238. All offences against the provisions of any law for the time being in force relating to Railways, Telegraphs, the Post Office, and Arms and Ammunition may be enquired into by a Presidency Magistrate, and may be tried according to the provisions of this Act.

Extent of jurisdiction.

239. The powers conferred on a Presidency Magistrate by section 238 may be exercised whether the offence is stated to have been committed within the local limits of his jurisdiction or not; but such powers shall only be exercised if the witnesses necessary for the prosecution of the offender are to be found within such limits.

Reference to High Court.

240. A Presidency Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, refer for the opinion of the High Court any question of law which may arise in the hearing of any case in which he has jurisdiction; or may give judgment in any such matter, subject to the decision of the High Court on such reference; and, pending such decision by the High Court, may either commit the accused person to jail or release him on bail to appear for judgment when called upon.

Disposal of case according to decision of High Court.

241. When a question has been so referred, the High Court shall pass such order thereon as it thinks fit, and shall cause a copy of such order to be sent to the Magistrate by whom the reference was made, who shall proceed to dispose of the case conformably to the said order.

Direction as to costs.

The High Court may direct by whom the costs of the reference shall be paid.

Order for disposal of property regarding which offence committed.

242. When the inquiry or trial before any Presidency Magistrate is concluded, he may make such order as he thinks fit for the disposal of any moveable property produced before him regarding which any offence appears to have been committed.

EXPLANATION.—In this section the term property' includes not only such property as has been originally in the possession or under the control of any party, but also any property into or for which the same may have been converted or exchanged, and anything acquired by such conversion or exchange, whether immediately or otherwise.

Power to order disposal of property connected with charge, in Police-custody.

243. If any property alleged to be stolen or fraudulently obtained, is in the custody of any Police-officer by virtue of any warrant of a Presidency Magistrate, or in prosecution of any complaint of an offence in regard to the obtaining thereof, and the person accused of such offence is not found, or has been summarily dealt with and discharged, or has been tried and acquitted, or if such person has been tried and found guilty, but the property so in custody has not been included in the charge upon which he has been found guilty, or if any property has been seized by a Police-officer under chapter XI, any Presidency Magistrate may make an order for the delivery of such property to the person appearing to be the rightful owner thereof; or, in case the owner cannot be ascertained, may make such order with respect to the property as the Magistrate thinks fit:

Provided that no such order shall bar the right of any person to sue the person to whom the property is delivered, and to recover such property from him, so that the suit be instituted within six months next after such order has been made.

Expenses of complainants and witnesses.

244. Subject to any rules that may be made by the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, a Presidency Magistrate may order payment, on the part of Government, of the reasonable expenses of any complainant or witness attending for the purpose of any trial under this Act.

All persons to give information of certain offences.

245. Every person aware of the commission within the local limits of the jurisdiction of a Presidency Magistrate of any offence made punishable under sections 121, 121A, 122, 123, 124, 124A, 125, 126, 130, 302, 303, 304, 382, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 402, 435, 436, 449, 450, 456, 457, 458, 459 or 460 of the Indian Penal Code, shall, in the absence of reasonable excuse, the burthen of proving which shall lie upon such person, give information of the same to the nearest Police-officer or Presidency Magistrate.

All persons to assist Magistrate and Police in certain cases.

246. Within such local limits every person is bound to assist a Presidency Magistrate or Police-officer demanding his aid in the prevention of a breach of the peace, or in the suppression of a riot or an affray, or in the taking of any other person whom such Magistrate or Police-officer is authorized to arrest.

WHITLEY STOKES,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 29th June 1876, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in four months.

No. 6 of 1876.

A Bill to amend the Indian Registration Act, 1871.

For the purpose of amending the Indian Registration Act, 1871; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

Amendment of Act VIII of 1871, section 7.

1. For section seven the following shall be substituted :—

"7. The Local Government shall establish in every District an office to be styled the Office of the Registrar and in every Sub-District an office or offices to be styled the Office of the Sub-Registrar or the Offices of the Joint Sub-Registrars,

Offices of Registrar and Sub-Registrar

and may amalgamate with any Office of a Registrar any Office of a Sub-Registrar, and may authorize any Sub-Registrar whose Office has been so amalgamated to exercise and perform all or any of the powers and duties of a Registrar other than the powers conferred by sections sixty-eight and seventy-two."

Addition of clause (d) to section 17.

2. In section seventeen, after clause (c), the following clause shall be inserted (namely) :—

"or (d) to any document merely creating right to obtain another document which will, when executed, create, declare, assign, limit or extinguish any right, title or interest of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards, to or in immoveable property."

Amendment of section 18, clause (7).

3. In section eighteen, to clause (7) the words "All such" shall be prefixed, and for the last seven words of the same clause the following words shall be substituted (namely) : "and other documents as are not required by section seventeen to be registered".

Addition to section 30, clause (b).

4. In section thirty, clause (b), after the word "Town," the words "and the Registrar of the Lahore District" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 31.

5. For section thirty-one the following shall be substituted (namely) :—

"31. In ordinary cases the presentation or deposit of documents under this Act shall be made only at the office of the officer authorized to accept the same for registration or deposit.

Presentation and deposit of documents at private residences.

But such officer may on special cause being shewn attend at the residence of any person desiring to present a document for registration or to deposit a will, and accept for registration or deposit such document or will."

Addition to section 34.

6. To section thirty-four, paragraph first, the following words shall be added (namely) : "under sections twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-five and twenty-six;" and in clause two of the same section, after the word "fee," the following words shall be inserted (namely) : "in addition to the fine (if any) payable under section twenty-four."

Amendment of sections 42 to 45.

7. For sections forty-two, forty-three, forty-four and forty-five, the following shall be substituted (namely) :—

"42. Any testator may, either personally or by duly authorized agent, deposit with any Registrar his will in a sealed cover superscribed with the name of the testator and that of his agent (if any), and with a statement of the nature of the document.

Deposit of wills in sealed covers.

"43. On receiving such cover the Registrar, if satisfied that the person presenting the same for deposit is the testator or his agent, shall transcribe in his Register-Book No. 5 the superscription aforesaid, and shall note in the same book and on the said cover the year, month, day and hour of such presentation and receipt, the names of any persons who may testify to the identity of the testator or his agent, and any legible inscription which may be on the seal of the cover.

Procedure on depositing wills.

The Registrar shall then place and retain the cover in his fireproof box.

"44. If the testator who has deposited such cover wishes to withdraw it, he may apply, either personally or by duly authorized agent, to the Registrar who holds it in deposit; and such Registrar, if he be satisfied that the applicant is actually the testator or his agent, shall deliver the cover accordingly.

Withdrawal of covers containing wills.

"45. If on the death of a testator who has deposited a sealed cover under section forty-two, application be made to the Registrar who holds it in deposit to open the same, and if the Registrar is satisfied that the testator is dead, he shall in the applicant's presence open the cover, and at the applicant's expense cause the contents thereof to be copied into his Book No. 3."

Procedure on testator's death.

8. In section forty-six, for the second sentence, the following shall be substituted (namely) : "But whenever any such order is made, the Registrar shall, unless the will has already been copied under section forty-five, open the cover and copy the will in his Book No. 3, and shall make a note in such Book that the original has been removed into Court in pursuance of the order aforesaid."

Amendment of section 46.

9. To section fifty the following words shall be prefixed (namely) : "Every document mentioned in clauses (1), (2), (3) and (4) of section seventeen, and."

Addition to section 50.

10. In section fifty-nine, for the words "the last preceding section," the words "sections fifty-two and fifty-eight" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 59.

11. In section sixty-four and in the first paragraph of section sixty-five, after the word "document," the words "not testamentary" shall be inserted.

Addition to sections 64 and 65.

12. In section seventy-one, for clause two, the following shall be substituted (namely) :—

Amendment of section 71, clause 2.

"except on the ground—

(a) that the property to which it relates is not situate within his District or Sub-District; or

(b) that he is a Registrar and that the document ought to be registered in the Office of a Sub-Registrar."

Addition to section 73.

13. To section seventy-three the following explanation shall be added (namely) :—

"EXPLANATION.—In this section 'District Court' means the principal civil Court of original jurisdiction within the local limits of which is situate the Office in which the order of refusal was made."

'Section' defined.

14. In this Act 'section' means section of the said Indian Registration Act, 1871.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to make in the Registration Act thirteen amendments which the experience of the past five years has shown to be desirable.

Of these, the first is intended to authorize the Local Governments to establish in each Sub-District more Sub-Registrars than one, who will exercise concurrent jurisdiction. The absence of such a power has been found inconvenient in the Lower Provinces, and, probably, elsewhere. Power is also expressly given to authorize any Sub-Registrar whose Office has been amalgamated with that of a Registrar to exercise all the powers of a Registrar other than those conferred by sections 68 and 72. Some doubt had arisen whether or no such a power was implied.

The second embodies in section seventeen of the Act the resolution of the Government of India in the Home Department No. 51-1906, dated 10th July 1874. Its effect is to expressly exempt from compulsory registration documents merely creating a right to obtain other documents, which will, when executed, create, &c., rights of the value of Rs. 100 and upwards to immoveable property.

The third is intended to make it clear that section 18, clause (7), is not to encroach upon the provisions of section 17.

The fourth places the Registrar of the Lahore District on the same footing, as regards documents relating to land situate in any part of British India, as the Registrars of Districts including the Presidency Towns. This change has been made on the recommendation of the Local Government.

The fifth simply amends the drafting of section 31 of the Act.

The sixth expresses distinctly two of the intentions of the legislature in framing section 34 of the Act, viz., that the time allowed for presentation is the time allowed under the first four sections of Part IV, i. e., not merely the time (four months) ordinarily allowed, but also any extension of that period allowed under sections 24, 25, 26, and that, not only the fine mentioned in section 34, but the fines, if any, payable under section 24, must be paid in case of delay in appearing before the Registrar.

The seventh amends the drafting of sections 42 and 43, and expressly confines, in accordance with the intention of the framers of Act VIII of 1871, sections 44 and 45 to cases in which the testator himself, as distinguished from a depositing agent, desires to withdraw the deposit, or has died.

The eighth exempts the Registrar from the duty of copying a will under section 46 when it has already been copied under section 45; and when he has to copy a will, expressly empowers him to open the sealed cover in which it is preserved.

The ninth is an amendment of section 50, and is intended to supply a defect which has already given rise to fraudulent practices. That section now provides that registered documents relating to land, of which the registration is optional, shall take effect against unregistered documents. But it makes no such provision as to documents of which the registration is compulsory and which have accordingly been registered. Deeds coming under section 18 of the Act, whether registered or not, take effect against deeds registered under section 17, according to date of execution. The result is that, although a registered deed creating a right of the value of Rs. 99 to land cannot be defeated by an unregistered deed, a registered deed creating a similar right worth Rs. 101 may be defeated by an antedated unregistered deed creating a right worth anything under Rs. 100. The mischief feared is an extensive fabrication of falsely dated deeds purporting to create rights of small value in order to defeat deeds creating rights of large value. The remedy which the Bill proposes is to make documents registered under section 17 take effect against unregistered documents.

The tenth amendment is in section 59. That section now provides only for dating and signing endorsements made under section 58. It is desirable to make a similar provision for endorsements made under section 52.

The eleventh amendment consists in expressly excluding wills and codicils from sections 64 and 65.

The twelfth amendment effects a slight, but desirable, amendment in the drafting of section 71.

The thirteenth and last amendment clears up a doubt which has been raised as to the meaning in section 72 of the expression "District Court."

A Bill to relieve from Incumbrances the estates of Jágírdárs and Zamíndárs in Sindh.

Whereas many Jágírdárs and Zamíndárs in Sindh are in debt, and their immoveable property is subject to mortgages, charges and liens; and whereas it is expedient to provide for their relief in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:— Preamble.

I.—PRELIMINARY.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Sindh Incumbered Estates Act, 1876":

Commencement. And it shall come into force on the passing thereof.

Interpretation-clause. 2. In this Act—

"Jágír-land." 'Jágír-land' includes also a share held hereditarily of the revenues of a Government village, but does not include siri or mámul or garden-grants:

"Jágírdár." "Jágírdár" means a person who was in possession of jágír-land in Sindh on the seventeenth day of February 1843, and has since been in possession of the same land or of a portion thereof, or of other jágír-land assigned by the British Government in lieu thereof, and who holds a sanad granted under the authority of the said Government confirming his title.

For the purposes of this definition, the possession of any person from whom jágír-land has descended by way of inheritance shall be deemed to be the possession of the person to whom such land has so descended:

"Zamíndár." "Zamíndár" means a person holding lands in Sindh on the aggregate of which he has paid, direct to the Government, on account of land-revenue for any one of the five revenue years next before the passing of this Act, a sum not less than three hundred rupees:

"Commissioner." "Commissioner" means the Commissioner in Sindh.

II.—OF THE APPLICATION AND PRELIMINARY INQUIRY.

Application for the benefit of this Act. 3. At any time within twelve months after the passing of this Act any jágírdár or zamíndár, or any person who would be sole heir or one of the heirs to such jágírdár or zamíndár if he then died intestate, may apply, in writing, to the Commissioner, stating that such jágírdár or zamíndár is subject to debts or liabilities, other than debts due, or liabilities incurred, to Government, or that his immoveable property is charged with debts or liabilities, other than as aforesaid, and requesting that the provisions of this Act be applied to his case.

When any jágírdár, zamíndár or other person entitled to make an application under this section is a minor, or of unsound mind, or an idiot, such application may be made on his behalf by the guardian or other legal curator of his person or by the legally constituted administrator or manager of his estate.

Order to enquire. 4. When any such application is made by or on behalf of a jágírdár, or the person who would be his sole heir if he then died, the Commissioner shall direct an enquiry to be made by such officer as he thinks fit into the nature and amount of such debts and liabilities and the sufficiency of the debtor's property, whether moveable or immoveable, to discharge the same.

When such an application is made in any other case, it shall be in the discretion of the Commissioner, subject to any general rules which may from time to time be made by the Governor of Bombay in Council in this behalf, either to reject such application or to direct an enquiry to be made as aforesaid.

5. When an enquiry has been directed under section four, the applicant shall, within a period to be fixed by the Commissioner, submit to the officer appointed to make such enquiry a statement duly verified by the said applicant, or by some other competent person, in the manner required by law for the verification of plaints, and containing, so far as may be practicable, such details as to thedebts and liabilities, and as to the sufficiency of the debtor's property, whether moveable or immoveable, to meet the same, as the Commissioner, or the said officer subject to his control, may require.

Verified statement to be submitted.

If any such statement contains any averment which the person making the verification knows or believes to be false, or does not know or believe to be true, such person shall be deemed to have intentionally given false evidence within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

False averments in statement.

6. The officer so appointed, after making such enquiry as he thinks necessary, shall submit a report of his proceedings to the Commissioner.

Report of enquiry and proceedings thereon.

On receipt of such report, the Commissioner may (a) direct a further enquiry, or (b) dismiss the application, or (c), by order published in the Sindh Official Gazette, appoint an officer (hereinafter called the Manager) to manage the immoveable property of the debtor, and to arrange for the liquidation of his debts in manner hereinafter provided.

III.—OF THE ORDER OF MANAGEMENT.

7. Such order (hereinafter called "the order of management") shall extend to all immoveable property of or to which the debtor is on the date of its publication possessed or entitled in his own right, or which he is entitled to redeem, or which may be acquired by or devolve on him during the continuance of the management, and to all debts and liabilities to which he is subject, or which are charged on the whole or any part of his immoveable property on the said date.

"Order of management" to what it extends.

The management shall be deemed to commence from the date on which the order is published.

Commencement of management.

8. On the publication of the order of management the following consequences shall ensue:

Effect of order of management.

First, all proceedings then pending in any Civil Court in British India in respect to the debts and liabilities mentioned in section seven shall be stayed; and the operation of all processes, executions and attachments then in force for or in respect of such debts and liabilities shall be suspended;

Stay of pending proceedings, &c.

Secondly, so long as the management continues, no fresh proceedings, processes, executions or attachments shall be instituted in or issued by any Civil Court in British India in respect of such debts and liabilities;

Bar of fresh proceedings.

Thirdly, so long as the management continues the debtor shall be incompetent

The debtor incompetent

to contract debts,

(a) to enter into any contract involving him in pecuniary liability, or to encumber or alienate property under management,

(b) to mortgage, charge, lease or alienate the property under management or any part thereof, or

(c) to grant valid receipts for the rents and profits arising or accruing therefrom:

to grant receipts for rent thereof.

Provided that nothing contained in this clause shall be deemed to preclude the Manager from letting and the debtor from taking the whole or any part of such property on such terms consistent with this Act, as may be agreed upon between the parties;

Fourthly, so long as the management continues, no person other than the Manager shall be competent to mortgage, charge, lease or alienate such property or any part thereof.

9. The Manager shall, during the management, receive and recover all rents and profits due in respect of the property under management,

Manager to receive rents and profits, and for the purpose of recovering such rents and profits shall have, in addition to any powers possessed by a jágírdár or zamíndár, as the case may be, all the powers possessed by a Collector, under the law for the time being in force, for the recovery of land-revenue due to Government.

to have powers of a Collector for their recovery.

In the event of any dispute arising as to the liability of any person to pay any such rent or profit, or as to the amount thereof, the decision of the Manager shall be binding until set aside by a competent Court.

10. From the sums received or recovered under section nine, the Manager shall pay

Manager to pay therefrom—

First, the Government revenue and all debts and liabilities for the time being due or incurred to Government in respect of the property under management,

Government revenue, &c.,

Secondly, the rent (if any) due to the jágírdár or other superior holder, in respect of the said property;

rent due to superior holder,

Thirdly, such periodical allowance as the Commissioner may from time to time fix for the maintenance of the debtor and his family, allowance for maintenance of debtor,

Fourthly, the cost of such repairs and improvements of the said property as he thinks necessary, and cost of repairs, &c.,

Fifthly, the costs of the management.

cost of management.

The residue shall be retained by the Manager for the liquidation, in manner hereinafter provided, of the debts and liabilities mentioned in section seven other than those so due or incurred to Government.

Residue how disposed of.

11. At any time after the management has commenced the Manager may demise all or any part of the property under management for any term of years not exceeding three years to take effect in possession, so as there be reserved the best yearly rent that can be reasonably gotten without taking anything in the nature of a fine.

Power to make short leases.

IV.—PROOF OF DEBTS AND SCHEME FOR LIQUIDATION.

12. On the publication of the order of management, the Manager shall publish in the Sindh Official Gazette a notice in English and Sindhi, calling upon all persons having claims against the debtor, or the property under management, to notify the same in writing to such Manager within six months from the date of the publication.

Notice to claimants against debtor.

He shall also cause copies of such notice to be exhibited at the Mukhtiárkárs' kachahrís in the district in which the said property lies, and at such other places as he thinks fit.

Copies of notice to be exhibited.

13. Every such claimant shall, along with his claim, present full particulars thereof.

Claim to contain full particulars.

Every document on which the claimant founds his claim, or on which he relies in support thereof, shall be delivered to the Manager along with the claim.

Documents to be given up.

If the document be an entry in any book, the claimant shall produce the book to the Manager, together with a copy of the entry on which he relies. The Manager shall mark the book for the purpose of identification, and, after examining and comparing the copy with the original, shall return the book to the claimant.

Entries in books.

If any document in the possession or under the control of the claimant is not delivered or produced by him to the Manager along with the claim, the Manager may refuse to receive such document in evidence on the claimant's behalf at the investigation of the case.

Exclusion of documents not produced.

14. Every such claim (other than claims of the Government) not notified to the Manager within the time and in the manner required by such notice shall, except as provided in section twenty-one, be deemed for all purposes and on all occasions, whether during the continuance of the management or afterwards, to have been duly discharged:

Claim not duly notified to be barred.

Provided that, when proof is made to the Manager that the claimant was unable to comply with the provisions of section twelve, the Manager may receive such claim within the further period of six months from the expiration of the original period of six months.

Provision for admission of claims within further period of six months.

15. The Manager shall inquire into the history and merits of every claim received under sections twelve and fourteen, and shall in accordance with the rules to be made under this Act determine the amount of the debts and liabilities (if any) due to the several claimants.

Determination of debts and liabilities.

16. No claim shall be allowed which was barred by the law of limitation when the order of management was published.

Time-barred claims not to be allowed.

17. If on any inquiry under section fifteen it appears that, having regard to the principal amount of the debt or liability as originally incurred, and to all the circumstances of the case, the amount from time to time debited to the debtor on account of interest, though debited in accordance with the agreement between the parties, is unconscionably large, the Manager may re-open the account as far back as he deems fit, and allow for interest to the date of his decision only such amount as to him may seem fair and reasonable.

Power to reduce interest.

18. An appeal against any decision or order under section fourteen, fifteen, sixteen, or seventeen shall lie to the Commissioner, if preferred within six weeks from the date of such decision or order.

Appeal.

There shall be no appeal against the decision of the Commissioner on such appeal.

19. When the total amount of the debts and liabilities (including those due and incurred to Government) has been finally determined, the Manager shall prepare and submit to the Commissioner a schedule of such debts and liabilities, and a scheme (hereinafter called the liquidation-scheme) showing the mode in which it is proposed to pay and discharge the same, whether from the income of the property under management, or with the aid of funds raised under the powers hereinafter conferred, or partly in one of such ways and partly in the other.

Scheme for liquidation.

Every such scheme shall further provide (a) for the continuance of the payments to be made by the Manager under section ten, (b) for the order in which such debts and liabilities shall be paid and discharged, and (c) for the rate of interest (if any) on the aggregate amount finally awarded under this Part in respect of each claim from the date of the final decision on such claim to the date of the payment and discharge thereof.

Provisions of scheme.

Any such scheme may further provide for the improvement of the property under management either from the said income or with the aid of the funds raised as aforesaid, or partly in one of such ways and partly in the other.

May provide for improving the property.

20. The Commissioner may—

Proceedings of Commissioner on submission of scheme.

(a) as often as he thinks fit send back such scheme to the Manager for revision, and direct him to make such further inquiry as may be requisite for the proper preparation of the scheme, or

(b) sanction any liquidation-scheme, or any revised liquidation-scheme, submitted to him either as it stands, or subject to such modifications as he may deem expedient.

21. At any time before he has sanctioned a liquidation-scheme under section twenty, the Commissioner may by an order published in the Sindh Official Gazette, direct that on a date fixed by such order the management shall be relinquished.

Power to relinquish management.

On the date so fixed—

(a) the management shall terminate;

(b) the owner of the property under management shall be restored to the possession and enjoyment thereof, subject to any leases made under section eleven;

(c) any residue of the rents and profits of the said property retained under the last clause of section ten shall be paid to him; and

(d) the proceedings, processes, executions and attachments stayed and suspended under section eight, and the debts and liabilities barred by section fourteen, shall revive.

In calculating the periods of limitation applicable to suits to recover and enforce debts and liabilities revived under this section, the time during which the management has continued shall be excluded.

V.—OF THE PROCEEDINGS SUBSEQUENT TO SANCTION OF THE LIQUIDATION-SCHEME.

22. On the sanction of the liquidation-scheme by the Commissioner—

Effects of sanctioning scheme.

1*st*, all proceedings, processes, executions and attachments stayed or suspended under section eight shall be for ever barred, and

2*nd*, every debt or liability due or owing to any person which was proveable before the Manager shall be extinguished, and such person shall be entitled to receive under the liquidation-scheme the amount (if any) finally awarded to him under Part IV of this Act in respect of such debt or liability.

23. If the property under management or any part thereof be in the possession of a mortgagee or conditional vendee, the Manager, at any time after the liquidation-scheme has been sanctioned as aforesaid, may, by an order in writing, require such incumbrancer to deliver up possession of the same to him at the end of the then current revenue year.

Power to remove mortgagee in possession.

If such incumbrancer refuse or neglect to obey such order, the Manager may, without resorting to a Civil Court, enter upon the property and summarily evict therefrom the said incumbrancer and any other person obstructing or resisting on his behalf.

Nothing in this section shall be held to affect the right of any incumbrancer to receive under the liquidation-scheme the amount (if any) awarded to him under Part IV of this Act.

24. If the property under management or any part thereof be in the possession of any person claiming to hold under a lease dated within the three years immediately preceding the commencement of the management, the Manager, with the sanction of the Commissioner, may inquire into the sufficiency of the consideration for which the lease was given; and if such consideration appear to him insufficient, may by order, at any time after the liquidation-scheme has been sanctioned as aforesaid, either set aside the lease or require the person so in possession to pay such consideration for the said lease as the Manager thinks fit, and in default of such payment the lease shall be cancelled.

Power to inquire into consideration given for leases.

25. Subject to ther ules made under section thirty-one, the Manager, after the liquidation-scheme has been sanctioned as aforesaid, shall have power to demise all or any part of the property under management for any term of years not exceeding twenty years absolute, to take effect in possession, in consideration of the payment to him of any fine, or without fine, and reserving such rents, and under such conditions as may be agreed upon.

Power to lease.

26. At any time after the liquidation-scheme has been sanctioned as aforesaid, the Manager, with the previous assent of the Commissioner, shall have power to raise any money which may be required for carrying out such scheme,

Power to raise money by mortgage or sale.

(a) by demising by way of mortgage the whole or any part of the property under management for a term not exceeding twenty years from the publication of the order of management; or

(b) by selling, by public auction or by private contract, and upon such terms as the Manager thinks fit, such portion of the said property as may appear expedient:

Provided that no property shall be sold under this section without the previous consent of the owner thereof, and of the person or persons being of full age who would be his heir or heirs if he then died intestate.

27. The Manager's receipt for any moneys, rents or profits raised or received by him under this Act, shall discharge the person paying the same therefrom and from being concerned to see to the application thereof.

Manager's receipt to be a discharge.

28. When the debts and liabilities mentioned in the liquidation-scheme have been paid and discharged, the Manager shall publish in the Sindh Official Gazette a notice fixing a date for the termination of the management.

Termination of management.

On the date so fixed the management shall terminate, and the owner shall be restored to the possession and enjoyment of the property under management, or of such part thereof as has not been sold by the Manager under the power conferred by section twenty-six, but subject to the leases and mortgages (if any) granted and made by the Manager under the powers conferred by sections eleven, twenty-five and twenty-six.

29. If the debtor dies after the publication of the order of management and before the management has been terminated in either of the modes hereinbefore provided,

Death of debtor during management.

1*st*, the management shall continue and proceed in all respects as if such debtor were still living;

2*ndly*, any person succeeding to the whole or any portion of the property under management shall, while such management continues, be subject in respect of such property to the disabilities imposed by clauses (b) and (c) of section eight; and

3*rdly*, no Civil Court in British India shall, during the continuance of the management, issue any attachment or other process against any portion of the property under management for or in respect of any debt or liability incurred by any such person whether before or after his succession.

30. When a jágírdár or zamíndár has been restored under section twenty-eight to the possession of any property, no mortgage, charge, lease or alienation of such property, or of any part thereof, made by such jágírdár or zamíndár, shall be valid as to any time beyond his natural life.

Mortgages, &c., made by restored jágírdár valid only for his life.

VI.—MISCELLANEOUS.

31. The Commissioner, with the previous sanction of the Governor of Bombay in Council, may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act—

Power to make rules.

(a) to regulate the security to be required from subordinate officers under this Act;

(b) to regulate the procedure in all cases under this Act;

(c) for the guidance of officers enquiring into and determining on claims under Part IV of this Act; and in particular as to the allowance of interest, and the order of paying debts and liabilities;

(d) to provide for the exercise by any officer conducting an enquiry under this Act of any power exercised by a Civil Court in the trial of suits;

(e) for investing any moneys received or raised by the Manager under this Act in any Government securities of British India, and for the sale of such securities, and

(f) generally to carry out the provisions of this Act.

Such rules shall be published in the Sindh Official Gazette, and when so published shall have the force of law.

32. Whenever the Commissioner thinks fit, he may suspend or remove any Manager and may appoint any officer in the stead of any Manager appointed under this Act; and thereupon the management then vested under this Act in the former Manager shall become vested in the new Manager.

Power to appoint new Manager.

Every such new Manager shall have the same powers as if he had been originally appointed.

33. Every Manager appointed under this Act, shall be deemed a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

Managers to be public servants.

34. Every investigation conducted by the Manager with reference to any claim preferred before him under this Act, or to any matter connected with any such claim, shall be taken to be a judicial proceeding within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

Investigation to be deemed a judicial proceeding.

35. No suit or other proceeding shall be maintained against any person in respect of any thing done by him bond fide pursuant to this Act,

Bar of suits.

36. Nothing in this Act precludes the Courts in Sindh having jurisdiction in suits relating to the succession to any immoveable property brought under the operation of this Act, from entertaining and disposing of such suits; but to all such suits the Manager of such property shall be made a party.

Saving of jurisdiction of Courts in Sindh in respect of certain suits.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill, which has been prepared at the desire of the Local Government, is to provide for the relief of certain Jágírdárs and Zamíndárs in Sindh, whose estates are heavily encumbered. The Bill closely resembles the measures which have been passed of late years for the relief of the Taluqdárs of Oudh, the Thákurs of Broach, and the landholders of Chutiá Nágpur, and the reasons for introducing it are substantially the same as the reasons which led to those enactments.

As the Bill purports to bar certain suits throughout British India, the Bombay legislature is incompetent to pass it.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 29th June 1876, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in a month.

No. 8 of 1876.

A Bill to amend the law relating to the transfer of Bombay Municipal Debentures.

Whereas under the Bombay Municipal Act of 1865, the Justices of the Peace for the City of Bombay were empowered to mortgage for the purposes therein mentioned the rates and taxes imposed and levied under that Act:

Preamble.

And whereas by section 255 of the same Act it was enacted that any person entitled to any such mortgage might transfer his right and interest therein to any other person, and that every such transfer should be by deed duly stamped, wherein the consideration should be truly stated, and that every such transfer might be according to the form in Schedule K to the said Act annexed or to the like effect:

And whereas in exercise of the said power divers mortgages of the said rates and taxes have been made, and the mortgagees have purported to transfer their mortgages to other persons, but such transfers have been by simple endorsement and not by deed duly stamped:

And whereas it is expedient to provide that such transfers may hereafter be made by endorsement, and to confirm the said transfers heretofore made,

and to exempt the parties thereto from the penalties which they have incurred by reason of their failure to comply with the provisions of the said section and of the law relating to stamp-duties for the time being in force;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Transfers of Bombay Municipal debentures to be by endorsement and free from stamp-duty.

1. Every mortgage of rates and taxes, authorized to be made under the said Bombay Municipal Act of 1865, shall be transferable by endorsement on the instrument of mortgage, and no such endorsement shall be chargeable with any stamp-duty.

Validation of former transfers by endorsement.

2. Every transfer of any such mortgage heretofore made by endorsement shall be, and be deemed to have been, as valid as if this Act had been in force at the date of such transfer; and no stamp-duty shall be, or be deemed to have been, chargeable in respect of any such transfer; and no penalty shall be deemed to have been incurred by reason of any failure to comply with the provisions of the said section 255 or of the law relating to stamp-duties for the time being in force.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Under the power conferred by the Bombay Municipal Act (Bombay Act No. II of 1865), numerous mortgages (generally called Municipal Debentures) were made of the rates and taxes imposed and levied under that Act. The mortgagees in many, if not in all, instances have purported to transfer their interests to other persons. In so doing, however, the directions contained in section 255 of that Act, that every such transfer should be "by deed duly stamped, wherein the consideration shall be truly stated," have been unintentionally disregarded, and the transfers have been made by simple unstamped endorsement.

The objects of this Bill, which has been prepared at the request of the Local Government, are, first, to assimilate in Bombay the law as to the transfer of Municipal debentures to that which prevails in the other Presidency Towns under Bengal Act IV of 1876, section 335, and Madras Act IX of 1867, section 98, and, secondly, to validate the transfers which have already been made of the Bombay Municipal debentures, and to relieve the parties thereto from the penalties which they have incurred from their neglect of the requirements of the Stamp Act.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 29th June 1876, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in a month.

No. 9 of 1876.

A Bill to amend the Stage Carriages Act.

Preamble.

Whereas Act No. XVI of 1861 (for licensing and regulating Stage Carriages) does not apply to carriages drawn by camels or oxen, and it is expedient to render it applicable to such carriages; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Amendment of Act XVI of 1861, s. 21.

1. For the third sentence of section 21 of the said Act, the following shall be substituted (that is to say):

"The term 'horse' shall include ponies, mules, camels, and oxen."

Local extent of Act XVI of 1861.

2. The said Act, as amended by this Act, applies to the whole of British India, but not so as to supersede or contravene the provisions of any local law dealing with the same subject.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Government of the North-Western Provinces has recently called the attention of the Government of India to the necessity of bringing conveyances drawn by camels within the scope of the Stage Carriages Act of 1861. The primary object of the present Bill is to make this amendment; and the opportunity has been taken to render the Act applicable also to carriages drawn by oxen, and to declare it to be in force throughout British India.

2. We think that the proposed Act should come into force throughout British India on 1st January 1877.

3. Act No. VII of 1836 declared that the legality of acts done under the two Bombay Regulations which the Bill proposes to repeal, should not be questioned in any Court of law. That Act was repealed by Act VIII of 1868, but not so as to restore the jurisdiction thus withdrawn. We have endeavoured to maintain the present state of affairs by declaring that the reference made in Act No. VII of 1836 to those Regulations shall be read as if made to the corresponding provisions of the Bill.

4. We have defined "opium" so as to include poppy-heads and all intoxicating drugs prepared from the poppy, and "Magistrate" so as to confine criminal jurisdiction under the proposed Act to Presidency Magistrates and (in the Mofussil) Magistrates of the first class.

5. We have repealed and consolidated all extant enactments relating to opium, except the local and departmental rules contained in sections 3 to 31 of Act XIII of 1857. The Bill, accordingly, now not merely authorizes the Local Government to make rules as to poppy-cultivation and the possession, transport and sale of opium, it also provides rules as to the import, export and warehousing of opium; and it empowers the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, to prohibit or permit poppy-cultivation and the manufacture, possession, transport, import, export, or sale of opium, to make rules as to the manufacture, import, or export of opium, as to its safe custody and removal when warehoused, as to the disposal of things confiscated under the proposed Act, and as to rewards to officers and informers.

6. The penalties incurred for contravening the proposed Act, or any rule made thereunder, are a year's imprisonment, fine for Rs. 1,000, or both; and where a fine is imposed, we have required (in accordance with Bombay Regulation XXI of 1827, section 7) the convicting Magistrate to direct the offender to be imprisoned in default of payment for a term which may extend to six months.

7. We have extended the power of confiscation to the whole of the opium which an offender against the rules as to transport, import or export, is transporting, importing or exporting, as the case may be; and, when the offence is against the rules as to sale, to the whole of the opium in the offender's possession.

8. We have declared that, in prosecutions under the proposed Act, all opium for which the accused is unable satisfactorily to account shall be presumed to be opium in respect of which an offence has been committed.

9. When an offender against the Act is not known, or cannot be found, or when poppies or opium not in the possession of any person cannot be satisfactorily accounted for, we have provided for an enquiry and confiscation by the Collector of the district, or other proper officer.

10. We have empowered any duly authorized officer of any of the departments of Excise Police, Customs, Salt, Opium or Revenue, superior in rank to a Peon or Constable, on receiving written information that opium is unlawfully kept in an enclosed place, to enter, seize and arrest; and we have empowered any officer of any of those departments to seize opium carried in an open place, which he has reason to believe liable to confiscation, and to arrest the person carrying it. We have required these officers to assist each other.

11. We have provided for the issue of warrants for arrest or search, and for the disposal of persons arrested and things seized.

12. We have provided a penalty for vexatious searches, seizures and arrests under the proposed Act, and we think that every officer making an arrest or seizure should within forty-eight hours report the particulars to his official superior.

13. We have also provided, in places where Act XIII of 1857 is not in force, for the attachment of a poppy-crop alleged to be illegally cultivated.

14. Lastly, we have declared that arrears of taxes, &c., due under the proposed Act or rules, and arrears due from farmers of opium-revenue, may be recovered as if they were arrears of land-revenue.

15. The publication ordered by the Council has taken place; but the Bill has been so much altered that we think that it should be republished, with this report, in the Gazette of India and in the local Gazettes.

SCHEDULE.

A Bill to amend the law relating to Opium.

Preamble. Whereas it is expedient to amend the law relating to opium; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Opium Act, 1876":

Local extent. It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement. And it shall come into force on the first day of January 1877.

Repeal of enactments. 2. The enactments mentioned in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent specified in the third column of the said schedule. And in Acts No. XI of 1849, No. XXI of 1856 and No. X of 1871 the words "intoxicating drugs" (wherever they occur) shall not include opium.

Amendment of Act VII of 1836, s. 1. The reference made to Bombay Regulations XXI of 1827 and XX of 1830 in Act No. VII of 1836 shall be read as if made to the corresponding sections of this Act.

Interpretation-clause. 3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

"Opium." "Opium" includes also poppy-heads, preparations or admixtures of opium, and intoxicating drugs prepared from the poppy:

"Magistrate." "Magistrate" means in the Presidency towns a Magistrate of Police or a Presidency Magistrate, and elsewhere a Magistrate of the first class.

Import of opium. 4. No opium shall be imported, by land or by sea, into any part of British India unless—

(a) it is covered by a pass granted by an officer appointed in this behalf by the Governor General in Council or a Local Government; or

(b) it has been imported by sea on payment of the duty prescribed by the Indian Tariff Act, 1875, or any other law for the time being in force relating to the duties of customs on goods imported by sea into British India; or

(c) such import is permitted under the power next hereinafter conferred.

The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India,

(d) permit the import of opium, or of any kind of opium, by land into any specified part of British India on payment of such duty, or on such other terms, as the Governor General in Council thinks fit; and

(e) cancel such permission.

Export of opium. 5. No opium shall be exported by land or by sea from any part of British India unless—

(a) it is covered by a pass granted by an officer appointed in this behalf by the Governor General in Council or the Local Government; or

(b) it has been imported by sea into any British Indian port, and the Local Government has permitted it to be exported on payment of a duty equal in amount to the fee to which it would have been liable under any law for the time being in force, if it had been transhipped at such port; or

(c) such export is permitted under the power next hereinafter conferred:

The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India,

(d) permit the export of opium by land or by sea from any specified part of British India on payment of such duty, or on such other terms, as the Governor General in Council thinks fit; and

(e) cancel such permission.

Customs laws applied to opium. 6. Subject to the other provisions of this Act, the laws for the time being in force relating to goods imported or exported by sea shall, so far as may be, apply to opium so imported or exported by sea, and the laws for the time being in force relating to goods imported or exported by land shall, so far as may be, apply to opium imported or exported by land.

Warehousing opium. 7. The Governor General in Council may, by order notified in the Gazette of India, authorize any Local Government to establish warehouses for opium legally imported into or intended to be exported from the territories subject to such Local Government, and may cancel any such order.

So long as such order remains in force, the Local Government may declare, by notification published in the official Gazette, any place to be a warehouse for all or any opium legally imported, whether before or after the payment of any duty leviable thereon, into the territories subject to such Government, or into any specified part thereof, or intended to be exported thence.

On and after such publication the owner of all such opium shall be bound to deposit it in such warehouse.

Power to make rules as to poppy-cultivation, opium, &c. 8. The Local Government may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act, or with any other enactment relating to opium for the time being in force, to prohibit or permit within the whole or any specified part of the territories subject to such Government, all or any of the following matters:—

(a) the cultivation of the poppy;

(b) the manufacture of opium;

(c) the possession of opium;

(d) the transport of opium from one place to another within British India;

(e) the importation or exportation of opium into or out of British India;

(f) the sale of opium;

and to regulate within the whole or any specified part of such territories all or any of the matters aforesaid, and also

(g) the safe custody of opium warehoused under section seven; the levy of fees for such warehousing; the removal of such opium for sale or exportation; and the manner in which it shall be disposed of, if any duty leviable on it be not paid within twelve months from the date of warehousing the same;

(h) the disposal of all things confiscated under this Act;

(i) the rewards to be paid to officers and informers out of the proceeds of fines and confiscations under this Act.

Such rules shall be submitted for the sanction of the Governor General in Council, and on receiving such sanction, shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

Prohibition of poppy-cultivation and possession, &c., of opium. 9. Unless in accordance with this Act or with any other enactment relating to opium for the time being in force, or with rules framed under this Act, no one shall—

(a) cultivate the poppy;

(b) manufacture opium;

(c) possess opium;

(d) transport opium from one place to another within British India;

(e) import or export opium into or out of British India; or

(f) sell opium.

Penalty for illegal cultivation of poppy, &c. 10. Whoever in contravention of this Act, or of rules made and published under section eight,

(a) cultivates the poppy, or

(b) manufactures opium, or

(c) possesses opium, or

(d) omits to warehouse opium when bound to do so under section seven, or

(e) transports opium from one place to another within British India, or

(f) imports or exports opium into or out of British India, or

(g) sells opium, or otherwise contravenes the said rules relating to sales, shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be punished for each such offence with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both;

and, where a fine is imposed, the convicting Magistrate shall direct the offender to be imprisoned in default of payment of the fine for a term which may extend to six months, and such imprisonment shall be in excess of any other imprisonment to which he may have been sentenced.

11. In prosecutions under section ten, it shall be presumed, until the contrary is proved, that all opium for which the accused person is unable to account satisfactorily is opium in respect of which he has committed an offence under this Act.

Presumption as to opium.

12. In any case in which an offence under section ten has been committed—

Confiscation of opium.

(a) the poppy so cultivated,

(b) the opium in respect of which any offence under the same section has been committed,

(c) where, in the case of an offence under clause (e) or (f) of the same section, the offender is transporting, importing or exporting any opium exceeding the quantity (if any) which he is permitted to transport, import or export, as the case may be, the whole of the opium which he is transporting, importing or exporting,

(d) where, in the case of an offence under clause (g) of the same section, the offender has in his possession any opium other than the opium in respect of which the offence has been committed, the whole of such other opium, and

(e) the vessels, packages and coverings in which any opium confiscated under the same section is found, and the other contents (if any) of the vessel or package in which such opium may be concealed, and the animals and conveyances used in carrying it, shall be liable to confiscation.

13. When the offender is convicted, such confiscation may be ordered by the convicting Magistrate.

Order of confiscation by whom to be made.

When an offence against this Act has been committed, but the offender is not known, or cannot be found, or when poppies or opium not in the possession of any person cannot be satisfactorily accounted for, the case shall be enquired into and determined by the Collector of the District or Deputy Commissioner, or by any other officer authorized by the Local Government in this behalf, either personally or in right of his office, who may order such confiscation: Provided that no such order shall be made until the expiration of one month from the date of seizing the things intended to be confiscated or without hearing the persons (if any) claiming any right thereto and the evidence (if any) which they produce in support of their claims.

14. Any officer of any of the departments of Excise, Police, Customs, Salt, Opium or Revenue, superior in rank to a peon or constable, who may in right of his office be authorized by the Local Government in this behalf and who has reason to believe, from personal knowledge or from information given by any person and taken down in writing, that opium liable to confiscation under this Act is manufactured, kept or concealed in any building, vessel or enclosed place, may, between sunrise and sunset,

Power to enter, arrest and seize, on information that opium is unlawfully kept in any enclosed place.

(a) enter into any such building, vessel or place,

(b) in case of resistance, break open any door and remove any other obstacle to such entry,

(c) seize such opium and all materials used in the manufacture thereof, and any other thing which he has reason to believe to be liable to confiscation under section twelve or any other law for the time being in force relating to opium, and

(d) detain and search, and if he think proper, arrest any person whom he has reason to believe to be guilty of any offence relating to such opium under this or any other law for the time being in force.

15. If any officer of any of the said departments find

Power to seize opium found in open place and arrest possessor.

(a) any person in any open place whom he has reason to believe to be carrying any opium, or

(b) any person having in any open place any opium in his possession, or

(c) any opium in transit,

and such officer has reason to believe that the opium mentioned in clause a, clause b, or clause c of this section is opium in respect of which an offence has been committed, or which is liable to confiscation under this Act or any other law relating to opium for the time being in force,

he may stop and detain such person, and may seize such opium and any other thing which he has reason to believe to be liable to confiscation under section twelve or any other law for the time being in force relating to opium, and may arrest such person, if opium be found in his possession, and any other persons in his company.

16. All searches under section fourteen or section fifteen shall be made in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

Searches how made.

17. The officers of the several departments mentioned in section fourteen shall, upon notice given or request made, be legally bound to assist each other in carrying out the provisions of this Act.

Officers to assist each other.

18. Any officer of any of the said departments who without reasonable ground of suspicion enters, or searches, or causes to be entered or searched any building, vessel or place,

Vexatious entries, searches, seizures and arrests.

or vexatiously and unnecessarily seizes the property of any person on the pretence of seizing or searching for any opium or other thing liable to confiscation under this Act, or vexatiously and unnecessarily detains, searches or arrests any person, shall for every such offence be punished with fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

Such fine, or any part thereof, may be paid to the person aggrieved.

19. The Collector of the District, Deputy Commissioner or other officer authorized by the Local Government in this behalf, either personally or in right of his office, or a Magistrate, may issue his warrant for the arrest of any person whom he has reason to believe to have committed an offence relating to opium, or for the search, whether by day or night, of any house, boat or place in which he has reason to believe opium liable to confiscation to be kept or concealed.

Issue of warrants.

All warrants issued under this section shall be executed in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

20. Every person arrested, and thing seized, under section fourteen or section fifteen, shall be forwarded without delay to the officer in charge of the nearest Police station; and every person arrested and thing seized under section nineteen shall be forwarded without delay to the officer by whom the warrant was issued.

Disposal of person arrested or thing seized.

Every officer to whom any person or thing is forwarded under this section shall, with all convenient despatch, take such measures as may be necessary for the disposal according to law of such person or thing.

21. Whenever any officer makes any arrest or seizure under this Act, he shall within forty-eight hours next after such arrest or seizure make a full report of all the particulars of such arrest or seizure to his official superior.

Report of arrests and seizures.

22. In the case of alleged illegal cultivation of the poppy, the crop shall not be removed, but shall, pending the disposal of the case, be attached by an officer superior in rank to a peon or constable who may in right of his office be authorized by the Local Government in this behalf; and such officer shall require the cultivator to give bail in a reasonable amount (to be fixed by such officer) for his appearance before the Magistrate by whom the case is to be disposed of, and such cultivator shall not be arrested unless within a reasonable time he fails to give such bail:

Procedure in case of illegal poppy-cultivation.

Provided that wherever Act No. XIII of 1857 (An Act to consolidate and amend the law relating to the cultivation of the Poppy and the manufacture of Opium in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal) or any part thereof, is in force, nothing in this Act shall apply to such cultivation and manufacture.

23. Any arrear of tax, fee or duty due under this Act or under any rule duly made under section eight,

Recovery of arrears of taxes and opium-revenue.

and any arrear due from any farmer of opium-revenue, may be recovered as if it were an arrear of land-revenue.

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 29th June 1876, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in four months:—

No. 6 of 1876.

A Bill to amend the Indian Registration Act, 1871.

Preamble. For the purpose of amending the Indian Registration Act, 1871; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Amendment of Act VIII of 1871, section 7. 1. For section seven the following shall be substituted:—

"7. The Local Government shall establish in every District an office to be styled the Office of the Registrar and in every Sub-District an office or offices to be styled the Office of the Sub-Registrar or the Offices of the Joint Sub-Registrars, and may amalgamate with any Office of a Registrar any Office of a Sub-Registrar, and may authorize any Sub-Registrar whose Office has been so amalgamated to exercise and perform all or any of the powers and duties of a Registrar other than the powers conferred by sections sixty-eight and seventy-two."

Offices of Registrar and Sub-Registrar.

Addition of clause (d) to section 17. 2. In section seventeen, after clause (c), the following clause shall be inserted (namely):—

"or (d) to any document merely creating a right to obtain another document which will, when executed, create, declare, assign, limit or extinguish any right, title or interest of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards, to or in immoveable property."

Amendment of section 18, clause (7). 3. In section eighteen, to clause (7) the words "All such" shall be prefixed, and for the last seven words of the same clause the following words shall be substituted (namely): "and other documents as are not required by section seventeen to be registered".

Addition to section 30, clause (b). 4. In section thirty, clause (b), after the word "Town," the words "and the Registrar of the Lahore District" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 31. 5. For section thirty-one the following shall be substituted (namely):—

"31. In ordinary cases the presentation or deposit of documents under this Act shall be made only at the office of the officer authorized to accept the same for registration or deposit.

Presentation and deposit of documents at private residences.

But such officer may on special cause being shewn attend at the residence of any person desiring to present a document for registration or to deposit a will, and accept for registration or deposit such document or will."

Addition to section 34.

6. To section thirty-four, paragraph first, the following words shall be added (namely): "under sections twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-five and twenty-six;" and in clause two of the same section, after the word "fee," the following words shall be inserted (namely): "in addition to the fine (if any) payable under section twenty-four."

Amendment of sections 42 to 45.

7. For sections forty-two, forty-three, forty-four and forty-five, the following shall be substituted (namely):—

Deposit of wills in sealed covers.

"42. Any testator may, either personally or by duly authorized agent, deposit with any Registrar his will in a sealed cover superscribed with the name of the testator and that of his agent (if any), and with a statement of the nature of the document.

Procedure on depositing wills.

"43. On receiving such cover the Registrar, if satisfied that the person presenting the same for deposit is the testator or his agent, shall transcribe in his Register-Book No. 5 the superscription aforesaid, and shall note in the same book and on the said cover the year, month, day and hour of such presentation and receipt, the names of any persons who may testify to the identity of the testator or his agent, and any legible inscription which may be on the seal of the cover.

The Registrar shall then place and retain the cover in his fireproof box.

Withdrawal of covers containing wills.

"44. If the testator who has deposited such cover wishes to withdraw it, he may apply, either personally or by duly authorized agent, to the Registrar who holds it in deposit; and such Registrar, if he be satisfied that the applicant is actually the testator or his agent, shall deliver the cover accordingly.

Procedure on testator's death.

"45. If on the death of a testator who has deposited a sealed cover under section forty-two, application be made to the Registrar who holds it in deposit to open the same, and if the Registrar is satisfied that the testator is dead, he shall in the applicant's presence open the cover, and at the applicant's expense cause the contents thereof to be copied into his Book No. 3."

Amendment of section 46.

8. In section forty-six, for the second sentence, the following shall be substituted (namely): "But whenever any such order is made, the Registrar shall, unless the will has already been copied under section forty-five, open the cover and copy the will in his Book No. 3, and shall make a note in such Book that the original has been removed into Court in pursuance of the order aforesaid."

Addition to section 50.

9. To section fifty the following words shall be prefixed (namely): "Every document mentioned in clauses (1), (2), (3) and (4) of section seventeen, and."

Amendment of section 59.

10. In section fifty-nine, for the words "the last preceding section," the words "sections fifty-two and fifty-eight" shall be substituted.

Addition to sections 64 and 65.

11. In section sixty-four and in the first paragraph of section sixty-five, after the word "document," the words "not testamentary" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 71, clause 2.

12. In section seventy-one, for clause two, the following shall be substituted (namely):—

"except on the ground—

(a) that the property to which it relates is not situate within his District or Sub-District; or

(b) that he is a Registrar and that the document ought to be registered in the Office of a Sub-Registrar."

Addition to section 78.

13. To section seventy-three the following explanation shall be added (namely):—

"EXPLANATION.—In this section 'District Court' means the principal civil Court of original jurisdiction within the local limits of which is situate the Office in which the order of refusal was made."

'Section' defined.

14. In this Act 'section' means section of the said Indian Registration Act, 1871.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill is to make in the Registration Act thirteen amendments which the experience of the past five years has shown to be desirable.

Of these, the first is intended to authorize the Local Governments to establish in each Sub-District more Sub-Registrars than one, who will exercise concurrent jurisdiction. The absence of such a power has been found inconvenient in the Lower Provinces, and, probably, elsewhere. Power is also expressly given to authorize any Sub-Registrar whose Office has been amalgamated with that of a Registrar to exercise all the powers of a Registrar other than those conferred by sections 68 and 72. Some doubt had arisen whether or no such a power was implied.

The second embodies in section seventeen of the Act the resolution of the Government of India in the Home Department No. 51-1906, dated 10th July 1874. Its effect is to expressly exempt from compulsory registration documents merely creating a right to obtain other documents, which will, when executed, create, &c., rights of the value of Rs. 100 and upwards to immoveable property.

The third is intended to make it clear that section 18, clause (7), is not to encroach upon the provisions of section 17.

The fourth places the Registrar of the Lahore District on the same footing, as regards documents relating to land situate in any part of British India, as the Registrars of Districts including the Presidency Towns. This change has been made on the recommendation of the Local Government.

The fifth simply amends the drafting of section 31 of the Act.

The sixth expresses distinctly two of the intentions of the legislature in framing section 34 of the Act, viz., that the time allowed for presentation is the time allowed under the first four sections of Part IV, i. e., not merely the time (four months) ordinarily allowed, but also any extension of that period allowed under sections 24, 25, 26, and that, not only the fine mentioned in section 34, but the fines, if any, payable under section 24, must be paid in case of delay in appearing before the Registrar.

The seventh amends the drafting of sections 42 and 43, and expressly confines, in accordance with the intention of the framers of Act VIII of 1871, sections 44 and 45 to cases in which the testator himself, as distinguished from a depositing agent, desires to withdraw the deposit, or has died.

The eighth exempts the Registrar from the duty of copying a will under section 46 when it has already been copied under section 45; and when he has to copy a will, expressly empowers him to open the sealed cover in which it is preserved.

The ninth is an amendment of section 50, and is intended to supply a defect which has already given rise to fraudulent practices. That section now provides that registered documents relating to land, of which the registration is optional, shall take effect against unregistered documents. But it makes no such provision as to documents of which the registration is compulsory and which have accordingly been registered. Deeds coming under section 18 of the Act, whether registered or not, take effect against deeds registered under section 17, according to date of execution. The result is that, although a registered deed creating a right of the value of Rs. 99 to land cannot be defeated by an unregistered deed, a registered deed creating a similar right worth Rs. 101 may be defeated by an antedated unregistered deed creating a right worth anything under Rs. 100. The mischief feared is an extensive fabrication of falsely dated deeds purporting to create rights of small value in order to defeat deeds creating rights of large value. The remedy which the Bill proposes is to make documents registered under section 17 take effect against unregistered documents.

The tenth amendment is in section 59. That section now provides only for dating and signing endorsements made under section 58. It is desirable to make a similar provision for endorsements made under section 52.

The eleventh amendment consists in expressly excluding wills and codicils from sections 64 and 65.

The twelfth amendment effects a slight, but desirable, amendment in the drafting of section 71.

The thirteenth and last amendment clears up a doubt which has been raised as to the meaning in section 72 of the expression "District Court."

A Bill to relieve from Incumbrances the estates of Jágírdárs and Zamíndárs in Sindh.

Preamble.

Whereas many Jágírdárs and Zamíndárs in Sindh are in debt, and their immoveable property is subject to mortgages, charges and liens; and whereas it is expedient to provide for their relief in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

I.—PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Sindh Incumbered Estates Act, 1876":

Commencement.

And it shall come into force on the passing thereof.

Interpretation-clause.

2. In this Act—

"Jágír-land."

'Jágír-land' includes also a share held hereditarily of the revenues of a Government village, but does not include siri or mánmi or garden-grants:

"Jágírdár."

"Jágírdár" means a person who was in possession of jágír-land in Sindh on the seventeenth day of February 1843, and has since been in possession of the same land or of a portion thereof, or of other jágír-land assigned by the British Government in lieu thereof, and who holds a sanad granted under the authority of the said Government confirming his title.

For the purposes of this definition, the possession of any person from whom jágír-land has descended by way of inheritance shall be deemed to be the possession of the person to whom such land has so descended:

"Zamíndár."

"Zamíndár" means a person holding lands in Sindh on the aggregate of which he has paid, direct to the Government, on account of land-revenue for any one of the five revenue years next before the passing of this Act, a sum not less than three hundred rupees:

"Commissioner."

"Commissioner" means the Commissioner in Sindh.

II.—OF THE APPLICATION AND PRELIMINARY INQUIRY.

Application for the benefit of this Act.

3. At any time within twelve months after the passing of this Act, any jágírdár or zamíndár, or any person who would be sole heir or one of the heirs to such jágírdár or zamíndár if he then died intestate, may apply, in writing, to the Commissioner, stating that such jágírdár or zamíndár is subject to debts or liabilities, other than debts due, or liabilities incurred, to Government, or that his immoveable property is charged with debts or liabilities, other than as aforesaid, and requesting that the provisions of this Act be applied to his case.

When any jágírdár, zamíndár or other person entitled to make an application under this section is a minor, or of unsound mind, or an idiot, such application may be made on his behalf by the guardian or other legal curator of his person or by the legally constituted administrator or manager of his estate.

Order to enquire.

4. When any such application is made by or on behalf of a jágírdár, or the person who would be his sole heir if he then died, the Commissioner shall direct an enquiry to be made by such officer as he thinks fit into the nature and amount of such debts and liabilities and the sufficiency of the debtor's property, whether moveable or immoveable, to discharge the same.

When such an application is made in any other case, it shall be in the discretion of the Commissioner, subject to any general rules which may from time to time be made by the Governor of Bombay in Council in this behalf, either to reject such application or to direct an enquiry to be made as aforesaid.

Verified statement to be submitted.

5. When an enquiry has been directed under section four, the applicant shall, within a period to be fixed by the Commissioner, submit to the officer appointed to make such enquiry a statement duly verified by the said applicant, or by some other competent person, in the manner required by law for the verification of plaints, and containing, so far as may be practicable, such details as to the debts and liabilities, and as to the sufficiency of the debtor's property, whether moveable or immoveable, to meet the same, as the Commissioner, or the said officer subject to his control, may require.

False averments in statement.

If any such statement contains any averment which the person making the verification knows or believes to be false, or does not know or believe to be true, such person shall be deemed to have intentionally given false evidence within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

Report of enquiry and proceedings thereon.

6. The officer so appointed, after making such enquiry as he thinks necessary, shall submit a report of his proceedings to the Commissioner.

On receipt of such report, the Commissioner may (a) direct a further enquiry, or (b) dismiss the application, or (c), by order published in the Sindh Official Gazette, appoint an officer (hereinafter called the Manager) to manage the immoveable property of the debtor, and to arrange for the liquidation of his debts in manner hereinafter provided.

III.—OF THE ORDER OF MANAGEMENT.

"Order of management" to what it extends.

7. Such order (hereinafter called "the order of management") shall extend to all immoveable property of or to which the debtor is on the date of its publication possessed or entitled in his own right, or which he is entitled to redeem, or which may be acquired by or devolve on him during the continuance of the management, and to all debts and liabilities to which he is subject, or which are charged on the whole or any part of his immoveable property on the said date.

Commencement of management.

The management shall be deemed to commence from the date on which the order is published.

Effect of order of management.

8. On the publication of the order of management the following consequences shall ensue:

Stay of pending proceedings, &c.

First, all proceedings then pending in any Civil Court in British India in respect to the debts and liabilities mentioned in section seven shall be stayed; and the operation of all processes, executions and attachments then in force for or in respect of such debts and liabilities shall be suspended;

Bar of fresh proceedings.

Secondly, so long as the management continues, no fresh proceedings, processes, executions or attachments shall be instituted in or issued by any Civil Court in British India in respect of such debts and liabilities;

The debtor incompetent

Thirdly, so long as the management continues, the debtor shall be incompetent to contract debts,

(a) to enter into any contract involving him in pecuniary liability, or to encumber or alienate property under management,

(b) to mortgage, charge, lease or alienate the property under management or any part thereof, or to grant receipts for rent thereof.

(c) to grant valid receipts for the rents and profits arising or accruing therefrom:

Provided that nothing contained in this clause shall be deemed to preclude the Manager from letting and the debtor from taking the whole or any part of such property on such terms consistent with this Act, as may be agreed upon between the parties;

Fourthly, so long as the management continues, no person other than the Manager shall be competent to mortgage, charge, lease or alienate such property or any part thereof.

Manager to receive rents and profits,

9. The Manager shall, during the management, receive and recover all rents and profits due in respect of the property under management, to have powers of a Collector for their recovery.

and for the purpose of recovering such rents and profits shall have, in addition to any powers possessed by a jágírdár or zamíndár, as the case may be, all the powers possessed by a Collector, under the law for the time being in force, for the recovery of land-revenue due to Government.

In the event of any dispute arising as to the liability of any person to pay any such rent or profit, or as to the amount thereof, the decision of the Manager shall be binding until set aside by a competent Court.

Manager to pay therefrom—

10. From the sums received or recovered under section nine, the Manager shall pay

Government revenue, &c.,

First, the Government revenue and all debts and liabilities for the time being due or incurred to Government in respect of the property under management, rent due to superior holder,

Secondly, the rent (if any) due to the jágírdár or other superior holder, in respect of the said property;

allowance for maintenance of debtor,

Thirdly, such periodical allowance as the Commissioner may from time to time fix for the maintenance of the debtor and his family,

cost of repairs, &c.,

Fourthly, the cost of such repairs and improvements of the said property as he thinks necessary, and cost of management.

Fifthly, the costs of the management.

Residue how disposed of.

The residue shall be retained by the Manager for the liquidation, in manner hereinafter provided, of the debts and liabilities mentioned in section seven other than those so due or incurred to Government.

Power to make short leases.

11. At any time after the management has commenced the Manager may demise all or any part of the property under management for any term of years not exceeding three years to take effect in possession, so as there be reserved the best yearly rent that can be reasonably gotten without taking anything in the nature of a fine.

IV.—PROOF OF DEBTS AND SCHEME FOR LIQUIDATION.

12. On the publication of the order of management, the Manager shall publish in the Sindh Official Gazette a notice in English and Sindhi, calling upon all persons having claims against the debtor, or the property under management, to notify the same in writing to such Manager within six months from the date of the publication.

Notice to claimants against debtor.

He shall also cause copies of such notice to be exhibited at the Mukhtiárkárs' kachahrís in the district in which the said property lies, and at such other places as he thinks fit.

Copies of notice to be exhibited.

13. Every such claimant shall, along with his claim, present full particulars thereof.

Claim to contain full particulars.

Every document on which the claimant founds his claim, or on which he relies in support thereof, shall be delivered to the Manager along with the claim.

Documents to be given up.

If the document be an entry in any book, the claimant shall produce the book to the Manager, together with a copy of the entry on which he relies. The Manager shall mark the book for the purpose of identification, and, after examining and comparing the copy with the original, shall return the book to the claimant.

Entries in books.

If any document in the possession or under the control of the claimant is not delivered or produced by him to the Manager along with the claim, the Manager may refuse to receive such document in evidence on the claimant's behalf at the investigation of the case.

Exclusion of documents not produced.

14. Every such claim (other than claims of the Government) not notified to the Manager within the time and in the manner required by such notice shall, except as provided in section twenty-one, be deemed for all purposes and on all occasions, whether during the continuance of the management or afterwards, to have been duly discharged:

Claim not duly notified to be barred.

Provided that, when proof is made to the Manager that the claimant was unable to comply with the provisions of section twelve, the Manager may receive such claim within the further period of six months from the expiration of the original period of six months.

Provision for admission of claims within further period of six months.

15. The Manager shall inquire into the history and merits of every claim received under sections twelve and fourteen, and shall in accordance with the rules to be made under this Act determine the amount of the debts and liabilities (if any) due to the several claimants.

Determination of debts and liabilities.

16. No claim shall be allowed which was barred by the law of limitation when the order of management was published.

Time-barred claims not to be allowed.

17. If on any inquiry under section fifteen it appears that, having regard to the principal amount of the debt or liability as originally incurred, and to all the circumstances of the case, the amount from time to time debited to the debtor on account of interest, though debited in accordance with the agreement between the parties, is unconscionably large, the Manager may re-open the account as far back as he deems fit, and allow for interest to the date of his decision only such amount as to him may seem fair and reasonable.

Power to reduce interest.

18. An appeal against any decision or order under section fourteen, fifteen, sixteen, or seventeen shall lie to the Commissioner, if preferred within six weeks from the date of such decision or order.

Appeal.

There shall be no appeal against the decision of the Commissioner on such appeal.

19. When the total amount of the debts and liabilities (including those due and incurred to Government) has been finally determined, the Manager shall prepare and submit to the Commissioner a schedule of such debts and liabilities, and a scheme (hereinafter called the liquidation-scheme) showing the mode in which it is proposed to pay and discharge the same, whether from the income of the property under management, or with the aid of funds raised under the powers hereinafter conferred, or partly in one of such ways and partly in the other.

Scheme for liquidation.

Every such scheme shall further provide (a) for the continuance of the payments to be made by the Manager under section ten, (b) for the order in which such debts and liabilities shall be paid and discharged, and (c) for the rate of interest (if any) on the aggregate amount finally awarded under this Part in respect of each claim from the date of the final decision on such claim to the date of the payment and discharge thereof.

Provisions of scheme.

Any such scheme may further provide for the improvement of the property under management either from the said income or with the aid of the funds raised as aforesaid, or partly in one of such ways and partly in the other.

May provide for improving the property.

20. The Commissioner may—

Proceedings of Commissioner on submission of scheme.

(a) as often as he thinks fit send back such scheme to the Manager for revision, and direct him to make such further inquiry as may be requisite for the proper preparation of the scheme, or

(b) sanction any liquidation-scheme, or any revised liquidation-scheme, submitted to him either as it stands, or subject to such modifications as he may deem expedient.

21. At any time before he has sanctioned a liquidation-scheme under section twenty, the Commissioner may by an order published in the Sindh Official Gazette, direct that on a date fixed by such order the management shall be relinquished.

Power to relinquish management.

On the date so fixed—

(a) the management shall terminate;

(b) the owner of the property under management shall be restored to the possession and enjoyment thereof, subject to any leases made under section eleven;

(c) any residue of the rents and profits of the said property retained under the last clause of section ten shall be paid to him; and

(d) the proceedings, processes, executions and attachments stayed and suspended under section eight, and the debts and liabilities barred by section fourteen, shall revive.

In calculating the periods of limitation applicable to suits to recover and enforce debts and liabilities revived under this section, the time during which the management has continued shall be excluded.

V.—OF THE PROCEEDINGS SUBSEQUENT TO SANCTION OF THE LIQUIDATION-SCHEME.

22. On the sanction of the liquidation-scheme by the Commissioner—

Effects of sanctioning scheme.

1*st*, all proceedings, processes, executions and attachments stayed or suspended under section eight shall be for ever barred, and

2*nd*, every debt or liability due or owing to any person which was proveable before the Manager shall be extinguished, and such person shall be entitled to receive under the liquidation-scheme the amount (if any) finally awarded to him under Part IV of this Act in respect of such debt or liability.

23. If the property under management or any part thereof be in the possession of a mortgagee or conditional vendee, the Manager, at any time after the liquidation-scheme has been sanctioned as aforesaid, may, by an order in writing, require such incumbrancer to deliver up possession of the same to him at the end of the then current revenue year.

Power to remove mortgagee in possession.

If such incumbrancer refuse or neglect to obey such order, the Manager may, without resorting to a Civil Court, enter upon the property and summarily evict therefrom the said incumbrancer and any other person obstructing or resisting on his behalf.

Nothing in this section shall be held to affect the right of any incumbrancer to receive under the liquidation-scheme the amount (if any) awarded to him under Part IV of this Act.

24. If the property under management or any part thereof be in the possession of any person claiming to hold under a lease dated within the three years immediately preceding the commencement of the management, the Manager, with the sanction of the Commissioner, may inquire into the sufficiency of the consideration for which the lease was given; and if such consideration appear to him insufficient, may by order, at any time after the liquidation-scheme has been sanctioned as aforesaid, either set aside the lease or require the person so in possession to pay such consideration for the said lease as the Manager thinks fit, and in default of such payment the lease shall be cancelled.

Power to inquire into consideration given for leases.

25. Subject to ther ules made under section thirty-one, the Manager, after the liquidation-scheme has been sanctioned as aforesaid, shall have power to demise all or any part of the property under management for any term of years not exceeding twenty years absolute, to take effect in possession, in consideration of the payment to him of any fine, or without fine, and reserving such rents, and under such conditions as may be agreed upon.

Power to lease.

26. At any time after the liquidation-scheme has been sanctioned as aforesaid, the Manager, with the previous assent of the Commissioner, shall have power to raise any money which may be required for carrying out such scheme,

Power to raise money by mortgage or sale.

(a) by demising by way of mortgage the whole or any part of the property under management for a term not exceeding twenty years from the publication of the order of management; or

(b) by selling, by public auction or by private contract, and upon such terms as the Manager thinks fit, such portion of the said property as may appear expedient:

Provided that no property shall be sold under this section without the previous consent of the owner thereof, and of the person or persons being of full age who would be his heir or heirs if he then died intestate.

27. The Manager's receipt for any moneys, rents or profits raised or received by him under this Act, shall discharge the person paying the same therefrom and from being concerned to see to the application thereof.

Manager's receipt to be a discharge.

28. When the debts and liabilities mentioned in the liquidation-scheme have been paid and discharged, the Manager shall publish in the Sindh Official Gazette a notice fixing a date for the termination of the management.

Termination of management.

On the date so fixed the management shall terminate, and the owner shall be restored to the possession and enjoyment of the property under management, or of such part thereof as has not been sold by the Manager under the power conferred by section twenty-six, but subject to the leases and mortgages (if any) granted and made by the Manager under the powers conferred by sections eleven, twenty-five and twenty-six.

29. If the debtor dies after the publication of the order of management and before the management has been terminated in either of the modes hereinbefore provided,

Death of debtor during management.

1*st*, the management shall continue and proceed in all respects as if such debtor were still living;

2*ndly*, any person succeeding to the whole or any portion of the property under management shall, while such management continues, be subject in respect of such property to the disabilities imposed by clauses (b) and (c) of section eight; and 3rdly, no Civil Court in British India shall, during the continuance of the management, issue any attachment or other process against any portion of the property under management for or in respect of any debt or liability incurred by any such person whether before or after his succession.

30. When a jágírdár or zamíndár has been restored under section twenty-eight to the possession of any property, no mortgage, charge, lease or alienation of such property, or of any part thereof, made by such jágírdár or zamíndár, shall be valid as to any time beyond his natural life.

Mortgages, &c., made by restored jágírdár valid only for his life.

VI.—MISCELLANEOUS.

31. The Commissioner, with the previous sanction of the Governor of Bombay in Council, may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act—

Power to make rules.

(a) to regulate the security to be required from subordinate officers under this Act;

(b) to regulate the procedure in all cases under this Act;

(c) for the guidance of officers enquiring into and determining on claims under Part IV of this Act; and in particular as to the allowance of interest, and the order of paying debts and liabilities;

(d) to provide for the exercise by any officer conducting an enquiry under this Act of any power exercised by a Civil Court in the trial of suits;

(e) for investing any moneys received or raised by the Manager under this Act in any Government securities of British India, and for the sale of such securities, and

(f) generally to carry out the provisions of this Act.

Such rules shall be published in the Sindh Official Gazette, and when so published shall have the force of law.

32. Whenever the Commissioner thinks fit, he may suspend or remove any Manager and may appoint any officer in the stead of any Manager appointed under this Act; and thereupon the management then vested under this Act in the former Manager shall become vested in the new Manager.

Power to appoint new Manager.

Every such new Manager shall have the same powers as if he had been originally appointed.

33. Every Manager appointed under this Act, shall be deemed a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

Managers to be public servants.

34. Every investigation conducted by the Manager with reference to any claim preferred before him under this Act, or to any matter connected with any such claim, shall be taken to be a judicial proceeding within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

Investigation to be deemed a judicial proceeding.

35. No suit or other proceeding shall be maintained against any person in respect of any thing done by him bonâ fide pursuant to this Act.

Bar of suits.

36. Nothing in this Act precludes the Courts in Sindh having jurisdiction in suits relating to the succession to any immoveable property brought under the operation of this Act, from entertaining and disposing of such suits; but to all such suits the Manager of such property shall be made a party.

Saving of jurisdiction of Courts in Sindh in respect of certain suits.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The object of this Bill, which has been prepared at the desire of the Local Government, is to provide for the relief of certain Jágírdárs and Zamíndárs in Sindh, whose estates are heavily encumbered. The Bill closely resembles the measures which have been passed of late years for the relief of the Taluqdárs of Oudh, the Thákurs of Broach, and the landholders of Chutiá Nágpur, and the reasons for introducing it are substantially the same as the reasons which led to those enactments.

As the Bill purports to bar certain suits throughout British India, the Bombay legislature is incompetent to pass it.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 29th June 1876, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in a month :—

No. 8 of 1876.

A Bill to amend the law relating to the transfer of Bombay Municipal Debentures.

Whereas under the Bombay Municipal Act of 1865, the Justices of the Peace for the City of Bombay were empowered to mortgage for the purposes therein mentioned the rates and taxes imposed and levied under that Act:

Preamble.

And whereas by section 255 of the same Act it was enacted that any person entitled to any such mortgage might transfer his right and interest therein to any other person, and that every such transfer should be by deed duly stamped, wherein the consideration should be truly stated, and that every such transfer might be according to the form in Schedule K to the said Act annexed or to the like effect:

And whereas in exercise of the said power divers mortgages of the said rates and taxes have been made, and the mortgagees have purported to transfer their mortgages to other persons, but such transfers have been by simple endorsement and not by deed duly stamped:

And whereas it is expedient to provide that such transfers may hereafter be made by endorsement, and to confirm the said transfers heretofore made,

and to exempt the parties thereto from the penalties which they have incurred by reason of their failure to comply with the provisions of the said section and of the law relating to stamp-duties for the time being in force;

It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. Every mortgage of rates and taxes, authorized to be made under the said Bombay Municipal Act of 1865, shall be transferable by endorsement on the instrument of mortgage, and no such endorsement shall be chargeable with any stamp-duty.

Transfers of Bombay Municipal debentures to be by endorsement and free from stamp-duty.

2. Every transfer of any such mortgage heretofore made by endorsement shall be, and be deemed to have been, as valid as if this Act had been in force at the date of such transfer; and no stamp-duty shall be, or be deemed to have been, chargeable in respect of any such transfer; and no penalty shall be deemed to have been incurred by reason of any failure to comply with the provisions of the said section 255 or of the law relating to stamp-duties for the time being in force.

Validation of former transfers by endorsement.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Under the power conferred by the Bombay Municipal Act (Bombay Act No. II of 1865), numerous mortgages (generally called Municipal Debentures) were made of the rates and taxes imposed and levied under that Act. The mortgagees in many, if not in all, instances have purported to transfer their interests to other persons. In so doing, however, the directions contained in section 255 of that Act, that every such transfer should be "by deed duly stamped, wherein the consideration shall be truly stated," have been unintentionally disregarded, and the transfers have been made by simple unstamped endorsement.

The objects of this Bill, which has been prepared at the request of the Local Government, are, first, to assimilate in Bombay the law as to the transfer of Municipal debentures to that which prevails in the other Presidency Towns under Bengal Act IV of 1876, section 335, and Madras Act IX of 1867, section 98, and, secondly, to validate the transfers which have already been made of the Bombay Municipal debentures, and to relieve the parties thereto from the penalties which they have incurred from their neglect of the requirements of the Stamp Act.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 29th June 1876, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in a month :—

No. 9 of 1876.

A Bill to amend the Stage Carriages Act.

Whereas Act No. XVI of 1861 (for licensing and regulating Stage Carriages) does not apply to carriages drawn by camels or oxen, and it is expedient to render it applicable to such carriages; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

1. For the third sentence of section 21 of the said Act, the following shall be substituted (that is to say):

Amendment of Act XVI of 1861, s. 21.

"The term 'horse' shall include ponies, mules, camels, and oxen."

2. The said Act, as amended by this Act, applies to the whole of British India, but not so as to supersede or contravene the provisions of any local law dealing with the same subject.

Local extent of Act XVI of 1861.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Government of the North-Western Provinces has recently called the attention of the Government of India to the necessity of bringing conveyances drawn by camels within the scope of the Stage Carriages Act of 1861. The primary object of the present Bill is to make this amendment; and the opportunity has been taken to render the Act applicable also to carriages drawn by oxen, and to declare it to be in force throughout British India.

From Acting Chief Secretary to the Government of Bombay, No. 3330, dated 6th June 1876.

2. We think that the proposed Act should come into force throughout British India on 1st January 1877.

3. Act No. VII of 1836 declared that the legality of acts done under the two Bombay Regulations which the Bill proposes to repeal, should not be questioned in any Court of law. That Act was repealed by Act VIII of 1868, but not so as to restore the jurisdiction thus withdrawn. We have endeavoured to maintain the present state of affairs by declaring that the reference made in Act No. VII of 1836 to those Regulations shall be read as if made to the corresponding provisions of the Bill.

4. We have defined "opium" so as to include poppy-heads and all intoxicating drugs prepared from the poppy, and "Magistrate" so as to confine criminal jurisdiction under the proposed Act to Presidency Magistrates and (in the Mofussil) Magistrates of the first class.

5. We have repealed and consolidated all extant enactments relating to opium, except the local and departmental rules contained in sections 3 to 31 of Act XIII of 1857. The Bill, accordingly, now not merely authorizes the Local Government to make rules as to poppy-cultivation and the possession, transport and sale of opium, it also provides rules as to the import, export and warehousing of opium; and it empowers the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, to prohibit or permit poppy-cultivation and the manufacture, possession, transport, import, export, or sale of opium, to make rules as to the manufacture, import, or export of opium, as to its safe custody and removal when warehoused, as to the disposal of things confiscated under the proposed Act, and as to rewards to officers and informers.

6. The penalties incurred for contravening the proposed Act, or any rule made thereunder, are a year's imprisonment, fine for Rs. 1,000, or both; and where a fine is imposed, we have required (in accordance with Bombay Regulation XXI of 1827, section 7) the convicting Magistrate to direct the offender to be imprisoned in default of payment for a term which may extend to six months.

7. We have extended the power of confiscation to the whole of the opium which an offender against the rules as to transport, import or export, is transporting, importing or exporting, as the case may be; and, when the offence is against the rules as to sale, to the whole of the opium in the offender's possession.

8. We have declared that, in prosecutions under the proposed Act, all opium for which the accused is unable satisfactorily to account shall be presumed to be opium in respect of which an offence has been committed.

9. When an offender against the Act is not known, or cannot be found, or when poppies or opium not in the possession of any person cannot be satisfactorily accounted for, we have provided for an enquiry and confiscation by the Collector of the district, or other proper officer.

10. We have empowered any duly authorized officer of any of the departments of Excise Police, Customs, Salt, Opium or Revenue, superior in rank to a Peon or Constable, on receiving written information that opium is unlawfully kept in an enclosed place, to enter, seize and arrest; and we have empowered any officer of any of those departments to seize opium carried in an open place, which he has reason to believe liable to confiscation, and to arrest the person carrying it. We have required these officers to assist each other.

11. We have provided for the issue of warrants for arrest or search, and for the disposal of persons arrested and things seized.

12. We have provided a penalty for vexatious searches, seizures and arrests under the proposed Act, and we think that every officer making an arrest or seizure should within forty-eight hours report the particulars to his official superior.

13. We have also provided, in places where Act XIII of 1857 is not in force, for the attachment of a poppy-crop alleged to be illegally cultivated.

14. Lastly, we have declared that arrears of taxes, &c., due under the proposed Act or rules, and arrears due from farmers of opium-revenue, may be recovered as if they were arrears of land-revenue.

15. The publication ordered by the Council has taken place; but the Bill has been so much altered that we think that it should be republished, with this report, in the Gazette of India and in the local Gazettes.

SCHEDULE.

A Bill to amend the law relating to Opium.

Preamble. Whereas it is expedient to amend the law relating to opium; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Opium Act, 1876";

Local extent. It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement. And it shall come into force on the first day of January 1877.

Repeal of enactments. 2. The enactments mentioned in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent specified in the third column of the said schedule. And in Acts No. XI of 1849, No. XXI of 1856 and No. X of 1871 the words "intoxicating drugs" (wherever they occur) shall not include opium.

Amendment of Act VII of 1836, s. 1. The reference made to Bombay Regulations XXI of 1827 and XX of 1830 in Act No. VII of 1836 shall be read as if made to the corresponding sections of this Act.

Interpretation-clause. 3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

"Opium." "Opium" includes also poppy-heads, preparations or admixtures of opium, and intoxicating drugs prepared from the poppy;

"Magistrate." "Magistrate" means in the Presidency towns a Magistrate of Police or a Presidency Magistrate, and elsewhere a Magistrate of the first class.

Import of opium. 4. No opium shall be imported, by land or by sea, into any part of British India unless—

(a) it is covered by a pass granted by an officer appointed in this behalf by the Governor General in Council or a Local Government; or

(b) it has been imported by sea on payment of the duty prescribed by the Indian Tariff Act, 1875, or any other law for the time being in force relating to the duties of customs on goods imported by sea into British India; or

(c) such import is permitted under the power next hereinafter conferred.

The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India,

(d) permit the import of opium, or of any kind of opium, by land into any specified part of British India on payment of such duty, or on such other terms, as the Governor General in Council thinks fit; and

(e) cancel such permission.

Export of opium.

5. No opium shall be exported by land or by sea from any part of British India unless—

(a) it is covered by a pass granted by an officer appointed in this behalf by the Governor General in Council or the Local Government; or

(b) it has been imported by sea into any British Indian port, and the Local Government has permitted it to be exported on payment of a duty equal in amount to the fee to which it would have been liable under any law for the time being in force, if it had been transhipped at such port; or

(c) such export is permitted under the power next hereinafter conferred:

The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India,

(d) permit the export of opium by land or by sea from any specified part of British India on payment of such duty, or on such other terms, as the Governor General in Council thinks fit; and

(e) cancel such permission.

Customs laws applied to opium.

6. Subject to the other provisions of this Act, the laws for the time being in force relating to goods imported or exported by sea shall, so far as may be, apply to opium so imported or exported by sea, and the laws for the time being in force relating to goods imported or exported by land shall, so far as may be, apply to opium imported or exported by land.

Warehousing opium.

7. The Governor General in Council may, by order notified in the Gazette of India, authorize any Local Government to establish warehouses for opium legally imported into or intended to be exported from the territories subject to such Local Government, and may cancel any such order.

So long as such order remains in force, the Local Government may declare, by notification published in the official Gazette, any place to be a warehouse for all or any opium legally imported, whether before or after the payment of any duty leviable thereon, into the territories subject to such Government, or into any specified part thereof, or intended to be exported thence.

On and after such publication the owner of all such opium shall be bound to deposit it in such warehouse.

Power to make rules as to poppy-cultivation, opium, &c.

8. The Local Government may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act, or with any other enactment relating to opium for the time being in force, to prohibit or permit within the whole or any specified part of the territories subject to such Government, all or any of the following matters:—

(a) the cultivation of the poppy;

(b) the manufacture of opium;

(c) the possession of opium;

(d) the transport of opium from one place to another within British India;

(e) the importation or exportation of opium into or out of British India;

(f) the sale of opium;

and to regulate within the whole or any specified part of such territories all or any of the matters aforesaid, and also

(g) the safe custody of opium warehoused under section seven; the levy of fees for such warehousing; the removal of such opium for sale or exportation; and the manner in which it shall be disposed of, if any duty leviable on it be not paid within twelve months from the date of warehousing the same;

(h) the disposal of all things confiscated under this Act;

(i) the rewards to be paid to officers and informers out of the proceeds of fines and confiscations under this Act.

Such rules shall be submitted for the sanction of the Governor General in Council, and on receiving such sanction, shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

Prohibition of poppy-cultivation and possession, &c., of opium.

9. Unless in accordance with this Act or with any other enactment relating to opium for the time being in force, or with rules framed under this Act, no one shall—

(a) cultivate the poppy;

(b) manufacture opium;

(c) possess opium;

(d) transport opium from one place to another within British India;

(e) import or export opium into or out of British India; or

(f) sell opium.

Penalty for illegal cultivation of poppy, &c.

10. Whoever in contravention of this Act, or of rules made and published under section eight,

(a) cultivates the poppy, or

(b) manufactures opium, or

(c) possesses opium, or

(d) omits to warehouse opium when bound to do so under section seven, or

(e) transports opium from one place to another within British India, or

(f) imports or exports opium into or out of British India, or

(g) sells opium, or otherwise contravenes the said rules relating to sales, shall, on conviction before a Magtisrate, be punished for each such offence with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both;

and, where a fine is imposed, the convicting Magistrate shall direct the offender to be imprisoned in default of payment of the fine for a term which may extend to six months, and such imprisonment shall be in excess of any other imprisonment to which he may have been sentenced.

Presumption as to opium.

11. In prosecutions under section ten, it shall be presumed, until the contrary is proved, that all opium for which the accused person is unable to account satisfactorily is opium in respect of which he has committed an offence under this Act.

Confiscation of opium.

12. In any case in which an offence under section ten has been committed—

(a) the poppy so cultivated,

(b) the opium in respect of which any offence under the same section has been committed,

(c) where, in the case of an offence under clause (e) or (f) of the same section, the offender is transporting, importing or exporting any opium exceeding the quantity (if any) which he is permitted to transport, import or export, as the case may be, the whole of the opium which he is transporting, importing or exporting,

(d) where, in the case of an offence under clause (g) of the same section, the offender has in his possession any opium other than the opium in respect of which the offence has been committed, the whole of such other opium, and

(e) the vessels, packages and coverings in which any opium confiscated under the same section is found, and the other contents (if any) of the vessel or package in which such opium may be concealed, and the animals and conveyances used in carrying it, shall be liable to confiscation.

Order of confiscation by whom to be made.

13. When the offender is convicted, such confiscation may be ordered by the convicting Magistrate.

When an offence against this Act has been committed, but the offender is not known, or cannot be found, or when poppies or opium not in the possession of any person cannot be satisfactorily accounted for, the case shall be enquired into and determined by the Collector of the District or Deputy Commissioner, or by any other officer authorized by the Local Government in this behalf, either personally or in right of his office, who may order such confiscation: Provided that no such order shall be made until the expiration of one month from the date of seizing the things intended to be confiscated or without hearing the persons (if any) claiming any right thereto and the evidence (if any) which they produce in support of their claims.

Power to enter, arrest and seize, on information that opium is unlawfully kept in any enclosed place.

14. Any officer of any of the departments of Excise, Police, Customs, Salt, Opium or Revenue, superior in rank to a peon or constable, who may in right of his office be authorized by the Local Government in this behalf and who has reason to believe, from personal knowledge or from information given by any person and taken down in writing, that opium liable to confiscation under this Act is manufactured, kept or concealed in any building, vessel or enclosed place, may, between sunrise and sunset,

(a) enter into any such building, vessel or place,

(b) in case of resistance, break open any door and remove any other obstacle to such entry,

(c) seize such opium and all materials used in the manufacture thereof, and any other thing which he has reason to believe to be liable to confiscation under section twelve or any other law for the time being in force relating to opium, and

(d) detain and search, and if he think proper, arrest any person whom he has reason to believe to be guilty of any offence relating to such opium under this or any other law for the time being in force.

Power to seize opium found in open place and arrest possessor.

15. If any officer of any of the said departments find

(a) any person in any open place whom he has reason to believe to be carrying any opium, or

(b) any person having in any open place any opium in his possession, or

(c) any opium in transit,

and such officer has reason to believe that the opium mentioned in clause a, clause b, or clause c of this section is opium in respect of which an offence has been committed, or which is liable to confiscation under this Act or any other law relating to opium for the time being in force,

he may stop and detain such person, and may seize such opium and any other thing which he has reason to believe to be liable to confiscation under section twelve or any other law for the time being in force relating to opium, and may arrest such person, if opium be found in his possession, and any other persons in his company.

Searches how made.

16. All searches under section fourteen or section fifteen shall be made in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

Officers to assist each other.

17. The officers of the several departments mentioned in section fourteen shall, upon notice given or request made, be legally bound to assist each other in carrying out the provisions of this Act.

Vexatious entries, searches, seizures and arrests.

18. Any officer of any of the said departments who without reasonable ground of suspicion enters, or searches, or causes to be entered or searched any building, vessel or place, or vexatiously and unnecessarily seizes the property of any person on the pretence of seizing or searching for any opium or other thing liable to confiscation under this Act, or vexatiously and unnecessarily detains, searches or arrests any person, shall for every such offence be punished with fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

Such fine, or any part thereof, may be paid to the person aggrieved.

Issue of warrants.

19. The Collector of the District, Deputy Commissioner or other officer authorized by the Local Government in this behalf, either personally or in right of his office, or a Magistrate, may issue his warrant for the arrest of any person whom he has reason to believe to have committed an offence relating to opium, or for the search, whether by day or night, of any house, boat or place in which he has reason to believe opium liable to confiscation to be kept or concealed.

All warrants issued under this section shall be executed in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

Disposal of person arrested or thing seized.

20. Every person arrested, and thing seized, under section fourteen or section fifteen, shall be forwarded without delay to the officer in charge of the nearest Police station; and every person arrested and thing seized under section nineteen shall be forwarded without delay to the officer by whom the warrant was issued.

Every officer to whom any person or thing is forwarded under this section shall, with all convenient despatch, take such measures as may be necessary for the disposal according to law of such person or thing.

Report of arrests and seizures.

21. Whenever any officer makes any arrest or seizure under this Act, he shall within forty-eight hours next after such arrest or seizure make a full report of all the particulars of such arrest or seizure to his official superior.

Procedure in case of illegal poppy-cultivation.

22. In the case of alleged illegal cultivation of the poppy, the crop shall not be removed, but shall, pending the disposal of the case, be attached by an officer superior in rank to a peon or constable who may in right of his office be authorized by the Local Government in this behalf; and such officer shall require the cultivator to give bail in a reasonable amount (to be fixed by such officer) for his appearance before the Magistrate by whom the case is to be disposed of, and such cultivator shall not be arrested unless within a reasonable time he fails to give such bail:

Provided that wherever Act No. XIII of 1857 (An Act to consolidate and amend the law relating to the cultivation of the Poppy and the manufacture of Opium in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal) or any part thereof, is in force, nothing in this Act shall apply to such cultivation and manufacture.

Recovery of arrears of taxes and opium-revenue.

23. Any arrear of tax, fee or duty due under this Act or under any rule duly made under section eight,

and any arrear due from any farmer of opium-revenue,

may be recovered as if it were an arrear of land-revenue.

From Acting Chief Secretary to the Government of Bombay, No. 3330, dated 6th June 1876.

2. We think that the proposed Act should come into force throughout British India on 1st January 1877.

3. Act No. VII of 1836 declared that the legality of acts done under the two Bombay Regulations which the Bill proposes to repeal, should not be questioned in any Court of law. That Act was repealed by Act VIII of 1868, but not so as to restore the jurisdiction thus withdrawn. We have endeavoured to maintain the present state of affairs by declaring that the reference made in Act No. VII of 1836 to those Regulations shall be read as if made to the corresponding provisions of the Bill.

4. We have defined "opium" so as to include poppy-heads and all intoxicating drugs prepared from the poppy, and "Magistrate" so as to confine criminal jurisdiction under the proposed Act to Presidency Magistrates and (in the Mofussil) Magistrates of the first class.

5. We have repealed and consolidated all extant enactments relating to opium, except the local and departmental rules contained in sections 3 to 31 of Act XIII of 1857. The Bill, accordingly, now not merely authorizes the Local Government to make rules as to poppy-cultivation and the possession, transport and sale of opium, it also provides rules as to the import, export and warehousing of opium; and it empowers the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, to prohibit or permit poppy-cultivation and the manufacture, possession, transport, import, export, or sale of opium, to make rules as to the manufacture, import, or export of opium, as to its safe custody and removal when warehoused, as to the disposal of things confiscated under the proposed Act, and as to rewards to officers and informers.

6. The penalties incurred for contravening the proposed Act, or any rule made thereunder, are a year's imprisonment, fine for Rs. 1,000, or both; and where a fine is imposed, we have required (in accordance with Bombay Regulation XXI of 1827, section 7) the convicting Magistrate to direct the offender to be imprisoned in default of payment for a term which may extend to six months.

7. We have extended the power of confiscation to the whole of the opium which an offender against the rules as to transport, import or export, is transporting, importing or exporting, as the case may be; and, when the offence is against the rules as to sale, to the whole of the opium in the offender's possession.

8. We have declared that, in prosecutions under the proposed Act, all opium for which the accused is unable satisfactorily to account shall be presumed to be opium in respect of which an offence has been committed.

9. When an offender against the Act is not known, or cannot be found, or when poppies or opium not in the possession of any person cannot be satisfactorily accounted for, we have provided for an enquiry and confiscation by the Collector of the district, or other proper officer.

10. We have empowered any duly authorized officer of any of the departments of Excise Police, Customs, Salt, Opium or Revenue, superior in rank to a Peon or Constable, on receiving written information that opium is unlawfully kept in an enclosed place, to enter, seize and arrest; and we have empowered any officer of any of those departments to seize opium carried in an open place, which he has reason to believe liable to confiscation, and to arrest the person carrying it. We have required these officers to assist each other.

11. We have provided for the issue of warrants for arrest or search, and for the disposal of persons arrested and things seized.

12. We have provided a penalty for vexatious searches, seizures and arrests under the proposed Act, and we think that every officer making an arrest or seizure should within forty-eight hours report the particulars to his official superior.

13. We have also provided, in places where Act XIII of 1857 is not in force, for the attachment of a poppy-crop alleged to be illegally cultivated.

14. Lastly, we have declared that arrears of taxes, &c., due under the proposed Act or rules, and arrears due from farmers of opium-revenue, may be recovered as if they were arrears of land-revenue.

15. The publication ordered by the Council has taken place; but the Bill has been so much altered that we think that it should be republished, with this report, in the Gazette of India and in the local Gazettes.

SCHEDULE.

A Bill to amend the law relating to Opium.

Preamble. Whereas it is expedient to amend the law relating to opium; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Opium Act, 1876":

Local extent. It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement. And it shall come into force on the first day of January 1877.

Repeal of enactments. 2. The enactments mentioned in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent specified in the third column of the said schedule. And in Acts No. XI of 1849, No. XXI of 1856 and No. X of 1871 the words "intoxicating drugs" (wherever they occur) shall not include opium.

Amendment of Act VII of 1836, s. 1. The reference made to Bombay Regulations XXI of 1827 and XX of 1830 in Act No. VII of 1836 shall be read as if made to the corresponding sections of this Act.

Interpretation-clause. 3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

"Opium." "Opium" includes also poppy-heads, preparations or admixtures of opium, and intoxicating drugs prepared from the poppy:

"Magistrate." "Magistrate" means in the Presidency towns a Magistrate of Police or a Presidency Magistrate, and elsewhere a Magistrate of the first class.

Import of opium. 4. No opium shall be imported, by land or by sea, into any part of British India unless—

(a) it is covered by a pass granted by an officer appointed in this behalf by the Governor General in Council or a Local Government; or

(b) it has been imported by sea on payment of the duty prescribed by the Indian Tariff Act, 1875, or any other law for the time being in force relating to the duties of customs on goods imported by sea into British India; or

(c) such import is permitted under the power next hereinafter conferred.

The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India,

(d) permit the import of opium, or of any kind of opium, by land into any specified part of British India on payment of such duty, or on such other terms, as the Governor General in Council thinks fit; and

(e) cancel such permission.

Export of opium. 5. No opium shall be exported by land or by sea from any part of British India unless—

(a) it is covered by a pass granted by an officer appointed in this behalf by the Governor General in Council or the Local Government; or

(b) it has been imported by sea into any British Indian port, and the Local Government has permitted it to be exported on payment of a duty equal in amount to the fee to which it would have been liable under any law for the time being in force, if it had been transhipped at such port; or

(c) such export is permitted under the power next hereinafter conferred:

The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India,

(d) permit the export of opium by land or by sea from any specified part of British India on payment of such duty, or on such other terms, as the Governor General in Council thinks fit; and

(e) cancel such permission.

Customs laws applied to opium. 6. Subject to the other provisions of this Act, the laws for the time being in force relating to goods imported or exported by sea shall, so far as may be, apply to opium so imported or exported by sea, and the laws for the time being in force relating to goods imported or exported by land shall, so far as may be, apply to opium imported or exported by land.

7. The Governor General in Council may, by order notified in the Gazette of India, authorize any Local Government to establish warehouses for opium legally imported into or intended to be exported from the territories subject to such Local Government, and may cancel any such order.

Warehousing opium.

So long as such order remains in force, the Local Government may declare, by notification published in the official Gazette, any place to be a warehouse for all or any opium legally imported, whether before or after the payment of any duty leviable thereon, into the territories subject to such Government, or into any specified part thereof, or intended to be exported thence.

On and after such publication the owner of all such opium shall be bound to deposit it in such warehouse.

8. The Local Government may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act, or with any other enactment relating to opium for the time being in force, to prohibit or permit within the whole or any specified part of the territories subject to such Government, all or any of the following matters:—

Power to make rules as to poppy-cultivation, opium, &c.

(a) the cultivation of the poppy;

(b) the manufacture of opium;

(c) the possession of opium;

(d) the transport of opium from one place to another within British India;

(e) the importation or exportation of opium into or out of British India;

(f) the sale of opium;

and to regulate within the whole or any specified part of such territories all or any of the matters aforesaid, and also

(g) the safe custody of opium warehoused under section seven; the levy of fees for such warehousing; the removal of such opium for sale or exportation; and the manner in which it shall be disposed of, if any duty leviable on it be not paid within twelve months from the date of warehousing the same;

(h) the disposal of all things confiscated under this Act;

(i) the rewards to be paid to officers and informers out of the proceeds of fines and confiscations under this Act.

Such rules shall be submitted for the sanction of the Governor General in Council, and on receiving such sanction, shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

9. Unless in accordance with this Act or with any other enactment relating to opium for the time being in force, or with rules framed under this Act, no one shall—

Prohibition of poppy-cultivation and possession, &c., of opium.

(a) cultivate the poppy;

(b) manufacture opium;

(c) possess opium;

(d) transport opium from one place to another within British India;

(e) import or export opium into or out of British India; or

(f) sell opium.

10. Whoever in contravention of this Act, or of rules made and published under section eight,

Penalty for illegal cultivation of poppy, &c.

(a) cultivates the poppy, or

(b) manufactures opium, or

(c) possesses opium, or

(d) omits to warehouse opium when bound to do so under section seven, or

(e) transports opium from one place to another within British India, or

(f) imports or exports opium into or out of British India, or

(g) sells opium, or otherwise contravenes the said rules relating to sales, shall, on conviction before a Magtisrate, be punished for each such offence with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or with both;

and, where a fine is imposed, the convicting Magistrate shall direct the offender to be imprisoned in default of payment of the fine for a term which may extend to six months, and such imprisonment shall be in excess of any other imprisonment to which he may have been sentenced.

11. In prosecutions under section ten, it shall be presumed, until the contrary is proved, that all opium for which the accused person is unable to account satisfactorily is opium in respect of which he has committed an offence under this Act.

Presumption as to opium.

12. In any case in which an offence under section ten has been committed—

Confiscation of opium.

(a) the poppy so cultivated,

(b) the opium in respect of which any offence under the same section has been committed,

(c) where, in the case of an offence under clause (e) or (f) of the same section, the offender is transporting, importing or exporting any opium exceeding the quantity (if any) which he is permitted to transport, import or export, as the case may be, the whole of the opium which he is transporting, importing or exporting,

(d) where, in the case of an offence under clause (g) of the same section, the offender has in his possession any opium other than the opium in respect of which the offence has been committed, the whole of such other opium, and

(e) the vessels, packages and coverings in which any opium confiscated under the same section is found, and the other contents (if any) of the vessel or package in which such opium may be concealed, and the animals and conveyances used in carrying it, shall be liable to confiscation.

13. When the offender is convicted, such confiscation may be ordered by the convicting Magistrate.

Order of confiscation by whom to be made.

When an offence against this Act has been committed, but the offender is not known, or cannot be found, or when poppies or opium not in the possession of any person cannot be satisfactorily accounted for, the case shall be enquired into and determined by the Collector of the District or Deputy Commissioner, or by any other officer authorized by the Local Government in this behalf, either personally or in right of his office, who may order such confiscation: Provided that no such order shall be made until the expiration of one month from the date of seizing the things intended to be confiscated or without hearing the persons (if any) claiming any right thereto and the evidence (if any) which they produce in support of their claims.

14. Any officer of any of the departments of Excise, Police, Customs, Salt, Opium or Revenue, superior in rank to a peon or constable, who may in right of his office be authorized by the Local Government in this behalf and who has reason to believe, from personal knowledge or from information given by any person and taken down in writing, that opium liable to confiscation under this Act is manufactured, kept or concealed in any building, vessel or enclosed place, may, between sunrise and sunset,

Power to enter, arrest and seize, on information that opium is unlawfully kept in any enclosed place.

(a) enter into any such building, vessel or place,

(b) in case of resistance, break open any door and remove any other obstacle to such entry,

(c) seize such opium and all materials used in the manufacture thereof, and any other thing which he has reason to believe to be liable to confiscation under section twelve or any other law for the time being in force relating to opium, and

(d) detain and search, and if he think proper, arrest any person whom he has reason to believe to be guilty of any offence relating to such opium under this or any other law for the time being in force.

15. If any officer of any of the said departments find

Power to seize opium found in open place and arrest possessor.

(a) any person in any open place whom he has reason to believe to be carrying any opium, or

(b) any person having in any open place any opium in his possession, or

(c) any opium in transit,

and such officer has reason to believe that the opium mentioned in clause a, clause b, or clause c of this section is opium in respect of which an offence has been committed, or which is liable to confiscation under this Act or any other law relating to opium for the time being in force,

he may stop and detain such person, and may seize such opium and any other thing which he has reason to believe to be liable to confiscation under section twelve or any other law for the time being in force relating to opium, and may arrest such person, if opium be found in his possession, and any other persons in his company.

16. All searches under section fourteen or section fifteen shall be made in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

Searches how made.

17. The officers of the several departments mentioned in section fourteen shall, upon notice given or request made, be legally bound to assist each other in carrying out the provisions of this Act.

Officers to assist each other.

18. Any officer of any of the said departments who without reasonable ground of suspicion enters, or searches, or causes to be entered or searched any building, vessel or place,

Vexatious entries, searches, seizures and arrests.

or vexatiously and unnecessarily seizes the property of any person on the pretence of seizing or searching for any opium or other thing liable to confiscation under this Act, or vexatiously and unnecessarily detains, searches or arrests any person, shall for every such offence be punished with fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

Such fine, or any part thereof, may be paid to the person aggrieved.

19. The Collector of the District, Deputy Commissioner or other officer authorized by the Local Government in this behalf, either personally or in right of his office, or a Magistrate, may issue his warrant for the arrest of any person whom he has reason to believe to have committed an offence relating to opium, or for the search, whether by day or night, of any house, boat or place in which he has reason to believe opium liable to confiscation to be kept or concealed.

Issue of warrants.

All warrants issued under this section shall be executed in accordance with the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

20. Every person arrested, and thing seized, under section fourteen or section fifteen, shall be forwarded without delay to the officer in charge of the nearest Police station; and every person arrested and thing seized under section nineteen shall be forwarded without delay to the officer by whom the warrant was issued.

Disposal of person arrested or thing seized.

Every officer to whom any person or thing is forwarded under this section shall, with all convenient despatch, take such measures as may be necessary for the disposal according to law of such person or thing.

21. Whenever any officer makes any arrest or seizure under this Act, he shall within forty-eight hours next after such arrest or seizure make a full report of all the particulars of such arrest or seizure to his official superior.

Report of arrests and seizures.

22. In the case of alleged illegal cultivation of the poppy, the crop shall not be removed, but shall, pending the disposal of the case, be attached by an officer superior in rank to a peon or constable who may in right of his office be authorized by the Local Government in this behalf; and such officer shall require the cultivator to give bail in a reasonable amount (to be fixed by such officer) for his appearance before the Magistrate by whom the case is to be disposed of, and such cultivator shall not be arrested unless within a reasonable time he fails to give such bail.

Procedure in case of illegal poppy-cultivation.

Provided that wherever Act No. XIII of 1857 (An Act to consolidate and amend the law relating to the cultivation of the Poppy and the manufacture of Opium in the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal) or any part thereof, is in force, nothing in this Act shall apply to such cultivation and manufacture.

Recovery of arrears of taxes and opium-revenue.

23. Any arrear of tax, fee or duty due under this Act or under any rule duly made under section eight,

and any arrear due from any farmer of opium-revenue,

may be recovered as if it were an arrear of land-revenue.

Note by Hon'ble J. F. D. Inglis, dated 20th June 1876.

„ by Chief Commissioner, Oudh, dated 5th June 1876, and enclosures.

Office Memorandum from Department of Revenue, Agriculture and Commerce, No. 503, dated 11th July 1876, and enclosure.

Preliminary.

2. We have omitted as unnecessary the definitions of 'Chief Commissioner' and 'Estate,' and replaced them by definitions of 'incumbrance,' 'agricultural year,' 'revenue officer' and 'revenue-free.'

Revenue Officers.

3. In Chapter II relating to Revenue-officers, we have made the following changes: For sections 2, 3 and 4 of the Bill as introduced, we have substituted a section (4) declaring that, subject to rules prescribed by the Governor General in Council, the Chief Commissioner shall appoint Commissioners, Deputy Commissioners and Assistant Commissioners. We have authorized the Chief Commissioner to place any Assistant Commissioner of the first class in charge of one or more subdivisions, and to delegate this power to the Deputy Commissioner of the district. We have also empowered the Chief Commissioner, subject to rules prescribed by the Governor General in Council, to invest any Assistant Commissioner in charge of a subdivision with the powers of a Deputy Commissioner. We think that Deputy Commissioners of the district and Assistant Commissioners in charge of subdivisions should be empowered to transfer cases to, and withdraw cases from, their subordinates, and we have introduced a section (10) for this purpose. We have provided (section 11) for the administration of a district in case of a temporary vacancy in the office of the Deputy Commissioner. We have, lastly, copied from Act XIX of 1873 the useful provision, that when an officer invested with powers in one district is transferred to an equal or higher office in another district, he shall be held to have the same powers in the latter district.

Settlement.

4. Section 14 of the Bill as introduced specified the documents of which the settlement record is to consist. We think it preferable merely to provide that the Chief Commissioner shall, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, determine what those documents shall be.

5. We have declared (section 18) that every settlement shall be deemed to be in progress until its closing is duly notified, and that all districts in which settlements are now in progress shall be deemed to be under settlement for the purpose of that section.

6. We have transferred from the Oudh Civil Courts Act (XXXII of 1871) a section (20) empowering the Chief Commissioner to invest Settlement Officers with the powers of Civil Courts in suits relating to revenue-paying land.

7. We have declared (section 26) that in case of a taluqdárí mahál the settlement shall be made with the taluqdár.

8. We have provided (section 31) for the enforcement of the custom of periodical redistribution of land and adjustment of revenue.

9. We have expanded the provisions contained in the Bill as introduced, as to the exclusion of a taluqdár or proprietor refusing to accept settlement. We have provided (section 32) that no taluqdár shall be excluded from the settlement of his entire taluqá without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council; and we have raised the amount of the allowance to excluded proprietors.

10. We have directed (section 40) the Settlement Officer to determine the rent to be paid to the proprietor by under-proprietors and by holders of heritable, non-transferable leases, (other than tenants with right of occupancy,) whose rent has not been fixed by contract; and we have declared that whenever rent payable by such under-proprietors or lessees has been determined by a Settlement Officer, all the co-sharers shall be jointly and severally responsible for the payment to the proprietor of the rent so determined.

11. We have declared that all land shall be deemed liable to be charged with payment of revenue, and that no length of occupancy shall discharge such liability.

12. We have provided (section 46) for the alteration of assessment during the currency of a settlement, and (section 47) for the assessment of land added by alluvion. We have provided in the case of such land for the increase of a fixed rent in proportion to the increase of revenue effected by the assessment. Where the revenue assessed on a mahál has been reduced, remitted or suspended, we have declared (section 49) that the under-proprietor shall be entitled to a corresponding reduction, remission or suspension.

13. We have declared, in conformity with Regulation XIX of 1793 and other Regulations of the Bengal Code, that rent-free grants made by proprietors or the persons through whom they claim shall be liable to resumption except when such grants have been sanctioned or confirmed by the Governor General in Council or the Chief Commissioner; but we have required proprietors wishing to resume such grants to apply to the Civil Court for a declaration of the right to resume, and we have exempted, wholly or partially, from the operation of these provisions, (a) land which the grantor has expressly agreed not to resume, (b) land held rent-free under a judicial decision, and (c) land held rent-free and acquired before the passing of the proposed Act, where the right to resume has been barred by the law of limitation. We have also provided (section 56) for fixing the rent of land declared liable to resumption.

Registration and the Revenue record.

14. We have provided (section 57), with more particularity than was thought necessary, for the lists and registers of rights in land to be prepared and maintained by the Deputy Commissioner on the basis of the settlement record. And we have declared that all entries in such lists or registers shall be made with reference to actual possession, and that all persons in possession, but claiming the right to be so, shall be referred to the Civil Court.

15. We have required (section 62) all persons obtaining possession of land as proprietors, under-proprietors, lessees whose rents have been fixed by a Settlement Officer, or [illegible] to give notice to the Tahsíldár or the Deputy Commissioner. And where the Deputy Commissioner cannot satisfy himself as to which party is in possession of any such land, we have required him to ascertain the fact by summary enquiry.

Partition and Union of Mahals.

16. We have inserted a chapter (V) dealing with the partition and union of mahals, which is founded on Act XIX of 1863—the law on this subject now in force in Oudh; but we have endeavoured to simplify the provisions of that Act. We have given an appeal within one year from the decision of the Deputy Commissioner confirming a partition. We have added definitions of 'perfect partition' and 'imperfect partition'. We have allowed any co-sharer to claim an imperfect partition, provided that the consent of recorded co-sharers holding in the aggregate more than a moiety of the property has been first obtained. We have provided for the partition of taluqdárí and under-proprietary mahals and of mahals held by lessees whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, subject to rules made by the Chief Commissioner as to when such partitions shall or shall not be permitted. In the case of the partition of a taluqdárí mahál, we have provided (section 101) for the assignment or partitioning of the inferior mahals and for duly limiting the joint responsibility of the co-sharers.

17. When the partition of a mahál in respect of which rent is payable is effected, we have directed the Deputy Commissioner to fix the amount payable in respect of each portion, and we have empowered the person entitled to such rent to obtain a decision as to his objections (if any) to the distribution of the rental.

Maintenance of Boundaries.

18. We have inserted a chapter (VI) on the maintenance of boundaries, the provisions of which correspond with those of Act I of 1847 and of sections 140—144 of Act XIX of 1873.

Collection of Land-Revenue.

19. In the chapter (VII) relating to the collection of land-revenue, we have made no substantial change, except that we have declared (section 117) that no person exempted from personal attendance in the Civil Court, no taluqdár and no female shall be subject to arrest or imprisonment, and we have provided that the Deputy Commissioner may realize as arrears of revenue all arrears of rent, due by under-proprietors or by lessees whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, in respect of land attached, or of which the settlement has been annulled.

20. We have inserted a section (135=section 28 of Act I of 1845) empowering the Chief Commissioner to direct a sale of land for arrears of revenue to be made subject to incumbrances.

21. We have provided (section 140) that such sales must be made either by the Deputy Commissioner or by an Assistant Commissioner specially appointed by him.

22. We have by section 159 entitled the proprietor of a mahál or pattí held in sub-settlement, or under a heritable, non-transferable lease, the rent payable under which has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, to apply to the Deputy Commissioner to realize the arrears of such rent as arrears of revenue.

Court of Wards.

23. We have transferred from the Oudh Laws Bill the chapter relating to the Court of Wards. In so doing we have extended the section relating to disqualified persons so as to apply to females deemed by the Chief Commissioner incompetent to manage their estates, to persons physically incapable of managing them, to persons convicted of non-bailable offences, and disqualified by vice or bad character from managing their estates, and lastly, to persons declared by the Chief Commissioner on their own application to be disqualified. We have also declared (section 174) that persons whose property is under the superintendence of the Court of Wards, shall be incompetent, without the sanction of the Court, to create charges upon such property. We have provided for suits by and against disqualified proprietors, and we have inserted rules relating to managers equivalent to those contained in Act XIX of 1873, section 206. Lastly, we have, in section 177, amended Act XL of 1858 so as to render it applicable to all mahals, whether assessed to revenue or held revenue-free.

Powers of Officers.

24. Chapter IX is new. It deals with the powers of Assistant Commissioners, Settlement Officers and Assistant Settlement Officers, and is to some extent founded on sections 234 and 235 of Act XIX of 1873.

Appeals. Arbitration.

25. Chapter X deals with appeals, and Chapter XI with references to arbitration. Both are new. The latter is to a large extent taken from Act XIX of 1873.

Patwáris.

26. In section 208 it is provided that the Chief Commissioner may make rules respecting the appointment of Patwáris. This is not intended to preclude the free discussion of the claim of the taluqdárs to make such appointments, which is still under the consideration of the local authorities.

27. The publication directed by the Rules for the conduct of legislative business has taken place; but the Bill has been so altered that we think it should be re-published, with this report, in the Gazette of India, and also in the local Gazette, and that its further consideration should be stayed for two months.

A Bill to consolidate and define the law relating to Land Revenue in Oudh.

Preamble. Whereas it is expedient to consolidate and define the law relating to land-revenue in Oudh; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Oudh Land Revenue Act, 1876":

Local extent. It extends only to the territories now under the administration of the Chief Commissioner of Oudh;

Commencement. And it shall come into force on the passing thereof.

But all rules now in force and relating to any of the matters hereinafter dealt with shall, so far as they are consistent with this Act, continue in force until they are superseded by rules made in exercise of the powers hereinafter conferred.

Interpretation-clause. 2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

"Incumbrance." (1) "incumbrance" means a charge upon or claim against land arising out of contract between private persons:

"Agricultural year." (2) "agricultural year" means a year commencing on the first day of July and ending on the thirtieth day of June:

"Revenue officer." (3) "revenue officer" means any officer empowered to dispose of any matter under this Act:

"Revenue-free." "Free of revenue." (4) "revenue-free" or "free of revenue" applies to land whereof the revenue has been wholly or in part released, compounded for, redeemed or assigned.

CHAPTER II.

REVENUE OFFICERS.

Chief Controlling Revenue Authority in revenue matters. 3. The Chief Controlling Revenue Authority in all matters connected with land-revenue in Oudh shall be the Chief Commissioner.

Commissioners of Division. 4. Subject to such rules as the Governor General in Council may from time to time prescribe in this behalf, the Chief Commissioner shall—

(a) appoint in each Division a Commissioner, who shall, subject to the control of the Chief Commissioner, exercise authority over all the Revenue Officers in his Division:

Deputy Commissioner of the District. (b) appoint in each district an officer who shall be the Deputy Commissioner of the District:

Assistant Commissioner. (c) appoint to each district as many other persons as he thinks fit to be Assistant Commissioners of the first or of the second class.

Subject to such rules as the Governor General in Council may from time to time prescribe in this behalf, the Chief Commissioner may suspend or remove any officer appointed under this section.

Subordination of Assistant Commissioners and other Revenue Officers.

5. All such Assistant Commissioners, and all other persons employed in maintaining revenue-records or otherwise in or about the business of the land-revenue, shall be subordinate to the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

Assistant Commissioner in charge of Sub-division of District.

6. The Chief Commissioner may place any Assistant Commissioner of the first class in charge of one or more Sub-divisions of a District, and may at any time remove him therefrom.

Such Assistant Commissioner shall be called an Assistant Commissioner in charge of a Sub-division of a District, and shall exercise the powers and discharge the duties conferred and imposed upon him by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force, subject to the control of the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, delegate his powers under this section to the Deputy Commissioner of the District, and may revoke such delegation.

Power to invest certain Assistant Commissioners with powers of Deputy Commissioner.

7. Subject to such rules as the Governor General in Council from time to time prescribes in this behalf, the Chief Commissioner may confer on any Assistant Commissioner in charge of a Sub-division of a District all or any of the powers of a Deputy Commissioner; and all powers so conferred shall be exercised subject to the control of the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

Subordination of Revenue Officers.

8. Every officer of a Sub-division of a District employed in maintaining revenue-records or otherwise in or about the business of the land-revenue shall be subordinate to the Assistant Commissioner (if any) in charge of such Sub-division, subject to the general control of the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

Conferring of powers.

9. Subject to such rules as the Governor General in Council from time to time prescribes in this behalf, the Chief Commissioner may confer upon any person all or any of the powers of an Assistant Commissioner of the first or of the second class, and may, in conferring those or any other powers under this Act, empower persons by name, or classes of officials generally by their official titles, and may vary or cancel any order conferring powers under this Act.

Power to vary and cancel orders conferring powers.

Transfer of cases to subordinates.

10. The Deputy Commissioner of the District, or any Assistant Commissioner in charge of a Sub-division of a District, may make over any case, or class of cases, arising under the provisions of this Act or otherwise, for enquiry or decision, from his own file to any of his subordinates competent to deal with such case or class, or may withdraw any such case, or class of cases from any Revenue Officer subordinate to him, and may deal with such case or class himself, or refer the same for disposal to any other such Revenue Officer competent to deal therewith.

Power to withdraw cases from subordinates.

Deputy Commissioner of the District in case of temporary vacancy.

11. If the Deputy Commissioner of the District dies, or is disabled from performing his duties, the officer who succeeds temporarily to the chief executive administration of the District in revenue matters shall be held to be the Deputy Commissioner of the District under this Act until the Chief Commissioner appoints a successor to the Deputy Commissioner so dying or disabled, and such successor takes charge of his appointment.

Powers of officers transferred to another district.

12. Whenever any person holding an office in the service of Government, who has been invested with any powers under this Act in any District, is transferred to an equal or higher office of the same nature within another District, he shall, unless the Chief Commissioner otherwise directs, be held to be invested with the same powers in the District to which he is so transferred.

Appointment of Tahsíldárs.

13. Tahsíldárs shall be appointed by the Chief Commissioner, subject to such rules as to qualification or otherwise as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time make under section 208.

CHAPTER III.

SETTLEMENT.

Notification as to settlement.

14. Whenever the Chief Commissioner thinks that any District or other local area liable to be brought under settlement should be so brought, he shall, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, publish a notification to that effect.

Notification as to settlement record.

And if he thinks that a settlement record should be prepared for any District or other local area, he shall, with the like sanction, publish a notification to that effect.

Chief Commissioner to issue rules as to mode of assessment.

15. The Chief Commissioner shall, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, frame and issue rules regarding the mode in which the revenue demand in respect of any local area is to be assessed; and may from time to time make rules prescribing the manner in which Settlement Officers shall report for sanction the rates and method of assessment and the amounts they propose to assess.

Settlement record.

16. The Chief Commissioner shall, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, determine what documents shall form the settlement-record, and frame and issue rules regarding (a) the mode in which such record is to be prepared, (b) the facts to be therein entered, and (c) the manner in which the entries shall be attested.

The Chief Commissioner may from time to time, with the same sanction, alter such rules.

Presumption as to entries in settlement record.

17. Every entry in such settlement record duly made and attested, shall, until the contrary is proved, be presumed to be a correct record of the fact entered.

Settlement to be deemed in progress until closing notified.

18. Every local area shall be held to be under settlement from the date of any notification published under section 14, and relating thereto, until the issue of another notification declaring settlement operations to be closed therein.

Every local area under settlement at the time of the passing of this Act shall be held to be under settlement within the meaning of this section without the issue of either of the notifications prescribed by section 14.

Settlements now in progress brought under operation of Act.

Appointment and powers of Settlement Officers.

19. The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, appoint an officer to be in charge of the settlement of any local area and as many Assistant Settlement Officers as the Chief Commissioner thinks fit; and such officers shall exercise the powers conferred on them respectively under this Act so long as such area is under settlement.

Power to invest Settlement Officers with powers of Civil Courts in certain cases.

20. In any local area in which a settlement of the land-revenue is in progress, the Chief Commissioner, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may by order confer on any officer making or controlling such settlement the powers of a Civil Court of any specified grade for the purpose of trying suits and appeals, or any specified class of suits and appeals, relating to property in land assessed or assessable to revenue, in such District, and may revoke any such order; and so long as such order remains in force the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts of the same grade shall be excluded in respect of such suits and appeals.

Power to transfer cases from Settlement Officers to Civil Courts.

21. Notwithstanding the existence of any such order, the Chief Commissioner may from time to time direct that any cases pending before the Settlement Officers invested with the powers mentioned in section nineteen, shall be transferred to the ordinary Civil Courts of the District if the state of business in his opinion requires such transfer.

Trial of suit relating to land and other property.

22. If a suit relating as well to such land as other property be instituted before any officer so invested, he shall make a reference regarding the disposal of such suit to the Commissioner of the Division in which the District wherein the suit was instituted is included, who shall determine by what Court the suit shall be tried.

Powers of Settlement Officers as to erection of boundary-marks and decision of disputes.

23. When any local area is under settlement, the Settlement Officer shall have power to call upon all proprietors, by proclamation to be stuck up in some conspicuous place in each village, to erect within fifteen days such boundary-marks as he may think necessary to define the limits of their villages, maháls or fields; and in default of their compliance within the time specified in the notice, he may cause such boundary-marks to be erected, and he shall recover the cost of such erection from the proprietors as if it were an arrear of land-revenue.

In case of dispute concerning any boundary-marks, the Settlement Officer shall decide such dispute on the basis of possession, or may refer it to arbitration, for decision on the merits as provided for in sections 192 to 203, both inclusive.

Power of Settlement and Survey Officers to do necessary acts.

24. All Settlement Officers, and all officers in charge of a survey made in connection with the revenue, and their assistants, servants, agents and workmen, may do all acts necessary for any purpose connected with the settlement or survey, as the case may be.

Power to require attendance of persons concerned, and production of documents.

25. The Settlement Officer may order all persons whose presence is, in his opinion, necessary for any of the purpose of this chapter, to attend at any specified time and place, and to produce any written document in their possession or power; and all such persons shall be legally bound to obey such order.

With whom settlement to be made.

26. The settlement shall be made in the case of a taluqdárí mahál with the taluqdár, and in the case of other maháls with the proprietor of the mahál;

or if there are two classes of proprietors, superior and inferior, with either of such classes as the Chief Commissioner directs, or if the taluqdár or proprietor has transferred possession of his mahál to a mortgagee or conditional vendee, then with such mortgagee or vendee.

Settlement of estate in possession of lunatic or minor.

If, at the time of settlement, a mahál, or any share thereof, be in the possession of a lunatic, minor or other person incapable of making a contract, the settlement shall be made on his behalf with his guardian or with the manager of his property.

Power to make joint settlement with several proprietors or their elected representatives.

27. When several persons are in possession of a mahál, not being a taluqdárí mahál, the Settlement Officer shall have power to make a joint settlement with all such persons, or with their representatives.

Framing and reporting general proposals of assessment.

28. The Settlement Officer shall, in accordance with the rules made under section fifteen, frame general proposals of assessment for any local area or any portion thereof regarding which a notification has been published under the first clause of section fourteen, and shall report such proposals through the Commissioner of the Division to the Chief Commissioner.

Detailed assessment and declaration thereof to persons concerned.

29. After the receipt of the orders of the Chief Commissioner thereon, and subject to such orders, the Settlement Officer shall ascertain the amount of the assessment proper for each mahál in such area, and shall declare the same to the person with whom the settlement of such mahál is to be made.

If any mahál in any such area comprise two or more villages, or portions of villages, the Settlement Officer shall declare the assessment due on each of such villages or portions of villages, together with the aggregate amount of the assessment proper in his opinion for the whole mahál.

Such declaration shall be made on a date to be notified by proclamation at the tahsíl in which such mahál is situate.

30. If the persons with whom the settlement of such mahál is to be made agree to the assessment so proposed, they and those (if any) whom they represent in interest shall become liable from the date of such agreement, or from such subsequent date as the Chief Commissioner directs, to pay such assessment in respect of such mahál.

Effect of agreement to assessment proposed.

and in a mahál in which the land, or part of the land is held in severalty, the Settlement Officer shall distribute such assessment on the lands so held.

Distribution of assessment.

31. In any mahál where, by the established custom, the land or the amount of revenue payable by each co-sharer is subject to periodical re-distribution or re-adjustment, the Settlement Officer may, on application of one or more of the co-sharers, enforce such re-distribution or re-adjustment according to such custom.

Enforcement of custom as to re-distribution of land and adjustment of revenue of shares.

32. If the person to be settled with be a taluqdár and such taluqdár refuse to accept the assessment offered by the Settlement Officer in respect of his entire taluqá, or in respect of any portion thereof, or if, within thirty days from the date of the declaration by the Settlement Officer under section 29, such taluqdár fail to accept such assessment, the Settlement Officer shall report the case through the Commissioner of the Division to the Chief Commissioner.

Exclusion of taluqdár declining or failing to accept settlement.

The Chief Commissioner, after hearing and considering the reasons which the taluqdár may have to urge against the assessment, may direct that the taluqdár so refusing or failing be excluded from the settlement of his entire taluqá, or of any portion thereof, for such term not exceeding fifteen years from the date of such direction, as the Chief Commissioner shall fix; and the Settlement Officer or Deputy Commissioner shall either farm the taluqá or any portion thereof or hold it under direct management during such term, or any part thereof: provided that no taluqdár shall be excluded from the settlement of his entire taluqá without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

33. If a taluqdár be excluded from the settlement of any portion of his taluqá, and if such portion be held in sub-settlement by an under-proprietor, the farm of such portion shall be offered to such under-proprietor on such terms as the Chief Commissioner may in each case direct.

Offer of farm to under-proprietor.

34. If such under-proprietor accept the assessment so offered, the taluqdár so excluded shall be entitled to an allowance out of the profits of such portion to be fixed by the Chief Commissioner not exceeding the share of the gross assets, if any, to which he would have been entitled had he accepted the assessment.

Allowance to excluded taluqdár.

In other cases, the taluqdár so excluded shall (subject to the orders of the Chief Commissioner) be entitled to an allowance out of the profits of such portion of not less than five or more than fifteen per cent. on the amount proposed to be assessed thereon.

35. In a mahál other than a taluqdárí mahál, if the person to be settled with refuse to accept the assessment offered by the Settlement Officer, or fail to accept such assessment within thirty days from the date of the declaration by the Settlement Officer under section 29, the Settlement Officer shall report the case through the Commissioner of the Division to the Chief Commissioner, and the Chief Commissioner may direct that the person so refusing or failing be excluded from the settlement for such term not exceeding fifteen years from the date of such direction, as the Chief Commissioner thinks fit, and the Settlement Officer or the Deputy Commissioner may, with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner, either farm the mahál or hold it under direct management during such term or any part thereof.

Exclusion of person declining or failing to accept settlement in a mahál.

In such case the person so excluded shall be entitled (subject to the orders of the Chief Commissioner) to an allowance out of the profits of the mahál, of not less than five or more than fifteen per cent. on the amount proposed to be assessed thereon.

Allowance to person excluded.

36. If in a mahál held on a pattídárí or imperfect pattídárí tenure any of the co-sharers refuse or fail within thirty days from the date of the declaration by the Settlement Officer under section 29 to accept the proposed assessment, the shares of such co-sharers shall be dealt with under the provisions of section 35, and they shall receive an allowance, as provided in that section, in proportion to their respective shares in the mahál.

Procedure in case of some of several proprietors refusing assessment.

If the Settlement Officer farms any share in such mahál, the farm of such share shall be offered in the first instance to those co-sharers who have accepted the proposed terms.

Farm of shares of proprietors refusing.

37. Any proprietor excluded from settlement under sections 35 and 36 shall be entitled to hold as a tenant with a right of occupancy so much of the land in the mahál actually cultivated by him as the Settlement Officer may determine, and the rent to be paid by such proprietor for such land during such exclusion shall be fixed by the Settlement Officer at the rate which would have been paid by a tenant-at-will for the said land less four annas in the rupee.

Adjustment of rent of the sir land of proprietors of mahál farmed under section 35 or 36.

38. The aggregate amount of any allowance assigned under section 35 or section 36 to any proprietor of a mahál who has been excluded from settlement, and of the difference between the rent fixed under section 37, and the rent which he would be liable to pay if he were a tenant-at-will, shall not be less than five or more than fifteen per cent. on the amount proposed by the Settlement Officer to be assessed on such mahál.

Amount of allowance assigned under section 35 or 36 to excluded proprietor, and of difference between rent fixed under section 37, and rent payable by him if he were a tenant-at-will.

39. On the expiration of the term fixed under section 32 or section 35, the settlement of such mahál portion, or share comprised therein shall be offered by the Deputy Commissioner to the person then entitled to be settled with in respect of such mahál portion or share, at such assessment for the remainder of the term of settlement of the District as the Chief Commissioner may direct.

Offer of settlement to excluded proprietor on expiry of term of exclusion.

And if such person refuse to accept the offer, the Deputy Commissioner shall report such refusal through the Commissioner of the Division to the Chief Commissioner, and such person may be excluded from settlement for such period not exceeding the term of the settlement of the District, as the Chief Commissioner may direct, and the provisions of sections 32 to 38 (both inclusive) shall, so far as may be applicable, apply to his case.

Procedure on refusal.

40. The Settlement Officer shall, in accordance with the provisions of the Oudh Sub-settlement Act, 1866, so far as they are applicable, determine the rent to be paid to the proprietor by all under-proprietors in a mahál and by all holders of heritable, non-transferable leases, whose rent has not been fixed by contract.

Determination of rent payable to proprietor.

When the rent is so determined the co-sharers may at their option agree with the Settlement Officer that the rent shall be paid either by them collectively or by one of them on behalf of himself and the others. Whenever, whether before or after the passing of this Act, rent payable by such under-proprietors or lessees has been determined by a Settlement Officer, all the co-sharers shall be jointly and severally responsible for the payment to the proprietor of the rent so determined.

Nothing in this section applies to rent payable by a tenant with a right of occupancy.

41. All land shall be deemed liable to be charged with the payment of revenue to Government, unless some competent authority has declared it exempt from such payment. And no length of occupancy of any land, nor any grant of land made by the proprietor, shall release such land from such liability.

Saving of liability for Government revenue.

42. The Settlement Officer shall enquire into the case of all lands released, conditionally or for a term, from the payment of revenue, and shall assess such lands if it appear to him that the conditions have been transgressed or the term has expired.

Inquiry into cases of land released from payment of revenue.

43. Every settlement shall be made subject to confirmation by the Governor General in Council.

Confirmation of settlement.

44. The Governor General in Council shall, at some time before confirming the settlement, fix the period for which the settlement is to be made. Such period shall be fixed with reference to the agricultural year.

Period for which settlement is to be made.

45. The assessment of any mahál may be revised at any time before it is confirmed by the Governor General in Council, and in such case the revised assessment shall be proposed to the proprietors of such mahál, and the provisions of sections 23 to 40 (both inclusive) shall apply.

Revision of assessment before confirmation.

Alteration of assessment during the currency of a Settlement.

46. The Deputy Commissioner shall enquire annually into the cases of all land released from the payment of revenue conditionally, or for a term, or for the life of the grantee.

Annual enquiry as to revenue-free grants.

If the condition be broken, he shall report the case through the Commissioner of the Division to the Chief Commissioner for orders, and if the term has expired, or (where the grant is for the life of the grantee) if the grantee has died, the Deputy Commissioner shall assess the land comprised therein, and shall report his proceedings through the Commissioner of the Division to the Chief Commissioner for sanction.

47. All land added by alluvion to a mahál is liable to assessment. Such land may be assessed and settled under rules to be framed under section 208.

Assessment of land added by alluvion.

48. Where such land is held by an under-proprietor or lessee whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, such rent shall be increased proportionately to the increase of revenue effected by such assessment.

Proportionate increase of rent payable by under-proprietor.

49. Where for any cause the revenue assessed on a mahál has, by order of the Chief Commissioner, been reduced or been wholly or in part remitted or suspended, and the land on account of which the revenue has been so reduced, remitted or suspended is in the possession of an under-proprietor or lessee whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, such under-proprietor or lessee shall be entitled (where the revenue has been reduced or remitted) to a proportionate reduction or remission of the rent payable by him in respect of such land, or (where the revenue has been suspended) to a suspension of the payment of such rent for the time during which the revenue has been so suspended.

Proportionate reduction or remission of rent payable by under-proprietor or lessee.

50. Assessments under sections 46 and 47 shall be made by the Deputy Commissioner in the same manner and with the same powers as if he were an officer in charge of a settlement.

Deputy Commissioner to have powers of officer in charge of settlement.

51. At any time during the currency of a settlement, the Chief Commissioner may, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, invest any officer with all or any of the powers of an officer in charge of a settlement under this Act within such limits, and with such restrictions, and for such period as he thinks fit; but not so as to enable him to enhance the total amount of revenue payable on account of mahál except in respect of land added thereto or becoming liable to payment of revenue since the confirmation of the settlement.

Power to invest officer with Settlement Officer's powers.

Resumption of rent-free grants.

52. All grants (whether in writing or otherwise) by proprietors or the persons whom they represent of land to be held exempt from the payment of rent are hereby declared to be liable to resumption, unless such grants have been sanctioned or confirmed by the Governor General in Council or the Chief Commissioner.

Liability of rent-free grants to resumption.

53. Provided that grants of land held under a written instrument (whether executed before or after the passing of this Act) by which the grantor expressly agrees that the grant shall not be resumed, shall be held valid against him (but not as against his representatives after his death) during the continuance of the settlement of the District in which the land is situate which was current at the date of the grant.

Grants under certain instruments.

54. Proprietors wishing to resume grants made by themselves or the persons whom they represent shall apply by petition to the principal Court of original civil jurisdiction of the District in which the land is situate for a declaration of the liability of the grant to resumption.

Application for declaration of such liability.

The Court shall cause notice of such application to be served on the grantee, and shall fix a day for hearing his objections (if any) to the declaration; and thereupon, after considering such objections (if any), may either dismiss the application with or without costs to be paid by the applicant, or declare that the grant is liable, in whole or in part, to resumption.

55. Nothing in section 52, section 53, or section 54 applies to either of the following cases:—

Exemptions from sections 52, 53 and 54.

(a) where land is held rent-free under a judicial decision;

(b) where previously to the passing of this Act, land held rent-free has been acquired for a valuable consideration and the right to resume it has been barred by the law of limitation.

56. The amount of rent payable in respect of land which has been declared by a Civil Court liable to resumption shall, when the district in which the land is situate is under settlement, be determined by the Settlement Officer and in every other case by the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

Rent of land declared liable to resumption.

CHAPTER IV.

REGISTRATION, INCLUDING THE PREPARATION AND MAINTENANCE OF REVENUE RECORDS.

57. The Deputy Commissioner of the District shall, on the basis of the settlement record, and in accordance with such rules as the Chief Commissioner from time to time prescribes in this behalf, prepare the following lists and registers:—

Lists and registers to be prepared by Deputy Commissioner.

(a) A list of all the villages in each pargana or tahsíl of his District;

The pargana register.

(b) A list of all the revenue-paying mahálsin each pargana or tahsíl, shewing the revenue assessed on each mahál, and the name of the person responsible for its payment whether as sole proprietor or as lambardár;

The málguzárí register.

(c) A register of all the co-sharers in each mahál with the nature and extent of the interest of each co-sharer;

The khewat.

(d) A register of all mahálsin which the rent of any under-proprietor or lessee has been fixed by the Settlement Officer, the names of all the co-sharers in such mahálsi, together with the nature and extent of the interest of such co-sharers.

(e) For each mahál a list—

Register of under-proprietary and other tenures.

(1) of all under-proprietors and lessees whose rent has been so fixed, and of all tenants with a right of occupancy, with the nature and extent of the interest of each such person, and the rent (if any) which he is liable to pay therefor,

(2) of all other persons (if any) holding land free of rent, or revenue free.

Register of revenue-free tenures.

(f) A register—

(1) of all land in his District held revenue free, with the names of the holders, and the conditions of the grant under which they hold,

(2) of all land declared by competent authority to be waqf or nazul, or the property of the State.

(g) A register of all mahálson which a málikána allowance has been sanctioned by competent authority, with the names of the persons entitled to such allowance, the amount of such allowance, and the conditions under which it was given.

The málikána register.

(h) A register of all jungle-grants, the names of the grantees, and the conditions of the grants.

Register of jungle-grants.

58. In the preparation of the said lists and registers, the Deputy Commissioner shall correct any errors in the settlement records which the parties interested admit to have been made therein; and any dispute arising regarding any entry in such record shall be investigated and decided on the basis of actual possession; and all persons not in possession, but claiming the right to be so, shall be referred to a Court of competent jurisdiction, except where the claim is founded on the decision of such Court, and in such case the entry shall be in accordance with such decision.

Correction of errors in settlement record.

59. The Deputy Commissioner shall keep and maintain the said lists and registers,

Deputy Commissioner to keep the lists and registers.

and he shall from time to time cause to be registered all events and transactions affecting any of the rights or interests recorded in the said registers, to such extent as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time prescribe.

60. The Chief Commissioner shall prescribe the forms in which the lists and registers mentioned in section 57 are to be prepared, and the manner in which, the persons by whom, and the occasions on which, the alterations referred to in section 58 and section 59 are to be recorded.

Forms of lists and registers.

61. The Chief Commissioner may prescribe proper fees for alteration in the lists and registers formed under the said rules: Provided that no fee for a single alteration shall exceed one hundred rupees.

Power to prescribe fees for mutations.

Such fee shall be levied from the person in whose favour the mutation is made, and shall be expended in such manner as the Chief Commissioner thinks fit.

Levy of fees.

Fees how spent.

62. All persons obtaining the possession of land or the profits thereof, whether by succession, purchase or other form of transfer, as proprietors or under-proprietors, or as lessees whose rents have been fixed by a Settlement Officer, or as mortgagees, shall give notice of the same immediately after it has taken place to the tahsíldár of the tahsíl in which the mahál to which such land belongs is situated, or to the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

Notice of transfer of possession.

If the notification be made to the tahsíldár, that officer shall report such notice to the Deputy Commissioner.

63. The Deputy Commissioner on receiving such notice or report shall make such enquiry as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time prescribe to ascertain the fact of the alleged transfer of the property, and if the transfer appears to have taken place, he shall, subject to the rules framed by the Chief Commissioner under section 208, record the same in the appropriate register:

Enquiry as to truth of transfer.

Provided that no such entry shall be held to affect the rights of any other person who may claim and establish in any Court of competent jurisdiction any interest in the land to which the entry has reference.

64. If the person so succeeding is a minor or otherwise under disability, the guardian or other person who has charge of his property shall give the notice required by section 62.

Notification in case of minority or other disqualification.

65. Any person neglecting to give the notice prescribed in section 62 within three months from the date of the occurrence of the fact to be notified, shall be liable, at the discretion of the Deputy Commissioner, to a fine not exceeding five times the amount of the fee which would otherwise have been payable under section 61.

Time for neglect to notify.

66. If in the course of enquiry made under section 63, a dispute regarding the possession of the property arises, and the Deputy Commissioner is unable to satisfy himself as to which party is in possession, he shall ascertain by summary enquiry who is the person primâ facie entitled to the property and shall put such person in possession, and make the necessary entry in the record accordingly, subject to any order that may be subsequently passed by the Civil Court.

Power to put one party possession in certain cases of dispute.

67. When any person obtains possession of land or of the profits thereof, for any interest other than those referred to in section 62, the transfer of such possession shall be recorded by the Kánúngo and patwárí in such manner as the Chief Commissioner from time to time directs;

Registry of transfers of interests in land other than those referred to in section 62.

and all disputed cases shall be reported to the Deputy Commissioner or Assistant Commissioner, who shall make such enquiry as may be necessary to ascertain the fact of the alleged transfer, and cause the record to be amended accordingly.

Enquiry in disputed cases.

68. All registers prepared under the preceding sections of this chapter shall be deemed to be public documents and the property of Government, and shall be open to public inspection at such hours and on such conditions as to fees or otherwise as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time prescribe.

Inspection of registers.

CHAPTER V.

PARTITION AND UNION OF MAHALS.

69. Partition is either perfect or imperfect.

Partitions.

'Perfect partition' means the division of a mahál into two or more mahálsi, severally responsible for the revenue assessed on each.

'Perfect partition.'

'Imperfect partition' means the division of any mahál, or of any portion of a mahál, into two or more portions jointly responsible for the revenue assessed on the whole mahál.

'Imperfect partition.'

70. Any recorded co-sharer in a mahál and any person, in whose favour a decree has been passed by any Civil Court, awarding to him the proprietary right in a portion of a mahál, whether such portion consists of a fractional share in the whole or a part of the mahál, or of specific lands, is entitled to claim perfect partition of his share.

Persons entitled to perfect partition.

Any two or more recorded co-sharers may claim that their shares be divided from the other shares by a perfect partition, and be held by them as a single mahál.

If any recorded co-sharer be under disability, the person in possession of his property shall, for the purpose of this section, be deemed to be a recorded co-sharer.

71. Applications for perfect partition are to be made in writing to the Deputy Commissioner of the district in which the mahál is situated; and shall be accompanied by a certified copy of the record, showing the share held by the applicant in the mahál:

Application for perfect partition.

Provided that, if the mahál be situated in two or more districts, the application may be made in any one of those districts, and the partition shall be made by such one of the Deputy Commissioners of those districts as the Chief Commissioner may direct.

Provision as to estates situated in more than one district.

72. The Deputy Commissioner, on receiving an application for partition shall, if the application be in order and not open to objection on the face of it, publish a notification of the same at his office, and at some conspicuous place in the mahál to which the application relates, and shall serve a notice on all such of the recorded co-sharers in the mahál as have not joined in the application, requiring any co-sharer in possession who may object to the partition to appear before him to state his objection, either in person or by a duly authorized agent, on a day to be specified in the notice, not less that thirty, or more than sixty, days from the date on which such notice was issued.

Notification of application.

Notice to co-sharers not joining.

73. Where, from any cause, notice cannot be personally served on any co-sharer, the notification so published shall be deemed sufficient notice.

Notification when alone sufficient.

74. If, on or before the day so specified, any objection is made to the partition by any co-sharer in possession, and the Deputy Commissioner, on a consideration of such objection, is of opinion that there is any good and sufficient reason why the partition should be absolutely disallowed, he may refuse the application, recording the grounds of his refusal.

Power to refuse partition when objection admitted.

75. If the objection raises any question of title, or of proprietary right, which has not been already determined by a Court of competent jurisdiction, the Deputy Commissioner may either decline to grant the application until the question in dispute has been determined by a competent Court, or he may proceed to enquire into the merits of the objection.

Procedure if question of title be raised.

In the latter case the Deputy Commissioner after making the necessary inquiry and taking such evidence as may be adduced, shall record a proceeding declaring the nature and extent of the interests of the party or parties applying for the partition, and any other party or parties who may be affected thereby.

The procedure to be observed by the Deputy Commissioner in trying such cases shall be that laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure for the trial of original suits, and he may, with the consent of the parties, refer any question arising in such case to arbitration, and the provisions of chapter VI (relative to arbitrators) of the same Code shall apply to such references.

Procedure in such cases.

Reference to arbitration.

76. All orders and decisions passed by the Deputy Commissioner under the last preceding section, for declaring the rights of parties, shall be held to be decisions of a Court of civil judicature of first instance, and shall be open to appeal under the provisions of the Oudh Civil Courts Act.

Deputy Commissioner's decision equivalent to decision of Civil Court.

Appeal thereupon.

Upon such appeal being made, the appellate Court may issue a precept to the Deputy Commissioner, desiring him to stay the partition, pending the decision of the appeal.

Appellate Court may stay partition.

77. When it has been decided to make a partition under this chapter, the Deputy Commissioner shall either give the parties the option of making the partition themselves, or of appointing arbitrators for the purpose; or he shall make the partition himself or cause it to be made by any Assistant Commissioner subordinate to him, and when made by an Assistant Commissioner, it shall be reported to the Deputy Commissioner for his confirmation.

Option to make partition themselves or to appoint arbitrators.

78. If arbitrators are appointed, the provisions of sections 192 to 203, both inclusive, shall apply.

Partition by arbitrators.

In making a partition, arbitrators shall not be bound by the provisions of sections 81 to 84 both inclusive; but they shall deliver a full and complete paper of partition, specifying the separate maháls into which they propose that the mahál shall be divided; the names of the parties to whom the several maháls are proposed to be allotted, and the amount of land revenue which in the opinion of the arbitrators should be assessed on each of such maháls.

79. In making partitions, the Deputy Commissioner, and any person appointed by him, shall have the same powers to enter on the land under partition, for marking out the boundaries, surveying the mahál, and other purposes, as are conferred on Settlement Officers under this Act.

Power to enter on land for purposes of partition.

80. When a Deputy Commissioner has decided that a partition shall be made, he may, with the sanction of the Commissioner, hold the mahál under direct management, pending the completion of the partition.

Power to hold mahál under direct management, pending partition.

The provisions of the law in force for the time being, for the management of maháls held under direct management for arrears of revenue shall be applicable to maháls, the management of which is assumed under this section.

The collections of the mahál shall be applied to the payment of the Government revenue, and, after defraying the expenses of management and any other expenses with which the mahál is chargeable, the residue shall be divided amongst the recorded co-sharers in proportion to their respective shares at such periods as the Deputy Commissioner may see fit.

81. Where there are no lands held in common, the lands held in severalty by the applicant for partition shall be declared a separate mahál, and shall be separately assessed to the Government revenue.

Partition of lands held only in severalty.

82. Where some of the lands are held in common, the Deputy Commissioner shall allot to the applicant for partition his share of such lands in accordance with village custom, if any such exist.

Partition of lands some of which are held in common.

If no such custom exist, the Deputy Commissioner shall make such division as may secure to the applicant his fair portion of the common lands.

83. The portion of the common lands falling by such partition to the share of the applicant shall be added to the land held by him in severalty, and the maháls thus formed shall be assessed and declared separate maháls.

Formation of separate mahálas from shares allotted in partition.

84. In making partitions under this Act, the Deputy Commissioner shall give effect to any transfer of lands held in severalty and forming part of the mahál, which has been agreed to by the parties, previous to the declaration of the partition.

Transfers to be effectuated in making partition.

85. Where all the lands are held in common, the Deputy Commissioner shall make such a partition as may secure to the applicant his fair share of the mahál.

Partition where all lands are held in common.

86. In all cases each mahál shall be made as compact as possible: Provided that, except with the sanction of the Chief Commissioner, no partition be disallowed solely on the ground of incompactness.

Estate to be compact.

87. If in making the partition it be necessary to include in the mahál assigned to one sharer, the land occupied by a dwelling-house or other building in the possession of another co-sharer, such other co-sharer shall be allowed to retain it, with the buildings thereon (if any) on condition of his paying a reasonable ground-rent therefor to the sharer into whose portion it may fall.

Rule when dwelling-house of one sharer is included in mahál assigned to another.

The limits of such land, and the rent to be paid for it, shall be fixed by the Deputy Commissioner.

88. Tanks, wells, water-courses and embankments shall be considered as attached to the land for the benefit of which they were originally made.

Rule as to tanks, wells, water-courses and embankments.

Where, from the extent, situation or construction of such works, it is found necessary that they should continue the joint property of the proprietors of two or more of the maháls into which the mahál may be divided, the Deputy Commissioner shall determine the extent to which the proprietors of each mahál may make use of the said works, and the proportion of the charges for repairs of such works to be borne by such proprietors respectively, and the manner in which the profits, if any, derived from such works, shall be divided.

89. Places of worship and burial-grounds, held in common previous to the partition of a mahál, shall continue to be so held, unless the persons who so held them otherwise agree among themselves.

Rules as to places of worship and burial-grounds.

In such cases they shall state in writing the agreement into which they have entered, and such writing shall be filed with the record.

90. In all cases whether partition has been made by arbitrators or otherwise, the amount of revenue to be paid in respect of each portion of a mahál partitioned under this chapter shall be determined by the Deputy Commissioner, provided that the aggregate revenue payable in respect of the new maháls shall not exceed the revenue assessed on the mahál immediately before partition; and the proprietor of each new mahál shall be held liable for the portion of the revenue assessed on his mahál, whether a new engagement be taken from him or not.

Determination of revenue payable by each division of a mahál.

Liability of proprietors.

91. If at any stage of any proceedings under this chapter there appears to be any reason for stopping the partition, the Deputy Commissioner may of his own motion, or on the report of the Assistant Commissioner making the partition, stay the partition and order the proceedings to be quashed.

Power to stay partition.

92. A partition, whether made by the Deputy Commissioner himself or otherwise, shall not be deemed to be complete unless the Deputy Commissioner has made an order confirming it.

Order confirming partition.

On making such order, he shall publish a notification of the fact at his office and at some conspicuous place in each of the new maháls,

Notification of order.

and the partition shall take effect on and from the first day of July next after the date of such notification.

Partition when to take effect.

93. An appeal against the decision of the Deputy Commissioner confirming a partition, shall lie to the Commissioner of the division within one year from the date on which such partition takes effect.

Appeal to Commissioner from orders of Deputy Commissioner.

94. Where the land-revenue is fraudulently or erroneously distributed at the time of the partition, the Chief Commissioner may, within twelve years from the time of discovery of the fraud or error, order a new allotment of the land-revenue upon the several maháls into which the mahál has been divided, on an estimate of the assets of each mahál at the time of the partition, to be made conformably to the best evidence and information procurable respecting the same.

Power to order new allotment of revenue on proof of fraud or error in first distribution.

95. Imperfect partition shall be carried out according to the provisions of sections 70 to 93 (both inclusive) so far as they are applicable: Provided that no application for imperfect partition shall be entertained unless the consent of recorded co-sharers holding in the aggregate more than one moiety of the property of which partition is sought be first obtained.

Making of imperfect partitions.

96. No Civil Court shall entertain any suit or application for perfect or imperfect partition.

Civil Courts barred from entertaining applications for partitions.

97. All imperfect partitions and all partitions perfect or imperfect of under-proprietary maháls hitherto made, shall be deemed to have been made under the provisions of this Act.

Previous imperfect partitions and partitions of under-proprietary maháls.

98. If two or more revenue-paying mahâls have originally formed portions of the same village, the proprietor shall be entitled to have such mahâls united and to hold them as a single mahâl.

Union of mahâls originally part of same village.

99. Every application for the union of such mahâls shall be made in writing to the Deputy Commissioner of the district in which the mahâls are situate.

Application for such union.

If the Deputy Commissioner see no objection, he shall comply with the application, and cause the necessary entries to be made in the register of his office, reporting the case to the Commissioner of the division.

Application how dealt with.

100. The provisions of this chapter, so far as they are applicable, may be applied by order of the Deputy Commissioner to the partition or union of mahâls held free of revenue.

Partition or union of revenue-free mahâls.

101. The partition of taluqdârî and under-proprietary mahâls and of mahâls held by lessees whose rent has been fixed by the Settlement Officer, shall be carried out accordingly to the provisions of sections 70 to 94 (both inclusive), so far as they are applicable.

Partition of taluqdârî and under-proprietary mahâls.

(a) In the partition of taluqdârî mahâls, all mahâls, whether under-proprietary or held by lessees whose rent has been fixed by the Settlement Officer shall, if practicable, be assigned to one or other of the new taluqâs to be formed by the partition;

Assignment of inferior mahâls.

(b) if any such mahâl cannot be assigned in whole, the assignment shall be made by thoks, pattîs or other existent sub-divisions;

(c) and if no other satisfactory arrangement can be made, such mahâl shall be partitioned;

(d) in cases in which one portion of any such mahâl is assigned to one taluqâ and another portion to another taluqâ, each portion shall be deemed a separate mahâl, the joint responsibility of the co-sharers being limited to such portion.

102. Whenever a partition of a mahâl in respect of which rent is payable is effected under this Act, the amount of rent to be paid in respect of each portion shall be determined by the Deputy Commissioner, and the person to whom such rent is payable may present an application in writing to the Deputy Commissioner objecting to the distribution of the rental over the several parts into which the mahâl has been divided, and praying that such objection may be heard and determined; and his objection shall be heard and determined, and the Deputy Commissioner shall record his reasons for such determination.

Objection to distribution of rental.

CHAPTER VI.

MAINTENANCE OF BOUNDARIES.

103. The Deputy Commissioner and his subordinates shall have power to enter upon and survey land, and to demarcate the boundaries of mahâls, villages and fields.

Power of Deputy Commissioner to enter and survey.

104. All owners of mahâls, villages or fields, are bound to maintain and keep in repair at their own cost the boundary-marks lawfully erected thereon.

Obligations of owners as to boundary-marks.

105. Any person convicted before a Deputy Commissioner of wilfully erasing, removing or damaging any such boundary-mark, may be ordered by the convicting officer to pay such sum not exceeding fifty rupees for each mark so erased, removed or damaged, as may be necessary to defray the expense of restoring such mark, and of rewarding the informer (if any) through whom the conviction was obtained.

Payment for erasing, removing or injuring marks.

106. Whenever the person erasing, removing or damaging any such mark cannot be discovered, or if for any other reason the sum which he has been so ordered to pay cannot be recovered, the mark shall be re-erected or repaired at the charge of the owner or owners of such one or more of the conterminous field or mahâls as to the Deputy Commissioner seems fit.

Who is to be charged for re-erection and repair when offenders not discoverable.

107. The Deputy Commissioner may decide, on the basis of possession, all disputes concerning boundaries, and may at any time direct the owners of mahâls villages or fields, by written notice served upon them,

Powers of Deputy Commissioner as to boundary disputes and boundary-marks.

(a) to cause proper boundary-marks to be erected in such mahâls, villages or fields,

(b) to repair the boundary-marks lawfully erected in such mahâls, villages or fields.

108. In default of compliance with such direction within fifteen days from the date of the service of the notice, the Deputy Commissioner shall cause such boundary-marks to be erected or repaired, as the case may be, and shall charge the cost of such erections or repairs to the owners of the conterminous mahâls, villages or fields in such proportion as he thinks fit.

Power to erect or repair boundary-marks.

CHAPTER VII.

COLLECTION OF THE LAND-REVENUE.

109. In the case of every mahâl the entire mahâl shall be charged with, and all the proprietors jointly and severally shall be responsible to Government for the revenue for the time being assessed on the mahâl.

Responsibility of proprietors of mahâl for land-revenue.

The term "proprietors" shall, for the purposes of this chapter, include all persons in possession for their own benefit.

110. The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, make rules as to the instalments in which, and the persons, places and times to whom, and at which, the revenue payable in respect of any land shall be paid.

Chief Commissioner may make rules as to payment of revenue.

111. Until the issue of such rules the said revenue shall be paid in the instalments, to the persons, and at the times and places in which, to whom, and at which, it is now paid.

Payment until issue of rules.

112. Any sum not so paid becomes thereupon an arrear of revenue, and the proprietor responsible for it becomes a defaulter.

Effect of non-payment.

No interest shall be demanded on any arrear of land-revenue.

113. If the settlement of any land has been made with a lambardár, and if there be an arrear of revenue due in respect of such land, both the lambardár and the co-sharers of the mahâl from which the arrear is due shall be deemed defaulters.

Defaulters in case of settlements with lambardárs.

114. A statement of account certified by the tahsîldar shall, for the purposes of this chapter, be conclusive evidence of the existence of the arrear, of its amount, and of the person who is the defaulter.

Evidence of arrear.

115. When an arrear of land-revenue has accrued, a writ of demand or summons to appear may issue, calling on the defaulter to pay the amount within a time therein stated.

Writ of demand.

116. At any time after an arrear of land-revenue becomes due, such officer as the Chief Commissioner from time to time empowers in this behalf, may arrest the defaulter and detain him in custody for fifteen days, unless the arrear, together with the costs of arrest, is sooner paid.

Arrest and detention of defaulter.

117. If the arrear be not paid within fifteen days, and no good reason for the non-payment is shown, the Deputy Commissioner may issue an order to the jailor of the civil jail of the district, directing him to confine the defaulter therein as a civil prisoner until the arrear is paid, or until the expiration of such period, not exceeding six months from the date of the order, as the Deputy Commissioner thinks fit; and such person shall be confined according to the terms of such order:

Imprisonment in civil jail.

Provided that no person exempted under the law for the time being in force from personal attendance in the Civil Courts, no taluqdár and no female, shall be subject to arrest or imprisonment under this and the preceding section.

118. The Deputy Commissioner may, whether the defaulter has been arrested and imprisoned or not, order the attachment and sale of so much of his moveable property as will, as nearly as may be, defray the arrear.

Attachment and sale of moveables.

Nothing herein contained shall authorize the attachment and sale of articles set aside exclusively for the use of religious endowments: or, in the case of an agriculturist, of instruments of husbandry and of cattle bond fide kept for the cultivation of his land, or in the case of an artisan, of his tools, nor of any other articles exempted by the law for the time being in force from sale in execution of decrees of Civil Courts.

119. Every attachment and sale ordered under the preceding section shall be conducted according to the law in force for the time being, for the attachment and sale of moveable property under the orders of a Civil Court.

Conduct of sale.

120. When an arrear of land-revenue has become due in respect of a share, pattî or mahâl, the Deputy Commissioner may in addition to, or instead of, the processes hereinbefore specified, cause such share, pattî or mahâl to be attached and taken under the direct management of any agent whom he appoints for that purpose.

Property may be attached and taken under direct management.

The agent so appointed shall stand, for the purpose of managing the property so attached, in the position of the person for whose default it was attached;

Powers and obligations of agent.

and shall be bound by all the liabilities of such person to any under-proprietors, lessees whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, or tenants with rights of occupancy;

and shall be entitled to manage such property and to receive all rents and profits accruing thereon to the exclusion of the person for whose default it was attached, until the arrears of land-revenue due therefrom have been satisfied, or until the Deputy Commissioner directs him to restore the person whose interest has been attached to the management thereof.

121. All surplus profits of the property so attached after defraying thereout any instalment of land-revenue that may become due during such management, and the cost of such attachment and direct management, shall be applied to discharging the arrear of revenue on account of which it was ordered.

Application of surplus profits.

And no such management shall continue after such arrear has been discharged as aforesaid, and any surplus remaining after payment of the charges mentioned in the first clause of this section shall be handed over to the proprietor.

Termination of management.

122. If an arrear of land-revenue has become due in respect of the share of any member of a village community, such community, or any member thereof, may tender payment of such arrear, or may offer to pay such arrear by instalments.

Transfer of share of defaulter to solvent co-sharers.

If such tender be made, or if the Deputy Commissioner considers such offer satisfactory, the Deputy Commissioner may transfer the share of the defaulting member to the community or member making the tender or offer on such terms as the Deputy Commissioner thinks fit, and either for a term of years, or until such arrear is paid.

In case of conflicting tenders or offers under this section, the co-sharer who, in case the share were sold, would have a right of pre-emption under section 9 of the Oudh Laws Act, shall be preferred.

123. If such share is so transferred until the arrear is repaid, and if the arrear is not repaid within twelve years from the date of the transfer, the community or member to whom the share has been so transferred may apply in writing to the Deputy Commissioner to publish a notification that, if the arrear is not paid within one year from the date thereof, such transfer will become absolute.

When transfer of share is to become absolute.

The Deputy Commissioner shall publish such notification accordingly, and if the arrear is not repaid before the expiration of one year from the date of the notification, the transfer to such community or member shall become absolute.

Procedure not to affect joint liability of co-sharers.

124. The procedure prescribed in the two preceding sections shall not affect the joint liability of the co-sharers of the mahál.

When settlement may be annulled.

125. When any arrear of land-revenue has become due in respect of any pattí or mahál, and the Deputy Commissioner is of opinion that the processes hereinbefore provided are not sufficient for the recovery of such arrear, he may, in addition to, or instead of, any such process, report, through the Commissioner of the division, the matter to the Chief Commissioner, and the Chief Commissioner may thereupon order the existing settlement of such pattí or mahál to be annulled.

Exception of certain arrears.

The provisions of this section shall not be put in force for the recovery of any arrear of land-revenue which may have accrued on land,

(a) while attached under section 120, or

(b) while in charge of the Court of Wards.

When settlement has been annulled, the Deputy Commissioner may manage the land himself, or by agent, or let it in farm.

126. When the settlement of any pattí or mahál has been annulled under the last preceding section, the Deputy Commissioner may, with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner, either manage the land by himself or an agent, or let it in farm to any person willing to accept the same, for such term and on such conditions as may be approved by the Chief Commissioner :

Provided that the term for which a pattí or mahál may be so managed or let be not longer than fifteen years from the first day of July next after the date of such annulment.

Suspension of contracts.

And no interest in or right to such pattí or mahál, or any part thereof, created or assigned by any person who, immediately before the annulment of the settlement, was in possession of the whole or any part of the land comprised therein, or by any person through whom he claims, shall, during the continuance of such term, be binding on the Deputy Commissioner or his agent or lessee.

Proclamation of attachment or annulment of settlement.

127. When the Deputy Commissioner attaches any land under section 120, or when the settlement of any land has been annulled under section 125, he shall make public proclamation thereof on the mahál.

And he may realize all arrears of rent becoming due in respect of such land by under-proprietors or by lessees whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, as if they were arrears of land-revenue.

Payments thereafter to defaulter not to discharge payer.

128. No payment made after such proclamation on account of rent or other profit of the land so attached, or of which the settlement has been so annulled to any person other than the Deputy Commissioner or his agent or lessee, shall be credited to the person making such payment, or relieve him from liability to payment to the Deputy Commissioner, his agent or lessee.

Payments to defaulter in anticipation of due date.

129. No payment made to the defaulter in anticipation of the usual period for the payment of rents, shall, without the special sanction of the Deputy Commissioner, be credited to the person making the same in account with the Deputy Commissioner, or with his agent or lessee.

Recovery of balance due by farmer.

130. When any land has been let in farm under section 126 any balance due by the lessee as such may be recovered from him or his surety (if any) as if it were an arrear of revenue.

Suspension of responsibility of co-sharers for revenue of portion of mahál as to which settlement is annulled.

131. Whenever the settlement of any portion of a mahál is annulled under section 125, the joint responsibility of the co-sharers of the mahál for the revenue of such portion subsequently becoming due, shall be in abeyance until a new settlement of such portion is made under section 132.

Offer of settlement to proprietor on expiry of period for which land is managed or farmed.

132. After the expiration of the period for which any land has been managed or let in farm under section 126, the Deputy Commissioner shall offer to the person entitled to be settled with under section 26 a new settlement, on such conditions as the Chief Commissioner may direct, for the remainder of the term of the settlement of the district; and if such person refuse such offer, the Deputy Commissioner may (with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner) either manage the land by himself or an agent, or let the same in farm, under the provisions of sections 30 to 38, both inclusive.

Power to sell land to recover revenue-arrears.

133. When an arrear of land-revenue has become due in respect of any pattí or mahál, and the Deputy Commissioner of the district is of opinion that the other processes hereinbefore provided are not sufficient for the recovery of such arrear, he may, in addition to, or instead of all or any such other processes, and subject to the provisions next hereinafter contained, and with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner, sell by auction the pattí or mahál in respect of which such arrear is due :

Provided that no pattí or mahál shall be sold—

(a) for any arrears of land-revenue which may have become due in respect thereof while it was under the management of the Court of Wards, or held under the provisions of the Oudh Taluqdárs' Relief Act, or when the proprietor or under-proprietor thereof was, at the time the arrear accrued, a female deemed by the Chief Commissioner incompetent to manage her estate, a minor, an idiot, or a lunatic ;

(b) for any arrears of land-revenue which may have become due while it was under attachment under section 120 ; or

(c) for any arrears of land-revenue which may have become due while it was under direct management by the Deputy Commissioner, or in farm by any other person under sections 32, 35, 126, or 132.

Land to be sold free of incumbrances.

134. Land sold under the last preceding section shall be sold free of all incumbrances,

Grants and contracts void against purchaser.

and all grants and contracts previously made by any person other than the purchaser in respect of such land shall become void as against the purchaser at the auction-sale.

Exceptions.

Nothing in the former part of this section applies to leases of lands at fair rents, for the erection of dwelling-houses or manufactories, or for mines, gardens, tanks, canals, places of worship or burying grounds.

Power to direct sale to be made subject to incumbrances.

135. The Chief Commissioner may, notwithstanding anything contained in section 134, at any time before a sale of land for arrears of revenue has been actually made, direct it to be made subject to such of the interests in or rights to such land created by the proprietor in possession thereof, or any person through whom he claims, as the Chief Commissioner thinks fit.

Power to cancel restricted sale and re-sell under section 134.

When the proceeds of a sale so made are not equal to the arrears due at the time of sale, the Chief Commissioner may, at any time before the Commissioner of the Division has confirmed the sale, direct it to be cancelled and a new sale of the land to be made under section 134.

Power to proceed against defaulter's other immoveable property.

136. If the arrear cannot be recovered by any of the above processes, and the defaulter is in possession of any other immoveable property, the Deputy Commissioner may proceed against such other property, as if it were the land on account of which the revenue is due under the provisions of this Act :

Provided that no interest save those of the defaulter alone, shall be so proceeded against, and no incumbrances created or contracts entered into by him in good faith shall be rendered invalid by such proceeding.

Procedure in effecting sale.

137. On the receipt of the sanction of the Chief Commissioner to the sale of any land, the Deputy Commissioner of the district shall issue a proclamation, in the vernacular language of the district, of the intended sale, specifying the time and place of sale, and (when the land to be sold is a mahál or part of a mahál paying revenue to Government) the revenue assessed upon it, together with any other particulars he may think necessary.

Contents of proclamation.

138. When the land is sold for arrears of revenue due in respect thereof, the proclamation shall declare that the land is to be sold free of every incumbrance except the leases mentioned in section 134, and except the interests and rights, if any, referred to in the first paragraph of section 135.

The particulars of such leases, interests and rights shall be given in the proclamation.

Such proclamation shall be made at the headquarters of the tahsíl in which the land is situate, and also in the village of which it is a part.

Notification of sale.

139. A written notice of the intended sale and of the time and place thereof shall be affixed in the office of the Deputy Commissioner of the district, and where the Assistant Commissioner in charge of the sub-division in which the land is situate has a separate office, then also in such office, and a copy of such notice shall be served on the defaulter.

Sale by whom to be made.

140. Every sale under this chapter shall be made either by the Deputy Commissioner of the district in person or by an Assistant Commissioner specially appointed by him in this behalf.

Time when sale may be made.

No such sale shall take place on a Sunday or other authorized holiday, or until after the expiration of at least thirty days from the date on which the said notice thereof has been affixed in the office of the Deputy Commissioner of the district, and proclamation of the sale has been made in the village in which the land is situate.

The Deputy Commissioner of the district may, from time to time, postpone the sale, reporting such postponement to the Commissioner of the division.

When sale may be stayed.

141. If the defaulter pay the arrear of revenue in respect of which the land is to be sold at any time before the day fixed for the sale, to the person appointed by Government under section 110, to receive payment of the revenue assessed on such land, or to the Deputy Commissioner of the district, or the Assistant Commmissioner in charge of the sub-division of the district, the sale shall be stayed.

Deposit by purchaser.

142. The person declared to be the purchaser shall be required to deposit immediately twenty-five per cent. on the amount of his bid, and in default of such deposit the land shall forthwith be again put up and sold.

Re-sale in default of deposit.

Purchase-money when to be paid.

143. The full amount of purchase-money shall be paid by the purchaser before sunset of the fifteenth day from that on which the sale of the land took place, or, if the said fifteenth day be a Sunday or other authorized holiday, then on the first office day after such fifteenth day ;

Resale in case of default.

and in default of payment within such period, the deposit, after defraying thereout the expenses of the sale, shall be forfeited to Government, and the property shall be re-sold, and the defaulting purchaser shall forfeit all claim to the property, or to any part of the sum for which it may be subsequently sold.

Liability of purchaser for loss by re-sale.

144. If the proceeds of the sale which is eventually made be less than the price bid by such defaulting purchaser, the difference shall be leviable from him under the rules contained in the Code of Civil Procedure for the execution of a decree for money.

Notification before re-sale.

145. No re-sale under section 143 in default of payment of the purchase-money shall be made unless and until a fresh notice has been issued in the manner prescribed for the original sale.

146. At any time within thirty days from the date of the sale, application in writing may be made to the Commissioner of the Division to set aside the sale on the ground of some material irregularity or mistake in publishing or conducting it.

Application to set aside sale.

147. No sale shall be set aside on such ground unless the applicant proves to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that he has sustained substantial injury by reason of the irregularity or mistake complained of.

When sale may be set aside.

148. After the expiration of the said thirty days, if no such application as is mentioned in section 146, has been made, or if such application has been made and rejected, the Commissioner of the Division shall make an order confirming the sale;

Order confirming or setting aside.

and if such application be made and allowed the Commissioner shall make an order setting aside the sale.

Every order made under this section shall be final.

149. If no such application be made within the time allowed by section 146, all claims founded on the irregularity or mistake complained of shall, as against the Government, be barred.

Bar of claims against Government.

Nothing herein contained shall preclude the institution of a suit in a Civil Court for the purpose of setting aside a sale on the ground of fraud.

150. Whenever the sale of any land is set aside, the purchaser shall be entitled to receive back his purchase-money, with or without interest, at such rate not exceeding six per cent. per annum, as the Commissioner of the Division thinks fit.

Refund of purchase-money when sale set aside.

151. After a sale of land in respect of which an arrear of revenue is due has been confirmed in manner aforesaid, the Deputy Commissioner of the District shall, unless the purchase has been made subject to a right of some other person to possession, put the person declared to be the purchaser into possession of the land, and shall grant him a certificate, to the effect that he has purchased the land to which the certificate refers, and such certificate shall be deemed to be a valid transfer of such land, but need not be stamped or registered as a conveyance.

On confirmation of sale, purchaser to be put in possession.

If the land has been sold on account of an arrear of revenue due in respect thereof, the certificate shall also either state that the purchaser has purchased the land to which the certificate refers free of every incumbrance other than the leases mentioned in section 134, or shall specify the incumbrances subject to which the land has been sold.

152. The certificate shall state the name of the person declared at the time of sale to be the actual purchaser; and any suit brought in a Civil Court against the certified purchaser on the ground that the purchase was made on behalf of another person not the certified purchaser, though by agreement the name of the certified purchaser was used, shall be dismissed with costs.

Bar of suit against certified purchaser.

153. When a sale of land has been confirmed under section 148, the proceeds of the sale shall be applied in the first place to defraying the expenses of sale and to the payment of any arrears due in respect of such land at the date of the confirmation of such sale and recoverable as an arrear of land-revenue, and the surplus (if any) shall be paid to the person whose land has been sold;

Application of proceeds of sale.

or, if the land sold were held in shares, then to the co-sharers collectively, or according to the amount of their recorded interests, at the discretion of the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

154. Such surplus shall not (except under an order of a Civil Court) be payable to any creditor of the person whose land has been sold, nor shall it (except under a like order) be retained in the Government treasury.

Surplus not to be paid to creditors, nor retained by Government except under order of Court.

155. The person named in the certificate of title as purchaser of any land shall be liable for all instalments of land-revenue becoming due in respect of such land subsequently to the date of the confirmation of the sale.

Liability of purchaser for revenue.

156. Where any land sold under section 133 is a pattí of a mahál, any recorded co-sharer, not being himself in arrear with regard to the revenue due in respect of such land, may, if the lot has been knocked down to a stranger, claim to take the said land at the sum last bid:

Pre-emption by co-sharers when land sold is a pattí of a mahál.

Provided that such claim be made on the day of sale, and before the officer conducting the sale has left the office for the day, and provided that the claimant fulfil all the other condtions of the sale.

157. Whenever proceedings are taken under this chapter against any person for the recovery of any arrear of revenue, he may pay the amount claimed under protest to the officer taking such proceedings,

Payment under protest and suit for recovery.

and upon such payment the proceedings shall be stayed,

and (subject to the pecuniary limitations prescribed by law) the person against whom such proceedings were taken may sue the Government for the amount so paid in any Civil Court situate in the district where such proceedings were taken;

and in such suit, the plaintiff may, notwithstanding section 114, give evidence of the amount which he alleges to be due from him.

158. Any proprietor or under-proprietor of a mahál or portion of a mahál that is attached, transferred, held under direct management, farmed or sold under the provisions of this Act, who may, at the date of the order of such attachment, transfer, direct management, farm or sale, hold any land within such mahál or portion of a mahál in his cultivating occupancy, shall be deemed to be a tenant with a right of occupancy in respect of so much of such land as the Deputy Commissioner may determine, and the rent to be paid by him for such land shall be fixed by the Deputy Commissioner under the provisions of the Oudh Rent Act.

159. Whenever a mahál or pattí is held in sub-settlement, or under a heritable, nontransferable lease, the rent payable under which has been fixed by the Settlement Officer, and the rent of such mahál or pattí falls into arrear, the proprietor may, instead of suing the defaulter under Act No. XIX of 1868, apply in writing to the Deputy Commissioner requesting him to realize such arrear.

Assistance to recover rent of mahál held in sub-settlement.

The Deputy Commissioner shall, on receipt of such application, satisfy himself as to the existence of such arrear, and shall then, subject to such rules as may from time to time be made in this behalf by the Chief Commissioner, proceed to recover such arrear as if it was an arrear of revenue.

160. If the term for which any settlement has been made expires before a new settlement is made, all persons with whom a settlement has been made, who continue after the expiration of such term to occupy the land comprised in the expired settlement shall, until a new settlement is made, hold the said land upon the conditions of the expired settlement.

Tenure of land under expired settlement until new settlement is made.

161. The provisions of this Act with regard to the recovery of arrears of revenue shall apply to all arrears of land-revenue and sums of money recoverable as arrears of land-revenue and due when this Act comes into force.

Provisions applied to arrears due at commencement of Act.

CHAPTER VIII.

COURTS OF WARDS.

162. Deputy Commissioners shall, subject to the control of the Commissioner of the Division and of the Chief Commissioner, have the power of a Court of Wards within their respective districts for the superintendence of the persons and property of all persons who may become entitled as proprietors or under-proprietors, or lessees whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, to any beneficial interest in a mahál or portion of a mahál assessed to the payment of land-revenue or held free of revenue, and who are either disqualified for the management of their own estates or are committed by a Civil Court to the care of the Deputy Commissioner:

Deputy Commissioners to be Courts of Wards.

Provided that the Court of Wards shall not take charge of or administer any beneficial interest in an estate, in which more persons than one have a joint undivided interest, unless all such persons are so circumstanced as to be subject to the Court of Wards.

Bar of jurisdiction in certain cases.

163. Persons shall be held to be disqualified to manage their own estates when they are Persons when disqualified to manage their estates.

(a) females deemed by the Chief Commissioner incompetent to manage their estates,

(b) minors,

(c) idiots,

(d) lunatics,

(e) persons who may in the opinion of the Chief Commissioner be otherwise rendered incapable by physical defects or infirmities from managing their estates,

(f) persons convicted of a non-bailable offence and disqualified in the opinion of the Chief Commissioner by vice or bad character from managing their estates,

(g) persons declared by the Chief Commissioner on their own application to be disqualified from managing their estates.

164. The Deputy Commissioner may make an inquiry into the disqualification of any person, who, he has reason to believe, disqualified within the meaning of section 163, clauses (b), (c) or (d), and into the circumstances and property of any such person, and may make an order declaring him to be subject to the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards.

Inquiry into minority, lunacy, idiocy, &c.

165. The Court of Wards may assume or refrain from assuming the superintendence of the person or property of any disqualified person and may at any time release any person or property from its superintendence: Provided that such person or property has not been placed under the Court of Wards by any competent authority whose order is necessary to his or its release.

Jurisdiction of Court of Wards.

166. If in any case not specially provided for by this or any other law for the time being in force, the right of the Court of Wards to assume or retain the superintendence of the estate of a disqualified person is disputed by such person, the case shall be reported to the Chief Commissioner whose orders thereon shall be final.

Report to Chief Commissioner when right of Court of Wards is disputed by persons other than those specially provided for.

167. The jurisdiction of the Court of Wards shall extend to the care and education, and to the management of the property, of the persons subject thereto.

Extent of jurisdiction.

168. The Court of Wards may appoint managers of the property of disqualified proprietors, and if such proprietors be minors, idiots or lunatics, may appoint guardians for the care of their persons, and may remove and control such managers and guardians.

Appointment, removal and control of guardians.

169. Proprietors may appoint guardians for their heirs, if disqualified, by will executed and attested in manner required in case of Taluqdárs by Act No. I of 1869, and in case of other proprietors by the Indian Succession Act, 1865; but the Court of Wards shall be competent to remove such guardian for any sufficient reason.

Power of proprietors to appoint guardians for disqualified heirs.

170. The Court of Wards may direct where all male minors under its jurisdiction shall reside for the purpose of education or otherwise.

Powers of Courts of Wards as to male minors within its jurisdiction.

171. The manager appointed by the Court of Wards shall have power to collect the rents of the land entrusted to him, as well as all other money due to the disqualified proprietor, and to grant receipts therefor;

Powers of manager.

and he may, subject to the control of the Court, grant or renew such leases and farms, not being for a longer period than five years, as may be necessary for the good management of the property.

172. The manager shall manage the property committed to him diligently and faithfully for the benefit of the proprietor, and shall in every respect act to the best of his judgment for the proprietor's interest as if the property were his own.

Duties of manager.

173. The Court of Wards shall have power to give such leases or farms of the whole or parts of the immoveable property under its charge, and to mortgage or sell any part of such property, and to do all such other acts, as it may judge to be most for the benefit of the property and the advantage of the disqualified proprietors.

Power of Court of Wards as to land under its charge.

174. Persons whose property is under the superintendence of the Court of Wards shall not be competent to create without the sanction of the Court any charge upon or interest in such property or any part thereof.

Disabilities of persons subject to Court of Wards.

175. No such property shall be liable to be taken in execution of a decree made in respect of any contract entered into any his property is under such superintendence.

Their property exempt from being taken in execution of certain decrees.

176. All disqualified proprietors whose property is in charge of the Court of Wards shall sue and be sued by and in the name of their guardians, where guardians have been appointed; otherwise by and in the name of the Court of Wards.

Suits by and against disqualified proprietors in charge of Court of Wards.

Provided that no such suit shall be maintained or defended by any guardian without the sanction of the Court of Wards.

177. If no such guardian has been appointed, the disqualified proprietors shall sue and be sued by and in the name of the Court of Wards.

Suits by such proprietors when no guardian appointed.

178. Every manager appointed by the Court of Wards shall—

Rules relating to managers.

(a) give such security as the Court of Wards thinks fit, duly to account for what he shall receive in respect of the rents and profits of the property for which he is appointed;

(b) pass his accounts at such periods and in such form as the Court of Wards directs;

(c) pay the balance due from him thereon;

(d) apply for the sanction of the Court of Wards to any act which may involve the property in expense not previously sanctioned by such Court;

(e) be entitled to such allowance as the Court of Wards thinks fit for his care and pains in the execution of his duties;

(f) be responsible for any loss occasioned to the property by his wilful default or gross negligence.

CHAPTER IX.

POWERS OF OFFICERS.

A.—Powers of Assistant Commissioners.

179. An Assistant Commissioner in charge of a sub-division shall as such have the following powers:—

Powers of Assistant Commissioners of the first class.

(a) to refer cases for inquiry or decision to his subordinates;

(b) to withdraw cases from his subordinates and to deal with them himself, or to refer them for disposal to any other subordinate officer competent to deal with them;

(c) to order changes in the proprietary register;

(d) to levy fees for mutations;

(e) to enquire into cases of reported transfers;

(f) to levy fines, under section 65;

(g) to declare the person best entitled to property and put him in possession, under section 66;

(h) to report on revenue-free holdings, and to assess revenue on resumed grants;

(i) to assess alluvial lands;

(j) to receive applications for and make partitions under chapter V, of this Act, subject to the confirmation of the Deputy Commissioner of the District;

(k) to impose fines for injuries to boundary-marks, and in certain cases apportion the charges of re-erecting and repairing boundary-marks;

(l) to call on owners to erect or repair boundaries, and, in default, to erect and repair and charge the cost to owners, and to decide disputes regarding boundaries;

(m) to attach and sell moveable property of defaulters, under section 118;

(n) to fix under section 158 the area of the land to be held as a tenant with right of occupancy and the rent to be paid for it by proprietors of mahâls which have been attached, transferred, held under direct management, farmed or sold, under the provisions of this Act, for land in their cultivating occupancy;

180. Assistant Commissioners of the first class, not in charge of sub-divisions of districts, shall exercise all or any of the powers conferred on Assistant Commissioners of the first class in charge of sub-divisions, in such cases or class of cases as the Deputy Commissioner of the District may, from time to time, refer to them for disposal.

Powers of Assistant Commissioners of first class not in charge of sub-divisions.

181. All Assistant Commissioners of the second class shall have power to investigate and report on such cases as the Deputy Commissioner of the District or Assistant Commissioner in charge of a sub-division of a district may, from time to time, commit to them for investigation and report.

Powers of Assistant Commissioners of second class.

B.—Powers of Settlement Officers.

182. Officers in charge of a settlement may exercise all the powers conferred by or under this Act on Settlement Officers, and by section ten on the Deputy Commissioner of the District, but none but an officer in charge of a settlement or an Assistant Settlement Officer specially empowered by the Chief Commissioner shall have power—

Powers of officers in charge of a settlement.

(a) to frame proposals for assessment;

(b) to distribute the assessment;

(c) to re-distribute land or revenue under section 31;

(d) to determine the rent payable under section 40 by under-proprietors or lessees;

(e) to exclude proprietors from settlement for refusal to engage;

(f) to adjust the rent of excluded proprietors;

(g) to determine under section 56 the rent payable in respect of resumed rent-free tenures;

(h) to resume and assess revenue-free land.

183. All other powers conferred on Settlement Officers by this Act shall be exercised by Assistant Settlement Officers, under such restrictions as the officer in charge of a settlement may from time to time impose.

Powers of Assistant Settlement Officers.

184. The Chief Commissioner may with the previous section of the Governor General in Council invest any officer in charge of a settlement with all or any of the powers of a Deputy Commissioner under this Act, and any Assistant Settlement Officer with all or any of the powers conferrible on an Assistant Commissioner under this Act within such limits, and with such restrictions, and for such period as he thinks fit.

Investing of Settlement Officers with powers of Deputy Commissioner and Assistant Commissioner.

CHAPTER X.

APPEALS.

185. Appeals shall lie under this Act as follows:—

Officers to whom appeals lie.

(a) to the Chief Commissioner from any order passed by a Commissioner except such orders as are made on appeal from orders passed by Deputy Commissioners in the exercise of their appellate jurisdiction;

(b) to the Commissioner from orders, original or appellate, passed by Deputy Commissioners or officers in charge of a settlement in any proceeding held under the provisions of this Act;

(c) to the Deputy Commissioner from orders passed by any Assistant Commissioner;

(d) to the officer in charge of a settlement from orders passed by an Assistant Settlement Officer.

186. No appeal under section 185, clauses (c) and (d), shall be brought after the expiration of thirty days from the date of the order complained of.

Limitation of appeals.

No appeal under the same section, clause (b), shall be brought after the expiration of six weeks from the date of the order complained of, unless otherwise specially provided.

No appeal under the same section, clause (a), shall be brought after the expiration of two months from the date of the order complained of.

187. In computing the period prescribed for an appeal under this chapter, the day on which the order complained of was passed, and the time requisite for obtaining a copy of such order, shall be excluded.

Time to be excluded.

188. Any appeal under this chapter may be admitted after the period of limitation prescribed therefor, when the appellant satisfies the officer to whom he appeals that he had sufficient cause for not presenting the appeal within such period.

Admission of appeal after period of limitation.

No appeal shall lie against an order under this section admitting an appeal.

189. The officer to whom the appeal lies may either admit or summarily reject the appeal. If he admit the appeal, he may reverse, modify or confirm the order appealed against, or he may direct such further investigation to be made or such additional evidence to be taken as he may think necessary, or he may himself take such additional evidence.

Procedure on admitting appeal.

190. In every case in which an appeal is admitted, the execution of the order appealed may, pending the result of the appeal, be suspended.

Suspension of order appealed against.

191. The Chief Commissioner and every Commissioner shall have power to call for the file of any proceeding held by any officer subordinate to him, and to pass such orders thereon as he thinks fit.

Power to call for files of subordinate officers.

CHAPTER XI.

REFERENCE TO ARBITRATION.

192. The Chief Commissioner, a Commissioner of a Division, a Deputy Commissioner, an Assistant Commissioner of the first class, an officer in charge of a settlement, or an Assistant Settlement Officer may, with the consent of the parties, by order, refer any dispute before him to arbitration; and any officer acting under the provisions of sections 103 to 108, both inclusive, may, with the consent of the parties, refer to arbitration any dispute arising before him respecting the matters mentioned in the same sections.

Power to refer disputes to arbitration.

193. In referring any such dispute to arbitration, the officer making the reference shall specify, in the order of reference, the precise matter submitted to the arbitrators, and such period as he may think reasonable for the delivery of the award;

What to be specified in order of reference.

and he may from time to time extend such period.

194. The parties to the case may each nominate either one or two arbitrators, provided that each party shall nominate the same number;

Appointment of arbitrators.

and a third or fifth arbitrator (as the case may be) shall be appointed by the parties, or, in the event of their being unable to agree, by the officer making the reference.

Power to excuse arbitrator from serving, and to call for nomination of substitute.

195. Every officer making a reference under this chapter may, on good cause shown, excuse any person from serving as an arbitrator, and may call on the party who nominated such person to nominate another in the place of the person so excused.

Nomination of new arbitrator in place of one dying or failing to act.

196. If an arbitrator die, desire to be discharged, or refuse or become incapable to act, the party who nominated him shall nominate another person in his place.

Nomination by officer when parties fail.

197. If in any of the cases provided for by section 195 or section 196 any party fail for a week to nominate in manner aforesaid, the officer making the reference shall appoint some person to act as arbitrator.

Award.

The arbitrators shall determine and award concerning the matters referred to them for arbitration; and the parties disputing, and all persons claiming through them respectively, shall abide by and perform the award of the arbitrators.

Summoning parties to give evidence.

198. If the arbitrators require the presence of the parties, or any other persons whose evidence may be necessary, they shall apply to the officer making the reference, who shall summon such parties or persons;

Obligation of persons summoned.

and all such parties or persons shall be bound to attend, either in person or by agent, as the arbitrators may require, and to state the truth as to the subject-matter of the reference, and to produce such documents and other things as may be required before the arbitrators.

Preparation and submission of award.

199. The award shall be made in writing under the hands of the arbitrators, and shall be submitted by them to the officer making the reference, who shall cause notice to be served on the parties to attend and hear the award.

In what cases award or subject of arbitration may be remitted to arbitrators.

200. The officer making the reference may remit the award or any of the matters referred to arbitration to the re-consideration of the same arbitrators,

(a) if the award has left undetermined some of the matters referred to arbitration, or if it determine matters not referred to arbitration;

(b) if the award is so indefinite as to be incapable of execution;

(c) if an objection to the legality of the award is apparent upon the face of the award.

Grounds on which award may be set aside.

201. No award shall be liable to be set aside except on the ground of corruption or misconduct of all or any of the arbitrators.

Application to set aside.

Any application to set aside an award shall be made within ten days after the day appointed for hearing the award.

Decision according to award.

202. If the officer making the reference does not see cause to remit the award or any of the matters referred to arbitration for re-consideration in the manner aforesaid, and if no application has been made to set aside the award,

or if he has refused such application,

he shall decide in accordance with the award of the majority of the arbitrators, and shall fix the amount to be allowed for the expenses of the arbitration, and direct by, and to whom, and in what manner, the same shall be paid.

Bar to appeal any suit in Civil Court.

203. Such decision shall not be open to appeal, and shall be at once carried out;

and no Civil Court shall entertain any suit for the purpose of setting it aside or against the arbitrators on account of their award.

CHAPTER XII.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Place for holding Court.

204. Subject to the orders of the Chief Commissioner,

(a) a Commissioner may hold his Court at any place within his division that he thinks fit:

(b) a Deputy Commissioner, an Assistant Commissioner (whether in charge or not of a sub-division of a district), or an officer in charge of a settlement or Assistant Settlement Officer may hold his Court at any place within the limit of the district to which he is appointed; and

(c) a Tahsíldár may hold his Court at any place within the limits of his tahsíl.

Power to summon persons to give evidence and produce documents.

205. The Chief Commissioner and any officer mentioned in the last preceding section shall have power to summon any person whose attendance he considers necessary for the purpose of any investigation, suit or other business before him.

All persons so summoned shall be bound to attend either in person or by authorized agent as such officer may direct, and to state the truth upon any subject respecting which they are examined or make statements, and to produce such documents and other things as may be required.

Conduct of proceedings.

206. All proceedings held under the provisions of this Act shall be conducted according to the rules for the time being prescribed under section 208.

Matters excepted from cognizance of Civil Courts.

207. No Civil Court shall exercise jurisdiction over any of the following matters:—

(a) the claim of any person to be settled with, or the validity of any engagement with Government for the payment of revenue, or the amount of revenue, cess or rate to be assessed on any mahál, or portion of a mahál under this or any other Act for the time being in force: or the rent to be paid to a proprietor by an under-proprietor or a lessee whose rent has been fixed by the Settlement Officer.

(b) any claims connected with or arising out of any process enforced on account of neglect or refusal to accept the assessment or terms of sub-settlement proposed by the Settlement Officer:

(c) the formation of the settlement record,

the preparation, signing, or attestation of any of the documents contained therein, or the notification of settlement:

(d) the distribution on partition of the land or allotment of the revenue of a mahál or of the rent of an under-proprietary tenure, or of rent payable by lessees whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer.

(e) the determination of the rent to be paid by any person under section 87:

(f) claims connected with, or arising out of, the collection of revenue or any process enforced on account of an arrear of revenue, or on account of any sum which is by this or any other Act realizable as revenue other than claims under section 157:

(g) claims to set aside a sale for arrear of revenue other than claims under section 149.

In all the above cases, jurisdiction shall rest with the revenue officers only.

Power to make rules for purposes of Act.

208. The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, make and issue rules consistent with this Act, and relating to the following matters:—

(a) the appointment, duties, remuneration, punishment and dismissal of—

(1) tahsíldárs.

(2) lambardárs or representatives of village communities,

(3) kánúngos or superintendents of revenue records,

(4) patwáris or village accountants;

(b) for regulating the assessment of land gained by alluvion or the reduction of the assessment of a mahál in consequence of diluvion;

(c) the procedure to be followed by any officer or other person who, under any provision of this Act, is required or empowered to take action in any matter;

(d) the cases in which, the officers to whom, and the conditions subject to which, orders and decisions given under the preceding sections of this Act, and not expressly provided for as regards appeal shall be appealable;

(e) the person by whom, and the time, and manner at or in which, anything for the doing of which provision is hereinbefore made in this Act, shall be done;

(f) the form and contents of reports to be furnished by officers required or empowered to take action in any matter, and the period within which such reports shall be furnished;

(g) the form and contents of the registers and lists kept under this Act; and

(h) the cases in which alone taluqdárí maháls and maháls whether under-proprietary or held by lessees whose rents have been fixed by the Settlement Officer shall be liable to partition under this Act;

(i) the costs of partitions under this Act and the persons by whom they are to be paid, and the mode of enforcing such payment against such persons or their shares in the property of which partition has been made;

(j) the issue under section 115, of writs of demand or summons to appear, and the costs recoverable from the defaulter, and the officer by whom such writs and summonses shall be issued;

(k) and generally to carry out the provisions of this Act.

Penalty for neglecting to appoint patwáris.

209. Where, by any rule framed under the provisions of clause (a) of the preceding section, the appointment of patwáris is directed to be made by the landowners of a village, or the landowners are made primarily responsible for enforcing the due submission of such returns as may be prescribed to be kept by patwáris, the neglect or refusal of such landowners to make such appointment or to enforce the submission of such returns shall be punishable with such fine not exceeding fifty rupees, as the Chief Commissioner directs.

Recovery of fines and costs.

210. All fees, fines, costs and other moneys ordered to be paid under this Act, shall be recoverable as if they were an arrear of land-revenue.

WHITLEY STOKES,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

[First publication.]

The following further Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 27th July 1876:—

We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to declare and amend the laws to be administered in Oudh was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

„ Officiating Registrar, Chief Court, Panjáb, No. 1215, dated 15th May 1875, and enclosures.

2. We have omitted the chapter relating to minority. So far as relates to Europeans the matter is sufficiently provided for by Act No. XIII of 1874. As to Natives, there seemed some danger that the chapter in question might have interfered undesirably with their customs as to guardianship, minority, and bastardy; and as there is no evidence before us that those customs are either unjust or inexpedient, we thought it best not to touch them in the present measure. Exactly the same course was followed by the legislature when it passed the Panjáb Laws Act, and no inconvenience has been found to result.

3. We have transferred the chapter treating of the Court of Wards to the Oudh Land-Revenue Bill, with certain changes described in the report on that Bill.

4. For reasons similar to those mentioned in paragraph 2 of this report, we have omitted the chapter relating to betrothal. Here, again, we have followed the precedent of the Panjáb Laws Act.

5. We have redrawn the chapter of pre-emption, extending it to foreclosures of mortgages as well as to sales, as is done by the Panjáb Laws Act.

6. The substance of the sections on partitions has been inserted in the Oudh Land-Revenue Bill. We have therefore struck them out of the Laws Bill.

7. We have omitted the sections (46 and 47) as to the bar of certain suits for redemption. They were taken from the Oudh Courts Act: some difference of opinion exists about them; and they should not be inserted in a Bill of which the primary object is to clear up doubts as to what the law really is in Oudh. The Oudh Courts Act remains untouched in this respect.

8. We have also omitted the sections relating to insolvency. This matter will, so far as regards persons arrested or imprisoned in execution of money decrees, be dealt with by the revised Code of Civil Procedure, which will apply to Oudh as to other parts of British India; and, in any case, we think it inexpedient to give Oudh a special law on the subject.

9. We have also omitted the sections relating to intestacy. The procedure which they prescribe can, for the most part, be enforced by executive rules for the disposal of unclaimed property made under the Police Act, V of 1861. Moreover, so far as regards Europeans and East Indians, the necessary rules are already contained in the Administrator General's Act, II of 1874.

10. The retention of the system of trial by jury in civil cases in Lucknow alone, of all places in India, is obviously inexpedient. We have therefore struck out section 61.

11. We have struck out the clause of the Bill requiring Judges of Civil Courts to forward to the Deputy Commissioner certified copies of decrees affecting land.

12. As regards sales of land in execution of decrees, we have altered section 65 of the Bill so as to render unsaleable ancestral property in land without the permission of the Judicial Commissioner, and acquired property in land without the permission of the Deputy Commissioner. This maintains the modification of Act VIII of 1859, section 205, subject to which the Code of Civil Procedure was extended to Oudh in August 1861. We have also declared that in the clause under notice (section 21 of the amended Bill) the words "ancestral property" include the immoveable property of persons admitted to engagement for the land-revenue at the summary settlement of 1858-59. This agrees with the Oudh Rent Act, section 109.

13. We have provided (section 22) for the appointment of a person to manage immoveable property under attachment.

14. We have amended (sections 23 and 24) the Oudh Rent Act sections 109 and 118.

15. We have omitted the chapters relating respectively to Escheats and Hidden Treasure. Rules as to the former subject can be made by the Executive and require no legislation. The latter subject will be dealt with by another Bill about to be introduced into the Council of the Governor General, which will apply to the whole of British India.

16. We have also omitted the chapter relating to Cantonments and Military Bázárs. So much doubt exists in the Military Department of the Government of India as to what rules should be made on this subject, that the Committee have thought it best to omit the chapter in question, and rely for the present on the rules contained in Bengal Regulation XX of 1810.

17. We have inserted, at the desire of the Chief Commissioner, a chapter (copied from Act XVI of 1873) dealing with Village and Road Police.

18. In the section relating to the creation of new districts, we have empowered the Chief Commissioner to subdivide districts and to alter the limits of subdivisions.

19. We have repealed sections 10 to 15 of the old Gambling Act, which were extended to Oudh by an executive order. We have also repealed Act XIX of 1863, as its provisions have been inserted in the Oudh Land-Revenue Bill. We have omitted from the schedule of repeals Act III of 1869, as to Rural Police, and sections 29 and 30 of the Oudh Civil Courts Act.

20. From the section (91) corresponding with sections 38 and 39 of the present draft, we have omitted the clause providing for the periodical republication of subsidiary rules.

21. From the second schedule we have omitted Regulation XXIII of 1803, as to fees to defray the expenses of Revenue-offices, and Regulation IV of 1821, as to the powers and duties of Collectors; and Acts I of 1847, as to boundary marks, XXVI of 1854, as to education of Wards, and XXXI of 1858, as to the settlement of alluvion. We have inserted Regulation XX of 1810, as to Military Bázárs, Regulation V of 1817, as to Hidden Treasure, and Regulation XI of 1822, section 38, as to the non-liability of Government for the errors of Courts of Justice.

22. The publication directed by the Rules for the conduct of legislative business has taken place. But the Bill has been so much altered that we think it should be republished, with this report, in the Gazette of India and the local Gazette, and that its further consideration should be postponed for two months.

FIRST SCHEDULE.

SECOND SCHEDULE.

A Bill to declare and amend the laws to be administered in Oudh.

Whereas it is expedient to declare and amend the laws to be administered in Oudh; It is hereby enacted as follows:— Preamble.

PART I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Oudh Laws Act, 1876."

Local extent. It extends only to the territories for the time being under the administration of the Chief Commissioner of Oudh;

Commencement. And it shall come into force on the passing thereof.

Repeal of enactments. 2. On and from that day, the Regulations, Acts, Rules and Orders mentioned in the first Schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column of the said schedule.

PART II.

GENERAL LAWS TO BE ADMINISTERED IN OUDH.

Statutory law to be administered in Oudh. 3. The law to be administered by the Courts of Oudh shall be as follows:—

(a) the laws for the time being in force regulating the assessment and collection of land-revenue;

(b) in questions regarding succession, special property of females, betrothal, marriage, divorce, dower, adoption, guardianship, minority, bastardy, family relations, wills, legacies, gifts, partitions or any religious usage or institution, the rule of decision shall be—

(1) any custom applicable to the parties concerned which is not contrary to justice, equity, or good conscience, and has not been by this or any other enactment altered or abolished and has not been declared to be void by any competent authority;

(2) the Muhammadan law in cases where the parties are Muhammadans, and the Hindú law in cases where the parties are Hindús, except in so far as such law has been, by this or any other enactment, altered or abolished, or has been modified by any such custom as is above referred to;

(c) the rules contained in the third Part of this Act;

(d) the rules published in the local Gazette as provided by section sixty-two or made under any other Act for the time being in force in Oudh;

(e) the Regulations and Acts specified in the second Schedule hereto annexed, subject to the provisions of section four, and to the modifications mentioned in the third column of the same schedule;

(f) subject to the modifications hereinafter mentioned, all enactments for the time being in force and expressly, or by necessary implication, applying to British India or Oudh, or some part of Oudh;

(g) in cases not provided for by the former part of this section, or by any other law for the time being in force, the Courts shall act according to justice, equity and good conscience.

Validity of local customs and mercantile usages. 4. All local customs and mercantile usages shall be regarded as valid, unless they are contrary to justice, equity, or good conscience, or have, before the passing of this Act, been declared to be void by any competent authority.

PART III.

CHAPTER I.

DOWER AMONG MUHAMMADANS.

Muhammadan dower-contracts how to be enforced. 5. Where the amount of dower stipulated for in any contract of dower by a Muhammadan is excessive with reference to the means of the husband, the entire sum provided in the contract shall not be awarded in any suit by decree in favour of the plaintiff, or by allowing it by way of set-off, lien or otherwise to the defendant; but the amount of the dower to be allowed by the Court shall be reasonable with reference to the means of the husband and the status of the wife.

Rule applicable after husband's death. This rule shall be applicable whether the suit to enforce the contract be brought in the husband's lifetime or after his death.

CHAPTER II.

PRE-EMPTION.

Right of pre-emption. 6. The right of pre-emption is a right of the persons hereinafter mentioned or referred to, to acquire, in the cases hereinafter specified, immoveable property in preference to all other persons.

Presumption as to its existence. 7. Unless the existence of any custom or contract to the contrary is proved, such right shall, whether recorded in the settlement-record or not, be presumed—

(a) to exist in all village-communities, however constituted, and whether proprietary or under-proprietary, and in the case referred to in section 40 of the Oudh Land-Revenue Act, and

(b) to extend to the village site, to the houses built upon it, to all lands and shares of lands within the village-boundary, and to all transferable rights affecting such lands.

Its existence in towns to be proved. 8. The right of pre-emption shall not be presumed to exist in any town or city, or any sub-division thereof, but may be shown to exist therein, and to be exercisable therein by such persons and under such circumstances as the local custom prescribes.

Devolution of right when property to be sold is part of a village. 9. If the property to be sold or foreclosed is a proprietary or under-proprietary tenure, or a share of such a tenure, the right to buy or redeem such property belongs, in the absence of a custom to the contrary,

1*st*, to co-sharers in the tenure in order of their relationship to the vendor or mortgagor;

2*ndly*, if no relation of the vendor or mortgagor claim the said right to buy or redeem, to the land-owners of the pattí or other sub-division of the tenure in which the property is comprised;

3*rdly*, to any member of the village-community; and

4*thly*, if the property be an under-proprietary tenure, to the proprietor.

Notice to pre-emptors. 10. When any person proposes to sell any property, or when he forecloses a mortgage upon any property, in respect of which any persons have a right of pre-emption, he must give notice to the persons concerned of the price at which he is willing to sell such property, or of the amount due in respect of such mortgage, as the case may be.

Such notice shall be deemed sufficiently given if it be stuck up on the chaupál or other public place of the village or city in which the property is situate.

Loss of right of pre-emption. 11. Any person having a right of pre-emption in respect of any property proposed to be sold, shall lose such right, unless within three months from the date of such notice he or his agent pays or tenders the price aforesaid to the person so proposing to sell.

Decree to fix time for payment. 12. Such decree shall specify a day on or before which the purchase-money shall be paid.

Effect of non-payment of purchase-money. 13. If the purchase-money is not paid into Court before it rises on that day, the decree shall become void, and the plaintiff shall lose his right of pre-emption over the property to which it relates.

Right of pre-emptor on foreclosure. 14. When the right of pre-emption arises in respect of the foreclosure of a mortgage, any person entitled to such right may, at any time within three months after the giving of the notice required by section ten, pay or tender to the mortgagee or his successor in title the amount specified in such notice and shall thereupon acquire a right to purchase the property.

On completion of the purchase the person exercising the right of pre-emption shall be bound to pay to the mortgagee or his successor in title the amount specified in such notice, together with interest on the principal sum secured by the mortgage, at the rate specified by the instrument of mortgage, for any time which has elapsed since the date of the notice, and any additional costs which may have been properly incurred by the mortgagee or his successor in title.

Suit to enforce right of pre-emption.

15. Any person entitled to a right of pre-emption may bring a suit to enforce such right on any of the following grounds (namely)—

(a) that no due notice was given as required by section ten;

(b) in the case of a sale, that the price stated in the notice was not fixed in good faith;

(c) in the case of a mortgage, that the amount claimed by the mortgagee was not really due on the footing of the mortgage and was not claimed in good faith, and that it exceeds the fair market-value of the property mortgaged.

If in the case of a sale, the Court finds that the price was not fixed in good faith, the Court shall fix such price as appears to it to be the fair market-value of the property sold.

If in the case of a mortgage, the Court finds that the amount claimed by the mortgagee was not really due on the footing of the mortgage, and that it was not claimed in good faith, and that it exceeds the fair market-value of the property mortgaged, the amount to be paid to the mortgagee shall not exceed what the Court finds to be such market-value.

CHAPTER III.

PROCEDURE OF THE COURTS.

(a) Law of Limitation.

Rule of Limitation.

16. The Judicial Commissioner's Circular No. 104 of July 1860, shall be held to have been a notification within the meaning of section twenty-four of Act No. XIV of 1859; and such Act shall be deemed to have been in force in Oudh from the fourth day of July 1862; and all orders and decrees passed under the rules contained in the said circular, or under the said Act, shall be deemed to have been passed under a law in force for the time being.

Nothing in this section affects the provisions of sections 102, 104, 105, 106, 107 and 108 of the Oudh Rent Act (XIX of 1868) with regard to the limitation of suits under that Act.

Act XXXII of 1871, s. 28, to cease in any district where first regular settlement is sanctioned.

17. The provisions of the Oudh Civil Courts' Act, 1871, section 28, shall cease to have effect in any district from the date on which the first regular settlement is sanctioned therein.

(b) Modifications of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Extension of the term 'recognized agent.'

18. Section 17 of Act VIII of 1859 is hereby repealed, so far as the Province of Oudh is concerned, and the following section is substituted therefor:—

"The recognized agents of parties by whom such applications and appearances may be made are—

"A permanent servant, partner, relation or friend, whom the Court may admit as a fit person to represent a party, and especially persons holding powers of attorney from absent parties, parties carrying on business on behalf of bankers and traders, managing agents of landlords, nearest male relations of women, and persons ex-officio authorized to act for Government or for any prince or chief.

"Whenever the personal appearance of a party to a suit is required by this Act, such appearance may be made by his recognized agent, unless the Court shall otherwise direct; and anything which by this Act is required or permitted to be done by a party in person may be done by his recognized agent. Notices given to, or processes served on, a recognized agent, relative to a suit, shall be effectual for all purposes, in relation to the suit, as if the same had been given to or served on the party in person, unless the Court shall otherwise direct; and all the provisions of this Act, relating to the service of notices or processes on a party to a suit, shall be applicable to the service of notices and processes on such recognized agent."

Modification of sec. 111 of Act VIII of 1859.

19. Section 111 of the same Act shall be construed as if the following clause were added thereto (namely) "Nothing in this section shall be deemed to compel the Court to decide ex parte in the absence of the defendant; but if the defendant does not appear the Court may, in its discretion, attach his property and issue a warrant to arrest and detain him till such day as it appoints for the hearing of the suit."

Rules for taking evidence.

20. Section 172 of Act No. VIII of 1859 is hereby repealed, so far as the Province of Oudh is concerned, and the following section is substituted therefor:—

"On the day appointed for the hearing of the suit, or on some other day to which the hearing may be adjourned, the evidence of the witnesses in attendance shall be taken orally in open Court in the presence and hearing and under the personal direction and superintendence of the Judge.

"A note of the essential points of the evidence of each witness is to be taken at the time, and in the course of oral examination, by the officer who tries the case, in his own language, or in English if he is sufficiently acquainted with that language, and such note shall be filed, and shall form part of the record of the case.

"If the evidence be taken down in a different language from that in which it has been given, and the witness does not understand the language in which it is taken down, the witness may require his deposition as taken down to be interpreted to him in the language in which it was given.

"It shall be in the discretion of the Court to take down, or cause to be taken down, any particular question and answer, if there appear any special reason for so doing, or any party or his pleader requires it.

"If any question put to a witness be objected to by either of the parties or their pleaders, and the Court allow the same to be put, the question and the answer shall be taken down, and the objection and the name of the party making it shall be noticed in taking down the depositions, together with the decision of the Court upon the objection.

"The Court shall record such remarks as it may think material respecting the demeanour of the witness while under examination.

"If the Judge be prevented from making a note as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause such note to be made in writing from his dictation in open Court, and shall sign the same, and such note shall form part of the record."

Execution of Decrees.

Execution sale of under-proprietary right.

21. So much of section 205 of the Code of Civil Procedure, as renders land liable to sale in execution of a decree, shall be subject to the following restriction:—

No ancestral property in land shall be sold in satisfaction of a decree without the permission of the Judicial Commissioner; no acquired property in land shall be so sold without the permission of the Deputy Commissioner.

Explanation.—In this section the words "ancestral property" include the immoveable property of persons admitted to engagement for the land-revenue at the summary settlement of 1858-59.

Appointment of a person for the care and management of immoveable property.

22. Whenever the Civil Court may think fit under section 243 of the Civil Procedure Code, or any other law in force for the time being, to provide for the management of immoveable property, the Court shall issue a precept to the Deputy Commissioner of the district wherein such property may be situated, directing him to hold the property in attachment, and to appoint a person for the due care and management of the property under adequate security for the faithful discharge of the trust in a sum proportionate to the extent thereof.

The precept of the Civil Court above mentioned shall specify specifically the property to be included in the attachment, and the attachment shall not be withdrawn without a further precept from the Court to that effect.

Nothing in this section is to be taken as authorising a Civil Court to direct a Deputy Commissioner to attach immoveable property not in the actual possession of the judgment-debtor, or of some one on his behalf other than a creditor holding the said property as security for a debt due by the said judgment-debtor.

Section substituted for section 109, Act XIX of 1868.

23. The following section is substituted for section 109 of Act XIX of 1868 (The Oudh Rent Act):—

"The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, as in force in Oudh, shall, so far as they are not inconsistent with the provisions herein contained, apply to all suits, appeals and proceedings under this Act."

Section substituted for section 118, Act XIX of 1868.

24. Section 118 of the Oudh Rent Act No. XIX of 1868 is repealed, and the following section is substituted for it:—

"118. No process of execution shall be issued on a decree under this Act on any application made after the lapse of three years from the date of such decree."

No process of execution to issue on a decree after the lapse of three years from date of such decree.

Right of occupancy in judgment-debtor's sir land.

25. Any proprietor or under-proprietor of a mahál or portion of a mahál, which is attached, transferred, held under direct management, farmed or sold under the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, who may at the date of the order for such attachment, transfer, management, farm or sale, hold any land within such mahál or portion of a mahál in his cultivating occupancy, shall be deemed to be a tenant with a right of occupancy in respect of so much of such land as the Deputy Commissioner shall determine, and the rent to be paid by him for land so determined shall be fixed by the Deputy Commissioner under the provisions of the Oudh Rent Act.

Power to make rules for custody and sale of attached property.

26. With the sanction of the Chief Commissioner, the Judicial Commissioner may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act and with the Code of Civil Procedure,

(a) for the custody and sale of moveable property attached in execution of decrees;

(b) for the levy of a fee or commission on the sale of attached property, and the disposal of the funds accruing from such fees;

(c) as to the appointment and remuneration of persons by whom property is to be attached, kept in custody, and sold; and

(d) as to the appointment and remuneration of persons by whom local investigation under section 180, and investigations and adjustments of accounts under section 181, of the Code of Civil Procedure, are to be made.

CHAPTER IV.

OF VILLAGE AND ROAD POLICE.

Appointment of Village Police.

Right of nomination of village policemen.

27. The nomination to the post of village policeman shall be made by the zamíndár of the village, or, where there are more zamíndárs than one, by the lambardár as their representative, and where there are more lambardárs than one, the opinion of the majority (unless there is some special provision to the contrary in the village administration paper) shall prevail.

Obligation to nominate.

28. Every person authorized to nominate to the office of village policeman shall, within fifteen days after the occurrence of a vacancy in such office, nominate a proper person to the vacant post, and communicate the nomination to the Magistrate of the district.

Discretion to appoint or reject nominee.

29. The person so nominated shall, after due enquiry into his age, character and ability, be appointed or rejected at discretion by such Magistrate, or by some officer authorized by him in that behalf.

Power to Magistrate to appoint.

30. (a).—In default of such nomination within the said fifteen days, the Magistrate of the district shall appoint such person as he thinks fit to the vacancy.

Procedure in case of rejection of nominee.

(b).—If the nomination has been made within the said fifteen days, but the nominee is rejected, the person authorized to nominate shall, within fifteen days from the date of such rejection, nominate another person to the vacant post; and in default of such nomination, or if such nomination has been made, but the nominee is again rejected, the Magistrate of the district shall appoint such person as he thinks fit to the vacancy.

Appointment of Road Police.

Appointment of road police.

31. Subject to the rules to be framed under section thirty-seven and for the time being in force, the Magistrate of the district may, from time to time, appoint persons to be the road police of his district.

Duties of Village and Road Police.

Duties of village and road policemen.

32. Every village policeman and every road policeman shall perform the following duties:—

(a).—He shall give immediate information to the officer in charge of the police-station appointed for his village or beat,

(1) of every unnatural, suspicious, or sudden death occurring in the village of which he is chaukídár, or within his beat;

(2) of each of the following offences occurring in such village or on such beat (that is to say,) murder, culpable homicide, rape, dacoity, theft, robbery, mischief by fire, house-breaking, counterfeiting coin, causing grievous hurt, riot, harbouring a proclaimed offender, exposure of a child, concealment of birth, administering stupefying drugs, kidnapping, lurking house-trespass, and

(3) of all attempts and preparations to commit, and abetments of, any of the said offences.

(b).—He shall keep the police informed of all disputes which are likely to lead to any riot or serious affray.

(c).—He shall arrest all proclaimed offenders, and all persons whom he may find in the act of committing any offence specified in paragraph (a), clause (2) of this section.

(d).—He shall observe, and from time to time report to the officer in charge of the police-station within the jurisdiction of which his village or beat may be situate, the movements of all bad characters in or on such village or beat.

(e).—He shall report to the officer in charge of such police-station the arrival of suspicious characters in the neighbourhood.

(f).—He shall supply to the best of his ability any local information which a Magistrate or any officer of police may require, and shall promptly execute all orders issued to him by competent authority.

Procedure on arrest by village or road policeman.

33. Whenever a village policeman or road policeman arrests any person, he shall take him as soon as possible to the police-station within the jurisdiction of which his village or beat is situate.

Liabilities of Village and Road Police.

Dismissal of village or road policeman.

34. The Magistrate of the district may dismiss any village policeman or road policeman for any misconduct or neglect of duty.

Acts punishable.

35. Every village policeman and every road policeman guilty of any wilful misconduct in his office, or of neglect of duty, such misconduct or neglect not being an offence within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, or withdrawing from the duties of his office without permission, and without having given at least two months' notice of his intention to withdraw from such duties to the persons authorized to nominate or appoint under sections twenty-seven, thirty and thirty-one (as the case may be),

or offering any unnecessary personal violence to any person in his custody, or violating any of the rules framed under section thirty-seven and for the time being in force,

Penalty.

shall be liable, on conviction before a Magistrate, to a penalty not exceeding three months' pay or to imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months, or to both.

Fines to be credited to such fund as Government appoints.

36. All fines levied under this Act on village policemen or road policemen shall be credited to such fund as the Local Government from time to time appoints.

CHAPTER V.

SUBSIDIARY RULES.

Power to make rules.

37. The Chief Commissioner may from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, make rules consistent with this Act as to—

(a) the discipline and remuneration of the village and road police and the regulation of their number, location and duties;

(b) the entry into cities or towns of bands of armed men;

(c) prohibiting bands of foreign vagrants from entering or requiring them to leave any district;

(d) the disposal of unclaimed property under Act No. V of 1861 (for the regulation of Police,) sections 25, 26, 27;

(e) public health and conservancy at fairs and other large public assemblies, and the maintenance of a proper watch and ward at such fairs and assemblies;

(f) imposing with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council taxes for those purposes only;

(g) the manner in which records, civil, criminal and revenue, shall be kept; the appointment and removal of the persons entrusted with the custody of records, and all other matters connected with such custody and the destruction from time to time of such records as it may be deemed unnecessary to keep;

(h) the appointment, duties, punishment and dismissal of all ministerial officers other than those employed in the Civil Courts and those in respect of whom provision is made in the Oudh Revenue Act.

Publication of rules.

38. All rules made by the Chief Commissioner under section thirty-seven and all rules made by the Judicial Commissioner under section twenty-six shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

Rules prescribed in respect of matters for which rules may be made under this Act, to remain in force for twelve months.

39. All rules heretofore prescribed by competent authority in respect of any of the matters for which rules may be made under this Act, shall remain in force for twelve months after this Act comes into force, unless any rules on the same subject are previously issued by the Chief Commissioner or Judicial Commissioner.

Penalty for breach of rules.

40. Whoever breaks any rule made under this Act, shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be punishable with a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, or imprisonment not exceeding a period of six months, or with both.

CHAPTER VI.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Honorary Civil Jurisdiction.

Power to invest Talukdárs with civil jurisdiction.

41. The Chief Commissioner may from time to time by notification in the official Gazette

(a) invest such persons as he thinks fit to be Honorary Assistant Commissioners with the powers of a Civil Court of the first or second grade,

(b) declare what shall be in each such case the local limits of the jurisdiction so conferred, and

(c) withdraw such jurisdiction.

Honorary Police Officers.

Bands of armed men.

43. No band of armed men shall enter into any city or town, except with the consent of the Chief Commissioner or of such officer as he may empower in this behalf.

Foreign vagrants.

44. The Magistrate of the district may, if he considers that any band of foreign vagrants is likely to occasion a breach of the peace, or to commit any offence under the Indian Penal Code, prohibit such band from entering his district, or, if they are already in his district, may require them within a given time to leave it.

Procedure when they disobey Magistrate's orders.

45. If any such band fail to comply with the orders of the said Magistrate within the prescribed period, he shall report the matter to the Chief Commissioner, and the Chief Commissioner may give such directions for the supervision, control, or deportation of such band as to him seems fit.

Pasturage of Government lands.

Pasturage of Government lands.

46. No person shall make use of the pasturage or other natural product of any land being the property of the Government, except with the consent of the Chief Commissioner or of such officer as he may empower in this behalf.

Power to create new Districts.

47. The Governor General in Council may by notification in the Gazette of India create new Districts in any part of such territories, for any revenue, judicial or other purpose, and may alter the limits of existing Districts.

Power to form Sub-divisions of Districts.

The Chief Commissioner may from time to time divide any District into Sub-divisions, and from time to time alter the limits of such Sub-divisions.

All existing tahsíls shall be Sub-divisions of Districts until they are so altered.

„ by Chief Commissioner, Oudh, dated 5th June 1876, and enclosures.

Office Memorandum from Department of Revenue, Agriculture and Commerce, No. 503, dated 11th July 1876, and enclosure.

Preliminary.

2. We have omitted as unnecessary the definitions of 'Chief Commissioner' and 'Estate,' and replaced them by definitions of 'incumbrance,' 'agricultural year,' 'revenue officer' and 'revenue-free.'

Revenue Officers.

3. In Chapter II relating to Revenue-officers, we have made the following changes: For sections 2, 3 and 4 of the Bill as introduced, we have substituted a section (4) declaring that, subject to rules prescribed by the Governor General in Council, the Chief Commissioner shall appoint Commissioners, Deputy Commissioners and Assistant Commissioners. We have authorized the Chief Commissioner to place any Assistant Commissioner of the first class in charge of one or more subdivisions, and to delegate this power to the Deputy Commissioner of the district. We have also empowered the Chief Commissioner, subject to rules prescribed by the Governor General in Council, to invest any Assistant Commissioner in charge of a subdivision with the powers of a Deputy Commissioner. We think that Deputy Commissioners of the district and Assistant Commissioners in charge of subdivisions should be empowered to transfer cases to, and withdraw cases from, their subordinates, and we have introduced a section (10) for this purpose. We have provided (section 11) for the administration of a district in case of a temporary vacancy in the office of the Deputy Commissioner. We have, lastly, copied from Act XIX of 1873 the useful provision, that when an officer invested with powers in one district is transferred to an equal or higher office in another district, he shall be held to have the same powers in the latter district.

Settlement.

4. Section 14 of the Bill as introduced specified the documents of which the settlement record is to consist. We think it preferable merely to provide that the Chief Commissioner shall, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, determine what those documents shall be.

5. We have declared (section 18) that every settlement shall be deemed to be in progress until its closing is duly notified, and that all districts in which settlements are now in progress shall be deemed to be under settlement for the purpose of that section.

6. We have transferred from the Oudh Civil Courts Act (XXXII of 1871) a section (20) empowering the Chief Commissioner to invest Settlement Officers with the powers of Civil Courts in suits relating to revenue-paying land.

7. We have declared (section 26) that in case of a taluqdárí mahál the settlement shall be made with the taluqdár.

8. We have provided (section 31) for the enforcement of the custom of periodical redistribution of land and adjustment of revenue.

9. We have expanded the provisions contained in the Bill as introduced, as to the exclusion of a taluqdár or proprietor refusing to accept settlement. We have provided (section 32) that no taluqdár shall be excluded from the settlement of his entire taluqá without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council; and we have raised the amount of the allowance to excluded proprietors.

10. We have directed (section 40) the Settlement Officer to determine the rent to be paid to the proprietor by under-proprietors and by holders of heritable, non-transferable leases, (other than tenants with right of occupancy,) whose rent has not been fixed by contract; and we have declared that whenever rent payable by such under-proprietors or lessees has been determined by a Settlement Officer, all the co-sharers shall be jointly and severally responsible for the payment to the proprietor of the rent so determined.

11. We have declared that all land shall be deemed liable to be charged with payment of revenue, and that no length of occupancy shall discharge such liability.

12. We have provided (section 46) for the alteration of assessment during the currency of a settlement, and (section 47) for the assessment of land added by alluvion. We have provided in the case of such land for the increase of a fixed rent in proportion to the increase of revenue effected by the assessment. Where the revenue assessed on a mahál has been reduced, remitted or suspended, we have declared (section 49) that the under-proprietor shall be entitled to a corresponding reduction, remission or suspension.

13. We have declared, in conformity with Regulation XIX of 1793 and other Regulations of the Bengal Code, that rent-free grants made by proprietors or the persons through whom they claim shall be liable to resumption except when such grants have been sanctioned or confirmed by the Governor General in Council or the Chief Commissioner; but we have required proprietors wishing to resume such grants to apply to the Civil Court for a declaration of the right to resume, and we have exempted, wholly or partially, from the operation of these provisions, (a) land which the grantor has expressly agreed not to resume, (b) land held rent-free under a judicial decision, and (c) land held rent-free and acquired before the passing of the proposed Act, where the right to resume has been barred by the law of limitation. We have also provided (section 56) for fixing the rent of land declared liable to resumption.

Registration and the Revenue record.

14. We have provided (section 57), with more particularity than was thought necessary, for the lists and registers of rights in land to be prepared and maintained by the Deputy Commissioner on the basis of the settlement record. And we have declared that all entries in such lists or registers shall be made with reference to actual possession, and that all persons not in possession, but claiming the right to be so, shall be referred to the Civil Court.

15. We have required (section 62) all persons obtaining possession of land as proprietors, under-proprietors, lessees whose rents have been fixed by a Settlement Officer, or mortgagees, to give notice to the Tahsíldár or the Deputy Commissioner. And where the Deputy Commissioner cannot satisfy himself as to which party is in possession of any such land, we have required him to ascertain the fact by summary enquiry.

Partition and Union of Maháls.

16. We have inserted a chapter (V) dealing with the partition and union of maháls, which is founded on Act XIX of 1863—the law on this subject now in force in Oudh; but we have endeavoured to simplify the provisions of that Act. We have given an appeal within one year from the decision of the Deputy Commissioner confirming a partition. We have added definitions of 'perfect partition' and 'imperfect partition'. We have allowed any co-sharer to claim an imperfect partition, provided that the consent of recorded co-sharers holding in the aggregate more than a moiety of the property has been first obtained. We have provided for the partition of taluqdárí and under-proprietary maháls and of maháls held by lessees whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, subject to rules made by the Chief Commissioner as to when such partitions shall or shall not be permitted. In the case of the partition of a taluqdárí mahál, we have provided (section 101) for the assignment or partitioning of the inferior maháls and for duly limiting the joint responsibility of the co-sharers.

17. When the partition of a mahál in respect of which rent is payable is effected, we have directed the Deputy Commissioner to fix the amount payable in respect of each portion, and we have empowered the person entitled to such rent to obtain a decision as to his objections (if any) to the distribution of the rental.

Maintenance of Boundaries.

18. We have inserted a chapter (VI) on the maintenance of boundaries, the provisions of which correspond with those of Act I of 1847 and of sections 140—144 of Act XIX of 1873.

Collection of Land-Revenue.

19. In the chapter (VII) relating to the collection of land-revenue, we have made no substantial change, except that we have declared (section 117) that no person exempted from personal attendance in the Civil Court, no taluqdár and no female shall be subject to arrest or imprisonment, and we have provided that the Deputy Commissioner may realize as arrears of revenue all arrears of rent, due by under-proprietors or by lessees whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, in respect of land attached, or of which the settlement has been annulled.

20. We have inserted a section (135=section 28 of Act I of 1845) empowering the Chief Commissioner to direct a sale of land for arrears of revenue to be made subject to incumbrances.

21. We have provided (section 140) that such sales must be made either by the Deputy Commissioner or by an Assistant Commissioner specially appointed by him.

22. We have by section 159 entitled the proprietor of a mahál or pattí held in sub-settlement, or under a heritable, non-transferable lease, the rent payable under which has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, to apply to the Deputy Commissioner to realize the arrears of such rent as arrears of revenue.

Court of Wards.

23. We have transferred from the Oudh Laws Bill the chapter relating to the Court of Wards. In so doing we have extended the section relating to disqualified persons so as to apply to females deemed by the Chief Commissioner incompetent to manage their estates, to persons physically incapable of managing them, to persons convicted of non-bailable offences and disqualified by vice or bad character from managing their estates, and lastly, to persons declared by the Chief Commissioner on their own application to be disqualified. We have also declared (section 174) that persons whose property is under the superintendence of the Court of Wards, shall be incompetent, without the sanction of the Court, to create charges upon such property. We have provided for suits by and against disqualified proprietors, and we have inserted rules relating to managers equivalent to those contained in Act XIX of 1873, section 206. Lastly, we have, in section 177, amended Act XL of 1858 so as to render it applicable to all maháls, whether assessed to revenue or held revenue-free.

Powers of Officers.

24. Chapter IX is new. It deals with the powers of Assistant Commissioners, Settlement Officers and Assistant Settlement Officers, and is to some extent founded on sections 234 and 235 of Act XIX of 1873.

Appeals. Arbitration.

25. Chapter X deals with appeals, and Chapter XI with references to arbitration. Both are new. The latter is to a large extent taken from Act XIX of 1873.

Patwáris.

26. In section 208 it is provided that the Chief Commissioner may make rules respecting the appointment of Patwáris. This is not intended to preclude the free discussion of the claims of the taluqdárs to make such appointments, which is still under the consideration of the local authorities.

27. The publication directed by the Rules for the conduct of legislative business has taken place; but the Bill has been so altered that we think it should be re-published, with this report, in the Gazette of India, and also in the local Gazette, and that its further consideration should be stayed for two months.

A Bill to consolidate and define the law relating to Land Revenue in Oudh.

Preamble. Whereas it is expedient to consolidate and define the law relating to land-revenue in Oudh; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Oudh Land Revenue Act, 1876":

Local extent. It extends only to the territories now under the administration of the Chief Commissioner of Oudh;

Commencement. And it shall come into force on the passing thereof.

But all rules now in force and relating to any of the matters hereinafter dealt with shall, so far as they are consistent with this Act, continue in force until they are superseded by rules made in exercise of the powers hereinafter conferred.

Interpretation-clause. 2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

"Incumbrance." (1) "incumbrance" means a charge upon or claim against land arising out of contract between private persons:

"Agricultural year." (2) "agricultural year" means a year commencing on the first day of July and ending on the thirtieth day of June:

"Revenue officer." (3) "revenue officer" means any officer empowered to dispose of any matter under this Act:

"Revenue-free." "Free of revenue." (4) "revenue-free" or "free of revenue" applies to land whereof the revenue has been wholly or in part released, compounded for, redeemed or assigned.

CHAPTER II.

REVENUE OFFICERS.

Chief Controlling Revenue Authority in revenue matters. 3. The Chief Controlling Revenue Authority in all matters connected with land-revenue in Oudh shall be the Chief Commissioner.

Commissioners of Division. 4. Subject to such rules as the Governor General in Council may from time to time prescribe in this behalf, the Chief Commissioner shall—

(a) appoint in each Division a Commissioner, who shall, subject to the control of the Chief Commissioner, exercise authority over all the Revenue Officers in his Division;

Deputy Commissioner of the District. (b) appoint in each district an officer who shall be the Deputy Commissioner of the District;

Assistant Commissioner. (c) appoint to each district as many other persons as he thinks fit to be Assistant Commissioners of the first or of the second class.

Subject to such rules as the Governor General in Council may from time to time prescribe in this behalf, the Chief Commissioner may suspend or remove any officer appointed under this section.

Subordination of Assistant Commissioners and other Revenue Officers.

5. All such Assistant Commissioners, and all other persons employed in maintaining revenue-records or otherwise in or about the business of the land-revenue, shall be subordinate to the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

Assistant Commissioner in charge of Sub-division of District.

6. The Chief Commissioner may place any Assistant Commissioner of the first class in charge of one or more Sub-divisions of a District, and may at any time remove him therefrom.

Such Assistant Commissioner shall be called an Assistant Commissioner in charge of a Sub-division of a District, and shall exercise the powers and discharge the duties conferred and imposed upon him by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force, subject to the control of the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, delegate his powers under this section to the Deputy Commissioner of the District, and may revoke such delegation.

Power to invest certain Assistant Commissioners with powers of Deputy Commissioner.

7. Subject to such rules as the Governor General in Council from time to time prescribes in this behalf, the Chief Commissioner may confer on any Assistant Commissioner in charge of a Sub-division of a District all or any of the powers of a Deputy Commissioner; and all powers so conferred shall be exercised subject to the control of the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

Subordination of Revenue Officers.

8. Every officer of a Sub-division of a District employed in maintaining revenue-records or otherwise in or about the business of the land-revenue shall be subordinate to the Assistant Commissioner (if any) in charge of such Sub-division, subject to the general control of the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

Conferring of powers.

9. Subject to such rules as the Governor General in Council from time to time prescribes in this behalf, the Chief Commissioner may confer upon any person all or any of the powers of an Assistant Commissioner of the first or of the second class, and may, in conferring those or any other powers under this Act, empower persons by name, or classes of officials generally by their official titles, and may vary or cancel any order conferring powers under this Act.

Power to vary and cancel orders conferring powers.

Transfer of cases to subordinates.

10. The Deputy Commissioner of the District, or any Assistant Commissioner in charge of a Sub-division of a District, may make over any case, or class of cases, arising under the provisions of this Act or otherwise, for enquiry or decision, from his own file to any of his subordinates competent to deal with such case or class, or may withdraw any such case, or class of cases

Power to withdraw cases from subordinates.

from any Revenue Officer subordinate to him, and may deal with such case or class himself, or refer the same for disposal to any other such Revenue Officer competent to deal therewith.

Deputy Commissioner of the District in case of temporary vacancy.

11. If the Deputy Commissioner of the District dies, or is disabled from performing his duties, the officer who succeeds temporarily to the chief executive administration of the District in revenue matters shall be held to be the Deputy Commissioner of the District under this Act until the Chief Commissioner appoints a successor to the Deputy Commissioner so dying or disabled, and such successor takes charge of his appointment.

Powers of officers transferred to another district.

12. Whenever any person holding an office in the service of Government, who has been invested with any powers under this Act in any District, is transferred to an equal or higher office of the same nature within another District, he shall, unless the Chief Commissioner otherwise directs, be held to be invested with the same powers in the District to which he is so transferred.

Appointment of Tahsíldárs.

13. Tahsíldárs shall be appointed by the Chief Commissioner, subject to such rules as to qualification or otherwise as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time make under section 208.

CHAPTER III.

SETTLEMENT.

Notification as to settlement.

14. Whenever the Chief Commissioner thinks that any District or other local area liable to be brought under settlement should be so brought, he shall, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, publish a notification to that effect.

Notification as to settlement record.

And if he thinks that a settlement record should be prepared for any District or other local area, he shall, with the like sanction, publish a notification to that effect.

Chief Commissioner to issue rules as to mode of assessment.

15. The Chief Commissioner shall, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, frame and issue rules regarding the mode in which the revenue demand in respect of any local area is to be assessed; and may from time to time make rules prescribing the manner in which Settlement Officers shall report for sanction the rates and method of assessment and the amounts they propose to assess.

Settlement record.

16. The Chief Commissioner shall, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, determine what documents shall form the settlement-record, and frame and issue rules regarding (a) the mode in which such record is to be prepared, (b) the facts to be therein entered, and (c) the manner in which the entries shall be attested.

The Chief Commissioner may from time to time, with the same sanction, alter such rules.

Presumption as to entries in settlement record.

17. Every entry in such settlement record duly made and attested shall, until the contrary is proved, be presumed to be a correct record of the fact entered.

Settlement to be deemed in progress until closing notified.

18. Every local area shall be held to be under settlement from the date of any notification published under section 14, and relating thereto, until the issue of another notification declaring settlement operations to be closed therein.

Settlements now in progress brought under operation of Act.

Every local area under settlement at the time of the passing of this Act shall be held to be under settlement within the meaning of this section without the issue of either of the notifications prescribed by section 14.

Appointment and powers of Settlement Officers.

19. The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, appoint an officer to be in charge of the settlement of any local area and as many Assistant Settlement Officers as the Chief Commissioner thinks fit; and such officers shall exercise the powers conferred on them respectively under this Act so long as such area is under settlement.

Power to invest Settlement Officers with powers of Civil Courts in certain cases.

20. In any local area in which a settlement of the land-revenue is in progress, the Chief Commissioner, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may by order confer on any officer making or controlling such settlement the powers of a Civil Court of any specified grade for the purpose of trying suits and appeals, or any specified class of suits and appeals, relating to property in land assessed or assessable to revenue, in such District, and may revoke any such order; and so long as such order remains in force the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts of the same grade shall be excluded in respect of such suits and appeals.

Power to transfer cases from Settlement Officers to Civil Courts.

21. Notwithstanding the existence of any such order, the Chief Commissioner may from time to time direct that any cases pending before the Settlement Officers invested with the powers mentioned in section nineteen, shall be transferred to the ordinary Civil Courts of the District if the state of business in his opinion requires such transfer.

Trial of suit relating to land and to other property.

22. If a suit relating as well to such land as other property be instituted before any officer so invested, he shall make a reference regarding the disposal of such suit to the Commissioner of the Division in which the District wherein the suit was instituted is included, who shall determine by what Court the suit shall be tried.

Powers of Settlement Officers as to erection of boundary-marks and decision of disputes.

23. When any local area is under settlement, the Settlement Officer shall have power to call upon all proprietors, by proclamation to be stuck up in some conspicuous place in each village, to erect within fifteen days such boundary-marks as he may think necessary to define the limits of their villages, mahals or fields; and in default of their compliance within the time specified in the notice, he may cause such boundary-marks to be erected, and he shall recover the cost of such erection from the proprietors as if it were an arrear of land-revenue.

In case of dispute concerning any boundary-marks, the Settlement Officer shall decide such dispute on the basis of possession, or may refer it to arbitration, for decision on the merits as provided for in sections 192 to 203, both inclusive.

Power of Settlement and Survey Officers to do necessary acts.

24. All Settlement Officers, and all officers in charge of a survey made in connection with the revenue, and their assistants, servants, agents and workmen, may do all acts necessary for any purpose connected with the settlement or survey, as the case may be.

Power to require attendance of persons concerned, and production of documents.

25. The Settlement Officer may order all persons whose presence is, in his opinion, necessary for any of the purpose of this chapter, to attend at any specified time and place, and to produce any written document in their possession or power; and all such persons shall be legally bound to obey such order.

With whom settlement to be made.

26. The settlement shall be made in the case of a taluqdárí mahál with the taluqdár, and in the case of other mahals with the proprietor of the mahál;

or if there are two classes of proprietors, superior and inferior, with either of such classes as the Chief Commissioner directs, or if the taluqdár or proprietor has transferred possession of his mahál to a mortgagee or conditional vendee, then with such mortgagee or vendee.

Settlement of estate in possession of lunatic or minor.

If, at the time of settlement, a mahál, or any share thereof, be in the possession of a lunatic, minor or other person incapable of making a contract, the settlement shall be made on his behalf with his guardian or with the manager of his property.

Power to make joint settlement with several proprietors or their elected representatives.

27. When several persons are in possession of a mahál, not being a taluqdárí mahál, the Settlement Officer shall have power to make a joint settlement with all such persons, or with their representatives.

Framing and reporting general proposals of assessment.

28. The Settlement Officer shall, in accordance with the rules made under section fifteen, frame general proposals of assessment for any local area or any portion thereof regarding which a notification has been published under the first clause of section fourteen, and shall report such proposals through the Commissioner of the Division to the Chief Commissioner.

Detailed assessment and declaration thereof to persons concerned.

29. After the receipt of the orders of the Chief Commissioner thereon, and subject to such orders, the Settlement Officer shall ascertain the amount of the assessment proper for each mahál in such area, and shall declare the same to the person with whom the settlement of such mahál is to be made.

If any mahál in any such area comprise two or more villages, or portions of villages, the Settlement Officer shall declare the assessment due on each of such villages or portions of villages, together with the aggregate amount of the assessment proper in his opinion for the whole mahál.

Such declaration shall be made on a date to be notified by proclamation at the tahsil in which such mahál is situate.

30. If the persons with whom the settlement of such mahál is to be made agree to the assessment so proposed, they and those (if any) whom they represent in interest shall become liable from the date of such agreement, or from such subsequent date as the Chief Commissioner directs, to pay such assessment in respect of such mahál.

Effect of agreement to assessment proposed.

and in a mahál in which the land, or part of the land is held in severalty, the Settlement Officer shall distribute such assessment on the lands so held.

Distribution of assessment.

31. In any mahál where, by the established custom, the land or the amount of revenue payable by each co-sharer is subject to periodical re-distribution or re-adjustment, the Settlement Officer may, on application of one or more of the co-sharers, enforce such re-distribution or re-adjustment according to such custom.

Enforcement of custom as to re-distribution of land and adjustment of revenue of shares.

32. If the person to be settled with be a taluqdár and such taluqdár refuse to accept the assessment offered by the Settlement Officer in respect of his entire taluqá, or in respect of any portion thereof, or if, within thirty days from the date of the declaration by the Settlement Officer under section 29, such taluqdár fail to accept such assessment, the Settlement Officer shall report the case through the Commissioner of the Division to the Chief Commissioner,

Exclusion of taluqdár declining or failing to accept settlement.

The Chief Commissioner, after hearing and considering the reasons which the taluqdár may have to urge against the assessment, may direct that the taluqdár so refusing or failing be excluded from the settlement of his entire taluqá, or of any portion thereof, for such term not exceeding fifteen years from the date of such direction, as the Chief Commissioner shall fix; and the Settlement Officer or Deputy Commissioner shall either farm the taluqá or any portion thereof or hold it under direct management during such term, or any part thereof: provided that no taluqdár shall be excluded from the settlement of his entire taluqá without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

33. If a taluqdár be excluded from the settlement of any portion of his taluqá, and if such portion be held in sub-settlement by an under-proprietor, the farm of such portion shall be offered to such under-proprietor on such terms as the Chief Commissioner may in each case direct.

Offer of farm to under-proprietor.

34. If such under-proprietor accept the assessment so offered, the taluqdár so excluded shall be entitled to an allowance out of the profits of such portion to be fixed by the Chief Commissioner not exceeding the share of the gross assets, if any, to which he would have been entitled had he accepted the assessment.

Allowance to excluded taluqdár.

In other cases, the taluqdár so excluded shall (subject to the orders of the Chief Commissioner) be entitled to an allowance out of the profits of such portion of not less than five or more than fifteen per cent. on the amount proposed to be assessed thereon.

35. In a mahál other than a taluqdárí mahál, if the person to be settled with refuse to accept the assessment offered by the Settlement Officer, or fail to accept such assessment within thirty days from the date of the declaration by the Settlement Officer under section 29, the Settlement Officer shall report the case through the Commissioner of the Division to the Chief Commissioner, and the Chief Commissioner may direct that the person so refusing or failing be excluded from the settlement for such term not exceeding fifteen years from the date of such direction, as the Chief Commissioner thinks fit, and the Settlement Officer or the Deputy Commissioner may, with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner, either farm the mahál or hold it under direct management during such term or any part thereof.

Exclusion of person declining or failing to accept settlement in a mahál.

In such case the person so excluded shall be entitled (subject to the orders of the Chief Commissioner) to an allowance out of the profits of the mahál, of not less than five or more than fifteen per cent. on the amount proposed to be assessed thereon.

Allowance to person excluded.

36. If in a mahál held on a pattídárí or imperfect pattídárí tenure any of the co-sharers refuse or fail within thirty days from the date of the declaration by the Settlement Officer under section 29 to accept the proposed assessment, the shares of such co-sharers shall be dealt with under the provisions of section 35, and they shall receive an allowance, as provided in that section, in proportion to their respective shares in the mahál.

Procedure in case of some of several proprietors refusing assessment.

If the Settlement Officer farms any share in such mahál, the farm of such share shall be offered in the first instance to those co-sharers who have accepted the proposed terms.

Farm of shares of proprietors refusing.

37. Any proprietor excluded from settlement under sections 35 and 36 shall be entitled to hold as a tenant with a right of occupancy so much of the land in the mahál actually cultivated by him as the Settlement Officer may determine, and the rent to be paid by such proprietor for such land during such exclusion shall be fixed by the Settlement Officer at the rate which would have been paid by a tenant-at-will for the said land less four annas in the rupee.

Adjustment of rent of the sir land of proprietors of mahál farmed under section 35 or 36.

38. The aggregate amount of any allowance assigned under section 35 or section 36 to any proprietor of a mahál who has been excluded from settlement, and of the difference between the rent fixed under section 37, and the rent which he would be liable to pay if he were a tenant-at-will, shall not be less than five or more than fifteen per cent. on the amount proposed by the Settlement Officer to be assessed on such mahál.

Amount of allowance assigned under section 35 or 36 to excluded proprietor, and of difference between rent fixed under section 37, and rent payable by him if he were a tenant-at-will.

39. On the expiration of the term fixed under section 32 or section 35, the settlement of such mahál portion, or share comprised therein shall be offered by the Deputy Commissioner to the person then entitled to be settled with in respect of such mahál portion or share, at such assessment for the remainder of the term of settlement of the District as the Chief Commissioner may direct.

Offer of settlement to excluded proprietor on expiry of term of exclusion.

And if such person refuse to accept the offer, the Deputy Commissioner shall report such refusal through the Commissioner of the Division to the Chief Commissioner, and such person may be excluded from settlement for such period not exceeding the term of the settlement of the District, as the Chief Commissioner may direct, and the provisions of sections 32 to 38 (both inclusive) shall, so far as may be applicable, apply to his case.

Procedure on refusal.

40. The Settlement Officer shall, in accordance with the provisions of the Oudh Sub-settlement Act, 1866, so far as they are applicable, determine the rent to be paid to the proprietor by all under-proprietors in a mahál and by all holders of heritable, non-transferable leases, whose rent has not been fixed by contract.

Determination of rent payable to proprietor.

When the rent is so determined the co-sharers may at their option agree with the Settlement Officer that the rent shall be paid either by them collectively or by one of them on behalf of himself and the others. Whenever, whether before or after the passing of this Act, rent payable by such under-proprietors or lessees has been determined by a Settlement Officer, all the co-sharers shall be jointly and severally responsible for the payment to the proprietor of the rent so determined.

Nothing in this section applies to rent payable by a tenant with a right of occupancy.

41. All land shall be deemed liable to be charged with the payment of revenue to Government, unless some competent authority has declared it exempt from such payment. And no length of occupancy of any land, nor any grant of land made by the proprietor, shall release such land from such liability.

Saving of liability for Government revenue.

42. The Settlement Officer shall enquire into the case of all lands released, conditionally or for a term, from the payment of revenue, and shall assess such lands if it appear to him that the conditions have been transgressed or the term has expired.

Inquiry into cases of land released from payment of revenue.

43. Every settlement shall be made subject to confirmation by the Governor General in Council.

Confirmation of settlement.

44. The Governor General in Council shall, at some time before confirming the settlement, fix the period for which the settlement is to be made. Such period shall be fixed with reference to the agricultural year.

Period for which settlement is to be made.

45. The assessment of any mahál may be revised at any time before it is confirmed by the Governor General in Council, and in such case the revised assessment shall be proposed to the proprietors of such mahál, and the provisions of sections 23 to 40 (both inclusive) shall apply.

Revision of assessment before confirmation.

Alteration of assessment during the currency of a Settlement.

46. The Deputy Commissioner shall enquire annually into the cases of all land released from the payment of revenue conditionally, or for a term, or for the life of the grantee.

Annual enquiry as to revenue-free grants.

If the condition be broken, he shall report the case through the Commissioner of the Division to the Chief Commissioner for orders, and if the term has expired, or (where the grant is for the life of the grantee) if the grantee has died, the Deputy Commissioner shall assess the land comprised therein, and shall report his proceedings through the Commissioner of the Division to the Chief Commissioner for sanction.

47. All land added by alluvion to a mahál is liable to assessment. Such land may be assessed and settled under rules to be framed under section 208.

Assessment of land added by alluvion.

48. Where such land is held by an under-proprietor or lessee whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, such rent shall be increased proportionately to the increase of revenue effected by such assessment.

Proportionate increase of rent payable by under-proprietor.

49. Where for any cause the revenue assessed on a mahál has, by order of the Chief Commissioner, been reduced or been wholly or in part remitted or suspended, and the land on account of which the revenue has been so reduced, remitted or suspended is in the possession of an under-proprietor or lessee whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, such under-proprietor or lessee shall be entitled (where the revenue has been reduced or remitted) to a proportionate reduction or remission of the rent payable by him in respect of such land, or (where the revenue has been suspended) to a suspension of the payment of such rent for the time during which the revenue has been so suspended.

Proportionate reduction or remission of rent payable by under-proprietor or lessee.

50. Assessments under sections 46 and 47 shall be made by the Deputy Commissioner in the same manner and with the same powers as if he were an officer in charge of a settlement.

Deputy Commissioner to have powers of officer in charge of settlement.

51. At any time during the currency of a settlement, the Chief Commissioner may, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, invest any officer with all or any of the powers of an officer in charge of a settlement under this Act within such limits, and with such restrictions, and for such period as he thinks fit;

Power to invest officer with Settlement Officer's powers.

but not so as to enable him to enhance the total amount of revenue payable on account of any mahál except in respect of land added thereto or becoming liable to payment of revenue since the confirmation of the settlement.

Resumption of rent-free grants.

52. All grants (whether in writing or otherwise) by proprietors or the persons whom they represent of land to be held exempt from the payment of rent are hereby declared to be liable to resumption, unless such grants have been sanctioned or confirmed by the Governor General in Council or the Chief Commissioner.

Liability of rent-free grants to resumption.

53. Provided that grants of land held under a written instrument (whether executed before or after the passing of this Act) by which the grantor expressly agrees that the grant shall not be resumed, shall be held valid against him (but not as against his representatives after his death) during the continuance of the settlement of the District in which the land is situate which was current at the date of the grant.

Grants under certain instruments.

54. Proprietors wishing to resume grants made by themselves or the persons whom they represent shall apply by petition to the principal Court of original civil jurisdiction of the District in which the land is situate for a declaration of the liability of the grant to resumption.

Application for declaration of such liability.

The Court shall cause notice of such application to be served on the grantee, and shall fix a day for hearing his objections (if any) to the declaration; and thereupon, after considering such objections (if any), may either dismiss the application with or without costs to be paid by the applicant, or declare that the grant is liable, in whole or in part, to resumption.

55. Nothing in section 52, section 53, or section 54 applies to either of the following cases:—

Exemptions from sections 52, 53 and 54.

(a) where land is held rent-free under a judicial decision;

(b) where previously to the passing of this Act, land held rent-free has been acquired for a valuable consideration and the right to resume it has been barred by the law of limitation.

56. The amount of rent payable in respect of land which has been declared by a Civil Court liable to resumption shall, when the district in which the land is situate is under settlement, be determined by the Settlement Officer and in every other case by the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

Rent of land declared liable to resumption.

CHAPTER IV.

REGISTRATION, INCLUDING THE PREPARATION AND MAINTENANCE OF REVENUE RECORDS.

57. The Deputy Commissioner of the District shall, on the basis of the settlement record, and in accordance with such rules as the Chief Commissioner from time to time prescribes in this behalf, prepare the following lists and registers:—

Lists and registers to be prepared by Deputy Commissioner.

(a) A list of all the villages in each pargana or tahsíl of his District;

The pargana register.

(b) A list of all the revenue-paying mahals in each pargana or tahsíl, shewing the revenue assessed on each mahál, and the name of the person responsible for its payment whether as sole proprietor or as lambardár;

The málguzárí register.

(c) A register of all the co-sharers in each mahál with the nature and extent of the interest of each co-sharer;

The khewat.

(d) A register of all mahals in which the rent of any under-proprietor or lessee has been fixed by the Settlement Officer, the names of all the co-sharers in such mahals, together with the nature and extent of the interest of such co-sharers.

Register of sub-settled mahals with khewat.

(e) For each mahál a list—

Register of under-proprietary and other tenures.

(1) of all under-proprietors and lessees whose rent has been so fixed, and of all tenants with a right of occupancy, with the nature and extent of the interest of each such person, and the rent (if any) which he is liable to pay therefor,

(2) of all other persons (if any) holding land free of rent, or revenue free.

(f) A register—

Register of revenue-free tenures.

(1) of all land in his District held revenue free, with the names of the holders, and the conditions of the grant under which they hold,

(2) of all land declared by competent authority to be waqf or nazul, or the property of the State.

(g) A register of all mahals on which a málikána allowance has been sanctioned by competent authority, with the names of the persons entitled to such allowance, the amount of such allowance, and the conditions under which it was given.

The málikána register.

(h) A register of all jungle-grants, the names of the grantees, and the conditions of the grants.

Register of jungle-grants.

58. In the preparation of the said lists and registers, the Deputy Commissioner shall correct any errors in the settlement records which the parties interested admit to have been made therein; and any dispute arising regarding any entry in such record shall be investigated and decided on the basis of actual possession; and all persons not in possession, but claiming the right to be so, shall be referred to a Court of competent jurisdiction, except where the claim is founded on the decision of such Court, and in such case the entry shall be in accordance with such decision.

Correction of errors in settlement record.

59. The Deputy Commissioner shall keep and maintain the said lists and registers,

Deputy Commissioner to keep the lists and registers.

and he shall from time to time cause to be registered all events and transactions affecting any of the rights or interests recorded in the said registers, to such extent as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time prescribe.

60. The Chief Commissioner shall prescribe the forms in which the lists and registers mentioned in section 57 are to be prepared, and the manner in which, the persons by whom, and the occasions on which, the alterations referred to in section 58 and section 59 are to be recorded.

Forms of lists and registers.

61. The Chief Commissioner may prescribe proper fees for alteration in the lists and registers formed under the said rules: Provided that no fee for a single alteration shall exceed one hundred rupees.

Power to prescribe fees for mutations.

Such fee shall be levied from the person in whose favour the mutation is made, and shall be expended in such manner as the Chief Commissioner thinks fit.

Levy of fees.

Fees how spent.

62. All persons obtaining the possession of land or the profits thereof, whether by succession, purchase or other form of transfer, as proprietors or under-proprietors, or as lessees whose rents have been fixed by a Settlement Officer, or as mortgagees, shall give notice of the same immediately after it has taken place to the tahsíldár of the tahsíl in which the mahál to which such land belongs is situated, or to the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

Notice of transfer of possession.

If the notification be made to the tahsíldár, that officer shall report such notice to the Deputy Commissioner.

63. The Deputy Commissioner on receiving such notice or report shall make such enquiry as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time prescribe to ascertain the fact of the alleged transfer of the property, and if the transfer appears to have taken place, he shall, subject to the rules framed by the Chief Commissioner under section 208, record the same in the appropriate register:

Enquiry as to truth of transfer.

Provided that no such entry shall be held to affect the rights of any other person who may claim and establish in any Court of competent jurisdiction any interest in the land to which the entry has reference.

64. If the person so succeeding is a minor or otherwise under disability, the guardian or other person who has charge of his property shall give the notice required by section 62.

Notification in case of minority or other disqualification.

65. Any person neglecting to give the notice prescribed in section 62 within three months from the date of the occurrence of the fact to be notified, shall be liable, at the discretion of the Deputy Commissioner, to a fine not exceeding five times the amount of the fee which would otherwise have been payable under section 61.

Fine for neglect to notify.

66. If in the course of enquiry made under section 63, a dispute regarding the possession of the property arises, and the Deputy Commissioner is unable to satisfy himself as to which party is in possession, he shall ascertain by summary enquiry who is the person primâ facie entitled to the property and shall put such person in possession, and make the necessary entry in the record accordingly, subject to any order that may be subsequently passed by the Civil Court.

Power to put one party in possession in certain cases of dispute.

67. When any person obtains possession of land or of the profits thereof, for any interest other than those referred to in section 62, the transfer of such possession shall be recorded by the Kánúngo and patwárí in such manner as the Chief Commissioner from time to time directs;

Registry of transfers of interests in land other than those referred to in section 62.

and all disputed cases shall be reported to the Deputy Commissioner or Assistant Commissioner, who shall make such enquiry as may be necessary to ascertain the fact of the alleged transfer, and cause the record to be amended accordingly.

Enquiry in disputed cases.

68. All registers prepared under the preceding sections of this chapter shall be deemed to be public documents and the property of Government, and shall be open to public inspection at such hours and on such conditions as to fees or otherwise as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time prescribe.

Inspection of registers.

CHAPTER V.

PARTITION AND UNION OF MAHALS.

69. Partition is either perfect or imperfect.

Partitions.

'Perfect partition' means the division of a mahál into two or more mahals, severally responsible for the revenue assessed on each.

'Perfect partition.'

'Imperfect partition' means the division of any mahál, or of any portion of a mahál, into two or more portions jointly responsible for the revenue assessed on the whole mahál.

'Imperfect partition.'

70. Any recorded co-sharer in a mahál and any person in whose favour a decree has been passed by any Civil Court, awarding to him the proprietary right in a portion of a mahál, whether such portion consists of a fractional share in the whole or a part of the mahál, or of specific lands, is entitled to claim perfect partition of his share.

Persons entitled to perfect partition.

Any two or more recorded co-sharers may claim that their shares be divided from the other shares by a perfect partition, and be held by them as a single mahál.

If any recorded co-sharer be under disability, the person in possession of his property shall, for the purpose of this section, be deemed to be a recorded co-sharer.

71. Applications for perfect partition are to be made in writing to the Deputy Commissioner of the district in which the mahál is situated; and shall be accompanied by a certified copy of the record, showing the share held by the applicant in the mahál:

Application for perfect partition.

Provided that, if the mahál be situated in two or more districts, the application may be made in any one of those districts, and the partition shall be made by such one of the Deputy Commissioners of those districts as the Chief Commissioner any direct.

Provision as to estates situated in more than one district.

72. The Deputy Commissioner, on receiving an application for partition shall, if the application be in order and not open to objection on the face of it, publish a notification of the same at his office, and at some conspicuous place in the mahál to which the application relates, and shall serve a notice on all such of the recorded co-sharers in the mahál as have not joined in the application, requiring any co-sharer in possession who may object to the partition to appear before him to state his objection, either in person or by a duly authorized agent, on a day to be specified in the notice, not less that thirty, or more than sixty, days from the date on which such notice was issued.

Notification of application.

Notice to co-sharers not joining.

73. Where, from any cause, notice cannot be personally served on any co-sharer, the notification so published shall be deemed sufficient notice.

Notification when alone sufficient.

74. If, on or before the day so specified, any objection is made to the partition by any co-sharer in possession, and the Deputy Commissioner, on a consideration of such objection, is of opinion that there is any good and sufficient reason why the partition should be absolutely disallowed, he may refuse the application, recording the grounds of his refusal.

Power to refuse partition when objection admitted.

75. If the objection raises any question of title, or of proprietary right, which has not been already determined by a Court of competent jurisdiction, the Deputy Commissioner may either decline to grant the application until the question in dispute has been determined by a competent Court, or he may proceed to enquire into the merits of the objection.

Procedure if question of title be raised.

In the latter case the Deputy Commissioner after making the necessary inquiry and taking such evidence as may be adduced, shall record a proceeding declaring the nature and extent of the interests of the party or parties applying for the partition, and any other party or parties who may be affected thereby.

The procedure to be observed by the Deputy Commissioner in trying such cases shall be that laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure for the trial of original suits, and he may, with the consent of the parties, refer any question arising in such case to arbitration, and the provisions of chapter VI (relative to arbitrators) of the same Code shall apply to such references.

Procedure in such cases.

Reference to arbitration.

76. All orders and decisions passed by the Deputy Commissioner under the last preceding section, for declaring the rights of parties, shall be held to be decisions of a Court of civil judicature of first instance, and shall be open to appeal under the provisions of the Oudh Civil Courts Act.

Deputy Commissioner's decision equivalent to decision of Civil Court.

Appeal thereupon.

Upon such appeal being made, the appellate Court may issue a precept to the Deputy Commissioner, desiring him to stay the partition, pending the decision of the appeal.

Appellate Court may stay partition.

77. When it has been decided to make a partition under this chapter, the Deputy Commissioner shall either give the parties the option of making the partition themselves, or of appointing arbitrators for the purpose; or he shall make the partition himself or cause it to be made by any Assistant Commissioner subordinate to him, and when made by an Assistant Commissioner, it shall be reported to the Deputy Commissioner for his confirmation.

Option to make partition themselves or to appoint arbitrators.

78. If arbitrators are appointed, the provisions of sections 192 to 203, both inclusive, shall apply.

Partition by arbitrators.

In making a partition, arbitrators shall not be bound by the provisions of sections 81 to 84 both inclusive; but they shall deliver a full and complete paper of partition, specifying the separate mahálsinto which they propose that the mahál shall be divided; the names of the parties to whom the several mahálsare proposed to be allotted, and the amount of land revenue which in the opinion of the arbitrators should be assessed on each of such mahálsi.

79. In making partitions, the Deputy Commissioner, and any person appointed by him, shall have the same powers to enter on the land under partition, for marking out the boundaries, surveying the mahál, and other purposes, as are conferred on Settlement Officers under this Act.

Power to enter on land for purposes of partition.

80. When a Deputy Commissioner has decided that a partition shall be made, he may, with the sanction of the Commissioner, hold the mahál under direct management, pending the completion of the partition.

Power to hold mahál under direct management, pending partition.

The provisions of the law in force for the time being, for the management of mahálsheld under direct management for arrears of revenue shall be applicable to mahálsi, the management of which is assumed under this section.

The collections of the mahál shall be applied to the payment of the Government revenue, and, after defraying the expenses of management and any other expenses with which the mahál is chargeable, the residue shall be divided amongst the recorded co-sharers in proportion to their respective shares at such periods as the Deputy Commissioner may see fit.

81. Where there are no lands held in common, the lands held in severalty by the applicant for partition shall be declared a separate mahál, and shall be separately assessed to the Government revenue.

Partition of lands held only in severalty.

82. Where some of the lands are held in common, the Deputy Commissioner shall allot to the applicant for partition his share of such lands in accordance with village custom, if any such exist.

Partition of lands some of which are held in common.

If no such custom exist, the Deputy Commissioner shall make such division as may secure to the applicant his fair portion of the common lands.

83. The portion of the common lands falling by such partition to the share of the applicant shall be added to the land held by him in severalty, and the mahálsthus formed shall be assessed and declared separate mahálsi.

Formation of separate mahálsfrom shares allotted in partition.

84. In making partitions under this Act, the Deputy Commissioner shall give effect to any transfer of lands held in severalty and forming part of the mahál, which has been agreed to by the parties, previous to the declaration of the partition.

Transfers to be effectuated in making partition.

85. Where all the lands are held in common, the Deputy Commissioner shall make such a partition as may secure to the applicant his fair share of the mahál.

Partition where all lands are held in common.

86. In all cases each mahál shall be made as compact as possible: Provided that, except with the sanction of the Chief Commissioner, no partition be disallowed solely on the ground of incompactness.

Estate to be compact.

87. If in making the partition it be necessary to include in the mahál assigned to one sharer, the land occupied by a dwelling-house or other building in the possession of another co-sharer, such other co-sharer shall be allowed to retain it, with the buildings thereon (if any) on condition of his paying a reasonable ground-rent therefor to the sharer into whose portion it may fall.

Rule when dwelling-house of one sharer is included in mahál assigned to another.

The limits of such land, and the rent to be paid for it, shall be fixed by the Deputy Commissioner.

88. Tanks, wells, water-courses and embankments shall be considered as attached to the land for the benefit of which they were originally made.

Rule as to tanks, wells, water-courses and embankments.

Where, from the extent, situation or construction of such works, it is found necessary that they should continue the joint property of the proprietors of two or more of the mahálsi into which the mahál may be divided, the Deputy Commissioner shall determine the extent to which the proprietors of each mahál may make use of the said works, and the proportion of the charges for repairs of such works to be borne by such proprietors respectively, and the manner in which the profits, if any, derived form such works, shall be divided.

89. Places of worship and burial-grounds, held in common previous to the partition of a mahál, shall continue to be so held, unless the persons who so held them otherwise agree among themselves.

Rules as to places of worship and burial-grounds.

In such cases they shall state in writing the agreement into which they have entered, and such writing shall be filed with the record.

90. In all cases whether partition has been made by arbitrators or otherwise, the amount of revenue to be paid in respect of each portion of a mahál partitioned under this chapter shall be determined by the Deputy Commissioner, provided that the aggregate revenue payable in respect of the new mahálsi shall not exceed the revenue assessed on the mahál immediately before partition; and the proprietor of each new mahál shall be held liable for the portion of the revenue assessed on his mahál, whether a new engagement be taken from him or not.

Determination of revenue payable by each division of a mahál.

Liability of proprietors.

91. If at any stage of any proceedings under this chapter there appears to be any reason for stopping the partition, the Deputy Commissioner may of his own motion, or on the report of the Assistant Commissioner making the partition, stay the partition and order the proceedings to be quashed.

Power to stay partition.

92. A partition, whether made by the Deputy Commissioner himself or otherwise, shall not be deemed to be complete unless the Deputy Commissioner has made an order confirming it.

Order confirming partition.

On making such order, he shall publish a notification of the fact at his office and at some conspicuous place in each of the new mahálsi,

Notification of order.

and the partition shall take effect on and from the first day of July next after the date of such notification.

Partition when to take effect.

93. An appeal against the decision of the Deputy Commissioner confirming a partition, shall lie to the Commissioner of the division within one year from the date on which such partition takes effect.

Appeal to Commissioner from orders of Deputy Commissioner.

94. Where the land-revenue is fraudulently or erroneously distributed at the time of the partition, the Chief Commissioner may, within twelve years from the time of discovery of the fraud or error, order a new allotment of the land-revenue upon the several mahálsi into which the mahál has been divided, on an estimate of the assets of each mahál at the time of the partition, to be made conformably to the best evidence and information procurable respecting the same.

Power to order new allotment of revenue on proof of fraud or error in first distribution.

95. Imperfect partition shall be carried out according to the provisions of sections 70 to 93 (both inclusive) so far as they are applicable: Provided that no application for imperfect partition shall be entertained unless the consent of recorded co-sharers holding in the aggregate more than one moiety of the property of which partition is sought be first obtained.

Making of imperfect partitions.

96. No Civil Court shall entertain any suit or application for perfect or imperfect partition.

Civil Courts barred from entertaining applications for partitions.

97. All imperfect partitions and all partitions perfect or imperfect of under-proprietary mahálsi hitherto made, shall be deemed to have been made under the provisions of this Act.

Previous imperfect partitions and partitions of under-proprietary mahálsi.

98. If two or more revenue-paying mahâls have originally formed portions of the same village, the proprietor shall be entitled to have such mahâls united and to hold them as a single mahâl.

Union of mahâls originally part of same village.

99. Every application for the union of such mahâls shall be made in writing to the Deputy Commissioner of the district in which the mahâls are situate.

Application for such union.

If the Deputy Commissioner see no objection, he shall comply with the application, and cause the necessary entries to be made in the register of his office, reporting the case to the Commissioner of the division.

Application how dealt with.

100. The provisions of this chapter, so far as they are applicable, may be applied by order of the Deputy Commissioner to the partition or union of mahâls held free of revenue.

Partition or union of revenue-free mahâls.

101. The partition of taluqdârî and under-proprietary mahâls and of mahâls held by lessees whose rent has been fixed by the Settlement Officer, shall be carried out accordingly to the provisions of sections 70 to 94 (both inclusive), so far as they are applicable.

Partition of taluqdârî and under-proprietary mahâls.

(a) In the partition of taluqdârî mahâls, all mahâls, whether under-proprietary or held by lessees whose rent has been fixed by the Settlement Officer shall, if practicable, be assigned to one or other of the new taluqâs to be formed by the partition;

Assignment of inferior mahâls.

(b) if any such mahâl cannot be assigned in whole, the assignment shall be made by thoks, pattîs or other existent sub-divisions;

(c) and if no other satisfactory arrangement can be made, such mahâl shall be partitioned;

(d) in cases in which one portion of any such mahâl is assigned to one taluqá and another portion to another taluqá, each portion shall be deemed a separate mahâl, the joint responsibility of the co-sharers being limited to such portion.

102. Whenever a partition of a mahâl in respect of which rent is payable is effected under this Act, the amount of rent to be paid in respect of each portion shall be determined by the Deputy Commissioner, and the person to whom such rent is payable may present an application in writing to the Deputy Commissioner objecting to the distribution of the rental over the several parts into which the mahâl has been divided, and praying that such objection may be heard and determined; and his objection shall be heard and determined, and the Deputy Commissioner shall record his reasons for such determination.

Objection to distribution of rental.

CHAPTER VI.

MAINTENANCE OF BOUNDARIES.

103. The Deputy Commissioner and his subordinates shall have power to enter upon and survey land, and to demarcate the boundaries of mahâls, villages and fields.

Power of Deputy Commissioner to enter and survey.

104. All owners of mahâls, villages or fields, are bound to maintain and keep in repair at their own cost the boundary-marks lawfully erected thereon.

Obligations of owners as to boundary-marks.

105. Any person convicted before a Deputy Commissioner of wilfully erasing, removing or damaging any such boundary-mark, may be ordered by the convicting officer to pay such sum not exceeding fifty rupees for each mark so erased, removed or damaged, as may be necessary to defray the expense of restoring such mark, and of rewarding the informer (if any) through whom the conviction was obtained.

Payment for erasing, removing or injuring marks.

106. Whenever the person erasing, removing or damaging any such mark cannot be discovered, or if for any other reason the sum which he has been so ordered to pay cannot be recovered, the mark shall be re-erected or repaired at the charge of the owner or owners of such one or more of the conterminous field or mahâls as to the Deputy Commissioner seems fit.

Who is to be charged for re-erection and repair when offenders not discoverable.

107. The Deputy Commissioner may decide, on the basis of possession, all disputes concerning boundaries, and may at any time direct the owners of mahâls villages or fields, by written notice served upon them,

Powers of Deputy Commissioner as to boundary disputes and boundary-marks.

(a) to cause proper boundary-marks to be erected in such mahâls, villages or fields,

(b) to repair the boundary-marks lawfully erected in such mahâls, villages or fields.

108. In default of compliance with such direction within fifteen days from the date of the service of the notice, the Deputy Commissioner shall cause such boundary-marks to be erected or repaired, as the case may be, and shall charge the cost of such erections or repairs to the owners of the conterminous mahâls, villages or fields in such proportion as he thinks fit.

Power to erect or repair boundary-marks.

CHAPTER VII.

COLLECTION OF THE LAND-REVENUE.

109. In the case of every mahâl the entire mahâl shall be charged with, and all the proprietors jointly and severally shall be responsible to Government for the revenue for the time being assessed on the mahâl.

Responsibility of proprietors of mahâl for land-revenue.

The term "proprietors" shall, for the purposes of this chapter, include all persons in possession for their own benefit.

110. The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, make rules as to the instalments in which, and the persons, places and times to whom, and at which, the revenue payable in respect of any land shall be paid.

Chief Commissioner may make rules as to payment of revenue.

111. Until the issue of such rules the said revenue shall be paid in the instalments, to the persons, and at the times and places in which, to whom, and at which, it is now paid.

Payment until issue of rules.

112. Any sum not so paid becomes thereupon an arrear of revenue, and the proprietor responsible for it becomes a defaulter.

Effect of non-payment.

No interest shall be demanded on any arrear of land-revenue.

113. If the settlement of any land has been made with a lambardár, and if there be an arrear of revenue due in respect of such land, both the lambardár and the co-sharers of the mahâl from which the arrear is due shall be deemed defaulters.

Defaulters in case of settlements with lambardárs.

114. A statement of account certified by the tahsîldar shall, for the purposes of this chapter, be conclusive evidence of the existence of the arrear, of its amount, and of the person who is the defaulter.

Evidence of arrear.

115. When an arrear of land-revenue has accrued, a writ of demand or summons to appear may issue, calling on the defaulter to pay the amount within a time therein stated.

Writ of demand.

116. At any time after an arrear of land-revenue becomes due, such officer as the Chief Commissioner from time to time empowers in this behalf, may arrest the defaulter and detain him in custody for fifteen days, unless the arrear, together with the costs of arrest, is sooner paid.

Arrest and detention of defaulter.

117. If the arrear be not paid within fifteen days, and no good reason for the non-payment is shown, the Deputy Commissioner may issue an order to the jailor of the civil jail of the district, directing him to confine the defaulter therein as a civil prisoner until the arrear is paid, or until the expiration of such period, not exceeding six months from the date of the order, as the Deputy Commissioner thinks fit; and such person shall be confined according to the terms of such order:

Imprisonment in civil jail.

Provided that no person exempted under the law for the time being in force from personal attendance in the Civil Courts, no taluqdár and no female, shall be subject to arrest or imprisonment under this and the preceding section.

118. The Deputy Commissioner may, whether the defaulter has been arrested and imprisoned or not, order the attachment and sale of so much of his moveable property as will, as nearly as may be, defray the arrear.

Attachment and sale of moveables.

Nothing herein contained shall authorize the attachment and sale of articles set aside exclusively for the use of religious endowments: or, in the case of an agriculturist, of instruments of husbandry and of cattle bonâ fide kept for the cultivation of his land, or in the case of an artisan, of his tools, nor of any other articles exempted by the law for the time being in force from sale in execution of decrees of Civil Courts.

119. Every attachment and sale ordered under the preceding section shall be conducted according to the law in force for the time being, for the attachment and sale of moveable property under the decree of a Civil Court.

Conduct of sale.

120. When an arrear of land-revenue has become due in respect of a share, pattî or mahâl, the Deputy Commissioner may in addition to, or instead of, the processes hereinbefore specified, cause such share, pattî or mahâl to be attached and taken under the direct management of any agent whom he appoints for that purpose.

Property may be attached and taken under direct management.

The agent so appointed shall stand, for the purpose of managing the property so attached, in the position of the person for whose default it was attached;

Powers and obligations of agent.

and shall be bound by all the liabilities of such person to any under-proprietors, lessees whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, or tenants with rights of occupancy;

and shall be entitled to manage such property and to receive all rents and profits accruing thereon to the exclusion of the person for whose default it was attached, until the arrears of land-revenue due therefrom have been satisfied, or until the Deputy Commissioner directs him to restore the person whose interest has been attached to the management thereof.

121. All surplus profits of the property so attached after defraying thereout any instalment of land-revenue that may become due during such management, and the cost of such attachment and direct management, shall be applied to discharging the arrear of revenue on account of which it was ordered.

Application of surplus profits.

And no such management shall continue after such arrear has been discharged as aforesaid, and any surplus remaining after payment of the charges mentioned in the first clause of this section shall be handed over to the proprietor.

Termination of management.

122. If an arrear of land-revenue has become due in respect of the share of any member of a village community, such community, or any member thereof, may tender payment of such arrear, or may offer to pay such arrear by instalments.

Transfer of share of defaulter to solvent co-sharers.

If such tender be made, or if the Deputy Commissioner considers such offer satisfactory, the Deputy Commissioner may transfer the share of the defaulting member to the community or member making the tender or offer on such terms as the Deputy Commissioner thinks fit, and either for a term of years, or until such arrear is paid.

In case of conflicting tenders or offers under this section, the co-sharer who, in case the share were sold, would have a right of pre-emption under section 9 of the Oudh Laws Act, shall be preferred.

123. If such share is so transferred until the arrear is repaid, and if the arrear is not repaid within twelve years from the date of the transfer, the community or member to whom the share has been so transferred, may apply in writing to the Deputy Commissioner to publish a notification that, if the arrear is not paid within one year from the date thereof, such transfer will become absolute.

When transfer of share is to become absolute.

The Deputy Commissioner shall publish such notification accordingly, and if the arrear is not repaid before the expiration of one year from the date of the notification, the transfer to such community or member shall become absolute.

Procedure not to affect joint liability of co-sharers.

124. The procedure prescribed in the two preceding sections shall not affect the joint liability of the co-sharers of the mahál.

When settlement may be annulled.

125. When any arrear of land-revenue has become due in respect of any pattí or mahál, and the Deputy Commissioner is of opinion that the processes hereinbefore provided are not sufficient for the recovery of such arrear, he may, in addition to, or instead of, any such process, report, through the Commissioner of the division, the matter to the Chief Commissioner, and the Chief Commissioner may thereupon order the existing settlement of such pattí or mahál to be annulled.

Exception of certain arrears.

The provisions of this section shall not be put in force for the recovery of any arrear of land-revenue which may have accrued on land,

(a) while attached under section 120, or

(b) while in charge of the Court of Wards.

When settlement has been annulled, the Deputy Commissioner may manage the land himself, or by agent, or let it in farm.

126. When the settlement of any pattí or mahál has been annulled under the last preceding section, the Deputy Commissioner may, with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner, either manage the land by himself or an agent, or let it in farm to any person willing to accept the same, for such term and on such conditions as may be approved by the Chief Commissioner:

Provided that the term for which a pattí or mahál may be so managed or let be not longer than fifteen years from the first day of July next after the date of such annulment.

Suspension of contracts.

And no interest in or right to such pattí or mahál, or any part thereof, created or assigned by any person who, immediately before the annulment of the settlement, was in possession of the whole or any part of the land comprised therein, or by any person through whom he claims, shall, during the continuance of such term, be binding on the Deputy Commissioner or his agent or lessee.

Proclamation of attachment or annulment of settlement.

127. When the Deputy Commissioner attaches any land under section 120, or when the settlement of any land has been annulled under section 125, he shall make public proclamation thereof on the mahál.

And he may realize all arrears of rent becoming due in respect of such land by under-proprietors or by lessees whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, as if they were arrears of land-revenue.

Payments thereafter to defaulter not to discharge payer.

128. No payment made after such proclamation on account of rent or other profit of the land so attached, or of which the settlement has been so annulled to any person other than the Deputy Commissioner or his agent or lessee, shall be credited to the person making such payment, or relieve him from liability to payment to the Deputy Commissioner, his agent or lessee.

Payments to defaulter in anticipation of due date.

129. No payment made to the defaulter in anticipation of the usual period for the payment of rents, shall, without the special sanction of the Deputy Commissioner, be credited to the person making the same in account with the Deputy Commissioner, or with his agent or lessee.

Recovery of balance due by farmer.

130. When any land has been let in farm under section 126 any balance due by the lessee as such may be recovered from him or his surety (if any) as if it were an arrear of revenue.

Suspension of responsibility of co-sharers for revenue of portion of mahál as to which settlement is annulled.

131. Whenever the settlement of any portion of a mahál is annulled under section 125, the joint responsibility of the co-sharers of the mahál for the revenue of such portion subsequently becoming due, shall be in abeyance until a new settlement of such portion is made under section 132.

Offer of settlement to proprietor on expiry of period for which land is managed or farmed.

132. After the expiration of the period for which any land has been managed or let in farm under section 126, the Deputy Commissioner shall offer to the person entitled to be settled with under section 26 a new settlement, on such conditions as the Chief Commissioner may direct, for the remainder of the term of the settlement of the district; and if such person refuse such offer, the Deputy Commissioner may (with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner) either manage the land by himself or an agent, or let the same in farm, under the provisions of sections 30 to 38, both inclusive.

Power to sell land to recover revenue-arrears.

133. When an arrear of land-revenue has become due in respect of any pattí or mahál, and the Deputy Commissioner of the district is of opinion that the other processes hereinbefore provided are not sufficient for the recovery of such arrear, he may, in addition to, or instead of all or any such other processes, and subject to the provisions next hereinafter contained, and with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner, sell by auction the pattí or mahál in respect of which such arrear is due:

Provided that no pattí or mahál shall be sold—

(a) for any arrears of land-revenue which may have become due in respect thereof while it was under the management of the Court of Wards, or held under the provisions of the Oudh Taluqdárs' Relief Act, or when the proprietor or under-proprietor thereof was, at the time the arrear accrued, a female deemed by the Chief Commissioner incompetent to manage her estate, a minor, an idiot, or a lunatic;

(b) for any arrears of land-revenue which may have become due while it was under attachment under section 120; or any other person under sections 32, 35, 126, or 132.

(c) for any arrears of land-revenue which may have become due while it was under direct management by the Deputy Commissioner, or in farm by

Land to be sold free of incumbrances.

134. Land sold under the last preceding section shall be sold free of all incumbrances,

Grants and contracts void against purchaser.

and all grants and contracts previously made by any person other than the purchaser in respect of such land shall become void as against the purchaser at the auction-sale.

Exceptions.

Nothing in the former part of this section applies to leases of lands at fair rents, for the erection of dwelling-houses or manufactories, or for mines, gardens, tanks, canals, places of worship or burying grounds.

Power to direct sale to be made subject to incumbrances.

135. The Chief Commissioner may, notwithstanding anything contained in section 134, at any time before a sale of land for arrears of revenue has been actually made, direct it to be made subject to such of the interests in or rights to such land created by the proprietor in possession thereof, or any person through whom he claims, as the Chief Commissioner thinks fit.

Power to cancel restricted sale and re-sell under section 134.

When the proceeds of a sale so made are not equal to the arrears due at the time of sale, the Chief Commissioner may, at any time before the Commissioner of the Division has confirmed the sale, direct it to be cancelled and a new sale of the land to be made under section 134.

Power to proceed against defaulter's other immoveable property.

136. If the arrear cannot be recovered by any of the above processes, and the defaulter is in possession of any other immoveable property, the Deputy Commissioner may proceed against such other property, as if it were the land on account of which the revenue is due under the provisions of this Act:

Provided that no interest save those of the defaulter alone, shall be so proceeded against, and no incumbrances created or contracts entered into by him in good faith shall be rendered invalid by such proceeding.

Procedure in effecting sale.

137. On the receipt of the sanction of the Chief Commissioner to the sale of any land, the Deputy Commissioner of the district shall issue a proclamation, in the vernacular language of the district, of the intended sale, specifying the time and place of sale, and (when the land to be sold is a mahál or part of a mahál paying revenue to Government) the revenue assessed upon it, together with any other particulars he may think necessary.

Contents of proclamation.

138. When the land is sold for arrears of revenue due in respect thereof, the proclamation shall declare that the land is to be sold free of every incumbrance except the leases mentioned in section 134, and except the interests and rights, if any, referred to in the first paragraph of section 135.

The particulars of such leases, interests and rights shall be given in the proclamation.

Such proclamation shall be made at the headquarters of the tahsíl in which the land is situate, and also in the village of which it is a part.

Notification of sale.

139. A written notice of the intended sale and of the time and place thereof shall be affixed in the office of the Deputy Commissioner of the district, and where the Assistant Commissioner in charge of the sub-division in which the land is situate has a separate office, then also in such office, and a copy of such notice shall be served on the defaulter.

Sale by whom to be made.

140. Every sale under this chapter shall be made either by the Deputy Commissioner of the district in person or by an Assistant Commissioner specially appointed by him in this behalf.

Time when sale may be made.

No such sale shall take place on a Sunday or other authorized holiday, or until after the expiration of at least thirty days from the date on which the said notice thereof has been affixed in the office of the Deputy Commissioner of the district, and proclamation of the sale has been made in the village in which the land is situate.

The Deputy Commissioner of the district may, from time to time, postpone the sale, reporting such postponement to the Commissioner of the division.

When sale may be stayed.

141. If the defaulter pay the arrear of revenue in respect of which the land is to be sold at any time before the day fixed for the sale, to the person appointed by Government under section 110, to receive payment of the revenue assessed on such land, or to the Deputy Commissioner of the district, or the Assistant Commmissioner in charge of the sub-division of the district, the sale shall be stayed.

Deposit by purchaser.

142. The person declared to be the purchaser shall be required to deposit immediately twenty-five per cent. on the amount of his bid, and in default of such deposit the land shall forthwith be again put up and sold.

Re-sale in default of deposit.

Purchase-money when to be paid.

143. The full amount of purchase-money shall be paid by the purchaser before sunset of the fifteenth day from that on which the sale of the land took place, or, if the said fifteenth day be a Sunday or other authorized holiday, then on the first office-day after such fifteenth day;

Resale in case of default.

and in default of payment within such period, the deposit, after defraying thereout the expenses of the sale, shall be forfeited to Government, and the property shall be re-sold, and the defaulting purchaser shall forfeit all claim to the property, or to any part of the sum for which it may be subsequently sold.

Liability of purchaser for loss by re-sale.

144. If the proceeds of the sale which is eventually made be less than the price bid by such defaulting purchaser, the difference shall be leviable from him under the rules contained in the Code of Civil Procedure for the execution of a decree for money.

Notification before re-sale.

145. No re-sale under section 143 in default of payment of the purchase-money shall be made unless and until a fresh notice has been issued in the manner prescribed for the original sale.

146. At any time within thirty days from the date of the sale, application in writing may be made to the Commissioner of the Division to set aside the sale on the ground of some material irregularity or mistake in publishing or conducting it.

Application to set aside sale.

147. No sale shall be set aside on such ground unless the applicant proves to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that he has sustained substantial injury by reason of the irregularity or mistake complained of.

When sale may be set aside.

148. After the expiration of the said thirty days, if no such application as is mentioned in section 146, has been made, or if such application has been made and rejected, the Commissioner of the Division shall make an order confirming the sale;

Order confirming or setting aside.

and if such application be made and allowed the Commissioner shall make an order setting aside the sale.

Every order made under this section shall be final.

149. If no such application be made within the time allowed by section 146, all claims founded on the irregularity or mistake complained of shall, as against the Government, be barred.

Bar of claims against Government.

Nothing herein contained shall preclude the institution of a suit in a Civil Court for the purpose of setting aside a sale on the ground of fraud.

150. Whenever the sale of any land is set aside, the purchaser shall be entitled to receive back his purchase-money, with or without interest, at such rate not exceeding six per cent. per annum, as the Commissioner of the Division thinks fit.

Refund of purchase-money when sale set aside.

151. After a sale of land in respect of which an arrear of revenue is due has been confirmed in manner aforesaid, the Deputy Commissioner of the District shall, unless the purchase has been made subject to a right of some other person to possession, put the person declared to be the purchaser into possession of the land, and shall grant him a certificate, to the effect that he has purchased the land to which the certificate refers, and such certificate shall be deemed to be a valid transfer of such land, but need not be stamped or registered as a conveyance.

On confirmation of sale, purchaser to be put in possession.

If the land has been sold on account of an arrear of revenue due in respect thereof, the certificate shall also either state that the purchaser has purchased the land to which the certificate refers free of every incumbrance other than the leases mentioned in section 184, or shall specify the incumbrances subject to which the land has been sold.

152. The certificate shall state the name of the person declared at the time of sale to be the actual purchaser; and any suit brought in a Civil Court against the certified purchaser on the ground that the purchase was made on behalf of another person not the certified purchaser, though by agreement the name of the certified purchaser was used, shall be dismissed with costs.

Bar of suit against certified purchaser.

153. When a sale of land has been confirmed under section 148, the proceeds of the sale shall be applied in the first place to defraying the expenses of sale and to the payment of any arrears due in respect of such land at the date of the confirmation of such sale and recoverable as an arrear of land-revenue, and the surplus (if any) shall be paid to the person whose land has been sold;

Application of proceeds of sale.

or, if the land sold were held in shares, then to the co-sharers collectively, or according to the amount of their recorded interests, at the discretion of the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

154. Such surplus shall not (except under an order of a Civil Court) be payable to any creditor of the person whose land has been sold, nor shall it (except under a like order) be retained in the Government treasury.

Surplus not to be paid to creditors, nor retained by Government except under order of Court.

155. The person named in the certificate of title as purchaser of any land shall be liable for all instalments of land-revenue becoming due in respect of such land subsequently to the date of the confirmation of the sale.

Liability of purchaser for revenue.

156. Where any land sold under section 133 is a pattí of a mahál, any recorded co-sharer, not being himself in arrear with regard to the revenue due in respect of such land, may, if the lot has been knocked down to a stranger, claim to take the said land at the sum last bid:

Pre-emption by co-sharers when land sold is a pattí of a mahál.

Provided that such claim be made on the day of sale, and before the officer conducting the sale has left the office for the day, and provided that the claimant fulfil all the other condtions of the sale.

157. Whenever proceedings are taken under this chapter against any person for the recovery of any arrear of revenue, he may pay the amount claimed under protest to the officer taking such proceedings,

Payment under protest and suit for recovery.

and upon such payment the proceedings shall be stayed,

and (subject to the pecuniary limitations prescribed by law) the person against whom such proceedings were taken may sue the Government for the amount so paid in any Civil Court situate in the district where such proceedings were taken;

and in such suit, the plaintiff may, notwithstanding section 114, give evidence of the amount which he alleges to be due from him.

158. Any proprietor or under-proprietor of a mahál or portion of a mahál, that is attached, transferred, held under direct management, farmed or sold under the provisions of this Act, who may, at the date of the order of such attachment, transfer, direct management, farm or sale, hold any land within such mahál or portion of a mahál in his cultivating occupancy, shall be deemed to be a tenant with a right of occupancy in respect of so much of such land as the Deputy Commissioner may determine, and the rent to be paid by him for such land shall be fixed by the Deputy Commissioner under the provisions of the Oudh Rent Act.

159. Whenever a mahál or pattí is held in sub-settlement, or under a heritable, nontransferable lease, the rent payable under which has been fixed by the Settlement Officer, and the rent of such mahál or pattí falls into arrear, the proprietor may, instead of suing the defaulter under Act No. XIX of 1868, apply in writing to the Deputy Commissioner requesting him to realize such arrear.

Assistance to recover rent of mahál held in sub-settlement.

The Deputy Commissioner shall, on receipt of such application, satisfy himself as to the existence of such arrear, and shall then, subject to such rules as may from time to time be made in this behalf by the Chief Commissioner, proceed to recover such arrear as if it was an arrear of revenue.

160. If the term for which any settlement has been made expires before a new settlement is made, all persons with whom a settlement has been made, who continue after the expiration of such term to occupy the land comprised in the expired settlement shall, until a new settlement is made, hold the said land upon the conditions of the expired settlement.

Tenure of land under expired settlement until new settlement is made.

161. The provisions of this Act with regard to the recovery of arrears of revenue shall apply to all arrears of land-revenue and sums of money recoverable as arrears of land-revenue and due when this Act comes into force.

Provisions applied to arrears due at commencement of Act.

CHAPTER VIII.

COURTS OF WARDS.

162. Deputy Commissioners shall, subject to the control of the Commissioner of the Division and of the Chief Commissioner, have the power of a Court of Wards within their respective districts for the superintendence of the persons and property of all persons who may become entitled as proprietors or under-proprietors, or lessees whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, to any beneficial interest in a mahál or portion of a mahál assessed to the payment of land-revenue or held free of revenue, and who are either disqualified for the management of their own estates or are committed by a Civil Court to the care of the Deputy Commissioner:

Deputy Commissioners to be Courts of Wards.

Provided that the Court of Wards shall not take charge of or administer any beneficial interest in an estate, in which more persons than one have a joint undivided interest, unless all such persons are so circumstanced as to be subject to the Court of Wards.

Bar of jurisdiction in certain cases.

163. Persons shall be held to be disqualified to manage their own estates when they are Persons when disqualified to manage their estates.

(a) females deemed by the Chief Commissioner incompetent to manage their estates,

(b) minors,

(c) idiots,

(d) lunatics,

(e) persons who may in the opinion of the Chief Commissioner be otherwise rendered incapable by physical defects or infirmities from managing their estates,

(f) persons convicted of a non-bailable offence, and disqualified in the opinion of the Chief Commissioner by vice or bad character from managing their estates,

(g) persons declared by the Chief Commissioner on their own application to be disqualified from managing their estates.

164. The Deputy Commissioner may make an inquiry into the disqualification of any person, who, he has reason to believe, disqualified within the meaning of section 163, clauses (b), (c) or (d), and into the circumstances and property of any such person, and may make an order declaring him to be subject to the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards.

Inquiry into minority, lunacy, idiocy, &c.

165. The Court of Wards may assume or refrain from assuming the superintendence of the person or property of any disqualified person and may at any time release any person or property from its superintendence: Provided that such person or property has not been placed under the Court of Wards by any competent authority whose order is necessary to his or its release.

Jurisdiction of Court of Wards.

166. If in any case not specially provided for by this or any other law for the time being in force, the right of the Court of Wards to assume or retain the superintendence of the estate of a disqualified person is disputed by such person, the case shall be reported to the Chief Commissioner whose orders thereon shall be final.

Report to Chief Commissioner when right of Court of Wards is disputed by persons other than those specially provided for.

167. The jurisdiction of the Court of Wards shall extend to the care and education, and to the management of the property, of the persons subject thereto.

Extent of jurisdiction.

168. The Court of Wards may appoint managers of the property of disqualified proprietors, and if such proprietors be minors, idiots or lunatics, may appoint guardians for the care of their persons, and may remove and control such managers and guardians.

Appointment, removal and control of guardians.

169. Proprietors may appoint guardians for their heirs, if disqualified, by will executed and attested in manner required in case of Taluqdárs by Act No. I of 1869, and in case of other proprietors by the Indian Succession Act, 1865; but the Court of Wards shall be competent to remove such guardian for any sufficient reason.

Power of proprietors to appoint guardians for disqualified heirs.

170. The Court of Wards may direct where all male minors under its jurisdiction shall reside for the purpose of education or otherwise.

Powers of Courts of Wards as to male minors within its jurisdiction.

171. The manager appointed by the Court of Wards shall have power to collect the rents of the land entrusted to him, as well as all other money due to the disqualified proprietor, and to grant receipts therefor;

Powers of manager.

and he may, subject to the control of the Court, grant or renew such leases and farms, not being for a longer period than five years, as may be necessary for the good management of the property.

172. The manager shall manage the property committed to him diligently and faithfully for the benefit of the proprietor, and shall in every respect act to the best of his judgment for the proprietor's interest as if the property were his own.

Duties of manager.

173. The Court of Wards shall have power to give such leases or farms of the whole or parts of the immoveable property under its charge, and to mortgage or sell any part of such property, and to do all such other acts, as it may judge to be most for the benefit of the property and the advantage of the disqualified proprietors.

Power of Court of Wards as to land under its charge.

174. Persons whose property is under the superintendence of the Court of Wards shall not be competent to create without the sanction of the Court any charge upon or interest in such property or any part thereof.

Disabilities of persons subject to Court of Wards.

175. No such property shall be liable to be taken in execution of a decree made in respect of any contract entered into any his property is under such superintendence.

Their property exempt from being taken in execution of certain decrees.

176. All disqualified proprietors whose property is in charge of the Court of Wards shall sue and be sued by and in the name of their guardians, where guardians have been appointed; otherwise by and in the name of the Court of Wards.

Suits by and against disqualified proprietors in charge of Court of Wards.

Provided that no such suit shall be maintained or defended by any guardian without the sanction of the Court of Wards.

177. If no such guardian has been appointed, the disqualified proprietors shall sue and be sued by and in the name of the Court of Wards.

Suits by such proprietors when no guardian appointed.

178. Every manager appointed by the Court of Wards shall—

Rules relating to managers.

(a) give such security as the Court of Wards thinks fit, duly to account for what he shall receive in respect of the rents and profits of the property for which he is appointed;

(b) pass his accounts at such periods and in such form as the Court of Wards directs;

(c) pay the balance due from him thereon;

(d) apply for the sanction of the Court of Wards to any act which may involve the property in expense not previously sanctioned by such Court;

(e) be entitled to such allowance as the Court of Wards thinks fit for his care and pains in the execution of his duties;

(f) be responsible for any loss occasioned to the property by his wilful default or gross negligence,

CHAPTER IX.

POWERS OF OFFICERS.

A.—Powers of Assistant Commissioners.

179. An Assistant Commissioner in charge of a sub-division shall as such have the following powers:—

Powers of Assistant Commissioners of the first class.

(a) to refer cases for inquiry or decision to his subordinates;

(b) to withdraw cases from his subordinates and to deal with them himself, or to refer them for disposal to any other subordinate officer competent to deal with them;

(c) to order changes in the proprietary register;

(d) to levy fees for mutations;

(e) to enquire into cases of reported transfers;

(f) to levy fines, under section 65;

(g) to declare the person best entitled to property and put him in possession, under section 66;

(h) to report on revenue-free holdings, and to assess revenue on resumed grants;

(i) to assess alluvial lands;

(j) to receive applications for and make partitions under chapter V, of this Act, subject to the confirmation of the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

(k) to impose fines for injuries to boundary-marks, and in certain cases apportion the charges of re-erecting and repairing boundary-marks;

(l) to call on owners to erect or repair boundaries, and, in default, to erect and repair and charge the cost to owners, and to decide disputes regarding boundaries;

(m) to attach and sell moveable property of defaulters, under section 118;

(n) to fix under section 158 the area of the land to be held as a tenant with right of occupancy and the rent to be paid for it by proprietors of mahâls which have been attached, transferred, held under direct management, farmed or sold, under the provisions of this Act, for land in their cultivating occupancy;

180. Assistant Commissioners of the first class, not in charge of sub divisions of districts, shall exercise all or any of the powers conferred on Assistant Commissioners of the first class in charge of sub-divisions, in such cases or class of cases as the Deputy Commissioner of the District may, from time to time, refer to them for disposal.

Powers of Assistant Commissioners of first class not in charge of sub-divisions.

181. All Assistant Commissioners of the second class shall have power to investigate and report on such cases as the Deputy Commissioner of the District or Assistant Commissioner in charge of a sub-division of a district may, from time to time, commit to them for investigation and report.

Powers of Assistant Commissioners of second class.

B.—Powers of Settlement Officers.

182. Officers in charge of a settlement may exercise all the powers conferred by or under this Act on Settlement Officers, and by section ten on the Deputy Commissioner of the District, but none but an officer in charge of a settlement or an Assistant Settlement Officer specially empowered by the Chief Commissioner shall have power—

Powers of officers in charge of a settlement.

(a) to frame proposals for assessment;

(b) to distribute the assessment;

(c) to re-distribute land or revenue under section 31;

(d) to determine the rent payable under section 40 by under-proprietors or lessees;

(e) to exclude proprietors from settlement for refusal to engage;

(f) to adjust the rent of excluded proprietors;

(g) to determine under section 56 the rent payable in respect of resumed rent-free tenures;

(h) to resume and assess revenue-free land.

183. All other powers conferred on Settlement Officers by this Act shall be exercised by Assistant Settlement Officers, under such restrictions as the officer in charge of a settlement may from time to time impose.

Powers of Assistant Settlement Officers.

184. The Chief Commissioner may with the previous section of the Governor General in Council invest any officer in charge of a settlement with all or any of the powers of a Deputy Commissioner under this Act, and any Assistant Settlement Officer with all or any of the powers conferrible on an Assistant Commissioner under this Act within such limits, and with such restrictions, and for such period as he thinks fit.

Investing of Settlement Officers with powers of Deputy Commissioner and Assistant Commissioner.

CHAPTER X.

APPEALS.

185. Appeals shall lie under this Act as follows:—

Officers to whom appeals lie.

(a) to the Chief Commissioner from any order passed by a Commissioner except such orders as are made on appeal from orders passed by Deputy Commissioners in the exercise of their appellate jurisdiction;

(b) to the Commissioner from orders, original or appellate, passed by Deputy Commissioners or officers in charge of a settlement in any proceeding held under the provisions of this Act;

(c) to the Deputy Commissioner from orders passed by any Assistant Commissioner;

(d) to the officer in charge of a settlement from orders passed by an Assistant Settlement Officer.

186. No appeal under section 185, clauses (c) and (d), shall be brought after the expiration of thirty days from the date of the order complained of.

Limitation of appeals.

No appeal under the same section, clause (b), shall be brought after the expiration of six weeks from the date of the order complained of, unless otherwise specially provided.

No appeal under the same section, clause (a), shall be brought after the expiration of two months from the date of the order complained of.

187. In computing the period prescribed for an appeal under this chapter, the day on which the order complained of was passed, and the time requisite for obtaining a copy of such order, shall be excluded.

Time to be excluded.

188. Any appeal under this chapter may be admitted after the period of limitation prescribed therefor, when the appellant satisfies the officer to whom he appeals that he had sufficient cause for not presenting the appeal within such period.

Admission of appeal after period of limitation.

No appeal shall lie against an order under this section admitting an appeal.

189. The officer to whom the appeal lies may either admit or summarily reject the appeal. If he admit the appeal, he may reverse, modify or confirm the order appealed against, or he may direct such further investigation to be made or such additional evidence to be taken as he may think necessary, or he may himself take such additional evidence.

Procedure on admitting appeal.

190. In every case in which an appeal is admitted, the execution of the order appealed may, pending the result of the appeal, be suspended.

Suspension of order appealed against.

191. The Chief Commissioner and every Commissioner shall have power to call for the file of any proceeding held by any officer subordinate to him, and to pass such orders thereon as he thinks fit.

Power to call for files of subordinate officers.

CHAPTER XI.

REFERENCE TO ARBITRATION.

192. The Chief Commissioner, a Commissioner of a Division, a Deputy Commissioner, an Assistant Commissioner of the first class, an officer in charge of a settlement, or an Assistant Settlement Officer may, with the consent of the parties, by order, refer any dispute before him to arbitration; and any officer acting under the provisions of sections 103 to 108, both inclusive, may, with the consent of the parties, refer to arbitration any dispute arising before him respecting the matters mentioned in the same sections.

Power to refer disputes to arbitration.

193. In referring any such dispute to arbitration, the officer making the reference shall specify, in the order of reference, the precise matter submitted to the arbitrators, and such period as he may think reasonable for the delivery of the award;

What to be specified in order of reference.

and he may from time to time extend such period.

194. The parties to the case may each nominate either one or two arbitrators, provided that each party shall nominate the same number;

Appointment of arbitrators.

and a third or fifth arbitrator (as the case may be) shall be appointed by the parties, or, in the event of their being unable to agree, by the officer making the reference.

Power to excuse arbitrator from serving, and to call for nomination of substitute.

195. Every officer making a reference under this chapter may, on good cause shown, excuse any person from serving as an arbitrator, and may call on the party who nominated such person to nominate another in the place of the person so excused.

Nomination of new arbitrator in place of one dying or failing to act.

196. If an arbitrator die, desire to be discharged, or refuse or become incapable to act, the party who nominated him shall nominate another person in his place.

Nomination by officer when parties fail.

197. If in any of the cases provided for by section 195 or section 196 any party fail for a week to nominate in manner aforesaid, the officer making the reference shall appoint some person to act as arbitrator.

Award.

The arbitrators shall determine and award concerning the matters referred to them for arbitration; and the parties disputing, and all persons claiming through them respectively, shall abide by and perform the award of the arbitrators.

Summoning parties to give evidence.

198. If the arbitrators require the presence of the parties, or any other persons whose evidence may be necessary, they shall apply to the officer making the reference, who shall summon such parties or persons;

Obligation of persons summoned.

and all such parties or persons shall be bound to attend, either in person or by agent, as the arbitrators may require, and to state the truth as to the subject-matter of the reference, and to produce such documents and other things as may be required before the arbitrators.

Preparation and submission of award.

199. The award shall be made in writing under the hands of the arbitrators, and shall be submitted by them to the officer making the reference, who shall cause notice to be served on the parties to attend and hear the award.

In what cases award or subject of arbitration may be remitted to arbitrators.

200. The officer making the reference may remit the award or any of the matters referred to arbitration to the re-consideration of the same arbitrators,

(a) if the award has left undetermined some of the matters referred to arbitration, or if it determine matters not referred to arbitration;

(b) if the award is so indefinite as to be incapable of execution;

(c) if an objection to the legality of the award is apparent upon the face of the award.

Grounds on which award may be set aside.

201. No award shall be liable to be set aside except on the ground of corruption or misconduct of all or any of the arbitrators.

Any application to set aside an award shall be made within ten days after the day appointed for hearing the award.

Application to set aside.

Decision according to award.

202. If the officer making the reference does not see cause to remit the award or any of the matters referred to arbitration for re-consideration in the manner aforesaid, and if no application has been made to set aside the award,

or if he has refused such application,

he shall decide in accordance with the award of the majority of the arbitrators, and shall fix the amount to be allowed for the expenses of the arbitration, and direct by, and to whom, and in what manner, the same shall be paid.

Bar to appeal any suit in Civil Court.

203. Such decision shall not be open to appeal, and shall be at once carried out;

and no Civil Court shall entertain any suit for the purpose of setting it aside or against the arbitrators on account of their award.

CHAPTER XII.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Place for holding Court.

204. Subject to the orders of the Chief Commissioner,

(a) a Commissioner may hold his Court at any place within his division that he thinks fit:

(b) a Deputy Commissioner, an Assistant Commissioner (whether in charge or not of a sub-division of a district), or an officer in charge of a settlement or Assistant Settlement Officer may hold his Court at any place within the limit of the district to which he is appointed; and

(c) a Tahsíldár may hold his Court at any place within the limits of his tahsíl.

Power to summon persons to give evidence and produce documents.

205. The Chief Commissioner and any officer mentioned in the last preceding section shall have power to summon any person whose attendance he considers necessary for the purpose of any investigation, suit or other business before him.

All persons so summoned shall be bound to attend either in person or by authorized agent as such officer may direct, and to state the truth upon any subject respecting which they are examined or make statements, and to produce such documents and other things as may be required.

Conduct of proceedings.

206. All proceedings held under the provisions of this Act shall be conducted according to the rules for the time being prescribed under section 208.

Matters excepted from cognizance of Civil Courts.

207. No Civil Court shall exercise jurisdiction over any of the following matters:—

(a) the claim of any person to be settled with, or the validity of any engagement with Government for the payment of revenue, or the amount of revenue, cess or rate to be assessed on any mahál, or portion of a mahál under this or any other Act for the time being in force: or the rent to be paid to a proprietor by an under-proprietor or a lessee whose rent has been fixed by the Settlement Officer.

(b) any claims connected with or arising out of any process enforced on account of neglect or refusal to accept the assessment or terms of sub-settlement proposed by the Settlement Officer:

(c) the formation of the settlement record,

the preparation, signing, or attestation of any of the documents contained therein, or the notification of settlement:

(d) the distribution on partition of the land or allotment of the revenue of a mahál or of the rent of an under-proprietary tenure, or of rent payable by lessees whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer.

(e) the determination of the rent to be paid by any person under section 87:

(f) claims connected with, or arising out of, the collection of revenue or any process enforced on account of an arrear of revenue, or on account of any sum which is by this or any other Act realizable as revenue other than claims under section 157:

(g) claims to set aside a sale for arrear of revenue other than claims under section 149.

In all the above cases, jurisdiction shall rest with the revenue officers only.

Power to make rules for purposes of Act.

208. The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, make and issue rules consistent with this Act, and relating to the following matters:—

(a) the appointment, duties, remuneration, punishment and dismissal of—

(1) tahsíldárs.

(2) lambardárs or representatives of village communities,

(3) kánúngos or superintendents of revenue records,

(4) patwáris or village accountants;

(b) for regulating the assessment of land gained by alluvion or the reduction of the assessment of a mahál in consequence of diluvion;

(c) the procedure to be followed by any officer or other person who, under any provision of this Act, is required or empowered to take action in any matter;

(d) the cases in which, the officers to whom, and the conditions subject to which, orders and decisions given under the preceding sections of this Act, and not expressly provided for as regards appeal shall be appealable;

(e) the person by whom, and the time, and manner at or in which, anything for the doing of which provision is hereinbefore made in this Act, shall be done;

(f) the form and contents of reports to be furnished by officers required or empowered to take action in any matter, and the period within which such reports shall be furnished;

(g) the form and contents of the registers and lists kept under this Act; and

(h) the cases in which alone taluqdárí maháls and mahálsi whether under-proprietary, or held by lessees whose rents have been fixed by the Settlement Officer shall be liable to partition under this Act;

(i) the costs of partitions under this Act and the persons by whom they are to be paid, and the mode of enforcing such payment against such persons or their shares in the property of which partition has been made;

(j) the issue under section 115, of writs of demand or summons to appear, and the costs recoverable from the defaulter, and the officer by whom such writs and summonses shall be issued;

(k) and generally to carry out the provisions of this Act.

Penalty for neglecting to appoint patwáris.

209. Where, by any rule framed under the provisions of clause (a) of the preceding section, the appointment of patwáris is directed to be made by the landowners of a village, or the landowners are made primarily responsible for enforcing the due submission of such returns as may be prescribed to be kept by patwáris, the neglect or refusal of such landowners to make such appointment or to enforce the submission of such returns shall be punishable with such fine not exceeding fifty rupees, as the Chief Commissioner directs.

Recovery of fines and costs.

210. All fees, fines, costs and other moneys ordered to be paid under this Act, shall be recoverable as if they were an arrear of land-revenue.

WHITLEY STOKES,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

[Second publication.]

The following further Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 27th July 1876:—

We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to declare and amend the laws to be administered in Oudh was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Oudh, No. 554, dated 2nd February 1871, and enclosures.
„ Government of Bengal, No. 3304, dated 14th July 1871, and enclosure.
Endorsement by Department of Revenue, Agriculture and Commerce, No. 900, dated 19th September 1872, forwarding—Letter from Personal Assistant to Chief Commissioner, Oudh, No. 2779, dated 5th August 1872, and enclosures.
From Officiating Personal Assistant to Chief Commissioner, Oudh, No. 133, dated 14th January 1873, and enclosures.
„ Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Oudh, No. 4478, dated 19th September 1873, and enclosures.
„ Military Department, No. 437J, dated 8th January 1874, and enclosures.
„ Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Oudh, No. 1032, dated 4th March 1875, and enclosures.
„ Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Oudh, No. 3925, dated 21st August 1875, and enclosures.
„ Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Oudh, No. 2707, dated 9th January 1876, and enclosures.
„ Secretary to Financial Commissioner, Panjáb, No. 767, dated 18th July 1873, and enclosures.
„ Officiating Government Advocate, Panjáb, No. 1322, dated 16th July 1874.
„ Officiating Registrar, Chief Court, Panjáb, No. 1215, dated 15th May 1875, and enclosures.

2. We have omitted the chapter relating to minority. So far as relates to Europeans the matter is sufficiently provided for by Act No. XIII of 1874. As to Natives, there seemed some danger that the chapter in question might have interfered undesirably with their customs as to guardianship, minority, and bastardy; and as there is no evidence before us that those customs are either unjust or inexpedient, we thought it best not to touch them in the present measure. Exactly the same course was followed by the legislature when it passed the Panjáb Laws Act, and no inconvenience has been found to result.

3. We have transferred the chapter treating of the Court of Wards to the Oudh Land-Revenue Bill, with certain changes described in the report on that Bill.

4. For reasons similar to those mentioned in paragraph 2 of this report, we have omitted the chapter relating to betrothal. Here, again, we have followed the precedent of the Panjáb Laws Act.

5. We have redrawn the chapter of pre-emption, extending it to foreclosures of mortgages as well as to sales, as is done by the Panjáb Laws Act.

6. The substance of the sections on partitions has been inserted in the Oudh Land-Revenue Bill. We have therefore struck them out of the Laws Bill.

7. We have omitted the sections (46 and 47) as to the bar of certain suits for redemption. They were taken from the Oudh Courts Act: some difference of opinion exists about them; and they should not be inserted in a Bill of which the primary object is to clear up doubts as to what the law really is in Oudh. The Oudh Courts Act remains untouched in this respect.

8. We have also omitted the sections relating to insolvency. This matter will, so far as regards persons arrested or imprisoned in execution of money decrees, be dealt with by the revised Code of Civil Procedure, which will apply to Oudh as to other parts of British India; and, in any case, we think it inexpedient to give Oudh a special law on the subject.

9. We have also omitted the sections relating to intestacy. The procedure which they prescribe can, for the most part, be enforced by executive rules for the disposal of unclaimed property made under the Police Act, V of 1861. Moreover, so far as regards Europeans and East Indians, the necessary rules are already contained in the Administrator General's Act, II of 1874.

10. The retention of the system of trial by jury in civil cases in Lucknow alone, of all places in India, is obviously inexpedient. We have therefore struck out section 61.

11. We have struck out the clause of the Bill requiring Judges of Civil Courts to forward to the Deputy Commissioner certified copies of decrees affecting land.

12. As regards sales of land in execution of decrees, we have altered section 65 of the Bill so as to render unsaleable ancestral property in land without the permission of the Judicial Commissioner, and acquired property in land without the permission of the Deputy Commissioner. This maintains the modification of Act VIII of 1859, section 205, subject to which the Code of Civil Procedure was extended to Oudh in August 1861. We have also declared that in the clause under notice (section 21 of the amended Bill) the words "ancestral property" include the immoveable property of persons admitted to engagement for the land-revenue at the summary settlement of 1858-59. This agrees with the Oudh Rent Act, section 109.

13. We have provided (section 22) for the appointment of a person to manage immoveable property under attachment.

14. We have amended (sections 23 and 24) the Oudh Rent Act sections 109 and 118.

15. We have omitted the chapters relating respectively to Escheats and Hidden Treasure. Rules as to the former subject can be made by the Executive and require no legislation. The latter subject will be dealt with by another Bill about to be introduced into the Council of the Governor General, which will apply to the whole of British India.

16. We have also omitted the chapter relating to Cantonments and Military Bázárs. So much doubt exists in the Military Department of the Government of India as to what rules should be made on this subject, that the Committee have thought it best to omit the chapter in question, and rely for the present on the rules contained in Bengal Regulation XX of 1810.

17. We have inserted, at the desire of the Chief Commissioner, a chapter (copied from Act XVI of 1873) dealing with Village and Road Police.

18. In the section relating to the creation of new districts, we have empowered the Chief Commissioner to subdivide districts and to alter the limits of subdivisions.

19. We have repealed sections 10 to 15 of the old Gambling Act, which were extended to Oudh by an executive order. We have also repealed Act XIX of 1863, as its provisions have been inserted in the Oudh Land-Revenue Bill. We have omitted from the schedule of repeals Act III of 1869, as to Rural Police, and sections 29 and 30 of the Oudh Civil Courts Act.

20. From the section (91) corresponding with sections 38 and 39 of the present draft, we have omitted the clause providing for the periodical republication of subsidiary rules.

21. From the second schedule we have omitted Regulation XXIII of 1803, as to fees to defray the expenses of Revenue-offices, and Regulation IV of 1821, as to the powers and duties of Collectors; and Acts I of 1847, as to boundary marks, XXVI of 1854, as to education of Wards, and XXXI of 1858, as to the settlement of alluvion. We have inserted Regulation XX of 1810, as to Military Bázárs, Regulation V of 1817, as to Hidden Treasure, and Regulation XI of 1822, section 38, as to the non-liability of Government for the errors of Courts of Justice.

22. The publication directed by the Rules for the conduct of legislative business has taken place. But the Bill has been so much altered that we think it should be republished, with this report, in the Gazette of India and the local Gazette, and that its further consideration should be postponed for two months.

FIRST SCHEDULE.

SECOND SCHEDULE.

A Bill to declare and amend the laws to be administered in Oudh.

Whereas it is expedient to declare and amend the laws to be administered in Oudh; It is hereby enacted as follows:— Preamble.

PART I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called "The Oudh Laws Act, 1876." Short title.

It extends only to the territories for the time being under the administration of the Chief Commissioner of Oudh; Local extent.

And it shall come into force on the passing thereof. Commencement.

2. On and from that day, the Regulations, Acts, Rules and Orders mentioned in the first Schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column of the said schedule. Repeal of enactments.

PART II.

GENERAL LAWS TO BE ADMINISTERED IN OUDH.

3. The law to be administered by the Courts of Oudh shall be as follows:— Statutory law to be administered in Oudh.

(a) the laws for the time being in force regulating the assessment and collection of land-revenue;

(b) in questions regarding succession, special property of females, betrothal, marriage, divorce, dower, adoption, guardianship, minority, bastardy, family relations, wills, legacies, gifts, partitions or any religious usage or institution, the rule of decision shall be—

(1) any custom applicable to the parties concerned which is not contrary to justice, equity, or good conscience, and has not been by this or any other enactment altered or abolished and has not been declared to be void by any competent authority;

(2) the Muhammadan law in cases where the parties are Muhammadans, and the Hindú law in cases where the parties are Hindús, except in so far as such law has been, by this or any other enactment, altered or abolished, or has been modified by any such custom as is above referred to;

(c) the rules contained in the third Part of this Act;

(d) the rules published in the local Gazette as provided by section sixty-two or made under any other Act for the time being in force in Oudh;

(e) the Regulations and Acts specified in the second Schedule hereto annexed, subject to the provisions of section four, and to the modifications mentioned in the third column of the same schedule;

(f) subject to the modifications hereinafter mentioned, all enactments for the time being in force and expressly, or by necessary implication, applying to British India or Oudh, or some part of Oudh;

(g) in cases not provided for by the former part of this section, or by any other law for the time being in force, the Courts shall act according to justice, equity and good conscience.

4. All local customs and mercantile usages shall be regarded as valid, unless they are contrary to justice, equity, or good conscience, or have, before the passing of this Act, been declared to be void by any competent authority. Validity of local custom and mercantile usages.

PART III.

CHAPTER I.

DOWER AMONG MUHAMMADANS.

5. Where the amount of dower stipulated for in any contract of dower by a Muhammadan is excessive with reference to the means of the husband, the entire sum provided in the contract shall not be awarded in any suit by decree in favour of the plaintiff, or by allowing it by way of set-off, lien or otherwise to the defendant; but the amount of the dower to be allowed by the Court shall be reasonable with reference to the means of the husband and the status of the wife. Muhammadan dower-contracts how to be enforced.

This rule shall be applicable whether the suit to enforce the contract be brought in the husband's lifetime or after his death. Rule applicable after husband's death.

CHAPTER II.

PRE-EMPTION.

6. The right of pre-emption is a right of the persons hereinafter mentioned or referred to, to acquire, in the cases hereinafter specified, immoveable property in preference to all other persons. Right of pre-emption.

7. Unless the existence of any custom or contract to the contrary is proved, such right shall, whether recorded in the settlement-record or not, be presumed— Presumption as to its existence.

(a) to exist in all village-communities, however constituted, and whether proprietary or under-proprietary, and in the case referred to in section 40 of the Oudh Land-Revenue Act, and

(b) to extend to the village site, to the houses built upon it, to all lands and shares of lands within the village-boundary, and to all transferable rights affecting such lands.

8. The right of pre-emption shall not be presumed to exist in any town or city, or any sub-division thereof, but may be shown to exist therein, and to be exercisable therein by such persons and under such circumstances as the local custom prescribes. Its existence in towns to be proved.

9. If the property to be sold or foreclosed is a proprietary or under-proprietary tenure, or a share of such a tenure, the right to buy or redeem such property belongs, in the absence of a custom to the contrary, Devolution of right when property to be sold is part of a village.

1st, to co-sharers in the tenure in order of their relationship to the vendor or mortgagor;

2ndly, if no relation of the vendor or mortgagor claim the said right to buy or redeem, to the land-owners of the pattí or other sub-division of the tenure in which the property is comprised;

3rdly, to any member of the village-community; and

4thly, if the property be an under-proprietary tenure, to the proprietor.

10. When any person proposes to sell any property, or when he forecloses a mortgage upon any property, in respect of which any persons have a right of pre-emption, he must give notice to the persons concerned of the price at which he is willing to sell such property, or of the amount due in respect of such mortgage, as the case may be. Notice to pre-emptors.

Such notice shall be deemed sufficiently given if it be stuck up on the chaupál or other public place of the village or city in which the property is situate.

11. Any person having a right of pre-emption in respect of any property proposed to be sold, shall lose such right, unless within three months from the date of such notice he or his agent pays or tenders the price aforesaid to the person so proposing to sell. Loss of right of pre-emption.

12. Such decree shall specify a day on or before which the purchase-money shall be paid. Decree to fix time for payment.

13. If the purchase-money is not paid into Court before it rises on that day, the decree shall become void, and the plaintiff shall lose his right of pre-emption over the property to which it relates. Effect of non-payment of purchase-money.

14. When the right of pre-emption arises in respect of the foreclosure of a mortgage, any person entitled to such right may, at any time within three months after the giving of the notice required by section ten, pay or tender to the mortgagee or his successor in title the amount specified in such notice and shall thereupon acquire a right to purchase the property. Right of pre-emptor on foreclosure.

On completion of the purchase the person exercising the right of pre-emption shall be bound to pay to the mortgagee or his successor in title the amount specified in such notice, together with interest on the principal sum secured by the mortgage, at the rate specified by the instrument of mortgage, for any time which has elapsed since the date of the notice, and any additional costs which may have been properly incurred by the mortgagee or his successor in title.

Suit to enforce right of pre-emption.

15. Any person entitled to a right of pre-emption may bring a suit to enforce such right on any of the following grounds (namely)—

(a) that no due notice was given as required by section ten;

(b) in the case of a sale, that the price stated in the notice was not fixed in good faith;

(c) in the case of a mortgage, that the amount claimed by the mortgagee was not really due on the footing of the mortgage and was not claimed in good faith, and that it exceeds the fair market-value of the property mortgaged.

If in the case of a sale, the Court finds that the price was not fixed in good faith, the Court shall fix such price as appears to it to be the fair market-value of the property sold.

If in the case of a mortgage, the Court finds that the amount claimed by the mortgagee was not really due on the footing of the mortgage, and that it was not claimed in good faith, and that it exceeds the fair market-value of the property mortgaged, the amount to be paid to the mortgagee shall not exceed what the Court finds to be such market-value.

CHAPTER III.

PROCEDURE OF THE COURTS.

(a) Law of Limitation.

Rule of Limitation.

16. The Judicial Commissioner's Circular No. 104 of July 1860, shall be held to have been a notification within the meaning of section twenty-four of Act No. XIV of 1859; and such Act shall be deemed to have been in force in Oudh from the fourth day of July 1862; and all orders and decrees passed under the rules contained in the said circular, or under the said Act, shall be deemed to have been passed under a law in force for the time being.

Nothing in this section affects the provisions of sections 102, 104, 105, 106, 107 and 108 of the Oudh Rent Act (XIX of 1868) with regard to the limitation of suits under that Act.

Act XXII of 1871, s. 28, to cease in any district where first regular settlement is sanctioned.

17. The provisions of the Oudh Civil Courts' Act, 1871, section 28, shall cease to have effect in any district from the date on which the first regular settlement is sanctioned therein.

(b) Modifications of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Extension of the term 'recognized agent.'

18. Section 17 of Act VIII of 1859 is hereby repealed, so far as the Province of Oudh is concerned, and the following section is substituted therefor:—

"The recognized agents of parties by whom such applications and appearances may be made are—

"A permanent servant, partner, relation or friend, whom the Court may admit as a fit person to represent a party, and especially persons holding powers of attorney from absent parties, parties carrying on business on behalf of bankers and traders, managing agents of landlords, nearest male relations of women, and persons ex-officio authorized to act for Government or for any prince or chief.

"Whenever the personal appearance of a party to a suit is required by this Act, such appearance may be made by his recognized agent, unless the Court shall otherwise direct; and anything which by this Act is required or permitted to be done by a party in person may be done by his recognized agent. Notices given to, or processes served on, a recognized agent, relative to a suit, shall be effectual for all purposes, in relation to the suit, as if the same had been given to or served on the party in person, unless the Court shall otherwise direct; and all the provisions of this Act, relative to the service of notices or processes on a party to a suit, shall be applicable to the service of notices and processes on such recognized agent."

Modification of sec. 111 of Act VIII of 1859.

19. Section 111 of the same Act shall be construed as if the following clause were added thereto (namely) "Nothing in this section shall be deemed to compel the Court to decide ex parte in the absence of the defendant; but if the defendant does not appear, the Court may, in its discretion, attach his property and issue a warrant to arrest and detain him till such day as it appoints for the hearing of the suit."

Rules for taking evidence.

20. Section 172 of Act No. VIII of 1859 is hereby repealed, so far as the Province of Oudh is concerned, and the following section is substituted therefor:—

"On the day appointed for the hearing of the suit, or on some other day to which the hearing may be adjourned, the evidence of the witnesses in attendance shall be taken orally in open Court in the presence and hearing and under the personal direction and superintendence of the Judge.

"A note of the essential points of the evidence of each witness is to be taken at the time, and in the course of oral examination, by the officer who tries the case, in his own language, or in English if he is sufficiently acquainted with that language, and such note shall be filed, and shall form part of the record of the case.

"If the evidence be taken down in a different language from that in which it has been given, and the witness does not understand the language in which it is taken down, the witness may require his deposition as taken down to be interpreted to him in the language in which it was given.

"It shall be in the discretion of the Court to take down, or cause to be taken down, any particular question and answer, if there appear any special reason for so doing, or any party or his pleader requires it.

"If any question put to a witness be objected to by either of the parties or their pleaders, and the Court allow the same to be put, the question and the answer shall be taken down, and the objection and the name of the party making it shall be noticed in taking down the depositions, together with the decision of the Court upon the objection.

"The Court shall record such remarks as it may think material respecting the demeanour of the witness while under examination.

"If the Judge be prevented from making a note as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause such note to be made in writing from his dictation in open Court, and shall sign the same, and such note shall form part of the record."

Execution of Decrees.

Execution sale of under-proprietary right.

21. So much of section 205 of the Code of Civil Procedure, as renders land liable to sale in execution of a decree, shall be subject to the following restriction:—

No ancestral property in land shall be sold in satisfaction of a decree without the permission of the Judicial Commissioner; no acquired property in land shall be so sold without the permission of the Deputy Commissioner.

Explanation.—In this section the words "ancestral property" include the immoveable property of persons admitted to engagement for the land-revenue at the summary settlement of 1858-59.

Appointment of a person for the care and management of immoveable property.

22. Whenever the Civil Court may think fit under section 243 of the Civil Procedure Code, or any other law in force for the time being, to provide for the management of immoveable property, the Court shall issue a precept to the Deputy Commissioner of the district wherein such property may be situated, directing him to hold the property in attachment, and to appoint a person for the due care and management of the property under adequate security for the faithful discharge of the trust in a sum proportionate to the extent thereof.

The precept of the Civil Court above mentioned shall state specifically the property to be included in the attachment, and the attachment shall not be withdrawn without a further precept from the Court to that effect.

Nothing in this section is to be taken as authorising a Civil Court to direct a Deputy Commissioner to attach immoveable property not in the actual possession of the judgment-debtor, or of some one on his behalf other than a creditor holding the said property as security for a debt due by the said judgment-debtor.

Section substituted for section 109, Act XIX of 1868.

23. The following section is substituted for section 109 of Act XIX of 1868 (The Oudh Rent Act):—

"The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, as in force in Oudh, shall, so far as they are not inconsistent with the provisions herein contained, apply to all suits, appeals and proceedings under this Act."

Section substituted for section 118, Act XIX of 1868.

24. Section 118 of the Oudh Rent Act No. XIX of 1868 is repealed, and the following section is substituted for it:—

"118. No process of execution shall be issued on a decree under this Act on any application made after the lapse of three years from the date of such decree."

No process of execution to issue on a decree after the lapse of three years from date of such decree.

Right of occupancy in judgment-debtor's sir land.

25. Any proprietor or under-proprietor of a mahál or portion of a mahál, which is attached, transferred, held under direct management, farmed or sold under the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, who may at the date of the order for such attachment, transfer, management, farm or sale, hold any land within such mahál or portion of a mahál in his cultivating occupancy, shall be deemed to be a tenant with a right of occupancy in respect of so much of such land as the Deputy Commissioner shall determine, and the rent to be paid by him for land so determined shall be fixed by the Deputy Commissioner under the provisions of the Oudh Rent Act.

Power to make rules for custody and sale of attached property.

26. With the sanction of the Chief Commissioner, the Judicial Commissioner may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act and with the Code of Civil Procedure,

(a) for the custody and sale of moveable property attached in execution of decrees;

(b) for the levy of a fee or commission on the sale of attached property, and the disposal of the funds accruing from such fees;

(c) as to the appointment and remuneration of persons by whom property is to be attached, kept in custody, and sold; and

(d) as to the appointment and remuneration of persons by whom local investigation under section 180, and investigations and adjustments of accounts under section 181, of the Code of Civil Procedure, are to be made.

CHAPTER IV.

OF VILLAGE AND ROAD POLICE.

Appointment of Village Police.

Right of nomination of village policemen.

27. The nomination to the post of village policeman shall be made by the zamíndár of the village, or, where there are more zamíndárs than one, by the lambardár as their representative, and where there are more lambardárs than one, the opinion of the majority (unless there is some special provision to the contrary in the village administration paper) shall prevail.

Obligation to nominate.

28. Every person authorized to nominate to the office of village policeman shall, within fifteen days after the occurrence of a vacancy in such office, nominate a proper person to the vacant post, and communicate the nomination to the Magistrate of the district.

Discretion to appoint or reject nominee.

29. The person so nominated shall, after due enquiry into his age, character and ability, be appointed or rejected at discretion by such Magistrate, or by some officer authorized by him in that behalf.

Power to Magistrate to appoint.

30. (a).—In default of such nomination within the said fifteen days, the Magistrate of the district shall appoint such person as he thinks fit to the vacancy.

Procedure in case of rejection of nominee.

(b).—If the nomination has been made within the said fifteen days, but the nominee is rejected, the person authorized to nominate shall, within fifteen days from the date of such rejection, nominate another person to the vacant post; and in default of such nomination, or if such nomination has been made, but the nominee is again rejected, the Magistrate of the district shall appoint such person as he thinks fit to the vacancy.

Appointment of Road Police.

Appointment of road police.

31. Subject to the rules to be framed under section thirty-seven and for the time being in force, the Magistrate of the district may, from time to time, appoint persons to be the road police of his district.

Duties of Village and Road Police.

Duties of village and road policemen.

32. Every village policeman and every road policeman shall perform the following duties:—

(a).—He shall give immediate information to the officer in charge of the police-station appointed for his village or beat,

(1) of every unnatural, suspicious, or sudden death occurring in the village of which he is chaukídár, or within his beat;

(2) of each of the following offences occurring in such village or on such beat (that is to say,) murder, culpable homicide, rape, dacoity, theft, robbery, mischief by fire, house-breaking, counterfeiting coin, causing grievous hurt, riot, harbouring a proclaimed offender, exposure of a child, concealment of birth, administering stupefying drugs, kidnapping, lurking house-trespass, and

(3) of all attempts and preparations to commit, and abetments of, any of the said offences.

(b).—He shall keep the police informed of all disputes which are likely to lead to any riot or serious affray.

(c).—He shall arrest all proclaimed offenders, and all persons whom he may find in the act of committing any offence specified in paragraph (a), clause (2) of this section.

(d).—He shall observe, and from time to time report to the officer in charge of the police-station within the jurisdiction of which his village or beat may be situate, the movements of all bad characters in or on such village or beat.

(e).—He shall report to the officer in charge of such police-station the arrival of suspicious characters in the neighbourhood.

(f).—He shall supply to the best of his ability any local information which a Magistrate or any officer of police may require, and shall promptly execute all orders issued to him by competent authority.

Procedure on arrest by village or road policeman.

33. Whenever a village policeman or road policeman arrests any person, he shall take him as soon as possible to the police-station within the jurisdiction of which his village or beat is situate.

Liabilities of Village and Road Police.

Dismissal of village or road policeman.

34. The Magistrate of the district may dismiss any village policeman or road policeman for any misconduct or neglect of duty.

Acts punishable.

35. Every village policeman and every road policeman guilty of any wilful misconduct in his office, or of neglect of duty, such misconduct or neglect not being an offence within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, or withdrawing from the duties of his office without permission, and without having given at least two months' notice of his intention to withdraw from such duties to the persons authorized to nominate or appoint under sections twenty-seven, thirty and thirty-one (as the case may be),

or offering any unnecessary personal violence to any person in his custody, or violating any of the rules framed under section thirty-seven and for the time being in force,

Penalty.

shall be liable, on conviction before a Magistrate, to a penalty not exceeding three months' pay or to imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months, or to both.

Fines to be credited to such fund as Government appoints.

36. All fines levied under this Act on village policemen or road policemen shall be credited to such fund as the Local Government from time to time appoints.

CHAPTER V.

SUBSIDIARY RULES.

Power to make rules.

37. The Chief Commissioner may from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, make rules consistent with this Act as to—

(a) the discipline and remuneration of the village and road police and the regulation of their number, location and duties;

(b) the entry into cities or towns of bands of armed men;

(c) prohibiting bands of foreign vagrants from entering or requiring them to leave any district;

(d) the disposal of unclaimed property under Act No. V of 1861 (for the regulation of Police,) sections 25, 26, 27;

(e) public health and conservancy at fairs and other large public assemblies, and the maintenance of a proper watch and ward at such fairs and assemblies;

(f) imposing with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council taxes for those purposes only;

(g) the manner in which records, civil, criminal and revenue, shall be kept; the appointment and removal of the persons entrusted with the custody of records, and all other matters connected with such custody and the destruction from time to time of such records as it may be deemed unnecessary to keep;

(h) the appointment, duties, punishment and dismissal of all ministerial officers other than those employed in the Civil Courts and those in respect of whom provision is made in the Oudh Revenue Act.

Publication of rules.

38. All rules made by the Chief Commissioner under section thirty-seven and all rules made by the Judicial Commissioner under section twenty-six shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

Rules prescribed in respect of matters for which rules may be made under this Act, to remain in force for twelve months.

39. All rules heretofore prescribed by competent authority in respect of any of the matters for which rules may be made under this Act, shall remain in force for twelve months after this Act comes into force, unless any rules on the same subject are previously issued by the Chief Commissioner or Judicial Commissioner.

Penalty for breach of rules.

40. Whoever breaks any rule made under this Act, shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be punishable with a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, or imprisonment not exceeding a period of six months, or with both.

CHAPTER VI.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Honorary Civil Jurisdiction.

Power to invest Taluqdárs with civil jurisdiction.

41. The Chief Commissioner may from time to time by notification in the official Gazette

(a) invest such persons as he thinks fit to be Honorary Assistant Commissioners with the powers of a Civil Court of the first or second grade,

(b) declare what shall be in each such case the local limits of the jurisdiction so conferred, and

(c) withdraw such jurisdiction.

Honorary Police Officers.

Honorary police officers.

42. The Chief Commissioner may from time to time confer on any person whom he thinks fit any power which may be exercised by a police officer under any Act for the time being in force, and withdraw any power so conferred.

Armed men and Foreign Vagrants.

Bands of armed men.

43. No band of armed men shall enter into any city or town, except with the consent of the Chief Commissioner or of such officer as he may empower in this behalf.

Foreign vagrants.

44. The Magistrate of the district may, if he considers that any band of foreign vagrants is likely to occasion a breach of the peace, or to commit any offence under the Indian Penal Code, prohibit such band from entering his district, or, if they are already in his district, may require them within a given time to leave it.

Procedure when they disobey Magistrate's orders.

45. If any such band fail to comply with the orders of the said Magistrate within the prescribed period, he shall report the matter to the Chief Commissioner, and the Chief Commissioner may give such directions for the supervision, control, or deportation of such band as to him seems fit.

Pasturage of Government lands.

Pasturage of Government lands.

46. No person shall make use of the pasturage or other natural product of any land being the property of the Government, except with the consent of the Chief Commissioner or of such officer as he may empower in this behalf.

Power to create new Districts.

47. The Governor General in Council may by notification in the Gazette of India create new Districts in any part of such territories, for any revenue, judicial or other purpose, and may alter the limits of existing Districts.

Power to form Sub-divisions of Districts.

The Chief Commissioner may from time to time divide any District into Sub-divisions, and from time to time alter the limits of such Sub-divisions.

All existing tahsils shall be Sub-divisions of Districts until they are so altered.

Office Memorandum from Department of Revenue, Agriculture and Commerce, No. 503, dated 11th July 1876, and enclosure.

Preliminary.

2. We have omitted as unnecessary the definitions of 'Chief Commissioner' and 'Estate,' and replaced them by definitions of 'incumbrance,' 'agricultural year,' 'revenue officer' and 'revenue-free.'

Revenue Officers.

3. In Chapter II relating to Revenue-officers, we have made the following changes: For sections 2, 3 and 4 of the Bill as introduced, we have substituted a section (4) declaring that, subject to rules prescribed by the Governor General in Council, the Chief Commissioner shall appoint Commissioners, Deputy Commissioners and Assistant Commissioners. We have authorized the Chief Commissioner to place any Assistant Commissioner of the first class in charge of one or more subdivisions, and to delegate this power to the Deputy Commissioner of the district. We have also empowered the Chief Commissioner, subject to rules prescribed by the Governor General in Council, to invest any Assistant Commissioner in charge of a subdivision with the powers of a Deputy Commissioner. We think that Deputy Commissioners of the district and Assistant Commissioners in charge of subdivisions should be empowered to transfer cases to, and withdraw cases from, their subordinates, and we have introduced a section (10) for this purpose. We have provided (section 11) for the administration of a district in case of a temporary vacancy in the office of the Deputy Commissioner. We have, lastly, copied from Act XIX of 1873 the useful provision, that when an officer invested with powers in one district is transferred to an equal or higher office in another district, he shall be held to have the same powers in the latter district.

Settlement.

4. Section 14 of the Bill as introduced specified the documents of which the settlement record is to consist. We think it preferable merely to provide that the Chief Commissioner shall, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, determine what those documents shall be.

5. We have declared (section 18) that every settlement shall be deemed to be in progress until its closing is duly notified, and that all districts in which settlements are now in progress shall be deemed to be under settlement for the purpose of that section.

6. We have transferred from the Oudh Civil Courts Act (XXXII of 1871) a section (20) empowering the Chief Commissioner to invest Settlement Officers with the powers of Civil Courts in suits relating to revenue-paying land.

7. We have declared (section 26) that in case of a taluqdárí mahál the settlement shall be made with the taluqdár.

8. We have provided (section 31) for the enforcement of the custom of periodical redistribution of land and adjustment of revenue.

9. We have expanded the provisions contained in the Bill as introduced, as to the exclusion of a taluqdár or proprietor refusing to accept settlement. We have provided (section 32) that no taluqdár shall be excluded from the settlement of his entire taluqá without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council; and we have raised the amount of the allowance to excluded proprietors.

10. We have directed (section 40) the Settlement Officer to determine the rent to be paid to the proprietor by under-proprietors and by holders of heritable, non-transferable leases, (other than tenants with right of occupancy,) whose rent has not been fixed by contract; and we have declared that whenever rent payable by such under-proprietors or lessees has been determined by a Settlement Officer, all the co-sharers shall be jointly and severally responsible for the payment to the proprietor of the rent so determined.

11. We have declared that all land shall be deemed liable to be charged with payment of revenue, and that no length of occupancy shall discharge such liability.

12. We have provided (section 46) for the alteration of assessment during the currency of a settlement, and (section 47) for the assessment of land added by alluvion. We have provided in the case of such land for the increase of a fixed rent in proportion to the increase of revenue effected by the assessment. Where the revenue assessed on a mahál has been reduced, remitted or suspended, we have declared (section 49) that the under-proprietor shall be entitled to a corresponding reduction, remission or suspension.

13. We have declared, in conformity with Regulation XIX of 1793 and other Regulations of the Bengal Code, that rent-free grants made by proprietors or the persons through whom they claim shall be liable to resumption except when such grants have been sanctioned or confirmed by the Governor General in Council or the Chief Commissioner; but we have required proprietors wishing to resume such grants to apply to the Civil Court for a declaration of the right to resume, and we have exempted, wholly or partially, from the operation of these provisions, (a) land which the grantor has expressly agreed not to resume, (b) land held rent-free under a judicial decision, and (c) land held rent-free and acquired before the passing of the proposed Act, where the right to resume has been barred by the law of limitation. We have also provided (section 56) for fixing the rent of land declared liable to resumption.

Registration and the Revenue record.

14. We have provided (section 57), with more particularity than was thought necessary, for the lists and registers of rights in land to be prepared and maintained by the Deputy Commissioner on the basis of the settlement record. And we have declared that all entries in such lists or registers shall be made with reference to actual possession, and that all persons not in possession, but claiming the right to be so, shall be referred to the Civil Court.

15. We have required (section 62) all persons obtaining possession of land as proprietors, under-proprietors, lessees whose rents have been fixed by a Settlement Officer, or mortgagees, to give notice to the Tahsíldár or the Deputy Commissioner. And where the Deputy Commissioner cannot satisfy himself as to which party is in possession of any such land, we have required him to ascertain the fact by summary enquiry.

Partition and Union of Mahals.

16. We have inserted a chapter (V) dealing with the partition and union of mahals, which is founded on Act XIX of 1863—the law on this subject now in force in Oudh; but we have endeavoured to simplify the provisions of that Act. We have given an appeal within one year from the decision of the Deputy Commissioner confirming a partition. We have added definitions of 'perfect partition' and 'imperfect partition'. We have allowed any co-sharer to claim an imperfect partition, provided that the consent of recorded co-sharers holding in the aggregate more than a moiety of the property has been first obtained. We have provided for the partition of taluqdárí and under-proprietary mahals and of mahals held by lessees whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, subject to rules made by the Chief Commissioner as to when such partitions shall or shall not be permitted. In the case of the partition of a taluqdárí mahál, we have provided (section 101) for the assignment or partitioning of the inferior mahals and for duly limiting the joint responsibility of the co-sharers.

17. When the partition of a mahál in respect of which rent is payable is effected, we have directed the Deputy Commissioner to fix the amount payable in respect of each portion, and we have empowered the person entitled to such rent to obtain a decision as to his objections (if any) to the distribution of the rental.

Maintenance of Boundaries.

18. We have inserted a chapter (VI) on the maintenance of boundaries, the provisions of which correspond with those of Act I of 1847 and of sections 140—144 of Act XIX of 1873.

Collection of Land-Revenue.

19. In the chapter (VII) relating to the collection of land-revenue, we have made no substantial change, except that we have declared (section 117) that no person exempted from personal attendance in the Civil Court, no taluqdár and no female shall be subject to arrest or imprisonment, and we have provided that the Deputy Commissioner may realize as arrears of revenue all arrears of rent, due by under-proprietors or by lessees whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, in respect of land attached, or of which the settlement has been annulled.

20. We have inserted a section (135=section 28 of Act I of 1845) empowering the Chief Commissioner to direct a sale of land for arrears of revenue to be made subject to incumbrances.

21. We have provided (section 140) that such sales must be made either by the Deputy Commissioner or by an Assistant Commissioner specially appointed by him.

22. We have by section 159 entitled the proprietor of a mahál or pattí held in sub-settlement, or under a heritable, non-transferable lease, the rent payable under which has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, to apply to the Deputy Commissioner to realize the arrears of such rent as arrears of revenue.

Court of Wards.

23. We have transferred from the Oudh Laws Bill the chapter relating to the Court of Wards. In so doing we have extended the section relating to disqualified persons so as to apply to females deemed by the Chief Commissioner incompetent to manage their estates, to persons physically incapable of managing them, to persons convicted of non-bailable offences and disqualified by vice or bad character from managing their estates, and lastly, to persons declared by the Chief Commissioner on their own application to be disqualified. We have also declared (section 174) that persons whose property is under the superintendence of the Court of Wards, shall be incompetent, without the sanction of the Court, to create charges upon such property. We have provided for suits by and against disqualified proprietors, and we have inserted rules relating to managers equivalent to those contained in Act XIX of 1873, section 206. Lastly, we have, in section 177, amended Act XL of 1858 so as to render it applicable to all mahals, whether assessed to revenue or held revenue-free.

Powers of Officers.

24. Chapter IX is new. It deals with the powers of Assistant Commissioners, Settlement Officers and Assistant Settlement Officers, and is to some extent founded on sections 234 and 235 of Act XIX of 1873.

Appeals. Arbitration.

25. Chapter X deals with appeals, and Chapter XI with references to arbitration. Both are new. The latter is to a large extent taken from Act XIX of 1873.

Patwáris.

26. In section 208 it is provided that the Chief Commissioner may make rules respecting the appointment of Patwáris. This is not intended to preclude the free discussion of the claim of the taluqdárs to make such appointments, which is still under the consideration of the local authorities.

27. The publication directed by the Rules for the conduct of legislative business has taken place; but the Bill has been so altered that we think it should be re-published, with this report, in the Gazette of India, and also in the local Gazette, and that its further consideration should be stayed for two months.

A Bill to consolidate and define the law relating to Land Revenue in Oudh.

Whereas it is expedient to consolidate and define the law relating to land-revenue in Oudh; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Oudh Land Revenue Act, 1876":

Local extent.

It extends only to the territories now under the administration of the Chief Commissioner of Oudh;

Commencement.

And it shall come into force on the passing thereof.

But all rules now in force and relating to any of the matters hereinafter dealt with shall, so far as they are consistent with this Act, continue in force until they are superseded by rules made in exercise of the powers hereinafter conferred.

Interpretation-clause.

2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

"Incumbrance."

(1) "incumbrance" means a charge upon or claim against land arising out of contract between private persons:

"Agricultural year."

(2) "agricultural year" means a year commencing on the first day of July and ending on the thirtieth day of June:

"Revenue officer."

(3) "revenue officer" means any officer powered to dispose of any matter under this Act:

"Revenue-free." "Free of revenue."

(4) "revenue-free" or "free of revenue" applies to land whereof the revenue has been wholly or in part released, compounded for, redeemed or assigned.

CHAPTER II.

REVENUE OFFICERS.

Chief Controlling Revenue Authority in revenue matters.

3. The Chief Controlling Revenue Authority in all matters connected with land-revenue in Oudh shall be the Chief Commissioner.

Commissioners of Division.

4. Subject to such rules as the Governor General in Council may from time to time prescribe in this behalf, the Chief Commissioner shall—

(a) appoint in each Division a Commissioner, who shall, subject to the control of the Chief Commissioner, exercise authority over all the Revenue Officers in his Division:

Deputy Commissioner of the District.

(b) appoint in each district an officer who shall be the Deputy Commissioner of the District:

Assistant Commissioner.

(c) appoint to each district as many other persons as he thinks fit to be Assistant Commissioners of the first or of the second class,

Subject to such rules as the Governor General in Council may from time to time prescribe in this behalf, the Chief Commissioner may suspend or remove any officer appointed under this section.

5. All such Assistant Commissioners, and all other persons employed in maintaining revenue-records or otherwise in or about the business of the land-revenue, shall be subordinate to the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

Subordination of Assistant Commissioners and other Revenue Officers.

6. The Chief Commissioner may place any Assistant Commissioner of the first class in charge of one or more Sub-divisions of a District, and may at any time remove him therefrom.

Assistant Commissioner in charge of Sub-division of District.

Such Assistant Commissioner shall be called an Assistant Commissioner in charge of a Sub-division of a District, and shall exercise the powers and discharge the duties conferred and imposed upon him by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force, subject to the control of the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, delegate his powers under this section to the Deputy Commissioner of the District, and may revoke such delegation.

7. Subject to such rules as the Governor General in Council from time to time prescribes in this behalf, the Chief Commissioner may confer on any Assistant Commissioner in charge of a Sub-division of a District all or any of the powers of a Deputy Commissioner; and all powers so conferred shall be exercised subject to the control of the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

Power to invest certain Assistant Commissioners with powers of Deputy Commissioner.

8. Every officer of a Sub-division of a District employed in maintaining revenue-records or otherwise in or about the business of the land-revenue shall be subordinate to the Assistant Commissioner (if any) in charge of such Sub-division, subject to the general control of the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

Subordination of Revenue Officers.

9. Subject to such rules as the Governor General in Council from time to time prescribes in this behalf, the Chief Commissioner may confer upon any person all or any of the powers of an Assistant Commissioner of the first or of the second class, and may, in conferring those or any other powers under this Act, empower persons by name, or classes of officials generally by their official titles, and may vary or cancel any order conferring powers under this Act.

Conferring of powers.

Power to vary and cancel orders conferring powers.

10. The Deputy Commissioner of the District, or any Assistant Commissioner in charge of a Sub-division of a District, may make over any case, or class of cases, arising under the provisions of this Act or otherwise, for enquiry or decision, from his own file to any of his subordinates competent to deal with such case or class, or may withdraw any such case, or class of cases from any Revenue Officer subordinate to him, and may deal with such case or class himself, or refer the same for disposal to any other such Revenue Officer competent to deal therewith.

Transfer of cases to subordinates.

Power to withdraw cases from subordinates.

11. If the Deputy Commissioner of the District dies, or is disabled from performing his duties, the officer who succeeds temporarily to the chief executive administration of the District in revenue matters shall be held to be the Deputy Commissioner of the District under this Act until the Chief Commissioner appoints a successor to the Deputy Commissioner so dying or disabled, and such successor takes charge of his appointment.

Deputy Commissioner of the District in case of temporary vacancy.

12. Whenever any person holding an office in the service of Government, who has been invested with any powers under this Act in any District, is transferred to an equal or higher office of the same nature within another District, he shall, unless the Chief Commissioner otherwise directs, be held to be invested with the same powers in the District to which he is so transferred.

Powers of officers transferred to another district.

13. Tahsíldárs shall be appointed by the Chief Commissioner, subject to such rules as to qualification or otherwise as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time make under section 208.

Appointment of Tahsíldárs.

CHAPTER III.

SETTLEMENT.

14. Whenever the Chief Commissioner thinks that any District or other local area liable to be brought under settlement should be so brought, he shall, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, publish a notification to that effect.

Notification as to settlement.

And if he thinks that a settlement record should be prepared for any District or other local area, he shall, with the like sanction, publish a notification to that effect.

Notification as to settlement record.

15. The Chief Commissioner shall, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, frame and issue rules regarding the mode in which the revenue demand in respect of any local area is to be assessed; and may from time to time make rules prescribing the manner in which Settlement Officers shall report for sanction the rates and method of assessment and the amounts they propose to assess.

Chief Commissioner to issue rules as to mode of assessment.

16. The Chief Commissioner shall, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, determine what documents shall form the settlement-record, and frame and issue rules regarding (a) the mode in which such record is to be prepared, (b) the facts to be therein entered, and (c) the manner in which the entries shall be attested.

Settlement record.

The Chief Commissioner may from time to time, with the same sanction, alter such rules.

17. Every entry in such settlement record duly made and attested shall, until the contrary is proved, be presumed to be a correct record of the fact entered.

Presumption as to entries in settlement record.

18. Every local area shall be held to be under settlement from the date of any notification published under section 14, and relating thereto, until the issue of another notification declaring settlement operations to be closed therein.

Settlement to be deemed in progress until closing notified.

Every local area under settlement at the time of the passing of this Act shall be held to be under settlement within the meaning of this section without the issue of either of the notifications prescribed by section 14.

Settlements now in progress brought under operation of Act.

19. The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, appoint an officer to be in charge of the settlement of any local area and as many Assistant Settlement Officers as the Chief Commissioner thinks fit; and such officers shall exercise the powers conferred on them respectively under this Act so long as such area is under settlement.

Appointment and powers of Settlement Officers.

20. In any local area in which a settlement of the land-revenue is in progress, the Chief Commissioner, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may by order confer on any officer making or controlling such settlement the powers of a Civil Court of any specified grade for the purpose of trying suits and appeals, or any specified class of suits and appeals, relating to property in land assessed or assessable to revenue, in such District, and may revoke any such order; and so long as such order remains in force the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts of the same grade shall be excluded in respect of such suits and appeals.

Power to invest Settlement Officers with powers of Civil Courts in certain cases.

21. Notwithstanding the existence of any such order, the Chief Commissioner may from time to time direct that any cases pending before the Settlement Officers invested with the powers mentioned in section nineteen, shall be transferred to the ordinary Civil Courts of the District if the state of business in his opinion requires such transfer.

Power to transfer cases from Settlement Officers to Civil Courts.

22. If a suit relating as well to such land as other property be instituted before any officer so invested, he shall make a reference regarding the disposal of such suit to the Commissioner of the Division in which the District wherein the suit was instituted is included, who shall determine by what Court the suit shall be tried.

Trial of suit relating to land and to other property.

23. When any local area is under settlement, the Settlement Officer shall have power to call upon all proprietors, by proclamation to be stuck up in some conspicuous place in each village, to erect within fifteen days such boundary-marks as he may think necessary to define the limits of their villages, maháls or fields; and in default of their compliance within the time specified in the notice, he may cause such boundary-marks to be erected, and he shall recover the cost of such erection from the proprietors as if it were an arrear of land-revenue.

Powers of Settlement Officers as to erection of boundary-marks and decision of disputes.

In case of dispute concerning any boundary-marks, the Settlement Officer shall decide such dispute on the basis of possession, or may refer it to arbitration, for decision on the merits as provided for in sections 192 to 203, both inclusive.

24. All Settlement Officers, and all officers in charge of a survey made in connection with the revenue, and their assistants, servants, agents and workmen, may do all acts necessary for any purpose connected with the settlement or survey, as the case may be.

Power of Settlement and Survey Officers to do necessary acts.

25. The Settlement Officer may order all persons whose presence is, in his opinion, necessary for any of the purpose of this chapter, to attend at any specified time and place, and to produce any written document in their possession or power; and all such persons shall be legally bound to obey such order.

Power to require attendance of persons concerned, and production of documents.

26. The settlement shall be made

With whom settlement to be made.

(a) in the case of a taluqdárí mahál with the taluqdár,

(b) in the case of other mahálsl with the proprietor of the mahál; or if in any such mahál there are two classes of proprietors, superior and inferior, with either of such classes as the Chief Commissioner directs, or if the taluqdár or proprietor has transferred possession of his mahál to a mortgagee or conditional vendee, then with such mortgagee or vendee.

If, at the time of settlement, a mahál, or any share thereof, be in the possession of a lunatic, minor or other person incapable of making a contract, the settlement shall be made on his behalf with his guardian or with the manager of his property.

Settlement of estate in possession of lunatic or minor.

27. When several persons are in possession of a mahál, not being a taluqdárí mahál, the Settlement Officer shall have power to make a joint settlement with all such persons, or with their representatives.

Power to make joint settlement with several proprietors or their elected representatives.

28. The Settlement Officer shall, in accordance with the rules made under section fifteen, frame general proposals of assessment for any local area or any portion thereof regarding which a notification has been published under the first clause of section fourteen, and shall report such proposals through the Commissioner of the Division to the Chief Commissioner.

Framing and reporting general proposals of assessment.

29. After the receipt of the orders of the Chief Commissioner thereon, and subject to such orders, the Settlement Officer shall ascertain the amount of the assessment proper for each mahál in such area, and shall declare the same to the person with whom the settlement of such mahál is to be made.

Detailed assessment and declaration thereof to persons concerned.

If any mahál in any such area comprise two or more villages, or portions of villages, the Settlement Officer shall declare the assessment due on each of such villages or portions of villages, together with the aggregate amount of the assessment proper in his opinion for the whole mahál.

Such declaration shall be made on a date to be notified by proclamation at the tahsíl in which such mahál is situate.

30. If the persons with whom the settlement of such mahál is to be made agree to the assessment so proposed, they and those (if any) whom they represent in interest shall become liable from the date of such agreement, or from such subsequent date as the Chief Commissioner directs, to pay such assessment in respect of such mahál.

Effect of agreement to assessment proposed.

and in a mahál in which the land, or part of the land is held in severalty, the Settlement Officer shall distribute such assessment on the lands so held.

Distribution of assessment.

31. In any mahál where, by the established custom, the land or the amount of revenue payable by each co-sharer is subject to periodical re-distribution or re-adjustment, the Settlement Officer may, on application of one or more of the co-sharers, enforce such re-distribution or re-adjustment according to such custom.

Enforcement of custom as to re-distribution of land and adjustment of revenue of shares.

32. If the person to be settled with be a taluqdár and such taluqdár refuse to accept the assessment offered by the Settlement Officer in respect of his entire taluqá, or in respect of any portion thereof, or if, within thirty days from the date of the declaration by the Settlement Officer under section 29, such taluqdár fail to accept such assessment, the Settlement Officer shall report the case through the Commissioner of the Division to the Chief Commissioner.

Exclusion of taluqdár declining or failing to accept settlement.

The Chief Commissioner, after hearing and considering the reasons which the taluqdár may have to urge against the assessment, may direct that the taluqdár so refusing or failing be excluded fromthe settlement of his entire taluqá, or of any portion thereof, for such term not exceeding fifteen years from the date of such direction, as the Chief Commissioner shall fix; and the Settlement Officer or Deputy Commissioner shall either farm the taluqá or any portion thereof or hold it under direct management during such term, or any part thereof: provided that no taluqdár shall be excluded from the settlement of his entire taluqá without the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

33. If a taluqdár be excluded from the settlement of any portion of his taluqá, and if such portion be held in sub-settlement by an under-proprietor, the farm of such portion shall be offered to such under-proprietor on such terms as the Chief Commissioner may in each case direct.

Offer of farm to under-proprietor.

34. If such under-proprietor accept the assessment so offered, the taluqdár so excluded shall be entitled to an allowance out of the profits of such portion to be fixed by the Chief Commissioner not exceeding the share of the gross assets, if any, to which he would have been entitled had he accepted the assessment.

Allowance to excluded taluqdár.

In other cases, the taluqdár so excluded shall (subject to the orders of the Chief Commissioner) be entitled to an allowance out of the profits of such portion of not less than five or more than fifteen per cent. on the amount proposed to be assessed thereon.

35. In a mahál other than a taluqdárí mahál, if the person to be settled with refuse to accept the assessment offered by the Settlement Officer, or fail to accept such assessment within thirty days from the date of the declaration by the Settlement Officer under section 29, the Settlement Officer shall report the case through the Commissioner of the Division to the Chief Commissioner, and the Chief Commissioner may direct that the person so refusing or failing be excluded from the settlement for such term not exceeding fifteen years from the date of such direction, as the Chief Commissioner thinks fit, and the Settlement Officer or the Deputy Commissioner may, with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner, either farm the mahál or hold it under direct management during such term or any part thereof.

Exclusion of person declining or failing to accept settlement in a mahál.

In such case the person so excluded shall be entitled (subject to the orders of the Chief Commissioner) to an allowance out of the profits of the mahál, of not less than five or more than fifteen per cent. on the amount proposed to be assessed thereon.

Allowance to person excluded.

36. If in a mahál held on a pattídárí or imperfect pattídárí tenure any of the co-sharers refuse or fail within thirty days from the date of the declaration by the Settlement Officer under section 29 to accept the proposed assessment, the shares of such co-sharers shall be dealt with under the provisions of section 35, and they shall receive an allowance, as provided in that section, in proportion to their respective shares in the mahál.

Procedure in case of some of several proprietors refusing assessment.

If the Settlement Officer farms any share in such mahál, the farm of such share shall be offered in the first instance to those co-sharers who have accepted the proposed terms.

Farm of shares of proprietors refusing.

37. Any proprietor excluded from settlement under sections 35 and 36 shall be entitled to hold as a tenant with a right of occupancy so much of the land in the mahál actually cultivated by him as the Settlement Officer may determine, and the rent to be paid by such proprietor for such land during such exclusion shall be fixed by the Settlement Officer at the rate which would have been paid by a tenant-at-will for the said land less four annas in the rupee.

Adjustment of rent of the sír land of proprietors of mahál farmed under section 35 or 36.

38. The aggregate amount of any allowance assigned under section 35 or section 36 to any proprietor of a mahál who has been excluded from settlement, and of the difference between the rent fixed under section 37, and the rent which he would be liable to pay if he were a tenant-at-will,

Amount of allowance assigned under section 35 or 36 to excluded proprietor, and of difference between rent fixed under section 37, and rent payable by him if he were a tenant-at-will.

shall not be less than five or more than fifteen per cent. on the amount proposed by the Settlement Officer to be assessed on such mahál.

39. On the expiration of the term fixed under section 32 or section 35, the settlement of such mahál portion, or share comprised therein shall be offered by the Deputy Commissioner to the person then entitled to be settled with in respect of such mahál portion or share, at such assessment for the remainder of the term of settlement of the District as the Chief Commissioner may direct.

Offer of settlement to excluded proprietor on expiry of term of exclusion.

And if such person refuse to accept the offer, the Deputy Commissioner shall report such refusal through the Commissioner of the Division to the Chief Commissioner, and such person may be excluded from settlement for such period not exceeding the term of the settlement of the District, as the Chief Commissioner may direct, and the provisions of sections 32 to 38 (both inclusive) shall, so far as may be applicable, apply to his case.

Procedure on refusal.

40. The Settlement Officer shall, in accordance with the provisions of the Oudh Sub-settlement Act, 1866, so far as they are applicable, determine the rent to be paid to the proprietor by all under-proprietors in a mahál and by all holders of heritable, non-transferable leases, whose rent has not been fixed by contract.

Determination of rent payable to proprietor.

When the rent is so determined the co-sharers may at their option agree with the Settlement Officer that the rent shall be paid either by them collectively or by one of them on behalf of himself and the others. Whenever, whether before or after the passing of this Act, rent payable by such under-proprietors or lessees has been determined by a Settlement Officer, all the co-sharers shall be jointly and severally responsible for the payment to the proprietor of the rent so determined.

Nothing in this section applies to rent payable by a tenant with a right of occupancy.

41. All land shall be deemed liable to be charged with the payment of revenue to Government, unless some competent authority has declared it exempt from such payment. And no length of occupancy of any land, nor any grant of land made by the proprietor, shall release such land from such liability.

Saving of liability for Government revenue.

42. The Settlement Officer shall enquire into the case of all lands released, conditionally or for a term, from the payment of revenue, and shall assess such lands if it appear to him that the conditions have been transgressed or the term has expired.

Inquiry into cases of land released from payment of revenue.

43. Every settlement shall be made subject to confirmation by the Governor General in Council.

Confirmation of settlement.

44. The Governor General in Council shall, at some time before confirming the settlement, fix the period for which the settlement is to be made. Such period shall be fixed with reference to the agricultural year.

Period for which settlement is to be made.

45. The assessment of any mahál may be revised at any time before it is confirmed by the Governor General in Council, and in such case the revised assessment shall be proposed to the proprietors of such mahál, and the provisions of sections 23 to 40 (both inclusive) shall apply.

Revision of assessment before confirmation.

Alteration of assessment during the currency of a Settlement.

46. The Deputy Commissioner shall enquire annually into the cases of all land released from the payment of revenue conditionally, or for a term, or for the life of the grantee.

Annual enquiry as to revenue-free grants.

If the condition be broken, he shall report the case through the Commissioner of the Division to the Chief Commissioner for orders, and if the term has expired, or (where the grant is for the life of the grantee) if the grantee has died, the Deputy Commissioner shall assess the land comprised therein, and shall report his proceedings through the Commissioner of the Division to the Chief Commissioner for sanction.

47. All land added by alluvion to a mahál is liable to assessment. Such land may be assessed and settled under rules to be framed under section 208.

Assessment of land added by alluvion.

48. Where such land is held by an under-proprietor or lessee whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, such rent shall be increased proportionately to the increase of revenue effected by such assessment.

Proportionate increase of rent payable by under-proprietor.

49. Where for any cause the revenue assessed on a mahál has, by order of the Chief Commissioner, been reduced or been wholly or in part remitted or suspended, and the land on account of which the revenue has been so reduced, remitted or suspended is in the possession of an under-proprietor or lessee whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, such under-proprietor or lessee shall be entitled (where the revenue has been reduced or remitted) to a proportionate reduction or remission of the rent payable by him in respect of such land, or (where the revenue has been suspended) to a suspension of the payment of such rent for the time during which the revenue has been so suspended.

Proportionate reduction or remission of rent payable by under-proprietor or lessee.

50. Assessments under sections 46 and 47 shall be made by the Deputy Commissioner in the same manner and with the same powers as if he were an officer in charge of a settlement.

Deputy Commissioner to have powers of officer in charge of settlement.

51. At any time during the currency of a settlement, the Chief Commissioner may, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, invest any officer with all or any of the powers of an officer in charge of a settlement under this Act within such limits, and with such restrictions, and for such period as he thinks fit;

Power to invest officer with Settlement Officer's powers.

but not so as to enable him to enhance the total amount of revenue payable on account of any mahál except in respect of land added thereto or becoming liable to payment of revenue since the confirmation of the settlement.

Resumption of rent-free grants.

52. All grants (whether in writing or otherwise) by proprietors or the persons whom they represent of land to be held exempt from the payment of rent are hereby declared to be liable to resumption, unless such grants have been sanctioned or confirmed by the Governor General in Council or the Chief Commissioner.

Liability of rent-free grants to resumption.

53. Provided that grants of land held under a written instrument (whether executed before or after the passing of this Act) by which the grantor expressly agrees that the grant shall not be resumed, shall be held valid against him (but not as against his representatives after his death) during the continuance of the settlement of the District in which the land is situate which was current at the date of the grant.

Grants under certain instruments.

54. Proprietors wishing to resume grants made by themselves or the persons whom they represent shall apply by petition to the principal Court of original civil jurisdiction of the District in which the land is situate for a declaration of the liability of the grant to resumption.

Application for declaration of such liability.

The Court shall cause notice of such application to be served on the grantee, and shall fix a day for hearing his objections (if any) to the declaration; and thereupon, after considering such objections (if any), may either dismiss the application with or without costs to be paid by the applicant, or declare that the grant is liable, in whole or in part, to resumption.

55. Nothing in section 52, section 53, or section 54 applies to either of the following cases:—

Exemptions from sections 52, 53 and 54.

(a) where land is held rent-free under a judicial decision;

(b) where previously to the passing of this Act, land held rent-free has been acquired for a valuable consideration and the right to resume it has been barred by the law of limitation.

56. The amount of rent payable in respect of land which has been declared by a Civil Court liable to resumption shall, when the district in which the land is situate is under settlement, be determined by the Settlement Officer and in every other case by the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

Rent of land declared liable to resumption.

CHAPTER IV.

REGISTRATION, INCLUDING THE PREPARATION AND MAINTENANCE OF REVENUE RECORDS.

57. The Deputy Commissioner of the District shall, on the basis of the settlement record, and in accordance with such rules as the Chief Commissioner from time to time prescribes in this behalf, prepare the following lists and registers:—

Lists and registers to be prepared by Deputy Commissioner.

(a) A list of all the villages in each pargana or tahsíl of his District;

The pargana register.

(b) A list of all the revenue-paying maháls in each pargana or tahsíl, shewing the revenue assessed on each mahál, and the name of the person responsible for its payment whether as sole proprietor or as lambardár;

The málguzárí register.

(c) A register of all the co-sharers in each mahál with the nature and extent of the interest of each co-sharer;

The khewat.

(d) A register of all mahals in which the rent of any under-proprietor or lessee has been fixed by the Settlement Officer, the names of all the co-sharers in such mahals, together with the nature and extent of the interest of such co-sharers.

Register of sub-settled mahals with khewat.

(e) For each mahál a list—

Register of under-proprietary and other tenures.

(1) of all under-proprietors and lessees whose rent has been so fixed, and of all tenants with a right of occupancy, with the nature and extent of the interest of each such person, and the rent (if any) which he is liable to pay therefor,

(2) of all other persons (if any) holding land free of rent, or revenue free.

(f) A register—

Register of revenue-free tenures.

(1) of all land in his District held revenue free, with the names of the holders, and the conditions of the grant under which they hold,

(2) of all land declared by competent authority to be waqf or nazul, or the property of the State.

(g) A register of all mahals on which a málikána allowance has been sanctioned by competent authority, with the names of the persons entitled to such allowance, the amount of such allowance, and the conditions under which it was given.

The málikána register.

(h) A register of all jungle-grants, the names of the grantees, and the conditions of the grants.

Register of jungle-grants.

58. In the preparation of the said lists and registers, the Deputy Commissioner shall correct any errors in the settlement records which the parties interested admit to have been made therein; and any dispute arising regarding any entry in such record shall be investigated and decided on the basis of actual possession; and all persons not in possession, but claiming the right to be so, shall be referred to a Court of competent jurisdiction, except where the claim is founded on the decision of such Court, and in such case the entry shall be in accordance with such decision.

Correction of errors in settlement record.

59. The Deputy Commissioner shall keep and maintain the said lists and registers,

Deputy Commissioner to keep the lists and registers.

and he shall from time to time cause to be registered all events and transactions affecting any of the rights or interests recorded in the said registers, to such extent as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time prescribe.

60. The Chief Commissioner shall prescribe the forms in which the lists and registers mentioned in section 57 are to be prepared, and the manner in which, the persons by whom, and the occasions on which, the alterations referred to in section 58 and section 59 are to be recorded.

Forms of lists and registers.

61. The Chief Commissioner may prescribe proper fees for alteration in the lists and registers formed under the said rules: Provided that no fee for a single alteration shall exceed one hundred rupees.

Power to prescribe fees for mutations.

Such fee shall be levied from the person in whose favour the mutation is made, and shall be expended in such manner as the Chief Commissioner thinks fit.

Levy of fees.

Fees how spent.

62. All persons obtaining the possession of land or the profits thereof, whether by succession, purchase or other form of transfer, as proprietors or under-proprietors, or as lessees whose rents have been fixed by a Settlement Officer, or as mortgagees, shall give notice of the same immediately after it has taken place to the tahsíldár of the tahsíl in which the mahál to which such land belongs is situated, or to the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

Notice of transfer of possession.

If the notification be made to the tahsíldár, that officer shall report such notice to the Deputy Commissioner.

63. The Deputy Commissioner on receiving such notice or report shall make such enquiry as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time prescribe to ascertain the fact of the alleged transfer of the property, and if the transfer appears to have taken place, he shall, subject to the rules framed by the Chief Commissioner under section 208, record the same in the appropriate register:

Enquiry as to truth of transfer.

Provided that no such entry shall be held to affect the rights of any other person who may claim and establish in any Court of competent jurisdiction any interest in the land to which the entry has reference.

64. If the person so succeeding is a minor or otherwise under disability, the guardian or other person who has charge of his property shall give the notice required by section 62.

Notification in case of minority or other disqualification.

65. Any person neglecting to give the notice prescribed in section 62 within three months from the date of the occurrence of the fact to be notified, shall be liable, at the discretion of the Deputy Commissioner, to a fine not exceeding five times the amount of the fee which would otherwise have been payable under section 61.

Fine for neglect to notify.

66. If in the course of enquiry made under section 63, a dispute regarding the possession of the property arises, and the Deputy Commissioner is unable to satisfy himself as to which party is in possession, he shall ascertain by summary enquiry who is the person primâ facie entitled to the property and shall put such person in possession, and make the necessary entry in the record accordingly, subject to any order that may be subsequently passed by the Civil Court.

Power to put one party in possession in certain cases of dispute.

67. When any person obtains possession of land or of the profits thereof, for any interest other than those referred to in section 62, the transfer of such possession shall be recorded by the Kánúngo and patwárí in such manner as the Chief Commissioner from time to time directs;

Registry of transfers of interests in land other than those referred to in section 62.

and all disputed cases shall be reported to the Deputy Commissioner or Assistant Commissioner, who shall make such enquiry as may be necessary to ascertain the fact of the alleged transfer, and cause the record to be amended accordingly.

Enquiry in disputed cases.

68. All registers prepared under the preceding sections of this chapter shall be deemed to be public documents and the property of Government, and shall be open to public inspection at such hours and on such conditions as to fees or otherwise as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time prescribe.

Inspection of registers.

CHAPTER V.

PARTITION AND UNION OF MAHALS.

69. Partition is either perfect or imperfect.

Partitions.

'Perfect partition' means the division of a mahál into two or more mahals, severally responsible for the revenue assessed on each.

'Perfect partition.'

'Imperfect partition' means the division of any mahál, or of any portion of a mahál, into two or more portions jointly responsible for the revenue assessed on the whole mahál.

'Imperfect partition.'

70. Any recorded co-sharer in a mahál and any person in whose favour a decree has been passed by any Civil Court, awarding to him the proprietary right in a portion of a mahál, whether such portion consists of a fractional share in the whole or a part of the mahál, or of specific lands, is entitled to claim perfect partition of his share.

Persons entitled to perfect partition.

Any two or more recorded co-sharers may claim that their shares be divided from the other shares by a perfect partition, and be held by them as a single mahál.

If any recorded co-sharer be under disability, the person in possession of his property shall, for the purpose of this section, be deemed to be a recorded co-sharer.

71. Applications for perfect partition are to be made in writing to the Deputy Commissioner of the district in which the mahál is situated; and shall be accompanied by a certified copy of the record, showing the share held by the applicant in the mahál:

Application for perfect partition.

Provided that, if the mahál be situated in two or more districts, the application may be made in any one of those districts, and the partition shall be made by such one of the Deputy Commissioners of those districts as the Chief Commissioner any direct.

Provision as to estates situated in more than one district.

72. The Deputy Commissioner, on receiving an application for partition shall, if the application be in order and not open to objection on the face of it, publish a notification of the same at his office, and at some conspicuous place in the mahál to which the application relates, and shall serve a notice on all such of the recorded co-sharers in the mahál as have not joined in the application, requiring any co-sharer in possession who may object to the partition to appear before him to state his objection, either in person or by a duly authorized agent, on a day to be specified in the notice, not less that thirty, or more than sixty, days from the date on which such notice was issued.

Notification of application.

Notice to co-sharers not joining.

73. Where, from any cause, notice cannot be personally served on any co-sharer, the notification so published shall be deemed sufficient notice.

Notification when alone sufficient.

74. If, on or before the day so specified, any objection is made to the partition by any co-sharer in possession, and the Deputy Commissioner, on a consideration of such objection, is of opinion that there is any good and sufficient reason why the partition should be absolutely disallowed, he may refuse the application, recording the grounds of his refusal.

Power to refuse partition when objection admitted.

75. If the objection raises any question of title, or of proprietary right, which has not been already determined by a Court of competent jurisdiction, the Deputy Commissioner may either decline to grant the application until the question in dispute has been determined by a competent Court, or he may proceed to enquire into the merits of the objection.

Procedure if question of title be raised.

In the latter case the Deputy Commissioner after making the necessary inquiry and taking such evidence as may be adduced, shall record a proceeding declaring the nature and extent of the interests of the party or parties applying for the partition, and any other party or parties who may be affected thereby.

The procedure to be observed by the Deputy Commissioner in trying such cases shall be that laid down in the Code of Civil Procedure for the trial of original suits, and he may, with the consent of the parties, refer any question arising in such case to arbitration, and the provisions of chapter VI (relative to arbitrators) of the same Code shall apply to such references.

Procedure in such cases.

Reference to arbitration.

76. All orders and decisions passed by the Deputy Commissioner under the last preceding section, for declaring the rights of parties, shall be held to be decisions of a Court of civil judicature of first instance, and shall be open to appeal under the provisions of the Oudh Civil Courts Act.

Deputy Commissioner's decision equivalent to decision of Civil Court.

Appeal thereupon.

Upon such appeal being made, the appellate Court may issue a precept to the Deputy Commissioner, desiring him to stay the partition, pending the decision of the appeal.

Appellate Court may stay partition.

77. When it has been decided to make a partition under this chapter, the Deputy Commissioner shall either give the parties the option of making the partition themselves, or of appointing arbitrators for the purpose; or he shall make the partition himself or cause it to be made by any Assistant Commissioner subordinate to him, and when made by an Assistant Commissioner, it shall be reported to the Deputy Commissioner for his confirmation.

Option to make partition themselves or to appoint arbitrators.

78. If arbitrators are appointed, the provisions of sections 192 to 208, both inclusive, shall apply.

Partition by arbitrators.

In making a partition, arbitrators shall not be bound by the provisions of sections 81 to 84 both inclusive; but they shall deliver a full and complete paper of partition, specifying the separate maháls into which they propose that the mahál shall be divided; the names of the parties to whom the several maháls are proposed to be allotted, and the amount of land revenue which in the opinion of the arbitrators should be assessed on each of such maháls.

79. In making partitions, the Deputy Commissioner, and any person appointed by him, shall have the same powers to enter on the land under partition, for marking out the boundaries, surveying the mahál, and other purposes, as are conferred on Settlement Officers under this Act.

Power to enter on land for purposes of partition.

80. When a Deputy Commissioner has decided that a partition shall be made, he may, with the sanction of the Commissioner, hold the mahál under direct management, pending the completion of the partition.

Power to hold mahál under direct management, pending partition.

The provisions of the law in force for the time being, for the management of maháls held under direct management for arrears of revenue shall be applicable to maháls, the management of which is assumed under this section.

The collections of the mahál shall be applied to the payment of the Government revenue, and, after defraying the expenses of management and any other expenses with which the mahál is chargeable, the residue shall be divided amongst the recorded co-sharers in proportion to their respective shares at such periods as the Deputy Commissioner may see fit.

81. Where there are no lands held in common, the lands held in severalty by the applicant for partition shall be declared a separate mahál, and shall be separately assessed to the Government revenue.

Partition of lands held only in severalty.

82. Where some of the lands are held in common, the Deputy Commissioner shall allot to the applicant for partition his share of such lands in accordance with village custom, if any such exist.

Partition of lands some of which are held in common.

If no such custom exist, the Deputy Commissioner shall make such division as may secure to the applicant his fair portion of the common lands.

83. The portion of the common lands falling by such partition to the share of the applicant shall be added to the land held by him in severalty, and the maháls thus formed shall be assessed and declared separate maháls.

Formation of separate mahálsfrom shares allotted in partition.

84. In making partitions under this Act, the Deputy Commissioner shall give effect to any transfer of lands held in severalty and forming part of the mahál, which has been agreed to by the parties, previous to the declaration of the partition.

Transfers to be effectuated in making partition.

85. Where all the lands are held in common, the Deputy Commissioner shall make such a partition as may secure to the applicant his fair share of the mahál.

Partition where all lands are held in common.

86. In all cases each mahál shall be made as compact as possible: Provided that, except with the sanction of the Chief Commissioner, no partition be disallowed solely on the ground of incompactness.

Estate to be compact.

87. If in making the partition it be necessary to include in the mahál assigned to one sharer, the land occupied by a dwelling-house or other building in the possession of another co-sharer, such other co-sharer shall be allowed to retain it, with the buildings thereon (if any) on condition of his paying a reasonable ground-rent therefor to the sharer into whose portion it may fall.

Rule when dwelling-house of one sharer is included in mahál assigned to another.

The limits of such land, and the rent to be paid for it, shall be fixed by the Deputy Commissioner.

88. Tanks, wells, water-courses and embankments shall be considered as attached to the land for the benefit of which they were originally made.

Rule as to tanks, wells, water-courses and embankments.

Where, from the extent, situation or construction of such works, it is found necessary that they should continue the joint property of the proprietors of two or more of the maháls into which the mahál may be divided, the Deputy Commissioner shall determine the extent to which the proprietors of each mahál may make use of the said works, and the proportion of the charges for repairs of such works to be borne by such proprietors respectively, and the manner in which the profits, if any, derived form such works, shall be divided.

89. Places of worship and burial-grounds, held in common previous to the partition of a mahál, shall continue to be so held, unless the persons who so held them otherwise agree among themselves.

Rules as to places of worship and burial-grounds.

In such cases they shall state in writing the agreement into which they have entered, and such writing shall be filed with the record.

90. In all cases whether partition has been made by arbitrators or otherwise, the amount of revenue to be paid in respect of each portion of a mahál partitioned under this chapter shall be determined by the Deputy Commissioner, provided that the aggregate revenue payable in respect of the new maháls shall not exceed the revenue assessed on the mahál immediately before partition; and the proprietor of each new mahál shall be held liable for the portion of the revenue assessed on his mahál, whether a new engagement be taken from him or not.

Determination of revenue payable by each division of a mahál.

Liability of proprietors.

91. If at any stage of any proceedings under this chapter there appear to be any reason for stopping the partition, the Deputy Commissioner may of his own motion, or on the report of the Assistant Commissioner making the partition, stay the partition and order the proceedings to be quashed.

Power to stay partition.

92. A partition, whether made by the Deputy Commissioner himself or otherwise, shall not be deemed to be complete unless the Deputy Commissioner has made an order confirming it.

Order confirming partition.

On making such order, he shall publish a notification of the fact at his office and at some conspicuous place in each of the new maháls,

Notification of order.

and the partition shall take effect on and from the first day of July next after the date of such notification.

Partition when to take effect.

93. An appeal against the decision of the Deputy Commissioner confirming a partition, shall lie to the Commissioner of the division within one year from the date on which such partition takes effect.

Appeal to Commissioner from orders of Deputy Commissioner.

94. Where the land-revenue is fraudulently or erroneously distributed at the time of the partition, the Chief Commissioner may, within twelve years from the time of discovery of the fraud or error, order a new allotment of the land-revenue upon the several maháls into which the mahál has been divided, on an estimate of the assets of each mahál at the time of the partition, to be made conformably to the best evidence and information procurable respecting the same.

Power to order new allotment of revenue on proof of fraud or error in first distribution.

95. Imperfect partition shall be carried out according to the provisions of sections 70 to 93 (both inclusive) so far as they are applicable: Provided that no application for imperfect partition shall be entertained unless the consent of recorded co-sharers holding in the aggregate more than one moiety of the property of which partition is sought be first obtained.

Making of imperfect partitions.

96. No Civil Court shall entertain any suit or application for perfect or imperfect partition.

Civil Courts barred from entertaining applications for partitions.

97. All imperfect partitions and all partitions perfect or imperfect of under-proprietary mahálsheretofore made, shall be deemed to have been made under the provisions of this Act.

Previous imperfect partitions and partitions of under-proprietary mahálsheretofore.

98. If two or more revenue-paying mahâls have originally formed portions of the same village, the proprietor shall be entitled to have such mahâls united and to hold them as a single mahâl.

Union of mahâls originally part of same village.

99. Every application for the union of such mahâls shall be made in writing to the Deputy Commissioner of the district in which the mahâls are situate.

Application for such union.

If the Deputy Commissioner see no objection, he shall comply with the application, and cause the necessary entries to be made in the register of his office, reporting the case to the Commissioner of the division.

Application how dealt with.

100. The provisions of this chapter, so far as they are applicable, may be applied by order of the Deputy Commissioner to the partition or union of mahâls held free of revenue.

Partition or union of revenue-free mahâls.

101. The partition of taluqdârî and under-proprietary mahâls and of mahâls held by lessees whose rent has been fixed by the Settlement Officer, shall be carried out accordingly to the provisions of sections 70 to 94 (both inclusive), so far as they are applicable.

Partition of taluqdârî and under-proprietary mahâls.

(a) In the partition of taluqdârî mahâls, all mahâls, whether under-proprietary or held by lessees whose rent has been fixed by the Settlement Officer shall, if practicable, be assigned to one or other of the new taluqâs to be formed by the partition;

Assignment of inferior mahâls.

(b) if any such mahâl cannot be assigned in whole, the assignment shall be made by thoks, pattîs or other existent sub-divisions;

(c) and if no other satisfactory arrangement can be made, such mahâl shall be partitioned;

(d) in cases in which one portion of any such mahâl is assigned to one taluqâ and another portion to another taluqâ, each portion shall be deemed a separate mahâl, the joint responsibility of the co-sharers being limited to such portion.

102. Whenever a partition of a mahâl in respect of which rent is payable is effected under this Act, the amount of rent to be paid in respect of each portion shall be determined by the Deputy Commissioner, and the person to whom such rent is payable may present an application in writing to the Deputy Commissioner objecting to the distribution of the rental over the several parts into which the mahâl has been divided, and praying that such objection may be heard and determined; and his objection shall be heard and determined, and the Deputy Commissioner shall record his reasons for such determination.

Objection to distribution of rental.

CHAPTER VI.

MAINTENANCE OF BOUNDARIES.

103. The Deputy Commissioner and his subordinates shall have power to enter upon and survey land, and to demarcate the boundaries of mahâls, villages and fields.

Power of Deputy Commissioner to enter and survey.

104. All owners of mahâls, villages or fields, are bound to maintain and keep in repair at their own cost the boundary-marks lawfully erected thereon.

Obligations of owners as to boundary-marks.

105. Any person convicted before a Deputy Commissioner of wilfully erasing, removing or damaging any such boundary-mark, may be ordered by the convicting officer to pay such sum not exceeding fifty rupees for each mark so erased, removed or damaged, as may be necessary to defray the expense of restoring such mark, and of rewarding the informer (if any) through whom the conviction was obtained.

Payment for erasing, removing or injuring marks.

106. Whenever the person erasing, removing or damaging any such mark cannot be discovered, or if for any other reason the sum which he has been so ordered to pay cannot be recovered, the mark shall be re-erected or repaired at the charge of the owner or owners of such one or more of the conterminous field or mahâls as to the Deputy Commissioner seems fit.

Who is to be charged for re-erection and repair when offenders not discoverable.

107. The Deputy Commissioner may decide, on the basis of possession, all disputes concerning boundaries, and may at any time direct the owners of mahâls villages or fields, by written notice served upon them,

Powers of Deputy Commissioner as to boundary disputes and boundary-marks.

(c) to cause proper boundary-marks to be erected in such mahâls, villages or fields,

(b) to repair the boundary-marks lawfully erected in such mahâls, villages or fields.

108. In default of compliance with such direction within fifteen days from the date of the service of the notice, the Deputy Commissioner shall cause such boundary-marks to be erected or repaired, as the case may be, and shall charge the cost of such erections or repairs to the owners of the conterminous mahâls, villages or fields in such proportion as he thinks fit.

Power to erect or repair boundary-marks.

CHAPTER VII.

COLLECTION OF THE LAND-REVENUE.

109. In the case of every mahâl the entire mahâl shall be charged with, and all the proprietors jointly and severally shall be responsible to Government for the revenue for the time being assessed on the mahâl.

Responsibility of proprietors of mahâl for land-revenue.

The term "proprietors" shall, for the purposes of this chapter, include all persons in possession for their own benefit.

110. The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, make rules as to the instalments in which, and the persons, places and times to whom, and at which, the revenue payable in respect of any land shall be paid.

Chief Commissioner may make rules as to payment of revenue.

111. Until the issue of such rules the said revenue shall be paid in the instalments, to the persons, and at the times and places in which, to whom, and at which, it is now paid.

Payment until issue of rules.

112. Any sum not so paid becomes thereupon an arrear of revenue, and the proprietor responsible for it becomes a defaulter.

Effect of non-payment.

No interest shall be demanded on any arrear of land-revenue.

113. If the settlement of any land has been made with a lambardár, and if there be an arrear of revenue due in respect of such land, both the lambardár and the co-sharers of the mahâl from which the arrear is due shall be deemed defaulters.

Defaulters in case of settlements with lambardárs.

114. A statement of account certified by the tahsîldar shall, for the purposes of this chapter, be conclusive evidence of the existence of the arrear, of its amount, and of the person who is the defaulter.

Evidence of arrear.

115. When an arrear of land-revenue has accrued, a writ of demand or summons to appear may issue, calling on the defaulter to pay the amount within a time therein stated.

Writ of demand.

116. At any time after an arrear of land-revenue becomes due, such officer as the Chief Commissioner from time to time empowers in this behalf, may arrest the defaulter and detain him in custody for fifteen days, unless the arrear, together with the costs of arrest, is sooner paid.

Arrest and detention of defaulter.

117. If the arrear be not paid within fifteen days, and no good reason for the non-payment is shown, the Deputy Commissioner may issue an order to the jailor of the civil jail of the district, directing him to confine the defaulter therein as a civil prisoner until the arrear is paid, or until the expiration of such period, not exceeding six months from the date of the order, as the Deputy Commissioner thinks fit; and such person shall be confined according to the terms of such order:

Imprisonment in civil jail.

Provided that no person exempted under the law for the time being in force from personal attendance in the Civil Courts, no taluqdâr and no female, shall be subject to arrest or imprisonment under this and the preceding section.

118. The Deputy Commissioner may, whether the defaulter has been arrested and imprisoned or not, order the attachment and sale of so much of his moveable property as will, as nearly as may be, defray the arrear.

Attachment and sale of moveables.

Nothing herein contained shall authorize the attachment and sale of articles set aside exclusively for the use of religious endowments: or, in the case of an agriculturist, of instruments of husbandry and of cattle bonâ fide kept for the cultivation of his land, or in the case of an artisan, of his tools, nor of any other articles exempted by the law for the time being in force from sale in execution of decrees of Civil Courts.

119. Every attachment and sale ordered under the preceding section shall be conducted according to the law in force for the time being, for the attachment and sale of moveable property under the decree of a Civil Court.

Conduct of sale.

120. When an arrear of land-revenue has become due in respect of a share, pattî or mahâl, the Deputy Commissioner may in addition to, or instead of, the processes hereinbefore specified, cause such share, pattî or mahâl to be attached and taken under the direct management of any agent whom he appoints for that purpose.

Property may be attached and taken under direct management.

The agent so appointed shall stand, for the purpose of managing the property so attached, in the position of the person for whose default it was attached;

Powers and obligations of agent.

and shall be bound by all the liabilities of such person to any under-proprietors, lessees whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, or tenants with rights of occupancy;

and shall be entitled to manage such property and to receive all rents and profits accruing thereon to the exclusion of the person for whose default it was attached, until the arrears of land-revenue due therefrom have been satisfied, or until the Deputy Commissioner directs him to restore the person whose interest has been attached to the management thereof.

121. All surplus profits of the property so attached after defraying thereout any instalment of land-revenue that may become due during such management, and the cost of such attachment and direct management, shall be applied to discharging the arrear of revenue on account of which it was ordered.

Application of surplus profits.

And no such management shall continue after such arrear has been discharged as aforesaid, and any surplus remaining after payment of the charges mentioned in the first clause of this section shall be handed over to the proprietor.

Termination of management.

122. If an arrear of land-revenue has become due in respect of the share of any member of a village community, such community, or any member thereof, may tender payment of such arrear, or may offer to pay such arrear by instalments.

Transfer of share of defaulter to solvent co-sharers.

If such tender be made, or if the Deputy Commissioner considers such offer satisfactory, the Deputy Commissioner may transfer the share of the defaulting member to the community or member making the tender or offer on such terms as the Deputy Commissioner thinks fit, and either for a term of years, or until such arrear is paid.

In case of conflicting tenders or offers under this section, the co-sharer who, in case the share were sold, would have a right of pre-emption under section 9 of the Oudh Laws Act, shall be preferred.

123. If such share is so transferred until the arrear is repaid, and if the arrear is not repaid within twelve years from the date of the transfer, the community or member to whom the share has been so transferred, may apply in writing to the Deputy Commissioner to publish a notification that, if the arrear is not paid within one year from the date thereof, such transfer will become absolute.

When transfer of share is to become absolute.

The Deputy Commissioner shall publish such notification accordingly, and if the arrear is not repaid before the expiration of one year from the date of the notification, the transfer to such community or member shall become absolute.

124. The procedure prescribed in the two preceding sections shall not affect the joint liability of the co-sharers of the mahál.

Procedure not to affect joint liability of co-sharers.

125. When any arrear of land-revenue has become due in respect of any pattí or mahál, and the Deputy Commissioner is of opinion that the processes hereinbefore provided are not sufficient for the recovery of such arrear, he may, in addition to, or instead of, any such process, report, through the Commissioner of the division, the matter to the Chief Commissioner, and the Chief Commissioner may thereupon order the existing settlement of such pattí or mahál to be annulled.

When settlement may be annulled.

The provisions of this section shall not be put in force for the recovery of any arrear of land-revenue which may have accrued on land,

Exception of certain arrears.

(a) while attached under section 120, or

(b) while in charge of the Court of Wards.

126. When the settlement of any pattí or mahál has been annulled under the last preceding section, the Deputy Commissioner may, with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner, either manage the land by himself or an agent, or let it in farm to any person willing to accept the same, for such term and on such conditions as may be approved by the Chief Commissioner:

When settlement has been annulled, the Deputy Commissioner may manage the land himself, or by agent, or let it in farm.

Provided that the term for which a pattí or mahál may be so managed or let be not longer than fifteen years from the first day of July next after the date of such annulment.

And no interest in or right to such pattí or mahál, or any part thereof, created or assigned by any person who, immediately before the annulment of the settlement, was in possession of the whole or any part of the land comprised therein, or by any person through whom he claims, shall, during the continuance of such term, be binding on the Deputy Commissioner or his agent or lessee.

Suspension of contracts.

127. When the Deputy Commissioner attaches any land under section 120, or when the settlement of any land has been annulled under section 125, he shall make public proclamation thereof on the mahál.

Proclamation of attachment or annulment of settlement.

And he may realize all arrears of rent becoming due in respect of such land by under-proprietors or by lessees whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, as if they were arrears of land-revenue.

128. No payment made after such proclamation on account of rent or other profit of the land so attached, or of which the settlement has been so annulled to any person other than the Deputy Commissioner or his agent or lessee, shall be credited to the person making such payment, or relieve him from liability to payment to the Deputy Commissioner, his agent or lessee.

Payments thereafter to defaulter not to discharge payer.

129. No payment made to the defaulter in anticipation of the usual period for the payment of rents, shall, without the special sanction of the Deputy Commissioner, be credited to the person making the same in account with the Deputy Commissioner, or with his agent or lessee.

Payments to defaulter in anticipation of due date.

130. When any land has been let in farm under section 126 any balance due by the lessee as such may be recovered from him or his surety (if any) as if it were an arrear of revenue.

Recovery of balance due by farmer.

131. Whenever the settlement of any portion of a mahál is annulled under section 125, the joint responsibility of the co-sharers of the mahál for the revenue of such portion subsequently becoming due, shall be in abeyance until a new settlement of such portion is made under section 132.

Suspension of responsibility of co-sharers for revenue of portion of mahál as to which settlement is annulled.

132. After the expiration of the period for which any land has been managed or let in farm under section 126, the Deputy Commissioner shall offer to the person entitled to be settled with under section 26 a new settlement, on such conditions as the Chief Commissioner may direct, for the remainder of the term of the settlement of the district; and if such person refuse such offer, the Deputy Commissioner may (with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner) either manage the land by himself or an agent, or let the same in farm, under the provisions of sections 30 to 38, both inclusive.

Offer of settlement to proprietor on expiry of period for which land is managed or farmed.

133. When an arrear of land-revenue has become due in respect of any pattí or mahál, and the Deputy Commissioner of the district is of opinion that the other processes hereinbefore provided are not sufficient for the recovery of such arrear, he may, in addition to, or instead of all or any such other processes, and subject to the provisions next hereinafter contained, and with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner, sell by auction the pattí or mahál in respect of which such arrear is due:

Power to sell land to recover revenue-arrears.

Provided that no pattí or mahál shall be sold—

(a) for any arrears of land-revenue which may have become due in respect thereof while it was under the management of the Court of Wards, or held under the provisions of the Oudh Taluqdárs' Relief Act, or when the proprietor or under-proprietor thereof was, at the time the arrear accrued, a female deemed by the Chief Commissioner incompetent to manage her estate, a minor, an idiot, or a lunatic;

(b) for any arrears of land-revenue which may have become due while it was under attachment under section 120; or any other person under sections 32, 35, 126, or 132.

(c) for any arrears of land-revenue which may have become due while it was under direct management by the Deputy Commissioner, or in farm by

134. Land sold under the last preceding section shall be sold free of all incumbrances,

Land to be sold free of incumbrances.

and all grants and contracts previously made by any person other than the purchaser in respect of such land shall become void as against the purchaser at the auction-sale.

Grants and contracts void against purchaser.

Nothing in the former part of this section applies to leases of lands at fair rents, for the erection of dwelling-houses or manufactories, or for mines, gardens, tanks, canals, places of worship or burying grounds.

Exceptions.

135. The Chief Commissioner may, notwithstanding anything contained in section 134, at any time before a sale of land for arrears of revenue has been actually made, direct it to be made subject to such of the interests in or rights to such land created by the proprietor in possession thereof, or any person through whom he claims, as the Chief Commissioner thinks fit.

Power to direct sale to be made subject to incumbrances.

When the proceeds of a sale so made are not equal to the arrears due at the time of sale, the Chief Commissioner may, at any time before the Commissioner of the Division has confirmed the sale, direct it to be cancelled and a new sale of the land to be made under section 134.

Power to cancel restricted sale and re-sell under section 134.

136. If the arrear cannot be recovered by any of the above processes, and the defaulter is in possession of any other immoveable property, the Deputy Commissioner may proceed against such other property, as if it were the land on account of which the revenue is due under the provisions of this Act:

Power to proceed against defaulter's other immoveable property.

Provided that no interest save those of the defaulter alone, shall be so proceeded against, and no incumbrances created or contracts entered into by him in good faith shall be rendered invalid by such proceeding.

137. On the receipt of the sanction of the Chief Commissioner to the sale of any land, the Deputy Commissioner of the district shall issue a proclamation, in the vernacular language of the district, of the intended sale, specifying the time and place of sale, and (when the land to be sold is a mahál or part of a mahál paying revenue to Government) the revenue assessed upon it, together with any other particulars he may think necessary.

Procedure in effecting sale.

138. When the land is sold for arrears of revenue due in respect thereof, the proclamation shall declare that the land is to be sold free of every incumbrance except the leases mentioned in section 134, and except the interests and rights, if any, referred to in the first paragraph of section 135.

Contents of proclamation.

The particulars of such leases, interests and rights shall be given in the proclamation.

Such proclamation shall be made at the headquarters of the tahsíl in which the land is situate, and also in the village of which it is a part.

139. A written notice of the intended sale and of the time and place thereof shall be affixed in the office of the Deputy Commissioner of the district, and where the Assistant Commissioner in charge of the sub-division in which the land is situate has a separate office, then also in such office, and a copy of such notice shall be served on the defaulter.

Notification of sale.

140. Every sale under this chapter shall be made either by the Deputy Commissioner of the district in person or by an Assistant Commissioner specially appointed by him in this behalf.

Sale by whom to be made.

No such sale shall take place on a Sunday or other authorized holiday, or until after the expiration of at least thirty days from the date on which the said notice thereof has been affixed in the office of the Deputy Commissioner of the district, and proclamation of the sale has been made in the village in which the land is situate.

Time when sale may be made.

The Deputy Commissioner of the district may, from time to time, postpone the sale, reporting such postponement to the Commissioner of the division.

141. If the defaulter pay the arrear of revenue in respect of which the land is to be sold at any time before the day fixed for the sale, to the person appointed by Government under section 110, to receive payment of the revenue assessed on such land, or to the Deputy Commissioner of the district, or the Assistant Commmissioner in charge of the sub-division of the district, the sale shall be stayed.

When sale may be stayed.

142. The person declared to be the purchaser shall be required to deposit immediately twenty-five per cent. on the amount of his bid, and in default of such deposit the land shall forthwith be again put up and sold.

Deposit by purchaser.

Re-sale in default of deposit.

143. The full amount of purchase-money shall be paid by the purchaser before sunset of the fifteenth day from that on which the sale of the land took place, or, if the said fifteenth day be a Sunday or other authorized holiday, then on the first office day after such fifteenth day;

Purchase-money when to be paid.

and in default of payment within such period, the deposit, after defraying thereout the expenses of the sale, shall be forfeited to Government, and the property shall be re-sold, and the defaulting purchaser shall forfeit all claim to the property, or to any part of the sum for which it may be subsequently sold.

Resale in case of default.

144. If the proceeds of the sale which is eventually made be less than the price bid by such defaulting purchaser, the difference shall be leviable from him under the rules contained in the Code of Civil Procedure for the execution of a decree for money.

Liability of purchaser for loss by re-sale.

145. No re-sale under section 143 in default of payment of the purchase-money shall be made unless and until a fresh notice has been issued in the manner prescribed for the original sale.

Notification before re-sale.

146. At any time within thirty days from the date of the sale, application in writing may be made to the Commissioner of the Division to set aside the sale on the ground of some material irregularity or mistake in publishing or conducting it.

Application to set aside sale.

147. No sale shall be set aside on such ground unless the applicant proves to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that he has sustained substantial injury by reason of the irregularity or mistake complained of.

When sale may be set aside.

148. After the expiration of the said thirty days, if no such application as is mentioned in section 146, has been made, or if such application has been made and rejected, the Commissioner of the Division shall make an order confirming the sale;

Order confirming or setting aside.

and if such application be made and allowed the Commissioner shall make an order setting aside the sale.

Every order made under this section shall be final.

149. If no such application be made within the time allowed by section 146, all claims founded on the irregularity or mistake complained of shall, as against the Government, be barred.

Bar of claims against Government.

Nothing herein contained shall preclude the institution of a suit in a Civil Court for the purpose of setting aside a sale on the ground of fraud.

150. Whenever the sale of any land is set aside, the purchaser shall be entitled to receive back his purchase-money, with or without interest, at such rate not exceeding six per cent. per annum, as the Commissioner of the Division thinks fit.

Refund of purchase-money when sale set aside.

151. After a sale of land in respect of which an arrear of revenue is due has been confirmed in manner aforesaid, the Deputy Commissioner of the District shall, unless the purchase has been made subject to a right of some other person to possession, put the person declared to be the purchaser into possession of the land, and shall grant him a certificate, to the effect that he has purchased the land to which the certificate refers, and such certificate shall be deemed to be a valid transfer of such land, but need not be stamped or registered as a conveyance.

On confirmation of sale, purchaser to be put in possession.

If the land has been sold on account of an arrear of revenue due in respect thereof, the certificate shall also either state that the purchaser has purchased the land to which the certificate refers free of every incumbrance other than the leases mentioned in section 134, or shall specify the incumbrances subject to which the land has been sold.

152. The certificate shall state the name of the person declared at the time of sale to be the actual purchaser; and any suit brought in a Civil Court against the certified purchaser on the ground that the purchase was made on behalf of another person not the certified purchaser, though by agreement the name of the certified purchaser was used, shall be dismissed with costs.

Bar of suit against certified purchaser.

153. When a sale of land has been confirmed under section 148, the proceeds of the sale shall be applied in the first place to defraying the expenses of sale and to the payment of any arrears due in respect of such land at the date of the confirmation of such sale and recoverable as an arrear of land-revenue, and the surplus (if any) shall be paid to the person whose land has been sold;

Application of proceeds of sale.

or, if the land sold were held in shares, then to the co-sharers collectively, or according to the amount of their recorded interests, at the discretion of the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

154. Such surplus shall not (except under an order of a Civil Court) be payable to any creditor of the person whose land has been sold, nor shall it (except under a like order) be retained in the Government treasury.

Surplus not to be paid to creditors, nor retained by Government except under order of Court.

155. The person named in the certificate of title as purchaser of any land shall be liable for all instalments of land-revenue becoming due in respect of such land subsequently to the date of the confirmation of the sale.

Liability of purchaser for revenue.

156. Where any land sold under section 133 is a pattí of a mahál, any recorded co-sharer, not being himself in arrear with regard to the revenue due in respect of such land, may, if the lot has been knocked down to a stranger, claim to take the said land at the sum last bid:

Pre-emption by co-sharers when land sold is a pattí of a mahál.

Provided that such claim be made on the day of sale, and before the officer conducting the sale has left the office for the day, and provided that the claimant fulfil all the other conditions of the sale.

157. Whenever proceedings are taken under this chapter against any person for the recovery of any arrear of revenue, he may pay the amount claimed under protest to the officer taking such proceedings,

Payment under protest and suit for recovery.

and upon such payment the proceedings shall be stayed,

and (subject to the pecuniary limitations prescribed by law) the person against whom such proceedings were taken may sue the Government for the amount so paid in any Civil Court situate in the district where such proceedings were taken;

and in such suit, the plaintiff may, notwithstanding section 114, give evidence of the amount which he alleges to be due from him.

158. Any proprietor or under-proprietor of a mahál or portion of a mahál, that is attached, transferred, held under direct management, farmed or sold under the provisions of this Act, who may, at the date of the order of such attachment, transfer, direct management, farm or sale, hold any land within such mahál or portion of a mahál in his cultivating occupancy, shall be deemed to be a tenant with a right of occupancy in respect of so much of such land as the Deputy Commissioner may determine, and the rent to be paid by him for such land shall be fixed by the Deputy Commissioner under the provisions of the Oudh Rent Act.

159. Whenever a mahál or pattí is held in sub-settlement, or under a heritable, nontransferable lease, the rent payable under which has been fixed by the Settlement Officer, and the rent of such mahál or pattí falls into arrear, the proprietor may, instead of suing the defaulter under Act No. XIX of 1868, apply in writing to the Deputy Commissioner requesting him to realize such arrear.

Assistance to recover rent of mahál held in sub-settlement.

The Deputy Commissioner shall, on receipt of such application, satisfy himself as to the existence of such arrear, and shall then, subject to such rules as may from time to time be made in this behalf by the Chief Commissioner, proceed to recover such arrear as if it was an arrear of revenue.

160. If the term for which any settlement has been made expires before a new settlement is made, all persons with whom a settlement has been made, who continue after the expiration of such term to occupy the land comprised in the expired settlement shall, until a new settlement is made, hold the said land upon the conditions of the expired settlement.

Tenure of land under expired settlement until new settlement is made.

161. The provisions of this Act with regard to the recovery of arrears of revenue shall apply to all arrears of land-revenue and sums of money recoverable as arrears of land-revenue and due when this Act comes into force.

Provisions applied to arrears due at commencement of Act.

CHAPTER VIII.

COURTS OF WARDS.

162. Deputy Commissioners shall, subject to the control of the Commissioner of the Division and of the Chief Commissioner, have the power of a Court of Wards within their respective districts for the superintendence of the persons and property of all persons who may become entitled as proprietors or under-proprietors, or lessees whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer, to any beneficial interest in a mahál or portion of a mahál assessed to the payment of land-revenue or held free of revenue, and who are either disqualified for the management of their own estates or are committed by a Civil Court to the care of the Deputy Commissioner:

Deputy Commissioners to be Courts of Wards.

Provided that the Court of Wards shall not take charge of or administer any beneficial interest in an estate, in which more persons than one have a joint undivided interest, unless all such persons are so circumstanced as to be subject to the Court of Wards.

Bar of jurisdiction in certain cases.

163. Persons shall be held to be disqualified to manage their own estates when they are Persons when disqualified to manage their estates.

(a) females deemed by the Chief Commissioner incompetent to manage their estates,

(b) minors,

(c) idiots,

(d) lunatics,

(e) persons who may in the opinion of the Chief Commissioner be otherwise rendered incapable by physical defects or infirmities from managing their estates,

(f) persons convicted of a non-bailable offence and disqualified in the opinion of the Chief Commissioner by vice or bad character from managing their estates,

(g) persons declared by the Chief Commissioner on their own application to be disqualified from managing their estates.

164. The Deputy Commissioner may make an inquiry into the disqualification of any person, who, he has reason to believe, disqualified within the meaning of section 163, clauses (b), (c) or (d), and into the circumstances and property of any such person, and may make an order declaring him to be subject to the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards.

Inquiry into minority, lunacy, idiocy, &c.

165. The Court of Wards may assume or refrain from assuming the superintendence of the person or property of any disqualified person and may at any time release any person or property from its superintendence: Provided that such person or property has not been placed under the Court of Wards by any competent authority whose order is necessary to his or its release.

Jurisdiction of Court of Wards.

166. If in any case not specially provided for by this or any other law for the time being in force, the right of the Court of Wards to assume or retain the superintendence of the estate of a disqualified person is disputed by such person, the case shall be reported to the Chief Commissioner whose orders thereon shall be final.

Report to Chief Commissioner when right of Court of Wards is disputed by persons other than those specially provided for.

167. The jurisdiction of the Court of Wards shall extend to the care and education, and to the management of the property, of the persons subject thereto.

Extent of jurisdiction.

168. The Court of Wards may appoint managers of the property of disqualified proprietors, and if such proprietors be minors, idiots or lunatics, may appoint guardians for the care of their persons, and may remove and control such managers and guardians.

Appointment, removal and control of guardians.

169. Proprietors may appoint guardians for their heirs, if disqualified, by will executed and attested in manner required in case of Taluqdárs by Act No. I of 1869, and in case of other proprietors by the Indian Succession Act, 1865; but the Court of Wards shall be competent to remove such guardian for any sufficient reason.

Power of proprietors to appoint guardians for disqualified heirs.

170. The Court of Wards may direct where all male minors under its jurisdiction shall reside for the purpose of education or otherwise.

Powers of Courts of Wards as to male minors within its jurisdiction.

171. The manager appointed by the Court of Wards shall have power to collect the rents of the land entrusted to him, as well as all other money due to the disqualified proprietor, and to grant receipts therefor;

and he may, subject to the control of the Court, grant or renew such leases and farms, not being for a longer period than five years, as may be necessary for the good management of the property.

172. The manager shall manage the property committed to him diligently and faithfully for the benefit of the proprietor, and shall in every respect act to the best of his judgment for the proprietor's interest as if the property were his own.

Duties of manager.

173. The Court of Wards shall have power to give such leases or farms of the whole or parts of the immoveable property under its charge, and to mortgage or sell any part of such property, and to do all such other acts, as it may judge to be most for the benefit of the property and the advantage of the disqualified proprietors.

Power of Court of Wards as to land under its charge.

174. Persons whose property is under the superintendence of the Court of Wards shall not be competent to create without the sanction of the Court any charge upon or interest in such property or any part thereof.

Disabilities of persons subject to Court of Wards.

175. No such property shall be liable to be taken in execution of a decree made in respect of any contract entered into any his property is under such superintendence.

Their property exempt from being taken in execution of certain decrees.

176. All disqualified proprietors whose property is in charge of the Court of Wards shall sue and be sued by and in the name of their guardians, where guardians have been appointed; otherwise by and in the name of the Court of Wards.

Suits by and against disqualified proprietors in charge of Court of Wards.

Provided that no such suit shall be maintained or defended by any guardian without the sanction of the Court of Wards.

177. If no such guardian has been appointed, the disqualified proprietors shall sue and be sued by and in the name of the Court of Wards.

Suits by such proprietors when no guardian appointed.

178. Every manager appointed by the Court of Wards shall—

Rules relating to managers.

(a) give such security as the Court of Wards thinks fit, duly to account for what he shall receive in respect of the rents and profits of the property for which he is appointed;

(b) pass his accounts at such periods and in such form as the Court of Wards directs;

(c) pay the balance due from him thereon;

(d) apply for the sanction of the Court of Wards to any act which may involve the property in expense not previously sanctioned by such Court;

(e) be entitled to such allowance as the Court of Wards thinks fit for his care and pains in the execution of his duties;

(f) be responsible for any loss occasioned to the property by his wilful default or gross negligence.

CHAPTER IX.

POWERS OF OFFICERS.

A.—Powers of Assistant Commissioners.

179. An Assistant Commissioner in charge of a sub-division shall as such have the following powers:—

Powers of Assistant Commissioners of the first class.

(a) to refer cases for inquiry or decision to his subordinates;

(b) to withdraw cases from his subordinates and to deal with them himself, or to refer them for disposal to any other subordinate officer competent to deal with them;

(c) to order changes in the proprietary register;

(d) to levy fees for mutations;

(e) to enquire into cases of reported transfers;

(f) to levy fines, under section 65;

(g) to declare the person best entitled to property and put him in possession, under section 66;

(h) to report on revenue-free holdings, and to assess revenue on resumed grants;

(i) to assess alluvial lands;

(j) to receive applications for and make partitions under chapter V, of this Act, subject to the confirmation of the Deputy Commissioner of the District.

(k) to impose fines for injuries to boundary-marks, and in certain cases apportion the charges of re-erecting and repairing boundary-marks;

(l) to call on owners to erect or repair boundaries, and, in default, to erect and repair and charge the cost to owners, and to decide disputes regarding boundaries;

(m) to attach and sell moveable property of defaulters, under section 118;

(n) to fix under section 158 the area of the land to be held as a tenant with right of occupancy and the rent to be paid for it by proprietors of mahâls which have been attached, transferred, held under direct management, farmed or sold, under the provisions of this Act, for land in their cultivating occupancy;

180. Assistant Commissioners of the first class, not in charge of sub-divisions of districts, shall exercise all or any of the powers conferred on Assistant Commissioners of the first class in charge of sub-divisions, in such cases or class of cases as the Deputy Commissioner of the District may, from time to time, refer to them for disposal.

Powers of Assistant Commissioners of first class not in charge of sub-divisions.

181. All Assistant Commissioners of the second class shall have power to investigate and report on such cases as the Deputy Commissioner of the District or Assistant Commissioner in charge of a sub-division of a district may, from time to time, commit to them for investigation and report.

Powers of Assistant Commissioners of second class.

B.—Powers of Settlement Officers.

182. Officers in charge of a settlement may exercise all the powers conferred by or under this Act on Settlement Officers, and by section ten on the Deputy Commissioner of the District, but none but an officer in charge of a settlement or an Assistant Settlement Officer specially empowered by the Chief Commissioner shall have power—

Powers of officers in charge of a settlement.

(a) to frame proposals for assessment;

(b) to distribute the assessment;

(c) to re-distribute land or revenue under section 31;

(d) to determine the rent payable under section 40 by under-proprietors or lessees;

(e) to exclude proprietors from settlement for refusal to engage;

(f) to adjust the rent of excluded proprietors;

(g) to determine under section 56 the rent payable in respect of resumed rent-free tenures;

(h) to resume and assess revenue-free land.

183. All other powers conferred on Settlement Officers by this Act shall be exercised by Assistant Settlement Officers, under such restrictions as the officer in charge of a settlement may from time to time impose.

Powers of Assistant Settlement Officers.

184. The Chief Commissioner may with the previous section of the Governor General in Council invest any officer in charge of a settlement with all or any of the powers of a Deputy Commissioner under this Act, and any Assistant Settlement Officer with all or any of the powers conferrible on an Assistant Commissioner under this Act within such limits, and with such restrictions, and for such period as he thinks fit.

Investing of Settlement Officers with powers of Deputy Commissioner and Assistant Commissioner.

CHAPTER X.

APPEALS.

185. Appeals shall lie under this Act as follows:—

Officers to whom appeals lie.

(a) to the Chief Commissioner from any order passed by a Commissioner except such orders as are made on appeal from orders passed by Deputy Commissioners in the exercise of their appellate jurisdiction;

(b) to the Commissioner from orders, original or appellate, passed by Deputy Commissioners or officers in charge of a settlement in any proceeding held under the provisions of this Act;

(c) to the Deputy Commissioner from orders passed by any Assistant Commissioner;

(d) to the officer in charge of a settlement from orders passed by an Assistant Settlement Officer.

186. No appeal under section 185, clauses (c) and (d), shall be brought after the expiration of thirty days from the date of the order complained of.

Limitation of appeals.

No appeal under the same section, clause (b), shall be brought after the expiration of six weeks from the date of the order complained of, unless otherwise specially provided.

No appeal under the same section, clause (a), shall be brought after the expiration of two months from the date of the order complained of.

187. In computing the period prescribed for an appeal under this chapter, the day on which the order complained of was passed, and the time requisite for obtaining a copy of such order, shall be excluded.

Time to be excluded.

188. Any appeal under this chapter may be admitted after the period of limitation prescribed therefor, when the appellant satisfies the officer to whom he appeals that he had sufficient cause for not presenting the appeal within such period.

Admission of appeal after period of limitation.

No appeal shall lie against an order under this section admitting an appeal.

189. The officer to whom the appeal lies may either admit or summarily reject the appeal. If he admit the appeal, he may reverse, modify or confirm the order appealed against, or he may direct such further investigation to be made or such additional evidence to be taken as he may think necessary, or he may himself take such additional evidence.

Procedure on admitting appeal.

190. In every case in which an appeal is admitted, the execution of the order appealed may, pending the result of the appeal, be suspended.

Suspension of order appealed against.

191. The Chief Commissioner and every Commissioner shall have power to call for the file of any proceeding held by any officer subordinate to him, and to pass such orders thereon as he thinks fit.

Power to call for files of subordinate officers.

CHAPTER XI.

REFERENCE TO ARBITRATION.

192. The Chief Commissioner, a Commissioner of a Division, a Deputy Commissioner, an Assistant Commissioner of the first class, an officer in charge of a settlement, or an Assistant Settlement Officer may, with the consent of the parties, by order, refer any dispute before him to arbitration; and any officer acting under the provisions of sections 103 to 108, both inclusive, may, with the consent of the parties, refer to arbitration any dispute arising before him respecting the matters mentioned in the same sections.

Power to refer disputes to arbitration.

193. In referring any such dispute to arbitration, the officer making the reference shall specify, in the order of reference, the precise matter submitted to the arbitrators, and such period as he may think reasonable for the delivery of the award;

What to be specified in order of reference.

and he may from time to time extend such period.

194. The parties to the case may each nominate either one or two arbitrators, provided that each party shall nominate the same number;

Appointment of arbitrators.

and a third or fifth arbitrator (as the case may be) shall be appointed by the parties, or, in the event of their being unable to agree, by the officer making the reference.

Power to excuse arbitrator from serving, and to call for nomination of substitute.

195. Every officer making a reference under this chapter may, on good cause shown, excuse any person from serving as an arbitrator, and may call on the party who nominated such person to nominate another in the place of the person so excused.

Nomination of new arbitrator in place of one dying or failing to act.

196. If an arbitrator die, desire to be discharged, or refuse or become incapable to act, the party who nominated him shall nominate another person in his place.

Nomination by officer when parties fail.

197. If in any of the cases provided for by section 195 or section 196 any party fail for a week to nominate in manner aforesaid, the officer making the reference shall appoint some person to act as arbitrator.

Award.

The arbitrators shall determine and award concerning the matters referred to them for arbitration; and the parties disputing, and all persons claiming through them respectively, shall abide by and perform the award of the arbitrators.

Summoning parties to give evidence.

198. If the arbitrators require the presence of the parties, or any other persons whose evidence may be necessary, they shall apply to the officer making the reference, who shall summon such parties or persons;

Obligation of persons summoned.

and all such parties or persons shall be bound to attend, either in person or by agent, as the arbitrators may require, and to state the truth as to the subject-matter of the reference, and to produce such documents and other things as may be required before the arbitrators.

Preparation and submission of award.

199. The award shall be made in writing under the hands of the arbitrators, and shall be submitted by them to the officer making the reference, who shall cause notice to be served on the parties to attend and hear the award.

In what cases award or subject of arbitration may be remitted to arbitrators.

200. The officer making the reference may remit the award or any of the matters referred to arbitration to the re-consideration of the same arbitrators,

(a) if the award has left undetermined some of the matters referred to arbitration, or if it determine matters not referred to arbitration;

(b) if the award is so indefinite as to be incapable of execution;

(c) if an objection to the legality of the award is apparent upon the face of the award.

Grounds on which award may be set aside.

201. No award shall be liable to be set aside except on the ground of corruption or misconduct of all or any of the arbitrators.

Any application to set aside an award shall be made within ten days after the day appointed for hearing the award.

Application to set aside.

202. If the officer making the reference does not see cause to remit the award or any of the matters referred to arbitration for re-consideration in the manner aforesaid,

Decision according to award.

and if no application has been made to set aside the award,

or if he has refused such application,

he shall decide in accordance with the award of the majority of the arbitrators, and shall fix the amount to be allowed for the expenses of the arbitration, and direct by, and to whom, and in what manner, the same shall be paid.

Bar to appeal any suit in Civil Court.

203. Such decision shall not be open to appeal, and shall be at once carried out;

and no Civil Court shall entertain any suit for the purpose of setting it aside or against the arbitrators on account of their award.

CHAPTER XII.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Place for holding Court.

204. Subject to the orders of the Chief Commissioner,

(a) a Commissioner may hold his Court at any place within his division that he thinks fit:

(b) a Deputy Commissioner, an Assistant Commissioner (whether in charge or not of a sub-division of a district), or an officer in charge of a settlement or Assistant Settlement Officer may hold his Court at any place within the limit of the district to which he is appointed; and

(c) a Tahsíldár may hold his Court at any place within the limits of his tahsíl.

Power to summon persons to give evidence and produce documents.

205. The Chief Commissioner and any officer mentioned in the last preceding section shall have power to summon any person whose attendance he considers necessary for the purpose of any investigation, suit or other business before him.

All persons so summoned shall be bound to attend either in person or by authorized agent as such officer may direct, and to state the truth upon any subject respecting which they are examined or make statements, and to produce such documents and other things as may be required.

Conduct of proceedings.

206. All proceedings held under the provisions of this Act shall be conducted according to the rules for the time being prescribed under section 208.

Matters excepted from cognizance of Civil Courts.

207. No Civil Court shall exercise jurisdiction over any of the following matters:—

(a) the claim of any person to be settled with, or the validity of any engagement with Government for the payment of revenue, or the amount of revenue, cess or rate to be assessed on any mahál, or portion of a mahál under this or any other Act for the time being in force: or the rent to be paid to a proprietor by an under-proprietor or a lessee whose rent has been fixed by the Settlement Officer.

(b) any claims connected with or arising out of any process enforced on account of neglect or refusal to accept the assessment or terms of sub-settlement proposed by the Settlement Officer:

(c) the formation of the settlement record,

the preparation, signing, or attestation of any of the documents contained therein, or the notification of settlement:

(d) the distribution on partition of the land or allotment of the revenue of a mahál or of the rent of an under-proprietary tenure, or of rent payable by lessees whose rent has been fixed by a Settlement Officer.

(e) the determination of the rent to be paid by any person under section 87:

(f) claims connected with, or arising out of, the collection of revenue or any process enforced on account of an arrear of revenue, or on account of any sum which is by this or any other Act realizable as revenue other than claims under section 157:

(g) claims to set aside a sale for arrear of revenue other than claims under section 149.

In all the above cases, jurisdiction shall rest with the revenue officers only.

Power to make rules for purposes of Act.

208. The Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, make and issue rules consistent with this Act, and relating to the following matters:—

(a) the appointment, duties, remuneration, punishment and dismissal of—

(1) tahsíldárs.

(2) lambardárs or representatives of village communities,

(3) kánúngós or superintendents of revenue records,

(4) patwárís or village accountants;

(b) for regulating the assessment of land gained by alluvion or the reduction of the assessment of a mahál in consequence of diluvion;

(c) the procedure to be followed by any officer or other person who, under any provision of this Act, is required or empowered to take action in any matter;

(d) the cases in which, the officers to whom, and the conditions subject to which, orders and decisions given under the preceding sections of this Act, and not expressly provided for as regards appeal shall be appealable;

(e) the person by whom, and the time, and manner at or in which, anything for the doing of which provision is hereinbefore made in this Act, shall be done;

(f) the form and contents of reports to be furnished by officers required or empowered to take action in any matter, and the period within which such reports shall be furnished;

(g) the form and contents of the registers and lists kept under this Act; and

(h) the cases in which alone taluqdárí mahals and mahals whether under-proprietary or held by lessees whose rents have been fixed by the Settlement Officer shall be liable to partition under this Act;

(i) the costs of partitions under this Act and the persons by whom they are to be paid, and the mode of enforcing such payment against such persons or their shares in the property of which partition has been made;

(j) the issue under section 115, of writs of demand or summons to appear, and the costs recoverable from the defaulter, and the officer by whom such writs and summonses shall be issued;

(k) and generally to carry out the provisions of this Act.

Penalty for neglecting to appoint patwárís.

209. Where, by any rule framed under the provisions of clause (a) of the preceding section, the appointment of patwárís is directed to be made by the landowners of a village, or the landowners are made primarily responsible for enforcing the due submission of such returns as may be prescribed to be kept by patwárís, the neglect or refusal of such landowners to make such appointment or to enforce the submission of such returns shall be punishable with such fine not exceeding fifty rupees, as the Chief Commissioner directs.

Recovery of fines and costs.

210. All fees, fines, costs and other moneys ordered to be paid under this Act, shall be recoverable as if they were an arrear of land-revenue.

2. We have omitted the chapter relating to minority. So far as relates to Europeans the matter is sufficiently provided for by Act No. XIII of 1874. As to Natives, there seemed some danger that the chapter in question might have interfered undesirably with their customs as to guardianship, minority, and bastardy; and as there is no evidence before us that those customs are either unjust or inexpedient, we thought it best not to touch them in the present measure. Exactly the same course was followed by the legislature when it passed the Panjáb Laws Act, and no inconvenience has been found to result.

3. We have transferred the chapter treating of the Court of Wards to the Oudh Land-Revenue Bill, with certain changes described in the report on that Bill.

4. For reasons similar to those mentioned in paragraph 2 of this report, we have omitted the chapter relating to betrothal. Here, again, we have followed the precedent of the Panjáb Laws Act.

5. We have redrawn the chapter of pre-emption, extending it to foreclosures of mortgages as well as to sales, as is done by the Panjáb Laws Act.

6. The substance of the sections on partitions has been inserted in the Oudh Land-Revenue Bill. We have therefore struck them out of the Laws Bill.

7. We have omitted the sections (46 and 47) as to the bar of certain suits for redemption. They were taken from the Oudh Courts Act: some difference of opinion exists about them; and they should not be inserted in a Bill of which the primary object is to clear up doubts as to what the law really is in Oudh. The Oudh Courts Act remains untouched in this respect.

8. We have also omitted the sections relating to insolvency. This matter will, so far as regards persons arrested or imprisoned in execution of money decrees, be dealt with by the revised Code of Civil Procedure, which will apply to Oudh as to other parts of British India; and, in any case, we think it inexpedient to give Oudh a special law on the subject.

9. We have also omitted the sections relating to intestacy. The procedure which they prescribe can, for the most part, be enforced by executive rules for the disposal of unclaimed property made under the Police Act, V of 1861. Moreover, so far as regards Europeans and East Indians, the necessary rules are already contained in the Administrator General's Act, II of 1874.

10. The retention of the system of trial by jury in civil cases in Lucknow alone, of all places in India, is obviously inexpedient. We have therefore struck out section 61.

11. We have struck out the clause of the Bill requiring Judges of Civil Courts to forward to the Deputy Commissioner certified copies of decrees affecting land.

12. As regards sales of land in execution of decrees, we have altered section 65 of the Bill so as to render unsaleable ancestral property in land without the permission of the Judicial Commissioner, and acquired property in land without the permission of the Deputy Commissioner. This maintains the modification of Act VIII of 1859, section 205, subject to which the Code of Civil Procedure was extended to Oudh in August 1861. We have also declared that in the clause under notice (section 21 of the amended Bill) the words "ancestral property" include the immoveable property of persons admitted to engagement for the land-revenue at the summary settlement of 1858-59. This agrees with the Oudh Rent Act, section 109.

13. We have provided (section 22) for the appointment of a person to manage immoveable property under attachment.

14. We have amended (sections 23 and 24) the Oudh Rent Act sections 109 and 118.

15. We have omitted the chapters relating respectively to Escheats and Hidden Treasure. Rules as to the former subject can be made by the Executive and require no legislation. The latter subject will be dealt with by another Bill about to be introduced into the Council of the Governor General, which will apply to the whole of British India.

16. We have also omitted the chapter relating to Cantonments and Military Bázárs. So much doubt exists in the Military Department of the Government of India as to what rules should be made on this subject, that the Committee have thought it best to omit the chapter in question, and rely for the present on the rules contained in Bengal Regulation XX of 1810.

17. We have inserted, at the desire of the Chief Commissioner, a chapter (copied from Act XVI of 1873) dealing with Village and Road Police.

18. In the section relating to the creation of new districts, we have empowered the Chief Commissioner to subdivide districts and to alter the limits of subdivisions.

19. We have repealed sections 10 to 15 of the old Gambling Act, which were extended to Oudh by an executive order. We have also repealed Act XIX of 1863, as its provisions have been inserted in the Oudh Land-Revenue Bill. We have omitted from the schedule of repeals Act III of 1869, as to Rural Police, and sections 29 and 30 of the Oudh Civil Courts Act.

20. From the section (91) corresponding with sections 38 and 39 of the present draft, we have omitted the clause providing for the periodical republication of subsidiary rules.

21. From the second schedule we have omitted Regulation XXIII of 1803, as to fees to defray the expenses of Revenue-offices, and Regulation IV of 1821, as to the powers and duties of Collectors; and Acts I of 1847, as to boundary marks, XXVI of 1854, as to education of Wards, and XXXI of 1858, as to the settlement of alluvion. We have inserted Regulation XX of 1810, as to Military Bázárs, Regulation V of 1817, as to Hidden Treasure, and Regulation XI of 1822, section 38, as to the non-liability of Government for the errors of Courts of Justice.

22. The publication directed by the Rules for the conduct of legislative business has taken place. But the Bill has been so much altered that we think it should be republished, with this report, in the Gazette of India and the local Gazette, and that its further consideration should be postponed for two months.

FIRST SCHEDULE.

SECOND SCHEDULE.

A Bill to declare and amend the laws to be administered in Oudh.

Whereas it is expedient to declare and amend the laws to be administered in Oudh; It is hereby enacted as follows:— Preamble.

PART I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called "The Oudh Laws Act, 1876." Short title.

It extends only to the territories for the time being under the administration of the Chief Commissioner of Oudh; Local extent.

And it shall come into force on the passing thereof. Commencement.

2. On and from that day, the Regulations, Acts, Rules and Orders mentioned in the first Schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column of the said schedule. Repeal of enactments.

PART II.

GENERAL LAWS TO BE ADMINISTERED IN OUDH.

3. The law to be administered by the Courts of Oudh shall be as follows:— Statutory law to be administered in Oudh.

(a) the laws for the time being in force regulating the assessment and collection of land-revenue;

(b) in questions regarding succession, special property of females, betrothal, marriage, divorce, dower, adoption, guardianship, minority, bastardy, family relations, wills, legacies, gifts, partitions or any religious usage or institution, the rule of decision shall be—

(1) any custom applicable to the parties concerned which is not contrary to justice, equity, or good conscience, and has not been by this or any other enactment altered or abolished and has not been declared to be void by any competent authority;

(2) the Muhammadan law in cases where the parties are Muhammadans, and the Hindú law in cases where the parties are Hindús, except in so far as such law has been, by this or any other enactment, altered or abolished, or has been modified by any such custom as is above referred to;

(c) the rules contained in the third Part of this Act;

(d) the rules published in the local Gazette as provided by section sixty-two or made under any other Act for the time being in force in Oudh;

(e) the Regulations and Acts specified in the second Schedule hereto annexed, subject to the provisions of section four, and to the modifications mentioned in the third column of the same schedule;

(f) subject to the modifications hereinafter mentioned, all enactments for the time being in force and expressly, or by necessary implication, applying to British India or Oudh, or some part of Oudh;

(g) in cases not provided for by the former part of this section, or by any other law for the time being in force, the Courts shall act according to justice, equity and good conscience.

4. All local customs and mercantile usages shall be regarded as valid, unless they are contrary to justice, equity, or good conscience, or have, before the passing of this Act, been declared to be void by any competent authority. Validity of local custom and mercantile usages.

PART III.

CHAPTER I.

DOWER AMONG MUHAMMADANS.

5. Where the amount of dower stipulated for in any contract of dower by a Muhammadan is excessive with reference to the means of the husband, the entire sum provided in the contract shall not be awarded in any suit by decree in favour of the plaintiff, or by allowing it by way of set-off, lien or otherwise to the defendant; but the amount of the dower to be allowed by the Court shall be reasonable with reference to the means of the husband and the status of the wife. Muhammadan dower-contracts how to be enforced.

This rule shall be applicable whether the suit to enforce the contract be brought in the husband's lifetime or after his death. Rule applicable after husband's death.

CHAPTER II.

PRE-EMPTION.

6. The right of pre-emption is a right of the persons hereinafter mentioned or referred to, to acquire, in the cases hereinafter specified, immoveable property in preference to all other persons. Right of pre-emption.

7. Unless the existence of any custom or contract to the contrary is proved, such right shall, whether recorded in the settlement-record or not, be presumed— Presumption as to its existence.

(a) to exist in all village-communities, however constituted, and whether proprietary or under-proprietary, and in the case referred to in section 40 of the Oudh Land-Revenue Act, and

(b) to extend to the village site, to the houses built upon it, to all lands and shares of lands within the village-boundary, and to all transferable rights affecting such lands.

8. The right of pre-emption shall not be presumed to exist in any town or city, or any sub-division thereof, but may be shown to exist therein, and to be exercisable therein by such persons and under such circumstances as the local custom prescribes. Its existence in towns to be proved.

9. If the property to be sold or foreclosed is a proprietary or under-proprietary tenure, or a share of such a tenure, the right to buy or redeem such property belongs, in the absence of a custom to the contrary, Devolution of right when property to be sold is part of a village.

1st, to co-sharers in the tenure in order of their relationship to the vendor or mortgagor;

2ndly, if no relation of the vendor or mortgagor claim the said right to buy or redeem, to the land-owners of the pattí or other sub-division of the tenure in which the property is comprised;

3rdly, to any member of the village-community; and

4thly, if the property be an under-proprietary tenure, to the proprietor.

10. When any person proposes to sell any property, or when he forecloses a mortgage upon any property, in respect of which any persons have a right of pre-emption, he must give notice to the persons concerned of the price at which he is willing to sell such property, or of the amount due in respect of such mortgage, as the case may be. Notice to pre-emptors.

Such notice shall be deemed sufficiently given if it be stuck up on the chaupál or other public place of the village or city in which the property is situate.

11. Any person having a right of pre-emption in respect of any property proposed to be sold, shall lose such right, unless within three months from the date of such notice he or his agent pays or tenders the price aforesaid to the person so proposing to sell. Loss of right of pre-emption.

12. Such decree shall specify a day on or before which the purchase-money shall be paid. Decree to fix time for payment.

13. If the purchase-money is not paid into Court before it rises on that day, the decree shall become void, and the plaintiff shall lose his right of pre-emption over the property to which it relates. Effect of non-payment of purchase-money.

14. When the right of pre-emption arises in respect of the foreclosure of a mortgage, any person entitled to such right may, at any time within three months after the giving of the notice required by section ten, pay or tender to the mortgagee or his successor in title the amount specified in such notice and shall thereupon acquire a right to purchase the property. Right of pre-emptor on foreclosure.

On completion of the purchase the person exercising the right of pre-emption shall be bound to pay to the mortgagee or his successor in title the amount specified in such notice, together with interest on the principal sum secured by the mortgage, at the rate specified by the instrument of mortgage, for any time which has elapsed since the date of the notice, and any additional costs which may have been properly incurred by the mortgagee or his successor in title.

Suit to enforce right of pre-emption.

15. Any person entitled to a right of pre-emption may bring a suit to enforce such right on any of the following grounds (namely)—

(a) that no due notice was given as required by section ten;

(b) in the case of a sale, that the price stated in the notice was not fixed in good faith;

(c) in the case of a mortgage, that the amount claimed by the mortgagee was not really due on the footing of the mortgage and was not claimed in good faith, and that it exceeds the fair market-value of the property mortgaged.

If in the case of a sale, the Court finds that the price was not fixed in good faith, the Court shall fix such price as appears to it to be the fair market-value of the property sold.

If in the case of a mortgage, the Court finds that the amount claimed by the mortgagee was not really due on the footing of the mortgage, and that it was not claimed in good faith, and that it exceeds the fair market-value of the property mortgaged, the amount to be paid to the mortgagee shall not exceed what the Court finds to be such market-value.

CHAPTER III.

PROCEDURE OF THE COURTS.

(a) Law of Limitation.

Rule of Limitation.

16. The Judicial Commissioner's Circular No. 104 of July 1860, shall be held to have been a notification within the meaning of section twenty-four of Act No. XIV of 1859; and such Act shall be deemed to have been in force in Oudh from the fourth day of July 1862; and all orders and decrees passed under the rules contained in the said circular, or under the said Act, shall be deemed to have been passed under a law in force for the time being.

Nothing in this section affects the provisions of sections 102, 104, 105, 106, 107 and 108 of the Oudh Rent Act (XIX of 1868) with regard to the limitation of suits under that Act.

Act XXXII of 1871, s. 28, to cease in any district where first regular settlement is sanctioned.

17. The provisions of the Oudh Civil Courts' Act, 1871, section 28, shall cease to have effect in any district from the date on which the first regular settlement is sanctioned therein.

(b) Modifications of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Extension of the term 'recognized agent.'

18. Section 17 of Act VIII of 1859 is hereby repealed, so far as the Province of Oudh is concerned, and the following section is substituted therefor:—

"The recognized agents of parties by whom such applications and appearances may be made are—

"A permanent servant, partner, relation or friend, whom the Court may admit as a fit person to represent a party, and especially persons holding powers of attorney from absent parties, parties carrying on business on behalf of bankers and traders, managing agents of landlords, nearest male relations of women, and persons ex-officio authorized to act for Government or for any prince or chief.

"Whenever the personal appearance of a party to a suit is required by this Act, such appearance may be made by his recognized agent, unless the Court shall otherwise direct; and anything which by this Act is required or permitted to be done by a party in person may be done by his recognized agent. Notices given to, or processes served on, a recognized agent, relative to a suit, shall be effectual for all purposes, in relation to the suit, as if the same had been given to or served on the party in person, unless the Court shall otherwise direct; and all the provisions of this Act, relative to the service of notices or processes on a party to a suit, shall be applicable to the service of notices and processes on such recognized agent."

Modification of sec. 111 of Act VIII of 1859.

19. Section 111 of the same Act shall be construed as if the following clause were added thereto (namely) "Nothing in this section shall be deemed to compel the Court to decide ex parte in the absence of the defendant; but if the defendant does not appear, the Court may, in its discretion, attach his property and issue a warrant to arrest and detain him till such day as it appoints for the hearing of the suit."

Rules for taking evidence.

20. Section 172 of Act No. VIII of 1859 is hereby repealed, so far as the Province of Oudh is concerned, and the following section is substituted therefor:—

"On the day appointed for the hearing of the suit, or on some other day to which the hearing may be adjourned, the evidence of the witnesses in attendance shall be taken orally in open Court in the presence and hearing and under the personal direction and superintendence of the Judge.

"A note of the essential points of the evidence of each witness is to be taken at the time, and in the course of oral examination, by the officer who tries the case, in his own language, or in English if he is sufficiently acquainted with that language, and such note shall be filed, and shall form part of the record of the case.

"If the evidence be taken down in a different language from that in which it has been given, and the witness does not understand the language in which it is taken down, the witness may require his deposition as taken down to be interpreted to him in the language in which it was given.

"It shall be in the discretion of the Court to take down, or cause to be taken down, any particular question and answer, if there appear any special reason for so doing, or any party or his pleader requires it.

"If any question put to a witness be objected to by either of the parties or their pleaders, and the Court allow the same to be put, the question and the answer shall be taken down, and the objection and the name of the party making it shall be noticed in taking down the depositions, together with the decision of the Court upon the objection.

"The Court shall record such remarks as it may think material respecting the demeanour of the witness while under examination.

"If the Judge be prevented from making a note as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause such note to be made in writing from his dictation in open Court, and shall sign the same, and such note shall form part of the record."

Execution of Decrees.

Execution sale of under-proprietary right.

21. So much of section 205 of the Code of Civil Procedure, as renders land liable to sale in execution of a decree, shall be subject to the following restriction:—

No ancestral property in land shall be sold in satisfaction of a decree without the permission of the Judicial Commissioner; no acquired property in land shall be so sold without the permission of the Deputy Commissioner.

Explanation.—In this section the words "ancestral property" include the immoveable property of persons admitted to engagement for the land-revenue at the summary settlement of 1858-59.

Appointment of a person for the care and management of immoveable property.

22. Whenever the Civil Court may think fit under section 243 of the Civil Procedure Code, or any other law in force for the time being, to provide for the management of immoveable property, the Court shall issue a precept to the Deputy Commissioner of the district wherein such property may be situated, directing him to hold the property in attachment, and to appoint a person for the due care and management of the property under adequate security for the faithful discharge of the trust in a sum proportionate to the extent thereof.

The precept of the Civil Court above mentioned shall state specifically the property to be included in the attachment, and the attachment shall not be withdrawn without a further precept from the Court to that effect.

Nothing in this section is to be taken as authorising a Civil Court to direct a Deputy Commissioner to attach immoveable property not in the actual possession of the judgment-debtor, or of some one on his behalf other than a creditor holding the said property as security for a debt due by the said judgment-debtor.

Section substituted for section 109, Act XIX of 1868.

23. The following section is substituted for section 109 of Act XIX of 1868 (The Oudh Rent Act):—

"The provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, as in force in Oudh, shall, so far as they are not inconsistent with the provisions herein contained, apply to all suits, appeals and proceedings under this Act."

Section substituted for section 118, Act XIX of 1868.

24. Section 118 of the Oudh Rent Act No. XIX of 1868 is repealed, and the following section is substituted for it:—

"118. No process of execution shall be issued on a decree under this Act on any application made after the lapse of three years from the date of such decree."

No process of execution to issue on a decree after the lapse of three years from date of such decree.

Right of occupancy in judgment-debtor's sir land.

25. Any proprietor or under-proprietor of a mahál or portion of a mahál, which is attached, transferred, held under direct management, farmed or sold under the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, who may at the date of the order for such attachment, transfer, management, farm or sale, hold any land within such mahál or portion of a mahál in his cultivating occupancy, shall be deemed to be a tenant with a right of occupancy in respect of so much of such land as the Deputy Commissioner shall determine, and the rent to be paid by him for land so determined shall be fixed by the Deputy Commissioner under the provisions of the Oudh Rent Act.

Power to make rules for custody and sale of attached property.

26. With the sanction of the Chief Commissioner, the Judicial Commissioner may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act and with the Code of Civil Procedure,

(a) for the custody and sale of moveable property attached in execution of decrees;

(b) for the levy of a fee or commission on the sale of attached property, and the disposal of the funds accruing from such fees;

(c) as to the appointment and remuneration of persons by whom property is to be attached, kept in custody, and sold; and

(d) as to the appointment and remuneration of persons by whom local investigation under section 180, and investigations and adjustments of accounts under section 181, of the Code of Civil Procedure, are to be made.

CHAPTER IV.

OF VILLAGE AND ROAD POLICE.

Appointment of Village Police.

Right of nomination of village policemen.

27. The nomination to the post of village policeman shall be made by the zamíndár of the village, or, where there are more zamíndárs than one, by the lambardár as their representative, and where there are more lambardárs than one, the opinion of the majority (unless there is some special provision to the contrary in the village administration paper) shall prevail.

Obligation to nominate.

28. Every person authorized to nominate to the office of village policeman shall, within fifteen days after the occurrence of a vacancy in such office, nominate a proper person to the vacant post, and communicate the nomination to the Magistrate of the district.

Discretion to appoint or reject nominee.

29. The person so nominated shall, after due enquiry into his age, character and ability, be appointed or rejected at discretion by such Magistrate, or by some officer authorized by him in that behalf.

Power to Magistrate to appoint.

30. (a).—In default of such nomination within the said fifteen days, the Magistrate of the district shall appoint such person as he thinks fit to the vacancy.

Procedure in case of rejection of nominee.

(b).—If the nomination has been made within the said fifteen days, but the nominee is rejected, the person authorized to nominate shall, within fifteen days from the date of such rejection, nominate another person to the vacant post; and in default of such nomination, or if such nomination has been made, but the nominee is again rejected, the Magistrate of the district shall appoint such person as he thinks fit to the vacancy.

Appointment of Road Police.

Appointment of road police.

31. Subject to the rules to be framed under section thirty-seven and for the time being in force, the Magistrate of the district may, from time to time, appoint persons to be the road police of his district.

Duties of Village and Road Police.

Duties of village and road policemen.

32. Every village policeman and every road policeman shall perform the following duties:—

(a).—He shall give immediate information to the officer in charge of the police-station appointed for his village or beat,

(1) of every unnatural, suspicious, or sudden death occurring in the village of which he is chaukídár, or within his beat;

(2) of each of the following offences occurring in such village or on such beat (that is to say,) murder, culpable homicide, rape, dacoity, theft, robbery, mischief by fire, house-breaking, counterfeiting coin, causing grievous hurt, riot, harbouring a proclaimed offender, exposure of a child, concealment of birth, administering stupefying drugs, kidnapping, lurking house-trespass, and

(3) of all attempts and preparations to commit, and abetments of, any of the said offences.

(b).—He shall keep the police informed of all disputes which are likely to lead to any riot or serious affray.

(c).—He shall arrest all proclaimed offenders, and all persons whom he may find in the act of committing any offence specified in paragraph (a), clause (2) of this section.

(d).—He shall observe, and from time to time report to the officer in charge of the police-station within the jurisdiction of which his village or beat may be situate, the movements of all bad characters in or on such village or beat.

(e).—He shall report to the officer in charge of such police-station the arrival of suspicious characters in the neighbourhood.

(f).—He shall supply to the best of his ability any local information which a Magistrate or any officer of police may require, and shall promptly execute all orders issued to him by competent authority.

Procedure on arrest by village or road policeman.

33. Whenever a village policeman or road policeman arrests any person, he shall take him as soon as possible to the police-station within the jurisdiction of which his village or beat is situate.

Liabilities of Village and Road Police.

Dismissal of village or road policeman.

34. The Magistrate of the district may dismiss any village policeman or road policeman for any misconduct or neglect of duty.

Acts punishable.

35. Every village policeman and every road policeman guilty of any wilful misconduct in his office, or of neglect of duty, such misconduct or neglect not being an offence within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, or withdrawing from the duties of his office without permission, and without having given at least two months' notice of his intention to withdraw from such duties to the persons authorized to nominate or appoint under sections twenty-seven, thirty and thirty-one (as the case may be),

or offering any unnecessary personal violence to any person in his custody, or violating any of the rules framed under section thirty-seven and for the time being in force,

Penalty.

shall be liable, on conviction before a Magistrate, to a penalty not exceeding three months' pay or to imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months, or to both.

Fines to be credited to such fund as Government appoints.

36. All fines levied under this Act on village policemen or road policemen shall be credited to such fund as the Local Government from time to time appoints.

CHAPTER V.

SUBSIDIARY RULES.

Power to make rules.

37. The Chief Commissioner may from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, make rules consistent with this Act as to—

(a) the discipline and remuneration of the village and road police and the regulation of their number, location and duties;

(b) the entry into cities or towns of bands of armed men;

(c) prohibiting bands of foreign vagrants from entering or requiring them to leave any district;

(d) the disposal of unclaimed property under Act No. V of 1861 (for the regulation of Police,) sections 25, 26, 27;

(e) public health and conservancy at fairs and other large public assemblies, and the maintenance of a proper watch and ward at such fairs and assemblies;

(f) imposing with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council taxes for those purposes only;

(g) the manner in which records, civil, criminal and revenue, shall be kept; the appointment and removal of the persons entrusted with the custody of records, and all other matters connected with such custody and the destruction from time to time of such records as it may be deemed unnecessary to keep;

(h) the appointment, duties, punishment and dismissal of all ministerial officers other than those employed in the Civil Courts and those in respect of whom provision is made in the Oudh Revenue Act.

Publication of rules.

38. All rules made by the Chief Commissioner under section thirty-seven and all rules made by the Judicial Commissioner under section twenty-six shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

Rules prescribed in respect of matters for which rules may be made under this Act, to remain in force for twelve months.

39. All rules heretofore prescribed by competent authority in respect of any of the matters for which rules may be made under this Act, shall remain in force for twelve months after this Act comes into force, unless any rules on the same subject are previously issued by the Chief Commissioner or Judicial Commissioner.

Penalty for breach of rules.

40. Whoever breaks any rule made under this Act, shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be punishable with a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, or imprisonment not exceeding a period of six months, or with both.

CHAPTER VI.

MISCELLANEOUS.

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 7th September 1876, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in six weeks:—

No. 10 of 1876.

A Bill to amend the Land Improvement Act, 1871.

Preamble. Whereas doubts have arisen as to the effect of certain provisions of the Land Improvement Act, 1871, and it is expedient, with a view to removing such doubts, to amend the said Act; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Local extent. 1. This Act extends to the whole of British India:

Construction. It shall be read with, and taken as part of, the said Land Improvement Act, 1871, and it shall be deemed to have come into force on the twenty-eighth day

Commencement. of September 1871, being the day on which the said Act came into force.

Amendment of Act XXVI of 1871, section 15. 2. Section fifteen of the said Act is repealed, and instead thereof the following section shall be substituted:—

"15. All sums advanced under this Act shall, when they become due, be recoverable in all or any of the following ways:—

(a) from the borrower as if they were arrears of land-revenue due from him:

(b) from the surety (if any) as if they were arrears of land-revenue due from him:

(c) out of the land to be improved as if they were arrears of land-revenue due on account of such land:

(d) out of the property comprised in the collateral security (if any) according to the terms of such security:

Provided—

(e) that if the borrower is the landlord, any proprietary or cultivating interest which a tenant may have in the land to be improved shall not, unless the tenant has given such interest as collateral security for the advance, be liable to sale for the recovery of such advance:

(f) that if the borrower is such a tenant as is mentioned in section seven, the landlord's interest in the land to be improved shall not be liable to sale for the recovery of the advance:

(g) and if the advance is recovered from the surety or out of his property, to the exoneration of the borrower or of the land to be improved, the surety shall have the same claims and remedies against the borrower and the land to be improved as the Government had when the advance was due."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Land Improvement Act (XXVI of 1871), section 14, provides that every certificate granted by a Collector making advances under the Act shall specify the amount of the advance, the position, extent and boundaries of the land to be improved and the nature and amount of the security (if any) other than the land to be improved. Section 15 then provides that the amount so specified shall be recoverable "from the person to whom the advance was made, or from any person who has become security for the repayment thereof, as if they were arrears of land-revenue due by the person to whom the advance was made or by his security."

The remainder of section 15 is as follows:—

"If any such sum cannot be so recovered, it shall be recoverable as if it was an arrear of revenue due on the land specified in the said certificate:

"Provided that when the person to whom the advance was made is a landlord or a tenant having a right to transfer his interest in the land without the consent of the landlord, the interest of no person, other than such landlord or tenant, in the said land, shall be sold under this section."

On this clause two questions have arisen: First, is the advance made by Government a first charge on the land to be improved, in preference to all other charges, whether they have priority in point of time or not? Secondly, does the expression "land specified in the said certificate" include any land which might be given as security?

The object of the present Bill is to clear up these doubts; and it will be seen that it does so in accordance with what is believed to have been the principles on which the Act was framed, and with the undoubted understanding on which all loans have hitherto been made, received and recovered, viz., that Government advances should be a charge on the land to be improved in preference to all other charges on, and interests in, such land, and that if other land be given as security, the Government advance should rank with other charges thereon in the same way as if it were an ordinary advance by a private person.

It might also be contended that, on the strict literal construction of the clause, the surety must be sued before all the remedies against the principal are exhausted. That is not just, and was not intended. The opportunity is therefore taken of removing doubts on this head, and of making it clear that the remedies against principal and surety stand on the usual footing.

'Passenger.' "Passenger" means a passenger by Railway.

'Magistrate.' "Magistrate" means any person lawfully exercising the powers of a Magistrate and includes a Presidency Magistrate.

'Fine.' "Fine" includes a sum of money due upon a forfeited recognizance.

All opened Railways presumed within the Act. 4. Every Railway used for the public conveyance of passengers or goods, shall, until the contrary be proved, be presumed to be a Railway within the meaning of this Act, and every Company to or by whom any such Railway belongs or is worked shall, until the contrary be proved, be presumed to be a Railway Company within the meaning of this Act.

CHAPTER II.
RULES RELATING TO RAILWAY COMPANIES.

No liability for unbooked luggage. 5. A Railway Company and (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) the Government shall in no case be answerable for loss or injury to any passenger's luggage, unless it has been booked and separately paid for and made over to the charge of a Railway officer.

No liability for loss of gold, silver, &c., unless in case of special engagement.

6. A Railway Company and (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) the Government shall in no case be answerable for loss of or injury to any of the following articles (namely),—

(a) gold or silver, coined or uncoined, manufactured or unmanufactured,

(b) plated articles,

(c) cloths and tissue of which gold and silver form part,

(d) precious stones, jewellery, trinkets,

(e) watches, clocks, or time-pieces of any description,

(f) Government securities,

(g) Government stamp-paper, postage stamps, telegraph stamps,

(h) bills of exchange, promissory notes, bank-notes, orders, or other securities for payment of money,

(i) maps, writings, title-deeds,

(j) paintings, engravings, lithographs, photographs, carvings, sculpture,

(k) glass, china,

(l) silks in a manufactured or unmanufactured state, and whether wrought up or not wrought up with other materials,

(m) shawls,

(n) lace,

(o) opium,

(p) ivory, ebony, sandalwood,

(q) musical instruments,

contained in any parcel or package delivered to such Company or the Government, either to be carried on a Railway for hire or to accompany the person of any passenger, unless the value and nature of such articles have been declared by the person sending or delivering the same, and an increased charge for the safe conveyance of the same has been accepted by some person specially authorized to enter into such engagements on behalf of the Company or Government.

Public notice or private contract not to limit liability.

7. The liability of a Railway Company, or (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) of the Government, for loss of or injury to any articles or goods to be carried by Railway other than those specially provided for by this Act shall not be limited or otherwise affected by any public notice given, or any private contract made, by the Company or the Government;

but the Company, or (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) the Government, shall be answerable for such loss or injury when it has been caused by gross negligence or misconduct on the part of their agents or servants.

Lien for money due for carriage of goods.

8. If any person fail to pay on demand any sum due for conveyance of any goods by Railway, the Company, or (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) the Government, may detain all or any part of such goods, or, if the same have been removed from the Railway, any other goods of such person then on such Railway or thereafter coming into the possession of the Company or Government; and may also sell by public auction sufficient of such goods to realize the sum payable as aforesaid, and all charges and expenses of such detention and sale;

and may out of the proceeds of the sale, retain the sum so payable, together with the charges and expenses aforesaid, rendering the overplus, if any, of the money arising by such sale, and such of the goods as remain unsold, to the person entitled thereto.

Written account of goods to be given on demand.

9. The owner or person having the care of any goods which have been carried upon any Railway, or are brought into any station or warehouse for the purpose of being carried on a Railway, shall, on demand by any Railway officer appointed to receive goods to be carried on that part of the Railway on which such goods have been carried, or are about to be carried, deliver to such officer an exact account in writing signed by him of the number or quantity and description of such goods.

Carriage of goods of a dangerous nature.

10. Any Railway officer may refuse to carry upon a Railway any luggage or parcel which he suspects to contain goods of a dangerous nature, and may require the same to be opened to ascertain the fact previously to carrying the same;

and in case any such luggage or parcel is received for the purpose of being carried upon a Railway, any Railway officer may stop the transit thereof until he is satisfied as to the nature of the contents of the luggage or parcel.

Accident to be reported.

11. Every Railway Company, and every officer controlling a Railway worked by Government, shall, within forty-eight hours after the occurrence upon the Railway belonging to such Company or so worked by Government of any accident attended with serious personal injury, give notice thereof to the Local Government.

Returns of accidents in course of traffic.

12. The Local Government may direct any Railway Company or any officer controlling a Railway worked by Government to make up and deliver to the Local Government a return of serious accidents occurring in the course of the public traffic upon the Railway belonging to such Company, or so worked by Government whether attended with personal injury or not, in such form and manner as the Local Government deems necessary and requires for information, with a view to the public safety.

Power to make rules for working Railway.

13. Every Railway Company, and every officer controlling a Railway worked by Government, may respectively from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, make general rules for the use, working and general administration of the Railway belonging to such Company or so worked by Government.

Publication of rules.

All such rules shall be published in the Gazette of India, and shall be otherwise notified to the Railway officers and the public in such manner as the Governor General in Council, from time to time, directs.

Penalty for breach of rules.

Any such rule may contain a provision that any person committing a breach of it shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, or, in default of payment of such fine, to imprisonment for a term which may extend to two months.

Power to cancel rules.

The Governor General in Council may at any time cancel any rule so sanctioned.

Copy and translation of Act, &c., to be shown at stations.

14. A copy of this Act, and of the General Rules, Time-tables, and Tariff of charges, which may from time to time be published for any Railway by any Railway Company with the sanction of the Local Government, or (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) by the officer controlling the same, shall be exhibited in some conspicuous place at each station of such Railway, so that they may be easily seen and read.

All such documents shall be so exhibited in English and in the Vernacular language of the district in which the station is situate, and in such other language, if any, as the Local Government may direct.

CHAPTER III.

RULES RELATING TO PASSENGERS.

Passengers on payment of fares to be furnished with tickets.

15. Every person desirous of travelling on a Railway shall, upon payment of his fare, be furnished with a ticket, specifying the class of carriage and the place from and place to which the fare has been paid, and shall, when required, show his ticket to any Railway officer duly authorized to examine the same, and shall deliver up such ticket upon demand to any Railway officer duly authorized to collect tickets.

Tickets to be shown and given up on demand.

Fares and tickets at intermediate stations.

16. At the intermediate stations, the fares shall be deemed to be accepted, and the tickets furnished only upon condition that there be room in the train for which the tickets are furnished.

Preferential right to tickets.

In case there is not room for all the passengers to whom tickets have been furnished, those who have obtained tickets for the longest distance shall have the preference; and those who have obtained tickets for the same distance shall have the preference according to the order in which they have received their tickets:

Proviso.

Provided that all officers and troops of Her Majesty, on duty, and all other persons on the business of the Government, who by virtue of any contract with the Government are entitled to be conveyed on a Railway in preference to, or in priority over the public, shall be entitled to such preference and priority without reference to the distance for which, or the order in which, they have received their tickets.

Fares to be prepaid.

17. No person shall enter any carriage used on any Railway, for the purpose of travelling therein, without having first paid his fare and obtained a ticket.

Passengers not to carry dangerous goods.

18. No person shall carry upon any Railway any dangerous goods, or shall be entitled to require to be carried upon any Railway any luggage or goods which, in the judgment of any Railway officer, is or are of a dangerous nature.

CHAPTER IV.

PENALTIES.

(A.) As to Companies.

For omitting to report accident.

19. Any Railway Company or officer controlling a Railway worked by Government omitting to give notice as required by section eleven, shall forfeit the sum of fifty rupees for every day during which such omission continues.

For not sending return of accidents.

20. Any Railway Company or officer controlling a Railway worked by Government failing to deliver any return mentioned in section twelve, within fourteen days after the same has been required, shall forfeit the sum of fifty rupees for every day during which such failure continues.

(B.) As to Railway Officers.

For drunkenness or breach of duty.

21. Any Railway officer who is in a state of intoxication whilst actually employed upon a Railway in the discharge of any duty, or who negligently omits to perform his duty,

or who performs the same in an improper manner,

shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees;

and if the duty in any of the cases aforesaid be such that the omission or negligent performance thereof would be likely to endanger the safety of any person travelling or being upon such Railway, such officer shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, or to fine, or to both.

For endangering the safety of persons.

22. If any Railway officer endangers the safety of any person—

(a) by disobeying any general rule sanctioned and notified in the manner prescribed by section thirteen, or

(b) by disobeying any rule or order not inconsistent with the general rules aforesaid, and which he was bound by the terms of his service to obey, and of which he had notice, or

(c) by any rash or negligent act or omission, he shall be liable to imprisonment for any term not exceeding three years, or to fine not exceeding five hundred rupees, or to both.

For receiving bribes.

23. Every Railway officer, and every other person employed by or on behalf of a Railway Company to do any act upon the Railway, and every person employed either permanently or temporarily in connection with a Tramway shall be deemed a "public servant" within the meaning of sections 161, 162, 163, 164 and 165 of the Indian Penal Code.

In the definition of legal remuneration contained in the said section 161 the word "Government" shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to include—

Amendment of Penal Code, section 161.

(a) a Railway Company,

(b) the proprietors for the time being of a Tramway, and

(c) the lessees, representatives and assigns of such Company or proprietors.

(C.) As to the Public.

24. Any passenger not producing or delivering up his ticket when so required by a Railway officer authorized to require such production or delivery, shall be liable to pay the fare from the place whence the train originally started, unless he can prove that he has travelled a less distance only, in which case he shall be liable to pay the fare only from the place whence he has travelled.

For not producing or delivering ticket.

25. Any person who defrauds, or attempts to defraud any Railway Company or the Government

For evading payment of proper fare.

(a) by travelling, or attempting to travel, upon any Railway, without having previously paid his fare; or

(b) by riding in or upon a carriage of a higher class than that for which he has paid his fare; or

or who knowingly and wilfully refuses or neglects, on arriving at the point to which he has paid his fare, to quit such carriage;

or who, in any other manner whatever, attempts to evade the payment of his fare, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for each offence.

26. Any passenger, who gets into or upon, or attempts to get into or upon, or quits, or attempts to quit, any carriage upon any Railway, while such carriage is in motion;

For entering carriage in motion, or who rides or attempts to ride upon any Railway, on the steps, or any other part of a carriage, except on those parts which are intended for the accommodation of passengers,

For riding on the steps.

shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees for each offence.

27. Any person other than the engine-man, fireman, and assistant fireman, who, without the special license of the Superintendent of Locomotives, rides or attempts to ride upon any locomotive engine or tender upon any Railway;

For riding on engine, tender, or luggage-van.

and any person other than the guard or brakesman, who, without such license as aforesaid, rides or attempts to ride upon any Railway, in or upon any luggage-van or goods-wagon, or other vehicle not appropriated to the carriage of passengers, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees for each offence.

28. Whoever smokes, either in a Railway station, or in or upon any Railway carriage, except in places or carriages specially provided for the purpose, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees for each offence;

For smoking.

and whoever persists in so smoking (except as aforesaid) after being warned to desist by any Railway officer, may, in addition to incurring the liability abovementioned, be removed by any Railway officer from any such carriage, and from the premises of the Railway, and shall forfeit his fare.

29. Any person who is in a state of intoxication, or who commits any nuisance or act of indecency in any Railway carriage, or upon any part of any Railway;

For intoxication or nuisance.

or who wilfully and without lawful excuse interferes with the comfort of any passenger, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees; and in addition to such liability, the offender may be removed by any Railway officer from any such carriage, and also from the premises of the Railway, and shall forfeit his fare.

30. If any special carriage, or portion of a carriage, or any private room or apartment, be provided by any Railway Company or by Government for the exclusive use of females, any male person, who, without lawful excuse, enters such carriage, or portion of a carriage, or any such room or apartment, knowing the same to be exclusively appropriated as aforesaid, or remains therein after having been informed of its exclusive appropriation, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees,

For entering private room or carriage.

and may be removed therefrom, and also from the premises of the Railway, by any Railway officer, and shall forfeit his fare.

31. Any owner or person referred to in section nine, who wilfully fails to give on demand to any Railway officer appointed as therein mentioned an exact account of the number or quantity and description of the goods therein referred to,

For false account.

or who wilfully gives to such Railway officer a false account thereof, shall, for every such offence, be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees for every ton of such goods, or for any parcel exceeding one hundredweight, and to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for any quantity of such goods less than a ton or for any parcel less than one hundredweight.

32. Whoever carries upon a Railway any dangerous goods,

For carrying goods of a dangerous nature.

and whoever delivers to a Railway officer any such goods for the purpose of being carried upon a Railway, without distinctly marking their nature on the outside of the package containing the same,

For delivering such goods without notice.

or otherwise giving notice in writing of the nature thereof to such officer, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees for every such offence.

33. Whoever wilfully obstructs or impedes any Railway officer in the discharge of his duty on a Railway, or any of the works, stations, or premises connected therewith, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

For obstructing Railway officer in his duty.

34. Whoever unlawfully and wilfully removes or defaces the number-plates, or removes or extinguishes any lamp on any Railway carriage, or wilfully or negligently damages or injures any carriage, engine, wagon, truck, warehouse, building, machine, fence, or any other thing belonging to a Railway Company or (in the case of a Railway belonging to or worked by Government) to Government, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

For injuring carriage, &c.

35. Whoever trespasses upon a Railway shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees;

For trespass.

and if any person so trespassing refuse to leave such Railway on being requested to do so by any Railway officer, or by any other person on behalf of the Railway Company or the officer controlling a Railway worked by Government, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, and may be immediately removed from such Railway by such officer or other person as aforesaid.

For refusing to leave on request.

36. The owner or person in charge of any cattle trespassing or straying on any Railway provided with fences suitable for the exclusion of cattle shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding ten rupees for each animal, in addition to any amount that may be recovered under the Cattle Trespass Act, 1871.

For cattle-trespass within Railway fences.

Whenever cattle are wilfully driven or knowingly permitted to be on any Railway provided with fences suitable for the exclusion of cattle otherwise than for the purpose of crossing the Railway at a gate or bar provided for public use, the person in charge of such cattle, or if he cannot be identified, then the owner of the said cattle shall on conviction before a Magistrate be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for each animal, in addition to any amount that may be recovered under the said Act.

For wilfully driving cattle on fenced Railway.

All fines imposed under this section may be recovered in manner provided by section 25 of the said Act, and may be appropriated in whole or in part in compensation for loss or damage proved to the satisfaction of the convicting Magistrate.

The expression 'public road' in sections eleven and twenty-six of the said Act shall be deemed to include a Railway. And any Railway officer may exercise the powers of seizure provided by the said section eleven.

Amendment of Act I of 1871, ss. 11 and 26.

Explanation.—In this section the word 'cattle' includes also elephants, camels, buffaloes, horses, mares, geldings, ponies, colts, fillies, mules, asses, pigs, rams, ewes, sheep, lambs, goats and kids.

37. Whoever, when any engine or train approaching along a Railway is in sight, opens any gate which has been set up for the use or accommodation of any person by any Railway Company or by Government on either side of the Railway, or passes or attempts to pass, or drives or attempts to drive any carriage, cattle, or other animal or thing across the Railway;

For opening or not properly shutting gates.

and whoever at any time omits to shut and fasten such gate, as soon as he and any carriage, cattle, or other animal or thing under his charge have passed through the same,

shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

(D.) As to Railway Officers and the Public.

38. Whoever, whether a Railway officer or not, wilfully does any act, or wilfully omits to do what he is legally bound to do, intending by such act or omission to cause, or knowing that he is thereby likely to endanger the safety of any person travelling or being upon any Railway may be sentenced to transportation (or in the case of an European or American to penal servitude) for life or to imprisonment for any term not exceeding seven years.

For wilful act or omission endangering passenger.

39. Whoever, whether a Railway officer or not, rashly or negligently, and without lawful excuse, does any act likely to endanger the safety of any person travelling or being upon a Railway, shall, upon conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, or to fine, or to both.

For an act not wilful.

Apprehension of Offenders.

40. If any person commit any offence hereby made punishable by fine, and the name and address of such person are unknown, or there be reason to believe that he will abscond, any Railway officer or any police-officer, or other person whom such Railway officer or police-officer may call to his aid, may, without any warrant or written authority, apprehend and detain such offender until he can be taken before a Magistrate or give sufficient security for his appearance before such Magistrate, or is otherwise discharged by due course of law.

Apprehension for offences punishable by fine.

41. Every person guilty of any offence mentioned in sections 13, 21, 22, 38 and 39 may be apprehended without any warrant or written authority by any Railway officer, or by any other person whom such officer may call to his aid, or by any police-officer empowered to arrest without a warrant;

Apprehension for offences against sections 13, 21, 22, 38 and 39.

and every person so apprehended shall, with all convenient despatch, be carried and conveyed before a Magistrate or Justice of the Peace authorized to punish the offender or to commit him for trial.

Jurisdiction.

42. Any person, whether a European British subject or not, who is guilty of any offence for which, under this Act, he is liable to a fine only, shall be punishable for such offence by any Magistrate, whether the offence has been committed within the local limits of his jurisdiction or not.

Jurisdiction of Magistrate, &c., to fine.

Jurisdiction of Justices to try Europeans for breach of general rules.

43. Any Justice of the Peace may try a European British subject for an offence under section thirteen and may on conviction award a sentence within the limits thereby prescribed for such offence.

Heads of District Police, &c., in Madras.

44. The heads of district police and amíns of police in the Presidency of Fort Saint George may punish, to the extent of their jurisdiction in petty offences, any offence hereby made punishable by fine not exceeding twenty rupees.

CHAPTER V.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Power of Government to make rules as to fences, gates and bars.

45. The Governor General in Council, or the Local Government with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, from time to time, make rules for providing

(a) boundary-marks or fences for any Railway or any part thereof, and for roads constructed in connexion therewith,

(b) gates or bars at places where any Railway crosses a road on the level, and

(c) persons to open and shut such gates or bars;

and may by such rules determine what kind of fences shall, for the purposes of section thirty-six, be deemed to be suitable for the exclusion of cattle.

Power to declare Local Government in respect of any Railway.

46. The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, declare what Government or other authority shall be deemed to be, for the purposes of this Act, the Local Government in respect of the whole or any part of a Railway.

SCHEDULE.

ACTS REPEALED.

Number and year.	Title.
XVIII of 1854 ...	An Act relating to Railways in India.
XXXI of 1867 ...	An Act to render penal certain offences committed by servants of Railway Companies.
XIII of 1870 ...	An Act to apply the provisions of Act No. XVIII of 1854 to Railways belonging to, or worked by, Government.
XXV of 1871 ...	An Act to amend the Railway Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Doubts having arisen as to whether certain sections of the Railway Act (XVIII of 1854) applied to lines under construction or not opened for public conveyance of passengers and goods, the present Bill has been prepared with the primary object of removing these doubts.

At the same time the opportunity has been taken to consolidate four out of the five Acts in which the Railway law of India is now contained, and to make the following amendments therein:

Companies will not be answerable for loss or injury to luggage unless it has been, not only booked and paid for, but made over to the charge of a Railway officer.

The following articles (namely), cloths and tissue of which gold or silver forms part, telegraph stamps, lithographs, photographs, carvings, sculpture, opium, ivory, ebony, sandalwood, and musical instruments, have been added to the list of articles, for losing or injuring which Companies will not be liable except in case of special engagement.

The clause as to receiving bribes has been made to apply, not only to Railway officers, but also to every other person employed by or on behalf of a Railway Company to do any act upon the Railway.

The fines for giving false account of the goods carried, or to be carried on a Railway, have been raised respectively from Rs. 50 and Rs. 20 to Rs. 100 and Rs. 50.

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 7th September 1876, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in six weeks:—

No. 10 of 1876.

A Bill to amend the Land Improvement Act, 1871.

Preamble.

Whereas doubts have arisen as to the effect of certain provisions of the Land Improvement Act, 1871, and it is expedient, with a view to removing such doubts, to amend the said Act; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Local extent.

1. This Act extends to the whole of British India:

Construction.

It shall be read with, and taken as part of, the said Land Improvement Act, 1871, and it shall be deemed to have come into force on the twenty-eighth day of September 1871, being the day on which the said Act came into force.

Commencement.

Amendment of Act XXVI of 1871, section 15.

2. Section fifteen of the said Act is repealed, and instead thereof the following section shall be substituted:—

"15. All sums advanced under this Act shall, when they become due, be recoverable in all or any of the following ways:—

(a) from the borrower as if they were arrears of land-revenue due from him:

(b) from the surety (if any) as if they were arrears of land-revenue due from him:

(c) out of the land to be improved as if they were arrears of land-revenue due on account of such land:

(d) out of the property comprised in the collateral security (if any) according to the terms of such security:

Provided—

(e) that if the borrower is the landlord, any proprietary or cultivating interest which a tenant may have in the land to be improved shall not, unless the tenant has given such interest as collateral security for the advance, be liable to sale for the recovery of such advance:

(f) that if the borrower is such a tenant as is mentioned in section seven, the landlord's interest in the land to be improved shall not be liable to sale for the recovery of the advance:

(g) and if the advance is recovered from the surety or out of his property, to the exoneration of the borrower or of the land to be improved, the surety shall have the same claims and remedies against the borrower and the land to be improved as the Government had when the advance was due."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The Land Improvement Act (XXVI of 1871), section 14, provides that every certificate granted by a Collector making advances under the Act shall specify the amount of the advance, the position, extent and boundaries of the land to be improved and the nature and amount of the security (if any) other than the land to be improved. Section 15 then provides that the amount so specified shall be recoverable "from the person to whom the advance was made, or from any person who has become security for the repayment thereof, as if they were arrears of land-revenue due by the person to whom the advance was made or by his security."

The remainder of section 15 is as follows:—

"If any such sum cannot be so recovered, it shall be recoverable as if it was an arrear of revenue due on the land specified in the said certificate:

"Provided that when the person to whom the advance was made is a landlord or a tenant having a right to transfer his interest in the land without the consent of the landlord, the interest of no person, other than such landlord or tenant, in the said land, shall be sold under this section."

On this clause two questions have arisen: First, is the advance made by Government a first charge on the land to be improved, in preference to all other charges, whether they have priority in point of time or not? Secondly, does the expression "land specified in the said certificate" include any land which might be given as security?

The object of the present Bill is to clear up these doubts; and it will be seen that it does so in accordance with what is believed to have been the principles on which the Act was framed, and with the undoubted understanding on which all loans have hitherto been made, received and recovered, viz., that Government advances should be a charge on the land to be improved in preference to all other charges on, and interests in, such land, and that if other land be given as security, the Government advance should rank with other charges thereon in the same way as if it were an ordinary advance by a private person.

It might also be contended that, on the strict literal construction of the clause, the surety must be sued before all the remedies against the principal are exhausted. That is not just, and was not intended. The opportunity is therefore taken of removing doubts on this head, and of making it clear that the remedies against principal and surety stand on the usual footing.

SCHEDULE.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the Law relating to Railways in India.

Preamble. Whereas it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to Railways in India; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.
PRELIMINARY.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Indian Railway Act, 1876:"

Local extent. It extends to the whole of British India and, so far as regards subjects of Her Majesty the Empress of India, to the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her said Majesty:

Commencement. And it shall come into force on the first day of March 1877.

Repeal of Acts. 2. On and from that day, the Acts specified in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed.

All rules made, notifications published, and powers conferred under any of such Acts shall be deemed to have been respectively made, published and conferred under this Act.

Interpretation-clause. 3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,—

'Railway.' "Railway" includes—

(a) railways belonging to and worked by Companies:

(b) railways belonging to Government but worked by Companies:

(c) railways worked by Government:

(d) land within the fences or other boundary-marks prescribed under section forty-five:

(e) all lines of rail, sidings or branches, worked over for the purposes of, or in connexion with, a railway:

(f) all stations, offices, warehouses, fixed machinery and other works constructed or being constructed for the purposes of, or in connexion with, a railway:

And in the following sections (namely) 11, 13, 18, 21, 22, 26, 27 and 32 to 39 (both inclusive), "Railway" includes a railway under construction or not used for the public conveyance of passengers or goods.

'Railway officer.' "Railway officer" means any person employed by a Railway Company or the Government to perform any function in connection with a Railway.

'Passenger.' "Passenger" means a passenger by Railway.

'Magistrate.' "Magistrate" means any person lawfully exercising the powers of a Magistrate and includes a Presidency Magistrate.

'Fine.' "Fine" includes a sum of money due upon a forfeited recognizance.

All opened Railways presumed within the Act. 4. Every Railway used for the public conveyance of passengers or goods, shall, until the contrary be proved, be presumed to be a Railway within the meaning of this Act, and every Company to or by whom any such Railway belongs or is worked shall, until the contrary be proved, be presumed to be a Railway Company within the meaning of this Act.

CHAPTER II.
RULES RELATING TO RAILWAY COMPANIES.

No liability for unbooked luggage. 5. A Railway Company and (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) the Government shall in no case be answerable for loss or injury to any passenger's luggage, unless it has been booked and separately paid for and made over to the charge of a Railway officer.

No liability for loss of gold, silver, &c., unless in case of special engagement.

6. A Railway Company and (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) the Government shall in no case be answerable for loss of or injury to any of the following articles (namely),—

(a) gold or silver, coined or uncoined, manufactured or unmanufactured,

(b) plated articles,

(c) cloths and tissue of which gold and silver form part,

(d) precious stones, jewellery, trinkets,

(e) watches, clocks, or time-pieces of any description,

(f) Government securities,

(g) Government stamp-paper, postage stamps, telegraph stamps,

(h) bills of exchange, promissory notes, bank-notes, orders, or other securities for payment of money,

(i) maps, writings, title-deeds,

(j) paintings, engravings, lithographs, photographs, carvings, sculpture,

(k) glass, china,

(l) silks in a manufactured or unmanufactured state, and whether wrought up or not wrought up with other materials,

(m) shawls,

(n) lace,

(o) opium,

(p) ivory, ebony, sandalwood,

(q) musical instruments,

contained in any parcel or package delivered to such Company or the Government, either to be carried on a Railway for hire or to accompany the person of any passenger, unless the value and nature of such articles have been declared by the person sending or delivering the same, and an increased charge for the safe conveyance of the same has been accepted by some person specially authorized to enter into such engagements on behalf of the Company or Government.

Public notice or private contract not to limit liability.

7. The liability of a Railway Company, or (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) of the Government, for loss of or injury to any articles or goods to be carried by Railway other than those specially provided for by this Act shall not be limited or otherwise affected by any public notice given, or any private contract made, by the Company or the Government;

but the Company, or (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) the Government, shall be answerable for such loss or injury when it has been caused by gross negligence or misconduct on the part of their agents or servants.

Lien for money due for carriage of goods.

8. If any person fail to pay on demand any sum due for conveyance of any goods by Railway, the Company, or (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) the Government, may detain all or any part of such goods, or, if the same have been removed from the Railway, any other goods of such person then on such Railway or thereafter coming into the possession of the Company or Government;

and may also sell by public auction sufficient of such goods to realize the sum payable as aforesaid, and all charges and expenses of such detention and sale;

and may out of the proceeds of the sale, retain the sum so payable, together with the charges and expenses aforesaid, rendering the overplus, if any, of the money arising by such sale, and such of the goods as remain unsold, to the person entitled thereto.

Written account of goods to be given on demand.

9. The owner or person having the care of any goods which have been carried upon any Railway, or are brought into any station or warehouse for the purpose of being carried on a Railway, shall, on demand by any Railway officer appointed to receive goods to be carried on that part of the Railway on which such goods have been carried, or are about to be carried, deliver to such officer an exact account in writing signed by him of the number or quantity and description of such goods.

Carriage of goods of a dangerous nature.

10. Any Railway officer may refuse to carry upon a Railway any luggage or parcel which he suspects to contain goods of a dangerous nature, and may require the same to be opened to ascertain the fact previously to carrying the same;

and in case any such luggage or parcel is received for the purpose of being carried upon a Railway, any Railway officer may stop the transit thereof until he is satisfied as to the nature of the contents of the luggage or parcel.

Accident to be reported.

11. Every Railway Company, and every officer controlling a Railway worked by Government, shall, within forty-eight hours after the occurrence upon the Railway belonging to such Company or so worked by Government of any accident attended with serious personal injury, give notice thereof to the Local Government.

Returns of accidents in course of traffic.

12. The Local Government may direct any Railway Company or any officer controlling a Railway worked by Government to make up and deliver to the Local Government a return of serious accidents occurring in the course of the public traffic upon the Railway belonging to such Company, or so worked by Government whether attended with personal injury or not, in such form and manner as the Local Government deems necessary and requires for information, with a view to the public safety.

Power to make rules for working Railway.

13. Every Railway Company, and every officer controlling a Railway worked by Government, may respectively from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, make general rules for the use, working and general administration of the Railway belonging to such Company or so worked by Government.

Publication of rules.

All such rules shall be published in the Gazette of India, and shall be otherwise notified to the Railway officers and the public in such manner as the Governor General in Council, from time to time, directs.

Penalty for breach of rules.

Any such rule may contain a provision that any person committing a breach of it shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, or, in default of payment of such fine, to imprisonment for a term which may extend to two months.

Power to cancel rules.

The Governor General in Council may at any time cancel any rule so sanctioned.

Copy and translation of Act, &c., to be shown at stations.

14. A copy of this Act, and of the General Rules, Time-tables, and Tariff of charges, which may from time to time be published for any Railway by any Railway Company with the sanction of the Local Government, or (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) by the officer controlling the same, shall be exhibited in some conspicuous place at each station of such Railway, so that they may be easily seen and read.

All such documents shall be so exhibited in English and in the Vernacular language of the district in which the station is situate, and in such other language, if any, as the Local Government may direct.

CHAPTER III.

RULES RELATING TO PASSENGERS.

Passengers on payment of fares to be furnished with tickets.

15. Every person desirous of travelling on a Railway shall, upon payment of his fare, be furnished with a ticket, specifying the class of carriage and the place from and place to which the fare has been paid, and shall, when required, show his ticket to any Railway officer duly authorized to examine the same, and shall deliver up such ticket upon demand to any Railway officer duly authorized to collect tickets.

Tickets to be shown and given up on demand.

Fares and tickets at intermediate stations.

16. At the intermediate stations, the fares shall be deemed to be accepted, and the tickets furnished only upon condition that there be room in the train for which the tickets are furnished.

Preferential right to tickets.

In case there is not room for all the passengers to whom tickets have been furnished, those who have obtained tickets for the longest distance shall have the preference; and those who have obtained tickets for the same distance shall have the preference according to the order in which they have received their tickets:

Proviso.

Provided that all officers and troops of Her Majesty, on duty, and all other persons on the business of the Government, who by virtue of any contract with the Government are entitled to be conveyed on a Railway in preference to, or in priority over the public, shall be entitled to such preference and priority without reference to the distance for which, or the order in which, they have received their tickets.

Fares to be prepaid.

17. No person shall enter any carriage used on any Railway, for the purpose of travelling therein, without having first paid his fare and obtained a ticket.

Passengers not to carry dangerous goods.

18. No person shall carry upon any Railway any dangerous goods, or shall be entitled to require to be carried upon any Railway any luggage or goods which, in the judgment of any Railway officer, is or are of a dangerous nature.

CHAPTER IV.

PENALTIES.

(A.) As to Companies.

For omitting to report accident.

19. Any Railway Company or officer controlling a Railway worked by Government omitting to give notice as required by section eleven, shall forfeit the sum of fifty rupees for every day during which such omission continues.

For not sending return of accidents.

20. Any Railway Company or officer controlling a Railway worked by Government failing to deliver any return mentioned in section twelve, within fourteen days after the same has been required, shall forfeit the sum of fifty rupees for every day during which such failure continues.

(B.) As to Railway Officers.

For drunkenness or breach of duty.

21. Any Railway officer who is in a state of intoxication whilst actually employed upon a Railway in the discharge of any duty, or who negligently omits to perform his duty,

or who performs the same in an improper manner,

shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees;

and if the duty in any of the cases aforesaid be such that the omission or negligent performance thereof would be likely to endanger the safety of any person travelling or being upon such Railway, such officer shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, or to fine, or to both.

For endangering the safety of person.

22. If any Railway officer endangers the safety of any person—

(a) by disobeying any general rule sanctioned and notified in the manner prescribed by section thirteen, or

(b) by disobeying any rule or order not inconsistent with the general rules aforesaid, and which he was bound by the terms of his service to obey, and of which he had notice, or

(c) by any rash or negligent act or omission,

he shall be liable to imprisonment for any term not exceeding three years, or to fine not exceeding five hundred rupees, or to both.

For receiving bribes.

23. Every Railway officer, and every other person employed by or on behalf of a Railway Company to do any act upon the Railway, and every person employed either permanently or temporarily in connection with a Tramway shall be deemed a "public servant" within the meaning of sections 161, 162, 163, 164 and 165 of the Indian Penal Code.

Amendment of Penal Code, section 161.

In the definition of legal remuneration contained in the said section 161 the word "Government" shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to include—

(a) a Railway Company,

(b) the proprietors for the time being of a Tramway, and

(c) the lessees, representatives and assigns of such Company or proprietors.

(C.) As to the Public.

For not producing or delivering ticket.

24. Any passenger not producing or delivering up his ticket when so required by a Railway officer authorized to require such production or delivery, shall be liable to pay the fare from the place whence the train originally started, unless he can prove that he has travelled a less distance only, in which case he shall be liable to pay the fare only from the place whence he has travelled.

For evading payment of proper fare.

25. Any person who defrauds, or attempts to defraud any Railway Company or the Government

(a) by travelling, or attempting to travel, upon any Railway, without having previously paid his fare; or

(b) by riding in or upon a carriage of a higher class than that for which he has paid his fare; or

or who knowingly and wilfully refuses or neglects, on arriving at the point to which he has paid his fare, to quit such carriage;

or, who, in any other manner whatever, attempts to evade the payment of his fare, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for each offence.

For entering carriage in motion.

26. Any passenger, who gets into or upon, or attempts to get into or upon, or quits, or attempts to quit, any carriage upon any Railway, while such carriage is in motion;

For riding on the steps.

or who rides or attempts to ride upon any Railway, on the steps, or any other part of a carriage, except on those parts which are intended for the accommodation of passengers, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees for each offence.

For riding on engine, tender, or luggage-van.

27. Any person other than the engine-man, fire-man, and assistant fire-man, who, without the special license of the Superintendent of Locomotives, rides or attempts to ride upon any locomotive engine or tender upon any Railway; and any person other than the guard or brakeman, who, without such license as aforesaid, rides or attempts to ride upon any Railway, in or upon any luggage-van or goods-wagon, or other vehicle not appropriated to the carriage of passengers, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees for each offence.

For smoking.

28. Whoever smokes, either in a Railway station, or in or upon any Railway carriage, except in places or carriages specially provided for the purpose, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees for each offence;

and whoever persists in so smoking (except as aforesaid) after being warned to desist by any Railway officer, may, in addition to incurring the liability abovementioned, be removed by any Railway officer from any such carriage, and from the premises of the Railway, and shall forfeit his fare.

For intoxication or nuisance.

29. Any person who is in a state of intoxication, or who commits any nuisance or act of indecency in any Railway carriage, or upon any part of any Railway; or who wilfully and without lawful excuse interferes with the comfort of any passenger,

shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees; and in addition to such liability, the offender may be removed by any Railway officer from any such carriage, and also from the premises of the Railway, and shall forfeit his fare.

For entering private room or carriage.

30. If any special carriage, or portion of a carriage, or any private room or apartment, be provided by any Railway Company or by Government for the exclusive use of females, any male person, who, without lawful excuse, enters such carriage, or portion of a carriage, or any such room or apartment, knowing the same to be exclusively appropriated as aforesaid, or remains therein after having been informed of its exclusive appropriation, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees, and may be removed therefrom, and also from the premises of the Railway, by any Railway officer, and shall forfeit his fare.

For false account.

31. Any owner or person referred to in section nine, who wilfully fails to give on demand to any Railway officer appointed as therein mentioned an exact account of the number or quantity and description of the goods therein referred to,

or who wilfully gives to such Railway officer a false account thereof, shall, for every such offence, be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees for every ton of such goods, or for any parcel exceeding one hundredweight, and to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for any quantity of such goods less than a ton or for any parcel less than one hundredweight.

For carrying goods of a dangerous nature.

32. Whoever carries upon a Railway any dangerous goods,

For delivering such goods without notice.

and whoever delivers to a Railway officer any such goods for the purpose of being carried upon a Railway, without distinctly marking their nature on the outside of the package containing the same, or otherwise giving notice in writing of the nature thereof to such officer, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees for every such offence.

For obstructing Railway officer in his duty.

33. Whoever wilfully obstructs or impedes any Railway officer in the discharge of his duty on a Railway, or any of the works, stations, or premises connected therewith, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

For injuring carriage, &c.

34. Whoever unlawfully and wilfully removes or defaces the number-plates, or removes or extinguishes any lamp on any Railway carriage, or wilfully or negligently damages or injures any carriage, engine, wagon, truck, warehouse, building, machine, fence, or any other thing belonging to a Railway Company or in the case of a Railway belonging to or worked by Government) to Government, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

For trespass.

35. Whoever trespasses upon a Railway shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees;

For refusing to leave on request.

and if any person so trespassing refuse to leave such Railway on being requested to do so by any Railway officer, or by any other person on behalf of the Railway Company or the officer controlling a Railway worked by Government, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, and may be immediately removed from such Railway by such officer or other person as aforesaid.

For cattle-trespass within Railway fences.

36. The owner or person in charge of any cattle trespassing or straying on any Railway provided with fences suitable for the exclusion of cattle shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding ten rupees for each animal, in addition to any amount that may be recovered under the Cattle Trespass Act, 1871.

For wilfully driving cattle on fenced Railway.

Whenever cattle are wilfully driven or knowingly permitted to be on any Railway provided with fences suitable for the exclusion of cattle otherwise than for the purpose of crossing the Railway at a gate or bar provided for public use, the person in charge of such cattle, or if he cannot be identified, then the owner of the said cattle shall on conviction before a Magistrate be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for each animal, in addition to any amount that may be recovered under the said Act.

All fines imposed under this section may be recovered in manner provided by section 25 of the said Act, and may be appropriated in whole or in part in compensation for loss or damage proved to the satisfaction of the convicting Magistrate.

Amendment of Act I of 1871, ss. 11 and 26.

The expression 'public road' in sections eleven and twenty-six of the said Act shall be deemed to include a Railway. And any Railway officer may exercise the powers of seizure provided by the said section eleven.

Explanation.—In this section the word 'cattle' includes also elephants, camels, buffaloes, horses, mares, geldings, ponies, colts, fillies, mules, asses, pigs, rams, ewes, sheep, lambs, goats and kids.

For opening or not properly shutting gates.

37. Whoever, when any engine or train approaching along a Railway is in sight, opens any gate which has been set up for the use or accommodation of any person by any Railway Company or by Government on either side of the Railway, or passes or attempts to pass, or drives or attempts to drive any carriage, cattle, or other animal or thing across the Railway;

and whoever at any time omits to shut and fasten such gate, as soon as he and any carriage, cattle, or other animal or thing under his charge have passed through the same,

shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

(D.) As to Railway Officers and the Public.

For wilful act or omission endangering passenger.

38. Whoever, whether a Railway officer or not, wilfully does any act, or wilfully omits to do what he is legally bound to do, intending by such act or omission to cause, or knowing that he is thereby likely to endanger the safety of any person travelling or being upon any Railway, may be sentenced to transportation (or in the case of an European or American to penal servitude) for life or to imprisonment for any term not exceeding seven years.

For an act not wilful.

39. Whoever, whether a Railway officer or not, rashly or negligently, and without lawful excuse, does any act likely to endanger the safety of any person travelling or being upon a Railway, shall, upon conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, or to fine, or to both.

Apprehension of Offenders.

Apprehension for offences punishable by fine.

40. If any person commit any offence hereby made punishable by fine, and the name and address of such person be unknown, or there be reason to believe that he will abscond, any Railway officer or any police-officer, or other person whom such Railway officer or police-officer may call to his aid, may, without any warrant or written authority, apprehend and detain such offender until he can be taken before a Magistrate or give sufficient security for his appearance before such Magistrate, or is otherwise discharged by due course of law.

Apprehension for offences against sections 13, 21, 22, 38 and 39.

41. Every person guilty of any offence mentioned in sections 13, 21, 22, 38 and 39 may be apprehended without any warrant or written authority by any Railway officer, or by any other person whom such officer may call to his aid, or by any police-officer empowered to arrest without a warrant;

and every person so apprehended shall, with all convenient despatch, be carried and conveyed before a Magistrate or Justice of the Peace authorized to punish the offender or to commit him for trial.

Jurisdiction.

Jurisdiction of Magistrate, &c., to fine.

42. Any person, whether a European British subject or not, who is guilty of any offence for which, under this Act, he is liable to a fine only, shall be punishable for such offence by any Magistrate, whether the offence has been committed within the local limits of his jurisdiction or not.

Jurisdiction of Justices to try Europeans for breach of general rules.

43. Any Justice of the Peace may try a European British subject for an offence under section thirteen and may on conviction award a sentence within the limits thereby prescribed for such offence.

Heads of District Police, &c., in Madras.

44. The heads of district police and amíns of police in the Presidency of Fort Saint George may punish, to the extent of their jurisdiction in petty offences, any offence hereby made punishable by fine not exceeding twenty rupees.

CHAPTER V.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Power of Government to make rules as to fences, gates and bars.

45. The Governor General in Council, or the Local Government with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, from time to time, make rules for providing

(a) boundary-marks or fences for any Railway or any part thereof, and for roads constructed in connexion therewith,

(b) gates or bars at places where any Railway crosses a road on the level, and

(c) persons to open and shut such gates or bars;

and may by such rules determine what kind of fences shall, for the purposes of section thirty-six, be deemed to be suitable for the exclusion of cattle.

Power to declare Local Government in respect of any Railway.

46. The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, declare what Government or other authority shall be deemed to be, for the purposes of this Act, the Local Government in respect of the whole or any part of a Railway.

SCHEDULE.

ACTS REPEALED.

Number and year.	Title.
XVIII of 1854 ...	An Act relating to Railways in India.
XXXI of 1867 ...	An Act to render penal certain offences committed by servants of Railway Companies.
XXII of 1870 ...	An Act to apply the provisions of Act No. XVIII of 1854 to Railways belonging to, or worked by, Government.
XIV of 1871 ...	An Act to amend the Railway Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Doubts having arisen as to whether certain sections of the Railway Act (XVIII of 1854) applied to lines under construction or not opened for public conveyance of passengers and goods, the present Bill has been prepared with the primary object of removing these doubts.

At the same time the opportunity has been taken to consolidate four out of the five Acts in which the Railway law of India is now contained, and to make the following amendments therein:

Companies will not be answerable for loss or injury to luggage unless it has been, not only booked and paid for, but made over to the charge of a Railway officer.

The following articles (namely), cloths and tissue of which gold or silver forms part, telegraph stamps, lithographs, photographs, carvings, sculpture, opium, ivory, ebony, sandalwood, and musical instruments, have been added to the list of articles, for losing or injuring which Companies will not be liable except in case of special engagement.

The clause as to receiving bribes has been made to apply, not only to Railway officers, but also to every other person employed by or on behalf of a Railway Company to do any act upon the Railway.

The fines for giving false account of the goods carried, or to be carried on a Railway, have been raised respectively from Rs. 50 and Rs. 20 to Rs 100 and Rs. 50.

SIMLA,
The 2nd September 1876. } A. CLARKE.

WHITLEY STOKES,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 14th September 1876, and was referred to a Select Committee with instructions to make their report thereon in three months:—

THE FIRST SCHEDULE.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.

A Bill to regulate the Emigration of Native Labourers from the Presidency of Fort Saint George to the Straits Settlements.

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to regulate emigration from the Presidency of Fort Saint George to the Straits Settlements; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

I.—PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Straits Settlements Emigration Act, 1876:"

Local extent.

This section and section two extend to the whole of British India: the rest of this Act extends only to the territories under the government of the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council;

Commencement.

And it shall come into force on such date as the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, by notification in the Fort Saint George Gazette, direct.

Act XIV of 1872, repealed.

2. On and from such date Act No. XIV of 1872 (to exempt the Straits Settlements from the Indian Emigration Act, 1871) shall be repealed, but not so as to revive any right to sue or ground of proceeding taken away by the said Act.

The provisions of Act No. VII of 1871 (to consolidate the laws relating to the emigration of Native Labourers) shall not apply to emigration to the Straits Settlements from the said territories, or to any contract for labour to be performed in the Straits Settlements by an emigrant from the said territories.

Act VII of 1871 not to apply to emigration from Madras to the Straits Settlements.

Interpretation-clause.

3. In this Act—

"Emigrate" denotes the departure of any Native of India out of the said territories, under an engagement to labour in the said Settlements:

"Emigrate."

"Emigrant" means a person who "emigrates" within the meaning of the above definition:

"Emigrant."

"Magistrate" means a Magistrate of a District, a Magistrate of a division of a District, or any person appointed by the Local Government to perform the functions of a Magistrate under this Act:

"Magistrate."

"Vessel" includes anything made for the conveyance by water of human beings or property.

"Vessel."

4. It shall not be lawful to emigrate except from the Port of Negapatam, or from such other port as may from time to time be declared by the Local Government, by a notification in the Fort Saint George Gazette, to be a port from which emigration under this Act shall be lawful.

From what port emigration lawful.

While any such notification is in force, all the provisions of this Act shall apply to the port mentioned in such notification in like manner as they apply to the Port of Negapatam.

The Local Government may, at any time, by a like notification, revoke any such notification.

II.—Emigration Agent.

5. The Government of the Straits Settlements may, from time to time, appoint such person as the Local Government approves, to act as Emigration Agent at the Port of Negapatam, or such other port as aforesaid.

Appointment of Emigration Agent.

The Emigration Agent so appointed may be suspended or removed by the Government of the Straits Settlements.

III.—Protector of Emigrants.

6. The Local Government shall direct the Magistrate of the division of the District in which the Town of Negapatam is situated, or such other Magistrate in Negapatam as it thinks fit, to act as Protector of Emigrants under this Act; and may, with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, assign to such Magistrate such establishment as it thinks fit.

Appointment of Protector of Emigrants.

7. Such Protector of Emigrants, in addition to any special duties assigned to him by this Act, shall, so far as is in his power, protect and aid all emigrants with his advice or otherwise, and cause all the provisions of this Act to be duly complied with.

General duties of Protector.

He shall also inspect on arrival all vessels bringing return emigrants to Negapatam, and inquire into the treatment received by such emigrants both during the period of their service in the Straits Settlements and also during the voyage, and shall make a report thereon to the Local Government.

Inspection of vessels with return emigrants.

He shall aid and advise such return emigrants, so far as he reasonably can, when called upon by them to do so.

IV.—Emigration Depôt.

8. The Emigration Agent shall establish a suitable depôt for emigrants at Negapatam and at any such other port as aforesaid. Such depôt may be licensed by the Protector of Emigrants after being inspected and approved of by him.

Establishment and licensing of depôt.

No such license shall be in force for a longer period than a year; and any such license may be cancelled by the Protector of Emigrants, if he considers that the depôt for which it was granted is unhealthy, or in any respect has become unsuitable for the purpose for which it was established, or if the Emigration Agent fails to comply with any of the requirements of this Act.

Duration of license.

For every such license the Emigration Agent shall pay to the Protector of Emigrants a fee of fifteen rupees.

Fee for license.

9. The Protector of Emigrants may, at any time, examine into the state of the depôt and the manner in which the emigrants are therein lodged, fed, clothed, and otherwise provided for and attended to.

Inspection by Protector.

The Emigration Agent and all persons in charge of, or employed in, the depôt shall give the Protector every facility for making such inspections as he may deem necessary or proper, and shall afford him all such information as he may require.

Agent and his subordinates to afford facilities for inspection.

10. The Emigration Agent shall provide at the depôt such medical aid and comforts as the said Protector may from time to time direct.

Supply of medical aid and comforts.

V.—Recruiters of Labourers.

11. The Protector of Emigrants shall license so many fit persons, as he deems necessary, to be recruiters of labourers for the Straits Settlements; and no person shall engage or attempt to engage any Native of India to emigrate, or shall otherwise act or be employed as a recruiter of labourers, except under a license from the Protector of Emigrants.

Protector to license recruiters.

12. No such license shall be in force for a longer period than one year; and in case of misconduct on the part of any recruiter, the Protector of Emigrants may cancel his license before the expiration of the period for which it was granted.

Duration and cancelment of license.

13. Every such license shall specify the local limits within which the person licensed may recruit labourers, and shall be in the form set forth in the first Schedule hereto annexed.

Form of license.

For every such license the recruiter shall pay to the Protector a fee of five rupees.

Fee for license.

14. No recruiter shall engage, or attempt to engage, labourers in any district without having first exhibited his license to a Magistrate in such district, and obtained the countersignature of such Magistrate thereupon.

Recruiter to obtain Magistrate's countersignature to license.

VI.—Contracts with Emigrants.

15. A contract made by a recruiter with a Native of India to emigrate shall not be enforceable by the recruiter or his principal unless it—

Conditions of validity of emigration contracts.

(a) is expressed in writing;

(b) purports to be executed by the recruiter on behalf of some principal in the Straits Settlements;

(c) states the terms, if any, agreed on as to the redemption of the recruit's engagement for employment, or of the unexpired term of such engagement;

(d) is registered in the manner provided in section nineteen.

But nothing contained in this section shall be deemed to prevent such Native from insisting, if he thinks fit, that such contract shall be performed.

16. Every such contract shall—

Contents of such contracts.

(a) contain an engagement for employment to be provided by such principal for a definite term not exceeding three years; and

(b) specify the nature of the services to be performed by such recruit and the rates of wages (not less than twelve cents a day for an able-bodied male adult) payable in respect of the same.

17. Save as provided by section fifteen, clause (c), every agreement entered into by a Native of India in the territories subject to the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council, to pay money to any person in the Straits Settlements, in consideration of pecuniary or other assistance given to such Native to emigrate, shall be illegal and void.

Certain agreements declared void.

Every contract not containing the particulars required by section sixteen shall be illegal and void.

18. Every recruit who has entered into such a contract as aforesaid shall be brought by the recruiter before the Civil Surgeon of the District, or such other Medical Officer as the Local Government appoints in this behalf, or in default of such appointment, before such Medical Officer as the Magistrate directs.

Medical examination of intending emigrants.

The Medical Officer shall thereupon examine the recruit, and shall either reject him or shall certify that he is in a fit state of health and able in point of physical condition to proceed to the Straits Settlements and to work there.

If it is intended that any persons shall accompany the recruit as his dependents, the recruiter shall also bring them before the Medical Officer for the purpose of obtaining certificates that they are in a fit state of health and able in point of physical condition to perform the journey to the Straits Settlements; and the Medical Officer shall examine such persons and shall give or refuse certificates according to his opinion as to their fitness and ability.

Dependents.

Certificates shall be in the form set forth in the second Schedule hereto annexed; and the recruiter shall pay to the Medical Officer such fee for each person so examined as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe.

Form of Certificates.

19. Every certified recruit and every accompanying dependent shall appear with the recruiter before a Magistrate in the district within which the contract with the recruit was entered into.

Emigrant to appear before Magistrate,

The Magistrate shall thereupon inspect the instrument of contract and the medical certificate of the recruit, and shall, apart from the recruiter, examine the recruit with reference to his contract.

and be examined.

If it appears on such examination that the recruit understands the nature of the contract he has entered into as regards the particulars specified in section sixteen, and that he is willing to fulfil the same, the Magistrate shall register

(a) the name, the father's name and the age of such recruit:

(b) the name of the village or place in which he resides:

(c) the port of embarkation to which it is intended he shall proceed:

(d) the particulars specified in section sixteen.

The recruit shall thereupon be deemed an emigrant under this Act.

If the Magistrate thinks that the recruit does not understand the nature of his contract, or has been induced to enter into it by fraud or misrepresentation, he shall refuse to register him, and record his reasons for such refusal.

Registration when to be refused

20. On the appearance of any person claiming to be dependent on an emigrant, the Magistrate, after inspecting the medical certificate, shall, apart from the recruiter, examine such person if able to give intelligent answers to questions as to his dependence upon the emigrant whom he is about to accompany, and as to his willingness to accompany such emigrant.

Examination of dependents.

If the Magistrate is satisfied that such dependence and willingness exist, he shall register the dependent as a dependent on such emigrant.

But if the Magistrate sees reason to doubt the existence of such dependence or willingness, he may refuse to register the alleged dependent, and, if so, shall record his reasons for such refusal.

21. The Magistrate shall furnish to every emigrant an authenticated copy on substantial paper of the matters registered under sections nineteen and twenty.

Copies of registered matters.

22. A copy of every entry made in the registry book by a Magistrate shall be forthwith forwarded by such Magistrate to the Emigration Agent and to the Protector of Emigrants.

Copy of entry in register to be sent to Emigration Agent and Protector.

23. Registration under section nineteen and section twenty of emigrants recruited in the division of the district in which the town of Negapatam is situated, and of persons dependent on such emigrants, shall be effected before the Protector of Emigrants in the manner hereinbefore prescribed for registration before a Magistrate; and such Protector shall deliver one copy of the contract to the emigrant and another copy of the contract to the Emigration Agent.

Registration at Negapatam.

24. For the registration of every contract under section nineteen, the recruiter shall pay to the Magistrate or to the Protector of Emigrants, as the case may be, such fee as may be from time to time directed by the Local Government, not exceeding one rupee.

Fee for registration.

VII.—Arrival at Depôt and Procedure thereon.

25. The arrival of each emigrant at the depôt shall immediately be reported by the person in charge of the depôt to the Emigration Agent, and by such Agent to the Protector of Emigrants.

Arrival at depôt to be reported.

26. The Emigration Agent shall, within forty-eight hours after the arrival of each emigrant at the depôt, question such emigrant as to the mode of his recruitment, and shall at the same time examine the copy of the contract furnished to the emigrant under section twenty-three.

Duty of Emigration Agent on arrival of emigrants.

If, for any reason, further inquiry is necessary, he shall make such enquiry forthwith.

27. The Protector of Emigrants shall attend personally at the examination of emigrants by the Emigration Agent under section twenty-six, except in the case of emigrants recruited in the division of the district in which the town of Negapatam is situated, and shall see that the Emigration Agent makes all such enquiries of the emigrants as it may be his duty to make.

Duty of Protector.

28. If in the opinion of the Protector of Emigrants the examination and enquiry made under section twenty-six disclose no valid reason against the fulfilment of the contract, and the emigrant has not become physically unfit for emigration, the Protector and the Emigration Agent shall countersign the emigrant's copy of the contract, and the Emigration Agent shall make out and deliver to the emigrant an embarkation pass signed by the Emigration Agent, and countersigned by the Protector, stating the name and the age of the emigrant and the name of his father, and certifying that he has been duly registered for emigration to the Straits Settlements.

Countersignature of contract.

Grant of embarkation pass.

29. If the Protector of Emigrants considers that any emigrant, not being an emigrant recruited in the division of the district in which the town of Negapatam is situated, is physically unfit to emigrate, and that he has not dishonestly represented himself as physically fit; or that any such irregularity has occurred in the recruitment of any such emigrant, as makes it just to vacate the contract;

or if the Emigration Agent refuses without the consent of the Protector to countersign the emigrant's copy of the contract as required by section twenty-eight, or to be bound by the contract;

the Protector of Emigrants may order the Emigration Agent, or the recruiter with whom the contract was made, forthwith to pay to him such reasonable sum as is necessary to enable such emigrant to return to the place where his contract was registered; and may take any steps he thinks necessary for the conveyance of such emigrant to such place.

When the emigrant to be sent back to the place of registration.

Payment of expenses of sending him back.

30. On failure of the Emigration Agent or of such recruiter for twenty-four hours to comply with an order of the Protector for the payment of any such sum, the Protector may pay the same to, or on behalf of, the emigrant.

Every sum so paid shall be recoverable by the Protector, with six per cent. per annum interest from the date of payment, from the Emigration Agent, or from such recruiter, as money paid to the use of such Emigration Agent or recruiter.

No further proof shall be required by any Court in any such case than that the Protector gave such Emigration Agent or recruiter an order to pay such money, and that the Emigration Agent or recruiter for a space of twenty-four hours made default in complying therewith.

Failure of Emigration Agent, &c., to pay such expenses.

31. Every emigrant as aforesaid who, from his state of health, is, in the opinion of the Protector, unfit to undertake the journey back to the place where his contract was registered, shall, in addition to being conveyed back at the expense of the Emigration Agent or recruiter, be entitled to continue in the depôt, and to be fed, clothed, lodged and attended to there by and at the expense of the Emigration Agent until such time as the Protector otherwise orders.

Emigrant unfit from illness to return to the place of registration.

32. In every case in which the Emigration Agent refuses, without the consent of the Protector, to countersign, or be bound by a contract registered under section nineteen, or is chargeable with a breach of any duty which such contract expressly or by implication imposes upon him, the Protector may, if he thinks fit, institute a suit on behalf of the emigrant against the Emigration Agent for the recovery of damages for the breach of such contract.

Suits against Emigration Agent for breach of contract.

In every such suit the contract entered into by the recruiter shall be deemed to have been entered into by, and to be binding on, the Emigration Agent.

VIII.—Emigrant Vessels.

33. No Master or other person in charge of a vessel shall receive on board such vessel any emigrant unless such vessel has been licensed, under the law for the time being in force relating to the carriage by sea of Native passengers, to carry passengers from the territories under the Government of Fort Saint George to the Straits of Malacca, and unless the Master of such vessel has obtained a certificate from the Protector of Emigrants authorizing him to receive on board the number of emigrants specified therein.

Emigrants not to be received on board vessels other than those licensed under Native Passengers Act, or without certificate from Protector.

No such certificate shall be granted by the Protector of Emigrants unless he has satisfied himself that the vessel has been licensed as aforesaid, and that provisions and water for the number of emigrants to be specified in the certificate according to the scale prescribed under such law have been actually put on board such vessel.

Protector not to grant certificate unless satisfied that vessel has been licensed and has provisions on board.

34. On embarkation every emigrant shall deliver to the Master of the vessel the embarkation pass granted to him under section twenty-eight, and the Master shall not receive any emigrant on board unless he delivers up such pass.

Emigrant to give his pass to Master.

35. The Emigration Agent shall be personally present at the embarkation of all emigrants, and shall see that the Master duly examines the passes of the emigrants, and shall himself also examine such passes.

Emigration Agent to be present at embarkation.

The Emigration Agent shall not permit any emigrant to remain on board who has not a pass.

36. The Master of every vessel carrying emigrants shall, after the embarkation of the emigrants, and before the departure of the vessel, give to the Emigration Agent a list signed by himself of all emigrants on board, and shall retain a counterpart of such list signed by the Emigration Agent.

Master to deliver list of emigrants.

A copy of such list signed by the Emigration Agent and Master shall be sent to the Protector of Emigrants before the vessel sails.

IX.—Supplementary Powers.

37. Whenever the Governor General in Council has reason to believe that proper measures have not been taken for the protection of emigrants and the enforcement of the engagements entered into with them immediately upon their arrival at the Straits Settlements, or during their residence therein, the Governor General in Council may, by a notification published in the Gazette of India, declare that emigration to the said Settlements shall cease from a day to be specified in such notification.

Power to prohibit emigration to the Straits Settlements.

When any notification has been published under this section, emigration and the making of contracts to emigrate to the Straits Settlements shall be unlawful from the day specified in such notification.

38. Such notification may be revoked in like manner at the discretion of the Governor General in Council, and thereupon emigration to the said Settlements shall again be allowed from a day to be specified in the revocation.

Revocation of prohibition.

From the day so specified all the provisions of this Act authorizing emigration to the said Settlements shall be revived, and have the same effect as if such emigration had not been suspended, except as to acts done, offences committed, and proceedings commenced, during the time of such suspension.

X.—Offences.

39. Whoever, except under and in conformity with the provisions of this Act, engages or attempts to engage any Native of India to emigrate, or whoever engages or attempts to engage any Native of India to enter into any such contract as is hereby declared illegal, or, not being a recruiter duly licensed under this Act, acts or is employed as a recruiter of labourers, or being a duly licensed recruiter, removes or attempts to remove any emigrant whom he engages in any district from such district without the contract with such emigrant having been duly registered under section nineteen, shall be punished with imprisonment, which may extend to six months, or with fine not exceeding five hundred rupees, or with both.

Making unlawful contract of labour.

Recruiting without being licensed.

Recruiter omitting to take engaged labourers before Magistrate or Protector.

40. Whoever, by means of intoxication, violence, fraud, or false pretences, causes or induces or attempts to cause or induce any Native of India to emigrate or to enter into any contract to emigrate, or into any such contract as is hereby declared illegal, or to proceed to the said Settlements without having entered into any contract, shall be punished with imprisonment, which may extend to three years, or with fine or with both.

Use of force, fraud, &c., to cause a Native to emigrate.

41. Whoever, without lawful authority, issues any written order to the police to assist himself or any other person to procure labourers to proceed to the said Settlements, or falsely represents that such labourers are required by the Government, or are to be engaged on behalf of the Government, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

False representation of Government authority.

42. Any Master of a vessel not licensed as provided in section thirty-three who knowingly receives on board, for conveyance to the said Settlements, any emigrant or person who has entered into a contract hereby declared illegal, and any Master of a vessel licensed as aforesaid, who knowingly receives any emigrant as aforesaid without having previously obtained a certificate under the said section, or in excess of the number specified in such certificate, shall be liable for each emigrant or person so received to imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months, and also to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees, and the vessel shall be liable to be forfeited.

Receiving emigrants on board without license or certificate.

43. Any Master of a vessel who receives on board such vessel any emigrant for the said Settlements and fails to comply with the requirements of sections thirty-four and thirty-six, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees.

Failure to comply with requirements of sections 34 and 36.

44. Any Master of a vessel who having cleared such vessel for the said Settlements, takes on board any emigrant not entered in the list mentioned in section thirty-six, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees for every emigrant so taken on board.

Taking on board, after clearance, emigrants not entered in list.

45. All the powers vested by law in the officers of Customs in regard to the searching and detention of vessels, or otherwise, for the prevention of smuggling on board thereof, may be exercised by such officers for the prevention and detection of the illegal embarkation of emigrants on board vessels bound for the said Settlements and of other offences against this Act.

Customs officers may search and detain for purposes of this Act.

46. All prosecutions under this Act shall be instituted by the Emigration Agent, or by the Protector of Emigrants, or by an officer appointed for the purpose by the Local Government.

Prosecutions under this Act by whom to be instituted.

XI.—MISCELLANEOUS.

47. Nothing in this Act shall apply to any vessel in the service of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, or to any of Her Majesty's vessels.

Act not to apply to certain vessels,

48. Nothing in this Act shall apply to any contract with, or the emigration of, any Native seaman, or other person who of his own free will contracts to navigate or serve on board of any vessel, or who embarks on board such vessel in pursuance of such contract, or any person who contracts to serve as a menial servant only and who embarks as such menial servant.

or to contracts with Native seamen and menial servants.

49. The Emigration Agent and all persons employed by him and the Protector of Emigrants shall be deemed to be public servants within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

Emigration Agent and his subordinates and Protector of Emigrants to be deemed public servants.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The circumstances which make special legislation necessary to regulate emigration from the Madras Presidency to the Straits Settlements were fully explained in Council on the 6th June 1872, when leave was asked to introduce the Bill which passed as Act XIV of 1872. The Bill then introduced was intended merely to make temporary provision for a pressing emergency, and it was stated that a further measure to make permanent provision, in all requisite detail, for emigration to the Straits was then under preparation in communication with the Colonial Government and would afterwards be introduced. Some time, as might have been expected, has passed in arranging with the Government of the Straits the details of the present Bill and of the corresponding Ordinance intended to be passed by the Straits Legislative Council.

2. The law of the Straits Settlements has either been, or will soon be, placed on a permanent footing, and it is desirable that no further delay should take place in carrying out the legislation requisite here.

3. The present Bill, it will be seen, is based on the Indian Emigration Act, 1871. It differs from that Act, however, in two important respects. In the first place, the provisions it contains regarding the conveyance of emigrants to the depôt, the equipment of emigrant vessels, the embarkation of the emigrants, &c., are of a less detailed and stringent nature than the corresponding provisions of the Act of 1871. As was observed in the discussions which led to the passing of Act XIV of 1872, it would be absurd to hamper emigration to a Colony which may be reached in eight or ten days with regulations designed for a voyage like that to the West Indies.

4. The other point in which the present Bill differs from the Act of 1871 (and on this point it is more stringent than the Act of 1871) is in regard to contracts between recruiters and emigrants. The conditions of emigration from Madras to the Straits Settlements are somewhat different from those which prevail in other Colonies drawing their supplies of labour from India. The law in these other Colonies places upon the Government the responsibility for the fulfilment of the conditions under which the emigrant leaves his home; the immigrants are received by Government Agents on their arrival, and allotted to employers by these Agents; contracts are made on their behalf by Government, and Government undertakes to provide them with a free passage to India on the completion of their term of service, or sooner if they become disabled.

5. In the Straits Settlements, on the other hand, the contract has hitherto been confined to the emigrant and the individual employer; and the function of Government has been merely to watch over its due fulfilment by both parties. It is still intended that contracts shall be made in the first instance between emigrants and individual employers; and therefore it becomes specially necessary in the case of an emigrant to the Straits to make sure that the contract entered into by him before he leaves India distinctly provides for those points on which the Government of India is in the habit of insisting as essential. Hence the additional rules regarding the form and contents of contracts laid down in sections fifteen and sixteen of the present Bill.

6. It is however desired by the Government of India that the Government of the Straits Settlements shall guarantee to emigrants the performance of certain important conditions of their contracts, if the employers fail to perform them. It is also thought expedient to declare expressly that contracts made in Madras by Natives for repayment of money in the Straits Settlements, in consideration of assistance to leave India, shall be void except for the purpose of redeeming their contracts to work.

7. It will be observed that the present Bill proposes to repeal Act XIV of 1872, and thereby, so far as regards all India except Madras, to remit the Straits Settlements to the position they were in before the passing of that Act. That is to say, as regards all India except the Madras Presidency, emigration to the Straits Settlements will not be lawful, and cannot be made lawful except under the provisions of the Emigration Act of 1871. The reason for this state of things will be found stated in the proceedings of Council before referred to. The peculiarities of the labour traffic between Madras and the Straits Settlements are its long duration, the existence of a large Tamil population in the Straits, and the proximity of the two countries. These circumstances do not affect any part of India except Madras.

SCHEDULE.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the Law relating to Railways in India.

Whereas it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to Railways in India; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Indian Railway Act, 1876:"

It extends to the whole of British India and, so far as regards subjects of Her Majesty the Empress of India, to the dominions of Princes and States in India in alliance with Her said Majesty:

Local extent.

And it shall come into force on the first day of March 1877.

Commencement.

2. On and from that day, the Acts specified in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed.

Repeal of Acts.

All rules made, notifications published, and powers conferred under any of such Acts shall be deemed to have been respectively made, published and conferred under this Act.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,—

Interpretation-clause.

'Railway.' "Railway" includes—

(a) railways belonging to and worked by Companies:

(b) railways belonging to Government but worked by Companies:

(c) railways worked by Government:

(d) land within the fences or other boundary-marks prescribed under section forty-five:

(e) all lines of rail, sidings or branches, worked over for the purposes of, or in connexion with, a railway:

(f) all stations, offices, warehouses, fixed machinery and other works constructed or being constructed for the purposes of, or in connexion with, a railway:

And in the following sections (namely) 11, 13, 18, 21, 22, 26, 27 and 32 to 39 (both inclusive), "Railway" includes a railway under construction or not used for the public conveyance of passengers or goods.

and in case any such luggage or parcel is received for the purpose of being carried upon a Railway, any Railway officer may stop the transit thereof until he is satisfied as to the nature of the contents of the luggage or parcel.

11. Every Railway Company, and every officer controlling a Railway worked by Government, shall, within forty-eight hours after the occurrence upon the Railway belonging to such Company or so worked by Government of any accident attended with serious personal injury, give notice thereof to the Local Government.

Accident to be reported.

12. The Local Government may direct any Railway Company or any officer controlling a Railway worked by Government to make up and deliver to the Local Government a return of serious accidents occurring in the course of the public traffic upon the Railway belonging to such Company, or so worked by Government whether attended with personal injury or not, in such form and manner as the Local Government deems necessary and requires for information, with a view to the public safety.

Returns of accidents in course of traffic.

13. Every Railway Company, and every officer controlling a Railway worked by Government, may respectively from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, make general rules for the use, working and general administration of the Railway belonging to such Company or so worked by Government.

Power to make rules for working Railway.

All such rules shall be published in the Gazette of India, and shall be otherwise notified to the Railway officers and the public in such manner as the Governor General in Council, from time to time, directs.

Publication of rules.

Any such rule may contain a provision that any person committing a breach of it shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, or, in default of payment of such fine, to imprisonment for a term which may extend to two months.

Penalty for breach of rules.

The Governor General in Council may at any time cancel any rule so sanctioned.

Power to cancel rules.

14. A copy of this Act, and of the General Rules, Time-tables, and Tariff of charges, which may from time to time be published for any Railway by any Railway Company with the sanction of the Local Government, or (in the case of a Railway worked by Government) by the officer controlling the same, shall be exhibited in some conspicuous place at each station of such Railway, so that they may be easily seen and read.

Copy and translation of Act, &c., to be shown at stations.

All such documents shall be so exhibited in English and in the Vernacular language of the district in which the station is situate, and in such other language, if any, as the Local Government may direct.

CHAPTER III.

RULES RELATING TO PASSENGERS.

15. Every person desirous of travelling on a Railway shall, upon payment of his fare, be furnished with a ticket, specifying the class of carriage and the place from and place to which the fare has been paid, and shall, when required, show his ticket to any Railway officer duly authorized to examine the same, and shall deliver up such ticket upon demand to any Railway officer duly authorized to collect tickets.

Passengers on payment of fares to be furnished with tickets.

Tickets to be shown and given up on demand.

16. At the intermediate stations, the fares shall be deemed to be accepted, and the tickets furnished only upon condition that there be room in the train for which the tickets are furnished.

Fares and tickets at intermediate stations.

In case there is not room for all the passengers to whom tickets have been furnished, those who have obtained tickets for the longest distance shall have the preference; and those who have obtained tickets for the same distance shall have the preference according to the order in which they have received their tickets:

Preferential right to tickets.

Proviso.

Provided that all officers and troops of Her Majesty, on duty, and all other persons on the business of the Government, who by virtue of any contract with the Government are entitled to be conveyed on a Railway in preference to, or in priority over the public, shall be entitled to such preference and priority without reference to the distance for which, or the order in which, they have received their tickets.

17. No person shall enter any carriage used on any Railway, for the purpose of travelling therein, without having first paid his fare and obtained a ticket.

Fares to be prepaid.

18. No person shall carry upon any Railway any dangerous goods, or shall be entitled to require to be carried upon any Railway any luggage or goods which, in the judgment of any Railway officer, is or are of a dangerous nature.

CHAPTER IV.

PENALTIES.

(A.) As to Companies.

19. Any Railway Company or officer controlling a Railway worked by Government omitting to give notice as required by section eleven, shall forfeit the sum of fifty rupees for every day during which such omission continues.

For omitting to report accident.

20. Any Railway Company or officer controlling a Railway worked by Government failing to deliver any return mentioned in section twelve, within fourteen days after the same has been required, shall forfeit the sum of fifty rupees for every day during which such failure continues.

For not sending return of accidents.

(B.) As to Railway Officers.

21. Any Railway officer who is in a state of intoxication whilst actually employed upon a Railway in the discharge of any duty,

For drunkenness or breach of duty.

or who negligently omits to perform his duty,

or who performs the same in an improper manner,

shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees;

and if the duty in any of the cases aforesaid be such that the omission or negligent performance thereof would be likely to endanger the safety of any person travelling or being upon such Railway, such officer shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, or to fine, or to both.

22. If any Railway officer endangers the safety of any person—

For endangering the safety of person.

(a) by disobeying any general rule sanctioned and notified in the manner prescribed by section thirteen, or

(b) by disobeying any rule or order not inconsistent with the general rules aforesaid, and which he was bound by the terms of his service to obey, and of which he had notice, or

(c) by any rash or negligent act or omission,

he shall be liable to imprisonment for any term not exceeding three years, or to fine not exceeding five hundred rupees, or to both.

23. Every Railway officer, and every other person employed by or on behalf of a Railway Company to do any act upon the Railway, and every person employed either permanently or temporarily in connection with a Tramway shall be deemed a "public servant" within the meaning of sections 161, 162, 163, 164 and 165 of the Indian Penal Code.

For receiving bribes.

In the definition of legal remuneration contained in the said section 161 the word "Government" shall, for the purposes of this section, be deemed to include—

Amendment of Penal Code, section 161.

(a) a Railway Company,

(b) the proprietors for the time being of a Tramway, and

(c) the lessees, representatives and assigns of such Company or proprietors.

(C.) As to the Public.

24. Any passenger not producing or delivering up his ticket when so required by a Railway officer authorized to require such production or delivery, shall be liable to pay the fare from the place whence the train originally started, unless he can prove that he has travelled a less distance only, in which case he shall be liable to pay the fare only from the place whence he has travelled.

For not producing or delivering ticket.

25. Any person who defrauds, or attempts to defraud any Railway Company or the Government

For evading payment of proper fare.

(a) by travelling, or attempting to travel, upon any Railway, without having previously paid his fare; or

(b) by riding in or upon a carriage of a higher class than that for which he has paid his fare; or

or who knowingly and wilfully refuses or neglects, on arriving at the point to which he has paid his fare, to quit such carriage;

or who, in any other manner whatever, attempts to evade the payment of his fare, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for each offence.

26. Any passenger, who gets into or upon, or attempts to get into or upon, or quits, or attempts to quit, any carriage upon any Railway, while such carriage is in motion;

For entering carriage in motion.

or who rides or attempts to ride upon any Railway, on the steps, or any other part of a carriage, except on those parts which are intended for the accommodation of passengers,

For riding on the steps.

shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees for each offence.

27. Any person other than the engine-man, fire-man, and assistant fireman, who, without the special license of the Superintendent of Locomotives, rides or attempts to ride upon any locomotive engine or tender upon any Railway;

For riding on engine, tender, or luggage-van.

and any person other than the guard or brakesman, who, without such license as aforesaid, rides or attempts to ride upon any Railway, in or upon any luggage-van or goods-wagon, or other vehicle not appropriated to the carriage of passengers, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees for each offence.

28. Whoever smokes, either in a Railway station, or in or upon any Railway carriage, except in places or carriages specially provided for the purpose, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees for each offence;

For smoking.

and whoever persists in so smoking (except as aforesaid) after being warned to desist by any Railway officer, may, in addition to incurring the liability abovementioned, be removed by any Railway officer from any such carriage, and from the premises of the Railway, and shall forfeit his fare.

29. Any person who is in a state of intoxication, or who commits any nuisance or act of indecency in any Railway carriage, or upon any part of any Railway;

For intoxication or nuisance.

or who wilfully and without lawful excuse interferes with the comfort of any passenger, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees; and in addition to such liability, the offender may be removed by any Railway officer from any such carriage, and also from the premises of the Railway, and shall forfeit his fare.

30. If any special carriage, or portion of a carriage, or any private room or apartment, be provided by any Railway Company or by Government for the exclusive use of females, any male person, who, without lawful excuse, enters such carriage, or portion of a carriage, or any such room or apartment, knowing the same to be exclusively appropriated as aforesaid, or remains therein after having been informed of its exclusive appropriation, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees,

For entering private room or carriage.

and may be removed therefrom, and also from the premises of the Railway, by any Railway officer, and shall forfeit his fare.

31. Any owner or person referred to in section nine, who wilfully fails to give on demand to any Railway officer appointed as therein mentioned an exact account of the number or quantity and description of the goods therein referred to,

For false account.

or who wilfully gives to such Railway officer a false account thereof, shall, for every such offence, be liable to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees for every ton of such goods, or for any parcel exceeding one hundredweight, and to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for any quantity of such goods less than a ton or for any parcel less than one hundredweight.

32. Whoever carries upon a Railway any dangerous goods,

For carrying goods of a dangerous nature.

and whoever delivers to a Railway officer any such goods for the purpose of being carried upon a Railway, without distinctly marking their nature on the outside of the package containing the same,

For delivering such goods without notice.

or otherwise giving notice in writing of the nature thereof to such officer, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees for every such offence.

33. Whoever wilfully obstructs or impedes any Railway officer in the discharge of his duty on a Railway, or any of the works, stations, or premises connected therewith, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

For obstructing Railway officer in his duty.

34. Whoever unlawfully and wilfully removes or defaces the number-plates, or removes or extinguishes any lamp on any Railway carriage, or wilfully or negligently damages or injures any carriage, engine, wagon, truck, warehouse, building, machine, fence, or any other thing belonging to a Railway Company or (in the case of a Railway belonging to or worked by Government) to Government, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

For injuring carriage, &c.

35. Whoever trespasses upon a Railway shall be liable to a fine not exceeding twenty rupees;

For trespass.

and if any person so trespassing refuse to leave such Railway on being requested to do so by any Railway officer, or by any other person on behalf of the Railway Company or the officer controlling a Railway worked by Government, he shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees, and may be immediately removed from such Railway by such officer or other person as aforesaid.

For refusing to leave on request.

36. The owner or person in charge of any cattle trespassing or straying on any Railway provided with fences suitable for the exclusion of cattle shall, on conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to a fine not exceeding ten rupees for each animal, in addition to any amount that may be recovered under the Cattle Trespass Act, 1871.

For cattle-trespass within Railway fences.

Whenever cattle are wilfully driven or knowingly permitted to be on any Railway provided with fences suitable for the exclusion of cattle otherwise than for the purpose of crossing the Railway at a gate or bar provided for public use, the person in charge of such cattle, or if he cannot be identified, then the owner of the said cattle shall on conviction before a Magistrate be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees for each animal, in addition to any amount that may be recovered under the said Act.

For wilfully driving cattle on fenced Railway.

All fines imposed under this section may be recovered in manner provided by section 25 of the said Act, and may be appropriated in whole or in part in compensation for loss or damage proved to the satisfaction of the convicting Magistrate.

The expression 'public road' in sections eleven and twenty-six of the said Act shall be deemed to include a Railway. And any Railway officer may exercise the powers of seizure provided by the said section eleven.

Amendment of Act I of 1871, ss. 11 and 26.

Explanation.—In this section the word 'cattle' includes also elephants, camels, buffaloes, horses, mares, geldings, ponies, colts, fillies, mules, asses, pigs, rams, ewes, sheep, lambs, goats and kids.

37. Whoever, when any engine or train approaching along a Railway is in sight, opens any gate which has been set up for the use or accommodation of any person by any Railway Company or by Government on either side of the Railway, or passes or attempts to pass, or drives or attempts to drive any carriage, cattle, or other animal or thing across the Railway;

For opening or not properly shutting gates.

and whoever at any time omits to shut and fasten such gate, as soon as he and any carriage, cattle, or other animal or thing under his charge have passed through the same,

shall be liable to a fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

(D.) As to Railway Officers and the Public.

38. Whoever, whether a Railway officer or not, wilfully does any act, or wilfully omits to do what he is legally bound to do, intending by such act or omission to cause, or knowing that he is thereby likely to endanger the safety of any person travelling or being upon any Railway may be sentenced to transportation (or in the case of an European or American to penal servitude) for life or to imprisonment for any term not exceeding seven years.

For wilful act or omission endangering passenger.

39. Whoever, whether a Railway officer or not, rashly or negligently, and without lawful excuse, does any act likely to endanger the safety of any person travelling or being upon a Railway, shall, upon conviction before a Magistrate, be liable to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, or to fine, or to both.

For an act not wilful.

Apprehension of Offenders.

40. If any person commit any offence hereby made punishable by fine, and the name and address of such person are unknown, or there be reason to believe that he will abscond, any Railway officer or any police-officer, or other person whom such Railway officer or police-officer may call to his aid, may, without any warrant or written authority, apprehend and detain such offender until he can be taken before a Magistrate or give sufficient security for his appearance before such Magistrate, or is otherwise discharged by due course of law.

Apprehension for offences punishable by fine.

41. Every person guilty of any offence mentioned in sections 13, 21, 22, 38 and 39 may be apprehended without any warrant or written authority by any Railway officer, or by any other person whom such officer may call to his aid, or by any police-officer empowered to arrest without a warrant;

Apprehension for offences against sections 13, 21, 22, 38 and 39.

and every person so apprehended shall, with all convenient despatch, be carried and conveyed before a Magistrate or Justice of the Peace authorized to punish the offender or to commit him for trial.

Jurisdiction.

42. Any person, whether a European British subject or not, who is guilty of any offence for which, under this Act, he is liable to a fine only, shall be punishable for such offence by any Magistrate, whether the offence has been committed within the local limits of his jurisdiction or not.

Jurisdiction of Magistrate, &c., to fine.

43. Any Justice of the Peace may try a European British subject for an offence under section thirteen and may on conviction award a sentence within the limits thereby prescribed for such offence.

Jurisdiction of Justices to try Europeans for breach of general rules.

44. The heads of district police and amíns of police in the Presidency of Fort Saint George may punish, to the extent of their jurisdiction in petty offences, any offence hereby made punishable by fine not exceeding twenty rupees.

Heads of District Police, &c., in Madras.

CHAPTER V.

MISCELLANEOUS.

45. The Governor General in Council, or the Local Government with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, from time to time, make rules for providing

Power of Government to make rules as to fences, gates and bars.

(a) boundary-marks or fences for any Railway or any part thereof, and for roads constructed in connexion therewith,

(b) gates or bars at places where any Railway crosses a road on the level, and

(c) persons to open and shut such gates or bars;

and may by such rules determine what kind of fences shall, for the purposes of section thirty-six, be deemed to be suitable for the exclusion of cattle.

46. The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, declare what Government or other authority shall be deemed to be, for the purposes of this Act, the Local Government in respect of the whole or any part of a Railway.

Power to declare Local Government in respect of any Railway.

SCHEDULE.

ACTS REPEALED.

Number and year.	Title.
XVIII of 1854 ...	An Act relating to Railways in India.
XXXI of 1867 ...	An Act to render penal certain offences committed by servants of Railway Companies.
XIII of 1870 ...	An Act to apply the provisions of Act No. XVIII of 1854 to Railways belonging to, or worked by, Government.
XXV of 1871 ...	An Act to amend the Railway Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

Doubts having arisen as to whether certain sections of the Railway Act (XVIII of 1854) applied to lines under construction or not opened for public conveyance of passengers and goods, the present Bill has been prepared with the primary object of removing these doubts.

At the same time the opportunity has been taken to consolidate four out of the five Acts in which the Railway law of India is now contained, and to make the following amendments therein:

Companies will not be answerable for loss or injury to luggage unless it has been, not only booked and paid for, but made over to the charge of a Railway officer.

The following articles (namely), cloths and tissue of which gold or silver forms part, telegraph stamps, lithographs, photographs, carvings, sculpture, opium, ivory, ebony, sandalwood, and musical instruments, have been added to the list of articles, for losing or injuring which Companies will not be liable except in case of special engagement.

The clause as to receiving bribes has been made to apply, not only to Railway officers, but also to every other person employed by or on behalf of a Railway Company to do any act upon the Railway.

The fines for giving false account of the goods carried, or to be carried on a Railway, have been raised respectively from Rs. 50 and Rs. 20 to Rs. 100 and Rs. 50.

THE FIRST SCHEDULE.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.

A Bill to regulate the Emigration of Native Labourers from the Presidency of Fort Saint George to the Straits Settlements.

Preamble.

Whereas it is expedient to regulate emigration from the Presidency of Fort Saint George to the Straits Settlements; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

I.—PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Straits Settlements Emigration Act, 1876:"

Local extent.

This section and section two extend to the whole of British India: the rest of this Act extends only to the territories under the government of the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council;

Commencement.

And it shall come into force on such date as the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, by notification in the Fort Saint George Gazette, direct.

Act XIV of 1872, repealed.

2. On and from such date Act No. XIV of 1872 (to exempt the Straits Settlements from the Indian Emigration Act, 1871) shall be repealed, but not so as to revive any right to sue or ground of proceeding taken away by the said Act.

Act VII of 1871 not to apply to emigration from Madras to the Straits Settlements.

The provisions of Act No. VII of 1871 (to consolidate the laws relating to the emigration of Native Labourers) shall not apply to emigration to the Straits Settlements from the said territories, or to any contract for labour to be performed in the Straits Settlements by an emigrant from the said territories.

Interpretation-clause.

3. In this Act—

"Emigrate." "Emigrate" denotes the departure of any Native of India out of the said territories, under an engagement to labour in the said Settlements:

"Emigrant." "Emigrant" means a person who "emigrates" within the meaning of the above definition:

"Magistrate." "Magistrate" means a Magistrate of a District, a Magistrate of a division of a District, or any person appointed by the Local Government to perform the functions of a Magistrate under this Act:

"Vessel." "Vessel" includes anything made for the conveyance by water of human beings or property.

From what port emigration lawful.

4. It shall not be lawful to emigrate except from the Port of Negapatam, or from such other port as may from time to time be declared by the Local Government, by a notification in the Fort Saint George Gazette, to be a port from which emigration under this Act shall be lawful.

While any such notification is in force, all the provisions of this Act shall apply to the port mentioned in such notification in like manner as they apply to the Port of Negapatam.

The Local Government may, at any time, by a like notification, revoke any such notification.

II.—EMIGRATION AGENT.

Appointment of Emigration Agent.

5. The Government of the Straits Settlements may, from time to time, appoint such person as the Local Government approves, to act as Emigration Agent at the Port of Negapatam, or such other port as aforesaid.

The Emigration Agent so appointed may be suspended or removed by the Government of the Straits Settlements.

III.—PROTECTOR OF EMIGRANTS.

Appointment of Protector of Emigrants.

6. The Local Government shall direct the Magistrate of the division of the District in which the Town of Negapatam is situated, or such other Magistrate in Negapatam as it thinks fit, to act as Protector of Emigrants under this Act; and may, with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, assign to such Magistrate such establishment as it thinks fit.

General duties of Protector.

7. Such Protector of Emigrants, in addition to any special duties assigned to him by this Act, shall, so far as is in his power, protect and aid all emigrants with his advice or otherwise, and cause all the provisions of this Act to be duly complied with.

Inspection of vessels with return emigrants.

He shall also inspect on arrival all vessels bringing return emigrants to Negapatam, and inquire into the treatment received by such emigrants both during the period of their service in the Straits Settlements and also during the voyage, and shall make a report thereon to the Local Government.

He shall aid and advise such return emigrants, so far as he reasonably can, when called upon by them to do so.

IV.—EMIGRATION DEPÔT.

Establishment and licensing of depôt.

8. The Emigration Agent shall establish a suitable depôt for emigrants at Negapatam and at any such other port as aforesaid. Such depôt may be licensed by the Protector of Emigrants after being inspected and approved of by him.

Duration of license.

No such license shall be in force for a longer period than a year; and any such license may be cancelled by the Protector of Emigrants, if he considers that the depôt for which it was granted is unhealthy, or in any respect has become unsuitable for the purpose for which it was established, or if the Emigration Agent fails to comply with any of the requirements of this Act.

Fee for license.

For every such license the Emigration Agent shall pay to the Protector of Emigrants a fee of fifteen rupees.

Inspection by Protector.

9. The Protector of Emigrants may, at any time, examine into the state of the depôt and the manner in which the emigrants are therein lodged, fed, clothed, and otherwise provided for and attended to.

Agent and his subordinates to afford facilities for inspection.

The Emigration Agent and all persons in charge of, or employed in, the depôt shall give the Protector every facility for making such inspections as he may deem necessary or proper, and shall afford him all such information as he may require.

Supply of medical aid and comforts.

10. The Emigration Agent shall provide at the depôt such medical aid and comforts as the said Protector may from time to time direct.

V.—RECRUITERS OF LABOURERS.

Protector to license recruiters.

11. The Protector of Emigrants shall license so many fit persons, as he deems necessary, to be recruiters of labourers for the Straits Settlements; and no person shall engage or attempt to engage any Native of India to emigrate, or shall otherwise act or be employed as a recruiter of labourers, except under a license from the Protector of Emigrants.

Duration and cancelment of license.

12. No such license shall be in force for a longer period than one year; and in case of misconduct on the part of any recruiter, the Protector of Emigrants may cancel his license before the expiration of the period for which it was granted.

13. Every such license shall specify the local limits within which the person licensed may recruit labourers, and shall be in the form set forth in the first Schedule hereto annexed.

Form of license.

For every such license the recruiter shall pay to the Protector a fee of five rupees.

Fee for license.

14. No recruiter shall engage, or attempt to engage, labourers in any district without having first exhibited his license to a Magistrate in such district, and obtained the countersignature of such Magistrate thereupon.

Recruiter to obtain Magistrate's countersignature to license.

VI.—CONTRACTS WITH EMIGRANTS.

15. A contract made by a recruiter with a Native of India to emigrate shall not be enforceable by the recruiter or his principal unless it—

Conditions of validity of emigration contracts.

(a) is expressed in writing;

(b) purports to be executed by the recruiter on behalf of some principal in the Straits Settlements;

(c) states the terms, if any, agreed on as to the redemption of the recruit's engagement for employment, or of the unexpired term of such engagement;

(d) is registered in the manner provided in section nineteen.

But nothing contained in this section shall be deemed to prevent such Native from insisting, if he thinks fit, that such contract shall be performed.

16. Every such contract shall—

Contents of such contracts.

(a) contain an engagement for employment to be provided by such principal for a definite term not exceeding three years; and

(b) specify the nature of the services to be performed by such recruit and the rates of wages (not less than twelve cents a day for an able-bodied male adult) payable in respect of the same.

17. Save as provided by section fifteen, clause (c), every agreement entered into by a Native of India in the territories subject to the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council, to pay money to any person in the Straits Settlements, in consideration of pecuniary or other assistance given to such Native to emigrate, shall be illegal and void.

Certain agreements declared void.

Every contract not containing the particulars required by section sixteen shall be illegal and void.

18. Every recruit who has entered into such a contract as aforesaid shall be brought by the recruiter before the Civil Surgeon of the District, or such other Medical Officer as the Local Government appoints in this behalf, or in default of such appointment, before such Medical Officer as the Magistrate directs.

Medical examination of intending emigrants.

The Medical Officer shall thereupon examine the recruit, and shall either reject him or shall certify that he is in a fit state of health and able in point of physical condition to proceed to the Straits Settlements and to work there.

If it is intended that any persons shall accompany the recruit as his dependents, the recruiter shall also bring them before the Medical Officer for the purpose of obtaining certificates that they are in a fit state of health and able in point of physical condition to perform the journey to the Straits Settlements; and the Medical Officer shall examine such persons and shall give or refuse certificates according to his opinion as to their fitness and ability.

Dependents.

Certificates shall be in the form set forth in the second Schedule hereto annexed; and the recruiter shall pay to the Medical Officer such fee for each person so examined as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe.

Form of Certificates.

19. Every certified recruit and every accompanying dependent shall appear with the recruiter before a Magistrate in the district within which the contract with the recruit was entered into.

Emigrant to appear before Magistrate,

The Magistrate shall thereupon inspect the instrument of contract and the medical certificate of the recruit, and shall, apart from the recruiter, examine the recruit with reference to his contract.

and be examined.

If it appears on such examination that the recruit understands the nature of the contract he has entered into as regards the particulars specified in section sixteen, and that he is willing to fulfil the same, the Magistrate shall register

(a) the name, the father's name and the age of such recruit;

(b) the name of the village or place in which he resides:

(c) the port of embarkation to which it is intended he shall proceed:

(d) the particulars specified in section sixteen.

The recruit shall thereupon be deemed an emigrant under this Act.

If the Magistrate thinks that the recruit does not understand the nature of his contract, or has been induced to enter into it by fraud or misrepresentation, he shall refuse to register him, and record his reasons for such refusal.

Registration when to be refused.

20. On the appearance of any person claiming to be dependent on an emigrant, the Magistrate, after inspecting the medical certificate, shall, apart from the recruiter, examine such person if able to give intelligent answers to questions as to his dependence upon the emigrant whom he is about to accompany, and as to his willingness to accompany such emigrant.

Examination of dependents.

If the Magistrate is satisfied that such dependence and willingness exist, he shall register the dependent as a dependent on such emigrant.

But if the Magistrate sees reason to doubt the existence of such dependence or willingness, he may refuse to register the alleged dependent, and, if so, shall record his reasons for such refusal.

21. The Magistrate shall furnish to every emigrant an authenticated copy on substantial paper of the matters registered under sections nineteen and twenty.

Copies of registered matters.

22. A copy of every entry made in the registry book by a Magistrate shall be forthwith forwarded by such Magistrate to the Emigration Agent and to the Protector of Emigrants.

Copy of entry in register to be sent to Emigration Agent and Protector.

23. Registration under section nineteen and section twenty of emigrants recruited in the division of the district in which the town of Negapatam is situated, and of persons dependent on such emigrants, shall be effected before the Protector of Emigrants in the manner hereinbefore prescribed for registration before a Magistrate; and such Protector shall deliver one copy of the contract to the emigrant and another copy of the contract to the Emigration Agent.

Registration at Negapatam.

24. For the registration of every contract under section nineteen, the recruiter shall pay to the Magistrate or to the Protector of Emigrants, as the case may be, such fee as may be from time to time directed by the Local Government, not exceeding one rupee.

Fee for registration.

VII.—ARRIVAL AT DEPÔT AND PROCEDURE THEREON.

25. The arrival of each emigrant at the depôt shall immediately be reported by the person in charge of the depôt to the Emigration Agent, and by such Agent to the Protector of Emigrants.

Arrival at depôt to be reported.

26. The Emigration Agent shall, within forty-eight hours after the arrival of each emigrant at the depôt, question such emigrant as to the mode of his recruitment, and shall at the same time examine the copy of the contract furnished to the emigrant under section twenty-three.

Duty of Emigration Agent on arrival of emigrants.

If, for any reason, further inquiry is necessary, he shall make such enquiry forthwith.

27. The Protector of Emigrants shall attend personally at the examination of emigrants by the Emigration Agent under section twenty-six, except in the case of emigrants recruited in the division of the district in which the town of Negapatam is situated, and shall see that the Emigration Agent makes all such enquiries of the emigrants as it may be his duty to make.

Duty of Protector.

28. If in the opinion of the Protector of Emigrants the examination and enquiry made under section twenty-six disclose no valid reason against the fulfilment of the contract, and the emigrant has not become physically unfit for emigration, the Protector and the Emigration Agent shall countersign the emigrant's copy of the contract, and the Emigration Agent shall make out and deliver to the emigrant an embarkation pass signed by the Emigration Agent, and countersigned by the Protector, stating the name and the age of the emigrant and the name of his father, and certifying that he has been duly registered for emigration to the Straits Settlements.

Countersignature of contract.

Grant of embarkation pass.

29. If the Protector of Emigrants considers that any emigrant, not being an emigrant recruited in the division of the district in which the town of Negapatam is situated, is physically unfit to emigrate, and that he has not dishonestly represented himself as physically fit;

When the emigrant to be sent back to the place of registration.

or that any such irregularity has occurred in the recruitment of any such emigrant, as makes it just to vacate the contract;

or if the Emigration Agent refuses without the consent of the Protector to countersign the emigrant's copy of the contract as required by section twenty-eight, or to be bound by the contract;

the Protector of Emigrants may order the Emigration Agent, or the recruiter with whom the contract was made, forthwith to pay to him such reasonable sum as is necessary to enable such emigrant to return to the place where his contract was registered; and may take any steps he thinks necessary for the conveyance of such emigrant to such place.

Payment of expenses of sending him back.

30. On failure of the Emigration Agent or of such recruiter for twenty-four hours to comply with an order of the Protector for the payment of any such sum, the Protector may pay the same to, or on behalf of, the emigrant.

Failure of Emigration Agent, &c., to pay such expenses.

Every sum so paid shall be recoverable by the Protector, with six per cent. per annum interest from the date of payment, from the Emigration Agent, or from such recruiter, as money paid to the use of such Emigration Agent or recruiter.

No further proof shall be required by any Court in any such case than that the Protector gave such Emigration Agent or recruiter an order to pay such money, and that the Emigration Agent or recruiter for a space of twenty-four hours made default in complying therewith.

31. Every emigrant as aforesaid who, from his state of health, is, in the opinion of the Protector, unfit to undertake the journey back to the place where his contract was registered, shall, in addition to being conveyed back at the expense of the Emigration Agent or recruiter, be entitled to continue in the depôt, and to be fed, clothed, lodged and attended to there by and at the expense of the Emigration Agent until such time as the Protector otherwise orders.

Emigrant unfit from illness to return to the place of registration.

32. In every case in which the Emigration Agent refuses, without the consent of the Protector, to countersign, or be bound by a contract registered under section nineteen, or is chargeable with a breach of any duty which such contract expressly or by implication imposes upon him, the Protector may, if he thinks fit, institute a suit on behalf of the emigrant against the Emigration Agent for the recovery of damages for the breach of such contract.

Suits against Emigration Agent for breach of contract.

In every such suit the contract entered into by the recruiter shall be deemed to have been entered into by, and to be binding on, the Emigration Agent.

VIII.—EMIGRANT VESSELS.

33. No Master or other person in charge of a vessel shall receive on board such vessel any emigrant unless such vessel has been licensed, under the law for the time being in force relating to the carriage by sea of Native passengers, to carry passengers from the territories under the Government of Fort Saint George to the Straits of Malacca, and unless the Master of such vessel has obtained a certificate from the Protector of Emigrants authorizing him to receive on board the number of emigrants specified therein.

Emigrants not to be received on board vessels other than those licensed under Native Passengers Act, or without certificate from Protector.

No such certificate shall be granted by the Protector of Emigrants unless he has satisfied himself that the vessel has been licensed as aforesaid, and that provisions and water for the number of emigrants to be specified in the certificate according to the scale prescribed under such law have been actually put on board such vessel.

Protector not to grant certificate unless satisfied that vessel has been licensed and has provisions on board.

34. On embarkation every emigrant shall deliver to the Master of the vessel the embarkation pass granted to him under section twenty-eight, and the Master shall not receive any emigrant on board unless he delivers up such pass.

Emigrant to give his pass to Master.

35. The Emigration Agent shall be personally present at the embarkation of all emigrants, and shall see that the Master duly examines the passes of the emigrants, and shall himself also examine such passes.

Emigration Agent to be present at embarkation.

The Emigration Agent shall not permit any emigrant to remain on board who has not a pass.

36. The Master of every vessel carrying emigrants shall, after the embarkation of the emigrants, and before the departure of the vessel, give to the Emigration Agent a list signed by himself of all emigrants on board, and shall retain a counterpart of such list signed by the Emigration Agent.

Master to deliver list of emigrants.

A copy of such list signed by the Emigration Agent and Master shall be sent to the Protector of Emigrants before the vessel sails.

IX.—SUPPLEMENTARY POWERS.

37. Whenever the Governor General in Council has reason to believe that proper measures have not been taken for the protection of emigrants and the enforcement of the engagements entered into with them immediately upon their arrival at the Straits Settlements, or during their residence therein, the Governor General in Council may, by a notification published in the Gazette of India, declare that emigration to the said Settlements shall cease from a day to be specified in such notification.

Power to prohibit emigration to the Straits Settlements.

When any notification has been published under this section, emigration and the making of contracts to emigrate to the Straits Settlements shall be unlawful from the day specified in such notification.

38. Such notification may be revoked in like manner at the discretion of the Governor General in Council, and thereupon emigration to the said Settlements shall again be allowed from a day to be specified in the revocation.

Revocation of prohibition.

From the day so specified all the provisions of this Act authorizing emigration to the said Settlements shall be revived, and have the same effect as if such emigration had not been suspended, except as to acts done, offences committed, and proceedings commenced, during the time of such suspension.

X.—OFFENCES.

39. Whoever, except under and in conformity with the provisions of this Act, engages or attempts to engage any Native of India to emigrate,

Making unlawful contract of labour.

or whoever engages or attempts to engage any Native of India to enter into any such contract as is hereby declared illegal, or, not being a recruiter duly licensed under this Act, acts or is employed as a recruiter of labourers,

Recruiting without being licensed.

or being a duly licensed recruiter, removes or attempts to remove any emigrant whom he engages in any district from such district without the contract with such emigrant having been duly registered under section nineteen,

Recruiter omitting to take engaged labourers before Magistrate or Protector.

shall be punished with imprisonment, which may extend to six months, or with fine not exceeding five hundred rupees, or with both.

40. Whoever, by means of intoxication, violence, fraud, or false pretences, causes or induces or attempts to cause or induce any Native of India to emigrate or to enter into any contract to emigrate, or into any such contract as is hereby declared illegal, or to proceed to the said Settlements without having entered into any contract, shall be punished with imprisonment, which may extend to three years, or with fine or with both.

Use of force, fraud, &c., to cause a Native to emigrate.

41. Whoever, without lawful authority, issues any written order, to the police to assist himself or any other person to procure labourers to proceed to the said Settlements, or falsely represents that such labourers are required by the Government, or are to be engaged on behalf of the Government, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

False representation of Government authority.

42. Any Master of a vessel not licensed as provided in section thirty-three who knowingly receives on board, for conveyance to the said Settlements, any emigrant or person who has entered into a contract hereby declared illegal,

Receiving emigrants on board without license or certificate.

and any Master of a vessel licensed as aforesaid, who knowingly receives any emigrant as aforesaid without having previously obtained a certificate under the said section, or in excess of the number specified in such certificate, shall be liable for each emigrant or person so received to imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months, and also to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees, and the vessel shall be liable to be forfeited.

43. Any Master of a vessel who receives on board such vessel any emigrant for the said Settlements and fails to comply with the requirements of sections thirty-four and thirty-six, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees.

Failure to comply with requirements of sections 34 and 36.

44. Any Master of a vessel who having cleared such vessel for the said Settlements, takes on board any emigrant not entered in the list mentioned in section thirty-six, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees for every emigrant so taken on board.

Taking on board, after clearance, emigrants not entered in list.

45. All the powers vested by law in the officers of Customs in regard to the searching and detention of vessels, or otherwise, for the prevention of smuggling on board thereof, may be exercised by such officers for the prevention and detection of the illegal embarkation of emigrants on board vessels bound for the said Settlements and of other offences against this Act.

Customs officers may search and detain for purposes of this Act.

46. All prosecutions under this Act shall be instituted by the Emigration Agent, or by the Protector of Emigrants, or by an officer appointed for the purpose by the Local Government.

Prosecutions under this Act by whom to be instituted.

XI.—MISCELLANEOUS.

47. Nothing in this Act shall apply to any vessel in the service of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, or to any of Her Majesty's vessels.

Act not to apply to certain vessels,

48. Nothing in this Act shall apply to any contract with, or the emigration of, any Native seaman, or other person who of his own free will contracts to navigate or serve on board of any vessel, or who embarks on board such vessel in pursuance of such contract, or any person who contracts to serve as a menial servant only and who embarks as such menial servant.

or to contracts with Native seamen and menial servants.

49. The Emigration Agent and all persons employed by him and the Protector of Emigrants shall be deemed to be public servants within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

Emigration Agent and his subordinates and Protector of Emigrants to be deemed public servants.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The circumstances which make special legislation necessary to regulate emigration from the Madras Presidency to the Straits Settlements were fully explained in Council on the 6th June 1872, when leave was asked to introduce the Bill which passed as Act XIV of 1872. The Bill then introduced was intended merely to make temporary provision for a pressing emergency, and it was stated that a further measure to make permanent provision, in all requisite detail, for emigration to the Straits was then under preparation in communication with the Colonial Government and would afterwards be introduced. Some time, as might have been expected, has passed in arranging with the Government of the Straits the details of the present Bill and of the corresponding Ordinance intended to be passed by the Straits Legislative Council.

2. The law of the Straits Settlements has either been, or will soon be, placed on a permanent footing, and it is desirable that no further delay should take place in carrying out the legislation requisite here.

3. The present Bill, it will be seen, is based on the Indian Emigration Act, 1871. It differs from that Act, however, in two important respects. In the first place, the provisions it contains regarding the conveyance of emigrants to the depôt, the equipment of emigrant vessels, the embarkation of the emigrants, &c., are of a less detailed and stringent nature than the corresponding provisions of the Act of 1871. As was observed in the discussions which led to the passing of Act XIV of 1872, it would be absurd to hamper emigration to a Colony which may be reached in eight or ten days with regulations designed for a voyage like that to the West Indies.

4. The other point in which the present Bill differs from the Act of 1871 (and on this point it is more stringent than the Act of 1871) is in regard to contracts between recruiters and emigrants. The conditions of emigration from Madras to the Straits Settlements are somewhat different from those which prevail in other Colonies drawing their supplies of labour from India. The law in these other Colonies places upon the Government the responsibility for the fulfilment of the conditions under which the emigrant leaves his home; the immigrants are received by Government Agents on their arrival, and allotted to employers by these Agents; contracts are made on their behalf by Government, and Government undertakes to provide them with a free passage to India on the completion of their term of service, or sooner if they become disabled.

5. In the Straits Settlements, on the other hand, the contract has hitherto been confined to the emigrant and the individual employer; and the function of Government has been merely to watch over its due fulfilment by both parties. It is still intended that contracts shall be made in the first instance between emigrants and individual employers; and therefore it becomes specially necessary in the case of an emigrant to the Straits to make sure that the contract entered into by him before he leaves India distinctly provides for those points on which the Government of India is in the habit of insisting as essential. Hence the additional rules regarding the form and contents of contracts laid down in sections fifteen and sixteen of the present Bill.

6. It is however desired by the Government of India that the Government of the Straits Settlements shall guarantee to emigrants the performance of certain important conditions of their contracts, if the employers fail to perform them. It is also thought expedient to declare expressly that contracts made in Madras by Natives for repayment of money in the Straits Settlements, in consideration of assistance to leave India, shall be void except for the purpose of redeeming their contracts to work.

7. It will be observed that the present Bill proposes to repeal Act XIV of 1872, and thereby, so far as regards all India except Madras, to remit the Straits Settlements to the position they were in before the passing of that Act. That is to say, as regards all India except the Madras Presidency, emigration to the Straits Settlements will not be lawful, and cannot be made lawful except under the provisions of the Emigration Act of 1871. The reason for this state of things will be found stated in the proceedings of Council before referred to. The peculiarities of the labour traffic between Madras and the Straits Settlements are its long duration, the existence of a large Tamil population in the Straits, and the proximity of the two countries. These circumstances do not affect any part of India except Madras.

PRELIMINARY.

We have amended the definition of 'pleader' so as to make it include an attorney of a High Court, and have modified the definition of 'subordinate' Court so as to give District Courts power to control Courts of Small Causes, and we have added definitions of 'Judge,' 'judgment-debtor,' 'decree-holder,' 'affidavit' and 'public officer.' With the view of encouraging printing in legal proceedings, we have defined 'written' to include 'printed' and 'lithographed.' We have also amended the definition of 'Foreign Court' so as to exclude the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. We have saved the Central Provinces Courts Act, 1865, the Panjáb Courts Act, 1865, Act XXVII of 1867, and all local laws prescribing a special procedure between landlord and tenant. We have struck out the obsolete references to trials by military officers of small suits in Madras and to District and Military Panchâyats in that Presidency.

CHAPTER I.—OF THE JURISDICTION OF THE COURTS AND RES JUDICATA.

We have amended the section (13) as to res judicata (a) by extending it so as to provide for estoppels against defendants, (b) by explaining, in accordance with a decision in 10 Bom. 293, that any matter which might and ought to have been made ground of defence in a former suit brought by the defendant against the plaintiff shall be deemed to be a matter substantially in issue in such suit, and (c) by providing that decisions alterable on review may be final within the meaning of this section. We have also struck out the clause relating to decisions obtained by arrangement; and we have omitted the illustrations as unnecessary.

CHAPTER II.—OF THE PLACE OF SUING.

We have here provided (section 15) for the venue of suits for compensation for wrongs to immoveable property. In section 19 we have provided for giving notice of motions to stay proceedings where the whole cause of action did not arise within the jurisdiction and all the defendants do not reside therein. Where a Court stays proceedings, we have declared (section 20) that the time required for proceeding from that Court to the Court in which the suit is re-instituted shall be excluded in computing the proper period of limitation.

We have provided (sections 21, 22, 23) for giving notice to the plaintiff where the defendant applies to transfer a suit capable of being instituted in different Courts (a) subordinate to the same Appellate Court, or (b) not so subordinate.

CHAPTER III.—OF PARTIES, THEIR APPEARANCES, APPLICATIONS AND ACTS.

For sections 27, 28, 29, 30, 40 and 41 of Bill No. III, we have substituted eight sections as to parties, taken, with some modifications, from the Orders framed under the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1875.

We have provided (section 37) that certificated mukhtárs holding special powers of attorney may be recognized agents, and declared that in the Panjáb, Oudh and the Central Provinces recognized agents shall be such persons as the Local Government may by notification declare. This will enable the Local Government to keep, if it thinks fit, the special rules on this subject now in force in those territories.

We have amended the section (41) relating to the appointment of agents to receive process.

CHAPTER IV.—OF THE FRAME OF THE SUIT.

For the sections (44, 45, 46, 47) of Bill No. III, as to joinder of causes of action and multifariousness, we have substituted four sections taken from the Orders above mentioned. When the plaint is amended by excluding any cause of action, we have provided (section 47) that the amendment shall be attested by the Judge's signature.

CHAPTER V.—OF THE INSTITUTION OF SUITS.

We have here provided (section 49) that where English is not the language of the Court, the plaint may, with the permission of the Judge and the consent of the defendant, be in English.

Where the plaintiff has allowed a set-off, or relinquished part of his claim, we have required (section 50) that his plaint should state the amount so allowed or relinquished.

We think that, when once issues have been settled, the plaint should not be rejected, returned for amendment or amended; and we have altered section 53 (=52 of Bill No. III) accordingly. We have provided (section 52) for examining the witness to the verification. We have provided (section 54) for the rejection, &c., of the plaint if it is not framed so as to afford ground for a single decision on the whole subject in dispute and for the attestation of the amendments by the signature of the Judge. Where a plaint is returned we have required (section 57) that the endorsement be made by the Judge himself.

When the plaint is admitted we have required (section 58) the plaintiff to present as many copies as there are defendants, unless the Court permits him to file a like number of concise statements of the nature of the claim made, in which case he will file a like number of such statements. We have made provision in the same section for ascertaining the correctness of these copies and statements and of the memoranda of documents filed with the plaint.

Where the plaintiff relies on documents not in his possession, we have provided (section 60) that he shall state in whose possession they are, and where they are in the possession of a stranger to the suit, that he shall take out a summons requiring them to be filed in Court.

From the operation of the section (63) declaring the inadmissibility as evidence for the plaintiff of documents not produced when the plaint is filed, we have excluded documents produced for the examination of the defendant's witnesses or in answer to any case set up by him.

CHAPTER VI.—OF THE ISSUE AND SERVICE OF SUMMONS.

We have provided (section 65) that no summons to the defendant to appear and answer shall be issued when he has appeared at the presentation of the plaint and admitted the plaintiff's claim.

Even where railway communication exists, we think that no party should be ordered to appear in person who resides more than two hundred miles from the Court-house, and we altered section 67 (=section 64 of Bill No. III) accordingly.

Where the defendants are partners, we have provided (section 74) for service of the summons on any person having the management of the partnership business.

For the purpose of the section (76) relating to service on an agent by whom the defendant carries on business, we have declared that the master of a ship is the agent of the owner or charterer.

We think (section 81) that the practice of fixing a copy of the summons on the defendant's house should be discontinued, and that when he refuses to receive the copy or sign the acknowledgment of service, and where the serving-officer cannot find the defendant, and there is no one on whom service can be made, the serving-officer should return the summons with an endorsement that he has been unable to serve it, and we have required (section 82) the Court to examine him on oath touching the non-service. A similar provision, where the summons is sent to another Court to be served, is made in section 85.

We have inserted a section (84 = section 58 of Act VIII of 1859) providing that when service is substituted by order of the Court, a time shall be fixed for the defendant's appearance.

We have provided (section 95) for the service of notices and orders in writing.

CHAPTER VII.—OF THE APPEARANCE OF THE PARTIES AND CONSEQUENCE OF NON-APPEARANCE.

Where neither party appears, we think (section 98) that the suit need not be dismissed when the Judge for reasons recorded under his hand otherwise directs. Where the plaintiff does not appear, but the defendant appears and admits part only of the plaintiff's claim, we have provided (section 102) that the Court shall dismiss the suit so far as relates to the remainder. Where the defendant appears and the suit is wholly or partially dismissed owing to the non-appearance of the plaintiff, and the plaintiff applies for an order to set the dismissal aside, we have provided in the same section that the defendant shall be served with notice of the application.

We have added to this chapter sections corresponding with chapter XXIII of Bill No. III as to setting aside decrees by default and ex parte.

CHAPTER VIII.—OF WRITTEN STATEMENTS AND SET-OFF.

To the section corresponding with section 105 of Bill No. III, we have added a few illustrations and a clause expressly providing that where the defendant, for the purpose of bringing the sum to be set-off within the pecuniary limits of the Court's jurisdiction, intentionally relinquishes any portion of his claim against the plaintiff, the provision in section 43, barring subsequent suits for sums so relinquished by plaintiffs, shall not apply.

We have allowed (section 112) written statements to be received, with the permission of the Court, at any time for the purpose of answering written statements made by the opposite party at the first hearing. And we think (section 115) that the Court should be expressly empowered to examine witnesses as to the signatures to written statements.

We have provided (section 117) that allegations of fact in written statements shall, if not denied, or stated to be not admitted, by the opposite party, be taken to be admitted for the purposes of the suit. We have here made no exception of minors and persons of unsound mind, and in this respect, and in the insertion of the words italicised, the section differs from the English Order XIX, rule 17.

CHAPTER IX.—OF THE EXAMINATION OF THE PARTIES BY THE COURT.

We have here provided (section 118) that the Court may, if it think fit, put in the course of the examination questions suggested by either party, and (section 119) that the substance of the examination shall be reduced to writing by the Judge and form part of the record.

CHAPTER X.—OF DISCOVERY AND OF THE ADMISSION, INSPECTION, PRODUCTION, IMPOUNDING AND RETURN OF DOCUMENTS.

The first seven sections of this chapter are new. They empower parties to deliver interrogatories in writing and provide for inquiring into the propriety of exhibiting them, for striking out improper interrogatories, for making objections to answering interrogatories, and for compelling persons to answer sufficiently. They correspond with the English Order XXXI, rules 1 to 10.

As to the admission of documents, we have amended section 128 (=113 of Bill No. III) by requiring the demand for admission to be served through the Court.

We have inserted sections (129, 130) empowering the Court to order production during the suit, and to direct parties to make discovery of documents relating to matters in question. And we have amplified (sections 131, 132, 133) the section (114) of Bill No. III relating to inspection of documents.

Where any discovery or inspection is objected to, and the Court is satisfied that the right to such discovery or inspection depends on the determination of any question in dispute in the suit, we have empowered (section 135) the Court to order that question to be first determined.

We have declared (section 136) that any person disobeying any order to answer interrogatories or for discovery or inspection, which has been served personally upon him, shall be deemed guilty of an offence under section 188 of the Penal Code, and that he shall also, if a plaintiff, be liable to have his suit dismissed, and, if a defendant, to be placed in the same position as if he had not defended.

The power which the Courts now possess under Act VIII of 1859, section 138, of sending for papers from nonjudicial public offices has, we find, been abused. We have therefore withdrawn this power, and persons applying to the Court to send for papers from judicial records will be required (section 137) to show that they cannot obtain the originals or authenticated copies.

We have expressly confined the section (138) requiring documentary evidence to be in readiness at the first hearing to documents in the possession or power of the parties.

We have provided (section 141) that no document shall be placed on the record unless it has been regularly proved or admitted. In the absence of such a provision questions frequently arise on appeal as to whether a document was in evidence or not.

We have provided (section 144) for the return of documents in suits in which an appeal is not allowed, and in all cases we have authorized their return when certified copies are delivered to the proper officer.

CHAPTER XI.—OF THE SETTLEMENT OF ISSUES.

We have exempted (section 146) the Court from the duty of framing and recording issues where the defendant at the first hearing makes no defence. When issues both of law and of fact arise in the same suit, and the Court considers that the case may be disposed of on the issues of law only, we have provided in the same section that the Court shall (not 'may') try the issues of law first. This, we think, will save expense, and will prevent cases being remanded for trial of issues of fact which, in the result, prove wholly irrelevant. As to issues by agreement of parties, we have provided (section 150) that, unless with the special permission of the Judge, no such agreement shall be filed after the Court has recorded issues in the suit.

CHAPTER XII.—OF THE DISPOSAL OF THE SUIT AT THE FIRST HEARING.

We have here made no change requiring notice.

CHAPTER XIII.—OF ADJOURNMENTS.

We think that the provision in section 138 of Bill No. III that, when the hearing of evidence has once begun, the hearing of the suit shall not be adjourned, except from day to day, might occasionally have led to great inconvenience. We have therefore in section 156 substituted the following: "Provided that, when the hearing of evidence has once begun, the hearing of the suit shall be continued from day to day until all the witnesses in attendance have been examined, unless the Court finds the adjournment of the hearing to be absolutely necessary for reasons to be recorded by the hand of the Judge."

CHAPTER XIV.—OF THE SUMMONING AND ATTENDANCE OF WITNESSES.

We have omitted the power to insert in a summons the names of any number of persons. We have declared (section 165) that the rules contained in chapter VI as to proof of service shall apply in the case of all summonses served on persons required to give evidence or produce documents. Before attaching the property of a witness alleged to have absconded, we think that the serving officer should be examined on oath touching the non-service, and we have made a provision to this effect in section 167. We have omitted as useless the provision of the present law as to payment by the Collector of the costs of summoning a witness.

We have provided (section 173) that no witness who has been summoned and attends shall depart, unless he has been examined and the Court has risen, or he has obtained the Court's leave to go.

We have empowered (section 174) the Court to inflict a fine of Rs. 500 on persons failing to prove that they had a lawful excuse for not obeying the summons; and we have provided that non-payment or non-tender of reasonable viaticum shall be deemed a lawful excuse. When any such person is brought before the Court and cannot, owing to the absence of parties, give the evidence or produce the document which he has been summoned to produce or give, we have by the same section authorized the Court to release him on bail.

We have declared (section 177) that no witness shall be bound to attend in person unless he resides (a) within the local limits of the Court's original jurisdiction, or (b) without those limits and less than fifty or (where there is railway communication) two hundred miles from the Court-house. It is obvious that there should be some limit beyond which parties should not be required to travel even by railway.

We have struck out the six sections (157 to 163 of Bill No. III) relating to the examination of parties as witnesses. This matter seems sufficiently provided for by the declaration contained in section 178 (=section 165 of Bill No. III), that when any party to a suit is summoned as a witness, the rules as to witnesses contained in the Code shall apply to him so far as they are applicable.

CHAPTER XV.—OF THE HEARING OF THE SUIT AND EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES.

We have inserted (section 179) rules as to the right to begin.

We have provided (section 184) that any Judge may take down the evidence in English if the Local Government permits him to do so, or if the parties do not object.

Where the Judge taking down any evidence is removed from the Court before the conclusion of the suit, we have empowered (section 191) his successor to deal with the evidence as if he himself had taken it down.

Where a witness about to leave the jurisdiction is examined immediately, we have provided (section 192) that his evidence before being used as such shall be read over to him and, if he admits it to be correct, signed by him.

We have empowered the Court (section 193), at any stage of the suit, to recall and re-examine a witness who has not departed.

CHAPTER XVI.—OF AFFIDAVITS.

This chapter is wholly new. It empowers the Court to order any particular fact to be proved by affidavit: provides that evidence may be given by affidavit on any application or petition: indicates the matters to which affidavits should be confined: and lastly, specifies the officers by whom the oaths of declarants may be administered.

CHAPTER XVII.—OF JUDGMENT AND DECREE.

In accordance with a ruling of the Calcutta High Court, we have authorized (section 199) a Judge to deliver a judgment written by his predecessor but not delivered.

We think that, as a rule, the judgment should be written in the language of the Court, but we have provided (section 200) that if such language be not English or the Judge's mother-tongue, the judgment may be written either in English or his mother-tongue. We think (section 201) that the judgment need not be translated, unless any of the parties so require.

We have provided (section 202) that the judgment shall not be altered or added to, save to correct verbal errors or on review.

We think (section 203) that all judgments (save those of Small Cause Courts) should contain a concise statement of the case in addition to the matters mentioned in section 183 of Bill No. III.

We have provided (section 205) that the Judge before signing the decree shall satisfy himself that it has been drawn up in accordance with the judgment.

We have given power to amend the decree not only when it is at variance with the judgment, but also in case of clerical or arithmetical errors: but in all such cases we have provided (section 206) for notice to the parties or their pleaders.

In money-decrees, we think (section 209) that the interest allowed from the date of the decree should not exceed six per cent. per annum. This, we hope, will abolish the practice of treating such decrees as desirable investments.

We think (section 210) that no application for an order to pay the amount of a decree by instalments should be allowed after six months from the date of the decree, and we have provided for notice to the plaintiff of such applications.

In administering the assets of persons dying after the Code comes into force, we have provided (section 213) that the Courts shall be guided by the same rules as to rights of creditors, proveable debts and valuation of annuities, and future and contingent liabilities, as are in force as to the estates of persons adjudged insolvent, and that all persons who would be entitled to dividends out of the estate of any such deceased person, may come in under the decree and make their claims against the estate. We have declared in the same section that applications under section 265 of the Indian Contract Act, to wind up the business of a partnership, shall be deemed to be administration suits.

We think (section 216) that certified copies of the judgment and decree should not be furnished except at the expense of the parties applying for them.

CHAPTER XVIII.—OF COSTS.

We have here made no substantial change.

CHAPTER XIX.—OF THE EXECUTION OF DECREES.

We have distributed the matter of this long and important chapter under eight heads, namely, (a) Courts by which decrees may be executed, (b) application for execution, (c) staying execution, (d) the mode of executing decrees, (e) attachment of property, (f) sale and delivery of property, (g) resistance to execution, and (h) arrest and imprisonment.

Courts by which decrees may be executed.

For section 330 of Bill No. III, we have substituted a section (223) as to the Court by which a decree may be executed, and prescribing the procedure for sending a decree for execution to a Court other than that which passed it. When the Court passing the decree is subordinate to a District Court, we think it should send the decree to the District Court to which it is subordinate and that such Court should deal with the decree as if it had been passed by itself.

Application for execution.

When a decree has been transferred by assignment, we have provided (section 232) that notice of any application to execute it shall be given to the transferor and the judgment-debtor, and that it shall not be executed until the Court has heard their objections (if any) to such execution.

When the judgment-debtor dies before the decree is fully executed, and application is made to have it executed against his legal representative to the extent of the assets which are in his hands, we have empowered (section 234) the Court to compel the representative to produce his accounts.

We think (section 235) that applications for the execution of decrees should be verified like plaints, and that they should state whether any and what previous applications have been made, and with what result.

We have provided (section 236) for the verification of the descriptions of immoveable property sought to be attached.

The mode of executing decrees.

In section 244 (=section 329 of Bill No. III) we have omitted the clause as to questions relating to sums alleged to have been paid in discharge or satisfaction of a decree. This will get rid of the ambiguity arising from the provisions of section 206 of Act VIII of 1859 as compared with section 11 of Act XXIII of 1861.

We have directed (section 245) that applications for execution shall be rejected or returned for amendment when the needful particulars or inventories are wanting. Every such amendment will be attested by the Judge's signature. We have provided in the same section that in executing a decree for money, the value of the property attached shall as nearly as possible correspond with the amount of the decree.

We have omitted as useless the clause as to the execution of a decree for the share of a dwelling-house of an undivided Hindú family.

When a decree against a surety is executed, we have provided (section 253) for giving him previous notice.

We have introduced a section (254 = Order xlii, Rule 8) providing for the execution of a decree against partners in the name of the firm.

We have provided (section 258) that, when moneys payable under a decree are paid out of Court to the decree-holder, he shall certify the payment to the Court whose duty it is to execute the decree. We have omitted the proviso in section 203 of Bill No. III that decrees for the recovery of wives were to be declaratory only. We are informed that, in the Panjáb at least, such a rule would have worked unsatisfactorily.

We have provided (section 260) for the enforcement of injunctions, and declared in the same section that no attachment issued to enforce an injunction, or a decree for specific performance, shall remain in force for more than a year.

Attachment of Property.

We have exempted (section 266) from attachment and sale in execution of a decree the following articles:—the necessary wearing apparel of the judgment-debtor's wife and children, the tools of artizans: implements of husbandry: cattle kept bond fide for agricultural purposes: the materials of houses and other buildings belonging to and occupied by agriculturists: political pensions: the salaries of servants of Railway Companies: the pay and allowances of persons to whom the Native Articles of War apply: the wages of labourers and domestic servants.

We think that general attachments of the moveable property of judgment-debtors should no longer be permitted, and we have accordingly struck out the clauses (210, 235, 236, and part of 231) of Bill No. III relating to this subject. Ample power to obtain discovery as to such property is given by section 267.

We have provided (section 268) that no attachment to enforce a decree for a specific moveable shall remain in force for more than six months, at the end of which time, if the judgment-debtor has not obeyed the decree, the property attached may be sold, and out of the proceeds the Court may award the decree-holder such compensation as it thinks fit, and pay the balance to the judgment-debtor.

We have empowered (section 269) the Local Government to make rules for the maintenance and custody of livestock and other moveable property while under attachment, and directed the attaching officer to act in accordance with such rules.

We have provided rules (section 271) for the attachment of moveable property in rooms actually occupied by native women.

We have introduced a section (273) dealing with the attachment of decrees.

We have provided (section 275) for withdrawing an attachment when the decree under which it has been made is set aside or reversed.

We have struck out the section (307 of Bill No. III = section 272 of Act VIII of 1859) empowering the Court to order the proceeds of property attached under a decree obtained fraudulently to be paid in satisfaction of another decree. The power is rarely used, and the case contemplated is, we think, one for a regular suit, not a summary proceeding.

Sale and delivery of Property.

We think (section 288) that the proclamation of execution sales should state the incumbrances (if any) to which the interest about to be sold is liable, and we have provided that no Judge, &c., shall be answerable for error in the proclamation unless it has been committed dishonestly.

We have struck out the clause (section 280 of Bill No. III) allowing process for attachment and sale of moveables to be issued either successively or simultaneously.

We have provided (section 291) for adjournments of execution-sales, and for stopping them on tender of the debt and costs, or on proof that the amount has been paid into the Court which ordered the sale.

We have forbidden (section 292) all officers conducting or otherwise concerned in sales to bid for or purchase the property sold.

In lieu of providing that the attaching creditor shall be first paid out of the assets realized, and that the surplus shall be distributed amongst the other execution-creditors, we have declared (section 295) that such assets shall (after deducting the costs) be divided rateably among all persons who have, prior to the realization, applied for execution of money-decrees against the judgment-debtor and have not obtained satisfaction. We have also provided that when any property liable to be sold in execution is subject to a mortgage, the Court may, with the assent of the mortgagee, order that the property be sold free from the mortgage, giving to the mortgagee, the same right against the proceeds as he had against the property sold.

Courts inferior to District Courts should not, in our opinion (section 303), have power to sell immoveable property in execution of a decree; but when any such inferior Court thinks that such a sale should be made, we have provided (section 304) that such Court shall refer the case to the District Court to which it is subordinate, and declared that the District Court may then sell as if the decree had been made by itself.

We have amended the section (309) empowering the co-sharer in an undivided estate to claim at sale price a share of such estate sold in execution. If the claim be made before sunset on the day of sale and the claimant then repay to the purchaser the amount of his deposit, the claimant will be substituted for the auctiou-purchaser.

We have fixed (section 312) sixty days as the time within which the purchaser of immoveable property may apply to set aside the sale on the ground that the judgment-debtor had no legally saleable interest therein.

We have by section 316 provided (in accordance with Act XI of 1859, section 28, and Schedule A) that the purchase shall be deemed to take effect from the date of the attachment.

As to sales of land by Collectors, we have substituted for section 276 of Bill No. III a clause (320) providing that the Local Government may, transfer to the Collector of any District the execution of decrees in cases in which a Court has ordered any interest in immoveable property to be sold. And we think (section 321) that whenever the execution of a decree has been so transferred, the Collector, if he thinks that the debts of the judgment-debtor can be discharged without a sale of the whole of the property, should, notwithstanding the order, have power to sell only part, or to mortgage the whole or any part, of the land, or to let or manage it himself for a term not exceeding twenty years from the date of the order. Where the Collector lets or manages we have provided (sections 322, 323) for giving notice to the judgment-creditors to come in; for excluding all other claimants from any right to payment out of the proceeds; for preventing the debtor from incumbering during the term the property so let or managed; and, if at the end of the term the requisite amount has not been raised, for selling such property. Where the Collector sells or exercises the power to mortgage, let or manage, we have required him (section 324) to inform the Court which made the order of sale, to render accounts to such Court and to hold the balance in his hands at its disposal.

Where the sale of immoveable property has been postponed to enable the judgment-debtor to raise the amount of the decree, and the Court authorizes him to sell, mortgage or let the property, we have provided (section 324) that all moneys payable under such sale, mortgage or lease shall be paid into Court and not to the judgment-debtor.

We have omitted (section 325) as unnecessary the power to order security to be taken from the defendant when the Court authorizes the Collector to stay the public sale of land. We have expressly empowered the Local Government (section 326) to make special rules for any territory prohibiting the sale of any class of interests in land in execution of money-decrees.

Arrest and Imprisonment.

We have provided (section 335) that a judgment-debtor may be arrested in execution at any hour and on any day, and that he shall thereupon be brought before the Court, except when the decree is for money and the judgment-debtor pays the amount of the decree and the costs of the arrest. When he is brought before the Court we have directed the Judge to inform him that he may obtain relief under Chapter XX, and if he express his intention so to apply, and if he furnish security for his appearance at any time when called upon, the Court will release him.

When the judgment-debtor fails to pay the amount of principal and interest, we have directed (section 337) the serving-officer to bring him before the Court, and when the serving-officer cannot execute the warrant, we think (section 343) that the Court should examine him on oath as to his inability.

We think (section 339) that no judgment-debtor should be arrested unless and until the decree-holder pays into Court a proper sum for the subsistence of the judgment-debtor from his arrest until he is brought before the Court. We have empowered the Local Government to fix scales of monthly allowances for the subsistence of judgment-debtors in prison.

As to imprisonment in execution of a decree, we have provided (section 341) that a judgment-debtor may be discharged from jail without the order of the Court when the term of his imprisonment is completed; and we think (section 342) that no person should be imprisoned for a longer period than six months, or when the decree is for the payment of a sum not more than Rs. 50, for a longer period than six weeks.

CHAPTER XX.—INSOLVENT JUDGMENT-DEBTORS.

We have here made numerous small amendments, the chief of which are the following:—As to fraudulent transfers, we think (section 351) that the Court need only see that they were not made within two months next before the date of the decree in execution of which the insolvent was arrested or imprisoned. We have provided (section 352) that all creditors, whether mentioned or not in the debtor's application, shall prove their debts. We have provided (section 355) that the receiver of the insolvent's property shall give security, and (section 356) that he may retain as remuneration five per cent. upon the amount of the balance distributed to the creditors. And we have reduced (section 359) from two years to one year the term for which a fraudulent insolvent may be imprisoned.

CHAPTER XXI.—OF THE DEATH, MARRIAGE AND INSOLVENCY OF PARTIES.

We have added two illustrations to the section (361) as to non-abatement by death where the cause of action survives.

We have provided a limitation (sections 364, 366) for applications under this chapter.

When a suit abates or is dismissed under this chapter, we have permitted (section 371) the person claiming to be the plaintiff's representative to apply to set aside the order of abatement or dismissal.

We have provided (section 372) for cases of assignment pending the suit.

CHAPTER XXII.—OF THE WITHDRAWAL AND ADJUSTMENT OF SUITS.

We have provided here (section 373) for the case of abandonment of part of the plaintiff's claim, and (section 375) for the finality of decrees passed in accordance with compromises. We have made no other substantial change.

CHAPTER XXIII.—OF PAYMENT INTO COURT.

We have given the Court (section 376) a discretionary power with regard to the payment of deposits in Court to the plaintiff.

Where the Court decides that the defendant's deposit was a full satisfaction of the plaintiff's claim, we have provided (section 379) that the plaintiff shall pay, not the costs of the suit, but the costs incurred after the deposit and the costs incurred previous thereto, so far as they were caused by excess in the plaintiff's claim.

CHAPTER XXIV.—OF REQUIRING SECURITY FOR COSTS.

We think that the plaintiff should not be required to furnish security for costs unless a defendant so require. We have altered this chapter (section 380) accordingly.

CHAPTER XXVI.—OF COMMISSIONS.

When a Court inferior to a District Court issues a commission to examine a person residing within its jurisdiction, we have provided (section 385) that the selection of the person to execute the commission shall be subject to such rules as the District Court may prescribe.

We have provided (section 386) that any District Court and Court of Small Causes may issue commissions for the examination of officers of Government who cannot attend the Court without detriment to the public service, and of persons who are about to leave the jurisdiction before the date on which the suit in which their evidence is required is set down for hearing.

No Court inferior to a District Court, other than a Court of Small Causes, should, we think, issue commissions for the examination of persons resident beyond its jurisdiction. We have made a provision to this effect in section 386.

We have declared (section 391) that the provisions contained in this chapter as to the execution and return of commissions shall apply to commissions issued by Foreign Courts. We have struck out the section (385 of the Bill No. III) as to taking the evidence of prisoners. The matter is sufficiently provided for by the Prisoners' Testimony Act.

We have extended to proceedings as well as to suits the sections (392, 395) as to commissions for local investigations, and to examine accounts. In the case of the former class of commissions, when the Local Government has made rules as to the persons to be appointed commissioners, we have required the Court to comply with such rules.

CHAPTER XXVI.—SUITS BY PAUPERS.

We have added (section 402) libel to the list of civil injuries in respect of which a pauper should not be allowed to sue as such.

We think (section 407) that a pauper suing on the original side of the High Court should show that he does not possess property worth Rs. 100 except his wearing apparel and the subject-matter of the suit; and as to fraudulent disposals of property by a pauper, we have provided that the Court need only consider whether such disposal was effected within the two months next before the presentation of the pauper's petition.

We have struck out the sections (406, 407 of Bill No. III) authorizing parties to obtain summonses to witnesses and empowering the Court to make local investigations.

We have provided (section 411) that the Court-fees which would have been payable by the plaintiff, if he had not been allowed to sue as a pauper, shall be a first charge on the subject-matter, if any, recovered by him.

We think (section 414) the plaintiff should be dispaupered if he has entered into any agreement under which any other person has obtained an interest in the subject-matter of the suit.

CHAPTER XXVII.—SUITS BY OR AGAINST GOVERNMENT AND PUBLIC OFFICERS.

We think (section 416) that suits against Government and against public officers for acts done in their official capacity should not be instituted in any Court inferior to a District Court (a similar provision is made by the Bombay Civil Courts Act XIV of 1869, section 32); but we have provided that any such suit may be transferred to a subordinate Court.

We think (section 420) that in suits against a public officer, as well as in those against Government, the summons should be served on the Government Pleader, or on some person appointed to receive process in behalf of Government.

We have provided (section 424) that no suit shall be brought against Government or against a public officer as such until two months next after delivery of a notice in writing, stating the cause of action and the name and residence of the intending plaintiff. We have also provided that every suit against a public officer must be commenced within six months next after the accrual of the cause of action. Similar provisions are contained in the Police Act (V of 1861), section 42, and in various Municipal Acts.

CHAPTER XXVIII.—SUITS BY ALIENS AND BY OR AGAINST FOREIGN AND NATIVE RULERS.

We have laid down rules (section 430) as to when aliens may sue in the Courts of British India. We have declared (section 431) that a Foreign State may sue in our Courts, provided that it has been recognized by the Governor General in Council, and that the object of the suit is to enforce the private rights of the head or of the subjects of the Foreign State. We have also declared in the same section that the Courts shall take judicial notice of the fact that a Foreign State has not been recognized by our Government. We have barred suits (section 433) against Sovereign Princes, ruling Chiefs, ambassadors and envoys, except with the consent of Government, and declared that such consent shall not be given except in certain cases. We have exempted their persson from arrest under the Code, and we have declared that no decree shall be executed against their property unless with the permission in writing of a Secretary to Government. We have provided (section 434) for the execution in British India of the decrees of the Courts of Native States in alliance with Her Majesty.

CHAPTER XXIX.—SUITS BY AND AGAINST CORPORATIONS AND COMPANIES,

and

CHAPTER XXX.—SUITS BY AND AGAINST TRUSTEES, EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS.

We have made no change in either of the above chapters.

CHAPTER XXXI.—SUITS BY AND AGAINST MINORS AND PERSONS OF UNSOUND MIND.

We have provided (section 442) that notice of application to take off the file plaints filed by or on behalf of minors without next friends, shall be given to the person presenting the plaint. We have altered section 445 (= section 439 of Bill No. III) so as to enable married women to act as next friends. We have required (section 443) the Court in every case, on being satisfied of a defendant's minority, to appoint a guardian ad litem, and have consequently omitted the sections (453 and 454 of Bill No. III) as to the assignment of a guardian at the instance of the plaintiff. We have taken the opportunity of declaring (section 443), contrary to the recent decision of Pontifex, J., that a guardian ad litem is not a guardian of person or property within the meaning of the Indian Majority Act, 1875. We have struck out as unsuited to the Mufassal the rule requiring an order to change a minor's pleader, and the rule against not giving a day to shew cause, when a decree is made against a minor defendant, and as to making payment to the receiver of money, &c., decreed to a minor. We have omitted from section 463, the provision as to the nature of the evidence contained in the corresponding section (462) of Bill No. III. We have exempted (section 464) from several sections of this chapter minors under the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards, and minors for whose persons or property guardians or managers have been appointed by the Civil Courts under any local law.

CHAPTER XXXII.—SUITS BY AND AGAINST MILITARY MEN.

We have here provided (section 463) for the case where the soldier concerned is serving in military staff employment.

CHAPTER XXXIII.—INTERPLEADER.

We have here merely amended the drafting of two of the sections.

CHAPTER XXXIV.—OF ARREST AND ATTACHMENT BEFORE JUDGMENT.

We have expressly stated (section 477) that the suits in which plaintiffs may apply that security be taken for the defendant's appearance, are suits other than suits for the possession of immoveable property. Where the defendant is imprisoned for failing to give security, we think (section 481) that the maximum term of imprisonment should be six months.

We have provided (section 482) that subsistence allowance shall be paid into Court in the case of every arrest under this chapter.

We have provided (section 488) for removing the attachment when the suit is dismissed. Where property is attached under this chapter, and a decree is given in favour of the plaintiff, we have declared (section 490) that it shall not be necessary to re-attach the property in execution of the decree.

We have struck out the section (492 of Bill No. III) empowering the Court to stay the sale of property already under attachment, when execution of a decree fraudulently obtained is applied for. The reasons for omitting section 308 of that Bill are equally applicable to section 492.

CHAPTER XXXV.—OF TEMPORARY INJUNCTIONS AND INTERLOCUTORY ORDERS.

We have empowered (section 492) the Court to grant an injunction to stay a wrongful sale in execution of a decree. We have been informed that the corresponding clause of Act VIII of 1859 (section 92, first sentence,) has been held not to apply to such a case.

We have provided (section 493) that the imprisonment by which injunctions granted under this chapter may be enforced shall not exceed six months.

We have added sections (498, 499, 500) empowering the Court to order the interim sale of perishable articles: the detention, preservation, or inspection of any property forming the subject of the suit: and, for the purposes aforesaid, the entry on or into any land or building in the possession of any party to the suit, the taking of samples, making of observations and trial of experiments. They correspond with the English Order 32, rules 2, 3 and 4.

CHAPTER XXXVI.—APPOINTMENT OF RECEIVERS AND MANAGERS.

We have here expressly provided (section 503) that Receivers and Managers shall pass their accounts, pay the balance due thereon, and be responsible for loss occasioned by their wilful default or gross negligence. We think (section 505) that the powers conferred by this chapter should be exercised only by High Courts and District Courts.

CHAPTER XXXVII.—REFERENCE TO ARBITRATION.

Where an umpire is appointed, we have required (section 509) the Court to fix a reasonable time for the delivery of his award.

We have provided (section 514) for superseding the arbitration where, owing to the fault of the parties, the arbitrator cannot complete his award within the specified period.

We have provided (section 522) that decrees following judgments according to awards shall be final.

When the arbitrator is not named in an agreement to refer, and the parties cannot agree as to the nomination, we have empowered (section 523) the Court to nominate him.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.—OF PROCEEDINGS ON AGREEMENT OF PARTIES.

We have here merely added a direction (section 527) that cases stated under this chapter shall be divided into consecutively numbered paragraphs, and concisely state such facts and documents as may be necessary to enable the Court to decide the questions raised thereby.

CHAPTER XXXIX.—OF SUMMARY PROCEDURE ON NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS.

This chapter corresponds with 18 & 19 Vic., c. 67 and Act V of 1866, sections 2 to 8. We have here declared (in accordance with decisions of Bramwell B. and Phear J.) that the defendant shall not be required to pay into Court the sum mentioned in the summons, unless the Court thinks his defence not to be primâ facie sustainable or feels reasonable doubt as to its good faith. And we have taken the opportunity of declaring (contrary to the decision of the latter Judge) that the clause corresponding with Act V of 1866, section 2, is not confined to cases in which the bill sued upon, together with mere lapse of time, is sufficient to establish a primâ facie right to recover.

Act V of 1866 is now in force in the Charter High Courts, the Chief Court of the Panjáb, the Rangoon Recorder's Court, and the Small Cause Court of Madras. We propose (section 538) to extend the corresponding chapter of the Code also to the Small Cause Courts of Calcutta and Bombay and to the Court of the Judge of Karáchi.

We have omitted chapter XLI of Bill No. III (Bar of Appeals not expressly permitted) as unnecessary. No appeal can lie unless it is allowed by the Code or some other law for the time being in force.

CHAPTER XL.—OF APPEALS FROM ORIGINAL DECREES.

We have struck out the clause requiring appeals to the High Court to be heard by two or more Judges. It would limit the discretion expressly conferred by Act of Parliament and Royal Charter.

We have provided (section 540) that the memorandum of appeal shall be presented by the appellant or his pleader, and shall be accompanied by a copy not only of the decree, but also of the judgment on which the decree is founded.

We have struck out, as likely to work unsatisfactorily, the provisions contained in sections 548—553 of Bill No. III, which authorize the appellant merely to state generally his dissatisfaction with the decree appealed against, and to file his grounds of objection separately.

Where a memorandum of appeal is amended, we have required (section 543) the Judge to attest the amendment.

We have empowered (section 550) the appellate Court, after hearing the appellant, if he appears, to confirm the decision appealed against without sending notice of the appeal to the lower Court or serving such notice on the respondent. A similar rule exists in the Panjáb (Act IX of 1873, section 7), and has been found to work well.

We have laid down rules (section 556) as to the right to begin (a) where the appeal is from the whole decree, (b) where there are cross-appeals, and (c) where the appeal is from only a portion of the decree and there is no cross-appeal.

We have provided (section 560) a period of limitation for applications to re-hear, where judgment has been given ex-parte against the respondent.

Where a case is remanded with direction to take specified evidence, we have authorized (section 563) the Court to receive evidence tendered to contradict evidence so taken.

We have redrawn the section (575 = section 589 of Bill No. III) as to decisions of appeals heard by Benches of two or more Judges who differ. When there is no majority on the Appellate Bench which concurs in reversing or varying the decree appealed against, we think that decree should stand.

We have omitted as useless the provision as to sealing the decree in appeal.

CHAPTER XLI.—OF APPEALS FROM APPELLATE DECREES.

We have struck out the clause requiring the pleader presenting an appeal to certify that the grounds are reasonable, and forbidding him to give such certificate unless he has been authorized by the High Court. We have also omitted the clause declaring that an application for a second appeal shall be argued only by the pleader signing such certificate.

CHAPTER XLII.—OF APPEALS FROM ORDERS.

We have declared (section 588) that an appeal shall lie from orders determining whether immoveable property is or is not within the local limits, from orders striking out or adding the names of persons as plaintiffs or defendants, from orders under section 44 adding a cause of action, from orders under section 47 excluding a cause of action, from orders under section 234 as to questions relating to the execution of decrees, from orders under section 176 where a party refuses to give evidence called for by the Court, from orders rejecting applications under section 371, from orders disallowing objections under section 373, and from orders under section 518 modifying an award.

Appeals from orders in insolvency will in all cases lie (section 589) directly to the High Court.

CHAPTER XLIII.—OF PAUPER APPEALS.

Except some trifling omissions, we have made no change in this chapter.

CHAPTER XLIV.—OF APPEALS TO THE QUEEN IN COUNCIL.

We have here provided (section 610) for estimating in Indian currency sums expressed in orders of Her Majesty in Council to be payable in British currency, and we have authorized (section 613) the High Courts to make rules as to the recovery of costs incurred in British India in connection with appeals to Her Majesty in Council.

CHAPTER XLV.—OF REFERENCE TO THE HIGH COURT.

We have extended (section 617) this chapter to questions arising before or in the hearing of a suit and in the execution of a decree. We have struck out the clause providing that references shall be heard by not less than two Judges of the High Court. We have provided (section 621) that when a case is referred, the High Court may alter, cancel or set aside any decree which the Court making the reference may have passed in the suit. We have omitted as useless the section requiring the High Court to fix an early day for hearing references. Our other changes here are merely verbal.

CHAPTER XLVI.—OF REVIEW OF JUDGMENT.

We think (section 622) that powers similar to those given by this chapter to High Courts may usefully be given to District Courts as to cases decided by subordinate Courts, including Courts of Small Causes.

We have struck out the clause empowering an appellant to abandon his appeal and apply for a review. We have extended the clause (624) forbidding (except in certain cases) applications for review of judgments to be made to Judges other than those who delivered them, to cases in which a clerical error has been discovered on the face of the decree. Where the business of the Court whose judgment is sought to be reviewed has been transferred to another Court, we have authorized (section 626) the application to be made to the latter Court. But we think (section 624) that except on the discovery of some new and important matter or evidence or of some clerical error apparent on the face of the decree, no application for the review of a judgment should be made to any Judge other than the Judge who delivered it. Where a review is granted, we have required (section 626) the Judge to record with his own hand his reasons for so doing.

We have omitted the clauses forbidding subordinate Courts to grant reviews without permission of the higher Court.

We think (section 629) that the order granting a review or rejecting an application for a review should be final except where the review has been granted without jurisdiction. Where the application has been rejected in consequence of the failure of the parties to appear, we have provided for restoring in proper cases the application to the file. We have also expressly forbidden the Courts to entertain applications to review orders passed on review or on applications for review.

CHAPTER XLVII.—SPECIAL RULES RELATING TO THE HIGH COURTS.

We have here omitted the following sections of Bill No. III for the reasons respectively appended thereto—

665 (as to the extraordinary original jurisdiction of the High Court) : provided for by the Charters,

666 (power to High Court to provide for the exercise of its jurisdiction) : ditto,

668 (decision when Judges differ) : provided for in the prior part of the Bill,

670 (declaring that acts required to be done by a pleader may be done by an attorney) : ditto,

672, 673 (power to refer matters for investigation in chambers) : provided for by the Charters,

37, 674 (signature of the Registrar) : provided for by the former part of the Bill,

675 (language) : unnecessary,

676 (assessors) : ditto,

677 (interlocutory orders) : ditto,

678 (appearance of vakíls on the original side) : can be provided for under the Charters,

681 (obtaining summonses from Registrar) : unnecessary,

684 (procedure in testamentary and intestate cases) : provided for by rule.

We have empowered the High Court to declare by rule what shall be deemed to be "acts not of a judicial nature," which may be done by the Registrar.

We have declared (section 640) that the following portions of the Code shall not apply to the High Court in the exercise of its ordinary and extraordinary original civil jurisdictions, viz. :—

37, recognised agents;

54, clause (a), rejection of plaint where relief sought is under-valued;

160, payment into Court of expenses of witnesses;

206, contents of decree;

263, decree for execution of conveyances or endorsement of negotiable instruments.

We have expressly empowered (section 641) the High Court to prescribe forms for its own use.

CHAPTER XLVIII.—MISCELLANEOUS.

We have struck out as now unnecessary the clause (section 686 of Bill No. III) declaring that where the highest Civil Court of appeal consists of a single Judge, he shall have the powers which were (but are not now) vested by this Code in two or more Judges.

We have amended (section 643) the rules as to the names of persons exempt from appearance in Court. We have omitted the following sections of Bill No. III—

687, 688, as to assessors (obsolete and useless),

697, as to verifying false plaints (provided for by the Penal Code),

705, as to ministerial officers (can be provided for executively),

708, as to deposits in lieu of bail (useless).

We have also struck out the clause empowering the Government of India to invest a Chief Commissioner with the powers of a Local Government under the Code. This matter is sufficiently provided for by Act XXXII of 1867.

We have redrawn the section (644) relating to exemption from arrest. It now provides that no judicial officer shall be liable to arrest under the Code while going to, presiding in, or returning from, his Court, and that the parties to a suit and their pleaders, recognized agents and witnesses shall be similarly exempt while going to or attending a Civil Court for the purpose of such suit, and while returning from such Court.

We have struck out the section (698 of Bill No. III) as to certain offences in Court not relating to documents. The matter seems sufficiently provided for by the Code of Criminal Procedure.

We have introduced a section (648 = Act XI of 1865, section 42) enabling registrars of Mufassal Courts of Small Causes to state cases for the opinion of the Judge.

We have provided (section 650) for attaching property situate outside the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court making the order of attachment.

We have provided (section 653) a punishment for escape from civil custody.

We have empowered (section 654) the High Court to make rules to regulate any matter connected with the procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature.

SCHEDULE I.—REPEALS.

We have added to this schedule the Lords Day Act (29 Car. II, c. 7): sections 8, 9, 10, 11, the second clause of section 19, sections 22 to 28 (inclusive), 42, and part of 32 of the Mufassal Small Cause Courts Act XI of 1865, parts of Acts XIV and XIX of 1865, and the unrepealed part of Act XXIV of 1866, the whole of Act X of 1867, and so much of sections 15 and 16 of Act XV of 1869 as relates to process issued by a Civil Court. We have also added Act IX of 1873, sections 7, 9 and 10, and Madras Regulation XIV of 1816, section 27.

SCHEDULE II.—SECTIONS EXTENDING TO MUFASSAL COURTS OF SMALL CAUSES.

We have made a few changes in this schedule, the most important of which is the addition of the chapters on interpleader and on reference to the High Court.

SCHEDULE IV.—FORMS.

We have added a few forms—concise statements of claim: statements of defence: temporary injunctions; and we have amended some of the forms of decrees.

We have also made numerous small changes in the wording and arrangement of the Bill, and we think that it has been so altered that it should be republished with this report in the Gazette of India and the local Gazettes, and that its further consideration should be stayed till the Council re-assembles in Calcutta.

We desire, in conclusion, to express our acknowledgments of the learning, acuteness and industry evinced by many of the communications respecting the Bill. We would in particular mention those by Mr. Pitt Kennedy the Standing Counsel, Mr. Belchambers the Registrar of the High Court at Fort William, Mr. Plowden the Government Advocate, Panjáb, Mr. Nelson of the Madras Civil Service, Messrs. Field, Maclean, Crosthwaite, and J. W. Smyth, all of the Bengal Civil Service, and Hukm Chand, Extra Assistant Commissioner, Montgomery.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.—Chapters and sections extending to Mufassal Courts of Small Causes.
THE THIRD SCHEDULE.—Bombay enactments.
THE FOURTH SCHEDULE.—Forms.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the Laws relating to the Procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature.

Whereas it is expedient to consolidate and amend the laws relating to the procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title. commencement.

1. This Act may be cited as "The Code of Civil Procedure:" and it shall come into force on the day of 1876.

Local extent.

This section and section 3 extend to the whole of British India. The other sections extend to the whole of British India except the Scheduled Districts as defined in Act No. XIV of 1874.

Interpretation-clause.

2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

"chapter." "chapter" means a chapter of this Code:

"district." "District Court." "district" means the local limits of the jurisdiction of a principal civil Court of original jurisdiction, (hereinafter called a 'District Court') and includes the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of a High Court: every Court of a grade inferior to that of a District Court and every Court of Small Causes shall, for the purposes of this Code, be deemed to be subordinate to the High Court and the District Court.

"jail." "jail" means the civil jail of the district, or any place appointed by the Local Government for the confinement of persons under civil process:

"pleader." "pleader" means every person entitled to appear and plead for another in Court, and includes an Advocate, a vakil and an attorney of a High Court:

"Collector." "Collector" means every officer performing the duties of a Collector of land-revenue:

"the cause of action." "a part of the cause of action." "the cause of action" means the whole of the circumstances which a plaintiff must allege in order to shew a right to sue, and "a part of the cause of action" means some one of those circumstances:

"judgment." "judgment" means the statement given by the Judge as the grounds of the order or decision by which a suit or appeal is determined:

"decree." "decree" means the formal order of the Court in which the result of the decision of the suit or appeal is embodied. An order on appeal, remanding a suit for re-trial, is not within this definition:

"Judge." "Judge" means the presiding officer of a Court:

"judgment-debtor." "judgment-debtor" means any person against whom a decree or order has been made:

"decree-holder." "decree-holder" means any person in whose favour a decree has been made, and includes any person to whom such decree is transferred:

"affidavit." "affidavit" means a declaration in writing sanctioned by the oath of the declarant administered by a Court or person duly authorized for that purpose:

"written." "written" includes printed and lithographed, and "writing" includes print and lithography:

"foreign Court." "foreign court" means a court situate beyond the limits of British India and not having authority in British India nor established by the Governor General in Council:

"foreign judgment." "foreign judgment" means the judgment of a foreign Court:

"public officer" defined. "public officer" means a person falling under any of the following descriptions, (namely)—

Every Judge;

Every covenanted servant of Her Majesty;

Every commissioned officer in the military or naval forces of Her Majesty while serving under Government;

Every officer of a Court of Justice whose duty it is, as such officer, to investigate or report on any matter of law or fact, or to make, authenticate, or keep any document, or to take charge or dispose of any property, or to execute any judicial process, or to administer any oath, or to interpret, or to preserve order in the Court, and every person specially authorized by a Court of Justice to perform any of such duties;

Every person who holds any office by virtue of which he is empowered to place or keep any person in confinement;

Every officer of Government whose duty it is, as such officer, to prevent offences, to give information of offences, to bring offenders to justice, or to protect the public health, safety or convenience;

Every officer whose duty it is, as such officer, to take, receive, keep, or expend any property on behalf of Government, or to make any survey, assessment, or contract on behalf of Government, or to execute any revenue process, or to investigate, or to report on any matter affecting the pecuniary interests of Government, or to make, authenticate, or keep any document relating to the pecuniary interests of Government, or to prevent the infraction of any law for the protection of the pecuniary interests of Government, and every officer in the service or pay of Government, or remunerated by fees or commission for the performance of any public duty.

"Government." And in any part of British India in which this Code operates, "Government" includes the Government of India as well as the Local Government.

Enactments repealed. 3. The enactments specified in the first schedule hereto annexed are hereby repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column of the same schedule.

Refereances in previous Acts. But when in any Act, Regulation or Notification passed or issued prior to the day on which this Code comes into force, reference is made to Act VIII of 1859, Act XXIII of 1861, or the 'Code of Civil Procedure,' or to any other Act hereby repealed, such reference shall, so far as may be practicable, be read as applying to this Code or the corresponding part thereof;

Saving of certain Acts affecting Oudh, Panjáb, Central Provinces and Burma. 4. Save as provided in section 3, nothing herein contained shall be deemed to affect the following enactments (namely)—

The Central Provinces Courts Act, 1865:
The Panjáb Courts Act, 1865:
Act No. XXVII of 1867:
The Oudh Civil Courts Act, 1871:
The Panjáb Appeals Act, 1873:
The Burma Courts Act, 1875:

or any local law prescribing a special procedure for suits between landlord and tenant.

Sections extending to Mufassal Small Cause Courts. 5. The chapters and sections specified in the second schedule hereto annexed, extend (so far as they are applicable) to Courts of Small Causes constituted under Act No. XI of 1865. The other chapters and sections do not extend to such Courts. But nothing herein contained shall be deemed to enlarge the powers which such Courts now possess for the purposes of effecting attachments or executing decrees.

Saving of jurisdiction and procedure— 6. Nothing in this Code affects the jurisdiction or procedure—

(a) of Military Courts of Request; (a) of Military Courts of Request;

(b) of officers appointed to try small suits in Bombay; (b) of a single officer duly appointed in the Presidency of Bombay to try small suits in military bázárs at Cantonments and Stations occupied by the troops of that Presidency; or

(c) of Village Munsifs and Village Panchávats in Madras. (c) of Village Munsifs or Village Panchávats under the provisions of the Madras Code.

7. With respect to—

Saving of certain Bombay laws. (a) the jurisdiction exercised by certain jágírdárs and other authorities invested with powers under the provisions of Bombay Regulation XIII of 1830 and Act XV of 1840 in the cases therein mentioned; and

(b) cases of the nature defined in the enactments specified in the third schedule hereto annexed, the procedure in such cases and in the appeals to the civil Courts allowed therein, shall be according to the rules laid down in this Code, except where these rules are inconsistent with any specific provisions contained in the enactments mentioned or referred to in this section.

Code not to apply to Presidency Small Cause Courts, till specially extended. 8. Save as provided in sections 25, 86, 225 and Chapter XXXIX, this Code shall not extend to any suit or proceeding in any Court of Small Causes established in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay.

But the Local Government may, by notification published in the official Gazette, extend to any such Court this Code or any part thereof, except so far as relates to appeals and reviews of judgment.

Division of Code. 9. This Code is divided into ten Parts as follows:—

The first Part:	Suits in General.
The second Part:	Incidental Proceedings.
The third Part:	Suits in Particular Cases.
The fourth Part:	Provisional Remedies.
The fifth Part:	Special Proceedings.
The sixth Part:	Appeals.
The seventh Part:	References to the High Court.
The eighth Part:	Review of Judgment.
The ninth Part:	Special Rules relating to the High Court.
The tenth Part:	Certain Miscellaneous Matters.

PART I.

OF SUITS IN GENERAL.

CHAPTER I.

OF THE JURISDICTION OF THE COURTS AND RES JUDICATA.

No person exempt from jurisdiction by reason of descent or place of birth. 10. No person shall, by reason of his descent or place of birth, be in any civil proceeding exempted from the jurisdiction of any of the Courts.

Courts to try all civil suits unless specially barred. 11. The Courts shall (subject to the provisions herein contained) have jurisdiction to try all suits of a civil nature excepting suits of which their cognizance is barred by any enactment for the time being in force.

Pending suits. 12. Except where a suit has been stayed under section 19, the Court shall not try any suit in which the matter in issue is also substantially in issue in a previously instituted suit between the same parties, or between parties under whom they or any of them claim, pending in the same or any other Court, whether superior or inferior, in British India, or in any Court beyond the limits of British India established by the Governor General in Council, or before Her Majesty in Council.

Explanation.—The pendency of a suit in a foreign Court does not preclude the Courts in British India from trying a suit founded on the same cause of action.

Res judicata. 13. No Court shall take cognizance of any suit, nor shall it try any issue, in which the matter substantially in issue has been heard and finally decided by a Court of competent jurisdiction, in a former suit between the same parties, or between parties under whom they or any of them claim, litigating under the same title.

Explanation I.—The matter above referred to must in the former suit have been alleged by one party and either denied or confessed, expressly or impliedly, by the other.

Explanation II.—Any matter which might and ought to have been made ground of defence in a former suit brought by the defendant against the plaintiff, shall be deemed to have been a matter substantially in issue in such suit.

Explanation III.—Where a foreign judgment is relied on, the production of the judgment duly authenticated is presumptive evidence that the Court which made it had competent jurisdiction, unless the contrary appear on the record; but such presumption may be removed by proving the want of jurisdiction.

No foreign judgment shall operate as a bar to a suit in British India—

(a) if it has not been given on the merits of the case:

(b) if it appears on the face of the proceedings to be founded on an incorrect view of international law or of any law in force in British India:

(c) if it is in the opinion of the Court before which it is produced contrary to natural justice:

(d) if it has been obtained by fraud:

(e) if it sustains a claim founded on a breach of any law in force in British India.

Explanation IV.—A decision is final within the meaning of this section when it is such as the Court making it could not alter (except on review) on the application of either party or reconsider of its own motion. A decision liable to appeal may be final within the meaning of this section until the appeal is made.

CHAPTER II.

OF THE PLACE OF SUING.

Court in which suit to be instituted. 14. Every suit shall be instituted in the Court of the lowest grade competent to try it.

Suits to be instituted where subject-matter situate. 15. Subject to the pecuniary or other limitations prescribed by any law, suits

(a) for the recovery of immoveable property,

(b) for the partition of immoveable property,

(c) for the foreclosure or redemption of a mortgage of immoveable property,

(d) for the determination of any other right to or interest to or in immoveable property,

(e) for compensation for wrong to immoveable property,

(f) for the recovery of moveable property distrained or attached, shall be instituted in the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the property is situate:

Provided that suits to obtain relief respecting immoveable property held by or on behalf of the defendant may, when the relief sought can be entirely obtained through his personal obedience, be instituted either in the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the property is situate, or in the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction he actually or voluntarily resides, or carries on business, or personally works for gain.

Explanation.—In this section 'property' means property situate in British India.

Suits to be instituted where defendants reside or cause of action arose. 16. Subject to the limitations aforesaid, all other suits shall be instituted in a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction—

(a) all the defendants, at the time of the commencement of the suit, actually and voluntarily reside, or carry on business, or personally work for gain; or

(b) any of the defendants, at the time of the commencement of the suit, actually and voluntarily resides, or carries on business, or personally works for gain: provided that either the leave of the Court is given, or the defendants who do not reside, or carry on business, or personally work for gain as aforesaid acquiesce in such institution; or

(c) the cause of action arises; or

(d) a part of the cause of action arises.

Explanation I.—Where a person has a permanent dwelling at one place and also a lodging at another place for a temporary purpose only, he shall be deemed to reside at both places in respect of any cause of action arising at the place where he has such temporary lodging.

Explanation II.—A Corporation or Company shall be deemed to carry on business at its sole or principal office in British India or, in respect of any cause of action arising at any place where it has also a subordinate office, at such place.

Illustrations.

(a.) A is a tradesman in Calcutta. B carries on business in Dehli. B, by his agent in Calcutta, buys goods of A, and requests A to deliver them to the East Indian Railway Company. A delivers the goods accordingly in Calcutta. A may sue B for the price of the goods either in Calcutta, where the cause of action has arisen, or in Dehli, where B carries on business

(b.) A, resides at Simla, B at Calcutta, and C at Dehli A, B and C being together at Benares, B and C make a joint promissory note payable on demand, and deliver it to A. A may sue B and C at Beneras, where the cause of action arose. He may also sue them at Calcutta, where B resides, or at Delhi, where C resides; but in each of these cases, if the non-resident defendant objects, the suit cannot be maintained without the leave of the Court.

(c.) A draws in Simla, a bill on B, who accepts the bill in Calcutta, and returns it by post to A. The bill does not mention any place of payment. It is presented to B in Calcutta, and he fails to pay. One part of the cause of action has arisen at Simla and others at Calcutta. The suit may therefore be brought either in Simla or in Calcutta.

(d.) A signs a contract in Calcutta for the delivery of rice to B at Dehli, and delivers it accordingly. B does not pay the price, and A sues him for it. One part of the cause of action has arisen in Calcutta and another in Dehli. The suit may therefore be brought either in Calcutta or in Dehli.

(e.) A, lets a house in Howrah to B, at a monthly rent payable in Howrah. A dies intestate. C obtains in Calcutta, a grant of letters of administration to A's estate. B allows the rent to fall into arrear. One part of the cause of action has arisen in Calcutta and another in Howrah, and C may therefore sue B for the arrears either in Calcutta or in Howrah.

17. In suits for compensation for wrong done to person or moveable property, if the wrong was done within the local limits of the jurisdiction of one Court and the defendant resides, or carries on business, or personally works for gain within the local limits of the jurisdiction of another Court, the plaintiff may at his option sue in either of the said Courts.

Forum in suits for compensation for wrongs.

Illustrations.

(a.) A, residing in Dehli, beats B in Calcutta. B may sue A either in Calcutta or in Dehli.

(b.) A, residing in Dehli, publishes in Calcutta statements defamatory of B. B may sue A either in Calcutta or in Dehli.

(c.) A, travelling on the line of a Railway Company whose principal office is at Howrah, is upset and injured at Allahabad by negligence imputable to the Company. He may sue the Company either at Howrah or at Allahabad.

18. If the suit be for immoveable property situate within the limits of a single district, but within the jurisdiction of different Courts, the suit may be instituted in the Court within whose jurisdiction any portion of the property is situate; provided that, in respect of the value of the subject-matter of the suit, the entire claim be cognizable by such Court.

Suits for immoveable property situate in single districts, but within jurisdictions of different Courts.

If the immoveable property be situate within the limits of different districts, the suit may be instituted in any Court, otherwise competent to try it, within whose jurisdiction any portion of the property is situate.

Suits for immoveable property situate in different districts.

19. If a suit which may be instituted in more than one Court is instituted in a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction only part of the cause of action arose, and where the defendant or all the defendants does not or do not actually and voluntarily reside, or carry on business, or personally work for gain, the defendant or any defendant may, after giving notice in writing to the other parties of his intention to apply to the Court to stay proceedings, apply to the Court accordingly;

Power to stay proceedings where the whole cause of action did not arise and all defendants do not reside within jurisdiction.

and if the Court, after hearing such of the parties as desire to be heard, is satisfied that justice is more likely to be done by the suit being instituted in some other Court, it may stay proceedings either finally or till further order, and make such order as it thinks fit as to the costs already incurred by the parties or any of them.

In such case, if the plaintiff so requires, the Court shall return the plaint with an endorsement thereon of the order staying proceedings.

Every such application shall be made at the earliest possible opportunity, and in all cases before the issues are settled; and any defendant not so applying shall be deemed to have acquiesced in the institution of the suit.

Application when to be made.

20. Where the Court, under section 19, stays proceedings, and the plaintiff re-institutes his suit in another Court, the plaint shall not be chargeable with any court-fee: provided that the proper fee has been levied on the institution of the suit in the former Court, and that the plaint has been returned by such Court.

Remission of Court-fee where suit instituted in another Court.

The interval between the institution of the suit and the date of so staying proceedings and the time requisite for proceeding from the Court in which proceedings are stayed to the Court in which the suit is re-instituted shall be excluded in computing the period of limitation prescribed for such suit.

Computation of period of limitation for such suits.

21. Where a suit may be instituted in more Courts than one, and such Courts are subordinate to the same appellate Court, any defendant, after giving notice in writing to the other parties of his intention to apply to such Court to transfer the suit to another Court, may apply accordingly; and the appellate Court, after hearing the other parties if they desire to be heard, shall determine in which of the Courts having jurisdiction the suit shall proceed.

Procedure where Courts in which suit may be instituted are subordinate to the same appellate Court.

22. Where such Courts are subordinate to different appellate Courts, but are subordinate to the same High Court, any defendant, after giving notice in writing to the other parties of his intention to apply to the High Court to transfer the suit to another Court having jurisdiction, may apply accordingly. If the suit is brought in any Court subordinate to a District Court, the application, together with the objections, if any, filed by the other parties, shall be submitted through the District Court to which such Court is subordinate. The High Court may, after considering the objections, if any, of the other parties, determine in which of the Courts having jurisdiction the suit shall proceed.

Procedure where they are not so subordinate.

23. Where such Courts are subordinate to different High Courts, any defendant may, after giving notice in writing to the other parties of his intention to apply to the High Court within whose jurisdiction the Court in which the suit is brought is situate, apply accordingly.

Procedure where they are subordinate to different High Courts.

If the suit is brought in any Court subordinate to a District Court, the application, together with the objections, if any, filed by the other parties, shall be submitted through the District Court to which such Court is subordinate, and such High Court shall, after considering the objections, if any, of the other parties, determine in which of the several Courts having jurisdiction the suit shall proceed.

24. If, in a suit for immoveable property, the defendant object to the hearing of the suit on the ground that no part of the property is situate within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court in which the suit is instituted, or to which it has been transferred, the Court may by order determine the point;

Suit for immoveable property alleged to be within another local jurisdiction.

and if the Court find that the property or any part thereof is situate within such limits, it shall proceed to try the suit.

25. The High Court or the District Court may, either of its own motion or on the application of any of the parties, after giving notice to the parties and hearing such of them as desire to be heard, withdraw any suit instituted in any Court subordinate to such High Court or District Court, as the case may be, and try the suit itself, or transfer it for trial to any other such subordinate Court competent to try the same in respect of its nature and the amount or value of its subject-matter.

Transfer of suits.

For the purposes of this section the Courts of Additional and Assistant Judges shall be deemed to be subordinate to the District Court.

The Court trying any suit withdrawn under this section from a Court of Small Causes shall, for the purposes of such suit, be deemed to be a Court of Small Causes.

CHAPTER III.

OF PARTIES AND THEIR APPEARANCES, APPLICATIONS AND ACTS.

26. All persons may be joined as plaintiffs in whom the right to any relief claimed is alleged to exist, whether jointly, severally, or in the alternative, in respect of the same cause of action. And judgment may be given for such one or more of the plaintiffs as may be found to be entitled to relief, for such relief as he or they may be entitled to, without any amendment. But the defendant, though unsuccessful, shall be entitled to his costs occasioned by so joining any person who is not found entitled to relief, unless the Court in disposing of the costs of the suit otherwise directs.

Persons who may be joined as plaintiffs.

27. Where a suit has been instituted in the name of the wrong person as plaintiff, or where it is doubtful whether it has been instituted in the name of the right plaintiff, the Court may, if satisfied that the suit has been so commenced through a bonâ fide mistake, and that it is necessary for the determination of the real matter in dispute so to do, order any other person or persons to be substituted or added as plaintiff or plaintiffs upon such terms as may seem just.

Court may substitute or add plaintiff for or to plaintiff suing.

28. All persons may be joined as defendants against whom the right to any relief is alleged to exist, whether jointly, severally or in the alternative, in respect of the same cause of action. And judgment may be given against such one or more of the defendants as may be found to be liable, according to their respective liabilities, without any amendment.

Persons who may be joined as defendants.

29. The plaintiff may, at his option, join as parties to the same suit all or any of the persons severally, or jointly and severally, liable on any one contract, including parties to bills of exchange, hundís and promissory notes.

Joinder of parties liable on same contract.

30. Where there are numerous parties having the same interest in one suit, one or more of such parties may sue or be sued, or may be authorized by the Court to defend in such suit, on behalf or for the benefit of all parties so interested.

One party may sue or defend on behalf of all in same interest.

31. No suit shall be defeated by reason of the misjoinder of parties, and the Court may in every suit deal with the matter in controversy so far as regards the rights and interests of the parties actually before it.

Suit not to fail by reason of misjoinder.

32. The Court may, at any time before the issues are settled, either upon or without the application of either party, and on such terms as may appear to the Court to be just, order that the name of any party whether as plaintiff or as defendant, improperly joined, be struck out; and that the name of any party whether plaintiff or defendant, who ought to have been joined, or whose presence before the Court may be necessary in order to enable the Court effectually and completely to adjudicate upon and settle all the questions involved in the suit, be added.

Court may dismiss or add parties.

No person shall be added as a plaintiff, or as the next friend of a plaintiff, without his own consent thereto.

No one to be added as plaintiff or as next friend without his consent.

All parties whose names are so added as defendants shall be served with a summons in manner hereinafter mentioned. and the proceedings as against them shall be deemed to have begun only on the service of such summons.

Defendants added to be served.

33. Where a defendant is added, the plaint, if previously filed, shall, unless the Court direct otherwise, be amended in such manner as may be necessary, and an amended copy of the summons shall be served on the new defendant and the original defendants.

Where defendant added, plaintiff to amend.

34. All objections for want of parties, or for joinder of parties who have no interest in the suit, or for misjoinder as co-plaintiffs or co-defendants, shall be taken at the earliest possible opportunity, and in all cases before the issues are settled; and any such objection not taken before the issues are settled shall be deemed to have been waived by the defendant.

Time for taking objections as to non-joinder or misjoinder of parties.

35. When there are more plaintiffs than one, any one or more of them may be authorized by any other of them to appear, plead, or act for such other in any proceeding under this Code: and in like manner when there are more defendants than one, any one or more of them may be authorized by any other of them to appear, plead or act for such other in any such proceeding.

Each of several plaintiffs or defendants may authorize any other to appear, &c., for him.

The authority shall be in writing, signed by the party giving it, and shall be filed in Court.

Authority to be in writing signed and filed.

Recognized Agents and Pleaders.

36. Any appearance, application or act in or to any Court, required or authorized by law to be made or done by a party to a suit in such Court, may, except when otherwise expressly provided by this Code, be made or done by the party in person, or by his recognized agent, or by a pleader duly appointed to act on his behalf:

Appearances &c., may be in person, by recognized agent or by pleader.

Provided that any such appearance shall be made by the party in person if the Court so direct:

37. The recognized agents of parties by whom such appearances, applications and acts may be made or done are—

Recognized agents.

(a). persons holding general powers-of-attorney from parties not resident within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court within which limits the appearance, application or act is made or done, authorizing them to make and do such appearances, applications and acts on behalf of such parties.

Persons holding powers-of-attorney from parties out of jurisdiction.

(b). mukhtárs certificated under any law for the time being in force, and holding special powers of attorney authorising them to do, on behalf of their principals, such acts as may legally be done by mukhtárs.

Certificated mukhtárs.

(c). persons carrying on trade or business for and in the names of parties not resident within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court within which limits the appearance, application or act is made or done, in matters connected with such trade or business only, where no other agent is expressly authorized to make and do such appearances, applications and acts.

Persons carrying on trade or business for parties out of jurisdiction.

Nothing in the former part of this section applies to the territories now administered respectively by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Panjáb, and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh and the Central Provinces; but in those territories the recognized agents of parties by whom such appearances, applications and acts may be made and done shall be such persons as the Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, declare in this behalf.

Recognized agents in Panjáb, Oudh and Central Provinces.

38. Processes served on the recognized agent of a party to a suit shall be as effectual as if the same had been served on the party in person, unless the Court otherwise directs.

Service of process on recognized agent.

The provisions of this Code for the service of process on a party to a suit shall apply to the service of process on his recognized agent.

39. The appointment of a pleader to make or do any appearance, application or act as aforesaid shall be in writing under the hand of his client and shall be filed in Court.

Appointment of pleader.

When so filed, it shall be considered to be in force until revoked with the permission of the Court, by a writing signed by the client and filed in Court, or until the client or the pleader dies, or the decree or final order is drawn up.

No advocate of any High Court established by Royal Charter shall be required to file or present any document empowering him to act.

40. Processes served on the pleader of any party or left at the office or ordinary residence of such pleader, relative to a suit, and whether the same be for the personal appearance of the party or not, shall be presumed to be duly communicated and made known to the party whom the pleader represents; and, unless the Court otherwise directs, shall be as effectual for all purposes in relation to the suit as if the same had been given to or served on the party in person.

Service of process on pleader.

41. Besides the recognized agents described in section 37, any person residing within the jurisdiction of the Court may be appointed an agent to accept service of process.

Agent to receive process.

Such appointment may be special or general, and shall be made by an instrument in writing signed by the principal, and such instrument, or, if the appointment be general, a duly attested copy thereof, shall be filed in Court.

His appointment to be in writing and to be filed in Court.

CHAPTER IV.

OF THE FRAME OF THE SUIT.

42. Every suit shall, as far as practicable, be so framed as to afford ground for a final decision upon the subjects in dispute, and so to prevent further litigation concerning them.

Suit how to be framed.

43. Every suit shall include the whole of the claim arising out of the cause of action; but a plaintiff may relinquish any portion of his claim in order to bring the suit within the jurisdiction of any Court.

Suit to include the whole claim.

If a plaintiff omit to sue for, or intentionally relinquish, any portion of his claim, a suit for the portion so omitted or relinquished shall not afterwards be entertained.

Relinquishment of part of claim.

44. rule a.—No cause of action shall, unless by order of the Court, be joined with a suit for the recovery of land, except claims in respect of mesne profits or arrears of rent in respect of the premises claimed, and damages for breach of any contract under which the same or any part thereof are or is held.

Only certain claims to be joined with suit for recovery of land.

rule b.—Claims by or against husband and wife may be joined with claims by or against either of them separately.

Claims by or against husband and wife.

rule c.—Claims by or against an executor or administrator as such, may be joined with claims by or against him personally, provided the last mentioned claims are alleged to arise with reference to the estate in respect of which the plaintiff or defendant sues or is sued as executor or administrator.

Claims by or against executor.

rule d.—Rules b and c shall be subject to the provisions of sections 45, 46 and 47.

45. The plaintiff may unite in the same suit several causes of action, and any plaintiffs having causes of action against the same defendant or defendants, may unite such causes of action in the same suit.

Plaintiff may join several causes of action.

But if it appear to the Court that any such causes of action cannot be conveniently tried or disposed of together, the Court may, at any time before the issues are settled, of its own motion or on the application of the defendant, order separate trials of any such causes of action

Court may order separation.

to be had, or may make such other order as may be necessary or expedient for the separate disposal thereof.

When causes of action are so united, the jurisdiction of the Court to hear the suit shall depend on the amount or value of the aggregate subject-matters.

46. Any defendant alleging that the plaintiff has united in the same suit several causes of action which cannot be conveniently disposed of in one suit, may at any time before the issues are settled apply to the Court for an order confining the suit to such of the causes of action as may be conveniently disposed of in one proceeding.

Defendant may apply to confine suit.

47. If, on the hearing of such application, it appears to the Court that the causes of action are such as cannot all be conveniently disposed of in one suit, the Court may order any of such causes of action to be excluded, and may direct the plaint to be amended accordingly, and may make such order as to costs as may be just.

Court on hearing application may exclude some causes an order amendment.

Every amendment made under this section shall be attested by the signature of the Judge.

CHAPTER V.

OF THE INSTITUTION OF SUITS.

48. Every suit shall be instituted by presenting a plaint to the Court or such officer as it appoints in this behalf.

Suits to be commenced by plaint.

49. The plaint must be distinctly written in the language of the Court: provided that if such language is not English, the plaint may (with the permission of the Court and the consent of the defendant) be written in English.

Language of plaint.

50. The plaint must contain the following particulars:—

Particulars to be contained in plaint.

(a) the name of the Court in which the suit is brought;

(b) the name, description and place of abode of the plaintiff;

(c) the name, description and place of abode of the defendant, so far as they can be ascertained;

(d) a plain and concise statement of the circumstances constituting the cause of action, and where and when it arose;

(e) a demand of the relief which the plaintiff claims; and

(f) if the plaintiff has allowed a set-off or relinquished a portion of his claim, the amount so allowed or relinquished.

If the plaintiff seek the recovery of money, the plaint must state the precise amount, so far as the case admits.

In money-suits.

Illustration.

A sues for mesne profits:

A sues for the amount which will be found due to him on taking unsettled accounts between him and B.

In each of these cases the plaint need only state approximately the amount sued for.

When the plaintiff sues in a representative character, the plaint should shew, not only that he has an actual existing interest in the subject-matter, but that he has taken the steps necessary to enable him to institute a suit concerning it.

Where plaintiff sues as a representative.

Illustrations.

(a.) A sues as B's executor. The plaint must state that A has proved B's will.

(b.) A sues as C's administrator. The plaint must state that A has taken out administration to C's estate.

(c.) A sues as guardian of D, a Muhammadan minor. A is not D's guardian according to Muhammadan law and usage. The plaint must state that A has been specially appointed D's guardian.

The plaint must shew that the defendant is or claims to be interested in the subject-matter, and that he is liable to be called upon to answer the plaintiff's demand.

Defendant's interest and liability to be shewn.

Illustration.

A dies leaving B his executor, C his legatee, and D a debtor to A's estate. C sues D to compel him to pay his debt in satisfaction of C's legacy. The plaint must shew that B has causelessly refused to sue D, or that B and D have colluded for the purpose of defrauding C, or other such circumstances rendering D liable to C.

If the cause of action arose beyond the period ordinarily allowed by any law for instituting the suit, the plaint must shew the ground upon which exemption from such law is claimed.

Grounds of exemption from limitation-law.

51. The plaint shall be subscribed by the plaintiff and his pleader (if any), and shall be verified at the foot by the plaintiff or, with the permission of the Court, by some person acquainted with the facts of the case.

Plaint to be subscribed and verified.

52. The verification must be to the effect that the same is true to the knowledge of the person making it, except as to matters stated on information and belief, and that as to those matters he believes it to be true.

Contents of verification.

When the plaint is verified by any person other than the plaintiff, such person shall set forth his knowledge or the grounds of his belief on the subject, and the reason why the verification was not made by the plaintiff.

The verification shall be signed by the person making it in the presence of a witness, who shall also sign it.

Verification to be signed and attested.

The Court may in any case examine such witness as to the fact of the signature, and shall so examine him when the person making the verification does not appear.

53. The plaint may, at the discretion of the Court, and at any time before the issues are settled, be rejected, returned for amendment within a time to be fixed by the Court, or amended then and there, upon such terms as to the payment of costs occasioned by the amendment as the Court thinks fit,

When the plaint may be rejected, returned for amendment, or amended.

(a) if it do not state correctly and without prolixity the several particulars hereinbefore required to be specified therein; or

(b) if it contain any particulars other than those so required; or

(c) if it be not subscribed and verified as hereinbefore required; or

(d) if it do not disclose a cause of action; or

(e) if it is not framed in accordance with section 42.

Proviso. Provided that a plaint cannot be altered so as to convert a suit of one character into a suit of another and inconsistent character.

Attestation of amendment. When a plaint is amended, the amendment shall be attested by the signature of the Judge.

When the plaint shall be rejected. 54. The plaint shall be rejected in the following cases:—

(a.) If the relief sought is undervalued, and the plaintiff, on being required by the Court to correct the valuation within a time to be fixed by the Court, fails to do so:

(b.) If the relief sought is properly valued, but the plaint is written upon paper insufficiently stamped, and the plaintiff, on being required by the Court to supply the requisite stamp-paper within a time to be fixed by the Court, fails to do so:

(c.) If, in the case mentioned in section 381, the plaintiff fail to furnish security for the payment of the costs that may be incurred by the defendant:

(d.) If the suit appear from the statement in the plaint to be barred by any positive rule of law.

Procedure on rejecting a plaint. 55. When a plaint is rejected, the Judge shall record with his own hand an order to that effect with the reason for such order.

When rejection of plaint does not preclude presentation of fresh plaint. 56. The rejection of the plaint on any of the grounds hereinbefore mentioned shall not of its own force preclude the plaintiff from presenting a fresh plaint in respect of the same cause of action.

When the plaint shall be returned to be presented to the proper Court. 57. The plaint shall be returned to be presented to the proper Court in the following cases:—

(a.) If a suit has been instituted in a Court whose grade is lower or higher than that of the Court competent to try it, where such Court exists, or where no option as to the selection of the Court is allowed by law:

(b.) If, in a suit relating to immoveable property, but not coming under the proviso to section 15, it appear that no part of such property is situate within the local limits of the Court's jurisdiction:

(c.) If, in any other case, it appear that the cause of action, or a material part thereof, did not arise, and that none of the defendants are dwelling or carrying on business, or personally working for gain, within such local limits.

Procedure on returning plaint. On returning a plaint, the Judge shall, with his own hand, endorse thereon the date of its presentation and return, the name of the party presenting it, and a brief statement of the reason for returning it.

Procedure on admitting plaint. 58. If the Court consider the plaint admissible, it shall cause the plaintiff to endorse thereon, or to annex thereto, a memorandum of the documents (if any) which he has filed along with it; and the plaintiff shall present as many copies on plain paper of the plaint as there are defendants, unless the Court by reason of the length of the plaint or the number of the defendants, or for any other sufficient reason, permit him to file a like number of concise statements of the nature of the claim made, or of the relief or remedy required in the suit, in which case he shall file such statements.

Concise statements.

If the plaintiff sues, or the defendant or any of the defendants is sued, in a representative capacity, the statement shall show in what capacity the plaintiff or defendant sues or is sued.

The plaintiff may, by leave of the Court, amend any such statement so as to make it correspond with the plaint.

The chief ministerial officer of the Court shall sign such endorsement and copies or statements if, on examination, he finds them to be correct.

The Court shall also cause the particulars mentioned in section 50 to be entered in a book to be kept for the purpose and called the Register of civil suits. Such entries shall be numbered in every year according to the order in which the plaint is admitted.

Production of document on which plaintiff sues. 59. If a plaintiff sue upon a document in his possession or power, he shall produce it in court when the plaint is presented, and shall at the same time deliver the document or a copy thereof to be filed with the plaint.

Delivery of document or copy.

List of other documents. If he rely on any other documents (whether in his possession or power or not) as evidence in support of his claim, he shall enter such documents in a list to be added or annexed to the plaint.

Procedure in case of documents not in his possession or power. 60. In the case of any document not in his possession or power he shall, if possible, state in whose possession or power it is, and, when it is in the possession or power of a person not a party to the suit, shall take out a summons against such person, requiring him to file the document in court within such time after the service of the summons as the Court in each case directs, and stating the time so directed.

Suits on lost negotiable instruments. 61. In case of any suit founded upon a bill of exchange or other negotiable instrument, if it be proved that the instrument is lost, and if an indemnity be given by the plaintiff, to the satisfaction of the Court, against the claims of any other person upon such instrument, the Court may make such decree as it would have made if the plaintiff had produced the instrument in court when the plaint was presented, and had at the same time delivered a copy of the instrument to be filed with the plaint.

Production of shop-book. 62. If the document on which the plaintiff sues be an entry in a shop-book or other book in his possession or power, the plaintiff shall produce the book at the time of filing the plaint, together with a copy of the entry on which he relies.

Original entry to be marked and returned. The Court, or such officer as it appoints in this behalf, shall forthwith mark the document for the purpose of identification; and after examining and comparing the copy with the original and attesting the copy if found correct, shall return the book to the plaintiff.

Inadmissibility of document not produced when plaint filed. 63. A document which ought to be produced in court by the plaintiff when the plaint is presented, or to be entered at the foot of the plaint, and which is not produced or entered accordingly, shall not, without the leave of the Court, be received in evidence on his behalf at the hearing of the suit.

Nothing in this section applies to documents produced for cross-examination of the defendant's witnesses, or in answer to any case set up by the defendant, or handed to a witness merely to refresh his memory.

CHAPTER VI.

OF THE ISSUE AND SERVICE OF SUMMONS.

Issue of Summons.

Summons. 64. When the plaint has been registered, and the copies or statements required by section 58 have been filed, a summons may be issued to the defendant to appear and answer the claim on a day to be therein specified, or as soon thereafter as may be practicable,

(a) in person, or

(b) by a pleader duly instructed and able to answer all material questions relating to the suit, or

(c) by a pleader accompanied by some other person able to answer all such questions.

Every such summons shall be signed by the Judge or such officer as he appoints, and shall be sealed with the seal of the Court:

Provided that no such summons shall be issued when the defendant has appeared at the presentation of the plaint and admitted the plaintiff's claim.

Indorsement of claim. 65. Every such summons shall be accompanied with one of the copies or statements mentioned in section 58.

Court may order defendant or plaintiff to appear in person. 66. If the Court see reason to require the personal appearance of the defendant, the summons shall order him to appear in person in court on the day therein specified.

If the Court see reason to require the personal appearance of the plaintiff on the same day, it may make an order for such appearance.

No party to be ordered to appear in person unless resident within 50 or, where there is a railway, 200, miles. 67. No party shall be ordered to appear in person unless he resides—

(a) within the local limits of the Court's ordinary original jurisdiction, or

(b) without such limits and at a place less than fifty, or, where there is railway communication between the place where he resides and the place where the Court is situate, two hundred, miles from the court-house.

Summons to be either to settle issues or for final disposal. 68. The Court shall determine, at the time of issuing the summons, whether it shall be for the settlement of issues only, or for the final disposal of the suit; and the summons shall contain a direction accordingly:

Provided that, in every suit cognizable by Courts of Small Causes, the summons shall be for the final disposal of the suit.

Fixing day for appearance of defendant. 69. The day for the appearance of the defendant shall be fixed by the Court with reference to its current business, the place of residence of the defendant and the time necessary for the service of the summons; and the day shall be so fixed as to allow the defendant sufficient time to enable him to appear and answer on such day.

What shall be deemed 'sufficient time' must be determined with reference to the circumstances of the case.

Summons to order defendant to produce documents required by plaintiff or relied on by defendant. 70. The summons to appear and answer shall order the defendant to produce any document in his possession or power, containing evidence relating to the merits of the plaintiff's case, or upon which the defendant intends to rely in support of his case.

On issue of summons or final disposal, parties to be directed to produce their witnesses. 71. When the summons is for the final disposal of the suit, it shall direct the defendant to produce, on the day fixed for his appearance, the witnesses upon whose evidence he intends to rely in support of his case.

Service of Summons.

Delivery of summons for service. 72. The summons shall be delivered to the proper officer of the Court, to be served by him or one of his subordinates.

Mode of service. 73. Service of the summons shall be made by delivering or tendering a copy thereof signed by the Judge or such officer as he appoints in this behalf, and sealed with the seal of the Court.

Service on several defendants. 74. When there are more defendants than one, service of the summons shall be made on each defendant:

Provided that, if the defendants are partners, and the suit relates to a partnership-transaction, the service may be made, unless the Court directs otherwise, either (a) on one defendant for himself and for the other defendants, or (b) on any person having the management of the business of the partnership at the principal place, within the local limits of the Court's ordinary original civil jurisdiction, of such business.

Service to be on defendant in person, when practicable, or on his agent. 75. Whenever it may be practicable, the service shall be on the defendant in person, unless he have an agent empowered to accept the service, in which case service on such agent shall be sufficient.

76. In a suit relating to any business or work against a person who does not reside within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court from which the summons issues, service on any manager or agent, who, at the time of service, personally carries on such business or work for such person within such limits, shall be deemed good service.

Service on agent by whom defendant carries on business.

For the purpose of this section, the master of a ship is the agent of his owner or charterer.

77. In a suit for immoveable property, if the summons cannot be served on the defendant in person, and the defendant have no agent empowered to accept the service of the summons, it may be served on any agent of the defendant in charge of the property.

Service on agent in charge, in suits for immoveable property.

78. If in any suit the defendant cannot be found and if he have no agent empowered to accept the service of the summons on his behalf, the service may be made on any adult male member of the family of the defendant who is residing with him.

When service may be on male member of defendant's family.

Explanation.—A servant is not a member of the family within the meaning of this section.

79. When the serving-officer delivers or tenders the copy of the summons to the defendant personally, or to an agent or other person on his behalf, the serving-officer shall require the signature of the person to whom the copy is so delivered or tendered to an acknowledgment of service endorsed on the original summons or on a copy thereof signed and sealed as aforesaid.

Person served to sign acknowledgment.

80. The serving-officer shall, in all cases in which the summons has been served under section 79, endorse or cause to be endorsed on the original summons, or on a copy thereof signed and sealed as aforesaid, the time when and the manner in which the summons was served.

Endorsement of time and manner of service.

81. If the defendant or other person refuse to sign the acknowledgment or to receive the copy of the summons,

Procedure when defendant refuses to accept service, or if the serving officer cannot find the defendant, and there is no agent empowered to accept the service of the summons on his behalf, nor any other person on whom the service can be made,

or cannot be found.

the serving-officer shall return the summons to the Court from which it issued, with an endorsement thereon that he has been unable to serve it.

82. When a summons is returned without having been served, the Court shall examine the serving-officer on oath touching the non-service; and if the Court is satisfied that there is reason to believe that the defendant is keeping out of the way for the purpose of avoiding the service, or that for any other reason the summons cannot be served in the ordinary way, the Court shall order the summons to be served by affixing a copy thereof in some conspicuous place in the court-house, and also upon some conspicuous part of the house, if any, in which the defendant is known to have last resided, or in such other manner as the Court thinks fit.

Substituted service.

83. The service substituted by order of the Court, shall be as effectual as if it had been made on the defendant personally.

Effect of substituted service.

84. Whenever service is substituted by order of the Court, the Court shall fix such time for the appearance of the defendant as the case may require.

When service is substituted, time for appearance to be fixed.

85. If the defendant resides within the jurisdiction of any Court other than the Court in which the suit is instituted, and has no agent resident within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the latter Court empowered to accept the service of the summons, such Court shall send the summons, either by one of its officers or by post, to any Court, not being a High Court, having jurisdiction at the place where the defendant resides, by which it can be most conveniently served, and shall fix such time for the appearance of the defendant as the case may require.

Service of summons when defendant resides within jurisdiction of another Court and has no agent to accept service.

The Court to which the summons is sent shall, upon receipt thereof, deliver it to the proper officer of such Court, to be served, endorsed and returned in the manner hereinbefore directed.

Upon the return of the summons by the serving-officer, if it has not been served, the Court to which it has been sent shall examine him on oath touching the non-service and record the result; and the summons shall be sent back to the Court from which it originally issued, together with the record (if any) made under this paragraph.

86. Whenever any process issued by any Court established beyond the limits of the towns of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Rangoon is to be served within any such town, it shall be sent to the Court of Small Causes within whose jurisdiction the process is to be served,

Service within Presidency towns and Rangoon of process issued by Mufassal Courts.

and such Court of Small Causes shall cause it to be served in the same manner as if it had issued from such Court, and, after having been so served, the process shall be returned to the Court from which it issued.

87. If the defendant be in jail, the summons shall be delivered to the officer in charge of the jail in which the defendant is confined, and such officer shall cause the summons to be served upon the defendant.

Service on defendant in jail.

The summons shall be returned to the Court from which it issued, with a statement of the service endorsed thereon and signed by the officer in charge of the jail and by the defendant.

88. If the jail in which the defendant is confined is not in the district in which the suit is instituted, the summons may be sent by post or otherwise to the officer in charge of such jail, and such officer shall cause the summons to be served upon the defendant, and shall return the summons to the Court from which it issued, with a statement of the service endorsed thereon, and signed as provided in section 87.

Procedure if jail be in a different district.

89. If the defendant resides out of British India, and has no agent in British India empowered to accept the service, the summons shall be addressed to the defendant at the place where he is residing, and forwarded to him by post if there be postal communication between such place and the place where the Court is situate.

Service when defendant resides out of British India and has no agent to accept service.

90. If there be a British Resident or Agent of Government in or for the territory in which the defendant resides, the summons may be sent to such Resident or Agent, by post or otherwise, for the purpose of being served upon the defendant; and if the Resident or Agent return the summons with an endorsement under his hand that the summons has been served on the defendant in manner hereinbefore directed, such endorsement shall be conclusive evidence of the service.

Service through British Resident or Agent of Government.

91. Nothing herein contained shall prevent the Court from substituting for the summons a letter signed by the Judge or such officer as he appoints in this behalf, when the defendant is, in the opinion of the Court, of a rank which entitles him to such mark of consideration.

Substitution of letter for summons.

The letter shall contain all the particulars required to be stated in the summons, and, subject to the provisions contained in section 92, shall be treated in all respects as a summons.

92. When a letter or other communication is substituted for a summons, it may be sent by post or by a special messenger selected by the Court, or in any other manner which the Court thinks fit; unless the person whose appearance is required has an agent empowered to accept the service of the summons, in which case it may be served on such agent.

Mode of sending such letter.

Service of Process.

93. Wherever this Code provides that any notice, summons, letter or other communication may be sent to the person to whom it is addressed by post, proof that the same was correctly addressed to such person at his place of residence, and that it was posted and registered according to the law for the time being regulating the management of the Post Office shall, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, be sufficient proof of the due service and delivery of the notice summons, letter or other communication.

Proof of due service and delivery of process sent by post.

94. Every process required to be issued under this Code shall be served at the expense of the party at whose instance it is issued, unless the Court otherwise directs.

Process to be served at expense of party issuing it.

The sum required to defray the costs of such service shall be paid into Court before the process is issued, within a period to be fixed by the Court issuing the process.

Costs of service.

Postage, where chargeable on any notice, summons, letter or other communication forwarded by post and the fee for registering the same, shall be costs required to be paid as aforesaid within the meaning of this section.

Postage.

In fixing the costs to be paid for service of process, regard shall be had to any law or to any rules issued by the High Court for fixing the amount of such costs.

Fixing of costs of service.

95. All notices and orders required by this Code to be served on any person shall be in writing, and shall be served in the manner hereinbefore provided for the service of summons.

Notices and orders in writing how served.

CHAPTER VII.

OF THE APPEARANCE OF THE PARTIES AND CONSEQUENCE OF NON-APPEARANCE.

96. On the day fixed in the summons for the defendant to appear and answer, the parties shall be in attendance at the Court-house in person or by their respective pleaders, and the suit shall then be heard, unless the hearing be adjourned to a future day fixed by the Court.

Parties to appear on day fixed in summons for defendant to appear and answer.

97. If on the day so fixed for the defendant to appear and answer, it be found that the summons has not been served upon him in consequence of the failure of the plaintiff to deposit, within the period fixed by the Court, the sum required to defray the cost of issuing or serving such summons, the Court may order that the suit be dismissed:

Dismissal of suit where summons not served in consequence of plaintiff's failure to deposit costs of issuing it.

Provided that no such order shall be passed, although the summons has not been served upon the defendant, if, on the day fixed for him to appear and answer, he attends in person or by a duly authorized agent, when he is allowed to appear by agent.

Proviso.

98. If on the day so fixed for the defendant to appear and answer, or on any other subsequent day to which the hearing of the suit may be adjourned, neither party appears, the suit shall be dismissed, unless the Judge, for reasons to be recorded under his hand, otherwise directs.

If neither party appear, suit to be dismissed.

99. Whenever a suit is dismissed under section 97 or section 98, the plaintiff may (subject to the law of limitation) bring a fresh suit; or if, within the period of thirty days from the date of the order dismissing the suit, he satisfies the Court that there was a sufficient excuse for his not making the deposit required within the time allowed or for his non-appearance, as the case may be, the Court shall pass an order to set aside the dismissal and appoint a day for proceeding with the suit.

In such case plaintiff may bring fresh suit;

or Court may restore the suit to its file.

100. If the plaintiff appears and the defendant does not appear, the procedure shall be as follows:—

Procedure if only plaintiff appear.

when summons was duly served.

(a) if it is proved that the summons was duly served, the Court may proceed ex parte:

(b) if it is not proved that the summons was duly served, the Court shall direct a second summons to be issued and served on the defendant:

When summons not duly served.

(c) if it is proved that the summons was served on the defendant, but not in sufficient time to enable him to appear and answer on the day fixed in the summons, the Court shall postpone the hearing of the suit to a future day to be fixed by the Court, and shall direct notice of such day to given to the defendant.

When summons served, but not in due time.

101. If the Court has adjourned the hearing of the suit ex parte, and the defendant, at or before such hearing, appears and assigns good cause for his previous non-appearance, he may, upon such terms as the Court may direct as to costs or otherwise, be heard in answer to the suit, as if he had appeared on the day fixed for his appearance.

Procedure where defendant appears on day of adjourned hearing, and assigns good cause for previous non-appearance.

102. If the defendant appears and the plaintiff does not appear, the Court shall dismiss the suit, unless the defendant admits the claim, or part thereof, in which case the Court shall pass a decree against the defendant upon such admission, and where part only of the claim has been admitted, shall dismiss the suit so far as it relates to the remainder.

Procedure where defendant only appears.

When a suit is wholly or partially dismissed under this section, the plaintiff shall be precluded from bringing a fresh suit in respect of the same cause of action. But he may apply for an order to set the dismissal aside; and if it be proved that he was prevented by any sufficient cause from appearing when the suit was called on for hearing, the Court shall set aside the dismissal upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit, and shall appoint a day for proceeding with the suit.

Decree against plaintiff by default bars fresh suit.

No order shall be made under the second paragraph of this section unless the plaintiff has served the defendant with notice in writing of his application.

103. If, on the day fixed for the hearing of a suit against a defendant residing out of British India, who has no agent empowered to accept service of summons, or on any day to which the hearing has been adjourned, the defendant does not appear, the plaintiff may apply to the Court for permission to proceed with his suit, and the Court may direct that the plaintiff be at liberty to proceed with his suit in such manner and subject to such conditions as the Court thinks fit.

Procedure where defendant residing out of British India does not appear.

104. If there be more plaintiffs than one, and one or more of them appear, and the others of them do not appear, the Court may, at the instance of the plaintiff or plaintiffs who may appear, permit the suit to proceed in the same way as if all the plaintiffs had appeared, and pass such order as it thinks fit.

Procedure in case of non-attendance of one or more of several plaintiffs.

105. If there be more defendants than one, and one or more of them appear, and the others of them do not appear, the suit shall proceed, and the Court shall, at the time of passing judgment, make such order as it thinks fit with respect to the defendants who do not appear.

Procedure in case of non-attendance of one or more of several defendants.

106. If a plaintiff or defendant, who has been ordered to appear in person under the provisions of section 66 or section 436, does not appear in person, or show sufficient cause to the satisfaction of the Court for failing so to appear, he shall be subject to all the provisions of the foregoing sections applicable to plaintiffs and defendants, respectively, who do not appear.

Consequence of non-attendance, without sufficient cause shown, of party ordered to appear in person.

107. In support of the cause shown by a plaintiff or defendant for failing to appear in person, the Court shall receive any declaration in writing signed by such plaintiff or defendant and verified in manner hereinbefore provided for the verification of plaints.

Court to receive written declaration in support of cause shown for failure to appear.

Of setting aside Decrees ex parte.

108. In any case in which a decree is passed ex parte against a defendant under section 100, he may apply to the Court by which the decree was made for an order to set it aside;

Setting aside decree ex parte against defendant.

and if it be proved to the satisfaction of the Court that the summons was not duly served, or that the defendant was prevented by any sufficient cause from appearing when the suit was called on for hearing, the Court shall pass an order to set aside the decree upon such terms as to costs, payment into Court, or otherwise, as it thinks fit, and shall appoint a day for proceeding with the suit.

109. No decree shall be set aside on any such application as aforesaid, unless notice thereof in writing has been served on the opposite party.

No decree to be set aside, without notice to opposite party.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF WRITTEN STATEMENTS AND SET-OFF.

110. The parties may, at the first hearing of the suit, tender written statements of their respective cases, and the Court shall receive such statements, place them on the record, and deal with them as if given in evidence.

Written statements.

111. If in a suit for the recovery of money the defendant claims to set-off against the plaintiff's demand any ascertained sum of money legally recoverable by him from the plaintiff, and if in such claim of the defendant against the plaintiff both parties fill the same character as they fill in the plaintiff's suit, the defendant may, at the first hearing of the suit, but not afterwards unless permitted by the Court, tender a written statement containing the particulars of the debt sought to be set-off.

Particulars of set-off to be given in written statement.

The Court shall thereupon enquire into the same, and if it find that the case fulfils the requirements of the former part of this section, and that the amount claimed to be set-off does not exceed the pecuniary limits of its jurisdiction, the Court shall set-off the one debt against the other.

Enquiry.

Such set-off shall have the same effect as a plaint in a cross-suit, so as to enable the Court to pronounce a final judgment in the same suit, both on the original and on the cross-claim.

Effect of set-off.

When the defendant, for the purpose of availing himself of the provisions contained in this section, intentionally relinquishes any portion of his claim against the plaintiff, nothing in section 43 shall apply to the portion so relinquished.

Relinquishment of portion of claim for purpose of set-off.

Illustrations.

(a) A bequeaths Rs. 2,000 to B, and appoints C his executor and residuary legatee. B dies and D takes out administration to B's effects. C pays Rs. 1,000 as surety for D. Then D sues C for the legacy. C cannot set-off the debt of Rs. 1,000 against the legacy, for neither C nor D fills the same character with respect to the legacy as they fill with respect to the payment of the Rs. 1,000.

(b) A dies intestate and in debt to B. C takes out administration to A's effects, and B buys part of the effects from C. In a suit for the purchase-money by C against B, the latter cannot set-off the debt against the price, for C fills two different characters, one as the vendor to B, in which he sues B, and the other as representative to A, in which B seeks the set-off.

(c) A sues B on a bill of exchange. B alleges that A has wrongfully neglected to insure B's goods and is liable to him in compensation which he claims to set-off. The amount not being ascertained cannot be set-off.

(d) A sues B on a bill of exchange for Rs. 500. B holds a judgment against A for Rs. 1,000. The two claims being both definite pecuniary demands may be set-off.

(e) A sues B for compensation on account of a trespass. B holds a promissory note for Rs. 1,000 from A and claims to set-off that amount against any sum that A may recover in the suit. B may do so, for as soon as A recovers, both sums are definite pecuniary demands.

(f) A and B sue C for Rs. 1,000. C cannot set-off a debt due to him by A alone.

(g) A sues B and C for Rs. 1,000. B cannot set-off a debt due to him alone by A.

(h) A owes the partnership firm of B and C Rs. 1,000. B dies leaving C surviving. A sues C for a debt of Rs. 1,500 due in his separate character. C may set-off the debt of Rs. 1,000.

112. Except as provided in the last preceding section, no written statement shall be received after the first hearing of the suit:

No written statement to be received after first hearing unless called for by Court.

Provided the Court may at any time require a written statement, or additional written statement, from any of the parties, and fix a time for presenting the same:

Court may at any time call for written statements.

Provided also that a written statement, or an additional written statement, may, with the permission of the Court, be received at any time for the purpose of answering written statements so required and presented.

113. If any party from whom a written statement is so required fails to present the same within the time fixed by the Court, the Court may pass a decree against him, or make such other order in relation to the suit as it thinks fit.

Procedure when party fails to present written statement called for by Court.

114. Written statements shall be as brief as the nature of the case admits, and shall not be argumentative, but shall be confined as much as possible to a simple narrative of the facts which the party by whom or on whose behalf the written statement is made believes to be material to the case, and which he believes he will be able to prove.

Frame of written statements.

Every such statement shall be divided into paragraphs, numbered consecutively, and each paragraph containing as nearly as may be a separate allegation.

115. Written statements shall be subscribed and verified in the manner hereinbefore provided for subscribing and verifying plaints, and no written statement shall be received unless it be so subscribed and verified.

Written statements to be subscribed and verified.

The provisions of section 52 as to examining witnesses as to the fact of signature shall apply in the case of written statements.

116. If it appear to the Court that any written statement, whether called for by the Court or spontaneously tendered, is argumentative or prolix, or contains matter irrelevant to the suit, the Court may amend it then and there, or may, by an order to be endorsed thereon, reject the same, or return it to the party by whom it was made for amendment within a time to be fixed by the Court, imposing such terms as to costs or otherwise as the Court thinks fit.

Rejection of argumentative, prolix or irrelevant written statements.

When any amendment is made under this section, the Judge shall attest it by his signature.

When a statement has been rejected under this section, the party making it shall not present another written statement, unless it be expressly called for or allowed by the Court.

117. Every allegation of fact in any written statement, if not denied specifically or by necessary implication, or stated to be not admitted by the opposite party, shall be taken to be admitted for the purposes of the suit.

Allegation of fact not denied admitted for purpose of suit.

CHAPTER IX.

OF THE EXAMINATION OF THE PARTIES BY THE COURT.

118. At the first hearing of the suit, or at any subsequent hearing, any party appearing in person or present in Court, or any person able to answer any material questions relating to the suit by whom he or his pleader is accompanied, may be examined orally by the Court; and the Court may, if it thinks fit, put in the course of such examination questions suggested by either party.

Oral examination of party, or companion of himself or his pleader.

119. The substance of the examination shall be reduced to writing by the Judge, and shall form part of the record.

Substance of examination to be written.

120. If the pleader of any party who appears by a pleader refuses or is unable to answer any material question relating to the suit which the Court is of opinion that the party whom he represents ought to answer, and is likely to be able to answer if interrogated in person, the Court may postpone the hearing of the suit to a future day, and direct that such party shall appear in person on such day.

Consequence of refusal or inability of pleader to answer.

If such party fails without lawful excuse to appear in person on the day so appointed, the Court may pass a decree against him, or make such order in relation to the suit as it thinks fit.

CHAPTER X.

OF DISCOVERY AND OF THE ADMISSION, INSPECTION, PRODUCTION, IMPOUNDING AND RETURN OF DOCUMENTS.

Discovery.

121. At any time before the settlement of issues, either party may without any order for that purpose, and any party may at any time by leave of the Court, deliver through the Court interrogatories in writing for the examination of the opposite party, or where there are more opposite parties than one, any one or more of such parties, with a note at the foot thereof stating which of such interrogatories each of such persons is required to answer:

Power to deliver interrogatories.

Provided that no party shall deliver more than one set of interrogatories to the same person without the permission of the Court.

122. Interrogatories delivered under section 121 shall be served in the manner hereinbefore provided for the service of summons, and the provisions of sections 79, 80 and 81 shall, mutatis mutandis, apply to the serving officer.

Service of interrogatories.

123. The Court, in adjusting the costs of the suit, shall, at the instance of any party, inquire or cause inquiry to be made into the propriety of delivering such interrogatories; and if it thinks that such interrogatories have been delivered unreasonably, vexatiously or at improper length, the costs occasioned by the said interrogatories and the answers thereto shall be borne by the party in fault.

Inquiry into propriety of exhibiting interrogatories.

124. If any party to a suit be a body corporate or a joint stock company, whether incorporated or not, or any other body of persons empowered by law to sue or be sued, whether in its own name or in the name of any officer or other person, any opposite party may apply to the Court for an order allowing him to deliver interrogatories to any member or officer of such corporation, company or body, and an order may be made accordingly.

Service of interrogatories on officer of corporation or company.

125. Any party called upon to answer interrogatories, whether by himself or by any such member or officer, may refuse to answer any interrogatory on the ground that it is irrelevant, or is not put bonâ fide for the purposes of the suit, or that the matter inquired after is not sufficiently material at that stage of the suit, or on any other like ground.

Power to strike out interrogatories as irrelevant, &c.

126. Interrogatories shall be answered by affidavit to be filed in Court within ten days from the service thereof or within such other time as the Judge may allow.

Time for filing affidavit in answer.

127. If any person interrogated omits or refuses to answer, or answers insufficiently, any interrogatory, the party interrogating may apply to the Court for an order requiring him to answer or to answer further, as the case may be. And an order may be made requiring him to answer or to answer further either by affidavit or by viva voce examination as the Judge may direct. Provided that the Judge shall not require an answer to any interrogatory which in his opinion need not have been answered under section 125.

Procedure where a party omits to answer sufficiently.

Admission of Documents.

128. Either party may, by a demand made in writing, within a reasonable time, not being less than four days before the hearing, require the other party to admit (saving all just exceptions to the admissibility of such document in evidence) the genuineness of any document material to the suit.

Power to demand admission of genuineness of documents.

The demand shall be served through the Court in the manner hereinbefore provided for the service of summons, and the provisions of sections 79, 80 and 81 shall, mutatis mutandis, apply to the serving officer.

The admission shall also be made in writing and filed in Court by the other party.

If such demand be not made, no costs of proving such document shall be allowed, unless the Judge otherwise orders.

If such demand is not complied with within four days after its being served, and the Judge thinks it reasonable that the admission should have been made, the party refusing shall bear the expense of proving such document, whatever may be the result of the suit.

Production of Documents.

129. The Court may, at any time during the pendency therein of any suit, order the production by any party thereto of such of the documents in his possession or power relating to any matter in question in such suit or proceeding as the Court thinks right; and the Court may deal with such documents when produced in such manner as appears just.

Power to order production of documents during suit.

130. Any party may apply to the Court for an order directing any other party to the suit to declare by affidavit all the documents which are or have been in his possession or power relating to any matter in question in the suit or proceeding.

Application for order for discovery of document.

Every such affidavit shall specify which, if any, of the documents therein mentioned the declarant objects to produce.

Affidavit in answer to such order.

131. Every party to a suit may at any time before or at the hearing thereof give notice through the Court to any other party in whose plaint, written statement or affidavits

Notice to produce for inspection documents referred to in plaint, &c.

reference is made to any document, to produce such document in the presence of such officer as the Court appoints in this behalf, for the inspection of the party giving such notice or of his pleader, and to permit such party or pleader to take copies thereof.

No party failing to comply with such notice shall afterwards be at liberty to put any such document in evidence on his behalf in such suit, unless he satisfies the Court that such document relates only to his own title, or that he had some other and sufficient cause for not complying with such notice.

Consequence of non-compliance with such notice.

132. The party to whom such notice is given shall, within four days from the receipt thereof, deliver through the Court to the party giving the same a notice stating a time within three days from such delivery at which the documents or such of them as he does not object to produce, may be inspected at his pleader's office or some other convenient place, and stating which, if any, of the documents he objects to produce, and on what grounds.

Party receiving such notice to deliver notice when and where inspection may be had.

133. If any party served with notice under section 131 omits to give notice under section 132 of the time for inspection, or objects to give inspection, or names an inconvenient place for inspection, the party desiring it may apply to the Court for an order of inspection.

Application for order of inspection.

134. Except in the case of documents referred to in the plaint, written statement, or affidavit of the party against whom the application is made, or disclosed in his affidavit of documents, such application shall be founded upon an affidavit showing (a) of what documents inspection is sought, (b) that the party applying is entitled to inspect them, and (c) that they are in the possession or power of the party against whom the application is made.

Application to be founded on affidavit.

135. If the party from whom discovery of any kind or inspection is sought, objects to the same or any part thereof, and if the Court is satisfied that the right to such discovery or inspection depends on the determination of any issue or question in dispute in the suit or that for any other reason it is desirable that any such issue or question should be determined before deciding upon the right to the discovery or inspection, the Court may order that the issue or question be determined first and reserve the question as to the discovery or inspection.

Power to order issue or question on which right to discovery depends to be first determined.

136. If any party fail to comply with any order under this chapter to answer interrogatories or for discovery or inspection, which has been served personally upon him, he shall, if a plaintiff, be liable to have his suit dismissed for want of prosecution, and if a defendant, to have his defence, if any, struck out, and to be placed in the same position as if he had not defended;

Consequences of failure to answer or give inspection.

and the party interrogating or seeking discovery or inspection may apply to the Court for an order to that effect, and the Court may make such order accordingly.

Any party failing to comply with any order under this chapter to answer interrogatories or for discovery or inspection of documents, which has been served personally upon him, shall also be deemed guilty of an offence under section 188 of the Indian Penal Code.

137. The Court may, of its own accord, and may, in its discretion, upon the application of any of the parties to a suit send for, either from its own records or from any other Court, the record of any other suit or proceeding, and inspect the same.

Court may send for papers from its own records or from other Courts.

Every application made under this section must, if the Court so require, be supported by an affidavit of the applicant or his pleader, showing how the record is material to the suit in which the application is made and that the applicant cannot obtain a duly authenticated copy of the record or such portion thereof as the applicant requires.

Production of Documents at first Hearing.

138. The parties or their pleaders shall bring with them and have in readiness at the first hearing of the suit, to be produced when called for by the Court, all the documentary evidence of every description in their possession or power, on which they intend to rely, and which has not already been filed in Court, and all documents or other things specified in any order made under section 130 at any time before the hearing of the suit.

Documentary evidence to be produced at first hearing.

139. No documentary evidence in the possession or power of any party the production of which has been called for under section 138, and which has not been produced, shall be received at any subsequent stage of the proceedings unless good cause be shown to the satisfaction of the Court for the non-production thereof. And the Judge receiving any such evidence shall record his reasons for so doing.

Effect of non-production of documents.

140. The Court shall receive the documents produced by the parties at the first hearing.

Documents to be received by Court.

The Court may at any stage of the suit reject any document which it considers irrelevant or otherwise inadmissible, recording the grounds of such rejection.

Rejection of irrelevant or inadmissible documents.

141. No document shall be placed on the record unless it has been proved or admitted in accordance with the law of evidence for the time being in force. Every document so proved or admitted shall be endorsed with the number and title of the suit, the name of the person producing it, and the date on which it was produced, and shall be filed as part of the record:

No documents to be placed on record unless proved.

Proved documents to be marked and filed.

Provided that, if the document be an entry in a shop-book or other book, the party on whose behalf such book is produced may furnish a copy of the entry, which may be endorsed as aforesaid, and shall be filed as part of the record, and the Court shall mark the entry and shall then return the book to the person producing it.

Entries in shop-books.

142. When a document is rejected by the Court, it shall be endorsed in the manner specified in the last preceding section with the addition of the word "rejected," and the endorsement shall be signed by the Judge.

Rejected documents to be marked,

The document shall then be returned to the party who produced it.

and returned; unless detained by Court.

143. Notwithstanding anything contained in sections 62, 141 and 142, the Court may, if it see sufficient cause, direct any document or book produced before it in any suit to be impounded and kept in the custody of an officer of the Court, for such period and subject to such conditions as the Court thinks fit.

Court may order any document to be impounded.

144. In suits in which an appeal is not allowed, when the suit has been disposed of, and in suits in which an appeal is allowed, when the time for preferring an appeal from the decree has elapsed, or, if an appeal has been preferred, then after the appeal has been disposed of, any person, whether a party to the suit or not, desirous of receiving back any document produced by him in the suit, and placed on the record, shall, unless the document is impounded under section 143, be entitled to receive back the same:

After lapse of time for appeal, document admitted in evidence may be returned.

Provided that a document may be returned at any time before either of such events, if the person applying for such return delivers to the proper officer a certified copy of such document to be substituted for the original:

When document may be returned before time limited.

Provided also that no document shall be returned which, by force of the decree, has become void or useless.

Document not to be returned in certain cases.

145. On the return of a document which has been admitted in evidence, a receipt shall be given by the party receiving it, in a receipt-book to be kept for the purpose.

Receipt to be given for returned document.

CHAPTER XI.

OF THE SETTLEMENT OF ISSUES.

146. Issues arise when a proposition of fact or law is affirmed by the one party and denied by the other.

Framing of issues.

They are of two kinds: (1) issues of fact, (2) issues of law.

At the first hearing of the suit, the Court shall, after reading the plaint and the written statements, if any, and after such examination of the parties as may appear necessary, ascertain upon what propositions of fact or of law the parties are at variance, and shall thereupon proceed to frame and record the issues on which the right decision of the case appears to the Court to depend.

When issues both of law and of fact arise in the same suit, and the Court is of opinion that the case may be disposed of on the issues of law only, it shall try those issues first.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to require the Court to frame and record issues when the defendant at the first hearing of the suit makes no defence.

Allegations from which issues may be framed.

147. The Court may frame the issues from any of the following materials:—

(a) allegations made on oath by the parties, or by any persons present on their behalf, or made by the pleaders of such parties or persons;

(b) allegations made in the plaint or in the written statements (if any) tendered in the suit;

(c) the contents of documents produced by either party and placed on the record.

Court may examine witnesses or documents before framing issues.

148. If the Court be of opinion that the issues cannot be correctly framed without the examination of some person not before the Court, or without the inspection of some document not produced in the suit, it may adjourn the framing of the issues to a future day, to be fixed by the Court, and may compel the attendance of any person or the production of any document by the person in whose hands it may be, by summons or other process.

Power to amend, add and strike out issues.

149. The Court may at any time before passing a decree amend the issues or frame additional issues on such terms as it thinks fit, and all such amendments or additional issues as may be necessary for determining the controversy between the parties shall be so made or framed.

The Court may also, at any time before passing a decree, strike out any issues that appear to it to be wrongly framed or introduced.

Questions of fact or law may by agreement be stated in the form of an issue.

150. When the parties to a suit are agreed as to the question of fact or of law to be decided between them, they may state the same in the form of an issue, and enter into an agreement in writing,

(a) that upon the finding of the Court in the affirmative or the negative of such issue, a sum of money specified in the agreement, or to be ascertained by the Court, or in such manner as the Court may direct, shall be paid by one of the parties to the other of them, or that one of them be declared entitled to some right or subject to some liability specified in the agreement,

(b) that upon such finding some property specified in the agreement and in dispute in the suit shall be delivered by one of the parties to the other of them, or as that other may direct, or

(c) that upon such finding one or more of the parties shall do or abstain from doing some particular act, specified in the agreement, and relating to the matter in dispute.

No such agreement shall be filed after the Court has recorded issues in the suit, unless the Judge, for some reason to be recorded under his hand, otherwise directs.

Court if satisfied that the agreement was executed in good faith may give judgment.

151. If the Court be satisfied, after making such enquiry as it deems proper,

(a) that the agreement was duly executed by the parties,

(b) that they have a substantial interest in the decision of such question as aforesaid, and

(c) that the same is fit to be tried and decided,

it may proceed to record and try the issue, and deliver its finding or opinion thereon in the same manner as if the issue had been framed by the Court;

and may, upon the finding or decision on such issue, give judgment according to the terms of the agreement;

and upon the judgment so given, decree shall follow and may be executed in the same way as if the judgment had been pronounced in a contested suit.

CHAPTER XII.

DISPOSAL OF THE SUIT AT THE FIRST HEARING.

If parties are not at issue on any question of law or fact.

152. If at the first hearing of a suit it appears that the parties are not at issue on any question of law or of fact, the Court may at once give judgment.

If one of several defendants be not at issue with the plaintiff.

153. Where there are more defendants than one, and any one of the defendants is not at issue with the plaintiff on any question of law or fact, the Court may at once give judgment for or against such defendant, and the suit shall proceed only against the other defendants.

If parties are at issue on questions of law or fact.

154. When the parties are at issue on some question of law or of fact, and issues have been framed by the Court as hereinbefore provided, if the Court be satisfied that no further argument or evidence than the parties can at once supply is required upon such of the issues as may be sufficient for the decision of the suit, and that no injustice will result from proceeding with the suit forthwith, the Court may proceed to determine such issue, and if the finding thereon is sufficient for the decision, may pronounce judgment accordingly, whether the summons has been issued for the settlement of issues only or for the final disposal of the suit:

Court may determine issue and give judgment.

Provided that, where the summons has been issued for the settlement of issues only, the parties or their pleaders are present and none of them object.

If the finding is not sufficient for the decision, the Court shall postpone the further hearing of the suit, and shall fix a day for the production of such further evidence, or for such further argument as the case requires.

If either party fails to produce his evidence, Court may give judgment.

155. If the summons has been issued for the final disposal of the suit, and either party fails without sufficient cause to produce the evidence on which he relies, the Court may at once give judgment, or if it is unable to give judgment by reason of additional evidence being required, or for any other cause, the Court shall frame and record, under section 146, the issues requiring to be determined.

Procedure where Court cannot give judgment at first hearing.

CHAPTER XIII.

OF ADJOURNMENTS.

Court may grant time, or adjourn hearing.

156. The Court may, if sufficient cause be shown, at any stage of the suit, grant time to the parties, or to any of them, and may from time to time adjourn the hearing of the suit.

Costs of adjournment.

In all such cases the Court shall fix a day for the further hearing of the suit, and may make such order as it thinks fit with respect to the costs occasioned by the adjournment:

Provided that, when the hearing of evidence has once begun, the hearing of the suit shall be continued from day to day until all the witnesses in attendance have been examined, unless the Court finds the adjournment of the hearing to be absolutely necessary for reasons to be recorded by the hand of the Judge.

Procedure if parties fail to appear on day fixed.

157. If, on any day to which the hearing of the suit is adjourned, the parties or either of them fail to appear, the Court may proceed to dispose of the suit in one of the modes directed in that behalf by Chapter VII, or make such other order as it thinks fit.

Court may proceed notwithstanding either party fails to produce his evidence.

158. If either party to a suit to whom time has been granted fails to produce his evidence, or to cause the attendance of his witnesses, or to perform any other act necessary to the further progress of the suit, for which time has been allowed, the Court may, notwithstanding such default, proceed to decide the suit forthwith.

CHAPTER XIV.

OF THE SUMMONING AND ATTENDANCE OF WITNESSES.

Summons to attend to give evidence or produce documents.

159. The parties may, after the summons has been delivered for service on the defendant, if the summons be for the final disposal of the suit; or after the issues have been recorded, if the summons to the defendant be for the settlement of issues only, obtain, on application to the Court or to such officer as it appoints in this behalf, before the day fixed for such disposal or settlement, as the case may be, summonses to persons whose attendance is required either to give evidence or to produce a document.

Expenses of witnesses to be paid into Court on applying for summons.

160. The person applying for a summons shall pay into court such a sum of money as appears to the Court to be sufficient to defray the travelling and other expenses of the person summoned, in passing to and from the court in which he is required to attend, and for one day's attendance.

If the Court be subordinate to a High Court, regard shall be had, in fixing the scale of such expenses, to the rules (if any) laid down by competent authority.

Scale of expenses.

161. The sum so paid into court shall be tendered to the person summoned, at the time of serving the summons if it can be served personally.

Tender of expenses to witness.

162. If it appear to the Court or to such officer as it appoints in this behalf that the sum paid into court is not sufficient to cover such expenses, the Court may direct such further sum to be paid to the person summoned as appears to be necessary on that account; and, in case of default in payment, may order such sum to be levied by attachment and sale of the moveable property of the person obtaining the summons; or the Court may discharge the person summoned without requiring him to give evidence.

Procedure where insufficient sum paid in.

If it be necessary to detain the person summoned for a longer period than one day, the Court may from time to time order the party at whose instance he was summoned, to pay into court such sum as is sufficient to defray the expenses of his detention for such further period, and in default of such deposit being made, may order such sum to be levied by attachment and sale of the moveable property of the party at whose instance he was summoned; or the Court may discharge the person summoned without requiring him to give evidence.

Expenses if witness detained more than one day.

163. Every summons for the attendance of a person to give evidence or produce a document shall specify the time and place at which he is required to attend, and also whether his attendance is required for the purpose of giving evidence or to produce a document, or for both purposes; and any particular document which the person summoned is called on to produce, shall be described in the summons with reasonable accuracy.

Time, place, and purpose of attendance to be specified in summons.

164. Any person may be summoned to produce a document, without being summoned to give evidence; and any person summoned merely to produce a document shall be deemed to have complied with the summons, if he cause such document to be produced instead of attending personally to produce the same.

Summons to produce document.

165. Any person present in court may be required by the Court to give evidence or to produce any document then and there in his actual possession or power.

Power to require persons present in Court to give evidence.

Service of Summons on Persons required to give Evidence or produce Documents.

166. Every summons to a person to give evidence or produce a document shall be served as nearly as may be in manner hereinbefore prescribed for the service of summons on the defendant; and the rules contained in Chapter VI as to proof of service shall apply in the case of all summonses served under this section.

Summons how served.

167. The service shall in all cases be made a sufficient time before the time specified in the summons for the attendance of the person summoned, to allow him a reasonable time for preparation and for travelling to the place at which his attendance is required.

Time for serving summons.

168. If the serving officer certify to the Court that the summons for the attendance of a person, either to give evidence or to produce a document, cannot be served, the Court shall examine the serving-officer on oath touching the non-service:

Attachment of property of absconding witness.

and upon being satisfied that such evidence or production is material, and that the person for whose attendance the summons has been issued is absconding or keeping out of the way for the purpose of avoiding the service of the summons, may cause a proclamation requiring him to attend to give evidence, or produce the document, at a time and place to be named therein.;

and a copy of such proclamation shall be affixed on some conspicuous place of the house in which he is dwelling.

If he does not attend at the time and place named in such proclamation, the Court may in its discretion, at the instance of the party on whose application the summons was issued, make an order for the attachment of the property of the person whose attendance is required, to such amount as the Court thinks fit, not exceeding the amount of the costs of attachment and of the fine which may be imposed under section 170.

Provided that no Court of Small Causes shall make an order for the attachment of immovable property.

169. If, on the attachment of his property, such person appears and satisfies the Court that he did not abscond or keep out of the way to avoid service of the summons, and that he had not notice of the proclamation in time to attend at the time and place named therein, the Court shall direct that the property be released from attachment, and shall make such order as to the costs of the attachment as it thinks fit.

If witness appears, attachment may be withdrawn.

170. If such person does not appear, or appearing, fails to satisfy the Court that he did not abscond or keep out of the way to avoid service of the summons, and that he had not notice of the proclamation in time to attend at the time and place named therein, the Court may impose upon him such fine not exceeding five hundred rupees as the Court thinks fit, having regard to his condition in life and all the circumstances of the case, and may order the property attached, or any part thereof, to be sold for the purpose of satisfying all costs incurred in consequence of such attachment, together with the amount of the said fine, if any:

Procedure if witness fails to appear.

Provided that if the person whose attendance is required pays into Court the costs and fine as aforesaid, the Court shall order the property to be released from attachment.

Attendance of Witnesses and Consequence of Non-attendance.

171. Subject to the rules of this Code as to attendance and appearance and to the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act, if the Court at any time thinks it necessary to examine any person other than a party to the suit, and not named as a witness by a party to the suit, the Court may, of its own motion, cause such person to be summoned as a witness to give evidence, or to produce any document in his possession, on a day to be appointed, and may examine him as a witness or require him to produce such document.

Court may of its own accord summon as witnesses strangers to suit.

172. Subject as last aforesaid, whoever is summoned to appear and give evidence in a suit must attend at the time and place named in the summons for that purpose, and whoever is summoned to produce a document must either attend to produce it, or cause it to be produced, at such time and place.

Persons summoned to give evidence must attend.

173. No person so summoned and attending shall depart unless and until (a) he has been examined or has produced the document and the Court has risen, or (b) he has obtained the Court's leave to depart.

When they may depart.

174. If any person on whom a summons to give evidence or produce a document has been served fails to comply with the summons, or if any person so summoned and attending departs in contravention of section 173, the Court may order him to be arrested and brought before the Court.

Consequences of non-attendance.

Provided that no such order shall be made when the Court has reason to believe that the person so failing had a lawful excuse for such failure.

When any person so brought before the Court fails to satisfy it that he had a lawful excuse for not complying with the summons, the Court may sentence him to fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

Explanation.—Non-payment or non-tender of a reasonable sum for expenses shall be deemed a lawful excuse within the meaning of this section.

If any person so apprehended and brought before the Court cannot, owing to the absence of the parties or any of them, give the evidence or produce the document which he has been summoned to give or produce, the Court may require him to give reasonable bail for his appearance at such time and place as it thinks fit, and on such bail being given, may release him.

Consequences of refusal to give evidence or produce documents.

175. If any person so failing to comply with a summons absconds or keeps out of the way, so that he cannot be apprehended and brought before the Court, the provisions of sections 168, 169 and 170 shall, mutatis mutandis, apply.

Procedure when witness absconds.

176. If any party present in Court refuses, without lawful excuse, when required by the Court, to give evidence, or to produce such document then and there in his actual possession or power, the Court may in its discretion either pass a decree against him, or make such other order in relation to the suit as the Court thinks fit.

Consequence of refusal of party to give evidence when called on by the Court.

Nothing in this section enables the Court to decree a claim which on the face of the record is not warranted by law.

Explanation.—"Lawful excuse" means in this section such an excuse as, under the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, justifies a refusal to give the evidence or produce the document required.

177. No one shall be bound to attend in person to give evidence in Court unless he resides—

Person summoned to attend in person if so required.

(a) within the local limits of its ordinary original jurisdiction, or

(b) without such limits and at a place less than fifty or (where there is railway communication between the place where he resides and the place where the Court is situate) two hundred miles distant from the Court-house.

178. Whenever any party to a suit is required to give evidence or to produce a document, the rules as to witnesses contained in this Code shall apply to him so far as they are applicable.

Rules as to witnesses to apply to parties summoned.

CHAPTER XV.

OF THE HEARING OF THE SUIT AND EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES.

Proceedings on the Hearing.

179. On the day fixed for the hearing of the suit, or on any other day to which the hearing is adjourned, the party having the right to begin shall state his case and produce his evidence in support of the issues which he is bound to prove.

Statement and production of evidence by party having right to begin.

Explanation.—The plaintiff has the right to begin unless where the defendant admits the facts alleged by the plaintiff and contends that on those facts the plaintiff is not entitled to any part of the relief which he seeks, in which case the defendant has the right to begin.

Rules as to right to begin.

180. The other party shall then state his case and produce his evidence (if any).

Statement and production of evidence by other party.

The party beginning is then entitled to reply.

Reply by party beginning.

Where there are several issues, the burden of proving some of which lies on the other party, the party beginning may, at his option, either produce his evidence on those issues or reserve it by way of answer to the evidence produced by the other party. In the latter case the party beginning may produce fresh evidence on those issues after the other party has produced all his evidence, and the other party may then reply specially on such fresh evidence; but the party beginning will then be entitled to reply generally on the whole case.

181. The evidence of the witnesses in attendance shall be taken orally in open court in the presence and hearing, and under the personal direction and superintendence, of the Judge.

Witnesses to be examined in open court.

182. In cases in which an appeal is allowed the evidence of each witness shall be taken down in writing, in the language of the Court, by or in the presence and under the personal direction and superintendence of the Judge, not ordinarily in the form of question and answer, but in that of a narrative, and, when completed, shall be read over in the presence of the Judge and of the witness, and also in the presence of the parties or their pleaders, and shall, if necessary, be corrected, and shall be signed, by the Judge.

How evidence shall be taken in appealable cases.

183. In cases in which the evidence is not taken down in writing by the Judge, he shall be bound, as the examination of each witness proceeds, to make a memorandum of the substance of what each witness deposes, and such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Judge with his own hand, and shall form part of the record.

Memorandum when evidence is not taken down by Judge.

184. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 182, the Local Government may by notification in the official Gazette permit the evidence of witnesses in any Court or class of Courts to be taken down by the Judge with his own hand in English, and may withdraw such permission, and any Judge may take down the evidence with his own hand in English, if the parties to the suit who appear in person, and the pleaders of such as appear by pleaders, do not object.

Local Government may direct evidence to be taken down by Judge with his own hand.

185. If the evidence is taken down in a language different from that in which it was given, and the witness does not understand the language in which it is taken down, the evidence as taken down in writing shall be interpreted to him in the language in which it was given.

When witness may require his deposition to be interpreted.

186. The Court may of its own motion or on the application of any party or his pleader take down, or cause to be taken down, any particular question and answer, or any objection to any question, if there appear any special reason for so doing.

Any particular question and answer may be taken down.

187. If any question put to a witness be objected to by a party or his pleader, and the Court allows the same to be put, the Judge shall take down the question, the answer, the objection and the name of the person making it, together with the decision of the Court upon the objection.

Questions objected to.

188. The Court may record such remarks as it thinks material respecting the demeanour of any witness while under examination.

Remarks on demeanour of witnesses.

189. In cases in which an appeal is not allowed, it shall not be necessary to take down the evidence of the witnesses in writing at length; but the Judge, as the examination of each witness proceeds, shall make a memorandum of the substance of what he deposes, and such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Judge with his own hand, and shall form part of the record.

Memorandum of evidence in unappealable cases.

190. If the Judge be rendered unable to take down evidence, or to make a memorandum as above required by this Chapter, he shall cause the reason of such inability to be recorded, and shall cause the evidence to be taken down, or the memorandum to be made in writing from his dictation in open Court.

Judge unable to make such memorandum to record reason of his inability.

Every memorandum so made shall form part of the record.

191. Where the Judge taking down any evidence, or causing any memorandum to be made under this Chapter, dies or is removed from the Court before the conclusion of the suit, his successor may, if he thinks fit, deal with such evidence or memorandum as if he himself had taken it down or caused it to be made.

Power to deal with evidence taken down by Judge removed before conclusion of suit.

192. If a witness be about to leave the jurisdiction of the Court, or if other sufficient cause be shown to the satisfaction of the Court why his evidence should be taken immediately, the Court, may, upon the application of either party or of the witness, at any time after the institution of the suit, take the evidence of such witness in manner hereinbefore provided.

Power to examine witness immediately.

Where such evidence is not taken forthwith and in the presence of the parties, such notice as the Court thinks sufficient of the day fixed for the examination shall be given to the parties.

The evidence so taken shall be read over to the witness, and, if he admits it to be correct, shall be signed by him, and may then be read at any hearing of the suit.

193. The Court may at any stage of the suit recall any witness who has been examined and who has not departed in accordance with section 173, and may (subject to the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act) put such questions to him as the Court thinks fit.

Court may recall and examine witness.

CHAPTER XVI.

OF AFFIDAVITS.

194. The Court may at any time for sufficient reason order that any particular fact or facts may be proved by affidavit, or that the affidavit of any witness may be read at the hearing, on such conditions as the Court thinks reasonable:

Power to order any point to be proved by affidavit.

Provided that where it appears to the Court that the other party bonâ fide desires the production of a witness for cross-examination, and that such witness can be produced, an order shall not be made authorizing the evidence of such witness to be given by affidavit.

195. Upon any application evidence may be given by affidavit, but the Court may on the application of either party order the attendance for cross-examination of the declarant.

When evidence may be given by affidavit.

196. Affidavits shall be confined to such facts as the declarant is able of his own knowledge to prove, except on interlocutory applications, on which statements of his belief may be admitted, provided that reasonable grounds thereof be set forth.

Matters to which affidavits shall be confined.

The costs of every affidavit which shall unnecessarily set forth matters of hearsay or argumentative matter, or copies of or extracts from documents, shall be paid by the party filing the same.

197. In the case of any affidavit under this Code—

Oath of declarant by whom to be administered.

(a) any Court or Magistrate, or

(b) any officer whom a High Court may appoint in this behalf, or

(c) any officer appointed by any other Court which the Local Government has generally or specially empowered in this behalf, may administer the oath of the declarant.

CHAPTER XVII.

OF JUDGMENT AND DECREE.

198. The Court, after inspecting the documentary evidence on the record, and examining or hearing the witnesses examined by the parties or their pleaders, and hearing the parties in person or by their respective pleaders or recognized agents, shall pronounce judgment in open Court, either at once or on some future day, of which due notice shall be given to the parties or their pleaders.

Judgment when pronounced.

199. A Judge may pronounce a judgment written by his predecessor, but not pronounced, and in such case he shall not be bound by section 198, except as to giving notice.

Power to pronounce judgment written by Judge's predecessor.

200. The judgment shall be written in the language of the Court:

Judgment to be written in language of Court.

Provided that, if such language is not English or the Judge's mother-tongue, the judgment may be written in English or his mother-tongue.

Proviso.

201. Whenever the judgment is written in any language other than that of the Court, the judgment shall, if any of the parties so require, be translated into the language of the Court, and the translation shall also be signed by the Judge or such officer as he appoints in this behalf.

Translation of judgment.

202. The judgment shall be dated and signed by the Judge in open Court at the time of pronouncing it, and shall not be altered or added to, save to correct verbal errors or on review.

Judgment to be dated and signed.

203. The judgments of the Courts of Small Causes need not contain more than the points for determination and the decision thereupon.

Judgments of Small Cause Courts.

The judgments of all other Courts shall contain a concise statement of the case, the points for determination, the decision thereon, and the reasons for such decision.

Judgments of other Courts.

204. In suits in which issues have been framed, the Court shall state its finding or decision, with the reasons thereof, upon each separate issue, unless the finding upon any one or more of the issues be sufficient for the decision of the suit.

Court to state its decision on each issue.

Exception.

205. The decree shall bear date the day on which the judgment was pronounced; and when the Judge has satisfied himself that the decree has been drawn up in accordance with the judgment, he shall sign the decree.

Date of decree.

206. The decree must agree with the judgment: it shall contain the number of the suit, the names and descriptions of the parties, and particulars of the claim, as stated in the register, and shall specify clearly the relief granted or other determination of the suit.

Contents of decree.

The decree shall also state the amount of costs incurred in the suit, and by what parties and in what proportions such costs are to be paid.

If the decree is found to be at variance with the judgment, or if any clerical or arithmetical error be found in the decree, the Court shall, of its own motion or on that of any of the parties, amend the decree so as to bring it into conformity with the judgment or to correct such error: provided that reasonable notice have been given to the parties or their pleaders of the proposed amendment.

Power to amend decree.

207. When the subject-matter of the suit is immoveable property, and such property is identified by boundaries or numbers in a record of settlement or survey, if the decree be for the recovery of a portion only of such property, it shall specify the boundaries or number of such portion.

Decree for recovery of portion of immoveable property.

208. When the suit is for moveable property, if the decree be for the delivery of such property, it shall also state the amount of money to be paid as an alternative if delivery cannot be had.

Decree for delivery of moveable property.

209. When the suit is for a sum of money due to the plaintiff, the Court may, in the decree, order interest at such rate as the Court thinks proper to be paid on the principal sum adjudged, from the date of the suit to the date of the decree, in addition to any interest adjudged on such principal sum for any period prior to the institution of the suit, with further interest not exceeding six per centum per annum on the aggregate sum so adjudged, and on the costs of the suit, from the date of the decree to the date of payment, or to such earlier date as the Court thinks fit.

In suits for money, decree may order certain interest to be paid on principal sum adjudged.

210. In all decrees for the payment of money, the Court may for any sufficient reason order that the amount shall be paid by instalments, with or without interest.

Payment by instalments.

And on the application of the defendant at any time not more than six months after decree, the Court may order that the amount of the decree be paid by instalments on such terms as to the payment of interest, the attachment of the property of the defendant, or the taking of security from him, or otherwise, as it thinks fit: provided that, before granting such application, reasonable notice in writing has been given to the plaintiff or his pleader, and that the Court has heard the objections, if any, made by the plaintiff or on his behalf.

Court may order payment by instalments.

Save as provided in this section and section 206, no decree shall be altered at the request of parties.

211. When the suit is for land or other property yielding rent or other profit, the Court may provide in the decree for the payment of rent or mesne profits in respect of such property from the institution of the suit until the delivery of possession to the party in whose favour the decree is made, or until the expiration of one year from the date of the decree (whichever event first occurs), with interest thereupon at such rate as the Court thinks fit.

In suits for land, Court may decree payment of mesne profits with interest.

Explanation.—'mesne profits' of property mean those profits which the person in wrongful possession of such property actually received, or might with ordinary diligence have received, therefrom.

212. When the suit is for immoveable property and for mesne profits which have accrued on the property during a period prior to the institution of the suit, and the amount of such profits is disputed, the Court may either determine the amount by the decree itself, or may pass a decree for the property and direct an enquiry into the amount of mesne profits, and dispose of the same on further orders.

Court may determine amount of mesne profits prior to passing decree, or may reserve enquiry.

213. When the suit is for an account of any property and for its due administration under the decree of the Court, the Court, before making the decree, shall order such accounts and enquiries to be taken and made, and give such other directions as it thinks fit.

Administration-suit.

In the administration by the Court of the property of any person who dies after this Code comes into force, if such property proves to be insufficient for the payment in full of his debts and liabilities, the same rules shall be observed as to the respective rights of secured and unsecured creditors and as to debts and liabilities proveable, and as to the valuation of annuities and future and contingent liabilities respectively, as may be in force for the time being with respect to the estates of persons adjudged insolvent;

and all persons who in any such case would be entitled to be paid out of such property may come in under the decree for its administration, and make such claims against the same as they may respectively be entitled to by virtue of this Code.

Explanation.—Applications under section 265 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, shall be deemed to be suits within the meaning of this section.

214. When the suit is for the dissolution of a partnership, the Court, before making its decree, may pass an order fixing the day on which the partnership shall stand dissolved, and directing such accounts to be taken and other acts to be done as it thinks fit.

Suit for dissolution of partnership.

215. If the defendant has set-off the amount of a debt against the claim of the plaintiff, and such set-off has been allowed, the decree shall state what amount is due to the plaintiff and what amount (if any) is due to the defendant, and shall be for the recovery of any sum which appears to be due to either party.

If set-off be allowed.

The decree of the Court with respect to any sum awarded to the defendant shall have the same effect, and be subject to the same rules in respect of appeal or otherwise, as if such sum had been claimed by the defendant in a separate suit against the plaintiff.

Effect of decree.

216. Certified copies of the judgment and decree shall be furnished to the parties on application to the Court, and at their expense.

Certified copies of decree and judgment to be furnished.

CHAPTER XVIII.

OF COSTS.

217. When disposing of any application under this Code the Court may give to either party the costs of such application, or may reserve the consideration of such costs for any future stage of the proceedings.

Costs of applications.

218. The judgment shall direct by whom the costs of each party are to be paid, whether by himself or by any other party to the suit, and whether in whole or in what part or proportion.

Judgment to direct by whom costs are to be paid.

219. The Court shall have full power to give and apportion costs of every application and suit in any manner it thinks fit, and the fact that the Court has no jurisdiction to try the case is no bar to the exercise of such power:

Power of Court as to costs.

Provided if the Court directs that the costs of any application or suit shall not follow the event, the Court shall state its reasons in writing.

220. The Court may direct that the costs payable to one party by another shall be set-off against a sum which is admitted or is found in the suit to be due from the former to the latter.

Costs may be set-off against sum admitted or found to be due.

221. The Court may give interest on costs at any rate not exceeding six per cent. per annum, and may direct that costs, with or without interest, be paid out of or charged upon the subject-matter of the suit.

Interest on costs.
Costs may be paid out of or charged on subject-matter of suit.

222. There shall be no appeal on a question solely relating to costs except on either of the following grounds (namely)

Questions of costs when appealable.

(a) that the costs are payable out of or chargeable on some property; or

(b) that the mode in which the costs have been given is inconsistent with some enactment for the time being in force.

Illustration.

A, an incumbrancer upon a certain estate, sues to compel the payment of his charge. The Court decrees him his principal and interest, but refuses his costs. A may appeal against this refusal, for every incumbrancer has a lien for his costs on the property charged.

CHAPTER XIX.

OF THE EXECUTION OF DECREES.

A.—Of the Court by which Decrees may be executed.

223. A decree may be executed either by the Court which passed it or by the Court to which it is sent for execution under the provisions hereinafter contained.

Court by which decree may be executed.

The Court which passed a decree may, on the application of the decree-holder, send it for execution to another Court,

(a) if the person against whom the decree is passed actually and voluntarily resides or carries on business, or personally works for gain, within the local limits of the jurisdiction of such other Court, or

(b) if such person has not property within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court which passed the decree sufficient to satisfy such decree and has property within the local limits of the jurisdiction of such other Court, or

(c) if the Court which passed the decree considers for any other reason, which it shall record in writing, that the decree should be executed by such other Court.

Notice of every such application shall be served on the judgment-debtor, and the Court after hearing the objections which he or his pleader may urge against the application, may send the decree for execution accordingly.

And the Court to which a decree is sent for execution shall certify to the Court which passed it, the fact of such execution, or where the former Court fails to execute the same, the circumstances attending such failure.

If the decree has been passed in a case cognizable by a Court of Small Causes and the Court making it wishes it to be executed in Calcutta, Madras, Bombay or Rangoon, the Court making it may send to the local Court of Small Causes the copies and certificate respectively mentioned in clauses (a), (b) and (c) of section 225; and such Court shall thereupon execute the decree as if it had been passed by itself.

Provided that if the Court passing the decree is subordinate to a District Court, it shall send the decree to the District Court to which it is subordinate, and such Court shall deal with the decree as if it had been passed by itself.

224. A decree of any Court established by the authority of the Governor General in Council in the territories of any Native Prince or State in India, which cannot be executed within the jurisdiction of the Court by which it was made, may be executed in manner hereinafter provided within the jurisdiction of any Court in British India.

Decrees of Courts established by Government of India in Native States.

225. The Court desiring that a decree passed by itself shall be executed by another Court shall send such other Court,—

Procedure when Court desires that its own decree shall be executed by another Court.

(a) a copy of the decree;

(b) a certificate setting forth that satisfaction of the decree has not been obtained by execution within the jurisdiction of the Court by which it was passed, or, where the decree has been executed in part, the extent to which satisfaction has been obtained and what part of the decree remains unexecuted; and

(c) a copy of any order for the execution of the decree, and if no such order has been made, a certificate to that effect.

Provided that if the Court passing the decree is subordinate to a District Court, it shall send such copies and certificate to the District Court to which it is subordinate, and such Court shall forward them to the Court by which the decree is to be executed.

226. The Court executing a decree so sent shall cause such copies and certificate to be filed, without any further proof of the decree or order for execution, or of the copies thereof, or of the jurisdiction of the Court which passed it, unless the Court, for any special reasons to be recorded under the hand of the Judge, requires such proof.

Court receiving copies of decree, &c., to file same without proof.

227. The copy of the decree and of any order for execution, when filed in the Court to which such copy has been sent for the purpose aforesaid, shall for such purpose have the same effect as a decree or order for execution made by such Court.

Transmitted copy of decree or order to have same effect as decree of Court to which it is sent for execution.

228. If the Court to which the decree is sent for execution be a High Court, the decree shall be executed by such Court in the same manner as if it had been made by such Court in the exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction.

Execution by High Court, of decree transmitted by other Court.

229. The Court executing a decree sent to it under this chapter shall have the same powers in executing such decree as if it had been passed by itself. All persons disobeying or obstructing the execution of the decree shall be punishable by such Court in the same manner as if it had passed the decree. And its orders in executing such decree shall be subject to the same rules in respect of appeal, as if the decree had been passed by itself.

Appeal from orders for execution of decrees of other Courts.

B.—Of Application for Execution.

230. When the holder of a decree desires to enforce it, he shall apply to the Court which passed the decree or to the officer, if any, appointed in this behalf, or if the decree has been sent under the provisions hereinbefore contained to another Court, then to such Court.

Application for execution.

The Court may in its discretion refuse execution at the same time against the person and property of the judgment-debtor.

Where an application to execute a decree for the payment of money or delivery of other property has been made under this section and granted, no subsequent application to execute the same decree shall be granted unless the Court is satisfied that on the former application due diligence was used to procure complete satisfaction of the decree; and the order of the Court granting such application shall be conclusive evidence that due diligence was used to procure such satisfaction.

And no such subsequent application shall be granted after the expiration of twelve years from any of the following dates (namely)—

(a) the date of the decree sought to be enforced, or

(c) where the decree is for money and the decree-holder and the judgment-debtor have entered into an agreement in writing that the amount decreed, with such interest (if any) as may be therein mentioned, shall be discharged by such instalments as, if duly paid, will discharge the said amount and interest at some time within thirty years from the date of the decree, and such agreement has been filed in Court,—the date of the default in paying the instalment in respect of which the applicant seeks to enforce the decree.

Nothing in this section shall prevent any decree-holder from applying for execution of the same after the expiration of the said term of twelve years, where the judgment-debtor has by fraud or force prevented the execution of the decree at some time within twelve years immediately before the date of the application.

231. If a decree has been passed in favour of more persons than one, any one or more of such persons, or his or their representatives, may apply for the execution of the whole decree for the benefit of them all, or, where any of them has died, for the benefit of the survivors and the representatives in interest of the deceased.

Any one of several decree-holders may apply.

If the Court sees sufficient cause for allowing the decree to be executed on an application so made, it shall pass such order as it deems necessary for protecting the interests of the persons who have not joined in the application.

232. If a decree be transferred by assignment in writing or by operation of law from the decree-holder to any other person, the transferee may apply for its execution to the Court which passed it; and if that Court thinks fit, the decree may be executed in the same manner and subject to the same conditions as if the application were made by such decree-holder:

Application by transferee of decree.

Provided that where the decree has been transferred by assignment, notice in writing of such application shall be given to the transferor and the judgment-debtor, and that the decree shall not be executed until the Court has heard their objections (if any) to such execution:

Provided also that where a decree against several persons has been transferred to one of them, it shall not be executed against the others.

Every transferee of a decree shall hold the same subject to the equities (if any) which the judgment-debtor might have enforced against the original decree-holder.

Transferee to hold subject to equities enforceable against original holder.

233. When the holder of a decree sent under the foregoing provisions for execution by a Court other than the Court which made it, applies for execution of the decree to the Court to which it has been so sent, such Court, or any subordinate Court to which the execution of the decree may be entrusted, shall proceed to execute the decree according to the provisions of this chapter so far as the same are applicable, and, so far as they are not applicable, according to its own rules in the like cases:

Enforcement of execution by Court applied to.

Such Court shall not enquire into the validity of the decree unless it appear upon the face of the decree that the Court by which it was passed had no jurisdiction to pass it.

234. If a judgment-debtor dies before the decree has been fully executed, the holder of the decree may apply for its execution against the legal representative of the deceased.

If judgment-debtor die before execution, application may be made against his representative.

Such representative shall be liable only to the extent of the property of the deceased which has come to his hands and has not been duly disposed of; and for the purpose of ascertaining such liability, the Court executing the decree may of its own motion, or on the application of the decree-holder, compel the said representative to produce such accounts as it thinks fit.

235. The application for the execution of a decree shall be in writing, verified in manner hereinbefore provided for the verification of plaints, and shall contain in a tabular form the following particulars, (namely)—

Contents of application for execution of decree.

(a) the number of the suit;

(b) the names of the parties;

(c) the date of the decree;

(d) whether any appeal has been preferred from the decree;

(e) whether any and what adjustment of the matter in dispute has been made between the parties subsequently to the decree;

(f) whether any and what previous applications have been made for execution of the decree and with what result;

(g) the amount of the debt or compensation, with the interest, if any, due upon the decree, or other relief granted thereby;

(h) the amount of costs, if any, awarded;

(i) the name of the person against whom the enforcement of the decree is sought, and

(j) the mode in which the assistance of the Court is required, whether by the delivery of property specifically decreed, by the arrest and imprisonment of the person named in the application, or by the attachment of his property, or otherwise as the nature of the relief sought may require.

236. If the application be for the attachment of any immoveable property belonging to the judgment-debtor, it shall contain at the foot a description of the property sufficient to identify it, and also a specification of the judgment-debtor's share or interest therein to the best of the belief of the applicant and so far as he has been able to ascertain the same.

Further particulars when application is for attachment of immoveable property.

Every such description and specification shall be verified in manner hereinbefore provided for the verification of plaints.

237. If the property be land which, whether it pays revenue to Government or not, is registered in the Collector's office, the application for attachment shall be accompanied by an authenticated extract from the register of such office, specifying the persons registered as proprietors of, or as possessing any transferable interest in, the land or its revenue, or as liable to pay revenue for such land, and the shares of the registered proprietors.

When application must be accompanied by extract from Collector's register.

238. Every decree-holder applying for an attachment of any moveable property of the judgment-debtor shall annex to his application an inventory of the property to be attached, containing a reasonably accurate description of the same.

Application for attachment of moveable property to be accompanied with inventory.

C.—Of staying Execution.

239. The Court to which a decree has been sent for execution under this Chapter, shall upon sufficient cause being shown, stay the execution of such decree for a reasonable time, to enable the judgment debtor to apply to the Court by which the decree was made, or to any Court having appellate jurisdiction in respect of the decree or the execution thereof, for an order to stay the execution, or for any other order relating to the decree or execution which might have been made by such Court of first instance or appellate Court if execution had been issued thereby, or if application for execution had been made thereto;

When Court may stay execution.

and in case the property or person of the judgment-debtor has been seized under an execution, the Court which issued the execution may order the restitution or discharge of such property or the person pending the result of the application for such order.

240. Before passing an order to stay execution, or for the restitution of property or the discharge of the judgment-debtor under section 239, the Court may require such security from, or impose such conditions upon, the judgment-debtor as it thinks fit.

Power to require security from, or impose conditions upon, judgment-debtor.

241. No discharge under section 239 of the property or person of a judgment-debtor, shall prevent it or him from being retaken in execution of the decree.

Liability of judgment-debtor discharged to be retaken.

242. Any order of the Court by which the decree was passed or of such Court of appeal as aforesaid, in relation to the execution of such decree shall be binding upon the Court to which the decree was sent for execution.

Order of Court passing decree or of Appellate Court to be binding upon Court applied to.

243. If a suit be pending in any Court against the holder of a decree of such Court, on the part of the person against whom the decree was passed, the Court may (if it think fit), stay execution on the decree, either absolutely or on such terms as it thinks fit, until the pending suit has been decided.

Stay of execution pending suit between decree-holder and judgment-debtor.

244. The following questions shall be determined by order of the Court executing a decree and not by separate suit (namely)—

Question to be decided by Court executing decree.

(a) questions regarding the amount of any mesne profits which by the terms of the decree have been directed to be adjusted in the execution of the decree;

(b) questions regarding the amount of any mesne profits or interest which the decree has made payable in respect of the subject-matter of a suit between the date of its institution and the execution of the decree;

(c) any other questions arising between the parties to the suit in which the decree was passed, or their representatives, and relating to the execution of the decree.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to bar a separate suit for mesne profits accruing between the institution of the first suit and the execution of the decree therein, where such profits are not dealt with by the decree.

D.—Of the mode of executing Decrees.

245. The Court, on receiving an application for the execution of a decree, shall ascertain whether it contains the particulars mentioned in section 235, or such of them as may be applicable to the case, and whether it is accompanied by the inventory mentioned in section 238, and if such particulars or inventory are or is wanting, it shall reject the application or return it for amendment or for the addition of the inventory, as the case may be, or amend it then and there. Every amendment made under this section shall be attested by the signature of the Judge.

Procedure on receiving application for execution of decree.

When the application is admitted, the Court shall enter in the register of the suit a note of the application and the date on which it was made, and shall order execution of the decree according to the nature of the application:

Procedure on admitting application.

Provided that, in the case of a decree for money, the value of the property attached shall as nearly as may be correspond with the amount for which the decree has been made.

246. If cross-decrees between the same parties for the payment of money be produced to the Court, execution shall be taken out only by the party who holds a decree for the larger sum, and for so much only as remains after deducting the smaller sum, and satisfaction for the smaller sum shall be entered on the decree for the larger sum as well as satisfaction on the decree for the smaller sum.

Cross-decrees.

If the two sums be equal, satisfaction shall be entered upon both decrees.

Explanation I.—The decrees contemplated by this section are (a) decrees made by the same Court, (b) decrees sent to the same Court for execution, and (c) decrees of which one is made by the Court and the other is sent to the same Court for execution; but not (d) decrees of which one is made by one Court and the other is made by another Court, and not sent for execution to the former Court.

Explanation II.—This section applies where either party is an assignee of one of the decrees.

Explanation III.—This section does not apply unless

(e) both decrees are capable of execution at the same time;

(f) the parties are the same; and

(g) the sums due under the decrees are definite.

Illustrations.

(a) A holds a decree against B for Rs. 1,000. B holds a decree against A for the payment of Rs. 1,000. In case A fails to deliver certain goods at a future day, B cannot treat his decree as a cross-decree under this section.

(b) A and B, co-plaintiffs, obtain a decree for Rs. 1,000 against C, and C obtains a decree for Rs. 1,000 against B. C cannot treat his decree as a cross-decree under this section.

(c) A obtains a decree against B for Rs. 1,000. C, who is a trustee for B, obtains a decree on behalf of B against A for Rs. 1,000. B cannot treat C's decree as a cross-decree under this section.

247. When two parties are entitled under the same decree to recover from each other sums of different amounts, the party entitled to the smaller sum shall not take out execution against the other party; but satisfaction for the smaller sum shall be entered on the decree.

Cross-claims under same decree.

When the amounts are equal, neither party shall take out execution, but satisfaction for each sum shall be entered on the decree.

248. The Court shall issue a notice to the party against whom execution is applied for, requiring him to show cause, within a period to be fixed by the Court, why the decree should not be executed against him,

Notice to show cause why decree should not be executed.

(a) if more than one year has elapsed between the date of the decree and the application for its execution, or

(b) if the enforcement of the decree be applied for against the legal representative of a party to the suit in which the decree was made:

Proviso.

Provided that no such notice shall be necessary

in consequence of more than one year having elapsed between the date of the decree and the application for execution, if the application be made within one year from the date of the last order passed on any previous application for execution, or in consequence of the application being against the legal representative of the judgment-debtor if upon a previous application for execution against the same person, the Court has ordered execution to issue against him.

Explanation.—In this section the phrase "the Court" means the Court by which the decree was passed, unless the decree has been sent to another Court for execution, in which case it means such other Court.

249. If the person to whom notice is issued under the last preceding section does not appear, or does not show cause to the satisfaction of the Court why the decree should not be executed, the Court shall order the decree to be executed.

Procedure after issue of notice.

If he offers any objection to the enforcement of the decree, the Court shall pass such order as it thinks fit.

250. When the preliminary measures (if any) required by the foregoing provisions have been taken, the Court, unless it sees cause to the contrary, shall issue its warrant for the execution of the decree.

Warrant when to issue.

251. The warrant for the execution of the decree shall bear the date of the day on which it is issued, and shall be signed by the Judge or such officer as the Court appoints in this behalf, and shall be sealed with the seal of the Court, and delivered to the proper officer to be executed.

Date, signature, seal and delivery.

252. If the decree be against a party as the legal representative of a deceased person, and the decree be for money to be paid out of the property of the deceased, it may be executed by the attachment and sale of any such property.

Decree against representative of deceased for money to be paid out of deceased's property.

If no such property can be found, and the judgment-debtor fails to satisfy the Court that he has duly applied such property of the deceased as is proved to have come into his possession, the decree may be executed against the judgment-debtor to the extent of the property not duly applied by him, in the same manner as if the decree had been against him personally.

253. Whenever a person has, before the passing of a decree in an original suit, become liable as surety for the performance of the same or of any part thereof, the decree may be executed against him to the extent to which he has rendered himself liable, in the same manner as a decree may be executed against a defendant:

Decree against surety.

Provided that such notice in writing as the Court in each case thinks sufficient has been given to the surety.

254. Where a decree is against partners in the name of the firm, execution may issue in manner following:—

Decree against partners in name of firm.

(a) against any property of the partners as such:

(b) against any person who has admitted in the suit that he is or has been adjudged to be a partner:

(c) against any person who has been served as a partner, with the summons, and has failed to appear.

If the decree-holder claims to be entitled to issue execution against any other person as being a member of the firm, he may apply to the Court for leave so to do; and the Court may give such leave if notice of the application has been served on such other person and the liability to execution is not disputed, or, if such liability is disputed, may try and determine the same in any manner in which any issue or question in a suit may be tried and determined.

255. Every decree or order directing a party to pay money, whether by way of compensation, or costs, or otherwise, shall be enforced by the imprisonment of the judgment-debtor, or by the attachment and sale of his property in manner hereinafter provided, or by both.

Decree for money.

Explanation.—A decree for mesne profits or any other matter, the amount of which, in money, is to be subsequently determined, is a decree for money within the meaning of this section.

256. When a decree is passed for a sum of money only, and the amount decreed does not exceed the sum of one thousand rupees, the Court may, when passing the decree, on the oral application of the decree-holder, order immediate execution thereof by the issue of a warrant directed either against the person of the judgment-debtor if he is within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, or against his moveable property within the same limits.

Power to direct immediate execution of decree for money not exceeding Rs. 1,000.

257. Payment of a sum of money ordered to be paid as the alternative to some other relief granted by the decree shall be enforced in manner hereinbefore provided for the execution of a decree for money.

Order for payment of money as an alternative.

258. All money payable under a decree shall be paid as follows (namely)—

Modes of paying money under decree.

(a) into the Court whose duty it is to execute the decree, or,

(b) out of Court to the decree-holder; or

(c) otherwise as the Court which made the decree directs.

If the money is paid out of Court or the decree is otherwise adjusted to the decree-holder, he shall certify the payment or adjustment to the Court whose duty it is to execute the decree; and no satisfaction of a decree in part or in whole by such payment or adjustment shall be recognized by such Court unless the payment or adjustment be certified as aforesaid. Where the decree-holder fails to certify as aforesaid, the judgment-debtor or his pleader may, within eight days of the date of payment, apply to such Court for an order compelling the decree-holder to certify as aforesaid, and the Court, after hearing the decree-holder or his pleader, may make such order.

259. If the decree be for any specific moveable, or for any share in a specific moveable, or for the recovery of a wife, it shall be enforced by the seizure, if practicable, of the moveable or share, and by the delivery thereof to the party to whom it has been adjudged, or to such person as he appoints to receive delivery on his behalf, or by the imprisonment of the judgment-debtor, or by attaching his property and keeping the same under attachment until the further order of the Court, or by both imprisonment and attachment, if necessary.

Decree for specific moveables, or recovery of wives.

No attachment under this section shall remain in force for more than six months, at the end of which time, if the judgment-debtor has not obeyed the decree, the property attached may be sold, and out of the proceeds the Court may award to the decree-holder such compensation as it thinks fit, and pay the balance, if any, to the judgment-debtor on his application.

260. When the party against whom a decree for the specific performance of a contract, or for restitution of conjugal rights, has been made, has had an opportunity of obeying the decree or injunction and has wilfully failed to obey it, the decree may be enforced by his imprisonment, or by the attachment of his property, or by both.

Decree for specific performance or restitution of conjugal rights.

No attachment under this section shall remain in force for more than one year, at the end of which time, if the judgment-debtor has not obeyed the decree, the property attached may be sold and out of the proceeds the Court may award to the decree-holder such compensation as it thinks fit and may pay the balance, if any, to the judgment-debtor on his application.

261. If the decree be for the execution of a conveyance, or for the endorsement of a negotiable instrument, and the judgment-debtor neglects or refuses to comply with the decree, the decree-holder may prepare the draft of a conveyance or endorsement in accordance with the terms of the decree, and deliver the same to the Court.

Decree for execution of conveyances, or endorsement of negotiable instruments.

The Court shall thereupon cause the draft to be served on the judgment-debtor in manner hereinbefore provided for serving a summons, together with a notice in writing stating that his objections, if any, thereto shall be made within such time (mentioning it) as the Court fixes in this behalf.

The decree-holder may also tender a duplicate of the draft to the Court for execution upon the proper stamp-paper, if a stamp is required by law.

On proof of such service, the Court, or such officer as it appoints in this behalf, shall execute the duplicate so tendered, or may, if necessary, alter the same, so as to bring it into accordance with the terms of the decree, and execute the duplicate so altered:

Provided that if any party object to the draft so served as aforesaid, his objections shall, within the time so fixed, be stated in writing and argued before the Court, and the Court shall thereupon pass such order as it thinks fit, and execute, or alter and execute, the duplicate in accordance therewith.

262. The execution of a conveyance or the endorsement of a negotiable instrument by the Court under the last preceding section may be in the following form: "C. D., Judge of the Court of (or as the case may be), for A. B., in a suit by E. F., against A. B.," or in such other form as the High Court may from time to time prescribe, and shall have the same effect as the execution of the conveyance or endorsement of the instrument by the party ordered to execute or endorse the same.

Form and effect of execution of conveyance by Court.

263. If the decree be for the delivery of any immoveable property, possession thereof shall be delivered over to the party to whom it has been adjudged, or to such person as he appoints to receive delivery on his behalf, and, if need be, by removing any person bound by the decree who refuses to vacate the property.

Decree for immoveable property.

5 P

Delivery of immoveable property when in occupancy of tenant.

264. If the decree be for any immoveable property in the occupancy of a tenant or other person entitled to occupy the same, the Court shall order delivery to be made by affixing a copy of the warrant in some conspicuous place on the property, and proclaiming to the occupant by beat of drum, or in such other mode as is customary, at some convenient place, the substance of the decree in regard to the property:

Provided that if the occupant can be found, a notice in writing containing such substance shall be served upon him, and in such case no proclamation need be made.

Partition of estate or separation of share.

265. If the decree be for the partition or for the separate possession of a share of an undivided estate, paying revenue to Government, the partition of the estate or the separation of the share shall be made by the Collector.

E.—Of Attachment of Property.

Property liable to attachment and sale in execution of decrees.

266. The following property is liable to attachment and sale in execution of a decree, (namely), lands, houses or other buildings, goods, money, bank-notes, cheques, bills of exchange, hundís, promissory notes, Government securities, bonds or other securities for money, debts, shares in the capital or joint-stock of any railway, banking or other public Company or Corporation, and, except as hereinafter mentioned, all other saleable property, moveable or immoveable, belonging to the judgment-debtor, and whether the same be held in the name of the judgment-debtor or by another person in trust for him or on his behalf:

Provided that the following particulars shall not be liable to such attachment or sale (namely)—

(a) the necessary wearing apparel of the judgment-debtor, his wife and children:

(b) tools of artizans, implements of husbandry and cattle kept bonâ fide for agricultural purposes:

(c) the materials of houses and other buildings belonging to and occupied by agriculturists:

(d) books of account:

(e) mere rights to sue for damages:

(f) the right to perform the service of an idol:

(g) stipends allowed to military and civil pensioners of Government, and political pensions:

(h) the salary of a public officer or of the servant of a Railway Company:

(i) the pay and allowances of persons to whom the Native Articles of War apply:

(j) the wages of labourers and domestic servants:

(k) an expectancy of succession by survivorship:

(l) a right to future maintenance.

Provided also that nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the statute for the time being in force for punishing mutiny and desertion and for the better payment of the Army and their quarters.

Power to summon and examine persons as to property liable to be seized.

267. The Court may of its own motion or on the application of the decree-holder, summon any person whom it thinks necessary, and examine him in respect to any property liable to be seized in satisfaction of the decree, and may require the person summoned to produce any document in his possession or power relating to such property.

Attachment of debt, share and other property not in possession of judgment-debtor.

268. In the case of (a) a debt not secured by a negotiable instrument, (b) a share in the capital of any public company or corporation, (c) other moveable property not in the possession of the judgment-debtor, except property deposited in, or in the custody of, any Court, the attachment shall be made by a written order prohibiting,

(a) in the case of the debt, the creditor from recovering the debt and the debtor from making payment thereof until the further order of the Court:

(b) in the case of the share, the person in whose name the share may be standing, from transferring the same or receiving any dividend thereon:

(c) in the case of the other moveable property except as aforesaid, the person in possession of the same from giving it over to the judgment-debtor.

A copy of such order shall be fixed up in some conspicuous part of the Court-house, and another copy of the same shall be sent in the case of the debt to the debtor, in the case of the share to the proper officer of the company or corporation, and in the case of the other moveable property (except as aforesaid) to the person in possession of the same.

A debtor prohibited under clause (a) of this section may pay the amount of his debt into Court, and such payment shall discharge him as effectually as payment to the party entitled to receive the same.

No attachment under this section shall remain in force for more than six months; at the end of which time, if the judgment-debtor has not obeyed the decree, the property attached may be sold, and out of the proceeds the Court may award to the decree-holder such compensation as it thinks fit, and pay the balance, if any, to the judgment-debtor on his application.

Attachment of moveable property in possession of defendant.

269. If the property be moveable property in the possession of the judgment-debtor, other than the property mentioned in the first proviso to section 266, the attachment shall be made by actual seizure, and the attaching officer shall keep the property in his own custody or in the custody of one of his subordinates, and shall be responsible for the due custody thereof:

Provided that when the property seized is subject to speedy and natural decay, the proper officer may sell it at once.

Power to make rules for maintenance of attached livestock.

The Local Government may from time to time make rules for the maintenance and custody, while under attachment, of livestock and other moveable property, and the officer attaching property under this section shall, notwithstanding the provisions of the former part of this section, act in accordance with such rules.

Attachment of negotiable instruments.

270. If the property be a negotiable instrument not in deposit in a Court, the attachment shall be made by actual seizure, and the instrument shall be brought into Court and held subject to the further orders of the Court.

Seizure of property in house.

271. If the person executing any process under this Code directing or authorising seizure of moveable property, has gained access to a house or other building, he may unfasten and open the door of any room in which he has reason to believe any such property to be:

Provided that if the room be in the actual occupancy of a woman, who according to the customs of the country does not appear in public, the person executing the process shall give notice to her that she is at liberty to withdraw; and after allowing a reasonable time for such woman to withdraw, and giving her every reasonable facility for withdrawing, he may enter such room for the purpose of seizing the property, using at the same time every precaution, consistent with these provisions, to prevent its clandestine removal.

Seizure of property in zanánás.

Attachment of property deposited in Court or with Government officer.

272. If the property be deposited in, or in the custody of, any Court or public officer, the attachment shall be made by a notice to such Court or officer, requesting that such property, and any interest or dividend becoming payable thereon may be held subject to the further orders of the Court from which the notice issues:

Proviso.

Provided that, if such property is deposited in a Court, any question of title or priority arising between the decree-holder and any other person, not being the judgment-debtor, claiming to be interested in such property by virtue of any assignment, attachment or otherwise, shall be determined by the Court in which such property is deposited.

Attachment decree.

273. If the property be a decree passed by the Court which passed the decree sought to be executed, the attachment shall be made by an order of the Court directing the proceeds of the former decree to be applied in satisfaction of the latter decree.

If the property be a decree passed by any other Court, the attachment shall be made by a notice in writing to such Court under the hand of the Judge of the Court which passed the decree sought to be executed, requesting the former Court to execute its decree and to apply the proceeds in satisfaction of the decree sought to be executed. The Court receiving such notice shall comply with such request. And the holder of any decree attached under this clause shall be bound to give the Court executing the same such information and aid as may reasonably be required.

Attachment of immoveable property.

274. If the property be immoveable, the attachment shall be made by a proclamation prohibiting the judgment-debtor from alienating the property in any way, and all persons from receiving the same from him by purchase, gift or otherwise.

The proclamation shall be made at some place on or adjacent to such property by beat of drum or other customary mode, and a copy of the proclamation shall be fixed up in a conspicuous part of the property and of the court-house.

A copy of the proclamation shall also be fixed up in the office of the Collector of the District in which the land is situate.

Order for withdrawal of attachment after satisfaction of decree.

275. If the amount decreed with costs and all charges and expenses resulting from the attachment of any property be paid into Court, or if satisfaction of the decree be otherwise made through the Court, or if the decree is set aside or reversed, an order shall be issued, on the application of any person interested in the property, for the withdrawal of the attachment.

Private alienation of property after attachment to be void.

276. When an attachment has been made by actual seizure or by written order duly intimated or made known in manner aforesaid, any private alienation of the property attached, whether by sale, gift, mortgage, or otherwise, and any payment of the debt or dividend or a delivery of the share to the judgment-debtor during the continuance of the attachment, shall be void as against all claims enforceable under the attachment.

Court may direct coin or currency-notes attached to be paid to party entitled.

277. If the property attached is coin or currency-notes, the Court may, at any time during the continuance of the attachment, direct that such coin or notes, or a part thereof sufficient to satisfy the decree be paid over to the party entitled under the decree to receive the same.

Investigation of claims to and objections to attachment of attached property.

278. If any claim be preferred to, or any objection be made to the attachment of, any property attached in execution of a decree, on the ground that such property is not liable to such attachment, the Court shall proceed to investigate the claim or objection with the like power as regards the examination of the claimant or objector, and in all other respects, as if he was a party to the suit.

Provided that no such investigation shall be made where the Court considers that the claim or objection was designedly or unnecessarily delayed.

Evidence to be adduced by claimant.

279. The claimant or objector must adduce evidence to show that at the date of the attachment he had some interest in, or was possessed of, the property attached.

Release of property from attachment.

280. If upon the said investigation the Court is satisfied that, for the reason stated in the claim or objection, such property was not, when attached, in the possession of the judgment-debtor or of some person in trust for him, or in the occupancy of a tenant or other person paying rent to him, or that, being in the possession of the judgment-debtor at such time, it was so in his possession, not on his own account or as his own property, but on account of or in trust for some other person, or partly on his own account and partly on account of some other person, the Court shall pass an order for releasing the property wholly or to such extent as it thinks fit, from attachment.

Disallowance of claim to release of property attached.

281. If the Court is satisfied that the property was, at the time it was attached, in possession of the judgment-debtor as his own property and not on account of any other person, or was in the possession of some other person in trust for him, or in the occupancy of a tenant or other person paying rent to him, the Court shall disallow the claim.

Continuance of attachment subject to claim of incumbrancer.

282. Of the Court is satisfied that the property is subject to a mortgage or lien in favour of some person not in possession, and thinks fit to continue the attachment, it may do so, subject to such mortgage or lien.

Saving of suits to establish right to attached property.

283. An order under section 280, 281 or 282 shall not preclude the person against whom it is made from instituting a suit to establish the right which he claims to the property in dispute.

Claims and objections to be made without delay.

284. A claim to attached property, or an objection to the attachment of such property, shall be made without delay to the Court which ordered the attachment; and no such investigation shall be made where the Court considers that the claim or objection was designedly and unnecessarily delayed.

If the property to which the claim or objection applies has been advertised for sale, the Court ordering the sale may postpone it pending the investigation of the claim or objection.

Power to order property attached be sold, and proceeds be paid to person entitled.

285. Any Court may order that any moveable property, and any Court not subordinate to a District Court may direct that any immoveable property, which has been attached, or such portion thereof as may seem necessary to satisfy the decree, shall be sold, and that the proceeds of such sale, or a sufficient portion thereof, shall be paid to the party entitled under the decree to receive the same.

F.—Of Sale and Delivery of Property.

(a)—General Rules.

Sales by whom conducted and how made.

286. Sales in execution of decrees shall be conducted by an officer of the Court or by any other person whom the Court may appoint, and, except as provided in section 296, shall be made by public auction in manner hereinafter mentioned.

Proclamation of sales by public auction.

287. When any interest in property is ordered to be sold by public auction in execution of a decree, the Court shall cause a proclamation of the intended sale to be made in the language of such Court. Such proclamation shall state the time and place of sale; and shall specify as fairly and accurately as possible—

(a) the interest to be sold;

(b) the revenue assessed upon the estate or part of the estate, when the interest to be sold is an interest in an estate or a part of an estate paying revenue to Government;

(c) any incumbrance to which the interest is liable;

(d) the amount for the recovery of which the sale is ordered; and

(e) every other thing which the Court considers material for the purchaser to know in order to judge of the nature and value of the property.

Rules to be made by High Court.

The High Court shall, as soon as may be after this Code comes into force, make rules for the guidance of the Courts in exercise of their duties under this section. The High Court may from time to time alter any rules so made.

Nothing in this section shall apply to cases in which the execution of the decree has been transferred to the Collector.

Indemnity of judges, &c.

288. No judge or other public officer shall be answerable for any error, misstatement or omission in any proclamation under section 287 unless the same has been committed or made dishonestly.

Mode of making proclamation.

289. The proclamation shall be made, in manner prescribed by section 274, on the spot where the property is attached.

If the Court so direct, such notification shall also be published in the official Gazette and in some local newspaper.

Time of sale.

290. Except in the case of articles subject to speedy and natural decay (which may be sold at once), no sale under this chapter shall take place until after the expiration of at least thirty days in the case of immoveable property, and of at least fifteen days in the case of moveable property, calculated from the date on which the notification has been affixed in the Court-house of the Judge ordering the sale.

Power to adjourn sale.

291. The officer conducting any sale under this chapter may in his discretion adjourn the sale; and every such sale shall be stopped if, before the lot is knocked down, the debt and costs are tendered to such officer, or proof is given to his satisfaction that the amount of such debt and costs has been paid into the Court that ordered the sale.

Stoppage of sale on tender of debt and costs, or on proof of payment.

Officers concerned in execution sales not to bid for or buy property sold.

292. No officer having any duty to perform in connection with any sale under this chapter shall bid for, acquire, or attempt to acquire, any interest in any property sold at such sale.

Defaulting purchaser answerable for loss by re-sale.

293. The deficiency of price (if any) which may happen on a re-sale under this Code, and all expenses attending such re-sale, shall be certified to the Court by the officer holding the sale, and shall, at the instance of either the judgment-creditor or the judgment-debtor, be recoverable from the defaulter under the rules contained in this chapter for the execution of a decree for money.

Decree-holder not to bid for or buy property without permission.

294. No holder of a decree in execution of which property is sold, shall, without the express permission of the Court, bid for or purchase the property.

If decree-holder purchase, amount of decree may be taken as payment.

When a decree-holder purchases with such permission, the amount due on the decree may be taken as payment in whole or in part, as the case may be, of the purchase-money.

Proceeds of execution sale to be divided rateably among decree-holders.

295. Whenever assets are realized by sale or otherwise in execution of a decree, and more persons than one have, prior to the realization, applied for execution of decrees for money against the same judgment-debtor, and have not obtained satisfaction thereof, the proceeds, after deducting the costs of the realization, shall be divided rateably among all such persons:

Proviso where property is sold subject to mortgage.

Provided that, when any property is sold subject to a mortgage, the mortgagee shall not be entitled to share in any surplus arising from such sale:

Provided also that when any property liable to be sold in execution of a decree is subject to a mortgage, the Court may, with the assent of the mortgagee, order that the property be sold free from the mortgage, giving to the mortgagee the same right against the proceeds of the sale as he had against the property sold.

If all or any of such assets be paid to a person not entitled to receive the same, any person so entitled may sue such person to compel him to refund the assets.

Nothing in this section affects any right of the Government.

(b).—Rules as to Moveable Property.

Rules as to negotiable securities and shares in public Companies.

296. If the property to be sold be a negotiable instrument or a share in any public Company or Corporation, the Court may, instead of directing the sale to be made by public auction, authorize the sale of such instrument or share through a broker at the market-rate of the day.

Payment for moveable property sold.

297. If the property sold be moveable, the price of each lot shall be paid for at the time of sale, or as soon after as the officer holding the sale directs, and in default of payment, the property shall forthwith be again put up and sold.

On payment of the purchase-money, the officer holding the sale shall grant a receipt for the same, and the sale shall become absolute.

Irregularity not to vitiate sale of moveable property, but any person injured may sue.

298. No irregularity in publishing or conducting the sale of moveable property shall vitiate the sale; but any person sustaining any injury by reason of such irregularity at the hand of any other person may institute a suit against him for compensation, or (if such other person be the purchaser) for the recovery of the specific property and for compensation in default of such recovery.

Delivery of moveable property belonging to defendant actually seized.

299. When the property sold is any moveable property, or a negotiable instrument, of which actual seizure has been made, the property shall be delivered to the purchaser.

Delivery of moveable property to which judgment-debtor is entitled subject to lien.

300. When the property sold is any moveable property to which the judgment-debtor is entitled subject to the possession of some other person, the delivery thereof to the purchaser shall be made by giving notice to the person in possession prohibiting him from delivering possession of the property to any person except the purchaser.

Delivery of debts and of shares in public Companies.

301. When the property is a debt not secured by a negotiable instrument, or is a share in any public Company, the delivery thereof shall be made by a written order of the Court prohibiting the creditor from receiving the debt or any interest thereon, and the debtor from making payment thereof to any person except the purchaser, or prohibiting the person in whose name the share may be standing from making any transfer of the share to any person except the purchaser, or receiving payment of any dividend or interest thereon, and the Manager, Secretary or other proper officer of the Company from permitting any such transfer or making any such payment to any person except the purchaser.

Transfer of negotiable instruments and shares.

302. If the endorsement or conveyance of the party in whose name a negotiable instrument or a share in any public Company is standing, is required to transfer such instrument or share, the Judge may endorse the instrument or the certificate of the share, or may execute such other document as may be necessary.

The endorsement or execution shall be in the following form or to the like effect:—"A. B. by C. D., Judge of the Court of [or as the case may be], in a suit by E. F. against A. B."

Until the transfer of such instrument or share, the Court may, by order, appoint some person to receive any interest or dividend due thereon, and to sign a receipt for the same; and any endorsement made or document executed or receipt signed as aforesaid shall be as valid and effectual for all purposes as if the same had been made or executed or signed by the party himself.

(c).—Rules as to Immoveable Property.

Sales of land by Court not inferior to a District Court.

303. Sales of immoveable property in execution of a decree may be ordered by any Court not subordinate to a District Court.

Procedure as to sale of land in execution of decree of subordinate Court.

304. Whenever a Court subordinate to a District Court desires that any interest in immoveable property be sold in execution of a decree, it shall refer the case to the District Court to which it is subordinate, and such Court shall have the same power of causing the said interest to be sold as if the decree had been made by itself.

Nothing in this section applies to Courts of Small Causes.

Postponement of sale of land to enable defendant to raise amount of decree.

305. When an order for the sale of immoveable property has been made, if the judgment-debtor can satisfy the Court conducting the sale that there is reason to believe that the amount of the decree may be raised by mortgage or lease or private sale of such property, or some part thereof, or of any other immoveable property of the judgment-debtor, the Court may on his application postpone the sale of property comprised in the order for sale for such period as it thinks proper, to enable him to raise the amount.

In such case the Court shall grant a certificate to the judgment-debtor authorizing him, within a period to be mentioned therein, to make the proposed mortgage, lease, or sale: provided that all moneys payable under such mortgage, lease or sale shall be paid into Court and not to the judgment-debtor.

Where such certificate has been granted and so long as it remains in force, the provisions of section 248 shall not apply, and the year mentioned in that section, clause (a), shall be computed from the date of the expiry of the certificate.

The Court may, on the application of the judgment-debtor, sell any other immoveable property of the judgment-debtor in lieu of the property comprised in such order.

306. On every sale of immoveable property under this chapter, the person declared to be the purchaser shall pay immediately after such declaration a deposit of twenty-five per centum on the amount of his purchase-money to the officer conducting the sale, and, in default of such deposit, the property shall forthwith be put up again and sold.

Deposit by purchaser of immoveable property.

307. The full amount of purchase-money shall be paid by the purchaser before sunset of the fifteenth day after the sale of the property, exclusive of such day, or if the fifteenth day be a Sunday or other holiday, then on the first office day after the fifteenth day.

Time for payment in full.

308. In default of payment within the period mentioned in the last preceding section, the deposit, after defraying the expenses of the sale, shall be forfeited to Government, and the property shall be re-sold, and the defaulting purchaser shall forfeit all claim to the property or to any part of the sum for which it may subsequently be sold.

Procedure in default of payment.

309. Every re-sale of immoveable property in default of payment of the purchase-money within the period allowed for such payment, shall be made after the issue of a fresh notification in the manner and for the period hereinbefore prescribed for the sale.

Notification on re-sale of immoveable property.

310. When the property sold in execution of a decree is a share of undivided immoveable property, if the lot has been knocked down to a stranger, any co-sharer may, by application to the officer conducting the sale, claim to take the share sold at the sum at which the lot was so knocked down.

Co-sharer of a share of undivided estate sold in execution may claim share at sale-price.

If the claim be made before sunset on the day of sale, and the claimant then repay to the purchaser the amount of his deposit, the claimant shall be substituted for the person to whom the lot has been so knocked down, and shall be bound by all the conditions that attached to the [illegible] and the provisions of the last three preceding sections shall apply.

311. Any person whose interest in immoveable property has been sold under this chapter may apply to the Court to set aside the sale on the ground of a material irregularity in publishing or conducting it;

Sale of land not set aside on ground of irregularity unless in case of substantial injury.

but no sale shall be set aside on the ground of irregularity unless the applicant proves to the satisfaction of the Court that he has sustained substantial injury by reason of such irregularity.

312. If no such application as is mentioned in the last preceding section be made, or if such application be made and the objection be disallowed, the Court shall pass an order confirming the sale as regards the parties to the suit.

Effect of objection being disallowed and of its being allowed.

If such application be made, and if the objection be allowed, the Court shall pass an order setting aside the sale.

No suit to set aside an order passed under this section shall be brought by the party against whom such order has been made.

313. The purchaser at any such sale may, within sixty days from the date of the sale, apply to the Court to set aside the sale on the ground that the person whose interest in the property purported to be sold had no legally saleable interest therein, and the Court may make such order as it thinks fit.

Power to apply to set aside the sale.

314. No sale of immoveable property shall become absolute until it has been confirmed by the Court.

Confirmation of sale.

315. When a sale of immoveable property is set aside under section 312 or 313,

If sale set aside, price to be returned to purchaser.

or when it is found that the judgment-debtor had no saleable interest in the property sold and the purchaser is for that reason deprived of it, the purchaser shall be entitled to receive back his purchase-money (with or without interest as the Court may direct) from any person to whom the purchase-money has been paid.

The repayment of the said purchase-money and of the interest (if any) allowed by the Court may be enforced against such person under the rules provided by this Code for the execution of a decree for money.

316. When a sale of immoveable property has become absolute in manner aforesaid, the Court shall grant the purchaser a certificate to the effect that he has purchased such property, and such certificate shall be deemed to be a valid transfer of such interest.

Certificate to purchaser of immoveable property.

317. The certificate shall state the name of the person who, at the time of sale, is declared to be the purchaser and the date of the attachment; and the purchase shall be deemed to take effect from such date.

Certificate to state name of actual purchaser.

No person shall maintain any suit against the certified purchaser on the ground that the purchase

Resale if purchaser not [illegible] was made on behalf of such other person, or on behalf of some one through whom such other person claims.

Nothing in this section shall bar a suit to obtain a declaration that the name of the certified purchaser was inserted in the certificate fraudulently or without the consent of the real purchaser.

318. When the property sold is in the occupancy of the judgment-debtor or of some person on his behalf, or of some person claiming under a title created by the defendant subsequently to the attachment of such property, and a certificate in respect thereof has been granted under section 316, the Court shall order delivery to be made by putting the purchaser or any person whom he may appoint to receive delivery on his behalf, in possession of the property, and, if need be, by removing any person who refuses to vacate the same.

Delivery of immoveable property in occupancy of judgment-debtor.

319. When the property sold is in the occupancy of a tenant or other person entitled to occupy the same, and a certificate in respect thereof has been granted under section 316, the Court shall order delivery thereof to be made by affixing a copy of the certificate of sale in some conspicuous place on the property, and proclaiming to the occupant by beat of drum or in such other mode as may be customary, at some convenient place, that the interest of the judgment-debtor has been transferred to the purchaser.

Delivery of immoveable property in the occupancy of tenant.

320. The Local Government may, with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, declare by notification in the official Gazette that in any local area the execution of decrees in cases in which a Court has ordered any interest in immoveable property to be sold, shall be transferred to the Collector; and rescind or modify any such declaration. The Local Government may also from time to time prescribe rules for the transmission of the decree from the Court to the Collector, and for regulating the procedure of the Collector and his subordinates in executing the same.

Power to prescribe rules for transferring to Collector execution of decrees sale of land.

321. Whenever the execution of a decree has been so transferred, if the Collector has reason to believe that the judgment-debts of the judgment-debtor can be discharged without a sale of the whole of such interest, the Collector may (notwithstanding any order under section 303, but subject to such rules as may from time to time be made in this behalf by the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority) raise the amount necessary to discharge such debts with interest thereon according to the decree, or, if the decree makes no provision as to interest, then with interest (if any) as he thinks fit not exceeding the rate of six per cent. per annum,

Powers of Collector as to execution of decrees so transferred.

(a) by selling part of the judgment-debtor's interest in such property or in any other immoveable property:

(b) by mortgaging the whole or any part of such interest:

(c) by letting on farm, or managing by himself or another, the whole or any part of such interest for any term not exceeding twenty years from the date of the order of sale, or

(d) partly by one of such modes and partly by another or others of them.

For the purpose of managing under this section the whole or any part of such interest, the Collector may exercise all the powers of its owner.

322. If the Collector proposes to proceed under this section he shall publish a notice in the language of the district, calling upon all persons holding decrees against the judgment-debtor to notify the same in writing to the Collector within sixty days from the date of the publication.

Procedure of Collector.

Such notice shall be published by being posted at the Court which made the order under section 303, and at such other places (if any) as the Collector thinks fit.

So long as any letting or management under this section continues, the judgment-debtor and his representative in interest shall be incompetent to mortgage, charge, lease or alienate the interest so let or managed, or any part thereof.

323. If on the expiration of the letting or management, the amount necessary to discharge such debts in full with the interest (if any) payable thereon has not been raised, the Collector shall notify the fact in writing to the judgment-debtor or his representative, stating at the same time that, if the balance necessary to discharge such debts and interest is not paid to the Collector within six weeks of the date of such notice, the Collector will proceed to sell the judgment-debtor's interest in the said property; and if on the expiration of the said six weeks the said balance is not so paid, the Collector shall sell such interest accordingly.

Sale by Collector.

324. Whenever the Collector sells any interest pursuant to the said order of sale or exercises any of the powers conferred upon him by the last preceding section, he shall inform the Court which made such order of the fact of such sale or exercise, and shall render accounts to such Court of his receipts and payments in respect of the said interest, and shall hold the balance at the disposal of such Court.

Sale, &c., to be reported to Court by Collector.

Such balance (after deducting therefrom any debts due or liabilities incurred to Government by the judgment-debtor) shall be applied rateably in discharging the claims of all the decree-holders who have complied with the said notice; and no other person making any claim against the interest so let or managed, or against such proceeds, shall be entitled to be paid thereout.

Application of balance.

325. When, in any local area in which no declaration under section 320 is in force, the property attached consists of land or of a share in land, and the Collector represents to the Court that the public sale of the land or share is objectionable, and that satisfaction of the decree may be made within a reasonable period by a temporary alienation or management of the land or share, the Court may authorize the Collector to make provision for such satisfaction in the manner recommended by him, instead of proceeding to a sale of the land or share. The provisions of sections 321 to 324 (both inclusive) shall in such case apply to the Collector.

When Court may authorize Collector to stay public sale of land.

326. The Local Government may from time to time, with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, make special rules for any local area imposing conditions in respect of sale of any class of interests in land in execution of decrees for money, or prohibiting such sales

Local rules as to sales of land in execution of decrees for money.

(a) where such interests are so uncertain or undetermined as in the opinion of the Local Government to make it impossible to fix their value:

(b) where for reasons of State the Local Government thinks that such class of interests should not be compulsorily transferrable:

and if, when this Code comes into operation in any local area, any such rules or prohibition are or is in force therein, the Local Government may continue such rules or prohibition in force, or may from time to time modify the same with the sanction of the Governor General in Council.

All rules and prohibitions so made or continued, and all modifications of such rules, shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

G.—Of Resistance to Execution.

327. If in the execution of a decree for the possession of property, the officer entrusted with the execution of the warrant is resisted or obstructed by any person, the decree-holder may complain to the Court at any time within one month from the time of such resistance or obstruction.

Procedure in case of obstruction to execution of decree.

The Court shall fix a day for investigating the complaint, and shall summon the party against whom the complaint is made to answer the same.

328. If the Court is satisfied that the obstruction or resistance was occasioned by the judgment-debtor or by some person at his instigation, on the ground that the property is not comprised in the decree or on any other ground, the Court shall enquire into the matter of the complaint, and pass such order as it thinks fit.

Procedure in case of obstruction by judgment-debtor or at his instigation.

329. If the Court is satisfied that the resistance or obstruction was without any just cause, and that the complainant is still resisted or obstructed in obtaining effectual possession of the property by the judgment-debtor or some other person at his instigation, the Court may, at the instance of the decree-holder and without prejudice to any proceedings to which such judgment-debtor or other person may be liable, under the Indian Penal Code or any other law, for the punishment of such resistance or obstruction, commit the judgment-debtor or such other person to jail for a term not exceeding thirty days, and direct that the decree-holder be put into possession of the property.

Procedure when obstruction continues.

330. If the resistance or obstruction has been occasioned by any person other than the judgment-debtor claiming in good faith to be in possession of the property on his own account or on account of some person other than the judgment-debtor, the claim shall be numbered and registered as a suit between the decree-holder as plaintiff and the claimant as defendant;

Obstruction by claimant in good faith, other than judgment-debtor.

and the Court shall, without prejudice to any proceedings to which the claimant may be liable under the Indian Penal Code or any other law for the punishment of such resistance of obstruction, proceed to investigate the claim in the same manner and with the like power as if a suit for the property had been instituted by the decree-holder against the claimant under the provisions of the Specific Relief Act, section 9, and shall pass such order as it thinks fit for executing or staying execution of the decree.

331. If any person other than the defendant is dispossessed of any property in execution of a decree, and such person disputes the right of the decree-holder to dispossess him of such property under the decree, on the ground that the property was bonâ fide in his possession on his own account or on account of some person other than the judgment-debtor, and that it was not comprised in the decree, or that, if it was comprised in the decree, he was not a party to the suit in which the decree was passed, he may apply to the Court.

Procedure in case of person dispossessed of property disputing right of decree-holder to be put into possession.

If, after examining the applicant, it appears to the Court that there is probable cause for making the application, the application shall be numbered and registered as a suit between the applicant as plaintiff and the decree-holder as defendant, and the Court shall proceed to investigate the matter in dispute in the same manner and with the like power as if a suit for the property had been instituted by the applicant against the decree-holder under the provisions of the Specific Relief Act, section 9, and shall pass such order as it thinks fit for executing or staying execution of the decree.

In hearing applications under this section the Court shall confine itself to the grounds of dispute above specified.

Nothing in this section or section 330 applies to a person to whom the judgment-debtor has transferred the property after the institution of the suit in which the decree is made.

332. The order passed under either of sections 330 and 331 shall be in the nature of, and shall have the same force as, a decree in a suit, and shall be subject to the same conditions as to appeal or otherwise.

Orders passed under sections 330 and 331 to have force of decrees, and to be subject to appeal.

333. If the purchaser of any immoveable property sold in execution of a decree be resisted or obstructed by the judgment-debtor or any one on his behalf, in obtaining possession of the property, the provisions of this chapter relating to resistance or obstruction to a decree-holder in obtaining possession of the property adjudged to him, shall be applicable.

Resisting or obstructing purchasers in obtaining possession of immoveable property.

334. If it appear that the resistance or obstruction was occasioned by any person other than the judgment-debtor, not in possession of the property sold, but claiming a right thereto as proprietor, mortgagee, lessee, or under any other title, the Court, on the complaint of the purchaser, shall enquire into the matter of the resistance or obstruction, and pass such order thereon as it thinks fit.

Obstruction by claimant other than defendant.

The party against whom such order is passed may bring a suit to establish his right to the present possession of the property at any time within one year from the date of such order.

H.—Of Arrest and Imprisonment.

335. A judgment-debtor may be arrested in execution of a decree at any hour and on any day, and shall as soon as practicable be brought before the Court, and his imprisonment may be in the jail of the district in which the Court ordering the imprisonment is held, or, when such jail does not afford suitable accommodation, in any other jail which the Local Government may appoint for the confinement of persons ordered to be imprisoned by the Courts of such district:

Place of judgment-debtor's imprisonment.

Provided that when the decree in execution of which a judgment-debtor is arrested is a decree for money and the judgment-debtor pays the amount of the decree and the costs of the arrest to the officer arresting him, such officer shall at once release him.

Proviso.

Whenever a judgment-debtor is arrested in execution of a decree for money and brought before the Court under this section, the Court shall inform him that he may apply under Chapter XX to be declared an insolvent, and that he will be discharged if he has not committed any act of bad faith regarding the subject of his application and if he places all his property in possession of a receiver appointed by the Court.

If the judgment-debtor express his intention so to apply, and if he furnish sufficient security for his appearance at any time when called upon, the Court shall release him from arrest.

336. Every warrant for the arrest of the judgment-debtor shall direct the officer entrusted with its execution to bring him before the Court.

Warrant for arrest to direct judgment-debtor to be brought up.

337. A day shall be specified in the warrant on or as soon as possible after which it is to be returned,

Latest day for return of warrant to be specified.

and unless the amount which the judgment-debtor has been ordered to pay, together with the interest thereon and the costs, if any, to which he is liable, be sooner paid, such officer shall bring him before the Court with all convenient speed.

338. The Local Government may from time to time prescribe scales, graduated according to rank, race and nationality, of monthly allowances payable for the subsistence of judgment-debtors.

Scales of subsistence allowances.

339. No judgment-debtor shall be arrested in execution of a decree unless and until the decree-holder pays into Court such sum as, having regard to the scales so fixed, the Judge thinks sufficient for the subsistence of the judgment-debtor from his arrest until he can be brought before the Court.

Judgment-debtor subsistence-money.

When a judgment-debtor is committed to jail in execution of a decree, the Court shall fix for his subsistence such monthly allowance as he may be entitled to according to the said scales, or where no such scales have been fixed, as it considers sufficient with reference to the class to which he belongs.

The monthly allowance fixed by the Court shall be supplied by the party on whose application the decree has been executed, to the proper officer of the Court by monthly payments in advance before the first day of each month.

The first payment shall be made for such portion of the current month as remains unexpired before the judgment-debtor is committed to jail.

340. Sums disbursed by the decree-holder for the subsistence of the judgment-debtor in jail shall be deemed to be costs on the suit.

Subsistence money to be added to amount of decree.

Provided that the judgment-debtor shall not be detained in jail or arrested on account of any sum so disbursed.

341. The judgment-debtor shall be discharged from jail,

Release of judgment-debtor.

(a) on the decree being fully satisfied, or

(b) at the request of the person on whose application he has been imprisoned, or

(c) on such person omitting to pay the allowance as hereinbefore directed, or

(d) if the judgment-debtor be declared an insolvent, as hereinafter provided, or

(e) when the term of his imprisonment as limited by section 342 is fulfilled.

Provided that in the first, second, third and fourth cases mentioned in this section, the judgment-debtor shall not be discharged without the order of the Court.

A judgment-debtor discharged under this section cannot be re-arrested under the decree in execution of which he was imprisoned.

342. No person shall be imprisoned in execution of a decree for a longer period than six months;

Imprisonment not to exceed six months.

or for a longer period than six weeks if the decree be for the payment of a sum of money not exceeding fifty rupees.

When not to exceed six weeks.

343. The officer entrusted with the execution of the warrant shall endorse thereupon the day on, and the manner in, which it was executed; and if the latest day specified in the warrant for the return thereof has been exceeded, the reason of the delay; or if it was not executed, the reason why it was not executed, and shall return the warrant with such endorsement to the Court.

Endorsement on warrant.

If the endorsement is to the effect that such officer is unable to execute the warrant, the Court shall examine him on oath touching his alleged inability, and may, if it think fit, summon and examine witnesses as to such inability and shall record the result.

CHAPTER XX.

OF INSOLVENT JUDGMENT-DEBTORS.

344. Any person arrested or imprisoned in execution of a decree for money may apply in writing to be declared an insolvent.

Power to apply to be declared an insolvent.

Such application shall be made to the District Court which ordered his arrest or imprisonment, or when the District Court did not make such order, then to the District Court to which the Court that made the order is subordinate.'

Contents of application.

345. The application shall set forth—

(a) the fact of such person's arrest or imprisonment, the Court by whose order he was arrested or imprisoned, and the place in which he is in custody;

(b) the amount, kind and particulars of his property, and the value of any such property not consisting of money;

(c) the place or places in which such property is to be found;

(d) his willingness to place it at the disposal of the Court;

(e) the amount and particulars of all pecuniary claims against him; and

(f) the names and residences of his creditors, so far as they are known to or can be ascertained by him.

Subscription and verification of application.

346. The application shall be subscribed and verified by the applicant in manner hereinbefore prescribed for subscribing and verifying plaints.

Service on decree-holder of copy of application and notice.

347. The Court shall fix a day for hearing the application, and shall cause a copy thereof, with a notice in writing of the time and place at which it will be heard, to be stuck up in Court and served at the applicant's expense on the holder of the decree in execution of which he was arrested or imprisoned, or on the pleader of such decree-holder, and on the other creditors (if any) mentioned in the application.

The Court may, if it thinks fit, publish at the applicant's expense the application in such official Gazettes and public newspapers as it thinks fit.

Power to serve other creditors.

348. The Court may also, if it thinks fit, cause a like copy and notice to be served on any other person alleging himself to be a creditor of the applicant and applying for leave to be heard on the application.

Powers of Court as to applicant under arrest.

349. Where the applicant is under arrest, the Court may, pending the hearing under section 350,

(a) order him to be immediately committed to jail; or

(b) leave him in the custody of the officer of Court to whom the service of the warrant was entrusted.

Procedure at hearing.

350. On the day so fixed, or on any subsequent day to which the Court may adjourn the hearing, the Court shall examine the applicant, in the presence of the persons on whom such notice has been served or their pleaders, as to his then circumstances and as to his future means of payment, and shall hear the said decree-holder, the other creditors mentioned in the application and the other persons (if any) alleging themselves to be creditors, in opposition to the applicant's discharge; and may, if it thinks fit, grant time to the said decree-holder and other creditors or persons to adduce evidence showing that the applicant is not entitled to be declared an insolvent.

Declaration of insolvency and appointment of Receiver.

351. If the Court is satisfied—

(a) that the statements in the application are substantially true;

(b) that the applicant has not, with intent to defraud his creditors, concealed, transferred, or removed any part of his property within two months next before the date of the decree in execution of which he was arrested or imprisoned or at any subsequent time;

(c) that he has not, knowing himself to be unable to pay his debts in full, recklessly contracted or given an unfair preference to any of his creditors by any payment or disposition of his property;

(d) that he has not committed any other act of bad faith regarding the matter of the application, the Court may declare him to be an insolvent, and may also, if it think fit, make an order appointing a Receiver of his property, or if it does not appoint such Receiver, may discharge the insolvent.

Creditors to prove their debts.

352. The creditors mentioned in the application and the other persons (if any) alleging themselves to be creditors of the insolvent, shall then produce evidence of the amount, and particulars of their respective pecuniary claims against him; and the Court shall frame a schedule of the persons who have proved themselves to be the insolvent's creditors, and of their respective debts; and the declaration under section 351 shall be deemed to be a decree in favour of each of the said creditors for their said respective debts.

Schedule to be framed.

A copy of every such schedule shall be stuck up in the court-house.

Applications by creditors.

353. Any creditor of the insolvent who is not mentioned in such schedule may, within three months from its publication, apply to the Court for permission to produce evidence of the amount and particulars of his pecuniary claims against the insolvent, and in case he proves himself to be a creditor of the insolvent, for an order directing his name to be inserted in the schedule as a creditor for the debt so proved.

Any creditor mentioned in the schedule may within three months from the publication of the schedule apply to the Court for an order altering the schedule so far as regards the amount, nature or particulars of his own debt, or to strike out the name of another creditor, or to alter the schedule so far as regards the amount, nature or particulars of the debt of another creditor.

In the case of any application under this section, the Court, after causing such notices as it thinks fit to be served, at the applicant's expense, on the insolvent and the other creditors and hearing their objections, if any, may comply with or reject the application.

Effect of order appointing Receiver.

354. Every order under section 351 shall be published in the official Gazette and shall operate to vest in the Receiver all the insolvent's property (except the particulars specified in the first proviso to section 266) whether set forth in his application or not.

Receiver to give security and collect assets.

355. The Receiver so appointed shall give such security as the Court may direct and shall possess himself of all such property, except as aforesaid;

Discharge of insolvent.

and on his certifying that the insolvent has placed him in possession thereof, or has done everything in his power for that purpose, the Court may discharge the insolvent from arrest or imprisonment, as the case may be, upon such conditions (if any) as the Court thinks fit.

Duty of Receiver.

356. The Receiver shall proceed under the direction of the Court—

(a) to convert the property into money:

(b) to pay thereout debts, fines and penalties (if any) due by the insolvent to Government:

(c) to pay the said decree-holder's costs:

(d) to distribute the balance among the scheduled creditors rateably according to the amounts of their respective debts, and without any preference;

His right to remuneration.

and such Receiver may retain as a remuneration for the performance of his duties a commission at the rate of five per centum upon the amount of the balance so distributed (the amount of the commission so retained being deemed a distribution), and

Delivery of surplus.

shall deliver the surplus, if any, to the insolvent or his legal representative.

Effect of discharge.

357. An insolvent discharged under section 355 shall not be arrested or imprisoned on account of any of the scheduled debts. But (subject to the provisions of section 358) his property, whether previously or subsequently acquired (except the particulars specified in the first proviso to section 266 and except the property vested in the Receiver,) shall, by order of the Court, be liable to attachment and sale until the decrees against him held by the scheduled creditors are fully satisfied or become incapable of being executed.

When Court may declare insolvent absolved from further liability.

358. If the aggregate amount of the scheduled debts is two hundred rupees or a less sum, the Court may declare the insolvent discharged as aforesaid absolved from further liability in respect of such debts.

Procedure in case of dishonest applicant.

359. Whenever, at the hearing under section 350, it is proved that the applicant has

(a) been guilty, in his application, of any concealment or of wilfully making any false statement as to the debts due by him, or respecting the property belonging to him, whether in possession or in expectancy, or held for him in trust;

(b) fraudulently concealed, transferred or removed any property; or

(c) committed any other act of bad faith regarding the matter of the application, the Court shall, at the instance of any of his creditors, sentence him to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year from the date of committal.

Or the Court may, if it think fit, send him to the Magistrate to be dealt with according to law.

Investment of other Courts with powers of District Courts.

Transfer of cases.

360. The Local Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, invest any Court other than a District Court with the powers conferred on District Courts by sections 344 to 359 (both inclusive), and the District Judge may transfer to any Court situate in his district and so invested any case instituted under section 344.

Any Court so invested may entertain any application under section 344 by any person arrested in execution of a decree of such Court.

PART II.

OF INCIDENTAL PROCEEDINGS.

CHAPTER XXI.

OF THE DEATH, MARRIAGE AND INSOLVENCY OF PARTIES.

No abatement by party's death, if cause of action survive.

361. The death of a plaintiff or defendant shall not cause the suit to abate if the cause of action survives.

Illustrations.

(a) A covenants with B and C to pay an annuity to B during C's life. B and C sue A to compel payment. B dies before the decree: the cause of action survives to C, and the suit does not abate.

(b) In the same case, all the parties die before decree. The cause of action survives to the representative of the survivor of B and C, and he may continue the suit against A's representative.

(c) A sues B for libel. A dies. The cause of action does not survive and the suit abates.

(d) A, a member of a Hindú joint family under the Mitákshará law, institutes a suit for partition of the family property. A dies leaving B, a minor son his heir. The cause of action survives to B, and the suit does not abate.

Proceeding in case of death of one of several plaintiffs or defendants, if cause of action survive.

362. If there be more plaintiffs or defendants than one, and any of them dies, and if the cause of action survives to the surviving plaintiff or plaintiffs alone, or against the surviving defendant or defendants alone, the Court shall cause an entry to that effect to be made on the record, and the suit shall proceed at the instance of the surviving plaintiff or plaintiffs, or against the surviving defendant or defendants.

Proceeding in case of death of one of several plaintiffs where cause of action survives to survivors and representative of deceased.

363. If there be more plaintiffs than one, and any of them dies, and if the cause of action does not survive to the surviving plaintiff or plaintiffs alone, but survives to him or them and the legal representative of the deceased plaintiff jointly, the Court may, on the application of such legal representative, enter his name on the record in the place of such deceased plaintiff, and the suit shall proceed at the instance of the surviving plaintiff or plaintiffs and such legal representative.

Proceeding where no application made by representative of deceased plaintiff.

364. If no application be made to the Court within a reasonable time not exceeding thirty days by any person claiming to be the legal representative of a deceased plaintiff, the suit shall proceed at the instance of the surviving plaintiff or plaintiffs;

and the legal representative (if any) of the deceased plaintiff shall be made a party and shall be interested in and bound by the decree passed in the suit, in the same manner as if the suit had proceeded at his instance conjointly with the surviving plaintiff or plaintiffs.

365. In case of the death of a sole plaintiff or sole surviving plaintiff, the Court may, on the application of the legal representative of the deceased, enter his name in the place of such plaintiff on the record, and the suit shall thereupon proceed.

Proceeding in case of death of sole, or sole surviving, plaintiff.

366. If no such application be made to the Court within a reasonable time not exceeding thirty days by any person claiming to be the legal representative of the deceased plaintiff, the Court may pass an order that the suit shall abate, and award to the defendant the costs which he may have incurred in defending the suit, to be recovered from the estate of the deceased plaintiff;

Abatement where no application by representative of deceased plaintiff.

or the Court may, if it think proper, on the application of the defendant, and upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit, pass such other order as it thinks fit for bringing in the legal representative of the deceased plaintiff and for proceeding with the suit in order to a final determination of the matter in dispute.

Explanation.—A certificate of heirship, or a certificate to collect debts, does not of itself constitute the person holding it the legal representative of the deceased. But when the person holding any such certificate obtains thereby property belonging to the deceased, he may be treated as a legal representative liable in respect of such property.

367. If any dispute arise as to who is the legal representative of a deceased plaintiff, the Court may either stay the suit until the fact has been determined in another suit, or decide at or before the hearing of the suit who shall be admitted to be such legal representative for the purpose of prosecuting the suit.

Procedure in case of dispute as to representative of deceased plaintiff.

368. If there be more defendants than one, and any of them die before decree and the cause of action does not survive against the surviving defendant or defendants alone, and also in case of the death of a sole defendant, or sole surviving defendant, where the right to sue survives,

Procedure in case of death of one of several defendants, or of sole or sole surviving defendant.

the plaintiff may make an application to the Court, specifying the name, description, and place of abode of any person whom he alleges to be the legal representative of the deceased defendant, and whom he desires to be made the defendant in his stead.

The Court shall thereupon enter the name of such representative on the record in the place of such defendant, and shall issue a summons to such representative to appear on a day to be therein mentioned to defend the suit;

and the case shall thereupon proceed in the same manner as if such representative had originally been made a defendant and had been a party to the former proceedings in the suit:

Provided that the person so made defendant may object that he is not the legal representative of the deceased defendant, or may make any defence appropriate to his character as such representative.

369. The marriage of a female plaintiff or defendant shall not cause the suit to abate, but the suit may notwithstanding be proceeded with to judgment, and where the decree is against a female defendant, it may thereupon be executed against the wife alone.

Suit not abated by marriage of female party.

If the case is one in which the husband is by law liable for the debts of his wife, the decree may, with the permission of the Court, be executed against the husband also; and in case of judgment for the wife, execution of the decree may with such permission be issued upon the application of the husband, where the husband is by law entitled to the subject-matter of the decree.

370. The bankruptcy or insolvency of a plaintiff in any suit which his assignee or the receiver appointed under section 351 might maintain for the benefit of his creditors shall not bar the suit, unless such assignee or receiver declines to continue the suit and to give security for the costs thereof within such time as the Court may order.

When plaintiff's bankruptcy or insolvency bars suit.

If the assignee or receiver neglect or refuse to continue the suit and to give such security within the time so ordered, the defendant may, within eight days after such neglect or refusal, apply for the dismissal of the suit on the ground of the plaintiff's bankruptcy or insolvency, and the Court may dismiss the suit and award to the defendant the costs which he has incurred in defending the same, to be recovered from the plaintiff's estate.

Procedure when assignee fails to continue suit or give security.

371. When a suit abates or is dismissed under this chapter, no fresh suit shall be brought on the same cause of action.

Effect of abatement on parties' rights.

But the person claiming to be the representative of the deceased bankrupt or insolvent plaintiff, may apply for an order to set aside the order for abatement or dismissal; and if it be proved that he was prevented by any sufficient cause from continuing the suit, the Court shall set aside the abatement or dismissal upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit.

Application to set aside abatement or dismissal.

372. In other cases of assignment, creation or devolution of any interest pending the suit, the suit may, with the leave of the Court, given either with the consent of all parties or after service of notice in writing upon them, and hearing their objections, if any, be continued by or against the person to whom such interest has come, either in addition to or in substitution for the person from whom it has passed, as the case may require.

Procedure in case of assignment pending the suit.

CHAPTER XXII.

OF THE WITHDRAWAL AND ADJUSTMENT OF SUITS.

373. If, at any time after the institution of the suit, but before judgment, the Court is satisfied on the application of the plaintiff (a) that the suit must fail by reason of some formal defect, or (b) that there are sufficient grounds for permitting him to withdraw from the suit or to abandon part of his claim with liberty to bring a fresh suit for the subject-matter of the suit or for the part so abandoned, the Court may grant such permission on such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit.

Power to allow plaintiff to withdraw with liberty to bring fresh suit.

If the plaintiff withdraw from the suit, or abandon part of his claim, without such permission, he shall be liable for such costs as the Court may award, and shall be precluded from bringing a fresh suit for the same matter.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize the Court to permit one of several plaintiffs to withdraw without the consent of the others.

374. In any fresh suit instituted on permission granted under the last preceding section, the plaintiff shall be bound by the law of limitation in the same manner as if the first suit had not been brought.

Limitation-law not affected by first suit.

375. If a suit be adjusted by mutual agreement or compromise, or if the defendant satisfy the plaintiff in respect to the matter of the suit, such agreement, compromise or satisfaction shall be recorded, and the Court shall pass a decree in accordance therewith, and such decree shall be final.

Compromise of suits.

CHAPTER XXIII.

OF PAYMENT INTO COURT.

376. The defendant in any suit to recover a debt or damages, may, at any stage of the suit, deposit in Court such sum of money as he considers a satisfaction in full of the claim.

Deposit by defendant of amount in satisfaction of claim.

377. Notice of the deposit shall be given by the defendant to the plaintiff, and the amount of the deposit shall (unless the Court otherwise directs) be paid to the plaintiff on his application.

Notice of deposit.

378. No interest shall be allowed to the plaintiff on any sum deposited by the defendant from the date of the receipt of such notice, whether the sum deposited be in full of the claim or fall short thereof.

Interest on sum deposited not allowed to plaintiff after receipt of notice.

379. If the plaintiff accept such amount only as satisfaction in part of his claim, he may prosecute his suit for the balance; and if the Court decides that the deposit by the defendant was a full satisfaction of the plaintiff's claim, the plaintiff must pay the costs of the suit incurred after the deposit and the costs incurred previous thereto, so far as they were caused by excess in the plaintiff's claim.

Procedure where plaintiff accepts deposit as satisfaction in part.

If the plaintiff accept such amount as satisfaction in full of his claim, he shall file in Court a statement to that effect, and the Court shall pass judgment accordingly, and in directing by whom the costs of each party are to be paid, the Court shall consider which of the parties is most to blame for the litigation.

Procedure where he accepts it as satisfaction in full.

Illustrations.

(a). A owes B Rs. 100. B sues A for the amount, having made no demand for payment and having no reason to believe that the delay caused by making a demand would place him at a disadvantage. On the plaint being filed, A pays the money into Court. B accepts it in full satisfaction of his claim, but the Court should not allow him any costs, the litigation being presumably groundless on his part.

(b). B sues A under the circumstances mentioned in illustration (a). On the plaint being filed, A disputes the claim. Afterwards A pays the money into Court. B accepts it in full satisfaction of his claim. The Court should also give B his costs of suit, A's conduct having shewn that the litigation was necessary.

(c). A owes B Rs. 100 and is willing to pay him that sum without suit. B claims Rs. 150 and sues A for that amount. On the plaint being filed, A pays Rs. 100 into Court and disputes only his liability to pay the remaining Rs. 50. B accepts the Rs. 100 in full satisfaction of his claim. The Court should order him to pay A's costs.

CHAPTER XXIV.

OF REQUIRING SECURITY FOR COSTS.

380. When the plaintiff ordinarily resides out of British India, and does not possess any sufficient immoveable property within British India independent of the property in suit, he shall, if any defendant so requires, on presenting the plaint or within such time as the Court may fix, furnish security for the payment of the costs that may be incurred by the defendant.

When security for costs is to be furnished by plaintiff on presenting plaint.

381. If at any subsequent stage of a suit it appears to the Court that a sole plaintiff is, or (when there are more plaintiffs than one) that all the plaintiffs are, residing out of British India, and such plaintiff or plaintiffs does not or do not possess any sufficient immoveable property within British India independent of the property in suit, the Court may, on the application of any defendant, order the plaintiff or plaintiffs, within a time to be fixed by the order, to give security for the payment of all costs incurred and likely to be incurred by such defendant.

When security for costs may be required from plaintiff at any stage of suit.

In the event of such security not being furnished within the time so fixed, the Court shall pass a decree against the plaintiff or plaintiffs by default, unless he or they be permitted to withdraw from the suit under the provisions of section 373.

Procedure where requisition is not complied with.

382. A person is considered to be resident out of British India, within the meaning of sections 380 and 381 who leaves British India under such circumstances as to afford reasonable probability that he will not be forthcoming whenever he may be called upon to pay costs.

Residence out of British India.

CHAPTER XXV.

OF COMMISSIONS.

A.—Commissions to examine Witnesses.

383. Any Court may by order issue a commission for the examination on interrogatories or otherwise of persons resident within the local limits of its jurisdiction, who are exempted under this Code from attending the Court, or who are from sickness or infirmity unable to attend it.

Cases in which Court may issue commission to examine witness.

384. Such order may be made by the Court either of its own motion, or on the application, supported by affidavit, of any party to the suit or proceeding or of the witness to be examined.

Order for commission may be made either on application of parties or by Court of its own accord.

385. The commission for the examination of a person who resides within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court issuing the same may be issued to any person whom the Court issuing the commission thinks proper to appoint to execute the same:

When witness resides within Court's jurisdiction.

Provided that where the Court issuing the commission is subordinate to a District Court, and is not a Court of Small Causes, the exercise of the power conferred by this section shall be subject to such rules as the District Court may from time to time prescribe, as to the officers or persons to whom commissions may be issued.

386. Any District Court and any Court of Small Causes may issue a commission for the examination of—

When witness resides beyond Court's jurisdiction, but in British India.

(a) any person resident beyond the local limits of its jurisdiction,

(b) persons who are about to leave such limits before the date on which they are required to be examined in Court, and

(c) civil and military officers of Government who cannot, in the opinion of the Judge, attend the Court without detriment to the public service.

If the suit in which it is desired to issue such commission be pending in any Court (other than a Court of Small Causes) subordinate to the District Court, the District Court may issue it on the application of such subordinate Court.

Such commission shall ordinarily be issued to any Court not being a High Court, within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such person resides, and which can most conveniently execute the same:

Provided that if he resides beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court issuing the commission and within the towns of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, or Rangoon, the commission shall be issued to the Court of Small Causes within whose jurisdiction he resides:

When witness is within local limits of ordinary original civil jurisdiction of a High Court.

Provided also that, under special circumstances, the commission may be directed to any person whom the Court issuing the commission thinks fit to appoint.

The Court on issuing any commission under this section shall direct whether the commission shall be returned to itself or to any subordinate Court.

387. In the case of a person residing at any place not within British India, the Court, if satisfied that the evidence of such person is necessary, may, of its own motion or on the application of any of the parties to the suit, issue a commission for his examination.

When witness is not within British India.

388. Every Court receiving a commission for the examination of any person shall examine him pursuant thereto.

Court to examine witness pursuant to commission.

389. After the commission has been duly executed, it shall be returned, together with the evidence taken under it, to the Court out of which it issued, unless the order for issuing the commission has otherwise directed, in which case the commission shall be returned in terms of such order; and the commission and the return thereto, and the evidence taken under it, shall form part of the record of the suit.

Commission when executed to be returned to Court issuing it with depositions of witnesses.

390. Evidence taken under a commission shall not be read as evidence in the suit without the consent of the party against whom the same is offered, unless

When depositions may be read in evidence.

(a) the person who gave the evidence is beyond the jurisdiction of the Court, or dead, or unable from sickness or infirmity to attend to be personally examined, or exempted from personal appearance in Court, or

(b) the Court in its discretion dispenses with the proof of any of the circumstances mentioned in the last preceding clause, and authorizes the evidence of any person being read as evidence in the suit, notwithstanding proof that the cause for taking such evidence by commission has ceased at the time of reading the same.

391. The provisions hereinbefore contained as to the execution and return of commissions shall apply to commissions issued by

Provisions as to execution and return of commissions to apply to commissions issued by Foreign Courts.

(a) Courts situate beyond the limits of British India and established by the authority of Her Majesty or of the Governor General in Council, or

(b) Courts situate in any part of the British Empire other than British India, or

(c) Courts of any foreign country for the time being in alliance with Her Majesty.

B.—Commissions for Local Investigations.

392. In any suit or proceeding in which the Court deems a local investigation to be requisite or proper for the purpose of elucidating any matter in dispute, or of ascertaining the market-value of any property, or the amount of any mesne profits or damages or annual nett profits, and the same cannot be conveniently conducted by the Judge in person, the Court may issue a commission to such person as it thinks fit, directing him to make such investigation and to report thereon to the Court:

Commission to make local investigations.

Provided that when the Local Government has made rules as to the persons to whom such commission shall be issued, the Court shall be bound by such rules.

393. The Commissioner, unless otherwise directed by the order of appointment, may examine the parties themselves and any witness whom they or any of them may produce, and any other person whom the Commissioner thinks proper to call upon to give evidence in the matter referred to him.

Commissioner may examine parties and witnesses and call for papers.

The Commissioner may also call for and examine documents and other papers relevant to the subject of enquiry.

The Commissioner, after such local inspection as he deems necessary, and after reducing to writing the evidence taken by him, shall return such evidence, together with his report in writing, subscribed with his name, to the Court.

394. The report of the Commissioner and the evidence taken by him (but not the evidence without the report) shall be evidence in the suit and shall form part of the record; but the Court, or any of the parties to the suit may, with the permission of the Court, examine the Commissioner personally in open Court touching any of the matters referred to him or mentioned in his report, or as to the manner in which he has made the investigation.

Report and depositions to be evidence in suit.

Commissioner may be examined in person.

C.—Commissions to examine Accounts.

395. In any suit in which an examination or adjustment of accounts is necessary, the Court may issue a commission to such person as it thinks fit directing him to make such examination or adjustment.

Commission to investigate and adjust accounts.

396. The Court shall furnish the Commissioner with such part of the proceedings and such detailed instructions as appear necessary, and the instructions shall distinctly specify whether the Commissioner is merely to transmit the proceedings which he may hold on the enquiry, or also to report his own opinion on the point referred for his examination.

Court to give Commissioner necessary instructions.

397. The proceedings of the Commissioner shall be received in evidence in the suit, unless the Court has reason to be dissatisfied with them, in which case the Court shall direct such further enquiry as is requisite.

Proceedings of Commissioner receivable in evidence.

Power to make further enquiry.

D.—General Provisions.

398. Before issuing any commission under this chapter, the Court may order such sum (if any) as it thinks reasonable for the expenses of the commission to be paid into court by the party at whose instance or for whose benefit the commission is issued.

Expenses of Commission to be paid into court.

399. The provisions of this Code relating to the summoning, attendance, and examination of witnesses and to the remuneration of, and penalties to be imposed upon, witnesses, shall apply to persons required to give evidence or to produce documents under this chapter, whether the commission in execution of which they are so required has been issued by a Court situate within, or by a Court situated beyond, the limits of British India.

Attendance, examination and punishment of witnesses before Commissioner.

400. Whenever a commission is issued under this chapter, the Court shall direct that the parties to the suit shall appear before the Commissioner in person or by their agents or pleaders.

Procedure ex parte where parties do not appear.

If the parties do not so appear, the Commissioner may proceed ex parte.

PART III.

OF SUITS IN PARTICULAR CASES.

CHAPTER XXVI.

SUITS BY PAUPERS.

401. Subject to the following rules, any suit may be brought by a pauper.

Suits may be brought in formâ pauperis.

Explanation.—A person is a 'pauper' when he is not possessed of sufficient means to enable him to pay the fee prescribed for by law for the plaint in such suit, or, where no such fee is prescribed, when he is not entitled to property worth one hundred rupees other than his necessary wearing apparel and the subject-matter of the suit.

402. No suit shall be brought by a pauper to recover compensation for loss of caste, libel, slander, abusive language or assault.

What suits excepted.

403. The application for permission to sue by a pauper shall be in writing, and shall contain the particulars required by section 50 in regard to plaints in suits: a schedule of any moveable or immoveable property belonging to the petitioner, with the estimated value thereof, shall be annexed thereto; and it shall be subscribed and verified in the manner hereinbefore prescribed for the subscription and verification of plaints.

Application to be in writing.

Contents of application.

404. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 40, the application shall be presented to the Court by the applicant in person unless he is exempted from appearing in Court under section 642 or 643, in which case the application may be presented by a duly authorized agent, who can answer all material questions relating to the application, and who shall be liable to be examined in the same manner as the party represented by him might have been examined had such party attended in person.

Presentation of application.

405. If the application be not framed or presented in the manner laid down in sections 403 and 404, the Court shall reject it.

Rejection of application.

406. If the application be in form and duly presented, the Judge shall examine the petitioner, or his agent when the applicant is allowed to appear by agent, regarding the merits of the claim and the property of the applicant.

Examination of applicant.

When the application is presented by an agent, the Court may, if it thinks fit, order that the applicant be examined by a Commission in the manner in which the examination of an absent witness may be taken under the provisions of this Code.

I presented by agent, Court may order applicant to be examined by Commission.

Rejection of application.

407. If it appear to the Court upon such examination

(a) that the applicant is not a pauper, or

(b) that he has, within the two months next before the presentation of the application, disposed of any property fraudulently or with a view to obtain the benefit of this chapter, or

(c) that his allegations do not show a right to sue in such Court,

the Court shall reject the application.

Notice of day for receiving evidence of applicant's pauperism.

408. If upon such examination the Court sees no reason to refuse the application on any of the grounds stated in section 407, it shall fix a day, of which at least ten days' previous notice shall be given to the opposite party and the Government Pleader, for receiving such evidence as the applicant may adduce in proof of his pauperism, and for hearing any evidence which may be adduced in disproof thereof.

Procedure at hearing.

409. On the day so fixed, or as soon thereafter as may be convenient, the Court shall examine the witnesses (if any) produced by either party, and may cross-examine the applicant or his agent, and shall make a memorandum of the substance of their evidence.

The Court shall also hear any argument which the parties may desire to offer on the question whether, on the face of the application and of the evidence (if any) taken by the Court as herein provided, the applicant is or is not subject to any of the prohibitions specified in section 407.

The Court shall then either allow or refuse to allow the applicant to sue as a pauper.

Procedure if application admitted.

410. If the application be granted, it shall be numbered and registered, and shall be deemed the plaint in the suit, and the suit shall proceed in all other respects as a suit instituted under chapter V, except that the plaintiff shall not be liable to any court-fee (other than fees payable for service of process) in respect of any petition, appointment of a pleader, or other proceeding connected with the suit.

Costs when pauper succeeds.

Recovery of court-fees.

411. If the plaintiff succeed in the suit, the Court shall calculate the amount of court-fees which would have been paid by the plaintiff if he had not been permitted to sue as a pauper; and such amount shall be a first charge on the subject-matter of the suit, and shall also be recoverable by Government from any party ordered by the decree to pay the same, in the same manner as costs of suit are recoverable under this Code.

Procedure when pauper fails.

412. If the plaintiff fails in the suit, or if he is dispaupered, the Court shall order the plaintiff, or any person made under section 32 co-plaintiff to the suit, to pay the court-fees which would have been paid by the plaintiff if he had not been permitted to sue as a pauper; and, if it find that the suit was frivolous or vexatious, it may also punish the plaintiff with fine not exceeding one hundred rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to a month, or with both.

Refusal to allow applicant to sue as pauper to bar subsequent application of like nature.

413. Refusal to allow the applicant to sue as a pauper shall be a bar to any subsequent application of the like nature by him in respect of the same right to sue; but the applicant shall be at liberty to institute a suit in the ordinary manner in respect of such right.

Dispaupering.

414. The Court may, on motion by the defendant, or by the Government Pleader, of which one week's notice in writing has been given to the plaintiff, order the plaintiff to be dispaupered—

(a) if he is guilty of vexatious or improper conduct in the course of the suit;

(b) if it appears that his means are such that he ought not to continue to sue as a pauper, or

(c) if he has entered into any agreement with reference to the subject-matter of the suit, under which any other person has obtained an interest in such subject-matter.

Costs.

415. The costs of an application for permission to sue as a pauper and of an enquiry into pauperism are costs in the suit.

CHAPTER XXVII.

SUITS BY OR AGAINST GOVERNMENT OR PUBLIC OFFICERS.

Suits by or against Secretary of State in Council.

416. Suits by or against the Government shall be brought by or against (as the case may be) the Secretary of State for India in Council.

Courts in which such suits shall be instituted.

No suit against the Secretary of State for India in Council and no suit against a public officer for any act alleged to be done by him in his official capacity shall be instituted in any Court inferior to a District Court. Any such suit may be transferred by order of the Court in which it is instituted to any Court subordinate thereto, and otherwise competent to entertain such suit.

Nothing contained in the second paragraph of this section shall affect suits to which Government is a party, the trial whereof is provided for by any local law.

Persons authorized to act for Government.

417. Persons being ex-officio or otherwise authorized to act for Government in respect of any judicial proceeding, shall be deemed to be the recognized agents by whom appearances, acts and applications under this Code may be made or done on behalf of Government.

Plaints in suits by Secretary of State in Council.

418. In suits by the Secretary of State for India in Council, instead of inserting in the plaint the name and description and place of abode of the plaintiff, it shall be sufficient to insert the words "The Secretary of State for India in Council."

Agent of Government to receive process.

419. The person appointed to act as pleader on the part of Government in any Court, shall be the agent of the Government for the purpose of receiving processes against the Government or the said Secretary of State in Council, issuing out of the Court in which such person may be the pleader of Government.

Service on Government Pleader.

420. If the suit be against the said Secretary of State in Council or against a public officer for any such act as aforesaid, the summons shall be served on the Government Pleader of the Court in which the suit is instituted, or on any other person appointed to receive process on behalf of the Government.

Appearance and answer by Secretary of State in Council.

421. The Court, in fixing the day for the said Secretary of State in Council to answer to the plaint, shall allow a reasonable time for the necessary communication with the Government through the proper channels, and for the issue of instructions to the Government Pleader to appear and answer on behalf of the said Secretary of State in Council or the Government, and may extend the time at its discretion.

The Court may also in any case in which the Government Pleader is not accompanied by any person on the part of the said Secretary of State in Council, who may be able to answer any material questions relating to the suit, direct the attendance of such a person.

Service on public officers.

422. If the defendant be a public officer, the Court may send a copy of the summons to the head of the office in which the defendant is employed, for the purpose of being served on him, if it shall appear to the Court that the summons may be most conveniently so served.

Extension of time to enable officer to make reference to Government.

423. If the public officer on receiving the summons considers it proper to make a reference to the Government before answering to the plaint, he may apply to the Court to grant such extension of the time fixed in the summons as may be necessary to enable him to make such reference and to receive orders thereon through the proper channel; and the Court upon such application may extend the time for so long as appears to be requisite.

Notice previous to suing Secretary of State in Council or public officer.

424. No suit shall be instituted under this chapter against the said Secretary of State in Council or against a public officer until the expiration of two months next after notice in writing has been in the case of the Secretary of State in Council delivered to, or left at the office of, a Secretary to the Local Government or the Collector of the District, and, in the case of a public officer, delivered to him or left at his office, stating the cause of action and the name and place of abode of the intending plaintiff.

Unless such notice is proved, the Court shall find for the defendant.

Every suit against a public officer for compensation for an act alleged to be done in his official capacity shall be commenced within six months next after the cause of action arises, and not afterwards.

Application where Government undertakes defence.

425. If the Government undertake the defence of a suit under this chapter against a public officer, the Government Pleader, upon being furnished with authority to appear and answer to the plaint, shall apply to the Court, and upon such application the Court shall cause a note of his authority to be entered in the register.

Procedure where no such application made.

Defendant not liable to arrest before judgment.

426. If such application is not made by the Government Pleader on or before the day fixed in the notice for the defendant to appear and answer to the plaint, the case shall proceed as in a suit between private parties, except that the defendant shall not be liable to arrest, nor his property to attachment, otherwise than in execution of a decree.

Exemption of public officers from personal appearance.

427. If in a suit under this chapter against a public officer the Court requires the personal appearance of the defendant, and the defendant satisfies the Court that he cannot absent himself from his duty without detriment to the public service, the Court shall exempt him from appearing in person.

Procedure where decree is against Government or a public officer.

428. When the decree is against the said Secretary of State in Council or against a public officer, a time shall be specified in the decree within which it shall be satisfied; and if the decree is not satisfied within the time so specified, the Court shall report the case for the orders of the Local Government.

Execution shall not issue on any decree mentioned in this section unless it remains unsatisfied for the period of three months computed from the date of the report.

Performance of Government Pleader's functions.

429. Where there is no Government Pleader the functions imposed by this chapter on the Government Pleader may be performed by such officer as the Local Government generally or specially appoints in this behalf.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

SUITS BY ALIENS AND BY OR AGAINST FOREIGN AND NATIVE RULERS.

When aliens may sue.

430. Alien enemies residing in British India with the permission of the Governor General in Council and alien friends may sue in the Courts of British India as if they were subjects of Her Majesty.

No alien enemy residing in British India without such permission, or residing in a foreign country, shall sue in any of such Courts.

Explanation.—Every person residing in a foreign country, the Government of which is at war with the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and carrying on business in that country without a license in that behalf under the hand of one of Her Majesty's Secretaries of State or of a Secretary to the Government of India, shall, for the purpose of this section, be deemed to be an alien enemy.

431. A foreign State may sue in the Courts of British India, provided that—

When a foreign State may sue.

(a) it has been recognized by Her Majesty or the Governor General in Council, and

(b) the object of the suit is to enforce the private rights of the head or of the subjects of the foreign State.

The Court shall take judicial notice of the fact that a foreign State has not been recognized by Her Majesty or by the Governor General in Council.

432. Persons specially appointed by order of Government at the request of any Sovereign Prince or ruling Chief, whether in subordinate alliance with the British Government or otherwise, and whether residing within or without British India, to prosecute or defend any suit on his behalf, shall be deemed to be the recognized agents by whom appearances, acts and applications under this Code may be made or done on behalf of such Prince or Chief.

Persons specially appointed by Government to prosecute or defend for Princes or Chiefs.

433. Any such Prince or Chief, and any ambassador or envoy of a foreign State may, with the consent of Government certified by the signature of one of its Secretaries (but not otherwise) be sued in any competent Court not subordinate to a District Court:

Suits against Sovereign Princes, &c.

Such consent shall not be given unless—

(a) the Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy has instituted a suit in such Court against the person desiring to sue him, or

(b) the Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy by himself or another trades within the local limits of the jurisdiction of such Court: or

(c) the suit is for the determination of any right to, or interest in, immoveable property situate within the said local limits and in the possession of the Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy.

No such Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy shall be arrested under this Code; and no decree shall be executed against the property of any such Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy unless with consent of Government certified as aforesaid.

Sovereign Princes, &c., exempt from arrest.

When their property may be attached.

434. The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, Execution in British India of decrees of Courts of Native States.

(a) declare that the decrees of Courts situate in the territories of any Native Prince or State in alliance with Her Majesty, may be executed in British India as if they had been made by the Courts of British India, and

(b) cancel any such declaration.

So long as such declaration remains in force the said decrees may be executed accordingly.

CHAPTER XXIX.

SUITS BY AND AGAINST CORPORATIONS AND COMPANIES.

435. In suits by a Corporation, or by a Company authorized to sue and be sued in the name of an officer or of a trustee, the plaint may be subscribed and verified on behalf of the Corporation or Company by any director, secretary, or other principal officer of the Corporation or Company, who is able to depose to the facts of the case.

Subscription and verification of plaint.

436. When the suit is against a Corporation, or against a Company authorized to sue and be sued in the name of an officer or of a trustee, the summons may be served

Service on Corporation or Company.

(a) by leaving it at the registered office (if any) of the Corporation or Company, or

(b) by sending it by post in a letter addressed to such officer or trustee at the office (or if there be more offices than one, at the principal office in British India) of the Corporation or Company, or

(c) by giving it to any director, secretary, or other principal officer of the Corporation or Company, and the Court may require the personal appearance of any director, secretary, or other principal officer of the Corporation or Company who may be able to answer material questions relating to the suit.

CHAPTER XXX.

SUITS BY AND AGAINST TRUSTEES, EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS.

437. In all suits concerning property vested in a trustee, executor or administrator, the trustee, executor or administrator shall represent the persons beneficially interested in such property; and it shall not ordinarily be necessary to make such persons parties to the suit. But the Court may, if it think fit, order them or any of them to be made such parties.

Representation of beneficiaries in suits concerning property vested in trustees, &c

438. When there are several executors or administrators, they shall all be made parties to a suit against one or more of them:

Joinder of executors and administrators.

Provided that executors who have not proved their testator's will, and executors and administrators beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, need not be made parties.

439. Unless the Court directs otherwise, the husband of a married administratrix or executrix shall not be a party to a suit by or against her.

Husband of married executrix not to join.

CHAPTER XXXI.

SUITS BY AND AGAINST MINORS AND PERSONS OF UNSOUND MIND.

440. Every suit by a minor shall be instituted in his name by an adult person, who in such suit shall be called the next friend of the minor, and may be ordered to pay any costs in the suit as if he were the plaintiff.

Minor must sue by next friend.

Costs.

441. Every application to the Court on behalf of a minor (other than an application under section 450) shall be made by his next friend, or his guardian for the suit.

Applications to be made by next friend or guardian ad litem

442. If a plaint be filed by or on behalf of a minor, without a next friend, the defendant may apply to have the plaint taken off the file, with costs to be paid by the pleader or other person by whom it was presented. Notice in writing of such application shall be given to such person by the defendant; and the Court, after hearing his objections, if any, may make such order in the matter as it thinks fit.

Plaint filed without next friend to be taken off the file.

Costs.

443. Where the defendant to a suit, or respondent to an application, is a minor, the Court, on being satisfied of the fact of his minority, shall appoint a proper person to be guardian for the suit for such minor, to put in the defence for such minor, and generally to act on his behalf in the conduct and management of the case.

Guardian ad litem to be appointed by the Court.

A guardian for the suit is not a guardian of person or property within the meaning of the Indian Majority Act, 1875, section 3.

444. Every order made in a suit or on any application before the Court, in or by which a minor is in any way concerned or affected, without such minor being represented by a next friend or guardian for the suit, as the case may be, may be discharged, and, if the pleader of the party at whose instance such order was obtained knew, or might, reasonably have known, the fact of such minority, with costs to be paid by such pleader.

Order obtained without next friend or guardian may be discharged.

Costs.

445. Any person, being sui juris, may act as next friend of a minor, provided his interest is not adverse to that of such minor, and he is not a defendant or respondent in or to the suit or application.

Who may be next friend.

446. If the interest of the next friend of a minor is adverse to that of such minor, or if he is so connected with a defendant or respondent whose interest is adverse to that of such minor, as to make it unlikely that the interest of such minor will be properly protected by him, or if he does not do his duty, or, pending the suit or application, ceases to reside within British India, or for any other sufficient cause, application may be made on behalf of such minor or by a defendant or respondent for his removal, and the Court (if satisfied of the sufficiency of the cause assigned) may order the next friend to be removed accordingly and a guardian for the suit to be substituted.

Removal of next friend.

447. Unless otherwise ordered by the Court, a next friend shall not retire at his own request without first procuring a fit person to be put in his place, and giving security for the costs already incurred.

Retirement of next friend.

448. The application for the appointment of a new next friend shall be supported by affidavit, showing the fitness of the person proposed, and also, that he has no interest adverse to the minor.

Application for appointment of new next friend.

449. On the death or removal, as aforesaid, of a next friend, further proceedings shall be stayed until the appointment of a next friend in his place.

Stay of proceedings on death or removal of next friend.

450. If the pleader of such minor omits, within reasonable time, to take steps to get a new next friend appointed, any person interested in the minor or the matter at issue may apply to the Court for the appointment of one, and the Court may appoint such person as it thinks fit.

Application for appointment of new next friend.

451. On the appointment of a new next friend his name as such shall thenceforth be inserted in the proceedings.

Name of new next friend to be inserted in proceedings.

452. Before the name of any person can be used as the next friend of a minor, he shall sign a written authority to the pleader for that purpose, which authority shall be filed in Court.

Written authority to act for next friend to be filed.

453. A minor plaintiff, or a minor not a party to a suit on whose behalf an application is pending, on coming of age, must elect whether he will proceed with the suit or application.

Course to be followed by minor plaintiff or applicant on coming of age.

If he elects to proceed with it, he shall obtain an order discharging the next friend, and for leave to proceed in his own name.

The title of the suit or application shall in such case be corrected so as to read thenceforth thus:—"A. B., late a minor by C. D., his next friend, but now of full age."

If he elects to abandon the suit or application, he shall, if a sole plaintiff, or sole applicant, obtain an order to dismiss the suit or application on repayment of the costs incurred by the defendant or respondent, or which may have been paid by his next friend.

When minor sole plaintiff, or sole applicant.

Costs.

In either case the application may be made by petition ex parte; and it must be proved by affidavit that the late minor has attained his full age.

454. A minor co-plaintiff or co-applicant, on coming of age, and desiring to repudiate the suit or application, must apply to have his name struck out as co-plaintiff or co-applicant.

When minor co-plaintiff or co-applicant.

The application shall be by summons to the next friend, as well as to the defendant or respondent; and it must be proved by affidavit that the late minor has attained his full age. The costs of all parties of such application, and of all or any proceedings theretofore had in the suit or matter, shall be paid by such persons as the Court directs.

Costs.

455. If any minor on attaining majority can prove to the satisfaction of the Court that a suit instituted in his name by a next friend was unreasonable or improper, he may, if a sole plaintiff or sole applicant, apply to have the suit dismissed.

When suit or proceeding unreasonable or improper.

The application shall be by summons to all the parties concerned: and the Court, upon being satisfied of such unreasonableness or impropriety, may grant the application, and order the next friend to pay the costs of all parties in respect of the application and of any thing done in the suit.

Costs.

456. An order for the appointment of a guardian for the suit may be obtained upon application in the name of the minor. The petition must be supported by an affidavit verifying the fact that the proposed guardian has no interest in the matters in question in the suit or application, adverse to that of the minor, and that he is a fit person to be so appointed.

Petition for appointment of guardian ad litem.

457. A co-defendant or co-respondent, if sui juris, may be appointed guardian for the suit, if he has no interest adverse to that of the minor; but neither a plaintiff, nor a party applicant, nor a married woman, can be so appointed.

Who may be guardian ad litem.

458. If the guardian for the suit dies pending a suit or application against a minor, a new guardian shall be appointed in his place.

On death of guardian, pendente lite, new guardian to be appointed.

459. If the guardian for the suit of a minor defendant or respondent does not do his duty, or if other sufficient ground be made to appear, the Court may remove him, and may order him to pay such costs as may have been occasioned to any party by his breach of duty.

Guardian neglecting his duty may be removed.

Costs.

460. When the enforcement of a decree is applied for against the heir or representative, being a minor, of a deceased party, a guardian for the suit of such minor shall be appointed, and the decree-holder shall serve on such guardian notice in writing of such application.

When decree to be enforced against heir or representative.

461. No sum of money or other thing shall be received or taken by a next friend or guardian for the suit at any time on behalf of a minor, at any time before decree or order, unless he has first obtained the leave of the Court, and given security to its satisfaction that such money or other thing shall be duly accounted for to, and held for the benefit of, such minor.

Before decree, next friend or guardian ad litem not to receive money without leave of Court and giving security.

462. No such next friend or guardian for the suit shall enter into any agreement or compromise on behalf of a minor, with reference to the suit in which he acts as next friend or guardian without the leave of the Court.

Next friend or guardian ad litem not to compromise without leave of Court.

Any such agreement or compromise entered into without the leave of the Court shall be voidable against all parties other than the minor.

Compromise without leave voidable.

463. The provisions contained in sections 440 to 462 (both inclusive) shall, mutatis mutandis, apply in the case of persons of unsound mind, adjudged to be so under Act No. XXXV of 1858, or under any other law for the time being in force.

Application of sections 440 to 462 to persons of unsound mind.

464. Nothing in sections 442 to 462 applies to any minor or person of unsound mind, for whose person or property a guardian or manager has been appointed by the Court of Wards or by the Civil Court under any local law.

Wards of Court.

CHAPTER XXXII.

SUITS BY AND AGAINST MILITARY MEN.

465. When any officer or soldier actually serving the Government in a military capacity is a party to a suit, and cannot obtain leave of absence for the purpose of prosecuting or defending the suit in person, he may authorize any person to sue or defend in his stead.

Officers or soldiers who cannot obtain leave may authorize any person to sue or defend for them.

The authority shall be in writing and shall be signed by the officer or soldier in the presence of (a) his commanding officer or of the next subordinate officer, if the party be himself the commanding officer, or (b) where the officer or soldier is serving in military staff employment, the head or other superior officer of the office in which he is employed. Such commanding or other officer shall countersign the authority which shall be filed in Court.

When so filed, the countersignature shall be sufficient proof that the authority was duly executed, and that the officer or soldier by whom it was granted could not obtain leave of absence for the purpose of prosecuting or defending the suit in person.

Explanation.—In this chapter the expression 'commanding officer' means the officer in actual command for the time being of any regiment, corps, detachment or depôt, to which the officer or soldier belongs.

466. Any person authorized by an officer or soldier to prosecute or defend a suit in his stead may prosecute or defend it in person in the same manner as the officer or soldier could do if present; or he may appoint a pleader to prosecute or defend the suit on behalf of such officer or soldier.

Person so authorized may act personally or appoint pleaders.

467. Processes served upon any person authorized by an officer or soldier, as in section 465, or upon any pleader appointed as aforesaid by such person to act for, or on behalf of such officer or soldier, shall be as effectual as if it had been served on the party in person or on his pleader.

Service on person so authorized, or on his pleader, to be good service.

468. When an officer or soldier is a defendant, the Court shall send a copy of the summons to the commanding officer of such officer or soldier for the purpose of being served on him.

Service on officers and soldiers.

The officer to whom such copy is sent, after causing it to be served on the person to whom it is addressed, if practicable, shall return it to the Court with the written acknowledgment of such person indorsed thereon.

If from any cause the copy cannot be so served, it shall be returned to the Court by which it was sent, with information of the cause which has prevented the service.

469. If, in the execution of a decree, a warrant of arrest is to be executed within the limits of a cantonment, garrison, military station, or military bázár, the officer charged with the execution of such warrant shall deliver the same to the commanding officer.

Execution of warrant of arrest in cantonments, &c.

The commanding officer shall back the warrant with his signature, and shall cause the person named therein to be arrested if within the limits of his command, and delivered to the officer so charged of the warrant.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

INTERPLEADER.

470. When two or more persons claim adversely to one another the same payment or property from another person, whose only interest therein is that of a mere stakeholder and who is ready to render it to the right owner, such stakeholder may institute a suit of interpleader against all the claimants for the purpose of obtaining a decision as to whom the payment or property should be made or delivered, and of obtaining indemnity for himself.

When interpleader suit may be instituted.

Provided that if any suit is pending in which the rights of all parties can properly be decided, the stakeholder shall not institute a suit of interpleader.

471. In every suit of interpleader the plaint must, in addition to the other statements necessary for plaints, state—

Plaint in such suit.

(a) that the plaintiff has no interest in the thing claimed otherwise than as a mere stakeholder;

(b) the claims made by the defendants severally; and

(c) that there is no collusion between the plaintiff and any of the defendants.

472. When the thing claimed is capable of being paid into Court or placed in the custody of the Court, the plaintiff must so pay or place it before he can be entitled to any order in the suit.

Payment of thing claimed into Court.

473. At the first hearing the Court may

Procedure at first hearing.

(a) declare that the plaintiff is discharged from all liability to the defendants in respect of the thing claimed, award him his costs, and dismiss him from the suit:

or, if it thinks that justice or convenience so require,

(b) retain all parties until the final disposal of the suit:

and, if it finds that the admissions of the parties or other evidence enable it,

(c) adjudicate the title to the thing claimed: or else it may

(d) direct the defendants to interplead one another by filing statements and entering into evidence for the purpose of bringing their respective claims before the Court.

474. Nothing in this chapter shall be taken to enable agents to sue their principals, or tenants to sue their landlords, for the purpose of compelling them to interplead with any persons other than persons making claim through such principals or landlords.

When agents and tenants may institute interpleader suits.

Illustrations.

(a) A deposits a box of jewels with B as his agent. C alleges that the jewels were wrongfully obtained from him by A, and claims them from B. B cannot institute an interpleader suit against A and C.

(b) A deposits a box of jewels with B as his agent. He then writes to C for the purpose of making the jewels a security for a debt due from himself to C. A afterwards alleges that C's debt is satisfied, and C alleges the contrary. Both claim the jewels from B. B may institute an interpleader suit against A and C.

475. When the suit is properly instituted, the Court may provide for the plaintiff's costs by giving him a charge on the thing claimed or in some other effectual way.

Charge of plaintiff's costs.

476. If any of the defendants in an interpleader suit is actually suing the stakeholder in respect of the subject of such suit, the Court in which the suit against the stakeholder is pending shall, on being duly informed that a decree has been made in the interpleader suit in favour of the stakeholder, stay the proceedings as against him; and his costs in the suit so stayed may be provided for in such suit; but if, and so far as, they are not provided for in that suit, they may be added to his costs incurred in the interpleader suit.

Procedure where a defendant is suing stakeholder.

Costs.

PART IV.

OF PROVISIONAL REMEDIES.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

OF ARREST AND ATTACHMENT BEFORE JUDGMENT.

A.—Arrest before Judgment.

477. If at any stage of any suit, other than a suit for the possession of immoveable property, the plaintiff satisfies the Court by affidavit—

When plaintiff may apply that security be taken.

that the defendant, with intent to avoid or delay the plaintiff, or to avoid any process of the Court, or to obstruct or delay the execution of any decree that may be passed against him,

(a) has absconded or left the jurisdiction of the Court, or

(b) is about to abscond or to leave the jurisdiction of the Court, or

(c) has disposed of or removed from the jurisdiction of the Court his property or any part thereof, or

5 a

that the defendant is about to leave British India under circumstances affording reasonable probability that the plaintiff will or may thereby be obstructed or delayed in the execution of any decree that may be passed against the defendant in the suit, the plaintiff may apply to the Court that security be taken for the appearance of the defendant to answer any decree that may be passed against him in the suit.

478. If the Court, after examining the applicant, and making such further investigation as it thinks fit, is satisfied

Order to bring up defendant to show cause why he should not give security.

that the defendant, with any such intent as aforesaid,

(a) has absconded or left the jurisdiction of the Court, or

(b) is about to abscond or to leave the jurisdiction of the Court, or

(c) has disposed of or removed from the jurisdiction of the Court his property or any part thereof, or that the defendant is about to leave British India under the circumstances last aforesaid, the Court may issue an order for bringing the defendant before the Court to show cause why he should not give security for his appearance.

479. If the defendant fail to show such cause, the Court shall order him either to deposit in Court money or other property sufficient to answer the claim against him, or to give security for his appearance at any time when called upon while the suit is pending, and until execution or satisfaction of any decree that may be passed against him in the suit.

If defendant fail to show cause, Court may order him to make deposit or give security.

The surety shall bind himself, in default of such appearance, to pay any sum of money which the defendant may be ordered to pay in the suit.

480. The surety for the appearance of the defendant may at any time apply to the Court in which he became such surety to be discharged from his obligation.

Procedure in case of application by surety to be discharged.

On such application being made, the Court shall summon the defendant to appear, or, if it thinks fit, may issue a warrant for his arrest in the first instance.

On the appearance of the defendant pursuant to the summons or warrant, or on his voluntary surrender, the Court shall direct the surety to be discharged from his obligation, and shall call upon the defendant to find fresh security.

481. If the defendant fail to comply with an order under section 479 or section 480, the Court may commit him to jail until the decision of the suit, or, if judgment be given against the defendant, until the execution of the decree; Provided that no person shall be imprisoned under this section for a longer period than six months.

Procedure where defendant fails to give security or find fresh security.

482. The provisions of section 339 as to allowances payable for the subsistence of judgment-debtors shall apply to all defendants arrested under this chapter.

Subsistence of defendant arrested.

B.—Attachment before Judgment.

483. If at any stage of any suit the plaintiff satisfies the Court by affidavit that the defendant, with intent to obstruct or delay the execution of any decree that may be passed against him,

Application before judgment for security from defendant to satisfy decree, and in default, for attachment of property.

(a) is about to dispose of the whole or any part of his property, or to remove the same from the jurisdiction of the Court in which the suit is pending, or

(b) has quitted the jurisdiction of the Court, leaving therein property belonging to him, the plaintiff may apply to the Court to call upon the defendant to furnish security to satisfy any decree that may be passed against him in such suit, and, on his failing to give such security, to direct that any portion of his property shall be attached until the further order of the Court.

The application shall, unless the Court otherwise directs, contain a specification of the property required to be attached, and the estimated value thereof.

Contents of application.

484. If the Court, after examining the applicant, and making any further investigation which it thinks fit, is satisfied that the defendant is about to dispose of or remove his property, with intent to obstruct or delay the execution of any decree that may be passed against him in the suit, the Court may require him, within a time to be fixed by the Court, either to furnish security in such sum as may be specified in the order, to produce and place at the disposal of the Court, when required, the said property or the value of the same, or such portion thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the decree, or to appear and show cause why he should not furnish security.

Court may call on defendant to furnish security or show cause.

The Court may also in the order direct the conditional attachment of the whole or any portion of the property specified in the application.

485. If the defendant fail to show cause why he should not furnish security, or fail to furnish the security required within the time fixed by the Court, the Court may order that the property specified in the application, or such portion thereof as appears sufficient to satisfy any decree which may be passed in the suit, shall be attached.

Attachment if cause not shown or security not furnished.

If the defendant show such cause or furnish the required security, and the property specified in the application or any portion of it has been ordered to be attached, the Court shall order the attachment to be withdrawn.

Withdrawal of attachment.

486. The attachment shall be made in the manner herein provided for the attachment of property in execution of a decree for money.

Mode of making attachment.

487. If any claim be preferred to the property attached before judgment, such claims shall be investigated in the manner hereinbefore provided for the investigation of claims to property attached in execution of a decree for money.

Investigation of claims to property attached before judgment.

488. When an order of attachment before judgment is passed, the Court which passed the order shall remove the attachment whenever the defendant furnishes the security required, together with security for the costs of the attachment, or when the suit is dismissed.

Removal of attachment when security furnished.

489. Attachment before judgment shall not affect the rights of persons not parties to the suit, nor bar any person holding a decree against the defendant from applying for the sale of attachment in execution of the property under such decree.

Attachment not to affect rights of strangers, or bar the decree-holder from applying for sale.

490. Where property is under attachment by virtue of the provisions of this chapter, and a decree is given in favour of the plaintiff, it shall not be necessary to re-attach the property in execution of such decree.

Property attached under this chapter, not to be re-attached in execution of decree.

C.—Compensation for improper Arrests or Attachments.

491. If in any suit in which an arrest or attachment has been effected it appear to the Court that such arrest or attachment was appliedf or on insufficient grounds,

Compensation for obtaining arrest or attachment on insufficient grounds.

or if the suit of the plaintiff fails, and it appears to the Court that there was no probable ground for instituting the suit, the Court may, on the application of the defendant, award against the plaintiff in its decree such amount, not exceeding one thousand rupees, as it deems a reasonable compensation to the defendant for the expense or injury occasioned to him by the arrest or attachment:

Provided that the Court shall not award under this section a larger amount than it might decree in a suit for compensation.

Proviso.

An award under this section shall bar any suit for compensation in respect of such arrest or attachment.

CHAPTER XXXV.

OF TEMPORARY INJUNCTIONS AND INTERLOCUTORY ORDERS.

A.—Temporary Injunctions.

492. If in any suit it be proved by affidavit or otherwise

Cases in which temporary injunction may be granted.

(a) that any property in dispute in a suit is in danger of being wasted, damaged or alienated by any party to the suit, or wrongfully sold in execution of a decree, or

(b) that the defendant threatens, or is about, to remove or dispose of his property with intent to defraud his creditors,

the Court may grant a temporary injunction to restrain such act, or give such other order for the purpose of staying and preventing the wasting, damaging, alienation, sale, removal or disposition of the property as the Court thinks fit.

493. In any suit for restraining the defendant from committing a breach of contract or other injury, and whether compensation be claimed in the suit or not, the plaintiff may, at any time after the commencement of the suit, and either before or after judgment, apply to the Court for a temporary injunction to restrain the defendant from the repetition or the continuance of the breach of contract or wrongful act complained of, or the committing of any breach of contract or injury of a like kind arising out of the same contract or relating to the same property or right.

Injunction to restrain repetition or continuance of breach.

Such injunction may be granted by the Court on such terms as to the duration of the injunction, keeping an account, giving security, or otherwise, as the Court thinks fit.

In case of disobedience, an injunction granted under this section or section 491 may be enforced by the imprisonment of the defendant for a term not exceeding six months, or the attachment of his property, or both.

No attachment under this section shall remain in force for more than one year, at the end of which time if the defendant has not obeyed the injunction, the property attached may be sold, and out of the proceeds the Court may award to the plaintiff such compensation as it thinks fit and may pay the balance, if any, to the defendant.

494. The Court may in all cases, and shall in all cases except where it appears to the Court that the object of granting the injunction would be defeated by the delay, before granting an injunction, direct notice in writing of the application for the same to be given to the opposite party.

Before granting injunction, Court may direct notice to be given to opposite party.

495. An injunction directed to a corporation or public company is binding not only on the corporation or company itself, but also on all members and officers of the corporation or company whose personal action it seeks to restrain.

Injunction to corporation binding on its members and officers.

496. Any order for an injunction may be discharged or varied or set aside by the Court, on application made thereto by any party dissatisfied with such order.

Order for injunction may be discharged, varied or set aside.

497. If it appears to the Court that the injunction was applied for on insufficient grounds, or Compensation to defendant for issue of injunction on insufficient grounds.

if, after the issue of the injunction, the suit is dismissed or judgment is given against the plaintiff by default or otherwise, and it appears to the Court that there was no probable ground for instituting the suit, the Court may, on the application of the defendant, award against the plaintiff in its decree such sum, not exceeding one thousand rupees, as it deems a reasonable compensation to the defendant for the expense or injury occasioned to him by the issue of the injunction:

Provided that the Court shall not award under this section a larger amount than it might decree in a suit for compensation.

Proviso.

An award under this section shall bar any suit for compensation in respect of the issue of the injunction.

B.—Interlocutory Orders.

498. The Court may, on the application of any party to a suit, order the sale, by any person named in such order, and in such manner and on such terms as it thinks fit, of any moveable property being the subject of such suit, which is subject to speedy and natural decay.

Power to order interim sale of perishable articles.

499. The Court may, on the application of any party to a suit, and on such terms as it thinks fit,

Power to make order for detention, &c., of subject-matter and to authorize entry, taking of samples and experiments.

(a) make an order for the detention, preservation or inspection of any property being the subject of such suit;

(b) for all or any of the purposes aforesaid, authorise any person to enter upon or into any land or building in the possession of any other party to such suit, and

(c) for all or any of the purposes aforesaid, authorise any samples to be taken, or any observation to be made or experiment to be tried, which may seem necessary or expedient for the purpose of obtaining full information or evidence.

The provisions hereinbefore contained as to execution of process shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to persons authorised to enter under this section.

500. An application by the plaintiff for an order under section 498 or section 499 may be made after notice in writing to the defendant at any time after service of the summons.

Application for such orders to be after notice.

An application by the defendant for a like order may be made after notice in writing to the plaintiff, and at any time after the applicant has appeared.

501. When land paying revenue to Government, or a tenure liable to sale, forms the subject of a suit, if the party in possession of such land or tenure neglects to pay the Government revenue, or the rent due to the proprietor of the tenure, as the case may be, and such land or tenure is consequently ordered to be sold, any other party to the suit claiming to have an interest in such land or tenure may upon payment of the revenue or rent due previously to the sale (and with or without security at the discretion of the Court), be put in immediate possession of the land or tenure;

When party may be put in immediate possession of land, the subject of suit.

and the Court in its decree may award against the defaulter the amount so paid, with interest thereupon at such rate as the Court thinks fit, or may charge the amount so paid, with interest thereupon at such rate as the Court orders, in any adjustment of accounts which may be directed in the decree passed in the suit.

502. When the subject-matter of a suit is money or some other thing capable of delivery, and any party thereto admits that he holds such money or other thing as a trustee for another party, or that it belongs or is due to another party, the Court may order the same to be deposited in Court or delivered to such last-named party, with or without security, subject to the further direction of the Court.

Deposit of money, &c., in Court.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

APPOINTMENT OF RECEIVERS AND DEPOSIT IN COURT.

503. Whenever it appears to the Court to be necessary for the preservation or the better custody or management of any property, moveable or immoveable, the subject of a suit, or under attachment, the Court may

Power of Court to appoint Receivers.

(a) appoint a Receiver of such property,

and may, if need be,

(b) remove the person in whose possession or custody the property may be from the possession or custody thereof;

(c) commit the same to the custody or management of such Receiver; and

(d) grant to such Receiver such fee or commission on the rents and profits of the property by way of remuneration, and all such powers as to bringing and defending suits, and for the management, protection, preservation and improvement of the property, the collection of the rents and profits thereof, the application and disposal of such rents and profits, and the execution of instruments in writing, as the owner himself has, or such of those powers as the Court thinks fit.

Every Receiver so appointed shall

(e) give such security (if any) as the Court thinks fit duly to account for what he shall receive in respect of the property,

(f) pass his accounts at such periods and in such form as the Court directs,

(g) pay the balance due from him thereon as the Court directs, and

(h) be responsible for any loss occasioned to the property by his wilful default or gross negligence.

504. If the property be land paying revenue to Government, or land of which the revenue has been assigned or redeemed, and the Court considers that the interests of those concerned will be promoted by the management of the Collector, the Court may appoint the Collector to be Receiver of such property.

When Collector may be appointed Receiver.

505. The powers conferred by this chapter shall be exercised only by High Courts and District Courts. But whenever the Judge of a Court subordinate to a District Court considers it expedient to appoint a Receiver in any suit before him, he shall refer the case to the District Court with his opinion to that effect, and the District Court shall make such order thereon as it thinks fit.

Courts empowered under this chapter.

PART V.

OF SPECIAL PROCEEDINGS.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

REFERENCE TO ARBITRATION.

506. If all the parties to a suit desire that any matter in difference between them in the suit be referred to arbitration, they may, at any time before judgment is pronounced, apply,

Parties to suit may apply for order of reference.

in person or by their respective pleaders specially authorized in writing in this behalf, to the Court for an order of reference.

Every such application shall be in writing and shall state the particular matter sought to be referred.

507. The arbitrator shall be nominated by the parties in such manner as may be agreed upon between them.

Nomination of arbitrator.

If the parties cannot agree with respect to such nomination, or if the person whom they nominate refuses to accept the arbitration and the parties desire that the nomination shall be made by the Court, the Court shall nominate the arbitrator.

When Court to nominate arbitrator.

508. The Court shall, by order, refer to the arbitrator the matter in difference which he is required to determine, and shall fix such time as it thinks reasonable for the delivery of the award, and specify such time in the order.

Order of reference.

When once a matter is referred to arbitration, the Court shall not deal with it in the same suit, except in the case provided for by section 512, or unless, owing to the death, refusal, neglect, incapacity or departure from India of the arbitrator, the reference be fruitless, in which case the Court may issue an order superseding the arbitration and restoring the suit to the file of the Court.

509. If the reference be to two or more arbitrators, provision shall be made in the order for a difference of opinion among the arbitrators,

When reference is to two or more, order to provide for difference of opinion.

(a) by the appointment of an umpire, or

(b) by declaring that the decision shall be with the majority if the major part of the arbitrators agree, or

(c) by empowering the arbitrators to appoint an umpire, or

(d) otherwise, as may be agreed between the parties; or, if they cannot agree, as the Court determines.

If an umpire is appointed, the Court shall fix such time as it thinks reasonable for the delivery of his award in case he is required to act.

510. If the arbitrator, or, where there are more arbitrators than one, any of the arbitrators, or the umpire, dies, or refuses, or neglects, or becomes incapable to act, or leaves British India under circumstances showing that he will probably not return at an early date, the Court, if any of the parties so desire, may appoint a new arbitrator or umpire in the place of the person so dying, or refusing, or neglecting, or becoming incapable to act, or leaving British India.

Death, incapacity, &c., of arbitrators or umpire.

511. Where the arbitrators are empowered by the order of reference to appoint an umpire and fail to do so, any of the parties may serve the arbitrators with a written notice to appoint an umpire; and if, within seven days after such notice has been served, no umpire be appointed, the Court, upon the application of the party who has served such notice as aforesaid, may appoint an umpire.

Appointment of umpire by Court.

512. Every arbitrator or umpire appointed under sections 509, 510 or 511 shall have the like powers as if his name had been inserted in the order of reference.

Powers of arbitrator or umpire appointed under sections 509, 510, 511.

513. The Court shall issue the same processes to the parties and witnesses whom the arbitrators or umpire desire to examine, as the Court may issue in suits tried before it.

Summoning witnesses.

Persons not attending in accordance with such process, or making any other default, or refusing to give their evidence, or guilty of any contempt to the arbitrator or umpire during the investigation of the matters referred, shall be subject to the like disadvantages, penalties and punishments by order of the Court on the representation of the arbitrator or umpire, as they would incur for the like offences in suits tried before the Court.

Punishment for default, &c.

514. If from the want of the necessary evidence or information, or from any other cause, the arbitrators cannot complete the award within the period specified in the order, the Court may, if it think fit, either grant a further time, and from time to time enlarge the period for the delivery of the award, or make an order superseding the arbitration, and in such case shall proceed with the suit.

Extension of time for making award.

515. When an umpire has been appointed, he may enter on the reference in the place of the arbitrators

When umpire may arbitrate in lieu of arbitrators.

(a) if they have allowed the appointed time to expire without making an award, or

(b) when they have delivered to the Court or to the umpire a notice in writing, stating that they cannot agree.

516. When an award in a suit has been made, the persons who made it shall sign it and file it in Court, together with any depositions and documents which have been taken and proved before them; and notice of the filing of the award shall be given to the parties.

Award to be signed and filed.

517. Upon any reference by an order of Court, the arbitrators or umpire may, with the consent of the Court, state the award as to the whole or any part thereof in the form of a special case for the opinion of the Court; and the Court shall deliver its opinion thereon; and such opinion shall be added to and form part of the award.

Arbitrators or umpire may state special case.

518. On the application of either of the parties, the Court may, by order, modify or correct an award,

Court may, on application, modify or correct award in certain cases.

(a) where it appears that a part of the award is upon a matter not referred to arbitration, provided such part can be separated from the other part and does not affect the decision on the matter referred, or

(b) where the award is imperfect in form, or contains any obvious error which can be amended without affecting such decision.

519. The Court may also, on the application of any of the parties or of the persons making the award, make such order as to Order as to costs of arbitration.

thinks fit respecting the costs of the arbitration, if any question arise respecting such costs and the award contain no sufficient provision concerning them.

520. In any of the following cases the Court may remit the award or any matter referred to arbitration to the reconsideration of the same arbitrators or umpire, upon such terms as it thinks fit, that is to say:—

When award or matter referred to arbitration may be remitted.

(a) if the award has left undetermined any of the matters referred to arbitration, or if it determine any matter not referred to arbitration;

(b) if the award is so indefinite as to be incapable of execution;

(c) if an objection to the legality of the award is apparent upon the face of it.

521. An award remitted under section 520 becomes void on the refusal of the arbitrators or umpire to reconsider it. But no award shall be set aside except on one of the following grounds (namely)—

Grounds for setting aside award.

(a) corruption or misconduct of the arbitrator or umpire;

(b) either party having been guilty of fraudulent concealment of any matter which he ought to have disclosed, or of wilfully misleading or deceiving the arbitrator or umpire;

(c) the award having been made after the issue of an order by the Court superseding the arbitration and restoring the suit;

and no award shall be valid unless made within the period allowed by the Court.

522. If the Court sees no cause to remit the award or any of the matters referred to arbitration for reconsideration in manner aforesaid, and if no application has been made to set aside the award, or if the Court has refused such application,

Judgment to be according to award.

the Court shall, after the time for making such application has expired, proceed to give judgment according to the award, or, if the award has been submitted to it in the form of a special case, according to its own opinion on such case:

Upon the judgment so given a decree shall follow, and shall be enforced in manner provided in this Code for the execution of decrees. No appeal shall lie from such decree.

Decree to follow.

523. When any persons by an instrument in writing agree that any difference between them shall be referred to the arbitration of any person named in the agreement or to be appointed by any Court having jurisdiction in the matter to which the agreement relates, the parties thereto, or any of them, may apply that the agreement be filed in such Court.

Agreement to refer to arbitration may be filed in Court.

The application shall be in writing and shall be numbered and registered as a suit between one or more of the parties interested or claiming to be interested as plaintiff or plaintiffs, and the others or other of them as defendants or defendant, if the application have been presented by all the parties, or, if otherwise, between the applicant as plaintiff and the other parties as defendants.

Application to be numbered and registered.

On such application being made, the Court shall direct notice thereof to be given to any of the parties to the agreement other than the applicants, requiring such parties to show cause, within the time specified in the notice, why the agreement should not be filed.

Notice to show cause against filing it.

If no sufficient cause be shown, the Court may cause the agreement to be filed, and shall make an order of reference thereon, and may also nominate the arbitrator when he is not named therein and the parties cannot agree as to the nomination.

524. The foregoing provisions of this chapter, so far as they are consistent with any agreement so filed, shall be applicable to all proceedings under an order of reference made by the Court under section 523, and to the award of arbitration and to the enforcement of the decree founded thereupon.

Provisions of this chapter applicable to proceedings under order of reference.

525. When any matter has been referred to arbitration without the intervention of a Court of Justice, and an award has been made thereon, any person interested in the award may apply to the Court of the lowest grade having jurisdiction over the whole matter to which the award relates, that the award be filed in Court.

Filing award in matter referred to arbitration without intervention of Court.

The application shall be in writing and shall be numbered and registered as a suit between the applicant as plaintiff and the other parties as defendants.

Application to be numbered and registered.

The Court shall direct notice to be given to the parties to the arbitration other than the applicant, requiring them to show cause, within a time specified, why the award should not be filed.

Notice to parties to arbitration.

526. If no sufficient cause be shown against the award, the Court may order it to be filed, and such award may then be enforced as a decree upon an award made under the provisions of this chapter.

Filing and enforcement of such award.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

OF PROCEEDINGS ON AGREEMENT OF PARTIES.

527. Parties claiming to be interested in the decision of any question of fact or law may enter into an agreement in writing stating such question in the form of a case for the opinion of the Court; and providing

Power to state case for Court's opinion.

(a) that upon the finding of the Court in the affirmative or negative of such question, a sum of money fixed by the parties or to be determined by the Court, shall be paid by one of the parties to the other of them; or

(b) that some property, moveable or immoveable, specified in the agreement, shall be delivered by one of the parties to the other of them; or

(c) that one or more of the parties shall do or perform, or refrain from doing or performing some other particular act specified in the agreement.

Every case stated under this section shall be divided into consecutively numbered paragraphs, and shall concisely state such facts and documents as may be necessary to enable the Court to decide the questions raised thereby.

528. If the agreement is for the delivery of any property, or for the doing or performing, or the refraining from doing or performing, any particular act, the estimated value of the property to be delivered, or to which the act specified has reference, shall be stated in the agreement.

When value of subject-matter must be stated.

529. The agreement, if framed in accordance with the rules hereinbefore contained, may be filed in the Court of the lowest grade having jurisdiction in the matter to which it relates, and, when so filed, shall be numbered and registered as a suit between one or more of the parties interested, or claiming to be interested, as plaintiff or plaintiffs, and the other or others of them as defendant or defendants; and notice shall be given to all the parties to the agreement other than the party or parties by whom it was presented.

Agreement to be filed and numbered as a suit.

530. When the agreement has been filed, the parties to it shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the Court, and shall be bound by the statements contained therein.

Parties to be subject to Court's jurisdiction.

531. The case shall be set down for hearing as a suit instituted under chapter V, the provisions of which shall apply to such suit so far as the same are applicable.

Hearing and disposal of the case.

If the Court is satisfied, after an examination of the parties, or taking such evidence as it thinks fit,

(a) that the agreement was duly executed by them, and

(b) that they have a bonâ fide interest in the question of fact or law stated therein, and

(c) that the same is fit to be decided,

it shall proceed to deliver judgment thereon, in the same way as in an ordinary suit, and upon the judgment so given a decree shall follow, and shall be enforced in the manner provided in this Code for the execution of decrees.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

OF SUMMARY PROCEDURE ON NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS.

532. In any Court to which this section applies all suits upon bills of exchange, hundís or promissory notes may, in case the plaintiff desires to proceed under this chapter, be instituted by presenting a plaint in the form prescribed by this Code; but the summons shall be in the form contained in the fourth schedule hereto annexed, No. 168, or in such other form as the High Court may from time to time prescribe.

Institution of summary suits upon bills of exchange, &c.

In any case in which the plaint and summons are in such forms respectively, the defendant shall not appear to or defend the suit unless he obtains leave from a Judge as hereinafter mentioned so to appear and defend;

and in default of his obtaining such leave or of appearance and defence in pursuance thereof, the plaintiff shall be entitled to a decree for any sum not exceeding the sum mentioned in the summons, together with interest at the rate specified (if any) to the date of the decree, and a sum for costs to be fixed by a rule of the High Court, unless the plaintiff claim more than such fixed sum, in which case the costs shall be ascertained in the ordinary way, and such decree may be enforced forthwith.

The defendant shall not be required to pay into Court the sum mentioned in the summons, or to give security therefor, unless the Court thinks his defence not to be primâ facie sustainable, or feels reasonable doubt as to its good faith.

Payment into Court of sum mentioned in summons.

Explanation.—This section is not confined to cases in which the bill, hundí or note sued upon, together with mere lapse of time, is sufficient to establish a primâ facie right to recover.

533. The Court shall, upon application within the period of seven days from the service of such summons, give leave to appear and to defend the suit, upon the defendant paying into court the sum mentioned in the summons or upon affidavits satisfactory to the Court, which disclose a defence or such facts as would make it incumbent on the holder to prove consideration, or such other facts as the Court may deem sufficient to support the application, and on such terms as to security, framing and recording issues, or otherwise, as the Court thinks fit.

Defendant showing defence on merits to have leave to appear.

534. After decree, the Court may, under special circumstances, set aside the decree, and if necessary stay or set aside execution, and may give leave to appear to the summons and to defend the suit, if it seem reasonable to the Court so to do, and on such terms as the Court thinks fit.

Power to set aside decree.

535. In any proceeding under this chapter the Court may order the bill, hundí, or note on which the suit is founded to be forthwith deposited with an officer of the Court, and may further order that all proceedings shall be stayed until the plaintiff gives security for the costs thereof.

Power to order bill to be deposited with officer of Court.

536. The holder of every dishonoured bill of exchange or promissory note shall have the same remedies for the recovery of the expenses incurred in noting the same for non-acceptance or non-payment, or otherwise, by reason of such dishonour, as he has under this chapter for the recovery of the amount of such bill or note.

Recovery of cost of noting non-acceptance of dishonoured bill.

537. Except as provided by sections 532 to 536 both inclusive, the procedure in suits under this chapter shall be the same as the procedure in suits instituted under Chapter V.

Procedure in suits under this chapter.

Power to extend this chapter.

538. Sections 532 to 537 (both inclusive) apply only to—

(a) High Courts established under Royal Charter;

(b) the Chief Court of the Panjáb;

(c) the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon;

(d) the Courts of Small Causes in the Presidency Towns;

(e) the Court of the Judge of Karáchi; and

(f) any other Court to which the Local Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, apply them.

In case of such application the Local Government may direct by whom any of the powers and duties incident to the provisions so applied shall be exercised and performed, and make any rules which it thinks requisite for carrying into operation the provisions so applied.

Within one month after such notification has been published, such provisions shall apply accordingly, and the rules so made shall have the force of law.

The Local Government may from time to time alter or cancel any such notification.

PART VI.

OF APPEALS.

CHAPTER XL.

OF APPEALS FROM ORIGINAL DECREES.

Appeal to lie from all original decrees, except when expressly prohibited.

539. Unless when otherwise expressly provided in this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, an appeal shall lie from the decrees, or from any part of the decrees, of the Courts exercising original jurisdiction to the Courts authorized to hear appeals from the decisions of those Courts.

Form of appeal.

Memorandum to be accompanied by copy of decree and judgment.

540. The appeal shall be made in the form of a memorandum in writing presented by the appellant or his pleader, and shall be accompanied by a copy of the decree appealed against and of the judgment on which it is founded.

Memorandum of appeal.

541. The memorandum of appeal shall set forth, concisely and under distinct heads, the grounds of objection to the decree appealed against, without any argument or narrative, and such grounds shall be numbered consecutively.

Appellant confined to grounds set out.

542. The appellant shall not, without the leave of the Court, urge or be heard in support of any other ground of objection, but the Court in deciding the appeal shall not be confined to the grounds set forth by the appellant:

Provided that the Court shall not rest its decision on any ground set forth by the appellant, unless the respondent has had sufficient opportunity of contesting the case on that ground.

Rejection of memorandum or grounds of objection.

543. If the memorandum of appeal be not drawn up in the manner hereinbefore prescribed, such memorandum or grounds may be rejected or returned to the appellant for the purpose of being amended within a time to be fixed by the Court, or be amended then and there.

When the Court rejects under this section any memorandum, it shall record the reasons for such rejection.

When a memorandum of appeal is amended under this section the Judge, or such officer as he appoints in this behalf, shall attest the amendment by his signature.

One of several plaintiffs or defendants may obtain reversal of whole decree if it procee on ground common to all.

544. If there be more plaintiffs or more defendants than one in a suit, and the decree appealed against proceed on any ground common to all the plaintiffs or to all the defendants, any one of the plaintiffs or of the defendants may appeal against the whole decree, and the Appellate Court may reverse or modify the decree in favour of all the plaintiffs or defendants as the case may be.

Illustrations.

(a). A sues B and C on a promissory note. The defendants plead payment. The Court decrees in favour of A. B alone appeals. The Appellate Court, holding that payment has been made, may reverse the decree in favour of both B and C.

(b). A sues B and C on a promissory note. B pleads payment and C pleads the Limitation Act. The Court overrules both pleas and decrees in favour of A. B alone appeals. The Appellate Court may be of opinion that payment has been made, but cannot, on B's appeal, reverse the decree as regards C.

Of staying and executing Decrees under Appeal.

Execution of decree not stayed solely by reason of appeal.

545. Execution of a decree shall not be stayed by reason only of an appeal having been preferred against the decree; but the Appellate Court may for sufficient cause order the execution to be stayed.

Stay of execution of appealable decree before time for appealing has expired.

If an application be made for the execution of a decree which is open to appeal, before the time allowed for appeal has expired, the Court may for sufficient cause order the execution to be stayed.

Provided that no order shall be made under this section unless the Court is satisfied—

(a) that substantial loss may result to the party applying for stay of execution unless the order is made;

(b) that the application has been made without unreasonable delay; and

Security required before making order to stay execution.

(c) that security has been given by the applicant for the due performance of such decree or order as may ultimately be binding upon him.

Security in case of order for execution of decree appealed against.

546. If an order is made for the execution of a decree against which an appeal has been preferred, the Court which passed the decree may, on sufficient cause being shewn by the appellant, require security to be given for the restitution of any property which may be taken in execution of the decree, or of the value of such property, and for the due performance of the decree or order of the Appellate Court, or the Appellate Court may for like cause direct the Court which passed the decree to take such security.

No such security to be required from Government or public officers.

547. No such security as is mentioned in sections 545 and 546 shall be required from the Secretary of State for India in Council or from any public officer sued in respect of an act alleged to be done by him in his official capacity.

Of Procedure in Appeal from Decrees.

Registry of memorandum of appeal.

548. When a memorandum of appeal is admitted, the Appellate Court or the proper officer of that Court shall endorse thereon the date of admission, and shall register the appeal in a book to be kept for the purpose.

Register of appeals.

Such book shall be called the Register of Appeals.

Appellate Court may require appellant to give security for costs.

549. The Appellate Court may, at its discretion, either before the respondent is called upon to appear and answer or afterwards on the application of the respondent, demand from the appellant security for the costs either of the appeal, or of the original suit, or of both:

When appellant resides out of British India.

Provided that the Court shall demand such security in all cases in which the appellant is residing out of British India, and is not possessed of any sufficient immoveable property within British India independent of the property to which the appeal relates.

If such security be not furnished within such time as the Court orders, the Court shall reject the appeal.

Appellate Court to give notice to Court whose decree is appealed against.

550. When the memorandum of appeal is registered, the Appellate Court shall send notice of the appeal to the Court against whose decree the appeal is made.

Transmission of papers to Appellate Court.

If the appeal be from a Court the records of which are not deposited in the Appellate Court, the Court to which such notice is sent shall, upon the receipt thereof, transmit with all practicable despatch all material papers in the suit, or such papers as may be specially called for by the Appellate Court;

Power to confirm decision of lower Court without sending it notice.

Provided that the Appellate Court may, if it thinks fit, after fixing a time for hearing the appellant or his pleader, and hearing him accordingly if he appears at such time, confirm the decision of the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, without sending notice of the appeal to such Court and without serving notice on the respondent or his pleader; but in such case the confirmation shall be notified to the same Court.

Copies of exhibits in Court whose decree is appealed against.

551. Either party may make an application in writing to the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, specifying any papers of which he requires copies to be made and deposited in such Court; and copies of such papers shall be prepared at the expense of the applicant, and shall be deposited accordingly.

Day for hearing appeal.

552. The Appellate Court shall fix a day for hearing the appeal.

Such day shall be fixed with reference to the current business of the Court, the place of residence of the respondent, and the time necessary for the service of the notice of appeal, so as to allow the respondent a sufficient time to enable him to appear and answer the appeal on such day.

Publication and service of notice of day for hearing appeal.

553. Notice of the day so fixed shall be stuck up in the appellate courthouse, and a like notice shall be sent by the Appellate Court to the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, and shall be served on the respondent or his pleader in the manner provided in chapter VI for the service of a summons to a defendant to appear and answer; and all rules applicable to such summons and to proceedings with reference to the service thereof, shall apply to the service of such notice.

Appellate Court may itself cause notice to be served.

Instead of sending the notice to the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, the Appellate Court may itself cause the notice to be served on the respondent or his pleader under the rules above referred to.

Contents of notice.

554. The notice to the respondent shall declare that, if he does not appear in the Appellate Court on the day so fixed, the appeal will be heard ex parte.

Procedure on Hearing.

Right to begin.

555. On the day so fixed, or on any other day to which the hearing may be adjourned, the party having the right to begin shall be heard in support of or against the appeal, as the case may be. The other party shall then be heard, and the party having the right to begin shall then be entitled to reply.

Explanation.—If the appeal is from the whole decree, or if there are cross-appeals, the party having the right to begin is the party who had the right to begin on the hearing in the Court whose decree is appealed from.

If the appeal is from only a portion of the decree, and there is no cross-appeal, the appellant has the right to begin.

Dismissal of appeal for appellant's default.

556. If on the day so fixed, or any other day to which the hearing may be adjourned, the appellant does not attend in person or by his pleader, the appeal shall be dismissed for default.

Hearing appeal ex parte.

If the appellant attends and the respondent does not attend, the appeal shall be heard ex parte in his absence.

Dismissal of appeal where notice has not been served in consequence of appellant's failure to deposit cost of notice.

557. If on the day so fixed, or any other day to which the hearing may be adjourned, it is found that the notice to the respondent has not been served in consequence of the failure of the appellant to deposit, within the period fixed by the Court, the sum required to defray the cost of issuing the notice, the Court may order that the appeal be dismissed:

Proviso.

Provided that no such order shall be passed, although the notice has not been served upon the respondent, if on the day fixed for hearing the appeal the respondent appears in person or by a pleader, or by a duly authorized agent.

Re-admission of appeal dismissed for default.

558. If an appeal be dismissed under section 556 or section 557, the appellant may apply to the Appellate Court for the re-admission of the appeal; and if it be proved that he was prevented by any sufficient cause from attending when the appeal was called on for hearing, or from depositing the sum so required, the Court may re-admit the appeal on such terms as to costs or otherwise as the Court thinks fit to impose upon him.

Power to adjourn hearing, and direct persons appearing interested to be made respondents.

559. If it appear to the Court at the hearing that any person who was a party to the suit in the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, but who has not been made a party to the appeal, is interested in the result of the appeal, the Court may adjourn the hearing to a future day to be fixed by the Court, and direct that such person be made a respondent.

Re-hearing on application of respondent against whom ex parte decree is made.

560. When an appeal is heard ex parte in the absence of the respondent, and judgment is given against him, he may, within thirty days of the date of the decree, apply to the Appellate Court to re-hear the appeal; and if it be proved that the respondent was prevented by sufficient cause from attending when the appeal was called on for hearing, the Court may re-hear the appeal on such terms as to costs or otherwise as the Court thinks fit to impose upon him.

Upon hearing respondent may object to decree as if he had preferred separate appeal.

561. Any respondent, though he may not have appealed against any part of the decree, may, upon the hearing, take any objection to the decree which he could have taken by way of appeal, provided he has given through the Court to the appellant seven days' notice of such objection.

Such notice shall be in the form of a memorandum, and the provisions of sections 540, 541 and 542, so far as they relate to the form and contents of the memorandum of appeal, shall apply to such notice.

Form of notice, and provisions applicable thereto.

A respondent cannot by such notice raise questions between himself and any party to the suit, other than the appellant.

Remand of case by Appellate Court.

562. If without going into the merits, the Court against whose decree the appeal is made has disposed of the suit upon a preliminary point so as to exclude any evidence of fact which appears to the Appellate Court essential to the determination of the rights of the parties, and the decree upon such preliminary point is reversed in appeal, the Appellate Court may, if it thinks fit, remand the case, together with a copy of the decree or order in appeal, to the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, with directions to re-admit the suit under its original number in the register, and

(a) to proceed to investigate the suit on the merits, and pass a decree thereon; or

(b) to try a particular issue; or

(c) to take certain specified evidence.

When further evidence barred.

563. When a case is remanded with directions to take such evidence, the Court to which the case is remanded shall not take any other evidence in the case, except evidence tendered to contradict the evidence so taken.

Limit to remand.

564. The Appellate Court shall not remand a case for a second decision, except as provided in section 562.

When evidence on record sufficient, Appellate Court shall determine case finally.

565. When the evidence upon the record is sufficient to enable the Appellate Court to pronounce judgment, the Appellate Court may, if necessary, resettle the issues, and shall finally determine the case notwithstanding that the judgment of the Court against whose decree the appeal is made has proceeded wholly upon some ground other than that on which the Appellate Court proceeds.

When Appellate Court may frame issues and refer them for trial to Court whose decree is appealed against.

566. If the Court against whose decree the appeal is made has omitted to frame or try any issue, or to determine any question of fact, which appears to the Appellate Court essential to the right decision of the suit upon the merits, and the evidence upon the record is not sufficient to enable the Appellate Court to determine such issue or question, the Appellate Court may frame issues for trial, and may refer the same for trial to the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, and in such case shall direct such Court to take the additional evidence required, and such Court shall proceed to try such issue, and shall return to the Appellate Court its finding thereon together with the evidence.

Finding and evidence to be put on record.

567. Such finding and evidence shall become part of the record in the suit; and either party may, within a time to be fixed by the Appellate Court, present a memorandum of objections to the finding.

Objections to finding.

Determination of appeal.

After the expiration of the period fixed for presenting such memorandum, the Appellate Court shall proceed to determine the appeal.

Production of additional evidence in Appellate Court.

568. The parties to an appeal shall not be entitled to produce additional evidence, whether oral or documentary, in the Appellate Court. But if

(a) the Court against whose decree the appeal is made refused to admit evidence which ought to have been admitted, or

(b) the Appellate Court requires any document to be produced or any witness to be examined to enable it to pronounce judgment or for any other substantial cause, the Appellate Court may allow such evidence to be produced, or document to be received, or witness to be examined.

Whenever additional evidence is admitted by an Appellate Court, the reason for the admission shall be recorded on the proceedings of the Court.

Mode of taking additional evidence.

569. Whenever additional evidence is allowed to be received, the Appellate Court may either take such evidence, or direct the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, or any other Subordinate Court, to take such evidence and to send it when taken to the Appellate Court.

Points to be defined and recorded.

570. In all cases where additional evidence is directed or allowed to be taken, the Appellate Court shall specify the points to which the evidence is to be confined, and record on its proceedings the points so specified.

Of the Judgment in Appeal.

Judgment when and where pronounced.

571. The Appellate Court, after hearing the parties or their pleaders and referring to any part of the proceedings, whether on appeal or in the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, to which a reference may be considered necessary, shall pronounce judgment in open Court, either at once or on some future day, of which notice shall be given to the parties or their pleaders.

Language of judgment.

572. The judgment shall be written in English; provided that if English is not the mother-tongue of the Judge, and he is not able to write an intelligible judgment in English, the judgment shall be written in his mother-tongue or in the language of the Court.

Translation of judgment.

573. When the language in which the judgment is written is not the language of the Court, the judgment shall, if any party so require, be translated into such language, and the translation, after it has been ascertained to be correct, shall be signed by the Judge, or such officer as he appoints in this behalf.

Contents of judgment.

574. The judgment of the Appellate Court shall state—

(a) the points for determination;

(b) the decision thereupon;

(c) the reasons for the decision; and

(d) when the decree appealed against is reversed, the relief to which the appellant is entitled,

Date and signature.

and shall at the time that it is pronounced be signed and dated by the Judge or by the Judges concurring therein.

Decision when appeal is heard by two or more Judges.

575. When the appeal is heard by a Bench of two or more Judges, the appeal shall be decided in accordance with the opinion of such Judges or of the majority (if any) of such Judges.

If there be no such majority which concurs in a judgment varying or reversing the decree appealed against, such decree shall be affirmed:

Provided that if the Bench hearing the appeal is composed of two Judges belonging to a Court consisting of more than two Judges, and the Judges composing the Bench differ in opinion on a point of law, the appeal may be referred to one or more of the other Judges of the same Court, and shall be decided according to the opinion of the majority (if any) of all the Judges who have heard the appeal, including those who first heard it.

When there is no such majority which concurs in a judgment varying or reversing the decree appealed against, such decree shall be affirmed.

The High Court may from time to time make rules consistent with this Code to regulate references under this section.

Dissent to be recorded.

576. When the appeal is heard by more Judges than one, any Judge dissenting from the judgment of the Court shall state in writing the decision or order which he thinks should be passed on the appeal, and he may state his reasons for the same.

What judgment may direct.

577. The judgment may be for confirming, varying, or reversing the decree of the Court against which the appeal is made, or, if the parties to the appeal agree as to the form which the decree in appeal shall take, or as to the order to be passed in appeal, the Appellate Court may pass a decree or order accordingly.

No decree to be reversed or modified for error or irregularity.

578. No decree shall be varied or reversed nor shall any case be remanded in appeal, on account of any error, defect or irregularity, whether in the decision or in any order passed in the suit, or otherwise, not affecting the merits of the case or the jurisdiction of the Court.

Of the Decree in Appeal.

Contents of decree.

579. The decree of the Appellate Court shall bear date the day on which the judgment was pronounced.

The decree shall contain the number of the appeal, and the memorandum of appeal, including the names and description of the appellant and respondent, and shall specify clearly the relief granted or other determination of the appeal.

The decree shall also state the amount of costs incurred in the appeal, and by what parties and in what proportions such costs and the costs in the suit are to be paid.

The decree shall be signed and dated by the Judge or Judges who passed it:

Judge dissenting from judgment need not sign decree.

Provided that where there are more Judges than one, if there be a difference of opinion among them, it shall not be necessary for any Judge dissenting from the judgment of the Court to sign the decree.

Copies of judgment and decree to be furnished to parties.

580. Certified copies of the judgment and decree shall be furnished to the parties on application to the Court and at their expense.

Certified copy of decree to be sent to Court whose decree is appealed against.

581. A copy of the judgment and of the decree, certified by the Appellate Court or such officer as it appoints in this behalf, shall be sent to the Court which passed the decree appealed against, and shall be filed with the original proceedings in the suit, and an entry of the judgment of the Appellate Court shall be made in the register of Civil suit.

Appellate Court to have same powers as Courts of original jurisdiction.

582. The Appellate Court shall have the same powers in appeals under this chapter, in respect to adjournments, granting of time, arrest or attachment before judgment, issue of injunctions, examination of the parties or their pleaders and of witnesses or other persons, issue of commissions, award of interest or mesne profits, separation of misjoined suits, permission to bring fresh suits, or otherwise, as are vested by this Code in Courts of original jurisdiction in respect of suits instituted under chapter V.

The provisions of such chapter, unless when otherwise provided, shall apply to appeals under this chapter so far as the same are applicable.

Execution of decree of Appellate Court.

583. When a party in whose favour a decree is passed in an appeal under this chapter is desirous of obtaining execution of the same, he shall apply to the Court which passed the decree against which the appeal was preferred; and such Court shall proceed to execute the decree passed in appeal, according to the rules hereinbefore prescribed for the execution of decrees in suits.

CHAPTER XLI.

OF APPEALS FROM APPELLATE DECREES.

Second appeals to High Court.

584. Unless when otherwise provided in this Code or by any other law, from all decrees passed in appeal by any Court subordinate to a High Court, an appeal shall lie to the High Court on any of the following grounds, (namely)—

Grounds of second appeal.

(a) the decision being contrary to some specified law or usage having the force of law;

(b) the decision having failed to determine some issue of law or usage having the force of law;

(c) a substantial error or defect in the procedure as prescribed by this Code or any other law, which may have produced error or defect in the decision of the case upon the merits.

Second appeal only on grounds mentioned in section 584.

585. No second appeal shall lie except on the grounds mentioned in section 584.

No second appeal in certain suits.

586. No second appeal shall lie in any suit of the nature cognizable in Courts of Small Causes, when the debt, compensation or demand for which the original suit is instituted, does not exceed the sum of five hundred rupees.

Provisions as to second appeals.

587. Every memorandum of appeal under this chapter shall be accompanied by a copy of the decree appealed against, and the provisions contained in chapter XLII shall apply as far as may be to appeals under this chapter, and the decree made by the appellate Court shall be executed by the Court which made the decree in the suit in which such appeal was preferred, under the rules hereinbefore provided for the execution of decrees in suits.

Execution of decree in second appeal.

CHAPTER XLII.

OF APPEALS FROM ORDERS.

Orders appealable.

588. An appeal shall lie from the following orders under this Code and from no other such orders:—

(a) orders under section 19, staying proceedings in a suit,

(b) orders under section 24, determining whether immoveable property is or is not within the local limits of the Court's jurisdiction,

(c) orders under section 32 striking out or adding the name of any person as plaintiff or defendant,

(d) orders under section 44, adding a cause of action,

(e) orders under section 47, excluding a cause of action,

(f) orders rejecting or returning plaints under section 53, clause (d), or section 54, clauses (b) and (d), or section 57, clause (c),

(g) orders rejecting applications under section 102 in cases open to appeal for an order to set aside the dismissal of a suit,

(h) orders under section 120 where a party fails to appear,

(i) orders under section 168 for attachment of property,

(j) orders under section 176 where a party refuses to give evidence or produce a document called for by the Court,

(k) orders under section 244 as to questions relating to the execution of decrees,

(l) orders under section 261 as to objections to draft conveyances or draft endorsements,

(m) orders under section 312 for setting aside, or under section 314 for confirming, a sale,

(n) orders in insolvency matters under section 351, 352, 357, or 359,

(o) orders rejecting applications under section 370 for dismissal of the suit,

(p) orders disallowing objections under section 372,

(q) orders as to interpleader suits under section 473, 475 or 476,

(r) orders under section 479, 480, 481, 485, 492, 493, 503 or 513.

(s) orders under section 518 modifying an award,

(t) orders under any of the provisions of this Code, imposing fines, or for the imprisonment of any person, except when such imprisonment is in execution of a decree.

The orders passed in appeals under this section shall be final.

Court which shall hear appeals.

589. An appeal from any order specified in section 588, clause (n), shall lie to the High Court.

When an appeal from any other order is allowed by this chapter, it shall lie to the Court to which an appeal would lie from the decree in the suit in relation to which such order was made.

Procedure in appeals from orders.

590. The procedure prescribed in chapter XLII shall, so far as may be, apply to appeals from orders under this Code, or under any special or local law in which a different procedure is not provided.

No appeal, before decree, from order passed in course of suit; but if decree appealed against, error or defect therein may be set forth.

591. Except as provided in this chapter, no appeal shall lie from any order passed in the course of a suit and relating thereto, prior to decree; but if the decree be appealed against, any error, defect or irregularity in any such order, affecting the merits of the case or the jurisdiction of the Court, may be set forth as a ground of objection in the memorandum of appeal.

CHAPTER XLIII.

OF PAUPER APPEALS.

Who may appeal as pauper.

592. Any person entitled under this Code or any other law to prefer an appeal, who is unable to pay the fee required for the petition of appeal may, on presenting an application accompanied by a memorandum of appeal, be allowed to appeal as a pauper, subject to the rules contained in chapters XXVI, XL, XLI and XLII, in so far as those rules are applicable:

Procedure on application for admission of appeal.

Provided that the Court shall reject the application unless upon a perusal thereof and of the judgment and decree against which the appeal is made, it sees reason to think that the decree appealed against is contrary to law or to some usage having the force of law, or is otherwise erroneous or unjust.

Enquiry into pauperism.

593. The inquiry into the pauperism of the applicant may be made either by the Appellate Court or by the Court against whose decision the appeal is made under the orders of the Appellate Court:

Proviso.

Provided that, if the applicant was allowed to sue or appeal as a pauper in the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, no further enquiry in respect of his pauperism shall be necessary, unless the Appellate Court sees special cause to direct such enquiry.

CHAPTER XLIV.

OF APPEALS TO THE QUEEN IN COUNCIL.

'Decree' defined.

594. In this chapter, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context, the expression 'decree' includes also judgment and order.

When appeals lie to Queen in Council.

595. Subject to such rules as may, from time to time, be made by Her Majesty in Council regarding appeals from the Courts of British India, and to the provisions hereinafter contained—an appeal shall lie to Her Majesty in Council

(a) from any final decree passed on appeal by a High Court or other Court of final appellate jurisdiction,

(b) from any final decree passed by a High Court in the exercise of original civil jurisdiction and

(c) from any decree, when the case, as hereinafter provided, is certified to be a fit one for appeal to Her Majesty in Council.

Value of subject-matter.

596. In each of the cases mentioned in clauses (a) and (b) of section 595, the amount or value of the subject-matter of the suit in the Court of first instance must be ten thousand rupees or upwards, and the amount or value of the matter in dispute on appeal to Her Majesty in Council must be the same sum or upwards, or the decree must involve, directly or indirectly, some claim or question to, or respecting, property of like amount or value, and where the decree appealed from affirms the decision of the Court immediately below the Court passing such decree, the appeal must involve some substantial question of law.

Bar of certain appeals.

597. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 595, no appeal shall lie to Her Majesty in Council from the judgment of one Judge of a High Court established under the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of Victoria, chapter 104, or of one Judge of a Division Court, or of two or more Judges of such High Court, or of a Division Court constituted by two or more Judges of such High Court, whenever such Judges are equally divided in opinion, and do not amount in number to a majority of the whole of the Judges of the High Court at the time being;

and no appeal shall lie to Her Majesty in Council from any decree which, under section 586, is final.

Application to Court whose decree is complained of.

598. Whoever desires to appeal under this chapter to Her Majesty in Council must apply by petition to the Court whose decree is complained of.

Time within which application must be made.

599. Such application must ordinarily be made within six months from the date of such decree.

But if that period expires when the Court is closed, the application may be made on the day that the Court re-opens.

Certificate as to value or fitness.

600. Every petition under section 598 must state the grounds of appeal, and pray for a certificate, either that, as regards amount or value and nature, the case fulfils the requirements of section 596, or that it is otherwise a fit one for appeal to Her Majesty in Council.

Upon receipt of such petition, the Court may direct notice to be served on the opposite party to show cause why the said certificate should not be granted.

Effect of refusal of certificate.

601. If such certificate be refused, the petition shall be dismissed:

Provided that, if the decree complained of be a final decree passed by a Court other than a High Court, the order refusing the certificate shall be appealable, within thirty days from the date of the order, to the High Court to which the former Court is subordinate.

602. If the certificate be granted, the applicant shall, within six months from the date of the decree complained of, or within six weeks from the grant of the certificate, whichever is the later date,

Security and deposit required on grant of certificate.

(a) give security for the costs of the respondent, and

(b) deposit the amount required to defray the expense of translating, transcribing, indexing, and transmitting to Her Majesty in Council a correct copy of the whole record of the suit, except

(1) formal documents directed to be excluded by any order of Her Majesty in Council in force for the time being;

(2) papers which the parties agree to exclude;

(3) accounts, or portions of accounts, which the officer empowered by the Court for that purpose considers unnecessary, and which the parties have not specifically asked to be included, and

(4) such other documents as the High Court may direct to be excluded:

and when the applicant prefers to print in India the copy of the record, except as aforesaid, he shall also, within the time mentioned in the first clause of this section, deposit the amount required to defray the expense of printing such copy.

603. When such security has been completed and deposit made to the satisfaction of the Court, the Court may,

Admission of appeal and procedure thereon.

(a) declare the appeal admitted, and

(b) give notice thereof to the respondent, and shall then

(c) transmit to Her Majesty in Council, under the seal of the Court, a correct copy of the said record, except as aforesaid, and

(d) give to either party one or more authenticated copies of any of the papers in the suit on his applying therefor and paying the reasonable expenses incurred in preparing them.

604. At any time before the admission of the appeal, the Court may, upon cause shown, revoke the acceptance of any such security, and make further directions thereon.

Revocation of acceptance of security.

605. If at any time after the admission of the appeal, but before the transmission of the copy of the record, except as aforesaid, to Her Majesty in Council, such security appears inadequate,

Power to order further security or payment.

or further payment is required for the purpose of translating, transcribing, printing, indexing, or transmitting the copy of the record, except as aforesaid, the Court may order the appellant to furnish, within a time to be fixed by the Court, other and sufficient security, or to make, within like time, the required payment.

606. If the appellant fail to comply with such order, the proceedings shall be stayed,

Effect of failure to comply with order.

and the appeal shall not proceed without an order in this behalf of Her Majesty in Council, and in the meantime execution of the decree appealed against shall not be stayed.

607. When the copy of the record, except as aforesaid, has been transmitted to Her Majesty in Council, the appellant may obtain a refund of the balance, if any, of the amount which he has deposited under section 602.

Refund of balance of deposit.

608. Notwithstanding the admission of any appeal under this chapter, the decree appealed against shall be unconditionally enforced, unless the Court admitting the appeal otherwise directs.

Powers of Court pending appeal.

But the Court may, if it think fit, on any special cause shown by any party interested in the suit, or otherwise appearing to the Court—

(a) impound any moveable property in dispute, or any part thereof, or

(b) allow the decree appealed against to be enforced, taking such security from the respondent as the Court thinks fit for the due performance of any order which Her Majesty in Council may make on the appeal, or

(c) stay the execution of the decree appealed against, taking such security from the appellant as the Court thinks fit for the due performance of the decree appealed against, or of any order which Her Majesty in Council may make on the appeal, or

(d) place any party seeking the assistance of the Court under such conditions, or give such other direction respecting the subject-matter of the appeal as it thinks fit.

609. If at any time during the pendency of the appeal, the security so furnished by either party appears inadequate, the Court may, on the application of the other party, require further security.

Increase of security found inadequate.

In default of such further security being furnished as required by the Court, if the original security was furnished by the appellant, the Court may, on the application of the respondent, issue execution of the decree appealed against as if the appellant had furnished no such security.

And if the original security was furnished by the respondent, the Court shall, so far as may be practicable, stay all further execution of the decree, and restore the parties to the position in which they respectively were when the security which appears inadequate was furnished, or give such direction respecting the subject-matter of the appeal as it thinks fit.

610. Whoever desires to enforce or to obtain execution of any order of Her Majesty in Council shall apply by petition, accompanied by a certified copy of the decree or order made in appeal and sought to be enforced or executed, to the Court from which the appeal to Her Majesty was preferred.

Procedure to enforce orders of Queen in Council.

Such Court shall transmit the order of Her Majesty to the Court which made the first decree appealed from, or to such other Court as Her Majesty by her said order may direct, and shall (upon the application of either party) give such directions as may be required for the enforcement or execution of the same; and the Court to which the said order is so transmitted shall enforce or execute it accordingly, in the manner and according to the rules applicable to the execution of its original decrees.

When any monies expressed to be payable in British currency are payable in India under such order, the amount so payable shall be estimated according to the rate of exchange for the time being fixed by the Secretary of State for India in Council, with the concurrence of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, for the adjustment of financial transactions between the Imperial and the Indian Governments.

611. The orders made by the Court which enforces or executes the order of Her Majesty in Council relating to such enforcement or execution, shall be appealable in the same manner and subject to the same rules as the orders of such Court relating to the enforcement or execution of its own decrees.

Appeal against order relating to execution.

612. The first column of No. 169 of the second schedule annexed to the Indian Limitation Act, 1871, shall be read as if the following words were added thereto (that is to say): "or any order of Her Majesty in Council."

Amendment of Act IX of 1871, schedule II, No. 169.

613. The High Court may, from time to time, make general rules consistent with this Act to regulate—

Power to make rules.

(a) the service of notices under section 600,

(b) the grant or refusal of certificates under sections 601 and 602 by Courts of final appellate jurisdiction subordinate to the High Court,

(c) the amount and nature of the security required under sections 602, 605 and 609,

(d) the testing of such security,

(e) the estimate of the cost of transcribing the record,

(f) the preparation, examination and certifying of such transcript,

(g) the revision and authentication of translations,

(h) the preparation of indices to transcripts of records, and of lists of the papers not included therein,

(i) the recovery of costs incurred in British India in connection with appeals to Her Majesty in Council, and all other matters connected with the enforcement of this chapter.

All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law in the High Court and the Courts of final appellate jurisdiction subordinate thereto.

Publication of rules.

All rules heretofore made and published by any High Court relating to appeal to Her Majesty in Council and in force immediately before the passing of this Act, shall, so far as they are consistent with this Act, be deemed to have been made and published hereunder.

Legalization of existing rules.

614. In sections 595 and 613, the expression 'High Court' shall be deemed to include also the Recorder of Rangoon, but not so as to empower him to make rules binding on Courts other than his own Court.

Recorder of Rangoon.

615. The rules and restrictions referred to in Bengal Regulation III of 1828, section IV, clause fifth, shall be deemed to be the rules and restrictions applicable to appeals under this Code from the decisions of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

Construction of Bengal Regulation III of 1828, section 4, clause 5.

616. Nothing herein contained shall be understood—

Saving of Her Majesty's pleasure,

(a) to bar the full and unqualified exercise of Her Majesty's pleasure in receiving or rejecting appeals to Her Majesty in Council, or otherwise howsoever, or

and of rules for conduct of business before Judicial Committee.

And nothing in this chapter applies to any matter of criminal or admiralty or vice-admiralty jurisdiction, nor to appeals from orders and decrees of Prize Courts.

PART VII.

CHAPTER XLV.

OF REFERENCE TO THE HIGH COURT.

617. If before or in the hearing of a suit or appeal in which the decree is final, or if in the execution of any such decree, any question of law or usage having the force of law, or the construction of a document which construction may affect the merits, arises, on which the Court trying the suit or appeal entertains reasonable doubt, the Court may, either of its own motion or on the application of any of the parties, draw up a statement of the point on which doubt is entertained, and refer such statement with its own opinion for the decision of the High Court.

Reference of question to High Court.

618. The Court may either stay the proceedings or proceed in the suit or appeal notwithstanding such reference, and may pass a decree contingent upon the opinion of the High Court on the point referred;

Court may pass decree contingent upon opinion of High Court.

but no execution shall be issued in any case in which such reference is made to the High Court until the receipt of the order of that Court.

If a decree has been made its execution shall be stayed until the receipt of a copy of the judgment of the High Court upon such reference.

619. The High Court shall hear the parties to the suit or appeal in which the reference is made, in person or by their respective pleaders, and shall determine the point so referred to it, and shall transmit a copy of its judgment, under the signature of the Registrar, to the Court by which the reference was made, and such Court shall, on the receipt thereof, proceed to dispose of the suit or appeal in conformity with the decision of the High Court.

Judgment of High Court to be transmitted, and case disposed of accordingly.

620. Costs, if any, consequent on a reference for the opinion of the High Court, shall be costs in the suit or appeal.

Costs of reference to High Court.

621. When a case is referred to the High Court under this chapter, the High Court may return the case for amendment, and may alter, cancel or set aside any decree which the Court making the reference has passed in the suit or appeal out of which the reference arose, and make such order as it thinks fit.

Power to alter, &c., decrees of Court making reference.

PART VIII.

CHAPTER XLVI.

OF REVIEW OF JUDGMENT.

622. The High Court may call for the record of any case in which no appeal lies to the High Court, if the Court by which the case was decided appears to have exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law, or to have passed any order contrary to law, and may set aside the decision, or pass such other order in the case as the High Court thinks fit.

Power to call for record of cases decided by Small Cause Courts, or, on appeal, by subordinate Courts.

The District Court may exercise the like powers as to any case decided by any Court subordinate thereto.

623. Any person considering himself aggrieved—

Application for review of judgment.

(a) by a decree or order from which an appeal is hereby allowed, but from which no appeal has been preferred;

(b) by a decree or order from which no appeal is hereby allowed; or

(c) by a judgment on a reference from a Court of Small Causes;

and who, from the discovery of new and important matter or evidence which, after the exercise of due diligence, was not within his knowledge or could not be adduced by him at the time when the decree was passed or order made, or on account of some mistake or error apparent on the face of the record, or for any other sufficient reason, desires to obtain a review of the decree passed or order made against him, may apply for a review of judgment to the Court which passed the decree or made the order or to the Court, if any, to which the business of the former Court has been transferred.

A party who is not appealing from a decree may apply for a review of judgment notwithstanding the pendency of an appeal by some other party, except when the ground of such appeal is common to the applicant and the appellant.

624. Except on the discovery of such new and important matter or evidence as aforesaid, or of some clerical error apparent on the face of the decree, no application for a review of judgment, other than that of a High Court, shall be made to any Judge other than the Judge who delivered it.

To whom applications for review may be made.

625. The rules hereinbefore contained as to the form of making appeals shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to applications for review.

Form of applications for review.

626. If it appear to the Court that there is not sufficient ground for a review, it shall reject the application.

Application when rejected.

If the Court be of opinion that the review shall be granted, it shall grant the same, and the Judge shall record with his own hand his reasons for such opinion:

Application when granted.

Proviso. Provided that—

(a) no such review shall be granted without previous notice to the opposite party to enable him to appear and be heard in support of the decree a review of which is applied for; and

(b) no such review shall be granted on the ground of discovery of new matter or evidence which the applicant alleges was not within his knowledge, or could not be adduced by him when the decree or order was passed, without strict proof of such allegation.

627. If the Judge or Judges, or any one of the Judges, who passed the decree or order, a review of which is applied for, continue attached to the Court at the time when the application for a review is presented and are not, or is not, precluded by absence or other cause, for a period of six months next after the application, from considering the decree or order to which the application refers, such Judge or Judges or any of them shall hear the application, and no other Judge or Judges of the Court shall hear the same.

Application for review in Court consisting of two or more Judges.

628. If the application for a review be heard by more than one Judge and the Court be equally divided, the application shall be rejected.

Application when rejected.

If there be a majority the decision shall be according to the opinion of the majority.

629. The order of the Court whether for granting the review or rejecting the application shall be final, except where the review has been granted without jurisdiction, in which case an appeal shall lie.

Order of Court final.

Where the application has been rejected in consequence of the failure of the parties to appear, the applicant may, within fifteen days from such rejection, apply for an order to have the rejected application restored to the file, and if it be proved to the satisfaction of the Court that he was prevented by any sufficient cause from appearing when such application was called on for hearing, the Court may order it to be restored to the file upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit, and shall appoint a day for hearing the same.

No order shall be made under this section unless the applicant has served the opposite party with notice in writing of the latter application.

No application to review an order passed on review or on an application for a review shall be entertained.

630. When an application for a review is granted, a note thereof shall be made in the register and the Court may at once re-hear the case or make such order in regard to the re-hearing as it thinks fit.

Registry of application granted, and order for re-hearing.

PART IX.

CHAPTER XLVII.

SPECIAL RULES RELATING TO THE HIGH COURTS.

631. This chapter applies only to High Courts which are or may hereafter be established under the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of Victoria, chapter 104 (An Act for establishing High Courts of Judicature in India).

This part to apply only to certain High Courts.

Except as provided in this Part, the provisions of this Code apply to such High Courts.

632. Suits may be tried and determined by the High Court in the exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, if,

Ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court.

(a) in the case of suits for immoveable property, the property or any part thereof is situate, or,

(b) in all other cases, the cause of action, or any material part of the cause of action, has arisen, or the defendant or any of the defendants at the time of the commencement of the suit dwells, or carries on business, or personally works for gain, within the local limits of such jurisdiction:

Provided that the leave of the Court be first obtained,

(c) in the case of suits for immoveable property where only part thereof is situate within such limits, and

(d) in other cases where only part of the cause of action has arisen, or only some of the defendants at the commencement of the suit dwell, or carry on business, or personally work for gain within such limits:

Provided also that no High Court shall, in the exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, try any case in which the debt, or compensation, or value of the property sued for, does not exceed five hundred rupees, and which falls within the jurisdiction of a Small Cause Court situate within the local limits of such jurisdiction.

633. The High Court shall take evidence, and record judgments and orders in such manner as it by rule from time to time directs.

High Court to record judgments according to its own rules.

634. Whenever a High Court considers it necessary that a decree made in the exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction should be enforced before the amount of the costs incurred in the suit can be ascertained by taxation, the Court may order that the decree shall be executed forthwith, except as to so much thereof as relates to the costs;

Power to order execution of decree before ascertainment of costs, and execution for costs subsequently.

and, as to so much thereof as relates to the costs, that the decree may be executed as soon as the amount of the costs shall be ascertained by taxation.

635. No attorney shall, under the provisions of this Code, be entitled to address the Court or examine witnesses.

Attornies not to address Court.

636. Notices to produce documents, summonses to witnesses, and every other judicial process, issued in the exercise of the ordinary or extraordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court, and of its matrimonial, testamentary and intestate jurisdictions, except writs of summons to defendants issued under section 65, writs of execution, and notices under section 553, may be served by the attorneys in the suit, or by persons employed by them, or by such other persons as the High Court by any rule or order from time to time directs.

Process of High Courts may be served by attorneys in suit.

637. Any act not of a judicial nature which this Code requires to be done by a Judge, may be done by the Registrar of the Court or by such other officer of the Court as the Court may direct to perform such act.

Non-judicial acts may be done by Registrar.

The High Court may from time to time by rule declare what shall be deemed to be acts not of a judicial nature within the meaning of this section.

638. The procedure in civil cases brought before the High Court in the exercise of its Admiralty or Vice-Admiralty jurisdiction shall be regulated, so far as the circumstances of the case will permit, by the rules prescribed in this Code.

Procedure in Admiralty cases.

In the following cases in the exercise of such jurisdiction, (namely)—

(a) cases in which a ship, or a ship and cargo have been or are to be proceeded against or arrested,

(b) cases in which goods only have been or are to be proceeded against or arrested, either for the purpose of proceeding against the goods or the freight due thereon,

(c) cases in which property has been or is arrested and no party has appeared or appears at the return of the warrant, and

(d) all other cases in the exercise of Admiralty or Vice-Admiralty jurisdiction in which the rules contained in this Code are not applicable, the practice and procedure shall be regulated as nearly as possible by the Rules and Regulations made and ordained by his late Majesty King William the Fourth in Council in pursuance of the Second of William the Fourth, chapter 51, and touching the practice to be observed in the several Courts of Vice-Admiralty in the Colonies, except so far as such rules may be inconsistent with the Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth of Victoria, chapter 104, or with the Letters Patent granted in pursuance thereof.

639. In suits for mariners' wages brought before the High Court in the exercise of Admiralty or Vice-Admiralty jurisdiction, any number of mariners belonging to the same ship or serving under the same owner may proceed jointly in one suit.

Joinder of mariners in suits for wages.

640. The following portions of this Code shall not apply to the High Court in the exercise of its ordinary or extraordinary original civil jurisdiction, namely, sections 37, 54 clause (a), 119, 160, 182 to 185 (both inclusive), 187, 189, 190, 191, 206, 261, 403, 404, 405, Sections not applying to High Court in original civil jurisdiction.

and section 579 shall not apply to the High Court in the exercise of its appellate jurisdiction.

Nothing in this Code shall extend or apply to any High Court in the exercise of its jurisdiction as an Insolvent Court.

Code not to affect High Court in exercise of insolvent jurisdiction.

641. The High Court shall have power to frame forms for every proceeding in such Court, for which the High Court thinks it necessary that forms should be provided, and for keeping all books, entries and accounts to be kept by its officers.

Power to frame forms.

PART X.

CHAPTER XLVIII.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Exemption from Personal Appearance.

642. Women, who according to the customs and manners of the country ought not to be compelled to appear in public, shall be exempt from personal appearance in Court.

Exemption of certain women from personal appearance.

But nothing herein contained shall be deemed to exempt such women from arrest in execution of civil process.

643. The Local Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, exempt from personal appearance in Court any person whose rank, in the opinion of such Government, entitles him to the privilege of exemption, and may, by like notification, withdraw such privilege.

Local Government may exempt certain persons from personal appearance.

The names and residences of the persons so exempted shall from time to time be forwarded to the High Court by the Local Government, and a list of such persons shall be kept in such Court, and a list of such persons as reside within the local limits of the jurisdiction of each Court subordinate to the High Court shall be kept in such subordinate Court.

List of names of persons exempted to be kept in subordinate Court.

When any person so exempted claims the privilege of such exemption, and it is consequently necessary to examine him by commission, he shall pay the costs of that commission.

Costs of commission rendered necessary by claiming privilege.

Exemption from Arrest.

644. No Judge, Magistrate or other judicial officer shall be liable to arrest under this Code while going to, presiding in, or returning from his Court.

Persons exempt from arrest.

And, except as hereinafter provided, the parties to a suit and their pleaders and recognized agents shall be exempt from arrest under this Code while going to or attending a Civil Court for the purpose of such suit and while returning from such Court. Witnesses acting in obedience to a summons shall be similarly exempt.

Offences in Court.

645. When in a case pending before any Court, there appears to the Court sufficient ground for sending for investigation to the Magistrate a charge of any such offence as is described in section 193, 196, 199, 200, 205, 206 207, 208, 209, 210, 463, 471, 474, 475, 476 or 477 of the Indian Penal Code, which may be made in respect to any document offered in evidence in the case, the Court may send the person accused in custody to the Magistrate, or take sufficient bail for his appearance before the Magistrate.

Procedure in case of certain offences relating to documents.

The Court shall send to the Magistrate the evidence and documents relevant to the charge, and shall bind over any person to appear and give evidence before such Magistrate.

The Magistrate shall receive such charge and proceed with it according to law.

Forms.

646. Subject to the power conferred on the High Court by section 640 and by the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of Victoria, chapter 104, section 15, the forms set forth in the fourth schedule hereto annexed, with such variation as the circumstances of each case require, shall be used for the respective purposes therein mentioned.

Use of forms in fourth schedule.

Language of Courts.

647. The language which, when this Code comes into force, is the language of any Court subordinate to a High Court, shall continue to be the language of such Court until the Local Government otherwise orders;

Language of subordinate Courts.

but it shall be lawful for the Local Government from time to time to declare what language shall be the language of every such Court.

Statement of Cases by Registrars of Small Cause Courts.

648. Whenever the Registrar of a Court of Small Causes has any doubt upon any question of law or usage having the force of law, or as to the construction of a document which construction may affect the merits of the decision, he may state a case for the opinion of the Judge; and all the provisions herein contained relative to the stating of a case by the Judge shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to the stating of a case by the Registrar.

Power of Registrars of Small Cause Courts to state cases.

Miscellaneous Proceedings.

649. The procedure herein prescribed shall be followed, as far as it can be made applicable, in all proceedings in any Court, other than suits and appeals.

Miscellaneous proceedings.

The High Court may from time to time make rules to provide for the admission, in such proceedings, of affidavits as evidence of the matters to which such affidavits respectively relate; and such rules, on being published in the local official Gazette, shall have the force of law.

Admission of affidavits as evidence.

Civil Process for Attachment, Sale or Payment.

650. If any property to be attached under this Code is situate without the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court making the order of attachment, such Court, if a District Court, shall send to the District Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such property is situate, a copy of the order together with the probable amount of the costs of the attachment.

Procedure when property to be attached is situate outside the local limits of jurisdiction.

Such District Court shall, on receipt of such copy and amount, cause the attachment to be made as if the original order of attachment had been made by itself, and inform the Court by which such order was made or transmitted of the making of the attachment.

If the Court making the order of attachment is subordinate to a District Court, it shall send such copy to the District Court to which it is subordinata, and such Court shall, if it think fit, deal with the order as if it had been made by itself.

651. The rules contained in chapter XIX shall be applicable to the execution of any judicial process for the sale of property or payment of money, which may be desired or ordered by a Civil Court in any civil proceeding.

Rules applicable to all civil process for sale or payment.

Witnesses.

652. The provisions of chapters XIV and XV relating to witnesses shall apply to all persons required to give evidence, or to produce documents in any proceeding under this Code.

Application of rules as to witnesses.

Escape from Custody.

653. Whoever offers any resistance or illegal obstruction to the lawful apprehension of himself under this Code, or under the warrant of any Court of civil judicature, or escapes or attempts to escape from any custody in which he is lawfully detained under this Code or under such warrant, shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months or with fine not exceeding one thousand rupees, or with both.

Penalty for escaping from custody under Code.

Subsidiary Rules.

654. The High Court may from time to time make rules consistent with this Code to regulate any matter connected with the procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature. All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

Power to make subsidiary rules of procedure.

Local extent. This section and section two extend to the whole of British India: the rest of this Act extends only to the territories under the government of the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council;

Commencement. And it shall come into force on such date as the Local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may, by notification in the Fort Saint George Gazette, direct.

Act XIV of 1872, repealed. 2. On and from such date Act No. XIV of 1872 (to exempt the Straits Settlements from the Indian Emigration Act, 1871) shall be repealed, but not so as to revive any right to sue or ground of proceeding taken away by the said Act.

Act VII of 1871 not to apply to emigration from Madras to the Straits Settlements. The provisions of Act No. VII of 1871 (to consolidate the laws relating to the emigration of Native Labourers) shall not apply to emigration to the Straits Settlements from the said territories, or to any contract for labour to be performed in the Straits Settlements by an emigrant from the said territories.

Interpretation-clause. 3. In this Act—

"Emigrate." "Emigrate" denotes the departure of any Native of India out of the said territories, under an engagement to labour in the said Settlements:

"Emigrant." "Emigrant" means a person who "emigrates" within the meaning of the above definition:

"Magistrate." "Magistrate" means a Magistrate of a District, a Magistrate of a division of a District, or any person appointed by the Local Government to perform the functions of a Magistrate under this Act:

"Vessel." "Vessel" includes anything made for the conveyance by water of human beings or property.

From what port emigration lawful. 4. It shall not be lawful to emigrate except from the Port of Negapatam, or from such other port as may from time to time be declared by the Local Government, by a notification in the Fort Saint George Gazette, to be a port from which emigration under this Act shall be lawful.

While any such notification is in force, all the provisions of this Act shall apply to the port mentioned in such notification in like manner as they apply to the Port of Negapatam.

The Local Government may, at any time, by a like notification, revoke any such notification.

II.—EMIGRATION AGENT.

Appointment of Emigration Agent. 5. The Government of the Straits Settlements may, from time to time, appoint such person as the Local Government approves, to act as Emigration Agent at the Port of Negapatam, or such other port as aforesaid.

The Emigration Agent so appointed may be suspended or removed by the Government of the Straits Settlements.

III.—PROTECTOR OF EMIGRANTS.

Appointment of Protector of Emigrants. 6. The Local Government shall direct the Magistrate of the division of the District in which the Town of Negapatam is situated, or such other Magistrate in Negapatam as it thinks fit, to act as Protector of Emigrants under this Act; and may, with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, assign to such Magistrate such establishment as it thinks fit.

General duties of Protector. 7. Such Protector of Emigrants, in addition to any special duties assigned to him by this Act, shall, so far as is in his power, protect and aid all emigrants with his advice or otherwise, and cause all the provisions of this Act to be duly complied with.

Inspection of vessels with return emigrants. He shall also inspect on arrival all vessels bringing return emigrants to Negapatam, and inquire into the treatment received by such emigrants both during the period of their service in the Straits Settlements and also during the voyage, and shall make a report thereon to the Local Government.

He shall aid and advise such return emigrants, so far as he reasonably can, when called upon by them to do so.

IV.—EMIGRATION DEPÔT.

Establishment and licensing of depôt. 8. The Emigration Agent shall establish a suitable depôt for emigrants at Negapatam and at any such other port as aforesaid. Such depôt may be licensed by the Protector of Emigrants after being inspected and approved of by him.

Duration of license. No such license shall be in force for a longer period than a year; and any such license may be cancelled by the Protector of Emigrants, if he considers that the depôt for which it was granted is unhealthy, or in any respect has become unsuitable for the purpose for which it was established, or if the Emigration Agent fails to comply with any of the requirements of this Act.

Fee for license. For every such license the Emigration Agent shall pay to the Protector of Emigrants a fee of fifteen rupees.

Inspection by Protector. 9. The Protector of Emigrants may, at any time, examine into the state of the depôt and the manner in which the emigrants are therein lodged, fed, clothed, and otherwise provided for and attended to.

Agent and his subordinates to afford facilities for inspection. The Emigration Agent and all persons in charge of, or employed in, the depôt, shall give the Protector every facility for making such inspections as he may deem necessary or proper, and shall afford him all such information as he may require.

Supply of medical aid and comforts. 10. The Emigration Agent shall provide at the depôt such medical aid and comforts as the said Protector may from time to time direct.

V.—RECRUITERS OF LABOURERS.

Protector to license recruiters. 11. The Protector of Emigrants shall license so many fit persons, as he deems necessary, to be recruiters of labourers for the Straits Settlements; and no person shall engage or attempt to engage any Native of India to emigrate, or shall otherwise act or be employed as a recruiter of labourers, except under a license from the Protector of Emigrants.

Duration and cancelment of license. 12. No such license shall be in force for a longer period than one year; and in case of misconduct on the part of any recruiter, the Protector of Emigrants may cancel his license before the expiration of the period for which it was granted.

Form of license. 13. Every such license shall specify the local limits within which the person licensed may recruit labourers, and shall be in the form set forth in the first Schedule hereto annexed.

Fee for license.

For every such license the recruiter shall pay to the Protector a fee of five rupees.

Recruiter to obtain Magistrate's countersignature to license.

14. No recruiter shall engage, or attempt to engage, labourers in any district without having first exhibited his license to a Magistrate in such district, and obtained the countersignature of such Magistrate thereupon.

VI.—CONTRACTS WITH EMIGRANTS.

Conditions of validity of emigration contracts.

15. A contract made by a recruiter with a Native of India to emigrate shall not be enforceable by the recruiter or his principal unless it—

(a) is expressed in writing;

(b) purports to be executed by the recruiter on behalf of some principal in the Straits Settlements;

(c) states the terms, if any, agreed on as to the redemption of the recruit's engagement for employment, or of the unexpired term of such engagement;

(d) is registered in the manner provided in section nineteen.

But nothing contained in this section shall be deemed to prevent such Native from insisting, if he thinks fit, that such contract shall be performed.

Contents of such contracts.

16. Every such contract shall—

(a) contain an engagement for employment to be provided by such principal for a definite term not exceeding three years; and

(b) specify the nature of the services to be performed by such recruit and the rates of wages (not less than twelve cents a day for an able-bodied male adult) payable in respect of the same.

Certain agreements declared void.

17. Save as provided by section fifteen, clause (c), every agreement entered into by a Native of India in the territories subject to the Governor of Fort Saint George in Council, to pay money to any person in the Straits Settlements, in consideration of pecuniary or other assistance given to such Native to emigrate, shall be illegal and void.

Every contract not containing the particulars required by section sixteen shall be illegal and void.

Medical examination of intending emigrants.

18. Every recruit who has entered into such a contract as aforesaid shall be brought by the recruiter before the Civil Surgeon of the District, or such other Medical Officer as the Local Government appoints in this behalf, or in default of such appointment, before such Medical Officer as the Magistrate directs.

The Medical Officer shall thereupon examine the recruit, and shall either reject him or shall certify that he is in a fit state of health and able in point of physical condition to proceed to the Straits Settlements and to work there.

Dependents.

If it is intended that any persons shall accompany the recruit as his dependents, the recruiter shall also bring them before the Medical Officer for the purpose of obtaining certificates that they are in a fit state of health and able in point of physical condition to perform the journey to the Straits Settlements; and the Medical Officer shall examine such persons and shall give or refuse certificates according to his opinion as to their fitness and ability.

Form of Certificates.

Certificates shall be in the form set forth in the second Schedule hereto annexed; and the recruiter shall pay to the Medical Officer such fee for each person so examined as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe.

Emigrant to appear before Magistrate,

19. Every certified recruit and every accompanying dependent shall appear with the recruiter before a Magistrate in the district within which the contract with the recruit was entered into.

and be examined.

The Magistrate shall thereupon inspect the instrument of contract and the medical certificate of the recruit, and shall, apart from the recruiter, examine the recruit with reference to his contract.

If it appears on such examination that the recruit understands the nature of the contract he has entered into as regards the particulars specified in section sixteen, and that he is willing to fulfil the same, the Magistrate shall register

(a) the name, the father's name and the age of such recruit:

(b) the name of the village or place in which he resides:

(c) the port of embarkation to which it is intended he shall proceed:

(d) the particulars specified in section sixteen.

The recruit shall thereupon be deemed an emigrant under this Act.

Registration when to be refused.

If the Magistrate thinks that the recruit does not understand the nature of his contract, or has been induced to enter into it by fraud or misrepresentation, he shall refuse to register him, and record his reasons for such refusal.

Examination of dependents.

20. On the appearance of any person claiming to be dependent on an emigrant, the Magistrate, after inspecting the medical certificate, shall, apart from the recruiter, examine such person if able to give intelligent answers to questions as to his dependence upon the emigrant whom he is about to accompany, and as to his willingness to accompany such emigrant.

If the Magistrate is satisfied that such dependence and willingness exist, he shall register the dependent as a dependent on such emigrant.

But if the Magistrate sees reason to doubt the existence of such dependence or willingness, he may refuse to register the alleged dependent, and, if so, shall record his reasons for such refusal.

Copies of registered matters.

21. The Magistrate shall furnish to every emigrant an authenticated copy on substantial paper of the matters registered under sections nineteen and twenty.

Copy of entry in register to be sent to Emigration Agent and Protector.

22. A copy of every entry made in the registry book by a Magistrate shall be forthwith forwarded by such Magistrate to the Emigration Agent and to the Protector of Emigrants.

Registration at Negapatam.

23. Registration under section nineteen and section twenty of emigrants recruited in the division of the district in which the town of Negapatam is situated, and of persons dependent on such emigrants, shall be effected before the Protector of Emigrants in the manner hereinbefore prescribed for registration before a Magistrate; and such Protector shall deliver one copy of the contract to the emigrant and another copy of the contract to the Emigration Agent.

Fee for registration.

24. For the registration of every contract under section nineteen, the recruiter shall pay to the Magistrate or to the Protector of Emigrants, as the case may be, such fee as may be from time to time directed by the Local Government, not exceeding one rupee.

VII.—ARRIVAL AT DEPÔT AND PROCEDURE THEREON.

Arrival at depôt to be reported.

25. The arrival of each emigrant at the depôt shall immediately be reported by the person in charge of the depôt to the Emigration Agent, and by such Agent to the Protector of Emigrants.

Duty of Emigration Agent on arrival of emigrants.

26. The Emigration Agent shall, within forty-eight hours after the arrival of each emigrant at the depôt, question such emigrant as to the mode of his recruitment, and shall at the same time examine the copy of the contract furnished to the emigrant under section twenty-three.

If, for any reason, further inquiry is necessary, he shall make such enquiry forthwith.

Duty of Protector.

27. The Protector of Emigrants shall attend personally at the examination of emigrants by the Emigration Agent under section twenty-six, except in the case of emigrants recruited in the division of the district in which the town of Negapatam is situated, and shall see that the Emigration Agent makes all such enquiries of the emigrants as it may be his duty to make.

Countersignature of contract.

28. If in the opinion of the Protector of Emigrants the examination and enquiry made under section twenty-six disclose no valid reason against the fulfilment of the contract, and the emigrant has not become physically unfit for emigration, the Protector and the Emigration Agent shall countersign the emigrant's copy of the contract, and the Emigration Agent shall make out and deliver to the emigrant an embarkation pass signed by the Emigration Agent, and countersigned by the Protector, stating the name and the age of the emigrant and the name of his father, and certifying that he has been duly registered for emigration to the Straits Settlements.

Grant of embarkation pass.

When the emigrant to be sent back to the place of registration.

29. If the Protector of Emigrants considers that any emigrant, not being an emigrant recruited in the division of the district in which the town of Negapatam is situated, is physically unfit to emigrate, and that he has not dishonestly represented himself as physically fit;

or that any such irregularity has occurred in the recruitment of any such emigrant, as makes it just to vacate the contract;

or if the Emigration Agent refuses without the consent of the Protector to countersign the emigrant's copy of the contract as required by section twenty-eight, or to be bound by the contract;

Payment of expenses of sending him back.

the Protector of Emigrants may order the Emigration Agent, or the recruiter with whom the contract was made, forthwith to pay to him such reasonable sum as is necessary to enable such emigrant to return to the place where his contract was registered; and may take any steps he thinks necessary for the conveyance of such emigrant to such place.

Failure of Emigration Agent, &c., to pay such expenses.

30. On failure of the Emigration Agent or of such recruiter for twenty-four hours to comply with an order of the Protector for the payment of any such sum, the Protector may pay the same to, or on behalf of, the emigrant.

Every sum so paid shall be recoverable by the Protector, with six per cent. per annum interest from the date of payment, from the Emigration Agent, or from such recruiter, as money paid to the use of such Emigration Agent or recruiter.

No further proof shall be required by any Court in any such case than that the Protector gave such Emigration Agent or recruiter an order to pay such money, and that the Emigration Agent or recruiter for a space of twenty-four hours made default in complying therewith.

Emigrant unfit from illness to return to the place of registration.

31. Every emigrant as aforesaid who, from his state of health, is, in the opinion of the Protector, unfit to undertake the journey back to the place where his contract was registered, shall, in addition to being conveyed back at the expense of the Emigration Agent or recruiter, be entitled to continue in the depôt, and to be fed, clothed, lodged and attended to there by and at the expense of the Emigration Agent until such time as the Protector otherwise orders.

Suits against Emigration Agent for breach of contract.

32. In every case in which the Emigration Agent refuses, without the consent of the Protector, to countersign, or be bound by a contract registered under section nineteen, or is chargeable with a breach of any duty which such contract expressly or by implication imposes upon him, the Protector may, if he thinks fit, institute a suit on behalf of the emigrant against the Emigration Agent for the recovery of damages for the breach of such contract.

In every such suit the contract entered into by the recruiter shall be deemed to have been entered into by, and to be binding on, the Emigration Agent.

VIII.—EMIGRANT VESSELS.

33. No Master or other person in charge of a vessel shall receive on board such vessel any emigrant unless such vessel has been licensed, under the law for the time being in force relating to the carriage by sea of Native passengers, to carry passengers from the territories under the Government of Fort Saint George to the Straits of Malacca, and unless the Master of such vessel has obtained a certificate from the Protector of Emigrants authorizing him to receive on board the number of emigrants specified therein.

Emigrants not to be received on board vessels other than those licensed under Native Passengers Act, or without certificate from Protector.

No such certificate shall be granted by the Protector of Emigrants unless he has satisfied himself that the vessel has been licensed as aforesaid, and that provisions and water for the number of emigrants to be specified in the certificate according to the scale prescribed under such law have been actually put on board such vessel.

Protector not to grant certificate unless satisfied that vessel has been licensed and has provisions on board.

34. On embarkation every emigrant shall deliver to the Master of the vessel the embarkation pass granted to him under section twenty-eight, and the Master shall not receive any emigrant on board unless he delivers up such pass.

Emigrant to give his pass to Master.

35. The Emigration Agent shall be personally present at the embarkation of all emigrants, and shall see that the Master duly examines the passes of the emigrants, and shall himself also examine such passes.

Emigration Agent to be present at embarkation.

The Emigration Agent shall not permit any emigrant to remain on board who has not a pass.

36. The Master of every vessel carrying emigrants shall, after the embarkation of the emigrants, and before the departure of the vessel, give to the Emigration Agent a list signed by himself of all emigrants on board, and shall retain a counterpart of such list signed by the Emigration Agent.

Master to deliver list of emigrants.

A copy of such list signed by the Emigration Agent and Master shall be sent to the Protector of Emigrants before the vessel sails.

IX.—SUPPLEMENTARY POWERS.

37. Whenever the Governor General in Council has reason to believe that proper measures have not been taken for the protection of emigrants and the enforcement of the engagements entered into with them immediately upon their arrival at the Straits Settlements, or during their residence therein, the Governor General in Council may, by a notification published in the Gazette of India, declare that emigration to the said Settlements shall cease from a day to be specified in such notification.

Power to prohibit emigration to the Straits Settlements.

When any notification has been published under this section, emigration and the making of contracts to emigrate to the Straits Settlements shall be unlawful from the day specified in such notification.

38. Such notification may be revoked in like manner at the discretion of the Governor General in Council, and thereupon emigration to the said Settlements shall again be allowed from a day to be specified in the revocation.

Revocation of prohibition.

From the day so specified all the provisions of this Act authorizing emigration to the said Settlements shall be revived, and have the same effect as if such emigration had not been suspended, except as to acts done, offences committed, and proceedings commenced, during the time of such suspension.

X.—OFFENCES.

39. Whoever, except under and in conformity with the provisions of this Act, engages or attempts to engage any Native of India to emigrate,

Making unlawful contract of labour.

or whoever engages or attempts to engage any Native of India to enter into any such contract as is hereby declared illegal, or, not being a recruiter duly licensed under this Act, acts or is employed as a recruiter of labourers,

Recruiting without being licensed.

or being a duly licensed recruiter, removes or attempts to remove any emigrant whom he engages in any district from such district without the contract with such emigrant having been duly registered under section nineteen,

Recruiter omitting to take engaged labourers before Magistrate or Protector.

shall be punished with imprisonment, which may extend to six months, or with fine not exceeding five hundred rupees, or with both.

40. Whoever, by means of intoxication, violence, fraud, or false pretences, causes or induces or attempts to cause or induce any Native of India to emigrate or to enter into any contract to emigrate, or into any such contract as is hereby declared illegal, or to proceed to the said Settlements without having entered into any contract, shall be punished with imprisonment, which may extend to three years, or with fine or with both.

Use of force, fraud, &c., to cause a Native to emigrate.

41. Whoever, without lawful authority, issues any written order to the police to assist himself or any other person to procure labourers to proceed to the said Settlements, or falsely represents that such labourers are required by the Government, or are to be engaged on behalf of the Government, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

False representation of Government authority.

42. Any Master of a vessel not licensed as provided in section thirty-three who knowingly receives on board, for conveyance to the said Settlements, any emigrant or person who has entered into a contract hereby declared illegal,

Receiving emigrants on board without license or certificate.

and any Master of a vessel licensed as aforesaid, who knowingly receives any emigrant as aforesaid without having previously obtained a certificate under the said section, or in excess of the number specified in such certificate, shall be liable for each emigrant or person so received to imprisonment for a period not exceeding three months, and also to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees, and the vessel shall be liable to be forfeited.

43. Any Master of a vessel who receives on board such vessel any emigrant for the said Settlements and fails to comply with the requirements of sections thirty-four and thirty-six, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees.

Failure to comply with requirements of sections 34 and 36.

44. Any Master of a vessel who having cleared such vessel for the said Settlements, takes on board any emigrant not entered in the list mentioned in section thirty-six, shall be liable to a fine not exceeding two hundred rupees for every emigrant so taken on board.

Taking on board, after clearance, emigrants not entered in list.

45. All the powers vested by law in the officers of Customs in regard to the searching and detention of vessels, or otherwise, for the prevention of smuggling on board thereof, may be exercised by such officers for the prevention and detection of the illegal embarkation of emigrants on board vessels bound for the said Settlements and of other offences against this Act.

Customs officers may search and detain for purposes of this Act.

46. All prosecutions under this Act shall be instituted by the Emigration Agent, or by the Protector of Emigrants, or by an officer appointed for the purpose by the Local Government.

Prosecutions under this Act by whom to be instituted.

XI.—MISCELLANEOUS.

47. Nothing in this Act shall apply to any vessel in the service of the Lords Commissioners of the Admiralty, or to any of Her Majesty's vessels.

Act not to apply to certain vessels,

48. Nothing in this Act shall apply to any contract with, or the emigration of, any Native seaman, or other person who of his own free will contracts to navigate or serve on board of any vessel, or who embarks on board such vessel in pursuance of such contract, or any person who contracts to serve as a menial servant only and who embarks as such menial servant.

or to contracts with Native seamen and menial servants.

49. The Emigration Agent and all persons employed by him and the Protector of Emigrants shall be deemed to be public servants within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code.

Emigration Agent and his subordinates and Protector of Emigrants to be deemed public servants.

THE FIRST SCHEDULE.

(Here add designation of examining officer.)

* These words to be omitted in case of women and children not engaging for labour.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The circumstances which make special legislation necessary to regulate emigration from the Madras Presidency to the Straits Settlements were fully explained in Council on the 6th June 1872, when leave was asked to introduce the Bill which passed as Act XIV of 1872. The Bill then introduced was intended merely to make temporary provision for a pressing emergency, and it was stated that a further measure to make permanent provision, in all requisite detail, for emigration to the Straits was then under preparation in communication with the Colonial Government and would afterwards be introduced. Some time, as might have been expected, has passed in arranging with the Government of the Straits the details of the present Bill and of the corresponding Ordinance intended to be passed by the Straits Legislative Council.

2. The law of the Straits Settlements has either been, or will soon be, placed on a permanent footing, and it is desirable that no further delay should take place in carrying out the legislation requisite here.

3. The present Bill, it will be seen, is based on the Indian Emigration Act, 1871. It differs from that Act, however, in two important respects. In the first place, the provisions it contains regarding the conveyance of emigrants to the depôt, the equipment of emigrant vessels, the embarkation of the emigrants, &c., are of a less detailed and stringent nature than the corresponding provisions of the Act of 1871. As was observed in the discussions which led to the passing of Act XIV of 1872, it would be absurd to hamper emigration to a Colony which may be reached in eight or ten days with regulations designed for a voyage like that to the West Indies.

4. The other point in which the present Bill differs from the Act of 1871 (and on this point it is more stringent than the Act of 1871) is in regard to contracts between recruiters and emigrants. The conditions of emigration from Madras to the Straits Settlements are somewhat different from those which prevail in other Colonies drawing their supplies of labour from India. The law in these other Colonies places upon the Government the responsibility for the fulfilment of the conditions under which the emigrant leaves his home; the immigrants are received by Government Agents on their arrival, and allotted to employers by these Agents; contracts are made on their behalf by Government, and Government undertakes to provide them with a free passage to India on the completion of their term of service, or sooner if they become disabled.

5. In the Straits Settlements, on the other hand, the contract has hitherto been confined to the emigrant and the individual employer; and the function of Government has been merely to watch over its due fulfilment by both parties. It is still intended that contracts shall be made in the first instance between emigrants and individual employers; and therefore it becomes specially necessary in the case of an emigrant to the Straits to make sure that the contract entered into by him before he leaves India distinctly provides for those points on which the Government of India is in the habit of insisting as essential. Hence the additional rules regarding the form and contents of contracts laid down in sections fifteen and sixteen of the present Bill.

6. It is however desired by the Government of India that the Government of the Straits Settlements shall guarantee to emigrants the performance of certain important conditions of their contracts, if the employers fail to perform them. It is also thought expedient to declare expressly that contracts made in Madras by Natives for repayment of money in the Straits Settlements, in consideration of assistance to leave India, shall be void except for the purpose of redeeming their contracts to work.

7. It will be observed that the present Bill proposes to repeal Act XIV of 1872, and thereby, so far as regards all India except Madras, to remit the Straits Settlements to the position they were in before the passing of that Act. That is to say, as regards all India except the Madras Presidency, emigration to the Straits Settlements will not be lawful, and cannot be made lawful except under the provisions of the Emigration Act of 1871. The reason for this state of things will be found stated in the proceedings of Council before referred to. The peculiarities of the labour traffic between Madras and the Straits Settlements are its long duration, the existence of a large Tamil population in the Straits, and the proximity of the two countries. These circumstances do not affect any part of India except Madras.

PRELIMINARY.

We have amended the definition of 'pleader' so as to make it include an attorney of a High Court, and have modified the definition of 'subordinate' Court so as to give District Courts power to control Courts of Small Causes, and we have added definitions of 'Judge,' 'judgment-debtor,' 'decree-holder,' 'affidavit' and 'public officer.' With the view of encouraging printing in legal proceedings, we have defined 'written' to include 'printed' and 'lithographed.' We have also amended the definition of 'Foreign Court' so as to exclude the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. We have saved the Central Provinces Courts Act, 1865, the Panjáb Courts Act, 1865, Act XXVII of 1867, and all local laws prescribing a special procedure between landlord and tenant. We have struck out the obsolete references to trials by military officers of small suits in Madras and to District and Military Panchâyats in that Presidency.

CHAPTER I.—OF THE JURISDICTION OF THE COURTS AND RES JUDICATA.

We have amended the section (13) as to res judicata (a) by extending it so as to provide for estoppels against defendants, (b) by explaining, in accordance with a decision in 10 Bom. 293, that any matter which might and ought to have been made ground of defence in a former suit brought by the defendant against the plaintiff shall be deemed to be a matter substantially in issue in such suit, and (c) by providing that decisions alterable on review may be final within the meaning of this section. We have also struck out the clause relating to decisions obtained by arrangement; and we have omitted the illustrations as unnecessary.

CHAPTER II.—OF THE PLACE OF SUING.

We have here provided (section 15) for the venue of suits for compensation for wrongs to immoveable property. In section 19 we have provided for giving notice of motions to stay proceedings where the whole cause of action did not arise within the jurisdiction and all the defendants do not reside therein. Where a Court stays proceedings, we have declared (section 20) that the time required for proceeding from that Court to the Court in which the suit is re-instituted shall be excluded in computing the proper period of limitation.

We have provided (sections 21, 22, 23) for giving notice to the plaintiff where the defendant applies to transfer a suit capable of being instituted in different Courts (a) subordinate to the same Appellate Court, or (b) not so subordinate.

CHAPTER III.—OF PARTIES, THEIR APPEARANCES, APPLICATIONS AND ACTS.

For sections 27, 28, 29, 30, 40 and 41 of Bill No. III, we have substituted eight sections as to parties, taken, with some modifications, from the Orders framed under the Supreme Court of Judicature Act, 1875.

We have provided (section 37) that certificated mukhtárs holding special powers of attorney may be recognized agents, and declared that in the Panjáb, Oudh and the Central Provinces recognized agents shall be such persons as the Local Government may by notification declare. This will enable the Local Government to keep, if it thinks fit, the special rules on this subject now in force in those territories.

We have amended the section (41) relating to the appointment of agents to receive process.

CHAPTER IV.—OF THE FRAME OF THE SUIT.

For the sections (44, 45, 46, 47) of Bill No. III, as to joinder of causes of action and multifariousness, we have substituted four sections taken from the Orders above mentioned. When the plaint is amended by excluding any cause of action, we have provided (section 47) that the amendment shall be attested by the Judge's signature.

CHAPTER V.—OF THE INSTITUTION OF SUITS.

We have here provided (section 49) that where English is not the language of the Court, the plaint may, with the permission of the Judge and the consent of the defendant, be in English.

Where the plaintiff has allowed a set-off, or relinquished part of his claim, we have required (section 50) that his plaint should state the amount so allowed or relinquished.

We think that, when once issues have been settled, the plaint should not be rejected, returned for amendment or amended; and we have altered section 53 (=52 of Bill No. III) accordingly. We have provided (section 52) for examining the witness to the verification. We have provided (section 54) for the rejection, &c., of the plaint if it is not framed so as to afford ground for a single decision on the whole subject in dispute and for the attestation of the amendments by the signature of the Judge. Where a plaint is returned we have required (section 57) that the endorsement be made by the Judge himself.

When the plaint is admitted we have required (section 58) the plaintiff to present as many copies as there are defendants, unless the Court permits him to file a like number of concise statements of the nature of the claim made, in which case he will file a like number of such statements. We have made provision in the same section for ascertaining the correctness of these copies and statements and of the memoranda of documents filed with the plaint.

Where the plaintiff relies on documents not in his possession, we have provided (section 60) that he shall state in whose possession they are, and where they are in the possession of a stranger to the suit, that he shall take out a summons requiring them to be filed in Court.

From the operation of the section (63) declaring the inadmissibility as evidence for the plaintiff of documents not produced when the plaint is filed, we have excluded documents produced for the examination of the defendant's witnesses or in answer to any case set up by him.

CHAPTER VI.—OF THE ISSUE AND SERVICE OF SUMMONS.

We have provided (section 65) that no summons to the defendant to appear and answer shall be issued when he has appeared at the presentation of the plaint and admitted the plaintiff's claim.

Even where railway communication exists, we think that no party should be ordered to appear in person who resides more than two hundred miles from the Court-house, and we altered section 67 (=section 64 of Bill No. III) accordingly.

Where the defendants are partners, we have provided (section 74) for service of the summons on any person having the management of the partnership business.

For the purpose of the section (76) relating to service on an agent by whom the defendant carries on business, we have declared that the master of a ship is the agent of the owner or charterer.

We think (section 81) that the practice of fixing a copy of the summons on the defendant's house should be discontinued, and that when he refuses to receive the copy or sign the acknowledgment of service, and where the serving-officer cannot find the defendant, and there is no one on whom service can be made, the serving-officer should return the summons with an endorsement that he has been unable to serve it, and we have required (section 82) the Court to examine him on oath touching the non-service. A similar provision, where the summons is sent to another Court to be served, is made in section 85.

We have inserted a section (84 = section 58 of Act VIII of 1859) providing that when service is substituted by order of the Court, a time shall be fixed for the defendant's appearance.

We have provided (section 95) for the service of notices and orders in writing.

CHAPTER VII.—OF THE APPEARANCE OF THE PARTIES AND CONSEQUENCE OF NON-APPEARANCE.

Where neither party appears, we think (section 98) that the suit need not be dismissed when the Judge for reasons recorded under his hand otherwise directs. Where the plaintiff does not appear, but the defendant appears and admits part only of the plaintiff's claim, we have provided (section 102) that the Court shall dismiss the suit so far as relates to the remainder. Where the defendant appears and the suit is wholly or partially dismissed owing to the non-appearance of the plaintiff, and the plaintiff applies for an order to set the dismissal aside, we have provided in the same section that the defendant shall be served with notice of the application.

We have added to this chapter sections corresponding with chapter XXIII of Bill No. III as to setting aside decrees by default and ex parte.

CHAPTER VIII.—OF WRITTEN STATEMENTS AND SET-OFF.

To the section corresponding with section 105 of Bill No. III, we have added a few illustrations and a clause expressly providing that where the defendant, for the purpose of bringing the sum to be set-off within the pecuniary limits of the Court's jurisdiction, intentionally relinquishes any portion of his claim against the plaintiff, the provision in section 43, barring subsequent suits for sums so relinquished by plaintiffs, shall not apply.

We have allowed (section 112) written statements to be received, with the permission of the Court, at any time for the purpose of answering written statements made by the opposite party at the first hearing. And we think (section 115) that the Court should be expressly empowered to examine witnesses as to the signatures to written statements.

We have provided (section 117) that allegations of fact in written statements shall, if not denied, or stated to be not admitted, by the opposite party, be taken to be admitted for the purposes of the suit. We have here made no exception of minors and persons of unsound mind, and in this respect, and in the insertion of the words italicised, the section differs from the English Order XIX, rule 17.

CHAPTER IX.—OF THE EXAMINATION OF THE PARTIES BY THE COURT.

We have here provided (section 118) that the Court may, if it think fit, put in the course of the examination questions suggested by either party, and (section 119) that the substance of the examination shall be reduced to writing by the Judge and form part of the record.

CHAPTER X.—OF DISCOVERY AND OF THE ADMISSION, INSPECTION, PRODUCTION, IMPOUNDING AND RETURN OF DOCUMENTS.

The first seven sections of this chapter are new. They empower parties to deliver interrogatories in writing and provide for inquiring into the propriety of exhibiting them, for striking out improper interrogatories, for making objections to answering interrogatories, and for compelling persons to answer sufficiently. They correspond with the English Order XXXI, rules 1 to 10.

As to the admission of documents, we have amended section 128 (=113 of Bill No. III) by requiring the demand for admission to be served through the Court.

We have inserted sections (129, 130) empowering the Court to order production during the suit, and to direct parties to make discovery of documents relating to matters in question. And we have amplified (sections 131, 132, 133) the section (114) of Bill No. III relating to inspection of documents.

Where any discovery or inspection is objected to, and the Court is satisfied that the right to such discovery or inspection depends on the determination of any question in dispute in the suit, we have empowered (section 135) the Court to order that question to be first determined.

We have declared (section 136) that any person disobeying any order to answer interrogatories or for discovery or inspection, which has been served personally upon him, shall be deemed guilty of an offence under section 188 of the Penal Code, and that he shall also, if a plaintiff, be liable to have his suit dismissed, and, if a defendant, to be placed in the same position as if he had not defended.

The power which the Courts now possess under Act VIII of 1859, section 138, of sending for papers from nonjudicial public offices has, we find, been abused. We have therefore withdrawn this power, and persons applying to the Court to send for papers from judicial records will be required (section 137) to show that they cannot obtain the originals or authenticated copies.

We have expressly confined the section (138) requiring documentary evidence to be in readiness at the first hearing to documents in the possession or power of the parties.

We have provided (section 141) that no document shall be placed on the record unless it has been regularly proved or admitted. In the absence of such a provision questions frequently arise on appeal as to whether a document was in evidence or not.

We have provided (section 144) for the return of documents in suits in which an appeal is not allowed, and in all cases we have authorized their return when certified copies are delivered to the proper officer.

CHAPTER XI.—OF THE SETTLEMENT OF ISSUES.

We have exempted (section 146) the Court from the duty of framing and recording issues where the defendant at the first hearing makes no defence. When issues both of law and of fact arise in the same suit, and the Court considers that the case may be disposed of on the issues of law only, we have provided in the same section that the Court shall (not 'may') try the issues of law first. This, we think, will save expense, and will prevent cases being remanded for trial of issues of fact which, in the result, prove wholly irrelevant. As to issues by agreement of parties, we have provided (section 150) that, unless with the special permission of the Judge, no such agreement shall be filed after the Court has recorded issues in the suit.

CHAPTER XII.—OF THE DISPOSAL OF THE SUIT AT THE FIRST HEARING.

We have here made no change requiring notice.

CHAPTER XIII.—OF ADJOURNMENTS.

We think that the provision in section 138 of Bill No. III that, when the hearing of evidence has once begun, the hearing of the suit shall not be adjourned, except from day to day, might occasionally have led to great inconvenience. We have therefore in section 156 substituted the following: "Provided that, when the hearing of evidence has once begun, the hearing of the suit shall be continued from day to day until all the witnesses in attendance have been examined, unless the Court finds the adjournment of the hearing to be absolutely necessary for reasons to be recorded by the hand of the Judge."

CHAPTER XIV.—OF THE SUMMONING AND ATTENDANCE OF WITNESSES.

We have omitted the power to insert in a summons the names of any number of persons. We have declared (section 165) that the rules contained in chapter VI as to proof of service shall apply in the case of all summonses served on persons required to give evidence or produce documents. Before attaching the property of a witness alleged to have absconded, we think that the serving officer should be examined on oath touching the non-service, and we have made a provision to this effect in section 167. We have omitted as useless the provision of the present law as to payment by the Collector of the costs of summoning a witness.

We have provided (section 173) that no witness who has been summoned and attends shall depart, unless he has been examined and the Court has risen, or he has obtained the Court's leave to go.

We have empowered (section 174) the Court to inflict a fine of Rs. 500 on persons failing to prove that they had a lawful excuse for not obeying the summons; and we have provided that non-payment or non-tender of reasonable viaticum shall be deemed a lawful excuse. When any such person is brought before the Court and cannot, owing to the absence of parties, give the evidence or produce the document which he has been summoned to produce or give, we have by the same section authorized the Court to release him on bail.

We have declared (section 177) that no witness shall be bound to attend in person unless he resides (a) within the local limits of the Court's original jurisdiction, or (b) without those limits and less than fifty or (where there is railway communication) two hundred miles from the Court-house. It is obvious that there should be some limit beyond which parties should not be required to travel even by railway.

We have struck out the six sections (157 to 163 of Bill No. III) relating to the examination of parties as witnesses. This matter seems sufficiently provided for by the declaration contained in section 178 (=section 165 of Bill No. III), that when any party to a suit is summoned as a witness, the rules as to witnesses contained in the Code shall apply to him so far as they are applicable.

CHAPTER XV.—OF THE HEARING OF THE SUIT AND EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES.

We have inserted (section 179) rules as to the right to begin.

We have provided (section 184) that any Judge may take down the evidence in English if the Local Government permits him to do so, or if the parties do not object.

Where the Judge taking down any evidence is removed from the Court before the conclusion of the suit, we have empowered (section 191) his successor to deal with the evidence as if he himself had taken it down.

Where a witness about to leave the jurisdiction is examined immediately, we have provided (section 192) that his evidence before being used as such shall be read over to him and, if he admits it to be correct, signed by him.

We have empowered the Court (section 193), at any stage of the suit, to recall and re-examine a witness who has not departed.

CHAPTER XVI.—OF AFFIDAVITS.

This chapter is wholly new. It empowers the Court to order any particular fact to be proved by affidavit: provides that evidence may be given by affidavit on any application or petition: indicates the matters to which affidavits should be confined: and lastly, specifies the officers by whom the oaths of declarants may be administered.

CHAPTER XVII.—OF JUDGMENT AND DECREE.

In accordance with a ruling of the Calcutta High Court, we have authorized (section 199) a Judge to deliver a judgment written by his predecessor but not delivered.

We think that, as a rule, the judgment should be written in the language of the Court, but we have provided (section 200) that if such language be not English or the Judge's mother-tongue, the judgment may be written either in English or his mother-tongue. We think (section 201) that the judgment need not be translated, unless any of the parties so require.

We have provided (section 202) that the judgment shall not be altered or added to, save to correct verbal errors or on review.

We think (section 203) that all judgments (save those of Small Cause Courts) should contain a concise statement of the case in addition to the matters mentioned in section 183 of Bill No. III.

We have provided (section 205) that the Judge before signing the decree shall satisfy himself that it has been drawn up in accordance with the judgment.

We have given power to amend the decree not only when it is at variance with the judgment, but also in case of clerical or arithmetical errors: but in all such cases we have provided (section 206) for notice to the parties or their pleaders.

In money-decrees, we think (section 209) that the interest allowed from the date of the decree should not exceed six per cent. per annum. This, we hope, will abolish the practice of treating such decrees as desirable investments.

We think (section 210) that no application for an order to pay the amount of a decree by instalments should be allowed after six months from the date of the decree, and we have provided for notice to the plaintiff of such applications.

In administering the assets of persons dying after the Code comes into force, we have provided (section 213) that the Courts shall be guided by the same rules as to rights of creditors, proveable debts and valuation of annuities, and future and contingent liabilities, as are in force as to the estates of persons adjudged insolvent, and that all persons who would be entitled to dividends out of the estate of any such deceased person, may come in under the decree and make their claims against the estate. We have declared in the same section that applications under section 265 of the Indian Contract Act, to wind up the business of a partnership, shall be deemed to be administration suits.

We think (section 216) that certified copies of the judgment and decree should not be furnished except at the expense of the parties applying for them.

CHAPTER XVIII.—OF COSTS.

We have here made no substantial change.

CHAPTER XIX.—OF THE EXECUTION OF DECREES.

We have distributed the matter of this long and important chapter under eight heads, namely, (a) Courts by which decrees may be executed, (b) application for execution, (c) staying execution, (d) the mode of executing decrees, (e) attachment of property, (f) sale and delivery of property, (g) resistance to execution, and (h) arrest and imprisonment.

Courts by which decrees may be executed.

For section 330 of Bill No. III, we have substituted a section (223) as to the Court by which a decree may be executed, and prescribing the procedure for sending a decree for execution to a Court other than that which passed it. When the Court passing the decree is subordinate to a District Court, we think it should send the decree to the District Court to which it is subordinate and that such Court should deal with the decree as if it had been passed by itself.

Application for execution.

When a decree has been transferred by assignment, we have provided (section 232) that notice of any application to execute it shall be given to the transferor and the judgment-debtor, and that it shall not be executed until the Court has heard their objections (if any) to such execution.

When the judgment-debtor dies before the decree is fully executed, and application is made to have it executed against his legal representative to the extent of the assets which are in his hands, we have empowered (section 234) the Court to compel the representative to produce his accounts.

We think (section 235) that applications for the execution of decrees should be verified like plaints, and that they should state whether any and what previous applications have been made, and with what result.

We have provided (section 236) for the verification of the descriptions of immoveable property sought to be attached.

The mode of executing decrees.

In section 244 (=section 329 of Bill No. III) we have omitted the clause as to questions relating to sums alleged to have been paid in discharge or satisfaction of a decree. This will get rid of the ambiguity arising from the provisions of section 206 of Act VIII of 1859 as compared with section 11 of Act XXIII of 1861.

We have directed (section 245) that applications for execution shall be rejected or returned for amendment when the needful particulars or inventories are wanting. Every such amendment will be attested by the Judge's signature. We have provided in the same section that in executing a decree for money, the value of the property attached shall as nearly as possible correspond with the amount of the decree.

We have omitted as useless the clause as to the execution of a decree for the share of a dwelling-house of an undivided Hindú family.

When a decree against a surety is executed, we have provided (section 253) for giving him previous notice.

We have introduced a section (254 = Order xlii, Rule 8) providing for the execution of a decree against partners in the name of the firm.

We have provided (section 258) that, when moneys payable under a decree are paid out of Court to the decree-holder, he shall certify the payment to the Court whose duty it is to execute the decree. We have omitted the proviso in section 203 of Bill No. III that decrees for the recovery of wives were to be declaratory only. We are informed that, in the Panjáb at least, such a rule would have worked unsatisfactorily.

We have provided (section 260) for the enforcement of injunctions, and declared in the same section that no attachment issued to enforce an injunction, or a decree for specific performance, shall remain in force for more than a year.

Attachment of Property.

We have exempted (section 266) from attachment and sale in execution of a decree the following articles:—the necessary wearing apparel of the judgment-debtor's wife and children, the tools of artizans: implements of husbandry: cattle kept bonâ fide for agricultural purposes: the materials of houses and other buildings belonging to and occupied by agriculturists: political pensions: the salaries of servants of Railway Companies: the pay and allowances of persons to whom the Native Articles of War apply: the wages of labourers and domestic servants.

We think that general attachments of the moveable property of judgment-debtors should no longer be permitted, and we have accordingly struck out the clauses (210, 235, 236, and part of 231) of Bill No. III relating to this subject. Ample power to obtain discovery as to such property is given by section 267.

We have provided (section 268) that no attachment to enforce a decree for a specific moveable shall remain in force for more than six months, at the end of which time, if the judgment-debtor has not obeyed the decree, the property attached may be sold, and out of the proceeds the Court may award the decree-holder such compensation as it thinks fit, and pay the balance to the judgment-debtor.

We have empowered (section 269) the Local Government to make rules for the maintenance and custody of livestock and other moveable property while under attachment, and directed the attaching officer to act in accordance with such rules.

We have provided rules (section 271) for the attachment of moveable property in rooms actually occupied by native women.

We have introduced a section (273) dealing with the attachment of decrees.

We have provided (section 275) for withdrawing an attachment when the decree under which it has been made is set aside or reversed.

We have struck out the section (307 of Bill No. III = section 272 of Act VIII of 1859) empowering the Court to order the proceeds of property attached under a decree obtained fraudulently to be paid in satisfaction of another decree. The power is rarely used, and the case contemplated is, we think, one for a regular suit, not a summary proceeding.

Sale and delivery of Property.

We think (section 288) that the proclamation of execution sales should state the incumbrances (if any) to which the interest about to be sold is liable, and we have provided that no Judge, &c., shall be answerable for error in the proclamation unless it has been committed dishonestly.

We have struck out the clause (section 280 of Bill No. III) allowing process for attachment and sale of moveables to be issued either successively or simultaneously.

We have provided (section 291) for adjournments of execution-sales, and for stopping them on tender of the debt and costs, or on proof that the amount has been paid into the Court which ordered the sale.

We have forbidden (section 292) all officers conducting or otherwise concerned in sales to bid for or purchase the property sold.

In lieu of providing that the attaching creditor shall be first paid out of the assets realized, and that the surplus shall be distributed amongst the other execution-creditors, we have declared (section 295) that such assets shall (after deducting the costs) be divided rateably among all persons who have, prior to the realization, applied for execution of money-decrees against the judgment-debtor and have not obtained satisfaction. We have also provided that when any property liable to be sold in execution is subject to a mortgage, the Court may, with the assent of the mortgagee, order that the property be sold free from the mortgage, giving to the mortgagee, the same right against the proceeds as he had against the property sold.

Courts inferior to District Courts should not, in our opinion (section 303), have power to sell immoveable property in execution of a decree; but when any such inferior Court thinks that such a sale should be made, we have provided (section 304) that such Court shall refer the case to the District Court to which it is subordinate, and declared that the District Court may then sell as if the decree had been made by itself.

We have amended the section (309) empowering the co-sharer in an undivided estate to claim at sale price a share of such estate sold in execution. If the claim be made before sunset on the day of sale and the claimant then repay to the purchaser the amount of his deposit, the claimant will be substituted for the auction-purchaser.

We have fixed (section 312) sixty days as the time within which the purchaser of immoveable property may apply to set aside the sale on the ground that the judgment-debtor had no legally saleable interest therein.

We have by section 316 provided (in accordance with Act XI of 1859, section 28, and Schedule A) that the purchase shall be deemed to take effect from the date of the attachment.

As to sales of land by Collectors, we have substituted for section 276 of Bill No. III a clause (320) providing that the Local Government may, transfer to the Collector of any District the execution of decrees in cases in which a Court has ordered any interest in immoveable property to be sold. And we think (section 321) that whenever the execution of a decree has been so transferred, the Collector, if he thinks that the debts of the judgment-debtor can be discharged without a sale of the whole of the property, should, notwithstanding the order, have power to sell only part, or to mortgage the whole or any part, of the land, or to let or manage it himself for a term not exceeding twenty years from the date of the order. Where the Collector lets or manages we have provided (sections 322, 323) for giving notice to the judgment-creditors to come in; for excluding all other claimants from any right to payment out of the proceeds; for preventing the debtor from incumbering during the term the property so let or managed; and, if at the end of the term the requisite amount has not been raised, for selling such property. Where the Collector sells or exercises the power to mortgage, let or manage, we have required him (section 324) to inform the Court which made the order of sale, to render accounts to such Court and to hold the balance in his hands at its disposal.

Where the sale of immoveable property has been postponed to enable the judgment-debtor to raise the amount of the decree, and the Court authorizes him to sell, mortgage or let the property, we have provided (section 324) that all moneys payable under such sale, mortgage or lease shall be paid into Court and not to the judgment-debtor.

We have omitted (section 325) as unnecessary the power to order security to be taken from the defendant when the Court authorizes the Collector to stay the public sale of land. We have expressly empowered the Local Government (section 326) to make special rules for any territory prohibiting the sale of any class of interests in land in execution of money-decrees.

Arrest and Imprisonment.

We have provided (section 335) that a judgment-debtor may be arrested in execution at any hour and on any day, and that he shall thereupon be brought before the Court, except when the decree is for money and the judgment-debtor pays the amount of the decree and the costs of the arrest. When he is brought before the Court we have directed the Judge to inform him that he may obtain relief under Chapter XX, and if he express his intention so to apply, and if he furnish security for his appearance at any time when called upon, the Court will release him.

When the judgment-debtor fails to pay the amount of principal and interest, we have directed (section 337) the serving-officer to bring him before the Court, and when the serving-officer cannot execute the warrant, we think (section 343) that the Court should examine him on oath as to his inability.

We think (section 339) that no judgment-debtor should be arrested unless and until the decree-holder pays into Court a proper sum for the subsistence of the judgment-debtor from his arrest until he is brought before the Court. We have empowered the Local Government to fix scales of monthly allowances for the subsistence of judgment-debtors in prison.

As to imprisonment in execution of a decree, we have provided (section 341) that a judgment-debtor may be discharged from jail without the order of the Court when the term of his imprisonment is completed; and we think (section 342) that no person should be imprisoned for a longer period than six months, or when the decree is for the payment of a sum not more than Rs. 50, for a longer period than six weeks.

CHAPTER XX.—INSOLVENT JUDGMENT-DEBTORS.

We have here made numerous small amendments, the chief of which are the following:—As to fraudulent transfers, we think (section 351) that the Court need only see that they were not made within two months next before the date of the decree in execution of which the insolvent was arrested or imprisoned. We have provided (section 352) that all creditors, whether mentioned or not in the debtor's application, shall prove their debts. We have provided (section 355) that the receiver of the insolvent's property shall give security, and (section 356) that he may retain as remuneration five per cent. upon the amount of the balance distributed to the creditors. And we have reduced (section 359) from two years to one year the term for which a fraudulent insolvent may be imprisoned.

CHAPTER XXI.—OF THE DEATH, MARRIAGE AND INSOLVENCY OF PARTIES.

We have added two illustrations to the section (361) as to non-abatement by death where the cause of action survives.

We have provided a limitation (sections 364, 366) for applications under this chapter.

When a suit abates or is dismissed under this chapter, we have permitted (section 371) the person claiming to be the plaintiff's representative to apply to set aside the order of abatement or dismissal.

We have provided (section 372) for cases of assignment pending the suit.

CHAPTER XXII.—OF THE WITHDRAWAL AND ADJUSTMENT OF SUITS.

We have provided here (section 373) for the case of abandonment of part of the plaintiff's claim, and (section 375) for the finality of decrees passed in accordance with compromises. We have made no other substantial change.

CHAPTER XXIII.—OF PAYMENT INTO COURT.

We have given the Court (section 376) a discretionary power with regard to the payment of deposits in Court to the plaintiff.

Where the Court decides that the defendant's deposit was a full satisfaction of the plaintiff's claim, we have provided (section 379) that the plaintiff shall pay, not the costs of the suit, but the costs incurred after the deposit and the costs incurred previous thereto, so far as they were caused by excess in the plaintiff's claim.

CHAPTER XXIV.—OF REQUIRING SECURITY FOR COSTS.

We think that the plaintiff should not be required to furnish security for costs unless a defendant so require. We have altered this chapter (section 380) accordingly.

CHAPTER XXVI.—OF COMMISSIONS.

When a Court inferior to a District Court issues a commission to examine a person residing within its jurisdiction, we have provided (section 385) that the selection of the person to execute the commission shall be subject to such rules as the District Court may prescribe.

We have provided (section 386) that any District Court and Court of Small Causes may issue commissions for the examination of officers of Government who cannot attend the Court without detriment to the public service, and of persons who are about to leave the jurisdiction before the date on which the suit in which their evidence is required is set down for hearing.

No Court inferior to a District Court, other than a Court of Small Causes, should, we think, issue commissions for the examination of persons resident beyond its jurisdiction. We have made a provision to this effect in section 386.

We have declared (section 391) that the provisions contained in this chapter as to the execution and return of commissions shall apply to commissions issued by Foreign Courts. We have struck out the section (385 of the Bill No. III) as to taking the evidence of prisoners. The matter is sufficiently provided for by the Prisoners' Testimony Act.

We have extended to proceedings as well as to suits the sections (392, 395) as to commissions for local investigations, and to examine accounts. In the case of the former class of commissions, when the Local Government has made rules as to the persons to be appointed commissioners, we have required the Court to comply with such rules.

CHAPTER XXVI.—SUITS BY PAUPERS.

We have added (section 402) libel to the list of civil injuries in respect of which a pauper should not be allowed to sue as such.

We think (section 407) that a pauper suing on the original side of the High Court should show that he does not possess property worth Rs. 100 except his wearing apparel and the subject-matter of the suit; and as to fraudulent disposals of property by a pauper, we have provided that the Court need only consider whether such disposal was effected within the two months next before the presentation of the pauper's petition.

We have struck out the sections (406, 407 of Bill No. III) authorizing parties to obtain summonses to witnesses and empowering the Court to make local investigations.

We have provided (section 411) that the Court-fees which would have been payable by the plaintiff, if he had not been allowed to sue as a pauper, shall be a first charge on the subject-matter, if any, recovered by him.

We think (section 414) the plaintiff should be dispaupered if he has entered into any agreement under which any other person has obtained an interest in the subject-matter of the suit.

CHAPTER XXVII.—SUITS BY OR AGAINST GOVERNMENT AND PUBLIC OFFICERS.

We think (section 416) that suits against Government and against public officers for acts done in their official capacity should not be instituted in any Court inferior to a District Court (a similar provision is made by the Bombay Civil Courts Act XIV of 1869, section 32); but we have provided that any such suit may be transferred to a subordinate Court.

We think (section 420) that in suits against a public officer, as well as in those against Government, the summons should be served on the Government Pleader, or on some person appointed to receive process in behalf of Government.

We have provided (section 424) that no suit shall be brought against Government or against a public officer as such until two months next after delivery of a notice in writing, stating the cause of action and the name and residence of the intending plaintiff. We have also provided that every suit against a public officer must be commenced within six months next after the accrual of the cause of action. Similar provisions are contained in the Police Act (V of 1861), section 42, and in various Municipal Acts.

CHAPTER XXVIII.—SUITS BY ALIENS AND BY OR AGAINST FOREIGN AND NATIVE RULERS.

We have laid down rules (section 430) as to when aliens may sue in the Courts of British India. We have declared (section 431) that a Foreign State may sue in our Courts, provided that it has been recognized by the Governor General in Council, and that the object of the suit is to enforce the private rights of the head or of the subjects of the Foreign State. We have also declared in the same section that the Courts shall take judicial notice of the fact that a Foreign State has not been recognized by our Government. We have barred suits (section 433) against Sovereign Princes, ruling Chiefs, ambassadors and envoys, except with the consent of Government, and declared that such consent shall not be given except in certain cases. We have exempted their persson from arrest under the Code, and we have declared that no decree shall be executed against their property unless with the permission in writing of a Secretary to Government. We have provided (section 434) for the execution in British India of the decrees of the Courts of Native States in alliance with Her Majesty.

CHAPTER XXIX.—SUITS BY AND AGAINST CORPORATIONS AND COMPANIES,

and

CHAPTER XXX.—SUITS BY AND AGAINST TRUSTEES, EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS.

We have made no change in either of the above chapters.

CHAPTER XXXI.—SUITS BY AND AGAINST MINORS AND PERSONS OF UNSOUND MIND.

We have provided (section 442) that notice of application to take off the file plaints filed by or on behalf of minors without next friends, shall be given to the person presenting the plaint. We have altered section 445 (= section 439 of Bill No. III) so as to enable married women to act as next friends. We have required (section 443) the Court in every case, on being satisfied of a defendant's minority, to appoint a guardian ad litem, and have consequently omitted the sections (453 and 454 of Bill No. III) as to the assignment of a guardian at the instance of the plaintiff. We have taken the opportunity of declaring (section 443), contrary to the recent decision of Pontifex, J., that a guardian ad litem is not a guardian of person or property within the meaning of the Indian Majority Act, 1875. We have struck out as unsuited to the Mufassal the rule requiring an order to change a minor's pleader, and the rule against not giving a day to shew cause, when a decree is made against a minor defendant, and as to making payment to the receiver of money, &c., decreed to a minor. We have omitted from section 463, the provision as to the nature of the evidence contained in the corresponding section (462) of Bill No. III. We have exempted (section 464) from several sections of this chapter minors under the jurisdiction of the Court of Wards, and minors for whose persons or property guardians or managers have been appointed by the Civil Courts under any local law.

CHAPTER XXXII.—SUITS BY AND AGAINST MILITARY MEN.

We have here provided (section 463) for the case where the soldier concerned is serving in military staff employment.

CHAPTER XXXIII.—INTERPLEADER.

We have here merely amended the drafting of two of the sections.

CHAPTER XXXIV.—OF ARREST AND ATTACHMENT BEFORE JUDGMENT.

We have expressly stated (section 477) that the suits in which plaintiffs may apply that security be taken for the defendant's appearance, are suits other than suits for the possession of immoveable property. Where the defendant is imprisoned for failing to give security, we think (section 481) that the maximum term of imprisonment should be six months.

We have provided (section 482) that subsistence allowance shall be paid into Court in the case of every arrest under this chapter.

We have provided (section 488) for removing the attachment when the suit is dismissed. Where property is attached under this chapter, and a decree is given in favour of the plaintiff, we have declared (section 490) that it shall not be necessary to re-attach the property in execution of the decree.

We have struck out the section (492 of Bill No. III) empowering the Court to stay the sale of property already under attachment, when execution of a decree fraudulently obtained is applied for. The reasons for omitting section 308 of that Bill are equally applicable to section 492.

CHAPTER XXXV.—OF TEMPORARY INJUNCTIONS AND INTERLOCUTORY ORDERS.

We have empowered (section 492) the Court to grant an injunction to stay a wrongful sale in execution of a decree. We have been informed that the corresponding clause of Act VIII of 1859 (section 92, first sentence,) has been held not to apply to such a case.

We have provided (section 493) that the imprisonment by which injunctions granted under this chapter may be enforced shall not exceed six months.

We have added sections (498, 499, 500) empowering the Court to order the interim sale of perishable articles: the detention, preservation, or inspection of any property forming the subject of the suit: and, for the purposes aforesaid, the entry on or into any land or building in the possession of any party to the suit, the taking of samples, making of observations and trial of experiments. They correspond with the English Order 32, rules 2, 3 and 4.

CHAPTER XXXVI.—APPOINTMENT OF RECEIVERS AND MANAGERS.

We have here expressly provided (section 503) that Receivers and Managers shall pass their accounts, pay the balance due thereon, and be responsible for loss occasioned by their wilful default or gross negligence. We think (section 505) that the powers conferred by this chapter should be exercised only by High Courts and District Courts.

CHAPTER XXXVII.—REFERENCE TO ARBITRATION.

Where an umpire is appointed, we have required (section 509) the Court to fix a reasonable time for the delivery of his award.

We have provided (section 514) for superseding the arbitration where, owing to the fault of the parties, the arbitrator cannot complete his award within the specified period.

We have provided (section 522) that decrees following judgments according to awards shall be final.

When the arbitrator is not named in an agreement to refer, and the parties cannot agree as to the nomination, we have empowered (section 523) the Court to nominate him.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.—OF PROCEEDINGS ON AGREEMENT OF PARTIES.

We have here merely added a direction (section 527) that cases stated under this chapter shall be divided into consecutively numbered paragraphs, and concisely state such facts and documents as may be necessary to enable the Court to decide the questions raised thereby.

CHAPTER XXXIX.—OF SUMMARY PROCEDURE ON NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS.

This chapter corresponds with 18 & 19 Vic., c. 67 and Act V of 1866, sections 2 to 8. We have here declared (in accordance with decisions of Bramwell B. and Phear J.) that the defendant shall not be required to pay into Court the sum mentioned in the summons, unless the Court thinks his defence not to be primâ facie sustainable or feels reasonable doubt as to its good faith. And we have taken the opportunity of declaring (contrary to the decision of the latter Judge) that the clause corresponding with Act V of 1866, section 2, is not confined to cases in which the bill sued upon, together with mere lapse of time, is sufficient to establish a primâ facie right to recover.

Act V of 1866 is now in force in the Charter High Courts, the Chief Court of the Panjáb, the Rangoon Recorder's Court, and the Small Cause Court of Madras. We propose (section 538) to extend the corresponding chapter of the Code also to the Small Cause Courts of Calcutta and Bombay and to the Court of the Judge of Karáchi.

We have omitted chapter XLI of Bill No. III (Bar of Appeals not expressly permitted) as unnecessary. No appeal can lie unless it is allowed by the Code or some other law for the time being in force.

CHAPTER XL.—OF APPEALS FROM ORIGINAL DECREES.

We have struck out the clause requiring appeals to the High Court to be heard by two or more Judges. It would limit the discretion expressly conferred by Act of Parliament and Royal Charter.

We have provided (section 540) that the memorandum of appeal shall be presented by the appellant or his pleader, and shall be accompanied by a copy not only of the decree, but also of the judgment on which the decree is founded.

We have struck out, as likely to work unsatisfactorily, the provisions contained in sections 548—553 of Bill No. III, which authorize the appellant merely to state generally his dissatisfaction with the decree appealed against, and to file his grounds of objection separately.

Where a memorandum of appeal is amended, we have required (section 543) the Judge to attest the amendment.

We have empowered (section 550) the appellate Court, after hearing the appellant, if he appears, to confirm the decision appealed against without sending notice of the appeal to the lower Court or serving such notice on the respondent. A similar rule exists in the Panjáb (Act IX of 1873, section 7), and has been found to work well.

We have laid down rules (section 555) as to the right to begin (a) where the appeal is from the whole decree, (b) where there are cross-appeals, and (c) where the appeal is from only a portion of the decree and there is no cross-appeal.

We have provided (section 560) a period of limitation for applications to re-hear, where judgment has been given ex-parte against the respondent.

Where a case is remanded with direction to take specified evidence, we have authorized (section 563) the Court to receive evidence tendered to contradict evidence so taken.

We have redrawn the section (575 = section 589 of Bill No. III) as to decisions of appeals heard by Benches of two or more Judges who differ. When there is no majority on the Appellate Bench which concurs in reversing or varying the decree appealed against, we think that decree should stand.

We have omitted as useless the provision as to sealing the decree in appeal.

CHAPTER XLI.—OF APPEALS FROM APPELLATE DECREES.

We have struck out the clause requiring the pleader presenting an appeal to certify that the grounds are reasonable, and forbidding him to give such certificate unless he has been authorized by the High Court. We have also omitted the clause declaring that an application for a second appeal shall be argued only by the pleader signing such certificate.

CHAPTER XLII.—OF APPEALS FROM ORDERS.

We have declared (section 588) that an appeal shall lie from orders determining whether immoveable property is or is not within the local limits, from orders striking out or adding the names of persons as plaintiffs or defendants, from orders under section 44 adding a cause of action, from orders under section 47 excluding a cause of action, from orders under section 234 as to questions relating to the execution of decrees, from orders under section 176 where a party refuses to give evidence called for by the Court, from orders rejecting applications under section 371, from orders disallowing objections under section 373, and from orders under section 518 modifying an award.

Appeals from orders in insolvency will in all cases lie (section 589) directly to the High Court.

CHAPTER XLIII.—OF PAUPER APPEALS.

Except some trifling omissions, we have made no change in this chapter.

CHAPTER XLIV.—OF APPEALS TO THE QUEEN IN COUNCIL.

We have here provided (section 610) for estimating in Indian currency sums expressed in orders of Her Majesty in Council to be payable in British currency, and we have authorized (section 613) the High Courts to make rules as to the recovery of costs incurred in British India in connection with appeals to Her Majesty in Council.

CHAPTER XLV.—OF REFERENCE TO THE HIGH COURT.

We have extended (section 617) this chapter to questions arising before or in the hearing of a suit and in the execution of a decree. We have struck out the clause providing that references shall be heard by not less than two Judges of the High Court. We have provided (section 621) that when a case is referred, the High Court may alter, cancel or set aside any decree which the Court making the reference may have passed in the suit. We have omitted as useless the section requiring the High Court to fix an early day for hearing references. Our other changes here are merely verbal.

CHAPTER XLVI.—OF REVIEW OF JUDGMENT.

We think (section 622) that powers similar to those given by this chapter to High Courts may usefully be given to District Courts as to cases decided by subordinate Courts, including Courts of Small Causes.

We have struck out the clause empowering an appellant to abandon his appeal and apply for a review. We have extended the clause (624) forbidding (except in certain cases) applications for review of judgments to be made to Judges other than those who delivered them, to cases in which a clerical error has been discovered on the face of the decree. Where the business of the Court whose judgment is sought to be reviewed has been transferred to another Court, we have authorized (section 626) the application to be made to the latter Court. But we think (section 624) that except on the discovery of some new and important matter or evidence or of some clerical error apparent on the face of the decree, no application for the review of a judgment should be made to any Judge other than the Judge who delivered it. Where a review is granted, we have required (section 626) the Judge to record with his own hand his reasons for so doing.

We have omitted the clauses forbidding subordinate Courts to grant reviews without permission of the higher Court.

We think (section 629) that the order granting a review or rejecting an application for a review should be final except where the review has been granted without jurisdiction. Where the application has been rejected in consequence of the failure of the parties to appear, we have provided for restoring in proper cases the application to the file. We have also expressly forbidden the Courts to entertain applications to review orders passed on review or on applications for review.

CHAPTER XLVII.—SPECIAL RULES RELATING TO THE HIGH COURTS.

We have here omitted the following sections of Bill No. III for the reasons respectively appended thereto—

665 (as to the extraordinary original jurisdiction of the High Court): provided for by the Charters,

666 (power to High Court to provide for the exercise of its jurisdiction): ditto,

668 (decision when Judges differ): provided for in the prior part of the Bill,

670 (declaring that acts required to be done by a pleader may be done by an attorney): ditto,

672, 673 (power to refer matters for investigation in chambers): provided for by the Charters,

37, 674 (signature of the Registrar): provided for by the former part of the Bill,

675 (language): unnecessary,

676 (assessors): ditto,

677 (interlocutory orders): ditto,

678 (appearance of vakíls on the original side): can be provided for under the Charters,

681 (obtaining summonses from Registrar): unnecessary,

684 (procedure in testamentary and intestate cases): provided for by rule.

We have empowered the High Court to declare by rule what shall be deemed to be "acts not of a judicial nature," which may be done by the Registrar.

We have declared (section 640) that the following portions of the Code shall not apply to the High Court in the exercise of its ordinary and extraordinary original civil jurisdictions, viz.:—

37, recognised agents;

54, clause (a), rejection of plaint where relief sought is under-valued;

160, payment into Court of expenses of witnesses;

206, contents of decree;

263, decree for execution of conveyances or endorsement of negotiable instruments.

We have expressly empowered (section 641) the High Court to prescribe forms for its own use.

CHAPTER XLVIII.—MISCELLANEOUS.

We have struck out as now unnecessary the clause (section 686 of Bill No. III) declaring that where the highest Civil Court of appeal consists of a single Judge, he shall have the powers which were (but are not now) vested by this Code in two or more Judges.

We have amended (section 643) the rules as to the names of persons exempt from appearance in Court. We have omitted the following sections of Bill No. III—

687, 688, as to assessors (obsolete and useless),

697, as to verifying false plaints (provided for by the Penal Code),

705, as to ministerial officers (can be provided for executively),

708, as to deposits in lieu of bail (useless).

We have also struck out the clause empowering the Government of India to invest a Chief Commissioner with the powers of a Local Government under the Code. This matter is sufficiently provided for by Act XXXII of 1867.

We have redrawn the section (644) relating to exemption from arrest. It now provides that no judicial officer shall be liable to arrest under the Code while going to, presiding in, or returning from, his Court, and that the parties to a suit and their pleaders, recognized agents and witnesses shall be similarly exempt while going to or attending a Civil Court for the purpose of such suit, and while returning from such Court.

We have struck out the section (698 of Bill No. III) as to certain offences in Court not relating to documents. The matter seems sufficiently provided for by the Code of Criminal Procedure.

We have introduced a section (648 = Act XI of 1865, section 42) enabling registrars of Mufassal Courts of Small Causes to state cases for the opinion of the Judge.

We have provided (section 650) for attaching property situate outside the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court making the order of attachment.

We have provided (section 653) a punishment for escape from civil custody.

We have empowered (section 654) the High Court to make rules to regulate any matter connected with the procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature.

SCHEDULE I.—REPEALS.

We have added to this schedule the Lords Day Act (29 Car. II, c. 7): sections 8, 9, 10, 11, the second clause of section 19, sections 22 to 28 (inclusive), 42, and part of 32 of the Mufassal Small Cause Courts Act XI of 1865, parts of Acts XIV and XIX of 1865, and the unrepealed part of Act XXIV of 1866, the whole of Act X of 1867, and so much of sections 15 and 16 of Act XV of 1869 as relates to process issued by a Civil Court. We have also added Act IX of 1873, sections 7, 9 and 10, and Madras Regulation XIV of 1816, section 27.

SCHEDULE II.—SECTIONS EXTENDING TO MUFASSAL COURTS OF SMALL CAUSES.

We have made a few changes in this schedule, the most important of which is the addition of the chapters on interpleader and on reference to the High Court.

SCHEDULE IV.—FORMS.

We have added a few forms—concise statements of claim: statements of defence: temporary injunctions; and we have amended some of the forms of decrees.

We have also made numerous small changes in the wording and arrangement of the Bill, and we think that it has been so altered that it should be republished with this report in the Gazette of India and the local Gazettes, and that its further consideration should be stayed till the Council re-assembles in Calcutta.

We desire, in conclusion, to express our acknowledgments of the learning, acuteness and industry evinced by many of the communications respecting the Bill. We would in particular mention those by Mr. Pitt Kennedy the Standing Counsel, Mr. Belchambers the Registrar of the High Court at Fort William, Mr. Plowden the Government Advocate, Panjáb, Mr. Nelson of the Madras Civil Service, Messrs. Field, Maclean, Crosthwaite, and J. W. Smyth, all of the Bengal Civil Service, and Hukm Chand, Extra Assistant Commissioner, Montgomery.

THE FIRST SCHEDULE.—A.—Statute repealed.
B.—Acts repealed.
C.—Regulation repealed.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.—Chapters and sections extending to Mufassal Courts of Small Causes.

THE THIRD SCHEDULE.—Bombay enactments.

THE FOURTH SCHEDULE.—Forms.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the Laws relating to the Procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature.

Preamble. Whereas it is expedient to consolidate and amend the laws relating to the procedure of the Courts of Civil Judicature; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

PRELIMINARY.

Short title. Commencement. 1. This Act may be cited as "The Code of Civil Procedure:" and it shall come into force on the day of 1876.

Local extent. This section and section 3 extend to the whole of British India. The other sections extend to the whole of British India except the Scheduled Districts as defined in Act No. XIV of 1874.

Interpretation-clause. 2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

"chapter." "chapter" means a chapter of this Code:

"district." "District Court." "district" means the local limits of the jurisdiction of a principal civil Court of original jurisdiction, (hereinafter called a 'District Court') and includes the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of a High Court: every Court of a grade inferior to that of a District Court and every Court of Small Causes shall, for the purposes of this Code, be deemed to be subordinate to the High Court and the District Court.

"jail." "jail" means the civil jail of the district, or any place appointed by the Local Government for the confinement of persons under civil process:

"pleader." "pleader" means every person entitled to appear and plead for another in Court, and includes an Advocate, a vakíl and an attorney of a High Court:

"Collector." "Collector" means every officer performing the duties of a Collector of land-revenue:

"the cause of action." "a part of the cause of action." "the cause of action" means the whole of the circumstances which a plaintiff must allege in order to shew a right to sue, and "a part of the cause of action" means some one of those circumstances:

"judgment." "judgment" means the statement given by the Judge as the grounds of the order or decision by which a suit or appeal is determined:

"decree." "decree" means the formal order of the Court in which the result of the decision of the suit or appeal is embodied. An order on appeal, remanding a suit for re-trial, is not within this definition:

"Judge." "Judge" means the presiding officer of a Court:

"judgment-debtor." "judgment-debtor" means any person against whom a decree or order has been made:

"decree-holder." "decree-holder" means any person in whose favour a decree has been made, and includes any person to whom such decree is transferred:

"affidavit." "affidavit" means a declaration in writing sanctioned by the oath of the declarant administered by a Court or person duly authorized for that purpose:

"written." "written" includes printed and lithographed, and "writing" includes print and lithography:

"foreign Court." "foreign court" means a court situate beyond the limits of British India and not having authority in British India nor established by the Governor General in Council:

"foreign judgment." "foreign judgment" means the judgment of a foreign Court:

"public officer" defined. "public officer" means a person falling under any of the following descriptions, (namely)—

Every Judge;

Every covenanted servant of Her Majesty;

Every commissioned officer in the military or naval forces of Her Majesty while serving under Government;

Every officer of a Court of Justice whose duty it is, as such officer, to investigate or report on any matter of law or fact, or to make, authenticate, or keep any document, or to take charge or dispose of any property, or to execute any judicial process, or to administer any oath, or to interpret, or to preserve order in the Court, and every person specially authorized by a Court of Justice to perform any of such duties;

Every person who holds any office by virtue of which he is empowered to place or keep any person in confinement;

Every officer of Government whose duty it is, as such officer, to prevent offences, to give information of offences, to bring offenders to justice, or to protect the public health, safety or convenience;

Every officer whose duty it is, as such officer, to take, receive, keep, or expend any property on behalf of Government, or to make any survey, assessment, or contract on behalf of Government, or to execute any revenue process, or to investigate, or to report on any matter affecting the pecuniary interests of Government, or to make, authenticate, or keep any document relating to the pecuniary interests of Government, or to prevent the infraction of any law for the protection of the pecuniary interests of Government, and every officer in the service or pay of Government, or remunerated by fees or commission for the performance of any public duty.

"Government." And in any part of British India in which this Code operates, "Government" includes the Government of India as well as the Local Government.

Enactments repealed. 3. The enactments specified in the first schedule hereto annexed are hereby repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column of the same schedule.

References in previous Acts. But when in any Act, Regulation or Notification passed or issued prior to the day on which this Code comes into force, reference is made to Act VIII of 1859, Act XXIII of 1861, or the 'Code of Civil Procedure,' or to any other Act hereby repealed, such reference shall, so far as may be practicable, be read as applying to this Code or the corresponding part thereof;

Saving of certain Acts affecting Oudh, Panjáb, Central Provinces and Burma. 4. Save as provided in section 3, nothing herein contained shall be deemed to affect the following enactments (namely)—

The Central Provinces Courts Act, 1865:
The Panjáb Courts Act, 1865:
Act No. XXVII of 1867:
The Oudh Civil Courts Act, 1871:
The Panjáb Appeals Act, 1873:
The Burma Courts Act, 1875:

or any local law prescribing a special procedure for suits between landlord and tenant.

Sections extending to Mufassal Small Cause Courts. 5. The chapters and sections specified in the second schedule hereto annexed, extend (so far as they are applicable) to Courts of Small Causes constituted under Act No. XI of 1865. The other chapters and sections do not extend to such Courts. But nothing herein contained shall be deemed to enlarge the powers which such Courts now possess for the purposes of effecting attachments or executing decrees.

Saving of jurisdiction and procedure— 6. Nothing in this Code affects the jurisdiction or procedure—

(a) of Military Courts of Request; (a) of Military Courts of Request;

(b) of officers appointed to try small suits in Bombay; (b) of a single officer duly appointed in the Presidency of Bombay to try small suits in military bázárs at Cantonments and Stations occupied by the troops of that Presidency; or

(c) of Village Munsifs and Village Panchayats in Madras. (c) of Village Munsifs or Village Panchayats under the provisions of the Madras Code.

7. With respect to—

Saving of certain Bombay laws. (a) the jurisdiction exercised by certain jágírdárs and other authorities invested with powers under the provisions of Bombay Regulation XIII of 1830 and Act XV of 1840 in the cases therein mentioned; and

(b) cases of the nature defined in the enactments specified in the third schedule hereto annexed,

the procedure in such cases and in the appeals to the civil Courts allowed therein, shall be according to the rules laid down in this Code, except where these rules are inconsistent with any specific provisions contained in the enactments mentioned or referred to in this section.

Code not to apply to Presidency Small Cause Courts, till specially extended. 8. Save as provided in sections 25, 86, 225 and Chapter XXXIX, this Code shall not extend to any suit or proceeding in any Court of Small Causes established in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay.

But the Local Government may, by notification published in the official Gazette, extend to any such Court this Code or any part thereof, except so far as relates to appeals and reviews of judgment.

Division of Code. 9. This Code is divided into ten Parts as follows:—

The first Part: Suits in General.
The second Part: Incidental Proceedings.
The third Part: Suits in Particular Cases.
The fourth Part: Provisional Remedies.
The fifth Part: Special Proceedings.
The sixth Part: Appeals.
The seventh Part: References to the High Court.
The eighth Part: Review of Judgment.
The ninth Part: Special Rules relating to the High Court.
The tenth Part: Certain Miscellaneous Matters.

PART I.

OF SUITS IN GENERAL.

CHAPTER I.

OF THE JURISDICTION OF THE COURTS AND RES JUDICATA.

No person exempt from jurisdiction by reason of descent or place of birth. 10. No person shall, by reason of his descent or place of birth, be in any civil proceeding exempted from the jurisdiction of any of the Courts.

Courts to try all civil suits unless specially barred. 11. The Courts shall (subject to the provisions herein contained) have jurisdiction to try all suits of a civil nature excepting suits of which their cognizance is barred by any enactment for the time being in force.

Pending suits. 12. Except where a suit has been stayed under section 19, the Court shall not try any suit in which the matter in issue is also substantially in issue in a previously instituted suit between the same parties, or between parties under whom they or any of them claim, pending in the same or any other Court, whether superior or inferior, in British India, or in any Court beyond the limits of British India established by the Governor General in Council, or before Her Majesty in Council.

Explanation.—The pendency of a suit in a foreign Court does not preclude the Courts in British India from trying a suit founded on the same cause of action.

Res judicata. 13. No Court shall take cognizance of any suit, nor shall it try any issue, in which the matter substantially in issue has been heard and finally decided by a Court of competent jurisdiction, in a former suit between the same parties, or between parties under whom they or any of them claim, litigating under the same title.

Explanation I.—The matter above referred to must in the former suit have been alleged by one party and either denied or confessed, expressly or impliedly, by the other.

Explanation II.—Any matter which might and ought to have been made ground of defence in a former suit brought by the defendant against the plaintiff, shall be deemed to have been a matter substantially in issue in such suit.

Explanation III.—Where a foreign judgment is relied on, the production of the judgment duly authenticated is presumptive evidence that the Court which made it had competent jurisdiction, unless the contrary appear on the record; but such presumption may be removed by proving the want of jurisdiction.

No foreign judgment shall operate as a bar to a suit in British India—

(a) if it has not been given on the merits of the case:

(b) if it appears on the face of the proceedings to be founded on an incorrect view of international law or of any law in force in British India:

(c) if it is in the opinion of the Court before which it is produced contrary to natural justice:

(d) if it has been obtained by fraud:

(e) if it sustains a claim founded on a breach of any law in force in British India.

Explanation IV.—A decision is final within the meaning of this section when it is such as the Court making it could not alter (except on review) on the application of either party or reconsider of its own motion. A decision liable to appeal may be final within the meaning of this section until the appeal is made.

CHAPTER II.

OF THE PLACE OF SUING.

Court in which suit to be instituted. 14. Every suit shall be instituted in the Court of the lowest grade competent to try it.

Suits to be instituted where subject-matter situate. 15. Subject to the pecuniary or other limitations prescribed by any law, suits

(a) for the recovery of immoveable property,

(b) for the partition of immoveable property,

(c) for the foreclosure or redemption of a mortgage of immoveable property,

(d) for the determination of any other right to or interest to or in immoveable property,

(e) for compensation for wrong to immoveable property,

(f) for the recovery of moveable property distrained or attached, shall be instituted in the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the property is situate:

Provided that suits to obtain relief respecting immoveable property held by or on behalf of the defendant may, when the relief sought can be entirely obtained through his personal obedience, be instituted either in the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the property is situate, or in the Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction he actually or voluntarily resides, or carries on business, or personally works for gain.

Explanation.—In this section 'property' means property situate in British India.

Suits to be instituted where defendants reside or cause of action arose. 16. Subject to the limitations aforesaid, all other suits shall be instituted in a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction—

(a) all the defendants, at the time of the commencement of the suit, actually and voluntarily reside, or carry on business, or personally work for gain; or

(b) any of the defendants, at the time of the commencement of the suit, actually and voluntarily resides, or carries on business, or personally works for gain: provided that either the leave of the Court is given, or the defendants who do not reside, or carry on business, or personally work for gain as aforesaid acquiesce in such institution; or

(c) the cause of action arises; or

(d) a part of the cause of action arises.

Explanation I.—Where a person has a permanent dwelling at one place and also a lodging at another place for a temporary purpose only, he shall be deemed to reside at both places in respect of any cause of action arising at the place where he has such temporary lodging.

Explanation II.—A Corporation or Company shall be deemed to carry on business at its sole or principal office in British India or, in respect of any cause of action arising at any place where it has also a subordinate office, at such place.

Illustrations.

(a.) A is a tradesman in Calcutta. B carries on business in Delhi. B, by his agent in Calcutta, buys goods of A, and requests A to deliver them to the East Indian Railway Company. A delivers the goods accordingly in Calcutta. A may sue B for the price of the goods either in Calcutta, where the cause of action has arisen, or in Delhi, where B carries on business

(b.) A, resides at Simla, B at Calcutta, and C at Dehli A, B and C being together at Benares, B and C make a joint promissory note payable on demand, and deliver it to A. A may sue B and C at Beneras, where the cause of action arose. He may also sue them at Calcutta, where B resides, or at Delhi, where C resides; but in each of these cases, if the non-resident defendant objects, the suit cannot be maintained without the leave of the Court.

(c.) A draws in Simla, a bill on B, who accepts the bill in Calcutta, and returns it by post to A. The bill does not mention any place of payment. It is presented to B in Calcutta, and he fails to pay. One part of the cause of action has arisen at Simla and others at Calcutta. The suit may therefore be brought either in Simla or in Calcutta.

(d.) A signs a contract in Calcutta for the delivery of rice to B at Dehli, and delivers it accordingly. B does not pay the price, and A sues him for it. One part of the cause of action has arisen in Calcutta and another in Dehli. The suit may therefore be brought either in Calcutta or in Dehli.

(e.) A, lets a house in Howrah to B, at a monthly rent payable in Howrah. A dies intestate. C obtains in Calcutta, a grant of letters of administration to A's estate. B allows the rent to fall into arrear. One part of the cause of action has arisen in Calcutta and another in Howrah, and C may therefore sue B for the arrears either in Calcutta or in Howrah.

17. In suits for compensation for wrong done to person or moveable property, if the wrong was done within the local limits of the jurisdiction of one Court and the defendant resides, or carries on business, or personally works for gain within the local limits of the jurisdiction of another Court, the plaintiff may at his option sue in either of the said Courts.

Forum in suits for compensation for wrongs.

Illustrations.

(a.) A, residing in Dehli, beats B in Calcutta. B may sue A either in Calcutta or in Dehli.

(b.) A, residing in Dehli, publishes in Calcutta statements defamatory of B. B may sue A either in Calcutta or in Dehli.

(c.) A, travelling on the line of a Railway Company whose principal office is at Howrah, is upset and injured at Allahabad by negligence imputable to the Company. He may sue the Company either at Howrah or at Allahabad.

18. If the suit be for immoveable property situate within the limits of a single district, but within the jurisdiction of different Courts, the suit may be instituted in the Court within whose jurisdiction any portion of the property is situate; provided that, in respect of the value of the subject-matter of the suit, the entire claim be cognizable by such Court.

Suits for immoveable property situate in single districts, but within jurisdictions of different Courts.

If the immoveable property be situate within the limits of different districts, the suit may be instituted in any Court, otherwise competent to try it, within whose jurisdiction any portion of the property is situate.

Suits for immoveable property situate in different districts.

19. If a suit which may be instituted in more than one Court is instituted in a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction only part of the cause of action arose, and where the defendant or all the defendants does not or do not actually and voluntarily reside, or carry on business, or personally work for gain, the defendant or any defendant may, after giving notice in writing to the other parties of his intention to apply to the Court to stay proceedings, apply to the Court accordingly;

Power to stay proceedings where the whole cause of action did not arise and all defendants do not reside within jurisdiction.

and if the Court, after hearing such of the parties as desire to be heard, is satisfied that justice is more likely to be done by the suit being instituted in some other Court, it may stay proceedings either finally or till further order, and make such order as it thinks fit as to the costs already incurred by the parties or any of them.

In such case, if the plaintiff so requires, the Court shall return the plaint with an endorsement thereon of the order staying proceedings.

Application when to be made.

Every such application shall be made at the earliest possible opportunity, and in all cases before the issues are settled; and any defendant not so applying shall be deemed to have acquiesced in the institution of the suit.

20. Where the Court, under section 19, stays proceedings, and the plaintiff re-institutes his suit in another Court, the plaint shall not be chargeable with any court-fee: provided that the proper fee has been levied on the institution of the suit in the former Court, and that the plaint has been returned by such Court.

Remission of Court-fee where suit instituted in another Court.

The interval between the institution of the suit and the date of so staying proceedings and the time requisite for proceeding from the Court in which proceedings are stayed to the Court in which the suit is re-instituted shall be excluded in computing the period of limitation prescribed for such suit.

Computation of period of limitation for such suits.

21. Where a suit may be instituted in more Courts than one, and such Courts are subordinate to the same appellate Court, any defendant, after giving notice in writing to the other parties of his intention to apply to such Court to transfer the suit to another Court, may apply accordingly; and the appellate Court, after hearing the other parties if they desire to be heard, shall determine in which of the Courts having jurisdiction the suit shall proceed.

Procedure where Courts in which suit may be instituted are subordinate to the same appellate Court.

22. Where such Courts are subordinate to different appellate Courts, but are subordinate to the same High Court, any defendant, after giving notice in writing to the other parties of his intention to apply to the High Court to transfer the suit to another Court having jurisdiction, may apply accordingly. If the suit is brought in any Court subordinate to a District Court, the application, together with the objections, if any, filed by the other parties, shall be submitted through the District Court to which such Court is subordinate. The High Court may, after considering the objections, if any, of the other parties, determine in which of the Courts having jurisdiction the suit shall proceed.

Procedure where they are not so subordinate.

23. Where such Courts are subordinate to different High Courts, any defendant may, after giving notice in writing to the other parties of his intention to apply to the High Court within whose jurisdiction the Court in which the suit is brought is situate, apply accordingly.

Procedure where they are subordinate to different High Courts.

If the suit is brought in any Court subordinate to a District Court, the application, together with the objections, if any, filed by the other parties, shall be submitted through the District Court to which such Court is subordinate, and such High Court shall, after considering the objections, if any, of the other parties, determine in which of the several Courts having jurisdiction the suit shall proceed.

24. If, in a suit for immoveable property, the defendant object to the hearing of the suit on the ground that no part of the property is situate within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court in which the suit is instituted, or to which it has been transferred, the Court may by order determine the point;

Suit for immoveable property alleged to be within another local jurisdiction.

and if the Court find that the property or any part thereof is situate within such limits, it shall proceed to try the suit.

25. The High Court or the District Court may, either of its own motion or on the application of any of the parties, after giving notice to the parties and hearing such of them as desire to be heard, withdraw any suit instituted in any Court subordinate to such High Court or District Court, as the case may be, and try the suit itself, or transfer it for trial to any other such subordinate Court competent to try the same in respect of its nature and the amount or value of its subject-matter.

Transfer of suits.

For the purposes of this section the Courts of Additional and Assistant Judges shall be deemed to be subordinate to the District Court.

The Court trying any suit withdrawn under this section from a Court of Small Causes shall, for the purposes of such suit, be deemed to be a Court of Small Causes.

CHAPTER III.

OF PARTIES AND THEIR APPEARANCES, APPLICATIONS AND ACTS.

26. All persons may be joined as plaintiffs in whom the right to any relief claimed is alleged to exist, whether jointly, severally, or in the alternative, in respect of the same cause of action. And judgment may be given for such one or more of the plaintiffs as may be found to be entitled to relief, for such relief as he or they may be entitled to, without any amendment. But the defendant, though unsuccessful, shall be entitled to his costs occasioned by so joining any person who is not found entitled to relief, unless the Court in disposing of the costs of the suit otherwise directs.

Persons who may be joined as plaintiffs.

27. Where a suit has been instituted in the name of the wrong person as plaintiff, or where it is doubtful whether it has been instituted in the name of the right plaintiff, the Court may, if satisfied that the suit has been so commenced through a bonâ fide mistake, and that it is necessary for the determination of the real matter in dispute so to do, order any other person or persons to be substituted or added as plaintiff or plaintiffs upon such terms as may seem just.

Court may substitute or add plaintiff for or to plaintiff suing.

28. All persons may be joined as defendants against whom the right to any relief is alleged to exist, whether jointly, severally or in the alternative, in respect of the same cause of action. And judgment may be given against such one or more of the defendants as may be found to be liable, according to their respective liabilities, without any amendment.

Persons who may be joined as defendants.

29. The plaintiff may, at his option, join as parties to the same suit all or any of the persons severally, or jointly and severally, liable on any one contract, including parties to bills of exchange, hundís and promissory notes.

Joinder of parties liable on same contract.

30. Where there are numerous parties having the same interest in one suit, one or more of such parties may sue or be sued, or may be authorized by the Court to defend in such suit, on behalf or for the benefit of all parties so interested.

One party may sue or defend on behalf of all in same interest.

31. No suit shall be defeated by reason of the misjoinder of parties, and the Court may in every suit deal with the matter in controversy so far as regards the rights and interests of the parties actually before it.

Suit not to fail by reason of misjoinder.

32. The Court may, at any time before the issues are settled, either upon or without the application of either party, and on such terms as may appear to the Court to be just, order that the name of any party whether as plaintiff or as defendant, improperly joined, be struck out; and that the name of any party whether plaintiff or defendant, who ought to have been joined, or whose presence before the Court may be necessary in order to enable the Court effectually and completely to adjudicate upon and settle all the questions involved in the suit, be added.

Court may dismiss or add parties.

No person shall be added as a plaintiff, or as the next friend of a plaintiff, without his own consent thereto.

No one to be added as plaintiff or as next friend without his consent.

All parties whose names are so added as defendants shall be served with a summons in manner hereinafter mentioned, and the proceedings as against them shall be deemed to have begun only on the service of such summons.

Defendants added to be served.

33. Where a defendant is added, the plaint, if previously filed, shall, unless the Court direct otherwise, be amended in such manner as may be necessary, and an amended copy of the summons shall be served on the new defendant and the original defendants.

Where defendant added, plaintiff to amend.

34. All objections for want of parties, or for joinder of parties who have no interest in the suit, or for misjoinder as co-plaintiffs or co-defendants, shall be taken at the earliest possible opportunity, and in all cases before the issues are settled; and any such objection not taken before the issues are settled shall be deemed to have been waived by the defendant.

Time for taking objections as to non-joinder or misjoinder of parties.

35. When there are more plaintiffs than one, any one or more of them may be authorized by any other of them to appear, plead, or act for such other in any proceeding under this Code: and in like manner when there are more defendants than one, any one or more of them may be authorized by any other of them to appear, plead or act for such other in any such proceeding.

Each of several plaintiffs or defendants may authorize any other to appear, &c., for him.

The authority shall be in writing, signed by the party giving it, and shall be filed in Court.

Authority to be in writing signed and filed.

Recognized Agents and Pleaders.

36. Any appearance, application or act in or to any Court, required or authorized by law to be made or done by a party to a suit in such Court, may, except when otherwise expressly provided by this Code, be made or done by the party in person, or by his recognized agent, or by a pleader duly appointed to act on his behalf:

Appearances &c., may be in person, by recognized agent or by pleader.

Provided that any such appearance shall be made by the party in person if the Court so direct

37. The recognized agents of parties by whom such appearances, applications and acts may be made or done are—

Recognized agents.

(a). persons holding general powers-of-attorney from parties not resident within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court within which limits the appearance, application or act is made or done, authorizing them to make and do such appearances, applications and acts on behalf of such parties.

Persons holding powers-of-attorney from parties out of jurisdiction.

(b). mukhtárs certificated under any law for the time being in force, and holding special powers of attorney authorising them to do, on behalf of their principals, such acts as may legally be done by mukhtárs.

Certificated mukhtárs.

(c). persons carrying on trade or business for and in the names of parties not resident within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court within which limits the appearance, application or act is made or done, in matters connected with such trade or business only, where no other agent is expressly authorized to make and do such appearances, applications and acts.

Persons carrying on trade or business for parties out of jurisdiction.

Nothing in the former part of this section applies to the territories now administered respectively by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Panjáb, and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh and the Central Provinces; but in those territories the recognized agents of parties by whom such appearances, applications and acts may be made and done shall be such persons as the Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, declare in this behalf.

Recognized agents in Panjáb, Oudh and Central Provinces.

38. Processes served on the recognized agent of a party to a suit shall be as effectual as if the same had been served on the party in person, unless the Court otherwise directs.

Service of process on recognized agent.

The provisions of this Code for the service of process on a party to a suit shall apply to the service of process on his recognized agent.

39. The appointment of a pleader to make or do any appearance, application or act as aforesaid shall be in writing under the hand of his client and shall be filed in Court.

Appointment of pleader.

When so filed, it shall be considered to be in force until revoked with the permission of the Court, by a writing signed by the client and filed in Court, or until the client or the pleader dies, or the decree or final order is drawn up.

No advocate of any High Court established by Royal Charter shall be required to file or present any document empowering him to act.

40. Processes served on the pleader of any party or left at the office or ordinary residence of such pleader, relative to a suit, and whether the same be for the personal appearance of the party or not, shall be presumed to be duly communicated and made known to the party whom the pleader represents; and, unless the Court otherwise directs, shall be as effectual for all purposes in relation to the suit as if the same had been given to or served on the party in person.

Service of process on pleader.

41. Besides the recognized agents described in section 37, any person residing within the jurisdiction of the Court may be appointed an agent to accept service of process.

Agent to receive process.

Such appointment may be special or general, and shall be made by an instrument in writing signed by the principal, and such instrument, or, if the appointment be general, a duly attested copy thereof, shall be filed in Court.

His appointment to be in writing and to be filed in Court.

CHAPTER IV.

OF THE FRAME OF THE SUIT.

42. Every suit shall, as far as practicable, be so framed as to afford ground for a final decision upon the subjects in dispute, and so to prevent further litigation concerning them.

Suit how to be framed.

43. Every suit shall include the whole of the claim arising out of the cause of action; but a plaintiff may relinquish any portion of his claim in order to bring the suit within the jurisdiction of any Court.

Suit to include the whole claim.

If a plaintiff omit to sue for, or intentionally relinquish, any portion of his claim, a suit for the portion so omitted or relinquished shall not afterwards be entertained.

Relinquishment of part of claim.

44. rule a.—No cause of action shall, unless by order of the Court, be joined with a suit for the recovery of land, except claims in respect of mesne profits or arrears of rent in respect of the premises claimed, and damages for breach of any contract under which the same or any part thereof are or is held.

Only certain claims to be joined with suit for recovery of land.

rule b.—Claims by or against husband and wife may be joined with claims by or against either of them separately.

Claims by or against husband and wife.

rule c.—Claims by or against an executor or administrator as such, may be joined with claims by or against him personally, provided the last mentioned claims are alleged to arise with reference to the estate in respect of which the plaintiff or defendant sues or is sued as executor or administrator.

Claims by or against executor.

rule d.—Rules b and c shall be subject to the provisions of sections 45, 46 and 47.

45. The plaintiff may unite in the same suit several causes of action, and any plaintiffs having causes of action against the same defendant or defendants, may unite such causes of action in the same suit.

Plaintiff may join several causes of action.

But if it appear to the Court that any such causes of action cannot be conveniently tried or disposed of together, the Court may, at any time before the issues are settled, of its own motion or on the application of the defendant, order separate trials of any such causes of action

Court may order separation.

to be had, or may make such other order as may be necessary or expedient for the separate disposal thereof.

When causes of action are so united, the jurisdiction of the Court to hear the suit shall depend on the amount or value of the aggregate subject-matters.

46. Any defendant alleging that the plaintiff has united in the same suit several causes of action which cannot be conveniently disposed of in one suit, may at any time before the issues are settled apply to the Court for an order confining the suit to such of the causes of action as may be conveniently disposed of in one proceeding.

Defendant may apply to confine suit.

47. If, on the hearing of such application, it appears to the Court that the causes of action are such as cannot all be conveniently disposed of in one suit, the Court may order any of such causes of action to be excluded, and may direct the plaint to be amended accordingly, and may make such order as to costs as may be just.

Court on hearing application may exclude some causes an order amendment.

Every amendment made under this section shall be attested by the signature of the Judge.

CHAPTER V.

OF THE INSTITUTION OF SUITS.

48. Every suit shall be instituted by presenting a plaint to the Court or such officer as it appoints in this behalf.

Suits to be commenced by plaint.

49. The plaint must be distinctly written in the language of the Court: provided that if such language is not English, the plaint may (with the permission of the Court and the consent of the defendant) be written in English.

Language of plaint.

50. The plaint must contain the following particulars:—

Particulars to be contained in plaint.

(a) the name of the Court in which the suit is brought;

(b) the name, description and place of abode of the plaintiff;

(c) the name, description and place of abode of the defendant, so far as they can be ascertained;

(d) a plain and concise statement of the circumstances constituting the cause of action, and where and when it arose;

(e) a demand of the relief which the plaintiff claims; and

(f) if the plaintiff has allowed a set-off or relinquished a portion of his claim, the amount so allowed or relinquished.

If the plaintiff seek the recovery of money, the plaint must state the precise amount, so far as the case admits.

In money-suits.

Illustration.

A sues for mesne profits:

A sues for the amount which will be found due to him on taking unsettled accounts between him and B.

In each of these cases the plaint need only state approximately the amount sued for.

When the plaintiff sues in a representative character, the plaint should shew, not only that he has an actual existing interest in the subject-matter, but that he has taken the steps necessary to enable him to institute a suit concerning it.

Where plaintiff sues as a representative.

Illustrations.

(a.) A sues as B's executor. The plaint must state that A has proved B's will.

(b.) A sues as C's administrator. The plaint must state that A has taken out administration to C's estate.

(c.) A sues as guardian of D, a Muhammadan minor. A is not D's guardian according to Muhammadan law and usage. The plaint must state that A has been specially appointed D's guardian.

The plaint must shew that the defendant is or claims to be interested in the subject-matter, and that he is liable to be called upon to answer the plaintiff's demand.

Defendant's interest and liability to be shewn.

Illustration.

A dies leaving B his executor, C his legatee, and D a debtor to A's estate. C sues D to compel him to pay his debt in satisfaction of C's legacy. The plaint must shew that B has causelessly refused to sue D, or that B and D have colluded for the purpose of defrauding C, or other such circumstances rendering D liable to C.

If the cause of action arose beyond the period ordinarily allowed by any law for instituting the suit, the plaint must shew the ground upon which exemption from such law is claimed.

Grounds of exemption from limitation-law.

51. The plaint shall be subscribed by the plaintiff and his pleader (if any), and shall be verified at the foot by the plaintiff or, with the permission of the Court, by some person acquainted with the facts of the case.

Plaint to be subscribed and verified.

52. The verification must be to the effect that the same is true to the knowledge of the person making it, except as to matters stated on information and belief, and that as to those matters he believes it to be true.

Contents of verification.

When the plaint is verified by any person other than the plaintiff, such person shall set forth his knowledge or the grounds of his belief on the subject, and the reason why the verification was not made by the plaintiff.

The verification shall be signed by the person making it in the presence of a witness, who shall also sign it.

Verification to be signed and attested.

The Court may in any case examine such witness as to the fact of the signature, and shall so examine him when the person making the verification does not appear.

53. The plaint may, at the discretion of the Court, and at any time before the issues are settled, be rejected, returned for amendment within a time to be fixed by the Court, or amended then and there, upon such terms as to the payment of costs occasioned by the amendment as the Court thinks fit,

When the plaint may be rejected, returned for amendment, or amended.

(a) if it do not state correctly and without prolixity the several particulars hereinbefore required to be specified therein; or

(b) if it contain any particulars other than those so required; or

(c) if it be not subscribed and verified as hereinbefore required; or

(d) if it do not disclose a cause of action; or

(e) if it is not framed in accordance with section 42.

Proviso. Provided that a plaint cannot be altered so as to convert a suit of one character into a suit of another and inconsistent character.

Attestation of amendment. When a plaint is amended, the amendment shall be attested by the signature of the Judge.

When the plaint shall be rejected. 54. The plaint shall be rejected in the following cases:—

(a.) If the relief sought is undervalued, and the plaintiff, on being required by the Court to correct the valuation within a time to be fixed by the Court, fails to do so:

(b.) If the relief sought is properly valued, but the plaint is written upon paper insufficiently stamped, and the plaintiff, on being required by the Court to supply the requisite stamp-paper within a time to be fixed by the Court, fails to do so:

(c.) If, in the case mentioned in section 381, the plaintiff fail to furnish security for the payment of the costs that may be incurred by the defendant:

(d.) If the suit appear from the statement in the plaint to be barred by any positive rule of law.

Procedure on rejecting a plaint. 55. When a plaint is rejected, the Judge shall record with his own hand an order to that effect with the reason for such order.

When rejection of plaint does not preclude presentation of fresh plaint. 56. The rejection of the plaint on any of the grounds hereinbefore mentioned shall not of its own force preclude the plaintiff from presenting a fresh plaint in respect of the same cause of action.

When the plaint shall be returned to be presented to the proper Court. 57. The plaint shall be returned to be presented to the proper Court in the following cases:—

(a.) If a suit has been instituted in a Court whose grade is lower or higher than that of the Court competent to try it, where such Court exists, or where no option as to the selection of the Court is allowed by law:

(b.) If, in a suit relating to immoveable property, but not coming under the proviso to section 15, it appear that no part of such property is situate within the local limits of the Court's jurisdiction:

(c.) If, in any other case, it appear that the cause of action, or a material part thereof, did not arise, and that none of the defendants are dwelling or carrying on business, or personally working for gain, within such local limits.

Procedure on returning plaint. On returning a plaint, the Judge shall, with his own hand, endorse thereon the date of its presentation and return, the name of the party presenting it, and a brief statement of the reason for returning it.

Procedure on admitting plaint. 58. If the Court consider the plaint admissible, it shall cause the plaintiff to endorse thereon, or to annex thereto, a memorandum of the documents (if any) which he has filed along with it; and the plaintiff shall present as many copies on plain paper of the plaint as there are defendants, unless the Court by reason of the length of the plaint or the number of the defendants, or for any other sufficient reason, permit him to file a like number of concise statements of the nature of the claim made, or of the relief or remedy required in the suit, in which case he shall file such statements.

Concise statements.

If the plaintiff sues, or the defendant or any of the defendants is sued, in a representative capacity, the statement shall show in what capacity the plaintiff or defendant sues or is sued.

The plaintiff may, by leave of the Court, amend any such statement so as to make it correspond with the plaint.

The chief ministerial officer of the Court shall sign such endorsement and copies or statements if, on examination, he finds them to be correct.

The Court shall also cause the particulars mentioned in section 50 to be entered in a book to be kept for the purpose and called the Register of civil suits. Such entries shall be numbered in every year according to the order in which the plaint is admitted.

Production of document on which plaintiff sues. 59. If a plaintiff sue upon a document in his possession or power, he shall produce it in court when the plaint is presented, and shall at the same time deliver the document or a copy thereof to be filed with the plaint.

Delivery of document or copy.

List of other documents. If he rely on any other documents (whether in his possession or power or not) as evidence in support of his claim, he shall enter such documents in a list to be added or annexed to the plaint.

Procedure in case of documents not in his possession or power. 60. In the case of any document not in his possession or power he shall, if possible, state in whose possession or power it is, and, when it is in the possession or power of a person not a party to the suit, shall take out a summons against such person, requiring him to file the document in court within such time after the service of the summons as the Court in each case directs, and stating the time so directed.

Suits on lost negotiable instruments. 61. In case of any suit founded upon a bill of exchange or other negotiable instrument, if it be proved that the instrument is lost, and if an indemnity be given by the plaintiff, to the satisfaction of the Court, against the claims of any other person upon such instrument, the Court may make such decree as it would have made if the plaintiff had produced the instrument in court when the plaint was presented, and had at the same time delivered a copy of the instrument to be filed with the plaint.

Production of shop-book. 62. If the document on which the plaintiff sues be an entry in a shop-book or other book in his possession or power, the plaintiff shall produce the book at the time of filing the plaint, together with a copy of the entry on which he relies.

Original entry to be marked and returned. The Court, or such officer as it appoints in this behalf, shall forthwith mark the document for the purpose of identification; and after examining and comparing the copy with the original and attesting the copy if found correct, shall return the book to the plaintiff.

Inadmissibility of document not produced when plaint filed. 63. A document which ought to be produced in court by the plaintiff when the plaint is presented, or to be entered at the foot of the plaint, and which is not produced or entered accordingly, shall not, without the leave of the Court, be received in evidence on his behalf at the hearing of the suit.

Nothing in this section applies to documents produced for cross-examination of the defendant's witnesses, or in answer to any case set up by the defendant, or handed to a witness merely to refresh his memory.

CHAPTER VI.

OF THE ISSUE AND SERVICE OF SUMMONS.

Issue of Summons.

Summons. 64. When the plaint has been registered, and the copies or statements required by section 58 have been filed, a summons may be issued to the defendant to appear and answer the claim on a day to be therein specified, or as soon thereafter as may be practicable,

(a) in person, or

(b) by a pleader duly instructed and able to answer all material questions relating to the suit, or

(c) by a pleader accompanied by some other person able to answer all such questions.

Every such summons shall be signed by the Judge or such officer as he appoints, and shall be sealed with the seal of the Court:

Provided that no such summons shall be issued when the defendant has appeared at the presentation of the plaint and admitted the plaintiff's claim.

Indorsement of claim. 65. Every such summons shall be accompanied with one of the copies or statements mentioned in section 58.

Court may order defendant or plaintiff to appear in person. 66. If the Court see reason to require the personal appearance of the defendant, the summons shall order him to appear in person in court on the day therein specified.

If the Court see reason to require the personal appearance of the plaintiff on the same day, it may make an order for such appearance.

No party to be ordered to appear in person unless resident within 50 or, where there is a railway, 200, miles. 67. No party shall be ordered to appear in person unless he resides—

(a) within the local limits of the Court's ordinary original jurisdiction, or

(b) without such limits and at a place less than fifty, or, where there is railway communication between the place where he resides and the place where the Court is situate, two hundred, miles from the court-house.

Summons to be either to settle issues or for final disposal. 68. The Court shall determine, at the time of issuing the summons, whether it shall be for the settlement of issues only, or for the final disposal of the suit; and the summons shall contain a direction accordingly:

Provided that, in every suit cognizable by Courts of Small Causes, the summons shall be for the final disposal of the suit.

Fixing day for appearance of defendant. 69. The day for the appearance of the defendant shall be fixed by the Court with reference to its current business, the place of residence of the defendant and the time necessary for the service of the summons; and the day shall be so fixed as to allow the defendant sufficient time to enable him to appear and answer on such day.

What shall be deemed 'sufficient time' must be determined with reference to the circumstances of the case.

Summons to order defendant to produce documents required by plaintiff or relied on by defendant. 70. The summons to appear and answer shall order the defendant to produce any document in his possession or power, containing evidence relating to the merits of the plaintiff's case, or upon which the defendant intends to rely in support of his case.

On issue of summons or final disposal, parties to be directed to produce their witnesses. 71. When the summons is for the final disposal of the suit, it shall direct the defendant to produce, on the day fixed for his appearance, the witnesses upon whose evidence he intends to rely in support of his case.

Service of Summons.

Delivery of summons for service. 72. The summons shall be delivered to the proper officer of the Court, to be served by him, or one of his subordinates.

Mode of service. 73. Service of the summons shall be made by delivering or tendering a copy thereof signed by the Judge or such officer as he appoints in this behalf, and sealed with the seal of the Court.

Service on several defendants. 74. When there are more defendants than one, service of the summons shall be made on each defendant:

Provided that, if the defendants are partners, and the suit relates to a partnership-transaction, the service may be made, unless the Court directs otherwise, either (a) on one defendant for himself and for the other defendants, or (b) on any person having the management of the business of the partnership at the principal place, within the local limits of the Court's ordinary original civil jurisdiction, of such business.

Service to be on defendant in person, when practicable, or on his agent. 75. Whenever it may be practicable, the service shall be on the defendant in person, unless he have an agent empowered to accept the service, in which case service on such agent shall be sufficient.

76. In a suit relating to any business or work against a person who does not reside within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court from which the summons issues, service on any manager or agent, who, at the time of service, personally carries on such business or work for such person within such limits, shall be deemed good service.

Service on agent by whom defendant carries on business.

For the purpose of this section, the master of a ship is the agent of his owner or charterer.

77. In a suit for immoveable property, if the summons cannot be served on the defendant in person, and the defendant have no agent empowered to accept the service of the summons, it may be served on any agent of the defendant in charge of the property.

Service on agent in charge, in suits for immoveable property.

78. If in any suit the defendant cannot be found and if he have no agent empowered to accept the service of the summons on his behalf, the service may be made on any adult male member of the family of the defendant who is residing with him.

When service may be on male member of defendant's family.

Explanation.—A servant is not a member of the family within the meaning of this section.

79. When the serving-officer delivers or tenders the copy of the summons to the defendant personally, or to an agent or other person on his behalf, the serving-officer shall require the signature of the person to whom the copy is so delivered or tendered to an acknowledgment of service endorsed on the original summons or on a copy thereof signed and sealed as aforesaid.

Person served to sign acknowledgment.

80. The serving-officer shall, in all cases in which the summons has been served under section 79, endorse or cause to be endorsed on the original summons, or on a copy thereof signed and sealed as aforesaid, the time when and the manner in which the summons was served.

Endorsement of time and manner of service.

81. If the defendant or other person refuse to sign the acknowledgment or to receive the copy of the summons,

Procedure when defendant refuses to accept service, or if the serving officer cannot find the defendant, and there is no agent empowered to accept the service of the summons on his behalf, nor any other person on whom the service can be made,

or cannot be found.

the serving-officer shall return the summons to the Court from which it issued, with an endorsement thereon that he has been unable to serve it.

82. When a summons is returned without having been served, the Court shall examine the serving-officer on oath touching the non-service; and if the Court is satisfied that there is reason to believe that the defendant is keeping out of the way for the purpose of avoiding the service, or that for any other reason the summons cannot be served in the ordinary way, the Court shall order the summons to be served by affixing a copy thereof in some conspicuous place in the court-house, and also upon some conspicuous part of the house, if any, in which the defendant is known to have last resided, or in such other manner as the Court thinks fit.

Substituted service.

83. The service substituted by order of the Court, shall be as effectual as if it had been made on the defendant personally.

Effect of substituted service.

84. Whenever service is substituted by order of the Court, the Court shall fix such time for the appearance of the defendant as the case may require.

When service is substituted, time for appearance to be fixed.

85. If the defendant resides within the jurisdiction of any Court other than the Court in which the suit is instituted, and has no agent resident within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the latter Court empowered to accept the service of the summons, such Court shall send the summons, either by one of its officers or by post, to any Court, not being a High Court, having jurisdiction at the place where the defendant resides, by which it can be most conveniently served, and shall fix such time for the appearance of the defendant as the case may require.

Service of summons when defendant resides within jurisdiction of another Court and has no agent to accept service.

The Court to which the summons is sent shall, upon receipt thereof, deliver it to the proper officer of such Court, to be served, endorsed and returned in the manner hereinbefore directed.

Upon the return of the summons by the serving-officer, if it has not been served, the Court to which it has been sent shall examine him on oath touching the non-service and record the result; and the summons shall be sent back to the Court from which it originally issued, together with the record (if any) made under this paragraph.

86. Whenever any process issued by any Court established beyond the limits of the towns of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Rangoon is to be served within any such town, it shall be sent to the Court of Small Causes within whose jurisdiction the process is to be served,

Service within Presidency towns and Rangoon of process issued by Mufassal Courts.

and such Court of Small Causes shall cause it to be served in the same manner as if it had issued from such Court, and, after having been so served, the process shall be returned to the Court from which it issued.

87. If the defendant be in jail, the summons shall be delivered to the officer in charge of the jail in which the defendant is confined, and such officer shall cause the summons to be served upon the defendant.

Service on defendant in jail.

The summons shall be returned to the Court from which it issued, with a statement of the service endorsed thereon and signed by the officer in charge of the jail and by the defendant.

88. If the jail in which the defendant is confined is not in the district in which the suit is instituted, the summons may be sent by post or otherwise to the officer in charge of such jail, and such officer shall cause the summons to be served upon the defendant, and shall return the summons to the Court from which it issued, with a statement of the service endorsed thereon, and signed as provided in section 87.

Procedure if jail be in a different district.

89. If the defendant resides out of British India, and has no agent in British India empowered to accept the service, the summons shall be addressed to the defendant at the place where he is residing, and forwarded to him by post if there be postal communication between such place and the place where the Court is situate.

Service when defendant resides out of British India and has no agent to accept service.

90. If there be a British Resident or Agent of Government in or for the territory in which the defendant resides, the summons may be sent to such Resident or Agent, by post or otherwise, for the purpose of being served upon the defendant; and if the Resident or Agent return the summons with an endorsement under his hand that the summons has been served on the defendant in manner hereinbefore directed, such endorsement shall be conclusive evidence of the service.

Service through British Resident or Agent of Government.

91. Nothing herein contained shall prevent the Court from substituting for the summons a letter signed by the Judge or such officer as he appoints in this behalf, when the defendant is, in the opinion of the Court, of a rank which entitles him to such mark of consideration.

Substitution of letter for summons.

The letter shall contain all the particulars required to be stated in the summons, and, subject to the provisions contained in section 92, shall be treated in all respects as a summons.

92. When a letter or other communication is substituted for a summons, it may be sent by post or by a special messenger selected by the Court, or in any other manner which the Court thinks fit; unless the person whose appearance is required has an agent empowered to accept the service of the summons, in which case it may be served on such agent.

Mode of sending such letter.

Service of Process.

93. Wherever this Code provides that any notice, summons, letter or other communication may be sent to the person to whom it is addressed by post, proof that the same was correctly addressed to such person at his place of residence, and that it was posted and registered according to the law for the time being regulating the management of the Post Office shall, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, be sufficient proof of the due service and delivery of the notice summons, letter or other communication.

Proof of due service and delivery of process sent by post.

94. Every process required to be issued under this Code shall be served at the expense of the party at whose instance it is issued, unless the Court otherwise directs.

Process to be served at expense of party issuing it.

The sum required to defray the costs of such service shall be paid into Court before the process is issued, within a period to be fixed by the Court issuing the process.

Costs of service.

Postage, where chargeable on any notice, summons, letter or other communication forwarded by post and the fee for registering the same, shall be costs required to be paid as aforesaid within the meaning of this section.

Postage.

In fixing the costs to be paid for service of process, regard shall be had to any law or to any rules issued by the High Court for fixing the amount of such costs.

Fixing of costs of service.

95. All notices and orders required by this Code to be served on any person shall be in writing, and shall be served in the manner hereinbefore provided for the service of summons.

Notices and orders in writing how served.

CHAPTER VII.

OF THE APPEARANCE OF THE PARTIES AND CONSEQUENCE OF NON-APPEARANCE.

96. On the day fixed in the summons for the defendant to appear and answer, the parties shall be in attendance at the Court-house in person or by their respective pleaders, and the suit shall then be heard, unless the hearing be adjourned to a future day fixed by the Court.

Parties to appear on day fixed in summons for defendant to appear and answer.

97. If on the day so fixed for the defendant to appear and answer, it be found that the summons has not been served upon him in consequence of the failure of the plaintiff to deposit, within the period fixed by the Court, the sum required to defray the cost of issuing or serving such summons, the Court may order that the suit be dismissed:

Dismissal of suit where summons not served in consequence of plaintiff's failure to deposit costs of issuing it.

Provided that no such order shall be passed, although the summons has not been served upon the defendant, if, on the day fixed for him to appear and answer, he attends in person or by a duly authorized agent, when he is allowed to appear by agent.

Proviso.

98. If on the day so fixed for the defendant to appear and answer, or on any other subsequent day to which the hearing of the suit may be adjourned, neither party appears, the suit shall be dismissed, unless the Judge, for reasons to be recorded under his hand, otherwise directs.

If neither party appear, suit to be dismissed.

99. Whenever a suit is dismissed under section 97 or section 98, the plaintiff may (subject to the law of limitation) bring a fresh suit; or if, within the period of thirty days from the date of the order dismissing the suit, he satisfies the Court that there was a sufficient excuse for his not making the deposit required within the time allowed or for his non-appearance, as the case may be, the Court shall pass an order to set aside the dismissal and appoint a day for proceeding with the suit.

In such case plaintiff may bring fresh suit;

or Court may restore the suit to its file.

100. If the plaintiff appears and the defendant does not appear, the procedure shall be as follows:—

Procedure if only plaintiff appear.

when summons was duly served.

(a) if it is proved that the summons was duly served,

the Court may proceed ex parte:

(b) if it is not proved that the summons was duly served, the Court shall direct a second summons to be issued and served on the defendant:

When summons not duly served.

(c) if it is proved that the summons was served on the defendant, but not in sufficient time to enable him to appear and answer on the day fixed in the summons, the Court shall postpone the hearing of the suit to a future day to be fixed by the Court, and shall direct notice of such day to be given to the defendant.

When summons served, but not in due time.

101. If the Court has adjourned the hearing of the suit ex parte, and the defendant, at or before such hearing, appears and assigns good cause for his previous non-appearance, he may, upon such terms as the Court may direct as to costs or otherwise, be heard in answer to the suit, as if he had appeared on the day fixed for his appearance.

Procedure where defendant appears on day of adjourned hearing, and assigns good cause for previous non-appearance.

102. If the defendant appears and the plaintiff does not appear, the Court shall dismiss the suit, unless the defendant admits the claim, or part thereof, in which case the Court shall pass a decree against the defendant upon such admission, and where part only of the claim has been admitted, shall dismiss the suit so far as it relates to the remainder.

Procedure where defendant only appears.

When a suit is wholly or partially dismissed under this section, the plaintiff shall be precluded from bringing a fresh suit in respect of the same cause of action. But he may apply for an order to set the dismissal aside; and if it be proved that he was prevented by any sufficient cause from appearing when the suit was called on for hearing, the Court shall set aside the dismissal upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit, and shall appoint a day for proceeding with the suit.

Decree against plaintiff by default bars fresh suit.

No order shall be made under the second paragraph of this section unless the plaintiff has served the defendant with notice in writing of his application.

103. If, on the day fixed for the hearing of a suit against a defendant residing out of British India, who has no agent empowered to accept service of summons, or on any day to which the hearing has been adjourned, the defendant does not appear, the plaintiff may apply to the Court for permission to proceed with his suit, and the Court may direct that the plaintiff be at liberty to proceed with his suit in such manner and subject to such conditions as the Court thinks fit.

Procedure where defendant residing out of British India does not appear.

104. If there be more plaintiffs than one, and one or more of them appear, and the others of them do not appear, the Court may, at the instance of the plaintiff or plaintiffs who may appear, permit the suit to proceed in the same way as if all the plaintiffs had appeared, and pass such order as it thinks fit.

Procedure in case of non-attendance of one or more of several plaintiffs.

105. If there be more defendants than one, and one or more of them appear, and the others of them do not appear, the suit shall proceed, and the Court shall, at the time of passing judgment, make such order as it thinks fit with respect to the defendants who do not appear.

Procedure in case of non-attendance of one or more of several defendants.

106. If a plaintiff or defendant, who has been ordered to appear in person under the provisions of section 66 or section 436, does not appear in person, or show sufficient cause to the satisfaction of the Court for failing so to appear, he shall be subject to all the provisions of the foregoing sections applicable to plaintiffs and defendants, respectively, who do not appear.

Consequence of non-attendance, without sufficient cause shown, of party ordered to appear in person.

107. In support of the cause shown by a plaintiff or defendant for failing to appear in person, the Court shall receive any declaration in writing signed by such plaintiff or defendant and verified in manner hereinbefore provided for the verification of plaints.

Court to receive written declaration in support of cause shown for failure to appear.

Of setting aside Decrees ex parte.

108. In any case in which a decree is passed ex parte against a defendant under section 100, he may apply to the Court by which the decree was made for an order to set it aside;

Setting aside decree ex parte against defendant.

and if it be proved to the satisfaction of the Court that the summons was not duly served, or that the defendant was prevented by any sufficient cause from appearing when the suit was called on for hearing, the Court shall pass an order to set aside the decree upon such terms as to costs, payment into Court, or otherwise, as it thinks fit, and shall appoint a day for proceeding with the suit.

109. No decree shall be set aside on any such application as aforesaid, unless notice thereof in writing has been served on the opposite party.

No decree to be set aside, without notice to opposite party.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF WRITTEN STATEMENTS AND SET-OFF.

110. The parties may, at the first hearing of the suit, tender written statements of their respective cases, and the Court shall receive such statements, place them on the record, and deal with them as if given in evidence.

Written statements.

111. If in a suit for the recovery of money the defendant claims to set-off against the plaintiff's demand any ascertained sum of money legally recoverable by him from the plaintiff, and if in such claim of the defendant against the plaintiff both parties fill the same character as they fill in the plaintiff's suit, the defendant may, at the first hearing of the suit, but not afterwards unless permitted by the Court, tender a written statement containing the particulars of the debt sought to be set-off.

Particulars of set-off to be given in written statement.

The Court shall thereupon enquire into the same, and if it find that the case fulfils the requirements of the former part of this section, and that the amount claimed to be set-off does not exceed the pecuniary limits of its jurisdiction, the Court shall set-off the one debt against the other.

Enquiry.

Such set-off shall have the same effect as a plaint in a cross-suit, so as to enable the Court to pronounce a final judgment in the same suit, both on the original and on the cross-claim.

Effect of set-off.

When the defendant, for the purpose of availing himself of the provisions contained in this section, intentionally relinquishes any portion of his claim against the plaintiff, nothing in section 43 shall apply to the portion so relinquished.

Relinquishment of portion of claim for purpose of set-off.

Illustrations.

(a) A bequeaths Rs. 2,000 to B, and appoints C his executor and residuary legatee. B dies and D takes out administration to B's effects. C pays Rs. 1,000 as surety for D. Then D sues C for the legacy. C cannot set-off the debt of Rs. 1,000 against the legacy, for neither C nor D fills the same character with respect to the legacy as they fill with respect to the payment of the Rs. 1,000.

(b) A dies intestate and in debt to B. C takes out administration to A's effects, and B buys part of the effects from C. In a suit for the purchase-money by C against B, the latter cannot set-off the debt against the price, for C fills two different characters, one as the vendor to B, in which he sues B, and the other as representative to A, in which B seeks the set-off.

(c) A sues B on a bill of exchange. B alleges that A has wrongfully neglected to insure B's goods and is liable to him in compensation which he claims to set-off. The amount not being ascertained cannot be set-off.

(d) A sues B on a bill of exchange for Rs. 500. B holds a judgment against A for Rs. 1,000. The two claims being both definite pecuniary demands may be set-off.

(e) A sues B for compensation on account of a trespass. B holds a promissory note for Rs. 1,000 from A and claims to set-off that amount against any sum that A may recover in the suit. B may do so, for as soon as A recovers, both sums are definite pecuniary demands.

(f) A and B sue C for Rs. 1,000. C cannot set-off a debt due to him by A alone.

(g) A sues B and C for Rs. 1,000. B cannot set-off a debt due to him alone by A.

(h) A owes the partnership firm of B and C Rs. 1,000. B dies leaving C surviving. A sues C for a debt of Rs. 1,500 due in his separate character. C may set-off the debt of Rs. 1,000.

112. Except as provided in the last preceding section, no written statement shall be received after the first hearing of the suit:

No written statement to be received after first hearing unless called for by Court.

Provided the Court may at any time require a written statement, or additional written statement, from any of the parties, and fix a time for presenting the same:

Court may at any time call for written statements.

Provided also that a written statement, or an additional written statement, may, with the permission of the Court, be received at any time for the purpose of answering written statements so required and presented.

113. If any party from whom a written statement is so required fails to present the same within the time fixed by the Court, the Court may pass a decree against him, or make such other order in relation to the suit as it thinks fit.

Procedure when party fails to present written statement called for by Court.

114. Written statements shall be as brief as the nature of the case admits, and shall not be argumentative, but shall be confined as much as possible to a simple narrative of the facts which the party by whom or on whose behalf the written statement is made believes to be material to the case, and which he believes he will be able to prove.

Frame of written statements.

Every such statement shall be divided into paragraphs, numbered consecutively, and each paragraph containing as nearly as may be a separate allegation.

115. Written statements shall be subscribed and verified in the manner hereinbefore provided for subscribing and verifying plaints, and no written statement shall be received unless it be so subscribed and verified.

Written statements to be subscribed and verified.

The provisions of section 52 as to examining witnesses as to the fact of signature shall apply in the case of written statements.

116. If it appear to the Court that any written statement, whether called for by the Court or spontaneously tendered, is argumentative or prolix, or contains matter irrelevant to the suit, the Court may amend it then and there, or may, by an order to be endorsed thereon, reject the same, or return it to the party by whom it was made for amendment within a time to be fixed by the Court, imposing such terms as to costs or otherwise as the Court thinks fit.

Rejection of argumentative, prolix or irrelevant written statements.

When any amendment is made under this section, the Judge shall attest it by his signature.

When a statement has been rejected under this section, the party making it shall not present another written statement, unless it be expressly called for or allowed by the Court.

117. Every allegation of fact in any written statement, if not denied specifically or by necessary implication, or stated to be not admitted by the opposite party, shall be taken to be admitted for the purposes of the suit.

Allegation of fact not denied admitted for purpose of suit.

CHAPTER IX.

OF THE EXAMINATION OF THE PARTIES BY THE COURT.

118. At the first hearing of the suit, or at any subsequent hearing, any party appearing in person or present in Court, or any person able to answer any material questions relating to the suit by whom he or his pleader is accompanied, may be examined orally by the Court; and the Court may, if it thinks fit, put in the course of such examination questions suggested by either party.

Oral examination of party, or companion of himself or his pleader.

119. The substance of the examination shall be reduced to writing by the Judge, and shall form part of the record.

Substance of examination to be written.

120. If the pleader of any party who appears by a pleader refuses or is unable to answer any material question relating to the suit which the Court is of opinion that the party whom

Consequence of refusal or inability of pleader to answer.

he represents ought to answer, and is likely to be able to answer if interrogated in person, the Court may postpone the hearing of the suit to a future day, and direct that such party shall appear in person on such day.

If such party fails without lawful excuse to appear in person on the day so appointed, the Court may pass a decree against him, or make such order in relation to the suit as it thinks fit.

CHAPTER X.

OF DISCOVERY AND OF THE ADMISSION, INSPECTION, PRODUCTION, IMPOUNDING AND RETURN OF DOCUMENTS.

Discovery.

121. At any time before the settlement of issues, either party may without any order for that purpose, and any party may at any time by leave of the Court, deliver through the Court interrogatories in writing for the examination of the opposite party, or where there are more opposite parties than one, any one or more of such parties, with a note at the foot thereof stating which of such interrogatories each of such persons is required to answer:

Power to deliver interrogatories.

Provided that no party shall deliver more than one set of interrogatories to the same person without the permission of the Court.

122. Interrogatories delivered under section 121 shall be served in the manner hereinbefore provided for the service of summons, and the provisions of sections 79, 80 and 81 shall, mutatis mutandis, apply to the serving officer.

Service of interrogatories.

123. The Court, in adjusting the costs of the suit, shall, at the instance of any party, inquire or cause inquiry to be made into the propriety of delivering such interrogatories; and if it thinks that such interrogatories have been delivered unreasonably, vexatiously or at improper length, the costs occasioned by the said interrogatories and the answers thereto shall be borne by the party in fault.

Inquiry into propriety of exhibiting interrogatories.

124. If any party to a suit be a body corporate or a joint stock company, whether incorporated or not, or any other body of persons empowered by law to sue or be sued, whether in its own name or in the name of any officer or other person, any opposite party may apply to the Court for an order allowing him to deliver interrogatories to any member or officer of such corporation, company or body, and an order may be made accordingly.

Service of interrogatories on officer of corporation or company.

125. Any party called upon to answer interrogatories, whether by himself or by any such member or officer, may refuse to answer any interrogatory on the ground that it is irrelevant, or is not put bonâ fide for the purposes of the suit, or that the matter inquired after is not sufficiently material at that stage of the suit, or on any other like ground.

Power to strike out interrogatories as irrelevant, &c.

126. Interrogatories shall be answered by affidavit to be filed in Court within ten days from the service thereof or within such other time as the Judge may allow.

Time for filing affidavit in answer.

127. If any person interrogated omits or refuses to answer, or answers insufficiently, any interrogatory, the party interrogating may apply to the Court for an order requiring him to answer or to answer further, as the case may be. And an order may be made requiring him to answer or to answer further either by affidavit or by viva voce examination as the Judge may direct. Provided that the Judge shall not require an answer to any interrogatory which in his opinion need not have been answered under section 125.

Procedure where a party omits to answer sufficiently.

Admission of Documents.

128. Either party may, by a demand made in writing, within a reasonable time, not being less than four days before the hearing, require the other party to admit (saving all just exceptions to the admissibility of such document in evidence) the genuineness of any document material to the suit.

Power to demand admission of genuineness of documents.

The demand shall be served through the Court in the manner hereinbefore provided for the service of summons, and the provisions of sections 79, 80 and 81 shall, mutatis mutandis, apply to the serving officer.

The admission shall also be made in writing and filed in Court by the other party.

If such demand be not made, no costs of proving such document shall be allowed, unless the Judge otherwise orders.

If such demand is not complied with within four days after its being served, and the Judge thinks it reasonable that the admission should have been made, the party refusing shall bear the expense of proving such document, whatever may be the result of the suit.

Production of Documents.

129. The Court may, at any time during the pendency therein of any suit, order the production by any party thereto of such of the documents in his possession or power relating to any matter in question in such suit or proceeding as the Court thinks right; and the Court may deal with such documents when produced in such manner as appears just.

Power to order production of documents during suit.

130. Any party may apply to the Court for an order directing any other party to the suit to declare by affidavit all the documents which are or have been in his possession or power relating to any matter in question in the suit or proceeding.

Application for order for discovery of document.

Every such affidavit shall specify which, if any, of the documents therein mentioned the declarant objects to produce.

Affidavit in answer to such order.

131. Every party to a suit may at any time before or at the hearing thereof give notice through the Court to any other party, in whose plaint, written statement or affidavit

Notice to produce for inspection documents referred to in plaint, &c.

reference is made to any document, to produce such document in the presence of such officer as the Court appoints in this behalf, for the inspection of the party giving such notice or of his pleader, and to permit such party or pleader to take copies thereof.

No party failing to comply with such notice shall afterwards be at liberty to put any such document in evidence on his behalf in such suit, unless he satisfies the Court that such document relates only to his own title, or that he had some other and sufficient cause for not complying with such notice.

Consequence of non-compliance with such notice.

132. The party to whom such notice is given shall, within four days from the receipt thereof, deliver through the Court to the party giving the same a notice stating a time within three days from such delivery at which the documents or such of them as he does not object to produce, may be inspected at his pleader's office or some other convenient place, and stating which, if any, of the documents he objects to produce, and on what grounds.

Party receiving such notice to deliver notice when and where inspection may be had.

133. If any party served with notice under section 131 omits to give notice under section 132 of the time for inspection, or objects to give inspection, or names an inconvenient place for inspection, the party desiring it may apply to the Court for an order of inspection.

Application for order of inspection.

134. Except in the case of documents referred to in the plaint, written statement, or affidavit of the party against whom the application is made, or disclosed in his affidavit of documents, such application shall be founded upon an affidavit showing (a) of what documents inspection is sought, (b) that the party applying is entitled to inspect them, and (c) that they are in the possession or power of the party against whom the application is made.

Application to be founded on affidavit.

135. If the party from whom discovery of any kind or inspection is sought, objects to the same or any part thereof, and if the Court is satisfied that the right to such discovery or inspection depends on the determination of any issue or question in dispute in the suit or that for any other reason it is desirable that any such issue or question should be determined before deciding upon the right to the discovery or inspection, the Court may order that the issue or question be determined first and reserve the question as to the discovery or inspection.

Power to order issue or question on which right to discovery depends to be first determined.

136. If any party fail to comply with any order under this chapter to answer interrogatories or for discovery or inspection, which has been served personally upon him, he shall, if a plaintiff, be liable to have his suit dismissed for want of prosecution, and if a defendant, to have his defence, if any, struck out, and to be placed in the same position as if he had not defended;

Consequences of failure to answer or give inspection.

and the party interrogating or seeking discovery or inspection may apply to the Court for an order to that effect, and the Court may make such order accordingly.

Any party failing to comply with any order under this chapter to answer interrogatories or for discovery or inspection of documents, which has been served personally upon him, shall also be deemed guilty of an offence under section 188 of the Indian Penal Code.

137. The Court may, of its own accord, and may, in its discretion, upon the application of any of the parties to a suit send for, either from its own records or from any other Court, the record of any other suit or proceeding, and inspect the same.

Court may send for papers from its own records or from other Courts.

Every application made under this section must, if the Court so require, be supported by an affidavit of the applicant or his pleader, showing how the record is material to the suit in which the application is made and that the applicant cannot obtain a duly authenticated copy of the record or such portion thereof as the applicant requires.

Production of Documents at first Hearing.

138. The parties or their pleaders shall bring with them and have in readiness at the first hearing of the suit, to be produced when called for by the Court, all the documentary evidence of every description in their possession or power, on which they intend to rely, and which has not already been filed in Court, and all documents or other things specified in any order made under section 130 at any time before the hearing of the suit.

Documentary evidence to be produced at first hearing.

139. No documentary evidence in the possession or power of any party the production of which has been called for under section 138, and which has not been produced, shall be received at any subsequent stage of the proceedings unless good cause be shown to the satisfaction of the Court for the non-production thereof. And the Judge receiving any such evidence shall record his reasons for so doing.

Effect of non-production of documents.

140. The Court shall receive the documents produced by the parties at the first hearing.

Documents to be received by Court.

The Court may at any stage of the suit reject any document which it considers irrelevant or otherwise inadmissible, recording the grounds of such rejection.

Rejection of irrelevant or inadmissible documents.

141. No document shall be placed on the record unless it has been proved or admitted in accordance with the law of evidence for the time being in force. Every document so proved or admitted shall be endorsed with the number and title of the suit, the name of the person producing it, and the date on which it was produced, and shall be filed as part of the record:

No documents to be placed on record unless proved.

Proved documents to be marked and filed.

Provided that, if the document be an entry in a shop-book or other book, the party on whose behalf such book is produced may furnish a copy of the entry, which may be endorsed as aforesaid, and shall be filed as part of the record, and the Court shall mark the entry and shall then return the book to the person producing it.

Entries in shop-books.

142. When a document is rejected by the Court, it shall be endorsed in the manner specified in the last preceding section with the addition of the word "rejected," and the endorsement shall be signed by the Judge.

Rejected documents to be marked,

The document shall then be returned to the party who produced it.

and returned; unless detained by Court.

143. Notwithstanding anything contained in sections 62, 141 and 142, the Court may, if it see sufficient cause, direct any document or book produced before it in any suit to be impounded and kept in the custody of an officer of the Court, for such period and subject to such conditions as the Court thinks fit.

Court may order any document to be impounded.

144. In suits in which an appeal is not allowed, when the suit has been disposed of, and in suits in which an appeal is allowed, when the time for preferring an appeal from the decree has elapsed, or, if an appeal has been preferred, then after the appeal has been disposed of, any person, whether a party to the suit or not, desirous of receiving back any document produced by him in the suit, and placed on the record, shall, unless the document is impounded under section 143, be entitled to receive back the same:

After lapse of time for appeal, document admitted in evidence may be returned.

Provided that a document may be returned at any time before either of such events, if the person applying for such return delivers to the proper officer a certified copy of such document to be substituted for the original:

When document may be returned before time limited.

Provided also that no document shall be returned which, by force of the decree, has become void or useless.

Document not to be returned in certain cases.

145. On the return of a document which has been admitted in evidence, a receipt shall be given by the party receiving it, in a receipt-book to be kept for the purpose.

Receipt to be given for returned document.

CHAPTER XI.

OF THE SETTLEMENT OF ISSUES.

146. Issues arise when a proposition of fact or law is affirmed by the one party and denied by the other.

Framing of issues.

They are of two kinds: (1) issues of fact, (2) issues of law.

At the first hearing of the suit, the Court shall, after reading the plaint and the written statements, if any, and after such examination of the parties as may appear necessary, ascertain upon what propositions of fact or of law the parties are at variance, and shall thereupon proceed to frame and record the issues on which the right decision of the case appears to the Court to depend.

When issues both of law and of fact arise in the same suit, and the Court is of opinion that the case may be disposed of on the issues of law only, it shall try those issues first.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to require the Court to frame and record issues when the defendant at the first hearing of the suit makes no defence.

147. The Court may frame the issues from any of the following materials:—

Allegations from which issues may be framed.

(a) allegations made on oath by the parties, or by any persons present on their behalf, or made by the pleaders of such parties or persons;

(b) allegations made in the plaint or in the written statements (if any) tendered in the suit;

(c) the contents of documents produced by either party and placed on the record.

148. If the Court be of opinion that the issues cannot be correctly framed without the examination of some person not before the Court, or without the inspection of some document not produced in the suit, it may adjourn the framing of the issues to a future day, to be fixed by the Court, and may compel the attendance of any person or the production of any document by the person in whose hands it may be, by summons or other process.

Court may examine witnesses or documents before framing issues.

149. The Court may at any time before passing a decree amend the issues or frame additional issues on such terms as it thinks fit, and all such amendments or additional issues as may be necessary for determining the controversy between the parties shall be so made or framed.

Power to amend, add and strike out issues.

The Court may also, at any time before passing a decree, strike out any issues that appear to it to be wrongly framed or introduced.

150. When the parties to a suit are agreed as to the question of fact or of law to be decided between them, they may state the same in the form of an issue, and enter into an agreement in writing,

Questions of fact or law may by agreement be stated in the form of an issue.

(a) that upon the finding of the Court in the affirmative or the negative of such issue, a sum of money specified in the agreement, or to be ascertained by the Court, or in such manner as the Court may direct, shall be paid by one of the parties to the other of them, or that one of them be declared entitled to some right or subject to some liability specified in the agreement,

(b) that upon such finding some property specified in the agreement and in dispute in the suit shall be delivered by one of the parties to the other of them, or as that other may direct, or

(c) that upon such finding one or more of the parties shall do or abstain from doing some particular act, specified in the agreement, and relating to the matter in dispute.

No such agreement shall be filed after the Court has recorded issues in the suit, unless the Judge, for some reason to be recorded under his hand, otherwise directs.

151. If the Court be satisfied, after making such enquiry as it deems proper,

Court if satisfied that the agreement was executed in good faith may give judgment.

(a) that the agreement was duly executed by the parties,

(b) that they have a substantial interest in the decision of such question as aforesaid, and

(c) that the same is fit to be tried and decided,

it may proceed to record and try the issue, and deliver its finding or opinion thereon in the same manner as if the issue had been framed by the Court;

and may, upon the finding or decision on such issue, give judgment according to the terms of the agreement;

and upon the judgment so given, decree shall follow and may be executed in the same way as if the judgment had been pronounced in a contested suit.

CHAPTER XII.

DISPOSAL OF THE SUIT AT THE FIRST HEARING.

152. If at the first hearing of a suit it appears that the parties are not at issue on any question of law or of fact, the Court may at once give judgment.

If parties are not at issue on any question of law or fact.

153. Where there are more defendants than one, and any one of the defendants is not at issue with the plaintiff on any question of law or fact, the Court may at once give judgment for or against such defendant, and the suit shall proceed only against the other defendants.

If one of several defendants be not at issue with the plaintiff.

154. When the parties are at issue on some question of law or of fact, and issues have been framed by the Court as hereinbefore provided, if the Court be satisfied that no further argument or evidence than the parties can at once supply is required upon such of the issues as may be sufficient for the decision of the suit, and that no injustice will result from proceeding with the suit forthwith, the Court may proceed to determine such issue,

If parties are at issue on questions of law or fact.

and if the finding thereon is sufficient for the decision, may pronounce judgment accordingly, whether the summons has been issued for the settlement of issues only or for the final disposal of the suit:

Court may determine issue and give judgment.

Provided that, where the summons has been issued for the settlement of issues only, the parties or their pleaders are present and none of them object.

If the finding is not sufficient for the decision, the Court shall postpone the further hearing of the suit, and shall fix a day for the production of such further evidence, or for such further argument as the case requires.

155. If the summons has been issued for the final disposal of the suit, and either party fails without sufficient cause to produce the evidence on which he relies, the Court may at once give judgment, or if it is unable to give judgment by reason of additional evidence being required, or for any other cause, the Court shall frame and record, under section 146, the issues requiring to be determined.

If either party fails to produce his evidence, Court may give judgment.

Procedure where Court cannot give judgment at first hearing.

CHAPTER XIII.

OF ADJOURNMENTS.

156. The Court may, if sufficient cause be shown, at any stage of the suit, grant time to the parties, or to any of them, and may from time to time adjourn the hearing of the suit.

Court may grant time, or adjourn hearing.

In all such cases the Court shall fix a day for the further hearing of the suit, and may make such order as it thinks fit with respect to the costs occasioned by the adjournment:

Costs of adjournment.

Provided that, when the hearing of evidence has once begun, the hearing of the suit shall be continued from day to day until all the witnesses in attendance have been examined, unless the Court finds the adjournment of the hearing to be absolutely necessary for reasons to be recorded by the hand of the Judge.

157. If, on any day to which the hearing of the suit is adjourned, the parties or either of them fail to appear, the Court may proceed to dispose of the suit in one of the modes directed in that behalf by Chapter VII, or make such other order as it thinks fit.

Procedure if parties fail to appear on day fixed.

158. If either party to a suit to whom time has been granted fails to produce his evidence, or to cause the attendance of his witnesses, or to perform any other act necessary to the further progress of the suit, for which time has been allowed, the Court may, notwithstanding such default, proceed to decide the suit forthwith.

Court may proceed notwithstanding either party fails to produce his evidence.

CHAPTER XIV.

OF THE SUMMONING AND ATTENDANCE OF WITNESSES.

159. The parties may, after the summons has been delivered for service on the defendant, if the summons be for the final disposal of the suit;

Summons to attend to give evidence or produce documents.

or after the issues have been recorded, if the summons to the defendant be for the settlement of issues only, obtain, on application to the Court or to such officer as it appoints in this behalf, before the day fixed for such disposal or settlement, as the case may be, summonses to persons whose attendance is required either to give evidence or to produce a document.

160. The person applying for a summons shall pay into court such a sum of money as appears to the Court to be sufficient to defray the travelling and other expenses of the person summoned, in passing to and from the court in which he is required to attend, and for one day's attendance.

Expenses of witnesses to be paid into Court on applying for summons.

If the Court be subordinate to a High Court, regard shall be had, in fixing the scale of such expenses, to the rules (if any) laid down by competent authority.

Scale of expenses.

161. The sum so paid into court shall be tendered to the person summoned, at the time of serving the summons if it can be served personally.

Tender of expenses to witness.

162. If it appear to the Court or to such officer as it appoints in this behalf that the sum paid into court is not sufficient to cover such expenses, the Court may direct such further sum to be paid to the person summoned as appears to be necessary on that account; and, in case of default in payment, may order such sum to be levied by attachment and sale of the moveable property of the person obtaining the summons; or the Court may discharge the person summoned without requiring him to give evidence.

Procedure where insufficient sum paid in.

If it be necessary to detain the person summoned for a longer period than one day, the Court may from time to time order the party at whose instance he was summoned, to pay into court such sum as is sufficient to defray the expenses of his detention for such further period, and in default of such deposit being made, may order such sum to be levied by attachment and sale of the moveable property of the party at whose instance he was summoned; or the Court may discharge the person summoned without requiring him to give evidence.

Expenses if witness detained more than one day.

163. Every summons for the attendance of a person to give evidence or produce a document shall specify the time and place at which he is required to attend, and also whether his attendance is required for the purpose of giving evidence or to produce a document, or for both purposes; and any particular document which the person summoned is called on to produce, shall be described in the summons with reasonable accuracy.

Time, place, and purpose of attendance to be specified in summons.

164. Any person may be summoned to produce a document, without being summoned to give evidence; and any person summoned merely to produce a document shall be deemed to have complied with the summons, if he cause such document to be produced instead of attending personally to produce the same.

Summons to produce document.

165. Any person present in court may be required by the Court to give evidence or to produce any document then and there in his actual possession or power.

Power to require persons present in Court to give evidence.

Service of Summons on Persons required to give Evidence or produce Documents.

166. Every summons to a person to give evidence or produce a document shall be served as nearly as may be in manner hereinbefore prescribed for the service of summons on the defendant; and the rules contained in Chapter VI as to proof of service shall apply in the case of all summonses served under this section.

Summons how served.

167. The service shall in all cases be made a sufficient time before the time specified in the summons for the attendance of the person summoned, to allow him a reasonable time for preparation and for travelling to the place at which his attendance is required.

Time for serving summons.

168. If the serving officer certify to the Court that the summons for the attendance of a person, either to give evidence or to produce a document, cannot be served, the Court shall examine the serving-officer on oath touching the non-service:

Attachment of property of absconding witness.

and upon being satisfied that such evidence or production is material, and that the person for whose attendance the summons has been issued is absconding or keeping out of the way for the purpose of avoiding the service of the summons, may cause a proclamation requiring him to attend to give evidence, or produce the document, at a time and place to be named therein.;

and a copy of such proclamation shall be affixed on some conspicuous place of the house in which he is dwelling.

If he does not attend at the time and place named in such proclamation, the Court may in its discretion, at the instance of the party on whose application the summons was issued, make an order for the attachment of the property of the person whose attendance is required, to such amount as the Court thinks fit, not exceeding the amount of the costs of attachment and of the fine which may be imposed under section 170.

Provided that no Court of Small Causes shall make an order for the attachment of immoveable property.

169. If, on the attachment of his property, such person appears and satisfies the Court that he did not abscond or keep out of the way to avoid service of the summons, and that he had not notice of the proclamation in time to attend at the time and place named therein, the Court shall direct that the property be released from attachment, and shall make such order as to the costs of the attachment as it thinks fit.

If witness appears, attachment may be withdrawn.

170. If such person does not appear, or appearing, fails to satisfy the Court that he did not abscond or keep out of the way to avoid service of the summons, and that he had not notice of the proclamation in time to attend at the time and place named therein, the Court may impose upon him such fine not exceeding five hundred rupees as the Court thinks fit, having regard to his condition in life and all the circumstances of the case, and may order the property attached, or any part thereof, to be sold for the purpose of satisfying all costs incurred in consequence of such attachment, together with the amount of the said fine, if any:

Procedure if witness fails to appear.

Provided that if the person whose attendance is required pays into Court the costs and fine as aforesaid, the Court shall order the property to be released from attachment.

Attendance of Witnesses and Consequence of Non-attendance.

171. Subject to the rules of this Code as to attendance and appearance and to the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act, if the Court at any time thinks it necessary to examine any person other than a party to the suit, and not named as a witness by a party to the suit, the Court may, of its own motion, cause such person to be summoned as a witness to give evidence, or to produce any document in his possession, on a day to be appointed, and may examine him as a witness or require him to produce such document.

Court may of its own accord summon as witnesses strangers to suit.

172. Subject as last aforesaid, whoever is summoned to appear and give evidence in a suit must attend at the time and place named in the summons for that purpose, and whoever is summoned to produce a document must either attend to produce it, or cause it to be produced, at such time and place.

Persons summoned to give evidence must attend.

173. No person so summoned and attending shall depart unless and until (a) he has been examined or has produced the document and the Court has risen, or (b) he has obtained the Court's leave to depart.

When they may depart.

174. If any person on whom a summons to give evidence or produce a document has been served fails to comply with the summons, or if any person so summoned and attending departs in contravention of section 173, the Court may order him to be arrested and brought before the Court.

Consequences of non-attendance.

Provided that no such order shall be made when the Court has reason to believe that the person so failing had a lawful excuse for such failure.

When any person so brought before the Court fails to satisfy it that he had a lawful excuse for not complying with the summons, the Court may sentence him to fine not exceeding five hundred rupees.

Explanation.—Non-payment or non-tender of a reasonable sum for expenses shall be deemed a lawful excuse within the meaning of this section.

If any person so apprehended and brought before the Court cannot, owing to the absence of the parties or any of them, give the evidence or produce the document which he has been summoned to give or produce, the Court may require him to give reasonable bail for his appearance at such time and place as it thinks fit, and on such bail being given, may release him.

Consequences of refusal to give evidence or produce documents.

175. If any person so failing to comply with a summons absconds or keeps out of the way, so that he cannot be apprehended and brought before the Court, the provisions of sections 168, 169 and 170 shall, mutatis mutandis, apply.

Procedure when witness absconds.

176. If any party present in Court refuses, without lawful excuse, when required by the Court, to give evidence, or to produce such document then and there in his actual possession or power, the Court may in its discretion either pass a decree against him, or make such other order in relation to the suit as the Court thinks fit.

Consequence of refusal of party to give evidence when called on by the Court.

Nothing in this section enables the Court to decree a claim which on the face of the record is not warranted by law.

Explanation.—"Lawful excuse" means in this section such an excuse as, under the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, justifies a refusal to give the evidence or produce the document required.

177. No one shall be bound to attend in person to give evidence in Court unless he resides—

Person summoned to attend in person if so required.

(a) within the local limits of its ordinary original jurisdiction, or

(b) without such limits and at a place less than fifty or (where there is railway communication between the place where he resides and the place where the Court is situate) two hundred miles distant from the Court-house.

178. Whenever any party to a suit is required to give evidence or to produce a document, the rules as to witnesses contained in this Code shall apply to him so far as they are applicable.

Rules as to witnesses to apply to parties summoned.

CHAPTER XV.

OF THE HEARING OF THE SUIT AND EXAMINATION OF WITNESSES.

Proceedings on the Hearing.

179. On the day fixed for the hearing of the suit, or on any other day to which the hearing is adjourned, the party having the right to begin shall state his case and produce his evidence in support of the issues which he is bound to prove.

Statement and production of evidence by party having right to begin.

Explanation.—The plaintiff has the right to begin unless where the defendant admits the facts alleged by the plaintiff and contends that on those facts the plaintiff is not entitled to any part of the relief which he seeks, in which case the defendant has the right to begin.

Rules as to right to begin.

180. The other party shall then state his case and produce his evidence (if any).

Statement and production of evidence by other party.

The party beginning is then entitled to reply.

Reply by party beginning.

Where there are several issues, the burden of proving some of which lies on the other party, the party beginning may, at his option, either produce his evidence on those issues or reserve it by way of answer to the evidence produced by the other party. In the latter case the party beginning may produce fresh evidence on those issues after the other party has produced all his evidence, and the other party may then reply specially on such fresh evidence; but the party beginning will then be entitled to reply generally on the whole case.

181. The evidence of the witnesses in attendance shall be taken orally in open court in the presence and hearing, and under the personal direction and superintendence, of the Judge.

Witnesses to be examined in open court.

182. In cases in which an appeal is allowed the evidence of each witness shall be taken down in writing, in the language of the Court, by or in the presence and under the personal direction and superintendence of the Judge, not ordinarily in the form of question and answer, but in that of a narrative, and, when completed, shall be read over in the presence of the Judge and of the witness, and also in the presence of the parties or their pleaders, and shall, if necessary, be corrected, and shall be signed, by the Judge.

How evidence shall be taken in appealable cases.

183. In cases in which the evidence is not taken down in writing by the Judge, he shall be bound, as the examination of each witness proceeds, to make a memorandum of the substance of what each witness deposes, and such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Judge with his own hand, and shall form part of the record.

Memorandum when evidence is not taken down by Judge.

184. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 182, the Local Government may by notification in the official Gazette permit the evidence of witnesses in any Court or class of Courts to be taken down by the Judge with his own hand in English, and may withdraw such permission, and any Judge may take down the evidence with his own hand in English, if the parties to the suit who appear in person, and the pleaders of such as appear by pleaders, do not object.

Local Government may direct evidence to be taken down by Judge with his own hand.

185. If the evidence is taken down in a language different from that in which it was given, and the witness does not understand the language in which it is taken down, the evidence as taken down in writing shall be interpreted to him in the language in which it was given.

When witness may require his deposition to be interpreted.

186. The Court may of its own motion or on the application of any party or his pleader take down, or cause to be taken down, any particular question and answer, or any objection to any question, if there appear any special reason for so doing.

Any particular question and answer may be taken down.

187. If any question put to a witness be objected to by a party or his pleader, and the Court allows the same to be put, the Judge shall take down the question, the answer, the objection and the name of the person making it, together with the decision of the Court upon the objection.

Questions objected to.

188. The Court may record such remarks as it thinks material respecting the demeanour of any witness while under examination.

Remarks on demeanour of witnesses.

189. In cases in which an appeal is not allowed, it shall not be necessary to take down the evidence of the witnesses in writing at length; but the Judge, as the examination of each witness proceeds, shall make a memorandum of the substance of what he deposes, and such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Judge with his own hand, and shall form part of the record.

Memorandum of evidence in unappealable cases.

190. If the Judge be rendered unable to take down evidence, or to make a memorandum as above required by this Chapter, he shall cause the reason of such inability to be recorded, and shall cause the evidence to be taken down, or the memorandum to be made in writing from his dictation in open Court.

Judge unable to make such memorandum to record reason of his inability.

Every memorandum so made shall form part of the record.

191. Where the Judge taking down any evidence, or causing any memorandum to be made under this Chapter, dies or is removed from the Court before the conclusion of the suit, his successor may, if he thinks fit, deal with such evidence or memorandum as if he himself had taken it down or caused it to be made.

Power to deal with evidence taken down by Judge removed before conclusion of suit.

192. If a witness be about to leave the jurisdiction of the Court, or if other sufficient cause be shown to the satisfaction of the Court why his evidence should be taken immediately, the Court, may, upon the application of either party or of the witness at any time after the institution of the suit, take the evidence of such witness in manner hereinbefore provided.

Power to examine witness immediately.

Where such evidence is not taken forthwith and in the presence of the parties, such notice as the Court thinks sufficient of the day fixed for the examination shall be given to the parties.

The evidence so taken shall be read over to the witness, and, if he admits it to be correct, shall be signed by him, and may then be read at any hearing of the suit.

193. The Court may at any stage of the suit recall any witness who has been examined and who has not departed in accordance with section 173, and may (subject to the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act) put such questions to him as the Court thinks fit.

Court may recall and examine witness.

CHAPTER XVI.

OF AFFIDAVITS.

194. The Court may at any time for sufficient reason order that any particular fact or facts may be proved by affidavit, or that the affidavit of any witness may be read at the hearing, on such conditions as the Court thinks reasonable:

Power to order any point to be proved by affidavit.

Provided that where it appears to the Court that the other party bonâ fide desires the production of a witness for cross-examination, and that such witness can be produced, an order shall not be made authorizing the evidence of such witness to be given by affidavit.

195. Upon any application evidence may be given by affidavit, but the Court may on the application of either party order the attendance for cross-examination of the declarant.

When evidence may be given by affidavit.

196. Affidavits shall be confined to such facts as the declarant is able of his own knowledge to prove, except on interlocutory applications, on which statements of his belief may be admitted, provided that reasonable grounds thereof be set forth.

Matters to which affidavits shall be confined.

The costs of every affidavit which shall unnecessarily set forth matters of hearsay or argumentative matter, or copies of or extracts from documents, shall be paid by the party filing the same.

197. In the case of any affidavit under this Code—

Oath of declarant by whom to be administered.

(a) any Court or Magistrate, or

(b) any officer whom a High Court may appoint in this behalf, or

(c) any officer appointed by any other Court which the Local Government has generally or specially empowered in this behalf, may administer the oath of the declarant.

CHAPTER XVII.

OF JUDGMENT AND DECREE.

198. The Court, after inspecting the documentary evidence on the record, and examining or hearing the witnesses examined by the parties or their pleaders, and hearing the parties in person or by their respective pleaders or recognized agents, shall pronounce judgment in open Court, either at once or on some future day, of which due notice shall be given to the parties or their pleaders.

Judgment when pronounced.

199. A Judge may pronounce a judgment written by his predecessor, but not pronounced, and in such case he shall not be bound by section 198, except as to giving notice.

Power to pronounce judgment written by Judge's predecessor.

200. The judgment shall be written in the language of the Court:

Judgment to be written in language of Court.

Provided that, if such language is not English or the Judge's mother-tongue, the judgment may be written in English or his mother-tongue.

Proviso.

201. Whenever the judgment is written in any language other than that of the Court, the judgment shall, if any of the parties so require, be translated into the language of the Court, and the translation shall also be signed by the Judge or such officer as he appoints in this behalf.

Translation of judgment.

202. The judgment shall be dated and signed by the Judge in open Court at the time of pronouncing it, and shall not be altered or added to, save to correct verbal errors or on review.

Judgment to be dated and signed.

203. The judgments of the Courts of Small Causes need not contain more than the points for determination and the decision thereupon.

Judgments of Small Cause Courts.

The judgments of all other Courts shall contain a concise statement of the case, the points for determination, the decision thereon, and the reasons for such decision.

Judgments of other Courts.

204. In suits in which issues have been framed, the Court shall state its finding or decision, with the reasons thereof, upon each separate issue, unless the finding upon any one or more of the issues be sufficient for the decision of the suit.

Court to state its decision on each issue.

Exception.

205. The decree shall bear date the day on which the judgment was pronounced; and when the Judge has satisfied himself that the decree has been drawn up in accordance with the judgment, he shall sign the decree.

Date of decree.

206. The decree must agree with the judgment: it shall contain the number of the suit, the names and descriptions of the parties, and particulars of the claim, as stated in the register, and shall specify clearly the relief granted or other determination of the suit.

Contents of decree.

The decree shall also state the amount of costs incurred in the suit, and by what parties and in what proportions such costs are to be paid.

If the decree is found to be at variance with the judgment, or if any clerical or arithmetical error be found in the decree, the Court shall, of its own motion or on that of any of the parties, amend the decree so as to bring it into conformity with the judgment or to correct such error: provided that reasonable notice have been given to the parties or their pleaders of the proposed amendment.

Power to amend decree.

207. When the subject-matter of the suit is immoveable property, and such property is identified by boundaries or numbers in a record of settlement or survey, if the decree be for the recovery of a portion only of such property, it shall specify the boundaries or number of such portion.

Decree for recovery of portion of immoveable property.

208. When the suit is for moveable property, if the decree be for the delivery of such property, it shall also state the amount of money to be paid as an alternative if delivery cannot be had.

Decree for delivery of moveable property.

209. When the suit is for a sum of money due to the plaintiff, the Court may, in the decree, order interest at such rate as the Court thinks proper to be paid on the principal sum adjudged, from the date of the suit to the date of the decree, in addition to any interest adjudged on such principal sum for any period prior to the institution of the suit, with further interest not exceeding six per centum per annum on the aggregate sum so adjudged, and on the costs of the suit, from the date of the decree to the date of payment, or to such earlier date as the Court thinks fit.

In suits for money, decree may order certain interest to be paid on principal sum adjudged.

210. In all decrees for the payment of money, the Court may for any sufficient reason order that the amount shall be paid by instalments, with or without interest.

Payment by instalments.

And on the application of the defendant at any time not more than six months after decree, the Court may order that the amount of the decree be paid by instalments on such terms as to the payment of interest, the attachment of the property of the defendant, or the taking of security from him, or otherwise, as it thinks fit: provided that, before granting such application, reasonable notice in writing has been given to the plaintiff or his pleader, and that the Court has heard the objections, if any, made by the plaintiff or on his behalf.

Court may order payment by instalments.

Save as provided in this section and section 206, no decree shall be altered at the request of parties.

211. When the suit is for land or other property yielding rent or other profit, the Court may provide in the decree for the payment of rent or mesne profits in respect of such property from the institution of the suit until the delivery of possession to the party in whose favour the decree is made, or until the expiration of one year from the date of the decree (whichever event first occurs), with interest thereupon at such rate as the Court thinks fit.

In suits for land, Court may decree payment of mesne profits with interest.

Explanation.—'mesne profits' of property mean those profits which the person in wrongful possession of such property actually received, or might with ordinary diligence have received, therefrom.

212. When the suit is for immoveable property and for mesne profits which have accrued on the property during a period prior to the institution of the suit, and the amount of such profits is disputed, the Court may either determine the amount by the decree itself, or may pass a decree for the property and direct an enquiry into the amount of mesne profits, and dispose of the same on further orders.

Court may determine amount of mesne profits prior to passing decree, or may reserve enquiry.

213. When the suit is for an account of any property and for its due administration under the decree of the Court, the Court, before making the decree, shall order such accounts and enquiries to be taken and made, and give such other directions as it thinks fit.

Administration-suit.

In the administration by the Court of the property of any person who dies after this Code comes into force, if such property proves to be insufficient for the payment in full of his debts and liabilities, the same rules shall be observed as to the respective rights of secured and unsecured creditors and as to debts and liabilities provable, and as to the valuation of annuities and future and contingent liabilities respectively, as may be in force for the time being with respect to the estates of persons adjudged insolvent;

and all persons who in any such case would be entitled to be paid out of such property may come in under the decree for its administration, and make such claims against the same as they may respectively be entitled to by virtue of this Code.

Explanation.—Applications under section 265 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, shall be deemed to be suits within the meaning of this section.

214. When the suit is for the dissolution of a partnership, the Court, before making its decree, may pass an order fixing the day on which the partnership shall stand dissolved, and directing such accounts to be taken and other acts to be done as it thinks fit.

Suit for dissolution of partnership.

215. If the defendant has set-off the amount of a debt against the claim of the plaintiff and such set-off has been allowed, the decree shall state what amount is due to the plaintiff and what amount (if any) is due to the defendant, and shall be for the recovery of any sum which appears to be due to either party.

If set-off be allowed.

The decree of the Court with respect to any sum awarded to the defendant shall have the same effect, and be subject to the same rules in respect of appeal or otherwise, as if such sum had been claimed by the defendant in a separate suit against the plaintiff.

Effect of decree.

216. Certified copies of the judgment and decree shall be furnished to the parties on application to the Court, and at their expense.

Certified copies of decree and judgment to be furnished.

CHAPTER XVIII.

OF COSTS.

217. When disposing of any application under this Code the Court may give to either party the costs of such application, or may reserve the consideration of such costs for any future stage of the proceedings.

Costs of applications.

218. The judgment shall direct by whom the costs of each party are to be paid, whether by himself or by any other party to the suit, and whether in whole or in what part or proportion.

Judgment to direct by whom costs are to be paid.

219. The Court shall have full power to give and apportion costs of every application and suit in any manner it thinks fit, and the fact that the Court has no jurisdiction to try the case is no bar to the exercise of such power:

Power of Court as to costs.

Provided if the Court directs that the costs of any application or suit shall not follow the event, the Court shall state its reasons in writing.

220. The Court may direct that the costs payable to one party by another shall be set off against a sum which is admitted or is found in the suit to be due from the former to the latter.

Costs may be set off against sum admitted or found to be due.

221. The Court may give interest on costs at any rate not exceeding six per cent. per annum, and may direct that costs, with or without interest, be paid out of or charged upon the subject-matter of the suit.

Interest on costs.

Costs may be paid out of or charged on subject-matter of suit.

222. There shall be no appeal on a question solely relating to costs except on either of the following grounds (namely)

Questions of costs when appealable.

(a) that the costs are payable out of or chargeable on some property; or

(b) that the mode in which the costs have been given is inconsistent with some enactment for the time being in force.

Illustration.

A, an incumbrancer upon a certain estate, sues to compel the payment of his charge. The Court decrees him his principal and interest, but refuses his costs. A may appeal against this refusal, for every incumbrancer has a lien for his costs on the property charged.

CHAPTER XIX.

OF THE EXECUTION OF DECREES.

A.—Of the Court by which Decrees may be executed.

223. A decree may be executed either by the Court which passed it or by the Court to which it is sent for execution under the provisions hereinafter contained.

Court by which decree may be executed.

The Court which passed a decree may, on the application of the decree-holder, send it for execution to another Court,

(a) if the person against whom the decree is passed actually and voluntarily resides or carries on business, or personally works for gain, within the local limits of the jurisdiction of such other Court, or

(b) if such person has not property within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court which passed the decree sufficient to satisfy such decree and has property within the local limits of the jurisdiction of such other Court, or

(c) if the Court which passed the decree considers for any other reason, which it shall record in writing, that the decree should be executed by such other Court.

Notice of every such application shall be served on the judgment-debtor, and the Court after hearing the objections which he or his pleader may urge against the application, may send the decree for execution accordingly.

And the Court to which a decree is sent for execution shall certify to the Court which passed it, the fact of such execution, or where the former Court fails to execute the same, the circumstances attending such failure.

If the decree has been passed in a case cognizable by a Court of Small Causes and the Court making it wishes it to be executed in Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, or Rangoon, the Court making it may send to the local Court of Small Causes the copies and certificate respectively mentioned in clauses (a), (b) and (c) of section 225; and such Court shall thereupon execute the decree as if it had been passed by itself.

Provided that if the Court passing the decree is subordinate to a District Court, it shall send the decree to the District Court to which it is subordinate, and such Court shall deal with the decree as if it had been passed by itself.

224. A decree of any Court established by the authority of the Governor General in Council in the territories of any Native Prince or State in India, which cannot be executed within the jurisdiction of the Court by which it was made, may be executed in manner hereinafter provided within the jurisdiction of any Court in British India.

Decrees of Courts established by Government of India in Native States.

225. The Court desiring that a decree passed by itself shall be executed by another Court shall send such other Court,—

Procedure when Court desires that its own decree shall be executed by another Court.

(a) a copy of the decree;

(b) a certificate setting forth that satisfaction of the decree has not been obtained by execution within the jurisdiction of the Court by which it was passed, or, where the decree has been executed in part, the extent to which satisfaction has been obtained and what part of the decree remains unexecuted; and

(c) a copy of any order for the execution of the decree, and if no such order has been made, a certificate to that effect.

Provided that if the Court passing the decree is subordinate to a District Court, it shall send such copies and certificate to the District Court to which it is subordinate, and such Court shall forward them to the Court by which the decree is to be executed.

226. The Court executing a decree so sent shall cause such copies and certificate to be filed, without any further proof of the decree or order for execution, or of the copies thereof, or of the jurisdiction of the Court which passed it, unless the Court, for any special reasons to be recorded under the hand of the Judge, requires such proof.

Court receiving copies of decree, &c., to file same without proof.

227. The copy of the decree and of any order for execution, when filed in the Court to which such copy has been sent for the purpose of being executed as aforesaid, shall for such purpose have the same effect as a decree or order for execution made by such Court.

Transmitted copy of decree or order to have same effect as decree of Court to which it is sent for execution.

228. If the Court to which the decree is sent for execution be a High Court, the decree shall be executed by such Court in the same manner as if it had been made by such Court in the exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction.

Execution by High Court, of decree transmitted by other Court.

229. The Court executing a decree sent to it under this chapter shall have the same powers in executing such decree as if it had been passed by itself. All persons disobeying or obstructing the execution of the decree shall be punishable by such Court in the same manner as if it had passed the decree. And its orders in executing such decree shall be subject to the same rules in respect of appeal, as if the decree had been passed by itself.

Appeal from orders for execution of decrees of other Courts.

B.—Of Application for Execution.

230. When the holder of a decree desires to enforce it, he shall apply to the Court which passed the decree or to the officer, if any, appointed in this behalf, or if the decree has been sent under the provisions hereinbefore contained to another Court, then to such Court.

Application for execution.

The Court may in its discretion refuse execution at the same time against the person and property of the judgment-debtor.

Where an application to execute a decree for the payment of money or delivery of other property has been made under this section and granted, no subsequent application to execute the same decree shall be granted unless the Court is satisfied that on the former application due diligence was used to procure complete satisfaction of the decree; and the order of the Court granting such application shall be conclusive evidence that due diligence was used to procure such satisfaction.

And no such subsequent application shall be granted after the expiration of twelve years from any of the following dates (namely)—

(a) the date of the decree sought to be enforced, or

(c) where the decree is for money and the decree-holder and the judgment-debtor have entered into an agreement in writing that the amount decreed, with such interest (if any) as may be therein mentioned, shall be discharged by such instalments as, if duly paid, will discharge the said amount and interest at some time within thirty years from the date of the decree, and such agreement has been filed in Court,—the date of the default in paying the instalment in respect of which the applicant seeks to enforce the decree.

Nothing in this section shall prevent any decree-holder from applying for execution of the same after the expiration of the said term of twelve years, where the judgment-debtor has by fraud or force prevented the execution of the decree at some time within twelve years immediately before the date of the application.

Any one of several decree-holders may apply.

231. If a decree has been passed in favour of more persons than one, any one or more of such persons, or his or their representatives, may apply for the execution of the whole decree for the benefit of them all, or, where any of them has died, for the benefit of the survivors and the representatives in interest of the deceased.

If the Court sees sufficient cause for allowing the decree to be executed on an application so made, it shall pass such order as it deems necessary for protecting the interests of the persons who have not joined in the application.

Application by transferee of decree.

232. If a decree be transferred by assignment in writing or by operation of law from the decree-holder to any other person, the transferee may apply for its execution to the Court which passed it; and if that Court thinks fit, the decree may be executed in the same manner and subject to the same conditions as if the application were made by such decree-holder:

Provided that where the decree has been transferred by assignment, notice in writing of such application shall be given to the transferor and the judgment-debtor, and that the decree shall not be executed until the Court has heard their objections (if any) to such execution:

Provided also that where a decree against several persons has been transferred to one of them, it shall not be executed against the others.

Transferee to hold subject to equities enforcable against original holder.

Every transferee of a decree shall hold the same subject to the equities (if any) which the judgment-debtor might have enforced against the original decree-holder.

Enforcement of execution by Court applied to.

233. When the holder of a decree sent under the foregoing provisions for execution by a Court other than the Court which made it, applies for execution of the decree to the Court to which it has been so sent, such Court, or any subordinate Court to which the execution of the decree may be entrusted, shall proceed to execute the decree according to the provisions of this chapter so far as the same are applicable, and, so far as they are not applicable, according to its own rules in the like cases:

Such Court shall not enquire into the validity of the decree unless it appear upon the face of the decree that the Court by which it was passed had no jurisdiction to pass it.

If judgment-debtor die before execution, application may be made against his representative.

234. If a judgment-debtor dies before the decree has been fully executed, the holder of the decree may apply for its execution against the legal representative of the deceased.

Such representative shall be liable only to the extent of the property of the deceased which has come to his hands and has not been duly disposed of; and for the purpose of ascertaining such liability, the Court executing the decree may of its own motion, or on the application of the decree-holder, compel the said representative to produce such accounts as it thinks fit.

Contents of application for execution of decree.

235. The application for the execution of a decree shall be in writing, verified in manner hereinbefore provided for the verification of plaints, and shall contain in a tabular form the following particulars, (namely)—

(a) the number of the suit;

(b) the names of the parties;

(c) the date of the decree;

(d) whether any appeal has been preferred from the decree;

(e) whether any and what adjustment of the matter in dispute has been made between the parties subsequently to the decree;

(f) whether any and what previous applications have been made for execution of the decree and with what result;

(g) the amount of the debt or compensation, with the interest, if any, due upon the decree, or other relief granted thereby;

(h) the amount of costs, if any, awarded;

(i) the name of the person against whom the enforcement of the decree is sought, and

(j) the mode in which the assistance of the Court is required, whether by the delivery of property specifically decreed, by the arrest and imprisonment of the person named in the application, or by the attachment of his property, or otherwise as the nature of the relief sought may require.

Further particulars when application is for attachment of immoveable property.

236. If the application be for the attachment of any immoveable property belonging to the judgment-debtor, it shall contain at the foot a description of the property sufficient to identify it, and also a specification of the judgment-debtor's share or interest therein to the best of the belief of the applicant and so far as he has been able to ascertain the same.

Every such description and specification shall be verified in manner hereinbefore provided for the verification of plaints.

When application must be accompanied by extract from Collector's register.

237. If the property be land which, whether it pays revenue to Government or not, is registered in the Collector's office, the application for attachment shall be accompanied by an authenticated extract from the register of such office, specifying the persons registered as proprietors of, or as possessing any transferable interest in, the land or its revenue, or as liable to pay revenue for such land, and the shares of the registered proprietors.

Application for attachment of moveable property to be accompanied with inventory.

238. Every decree-holder applying for an attachment of any moveable property of the judgment-debtor shall annex to his application an inventory of the property to be attached, containing a reasonably accurate description of the same.

C.—Of staying Execution.

When Court may stay execution.

239. The Court to which a decree has been sent for execution under this Chapter, shall upon sufficient cause being shown, stay the execution of such decree for a reasonable time, to enable the judgment debtor to apply to the Court by which the decree was made, or to any Court having appellate jurisdiction in respect of the decree or the execution thereof, for an order to stay the execution, or for any other order relating to the decree or execution which might have been made by such Court of first instance or appellate Court if execution had been issued thereby, or if application for execution had been made thereto;

and in case the property or person of the judgment-debtor has been seized under an execution, the Court which issued the execution may order the restitution or discharge of such property or the person pending the result of the application for such order.

Power to require security from, or impose conditions upon, judgment-debtor.

240. Before passing an order to stay execution, or for the restitution of property or the discharge of the judgment-debtor under section 239, the Court may require such security from, or impose such conditions upon, the judgment-debtor as it thinks fit.

Liability of judgment-debtor discharged to be retaken.

241. No discharge under section 239 of the property or person of a judgment-debtor, shall prevent it or him from being retaken in execution of the decree.

Order of Court passing decree or of Appellate Court to be binding upon Court applied to.

242. Any order of the Court by which the decree was passed or of such Court of appeal as aforesaid, in relation to the execution of such decree shall be binding upon the Court to which the decree was sent for execution.

Stay of execution pending suit between decree-holder and judgment-debtor.

243. If a suit be pending in any Court against the holder of a decree of such Court, on the part of the person against whom the decree was passed, the Court may (if it think fit), stay execution on the decree, either absolutely or on such terms as it thinks fit, until the pending suit has been decided.

Question to be decided by Court executing decree.

244. The following questions shall be determined by order of the Court executing a decree and not by separate suit (namely)—

(a) questions regarding the amount of any mesne profits which by the terms of the decree have been directed to be adjusted in the execution of the decree;

(b) questions regarding the amount of any mesne profits or interest which the decree has made payable in respect of the subject-matter of a suit between the date of its institution and the execution of the decree;

(c) any other questions arising between the parties to the suit in which the decree was passed, or their representatives, and relating to the execution of the decree.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to bar a separate suit for mesne profits accruing between the institution of the first suit and the execution of the decree therein, where such profits are not dealt with by the decree.

D.—Of the mode of executing Decrees.

Procedure on receiving application for execution of decree.

245. The Court, on receiving an application for the execution of a decree, shall ascertain whether it contains the particulars mentioned in section 235, or such of them as may be applicable to the case, and whether it is accompanied by the inventory mentioned in section 238, and if such particulars or inventory are or is wanting, it shall reject the application or return it for amendment or for the addition of the inventory, as the case may be, or amend it then and there. Every amendment made under this section shall be attested by the signature of the Judge.

Procedure on admitting application.

When the application is admitted, the Court shall enter in the register of the suit a note of the application and the date on which it was made, and shall order execution of the decree according to the nature of the application:

Provided that, in the case of a decree for money, the value of the property attached shall as nearly as may be correspond with the amount for which the decree has been made.

Cross-decrees.

246. If cross-decrees between the same parties for the payment of money be produced to the Court, execution shall be taken out only by the party who holds a decree for the larger sum, and for so much only as remains after deducting the smaller sum, and satisfaction for the smaller sum shall be entered on the decree for the larger sum as well as satisfaction on the decree for the smaller sum.

If the two sums be equal, satisfaction shall be entered upon both decrees.

Explanation I.—The decrees contemplated by this section are (a) decrees made by the same Court, (b) decrees sent to the same Court for execution, and (c) decrees of which one is made by the Court and the other is sent to the same Court for execution; but not (d) decrees of which one is made by one Court and the other is made by another Court, and not sent for execution to the former Court.

Explanation II.—This section applies where either party is an assignee of one of the decrees.

Explanation III.—This section does not apply unless

(e) both decrees are capable of execution at the same time;

(f) the parties are the same; and

(g) the sums due under the decrees are definite.

Illustrations.

(a) A holds a decree against B for Rs. 1,000. B holds a decree against A for the payment of Rs. 1,000. In case A fails to deliver certain goods at a future day, B cannot treat his decree as a cross-decree under this section.

(b) A and B, co-plaintiffs, obtain a decree for Rs. 1,000 against C, and C obtains a decree for Rs. 1,000 against B. C cannot treat his decree as a cross-decree under this section.

(c) A obtains a decree against B for Rs. 1,000. C, who is a trustee for B, obtains a decree on behalf of B against A for Rs. 1,000. B cannot treat C's decree as a cross-decree under this section.

Cross-claims under same decree.

247. When two parties are entitled under the same decree to recover from each other sums of different amounts, the party entitled to the smaller sum shall not take out execution against the other party; but satisfaction for the smaller sum shall be entered on the decree.

When the amounts are equal, neither party shall take out execution, but satisfaction for each sum shall be entered on the decree.

Notice to show cause why decree should not be executed.

248. The Court shall issue a notice to the party against whom execution is applied for, requiring him to show cause, within a period to be fixed by the Court, why the decree should not be executed against him,

(a) if more than one year has elapsed between the date of the decree and the application for its execution, or

(b) if the enforcement of the decree be applied for against the legal representative of a party to the suit in which the decree was made:

Proviso.

Provided that no such notice shall be necessary

in consequence of more than one year having elapsed between the date of the decree and the application for execution, if the application be made within one year from the date of the last order passed on any previous application for execution, or in consequence of the application being against the legal representative of the judgment-debtor if upon a previous application for execution against the same person, the Court has ordered execution to issue against him.

Explanation.—In this section the phrase "the Court" means the Court by which the decree was passed, unless the decree has been sent to another Court for execution, in which case it means such other Court.

Procedure after issue of notice.

249. If the person to whom notice is issued under the last preceding section does not appear, or does not show cause to the satisfaction of the Court why the decree should not be executed, the Court shall order the decree to be executed.

If he offers any objection to the enforcement of the decree, the Court shall pass such order as it thinks fit.

Warrant when to issue.

250. When the preliminary measures (if any) required by the foregoing provisions have been taken, the Court, unless it sees cause to the contrary, shall issue its warrant for the execution of the decree.

Date, signature, seal and delivery.

251. The warrant for the execution of the decree shall bear the date of the day on which it is issued, and shall be signed by the Judge or such officer as the Court appoints in this behalf, and shall be sealed with the seal of the Court, and delivered to the proper officer to be executed.

Decree against representative of deceased for money to be paid out of deceased's property.

252. If the decree be against a party as the legal representative of a deceased person, and the decree be for money to be paid out of the property of the deceased, it may be executed by the attachment and sale of any such property.

If no such property can be found, and the judgment-debtor fails to satisfy the Court that he has duly applied such property of the deceased as is proved to have come into his possession, the decree may be executed against the judgment-debtor to the extent of the property not duly applied by him, in the same manner as if the decree had been against him personally.

Decree against surety.

253. Whenever a person has, before the passing of a decree in an original suit, become liable as surety for the performance of the same or of any part thereof, the decree may be executed against him to the extent to which he has rendered himself liable, in the same manner as a decree may be executed against a defendant:

Provided that such notice in writing as the Court in each case thinks sufficient has been given to the surety.

Decree against partners in name of firm.

254. Where a decree is against partners in the name of the firm, execution may issue in manner following:—

(a) against any property of the partners as such:

(b) against any person who has admitted in the suit that he is or has been adjudged to be a partner:

(c) against any person who has been served as a partner, with the summons, and has failed to appear.

If the decree-holder claims to be entitled to issue execution against any other person as being a member of the firm, he may apply to the Court for leave so to do; and the Court may give such leave if notice of the application has been served on such other person and the liability to execution is not disputed, or, if such liability is disputed, may try and determine the same in any manner in which any issue or question in a suit may be tried and determined.

Decree for money.

255. Every decree or order directing a party to pay money, whether by way of compensation, or costs, or otherwise, shall be enforced by the imprisonment of the judgment-debtor, or by the attachment and sale of his property in manner hereinafter provided, or by both.

Explanation.—A decree for mesne profits or any other matter, the amount of which, in money, is to be subsequently determined, is a decree for money within the meaning of this section.

Power to direct immediate execution of decree for money not exceeding Rs. 1,000.

256. When a decree is passed for a sum of money only, and the amount decreed does not exceed the sum of one thousand rupees, the Court may, when passing the decree, on the oral application of the decree-holder, order immediate execution thereof by the issue of a warrant directed either against the person of the judgment-debtor if he is within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, or against his moveable property within the same limits.

Order for payment of money as an alternative.

257. Payment of a sum of money ordered to be paid as the alternative to some other relief granted by the decree shall be enforced in manner hereinbefore provided for the execution of a decree for money.

Modes of paying money under decree.

258. All money payable under a decree shall be paid as follows (namely)—

(a) into the Court whose duty it is to execute the decree, or,

(b) out of Court to the decree-holder; or

(c) otherwise as the Court which made the decree directs.

If the money is paid out of Court or the decree is otherwise adjusted to the decree-holder, he shall certify the payment or adjustment to the Court whose duty it is to execute the decree; and no satisfaction of a decree in part or in whole by such payment or adjustment shall be recognized by such Court unless the payment or adjustment be certified as aforesaid. Where the decree-holder fails to certify as aforesaid, the judgment-debtor or his pleader may, within eight days of the date of payment, apply to such Court for an order compelling the decree-holder to certify as aforesaid, and the Court, after hearing the decree-holder or his pleader, may make such order.

Decrees for specific moveables, or recovery of wives.

259. If the decree be for any specific moveable, or for any share in a specific moveable, or for the recovery of a wife, it shall be enforced by the seizure, if practicable, of the moveable or share, and by the delivery thereof to the party to whom it has been adjudged, or to such person as he appoints to receive delivery on his behalf, or by the imprisonment of the judgment-debtor, or by attaching his property and keeping the same under attachment until the further order of the Court, or by both imprisonment and attachment, if necessary.

No attachment under this section shall remain in force for more than six months, at the end of which time, if the judgment-debtor has not obeyed the decree, the property attached may be sold, and out of the proceeds the Court may award to the decree-holder such compensation as it thinks fit, and pay the balance, if any, to the judgment-debtor on his application.

Decree for specific performance or restitution of conjugal rights.

260. When the party against whom a decree for the specific performance of a contract, or for restitution of conjugal rights, has been made, has had an opportunity of obeying the decree or injunction and has wilfully failed to obey it, the decree may be enforced by his imprisonment, or by the attachment of his property, or by both.

No attachment under this section shall remain in force for more than one year, at the end of which time, if the judgment-debtor has not obeyed the decree, the property attached may be sold and out of the proceeds the Court may award to the decree-holder such compensation as it thinks fit and may pay the balance, if any, to the judgment-debtor on his application.

Decree for execution of conveyances, or endorsement of negotiable instruments.

261. If the decree be for the execution of a conveyance, or for the endorsement of a negotiable instrument, and the judgment-debtor neglects or refuses to comply with the decree, the decree-holder may prepare the draft of a conveyance or endorsement in accordance with the terms of the decree, and deliver the same to the Court.

The Court shall thereupon cause the draft to be served on the judgment-debtor in manner hereinbefore provided for serving a summons, together with a notice in writing stating that his objections, if any, thereto shall be made within such time (mentioning it) as the Court fixes in this behalf.

The decree-holder may also tender a duplicate of the draft to the Court for execution upon the proper stamp-paper, if a stamp is required by law.

On proof of such service, the Court, or such officer as it appoints in this behalf, shall execute the duplicate so tendered, or may, if necessary, alter the same, so as to bring it into accordance with the terms of the decree, and execute the duplicate so altered:

Provided that if any party object to the draft so served as aforesaid, his objections shall, within the time so fixed, be stated in writing and argued before the Court, and the Court shall thereupon pass such order as it thinks fit, and execute, or alter and execute, the duplicate in accordance therewith.

Form and effect of execution of conveyance by Court.

262. The execution of a conveyance or the endorsement of a negotiable instrument by the Court under the last preceding section may be in the following form: "C. D., Judge of the Court of (or as the case may be), for A. B., in a suit by E. F., against A. B.," or in such other form as the High Court may from time to time prescribe, and shall have the same effect as the execution of the conveyance or endorsement of the instrument by the party ordered to execute or endorse the same.

Decree for immoveable property.

263. If the decree be for the delivery of any immoveable property, possession thereof shall be delivered over to the party to whom it has been adjudged, or to such person as he appoints to receive delivery on his behalf, and, if need be, by removing any person bound by the decree who refuses to vacate the property.

264. If the decree be for any immoveable property in the occupancy of a tenant or other person entitled to occupy the same, the Court shall order delivery to be made by affixing a copy of the warrant in some conspicuous place on the property, and proclaiming to the occupant by beat of drum, or in such other mode as is customary, at some convenient place, the substance of the decree in regard to the property:

Delivery of immoveable property when in occupancy of tenant.

Provided that if the occupant can be found, a notice in writing containing such substance shall be served upon him, and in such case no proclamation need be made.

265. If the decree be for the partition or for the separate possession of a share of an undivided estate, paying revenue to Government, the partition of the estate or the separation of the share shall be made by the Collector.

Partition of estate or separation of share.

E.—Of Attachment of Property.

266. The following property is liable to attachment and sale in execution of a decree, (namely), lands, houses or other buildings, goods, money, bank-notes, cheques, bills of exchange, hundís, promissory notes, Government securities, bonds or other securities for money, debts, shares in the capital or joint-stock of any railway, banking or other public Company or Corporation, and, except as hereinafter mentioned, all other saleable property, moveable or immoveable, belonging to the judgment-debtor, and whether the same be held in the name of the judgment-debtor or by another person in trust for him or on his behalf:

Property liable to attachment and sale in execution of decree.

Provided that the following particulars shall not be liable to such attachment or sale (namely)—

(a) the necessary wearing apparel of the judgment-debtor, his wife and children:

(b) tools of artizans, implements of husbandry and cattle kept bonâ fide for agricultural purposes:

(c) the materials of houses and other buildings belonging to and occupied by agriculturists:

(d) books of account:

(e) mere rights to sue for damages:

(f) the right to perform the service of an idol:

(g) stipends allowed to military and civil pensioners of Government, and political pensions:

(h) the salary of a public officer or of the servant of a Railway Company:

(i) the pay and allowances of persons to whom the Native Articles of War apply:

(j) the wages of labourers and domestic servants:

(k) an expectancy of succession by survivorship:

(l) a right to future maintenance.

Provided also that nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the statute for the time being in force for punishing mutiny and desertion and for the better payment of the Army and their quarters.

267. The Court may of its own motion or on the application of the decree-holder, summon any person whom it thinks necessary, and examine him in respect to any property liable to be seized in satisfaction of the decree, and may require the person summoned to produce any document in his possession or power relating to such property.

Power to summon and examine persons as to property liable to be seized.

268. In the case of (a) a debt not secured by a negotiable instrument, (b) a share in the capital of any public company or corporation, (c) other moveable property not in the possession of the judgment-debtor, except property deposited in, or in the custody of, any Court, the attachment shall be made by a written order prohibiting,

Attachment of debt, share and other property not in possession of judgment-debtor.

(a) in the case of the debt, the creditor from recovering the debt and the debtor from making payment thereof until the further order of the Court:

(b) in the case of the share, the person in whose name the share may be standing, from transferring the same or receiving any dividend thereon:

(c) in the case of the other moveable property except as aforesaid, the person in possession of the same from giving it over to the judgment-debtor.

A copy of such order shall be fixed up in some conspicuous part of the Court-house, and another copy of the same shall be sent in the case of the debt to the debtor, in the case of the share to the proper officer of the company or corporation, and in the case of the other moveable property (except as aforesaid) to the person in possession of the same.

A debtor prohibited under clause (a) of this section may pay the amount of his debt into Court, and such payment shall discharge him as effectually as payment to the party entitled to receive the same.

No attachment under this section shall remain in force for more than six months; at the end of which time, if the judgment-debtor has not obeyed the decree, the property attached may be sold, and out of the proceeds the Court may award to the decree-holder such compensation as it thinks fit, and pay the balance, if any, to the judgment-debtor on his application.

269. If the property be moveable property in the possession of the judgment-debtor, other than the property mentioned in the first proviso to section 266, the attachment shall be made by actual seizure, and the attaching officer shall keep the property in his own custody or in the custody of one of his subordinates, and shall be responsible for the due custody thereof:

Attachment of moveable property in possession of defendant.

Provided that when the property seized is subject to speedy and natural decay, the proper officer may sell it at once.

The Local Government may from time to time make rules for the maintenance and custody, while under attachment, of livestock and other moveable property, and the officer attaching property under this section shall, notwithstanding the provisions of the former part of this section, act in accordance with such rules.

Power to make rules for maintenance of attached livestock.

270. If the property be a negotiable instrument not in deposit in a Court, the attachment shall be made by actual seizure, and the instrument shall be brought into Court and held subject to the further orders of the Court.

Attachment of negotiable instruments.

271. If the person executing any process under this Code directing or authorising seizure of moveable property, has gained access to a house or other building, he may unfasten and open the door of any room in which he has reason to believe any such property to be:

Seizure of property in house.

Provided that if the room be in the actual occupancy of a woman, who according to the customs of the country does not appear in public, the person executing the process shall give notice to her that she is at liberty to withdraw; and after allowing a reasonable time for such woman to withdraw, and giving her every reasonable facility for withdrawing, he may enter such room for the purpose of seizing the property, using at the same time every precaution, consistent with these provisions, to prevent its clandestine removal.

Seizure of property in zanánás.

272. If the property be deposited in, or in the custody of, any Court or public officer, the attachment shall be made by a notice to such Court or officer, requesting that such property, and any interest or dividend becoming payable thereon may be held subject to the further orders of the Court from which the notice issues:

Attachment of property deposited in Court or with Government officer.

Provided that, if such property is deposited in a Court, any question of title or priority arising between the decree-holder and any other person, not being the judgment-debtor, claiming to be interested in such property by virtue of any assignment, attachment or otherwise, shall be determined by the Court in which such property is deposited.

Proviso.

273. If the property be a decree passed by the Court which passed the decree sought to be executed, the attachment shall be made by an order of the Court directing the proceeds of the former decree to be applied in satisfaction of the latter decree.

Attachment decree.

If the property be a decree passed by any other Court, the attachment shall be made by a notice in writing to such Court under the hand of the Judge of the Court which passed the decree sought to be executed, requesting the former Court to execute its decree and to apply the proceeds in satisfaction of the decree sought to be executed. The Court receiving such notice shall comply with such request. And the holder of any decree attached under this clause shall be bound to give the Court executing the same such information and aid as may reasonably be required.

274. If the property be immoveable, the attachment shall be made by a proclamation prohibiting the judgment-debtor from alienating the property in any way, and all persons from receiving the same from him by purchase, gift or otherwise.

Attachment of immoveable property.

The proclamation shall be made at some place on or adjacent to such property by beat of drum or other customary mode, and a copy of the proclamation shall be fixed up in a conspicuous part of the property and of the court-house.

A copy of the proclamation shall also be fixed up in the office of the Collector of the District in which the land is situate.

275. If the amount decreed with costs and all charges and expenses resulting from the attachment of any property be paid into Court, or if satisfaction of the decree be otherwise made through the Court, or if the decree is set aside or reversed, an order shall be issued, on the application of any person interested in the property, for the withdrawal of the attachment.

Order for withdrawal of attachment after satisfaction of decree.

276. When an attachment has been made by actual seizure or by written order duly intimated and made known in manner aforesaid, any private alienation of the property attached, whether by sale, gift, mortgage, or otherwise, and any payment of the debt or dividend or a delivery of the share to the judgment-debtor during the continuance of the attachment, shall be void as against all claims enforceable under the attachment.

Private alienation of property after attachment to be void.

277. If the property attached is coin or currency-notes, the Court may, at any time during the continuance of the attachment, direct that such coin or notes, or a part thereof sufficient to satisfy the decree be paid over to the party entitled under the decree to receive the same.

Court may direct coin or currency-notes attached to be paid to party entitled.

278. If any claim be preferred to, or any objection be made to the attachment of, any property attached in execution of a decree, on the ground that such property is not liable to such attachment, the Court shall proceed to investigate the claim or objection with the like power as regards the examination of the claimant or objector, and in all other respects, as if he was a party to the suit.

Investigation of claims to and objections to attachment of attached property.

Provided that no such investigation shall be made where the Court considers that the claim or objection was designedly or unnecessarily delayed.

279. The claimant or objector must adduce evidence to show that at the date of the attachment he had some interest in, or was possessed of, the property attached.

Evidence to be adduced by claimant.

280. If upon the said investigation the Court is satisfied that, for the reason stated in the claim or objection, such property was not, when attached, in the possession of the judgment-debtor or of some person in trust for him, or in the occupancy of a tenant or other person paying rent to him, or that, being in the possession of the judgment-debtor at such time, it was so in his possession, not on his own account or as his own property, but on account of or in trust for some other person, or partly on his own account and partly on account of some other person, the Court shall pass an order for releasing the property wholly or to such extent as it thinks fit, from attachment.

Release of property from attachment.

281. If the Court is satisfied that the property was, at the time it was attached, in possession of the judgment-debtor as his own property and not on account of any other person, or was in the possession of some other person in trust for him, or in the occupancy of a tenant or other person paying rent to him, the Court shall disallow the claim.

Disallowance of claim to release of property attached.

282. If the Court is satisfied that the property is subject to a mortgage or lien in favour of some person not in possession, and thinks fit to continue the attachment, it may do so, subject to such mortgage or lien.

Continuance of attachment subject to claim of incumbrancer.

283. An order under section 280, 281 or 282 shall not preclude the person against whom it is made from instituting a suit to establish the right which he claims to the property in dispute.

Saving of suits to establish right to attached property.

284. A claim to attached property, or an objection to the attachment of such property, shall be made without delay to the Court which ordered the attachment;

and no such investigation shall be made where the Court considers that the claim or objection was designedly and unnecessarily delayed.

Claims and objections to be made without delay.

If the property to which the claim or objection applies has been advertised for sale, the Court ordering the sale may postpone it pending the investigation of the claim or objection.

285. Any Court may order that any moveable property, and any Court not subordinate to a District Court may direct that any immoveable property, which has been attached, or such portion thereof as may seem necessary to satisfy the decree, shall be sold, and that the proceeds of such sale, or a sufficient portion thereof, shall be paid to the party entitled under the decree to receive the same.

Power to order property attached be sold, and proceeds be paid to person entitled.

F.—Of Sale and Delivery of Property.

(a)—General Rules.

286. Sales in execution of decrees shall be conducted by an officer of the Court or by any other person whom the Court may appoint, and, except as provided in section 296, shall be made by public auction in manner hereinafter mentioned.

Sales by whom conducted and how made.

287. When any interest in property is ordered to be sold by public auction in execution of a decree, the Court shall cause a proclamation of the intended sale to be made in the language of such Court. Such proclamation shall state the time and place of sale; and shall specify as fairly and accurately as possible—

Proclamation of sales by public auction.

(a) the interest to be sold;

(b) the revenue assessed upon the estate or part of the estate, when the interest to be sold is an interest in an estate or a part of an estate paying revenue to Government;

(c) any incumbrance to which the interest is liable;

(d) the amount for the recovery of which the sale is ordered; and

(e) every other thing which the Court considers material for the purchaser to know in order to judge of the nature and value of the property.

The High Court shall, as soon as may be after this Code comes into force, make rules for the guidance of the Courts in exercise of their duties under this section. The High Court may from time to time alter any rules so made.

Rules to be made by High Court.

Nothing in this section shall apply to cases in which the execution of the decree has been transferred to the Collector.

288. No judge or other public officer shall be answerable for any error, misstatement or omission in any proclamation under section 287 unless the same has been committed or made dishonestly.

Indemnity of judges, &c.

289. The proclamation shall be made, in manner prescribed by section 274, on the spot where the property is attached.

Mode of making proclamation.

If the Court so direct, such notification shall also be published in the official Gazette and in some local newspaper.

290. Except in the case of articles subject to speedy and natural decay (which may be sold at once), no sale under this chapter shall take place until after the expiration of at least thirty days in the case of immoveable property, and of at least fifteen days in the case of moveable property, calculated from the date on which the notification has been affixed in the Court-house of the Judge ordering the sale.

Time of sale.

291. The officer conducting any sale under this chapter may in his discretion adjourn the sale; and every such sale shall be stopped if, before the lot is knocked down, the debt and costs are tendered to such officer, or proof is given to his satisfaction that the amount of such debt and costs has been paid into the Court that ordered the sale.

Power to adjourn sale.

Stoppage of sale on tender of debt and costs, or on proof of payment.

292. No officer having any duty to perform in connection with any sale under this chapter shall bid for, acquire, or attempt to acquire, any interest in any property sold at such sale.

Officers concerned in execution sales not to bid for or buy property sold.

293. The deficiency of price (if any) which may happen on a re-sale under this Code, and all expenses attending such re-sale, shall be certified to the Court by the officer holding the sale, and shall, at the instance of either the judgment-creditor or the judgment-debtor, be recoverable from the defaulter under the rules contained in this chapter for the execution of a decree for money.

Defaulting purchaser answerable for loss by re-sale.

294. No holder of a decree in execution of which property is sold, shall, without the express permission of the Court, bid for or purchase the property.

Decree-holder not to bid for or buy property without permission.

When a decree-holder purchases with such permission, the amount due on the decree may be taken as payment in whole or in part, as the case may be, of the purchase-money.

If decree-holder purchase, amount of decree may be taken as payment.

295. Whenever assets are realized by sale or otherwise in execution of a decree, and more persons than one have, prior to the realization, applied for execution of decrees for money against the same judgment-debtor, and have not obtained satisfaction thereof, the proceeds, after deducting the costs of the realization, shall be divided rateably among all such persons:

Proceeds of execution sale to be divided rateably among decree-holders.

Provided that, when any property is sold subject to a mortgage, the mortgagee shall not be entitled to share in any surplus arising from such sale:

Proviso where property is sold subject to mortgage.

Provided also that when any property liable to be sold in execution of a decree is subject to a mortgage, the Court may, with the assent of the mortgagee, order that the property be sold free from the mortgage, giving to the mortgagee the same right against the proceeds of the sale as he had against the property sold.

If all or any of such assets be paid to a person not entitled to receive the same, any person so entitled may sue such person to compel him to refund the assets.

Nothing in this section affects any right of the Government.

(b).—Rules as to Moveable Property.

296. If the property to be sold be a negotiable instrument or a share in any public Company or Corporation, the Court may, instead of directing the sale to be made by public auction, authorize the sale of such instrument or share through a broker at the market-rate of the day.

Rules as to negotiable securities and shares in public Companies.

297. If the property sold be moveable, the price of each lot shall be paid for at the time of sale, or as soon after as the officer holding the sale directs, and in default of payment, the property shall forthwith be again put up and sold.

Payment for moveable property sold.

On payment of the purchase-money, the officer holding the sale shall grant a receipt for the same, and the sale shall become absolute.

298. No irregularity in publishing or conducting the sale of moveable property shall vitiate the sale; but any person sustaining any injury by reason of such irregularity at the hand of any other person may institute a suit against him for compensation, or (if such other person be the purchaser) for the recovery of the specific property and for compensation in default of such recovery.

Irregularity not to vitiate sale of moveable property, but any person injured may sue.

299. When the property sold is any moveable property, or a negotiable instrument, of which actual seizure has been made, the property shall be delivered to the purchaser.

Delivery of moveable property belonging to defendant actually seized.

300. When the property sold is any moveable property to which the judgment-debtor is entitled subject to the possession of some other person, the delivery thereof to the purchaser shall be made by giving notice to the person in possession prohibiting him from delivering possession of the property to any person except the purchaser.

Delivery of moveable property to which judgment-debtor is entitled subject to lien.

301. When the property is a debt not secured by a negotiable instrument, or is a share in any public Company, the delivery thereof shall be made by a written order of the Court prohibiting the creditor from receiving the debt or any interest thereon, and the debtor from making payment thereof to any person except the purchaser, or prohibiting the person in whose name the share may be standing from making any transfer of the share to any person except the purchaser, or receiving payment of any dividend or interest thereon, and the Manager, Secretary or other proper officer of the Company from permitting any such transfer or making any such payment to any person except the purchaser.

Delivery of debts and of shares in public Companies.

302. If the endorsement or conveyance of the party in whose name a negotiable instrument or a share in any public Company is standing, is required to transfer such instrument or share, the Judge may endorse the instrument or the certificate of the share, or may execute such other document as may be necessary.

Transfer of negotiable instruments and shares.

The endorsement or execution shall be in the following form or to the like effect:—"A. B. by C. D., Judge of the Court of (or as the case may be), in a suit by E. F. against A. B."

Until the transfer of such instrument or share, the Court may, by order, appoint some person to receive any interest or dividend due thereon, and to sign a receipt for the same; and any endorsement made or document executed or receipt signed as aforesaid shall be as valid and effectual for all purposes as if the same had been made or executed or signed by the party himself.

(c).—Rules as to Immoveable Property.

303. Sales of immoveable property in execution of a decree may be ordered by any Court not subordinate to a District Court.

Sales of land by Court not inferior to a District Court.

304. Whenever a Court subordinate to a District Court desires that any interest in immoveable property be sold in execution of a decree, it shall refer the case to the District Court to which it is subordinate, and such Court shall have the same power of causing the said interest to be sold as if the decree had been made by itself.

Procedure as to sale of land in execution of decree of subordinate Court.

Nothing in this section applies to Courts of Small Causes.

305. When an order for the sale of immoveable property has been made, if the judgment-debtor can satisfy the Court conducting the sale that there is reason to believe that the amount of the decree may be raised by mortgage or lease or private sale of such property, or some part thereof, or of any other immoveable property of the judgment-debtor, the Court may on his application postpone the sale of property comprised in the order for sale for such period as it thinks proper, to enable him to raise the amount.

Postponement of sale of land to enable defendant to raise amount of decree.

In such case the Court shall grant a certificate to the judgment-debtor authorizing him, within a period to be mentioned therein, to make the proposed mortgage, lease, or sale: provided that all moneys payable under such mortgage, lease or sale shall be paid into Court and not to the judgment-debtor.

Where such certificate has been granted and so long as it remains in force, the provisions of section 248 shall not apply, and the year mentioned in that section, clause (a), shall be computed from the date of the expiry of the certificate.

The Court may, on the application of the judgment-debtor, sell any other immoveable property of the judgment-debtor in lieu of the property comprised in such order.

306. On every sale of immoveable property under this chapter, the person declared to be the purchaser shall pay immediately after such declaration a deposit of twenty-five per centum on the amount of his purchase-money to the officer conducting the sale, and, in default of such deposit, the property shall forthwith be put up again and sold.

Deposit by purchaser of immoveable property.

307. The full amount of purchase-money shall be paid by the purchaser before sunset of the fifteenth day after the sale of the property, exclusive of such day, or if the fifteenth day be a Sunday or other holiday, then on the first office day after the fifteenth day.

Time for payment in full.

308. In default of payment within the period mentioned in the last preceding section, the deposit, after defraying the expenses of the sale, shall be forfeited to Government, and the property shall be re-sold, and the defaulting purchaser shall forfeit all claim to the property or to any part of the sum for which it may subsequently be sold.

Procedure in default of payment.

309. Every re-sale of immoveable property in default of payment of the purchase-money within the period allowed for such payment, shall be made after the issue of a fresh notification in the manner and for the period hereinbefore prescribed for the sale.

Notification on re-sale of immoveable property.

310. When the property sold in execution of a decree is a share of undivided immoveable property, if the lot has been knocked down to a stranger, any co-sharer may, by application to the officer conducting the sale, claim to take the share sold at the price at which the lot was so knocked down.

Co-sharer of a share of undivided estate sold in execution may claim share on sale-price.

If the claim be made before sunset on the day of sale, and the claimant then repay to the purchaser the amount of his deposit, the claimant shall be substituted for the person to whom the lot has been so knocked down and shall be bound by all the conditions then binding on the purchaser, and the provisions of the last three preceding sections shall apply.

311. Any person whose interest in immoveable property has been sold under this chapter may apply to the Court to set aside the sale on the ground of a material irregularity in publishing or conducting it;

Sale of land not set aside on ground of irregularity unless in case of substantial injury.

but no sale shall be set aside on the ground of irregularity unless the applicant proves to the satisfaction of the Court that he has sustained substantial injury by reason of such irregularity.

312. If no such application as is mentioned in the last preceding section be made, or if such application be made and the objection be disallowed, the Court shall pass an order confirming the sale as regards the parties to the suit.

Effect of objection being disallowed and of its being allowed.

If such application be made, and if the objection be allowed, the Court shall pass an order setting aside the sale.

No suit to set aside an order passed under this section shall be brought by the party against whom such order has been made.

313. The purchaser at any such sale may, within sixty days from the date of the sale, apply to the Court to set aside the sale on the ground that the person whose interest in the property purported to be sold had no legally saleable interest therein, and the Court may make such order as it thinks fit.

Power to apply to set aside the sale.

314. No sale of immoveable property shall become absolute until it has been confirmed by the Court.

Confirmation of sale.

315. When a sale of immoveable property is set aside under section 312 or 313,

If sale set aside, price to be returned to purchaser.

or when it is found that the judgment-debtor had no saleable interest in the property sold and the purchaser is for that reason deprived of it, the purchaser shall be entitled to receive back his purchase-money (with or without interest as the Court may direct) from any person to whom the purchase-money has been paid.

The repayment of the said purchase-money and of the interest (if any) allowed by the Court may be enforced against such person under the rules provided by this Code for the execution of a decree for money.

316. When a sale of immoveable property has become absolute in manner aforesaid, the Court shall grant the purchaser a certificate to the effect that he has purchased such property, and such certificate shall be deemed to be a valid transfer of such interest.

Certificate to purchaser of immoveable property.

317. The certificate shall state the name of the person who, at the time of sale, is declared to be the purchaser and the date of the attachment; and the purchase shall be deemed to take effect from such date.

Certificate to state name of actual purchaser.

No person shall maintain any suit against the certified purchaser on the ground that the purchase

Benami purchaser not recognized.

was made on behalf of such other person, or on behalf of some one through whom such other person claims.

Nothing in this section shall bar a suit to obtain a declaration that the name of the certified purchaser was inserted in the certificate fraudulently or without the consent of the real purchaser.

318. When the property sold is in the occupancy of the judgment-debtor or of some person on his behalf, or of some person claiming under a title created by the defendant subsequently to the attachment of such property, and a certificate in respect thereof has been granted under section 316, the Court shall order delivery to be made by putting the purchaser or any person whom he may appoint to receive delivery on his behalf, in possession of the property, and, if need be, by removing any person who refuses to vacate the same.

Delivery of immoveable property in occupancy of judgment-debtor.

319. When the property sold is in the occupancy of a tenant or other person entitled to occupy the same, and a certificate in respect thereof has been granted under section 316, the Court shall order delivery thereof to be made by affixing a copy of the certificate of sale in some conspicuous place on the property, and proclaiming to the occupant by beat of drum or in such other mode as may be customary, at some convenient place, that the interest of the judgment-debtor has been transferred to the purchaser.

Delivery of immoveable property in the occupancy of tenant.

320. The Local Government may, with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, declare by notification in the official Gazette that in any local area the execution of decrees in cases in which a Court has ordered any interest in immoveable property to be sold, shall be transferred to the Collector; and rescind or modify any such declaration. The Local Government may also from time to time prescribe rules for the transmission of the decree from the Court to the Collector, and for regulating the procedure of the Collector and his subordinates in executing the same.

Power to prescribe rules for transferring to Collector execution of decrees sale of land.

321. Whenever the execution of a decree has been so transferred, if the Collector has reason to believe that the judgment-debts of the judgment-debtor can be discharged without a sale of the whole of such interest, the Collector may (notwithstanding any order under section 303, but subject to such rules as may from time to time be made in this behalf by the Chief Controlling Revenue Authority) raise the amount necessary to discharge such debts with interest thereon according to the decree, or, if the decree makes no provision as to interest, then with interest (if any) as he thinks fit not exceeding the rate of six per cent. per annum,

Powers of Collector as to execution of decrees so transferred.

(a) by selling part of the judgment-debtor's interest in such property or in any other immoveable property:

(b) by mortgaging the whole or any part of such interest:

(c) by letting on farm, or managing by himself or another, the whole or any part of such interest for any term not exceeding twenty years from the date of the order of sale, or

(d) partly by one of such modes and partly by another or others of them.

For the purpose of managing under this section the whole or any part of such interest, the Collector may exercise all the powers of its owner.

322. If the Collector proposes to proceed under this section he shall publish a notice in the language of the district, calling upon all persons holding decrees against the judgment-debtor to notify the same in writing to the Collector within sixty days from the date of the publication.

Procedure of Collector.

Such notice shall be published by being posted at the Court which made the order under section 303, and at such other places (if any) as the Collector thinks fit.

So long as any letting or management under this section continues, the judgment-debtor and his representative in interest shall be incompetent to mortgage, charge, lease or alienate the interest so let or managed, or any part thereof.

323. If on the expiration of the letting or management, the amount necessary to discharge such debts in full with the interest (if any) payable thereon has not been raised, the Collector shall notify the fact in writing to the judgment-debtor or his representative, stating at the same time that, if the balance necessary to discharge such debts and interest is not paid to the Collector within six weeks of the date of such notice, the Collector will proceed to sell the judgment-debtor's interest in the said property; and if on the expiration of the said six weeks the said balance is not so paid, the Collector shall sell such interest accordingly.

Sale by Collector.

324. Whenever the Collector sells any interest pursuant to the said order of sale or exercises any of the powers conferred upon him by the last preceding section, he shall inform the Court which made such order of the fact of such sale or exercise, and shall render accounts to such Court of his receipts and payments in respect of the said interest, and shall hold the balance at the disposal of such Court.

Sale, &c., to be reported to Court by Collector.

Such balance (after deducting therefrom any debts due or liabilities incurred to Government by the judgment-debtor) shall be applied rateably in discharging the claims of all the decree-holders who have complied with the said notice; and no other person making any claim against the interest so let or managed, or against such proceeds, shall be entitled to be paid thereout.

Application of balance.

325. When, in any local area in which no declaration under section 320 is in force, the property attached consists of land or of a share in land, and the Collector represents to the Court that the public sale of the land or share is objectionable, and that satisfaction of the decree may be made within a reasonable period by a temporary alienation or management of the land or share, the Court may authorize the Collector to make provision for such satisfaction in the manner recommended by him, instead of proceeding to a sale of the land or share. The provisions of sections 321 to 324 (both inclusive) shall in such case apply to the Collector.

When Court may authorise Collector to stay public sale of land.

326. The Local Government may from time to time, with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, make special rules for any local area imposing conditions in respect of sale of any class of interests in land in execution of decrees for money, or prohibiting such sales

Local rules as to sales of land in execution of decrees for money.

(a) where such interests are so uncertain or undetermined as in the opinion of the Local Government to make it impossible to fix their value:

(b) where for reasons of State the Local Government thinks that such class of interests should not be compulsorily transferrable:

and if, when this Code comes into operation in any local area, any such rules or prohibition are or is in force therein, the Local Government may continue such rules or prohibition in force, or may from time to time modify the same with the sanction of the Governor General in Council.

All rules and prohibitions so made or continued, and all modifications of such rules, shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

G.—Of Resistance to Execution.

327. If in the execution of a decree for the possession of property, the officer entrusted with the execution of the warrant is resisted or obstructed by any person, the decree-holder may complain to the Court at any time within one month from the time of such resistance or obstruction.

Procedure in case of obstruction to execution of decree.

The Court shall fix a day for investigating the complaint, and shall summon the party against whom the complaint is made to answer the same.

328. If the Court is satisfied that the obstruction or resistance was occasioned by the judgment-debtor or by some person at his instigation, on the ground that the property is not comprised in the decree or on any other ground, the Court shall enquire into the matter of the complaint, and pass such order as it thinks fit.

Procedure in case of obstruction by judgment-debtor or at his instigation.

329. If the Court is satisfied that the resistance or obstruction was without any just cause, and that the complainant is still resisted or obstructed in obtaining effectual possession of the property by the judgment-debtor or some other person at his instigation, the Court may, at the instance of the decree-holder and without prejudice to any proceedings to which such judgment-debtor or other person may be liable, under the Indian Penal Code or any other law, for the punishment of such resistance or obstruction, commit the judgment-debtor or such other person to jail for a term not exceeding thirty days, and direct that the decree-holder be put into possession of the property.

Procedure when obstruction continues.

330. If the resistance or obstruction has been occasioned by any person other than the judgment-debtor claiming in good faith to be in possession of the property on his own account or on account of some person other than the judgment-debtor, the claim shall be numbered and registered as a suit between the decree-holder as plaintiff and the claimant as defendant;

Procedure in case of obstruction by claimant in good faith, other than judgment-debtor.

and the Court shall, without prejudice to any proceedings to which the claimant may be liable under the Indian Penal Code or any other law for the punishment of such resistance of obstruction, proceed to investigate the claim in the same manner and with the like power as if a suit for the property had been instituted by the decree-holder against the claimant under the provisions of the Specific Relief Act, section 9, and shall pass such order as it thinks fit for executing or staying execution of the decree.

331. If any person other than the defendant is dispossessed of any property in execution of a decree, and such person disputes the right of the decree-holder to dispossess him of such property under the decree, on the ground that the property was bonâ fide in his possession on his own account or on account of some person other than the judgment-debtor, and that it was not comprised in the decree, or that, if it was comprised in the decree, he was not a party to the suit in which the decree was passed, he may apply to the Court.

Procedure in case of person dispossessed of property disputing right of decree-holder to be put into possession.

If, after examining the applicant, it appears to the Court that there is probable cause for making the application, the application shall be numbered and registered as a suit between the applicant as plaintiff and the decree-holder as defendant, and the Court shall proceed to investigate the matter in dispute in the same maner and with the like power as if a suit for the property had been instituted by the applicant against the decree-holder under the provisions of the Specific Relief Act, section 9, and shall pass such order as it thinks fit for executing or staying execution of the decree.

In hearing applications under this section the Court shall confine itself to the grounds of dispute above specified.

Nothing in this section or section 330 applies to a person to whom the judgment-debtor has transferred the property after the institution of the suit in which the decree is made.

332. The order passed under either of sections 330 and 331 shall be in the nature of, and shall have the same force as, a decree in a suit, and shall be subject to the same conditions as to appeal or otherwise.

Orders passed under sections 330 and 331 to have force of decrees, and to be subject to appeal.

333. If the purchaser of any immoveable property sold in execution of a decree be resisted or obstructed by the judgment-debtor or any one on his behalf, in obtaining possession of the property, the provisions of this chapter relating to resistance or obstruction to a decree-holder in obtaining possession of the property adjudged to him, shall be applicable.

Resisting or obstructing purchasers in obtaining possession of immoveable property.

334. If it appear that the resistance or obstruction was occasioned by any person other than the judgment-debtor, not in possession of the property sold, but claiming a right thereto as proprietor, mortgagee, lessee, or under any other title, the Court, on the complaint of the purchaser, shall enquire into the matter of the resistance or obstruction, and pass such order thereon as it thinks fit.

Obstruction by claimant other than defendant.

The party against whom such order is passed may bring a suit to establish his right to the present possession of the property at any time within one year from the date of such order.

H.—Of Arrest and Imprisonment.

335. A judgment-debtor may be arrested in execution of a decree at any hour and on any day, and shall as soon as practicable be brought before the Court, and his imprisonment may be in the jail of the district in which the Court ordering the imprisonment is held, or, when such jail does not afford suitable accommodation, in any other jail which the Local Government may appoint for the confinement of persons ordered to be imprisoned by the Courts of such district:

Place of judgment-debtor's imprisonment.

Provided that when the decree in execution of which a judgment-debtor is arrested is a decree for money and the judgment-debtor pays the amount of the decree and the costs of the arrest to the officer arresting him, such officer shall at once release him.

Proviso.

Whenever a judgment-debtor is arrested in execution of a decree for money and brought before the Court under this section, the Court shall inform him that he may apply under Chapter XX to be declared an insolvent, and that he will be discharged if he has not committed any act of bad faith regarding the subject of his application and if he places all his property in possession of a receiver appointed by the Court.

If the judgment-debtor express his intention so to apply, and if he furnish sufficient security for his appearance at any time when called upon, the Court shall release him from arrest.

336. Every warrant for the arrest of the judgment-debtor shall direct the officer entrusted with its execution to bring him before the Court.

Warrant for arrest to direct judgment-debtor to be brought up.

337. A day shall be specified in the warrant on or as soon as possible after which it is to be returned,

Latest day for return of warrant to be specified.

and unless the amount which the judgment-debtor has been ordered to pay, together with the interest thereon and the costs, if any, to which he is liable, be sooner paid, such officer shall bring him before the Court with all convenient speed.

338. The Local Government may from time to time prescribe scales, graduated according to rank, race and nationality, of monthly allowances payable for the subsistence of judgment-debtors.

Scales of subsistence allowances.

339. No judgment-debtor shall be arrested in execution of a decree unless and until the decree-holder pays into Court such sum as, having regard to the scales so fixed, the Judge thinks sufficient for the subsistence of the judgment-debtor from his arrest until he can be brought before the Court.

Judgment-debtor subsistence-money.

When a judgment-debtor is committed to jail in execution of a decree, the Court shall fix for his subsistence such monthly allowance as he may be entitled to according to the said scales, or where no such scales have been fixed, as it considers sufficient with reference to the class to which he belongs.

The monthly allowance fixed by the Court shall be supplied by the party on whose application the decree has been executed, to the proper officer of the Court by monthly payments in advance before the first day of each month.

The first payment shall be made for such portion of the current month as remains unexpired before the judgment-debtor is committed to jail.

340. Sums disbursed by the decree-holder for the subsistence of the judgment-debtor in jail shall be deemed to be costs on the suit.

Subsistence money to be added to amount of decree.

Provided that the judgment-debtor shall not be detained in jail or arrested on account of any sum so disbursed.

341. The judgment-debtor shall be discharged from jail,

Release of judgment-debtor.

(a) on the decree being fully satisfied, or

(b) at the request of the person on whose application he has been imprisoned, or

(c) on such person omitting to pay the allowance as hereinbefore directed, or

(d) if the judgment-debtor be declared an insolvent, as hereinafter provided, or

(e) when the term of his imprisonment as limited by section 342 is fulfilled.

Provided that in the first, second, third and fourth cases mentioned in this section, the judgment-debtor shall not be discharged without the order of the Court.

A judgment-debtor discharged under this section cannot be re-arrested under the decree in execution of which he was imprisoned.

342. No person shall be imprisoned in execution of a decree for a longer period than six months;

Imprisonment not to exceed six months.

or for a longer period than six weeks if the decree be for the payment of a sum of money not exceeding fifty rupees.

When not to exceed six weeks.

343. The officer entrusted with the execution of the warrant shall endorse thereupon the day on, and the manner in, which it was executed; and if the latest day specified in the warrant for the return thereof has been exceeded, the reason of the delay; or if it was not executed, the reason why it was not executed, and shall return the warrant with such endorsement to the Court.

Endorsement on warrant.

If the endorsement is to the effect that such officer is unable to execute the warrant, the Court shall examine him on oath touching his alleged inability, and may, if it think fit, summon and examine witnesses as to such inability and shall record the result.

CHAPTER XX.

OF INSOLVENT JUDGMENT-DEBTORS.

344. Any person arrested or imprisoned in execution of a decree for money may apply in writing to be declared an insolvent.

Power to apply to be declared an insolvent.

Such application shall be made to the District Court which ordered his arrest or imprisonment, or when the District Court did not make such order, then to the District Court to which the Court that made the order is subordinate.

Contents of application.

345. The application shall set forth—

(a) the fact of such person's arrest or imprisonment, the Court by whose order he was arrested or imprisoned, and the place in which he is in custody;

(b) the amount, kind and particulars of his property, and the value of any such property not consisting of money;

(c) the place or places in which such property is to be found;

(d) his willingness to place it at the disposal of the Court;

(e) the amount and particulars of all pecuniary claims against him; and

(f) the names and residences of his creditors, so far as they are known to or can be ascertained by him.

Subscription and verification of application.

346. The application shall be subscribed and verified by the applicant in manner hereinbefore prescribed for subscribing and verifying plaints.

Service on decree-holder of copy of application and notice.

347. The Court shall fix a day for hearing the application, and shall cause a copy thereof, with a notice in writing of the time and place at which it will be heard, to be stuck up in Court and served at the applicant's expense on the holder of the decree in execution of which he was arrested or imprisoned, or on the pleader of such decree-holder, and on the other creditors (if any) mentioned in the application.

The Court may, if it thinks fit, publish at the applicant's expense the application in such official Gazettes and public newspapers as it thinks fit.

Power to serve other creditors.

348. The Court may also, if it thinks fit, cause a like copy and notice to be served on any other person alleging himself to be a creditor of the applicant and applying for leave to be heard on the application.

Powers of Court as to applicant under arrest.

349. Where the applicant is under arrest, the Court may, pending the hearing under section 350,

(a) order him to be immediately committed to jail; or

(b) leave him in the custody of the officer of Court to whom the service of the warrant was entrusted.

Procedure at hearing.

350. On the day so fixed, or on any subsequent day to which the Court may adjourn the hearing, the Court shall examine the applicant, in the presence of the persons on whom such notice has been served or their pleaders, as to his then circumstances and as to his future means of payment, and shall hear the said decree-holder, the other creditors mentioned in the application and the other persons (if any) alleging themselves to be creditors, in opposition to the applicant's discharge; and may, if it thinks fit, grant time to the said decree-holder and other creditors or persons to adduce evidence showing that the applicant is not entitled to be declared an insolvent.

Declaration of insolvency and appointment of Receiver.

351. If the Court is satisfied—

(a) that the statements in the application are substantially true;

(b) that the applicant has not, with intent to defraud his creditors, concealed, transferred, or removed any part of his property within two months next before the date of the decree in execution of which he was arrested or imprisoned or at any subsequent time;

(c) that he has not, knowing himself to be unable to pay his debts in full, recklessly contracted or given an unfair preference to any of his creditors by any payment or disposition of his property;

(d) that he has not committed any other act of bad faith regarding the matter of the application, the Court may declare him to be an insolvent, and may also, if it think fit, make an order appointing a Receiver of his property, or if it does not appoint such Receiver, may discharge the insolvent.

Creditors to prove their debts.

352. The creditors mentioned in the application and the other persons (if any) alleging themselves to be creditors of the insolvent, shall then produce evidence of the amount, and particulars of their respective pecuniary claims against him; and the Court shall frame a schedule of the persons who have proved themselves to be the insolvent's creditors, and of their respective debts; and the declaration under section 351 shall be deemed to be a decree in favour of each of the said creditors for their said respective debts.

Schedule to be framed.

A copy of every such schedule shall be stuck up in the court-house.

Applications by creditors.

353. Any creditor of the insolvent who is not mentioned in such schedule may, within three months from its publication, apply to the Court for permission to produce evidence of the amount and particulars of his pecuniary claims against the insolvent, and in case he proves himself to be a creditor of the insolvent, for an order directing his name to be inserted in the schedule as a creditor for the debt so proved.

Any creditor mentioned in the schedule may within three months from the publication of the schedule apply to the Court for an order altering the schedule so far as regards the amount, nature or particulars of his own debt, or to strike out the name of another creditor, or to alter the schedule so far as regards the amount, nature or particulars of the debt of another creditor.

In the case of any application under this section, the Court, after causing such notices as it thinks fit to be served, at the applicant's expense, on the insolvent and the other creditors and hearing their objections, if any, may comply with or reject the application.

Effect of order appointing Receiver.

354. Every order under section 351 shall be published in the official Gazette and shall operate to vest in the Receiver all the insolvent's property (except the particulars specified in the first proviso to section 266) whether set forth in his application or not.

Receiver to give security and collect assets.

355. The Receiver so appointed shall give such security as the Court may direct and shall possess himself of all such property, except as aforesaid; and on his certifying that the insolvent has placed him in possession thereof, or has done everything in his power for that purpose, the Court may discharge the insolvent from arrest or imprisonment, as the case may be, upon such conditions (if any) as the Court thinks fit.

Discharge of insolvent.

Duty of Receiver.

356. The Receiver shall proceed under the direction of the Court—

(a) to convert the property into money:

(b) to pay thereout debts, fines and penalties (if any) due by the insolvent to Government:

(c) to pay the said decree-holder's costs:

(d) to distribute the balance among the scheduled creditors rateably according to the amounts of their respective debts, and without any preference;

and such Receiver may retain as a remuneration for the performance of his duties a commission at the rate of five per centum upon the amount of the balance so distributed (the amount of the commission so retained being deemed a distribution), and shall deliver the surplus, if any, to the insolvent or his legal representative.

His right to remuneration.

Delivery of surplus.

Effect of discharge.

357. An insolvent discharged under section 355 shall not be arrested or imprisoned on account of any of the scheduled debts.

But (subject to the provisions of section 358) his property, whether previously or subsequently acquired (except the particulars specified in the first proviso to section 266 and except the property vested in the Receiver,) shall, by order of the Court, be liable to attachment and sale until the decrees against him held by the scheduled creditors are fully satisfied or become incapable of being executed.

When Court may declare insolvent absolved from further liability.

358. If the aggregate amount of the scheduled debts is two hundred rupees or a less sum, the Court may declare the insolvent discharged as aforesaid absolved from further liability in respect of such debts.

Procedure in case of dishonest applicant.

359. Whenever, at the hearing under section 350, it is proved that the applicant has

(b) fraudulently concealed, transferred or removed any property; or

(c) committed any other act of bad faith regarding the matter of the application, the Court shall, at the instance of any of his creditors, sentence him to imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year from the date of committal.

Or the Court may, if it think fit, send him to the Magistrate to be dealt with according to law.

Investment of other Courts with powers of District Courts.

Transfer of cases.

360. The Local Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, invest any Court other than a District Court with the powers conferred on District Courts by sections 344 to 359 (both inclusive), and the District Judge may transfer to any Court situate in his district and so invested any case instituted under section 344.

Any Court so invested may entertain any application under section 344 by any person arrested in execution of a decree of such Court.

PART II.

OF INCIDENTAL PROCEEDINGS.

CHAPTER XXI.

OF THE DEATH, MARRIAGE AND INSOLVENCY OF PARTIES.

No abatement by party's death, if cause of action survive.

361. The death of a plaintiff or defendant shall not cause the suit to abate if the cause of action survives.

Illustrations.

(a) A covenants with B and C to pay an annuity to B during C's life. B and C sue A to compel payment. B dies before the decree: the cause of action survives to C, and the suit does not abate.

(b) In the same case, all the parties die before decree. The cause of action survives to the representative of the survivor of B and C, and he may continue the suit against A's representative.

(c) A sues B for libel. A dies. The cause of action does not survive and the suit abates.

(d) A, a member of a Hindú joint family under the Mitákshará law, institutes a suit for partition of the family property. A dies leaving B, a minor son his heir. The cause of action survives to B, and the suit does not abate.

Proceeding in case of death of one of several plaintiffs or defendants, if cause of action survive.

362. If there be more plaintiffs or defendants than one, and any of them dies, and if the cause of action survives to the surviving plaintiff or plaintiffs alone, or against the surviving defendant or defendants alone, the Court shall cause an entry to that effect to be made on the record, and the suit shall proceed at the instance of the surviving plaintiff or plaintiffs, or against the surviving defendant or defendants.

Proceeding in case of death of one of several plaintiffs where cause of action survives to survivors and representative of deceased.

363. If there be more plaintiffs than one, and any of them dies, and if the cause of action does not survive to the surviving plaintiff or plaintiffs alone, but survives to him or them and the legal representative of the deceased plaintiff jointly, the Court may, on the application of such legal representative, enter his name on the record in the place of such deceased plaintiff, and the suit shall proceed at the instance of the surviving plaintiff or plaintiffs and such legal representative.

Proceeding where no application made by representative of deceased plaintiff.

364. If no application be made to the Court within a reasonable time not exceeding thirty days by any person claiming to be the legal representative of a deceased plaintiff, the suit shall proceed at the instance of the surviving plaintiff or plaintiffs;

and the legal representative (if any) of the deceased plaintiff shall be made a party and shall be interested in and bound by the decree passed in the suit, in the same manner as if the suit had proceeded at his instance conjointly with the surviving plaintiff or plaintiffs.

365. In case of the death of a sole plaintiff or sole surviving plaintiff, the Court may, on the application of the legal representative of the deceased, enter his name in the place of such plaintiff on the record, and the suit shall thereupon proceed.

Proceeding in case of death of sole, or sole surviving, plaintiff.

366. If no such application be made to the Court within a reasonable time not exceeding thirty days by any person claiming to be the legal representative of the deceased plaintiff, the Court may pass an order that the suit shall abate, and award to the defendant the costs which he may have incurred in defending the suit, to be recovered from the estate of the deceased plaintiff;

Abatement where no application by representative of deceased plaintiff.

or the Court may, if it think proper, on the application of the defendant, and upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit, pass such other order as it thinks fit for bringing in the legal representative of the deceased plaintiff and for proceeding with the suit in order to a final determination of the matter in dispute.

Explanation.—A certificate of heirship, or a certificate to collect debts, does not of itself constitute the person holding it the legal representative of the deceased. But when the person holding any such certificate obtains thereby property belonging to the deceased, he may be treated as a legal representative liable in respect of such property.

367. If any dispute arise as to who is the legal representative of a deceased plaintiff, the Court may either stay the suit until the fact has been determined in another suit, or decide at or before the hearing of the suit who shall be admitted to be such legal representative for the purpose of prosecuting the suit.

Procedure in case of dispute as to representative of deceased plaintiff.

368. If there be more defendants than one, and any of them die before decree and the cause of action does not survive against the surviving defendant or defendants alone, and also in case of the death of a sole defendant, or sole surviving defendant, where the right to sue survives,

Procedure in case of death of one of several defendants, or of sole or sole surviving defendant.

the plaintiff may make an application to the Court, specifying the name, description, and place of abode of any person whom he alleges to be the legal representative of the deceased defendant, and whom he desires to be made the defendant in his stead.

The Court shall thereupon enter the name of such representative on the record in the place of such defendant, and shall issue a summons to such representative to appear on a day to be therein mentioned to defend the suit;

and the case shall thereupon proceed in the same manner as if such representative had originally been made a defendant and had been a party to the former proceedings in the suit:

Provided that the person so made defendant may object that he is not the legal representative of the deceased defendant, or may make any defence appropriate to his character as such representative.

369. The marriage of a female plaintiff or defendant shall not cause the suit to abate, but the suit may notwithstanding be proceeded with to judgment, and where the decree is against a female defendant, it may thereupon be executed against the wife alone.

Suit not abated by marriage of female party.

If the case is one in which the husband is by law liable for the debts of his wife, the decree may, with the permission of the Court, be executed against the husband also; and in case of judgment for the wife, execution of the decree may with such permission be issued upon the application of the husband, where the husband is by law entitled to the subject-matter of the decree.

370. The bankruptcy or insolvency of a plaintiff in any suit which his assignee or the receiver appointed under section 351 might maintain for the benefit of his creditors shall not bar the suit, unless such assignee or receiver declines to continue the suit and to give security for the costs thereof within such time as the Court may order.

When plaintiff's bankruptcy or insolvency bars suit.

If the assignee or receiver neglect or refuse to continue the suit and to give such security within the time so ordered, the defendant may, within eight days after such neglect or refusal, apply for the dismissal of the suit on the ground of the plaintiff's bankruptcy or insolvency, and the Court may dismiss the suit and award to the defendant the costs which he has incurred in defending the same, to be recovered from the plaintiff's estate.

Procedure when assignee fails to continue suit or give security.

371. When a suit abates or is dismissed under this chapter, no fresh suit shall be brought on the same cause of action.

Effect of abatement on parties' rights.

But the person claiming to be the representative of the deceased bankrupt or insolvent plaintiff, may apply for an order to set aside the order for abatement or dismissal; and if it be proved that he was prevented by any sufficient cause from continuing the suit, the Court shall set aside the abatement or dismissal upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit.

Application to set aside abatement or dismissal.

372. In other cases of assignment, creation or devolution of any interest pending the suit, the suit may, with the leave of the Court, given either with the consent of all parties or after service of notice in writing upon them, and hearing their objections, if any, be continued by or against the person to whom such interest has come, either in addition to or in substitution for the person from whom it has passed, as the case may require.

Procedure in case of assignment pending the suit.

CHAPTER XXII.

OF THE WITHDRAWAL AND ADJUSTMENT OF SUITS.

373. If, at any time after the institution of the suit, but before judgment, the Court is satisfied on the application of the plaintiff (a) that the suit must fail by reason of some formal defect, or (b) that there are sufficient grounds for permitting him to withdraw from the suit or to abandon part of his claim with liberty to bring a fresh suit for the subject-matter of the suit or for the part so abandoned, the Court may grant such permission on such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit.

Power to allow plaintiff to withdraw with liberty to bring fresh suit.

If the plaintiff withdraw from the suit, or abandon part of his claim, without such permission, he shall be liable for such costs as the Court may award, and shall be precluded from bringing a fresh suit for the same matter.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize the Court to permit one of several plaintiffs to withdraw without the consent of the others.

374. In any fresh suit instituted on permission granted under the last preceding section, the plaintiff shall be bound by the law of limitation in the same manner as if the first suit had not been brought.

Limitation-law not affected by first suit.

375. If a suit be adjusted by mutual agreement or compromise, or if the defendant satisfy the plaintiff in respect to the matter of the suit, such agreement, compromise or satisfaction shall be recorded, and the Court shall pass a decree in accordance therewith, and such decree shall be final.

Compromise of suits.

CHAPTER XXIII.

OF PAYMENT INTO COURT.

376. The defendant in any suit to recover a debt or damages, may, at any stage of the suit, deposit in Court such sum of money as he considers a satisfaction in full of the claim.

Deposit by defendant of amount in satisfaction of claim.

377. Notice of the deposit shall be given by the defendant to the plaintiff, and the amount of the deposit shall (unless the Court otherwise directs) be paid to the plaintiff on his application.

Notice of deposit.

378. No interest shall be allowed to the plaintiff on any sum deposited by the defendant from the date of the receipt of such notice, whether the sum deposited be in full of the claim or fall short thereof.

Interest on sum deposited not allowed to plaintiff after receipt of notice.

379. If the plaintiff accept such amount only as satisfaction in part of his claim, he may prosecute his suit for the balance; and if the Court decides that the deposit by the defendant was a full satisfaction of the plaintiff's claim, the plaintiff must pay the costs of the suit incurred after the deposit and the costs incurred previous thereto, so far as they were caused by excess in the plaintiff's claim.

Procedure where plaintiff accepts deposit as satisfaction in part.

If the plaintiff accept such amount as satisfaction in full of his claim, he shall file in Court a statement to that effect, and the Court shall pass judgment accordingly, and in directing by whom the costs of each party are to be paid, the Court shall consider which of the parties is most to blame for the litigation.

Procedure where he accepts it as satisfaction in full.

Illustrations.

(a). A owes B Rs. 100. B sues A for the amount, having made no demand for payment and having no reason to believe that the delay caused by making a demand would place him at a disadvantage. On the plaint being filed, A pays the money into Court. B accepts it in full satisfaction of his claim, but the Court should not allow him any costs, the litigation being presumably groundless on his part.

(b). B sues A under the circumstances mentioned in illustration (a). On the plaint being filed, A disputes the claim. Afterwards A pays the money into Court. B accepts it in full satisfaction of his claim. The Court should also give B his costs of suit, A's conduct having shewn that the litigation was necessary.

(c). A owes B Rs. 100 and is willing to pay him that sum without suit. B claims Rs. 150 and sues A for that amount. On the plaint being filed, A pays Rs. 100 into Court and disputes only his liability to pay the remaining Rs. 50. B accepts the Rs. 100 in full satisfaction of his claim. The Court should order him to pay A's costs.

CHAPTER XXIV.

OF REQUIRING SECURITY FOR COSTS.

380. When the plaintiff ordinarily resides out of British India, and does not possess any sufficient immoveable property within British India independent of the property in suit, he shall, if any defendant so requires, on presenting the plaint or within such time as the Court may fix, furnish security for the payment of the costs that may be incurred by the defendant.

When security for costs is to be furnished by plaintiff on presenting plaint.

381. If at any subsequent stage of a suit it appears to the Court that a sole plaintiff is, or (when there are more plaintiffs than one) that all the plaintiffs are, residing out of British India, and such plaintiff or plaintiffs does not or do not possess any sufficient immoveable property within British India independent of the property in suit, the Court may, on the application of any defendant, order the plaintiff or plaintiffs, within a time to be fixed by the order, to give security for the payment of all costs incurred and likely to be incurred by such defendant.

When security for costs may be required from plaintiff at any stage of suit.

In the event of such security not being furnished within the time so fixed, the Court shall pass a decree against the plaintiff or plaintiffs by default, unless he or they be permitted to withdraw from the suit under the provisions of section 373.

Procedure where requisition is not complied with.

382. A person is considered to be resident out of British India, within the meaning of sections 380 and 381 who leaves British India under such circumstances as to afford reasonable probability that he will not be forthcoming whenever he may be called upon to pay costs.

Residence out of British India.

CHAPTER XXV.

OF COMMISSIONS.

A.—Commissions to examine Witnesses.

383. Any Court may by order issue a commission for the examination on interrogatories or otherwise of persons resident within the local limits of its jurisdiction, who are exempted under this Code from attending the Court, or who are from sickness or infirmity unable to attend it.

Cases in which Court may issue commission to examine witness.

384. Such order may be made by the Court either of its own motion, or on the application, supported by affidavit, of any party to the suit or proceeding or of the witness to be examined.

Order for commission may be made either on application of parties or by Court of its own accord.

385. The commission for the examination of a person who resides within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court issuing the same may be issued to any person whom the Court issuing the commission thinks proper to appoint to execute the same:

When witness resides within Court's jurisdiction.

Provided that where the Court issuing the commission is subordinate to a District Court, and is not a Court of Small Causes, the exercise of the power conferred by this section shall be subject to such rules as the District Court may from time to time prescribe, as to the officers or persons to whom commissions may be issued.

386. Any District Court and any Court of Small Causes may issue a commission for the examination of—

When witness resides beyond Court's jurisdiction, but in British India.

(a) any person resident beyond the local limits of its jurisdiction,

(b) persons who are about to leave such limits before the date on which they are required to be examined in Court, and

(c) civil and military officers of Government who cannot, in the opinion of the Judge, attend the Court without detriment to the public service.

If the suit in which it is desired to issue such commission be pending in any Court (other than a Court of Small Causes) subordinate to the District Court, the District Court may issue it on the application of such subordinate Court.

Such commission shall ordinarily be issued to any Court not being a High Court, within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such person resides, and which can most conveniently execute the same:

Provided that if he resides beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court issuing the commission and within the towns of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, or Rangoon, the commission shall be issued to the Court of Small Causes within whose jurisdiction he resides:

When witness is within local limits of ordinary original civil jurisdiction of a High Court.

Provided also that, under special circumstances, the commission may be directed to any person whom the Court issuing the commission thinks fit to appoint.

The Court on issuing any commission under this section shall direct whether the commission shall be returned to itself or to any subordinate Court.

387. In the case of a person residing at any place not within British India, the Court, if satisfied that the evidence of such person is necessary, may, of its own motion or on the application of any of the parties to the suit, issue a commission for his examination.

When witness is not within British India.

388. Every Court receiving a commission for the examination of any person shall examine him pursuant thereto.

Court to examine witness pursuant to commission.

389. After the commission has been duly executed, it shall be returned, together with the evidence taken under it, to the Court out of which it issued, unless the order for issuing the commission has otherwise directed, in which case the commission shall be returned in terms of such order; and the commission and the return thereto, and the evidence taken under it, shall form part of the record of the suit.

Commission when executed to be returned to Court issuing it with depositions of witnesses.

390. Evidence taken under a commission shall not be read as evidence in the suit without the consent of the party against whom the same is offered, unless

When depositions may be read in evidence.

(a) the person who gave the evidence is beyond the jurisdiction of the Court, or dead, or unable from sickness or infirmity to attend to be personally examined, or exempted from personal appearance in Court, or

(b) the Court in its discretion dispenses with the proof of any of the circumstances mentioned in the last preceding clause, and authorizes the evidence of any person being read as evidence in the suit, notwithstanding proof that the cause for taking such evidence by commission has ceased at the time of reading the same.

391. The provisions hereinbefore contained as to the execution and return of commissions shall apply to commissions issued by

Provisions as to execution and return of commissions to apply to commissions issued by Foreign Courts.

(a) Courts situate beyond the limits of British India and established by the authority of Her Majesty or of the Governor General in Council, or

(b) Courts situate in any part of the British Empire other than British India, or

(c) Courts of any foreign country for the time being in alliance with Her Majesty.

B.—Commissions for Local Investigations.

392. In any suit or proceeding in which the Court deems a local investigation to be requisite or proper for the purpose of elucidating any matter in dispute, or of ascertaining the market-value of any property, or the amount of any mesne profits or damages or annual nett profits, and the same cannot be conveniently conducted by the Judge in person, the Court may issue a commission to such person as it thinks fit, directing him to make such investigation and to report thereon to the Court:

Commission to make local investigations.

Provided that when the Local Government has made rules as to the persons to whom such commission shall be issued, the Court shall be bound by such rules.

393. The Commissioner, unless otherwise directed by the order of appointment, may examine the parties themselves and any witness whom they or any of them may produce, and any other person whom the Commissioner thinks proper to call upon to give evidence in the matter referred to him.

Commissioner may examine parties and witnesses and call for papers.

The Commissioner may also call for and examine documents and other papers relevant to the subject of enquiry.

The Commissioner, after such local inspection as he deems necessary, and after reducing to writing the evidence taken by him, shall return such evidence, together with his report in writing, subscribed with his name, to the Court.

394. The report of the Commissioner and the evidence taken by him (but not the evidence without the report) shall be evidence in the suit and shall form part of the record; but the Court, or any of the parties to the suit may, with the permission of the Court, examine the Commissioner personally in open Court touching any of the matters referred to him or mentioned in his report, or as to the manner in which he has made the investigation.

Report and depositions to be evidence in suit.

Commissioner may be examined in person.

C.—Commissions to examine Accounts.

395. In any suit in which an examination or adjustment of accounts is necessary, the Court may issue a commission to such person as it thinks fit directing him to make such examination or adjustment.

Commission to investigate and adjust accounts.

396. The Court shall furnish the Commissioner with such part of the proceedings and such detailed instructions as appear necessary,

Court to give Commissioner necessary instructions.

and the instructions shall distinctly specify whether the Commissioner is merely to transmit the proceedings which he may hold on the enquiry, or also to report his own opinion on the point referred for his examination.

397. The proceedings of the Commissioner shall be received in evidence in the suit, unless the Court has reason to be dissatisfied with them, in which case the Court shall direct such further enquiry as is requisite.

Proceedings of Commissioner receivable in evidence.

Power to make further enquiry.

D.—General Provisions.

398. Before issuing any commission under this chapter, the Court may order such sum (if any) as it thinks reasonable for the expenses of the commission to be paid into court by the party at whose instance or for whose benefit the commission is issued.

Expenses of Commission to be paid into court.

399. The provisions of this Code relating to the summoning, attendance, and examination of witnesses and to the remuneration of, and penalties to be imposed upon, witnesses, shall apply to persons required to give evidence or to produce documents under this chapter, whether the commission in execution of which they are so required has been issued by a Court situate within, or by a Court situated beyond, the limits of British India.

Attendance, examination and punishment of witnesses before Commissioner.

400. Whenever a commission is issued under this chapter, the Court shall direct that the parties to the suit shall appear before the Commissioner in person or by their agents or pleaders.

Procedure ex parte where parties do not appear.

If the parties do not so appear, the Commissioner may proceed ex parte.

PART III.

OF SUITS IN PARTICULAR CASES.

CHAPTER XXVI.

SUITS BY PAUPERS.

401. Subject to the following rules, any suit may be brought by a pauper.

Suits may be brought in formâ pauperis.

Explanation.—A person is a 'pauper' when he is not possessed of sufficient means to enable him to pay the fee prescribed for by law for the plaint in such suit, or, where no such fee is prescribed, when he is not entitled to property worth one hundred rupees other than his necessary wearing apparel and the subject-matter of the suit.

402. No suit shall be brought by a pauper to recover compensation for loss of caste, libel, slander, abusive language or assault.

What suits excepted.

403. The application for permission to sue by a pauper shall be in writing, and shall contain the particulars required by section 50 in regard to plaints in suits: a schedule of any moveable or immoveable property belonging to the petitioner, with the estimated value thereof, shall be annexed thereto; and it shall be subscribed and verified in the manner hereinbefore prescribed for the subscription and verification of plaints.

Application to be in writing.

Contents of application.

404. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 40, the application shall be presented to the Court by the applicant in person unless he is exempted from appearing in Court under section 642 or 643, in which case the application may be presented by a duly authorized agent, who can answer all material questions relating to the application, and who shall be liable to be examined in the same manner as the party represented by him might have been examined had such party attended in person.

Presentation of application.

405. If the application be not framed or presented in the manner laid down in sections 403 and 404, the Court shall reject it.

Rejection of application.

406. If the application be in form and duly presented, the Judge shall examine the petitioner, or his agent when the applicant

Examination of applicant.

is allowed to appear by agent, regarding the merits of the claim and the property of the applicant.

When the application is presented by an agent, the Court may, if it thinks fit, order that the applicant be examined by a Commission in the manner in which the examination of an absent witness may be taken under the provisions of this Code.

I presented by agent, Court may order applicant to be examined by Commission.

Rejection of application.

407. If it appear to the Court upon such examination

(a) that the applicant is not a pauper, or

(b) that he has, within the two months next before the presentation of the application, disposed of any property fraudulently or with a view to obtain the benefit of this chapter, or

(c) that his allegations do not show a right to sue in such Court,

the Court shall reject the application.

Notice of day for receiving evidence of applicant's pauperism.

408. If upon such examination the Court sees no reason to refuse the application on any of the grounds stated in section 407, it shall fix a day, of which at least ten days' previous notice shall be given to the opposite party and the Government Pleader, for receiving such evidence as the applicant may adduce in proof of his pauperism, and for hearing any evidence which may be adduced in disproof thereof.

Procedure at hearing.

409. On the day so fixed, or as soon thereafter as may be convenient, the Court shall examine the witnesses (if any) produced by either party, and may cross-examine the applicant or his agent, and shall make a memorandum of the substance of their evidence.

The Court shall also hear any argument which the parties may desire to offer on the question whether, on the face of the application and of the evidence (if any) taken by the Court as herein provided, the applicant is or is not subject to any of the prohibitions specified in section 407.

The Court shall then either allow or refuse to allow the applicant to sue as a pauper.

Procedure if application admitted.

410. If the application be granted, it shall be numbered and registered, and shall be deemed the plaint in the suit, and the suit shall proceed in all other respects as a suit instituted under chapter V, except that the plaintiff shall not be liable to any court-fee (other than fees payable for service of proce-s) in respect of any petition, appointment of a pleader, or other proceeding connected with the suit.

Costs when pauper succeeds.

Recovery of court-fees.

411. If the plaintiff succeed in the suit, the Court shall calculate the amount of court-fees which would have been paid by the plaintiff if he had not been permitted to sue as a pauper; and such amount shall be a first charge on the subject-matter of the suit, and shall also be recoverable by Government from any party ordered by the decree to pay the same, in the same manner as costs of suit are recoverable under this Code.

Procedure when pauper fails.

412. If the plaintiff fails in the suit, or if he is dispaupered, the Court shall order the plaintiff, or any person made under section 32 co-plaintiff to the suit, to pay the court-fees which would have been paid by the plaintiff if he had not been permitted to sue as a pauper;

and, if it find that the suit was frivolous or vexatious, it may also punish the plaintiff with fine not exceeding one hundred rupees, or with imprisonment for a term which may extend to a month, or with both.

Refusal to allow applicant to sue as pauper to bar subsequent application of like nature.

413. Refusal to allow the applicant to sue as a pauper shall be a bar to any subsequent application of the like nature by him in respect of the same right to sue; but the applicant shall be at liberty to institute a suit in the ordinary manner in respect of such right.

Dispaupering.

414. The Court may, on motion by the defendant, or by the Government Pleader, of which one week's notice in writing has been given to the plaintiff, order the plaintiff to be dispaupered—

(a) if he is guilty of vexatious or improper conduct in the course of the suit;

(b) if it appears that his means are such that he ought not to continue to sue as a pauper, or

(c) if he has entered into any agreement with reference to the subject-matter of the suit, under which any other person has obtained an interest in such subject-matter.

Costs.

415. The costs of an application for permission to sue as a pauper and of an enquiry into pauperism are costs in the suit.

CHAPTER XXVII.

SUITS BY OR AGAINST GOVERNMENT OR PUBLIC OFFICERS.

Suits by or against Secretary of State in Council.

416. Suits by or against the Government shall be brought by or against (as the case may be) the Secretary of State for India in Council.

Courts in which such suits shall be instituted.

No suit against the Secretary of State for India in Council and no suit against a public officer for any act alleged to be done by him in his official capacity shall be instituted in any Court inferior to a District Court. Any such suit may be transferred by order of the Court in which it is instituted to any Court subordinate thereto, and otherwise competent to entertain such suit.

Nothing contained in the second paragraph of this section shall affect suits to which Government is a party, the trial whereof is provided for by any local law.

Persons authorized to act for Government.

417. Persons being ex-officio or otherwise authorized to act for Government in respect of any judicial proceeding, shall be deemed to be the recognized agents by whom appearances, acts and applications under this Code may be made or done on behalf of Government.

Plaints in suits by Secretary of State in Council.

418. In suits by the Secretary of State for India in Council, instead of inserting in the plaint the name and description and place of abode of the plaintiff, it shall be sufficient to insert the words "The Secretary of State for India in Council."

Agent of Government to receive process.

419. The person appointed to act as pleader on the part of Government in any Court, shall be the agent of the Government for the purpose of receiving processes against the Government or the said Secretary of State in Council, issuing out of the Court in which such person may be the pleader of Government.

Service on Government Pleader.

420. If the suit be against the said Secretary of State in Council or against a public officer for any such act as aforesaid, the summons shall be served on the Government Pleader of the Court in which the suit is instituted, or on any other person appointed to receive process on behalf of the Government.

Appearance and answer by Secretary of State in Council.

421. The Court, in fixing the day for the said Secretary of State in Council to answer to the plaint, shall allow a reasonable time for the necessary communication with the Government through the proper channels, and for the issue of instructions to the Government Pleader to appear and answer on behalf of the said Secretary of State in Council or the Government, and may extend the time at its discretion.

The Court may also in any case in which the Government Pleader is not accompanied by any person on the part of the said Secretary of State in Council, who may be able to answer any material questions relating to the suit, direct the attendance of such a person.

Service on public officers.

422. If the defendant be a public officer, the Court may send a copy of the summons to the head of the office in which the defendant is employed, for the purpose of being served on him, if it shall appear to the Court that the summons may be most conveniently so served.

Extension of time to enable officer to make reference to Government.

423. If the public officer on receiving the summons considers it proper to make a reference to the Government before answering to the plaint, he may apply to the Court to grant such extension of the time fixed in the summons as may be necessary to enable him to make such reference and to receive orders thereon through the proper channel; and the Court upon such application may extend the time for so long as appears to be requisite.

Notice previous to suing Secretary of State in Council or public officer.

424. No suit shall be instituted under this chapter against the said Secretary of State in Council or against a public officer until the expiration of two months next after notice in writing has been in the case of the Secretary of State in Council delivered to, or left at the office of, a Secretary to the Local Government or the Collector of the District, and, in the case of a public officer, delivered to him or left at his office, stating the cause of action and the name and place of abode of the intending plaintiff.

Unless such notice is proved, the Court shall find for the defendant.

Every suit against a public officer for compensation for an act alleged to be done in his official capacity shall be commenced within six months next after the cause of action arises, and not afterwards.

Application where Government undertakes defence.

425. If the Government undertake the defence of a suit under this chapter against a public officer, the Government Pleader, upon being furnished with authority to appear and answer to the plaint, shall apply to the Court, and upon such application the Court shall cause a note of his authority to be entered in the register.

Procedure where no such application made.

426. If such application is not made by the Government Pleader on or before the day fixed in the notice for the defendant to appear and answer to the plaint, the case shall proceed as in a suit between private parties, except that the defendant shall not be liable to arrest, nor his property to attachment, otherwise than in execution of a decree.

Defendant not liable to arrest before judgment.

Exemption of public officers from personal appearance.

427. If in a suit under this chapter against a public officer the Court requires the personal appearance of the defendant, and the defendant satisfies the Court that he cannot absent himself from his duty without detriment to the public service, the Court shall exempt him from appearing in person.

Procedure where decree is against Government or a public officer.

428. When the decree is against the said Secretary of State in Council or against a public officer, a time shall be specified in the decree within which it shall be satisfied; and if the decree is not satisfied within the time so specified, the Court shall report the case for the orders of the Local Government.

Execution shall not issue on any decree mentioned in this section unless it remains unsatisfied for the period of three months computed from the date of the report.

Performance of Government Pleader's functions.

429. Where there is no Government Pleader the functions imposed by this chapter on the Government Pleader may be performed by such officer as the Local Government generally or specially appoints in this behalf.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

SUITS BY ALIENS AND BY OR AGAINST FOREIGN AND NATIVE RULERS.

When aliens may sue.

430. Alien enemies residing in British India with the permission of the Governor General in Council and alien friends may sue in the Courts of British India as if they were subjects of Her Majesty.

No alien enemy residing in British India without such permission, or residing in a foreign country, shall sue in any of such Courts.

Explanation.—Every person residing in a foreign country, the Government of which is at war with the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland, and carrying on business in that country with a license in that behalf under the hand of one of Her Majesty's Secretaries of State or of a Secretary to the Government of India, shall, for the purpose of this section, be deemed to be an alien enemy.

431. A foreign State may sue in the Courts of British India, provided that—

When a foreign State may sue.

(a) it has been recognized by Her Majesty or the Governor General in Council, and

(b) the object of the suit is to enforce the private rights of the head or of the subjects of the foreign State.

The Court shall take judicial notice of the fact that a foreign State has not been recognized by Her Majesty or by the Governor General in Council.

432. Persons specially appointed by order of Government at the request of any Sovereign Prince or ruling Chief, whether in subordinate alliance with the British Government or otherwise, and whether residing within or without British India, to prosecute or defend any suit on his behalf, shall be deemed to be the recognized agents by whom appearances, acts and applications under this Code may be made or done on behalf of such Prince or Chief.

Persons specially appointed by Government to prosecute or defend for Princes or Chiefs.

433. Any such Prince or Chief, and any ambassador or envoy of a foreign State may, with the consent of Government certified by the signature of one of its Secretaries (but not otherwise) be sued in any competent Court not subordinate to a District Court:

Suits against Sovereign Princes, &c.

Such consent shall not be given unless—

(a) the Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy has instituted a suit in such Court against the person desiring to sue him, or

(b) the Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy by himself or another trades within the local limits of the jurisdiction of such Court: or

(c) the suit is for the determination of any right to, or interest in, immoveable property situate within the said local limits and in the possession of the Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy.

No such Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy shall be arrested under this Code; and no decree shall be executed against the property of any such Prince, Chief, ambassador or envoy unless with consent of Government certified as aforesaid.

Sovereign Princes, &c., exempt from arrest.

When their property may be attached.

434. The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India,

Execution in British India of decrees of Courts of Native States.

(a) declare that the decrees of Courts situate in the territories of any Native Prince or State in alliance with Her Majesty, may be executed in British India as if they had been made by the Courts of British India, and

(b) cancel any such declaration.

So long as such declaration remains in force the said decrees may be executed accordingly.

CHAPTER XXIX.

SUITS BY AND AGAINST CORPORATIONS AND COMPANIES.

435. In suits by a Corporation, or by a Company authorized to sue and be sued in the name of an officer or of a trustee, the plaint may be subscribed and verified on behalf of the Corporation or Company by any director, secretary, or other principal officer of the Corporation or Company, who is able to depose to the facts of the case.

Subscription and verification of plaint.

436. When the suit is against a Corporation, or against a Company authorized to sue and be sued in the name of an officer or of a trustee, the summons may be served

Service on Corporation or Company.

(a) by leaving it at the registered office (if any) of the Corporation or Company, or

(b) by sending it by post in a letter addressed to such officer or trustee at the office (or if there be more offices than one, at the principal office in British India) of the Corporation or Company, or

(c) by giving it to any director, secretary, or other principal officer of the Corporation or Company, and the Court may require the personal appearance of any director, secretary, or other principal officer of the Corporation or Company who may be able to answer material questions relating to the suit.

CHAPTER XXX.

SUITS BY AND AGAINST TRUSTEES, EXECUTORS AND ADMINISTRATORS.

437. In all suits concerning property vested in a trustee, executor or administrator, the trustee, executor or administrator shall represent the persons beneficially interested in such property; and it shall not ordinarily be necessary to make such persons parties to the suit. But the Court may, if it think fit, order them or any of them to be made such parties.

Representation of beneficiaries in suits concerning property vested in trustees, &c.

438. When there are several executors or administrators, they shall all be made parties to a suit against one or more of them:

Joinder of executors and administrators.

Provided that executors who have not proved their testator's will, and executors and administrators beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court, need not be made parties.

439. Unless the Court directs otherwise, the husband of a married administratrix or executrix shall not be a party to a suit by or against her.

Husband of married executrix not to join.

CHAPTER XXXI.

SUITS BY AND AGAINST MINORS AND PERSONS OF UNSOUND MIND.

440. Every suit by a minor shall be instituted in his name by an adult person, who in such suit shall be called the next friend of the minor, and may be ordered to pay any costs in the suit as if he were the plaintiff.

Minor must sue by next friend.

Costs.

441. Every application to the Court on behalf of a minor (other than an application under section 450) shall be made by his next friend, or his guardian for the suit.

Applications to be made by next friend or guardian ad litem.

442. If a plaint be filed by or on behalf of a minor, without a next friend, the defendant may apply to have the plaint taken off the file, with costs to be paid by the pleader or other person by whom it was presented. Notice in writing of such application shall be given to such person by the defendant; and the Court, after hearing his objections, if any, may make such order in the matter as it thinks fit.

Plaint filed without next friend to be taken off the file.

Costs.

443. Where the defendant to a suit, or respondent to an application, is a minor, the Court, on being satisfied of the fact of his minority, shall appoint a proper person to be guardian for the suit for such minor, to put in the defence for such minor, and generally to act on his behalf in the conduct and management of the case.

Guardian ad litem to be appointed by the Court.

A guardian for the suit is not a guardian of person or property within the meaning of the Indian Majority Act, 1875, section 3.

444. Every order made in a suit or on any application before the Court, in or by which a minor is in any way concerned or affected, without such minor being represented by a next friend or guardian for the suit, as the case may be, may be discharged, and, if the pleader of the party at whose instance such order was obtained knew, or might, reasonably have known, the fact of such minority, with costs to be paid by such pleader.

Order obtained without next friend or guardian may be discharged.

Costs.

445. Any person, being sui juris, may act as next friend of a minor, provided his interest is not adverse to that of such minor, and he is not a defendant or respondent in or to the suit or application.

Who may be next friend.

446. If the interest of the next friend of a minor is adverse to that of such minor, or if he is so connected with a defendant or respondent whose interest is adverse to that of such minor, as to make it unlikely that the interest of such minor will be properly protected by him, or if he does not do his duty, or, pending the suit or application, ceases to reside within British India, or for any other sufficient cause, application may be made on behalf of such minor or by a defendant or respondent for his removal, and the Court (if satisfied of the sufficiency of the cause assigned) may order the next friend to be removed accordingly and a guardian for the suit to be substituted.

Removal of next friend.

447. Unless otherwise ordered by the Court, a next friend shall not retire at his own request without first procuring a fit person to be put in his place, and giving security for the costs already incurred.

Retirement of next friend.

448. The application for the appointment of a new next friend shall be supported by affidavit, showing the fitness of the person proposed, and also, that he has no interest adverse to the minor.

Application for appointment of new next friend.

449. On the death or removal, as aforesaid, of a next friend, further proceedings shall be stayed until the appointment of a next friend in his place.

Stay of proceedings on death or removal of next friend.

450. If the pleader of such minor omits, within reasonable time, to take steps to get a new next friend appointed, any person interested in the minor or the matter at issue may apply to the Court for the appointment of one, and the Court may appoint such person as it thinks fit.

Application for appointment of new next friend.

451. On the appointment of a new next friend his name as such shall thenceforth be inserted in the proceedings.

Name of new next friend to be inserted in proceedings.

452. Before the name of any person can be used as the next friend of a minor, he shall sign a written authority to the pleader for that purpose, which authority shall be filed in Court.

Written authority to act for next friend to be filed.

453. A minor plaintiff, or a minor not a party to a suit on whose behalf an application is pending, on coming of age, must elect whether he will proceed with the suit or application.

Course to be followed by minor plaintiff or applicant on coming of age.

If he elects to proceed with it, he shall obtain an order discharging the next friend, and for leave to proceed in his own name.

The title of the suit or application shall in such case be corrected so as to read thenceforth thus:—"A. B., late a minor by C. D., his next friend, but now of full age."

If he elects to abandon the suit or application, he shall, if a sole plaintiff, or sole applicant, obtain an order to dismiss the suit or application on repayment of the costs incurred by the defendant or respondent, or which may have been paid by his next friend.

When minor sole plaintiff, or sole applicant.

Costs.

In either case the application may be made by petition ex parte; and it must be proved by affidavit that the late minor has attained his full age.

454. A minor co-plaintiff or co-applicant, on coming of age, and desiring to repudiate the suit or application, must apply to have his name struck out as co-plaintiff or co-applicant.

When minor co-plaintiff or co-applicant.

The application shall be by summons to the next friend, as well as to the defendant or respondent; and it must be proved by affidavit that the late minor has attained his full age. The costs of all parties of such application, and of all or any proceedings theretofore had in the suit or matter, shall be paid by such persons as the Court directs.

Costs.

455. If any minor on attaining majority can prove to the satisfaction of the Court that a suit instituted in his name by a next friend was unreasonable or improper, he may, if a sole plaintiff or sole applicant, apply to have the suit dismissed.

When suit or proceeding unreasonable or improper.

The application shall be by summons to all the parties concerned: and the Court, upon being satisfied of such unreasonableness or impropriety, may grant the application, and order the next friend to pay the costs of all parties in respect of the application and of any thing done in the suit.

Costs.

456. An order for the appointment of a guardian for the suit may be obtained upon application in the name of the minor. The petition must be supported by an affidavit verifying the fact that the proposed guardian has no interest in the matters in question in the suit or application, adverse to that of the minor, and that he is a fit person to be so appointed.

Petition for appointment of guardian ad litem.

457. A co-defendant or co-respondent, if sui juris, may be appointed guardian for the suit, if he has no interest adverse to that of the minor; but neither a plaintiff, nor a party applicant, nor a married woman, can be so appointed.

Who may be guardian ad litem.

458. If the guardian for the suit dies pending a suit or application against a minor, a new guardian shall be appointed in his place.

On death of guardian, pendente lite, new guardian to be appointed.

459. If the guardian for the suit of a minor defendant or respondent does not do his duty, or if other sufficient ground be made to appear, the Court may remove him, and may order him to pay such costs as may have been occasioned to any party by his breach of duty.

Guardian neglecting his duty may be removed.

Costs.

460. When the enforcement of a decree is applied for against the heir or representative, being a minor, of a deceased party, a guardian for the suit of such minor shall be appointed, and the decree-holder shall serve on such guardian notice in writing of such application.

When decree to be enforced against heir or representative.

461. No sum of money or other thing shall be received or taken by a next friend or guardian for the suit at any time on behalf of a minor, at any time before decree or order, unless he has first obtained the leave of the Court, and given security to its satisfaction that such money or other thing shall be duly accounted for to, and held for the benefit of, such minor.

Before decree, next friend or guardian ad litem not to receive money without leave of Court and giving security.

462. No such next friend or guardian for the suit shall enter into any agreement or compromise on behalf of a minor, with reference to the suit in which he acts as next friend or guardian without the leave of the Court.

Next friend or guardian ad litem not to compromise without leave of Court.

Any such agreement or compromise entered into without the leave of the Court shall be voidable against all parties other than the minor.

Compromise without leave voidable.

463. The provisions contained in sections 440 to 462 (both inclusive) shall, mutatis mutandis, apply in the case of persons of unsound mind, adjudged to be so under Act No. XXXV of 1858, or under any other law for the time being in force.

Application of sections 440 to 462 to persons of unsound mind.

464. Nothing in sections 442 to 462 applies to any minor or person of unsound mind, for whose person or property a guardian or manager has been appointed by the Court of Wards or by the Civil Court under any local law.

Wards of Court.

CHAPTER XXXII.

SUITS BY AND AGAINST MILITARY MEN.

465. When any officer or soldier actually serving the Government in a military capacity is a party to a suit, and cannot obtain leave of absence for the purpose of prosecuting or defending the suit in person, he may authorize any person to sue or defend in his stead.

Officers or soldiers who cannot obtain leave may authorize any person to sue or defend for them.

The authority shall be in writing and shall be signed by the officer or soldier in the presence of (a) his commanding officer or of the next subordinate officer, if the party be himself the commanding officer, or (b) where the officer or soldier is serving in military staff employment, the head or other superior officer of the office in which he is employed. Such commanding or other officer shall countersign the authority which shall be filed in Court.

When so filed, the countersignature shall be sufficient proof that the authority was duly executed, and that the officer or soldier by whom it was granted could not obtain leave of absence for the purpose of prosecuting or defending the suit in person.

Explanation.—In this chapter the expression 'commanding officer' means the officer in actual command for the time being of any regiment, corps, detachment or depôt, to which the officer or soldier belongs.

466. Any person authorized by an officer or soldier to prosecute or defend a suit in his stead may prosecute or defend it in person in the same manner as the officer or soldier could do if present; or he may appoint a pleader to prosecute or defend the suit on behalf of such officer or soldier.

Person so authorized may act personally or appoint pleaders.

467. Processes served upon any person authorized by an officer or soldier, as in section 465, or upon any pleader appointed as aforesaid by such person to act for, or on behalf of such officer or soldier, shall be as effectual as if it had been served on the party in person or on his pleader.

Service on person so authorized, or on his pleader, to be good service.

468. When an officer or soldier is a defendant, the Court shall send a copy of the summons to the commanding officer of such officer or soldier for the purpose of being served on him.

Service on officers and soldiers.

The officer to whom such copy is sent, after causing it to be served on the person to whom it is addressed, if practicable, shall return it to the Court with the written acknowledgment of such person endorsed thereon.

If from any cause the copy cannot be so served, it shall be returned to the Court by which it was sent, with information of the cause which has prevented the service.

469. If, in the execution of a decree, a warrant of arrest is to be executed within the limits of a cantonment, garrison, military station, or military bázár, the officer charged with the execution of such warrant shall deliver the same to the commanding officer.

Execution of warrant of arrest in cantonments, &c.

The commanding officer shall back the warrant with his signature, and shall cause the person named therein to be arrested if within the limits of his command, and delivered to the officer so charged of the warrant.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

INTERPLEADER.

470. When two or more persons claim adversely to one another the same payment or property from another person, whose only interest therein is that of a mere stakeholder and who is ready to render it to the right owner, such stakeholder may institute a suit of interpleader against all the claimants for the purpose of obtaining a decision as to whom the payment or property should be made or delivered, and of obtaining indemnity for himself.

When interpleader suit may be instituted.

Provided that if any suit is pending in which the rights of all parties can properly be decided, the stakeholder shall not institute a suit of interpleader.

471. In every suit of interpleader the plaint must, in addition to the other statements necessary for plaints, state—

Plaint in such suit.

(a) that the plaintiff has no interest in the thing claimed otherwise than as a mere stakeholder;

(b) the claims made by the defendants severally; and

(c) that there is no collusion between the plaintiff and any of the defendants.

472. When the thing claimed is capable of being paid into Court or placed in the custody of the Court, the plaintiff must so pay or place it before he can be entitled to any order in the suit.

Payment of thing claimed into Court.

Procedure at first hearing.

473. At the first hearing the Court may

(a) declare that the plaintiff is discharged from all liability to the defendants in respect of the thing claimed, award him his costs, and dismiss him from the suit:

or, if it thinks that justice or convenience so require,

(b) retain all parties until the final disposal of the suit:

and, if it finds that the admissions of the parties or other evidence enable it,

(c) adjudicate the title to the thing claimed:

or else it may

(d) direct the defendants to interplead one another by filing statements and entering into evidence for the purpose of bringing their respective claims before the Court.

474. Nothing in this chapter shall be taken to enable agents to sue their principals, or tenants to sue their landlords, for the purpose of compelling them to interplead with any persons other than persons making claim through such principals or landlords.

When agents and tenants may institute interpleader suits.

Illustrations.

(a) A deposits a box of jewels with B as his agent. C alleges that the jewels were wrongfully obtained from him by A, and claims them from B. B cannot institute an interpleader suit against A and C.

(b) A deposits a box of jewels with B as his agent. He then writes to C for the purpose of making the jewels a security for a debt due from himself to C. A afterwards alleges that C's debt is satisfied, and C alleges the contrary. Both claim the jewels from B. B may institute an interpleader suit against A and C.

475. When the suit is properly instituted, the Court may provide for the plaintiff's costs by giving him a charge on the thing claimed or in some other effectual way.

Charge of plaintiff's costs.

476. If any of the defendants in an interpleader suit is actually suing the stakeholder in respect of the subject of such suit, the Court in which the suit against the stakeholder is pending shall, on being duly informed that a decree has been made in the interpleader suit in favour of the stakeholder, stay the proceedings as against him; and his costs in the suit so stayed may be provided for in such suit; but if, and so far as, they are not provided for in that suit, they may be added to his costs incurred in the interpleader suit.

Procedure where a defendant is suing stakeholder.

Costs.

PART IV.

OF PROVISIONAL REMEDIES.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

OF ARREST AND ATTACHMENT BEFORE JUDGMENT.

A.—Arrest before Judgment.

477. If at any stage of any suit, other than a suit for the possession of immoveable property, the plaintiff satisfies the Court by affidavit—

When plaintiff may apply that security be taken.

that the defendant, with intent to avoid or delay the plaintiff, or to avoid any process of the Court, or to obstruct or delay the execution of any decree that may be passed against him,

(a) has absconded or left the jurisdiction of the Court, or

(b) is about to abscond or to leave the jurisdiction of the Court, or

(c) has disposed of or removed from the jurisdiction of the Court his property or any part thereof, or that the defendant is about to leave British India under circumstances affording reasonable probability that the plaintiff will or may thereby be obstructed or delayed in the execution of any decree that may be passed against the defendant in the suit, the plaintiff may apply to the Court that security be taken for the appearance of the defendant to answer any decree that may be passed against him in the suit.

Order to bring up defendant to show cause why he should not give security.

478. If the Court, after examining the applicant, and making such further investigation as it thinks fit, is satisfied that the defendant, with any such intent as aforesaid,

(a) has absconded or left the jurisdiction of the Court, or

(b) is about to abscond or to leave the jurisdiction of the Court, or

(c) has disposed of or removed from the jurisdiction of the Court his property or any part thereof, or that the defendant is about to leave British India under the circumstances last aforesaid, the Court may issue an order for bringing the defendant before the Court to show cause why he should not give security for his appearance.

If defendant fail to show cause, Court may order him to make deposit or give security.

479. If the defendant fail to show such cause, the Court shall order him either to deposit in Court money or other property sufficient to answer the claim against him, or to give security for his appearance at any time when called upon while the suit is pending, and until execution or satisfaction of any decree that may be passed against him in the suit.

The surety shall bind himself, in default of such appearance, to pay any sum of money which the defendant may be ordered to pay in the suit.

Procedure in case of application by surety to be discharged.

480. The surety for the appearance of the defendant may at any time apply to the Court in which he became such surety to be discharged from his obligation.

On such application being made, the Court shall summon the defendant to appear, or, if it thinks fit, may issue a warrant for his arrest in the first instance.

On the appearance of the defendant pursuant to the summons or warrant, or on his voluntary surrender, the Court shall direct the surety to be discharged from his obligation, and shall call upon the defendant to find fresh security.

Procedure where defendant fails to give security or find fresh security.

481. If the defendant fail to comply with an order under section 479 or section 480, the Court may commit him to jail until the decision of the suit, or, if judgment be given against the defendant, until the execution of the decree; Provided that no person shall be imprisoned under this section for a longer period than six months.

Subsistence of defendant arrested.

482. The provisions of section 339 as to allowances payable for the subsistence of judgment-debtors shall apply to all defendants arrested under this chapter.

B.—Attachment before Judgment.

Application before judgment for security from defendant to satisfy decree, and in default, for attachment of property.

483. If at any stage of any suit the plaintiff satisfies the Court by affidavit that the defendant, with intent to obstruct or delay the execution of any decree that may be passed against him,

(a) is about to dispose of the whole or any part of his property, or to remove the same from the jurisdiction of the Court in which the suit is pending, or

(b) has quitted the jurisdiction of the Court, leaving therein property belonging to him, the plaintiff may apply to the Court to call upon the defendant to furnish security to satisfy any decree that may be passed against him in such suit, and, on his failing to give such security, to direct that any portion of his property shall be attached until the further order of the Court.

Contents of application.

The application shall, unless the Court otherwise directs, contain a specification of the property required to be attached, and the estimated value thereof.

Court may call on defendant to furnish security or show cause.

484. If the Court, after examining the applicant, and making any further investigation which it thinks fit, is satisfied that the defendant is about to dispose of or remove his property, with intent to obstruct or delay the execution of any decree that may be passed against him in the suit, the Court may require him, within a time to be fixed by the Court, either to furnish security in such sum as may be specified in the order, to produce and place at the disposal of the Court, when required, the said property or the value of the same, or such portion thereof as may be sufficient to satisfy the decree, or to appear and show cause why he should not furnish security.

The Court may also in the order direct the conditional attachment of the whole or any portion of the property specified in the application.

Attachment if cause not shown or security not furnished.

485. If the defendant fail to show cause why he should not furnish security, or fail to furnish the security required within the time fixed by the Court, the Court may order that the property specified in the application, or such portion thereof as appears sufficient to satisfy any decree which may be passed in the suit, shall be attached.

Withdrawal of attachment.

If the defendant show such cause or furnish the required security, and the property specified in the application or any portion of it has been ordered to be attached, the Court shall order the attachment to be withdrawn.

Mode of making attachment.

486. The attachment shall be made in the manner herein provided for the attachment of property in execution of a decree for money.

Investigation of claims to property attached before judgment.

487. If any claim be preferred to the property attached before judgment, such claims shall be investigated in the manner hereinbefore provided for the investigation of claims to property attached in execution of a decree for money.

Removal of attachment when security furnished.

488. When an order of attachment before judgment is passed, the Court which passed the order shall remove the attachment whenever the defendant furnishes the security required, together with security for the costs of the attachment, or when the suit is dismissed.

Attachment not to affect rights of strangers, or bar the decree-holder from applying for sale.

489. Attachment before judgment shall not affect the rights of persons not parties to the suit, nor bar any person holding a decree against the defendant from applying for the sale of the property under attachment in execution of such decree.

Property attached under this chapter, not to be re-attached in execution of decree.

490. Where property is under attachment by virtue of the provisions of this chapter, and a decree is given in favour of the plaintiff, it shall not be necessary to re-attach the property in execution of such decree.

C.—Compensation for improper Arrests or Attachments.

Compensation for obtaining arrest or attachment on insufficient grounds.

491. If in any suit in which an arrest or attachment has been effected it appear to the Court that such arrest or attachment was applied for on insufficient grounds, or if the suit of the plaintiff fails, and it appears to the Court that there was no probable ground for instituting the suit, the Court may, on the application of the defendant, award against the plaintiff in its decree such amount, not exceeding one thousand rupees, as it deems a reasonable compensation to the defendant for the expense or injury occasioned to him by the arrest or attachment:

Proviso.

Provided that the Court shall not award under this section a larger amount than it might decree in a suit for compensation.

An award under this section shall bar any suit for compensation in respect of such arrest or attachment.

CHAPTER XXXV.

OF TEMPORARY INJUNCTIONS AND INTERLOCUTORY ORDERS.

A.—Temporary Injunctions.

Cases in which temporary injunction may be granted.

492. If in any suit it be proved by affidavit or otherwise

(a) that any property in dispute in a suit is in danger of being wasted, damaged or alienated by any party to the suit, or wrongfully sold in execution of a decree, or

(b) that the defendant threatens, or is about, to remove or dispose of his property with intent to defraud his creditors,

the Court may grant a temporary injunction to restrain such act, or give such other order for the purpose of staying and preventing the wasting, damaging, alienation, sale, removal or disposition of the property as the Court thinks fit.

Injunction to restrain repetition or continuance of breach.

493. In any suit for restraining the defendant from committing a breach of contract or other injury, and whether compensation be claimed in the suit or not, the plaintiff may, at any time after the commencement of the suit, and either before or after judgment, apply to the Court for a temporary injunction to restrain the defendant from the repetition or the continuance of the breach of contract or wrongful act complained of, or the committing of any breach of contract or injury of a like kind arising out of the same contract or relating to the same property or right.

Such injunction may be granted by the Court on such terms as to the duration of the injunction, keeping an account, giving security, or otherwise, as the Court thinks fit.

In case of disobedience, an injunction granted under this section or section 492 may be enforced by the imprisonment of the defendant for a term not exceeding six months, or the attachment of his property, or both.

No attachment under this section shall remain in force for more than one year, at the end of which time if the defendant has not obeyed the injunction, the property attached may be sold, and out of the proceeds the Court may award to the plaintiff such compensation as it thinks fit and may pay the balance, if any, to the defendant.

Before granting injunction, Court may direct notice to be given to opposite party.

494. The Court may in all cases, and shall in all cases except where it appears to the Court that the object of granting the injunction would be defeated by the delay, before granting an injunction, direct notice in writing of the application for the same to be given to the opposite party.

Injunction to corporation binding on its members and officers.

495. An injunction directed to a corporation or public company is binding not only on the corporation or company itself, but also on all members and officers of the corporation or company whose personal action it seeks to restrain.

Order for injunction may be discharged, varied or set aside.

496. Any order for an injunction may be discharged or varied or set aside by the Court, on application made thereto by any party dissatisfied with such order.

Compensation to defendant for issue of injunction on insufficient grounds.

497. If it appears to the Court that the injunction was applied for on insufficient grounds, or if, after the issue of the injunction, the suit is dismissed or judgment is given against the plaintiff by default or otherwise, and it appears to the Court that there was no probable ground for instituting the suit, the Court may, on the application of the defendant, award against the plaintiff in its decree such sum, not exceeding one thousand rupees, as it deems a reasonable compensation to the defendant for the expense or injury occasioned to him by the issue of the injunction:

Proviso.

Provided that the Court shall not award under this section a larger amount than it might decree in a suit for compensation.

An award under this section shall bar any suit for compensation in respect of the issue of the injunction.

B.—Interlocutory Orders.

Power to order interim sale of perishable articles.

498. The Court may, on the application of any party to a suit, order the sale, by any person named in such order, and in such manner and on such terms as it thinks fit, of any moveable property being the subject of such suit, which is subject to speedy and natural decay.

Power to make order for detention, &c., of subject-matter and to authorize entry, taking of samples and experiments.

499. The Court may, on the application of any party to a suit, and on such terms as it thinks fit,

(a) make an order for the detention, preservation or inspection of any property being the subject of such suit;

(b) for all or any of the purposes aforesaid, authorise any person to enter upon or into any land or building in the possession of any other party to such suit, and

(c) for all or any of the purposes aforesaid, authorise any samples to be taken, or any observation to be made or experiment to be tried, which may seem necessary or expedient for the purpose of obtaining full information or evidence.

The provisions hereinbefore contained as to execution of process shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to persons authorised to enter under this section.

Application for such orders to be after notice.

500. An application by the plaintiff for an order under section 498 or section 499 may be made after notice in writing to the defendant at any time after service of the summons.

An application by the defendant for a like order may be made after notice in writing to the plaintiff, and at any time after the applicant has appeared.

When party may be put in immediate possession of land, the subject of suit.

501. When land paying revenue to Government, or a tenure liable to sale, forms the subject of a suit, if the party in possession of such land or tenure neglects to pay the Government revenue, or the rent due to the proprietor of the tenure, as the case may be, and such land or tenure is consequently ordered to be sold, any other party to the suit claiming to have an interest in such land or tenure may upon payment of the revenue or rent due previously to the sale (and with or without security at the discretion of the Court), be put in immediate possession of the land or tenure;

and the Court in its decree may award against the defaulter the amount so paid, with interest thereupon at such rate as the Court thinks fit, or may charge the amount so paid, with interest thereupon at such rate as the Court orders, in any adjustment of accounts which may be directed in the decree passed in the suit.

Deposit of money, &c., in Court.

502. When the subject-matter of a suit is money or some other thing capable of delivery, and any party thereto admits that he holds such money or other thing as a trustee for another party, or that it belongs or is due to another party, the Court may order the same to be deposited in Court or delivered to such last-named party, with or without security, subject to the further direction of the Court.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

APPOINTMENT OF RECEIVERS AND DEPOSIT IN COURT.

Power of Court to appoint Receivers.

503. Whenever it appears to the Court to be necessary for the preservation or the better custody or management of any property, moveable or immoveable, the subject of a suit, or under attachment, the Court may

(a) appoint a Receiver of such property,

and may, if need be,

(b) remove the person in whose possession or custody the property may be from the possession or custody thereof;

(c) commit the same to the custody or management of such Receiver; and

(d) grant to such Receiver such fee or commission on the rents and profits of the property by way of remuneration, and all such powers as to bringing and defending suits, and for the management, protection, preservation and improvement of the property, the collection of the rents and profits thereof, the application and disposal of such rents and profits, and the execution of instruments in writing, as the owner himself has, or such of those powers as the Court thinks fit.

Every Receiver so appointed shall

(e) give such security (if any) as the Court thinks fit duly to account for what he shall receive in respect of the property,

(f) pass his accounts at such periods and in such form as the Court directs,

(g) pay the balance due from him thereon as the Court directs, and

(h) be responsible for any loss occasioned to the property by his wilful default or gross negligence.

When Collector may be appointed Receiver.

504. If the property be land paying revenue to Government, or land of which the revenue has been assigned or redeemed, and the Court considers that the interests of those concerned will be promoted by the management of the Collector, the Court may appoint the Collector to be Receiver of such property.

Courts empowered under this chapter.

505. The powers conferred by this chapter shall be exercised only by High Courts and District Courts. But whenever the Judge of a Court subordinate to a District Court considers it expedient to appoint a Receiver in any suit before him, he shall refer the case to the District Court with his opinion to that effect, and the District Court shall make such order thereon as it thinks fit.

PART V.

OF SPECIAL PROCEEDINGS.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

REFERENCE TO ARBITRATION.

Parties to suit may apply for order of reference.

506. If all the parties to a suit desire that any matter in difference between them in the suit be referred to arbitration, they may, at any time before judgment is pronounced, apply, in person or by their respective pleaders specially authorized in writing in this behalf, to the Court for an order of reference.

Every such application shall be in writing and shall state the particular matter sought to be referred.

Nomination of arbitrator.

507. The arbitrator shall be nominated by the parties in such manner as may be agreed upon between them.

When Court to nominate arbitrator.

If the parties cannot agree with respect to such nomination, or if the person whom they nominate refuses to accept the arbitration and the parties desire that the nomination shall be made by the Court, the Court shall nominate the arbitrator.

Order of reference.

508. The Court shall, by order, refer to the arbitrator the matter in difference which he is required to determine, and shall fix such time as it thinks reasonable for the delivery of the award, and specify such time in the order.

When once a matter is referred to arbitration, the Court shall not deal with it in the same suit, except in the case provided for by section 512, or unless, owing to the death, refusal, neglect, incapacity or departure from India of the arbitrator, the reference be fruitless, in which case the Court may issue an order superseding the arbitration and restoring the suit to the file of the Court.

When reference is to two or more, order to provide for difference of opinion.

509. If the reference be to two or more arbitrators, provision shall be made in the order for a difference of opinion among the arbitrators,

(a) by the appointment of an umpire, or

(b) by declaring that the decision shall be with the majority if the major part of the arbitrators agree, or

(c) by empowering the arbitrators to appoint an umpire, or

(d) otherwise, as may be agreed between the parties; or, if they cannot agree, as the Court determines.

If an umpire is appointed, the Court shall fix such time as it thinks reasonable for the delivery of his award in case he is required to act.

Death, incapacity, &c., of arbitrators or umpire.

510. If the arbitrator, or, where there are more arbitrators than one, any of the arbitrators, or the umpire, dies, or refuses, or neglects, or becomes incapable to act, or leaves British India under circumstances showing that he will probably not return at an early date, the Court, if any of the parties so desire, may appoint a new arbitrator or umpire in the place of the person so dying, or refusing, or neglecting, or becoming incapable to act, or leaving British India.

Appointment of umpire by Court.

511. Where the arbitrators are empowered by the order of reference to appoint an umpire and fail to do so, any of the parties may serve the arbitrators with a written notice to appoint an umpire; and if, within seven days after such notice has been served, no umpire be appointed, the Court, upon the application of the party who has served such notice as aforesaid, may appoint an umpire.

Powers of arbitrator or umpire appointed under sections 509, 510, 511.

512. Every arbitrator or umpire appointed under sections 509, 510 or 511 shall have the like powers as if his name had been inserted in the order of reference.

Summoning witnesses.

513. The Court shall issue the same processes to the parties and witnesses whom the arbitrators or umpire desire to examine, as the Court may issue in suits tried before it.

Punishment for default, &c.

Persons not attending in accordance with such process, or making any other default, or refusing to give their evidence, or guilty of any contempt to the arbitrator or umpire during the investigation of the matters referred, shall be subject to the like disadvantages, penalties and punishments by order of the Court on the representation of the arbitrator or umpire, as they would incur for the like offences in suits tried before the Court.

Extension of time for making award.

514. If from the want of the necessary evidence or information, or from any other cause, the arbitrators cannot complete the award within the period specified in the order, the Court may, if it think fit, either grant a further time, and from time to time enlarge the period for the delivery of the award, or make an order superseding the arbitration, and in such case shall proceed with the suit.

When umpire may arbitrate in lieu of arbitrators.

515. When an umpire has been appointed, he may enter on the reference in the place of the arbitrators

(a) if they have allowed the appointed time to expire without making an award, or

(b) when they have delivered to the Court or to the umpire a notice in writing, stating that they cannot agree.

Award to be signed and filed.

516. When an award in a suit has been made, the persons who made it shall sign it and file it in Court, together with any depositions and documents which have been taken and proved before them; and notice of the filing of the award shall be given to the parties.

Arbitrators or umpire may state special case.

517. Upon any reference by an order of Court, the arbitrators or umpire may, with the consent of the Court, state the award as to the whole or any part thereof in the form of a special case for the opinion of the Court; and the Court shall deliver its opinion thereon; and such opinion shall be added to and form part of the award.

Court may, on application, modify or correct award in certain cases.

518. On the application of either of the parties, the Court may, by order, modify or correct an award,

(a) where it appears that a part of the award is upon a matter not referred to arbitration, provided such part can be separated from the other part and does not affect the decision on the matter referred, or

(b) where the award is imperfect in form, or contains any obvious error which can be amended without affecting such decision.

Order as to costs of arbitration.

519. The Court may also, on the application of any of the parties or of the persons making the award, make such order as it thinks fit respecting the costs of the arbitration, if any question arise respecting such costs and the award contain no sufficient provision concerning them.

When award or matter referred to arbitration may be remitted.

520. In any of the following cases the Court may remit the award or any matter referred to arbitration to the reconsideration of the same arbitrators or umpire, upon such terms as it thinks fit, that is to say:—

(a) if the award has left undetermined any of the matters referred to arbitration, or if it determine any matter not referred to arbitration;

(b) if the award is so indefinite as to be incapable of execution;

(c) if an objection to the legality of the award is apparent upon the face of it.

Grounds for setting aside award.

521. An award remitted under section 520 becomes void on the refusal of the arbitrators or umpire to reconsider it. But no award shall be set aside except on one of the following grounds (namely)—

(a) corruption or misconduct of the arbitrator or umpire;

(b) either party having been guilty of fraudulent concealment of any matter which he ought to have disclosed, or of wilfully misleading or deceiving the arbitrator or umpire;

(c) the award having been made after the issue of an order by the Court superseding the arbitration and restoring the suit;

and no award shall be valid unless made within the period allowed by the Court.

Judgment to be according to award.

522. If the Court sees no cause to remit the award or any of the matters referred to arbitration for reconsideration in manner aforesaid, and if no application has been made to set aside the award, or if the Court has refused such application, the Court shall, after the time for making such application has expired, proceed to give judgment according to the award, or, if the award has been submitted to it in the form of a special case, according to its own opinion on such case:

Decree to follow.

Upon the judgment so given a decree shall follow, and shall be enforced in manner provided in this Code for the execution of decrees. No appeal shall lie from such decree.

Agreement to refer to arbitration may be filed in Court.

523. When any persons by an instrument in writing agree that any difference between them shall be referred to the arbitration of any person named in the agreement or to be appointed by any Court having jurisdiction in the matter to which the agreement relates, the parties thereto, or any of them, may apply that the agreement be filed in such Court.

Application to be numbered and registered.

The application shall be in writing and shall be numbered and registered as a suit between one or more of the parties interested or claiming to be interested as plaintiff or plaintiffs, and the others or other of them as defendants or defendant, if the application have been presented by all the parties, or, if otherwise, between the applicant as plaintiff and the other parties as defendants.

Notice to show cause against filing it.

On such application being made, the Court shall direct notice thereof to be given to any of the parties to the agreement other than the applicants, requiring such parties to show cause, within the time specified in the notice, why the agreement should not be filed.

If no sufficient cause be shown, the Court may cause the agreement to be filed, and shall make an order of reference thereon, and may also nominate the arbitrator when he is not named therein and the parties cannot agree as to the nomination.

Provisions of this chapter applicable to proceedings under order of reference.

524. The foregoing provisions of this chapter, so far as they are consistent with any agreement so filed, shall be applicable to all proceedings under an order of reference made by the Court under section 523, and to the award of arbitration and to the enforcement of the decree founded thereupon.

Filing award in matter referred to arbitration without intervention of Court.

525. When any matter has been referred to arbitration without the intervention of a Court of Justice, and an award has been made thereon, any person interested in the award may apply to the Court of the lowest grade having jurisdiction over the whole matter to which the award relates, that the award be filed in Court.

Application to be numbered and registered.

The application shall be in writing and shall be numbered and registered as a suit between the applicant as plaintiff and the other parties as defendants.

Notice to parties to arbitration.

The Court shall direct notice to be given to the parties to the arbitration other than the applicant, requiring them to show cause, within a time specified, why the award should not be filed.

Filing and enforcement of such award.

526. If no sufficient cause be shown against the award, the Court may order it to be filed, and such award may then be enforced as a decree upon an award made under the provisions of this chapter.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

OF PROCEEDINGS ON AGREEMENT OF PARTIES.

Power to state case for Court's opinion.

527. Parties claiming to be interested in the decision of any question of fact or law, may enter into an agreement in writing stating such question in the form of a case for the opinion of the Court; and providing

(a) that upon the finding of the Court in the affirmative or negative of such question, a sum of money fixed by the parties or to be determined by the Court, shall be paid by one of the parties to the other of them; or

(b) that some property, moveable or immoveable, specified in the agreement, shall be delivered by one of the parties to the other of them; or

(c) that one or more of the parties shall do or perform, or refrain from doing or performing some other particular act specified in the agreement.

Every case stated under this section shall be divided into consecutively numbered paragraphs, and shall concisely state such facts and documents as may be necessary to enable the Court to decide the questions raised thereby.

When value of subject-matter must be stated.

528. If the agreement is for the delivery of any property, or for the doing or performing, or the refraining from doing or performing, any particular act, the estimated value of the property to be delivered, or to which the act specified has reference, shall be stated in the agreement.

Agreement to be filed and numbered as a suit.

529. The agreement, if framed in accordance with the rules hereinbefore contained, may be filed in the Court of the lowest grade having jurisdiction in the matter to which it relates, and, when so filed, shall be numbered and registered as a suit between one or more of the parties interested, or claiming to be interested, as plaintiff or plaintiffs, and the other or others of them as defendant or defendants; and notice shall be given to all the parties to the agreement other than the party or parties by whom it was presented.

Parties to be subject to Court's jurisdiction.

530. When the agreement has been filed, the parties to it shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the Court, and shall be bound by the statements contained therein.

Hearing and disposal of the case.

531. The case shall be set down for hearing as a suit instituted under chapter V, the provisions of which shall apply to such suit so far as the same are applicable.

If the Court is satisfied, after an examination of the parties, or taking such evidence as it thinks fit,

(a) that the agreement was duly executed by them, and

(b) that they have a bonâ fide interest in the question of fact or law stated therein, and

(c) that the same is fit to be decided,

it shall proceed to deliver judgment thereon, in the same way as in an ordinary suit, and upon the judgment so given a decree shall follow, and shall be enforced in the manner provided in this Code for the execution of decrees.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

OF SUMMARY PROCEDURE ON NEGOTIABLE INSTRUMENTS.

Institution of summary suits upon bills of exchange, &c.

532. In any Court to which this section applies all suits upon bills of exchange, hundís or promissory notes may, in case the plaintiff desires to proceed under this chapter, be instituted by presenting a plaint in the form prescribed by this Code; but the summons shall be in the form contained in the fourth schedule hereto annexed, No. 168, or in such other form as the High Court may from time to time prescribe.

In any case in which the plaint and summons are in such forms respectively, the defendant shall not appear to or defend the suit unless he obtains leave from a Judge as hereinafter mentioned so to appear and defend;

and in default of his obtaining such leave or of appearance and defence in pursuance thereof, the plaintiff shall be entitled to a decree for any sum not exceeding the sum mentioned in the summons, together with interest at the rate specified (if any) to the date of the decree, and a sum for costs to be fixed by a rule of the High Court, unless the plaintiff claim more than such fixed sum, in which case the costs shall be ascertained in the ordinary way, and such decree may be enforced forthwith.

Payment into Court of sum mentioned in summons.

The defendant shall not be required to pay into Court the sum mentioned in the summons, or to give security therefor, unless the Court thinks his defence not to be primâ facie sustainable, or feels reasonable doubt as to its good faith.

Explanation.—This section is not confined to cases in which the bill, hundí or note sued upon, together with mere lapse of time, is sufficient to establish a primâ facie right to recover.

Defendant showing defence on merits to have leave to appear.

533. The Court shall, upon application within the period of seven days from the service of such summons, give leave to appear and to defend the suit, upon the defendant paying into court the sum mentioned in the summons or upon affidavits satisfactory to the Court, which disclose a defence or such facts as would make it incumbent on the holder to prove consideration, or such other facts as the Court may deem sufficient to support the application, and on such terms as to security, framing and recording issues, or otherwise, as the Court thinks fit.

Power to set aside decree.

534. After decree, the Court may, under special circumstances, set aside the decree, and if necessary stay or set aside execution, and may give leave to appear to the summons and to defend the suit, if it seem reasonable to the Court so to do, and on such terms as the Court thinks fit.

Power to order bill to be deposited with officer of Court.

535. In any proceeding under this chapter the Court may order the bill, hundí, or note on which the suit is founded to be forthwith deposited with an officer of the Court, and may further order that all proceedings shall be stayed until the plaintiff gives security for the costs thereof.

Recovery of cost of noting non-acceptance of dishonoured bill.

536. The holder of every dishonoured bill of exchange or promissory note shall have the same remedies for the recovery of the expenses incurred in noting the same for non-acceptance or non-payment, or otherwise, by reason of such dishonour, as he has under this chapter for the recovery of the amount of such bill or note.

Procedure in suits under this chapter.

537. Except as provided by sections 532 to 536 both inclusive, the procedure in suits under this chapter shall be the same as the procedure in suits instituted under Chapter V.

Power to extend this chapter.

538. Sections 532 to 537 (both inclusive) apply only to—

(a) High Courts established under Royal Charter;

(b) the Chief Court of the Panjáb;

(c) the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon;

(d) the Courts of Small Causes in the Presidency Towns;

(e) the Court of the Judge of Karáchi; and

(f) any other Court to which the Local Government may, by notification in the official Gazette, apply them.

In case of such application the Local Government may direct by whom any of the powers and duties incident to the provisions so applied shall be exercised and performed, and make any rules which it thinks requisite for carrying into operation the provisions so applied.

Within one month after such notification has been published, such provisions shall apply accordingly, and the rules so made shall have the force of law.

The Local Government may from time to time alter or cancel any such notification.

PART VI.

OF APPEALS.

CHAPTER XL.

OF APPEALS FROM ORIGINAL DECREES.

Appeal to lie from all original decrees, except when expressly prohibited.

539. Unless when otherwise expressly provided in this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, an appeal shall lie from the decrees, or from any part of the decrees, of the Courts exercising original jurisdiction to the Courts authorized to hear appeals from the decisions of those Courts.

Form of appeal.

540. The appeal shall be made in the form of a memorandum in writing presented by the appellant or his pleader, and shall be accompanied by a copy of the decree appealed against and of the judgment on which it is founded.

Memorandum to be accompanied by copy of decree and judgment.

Memorandum of appeal.

541. The memorandum of appeal shall set forth, concisely and under distinct heads, the grounds of objection to the decree appealed against, without any argument or narrative, and such grounds shall be numbered consecutively.

Appellant confined to grounds set out.

542. The appellant shall not, without the leave of the Court, urge or be heard in support of any other ground of objection, but the Court in deciding the appeal shall not be confined to the grounds set forth by the appellant:

Provided that the Court shall not rest its decision on any ground set forth by the appellant, unless the respondent has had sufficient opportunity of contesting the case on that ground.

Rejection of memorandum or grounds of objection.

543. If the memorandum of appeal be not drawn up in the manner hereinbefore prescribed, such memorandum or grounds may be rejected or returned to the appellant for the purpose of being amended within a time to be fixed by the Court, or be amended then and there.

When the Court rejects under this section any memorandum, it shall record the reasons for such rejection.

When a memorandum of appeal is amended under this section the Judge, or such officer as he appoints in this behalf, shall attest the amendment by his signature.

One of several plaintiffs or defendants may obtain reversal of whole decree if it proceed on ground common to all.

544. If there be more plaintiffs or more defendants than one in a suit, and the decree appealed against proceed on any ground common to all the plaintiffs or to all the defendants, any one of the plaintiffs or of the defendants may appeal against the whole decree, and the Appellate Court may reverse or modify the decree in favour of all the plaintiffs or defendants as the case may be.

Illustrations.

(a). A sues B and C on a promissory note. The defendants plead payment. The Court decrees in favour of A. B alone appeals. The Appellate Court, holding that payment has been made, may reverse the decree in favour of both B and C.

(b). A sues B and C on a promissory note. B pleads payment and C pleads the Limitation Act. The Court overrules both pleas and decrees in favour of A. B alone appeals. The Appellate Court may be of opinion that payment has been made, but cannot, on B's appeal, reverse the decree as regards C.

Of staying and executing Decrees under Appeal.

Execution of decree not stayed solely by reason of appeal.

545. Execution of a decree shall not be stayed by reason only of an appeal having been preferred against the decree; but the Appellate Court may for sufficient cause order the execution to be stayed.

Stay of execution of appealable decree before time for appealing has expired.

If an application be made for the execution of a decree which is open to appeal, before the time allowed for appeal has expired, the Court may for sufficient cause order the execution to be stayed.

Provided that no order shall be made under this section unless the Court is satisfied—

(a) that substantial loss may result to the party applying for stay of execution unless the order is made;

(b) that the application has been made without unreasonable delay; and

Security required before making order to stay execution.

(c) that security has been given by the applicant for the due performance of such decree or order as may ultimately be binding upon him.

Security in case of order for execution of decree appealed against.

546. If an order is made for the execution of a decree against which an appeal has been preferred, the Court which passed the decree may, on sufficient cause being shewn by the appellant, require security to be given for the restitution of any property which may be taken in execution of the decree, or of the value of such property, and for the due performance of the decree or order of the Appellate Court, or the Appellate Court may for like cause direct the Court which passed the decree to take such security.

No such security to be required from Government or public officers.

547. No such security as is mentioned in sections 545 and 546 shall be required from the Secretary of State for India in Council or from any public officer sued in respect of an act alleged to be done by him in his official capacity.

Of Procedure in Appeal from Decrees.

Registry of memorandum of appeal.

548. When a memorandum of appeal is admitted, the Appellate Court or the proper officer of that Court shall endorse thereon the date of admission, and shall register the appeal in a book to be kept for the purpose.

Register of appeals.

Such book shall be called the Register of Appeals.

Appellate Court may require appellant to give security for costs.

549. The Appellate Court may, at its discretion, either before the respondent is called upon to appear and answer or afterwards on the application of the respondent, demand from the appellant security for the costs either of the appeal, or of the original suit, or of both:

When appellant resides out of British India.

Provided that the Court shall demand such security in all cases in which the appellant is residing out of British India, and is not possessed of any sufficient immoveable property within British India independent of the property to which the appeal relates.

If such security be not furnished within such time as the Court orders, the Court shall reject the appeal.

Appellate Court to give notice to Court whose decree is appealed against.

550. When the memorandum of appeal is registered, the Appellate Court shall send notice of the appeal to the Court against whose decree the appeal is made.

Transmission of papers to Appellate Court.

If the appeal be from a Court the records of which are not deposited in the Appellate Court, the Court to which such notice is sent shall, upon the receipt thereof, transmit with all practicable despatch all material papers in the suit, or such papers as may be specially called for by the Appellate Court:

Power to confirm decision of lower Court without sending it notice.

Provided that the Appellate Court may, if it thinks fit, after fixing a time for hearing the appellant or his pleader, and hearing him accordingly if he appears at such time, confirm the decision of the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, without sending notice of the appeal to such Court and without serving notice on the respondent or his pleader; but in such case the confirmation shall be notified to the same Court.

Copies of exhibits in Court whose decree is appealed against.

551. Either party may make an application in writing to the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, specifying any papers of which he requires copies to be made and deposited in such Court; and copies of such papers shall be prepared at the expense of the applicant, and shall be deposited accordingly.

Day for hearing appeal.

552. The Appellate Court shall fix a day for hearing the appeal.

Such day shall be fixed with reference to the current business of the Court, the place of residence of the respondent, and the time necessary for the service of the notice of appeal, so as to allow the respondent a sufficient time to enable him to appear and answer the appeal on such day.

Publication and service of notice of day for hearing appeal.

553. Notice of the day so fixed shall be stuck up in the appellate courthouse, and a like notice shall be sent by the Appellate Court to the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, and shall be served on the respondent or his pleader in the manner provided in chapter VI for the service of a summons to a defendant to appear and answer; and all rules applicable to such summons and to proceedings with reference to the service thereof, shall apply to the service of such notice.

Appellate Court may itself cause notice to be served.

Instead of sending the notice to the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, the Appellate Court may itself cause the notice to be served on the respondent or his pleader under the rules above referred to.

Contents of notice.

554. The notice to the respondent shall declare that, if he does not appear in the Appellate Court on the day so fixed, the appeal will be heard ex parte.

Procedure on Hearing.

Right to begin.

555. On the day so fixed, or on any other day to which the hearing may be adjourned, the party having the right to begin shall be heard in support of or against the appeal, as the case may be. The other party shall then be heard, and the party having the right to begin shall then be entitled to reply.

Explanation.—If the appeal is from the whole decree, or if there are cross-appeals, the party having the right to begin is the party who had the right to begin on the hearing in the Court whose decree is appealed from.

If the appeal is from only a portion of the decree, and there is no cross-appeal, the appellant has the right to begin.

Dismissal of appeal for appellant's default.

556. If on the day so fixed, or any other day to which the hearing may be adjourned, the appellant does not attend in person or by his pleader, the appeal shall be dismissed for default.

Hearing appeal ex parte.

If the appellant attends and the respondent does not attend, the appeal shall be heard ex parte in his absence.

Dismissal of appeal where notice has not been served in consequence of appellant's failure to deposit cost of notice.

557. If on the day so fixed, or any other day to which the hearing may be adjourned, it is found that the notice to the respondent has not been served in consequence of the failure of the appellant to deposit, within the period fixed by the Court, the sum required to defray the cost of issuing the notice, the Court may order that the appeal be dismissed:

Proviso.

Provided that no such order shall be passed, although the notice has not been served upon the respondent, if on the day fixed for hearing the appeal the respondent appears in person or by a pleader, or by a duly authorized agent.

Re-admission of appeal dismissed for default.

558. If an appeal be dismissed under section 556 or section 557, the appellant may apply to the Appellate Court for the re-admission of the appeal; and if it be proved that he was prevented by any sufficient cause from attending when the appeal was called on for hearing, or from depositing the sum so required, the Court may re-admit the appeal on such terms as to costs or otherwise as the Court thinks fit to impose upon him.

Power to adjourn hearing, and direct persons appearing interested to be made respondents.

559. If it appear to the Court at the hearing that any person who was a party to the suit in the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, but who has not been made a party to the appeal, is interested in the result of the appeal, the Court may adjourn the hearing to a future day to be fixed by the Court, and direct that such person be made a respondent.

Re-hearing on application of respondent against whom ex parte decree is made.

560. When an appeal is heard ex parte in the absence of the respondent, and judgment is given against him, he may, within thirty days of the date of the decree, apply to the Appellate Court to re-hear the appeal; and if it be proved that the respondent was prevented by sufficient cause from attending when the appeal was called on for hearing, the Court may re-hear the appeal on such terms as to costs or otherwise as the Court thinks fit to impose upon him.

Upon hearing respondent may object to decree as if he had preferred separate appeal.

561. Any respondent, though he may not have appealed against any part of the decree, may, upon the hearing, take any objection to the decree which he could have taken by way of appeal, provided he has given through the Court to the appellant seven days' notice of such objection.

Form of notice, and provisions applicable thereto.

Such notice shall be in the form of a memorandum, and the provisions of sections 540, 541 and 542, so far as they relate to the form and contents of the memorandum of appeal, shall apply to such notice.

A respondent cannot by such notice raise questions between himself and any party to the suit, other than the appellant.

Remand of case by Appellate Court.

562. If without going into the merits, the Court against whose decree the appeal is made has disposed of the suit upon a preliminary point so as to exclude any evidence of fact which appears to the Appellate Court essential to the determination of the rights of the parties, and the decree upon such preliminary point is reversed in appeal, the Appellate Court may, if it thinks fit, remand the case, together with a copy of the decree or order in appeal, to the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, with directions to re-admit the suit under its original number in the register, and

(a) to proceed to investigate the suit on the merits, and pass a decree thereon; or

(b) to try a particular issue; or

(c) to take certain specified evidence.

When further evidence barred.

563. When a case is remanded with directions to take such evidence, the Court to which the case is remanded shall not take any other evidence in the case, except evidence tendered to contradict the evidence so taken.

Limit to remand.

564. The Appellate Court shall not remand a case for a second decision, except as provided in section 562.

When evidence on record sufficient, Appellate Court shall determine case finally.

565. When the evidence upon the record is sufficient to enable the Appellate Court to pronounce judgment, the Appellate Court may, if necessary, resettle the issues, and shall finally determine the case notwithstanding that the judgment of the Court against whose decree the appeal is made has proceeded wholly upon some ground other than that on which the Appellate Court proceeds.

When Appellate Court may frame issues and refer them for trial to Court whose decree is appealed against.

566. If the Court against whose decree the appeal is made has omitted to frame or try any issue, or to determine any question of fact, which appears to the Appellate Court essential to the right decision of the suit upon the merits, and the evidence upon the record is not sufficient to enable the Appellate Court to determine such issue or question, the Appellate Court may frame issues for trial, and may refer the same for trial to the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, and in such case shall direct such Court to take the additional evidence required, and such Court shall proceed to try such issue, and shall return to the Appellate Court its finding thereon together with the evidence.

Finding and evidence to be put on record.

Objections to finding.

567. Such finding and evidence shall become part of the record in the suit; and either party may, within a time to be fixed by the Appellate Court, present a memorandum of objections to the finding.

Determination of appeal.

After the expiration of the period fixed for presenting such memorandum, the Appellate Court shall proceed to determine the appeal.

Productions of additional evidence in Appellate Court.

568 The parties to an appeal shall not be entitled to produce additional evidence, whether oral or documentary, in the Appellate Court. But if

(a) the Court against whose decree the appeal is made refused to admit evidence which ought to have been admitted, or

(b) the Appellate Court requires any document to be produced or any witness to be examined to enable it to pronounce judgment or for any other substantial cause, the Appellate Court may allow such evidence to be produced, or document to be received, or witness to be examined.

Whenever additional evidence is admitted by an Appellate Court, the reason for the admission shall be recorded on the proceedings of the Court.

Mode of taking additional evidence.

569. Whenever additional evidence is allowed to be received, the Appellate Court may either take such evidence, or direct the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, or any other Subordinate Court, to take such evidence and to send it when taken to the Appellate Court.

Points to be defined and recorded.

570. In all cases where additional evidence is directed or allowed to be taken, the Appellate Court shall specify the points to which the evidence is to be confined, and record on its proceedings the points so specified.

Of the Judgment in Appeal.

Judgment when and where pronounced.

571. The Appellate Court, after hearing the parties or their pleaders and referring to any part of the proceedings, whether on appeal or in the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, to which a reference may be considered necessary, shall pronounce judgment in open Court, either at once or on some future day, of which notice shall be given to the parties or their pleaders.

Language of judgment.

572. The judgment shall be written in English; provided that if English is not the mother-tongue of the Judge, and he is not able to write an intelligible judgment in English, the judgment shall be written in his mother-tongue or in the language of the Court.

Translation of judgment.

573. When the language in which the judgment is written is not the language of the Court, the judgment shall, if any party so require, be translated into such language, and the translation, after it has been ascertained to be correct, shall be signed by the Judge, or such officer as he appoints in this behalf.

Contents of judgment.

574. The judgment of the Appellate Court shall state—

(a) the points for determination;

(b) the decision thereupon;

(c) the reasons for the decision; and

(d) when the decree appealed against is reversed, the relief to which the appellant is entitled,

and shall at the time that it is pronounced be signed and dated by the Judge or by the Judges concurring therein.

Decision when appeal is heard by two or more Judges.

575. When the appeal is heard by a Bench of two or more Judges, the appeal shall be decided in accordance with the opinion of such Judges or of the majority (if any) of such Judges.

If there be no such majority which concurs in a judgment varying or reversing the decree appealed against, such decree shall be affirmed:

Provided that if the Bench hearing the appeal is composed of two Judges belonging to a Court consisting of more than two Judges, and the Judges composing the Bench differ in opinion on a point of law, the appeal may be referred to one or more of the other Judges of the same Court, and shall be decided according to the opinion of the majority (if any) of all the Judges who have heard the appeal, including those who first heard it.

When there is no such majority which concurs in a judgment varying or reversing the decree appealed against, such decree shall be affirmed.

The High Court may from time to time make rules consistent with this Code to regulate references under this section.

Dissent to be recorded.

576. When the appeal is heard by more Judges than one, any Judge dissenting from the judgment of the Court shall state in writing the decision or order which he thinks should be passed on the appeal, and he may state his reasons for the same.

What judgment may direct.

577. The judgment may be for confirming, varying, or reversing the decree of the Court against which the appeal is made, or, if the parties to the appeal agree as to the form which the decree in appeal shall take, or as to the order to be passed in appeal, the Appellate Court may pass a decree or order accordingly.

No decree to be reversed or modified for error or irregularity.

578. No decree shall be varied or reversed nor shall any case be remanded in appeal, on account of any error, defect or irregularity, whether in the decision or in any order passed in the suit, or otherwise, not affecting the merits of the case or the jurisdiction of the Court.

Of the Decree in Appeal.

Contents of decree.

579. The decree of the Appellate Court shall bear date the day on which the judgment was pronounced.

The decree shall contain the number of the appeal, and the memorandum of appeal, including the names and description of the appellant and respondent, and shall specify clearly the relief granted or other determination of the appeal.

The decree shall also state the amount of costs incurred in the appeal, and by what parties and in what proportions such costs and the costs in the suit are to be paid.

The decree shall be signed and dated by the Judge or Judges who passed it:

Judge dissenting from judgment need not sign decree.

Provided that where there are more Judges than one, if there be a difference of opinion among them, it shall not be necessary for any Judge dissenting from the judgment of the Court to sign the decree.

Copies of judgment and decree to be furnished to parties.

580. Certified copies of the judgment and decree shall be furnished to the parties on application to the Court and at their expense.

Certified copy of decree to be sent to Court whose decree is appealed against.

581. A copy of the judgment and of the decree, certified by the Appellate Court or such officer as it appoints in this behalf, shall be sent to the which passed the decree appealed against, and shall be filed with the original proceedings in the suit, and an entry of the judgment of the Appellate Court shall be made in the register of Civil suit.

582. The Appellate Court shall have the same powers in appeals under this chapter in respect to adjournments, granting of time, arrest or attachment before judgment, issue of injunctions, examination of the parties or their pleaders and of witnesses or other persons, issue of commissions, award of interest or mesne profits, separation of misjoined suits, permission to bring fresh suits, or otherwise, as are vested by this Code in Courts of original jurisdiction in respect of suits instituted under chapter V.

Appellate Court to have same powers as Courts of original jurisdiction.

The provisions of such chapter, unless when otherwise provided, shall apply to appeals under this chapter so far as the same are applicable.

583. When a party in whose favour a decree is passed in an appeal under this chapter is desirous of obtaining execution of the same, he shall apply to the Court which passed the decree against which the appeal was preferred; and such Court shall proceed to execute the decree passed in appeal, according to the rules hereinbefore prescribed for the execution of decrees in suits.

Execution of decree of Appellate Court.

CHAPTER XLI.

OF APPEALS FROM APPELLATE DECREES.

584. Unless when otherwise provided in this Code or by any other law, from all decrees passed in appeal by any Court subordinate to a High Court, an appeal shall lie to the High Court on any of the following grounds, (namely)—

Second appeals to High Court.

(a) the decision being contrary to some specified law or usage having the force of law;

Grounds of second appeal.

(b) the decision having failed to determine some issue of law or usage having the force of law;

(c) a substantial error or defect in the procedure as prescribed by this Code or any other law, which may have produced error or defect in the decision of the case upon the merits.

585. No second appeal shall lie except on the grounds mentioned in section 584.

Second appeal only on grounds mentioned in section 584.

586. No second appeal shall lie in any suit of the nature cognizable in Courts of Small Causes, when the debt, compensation or demand for which the original suit is instituted, does not exceed the sum of five hundred rupees.

No second appeal in certain suits.

587. Every memorandum of appeal under this chapter shall be accompanied by a copy of the decree appealed against,

Provisions as to second appeals.

and the provisions contained in chapter XL shall apply as far as may be to appeals under this chapter, and the decree made by the appellate Court shall be executed by the Court which made the decree in the suit in which such appeal was preferred, under the rules hereinbefore provided for the execution of decrees in suits.

Execution of decree in second appeal.

CHAPTER XLII.

OF APPEALS FROM ORDERS.

588. An appeal shall lie from the following orders under this Code and from no other such orders:—

Orders appealable.

(a) orders under section 19, staying proceedings in a suit,

(b) orders under section 24, determining whether immoveable property is or is not within the local limits of the Court's jurisdiction,

(c) orders under section 32 striking out or adding the name of any person as plaintiff or defendant,

(d) orders under section 44, adding a cause of action,

(e) orders under section 47, excluding a cause of action,

(f) orders rejecting or returning plaints under section 53, clause (d), or section 54, clauses (b) and (d), or section 57, clause (c),

(g) orders rejecting applications under section 102 in cases open to appeal for an order to set aside the dismissal of a suit,

(h) orders under section 120 where a party fails to appear,

(i) orders under section 168 for attachment of property,

(j) orders under section 176 where a party refuses to give evidence or produce a document called for by the Court,

(k) orders under section 214 as to questions relating to the execution of decrees,

(l) orders under section 261 as to objections to draft conveyances or draft endorsements,

(m) orders under section 312 for setting aside, or under section 314 for confirming, a sale,

(n) orders in insolvency matters under section 351, 352, 357, or 359,

(o) orders rejecting applications under section 370 for dismissal of the suit,

(p) orders disallowing objections under section 372,

(q) orders as to interpleader suits under section 473, 475 or 476,

(r) orders under section 479, 480, 481, 485, 492, 493, 503 or 513.

(s) orders under section 518 modifying an award,

(t) orders under any of the provisions of this Code, imposing fines, or for the imprisonment of any person, except when such imprisonment is in execution of a decree.

The orders passed in appeals under this section shall be final.

589. An appeal from any order specified in section 588, clause (n), shall lie to the High Court.

Court which shall hear appeals.

When an appeal from any other order is allowed by this chapter, it shall lie to the Court to which an appeal would lie from the decree in the suit in relation to which such order was made.

590. The procedure prescribed in chapter XL shall, so far as may be, apply to appeals from orders under this Code, or under any special or local law in which a different procedure is not provided.

Procedure in appeals from orders.

591. Except as provided in this chapter, no appeal shall lie from any order passed in the course of a suit and relating thereto, prior to decree; but if the decree be appealed against, any error, defect or irregularity in any such order, affecting the merits of the case or the jurisdiction of the Court, may be set forth as a ground of objection in the memorandum of appeal.

No appeal, before decree, from order passed in course of suit; but if decree appealed against, error or defect therein may be set forth.

CHAPTER XLIII.

OF PAUPER APPEALS.

592. Any person entitled under this Code or any other law to prefer an appeal, who is unable to pay the fee required for the petition of appeal, may, on presenting an application accompanied by a memorandum of appeal, be allowed to appeal as a pauper, subject to the rules contained in chapters XXVI, XL, XLI and XLII, in so far as those rules are applicable:

Who may appeal as pauper.

Provided that the Court shall reject the application unless upon a perusal thereof and of the judgment and decree against which the appeal is made, it sees reason to think that the decree appealed against is contrary to law or to some usage having the force of law, or is otherwise erroneous or unjust.

Procedure on application for admission of appeal.

593. The inquiry into the pauperism of the applicant may be made either by the Appellate Court or by the Court against whose decision the appeal is made under the orders of the Appellate Court:

Enquiry into pauperism.

Provided that, if the applicant was allowed to sue or appeal as a pauper in the Court against whose decree the appeal is made, no further enquiry in respect of his pauperism shall be necessary, unless the Appellate Court sees special cause to direct such enquiry.

Proviso.

CHAPTER XLIV.

OF APPEALS TO THE QUEEN IN COUNCIL.

594. In this chapter, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context, the expression 'decree' includes also judgment and order.

'Decree' defined.

595. Subject to such rules as may, from time to time, be made by Her Majesty in Council regarding appeals from the Courts of British India, and to the provisions hereinafter contained,

What appeals lie to Queen in Council.

an appeal shall lie to Her Majesty in Council

(a) from any final decree passed on appeal by a High Court or other Court of final appellate jurisdiction,

(b) from any final decree passed by a High Court in the exercise of original civil jurisdiction and

(c) from any decree, when the case, as hereinafter provided, is certified to be a fit one for appeal to Her Majesty in Council.

596. In each of the cases mentioned in clauses (a) and (b) of section 595,

Value of subject-matter.

the amount or value of the subject-matter of the suit in the Court of first instance must be ten thousand rupees or upwards, and the amount or value of the matter in dispute on appeal to Her Majesty in Council must be the same sum or upwards, or the decree must involve, directly or indirectly, some claim or question to, or respecting, property of like amount or value,

and where the decree appealed from affirms the decision of the Court immediately below the Court passing such decree, the appeal must involve some substantial question of law.

597. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 595,

Bar of certain appeals.

no appeal shall lie to Her Majesty in Council from the judgment of one Judge of a High Court established under the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of Victoria, chapter 104, or of one Judge of a Division Court, or of two or more Judges of such High Court, or of a Division Court constituted by two or more Judges of such High Court, whenever such Judges are equally divided in opinion, and do not amount in number to a majority of the whole of the Judges of the High Court at the time being;

and no appeal shall lie to Her Majesty in Council from any decree which, under section 556, is final.

598. Whoever desires to appeal under this chapter to Her Majesty in Council must apply by petition to the Court whose decree is complained of.

Application to Court whose decree is complained of.

599. Such application must ordinarily be made within six months from the date of such decree.

Time within which application must be made.

But if that period expires when the Court is closed, the application may be made on the day that the Court re-opens.

600. Every petition under section 598 must state the grounds of appeal, and pray for a certificate, either that, as regards amount or value and nature, the case fulfils the requirements of section 596, or that it is otherwise a fit one for appeal to Her Majesty in Council.

Certificate as to value or fitness.

Upon receipt of such petition, the Court may direct notice to be served on the opposite party to show cause why the said certificate should not be granted.

601. If such certificate be refused, the petition shall be dismissed:

Effect of refusal of certificate.

Provided that, if the decree complained of be a final decree passed by a Court other than a High Court, the order refusing the certificate shall be appealable, within thirty days from the date of the order, to the High Court to which the former Court is subordinate.

Security and deposit required on grant of certificate.

602. If the certificate be granted, the applicant shall, within six months from the date of the decree complained of, or within six weeks from the grant of the certificate, whichever is the later date,

(a) give security for the costs of the respondent, and

(b) deposit the amount required to defray the expense of translating, transcribing, indexing, and transmitting to Her Majesty in Council a correct copy of the whole record of the suit, except

(1) formal documents directed to be excluded by any order of Her Majesty in Council in force for the time being;

(2) papers which the parties agree to exclude;

(3) accounts, or portions of accounts, which the officer empowered by the Court for that purpose considers unnecessary, and which the parties have not specifically asked to be included, and

(4) such other documents as the High Court may direct to be excluded:

and when the applicant prefers to print in India the copy of the record, except as aforesaid, he shall also, within the time mentioned in the first clause of this section, deposit the amount required to defray the expense of printing such copy.

Admission of appeal and procedure thereon.

603. When such security has been completed and deposit made to the satisfaction of the Court, the Court may,

(a) declare the appeal admitted, and

(b) give notice thereof to the respondent, and shall then

(c) transmit to Her Majesty in Council, under the seal of the Court, a correct copy of the said record, except as aforesaid, and

(d) give to either party one or more authenticated copies of any of the papers in the suit on his applying therefor and paying the reasonable expenses incurred in preparing them.

Revocation of acceptance of security.

604. At any time before the admission of the appeal, the Court may, upon cause shown, revoke the acceptance of any such security, and make further directions thereon.

Power to order further security or payment.

605. If at any time after the admission of the appeal, but before the transmission of the copy of the record, except as aforesaid, to Her Majesty in Council, such security appears inadequate, or further payment is required for the purpose of translating, transcribing, printing, indexing, or transmitting the copy of the record, except as aforesaid,

the Court may order the appellant to furnish, within a time to be fixed by the Court, other and sufficient security, or to make, within like time, the required payment.

Effect of failure to comply with order.

606. If the appellant fail to comply with such order, the proceedings shall be stayed, and the appeal shall not proceed without an order in this behalf of Her Majesty in Council, and in the meantime execution of the decree appealed against shall not be stayed.

Refund of balance of deposit.

607. When the copy of the record, except as aforesaid, has been transmitted to Her Majesty in Council, the appellant may obtain a refund of the balance, if any, of the amount which he has deposited under section 602.

Powers of Court pending appeal.

608. Notwithstanding the admission of any appeal under this chapter, the decree appealed against shall be unconditionally enforced, unless the Court admitting the appeal otherwise directs.

But the Court may, if it think fit, on any special cause shown by any party interested in the suit, or otherwise appearing to the Court—

(a) impound any moveable property in dispute, or any part thereof, or

(b) allow the decree appealed against to be enforced, taking such security from the respondent as the Court thinks fit for the due performance of any order which Her Majesty in Council may make on the appeal, or

(c) stay the execution of the decree appealed against, taking such security from the appellant as the Court thinks fit for the due performance of the decree appealed against, or of any order which Her Majesty in Council may make on the appeal, or

(d) place any party seeking the assistance of the Court under such conditions, or give such other direction respecting the subject-matter of the appeal as it thinks fit.

Increase of security found inadequate.

609. If at any time during the pendency of the appeal, the security so furnished by either party appears inadequate, the Court may, on the application of the other party, require further security.

In default of such further security being furnished as required by the Court, if the original security was furnished by the appellant, the Court may, on the application of the respondent, issue execution of the decree appealed against as if the appellant had furnished no such security.

And if the original security was furnished by the respondent, the Court shall, so far as may be practicable, stay all further execution of the decree, and restore the parties to the position in which they respectively were when the security which appears inadequate was furnished, or give such direction respecting the subject-matter of the appeal as it thinks fit.

Procedure to enforce orders of Queen in Council.

610. Whoever desires to enforce or to obtain execution of any order of Her Majesty in Council shall apply by petition, accompanied by a certified copy of the decree or order made in appeal and sought to be enforced or executed, to the Court from which the appeal to Her Majesty was preferred.

Such Court shall transmit the order of Her Majesty to the Court which made the first decree appealed from, or to such other Court as Her Majesty by her said order may direct, and shall (upon the application of either party) give such directions as may be required for the enforcement or execution of the same; and the Court to which the said order is so transmitted shall enforce or execute it accordingly, in the manner and according to the rules applicable to the execution of its original decrees.

When any monies expressed to be payable in British currency are payable in India under such order, the amount so payable shall be estimated according to the rate of exchange for the time being fixed by the Secretary of State for India in Council, with the concurrence of the Lords Commissioners of Her Majesty's Treasury, for the adjustment of financial transactions between the Imperial and the Indian Governments.

Appeal against order relating to execution.

611. The orders made by the Court which enforces or executes the order of Her Majesty in Council relating to such enforcement or execution, shall be appealable in the same manner and subject to the same rules as the orders of such Court relating to the enforcement or execution of its own decrees.

Amendment of Act IX of 1871, schedule II, No. 169.

612. The first column of No. 169 of the second schedule annexed to the Indian Limitation Act, 1871, shall be read as if the following words were added thereto (that is to say): "or any order of Her Majesty in Council."

Power to make rules.

613. The High Court may, from time to time, make general rules consistent with this Act to regulate—

(a) the service of notices under section 600,

(b) the grant or refusal of certificates under sections 601 and 602 by Courts of final appellate jurisdiction subordinate to the High Court,

(c) the amount and nature of the security required under sections 602, 605 and 609,

(d) the testing of such security,

(e) the estimate of the cost of transcribing the record,

(f) the preparation, examination and certifying of such transcript,

(g) the revision and authentication of translations,

(h) the preparation of indices to transcripts of records, and of lists of the papers not included therein,

(i) the recovery of costs incurred in British India in connection with appeals to Her Majesty in Council, and all other matters connected with the enforcement of this chapter.

Publication of rules.

All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law in the High Court and the Courts of final appellate jurisdiction subordinate thereto.

Legalization of existing rules.

All rules heretofore made and published by any High Court relating to appeal to Her Majesty in Council and in force immediately before the passing of this Act, shall, so far as they are consistent with this Act, be deemed to have been made and published hereunder.

Recorder of Rangoon.

614. In sections 595 and 613, the expression 'High Court' shall be deemed to include also the Recorder of Rangoon, but not so as to empower him to make rules binding on Courts other than his own Court.

Construction of Bengal Regulation III of 1828, section 4, clause 5.

615. The rules and restrictions referred to in Bengal Regulation III of 1828, section IV, clause fifth, shall be deemed to be the rules and restrictions applicable to appeals under this Code from the decisions of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal.

Saving of Her Majesty's pleasure.

616. Nothing herein contained shall be understood—

(a) to bar the full and unqualified exercise of Her Majesty's pleasure in receiving or rejecting appeals to Her Majesty in Council, or otherwise howsoever, or

and of rules for conduct of business before Judicial Committee.

And nothing in this chapter applies to any matter of criminal or admiralty or vice-admiralty jurisdiction, nor to appeals from orders and decrees of Prize Courts.

PART VII.

CHAPTER XLV.

OF REFERENCE TO THE HIGH COURT.

Reference of question to High Court.

617. If before or in the hearing of a suit or appeal in which the decree is final, or if in the execution of any such decree, any question of law or usage having the force of law, or the construction of a document which construction may affect the merits, arises, on which the Court trying the suit or appeal entertains reasonable doubt, the Court may, either of its own motion or on the application of any of the parties, draw up a statement of the point on which doubt is entertained, and refer such statement with its own opinion for the decision of the High Court.

Court may pass decree contingent upon opinion of High Court.

618. The Court may either stay the proceedings or proceed in the suit or appeal notwithstanding such reference, and may pass a decree contingent upon the opinion of the High Court on the point referred;

but no execution shall be issued in any case in which such reference is made to the High Court until the receipt of the order of that Court.

If a decree has been made its execution shall be stayed until the receipt of a copy of the judgment of the High Court upon such reference.

619. The High Court shall hear the parties to the suit or appeal in which the reference is made, in person or by their respective pleaders, and shall determine the point so referred to it, and shall transmit a copy of its judgment, under the signature of the Registrar, to the Court by which the reference was made, and such Court shall, on the receipt thereof, proceed to dispose of the suit or appeal in conformity with the decision of the High Court.

Judgment of High Court to be transmitted, and case disposed of accordingly.

620. Costs, if any, consequent on a reference for the opinion of the High Court, shall be costs in the suit or appeal.

Costs of reference to High Court.

621. When a case is referred to the High Court under this chapter, the High Court may return the case for amendment, and may alter, cancel or set aside any decree which the Court making the reference has passed in the suit or appeal out of which the reference arose, and make such order as it thinks fit.

Power to alter, &c., decrees of Court making reference.

PART VIII.

CHAPTER XLVI.

OF REVIEW OF JUDGMENT.

622. The High Court may call for the record of any case in which no appeal lies to the High Court, if the Court by which the case was decided appears to have exercised a jurisdiction not vested in it by law, or to have passed any order contrary to law, and may set aside the decision, or pass such other order in the case as the High Court thinks fit.

Power to call for record of cases decided by Small Cause Courts, or, on appeal, by subordinate Courts.

The District Court may exercise the like powers as to any case decided by any Court subordinate thereto.

623. Any person considering himself aggrieved—

Application for review of judgment.

(a) by a decree or order from which an appeal is hereby allowed, but from which no appeal has been preferred;

(b) by a decree or order from which no appeal is hereby allowed; or

(c) by a judgment on a reference from a Court of Small Causes;

and who, from the discovery of new and important matter or evidence which, after the exercise of due diligence, was not within his knowledge or could not be adduced by him at the time when the decree was passed or order made, or on account of some mistake or error apparent on the face of the record, or for any other sufficient reason, desires to obtain a review of the decree passed or order made against him, may apply for a review of judgment to the Court which passed the decree or made the order or to the Court, if any, to which the business of the former Court has been transferred.

A party who is not appealing from a decree may apply for a review of judgment notwithstanding the pendency of an appeal by some other party, except when the ground of such appeal is common to the applicant and the appellant.

624. Except on the discovery of such new and important matter or evidence as aforesaid, or of some clerical error apparent on the face of the decree, no application for a review of judgment, other than that of a High Court, shall be made to any Judge other than the Judge who delivered it.

To whom applications for review may be made.

625. The rules hereinbefore contained as to the form of making appeals shall apply, mutatis mutandis, to applications for review.

Form of applications for review.

626. If it appear to the Court that there is not sufficient ground for a review, it shall reject the application.

Application when rejected.

If the Court be of opinion that the review shall be granted, it shall grant the same, and the Judge shall record with his own hand his reasons for such opinion:

Application when granted.

Proviso. Provided that—

(a) no such review shall be granted without previous notice to the opposite party to enable him to appear and be heard in support of the decree a review of which is applied for; and

(b) no such review shall be granted on the ground of discovery of new matter or evidence which the applicant alleges was not within his knowledge, or could not be adduced by him when the decree or order was passed, without strict proof of such allegation.

627. If the Judge or Judges, or any one of the Judges, who passed the decree or order, a review of which is applied for, continue attached to the Court at the time when the application for a review is presented and are not, or is not, precluded by absence or other cause, for a period of six months next after the application, from considering the decree or order to which the application refers, such Judge or Judges or any of them shall hear the application, and no other Judge or Judges of the Court shall hear the same.

Application for review in Court consisting of two or more Judges.

628. If the application for a review be heard by more than one Judge and the Court be equally divided, the application shall be rejected.

Application when rejected.

If there be a majority the decision shall be according to the opinion of the majority.

629. The order of the Court whether for granting the review or rejecting the application shall be final, except where the review has been granted without jurisdiction, in which case an appeal shall lie.

Order of Court final.

Where the application has been rejected in consequence of the failure of the parties to appear, the applicant may, within fifteen days from such rejection, apply for an order to have the rejected application restored to the file, and if it be proved to the satisfaction of the Court that he was prevented by any sufficient cause from appearing when such application was called on for hearing, the Court may order it to be restored to the file upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as it thinks fit, and shall appoint a day for hearing the same.
