FUNDAMENTAL RULES.

1. That the name of the Society be THE MADRAS DIOCESAN ADDITIONAL CLERGY SOCIETY.

2. That the Right Reverend the Lord Bishop be President, and that the affairs of the Society be conducted by a Committee consisting of the President, the Venerable the Archbishop, and eleven other Members of the Society, being Members of the Church of England, of whom not less than six shall be Laymen, to be chosen annually by the Subscribers, but with power to fill up vacancies, until the ensuing Annual Meeting; and that one of the Clergy be requested to undertake the duties of Secretary; and that accounts be kept with Messrs. Arbuthnot and Co. for floating balances, and with the Government Agents for investment.

3.—That the Clergy in the Mofussil be requested to become Corresponding

Members of the Committee; and that the Committee be empowered to add also to the number of Corresponding Members Lay Gentlemen, at their discretion.

4.—That the Subscription be not limited, but the smallest be thankfully received, and that Subscribers of one Rupee a month, and upwards, or Donors of 100 Rupees, be Members of the Society; and be entitled to vote at all General Meetings.

5.—That all Subscriptions raised for the Society be transmitted by the Corresponding Members direct to the Secretary in Madras.

6.—That, before an application for a Clergyman be complied with, the Station applying be required to satisfy the Committee of a suitable provision being made for his residence rent free.

7.—That in addition to a residence thus provided, the monthly stipend of the Clergyman be fixed by the Committee, 100 Rs. being the minimum and 300 Rs. the maximum; and that it be payable from the date of his appointment if engaged within the Presidency; or from the day of his landing if engaged in Europe.

8.—That a travelling allowance be granted to the Clergyman upon his first joining his Station, or upon his Station being changed, at the rate of 8 Annas a mile.

9.—That the Fees for the Clergyman's license be paid by the Society, but that the Society be responsible for no further payments.

10.—That a Clergyman leaving his Station with the permission of the Committee be allowed to draw three-fourths of his salary for one year, and one half for the second year; but after the expiration of two years, he be entitled to no allowance during his absence.

11.—That the Bishop of the Diocese be entitled to grant one month's leave of absence in each year to the Clergymen in connexion with this Society without any loss of their allowances.

12.—That, with a view to give stability to the Society, all surplus funds, after defraying the current expenses, be invested in Government Securities, and form the Capital of the Society.

13.—That no engagement be at any time entered into by the Society, unless

(1.) The CAPITAL be not less in amount than the aggregate of three years' salary of all the Clergymen on the Society's list after the engagement is made, and unless also

(2.) The INCOME of the Society be sufficient to meet the current expenses, thus increased, without the prospect of encroaching upon the Capital.

14.—That a guarantee be given in writing to each Clergyman, when taken upon the Society's List, that in case of such a defalcation of funds as to render it necessary, three years' notice shall be given him before any diminution be made in his salary, unless for other causes his connexion with the Society be dissolved; that this notice shall be given only in case the capital becomes less in amount than the aggregate of three years' salary of all the Clergymen on the Society's List, and not sooner; that this notice shall be given first to the last Clergyman brought upon the Society's List, and then to the last but one—and so on in the inverse order of their appointments; and shall be cancelled by a counter notice from the Society when the funds so improve as to repair the deficiency.

15.—That when it is necessary to send to Europe for a Clergyman to meet an application from a station, the Committee be at liberty to make arrangements regarding the expenses of his coming to this country.

16.—That it be necessary for Clergymen, or Candidates for Holy Orders, upon applying to be engaged in the service of the Society, to transmit to the Secretary the usual testimonials, together with a Medical Certificate of general health and strength, equal to the performance of ministerial labour in India. And that a copy of the Rules of the Society be forwarded to each by post, whether in Europe or India, upon the first opening of negotiations.

18.—That a Meeting of the Committee shall be held quarterly in the months of March, June, September and December; and that all papers be circulated in the intervals—the ordinary business of the Society being conducted by the Secretary: but that no grant be made, no Clergyman engaged, nor any extraordinary outlay incurred without the sanction of the Committee; and that a Special Meeting be summoned when requested by the President or any two Members of the Committee.

19.—That a General Annual Meeting of the Society be held in the month of January; when the Annual Report shall be presented to the Subscribers with a Statement of the Accounts; and that the Committee shall have power to call a Special General Meeting at their discretion; and no Fundamental Rule shall be altered or rescinded but on the recommendation of the Committee at a General Meeting of the Society, after fourteen days' notice of the proposed alteration shall have been given in the Fort St. George Gazette.

20.—That this and all the foregoing Rules be considered Fundamental Rules of this Society.

21.—That the Committee have power to make such Subordinate Regulations and Bye-laws as they shall deem necessary: provided they be not at variance with the Fundamental Rules of the Society.

Additional Rules adopted at the Annual Meeting on Tuesday, the 27th January 1852.

1.—That in the event of a Clergyman being compelled to return to Europe on Sick Certificate to the satisfaction of the Committee, Passage money not exceeding Rupees 1,500 for a married man, and Rupees 1,000 if single, be granted; and that an allowance at the rate of £100 per annum be given for the period to which his leave of absence extends: it being clearly understood that any person coming under the operation of this Rule shall not, at the same time, be entitled to the benefit of Rule X.

2.—That in special cases, to be approved by the Bishop, the Committee be authorized to employ Scripture Readers.

REGULATIONS.

I.—The Committee shall be designated the Madras Corresponding Committee of the Colonial Church Society.

II.—The objects of the Committee shall be two-fold—First, to provide Clergymen for important stations at present without them. Second, to render such aid to Chaplains or other Clergymen in the discharge of their pastoral duties as they may be desirous to accept, and the Committee may have it in its power to afford.

III.—All ordained persons that may be supported by this Committee shall be under the ecclesiastical jurisdiction of the Diocesan.

IV.—It shall be considered as a fundamental principle of the Committee that no persons shall be maintained by its Funds, but such as are believed after the fullest inquiry, to be men of true piety and sound evangelical principles, as well as attached to the doctrines and discipline of the Church of England.

V.—This Committee shall have a President, 4 Vice-Presidents, and be composed of 12 Members of the Church of England, including a Treasurer and Secretary. Five Members to form a quorum for ordinary business. The President and Vice-Presidents to have a vote as other Members of the Committee.

VI.—In case of any vacancy, the remaining Members of the Committee shall elect one to fill it, regard being had to the two preceding Rules,—this nomination being subject to the approval of the Parent Committee.

VII.—No grant can be made for the support of any Clerical or Lay Agent except at a Meeting of the Committee at which 7 of its Members at least are present, or if 3 of the Members object to the grant as opposed to its fundamental principles.

VIII.—An Annual Meeting of the Subscribers shall be held, when the Proceedings of the foregoing year shall be reported, and the Accounts presented; and the Report and Statements of Accounts shall be published and furnished to every Subscriber.

IX.—In conformity with Rule IV of "Rules for the formation and guidance of Corresponding Committees in connection with the Committee of the Colonial Church Society," this Committee shall be considered subject to re-appointment annually by the Parent Committee.

X.—The whole of the Funds obtained by this Committee from the time of their becoming a Corresponding Committee of the Colonial Church Society, shall, after deducting incidental expenses, be held subject to the decision of the Parent Society.

BYE-LAWS AND TERMS OF AGREEMENT WITH AGENTS, to be signed by every Individual prior to his engagement, one copy to be deposited with the Secretary, and one copy with the Agent.

1. Before a permanent engagement is made with any Clergyman or Layman, in this Country, he shall be required to satisfy the Committee in regard to his doctrines and general character by testimonials from, and if practicable by reference to, one Clerical and one Lay friend at least; the testimonials to extend over not less than 18 months last past. He shall also furnish the Committee with replies to the paper of questions adopted by the home Committee, and to such other inquiries as seem necessary, together with a medical certificate of health.

The engagement shall be in the first instance for a fixed term, renewable with consent of both parties.

2. If the Agent has been brought from England he shall be entitled to Passage money home at any time after the expiration of his engagement, if still in connection with the Society; or, in case of sickness, at an earlier date, on a certificate, from two medical gentlemen, according to the following rates.

The Passage money and outfit from England shall be for a married man £80, for a Bachelor £120; Clergymen shall be entitled to a further outfit on arrival in Madras amounting to Rs. 250 for a married man, and Rs. 150 for a Bachelor. Passage money home to be for a married man, Rs. 1,500, for a Bachelor 1,000; but in case of his return home within the first year he shall receive if married Rs. 900, if single Rs. 600.

3. If an Agent relinquishes his engagement before the time, without consent of the Committee, he shall refund all his passage money and outfit, if it be in the first half of his stipulated period, and the moiety of it if it occur in the latter half of his period, and forfeit all claims upon the Society.

4. The Committee shall be at liberty to dissolve their connection with any Agent who shall preach or avow important doctrinal views at variance with what he professed to hold on joining the Society, or who shall be found guilty of any immoral or unworthy conduct. In such case two months notice or two months salary shall be given, with passage money according to Rule 2, if the Agent have come out from England.

5. If no engagement for any specified time should exist, 6 months notice of retirement shall be given by an Agent, provided it commence between the 31st January and the 31st July; but 12 months notice may be required at any other part of the year.

6. Travelling allowance at the rate of 8 annas a mile shall be given to Agents sent to any Station up the Country, or travelling in the service of the Society.

7. The Salary of an Agent brought from England shall commence from the date of landing in this country, and from the date of appointment if the engagement be made in India.

8. All ecclesiastical fees due from Agents shall be paid by the Committee.

9. In case of certified illness, leave of absence (if for more than a fortnight,) shall be granted by the Committee at their discretion to an extent not exceeding 18 months, and an Agent shall be allowed to draw $\frac{2}{3}$ of his salary for 6 months, and $\frac{1}{3}$ afterwards.

10. An Agent may be allowed, at the discretion of the Committee, to enjoy one month's leave of absence during the year without any loss of pay; it being understood that if he has omitted to take this month in one year it may be granted to him in the next at the discretion of the Committee.

11. At the expiration of 7 years of continued service an Agent shall be entitled to take a furlough of two years, giving 6 months notice of his intention. When a furlough is taken the Committee shall pay his passage home and back, either according to the established rate, or overland, as may appear most advisable, together with a gratuity of 3 months salary, and the Agent shall be entitled to no further pay during his absence.

12. Should absence on urgent private affairs be necessary, a Superintendent may grant leave to any Lay Agent, not exceeding 8 days, subject to the sanction of the Committee, and Clergymen shall communicate on the subject with the Secretary.

General Assembly's Mission of the Free Church of Scotland.

Commenced in Black Town, 3d April, 1837.

FREE GENERAL ASSEMBLY'S INSTITUTION, EPIFANADE, BLACK TOWN, FOR NATIVE EDUCATION, AND FOR RAISING UP NATIVE TEACHERS AND PREACHERS, UNDER THE SUPERINTENDENCE OF THE REV. JOHN ANDERSON, THE REV. JOHN BRADWOOD, A. M., THE REV. R. B. BLYTH, A. M., THE REV. A. B. CAMPBELL, THE REV. J. M. MACKINTOSH, A. M., THE REV. J. G. MACKINTOSH, A. M., THE REV. P. RAJAGOPAL, AND THE REV. A. VENKATARAMAN, MISSIONARIES OF THE FREE CHURCH OF SCOTLAND.

The Parent Institution,—designed to fulfil the three-fold end of a College for rearing up Native Preachers, Normal Seminary for training up Native Teachers and a School for general instruction,—is at present (November 1853) with about 629 on the Roll, attended by 636, the highest number actually present during the month. This number includes 327 youths and boys, and in the girls' day school 209, including the Boarding girls and Teachers. The Mission has four Branch Schools with a girls' Day School attached to each;—the Triplicane school with a roll of 411 pupils attended by 372; the Conjevarum School with a roll of 339, attended by 314; the Chingleput School, with a roll of 454, attended by 373; and the Nellore School with a roll of 387, attended by 371. It thus appears that with a daily attendance of one thousand, nine hundred and sixty-six, there are at present in the Central Institution, Black Town, and its nine Schools for Boys and Girls two thousand, two hundred and twenty pupils of all classes and castes of the Hindoo community, from the Brahmin to the Pariah, including upwards of two hundred and fifty Mahomedans, and five hundred Hindu females, nearly all of caste. A very large proportion of these scholars, in addition to the study of the Vernacular tongues, are taught English.

This Mission employs also Seven Assistant Native Teachers in the Boys' Department, and Eleven in that of the Girls, exclusive of the Branch Schools.

In the Department for Native Youths and Boys, who are nearly all of caste, there are, in regular attendance, in the different schools, 313 pupils. In that for Native Females, there are 370 pupils of caste and others, (including a Branch School): in all, 683.

There is Public Worship (in Tamil) in the Institution, twice every Lord's day; attendance, in the morning, from 80 to 120.

In the Branch Schools in the Mofussil, the one at Vellora, is attended by 50 pupils; and the other at Triventoer by 40 pupils.

The Church of Scotland has also a JEWISH MISSION AT COCHIN.—Rev. E. Laseon, Missionary to the Jews,—Ordained 1847;—Arrived in 1844. Mrs. Laseon,—Superintends the Boarders and the Domestic Schools.—This Branch of the Mission has six Schools for Jewish Children, in and around Cochin, and eleven Schools for Hindoo and other Children, attended by the following classes of pupils, viz. 152 Jews, 125 Syrians, 177 Roman Catholics, 130 Heathens, 31 Protestants, and 9 Mahomedans; in all 624. There is also an Orphanage for boys and girls; and an Industrial Establishment, in which 20 youths are instructed in useful mechanical trades. Mr. L. officiates regularly on Sabbath in St. Andrew's Church to from 80 to 100, at the morning services (Malagasin) and to about the same number at the evening service (English).

Hence it appears that in the Church of Scotland's Mission in South India, there are upwards of thirteen hundred Natives under regular Christian training besides a considerable number who attend public worship on Sabbath only.

PROSPECTUS.

The Chaplain and School Committee of Vepery invite the attention of all who take an interest in education, to the great work undertaken in the District, and earnestly request their aid under the following circumstances:—

The free Schools for the Poor of the District, containing at the recent examination 373 children, are generally known, and receive considerable, though precarious, support. But a new and pressing want has lately arisen which it is absolutely necessary for the highest interests of Society should be promptly and vigorously met.

The important Grammar School for many years maintained by the S. P. G. F. P. in the compound adjoining the Vepery Church having been closed, the means of Christian education for the Inhabitants of Vepery is felt to be very inadequate; the attempt has therefore been made to establish a superior Central School in connection with the Vepery Congregation, with a special view to the benefit of that large class whose children require a better education than the Free Schools can supply, and who are able to pay a small fee for this object.

Such a School, in which religious instruction, according to the principles of the Church of England, may be combined with a useful commercial and classical education, is very urgently needed in Vepery, where a large and important English community wants nothing so much as education to qualify it for usefulness and to raise it to prosperity.

SCHEME OF INSTRUCTION.

A strong feeling exists among the greater portion of the Inhabitants of the District that the education which will really benefit and elevate them must be based upon sound religious principles. The object in view is nothing less than to train up a rational and immortal Being for his duties, privileges, and temptations in this world, and for eternal happiness hereafter. The aim of the Committee therefore in the establishment of the Central School is first to inculcate the saving truths and holy precepts of the Gospel, and to make all teaching subservient to true religion. It will be their anxious endeavour at the same time to give an education equal to the wants of the District, and such as shall enable intelligent youths to rise to the various openings which now present themselves. The demand for Engineers for the Medical profession, for Schoolmasters, Bookkeepers, &c., affords abundant encouragement to the East Indian Youth to look much higher than they have been wont to do, and instead of seeking admittance to over-crowded public offices, as Copyists or Clerks, to qualify themselves for those scientific departments which offer far wider and better promise of honorable independence.

With this view the Central School will be rendered as efficient in every branch of instruction as the means of the Committee will admit. It is not their object to devote much time to the Greek or Latin Classics; but they propose simply to ground the Pupils in the rudiments of those languages. Careful attention will be given to Mathematics, Geography, History, and the Native languages. Provision will be made also for instruction in Drawing, and, when required, in Surveying and Civil Engineering.

The School is to be divided into two departments: the upper division being a Juvenile or what is commonly called a Grammar School, the lower a Preparatory or Infant School.

The upper School is under the charge of J. A. King, Esq., formerly one of the Masters of the Grammar School, assisted by Mr. Adamson, lately an Assistant in the Training Institution. The Preparatory School will be supplied with Teachers from the Training Institution; and it is proposed, as soon as funds are available, to obtain a trained Female Teacher from England. This branch of the School will perhaps from its novelty win its way to public confidence rather slowly; but those who know the vast importance of early religious impressions, and the necessity of awakening the minds of children to observation, by giving a profitable direction to their natural curiosity, will be interested in this undertaking. The step between the two divisions of the School will be ordinarily the attainment of eight years of age; but this rule will vary with circumstances.

SCHOOL DISCIPLINE.

It will be the anxious desire of the Committee to carry out a system of gentle and rational influence, rather than of stern compulsion. It is hoped that degrading punishments may be found unnecessary, and that love and high moral feeling may form the most effective discipline, and supply the strongest motive for exertion.

SUPERINTENDENCE.

The Chaplain of Vepery will exercise a general supervision, and carefully watch over the interests of the School. The Committee, who all have local ties and attachments, will also consult for its welfare. Visitors will at all times be welcome; and the Parents and Guardians of the children are especially invited to call during the School hours, and evince their natural concern in the education of their children. It will be very desirable also that some of these, who have so deep an interest in the School, should join the Committee.

FUNDS.

It will be wholly out of the power of the Committee to realize the great objects which they propose to themselves without liberal aid. The Committee therefore call upon the inhabitants of the District to give them support and confidence; and they appeal to the friends of education throughout the Presidency to assist them with free contributions. It must be remembered that the late Vepery Mission Grammar School was maintained at a considerable expense out of the funds of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel; that a low rate of fees is absolutely necessary to render any School available to a large portion of the community; and that the efficiency of the Establishment and the utility of the undertaking must in great measure depend upon the means placed at the disposal of the Committee.

It is their earnest desire that the funds of the Free Schools should not in any degree suffer through the establishment of the Central School. Those funds are sacred to a charitable object: neither are they equal to any new demand. A separate fund will be opened; and it is hoped that the liberality of the Public will not suffer so desirable an object to be lost for want of pecuniary means.

This Institution was established in the year 1808, for the purpose of affording to old, infirm and diseased Natives, assistance in food, clothing, lodging, and medical attendance. Since that period it has entertained nearly 300 persons daily; and during the famine which devastated the Country in 1824 and 1833, it was the means of saving vast numbers from starvation and death. Throughout the famine of the latter year no less than 30,000 individuals were on an average maintained every day. Wretchedness under every variety of form is here admitted; and the bare existence of wretchedness alone is sufficient to obtain immediate relief.

Experience having fully shown the desirableness of establishing in Madras a Hall on strictly Temperance principles, to which Soldiers, Sailors, and others might repair for refreshment and social intercourse, without being exposed to the temptation of using intoxicating drinks, after some anxious deliberation on the subject, it was determined to supply this need.

In connexion with the Hall is a News and a Reading Room, open to subscribers of 8 annas per mensem, or 6 pice for each visit, supplied with a good variety of entertaining and instructive periodicals, to which additions will from time to time, be made, if sufficient encouragement be given to the undertaking.

The Hall is conducted by a Committee who are convinced that it may be the means of preventing many from frequenting places where their health may be injured and their minds corrupted, and therefore confidently invite the assistance of the friends of Temperance and of all who are interested in the good of man. During the past year, it has had about 39,205 visits, viz. 4,463 Soldiers, 1,084 Sailors, and 33,658 other classes. About 30,928 Cups of Tea and Coffee with other refreshments have been sold. The expenses of the Hall amount to about 80 or 90 rupees per mensem, for which the Committee look to the Donations and Subscriptions of the public.

CURATOR.

P. Rungasawmy Moodehliar.

This Institution is at present located in the Pantheon on the Pantheon Road, but it will ultimately be placed in the New University which it is now proposed to build. Bengal and Bombay have long had Museums, both of them particularly rich in specimens illustrative of Natural History, and from the year 1819, several efforts were made to establish one in Madras, but the only result was the Polytechnic Institution which owes its origin to one of those attempts. In the beginning of 1851, however, Government accepted Mr. Balfour's offer to take charge of it, and shortly after issued the following Notification.

NOTIFICATION.

FORT ST. GEORGE, August 14, 1851.

The Honorable the Court of Directors having expressed their approval of the establishment of a Central Museum at the Presidency and of local repositories in the interior, the Madras Literary Society, with a desire of promoting the Honorable Court's views, lately presented their collection to Government. The Right Honorable the Governor in Council has added the duplicate specimens remaining after despatching the articles for the Grand Exhibition; and He now invites the Servants of Government, and the European and Native community in general, to assist in the development of the Government Museum, which is open in the College of Fort St. George.

The whole of the upper part of the College of Fort St. George has been allotted for the specimens; an allowance, which Assistant Surgeon Balfour, the Officer in charge, has reported to be, for the present, sufficient, has been sanctioned for an Establishment and for the purchase of specimens; and further arrangements will be made as the Institution expands.

The Governor in Council is of opinion that the Central Museum at the Presidency should combine the objects of a Museum of Practical or Economic Geology, and of a Museum of Natural History, for which the specimens from the Mineral, Vegetable and Animal Kingdom, and those of Machinery, Manufactures, and Sculptures already collected admirably serve as a commencement.

In the extension of a Museum of this nature, every person may have it in his power to aid, as every point of information, and every specimen that may be sent will be acceptable: but, in order to guide contributors and to give publicity to the arrangements and objects of the Institution, the Officer in charge will occasionally print and circulate notes and extracts from publications on points connected with subjects likely to be of use.

The very numerous and liberal donations already received from the European and Native community encourage the expectation that the Museum which is even now of importance will soon become greatly increased: but much assistance is anticipated from the various Departments of the Government, who will give the Officer in charge every aid in their power and second the efforts of individuals disposed to respond to this invitation.

Communications from the Provinces, addressed to the Officer in charge of the Madras Government Museum, will be received free of postage, and parcels containing specimens similarly addressed, if delivered at the Catcheries of Collectors, or to the Officers of the Commissariat or Ordnance Departments will be forwarded by those Officers to the Presidency as opportunities may offer.

By order of the Right Honorable the Governor in Council.

H. C. MONTGOMERY, Chief Secretary.

The museum is free to the public, who have evinced the interest that they take in its success by their liberal donations to the collections, and by the gradually increasing number of visitors: these amounted in the year 1854, to 37,000. Except specimens illustrative of Botany, the Government Central Museum, in its objects, embraces Economic Geology and all the branches of Natural History; but as the objects in view at its origin, and the advantages and uses of museums are well explained in the following remarks, which form Mr. Balfour's preface to his catalogue of the museum, it is given at length.

PREFACE.

My report to Government dated the 30th July 1852 gave a brief history of the Madras Central Museum, and it will be sufficient, therefore, to preface the first part of the catalogue with a few general remarks on the origin and objects of museums, the purpose for which this one has been established, the points that the visitors to it should keep in view, and an explanation of the system followed in the catalogue.

The term Museum is derived from a Greek word signifying a temple of the muses, and we know that at Athens, Rome and other cities, such temples were erected, but whether, like modern museums they contained collections of natural and artificial curiosities, we are not so exactly informed. At Alexandria, in Egypt, Ptolemy Philadelphus, the second of the Grecian kings of the country, established not only a public library in the Temple of Serapis but also a kind of academy or literary institution, called the Museum, supplied with professors who employed themselves in instructing pupils by their writings, conversations and lectures, the subjects being philosophy and other sciences.

On the revival of science in Western Europe, after the fall of the Greek or Constantinopolitan empire, the princes and nobles formed collections of relics of art, of specimens of natural objects and other productions, constituting cabinets and museums. The discovery of busts, statues, bas-reliefs, inscriptions and other antiquities of various kinds, led to the formation of many museums in Italy (where such subjects abound) earlier than in other countries; the Medici, dukes of Florence, particularly signalising themselves by the liberality and magnificence they displayed in procuring relics of antiquities and valuable manuscripts and works of art, at a vast expense. In the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries numerous museums, some exclusively appropriated to objects relating to one science only and others of a more miscellaneous nature, were formed not by kings and princes only, but by numbers of private persons: some of whom devoted themselves to the task of collecting during a considerable part of their lives, traversing foreign countries, regardless of all toil or danger: other individuals, favored by fortune, were enabled to employ their wealth in making rich and abundant collections of curiosities, availing themselves of the services of men of science and research, who explored the world at their expense.

In England John Tradescant collected curiosities of various kinds and his museum constituted the nucleus or foundation of the famous Ashmolean Museum at Oxford. James Petiver, a London apothecary, formed a cabinet of natural history; in Holland, Albert Seba distinguished himself as a collector of similar curiosities; and in that country, also, John Swammerdam devoted much time and labour to the study of entomology, or the natural history of the insect tribes, and to the formation of a valuable museum. The Ashmolean Museum, just mentioned, was presented in 1686, to the University of Oxford by Elias Ashmole, an eminent herald and antiquary. It comprised originally specimens to illustrate natural history, and various artificial curiosities, especially Roman antiquities; and since its establishment numerous additions have been made to it. Among the most celebrated collectors in England during the last century may be reckoned Richard Mead, and eminent physician, who accumulated a valuable cabinet of coins and medals, besides other interesting objects; his rival, Dr. John Woodward, who applied himself especially, but not exclusively, to the collection and illustration of British minerals and fossil remains; and Sir Hans Sloane who, at his demise, bequeathed to Government his magnificent museum and library, in the formation of which he had expended upwards of five lakhs of rupees. This formed the foundation of the British museum to which has since been added the donations of many eminent and great men, as well as the extensive collections which the large annual grants from the Imperial Parliament, reaching latterly to five, six and seven lakhs of rupees for all purposes, have enabled the Trustees to purchase. The British Museum is not supplied with professors to instruct those desirous of information, but has a large staff of officers, whose employment it is to superintend the arrangement, preservation and exhibition of the objects of various descriptions comprised in the collection. This consists of a Library of printed books and manuscripts, of objects of Natural History in the animal and mineral kingdoms and a magnificent collection of Sculptures, Coins, Drawings and Engravings. Its objects, it will be observed from this, are few, nevertheless, it is the most extensive in Britain, perhaps in the world, though there are in London, Edinburgh, and Dublin, indeed in nearly every large town in Britain, museums which have attained a considerable size. On the continent of Europe, picture galleries, sculpture galleries, and collections of natural history are to be met with in all the principal towns, and in America the collections that have been made rival those of the old world. The oldest museum in India is that of The Asiatic Society of Bengal, which includes a museum of Natural History and a museum of Economic Geology, of which Mr. Bligh and Mr. Piddington, for several years past, have been the respective curators, and under whose care great extensions have been made. The Bombay Asiatic Society likewise possess an excellent museum, which is particularly rich in specimens of natural history, and Bombay also has a useful Economic Museum which originated in Dr. Buist's exertions. For some years past a museum has existed at Singapore; I gather from letters that one has recently been commenced at Rookher, by the officers there; and Madras has had its Polytechnic Institution since 1846, the rare and valuable articles in which continue a great source of attraction. These institutions all originated and are nearly all of them supported by the European population of their respective communities, but it is the Madras Government to whom is due the credit of being the first of the Governments of this country to establish museums as an institution of the state, and I trust that under their auspices museums of natural history and economic geology will soon be seen in all the large towns in Southern India. The numbers of such institutions already existing, and their steady increase, everywhere, imply that they provide for some want that is generally left; and such is, in truth, the case; for to all engaged in particular scientific pursuits, museums, whether they be their own private property or belong to the public, are essentially necessary to enable them to follow up their investigations, and institutions of this kind afford amusement and instruction to all who take an interest in examining the works of nature and of art. "On taking a leisurely survey of a well stored and well arranged museum, the thoughtful observer cannot fail to be struck with the endless variety of forms and the wonderful adaptation of means to certain appointed ends which abound in the kingdom of nature. Every single specimen, whether it be of an animal, a plant, or a mineral, has a history to tell, full of design, abounding in instruction, and replete with beauty. All these varied forms, gathered from all parts of the earth, grouped with the method and order of a scientific mind, are, to a certain extent, exponents of the method and order of the divine Architect, who in planning the fabric and willing the existence of the meanest of His creatures, had in view certain wise and benevolent ends, which it is our duty and privilege to study, and as far as possible to understand. It may in many cases be difficult to see the uses of the beings and objects on which so much care has been bestowed, and for whose propagation and preservation so many precautions have been taken; but we must bear in mind, that the use of an object does not always mean its direct application to the wants or the pleasures of man. It doubtless has its uses in the great scheme of nature, and as such the naturalist regards its economic application, as of secondary importance. Hence, if rightly viewed, there is not a single object, however mean, which does not in some way or other appeal to our sympathies, excite our interest, and confirm our belief in the constant care of a protecting Providence."* But visitors who saunter listlessly and purposeless in and out of a museum can never hope to experience such pleasing emotions as these, and it is to be feared that it is but too common an occurrence for many who enter institutions of this kind to quit them again with only some vague indistinct idea of having seen many curious things of which they know neither the objects nor the uses. Such fruitless termination of a sight seeing is the result solely of the collections being examined without any definite purpose. By attempting too much; by trying to learn at one or even at a few visits all that a museum can teach, the mind becomes bewildered amongst the multitude of things that meet the eye, and in reality acquires no distinct knowledge of any thing it contains. And visitors may rest assured that it is as impossible for a person to profit from a cursory examination of a museum, however methodically arranged it be, as to acquire a knowledge of all in the animal, vegetable and mineral kingdoms, and in the arts and manufactures (of specimens from all which museums are composed) without that close attention and prolonged study which the acquisition of every branch of knowledge demands. If visitors desire to economise their time and profit by their sight seeing they must enter such institutions with some definite object, otherwise they will return carrying with them only indistinct glimmerings of information, vague undefined notions of the many curious things that they had just seen, the nature, uses, or even forms of which, however, had made so little impression upon their minds that they cannot be recalled with vividness sufficient for any useful purpose.

In establishing at Madras the Government Central Museum, it was intended to form a central institution connected with branch museums or repositories in the provinces, all working together and affording mutual aid by an exchange of specimens. The notification of the 14th August 1851 also mentioned that the Central Institution should combine the objects of a Museum of Natural History and a Museum of Economic Geology, and that the Officer in charge would occasionally print and circulate notes and extracts from publications on points connected with subjects likely to be of use. Of these objects some have been fully carried out. Amongst the periodical returns transmitted to Government, reports on economic products have already been published; arrangements are now making for establishing local museums in the larger towns; and the museums in the central institution itself have been fairly formed. It consists of a Museum of Natural History; a Museum of Geographical Geology; a Museum of Economic Geology, and a public library. In the latter only a beginning has been effected, but the foundation has been laid and it can be rapidly increased whenever desired. The Museum of Economic Geology will aid in extending amongst the community a knowledge of the raw and manufactured products of this country and of the world in general, and although a report on the marbles of Southern India and another on this country's iron ores and iron and steel, have already appeared, there are ample materials in this collection for hundreds of such resumés. The articles in the Economic Museum have been arranged upon the plan adopted in the Grand Exhibition of 1851, under the four Sections of RAW MATERIALS in the mineral, vegetable, and animal kingdoms; MACHINERY; MANUFACTURES; and SCULPTURES MODELS and THE PLASTIC ART; the progress may be judged of by mentioning that this department contains about 10,000 specimens in all its sections.

The Museum of Geographical Geology contains a very extensive collection of specimens of the rocks and minerals from the provinces over which the army of the Madras Presidency extends, and all so arranged that the geological features of each Civil and Military division can be studied separately.

It is in the well classified and extensive Museum of Natural History, however, as the department of the institution which would the soonest be required for public instruction, that every opportunity for naming and arranging the specimens has been employed. This museum contains many specimens illustrative of mineralogy, which have been arranged according to the system of Phillips; the departments of ichthyology and conchology are rich, and in the collection of birds also some progress has been made. In the geological department the specimens illustrative of the aqueous formations already form an extensive collection, and with the igneous, metamorphic and volcanic series of rocks are sufficient for all the purposes of instruction in geology. It is with this department therefore that I have commenced printing the catalogue of the museum.

In arranging the geological specimens and therefore in preparing this catalogue the system followed is that adopted by Sir Charles Lyell, whose philosophic views seem to be the most generally acknowledged. Following his manual, accordingly, the first part of the catalogue will be found to contain a list of the aqueous rocks, arranged as rocks, without reference to their age. In this, termed the lithologic arrangement of rocks, there are four groups, the Sandstone, Clay and Limestone groups, with a group of Intermixed rocks. The second part of the catalogue contains the aqueous rocks, along with the fossil remains which have been discovered in them, all arranged according to their respective ages, from the newest to the oldest formations. This is termed the chronological arrangement of rocks. I have been principally indebted for these specimens illustrative of palæontology and for another and larger collection just come to hand, to the kindness of Sir Charles Lyell and Professor Morris of the London University, and as few even among long established museums can show a more varied collection or can give such well known names as their authority for the correctness of the nomenclature, a good opportunity is now afforded those desirous of studying the natural history, the fauna and flora of geology, the now extinct plants and animals which have in succession through immense geological periods been the occupants of the earth; have served the purposes they were created for and then have died to be placed by other and newer forms.

The Government Central Museum contains in all its departments about 30,000 specimens, amongst which the meditative mind will find abundance for reflection: and whether the rock and mineral specimens be the subject of the visitor's investigation; whether his eye be wandering over the multiplied varieties of birds and quadrupeds and shells and fishes and great reptiles whose living congeners we may daily see around us; or the visitor be examining wonderingly the fossil remains of plants and animals now extinct, if familiar with the words of the Psalmist he may well respond "O Lord how manifold are thy works! in wisdom hast thou made them all: the earth is full of thy riches; so is this great and wide sea wherein are things creeping innumerable, both small and great beasts." "Thou takest away their breath, they die, and return to the dust: Thou sendest forth thy spirit, they are created; and thou renewest the face of the earth."

The object of this Fund is to afford relief to the Widows and Orphans of persons not in the covenanted service of Government, and others, who have no similar institution to look to for making a provision for their families. It consists of two branches, namely, a Widows' branch and a Children's branch. The benefits of the former are secured by the payment of a donation (equal to two years' subscription) as entrance money, and a monthly subscription, for which the widow will enjoy a pension equal to six times the rate of subscription, under certain restrictions. In the Children's branch, a monthly subscription, and a donation equal to one year's subscription, on account of each child, will secure a pension equal to four times the amount of that subscription, until a specified age. The capital of the fund exceeds four and a half lacs of Rupees, invested in Government Securities; it has 473 subscribers in its connexion, and its present liabilities do not exceed 22,500 Rupees per annum, whilst its income exceeds 66,000 Rupees per annum.

NEIGHERRIES' INSTITUTIONS.

Neigherry Girls' Free School, and Asylum for Orphans.

The above Institution was opened on New Year's Day 1850, by 24 Ladies resident on the Hills, for the reception of Female Children of Military Pensioners, discharged Soldiers, Medical Subordinates, and the like grade, both European and East Indian, who could not afford to pay to existing Establishments; and is still open, affording education gratis.

The School is managed by the same number of Ladies, who form a Committee, from which one of the Ladies who may be on the Hills, in turn, visits the School weekly.

Children from Kotagerry, Coonoor and the adjoining Coffee Estates, which are far distant, are lodged as well as educated; and Orphans are educated, lodged and boarded altogether without any charge.

The School is supported by voluntary contributions.

Mr. A. Lowry.....Secretary.

Mr. J. A. Hillier.....Superintendent.

The Home is supported by voluntary contributions.

This Institution, for its real usefulness, is perhaps not to be equalled by any other on the Hills; its professed object being to afford shelter and aid to the poor and destitute who pass through the station, and while this is effected, it has also been of great benefit to many who could scarcely come under this designation, and who are glad to avail themselves of the accommodation it affords. At no place do we think is there such difficulty as on the Hills, for a man of moderate means to obtain a dwelling on first coming up, and how many who have been so situated can now look back to this Home, and ponder on the distress they would have been in but for it.

The Home was opened on the 1st April 1852, since which it has received no less than 200 inmates of various descriptions, a fact which speaks for itself.

And now it may well be asked in what had this useful undertaking its origin, and how is it supported? The monthly expenses of it in paying servants is a mere trifle, and the contributions made, as monthly subscriptions and donations, are, we are glad to find, amply sufficient to meet all contingencies.

The idea of setting it up emanated in the first place from Mr. Atkins, a Merchant here, who with some other of the permanent residents made an appeal to that good and charitable gentleman J. F. McKennie, Esq., Assistant Master Attendant at Madras, to whom no appeal for a worthy object was ever made in vain, and he placed at the disposal of the Committee the munificent sum of Rupees five hundred, which tended at once to the completion of the Home, and ever since this Gentleman's return to the Hills, the anxiety he has shewn and the interest he has taken in its welfare, are alike creditable to his head and heart. We do not make these observations with any degree of vain shew, but when we remember that Mr. McKennie is also the founder of another most useful Institution on the Hills, viz. the Girls' Free School, we do not think we can be too lavish in our praise or in setting forth these his really beneficial and practically good deeds; would that many more, who are deriving benefit from the beautiful and exhilarating climate of the Hills, were thus to appreciate them, by bestowing their attention and means to the wants of the place.
