 1933: Provided, That the amounts so advanced shall be reimbursed to the Federal Government over a period of ten years, commencing with the fiscal year 1938, by making annual deductions from regular apportionments made from future authorizations for carrying out the provisions of such act, as amended and supplemented: Provided further, That all contracts involving the expenditure of such amounts shall contain provisions establishing minimum rates of wages, to be predetermined by the State highway department, which contractors shall pay to skilled and unskilled labor, and such minimum rates shall be stated in the invitation for bids and shall be included in proposals or bids for the work: And provided further, That in the expenditure of such amounts, the limitations in the Federal highway act, as amended and supplemented, upon highway construction, reconstruction, and bridges within municipalities and upon payments per mile which may be made from Federal funds, shall not apply. As used in this paragraph, the term "State" includes the Territory of Hawaii. The term "highway," as defined in the Federal highway act, approved November 9, 1921, as amended and supplemented, for the purposes of this paragraph only, shall be deemed to include such main State parkways as may be designated by the State and approved by the Secretary of Agriculture as part of the Federal-aid highway system.

S. C., Supp. V, title 23, secs. 3 and 3a), $2,000,000. The Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Interior, respectively, are authorized to make rules and regulations for carrying out the foregoing provisions of this section with a view to providing the maximum employment of local labor consistent with reasonable economy of construction.

Sec. 303. The last paragraph of section 6 of the Federal highway act, approved November 9, 1921, as amended and supplemented (U. S. C., title 23, sec. 6), is hereby amended to read as follows:

"Whenever provision has been made by any State for the completion and maintenance of 90 per centum of its system of primary or interstate and secondary or intercounty highways equal to 7 per centum of the total mileage of such State, as required by this act, said State through its State highway department, by and with the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture, is hereby authorized to increase the mileage of the primary or interstate and secondary or intercounty systems by additional mileage equal to not more than 1 per centum of said total mileage of such State, and thereafter to make like increases in the mileage of said systems whenever provision has been made for the completion and maintenance of 90 per centum of the mileage of said systems previously authorized in accordance herewith."

Sec. 304. After the date of the enactment of this act, in the acquisition of any land or site for the purposes of section 301 (a) (10):

(1) The period of solicitation of proposals by public advertisement shall be ten days in lieu of twenty days;

(2) In any case in which such site or land is to be acquired by condemnation, the provisions of section 355 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, shall not apply; and

(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 1 of the act entitled "An act to expedite the construction of public buildings and works outside of the District of Columbia by enabling possession and title of sites to be taken in advance of final judgment in proceedings for the acquisition thereof under the power of eminent domain," approved February 26, 1931 (U. S. C., Supp. V, title 40, sec. 258a), in any case in which any land or any interest therein is to be acquired by condemnation, the Secretary of the Treasury, through the Attorney General, may, prior to the institution of condemnation proceedings, file with the clerk of the district court of the district in which such land is located a declaration of taking, containing the matters required by such section to be included in a declaration of taking. The declaration of taking shall be accompanied by the deposit with such clerk, to the use of the parties who may be found to be entitled thereto, of the amount of the estimated compensation stated in the declaration. As soon as practicable after the filing of such declaration of taking, the Secretary of the Treasury shall cause to be posted in a prominent place upon the land a notice reciting (A) that the land or the interest therein is taken by the United States for public use, (B) that a declaration of taking in respect of such land or interest therein has been filed with the clerk of the court of the district, and (C) that there has been deposited with such clerk, to the use of the parties who may be found to be entitled thereto, the estimated just compensation for the land or interest therein taken. The Secretary of the Treasury shall give written notice similar to the posted notice, by personal service in the case of actual occupants of the premises or, if with reasonable diligence such personal service can not be made, he shall send such notice by registered mail directed to the premises, and he shall send notice by registered mail directed to their last known address in the case of all parties who the Secretary ascertains have or may have an interest in such land, and he may give such additional notice by newspaper publication or otherwise as he deems necessary. Upon posting notice on the land, title to the land or interest therein shall vest in the United States, and the right to just compensation therefor shall vest in the parties entitled thereto. The Secretary of the Treasury shall cause notice to be personally served upon, or if with reasonable diligence such service can not be made, to be sent by registered mail to actual occupants of the premises, setting a time (not earlier than twenty days after the service or sending of such notice) at which such parties shall surrender possession, and at the end of such time the right to possession shall vest in the United States. The Secretary of the Treasury may designate any person to serve any notice under the preceding provisions of this subsection and such person shall have power to enter upon such land for the purpose of posting notice or to make personal service of notice. If any such party fails or refuses so to surrender possession, upon summary petition for an order to surrender possession filed in such district court by or on behalf of the Secretary of the Treasury, the court may, by writ of assistance or other process, order the surrender of possession. A petition in condemnation shall be filed in such district court as soon after the filing of the declaration of taking as practicable. In any such condemnation proceeding, no further declaration of taking shall be required, and the provisions of section 1 of such act of February 26, 1931, authorizing the court to fix the time when parties in possession shall be required to surrender possession, shall not apply. If such petition for condemnation is not filed within a reasonable time after the filing of such declaration of taking, any person entitled to just compensation in respect of the property so taken shall be entitled to sue the United States in the court in which such declaration of taking was filed. The procedure in such suit shall be the same as in suits against the United States founded upon contract, except that such suit may be heard even if the amount of the claim is greater than $10,000 and except that the procedure for the ascertainment of the amount of just compensation shall be the same as such procedure in condemnation proceedings. If the petition for condemnation is filed prior to the time the commissioners in condemnation, jurors, or other persons charged with the duty of valuing the property are empaneled, such suit shall be dismissed, except that such suit and the condemnation proceedings may, in the discretion of the court, and under rules prescribed by it, be consolidated to such extent as the court may deem practicable. In any suit authorized to be brought under this subsection or in any condemnation proceeding involving land acquired in accordance with this subsection, the court shall enter judgment against the United States in favor of the parties entitled for the sum or sums awarded as just compensation, respectively, for the land or interest therein taken for the use of the United States and such judgment shall be paid out of the sums deposited with the court and such additional sums as may be awarded shall be paid in the same manner as sums awarded in judgments in cases in which the United States has consented to be sued. The provisions of such act of February 26, 1931, except as modified by this subsection, shall apply to all such suits or condemnation proceedings. The provisions of this subsection shall not be construed to be in substitution for, but shall be supplemental to, any method of acquiring land or interests therein provided in existing law.

Sec. 305. In the construction of post offices and of buildings for post offices and other offices provided for in section 301 (a) (10), the Secretary of the Treasury with the cooperation of the Postmaster General may use such standard plans (heretofore or hereafter prepared) as may be most adaptable to the particular building to be constructed.

Sec. 306. All contracts let for construction projects pursuant to this title shall be subject to the conditions that no convict labor shall be directly employed on any such project and that (except in executive, administrative, and supervisory positions), so far as practicable, no individual directly employed on any such project shall be permitted to work more than thirty hours in any one week, and that in the employment of labor in connection with any such project, preference shall be given, where they are qualified, to ex-service men with dependents.

Sec. 307. For each fiscal year beginning with the fiscal year 1934, there is authorized to be appropriated, for the purposes of the sinking fund provided in section 6 of the Victory Liberty loan act, as amended, in addition to amounts otherwise appropriated, an amount equal to 2½ per centum of the aggregate amount of the expenditures made, out of appropriations made or authorized in this title, on or after the date of the enactment of this act and on or before the last day of the fiscal year for which the appropriation is made.

Amendment No. 2: Amend the title so as to read: "An act to relieve destitution, to broaden the lending powers of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and to create employment by providing for and expediting a public-works program."

Mr. RAINEY moved that the House agree to the amendment of the Senate No. 1 with the following amendment:

In lieu of the matter proposed to be inserted by said amendment insert:

That this act may be cited as the "Emergency relief and construction act of 1932."

Title I—Relief of destitution

Section 1. (a) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized and empowered to make available out of the funds of the corporation the sum of $300,000,000, under the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth, to the several States and Territories, to be used in furnishing relief and work relief to needy and distressed people and in relieving the hardship resulting from unemployment, but not more than 15 per centum of such sum shall be available to any one State or Territory. Such sum of $300,000,000 shall, until the expiration of two years after the date of enactment of this act, be available for payment to the governors of the several States and Territories for the purposes of this section, upon application therefor by them in accordance with subsection (c), and upon approval of such applications by the corporation.

(b) All amounts paid under this section shall bear interest at the rate of 3 per centum per annum, and, except in the case of Puerto Rico and the Territory of Alaska, shall be reimbursed to the corporation, with interest thereon at the rate of 3 per centum per annum, by making annual deductions, beginning with the fiscal year 1935, from regular apportionments made from future Federal authorizations in aid of the States and Territories for the construction of highways and rural post roads, of an amount equal to one-fifth of the share which such State or Territory would be entitled to receive under such apportionment, except for the provisions of this section, or of an amount equal to one-fifth of the amounts so paid to the governor of such State or Territory pursuant to this section and all accrued interest thereon to the date of such deduction, whichever is the lesser, until the sum of such deductions equals the total amounts paid under this section and all accrued interest thereon. Whenever any such deduction is made, the Secretary of the Treasury shall immediately pay to the corporation an amount equal to the amount so deducted. If any State or Territory shall, within two years after the date of enactment of this act, enter into an agreement with the corporation for the repayment to the corporation of the amounts paid under this section to the governor of such State or Territory, with interest thereon as herein provided, in such installments and upon such terms as may be agreed upon, then the deduction under this subsection shall not be made unless such State or Territory shall be in default in the performance of the terms of such agreement. In the case of a default by the State or Territory in any such agreement, the agreement shall thereupon be terminated and reimbursement of the unpaid balance of the amount covered by such agreement shall be made by making annual deductions in the manner above provided (beginning with the fiscal year next following such default) from regular apportionments made to such State or Territory from future Federal authorizations in aid of the States and Territories for the construction of highways and rural post roads. Before any amount is paid under this section to the Governor of Puerto Rico or of the Territory of Alaska, Puerto Rico, or the Territory of Alaska shall enter into an agreement with the corporation for the repayment of such amount with interest thereon as herein provided, in such installments and upon such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon.

(c) The governor of any State or Territory may from time to time make application for funds under this section, and in each application so made shall certify the necessity for such funds and that the resources of the State or Territory, including moneys then available and which can be made available by the State or Territory, its political subdivisions, and private contributions, are inadequate to meet its relief needs. All amounts paid to the governor of a State or Territory under this section shall be administered by the governor, or under his direction, and upon his responsibility. The governor shall file with the corporation and with the auditor of the State or Territory (or, if there is no auditor, then with the official exercising comparable authority) a statement of the disbursements made by him under this section.

(d) Nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize the corporation to deny an otherwise acceptable application under this section because of constitutional or other legal inhibitions or because the State or Territory has borrowed to the full extent authorized by law. Whenever an application under this section is approved by the corporation in whole or in part, the amount approved shall be immediately paid to the governor of the State or Territory upon delivery by him to the corporation of a receipt therefor stating that the payment is accepted subject to the terms of this section.

(e) Any portion of the amount approved by the corporation for payment to the governor of a State or Territory shall, at his request, and with the approval of the corporation, be paid to any municipality or political subdivision of such State or Territory if (1) the governor makes as to such municipality or political subdivision a like certificate as provided in subsection (c) as to the State or Territory, and (2) such municipality or political subdivision enters into an agreement with the corporation for the repayment to the corporation of the amount so paid, at such times, at such rates of interest, and upon such other terms and conditions, as may be agreed upon between the corporation and such municipality or political subdivision. The amount paid to any municipality or political subdivision under this subsecton shall not be included in any amounts reimbursable to the corporation under subsection (b) of this section.

(f) As used in this section the term "Territory" means Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

Title II—Loans by Reconstruction Finance Corporation

Sec. 201. (a) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized and empowered—

(1) to make loans to, or contracts with, States, municipalities, and political subdivisions of States, public agencies of States, of municipalities, and of political subdivisions of States, public corporations, boards and commissions, and public municipal instrumentalities of one or more States, to aid in financing projects authorized under Federal, State, or municipal law which are self-liquidating in character, such loans or contracts to be made through the purchase of their securities, or otherwise, and for such purpose the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized to bid for such securities: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to prohibit the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, in carrying out the provisions of this paragraph, from purchasing securities having a maturity of more than ten years;

(2) to make loans to corporations formed wholly for the purpose of providing housing for families of low income, or for reconstruction of slum areas, which are regulated by State or municipal law as to rents, charges, capital structure, rate of return, and areas and methods of operation, to aid in financing projects undertaken by such corporations which are self-liquidating in character;

(3) to make loans to private corporations to aid in carrying out the construction, replacement, or improvement of bridges, tunnels, docks, viaducts, waterworks, canals, and markets, devoted to public use and which are self-liquidating in character;

(4) to make loans to private limited dividend corporations to aid in financing projects for the protection and development of forests and other renewable natural resources, which are regulated by a State or political subdivision of a State and are self-liquidating in character; and

(5) to make loans to aid in financing the construction of any publicly owned bridge to be used for railroad, railway, and highway uses, the construction cost of which will be returned in part by means of tolls, fees, rents, or other charges, and the remainder by means of taxes imposed pursuant to State law enacted before the date of enactment of the emergency relief and construction act of 1932; and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is further authorized and empowered to purchase bonds of any State, municipality, or other public body or agency issued for the purpose of financing the construction of any such bridge irrespective of the dates of maturity of such bonds.

For the purposes of this subsection a project shall be deemed to be self-liquidating if such project will be made self-supporting and financially solvent and if the construction cost thereof will be returned within a reasonable period by means of tolls, fees, rents, or other charges, or by such other means (other than by taxation) as may be prescribed by the statutes which provide for the project. All loans and contracts made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in respect of projects of the character specified in paragraphs (1) to (5) of this subsection shall be subject to the conditions that no convict labor shall be directly employed on any such project, and that (except in executive, administrative, and supervisory positions), so far as practicable, no individual directly employed on any such project shall be permitted to work more than thirty hours in any one week, and that in the employment of labor in connection with any such project preference shall be given, where they are qualified, to ex-service men with dependents. The provisions of this subsection shall apply with respect to projects in Puerto Rico and the Territories to the same extent as in the case of projects in the several States, and as used in this subsection the term "States" includes Puerto Rico and the Territories.

(b) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation shall submit monthly to the President and to the Senate and the House of Representatives (or the Secretary of the Senate and the Clerk of the House of Representatives, if those bodies are not in session) a report of its activities and expenditures under this section and under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act, together with a statement showing the names of the borrowers to whom loans and advances were made, and the amount and rate of interest involved in each case.

(c) In order that the surpluses of agricultural products may not have a depressing effect upon current prices of such products, the corporation is authorized and directed to make loans, in such amounts as may in its judgment be necessary, for the purpose of financing sales of such surpluses in the markets of foreign countries in which such sales can not be financed in the normal course of commerce; but no such sales shall be financed by the corporation if, in its judgment, such sales will affect adversely the world markets for such products.

(d) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized and empowered to make loans to bona fide institutions, organized under the laws of any State or of the United States and having resources adequate for their undertakings, for the purpose of enabling them to finance the carrying and orderly marketing of agricultural commodities and livestock produced in the United States.

(e) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is further authorized to create in any of the twelve Federal land-bank districts where it may deem the same to be desirable a regional agricultural credit corporation with a paid-up capital of not less than $3,000,000, at least one-half of which shall be subscribed for by private interests, and the remainder of which shall be subscribed for by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and paid for out of the unexpended balance of the amounts allocated and made available to the Secretary of Agriculture under section 2 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act. Such corporations shall be managed by officers and agents to be appointed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation under such rules and regulations as its board of directors may prescribe. Such corporations are hereby authorized and empowered to make loans or advances to farmers and stockmen, the proceeds of which are to be used for an agricultural purpose (including crop production), or for the raising, breeding, fattening, or marketing of livestock, to charge such rates of interest or discount thereon as in their judgment are fair and equitable, subject to the approval of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and to rediscount with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the various Federal reserve banks and Federal intermediate credit banks any paper that they acquire which is eligible for such purpose. All expenses incurred in connection with the operation of such corporations shall be supervised by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation under such rules and regulations as its board of directors may prescribe.

(f) All loans made under this section, and all contracts of the character described in paragraph (1) of subsection (a), shall be fully and adequately secured. The corporation, under such conditions as it shall prescribe, may take over or provide for the administration and liquidation of any collateral accepted by it as security for such loans. Such loans shall be made on such terms and conditions, not inconsistent with this act, as the corporation may prescribe, and may be made directly upon promissory notes or by way of discount or rediscount of obligations tendered for the purpose, or otherwise in such form and in such amount and at such interest or discount rates as the corporation may approve: Provided, That no loans or advances (except loans under subsection (c)) shall be made upon foreign securities or foreign acceptances as collateral.

(g) Each such loan may be made for a period not exceeding three years, and the corporation may, from time to time, extend the time of payment of any such loan, through renewal, substitution of new obligations, or otherwise, but the time for such payment shall not be extended beyond five years from the date upon which such loan was made originally: Provided, That loans or contracts of the character described in subsection (a) may be made for a period not exceeding ten years: Provided further, That loans or contracts of the character described in paragraph (1) or (5) of subsection (a) may be made for a period exceeding ten years when it is the judgment of the board of directors of the corporation that it is necessary to purchase securities as provided in such paragraphs and that it is not practicable to require the reimbursement of the corporation, within ten years, through the repurchase or payment of such securities, or in any other manner.

(h) The corporation may make loans under this section at any time prior to January 23, 1934.

(i) No fee or commission shall be paid by any applicant for a loan under the provisions of this section in connection with any such application or any loan made or to be made under this section, and the agreement to pay or payment of any such fee or commission shall be unlawful.

(j) No loan under this section shall be made to a railroad or to a receiver of a railroad except on the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Any railroad may obligate itself in such form as shall be prescribed and otherwise comply with the requirements of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the corporation with respect to the deposit or assignment of security hereunder, without the authorization or approval of any authority, State or Federal, and without compliance with any requirement, State or Federal, as to notification, other than such as may be imposed by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the corporation under the provisions of this section.

Sec. 202. The last sentence of the second paragraph of section 5 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act is amended by striking out "5" and inserting "2⅝" in lieu thereof.

Every applicant for a loan under either of such acts shall, as a condition precedent thereto, consent to such examination as the corporation may require for the purposes of either of such acts and that reports of examinations by constituted authorities may be furnished by such authorities to the corporation upon request therefor."

Sec. 205. (a) The amount of notes, debentures, bonds, or other such obligations which the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized and empowered under section 9 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act to have outstanding at any one time is increased to an aggregate of six and three-fifths times its subscribed capital stock.

(b) The first proviso of section 2 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act is amended by inserting after "as set out in section 9" the following: "(as in force prior to the enactment of the emergency relief and construction act of 1932)," but the Secretary of Agriculture is directed to continue making loans to farmers under the provisions of such section 2.

Sec. 206. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized and empowered to make loans under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act to financial institutions, corporations, railroads, and other classes of borrowers specified in section 5 of such act, organized under the laws of the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico. As used in this title and in section 15 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act the term "State" includes the District of Columbia, Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

"The Secretary of the Treasury, at the request of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is authorized to market for the corporation its notes, debentures, bonds, and other such obligations, using therefor all the facilities of the Treasury Department now authorized by law for the marketing of obligations of the United States. The proceeds of the obligations of the corporation so marketed shall be deposited in the same manner as proceeds derived from the sale of obligations of the United States, and the amount thereof shall be credited to the corporation on the books of the Treasury."

Title III—Public works

Sec. 301. (a) For the purpose of providing for emergency construction of certain authorized public works with a view to increasing employment and carrying out the policy declared in the employment stabilization act of 1931, there is hereby appropriated, out of any money in the Treasury not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $322,224,000, which shall be allocated as follows:

(1) For expenditure in emergency construction on the Federal-aid highway system, $120,000,000. Such sum shall be apportioned by the Secretary of Agriculture to the several States by the method provided in section 21 of the Federal highway act, as amended and supplemented (U. S. C., title 23, sec. 21). The amounts apportioned to the States shall be available as a temporary advance of funds to meet the provisions of such act as to State funds. The amount apportioned to any State under this paragraph may be used to match the regular annual Federal-aid apportionments made to such State (including the one for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1933), and when so used such amount shall be available for expenditure in paying the share of such State in the cost of Federal-aid projects. No amounts apportioned under this paragraph shall be advanced except for work on the Federal-aid highway system performed before July 1, 1933: Provided, That the amounts so advanced shall be reimbursed to the Federal Government over a period of ten years, commencing with the fiscal year 1938, by making annual deductions from regular apportionments made from future authorizations for carrying out the provisions of such act, as amended and supplemented: Provided further, That all contracts involving the expenditure of such amounts shall contain provisions establishing minimum rates of wages, to be predetermined by the State highway department, which contractors shall pay to skilled and unskilled labor, and such minimum rates shall be stated in the invitation for bids and shall be included in proposals or bids for the work: And provided further, That in the expenditure of such amounts, the limitations in the Federal highway act, as amended and supplemented, upon highway construction, reconstruction, and bridges within municipalities and upon payments per mile which may be made from Federal funds, shall not apply. As used in this paragraph, the term "State" includes the Territory of Hawaii. The term "highway," as defined in the Federal highway act, approved November 9, 1921, as amended and supplemented, for the purposes of this paragraph only, shall be deemed to include such main State parkways as may be designated by the State and approved by the Secretary of Agriculture as part of the Federal-aid highway system.

S. C., Supp. V, title 23, secs. 3 and 3a), $2,000,000. The Secretary of Agriculture and the Secretary of the Interior, respectively, are authorized to make rules and regulations for carrying out the foregoing provisions of this section with a view to providing the maximum employment of local labor consistent with reasonable economy of construction.

"Whenever provision has been made by any State for the completion and maintenance of 90 per centum of its system of primary or interstate and secondary or intercounty highways equal to 7 per centum of the total mileage of such State, as required by this act, said State through its State highway department, by and with the approval of the Secretary of Agriculture, is hereby authorized to increase the mileage of the primary or interstate and secondary or intercounty systems by additional mileage equal to not more than 1 per centum of said total mileage of such State, and thereafter to make like increases in the mileage of said systems whenever provision has been made for the completion and maintenance of 90 per centum of the mileage of said systems previously authorized in accordance herewith."

Sec. 305. After the date of the enactment of this act, in the acquisition of any land or site for the purposes of section 301 (a) (10):

(1) The period of solicitation of proposals by public advertisement shall be ten days in lieu of twenty days;

(2) In any case in which such site or land is to be acquired by condemnation, the provisions of section 355 of the Revised Statutes, as amended, shall not apply; and

(3) Notwithstanding the provisions of section 1 of the act entitled "An act to expedite the construction of public buildings and works outside of the District of Columbia by enabling possession and title of sites to be taken in advance of final judgment in proceedings for the acquisition thereof under the power of eminent domain," approved February 26, 1931 (U. S. C., Supp. V, title 40, sec. 258a), in any case in which any land or any interest therein is to be acquired by condemnation, the Secretary of the Treasury, through the Attorney General, may, prior to the institution of condemnation proceedings, file with the clerk of the district court of the district in which such land is located a declaration of taking, containing the matters required by such section to be included in a declaration of taking. The declaration of taking shall be accompanied by the deposit with such clerk, to the use of the parties who may be found to be entitled thereto, of the amount of the estimated compensation stated in the declaration. As soon as practicable after the filing of such declaration of taking, the Secretary of the Treasury shall cause to be posted in a prominent place upon the land a notice reciting (A) that the land or the interest therein is taken by the United States for public use, (B) that a declaration of taking in respect of such land or interest therein has been filed with the clerk of the court of the district, and (C) that there has been deposited with such clerk, to the use of the parties who may be found to be entitled thereto, the estimated just compensation for the land or interest therein taken. The Secretary of the Treasury shall give written notice similar to the posted notice, by personal service in the case of actual occupants of the premises or, if with reasonable diligence such personal service can not be made, he shall send such notice by registered mail directed to the premises, and he shall send notice by registered mail directed to their last known address in the case of all parties who the Secretary ascertains have or may have an interest in such land, and he may give such additional notice by newspaper publication or otherwise as he deems necessary. Upon posting notice on the land, title to the land or interest therein shall vest in the United States, and the right to just compensation therefor shall vest in the parties entitled thereto. The Secretary of the Treasury shall cause notice to be personally served upon, or if with reasonable diligence such service can not be made, to be sent by registered mail to actual occupants of the premises, setting a time (not earlier than twenty days after the service or sending of such notice) at which such parties shall surrender possession, and at the end of such time the right to possession shall vest in the United States. The Secretary of the Treasury may designate any person to serve any notice under the preceding provisions of this subsection and such person shall have power to enter upon such land for the purpose of posting notice or to make personal service of notice. If any such party fails or refuses so to surrender possession, upon summary petition for an order to surrender possession filed in such district court by or on behalf of the Secretary of the Treasury, the court may, by writ of assistance or other process, order the surrender of possession. A petition in condemnation shall be filed in such district court as soon after the filing of the declaration of taking as practicable. In any such condemnation proceeding, no further declaration of taking shall be required, and the provisions of section 1 of such act of February 26, 1931, authorizing the court to fix the time when parties in possession shall be required to surrender possession, shall not apply. If such petition for condemnation is not filed within a reasonable time after the filing of such declaration of taking, any person entitled to just compensation in respect of the property so taken shall be entitled to sue the United States in the court in which such declaration of taking was filed. The procedure in such suit shall be the same as in suits against the United States founded upon contract, except that such suit may be heard even if the amount of the claim is greater than $10,000 and except that the procedure for the ascertainment of the amount of just compensation shall be the same as such procedure in condemnation proceedings. If the petition for condemnation is filed prior to the time the commissioners in condemnation, jurors, or other persons charged with the duty of valuing the property are empaneled, such suit shall be dismissed, except that such suit and the condemnation proceedings may, in the discretion of the court, and under rules prescribed by it, be consolidated to such extent as the court may deem practicable. In any suit authorized to be brought under this subsection or in any condemnation proceeding involving land acquired in accordance with this subsection, the court shall enter judgment against the United States in favor of the parties entitled for the sum or sums awarded as just compensation, respectively, for the land or interest therein taken for the use of the United States and such judgment shall be paid out of the sums deposited with the court and such additional sums as may be awarded shall be paid in the same manner as sums awarded in judgments in cases in which the United States has consented to be sued. The provisions of such act of February 26, 1931, except as modified by this subsection, shall apply to all such suits or condemnation proceedings. The provisions of this subsection shall not be construed to be in substitution for, but shall be supplemental to, any method of acquiring land or interests therein provided in existing law.

Sec. 306. In the construction of post offices and of buildings for post offices and other offices provided for in section 301 (a) (10), the Secretary of the Treasury with the cooperation of the Postmaster General may use such standard plans (heretofore or hereafter prepared) as may be most adaptable to the particular building to be constructed.

The House then proceeded to the consideration of the following amendments of the Senate in disagreement:

Amendment No. 46: Page 41, after line 9, insert:

Sec. 29. That notwithstanding any provisions of law prohibiting bonds of the United States from bearing the circulation privilege, for a period of three years from the date of enactment of this act all outstanding bonds of the United States heretofore issued or issued during such period, bearing interest at a rate not exceeding 3⅜ per centum per annum, shall be receivable by the Treasurer of the United States as security for the issuance of circulating notes to national banking associations, and upon the deposit with the Treasurer of the United States by a national banking association of any such bonds, such association shall be entitled to receive circulating notes in the same manner and to the same extent and subject to the same conditions and limitations now provided by law in the case of 2 per centum gold bonds of the United States bearing the circulation privilege; except that the limitation contained in section 9 of the act of July 12, 1882, as amended, with respect to the amount of lawful money which may be deposited with the Treasurer of the United States by national banking associations for the purpose of withdrawing bonds held as security for their circulating notes, shall not apply to the bonds of the United States to which the circulation privilege is extended by this section and which are held as security for such notes. Nothing contained in this section shall be construed to modify, amend, or repeal any law relating to bonds of the United States which now bear the circulation privilege.

As used in this section, the word "bonds" shall not include notes, certificates, or bills issued by the United States.

There are hereby authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of this section.

Amendment No. 47: Page 42, line 17, strike out "29" and insert 30.

Mr. STEAGALL moved that the House recede from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate No. 46 and concur therein with the following amendment:

In lieu of the matter proposed to be inserted by the Senate amendment insert:

Sec. 29. (a) That notwithstanding any provisions of law prohibiting bonds of the United States from bearing the circulation privilege, for a period of three years from the date of enactment of this act, all outstanding bonds of the United States heretofore issued or issued during such period, bearing interest at a rate not exceeding 3⅜ per centum per annum, shall be receivable by the Treasurer of the United States as security for the issuance of circulating notes to national banking associations, and upon the deposit with the Treasurer of the United States by a national banking association of any such bonds, such association shall be entitled to receive circulating notes in the same manner and to the same extent and subject to the same conditions and limitations now provided by law in the case of 2 per centum gold bonds of the United States bearing the circulation privilege, except that the limitation contained in section 9 of the act of July 12, 1882, as amended, with respect to the amount of lawful money which may be deposited with the Treasurer of the United States by national banking associations for the purpose of withdrawing bonds held as security for their circulating notes, shall not apply to the bonds of the United States to which the circulation privilege is extended by this subsection and which are held as security for such notes. Nothing contained in this subsection shall be construed to modify, amend, or repeal any law relating to bonds of the United States which now bear the circulation privilege.

(b) As used in subsection (a), the word "bonds" shall not include notes, certificates, or bills issued by the United States.

(c) There are hereby authorized to be appropriated such sums as may be necessary to carry out the provisions of subsection (a).

(d) The Federal reserve act is amended by adding at the end thereof a new section to read as follows:

"Sec. 31. It is hereby declared to be the policy of the United States that the average purchasing power of the dollar as ascertained by the Department of Labor in the wholesale commodity markets for the period covering the years 1921 to 1929, inclusive, shall be restored and maintained by the control of the volume of credit and currency."

(e) The Federal Reserve Board, the Federal reserve banks, and the Secretary of the Treasury are hereby charged with the duty of making effective the policy set forth in subsection (d).

(f) Acts and parts of acts inconsistent with the terms of subsection (d) or (e) are hereby repealed.

Mr. MCFADDEN made the point of order that the subject matter of section 29 of the bill and the proposed amendment refer to distinct and different matters, and therefore the amendment is not in order.

After debate,

The SPEAKER overruled the point of order and said:

"The Chair is ready to rule. Wherever an amendment has for its purpose the accomplishment of the same results, it is germane. However different the language may be, if its ultimate object results in the same purpose, undoubtedly it is germane.

"The Chair believes that the so-called Goldsborough amendment—and he has read the debate on it—had for its purpose the increasing not only of the credit but of the currency of the country. The Members voted on it with that understanding. The Glass proposal undoubtedly has for its purpose the extension of the national bank note currency so far as the banks desire to use bonds for that purpose. So both of these propositions have for their purpose the expansion of the currency of the United States and making it less valuable in comparison with commodity prices.

"In answer to the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. LUCE] that the rule ought to be—and the Chair believes it ought to be as far as it can be enforced—that the House should not be surprised, and therefore no amendment ought to be considered on a wholly new subject matter, the Chair will state that that happens not to be the case in this instance. The House did discuss the Goldsborough amendment, but it has never had a chance to discuss the Glass amendment. It did vote on the Goldsborough amendment and voted 289 to 60 in favor of the Goldsborough amendment. In the opinion of the Chair, it can not be said that after the House so overwhelmingly voted in favor of the Goldsborough amendment—as the Chair stated, 289 for the amendment and only 60 against it—the House is taken by surprise.

"The Chair believes that they both have the same purpose; and although the Glass amendment would not have been in order to this bill originally in the House, having been put on in the Senate in violation of the House rules, under our rules we are compelled to consider the Senate amendment, and therefore an amendment to the Senate amendment which does not violate the rules of the House is germane; and the Chair overrules the point of order."

After debate,

On motion of Mr. STEAGALL, by unanimous consent,

Ordered, That the time for debate be extended 30 minutes and at the conclusion of said debate the previous question be considered as ordered on the motion to recede and concur with an amendment.

After further debate,

The question was put,

Will the House recede and concur in said Senate amendment No. 46 with an amendment?

It was decided in the negative, { Yeas---------- 126 / Nays---------- 217

That this act may be cited as the "Emergency relief and construction act of 1932."

"Title I—Relief of Destitution

Section 1. (a) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized and empowered to make available out of the funds of the corporation the sum of $300,000,000, under the terms and conditions hereinafter set forth, to the several States and Territories, to be used in furnishing relief and work relief to needy and distressed people and in relieving the hardship resulting from unemployment, but not more than 15 per centum of such sum shall be available to any one State or Territory. Such sum of $300,000,000 shall, until the expiration of two years after the date of enactment of this act, be available for payment to the governors of the several States and Territories for the purposes of this section, upon application therefor by them in accordance with subsection (c), and upon approval of such applications by the corporation.

(b) All amounts paid under this section shall bear interest at the rate of 3 per centum per annum, and, except in the case of Puerto Rico and the Territory of Alaska, shall be reimbursed to the corporation, with interest thereon at the rate of 3 per centum per annum, by making annual deductions, beginning with the fiscal year 1935, from regular apportionments made from future Federal authorizations in aid of the States and Territories for the construction of highways and rural post roads, of an amount equal to one-fifth of the share which such State or Territory would be entitled to receive under such apportionment, except for the provisions of this section, or of an amount equal to one-fifth of the amounts so paid to the governor of such State or Territory pursuant to this section and all accrued interest thereon to the date of such deduction, whichever is the lesser, until the sum of such deductions equals the total amounts paid under this section and all accrued interest thereon. Whenever any such deduction is made, the Secretary of the Treasury shall immediately pay to the corporation an amount equal to the amount so deducted. If any State or Territory shall, within two years after the date of enactment of this act, enter into an agreement with the corporation for the repayment to the corporation of the amounts paid under this section to the governor of such State or Territory, with interest thereon as herein provided, in such installments and upon such terms as may be agreed upon, then the deduction under this subsection shall not be made unless such State or Territory shall be in default in the performance of the terms of such agreement. In the case of a default by the State or Territory in any such agreement, the agreement shall thereupon be terminated and reimbursement of the unpaid balance of the amount covered by such agreement shall be made by making annual deductions in the manner above provided (beginning with the fiscal year next following such default) from regular apportionments made to such State or Territory from future Federal authorizations in aid of the States and Territories for the construction of highways and rural post roads. Before any amount is paid under this section to the Governor of Puerto Rico or of the Territory of Alaska, Puerto Rico or the Territory of Alaska shall enter into an agreement with the corporation for the repayment of such amount with interest thereon as herein provided, in such installments and upon such terms and conditions as may be agreed upon.

(c) The governor of any State or Territory may from time to time make application for funds under this section, and in each application so made shall certify the necessity for such funds and that the resources of the State or Territory, including moneys then available and which can be made available by the State or Territory, its political subdivisions, and private contributions, are inadequate to meet its relief needs. All amounts paid to the governor of a State or Territory under this section shall be administered by the governor, or under his direction, and upon his responsibility. The governor shall file with the corporation and with the auditor of the State or Territory (or, if there is no auditor, then with the official exercising comparable authority) a statement of the disbursements made by him under this section.

(d) Nothing in this section shall be construed to authorize the corporation to deny an otherwise acceptable application under this section because of constitutional or other legal inhibitions or because the State or Territory has borrowed to the full extent authorized by law. Whenever an application under this section is approved by the corporation in whole or in part, the amount approved shall be immediately paid to the governor of the State or Territory upon delivery by him to the corporation of a receipt therefor, stating that the payment is accepted subject to the terms of this section.

(e) Any portion of the amount approved by the corporation for payment to the governor of a State or Territory shall, at his request, and with the approval of the corporation, be paid to any municipality or political subdivision of such State or Territory if (1) the governor makes as to such municipality or political subdivision a like certificate as provided in subsection (c) as to the State or Territory, and (2) such municipality or political subdivision enters into an agreement with the corporation for the repayment to the corporation of the amount so paid, with interest at the rate of 3 per centum per annum, at such times, and upon such other terms and conditions, as may be agreed upon between the corporation and such municipality or political subdivision. The amount paid to any municipality or political subdivision under this subsection shall not be included in any amounts reimbursable to the corporation under subsection (b) of this section.

(f) As used in this section the term "Territory" means Alaska, Hawaii, and Puerto Rico.

Title II—Loans by Reconstruction Finance Corporation

Sec. 201. (a) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized and empowered—

(1) to make loans to, or contracts with, States, municipalities, and political subdivisions of States, public agencies of States, of municipalities, and of political subdivisions of States, public corporations, boards and commissions, and public municipal instrumentalities of one or more States, to aid in financing projects authorized under Federal, State, or municipal law which are self-liquidating in character, such loans or contracts to be made through the purchase of their securities, or otherwise, and for such purpose the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized to bid for such securities: Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to prohibit the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, in carrying out the provisions of this paragraph, from purchasing securitites having a maturity of more than ten years;

(2) to make loans to corporations formed wholly for the purpose of providing housing for families of low income, or for reconstruction of slum areas, which are regulated by State or municipal law as to rents, charges, capital structure, rate of return, and areas and methods of operation, to aid in financing projects undertaken by such corporations which are self-liquidating in character;

(3) to make loans to private corporations to aid in carrying out the construction, replacement, or improvement of bridges, tunnels, docks, viaducts, waterworks, canals, and markets, devoted to public use and which are self-liquidating in character;

(4) to make loans to private limited dividend corporations to aid in financing projects for the protection and development of forests and other renewable natural resources, which are regulated by a State or political subdivision of a State and are self-liquidating in character; and

(5) to make loans to aid in financing the construction of any publicly owned bridge to be used for railroad, railway, and highway uses, the construction cost of which will be returned in part by means of tolls, fees, rents, or other charges, and the remainder by means of taxes imposed pursuant to State law enacted before the date of enactment of the emergency relief and construction act of 1932; and the Reconstruction Finance Corporation is further authorized and empowered to purchase bonds of any State, municipality, or other public body or agency issued for the purpose of financing the construction of any such bridge irrespective of the dates of maturity of such bonds.

For the purposes of this subsection a project shall be deemed to be self-liquidating if such project will be made self-supporting and financially solvent and if the construction cost thereof will be returned within a reasonable period by means of tolls, fees, rents, or other charges, or by such other means (other than by taxation) as may be prescribed by the statutes which provide for the project. All loans and contracts made by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation in respect of projects of the character specified in paragraphs (1) to (5) of this subsection shall be subject to the conditions that no convict labor shall be directly employed on any such project, and that (except in executive, administrative, and supervisory positions), so far as practicable, no individual directly employed on any such project shall be permitted to work more than thirty hours in any one week, and that in the employment of labor in connection with any such project preference shall be given, where they are qualified, to ex-service men with dependents.

The provisions of this subsection shall apply with respect to projects in Puerto Rico and the Territories to the same extent as in the case of projects in the several States, and as used in this subsection the term "States" includes Puerto Rico and the Territories.

(b) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation shall submit monthly to the President and to the Senate and the House of Representatives (or the Secretary of the Senate and the Clerk of the House of Representatives, if those bodies are not in session) a report of its activities and expenditures under this section and under the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act, together with a statement showing the names of the borrowers to whom loans and advances were made, and the amount and rate of interest involved in each case.

(c) In order that the surpluses of agricultural products may not have a depressing effect upon current prices of such products, the corporation is authorized and directed to make loans, in such amounts as may in its judgment be necessary, for the purpose of financing sales of such surpluses in the markets of foreign countries in which such sales can not be financed in the normal course of commerce; but no such sales shall be financed by the corporation if, in its judgment, such sales will affect adversely the world markets for such products: Provided, however, That no such loan shall be made to finance the sale in the markets of foreign countries of cotton owned by the Federal Farm Board or the Cotton Stabilization Corporation.

(d) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is authorized and empowered to make loans to bona fide institutions, organized under the laws of any State or of the United States and having resources adequate for their undertakings, for the purpose of enabling them to finance the carrying and orderly marketing of agricultural commodities and livestock produced in the United States.

(e) The Reconstruction Finance Corporation is further authorized to create in any of the twelve Federal land-bank districts where it may deem the same to be desirable a regional agricultural credit corporation with a paid-up capital of not less than $3,000,000, to be subscribed for by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and paid for out of the unexpended balance of the amounts allocated and made available to the Secretary of Agriculture under section 2 of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation act. Such corporations shall be managed by officers and agents to be appointed by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation under such rules and regulations as its board of directors may prescribe. Such corporations are hereby authorized and empowered to make loans or advances to farmers and stockmen, the proceeds of which are to be used for an agricultural purpose (including crop production), or for the raising, breeding, fattening, or marketing of livestock, to charge such rates of interest or discount thereon as in their judgment are fair and equitable, subject to the approval of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and to rediscount with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the various Federal reserve banks and Federal intermediate credit banks any paper that they acquire which is eligible for such purpose. All expenses incurred in connection with the operation of such corporations shall be supervised and paid by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation under such rules and regulations as its board of directors may prescribe.

(f) All loans made under this section, and all contracts of the character described in paragraph (1) of subsection (a), shall be fully and adequately secured. The corporation, under such conditions as it shall prescribe, may take over or provide for the administration and liquidation of any collateral accepted by it as security for such loans. Such loans shall be made on such terms and conditions, not inconsistent with this act, as the corporation may prescribe, and may be made directly upon promissory notes or by way of discount or rediscount of obligations tendered for the purpose, or otherwise in such form and in such amount and at such interest or discount rates as the corporation may approve: Provided, That no loans or advances (except loans under subsection (c)) shall be made upon foreign securities or foreign acceptances as collateral.

(g) Each such loan may be made for a period not exceeding three years, and the corporation may, from time to time, extend the time of payment of any such loan, through renewal, substitution of new obligations, or otherwise, but the time for such payment shall not be extended beyond five years from the date upon which such loan was made originally: Provided, That loans or contracts of the character described in subsection (a) may be made for a period not exceeding ten years: Provided, further, That loans or contracts of the character described in paragraph (1) or (5) of subsection (a) may be made for a period exceeding ten years when it is the judgment of the board of directors of the corporation that it is necessary to purchase securities as provided in such paragraphs and that it is not practicable to require the reimbursement of the corporation, within ten years, through the repurchase or payment of such securities, or in any other manner.

(h) The corporation may make loans under this section at any time prior to January 23, 1934.

(i) No fee or commission shall be paid by any applicant for a loan under the provisions of this section in connection with any such application or any loan made or to be made under this section, and the agreement to pay or payment of any such fee or commission shall be unlawful.

(j) No loan under this section shall be made to a railroad or to a receiver of a railroad except on the approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Any railroad may obligate itself in such form as shall be prescribed and otherwise comply with the requirements of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the corporation with respect to the deposit or assignment of security hereunder, without the authorization or approval of any authority, State or Federal, and without compliance with any requirement, State or Federal, as to notification other than such as may be imposed by the Interstate Commerce Commission and the corporation under the provisions of this section.
