Million Times Deadlier Than Dynamite

By Douglas W. F. Mayer

The possibility of making use of the latent energy of the atom is one that has fascinated technicians ever since it was first realized that our natural sources of power are limited. Although we are not yet able to say that atomic power is 'just round the corner,' there are indications that a step forward towards attaining it has been made during the last few months. Already, in New York, atomic power has been used to start chemical reactions, whilst, in France, scientists engaged in research on this topic are getting worried at the thought of liberating energy in sufficiently vast and sudden quantities to blow them and their apparatus out of existence.

The chain of discovery which led up to this position began in March 1934, when Prof. E. Fermi, of the Royal University of Rome, found that the bombardment of uranium with neutrons gave rise to new radioactive elements. (Neutrons are exceedingly small subatomic particles, which have no electrical charge, and have thus great penetrating power.)

In making a further study, Dr. F. Joliot-Curie, the husband of Madame Joliot-Curie and sharer with her of a Nobel Prize, with his collaborators at the College de France, came across even more exciting results. He found that at the moment of fission of the uranium nucleus, new, fast moving neutrons were emitted—neutrons with energies of at least eleven million electron-volts. The uranium, bombarded with slow neutrons, was emitting fast ones!

In their initial experiments, Joliot and his collaborators used only minute pieces of uranium, and consequently the neutrons, which can penetrate even metals for some distances, were able to escape. But, they asked themselves, what would happen if the neutrons were liberated in the centre of a lump of uranium sufficiently large to prevent their escape?

Mindful, perhaps, of the fact that, even supposing only one-fourth of the uranium is converted into energy, one ounce of uranium will produce sufficient energy to boil about one thousand tons of water, the French scientists can be excused a little trepidation in continuing their work. Adler and von Halban, of the College de France, have stated: "The danger that a system containing uranium in high concentration might explode, once the chain is started, is considerable."

Recently, however, they have been investigating a method of controlling the process, by means of diluting the uranium with an absorbent, such as cadmium, and further research on the question of the liberation of energy is now proceeding. Let us hope, for their sake, that dilution process works.

Meanwhile, experimenters in New York have demonstrated that, even in its present stage, sufficient energy can be obtained from the uranium fission to cause, some distance away, the decomposition of nitrogen iodide, an unstable chemical compound.

Before optimistic speculators rush on ahead, however, let us point out that atomic power on a practical scale is still at present as far away a dream as ever, though we can, if we like, regard the first steps towards the realization of the dream as having been taken.

Those who wish to speculate can ask themselves what society will make of atomic power should it come in the next century or so. Will it create a streamlined world where a pinch of salt is sufficient fuel for the Queen Mary, or shall we have a Wellsian chaos with each nation dropping bouquets of uranium bombs in a policy of encirclement?

All those who love France, all those who love freedom, will sympathise with the French people in their terrible plight. A cultured and charming people who have enjoyed a freedom that enabled them to glory in their own beautiful land, to be suddenly plunged into an existence when life, actions and even food is known in history, is one of the most heartrending incidents of the present war.

Is it any wonder that the Frenchmen not subject to Nazi domination, are, under the able leadership of Gen. de Gaulle, making a bid to liberate their country and its people, and to set them free to enjoy that freedom of life and expression which is their right?

Help Gen. de Gaulle and his gallant free Frenchmen in their determination to free their country in striking at the enemy for the cause of liberty. Show your practical support by sending a donation, however small to:

EXTRACT FROM A LETTER OF PRAISE RECEIVED FROM A DOCTOR.

THE ANGLO-FRENCH MEDICAL AGENCY;

GENTLEMEN: It is with great pleasure that I take this opportunity to express my appreciation of the fine products you stock. I have used many of them with remarkable success. In these days, it is indeed hard to choose a good product from the numbers with which the market is glutted"—

Dr. S. C. Elliott. (Rangoon.)

Everything that contributes to Curative Power is embodied in these Scientific Remedies.

Divers were driven insane by what they saw in Odessa Bay

THE MARCHING DEAD

By Captain J. D. Craig

Those waters are accursed. Live men don't die there and dead men"—he shrugged his shoulders eloquently—"come to life. I have no fear of death nor of life, of course. But when life and death are mixed and the dead march against the living, then, my friend, those waters appeal not to me."

They stared at him, fascinated. Plainly, they had heard something of that before, but he would not be questioned. He had seen the macabre marching and he was alive. Others had seen and were dead. He lapsed into silence.

I laughed, for this Russian diver's vague narrative sounded like a lunatic's nightmare. What he had seen, I decided, was a group of divers, the spectacle enhanced by his own imagination.

Months later, I casually mentioned it to another Russian I chanced to meet—a Black Sea sailor. He stared at me and explained: "I've heard of them but I left that country soon after the war of 1914-18 and when I got back they were gone, people said. They were not divers, be sure of that. They were drowned men in ragged clothes with frightful faces. They lived down there in the mud. Divers would die after meeting the marching dead, die horribly on land, and soon none would go down."

Then one day, I heard more about the strange tale from a chap who had been with the British Navy in the war of 1914-18.

"Odessa?" Oh yes, he knew of it and more than enough. What he knew came to me indirectly but it strengthened the grisly saga of underseas and completely tormented my imagination. He had new facts—but no solution.

When all Russia was in terror, he recalled, when the Romanoffs had been slain in a cellar and the Kerensky Government overthrown, madness had raged in Odessa with conflicting parties and factions pillaging the city, killing one another, struggling for control. There had been a hospital there, but after the German invasion and the subsequent seizure by the Bolshevik forces, the city was in shambles.

After the Armistice, a British destroyer tore through the Black Sea and cast anchor in the deep clinging mud of Odessa Bay, preparatory to warping into dock. An anchor was lost, and the destroyer dropped a diver down to locate it. Before he reached bottom he was signalling to be drawn up, screaming like a maniac into his phone. When his gear was removed, he collapsed to the deck. The congested, swollen state of his face showed something extraordinary had happened to him—and he was speechless. He was hurried ashore to the hospital.

Hospital doctors could give little information. They repeated the incredible story that Odessa natives told—a tale of kidnapped men who never were seen again, dead or alive. Perhaps they were living at the bottom of the sea!

All of which struck the stolid British seamen as stuff and nonsense. But His Majesty's Navy had lost an anchor and that anchor had to be found. The captain ordered that diving operations be resumed. An officer volunteered to carry on the search and he was lowered.

Odessa Bay is not deep but the bottom is very soft and into the water for many years has been spewed the waste of chemical and tin-plate factories and the officer stirred up masses of debris as he worked. Suddenly he sustained the shock of his life.

What he saw was a company of men marching towards him—dead men marching as if to meet him. Some wore tattered uniforms, some were in civilian clothes. Eyes bleared like the eyes of fish, mouths agape, lips contorted as in silent laughter on some faces, on others as if ready to shout a warning. They moved slowly as though they feared they would be carried upward to the sea's surface.

Then something seemed to snap in the heart of the fright-frozen officer, and his veins stretched as from some surging force. The awful creatures stopped abruptly. Their naked arms lifted from the rags, their puffy hands extended, their laughing, gaping, grimacing mouths seemed to welcome him. They moved like soldiers, in unison and with a suggestion of keeping step as to inaudible music, perhaps to their own guttural chanting! No emaciated refugees, they! Fat as monstrous sea slugs they seemed, and their flesh was mottled and repellent, like dwellers far from sunshine!

Bearded, many of them were, but others showed faces cadaverously clean. And . . . they . . . were . . . coming . . . towards him with arms outstretched again!

On the destroyer's deck, they felt the tug of the cables and without waiting for a word from the phone hoisted the officer aboard. He was senseless when the helmet was screwed off. Doctors went to work and he told what he had seen.

Right there, the weird narrative broke off short. But what the former British sailor said lashed my determination to get the answer to it all, for certain I was that an answer existed.

What Odessa would not give up, Chicago did! A learned doctor chatted with me over a cup of coffee recently. The subject of diving and its effect on health came up. He professed deep interest and explained:

"Through the war, I was in Odessa, at the hospital there. One of our staff, Dr. Sokoloff, a Russian like myself, was seized by anarchist terrorists."

I held my breath lest the spell be broken and nodded eagerly. Casually, the doctor said:

"The Bolsheviks helped us search. We learned he had been murdered by the terrorists and thrown into the bay. We offered a reward. Divers went down and some came up quite insane, temporarily, and one or two died from strange maladies. Then a British destroyer lost an anchor and sent an officer down. He didn't find the anchor, but he saw a shocking spectacle and finally was able to describe it—dead men marching on him, he said, a regiment of them, ragged, revolting to see, but alive, marching as to music. They thought he was insane."

"But were there marching dead down there?" I asked. "Or were all the divers crazy?"

"No, not exactly," said the doctor, thoughtfully. "You see, before the Bolsheviks arrived, the anarchist terrorists imprisoned scores of men for revenge or ransom. The prisons were filled. They were chained by the legs to prevent flight, but their hands were free. When the Bolshevik forces arrived, the terrorists fled, but first they shot their prisoners lest they talked to the invaders. Then they flung the bodies into the bay—and those are the bodies the divers saw."

"But, they were standing up, they were the marching dead?"

"They were standing," explained the doctor, "because their leg-irons were so heavy that their feet were held in the mud. The water is not deep and surface disturbances would stir them. They did not march but they moved together—the currents in the bay swayed them. Ultimately, we recovered every corpse. And that is all."

"No, it isn't!" I exclaimed. "Such bodies would have been decomposed. And why were so many divers stricken?"

"Gently, my friend" urged the doctor. "The masses of industrial chemicals dumped into the bay evidently preserved the bodies. As for the maladies of the divers, we never understood them fully. Possibly they can be explained by glandular action and the chemistry of fear. All the divers were brave, experienced, accustomed to danger—but none to the shock of what they saw. Perhaps the excessive adrenalin poured into the blood stream—which already had been charged heavily with nitrogen, due to the pressure under water—many have generated deadly poisons, but we are not sure. The shock, of course, induced insanity."

And so the mystery of the marching dead had been solved.

18th CENTURY PROPHECY

The time will come, when thou shalt lift thine eyes

To watch a long-drawn battle in the skies,
While aged peasants, too amazed for words,
Stare at the flying fleets of wond'rous birds.
England, so long the mistress of the sea,
Where winds and waves confess her sovereignty,
Her ancient triumphs yet on high shall bear,
And reign, the sovereign of the conquered air.

(Translated from Gray's 'Luna Habitabilis', Cambridge 1737)

Make it come true! Over two hundred years ago this remarkable vision of the war in the air was written down in Latin verse by the great English poet who composed the famous 'Elegy'. To make Great Britain 'Sovereign of the conquered air' is now our task. There is no time to 'stare at the flying fleets,' we must exert all our energies to increase them. Everyone must help. You can help with money.

BRITISH EMPIRE—Immense influence for good.

ASLEEP FOR FOUR YEARS War Wounded Man Awakes

Awaking in a Kent hospital after four years sleep, during which he was nourished by means of injections, Victor Cleave, of Folkestone, says that he remembers nothing. He had no dreams no thoughts, and no feelings. Cleave was wounded in the head in the war. Later he was employed on the railway. He fell asleep at his work, people calling him "lazy bones" and "Weary Willie," and when he was sent to hospital he was in a state of coma. He is now at home with his wife and children.

BROUGHT BACK FROM THE GRAVE

Dr. S. Bruikhenko, of Moscow, inventor of the artificial heart, claims that he can bring the dead back to life.

This fantastic claim the doctor bases on the experiments he has carried out on animals. He has frozen dogs to death, thawed them out, and then set their hearts working again.

Dr. Bruikhenko claims that if Amundsen, the famous explorer, who was lost in the Arctic, is found, he will be able to bring him back to life, provided that he is still frozen.

That life can be restored to the apparently dead in cases where the heart stops under an anaesthetic is well known. All that has happened is that the heart, the body's giant pump, has stopped for a moment. It can be revived by the massaging hand of the surgeon.

Seems Fantastic

But that a man long frozen in the ice of the Polar regions can be made to breathe and think again seems as fantastic as Faust's dream: to conjure back the gift of youth from old age.

But Faust enlisted the Devil on his side in his war against death. Dr. Bruikhenko enlists science.

The Devil failed poor Faust. Is the Russian dreamer of scientific dreams likely to fare any better?

A German on the Germans

It is a hard saying and yet I say it because it is the truth. I cannot imagine a nation more inhuman than the Germans. You see artisans but no human beings, thinkers but no human beings, priests but no human beings, masters and servants, adult and educated men but no human beings—does this not remind you of a battlefield where arms and legs lie about whilst the life blood soaks away into the sand?

The virtues the Germans possess are nothing but glittering evil, nothing but a certain courage in emergency born of cowardly fear. Their wicked heart does not comfort a pure soul...

I tell you there is nothing holy which is not profaned and used as a makeshift by this nation; things which are respected as pure and holy by savages are exploited by this scheming people in the way of trade, for they cannot do otherwise...

If only they were modest, these people—if only they did not set themselves up as a law unto those who are far better than they—if only they did not revile whatever they themselves are not—and, if revile they must, if only they did not mock the Divine...

Nothing on earth is perfect—that is the burden of their song. Oh, would that someone would tell these men who do not know God that with them nothing can be perfect, because they defile every holy thing with the touch of their clumsy hands—because they do not reverence the root of all growth, holy Nature—because their life is empty and burdened with vain worries, full of cold and silent rancour—because they despise the genius which gives strength and nobility to human work, cheerfulness to pain, love and fraternal feelings to towns and houses...

Woe to the stranger who on his wanderings falls among such people, and thrice woe to him who, driven by sorrow, a beggar like me, comes into their midst...

From "Hyperion." by the great German poet, Friedrich Holderlin (1770-1843)

A Dutchman on the British

England is the fairest country in the world, as the British have an innate sense of justice.

Prophecy Fulfilled

An Italian named Francesco de Lana invented the world's first flying-boat—an ordinary hull supported by four balloons and a sail—in about 1650. He failed in his object, as the contraption refused to fly, but he succeeded as a prophet. He wrote: "God forbid that such a machine should ever come to be used practically, because it would very much disturb the civil and political life of peoples."

With an Idea and Determination... HE REVOLUTIONISED MEDICINE!

Prof. BROWN-SEQUARD, making his great discovery.

In 1889 Professor Charles Edouard Brown-Sequard, the famous scientist, made his epoch-making discovery, when he administered to himself glandular extract in his laboratory in Paris. To the amazement of himself and other physicians, the experiment proved a great success and a new chapter was opened in the modern book of therapeutics.

His life was a great one....most of it spent in a littered laboratory conducting ceaseless experiments. Never did a man work so hard—and succeed so brilliantly!

Professor Brown-Sequard's discovery is mentioned in authoritative medical books on the subject.

The harnessing of physical and chemical forces, which has produced our modern rapidity of travel and communication; steam, electric power, telegraphy, and the conquest of the air, affect our lives profoundly. And yet it may well be that biological knowledge and its many applications to the control and cure of disease and, above all, its elimination and prevention, have done far more to lighten the burden under which mankind struggles and to raise the level of civilization.

The great progress of medical science and the rapid strides it has made in the last hundred years have saved countless lives, prolonged and alleviated many others, and given us all a better chance of expanding what personal talents we have and of making the best of our time.

Humanity is beginning to see how to live.

All this is due to those men—Road Makers of Science—who have elucidated for us the immutable laws which underlie our functions. By no means the least of these was the immortal discoverer of Gland Therapy—Prof. Brown-Sequard, the famous French Scientist, for it is not difficult to see how he provided a sure basis on which modern science could build with confidence and success.

Although many lives have passed in the contemplation of Nature, attempting with infinite patience to solve the problems which she presents in such profusion, few philosophers have succeeded in making such a fundamental and far-reaching discovery as that of the function of the human glands.

It is not too much to say that enunciation of this principle revolutionised medicine and set it firmly upon a rational footing. So much was made clear and so many vistas were opened that it would seem that this conception was a lever powerful enough to set in motion those trains of scientific experiment and research which have brought us to our present state of knowledge and, still gathering speed and power, lead us confidently to hope for yet wider and deeper understanding of natural laws, in particular those which govern the great mystery of Life itself.

Gland Therapy is no myth. Some of the highest medical authorities in Europe and America believe in the curative efficacy of gland treatment for sexual weakness and other ailments.

ENDOPHON is acclaimed throughout the world as the greatest Glandular preparation for the permanent cure of sexual weakness. It is made in gelatine CAPSULE form, which fully preserves its curative power, unlike other remedies.

Dr. Armand Grimard
Diabetes Specialist.

MANY IMITATIONS but NONE EQUAL to PANCRE-VITE!

Insulin is not curative, but only has transient effects, besides the necessity for daily injections are extremely inconvenient and tend to become tiresome.

Pancre-Vite is the best Oral Insulin Remedy, convenient to use and very effective. Its powerful curative action strengthens and develops the pancreas which control the several phases of diabetic pathology.

Pancre-Vite easily supersedes Insulin as a specific for diabetes, as it contains the active derivatives of the pancreas with other substances necessary for the complete regeneration of the pancreatic tissues. Furthermore, it is prepared in Capsule form—specially hardened—to insure the passage through the stomach for immediate absorption in the intestine, with maximum curative efficacy.

This effective action cannot be obtained with preparations made in tablet or liquid form.

READ WHAT CURED PATIENTS SAY.

These are a few of the many hundreds of testimonials Received during the past five years; which are genuine and unsolicited.

WONDERFUL CHANGE

Mr. A. F. Webb. "Palm Court" Ground Floor. Churchgate Reclamation. Bombay. "..... I was tired of having Insulin injections daily. My doctor advised me to take by mouth Pancre-Vite. I followed his advice and am glad to say that the course of treatment effected a wonderful change in my condition. I have never felt so fit as I do now, since I got diabetes. There is no sign whatever of the disease....."

Completely Cured.

Mrs. S. T. Davis. 8, St. George's Gate Rd. Hastings. Calcutta. "..... I suffered for over five years with diabetes. It robbed me of energy and vitality. The digestive organs were also impaired, so my food seemed tasteless and like lead in my stomach. I passed a dreary existence. Pancre-Vite was the only remedy that helped me. I began taking it in January and when the warm weather came I was completely cured, felt like a new woman, full of life and hope.

Words cannot tell how pleased I am to have my health back. I have a keen appetite and enjoy my meals; digestion is perfect. All symptoms of diabetes have left me. I have gained twenty-six pounds in weight and feel in harmony with all the world because I am now perfectly well....."

Cured Thoroughly.

Mr. V. Thompson. 151, Keighley St. Rangoon. Burma. "..... I cannot fully express the thanks I owe for your Pancre-Vite. I have suffered from diabetes for so long that I did not think there was any cure for it as I had tried everything that was recommended to me. Finally, I gave Pancre-Vite a trial and to my delight it cured me thoroughly. There is no trace of sugar, and my weight and strength is much increased....."

Extracts from Commendatory Letters received from the Medical Profession. Most Valuable Remedy.

Dr. A. F. De. Ravnac. (Paris). writes:—"..... Pancre-Vite was first called to my attention by a patient of mine. The man in question, Monsieur Gabriel Coulondre, told me that no other medicine did him so much good as Pancre Vite, and after studying his case, I advised him to keep on taking it. He was suffering from chronic diabetes and told me that the disease was of twelve years standing. Monsieur Coulondre was perfectly cured after five months treatment."

Dr. De. Ravnac

I became fully convinced of the great value of Pancre-Vite after observing its beneficial results in a number of other cases. From the experience of a practice stretching over twenty years, I have no hesitation in stating that Pancre-Vite is a most valuable remedy for diabetes. I prescribe it myself now and shall be glad to add my endorsement to that of my brother physicians who are commending it....."

Positive and Permanent Cure.

Dr. R. C. Duhamel. (Paris). writes:—"..... I treated a diabetic patient last year with Pancre-Vite. The first six bottles did not give any perceptible improvement and my patient became disheartened and wanted to stop the treatment. I advised him to complete the course, pointing out that even the best medicines are slow to give improvement in certain cases, and he followed my advice with excellent results. After twelve bottles had been taken, the sugar began to diminish and weight had increased by 5 lbs. At the end of the course no sugar could be detected, even by analysis, and his weight is now 10 st. 8 lbs. perfectly normal for his height.

Dr. Duhamel

To make sure that there would be no recurrence of the disease, I advised my patient to take the treatment for a month longer than the prescribed course. At the time of writing this letter, it is six months since the treatment was stopped and there is no trace whatever of sugar or any other symptom.

Unhesitatingly, I endorse Pancre-Vite as a positive and permanent cure for Diabetes....."

1940 Millions of known cases of Syphilis all over the world

The pretty picture below is a microscopic portrait of a little creature whose name is Spirochaeta Pallida... or Spirochete, or Syphilis...

The Spirochete is a destructive medium with power beyond the wildest dreams of the most visionary munitions magnate. It has a kick like an express train; if it connects with your grandfather, your little daughter's teeth may drop out from the vibrations; it can cause anything from bright's disease to insanity in its victim; and today there are millions of cases all over the world.

Just in case the above seems vague, let me point out the relation of syphilis to other disease on a comparative basis as to prevalence—there is annually twice as much Syphilis as Scarlet Fever; 13 times as much as Typhoid Fever; and 1½ times as much as Tuberculosis..... There is no disease on earth, except Leprosy, so transmittable, so dreadful, so loathsome as Syphilis. This terrible disease, unless scientifically treated, rapidly effects its dire ravages, permeating the very brain, nerves and muscles, even the marrow of the bones, and exhausting the vitality of the most robust constitution.

Although, many barriers have broken down, Syphilis is still an unmentionable in most homes. This, in spite of the

In the Wassermann test the blood is placed in a test tube instead of being prepared on a slide. After it is in the test tube an antigen is added to the blood. The test tube is then placed into a refrigerator where it is left overnight.

In the morning another reagent is added.

And the test tube is then immersed in a warm water bath.

It is only after these steps that the colour change (dark & clear is negative... light & cloudy shows infection) may be observed.

fact that on an average every family of seven contains at least one infected person. And what's more shocking is the fact that in a survey of a representative group of men and women it was discovered that four out of five of them could be infected and, so far as a knowledge of the symptoms goes, they wouldn't know it! There in a nutshell you have the purpose of this article.

Syphilis has a past; it has a present; and it has a future which is being built up at the rate of hundreds of thousands of cases yearly. All this when there is a cure! 86 % of primary cases can be cured, and in secondary cases the rate of cures with the chemical oral treatment,—Neo Sadalan, is 81 %. This is the best treatment for all cases of Syphilis and absolutely safe to use. It is guaranteed to effect a thorough and permanent cure.

The safety of society demands that every patient suffering with syphilis should be required to continue the treatment until the disease is arrested or cured. Without energetic treatment with Neo Sadalan, the patient with Syphilis may expect to become progressively worse until he is utterly incapacitated and fatally affected. He should not think of stopping the treatment until repeated blood tests indicate that the disease is probably cured or at least definitely arrested. Even after such a supposed cure, he should take blood tests at intervals and should be on the alert for the first signs of recurrence. He should not consider marriage unless he is advised by competent medical authorities that it is probably safe. In the event of pregnancy supposedly cured women should take another course of treatment in order that she may with certainty protect the child.

Symptoms And Stages.

From ten to forty-six but generally twenty four days from the entry of the germs into the body, there appears on the affected part a small red pimple. It goes on increasing slowly and within a week becomes watery vesicle with inflamed base. The vesicle bursts and leaves a sore with a hard margin elevated edges, and depressed centre. The sore is painless and there is a very small amount of watery discharge from it. This sore is called a hard chancre and it indicates the locality where the virus was first introduced. Generally the sores are situated on the genitals but they have been observed on every part of the body. In the males, if the infection takes place at the genital region, the sores appear on the glans penis or under the foreskin or just on the opening of the urinary passage. A week after the appearance of the sore on the penis the lymphatic glands swell up. They are hard with no pus or pain. This is the primary stage of syphilis.

SECONDARY SYPHILIS:—On average, secondary symptoms appear in about six weeks, but they may appear months later. The patient feels restless, dispirited, and weak in body. More often than not, he suffers from rheumatic pains, particularly in the skin bones and the region of ankles. Scaly eruptions of a light red colour appear on the body and there is acute sore throat with ulcers on the tongue or mouth. The mucous membrane of the nasal passages also gets affected and there is foul discharge from the nose. Eye troubles, too, are not uncommon. The above symptoms are all due to the dissemination of the organism in the blood.

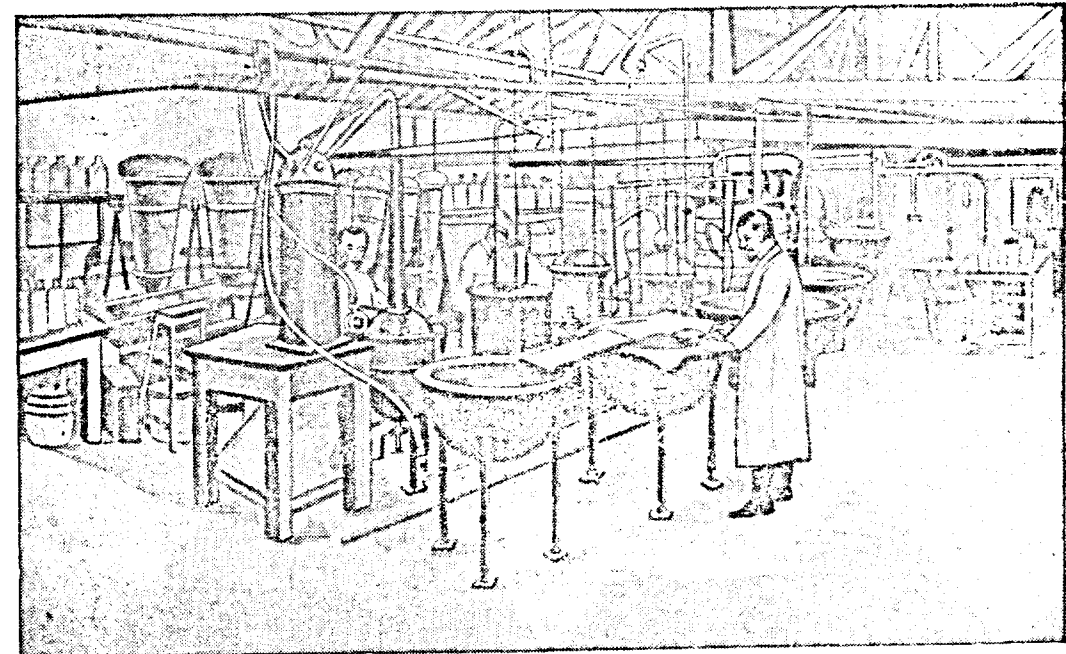

TERTIARY SYPHILIS is a disease of the bones and general diffusion of the poison through the system. It manifests itself in the inflammation of different glands of the body with severe pains in the bones.

The reason for this article is to show that there is hope; that there is a cure; that Syphilis is no longer an unknown assailant. It is a marauder whose habits and weaknesses are known to the extent that where he is found, he can be stamped out...annihilated.

THE GREAT SCIENTIFIC DISCOVERY OF THE BERGERET LABORATORIES.

Progress in clinical medicine is gist; but, whoever or whatever he is, he dependent on progress in the ancillary must see the necessity of applying sciences, physiology, pharmacology, etc., scientifically-established facts to human new discoveries in pure science are the needs.

stuff on which clinical progress feeds. But between the discovery in pure science and its application to medicine, there must be an investigator. He may be a physician, a chemist, a bacteriolo-

When a clinical application has been found for a scientific discovery, the work has just begun. A method must be worked out by which a chemical process or a biological technique employed in the experimental laboratory can be applied in production operations. And a practical method of clinical administration must be worked out, for an effective remedy cannot be reserved for a few selected patients—it must be made available to thousands. Moreover, the first crude product, perhaps eagerly sought because of the imperative need for it, must be improved and refined so that its efficacy may be increased and its field of usefulness broadened.

The Discovery of Endophon.

The year 1931 saw the discovery of ENDOPHON. It was made possible only by preceding research. Dr. Gustave Leclerc, a chemist on the consulting staff was the first to discover the activity of certain glands. Dr. Louis Perrancourt, also on the consulting staff, was likewise working on the problem. He completed his work shortly after Leclerc's discovery, and assigned to the preparation its correct formula.

The discovery of ENDOPHON marked a new era in Glandular Therapy. Recently, a new Gland Extract has been discovered and embodied in ENDOPHON, greatly increasing its curative efficacy.

Reported in Eighteen Medical Papers.

A striking example of the achievements of the Bergeret Laboratories is illustrated in the work which led to the discovery of ENDOPHON. The course of this work was reported in eighteen medical papers.

Policy of the Bergeret Laboratories.

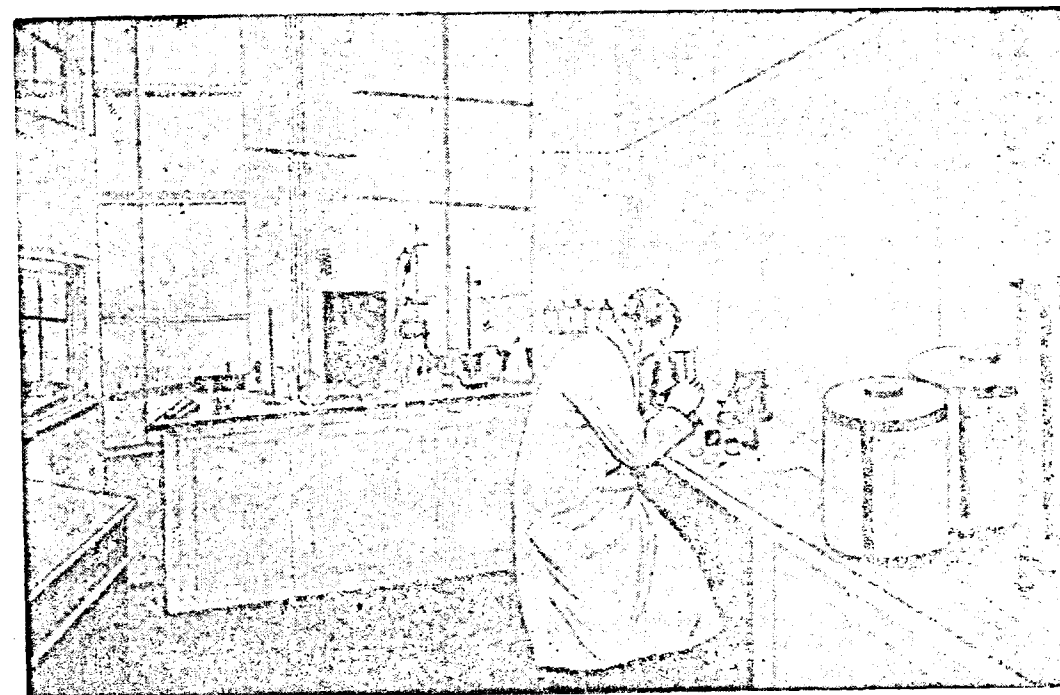

It has always been the policy of the Bergeret Laboratories never to offer a product to the world until it has been first subjected to the most exhaustive tests. Therefore; you may be sure that not only has a Bergeret Product been standardised, and made to conform to the highest degree of purity, and that the utmost demands of science have been utilized in its manufacture, but also that its therapeutic value has been demonstrated beyond any question of doubt.

Diabetes Mellitus and the Best Treatment.

Liver, defective Kidneys, pathological changes in the nervous system and worry.

Symptoms.

The Symptoms are Boils, Eczema and other skin affections. Excessive thirst, loss of weight and nervous prostration. Diabetes often leads to Impotence.

The Toll of Diabetes.

A rough estimate indicates that about 40,00,000 people in India, Burma and Ceylon suffer from this dreadful disease.

Types of Diabetes.

There are two types of diabetes, viz., (1) Diabetes Mellitus, where presence of sugar in the urine is indicated. This is the most common type, (2) Diabetes Insipidus—a condition where no sugar is present in the urine. This type is very rare. (Urine is passed in large quantities in both the conditions).

Diabetes Mellitus is one of the most dangerous, stubborn and treacherous of all diseases, if neglected. Any delay in treatment not only aggravates it, but leads to serious complications.

The Treatment.

The treatment at first was only a diet prescription. A revolution in the treatment was made by Banting of Canada, by the isolation of INSULIN. Insulin was hailed as a miracle, consummating the work started by Lancereaux in 1877. A new era was thus opened and was followed by intense research in the clinical field, the results of which have been published in many newspapers.

The disease is as old as the Sphinx. Ancient Egyptian treatises on medicine speak of a disease called Polyuria, which is none other than diabetes.

The Cause of Diabetes.

The cause of diabetes is due to a disturbance in the chemical process of digestion, with the result that the sugar passes with urine, instead of undergoing the normal transformation into other substances before it leaves the organism. Defective Pancreas gland is the chief cause of diabetes. Other causative factors are defective

But Insulin, unfortunately, is not in any sense a "cure" of diabetes mellitus. Spectacular as is its news, the diabetic who started to use it in 1922, is still using it and in virtually the same dosage. The death rate for diabetes has not altered much in 20 years. In short, the causative factors of the disease are controlled, not eradicated or changed.

The transient effects of Insulin and the necessity for its repeated injections have led some Continental workers to search for an oral Insulin compound, which would obviate these two great drawbacks of Insulin therapy in Diabetes.

The Solution of the Problem.

Early in 1937, Grimard of Paris announced his oral Insulin preparation, which he named Pancre-Vite, a combination of Pancreas gland extract (Insulin in solid form) with enzymes, Steapsin, Myrtillin, Amylopsin, Suprarenal Substance, Hepatic Juice and Hormones.

The administration of Pancreatic gland extracts with other substances by the mouth has scores of clinical and laboratory reports in its favour. One of these reports are given below:

"In a long series of blood-sugar tests on patients, Pancreas extract was found to cause a profound blood-sugar fall in 82% of the cases observed within two hours after administration by mouth. Controls of about an equal number of patients under the same clinical conditions, as far as this was possible, showed a fall in less than 40%."—W. N. Berkeley, "Principles and Practice of Endocrine Medicine," Page 261.

Grimard's oral insulin preparation is a true, well-balanced remedy for diabetes, so definitely capable of restoring the lost functions to the defective pancreas.

Pancre-Vite is prepared in the form of capsules and when acting, they produce a progressive decrease in the urinary sugar, and a gradual disappearance of the morbid phenomena found in a person suffering from diabetes. This preparation is quite harmless to take.

A Grave Warning.

Hundreds of thousands of people die every year from diabetes mellitus in India. Most of them could have been saved if only rational treatment had been taken. If you feel run down and if there is loss of appetite, sleeplessness, frequent urination and excessive thirst, then it is nature's warning and you should have your urine examined at once. If it is proved that you are suffering from diabetes, do not neglect yourself, but take treatment promptly.

Harmony of Body And Mind Quite Essential For Health

Health means harmony and unless there is harmony between the body and the mind health is impossible of attainment, writes Health editorially.

While it is possible to diagnose bodily diseases and cure them by timely medical aid, it is very hard to probe into the mind and treat its malady.

It may be said without fear of contradiction, that most bodily ailments are due to mental causes. Irregular habits in thinking, losing of temper, lack of self-control, fears and prejudices lead to mental ill-health and disorder.

For example, worry and depression of spirits may cause loss of appetite and dyspepsia. Rage may bring on heart failure or apoplexy.

Our ancients have laid great stress on the proper cultivation of the mind. Their methods were self-control, right thought and calmness. Self-control confers strength, right thought mastery and calmness, power.

"Britannia Rules . . ."

While the captured German fleet lay in Scapa Flow, an English quartermaster was posted on each vessel. To one of these, leaning over the taffrail came a German quartermaster.

"I sinks nosing of your ships," quoth he. The Englishman did not reply. "And I sinks nosing of your officers, your Jellicoes, your Beattys . . ." Overcome by his feelings, the German spat over the rail. Whereupon the Englishman turned and said calmly:

"Now! Look'ere. I dont care wot you thinks about our ships, our sailors, and our officers. But don't you go spittin' into our sea!"

- The English sailor has a preference for rum
- The American tar likes rye
- But the Italians stick to port.

Twelve Thousand Miles of Blood Vessels!

Your body contains, according to latest scientific computation, twelve thousand miles of blood vessels. Think of that, 12,000 miles! Sufficient to stretch half-way round the world. This wonderful pipeline of the blood consists of arteries capillaries and veins communicating with that marvellous pumping station, the heart. By means of this vital pipe-line, the blood is carried to every one of the millions upon millions of the cells of the body, to nourish; to cleanse; and to renew. In all diseased conditions, no matter what the ailment may be, the blood stream is at fault, and no treatment can give lasting results if this all-important fact is overlooked. Keep the blood free-running, like a deep, fast-flowing river, enrich it with the necessary elements for cell building, and remove all toxic and acid waste materials, and health MUST result. This is precisely what Galaxin the Great Blood Cleanser is designed to do; it is actually what Galaxin does, surely and effectively. Galaxin Cures through the blood, unhampered, irresistibly!

Gonorrhea—The Best Treatment

BY A DOCTOR.

Gonorrhea is on the increase. In fact, the latest world statistics suggest that one out of five persons in capitals, like London and New York are stricken with the disease.

The common fallacy that it is no worse than a bad cold is exploded. It is now recognised by clinical and pathological evidence as a dangerous disease with serious complications. Therefore, it should never be neglected.

Gonorrhea is an infective process due to the action of a specific micro-organism known as Gonococcus. It is characterized by a discharge of pus through the urethra. The primary lesion is an acute catarrhal inflammation of the anterior portion of the urethra. It quickly runs to suppuration, and if neglected, it attacks the bladder and weakens it, causing bladder trouble, then the prostate gland, and passing through the sub-acute and acute stages, penetrates the circulation and organic parenchymata, producing complications like stricture, epididymitis, gonorrhoeal rheumatism, vesiculitis, prostatitis, orchitis (swollen testicles) pyelitis, etc. and sometimes causes Impotence.

The symptoms of the disease usually start within 5 to 10 days after infection.

The patient may get some slight itching of the meatus and a burning sensation while passing urine. The lips of the meatus are congested and swollen. Gradually a serious discharge appears which though thin and mucoid in the beginning, soon becomes thick and yellow. There is sometimes a dragging pain in the back and some slight constitutional disturbances such as fever.

Occasionally the swelling inside the urethra is so great, that there is an hindrance in the flow of urine and on exertion haemorrhage occurs. The first attack is always more troublesome than the subsequent ones, though it responds easier to treatment. When this disease reaches the chronic stage it needs prolonged treatment.

The best treatment in all cases of Gonorrhea and Gleet (Chronic 'G') is "505" Mixture and Injection. It is endorsed by the medical profession and widely used in hospitals and private clinics in France. The Injection soothes and heals the inflammation of the anterior portion of the urethra, and stops the discharge within a week. The Mixture, taken internally, removes symptoms such as pain, burning sensation after urination and eradicates the Gonococcus (Gonorrhea germs) from the system. The cure is complete and permanent.

"505" is prepared to the formula of Dr Edouard Pavy, the famous French Specialist in venereal disease.

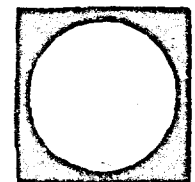

Dr Pavy's formula is considered the best and is the result of five hundred and five experiments on patients suffering from the disease. The 505th experiment proved the most effective. These experiments were carried out during a period of eighteen years. The fruits of his prolonged labour in the cause of science is a complete and permanent cure for "G" and its complications.

"505" is manufactured for England and the British Empire by Howard Lloyd & Co; Ltd. Leicester, England.

WHAT THE "505" TREATMENT DOES

Before treatment the microscope reveals these disease germs in the urine.

After treatment, Complete absence of pus, gonococci germs, etc: ie, a permanent cure.

—NOT WORTHLESS 'QUACKS'

"Names....familiar as household words, freshly remembered!"

—Shakespeare (King Henry V, iv. 3)

WHAT'S in a NAME?—

Louise de La Valliere

Many words commonly used in our everyday speech can be traced back to the names of famous men and places. Here are a few "tributes to greatness" with which the English language has been enriched. Who can tell? Your own name may become a part of the language of future generations.

Most people don't know that the inventor of the saxophone was Adolphe Sax; but they repeat his name whenever they mention it. So you see its nickname of "Sax" is, really right after all.

CEREAL

Ceres, goddess of vegetation and grain, gave us the word for breakfast food.

LAVALLIERE

She flourished in the time of Louis XIV, but lives on today in the name of a type of necklace which she made famous—Louise Francoise de La Valliere, whose picture you see above.

BLANKET

Thomas Blanket loomed fine fabrics in Bristol, England, in the middle of the fourteenth century. His nice, warm woolly cloth became famous; some say that's where we get our word "blanket"

—EVERY THING!

SANDWICH

In 1762, John Montagu, Fourth Earl of Sandwich, sat in a card game that lasted twenty-four hours. He called for layers of beef between slices of bread. Hence the word "sandwich"

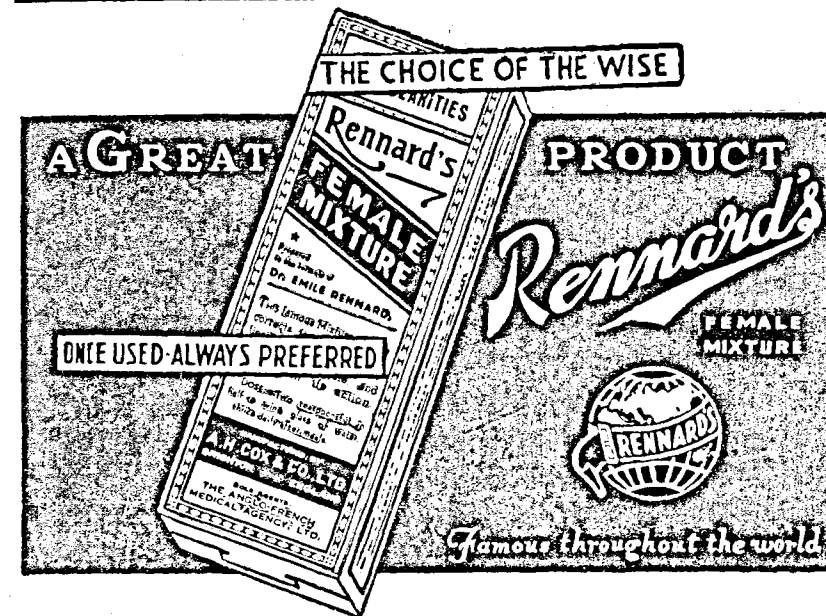

There are some words, used everywhere, which have acquired such a wealth of meaning that the thought they convey can be expressed in no other way. These words are the names of great products.

So great has the name and fame of one product become that it has made a man famous.

This name is RENNARD'S Female Mixture, made to the formula of Dr. Emile Rennard, of Paris, the celebrated French Scientist.

And no wonder this famous product is known as "The Product That Has No Equal"! Sold and preferred in all English-speaking countries of the world—asked for by name in far-away places from Hong-Kong to Montreal—Rennard's Female Mixture has long been acclaimed a great product.

Doubt Turned into Joy and Relief

Mrs. — (Ambala). writes:—"It was with little faith that I decided to try a bottle of Rennard's Female Mixture. MEDICAL HUMOUR

PASSED BY THE MEDICAL BOARD OF NON-SENSERS

"Haven't you heard? The doctor told him to keep a check on his stomach"—Med. World.

They were discussing a certain undefeatable and irresistible politician. "Well," summed up the smoke-room philosopher, "I'll tell you this about him. He might have typhoid, and recover, he might have yellow fever, and recover; but—if he ever had lock-jaw, by gad, sir, he'd burst!"—Med. Record.

The old actor spirit returned, and the surgeon, after bowing his appreciation, hurried back—and removed the patient's tonsils as an encore—Canadian Doctor.

THE VIRILITY OF MANKIND

What Medical Science has accomplished.

By a Doctor.

How to maintain the virility of mankind? This knotty problem has engaged the attention of many famous scientists.

The chief causes of sexual weakness is the vicious habit of masturbation, sexual excesses, prolonged and frequent sexual excitement, which have been proved detrimental in the extreme. The sexual system is deprived of sufficient rest and recuperation and gradually loses its wonted energy. Other causes are excessive exercise, sedentary life, and excessive drinking.

Several attempts have been made to arrive at a formula which would bring about successful results. Commencing from the experiments of Brown Sequard in 1889 down to the recent findings of Dr. Serge Voronoff, the famous Russian Surgeon, it is a long history of laborious investigations by men of outstanding ability who dedicated their lives to the cause of medical progress and the alleviation of human misery.

The outcome of these extensive experiments and research established Gland treatment by the mouth, as best and most rational in the cure of Sexual weakness.

A very important factor in successful gland treatment is FRESHNESS of the vital Gland Substances. It is necessary that they are prepared in gelatine capsule form, to ensure freshness and maximum curative efficacy. Gland Substances in tablet or liquid form quickly deteriorate and become inert and worthless.

* * *

Note:—The best treatment is ENDOPHON—the finest Gland preparation on the market. It is made in CAPSULE FORM and now manufactured by Howard Lloyd & Co; Ltd. Leicester, England, in four different kinds, No. 1 for Partial Impotence (Premature Ejaculation) No. 2 for Partial Impotence (Feeble Erection) and Complete Impotence and Sterility, No. 3 and 4 for Female Impotence, ie. No. 3 for Premature Orgasm and No. 4 for Frigidity (Partial loss of sexual feeling) slowness in reaching an orgasm, due to inertia of the clitoris, and complete loss of sexual feeling, barrenness, etc.

ENDOPHON is not a stimulant, and its use cannot have any ill-effects, as it is absolutely harmless to the weakest constitution.

Mr. ——— (writes):—"The Endophon No. 1 which you sent me is doing me a lot of good, and I will gladly recommend it to anyone who needs such a valuable medicine for Sexual Weakness."

Mr. ——— (writes):—"Acting on a friend's advice, I tried Endophon No. 1. and am very pleased to inform you that it has fulfilled its claims."

NOTE:—It has been conclusively proved that the only rational cure for Impotence is Glandular Treatment. This is strongly recommended by Dr. Marie Stopes in her book
"Enduring Passion"

Treatment, in order to be successful, should be carried out regularly. Efficacy of the Gland Substances depends on FRESHNESS. It is important that they are, when taken, perfectly fresh. This difficulty has been overcome, as ENDOPHON is made in CAPSULE FORM, which fully preserves the freshness and potency of the vital Gland Substances.

Glandular Substances in tablet or liquid form lose freshness in a short time, and become stale and ineffective as a treatment for Impotence which I bitterly regret....."

Treatment of Chronic Gonorrhea in the Male.

According to Dr. F. A. Lafonte (Gazette Med. France) gonorrhea in the male becomes chronic when the acute symptoms have subsided and there persists a slight or moderate discharge which contains gonococci.

Chronic gonorrhea implies that the previously generalized inflammation has become more or less localised to areas of erosions or ulceration of the urethral mucosa or to inflammation of the glandular structures or membranes in or about the urethra.

In cases of chronic gonorrhea the best treatment is a mixture and an Injection. Abortive treatment will aggravate the urethra and bring about complications.

"505" is the best treatment for chronic gonorrhea. The Mixture taken internally controls such distressing symptoms as pain, burning on urination, strangury and frequency. It does not upset the stomach. The Injection heals the ulcerations of the urethral mucosa or inflammation of the glandular structures and membranes in or about the urethra.

Gonorrheal Urethritis in the Female.

The urethra is by far the most common seat of primary infection in the female. The cervix is next in frequency. In children the vagina is chiefly involved. The female urethra is a straight short tube about $1\frac{1}{2}$ inches in length and can readily be inspected endoscopically but instrumentation is contraindicated in acute cases. Its internal sphincter usually acts as a barrier to upward extension into the bladder.

Acute gonorrheal urethritis seldom comes under observation. The discharge which occurs is usually interpreted as being due to "catching-cold" or it is erroneously explained as a "leucorrhea" which has become worse. Or 'some times it is interpreted as "bladder" trouble. Injections and instrumentation are not to be used in the acute stage. The patient should secure rest in bed and mild permanganate douches may be prescribed. Internal medication with balsamics, like "505" mixture will insure relief from the distressing "bladder" symptoms.

The disease tends to become chronic because the infection penetrates into the deeper glandular structures especially in those glands situated near the external urinary meatus. On endoscopy the prominent and swollen openings of these glands may be seen. By stripping the urethra with the finger in the vagina a drop of pus may be expressed. The urethra itself feels like a hard cord. Sometimes on endoscopic examination one may also observe a diverticulum of the urethra which in addition to the infected glands may also act as foci of infection. These foci may be the cause of gonorrheal arthritis.

GLANDULAR THERAPY.

By Dr. A. F. De Saint-Croix. Journal of Medicine, Feb. '37.

In the light of modern researches and extraordinary rapid progress in the direction of the use of ductless glands in the treatment of various diseases much is said and has been discussed.

This new principle in medicine has completely revolutionised the old time tonics.

Glandular therapy, the application of which dates back from 1889 when the pioneer of this branch of medicine, Brown Sequard, administered to himself testicular extract, is well known. To the amazement of himself and other physicians, the experiment proved a great success and a new chapter was opened up in the modern book of therapeutics.

Since that day, good many eminent scientists, notably Banting, Best, Murphy, Minot, and Serge Voronoff have experimented on various organisms including human beings, taking help of every available ductless gland found in the body.

Recently the new system has been perfected to such a degree, that surprising results have been recorded in books of medical statistics.

A good deal of information about the subject can be obtained from an authoritative publication put forward by Dr. E. Retterar, a Parisian Professor.

It is also a truth that the most forward medical men whose opinions are valued by physicians of the whole world have personally carried out experiments, and have without reservation, put their stamp of approval on the system and advocated its tremendous possibilities.

It has been scientifically proved that the key to sexual weakness is Glandular Extracts obtained from the glands of bulls, and administered by the mouth in CAPSULE FORM.

Yet all the achievements of the system are reduced to nil if the glands selected are not of standard purity and if due care is not taken during the preparation of their compounds. The bulls selected must not be diseased and must be absolutely young so that all their ductless glands must be functioning with their proper physiological secretions. On strict and thorough pathological examinations, they should prove to be absolutely germ free and in a healthy condition.

The exact proportions selected from different glands is a matter of vital importance.

Another factor of great importance is the preservation and stability of these products. Absolute freshness is essential. The gelatine capsule is recognised as the best method of preserving freshness and therapeutic efficacy. The vital gland substances are completely sealed in the gelatine envelope, and all possibility of deterioration is eliminated.

The Chemists of Bergeret Laboratories have discovered after years of research and experiment a glandular extract of unusual efficacy in the treatment of sexual weakness. This preparation is Endophon. This Great Product has won tremendous success, and this has led to its widest medical recognition. It is different to the usual run of Glandular preparations, being the Star Product of Bergeret Laboratories, who have for more than a quarter of a century manufactured Organotherapeutic products for the medical profession.

It is now manufactured by Howard Lloyd & Co; Ltd. Leicester, England, in four different kinds, No. 1 for Partial Impotence (Premature Ejaculation) No. 2 for Partial Impotence (Feeble Erection) and Complete Impotence and Sterility, and No. 3 and 4 for Female Impotence, ie., No. 3 for Premature Orgasm and No. 4 for Frigidity (Partial loss of sexual feeling) Slowness in reaching an orgasm, due to inertia of the clitoris, and complete loss of sexual feeling, barrenness, etc.,

ENDOPHON is not a stimulant, and its use cannot have any ill-effect, as it is absolutely harmless to the weakest constitution.

The treatment should be carried out faithfully for the prescribed course. It is guaranteed to effect a complete and permanent cure.

New Uses of Blood from the Dead

The blood of the dead may soon be used to restore the living to health.

Experiments in Russia are stated to have disclosed these startling facts:—

Blood from corpses gives better results than that from live donors.

Red cell increase is higher after transfusion from a dead person than after transfusion from live donors.

Professor W. N. Shamor, outlining his remarkable experiments on animals and man in The Lancet declares that the transfusion of cadaver (corpse) blood has another definite advantage—notably the rarer and less conspicuous reactions on patients.

"PREJUDICE"

"In spite of the fact that there is a large body of supporting evidence for its value and that full sanction has been obtained for taking blood from cases of sudden death, medical men at the courts of justice were unwilling to allow the blood of bodies that are at their disposal to be drawn for clinical needs," writes the Professor.

He speaks of the strong prejudice in the majority of people at the bare thought of transfusing into a live person the blood from a corpse and the "holy awe" at the thought of "disturbing the repose of the dead."

From experiments on animals the Professor "confirmed our fundamental thesis that the blood in the dead body preserves its vitality for about ten hours after death."

CONSERVATIVE ENGLISH DOCTORS

A London hospital doctor declared

"The use of corpses" blood in the treatment of illness has been in vogue for some years in Russia.

"I saw it done at a big accident hospital in Moscow. Precautions are taken to ensure that the dead did not die from any disease.

It is claimed that very good results have been obtained.

"I have been trying to advocate this method in this country in order to relieve the strain on blood donors, but there seems to be very little enthusiasm for it among British medical men.
