LIVE UP TO 200. SCIENTIST STARTS TESTS

By "Sunday Dispatch" Reporter.

Dr. V. Korenchevsky, Russian-born British naturalised scientist, has set himself the task of finding out how you can live to be 150 or, perhaps, 200 years old.

And Dr. Korenchevsky believes that he and his colleagues, members of "The Club for Research on Ageing", can, by the result of their medical and biological research, prevent premature senility, in other words, you will not expect to die around the biblical three score and ten.

Dr. Korenchevsky cannot tell when his experiments will be concluded, but Lord Nuffield has given him £3,000, which will carry the work on for at least another three years.

In the peace & quietness of his laboratory, in the cloistered university at Oxford, Dr. Korenchevsky told me:

"Living to 55 or 100 is entirely a pathological matter. I am making a study with other scientists about the make-up of the human body - why some people die at middle age and others do not."

"If we can discover the pathological reason for this it will be an easy matter for scientists to ensure a normal life well in excess of 100 years. We may be able to go up to 200 years."

"Recent advances in science have made it possible to start this research, and we hope it will provide an answer to one of medicine's greatest problems."

Dr. Korenchevsky explained that there are hundreds of causes which produce normal ageing and are responsible for premature senility.

"It is our task to try to find out what these causes are and to discriminate the different features of normal and pathological ageing. Every cause and feature will have to be examined by many different methods.

"My particular branch of research will be the effects of the hormones on the pituitary gland, thyroid, adrenal, & sex glands on white rats.

"The result of experiments on animals do not always supply a conclusive argument for their use on human beings, and close co-operation between the clinical & experimental laboratories is necessary".

"The London County Council is co-operating with us in our research. It has started research on the effect of certain vitamins on aged people in Tooting Bec Hospital."

Widespread research is also going on in America, and "The Club for Research on Ageing" is working with its American counterparts. It is composed of Britain's leading scientists.

World's Greatest Eater?

Private Chester ("the Stomach") Salvatori, 28, hailed by U. S. Army Comrades as the world's greatest eater recently, had his first real meal for a long time.

He got a pass from a hospital in Atlanta, where he has been under observation by doctors studying his enormous appetite & went straight to a restaurant.

In 50 minutes he consumed the following "snack."

Seven orders of southern fried chicken, ten orders of French fried potatoes, nine glasses of orange-juice, half a gallon of milk, one giant combination salad (equal to 10 restaurant's regular servings), five egg salads, two orders of olives, two glasses of iced coffee, one watermelon & five slices of apple pie, each topped with a scoop of icecream.

This meal, typical of the food obtainable in the United States, cost Salvatori, the equivalent of Rs. 35.

An Exhibitionist

Doctors say Salvatori eats large meals because he is an exhibitionist, but Salvatori declares that, if his rations are cut, he steadily loses some of his weight which is 140 lbs.

He vaguely attributes his hunger to a car accident in which he was involved 12 years ago.

When Salvatori placed his order in the restaurant many diners lost interest in their own meals & gathered round to watch him.

They gasped at the end when Salvatori said he was only pleasantly full.

Salvatori regards his appetite as a curse "I am terrible ashamed of myself, but I can do nothing about it", he adds.

He never touches alcohol & spends all his money on food. Sometimes, to increase his income, he makes bets with other soldiers on eating capacity, then spends the proceeds on more food.

GLANDULAR THERAPY.

By Dr. A. F. De Saint-Croix.

Journal of Medicine, Feb: '37.

94619049

In the light of modern researches and extraordinary rapid progress in the direction of the use of ductless glands in the treatment of various diseases much is said and has been discussed.

This new principle in medicine has completely revolutionised the old time tonics.

Glandular therapy, the application of which dates back from 1889 when the pioneer of this branch of medicine, Brown Sequard, administered to himself testicular extract, is well known. To the amazement of himself and other physicians, the experiment proved a great success and a new chapter was opened up in the modern book of therapeutics.

Since that day, good many eminent scientists, notably Banting, Best, Murphy, Minot, and Serge Voronoff have experimented on various organisms including human beings, taking help of every available ductless gland found in the body.

Recently the new system has been perfected to such a degree, that surprising results have been recorded in books of medical statistics.

A good deal of information about the subject can be obtained from an authoritative publication put forward by Dr. E. Retterar, of Paris.

It is also a truth that the most forward medical men whose opinions are valued by physicians of the whole world have personally carried out experiments, and have without reservation, put their stamp of approval on the system and advocated its tremendous possibilities.

It has been scientifically proved that the key to sexual weakness is Glandular Extracts obtained from the glands of bulls, and administered by the mouth in CAPSULE FORM.

Yet all the achievements of the system are reduced to nil if the glands selected are not of standard purity and if due care is not taken during the preparation of their compounds. The bulls selected must not be diseased and must be absolutely young so that all their ductless glands must be functioning with their proper physiological secretions. On strict and thorough pathological examinations, they should prove to be absolutely germ free and in a healthy condition.

The exact proportions selected from different glands is a matter of vital importance.

Another factor of great importance is the preservation and stability of these products. Absolute freshness is essential. The gelatine capsule is recognised as the best method of preserving freshness and therapeutic efficacy, as the vital gland substances are completely sealed in the gelatine envelope, and all possibility of deterioration is eliminated.

*This amazing mechanism will keep life in the body when the heart is not beating.

Hearts of Steel for Humans

By Madelin Blitzstein

Everything about the heart—its pains, its attacks, its stoppages—has led to many theories which often conflict one with the other. But on one phase of the heart problem scientists agree, and that is, that the task of cardiac surgery and heart repair is a particularly difficult and delicate one.

Today, however, there is new hope in this work because of a startling experiment, or invention, as it is perhaps best to label it, which, it is hoped, will lead to a new field in surgery—that of saving lives by keeping the heart beating where previously it had stopped for good.

Until very recently the surgeon's scalpel was limited in use principally to operations on the outer surface of the mysterious, life-giving organ, like sewing up the heart after stab wounds and similar injuries, or performing operations on the envelope around the heart, called the pericardium, from which stony calcium formations have occasionally been removed with success. But it is now hoped that the repair of disease-damaged valves in the interior of the heart may some day be made safe and practical by the use of a substitute heart & lung made of steel.

While a steel heart and lung may sound like something out of a modernistic art creation, the new apparatus has actually been developed to a successful stage at the University of Pennsylvania. There it has taken over the entire circulation of 13 animal patients, all cats, several of whom are still living nearly one year after the operation, & one of whom had a litter of kittens six weeks after she had been "fitted" up with the new apparatus.

This remarkable invention is the result of the painstaking research of Dr. John H. Gibbon, junr., of the Harrison Department of Research Surgery at the University of Pennsylvania. Dr. Gibbon reported to a combined meeting of the Philadelphia Academy of Surgery and the Boston Surgical Society his opinion that the chromium-plated heart and lung might in the future take over at least part of the human circulation for a period of 20 minutes to one hour.

In this way, operations could be performed on the heart which could not possibly be performed otherwise because of the inability of the patient to live without the blood circulating through the body.

The necessity of this steel heart & lung is plainly seen in those patients who are suffering from what the medical world calls pulmonary embolism—a very dangerous complication which sometimes follows operations on other parts of the body. A blood clot, totally unexpected and unforeseen, suddenly forms and blocks the artery that carries the blood from the heart to the lungs.

Death follows quickly, sometimes almost instantly, taking place in less than a quarter of an hour. Dr. Gibbon, therefore, hopes that the steel heart will be attached so quickly that before the period of 15 minutes is up, & the patient is dead, the surgeon can successfully remove the clot.

The apparatus, which has so far only been tried on cats, consists of a metal cylinder which spins 300 revolutions per minute. Blood is piped into it from the jugular vein in the animal's neck and the whirling action throws the blood against the lining of the cylinder in a thin film which can easily absorb oxygen admitted to the lung from the top. This process is a replica of what takes place in the lining of the tiny air cells of the natural lung.

The freshly-oxygenated blood then flows into the steel heart which pumps it back into the carotid artery, located in the cat's neck as it is in the human being's; it is then forced backward into the living heart and parts of the body. This artificial system in the experiments took care of a little more than a half pint of blood per minute.

In his experiments with the artificial heart, Dr. Gibbon, in order to prove the practical value of his research, had to produce a simulated pulmonary embolism in the cats in order to see how the artificial heart would work. The pulmonary artery is first clamped shut while the cat continues to breathe.

The breathing, however, did no good because there was no blood passing through the lungs. Dr. Gibbon was able to hook up an artificial heart in 10 minutes through the neck arteries. In human beings, the wrist or the arm would be used instead of the neck arteries. "Electric eyes" regulate the pressure and "pulse" of the mechanical heart.

Dr. Gibbon's experiment is not the only one, by any means, now going on in cardiac work. Dr. Isaac Starr, Professor of Research Therapeutics at the University of Pennsylvania, for instance, has found out how much blood the heart pumps at each stroke by making a cardioballistograph or heart hammock, which is a bed suspended from the ceiling. The bed shakes with every heartbeat and shows on a specially constructed graph how much blood the patient's heart pumps at each stroke.

GUARANTEED CURE FOR TUBERCULOSIS?

56-YEAR-OLD SWEDISH SCIENTIST'S EXPERIMENTS

LONDON, December 18—Prof. Hans Davide, a Swedish scientist, hopes to be the first man in the world to produce a guaranteed cure for tuberculosis, cables the Daily Mail Stockholm correspondent.

The professor has discovered a substance with which he had already cured infected rats; and early next year he plans to make tests on human beings.

Certain heart experiments have attracted wider attention and notice than others; perhaps the one which has occupied the spotlight more consistently than any other is the Carrel-Lindbergh "glass heart," which acts as a pump to carry nutrient solution to a piece of tissue to make it continue living. The "glass heart" is used to keep glands alive while outside of the body.

In the device of Dr. William B. Kountz of Washington University, however, the heart itself is the pump which forces the blood through a system of pipes and reservoirs similar to those of the body. Thus hearts which were stilled by death have been made to beat again for as long as six consecutive hours.

Other fields of heart work have been investigated and sometimes popular beliefs were found to be without scientific basis, other times they were found to be correct.

While for centuries poets have been singing songs of and refrains about the heart as the basis of deep emotions and consequent emotional pain, it was Dr. Fred Kaltefleiter, at Jefferson Medical College in Philadelphia, who declared unhesitatingly that the heart cannot feel any pain, even if pinched or rubbed. He found that the heart pains which people complain of are around and not in the heart as they think.

On the other hand, the old adage about two hearts beating as one has been proved by science. Two University of Pittsburgh scientists showed that by putting the hearts of baby newts into the bodies of adult newts, they could keep the hearts of the baby newts beating, although they had been transplanted from their original habitat. Both the adult and baby hearts kept on beating in the adult newts.

Prof. Davide, who is chief of the Central Bacteriological Laboratory of Stockholm city hospitals, has been working on his process for some years. He is fifty-six.

Associated with him are Prof. H. Theorell, 43-year-old Principal of the Biochemistry Department of the Nobel Institute, and a young doctor Sune Bergstrom who is aged thirty.

With an Idea and Determination... HE REVOLUTIONISED MEDICINE!

Prof. BROWN-SEQUARD, making his great discovery.

In 1889 Professor Charles Edouard Brown-Sequard, the famous scientist, made his epoch-making discovery, when he administered to himself glandular extract in his laboratory in Paris. To the amazement of himself and other physicians, the experiment proved a great success and a new chapter was opened in the modern book of therapeutics.

His life was a great one....most of it spent in a littered laboratory conducting ceaseless experiments. Never did a man work so hard—and succeed so brilliantly!

Professor Brown-Sequard's discovery is mentioned in authoritative medical books on the subject.

The harnessing of physical and chemical forces, which has produced our modern rapidity of travel and communication; steam, electric power, telegraphy, and the conquest of the air, affect our lives profoundly. And yet it may well be that biological knowledge and its many applications to the control and cure of disease and, above all, its elimination and prevention, have done far more to lighten the burden under which mankind struggles and to raise the level of civilization.

The great progress of medical science and the rapid strides it has made in the last hundred years have saved countless lives, prolonged and alleviated many others, and given us all a better chance of expanding what personal talents we have and of making the best of our time.

Humanity is beginning to see how to live.

All this is due to those men—Benefactors of Mankind—who have elucidated for us the immutable laws which underlie our functions. By no means the least of these was the immortal discoverer of Gland Therapy—Prof. Brown-Sequard, the famous French Scientist, for it is not difficult to see how he provided a sure basis on which modern science could build with confidence and success.

Although many lives have passed in the contemplation of Nature, attempting with infinite patience to solve the problems which she presents in such profusion, few philosophers have succeeded in making such a fundamental and far-reaching discovery as that of the function of the human glands.

It is not too much to say that enunciation of this principle revolutionised medicine and set it firmly upon a rational footing. So much was made clear and so many vistas were opened that it would seem that this conception was a lever powerful enough to set in motion those trains of scientific experiment and research which have brought us to our present state of knowledge and still gathering speed and power, lead us confidently to hope for yet wider and deeper understanding of natural laws, in particular those which govern the great mystery of Life itself.

Gland Therapy is no myth. Some of the highest medical authorities in Europe and America believe in the curative efficacy of gland treatment for sexual weakness and other ailments.

THE SCOURGE OF SYPHILIS AND GONORRHEA AND THE CURE.

From the Lancet. June 11, 1942.

Britain's figures of venereal disease have risen since the War. In 1940 the increase was 23 per cent over 1939. Proportionately this is better than the situation in World War 1, when the V. D. rate doubled, but it is no occasion for complacency.

Treatment was woefully inadequate between 1914 and 1918.

The short courses of treatment then in use were responsible for tragic developments a generation later. If left untreated, syphilis has a tendency to clear up. This is disastrously deceptive. The disease may lie dormant for years, then suddenly break out again.

Syphilis is not a new disease. It has been treated a thousand different ways since 1493, when Dr. Diaz de Isla climbed aboard Columbus's ships at Palos to treat sailors loathsome sick of the malady they had brought back from the West Indies.

Such things as China root and sarsaparilla have had their day, to say nothing of a medley of things like powdered serpents and even toad's spittle. It was not until March 1905, that science began to get at grips with syphilis.

In that year a bushy-bearded German named Fritz Schaudinn was ordered by Berlin's Imperial Health Office to make laboratory tests of a germ which was suspected of causing not only small pox, but the great pox. He got positive results, named the germ "the pale horror" because it could scarcely be seen, even under a microscope.

Another discovery in 1907 brought August von Wassermann's fixation test, which to this day is the doctor's quickest, most practical test for the disease: Three years later Paul Ehrlich made the discovery which beat syphilis down from astronomical figures to something within reasonable understanding. This was "606"—salvarsan.

In 1936, Dr. Pierre de Sadalan evolved oral treatment, which he called after his name. Two years later, in January 1938, Neo Sadalan made its appearance, being the new and improved formula of Dr. Pierre De Sadalan, that clinches the fight even in long-standing cases.

The rate of cures in primary cases is 86 per cent and in secondary cases 81 per cent, every cure is complete and permanent.

It is the best treatment and is convenient and absolutely safe to use.

Quick disappearance of symptoms often inclines the sufferer to believe he is cured, and he stops treatment with tragic results.

In its primary stage syphilis is not painful; the secondary stage includes a rash, which may cover the entire body. Loss of hair in spots over the scalp is common. The third and fourth stages can be anything from heart trouble to general paralysis and insanity.

Syphilis is generally regarded as the aristocrat of diseases, but gonorrhoea is considered a social disgrace. More prevalent in its ravages, but far less horrible in effect, it has been completely conquered by modern medicine.

The "MAGIC BULLET" in gonorrhoea's treatment is "505" Mixture and Injection.

It is made to the formula of Dr. Edouard Pavy, the eminent specialist in venereal disease. This is the finest treatment and always effects a permanent cure.

PANCRE-VITE

THE ORAL INSULIN COMPOUND
FOR DIABETES

MANY IMITATIONS - BUT NO EQUAL

Diabetes, a dread disease, was formerly considered to be incurable. But it can now be cured with Pancre-Vite, the New Scientific Oral Insulin Remedy.

Pancre-Vite is a powerful remedy for Diabetes. It is a combination of all the active derivatives of the pancreas which control carbohydrate metabolism together with the specific proteins necessary for regeneration of the pancreatic tissues.

Chronic cases have been successfully treated by the oral administration of Pancre-Vite. It lowers sugar to normal. Aids digestion—increases weight and strength—positively makes the patient fit and healthy, as no other remedy can.

Pancre-Vite is the rational and most effective remedy for Diabetes, as it is prepared to the formula of Dr. Armand Grimard, the eminent Diabetes Specialist.

Try Pancre-Vite NOW and rid yourself of Diabetes for ever!

MANY IMITATIONS but NONE EQUAL to PANCRE-VITE!

Insulin is not curative, but only has transient effects, besides the necessity for daily injections are extremely inconvenient and tend to become tiresome.

Pancre-Vite is the best Oral Insulin Remedy, convenient to use and very effective. Its powerful curative action strengthens and develops the pancreas which control the several phases of diabetic pathology.

Pancre-Vite easily supersedes Insulin as a specific for diabetes, as it contains the active derivatives of the pancreas with other substances necessary for the complete regeneration of the pancreatic tissues. Furthermore, it is prepared in Capsule form—specially hardened—to insure the passage through the stomach for immediate absorption in the intestine, with maximum curative efficacy.

This effective action cannot be obtained with preparations made in tablet or liquid form.

EVERYTHING THAT CONTRIBUTES TO CURATIVE POWER is embodied in these Scientific Remedies.

These products have been at the service of Medical men and the public for over half a century. During that time the advertisements of these preparations have been found mainly in medical journals. That these preparations have become standard and are now being largely prescribed by Doctors in France, Belgium, and practically all English speaking countries, of the world is our reward for "Keeping the Faith." The testimonials and voluntary reports we have received from physicians run into thousands. Reports on one product alone—"505"—now number nearly eighteen thousand. We only publish a few of these reports in abbreviated form with the consent of the physician. However, they are filed by number and can always be referred to when necessary.
