Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following preliminary Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 18th December, 1878:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to prevent the indiscriminate destruction of wild elephants in British Burma was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

Circular letter to Local Governments, No. 1037-41, dated 18th July, 1878.
From Officiating Secretary to Government, Panjáb, No. 414C, dated 31st July, 1878, " Secretary to Government, North-Western Provinces and Oudh, No. 285A, dated 27th July, 1878.
" Officiating Chief Commissioner, Ajmer and Mairwára, No. 495, dated 31st July, 1878.
" Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Coorg, No. 326-1L, dated 3rd August, 1878.
" Officiating Junior Secretary to Chief Commissioner, British Burma, No. 1212-361, dated 8th August, 1878.
" Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 3282-142, dated 13th August, 1878.
Office memorandum from Department of Revenue, Agriculture and Commerce, No. 981F, dated 27th September, 1878.

2. We have extended the permission to kill and capture elephants in the cases mentioned in section 2, clause (b) of the Bill as introduced, to the case of elephants found in the immediate vicinity of canals.

3. We have enlarged the local extent of the Act so as to include not only the territories of British Burma, but also those of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the Central Provinces and Coorg, and any other local area to which it may be extended by the Local Government.

4. We have made its provisions applicable to the capture as well as to the killing of wild elephants.

5. We have, adopting the suggestion referred to by the Member in charge of the Bill when introducing it, provided, in section 4 of the Bill as now amended, that any elephant captured and the tusks of any elephant killed under section 3, clauses (a) and (b), without license, shall be the property of the Government.

7. We have recast the principal penalty-section (now section 7), and have enhanced the maximum penalty (which, bearing in mind the value of an elephant, seemed to us inadequate) to five hundred rupees for each elephant concerned, and, in the case of a second conviction, from three months to six months' imprisonment,—the term fixed in the Indian Forest Act for the offence of killing an elephant in a reserved or protected forest. We have made the amount or value of any fee payable for a license recoverable as if it were an arrear of land-revenue.

8. In view of the extended scope and local operation of the Act herein proposed, we have made a suitable alteration in the title of the Bill.

9. For [illegible]e reason, we recommend that the Bill, as amended, be republished.

10. [illegible]s been published in English in the Gazette of India and in the British Burma Gazette, [illegible]eport from British Burma as to its publication in that Province does not state that it has been published in the vernacular.

Discharge of liability on goods landed.

30. When the Local Government appoints, under the provisions of any Act for the regulation of duties of customs, any wharf, quay, stage, jetty, pier, warehouse or shed provided under this Act for the use of sea-going vessels to be a wharf for the landing, or a warehouse for the storing, of goods within the meaning of such Act, the Commissioners shall set apart, maintain and secure on such wharf, quay, stage, jetty, pier, warehouse or shed such portion thereof, or place therein, or adjoining thereto, for the use of the officers of customs, as the Local Government approves of or appoints in that behalf.

Wharfs, &c., to be appointed under Customs Acts.

31. Notwithstanding that any wharf, quay, stage, jetty, pier, warehouse or shed, or portion thereof, has, under the provisions of the last section, been set apart for the use of the officers of customs, all dues, rates, tolls, charges and rents payable in respect thereof, or for the use thereof, or for the stowage of goods therein, shall be paid and be payable to the Commissioners or to such persons as they may appoint to receive the same.

Dues at customs wharfs, &c.

32. It shall not be lawful for any person, save the Commissioners, to make, erect or fix below high-water mark within the port, any wharf, dock, quay, stage, jetty, pier, erection or mooring.

Private wharfs, &c., prohibited.

Any matter or thing so made, erected or fixed may be removed by the Commissioners, and the person who has so made, erected or fixed any such matter or thing shall be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, and with a further fine which may extend to one hundred rupees for every day during which such matter or thing has been permitted to remain so made, erected or fixed, after notice to remove the same has been given to him, and shall also be liable to pay all expenses which may have been incurred by the Commissioners in removing such matter or thing.

Wharfs, &c., beyond port limits.

33. In case any wharf, dock, quay, jetty, stage, pier, erection or mooring is, without the consent in writing of the Local Government, made, erected or fixed below high-water mark without the limits for the time being of the port, and thereafter the limits of the port are extended so as to include the place in which such wharf, dock, quay, jetty, pier, erection or mooring has been made, erected or fixed, the Commissioners may remove, fill up or destroy such wharf, dock, quay, jetty, pier, erection or mooring without making any compensation therefor.

34. The Commissioners shall frame—

Scale of tolls and charges to be framed.

(a) a scale of tolls, dues, rates and charges for the landing and shipment of goods from and into sea-going vessels and vessels not being sea-going vessels respectively, at the wharfs, quays, stages, jetties and piers, and for the use thereof by such vessels, and for the storing and keeping of any goods stored in any premises belonging to the Commissioners, and for the removal of goods, and for the use of any mooring;

(b) a scale of tolls for the use of the said wharfs, quays, moorings, stages, jetties and piers by any such vessels, in case the Commissioners permit the goods to be landed or shipped by others than their own servants; and

(c) a scale of charges for any services to be performed by the Commissioners or their servants in respect of any vessels or goods, or for the use of any works or appliances to be provided by the Commissioners.

Such scales shall be submitted to the Local Government, and, after approval or modification by the Local Government, shall be published by the Commissioners in the British Burma Gazette.

Subject to the like approval or modification and publication, the Commissioners may, in like manner, from time to time alter the said scales.

Every such scale shall be printed in the English and Burmese languages and characters, and shall be hung up, and kept hung up, in some conspicuous place at the several wharfs, quays, stages, jetties, piers, warehouses and sheds.

Commissioners' lien for tolls and charges.

35. For the amount of all tolls, charges, dues and rates levied under this Act in respect of any goods, the Commissioners shall have a lien on such goods, and shall be entitled to seize and detain the same until such tolls, charges, dues and rates are fully paid.

Tolls, charges, dues and rates in respect of goods to be landed shall become payable immediately on the landing of the goods, and, in respect of goods to be removed from the premises of the Commissioners, or to be shipped for export, shall be payable before the goods are removed or shipped.

The lien for such tolls, charges, dues and rates shall have priority over all other liens and claims, except for general average, for the ship-owner's lien for freight upon the said goods where such lien exists and has been preserved in the manner hereinafter provided, for primage, and for money payable to Her Majesty or the Secretary of State for India in Council under any law for the time being in force.

Ship-owners' lien for freight.

36. If the master or owner of any vessel, or his agent, at or before the time of landing from such vessel any goods at any wharf, quay, stage, jetty or pier, gives to the Commissioners notice in writing that such goods are to remain subject to a lien for freight or other charges payable to the ship-owner to an amount to be mentioned in such notice, such goods shall continue liable to the same lien, if any, for such charges as they were subject to before the landing thereof.

Such goods shall be retained either in the warehouses and sheds of the Commissioners, or, with the consent of the Chief Officer of Customs, in the public warehouses, at the risk and expense of the owners of the said goods, until the lien is discharged as hereinafter mentioned.

Discharge of ship-owners' lien for freight.

37. Upon the production to any officer appointed by the Commissioners in that behalf of a document purporting to be a receipt for, or a release from, the amount so mentioned, executed by the person by or on whose behalf such notice as aforesaid has been given, the Commissioners may permit such goods to be removed without regard to such lien as aforesaid, provided they shall have used reasonable care in respect to the authenticity of such document.

Goods may be removed to warehouses.

38. Whenever goods have, without any default on the part of the Commissioners, been left for two clear days on or in any wharf or shed belonging to the Commissioners, the Commissioners may cause such goods to be removed, either to any warehouse belonging to them, or, with the consent of the Chief Officer of Customs, to the public warehouses; and the removal to, and detention in, any such warehouse shall be at the risk and expense of the owners of the said goods.

Whenever any goods are so removed, the Commissioners shall give notice to the consignee or owner of such goods of such removal, if his address be known, by letter sent by post to such address or left thereat; and shall also publish in the British Burma Gazette and in two local newspapers notice of such removal, and shall specify therein the numbers, marks, and descriptions of such goods so far as the same appear, and the consignee or owner of such goods, in addition to the expenses of the removal of the same, shall be liable, in case the goods are removed to any warehouse of the Commissioners, to a charge for warehousing for the time during which the goods shall remain in the said warehouse.

If the said goods are removed to the public warehouses, the said consignee or owner shall be liable to the charges for warehousing goods in such public warehouses, and the said goods shall remain subject to all liens to which they would have been liable if they had remained in the possession of the Commissioners, and shall be subject to the power of sale hereinafter given.

Recovery of tolls and charges by sale of goods.

39. If the tolls, charges, dues, and rates payable to the Commissioners in respect of any goods under this Act are not paid, or if the lien of the ship-owner for freight where such notice as aforesaid has been given is not discharged, the Commissioners may, and in the latter event, if required by or on behalf of the person claiming such lien for freight, shall, at the expiration of four months from the time when the goods were placed in their custody, sell by public auction the said goods, or so much as may be necessary to satisfy the amounts hereinafter directed to be paid out of the produce of such sale.

Before making such sale, ten days' notice of the same shall be given by publication thereof in the British Burma Gazette and in two local newspapers.

If the address of the owner of the goods has been stated on the manifest of the cargo, or in any of the documents which have come into the hands of the Commissioners, or is otherwise known, notice shall also be given to the owner of the goods by letter delivered at such address or sent by the post; but the title of a bonâ fide purchaser of such goods shall not be invalidated by reason of the omission to send such notice, nor shall any such purchaser be bound to enquire whether such notice has been sent:

Provided that if such goods are of so perishable a nature as, in the opinion of the officer appointed by the Commissioners in that behalf, to render early or immediate sale necessary or advisable, the Commissioners may, within such period not less than twenty-four hours after the landing of the goods as they think fit, sell by public auction the said goods or such portion of them as aforesaid, in which event such notice shall be given to the owner of the goods as the urgency of the case admits of.

Application of sale proceeds.

40. The proceeds of every such sale shall be applied as follows:—

(a). In payment of the expenses of the sale.

(b). In payment according to their respective priorities of the liens and claims excepted in section 35 from the priority of the lien of the Commissioners.

(c). In payment of the tolls, charges, and expenses of landing, removing, storing, or warehousing the same, and of all other charges due to the Commissioners in respect thereto.

(d). The surplus, if any, shall be paid to the importer, owner, or consignee of the goods, or to his agent, on his applying for the same, provided such application be made within one year from the sale, or reason be shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners why such application was not so made; and in case such application shall not be so made, nor reason shown, such surplus shall be held by the Commissioners upon trust for the purposes of this Act.

Recovery of tolls and charges by distraint of vessel.

41. If the master of any vessel in respect of which any tolls, dues, rates, penalties, or charges are payable under this Act, or any rules or orders made in pursuance thereof, refuse or neglect to pay the same or any part thereof on demand, the Commissioners may apply to the Collector of Customs of the port, and such Collector shall distrain or arrest such vessel, and the tackle, apparel and furniture belonging thereto, or any part thereof, and detain the same until the amount so due to the Commissioners is paid; and in case any part of the said tolls, dues, rates, penalties or charges, or of the costs of the distress or arrestment, or of the keeping of the same, remains unpaid for the space of five days next after any such distress or arrestment has been so made, the Collector of Customs may cause the vessel or other thing so distrained or arrested to be sold, and, with the proceeds of such sale, shall satisfy such tolls, dues, rates, penalties or charges, and costs, including the costs of sale, remaining unpaid, rendering the surplus (if any) to the master of such vessel on demand.

Port clearance not to be granted till tolls, &c., are paid.

42. If the Commissioners give to the officer of Government, whose duty it is to grant the port-clearance of any vessel, a notice stating that an amount therein specified is due in respect of tolls, dues, rates, charges, or penalties chargeable under this Act, or any rules or orders made in pursuance thereof, against such vessel, or the owner or master of such vessel, in respect thereof, or against or in respect of any goods on board such vessel, such officer shall not grant such port clearance until the amount so chargeable has been paid.

Compensation for damage to property of Commissioners.

43. In case any damage or mischief is done to any wharfs, quays, jetties, piers or works constructed or acquired by the Commissioners under this Act, by any vessel, through the negligence of any person having the guidance or command thereof, or of any of the mariners or persons employed therein, any Magistrate of the town of Rangoon may, on the application of the Commissioners, and on declaration by them that payment for such damage or mischief has been refused or has not been made on demand, issue a summons to the master of, or agent for, such vessel, requiring him to attend on a day and at an hour named in the summons to answer touching such damage or mischief.

If at the time appointed in the summons, and whether the person summoned appears or not, it is proved that the alleged damage was done through such negligence as aforesaid, and that the pecuniary amount of the same does not exceed two hundred rupees, the Magistrate may issue his warrant of distress, under which a sufficient portion of the boats, masts, spars, ropes, cables, anchors or stores of the vessel may be seized and sold to cover the expenses of and attending the execution of the distress, and the pecuniary amount of damage as aforesaid, and such amount shall be paid to the Commissioners out of the proceeds of the distress: provided that if at the time of the damage or mischief the vessel was under the orders of a duly authorized officer belonging to the Pilot Service or the Harbour-Master's or Master-Attendant's Department, the case shall not be cognizable by the Magistrate under this section.

River Police.

44. The Commissioners shall provide such sums as the Local Government may from time to time require for the establishment and maintenance of police, to be called "River Police," for the protection of the port, the approaches to the port, and the river. Such sums shall be a first charge on any property vested in and on any moneys raised by, or paid, or payable to the Commissioners under this Act.

The River Police shall be enrolled under Act No. V of 1861 (for the Regulation of Police).

CHAPTER IV.

48. If the Commissioners allow any work acquired or constructed by them under this Act to fall into disrepair, or do not complete any work commenced by them, or duly estimated for and sanctioned, and do not, after notice given by the Local Government in writing, proceed effectually to repair or complete such work, the Local Government may cause such work to be restored, completed, or constructed, and the cost thereof shall be borne and paid by the Commissioners.

Governor-General may revoke powers of Commissioners.

49. If at any time the Governor-General in Council is satisfied that the purposes intended to be accomplished under this Act have not been, and are not likely to be, properly accomplished by the Commissioners, the Governor-General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, to be republished in the British Burma Gazette, give notice that, unless within six months the Commissioners shall take measures to the satisfaction of the Governor-General in Council for properly accomplishing the said purposes, the powers by this Act conferred on the Commissioners will, at the end of such period, be withdrawn and revoked.

On the expiration of the period aforesaid, the Governor-General in Council may declare such powers to be withdrawn or revoked, and may direct the Local Government to assume such powers; and thereupon such powers shall be withdrawn and revoked accordingly, and all the powers, rights and authorities vested by this Act in the Commissioners shall thereupon vest in the Local Government.

Local Government may delegate powers to survey steamers.

50. The Local Government may, from time to time, delegate to the Commissioners all or any of the powers conferred on the Chief Commissioner of British Burma within the port under the Burmese Steamer Survey Act, 1871, and may at any time resume the same.

Commissioners may license Surveyors.

51. The Commissioners may issue licenses to properly qualified persons to survey ships within the port, and may cancel and revoke such licenses.

When there is in Rangoon a Surveyor licensed by the Commissioners, it shall not be lawful for any servant of Government to undertake the survey of private vessels.

Nothing in this section shall affect the powers vested in the Chief Commissioner of British Burma under the Burmese Steamer Survey Act, 1871, except only and in so far as such powers have been delegated to the Commissioners under section 50.

Limitation of suits.

55. RECEIPT FOR GOODS.

By the Port Commissioners, Rangoon.

Landed during the day of from the , by the Port Commissioners, Rangoon, the noted in the margin, contents and state of the contents unknown.

NOTE.—If there be any apparent injury, this is to be stated.

For the Port Commissioners, Rangoon.

RANGOON,
The day of } A. B.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE trade of the port of Rangoon has increased with extraordinary rapidity within the last fifteen years.

Its total value, which in 1861-62 was two and a half millions sterling, had risen in 1866-67 to four millions, and in 1871-72 to five and a half millions. In 1876-77 it amounted to eight and a half millions.

In the same period the shipping had increased from 867 vessels aggregating 295,000 tons, to 1,687 vessels aggregating nearly one million tons.

2. Much has already been done towards the improvement of the port. The approaches have been lighted and buoyed. Several wharves and boat-jetties have been constructed, and a steam-dredger and flats have been purchased for the improvement of the bed of the harbour; but the progress made in this respect has hardly kept pace with the rapid development of the trade. There is still a deficiency of wharf-accommodation. There are as yet no moorings in the river (fixed or floating), no floating-jetties, no cranes capable of lifting more than five tons weight. The system of river-police, too, is defective.

3. Moreover, the need of a properly constituted body, such as exists at Calcutta and Bombay, legally invested with all powers requisite to improve the port and conduct its administration, is much felt. Till the year 1874, the affairs of the port were to some extent at least supervised by the town magistracy; from that year to 1876 by the Municipal Commissioners; and they are at present under the control of the Conservator and a committee which has no legal status whatever. The Chief Commissioner considers this state of things objectionable; not only as it is likely to give rise to legal difficulties, but also because it leaves the management of the port entirely in official hands. It is "not right," in his opinion, "that in so large and important a harbour the mercantile community, whose commercial enterprise is the very life and soul of the place, should have no voice in the management of the affairs of the port," and that while their industry is taxed, they should have nothing to say to the expenditure of the money.

4. To meet the wants thus felt, the present Bill has been framed by the Chief Commissioner, and it is introduced as nearly as possible in the form in which it has been received from him.

5. It provides (in section 5) for the appointment by the Local Government of a body of Commissioners, not more than twelve or less than nine in number, of whom a certain proportion must be non-officials. Subject to the control of the Government (see in particular chapter IV and section 68), these Commissioners will conduct the entire administration of the port.

6. They are (section 17) to construct wharves, jetties, tramways, warehouses and other conveniences for the landing, storing and shipping of goods, to lay down moorings, to improve the port by reclaiming the banks and deepening the river-bed, and to provide tug-steamers. They are, with the previous sanction of the Government (section 18), to make the port-rules which the Local Government is empowered to make under the seventh section of the Indian Ports Act, and additional rules in regard to certain other matters. They are (section 19) to have the control of the Conservator appointed under the Indian Ports Act, and (section 20) of pilots while within port limits.

7. Their functions in regard to the landing and shipping of goods being of special importance, are provided for in considerable detail in sections 23 to 34 which are based on sections 56 to 65 of the Calcutta Port Commissioners' Act. By these sections, when the Commissioners have provided sufficient wharf-accommodation, they are empowered, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, to issue an order requiring that all goods shall be shipped and landed at their wharves and through the agency of their servants, and to fix tolls and charges for the use of such wharves and for the services rendered. In order, however to meet the case of ships engaged in the rice-trade, which, under the present system of conducting business, could not conveniently take in their cargoes from the Commissioners' wharves, a provision (28) has been inserted empowering the Local Government to exempt particular classes of ships from the obligation to use those wharves. By sections 32 and 33, corresponding to sections 56 and 57 of the Calcutta Act, the erection of wharves, &c., by private persons below high water-mark is prohibited.

8. To enable the Commissioners to discharge the duties imposed on them, all Government land required for port purposes is (by section 12) vested in them, and in addition to the tolls and charges above referred to, the port-dues and other revenues realised in the port under the Indian Ports Act are (section 14) made over to them.

They are, moreover, empowered by section 16 to borrow money with the sanction of the Governor-General in Council for carrying out works of improvement.

9. All property thus vested in the Commissioners and all moneys thus received or raised by them are (section 15) to be held by them in trust for the purposes of the Act, but subject to an obligation (section 11, clause (d)) to continue to the Rangoon municipality a certain annual allowance which it has hitherto been receiving from the income of the Port, and (section 44) to provide such sums as the Local Government may from time to time require for the establishment of river-police.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called "The Rangoon Port Commissioners Act, 1879."

Extent.

2. It shall come into force on such date as the Local Government may notify in the British Burma Gazette, and it shall extend—

(b) the powers conferred on the Chief Commissioner of British Burma under the British Burma Municipal Act, 1874, section 28.

Interpretation.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context—

"High-water mark" means a line drawn through the highest points reached by ordinary spring-tides at any season of the year, or through any lower points which may be declared or described by the Local Government under section 4:

"Low-water mark" means the lowest point reached by ebb-spring tides at any season of the year:

"Vessel" includes anything made for the conveyance by water of human beings or of property:

"Land" includes the bed of the river below high-water mark, and also things attached to the earth, or permanently fastened to anything attached to the earth; and the expression

"Commissioners" means the Commissioners appointed under this Act.

Power to alter limits.

4. With the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, the Local Government may from time to time alter the limits within which this Act shall be in force, and declare or describe by notification in the British Burma Gazette, or by means of maps, posts, or otherwise, the extent of such limits or any portion thereof.

CHAPTER II.

OF THE APPOINTMENT AND REMOVAL OF COMMISSIONERS.

Appointment of Commissioners.

5. The Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the British Burma Gazette, appoint persons either by name or by virtue of their office, to be Commissioners for the port of Rangoon.

And the Commissioner so named shall cease to be a Commissioner accordingly.

8. The Local Government may from time to time appoint one of the Commissioners to be Chairman and another of the Commissioners to be Vice-Chairman, cancel such appointment, and fix the remuneration, if any, which the Chairman and Vice-Chairman shall respectively receive.

Appointments, &c., be notified.

9. Every appointment, cancellation of appointment, and removal from office made, and resignation accepted, under sections 5, 6, 7 and 8, shall be notified in the British Burma Gazette.

(a) no buildings or other permanent structures shall be erected thereon, except with the sanction of, and on plans to be previously approved of by, the Local Government;

(b) any portion of such property required by Government for a public purpose may be resumed by Government without claim to compensation on the part of the Commissioners except for buildings or other permanent structures erected thereon with the sanction of the Local Government subsequently to the passing of this Act.

(c) nothing in this section shall apply to, or affect the rights or interests of, private persons or of the Municipality of Rangoon in any such property or the land occupied as a Government timber depôt or the land occupied or to be occupied by Government for the defences of the port or for the Strand Bank Railway.

(d) out of the rents and income derived from the property aforesaid, the Local Government may assign annually to the municipality of Rangoon such sum, not exceeding the average of the sums so assigned during the five years last preceding the passing of this Act, as the Local Government thinks fit.

(e) if any question should arise between the Government and the Commissioners as to the boundaries of any portion of such land, the Local Government may define and demarcate such boundaries, and the decision of the Local Government in respect to such boundaries shall be final.

Acquisition of land.

A separate account shall be kept of all such money borrowed and of the expenditure thereof on such works, and also of the receipts and profits, if any, from such works; and the interest of the money borrowed shall be a first charge on any property vested in, and on any moneys paid by, or paid, or payable to, the Commissioners.

(u) for providing water for ships and for licensing and regulating water boats;

(v) for otherwise carrying out the purposes of this Act.

Such rules when sanctioned by the Local Government shall be published in the British Burma Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

Commissioners to control conservancy.

19. Subject to the provisions of the Indian Ports Act, 1875, the Commissioners shall, within the limits of the port, regulate the conservancy of the port, direct and control the Conservator and his establishment, and enforce all rules for the safety of shipping and the preservation of the port; and the Conservator and his establishment shall, within the limits of the port, act under the Commissioners and obey their lawful orders.

Control of Pilots within the port.

20. Within the limits of the port, Pilots in charge of vessels shall obey all lawful orders issued to them by the Commissioners in respect to such vessels.

Free public landing-places.

21. The Commissioners shall make a sufficient number of landing-places from and upon which the public shall be permitted to embark and land free of charge.

Removal of bathing and landing-places.

22. The Commissioners may occupy, or remove, or modify any bathing-place or landing-place, and prohibit the public from resorting to or using the same, provided that in case of such prohibition the Commissioners shall provide for the use of the public such other bathing-places or landing-places as the Local Government may direct.

Appliances for shipping, &c., for sea-going vessels.

23. For the expeditious and convenient shipment and landing and storing of goods in and from sea-going vessels, the Commissioners shall provide and maintain sufficient wharfs, quays, stages, jetties, piers, warehouses, and sheds, and sufficient servants and appliances, and shall by their servants land and ship all goods from and upon any such vessel coming to such wharf, quay, stage, jetty, or pier, except where there is a lawful excuse for refusing to land or ship such goods, or such vessel is by reason of the breach or non-observance of any law or regulation not entitled to have her cargo shipped or discharged: provided that—

(a) the Commissioners shall not be bound to land, ship, or move any single article or package exceeding ten tons of twenty hundredweight in weight, except at such special charge as may be agreed on in respect of such article or package;

(b) the Commissioners may by special agreement with the masters of vessels or the owners of goods permit goods to be landed and shipped by others than their own servants.

Sea-going vessels compelled to use wharfs, &c.

24. When any wharf, quay, stage, jetty, or pier has been made and completed with sufficient warehouses, sheds and appliances for landing and shipping, or for landing or for shipping goods from and upon sea-going vessels, the Commissioners may, with the sanction of the Local Government, and by a notification published in three consecutive numbers of the British Burma Gazette, declare that such wharf, quay, stage, jetty, or pier is ready for receiving, landing and shipping, or landing, or shipping goods from and upon sea-going vessels.

From and after such publication, the Commissioners may require the Conservator of the port, or other person exercising the rights, powers and authorities of the Conservator of the port, from time to time, when there shall be room at such wharf, quay, stage, jetty, or pier, to order to come alongside of such wharf, quay, stage, jetty, or pier, for the purpose of being laden or unladen, any sea-going vessel which has not commenced to discharge cargo, or which being about to take in cargo has not commenced to take in cargo.

If accommodation sufficient, all sea-going vessels compelled to use wharfs, &c.

25. When a sufficient number of wharfs, quays, stages, jetties, piers, warehouses, sheds and appliances have been provided as aforesaid, the Commissioners may with the sanction of the Local Government, by an order published in three consecutive numbers of the British Burma Gazette, direct that no goods shall be landed or shipped from or upon any sea-going vessels within the port, save at such wharfs, quays, stages, jetties, and piers, and may, in like manner, alter, vary or revoke any such order.

Inland vessels compelled to use wharfs, &c.

26. When any wharf, quay, stage, jetty, or pier for receiving, landing, or shipping goods from vessels, not being sea-going vessels, has been made and completed with sufficient warehouses, sheds and appliances in that behalf, the Commissioners may, with the sanction of the Local Government, and by an order published in three consecutive numbers of the British Burma Gazette, declare that such wharf, quay, stage, jetty, or pier is ready for receiving, landing, and shipping goods from vessels, not being sea-going vessels, and that within certain prescribed limits to be therein specified in such order, it shall not be lawful to land or ship any goods out of or into any vessel, not being a sea-going vessel, of any class specified in such order, except at such wharf, quay, stage, jetty or pier, and may in like manner alter, vary or revoke any such order. From and after such publication, it shall not be lawful for any vessel of such class to land or ship any goods at any place within the limits so specified, except at such wharf, quay, stage, jetty or pier, nor for any such vessel while within such limits to anchor, fasten, or lay within fifty yards of low-water mark without the consent of the Commissioners.

If after such publication any such vessel, while within such limits, so anchors, fastens or lays, the Commissioners may cause the same to be removed out of the said limits.

Power to order removal of vessels from wharfs, &c.

27. The Commissioners may by notice in writing order the master, owner or agent of any vessel to remove such vessel from any wharf, quay, stage, jetty, or pier, belonging to the Commissioners; and unless such vessel shall be removed therefrom within thirty-six hours after service of such notice on the officer in charge of such vessel, or the master, owner, or agent thereof, the Commissioners may charge in respect of such vessel such sum not exceeding fifty rupees for each day of twenty-four hours or portion of such day after the expiry of such thirty-six hours during which such vessel remains at such wharf, quay, stage, jetty or pier as the Commissioners think fit.

Power to exempt from obligation to use wharfs, &c.

28. Notwithstanding anything contained in sections 24, 25 and 26, the Local Government may, by notification in the British Burma Gazette, from time to time permit certain specified vessels or classes of vessels to discharge or ship cargo, or certain specified goods or cargoes or classes of goods or cargoes to be landed or shipped, elsewhere and at such part of the port and for such time and on such conditions as the Local Government may think fit, and otherwise grant exemption from the provisions of the sections aforesaid. The Local Government may also by like notification cancel or modify any such notice.

Discharge of liability on goods landed.

29. Whenever any goods are landed by the Commissioners from any vessel, the Commissioners shall if so required give to the person in charge of such vessel a receipt in the form or to the effect set forth in schedule (B) hereto annexed, and may in any such receipt include all goods landed from such vessel during one day; and no person to whom such receipt is so given, nor the master nor owner of the vessel from which the goods in respect of which such receipt is given may have been landed, shall be liable for any loss or damage to such goods which may occur after they have been so landed.

Wharfs, &c., to be appointed under Customs Acts.

30. When the Local Government appoints, under the provisions of any Act for the regulation of duties of customs, any wharf, quay, stage, jetty, pier, warehouse or shed provided under this Act for the use of sea-going vessels to be a wharf for the landing, or a warehouse for the storing, of goods within the meaning of such Act, the Commissioners shall set apart, maintain and secure on such wharf, quay, stage, jetty, pier, warehouse or shed such portion thereof, or place therein, or adjoining thereto, for the use of the officers of customs, as the Local Government approves of or appoints in that behalf.

Dues at customs wharfs, &c.

31. Notwithstanding that any wharf, quay, stage, jetty, pier, warehouse or shed, or portion thereof, has, under the provisions of the last section, been set apart for the use of the officers of customs, all dues, rates, tolls, charges and rents payable in respect thereof, or for the use thereof, or for the stowage of goods therein, shall be paid and be payable to the Commissioners or to such persons as they may appoint to receive the same.

Private wharfs, &c., prohibited.

32. It shall not be lawful for any person, save the Commissioners, to make, erect or fix below high-water mark within the port, any wharf, dock, quay, stage, jetty, pier, erection or mooring.

Any matter or thing so made, erected or fixed may be removed by the Commissioners, and the person who has so made, erected or fixed any such matter or thing shall be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, and with a further fine which may extend to one hundred rupees for every day during which such matter or thing has been permitted to remain so made, erected or fixed, after notice to remove the same has been given to him, and shall also be liable to pay all expenses which may have been incurred by the Commissioners in removing such matter or thing.

Wharfs, &c., beyond port limits.

33. In case any wharf, dock, quay, jetty, stage, pier, erection or mooring is, without the consent in writing of the Local Government, made, erected or fixed below high-water mark without the limits for the time being of the port, and thereafter the limits of the port are extended so as to include the place in which such wharf, dock, quay, jetty, pier, erection or mooring has been made, erected or fixed, the Commissioners may remove, fill up or destroy such wharf, dock, quay, jetty, pier, erection or mooring without making any compensation therefor.

34. The Commissioners shall frame—

Scale of tolls and charges to be framed.

(a) a scale of tolls, dues, rates and charges for the landing and shipment of goods from and into sea-going vessels and vessels not being sea-going vessels respectively, at the wharfs, quays, stages, jetties and piers, and for the use thereof by such vessels, and for the storing and keeping of any goods stored in any premises belonging to the Commissioners, and for the removal of goods, and for the use of any mooring;

(b) a scale of tolls for the use of the said wharfs, quays, moorings, stages, jetties and piers by any such vessels, in case the Commissioners permit the goods to be landed or shipped by others than their own servants; and

(c) a scale of charges for any services to be performed by the Commissioners or their servants in respect of any vessels or goods, or for the use of any works or appliances to be provided by the Commissioners.

Such scales shall be submitted to the Local Government, and, after approval or modification by the Local Government, shall be published by the Commissioners in the British Burma Gazette.

Subject to the like approval or modification and publication, the Commissioners may, in like manner, from time to time alter the said scales.

Every such scale shall be printed in the English and Burmese languages and characters, and shall be hung up, and kept hung up, in some conspicuous place at the several wharfs, quays, stages, jetties, piers, warehouses and sheds.

Commissioners' lien for tolls and charges.

35. For the amount of all tolls, charges, dues and rates levied under this Act in respect of any goods, the Commissioners shall have a lien on such goods, and shall be entitled to seize and detain the same until such tolls, charges, dues and rates are fully paid.

Tolls, charges, dues and rates in respect of goods to be landed shall become payable immediately on the landing of the goods, and, in respect of goods to be removed from the premises of the Commissioners, or to be shipped for export, shall be payable before the goods are removed or shipped.

The lien for such tolls, charges, dues and rates shall have priority over all other liens and claims, except for general average, for the ship-owner's lien for freight upon the said goods where such lien exists and has been preserved in the manner hereinafter provided, for primage, and for money payable to Her Majesty or the Secretary of State for India in Council under any law for the time being in force.

Ship-owners' lien for freight.

36. If the master or owner of any vessel, or his agent, at or before the time of landing from such vessel any goods at any wharf, quay, stage, jetty or pier, gives to the Commissioners notice in writing that such goods are to remain subject to a lien for freight or other charges payable to the ship-owner to an amount to be mentioned in such notice, such goods shall continue liable to the same lien, if any, for such charges as they were subject to before the landing thereof.

Such goods shall be retained either in the warehouses and sheds of the Commissioners, or, with the consent of the Chief Officer of Customs, in the public warehouses, at the risk and expense of the owners of the said goods, until the lien is discharged as hereinafter mentioned.

Discharge of ship-owners' lien for freight.

37. Upon the production to any officer appointed by the Commissioners in that behalf of a document purporting to be a receipt for, or a release from, the amount so mentioned, executed by the person by or on whose behalf such notice as aforesaid has been given, the Commissioners may permit such goods to be removed without regard to such lien as aforesaid, provided they shall have used reasonable care in respect to the authenticity of such document.

Goods may be removed to warehouses.

38. Whenever goods have, without any default on the part of the Commissioners, been left for two clear days on or in any wharf or shed belonging to the Commissioners, the Commissioners may cause such goods to be removed, either to any warehouse belonging to them, or, with the consent of the Chief Officer of Customs, to the public warehouses; and the removal to, and detention in, any such warehouse shall be at the risk and expense of the owners of the said goods.

Whenever any goods are so removed, the Commissioners shall give notice to the consignee or owner of such goods of such removal, if his address be known, by letter sent by post to such address or left thereat; and shall also publish in the British Burma Gazette and in two local newspapers notice of such removal, and shall specify therein the numbers, marks, and descriptions of such goods so far as the same appear, and the consignee or owner of such goods, in addition to the expenses of the removal of the same, shall be liable, in case the goods are removed to any warehouse of the Commissioners, to a charge for warehousing for the time during which the goods shall remain in the said warehouse.

If the said goods are removed to the public warehouses, the said consignee or owner shall be liable to the charges for warehousing goods in such public warehouses, and the said goods shall remain subject to all liens to which they would have been liable if they had remained in the possession of the Commissioners, and shall be subject to the power of sale hereinafter given.

Recovery of tolls and charges by sale of goods.

39. If the tolls, charges, dues, and rates payable to the Commissioners in respect of any goods under this Act are not paid, or if the lien of the ship-owner for freight where such notice as aforesaid has been given is not discharged, the Commissioners may, and in the latter event, if required by or on behalf of the person claiming such lien for freight, shall, at the expiration of four months from the time when the goods were placed in their custody, sell by public auction the said goods, or so much as may be necessary to satisfy the amounts hereinafter directed to be paid out of the produce of such sale.

Before making such sale, ten days' notice of the same shall be given by publication thereof in the British Burma Gazette and in two local newspapers.

If the address of the owner of the goods has been stated on the manifest of the cargo, or in any of the documents which have come into the hands of the Commissioners, or is otherwise known, notice shall also be given to the owner of the goods by letter delivered at such address or sent by the post; but the title of a bonâ fide purchaser of such goods shall not be invalidated by reason of the omission to send such notice, nor shall any such purchaser be bound to enquire whether such notice has been sent:

Provided that if such goods are of so perishable a nature as, in the opinion of the officer appointed by the Commissioners in that behalf, to render early or immediate sale necessary or advisable, the Commissioners may, within such period not less than twenty-four hours after the landing of the goods as they think fit, sell by public auction the said goods or such portion of them as aforesaid, in which event such notice shall be given to the owner of the goods as the urgency of the case admits of.

Application of sale proceeds.

40. The proceeds of every such sale shall be applied as follows:—

(a). In payment of the expenses of the sale.

(b). In payment according to their respective priorities of the liens and claims excepted in section 35 from the priority of the lien of the Commissioners.

(c). In payment of the tolls, charges, and expenses of landing, removing, storing, or warehousing the same, and of all other charges due to the Commissioners in respect thereto.

(d). The surplus, if any, shall be paid to the importer, owner, or consignee of the goods, or to his agent, on his applying for the same, provided such application be made within one year from the sale, or reason be shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners why such application was not so made; and in case such application shall not be so made, nor reason shown, such surplus shall be held by the Commissioners upon trust for the purposes of this Act.

Recovery of tolls and charges by distraint of vessel.

41. If the master of any vessel in respect of which any tolls, dues, rates, penalties, or charges are payable under this Act, or any rules or orders made in pursuance thereof, refuse or neglect to pay the same or any part thereof on demand, the Commissioners may apply to the Collector of Customs of the port, and such Collector shall distrain or arrest such vessel, and the tackle, apparel and furniture belonging thereto, or any part thereof, and detain the same until the amount so due to the Commissioners is paid;

and in case any part of the said tolls, dues, rates, penalties or charges, or of the costs of the distress or arrestment, or of the keeping of the same, remains unpaid for the space of five days next after any such distress or arrestment has been so made, the Collector of Customs may cause the vessel or other thing so distrained or arrested to be sold, and, with the proceeds of such sale, shall satisfy such tolls, dues, rates, penalties or charges, and costs, including the costs of sale, remaining unpaid, rendering the surplus (if any) to the master of such vessel on demand.

Port clearance not to be granted till tolls, &c., are paid.

42. If the Commissioners give to the officer of Government, whose duty it is to grant the port-clearance of any vessel, a notice stating that an amount therein specified is due in respect of tolls, dues, rates, charges, or penalties chargeable under this Act, or any rules or orders made in pursuance thereof, against such vessel, or the owner or master of such vessel, in respect thereof, or against or in respect of any goods on board such vessel, such officer shall not grant such port clearance until the amount so chargeable has been paid.

Compensation for damage to property of Commissioners.

43. In case any damage or mischief is done to any wharfs, quays, jetties, piers or works constructed or acquired by the Commissioners under this Act, by any vessel, through the negligence of any person having the guidance or command thereof, or of any of the mariners or persons employed therein, any Magistrate of the town of Rangoon may, on the application of the Commissioners, and on declaration by them that payment for such damage or mischief has been refused or has not been made on demand, issue a summons to the master of, or agent for, such vessel, requiring him to attend on a day and at an hour named in the summons to answer touching such damage or mischief.

If at the time appointed in the summons, and whether the person summoned appears or not, it is proved that the alleged damage was done through such negligence as aforesaid, and that the pecuniary amount of the same does not exceed two hundred rupees, the Magistrate may issue his warrant of distress, under which a sufficient portion of the boats, masts, spars, ropes, cables, anchors or stores of the vessel may be seized and sold to cover the expenses of and attending the execution of the distress, and the pecuniary amount of damage as aforesaid, and such amount shall be paid to the Commissioners out of the proceeds of the distress: provided that if at the time of the damage or mischief the vessel was under the orders of a duly authorized officer belonging to the Pilot Service or the Harbour-Master's or Master-Attendant's Department, the case shall not be cognizable by the Magistrate under this section.

River Police.

44. The Commissioners shall provide such sums as the Local Government may from time to time require for the establishment and maintenance of police, to be called "River Police," for the protection of the port, the approaches to the port, and the river. Such sums shall be a first charge on any property vested in and on any moneys raised by, or paid, or payable to the Commissioners under this Act.

The River Police shall be enrolled under Act No. V of 1861 (for the Regulation of Police).

CHAPTER IV.

Commissioners' acts subject to approval.

such acts or proceedings, and may grant exemption from the payment of any tolls, charges, dues, or rates leviable under this Act.

Control over works and expenditure.

46. The Local Government may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act as to the cost and class of works which the Commissioners may execute, and the objects to which the receipts of the Commissioners shall be applied.

48. If the Commissioners allow any work acquired or constructed by them under this Act to fall into disrepair, or do not complete any work commenced by them, or duly estimated for and sanctioned, and do not, after notice given by the Local Government in writing, proceed effectually to repair or complete such work, the Local Government may cause such work to be restored, completed, or constructed, and the cost thereof shall be borne and paid by the Commissioners.

Governor-General may revoke powers of Commissioners.

49. If at any time the Governor-General in Council is satisfied that the purposes intended to be accomplished under this Act have not been, and are not likely to be, properly accomplished by the Commissioners, the Governor-General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, to be republished in the British Burma Gazette, give notice that, unless within six months the Commissioners shall take measures to the satisfaction of the Governor-General in Council for properly accomplishing the said purposes, the powers by this Act conferred on the Commissioners will, at the end of such period, be withdrawn and revoked.

On the expiration of the period aforesaid, the Governor-General in Council may declare such powers to be withdrawn or revoked, and may direct the Local Government to assume such powers; and thereupon such powers shall be withdrawn and revoked accordingly, and all the powers, rights and authorities vested by this Act in the Commissioners shall thereupon vest in the Local Government.

Local Government may delegate powers to survey steamers.

Commissioners may license Surveyors.

51. The Commissioners may issue licenses to properly qualified persons to survey ships within the port, and may cancel and revoke such licenses.

When there is in Rangoon a Surveyor licensed by the Commissioners, it shall not be lawful for any servant of Government to undertake the survey of private vessels.

Nothing in this section shall affect the powers vested in the Chief Commissioner of British Burma under the Burmese Steamer Survey Act, 1871, except only and in so far as such powers have been delegated to the Commissioners under section 50.

Limitation of suits.

55. No suits shall be brought against the Commissioners, or any of their officers, or any person acting under their direction, for anything done under this Act, until the expiration of one month next after notice in writing has been delivered or left at the office of the Commissioners, or at the place of abode of such person, stating the cause of suit and the name and place of abode of the intending plaintiff.

Unless such notice be proved, the court shall find for the defendant.

Every such suit shall be commenced within six months next after the accrual of the right to sue, and not afterwards.

56. The Commissioners shall not be answerable for any act or default of any Master-Attendant, Harbour-Master, or other Conservator of the port, or of any Pilot, or of any deputy or assistant of any of the officers above-mentioned, or of any person acting under the authority or direction of any such officer or assistant, done within the limits of the port; nor for any damage sustained by any vessel in consequence of any defect in any of the moorings, hawsers, or other things within the said limits which may be used by such vessel.

By sections 32 and 33, corresponding to sections 56 and 57 of the Calcutta Act, the erection of wharves, &c., by private persons below high water-mark is prohibited.

(d) out of the rents and income derived from the property aforesaid, the Local Government may assign annually to the municipality of Rangoon such sum, not exceeding the average of the sums so assigned during the five years last preceding the passing of this Act, as the Local Government thinks fit.

19. Subject to the provisions of the Indian Ports Act, 1875, the Commissioners shall, within the limits of the port, regulate the conservancy of the port, direct and control the Conservator and his establishment, and enforce all rules for the safety of shipping and the preservation of the port; and the Conservator and his establishment shall, within the limits of the port, act under the Commissioners and obey their lawful orders.

Control of Pilots within the port.

20. Within the limits of the port, Pilots in charge of vessels shall obey all lawful orders issued to them by the Commissioners in respect to such vessels.

Free public landing-places.

21. The Commissioners shall make a sufficient number of landing-places from and upon which the public shall be permitted to embark and land free of charge.

Removal of bathing and landing-places.

22. The Commissioners may occupy, or remove, or modify any bathing-place or landing-place, and prohibit the public from resorting to or using the same, provided that in case of such prohibition the Commissioners shall provide for the use of the public such other bathing-places or landing-places as the Local Government may direct.

Appliances for shipping, &c., for sea-going vessels.

23. For the expeditious and convenient shipment and landing and storing of goods in and from sea-going vessels, the Commissioners shall provide and maintain sufficient wharfs, quays, stages, jetties, piers, warehouses, and sheds, and sufficient servants and appliances, and shall by their servants land and ship all goods from and upon any such vessel coming to such wharf, quay, stage, jetty, or pier, except where there is a lawful excuse for refusing to land or ship such goods, or such vessel is by reason of the breach or non-observance of any law or regulation not entitled to have her cargo shipped or discharged: provided that—

(a) the Commissioners shall not be bound to land, ship, or move any single article or package exceeding ten tons of twenty hundredweight in weight, except at such special charge as may be agreed on in respect of such article or package;

(b) the Commissioners may by special agreement with the masters of vessels or the owners of goods permit goods to be landed and shipped by others than their own servants.

Sea-going vessels compelled to use wharfs, &c.

24. When any wharf, quay, stage, jetty, or pier has been made and completed with sufficient warehouses, sheds and appliances for landing and shipping, or for landing or for shipping goods from and upon sea-going vessels, the Commissioners may, with the sanction of the Local Government, and by a notification published in three consecutive numbers of the British Burma Gazette, declare that such wharf, quay, stage, jetty, or pier is ready for receiving, landing and shipping, or landing, or shipping goods from and upon sea-going vessels.

From and after such publication, the Commissioners may require the Conservator of the port, or other person exercising the rights, powers and authorities of the Conservator of the port, from time to time, when there shall be room at such wharf, quay, stage, jetty, or pier, to order to come alongside of such wharf, quay, stage, jetty, or pier, for the purpose of being laden or unladen, any sea-going vessel which has not commenced to discharge cargo, or which being about to take in cargo has not commenced to take in cargo.

If accommodation sufficient, all sea-going vessels compelled to use wharfs, &c.

25. When a sufficient number of wharfs, quays, stages, jetties, piers, warehouses, sheds and appliances have been provided as aforesaid, the Commissioners may with the sanction of the Local Government, by an order published in three consecutive numbers of the British Burma Gazette, direct that no goods shall be landed or shipped from or upon any sea-going vessels within the port, save at such wharfs, quays, stages, jetties, and piers, and may, in like manner, alter, vary or revoke any such order.

Inland vessels compelled to use wharfs, &c.

26. When any wharf, quay, stage, jetty, or pier for receiving, landing, or shipping goods from vessels, not being sea-going vessels, has been made and completed with sufficient warehouses, sheds and appliances in that behalf, the Commissioners may, with the sanction of the Local Government, and by an order published in three consecutive numbers of the British Burma Gazette, declare that such wharf, quay, stage, jetty, or pier is ready for receiving, landing, and shipping goods from vessels, not being sea-going vessels, and that within certain prescribed limits to be therein specified in such order, it shall not be lawful to land or ship any goods out of or into any vessel, not being a sea-going vessel, of any class specified in such order, except at such wharf, quay, stage, jetty or pier, and may in like manner alter, vary or revoke any such order. From and after such publication, it shall not be lawful for any vessel of such class to land or ship any goods at any place within the limits so specified, except at such wharf, quay, stage, jetty or pier, nor for any such vessel while within such limits to anchor, fasten, or lay within fifty yards of low-water mark without the consent of the Commissioners.

If after such publication any such vessel, while within such limits, so anchors, fastens or lays, the Commissioners may cause the same to be removed out of the said limits.

Power to order removal of vessels from wharfs, &c.

27. The Commissioners may by notice in writing order the master, owner or agent of any vessel to remove such vessel from any wharf, quay, stage, jetty, or pier, belonging to the Commissioners; and unless such vessel shall be removed therefrom within thirty-six hours after service of such notice on the officer in charge of such vessel, or the master, owner, or agent thereof, the Commissioners may charge in respect of such vessel such sum not exceeding fifty rupees for each day of twenty-four hours or portion of such day after the expiry of such thirty-six hours during which such vessel remains at such wharf, quay, stage, jetty or pier as the Commissioners think fit.

Power to exempt from obligation to use wharfs, &c.

28. Notwithstanding anything contained in sections 24, 25 and 26, the Local Government may, by notification in the British Burma Gazette, from time to time permit certain specified vessels or classes of vessels to discharge or ship cargo, or certain specified goods or cargoes or classes of goods or cargoes to be landed or shipped, elsewhere and at such part of the port and for such time and on such conditions as the Local Government may think fit, and otherwise grant exemption from the provisions of the sections aforesaid. The Local Government may also by like notification cancel or modify any such notice.

Discharge of liability on goods landed.

29. Whenever any goods are landed by the Commissioners from any vessel, the Commissioners shall if so required give to the person in charge of such vessel a receipt in the form or to the effect set forth in schedule (B) hereto annexed, and may in any such receipt include all goods landed from such vessel during one day; and no person to whom such receipt is so given, nor the master nor owner of the vessel from which the goods in respect of which such receipt is given may have been landed, shall be liable for any loss or damage to such goods which may occur after they have been so landed.

Wharfs, &c., to be appointed under Customs Acts.

30. When the Local Government appoints, under the provisions of any Act for the regulation of duties of customs, any wharf, quay, stage, jetty, pier, warehouse or shed provided under this Act for the use of sea-going vessels to be a wharf for the landing, or a warehouse for the storing, of goods within the meaning of such Act, the Commissioners shall set apart, maintain and secure on such wharf, quay, stage, jetty, pier, warehouse or shed such portion thereof, or place therein, or adjoining thereto, for the use of the officers of customs, as the Local Government approves of or appoints in that behalf.

Dues at customs wharfs, &c.

31. Notwithstanding that any wharf, quay, stage, jetty, pier, warehouse or shed, or portion thereof, has, under the provisions of the last section, been set apart for the use of the officers of customs, all dues, rates, tolls, charges and rents payable in respect thereof, or for the use thereof, or for the stowage of goods therein, shall be paid and be payable to the Commissioners or to such persons as they may appoint to receive the same.

Private wharfs, &c. prohibited.

32. It shall not be lawful for any person, save the Commissioners, to make, erect or fix below high-water mark within the port, any wharf, dock, quay, stage, jetty, pier, erection or mooring.

Any matter or thing so made, erected or fixed may be removed by the Commissioners, and the person who has so made, erected or fixed any such matter or thing shall be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees and with a further fine which may extend to one hundred rupees for every day during which such matter or thing has been permitted to remain so made, erected or fixed, after notice to remove the same has been given to him, and shall also be liable to pay all expenses which may have been incurred by the Commissioners in removing such matter or thing.

Wharfs, &c., beyond port limits.

33. In case any wharf, dock, quay, jetty, stage, pier, erection or mooring is, without the consent in writing of the Local Government, made, erected or fixed below high-water mark without the limits for the time being of the port, and thereafter the limits of the port are extended so as to include the place in which such wharf, dock, quay, jetty, pier, erection or mooring has been made, erected or fixed, the Commissioners may remove, fill up or destroy such wharf, dock, quay, jetty, pier, erection or mooring without making any compensation therefor.

34. The Commissioners shall frame—

Scale of tolls and charges to be framed.

(a) a scale of tolls, dues, rates and charges for the landing and shipment of goods from and into sea-going vessels and vessels not being sea-going vessels respectively, at the wharfs, quays, stages, jetties and piers, and for the use thereof by such vessels, and for the storing and keeping of any goods stored in any premises belonging to the Commissioners, and for the removal of goods, and for the use of any mooring;

(b) a scale of tolls for the use of the said wharfs, quays, moorings, stages, jetties and piers by any such vessels, in case the Commissioners permit the goods to be landed or shipped by others than their own servants; and

(c) a scale of charges for any services to be performed by the Commissioners or their servants in respect of any vessels or goods, or for the use of any works or appliances to be provided by the Commissioners.

Such scales shall be submitted to the Local Government, and, after approval or modification by the Local Government, shall be published by the Commissioners in the British Burma Gazette.

Subject to the like approval or modification and publication, the Commissioners may, in like manner, from time to time alter the said scales.

Every such scale shall be printed in the English and Burmese languages and characters, and shall be hung up, and kept hung up, in some conspicuous place at the several wharfs, quays, stages, jetties, piers, warehouses and sheds.

Commissioners' lien for tolls and charges.

35. For the amount of all tolls, charges, dues and rates levied under this Act in respect of any goods, the Commissioners shall have a lien on such goods, and shall be entitled to seize and detain the same until such tolls, charges, dues and rates are fully paid.

Tolls, charges, dues and rates in respect of goods to be landed shall become payable immediately on the landing of the goods, and, in respect of goods to be removed from the premises of the Commissioners, or to be shipped for export, shall be payable before the goods are removed or shipped.

The lien for such tolls, charges, dues and rates shall have priority over all other liens and claims, except for general average, for the ship-owner's lien for freight upon the said goods where such lien exists and has been preserved in the manner hereinafter provided, for primage, and for money payable to Her Majesty or the Secretary of State for India in Council under any law for the time being in force.

Ship-owners' lien for freight.

36. If the master or owner of any vessel, or his agent, at or before the time of landing from such vessel any goods at any wharf, quay, stage, jetty or pier, gives to the Commissioners notice in writing that such goods are to remain subject to a lien for freight or other charges payable to the ship-owner to an amount to be mentioned in such notice, such goods shall continue liable to the same lien, if any, for such charges as they were subject to before the landing thereof.

Such goods shall be retained either in the warehouses and sheds of the Commissioners, or, with the consent of the Chief Officer of Customs, in the public warehouses, at the risk and expense of the owners of the said goods, until the lien is discharged as hereinafter mentioned.

Discharge of ship-owners' lien for freight.

37. Upon the production to any officer appointed by the Commissioners in that behalf of a document purporting to be a receipt for, or a release from, the amount so mentioned, executed by the person by or on whose behalf such notice as aforesaid has been given, the Commissioners may permit such goods to be removed without regard to such lien as aforesaid, provided they shall have used reasonable care in respect to the authenticity of such document.

Goods may be removed to warehouses.

38. Whenever goods have, without any default on the part of the Commissioners, been left for two clear days on or in any wharf or shed belonging to the Commissioners, the Commissioners may cause such goods to be removed, either to any warehouse belonging to them, or, with the consent of the Chief Officer of Customs, to the public warehouses; and the removal to, and detention in, any such warehouse shall be at the risk and expense of the owners of the said goods.

Whenever any goods are so removed, the Commissioners shall give notice to the consignee or owner of such goods of such removal, if his address be known, by letter sent by post to such address or left thereat; and shall also publish in the British Burma Gazette and in two local newspapers notice of such removal, and shall specify therein the numbers, marks, and descriptions of such goods so far as the same appear, and the consignee or owner of such goods, in addition to the expenses of the removal of the same, shall be liable, in case the goods are removed to any warehouse of the Commissioners, to a charge for warehousing for the time during which the goods shall remain in the said warehouse.

If the said goods are removed to the public warehouses, the said consignee or owner shall be liable to the charges for warehousing goods in such public warehouses, and the said goods shall remain subject to all liens to which they would have been liable if they had remained in the possession of the Commissioners, and shall be subject to the power of sale hereinafter given.

Recovery of tolls and charges by sale of goods.

39. If the tolls, charges, dues, and rates payable to the Commissioners in respect of any goods under this Act are not paid, or if the lien of the ship-owner for freight where such notice as aforesaid has been given is not discharged, the Commissioners may, and in the latter event, if required by or on behalf of the person claiming such lien for freight, shall, at the expiration of four months from the time when the goods were placed in their custody, sell by public auction the said goods, or so much as may be necessary to satisfy the amounts hereinafter directed to be paid out of the produce of such sale.

Before making such sale, ten days' notice of the same shall be given by publication thereof in the British Burma Gazette and in two local newspapers.

If the address of the owner of the goods has been stated on the manifest of the cargo, or in any of the documents which have come into the hands of the Commissioners, or is otherwise known, notice shall also be given to the owner of the goods by letter delivered at such address or sent by the post; but the title of a bonâ fide purchaser of such goods shall not be invalidated by reason of the omission to send such notice, nor shall any such purchaser be bound to enquire whether such notice has been sent:

Provided that if such goods are of so perishable a nature as, in the opinion of the officer appointed by the Commissioners in that behalf, to render early or immediate sale necessary or advisable, the Commissioners may, within such period not less than twenty-four hours after the landing of the goods as they think fit, sell by public auction the said goods or such portion of them as aforesaid, in which event such notice shall be given to the owner of the goods as the urgency of the case admits of.

Application of sale proceeds.

40. The proceeds of every such sale shall be applied as follows:—

(a). In payment of the expenses of the sale.

(b). In payment according to their respective priorities of the liens and claims excepted in section 35 from the priority of the lien of the Commissioners.

(c). In payment of the tolls, charges, and expenses of landing, removing, storing, or warehousing the same, and of all other charges due to the Commissioners in respect thereto.

(d). The surplus, if any, shall be paid to the importer, owner, or consignee of the goods, or to his agent, on his applying for the same, provided such application be made within one year from the sale, or reason be shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioners why such application was not so made; and in case such application shall not be so made, nor reason shown, such surplus shall be held by the Commissioners upon trust for the purposes of this Act.

Recovery of tolls and charges by distraint of vessel.

41. If the master of any vessel in respect of which any tolls, dues, rates, penalties, or charges are payable under this Act, or any rules or orders made in pursuance thereof, refuse or neglect to pay the same or any part thereof on demand, the Commissioners may apply to the Collector of Customs of the port, and such Collector shall distrain or arrest such vessel, and the tackle, apparel and furniture belonging thereto, or any part thereof, and detain the same until the amount so due to the Commissioners is paid;

and in case any part of the said tolls, dues, rates, penalties or charges, or of the costs of the distress or arrestment, or of the keeping of the same, remains unpaid for the space of five days next after any such distress or arrestment has been so made, the Collector of Customs may cause the vessel or other thing so distrained or arrested to be sold, and, with the proceeds of such sale, shall satisfy such tolls, dues, rates, penalties or charges, and costs, including the costs of sale, remaining unpaid, rendering the surplus (if any) to the master of such vessel on demand.

Port clearance not to be granted till tolls, &c., are paid.

42. If the Commissioners give to the officer of Government, whose duty it is to grant the port-clearance of any vessel, a notice stating that an amount therein specified is due in respect of tolls, dues, rates, charges, or penalties chargeable under this Act, or any rules or orders made in pursuance thereof, against such vessel, or the owner or master of such vessel, in respect thereof, or against or in respect of any goods on board such vessel, such officer shall not grant such port clearance until the amount so chargeable has been paid.

Compensation for damage to property of Commissioners.

43. In case any damage or mischief is done to any wharfs, quays, jetties, piers or works constructed or acquired by the Commissioners under this Act, by any vessel, through the negligence of any person having the guidance or command thereof, or of any of the mariners or persons employed therein, any Magistrate of the town of Rangoon may, on the application of the Commissioners, and on declaration by them that payment for such damage or mischief has been refused or has not been made on demand, issue a summons to the master of, or agent for, such vessel, requiring him to attend on a day and at an hour named in the summons to answer touching such damage or mischief.

If at the time appointed in the summons, and whether the person summoned appears or not, it is proved that the alleged damage was done through such negligence as aforesaid, and that the pecuniary amount of the same does not exceed two hundred rupees, the Magistrate may issue his warrant of distress, under which a sufficient portion of the boats, masts, spars, ropes, cables, anchors or stores of the vessel may be seized and sold to cover the expenses of and attending the execution of the distress, and the pecuniary amount of damage as aforesaid, and such amount shall be paid to the Commissioners out of the proceeds of the distress: provided that if at the time of the damage or mischief the vessel was under the orders of a duly authorized officer belonging to the Pilot Service or the Harbour-Master's or Master-Attendant's Department, the case shall not be cognizable by the Magistrate under this section.

River Police.

44. The Commissioners shall provide such sums as the Local Government may from time to time require for the establishment and maintenance of police, to be called "River Police," for the protection of the port, the approaches to the port, and the river. Such sums shall be a first charge on any property vested in and on any moneys raised by, or paid, or payable to the Commissioners under this Act.

The River Police shall be enrolled under Act No. V of 1861 (for the Regulation of Police).

CHAPTER IV.

46. The Local Government may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act as to the cost and class of works which the Commissioners may execute, and the objects to which the receipts of the Commissioners shall be applied.

47. The Local Government may at any time order a local survey and examination of any works of the Commissioners under this Act, or the site thereof, and the cost of such survey or examination shall be borne and paid by the Commissioners.

48. If the Commissioners allow any work acquired or constructed by them under this Act to fall into disrepair, or do not complete any work commenced by them, or duly estimated for and sanctioned, and do not, after notice given by the Local Government in writing, proceed effectually to repair or complete such work, the Local Government may cause such work to be restored, completed, or constructed, and the cost thereof shall be borne and paid by the Commissioners.

Governor-General may revoke powers of Commissioners.

49. If at any time the Governor-General in Council is satisfied that the purposes intended to be accomplished under this Act have not been, and are not likely to be, properly accomplished by the Commissioners, the Governor-General in Council may, by notification in the Gazette of India, to be republished in the British Burma Gazette, give notice that, unless within six months the Commissioners shall take measures to the satisfaction of the Governor-General in Council for properly accomplishing the said purposes, the powers by this Act conferred on the Commissioners will, at the end of such period, be withdrawn and revoked.

On the expiration of the period aforesaid, the Governor-General in Council may declare such powers to be withdrawn or revoked, and may direct the Local Government to assume such powers; and thereupon such powers shall be withdrawn and revoked accordingly, and all the powers, rights and authorities vested by this Act in the Commissioners shall thereupon vest in the Local Government.

Local Government may delegate powers to survey steamers.

50. The Local Government may, from time to time, delegate to the Commissioners all or any of the powers conferred on the Chief Commissioner of British Burma within the port under the Burmese Steamer Survey Act, 1871, and may at any time resume the same.

Commissioners may license Surveyors.

51. The Commissioners may issue licenses to properly qualified persons to survey ships within the port, and may cancel and revoke such licenses.

When there is in Rangoon a Surveyor licensed by the Commissioners, it shall not be lawful for any servant of Government to undertake the survey of private vessels.

Nothing in this section shall affect the powers vested in the Chief Commissioner of British Burma under the Burmese Steamer Survey Act, 1871, except only and in so far as such powers have been delegated to the Commissioners under section 50.

NOTE.—If there be any apparent injury, this is to be stated.

For the Port Commissioners, Rangoon.

RANGOON,
The day of } A. B.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE trade of the port of Rangoon has increased with extraordinary rapidity within the last fifteen years.

Its total value, which in 1861-62 was two and a half millions sterling, had risen in 1866-67 to four millions, and in 1871-72 to five and a half millions. In 1876-77 it amounted to eight and a half millions.

In the same period the shipping had increased from 867 vessels aggregating 295,000 tons, to 1,687 vessels aggregating nearly one million tons.

2. Much has already been done towards the improvement of the port. The approaches have been lighted and buoyed. Several wharves and boat-jetties have been constructed, and a steam-dredger and flats have been purchased for the improvement of the bed of the harbour; but the progress made in this respect has hardly kept pace with the rapid development of the trade. There is still a deficiency of wharf-accommodation. There are as yet no moorings in the river (fixed or floating), no floating-jetties, no cranes capable of lifting more than five tons weight. The system of river-police, too, is defective.

3. Moreover, the need of a properly constituted body, such as exists at Calcutta and Bombay, legally invested with all powers requisite to improve the port and conduct its administration, is much felt. Till the year 1874, the affairs of the port were to some extent at least supervised by the town magistracy; from that year to 1876 by the Municipal Commissioners: and they are at present under the control of the Conservator and a committee which has no legal status whatever. The Chief Commissioner considers this state of things objectionable; not only as it is likely to give rise to legal difficulties, but also because it leaves the management of the port entirely in official hands. It is "not right," in his opinion, "that in so large and important a harbour the mercantile community, whose commercial enterprise is the very life and soul of the place, should have no voice in the management of the affairs of the port," and that while their industry is taxed, they should have nothing to say to the expenditure of the money.

4. To meet the wants thus felt, the present Bill has been framed by the Chief Commissioner, and it is introduced as nearly as possible in the form in which it has been received from him.

5. It provides (in section 5) for the appointment by the Local Government of a body of Commissioners, not more than twelve or less than nine in number, of whom a certain proportion must be non-officials. Subject to the control of the Government (see in particular chapter IV and section 68), these Commissioners will conduct the entire administration of the port.

6. They are (section 17) to construct wharves, jetties, tramways, warehouses and other conveniences for the landing, storing and shipping of goods, to lay down moorings, to improve the port by reclaiming the banks and deepening the river-bed, and to provide tug-steamers. They are, with the previous sanction of the Government (section 18), to make the port-rules which the Local Government is empowered to make under the seventh section of the Indian Ports Act, and additional rules in regard to certain other matters. They are (section 19) to have the control of the Conservator appointed under the Indian Ports Act, and (section 20) of pilots while within port limits.

7. Their functions in regard to the landing and shipping of goods being of special importance, are provided for in considerable detail in sections 23 to 34 which are based on sections 56 to 65 of the Calcutta Port Commissioners' Act. By these sections, when the Commissioners have provided sufficient wharf-accommodation, they are empowered, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, to issue an order requiring that all goods shall be shipped and landed at their wharves and through the agency of their servants, and to fix tolls and charges for the use of such wharves and for the services rendered. In order, however, to meet the case of ships engaged in the rice-trade, which, under the present system of conducting business, could not conveniently take in their cargoes from the Commissioners' wharves, a provision (28) has been inserted empowering the Local Government to exempt particular classes of ships from the obligation to use those wharves. By sections 32 and 33, corresponding to sections 56 and 57 of the Calcutta Act, the erection of wharves, &c., by private persons below high water-mark is prohibited.

8. To enable the Commissioners to discharge the duties imposed on them, all Government land required for port purposes is (by section 12) vested in them, and in addition to the tolls and charges above referred to, the port-dues and other revenues realised in the port under the Indian Ports Act are (section 14) made over to them.

They are, moreover, empowered by section 16 to borrow money with the sanction of the Governor-General in Council for carrying out works of improvement.

9. All property thus vested in the Commissioners and all moneys thus received or raised by them are (section 15) to be held by them in trust for the purposes of the Act, but subject to an obligation (section 11, clause (d)) to continue to the Rangoon municipality a certain annual allowance which it has hitherto been receiving from the income of the Port, and (section 44) to provide such sums as the Local Government may from time to time require for the establishment of river-police.

2. We have, at the instance of some of the Authorities consulted, restored the definitions of "banker," "bottomry-bond," "letter of credit," "protest," "protest of the master of a ship" and re-"spondentia-bond," placing the five last in the schedule, where only the terms are found.

3. We have enlarged the definition of "settlement" so as to include under it dispositions of property for charitable and religious purposes.

4. We have amended section 6 relating to the case of several instruments employed to effect a single transaction, by providing that each of the subordinate instruments shall bear a fixed duty of one rupee. The result of this amendment, we believe, will be to afford relief in all but an insignificant number of the transactions in question.

5. We have, in section 8, given the Governor General in Council power to exempt from stamp-duty retrospectively as well as prospectively.

6. We have added to the list of documents in section 10 for which adhesive stamps may be used, "entry as an advocate, vakíl or attorney on the roll of any High Court" and "Notarial Acts." The former manifestly could be stamped only with an adhesive stamp, and it was represented to us that the present mode of stamping the latter is inconvenient in practice.

7. We have modified section 11 regarding the cancellation of adhesive stamps so as to meet the cases in which the stamp is affixed before the instrument is executed or (as in the case of the cheques contained in the cheque books issued by some banks to their customers) before the instrument is completely drawn up. We have provided that in such cases the person first executing the instrument shall cancel the stamp.

8. We have confined section 12 to impressed stamps, as it has been represented to us that inconvenience would arise from its being applied to cheques, which are very commonly stamped by affixing an adhesive stamp to the back.

9. We have excepted certain receipts endorsed on instruments from the operation of the rule of section 13, which prohibits a second instrument being written on one piece of stamped paper.

10. We have omitted sections 14 and 15 of the Bill as last settled by us and marked No. II, which provided for the number of impressed stamps to be used for the stamping of any instrument, and have, by an addition to section 9, given power to the Governor General in Council to provide for the matter by rules.

11. To remove a doubt which might otherwise have been felt, we have added a section (14) providing that "Every instrument written in contravention of section 12 or 13 shall be deemed to be unstamped." Any hardship which might otherwise arise from this, we think, will be effectually prevented by the provisions of chapter IV empowering the Collector to remit the penalty in such cases, and by the provision for an allowance of the value of the stamp which we have now inserted in section 52.

12. We have, at the instance of some of the Authorities consulted, extended from two to three months the period within which, under section 17, an instrument executed abroad and brought into British India may be stamped.

13. We have, in section 29, added a clause (d) providing that the cost of the stamp for a counterpart of a lease shall be borne by the lessor, and a clause (e) empowering a Revenue-authority making a partition to direct in what proportion the stamp chargeable in respect of such partition shall be borne by the co-owners.

14. A question having been raised as to whether a public officer would be bound by section 34 of the Bill No. II to institute any inquiry regarding an instrument produced before him with a view to ascertaining whether such instrument was duly stamped, we have made it clear in section 33 of the amended Bill that all that he is bound to do is to examine such an instrument with a view to ascertaining whether it bears a stamp of the proper value and description. If, however, it should happen that the instrument was not duly stamped owing to some circumstance which did not appear on the face of it, as, e. g., if a stamp had been illegally affixed after execution, and this fact should appear incidentally in the course of some proceeding before the officer, it would of course be his duty to impound it and proceed in regard to it in the manner prescribed by the Act.

15. We have in section 35 provided that any person receiving a document in evidence under section 34 on payment of duty shall send the amount of such duty and of the penalty levied with it to the Collector.

16. Exception having been taken to the proviso to section 40 of Bill No. II, we have recast it (see section 39 of the amended Bill) and it now runs as follows :—

"Provided that no instrument which has been admitted in evidence upon payment of duty and a penalty under section 34 shall be so delivered before the expiration of one month from the date of such impounding, or if the Collector has certified that its further detention is necessary and has not cancelled such certificate."

17. We have added a provision in section 49 requiring references made by a Revenue Court under that section to be made through the Court immediately superior to it.

18. We have rendered Revenue Courts subject to the power of revision conferred by section 50.

19. We have omitted the latter portion of clause (a) of section 53 of the Bill No. II (now section 51) and clause (c) of the first proviso to the same section, as unnecessary in this country.

20. We have made the period of six months within which, under the second proviso to the same section, certain applications for allowances for spoiled stamps must be made, to run from the date on which the stamp is spoiled, instead of from the date of purchase.

21. We have transferred the power of making rules regarding the sale of stamps from the Governor General in Council to the Local Government.

22. We have inserted a section (59) like section 17 of the present Stamp Act, saving the provisions of the law relating to Court-fees.

23. We have raised the penalty in section 66 from five hundred to one thousand rupees, and restored in section 67 the penalty for post-dating bills and notes imposed by section 13 of Act X of 1862.

24. It having been represented to us that the permission accorded to private persons by section 66 of the Bill No. II to sell stamps purchased in good faith for their own private use and no longer required, would facilitate a practice which prevails in some parts of the country of keeping stocks of old stamps for sale to persons desiring to forge instruments of old date, we have in section 68 of the amended Bill withdrawn that permission and have substituted for it (in section 54) a provision borrowed from the English Act of 1870 requiring the Collector to purchase back stamps held by private persons and no longer required by them.

25. The provision of the Bill No. II relating to the jurisdiction to try offences against the stamp law having been objected to on the ground that it seemed to deprive the Court of Session of power to try such offences, we have now simply provided (in section 70) that no Magistrate whose powers are less than those of a Magistrate of the second class shall try such offences. Subject to this, the ordinary provisions of the law defining the jurisdiction of the Criminal Courts will apply.

26. Proceeding next to the schedules, it will be observed that we have, with reference to the opinions expressed by many of the Authorities consulted, and to the dissents appended to our preliminary report, recast (in article 1 of the first schedule as now settled) the 46th article of the same schedule in the Bill No. II. That article now stands as follows:—

"1. Acknowledgment of a debt exceeding twenty rupees in amount or value written or signed by or on behalf of a debtor in order to supply evidence of such debt in any book (other than a banker's pass-book) or on a separate piece of paper when such book or paper is left in the creditor's possession."

27. We have, on considering the representations made by certain articled clerks who have already paid a fee of Rs. 500 under the present stamp-law on being bound, and who urge that article 27 of the first schedule would operate unfairly in their case, introduced an exemption in their favour in article 11 of the second schedule.

28. We have re-drawn the article of the first schedule relating to certified copies and extracts. It now runs as follows:—

"22. Copy or extract, certified to be a true copy or extract, by or by order of any public officer and not chargeable under the Court-fees Act, 1870.	(a). If the original was not chargeable with stamp-duty, or if the duty with which it was chargeable does not exceed one rupee ...	...	Eight annas.
	(b). In any other case...	...	One rupee."

This involves a slight advance on the duties imposed by Bill No. II, but still gives a considerable reduction as compared with the present law.

29. We have relieved the brokers' and agents' notes referred to in article 46 of the first schedule (as now settled) from all duty in cases where the goods or securities comprised therein do not exceed twenty rupees in value.

30. We have, in article 50 of the first schedule, made the duty chargeable on a power-of-attorney depend on the number of persons appointed by it to act. It seems to us only reasonable that the powers so commonly executed in Bengal in favour of a large number of persons should bear a higher duty than an ordinary power in favour of two or three persons or the members of a single firm.

31. We have again, at the request of the Bengal Government, considered the proposal made by the Board of Revenue to tax a blank transfer of shares each time it passes from hand to hand; but we see no reason for altering our opinion regarding it. Indeed, it is not easy to see how the Board's proposal could be given effect to, inasmuch as there is but one transaction (contract or conveyance) in writing on which to impose a duty, namely, that between the first seller and the last purchaser. The intermediate steps, we understand, are effected simply by oral communication, and we are not prepared to recommend the enactment of a law altering the course of business in this respect.

32. We have in Schedule II, No. 15 (g), included among the instruments exempted from duty receipts given by headmen and lambardárs for land-revenue and taxes collected by them.

33. We have afforded some additional relief in the exemption-schedule besides that just referred to, and have made several amendments in the drafting of the Bill which it seems unnecessary to notice in detail.

34. The Bill has been published in English in the Gazette of India and in all the local Gazettes except those of Assam and Ajmer, in which there are practical difficulties about publishing a Bill of this size. We recommend that it be passed with the amendments we have now made.

SCHEDULE.

1. A voyage to or from Chittagong or any place west of the longitude of Chittagong—	(a) from or to any port in British Burma; or
	(b) from or to Port Blair, or any place east of the longitude of Mergui, by a route passing between the northern extremity of the Andaman Islands and the coast of British Burma.
2. A voyage to or from any port in British Burma—	from or to any other port in British Burma.
Except voyages to or from Maulmain from or to Tavoy or Mergui, or to or from Tavoy from or to Mergui.
3. A voyage to or from Rangoon and any port in British Burma west of the longitude of Rangoon—	from or to any place east of Mergui.
4. A voyage to or from any port in British Burma other than Tavoy and Mergui.	from or to Port Blair.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE present coast-light dues of one anna per ton levied under section 3 of Act XIII of 1867 (An Act to provide for the establishment and maintenance of Coast-lights in the eastern part of the Bay of Bengal) have been found insufficient to pay a fair rate of interest on the capital expended on the lights which at present exist on the coast of British Burma and provide for their maintenance. Moreover, the recent total destruction of the Krishna Shoal Light-house will immediately entail a large expenditure. It has therefore been determined to raise the present coast-light dues from one anna per ton to one anna six pie and to subject to the dues vessels making certain voyages not mentioned in the Act but in the course of which they benefit by the lights These voyages are—

(b) voyages from Chittagong to ports in British Burma;

(c) voyages by certain routes to or from Chittagong and places west of Chittagong (except Calcutta) from or to Port Blair and places east of Mergui;

(d) voyages from places east of Mergui to Rangoon and from Rangoon and ports in British Burma west of Rangoon to places east of Mergui;

(e) voyages to or from any port in British Burma other than Tavoy and Mergui from or to Port Blair.

2. The Bill repeals Act XIII of 1867 (which has already been amended) and re-enacts it in a simpler form, with the requisite alterations, in respect of the coast-light dues and with some changes in wording and arrangement.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th January, 1879, and was referred to a Select Committee.

No. 2 OF 1879.

A Bill to amend the Oudh Land-Revenue Act, 1876.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the recovery of advances made in Oudh for purposes other than those specified in the Land Improvement Act, 1871, and to amend the Oudh Land-Revenue Act, 1876, accordingly; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

1. After section 160 of the said Oudh Land-Revenue Act, 1876, the following section shall be inserted:—

New section to follow section 160 of Act XVII of 1876.

"160A. All advances made by the Government to landholders for the relief of distress, the purchase of seed and cattle, the construction, maintenance and repair of dwelling-houses and other buildings, and for other purposes not specified in the Land Improvement Act, 1871, shall, when they become due, be recoverable from the person to whom the advance was made, or from any person who has become surety for the repayment thereof, as if they were arrears of land-revenue due by the person to whom the advance was made or by his surety."

Recovery of certain takkavi advances.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to provide for the recovery by the Local Government in Oudh of advances made by it to landholders for the relief of distress, the purchase of seed and cattle, and other purposes not specified in the Land Improvement Act, 1871. Such advances will when due be recoverable as if they were arrears of land-revenue. A similar provision has been inserted in the Bill to amend the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873; but, as the Select Committee, to which that Bill stands referred, consider it would be somewhat awkward to insert in it a clause providing for Oudh, the present Bill has been prepared to meet the case of that Province.

SCHEDULE.

1. A voyage to or from Chittagong or any place west of the longitude of Chittagong—	(a) from or to any port in British Burma; or
	(b) from or to Port Blair, or any place east of the longitude of Mergui, by a route passing between the northern extremity of the Andaman Islands and the coast of British Burma.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 15th January, 1879, and was referred to a Select Committee.

No. 2 OF 1879.

A Bill to amend the Oudh Land-Revenue Act, 1876.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the recovery of advances made in Oudh for purposes other than those specified in the Land Improvement Act, 1871, and to amend the Oudh Land-Revenue Act, 1876, accordingly; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

1. After section 160 of the said Oudh Land-Revenue Act, 1876, the following section shall be inserted:—

New section to follow section 160 of Act XVII of 1876.

"160A. All advances made by the Government to landholders for the relief of distress, the purchase of seed and cattle, the construction, maintenance and repair of dwelling-houses and other buildings, and for other purposes not specified in the Land Improvement Act, 1871, shall, when they become due, be recoverable from the person to whom the advance was made, or from any person who has become surety for the repayment thereof, as if they were arrears of land-revenue due by the person to whom the advance was made or by his surety."

Recovery of certain takkavi advances.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to provide for the recovery by the Local Government in Oudh of advances made by it to landholders for the relief of distress, the purchase of seed and cattle, and other purposes not specified in the Land Improvement Act, 1871. Such advances will when due be recoverable as if they were arrears of land-revenue. A similar provision has been inserted in the Bill to amend the North-Western Provinces Land-Revenue Act, 1873; but, as the Select Committee, to which that Bill stands referred, consider it would be somewhat awkward to insert in it a clause providing for Oudh, the present Bill has been prepared to meet the case of that Province.

Saving of prosecutions under other laws.

SCHEDULE.

1. A voyage to or from Chittagong or any place west of the longitude of Chittagong—	(a) from or to any port in British Burma; or (b) from or to Port Blair, or any place east of the longitude of Mergui, by a route passing between the northern extremity of the Andaman Islands and the coast of British Burma.
2. A voyage to or from any port in British Burma—	from or to any other port in British Burma.
Except voyages to or from Maulmain or Mergui, or to or from Tavoy	from or to Tavoy or from or to Mergui.
3. A voyage to or from Rangoon and any port in British Burma west of the longitude of Rangoon—	from or to any place east of Mergui.
4. A voyage to or from any port in British Burma other than Tavoy and Mergui—	from or to Port Blair.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE present coast-light dues of one anna per ton levied under section 3 of Act XIII of 1867 (An Act to provide for the establishment and maintenance of Coast-lights in the eastern part of the Bay of Bengal) have been found insufficient to pay a fair rate of interest on the capital expended on the lights which at present exist on the coast of British Burma and provide for their maintenance. Moreover, the recent total destruction of the Krishna Shoal Light-house will immediately entail a large expenditure. It has therefore been determined to raise the present coast-light dues from one anna per ton to one anna six pie and to subject to the dues vessels making certain voyages not mentioned in the Act but in the course of which they benefit by the lights. These voyages are—

(b) voyages from Chittagong to ports in British Burma;

(c) voyages by certain routes to or from Chittagong and places west of Chittagong (except Calcutta) from or to Port Blair and places east of Mergui;

(d) voyages from places east of Mergui to Rangoon and from Rangoon and ports in British Burma west of Rangoon to places east of Mergui;

(e) voyages to or from any port in British Burma other than Tavoy and Mergui from or to Port Blair.

2. The Bill repeals Act XIII of 1867 (which has already been amended) and re-enacts it in a simpler form, with the requisite alterations in respect of the coast-light dues and with some changes in wording and arrangement.

The following preliminary Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 29th January, 1879:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Pleaders, Mukhtárs and Revenue Agents Act, 1865, was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

From Secretary for Birár to Resident, Haidarábád, No. 10B, dated 19th November, 1878.
„ Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Mysore, No. 7039-13J, dated 25th November, 1878.

From Officiating Chief Secretary to Government, Fort St. George, No. 2440, dated 3rd December, 1878.
„ Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Assam, No. 2296, dated 10th December, 1878.
„ Under Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 7183, dated 10th December, 1878, and enclosures.
„ Chief Commissioner, Ajmer and Merwára, No. 19, dated 3rd January, 1879.
„ Officiating Secretary, to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 119-255, dated 9th January, 1879.
Note by the Hon'ble the Chief Justice, High Court, Calcutta, dated 22nd January, 1879.

2. We have deemed it well, instead of adding a fifth Act to the four Acts already in force relating to pleaders, mukhtárs and revenue-agents, to frame a consolidation measure embracing the entire law.

3. We have, at the instance of the Hon'ble the Chief Justice of Bengal, restored in section 16 of the Bill now submitted, the power of the High Courts to make rules for the admission and control of mukhtárs practising on the appellate side of those Courts, which was conferred by section 44 of Act XX of 1865, but which has been held by the Calcutta High Court to have been ultra vires.

4. We have made the Bill applicable to the Courts of Small Causes in the Presidency towns, where we understand some such law is needed.

5. We have substituted, for the stamp-duties on certificates prescribed by Act XX of 1865, fees fixed according to the scale which was proposed in the Bill to amend the law relating to stamps and court-fees recently before the Council. The alterations here made are of no substantial importance.

6. We have made several amendments in arrangement and drafting, with a view to clearness and simplicity.

7. We recommend that the Bill now submitted be published.

8. The publication ordered by the Council has been made.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE want of a law to regulate hackney-carriages in towns and cantonments in the interior of India has long been felt, and has lately been pressed upon the notice of the Government of India by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Panjáb and His Excellency the Commander-in-Chief.

2. The present Bill has been prepared to supply this want in the case of municipalities in those parts of India which have not local Legislatures, and in all cantonments, whether in British India or in Native States.

3. It gives power to the Municipal Committee, in the case of a municipality, and to the Local Government, in the case of a cantonment, to make rules (subject, in the former case, to the sanction of the Local Government, and in the latter, to that of the Governor General in Council) to ensure that carriages offered for hire, and the animals and harness used with them, shall be in proper condition; that fit persons shall be employed as drivers; that the fares charged shall be reasonable, and that the carriages shall not be over-laden.

4. It further provides that breach of these rules shall be punishable with fine which may extend to fifty rupees, and that disputes between the hirer and owner of a carriage, as to the amount of a fare, shall be determinable by a Magistrate.

Note by the Hon'ble the Chief Justice, High Court, Calcutta, dated 22nd January, 1879.

2. We have deemed it well, instead of adding a fifth Act to the four Acts already in force relating to pleaders, mukhtárs and revenue-agents, to frame a consolidation measure embracing the entire law.

3. We have, at the instance of the Hon'ble the Chief Justice of Bengal, restored in section 16 of the Bill now submitted, the power of the High Courts to make rules for the admission and control of mukhtárs practising on the appellate side of those Courts, which was conferred by section 44 of Act XX of 1865, but which has been held by the Calcutta High Court to have been ultra vires.

4. We have made the Bill applicable to the Courts of Small Causes in the Presidency towns, where we understand some such law is needed.

5. We have substituted, for the stamp-duties on certificates prescribed by Act XX of 1865, fees fixed according to the scale which was proposed in the Bill to amend the law relating to stamps and court-fees recently before the Council. The alterations here made are of no substantial importance.

6. We have made several amendments in arrangement and drafting, with a view to clearness and simplicity.

7. We recommend that the Bill now submitted be published.

8. The publication ordered by the Council has been made.

(d) for their suspension and dismissal.

All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette and shall thereupon have the force of law; provided that, in the case of rules made by a High Court not established by Royal Charter, such rules have been previously approved by the Local Government.

Publication of rules.

7. On the admission, under section six, of any person as a pleader or mukhtár, the High Court shall cause a certificate, signed by such officer as the Court from time to time appoints in this behalf, to be issued to such person, authorizing him to practise for the period of one year from its date in the Courts and, in the case of a pleader, the offices, specified therein.

Certificates to pleaders and mukhtárs.

At the expiration of such period, the holder of the certificate, if he desires to continue to practise, shall be entitled to have his certificate renewed by the Judge of the District Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction he then ordinarily practises, or by such officer as the High Court from time to time appoints in this behalf.

On every such renewal, the certificate then in possession of such pleader or mukhtár shall be cancelled and retained by such Judge or officer.

Every certificate so renewed shall be signed by such Judge or officer.

Every Judge or officer so renewing a certificate shall notify such renewal to the High Court.

8. On such day or on any subsequent day to which the enquiry may be adjourned, the presiding officer shall receive all evidence properly produced in support of the charge, or by the pleader or mukhtár, and shall proceed to adjudicate on the charge.

If such officer finds the charge established, and considers that the pleader or mukhtár should be suspended or dismissed in consequence, he shall record his finding and the grounds thereof, and shall report the same to the High Court, and the High Court shall proceed to acquit, suspend or dismiss the pleader or mukhtár.

Any Judge or Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority acting under this section may, and, with the previous sanction of the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, any subordinate revenue-officer so acting may, pending the investigation and the orders of the High Court, suspend the pleader or mukhtár from practising in such in his Court or office.

Suspension pending investigation.

Every report made to the High Court under this section shall—

(a) when made by any Civil Judge other than the District Judge, be made through the Judge;

Such Authority, after making any enquiry which it thinks necessary, may suspend or dismiss him as such revenue-agent.

Power to make rules for mukhtárs on appellate side of High Court.

16. Notwithstanding anything contained in any Letters Patent or in the Code of Civil Procedure, section 37, clause (a), any High Court established by Royal Charter may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act—

If any revenue-agent holding a certificate issued under this Act is charged with any such conduct in any office subordinate to the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority, or in the Court of any Munsif, the officer at the head of such office, or such Munsif, as the case may be, shall send him a copy of the charge and also a notice that, on a day to be therein appointed, such charge will be taken into consideration.

Such copy and notice shall be served upon the person charged at least ten days before the day so appointed. On such day or on any other day to which the enquiry may be adjourned, the officer or Munsif shall receive all evidence properly produced in support of the charge, or by the person charged, and shall proceed to adjudicate on the charge.

If the officer or Munsif finds the charge established and considers that the person charged should be suspended or dismissed in consequence, he shall record his finding, and the grounds thereof, and report the same to the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority; and such Authority shall proceed to acquit, suspend or dismiss him.

Note by the Hon'ble the Chief Justice, High Court, Calcutta, dated 22nd January, 1879.

2. We have deemed it well, instead of adding a fifth Act to the four Acts already in force relating to pleaders, mukhtárs and revenue-agents, to frame a consolidation measure embracing the entire law.

3. We have, at the instance of the Hon'ble the Chief Justice of Bengal, restored in section 16 of the Bill now submitted, the power of the High Courts to make rules for the admission and control of mukhtárs practising on the appellate side of those Courts, which was conferred by section 44 of Act XX of 1865, but which has been held by the Calcutta High Court to have been ultra vires.

4. We have made the Bill applicable to the Courts of Small Causes in the Presidency towns, where we understand some such law is needed.

5. We have substituted, for the stamp-duties on certificates prescribed by Act XX of 1865, fees fixed according to the scale which was proposed in the Bill to amend the law relating to stamps and court-fees recently before the Council. The alterations here made are of no substantial importance.

2. We have carefully considered the arguments urged on the one side by the learned Chief Justice of Bengal and the Bank of Bengal for the immediate application of the measure in its entirety to hundís, and, on the other side, by the Government of the Panjáb for the total exclusion of hundís from any part of the measure. We have come to the conclusion that the Bill should in this respect be left substantially as it stands. Admitting with the Chief Justice that one main principle of Indian codification is to reconcile and assimilate, as far as possible, the Native and European law on each subject, we would point out that this principle must be applied so as to produce as little friction as possible, and we feel assured that any sudden abolition of the numerous local usages (there is no general custom) as to hundís, uncertain and undefined as they often are, would cause much and justifiable dissatisfaction among Native bankers and merchants in certain parts of the country. But we believe that the effect of the Bill, if passed with a saving of the local usages in question, will be, not as the Chief Justice fears, to stereotype and perpetuate these usages, but to induce the Native mercantile community gradually to discard them for the corresponding rules contained in the Bill. The desirable uniformity of mercantile usage will thus be brought about without any risk of causing hardship to Native bankers and merchants. How long this change will take, it is of course impossible to prophesy. But the Bank of Bengal has supplied evidence that the Native usages as to negotiable paper have of recent years been greatly changing, and that the tendency is to assimilate them more and more to the European custom.

3. We do not share the apprehension of the Bank of Bengal that the recognition of Native usages would result in large withdrawal of European capital from operations in Native bills. For in this respect the Bill simply states the law as it stands. Such usages are now and have always been recognised by our Courts in all parts of India; but the Bank itself admits that, for upwards of seventy years, its business in hundís has invariably been conducted according to the same laws and usages as apply to European bills, and that, with one exception (the alleged duty of the holder of a dishonoured hundí to exhaust the acceptor before having recourse to the drawer or endorser) Natives have made no difficulty about conforming to the Bank's requirements. It is, we understand, the practice of the Bank and, probably, of other large European purchasers of hundís to notify that they will not be bound by any local usage which contravenes the English law as to bills of exchange. Though the Bill should pass in its present form, this practice will remain legal and unaffected. It operates of course to bind only the seller to waive a defence which he might otherwise have made. But the other parties to the hundí are practically precluded from setting up any such usage by the knowledge that if they did so their credit would be destroyed by refusal of the Bank to buy hundís on which their names appear.

4. To exclude totally (as the Panjáb Government propose) hundís from any part of the Bill would be to render the proposed legislation to a great extent inoperative, and would probably result in withdrawal of the Bill. Considering the fact that the carrying on of the internal trade of India is becoming more and more dependent on English capital, and that the use in the Mufassal of bills in the English form is therefore largely increasing, we think that such withdrawal would be highly inexpedient. We are supported in this opinion by the fact that the Local Governments of Bengal, Bombay, the North-Western Provinces and Ajmer have all reported in favour of the Bill; that the Chambers of Commerce at Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, the Bank of Bombay, and the Calcutta Trades Association, have done the same; and that the Directors of the Bank of Bengal bear testimony as to the ability with which it was framed by Mr. Phillips.

5. Turning now to the details of the Bill, we have, in the first place, expressly saved the provisions of the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, section 21, which prohibits the issue of private bills or notes payable to bearer on demand.

* See, for example, 1 Beng. L. R. 75; 2 ibid. 214; 6 ibid. 301; 2 Hyde 259; 3 [illegible] 4, C. 128; 7 Suth. 275, 289, 481, 897; 9 Beng. Appendix 1; 3 Sevestre 621, &c.; N. W. P. 1868, p. 268; Perry [illegible]; 6 Bomb. O. C. J. 24; 7 Bomb. O. C. J. 137, 140; 12 Bomb. 178.

6. We have struck out from section 16 the words "the whole or any part of," as they might have been taken to imply that there may be a special indorsement expressly directing payment of part of the amount mentioned in the instrument.

7. Section 21 was taken from the Law Commissioners' draft, and deals with a promissory note signed by two persons, and shewing that one of them subscribes only to an alternative liability. We think it very doubtful whether such an informal instrument is a promissory note at all, and for this and other reasons we have omitted the section.

8. We have also omitted section 33, as the matter appears to us to be sufficiently provided for by the Indian Contract Act; for the same reason we have omitted the first half of section 43.

9. We have omitted, as unlikely to be practically useful, sections 55 and 56, which provide for the delivery without indorsement, but with intent to transfer title, of bills payable to the order of a specified person or to a specified person or order.

10. We have omitted section 59, as the matter is sufficiently covered by the preceding section.

11. We do not think that the Bill should deal with collateral agreements, and have therefore struck out section 66.

12. We have amended the section (73, now 67) as to the drawee's term for deliberation. It now provides that the holder may allow the drawee twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept the Bill.

13. We think that, in order to charge the drawer of a cheque, the holder should only be bound to present it at the bank on which it is drawn before the relation between the drawer and the banker has been altered to the prejudice of the drawer. We have altered section 82 accordingly.

14. We have omitted from section 97 the explanation relating to material alterations.

15. We have made some changes in wording and arrangement.

16. The Bill No. III and the second report of the Select Committee have been published in English in all the local Gazettes except those for Assam and Rájputána. Publication of the Bill and report in the vernacular has been reported only by the Governments of Madras, Bengal and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces.

17. With the exception of our Hon'ble Colleague Mr. Morgan, we think that the Bill might now be passed as amended. Mr. Morgan would omit the clause saving local usages as to hundís. In other respects he approves of the Bill. We recommend that its further consideration be stayed until the new Law Commission has reported thereon. Meanwhile, we think the Bill, as now amended, should be published with this report in the Gazette of India.

CALCUTTA,
The 19th February, 1879.

Although I think that this Bill is, on the whole, a very good one, I cannot approve of the recognition which it accords to local usages relating to hundís. From a careful consideration of the papers which have been received with reference to the Bill, and from my own experience as regards the existing practice regarding hundís, I do not believe that there are any usages which call for special recognition at the hands of the legislature, and I think that the proposed recognition may put an arm into the hands of those who are dishonestly disposed, which they do not at present possess.

Local extent.

It extends to the whole of British India; but nothing herein contained affects Saving of usages relating to hundís, &c.

Commencement.

And it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1880.

Repeal of enactments.

2. On and from that day the enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column thereof.

Illustrations.

A signs instruments in the following terms:—

(b) "I acknowledge myself to be indebted to B in Rs. 1,000 to be paid on demand, for value received."

(c) "Mr. B, I O U Rs. 1,000."

(f) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 seven days after my marriage with C."

(g) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 on D's death, provided D leaves me enough to pay that sum."

The instruments respectively marked (a), and (b) are promissory notes. The instruments respectively marked (c), (d), (e), (f), (g) and (h) are not promissory notes.

"Acceptor."

After the drawee of a bill has signed his assent upon the bill, or if there are more parts thereof than one, upon one of such parts, and delivered the same, or given notice of such signing to the holder or to some person on his behalf, he is called the "acceptor."

"Acceptor for honour."

When acceptance is refused and the bill is protested for non-acceptance, and any person accepts it supra protest for honour of the drawer or of any one of the indorsers, such person is called an "acceptor for honour."

"Payee."

The person named in the instrument, to whom or to whose order the money is by the instrument directed to be paid, is called the "payee."

"Holder in due course" means any person who became the possessor of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque if payable to bearer, or the payee or indorsee thereof, if payable to, or to the order of, a payee, for consideration before the amount mentioned in it became payable, and without having sufficient cause to believe that any defect existed in the title of the person from whom he derived his title.

"Payment in due course."

10. "Payment in due course" means payment in accordance with the apparent tenor of the instrument in good faith and without negligence to any person in possession thereof under circumstances which do not afford a reasonable ground for believing that he is not entitled to receive payment of the amount therein mentioned.

Inland instrument.

11. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque drawn or made in British India, and made payable in, or drawn upon any person resident in, British India shall be deemed to be an inland instrument.

Foreign instrument.

12. Any such instrument not so drawn, made or made payable shall be deemed to be a foreign instrument.

Negotiable instrument.

13. A "negotiable instrument" means a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque expressed to be payable to a specified person or his order, or to the order of a specified person, or to the bearer thereof, or to a specified person or the bearer thereof.

Indorsement.

Indorsement "in blank" and "in full."

16. If the indorser signs his name only, the indorsement is said to be "in blank," and if he adds a direction to pay the amount mentioned in the instrument to, or to the order of, a specified person, the indorsement is said to be "in full;" and the person so specified is called the "indorsee" of the instrument.

"Indorsee."

Ambiguous instruments.

17. Where an instrument may be construed either as a promissory note or bill of exchange, the holder may at his election treat it as either, and the instrument shall be thenceforward treated accordingly.

Where amount is stated differently in figures and words.

Blank stamped instruments.

Illustration.

A stamped paper intended to be completed as a negotiable instrument is made payable to "____ or order:" the holder of such instrument may fill up the blank with his own name, or that of any other person.

21. In a promissory note or bill of exchange the expressions "at sight" and "on presentment" mean on demand. The expression "after sight" means, in a promissory note, after presentment for sight, and in a bill of exchange, after acceptance or protest for non-acceptance.

"At sight." "On presentment." "After sight."

22. The maturity of a promissory note or bill of exchange is the date at which it falls due.

"Maturity."

Every promissory note or bill of exchange which is not expressed to be payable on demand, at sight, or on presentment, is at maturity on the third day after the day on which it is expressed to be payable.

Days of grace.

23. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable a stated number of months after date or after sight, or after a certain event, is at maturity, the period stated shall be held to terminate on the day of the month which corresponds with the day on which the instrument is dated, or presented for acceptance or sight or protested for non-acceptance, or the event happens, or, where the instrument is a bill of exchange made payable a stated number of months after sight and has been accepted for honour, with the day on which it was so accepted. If the month in which the period would terminate has no corresponding day, the period shall be held to terminate on the last day of such month.

Calculating maturity of bill or note payable so many months after date or sight.

Illustrations.

(a) A negotiable instrument dated 29th January 1878 is made payable at one month after date. The instrument is at maturity on the third day after the 28th February 1878.

(b) A negotiable instrument dated 30th August 1878 is made payable three months after date. The instrument is at maturity on the 3rd December 1878.

(c) A promissory note or bill of exchange, dated 31st August 1878, is made payable three months after date. The instrument is at maturity on the 3rd December 1878.

24. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable a certain number of days after date or after sight or after a certain event, is at maturity, the day of the date, or of presentment for acceptance or sight, or of protest for non-acceptance, or on which the event happens, shall be excluded.

Calculating maturity of bill or note payable so many days after date or sight.

25. When the day on which a promissory note or bill of exchange is at maturity is a public holiday, the instrument shall be deemed to be due on the next preceding business day.

When day of maturity is a holiday.

Explanation.—The expression "public holiday" includes Sundays: New-Year's day, Christmas day: if either of such days falls on a Sunday, the next following Monday: Good-Friday; and any other day declared by the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, to be a public holiday.

26. Until the contrary is proved, the following presumptions shall be made:—

that holder is a holder in due course.

CHAPTER III.

PARTIES TO NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

27. Every person capable of contracting, according to the law to which he is subject, may bind himself and be bound by the making, drawing, acceptance, indorsement, delivery and negotiation of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque.

Capacity to make, &c., promissory notes, &c.

A minor may draw, indorse, deliver and negotiate such instruments so as to bind all parties except himself.

Minor.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to empower a corporation to make, indorse or accept such instruments except in cases in which, under the law for the time being in force, they are so empowered.

28. Every person capable of binding himself or of being bound, as mentioned in section 27, may so bind himself or be bound by a duly authorized agent acting in his name.

Agency.

A general authority to transact business and to receive and discharge debts does not confer upon an agent the power of accepting or indorsing bills of exchange so as to bind his principal.

An authority to draw bills of exchange does not of itself import an authority to indorse.

29. An agent who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, without indicating thereon that he signs as agent, or that he does not intend thereby to incur personal responsibility, is liable personally on the instrument, except to those who induced him to sign upon the belief that the principal only would be held liable.

Liability of agent signing.

30. A legal representative of a deceased person who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, is liable personally thereon unless he expressly limits his liability to the extent of the assets received by him as such.

Liability of legal representative signing.

31. Where there are several drawees of a bill of exchange who are not partners, each of them can accept it for himself, but none of them can accept it for another without his authority.

Acceptance by several drawees not partners.

32. The drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque is bound, in case of dishonour by the drawee or acceptor thereof, to compensate the holder for any loss or damage caused thereby, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, the drawer as hereinafter provided.

Liability of drawer.

33. The drawee of a cheque having sufficient funds of the drawer in his hands properly applicable to the payment of such cheque, must pay the cheque when duly required so to do, and, in default of such payment, must compensate the drawer for any loss or damage caused by such default.

Liability of drawee of cheque.

34. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the maker of a promissory note and the acceptor before maturity of a bill of exchange, are bound to pay the amount thereof at maturity according to the apparent tenor of the note or acceptance respectively, and the acceptor of a bill of exchange at or after maturity is bound to pay the amount thereof to the holder on demand.

Liability of maker of note and acceptor of bill.

In default of such payment as aforesaid, such maker or acceptor is bound to compensate any party to the note or bill for any loss or damage sustained by him, and caused by such default.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 27, 29, 48, 49, 50, 62, 68, 72, 73 and 86.

35. No person except the drawee of a bill of exchange, or all or some of several joint drawees, or a person named therein as a drawee in case of need, or an acceptor for honour, can bind himself by an acceptance.

Only drawee can be acceptor except in need or for honour.

36. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, whoever indorses and delivers a negotiable instrument before maturity, without, in such indorsement, expressly excluding or making conditional his own liability, is bound thereby to every subsequent holder, in case of dishonour by the drawee, acceptor or maker, to compensate such holder for any loss or damage caused to him by such dishonour, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, such indorser as hereinafter provided.

Every indorser after dishonour is liable as upon an instrument payable on demand.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 27, 29, 48, 49, 50, 59, 60, 62, 65, 66, 68, 72, 76, 86, 87, 88, 90, 91 and 101, clause (a).

37. Every prior party to a negotiable instrument is liable thereon to a holder in due course until the instrument is duly satisfied.

Liability of prior parties to holder in due course.

38. The maker of a promissory note or cheque, the drawer of a bill of exchange until acceptance, and the acceptor are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively liable thereon as principal debtors, and the other parties thereto are liable thereon as sureties for the maker, drawer or acceptor, as the case may be.

Maker, drawer and acceptor principals.

39. As between the parties so liable as sureties, each prior party is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, also liable thereon as a principal debtor in respect of each subsequent party.

Prior party a principal in respect of each subsequent party.

Illustration.

A draws a bill payable to his own order on B, who accepts. A afterwards indorses the bill to C, C to D, and D to E. As between E and B, B is the principal debtor, and A, C and D are his sureties. As between E and A, A is the principal debtor, and C and D are his sureties. As between E and C, C is the principal debtor, and D is his surety.

40. When the holder of an accepted bill of exchange enters into any contract with the acceptor which under section 134 or 135 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, would discharge the other parties, the holder may expressly reserve his right to charge the other parties, and in such case they are not discharged.

Suretyship.

41. Where the holder of a negotiable instrument, without the consent of the indorser, destroys or impairs the indorser's remedy against a prior party, the indorser is discharged from liability to the holder to the same extent as if the instrument had been paid at maturity.

Discharge of indorser's liability.

Illustration.

A is the holder of a bill of exchange made payable to the order of B, which contains the following indorsements in blank:—

First indorsement, "B."
Second indorsement, "Peter Williams."
Third indorsement, "Wright and Co."
Fourth indorsement, "John Rozario."

This bill A puts in suit against John Rozario and strikes out, without John Rozario's consent, the indorsements by Peter Williams and Wright and Co. A is not entitled to recover anything from John Rozario.

42. No maker of a promissory note, and no drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque, and no acceptor of a bill of exchange for the honour of the drawer shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the validity of the instrument as originally made or drawn.

Estoppel against denying original validity of instrument.

43. No maker of a promissory note and no acceptor of a bill of exchange payable to, or to the order of, a specified person shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the payee's capacity, at the date of the note or bill, to indorse the same.

Estoppel against denying capacity of payee to indorse.

44. No indorser of a negotiable instrument shall, in a suit thereon by a subsequent holder, be permitted to deny the signature or capacity to contract of any prior party to the instrument.

Estoppel against denying signature or capacity of prior party.

45. An acceptor of a bill of exchange already indorsed is not relieved from liability by reason that such indorsement is forged, if he knew or had reason to believe the indorsement to be forged when he accepted the bill.

Acceptor bound, although indorsement forged.

46. An acceptor of a bill of exchange drawn in a fictitious name and payable to the drawer's order is not, by reason that such name is fictitious, relieved from liability to any holder in due course claiming under an indorsement by the same hand as the drawer's signature, and purporting to be made by the drawer.

Acceptance of bill drawn in fictitious name.

47. If at any time there has been consideration between any parties to a negotiable instrument for the making, drawing, acceptance, indorsement, negotiation or transfer thereof, the party receiving such consideration is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, liable upon the instrument to all subsequent parties thereto, and every subsequent holder is, as against him, a holder for consideration.

Party receiving consideration liable to subsequent parties.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 27, 49, 50, 59, 65, 66, 68, 72, 73, 76, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90 and 91.

Illustrations.

(a) A indorses a bill of exchange to B, at the request of C, for C's account with B. B is a holder of the bill for consideration, and if he indorses it as a present to D, D is a holder for consideration as against A.

(b) A, the holder of a negotiable instrument, indorses it in full to B, in the belief that B has done something which he has not done. B, for consideration proceeding from C, indorses the instrument in blank to C, and C indorses it to D. D strikes out C's indorsement. D is a holder of the instrument for consideration as against B.

48. When there was no consideration for the making, drawing, acceptance or indorsement of a negotiable instrument, or when the consideration has wholly failed, the maker, drawer, acceptor or indorser is not liable thereon to the party in whose favour the instrument was so made, drawn, accepted or indorsed, or to any party claiming through him, unless consideration was given by the claimant or by some party through whom he derives title. But the maker, drawer, acceptor or indorser is liable to compensate any subsequent party who, being liable on such instrument, pays the amount due thereon.

Party not liable to one from whom no consideration moved.

49. When the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque consisted of money, and was originally absent in part or has subsequently failed in part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

Partial absence or failure of money-consideration.

Explanation.—The drawer of a bill of exchange stands in immediate relation with the acceptor. The maker of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, stands in immediate relation with the payee, and the indorser with his indorsee. Other signers may by agreement stand in immediate relation with a holder.

Illustration.

A draws a bill on B for Rs. 500 payable to the order of A. B accepts the bill, but subsequently dishonours it by non-payment. A sues B on the bill. B proves that it was accepted for value as to Rs. 400, and as an accommodation to the plaintiff as to the residue. A can only recover Rs. 400.

50. Where a part of the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, though not consisting of money, is ascertainable in money without collateral enquiry, and there has been a failure of that part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

Partial failure of consideration not consisting of money.

CHAPTER IV.

OF NEGOTIATION.

51. Subject to the provisions of section 62, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer, is negotiable by delivery thereof.

Negotiation by delivery.

Exception.—A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque delivered on condition that it is not to take effect except in a certain event is not negotiable (except in the hands of a holder for value without notice of the condition) unless such event happens.

Illustrations.

(a) A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer, delivers it to B's agent to keep for B. The instrument has been negotiated.

(b) A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer which is in the hands of A's banker, who is at the time the banker of B, directs the banker to transfer the instrument to B's credit in the banker's account with B. The banker does so, and accordingly now possesses the instrument as B's agent. The instrument has been negotiated, and B has become the holder of it.

52. Subject to the provisions of section 62, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to the order of a specified person or to a specified person or order, is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

Negotiation by indorsement.

53. The holder of a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank may, without signing his own name, by writing above the indorser's signature a direction to pay to any other person as indorsee, convert the indorsement in blank into an indorsement in full; and the holder does not thereby incur the responsibility of an indorser.

Conversion of indorsement in blank into indorsement in full.

54. The indorsement of a negotiable instrument followed by delivery transfers to the indorsee the property therein with the right of further negotiation; but the indorsement may, by express words, restrict or exclude such right, or may merely constitute the indorsee an agent to indorse the instrument, or to receive its contents for the indorser, or for some other specified person.

Illustrations.

B signs the following indorsements on different negotiable instruments payable to bearer:—

(a) "Pay the contents to C only."

(b) "Pay C for my use."

(c) "Pay C or order for the account of B."

(d) "The within must be credited to C."

These indorsements exclude the right of further negotiation by C.

(f) "Pay C value in account with the Oriental Bank."

(g) "Pay the contents to C, being part of the consideration in a certain deed of assignment executed by C to the indorser and others."

These indorsements do not exclude the right of further negotiation by C.

55. Every sole maker, drawer, payee or indorsee, or all of several joint makers, drawers, payees or indorsees, of a negotiable instrument may, if the negotiability of such instrument has not been restricted or excluded, as mentioned in section 54, indorse and negotiate the same.

Who may negotiate.

Explanation.—Nothing in this section enables a maker or drawer to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is in lawful possession or is holder thereof; or enables a payee or indorsee to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is holder thereof.

Illustration.

A bill is drawn payable to A or order. A indorses it to B, the indorsement not containing the words "or order" or any equivalent words. B may negotiate the instrument.

56. The indorser of a negotiable instrument may, by express words in the indorsement, exclude his own liability thereon, or make such liability or the right of the indorsee to receive the amount due thereon, depend upon the happening of a specified event, although such event may never happen.

Indorser who excludes his own liability or makes it conditional.

Where an indorser so excludes his liability and afterwards becomes the holder of the instrument, all intermediate indorsers are liable to him.

Illustrations.

(a) The indorser of a negotiable instrument signs his name, adding the words—

"Without recourse."

Upon this indorsement he incurs no liability.

(b) A is the payee and holder of a negotiable instrument. Excluding personal liability by an endorsement "without recourse," he transfers the instrument to B, and B indorses it to C, who indorses it to A. A is not only reinstated in his former rights, but has the rights of an indorsee against B and C.

57. A holder of a negotiable instrument who derives title from a holder in due course has the rights thereon of that holder in due course.

Holder deriving title from holder in due course.

58. Subject to the provisions of sections 121 and 122, a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank is payable to the bearer thereof even although originally payable to order.

Instrument indorsed in blank.

59. If a negotiable instrument after having been indorsed in blank is indorsed in full, the amount of it cannot be claimed from the indorser in full, except by the person to whom it has been indorsed in full, or by one who derives title through such person.

Conversion of indorsement in blank into indorsement in full.

60. No writing on a negotiable instrument is valid for the purpose of negotiation if such writing purports to transfer only a part of the amount of the instrument.

Indorsement for part of sum due.

61. The legal representative of a deceased person cannot negotiate by delivery only a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to order and indorsed by the deceased but not delivered.

Legal representative cannot by delivery only negotiate instrument indorsed by deceased.

62. When a negotiable instrument has been lost, or has been obtained from any maker, acceptor or holder thereof by means of an offence or fraud, or for an unlawful consideration, no possessor or indorsee who claims through the person who found or so obtained the instrument is entitled to receive the amount due thereon from such maker, acceptor or holder, or from any party prior to such holder, unless such possessor or indorsee is, or some person through whom he claims was, a holder thereof in due course.

Instrument obtained by unlawful means or for unlawful consideration.

63. The holder of a negotiable instrument, who has acquired it after dishonour, whether by non-acceptance or non-payment, with notice thereof, or after maturity, has only, as against the other parties, the rights thereon of his transferor:

Instrument acquired after dishonour or when overdue.

Provided that any person who, in good faith and for consideration, becomes the holder, after maturity, of a promissory note or bill of exchange made, drawn or accepted without consideration for the purpose of enabling some party thereto to raise money thereon, may recover the amount of the note or bill from any prior party.

Accommodation note or bill.

Illustration.

The acceptor of a bill of exchange, when he accepted it deposited with the drawer certain goods as a collateral security for the payment of the bill, with power to the drawer to sell the goods and apply the proceeds in discharge of the bill if it were not paid at maturity. The bill not having been paid at maturity, the drawer sold the goods and retained the proceeds, but indorsed the bill to A. A's title is subject to the same objection as the drawer's title.

64. A negotiable instrument may be negotiated (except by the maker, drawee or acceptor after maturity) until payment or satisfaction thereof by the maker, drawee or acceptor at or after maturity, but not after such payment or satisfaction.

Instrument negotiable till payment or satisfaction.

CHAPTER V.

OF PRESENTMENT.

65. A bill of exchange payable after sight must, if no time or place is specified therein for presentment, be presented to the drawee thereof for acceptance, if he can, after reasonable search, be found, by a person entitled to demand acceptance, within a reasonable time after it is drawn, and in business hours on a business day. In default of such presentment, no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

Presentment for acceptance.

If the drawee cannot, after reasonable search be found, the bill is dishonoured.

If the bill is directed to the drawee at a particular place, it must be presented at that place; and if at the due date for presentment he cannot, after reasonable search, be found there, the bill is dishonoured.

66. A promissory note, payable at a certain period after sight, must be presented to the maker thereof for sight, by a person entitled to demand payment, within a reasonable time after it is made and in business hours on a business day. In default of such presentment no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

Presentment of promissory note for sight.

67. The holder may allow the drawee of a bill of exchange presented to him for acceptance twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept it.

Drawee's time for deliberation.

68. Promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques must be presented for payment to the maker, acceptor or drawee thereof respectively, by or on behalf of the holder as hereinafter provided. In default of such presentment, the other parties thereto are not liable thereon to such holder.

Presentment for payment.

Exception.—Where a promissory note is payable on demand and is not payable at a specified place, no presentment is necessary in order to charge the maker thereof.

69. Presentment for payment must be made during the usual hours of business, and, if at a banker's, within banking hours.

Hours for presentment.

70. A promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable at a specified period after date or sight thereof, must be presented for payment at maturity.

Presentment for payment of instrument payable after date or sight.

71. A promissory note payable by instalments must be presented for payment on the third day after the date fixed for payment of each instalment; and non-payment on such presentment has the same effect as non-payment of a note at maturity.

Presentment for payment of promissory note payable by instalments.

72. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque made, drawn or accepted payable at a specified place and not elsewhere must, in order to charge any party thereto, be presented for payment at that place.

Presentment for payment of instrument payable at specified place and not elsewhere.

73. A promissory note or bill of exchange made, drawn or accepted payable at a specified place must, in order to charge the maker or drawer thereof, be presented for payment at that place.

Instrument payable at specified place.

74. A promissory note or bill of exchange, not made payable as mentioned in sections 72 and 73, must be presented for payment at one of the places specified (if any), or at the place of business (if any), or at the usual residence, of the maker, drawee or acceptor thereof, as the case may be.

Presentment where no exclusive place specified.

75. If the maker, drawee or acceptor of a negotiable instrument has no known place of business or fixed residence, and no place is specified in the instrument for presentment for acceptance or payment, such presentment may be made to him in person wherever he can be found.

Presentment when maker, &c., has no known place of business or residence.

76. A cheque must, in order to charge the drawer, be presented at the bank upon which it is drawn before the relation between the drawer and his banker has been altered to the prejudice of the drawer.

Presentment of cheque to charge drawer.

77. A cheque must, in order to charge any person except the drawer, be presented within a reasonable time after delivery thereof by such person.

Presentment of cheque to charge any other person.

78. Subject to the provisions of section 33, a negotiable instrument payable on demand must be presented for payment within a reasonable time after it is received by the holder.

Presentment of instrument payable on demand.

79. Presentment for acceptance or payment may be made to the duly authorized agent of the drawee, maker or acceptor, as the case may be, or where the drawee, maker or acceptor has died, to his legal representative, or where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee.

Presentment by or to agent, representative of deceased, or assignee of insolvent.

80. No presentment for payment is necessary, and the instrument is dishonoured at the due date for presentment, in any of the following cases:—

When presentment unnecessary.

(a) if the maker, drawee or acceptor intentionally prevents the presentment of the instrument, or, if the instrument being payable at his place of business, he closes such place on a business day during the usual business-hours, or if the instrument being payable at some other specified place, neither he nor any person authorized to pay it attends at such place during the usual business hours, or if the instrument not being payable at any specified place, he cannot after due search be found;

(b) as against any party if, after maturity, with knowledge that the instrument has not been presented—he makes a part payment on account of the amount due on the instrument, or promises to pay the amount due thereon in whole or in part, or otherwise waives his right to take advantage of any default in presentment for payment;

(c) as against the drawer, if the drawer could not suffer damage from the want of such presentment.

81. When a bill of exchange, accepted payable at a specified bank, has been duly presented there for payment and dishonoured, if the banker so negligently or improperly keeps, deals with or delivers back such bill as to cause loss to the holder, he must compensate the holder for such loss.

Liability of banker for negligently dealing with bill presented for payment.

CHAPTER VI.

OF PAYMENT AND INTEREST.

82. Subject to the provisions of section 86, clause (c), payment of the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque must, in order to discharge the maker or acceptor, be made to the holder of the instrument.

To whom payment should be made.

83. When interest at a specified rate is expressly made payable on a promissory note or bill of exchange, interest shall be calculated at the rate specified, on the amount and from the date of the instrument, until tender or realization of the amount due thereon, or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

Interest when rate specified.

84. When no rate of interest is specified in the instrument, interest on the amount thereof shall, except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532, be calculated at the rate of six per centum per annum, from the date at which the same ought to have been paid by the party charged, until tender or realization of the amount due thereon or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

Interest when no rate specified.

Explanation.—When the party charged is the indorser of an instrument dishonoured by non-payment, he is liable to pay interest only from the time that he receives notice of the dishonour.

85. Any person liable to pay, and called upon by the holder thereof to pay, the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is before payment entitled to have it shown, and is on payment entitled to have it delivered up, to him, or, if the instrument is lost or cannot be produced, to be indemnified against any further claim thereon against him.

Delivery of instrument on payment, or indemnity in case of loss.

CHAPTER VII.

OF DISCHARGE FROM LIABILITY ON NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

86. The maker, acceptor or indorser respectively of a negotiable instrument is discharged from liability thereon—

Discharge from liability,

(a) to a holder thereof who cancels such acceptor's or indorser's name with intent to discharge him, and to all parties claiming under such holder.

by cancellation,

(b) to a holder thereof who otherwise discharges such maker, acceptor or indorser, and to all parties deriving title under such holder after notice of such discharge;

by release,

(c) to all parties thereto, if the instrument is payable to bearer, or has been indorsed in blank, and such maker, acceptor or indorser makes payment in due course of the amount due thereon.

by payment.

87. If the holder of a bill of exchange allows the drawee more than twenty-four hours to consider whether he will accept the same, all previous parties not consenting to such allowance are thereby discharged from liability to such holder.

Discharge by allowing drawee more than twenty-four hours to accept.

88. When the holder of a cheque fails to present it for payment, and the drawer thereof sustains loss or damage from such failure, he is discharged from liability to the holder.

When cheque not duly presented and drawer damaged thereby.

89. Where a cheque payable to order, purports to be indorsed by or on behalf of the payee, the drawee is discharged by payment in due course.

Cheque payable to order.

90. If the holder of a bill of exchange acquiesces in a conditional acceptance, or one limited to part of the sum mentioned in the bill, or which substitutes a different place or time for payment, or which, where the drawers are not partners is not signed by all the drawees, all previous parties whose consent is not obtained to such acceptance are discharged as against the holder and those claiming under him.

Parties not consenting discharged by conditional or limited acceptance.

91. Save as provided in sections 20, 53, 90 and 120, any material alteration of a negotiable instrument renders the same void as against any one who is a party thereto at the time of making such alteration and does not consent thereto, unless it was made in order to carry out the common intention of the original parties; and any such alteration if made by an indorsee, discharges his indorser from all liability to him in respect of the consideration thereof.

Effect of material alteration.

Alteration by indorsee.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 20, 53, 90 and 120.

92. An acceptor or indorser of a negotiable instrument is bound by his acceptance or indorsement notwithstanding any previous alteration of the instrument.

Acceptor or indorser bound notwithstanding previous alteration.

93. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque has been materially altered, but does not appear to have been so altered,

Payment of instrument on which alteration is not apparent.

or where a cheque is presented for payment which does not at the time of presentation appear to be crossed or to have had a crossing which has been obliterated payment thereof by a person or banker liable to pay and paying the same according to the apparent tenor thereof at the time of payment, and otherwise in due course, shall discharge such person or banker from all liability thereon, and such payment shall not be questioned by reason of the instrument having been altered, or the cheque crossed.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF NOTICE OF DISHONOUR.

94. A bill of exchange is said to be dishonoured by non-acceptance when the drawee, or one of several drawees not being partners, makes default in acceptance upon being duly required to accept the bill. (Dishonour by non-acceptance.)

Where the drawee is incompetent to contract the bill may be treated as dishonoured.

95. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is said to be dishonoured by non-payment when the maker of the note, acceptor of the bill, or drawee of the cheque makes default in payment upon being duly required to pay the same. (Dishonour by non-payment.)

96. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder thereof, or some party thereto who remains liable thereon, must give notice that the instrument has been so dishonoured to all other parties whom the holder seeks to make severally liable thereon, and to some one of several parties whom he seeks to make jointly liable thereon. (By and to whom notice should be given.)

Nothing in this section renders it necessary to give notice to the maker of the dishonoured promissory note, or the drawee or acceptor of the dishonoured bill of exchange or cheque.

97. Notice of dishonour may be given to a duly authorised agent of the person to whom it is required to be given, or, where he has died, to his legal representative, or, where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee; may be oral or written; may, if written, be sent by post; and may be in any form; but it must inform the party to whom it is given, either in express terms or by reasonable intendment, that the instrument has been dishonoured, and in what way, and that he will be held liable thereon; and it must be given within a reasonable time after dishonour, at the place of business, or (in case such party has no place of business) at the residence of the party for whom it is intended. (Mode in which notice may be given.)

If the notice is sent by post and miscarries, such miscarriage does not render the notice invalid.

98. Any party receiving notice of dishonour must, in order to render any prior party liable to himself, transmit it to such party within a reasonable time, unless such party otherwise receives due notice as provided by section 96. (Party receiving must transmit notice of dishonour.)

99. When the instrument is deposited with an agent for presentment, the agent is entitled to the same time to give notice to his principal as if he were the holder giving notice of dishonour, and the principal is entitled to a further like period to give notice of dishonour. (Agent for presentment.)

100. When the party to whom notice of dishonour is despatched is dead, but the party despatching the notice is ignorant of his death, the notice is sufficient. (When party to whom notice given is dead.)

101. No notice of dishonour is necessary— (When notice of dishonour is unnecessary.)

(a) when it is dispensed with by the party entitled thereto;

(b) in order to charge the drawer, when he has countermanded payment;

(c) when the party charged could not suffer damage for want of notice;

(d) when the party entitled to notice cannot after due search be found; or the party bound to give notice is, for any other reason, unable without any fault of his own to give it;

(e) to charge the drawers, when the acceptor is also a drawer;

(f) in the case of a promissory note which is not negotiable;

(g) when the party entitled to notice, knowing the facts, promises unconditionally to pay the amount due on the instrument.

CHAPTER IX.

OF NOTING AND PROTEST.

102. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may cause such dishonour to be noted by a notary public upon the instrument, or upon a paper attached thereto, or partly upon each. (Noting.)

Such note must be made within a reasonable time after dishonour, and must specify the date of dishonour, the reason, if any, assigned for such dishonour, or, if the instrument has not been expressly dishonoured, the reason why the holder treats it as dishonoured, and the notary's charges.

103. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause such dishonour to be noted and certified by a notary public. Such certificate is called a protest, and in a suit upon the instrument, on proof of the protest, the Court shall presume the fact of dishonour, unless and until such fact is disproved. (Protest.)

When the acceptor of a bill of exchange has become insolvent, or his credit has been publicly impeached, before the maturity of the bill, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause a notary public to demand better security of the acceptor, and on its being refused may, within a reasonable time, cause such facts to be noted and certified as aforesaid. Such certificate is called a protest for better security. (Protest for better security.)

104. A protest under section 103 must contain— (Contents of protest.)

(a) either the instrument itself, or a literal transcript of the instrument and of everything written or printed thereupon;

(b) the name of the person for whom and against whom the instrument has been protested;

(c) a statement that payment or acceptance, or better security, as the case may be, has been demanded of such person by the notary public; the terms of his answer, if any, or a statement that he gave no answer, or that he could not be found;

(e) the subscription of the notary public making the protest;

(f) in the event of an acceptance for honour or of a payment for honour, the name of the person by whom, of the person for whom, and the manner in which, such acceptance or payment was offered and effected.

105. When a promissory note or bill of exchange is required by law to be protested, notice of such protest must be given instead of notice of dishonour, in the same manner and subject to the same conditions; but the notice may be given by the notary public who makes the protest. (Notice of protest.)

106. All bills of exchange drawn payable at some other place than the place mentioned as the residence of the drawee, and which are dishonoured by non-acceptance, may, without further presentment to the drawee, be protested for non-payment, in the place specified for payment, unless paid before or at maturity. (Protest for non-payment after dishonour by non-acceptance.)

CHAPTER X.

OF REASONABLE TIME.

107. In determining what is a reasonable time for presentment for acceptance or payment, for giving notice of dishonour and for noting, regard shall be had to the nature of the instrument and the usual course of dealing with respect to similar instruments; and in calculating such time, public holidays shall be excluded. (Reasonable time.)

108. Presentment is made within a reasonable time, within the meaning of sections 65, 77 and 78, if it is made on the business day next after that on which the holder received the instrument referred to, or when there is no more delay than is occasioned by the residence of the parties to the instrument in different places. (Reasonable time for presentment.)

Illustration.

A draws on B, resident at Calcutta, a bill of exchange in favour of C payable at sight, and sends it to C at Benares. C, the day after he receives it, indorses it to D, and despatches it to D at Calcutta. D, the day after he receives the bill, presents it for payment. The delay which has taken place in presenting the bill is not unreasonable.

109. If the holder and the party to whom notice of dishonour is given carry on business or live (as the case may be) in different places, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched by the next post or on the day next after the day of dishonour. (Reasonable time of giving notice of dishonour.)

If the said parties carry on business or live in the same place, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched in time to reach its destination on the day next after the day of dishonour.

110. A party receiving notice of dishonour, who seeks to enforce his right against a prior party, transmits the notice within a reasonable time if he transmits it within the same time after its receipt as he would have had to give notice if he had been the holder. (Reasonable time for transmitting such notice.)

CHAPTER XI.

OF ACCEPTANCE AND PAYMENT FOR HONOUR.

111. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-acceptance or for better security, any person may, with the consent of the holder, by writing on the bill, accept the same for the honour of any party thereto. (Acceptance for honour.)

112. Where the acceptance does not express for whose honour it is made, it shall be deemed to be made for the honour of the drawer. (Acceptance not specifying for whose honour it is made.)

113. An acceptor for honour binds himself to all parties subsequent to the party for whose honour he accepts to pay the amount of the bill if the drawee do not; and such party and all prior parties are liable in their respective capacities to compensate the acceptor for honour for all loss or damage sustained by him in consequence of such acceptance. (Liability of acceptor for honour.)

But an acceptor for honour is not liable to the holder of the bill unless it is presented, or (in case the address given by such acceptor on the bill is a place other than the place where the bill is made payable) forwarded for presentment, not later than the day next after the day of its maturity.

114. An acceptor for honour cannot be charged unless the bill has at its maturity been presented to the drawee for payment and has been dishonoured by him, and noted or protested for such dishonour. (When acceptor for honour may be charged.)

115. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-payment, any person may pay the same for the honour of any party liable to pay the same, provided that the person so paying has previously declared before a notary public the party for whose honour he pays, and that such declaration has been recorded by such notary public. (Payment for honour.)

116. Any person so paying is entitled to all the rights, in respect of the bill, of the holder at the time of such payment, and may recover from the party for whose honour he pays all sums so paid, with interest thereon and with all expenses properly incurred in making such payment. (Right of payer for honour.)

CHAPTER XII.

OF COMPENSATION.

117. The compensation payable in case of dishonour of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, by any party liable to the holder or any indorsee, shall (except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532) be determined by the following rules :—

Rules as to compensation.

(a) The holder is entitled to the amount due upon the instrument, together with the expenses properly incurred in presenting, noting and protesting it ;

(b) When the person charged resides at a place different from that at which the instrument was payable, the holder is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places ;

(c) An indorser who, being liable, has paid the amount due on the same is entitled to the amount so paid with interest at six per centum per annum from the date of payment until tender or realization thereof, together with all expenses caused by the dishonour and payment ;

(d) When the person charged and such indorser reside at different places, the indorser is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places ;

(e) The party entitled to compensation may draw a bill upon the party liable to compensate him, payable at sight or on demand, for the amount due to him together with all expenses properly incurred by him. Such bill must be accompanied by the instrument dishonoured and the protest thereof (if any). If such bill is dishonoured, the party dishonouring the same is liable to make compensation thereof in the same manner as in the case of the original bill.

CHAPTER XIII.

OF CROSSED CHEQUES.

118. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the words "and company" or any abbreviation thereof, between two parallel transverse lines, or of two parallel transverse lines simply, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed generally.

Cheque crossed generally.

119. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the name of a banker, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed specially, and to be crossed to that banker.

Cheque crossed specially.

120. Where a cheque is uncrossed, the holder may cross it generally or specially.

Crossing after issue.

Where a cheque is crossed generally, the holder may cross it specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally or specially, the holder may add the words "not negotiable."

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker to whom it is crossed may again cross it specially to another banker, his agent, for collection.

121. Where a cheque is crossed generally, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to a banker.

Payment of cheque crossed generally.

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to the banker to whom it is crossed, or his agent for collection.

Payment of cheque crossed specially.

122. Where a cheque is crossed specially to more than one banker, except when crossed to an agent for the purpose of collection, the banker on whom it is drawn shall refuse payment thereof.

Payment of cheque crossed specially more than once.

123. Where the banker on whom a crossed cheque is drawn has paid the same in due course, the banker paying the cheque, and (in case such cheque has come to the hands of the payee) the drawer thereof, shall respectively be entitled to the same rights, and be placed in the same position in all respects, as they would respectively be entitled to and placed in if the amount of the cheque had been paid to and received by the true owner thereof.

Payment in due course of crossed cheque.

124. Any banker paying a cheque crossed generally otherwise than to a banker, or a cheque crossed specially otherwise than to the banker to whom the same is crossed, or his agent for collection, being a banker, shall be liable to the true owner of the cheque for any loss he may sustain owing to the cheque having been so paid.

Payment of crossed cheque out of due course.

125. A person taking a cheque crossed generally or specially, bearing in either case the words "not negotiable," shall not have, and shall not be capable of giving, a better title to the cheque than that which the person from whom he took it had.

Cheque bearing "not negotiable."

But a banker who has in good faith and without negligence received payment from a customer of a cheque crossed generally or specially to himself shall not, in case the title to the cheque proves defective, incur any liability to the true owner of the cheque by reason only of having received such payment.

CHAPTER XIV.

OF FOREIGN BILLS.

126. Foreign bills of exchange may be drawn in parts, each part being numbered and containing a provision that it shall continue payable only so long as the others remain unpaid. All the parts together make a set ; but the whole set constitutes only one bill, and is extinguished when one of the parts, if a separate bill, would be extinguished.

Set of bills.

Exception.—When a person accepts or indorses different parts of the bill in favour of different persons, he is liable on each part as if it were a separate bill.

127. As between holders in due course of different parts of the same set, he who first acquired title to his part is entitled to the other parts and the money represented by the bill.

Holder of first acquired part entitled to all.

128. Where a drawee in case of need is named in a foreign bill of exchange, the bill is not dishonoured until dishonoured by such drawee.

Drawee in case of need.

129. Foreign bills of exchange must be protested for dishonour when such protest is required by the law of the place where they are drawn.

Protest of foreign bills.

CHAPTER XV.

OF INTERNATIONAL LAW.

130. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the liability of the maker or drawer of a foreign promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is regulated in all essential matters by the law of the place where he made the instrument, and the respective liabilities of the acceptor and indorser by the law of the place where the instrument is made payable.

Law governing liability of maker, acceptor or indorser of foreign instrument.

Illustrations.

A bill of exchange was drawn by A in California, where the rate of interest is 25 per cent., and accepted by B, payable in Washington, where the rate of interest is 6 per cent. The bill is endorsed in British India, and is dishonoured. An action on the bill is brought against B in British India. He is liable to pay interest at the rate of 6 per cent. only; but if A is charged as drawer, A is liable to pay interest at the rate of 25 per cent.

131. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is made payable in a different place from that in which it is made or indorsed, the law of the place where it is made payable determines what constitutes dishonour and what notice of dishonour is sufficient.

Law of place of payment governs dishonour.

Illustration.

A bill of exchange drawn and indorsed in British India, but accepted payable in France, is dishonoured. The indorsee causes it to be protested for such dishonour, and give notice thereof in accordance with the law of France, though not in accordance with the rules herein contained in respect of bills which are not foreign. The notice is sufficient.

132. If a negotiable instrument is made, drawn, accepted or indorsed out of British India, but in accordance with the law of British India, the circumstance that any agreement evidenced by such instrument is invalid according to the law of the country wherein it was entered into, does not invalidate any subsequent acceptance or endorsement made thereon in British India.

Instrument made, &c., out of British India, but in accordance with its law.

133. The law of any foreign country regarding promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques shall be presumed to be the same as that of British India, unless and until the contrary is proved.

Presumption as to foreign law.

2. We have carefully considered the arguments urged on the one side by the learned Chief Justice of Bengal and the Bank of Bengal for the immediate application of the measure in its entirety to hundís, and, on the other side, by the Government of the Panjáb for the total exclusion of hundís from any part of the measure. We have come to the conclusion that the Bill should in this respect be left substantially as it stands. Admitting with the Chief Justice that one main principle of Indian codification is to reconcile and assimilate, as far as possible, the Native and European law on each subject, we would point out that this principle must be applied so as to produce as little friction as possible, and we feel assured that any sudden abolition of the numerous local usages (there is no general custom) as to hundís, uncertain and undefined as they often are, would cause much and justifiable dissatisfaction among Native bankers and merchants in certain parts of the country. But we believe that the effect of the Bill, if passed with a saving of the local usages in question, will be, not as the Chief Justice fears, to stereotype and perpetuate these usages, but to induce the Native mercantile community gradually to discard them for the corresponding rules contained in the Bill. The desirable uniformity of mercantile usage will thus be brought about without any risk of causing hardship to Native bankers and merchants. How long this change will take, it is of course impossible to prophesy. But the Bank of Bengal has supplied evidence that the Native usages as to negotiable paper have of recent years been greatly changing, and that the tendency is to assimilate them more and more to the European custom.

3. We do not share the apprehension of the Bank of Bengal that the [illegible] usages would result in large withdrawal of European capital [illegible] Bill simply states the have always been recognized by our Courts in all parts of India:* but the Bank itself admits that, for upwards of seventy years, its business in hundís has invariably been conducted according to the same laws and usages as apply to European bills, and that, with one exception (the alleged duty of the holder of a dishonoured hundí to exhaust the acceptor before having recourse to the drawer or endorser) Natives have made no difficulty about conforming to the Bank's requirements. It is, we understand, the practice of the Bank and, probably, of other large European purchasers of hundís to notify that they will not be bound by any local usage which contravenes the English law as to bills of exchange. Though the Bill should pass in its present form, this practice will remain legal and unaffected. It operates of course to bind only the seller to waive a defence which he might otherwise have made. But the other parties to the hundí are practically precluded from setting up any such usage by the knowledge that if they did so their credit would be destroyed by refusal of the Bank to buy hundís on which their names appear.

4. To exclude totally (as the Panjáb Government propose) hundís from any part of the Bill would be to render the proposed legislation to a great extent inoperative, and would probably result in withdrawal of the Bill. Considering the fact that the carrying on of the internal trade of India is becoming more and more dependent on English capital, and that the use in the Mufassal of bills in the English form is therefore largely increasing, we think that such withdrawal would be highly inexpedient. We are supported in this opinion by the fact that the Local Governments of Bengal, Bombay, the North-Western Provinces and Ajmer have all reported in favour of the Bill; that the Chambers of Commerce at Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, the Bank of Bombay, and the Calcutta Trades Association, have done the same; and that the Directors of the Bank of Bengal bear testimony as to the ability with which it was framed by Mr. Phillips.

5. Turning now to the details of the Bill, we have, in the first place, expressly saved the provisions of the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, section 21, which prohibits the issue of private bills or notes payable to bearer on demand.

6. We have struck out from section 16 the words "the whole or any part of," as they might have been taken to imply that there may be a special indorsement expressly directing payment of part of the amount mentioned in the instrument.

7. Section 21 was taken from the Law Commissioners' draft, and deals with a promissory note signed by two persons, and shewing that one of them subscribes only to an alternative liability. We think it very doubtful whether such an informal instrument is a promissory note at all, and for this and other reasons we have omitted the section.

8. We have also omitted section 33, as the matter appears to us to be sufficiently provided for by the Indian Contract Act; for the same reason we have omitted the first half of section 43.

9. We have omitted, as unlikely to be practically useful, sections 55 and 56, which provide for the delivery without indorsement, but with intent to transfer title, of bills payable to the order of a specified person or to a specified person or order.

10. We have omitted section 59, as the matter is sufficiently covered by the preceding section.

11. We do not think that the Bill should deal with collateral agreements, and have therefore struck out section 66.

12. We have amended the section (73, now 67) as to the drawee's term for deliberation. It now provides that the holder may allow the drawee twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept the Bill.

13. We think that, in order to charge the drawer of a cheque, the holder should only be bound to present it at the bank on which it is drawn before the relation between the drawer and the banker has been altered to the prejudice of the drawer. We have altered section 82 accordingly.

14. We have omitted from section 97 the explanation relating to material alterations.

15. We have made some changes in wording and arrangement.

16. The Bill No. III and the second report of the Select Committee have been published in English in all the local Gazettes except those for Assam and Rájputána. Publication of the Bill and report in the vernacular has been reported only by the Governments of Madras, Bengal and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces.

17. With the exception of our Hon'ble Colleague Mr. Morgan, we think that the Bill might now be passed as amended. Mr. Morgan would omit the clause saving local usages as to hundís. In other respects he approves of the Bill. We recommend that its further consideration be stayed until the new Law Commission has reported thereon. Meanwhile, we think the Bill, as now amended, should be published with this report in the Gazette of India.

CALCUTTA,
The 19th February, 1879.

Although I think that this Bill is, on the whole, a very good one, I cannot approve of the recognition which it accords to local usages relating to hundís. From a careful consideration of the papers which have been received with reference to the Bill, and from my own experience as regards the existing practice regarding hundís, I do not believe that there are any usages which call for special recognition at the hands of the legislature, and I think that the proposed recognition may put an arm into the hands of those who are dishonestly disposed, which they do not at present possess.

SCHEDULE.

No. IV.

A Bill to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques.

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Negotiable Instruments Act, 1879."

Local extent. It extends to the whole of British India; but nothing herein contained affects Saving of usages relating to hundís, &c. any local usage relating to any instrument in an oriental language or affects the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, section twenty-one:

Commencement. And it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1880.

Repeal of enactments. 2. On and from that day the enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column thereof.

Interpretation clause. 3. In this Act—

"Banker." "Banker" includes also persons or a corporation or company acting as bankers, and

"Notary Public." includes also any officer appointed by the Governor

"Notary Public." General in Council to perform the functions of a Notary Public under this Act.

CHAPTER II.

OF NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

Promissory Note. 4. A promissory note is an instrument in writing (not being a bank note or a currency note) containing an unconditional undertaking, signed by the maker, to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person, or to the bearer of the instrument.

Illustrations.

A signs instruments in the following terms:—

(a) "I promise to pay B or order Rs. 500."

(b) "I acknowledge myself to be indebted to B in Rs. 1,000 to be paid on demand, for value received."

(c) "Mr. B, I O U Rs. 1,000."

(d) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 and all other sums which shall be due to him."

(e) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500, first deducting thereout any money which he may owe me."

(f) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 seven days after my marriage with C."

(g) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 on D's death, provided D leaves me enough to pay that sum."

(h) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 and to deliver to him my black horse on 1st January next."

The instruments respectively marked (a), and (b) are promissory notes. The instruments respectively marked (c), (d), (e), (f), (g) and (h) are not promissory notes.

Bill of exchange. 5. A bill of exchange is an instrument in writing containing an unconditional order, signed by the maker, directing a certain person to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person or to the bearer of the instrument.

Cheque. 6. A cheque is a bill of exchange drawn on a specified banker and not expressed to be payable otherwise than on demand.

"Drawer." "Drawee." 7. The maker of a bill of exchange or cheque is called the "drawer;" the person thereby directed to pay is called the "drawee."

"Drawee in case of need." When the bill gives the name of any person in addition to the drawee to be resorted to in case of need, such person is called a "drawee in case of need."

"Acceptor." After the drawee of a bill has signed his assent upon the bill, or if there are more parts thereof than one, upon one of such parts, and delivered the same, or given notice of such signing to the holder or to some person on his behalf, he is called the "acceptor."

"Acceptor for honour." When acceptance is refused and the bill is protested for non-acceptance, and any person accepts it supra protest for honour of the drawer or of any one of the indorsers, such person is called an "acceptor for honour."

"Payee." The person named in the instrument, to whom or to whose order the money is by the instrument directed to be paid, is called the "payee."

"Holder." 8. The "holder" of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque means any person entitled in his own name to the possession thereof and to receive or recover the amount due thereon from the parties thereto.

Where the note, bill or cheque is lost or destroyed, its holder is the person so entitled at the time of such loss or destruction.

"Holder in due course." 9. "Holder in due course" means any person who became the possessor of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque if payable to bearer, or the payee or indorsee thereof, if payable to, or to the order of, a payee, for consideration before the amount mentioned in it became payable, and without having sufficient cause to believe that any defect existed in the title of the person from whom he derived his title.

"Payment in due course." 10. "Payment in due course" means payment in accordance with the apparent tenor of the instrument in good faith and without negligence to any person in possession thereof under circumstances which do not afford a reasonable ground for believing that he is not entitled to receive payment of the amount therein mentioned.

Inland instrument. 11. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque drawn or made in British India, and made payable in, or drawn upon any person resident in, British India shall be deemed to be an inland instrument.

Foreign instrument. 12. Any such instrument not so drawn, made or made payable shall be deemed to be a foreign instrument.

Negotiable instrument. 13. A "negotiable instrument" means a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque expressed to be payable to a specified person or his order, or to the order of a specified person, or to the bearer thereof, or to a specified person or the bearer thereof.

Negotiation. 14. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is transferred to any person, so as to constitute that person the holder thereof, the instrument is said to be negotiated.

Indorsement. 15. When the maker or holder of a negotiable instrument signs the same, otherwise than as such maker, for the purpose of negotiation, on the back or face thereof or, on a slip of paper annexed thereto, or so signs for the same purpose a stamped paper intended to be completed as a negotiable instrument, he is said to indorse the same, and is called the "indorser."

Indorsement "in blank" and "in full." 16. If the indorser signs his name only, the indorsement is said to be "in blank," and if he adds a direction to pay the amount mentioned in the instrument to, or to the order of, a specified person, the indorsement is said to be

"Indorsee." "in full;" and the person so specified is called the "indorsee" of the instrument.

Ambiguous instruments. 17. Where an instrument may be construed either as a promissory note or bill of exchange, the holder may at his election treat it as either, and the instrument shall be thenceforward treated accordingly.

CHAPTER III.

PARTIES TO NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

27. Every person capable of contracting, according to the law to which he is subject, may bind himself and be bound by the making, drawing, acceptance, indorsement, delivery and negotiation of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque.

Capacity to make, &c., promissory notes, &c.

A minor may draw, indorse, deliver and negotiate such instruments so as to bind all parties except himself.

Minor.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to empower a corporation to make, indorse or accept such instruments except in cases in which, under the law for the time being in force, they are so empowered.

28. Every person capable of binding himself or of being bound, as mentioned in section 27, may so bind himself or be bound by a duly authorized agent acting in his name.

Agency.

A general authority to transact business and to receive and discharge debts does not confer upon an agent the power of accepting or indorsing bills of exchange so as to bind his principal.

An authority to draw bills of exchange does not of itself import an authority to indorse.

29. An agent who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, without indicating thereon that he signs as agent, or that he does not intend thereby to incur personal responsibility, is liable personally on the instrument, except to those who induced him to sign upon the belief that the principal only would be held liable.

Liability of agent signing.

30. A legal representative of a deceased person who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, is liable personally thereon unless he expressly limits his liability to the extent of the assets received by him as such.

Liability of legal representative signing.

31. Where there are several drawees of a bill of exchange who are not partners, each of them can accept it for himself, but none of them can accept it for another without his authority.

Acceptance by several drawees not partners.

32. The drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque is bound, in case of dishonour by the drawee or acceptor thereof, to compensate the holder for any loss or damage caused thereby, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, the drawer as hereinafter provided.

Liability of drawer.

33. The drawee of a cheque having sufficient funds of the drawer in his hands properly applicable to the payment of such cheque, must pay the cheque when duly required so to do, and, in default of such payment, must compensate the drawer for any loss or damage caused by such default.

Liability of drawee of cheque.

34. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the maker of a promissory note and the acceptor before maturity of a bill of exchange, are bound to pay the amount thereof at maturity according to the apparent tenor of the note or acceptance respectively, and the acceptor of a bill of exchange at or after maturity is bound to pay the amount thereof to the holder on demand.

Liability of maker of note and acceptor of bill.

In default of such payment as aforesaid, such maker or acceptor is bound to compensate any party to the note or bill for any loss or damage sustained by him, and caused by such default.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 27, 29, 48, 49, 50, 62, 68, 72, 73 and 86.

35. No person except the drawee of a bill of exchange, or all or some of several joint drawees, or a person named therein as a drawee in case of need, or an acceptor for honour, can bind himself by an acceptance.

Only drawee can be acceptor except in need or for honour.

36. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, whoever indorses and delivers a negotiable instrument before maturity, without, in such indorsement, expressly excluding or making conditional his own liability, is bound thereby to every subsequent holder, in case of dishonour by the drawee, acceptor or maker, to compensate such holder for any loss or damage caused to him by such dishonour, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, such indorser as hereinafter provided.

Liability of indorser.

Every indorser after dishonour is liable as upon an instrument payable on demand.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 27, 29, 48, 49, 50, 59, 60, 62, 65, 66, 68, 72, 76, 86, 87, 88, 90, 91 and 101, clause (a).

37. Every prior party to a negotiable instrument is liable thereon to a holder in due course until the instrument is duly satisfied.

Liability of prior parties to holder in due course.

38. The maker of a promissory note or cheque, the drawer of a bill of exchange until acceptance, and the acceptor are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively liable thereon as principal debtors, and the other parties thereto are liable thereon as sureties for the maker, drawer or acceptor, as the case may be.

Maker, drawer and acceptor principals.

39. As between the parties so liable as sureties, each prior party is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, also liable thereon as a principal debtor in respect of each subsequent party.

Prior party a principal in respect of each subsequent party.

Illustration.

A draws a bill payable to his own order on B, who accepts. A afterwards indorses the bill to C, C to D, and D to E. As between E and B, B is the principal debtor, and A, C and D are his sureties. As between E and A, A is the principal debtor, and C and D are his sureties. As between E and C, C is the principal debtor and D is his surety.

40. When the holder of an accepted bill of exchange enters into any contract with the acceptor which under section 134 or 135 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, would discharge the other parties, the holder may expressly reserve his right to charge the other parties, and in such case they are not discharged.

Suretyship.

41. Where the holder of a negotiable instrument, without the consent of the indorser, destroys or impairs the indorser's remedy against a prior party, the indorser is discharged from liability to the holder to the same extent as if the instrument had been paid at maturity.

Discharge of indorser's liability.

Illustration.

A is the holder of a bill of exchange made payable to the order of B, which contains the following indorsements in blank:—

First indorsement, "B."
Second indorsement, "Peter Williams."
Third indorsement, "Wright and Co."
Fourth indorsement, "John Rozario."

This bill A puts in suit against John Rozario and strikes out, without John Rozario's consent, the indorsements by Peter Williams and Wright and Co. A is not entitled to recover anything from John Rozario.

42. No maker of a promissory note, and no drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque, and no acceptor of a bill of exchange for the honour of the drawer shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the validity of the instrument as originally made or drawn.

Estoppel against denying original validity of instrument.

43. No maker of a promissory note and no acceptor of a bill of exchange payable to, or to the order of, a specified person shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the payee's capacity, at the date of the note or bill, to indorse the same.

Estoppel against denying capacity of payee to indorse.

44. No indorser of a negotiable instrument shall, in a suit thereon by a subsequent holder, be permitted to deny the signature or capacity to contract of any prior party to the instrument.

Estoppel against denying signature or capacity of prior party.

45. An acceptor of a bill of exchange already indorsed is not relieved from liability by reason that such indorsement is forged, if he knew or had reason to believe the indorsement to be forged when he accepted the bill.

Acceptor bound, although indorsement forged.

46. An acceptor of a bill of exchange drawn in a fictitious name and payable to the drawer's order is not, by reason that such name is fictitious, relieved from liability to any holder in due course claiming under an indorsement by the same hand as the drawer's signature, and purporting to be made by the drawer.

Acceptance of bill drawn in fictitious name.

47. If at any time there has been consideration between any parties to a negotiable instrument for the making, drawing, acceptance, indorsement, negotiation or transfer thereof, the party receiving such consideration is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, liable upon the instrument to all subsequent parties thereto, and every subsequent holder is, as against him, a holder for consideration.

Party receiving consideration liable to subsequent parties.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 27, 49, 50, 59, 65, 66, 68, 72, 73, 76, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90 and 91.

Illustrations.

(a) A indorses a bill of exchange to B, at the request of C, for C's account with B. B is a holder of the bill for consideration, and if he indorses it as a present to D, D is a holder for consideration as against A.

(b) A, the holder of a negotiable instrument, indorses it in full to B, in the belief that B has done something which he has not done. B, for consideration proceeding from C, indorses the instrument in blank to C, and C indorses it to D. D strikes out C's indorsement. D is a holder of the instrument for consideration as against B.

48. When there was no consideration for the making, drawing, acceptance or indorsement of a negotiable instrument, or when the consideration has wholly failed, the maker, drawer, acceptor or indorser is not liable thereon to the party in whose favour the instrument was so made, drawn, accepted or indorsed, or to any party claiming through him, unless consideration was given by the claimant or by some party through whom he derives title. But the maker, drawer, acceptor or indorser is liable to compensate any subsequent party who, being liable on such instrument, pays the amount due thereon.

Party not liable to one from whom no consideration moved.

49. When the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque consisted of money, and was originally absent in part or has subsequently failed in part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

Partial absence or failure of money-consideration.

Explanation.—The drawer of a bill of exchange stands in immediate relation with the acceptor. The maker of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, stands in immediate relation with the payee, and the indorser with his indorsee. Other signers may by agreement stand in immediate relation with a holder.

Illustration.

A draws a bill on B for Rs. 500 payable to the order of A. B accepts the bill, but subsequently dishonours it by non-payment. A sues B on the bill. B proves that it was accepted for value as to Rs. 400, and as an accommodation to the plaintiff as to the residue. A can only recover Rs. 400.

50. Where a part of the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, though not consisting of money, is ascertainable in money without collateral enquiry, and there has been a failure of that part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

Partial failure of consideration not consisting of money.

CHAPTER IV.

OF NEGOTIATION.

51. Subject to the provisions of section 62, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by delivery thereof.

Negotiation by delivery.

Exception.—A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque delivered on condition that it is not to take effect except in a certain event is not negotiable (except in the hands of a holder for value without notice of the condition) unless such event happens.

Illustrations.

(a) A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer, delivers it to B's agent to keep for B. The instrument has been negotiated.

(b) A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer which is in the hands of A's banker, who is at the time the banker of B, directs the banker to transfer the instrument to B's credit in the banker's account with B. The banker does so, and accordingly now possesses the instrument as B's agent. The instrument has been negotiated, and B has become the holder of it.

52. Subject to the provisions of section 62, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to the order of a specified person, or to a specified person or order, is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

Negotiation by indorsement.

53. The holder of a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank may, without signing his own name, by writing above the indorser's signature a direction to pay to any other person as indorsee, convert the indorsement in blank into an indorsement in full; and the holder does not thereby incur the responsibility of an indorser.

Conversion of indorsement in blank into indorsement in full.

54. The indorsement of a negotiable instrument followed by delivery transfers to the indorsee the property therein with the right of further negotiation; but the indorsement may, by express words, restrict or exclude such right, or may merely constitute the indorsee an agent to indorse the instrument, or to receive its contents for the indorser, or for some other specified person.

Effect of indorsement.

Illustrations.

B signs the following indorsements on different negotiable instruments payable to bearer:—

(a) "Pay the contents to C only."

(b) "Pay C for my use."

(c) "Pay C or order for the account of B."

(d) "The within must be credited to C."

Who may negotiate.

Explanation.—Nothing in this section enables a maker or drawer to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is in lawful possession or is holder thereof; or enables a payee or indorsee to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is holder thereof.

Illustration.

A bill is drawn payable to A or order. A indorses it to B, the indorsement not containing the words "or order" or any equivalent words. B may negotiate the instrument.

56. The indorser of a negotiable instrument may, by express words in the indorsement, exclude his own liability thereon, or make such liability or the right of the indorsee to receive the amount due thereon, depend upon the happening of a specified event, although such event may never happen.

Where an indorser so excludes his liability and afterwards becomes the holder of the instrument, all intermediate indorsers are liable to him.

Illustrations.

(a.) The indorser of a negotiable instrument signs his name, adding the words—

"Without recourse."

Upon this indorsement he incurs no liability.

(b.) A is the payee and holder of a negotiable instrument. Excluding personal liability by an endorsement "without recourse," he transfers the instrument to B, and B indorses it to C, who indorses it to A. A is not only reinstated in his former rights, but has the rights of an indorsee against B and C.

57. A holder of a negotiable instrument who derives title from a holder in due course has the rights thereon of that holder in due course.

When a negotiable instrument has been lost, or has been obtained from any maker, acceptor or holder thereof by means of an offence or fraud, or for an unlawful consideration, no possessor or indorsee who claims through the person who found or so obtained the instrument is entitled to receive the amount due thereon from such maker, acceptor or holder, or from any party prior to such holder, unless such possessor or indorsee is, or some person through whom he claims was, a holder thereof in due course.

Instrument obtained by unlawful means or for unlawful consideration.

63. The holder of a negotiable instrument, who has acquired it after dishonour, whether by non-acceptance or non-payment, with notice thereof, or after maturity, has only, as against the other parties, the rights thereon of his transferor:

Accommodation note or bill.

Illustration.

The acceptor of a bill of exchange, when he accepted it deposited with the drawer certain goods as a collateral security for the payment of the bill, with power to the drawer to sell the goods and apply the proceeds in discharge of the bill if it were not paid at maturity. The bill not having been paid at maturity, the drawer sold the goods and retained the proceeds, but indorsed the bill to A. A's title is subject to the same objection as the drawer's title.

64. A negotiable instrument may be negotiated (except by the maker, drawee or acceptor after maturity) until payment or satisfaction thereof by the maker, drawee or acceptor at or after maturity, but not after such payment or satisfaction.

Instrument negotiable till payment or satisfaction.

CHAPTER V.

A bill of exchange payable after sight must, if no time or place is specified therein for presentment, be presented to the drawee thereof for acceptance, if he can, after reasonable search, be found, by a person entitled to demand acceptance, within a reasonable time after it is drawn, and in business hours on a business day. In default of such presentment, no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

Parties not consenting discharged by conditional or limited acceptance.

91. Save as provided in sections 20, 53, 90 and 120, any material alteration of a negotiable instrument renders the same void as against any one who is a party thereto at the time of making such alteration and does not consent thereto, unless it was made in order to carry out the common intention of the original parties; and any such alteration if made by an indorsee, discharges his indorser from all liability to him in respect of the consideration thereof.

Effect of material alteration.

Alteration by indorsee.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 20, 53, 90 and 120.

92. An acceptor or indorser of a negotiable instrument is bound by his acceptance or indorsement notwithstanding any previous alteration of the instrument.

Acceptor or indorser bound notwithstanding previous alteration.

93. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque has been materially altered, but does not appear to have been so altered,

Payment of instrument on which alteration is not apparent.

or where a cheque is presented for payment which does not at the time of presentation appear to be crossed or to have had a crossing which has been obliterated, payment thereof by a person or banker liable to pay and paying the same according to the apparent tenor thereof at the time of payment and otherwise in due course, shall discharge such person or banker from all liability thereon, and such payment shall not be questioned by reason of the instrument having been altered, or the cheque crossed.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF NOTICE OF DISHONOUR.

Dishonour by non-acceptance.

94. A bill of exchange is said to be dishonoured by non-acceptance when the drawee, or one of several drawees not being partners, makes default in acceptance upon being duly required to accept the bill.

Where the drawee is incompetent to contract the bill may be treated as dishonoured.

Dishonour by non-payment.

95. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is said to be dishonoured by non-payment when the maker of the note, acceptor of the bill, or drawee of the cheque makes default in payment upon being duly required to pay the same.

By and to whom notice should be given.

96. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder thereof, or some party thereto who remains liable thereon, must give notice that the instrument has been so dishonoured to all other parties whom the holder seeks to make severally liable thereon, and to some one of several parties whom he seeks to make jointly liable thereon.

Nothing in this section renders it necessary to give notice to the maker of the dishonoured promissory note, or the drawee or acceptor of the dishonoured bill of exchange or cheque.

Mode in which notice may be given.

97. Notice of dishonour may be given to a duly authorised agent of the person to whom it is required to be given, or, where he has died, to his legal representative, or, where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee; may be oral or written; may, if written, be sent by post; and may be in any form; but it must inform the party to whom it is given, either in express terms or by reasonable intendment, that the instrument has been dishonoured, and in what way, and that he will be held liable thereon; and it must be given within a reasonable time after dishonour, at the place of business, or (in case such party has no place of business) at the residence of the party for whom it is intended.

If the notice is sent by post and miscarries, such miscarriage does not render the notice invalid.

Party receiving must transmit notice of dishonour.

98. Any party receiving notice of dishonour must, in order to render any prior party liable to himself, transmit it to such party within a reasonable time, unless such party otherwise receives due notice as provided by section 96.

Agent for presentment.

99. When the instrument is deposited with an agent for presentment, the agent is entitled to the same time to give notice to his principal as if he were the holder giving notice of dishonour, and the principal is entitled to a further like period to give notice of dishonour.

When party to whom notice given is dead.

100. When the party to whom notice of dishonour is despatched is dead, but the party despatching the notice is ignorant of his death, the notice is sufficient.

When notice of dishonour is unnecessary.

101. No notice of dishonour is necessary—

(a) when it is dispensed with by the party entitled thereto;

(b) in order to charge the drawer, when he has countermanded payment;

(c) when the party charged could not suffer damage for want of notice;

(d) when the party entitled to notice cannot after due search be found; or the party bound to give notice is, for any other reason, unable without any fault of his own to give it;

(e) to charge the drawers, when the acceptor is also a drawer;

(f) in the case of a promissory note which is not negotiable;

(g) when the party entitled to notice, knowing the facts, promises unconditionally to pay the amount due on the instrument.

CHAPTER IX.

OF NOTING AND PROTEST.

Noting.

102. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may cause such dishonour to be noted by a notary public upon the instrument, or upon a paper attached thereto, or partly upon each.

Such note must be made within a reasonable time after dishonour, and must specify the date of dishonour, the reason, if any, assigned for such dishonour, or, if the instrument has not been expressly dishonoured, the reason why the holder treats it as dishonoured, and the notary's charges.

Protest.

103. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause such dishonour to be noted and certified by a notary public. Such certificate is called a protest, and in a suit upon the instrument, on proof of the protest, the Court shall presume the fact of dishonour, unless and until such fact is disproved.

When the acceptor of a bill of exchange has become insolvent, or his credit has been publicly impeached, before the maturity of the bill, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause a notary public to demand better security of the acceptor, and on its being refused may, within a reasonable time, cause such facts to be noted and certified as aforesaid. Such certificate is called a protest for better security.

Protest for better security.

Contents of protest.

104. A protest under section 103 must contain—

(a) either the instrument itself, or a literal transcript of the instrument and of everything written or printed thereupon;

(b) the name of the person for whom and against whom the instrument has been protested;

(c) a statement that payment or acceptance, or better security, as the case may be, has been demanded of such person by the notary public; the terms of his answer, if any, or a statement that he gave no answer, or that he could not be found;

(e) the subscription of the notary public making the protest;

(f) in the event of an acceptance for honour or of a payment for honour, the name of the person by whom, of the person for whom, and the manner in which, such acceptance or payment was offered and effected.

Notice of protest.

105. When a promissory note or bill of exchange is required by law to be protested, notice of such protest must be given instead of notice of dishonour, in the same manner and subject to the same conditions; but the notice may be given by the notary public who makes the protest.

Protest for non-payment after dishonour by non-acceptance.

106. All bills of exchange drawn payable at some other place than the place mentioned as the residence of the drawee, and which are dishonoured by non-acceptance, may, without further presentment to the drawee, be protested for non-payment, in the place specified for payment, unless paid before or at maturity.

CHAPTER X.

OF REASONABLE TIME.

Reasonable time.

107. In determining what is a reasonable time for presentment for acceptance or payment, for giving notice of dishonour and for noting, regard shall be had to the nature of the instrument and the usual course of dealing with respect to similar instruments; and in calculating such time, public holidays shall be excluded.

Reasonable time for presentment.

108. Presentment is made within a reasonable time, within the meaning of sections 65, 77 and 78, if it is made on the business day next after that on which the holder received the instrument referred to, or when there is no more delay than is occasioned by the residence of the parties to the instrument in different places.

Illustration.

A draws on B, resident at Calcutta, a bill of exchange in favour of C payable at sight, and sends it to C at Benares. C, the day after he receives it, indorses it to D, and despatches it to D at Calcutta. D, the day after he receives the bill, presents it for payment. The delay which has taken place in presenting the bill is not unreasonable.

Reasonable time of giving notice of dishonour.

109. If the holder and the party to whom notice of dishonour is given carry on business or live (as the case may be) in different places, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched by the next post or on the day next after the day of dishonour.

If the said parties carry on business or live in the same place, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched in time to reach its destination on the day next after the day of dishonour.

Reasonable time for transmitting such notice.

110. A party receiving notice of dishonour, who seeks to enforce his right against a prior party, transmits the notice within a reasonable time if he transmits it within the same time after its receipt as he would have had to give notice if he had been the holder.

CHAPTER XI.

OF ACCEPTANCE AND PAYMENT FOR HONOUR.

Acceptance for honour.

111. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-acceptance or for better security, any person may, with the consent of the holder, by writing on the bill, accept the same for the honour of any party thereto.

Acceptance not specifying for whose honour it is made.

112. Where the acceptance does not express for whose honour it is made, it shall be deemed to be made for the honour of the drawer.

Liability of acceptor for honour.

113. An acceptor for honour binds himself to all parties subsequent to the party for whose honour he accepts to pay the amount of the bill if the drawee do not; and such party and all prior parties are liable in their respective capacities to compensate the acceptor for honour for all loss or damage sustained by him in consequence of such acceptance.

But an acceptor for honour is not liable to the holder of the bill unless it is presented, or (in case the address given by such acceptor on the bill is a place other than the place where the bill is made payable) forwarded for presentment, not later than the day next after the day of its maturity.

When acceptor for honour may be charged.

Payment for honour.

115. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-payment, any person may pay the same for the honour of any party liable to pay the same, provided that the person so paying has previously declared before a notary public the party for whose honour he pays, and that such declaration has been recorded by such notary public.

Right of payer for honour.

116. Any person so paying is entitled to all the rights, in respect of the bill, of the holder at the time of such payment, and may recover from the party for whose honour he pays all sums so paid, with interest thereon and with all expenses properly incurred in making such payment.

CHAPTER XII.

OF COMPENSATION.

117. The compensation payable in case of dishonour of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, by any party liable to the holder or any indorsee, shall (except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532) be determined by the following rules :—

Rules as to compensation.

(a) The holder is entitled to the amount due upon the instrument, together with the expenses properly incurred in presenting, noting and protesting it;

(b) When the person charged resides at a place different from that at which the instrument was payable, the holder is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places;

(c) An indorser who, being liable, has paid the amount due on the same is entitled to the amount so paid with interest at six per centum per annum from the date of payment until tender or realization thereof, together with all expenses caused by the dishonour and payment;

(d) When the person charged and such indorser reside at different places, the indorser is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places;

(e) The party entitled to compensation may draw a bill upon the party liable to compensate him, payable at sight or on demand, for the amount due to him together with all expenses properly incurred by him. Such bill must be accompanied by the instrument dishonoured and the protest thereof (if any). If such bill is dishonoured, the party dishonouring the same is liable to make compensation thereof in the same manner as in the case of the original bill.

CHAPTER XIII.

OF CROSSED CHEQUES.

118. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the words "and company" or any abbreviation thereof, between two parallel transverse lines, or of two parallel transverse lines simply, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed generally.

Cheque crossed generally.

119. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the name of a banker, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed specially, and to be crossed to that banker.

Cheque crossed specially.

120. Where a cheque is uncrossed, the holder may cross it generally or specially.

Crossing after issue.

Where a cheque is crossed generally, the holder may cross it specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally or specially, the holder may add the words "not negotiable."

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker to whom it is crossed may again cross it specially to another banker, his agent, for collection.

121. Where a cheque is crossed generally, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to a banker.

Payment of cheque crossed generally.

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to the banker to whom it is crossed, or his agent for collection.

Payment of cheque crossed specially.

122. Where a cheque is crossed specially to more than one banker, except when crossed to an agent for the purpose of collection, the banker on whom it is drawn shall refuse payment thereof.

Payment of cheque crossed specially more than once.

123. Where the banker on whom a crossed cheque is drawn has paid the same in due course, the banker paying the cheque, and (in case such cheque has come to the hands of the payee) the drawer thereof, shall respectively be entitled to the same rights, and be placed in the same position in all respects, as they would respectively be entitled to and placed in if the amount of the cheque had been paid to and received by the true owner thereof.

Payment in due course of crossed cheque.

124. Any banker paying a cheque crossed generally otherwise than to a banker, or a cheque crossed specially otherwise than to the banker to whom the same is crossed, or his agent for collection, being a banker, shall be liable to the true owner of the cheque for any loss he may sustain owing to the cheque having been so paid.

Payment of crossed cheque out of due course.

125. A person taking a cheque crossed generally or specially, bearing in either case the words "not negotiable," shall not have, and shall not be capable of giving, a better title to the cheque than that which the person from whom he took it had.

Cheque bearing "not negotiable."

But a banker who has in good faith and without negligence received payment from a customer of a cheque crossed generally or specially to himself shall not, in case the title to the cheque proves defective, incur any liability to the true owner of the cheque by reason only of having received such payment.

CHAPTER XIV.

OF FOREIGN BILLS.

126. Foreign bills of exchange may be drawn in parts, each part being numbered and containing a provision that it shall continue payable only so long as the others remain unpaid. All the parts together make a set; but the whole set constitutes only one bill, and is extinguished when one of the parts, if a separate bill, would be extinguished.

Set of bills.

Exception.—When a person accepts or indorses different parts of the bill in favour of different persons, he is liable on each part as if it were a separate bill.

127. As between holders in due course of different parts of the same set, he who first acquired title to his part is entitled to the other parts and the money represented by the bill.

Holder of first acquired part entitled to all.

128. Where a drawee in case of need is named in a foreign bill of exchange, the bill is not dishonoured until dishonoured by such drawee.

Drawee in case of need.

129. Foreign bills of exchange must be protested for dishonour when such protest is required by the law of the place where they are drawn.

Protest of foreign bills.

CHAPTER XV.

OF INTERNATIONAL LAW.

130. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the liability of the maker or drawer of a foreign promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is regulated in all essential matters by the law of the place where he made the instrument, and the respective liabilities of the acceptor and indorser by the law of the place where the instrument is made payable.

Law governing liability of maker, acceptor or indorser of foreign instrument.

Illustrations.

A bill of exchange was drawn by A in California, where the rate of interest is 25 per cent., and accepted by B, payable in Washington, where the rate of interest is 6 per cent. The bill is endorsed in British India, and is dishonoured. An action on the bill is brought against B in British India. He is liable to pay interest at the rate of 6 per cent. only; but if A is charged as drawer, A is liable to pay interest at the rate of 25 per cent.

131. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is made payable in a different place from that in which it is made or indorsed, the law of the place where it is made payable determines what constitutes dishonour and what notice of dishonour is sufficient.

Law of place of payment governs dishonour.

Illustration.

A bill of exchange drawn and indorsed in British India, but accepted payable in France, is dishonoured. The indorsee causes it to be protested for such dishonour, and gives notice thereof in accordance with the law of France, though not in accordance with the rules herein contained in respect of bills which are not foreign. The notice is sufficient.

132. If a negotiable instrument is made, drawn, accepted or indorsed out of British India, but in accordance with the law of British India, the circumstance that any agreement evidenced by such instrument is invalid according to the law of the country wherein it was entered into, does not invalidate any subsequent acceptance or endorsement made thereon in British India.

Instrument made, &c., out of British India, but in accordance with its law.

133. The law of any foreign country regarding promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques shall be presumed to be the same as that of British India, unless and until the contrary is proved.

Presumption as to foreign law.

Fourth Note by the Hon'ble Whitley Stokes, dated 9th January, 1879.
Forms of instruments taken from a Bengálí book of forms received from Mr. O'Kinealy.

2. The principal objections taken to this Bill in its second form are, first, that, as a whole, it is heterogeneous, and, secondly, that certain parts of it are neither necessary nor expedient. It is said, for instance, that, though the bulk of the Bill deals with transfer of property inter vivos by act of parties, it also treats, in sections 82, 83, of conditions in Wills, and, in section 129, of Succession to a deceased person. It is said, again, that the chapters dealing respectively with the rights and liabilities of owners of limited interests and with property held by several persons belong rather to the subject of the enjoyment, than to that of the transfer, of property. It is urged that settlements (in the conveyancer's sense of the word) are hardly ever made in India, that what are technically called Powers are almost unknown, and that the chapters respectively dealing with those subjects are certainly not necessary and can hardly be said to be expedient. We feel the force of these objections. In fact, we have always felt them. But we were not responsible for the first draft of the Bill, whatever were its excellences or defects. The matters thus objected to, together with others, such as Registration and Trusts, still more foreign to the proper subject of the Bill, are all dealt with by the draft prepared by the late Indian Law Commission, which was sent out in 1870 by the then Secretary of State with instructions to introduce a Bill founded upon it, revised by Sir A. Hobhouse and sent home by the Government of India in January, 1877, i. e., nearly six months before the Bill was introduced and referred to a Select Committee. The great deference due to the Law Commission and to Sir A. Hobhouse has hitherto prevented us from dealing freely with the Bill. Until the opinions of the Local Governments and the results of local experience had been obtained, for us to have altered it would have been to set our individual views against those of the able and learned men who were answerable for the Bill as introduced. But now that the opinions and results above referred to have been obtained, we see that, if the Bill is to go on at all, it must be strictly confined to the subject of transfer of property by act of parties, that is to say, by contract or gift.

3. We have therefore omitted chapters VII to XII both inclusive.

4. We cannot maintain that they are in accordance with one of the canons laid down in our last report, namely, that no additions should be made to the existing law "which are not either necessary or clearly expedient." The chapters dealing respectively with settlements, the rights and liabilities of owners of limited interests, and property held by several persons, are, moreover, very incomplete; and, as Natives are excluded from chapter IX, it would apply to a very limited class of persons. Chapter XI (of Powers) would also be of little use. We believe that among Natives powers are almost unknown. So far as we are aware, the only reported cases in which anything like a power was given by a Native are in 2 Calc. 474, and N.-W. P. (1869) Part II, p. 6, in each of which cases a Hindú bequeathed land to his wife and expressly empowered her to alienate it, and in 5 Beng. 181, where a Hindú testator empowered his sister to appoint a trustee of a religious endowment. Moreover, powers may be created by will and are, as often as not, exercisable by will. The subject therefore does not properly fall within a measure treating of the transfer of property, that is, as lawyers generally understand the expression, the conveyance of property from one living person to another.

5. As the Bill is, so far as it deals with immoveable property and debts, only a partial measure, we have made the preamble run thus:—"Whereas it is expedient to define and amend certain parts of the law relating to the transfer of property by act of parties." Compare the preamble to the Indian Contract Act, IX of 1872.

CHAPTER I.—Preliminary.

6. In section 2, we have expressly saved all transfers by operation of law (e. g., in case of insolvency, forfeiture, sale in execution of a decree), with which the Bill is not intended to deal.

7. In section 3 we have omitted, as unnecessary, the definitions of "grantor," "grantee," and "grant;" and, for the last paragraph, we have said: "Chapters III, IV, V and VI of this Act shall be taken as part of the Indian Contract Act, 1872."

CHAPTER II.—Of Assurances of Immoveable Property.

8. This chapter should we think be entitled "Of Transfers of Immoveable Property," as it relates to all transfers of such property, whether or not an assurance is employed. We have omitted section 5 and the schedule to which it relates: they do not fitly form part of a Bill dealing with substantive law. Moreover, English experience shews that statutory forms of conveyances are rarely used, and they are dangerous, as tempting unskilled persons to try and be their own conveyancers.

9. Section 6 applies to transfers of immoveable property made by assurance; but it obviously ought to apply also to oral transfers of such property. We have therefore re-drawn it.

10 In section 7, we have provided for the case of a Sebáit, which has twice come before the Judicial Committee. (See 14 Beng. 450, and I. L. R. 2 Calc. 341).

11. As rents and profits of land are 'immoveable property,' we have, after this section, inserted section 1 of Act XI of 1855:—

"No person shall be chargeable with any rents or profits of any immoveable property which he has in good faith paid or delivered to any person of whom he in good faith held the same, notwithstanding it may afterwards appear that the person to whom such payment or delivery was made had no right to receive such rents or profits."

This section now applies only to cases to which the English law is applicable; but there seems no reason why so equitable and useful a rule should not be extended to every one in India.

12. Section 8 of Bill No. III applies not only to cases where land has passed inter vivos by act of parties, but also to cases in which it has been transferred by operation of law. It therefore seems beyond the scope of the Bill.

13. The Bill is silent as to the doctrine of lis pendens, which has in about a dozen reported cases been applied to Native purchasers and mortgagees (see 11 Bom. 24, 29, 30, 139; 8 Beng. 474; 1 O'Kin. 303, 309; 10 W. R. 469; Sev. 808, 951). We have inserted the following:—

"10. During the active prosecution in any Court having authority in British India or established beyond the limits of British India by the Governor General in Council, of a suit in which the right to any immoveable property is directly and specifically in question, the property cannot be transferred by any party to the suit so as to affect the rights of any other party thereto under any decree or order made therein."

14. Section 9 of Bill No. III (as to the effect of payment by one person, of consideration for which a transfer is made to another) properly belongs to the Trusts Bill and should, we think, be omitted from the present measure.

CHAPTER III.—Sales of Immoveable Property.

15. In accordance with a suggestion of Mr. Justice Cunningham we have prefixed to this chapter a section founded on section 78 of the Contract Act; but we do not think with him that the section should provide for part delivery, an expression which, in the sense in which it is used in the Contract Act, section 92, would be inappropriate as applied to land, nor do we consider that, in stating the time at which delivery takes place, the effect of executing and delivering the assurance should be ignored.

The section referred to is as follows:—

Sale how effected.

"Sale of immoveable property is effected by offer and acceptance of certain immoveable property for a price, or of a price for certain immoveable property,

"together with payment of the price and delivery of the property, or with tender, part-payment or earnest; or with an agreement, express or implied, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed.

"Where there is a contract for the sale of immoveable property, the ownership of the property passes to the buyer when the whole or part of the price, or when the earnest, is paid, or when the property is delivered.

"If the parties agree, expressly or by implication, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed, the ownership passes as soon as the proposal for sale is accepted.

"Delivery of immoveable property takes place—

"(a) if the transfer is made by assurance—when the assurance is executed and delivered by the seller, and (if its registration is required by law) registered:

"(b) if the transfer is not made by assurance, in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing—when the parties consent to its delivery, and in the case of other immoveable property—when the buyer becomes capable of exercising physical control over it and determines to exercise such control on his own behalf or on behalf of the person whom he represents."

This will have the effect of settling a moot point of Hindú law, namely, whether change of possession is necessary to complete a sale of land, whether, in other words, the vendor must, at the time of sale, be in possession of the property sold (I. L. R. 1 Calc. 302: I. L. R. 1 Bomb. 502: N. W. P. 1871, p. 2: contra 7 Bomb. A. C. J. 4: 10 Bomb. 491). This question is answered in the negative by the Calcutta High Court and Mr. J. D. Mayne, a considerable authority on Hindú law.

16. We have omitted clauses (d) and (i) of section 11 (now 12). The former is, as Mr. Jacob points out, provided for by the Contract Act, section 39; the latter by section 10 of the same Act. On the other hand, we have restored clauses (e) and (f) of Bill No. I, modified as follows:—

"Till the ownership of the property passes to the buyer, the seller is entitled to the rents and profits thereof.

"When the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, he must bear any loss arising from the destruction, injury or deterioration of the property not caused by the seller, and he is entitled to the benefit of any improvement in, or increase in value of, the property and to the rents and profits thereof."

The latter clause corresponds with the provision of the Contract Act, section 86, as to goods.

17. We have recast and abridged section 10 (now 13) as follows:—

Disclosures required from seller and buyer.

"The following omissions are fraudulent:—

"(a) an omission of the seller of immoveable property to disclose to the buyer any defect therein of which the seller is, and the buyer is not, aware, and which the buyer could not with ordinary care discover:

"(b) an omission of the buyer of immoveable property to disclose to the seller any fact as to the nature or extent of the seller's interest therein, of which the buyer is, and the seller is not, aware, and which increases the value of such interest."

This will attract section 17, clause (5), of the Contract Act, which declares that "fraud" includes "any such omission as the law specially declares to be fraudulent."

18. As the Bill is now strictly limited to transfers by act of parties, we have omitted section 13, as to the procedure where the buyer becomes insolvent before completion. For the same reason we have also omitted section 73, as to the procedure where, during the continuance of a lease, the lessee becomes insolvent.

19. Section 17 (now 18), as to joint purchases. We have added, as Mr. Field suggests: "In the absence of evidence as to the shares so advanced, such persons shall be presumed to be equally interested in the property."

CHAPTER IV.—Of Exchanges.

20. As this chapter deals with moveable as well as immoveable property, we have placed it after the chapter on leases and we have omitted the first paragraph of section 22 as the matter seems sufficiently provided for by Act IX of 1872, sections 64, 65, and Act I of 1867, sections 25, 37.

CHAPTER V.—Of Mortgages of Immoveable Property.

21. Section 27.—We fear that the abolition of equitable mortgages here proposed by the Law Commissioners would inconvenience the mercantile community. We have thought it better to say that a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds shall be deemed to create a charge on the property comprised therein and to insert the necessary clause in section 68 (now 63).

22. We have provided, in accordance with a suggestion of Mr. Field, that in the case of an usufructuary mortgage, the mortgagor may recover possession of the property, (1) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from the rents and profits of the property the principal and interest of the mortgage-money—when such principal and interest are so paid; (2) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from such rents and profits the interest of the mortgage-money—when the term (if any) of the mortgage expires and the mortgagor pays or tenders to the mortgagee, or deposits in such Court as last aforesaid, the principal of the mortgage-money."

23. Section 29 (now 24).—We have here declared the duty of a mortgagor to take all legal means to protect his rights in the mortgaged property (Macph. 112).

24. Section 31 (now 27).—This provided only for voluntary waste. We have now provided that the mortgagor is not liable for permissive waste.

25. Section 42 (now 39), clause (c).—We have added, in order to meet the case of patní tenures and saleable under-tenures, "and any arrears of rent in default of payment of which the property may be summarily sold."

We have provided that a mortgagee in possession ought to do such repairs as he can pay for out of the rents received after his interest is paid (see 9 W. R. 488).

We have omitted clause (e). The right which it gives is, as Mr. Field says, part of the mortgagee's right to take possession, which, as a general rule, finds no place in the Bill.

Where sufficient tender is made, the mortgagee in possession is thenceforth accountable for all his receipts from the mortgaged property (9 N.-W. P. 1: Macph. 159—160). We have provided for this.

26. Section 60 (now 57).—When a mortgagor obtains a decree in a redemption-suit and fails to pay the amount due, we think the mortgagee should be entitled either to a foreclosure or a sale. We have altered this section accordingly.

27. Section 61 (now 58).—We have omitted the second paragraph and the schedule to which it refers. It is hardly the function of a Bill codifying substantive law to give forms of decrees. They should, if necessary, be added to schedule IV of the Code of Civil Procedure.

CHAPTER VI.—Of Leases.

28. Section 70 (now 66).—We have substituted a section analogous to that above proposed as a substitute for section 10.

29. Section 71 (now 65).—We have struck out clauses (c) and (g). The former is superfluous, the latter is provided for by the Contract Act, sections 64 and 73.

Clause (l) now (j).—With reference to Couch, C. J.'s, decision in Koegler v. Yule, 5 Beng. 401, 416, we think this clause should run thus: "The lessee may use the property leased and its products (if any) as a reasonable owner would use them, but he must not use the property for a purpose other than that for which it was leased, or fell timber, open mines or quarries, or commit any other act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto." We have added "The prohibition in this clause does not apply to mines which were open when the lease was granted."—See 8 Chan. Div. 526.

Clause (q) now (o).—We have inserted words in the proviso to shew that the lessor's transferee is not entitled to arrears of rent due before the transfer.

Clause (r) now (p).—We have made (in accordance with a suggestion of the Government of the North-Western Provinces) the second paragraph to run thus: "Nothing in this clause shall be deemed to authorize a tenant having a right of occupancy, the farmer of an estate in respect of which default has been made in paying revenue, and the lessee of an estate under the management of a Court of Wards, to assign his interest as such tenant, farmer or lessee."

30. Section 76 (now 70).—We have completed the list of events on which a lease determines.

31. We have redrawn the clause as to waiver of forfeiture and notice. It is now numbered 71, 72.

32. We have inserted a section (74) as to the effect of surrender and forfeiture of a lease, on sub-lessees.

33. We have made some other comparatively unimportant omissions, additions and alterations in wording and arrangement. We have added on the margins references to the reported decisions of the Indian Courts and the Judicial Committee, which justify the rules contained in the Bill. It will be seen that but few of these rules are devoid of this valuable support. The assertion that the Bill would introduce a mass of new law into India must therefore be due to ignorance of the extent to which English law (under the name of justice, equity and good conscience) is actually administered to the Natives by the Anglo-Indian Courts. The object of the Bill, like that of all our Codes, is to strip our own law of all that is local and historical, and to mould the residue into a shape in which it would be suitable for an Indian population and could be easily administered by non-professional Judges. But the Bill will introduce hardly any new substantive law, and it will not (except in the case of the procedure relating to mortgages) displace any existing enactment. The rules, for instance, as to the relation of landlord and tenant contained in the local Acts, X of 1859, XVIII of 1873, XIX of 1868, XXVIII of 1868, Bengal Act VIII of 1869, and Madras Act VIII of 1865, will all remain untouched.

34. To the body of local usages and contractual incidents which in India, as in other countries, exists as to the transfer of land the tenderest care is shewn by the Bill. Not only is local usage expressly saved in sections 62, 65 and 68, but the effect of section 1, clause (a), will be to maintain intact the statutory force which the legislature has given to local usage in those two pays de coutumes the Panjáb and Oudh; and throughout India all the many incidents of a mortgage or a lease, which are not inconsistent with the provisions of the Bill, will remain wholly unaffected.

35. The Bill and preliminary report of the Select Committee have been published in English in the Presidency-towns, the Panjáb, the Central Provinces and British Burma. From the North-Western Provinces no report of publication has been received. Publication of the Bill and Report in the vernacular has been reported only by the Government of Bengal. We recommend that the Bill as now altered be published in the Gazette of India and sent to the various Local Governments for opinion. And we think that no further steps should be taken upon the Bill until it has been reported on by the new Indian Law Commission.

WHITLEY STOKES.
F. R. COCKERELL.

CALCUTTA;
The 19th February, 1879.

I concur in all the omissions and amendments made by the Committee and in their final recommendation; but I believe the Bill to be capable of further simplification and regret to notice the almost entire absence of illustrations.

T. H. THORNTON.

I have not had time to consider either the provisions of the Bill or the changes now made thoroughly; but I agree that the chapters on Powers, Settlements, &c., should be omitted, and think these omissions necessitate republication with a view to elicit fresh criticism to be laid before the new Commission.

I would modify the new section 10 by requiring a written instrument in all cases where the value of the property sold is Rs. 100 or upwards. This will involve registration and get rid of the inconvenience and anomaly which would arise from oral sales of valuable land with deferred possession and no registration. Subject to the above remarks, I approve of the additions now made to the Bill.

G. H. P. EVANS.

I concur in all the omissions and agree that there should be a further publication.

G. C. PAUL.

I am opposed to the republication of this Bill at the present time. I believe that there is a great deal still left in the Bill which it will be desirable to omit, as relating to matters on which legislation is not called for; and I think that there should be no further publication until the Law Commission have reported on the measure.

A. J. ARBUTHNOT.

I am inclined to think that there can be no harm in republishing the Bill in its present form (though I must say that I believe it admits of further improvement), inasmuch as the republication will elicit public criticisms which may be of some use to the Law Commission.

CHAPTER II.

OF TRANSFERS OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

Bill, s. 4: Report, s. 4.

5. Every person competent to contract may make a transfer of immoveable property: but subject to the law for the time being in force as to the circumstances and extent in and to which he may dispose of such property.

Persons competent to make transfers of immoveable property.

Bill, s. 10: Report, s. 10. v. last clause, Report, s. 6: 2 W. R. 125 (buildings): 14 W. R. 379.

6. Unless a different intention is expressed or necessarily implied, a transfer of immoveable property vests in the transferee all the interest which the transferor is then capable of passing therein and in the legal incidents thereof.

Operation of transfer.

Such incidents include (where the property is land) the easements annexed thereto, the mines and minerals thereunder, and the standing trees, and all other products of the soil, and (where the property is a house) the easements annexed thereto and its locks, keys, bars, doors, windows, pankhas, half-doors, mats and blinds.

N.-W.P. 1870, p. 251: 24 W. R. 330 (trees 'everything grown on it,' Morley, N. S. 259).

9 Moo. I. A. 303.

7. The transferor of immoveable property cannot give to another a title thereto better than his own, and where he has only a restricted power of alienating the property, he cannot give to another a title thereto valid as against third parties, except upon an alienation within the restriction:

Title which transferor of immoveable property can give.

Provided that where the transferor is (a) the manager of the property of a minor, an undivided family, or an endowed temple, (b) a sonless Hindú widow in possession of her deceased husband's property, or (c) a trustee, benámídár or other ostensible owner, the transferee's title shall not be impeached if the transfer has been made for a consideration and the transferee has acted in good faith and used due care and diligence to ascertain that the transferor had power to make the transfer.

Protection to innocent transferees for value.

Act XI of 1859.

8. No person shall be chargeable with any rents or profits of any immoveable property which he has in good faith paid or delivered to any person of whom he in good faith held the same, notwithstanding it may afterwards appear that the person to whom such payment or delivery was made had no right to receive such rents or profits.

Rent bonâ fide paid to holder under defective title.

9. Where undivided immoveable property is held in possession by co-owners and one of them transfers his share or any interest therein, the transferee takes the share or interest subject to the right of the other co-owners to enforce a partition of the property; and when such partition is effected, the right of the transferee as such, in the absence of a contract to the contrary by the co-owners, extends only to the share allotted to himself or to his transferor.

Transfer of share of undivided property.

10. During the active prosecution in any Court having authority in British India, or established beyond the limits of British India by the Governor General in Council, of a suit in which the right to any immoveable property is directly and specifically in question, the property cannot be transferred by any party to the suit so as to affect the rights of any other party thereto under any decree or order therein.

Transfer of property pending suit relating thereto.

CHAPTER III.

OF SALES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

Delivery not necessary in case of Hindús, 14 Beng. 307: 1 Bom. 5, 19. Effect of part-payment, N.-W. P. 1866, p. 161: 15 W. R. 44: in Muhammadan law: Effect of earnest, W. R. 1864, 281: 1 Bom. 403. Cf. Act IX of 1872, s. 78, as to goods: postponement of payment, 7 W. R. 317. Effect of delivery before payment, 10 W. R. 194.

11. Sale of immoveable property is effected by offer and acceptance of certain immoveable property for a price, or of a price for certain immoveable property,

Sale how effected.

together with payment of the price and delivery of the property, or with tender, part-payment or earnest; or with an agreement, express or implied, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed.

Where there is a contract for the sale of immoveable property, the ownership of the property passes to the buyer when the whole or part of the price, or when the earnest, is paid, or when the property is delivered.

If the parties agree, expressly or by implication, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed, the ownership passes as soon as the proposal for sale is accepted.

Delivery of immoveable property takes place—

14 Beng. 307, 312: N.-W. P. 1866, p. 87. Consider 12 W. R. P. C. 6: as to delivery of assurance, W. R. 1864, p. 222: 5 W. R. 248: Finley N. S. 358. Right to redeem, N.-W. P. 1868, p. 376.

(a) if the transfer is made by assurance—when the assurance is executed and delivered by the seller, and (if its registration is required by law) registered:

(b) if the transfer is not made by assurance, in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing—when the parties consent to the delivery, and in the case of other immoveable property—when the buyer becomes capable of exercising physical control over it and determines to exercise such control on his own behalf or on behalf of the person whom he represents.

Bill, s. 11: Bill II, s. 11: Report, s. 14.

12. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the buyer and the seller of immoveable property respectively have the rights, and are subject to the liabilities, mentioned in the ten rules next following, or such of them as are applicable to the property sold:

Rights and liabilities of buyer and seller.

(a). The seller must produce to the buyer, for examination, all documents of title relating to the property which are in his possession or power, and must inform the buyer of all facts not apparent thereon of which the seller is aware and which affect the seller's power to fulfil his contract, and must answer to the best of his information all relevant questions put to him by the buyer in respect to the property or the title thereto.

Devsí Ghelá v. Jivanráj Mukundás, 2 Bom. 432 (no right to have good title shewn). Abstract of title, 1 Bom. 78.

(b). Till the ownership of the property passes to the buyer, the seller is entitled to the rents and profits thereof.

Bill, 11 (c).

(c). When the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, he must bear any loss arising from the destruction, injury or decrease in value of the property not caused by the seller, and he is entitled to the benefit of any improvement in, or increase in value of, the property, and to the rents and profits thereof.

Cf. Act IX of 1872, s. 86. Bill, 11 (f).

(d). When the buyer has been let into possession of the property before payment of the whole of the purchase-money, the seller has a charge upon the property for the amount of the purchase-money, or any part thereof, remaining unpaid, and for interest on such amount or part; but as soon as the assurance, if any, is registered, such charge shall cease except as against the buyer.

3 Bom. A. C. J. 102: 2 Hay 577.

(e). Unless the buyer has improperly declined to accept delivery of the property, he has, against the seller, a charge on the property, to the extent of the seller's interest therein, for the amount of any purchase-money properly paid by the buyer in anticipation of the delivery, and for interest on the amount of such payment; and, when the buyer properly declines to accept the delivery, also for the earnest (if any) and for his costs (if any) of a suit by himself or the seller to compel specific performance of the contract or to obtain a decree for its rescission.

3 Beng. O. C. J. 79.

(f). When the buyer has been let into beneficial possession of the property before payment of the price, and the price is not paid owing to defects in the seller's title, the buyer is not liable to pay for such possession.

(g). The seller must discharge all incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the contract. The buyer may retain, out of the unpaid purchase-money, the amount of such incumbrances, and shall pay the amount so retained to the parties entitled thereto.

(h). On payment or tender of the amount due in respect of the price, the seller is bound to execute a proper assurance of the property when the buyer tenders it to him for execution at a proper time and place.

(i). On delivery of the property, the buyer is entitled to all documents of title relating thereto which are in the seller's possession or power

Provided that (1) where the seller retains any part of the property comprised in such documents, he is entitled to retain them all, and (2) where the whole of such property is sold to different buyers, the buyer of the lot of greatest value is entitled to such documents. But in case (1) the seller, and in case (2) the buyer of the lot of greatest value, is bound, upon every reasonable request by the buyer, or by any of the other buyers, as the case may be, or by any person claiming under him, and at the cost of the person making the request, to produce the said documents and furnish such true copies thereof as he may require; and, in the meantime, the seller or the buyer, as the case may be, of the lot of greatest value, must keep the said documents safe, uncancelled and undefaced, unless prevented from so doing by fire or other inevitable accident.

Bill, s. 41 (1) altered. N. W. P. 1867, p. 199: See 7 W. R. 196: 6 W. R. 152: 25 W. R. 46.

(j). Unless the sale is made by a person in a fiduciary character, the seller shall be deemed to contract with the buyer,

secondly, that the seller and all persons claiming any interest in the same through or for him, or any person through whom he claims, will on demand execute and deliver to the buyer at his expense any further assurance of the same that may reasonably be required;

further assurance, 5 W. R. P. C. 111.

and, where the property is leasehold, thirdly, that the lease is valid and subsisting and that the rent reserved thereby, the conditions contained therein and the contracts binding on the lessee have been paid, performed and observed down to the delivery.

When the sale is made by a person in a fiduciary character, the seller shall be deemed to contract with the buyer that the seller has done no act whereby the property is incumbered or whereby he is hindered from transferring it.

Bill II, s. 10.

Disclosures required from seller and buyer.

13. The following omissions are fraudulent:—

7 W. R., 258. Cf. Act IX of 1872, ss. 17, clause (5), 19.

(a) an omission of the seller of immoveable property to disclose to the buyer any defect therein of which the seller is, and the buyer is not, aware, and which the buyer could not with ordinary care discover:

CHAPTER IV.

OF MORTGAGES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY AND CHARGES.

Bill II, s. 25: Bill, s. 14: Act XXVIII of 1866, s. 19: Mortgagor need not have present ownership, N.-W. P. 1872, p. 11. Macph. 4. Fulton 36. Purchaser of right of redemption, 11 Bom. 41.

21. When, for the purpose of securing money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan or an existing or future debt, or the performance of an engagement, one person transfers to another a right over specific immoveable property, the transfer is called a mortgage of immoveable property, the transferor is called a mortgagor, the transferee a mortgagee, the money of which payment is secured is called the mortgage-money, and the assurance by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

Mortgage, mortgagor and mortgagee defined.

For the purposes of this chapter, any person entitled as heir, legatee, assignee, lessee or otherwise than as a mortgagee to the interest of the transferor in the property subject to the mortgage, or any part of such interest, is a mortgagor; and any person entitled as heir, legatee, assignee or otherwise to the interest of the transferee under the mortgage, or any part thereof, is a mortgagee.

5 Beng. 393: 5 W. R. 230.

Where the mortgagor transfers the property to the mortgagee with a proviso that, upon payment of the mortgage-money at a certain date, the property shall be retransferred, the transaction is called a mortgage in the English form.

English mortgage.

Macph. 8, 12, 59: R. B. Ghose, 218, 219: 1 Moo. I. A. 487.

Where the mortgagor delivers possession of the property to the mortgagee, and authorizes him to retain such possession and to pay himself from the rents and profits of the property the interest, or the mortgage-money and interest, or to take such rents and profits in lieu of interest, or of the mortgage-money and interest, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage.

Usufructuary mortgage.

Macph. 10, 12.

Where the mortgagor binds himself personally to repay the mortgage-money, and pledges the property as collateral security for the repayment, but does not contract that, on default of payment of the mortgage-money and interest at a certain date, the property shall pass to the mortgagee, the transaction is called a simple mortgage.

Simple mortgage.

Macph. 11, 12.

Where the mortgagor not so binding himself, contracts that, on default of payment of the mortgage-money and interest at a certain date, the property shall pass to the mortgagee, the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale.

Mortgage by conditional sale.

Bill II, s. 26: See Macph. 53: R. B. Ghose 64.

22. A mortgage can be effected only by assurance signed by the mortgagor and attested by at least two witnesses.

Mortgage to be by assurance.

Rights and Liabilities of Mortgagor.

Right of mortgagor to redeem, tender or deposit.

23. A mortgagor has the following rights as against the mortgagee:— Bill II, s. 28: Bill, s. 15: 5 Beng. 450: 6 Beng. 562: 2 Mad. 420: 7 Mad. 395: In Cen. Provs. 13 Beng. 205.

(a) at any time after the mortgage-money has become payable, or has been paid, the mortgagor has a right on payment or tender, at a proper time and place, of the mortgage-money and interest remaining due on the mortgage, to require the mortgagee to re-transfer the mortgaged property to him, or to execute an acknowledgment in writing that any right in derogation of his ownership or other interest transferred to the mortgagee has been extinguished: N.-W. P. 1868, p. 204: Bomb. 287, no redemption before expiration of period named. Redemption after fixed time has expired, 9 Bomb. 60, see 7 Ben. 136 (P. C.). English practice followed, with necessary modifications, in case of defendant Parsi, 5 Bom. A. C. J. 109.

Provided that the mortgagee has not obtained an order absolute foreclosing such right, or that such right has not been after the date of the mortgage released or otherwise extinguished, or that the property has not been duly sold in pursuance of a decree or under a power given by the mortgage-deed. 6 Bom. A. C. J. 365: N.-W. P. 1869, p. 128.

The right conferred by this clause is called a right to redeem and a suit to enforce it is called a suit for redemption:

(b) at any time after the mortgage-money has become payable and before such suit is barred, the mortgagor may deposit in any Court in which he might have instituted a suit for redemption of the mortgaged property, to the account of the mortgagee, the mortgage-money and interest remaining due on the mortgage: Beng. Reg. I of 1798, s. 2: Macph. 171.

(c) in the case of an usufructuary mortgage, he may recover possession of the property (1) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from the rents and profits of the property the mortgage-money and interest thereof,—when such money and interest are so paid, (2) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from such rents and profits the interest of the mortgage-money,—when the term (if any) of the mortgage expires and the mortgagor pays or tenders to the mortgagee the mortgage-money, or deposits it in such Court as last aforesaid.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize a person interested in part only of the mortgaged property to institute a suit for the redemption of his own part only, on payment of a proportionate part of the amount remaining due on the mortgage, except where there is but one mortgagee and the mortgagor's interest in part of the property becomes vested in such mortgagee, in which case the person so interested may institute such suit. first, that the mortgagor has power to grant the mortgaged property to the mortgagee, free from incumbrances;

secondly, that the mortgagor will take all legal means to protect his rights in the property:

Effect of forfeiture of lease, N.-W. P. 1869, p. 128.

and, where the property is leasehold, fourthly, that the lease is valid and subsisting, that the rent reserved thereby, the conditions contained therein, and the contracts binding on the lessee have been paid, performed and observed down to the execution of the mortgage-deed; and that the mortgagor will, so long as the security exists, pay the rent reserved by the lease, perform the conditions contained therein and observe the contracts binding on the lessee and indemnify the mortgagee against all claims sustained by reason of the non-payment of the said rent or the non-performance or non-observance of the said conditions and contracts.

10 Bomb. 369: 11 Bomb. 32.

25. If after the date of the mortgage any accession is made to the mortgaged property, the mortgagor, upon redemption, shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, and subject to the law relating to alluvion for the time being in force, be entitled to such accession.

Waste by mortgagor in possession.

Macph. 209. R. B. Ghose 147.

28. A mortgagor proposing to make a second or other subsequent mortgage of the mortgaged property shall, before effecting the mortgage, give the second or other subsequent mortgagee notice in writing under his hand of the prior mortgage or mortgages, and a mortgagor effecting a second or other subsequent mortgage of the mortgaged property shall, as soon as may be, give the prior mortgagees or mortgagee like notice of such mortgage.

Notice to mesne incumbrancers.

Right to redeem one of two properties separately mortgaged.

2. We have carefully considered the arguments urged on the one side by the learned Chief Justice of Bengal and the Bank of Bengal for the immediate application of the measure in its entirety to hundís, and, on the other side, by the Government of the Panjáb for the total exclusion of hundís from any part of the measure. We have come to the conclusion that the Bill should in this respect be left substantially as it stands. Admitting with the Chief Justice that one main principle of Indian codification is to reconcile and assimilate, as far as possible, the Native and European law on each subject, we would point out that this principle must be applied so as to produce as little friction as possible, and we feel assured that any sudden abolition of the numerous local usages (there is no general custom) as to hundís, uncertain and undefined as they often are, would cause much and justifiable dissatisfaction among Native bankers and merchants in certain parts of the country. But we believe that the effect of the Bill, if passed with a saving of the local usages in question, will be, not as the Chief Justice fears, to stereotype and perpetuate these usages, but to induce the Native mercantile community gradually to discard them for the corresponding rules contained in the Bill. The desirable uniformity of mercantile usage will thus be brought about without any risk of causing hardship to Native bankers and merchants. How long this change will take, it is of course impossible to prophesy. But the Bank of Bengal has supplied evidence that the Native usages as to negotiable paper have of recent years been greatly changing, and that the tendency is to assimilate them more and more to the European custom.

3. We do not share the apprehension of the Bank of Bengal that the recognition of Native usages would result in large withdrawal of European capital from operations in Native bills. For in this respect the Bill simply states the law as it stands. Such usages are now and have always been recognized by our Courts in all parts of India:* but the Bank itself admits that, for upwards of seventy years, its business in hundís has invariably been conducted according to the same laws and usages as apply to European bills, and that, with one exception (the alleged duty of the holder of a dishonoured hundí to exhaust the acceptor before having recourse to the drawer or endorser) Natives have made no difficulty about conforming to the Bank's requirements. It is, we understand, the practice of the Bank and, probably, of other large European purchasers of hundís to notify that they will not be bound by any local usage which contravenes the English law as to bills of exchange. Though the Bill should pass in its present form, this practice will remain legal and unaffected. It operates of course to bind only the seller to waive a defence which he might otherwise have made. But the other parties to the hundí are practically precluded from setting up any such usage by the knowledge that if they did so their credit would be destroyed by refusal of the Bank to buy hundís on which their names appear.

4. To exclude totally (as the Panjáb Government propose) hundís from any part of the Bill would be to render the proposed legislation to a great extent inoperative, and would probably result in withdrawal of the Bill. Considering the fact that the carrying on of the internal trade of India is becoming more and more dependent on English capital, and that the use in the Mufassal of bills in the English form is therefore largely increasing, we think that such withdrawal would be highly inexpedient. We are supported in this opinion by the fact that the Local Governments of Bengal, Bombay, the North-Western Provinces and Ajmer have all reported in favour of the Bill; that the Chambers of Commerce at Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, the Bank of Bombay, and the Calcutta Trades Association, have done the same; and that the Directors of the Bank of Bengal bear testimony as to the ability with which it was framed by Mr. Phillips.

5. Turning now to the details of the Bill, we have, in the first place, expressly saved the provisions of the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, section 21, which prohibits the issue of private bills or notes payable to bearer on demand.

6. We have struck out from section 16 the words "the whole or any part of," as they might have been taken to imply that there may be a special indorsement expressly directing payment of part of the amount mentioned in the instrument.

7. Section 21 was taken from the Law Commissioners' draft, and deals with a promissory note signed by two persons, and shewing that one of them subscribes only to an alternative liability. We think it very doubtful whether such an informal instrument is a promissory note at all, and for this and other reasons we have omitted the section.

8. We have also omitted section 63, as the matter appears to us to be sufficiently provided for by the Indian Contract Act; for the same reason we have omitted the first half of section 43.

9. We have omitted, as unlikely to be practically useful, sections 55 and 56, which provide for the delivery without indorsement, but with intent to transfer title, of bills payable to the order of a specified person or to a specified person or order.

10. We have omitted section 59, as the matter is sufficiently covered by the preceding section.

11. We do not think that the Bill should deal with collateral agreements, and have therefore struck out section 66.

12. We have amended the section (73, now 67) as to the drawee's term for deliberation. It now provides that the holder may allow the drawee twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept the Bill.

13. We think that, in order to charge the drawer of a cheque, the holder should only be bound to present it at the bank on which it is drawn before the relation between the drawer and the banker has been altered to the prejudice of the drawer. We have altered section 82 accordingly.

14. We have omitted from section 97 the explanation relating to material alterations.

15. We have made some changes in wording and arrangement.

16. The Bill No. III and the second report of the Select Committee have been published in English in all the local Gazettes except those for Assam and Rájputána. Publication of the Bill and report in the vernacular has been reported only by the Governments of Madras, Bengal and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and the Chief Commissioner of the Central Provinces.

17. With the exception of our Hon'ble Colleague Mr. Morgan, we think that the Bill might now be passed as amended. Mr. Morgan would omit the clause saving local usages as to hundís. In other respects he approves of the Bill. We recommend that its further consideration be stayed until the new Law Commission has reported thereon. Meanwhile, we think the Bill, as now amended, should be published with this report in the Gazette of India.

CALCUTTA,
The 19th February, 1879.

Although I think that this Bill is, on the whole, a very good one, I cannot approve of the recognition which it accords to local usages relating to hundís. From a careful consideration of the papers which have been received with reference to the Bill, and from my own experience as regards the existing practice regarding hundís, I do not believe that there are any usages which call for special recognition at the hands of the legislature, and I think that the proposed recognition may put an arm into the hands of those who are dishonestly disposed, which they do not at present possess.

CHAPTER III.

PARTIES TO NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

27. Every person capable of contracting, according to the law to which he is subject, may bind himself and be bound by the making, drawing, acceptance, indorsement, delivery and negotiation of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque.

Capacity to make, &c., promissory notes, &c.

A minor may draw, indorse, deliver and negotiate such instruments so as to bind all parties except himself.

Minor.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to empower a corporation to make, indorse or accept such instruments except in cases in which, under the law for the time being in force, they are so empowered.

28. Every person capable of binding himself or of being bound, as mentioned in section 27, may so bind himself or be bound by a duly authorized agent acting in his name.

Agency.

A general authority to transact business and to receive and discharge debts does not confer upon an agent the power of accepting or indorsing bills of exchange so as to bind his principal.

An authority to draw bills of exchange does not of itself import an authority to indorse.

29. An agent who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, without indicating thereon that he signs as agent, or that he does not intend thereby to incur personal responsibility, is liable personally on the instrument, except to those who induced him to sign upon the belief that the principal only would be held liable.

Liability of agent signing.

30. A legal representative of a deceased person who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, is liable personally thereon unless he expressly limits his liability to the extent of the assets received by him as such.

Liability of legal representative signing.

31. Where there are several drawees of a bill of exchange who are not partners, each of them can accept it for himself, but none of them can accept it for another without his authority.

Acceptance by several drawees not partners.

32. The drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque is bound, in case of dishonour by the drawee or acceptor thereof, to compensate the holder for any loss or damage caused thereby, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, the drawer as hereinafter provided.

Liability of drawer.

33. The drawee of a cheque having sufficient funds of the drawer in his hands properly applicable to the payment of such cheque, must pay the cheque when duly required so to do, and, in default of such payment, must compensate the drawer for any loss or damage caused by such default.

Liability of drawee of cheque.

34. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the maker of a promissory note and the acceptor before maturity of a bill of exchange, are bound to pay the amount thereof at maturity according to the apparent tenor of the note or acceptance respectively, and the acceptor of a bill of exchange at or after maturity is bound to pay the amount thereof to the holder on demand.

Liability of maker of note and acceptor of bill.

In default of such payment as aforesaid, such maker or acceptor is bound to compensate any party to the note or bill for any loss or damage sustained by him, and caused by such default.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 27, 29, 48, 49, 50, 62, 68, 72, 73 and 86.

35. No person except the drawee of a bill of exchange, or all or some of several joint drawees, or a person named therein as a drawee in case of need, or an acceptor for honour, can bind himself by an acceptance.

Only drawee can be acceptor except in case of need or for honour.

36. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, whoever indorses and delivers a negotiable instrument before maturity, without, in such indorsement, expressly excluding or making conditional his own liability, is bound thereby to every subsequent holder, in case of dishonour by the drawee, acceptor or maker, to compensate such holder for any loss or damage caused to him by such dishonour, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, such indorser as hereinafter provided.

Liability of indorser.

Every indorser after dishonour is liable as upon an instrument payable on demand.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 27, 29, 48, 49, 50, 59, 60, 62, 65, 66, 68, 72, 76, 86, 87, 88, 90, 91 and 101, clause (a).

37. Every prior party to a negotiable instrument is liable thereon to a holder in due course until the instrument is duly satisfied.

Liability of prior parties to holder in due course.

38. The maker of a promissory note or cheque, the drawer of a bill of exchange until acceptance, and the acceptor are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively liable thereon as principal debtors, and the other parties thereto are liable thereon as sureties for the maker, drawer or acceptor, as the case may be.

Maker, drawer and acceptor principals.

39. As between the parties so liable as sureties, each prior party is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, also liable thereon as a principal debtor in respect of each subsequent party.

Prior party a principal in respect of each subsequent party.

Illustration.

A draws a bill payable to his own order on B, who accepts. A afterwards indorses the bill to C, C to D, and D to E. As between E and B, B is the principal debtor, and A, C and D are his sureties. As between E and A, A is the principal debtor, and C and D are his sureties. As between E and C, C is the principal debtor and D is his surety.

40. When the holder of an accepted bill of exchange enters into any contract with the acceptor which under section 134 or 135 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, would discharge the other parties, the holder may expressly reserve his right to charge the other parties, and in such case they are not discharged.

Suretyship.

41. Where the holder of a negotiable instrument, without the consent of the indorser, destroys or impairs the indorser's remedy against a prior party, the indorser is discharged from liability to the holder to the same extent as if the instrument had been paid at maturity.

Discharge of indorser's liability.

Illustration.

A is the holder of a bill of exchange made payable to the order of B, which contains the following indorsements in blank:—

First indorsement, "B."
Second indorsement, "Peter Williams."
Third indorsement, "Wright and Co."
Fourth indorsement, "John Rozario."

This bill A puts in suit against John Rozario and strikes out, without John Rozario's consent, the indorsements by Peter Williams and Wright and Co. A is not entitled to recover anything from John Rozario.

42. No maker of a promissory note, and no drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque, and no acceptor of a bill of exchange for the honour of the drawer shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the validity of the instrument as originally made or drawn.

Estoppel against denying original validity of instrument.

43. No maker of a promissory note and no acceptor of a bill of exchange payable to, or to the order of, a specified person shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the payee's capacity, at the date of the note or bill, to indorse the same.

Estoppel against denying capacity of payee to indorse.

44. No indorser of a negotiable instrument shall, in a suit thereon by a subsequent holder, be permitted to deny the signature or capacity to contract of any prior party to the instrument.

Estoppel against denying signature or capacity of prior party.

45. An acceptor of a bill of exchange already indorsed is not relieved from liability by reason that such indorsement is forged, if he knew or had reason to believe the indorsement to be forged when he accepted the bill.

Acceptor bound, although indorsement forged.

46. An acceptor of a bill of exchange drawn in a fictitious name and payable to the drawer's order is not, by reason that such name is fictitious, relieved from liability to any holder in due course claiming under an indorsement by the same hand as the drawer's signature, and purporting to be made by the drawer.

Acceptance of bill drawn in fictitious name.

47. If at any time there has been consideration between any parties to a negotiable instrument for the making, drawing, acceptance, indorsement, negotiation or transfer thereof, the party receiving such consideration is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, liable upon the instrument to all subsequent parties thereto, and every subsequent holder is, as against him, a holder for consideration.

Party receiving consideration liable to subsequent parties.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 27, 49, 50, 59, 65, 66, 68, 72, 73, 76, 86, 87, 88, 89, 90 and 91.

Illustrations.

(a) A indorses a bill of exchange to B, at the request of C, for C's account with B. B is a holder of the bill for consideration, and if he indorses it as a present to D, D is a holder for consideration as against A.

(b) A, the holder of a negotiable instrument, indorses it in full to B, in the belief that B has done something which he has not done. B, for consideration proceeding from C, indorses the instrument in blank to C, and C indorses it to D. D strikes out C's indorsement. D is a holder of the instrument for consideration as against B.

48. When there was no consideration for the making, drawing, acceptance or indorsement of a negotiable instrument, or when the consideration has wholly failed, the maker, drawer, acceptor or indorser is not liable thereon to the party in whose favour the instrument was so made, drawn, accepted or indorsed, or to any party claiming through him, unless consideration was given by the claimant or by some party through whom he derives title. But the maker, drawer, acceptor or indorser is liable to compensate any subsequent party who, being liable on such instrument, pays the amount due thereon.

Party not liable to one from whom no consideration moved.

49. When the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque consisted of money, and was originally absent in part or has subsequently failed in part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

Partial absence or failure of money-consideration.

Explanation.—The drawer of a bill of exchange stands in immediate relation with the acceptor. The maker of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, stands in immediate relation with the payee, and the indorser with his indorsee. Other signers may by agreement stand in immediate relation with a holder.

Illustration.

A draws a bill on B for Rs. 500 payable to the order of A. B accepts the bill, but subsequently dishonours it by non-payment. A sues B on the bill. B proves that it was accepted for value as to Rs. 400, and as an accommodation to the plaintiff as to the residue. A can only recover Rs. 400.

50. Where a part of the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, though not consisting of money, is ascertainable in money without collateral enquiry, and there has been a failure of that part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

Partial failure of consideration not consisting of money.

CHAPTER IV.

OF NEGOTIATION.

51. Subject to the provisions of section 62, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by delivery thereof.

Negotiation by delivery.

Exception.—A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque delivered on condition that it is not to take effect except in a certain event is not negotiable (except in the hands of a holder for value without notice of the condition) unless such event happens.

Illustrations.

(a) A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer, delivers it to B's agent to keep for B. The instrument has been negotiated.

(b) A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer which is in the hands of A's banker, who is at the time the banker of B, directs the banker to transfer the instrument to B's credit in the banker's account with B. The banker does so, and accordingly now possesses the instrument as B's agent. The instrument has been negotiated and B has become the holder of it.

52. Subject to the provisions of section 62, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to the order of a specified person or to a specified person or order, is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

Negotiation by indorsement.

53. The holder of a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank may, without signing his own name, by writing above the indorser's signature a direction to pay to any other person as indorsee, convert the indorsement in blank into an indorsement in full and the holder does not thereby incur the responsibility of an indorser.

Conversion of indorsement in blank into indorsement in full.

54. The indorsement of a negotiable instrument followed by delivery transfers to the indorsee the property therein with the right of further negotiation; but the indorsement may, by express words, restrict or exclude such right, or may merely constitute the indorsee an agent to indorse the instrument, or to receive its contents for the indorser, or for some other specified person.

Effect of indorsement.

Illustrations.

B signs the following indorsements on different negotiable instruments payable to bearer:—

(a) "Pay the contents to C only."

(b) "Pay C for my use."

(c) "Pay C or order for the account of B."

(d) "The within must be credited to C."

55. Every sole maker, drawer, payee or indorsee, or all of several joint makers, drawers, payees or indorsees, of a negotiable instrument may, if the negotiability of such instrument has not been restricted or excluded, as mentioned in section 54, indorse and negotiate the same.

Who may negotiate.

Explanation.—Nothing in this section enables a maker of drawer to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is in lawful possession or is holder thereof; or enables a payee or indorsee to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is holder thereof.

Illustration.

A bill is drawn payable to A or order. A indorses it to B, the indorsement not containing the words "or order" or any equivalent words. B may negotiate the instrument.

56. The indorser of a negotiable instrument may, by express words in the indorsement, exclude his own liability thereon, or make such liability or the right of the indorsee to receive the amount due thereon, depend upon the happening of a specified event, although such event may never happen.

Indorser who excludes his own liability or makes it conditional.

Where an indorser so excludes his liability and afterwards becomes the holder of the instrument, all intermediate indorsers are liable to him.

Illustrations.

(a.) The indorser of a negotiable instrument signs his name, adding the words—

"Without recourse."

Upon this indorsement he incurs no liability.

(b.) A is the payee and holder of a negotiable instrument. Excluding personal liability by an endorsement "without recourse," he transfers the instrument to B, and B indorses it to C, who indorses it to A. A is not only reinstated in his former rights, but has the rights of an indorsee against B and C.

57. A holder of a negotiable instrument who derives title from a holder in due course has the rights thereon of that holder in due course.

When a negotiable instrument has been lost, or has been obtained from any maker, acceptor or holder thereof by means of an offence or fraud, or for an unlawful consideration, no possessor or indorsee who claims through the person who found or so obtained the instrument is entitled to receive the amount due thereon from such maker, acceptor or holder, or from any party prior to such holder, unless such possessor or indorsee is, or some person through whom he claims was, a holder thereof in due course.

Instrument obtained by unlawful means or for unlawful consideration.

63. The holder of a negotiable instrument, who has acquired it after dishonour, whether by non-acceptance or non-payment, with notice thereof, or after maturity, has only, as against the other parties, the rights thereon of his transferor:

Provided that any person who, in good faith and for consideration, becomes the holder, after maturity, of a promissory note or bill of exchange made, drawn or accepted without consideration for the purpose of enabling some party thereto to raise money thereon, may recover the amount of the note or bill from any prior party.

Accommodation note or bill.

Illustration.

The acceptor of a bill of exchange, when he accepted it deposited with the drawer certain goods as a collateral security for the payment of the bill, with power to the drawer to sell the goods and apply the proceeds in discharge of the bill if it were not paid at maturity. The bill not having been paid at maturity, the drawer sold the goods and retained the proceeds, but indorsed the bill to A. A's title is subject to the same objection as the drawer's title.

64. A negotiable instrument may be negotiated (except by the maker, drawee or acceptor after maturity) until payment or satisfaction thereof by the maker, drawee or acceptor at or after maturity, but not after such payment or satisfaction.

Instrument negotiable till payment or satisfaction.

CHAPTER V.

65. A bill of exchange payable after sight must, if no time or place is specified therein for presentment, be presented to the drawee thereof for acceptance, if he can, after reasonable search, be found, by a person entitled to demand acceptance, within a reasonable time after it is drawn, and in business hours on a business day. In default of such presentment, no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

86. The maker, acceptor or indorser respectively of a negotiable instrument is discharged from liability thereon—

Discharge from liability,

(a) to a holder thereof who cancels such acceptor's or indorser's name with intent to discharge him, and to all parties claiming under such holder.

by cancellation,

(b) to a holder thereof who otherwise discharges such maker, acceptor or indorser, and to all parties deriving title under such holder after notice of such discharge;

by release,

(c) to all parties thereto, if the instrument is payable to bearer, or has been indorsed in blank, and such maker, acceptor or indorser makes payment in due course of the amount due thereon.

by payment.

87. If the holder of a bill of exchange allows the drawee more than twenty-four hours to consider whether he will accept the same, all previous parties not consenting to such allowance are thereby discharged from liability to such holder.

Discharge by allowing drawee more than twenty-four hours to accept.

88. When the holder of a cheque fails to present it for payment, and the drawer thereof sustains loss or damage from such failure, he is discharged from liability to the holder.

When cheque not duly presented and drawer damaged thereby.

89. Where a cheque payable to order, purports to be indorsed by or on behalf of the payee, the drawee is discharged by payment in due course.

Cheque payable to order.

90. If the holder of a bill of exchange acquiesces in a conditional acceptance, or one limited to part of the sum mentioned in the bill, or which substitutes a different place or time for payment, or which, where the drawers are not partners is not signed by all the drawees, all previous parties whose consent is not obtained to such acceptance are discharged as against the holder and those claiming under him.

Parties not consenting discharged by conditional or limited acceptance.

91. Save as provided in sections 20, 53, 90 and 120, any material alteration of a negotiable instrument renders the same void as against any one who is a party thereto at the time of making such alteration and does not consent thereto, unless it was made in order to carry out the common intention of the original parties; and any such alteration if made by an indorsee, discharges his indorser from all liability to him in respect of the consideration thereof.

Effect of material alteration.

Alteration by indorsee.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections 20, 53, 90 and 120.

92. An acceptor or indorser of a negotiable instrument is bound by his acceptance or indorsement notwithstanding any previous alteration of the instrument.

Acceptor or indorser bound notwithstanding previous alteration.

93. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque has been materially altered, but does not appear to have been so altered,

Payment of instrument on which alteration is not apparent.

or where a cheque is presented for payment which does not at the time of presentation appear to be crossed or to have had a crossing which has been obliterated, payment thereof by a person or banker liable to pay and paying the same according to the apparent tenor thereof at the time of payment and otherwise in due course, shall discharge such person or banker from all liability thereon, and such payment shall not be questioned by reason of the instrument having been altered, or the cheque crossed.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF NOTICE OF DISHONOUR.

Dishonour by non-acceptance.

94. A bill of exchange is said to be dishonoured by non-acceptance when the drawee, or one of several drawees not being partners, makes default in acceptance upon being duly required to accept the bill.

Where the drawee is incompetent to contract the bill may be treated as dishonoured.

Dishonour by non-payment.

95. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is said to be dishonoured by non-payment when the maker of the note, acceptor of the bill, or drawee of the cheque makes default in payment upon being duly required to pay the same.

By and to whom notice should be given.

96. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder thereof, or some party thereto who remains liable thereon, must give notice that the instrument has been so dishonoured to all other parties whom the holder seeks to make severally liable thereon, and to some one of several parties whom he seeks to make jointly liable thereon.

Nothing in this section renders it necessary to give notice to the maker of the dishonoured promissory note, or the drawee or acceptor of the dishonoured bill of exchange or cheque.

Mode in which notice may be given.

97. Notice of dishonour may be given to a duly authorised agent of the person to whom it is required to be given, or, where he has died, to his legal representative, or, where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee; may be oral or written; may, if written, be sent by post; and may be in any form; but it must inform the party to whom it is given, either in express terms or by reasonable intendment, that the instrument has been dishonoured, and in what way, and that he will be held liable thereon; and it must be given within a reasonable time after dishonour, at the place of business, or (in case such party has no place of business) at the residence of the party for whom it is intended.

If the notice is sent by post and miscarries, such miscarriage does not render the notice invalid.

Party receiving must transmit notice of dishonour.

98. Any party receiving notice of dishonour must, in order to render any prior party liable to himself, transmit it to such party within a reasonable time, unless such party otherwise receives due notice as provided by section 96.

Agent for presentment.

99. When the instrument is deposited with an agent for presentment, the agent is entitled to the same time to give notice to his principal as if he were the holder giving notice of dishonour, and the principal is entitled to a further like period to give notice of dishonour.

When party to whom notice given is dead.

100. When the party to whom notice of dishonour is despatched is dead, but the party despatching the notice is ignorant of his death, the notice is sufficient.

When notice of dishonour is unnecessary.

101. No notice of dishonour is necessary—

(a) when it is dispensed with by the party entitled thereto;

(b) in order to charge the drawer, when he has countermanded payment;

(c) when the party charged could not suffer damage for want of notice;

(d) when the party entitled to notice cannot after due search be found; or the party bound to give notice is, for any other reason, unable without any fault of his own to give it;

(e) to charge the drawers, when the acceptor is also a drawer;

(f) in the case of a promissory note which is not negotiable;

(g) when the party entitled to notice, knowing the facts, promises unconditionally to pay the amount due on the instrument.

CHAPTER IX.

OF NOTING AND PROTEST.

Noting.

102. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may cause such dishonour to be noted by a notary public upon the instrument, or upon a paper attached thereto, or partly upon each.

Such note must be made within a reasonable time after dishonour, and must specify the date of dishonour, the reason, if any, assigned for such dishonour, or, if the instrument has not been expressly dishonoured, the reason why the holder treats it as dishonoured, and the notary's charges.

Protest.

103. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause such dishonour to be noted and certified by a notary public. Such certificate is called a protest, and in a suit upon the instrument, on proof of the protest, the Court shall presume the fact of dishonour, unless and until such fact is disproved.

Protest for better security.

When the acceptor of a bill of exchange has become insolvent, or his credit has been publicly impeached, before the maturity of the bill, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause a notary public to demand better security of the acceptor, and on its being refused may, within a reasonable time, cause such facts to be noted and certified as aforesaid. Such certificate is called a protest for better security.

Contents of protest.

104. A protest under section 103 must contain—

(a) either the instrument itself, or a literal transcript of the instrument and of everything written or printed thereupon;

(b) the name of the person for whom and against whom the instrument has been protested;

(c) a statement that payment or acceptance, or better security, as the case may be, has been demanded of such person by the notary public; the terms of his answer, if any, or a statement that he gave no answer, or that he could not be found;

(e) the subscription of the notary public making the protest;

(f) in the event of an acceptance for honour or of a payment for honour, the name of the person by whom, of the person for whom, and the manner in which, such acceptance or payment was offered and effected.

Notice of protest.

105. When a promissory note or bill of exchange is required by law to be protested, notice of such protest must be given instead of notice of dishonour, in the same manner and subject to the same conditions; but the notice may be given by the notary public who makes the protest.

Protest for non-payment after dishonour by non-acceptance.

106. All bills of exchange drawn payable at some other place than the place mentioned as the residence of the drawee, and which are dishonoured by non-acceptance, may, without further presentment to the drawee, be protested for non-payment, in the place specified for payment, unless paid before or at maturity.

CHAPTER X.

OF REASONABLE TIME.

Reasonable time.

107. In determining what is a reasonable time for presentment for acceptance or payment, for giving notice of dishonour and for noting, regard shall be had to the nature of the instrument and the usual course of dealing with respect to similar instruments; and in calculating such time, public holidays shall be excluded.

Reasonable time for presentment.

108. Presentment is made within a reasonable time, within the meaning of sections 65, 77 and 78, if it is made on the business day next after that on which the holder received the instrument referred to, or when there is no more delay than is occasioned by the residence of the parties to the instrument in different places.

Illustration.

A draws on B, resident at Calcutta, a bill of exchange in favour of C payable at sight, and sends it to C at Benares. C, the day after he receives it, indorses it to D, and despatches it to D at Calcutta. D, the day after he receives the bill, presents it for payment. The delay which has taken place in presenting the bill is not unreasonable.

Reasonable time of giving notice of dishonour.

109. If the holder and the party to whom notice of dishonour is given carry on business or live (as the case may be) in different places, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched by the next post or on the day next after the day of dishonour.

If the said parties carry on business or live in the same place, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched in time to reach its destination on the day next after the day of dishonour.

Reasonable time for transmitting such notice.

110. A party receiving notice of dishonour, who seeks to enforce his right against a prior party, transmits the notice within a reasonable time if he transmits it within the same time after its receipt as he would have had to give notice if he had been the holder.

CHAPTER XI.

OF ACCEPTANCE AND PAYMENT FOR HONOUR.

Acceptance for honour.

111. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-acceptance or for better security, any person may, with the consent of the holder, by writing on the bill, accept the same for the honour of any party thereto.

Acceptance not specifying for whose honour it is made.

112. Where the acceptance does not express for whose honour it is made, it shall be deemed to be made for the honour of the drawer.

Liability of acceptor for honour.

113. An acceptor for honour binds himself to all parties subsequent to the party for whose honour he accepts to pay the amount of the bill if the drawee do not; and such party and all prior parties are liable in their respective capacities to compensate the acceptor for honour for all loss or damage sustained by him in consequence of such acceptance.

But an acceptor for honour is not liable to the holder of the bill unless it is presented, or (in case the address given by such acceptor on the bill is a place other than the place where the bill is made payable) forwarded for presentment, not later than the day next after the day of its maturity.

When acceptor for honour may be charged.

Payment for honour.

115. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-payment, any person may pay the same for the honour of any party liable to pay the same, provided that the person so paying has previously declared before a notary public the party for whose honour he pays, and that such declaration has been recorded by such notary public.

Right of payer for honour.

116. Any person so paying is entitled to all the rights, in respect of the bill, of the holder at the time of such payment, and may recover from the party for whose honour he pays all sums so paid, with interest thereon and with all expenses properly incurred in making such payment.

CHAPTER XII.

OF COMPENSATION.

117. The compensation payable in case of dishonour of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, by any party liable to the holder or any indorsee, shall (except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532) be determined by the following rules :—

Rules as to compensation.

(a) The holder is entitled to the amount due upon the instrument, together with the expenses properly incurred in presenting, noting and protesting it;

(b) When the person charged resides at a place different from that at which the instrument was payable, the holder is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places;

(c) An indorser who, being liable, has paid the amount due on the same is entitled to the amount so paid with interest at six per centum per annum from the date of payment until tender or realization thereof, together with all expenses caused by the dishonour and payment;

(d) When the person charged and such indorser reside at different places, the indorser is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places;

(e) The party entitled to compensation may draw a bill upon the party liable to compensate him, payable at sight or on demand, for the amount due to him together with all expenses properly incurred by him. Such bill must be accompanied by the instrument dishonoured and the protest thereof (if any). If such bill is dishonoured, the party dishonouring the same is liable to make compensation thereof in the same manner as in the case of the original bill.

CHAPTER XIII.

OF CROSSED CHEQUES.

118. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the words "and company" or any abbreviation thereof, between two parallel transverse lines, or of two parallel transverse lines simply, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed generally.

Cheque crossed generally.

119. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the name of a banker, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed specially, and to be crossed to that banker.

Cheque crossed specially.

120. Where a cheque is uncrossed, the holder may cross it generally or specially.

Crossing after issue.

Where a cheque is crossed generally, the holder may cross it specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally or specially, the holder may add the words "not negotiable."

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker to whom it is crossed may again cross it specially to another banker, his agent, for collection.

121. Where a cheque is crossed generally, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to a banker.

Payment of cheque crossed generally.

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to the banker to whom it is crossed, or his agent for collection.

Payment of cheque crossed specially.

122. Where a cheque is crossed specially to more than one banker, except when crossed to an agent for the purpose of collection, the banker on whom it is drawn shall refuse payment thereof.

Payment of cheque crossed specially more than once.

123. Where the banker on whom a crossed cheque is drawn has paid the same in due course, the banker paying the cheque, and (in case such cheque has come to the hands of the payee) the drawer thereof, shall respectively be entitled to the same rights, and be placed in the same position in all respects, as they would respectively be entitled to and placed in if the amount of the cheque had been paid to and received by the true owner thereof.

Payment in due course of crossed cheque.

124. Any banker paying a cheque crossed generally otherwise than to a banker, or a cheque crossed specially otherwise than to the banker to whom the same is crossed, or his agent for collection, being a banker, shall be liable to the true owner of the cheque for any loss he may sustain owing to the cheque having been so paid.

Payment of crossed cheque out of due course.

125. A person taking a cheque crossed generally or specially, bearing in either case the words "not negotiable," shall not have, and shall not be capable of giving, a better title to the cheque than that which the person from whom he took it had.

Cheque bearing "not negotiable."

But a banker who has in good faith and without negligence received payment from a customer of a cheque crossed generally or specially to himself shall not, in case the title to the cheque proves defective, incur any liability to the true owner of the cheque by reason only of having received such payment.

CHAPTER XIV.

OF FOREIGN BILLS.

126. Foreign bills of exchange may be drawn in parts, each part being numbered and containing a provision that it shall continue payable only so long as the others remain unpaid. All the parts together make a set; but the whole set constitutes only one bill, and is extinguished when one of the parts, if a separate bill, would be extinguished.

Set of bills.

Exception.—When a person accepts or indorses different parts of the bill in favour of different persons, he is liable on each part as if it were a separate bill.

127. As between holders in due course of different parts of the same set, he who first acquired title to his part is entitled to the other parts and the money represented by the bill.

Holder of first acquired part entitled to all.

128. Where a drawee in case of need is named in a foreign bill of exchange, the bill is not dishonoured until dishonoured by such drawee.

Drawee in case of need.

129. Foreign bills of exchange must be protested for dishonour when such protest is required by the law of the place where they are drawn.

Protest of foreign bills.

CHAPTER XV.

OF INTERNATIONAL LAW.

130. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the liability of the maker or drawer of a foreign promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is regulated in all essential matters by the law of the place where he made the instrument, and the respective liabilities of the acceptor and indorser by the law of the place where the instrument is made payable.

Law governing liability of maker, acceptor or indorser of foreign instrument.

Illustrations.

A bill of exchange was drawn by A in California, where the rate of interest is 25 per cent., and accepted by B, payable in Washington, where the rate of interest is 6 per cent. The bill is endorsed in British India, and is dishonoured. An action on the bill is brought against B in British India. He is liable to pay interest at the rate of 6 per cent. only; but if A is charged as drawer, A is liable to pay interest at the rate of 25 per cent.

131. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is made payable in a different place from that in which it is made or indorsed, the law of the place where it is made payable determines what constitutes dishonour and what notice of dishonour is sufficient.

Law of place of payment governs dishonour.

Illustration.

A bill of exchange drawn and indorsed in British India, but accepted payable in France, is dishonoured. The indorsee causes it to be protested for such dishonour, and gives notice thereof in accordance with the law of France, though not in accordance with the rules herein contained in respect of bills which are not foreign. The notice is sufficient.

132. If a negotiable instrument is made, drawn, accepted or indorsed out of British India, but in accordance with the law of British India, the circumstance that any agreement evidenced by such instrument is invalid according to the law of the country wherein it was entered into, does not invalidate any subsequent acceptance or endorsement made thereon in British India.

Instrument made, &c., out of British India, but in accordance with its law.

133. The law of any foreign country regarding promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques shall be presumed to be the same as that of British India, unless and until the contrary is proved.

Presumption as to foreign law.

Fourth Note by the Hon'ble Whitley Stokes, dated 9th January, 1879.
Forms of instruments taken from a Bengálí book of forms received from Mr. O'Kinealy.

2. The principal objections taken to this Bill in its second form are, first, that, as a whole, it is heterogeneous, and, secondly, that certain parts of it are neither necessary nor expedient. It is said, for instance, that, though the bulk of the Bill deals with transfer of property inter vivos by act of parties, it also treats, in sections 82, 83, of conditions in Wills, and, in section 129, of Succession to a deceased person. It is said, again, that the chapters dealing respectively with the rights and liabilities of owners of limited interests and with property held by several persons belong rather to the subject of the enjoyment, than to that of the transfer of property. It is urged that settlements (in the conveyancer's sense of the word) are hardly ever made in India, that what are technically called Powers are almost unknown, and that the chapters respectively dealing with those subjects are certainly not necessary and can hardly be said to be expedient. We feel the force of these objections. In fact, we have always felt them. But we were not responsible for the first draft of the Bill, whatever were its excellences or defects. The matters thus objected to, together with others, such as Registration and Trusts, still more foreign to the proper subject of the Bill, are all dealt with by the draft prepared by the late Indian Law Commission, which was sent out in 1870 by the then Secretary of State with instructions to introduce a Bill founded upon it, revised by Sir A. Hobhouse and sent home by the Government of India in January, 1877, i.e., nearly six months before the Bill was introduced and referred to a Select Committee. The great deference due to the Law Commission and to Sir A. Hobhouse has hitherto prevented us from dealing freely with the Bill. Until the opinions of the Local Governments and the results of local experience had been obtained, for us to have altered it would have been to set our individual views against those of the able and learned men who were answerable for the Bill as introduced. But now that the opinions and results above referred to have been obtained, we see that, if the Bill is to go on at all, it must be strictly confined to the subject of transfer of property by act of parties, that is to say, by contract or gift.

3. We have therefore omitted chapters VII to XII both inclusive.

4. We cannot maintain that they are in accordance with one of the canons laid down in our last report, namely, that no additions should be made to the existing law "which are not either necessary or clearly expedient." The chapters dealing respectively with settlements, the rights and liabilities of owners of limited interests, and property held by several persons, are, moreover, very incomplete; and, as Natives are excluded from chapter IX, it would apply to a very limited class of persons. Chapter XI (of Powers) would also be of little use. We believe that among Natives powers are almost unknown. So far as we are aware, the only reported cases in which anything like a power was given by a Native are in 2 Calc. 474, and N.-W. P. (1869) Part II, p. 6, in each of which cases a Hindú bequeathed land to his wife and expressly empowered her to alienate it, and in 5 Beng. 181, where a Hindú testator empowered his sister to appoint a trustee of a religious endowment. Moreover, powers may be created by will and are, as often as not, exerciseable by will. The subject therefore does not properly fall within a measure treating of the transfer of property, that is, as lawyers generally understand the expression, the conveyance of property from one living person to another.

5. As the Bill is, so far as it deals with immoveable property and debts, only a partial measure, we have made the preamble run thus:—"Whereas it is expedient to define and amend certain parts of the law relating to the transfer of property by act of parties." Compare the preamble to the Indian Contract Act, IX of 1872.

CHAPTER I.—Preliminary.

6. In section 2, we have expressly saved all transfers by operation of law (e.g., in case of insolvency, forfeiture, sale in execution of a decree), with which the Bill is not intended to deal.

7. In section 3 we have omitted, as unnecessary, the definitions of "grantor," "grantee," and "grant;" and, for the last paragraph, we have said: "Chapters III, IV, V and VI of this Act shall be taken as part of the Indian Contract Act, 1872."

CHAPTER II.—Of Assurances of Immoveable Property.

8. This chapter should we think be entitled "Of Transfers of Immoveable Property," as it relates to all transfers of such property, whether or not an assurance is employed. We have omitted section 5 and the schedule to which it relates: they do not fitly form part of a Bill dealing with substantive law. Moreover, English experience shews that statutory forms of conveyances are rarely used, and they are dangerous, as tempting unskilled persons to try and be their own conveyancers.

9. Section 6 applies to transfers of immoveable property made by assurance; but it obviously ought to apply also to oral transfers of such property. We have therefore re-drawn it.

10. In section 7, we have provided for the case of a Sebáit, which has twice come before the Judicial Committee. (See 14 Beng. 450, and I. L. R. 2 Calc. 341).

11. As rents and profits of land are 'immoveable property,' we have, after this section, inserted section 1 of Act XI of 1855:—

"No person shall be chargeable with any rents or profits of any immoveable property which he has in good faith paid or delivered to any person of whom he in good faith held the same, notwithstanding it may afterwards appear that the person to whom such payment or delivery was made had no right to receive such rents or profits."

This section now applies only to cases to which the English law is applicable; but there seems no reason why so equitable and useful a rule should not be extended to every one in India.

12. Section 8 of Bill No. III applies not only to cases where land has passed inter vivos by act of parties, but also to cases in which it has been transferred by operation of law. It therefore seems beyond the scope of the Bill.

13. The Bill is silent as to the doctrine of lis pendens, which has in about a dozen reported cases been applied to Native purchasers and mortgagees (see 11 Bom. 24, 29, 30, 139; 8 Beng. 474; 1 O'Kin. 303, 309; 10 W. R. 469; Sev. 808, 951). We have inserted the following:—

"10. During the active prosecution in any Court having authority in British India or established beyond the limits of British India by the Governor General in Council, of a suit in which the right to any immoveable property is directly and specifically in question, the property cannot be transferred by any party to the suit so as to affect the rights of any other party thereto under any decree or order made therein."

14. Section 9 of Bill No. III (as to the effect of payment by one person, of consideration for which a transfer is made to another) properly belongs to the Trusts Bill, and should, we think, be omitted from the present measure.

CHAPTER III.—Sales of Immoveable Property.

15. In accordance with a suggestion of Mr. Justice Cunningham we have prefixed to this chapter a section founded on section 78 of the Contract Act; but we do not think with him that the section should provide for part delivery, an expression which, in the sense in which it is used in the Contract Act, section 92, would be inappropriate as applied to land, nor do we consider that, in stating the time at which delivery takes place, the effect of executing and delivering the assurance should be ignored.

The section referred to is as follows:—

Sale how effected.

"Sale of immoveable property is effected by offer and acceptance of certain immoveable property for a price, or of a price for certain immoveable property,

"together with payment of the price and delivery of the property, or with tender, part-payment or earnest; or with an agreement, express or implied, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed.

"Where there is a contract for the sale of immoveable property, the ownership of the property passes to the buyer when the whole or part of the price, or when the earnest, is paid, or when the property is delivered.

"If the parties agree, expressly or by implication, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed, the ownership passes as soon as the proposal for sale is accepted.

"Delivery of immoveable property takes place—

"(a) if the transfer is made by assurance—when the assurance is executed and delivered by the seller, and (if its registration is required by law) registered:

"(b) if the transfer is not made by assurance, in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing—when the parties consent to its delivery, and in the case of other immoveable property—when the buyer becomes capable of exercising physical control over it and determines to exercise such control on his own behalf or on behalf of the person whom he represents."

This will have the effect of settling a moot point of Hindú law, namely, whether change of possession is necessary to complete a sale of land, whether, in other words, the vendor must, at the time of sale, be in possession of the property sold (I. L. R. 1 Calc. 302: I. L. R. 1 Bomb. 502: N. W. P. 1871, p. 2: contra 7 Bomb. A. C. J. 4: 10 Bomb. 491). This question is answered in the negative by the Calcutta High Court and Mr. J. D. Mayne, a considerable authority on Hindú law.

16. We have omitted clauses (d) and (i) of section 11 (now 12). The former is, as Mr. Jacob points out, provided for by the Contract Act, section 39; the latter by section 10 of the same Act. On the other hand, we have restored clauses (e) and (f) of Bill No. I, modified as follows:—

"Till the ownership of the property passes to the buyer, the seller is entitled to the rents and profits thereof.

"When the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, he must bear any loss arising from the destruction, injury or deterioration of the property not caused by the seller, and he is entitled to the benefit of any improvement in, or increase in value of, the property and to the rents and profits thereof."

The latter clause corresponds with the provision of the Contract Act, section 86, as to goods.

17. We have recast and abridged section 10 (now 13) as follows:—

Disclosures required from seller and buyer.

"The following omissions are fraudulent:—

"(a) an omission of the seller of immoveable property to disclose to the buyer any defect therein of which the seller is, and the buyer is not, aware, and which the buyer could not with ordinary care discover:

"(b) an omission of the buyer of immoveable property to disclose to the seller any fact as to the nature or extent of the seller's interest therein, of which the buyer is, and the seller is not, aware, and which increases the value of such interest."

This will attract section 17, clause (5), of the Contract Act, which declares that "fraud" includes "any such omission as the law specially declares to be fraudulent."

18. As the Bill is now strictly limited to transfers by act of parties, we have omitted section 13, as to the procedure where the buyer becomes insolvent before completion. For the same reason we have also omitted section 73, as to the procedure where, during the continuance of a lease, the lessee becomes insolvent.

19. Section 17 (now 18), as to joint purchases. We have added, as Mr. Field suggests: "In the absence of evidence as to the shares so advanced, such persons shall be presumed to be equally interested in the property."

CHAPTER IV.—Of Exchanges.

20. As this chapter deals with moveable as well as immoveable property, we have placed it after the chapter on leases, and we have omitted the first paragraph of section 22, as the matter seems sufficiently provided for by Act IX of 1872, sections 64, 65, and Act I of 1867, sections 25, 37.

CHAPTER V.—Of Mortgages of Immoveable Property.

21. Section 27.—We fear that the abolition of equitable mortgages here proposed by the Law Commissioners would inconvenience the mercantile community. We have thought it better to say that a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds shall be deemed to create a charge on the property comprised therein and to insert the necessary clause in section 68 (now 69).

22. We have provided, in accordance with a suggestion of Mr. Field, that in the case of an usufructuary mortgage, the mortgagor may recover possession of the property, (1) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from the rents and profits of the property the principal and interest of the mortgage-money—when such principal and interest are so paid; (2) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from such rents and profits the interest of the mortgage-money—when the term (if any) of the mortgage expires and the mortgagor pays or tenders to the mortgagee, or deposits in such Court as last aforesaid, the principal of the mortgage-money."

23. Section 29 (now 24).—We have here declared the duty of a mortgagor to take all legal means to protect his rights in the mortgaged property (Macph. 112).

24. Section 31 (now 27).—This provided only for voluntary waste. We have now provided that the mortgagor is not liable for permissive waste.

25. Section 42 (now 39), clause (c).—We have added, in order to meet the case of patni tenures and saleable under-tenures, "and any arrears of rent in default of payment of which the property may be summarily sold."

We have provided that a mortgagee in possession ought to do such repairs as he can pay for out of the rents received after his interest is paid (see 9 W. R. 488).

We have omitted clause (e). The right which it gives is, as Mr. Field says, part of the mortgagee's right to take possession, which, as a general rule, finds no place in the Bill.

Where sufficient tender is made, the mortgagee in possession is thenceforth accountable for all his receipts from the mortgaged property (9 N.-W. P. 1: Macph. 159—160). We have provided for this.

26. Section 60 (now 57).—When a mortgagor obtains a decree in a redemption-suit and fails to pay the amount due, we think the mortgagee should be entitled either to a foreclosure or a sale. We have altered this section accordingly.

27. Section 61 (now 58).—We have omitted the second paragraph and the schedule to which it refers. It is hardly the function of a Bill codifying substantive law to give forms of decrees. They should, if necessary, be added to schedule IV of the Code of Civil Procedure.

CHAPTER VI.—Of Leases.

28. Section 70 (now 66).—We have substituted a section analogous to that above proposed as a substitute for section 10.

29. Section 71 (now 65).—We have struck out clauses (c) and (g). The former is superfluous, the latter is provided for by the Contract Act, sections 64 and 73.

Clause (l) now (j).—With reference to Couch, C. J.'s, decision in Koegler v. Yule, 5 Beng. 401, 416, we think this clause should run thus: "The lessee may use the property leased and its products (if any) as a reasonable owner would use them, but he must not use the property for a purpose other than that for which it was leased, or fell timber, open mines or quarries, or commit any other act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto." We have added "The prohibition in this clause does not apply to mines which were open when the lease was granted."—See 8 Chan. Div. 526.

Clause (q) now (o).—We have inserted words in the proviso to shew that the lessor's transferee is not entitled to arrears of rent due before the transfer.

Clause (r) now (p).—We have made (in accordance with a suggestion of the Government of the North-Western Provinces) the second paragraph to run thus: "Nothing in this clause shall be deemed to authorize a tenant having a right of occupancy, the farmer of an estate in respect of which default has been made in paying revenue, and the lessee of an estate under the management of a Court of Wards, to assign his interest as such tenant, farmer or lessee."

30. Section 76 (now 70).—We have completed the list of events on which a lease determines.

31. We have redrawn the clause as to waiver of forfeiture and notice. It is now numbered 71, 72.

32. We have inserted a section (74) as to the effect of surrender and forfeiture of a lease, on sub-lessees.

33. We have made some other comparatively unimportant omissions, additions and alterations in wording and arrangement. We have added on the margins references to the reported decisions of the Indian Courts and the Judicial Committee, which justify the rules contained in the Bill. It will be seen that but few of these rules are devoid of this valuable support. The assertion that the Bill would introduce a mass of new law into India must therefore be due to ignorance of the extent to which English law (under the name of justice, equity and good conscience) is actually administered to the Natives by the Anglo-Indian Courts. The object of the Bill, like that of all our Codes, is to strip our own law of all that is local and historical, and to mould the residue into a shape in which it would be suitable for an Indian population and could be easily administered by non-professional Judges. But the Bill will introduce hardly any new substantive law, and it will not (except in the case of the procedure relating to mortgages) displace any existing enactment. The rules, for instance, as to the relation of landlord and tenant contained in the local Acts, X of 1859, XVIII of 1873, XIX of 1868, XXVIII of 1868, Bengal Act VIII of 1869, and Madras Act VIII of 1865, will all remain untouched.

34. To the body of local usages and contractual incidents which in India, as in other countries, exists as to the transfer of land the tenderest care is shewn by the Bill. Not only is local usage expressly saved in sections 62, 65 and 68, but the effect of section 1, clause (a), will be to maintain intact the statutory force which the legislature has given to local usage in those two pays de coutumes the Panjáb and Oudh; and throughout India all the many incidents of a mortgage or a lease, which are not inconsistent with the provisions of the Bill, will remain wholly unaffected.

35. The Bill and preliminary report of the Select Committee have been published in English in the Presidency-towns, the Panjáb, the Central Provinces and British Burma. From the North-Western Provinces no report of publication has been received. Publication of the Bill and Report in the vernacular has been reported only by the Government of Bengal. We recommend that the Bill as now altered be published in the Gazette of India and sent to the various Local Governments for opinion. And we think that no further steps should be taken upon the Bill until it has been reported on by the new Indian Law Commission.

WHITLEY STOKES.
F. R. COCKERELL.

CALCUTTA;
The 19th February, 1879.

I concur in all the omissions and amendments made by the Committee and in their final recommendation; but I believe the Bill to be capable of further simplification, and regret to notice the almost entire absence of illustrations.

T. H. THORNTON.

I have not had time to consider either the provisions of the Bill or the changes now made thoroughly; but I agree that the chapters on Powers, Settlements, &c., should be omitted, and think these omissions necessitate republication with a view to elicit fresh criticism to be laid before the new Commission.

I would modify the new section 11 by requiring a written instrument in all cases where the value of the property sold is Rs. 100 or upwards. This will involve registration and get rid of the inconvenience and anomaly which would arise from oral sales of valuable land with deferred possession and no registration. Subject to the above remarks, I approve of the additions now made to the Bill.

G. H. P. EVANS.

I concur in all the omissions and agree that there should be a further publication.

G. C. PAUL.

I am opposed to the republication of this Bill at the present time. I believe that there is a great deal still left in the Bill which it will be desirable to omit, as relating to matters on which legislation is not called for; and I think that there should be no further publication until the Law Commission have reported on the measure.

A. J. ARBUTHNOT.

I am inclined to think that there can be no harm in republishing the Bill in its present form (though I must say that I believe it admits of further improvement), inasmuch as the republication will elicit public criticisms which may be of some use to the Law Commission.

OF TRANSFERS OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

Bill, s. 4: Report, s. 4.

5. Every person competent to contract may make a transfer of immoveable property: but subject to the law for the time being in force as to the circumstances and extent in and to which he may dispose of such property. Persons competent to make transfers of immoveable property.

Bill, s. 10: Report, s. 10. v. last clause, Reg. s. 6: 2 W. R. 125 (Bk. ings): 14 W. R. 379.

6. Unless a different intention is expressed or necessarily implied, a transfer of immoveable property vests in the transferee all the interest which the transferor is then capable of passing therein and in the legal incidents thereof. Operation of transfer.

Such incidents include (where the property is land) the easements annexed thereto, the mines and minerals thereunder, and the standing trees, and all other products of the soil, N.-W. P. 1870, p. 24 W. R. (trees 'everything' grown on Morley, N. S.

and (where the property is machinery attached to the earth) the moveable parts thereof, and (where the property is a house) the easements annexed thereto and its locks, keys, bars, doors, windows, pankhas, half-doors, mats and blinds.

9 Moo. I. A.

7. The transferor of immoveable property cannot give to another a title thereto better than his own, and where he has only a restricted power of alienating the property, he cannot give to another a title thereto valid as against third parties, except upon an alienation within the restriction: Title which transferor of immoveable property can give.

Provided that where the transferor is (a) the manager of the property of a minor, an undivided family, or an endowed temple, (b) a sonless Hindú widow in possession of her deceased husband's property, or (c) a trustee, benámídár or other ostensible owner, the transferee's title shall not be impeached if the transfer has been made for a consideration and the transferee has acted in good faith and used due care and diligence to ascertain that the transferor had power to make the transfer. Protection to innocent transferees for value.

6 Moo. I. A. 39: 2 W. R. 123: 3 W. R. 11: 8 W. R. 77: 1 Bom. 27: 8 Bom. 77: 9 Bom. 116: 12 Bom. 69: 14 Beng. 459: I. L. R. 2 Calc. 438: 2 Mad. 407: 3 Mad. 6 Mad.

8. No person shall be chargeable with any rents or profits of any immoveable property which he has in good faith paid or delivered to any person of whom he in good faith held the same, notwithstanding it may afterwards appear that the person to whom such payment or delivery was made had no right to receive such rents or profits. Rent bonâ fide paid to holder under defective title.

9. Where undivided immoveable property is held in possession by co-owners and one of them transfers his share or any interest therein, the transferee takes the share or interest subject to the right of the other co-owners to enforce a partition of the property; and when such partition is effected, the right of the transferee as such, in the absence of a contract to the contrary by the co-owners, extends only to the share allotted to himself or to his transferor.

Transfer of share of undivided property.

10. During the active prosecution in any Court having authority in British India, or established beyond the limits of British India by the Governor General in Council, of a suit in which the right to any immoveable property is directly and specifically in question, the property cannot be transferred by any party to the suit so as to affect the rights of any other party thereto under any decree or order therein.

Transfer of property pending suit relating thereto.

CHAPTER III.

OF SALES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

Delivery not necessary in case of Hindús, 14 Beng. 307: 1 Bom. 5, 19. Effect of part-payment, N.-W. P. 1866, p. 161: 15 W. R. 44: in Muhammadan law: Effect of earnest, W. R. 1864, 281: 1 Bom. 403. Cf. Act IX of 1872, s. 78, as to goods: postponement of payment, 7 W. R. 317. Effect of delivery before payment, 10 W. R. 194.

11. Sale of immoveable property is effected by offer and acceptance of certain immoveable property for a price, or of a price for certain immoveable property,

Sale how effected.

together with payment of the price and delivery of the property, or with tender, part-payment or earnest; or with an agreement, express or implied, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed.

Where there is a contract for the sale of immoveable property, the ownership of the property passes to the buyer when the whole or part of the price, or when the earnest, is paid, or when the property is delivered.

If the parties agree, expressly or by implication, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed, the ownership passes as soon as the proposal for sale is accepted.

Delivery of immoveable property takes place—

14 Beng. 307, 312: N.-W. P. 1866, p. 87. Consider 12 W. R. P. C. 6: as to delivery of assurance, W. R. 1864, p. 222: 5 W. R. 248: Morley N. S. 358.

(a) if the transfer is made by assurance—when the assurance is executed and delivered by the seller, and (if its registration is required by law) registered:

Right to redeem, N.-W. P. 1868, p. 376.

(b) if the transfer is not made by assurance, in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing—when the parties consent to the delivery, and in the case of other immoveable property—when the buyer becomes capable of exercising physical control over it and determines to exercise such control on his own behalf or on behalf of the person whom he represents.

Bill, s. 11: Bill II, s. 11: Report, s. 14.

12. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the buyer and the seller of immoveable property respectively have the rights, and are subject to the liabilities, mentioned in the ten rules next following, or such of them as are applicable to the property sold:

Rights and liabilities of buyer and seller.

Bevsí Ghelá v. Jivatráj Mukundás, 2 Bom. 432 (no right to have good title shewn). Abstract of title, 1 Bom. 78.

(a). The seller must produce to the buyer, for examination, all documents of title relating to the property which are in his possession or power, and must inform the buyer of all facts not apparent thereon of which the seller is aware and which affect the seller's power to fulfil his contract, and must answer to the best of his information all relevant questions put to him by the buyer in respect to the property or the title thereto.

Bill, 11 (c).

(b). Till the ownership of the property passes to the buyer, the seller is entitled to the rents and profits thereof.

Cf. Act IX of 1872, s. 86. Bill, 11 (f).

(c). When the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, he must bear any loss arising from the destruction, injury or decrease in value of the property not caused by the seller, and he is entitled to the benefit of any improvement in, or increase in value of, the property, and to the rents and profits thereof.

8 Bom. A. C. J. 102: 2 Hay 577.

(d). When the buyer has been let into possession of the property before payment of the whole of the purchase-money, the seller has a charge upon the property for the amount of the purchase-money, or any part thereof, remaining unpaid, and for interest on such amount or part; but as soon as the assurance, if any, is registered, such charge shall cease except as against the buyer.

8 Beng. O. C. J. 79.

(e). Unless the buyer has improperly declined to accept delivery of the property, he has, against the seller, a charge on the property, to the extent of the seller's interest therein, for the amount of any purchase-money properly paid by the buyer in anticipation of the delivery, and for interest on the amount of such payment; and, when the buyer properly declines to accept the delivery, also for the earnest (if any) and for his costs (if any) of a suit by himself or the seller to compel specific performance of the contract or to obtain a decree for its rescission.

(f). When the buyer has been let into beneficial possession of the property before payment of the price, and the price is not paid owing to defects in the seller's title, the buyer is not liable to pay for such possession.

(g). The seller must discharge all incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the contract. The buyer may retain, out of the unpaid purchase-money, the amount of such incumbrances, and shall pay the amount so retained to the parties entitled thereto.

(h). On payment or tender of the amount due in respect of the price, the seller is bound to execute a proper assurance of the property when the buyer tenders it to him for execution at a proper time and place.

(i). On delivery of the property, the buyer is entitled to all documents of title relating thereto which are in the seller's possession or power:

Provided that (1) where the seller retains any part of the property comprised in such documents, he is entitled to retain them all, and (2) where the whole of such property is sold to different buyers, the buyer of the lot of greatest value is entitled to such documents. But in case (1) the seller, and in case (2) the buyer of the lot of greatest value, is bound, upon every reasonable request by the buyer, or by any of the other buyers, as the case may be, or by any person claiming under him, and at the cost of the person making the request, to produce the said documents and furnish such true copies thereof as he may require; and, in the meantime, the seller or the buyer, as the case may be, of the lot of greatest value, must keep the said documents safe, uncancelled and undefaced, unless prevented from so doing by fire or other inevitable accident.

CHAPTER IV.

OF MORTGAGES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY AND CHARGES.

Bill II, s. 25: Bill, s. 14: Act XXVIII of 1866, s. 19: Mortgagor need not have present ownership, N.-W. P. 1879, p. 11. Macph. 4. Fulton 36. Purchaser of right of redemption, 11 Bom. 41.

21. When, for the purpose of securing money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan or an existing or future debt, or the performance of an engagement, one person transfers to another a right over specific immoveable property, the transfer is called a mortgage of immoveable property, the transferor is called a mortgagor, the transferee a mortgagee, the money of which payment is secured is called the mortgage-money, and the assurance by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

Mortgage, mortgagor and mortgagee defined.

For the purposes of this chapter, any person entitled as heir, legatee, assignee, lessee or otherwise than as a mortgagee to the interest of the transferor in the property subject to the mortgage, or any part of such interest, is a mortgagor; and any person entitled as heir, legatee, assignee or otherwise to the interest of the transferee under the mortgage, or any part thereof, is a mortgagee.

1 Beng. 393: 1 W. R. 230.

Where the mortgagor transfers the property to the mortgagee with a proviso that, upon payment of the mortgage-money at a certain date, the property shall be retransferred, the transaction is called a mortgage in the English form.

English mortgage.

Macph. 8, 12, 59: B. B. Ghose, 218, 219: Moo. I. A. 487.

Where the mortgagor delivers possession of the property to the mortgagee, and authorizes him to retain such possession and to pay himself from the rents and profits of the property the interest, or the mortgage-money and interest, or to take such rents and profits in lieu of interest, or of the mortgage-money and interest, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage.

Usufructuary mortgage.

Macph. 10, 12.

Where the mortgagor binds himself personally to repay the mortgage-money, and pledges the property as collateral security for the repayment, but does not contract that, on default of payment of the mortgage-money and interest at a certain date, the property shall pass to the mortgagee, the transaction is called a simple mortgage.

Simple mortgage.

Macph. 11, 12.

Where the mortgagor not so binding himself, contracts that, on default of payment of the mortgage-money and interest at a certain date, the property shall pass to the mortgagee, the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale.

Mortgage by conditional sale.

II, s. 26: Macph. 53: B. Ghose 64.

22. A mortgage can be effected only by assurance signed by the mortgagor and attested by at least two witnesses.

Mortgage to be by assurance.

Rights and Liabilities of Mortgagor.

Right of mortgagor to redeem, tender or deposit.

23. A mortgagor has the following rights as against the mortgagee:—

Bill II, s. 28: Bill, s. 15: 5 Beng. 450: 6 Beng 562: 2 Mad. 420: 1 Mad. 395: In Cen Provs. 13 Beng. 205

(a) at any time after the mortgage-money has become payable, or has been paid, the mortgagor has a right on payment or tender, at a proper time and place, of the mortgage-money and interest remaining due on the mortgage, to require the mortgagee to re-transfer the mortgaged property to him, or to execute an acknowledgment in writing that any right in derogation of his ownership or other interest transferred to the mortgagee has been extinguished:

N.-W. P. 1868, p. 204: Bomb. 237, no redemption before expiration of period named. Redemption after fixed time has expired, 9 Bomb. 69, see 7 Ben. 136 (P. C.). English practice followed, with necessary modifications, in case of defendant Parsi, 5 Bom. A. C. J. 109.

Provided that the mortgagee has not obtained an order absolute foreclosing such right, or that such right has not been after the date of the mortgage released or otherwise extinguished, or that the property has not been duly sold in pursuance of a decree or under a power given by the mortgage-deed.

6 Bom. A. C. J. 265: N.-W. P. 1869, p. 128.

The right conferred by this clause is called a right to redeem and a suit to enforce it is called a suit for redemption:

(b) at any time after the mortgage-money has become payable and before such suit is barred, the mortgagor may deposit in any Court in which he might have instituted a suit for redemption of the mortgaged property, to the account of the mortgagee, the mortgage-money and interest remaining due on the mortgage:

Beng. Reg. I of 1798, s. 2: Macph. 171.

(c) in the case of an usufructuary mortgage, he may recover possession of the property (1) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from the rents and profits of the property the mortgage-money and interest thereof,—when such money and interest are so paid, (2) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from such rents and profits the interest of the mortgage-money,—when the term (if any) of the mortgage expires and the mortgagor pays or tenders to the mortgagee the mortgage-money, or deposits it in such Court as last aforesaid.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize a person interested in part only of the mortgaged property to institute a suit for the redemption of his own part only, on payment of a proportionate part of the amount remaining due on the mortgage, except where there is but one mortgagee and the mortgagor's interest in part of the property becomes vested in such mortgagee, in which case the person so interested may institute such suit.

secondly, that the mortgagor will take all legal means to protect his rights in the property:

and, where the property is leasehold, fourthly, that the lease is valid and subsisting, that the rent reserved thereby, the conditions contained therein, and the contracts binding on the lessee have been paid, performed and observed down to the execution of the mortgage-deed; and that the mortgagor will, so long as the security exists, pay the rent reserved by the lease, perform the conditions contained therein and observe the contracts binding on the lessee and indemnify the mortgagee against all claims sustained by reason of the non-payment of the said rent or the non-performance or non-observance of the said conditions and contracts.

25. If after the date of the mortgage any accession is made to the mortgaged property, the mortgagor, upon redemption, shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, and subject to the law relating to alluvion for the time being in force, be entitled to such accession.

A mortgagor proposing to make a second or other subsequent mortgage of the mortgaged property shall, before effecting the mortgage, give the second or other subsequent mortgagee notice in writing under his hand of the prior mortgage or mortgages, and a mortgagor effecting a second or other subsequent mortgage of the mortgaged property shall, as soon as may be, give the prior mortgagee or mortgagees like notice of such mortgage.

In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the mortgagee may, at any time after the mortgage-money has become payable to him, and before a decree has been made for the redemption of the mortgaged property, or the mortgage-money has been paid, institute against the mortgagor (1) a suit for a declaration that he has lost his right to redeem the property, or (2) a suit for a sale of the property.

Right to sue for foreclosure or sale.

A suit for a declaration that a mortgagor has lost his right to redeem the mortgaged property is called a suit for foreclosure.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th March, 1879, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 4 OF 1879.

A Bill to amend the Presidency Banks Act, 1876.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Presidency Banks Act, 1876, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Short title. Commencement.

1. This Act may be called "The Presidency Banks Act, 1879;" and it shall come into force on the first day of May, 1879.

Amendment of Act XI of 1876, section 28.

2. To the first clause of section 28 of the Presidency Banks Act, 1876, the following proviso shall be added, that is to say :

"Provided that no person shall be chosen to be President or Vice-President twice in succession."

Amendment of section 34 of same Act.

3. In the same Act, section 34, before the words "no Khazánchi," the words "without the previous sanction of the Board" shall be inserted.

Amendments of section 36.

4. In the same Act, section 36, clause (a), sub-clause (4), after the words "municipal body," the words "or any body of Commissioners for making improvements in any port or of trustees of any port" shall be inserted.

In the same section, the words "in the case of the Bank of Madras" shall be omitted in both the places in which they occur.

In the same section, after clause (m), the following clause shall be inserted, that is to say, "(m m) the borrowing of money in India for the purposes of the Bank's business and the giving of security for money so borrowed by pledging assets or otherwise."

Amendment of section 37.

5. In section 37 of the same Act, for clause (d), the following shall be substituted, that is to say,

"(d) Nor shall they (except upon the security mentioned in section 36, paragraph a, Nos. 1 to 5 inclusive)

lend or advance in any way to any individual or partnership-firm an amount exceeding in the whole at any one time such sum as may be so prescribed."

Amendment of section 63.

6. In section 63 of the same Act, clause (a), for the words "lent by discount of bills or otherwise to," the words "lent to or for which bills may be discounted for" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. THE necessity for this Bill has arisen chiefly from a doubt which has been expressed as to whether the Presidency-banks have power under the Presidency Banks Act, 1876, to borrow money for the purposes of their business by pledging assets or otherwise. The need of such a power is obvious.

As observed in a memorial recently submitted to the Governor General in Council by the banks, "it is an ordinary incident of banking-business to obtain funds for temporary purposes by pledging assets. If banks are prohibited from raising money by pledge of assets when occasion arises, they may, on a sudden requisition for cash, be obliged to make forced sales of property at a disadvantage; and this applies with great force to the Presidency-banks of India whose action in forcing Government or other securities on the market might cause a public panic."

The power required will be conferred by a new clause which the Bill (in the [illegible] clause of section 4) proposes to add to section 36 of the Act; but it is limited to borrowing in India, because so long as the Government balances are in the custody of the Presidency [illegible] not considered expedient that the banks should engage in foreign exchanges or have the power of creating a foreign agency in England, which would be the necessary results of conceding a power to borrow out of India.

2. The other sections of the Bill provide for certain minor amendments of the Act which it has been thought desirable to take this opportunity of making.

Section 2 provides that no person shall be, in two successive years, chosen as President or Vice-President of a Presidency-bank.

3. Section 3, which admits of a khazánchi, cashier or shroff at the principal office of a bank engaging in business with the previous sanction of the Board, has been introduced at the instance of the Bank of Bengal, who represent that the absolute prohibition contained in the present law makes it difficult to secure the services of a suitable person, and that the necessity for any such absolute prohibition has ceased to exist, now that the khazánchi has no longer any concern with the discount business in Native Bills, and is, in fact, a mere cashier.

4. Lastly, clauses have been added to clear up an ambiguity which, in the opinion of Counsel, attaches to section 37, clause (d), and section 63, clause (a), of the Act; to include in the securities on which loans may be made, and in which the banks may invest, debentures and other securities issued by the Port Trusts under Acts of the Indian legislatures, and to concede to the Banks of Bengal and Bombay the power already possessed by the Bank of Madras of drawing and dealing in negotiable instruments, and issuing bank-post-bills and letters of credit, payable in Ceylon.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following further Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by [illegible] was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of [illegible] Regulations on the 19th of February, 1879 :—

We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to define and amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property was referred, have considered the Bill as altered [illegible] the papers noted in the margin, and have the honour to present this further report.

[illegible] Government of Bengal, No. 4556, dated 29th November, 1878, [illegible] Whitley Stokes, dated 9th January, 1879.
[illegible] from a Bengali book of forms received from Mr. O'Kinealy.

2. The principal objections taken to this Bill in its second form are, first, that, as a whole, it is heterogeneous, and, secondly, that certain parts of it are neither necessary nor expedient. It is said, for instance, that, though the bulk of the Bill deals with transfer of property inter vivos by act of parties, it also treats, in sections 82, 83, of conditions in Wills, and, in section 129, of Succession to a deceased person. It is said, again, that the chapters dealing respectively with the rights and liabilities of owners of limited interests and with property held by several persons belong rather to the subject of the enjoyment, than to that of the transfer of property. It is urged that settlements (in the conveyancer's sense of the word) are hardly ever made in India, that what are technically called Powers are almost unknown, and that the chapters respectively dealing with those subjects are certainly not necessary, and can hardly be said to be expedient. We feel the force of these objections. In fact, we have felt them. But we were not responsible for the first draft of the Bill, which [illegible] excellences or defects. The matters thus objected to, together with others, such as [illegible] and Trusts, still more foreign to the proper subject of the Bill, are all dealt [illegible] prepared by the late Indian Law Commission, which was sent out in 1870 by the then Secretary of State with instructions to introduce a Bill founded upon it, revised by Sir A. Hobhouse and sent home by the Government of India in January, 1877, i.e., nearly six months before the Bill was introduced and referred to a Select Committee. The great deference due to the Law Commission and to Sir A. Hobhouse has hitherto prevented us from dealing freely with the Bill. Until the opinions of the Local Governments and the results of local experience had been obtained, for us to have altered it would have been to set our individual views against those of the able and learned men who were answerable for the Bill as introduced. But now that the opinions and results above referred to have been obtained, we see that, if the Bill is to go on at all, it must be strictly confined to the subject of transfer of property by act of parties, that is to say, by contract or gift.

3. We have therefore omitted chapters VII to XII both inclusive.

4. We cannot maintain that they are in accordance with one of the canons laid down in our last report, namely, that no additions should be made to the existing law "which are not either necessary or clearly expedient." The chapters dealing respectively with settlements, the rights and liabilities of owners of limited interests, and property held by several persons, are, moreover, very incomplete; and, as Natives are excluded from chapter IX, it would apply to a very limited class of persons. Chapter XI (of Powers) would also be of little use. We believe that among Natives powers are almost unknown. So far as we are aware, the only reported cases in which anything like a power was given by a Native are in 2 Calc. 474, and N.-W. P. (1869) Part II, p. 6, in each of which cases a Hindú bequeathed land to his wife and expressly empowered her to alienate it, and in 5 Beng. 181, where a Hindú testator empowered his sister to appoint a trustee of a religious endowment. Moreover, powers may be created by will and are, as often as not, exercisable by will. The subject therefore does not properly fall within a measure treating of the transfer of property, that is, as lawyers generally understand the expression, the conveyance of property from one living person to another.

5. As the Bill is, so far as it deals with immoveable property and debts, only a partial measure, we have made the preamble run thus:—"Whereas it is expedient to define and amend certain parts of the law relating to the transfer of property by act of parties." Compare the preamble to the Indian Contract Act, IX of 1872.

CHAPTER I.—Preliminary.

6. In section 2, we have expressly saved all transfers by operation of law (e.g., in case of insolvency, forfeiture, sale in execution of a decree), with which the Bill is not intended to deal.

7. In section 3 we have omitted, as unnecessary, the definitions of "grantor," "grantee," and "grant;" and, for the last paragraph, we have said: "Chapters III, IV, V and VI of this Act shall be taken as part of the Indian Contract Act, 1872."

CHAPTER II.—Of Assurances of Immoveable Property.

8. This chapter should we think be entitled "Of Transfers of Immoveable Property," as it relates to all transfers of such property, whether or not an assurance is employed. We have omitted section 5 and the schedule to which it relates: they do not fitly form part of a Bill dealing with substantive law. Moreover, English experience shews that statutory forms of conveyances are rarely used, and they are dangerous, as tempting unskilled persons to try and be their own conveyancers.

9. Section 6 applies to transfers of immoveable property made by assurance; but it obviously ought to apply also to oral transfers of such property. We have therefore re-drawn it.

10. In section 7, we have provided for the case of a Sebáit, which has twice come before the Judicial Committee. (See 14 Beng. 450, and I. L. R. 2 Calc. 341).

11. As rents and profits of land are 'immoveable property,' we have, after this section inserted section 1 of Act XI of 1855:—

"No person shall be chargeable with any rents or profits of any immoveable property which he has in good faith paid or delivered to any person of whom he in good faith held the same, notwithstanding it may afterwards appear that the person to whom such payment or delivery was made had no right to receive such rents or profits."

This section now applies only to cases to which the English law is applicable; but there seems no reason why so equitable and useful a rule should not be extended to every one in India.

12. Section 8 of Bill No. III applies not only to cases where land has passed inter vivos by act of parties, but also to cases in which it has been transferred by operation of law. It therefore seems beyond the scope of the Bill.

13. The Bill is silent as to the doctrine of lis pendens, which has in about a dozen reported cases been applied to Native purchasers and mortgagees (see 11 Bom. 24, 29, 30, 150; 8 Beng. 474; 1 O'Kin. 303, 309; 10 W. R. 469; Sev. 808, 951). We have inserted the following:—

"10. During the active prosecution in any Court having authority in British India or established beyond the limits of British India by the Governor General in Council, of a suit in which the right to any immoveable property is directly and specifically in question, the property cannot be transferred by any party to the suit so as to affect the rights of any other party thereto under any decree or order made therein."

14. Section 9 of Bill No. III (as to the effect of payment by one person, of consideration for which a transfer is made to another) properly belongs to the Trusts Bill, and should, we think, be omitted from the present measure.

CHAPTER III.—Sales of Immoveable Property.

15. In accordance with a suggestion of Mr. Justice Cunningham we have prefixed to this chapter a section founded on section 78 of the Contract Act; but we do not think with him that the section should provide for part delivery, an expression which, in the sense in which it is used in the Contract Act, section 92, would be inappropriate as applied to land, nor do we consider that, in stating the time at which delivery takes place, the effect of executing and delivering the assurance should be ignored.

The section referred to is as follows:—

Sale how effected.

"Sale of immoveable property is effected by offer and acceptance of certain immoveable property for a price, or of a price for certain immoveable property,

"together with payment of the price and delivery of the property, or with tender, part-payment or earnest; or with an agreement, express or implied, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed.

"Where there is a contract for the sale of immoveable property, the ownership of the property passes to the buyer when the whole or part of the price, or when the earnest, is paid, or when the property is delivered.

"If the parties agree, expressly or by implication, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed, the ownership passes as soon as the proposal for sale is accepted.

"Delivery of immoveable property takes place—

"(a) if the transfer is made by assurance—when the assurance is executed and delivered by the seller, and (if its registration is required by law) registered:

"(b) if the transfer is not made by assurance, in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing—when the parties consent to its delivery, and in the case of other immoveable property—when the buyer becomes capable of exercising physical control over it and determines to exercise such control on his own behalf or on behalf of the person whom he represents."

This will have the effect of settling a moot point of Hindú law, namely, whether change of possession is necessary to complete a sale of land, whether, in other words, the vendor must, at the time of sale, be in possession of the property sold (I. L. R. 1 Calc. 302: I. L. R. 1 Bomb. 502: N. W. P. 1871, p. 2: contra 7 Bomb. A. C. J. 4: 10 Bomb. 491). This question is answered in the negative by the Calcutta High Court and Mr. J. D. Mayne, a considerable authority on Hindú law.

16. We have omitted clauses (d) and (i) of section 11 (now 12). The former is, as Mr. Jacob points out, provided for by the Contract Act, section 39; the latter by section 10 of the same Act. On the other hand, we have restored clauses (e) and (f) of Bill No. I, modified as follows:—

"Till the ownership of the property passes to the buyer, the seller is entitled to the rents and profits thereof.

"When the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, he must bear any loss arising from the destruction, injury or deterioration of the property not caused by the seller, and he is entitled to the benefit of any improvement in, or increase in value of, the property and to the rents and profits thereof."

The latter clause corresponds with the provision of the Contract Act, section 86, as to goods.

17. We have recast and abridged section 10 (now 13) as follows:—

Disclosures required from seller and buyer.

"The following omissions are fraudulent:—

"(a) an omission of the seller of immoveable property to disclose to the buyer any defect therein of which the seller is, and the buyer is not, aware, and which the buyer could not with ordinary care discover:

"(b) an omission of the buyer of immoveable property to disclose to the seller any fact as to the nature or extent of the seller's interest therein, of which the buyer is, and the seller is not, aware, and which increases the value of such interest."

This will attract section 17, clause (5), of the Contract Act, which declares that "fraud" includes "any such omission as the law specially declares to be fraudulent."

18. As the Bill is now strictly limited to transfers by act of parties, we have omitted section 13, as to the procedure where the buyer becomes insolvent before completion. For the same reason we have also omitted section 73, as to the procedure where, during the [illegible] of a lease, the lessee becomes insolvent.

19. Section 17 (now 18), as to joint purchases. We have added, as Mr. Field suggests, "In the absence of evidence as to the shares so advanced, such persons shall be presumed to be equally interested in the property."

CHAPTER IV.—Of Exchanges.

20. As this chapter deals with moveable as well as immoveable property, we have placed it after the chapter on leases, and we have omitted the first paragraph of section 22, as the matter seems sufficiently provided for by Act IX of 1872, sections 64, 65, and Act I of 1867, sections 25, 37.

CHAPTER V.—Of Mortgages of Immoveable Property.

21. Section 27.—We fear that the abolition of equitable mortgages here proposed by the Law Commissioners would inconvenience the mercantile community. We have thought it better to say that a mortgage by deposit of title-deeds shall be deemed to create a charge on the property comprised therein and to insert the necessary clause in section 68 (now 63).

22. We have provided, in accordance with a suggestion of Mr. Field, that in the case of an usufructuary mortgage, the mortgagor may recover possession of the property, (1) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from the rents and profits of the property the principal and interest of the mortgage-money—when such principal and interest are so paid; (2) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from such rents and profits the interest of the mortgage-money—when the term (if any) of the mortgage expires and the mortgagor pays or tenders to the mortgagee, or deposits in such Court as last aforesaid, the principal of the mortgage-money."

23. Section 29 (now 24).—We have here declared the duty of a mortgagor to take all legal means to protect his rights in the mortgaged property (Macph. 112).

24. Section 31 (now 27).—This provided only for voluntary waste. We have now provided that the mortgagor is not liable for permissive waste.

25. Section 42 (now 39), clause (c).—We have added, in order to meet the case of patni tenures and saleable under-tenures, "and any arrears of rent in default of payment of which the property may be summarily sold."

We have provided that a mortgagee in possession ought to do such repairs as he can pay for out of the rents received after his interest is paid (see 9 W. R. 488).

We have omitted clause (e). The right which it gives is, as Mr. Field says, part of the mortgagee's right to take possession, which, as a general rule, finds no place in the Bill.

Where sufficient tender is made, the mortgagee in possession is thenceforth accountable for all his receipts from the mortgaged property (9 N.-W. P. 1: Macph. 159—160). We have provided for this.

26. Section 60 (now 57).—When a mortgagor obtains a decree in a redemption-suit and fails to pay the amount due, we think the mortgagee should be entitled either to a foreclosure or a sale. We have altered this section accordingly.

27. Section 61 (now 58).—We have omitted the second paragraph and the schedule to which it refers. It is hardly the function of a Bill codifying substantive law to give forms of decrees. They should, if necessary, be added to schedule IV of the Code of Civil Procedure.

CHAPTER VI.—Of Leases.

28. Section 70 (now 66).—We have substituted a section analogous to that above proposed as a substitute for section 10.

29. Section 71 (now 65).—We have struck out clauses (c) and (g). The former is superfluous, the latter is provided for by the Contract Act, sections 64 and 73.

Clause (i) now (j).—With reference to Couch, C. J.'s, decision in Koegler v. Yule, 5 Beng. 401, 416, we think this clause should run thus: "The lessee may use the property leased and its products (if any) as a reasonable owner would use them, but he must not use the property for a purpose other than that for which it was leased, or fell timber, open mines or quarries, or commit any other act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto." We have added "The prohibition in this clause does not apply to mines which were open when the lease was granted."—See 8 Chan. Div. 526.

Clause (q) now (o).—We have inserted words in the proviso to shew that the lessor's transferee is not entitled to arrears of rent due before the transfer.

Clause (r) now (p).—We have made (in accordance with a suggestion of the Government of the North-Western Provinces) the second paragraph to run thus: "Nothing in this clause shall be deemed to authorize a tenant having a right of occupancy, the farmer of an estate in respect of which default has been made in paying revenue, and the lessee of an estate under the management of a Court of Wards, to assign his interest as such tenant, farmer or lessee."

30. Section 76 (now 70).—We have completed the list of events on which a lease determines.

31. We have redrawn the clause as to waiver of forfeiture and notice. It is now numbered 71, 72.

32. We have inserted a section (74) as to the effect of surrender and forfeiture of a lease, on sub-lessees.

33. We have made some other comparatively unimportant omissions, additions and alterations in wording and arrangement. We have added on the margins references to the reported decisions of the Indian Courts and the Judicial Committee, which justify the rules contained in the Bill. It will be seen that but few of these rules are devoid of this valuable support. The assertion that the Bill would introduce a mass of new law into India must therefore be due to ignorance of the extent to which English law (under the name of justice, equity and good conscience) is actually administered to the Natives by the Anglo-Indian Courts. The object of the Bill, like that of all our Codes, is to strip our own law of all that is local and historical, and to mould the residue into a shape in which it would be suitable for an Indian population and could be easily administered by non-professional Judges. But the Bill will introduce hardly any new substantive law, and it will not (except in the case of the procedure relating to mortgages) displace any existing enactment. The rules, for instance, as to the relation of landlord and tenant contained in the local Acts, X of 1859, XVIII of 1873, XIX of 1868, XXVIII of 1868, Bengal Act VIII of 1869, and Madras Act VIII of 1865, will all remain untouched.

34. To the body of local usages and contractual incidents which in India, as in other countries, exists as to the transfer of land the tenderest care is shewn by the Bill. Not only is local usage expressly saved in sections 62, 65 and 68, but the effect of section 1, clause (a), will be to maintain intact the statutory force which the legislature has given to local usage in those two pays de coutumes the Panjáb and Oudh; and throughout India all the many incidents of a mortgage or a lease, which are not inconsistent with the provisions of the Bill, will remain wholly unaffected.

35. The Bill and preliminary report of the Select Committee have been published in English in the Presidency-towns, the Panjáb, the Central Provinces and British Burma. From the North-Western Provinces no report of publication has been received. Publication of the Bill and Report in the vernacular has been reported only by the Government of Bengal. We recommend that the Bill as now altered be published in the Gazette of India and sent to the various Local Governments for opinion. And we think that no further steps should be taken upon the Bill until it has been reported on by the new Indian Law Commission.

F. R. COCKERELL.

CALCUTTA;
The 19th February, 1879.

I concur in all the omissions and amendments made by the Committee and in their final recommendation; but I believe the Bill to be capable of further simplification, and regret to notice the almost entire absence of illustrations.

T. H. THORNTON.

I have not had time to consider either the provisions of the Bill or the changes now made thoroughly; but I agree that the chapters on Powers, Settlements, &c., should be omitted, and think these omissions necessitate republication with a view to elicit fresh criticism to be laid before the new Commission.

I would modify the new section 11 by requiring a written instrument in all cases where the value of the property sold is Rs. 100 or upwards. This will involve registration and get rid of the inconvenience and anomaly which would arise from oral sales of valuable land with deferred possession and no registration. Subject to the above remarks, I approve of the additions now made to the Bill.

G. H. P. EVANS.

I concur in all the omissions and agree that there should be a further publication.

G. C. PAUL.

I am opposed to the republication of this Bill at the present time. I believe that there is a great deal still left in the Bill which it will be desirable to omit, as relating to matters on which legislation is not called for; and I think that there should be no further publication until the Law Commission have reported on the measure.

A. J. ARBUTHNOT.

I am inclined to think that there can be no harm in republishing the Bill in its present form (though I must say that I believe it admits of further improvement), inasmuch as the republication will elicit public criticisms which may be of some use to the Law Commission.

CHAPTER III.

OF SALES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

Delivery not necessary in case of Hindús, 14 Beng. 307: 1 Bom. 5, 19.

11. Sale of immoveable property is effected by offer and acceptance of certain immoveable property for a price, or of a price for certain immoveable property, Sale how effected.

Effect of part-payment, N.-W. P. 1866, p. 161: 15 W. R. 44:

In Muhammadan law: Effect of earnest, W. R. 1864, 281: 1 Bom. 403.

Cf. Act IX of 1872, s. 78, as to goods: postponement of payment, 7 W. R. 317.

Effect of delivery before payment, 10 W. R. 194.

Where there is a contract for the sale of immoveable property, the ownership of the property passes to the buyer when the whole or part of the price, or when the earnest, is paid, or when the property is delivered.

If the parties agree, expressly or by implication, that the payment, or delivery, or both, shall be postponed, the ownership passes as soon as the proposal for sale is accepted.

Delivery of immoveable property takes place—

(a) if the transfer is made by assurance—when the assurance is executed and delivered by the seller, and (if its registration is required by law) registered:

Right to redeem, N. W. P. 1868, p. 376.

(b) if the transfer is not made by assurance, in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing—when the parties consent to the delivery, and in the case of other immoveable property—when the buyer becomes capable of exercising physical control over it and determines to exercise such control on his own behalf or on behalf of the person whom he represents.

Bill, s. 11: Bill II, s. 11: Report, s. 14.

12. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the buyer and the seller of immoveable property respectively have the rights, and are subject to the liabilities, mentioned in the ten rules next following, or such of them as are applicable to the property sold: Rights and liabilities of buyer and seller.

Devsí Ghelá v. Jivaráj Mukundás, 2 Bom. 432 (no right to have good title shewn). Abstract of title, 1 Bom. 78.

(a). The seller must produce to the buyer, for examination, all documents of title relating to the property which are in his possession or power, and must inform the buyer of all facts not apparent thereon of which the seller is aware and which affect the seller's power to fulfil his contract, and must answer to the best of his information all relevant questions put to him by the buyer in respect to the property or the title thereto.

Bill, 11 (c).

(b). Till the ownership of the property passes to the buyer, the seller is entitled to the rents and profits thereof.

Cf. Act IX of 1872, s. 86. Bill, 11 (f).

(c). When the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, he must bear any loss arising from the destruction, injury or decrease in value of the property not caused by the seller, and he is entitled to the benefit of any improvement in, or increase in value of, the property, and to the rents and profits thereof.

3 Bom. A. C. J. 102: 2 Hay 577.

(d). When the buyer has been let into possession of the property before payment of the whole of the purchase-money, the seller has a charge upon the property for the amount of the purchase-money, or any part thereof, remaining unpaid, and for interest on such amount or part; but as soon as the assurance, if any, is registered, such charge shall cease except as against the buyer.

(e). Unless the buyer has improperly declined to accept delivery of the property, he has, against the seller, a charge on the property, to the extent of the seller's interest therein, for the amount of any purchase-money properly paid by the buyer in anticipation of the delivery, and for interest on the amount of such payment; and, when the buyer properly declines to accept the delivery, also for the earnest (if any) and for his costs (if any) of a suit by himself or the seller to compel specific performance of the contract or to obtain a decree for its rescission.

3 Beng. O. C. J. 7

(f). When the buyer has been let into beneficial possession of the property before payment of the price, and the price is not paid owing to defects in the seller's title, the buyer is not liable to pay for such possession.

(g). The seller must discharge all incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the contract. The buyer may retain, out of the unpaid purchase-money, the amount of such incumbrances, and shall pay the amount so retained to the parties entitled thereto.

(h). On payment or tender of the amount due in respect of the price, the seller is bound to execute a proper assurance of the property when the buyer tenders it to him for execution at a proper time and place.

(i). On delivery of the property, the buyer is entitled to all documents of title relating thereto which are in the seller's possession or power:

Provided that (1) where the seller retains any part of the property comprised in such documents, he is entitled to retain them all, and (2) where the whole of such property is sold to different buyers, the buyer of the lot of greatest value is entitled to such documents. But in case (1) the seller, and in case (2) the buyer of the lot of greatest value, is bound, upon every reasonable request by the buyer, or by any of the other buyers, as the case may be, or by any person claiming under him, and at the cost of the person making the request, to produce the said documents and furnish such true copies thereof as he may require; and, in the meantime, the seller or the buyer, as the case may be, of the lot of greatest value, must keep the said documents safe, uncancelled and undefaced, unless prevented from so doing by fire or other inevitable accident.

Bill, s. 41 (1) altered. N. W. P. 1867, p. 199: See 7 W. R. 196: 6 W. R. 152: 25 W. R. 46.

(j). Unless the sale is made by a person in a fiduciary character, the seller shall be deemed to contract with the buyer,

secondly, that the seller and all persons claiming any interest in the same through or for him, or any person through whom he claims, will on demand execute and deliver to the buyer at his expense any further assurance of the same that may reasonably be required;

Further assurance, 5 W. R. P. C. 111.

and, where the property is leasehold, thirdly, that the lease is valid and subsisting and that the rent reserved thereby, the conditions contained therein and the contracts binding on the lessee have been paid, performed and observed down to the delivery.

When the sale is made by a person in a fiduciary character, the seller shall be deemed to contract with the buyer that the seller has done no act whereby the property is incumbered or whereby he is hindered from transferring it.

Bill II, s. 10.

Disclosures required from seller and buyer.

13. The following omissions are fraudulent:—

W. R., 258. Act IX of 1872, s. 17, clause (5), p. 19.

(a) an omission of the seller of immoveable property to disclose to the buyer any defect therein of which the seller is, and the buyer is not, aware, and which the buyer could not with ordinary care discover:

(b) an omission of the buyer of immoveable property to disclose to the seller any fact as to the nature or extent of the seller's interest therein, of which the buyer is, and the seller is not, aware, and which increases the value of such interest.

Bill, s. 12: Bill II, s. 12: Report, s. 15: W. R. 38.

Contract for sale not of itself to create interest in property.

Bill II, s. 14.

Liability of buyer of leasehold.

15. As between the seller and buyer of leasehold property, the buyer is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, bound to pay the rent reserved by the lease and accruing due after delivery of the property, to perform the contracts entered into by the lessee, and to indemnify the seller against all claims arising after the delivery in respect of non-payment of such rent or breach or non-observance of such contracts.

Bill II, s. 15.

Liability of buyer of right to redeem.

16. As between the seller and buyer of a right to redeem mortgaged property, the buyer is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, bound (a) to pay to the mortgagee the principal sum which, on delivery of the right, is due on the mortgage, and all interest from time to time due for the same, when payment thereof, respectively, is lawfully demanded, and (b) to indemnify the seller against the payment thereof, and against all claims for non-payment thereof, respectively.

Bill II, s. 16.

Money received by seller under fire-policy.

17. If at the date of the contract the property is insured against loss or damage by fire, the buyer, in case of such loss or damage, may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, require any money which the seller actually receives under the policy, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be applied in reinstating the property.

Bill II, s. 17.

Joint purchases.

18. When two or more persons purchase any immoveable property, with separate funds belonging to them respectively, they shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be interested in such property in proportion to the shares of the purchase-money which they respectively advanced.

In the absence of evidence as to the shares so advanced, such persons shall be presumed to be equally interested in the property.

Bill II, s. 18: 7 W. R. 483.

Right of buyer of one of two properties subject to common charge.

19. When two properties are subject to a common charge, and one of the properties is sold, the buyer is, as against the seller, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to have the charge satisfied out of the other property, so far as such property will extend.

Bill II, s. 19: 2 Hay 549: 1 W. R. 14: XXXI of 1854, s. 1 XXVIII of 1860, s. 31.

Bonâ fide buyer not bound to see to application of purchase-money.

20. When any property is sold, the proceeds of which are subject to any trust, the buyer in good faith of the property is not bound to see to the application of the purchase-money to the purposes of the trust nor is he answerable for the misapplication of such money.

Mortgage, mortgagor and mortgagee defined.

21. When, for the purpose of securing money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan or an existing or future debt, or the performance of an engagement, one person transfers to another a right over specific immoveable property, the transfer is called a mortgage of immoveable property, the transferor is called a mortgagor, the transferee a mortgagee, the money of which payment is secured is called the mortgage-money, and the assurance by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

For the purposes of this chapter, any person entitled as heir, legatee, assignee, lessee or otherwise than as a mortgagee to the interest of the transferor in the property subject to the mortgage, or any part of such interest, is a mortgagor; and any person entitled as heir, legatee, assignee or otherwise to the interest of the transferee under the mortgage, or any part thereof, is a mortgagee.

English mortgage.

Where the mortgagor transfers the property to the mortgagee with a proviso that, upon payment of the mortgage-money at a certain date, the property shall be retransferred, the transaction is called a mortgage in the English form.

Usufructuary mortgage.

Where the mortgagor delivers possession of the property to the mortgagee, and authorizes him to retain such possession and to pay himself from the rents and profits of the property the interest, or the mortgage-money and interest, or to take such rents and profits in lieu of interest, or of the mortgage-money and interest, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage.

Macph. 10, 12.

Simple mortgage.

Where the mortgagor binds himself personally to repay the mortgage-money, and pledges the property as collateral security for the repayment, but does not contract that, on default of payment of the mortgage-money and interest at a certain date, the property shall pass to the mortgagee, the transaction is called a simple mortgage.

Macph. 11, 12.

Mortgage by conditional sale.

Where the mortgagor not so binding himself, contracts that, on default of payment of the mortgage-money and interest at a certain date, the property shall pass to the mortgagee, the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale.

Right of mortgagor to redeem, tender or deposit.

23. A mortgagor has the following rights as against the mortgagee:—

(a) at any time after the mortgage-money has become payable, or has been paid, the mortgagor has a right on payment or tender, at a proper time and place, of the mortgage-money and interest remaining due on the mortgage, to require the mortgagee to re-transfer the mortgaged property to him, or to execute an acknowledgment in writing that any right in derogation of his ownership or other interest transferred to the mortgagee has been extinguished:

Provided that the mortgagee has not obtained an order absolute foreclosing such right, or that such right has not been after the date of the mortgage released or otherwise extinguished, or that the property has not been duly sold in pursuance of a decree or under a power given by the mortgage-deed.

The right conferred by this clause is called a right to redeem and a suit to enforce it is called a suit for redemption:

Beng. Reg. I of 1798 s. 2: Macph. 171.

(c) in the case of an usufructuary mortgage, he may recover possession of the property (1) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from the rents and profits of the property the mortgage-money and interest thereof,—when such money and interest are so paid, (2) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from such rents and profits the interest of the mortgage-money,—when the term (if any) of the mortgage expires and the mortgagor pays or tenders to the mortgagee the mortgage-money, or deposits it in such Court as last aforesaid.

Redemption of portion of mortgaged property.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize a person interested in part only of the mortgaged property to institute a suit for the redemption of his own part only, on payment of a proportionate part of the amount remaining due on the mortgage, except where there is but one mortgagee and the mortgagor's interest in part of the property becomes vested in such mortgagee, in which case the person so interested may institute such suit.

secondly, that the mortgagor will take all legal means to protect his rights in the property:

thirdly, that the mortgagor and every person claiming any interest in the property will on demand (at the cost, until foreclosure or sale, of the mortgagor and afterwards of the person requiring the same) execute every such assurance of the same that may reasonably be required;

and, where the property is leasehold, fourthly, that the lease is valid and subsisting, that the rent reserved thereby, the conditions contained therein, and the contracts binding on the lessee have been paid, performed and observed down to the execution of the mortgage-deed; and that the mortgagor will, so long as the security exists, pay the rent reserved by the lease, perform the conditions contained therein and observe the contracts binding on the lessee and indemnify the mortgagee against all claims sustained by reason of the non-payment of the said rent or the non-performance or non-observance of the said conditions and contracts.

25. If after the date of the mortgage any accession is made to the mortgaged property, the mortgagor, upon redemption, shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, and subject to the law relating to alluvion for the time being in force, be entitled to such accession.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th March, 1879, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 4 OF 1879.

A Bill to amend the Presidency Banks Act, 1876.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Presidency Banks Act, 1876, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title. Commencement.

1. This Act may be called "The Presidency Banks Act, 1879;" and it shall come into force on the first day of May, 1879.

Amendment of Act XI of 1876, section 28.

2. To the first clause of section 28 of the Presidency Banks Act, 1876, the following proviso shall be added, that is to say:

"Provided that no person shall be chosen to be President or Vice-President twice in succession."

Amendment of section 34 of same Act.

3. In the same Act, section 34, before the words "no Khazánchi," the words "without the previous sanction of the Board" shall be inserted.

Amendments of section 36.

4. In the same Act, section 36, clause (a), sub-clause (4), after the words "municipal body," the words "or any body of Commissioners for making improvements in any port or of trustees of any port" shall be inserted.

In the same section, the words "in the case of the Bank of Madras" shall be omitted in both the places in which they occur.

In the same section, after clause (m), the following clause shall be inserted, that is to say, "(m m) the borrowing of money in India for the purposes of the Bank's business and the giving of security for money so borrowed by pledging assets or otherwise."

Amendment of section 37.

5. In section 37 of the same Act, for clause (d), the following shall be substituted, that is to say,

"(d) Nor shall they (except upon the security mentioned in section 36, paragraph a, Nos. 1 to 5 inclusive)

lend or advance in any way to any individual or partnership-firm an amount exceeding in the whole at any one time such sum as may be so prescribed."

Amendment of section 63.

6. In section 63 of the same Act, clause (a), for the words "lent by discount of bills or otherwise to," the words "lent to or for which bills may be discounted for" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. THE necessity for this Bill has arisen chiefly from a doubt which has been expressed as to whether the Presidency-banks have power under the Presidency Banks Act, 1876, to borrow money for the purposes of their business by pledging assets or otherwise. The need of such a power is obvious.

As observed in a memorial recently submitted to the Governor General in Council by the banks, "it is an ordinary incident of banking-business to obtain funds for temporary purposes by pledging assets. If banks are prohibited from raising money by pledge of assets when occasion arises, they may, on a sudden requisition for cash, be obliged to make forced sales of property at a disadvantage; and this applies with great force to the Presidency-banks of India whose action in forcing Government or other securities on the market might cause a public panic."

The power required will be conferred by a new clause which the Bill (in the last clause of section 4) proposes to add to section 36 of the Act; but it is limited to borrowing in India, because so long as the Government balances are in the custody of the Presidency-banks, it is not considered expedient that the banks should engage in foreign exchanges or have the power of creating a foreign agency in England, which would be the necessary results of conceding a power to borrow out of India.

2. The other sections of the Bill provide for certain minor amendments of the Act which it has been thought desirable to take this opportunity of making.

Section 2 provides that no person shall be, in two successive years, chosen as President or Vice-President of a Presidency-bank.

3. Section 3, which admits of a khazánchi, cashier or shroff at the principal office of a bank engaging in business with the previous sanction of the Board, has been introduced at the instance of the Bank of Bengal, who represent that the absolute prohibition contained in the present law makes it difficult to secure the services of a suitable person, and that the necessity for any such absolute prohibition has ceased to exist, now that the khazánchi has no longer any concern with the discount business in Native Bills, and is, in fact, a mere cashier.

4. Lastly, clauses have been added to clear up an ambiguity which, in the opinion of Counsel, attaches to section 37, clause (d), and section 63, clause (a), of the Act; to include in the securities on which loans may be made, and in which the banks may invest, debentures and other securities issued by the Port Trusts under Acts of the Indian legislatures, and to concede to the Banks of Bengal and Bombay the power already possessed by the Bank of Madras of drawing and dealing in negotiable instruments, and issuing bank-post-bills and letters of credit, payable in Ceylon.

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Railways in India was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 26th February, 1879:—

REPORT.

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Railways in India was referred, have considered the papers noted in the annexed list; we have also had the advantage of receiving through our Hon'ble colleague Sir Andrew Clarke, many valuable suggestions from the members of the Railway Conference recently assembled at Calcutta, and we now submit our final report.

2. We have re-distributed the sections contained in the first chapters of the Bill No. II in what appears to us a more convenient way; and in the remarks which we are about to submit, we shall follow the order of the new arrangement.

3. The definition of "Railway," it will be observed, has been to some extent recast, but the only substantial changes made in it are—

1st.—That, by the omission of all reference to the Government or Companies, it is now made to comprise railways owned and worked by private persons or Native States;

2ndly.—That, by the substitution of the words "vessels and rafts" for "ferry-boats," the flotillas worked in connection with Railways will be treated as a part of such Railways;

3rdly.—That section 4 (giving the right to run locomotives) has been extended to Railways under construction, and section 52 (empowering the Government to require a line to be fenced) has been included in the provisions of the Bill applicable to Railways under construction and to Railways not used for the public conveyance of passengers and goods.

4. We have enlarged the definition of "Railway-servant," so as to include in certain sections the employés of Railway-contractors.

5. We have substituted for the definition of "Magistrate" a section (50) directly providing that offences against the Act shall not be tried by any Magistrate inferior to a Magistrate of the second class.

6. We have introduced a section (5) providing that no Railway shall be opened for traffic until it has been inspected and passed by a Government officer. This is in accordance with the law in England and with the practice that has hitherto prevailed in this country.

7. In section 6 we propose to maintain the time allowed by the present law for reporting accidents, and have somewhat enlarged the class of cases in which a report of an accident is required.

8. We have, at the suggestion of the members of the Railway Conference, omitted certain headings from the list of subjects on which the Railway-Administration was by Bill No. II empowered to make general rules, and so altered the wording of the section (now section 8) as to render it obligatory on the Railway-Administration to make rules on the remaining subjects.

9. On further considering the question of the liability of carriers by Railway for loss or damage to ordinary goods, as distinguished from goods for which a special insurance-rate, as it is sometimes called, is chargeable, we are of opinion that no mere adaptation of section 7 of the Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1854, such as is proposed in paragraph 7 of our former report, will suffice to put the law into as clear and simple a form as is desirable. The amendment we propose in section 10 will be found when the entire law bearing on the point is looked to, to be, except in one particular to which we shall presently advert, an amendment in point of form only; but it is nevertheless desirable that we should explain it in some detail.

10. The law now governing the liability of Railway Companies in India in such cases has recently come under the consideration of the High Court at Bombay in the case of Kanarji Tholsee Dass v. The Great Indian Peninsula Railway Company. It has to be collected with some pains from sections 151, 152 and 161 of the Indian Contract Act, which treat of the responsibility of bailees in general, the Carriers Act of 1865, which treats of the responsibility of common carriers, and section 11 of the Railway Act of 1854.

By these enactments it was intended to provide* that a Railway Company should be liable for loss of, or damage to, ordinary goods only when such loss or damage arose from the neglect or misconduct of its servants; and, further, that no Company should by any special contract be able to relieve itself of liability in such cases. But, though the Bombay High Court, in the case just referred to, held that the effect of these enactments when taken together was, at all events as regards the main point, in accordance with the intention of the framers, it arrived at this conclusion only after a discussion which makes it clear that some simplification in point of form is desirable.

* See as regards the Railway Act, the Statement of Objects and Reasons of the Carriers Act, 1865.

11. What we now propose is to remove contracts to carry by Railway altogether from the operation of the Carriers Act of 1865 and to frame the section of this Bill regarding them in such a manner that the whole law will be found in that section and the provisions of the Contract Act relating to bailments.

Under sections 151 and 152 of the Contract Act, carriers by Railway will be bound to take the same care of the goods entrusted to them as a prudent man would take of his own; and where they take such care, they will not be liable for any loss or damage that may occur.

Under section 10 of the Bill, they will be prohibited, as a rule, from freeing themselves by any special contract from the obligation thus imposed upon them.

12. So far the law will be in strict accordance with the existing law or what the existing law was intended to be; but here we have introduced an alteration of some, though not of very great, importance by excepting from the general rule prohibiting special contracts such contracts in writing as may be in a form approved of by the Governor General in Council, and may be signed by the consignor.

It will be observed that this exception corresponds to the proviso regarding special contracts in section 7 of the Railway and Canal Traffic Act, 1854, with this difference that, while the latter Act provides that the special contract shall be effectual and relieve the Company only, if it is held by the Court to be reasonable, thus leaving the validity of the contract to be determined ex post facto, our exception makes the contract good, if in a form to be approved beforehand, and thus avoids the uncertainty which, owing to the different views that may be taken by different Judges as to the reasonableness of a contract, frequently attaches to such transactions in England.

13. It need hardly be said that contracts going to relieve absolutely from liability for neglect or misconduct would usually be held unreasonable in England; but there are cases in which it has been held that a carrier by Railway may reasonably exempt himself, at least conditionally or partially, from such liability as, e. g., where he stipulates that he shall not be liable unless a claim is made within a certain time after the loss or damage has occurred,[1] or where he is willing to carry subject to the ordinary liability at a fair rate, but offers as an alternative to carry free from all liability at a lower rate,[2] or where he exempts himself only from liability for damage arising from loss of market caused by delay.[3] It is to meet cases of this sort that the exception has been introduced.

14. Our attention having been directed since the submission of our previous report to the danger to which carriers by Railway in this country are exposed of having fraudulent claims brought against them in respect of valuable property of small bulk alleged to have been lost in transit (a point dwelt on at some length by the Select Committee in the Act of 1854), we have deemed it well to omit the limitation of Rs. 100, which we introduced into Bill No. II, and to require (section 11) that such property shall (as at present) be declared in all cases, whatever be its value.

15. The only other points which it is necessary to mention in connection with this portion of the Bill are that we have struck out the second sentence of section 5 of the Bill No. II, which was intended to relieve the Government or the Company in certain cases from liability for loss or damage to luggage occasioned otherwise than by the neglect or default of a Railway-officer, but which is obviously unnecessary now that it is made clear that the carrier is in all cases so relieved; and that we have embodied in section 13 the provision of the Carriers Act of 1865, by which the onus of showing in what way the loss or damage was occasioned is thrown upon the carrier.

16. We have (section 14) enlarged the power of selling property left in the hands of the Railway-Administration with charges for conveyance, demurrage, &c., due upon it by empowering the Administration—

(a) to sell such property at once if it is perishable, and

(b) to sell the whole of it if they think fit instead of only such portion as may be sufficient to defray their charges.

This last power is, we understand, indispensable, as otherwise the Railway-Administration will be liable in certain states of the market to have its premises incumbered with unclaimed goods.

17. We have added to chapter IV a section (20) empowering Railway-servants to remove from railway-carriages and from the railway-premises persons suffering from infectious diseases.

18. We have, chiefly at the instance of the members of the Railway Conference, enhanced or reduced several of the penalties imposed by chapter V.

19. We have modified the restrictions on smoking by omitting in section 32 of the present Bill the words of section 6 of Act XVIII of 1854 which made it an offence to smoke on the Railway-premises.

20. We have, in section 40, imposed a penalty for needlessly interfering with the means of communication between the guard and the engine-driver or passengers.

21. We have, at the instance of many of the authorities consulted, extended to girls section 44, which provides for the case of children throwing stones at a train or tampering with the permanent-way. There being, however, no legal penalty suitable for the case of girls under seven years of age, we have been compelled to content ourselves with holding their parents or guardians liable. As regards the liability of the parent or guardian, we have, on further consideration, deemed it better to require him to enter into a bond binding himself to prevent his child repeating the offence, instead of subjecting him in the first instance to a penalty for an act of misconduct on the part of the child which he might have had no reason to foresee.

22. We have, in section 50, provided that a person committing an offence against the Act or the rules made under it may be tried in any place which the Local Government may appoint, as well as in any place in which he may now be tried for such offence. This, it has been repre-

Publication of the Bill and report in the vernacular has been reported only by the Governments of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh and of the Panjáb; we do not consider that the changes now made are such as to render republication necessary, especially as most of these changes have met with the approval of the Members of the Railway Conference ; and we accordingly recommend that the Bill as amended be passed.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Code of Civil Procedure was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th March, 1879 :—

REPORT.

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Code of Civil Procedure was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers specified in the annexed list.

2. In the interpretation-clause, we have expressly declared that an order finally disposing of an application for execution falls within the definition of 'decree.' This will remove a doubt which we understand has been felt in two of the High Courts. We have also provided that 'signed' shall include stamped. The use of a seal capable of producing an impression of the name and title of the person using it is common among Natives of rank.

3. To section 13 we have added an explanation declaring in effect, that a decision in a suit for arrears of rent under any local law relating to landlord and tenant, shall not be deemed to be res judicata in case of suits relating to the title to the property in respect of which the rent is claimed.

4. In section 44, we have provided for joining, with claims by and against a legal representative as such, claims which he was personally entitled to, or liable for, jointly with the deceased person whom he represents, e.g., on a promissory note jointly executed by the deceased and the person who becomes his executor.

5. We have altered the last paragraph of section 52, so as to require the examination of the witness to the verification of the plaint only when the Court entertains doubt as to the fact of the signature.

6. We have extended section 108 to all cases in which decrees have been set-aside ex parte, and provided for cases in which the summons was not duly served, as well as for those in which the defendant was prevented from appearing.

7. Section 131 does not as Act VIII of 1859, section 107, did, empower parties to give notice to produce documents generally. We have therefore made section 131 apply to the production of all documents in the possession or power of a party, whether they are or are not referred to in the plaint, written statement or affidavit of the latter.

8. We have struck out from section 230 the words as to granting subsequent applications for execution, when the Court is satisfied that on the preceding application due diligence had been used to procure complete satisfaction. The effect of these words appears to us to discourage leniency and to invite litigation. We have altered the same section, so as to provide (in accordance with the new Limitation Act, schedule II, Art. 179, paragraph 6) for a decree awarding maintenance, which has been held not to be a decree directing "the payment of money or the delivery of property by instalments."

9. We have amended section 245, so as to provide for non-compliance with the requirements not only of sections 235 and 236, but also of sections 236 and 237.

10. We have altered the first explanation to section 216, so as to bring within its scope decrees made over to a Court for execution.

11. We have amended sections 259 and 260, so as to make it clear that, when an attachment under either section has remained in force for the specified time, if the judgment-debtor has not obeyed the decree and the decree-holder has, within that time, applied for a sale, the property may be sold; but that, if the judgment-debtor has obeyed, and the decree-holder has not made such application, the attachment shall cease.

12. We have provided, in section 268, that, where a moiety of the salary of a public officer or railway-servant is attached, the attachment shall be made by an order requiring the officer whose duty it is to disburse the salary to withhold every month such portion as the Court may direct until the amount of the portions so withheld is equal to the amount of the decree; and we have authorized him to pay into Court every portion so withheld; and declared that such payment shall discharge the Government or the Railway Company. We have struck out the last paragraph of the same section.

13. We have altered section 291, so as to empower the Court directing an execution-sale, as well as the officer conducting one, to adjourn it.

14. Where the holder of a decree in execution of which property is sold purchases the property without the Court's permission, we have provided in section 294, that the Court may, if it thinks fit, set-aside the sale, and that any deficiency of price which may happen on a re-sale shall be paid by the decree-holder.

15. We think that mortgages, leases and sales made under section 305 by the judgment-debtor should not become absolute until they are confirmed by the Court; and we have added a provision to this effect.

16. We think that, besides the decree-holder and the owner of land sold in execution, any other person interested in the sale should have power to apply to set it aside on the ground of material irregularity; and we have amended section 311 of the Code accordingly.

17. Much doubt exists as to where the title to land sold at an execution-sale vests in the purchaser. We think it should vest from the date of the certificate, which is granted as soon as the sale becomes absolute; and we have added to section 316 a sentence to this effect.

18. We have recast sections 322 and 323 of the Code, so as to make them express clearly what we believe to have been the intention of their author, namely, that, where a money-decree in satisfaction of which the Court has ordered a sale of land has been transferred to the Collector, he should ascertain the amount of all existing decrees against the judgment-debtor and raise the amount necessary to discharge all his judgment-debts with interest, by dealing with such land, and such land only, in any of the modes prescribed by section 322.

19. We have altered section 331, paragraph two, so as to express the provisions of the corresponding section (229) of Act VIII of 1859, and we have redrawn the latter half of section 332, so as to avoid the reference to the Specific Relief Act, section 9, whilst maintaining the procedure required by that enactment and the effect of an order passed thereunder.

20. We think that the first payment of a judgment-debtor's monthly subsistence-money should be made to the proper officer of the Court, and that the subsequent payments should be made to the officer in charge of the jail; and we have altered section 339 accordingly.

21. When an applicant for the benefit of the insolvency-chapter (XX) furnishes sufficient security that he will appear when called upon, we have empowered the Court to release him. The Recorder of Rangoon exercises under the Burma Courts Act insolveney-jurisdiction in the towns of Rangoon, Maulmain, Akyab and Bassein. We do not think it expedient that any other Courts should exercise such jurisdiction concurrently with him. We have therefore expressly excluded all Courts situate in such towns from the operation of chapter XX.

22. Where a pauper's suit is dismissed for non-appearance of either party, we have empowered the Court to order him to pay the fees which would have been paid by him if he had not been permitted to sue as a pauper.

23. We have amended section 456 of the Code so as to provide for obtaining an order for the appointment of a guardian ad litem upon application by the plaintiff; and where there is no other person fit and willing to act as such guardian, we have authorized the Court to appoint any of its officers.

24. We have substituted for section 555 a section providing that in all cases the appellant shall begin.

25. We have made section 560 of the Code provide for the cases when notice is not served on the respondent, as well as for those in which he was prevented from appearing.

26. We have amended section 582 of the Code, so as to preclude the doubt whether the Appellate Court is bound (so far as may be) to perform the duties, as well as authorized to exercise the powers, of the Court of first instance.

27. In section 584, clause (a), we have omitted the words "some specified," which have been held by some to limit the 'law' there mentioned to a statutory enactment, and by others to require the appellant to express in formal terms the rule which he alleges to have been contravened.

28. We think that appeals should lie from orders under section 57, clause (a), returning a plaint on the ground that the suit has been instituted in the wrong Court; and from orders under section 313 refusing an application to set-aside a sale of immoveable property; and we have amended section 588 accordingly. We have also amended the last clause of the same section, so as to give a second appeal from all orders under section 244, as to mesne profits or relating to the execution, discharge or satisfaction of a decree.

29. We have extended section 642, so as to exempt from arrest under the Code the parties to any matter pending before a tribunal having, or believing bonâ fide that it has, jurisdiction, their pleaders, mukhtárs, revenue-agents and witnesses while going to, attending or returning from, such tribunal. This will include not only civil Courts, but criminal Courts, Courts-martial and arbitrators, and accords with the existing law of England.

30. Sections 223—229 seem to provide sufficiently for the execution of decrees. We have therefore limited section 648 to arrests and attachments made otherwise than in execution, and provided for the release of any person arrested under that section who furnishes security for his appearance before the Court that issued the warrant.

31. We have added to section 649 a paragraph providing for the execution of the decrees of Courts which have ceased to exist, as for example, where a Court of Small Causes is abolished by the Local Government under Act XI of 1865, section 3, or where a Munsif invested with Small Cause jurisdiction, having passed a considerable number of decrees, is transferred to another Munsifí, and his successor at the particular Munsifí at which this jurisdiction was exercised has not been invested with similar jurisdiction.

32. We have inserted after section 650, a section providing for the service of foreign summonses when issued either by Courts established by the Governor General in Council, or by Courts to which the Governor General in Council has applied this provision.

33. We have amended the second schedule, so as to extend to the Small Cause Courts in the Mufassal sections 223—229, as to execution of decrees;

section 360, enabling the Local Government to invest any Court with insolvency-jurisdiction;

chapter XXXVI, as to Receivers; and sections 523, 524, as to filing in Court agreements to refer to arbitration, and sections 525, 526, as to filing awards made on reference without the intervention of a Court.

34. We have made several corrections of clerical and typographical errors which need not be specified.

35. Lastly, we have amended the Registration Act, by inserting a clause providing that a copy of every certificate of sale of land granted under section 316 of the Code shall be sent to the local registering officer, who will file it in his Book No. 1. We have also taken the opportunity to amend three trifling errors in this Act, one of which is a misprint. And we have amended the Limitation Act, by inserting in its second schedule articles providing respectively for applications under sections 368 and 371 of the Code.

36. We recommend that the Bill thus amended be passed. The Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons have been published in English in all the local Gazettes except those for Assam and Ajmer. They have been published in the vernacular in all the Gazettes except those for the Central Provinces, British Burma, Assam and Ajmer. We do not think that the Bill has been so altered as to require republication.

[First publication.]

The following supplementary Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 19th March, 1879:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Code of Civil Procedure was referred, have the honour to submit the following supplementary Report.

2. Since our Report of the 5th March was presented, our colleague Mr. Stokes has received from Mr. Justice Ainslie a note on the Bill which has led us to make certain further changes therein.

3. It seems to us that the definition of "decree," even when made to include orders finally disposing of applications for execution, is not wide enough. It does not, for instance, comprise an order made on settlement of issues overruling pleas of law (such as that the suit is barred by the Limitation Act), and directing a trial of complicated questions of fact or the investigation of complicated accounts; for this does not "decide the suit," as the defendant may have a defence on the facts. Again, it does not include a decretal order for an account, for this does not "decide the suit;" inasmuch as, on taking the account, it may turn out that nothing is due, in which case the plaintiff's suit would in the end be dismissed. Yet a defendant ought not, if he has a good defence, to be put to the possibly enormous expense and inconvenience of an account for (say) twenty years. He should clearly have a right of appeal. The fact is that there may be more than one decree in a suit and that the various points arising may be decided at different hearings and the results embodied in different "formal orders." We have therefore widened the first sentence of the definition of "decree" as follows: "decree means the formal expression of a final adjudication upon any right claimed, or defence set up, in a Court of justice."

4. We have not overlooked the fact that some of the orders under section 244 of the Code, from which we propose to give two appeals by section 588 as now amended, may be held to be decrees within the meaning of this first sentence of the definition; but we deem it safer, in order to prevent all mistake, to give the appeals from these orders in express terms by section 588, and formally to exclude them from the definition of decree. We have also defined "order" as meaning the formal expression of any decision of a Court of justice which is not a decree, and we have defined "judgment" as the statement given by the Judge of the grounds of a decree or order.

5. There is much evidence to shew that the examination of a witness as to the fact of signature of the verification of the plaint by the person whose name it purports to bear is a useless form. We have therefore, instead of amending section 52 of the Code as proposed by the Bill as last settled, repealed the part of that section requiring such examination.

6. We think that the Court should fix a period within which the sum required to defray the costs of service of a process must be paid into Court by the party concerned. In the absence of such a provision (which was contained in Act XXIII of 1861, section 2), there is no rule by which the Court is to be guided in determining when a party is in default. We have therefore amended section 98 of the Code so as to require a period to be fixed for the payment of the Court-fee, and we have made a similar amendment in section 95, as to payment of postage.

7. It is strongly urged by Mr. Justice Ainslie that our proposed change in section 168 of the word "may" to "shall" would assist litigants to obstruct justice by obtaining unnecessary adjournments. We have accordingly omitted the section of the Bill by which it was proposed to make that change.

8. We have provided in section 289 for fixing up in the Court-house a copy of the proclamation of sale, and we have made a corresponding amendment in section 290.

9. The question is constantly arising whether a fresh proclamation is required when a sale is adjourned. We have provided in section 291 that, in case of such adjournment for a longer period than seven days, a fresh proclamation shall be made, unless the judgment-debtor consents to waive it.

10. In section 220 we have provided for the execution of orders as to costs.

11. In our report of the 5th of March we proposed to alter section 311 of the Code so as admit of other persons in an execution-sale besides the decree-holder and the owner applying to set-aside the sale. We have, at the suggestion of the High Court at Fort William, struck out this amendment of section 311 of the Code. The High Court urges that it would be of little practical benefit and that it might sometimes be misused to delay the completion of proceedings in execution by persons put forward by the judgment-debtor to dispute the regularity of the sale.

12. We have repealed the last nineteen words of section 13 of Act XI of 1865. They are, in the opinion of the same High Court, unnecessary and occasionally mischievous.

13. The importance of the change now made in the definitions of "decree" and "judgment," make it desirable in our opinion that the Bill should be republished, so as to afford an opportunity for the correction of any oversight into which we may have fallen; but the substance of the amendment has now been so fully discussed that we think that, unless some serious objection is brought to light, there can be no objection to the Bill being passed as it stands; and, looking to the urgency of some of its provisions, we think its passing should not be delayed more than two months.

"Such notice shall be published by being posted in the court-house of the Court which made the order under section 304, and at such other places (if any) as the Collector thinks fit.

Powers of Collector in such cases.

"323. The Collector shall ascertain the sums remaining due on such decrees respectively, and may then (notwithstanding any order under section 304, but subject to such rules as may from time to time be made in this behalf by the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority) raise the amount necessary to discharge each of such sums, with interest thereon according to the decree under which it is due, or, if the decree makes no provision as to interest, then with interest (if any) at such rate as he thinks fit—

"(b) by mortgaging the whole or any part of such property: or

"(c) by selling part of such property: or

"(d) by letting on farm, or managing by himself or another, the whole or any part of such property for any term not exceeding twenty years from the date of the order of sale: or

"(e) partly by one of the modes mentioned in clauses (b), (c) and (d), and partly by another or others of such modes.

"For the purpose of managing under this section the whole or any part of such property, the Collector may exercise all the powers of its owner.

"So long as any letting or management under clause (d) or clause (e) continues, the judgment-debtor and his representative in interest shall be incompetent to mortgage, charge, lease or alienate the property let or managed or any part thereof."

Amendment of section 331.

39. In section 331, paragraph two, for the words and figures "the Specific Relief Act, 1877, section 9," the word and figure "Chapter V" shall be substituted; and to the same section the following paragraph shall be added (namely), "Every such order shall have the same force as a decree and shall be subject to the same conditions as to appeal or otherwise."

Amendment of section 332.

40. In section 332, first paragraph, for the word "defendant," the word "judgment-debtor" shall be substituted; and for the other paragraphs, the following shall be substituted (namely), "If after examining the applicant it appears to the Court that there is probable cause for making the application, the Court shall proceed to investigate the matter in dispute, and if it finds that the ground mentioned in the first paragraph of this section exists, it shall make an order that the applicant recover possession of the property, and if it does not find as aforesaid, it shall dismiss the application.

"In hearing applications under this section, the Court shall confine itself to the grounds of dispute above specified.

2. The Bill as introduced proposed that the division of the whole area of an island formed opposite several holdings should be made rateably among the owners in proportion to their respective frontages, and was framed so as merely to indicate those holders. If, for example, there were three such owners, A, B and C, whose respective frontages were 100 yards, 200 yards and 300 yards, it was intended that A should take one-sixth of the whole area of the island, B one-third and C one-half, and this division was to have been effected either by private arrangement or in default thereof by a suit for partition. It has, however, been strongly urged that, to preclude litigation and discrepancy of practice, the Bill should, at least in the case of land forming in rivers, contain rules not only for giving the areas, but for defining the plots, to which the several riparian owners are entitled. For this purpose rules have been suggested both by the Board of Revenue of the Lower Provinces and the High Court at Fort William, the former proposing that the alluvion should be divided by right lines perpendicular to the extremities of the frontages, the latter proposing a division by right lines bisecting the angles made by perpendiculars drawn from the extremities of adjacent frontages. But it will be seen on examination that, under either of these plans, alluvial lands formed in the bend of a river would sometimes fall to more than one estate, and further provision would then be required for a rateable division of those lands between the owners of the estates concerned. The subject is one of no small difficulty; but it seems to us that the following rule, which is said by a distinguished Settlement-officer (Mr. Ibbetson) to be practically the rule now in force in the Panjáb, and which is recommended for adoption by the Government of that Province, solves the problem satisfactorily and completely :—

"Where from natural causes an island or other land is formed in or on the bank of a river, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, each owner having a frontage on the river is entitled to so much of the land as is included by his frontage, the thread of the stream and lines drawn riverwards from the ends of such frontage to meet the thread of the stream in a direction normal to such thread.

[The term "normal," we may observe, is here used instead of "perpendicular," as the thread of the stream may be a curve. It is obvious that in such case several normals may possibly be drawn from the same point, and that these normals may be either of different or of the same length. The rule, therefore, proceeds as follows :—]

"Where more than one such normal can be drawn from one and the same end of any frontage and each of such normals is of different length, the shortest of such normals shall be deemed to be the including line; and where more than one such normal can be so drawn, and each of such normals is of the same length, the line bisecting the angle between the two extreme positions of the shortest normal shall be deemed to be the including line."

It will be seen that the above rule applies not only to alluvion deposited on the banks of two contiguous holdings, but also to islands. Incidentally, this will have the effect of rendering immaterial the often difficult question whether a new deposit is an island or not.

3. The above is the chief substantial alteration which we have made in the Bill. We now proceed to specify the minor changes which we deem desirable.

4. In the tidal portion of rivers like the Hugli are many islands which are flooded by ordinary tides in the rainy season, but only by extraordinary springs, or not at all, in the dry season. These chars are cultivable in the dry season and should be included in the definition of "island." We have therefore added to that definition the words "throughout the year."

5. To fix with more precision the time at which, for the purposes of the Bill, an alluvial island is first formed, we have provided that it must be capable of being employed for cultivation, pasture or other useful purpose, such, for example, as the supply of reeds or brush-wood. The question of fordability will thus be decided after an island newly formed becomes, as the Privy Council puts it, "valuable and usable."

6. Where any formation takes place on a site of which the Government is proved to be the owner, we have declared that the Government is entitled to such formation.

7. In the case of land formed on the shore of the sea or of a lake and in that of an island formed in the sea or a lake, we have provided that the distribution in proportion to the frontage of the riparian owners shall be effected by such officer as the Local Government may appoint and in accordance with such rules (consistent with the proposed Act) as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe.

8. We think that, to entitle the Crown to alluvial islands, the channel between the island and each bank or shore should not be fordable during the dry season next after the formation.

9. In determining the right to abandoned river-beds, we think we should have regard to the thread of the stream in the preceding dry season, and not to what it was immediately before the abandonment—a matter which cannot be always ascertained. In other respects, the rule for the division of such beds among the riparian owners will be the same as that which we have provided in the case of alluvial lands.

10. We have empowered the Local Government to declare, with reference to any tidal river, where, for the purposes of the proposed Act, the river shall be deemed to end and the sea to begin; and we have provided that no declaration under the Act shall be cancelled or altered, save with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

11. In the Panjáb the ownership of lands subject to the action of rivers is mainly regulated by local usage. We have accordingly retained the section of the Bill as introduced, which provided that such usages should be respected and, in certain cases, presumed to be in force. But such provisions do not appear to be required in Madras, Bombay, Oudh or the North-Western Provinces, and though local usage is saved in the Lower Provinces and Assam by the Bengal Regulation XI of 1825, there seems to be only one instance in which there has been any attempt to establish it. We have, therefore, confined to the Panjáb the section saving usage. But there is ground for the belief that even in that Province some of the local usages referred to,—including the usage known as "the deep-stream rule"—besides being objectionable on economic grounds and adverse to imperial interests are more or less unsuited to the time and distasteful to the communities affected by them. In these circumstances we have deemed it right, on the recommendation of experienced officers, to provide a procedure whereby such usages may, if thought expedient, be discontinued, and fixed boundaries substituted for varying boundaries in riparian estates.

12. As the rights of mortgagees and tenants to alluvial lands are saved by the Transfer of Property Bill, No. III, sections 37 and 65, clause (e), we have not thought it necessary to provide for such rights.

13. The Bill in its present form is not to be taken as expressing our final views as to all the difficult and important subjects with which it deals. But we think that the changes which it has undergone are such as to render republication desirable, for the purpose of eliciting criticism from the public and from the judicial and executive officers by whom its provisions will be carried into effect. We also think that its further consideration should be stayed until the new Law Commission has reported thereon. We therefore recommend that the Bill as now amended be republished with this Report in the Gazette of India, and sent to the Local Governments for opinion and for publication in the local Gazettes.

14. The Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons have been published in English in the local Gazettes for Madras, Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the Panjáb, the Central Provinces and British Burma. Publication in English has not been reported from Bombay and Assam. Publication in the vernacular has been reported only from Madras, Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the Panjáb and the Central Provinces.

"island" means land surrounded by water and capable of being employed for cultivation, pasture or other useful purpose. It includes such land arising in a river or lake, submerged in the wet season and visible only in the dry season; but it excludes land arising in tidal rivers, tidal lakes or the sea, submerged by the flow of ordinary tides throughout the year:

"owner" means, in the case of a bank or shore held on raiyatwári tenure, the Government: in the case of a bank or shore forming part of land situate in the Presidency of Bombay and wholly or partially exempt from the payment of land-revenue, or held under a grant or lease fixing the Government demand in respect thereof in perpetuity, the holder of such land; and in the case of a bank or shore held by a village-community, or by one or more members of it, such community:

II.—Alluvial Land and Islands.

Right to land formed on shore of sea or lake. 4. Where, from natural causes, land forms gradually on the shore of the sea or of a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the sea or lake, the owners of the shore are severally entitled to the land so formed in proportion to the frontage which they respectively had on the sea or lake immediately before the formation; and the partition of the land so formed shall be made by such officer as the Local Government appoints in this behalf, and in accordance with such rules, consistent with this Act, as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe:

Provided that, where the land or any portion thereof forms on a site which is proved to belong to the Government or a private owner, the Government or such owner, as the case may be, is entitled to the land or portion so formed.

Right to islands where channel is not fordable. 5. Where an island is formed, from natural causes, in a river, the sea or a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the sea or lake, if the island is separated from each bank or shore by a channel not fordable at any point, the Government is entitled to such island:

Provided that, where the island or any portion thereof is formed on a site which is proved to belong to a private owner, such owner is entitled to the island or portion so formed.

Right to other islands in sea or lake. 6. If, where an island is formed as aforesaid in the sea or a lake, the channels between it and either shore are fordable at any point, the owners of the nearest shore are severally entitled to the island in proportion to the frontage which they respectively have on the sea or lake; and the partition of the island so formed shall be made by such officer as the Local Government appoints in this behalf and in accordance with such rules, consistent with this Act, as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe.

Right to land formed in, or on bank of, river. 7. Where, from natural causes, an island or other land is formed in, or on the bank of, a river, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, and the Government is not entitled thereto under section five, each owner having a frontage on the river is entitled to so much of the land as is included by his frontage, the thread of the stream during the dry season next after the formation and lines drawn riverwards from the ends of such frontage to meet the thread of the stream in a direction normal to such thread:

Where more than one such normal can be drawn from one and the same end of any frontage and each of such normals is of different length, the shortest of such normals shall be deemed to be the including line, and where more than one such normal can be so drawn and each of such normals is of the same length, the line bisecting the angle between the two extreme positions of the shortest normal shall be deemed to be the including line.

Provided that, where the land or any portion thereof is formed on a site which is proved to belong to the Government or a private owner, the Government or such owner, as the case may be, is entitled to the land or portion so formed.

Islands formed by division of rivers. 8. If a river freshly divides and surrounds, or, by changing its course, cuts off, lands belonging to the owner of the bank, such owner is entitled to the lands so surrounded or cut off.

III.—Abandoned River-beds.

Right to abandoned river-beds. 9. Where a river suddenly abandons the bed which it occupies during the season of flood, each owner having a frontage on such bed is entitled to so much of the bed as is included by his frontage, the thread of the stream during the dry season next before the abandonment and lines drawn towards the bed from the ends of such frontage to meet such thread in a direction normal thereto.

Where more than one such normal can be drawn from one and the same end of any frontage, the rules contained in the second paragraph of section seven shall apply:

Provided that, when the ancient bed is proved to have belonged immediately before the abandonment to the Government or a private owner, it shall continue to be the property of the Government or of such owner, as the case may be.

IV.—Miscellaneous.

Power to declare "main-stream," "dry season" and "thread of the stream." 10. The Local Government may, from time to time, declare, with reference to any river, or any part of any river,—

(a) what shall be deemed to be, for the purposes of this Act, the "main-stream" and the "dry season"; and

(b) which of the said definitions of "thread of the stream" shall be deemed to be in force.

The Local Government may also declare, with reference to any tidal river, where, for the purposes of this Act, the river shall be deemed to end and the sea to begin.

Every declaration made under this section, and all rules made under section four or section six, shall be published in the official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law. And no such declaration shall be cancelled or altered save with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

In the absence of a declaration made under clause (b) as to any river or part thereof, and having the force of law, the first of the said definitions of "thread of the stream" shall be deemed to be in force with reference to such river or part.

Savings. 11. Nothing herein contained shall—

(a) affect any law relating to the assessment of land-revenue or to the enhancement or abatement of rent; or

(b) confer on any owner of a bank or shore in respect of which he is hereby declared to be entitled to alluvial land, to an island, or to an abandoned river-bed, any title to such land, island or river-bed, better than that which he has to the bank or shore; or

(c) enlarge any holding granted by Government, the area of which has been fixed by any sanad or other document executed under the authority of Government; or

(d) authorize any acts of private persons done in order to divert currents or cause accretions; or

(e) authorize any encroachments by private persons on the banks, beds or channels of navigable rivers; or

(f) prevent any officer duly empowered by the Government in this behalf from removing [illegible] which appear to him to interfere with the [illegible] navigation of such rivers, or [illegible] the passage of boats by tracking on [illegible] rivers or otherwise; or

[illegible] officer duly empowered by the [illegible] in this behalf from regulating the direction and flow of such rivers and the preservation and distribution of their waters.

Local usage in Panjáb. 12. In the territories administered by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Panjáb, nothing herein contained shall affect any definite and well-established local usage respecting the right to alluvial land, islands or abandoned river-beds; but (except in the cases provided for by the Panjáb Land-Revenue Act, 1871, section 16) the burden of proving such usage shall lie on the person alleging it:

Provided that the Local Government may from time to time (a) cause the bed of any river or part of a river, together with the islands and alluvial lands situate therein or adjacent thereto, to be surveyed and mapped, (b) appoint an officer to enquire into, determine and record the rights of private persons and the Government, in, to or over the said bed, islands and lands, and (c) declare that rights so recorded shall not be affected by any local usage. And the provisions of the Panjáb Land Revenue Act, 1871, chapter II, shall apply, so far as may be, to proceedings under this section, and the determination of the said rights shall be made after consideration of the gain and loss (if any) caused by changes in the course of the river for a period of twelve years next before the date of the survey-notification.

Right of Crown to alluvial lands, &c., not hereinbefore provided for. 13. All land and islands formed, and all river-beds abandoned, as mentioned respectively in sections four, five and nine, and not vesting under any of the provisions hereinbefore contained, shall vest in the Government.

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Code of Civil Procedure was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th March, 1879:—

REPORT.

We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Code of Civil Procedure was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers specified in the annexed list.

2. In the interpretation-clause, we have expressly declared that an order finally disposing of an application for execution falls within the definition of 'decree.' This will remove a doubt which we understand has been felt in two of the High Courts. We have also provided that 'signed' shall include stamped. The use of a seal capable of producing an impression of the name and title of the person using it is common among Natives of rank.

3. To section 13 we have added an explanation declaring in effect, that a decision in a suit for arrears of rent under any local law relating to landlord and tenant, shall not be deemed to be res judicata in case of suits relating to the title to the property in respect of which the rent is claimed.

4. In section 44, we have provided for joining, with claims by and against a legal representative as such, claims which he was personally entitled to, or liable for, jointly with the deceased person whom he represents, e. g., on a promissory note jointly executed by the deceased and the person who becomes his executor.

5. We have altered the last paragraph of section 52, so as to require the examination of the witness to the verification of the plaint only when the Court entertains doubt as to the fact of the signature.

6. We have extended section 108 to all cases in which decrees have been set-aside as provided for cases in which the summons was not duly served, as well as for those in which the defendant was prevented from appearing.

7. Section 131 does not as Act VIII of 1859, section 107, did, empower parties to give [illegible] to produce documents generally. We have therefore made section 131 apply to the [illegible] of all documents in the possession or power of a party, whether they are or are not [illegible] the plaint, written statement or affidavit of the latter.

[illegible] have struck out from section 230 the words as to granting subsequent applications [illegible] ion, when the Court is satisfied that on the preceding application due diligence had [illegible] to procure complete satisfaction. The effect of these words appears to us to dis[illegible] ey and to invite litigation. We have altered the same section, so as to provide [illegible] with the new Limitation Act, schedule II, Art. 179, paragraph 6) for a decree awarding maintenance, which has been held not to be a decree directing "the payment of money or the delivery of property by instalments."

9. We have amended section 245, so as to provide for non-compliance with the requirements not only of sections 235 and 236, but also of sections 236 and 237.

10. We have altered the first explanation to section 246, so as to bring within its scope decrees made over to a Court for execution.

11. We have amended sections 259 and 260, so as to make it clear that, when an attachment under either section has remained in force for the specified time, if the judgment-debtor has not obeyed the decree and the decree-holder has, within that time, applied for a sale, the property may be sold; but that, if the judgment-debtor has obeyed, and the decree-holder has not made such application, the attachment shall cease.

12. We have provided, in section 268, that, where a moiety of the salary of a public officer or railway-servant is attached, the attachment shall be made by an order requiring the officer whose duty it is to disburse the salary to withhold every month such portion as the Court may direct until the amount of the portions so withheld is equal to the amount of the decree; and we have authorized him to pay into Court every portion so withheld, and declared that such payment shall discharge the Government or the Railway Company. We have struck out the last paragraph of the same section.

13. We have altered section 291, so as to empower the Court directing an execution-sale, as well as the officer conducting one, to adjourn it.

14. Where the holder of a decree in execution of which property is sold purchases the property without the Court's permission, we have provided in section 294, that the Court may, if it thinks fit, set-aside the sale, and that any deficiency of price which may happen on a re-sale shall be paid by the decree-holder.

15. We think that mortgages, leases and sales made under section 305 by the judgment-debtor should not become absolute until they are confirmed by the Court; and we have added a provision to this effect.

16. We think that, besides the decree-holder and the owner of land sold in execution, any other person interested in the sale should have power to apply to set it aside on the ground of material irregularity; and we have amended section 311 of the Code accordingly.

17. Much doubt exists as to where the title to land sold at an execution-sale vests in the purchaser. We think it should vest from the date of the certificate, which is granted as soon as the sale becomes absolute; and we have added to section 316 a sentence to this effect.

18. We have recast sections 322 and 323 of the Code, so as to make them express clearly what we believe to have been the intention of their author, namely, that, where a money-decree in satisfaction of which the Court has ordered a sale of land has been transferred to the Collector, he should ascertain the amount of all existing decrees against the judgment-debtor and raise the amount necessary to discharge all his judgment-debts with interest, by dealing with such land, and such land only, in any of the modes prescribed by section 322.

19. We have altered section 331, paragraph two, so as to express the provisions of the corresponding section (229) of Act VIII of 1859, and we have redrawn the latter half of section 332, so as to avoid the reference to the Specific Relief Act, section 9, whilst maintaining the procedure required by that enactment and the effect of an order passed thereunder.

20. We think that the first payment of a judgment-debtor's monthly subsistence-money should be made to the proper officer of the Court, and that the subsequent payments should be made to the officer in charge of the jail; and we have altered section 339 accordingly.

21. When an applicant for the benefit of the insolvency-chapter (XX) furnishes sufficient security that he will appear when called upon, we have empowered the Court to release him. The Recorder of Rangoon exercises under the Burma Courts Act insolvency-jurisdiction in the towns of Rangoon, Maulmain, Akyab and Bassein. We do not think it expedient that any other Courts should exercise such jurisdiction concurrently with him. We have therefore expressly excluded all Courts situate in such towns from the operation of chapter XX.

22. Where a pauper's suit is dismissed for non-appearance of either party, we have empowered the Court to order him to pay the fees which would have been paid by him if he had not been permitted to sue as a pauper.

23. We have amended section 456 of the Code so as to provide for obtaining an order for the appointment of a guardian ad litem upon application by the plaintiff; and where there is no other person fit and willing to act as such guardian, we have authorized the Court to appoint any of its officers.

24. We have substituted for section 555 a section providing that in all cases the appellant shall begin.

25. We have made section 560 of the Code provide for the cases when notice is not served on the respondent, as well as for those in which he was prevented from appearing.

26. We have amended section 582 of the Code, so as to preclude the doubt whether the Appellate Court is bound (so far as may be) to perform the duties, as well as authorized to exercise the powers, of the Court of first instance.

27. In section 584, clause (a), we have omitted the words "some specified," which have been held by some to limit the 'law' there mentioned to a statutory enactment, and by others to require the appellant to express in formal terms the rule which he alleges to have been contravened.

28. We think that appeals should lie from orders under section 57, clause (a), returning a plaint on the ground that the suit has been instituted in the wrong Court; and from orders under section 313 refusing an application to set-aside a sale of immoveable property; and we have amended section 588 accordingly. We have also amended the last clause of the same section, so as to give a second appeal from all orders under section 244, as to mesne profits or relating to the execution, discharge or satisfaction of a decree.

29. We have extended section 642, so as to exempt from arrest under the Code the parties to any matter pending before a tribunal having, or believing bonâ fide that it has, jurisdiction, their pleaders, mukhtárs, revenue-agents and witnesses while going to, attending or returning from, such tribunal. This will include not only civil Courts, but criminal Courts, Courts-martial and arbitrators, and accords with the existing law of England.

30. Sections 223—229 seem to provide sufficiently for the execution of decrees. We have therefore limited section 648 to arrests and attachments made otherwise than in execution, and provided for the release of any person arrested under that section who furnishes security for his appearance before the Court that issued the warrant.

31. We have added to section 649 a paragraph providing for the execution of the decrees of Courts which have ceased to exist, as for example, where a Court of Small Causes is abolished by the Local Government under Act XI of 1865, section 3, or where a Munsif invested with Small Cause jurisdiction, having passed a considerable number of decrees, is transferred to another Munsifi, and his successor at the particular Munsifi at which this jurisdiction was exercised has not been invested with similar jurisdiction.

32. We have inserted after section 650, a section providing for the service of foreign summonses when issued either by Courts established by the Governor General in Council, or by Courts to which the Governor General in Council has applied this provision.

33. We have amended the second schedule, so as to extend to the Small Cause Courts in the Mufassal sections 223—229, as to execution of decrees;

section 360, enabling the Local Government to invest any Court with insolvency-jurisdiction;

chapter XXXVI, as to Receivers; and sections 523, 524, as to filing in Court agreements to refer to arbitration, and sections 525, 526, as to filing awards made on reference without the intervention of a Court.

34. We have made several corrections of clerical and typographical errors which need not be specified.

35. Lastly, we have amended the Registration Act, by inserting a clause providing that a copy of every certificate of sale of land granted under section 316 of the Code shall be sent to the local registering officer, who will file it in his Book No. 1. We have also taken the opportunity to amend three trifling errors in this Act, one of which is a misprint. And we have amended the Limitation Act, by inserting in its second schedule articles providing respectively for applications under sections 368 and 371 of the Code.

36. We recommend that the Bill thus amended be passed. The Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons have been published in English in all the local Gazettes except those for Assam and Ajmer. They have been published in the vernacular in all the Gazettes except those for the Central Provinces, British Burma, Assam and Ajmer. We do not think that the Bill has been so altered as to require republication.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Code of Civil Procedure was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 5th March, 1879:—

REPORT.

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Code of Civil Procedure was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers specified in the annexed list.

2. In the interpretation-clause, we have expressly declared that an order finally disposing of an application for execution falls within the definition of 'decree.' This will remove a doubt which we understand has been felt in two of the High Courts. We have also provided that 'signed' shall include stamped. The use of a seal capable of producing an impression of the name and title of the person using it is common among Natives of rank.

3. To section 13 we have added an explanation declaring in effect, that a decision in a suit for arrears of rent under any local law relating to landlord and tenant, shall not be deemed to be res judicata in case of suits relating to the title to the property in respect of which the rent is claimed.

4. In section 44, we have provided for joining, with claims by and against a legal representative as such, claims which he was personally entitled to, or liable for, jointly with the deceased person whom he represents, e.g., on a promissory note jointly executed by the deceased and the person who becomes his executor.

5. We have altered the last paragraph of section 52, so as to require the examination of the witness to the verification of the plaint only when the Court entertains doubt as to the fact of the signature.

6. We have extended section 108 to all cases in which decrees have been set-aside ex parte, and provided for cases in which the summons was not duly served, as well as for those in which the defendant was prevented from appearing.

7. Section 131 does not as Act VIII of 1859, section 107, did, empower parties to give notice to produce documents generally. We have therefore made section 131 apply to the production of all documents in the possession or power of a party, whether they are or are not referred to in the plaint, written statement or affidavit of the latter.

8. We have struck out from section 230 the words as to granting subsequent applications for execution, when the Court is satisfied that on the preceding application due diligence had been used to procure complete satisfaction. The effect of these words appears to us to discourage leniency and to invite litigation. We have altered the same section, so as to provide (in accordance with the new Limitation Act, schedule II, Art. 179, paragraph 6) for a decree awarding maintenance, which has been held not to be a decree directing "the payment of money or the delivery of property by instalments."

9. We have amended section 245, so as to provide for non-compliance with the requirements not only of sections 235 and 236, but also of sections 236 and 237.

10. We have altered the first explanation to section 246, so as to bring within its scope decrees made over to a Court for execution.

11. We have amended sections 259 and 260, so as to make it clear that, when an attachment under either section has remained in force for the specified time, if the judgment-debtor has not obeyed the decree and the decree-holder has, within that time, applied for a sale, the property may be sold; but that, if the judgment-debtor has obeyed, and the decree-holder has not made such application, the attachment shall cease.

12. We have provided, in section 268, that, where a moiety of the salary of a public officer or railway-servant is attached, the attachment shall be made by an order requiring the officer whose duty it is to disburse the salary to withhold every month such portion as the Court may direct until the amount of the portions so withheld is equal to the amount of the decree; and we have authorized him to pay into Court every portion so withheld, and declared that such payment shall discharge the Government or the Railway Company. We have struck out the last paragraph of the same section.

13. We have altered section 291, so as to empower the Court directing an execution-sale, as well as the officer conducting one, to adjourn it.

14. Where the holder of a decree in execution of which property is sold purchases the property without the Court's permission, we have provided in section 294, that the Court may, if it thinks fit, set-aside the sale, and that any deficiency of price which may happen on a re-sale shall be paid by the decree-holder.

15. We think that mortgages, leases and sales made under section 305 by the judgment-debtor should not become absolute until they are confirmed by the Court; and we have added a provision to this effect.

16. We think that, besides the decree-holder and the owner of land sold in execution, any other person interested in the sale should have power to apply to set it aside on the ground of material irregularity; and we have amended section 311 of the Code accordingly.

17. Much doubt exists as to where the title to land sold at an execution-sale vests in the purchaser. We think it should vest from the date of the certificate, which is granted as soon as the sale becomes absolute; and we have added to section 316 a sentence to this effect.

18. We have recast sections 322 and 323 of the Code, so as to make them express clearly what we believe to have been the intention of their author, namely, that, where a money-decree in satisfaction of which the Court has ordered a sale of land has been transferred to the Collector, he should ascertain the amount of all existing decrees against the judgment-debtor and raise the amount necessary to discharge all his judgment-debts with interest, by dealing with such land, and such land only, in any of the modes prescribed by section 322.

19. We have altered section 331, paragraph two, so as to express the provisions of the corresponding section (229) of Act VIII of 1859, and we have redrawn the latter half of section 332, so as to avoid the reference to the Specific Relief Act, section 9, whilst maintaining the procedure required by that enactment and the effect of an order passed thereunder.

20. We think that the first payment of a judgment-debtor's monthly subsistence-money should be made to the proper officer of the Court, and that the subsequent payments should be made to the officer in charge of the jail; and we have altered section 339 accordingly.

21. When an applicant for the benefit of the insolvency-chapter (XX) furnishes sufficient security that he will appear when called upon, we have empowered the Court to release him. The Recorder of Rangoon exercises under the Burma Courts Act insolvency-jurisdiction in the towns of Rangoon, Maulmain, Akyab and Bassein. We do not think it expedient that any other Courts should exercise such jurisdiction concurrently with him. We have therefore expressly excluded all Courts situate in such towns from the operation of chapter XX.

22. Where a pauper's suit is dismissed for non-appearance of either party, we have empowered the Court to order him to pay the fees which would have been paid by him if he had not been permitted to sue as a pauper.

23. We have amended section 456 of the Code so as to provide for obtaining an order for the appointment of a guardian ad litem upon application by the plaintiff; and where there is no other person fit and willing to act as such guardian, we have authorized the Court to appoint any of its officers.

24. We have substituted for section 555 a section providing that in all cases the appellant shall begin.

25. We have made section 560 of the Code provide for the cases when notice is not served on the respondent, as well as for those in which he was prevented from appearing.

26. We have amended section 582 of the Code, so as to preclude the doubt whether the Appellate Court is bound (so far as may be) to perform the duties, as well as authorized to exercise the powers, of the Court of first instance.

27. In section 584, clause (a), we have omitted the words "some specified," which have been held by some to limit the 'law' there mentioned to a statutory enactment, and by others to require the appellant to express in formal terms the rule which he alleges to have been contravened.

28. We think that appeals should lie from orders under section 57, clause (a), returning a plaint on the ground that the suit has been instituted in the wrong Court; and from orders under section 313 refusing an application to set-aside a sale of immoveable property; and we have amended section 588 accordingly. We have also amended the last clause of the same section, so as to give a second appeal from all orders under section 244, as to mesne profits or relating to the execution, discharge or satisfaction of a decree.

29. We have extended section 642, so as to exempt from arrest under the Code the parties to any matter pending before a tribunal having, or believing bonâ fide that it has, jurisdiction, their pleaders, mukhtárs, revenue-agents and witnesses while going to, attending or returning from, such tribunal. This will include not only civil Courts, but criminal Courts, Courts-martial and arbitrators, and accords with the existing law of England.

30. Sections 223—229 seem to provide sufficiently for the execution of decrees. We have therefore limited section 648 to arrests and attachments made otherwise than in execution, and provided for the release of any person arrested under that section who furnishes security for his appearance before the Court that issued the warrant.

31. We have added to section 649 a paragraph providing for the execution of the decrees of Courts which have ceased to exist, as for example, where a Court of Small Causes is abolished by the Local Government under Act XI of 1865, section 3, or where a Munsif invested with Small Cause jurisdiction, having passed a considerable number of decrees, is transferred to another Munsifí, and his successor at the particular Munsifí at which this jurisdiction was exercised has not been invested with similar jurisdiction.

32. We have inserted after section 650, a section providing for the service of foreign summonses when issued either by Courts established by the Governor General in Council, or by Courts to which the Governor-General in Council has applied this provision.

33. We have amended the second schedule, so as to extend to the Small Cause Courts in the Mufassal sections 223—229, as to execution of decrees;

section 360, enabling the Local Government to invest any Court with insolvency-jurisdiction;

chapter XXXVI, as to Receivers; and sections 523, 524, as to filing in Court agreements to refer to arbitration, and sections 525, 526, as to filing awards made on reference without the intervention of a Court.

34. We have made several corrections of clerical and typographical errors which need not be specified.

35. Lastly, we have amended the Registration Act, by inserting a clause providing that a copy of every certificate of sale of land granted under section 316 of the Code shall be sent to the local registering officer, who will file it in his Book No. 1. We have also taken the opportunity to amend three trifling errors in this Act, one of which is a misprint. And we have amended the Limitation Act, by inserting in its second schedule articles providing respectively for applications under sections 368 and 371 of the Code.

36. We recommend that the Bill thus amended be passed. The Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons have been published in English in all the local Gazettes except those for Assam and Ajmer. They have been published in the vernacular in all the Gazettes except those for the Central Provinces, British Burma, Assam and Ajmer. We do not think that the Bill has been so altered as to require republication.

[Third publication.]

The following supplementary Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 19th March, 1879:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Code of Civil Procedure was referred, have the honour to submit the following supplementary Report.

2. Since our Report of the 5th March was presented, our colleague Mr. Stokes has received from Mr. Justice Ainslie a note on the Bill which has led us to make certain further changes therein.

3. It seems to us that the definition of "decree," even when made to include orders finally disposing of applications for execution, is not wide enough. It does not, for instance, comprise an order made on settlement of issues overruling pleas of law (such as that the suit is barred by the Limitation Act), and directing a trial of complicated questions of fact or the investigation of complicated accounts; for this does not "decide the suit," as the defendant may have a defence on the facts. Again, it does not include a decretal order for an account, for this does not "decide the suit;" inasmuch as, on taking the account, it may turn out that nothing is due, in which case the plaintiff's suit would in the end be dismissed. Yet a defendant ought not, if he has a good defence, to be put to the possibly enormous expense and inconvenience of an account for (say) twenty years. He should clearly have a right of appeal. The fact is that there may be more than one decree in a suit and that the various points arising may be decided at different hearings and the results embodied in different "formal orders." We have therefore widened the first sentence of the definition of "decree" as follows: "decree means the formal expression of a final adjudication upon any right claimed, or defence set up, in a Court of justice."

4. We have not overlooked the fact that some of the orders under section 244 of the Code, from which we propose to give two appeals by section 588 as now amended, may be held to be decrees within the meaning of this first sentence of the definition; but we deem it safer, in order to prevent all mistake, to give the appeals from these orders in express terms by section 588, and formally to exclude them from the definition of decree. We have also defined "order" as meaning the formal expression of any decision of a Court of justice which is not a decree, and we have defined "judgment" as the statement given by the Judge of the grounds of a decree or order.

5. There is much evidence to shew that the examination of a witness as to the fact of signature of the verification of the plaint by the person whose name it purports to bear is a useless form. We have therefore, instead of amending section 52 of the Code as proposed by the Bill as last settled, repealed the part of that section requiring such examination.

6. We think that the Court should fix a period within which the sum required to defray the costs of service of a process must be paid into Court by the party concerned. In the absence of such a provision (which was contained in Act XXIII of 1861, section 2), there is no rule by which the Court is to be guided in determining when a party is in default. We have therefore amended section 93 of the Code so as to require a period to be fixed for the payment of the Court-fee, and we have made a similar amendment in section 95, as to payment of postage.

7. It is strongly urged by Mr. Justice Ainslie that our proposed change in section 168 of the word "may" to "shall" would assist litigants to obstruct justice by obtaining unnecessary adjournments. We have accordingly omitted the section of the Bill by which it was proposed to make that change.

8. We have provided in section 289 for fixing up in the Court-house a copy of the proclamation of sale, and we have made a corresponding amendment in section 290.

9. The question is constantly arising whether a fresh proclamation is required when a sale is adjourned. We have provided in section 291 that, in case of such adjournment for a longer period than seven days, a fresh proclamation shall be made, unless the judgment-debtor consents to waive it.

10. In section 220 we have provided for the execution of orders as to costs.

11. In our report of the 5th of March we proposed to alter section 311 of the Code so as admit of other persons in an execution-sale besides the decree-holder and the owner applying to set-aside the sale. We have, at the suggestion of the High Court at Fort William, struck out this amendment of section 311 of the Code. The High Court urges that it would be of little practical benefit and that it might sometimes be misused to delay the completion of proceedings in execution by persons put forward by the judgment-debtor to dispute the regularity of the sale.

12. We have repealed the last nineteen words of section 18 of Act XI of 1865. They are, in the opinion of the same High Court, unnecessary and occasionally mischievous.

13. The importance of the change now made in the definitions of "decree" and "judgment," make it desirable in our opinion that the Bill should be republished, so as to afford an opportunity for the correction of any oversight into which we may have fallen; but the substance of the amendment has now been so fully discussed that we think that, unless some serious objection is brought to light, there can be no objection to the Bill being passed as it stands; and, looking to the urgency of some of its provisions, we think its passing should not be delayed more than two months.

"Such notice shall be published by being posted in the court-house of the Court which made the order under section 304, and at such other places (if any) as the Collector thinks fit.

"323. The Collector shall ascertain the sums remaining due on such decrees respectively, and may then (notwithstanding any order under section 304, but subject to such rules as may from time to time be made in this behalf by the Chief Controlling Revenue-Authority) raise the amount necessary to discharge each of such sums, with interest thereon according to the decree under which it is due, or, if the decree makes no provision as to interest, then with interest (if any) at such rate as he thinks fit— — Powers of Collector in such cases.

2. The Bill as introduced proposed that the division of the whole area of an island formed opposite several holdings should be made rateably among the owners in proportion to their respective frontages, and was framed so as merely to indicate those holders. If, for example, there were three such owners, A, B and C, whose respective frontages were 100 yards, 200 yards and 300 yards, it was intended that A should take one-sixth of the whole area of the island, B one-third and C one-half, and this division was to have been effected either by private arrangement or in default thereof by a suit for partition. It has, however, been strongly urged that, to preclude litigation and discrepancy of practice, the Bill should, at least in the case of land forming in rivers, contain rules not only for giving the areas, but for defining the plots, to which the several riparian owners are entitled. For this purpose rules have been suggested both by the Board of Revenue of the Lower Provinces and the High Court at Fort William, the former proposing that the alluvion should be divided by right lines perpendicular to the extremities of the frontages, the latter proposing a division by right lines bisecting the angles made by perpendiculars drawn from the extremities of adjacent frontages. But it will be seen on examination that, under either of these plans, alluvial lands formed in the bend of a river would sometimes fall to more than one estate, and further provision would then be required for a rateable division of those lands between the owners of the estates concerned. The subject is one of no small difficulty; but it seems to us that the following rule, which is said by a distinguished Settlement-officer (Mr. Ibbetson) to be practically the rule now in force in the Panjáb, and which is recommended for adoption by the Government of that Province, solves the problem satisfactorily and completely:—

"Where from natural causes an island or other land is formed in or on the bank of a river, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, each owner having a frontage on the river is entitled to so much of the land as is included by his frontage, the thread of the stream and lines drawn riverwards from the ends of such frontage to meet the thread of the stream in a direction normal to such thread.

[The term "normal," we may observe, is here used instead of "perpendicular," as the thread of the stream may be a curve. It is obvious that in such case several normals may possibly be drawn from the same point, and that these normals may be either of different or of the same length. The rule, therefore, proceeds as follows:—]

"Where more than one such normal can be drawn from one and the same end of any frontage and each of such normals is of different length, the shortest of such normals shall be deemed to be the including line; and where more than one such normal can be so drawn, and each of such normals is of the same length, the line bisecting the angle between the two extreme positions of the shortest normal shall be deemed to be the including line."

It will be seen that the above rule applies not only to alluvion deposited on the banks of two contiguous holdings, but also to islands. Incidentally, this will have the effect of rendering immaterial the often difficult question whether a new deposit is an island or not.

3. The above is the chief substantial alteration which we have made in the Bill. We now proceed to specify the minor changes which we deem desirable.

4. In the tidal portion of rivers like the Hugli are many islands which are flooded by ordinary tides in the rainy season, but only by extraordinary springs, or not at all, in the dry season. These chars are cultivable in the dry season and should be included in the definition of "island." We have therefore added to that definition the words "throughout the year."

5. To fix with more precision the time at which, for the purposes of the Bill, an alluvial island is first formed, we have provided that it must be capable of being employed for cultivation, pasture or other useful purpose, such, for example, as the supply of reeds or brush-wood. The question of fordability will thus be decided after an island newly formed becomes, as the Privy Council puts it, "valuable and usable."

6. Where any formation takes place on a site of which the Government is proved to be the owner, we have declared that the Government is entitled to such formation.

7. In the case of land formed on the shore of the sea or of a lake and in that of an island formed in the sea or a lake, we have provided that the distribution in proportion to the frontage of the riparian owners shall be effected by such officer as the Local Government may appoint and in accordance with such rules (consistent with the proposed Act) as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe.

8. We think that, to entitle the Crown to alluvial islands, the channel between the island and each bank or shore should not be fordable during the dry season next after the formation.

9. In determining the right to abandoned river-beds, we think we should have regard to the thread of the stream in the preceding dry season, and not to what it was immediately before the abandonment—a matter which cannot be always ascertained. In other respects, the rule for the division of such beds among the riparian owners will be the same as that which we have provided in the case of alluvial lands.

10. We have empowered the Local Government to declare, with reference to any tidal river, where, for the purposes of the proposed Act, the river shall be deemed to end and the sea to begin; and we have provided that no declaration under the Act shall be cancelled or altered, save with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

11. In the Panjáb the ownership of lands subject to the action of rivers is mainly regulated by local usage. We have accordingly retained the section of the Bill as introduced, which provided that such usages should be respected and, in certain cases, presumed to be in force. But such provisions do not appear to be required in Madras, Bombay, Oudh or the North-Western Provinces, and though local usage is saved in the Lower Provinces and Assam by the Bengal Regulation XI of 1825, there seems to be only one instance in which there has been any attempt to establish it. We have, therefore, confined to the Panjáb the section saving usage. But there is ground for the belief that even in that Province some of the local usages referred to,—including the usage known as "the deep-stream rule"—besides being objectionable on economic grounds and adverse to imperial interests are more or less unsuited to the time and distasteful to the communities affected by them. In these circumstances we have deemed it right, on the recommendation of experienced officers, to provide a procedure whereby such usages may, if thought expedient, be discontinued, and fixed boundaries substituted for varying boundaries in riparian estates.

12. As the rights of mortgagees and tenants to alluvial lands are saved by the Transfer of Property Bill, No. III, sections 37 and 65, clause (e), we have not thought it necessary to provide for such rights.

13. The Bill in its present form is not to be taken as expressing our final views as to all the difficult and important subjects with which it deals. But we think that the changes which it has undergone are such as to render republication desirable, for the purpose of eliciting criticism from the public and from the judicial and executive officers by whom its provisions will be carried into effect. We also think that its further consideration should be stayed until the new Law Commission has reported thereon. We therefore recommend that the Bill as now amended be republished with this Report in the Gazette of India, and sent to the Local Governments for opinion and for publication in the local Gazettes.

14. The Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons have been published in English in the local Gazettes for Madras, Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the Panjáb, the Central Provinces and British Burma. Publication in English has not been reported from Bombay and Assam. Publication in the vernacular has been reported only from Madras, Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, the Panjáb and the Central Provinces.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Indian Alluvion Act, 1879:"

Local extent. It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement. And it shall come into force at once.

Interpretation-clause. 3. In this Act—

"island" means land surrounded by water and capable of being employed for cultivation, pasture or other useful purpose. It includes such land arising in a river or lake, submerged in the wet season and visible only in the dry season; but it excludes land arising in tidal rivers, tidal lakes or the sea, submerged by the flow of ordinary tides throughout the year:

"owner" means, in the case of a bank or shore held on raiyatwárí tenure, the Government: in the case of a bank or shore forming part of land situate in the Presidency of Bombay and wholly or partially exempt from the payment of land-revenue, or held under a grant or lease fixing the Government demand in respect thereof in perpetuity, the holder of such land; and in the case of a bank or shore held by a village-community, or by one or more members of it, such community:

"sea" includes bay, inlet, creek and arm of the sea:

II.—Alluvial Land and Islands.

Right to land formed on shore of sea or lake. 4. Where, from natural causes, land forms gradually on the shore of the sea or of a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the sea or lake, the owners of the shore are severally entitled to the land so formed in proportion to the frontage which they respectively had on the sea or lake immediately before the formation; and the partition of the land so formed shall be made by such officer as the Local Government appoints in this behalf, and in accordance with such rules, consistent with this Act, as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe:

Provided that, where the land or any portion thereof forms on a site which is proved to belong to the Government or a private owner, the Government or such owner, as the case may be, is entitled to the land or portion so formed.

Right to islands where channel is not fordable. 5. Where an island is formed, from natural causes, in a river, the sea or a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, sea or lake, if the island is separated from each bank or shore by a channel not fordable at any point, the Government is entitled to such island:

Provided that, where the island or any portion thereof is formed on a site which is proved to belong to a private owner, such owner is entitled to the island or portion so formed.

Right to other islands in sea or lake. 6. If, where an island is formed as aforesaid in the sea or a lake, the channels between it and either shore are fordable at any point, the owners of the nearest shore are severally entitled to the island in proportion to the frontage which they respectively have on the sea or lake; and the partition of the island so formed shall be made by such officer as the Local Government appoints in this behalf and in accordance with such rules, consistent with this Act, as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe.

Right to land formed in, or on bank of, river. 7. Where, from natural causes, an island or other land is formed in, or on the bank of, a river, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, and the Government is not entitled thereto under section five, each owner having a frontage on the river is entitled to so much of the land as is included by his frontage, the thread of the stream during the dry season next after the formation and lines drawn riverwards from the ends of such frontage to meet the thread of the stream in a direction normal to such thread:

Where more than one such normal can be drawn from one and the same end of any frontage and each of such normals is of different length, the shortest of such normals shall be deemed to be the including line, and where more than one such normal can be so drawn and each of such normals is of the same length, the line bisecting the angle between the two extreme positions of the shortest normal shall be deemed to be the including line.

Provided that, where the land or any portion thereof is formed on a site which is proved to belong to the Government or a private owner, the Government or such owner, as the case may be, is entitled to the land or portion so formed.

Right to abandoned river-beds. 9. Where a river suddenly abandons the bed which it occupies during the season of flood, each owner having a frontage on such bed is entitled to so much of the bed as is included by his frontage, the thread of the stream during the dry season next before the abandonment and lines drawn towards the bed from the ends of such frontage to meet such thread in a direction normal thereto.

Where more than one such normal can be drawn from one and the same end of any frontage, the rules contained in the second paragraph of section seven shall apply:

Provided that the Local Government may from time to time (a) cause the bed of any river or part of a river, together with the islands and alluvial lands situate therein or adjacent thereto, to be surveyed and mapped, (b) appoint an officer to enquire into, determine and record the rights of private persons and the Government, in, to or over the said bed, islands and lands, and (c) declare that rights so recorded shall not be affected by any local usage. And the provisions of the Panjáb Land Revenue Act, 1871, chapter II, shall apply, so far as may be, to proceedings under this section, and the determination of the said rights shall be made after consideration of the gain and loss (if any) caused by changes in the course of the river for a period of twelve years next before the date of the survey-notification.

An officer in charge of a Police-station may require an officer in charge of another Police-station, whether in the same or a different district, to cause a search to be made in any place, in any case in which the former officer might cause such search to be made within the limits of his own station.

Such officer, on being so required, shall proceed according to the provisions of section 163, and shall forward the thing found, if any, to the officer at whose request the search was made.

Act X, 1872, s. 124.

Procedure when investigation is not completed in twenty-four hours.

165. When any investigation under this chapter has not been completed within the period of twenty-four hours fixed by section 58 and no special order has been passed under that section, and there are grounds for believing that the accusation is well-founded, the officer in charge of the Police-station shall forward the accused to the nearest Magistrate, with a statement of the offence for which he has been arrested, and such Magistrate, whether he has or has not jurisdiction to try the case, may authorise the detention of the accused. If he has not jurisdiction to try the case or commit it for trial, and considers further detention unnecessary, he may forward the accused to a Magistrate having such jurisdiction.

A Magistrate authorizing detention under this section shall record in writing his reasons for so doing.

If such order be given by a Magistrate other than the District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate, he shall forward a copy of his order, with his reasons for making it, to the Magistrate to whom he is subordinate.

Release of accused when evidence deficient.

167. If, upon an investigation under this chapter, it appears to the officer in charge of the Police-station that there is not sufficient evidence or reasonable ground of suspicion to justify the forwarding of the accused to a Magistrate, such officer shall, if such person is in custody, release him on his executing a bond, with or without sureties, as such officer may direct, to appear before the District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate, if and when so required.

Act X, 1872, ss. 123, 127, 130.

168. If upon an investigation under this chapter it appears to the officer in charge of the Police-station that there is sufficient evidence or reasonable ground as aforesaid, such officer shall forward the accused under custody to the District Magistrate, or Sub-divisional Magistrate, or some Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of offences upon a police-report, or if the offence charged is bailable and the accused is able to give security, shall take security from him for his appearance before such Magistrate on a day fixed and for his attendance from day to day before such Magistrate until otherwise directed.

When the officer in charge of a Police-station forwards an accused person to a Magistrate or takes security for his appearance before such Magistrate under this section, he shall at the same time send to such Magistrate any weapon or other article which it may be necessary to produce before him, and shall require the complainant, if any, and so many of the persons who appear to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case as may be necessary to execute a bond to appear before the Magistrate and prosecute or give evidence (as the case may be) in the matter of the charge against the accused.

If the Court of the District Magistrate or Sub-Divisional Magistrate be mentioned in the bond, it shall be held to include any Court to which such Magistrate may refer the case for inquiry or trial, provided notice of such reference be given to such complainant or witness.

The day fixed under this section shall be the day whereon the accused person is to appear, if security for his appearance has been taken, or the day on which he may be expected to arrive at the Court of the Magistrate, if he is to be forwarded in custody.

The officer in whose presence the bond is executed shall deliver a copy thereof to each of the persons who executed it, and shall then send the original with his report to the Magistrate having jurisdiction.

Any Criminal Court may send for the Police-diaries of a case under inquiry or trial in such Court, and may use such diaries to aid it in such inquiry or trial. Neither the accused nor his agents shall be entitled to call for them, nor shall he or they be entitled to see them merely because they are referred to by the Court; but if they are used by the Police-officer who made them to refresh his memory, or if the Court uses them for the purpose of contradicting such Police-officer, the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, sections 145 and 161, shall apply.

Act X, 1872, ss. 125, 127.

The report shall be signed by such Police-officer and other persons, or by so many of them as concur therein, and shall be forthwith forwarded to the District Magistrate or the Sub-divisional Magistrate.

When there is any doubt regarding the cause of death, the Police-officer shall forward the body, with a view to its being examined, to the nearest Civil Surgeon, or other medical officer appointed in this behalf by the Local Government, if the state of the weather and the distance admit of its being so forwarded without risk of such putrefaction on the road as would render such examination useless.

In the territories respectively administered by the Governors of Fort St. George and Bombay in Council, investigations under this section may be made by the Head of the village, who shall then report the result to the nearest Magistrate authorized to hold inquests.

The following Magistrates are empowered to hold inquests, namely, any District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate, and any Magistrate specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government or the District Magistrate.

174. The nearest Magistrate empowered to hold inquests may, and, where necessary, shall, hold an inquiry into the cause of any such death, either instead of, or in addition to, the investigation held by the Police-officer; and if he does so, he shall have all the powers in conducting it which he would have in holding an inquiry into an offence. The Magistrate holding such an inquiry shall record the evidence taken by him in connection therewith in any of the manners hereinafter prescribed, according to the circumstances of the case.

Provided that in any case in which a summons should be issued under the foregoing part of this section, if the Magistrate sees reason to believe that the accused is about to abscond or will not obey the summons, he may, after recording his reasons in writing, instead of issuing a summons, issue a warrant in the first instance for the arrest of such person.

Act X, 1872, s. 151. Act IV, 1877, s. 37.

206. Whenever a Magistrate issues a summons, he may, if he sees reason so to do, dispense with the personal attendance of the accused, and permit him to appear by his pleader.

Magistrate may dispense with personal attendance of accused.

But such Magistrate may, in his discretion, at any stage of the proceedings, direct the personal attendance of the accused, and, if necessary, enforce such attendance in manner hereinbefore provided.

Act X, 1872, s. 361, para 3.

The Magistrate may, before summoning any witness on such application, require that his reasonable expenses incurred in attending for the purposes of the trial be deposited in Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 195, omitting the explanations. Act IV, 1877, s. 87, omitting the explanations.

210. When the evidence referred to in section 209 and such other evidence (if any) as the Magistrate may of his own motion cause to be produced has been taken, and the Magistrate has examined the accused in regard to such matters connected with the accusation as the Magistrate thinks fit, such Magistrate shall, if he finds that there are not sufficient grounds for committing the accused person for trial, discharge him, unless it appears to the Magistrate that such person should be tried before himself or some other Magistrate, in which case he shall proceed accordingly.

The Magistrate may in his discretion allow the accused to give in any further list of witnesses at a subsequent time, and nothing in this section shall be deemed to preclude the accused from giving, at any time before his trial before the High Court, to the Clerk of the Crown a further list of the persons whom he wishes to be summoned to give evidence on such trial.

Further list.

Act X, 1872, s. 200. Act IV, 1877, s. 91.

213. The Magistrate may in his discretion summon and examine any witness named in any list given in to him under section 212.

Act X, 1872, ss.198, 200. Act IV, 1877, ss. 89, para. 1, 91.

214. When the accused on being required to give in a list under section 212 has declined to do so, or when he has given in such list and the witnesses (if any) included therein whom the Magistrate desires to examine have been summoned and examined under section 213, the Magistrate may make an order committing the accused for trial by the High Court or the Court of Session (as the case may be), and (unless the Magistrate is a Presidency Magistrate) recording the reasons for such commitment.

215. If any person (not being an European British subject) is accused before a Magistrate other than a Presidency Magistrate of having committed an offence conjointly with a European British subject who is about to be committed for trial, or to be tried, before the High Court on a similar charge, and the Magistrate finds that there are sufficient grounds for committing the accused for trial, he shall commit him to take his trial before the High Court, and not before the Court of Session.

216. A commitment once made under section 214 or 215 by a competent Magistrate can be quashed by the High Court only, and only on a point of law.

Provided also that if the Magistrate thinks that any witness is included in the list for the purpose of vexation or delay, or of defeating the ends of justice, the Magistrate may require the accused to satisfy him that there are reasonable grounds for believing that such witness is material, and if he is not so satisfied, may refuse to summon the witness, or before summoning him require such sum to be deposited as such Magistrate thinks necessary to defray the expense of obtaining the attendance of the witness.

220. When the accused is committed for trial, the Magistrate shall issue an order to such person as may be appointed by the Local Government in this behalf, notifying the commitment, and stating the offence in the same form as the charge, unless the Magistrate is satisfied that such person is already aware of the commitment and the form of the charge, and shall send the charge, the record of the enquiry and any weapon or other moveable thing which is to be produced in evidence to the Court of Session or (where the commitment is made to the High Court) to the Clerk of the Crown or other officer appointed in this behalf by the High Court.

Commitment when to be notified.

Such examination shall, if possible, be taken in the presence of the accused, and where the Magistrate is not a Presidency Magistrate, a copy of the evidence of such witnesses shall, if the accused so require, be given to him free of cost.

222. Custody of accused pending trial. Pending the trial, the Magistrate may, subject to the provisions of this Code regarding the taking of bail, commit the accused, by warrant, to custody in such jail as may from time to time be appointed by the Local Government in this behalf.

CHAPTER XIX.

Of the Charge.

Form of Charges.

Act X 1872, s. 439. Act IV, 1877, s. 94.

223. Charge to state offence. Every charge under this Code shall state the offence with which the accused is charged.

Specific name of offence sufficient description. If the law which creates the offence gives it any specific name, the offence may be described in the charge by that name only.

How stated where offence has no specific name. If the law which creates the offence does not give it any specific name, so much of the definition of the offence must be stated as to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

The law and section of the law against which the offence is said to have been committed shall be mentioned in the charge.

What implied in charges. The fact that the charge is made is equivalent to a statement that every legal condition required by law to constitute the offence charged was fulfilled in the particular case.

Language of charge. In the Presidency-towns the charge shall be written in English; elsewhere it shall be written either in English or in the language of the Court. If the language of the charge is not understood by the accused, the charge shall be interpreted to him in a language which he understands.

Act X, 1875, s. 118. Act X, 1872, s. 439, last para. Act IV, 1877, s. 94, last para.

Previous conviction when to be set out. If the accused has been previously convicted of any offence, and it is intended to prove such previous conviction for the purpose of affecting the punishment which is to be awarded, the fact of the previous conviction must be stated in the charge. If such statement is omitted, it may be added at any time before sentence is passed, but not afterwards.

Illustrations.

(a.) A is charged with the murder of B.
This is equivalent to a statement that A's act fell within the definition of murder given in sections 299 and 300 of the Indian Penal Code; that it did not fall within any of the general exceptions of the same Code; and that it did not fall within any of the five exceptions to section 300; or that, if it did fall within exception 1, one or other of the three provisos to that exception applied to it.

(b) A is charged, under section 326 of the Indian Penal Code, with voluntarily causing grievous hurt to B, by means of an instrument for shooting. This is equivalent to a statement that the case was not provided for by section 335 of the Indian Penal Code, and that the general exceptions did not apply to it.

(c.) A is accused of murder, cheating, theft, extortion, adultery or criminal intimidation, or using a false property-mark. The charge may state that A committed murder, or cheating, or theft, or extortion, or adultery, or criminal intimidation, or that he used a false property-mark, without reference to the definitions of those crimes contained in the Indian Penal Code; but the sections under which the offence is punishable must, in each instance, be referred to in the charge.

(d.) A is charged, under section 184 of the Indian Penal Code, with intentionally obstructing a sale of property offered for sale by the lawful authority of a public servant. The charge should be in those words.

Act X, 18 s. 440. Act IV, 18 s. 95.

224. Particulars as to time, place and person. The charge shall contain such particulars as to the time and place of the alleged offence, and the person (naming him) against whom, or the thing in respect of which, it was committed, as are reasonably sufficient to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

Act X, 18 s. 441. Act IV, 18 s. 96.

225. When manner of committing offence must be stated. When the nature of the case is such that the particulars mentioned in sections 223 and 224 do not give the accused sufficient notice of the matter with which he is charged, the charge shall also contain such particulars of the manner in which the alleged offence was committed as will be sufficient for that purpose.

Illustrations.

(a.) A is accused of the theft of a certain article at a certain time and place. The charge need not set out the manner in which the theft was effected.

(b.) A is accused of cheating B at a given time and place. The charge must set out the manner in which A cheated B.

(c.) A is accused of giving false evidence at a given time and place. The charge must set out that portion of the evidence given by A which is alleged to be false.

(d.) A is accused of obstructing B, a public servant, in discharge of his public functions at a given time and place. The charge must set out the manner in which A obstructed B in the discharge of his functions.

(e.) A is accused of the murder of B at a given time and place. The charge need not state the manner in which A murdered B.

(f.) A is accused of disobeying a direction of the law with intent to save B from punishment. The charge must set out the disobedience charged and the law infringed.

(g.) A is accused of dacoity. The charge should state that A conjointly with four or more others committed robbery and thereby committed dacoity.

The Charge.

Act XVIII 1862, s.82.

226. Words in charges taken in sense of Penal Code. In every charge words used in describing an offence shall be deemed to have been used in the sense attached to them respectively by the Indian Penal Code.

Act X, 1872, s. 443. Act X, 1875, s. 24. Act IV, 1877, s. 98.

227. Effect of errors. No error in stating either the offence or the particulars required to be stated in the charge, and no omission to state the offence or those particulars, shall be regarded at any stage of the case as material, unless the accused was in fact misled by such error or omission.

Illustrations.

(a.) A is charged, under section 242 of the Indian Penal Code with "having been in possession of counterfeit coin, having known at the time when he became possessed thereof that such coin was counterfeit," the word "fraudulently" being omitted in the charge. Unless it appears that A was in fact misled by this omission, the error shall not be regarded as material.

(b.) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge, or is set out incorrectly. A defends himself, calls witnesses, and gives his own account of the transaction. The Court may infer from this that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating is not material.

(c.) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge. There were many transactions between A and B, and A had no means of knowing to which of them the charge referred, and offered no defence. The Court may infer from such facts that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating was, in this case, a material error.

(d.) A is charged with the murder of Khoda Baksh on the 21st January. In fact, the murdered person's name was Haidar Baksh, and the date of the murder was the 20th January. A was never charged with any murder but one, and had heard the inquiry before the Magistrate, which referred exclusively to the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from these facts that A was not misled, and that the error in the charge was immaterial.

(e.) A was charged with murdering Haidar Baksh on the 20th January and Khoda Baksh (who tried to arrest him for that murder) on the 21st January. When charged for the murder of Haidar Baksh, he was tried for the murder of Khoda Baksh. The witnesses present in his defence were witnesses in the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from this that A was misled, and that the error was material.

Act X, 1875, s. 7.

228. Procedure on commitment to High Court. When any person is committed for trial before a High Court, the Clerk of the Crown, or, if there be not a Clerk of the Crown, a Judge of the High Court, shall, on receipt of the charge, peruse and consider it, and may, if it appears necessary or expedient so to do, alter or re-draw the same, having regard to the rules as to the form of charges contained in this Code.

Act X, 1875, s. 8. Act X, 1872, s. 446.

229. How Court of Session may deal with charge. If a prisoner is committed to the Court of Session or High Court without any charge at all, the Court or (in the case of a High Court) the Clerk of the Crown or a Judge of the High Court may draw up a charge, having regard to the rules last aforesaid.

If a prisoner is committed upon a charge which the Court, upon reference to the proceedings before the committing Magistrate, considers improper, the Court may draw up a charge for any offence which it considers to be proved by the evidence taken before the committing Magistrate.

Act X, 1872, ss. 444, 445. Act X, 1875, ss. 9, 10. Act IV, 1877, ss. 99, 100.

230. Magistrate may alter charge. Any Court may, upon the application of the accused, or of the prosecution, or upon its own motion, alter any charge at any time before judgment is pronounced, or, in the case of trials before the Court of Session or High Court, before the verdict of the jury is returned or the opinions of the assessors are expressed.

Every such alteration shall be read and explained to the accused.

Act X, 1872, s. 447. Act X, 1875, s. 11. Act IV, 1877, s. 101.

231. When trial may proceed immediately after alteration. If the alteration is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is not likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused in his defence, the Court may in its discretion, after making such alteration, proceed with the trial as if the altered charge had been the original charge.

Act X, 1872, s. 448. Act X, 1875, s. 12. Act IV, 1877, s. 102.

232. When new trial may be directed, or trial suspended. If the alteration is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused in his defence, the Court may either direct a new trial, or suspend the trial for such period as may be necessary to enable him to make his defence to the altered charge; and after hearing his defence, the Court may if it thinks fit further adjourn the trial to admit of the appearance of any witness whose evidence the Court considers to be material to the case, or who the accused wishes to be summoned in his defence.

Adjournment.

Act X, 1872, s. 449. Act X, 1875, s. 15, omitting 'during the trial.' Act IV, 1877, s. 103.

233. Recall of witnesses when charge altered. Whenever a charge is altered by the Court, the complainant and the accused shall be allowed to recall, and examine with reference to such alteration, any witness who may have been examined.

Act X, 1872, s. 450. Act X, 1875, s. 16. Act IV, 1877, s. 104.

234. Stay of proceedings if prosecution of offence in altered charge require previous sanction. If the offence stated in the altered charge is one for the prosecution of which previous sanction is necessary, the case shall not be proceeded with until such sanction is obtained, unless sanction has been already obtained for a prosecution on the same facts as those on which the altered charge is founded.

Act X, 1872, s. 451.

235. Effect of material error. If any Appellate Court, or the High Court in the exercise of its powers of revision, is of opinion that any person convicted of an offence was in fact misled in his defence by an error in the charge, it shall direct a new trial to be had upon a charge amended in whatever manner it thinks fit.

If the Court is of opinion that the facts of the case are such that no valid charge could be preferred against the accused in respect of the facts proved, it shall quash the conviction.

Illustration.

t XI, 1874, s. 40. A is convicted of an offence under section 196 of the Indian Penal Code, upon a charge which omits to state that he knew the evidence which he corruptly used or attempted to use as true or genuine was false or fabricated. If the Court thinks it probable that A had such knowledge, and that he was misled in his defence by the omission from the charge of the statement that he had it, it shall direct a new trial upon an amended charge; but if it appears probable from the proceedings that A had no such knowledge, it shall quash the conviction.

Joinder of Charges.

I.—Trial of more than one offence.

II.—If the acts alleged constitute an offence falling within two or more separate definitions of any law in force for the time being by which offences are defined or punished, the person accused of them may be charged with each of the offences so committed; but he must not receive a punishment more severe than could be inflicted for any of such offences.

II.—One offence falling within two definitions.

III.—If several acts, of which one or more than one would by itself constitute an offence, form, when combined, a different offence, the person accused of them may be charged with every offence, or any of the different offences, which he may have committed; but he shall not receive for such offences, collectively, a punishment more severe than could be inflicted for any one of such offences.

III.—Acts severally constituting more than one offence, but collectively coming within one definition.

464. When any person accused of an offence before a Magistrate holding an inquiry or a trial appears to such Magistrate to be of unsound mind and incapable of making his defence, the Magistrate shall inquire into the fact of such unsoundness, and shall cause such person to be examined by the Civil Surgeon of the district or such other medical officer as the Local Government directs, and thereupon shall examine such Surgeon or other officer as a witness, and shall reduce the examination into writing.

If such Magistrate is of opinion that the accused is of unsound mind, he shall postpone further proceedings in the case.

Release of lunatic pending investigation or trial.

466. Whenever an accused person is found to be of unsound mind and incapable of making his defence, the Magistrate or Court, as the case may be, if the offence of which such person is accused is bailable, may release him on sufficient security being given that he shall be properly taken care of, and shall be prevented from doing injury to himself or to any other person, and for his appearance when required before the Magistrate or Court or such officer as the Magistrate or Court appoints in this behalf.

Custody of lunatic.

If the offence is not bailable, or if sufficient security is not given, the Magistrate or Court shall report the case to the Local Government, and the Local Government may order such person to be confined in a Lunatic Asylum or other suitable place of safe custody, and the Magistrate or Court shall give effect to such order.

When accused appears to have been insane.

469. Whenever such person is so delivered, it shall be upon condition that he shall be produced for the inspection of such officer and at such times as the Local Government directs.

The provisions of sections 472 and 474 shall, mutatis mutandis, apply to persons delivered under the provisions of this section; and the certificate of the inspecting officer appointed under this section shall be dealt with as a certificate under section 474.

Act X, 1872, s. 476.

For the purposes of an enquiry under this section, the Civil Court may exercise all the powers of a Magistrate; and its proceedings in such enquiry shall be conducted as nearly as may be in accordance with the provisions of chapter XVIII, and shall be deemed to have been held by a Magistrate.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

No less than three Codes of Criminal Procedure are now in operation in British India: Act X of 1872, amended by Act XI of 1874, which is in force throughout the Mufassal; the High Courts' Act, X of 1875, which is in force in the Presidency-towns, Allahabad and Lahore, and the Presidency Magistrates' Act, IV of 1877, also in force in the Presidency-towns.

Many of the provisions of these Codes merely repeat one another; many of their rules, though dealing with the same subjects, unnecessarily vary in language; and the result is that the bulk of the Indian Statute-book is far greater than need be and that the Courts when construing one Code are often deprived of the guidance of prior decisions on another.

The primary object of this Bill, which has been framed at the suggestion of the Secretary of State, is to recast the Code of 1872, combining with it the substance of the High Courts' Act and the Presidency Magistrates' Act, and incorporating in it the numerous reported decisions on its wording, and thus at last give to India a single and complete Code of Criminal Procedure, and carry out, so far, the policy of providing a simple and uniform system of law for this country. The language and arrangement of Act X of 1872 have, for obvious reasons, been departed from only so far as is necessary for the main purpose of the Bill.

2. Though many of the outlying Acts and Regulations dealing with Criminal Procedure were repealed and re-enacted by Act X of 1872, many more are still untouched, and the secondary object of the present Bill is to consolidate these enactments, which are eleven in number:—

Acts.

XXIII of 1840 (Execution of process).
XXXIV of 1850 (State prisoners).
III of 1858 (State prisoners).
XVIII of 1862 (Administration of Criminal Justice in the High Courts).
II of 1869 (Justices of the Peace).
XXII of 1870, sections 2 and 4 (Application to European British subjects of Acts giving summary jurisdiction).

Regulations.

Bengal Regulation III, 1818 (State prisoners).
Bengal Regulation XX of 1825 (Jurisdiction of Courts Martial).
Madras Regulation II, 1819 (State prisoners).
Bombay Regulation XXV, 1827 (State prisoners).

3. The result of consolidating the Acts and Regulations above specified will be to substitute a single Act of 566 sections for fourteen enactments containing about one thousand unrepealed sections.

4. The present Bill is divided into nine Parts, the first containing the usual preliminary matter; the second dealing with the constitution and powers of the Criminal Courts and offices; the third containing some general provisions; the fourth treating of the prevention of offences; the fifth, of information to the Police and of their powers to investigate; the sixth, of proceedings in prosecutions; the seventh, of appeal, reference and revision; the eighth, of special proceedings; the ninth, of supplementary provisions.

Preliminary.

5. Part I consists of a single chapter containing the usual preliminary matter. The wording of some of the definitions in Act X of 1872 has been amended and definitions of 'to sign,' 'public prosecutor,' 'pleader,' 'offence,' 'chapter,' 'schedule' and 'place' have been added. The definition of 'European British subject' has been extended to persons naturalized in British India. Words referring to acts done are declared to extend also to illegal omissions, and words such as 'special law,' 'local law,' defined in the Penal Code will have the meanings attached to them respectively by that Code. On the other hand, the definitions of 'inquired into,' 'trial,' 'Magistrate's case,' have been omitted as not needed in the Code in its revised form.

Criminal Courts.

6. Part II (constitution and powers of the Criminal Courts and offices) consists of two chapters, of which the first deals (a) with the classes of Criminal Courts, (b) with territorial divisions, (c) with Courts outside the Presidency-towns, (d) with the Courts of the Presidency Magistrates, (e) with Justices of the Peace and (f) with the suspension and removal of Judges, Magistrates and Justices of the Peace. The second chapter treats of the powers of Judges and Magistrates, the description of offences cognizable by each Court, the sentences which may be passed by Courts of various classes, and the mode of conferring powers on the latter. The changes of the law here made are little more than verbal, save that in section 39 (= Act X of 1872, section 56), as to the continuance of powers of an officer transferred to another local area, words have been introduced to shew clearly that the direction therein mentioned may have precedent the transfer. In connection with section 33 as to power to sentence to imprisonment in default of payment of fine, it will be necessary to pass simultaneously with the Bill a short Act amending section 67 of the Penal Code, by inserting a declaration that such imprisonment shall be simple.

Section 35 declares, in accordance with a decision of the Bombay High Court, that, for the purpose of confirmation or appeal, a combined sentence, in case of simultaneous convictions for several offences, shall be deemed to be a single sentence.

General Provisions.

7. Part III contains certain general provisions which it seems convenient to group together and which, to avoid forward references, must stand near the beginning of the Code. They relate to the following matters: aid and information to the Magistrates and Police: arrest, escape and retaking; processes to compel appearance and production of documents. Here, again, the changes in the law are little more than verbal, save that, to the offences which the public are bound to assist in preventing, has been added (section 41) attempts to injure public property: that the section (44) authorizing, in the case of forcible resistance, the use of necessary means to effect arrests, has been extended to meet the case of attempts to evade them; that power has been given (section 47) to break open the doors of a house for the purpose of liberating persons who have lawfully entered for the purpose of making arrests therein: that persons making arrests have been expressly empowered (section 50) to take from the person arrested any offensive weapons which he may have about him; that the Police have been authorized to arrest, without warrant, deserters from the Navy; and that sections (63, 64) equivalent to Act XXV of 1861, section 112, have been inserted to provide for the retaking of persons escaping or rescued from lawful custody.

8. Under the present Code (Act X of 1872, section 153), summonses issued by Magistrates are ordinarily served "through a Police-officer:" the Bill (section 65) provides that they shall ordinarily be served by an officer of the Court, but that the Magistrate may direct service by the Police. Persons to or with whom a summons is delivered, tendered or left may be required (section 67) to countersign a copy of the original. Provision is made (sections 70, 71) for the service of a summons outside the local jurisdiction of the Magistrate who issues it, and for the proof of such service.

9. Section 72 requires that all warrants of arrest, whether issued in the Presidency-towns or the Mufassal, shall be sealed. Act IV of 1877, section 56, does not in such cases require a seal.

10. Section 85 clears up a doubt as to the commencement of the period provided in the corresponding section (171) of Act X of 1872, for the appearance of a person absconding against whom a warrant has been issued.

11. On the other hand, the power to arrest without warrant persons against whom a hue and cry has been raised is omitted, as that obsolete common-law process is unknown in India, and the section authorizing masters and mates to arrest deserters from ships is omitted, as the matter is sufficiently provided for by the Merchant Shipping Act.

Prevention of Offences.

12. Part IV, which relates to the prevention of offences, comes, it is considered, properly before Part VI, which relates to their prosecution. It comprises six chapters dealing respectively with lawful resistance; security for keeping the peace and for good behaviour; the dispersion of unlawful assemblies; suppression of nuisances; disputes as to immoveable property; and, lastly, the preventive action of the Police.

13. The provision (section 104) relating to lawful resistance to the commission of an offence is new. It declares that such resistance may be made by any person in the cases and to the extent in and to which he may exercise the right of private defence—a right defined and limited by the Penal Code, sections 96—106.

14. In the chapter relating to bonds for keeping the peace, and for good behaviour, provision has been made (section 116) as to the manner of conducting inquiries. We have made it clear in section 124 that a Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate, and Magistrate of the first class can cancel a bond on the application of a surety. Such Magistrates are also empowered (section 108) to require security for good behaviour.

15. In the chapter (X) on dispersion of unlawful assemblies, volunteers enrolled under the Indian Volunteers Act, 1869, are placed on the same footing as soldiers of Her Majesty's army.

Information to the Police, and their power to investigate.

16. Part V consists of a single chapter relating to information to the Police and their power to investigate. It corresponds with chapter X of Act X of 1872, and sections 379, 380 of the same Act.

17. The words "or that immediate arrest is not necessary," which are to be found in section 117 of Act X of 1872, have been omitted from section 155 of the Bill, as it is not apparent why a police-officer should be debarred from investigating a case of a cognizable offence because he does not at starting feel himself justified in arresting any person.

18. Section 162 makes it clear that confessions to Magistrates shall not only be "taken," but signed and certified, like examinations of accused persons.

19. Power resembling that conferred on Coroners by Act IV of 1871, section 11, has been given (section 174) to Magistrates authorized to hold inquests, to disinter and examine corpses in order to discover the cause of death.

Proceedings in Prosecutions.

20. Part VI treats of proceedings in prosecutions up to appeal, and is divided into seventeen chapters, arranged as follows:—

XV. Jurisdiction of Criminal Courts in Inquiries and Trials.
XVI. Complaints to Magistrates.
XVII. Commencement of Proceedings before Magistrates.
XVIII. Inquiry into cases triable by the Court of Session or High Court.
XIX. The Charge.
XX. Trial of Summons Cases by Magistrates.
XXI. Trial of Warrant Cases by Magistrates.
XXII. Summary Trials.
XXIII. Trials before High Courts and Courts of Session.
XXIV. Tender of Pardon in cases triable by the High Court or Court of Session.
XXV. General Provisions as to Inquiries and Trials.
XXVI. Evidence.
XXVII. The Judgment.
XXVIII. Submission of Sentences for Confirmation.
XXIX. Execution.
XXX. Suspensions, Remissions and Commutations of Sentences.
XXXI. Previous Acquittals or Convictions.

It will be seen that the above-mentioned chapters are arranged, as nearly as may be, according to the chronological order of the events in a prosecution.

Chapter XV (as to the jurisdiction of the Courts in inquiries and trials) deals, first, with the place of inquiry or trial: then with the time of commencing prosecutions: and, thirdly, with the conditions requisite for the initiation of proceedings.

21. "Delay," says Livingston, "inflicts punishment on the innocent, or lessens the force of example by punishing the guilty after the crime he has committed is forgotten." Sections 186-191 accordingly contain rules as to the time within which prosecutions for most offences must be commenced. There will be no limit for prosecutions for the following: offences against the State; offences relating to the Army and Navy; false evidence and offences against public justice; offences relating to coin and Government stamps; offences under the Penal Code, sections 299 to 311, 359 to 373 and 390 to 414; offences under the same Code relating to documents, trade and property-marks and marriage. Three years is the period fixed in case of the following: offences against the public tranquillity; offences by or relating to public servants; contempts of their lawful authority; offences against property other than those against trade and property-marks. For all other offences six months is the period prescribed. The time during which the accused is absent from the jurisdiction of the Court empowered to try him, or fails to surrender pursuant to a proclamation, will be excluded in computing the prescribed periods.

22. Section 196 requires that the sanction to entertain complaints of certain offences shall, so far as practicable, specify the place in which, and the occasion on which, the offence complained of was committed.

23. Chapter XVI, of complaints to Magistrates, corresponds to sections 144 to 147 of Act X of 1872, but adds (section 202) a provision that a complaint in writing made to a Magistrate not competent to entertain it shall be returned for presentation to the proper tribunal.

24. Chapter XIX, of the charge, extends to the whole of British India the amendments in Act X of 1872, sections 439 to 459, made by Act X of 1875; and with reference to Mr. Justice West's observations in Reg. v. Chand Hur, 11 Bomb. 241, on the corresponding section (457) of Act X of 1872, section 241 of the Bill has been confined to offences consisting of several particulars, a combination of some only of which constitutes a complete minor offence.

25. The provision (Act X of 1872, section 218) that the accused shall, while making his defence, be allowed to recall and cross-examine the witnesses for the prosecution has been expressly confined (section 259) to cases where the witnesses are present in the Court or its precincts.

26. In chapter XXII, summary trials, the Local Government has been authorised to confer on Benches invested with second or third class powers jurisdiction to try abetments of, and attempts to commit, the offences which they may now try summarily.

27. Chapter XXIII provides a common procedure for the High Court and the Court of Session, preserving, however, the special rules as to juries and their verdicts.

When a juror becomes unable to attend or absents himself, power is given (section 285), with the consent of the prosecutor and the accused, to proceed with the remaining jurors.

Where jurors or assessors have been taken to view the place in which the offence charged is alleged to have been committed, the Court has been empowered (section 296) to exempt them from being immediately brought back.

Where the Sessions Judge disagrees with a verdict of acquittal and submits the case to the High Court, he is required (section 310) to state the offence which he considers to have been committed, and the High Court is empowered to acquit or convict the accused of any offence of which the jury could have convicted him upon the charge framed and placed before it. This, it is believed, is the intention of the corresponding clause of section 263 of Act X of 1872.

28. Much doubt exists as to the offences which may lawfully be compounded. The Exception to section 214 of the Penal Code (in which the law on the subject is contained) is excessively obscure, and this obscurity is increased rather than diminished by the illustrations annexed to that section. The Bill repeals these illustrations; and section 347 declares in unmistakeable language that certain specified offences, and no others, may be compounded. It will be necessary to pass simultaneously with the Bill a short Act declaring that, for the Exception to section 280 of the Penal Code, the following shall be substituted:—

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

29. In chapter XXVII, as to judgment, section 369 allows the judgments of Mufassal Courts to be written in the mother-tongue of the presiding officer.

30. In chapter XXIX, as to execution, there are no sections corresponding with sections 319, 320 of Act X of 1872. The reason for this omission is that the matter with which they deal does not belong to criminal procedure, but falls within the scope of the Prisoners' Act, 1871; and it is proposed that, simultaneously with the passing of the present Bill, a short Act be passed, substituting for section 33 of the Prisoners' Act, and for section 57 of Act IV of 1877, a section equivalent to Act X of 1872, sections 319, 320.

31. Chapter XXX, as to suspensions, remissions and commutations of sentences.—Where application is made for the suspension or remissions of a sentence, the Government is empowered (section 402) to require the presiding Judge of the Court before which the conviction was had to furnish a statement of the facts proved on the trial, and of any facts bearing on the propriety of granting or refusing the application.

Appeal, Reference and Revision.

32. Part VII deals with appeals, references and the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court.

Section 407 provides that the appeal from a District Magistrate exercising the enhanced powers conferred under section 34 shall lie to the Court of Session in cases in which the sentence has not been submitted to that Court for confirmation, and, when it has been so submitted, to the High Court. This puts the appeals in question on the same footing as appeal from an Assistant Sessions Judge. There seems to be no reason for making any distinction between the two.

33. Section 424, in accordance with a decision of the Madras High Court (I. L. R. 1 Mad. 54), declares that, when an Appellate Court enhances any punishment inflicted by the sentence appealed against, it may inflict punishment of a different kind.

34. In the case of an appeal from an acquittal, section 427 expressly authorizes the High Court to order the accused to be arrested and brought before it, and to commit him to prison pending the disposal of the appeal, or admit him to bail.

35. A section (431) suggested by a decision of the Bombay High Court (I. L. R. 2 Bomb. 564) provides that appeals by persons required to give security for good behaviour or by convicted persons abate on their death, and that appeals against acquittals abate on the death of the accused. The power of revision conferred by section 439 will enable the High Court to alter sentences even after the appeal has abated.

36. Where, in the opinion of the Court of Session or District Magistrate, an accused person has been improperly discharged by an inferior Court, the accused should not be committed without having had an opportunity of shewing cause why the committal should not be made (1 O'K. 98). Provision to this effect has been made by section 436.

37. Section 439 (corresponding with Act X of 1872, section 297) has been framed so as to allow the High Court, when exercising its revisional jurisdiction, to interfere with improper acquittals. There is reason to believe that this change is in accordance with the intention of the framers of Act X of 1872.

Special Proceedings.

38. Part VIII, as to special proceedings, deals with the procedure relating to the following matters:—criminal proceedings against Europeans and Americans: lunatics: contempts of Court and other offences affecting the administration of justice: maintenance of wives and children: State prisoners: proceedings in the nature of habeas corpus.

Section 451 removes some differences which exist in the present law between the procedure of the High Courts and Courts of Session in cases in which European British subjects are concerned and which seem unnecessary. In particular, it is provided that, in the Court of Session as well as in the High Court, the requisite moiety of the jury or Assessors may be made up of Americans as well as Europeans.

39. The power given by sections 433 and 434 of Act X of 1872, to discharge from custody or make over to his relative a person acquitted on the ground of insanity, has been extended, in sections 474 and 475 of the Bill, to the case of persons who, being found to be insane at the time of trial, are committed to custody.

40. Section 477 has been framed so as to allow a Court of Session to charge a person for giving false evidence before itself—a power of which such Courts were unintentionally deprived by section 472 of the present Code.

41. Section 487 has been redrawn so as to avoid the difficulty which is felt in determining the meaning of the words "offence committed in contempt of its own authority," which occur in the corresponding section (473) of Act X of 1872.

Supplementary Provisions.

42. Part IX contains certain provisions supplementary to the general rules of procedure contained in the Code. It deals, first, with the public prosecutor, bail, commissions for the examination of witnesses and special rules of evidence. It then contains certain provisions relating to bonds to keep the peace, for good behaviour, for appearance, &c.: the disposal of property regarding which an offence has been committed: the transfer of criminal cases: irregular proceedings, and, lastly, certain miscellaneous matters.

43. Words have been introduced into the section (502) providing for the appointment of a public prosecutor which will have the effect of putting a stop to the practice of appointing a police officer.

44. Section 505 exempts the Advocate General, Standing Counsel, Government Solicitor or other officer empowered by the Local Government from the necessity of obtaining permission to conduct prosecutions.

45. The provisions of the present law as to commissions for the examination of witnesses have been amended in two respects. The Bill (section 515) requires that the interrogatories shall be thought relevant by the Magistrate or Court directing the commission, and power is expressly given (section 518) to stay the inquiry or trial for a specified time reasonably sufficient for the execution and return of the commission.

46. In proving the existence of circumstances as a defence under the 2nd, 3rd, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th or 10th Exception to section 499 of the Penal Code, section 521 of the Bill provides that good faith shall be presumed until the contrary appears. This is now the law in the Presidency-towns (Act XVIII of 1862, section 27) and may usefully be extended to the Mufassal.

47. In accordance with a recent rule of the High Court at Bombay, section 528 declares that, when a High Court or Court of Session makes an order for the disposal of property, and cannot through its own officers conveniently deliver the property to the person entitled thereto, the Court may direct its order to be carried into effect by the committing Magistrate.

48. Section 531 provides, in case of a conviction under the Penal Code, sections 292, 293, 501 or 502, for the destruction of the obscene books and defamatory matter in respect of which the conviction was had. It also provides for the destruction of adulterated or noxious food, drink or drugs in respect of which a conviction was had under sections 272—275 of the same Code.

49. Section 536 provides, in accordance with a Minute of Sir B. Peacock, cited I. L. R. 1 Calc. 223, that applications to the High Court for the transfer of cases shall be made by motion supported by affidavit or affirmation.

Schedules.

50. Schedules II and V, which correspond respectively with schedules IV and II of Act X of 1872, have been altered so as to adapt them, not only to the Mufassal Courts, but to those of the Presidency Magistrates.

The lists of powers contained in section 21 et seq. of Act X of 1872 have been thrown into Schedules III and IV of the Bill.

51. Excluding the special provisions of the Acts relating respectively to Coroners in the Presidency-towns, extradition, European British vagrants, and criminal tribes, the Bill is now, so far as Mr. Cockerell, Mr. Fitzpatrick and myself have been able to make it, a complete body of criminal procedure. No pains have been spared to render its provisions plain and practical; and in return all competent persons are earnestly asked to point out the mistakes and omissions which they will doubtless discover in so large and complicated a work.

When the officer in charge of a Police-station forwards an accused person to a Magistrate or takes security for his appearance before such Magistrate under this section, he shall at the same time send to such Magistrate any weapon or other article which it may be necessary to produce before him, and shall require the complainant, if any, and so many of the persons who appear to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case as may be necessary to execute a bond to appear before the Magistrate and prosecute or give evidence (as the case may be) in the matter of the charge against the accused.

If the Court of the District Magistrate or Sub-Divisional Magistrate be mentioned in the bond, it shall be held to include any Court to which such Magistrate may refer the case for inquiry or trial, provided notice of such reference be given to such complainant or witness.

Any Criminal Court may send for the Police-diaries of a case under inquiry or trial in such Court, and may use such diaries to aid it in such inquiry or trial. Neither the accused nor his agents shall be entitled to call for them, nor shall he or they be entitled to see them merely because they are referred to by the Court; but, if they are used by the Police-officer who made them to refresh his memory, or if the Court uses them for the purpose of contradicting such Police-officer, the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, sections 145 and 161, shall apply.

The report shall be signed by such Police-officer and other persons, or by so many of them as concur therein, and shall be forthwith forwarded to the District Magistrate or the Sub-divisional Magistrate.

When there is any doubt regarding the cause of death, the Police-officer shall forward the body, with a view to its being examined, to the nearest Civil Surgeon, or other medical officer appointed in this behalf by the Local Government, if the state of the weather and the distance admit of its being so forwarded without risk of such putrefaction on the road as would render such examination useless.

174. The nearest Magistrate empowered to hold inquests may, and, where necessary, shall, hold an inquiry into the cause of any such death, either instead of, or in addition to, the investigation held by the Police-officer; and if he does so, he shall have all the powers in conducting it which he would have in holding an inquiry into an offence. The Magistrate holding such an inquiry shall record the evidence taken by him in connection therewith in any of the manners hereinafter prescribed, according to the circumstances of the case.

If the law which creates the offence gives it any specific name, the offence may be described in the charge by that name only.

Specific name of offence sufficient description.

If the law which creates the offence does not give it any specific name, so much of the definition of the offence must be stated as to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

How stated where offence has no specific name.

The law and section of the law against which the offence is said to have been committed shall be mentioned in the charge.

The fact that the charge is made is equivalent to a statement that every legal condition required by law to constitute the offence charged was fulfilled in the particular case.

What implied in charges.

In the Presidency-towns the charge shall be written in English; elsewhere it shall be written either in English or in the language of the Court. If the language of the charge is not understood by the accused, the charge shall be interpreted to him in a language which he understands.

Language of charge.

ct X, 1875, s. 118. ct X, 1872, s. 439, last para. ct IV, 1877, s. 94, last para.

If the accused has been previously convicted of any offence, and it is intended to prove such previous conviction for the purpose of affecting the punishment which is to be awarded, the fact of the previous conviction must be stated in the charge. If such statement is omitted, it may be added at any time before sentence is passed, but not afterwards.

Previous conviction when to be set out.

Illustrations.

(a.) A is charged with the murder of B.

This is equivalent to a statement that A's act fell within the definition of murder given in sections 299 and 300 of the Indian Penal Code; that it did not fall within any of the general exceptions of the same Code; and that it did not fall within any of the five exceptions to section 300; or that, if it did fall within exception 1, one or other of the three provisos to that exception applied to it.

(b.) A is charged, under section 326 of the Indian Penal Code, with voluntarily causing grievous hurt to B, by means of an instrument for shooting. This is equivalent to a statement that the case was not provided for by section 335 of the Indian Penal Code, and that the general exceptions did not apply to it.

(c.) A is accused of murder, cheating, theft, extortion, adultery or criminal intimidation, or using a false property-mark. The charge may state that A committed murder, or cheating, or theft, or extortion, or adultery, or criminal intimidation, or that he used a false property-mark, without reference to the definitions of those crimes contained in the Indian Penal Code; but the sections under which the offence is punishable must, in each instance, be referred to in the charge.

(d.) A is charged, under section 184 of the Indian Penal Code, with intentionally obstructing a sale of property offered for sale by the lawful authority of a public servant. The charge should be in those words.

Act X, 187 s. 410. Act IV, 187 s. 95.

224. The charge shall contain such particulars as to the time and place of the alleged offence, and the person (naming him) against whom, or the thing in respect of which, it was committed, as are reasonably sufficient to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

Particulars as to time, place and person.

Act X, 187 s. 441. Act IV, 187 s. 96.

225. When the nature of the case is such that the particulars mentioned in sections 223 and 224 do not give the accused sufficient notice of the matter with which he is charged, the charge shall also contain such particulars of the manner in which the alleged offence was committed as will be sufficient for that purpose.

When manner of committing offence must be stated.

Illustrations.

(a.) A is accused of the theft of a certain article at a certain time and place. The charge need not set out the manner in which the theft was effected.

(b.) A is accused of cheating B at a given time and place. The charge must set out the manner in which A cheated B.

(c.) A is accused of giving false evidence at a given time and place. The charge must set out that portion of the evidence given by A which is alleged to be false.

(d.) A is accused of obstructing B, a public servant, in discharge of his public functions at a given time and place. The charge must set out the manner in which A obstructed B in the discharge of his functions.

(e.) A is accused of the murder of B at a given time and place. The charge need not state the manner in which A murdered B.

(f.) A is accused of disobeying a direction of the law with intent to save B from punishment. The charge must set out the disobedience charged and the law infringed.

(g.) A is accused of dacoity. The charge should state that A conjointly with four or more others committed robbery and thereby committed dacoity.

The Charge.

Act XVIII 1862, s.82.

226. In every charge words used in describing an offence shall be deemed to have been used in the sense attached to them respectively by the Indian Penal Code.

Words in charges taken in sense of Penal Code.

Act X, 1872, s. 443. Act X, 1875, s. 24. Act IV, 1877, s. 98.

227. No error in stating either the offence or the particulars required to be stated in the charge, and no omission to state the offence or those particulars, shall be regarded at any stage of the case as material, unless the accused was in fact misled by such error or omission.

Effect of errors.

Illustrations.

(a.) A is charged, under section 242 of the Indian Penal Code, with "having been in possession of counterfeit coin, having known at the time when he became possessed thereof that such coin was counterfeit," the word "fraudulently" being omitted in the charge. Unless it appears that A was in fact misled by this omission, the error shall not be regarded as material.

(b.) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge, or is set out incorrectly. A defends himself, calls witnesses, and gives his own account of the transaction. The Court may infer from this that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating is not material.

(c.) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge. There were many transactions between A and B, and A had no means of knowing to which of them the charge referred, and offered no defence. The Court may infer from such facts that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating was, in this case, a material error.

(d) A is charged with the murder of Khoda Baksh on the 21st January. In fact, the murdered person's name was Haidar Baksh, and the date of the murder was the 20th January. A was never charged with any murder but one, and had heard the inquiry before the Magistrate, which referred exclusively to the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from these facts that A was not misled, and that the error in the charge was immaterial.

(e.) A was charged with murdering Haidar Baksh on the 20th January and Khoda Baksh (who tried to arrest him for that murder) on the 21st January. When charged for the murder of Haidar Baksh, he was tried for the murder of Khoda Baksh. The witnesses present in his defence were witnesses in the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from this that A was misled, and that the error was material.

ct X, 1875, 7.

228. When any person is committed for trial before a High Court, the Clerk of the Crown, or, if there be not a Clerk of the Crown, a Judge of the High Court, shall, on receipt of the charge, peruse and consider it, and may, if it appears necessary or expedient so to do, alter or re-draw the same, having regard to the rules as to the form of charges contained in this Code.

Procedure on commitment to High Court.

ct X, 1875, s. 8. ct X, 1872, s. 446.

229. If a prisoner is committed to the Court of Session or High Court without any charge at all, the Court or (in the case of a High Court) the Clerk of the Crown or a Judge of the High Court may draw up a charge, having regard to the rules last aforesaid.

How Court of Session may deal with charge.

If a prisoner is committed upon a charge which the Court, upon reference to the proceedings before the committing Magistrate, considers improper, the Court may draw up a charge for any offence which it considers to be proved by the evidence taken before the committing Magistrate.

Act X, 18 ss. 444, 4 Act X, 18 ss. 9, 10. Act IV, 18 ss. 99, 10

230. Any Court may, upon the application of the accused, or of the prosecution, or upon its own motion, alter any charge at any time before judgment is pronounced, or, in the case of trials before the Court of Session or High Court, before the verdict of the jury is returned or the opinions of the assessors are expressed.

Magistrate may alter charge.

Every such alteration shall be read and explained to the accused.

Act X, 18 s. 447. Act X, 18 s. 11. Act IV, 18 s. 101.

231. If the alteration is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is not likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused in his defence, the Court may in its discretion, after making such alteration, proceed with the trial as if the altered charge had been the original charge.

When trial may proceed immediately after alteration.

Act X, 18 s. 448. Act X, 18 s. 12. Act IV, 18 s. 102.

232. If the alteration is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused in his defence, the Court may either direct a new trial, or suspend the trial for such period as may be necessary to enable him to make his defence to the altered charge; and after hearing his defence, the Court may if it thinks fit further adjourn the trial to admit of the appearance of any witness whose evidence the Court considers material to the case, or who the accused wishes to be summoned in his defence.

When new trial may be directed, or trial suspended.

Adjournment.

233. Whenever a charge is altered by the Court, the complainant and the accused shall be allowed to recall, and examine with reference to such alteration, any witness who may have been examined.

Recall of witnesses when charge altered.

Act X, 18 s. 450. Act X, 18 s. 16. Act IV, 18 s. 104.

234. If the offence stated in the altered charge is one for the prosecution of which previous sanction is necessary, the case shall not be proceeded with until such sanction is obtained, unless sanction has been already obtained for a prosecution on the same facts as those on which the altered charge is founded.

Stay of proceedings if prosecution of offence in altered charge require previous sanction.

Act X, 18 s. 45

235. If any Appellate Court, or the High Court in the exercise of its powers of revision, is of opinion that any person convicted of an offence was in fact misled in his defence by an error in the charge, it shall direct a new trial to be had upon a charge amended in whatever manner it thinks fit.

Effect of material error.

If the Court is of opinion that the facts of the case are such that no valid charge could be preferred against the accused in respect of the facts proved, it shall quash the conviction.

Illustration.

Act XI, 1874, s. 40. A is convicted of an offence under section 196 of the Indian Penal Code, upon a charge which omits to state that he knew the evidence which he corruptly used or attempted to use as true or genuine was false or fabricated. If the Court thinks it probable that A had such knowledge, and that he was misled in his defence by the omission from the charge of the statement that he had it, it shall direct a new trial upon an amended charge; but if it appears probable from the proceedings that A had no such knowledge, it shall quash the conviction.

Joinder of Charges.

Act X, 1872, s. 452. Act X, 1875, s. 17, adding "before the Magistrate." Act IV, 1877, s. 105.

236. There must be a separate charge for every distinct offence of which any person is accused before the Magistrate, and every such charge must be tried separately, except in the cases mentioned in sections 237, 238, 239 and 242.

Separate charges for distinct offences.

More offences than one of same kind may be charged within a year of each other.

238. I.—If, in one series of acts so connected together as to form the same transaction, more offences than one are committed by the same person, he may be charged with, and tried at one trial for, every such offence.

I.—Trial of more than one offence.

II.—If the acts alleged constitute an offence falling within two or more separate definitions of any law in force for the time being by which offences are defined or punished, the person accused of them may be charged with each of the offences so committed; but he must not receive a punishment more severe than could be inflicted for any of such offences.

II.—One offence falling within two definitions.

III.—If several acts, of which one or more than one would by itself constitute an offence, form, when combined, a different offence, the person accused of them may be charged with every offence, or any of the different offences, which he may have committed; but he shall not receive for such offences, collectively, a punishment more severe than could be inflicted for any one of such offences.

III.—Acts severally constituting more than one offence, but collectively coming within one definition.

to paragraph I—

(a.) A rescues B, a person in lawful custody, and in so doing causes grievous hurt to C, a constable in whose custody B was. A may be separately charged with, convicted of, and punished for, offences under sections 225 and 333 of the Indian Penal Code.

(b.) A has in his possession several seals knowing them to be counterfeit and intending to use them for the purpose of committing several forgeries punishable under section 466 of the Indian Penal Code. A may be separately charged with, convicted of, and punished for, the possession of each seal under section 473 of the Indian Penal Code.

239. If a single act or series of acts is of such a nature that it is doubtful which of several offences the facts which can be proved will constitute, the accused may be charged with having committed all or any of such offences; and any number of such charges may be tried at once, or he may be charged in the alternative with having committed some one of the said offences.

Where it is doubtful what offence has been committed.

240. If, in the case mentioned in section 239, the accused is charged with one offence, and it appears in evidence that he committed a different offence for which he might have been charged under the provisions of that section, he may be convicted of the offence which he is shown to have committed, although he was not charged with it.

When a person is charged with one offence, he can be convicted of another.

Act X, 1872, s. 211, paras. 1 and 2. Act IV, 1877, s. 126.

248. If the Magistrate upon taking the evidence referred to in section 247 and such further evidence (if any) as he may, of his own motion, cause to be produced, and (if he thinks fit) examining the accused, finds the accused not guilty, he shall record an order of acquittal.

250. If the summons has been issued on complaint and upon the day appointed for the appearance of the accused or any day subsequent thereto to which the hearing may be adjourned, the complainant does not appear, the Magistrate shall, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, acquit the accused, unless for some reason he thinks proper to adjourn the hearing of the case to some other day.

Non-appearance of complainant.

251. If a complainant, at any time before a final order is passed in any case under this chapter, satisfies the Magistrate that there are sufficient grounds for permitting him to withdraw his complaint, the Magistrate may permit him to withdraw the same, and shall thereupon acquit the accused.

Withdrawal of complaint.

252. The Magistrate may in his discretion, in any case instituted otherwise than upon complaint, stop the proceedings at any stage without pronouncing any judgment either of acquittal or conviction.

The sum so awarded shall be recoverable as if it were a fine; and if it cannot be so recovered, the complainant shall be imprisoned in the civil jail for such term, not exceeding thirty days, as the Magistrate directs, unless such sum is sooner paid.

Act X, 1872, s. 215.

Discharge of accused.

257. If when such evidence and examination have been wholly or partially taken, the Magistrate is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence triable under this chapter, which such Magistrate is competent to try, and which, in his opinion, could be adequately punished by him, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused.

260. If the accused applies to the Magistrate to issue any process for compelling the attendance of any witness (whether he has or has not been previously examined in the case) or the production of any document or other thing, the Magistrate shall issue such process unless, for reasons to be recorded by him in writing, he considers that such application should be refused.

Process for production of evidence for defence.

The Magistrate may, before summoning any witness on such application, require that his reasonable expenses incurred in attending for the purposes of the trial be deposited in Court.

448. Where any person committed to the High Court under section 447 is charged with several offences of which one is punishable with death or transportation for life and the others with a less punishment, and the High Court considers that he should not be tried for the offence punishable with death or transportation, the High Court may nevertheless try him for the other offence.

Trial for offences of which one is, and the others are not, punishable with death or transportation.

Act X, 1872, s. 76.

Such Judge may either himself bind over, or direct the committing Magistrate to bind over, the complainant and witnesses to appear before the High Court.

460. In every case in which an European (not being an European British subject) or an American is the accused person, or one of the accused persons, not less than half the number of Jurors or Assessors shall, if practicable and if such European or American so desires, be Europeans, or Americans. From the whole number of persons returned, the jurors who are to constitute the jury shall be chosen by lot in the manner prescribed in section 279, until a jury containing the proper number of Europeans or Americans, or a number approaching thereto as nearly as possible, has been obtained.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

No less than three Codes of Criminal Procedure are now in operation in British India: Act X of 1872, amended by Act XI of 1874, which is in force throughout the Mufassal; the High Courts' Act, X of 1875, which is in force in the Presidency-towns, Allahabad and Lahore, and the Presidency Magistrates' Act, IV of 1877, also in force in the Presidency-towns.

Many of the provisions of these Codes merely repeat one another; many of their rules, though dealing with the same subjects, unnecessarily vary in language; and the result is that the bulk of the Indian Statute-book is far greater than need be and that the Courts when construing one Code are often deprived of the guidance of prior decisions on another.

The primary object of this Bill, which has been framed at the suggestion of the Secretary of State, is to recast the Code of 1872, combining with it the substance of the High Courts' Act and the Presidency Magistrates' Act, and incorporating in it the numerous reported decisions on its wording, and thus at last give to India a single and complete Code of Criminal Procedure, and carry out, so far, the policy of providing a simple and uniform system of law for this country. The language and arrangement of Act X of 1872 have, for obvious reasons, been departed from only so far as is necessary for the main purpose of the Bill.

2. Though many of the outlying Acts and Regulations dealing with Criminal Procedure were repealed and re-enacted by Act X of 1872, many more are still untouched, and the secondary object of the present Bill is to consolidate these enactments, which are eleven in number:—

Acts.

XXIII of 1840 (Execution of process).
XXXIV of 1850 (State prisoners).
III of 1858 (State prisoners).
XVIII of 1862 (Administration of Criminal Justice in the High Courts).
II of 1869 (Justices of the Peace).
XXII of 1870, sections 2 and 4 (Application to European British subjects of Acts giving summary jurisdiction).

Regulations.

Bengal Regulation III, 1818 (State prisoners).
Bengal Regulation XX of 1825 (Jurisdiction of Courts Martial).
Madras Regulation II, 1819 (State prisoners).
Bombay Regulation XXV, 1827 (State prisoners).

3. The result of consolidating the Acts and Regulations above specified will be to substitute a single Act of 566 sections for fourteen enactments containing about one thousand unrepealed sections.

4. The present Bill is divided into nine Parts, the first containing the usual preliminary matter; the second dealing with the constitution and powers of the Criminal Courts and offices; the third containing some general provisions; the fourth treating of the prevention of offences; the fifth, of information to the Police and of their powers to investigate; the sixth, of proceedings in prosecutions; the seventh, of appeal, reference and revision; the eighth, of special proceedings; the ninth, of supplementary provisions.

Preliminary.

5. Part I consists of a single chapter containing the usual preliminary matter. The wording of some of the definitions in Act X of 1872 has been amended and definitions of 'to sign,' 'public prosecutor,' 'pleader,' 'offence,' 'chapter,' 'schedule' and 'place' have been added. The definition of 'European British subject' has been extended to persons naturalized in British India. Words referring to acts done are declared to extend also to illegal omissions, and words such as 'special law,' 'local law,' defined in the Penal Code will have the meanings attached to them respectively by that Code. On the other hand, the definitions of 'inquired into,' 'trial,' 'Magistrate's case,' have been omitted as not needed in the Code in its revised form.

Criminal Courts.

6. Part II (constitution and powers of the Criminal Courts and offices) consists of two chapters, of which the first deals (a) with the classes of Criminal Courts, (b) with territorial divisions, (c) with Courts outside the Presidency-towns, (d) with the Courts of the Presidency Magistrates, (e) with Justices of the Peace and (f) with the suspension and removal of Judges, Magistrates and Justices of the Peace. The second chapter treats of the powers of Judges and Magistrates, the description of offences cognizable by each Court, the sentences which may be passed by Courts of various classes, and the mode of conferring powers on the latter. The changes of the law here made are little more than verbal, save that in section 39 (= Act X of 1872, section 56), as to the continuance of powers of an officer transferred to another local area, words have been introduced to shew clearly that the direction therein mentioned may have preceded the transfer. In connection with section 33 as to power to sentence to imprisonment in default of payment of fine, it will be necessary to pass simultaneously with the Bill a short Act amending section 67 of the Penal Code, by inserting a declaration that such imprisonment shall be simple.

Section 35 declares, in accordance with a decision of the Bombay High Court, that, for the purpose of confirmation or appeal, a combined sentence, in case of simultaneous convictions for several offences, shall be deemed to be a single sentence.

General Provisions.

7. Part III contains certain general provisions which it seems convenient to group together and which, to avoid forward references, must stand near the beginning of the Code. They relate to the following matters: aid and information to the Magistrates and Police: arrest, escape and retaking: processes to compel appearance and production of documents. Here, again, the changes in the law are little more than verbal, save that, to the offences which the public are bound to assist in preventing, has been added (section 41) attempts to injure public property: that the section (44) authorizing, in the case of forcible resistance, the use of necessary means to effect arrests, has been extended to meet the case of attempts to evade them; that power has been given (section 47) to break open the doors of a house for the purpose of liberating persons who have lawfully entered for the purpose of making arrests therein: that persons making arrests have been expressly empowered (section 50) to take from the person arrested any offensive weapons which he may have about him; that the Police have been authorized to arrest, without warrant, deserters from the Navy; and that sections (63, 64) equivalent to Act XXV of 1861, section 112, have been inserted to provide for the retaking of persons escaping or rescued from lawful custody.

8. Under the present Code (Act X of 1872, section 153), summonses issued by Magistrates are ordinarily served "through a Police-officer:" the Bill (section 65) provides that they shall ordinarily be served by an officer of the Court, but that the Magistrate may direct service by the Police. Persons to or with whom a summons is delivered, tendered or left may be required (section 67) to countersign a copy of the original. Provision is made (sections 70, 71) for the service of a summons outside the local jurisdiction of the Magistrate who issues it, and for the proof of such service.

9. Section 72 requires that all warrants of arrest, whether issued in the Presidency-towns or the Mufassal, shall be sealed. Act IV of 1877, section 56, does not in such cases require a seal.

10. Section 85 clears up a doubt as to the commencement of the period provided in the corresponding section (171) of Act X of 1872, for the appearance of a person absconding against whom a warrant has been issued.

11. On the other hand, the power to arrest without warrant persons against whom a hue and cry has been raised is omitted, as that obsolete common-law process is unknown in India, and the section authorizing masters and mates to arrest deserters from ships is omitted, as the matter is sufficiently provided for by the Merchant Shipping Act.

Prevention of Offences.

12. Part IV, which relates to the prevention of offences, comes, it is considered, properly before Part VI, which relates to their prosecution. It comprises six chapters dealing respectively with lawful resistance; security for keeping the peace and for good behaviour; the dispersion of unlawful assemblies; suppression of nuisances; disputes as to immoveable property; and, lastly, the preventive action of the Police.

13. The provision (section 104) relating to lawful resistance to the commission of an offence is new. It declares that such resistance may be made by any person in the cases and to the extent in and to which he may exercise the right of private defence—a right defined and limited by the Penal Code, sections 96—106.

14. In the chapter relating to bonds for keeping the peace, and for good behaviour, provision has been made (section 116) as to the manner of conducting inquiries. We have made it clear in section 124 that a Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate, and Magistrate of the first class can cancel a bond on the application of a surety. Such Magistrates are also empowered (section 108) to require security for good behaviour.

15. In the chapter (X) on dispersion of unlawful assemblies, volunteers enrolled under the Indian Volunteers Act, 1869, are placed on the same footing as soldiers of Her Majesty's army.

Information to the Police, and their power to investigate.

16. Part V consists of a single chapter relating to information to the Police and their power to investigate. It corresponds with chapter X of Act X of 1872, and sections 379, 380 of the same Act.

17. The words "or that immediate arrest is not necessary," which are to be found in section 117 of Act X of 1872, have been omitted from section 155 of the Bill, as it is not apparent why a police-officer should be debarred from investigating a case of a cognizable offence because he does not at starting feel himself justified in arresting any person.

18. Section 162 makes it clear that confessions to Magistrates shall not only be "taken," but signed and certified, like examinations of accused persons.

19. Power resembling that conferred on Coroners by Act IV of 1871, section 11, has been given (section 174) to Magistrates authorized to hold inquests, to disinter and examine corpses in order to discover the cause of death.

Proceedings in Prosecutions.

20. Part VI treats of proceedings in prosecutions up to appeal, and is divided into seventeen chapters, arranged as follows:—

XV. Jurisdiction of Criminal Courts in Inquiries and Trials.
XVI. Complaints to Magistrates.
XVII. Commencement of Proceedings before Magistrates.
XVIII. Inquiry into cases triable by the Court of Session or High Court.
XIX. The Charge.
XX. Trial of Summons Cases by Magistrates.
XXI. Trial of Warrant Cases by Magistrates.
XXII. Summary Trials.
XXIII. Trials before High Courts and Courts of Session.
XXIV. Tender of Pardon in cases triable by the High Court or Court of Session.
XXV. General Provisions as to Inquiries and Trials.
XXVI. Evidence.
XXVII. The Judgment.
XXVIII. Submission of Sentences for Confirmation.
XXIX. Execution.
XXX. Suspensions, Remissions and Commutations of Sentences.
XXXI. Previous Acquittals or Convictions.

It will be seen that the above-mentioned chapters are arranged, as nearly as may be, according to the chronological order of the events in a prosecution.

Chapter XV (as to the jurisdiction of the Courts in inquiries and trials) deals, first, with the place of inquiry or trial: then with the time of commencing prosecutions: and, thirdly, with the conditions requisite for the initiation of proceedings.

21. "Delay," says Livingston, "inflicts punishment on the innocent, or lessens the force of example by punishing the guilty after the crime he has committed is forgotten." Sections 186-191 accordingly contain rules as to the time within which prosecutions for most offences must be commenced. There will be no limit for prosecutions for the following: offences against the State; offences relating to the Army and Navy; false evidence and offences against public justice; offences relating to coin and Government stamps; offences under the Penal Code, sections 299 to 311, 359 to 373 and 390 to 414; offences under the same Code relating to documents, trade and property-marks and marriage. Three years is the period fixed in case of the following: offences against the public tranquillity; offences by or relating to public servants; contempts of their lawful authority; offences against property other than those against trade and property-marks. For all other offences six months is the period prescribed. The time during which the accused is absent from the jurisdiction of the Court empowered to try him, or fails to surrender pursuant to a proclamation, will be excluded in computing the prescribed periods.

22. Section 196 requires that the sanction to entertain complaints of certain offences shall, so far as practicable, specify the place in which, and the occasion on which, the offence complained of was committed.

23. Chapter XVI, of complaints to Magistrates, corresponds to sections 144 to 147 of Act X of 1872, but adds (section 202) a provision that a complaint in writing made to a Magistrate not competent to entertain it shall be returned for presentation to the proper tribunal.

24. Chapter XIX, of the charge, extends to the whole of British India the amendments in Act X of 1872, sections 439 to 459, made by Act X of 1875; and with reference to Mr. Justice West's observations in Reg. v. Chand Hur, 11 Bomb. 241, on the corresponding section (457) of Act X of 1872, section 241 of the Bill has been confined to offences consisting of several particulars, a combination of some only of which constitutes a complete minor offence.

25 The provision (Act X of 1872, section 218) that the accused shall, while making his defence, be allowed to recall and cross-examine the witnesses for the prosecution has been expressly confined (section 259) to cases where the witnesses are present in the Court or its precincts.

26. In chapter XXII, summary trials, the Local Government has been authorised to confer on Benches invested with second or third class powers jurisdiction to try abetments of, and attempts to commit, the offences which they may now try summarily.

27. Chapter XXIII provides a common procedure for the High Court and the Court of Session, preserving, however, the special rules as to juries and their verdicts.

When a juror becomes unable to attend or absents himself, power is given (section 285), with the consent of the prosecutor and the accused, to proceed with the remaining jurors.

Where jurors or assessors have been taken to view the place in which the offence charged is alleged to have been committed, the Court has been empowered (section 296) to exempt them from being immediately brought back.

Where the Sessions Judge disagrees with a verdict of acquittal and submits the case to the High Court, he is required (section 310) to state the offence which he considers to have been committed, and the High Court is empowered to acquit or convict the accused of any offence of which the jury could have convicted him upon the charge framed and placed before it. This, it is believed, is the intention of the corresponding clause of section 263 of Act X of 1872.

28. Much doubt exists as to the offences which may lawfully be compounded. The Exception to section 214 of the Penal Code (in which the law on the subject is contained) is excessively obscure, and this obscurity is increased rather than diminished by the illustrations annexed to that section. The Bill repeals these illustrations; and section 347 declares in unmistakeable language that certain specified offences, and no others, may be compounded. It will be necessary to pass simultaneously with the Bill a short Act declaring that, for the Exception to section 280 of the Penal Code, the following shall be substituted:—

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

29. In chapter XXVII, as to judgment, section 369 allows the judgments of Mufassal Courts to be written in the mother-tongue of the presiding officer.

30. In chapter XXIX, as to execution, there are no sections corresponding with sections 319, 320 of Act X of 1872. The reason for this omission is that the matter with which they deal does not belong to criminal procedure, but falls within the scope of the Prisoners' Act, 1871; and it is proposed that, simultaneously with the passing of the present Bill, a short Act be passed, substituting for section 33 of the Prisoners' Act, and for section 57 of Act IV of 1877, a section equivalent to Act X of 1872, sections 319, 320.

31. Chapter XXX, as to suspensions, remissions and commutations of sentences.—Where application is made for the suspension or remissions of a sentence, the Government is empowered (section 402) to require the presiding Judge of the Court before which the conviction was had to furnish a statement of the facts proved on the trial, and of any facts bearing on the propriety of granting or refusing the application.

Appeal, Reference and Revision.

32. Part VII deals with appeals, references and the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court.

Section 407 provides that the appeal from a District Magistrate exercising the enhanced powers conferred under section 34 shall lie to the Court of Session in cases in which the sentence has not been submitted to that Court for confirmation, and, when it has been so submitted, to the High Court. This puts the appeals in question on the same footing as appeal from an Assistant Sessions Judge. There seems to be no reason for making any distinction between the two.

33. Section 424, in accordance with a decision of the Madras High Court (I. L. R. 1 Mad. 54), declares that, when an Appellate Court enhances any punishment inflicted by the sentence appealed against, it may inflict punishment of a different kind.

34. In the case of an appeal from an acquittal, section 427 expressly authorizes the High Court to order the accused to be arrested and brought before it, and to commit him to prison pending the disposal of the appeal, or admit him to bail.

35. A section (431) suggested by a decision of the Bombay High Court (I. L. R. 2 Bomb. 564) provides that appeals by persons required to give security for good behaviour or by convicted persons abate on their death, and that appeals against acquittals abate on the death of the accused. The power of revision conferred by section 439 will enable the High Court to alter sentences even after the appeal has abated.

36. Where, in the opinion of the Court of Session or District Magistrate, an accused person has been improperly discharged by an inferior Court, the accused should not be committed without having had an opportunity of shewing cause why the committal should not be made (1 O'K. 98). Provision to this effect has been made by section 436.

37. Section 439 (corresponding with Act X of 1872, section 297) has been framed so as to allow the High Court, when exercising its revisional jurisdiction, to interfere with improper acquittals. There is reason to believe that this change is in accordance with the intention of the framers of Act X of 1872.

Special Proceedings.

38. Part VIII, as to special proceedings, deals with the procedure relating to the following matters:—criminal proceedings against Europeans and Americans: lunatics: contempts of Court and other offences affecting the administration of justice: maintenance of wives and children: State prisoners: proceedings in the nature of habeas corpus.

Section 451 removes some differences which exist in the present law between the procedure of the High Courts and Courts of Session in cases in which European British subjects are concerned and which seem unnecessary. In particular, it is provided that, in the Court of Session as well as in the High Court, the requisite moiety of the jury or Assessors may be made up of Americans as well as Europeans.

39. The power given by sections 433 and 434 of Act X of 1872, to discharge from custody or make over to his relative a person acquitted on the ground of insanity, has been extended, in sections 474 and 475 of the Bill, to the case of persons who, being found to be insane at the time of trial, are committed to custody.

40. Section 477 has been framed so as to allow a Court of Session to charge a person for giving false evidence before itself—a power of which such Courts were unintentionally deprived by section 472 of the present Code.

41. Section 487 has been redrawn so as to avoid the difficulty which is felt in determining the meaning of the words "offence committed in contempt of its own authority," which occur in the corresponding section (473) of Act X of 1872.

Supplementary Provisions.

42. Part IX contains certain provisions supplementary to the general rules of procedure contained in the Code. It deals, first, with the public prosecutor, bail, commissions for the examination of witnesses and special rules of evidence. It then contains certain provisions relating to bonds to keep the peace, for good behaviour, for appearance, &c.: the disposal of property regarding which an offence has been committed: the transfer of criminal cases: irregular proceedings, and, lastly, certain miscellaneous matters.

43. Words have been introduced into the section (502) providing for the appointment of a public prosecutor which will have the effect of putting a stop to the practice of appointing a police officer.

44. Section 505 exempts the Advocate General, Standing Counsel, Government Solicitor or other officer empowered by the Local Government from the necessity of obtaining permission to conduct prosecutions.

45. The provisions of the present law as to commissions for the examination of witnesses have been amended in two respects. The Bill (section 515) requires that the interrogatories shall be thought relevant by the Magistrate or Court directing the commission, and power is expressly given (section 518) to stay the inquiry or trial for a specified time reasonably sufficient for the execution and return of the commission.

46. In proving the existence of circumstances as a defence under the 2nd, 3rd, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th or 10th Exception to section 499 of the Penal Code, section 521 of the Bill provides that good faith shall be presumed until the contrary appears. This is now the law in the Presidency-towns (Act XVIII of 1862, section 27) and may usefully be extended to the Mufassal.

47. In accordance with a recent rule of the High Court at Bombay, section 528 declares that, when a High Court or Court of Session makes an order for the disposal of property, and cannot through its own officers conveniently deliver the property to the person entitled thereto, the Court may direct its order to be carried into effect by the committing Magistrate.

48. Section 531 provides, in case of a conviction under the Penal Code, sections 292, 293, 501 or 502, for the destruction of the obscene books and defamatory matter in respect of which the conviction was had. It also provides for the destruction of adulterated or noxious food, drink or drugs in respect of which a conviction was had under sections 272—275 of the same Code.

49. Section 536 provides, in accordance with a Minute of Sir B. Peacock, cited I. L. R. 1 Calc. 223, that applications to the High Court for the transfer of cases shall be made by motion supported by affidavit or affirmation.

Schedules.

50. Schedules II and V, which correspond respectively with schedules IV and II of Act X of 1872, have been altered so as to adapt them, not only to the Mufassal Courts, but to those of the Presidency Magistrates.

The lists of powers contained in section 21 et seq. of Act X of 1872 have been thrown into Schedules III and IV of the Bill.

51. Excluding the special provisions of the Acts relating respectively to Coroners in the Presidency-towns, extradition, European British vagrants, and criminal tribes, the Bill is now, so far as Mr. Cockerell, Mr. Fitzpatrick and myself have been able to make it, a complete body of criminal procedure. No pains have been spared to render its provisions plain and practical; and in return all competent persons are earnestly asked to point out the mistakes and omissions which they will doubtless discover in so large and complicated a work.

138. When an order has been made absolute under section 134, section 135, or section 137, the Magistrate shall give notice of the same to the person against whom the order was made and shall further require him to perform the act directed by the order within a time to be fixed in the notice, and inform him that, in case of disobedience, he will be liable to the penalty provided by section 188 of the Indian Penal Code.

139. If the applicant by neglect or otherwise prevents the appointment of the jury, or if from any cause the jury appointed do not return their verdict within the time fixed or within such further time as the Magistrate may in his discretion allow, the Magistrate may pass such order as he thinks fit, and such order shall be executed in the manner provided by section 138. (Act X, 1872, s. 523, para. 4.) — Procedure on failure to appoint jury or omission to return verdict.

140. If a Magistrate making an order under section 131 considers that immediate measures should be taken to prevent imminent danger or injury of a serious kind to the public, he may, whether a jury is to be, or has been, appointed or not, issue such an injunction to the person against whom the order was made as is required to obviate or prevent such danger or injury. (Act X, 1872, s. 528.) — Injunction pending inquiry.

In default of such person forthwith obeying such injunction, the Magistrate may himself use, or cause to be used, such means as he thinks fit to obviate such danger or to prevent such injury.

141. In cases where, in the opinion of a District Magistrate, a Sub-divisional Magistrate, or of any other Magistrate specially empowered by the Local Government or the District Magistrate to act under this section, a speedy remedy is desirable and the delay which would be occasioned by a resort to the procedure contained in section 131 and the next following sections would occasion a greater evil than that suffered by the person against whom the order was made, or would defeat the intention of this chapter, (Act X, 1872, s. 518, Expl. I. 1 O'Kin. 58.) — Power to issue order absolute at once in urgent cases.

such Magistrate may, by a written order stating the material facts of the case and served in manner provided by section 132, direct any person to abstain from a certain act or to take certain order with certain property in his possession, or under his management, if such Magistrate considers that such direction is likely to prevent, or tends to prevent, obstruction, annoyance or injury, or risk of obstruction, annoyance or injury, to any persons lawfully employed, or danger to human life, health or safety, or a riot or an affray. (Act X, 1872, s. 518. 1 Beng. Ap. Cr. 20.)

An order under this section may, in cases of emergency or in cases where the circumstances do not admit of the serving in due time of a notice upon the person against whom the order is directed be passed ex parte, and may in all cases be made upon such information as satisfies the Magistrate. (Act X, 1872, s. 518, Expl. II.)

An order under this section may be directed to a particular individual, or to the public generally when frequenting or visiting a particular place. (Act X, 1872, s. 518, Expl. III.)

(Act X, 1872, s. 519. Penal Code, s. 291.) — Magistrate may prohibit repetition or continuance of public nuisances.

CHAPTER XII.

Disputes as to Immoveable Property.

143. Whenever a District Magistrate, Sub-Divisional Magistrate, or a Magistrate of the first class, is satisfied from a Police-report or other information that a dispute likely to cause a breach of the peace exists concerning any tangible immoveable property, or the boundaries thereof, within the local limits of his jurisdiction, he shall make an order in writing stating the grounds of his being so satisfied, and requiring the parties concerned in such dispute to attend his Court, in person or by agent, within a time to be fixed by such Magistrate, and to put in written statements of their respective claims as respects the fact of actual possession of the subject of dispute. (Act X, 1872, s. 530. 3 Calc. 552. I. L. R. 3 Calc. 320.) — Procedure where dispute concerning land, &c., is likely to cause breach of peace.

The Magistrate shall then, without reference to the merits of the claims of any of such parties to a right to possess the subject of dispute, peruse the statements so put in, hear the parties and their respective witnesses, consider the effect of the evidence and, if possible, decide whether any and which of the parties is in possession of the said subject. — Inquiry as to possession.

If he decides that one of the parties is in possession of the said subject, he shall issue an order declaring such party to be entitled to retain possession thereof until evicted therefrom in due course of law, and forbidding all disturbance of such possession until such eviction. (1 O'Kin. 136. 2 O'Kin. 67, 264.) — Party in possession to be continued until legally evicted.

144. If such Magistrate decides that none of the parties is in possession, or is unable to satisfy himself as to which of them is in possession, of the subject of dispute, he may attach it, until a competent Civil Court has determined the rights of the parties thereto, or the person entitled to possession thereof. (Act X, 1872, s. 531. 1 O'Kin. 86.) — Power to attach subject of dispute.

145. Whenever any such Magistrate is satisfied as aforesaid that a dispute likely to cause a breach of the peace exists concerning the right to do or prevent the doing of anything in or upon any tangible immoveable property situate within the local limits of his jurisdiction, he may inquire into the matter; and may, if it appears to him that such right exists, make an order permitting such thing to be done, or directing that such thing shall not be done, as the case may be, until the person objecting to such thing being done or claiming that such thing may (Act X, 1872, s. 532.) — Disputes concerning easements, &c.

be done, obtains the decision of a competent Civil Court, adjudging him to be entitled to prevent the doing of, or to do, such thing, as the case may be:

Provided that no order shall be passed under this section permitting the doing of anything where the right to do such thing is exerciseable at all times of the year, unless such right has been ordinarily exercised within three months next before the institution of the inquiry; or, where the right is exerciseable only at particular seasons, unless such right has been so exercised during the season next before the dispute.

146. Whenever a local inquiry is necessary for the purposes of this chapter, any District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate may depute any Magistrate subordinate to him to make the inquiry, and may furnish him with such instructions consistent with the law for the time being in force as may seem necessary for his guidance, and may declare by whom the whole or any part of the necessary expenses of the inquiry shall be paid. (Act X, 1872, s. 533.) — Local inquiry.

CHAPTER XIII.

147. Every Police-officer may interpose for the purpose of preventing, and shall to the best of his ability prevent, the commission of any cognizable offence. (Act X, 1872, s. 95.) — Police to prevent cognizable offences.

148. Every Police-officer receiving information of a design to commit any cognizable offence shall communicate such information to the Police-officer to whom he is subordinate, and to any other officer whom it may concern, to prevent or take cognizance of the commission of any such offence. (Act X, 1872, s. 96.) — Information of design to commit such offences.

151. Any officer in charge of a Police-station may, without a warrant, enter any place within the limits of such station for the purpose of inspecting or searching for any weights or measures, or instruments for weighing, used or kept therein, whenever he has reason to believe that there are in such place any weights, measures or instruments for weighing which are false. (Act X, 1872, s. 381.) — Inspection of weights and measures.

If he finds in such place any weights, measures or instruments for weighing which are false, he may seize the same, and shall forthwith give information of such seizure to the Magistrate having jurisdiction.

(Act X, 18 s. 109, para. 2.) — Investigation into cognizable cases.

No proceeding of a Police-officer in any such case shall at any stage be called in question on the ground that the case was one which such officer was not empowered under this section to investigate. (Act X, 18 s. 114, para.)

155. If, from information received or otherwise, an officer in charge of a Police-station has reason to suspect the commission of an offence which he is empowered under section 154 to investigate, he shall send a report of the same to the nearest Magistrate having jurisdiction to receive Police-reports, and shall proceed in person, or shall depute one of his subordinate officers to proceed, to the spot to investigate the facts and circumstances of the case, and to take such measures as may be necessary for the discovery and arrest of the offender: (Act X, 18 s. 114. Provided that, when the case has been transferred under section 193 and the Magistrate so transferring it has already examined the complainant, the Magistrate to whom it is so transferred shall not be bound to re-examine the complainant:

Provided also that where the Magistrate is a Presidency Magistrate, such examination may be on oath or affirmation or not as the Magistrate in each case thinks fit, and the Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, before the matter of the complaint is brought before him, require it to be reduced to writing. If such inquiry or investigation is made by means of some person other than an officer exercising any of the powers of a Magistrate or a Police-officer, such person shall exercise all the powers conferred by this Code on an officer in charge of a Police-station, except that he shall not have power to arrest without warrant.

If in the opinion of a Magistrate taking cognizance of a case there is sufficient ground for believing that any person has committed an offence, he shall, if the case appears to be one in which according to the fourth column of the second schedule a summons should issue in the first instance, issue his summons, or, if the case appear to be one in which according to that column a warrant should issue in the first instance, his warrant, for causing such person to appear or be brought at a certain time and place before such Magistrate or some other Magistrate having jurisdiction:

Act X, 1872, s. 148, proviso, 150.

Provided that in any case in which a summons should be issued under the foregoing part of this section, if the Magistrate sees reason to believe that the accused is about to abscond or will not obey the summons, he may, after recording his reasons in writing, instead of issuing a summons, issue a warrant in the first instance for the arrest of such person.

Act X, 1872, s. 151. Act IV, 1877, s. 37.

206. Whenever a Magistrate issues a summons, he may, if he sees reason so to do, dispense with the personal attendance of the accused, and permit him to appear by his pleader.

Further list.

Act X, 1872, s. 200. Act IV, 1877, s. 91.

213. The Magistrate may in his discretion summon and examine any witness named in any list given in to him under section 212.

Act X, 1872, ss. 198, 200. Act IV, 1877, ss. 89, para. 1, 91.

214. When the accused on being required to give in a list under section 212 has declined to do so, or when he has given in such list and the witnesses (if any) included therein whom the Magistrate desires to examine have been summoned and examined under section 213, the Magistrate may make an order committing the accused for trial by the High Court or the Court of Session (as the case may be), and (unless the Magistrate is a Presidency Magistrate) recording the reasons for such commitment.

220. When the accused is committed for trial, the Magistrate shall issue an order to such person as may be appointed by the Local Government in this behalf, notifying the commitment, and stating the offence in the same form as the charge, unless the Magistrate is satisfied that such person is already aware of the commitment and the form of the charge, and shall send the charge, the record of the enquiry and any weapon or other moveable thing which is to be produced in evidence to the Court of Session or (where the commitment is made to the High Court) to the Clerk of the Crown or other officer appointed in this behalf by the High Court.

Such examination shall, if possible, be taken in the presence of the accused, and where the Magistrate is not a Presidency Magistrate, a copy of the evidence of such witnesses shall, if the accused so require, be given to him free of cost.

CHAPTER XIX.

Of the Charge.

Form of Charges.

Act X, 1872, s. 439. Act IV, 1877, s. 94.

Charge to state offence.

223. Every charge under this Code shall state the offence with which the accused is charged.

Specific name of offence sufficient description.

If the law which creates the offence gives it any specific name, the offence may be described in the charge by that name only.

How stated where offence has no specific name.

If the law which creates the offence does not give it any specific name, so much of the definition of the offence must be stated as to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

The law and section of the law against which the offence is said to have been committed shall be mentioned in the charge.

What implied in charges.

The fact that the charge is made is equivalent to a statement that every legal condition required by law to constitute the offence charged was fulfilled in the particular case.

Language of charge.

In the Presidency-towns the charge shall be written in English; elsewhere it shall be written either in English or in the language of the Court. If the language of the charge is not understood by the accused, the charge shall be interpreted to him in a language which he understands.

Act X, 1875, s. 118. Act X, 1872, s. 439, last para. Act IV, 1877, s. 94, last para.

Previous conviction when to be set out.

If the accused has been previously convicted of any offence, and it is intended to prove such previous conviction for the purpose of affecting the punishment which is to be awarded, the fact of the previous conviction must be stated in the charge. If such statement is omitted, it may be added at any time before sentence is passed, but not afterwards.

Illustrations.

(a.) A is charged with the murder of B. This is equivalent to a statement that A's act fell within the definition of murder given in sections 299 and 300 of the Indian Penal Code; that it did not fall within any of the general exceptions of the same Code; and that it did not fall within any of the five exceptions to section 300; or that, if it did fall within exception 1, one or other of the three provisos to that exception applied to it.

(b.) A is charged, under section 326 of the Indian Penal Code, with voluntarily causing grievous hurt to B, by means of an instrument for shooting. This is equivalent to a statement that the case was not provided for by section 335 of the Indian Penal Code, and that the general exceptions did not apply to it.

(c.) A is accused of murder, cheating, theft, extortion, adultery or criminal intimidation, or using a false property-mark. The charge may state that A committed murder, or cheating, or theft, or extortion, or adultery, or criminal intimidation, or that he used a false property-mark, without reference to the definitions of those crimes contained in the Indian Penal Code; but the sections under which the offence is punishable must, in each instance, be referred to in the charge.

(d.) A is charged, under section 184 of the Indian Penal Code, with intentionally obstructing a sale of property offered for sale by the lawful authority of a public servant. The charge should be in those words.

Particulars as to time, place and person.

224. The charge shall contain such particulars as to the time and place of the alleged offence, and the person (naming him) against whom, or the thing in respect of which, it was committed, as are reasonably sufficient to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

Act X, 1 s. 440. Act IV, 1 s. 95.

When manner of committing offence must be stated.

Act X, s. 441. Act IV, s. 96.

Illustrations.

(a.) A is accused of the theft of a certain article at a certain time and place. The charge need not set out the manner in which the theft was effected.

(b.) A is accused of cheating B at a given time and place. The charge must set out the manner in which A cheated B.

(c.) A is accused of giving false evidence at a given time and place. The charge must set out that portion of the evidence given by A which is alleged to be false.

(d.) A is accused of obstructing B, a public servant, in discharge of his public functions at a given time and place. The charge must set out the manner in which A obstructed B in the discharge of his functions.

(e.) A is accused of the murder of B at a given time and place. The charge need not state the manner in which A murdered B.

(f.) A is accused of disobeying a direction of the law with intent to save B from punishment. The charge must set out the disobedience charged and the law infringed.

(g.) A is accused of dacoity. The charge should state that A conjointly with four or more others committed robbery and thereby committed dacoity.

Act XVIII 1862, s. 82.

Words in charges taken in sense of Penal Code.

226. In every charge words used in describing an offence shall be deemed to have been used in the sense attached to them respectively by the Indian Penal Code.

Act X, 1872, s. 443. Act X, 1875, s. 24. Act IV, 1877, s. 98.

Effect of errors.

227. No error in stating either the offence or the particulars required to be stated in the charge, and no omission to state the offence or those particulars, shall be regarded at any stage of the case as material, unless the accused was in fact misled by such error or omission.

Illustrations.

(a.) A is charged, under section 242 of the Indian Penal Code, with "having been in possession of counterfeit coin, having known at the time when he became possessed thereof that such coin was counterfeit," the word "fraudulently" being omitted in the charge. Unless it appears that A was in fact misled by this omission, the error shall not be regarded as material.

(b.) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge, or is set out incorrectly. A defends himself, calls witnesses, and gives his own account of the transaction. The Court may infer from this that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating is not material.

(c.) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge. There were many transactions between A and B, and A had no means of knowing to which of them the charge referred, and offered no defence. The Court may infer from such facts that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating was, in this case, a material error.

(d) A is charged with the murder of Khoda Baksh on the 21st January. In fact, the murdered person's name was Haidar Baksh, and the date of the murder was the 20th January. A was never charged with any murder but one, and had heard the inquiry before the Magistrate, which referred exclusively to the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from these facts that A was not misled, and that the error in the charge was immaterial.

(e) A was charged with murdering Haidar Baksh on the 20th January and Khoda Baksh (who tried to arrest him for that murder) on the 21st January. When charged for the murder of Haidar Baksh, he was tried for the murder of Khoda Baksh. The witnesses present in his defence were witnesses in the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from this that A was misled, and that the error was material.

Act X, 1875, s. 7.

Procedure on commitment to High Court.

228. When any person is committed for trial before a High Court, the Clerk of the Crown, or, if there be not a Clerk of the Crown, a Judge of the High Court, shall, on receipt of the charge, peruse and consider it, and may, if it appears necessary or expedient so to do, alter or re-draw the same, having regard to the rules as to the form of charges contained in this Code.

Act X, 1875, s. 8. Act X, 1872, s. 446.

How Court of Session may deal with charge.

229. If a prisoner is committed to the Court of Session or High Court without any charge at all, the Court or (in the case of a High Court) the Clerk of the Crown or a Judge of the High Court may draw up a charge, having regard to the rules last aforesaid.

If a prisoner is committed upon a charge which the Court, upon reference to the proceedings before the committing Magistrate, considers improper, the Court may draw up a charge for any offence which it considers to be proved by the evidence taken before the committing Magistrate.

Magistrate may alter charge.

230. Any Court may, upon the application of the accused, or of the prosecution, or upon its own motion, alter any charge at any time before judgment is pronounced, or, in the case of trials before the Court of Session or High Court, before the verdict of the jury is returned or the opinions of the assessors are expressed.

Act X, 1872, ss. 444, 445. Act X, 1875, ss. 9, 10. Act IV, 1877, ss. 99, 100.

Every such alteration shall be read and explained to the accused.

When trial may proceed immediately after alteration.

231. If the alteration is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is not likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused in his defence, the Court may in its discretion, after making such alteration, proceed with the trial as if the altered charge had been the original charge.

Act X, 18 s. 447. Act X, 18 s. 11. Act IV, 18 s. 101.

When new trial may be directed, or trial suspended.

232. If the alteration is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused in his defence, the Court may either direct a new trial, or suspend the trial for such period as may be necessary to enable him to make his defence to the altered charge; and after hearing his defence, the Court may if it thinks fit further adjourn the trial to admit of the appearance of any witness whose evidence the Court considers to be material to the case, or who the accused wishes to be summoned in his defence.

Adjournment.

Act X, 18 s. 448. Act X, 18 s. 12. Act IV, 18 s. 102.

Recall of witnesses when charge altered.

233. Whenever a charge is altered by the Court, the complainant and the accused shall be allowed to recall, and examine with reference to such alteration, any witness who may have been examined.

Act X, ... s. ... Act X, ... 15, omit 'during trial.' Act IV, ... s. 103.

Stay of proceedings if prosecution of offence in altered charge require previous sanction.

234. If the offence stated in the altered charge is one for the prosecution of which previous sanction is necessary, the case shall not be proceeded with until such sanction is obtained, unless sanction has been already obtained for a prosecution on the same facts as those on which the altered charge is founded.

Act X, s. 450. Act X, s. 16. Act IV, s. 104.

Effect of material error.

235. If any Appellate Court, or the High Court in the exercise of its powers of revision, is of opinion that any person convicted of an offence was in fact misled in his defence by an error in the charge, it shall direct a new trial to be had upon a charge amended in whatever manner it thinks fit.

Act X, s. 451.

If the Court is of opinion that the facts of the case are such that no valid charge could be preferred against the accused in respect of the facts proved, it shall quash the conviction.

Illustration.

Act XI, 1874, s. 40. A is convicted of an offence under section 196 of the Indian Penal Code, upon a charge which omits to state that he knew the evidence which he corruptly used or attempted to use as true or genuine was false or fabricated. If the Court thinks it probable that A had such knowledge, and that he was misled in his defence by the omission from the charge of the statement that he had it, it shall direct a new trial upon an amended charge; but if it appears probable from the proceedings that A had no such knowledge, it shall quash the conviction.

Joinder of Charges.

Act X, 1872, s. 452. Act X, 1875, s. 17, adding "before the Magistrate." Act IV, 1877, s. 105. 236. There must be a separate charge for every distinct offence of which any person is accused before the Magistrate, and every such charge must be tried separately, except in the cases mentioned in sections 237, 238, 239 and 242.

Separate charges for distinct offences.

Illustration.

A is accused of a theft on one occasion, and of causing grievous hurt on another occasion. A must be separately charged and separately tried for the theft and the causing grievous hurt.

More offences than one of same kind may be charged within a year of each other.

Act X, 1872, s. 454, omitting illustration (i). X, 1875, s. 19. IV, 1877, s. 107. 238. I.—If, in one series of acts so connected together as to form the same transaction, more offences than one are committed by the same person, he may be charged with, and tried at one trial for, every such offence.

I.—Trial of more than one offence.

II.—If the acts alleged constitute an offence falling within two or more separate definitions of any law in force for the time being by which offences are defined or punished, the person accused of them may be charged with each of the offences so committed; but he must not receive a punishment more severe than could be inflicted for any of such offences.

II.—One offence falling within two definitions.

III.—If several acts, of which one or more than one would by itself constitute an offence, form, when combined, a different offence, the person accused of them may be charged with every offence, or any of the different offences, which he may have committed; but he shall not receive for such offences, collectively, a punishment more severe than could be inflicted for any one of such offences.

III.—Acts severally constituting more than one offence, but collectively coming within one definition.

Such Judge may either himself bind over, or direct the committing Magistrate to bind over, the complainant and witnesses to appear before the High Court.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

No less than three Codes of Criminal Procedure are now in operation in British India: Act X of 1872, amended by Act XI of 1874, which is in force throughout the Mufassal; the High Courts' Act, X of 1875, which is in force in the Presidency-towns, Allahabad and Lahore, and the Presidency Magistrates' Act, IV of 1877, also in force in the Presidency-towns.

Many of the provisions of these Codes merely repeat one another; many of their rules, though dealing with the same subjects, unnecessarily vary in language; and the result is that the bulk of the Indian Statute-book is far greater than need be and that the Courts when construing one Code are often deprived of the guidance of prior decisions on another.

The primary object of this Bill, which has been framed at the suggestion of the Secretary of State, is to recast the Code of 1872, combining with it the substance of the High Courts' Act and the Presidency Magistrates' Act, and incorporating in it the numerous reported decisions on its wording, and thus at last give to India a single and complete Code of Criminal Procedure, and carry out, so far, the policy of providing a simple and uniform system of law for this country. The language and arrangement of Act X of 1872 have, for obvious reasons, been departed from only so far as is necessary for the main purpose of the Bill.

2. Though many of the outlying Acts and Regulations dealing with Criminal Procedure were repealed and re-enacted by Act X of 1872, many more are still untouched, and the secondary object of the present Bill is to consolidate these enactments, which are ten in number:—

Acts.

XXIII of 1840 (Execution of process).
XXXIV of 1850 (State prisoners).
III of 1858 (State prisoners).
XVIII of 1862 (Administration of Criminal Justice in the High Courts).
II of 1869 (Justices of the Peace).
XXII of 1870, sections 2 and 4 (Application to European British subjects of Acts giving summary jurisdiction).

Regulations.

Bengal Regulation III, 1818 (State prisoners).
Bengal Regulation XX of 1825 (Jurisdiction of Courts Martial).
Madras Regulation II, 1819 (State prisoners).
Bombay Regulation XXV, 1827 (State prisoners).

3. The result of consolidating the Acts and Regulations above specified will be to substitute a single Act of 566 sections for fourteen enactments containing 1046 unrepealed sections.

4. The present Bill is divided into nine Parts, the first containing the usual preliminary matter; the second dealing with the constitution and powers of the Criminal Courts and offices; the third containing some general provisions; the fourth treating of the prevention of offences; the fifth, of information to the Police and of their powers to investigate; the sixth, of proceedings in prosecutions; the seventh, of appeal, reference and revision; the eighth, of special proceedings; the ninth, of supplementary provisions.

Preliminary.

5. Part I consists of a single chapter containing the usual preliminary matter. The wording of some of the definitions in Act X of 1872 has been amended and definitions of 'to sign,' 'public prosecutor,' 'pleader,' 'offence,' 'chapter,' 'schedule' and 'place' have been added. The definition of 'European British subject' has been extended to persons naturalized in British India. Words referring to acts done are declared to extend also to illegal omissions, and words such as 'special law,' 'local law,' defined in the Penal Code will have the meanings attached to them respectively by that Code. On the other hand, the definitions of 'inquired into,' 'trial,' 'Magistrate's case,' have been omitted as not needed in the Code in its revised form.

Criminal Courts.

6. Part II (constitution and powers of the Criminal Courts and offices) consists of two chapters, of which the first deals (a) with the classes of Criminal Courts, (b) with territorial divisions, (c) with Courts outside the Presidency-towns, (d) with the Courts of the Presidency Magistrates, (e) with Justices of the Peace and (f) with the suspension and removal of Judges, Magistrates and Justices of the Peace. The second chapter treats of the powers of Judges and Magistrates, the description of offences cognizable by each Court, the sentences which may be passed by Courts of various classes, and the mode of conferring powers on the latter. The changes of the law here made are little more than verbal, save that in section 39 (= Act X of 1872, section 56), as to the continuance of powers of an officer transferred to another local area, words have been introduced to shew clearly that the direction therein mentioned may have preceded the transfer. In connection with section 33 as to power to sentence to imprisonment in default of payment of fine, it will be necessary to pass simultaneously with the Bill a short Act amending section 67 of the Penal Code, by inserting a declaration that such imprisonment shall be simple.

Section 35 declares, in accordance with a decision of the Bombay High Court, that, for the purpose of confirmation or appeal, a combined sentence, in case of simultaneous convictions for several offences, shall be deemed to be a single sentence.

General Provisions.

7. Part III contains certain general provisions which it seems convenient to group together and which, to avoid forward references, must stand near the beginning of the Code. They relate to the following matters: aid and information to the Magistrates and Police: arrest, escape and retaking: processes to compel appearance and production of documents. Here, again, the changes in the law are little more than verbal, save that, to the offences which the public are bound to assist in preventing, has been added (section 41) attempts to injure public property: that the section (44) authorizing, in the case of forcible resistance, the use of necessary means to effect arrests, has been extended to meet the case of attempts to evade them; that power has been given (section 47) to break open the doors of a house for the purpose of liberating persons who have lawfully entered for the purpose of making arrests therein: that persons making arrests have been expressly empowered (section 50) to take from the person arrested any offensive weapons which he may have about him; that the Police have been authorized to arrest, without warrant, deserters from the Navy; and that sections (63, 64) equivalent to Act XXV of 1861, section 112, have been inserted to provide for the retaking of persons escaping or rescued from lawful custody.

8. Under the present Code (Act X of 1872, section 153), summonses issued by Magistrates are ordinarily served "through a Police-officer:" the Bill (section 65) provides that they shall ordinarily be served by an officer of the Court, but that the Magistrate may direct service by the Police. Persons to or with whom a summons is delivered, tendered or left may be required (section 67) to countersign a copy of the original. Provision is made (sections 70, 71) for the service of a summons outside the local jurisdiction of the Magistrate who issues it, and for the proof of such service.

9. Section 72 requires that all warrants of arrest, whether issued in the Presidency-towns or the Mufassal, shall be sealed. Act IV of 1877, section 56, does not in such cases require a seal.

10. Section 85 clears up a doubt as to the commencement of the period provided in the corresponding section (171) of Act X of 1872, for the appearance of a person absconding against whom a warrant has been issued.

11. On the other hand, the power to arrest without warrant persons against whom a hue and cry has been raised is omitted, as that obsolete common-law process is unknown in India, and the section authorizing masters and mates to arrest deserters from ships is omitted, as the matter is sufficiently provided for by the Merchant Shipping Act.

Prevention of Offences.

12. Part IV, which relates to the prevention of offences, comes, it is considered, properly before Part VI, which relates to their prosecution. It comprises six chapters dealing respectively with lawful resistance; security for keeping the peace and for good behaviour; the dispersion of unlawful assemblies; suppression of nuisances; disputes as to immoveable property; and, lastly, the preventive action of the Police.

13. The provision (section 104) relating to lawful resistance to the commission of an offence is new. It declares that such resistance may be made by any person in the cases and to the extent in and to which he may exercise the right of private defence—a right defined and limited by the Penal Code, sections 96—106.

14. In the chapter relating to bonds for keeping the peace, and for good behaviour, provision has been made (section 116) as to the manner of conducting inquiries. We have made it clear in section 124 that a Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate, and Magistrate of the first class can cancel a bond on the application of a surety. Such Magistrates are also empowered (section 108) to require security for good behaviour.

15. In the chapter (X) on dispersion of unlawful assemblies, volunteers enrolled under the Indian Volunteers Act, 1869, are placed on the same footing as soldiers of Her Majesty's army.

Information to the Police, and their power to investigate.

16. Part V consists of a single chapter relating to information to the Police and their power to investigate. It corresponds with chapter X of Act X of 1872, and sections 379, 380 of the same Act.

17. The words "or that immediate arrest is not necessary," which are to be found in section 117 of Act X of 1872, have been omitted from section 155 of the Bill, as it is not apparent why a police-officer should be debarred from investigating a case of a cognizable offence because he does not at starting feel himself justified in arresting any person.

18. Section 162 makes it clear that confessions to Magistrates shall not only be "taken," but signed and certified, like examinations of accused persons.

19. Power resembling that conferred on Coroners by Act IV of 1871, section 11, has been given (section 174) to Magistrates authorized to hold inquests, to disinter and examine corpses in order to discover the cause of death.

Proceedings in Prosecutions.

20. Part VI treats of proceedings in prosecutions up to appeal, and is divided into seven chapters, arranged as follows:—

XV. Jurisdiction of Criminal Courts in Inquiries and Trials.
XVI. Complaints to Magistrates.
XVII. Commencement of Proceedings before Magistrates.
XVIII. Inquiry into cases triable by the Court of Session or High Court.
XIX. The Charge.
XX. Trial of Summons Cases by Magistrates.
XXI. Trial of Warrant Cases by Magistrates.
XXII. Summary Trials.
XXIII. Trials before High Courts and Courts of Session.
XXIV. Tender of Pardon in cases triable by the High Court or Court of Session.
XXV. General Provisions as to Inquiries and Trials.
XXVI. Evidence.
XXVII. The Judgment.
XXVIII. Submission of Sentences for Confirmation.
XXIX. Execution.
XXX. Suspensions, Remissions and Commutations of Sentences.
XXXI. Previous Acquittals or Convictions.

It will be seen that the above-mentioned chapters are arranged, as nearly as may be, according to the chronological order of the events in a prosecution.

Chapter XV (as to the jurisdiction of the Courts in inquiries and trials) deals, first, with the place of inquiry or trial: then with the time of commencing prosecutions: and, thirdly, with the conditions requisite for the initiation of proceedings.

21. "Delay," says Livingston, "inflicts punishment on the innocent, or lessens the force of example by punishing the guilty after the crime he has committed is forgotten." Sections 188-191 accordingly contain rules as to the time within which prosecutions for most offences must be commenced. There will be no limit for prosecutions for the following: offences against the State; offences relating to the Army and Navy; false evidence and offences against public justice; offences relating to coin and Government stamps; offences under the Penal Code, sections 299 to 311, 359 to 378 and 390 to 414; offences under the same Code relating to [illegible] marriage. Three years is the period fixed in case of the following: offences against the public tranquillity; offences by or relating to public servants or contempts of their lawful authority; offences against property other than those against coin and property-marks. For all other offences six months is the period prescribed. The time during which the accused is absent from the jurisdiction of the Court empowered to try him, or fails to surrender pursuant to a proclamation, will be excluded in computing the prescribed periods.

22. Section 196 requires that the sanction to entertain complaints of certain offences shall, so far as practicable, specify the place in which, and the occasion on which, the offence complained of was committed.

23. Chapter XVI, of complaints to Magistrates, corresponds to sections 144 to 147 of Act X of 1872, but adds (section 202) a provision that a complaint in writing made to a Magistrate not competent to entertain it shall be returned for presentation to the proper tribunal.

24. Chapter XIX, of the charge, extends to the whole of British India the amendments in Act X of 1872, sections 439 to 459, made by Act X of 1875; and with reference to Mr. Justice West's observations in Reg. v. Chand Hur, 11 Bomb. 241, on the corresponding section (457) of Act X of 1872, section 241 of the Bill has been confined to offences consisting of several particulars, a combination of some only of which constitutes a complete minor offence.

25. The provision (Act X of 1872, section 218) that the accused shall, while making his defence, be allowed to recall and cross-examine the witnesses for the prosecution has been expressly confined (section 259) to cases where the witnesses are present in the Court or its precincts.

26. In chapter XXII, summary trials, the Local Government has been authorised to confer on Benches invested with second or third class powers jurisdiction to try abetments of, and attempts to commit, the offences which they may now try summarily.

27. Chapter XXIII provides a common procedure for the High Court and the Court of Session, preserving, however, the special rules as to juries and their verdicts.

When a juror becomes unable to attend or absents himself, power is given (section 285), with the consent of the prosecutor and the accused, to proceed with the remaining jurors.

Where jurors or assessors have been taken to view the place in which the offence charged is alleged to have been committed, the Court has been empowered (section 296) to exempt them from being immediately brought back.

Where the Sessions Judge disagrees with a verdict of acquittal and submits the case to the High Court, he is required (section 310) to state the offence which he considers to have been committed, and the High Court is empowered to acquit or convict the accused of any offence of which the jury could have convicted him upon the charge framed and placed before it. This, it is believed, is the intention of the corresponding clause of section 268 of Act X of 1872.

28. Much doubt exists as to the offences which may lawfully be compounded. The Exception to section 214 of the Penal Code (in which the law on the subject is contained) is excessively obscure, and this obscurity is increased rather than diminished by the illustrations annexed to that section. The Bill repeals these illustrations; and section 347 declares in unmistakeable language that certain specified offences, and no others, may be compounded. It will be necessary to pass simultaneously with the Bill a short Act declaring that, for the Exception to section 280 of the Penal Code, the following shall be substituted:—

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

29. In chapter XXVII, as to judgment, section 369 allows the judgments of Mufassal Courts to be written in the mother-tongue of the presiding officer.

30. In chapter XXIX, as to execution, there are no sections corresponding with sections 319, 320 of Act X of 1872. The reason for this omission is that the matter with which they deal does not belong to criminal procedure, but falls within the scope of the Prisoners' Act, 1871; and it is proposed that, simultaneously with the passing of the present Bill, a short Act be passed, substituting for section 33 of the Prisoners' Act, and for section 57 of Act IV of 1877, a section equivalent to Act X of 1872, sections 319, 320.

31. Chapter XXX, as to suspensions, remissions and commutations of sentences.—Where application is made for the suspension or remissions of a sentence, the Government is empowered (section 402) to require the presiding Judge of the Court before which the conviction was had to furnish a statement of the facts proved on the trial, and of any facts bearing on the propriety of granting or refusing the application.

Appeal, Reference and Revision.

32. Part VII deals with appeals, references and the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court.

Section 407 provides that the appeal from a District Magistrate exercising the enhanced powers conferred under section 34 shall lie to the Court of Session in cases in which the sentence has not been submitted to that Court for confirmation, and, when it has been so submitted, to the High Court. This puts the appeals in question on the same footing as appeal from an Assistant Sessions Judge. There seems to be no reason for making any distinction between the two.

33. Section 424, in accordance with a decision of the Madras High Court (I. L. R. 1 Mad. 54), declares that, when an Appellate Court enhances any punishment inflicted by the sentence appealed against, it may inflict punishment of a different kind.

34. In the case of an appeal from an acquittal, section 427 expressly authorizes the High Court to order the accused to be arrested and brought before it, and to commit him to prison pending the disposal of the appeal, or admit him to bail.

35. A section (431) suggested by a decision of the Bombay High Court (I. L. R. 2 Bomb. 564) provides that appeals by persons required to give security for good behaviour or by convicted persons abate on their death, and that appeals against acquittals abate on the death of the accused. The power of revision conferred by section 439 will enable the High Court to alter sentences even after the appeal has abated.

36. Where, in the opinion of the Court of Session or District Magistrate, an accused person has been improperly discharged by an inferior Court, the accused should not be committed without having had an opportunity of shewing cause why the committal should not be made (1 O'K. 98). Provision to this effect has been made by section 436.

37. Section 439 (corresponding with Act X of 1872, section 297) has been framed so as to allow the High Court, when exercising its revisional jurisdiction, to interfere with improper acquittals. There is reason to believe that this change is in accordance with the intention of the framers of Act X of 1872.

Special Proceedings.

38. Part VIII, as to special proceedings, deals with the procedure relating to the following matters:—criminal proceedings against Europeans and Americans: lunatics: contempts of Court and other offences affecting the administration of justice: maintenance of wives and children: State prisoners: proceedings in the nature of habeas corpus.

Section 451 removes some differences which exist in the present law between the procedure of the High Courts and Courts of Session in cases in which European British subjects are concerned and which seem unnecessary. In particular, it is provided that, in the Court of Session as well as in the High Court, the requisite moiety of the jury or Assessors may be made up of Americans as well as Europeans.

39. The power given by sections 433 and 434 of Act X of 1872, to discharge from custody or make over to his relative a person acquitted on the ground of insanity, has been extended, in sections 474 and 475 of the Bill, to the case of persons who, being found to be insane at the time of trial, are committed to custody.

40. Section 477 has been framed so as to allow a Court of Session to charge a person for giving false evidence before itself—a power of which such Courts were unintentionally deprived by section 472 of the present Code.

41. Section 487 has been redrawn so as to avoid the difficulty which is felt in determining the meaning of the words "offence committed in contempt of its own authority," which occur in the corresponding section (473) of Act X of 1872.

Supplementary Provisions.

42. Part IX contains certain provisions supplementary to the general rules of procedure contained in the Code. It deals, first, with the public prosecutor, bail, commissions for the examination of witnesses and special rules of evidence. It then contains certain provisions relating to bonds to keep the peace, for good behaviour, for appearance, &c.: the disposal of property regarding which an offence has been committed: the transfer of criminal cases: irregular proceedings, and, lastly, certain miscellaneous matters.

43. Words have been introduced into the section (502) providing for the appointment of a public prosecutor which will have the effect of putting a stop to the practice of appointing a police officer.

44. Section 505 exempts the Advocate General, Standing Counsel, Government Solicitor or other officer empowered by the Local Government from the necessity of obtaining permission to conduct prosecutions.

45. The provisions of the present law as to commissions for the examination of witnesses have been amended in two respects. The Bill (section 515) requires that the interrogatories shall be thought relevant by the Magistrate or Court directing the commission, and power is expressly given (section 518) to stay the inquiry or trial for a specified time reasonably sufficient for the execution and return of the commission.

46. In proving the existence of circumstances as a defence under the 2nd, 3rd, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th or 10th Exception to section 499 of the Penal Code, section 521 of the Bill provides that good faith shall be presumed until the contrary appears. This is now the law in the Presidency-towns (Act XVIII of 1862, section 27) and may usefully be extended to the Mofussil.

47. In accordance with a recent rule of the High Court at Bombay, section 528 declares that, when a High Court or Court of Session makes an order for the disposal of property, and cannot through its own officers conveniently deliver the property to the person entitled thereto, the Court may direct its order to be carried into effect by the committing Magistrate.

48. Section 531 provides, in case of a conviction under the Penal Code, sections 292, 293, 501 or 502, for the destruction of the obscene books and defamatory matter in respect of which conviction was had. It also provides for the destruction of adulterated or noxious food [illegible] in respect of which a conviction was had under sections 272—275 of the same Code.

49. Section 536 provides, in accordance with a Minute of Sir B. Peacock, cited I. L. R. 1 Calc. 223, that applications to the High Court for the transfer of cases shall be made by motion supported by affidavit or affirmation.

Schedules.

50. Schedules II and V, which correspond respectively with schedules IV and II of Act X of 1872, have been altered so as to adapt them, not only to the Mufassal Courts, but to those of the Presidency Magistrates.

The lists of powers contained in section 21 et seq. of Act X of 1872 have been thrown into Schedules III and IV of the Bill.

51. Excluding the special provisions of the Acts relating respectively to Coroners in the Presidency-towns, extradition, European British vagrants, and criminal tribes, the Bill is now, so far as Mr. Cockerell, Mr. Fitzpatrick and myself have been able to make it, a complete body of criminal procedure. No pains have been spared to render its provisions plain and practical; and in return all competent persons are earnestly asked to point out the mistakes and omissions which they will doubtless discover in so large and complicated a work.

No. 5 of 1879.

A Bill to provide for the registration of Trade-marks.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the registration of trade-marks; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Indian Trade-marks Act, 1879":

Local extent.

It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement.

and it shall come into force at once.

Interpretation-clause.

2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,—

"Trade-mark."

"trade-mark" means a mark consisting of one or more of the following essential particulars (namely) :

(a) a name of an individual or firm printed, impressed or woven in some particular and distinctive manner, or

(b) a written signature or copy of a written signature of the individual or firm, or

(c) a distinctive device, mark, heading, label or ticket :

it includes also any special and distinctive word or words, or combination of numerals or letters, used as a trade-mark before the passing of this Act :

"Registered" and "registration."

"registered" and "registration" respectively mean registered and registration under this Act and the rules made hereunder and for the time being in force :

"The Court."

"the Court" means the High Court of Judicature at Fort William.

Appointment of a Registrar.

3. An officer (hereinafter called "the Registrar") shall be appointed from time to time, by name or in virtue of his office, by the Governor General in Council to register trade-marks and the proprietors thereof.

Registration of trade-marks.

4. From and after the first day of January, 1880, no person shall be entitled to institute any suit or other proceeding to prevent, or to recover damages for, the infringement of any trade-mark, unless such trade-mark is registered; but nothing in this section shall apply to any device, mark, name, combination of words, or other matter or thing which has been in use as a trade-mark before the passing of this Act, and which the Registrar has refused to register under this Act.

Characteristics of registered trade-marks.

5. A trade-mark must be registered as belonging to particular goods or classes of goods; and, when registered, shall be assignable and transmitted only in connexion with the good-will of the business concerned in such particular goods or classes of goods, and shall be determinable with such good-will.

Registration of a trade-mark shall be deemed to be equivalent to public use of such mark.

Title of first proprietor of a trade-mark.

6. The registration of a person as first proprietor of a trade-mark shall be primâ facie proof, and, after the expiration of five years from the date of such registration, conclusive proof, of his right to the exclusive use of such trade-mark, subject to the provisions of this Act as to its connexion with the good-will of a business.

Title of proprietor claiming by transmitted proprietorship.

7. Every person registered as proprietor of a trade-mark subsequently to the first person so registered shall, as respects his title to such trade-mark, stand in the same position as if his title were a continuation of the title of the first person so registered.

Rectification of register.

8. If any person who is not for the time being entitled, in accordance with this Act or otherwise in accordance with law, to the exclusive use of a trade-mark is registered as a proprietor of such trade-mark, or if the Registrar refuses to register, as proprietor of a trade-mark, the name of any person who is for the time being entitled in accordance with this Act or otherwise in accordance with law to the exclusive use of such trade-mark, or if any mark is registered as a trade-mark which is not authorized to be so registered, any person aggrieved by such registration or refusal may apply by motion, or in such other manner as the Court may direct, for an order of the Court that the register may be rectified.

The Court may either refuse such application, or it may, if satisfied of the justice of the case, make an order for the rectification of the register and award damages to the party aggrieved.

Case of several persons claiming to be registered in respect of same mark.

9. When each of several persons claims to be registered as proprietor of the same trade-mark, the Registrar may refuse to comply with the claims of any of such persons until their rights have been determined by the Court.

The Registrar may himself submit, or require the claimants to submit, their rights to the Court, by stating a case under section 527 of the Code of Civil Procedure, or in such other manner as the Court may direct.

What Court may decide in proceedings under Act.

10. The Court may, in any proceeding under section eight or section nine, decide—

(a) whether a mark is or is not such a trade-mark as is authorized to be registered under this Act;

(b) any question as to the right of any person who is party to such proceeding to have his name entered on the register of trade-marks, or to have the name of some other person removed from such register; and

(c) any other question that it may be necessary or expedient to decide for the rectification of the register.

Notice to be given by order of Court.

Whenever any order has been made rectifying the register, the Court shall by its order direct that due notice of such rectification be given to the Registrar.

Registration not to be granted without leave of Court in certain cases.

11. The Registrar shall not, without the special leave of the Court, to be given on motion or in such other manner as the Court may direct, register in respect of the same goods or classes of goods—

(a) a trade-mark identical with one which is already registered with respect to such goods or classes of goods; or

(b) a trade-mark so nearly resembling a trade-mark already registered with respect to such goods or classes of goods as to be calculated to deceive.

Registration when not to be granted.

12. The Registrar shall not register, as part of, or in combination with, a trade-mark, any scandalous designs, or any words, if the exclusive use of such words would not, by reason of their being calculated to deceive or otherwise, be deemed entitled to protection in a Court.

Governor General in Council may make rules to carry out Act.

13. The Governor General in Council may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act as to—

(a) the manner in which applications for registration of trade-marks shall be made;

(b) the notices to be given by advertisement before the registration of trade-marks;

(c) the classification of goods for the purposes of this Act;

(d) the registration of first and subsequent proprietors of trade-marks;

(e) the fees to be charged for registration of trade-marks, for the continuance of a trade-mark on the register and for granting certificates of refusal to register anything as a trade-mark;

(f) the removal from the register of any trade-mark;

(g) the form of notices under this Act, the mode of addressing and serving such notices, and the proof of such service;

(h) the persons entitled to inspect the register; and

(i) generally for the purpose of carrying this Act into effect.

Such rules shall be published in the Gazette of India, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

Certificate of Registrar to be evidence.

14. The certificate of the Registrar as to any entry, matter or thing which he is authorized by this Act, or any rules made hereunder, to make or do, shall be evidence of such entry having been made and of the contents thereof, and of such matters and things having been done or left undone.

Saving of marks and devices not capable of being registered under Act.

15. When an application by any person to register as a trade-mark a device, mark, name, word, combination of words, or other matter or thing which has been in use as a trade-mark before the passing of this Act, has been refused, the Registrar shall, at the request of the applicant and on payment by him of the fee prescribed by the rules made under section thirteen, grant him a certificate of such refusal.

A certificate so granted shall be conclusive proof of such refusal.

Saving of existing jurisdiction of Courts.

16. The provisions of this Act conferring a special jurisdiction on the said High Court shall not, except so far as such jurisdiction extends, affect the jurisdiction of any other Court in suits or proceedings relating to trade-marks.

Registrar to rectify register on notice from them.

If the register requires to be rectified in consequence of any proceedings in any such other Court, due notice of such requirement shall be given to the Registrar, and he shall rectify the register accordingly.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THIS Bill has been prepared, at the request of the Government of Bombay, to meet the wishes of the Mill-owners Association and the Bombay Chamber of Commerce. Both these bodies call the attention of the Local Government to the provisions of the English Trade-marks Registration Acts of 1875 and 1876 (which have been held by the High Court of Bombay not to apply to India), and state that it seems desirable, having regard to the increase of manufactures in this country, and especially of the cotton-manufactures of Bombay, that there should be a law of a similar nature in India.

2. The Bill is nothing more than a reproduction, with the changes required to fit them to the different circumstances of this country, of the provisions of the Statutes 38 & 39 Vic., chapter 91 (An Act to establish a register of Trade-marks), and 39 & 40 Vic., chapter 33 (An Act for the amendment of the Trade-marks Registration Act, 1875). It seems desirable (more especially in the case of laws dealing with large commercial interests), when the object of one of our Acts is merely to extend the provisions of an Imperial Statute to this country, to follow closely the lines of such Statute, so as to make the law in this country as nearly as possible identical with that in England.

3. The Bill provides for the appointment of a Registrar and the registration of trade-marks, and enacts that, after a certain fixed date, no suit shall be brought for the infringement of a trade-mark, unless such trade-mark is registered in accordance with the provisions of the Bill; it further defines the essential particulars of which a trade-mark must hereafter consist; but it saves from the operation of those provisions the trade-marks which are at present in use and entitled to protection as such. The other provisions of the Bill are subsidiary to these, and the only one of them calling for notice here is that by which the High Court at Fort William is appointed the Court for the purposes of the Act. As it is understood that the registry-office will be situate at Calcutta (where alone proprietorship in copyright and specifications of inventions are registered), that Court is obviously the most convenient one to appoint.

SCHEDULE.

ACTS REPEALED.

(See section 3.)

Number and year.	Title of Act.	Extent of repeal.
Act X of 1870 ...	The Land Acquisition Act, 1870 ...	So much of section 3 as declares the Commissioner of a Division to be a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction in Oudh.
Act XXXII of 1871 ...	The Oudh Civil Courts Act, 1871	The whole, except section 40.
Act XVIII of 1876 ...	The Oudh Laws Act, 1876 ...	Sections 21, 28 and 43.
Act XIV of 1878 ...	An Act to assimilate certain powers of the Local Governments of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh.	Section 3.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to bring the law in Oudh with regard to the constitution and jurisdiction of the Civil Courts into harmony with the new state of things which will result from the separation of the judicial and executive branches of the Administration in that Province. The law at present regulating the Civil Courts in Oudh is Act XXXII of 1871 (the Oudh Civil Courts Act, 1871). It was found that, in order to fit that Act to the altered circumstances of Oudh, it would have to be practically reconstructed; and it was therefore determined to adopt the simpler and more convenient course of repealing it altogether, and of embodying such of its provisions as it might be desirable to retain in a new Act.

2. This Bill is in the main an extension to Oudh of the law regulating the Civil Courts in Bengal and the North-Western Provinces, namely, Act VI of 1871 (the Bengal Civil Courts Act, 1871), with certain modifications, which the circumstances of Oudh seem to require.

3. The chief points of variance between the Bill and the Bengal Civil Courts Act are—

1*st*.—The limitation of the original jurisdiction of Sub-Judges to suits in which the value of the subject-matter in dispute does not exceed 10,000 rupees.

2*ndly*.—The declaration of the finality of decisions or orders passed in appeal where the appellate order is in concurrence with that of the Court of first instance.

3*rdly*.—The allowance of a second appeal on the facts as well as on a point of law where the effect of the order or decision of the Appellate Court is to reverse or substantially modify the order or decision of the Court of first instance.

4*thly*.—The alteration of the course of first appeal where the value of the subject-matter of the suit exceeds 5,000 rupees, but does not exceed 10,000 rupees.

4. The reason for the first of these changes is the expediency of suits of great value and importance, and in regard to which an appeal lies as a matter of right to the Privy Council, being tried by the principal Court of original civil jurisdiction.

The second and third points of divergence from the provisions of the Bengal Courts Act comprise simply the maintenance of the principle of the existing law in Oudh in regard to appeals, which has not only worked well hitherto, but has been thought worthy of adoption to some extent for other Provinces.

The fourth change is the natural accompaniment of the first, as its effect is to bring all suits either in the original or appellate stage, where they reach the appellate stage, before the District Court.

5. Sections 23 to 25 of Act XXXII of 1871, giving the Judicial Commissioner power to refer cases to the High Court of the North-Western Provinces, and section 27 of that Act, conferring power to appoint an Additional Judicial Commissioner, have been omitted from the Bill; the former because it does not appear to be used; the latter because it is no longer necessary.

6. Section 21 of the Oudh Laws Act (XVIII of 1876), relating to the management of land attached by the Civil Courts, and section 28 of the same Act, which gives the Judicial Commissioner a power of revising the decisions of the Subordinate Courts, are repealed, because it is considered that these matters are sufficiently provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 21st May, 1879, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 7 of 1879.

A Bill to provide for the revision of proceedings in trials held under the Military Cantonments Act, 1864, section 20.

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the revision of the proceedings in trials held under the twentieth section of Act No. XXII of 1864 (to make provision for the Administration of Military Cantonments); It is hereby enacted as follows:—

New clause substituted in Act XXII of 1864, sec. 20. 1. For the last clause of the said section, the following shall be substituted (that is to say):—

"There shall be no appeal in any case tried under this section; but every person trying any such case shall, for the purposes of chapter XXII of the Code of Criminal Procedure, be deemed to be subordinate to the High Court, the Court of Session and the Magistrate of the District."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IN a case tried some months ago by an officer specially invested, under section 26 of Act XXII of 1864, with power to try breaches of Cantonment rules, the Judges of the Chief Court of the Panjáb, to whom the officer's order was submitted for revision, expressed a doubt as to whether the twenty-second chapter of the Code of Criminal Procedure gave them any power of revision in such a case. They, at the same time, expressed an opinion to the effect that such a power ought to be provided. The Governor General in Council concurs as to the need of such a power, and the present Bill has been drafted to provide it.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 21st May, 1879, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 5 of 1879.

A Bill to provide for the registration of Trade-marks.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the registration of trade-marks; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Indian Trade-marks Act, 1879":

Local extent.

It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement.

and it shall come into force at once.

Interpretation-clause.

2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,—

"Trade-mark."

"trade-mark" means a mark consisting of one or more of the following essential particulars (namely):

(a) a name of an individual or firm printed, impressed or woven in some particular and distinctive manner, or

(b) a written signature or copy of a written signature of an individual or firm, or

(c) a distinctive device, mark, heading, label or ticket:

it includes also any special and distinctive word or words, or combination of numerals or letters used as a trade-mark before the passing of this Act:

"Registered" and "registration."

"registered" and "registration" respectively mean registered and registration under this Act and the rules made hereunder and for the time being in force:

"The Court."

"the Court" means the High Court of Judicature at Fort William.

Appointment of a Registrar.

3. An officer (hereinafter called "the Registrar") shall be appointed from time to time, by name or in virtue of his office, by the Governor General in Council to register trade-marks and the proprietors thereof.

Registration of trade-marks.

4. From and after the first day of January, 1880, no person shall be entitled to institute any suit or other proceeding to prevent, or to recover damages for, the infringement of any trade-mark, unless such trade-mark is registered; but nothing in this section shall apply to any device, mark, name, combination of words, or other matter or thing which has been in use as a trade-mark before the passing of this Act, and which the Registrar has refused to register under this Act.

Characteristics of registered trade-marks.

5. A trade-mark must be registered as belonging to particular goods or classes of goods; and, when registered, shall be assigned and transmitted only in connexion with the good-will of the business concerned in such particular goods or classes of goods, and shall be determinable with such good-will.

Registration of a trade-mark shall be deemed to be equivalent to public use of such mark.

Title of first proprietor of a trade-mark.

6. The registration of a person as first proprietor of a trade-mark shall be primâ facie proof, and, after the expiration of five years from the date of such registration, conclusive proof, of his right to the exclusive use of such trade-mark, subject to the provisions of this Act as to its connexion with the good-will of a business.

Title of proprietor claiming by transmitted proprietorship.

7. Every person registered as proprietor of a trade-mark subsequently to the first person so registered shall, as respects his title to such trade-mark, stand in the same position as if his title were a continuation of the title of the first person so registered.

Rectification of register.

8. If any person who is not for the time being entitled, in accordance with this Act or otherwise in accordance with law, to the exclusive use of a trade-mark is registered as a proprietor of such trade-mark, or if the Registrar refuses to register, as proprietor of a trade-mark, the name of any person who is for the time being entitled in accordance with this Act or otherwise in accordance with law to the exclusive use of such trade-mark, or if any mark is registered as a trade-mark which is not authorized to be so registered, any person aggrieved by such registration or refusal may apply by motion, or in such other manner as the Court may direct, for an order of the Court that the register may be rectified.

The Court may either refuse such application, or it may, if satisfied of the justice of the case, make an order for the rectification of the register and award damages to the party aggrieved.

Case of several persons claiming to be registered in respect of same mark.

9. When each of several persons claims to be registered as proprietor of the same trade-mark, the Registrar may refuse to comply with the claims of any of such persons until their rights have been determined by the Court.

The Registrar may himself submit, or require the claimants to submit, their rights to the Court, by stating a case under section 527 of the Code of Civil Procedure, or in such other manner as the Court may direct.

What Court may decide in proceedings under Act.

10. The Court may, in any proceeding under section eight or section nine, decide—

(a) whether a mark is or is not such a trade-mark as is authorized to be registered under this Act;

(b) any question as to the right of any person who is party to such proceeding to have his name entered on the register of trade-marks, or to have the name of some other person removed from such register; and

(c) any other question that it may be necessary or expedient to decide for the rectification of the register.

Whenever any order has been made rectifying the register, the Court shall by its order direct that due notice of such rectification be given to the Registrar.

Notice to be given by order of Court.

Registration not to be granted without leave of Court in certain cases.

11. The Registrar shall not, without the special leave of the Court, to be given on motion or in such other manner as the Court may direct, register in respect of the same goods or classes of goods—

(a) a trade-mark identical with one which is already registered with respect to such goods or classes of goods; or

(b) a trade-mark so nearly resembling a trade-mark already registered with respect to such goods or classes of goods as to be calculated to deceive.

Registration when not to be granted.

12. The Registrar shall not register, as part of, or in combination with, a trade-mark, any scandalous designs, or any words, if the exclusive use of such words would not, by reason of their being calculated to deceive or otherwise, be deemed entitled to protection in a Court.

Governor General in Council may make rules to carry out Act.

13. The Governor General in Council may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act as to—

(a) the manner in which applications for registration of trade-marks shall be made;

(b) the notices to be given by advertisement before the registration of trade-marks;

(c) the classification of goods for the purposes of this Act;

(d) the registration of first and subsequent proprietors of trade-marks;

(e) the fees to be charged for registration of trade-marks, for the continuance of a trade-mark on the register and for granting certificates of refusal to register anything as a trade-mark;

(f) the removal from the register of any trade-mark;

(g) the form of notices under this Act, the mode of addressing and serving such notices, and the proof of such service;

(h) the persons entitled to inspect the register; and

(i) generally for the purpose of carrying this Act into effect.

Such rules shall be published in the Gazette of India, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

Certificate of Registrar to be evidence.

14. The certificate of the Registrar as to any entry, matter or thing which he is authorized by this Act, or any rules made hereunder, to make or do, shall be evidence of such entry having been made and of the contents thereof, and of such matters and things having been done or left undone.

Saving of marks and devices not capable of being registered under Act.

15. When an application by any person to register as a trade-mark a device, mark, name, word, combination of words, or other matter or thing which has been in use as a trade-mark before the passing of this Act, has been refused, the Registrar shall, at the request of the applicant and on payment by him of the fee prescribed by the rules made under section thirteen, grant him a certificate of such refusal.

A certificate so granted shall be conclusive proof of such refusal.

Saving of existing jurisdiction of Courts.

16. The provisions of this Act conferring a special jurisdiction on the said High Court shall not, except so far as such jurisdiction extends, affect the jurisdiction of any other Court in suits or proceedings relating to trade-marks.

Registrar to rectify register on notice from them.

If the register requires to be rectified in consequence of any proceedings in any such other Court, due notice of such requirement shall be given to the Registrar, and he shall rectify the register accordingly.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THIS Bill has been prepared, at the request of the Government of Bombay, to meet the wishes of the Mill-owners Association and the Bombay Chamber of Commerce. Both these bodies call the attention of the Local Government to the provisions of the English Trade-marks Registration Acts of 1875 and 1876 (which have been held by the High Court of Bombay not to apply to India), and state that it seems desirable, having regard to the increase of manufactures in this country, and especially of the cotton-manufactures of Bombay, that there should be a law of a similar nature in India.

2. The Bill is nothing more than a reproduction, with the changes required to fit them to the different circumstances of this country, of the provisions of the Statutes 38 & 39 Vic., chapter 91 (An Act to establish a register of Trade-marks), and 39 & 40 Vic., chapter 33 (An Act for the amendment of the Trade-marks Registration Act, 1875). It seems desirable (more especially in the case of laws dealing with large commercial interests), when the object of one of our Acts is merely to extend the provisions of an Imperial Statute to this country, to follow closely the lines of such Statute, so as to make the law in this country as nearly as possible identical with that in England.

3. The Bill provides for the appointment of a Registrar and the registration of trade-marks, and enacts that, after a certain fixed date, no suit shall be brought for the infringement of a trade-mark, unless such trade-mark is registered in accordance with the provisions of the Bill; it further defines the essential particulars of which a trade-mark must hereafter consist; but it saves from the operation of these provisions the trade-marks which are at present in use and entitled to protection as such. The other provisions of the Bill are subsidiary to these, and the only one of them calling for notice here is that by which the High Court at Fort William is appointed the Court for the purposes of the Act. As it is understood that the registry-office will be situate at Calcutta [illegible] alone proprietorship in copyright, and registrations of inventions are registered), that Court is obviously the most convenient one to [illegible].

(See section 3.)

Number and year.	Title of Act.	Extent of repeal.
Act X of 1870 ...	The Land Acquisition Act, 1870 ...	So much of section 3 as declares the Commissioner of a Division to be a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction in Oudh.
Act XXII of 1871 ...	The Oudh Civil Courts Act, 1871	The whole, except section 40.
Act XVIII of 1876 ...	The Oudh Laws Act, 1876 ...	Sections 21, 28 and 43.
Act XIV of 1878 ...	An Act to assimilate certain powers of the Local Governments of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh.	Section 3.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to bring the law in Oudh with regard to the constitution and jurisdiction of the Civil Courts into harmony with the new state of things which will result from the separation of the judicial and executive branches of the Administration in that Province. The law at present regulating the Civil Courts in Oudh is Act XXXII of 1871 (the Oudh Civil Courts Act, 1871). It was found that, in order to fit that Act to the altered circumstances of Oudh, it would have to be practically reconstructed; and it was therefore determined to adopt the simpler and more convenient course of repealing it altogether, and of embodying such of its provisions as it might be desirable to retain in a new Act.

2. This Bill is in the main an extension to Oudh of the law regulating the Civil Courts in Bengal and the North-Western Provinces, namely, Act VI of 1871 (the Bengal Civil Courts Act, 1871), with certain modifications, which the circumstances of Oudh seem to require.

3. The chief points of variance between the Bill and the Bengal Civil Courts Act are—

1st.—The limitation of the original jurisdiction of Sub-Judges to suits in which the value of the subject-matter in dispute does not exceed 10,000 rupees.

2ndly.—The declaration of the finality of decisions or orders passed in appeal where the appellate order is in concurrence with that of the Court of first instance.

3rdly.—The allowance of a second appeal on the facts as well as on a point of law where the effect of the order or decision of the Appellate Court is to reverse or substantially modify the order or decision of the Court of first instance.

4thly.—The alteration of the course of first appeal where the value of the subject-matter of the suit exceeds 5,000 rupees, but does not exceed 10,000 rupees.

4. The reason for the first of these changes is the expediency of suits of great value and importance, and in regard to which an appeal lies as a matter of right to the Privy Council, being tried by the principal Court of original civil jurisdiction.

The second and third points of divergence from the provisions of the Bengal Courts Act comprise simply the maintenance of the principle of the existing law in Oudh in regard to appeals, which has not only worked well hitherto, but has been thought worthy of adoption to some extent for other Provinces.

The fourth change is the natural accompaniment of the first, as its effect is to bring all suits either in the original or appellate stage, where they reach the appellate stage, before the District Court.

5. Sections 23 to 25 of Act XXXII of 1871, giving the Judicial Commissioner power to refer cases to the High Court of the North-Western Provinces, and section 27 of that Act, conferring power to appoint an Additional Judicial Commissioner, have been omitted from the Bill; the former because it does not appear to be used; the latter because it is no longer necessary.

6. Section 21 of the Oudh Laws Act (XVIII of 1876), relating to the management of land attached by the Civil Courts, and section 28 of the same Act, which gives the Judicial Commissioner a power of revising the decisions of the Subordinate Courts, are repealed, because it is considered that these matters are sufficiently provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 21st May, 1879, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 7 of 1879.

A Bill to provide for the revision of proceedings in trials held under the Military Cantonments Act, 1864, section 20.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the revision of the proceedings in trials held under the twentieth section of Act No. XXII of 1864 (to make provision for the Administration of Military Cantonments); It is hereby enacted as follows:— Preamble.

1. For the last clause of the said section, the following shall be substituted (that is to say):— New clause substituted in Act XXII of 1864, sec. 20.

"There shall be no appeal in any case tried under this section; but every person trying any such case shall, for the purposes of chapter XXII of the Code of Criminal Procedure, be deemed to be subordinate to the High Court, the Court of Session and the Magistrate of the District."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IN a case tried some months ago by an officer specially invested, under section 20 of Act XXII of 1864, with power to try breaches of Cantonment rules, the Judges of the Chief Court of the Panjáb, to whom the officer's order was submitted for revision, expressed a doubt as to whether the twenty-second chapter of the Code of Criminal Procedure gave them any power of revision in such a case. They, at the same time, expressed an opinion to the effect that such a power ought to be provided. The Governor General in Council concurs as to the need of such a power, and the present Bill has been drafted to provide it.

Number and year.	Title of Act.	Extent of repeal.
Act X of 1870 ...	The Land Acquisition Act, 1870 ...	So much of section 3 as declares the Commissioner of a Division to be a principal Civil Court of original jurisdiction in Oudh.
Act XXII of 1871 ...	The Oudh Civil Courts Act, 1871	The whole, except section 40.
Act XVIII of 1876 ...	The Oudh Laws Act, 1876 ...	Sections 21, 28 and 43.
Act XIV of 1878 ...	An Act to assimilate certain powers of the Local Governments of the North-Western Provinces and Oudh.	Section 3.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to bring the law in Oudh with regard to the constitution and jurisdiction of the Civil Courts into harmony with the new state of things which will result from the separation of the judicial and executive branches of the Administration in that Province. The law at present regulating the Civil Courts in Oudh is Act XXXII of 1871 (the Oudh Civil Courts Act, 1871). It was found that, in order to fit that Act to the altered circumstances of Oudh, it would have to be practically reconstructed; and it was therefore determined to adopt the simpler and more convenient course of repealing it altogether, and of embodying such of its provisions as it might be desirable to retain in a new Act.

2. This Bill is in the main an extension to Oudh of the law regulating the Civil Courts in Bengal and the North-Western Provinces, namely, Act VI of 1871 (the Bengal Civil Courts Act, 1871), with certain modifications, which the circumstances of Oudh seem to require.

3. The chief points of variance between the Bill and the Bengal Civil Courts Act are—

1*st*.—The limitation of the original jurisdiction of Sub-Judges to suits in which the value of the subject-matter in dispute does not exceed 10,000 rupees.

2*ndly*.—The declaration of the finality of decisions or orders passed in appeal where the appellate order is in concurrence with that of the Court of first instance.

3*rdly*.—The allowance of a second appeal on the facts as well as on a point of law where the effect of the order or decision of the Appellate Court is to reverse or substantially modify the order or decision of the Court of first instance.

4*thly*.—The alteration of the course of first appeal where the value of the subject-matter of the suit exceeds 5,000 rupees, but does not exceed 10,000 rupees.

4. The reason for the first of these changes is the expediency of suits of great value and importance, and in regard to which an appeal lies as a matter of right to the Privy Council, being tried by the principal Court of original civil jurisdiction.

The second and third points of divergence from the provisions of the Bengal Courts Act comprise simply the maintenance of the principle of the existing law in Oudh in regard to appeals, which has not only worked well hitherto, but has been thought worthy of adoption to some extent for other Provinces.

The fourth change is the natural accompaniment of the first, as its effect is to bring all suits either in the original or appellate stage, where they reach the appellate stage, before the District Court.

5. Sections 23 to 25 of Act XXXII of 1871, giving the Judicial Commissioner power to refer cases to the High Court of the North-Western Provinces, and section 27 of that Act, conferring power to appoint an Additional Judicial Commissioner, have been omitted from the Bill; the former because it does not appear to be used; the latter because it is no longer necessary.

6. Section 21 of the Oudh Laws Act (XVIII of 1876), relating to the management of land attached by the Civil Courts, and section 28 of the same Act, which gives the Judicial Commissioner a power of revising the decisions of the Subordinate Courts, are repealed, because it is considered that these matters are sufficiently provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the revision of the proceedings in trials held under the twentieth section of Act No. XXII of 1864 (to make provision for the Administration of Military Cantonments); It is hereby enacted as follows:— Preamble.

1. For the last clause of the said section, the following shall be substituted (that is to say):— New clause substituted in Act XXII of 1864, sec. 20.

(b). In section three, for the words "one hundred and three and one hundred and eighty-two" the words "and one hundred and three" shall be substituted.

(c). The third clause of the same section and the last clause of section six shall be repealed.

Nothing in this section shall apply to the case of any testator or intestate dying before the said first day of January, 1880.

Validation of grants of probate and administration made since first January, 1866.

10. All grants of probate of the will or letters of administration to the estate of any deceased Hindú, Muhammadan or Buddhist, or any person exempted by the Governor General in Council from the provisions of the Indian Succession Act, which may have been made since the first day of January, 1866, shall, whenever such grant would have been lawful if this Act had been in force, be deemed to have been made in accordance with law.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

As the law of British India at this moment stands, there is, speaking generally, no means of conferring upon any one a complete and conclusive title as representative of the estate of a deceased Hindú, Muhammadan or Buddhist or other person exempt from the operation of the Indian Succession Act.

The Hindú Wills Act is at present limited in its operation to the Presidency-towns and Lower Bengal; and, even if the proposal to extend it to other parts of British India, now under consideration, is carried out, it will still only apply to cases of testamentary succession among Hindús.

The grant of a certificate under Act XXVII of 1860 makes the person who has obtained it a representative only for certain very limited purposes; and, though in the Bombay Presidency a certificate purporting to confer larger powers may be obtained under Regulation VIII of 1827, it is by no means clear what the status of the holder of such a certificate precisely is.

In the Presidency-towns probates of the wills and letters of administration to the estates of deceased Natives can be granted under the Supreme Court Charters in cases to which the Succession Act and the Hindú Wills Act do not apply; but the representative status conferred by such grants falls far short of that conferred by similar grants in the case of deceased European British subjects.

2. From this state of things much trouble and litigation at times result. The heirs may be very numerous; their interests may differ in degree; some of them may be minors or otherwise incapacitated; others may be residing at a distance; the titles of some may be disputed; the settlement of claims against the estate may thus be a matter of endless complication; the making of a satisfactory title to any portion of it which it may be necessary to sell may be impossible.

3. The necessity of devising some means of removing these difficulties was brought to the notice of the Government of India some time ago by Mr. Broughton, then Administrator General of Bengal, and now a Judge of the Calcutta High Court; and a Bill drafted by him was circulated for the opinions of local authorities. That Bill, while guarding against any interference with the succession laws of the classes in question, went in effect to apply to them the provisions of the Indian Succession Act relating to probate and administration, and, amongst others, those provisions which make the grant of probate or letters of administration a condition precedent to the establishment of any right derived by succession from a deceased person.

4. The reports of the local authorities have now been received, and their purport may be briefly described by saying that, while there is a considerable body of opinion in favour of providing the means of obtaining probate of the will or letters of administration to the estate of any deceased person when those interested desire to do so, the proposal to insist on probate or letters of administration as essential has been generally condemned, as tending to impose upon a multitude of poor and ignorant people in cases where there is no difficulty or dispute an unnecessary amount of trouble and expense.

5. The present Bill has been drawn on the lines thus indicated. It applies to the estates of all persons not at present governed by the Indian Succession Act the portions of that Act relating to the grant of probate and administration and the powers, duties and procedure of executors and administrators, omitting, however, those sections (187 and 190) which make it compulsory to obtain probate or administration, and also those sections (200 to 207) which lay down the order according to which the various persons interested are entitled to administration on an intestacy.

6. These latter sections it would be impossible to apply, as they are in part based on a law of intestate succession differing from that of the classes for which the Bill has been drawn. The only rule it seems possible to lay down for these classes is the broad one that the grant shall follow the interest; that, when several persons inheriting portions of the estate claim administration, the Judge may grant it to any one or more of them as he thinks fit, and that, when no such person applies, he may grant it to a creditor.

7. This is the rule laid down by section 3 of the Bill; and, as it is apprehended that in some cases of family feuds a person entitled to a trifling share of the deceased's estate might apply for administration merely for the purpose of harassing his co-heirs by compelling them to apply, a full discretion has been reserved (in section 5) to refuse, for reasons recorded, to grant any application.

8. The Indian Succession Act, following the English law, provides for the taking of security for the due discharge of his office only from an administrator, it being considered that, in the case of an executor who is selected by the testator himself, security can safely be dispensed with. But in the classes to which this Act will apply cases will, it is apprehended, occasionally occur in which it may be expedient to take security even from an executor; and accordingly a section (4) has been inserted in the Bill amending section 256 of the Succession Act in such a manner as to give a power to the Court to require an executor to give security.

9. Section 6 of the Bill saves in the fullest manner the substantive laws of succession of the classes to which the Bill applies.

10. Section 8 is intended to put an end to the imperfect grants of probate and administration under the old Supreme Court Charters already referred to.

11. The portions of the Hindú Wills Act specified in section 9 are repealed merely because they are re-enacted with a wider application in the present Bill. Section 10 is intended to remove all doubt as to the validity of certain grants of probate and administration which have been made in British Burma.

Amendment of sections 254, 255 and 308 of same Act.

8. In the said Act, sections 254 and 255, respectively, after the words "I, Judge of the District of ," the words "(or Delegate appointed for granting probate or letters of administration in (here insert the limits of the Delegate's jurisdiction))"; and in section 308, after the words "District Judge by whom" the words "or by whose District Delegate" shall be inserted.

Introduction of the words "or District Delegate" in certain sections of same Act.

9. In the said Act, sections 246, 250, 255 and 259, after the words "District Judge," and in section 250 and section 254 (when it first occurs) after the word "Judge," the words "or District Delegate" shall be inserted respectively.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Indian Succession Act as originally framed by the Law Commissioners empowered the District Judge to appoint judicial officers to act for him as delegates to grant probates and letters of administration in non-contentious cases much in the same way as the District Registrars appointed under the Court of Probate Act, 1857, do in England; but the provisions relating to this matter were struck out of the Bill by the Select Committee, partly because they were deemed unnecessary, and partly because it was apprehended that the power which was to be conferred on District Judges would give rise to abuse.

If, however, the Bill which has been drafted to provide for granting probate of the wills and administration to the estates of persons now exempted from the operation of the Indian Succession Act becomes law, it is probable that the business of granting probate and administration will increase to such an extent that the District Judges will be unable to dispose of it without assistance.

The present Bill has accordingly been framed with a view to replacing in the Succession Act, with some slight modifications in point of form, the sections removed from it by the Select Committee; but, in order to avoid as far as possible the danger of abuse apprehended by the Select Committee, the power of appointing the delegates has been vested not in the District Judges, but in the High Courts, and its exercise has in the case of High Courts not established by Royal Charter been made subject to the previous sanction of the Local Government.

12. All orders heretofore passed by the Governor General in Council or the Lieutenant-Governor of the North-Western Provinces or any other authority regarding revisions of settlement or other matters connected with the revenue administration of the tracts of territory mentioned in the preamble to Bengal Regulation VII of 1828 shall be deemed to have been passed in accordance with law; and no order or decision purporting to have been passed by any civil or revenue authority under the provisions of that Regulation shall be called in question in any Court.

Validation of past orders, &c.

13. In the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, first schedule, Part IV, and in the Laws Local Extent Act, 1874, sixth schedule, Part IV, the following shall be repealed (that is to say):—

Parts of Acts XIV and XV of 1874 repealed.

" V. The Family Domains of the Mahárájá of Benares comprising the following parganas:—

Bhadoli and Kheyra Mángror in the Mirzapur District.

Kaswá Rájá in the Benares District."

14. In the Laws Local Extent Act, 1874, section 8, after clause (j) the following shall be inserted (namely):—

Clause added to Act XV of 1874, s. 8.

"(jj) extend to Pargana Bhadohi or Pargana Kheyra Mángror in the Mirzapur District, or to Pargana Kaswá Rájá in the Benares District, any law not now in force therein."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. By Bengal Regulation VII of 1828, it was provided that, in certain parganas in the Benares Division, known as the Family Domains of the Mahárájá of Benares, the settlement and collection of the revenue and the administration of justice in cases relating to land should be conducted by the Mahárájá and his officers, under the supervision of a Superintendent appointed by, and subject to the control of, the Governor General in Council.

2. For a long time past, owing to the changes that have taken place in these parganas and in the country generally, it has been found impossible to proceed in strict accordance with that Regulation. Powers which should have been exercised by the Governor General in Council have, perhaps without sufficient warrant of law, been delegated to the Board of Revenue; and the functions of the Superintendent have been to a great extent discharged by a Deputy Superintendent—an officer unknown to the law.

3. These difficulties and some others of minor importance arising from the antiquated form of the Regulation might be got over by action under the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, in the Schedule to which the Domains are included; but this mode of proceeding would be distasteful to the Mahárájá, who objects to the Domains being treated as a Scheduled District; and the Government, being anxious as far as possible to meet his wishes, have determined to do what is required by special legislation.

4. The present Bill has accordingly been prepared to withdraw the Domains from the operation of the Scheduled Districts Act, and to enact directly the requisite amendments of the old Regulation.

5. The most important of these amendments consist in giving power to appoint a Deputy Superintendent; in placing the Superintendent and Deputy Superintendent under the control of the Board of Revenue; in empowering the Mahárájá to delegate his functions as Collector; in giving him a greater freedom as to the number of judicial officers to be appointed, and enabling him to alter the local limits of their jurisdiction; and in empowering the Lieutenant-Governor, after reference to the Mahárájá, to make rules, regulating the powers and procedure of these officers and the course of appeal from their decisions.

Most of these amendments go no further than to legalize existing practice.

6. A clause has been added to remove all doubt as to the validity of past proceedings.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

CERTAIN members of the Simla Union Church, so far back as the year 1873, drew the attention of Government to the hardship under which they laboured in being unable, without constantly recurring trouble and expense, to keep up a permanent and effective body of trustees to whom to commit the property of the Church. The Secretary to the Calcutta Missionary Conference about the same time made a similar representation to Government; and there are probably other bodies associated for religious purposes in India who experience like difficulties.

2. The present Bill is drawn on the lines of 13 & 14 Vic., c. 28 (commonly known as Peto's Act), which was passed to meet a similar difficulty felt by Religious Societies in England. It differs from that Act, however, first in applying only to Religious Congregations and not to Societies formed for purposes of education; and secondly, in providing for the case of moveable as well as immoveable property.

3. It simply provides that, if property of certain specified descriptions is conveyed to trustees in trust for any Religious Congregation, and no special provision is made for the appointment of new trustees, new trustees may be appointed in such manner as that Congregation may determine; and further, that on the appointment of new trustees whether in exercise of the powers thus conferred or otherwise, the property shall vest in them without any further conveyance.

4. Hindús, Muhammadans and Buddhists are excepted from the provisions of the Bill, as it is thought undesirable to interfere with the laws regulating their endowments.

3. The portions of the said Act thus applied shall be read as if after section 199 the following were inserted (that is to say):— Addition to section 199 of said Act.

"199A. When the deceased has died intestate, administration of his estate may be granted to any person who, according to the rules for the distribution of the estate of an intestate applicable in the case of such deceased, would be entitled to the whole or any part of such deceased's estate.

Probate and administration to be granted only under this Act.

9. The following amendments shall be made in the Hindú Wills Act, 1870 (namely):—

Amendment of Act XXI of 1870.

(a). For the portion of section two commencing with the words "sections one hundred and seventy-nine" and ending with the words "administrator with the will annexed" the words "and section one hundred and eighty-seven" shall be substituted.

(c). The third clause of the same section and the last clause of section six shall be repealed.

Nothing in this section shall apply to the case of any testator or intestate dying before the said first day of January, 1880.

10. All grants of probate of the will or letters of administration to the estate of any deceased Hindú, Muhammadan or Buddhist, or any person exempted by the Governor General in Council from the provisions of the Indian Succession Act, which may have been made since the first day of January, 1866, shall, whenever such grant would have been lawful if this Act had been in force, be deemed to have been made in accordance with law.

Validation of grants of probate and administration made since first January, 1866.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

As the law of British India at this moment stands, there is, speaking generally, no means of conferring upon any one a complete and conclusive title as representative of the estate of a deceased Hindú, Muhammadan or Buddhist or other person exempt from the operation of the Indian Succession Act.

The Hindú Wills Act is at present limited in its operation to the Presidency-towns and Lower Bengal; and, even if the proposal to extend it to other parts of British India, now under consideration, is carried out, it will still only apply to cases of testamentary succession among Hindús.

The grant of a certificate under Act XXVII of 1860 makes the person who has obtained it a representative only for certain very limited purposes; and, though in the Bombay Presidency a certificate purporting to confer larger powers may be obtained under Regulation VIII of 1827, it is by no means clear what the status of the holder of such a certificate precisely is.

In the Presidency-towns probates of the wills and letters of administration to the estates of deceased Natives can be granted under the Supreme Court Charters in cases to which the Succession Act and the Hindú Wills Act do not apply; but the representative status conferred by such grants falls far short of that conferred by similar grants in the case of deceased European British subjects.

2. From this state of things much trouble and litigation at times result. The heirs may be very numerous; their interests may differ in degree; some of them may be minors or otherwise incapacitated; others may be residing at a distance; the titles of some may be disputed; the settlement of claims against the estate may thus be a matter of endless complication; the making of a satisfactory title to any portion of it which it may be necessary to sell may be impossible.

3. The necessity of devising some means of removing these difficulties was brought to the notice of the Government of India some time ago by Mr. Broughton, then Administrator General of Bengal, and now a Judge of the Calcutta High Court; and a Bill drafted by him was circulated for the opinions of local authorities. That Bill, while guarding against any interference with the succession laws of the classes in question, went in effect to apply to them the provisions of the Indian Succession Act relating to probate and administration, and, amongst others, those provisions which make the grant of probate or letters of administration a condition precedent to the establishment of any right derived by succession from a deceased person.

4. The reports of the local authorities have now been received, and their purport may be briefly described by saying that, while there is a considerable body of opinion in favour of providing the means of obtaining probate of the will or letters of administration to the estate of any deceased person when those interested desire to do so, the proposal to insist on probate or letters of administration as essential has been generally condemned, as tending to impose upon a multitude of poor and ignorant people in cases where there is no difficulty or dispute an unnecessary amount of trouble and expense.

5. The present Bill has been drawn on the lines thus indicated. It applies to the estates of all persons not at present governed by the Indian Succession Act the portions of that Act relating to the grant of probate and administration and the powers, duties and procedure of executors and administrators, omitting, however, those sections (187 and 190) which make it compulsory to obtain probate or administration, and also those sections (200 to 207) which lay down the order according to which the various persons interested are entitled to administration on an intestacy.

6. These latter sections it would be impossible to apply, as they are in part based on a law of intestate succession differing from that of the classes for which the Bill has been drawn. The only rule it seems possible to lay down for these classes is the broad one that the grant shall follow the interest; that, when several persons inheriting portions of the estate claim administration, the Judge may grant it to any one or more of them as he thinks fit, and that, when no such person applies, he may grant it to a creditor.

7. This is the rule laid down by section 3 of the Bill; and, as it is apprehended that in some cases of family feuds a person entitled to a trifling share of the deceased's estate might apply for administration merely for the purpose of harassing his co-heirs by compelling them to apply, a full discretion has been reserved (in section 5) to refuse, for reasons recorded, to grant any application.

8. The Indian Succession Act, following the English law, provides for the taking of security for the due discharge of his office only from an administrator, it being considered that, in the case of an executor who is selected by the testator himself, such security can safely be dispensed with. But amongst the classes to which this Act will apply cases will, it is apprehended, occasionally occur in which it may be expedient to take security even from an executor; and accordingly a section (4) has been inserted in the Bill amending section 256 of the Succession Act in such a manner as to give a power to the Court to require an executor to give security.

9. Section 6 of the Bill saves in the fullest manner the substantive laws of succession of the classes to which the Bill applies.

10. Section 8 is intended to put an end to the imperfect grants of probate and administration under the old Supreme Court Charters already referred to.

11. The portions of the Hindú Wills Act specified in section 9 are repealed merely because they are re-enacted with a wider application in the present Bill. Section 10 is intended to remove all doubt as to the validity of certain grants of probate and administration which have been made in British Burma.

Introduction of the words "or District Delegate" in certain sections of same Act.

9. In the said Act, sections 246, 250, 255 and 259, after the words "District Judge," and in section 250 and section 254 (when it first occurs) after the word "Judge," the words "or District Delegate" shall be inserted respectively.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Indian Succession Act as originally framed by the Law Commissioners empowered the District Judge to appoint judicial officers to act for him as delegates to grant probates and letters of administration in non-contentious cases much in the same way as the District Registrars appointed under the Court of Probate Act, 1857, do in England; but the provisions relating to this matter were struck out of the Bill by the Select Committee, partly because they were deemed unnecessary, and partly because it was apprehended that the power which was to be conferred on District Judges would give rise to abuse.

If, however, the Bill which has been drafted to provide for granting probate of the wills and administration to the estates of persons now exempted from the operation of the Indian Succession Act becomes law, it is probable that the business of granting probate and administration will increase to such an extent that the District Judges will be unable to dispose of it without assistance.

The present Bill has accordingly been framed with a view to replacing in the Succession Act, with some slight modifications in point of form, the sections removed from it by the Select Committee; but, in order to avoid as far as possible the danger of abuse apprehended by the Select Committee, the power of appointing the delegates has been vested not in the District Judges, but in the High Courts, and its exercise has in the case of High Courts not established by Royal Charter been made subject to the previous sanction of the Local Government.

Parts of Acts XIV and XV of 1874 repealed.

13. In the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, first schedule, Part IV, and in the Laws Local Extent Act, 1874, sixth schedule, Part IV, the following shall be repealed (that is to say):—

" V. The Family Domains of the Maháráját of Benares comprising the following parganas:—

Bhadohi and Kheyra Mángror in the Mirzapur District.

Kaswá Rájá in the Benares District."

Clause added to Act XV of 1874, s. 8.

14. In the Laws Local Extent Act, 1874, section 8, after clause (j) the following shall be inserted (namely):—

"(jj) extend to Pargana Bhadohi or Pargana Kheyra Mángror in the Mirzapur District, or to Pargana Kaswá Rájá in the Benares District, any law not now in force therein."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. By Bengal Regulation VII of 1828, it was provided that, in certain parganas in the Benares Division, known as the Family Domains of the Maháráját of Benares, the settlement and collection of the revenue and the administration of justice in cases relating to land should be conducted by the Maháráját and his officers, under the supervision of a Superintendent appointed by, and subject to the control of, the Governor General in Council.

2. For a long time past, owing to the changes that have taken place in these parganas and in the country generally, it has been found impossible to proceed in strict accordance with that Regulation. Powers which should have been exercised by the Governor General in Council have, perhaps without sufficient warrant of law, been delegated to the Board of Revenue; and the functions of the Superintendent have been to a great extent discharged by a Deputy Superintendent—an officer unknown to the law.

3. These difficulties and some others of minor importance arising from the antiquated form of the Regulation might be got over by action under the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, in the Schedule to which the Domains are included; but this mode of proceeding would be distasteful to the Maháráját, who objects to the Domains being treated as a Scheduled District; and the Government, being anxious as far as possible to meet his wishes, have determined to do what is required by special legislation.

4. The present Bill has accordingly been prepared to withdraw the Domains from the operation of the Scheduled Districts Act, and to enact directly the requisite amendments of the old Regulation.

5. The most important of these amendments consist in giving power to appoint a Deputy Superintendent; in placing the Superintendent and Deputy Superintendent under the control of the Board of Revenue; in empowering the Maháráját to delegate his functions as Collector; in giving him a greater freedom as to the number of judicial officers to be appointed, and enabling him to alter the local limits of their jurisdiction; and in empowering the Lieutenant-Governor, after reference to the Maháráját, to make rules regulating the powers and procedure of these officers and the course of appeal from their decisions.

Most of these amendments go no further than to legalize existing practice.

6. A clause has been added to remove all doubt as to the validity of past proceedings.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

CERTAIN members of the Simla Union Church, so far back as the year 1873, drew the attention of Government to the hardship under which they laboured in being unable, without constantly recurring trouble and expense, to keep up a permanent and effective body of trustees to whom to commit the property of the Church. The Secretary to the Calcutta Missionary Conference about the same time made a similar representation to Government; and there are probably other bodies associated for religious purposes in India who experience like difficulties.

2. The present Bill is drawn on the lines of 13 & 14 Vic., c. 28 (commonly known as Peto's Act), which was passed to meet a similar difficulty felt by Religious Societies in England. It differs from that Act, however, first in applying only to Religious Congregations and not to Societies formed for purposes of education; and secondly, in providing for the case of moveable as well as immoveable property.

3. It simply provides that, if property of certain specified descriptions is conveyed to trustees in trust for any Religious Congregation, and no special provision is made for the appointment of new trustees, new trustees may be appointed in such manner as that Congregation may determine; and further, that on the appointment of new trustees whether in exercise of the powers thus conferred or otherwise, the property shall vest in them without any further conveyance.

4. Hindús, Muhammadans and Buddhists are excepted from the provisions of the Bill, as it is thought undesirable to interfere with the laws regulating their endowments.

9. The following amendments shall be made in the Hindú Wills Act, 1870 (namely):—

Amendment of Act XXI of 1870.

(a). For the portion of section two commencing with the words "sections one hundred and seventy-nine" and ending with the words "administrator with the will annexed" the words "and section one hundred and eighty-seven" shall be substituted.

(b). In section three, for the words "one hundred and three and one hundred and eighty-two" the words "and one hundred and three" shall be substituted.

(c). The third clause of the same section and the last clause of section six shall be repealed.

Nothing in this section shall apply to the case of any testator or intestate dying before the said first day of January, 1880.

10. All grants of probate of the will or letters of administration to the estate of any deceased Hindú, Muhammadan or Buddhist, or any person exempted by the Governor General in Council from the provisions of the Indian Succession Act, which may have been made since the first day of January, 1866, shall, whenever such grant would have been lawful if this Act had been in force, be deemed to have been made in accordance with law.

Validation of grants of probate and administration made since first January, 1866.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

As the law of British India at this moment stands, there is, speaking generally, no means of conferring upon any one a complete and conclusive title as representative of the estate of a deceased Hindú, Muhammadan or Buddhist or other person exempt from the operation of the Indian Succession Act.

The Hindú Wills Act is at present limited in its operation to the Presidency-towns and Lower Bengal; and, even if the proposal to extend it to other parts of British India, now under consideration, is carried out, it will still only apply to cases of testamentary succession among Hindús.

The grant of a certificate under Act XXVII of 1860 makes the person who has obtained it a representative only for certain very limited purposes; and, though in the Bombay Presidency a certificate purporting to confer larger powers may be obtained under Regulation VIII of 1827, it is by no means clear what the status of the holder of such a certificate precisely is.

In the Presidency-towns probates of the wills and letters of administration to the estates of deceased Natives can be granted under the Supreme Court Charters in cases, to which the Succession Act and the Hindú Wills Act do not apply; but the representative status conferred by such grants falls far short of that conferred by similar grants in the case of deceased European British subjects.

2. From this state of things much trouble and litigation at times result. The heirs may be very numerous, [illegible] some of them may be minors or otherwise incapacitated; others may be residing at a distance; the titles of some may be disputed; the settlement of claims against the estate may thus be a matter of endless complication; the making of a satisfactory title to any portion of it which it may be necessary to sell may be impossible.

3. The necessity of devising some means of removing these difficulties was brought to the notice of the Government of India some time ago by Mr. Broughton, then Administrator General of Bengal, and now a Judge of the Calcutta High Court; and a Bill drafted by him was circulated for the opinions of local authorities. That Bill, while guarding against any interference with the succession laws of the classes in question, went in effect to apply to them the provisions of the Indian Succession Act relating to probate and administration, and, amongst others, those provisions which make the grant of probate or letters of administration a condition precedent to the establishment of any right derived by succession from a deceased person.

4. The reports of the local authorities have now been received, and their purport may be briefly described by saying that, while there is a considerable body of opinion in favour of providing the means of obtaining probate of the will or letters of administration to the estate of any deceased person when those interested desire to do so, the proposal to insist on probate or letters of administration as essential has been generally condemned, as tending to impose upon a multitude of poor and ignorant people in cases where there is no difficulty or dispute an unnecessary amount of trouble and expense.

5. The present Bill has been drawn on the lines thus indicated. It applies to the estates of all persons not at present governed by the Indian Succession Act the portions of that Act relating to the grant of probate and administration and the powers, duties and procedure of executors and administrators, omitting, however, those sections (187 and 190) which make it compulsory to obtain probate or administration, and also those sections (200 to 207) which lay down the order according to which the various persons interested are entitled to administration on an intestacy.

6. These latter sections it would be impossible to apply, as they are in part based on a law of intestate succession differing from that of the classes for which the Bill has been drawn. The only rule it seems possible to lay down for these classes is the broad one that the grant shall follow the interest; that, when several persons inheriting portions of the estate claim administration, the Judge may grant it to any one or more of them as he thinks fit, and that, when no such person applies, he may grant it to a creditor.

7. This is the rule laid down by section 3 of the Bill; and, as it is apprehended that in some cases of family feuds a person entitled to a trifling share of the deceased's estate might apply for administration merely for the purpose of harassing his co-heirs by compelling them to apply, a full discretion has been reserved (in section 5) to refuse, for reasons recorded, to grant any application.

8. The Indian Succession Act, following the English law, provides for the taking of security for the due discharge of his office only from an administrator, it being considered that, in the case of an executor who is selected by the testator himself, such security can safely be dispensed with. But amongst the classes to which this Act will apply cases will, it is apprehended, occasionally occur in which it may be expedient to take security even from an executor; and accordingly a section (4) has been inserted in the Bill amending section 256 of the Succession Act in such a manner as to give a power to the Court to require an executor to give security.

9. Section 6 of the Bill saves in the fullest manner the substantive laws of succession of the classes to which the Bill applies.

10. Section 8 is intended to put an end to the imperfect grants of probate and administration under the old Supreme Court Charters already referred to.

11. The portions of the Hindú Wills Act specified in section 9 are repealed merely because they are re-enacted with a wider application in the present Bill. Section 10 is intended to remove all doubt as to the validity of certain grants of probate and administration which have been made in British Burma.

Introduction of the words "or District Delegate" in certain sections of same Act.

9. In the said Act, sections 246, 250, 255 and 259, after the words "District Judge," and in section 250 and section 254 (when it first occurs) after the word "Judge," the words "or District Delegate" shall be inserted respectively.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Indian Succession Act as originally framed by the Law Commissioners empowered the District Judge to appoint judicial officers to act for him as delegates to grant probates and letters of administration in non-contentious cases much in the same way as the District Registrars appointed under the Court of Probate Act, 1857, do in England; but the provisions relating to this matter were struck out of the Bill by the Select Committee, partly because they were deemed unnecessary, and partly because it was apprehended that the power which was to be conferred on District Judges would give rise to abuse.

If, however, the Bill which has been drafted to provide for granting probate of the wills and administration to the estates of persons now exempted from the operation of the Indian Succession Act becomes law, it is probable that the business of granting probate and administration will increase to such an extent that the District Judges will be unable to dispose of it without assistance.

The present Bill has accordingly been framed with a view to replacing in the Succession Act, with some slight modifications in point of form, the sections removed from it by the Select Committee; but, in order to avoid as far as possible the danger of abuse apprehended by the Select Committee, the power of appointing the delegates has been vested not in the District Judges, but in the High Courts, and its exercise has in the case of High Courts not established by Royal Charter been made subject to the previous sanction of the Local Government.

Validation of past orders, &c.

13. In the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, first schedule, Part IV, and in the Laws Local Extent Act, 1874, sixth schedule, Part IV, the following shall be repealed (that is to say):—

Parts of Acts XIV and XV of 1874 repealed.

"V. The Family Domains of the Mahárájá of Benares comprising the following parganas:—

Bhadohi and Kheyra Mángror in the Mirzapur District.

Kaswá Rájá in the Benares District."

14. In the Laws Local Extent Act, 1874, section 8, after clause (j) the following shall be inserted (namely):—

Clause added to Act XV of 1874, s. 8.

"(jj) extend to Pargana Bhadohi or Pargana Kheyra Mángror in the Mirzapur District, or to Pargana Kaswá Rájá in the Benares District, any law not now in force therein."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. By Bengal Regulation VII of 1828, it was provided that, in certain parganas in the Benares Division, known as the Family Domains of the Mahárájá of Benares, the settlement and collection of the revenue and the administration of justice in cases relating to land should be conducted by the Mahárájá and his officers, under the supervision of a Superintendent appointed by, and subject to the control of, the Governor General in Council.

2. For a long time past, owing to the changes that have taken place in these parganas and in the country generally, it has been found impossible to proceed in strict accordance with that Regulation. Powers which should have been exercised by the Governor General in Council have, perhaps without sufficient warrant of law, been delegated to the Board of Revenue; and the functions of the Superintendent have been to a great extent discharged by a Deputy Superintendent—an officer unknown to the law.

3. These difficulties and some others of minor importance arising from the antiquated form of the Regulation might be got over by action under the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, in the Schedule to which the Domains are included; but this mode of proceeding would be distasteful to the Mahárájá, who objects to the Domains being treated as a Scheduled District; and the Government, being anxious as far as possible to meet his wishes, have determined to do what is required by special legislation.

4. The present Bill has accordingly been prepared to withdraw the Domains from the operation of the Scheduled Districts Act, and to enact directly the requisite amendments of the old Regulation.

5. The most important of these amendments consist in giving power to appoint a Deputy Superintendent; in placing the Superintendent and Deputy Superintendent under the control of the Board of Revenue; in empowering the Mahárájá to delegate his functions as Collector; in giving him a greater freedom as to the number of judicial officers to be appointed, and enabling him to alter the local limits of their jurisdiction; and in empowering the Lieutenant-Governor, after reference to the Mahárájá, to make rules regulating the powers and procedure of these officers and the course of appeal from their decisions.

Most of these amendments go no further than to legalize existing practice.

6. A clause has been added to remove all doubt as to the validity of past proceedings.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

CERTAIN members of the Simla Union Church, so far back as the year 1873, drew the attention of Government to the hardship under which they laboured in being unable, without constantly recurring trouble and expense, to keep up a permanent and effective body of trustees to whom to commit the property of the Church. The Secretary to the Calcutta Missionary Conference about the same time made a similar representation to Government; and there are probably other bodies associated for religious purposes in India who experience like difficulties.

2. The present Bill is drawn on the lines of 13 & 14 Vic., c. 28 (commonly known as Peto's Act), which was passed to meet a similar difficulty felt by Religious Societies in England. It differs from that Act, however, first in applying only to Religious Congregations and not to Societies formed for purposes of education; and secondly, in providing for the case of moveable as well as immoveable property.

3. It simply provides that, if property of certain specified descriptions is conveyed to trustees in trust for any Religious Congregation, and no special provision is made for the appointment of new trustees, new trustees may be appointed in such manner as that Congregation may determine; and further, that on the appointment of new trustees whether in exercise of the powers thus conferred or otherwise, the property shall vest in them without any further conveyance.

4. Hindús, Muhammadans and Buddhists are excepted from the provisions of the Bill, as it is thought undesirable to interfere with the laws regulating their endowments.

1. This Act may be cited as "The Dekkhan Agriculturists Relief Act, 1879":

It extends only to the districts of Puna, Sátára, Sholápur and Ahmadnagar, and it shall come into force on the first day of October, 1879.

Local extent and commencement.

Interpretation-clause.

"agriculturist":

(2) "money" includes grain and any other agricultural produce:

"money":

(3) "special judge" means the officer appointed under section fifty-one.

"special judge."

CHAPTER II.

OF THE HEARING OF CERTAIN SUITS BY SUBORDINATE JUDGES.

Application of this chapter.

3. The provisions of this chapter shall apply to—

(a) suits for an account instituted on or after the first day of October, 1879, by an agriculturist in the Court of a Subordinate Judge under the provisions hereinafter contained, and

(b) suits of the descriptions next hereinafter mentioned and instituted on or after the same date—

(1) when such suits are heard by Subordinate Judges of the first class and the subject-matter thereof does not exceed in amount or value five hundred rupees, or

(2) when such suits are heard by Subordinate Judges of the second class and the subject-matter thereof does not exceed in amount or value one hundred rupees, or

(3) when such suits are heard by Subordinate Judges of the second class and the subject-matter thereof exceeds one hundred rupees, but does not exceed five hundred rupees in amount or value, and the parties agree that such provisions shall apply.

The descriptions of suits referred to in clause (b) are the following (namely):—

suits of the nature cognizable by Courts of Small Causes, and suits between mortgagors, being agriculturists, and mortgagees for the foreclosure or redemption of the mortgage, for the enforcement of the mortgage lien or for the possession of the property mortgaged.

Certain suits to be instituted in Courts of first class Subordinate Judges.

4. Where a Subordinate Judge of the first class and a Subordinate Judge of the second class have jurisdiction in the same local area, every suit referred to in section 3, clause (b), to be instituted in such local area shall, if the amount or value of the subject-matter of such suit exceeds one hundred rupees and does not exceed five hundred rupees, be instituted in the Court of the Subordinate Judge of the first class.

Subordinate Judges not to act as Judges of Small Cause Courts.

5. Notwithstanding anything contained in the Bombay Civil Courts Act, 1869, section 28, no Subordinate Judge shall, while this Act continues in force, be invested with the jurisdiction of a Judge of a Court of Small Causes; and any such jurisdiction heretofore conferred on any Subordinate Judge shall be deemed, except as regards suits instituted before the said first day of October, 1879, to have been withdrawn.

Jurisdiction of Subordinate Judge and Small Cause Court.

6. The Local Government may from time to time by notification in the local Gazette direct that any class of suits which a Subordinate Judge would be precluded from hearing by section twelve of Act XI of 1865 (to consolidate and amend the law relating to Courts of Small Causes beyond the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature) shall be heard and determined by him and not otherwise, and may by a like notification cancel any such direction.

Summons to be for final disposal of suit.

7. In every case in which it seems to the Court possible to dispose of a suit at the first hearing, the summons shall be for the final disposal of the suit.

Service of summons.

8. If the officer employed to serve a summons on a defendant cannot find such defendant and there is no agent empowered to accept the service of the summons in his behalf, nor any person on whom the service can be made, the serving-officer may, instead of proceeding in manner prescribed by section 80 of the Code of Civil Procedure, leave such summons for service with the Patel of the defendant's village.

A Patel with whom a summons is left under this section shall, if he within one week from the date on which the summons is so left finds the defendant in the village, serve such summons on the defendant in manner prescribed by section 79 of the said Code, endorse the same or cause the same to be endorsed in manner prescribed by section 81 of the said Code, sign such endorsement and return the summons by post or otherwise to the Court.

An endorsement made on a summons under this section shall be primâ facie proof of the facts stated therein, and the Court shall take judicial notice of the signature thereto.

No suit to be heard ex parte.

9. No suit shall be heard ex parte, unless the Court, for reasons to be recorded in writing, thinks that it ought to be so heard.

In any suit which the Code of Civil Procedure directs to be heard ex parte, but which the Court does not think ought to be so heard, the Court shall adjourn the hearing and take steps to secure the attendance of the defendant by the issue of a fresh summons or of a warrant of arrest.

Written statements.

10. In suits of the nature cognizable by Courts of Small Causes no party shall be entitled to file a written statement without the permission of the Court.

Record of evidence.

11. When the subject-matter of any suit does not exceed ten rupees in amount or value, it shall not be necessary to take down the evidence or make a memorandum thereof in manner provided by the Code of Civil Procedure; but in cases where the evidence is not so taken down and no memorandum is so made, the substance of the evidence shall be stated in the judgment.

CHAPTER III.

OF SUITS AND OTHER PROCEEDINGS TO WHICH AGRICULTURISTS ARE PARTIES.

History of transactions with agriculturist debtors to be investigated.

12. When any suit is brought for the recovery of money alleged to be due on account of money lent or advanced to, or paid for, the defendant, or as the price of goods sold or on an account stated, or on a written or unwritten engagement for the payment of money, or for the foreclosure of a mortgage, or for the possession of mortgaged property, and the defendant or any one of the defendants, not being merely a surety of the actual debtor, is an agriculturist, and when any suit is brought for the redemption of a mortgage and the plaintiff or any one of the plaintiffs is an agriculturist, the Court shall, if the amount of the creditor's claim is disputed, enquire into the history and merits of the case, from the commencement of the transactions between the parties out of which the suit has arisen, first, with a view of ascertaining whether there is any defence to the suit on the ground of fraud, mistake, accident, undue influence or otherwise; and secondly, with a view (if necessary) to taking an account between the parties in manner hereinafter provided.

When the amount of the claim is admitted, and the Court sees no reason to doubt the truth of such admission, the Court shall not be bound so to enquire, but may do so if it thinks fit.

When the Court sees reason to doubt the truth of such admission, it shall be bound to enquire as aforesaid.

Nothing herein contained shall affect the right of the parties to require that any matter in difference between them be referred to arbitration.

Mode of taking account.

13. When the Court enquires into the history and merits of a case under section twelve, it shall, if it considers any agreement between the parties as to interest or the profits of mortgaged property or determining in any way the manner of taking the account fair and equitable, give effect to such agreement and take the account on the footing thereof; but, if it does not consider such agreement fair and equitable, it shall, notwithstanding the same, and notwithstanding any statement or settlement of account or any contract purporting to close previous dealings and create a new obligation, determine the amount due according to the following rules (that is to say):—

(a) separate accounts of principal and interest shall be taken:

(b) in the account of principal there shall be debited to the debtor only such money as may from time to time have been actually received by him or on his account from the creditor:

(c) in the account of interest there shall be debited to the debtor monthly simple interest on the balance of principal for the time being outstanding at the rate allowed by the Court as hereinafter provided:

(d) all payments by or on account of the debtor, and all profits or advantages of every description received by the creditor in the course of the transactions, shall be credited, first, on account of interest; and when any payment is more than sufficient to discharge the balance of interest due at the time it is made, the residue of such payment shall be credited to the debtor in the account of principal:

(e) the accounts of principal and interest shall be made up to the date of suit, and the aggregate of the balances (if any) of both such accounts against the debtor on that date shall be deemed to be the amount due, except when the balance of the interest account exceeds that of the principal account, in which case double the latter balance shall be deemed to be the amount due.

Interest to be allowed.

14. The interest to be awarded in taking an account according to the rules set forth in section thirteen shall be—

(a) the rate, if any, agreed upon between the parties, unless such rate is deemed by the Court to be unreasonable; or

(b) if such rate is deemed by the Court unreasonable, or if no rate was agreed upon, such rate as the Court deems reasonable:

Provided that, in any case in which the parties have agreed that the profits of mortgaged property shall be taken by the mortgagee in lieu of interest and such agreement has been set aside under section thirteen, the rate of interest to be allowed shall be nine per cent. per annum.

Reference to arbitration in certain cases.

15. Instead of enquiring into the history and merits of a case under section twelve, or if upon so enquiring the Court is unable to satisfy itself as to the amount which should be allowed on account of principal or interest or both, the Court may, of its own motion, direct that the question be referred to arbitration.

If the parties are willing to nominate arbitrators, the arbitrators shall be nominated by them in such manner as may be agreed upon between them: if the parties are unwilling to nominate arbitrators or cannot agree in respect of such nomination, the Court shall appoint any three persons it thinks fit:

Provided that if both parties reside in the same village, town or city, and, in the opinion of the Court, three fit persons can be found among the residents of such village, town or city, it shall appoint residents of such village, town or city.

The provisions of sections 508 to 522 (both inclusive) of the Code of Civil Procedure shall apply to every reference to arbitration under this section.

In the case of ancestral debts interest to be disallowed or limited.

16. If the debt, or any portion thereof, was not contracted by the person from whom the creditor seeks to obtain recovery, but by such person's father or other ancestor, the said person shall be called upon to state whether he is willing to accept the full responsibility for such debt or for such portion thereof;

and, if he accepts such responsibility, shall be held liable for the full amount payable on account of such debt, or of such portion thereof subject to the other provisions of this Act, or of any law for the time being in force relating to ancestral debts;

but if he declines to accept such responsibility, he shall not be held liable for more than the principal amount of such debt, or of such portion thereof, with interest up to the date of the death of the person who incurred such debt, or of such portion thereof, if such person was related to him in the first degree, and otherwise only for the principal amount of such debt or of such portion thereof.

Agriculturist debtors may sue for accounts.

17. Any agriculturist may sue for an account of monies lent or advanced to or paid for him by a creditor or due by him to such creditor as the price of goods sold or on a written or unwritten engagement for the payment of money and of monies paid by him to such creditor, and for a decree declaring the amount, if any, still payable by him to such creditor.

Amount of debts in such cases to be determined according to foregoing provisions.

When any such suit is brought, the amount payable by the plaintiff shall be determined under the same rules as would be applicable if the creditor had himself sued for recovery of the debt.

Decree may provide for payment by instalments.

18. A decree passed under section seventeen may, besides declaring the amount due, direct that such amount shall be paid by instalments, with or without interest; and, when any such decree so directs, the plaintiff may pay the amount of such decree, or the amount of each instalment fixed by such decree, as it falls due, into court, in default whereof execution of the decree may be enforced by the defendant in the same manner as if he had obtained the decree in a suit to recover the debt.

Execution of decrees under this section.

Payment into court in cases under section 17.

19. The plaintiff in any suit instituted under section seventeen may at any stage of such suit deposit in court such sum of money as he considers a satisfaction in full of the defendant's claim against him.

Notice of the deposit shall be given by the Court to the defendant, and the amount of the deposit shall (unless the Court otherwise directs) be paid to the defendant on his application.

No interest shall be allowed to the defendant on any sum so deposited from the date of the receipt of such notice, whether the sum deposited be in full of the claim or fall short thereof.

Power to discharge judgment-debtor.

20. When a decree has been passed, whether before or after this Act comes into force, under which any sum less than fifty rupees is recoverable from an agriculturist, the Court may, whether in the course of execution of the said decree or otherwise, if it is satisfied that there is no other claim against him and that he is unable to pay the whole of such sum, direct the payment of a portion of the same, and grant him a discharge from such balance.

When the sum payable under the decree amounts to fifty rupees or upwards, or when there are other claims against the debtor, the Court may direct proceedings to be taken with respect to him as nearly as may be as if he had applied to be declared an insolvent under the provisions hereinafter contained.

Power to fix instalments in execution.

21. The Court may at any time direct that the amount of any decree against an agriculturist or the portion of the same which it directs under section twenty to be paid, shall be paid by instalments with or without interest.

Arrest and imprisonment for debt abolished.

22. Except as provided in the Code of Civil Procedure, section 359, no agriculturist shall be arrested or imprisoned on account of debt.

Land exempted from attachment and sale unless specifically pledged.

23. No agriculturist's land shall be attached or sold in execution of any decree or order unless it has been specifically pledged as security for the repayment of the debt to which such decree or order relates, and the mortgage lien still subsists.

But the Court may, when passing a decree or at any subsequent time, direct the Collector to take possession, for any period not exceeding seven years, of any land of an agriculturist judgment-debtor to the possession of which such judgment-debtor is entitled, and which, in the opinion of the Collector, is not required for the support of such judgment-debtor and the members of his family dependent on him, and deal with the same for the benefit of the decree-holder in manner provided by section thirty-one.

Ancestral debt.

24. If, upon application being made for the execution of a decree for the payment of money against an agriculturist, it appears that the person against whom execution is sought is not the person made liable by the decree for the amount thereof, but the heir of such person, the amount recoverable under the decree shall be limited in accordance with the provisions of section sixteen.

CHAPTER IV.

OF INSOLVENCY.

Subordinate Judges to have jurisdiction in agriculturists' cases.

25. Every Subordinate Judge shall have the powers conferred by sections 344 to 359 (both inclusive) of the Code of Civil Procedure, as modified by the provisions next hereinafter contained, for the purpose of dealing with applications under the Code of Civil Procedure or under this Act to have agriculturists residing within the local limits of his jurisdiction declared insolvent and proceedings taken under orders passed by him under the second clause of section twenty, and no such application or proceeding shall be dealt with by any other Court.

Agriculturist may apply for adjudication in cases not provided for by Code.

26. Any agriculturist who is in debt to the amount of fifty rupees or upwards and who resides within the said districts may apply to any Subordinate Judge within the local limits of whose jurisdiction he resides to be declared an insolvent, though he has not been arrested or imprisoned, and though no order of attachment has issued against his property in execution of decree.

27. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 351 of the Code of Civil Procedure, the Court shall declare an agriculturist an insolvent if it is satisfied that he is in insolvent circumstances, and that the application to have him declared an insolvent has been properly made under section 344 of the said Code or section twenty-six of this Act.

Modification of section 351 of the Code.

28. No person other than the Názir of the Court shall be appointed as receiver, and no receiver shall be entitled to commission.

Receiver.

29. In determining under section 352 of the said Code the amount of any claim of the nature referred to in section twelve of this Act due by an insolvent agriculturist, the Court shall proceed in the manner prescribed by sections twelve to sixteen of this Act, both inclusive.

Proof of debts.

30. Whenever any moveable property of an insolvent is liable to be sold by a receiver under section 356 of the said Code, the Court may direct that it shall not be so sold, and may, after recording the opinions of two Assessors appointed by the Court in this behalf, determine the value of such property and direct the receiver to transfer it to any of the scheduled creditors who may be entitled to receive in the distribution under the said section 356 an amount equal to or greater than the value so determined; and such creditor shall accept such property in full or partial liquidation (as the case may be) of the amount to which he is so entitled.

Power to make over moveable property to creditor at valuation.

31. No immoveable property of the insolvent shall vest in the receiver; but the Court may direct the Collector to take into his possession, for any period not exceeding seven years from the date on which the receiver has been appointed, any such property to the possession of which the insolvent is entitled, and which, in the opinion of the Collector, is not required for the support of the insolvent and the members of his family dependent on him, and, subject to any rules the Local Government may from time to time make in this behalf, to manage the same for the benefit of the creditors, by letting it on lease or otherwise:

Immoveable property not to vest in receiver,

but may be managed for benefit of creditors.

Provided that if the insolvent or his heir at any time pays into court the balance of the scheduled debts then unpaid, he shall, subject to any rights created in favour of other persons by the Collector, be entitled to recover possession of such property.

32. When any scheduled debt is secured by a mortgage of any portion of the insolvent's immoveable property, the Court may direct the Collector, if he can obtain a premium equal to the amount of such debt by letting such property rent-free for a term not exceeding twenty years, to let such property, and, if he cannot so obtain such premium, to sell such property by public auction or otherwise as he thinks fit.

Secured debts.

Where property is let under this section, the premium shall be applied to the payment of the debt.

When property is sold under this section, the sale-proceeds shall be applied, first, to the payment of the debt; and the balance, if any, shall be paid to the receiver.

33. So long as any management under section thirty-one or letting under section thirty-two continues, the insolvent and his representative in interest shall be incompetent to mortgage, charge, lease or alienate the property or any part thereof.

Insolvent incompetent to sell, &c., property dealt with under sections 31 and 32.

34. When the balance available for distribution among the scheduled creditors under section 356 of the said Code has been distributed, the claims of such creditors shall be deemed to have been discharged, except as regards the right to share in the profits of any property managed by the Collector under section thirty-one.

Scheduled debts discharged.

35. No Subordinate Judge exercising the powers conferred by section twenty-five, if he is a Subordinate Judge of the first class, shall sentence any person under section 359 of the said Code to imprisonment for a term longer than three months, or if he is a Subordinate Judge of the second class, shall so sentence any person for a term longer than one month.

Limitation to powers of Subordinate Judges under section 359 of the Code.

Appointment of Village-Munsifs.

37. Every Village-Munsif so appointed shall take cognizance of suits for money lent, or advanced to, or paid for, the defendant, or due as the price of goods sold or on an account stated, or on a written or unwritten engagement for the payment of money when the amount or value of the claim does not exceed ten rupees, and all the defendants at the time of the commencement of the suit actually and voluntarily reside or carry on business or personally work for gain within the local area for which such Village-Munsif is appointed.

Suits triable by them.

A suit cognizable by a Village-Munsif shall not be heard by any other Court:

Jurisdiction of other Courts excluded.

Provided that the Special Judge may from time to time transfer any suit instituted before a Village-Munsif to any other Civil Court in the district for trial:

Proviso.

Provided also that no Village-Munsif shall try any suit in which he is a party or is personally interested, or shall adjudicate upon any proceeding connected with or arising out of such suit.

38. The Special Judge may on a petition being presented within thirty days from the date of any decree or order of a Village-Munsif by any party aggrieved by such decree or order, set aside such decree or order on the ground of corruption, gross partiality or misconduct of the Village-Munsif.

Special Judge's power of revision.

Except as herein provided and as provided in section 622 of the Code of Civil Procedure, every decree and order of a Village-Munsif shall be final.

39. The Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the local Gazette, make rules for regulating the procedure of Village-Munsifs and for conferring on them any of the powers for the trial of suits or the execution of decrees exercised by a Civil Court under the Code of Civil Procedure or any other enactment for the time being in force.

Power of Local Government to make rules.

CHAPTER VI.

OF CONCILIATION.

40. The Local Government may from time to time appoint any person to be a Conciliator and cancel any such appointment.

Appointment of Conciliators.

Every Conciliator so appointed shall exercise his functions under this Act in respect of matters affecting agriculturists residing within such local limits as the Local Government may from time to time determine.

41. When any dispute arises as to, or there is a prospect of litigation regarding, any matter within the cognizance of a Civil Court between two or more parties, one of whom is an agriculturist residing within any local limits for which a Conciliator has been appointed, any of such parties may apply to such Conciliator to effect an amicable settlement between them.

Matters which may be brought before Conciliator.

42. If the application be made by one of the parties only, the Conciliator shall take down, or cause to be taken down, in writing a general statement of the applicant's case, and shall thereupon, by summons or by such other means as he deems fit, invite the person against whom such application is made to attend before him upon a day to be fixed for this purpose, and shall direct the applicant also to be present on such day.

Procedure thereupon.

If the said person fails to appear on the day first fixed, the Conciliator may, if he thinks fit, from time to time extend the period for his appearance.

Day for attendance may from time to time be postponed.

43. Whenever all the parties are present, the Conciliator shall call upon each in turn to explain his case regarding the matter in question, and shall use his best endeavours to induce them to agree to an amicable settlement or to submit such matter to arbitration.

When all parties appear, Conciliator to endeavour to reconcile them.

44. The Conciliator shall hear the statement of any witness and peruse any book of account or other document produced by the parties, and if any party or witness consents in writing to affirm any statement upon oath or solemn affirmation in any form not repugnant to justice or decency and not purporting to affect any third person, shall arrange for such oath or solemn affirmation being duly taken in the presence of all the parties.

Conciliator to hear statements of witnesses, &c.

Any agreement arrived at to be reduced to writing.

46. When the agreement is one finally disposing of the matter, the Conciliator shall forward the same in original to the Court of the Subordinate Judge of lowest grade having jurisdiction in the place where the agriculturist who is a party thereto resides.

Procedure when agreement finally disposes of case.

The Court which receives the agreement shall order it to be filed; and it shall then take effect as if it were a decree of the said Court passed on the day on which it is ordered to be filed and from which no appeal lies.

47. When the agreement is one for referring the matter to arbitration, the Conciliator shall forward it to the Court having jurisdiction in the matter, and such Court shall cause it to be filed and proceed thereon in manner provided by sections 523 and 524 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Procedure where agreement is for reference to arbitration.

48. If the person against whom any application is made before a Conciliator cannot be found, or if he refuses or neglects, after such period as the Conciliator thinks reasonable has been allowed for his appearance, to appear before the Conciliator, or if he appears but the attempt to reconcile the parties or to induce them to resort to arbitration fails, the Conciliator shall, on demand, give to the applicant, or when there are several applicants to each applicant, a certificate under his signature to that effect.

Certificate to be given to applicant if conciliation fails.

49. No suit and no application for execution of a decree passed before the date on which this Act comes into force to which any agriculturist residing within any local limits for which a Conciliator has been appointed is a party shall be entertained by any Civil Court, unless the plaintiff or decree-holder produces a certificate as aforesaid.

Suit, &c., not to be entertained by Civil Court unless such certificate is produced.

50. The Local Government may from time to time make rules—

(b) fixing the charges to be made by Conciliators for anything done by them under this Act; and

(c) determining what record and accounts shall be kept by Conciliators and what returns shall be framed and furnished by them.

(a) appoint such persons as it thinks fit, whether public officers or not, to be Village-Registrars, for such local areas as it may from time to time prescribe;

(b) direct that the Village-Registrar for any local area may discharge the functions of a Village-Registrar for any other local areas concurrently with the Village-Registrars of such other local areas; and

(c) delegate to any person by name or in virtue of his office the powers conferred on it by this section.

Instruments executed by agriculturist not to be deemed valid unless executed before a Village-Registrar.

56. No instrument purporting to create, modify, transfer or evidence an obligation for the payment of money or a charge upon any property executed after the passing of this Act by an agriculturist residing in any local area for which a Village-Registrar has been appointed shall be admitted in evidence for any purpose by any person having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence, or shall be acted upon by any such person or by any public officer, unless such instrument is written by, or under the superintendence of, and, is attested by, a Village-Registrar:

Provided that nothing herein contained shall prevent the admission of any instrument in evidence in any criminal proceeding.

Such instruments to be written by or under the superintendence of a Village-Registrar and executed in his presence.

57. When any persons, one or more of whom is an agriculturist, desire to execute any such instrument, they shall present themselves before the Village-Registrar appointed by the Local Government for the area in which the said agriculturist or any one of the said agriculturists resides, and such Registrar, after satisfying himself in such manner as he deems fit as to the identity of the parties, and receiving from them the fee (if any) prescribed by the Local Government and the stamp (if any) which may be necessary, shall write the instrument, or cause the same to be written under his superintendence, and require the parties to execute it in his presence.

Attestation of such instruments.

Every instrument so written and executed shall be attested by the Village-Registrar, and also, if any of the parties thereto is unable to read and write, by two respectable witnesses.

Registration of instruments by Village-Registrars.

58. Every Village-Registrar shall keep a register of instruments executed before him in such form as shall from time to time be prescribed by the Inspector General of Registration under section sixty-one of this Act.

As soon as any instrument has been completely executed before a Village-Registrar, he shall make or cause a copy of it to be made in his register, and shall deliver the original instrument to the party entitled to the custody of the same, and a certified copy thereof to the other party, or to each of the other parties, if there be more than one.

Previous to delivery, the original instrument and each such copy shall be endorsed under the Village-Registrar's signature with the date of registration, the name and residence of the Village-Registrar and the volume and page of the register in which the instrument has been registered.

Consideration to be fully stated in every instrument executed before a Village-Registrar.

59. In every instrument written by or under the superintendence of the Village-Registrar, the amount and nature of the consideration, if any, shall be fully stated.

The Village-Registrar shall also endorse upon the instrument a note, under his signature, recording whether or not the transfer of the consideration stated therein, or of any part thereof, took place in his presence.

If the instrument is to be executed in supersession, or partly in supersession, of a previous instrument, such instrument shall be produced before the Village-Registrar and shall be fully described in the instrument to be executed, and shall be marked by the Village-Registrar under his signature for identification.

Registration under this Act to be deemed equivalent to registration under the Indian Registration Act, 1877.

60. Every instrument executed and registered in accordance with the foregoing provisions shall be deemed to have been duly registered under the provisions of the Indian Registration Act, 1877; and no instrument which ought to have been executed before a Village-Registrar, but has been otherwise executed, shall be registered by any officer acting under the said Act, or in any public office, or shall be authenticated by any public officer.

Village-Registrars to be subordinate to the Inspector General of Registration.

61. The said Inspector General shall exercise, by himself and his subordinates, a general superintendence over all Village-Registrars, and shall have power from time to time to make rules consistent with this Act for regulating their proceedings and for providing for the custody of their records.

Exemption of instruments to which Government or any officer of Government is a party.

62. Nothing in this Act shall be deemed to require any instrument to which the Government or any officer of Government in his official capacity is a party to be executed before a Village-Registrar.

Power of Local Government to make rules.

63. The Local Government may from time to time make rules regulating the appointment, suspension, dismissal and remuneration of Village-Registrars, and prescribing the fees to be levied by them.

CHAPTER IX.

OF RECEIPTS AND STATEMENTS OF ACCOUNT.

Agriculturists to be entitled to written receipts.

64. Every agriculturist who makes any payment of money in liquidation of a debt shall be entitled to receive at the time of such payment a written receipt from the person to whom such payment is made.

If such payment is made under any instrument executed before a Village-Registrar, the receipt shall, if the agriculturist so require, be endorsed on the copy of the instrument furnished to him under section fifty-eight.

and to annual statements of account;

65. Any agriculturist by whom any money is due under any instrument shall be entitled to receive from the person claiming under such instrument, within one month after the date on which by local custom annual accounts are balanced, a statement of his account up to that date.

The Local Government may, by notification in the local Gazette, declare what date shall in any district or portion of a district be taken to be the date on which annual accounts are balanced for the purpose of this section.

and to have his account made up from time to time in a pass-book.

66. Any agriculturist in whose name an account is kept by any trader or money-lender shall be entitled to receive from such trader or money-lender, on demand, a pass-book, and to require from time to time that his account up to date be written therein and attested by the signature or mark of the said trader or money-lender.

An entry so made in any such pass-book of any payment made to the trader or money-lender shall be deemed to be equivalent for the purposes of section sixty-four to the grant of a receipt for the amount so entered.

Penalty for contravention of sections 64 to 66.

67. Any person who, in contravention of section sixty-four, sixty-five or sixty-six, refuses or neglects to give a receipt or a statement of account or a pass-book, or to write, or cause to be written, any account or any part of an account in a pass-book, or to attest the same when so written, shall be punished for each such offence, with fine which may extend to one hundred rupees.

Pleaders, &c., excluded in certain cases.

68. No pleader, vakíl, mukhtár, and no advocate or attorney of a High Court, shall be permitted to appear on behalf of any party to a case before a Village-Munsif or a Conciliator:

Provided that any party to any such case may be permitted, on reasonable cause being shown to the satisfaction of the Conciliator or Munsif, to employ any relative, servant or dependent, who is not, and has not previously been, a pleader, or a mukhtár or vakíl to appear either conjointly with or in lieu of such party.

When a relative, servant or dependent appears in lieu of a party, he shall be furnished by him with a power of attorney defining the extent to which he is empowered to act.

Pleaders' fees.

69. In awarding costs to any party in any suit or proceeding before a Subordinate Judge under this Act in which the subject-matter does not exceed one hundred rupees in amount or value, nothing shall be allowed on account of the fees of any pleader, vakíl, mukhtár, or of any advocate or attorney of a High Court, unless the Court, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, thinks that professional assistance was necessary to the proper conduct of such party's case.

70. When in any suit or proceeding before a Subordinate Judge under this Act to which an agriculturist is a party, any pleader, vakíl or mukhtár, or any advocate or attorney of a High Court, appears on behalf of any party opposed to such agriculturist, the Subordinate Judge, if he is of opinion that such agriculturist has not the means of obtaining proper professional assistance, may, with the consent of such agriculturist, direct the Government pleader or some other competent person (who is willing so to do) to appear on his behalf.

Power of Court to appoint pleader for agriculturist.

CHAPTER XI.

72. In any suit against an agriculturist under this Act for the recovery of money the following periods of limitation shall be deemed to be substituted for those prescribed in the second column of the second schedule annexed to the Indian Limitation Act, 1877 (that is to say) :—

77. All rules made by the Local Government under this Act shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon, in so far as they are consistent with this Act, have the force of law.

Rules to be published.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. THE inquiries made into the causes of the riots which occurred in the Dekkhan districts in 1875 and the discussions which have since taken place show that the difficulties under which the agriculturists in those districts labour are due, in a great measure, to the unsatisfactory nature of the relations at present subsisting between them and the money-lending classes.

2. In order to put those relations on a better footing, it is deemed necessary—first, to provide some safeguards against the money-lenders committing frauds in their accounts and obtaining from ignorant peasants bonds for larger amounts than are actually paid to or due from them;

secondly, to arrange disputes by conciliation as far as possible; to increase the number of Courts, and to simplify and cheapen the administration of justice, and thus to afford facilities to the agriculturist to defend any suit that may be brought against him;

thirdly, to insist that in suits against agriculturists the Court shall in certain cases of its own motion investigate the entire history of the transactions between the parties, and do substantial justice between them;

fourthly, to restrict the sale of the raiyat's land in execution of decree, and to provide an insolvency-procedure more liberal to the debtor than that of the Code of Civil Procedure.

The present Bill has been drafted with a view to securing these objects, in so far as they can be secured by legislation. It extends only to the four districts in which the agricultural distress has been most felt.

3. An attempt has been made to secure the first object by sections 55 to 63, providing for the appointment of village-registrars before whom every written obligation for the payment of money by an agriculturist must be registered; by sections 64 to 67, requiring money-lenders to give receipts to agriculturists for all payments made by them, to render accounts, and to furnish a pass-book in which the agriculturist's account will be periodically written up; and by section 71, which invalidates all mortgages created by an agriculturist otherwise than by a written instrument.

4. With a view to the second of the proposed objects, the Bill provides in sections 40 to 50 for the establishment of a system of conciliation under which it is hoped a large number of disputes will be settled out of court; and in sections 36 to 39 for the appointment of village-munsifs, like those in the Madras Presidency, to dispose of petty cases. A further addition to the machinery for the disposal of suits will be made by an increase of the number of Subordinate Judges; but, as this is a matter which it is competent to the Local Government to deal with under the existing law, no reference to it will be found in the Bill.

5. As regards procedure, it is proposed, with a view to a more rapid despatch of business and to diminishing the cost of litigation, to simplify the record in certain respects (sections 10 and 11); to discourage the employment of pleaders in petty suits (section 69); and to substitute for the present system of appeals a very strict and searching supervision (sections 51 to 54).

6. Sections 12 to 16 provide in certain cases for a thorough investigation into the history of the transaction between the parties (the third of the four objects mentioned above). They prescribe the system in which the raiyat's account is to be made up in cases where the Court finds it necessary to set aside oppressive or inequitable arrangements between the parties, and they guard especially against exorbitant demands for interest.

7. The presence of the defendant being essential for the thorough investigation proposed, and the raiyats being, through various difficulties, apt to leave their suits undefended, it has been provided (in section 9) that, except for special reasons, no suit shall be decided ex parte, but that the Court shall compel the defendant to appear.

8. The last of the four objects proposed will be found provided for by sections 25 and 33, which enact that land shall not be sold to pay the debt of the owner except where it has been specifically pledged, but admit of its profits being made available to the creditor for a term of years, and by the sections relating to insolvency.

9. The chief points in which the provisions of the insolvency-chapter differ from those of the Code are that they allow an agriculturist to apply to be adjudicated an insolvent, though no process in execution has been issued against him; that they entitle him to an adjudication in all cases in which, as a matter of fact, he may be insolvent, leaving any misconduct on his part to be punished under the Code of Civil Procedure; and that they similarly entitle him in all cases to a complete discharge from debts which, after all reasonable enforcement, he is unable fully to pay.

10. This insolvency procedure is further supplemented by section 20, which gives the Court a summary power in petty cases to discharge a judgment-debtor who is clearly insolvent, and by section 22, which abolishes imprisonment for debt.

11. The only other provisions of the Bill which appear to call for special notice are section 70, which empowers the Court to direct the Government pleader to appear on behalf of a raiyat when he is unable to engage the services of a professional advocate and the opposite side is represented by a pleader, and section 72, which extends the period of limitation in suits for debt instituted against agriculturists. This latter provision has been introduced into the Bill, as there appears to be a pretty general consensus of opinion to the effect that the difficulties of the raiyat are much aggravated by the present law of limitation, which compels the money-lender at very short intervals to sue him or take a fresh bond, either of which steps commonly entails a considerable addition to the debt.

4. Where a Subordinate Judge of the first class and a Subordinate Judge of the second class have jurisdiction in the same local area, every suit referred to in section 3, clause (b), to be instituted in such local area shall, if the amount or value of the subject-matter of such suit exceeds one hundred rupees and does not exceed five hundred rupees, be instituted in the Court of the Subordinate Judge of the first class.

5. Notwithstanding anything contained in the Bombay Civil Courts Act, 1869, section 28, no Subordinate Judge shall, while this Act continues in force, be invested with the jurisdiction of a Judge of a Court of Small Causes; and any such jurisdiction heretofore conferred on any Subordinate Judge shall be deemed, except as regards suits instituted before the said first day of October, 1879, to have been withdrawn.

6. The Local Government may from time to time by notification in the local Gazette direct that any class of suits which a Subordinate Judge would be precluded from hearing by section twelve of Act XI of 1865 (to consolidate and amend the law relating to Courts of Small Causes beyond the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature) shall be heard and determined by him and not otherwise, and may by a like notification cancel any such direction.

7. In every case in which it seems to the Court possible to dispose of a suit at the first hearing, the summons shall be for the final disposal of the suit.

CHAPTER III.

OF SUITS AND OTHER PROCEEDINGS TO WHICH AGRICULTURISTS ARE PARTIES.

History of transactions with agriculturist debtors to be investigated.

12. When any suit is brought for the recovery of money alleged to be due on account of money lent or advanced to, or paid for, the defendant, or as the price of goods sold or on an account stated, or on a written or unwritten engagement for the payment of money, or for the foreclosure of a mortgage, or for the possession of mortgaged property, and the defendant or any one of the defendants, not being merely a surety of the actual debtor, is an agriculturist, and when any suit is brought for the redemption of a mortgage and the plaintiff or any one of the plaintiffs is an agriculturist,

the Court shall, if the amount of the creditor's claim is disputed, enquire into the history and merits of the case, from the commencement of the transactions between the parties out of which the suit has arisen, first, with a view of ascertaining whether there is any defence to the suit on the ground of fraud, mistake, accident, undue influence or otherwise; and secondly, with a view (if necessary) to taking an account between the parties in manner hereinafter provided.

When the amount of the claim is admitted, and the Court sees no reason to doubt the truth of such admission, the Court shall not be bound so to enquire, but may do so if it thinks fit.

When the Court sees reason to doubt the truth of such admission, it shall be bound to enquire as aforesaid.

Nothing herein contained shall affect the right of the parties to require that any matter in difference between them be referred to arbitration.

Mode of taking account.

13. When the Court enquires into the history and merits of a case under section twelve, it shall, if it considers any agreement between the parties as to interest or the profits of mortgaged property, or determining in any way the manner of taking the account fair and equitable, give effect to such agreement and take the account on the footing thereof; but, if it does not consider such agreement fair and equitable, it shall, notwithstanding the same, and notwithstanding any statement or settlement of account or any contract purporting to close previous dealings and create a new obligation, determine the amount due according to the following rules (that is to say):—

(a) separate accounts of principal and interest shall be taken:

(b) in the account of principal there shall be debited to the debtor only such money as may from time to time have been actually received by him or on his account from the creditor:

(c) in the account of interest there shall be debited to the debtor monthly simple interest on the balance of principal for the time being outstanding at the rate allowed by the Court as hereinafter provided:

(d) all payments by or on account of the debtor, and all profits or advantages of every description received by the creditor in the course of the transactions, shall be credited, first, on account of interest; and when any payment is more than sufficient to discharge the balance of interest due at the time it is made, the residue of such payment shall be credited to the debtor in the account of principal:

(e) the accounts of principal and interest shall be made up to the date of suit, and the aggregate of the balances (if any) of both such accounts against the debtor on that date shall be deemed to be the amount due, except when the balance of the interest account exceeds that of the principal account, in which case double the latter balance shall be deemed to be the amount due.

Interest to be allowed.

14. The interest to be awarded in taking an account according to the rules set forth in section thirteen shall be—

(a) the rate, if any, agreed upon between the parties, unless such rate is deemed by the Court to be unreasonable; or

(b) if such rate is deemed by the Court unreasonable, or if no rate was agreed upon, such rate as the Court deems reasonable:

Provided that, in any case in which the parties have agreed that the profits of mortgaged property shall be taken by the mortgagee in lieu of interest and such agreement has been set aside under section thirteen, the rate of interest to be allowed shall be nine per cent. per annum.

Reference to arbitration in certain cases.

15. Instead of enquiring into the history and merits of a case under section twelve, or if upon so enquiring the Court is unable to satisfy itself as to the amount which should be allowed on account of principal or interest or both, the Court may, of its own motion, direct that the question be referred to arbitration.

If the parties are willing to nominate arbitrators, the arbitrators shall be nominated by them in such manner as may be agreed upon between them: if the parties are unwilling to nominate arbitrators or cannot agree in respect of such nomination, the Court shall appoint any three persons it thinks fit:

Provided that if both parties reside in the same village, town or city, and, in the opinion of the Court, three fit persons can be found among the residents of such village, town or city, it shall appoint residents of such village, town or city.

The provisions of sections 508 to 522 (both inclusive) of the Code of Civil Procedure shall apply to every reference to arbitration under this section.

In the case of ancestral debts interest to be disallowed or limited.

16. If the debt, or any portion thereof, was not contracted by the person from whom the creditor seeks to obtain recovery, but by such person's father or other ancestor, the said person shall be called upon to state whether he is willing to accept the full responsibility for such debt or for such portion thereof;

and, if he accepts such responsibility, shall be held liable for the full amount payable on account of such debt, or of such portion thereof subject to the other provisions of this Act, or of any law for the time being in force relating to ancestral debts;

but if he declines to accept such responsibility, he shall not be held liable for more than the principal amount of such debt, or of such portion thereof, with interest up to the date of the death of the person who incurred such debt, or of such portion thereof, if such person was related to him in the first degree, and otherwise only for the principal amount of such debt or of such portion thereof.

Agriculturist debtors may sue for accounts.

17. Any agriculturist may sue for an account of monies lent or advanced to or paid for him by a creditor or due by him to such creditor as the price of goods sold or on a written or unwritten engagement for the payment of money and of monies paid by him to such creditor, and for a decree declaring the amount, if any, still payable by him to such creditor.

When any such suit is brought, the amount payable by the plaintiff shall be determined under the same rules as would be applicable if the creditor had himself sued for recovery of the debt.

Amount of debts in such cases to be determined according to foregoing provisions.

Decree may provide for payment by instalments.

18. A decree passed under section seventeen may, besides declaring the amount due, direct that such amount shall be paid by instalments, with or without interest; and, when any such decree so directs, the plaintiff may pay the amount of such decree, or the amount of each instalment fixed by such decree, as it falls due, into court, in default whereof execution of the decree may be enforced by the defendant in the same manner as if he had obtained the decree in a suit to recover the debt.

Execution of decrees under this section.

Payment into court in cases under section 17.

19. The plaintiff in any suit instituted under section seventeen may at any stage of such suit deposit in court such sum of money as he considers a satisfaction in full of the defendant's claim against him.

Notice of the deposit shall be given by the Court to the defendant, and the amount of the deposit shall (unless the Court otherwise directs) be paid to the defendant on his application.

No interest shall be allowed to the defendant on any sum so deposited from the date of the receipt of such notice, whether the sum deposited be in full of the claim or fall short thereof.

Power to discharge agriculturist debtor.

20. When a decree has been passed, whether before or after this Act comes into force, under which any sum less than fifty rupees is recoverable from an agriculturist, the Court may, whether in the course of execution of the said decree or otherwise, if it is satisfied that there is no other claim against him and that he is unable to pay the whole of such sum, direct the payment of a portion of the same, and grant him a discharge from such balance.

When the sum payable under the decree amounts to fifty rupees or upwards, or when there are other claims against the debtor, the Court may direct proceedings to be taken with respect to him as nearly as may be as if he had applied to be declared an insolvent under the provisions hereinafter contained.

Power to fix instalments in execution.

21. The Court may at any time direct that the amount of any decree against an agriculturist or the portion of the same which it directs under section twenty to be paid, shall be paid by instalments with or without interest.

Arrest and imprisonment for debt abolished.

22. Except as provided in the Code of Civil Procedure, section 359, no agriculturist shall be arrested or imprisoned on account of debt.

Land exempted from attachment and sale unless specifically pledged.

23. No agriculturist's land shall be attached or sold in execution of any decree or order unless it has been specifically pledged as security for the repayment of the debt to which such decree or order relates, and the mortgage lien still subsists.

But the Court may, when passing a decree or at any subsequent time, direct the Collector to take possession, for any period not exceeding seven years, of any land of an agriculturist judgment-debtor to the possession of which such judgment-debtor is entitled, and which, in the opinion of the Collector, is not required for the support of such judgment-debtor and the members of his family dependent on him, and deal with the same for the benefit of the decree-holder in manner provided by section thirty-one.

Ancestral debt.

24. If, upon application being made for the execution of a decree for the payment of money against an agriculturist, it appears that the person against whom execution is sought is not the person personally liable by the decree for the amount thereof, but the heir of such person, the amount recoverable under the decree shall be limited in accordance with the provisions of section sixteen.

CHAPTER IV.

OF INSOLVENCY.

25. Every Subordinate Judge shall have the powers conferred by sections 344 to 359 (both inclusive) of the Code of Civil Procedure, as modified by the provisions next hereinafter contained, for the purpose of dealing with applications under the Code of Civil Procedure or under this Act to have agriculturists residing within the local limits of his jurisdiction declared insolvent and [illegible] taken under orders passed by him under the second clause of section twenty, and no such application or proceeding shall be dealt with by any other Court.

27. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 351 of the Code of Civil Procedure, the Court shall declare an agriculturist an insolvent if it is satisfied that he is in insolvent circumstances, and that the application to have him declared an insolvent has been properly made under section 344 of the said Code or section twenty-six of this Act.

Proof of debts.

30. Whenever any moveable property of an insolvent is liable to be sold by a receiver under section 356 of the said Code, the Court may direct that it shall not be so sold, and may, after recording the opinions of two Assessors appointed by the Court in this behalf, determine the value of such property and direct the receiver to transfer it to any of the scheduled creditors who may be entitled to receive in the distribution under the said section 356 an amount equal to or greater than the value so determined; and such creditor shall accept such property in full or partial liquidation (as the case may be) of the amount to which he is so entitled.

Power to make over moveable property to creditor at valuation.

31. No immoveable property of the insolvent shall vest in the receiver; but the Court may direct the Collector to take into his possession, for any period not exceeding seven years from the date on which the receiver has been appointed, any such property to the possession of which the insolvent is entitled, and which, in the opinion of the Collector, is not required for the support of the insolvent and the members of his family dependent on him, and, subject to any rules the Local Government may from time to time make in this behalf, to manage the same for the benefit of the creditors, by letting it on lease or otherwise:

Immoveable property not to vest in receiver,

but may be managed for benefit of creditors.

Provided that if the insolvent or his heir at any time pays into court the balance of the scheduled debts then unpaid, he shall, subject to any rights created in favour of other persons by the Collector, be entitled to recover possession of such property.

32. When any scheduled debt is secured by a mortgage of any portion of the insolvent's immoveable property, the Court may direct the Collector, if he can obtain a premium equal to the amount of such debt by letting such property rent-free for a term not exceeding twenty years, to let such property, and, if he cannot so obtain such premium, to sell such property by public auction or otherwise as he thinks fit.

Secured debts.

Where property is let under this section, the premium shall be applied to the payment of the debt.

When property is sold under this section, the sale-proceeds shall be applied, first, to the payment of the debt; and the balance, if any, shall be paid to the receiver.

33. So long as any management under section thirty-one or letting under section thirty-two continues, the insolvent and his representative in interest shall be incompetent to mortgage, charge, lease or alienate the property or any part thereof.

Insolvent incompetent to sell, &c., property dealt with under sections 31 and 32.

34. When the balance available for distribution among the scheduled creditors under section 356 of the said Code has been distributed, the claims of such creditors shall be deemed to have been discharged, except as regards the right to share in the profits of any property managed by the Collector under section thirty-one.

Scheduled debts discharged.

35. No Subordinate Judge exercising the powers conferred by section twenty-five, if he is a Subordinate Judge of the first class, shall sentence any person under section 359 of the said Code to imprisonment for a term longer than three months, or if he is a Subordinate Judge of the second class, shall so sentence any person for a term longer than one month.

The Court which receives the agreement shall order it to be filed; and it shall then take effect as if it were a decree of the said Court passed on the day on which it is ordered to be filed and from which no appeal lies.

47. When the agreement is one for referring the matter to arbitration, the Conciliator shall forward it to the Court having jurisdiction in the matter, and such Court shall cause it to be filed and proceed thereon in manner provided by sections 523 and 524 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Certificate to be given to applicant if conciliation fails.

49. No suit and no application for execution of a decree passed before the date on which this Act comes into force to which any agriculturist residing within any local limits for which a Conciliator has been appointed is a party shall be entertained by any Civil Court, unless the plaintiff or decree-holder produces a certificate as aforesaid.

Additional power to make rules.

77. All rules made by the Local Government under this Act shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon, in so far as they are consistent with this Act, have the force of law.

Rules to be published.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. THE inquiries made into the causes of the riots which occurred in the Dekkhan districts in 1875 and the discussions which have since taken place show that the difficulties under which the agriculturists in those districts labour are due, in a great measure, to the unsatisfactory nature of the relations at present subsisting between them and the money-lending classes.

2. In order to put those relations on a better footing, it is deemed necessary—first, to provide some safeguards against the money-lenders committing frauds in their accounts and obtaining from ignorant peasants bonds for larger amounts than are actually paid to or due from them;

secondly, to arrange disputes by conciliation as far as possible; to increase the number of Courts, and to simplify and cheapen the administration of justice, and thus to afford facilities to the agriculturist to defend any suit that may be brought against him;

thirdly, to insist that in suits against agriculturists the Court shall in certain cases of its own motion investigate the entire history of the transactions between the parties, and do substantial justice between them;

fourthly, to restrict the sale of the raiyat's land in execution of decree, and to provide an insolvency-procedure more liberal to the debtor than that of the Code of Civil Procedure.

The present Bill has been drafted with a view to securing these objects, in so far as they can be secured by legislation. It extends only to the four districts in which the agricultural distress has been most felt.

3. An attempt has been made to secure the first object by sections 55 to 63, providing for the appointment of village-registrars before whom every written obligation for the payment of money by an agriculturist must be registered; by sections 64 to 67, requiring money-lenders to give receipts to agriculturists for all payments made by them, to render accounts, and to furnish a pass-book in which the agriculturist's account will be periodically written up; and by section 71, which invalidates all mortgages created by an agriculturist otherwise than by a written instrument.

4. With a view to the second of the proposed objects, the Bill provides in sections 40 to 50 for the establishment of a system of conciliation under which it is hoped a large number of disputes will be settled out of court; and in sections 36 to 39 for the appointment of village-munsifs, like those in the Madras Presidency, to dispose of petty cases. A further addition to the machinery for the disposal of suits will be made by an increase of the number of Subordinate Judges; but, as this is a matter which it is competent to the Local Government to deal with under the existing law, no reference to it will be found in the Bill.

5. As regards procedure, it is proposed, with a view to a more rapid despatch of business and to diminishing the cost of litigation, to simplify the record in certain respects (sections 10 and 11); to discourage the employment of pleaders in petty suits (section 69); and to substitute for the present system of appeals a very strict and searching supervision (sections 51 to 54).

6. Sections 12 to 16 provide in certain cases for a thorough investigation into the history of the transaction between the parties (the third of the four objects mentioned above). They prescribe the system in which the raiyat's account is to be made up in cases where the Court finds it necessary to set aside oppressive or inequitable arrangements between the parties, and they guard especially against exorbitant demands for interest.

7. The presence of the defendant being essential for the thorough investigation proposed, and the raiyats being, through various difficulties, apt to leave their suits undefended, it has been provided (in section 9) that, except for special reasons, no suit shall be decided ex parte, but that the Court shall compel the defendant to appear.

8. The last of the four objects proposed will be found provided for by sections 25 and 33, which enact that land shall not be sold to pay the debt of the owner except where it has been specifically pledged, but admit of its profits being made available to the creditor for a term of years, and by the sections relating to insolvency.

9. The chief points in which the provisions of the insolvency-chapter differ from those of the Code are that they allow an agriculturist to apply to be adjudicated an insolvent, though no process in execution has been issued against him; that they entitle him to an adjudication in all cases in which, as a matter of fact, he may be insolvent, leaving any misconduct on his part to be punished under the Code of Civil Procedure; and that they similarly entitle him in all cases to a complete discharge from debts which, after all reasonable enforcement, he is unable fully to pay.

10. This insolvency procedure is further supplemented by section 20, which gives the Court a summary power in petty cases to discharge a judgment-debtor who is clearly insolvent, and by section 22, which abolishes imprisonment for debt.

11. The only other provisions of the Bill which appear to call for special notice are section 70, which empowers the Court to direct the Government pleader to appear on behalf of a raiyat when he is unable to engage the services of a professional advocate and the opposite side is represented by a pleader, and section 72, which extends the period of limitation in suits for debt instituted against agriculturists. This latter provision has been introduced into the Bill, as there appears to be a pretty general consensus of opinion to the effect that the difficulties of the raiyat are much aggravated by the present law of limitation, which compels the money-lender at very short intervals to sue him or take a fresh bond, either of which steps commonly entails a considerable addition to the debt.

WHEREAS it is expedient to relieve the agricultural classes in certain parts of the Dekkhan from indebtedness; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be cited as "The Dekkhan Agriculturists Relief Act, 1879":

It extends only to the districts of Puna, Sátára, Sholápur and Ahmadnagar, and it shall come into force on the first day of October, 1879.

Local extent and commencement.

2. In this Act, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

Interpretation-clause.

(1) "agriculturist" means a person who earns his livelihood wholly or principally by agriculture:

"agriculturist":

(2) "money" includes grain and any other agricultural produce:

"money":

(3) "special judge" means the officer appointed under section fifty-one.

"special judge."

CHAPTER II.

OF THE HEARING OF CERTAIN SUITS BY SUBORDINATE JUDGES.

Application of this chapter.

3. The provisions of this chapter shall apply to—

(a) suits for an account instituted on or after the first day of October, 1879, by an agriculturist in the Court of a Subordinate Judge under the provisions hereinafter contained, and

(b) suits of the descriptions next hereinafter mentioned and instituted on or after the same date—

(1) when such suits are heard by Subordinate Judges of the first class and the subject-matter thereof does not exceed in amount or value five hundred rupees, or

(2) when such suits are heard by Subordinate Judges of the second class and the subject-matter thereof does not exceed in amount or value one hundred rupees, or

(3) when such suits are heard by Subordinate Judges of the second class and the subject-matter thereof exceeds one hundred rupees, but does not exceed five hundred rupees in amount or value, and the parties agree that such provisions shall apply.

The descriptions of suits referred to in clause (b) are the following (namely):—

suits of the nature cognizable by Courts of Small Causes, and suits between mortgagors, being agriculturists, and mortgagees for the foreclosure or redemption of the mortgage, for the enforcement of the mortgage lien or for the possession of the property mortgaged.

Certain suits to be instituted in Courts of first class Subordinate Judges.

4. Where a Subordinate Judge of the first class and a Subordinate Judge of the second class have jurisdiction in the same local area, every suit referred to in section 3, clause (b), to be instituted in such local area shall, if the amount or value of the subject-matter of such suit exceeds one hundred rupees and does not exceed five hundred rupees, be instituted in the Court of the Subordinate Judge of the first class.

Subordinate Judges not to act as Judges of Small Cause Courts.

5. Notwithstanding anything contained in the Bombay Civil Courts Act, 1869, section 28, no Subordinate Judge shall, while this Act continues in force, be invested with the jurisdiction of a Judge of a Court of Small Causes; and any such jurisdiction heretofore conferred on any Subordinate Judge shall be deemed, except as regards suits instituted before the said first day of October, 1879, to have been withdrawn.

Jurisdiction of Subordinate Judge and Small Cause Court.

6. The Local Government may from time to time by notification in the local Gazette direct that any class of suits which a Subordinate Judge would be precluded from hearing by section twelve of Act XI of 1865 (to consolidate and amend the law relating to Courts of Small Causes beyond the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature) shall be heard and determined by him and not otherwise, and may by a like notification cancel any such direction.

Summons to be for final disposal of suit.

7. In every case in which it seems to the Court possible to dispose of a suit at the first hearing, the summons shall be for the final disposal of the suit.

Service of summons.

8. If the officer employed to serve a summons on a defendant cannot find such defendant and there is no agent empowered to accept the service of the summons in his behalf, nor any person on whom the service can be made, the serving-officer may, instead of proceeding in manner prescribed by section 80 of the Code of Civil Procedure, leave such summons for service with the Patel of the defendant's village.

A Patel with whom a summons is left under this section shall, if he within one week from the date on which the summons is so left finds the defendant in the village, serve such summons on the defendant in manner prescribed by section 79 of the said Code, endorse the same or cause the same to be endorsed in manner prescribed by section 81 of the said Code, sign such endorsement and return the summons by post or otherwise to the Court.

An endorsement made on a summons under this section shall be primâ facie proof of the facts stated therein, and the Court shall take judicial notice of the signature thereto.

No suit to be heard ex parte.

9. No suit shall be heard ex parte, unless the Court, for reasons to be recorded in writing, thinks that it ought to be so heard.

In any suit which the Code of Civil Procedure directs to be heard ex parte, but which the Court does not think ought to be so heard, the Court shall adjourn the hearing and take steps to secure the attendance of the defendant by the issue of a fresh summons or of a warrant of arrest.

Written statements.

10. In suits of the nature cognizable by Courts of Small Causes no party shall be entitled to file a written statement without the permission of the Court.

Record of evidence.

11. When the subject-matter of any suit does not exceed ten rupees in amount or value, it shall not be necessary to take down the evidence or make a memorandum thereof in manner provided by the Code of Civil Procedure; but in cases where the evidence is not so taken down and no memorandum is so made, the substance of the evidence shall be stated in the judgment.

CHAPTER III.

OF SUITS AND OTHER PROCEEDINGS TO WHICH AGRICULTURISTS ARE PARTIES.

History of transactions with agriculturist debtors to be investigated.

12. When any suit is brought for the recovery of money alleged to be due on account of money lent or advanced to, or paid for, the defendant, or as the price of goods sold or on an account stated, or on a written or unwritten engagement for the payment of money, or for the foreclosure of a mortgage, or for the possession of mortgaged property, and the defendant or any one of the defendants, not being merely a surety of the actual debtor, is an agriculturist, and when any suit is brought for the redemption of a mortgage and the plaintiff or any one of the plaintiffs is an agriculturist,

the Court shall, if the amount of the creditor's claim is disputed, enquire into the history and merits of the case, from the commencement of the transactions between the parties out of which the suit has arisen, first, with a view of ascertaining whether there is any defence to the suit on the ground of fraud, mistake, accident, undue influence or otherwise; and secondly, with a view (if necessary) to taking an account between the parties in manner hereinafter provided.

When the amount of the claim is admitted, and the Court sees no reason to doubt the truth of such admission, the Court shall not be bound so to enquire, but may do so if it thinks fit.

When the Court sees reason to doubt the truth of such admission, it shall be bound to enquire as aforesaid.

Nothing herein contained shall affect the right of the parties to require that any matter in difference between them be referred to arbitration.

Mode of taking account.

13. When the Court enquires into the history and merits of a case under section twelve, it shall, if it considers any agreement between the parties as to interest or the profits of mortgaged property determining in any way the manner of taking the account fair and equitable, give effect to such agreement and take the account on the footing thereof; but, if it does not consider such agreement fair and equitable, it shall, notwithstanding the same, and notwithstanding any statement or settlement of account or any contract purporting to close previous dealings and create a new obligation, determine the amount due according to the following rules (that is to say):—

(a) separate accounts of principal and interest shall be taken:

(b) in the account of principal there shall be debited to the debtor only such money as may from time to time have been actually received by him or on his account from the creditor:

(c) in the account of interest there shall be debited to the debtor monthly simple interest on the balance of principal for the time being outstanding at the rate allowed by the Court as hereinafter provided:

(d) all payments by or on account of the debtor, and all profits or advantages of every description received by the creditor in the course of the transactions, shall be credited, first, on account of interest; and when any payment is more than sufficient to discharge the balance of interest due at the time it is made, the residue of such payment shall be credited to the debtor in the account of principal:

(e) the accounts of principal and interest shall be made up to the date of suit, and the aggregate of the balances (if any) of both such accounts against the debtor on that date shall be deemed to be the amount due, except when the balance of the interest account exceeds that of the principal account, in which case double the latter balance shall be deemed to be the amount due.

Interest to be allowed.

14. The interest to be awarded in taking an account according to the rules set forth in section thirteen shall be—

(a) the rate, if any, agreed upon between the parties, unless such rate is deemed by the Court to be unreasonable; or

(b) if such rate is deemed by the Court unreasonable, or if no rate was agreed upon, such rate as the Court deems reasonable:

Provided that, in any case in which the parties have agreed that the profits of mortgaged property shall be taken by the mortgagee in lieu of interest and such agreement has been set aside under section thirteen, the rate of interest to be allowed shall be nine per cent. per annum.

Reference to arbitration in certain cases.

15. Instead of enquiring into the history and merits of a case under section twelve, or if upon so enquiring the Court is unable to satisfy itself as to the amount which should be allowed on account of principal or interest or both, the Court may, of its own motion, direct that the question be referred to arbitration.

If the parties are willing to nominate arbitrators, the arbitrators shall be nominated by them in such manner as may be agreed upon between them: if the parties are unwilling to nominate arbitrators or cannot agree in respect of such nomination, the Court shall appoint any three persons it thinks fit:

Provided that if both parties reside in the same village, town or city, and, in the opinion of the Court, three fit persons can be found among the residents of such village, town or city, it shall appoint residents of such village, town or city.

The provisions of sections 508 to 522 (both inclusive) of the Code of Civil Procedure shall apply to every reference to arbitration under this section.

In the case of ancestral debts interest to be disallowed or limited.

16. If the debt, or any portion thereof, was not contracted by the person from whom the creditor seeks to obtain recovery, but by such person's father or other ancestor, the said person shall be called upon to state whether he is willing to accept the full responsibility for such debt or for such portion thereof;

and, if he accepts such responsibility, shall be held liable for the full amount payable on account of such debt, or of such portion thereof subject to the other provisions of this Act, or of any law for the time being in force relating to ancestral debts;

but if he declines to accept such responsibility, he shall not be held liable for more than the principal amount of such debt, or of such portion thereof, with interest up to the date of the death of the person who incurred such debt, or of such portion thereof, if such person was related to him in the first degree, and otherwise only for the principal amount of such debt or of such portion thereof.

Agriculturist debtors may sue for accounts.

17. Any agriculturist may sue for an account of monies lent or advanced to or paid for him by a creditor or due by him to such creditor as the price of goods sold or on a written or unwritten engagement for the payment of money and of monies paid by him to such creditor, and for a decree declaring the amount, if any, still payable by him to such creditor.

Amount of debts in such cases to be determined according to foregoing provisions.

When any such suit is brought, the amount payable by the plaintiff shall be determined under the same rules as would be applicable if the creditor had himself sued for recovery of the debt.

Decree may provide for payment by instalments.

18. A decree passed under section seventeen may, besides declaring the amount due, direct that such amount shall be paid by instalments, with or without interest; and, when any such decree so directs, the plaintiff may pay

Execution of decrees under this section.

the amount of such decree, or the amount of each instalment fixed by such decree, as it falls due, into court, in default whereof execution of the decree may be enforced by the defendant in the same manner as if he had obtained the decree in a suit to recover the debt.

Payment into court in cases under section 17.

19. The plaintiff in any suit instituted under section seventeen may at any stage of such suit deposit in court such sum of money as he considers a satisfaction in full of the defendant's claim against him.

Notice of the deposit shall be given by the Court to the defendant, and the amount of the deposit shall (unless the Court otherwise directs) be paid to the defendant on his application.

No interest shall be allowed to the defendant on any sum so deposited from the date of the receipt of such notice, whether the sum deposited be in full of the claim or fall short thereof.

Power to discharge judgment-debtor.

20. When a decree has been passed, whether before or after this Act comes into force, under which any sum less than fifty rupees is recoverable from an agriculturist, the Court may, whether in the course of execution of the said decree or otherwise, if it is satisfied that there is no other claim against him and that he is unable to pay the whole of such sum, direct the payment of a portion of the same, and grant him a discharge from such balance.

When the sum payable under the decree amounts to fifty rupees or upwards, or when there are other claims against the debtor, the Court may direct proceedings to be taken with respect to him as nearly as may be as if he had applied to be declared an insolvent under the provisions hereinafter contained.

Power to direct institution of insolvency proceedings.

Power to fix instalments in execution.

21. The Court may at any time direct that the amount of any decree against an agriculturist or the portion of the same which it directs under section twenty to be paid, shall be paid by instalments with or without interest.

Arrest and imprisonment for debt abolished.

22. Except as provided in the Code of Civil Procedure, section 359, no agriculturist shall be arrested or imprisoned on account of debt.

Land exempted from attachment and sale unless specifically pledged.

23. No agriculturist's land shall be attached or sold in execution of any decree or order unless it has been specifically pledged as security for the repayment of the debt to which such decree or order relates, and the mortgage lien still subsists.

But the Court may, when passing a decree or at any subsequent time, direct the Collector to take possession, for any period not exceeding seven years, of any land of an agriculturist judgment-debtor to the possession of which such judgment-debtor is entitled, and which, in the opinion of the Collector, is not required for the support of such judgment-debtor and the members of his family dependent on him, and deal with the same for the benefit of the decree-holder in manner provided by section thirty-one.

Ancestral debt.

24. If, upon application being made for the execution of a decree for the payment of money against an agriculturist, it appears that the person against whom execution is sought is not the person made liable by the decree for the amount thereof, but the heir of such person, the amount recoverable under the decree shall be limited in accordance with the provisions of section sixteen.

CHAPTER IV.

OF INSOLVENCY.

Subordinate Judges to have jurisdiction in agriculturists' cases.

25. Every Subordinate Judge shall have the powers conferred by sections 344 to 359 (both inclusive) of the Code of Civil Procedure, as modified by the provisions next hereinafter contained, for the purpose of dealing with applications under the Code of Civil Procedure or under this Act to have agriculturists residing within the local limits of his jurisdiction declared insolvent and proceedings taken under orders passed by him under the second clause of section twenty, and no such application or proceeding shall be dealt with by any other Court.

Agriculturist may apply for adjudication in cases not provided for by Code.

26. Any agriculturist who is in debt to the amount of fifty rupees or upwards and who resides within the said districts may apply to any Subordinate Judge within the local limits of whose jurisdiction he resides to be declared an insolvent, though he has not been arrested or imprisoned, and though no order of attachment has issued against his property in execution of decree.

Modification of section 351 of the Code.

27. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 351 of the Code of Civil Procedure, the Court shall declare an agriculturist an insolvent if it is satisfied that he is in insolvent circumstances, and that the application to have him declared an insolvent has been properly made under section 344 of the said Code or section twenty-six of this Act.

Receiver.

28. No person other than the Názir of the Court shall be appointed as receiver, and no receiver shall be entitled to commission.

Proof of debts.

29. In determining under section 352 of the said Code the amount of any claim of the nature referred to in section twelve of this Act due by an insolvent agriculturist, the Court shall proceed in the manner prescribed by sections twelve to sixteen of this Act, both inclusive.

Power to make over moveable property to creditor at valuation.

30. Whenever any moveable property of an insolvent is liable to be sold by a receiver under section 356 of the said Code, the Court may direct that it shall not be so sold, and may, after recording the opinions of two Assessors appointed by the Court in this behalf, determine the value of such property and direct the receiver to transfer it to any of the scheduled creditors who may be entitled to receive in the distribution under the said section 356 an amount equal to or greater than the value so determined; and such creditor shall accept such property in full or partial liquidation (as the case may be) of the amount to which he is so entitled.

Immoveable property not to vest in receiver,

but may be managed for benefit of creditors.

31. No immoveable property of the insolvent shall vest in the receiver; but the Court may direct the Collector to take into his possession, for any period not exceeding seven years from the date on which the receiver has been appointed, any such property to the possession of which the insolvent is entitled, and which, in the opinion of the Collector, is not required for the support of the insolvent and the members of his family dependent on him, and, subject to any rules the Local Government may from time to time make in this behalf, to manage the same for the benefit of the creditors, by letting it on lease or otherwise:

Provided that if the insolvent or his heir at any time pays into court the balance of the scheduled debts then unpaid, he shall, subject to any rights created in favour of other persons by the Collector, be entitled to recover possession of such property.

Secured debts.

32. When any scheduled debt is secured by a mortgage of any portion of the insolvent's immoveable property, the Court may direct the Collector, if he can obtain a premium equal to the amount of such debt by letting such property rent-free for a term not exceeding twenty years, to let such property, and, if he cannot so obtain such premium, to sell such property by public auction or otherwise as he thinks fit.

Where property is let under this section, the premium shall be applied to the payment of the debt.

When property is sold under this section, the sale-proceeds shall be applied, first, to the payment of the debt; and the balance, if any, shall be paid to the receiver.

Insolvent incompetent to sell, &c., property dealt with under sections 31 and 32.

33. So long as any management under section thirty-one or letting under section thirty-two continues, the insolvent and his representative in interest shall be incompetent to mortgage, charge, lease or alienate the property or any part thereof.

Scheduled debts discharged.

34. When the balance available for distribution among the scheduled creditors under section 356 of the said Code has been distributed, the claims of such creditors shall be deemed to have been discharged, except as regards the right to share in the profits of any property managed by the Collector under section thirty-one.

Limitation to powers of Subordinate Judges under section 359 of the Code.

35. No Subordinate Judge exercising the powers conferred by section twenty-five, if he is a Subordinate Judge of the first class, shall sentence any person under section 359 of the said Code to imprisonment for a term longer than three months, or if he is a Subordinate Judge of the second class, shall so sentence any person for a term longer than one month.

CHAPTER V.

OF VILLAGE-MUNSIFS.

Appointment of Village-Munsifs.

36. The Local Government may from time to time appoint any Patel of a village to be a Village-Munsif for such village or for such village and for any other villages the sites of which are situate not more than two miles from the site of such village, and may cancel any such appointment.

Suits triable by them.

37. Every Village-Munsif so appointed shall take cognizance of suits for money lent, or advanced to, or paid for, the defendant, or due as the price of goods sold or on an account stated, or on a written or unwritten engagement for the payment of money when the amount or value of the claim does not exceed ten rupees, and all the defendants at the time of the commencement of the suit actually and voluntarily reside or carry on business or personally work for gain within the local area for which such Village-Munsif is appointed.

Jurisdiction of other Courts excluded.

A suit cognizable by a Village-Munsif shall not be heard by any other Court:

Proviso.

Provided that the Special Judge may from time to time transfer any suit instituted before a Village-Munsif to any other Civil Court in the district for trial:

Provided also that no Village-Munsif shall try any suit in which he is a party or is personally interested, or shall adjudicate upon any proceeding connected with or arising out of such suit.

Special Judge's power of revision.

38. The Special Judge may on a petition being presented within thirty days from the date of any decree or order of a Village-Munsif by any party aggrieved by such decree or order, set aside such decree or order on the ground of corruption, gross partiality or misconduct of the Village-Munsif.

Except as herein provided and as provided in section 622 of the Code of Civil Procedure, every decree and order of a Village-Munsif shall be final.

Power of Local Government to make rules.

39. The Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the local Gazette, make rules for regulating the procedure of Village-Munsifs and for conferring on them any of the powers for the trial of suits or the execution of decrees exercised by a Civil Court under the Code of Civil Procedure or any other enactment for the time being in force.

CHAPTER VI.

OF CONCILIATION.

Appointment of Conciliators.

40. The Local Government may from time to time appoint any person to be a Conciliator and cancel any such appointment.

Every Conciliator so appointed shall exercise his functions under this Act in respect of matters affecting agriculturists residing within such local limits as the Local Government may from time to time determine.

Matters which may be brought before Conciliator.

41. When any dispute arises as to, or there is a prospect of litigation regarding, any matter within the cognizance of a Civil Court between two or more parties, one of whom is an agriculturist residing within any local limits for which a Conciliator has been appointed, any of such parties may apply to such Conciliator to effect an amicable settlement between them.

Procedure thereupon.

42. If the application be made by one of the parties only, the Conciliator shall take down, or cause to be taken down, in writing a general statement of the applicant's case, and shall thereupon, by summons or by such other means as he deems fit, invite the person against whom such application is made to attend before him upon a day to be fixed for this purpose, and shall direct the applicant also to be present on such day.

Day for attendance may from time to time be postponed.

If the said person fails to appear on the day first fixed, the Conciliator may, if he thinks fit, from time to time extend the period for his appearance.

When all parties appear, Conciliator to endeavour to reconcile them.

43. Whenever all the parties are present, the Conciliator shall call upon each in turn to explain his case regarding the matter in question, and shall use his best endeavours to induce them to agree to an amicable settlement or to submit such matter to arbitration.

Conciliator to hear statements of witnesses, &c.

44. The Conciliator shall hear the statement of any witness and peruse any book of account or other document produced by the parties, and if any party or witness consents in writing to affirm any statement upon oath or solemn affirmation in any form not repugnant to justice or decency and not purporting to affect any third person, shall arrange for such oath or solemn affirmation being duly taken in the presence of all the parties.

Any agreement arrived at to be reduced to writing.

45. If on the day on which the case is first heard by the Conciliator or on any subsequent day to which he may adjourn the hearing, the parties come to any agreement, either finally disposing of the matter or for referring it to arbitration, such agreement shall be forthwith reduced to writing, and shall be read and explained to the parties, and shall be signed or otherwise attested by the Conciliator and the parties or their representatives respectively.

Procedure when agreement finally disposes of case.

46. When the agreement is one finally disposing of the matter, the Conciliator shall forward the same in original to the Court of the Subordinate Judge of lowest grade having jurisdiction in the place where the agriculturist who is a party thereto resides.

The Court which receives the agreement shall order it to be filed; and it shall then take effect as if it were a decree of the said Court passed on the day on which it is ordered to be filed and from which no appeal lies.

Procedure where agreement is for reference to arbitration.

47. When the agreement is one for referring the matter to arbitration, the Conciliator shall forward it to the Court having jurisdiction in the matter, and such Court shall cause it to be filed and proceed thereon in manner provided by sections 523 and 524 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Certificate to be given to applicant if conciliation fails.

48. If the person against whom any application is made before a Conciliator cannot be found, or if he refuses or neglects, after such period as the Conciliator thinks reasonable has been allowed for his appearance, to appear before the Conciliator, or if he appears but the attempt to reconcile the parties or to induce them to resort to arbitration fails, the Conciliator shall, on demand, give to the applicant, or when there are several applicants to each applicant, a certificate under his signature to that effect.

Suit, &c., not to be entertained by Civil Court unless such certificate is produced.

49. No suit and no application for execution of a decree passed before the date on which this Act comes into force to which any agriculturist residing within any local limits for which a Conciliator has been appointed is a party shall be entertained by any Civil Court, unless the plaintiff or decree-holder produces a certificate as aforesaid.

Local Government to frame rules.

50. The Local Government may from time to time make rules—

(a) regulating the proceedings of Conciliators in matters not provided for by this Act;

(b) fixing the charges to be made by Conciliators for anything done by them under this Act; and

(c) determining what record and accounts shall be kept by Conciliators and what returns shall be framed and furnished by them.

CHAPTER VII.

The officer so appointed shall not, without the previous sanction of the Government of India, discharge any public function except those which he is required by this Act to discharge.

If any conflict of authority arises between the Special Judge and the District Judge in regard to any matter, the High Court shall pass such order thereon consistent with this Act as it thinks fit.

(b) stay the proceedings in any such suit or matter, and sit together with such Judge as a Bench to dispose of such suit or matter in accordance with the provisions of this chapter.

or sit with Subordinate Judge as a Bench for trial of any case.

If the members of any Bench sitting under this section differ in opinion, the opinion of the Special Judge shall prevail.

53. The Local Government may appoint any Assistant or Subordinate Judge to inspect and supervise, subject to the control of the Special Judge, the proceedings of all Subordinate Judges, Village-Munsifs and Conciliators under this Act in one or more districts.

Appointment of Assistant or Subordinate Judge to aid Special Judge.

Any Assistant or Subordinate Judge so appointed may in the districts for which he is so appointed, if the Special Judge so directs, exercise the powers of the Special Judge under section fifty-two of this Act, and transfer any suit under section 25 of the Code of Civil Procedure.

54. The Special Judge may call for and examine the record of any suit or other matter tried by a Subordinate Judge for the purpose of satisfying himself of the legality or propriety of any decree or order passed, and as to the regularity of the proceedings, and may pass such order thereon as he thinks fit; and any Assistant Judge or Subordinate Judge appointed by the Local Government under section fifty-three may similarly in the districts for which he is appointed call for and examine the record of any such case, and, if he see cause therefor, may refer the same, with his remarks, for the orders of the Special Judge:

77. All rules made by the Local Government under this Act shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon, in so far as they are consistent with this Act, have the force of law.

Rules to be published.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. THE inquiries made into the causes of the riots which occurred in the Dekkhan districts in 1875 and the discussions which have since taken place show that the difficulties under which the agriculturists in those districts labour are due, in a great measure, to the unsatisfactory nature of the relations at present subsisting between them and the money-lending classes.

2. In order to put those relations on a better footing, it is deemed necessary—first, to provide some safeguards against the money-lenders committing frauds in their accounts and obtaining from ignorant peasants bonds for larger amounts than are actually paid to or due from them;

secondly, to arrange disputes by conciliation as far as possible; to increase the number of Courts, and to simplify and cheapen the administration of justice, and thus to afford facilities to the agriculturist to defend any suit that may be brought against him;

thirdly, to insist that in suits against agriculturists the Court shall in certain cases of its own motion investigate the entire history of the transactions between the parties, and do substantial justice between them;

fourthly, to restrict the sale of the raiyat's land in execution of decree, and to provide an insolvency-procedure more liberal to the debtor than that of the Code of Civil Procedure.

The present Bill has been drafted with a view to securing these objects, in so far as they can be secured by legislation. It extends only to the four districts in which the agricultural distress has been most felt.

3. An attempt has been made to secure the first object by sections 55 to 63, providing for the appointment of village-registrars before whom every written obligation for the payment of money by an agriculturist must be registered; by sections 64 to 67, requiring money-lenders to give receipts to agriculturists for all payments made by them, to render accounts, and to furnish a pass-book in which the agriculturist's account will be periodically written up; and by section 71, which invalidates all mortgages created by an agriculturist otherwise than by a written instrument.

4. With a view to the second of the proposed objects, the Bill provides in sections 40 to 50 for the establishment of a system of conciliation under which it is hoped a large number of disputes will be settled out of court; and in sections 36 to 39 for the appointment of village-munsifs, like those in the Madras Presidency, to dispose of petty cases. A further addition to the machinery for the disposal of suits will be made by an increase of the number of Subordinate Judges; but, as this is a matter which it is competent to the Local Government to deal with under the existing law, no reference to it will be found in the Bill.

5. As regards procedure, it is proposed, with a view to more rapid despatch of business and to diminishing the cost of litigation, to simplify the record in certain respects (sections 10 and 11); to discourage the employment of pleaders in petty suits (section 69); and to substitute for the present system of appeals a very strict and searching supervision (sections 51 to 54).

6. Sections 12 to 16 provide in certain cases for a thorough investigation into the history of the transaction between the parties (the third of the four objects mentioned above). They prescribe the system in which the raiyat's account is to be made up in cases where the Court finds it necessary to set aside oppressive or inequitable arrangements between the parties, and they guard especially against exorbitant demands for interest.

7. The presence of the defendant being essential for the thorough investigation proposed, and the raiyats being, through various difficulties, apt to leave their suits undefended, it has been provided (in section 9) that, except for special reasons, no suit shall be decided ex parte, but that the Court shall compel the defendant to appear.

8. The last of the four objects proposed will be found provided for by sections 25 and 33, which enact that land shall not be sold to pay the debt of the owner except where it has been specifically pledged, but admit of its profits being made available to the creditor for a term of years, and by the sections relating to insolvency.

9. The chief points in which the provisions of the insolvency-chapter differ from those of the Code are that they allow an agriculturist to apply to be adjudicated an insolvent, though no process in execution has been issued against him; that they entitle him to an adjudication in all cases in which, as a matter of fact, he may be insolvent, leaving any misconduct on his part to be punished under the Code of Civil Procedure; and that they similarly entitle him in all cases to a complete discharge from debts which, after all reasonable enforcement, he is unable fully to pay.

10. This insolvency procedure is further supplemented by section 20, which gives the Court a summary power in petty cases to discharge a judgment-debtor who is clearly insolvent, and by section 22, which abolishes imprisonment for debt.

11. The only other provisions of the Bill which appear to call for special notice are section 70, which empowers the Court to direct the Government pleader to appear on behalf of a raiyat when he is unable to engage the services of a professional advocate and the opposite side is represented by a pleader, and section 72, which extends the period of limitation in suits for debt instituted against agriculturists. This latter provision has been introduced into the Bill, as there appears to be a pretty general consensus of opinion to the effect that the difficulties of the raiyat are much aggravated by the present law of limitation, which compels the money-lender at very short intervals to sue him or take a fresh bond, either of which steps commonly entails a considerable addition to the debt.

[First publication.]

The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Code of Civil Procedure, the Registration Act, 1877, and the Limitation Act, 1877, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 17th July, 1879 :—

SINCE the last report on this Bill was presented, we have received and considered the communications noted in the annexed list. They have suggested certain amendments, both of the Bill and the Code, which we now proceed to specify.

We have altered the definition of "decree" and section 588 of the Code, so as to make this definition comprise all orders rejecting plaints, directing accounts to be taken, or determining any questions mentioned or referred to in section 244 but not specified in section 588. The result will be to give two appeals from all orders as to questions relating to execution of decrees, except orders under sections 261, 294, 312, paragraph 1, and 313. We think that appeals from orders under sections 261, 294, 312, paragraph 1, and 313 should, like appeals from orders in insolvency matters, lie directly to the High Court; and we have altered section 589 accordingly.

We have modified section 3 so as to save expressly all proceedings after decree that may have been commenced and were still pending on the 1st October, 1877. This embodies the conclusion arrived at by Mr. Justice Jackson in 2 Calc. Rep. 391 and by the majority of the Judges of the Bombay High Court in I. L. R. 2 Bom. 148. We have declared that all orders heretofore passed purporting to transfer cases to Collectors under section 320 shall be deemed to have been passed in accordance with law.

We have repealed and re-enacted Act XVIII of 1878 (to amend the Code of Civil Procedure, section 4).

We have inserted some words in section 5 to make it clear that Courts on which Small Cause jurisdiction has been conferred are to exercise that jurisdiction according to the procedure provided for Small Cause Courts.

We have amended the section (13) as to res judicata so as to make it clear that the Courts may not try any suit in which the matter directly and substantially in issue, having been directly and substantially in issue in a former suit, was heard and finally decided therein; but that a decision on a matter collaterally in question or incidentally cognizable is not binding on any Court other than that which pronounced it. We have struck out the explanation which we proposed to add to this section, since it would not, apparently, have suited any part of British India but the Lower Provinces. There the local legislature will be able, if it thinks fit, to declare that a Court trying a suit under a rent-law shall not be deemed by any Court trying a suit under any other law, as regards the title to the immoveable property in respect of which the suit is brought, a Court of competent jurisdiction within the meaning of this section.

We have added to section 43 a paragraph declaring that, for the purpose of this section, an obligation and a collateral security for its performance shall be deemed to constitute but one cause of action.

Where a summons has been issued to a defendant and returned unserved and the plaintiff fails for a year to apply for a fresh summons and to satisfy the Court that he has used his best endeavours to find the defendant, we have empowered (section 99A) the Court to dismiss the suit as against such defendant.

We have made it clear that the expression "mesne profits" as used in section 211 includes interest on such profits.

We have declared (section 215A) that in suits for an account between principals and agents, and in all suits not otherwise provided for where an account is necessary, the Court shall pass a preliminary order directing such accounts to be taken as it thinks fit.

We have amended section 223, clause (c), so as to enable a Munsif passing a decree directing a sale of immoveable property situate within the district, but outside the local limits of his jurisdiction, to send the decree for execution to another Court.

Section 232 of the Code provides that when any decree against several persons has been transferred to one of them, it shall not be executed against the others. But if A obtains a decree for land against B and C, and B purchases the decree from A, there is ordinarily no reason why B should not execute the decree against C, if C happens to be in possession of the land. We have therefore limited this provision to decrees for money.

We think that no agreement to give time for the satisfaction of a judgment-debt should be valid unless the Court which passed the decree sanctions the agreement and deems the consideration reasonable. We also think that agreements for the satisfaction of judgment-debts should not without the like sanction provide for any payment in excess of the sum due, or to accrue due, under the decree. We have introduced a section (257A) to give effect to these views. We have also amended section 258 so as to make it comprise payments under such agreements.

We have declared (section 271), in accordance with the law of England, that no officer taking moveable property in execution shall break open any outer door of a dwelling-house. We have also ruled that such persons shall not for that purpose enter any dwelling-house after sunset and before sunrise.

We have provided in section 289 that in the case of revenue-paying land a copy of the proclamation of sale shall be fixed up in the Collector's office.

We think that attachment of salary should be made by an order requiring the disbursing officer to withhold every month such portion as the Court may direct, until the further order of the Court. The Court will then continue to distribute the salary, under section 295, pro ratâ among the executing decree-holders, and not withdraw the attachment until the whole of their decrees are fully paid off.

We have provided in section 295 for cases in which immoveable property is sold for the discharge of an incumbrance thereon.

We think that the certificate given to the purchaser at an execution-sale of immoveable property should state the property sold, and we have amended section 316 accordingly. This will enable the Courts to make a difference between the certificate granted in ordinary cases where only the right, title and interest of the judgment-debtor at the date of attachment passes and the certificate granted in mortgage cases where the purchaser takes his interest at the date of the creation of the security. We have also altered section 316 so as to make it clear that the title to property sold vests from the date of the certificate only when the decree under which the sale took place was still subsisting at that date. This will preclude the doubt which has, we understand, arisen in Bombay, where a certificate was granted to an auction-purchaser in ignorance of the fact that the decree under which the sale took place had been previously reversed on appeal.

We have redrawn sections 321 to 325 (both inclusive), and as the changes here made are of considerable importance, we deem it right to state our reasons at length. In order to prevent judicial sales at inadequate prices of judgment-debtors' lands, and to carry out the intention of the law to arrest unnecessary sales, the Code of 1877, in addition to the powers given to the Court by Act VIII of 1859, provides that Local Governments may direct that the execution of decrees ordering the sale of immoveable property, or of decrees in execution of which a sale of such property had been ordered, shall be transferred to the Collector.

Whenever the execution of a decree has been so transferred, the Collector is empowered not only to sell in such lots as he thinks fit but to fix reserved prices on each lot, to adjourn the sale (if such adjournment is necessary to obtain a proper price), and to buy in and resell.

These powers, it will be observed, the Collector may exercise in the case of all decrees for the sale of land of which execution has been transferred to him.

As to a particular class of decrees, for money, in execution of which a sale of immoveable property has been ordered, as distinguished from decrees specifically ordering a sale of immoveable property, larger powers are conferred on the Collector. He is empowered to give time to the judgment-debtor to raise the amount of the decree, or if it appears to him that the judgment-debts of the judgment-debtor can be satisfied without the sale of the whole of the property of which a sale has been ordered, he may call on all persons holding decrees against the judgment-debtor to notify the same to the Collector, and proceed to raise the amount necessary to discharge such debts by leasing in perpetuity or for a term on payment of a premium equivalent to such amount the whole or any part of the judgment-debtor's immoveable property, by mortgaging the whole or any part of such property, by selling any part of such property, by letting on farm, or himself managing the whole or any part of such property for a term not exceeding twenty years from the date of the original order for sale, or partly by one of such modes, and partly by another or others of them.

Doubts have arisen as to the meaning of these provisions. It has been contended that the words "if he has reason to believe that the judgment-debts can be discharged without a sale of the whole of such property," referring, as they do, to the property ordered for sale, indicate, notwithstanding the use of the words "the whole of the judgment-debtor's immoveable property" in a subsequent paragraph, that the action of the Collector is to be confined to the property of which a sale has been ordered. It has also been questioned whether the judgment-debts for which the Collector is authorized to provide are only debts due on decrees for money, or include also mortgage-debts for the satisfaction of which decrees have specifically ordered sales of land.

We think the intention was to confine the action of the Collector to mere decrees for money but to give him authority to deal with the whole of the judgment-debtor's immoveable property, of course without derogation to any mortgage or other incumbrances affecting it.

In the first place, had it been the intention to empower the Collector to deal with mortgage-debts, the introductory words of section 322 would not have indicated so distinctly that the powers conferred by the section were to take effect only when the execution of a mere money-decree had been transferred. No reason can be suggested why the same powers should not be given to the Collector on the transference to him for execution of a decree ordering a sale of immoveable property in pursuance of a contract specifically affecting the same, if it had been intended that he should interfere otherwise than in the conduct of the sales with the execution of such decrees.

On the other hand, there are, as it appears to us, very strong reasons for refusing to the Collector power to interfere with rights created by special contract. Where money is lent on the express condition that its repayment shall be secured on a particular date failing which the lender may have recourse to a particular fund, it is manifestly inequitable to interfere with the contract, especially when this interference is occasioned by acts to which the lender is not a party—the incurring by the borrower of a simple money-debt which he fails to discharge.

Of course, the greater number of mortgage-loans are made by professional money-lenders, and to them it may matter little if they get their money back at any time with the interest stipulated; but there are also in all parts of India lenders of money on mortgage who are not by profession money-lenders, and to these persons it may be of much importance to recover their investments at the date agreed on; and even in the case of professional money-lenders, seeing that the Courts as a rule award no more than six per cent. interest after decree, whatever be the interest stipulated in the contract, hardship will be worked if the realization of their securities be postponed as it might be (if section 332 applied to such debts) for a period of twenty years.

In the second place, that it was the intention of the legislature to permit the Collector, in order to prevent the unnecessary sale of land of which a sale had been ordered, to deal with the whole of the judgment-debtor's immoveable property is, we think, apparent not only from the express terms of the second paragraph of section 322, but from this consideration, that if the Court has done its duty it will have ordered the sale only of such property as will be sufficient to satisfy the single decree, and that by a sale. Such property would clearly not suffice to meet all the judgment-debts of the judgment-debtor and the provisions for raising the amount otherwise than by sale would be ineffectual.

Having determined to amend the language of the Code so as to remove the ambiguities above noticed, the question arises, what is the best method to secure the ends at which the law aims—the realization of judgment-debts and the preservation to the debtor of so much of his immoveable property as can be saved from sale without injustice to his creditors.

Four courses have been suggested for our adoption :—

(1) to confine the action of the Collector to such decrees for money on execution of which a sale of land has been ordered and to the land only of which a sale has been ordered;

(2) to confine it to the last-mentioned decrees, but to extend it to the whole immoveable property of the judgment-debtor;

(3) to extend it to all decrees, whether money-decrees or decrees specifically ordering sales of land for the satisfaction of incumbrances and to the whole of the immoveable property of the judgment-debtor;

(4) to extend it to all claims, and not only to decreed claims, against the judgment-debtor, and to the whole of his property, whether moveable or immoveable.

In support of the first course, it is argued that it is inexpedient in the interests of the judgment-debtor to invite persons having decrees or other claims against him, but who are at present content to show him forbearance or to look to funds other than his immoveable property, to bring forward their claims at once and to insist on their satisfaction from the immoveable property, and that it is unreasonable to expose a judgment-debtor to the liability of being deprived of the present enjoyment of the whole of his immoveable property because a portion of it—and it may be an inconsiderable portion—has been attached and ordered to be sold.

The end of these provisions being to avert a sale, it is contended by the opponents of the first course that this will rarely be achieved if the action of the Collector is confined to the property of which a sale has been ordered; for, if the Court has fairly done its duty, it will have ordered the sale of so much only as will by sale suffice to satisfy the decree; and unless owing to special circumstances the selling value of the property is, as compared with the annual profits, abnormally low, it would be idle to expect that the amount required could be raised at once or in a reasonable time by mortgage, lease or management.

The second course, the extension of the powers of the Collector to the whole of the immoveable property of the judgment-debtor, obviously increases greatly the probability that a sale of any portion of it may be avoided, and the objection that the judgment-debtor would be deprived unreasonably of the present enjoyment of his property would in practice be found unimportant; for, if the judgment-debtor has any considerable surplus of immoveable property beyond that which has been attached, he can forestall the necessity for the intervention of the Collector by raising on mortgage the sum required to discharge the decrees in execution of which the sale has been ordered; and if the surplus is not considerable, yet sufficient to afford a margin of security, there is a greater probability that the sum will be raised by the Collector than by the judgment-debtor, and on easier terms than the judgment-debtor could procure.

It is also evident that by giving the Collector power to deal with the whole immoveable property of the debtor, if compelled to have recourse to a sale, he will be able to elect what property shall be sold, and it may be to avoid the sale of property which, in the interest of the judgment-debtor, or for political reasons, it may be expedient to save from sale, by disposing of other property to the sale of which no such objections attach or attach in a less degree.

But it is objected that, in confining the action of the Collector to the single decree transferred to him for execution, injustice will be done to other holders of decrees for money. These persons are entitled, in case of sale of any portion of the immoveable property of these judgment-debtors in execution of a decree, to bring in their decrees and share in the distribution of the sale-proceeds, and they are also entitled to proceed against the immoveable property of the judgment-debtor other than that which has been already attached. If the Collector's action is confined to the original decree transferred and to the property attached in that decree, there may be as many schemes of management arranged and worked by the Collector as there are decrees of which execution is taken out; this would obviously not only impose a great deal of work on the Collector, but increase the difficulty of making such arrangements as would save the property or any part of it from sale; and if the Collector be empowered to deal with the whole immoveable property of the debtor for the satisfaction of the decree originally transferred, the rights of the other decree-holders are annulled or seriously impaired: Act X of 1877, in order to avoid this injustice, requires the Collector to give notice, so that all decree-holders desirous of executing their decrees may come in and obtain satisfaction from the proceeds of the scheme he may arrange.

It seems to us that sections 321 to 325 as now redrawn follow most closely the provisions of the existing Code, and are best calculated to effect the object contemplated with the least hardship on the judgment-debtor and the least injustice to any persons having claims on him.

If a judgment-debtor is involved in debt to such an extent that it is only a question of time when his whole property must pass out of his hands for the satisfaction of his debts, it is a mere waste of the time of the Collector to endeavour to arrange a scheme which must eventually fail in its object. We have, therefore, empowered the Collector to examine the judgment-debtor as to his circumstances: if he finds that the judgment-debtor is insolvent, and that if there are not decrees against him, there are claims which will absorb the whole of his estate, the Collector will simply execute the decree or decrees transferred to him for execution. If, on the other hand, he finds that the property, after deducting the claims of incumbrancers, is more than sufficient to answer all other claims on the judgment-debtor, he will proceed to arrange a scheme for the liquidation of all money-decrees of which execution may be taken out. To enable him to deal with the estate most advantageously, we have conferred on the Collector power to discharge incumbrances either out of the profits or by the mortgage, letting or sale of portions of the estate. The Collector will in effect, so long as the estate continues in his hands, exercise all the powers of a prudent owner. Having discharged incumbrances, if he thinks fit, and made provision for claims for maintenance, the Collector will proceed to discharge money-decrees out of surplus profits or sale of portions of the estate.

It may be objected that this scheme injuriously affects creditors who have not obtained decrees against the debtor; but they have the opportunity of obtaining decrees pending the interval before the Collector proceeds to settle a scheme; and if, instead of managing the property, the Collector had simply effected a sale, they could not without having obtained decrees have claimed to share in the proceeds of the sale. Our scheme does not prevent them from obtaining decrees which they may execute against the moveable property of the judgment-debtor and against any immoveable property remaining to the judgment-debtor after the conclusion of the period of management.

Power has been given to the Collector to delegate to the District Court the issue of notices and the subsequent inquiry; and the decisions of the Court in any dispute arising in the inquiry will be deemed as between the parties thereto a decree.

It would, in our judgment, impose far too much labour on Collectors to require them to deal with the moveable as well as immoveable property of the judgment-debtor and with all claims against him. If this were necessary, it were better that the estate should be dealt with by the Court in the exercise of its insolvent jurisdiction; and, in order to give effect to the desire of the Legislature to avoid, where possible, the sale of immoveable property for the satisfaction of debts, we have, in the Districts in which execution of decrees ordering sales of land have been transferred to the Collector, required the Court in the case of all insolvents who are holders of lands paying revenue to Government or held or let for agricultural purposes, before proceeding to dispose of such lands, to forward to the Collector of the District a report setting out the amount of unsatisfied claims against the judgment-debtor and the immoveable property possessed by him; and thereupon the Collector will proceed to raise the sum required by exercising the powers conferred on him by sections 322 to 325 as now redrawn, and will hold the sums so raised at the disposal of the Insolvent Court.

We have prohibited (section 336) the breaking open of outer doors of dwelling-houses for the purpose of making arrests, and we have made provision regarding the entry into zanánas. The discrepancy between the provisions of section 271 and section 336, which has more than once been remarked, will thus disappear.

We think that a judgment-debtor should be discharged from jail, without the order of the Court, on the amount mentioned in the warrant of committal being paid to the jailor; and we have altered section 341 accordingly.

We have extended the chapter (XX) on Insolvency to persons against whose property orders of attachment have issued in execution of money-decrees: we have empowered any holder of a money-decree to apply that the judgment-debtor be declared an insolvent: we have required the Receiver, before distributing the balance among the scheduled creditors, to discharge, according to their respective priorities, all debts secured by mortgage of the insolvent's property; we have relieved the insolvent's property from liability to attachment and sale when the debts due to the scheduled creditors are satisfied to the extent of one-third and, in case of such satisfaction, we have empowered (in accordance with the law in force in the Presidency-towns—11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, section 59) the Court to declare him absolved from further liability in respect of such debts: we have provided that sentences under section 359 shall be by order in writing; and, lastly, we have exempted from this chapter Courts having jurisdiction in Rangoon, Maulmain, Akyab and Bassein where the property of the judgment-debtor exceeds rupees 2,500 in value, or such property is wholly or partially situate outside British Burma, or the amount of the pecuniary claims against him exceeds rupees 5,000. With such cases the Recorder of Rangoon will deal under Act XVII of 1875, section 66.

Where a defendant dies and the plaintiff fails to apply within the proper period to have the legal representative of the deceased made a defendant in his stead, we have provided (section 368 of the Code) that the suit shall abate.

We have amended section 375 of the Code so as to provide for cases in which part of the claim has been compromised.

We have altered section 386 so as to enable the Court issuing a commission to direct it either to a Court not being a High Court or the Court of the Recorder of Rangoon, or to an advocate or pleader of a High Court.

It is considered by the Military Department that not only warrants of arrest, but other processes, when executed within the limits of a Cantonment, should be backed by the Commanding Officer. We have amended section 469 accordingly.

We have amended section 478 so as to make it clear that the order for bringing the defendant before the Court therein mentioned is a warrant of arrest within the meaning of section 648.

Where a defendant is imprisoned under section 481 for failure to obey an order to give security or find fresh security, we have provided that he shall not be detained after he has complied with the order.

We think that where public charities are situate in the Mufassal, the powers conferred by section 539 on the Advocate General might often be exercised as effectively and more cheaply by the Collector, and we have altered that section accordingly.

We have provided that in sections 363 and 365 the word "plaintiff" shall be held to include an appellant. At present it is only by analogy that an Appellate Court can exercise the power of substituting the name of a deceased appellant's representative on the record for that of the original appellant.

We think that in section 561 it will be enough to require that the notice of the respondent's objections should be filed not less than a week before the date fixed for hearing the appeal. The present requirement cannot be complied with when (as often happens) the appellant has no pleader, and is himself absent till a day or two before the hearing of the appeal takes place.

We are of opinion, on further consideration, that the words "some specified" should not be struck out of section 584.

We think that there should be one appeal from all orders returning plaints, and that an order in an interpleader suit adjudicating the title to the thing claimed should be treated as a decree. We have altered section 588 accordingly. We have added the following to the list of appealable orders :—

orders under section 36 or section 66, directing that a party shall appear in person :

orders under section 111, setting-off, or refusing to set-off, one debt against another :

orders under section 113, where a party fails to present a written statement within the time fixed by the Court :

orders under section 116 or section 245, rejecting, or returning for amendment, written statements or applications for execution of decrees :

orders under sections 143 and 145, directing anything to be impounded :

orders under section 162 for the attachment and sale of moveable property :

orders under section 294 (as amended by the present Bill) for setting aside a sale of immoveable property :

orders under section 366, paragraph two, section 367 or 368, in case of the death of a plaintiff or defendant :

orders under section 371, refusing to set aside the abatement or dismissal of a suit :

orders under section 454, 455 or 458, directing a next friend or guardian for the suit to pay costs :

orders for the arrest of any person.

We have extended section 622, as to the High Court's revisional jurisdiction, to cases in which the lower Court appears to have acted in the exercise of its jurisdiction illegally, or with material irregularity. The change is a serious one and must be understood as made tentatively. But the High Court of Bombay at present exercises such a jurisdiction under Bombay Regulation II of 1827, section 5, and both Sir Charles Turner and Mr. Justice Innes are of opinion that the change should be made.

We have been urged to insert in section 641 words empowering the Local Government to exempt certain Natives of rank from personally signing and verifying their plaints. But we think no good ground has been shown for such exemption.

We have extended the paragraph which we propose to add to section 649 to cases where the Court which passed the decree referred to has ceased to have jurisdiction to execute it.

We have, lastly, repealed the second paragraph of section 221, as it assumes the existence in the Mufassal of a lien unknown to the law.

In the second schedule to the Limitation Act we have made the following further amendments :—

We have altered No. 161 so as to suit the new wording of section 258 of the Code, and have extended the period from fifteen to twenty days.

We have extended No. 171 to cases where appellants have died.

For applications to set aside an execution-sale on the ground that the decree-holder purchased without the Court's permission, we have provided a period of thirty days from the date of sale.

For applications by the defendant under section 366 of the Code, we have provided a period of sixty days from the date of the plaintiff's death.

We desire, in conclusion, to acknowledge the great assistance which Sir Charles Turner has given us in revising this important Bill, especially the sections relating to the execution of decrees by Collectors.

We recommend that the Bill as now amended be passed.

We do not think that it need be republished. But we recommend that this Report be printed in the Gazette of India with the Bill when passed.

Secy. to the Govt. of India,
Legislative Department.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 24th July, 1879, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 13 of 1879.

A Bill to amend the law relating to District Cesses and Rural Police in British Burma.

WHEREAS it is expedient to make better provision for the maintenance of Rural Police, the construction of works of public utility, the promotion of education and the maintenance of a local postal service in British Burma ;

Preamble.

and whereas it is also expedient to declare and amend the law relating to Rural Police in the said Province ; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Preliminary.

1. This Act may be called "The Burma District Cesses and Rural Police Act, 1879":

Short title.

and it shall come into force on such date as the Chief Commissioner of British Burma may, by notification in the local Gazette, direct.

(b) "revenue-officer" means any person appointed a revenue-officer under the same Act.

3. In the said Burma Land and Revenue Act, 1876, sections 31 and 32, in sections 37 and 46 the words "five per cent. cess" and the word "cess" wherever it occurs are repealed ; but all cesses imposed under that Act shall be deemed to have been imposed under this Act.

Repeal.

4. On all lands assessed to land-revenue there shall be levied, in addition to the land-revenue and to other charges, an annual cess of ten per cent. on the amount of such revenue.

Cess on land.

Saving of existing house-tax.

6. The Chief Commissioner may from time to time, by notification in the local Gazette, direct that in any town, village or hamlet there shall be levied from the occupier of each house an annual cess, to be fixed in manner hereinafter provided, but which shall in no case exceed two rupees :

(b) determine the amount of cess to be levied in respect of each house ;

(c) remit such cess in whole or in part.

8. A separate account for each district shall be kept of all cesses and house-tax levied under this Act in such district ; and such cesses and tax shall be appropriated in that district, in such proportions as the Chief Commissioner may, by notification in the local Gazette, from time to time direct, to all or any of the following local objects (namely) :—

All other sums payable under this Act may be recovered in the manner prescribed in sections 44 and 45 of the Burma Land and Revenue Act, 1876.

Appointment of Rural Police.

Provided that all kyaydúngyís and yazawut goungs holding office as such in any local areas on the date on which this Act comes into force shall be deemed to be respectively headmen and goungs appointed under this Act, and such local areas shall be deemed to have been fixed as their beats and circuits respectively under this Act.

Duties of headmen.

Duties of goungs.

15. For the purpose of preventing the commission of any offence or arresting any offenders whom he is authorized to arrest, any headman or goung may require any male person between the ages of eighteen and sixty within his beat or circuit at the time to assist him in preventing the commission of such offence or in making such arrest, and in guarding and escorting the person arrested.

Power of headmen and goungs to demand help.

Every person as aforesaid shall, in the absence of reasonable excuse, the burden of proving which shall lie upon such person, be bound to comply with any requisition made to him under this section.

Obligation to render help.

16. The Chief Commissioner may from time to time, by notification in the local Gazette, make rules consistent with this Act conferring upon headmen and goungs any powers, protection or privileges which may be exercised or enjoyed by a police-officer under any enactment for the time being in force, imposing upon headmen and goungs any duties imposed on a police-officer by any enactment for the time being in force and regulating the exercise, enjoyment and discharge of such powers, protection, privileges and duties by such headmen and goungs.

Powers of police-officers may be conferred on headmen and goungs.

17. Every headman or goung who—

Penalties for breach of duty.

(b) withdraws from the duties of his office without having obtained permission from the Deputy Commissioner, or without having given to the Deputy Commissioner at least two months' notice of his intention to withdraw from such duties ; or

(c) offers any unnecessary personal violence to any person in his custody, may, in addition to any other penalty to which he may be liable, be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month, or with fine which may amount to fifty rupees, or both.

No complaint against a headman or goung of any act or omission punishable under this section shall be entertained by any Court unless the prosecution be instituted by order of or under authority from the Deputy Commissioner.

Bar of prosecution.

18. Any prosecution against any person for any thing purporting to be done under this Act shall be commenced within three months next after the act complained of has been committed.

Limitation of prosecution.

No suit shall be brought for anything so purporting to be done until the expiration of one month next after notice in writing has been delivered or left at the place of abode of such person, or at the office of the Deputy Commissioner of the district in which the act was done,

Notice of suit to be given.

stating the cause of suit and the name and place of abode of the plaintiff.

If any person to whom any such notice of suit is given shall before such suit is brought tender sufficient amends to the plaintiff, such plaintiff shall not recover.

Previous tender of amends.

Miscellaneous.

19. No prosecution shall be instituted against any police-officer for any act done by him in such capacity, under the authority of a warrant issued by a Magistrate, notwithstanding any defect of jurisdiction in such Magistrate.

Protection to officers acting under warrant.

20. If within or in the immediate neighbourhood of any town, village or hamlet a dákáití or a robbery is committed or attempted, or dákáits or robbers are harboured, sheltered or assisted, and if the inhabitants of such town, village or hamlet without reasonable excuse fail to render active assistance in preventing the crime and in arresting and securing the offenders, the Chief Commissioner may, after such enquiry as he may deem necessary, impose upon such town, village or hamlet, or upon any section thereof, a fine, to be assessed upon the inhabitants according to his judgment of their respective means.

Help in cases of dákáiti and robbery.

21. For the purposes of this Act, the Chief Commissioner may from time to time, by notification in the British Burma Gazette, invest any revenue-officer with any of the powers, and impose on him any of the duties, with which he may invest him or which he may impose upon him under the Burma Land and Revenue Act, 1876, and the rules framed under it.

Powers and duties of revenue-officers.

22. All proceedings of any Deputy Commissioner or revenue-officer under this Act shall be subject to control, revision and alteration by the Commissioner to whom he is subordinate and by the Chief Commissioner.

Control of Commissioner and Chief Commissioner.

23. The Chief Commissioner may from time to time make rules for the guidance of officers in all matters connected with its enforcement.

Power to make rules.

All such rules and all other rules made under this Act shall be published in the British Burma Gazette, and shall thereupon, in so far as they are consistent with this Act, have the force of law.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE need of an efficient rural police to supplement the regular police and act as a link between them and the people has been long felt in British Burma.

The materials of such a body exist in the village headmen or "kyaydangyees" and the "goungs" who supervise them; but the status and duties of these officers are ill-defined and imperfectly understood, and the funds available for their remuneration have, as the country has advanced in wealth, become altogether insufficient to secure the services of respectable men.

The present Bill has been drawn with a view to putting these two classes of officials on a proper legal footing and providing adequate funds for their remuneration.

2. As regards this latter object, it will be observed that the chief source from which it is proposed to raise the money required is an enhancement of the cess at present levied for local objects under sections 31 and 32 of the Burma Land Act from five to ten per cent. on the land-revenue; but as it would be obviously unjust to throw completely upon the agricultural classes the burthen of providing for expenditure by which the non-agricultural population of the villages and rural towns will equally benefit, the Chief Commissioner has been empowered to impose a house cess, not to exceed two rupees per house, on persons who do not pay the agricultural cess.

3. In a large number of towns in Burma a house-tax of this description has been levied for many years past; and the Bill provides that it shall continue to be levied so long as the Chief Commissioner may direct, and that its proceeds shall be credited to the district fund, along with the proceeds of the agricultural cess and the new house cess; but in any town or village in which this old house-tax is retained the new house cess will not be imposed.

4. It is intended that the funds thus made available for the remuneration of rural police officers shall be supplemented by the Government from the revenue derived from fisheries, and further by grants of land revenue-free or by exempting from revenue lands already held by those officers; but as these measures can be carried out under the existing law, they find no place in the present Bill.

5. The present opportunity has been taken for enforcing in British Burma (see section 20 of this Bill) the rule established in some other parts of British India, that the inhabitants of any town, village or hamlet are bound to aid in the prevention of dákáití and robbery in such town, village or hamlet, and, when such crime has been committed, to aid in securing the offenders.

The enforcement of this rule is especially necessary in Burma, where the inhabitants of a village, in some instances owing to apathy and in others owing to a disposition to aid the offenders, as a rule grossly neglect the duty they owe to the public in this particular.

No. 14 of 1879.

A Bill to amend the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1872.

WHEREAS it is expedient to empower Magistrates to arrest persons found in British India and suspected of having committed offences out of

Preamble.

British India for which they are liable to be delivered up under the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1872; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

1. This Act may be called "The Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1879"; and it shall come into force at once.

Short title.

Commencement.

2. After section fourteen of the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1872, the following sections shall be inserted (that is to say):—

Insertion of sections after section 14 of Act XI, 1872.

"14A. Whenever any person accused or suspected of having committed an offence out of British India is within the local limits of the jurisdiction of a Magistrate in British India, and it appears to such Magistrate that the Political Agent for any State could, under the provisions of section eleven, issue a warrant for the arrest of such person, or that the persons for the time being administering the executive government of any part of the dominions of Her Majesty or the territory of any Foreign Prince or State could demand his surrender, such Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, issue a warrant for the arrest of such person, upon such information or complaint and such evidence as would, in his opinion, justify the issue of such a warrant if the offence had been committed within the local limits of his jurisdiction.

Magistrate may in certain cases issue warrant for arrest of person accused of having committed an offence out of British India.

"14B. Any Magistrate issuing a warrant under section 14A shall at once report his proceedings to the [illegible] Government, and the [illegible] Government may direct the person arrested under the warrant to be discharged.

"Every person arrested on a warrant issued by a Magistrate under section [illegible] shall be discharged, on the expiry of such reasonable period not exceeding two months as, with reference to the circumstances of the case, the Magistrate may fix, unless within such period the Magistrate receives a warrant under section eleven from the Political Agent of any State for the delivery of such person or an order with reference to him under section fourteen from the Governor General in Council or Local Government, or such person is in accordance with law delivered up to some Foreign Prince or State.

Person arrested to be released after certain time if not proceeded against.

"14C. The provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure in respect of bail shall apply in the case of any person arrested under section 14A in the same manner as if such person were accused of committing in British India the offence with which he is charged."

Bail.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE eighth section of the English Extradition Act of 1870 empowers a Magistrate, when any person is charged with having committed an offence abroad, to issue a warrant of arrest in anticipation of a request being made for extradition by the State within whose limits the offence has been committed. Sections 19 and 20 of Act VII of 1854 contained similar provisions; but they were omitted in Act XI of 1872, the present Extradition Act, which consolidated and amended the existing law on the subject. Certain recent cases in which persons have committed offences in the Nizam's territory and taken refuge in British India have shown that some such provisions are still required to prevent failures of justice. The present Bill, which has been prepared to meet this want, practically re-enacts, with certain unimportant modifications, [illegible] to the year 1872.

All such rules and all other rules made under this Act shall be published in the British Burma Gazette, and shall thereupon, in so far as they are consistent with this Act, have the force of law.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE [illegible] efficient rural police to supplement the [illegible] police and act as a link between them and [illegible] has been long felt in British Burma.

The materials of such a body exist in the village headmen or "kyaydúngyees" and the "goungs" who supervise them; but the [illegible] of these officers [illegible] correctly understood, and the [illegible] for their remuneration have, as the country has advanced in wealth, become altogether insufficient to secure the services of respectable men.

The present Bill has been drawn with a view to putting these two classes of officials on a proper legal footing and providing adequate funds for their remuneration.

2. As regards this latter object, it will be observed that the chief source from which it is proposed to raise the money required is an enhancement of the cess at present levied for local objects under sections 31 and 32 of the Burma Land Act from five to ten per cent. on the land-revenue; but as it would be obviously unjust to throw completely upon the agricultural classes the burthen of providing for expenditure by which the non-agricultural population of the villages and rural towns will equally benefit, the Chief Commissioner has been empowered to impose a house cess, not to exceed two rupees per house, on persons who do not pay the agricultural cess.

3. In a large number of towns in Burma a house-tax of this description has been levied for many years past; and the Bill provides that it shall continue to be levied so long as the Chief Commissioner may direct, and that its proceeds shall be credited to the district fund, along with the proceeds of the agricultural cess and the new house cess; but in any town or village in which this old house-tax is retained the new house cess will not be imposed.

4. It is intended that the funds thus made available for the remuneration of rural police officers shall be supplemented by the Government from the revenue derived from fisheries, and further by grants of land revenue-free or by exempting from revenue lands already held by those officers; but as these measures can be carried out under the existing law, they find no place in the present Bill.

5. The present opportunity has been taken for enforcing in British Burma (see section 20 of this Bill) the rule established in some other parts of British India, that the inhabitants of any town, village or hamlet are bound to aid in the prevention of dákáiti and robbery in such town, village or hamlet, and, when such offence has been committed, to aid in securing the offenders.

The enforcement of this rule is especially necessary in Burma, where the inhabitants of a village, in some instances owing to apathy and in others owing to a disposition to aid the offenders, as a rule grossly neglect the duty they owe to the public in this particular.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 24th July, 1879, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 14 of 1879.

A Bill to amend the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1872.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to empower Magistrates to arrest persons found in British India and suspected of having committed offences out of British India for which they are liable to be delivered up under the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1872; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title. Commencement.

1. This Act may be called "The Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1879"; and it shall come into force at once.

Insertion of sections after section 14 of Act XI, 1872.

2. After section fourteen of the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1872, the following sections shall be inserted (that is to say):—

"14A. Whenever any person accused or suspected of having committed an offence out of British India is within the local limits of the jurisdiction of a Magistrate in British India, and it appears to such Magistrate that the Political Agent for any State could, under the provisions of section eleven, issue a warrant for the arrest of such person, or that the persons for the time being administering the executive government of any part of the dominions of Her Majesty or the territory of any Foreign Prince or State could demand his surrender, such Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, issue a warrant for the arrest of such person, on such information or complaint and such evidence as would, in his opinion, justify the issue of such a warrant if the offence had been committed within the local limits of his jurisdiction.

Magistrate may in certain cases issue warrant for arrest of person accused of having committed an offence out of British India.

"14B. Any Magistrate issuing a warrant under section 14A shall at once report his proceedings to the Local Government, and the Local Government may, if it thinks fit, order the warrant to be cancelled and the accused person, if arrested, to be released.

Magistrate at once to report arrest to Local Government.

"Every person arrested on a warrant issued by a Magistrate under section 14A shall be discharged, on the expiry of such reasonable period not exceeding two months as, with reference to the circumstances of the case, the Magistrate may fix, unless within such period the Magistrate receives a warrant under section eleven from the Political Agent of any State for the delivery of such person or an order with reference to him under section fourteen from the Governor General in Council or Local Government, or such person is in accordance with law delivered up to some Foreign Prince or State.

Person arrested to be released after certain time if not proceeded against.

"14C. The provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure in respect of bail shall apply in the case of any person arrested under section 14A in the same manner as if such person were accused of committing in British India the offence with which he is charged."

Bail.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE eighth section of the English Extradition Act of 1870 empowers a Magistrate, when any person is charged with having committed an offence abroad, to issue a warrant of arrest in anticipation of a request being made for extradition by the State within whose limits the offence has been committed. Sections 19 and 20 of Act VII of 1854 contained similar provisions; but they were omitted in Act XI of 1872, the present Extradition Act, which consolidated and amended the existing law on the subject. Certain recent cases in which persons have committed offences in the Nizam's territory and taken refuge in British India have shown that some such provisions are still required to prevent failures of justice. The present Bill, which has been prepared to meet this want, practically re-enacts, with certain unimportant modifications, what was the law in India up to the year 1872.

Appointment of Rural Police.

12. Subject to the rules made under this Act and for the time being in force, the appointment, suspension and removal of headmen and goungs, and the determination of the limits of the beats of headmen and the circuits of goungs, shall rest with the Deputy Commissioner of the district:

Provided that all kyaydúngyís and yazawut goungs holding office as such in any local areas on the date on which this Act comes into force shall be deemed to be respectively headmen and goungs appointed under this Act, and such local areas shall be deemed to have been fixed as their beats and circuits respectively under this Act.

Duties of headmen.

13. Every headman shall perform the following duties (namely):—

(a) he shall give immediate information to the goung of the circuit in which his beat is situated, or the officer in charge of the police-station appointed for his beat, of all disputes within his beat which may come to his knowledge likely to lead to any riot or serious affray:

(b) he shall report to the goung or police-officer aforesaid the arrival in or in the neighbourhood of his beat of suspicious characters and of persons who have been convicted under chapters XII and XVII of the Indian Penal Code; and the movements of all bad characters within his beat:

(c) he shall report to the goung or police-officer aforesaid all breaches of excise and opium laws and rules within his beat which may come to his knowledge:

(d) he shall supply to the best of his ability any local information which any Magistrate or revenue-officer or officer of police may require, and shall promptly execute all lawful orders issued to him by or by authority of the Deputy Commissioner:

(e) he shall attend the revenue-officer of the circle, so long as such officer is within his beat, for the purpose of assessing or collecting land-revenue, cesses or taxes, and shall give him all available information regarding the cultivation of land and other matters relating to the revenue:

(f) he shall, in accordance with such rules as may from time to time be made by the Chief Commissioner, keep up a register of all births, marriages and deaths within his beat, and collect and register any other vital statistics which may be prescribed by such rules:

(g) he shall afford all assistance in his power to Government officers, and on the order of the Deputy Commissioner to other persons, in procuring food, labour, carriage and other requisites of travel.

Duties of goungs.

14. The duties of a goung in respect of his circuit shall, mutatis mutandis, be the same as those of a headman in respect of his beat.

Power of headmen and goungs to demand help.

15. For the purpose of preventing the commission of any offence or arresting any offenders whom he is authorized to arrest, any headman or goung may require any male person between the ages of eighteen and sixty within his beat or circuit at the time to assist him in preventing the commission of such offence or in making such arrest, and in guarding and escorting the person arrested.

Obligation to render help.

Every person as aforesaid shall, in the absence of reasonable excuse, the burden of proving which shall lie upon such person, be bound to comply with any requisition made to him under this section.

Powers of police-officers may be conferred on headmen and goungs.

16. The Chief Commissioner may from time to time, by notification in the local Gazette, make rules consistent with this Act conferring upon headmen and goungs any powers, protection or privileges which may be exercised or enjoyed by a police-officer under any enactment for the time being in force, imposing upon headmen and goungs any duties imposed on a police-officer by any enactment for the time being in force and regulating the exercise, enjoyment and discharge of such powers, protection, privileges and duties by such headmen and goungs.

Penalties for breach of duty.

17. Every headman or goung who—

(a) is guilty of cowardice or of wilful misconduct in his office, or of neglect of duty; or

(b) withdraws from the duties of his office without having obtained permission from the Deputy Commissioner, or without having given to the Deputy Commissioner at least two months' notice of his intention to withdraw from such duties; or may, in addition to any other penalty to which he may be liable, be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month, or with fine which may amount to fifty rupees, or both.

(c) offers any unnecessary personal violence to any person in his custody,

Bar of prosecution.

No complaint against a headman or goung of any act or omission punishable under this section shall be entertained by any Court unless the prosecution be instituted by order of or under authority from the Deputy Commissioner.

Limitation of prosecution.

18. Any prosecution against any person for any thing purporting to be done under this Act shall be commenced within three months next after the act complained of has been committed.

Notice of suit to be given.

No suit shall be brought for anything so purporting to be done until the expiration of one month next after notice in writing has been delivered or left at the place of abode of such person, or at the office of the Deputy Commissioner of the district in which the act was done, stating the cause of suit and the name and place of abode of the plaintiff.

Previous tender of amends.

If any person to whom any such notice of suit is given shall before such suit is brought tender sufficient amends to the plaintiff, such plaintiff shall not recover.

Miscellaneous.

Protection to officers acting under warrant.

19. No prosecution shall be instituted against any police-officer for any act done by him in such capacity, under the authority of a warrant issued by a Magistrate, notwithstanding any defect of jurisdiction in such Magistrate.

Help in cases of dákáiti and robbery.

20. If within or in the immediate neighbourhood of any town, village or hamlet a dákáití or a robbery is committed or attempted, or dákáits or robbers are harboured, sheltered or assisted, and if the inhabitants of such town, village or hamlet without reasonable excuse fail to render active assistance in preventing the crime and in arresting and securing the offenders, the Chief Commissioner may, after such enquiry as he may deem necessary, impose upon such town, village or hamlet, or upon any section thereof, a fine, to be assessed upon the inhabitants according to his judgment of their respective means.

Powers and duties of revenue-officers.

21. For the purposes of this Act, the Chief Commissioner may from time to time, by notification in the British Burma Gazette, invest any revenue-officer with any of the powers, and impose on him any of the duties, with which he may invest him or which he may impose upon him under the Burma Land and Revenue Act, 1876, and the rules framed under it.

Control of Commissioner and Chief Commissioner.

22. All proceedings of any Deputy Commissioner or revenue-officer under this Act shall be subject to control, revision and alteration by the Commissioner to whom he is subordinate and by the Chief Commissioner.

Power to make rules.

23. The Chief Commissioner may from time to time make rules for the guidance of officers in all matters connected with its enforcement.

All such rules and all other rules made under this Act shall be published in the British Burma Gazette, and shall thereupon, in so far as they are consistent with this Act, have the force of law.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE need of an efficient rural police to supplement the regular police and act as a link between them and the people has been long felt in British Burma.

The materials of such a body exist in the village headmen or "kyaydangyees" and the "goungs" who supervise them; but the status and duties of these officers are ill-defined and imperfectly understood, and the funds available for their remuneration have, as the country has advanced in wealth, become altogether insufficient to secure the services of respectable men.

The present Bill has been drawn with a view to putting these two classes of officials on a proper legal footing and providing adequate funds for their remuneration.

2. As regards this latter object, it will be observed that the chief source from which it is proposed to raise the money required is an enhancement of the cess at present levied for local objects under sections 31 and 32 of the Burma Land Act from five to ten per cent. on the land-revenue; but as it would be obviously unjust to throw completely upon the agricultural classes the burthen of providing for expenditure by which the non-agricultural population of the villages and rural towns will equally benefit, the Chief Commissioner has been empowered to impose a house cess, not to exceed two rupees per house, on persons who do not pay the agricultural cess.

3. In a large number of towns in Burma a house-tax of this description has been levied for many years past; and the Bill provides that it shall continue to be levied so long as the Chief Commissioner may direct, and that its proceeds shall be credited to the district fund, along with the proceeds of the agricultural cess and the new house cess; but in any town or village in which this old house-tax is retained the new house cess will not be imposed.

4. It is intended that the funds thus made available for the remuneration of rural police officers shall be supplemented by the Government from the revenue derived from fisheries, and further by grants of land revenue-free or by exempting from revenue lands already held by those officers; but as these measures can be carried out under the existing law, they find no place in the present Bill.

5. The present opportunity has been taken for enforcing in British Burma (see section 20 of this Bill) the rule established in some other parts of British India, that the inhabitants of any town, village or hamlet are bound to aid in the prevention of dákáití and robbery in such town, village or hamlet, and, when such offence has been committed, to aid in securing the offenders.

The enforcement of this rule is especially necessary in Burma, where the inhabitants of a village, in some instances owing to apathy and in others owing to a disposition to aid the offenders, as a rule grossly neglect the duty they owe to the public in this particular.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 24th July, 1879, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 14 of 1879.

A Bill to amend the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1872.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to empower Magistrates to arrest persons found in British India and suspected of having committed offences out of British India for which they are liable to be delivered up under the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1872; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title. Commencement.

1. This Act may be called "The Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1879"; and it shall come into force at once.

Insertion of sections after section 14 of Act XI, 1872.

2. After section fourteen of the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1872, the following sections shall be inserted (that is to say):—

Magistrate may in certain cases issue warrant for arrest of person accused of having committed an offence out of British India.

"14A. Whenever any person accused or suspected of having committed an offence out of British India is within the local limits of the jurisdiction of a Magistrate in British India, and it appears to such Magistrate that the Political Agent for any State could, under the provisions of section eleven, issue a warrant for the arrest of such person, or that the persons for the time being administering the executive government of any part of the dominions of Her Majesty or the territory of any Foreign Prince or State could demand his surrender, such Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, issue a warrant for the arrest of such person, on such information or complaint and such evidence as would, in his opinion, justify the issue of such a warrant if the offence had been committed within the local limits of his jurisdiction.

Magistrate at once to report arrest to Local Government.

"14B. Any Magistrate issuing a warrant under section 14A shall at once report his proceedings to the Local Government, and the Local Government may, if it thinks fit, order the warrant to be cancelled and the accused person, if arrested, to be released.

Person arrested to be released after certain time if not proceeded against.

"Every person arrested on a warrant issued by a Magistrate under section 14A shall be discharged, on the expiry of such reasonable period not exceeding two months as, with reference to the circumstances of the case, the Magistrate may fix, unless within such period the Magistrate receives a warrant under section eleven from the Political Agent of any State for the delivery of such person or an order with reference to him under section fourteen from the Governor General in Council or Local Government, or such person is in accordance with law delivered up to some Foreign Prince or State.

Bail.

"14C. The provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure in respect of bail shall apply in the case of any person arrested under section 14A in the same manner as if such person were accused of committing in British India the offence with which he is charged."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE eighth section of the English Extradition Act of 1870 empowers a Magistrate, when any person is charged with having committed an offence abroad, to issue a warrant of arrest in anticipation of a request being made for extradition by the State within whose limits the offence has been committed. Sections 19 and 20 of Act VII of 1854 contained similar provisions; but they were omitted in Act XI of 1872, the present Extradition Act, which consolidated and amended the existing law on the subject. Certain recent cases in which persons have committed offences in the Nizam's territory and taken refuge in British India have shown that some such provisions are still required to prevent failures of justice. The present Bill, which has been prepared to meet this want, practically re-enacts, with certain unimportant modifications, what was the law in India up to the year 1872.

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following further Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 21st August 1879:—

We, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Pleaders, Mukhtárs and Revenue-agents Act, 1865, was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the papers specified in the annexed list and made some amendments which have been urged upon us as desirable.

2. We have, at the instance of the Local Governments concerned, made the Bill directly applicable to the Central Provinces and Coorg.

3. Sections 45 and 46 of Act XX of 1865 have been objected to on the ground that they enable an Advocate, Vakíl or Attorney of a High Court who has failed in practice, or perhaps is under a cloud in his own province but has not been struck off the roll, to withdraw to another province and practice in the subordinate Courts there, subject to no control, except such as might possibly be exercised over him by the circuitous process of moving his own High Court, which would have no longer any interest in his proceedings, to strike him off its roll. To guard against this, we have in sections 4 and 5 of the Bill made it a condition of an Advocate, Vakíl or Attorney of a High Court being entitled to practice in another province that he shall be ordinarily practising in his own province. The result of this will be that such Advocates, Vakíls and Attorneys as may occasionally be retained to appear in a case in a neighbouring province can appear in the Courts there as at present, but that if an Advocate, Vakíl or Attorney desires to migrate from his own province and settle down to practise in another province, he must have himself enrolled in that other province.

4. In order to remove a doubt which has been felt in some quarters as to the functions which an Attorney practising under this Bill and a Mukhtár and Revenue-agent may discharge, we have in sections 5, 11, 16 and 17 empowered the High Court and Chief Controlling Revenue authority to define those functions.

5. At the suggestion of Mr. Justice Jackson we have restricted the exceptional privilege conferred on Revenue-agents in Bengal by Act IV of 1876, of acting as Pleaders in the Munsifs' Courts, to Revenue-agents admitted before this Bill becomes law.

6. The power given by section 16 of Act XX of 1865 to any Court before which a Pleader or Mukhtár was charged with misconduct to suspend him from practising in such Court seemed, to place the Pleader or Mukhtár so suspended in the anomalous position of being suspended in one Court and being permitted to practise in another Court perhaps held in the next room. For this reason, as well as because it has been urged by several of the authorities consulted that Judges of the lowest grades should not have power to suspend a Pleader or Mukhtár on their own authority, we have (in section 14) restricted the power of suspension to the District Judge, District Magistrate and Collector, and inferior officers acting with their previous sanction; and we have made the suspension general and absolute instead of being restricted to the particular Court before which the offender may be charged.

7. In section 39 we have provided that when a person who holds certificates both as Mukhtár and Revenue-agent is suspended or dismissed in one capacity, he shall be deemed to be suspended or dismissed in the other as well.

8. We have carefully considered the question, which has more than once been discussed, and has now again been raised, as to the necessity of placing some restriction upon contracts, regarding the remuneration for services performed by legal practitioners. We are not prepared to recommend the adoption of the very stringent provisions on this point which appeared in the Bill introduced in 1871; but we think it desirable to provide, as we have done in section 28, that such agreements, when made, should be in writing and should be filed in Court. This we think will not only afford some protection to the client, but will also serve to inform the Court and place it on its guard in those cases in which the Pleader has by the agreement acquired a pecuniary interest in the result of the suit.

9. We have also thought it well to provide expressly in section 29, though it may be that we are here only confirming the existing law, that, when a suit is brought on an agreement between a legal practitioner and his client, the Court, unless such agreement is proved to be fair and reasonable, may reduce the amount payable under it, or set it aside altogether.

10. Section 36 has been framed to put a stop to what is commonly known as the "touting" system—a system under which certain legal practitioners reward a Mukhtár or other hanger-on of the Court who brings them business by allowing him a percentage on their fees. It is obvious that such a system, besides the degradation it involves to legal practitioners who resort to it as a means of obtaining business, also holds out to the Mukhtár or other go-between a strong temptation to retain for his employer, not the most skilful Pleader he can get for the fee allowed, but the Pleader who will pay him the largest commission.

The only objection we have heard to the abolition of this most objectionable system has proceeded from certain Mukhtárs, who urge that the commission allowed them by Vakíls is not a remuneration for procuring the employment of such Vakíls, but a payment for assistance rendered by them to such Vakíls by performing certain duties which would in other cases be performed by an Attorney.

The answer to this objection, it appears to us, is that, when the transaction is one bonâ fide of the nature thus described, the Mukhtár can find no difficulty in agreeing with his employer to receive direct from him any remuneration to which he may be entitled.

11. It has been suggested to us that we might shorten the Bill considerably and improve its form by consolidating into one series of enactments the portion of it relating to Vakíls and Mukhtárs and that relating to Revenue-agents. We have, however, abstained from doing so, as we fear that Local Governments desiring to extend the former portion without the latter, as, e.g., it is probable the Government of Madras will wish to do, would not find the Act so convenient for their purposes if thus altered.

12. The Bill in its second stage and preliminary Report of the Select Committee were published in English in the Gazette of India and the Central Provinces Gazette, and in English and the vernacular in the Calcutta Gazette. Subject to further consideration of the request of the Government of the Panjáb, that the Chief Court of that Province should be empowered to enrol Advocates in the same way as the High Courts are empowered by their Letters Patent, we recommend that the Bill as now amended be passed; but, looking to the alterations we have made in the existing law, we think it well that it should first be published with this report, so as to allow an opportunity for criticism by the public before the subject is again brought up in Council.

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following further Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 21st August 1879:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Pleaders, Mukhtárs and Revenue-agents Act, 1865, was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the papers specified in the annexed list and made some amendments which have been urged upon us as desirable.

2. We have, at the instance of the Local Governments concerned, made the Bill directly applicable to the Central Provinces and Coorg.

3. Sections 45 and 46 of Act XX of 1865 have been objected to on the ground that they enable an Advocate, Vakíl or Attorney of a High Court who has failed in practice, or perhaps is under a cloud in his own province but has not been struck off the roll, to withdraw to another province and practise in the subordinate Courts there, subject to no control, except such as might possibly be exercised over him by the circuitous process of moving his own High Court, which would have no longer any interest in his proceedings, to strike him off its roll. To guard against this, we have in sections 4 and 5 of the Bill made it a condition of an Advocate, Vakíl or Attorney of a High Court being entitled to practise in another province that he shall be ordinarily practising in his own province. The result of this will be that such Advocates, Vakíls and Attorneys as may occasionally be retained to appear in a case in a neighbouring province can appear in the Courts there as at present, but that if an Advocate, Vakíl or Attorney desires to migrate from his own province and settle down to practise in another province, he must have himself enrolled in that other province.

4. In order to remove a doubt which has been felt in some quarters as to the functions which an Attorney practising under this Bill and a Mukhtár and Revenue-agent may discharge, we have in sections 5, 11, 16 and 17 empowered the High Court and Chief Controlling Revenue-authority to define those functions.

5. At the suggestion of Mr. Justice Jackson we have restricted the exceptional privilege conferred on Revenue-agents in Bengal by Act IV of 1876, of acting as Pleaders in the Munsifs' Courts, to Revenue-agents admitted before this Bill becomes law.

6. The power given by section 16 of Act XX of 1865 to any Court before which a Pleader or Mukhtár was charged with misconduct to suspend him from practising in such Court seemed to place the Pleader or Mukhtár so suspended in the anomalous position of being suspended in one Court and being permitted to practise in another Court perhaps held in the next room. For this reason, as well as because it has been urged by several of the authorities consulted that Judges of the lowest grades should not have power to suspend a Pleader or Mukhtár on their own authority, we have (in section 14) restricted the power of suspension to the District Judge, District Magistrate and Collector, and inferior officers acting with their previous sanction; and we have made the suspension general and absolute instead of being restricted to the particular Court before which the offender may be charged.

7. In section 39 we have provided that when a person who holds certificates both as Mukhtár and Revenue-agent is suspended or dismissed in one capacity, he shall be deemed to be suspended or dismissed in the other as well.

8. We have carefully considered the question, which has more than once been discussed, and has now again been raised, as to the necessity of placing some restriction upon contracts, regarding the remuneration for services performed by legal practitioners. We are not prepared to recommend the adoption of the very stringent provisions on this point which appeared in the Bill introduced in 1871; but we think it desirable to provide, as we have done in section 28, that such agreements, when made, should be in writing and should be filed in Court. This we think will not only afford some protection to the client, but will also serve to inform the Court and place it on its guard in those cases in which the Pleader has by the agreement acquired a pecuniary interest in the result of the suit.

9. We have also thought it well to provide expressly in section 29, though it may be that we are here only confirming the existing law, that, when a suit is brought on an agreement between a legal practitioner and his client, the Court, unless such agreement is proved to be fair and reasonable, may reduce the amount payable under it, or set it aside altogether.

10. Section 36 has been framed to put a stop to what is commonly known as the "touting" system—a system under which certain legal practitioners reward a Mukhtár or other hanger-on of the Court who brings them business by allowing him a percentage on their fees. It is obvious that such a system, besides the degradation it involves to legal practitioners who resort to it as a means of obtaining business, also holds out to the Mukhtár or other go-between a strong temptation to retain for his employer, not the most skilful Pleader he can get for the fee allowed, but the Pleader who will pay him the largest commission.

The only objection we have heard to the abolition of this most objectionable system has proceeded from certain Mukhtárs, who urge that the commission allowed them by Vakíls is not a remuneration for procuring the employment of such Vakíls, but a payment for assistance rendered by them to such Vakíls by performing certain duties which would in other cases be performed by an Attorney.

The answer to this objection, it appears to us, is that, when the transaction is one bonâ fide of the nature thus described, the Mukhtár can find no difficulty in agreeing with his employer to receive direct from him any remuneration to which he may be entitled.

11. It has been suggested to us that we might shorten the Bill considerably and improve its form by consolidating into one series of enactments the portion of it relating to Vakíls and Mukhtárs and that relating to Revenue-agents. We have, however, abstained from doing so, as we fear that Local Governments desiring to extend the former portion without the latter, as, e.g., it is probable the Government of Madras will wish to do, would not find the Act so convenient for their purposes if thus altered.

12. The Bill in its second stage and preliminary Report of the Select Committee were published in English in the Gazette of India and the Central Provinces Gazette, and in English and the vernacular in the Calcutta Gazette. Subject to further consideration of the request of the Government of the Panjáb, that the Chief Court of that Province should be empowered to enrol Advocates in the same way as the High Courts are empowered by their Letters Patent, we recommend that the Bill as now amended be passed; but, looking to the alterations we have made in the existing law, we think it well that it should first be published with this report, so as to allow an opportunity for criticism by the public before the subject is again brought up in Council.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to Legal Practitioners in the Lower Provinces of Bengal, the North-Western Provinces, the Panjáb, Oudh, the Central Provinces, Assam and Coorg; and to empower each of the Local Governments of the rest of British India to extend to the territories administered by it such portions of this Act as such Government may think fit; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.—Preliminary.

Short title. Commencement of Act.

1. This Act may be called "The Legal Practitioners Act, 1879": and shall come into force on the first day of November, 1879.

Local extent.

This section and section two extend to the whole of British India.

The rest of this Act extends, in the first instance, only to the territories respectively administered by the Lieutenant-Governors of the Lower Provinces of Bengal, the North-Western Provinces and the Panjáb, and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh, the Central Provinces, Assam and Coorg. But any other Local Government may from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, extend all or any of the provisions of the rest of this Act to the whole or any part of the territories under its administration.

Repeal of enactments.

2. On and from the first day of November, 1879, the enactments mentioned in the first schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent specified therein.

Saving of rules, &c.

All rules and appointments made, penalties prescribed, fees fixed, persons admitted, names enrolled, certificates issued, sanctions given and orders passed under any enactment hereby repealed shall be deemed to be respectively made, prescribed, fixed, admitted, enrolled, issued, given and passed under this Act.

References to repealed enactments.

All references made to any enactment hereby repealed, in any Act or Regulation passed, or notification published, shall be read as if made to the corresponding provisions of this Act.

Interpretation-clause.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,—

"Judge": "Judge" means the presiding judicial officer in every civil and criminal Court, by whatever title he is designated:

"Civil Court": "Civil Court" means all Courts to which the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure apply, including Courts of small causes established under Act No. IX of 1850 or Act No. XI of 1865:

"Revenue-office": "Revenue-office" includes all Courts (other than civil Courts) trying suits under any Act for the time being in force relating to landholders and their tenants or agents:

"Legal practitioner" means an Advocate, Vakíl or Attorney of any High Court, a Pleader, Mukhtár or Revenue-agent.

CHAPTER II.—Of Advocates, Vakíls and Attorneys.

Advocates and Vakíls of Chartered High Court.

4. Every person now or hereafter entered as an Advocate or Vakíl on the roll of any High Court under the Letters Patent constituting such Court and who ordinarily practises in such Court or some Court subordinate thereto shall, notwithstanding anything herein contained, be entitled, as such, to practise in any Court in British India other than a High Court on whose roll he is not entered, or, with the permission of the Court, in any High Court on whose roll he is not entered and in any Revenue-office, subject, nevertheless, to the rules in force relating to the language in which the Court or office is to be addressed by Pleaders or Revenue-agents:

Provided that no such Vakíl shall be entitled to practise under this section before a Judge of the High Court, Division Court or High Court exercising original jurisdiction.

Attorneys of High Court.

5. Every person now or hereafter entered as an Attorney on the roll of any High Court and who ordinarily practises in such Court or some Court subordinate thereto shall, notwithstanding anything herein contained, be entitled, as such, to practise in any Court in British India other than a High Court established by Royal Charter on the roll of which he is not entered, and in any Revenue-office.

The High Court of the Province in which an Attorney practises under this section may from time to time make rules declaring what shall be deemed to be the functions, powers and duties of an Attorney so practising.

CHAPTER III.—Of Pleaders and Mukhtárs.

Power to make rules as to qualification, &c., of Pleaders and Mukhtárs.

6. The High Court may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act as to the following matters (namely):—

(a) the qualification, admission and certificates of proper persons to be Pleaders of the subordinate Courts, and of the Revenue-offices situate within the local limits of its appellate jurisdiction, and, in the case of a High Court not established by Royal Charter, of such Court:

(b) the qualification, admission and certificates of proper persons to be Mukhtárs of the subordinate Courts, and, in the case of a High Court not established by Royal Charter, of such Court:

(c) the fees to be paid for the examination and admission of such persons; and (d) their suspension and dismissal.

Publication of rules.

All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law: Provided that in the case of rules made by a High Court not established by Royal Charter such rules have been previously approved by the Local Government.

Certificates to Pleaders and Mukhtárs.

7. On the admission, under section six, of any person as a Pleader or Mukhtár, the High Court shall cause a certificate, signed by such officer as the Court from time to time appoints in this behalf, to be issued to such person authorizing him to practise up to the end of the current year in the Courts, and, in the case of a Pleader, also the Revenue-offices specified therein.

At the expiration of such period, the holder of the certificate, if he desires to continue to practise, shall, subject to any rules consistent with this Act which may from time to time be made by the High Court in this behalf, be entitled to have his certificate renewed by the Judge of the District Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction he then ordinarily practises, or by such officer as the High Court from time to time appoints in this behalf.

On every such renewal, the certificate then in possession of such Pleader or Mukhtár shall be cancelled and retained by such Judge or officer.

Every certificate so renewed shall be signed by such Judge or officer, and shall continue in force up to the end of the current year.

Every Judge or officer so renewing a certificate shall notify such renewal to the High Court.

8. Every Pleader holding a certificate issued under section seven may apply to be enrolled in any Court or Revenue-office mentioned therein and situate within the local limits of the appellate jurisdiction of the High Court by which he has been admitted; and, subject to such rules consistent with this Act as the High Court or the Chief Controlling Revenue authority may from time to time make in this behalf, the presiding Judge or officer shall enrol him accordingly; and thereupon he may appear, plead and act in such Court or office or in any Court or Revenue-office subordinate thereto.

Pleaders on enrolment may practise in Courts and Revenue-offices.

9. Every Mukhtár holding a certificate issued under section seven may apply to be enrolled in any civil or criminal Court mentioned therein and situate within the same limits; and, subject to such rules as the High Court may from time to time make in this behalf, the presiding Judge shall enrol him accordingly; and thereupon he may practise as a Mukhtár in any such civil Court and any Court subordinate thereto, and may (subject to the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, section 186) appear, plead and act in any such criminal Court and any Court subordinate thereto.

Mukhtárs on enrolment may practise in Courts.

10. Except as provided by this Act or any other enactment for the time being in force, no person shall practise as a Pleader or Mukhtár in any Court not established by Royal Charter unless he holds a certificate issued under section seven and has been enrolled in such Court or in some Court to which it is subordinate:

No person to practise as Pleader or Mukhtár unless qualified.

Provided that persons who have been admitted as Revenue-agents before the first day of November, 1879, and hold certificates, as such, under this Act in the territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal may be enrolled in manner provided by section nine in any Munsif's Court in the said territories, and on being so enrolled may appear, plead and act in such Court in suits under Bengal Act No. VIII of 1869 (to amend the procedure in suits between Landlord and Tenant) or under any other Act for the time being in force regulating the procedure in suits between landholders and their tenants and agents.

Revenue-agents may appear, plead and act in Munsif's Courts in suits under Bengal Act VIII of 1869.

Dismissal of Pleader or Mukhtár guilty of unprofessional conduct.

14. If any such Pleader or Mukhtár practising in any subordinate Court or in any Revenue-office is charged in such Court or office with any such misconduct as aforesaid, the presiding officer shall send him a copy of the charge and also a notice that, on a day to be therein appointed, such charge will be taken into consideration.

Procedure when charge of unprofessional conduct is brought in a subordinate Court or Revenue-office.

Such copy and notice shall be served upon the Pleader or Mukhtár at least ten days before the day so appointed.

On such day or on any subsequent day to which the enquiry may be adjourned, the presiding officer shall receive and record all evidence properly produced in support of the charge, or by the Pleader or Mukhtár, and shall proceed to adjudicate on the charge.

If such officer finds the charge established, and considers that the Pleader or Mukhtár should be suspended or dismissed in consequence, he shall record his finding and the grounds thereof, and shall report the same to the High Court, and the High Court may acquit, suspend or dismiss the Pleader or Mukhtár.

Any District Judge, or with his sanction any Judge subordinate to him, any District Magistrate, or with his sanction any Magistrate subordinate to him, and any Revenue authority not inferior to a Collector, or with the Collector's sanction, any Revenue-officer subordinate to him, may, pending the investigation and the orders of the High Court, suspend from practice any Pleader or Mukhtár charged before him or it under this section.

Suspension pending investigation.

Every report made to the High Court under this section shall—

(a) when made by any Civil Judge subordinate to the District Judge, be made through such Judge;

(d) when made by any Revenue-officer subordinate to the Chief Controlling Revenue authority, be made through such Revenue authorities as the Chief Controlling Revenue authority may from time to time direct.

Every such report shall be accompanied by the opinion of each Judge, Magistrate or Revenue authority through whom or which it is made.

15. The High Court, in any case in which a Pleader or Mukhtár has been acquitted under section fourteen otherwise than by an order of the High Court, may call for the record and pass such order thereon as it thinks fit.

Power to call for record in cases under section 14.

16. Notwithstanding anything contained in any Letters Patent or in the Code of Civil Procedure, section 37, clause (a), any High Court established by Royal Charter may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act as to the following matters (namely):—

Power to make rules for Mukhtárs on Appellate side of High Court.

(a) the qualification and admission of proper persons to be Mukhtárs practising on the Appellate side of such Court;

(b) the fees to be paid for the examination and admission of such persons;

(c) the security which they may be required to give for their honesty and good conduct;

(d) their suspension and dismissal; and

(e) declaring what shall be deemed to be their functions, powers and duties; and may prescribe and impose fines for the infringement of such rules not exceeding in any case five hundred rupees; and such fines, when imposed, may be recovered as if they had been imposed in the exercise of the High Court's ordinary original criminal jurisdiction.

At the expiration of such period, the holder of the certificate, if he desires to continue to practise, shall be entitled to have his certificate renewed by the Secretary of the Chief Controlling Revenue authority, or by any other officer authorized by such Authority in that behalf.

On every such renewal, the certificate then in the possession of such Revenue-agent shall be cancelled and retained by such Secretary or other officer.

Every certificate so renewed shall be signed by such Secretary or other officer and shall continue in force to the end of the current year.

Every officer so renewing a certificate shall notify the renewal to the Chief Controlling Revenue authority.

19. Every Revenue-agent holding a certificate issued under section eighteen may apply to be enrolled in any Revenue-office mentioned therein and situate within the limits of the territory under the Chief Controlling Revenue authority; and, subject to such rules as the Chief Controlling Revenue authority may from time to time make in this behalf, the officer presiding in such office shall enrol him accordingly, and thereupon he may practise as a Revenue-agent in such office and in any Revenue-office subordinate thereto.

Such copy and notice shall be served upon the person charged at least ten days before the day so appointed. On such day or on any other day to which the enquiry may be adjourned, the officer or Munsif shall receive all evidence properly produced in support of the charge, or by the person charged, and shall proceed to adjudicate on the charge.

If the officer or Munsif finds the charge established, and considers that the person charged should be suspended or dismissed in consequence, he shall record his finding and the grounds thereof, and report the same to the Chief Controlling Revenue authority; and such Authority shall proceed to acquit, suspend or dismiss him.

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following further Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 21st August 1879:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Pleaders, Mukhtárs and Revenue-agents Act, 1865, was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the papers specified in the annexed list and made some amendments which have been urged upon us as desirable.

2. We have, at the instance of the Local Governments concerned, made the Bill directly applicable to the Central Provinces and Coorg.

3. Sections 45 and 46 of Act XX of 1865 have been objected to on the ground that they enable an Advocate, Vakíl or Attorney of a High Court who has failed in practice, or perhaps is under a cloud in his own province but has not been struck off the roll, to withdraw to another province and practise in the subordinate Courts there, subject to no control, except such as might possibly be exercised over him by the circuitous process of moving his own High Court, which would have no longer any interest in his proceedings, to strike him off its roll. To guard against this, we have in sections 4 and 5 of the Bill made it a condition of an Advocate, Vakíl or Attorney of a High Court being entitled to practise in another province that he shall be ordinarily practising in his own province. The result of this will be that such Advocates, Vakíls and Attorneys as may occasionally be retained to appear in a case in a neighbouring province can appear in the Courts there as at present, but that if an Advocate, Vakíl or Attorney desires to migrate from his own province and settle down to practise in another province, he must have himself enrolled in that other province.

4. In order to remove a doubt which has been felt in some quarters as to the functions which an Attorney practising under this Bill and a Mukhtár and Revenue-agent may discharge, we have in sections 5, 11, 16 and 17 empowered the High Court and Chief Controlling Revenue-authority to define those functions.

5. At the suggestion of Mr. Justice Jackson we have restricted the exceptional privilege conferred on Revenue-agents in Bengal by Act IV of 1876, of acting as Pleaders in the Munsifs' Courts, to Revenue-agents admitted before this Bill becomes law.

6. The power given by section 16 of Act XX of 1865 to any Court before which a Pleader or Mukhtár was charged with misconduct to suspend him from practising in such Court seemed to place the Pleader or Mukhtár so suspended in the anomalous position of being suspended in one Court and being permitted to practise in another Court perhaps held in the next room. For this reason, as well as because it has been urged by several of the authorities consulted that Judges of the lowest grades should not have power to suspend a Pleader or Mukhtár on their own authority, we have (in section 14) restricted the power of suspension to the District Judge, District Magistrate and Collector, and inferior officers acting with their previous sanction; and we have made the suspension general and absolute instead of being restricted to the particular Court before which the offender may be charged.

7. In section 39 we have provided that when a person who holds certificates both as Mukhtár and Revenue-agent is suspended or dismissed in one capacity, he shall be deemed to be suspended or dismissed in the other as well.

8. We have carefully considered the question, which has more than once been discussed, and has now again been raised, as to the necessity of placing some restriction upon contracts, regarding the remuneration for services performed by legal practitioners. We are not prepared to recommend the adoption of the very stringent provisions on this point which appeared in the Bill introduced in 1871; but we think it desirable to provide, as we have done in section 28, that such agreements, when made, should be in writing and should be filed in Court. This we think will not only afford some protection to the client, but will also serve to inform the Court and place it on its guard in those cases in which the Pleader has by the agreement acquired a pecuniary interest in the result of the suit.

9. We have also thought it well to provide expressly in section 29, though it may be that we are here only confirming the existing law, that, when a suit is brought on an agreement between a legal practitioner and his client, the Court, unless such agreement is proved to be fair and reasonable, may reduce the amount payable under it, or set it aside altogether.

10. Section 36 has been framed to put a stop to what is commonly known as the "touting" system—a system under which certain legal practitioners reward a Mukhtár or other hanger-on of the Court who brings them business by allowing him a percentage on their fees. It is obvious that such a system, besides the degradation it involves to legal practitioners who resort to it as a means of obtaining business, also holds out to the Mukhtár or other go-between a strong temptation to retain for his employer, not the most skilful Pleader he can get for the fee allowed, but the Pleader who will pay him the largest commission.

The only objection we have heard to the abolition of this most objectionable system has proceeded from certain Mukhtárs, who urge that the commission allowed them by Vakíls is not a remuneration for procuring the employment of such Vakíls, but a payment for assistance rendered by them to such Vakíls by performing certain duties which would in other cases be performed by an Attorney.

The answer to this objection, it appears to us, is that, when the transaction is one bonâ fide of the nature thus described, the Mukhtár can find no difficulty in agreeing with his employer to receive direct from him any remuneration to which he may be entitled.

11. It has been suggested to us that we might shorten the Bill considerably and improve its form by consolidating into one series of enactments the portion of it relating to Vakíls and Mukhtárs and that relating to Revenue-agents. We have, however, abstained from doing so, as we fear that Local Governments desiring to extend the former portion without the latter, as, e.g., it is probable the Government of Madras will wish to do, would not find the Act so convenient for their purposes if thus altered.

12. The Bill in its second stage and preliminary Report of the Select Committee were published in English in the Gazette of India and the Central Provinces Gazette, and in English and the vernacular in the Calcutta Gazette. Subject to further consideration of the request of the Government of the Panjáb, that the Chief Court of that Province should be empowered to enrol Advocates in the same way as the High Courts are empowered by their Letters Patent, we recommend that the Bill as now amended be passed; but, looking to the alterations we have made in the existing law, we think it well that it should first be published with this report, so as to allow an opportunity for criticism by the public before the subject is again brought up in Council.

Preamble.

CHAPTER I.—Preliminary.

1. This Act may be called "The Legal Practitioners Act, 1879": and shall come into force on the first day of November, 1879.

Certificates to Pleaders and Mukhtárs.

At the expiration of such period, the holder of the certificate, if he desires to continue to practise, shall, subject to any rules consistent with this Act which may from time to time be made by the High Court in this behalf, be entitled to have his certificate renewed by the Judge of the District Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction he then ordinarily practises, or by such officer as the High Court from time to time appoints in this behalf.

On every such renewal, the certificate then in possession of such Pleader or Mukhtár shall be cancelled and retained by such Judge or officer.

Every Judge or officer so renewing a certificate shall notify such renewal to the High Court.

Pleaders on enrolment may practise in Courts and Revenue-offices.

9. Every Mukhtár holding a certificate issued under section seven may apply to be enrolled in any civil or criminal Court mentioned therein and situate within the same limits; and, subject to such rules as the High Court may from time to time make in this behalf, the presiding Judge shall enrol him accordingly; and thereupon he may practise as a Mukhtár in any such civil Court and any Court subordinate thereto, and may (subject to the provisions of the Code of Criminal Procedure, section 186) appear, plead and act in any such criminal Court and any Court subordinate thereto.

Mukhtárs on enrolment may practise in Courts.

10. Except as provided by this Act or any other enactment for the time being in force, no person shall practise as a Pleader or Mukhtár in any Court not established by Royal Charter unless he holds a certificate issued under section seven and has been enrolled in such Court or in some Court to which it is subordinate:

No person to practise as Pleader or Mukhtár unless qualified.

Provided that persons who have been admitted as Revenue-agents before the first day of November, 1879, and hold certificates, as such, under this Act in the territories subject to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal may be enrolled in manner provided by section nine in any Munsif's Court in the said territories, and on being so enrolled may appear, plead and act in such Court in suits under Bengal Act No. VIII of 1869 (to amend the procedure in suits between Landlord and Tenant) or under any other Act for the time being in force regulating the procedure in suits between landholders and their tenants and agents.

Dismissal of Pleader or Mukhtár guilty of unprofessional conduct.

14. If any such Pleader or Mukhtár practising in any subordinate Court or in any Revenue-office is charged in such Court or office with any such misconduct as aforesaid, the presiding officer shall send him a copy of the charge and also a notice that, on a day to be therein appointed, such charge will be taken into consideration.

Procedure when charge of unprofessional conduct is brought in a subordinate Court or Revenue-office.

Such copy and notice shall be served upon the Pleader or Mukhtár at least ten days before the day so appointed.

On such day or on any subsequent day to which the enquiry may be adjourned, the presiding officer shall receive and record all evidence properly produced in support of the charge, or by the Pleader or Mukhtár, and shall proceed to adjudicate on the charge.

If such officer finds the charge established, and considers that the Pleader or Mukhtár should be suspended or dismissed in consequence, he shall record his finding and the grounds thereof, and shall report the same to the High Court, and the High Court may acquit, suspend or dismiss the Pleader or Mukhtár.

Any District Judge, or with his sanction any Judge subordinate to him, any District Magistrate, or with his sanction any Magistrate subordinate to him, and any Revenue authority not inferior to a Collector, or with the Collector's sanction, any Revenue-officer subordinate to him, may, pending the investigation and the orders of the High Court, suspend from practice any Pleader or Mukhtár charged before him or it under this section.

Power to call for record in case of acquittal under section 14.

16. Notwithstanding anything contained in any Letters Patent or in the Code of Civil Procedure, section 37, clause (a), any High Court established by Royal Charter may from time to time make rules consistent with this Act as to the following matters (namely):—

Power to make rules for Mukhtárs on Appellate side of High Court.

18. On the admission of any person as a Revenue-agent under section seventeen, the Chief Controlling Revenue authority shall cause a certificate, signed by such officer as such Authority from time to time appoints in this behalf, to be issued to such person, authorizing him to practise up to the end of the current year in such Revenue-offices as may be specified therein.

At the expiration of such period, the holder of the certificate, if he desires to continue to practise, shall be entitled to have his certificate renewed by the Secretary of the Chief Controlling Revenue authority, or by any other officer authorized by such Authority in that behalf.

On every such renewal, the certificate then in the possession of such Revenue-agent shall be cancelled and retained by such Secretary or other officer.

Scientific Referees.

24. If the Local Government is of opinion that an appeal under this chapter involves a question of construction or design, or of scientific difficulty or important principle, it may refer the matter to such one or more out of a list of scientific referees, to be from time to time approved by the Local Government, as may appear to possess the special qualifications necessary for the particular case, and may be selected by agreement between the Local Government and the appellant, or, in default of any such agreement, by the Governor General in Council; and thereupon the appeal shall be determined by the referee or referees instead of by the Court of Survey.

Power to appoint referee to hear appeal.

25. The Local Government, if the appellant in any such appeal so requires and gives security to its satisfaction to pay the costs of and incidental to the reference, shall refer such appeal to a referee or referees selected as aforesaid.

Liability of Government for costs and damages when ship wrongly detained.

28. If a ship is finally detained under this chapter, or if it appears that a ship provisionally detained was at the time of such detention unsafe, the owner of the ship shall be liable to pay to Government its costs of and incidental to the detention and survey of the ship; and such costs shall, without prejudice to any other remedy, be recoverable as salvage is recoverable.

What included in costs of detention and survey.

30. When a complaint is made to the Local Government or a detaining-officer that a British ship is unsafe, it shall be in the discretion of such Government or officer (as the case may be) to require the complainant to give security to the satisfaction of such Government or officer for the costs and compensation which such complainant may become liable to pay as hereinafter mentioned:

Power to require from complainant security for costs, &c.

Provided that where the complaint is made by one-fourth, being not less than three, of the seamen belonging to the ship, and is not in the opinion of such Government or officer frivolous or vexatious, such security shall not be required; and such Government or officer shall, if the complaint is made in sufficient time before the sailing of the ship, take proper steps to ascertain whether the ship ought to be detained under this chapter.

Proviso as to complaint by one-fourth of crew.

31. Where a ship is detained in consequence of any complaint, and the circumstances are such that Government is liable under this chapter to pay to the owner of the ship any costs or compensation, the complainant shall be liable to pay to Government all such costs and compensation as Government incurs, or is liable to pay, in respect of the detention and survey of the ship.

Costs, &c., payable by Government recoverable from complainant.

Deck and Load Lines.

Marking of deck-lines.

33. Every British Indian ship (except ships under eighty tons register employed solely in the coasting trade, ships employed solely in fishing and pleasure yachts) shall be permanently and conspicuously marked with lines of not less than twelve inches in length and one inch in breadth painted longitudinally on each side amidships or as near thereto as is practicable, and indicating the position of each deck which is above water.

The upper edge of each of these lines shall be level with the upper side of the deck plank next the waterway at the place of marking. The lines shall be white or yellow on a dark ground or black on a light ground.

The centre of such disc shall indicate the maximum load-line in salt water to which the owner intends to load such ship for that voyage.

Owner to make statement to Customs-officer in application for entry outwards as to position of such disc with regard to deck-lines.

35. The owner or master of every such ship shall also, upon so entering her, insert, in the form of application for entry outwards made to the Customs-collector, a statement in writing of the distances in feet and inches between the centre of such disc and the upper edge of each of the lines indicating the position of the ship's deck which is above such centre; and if default is made in delivering this statement, the Customs-collector may refuse to enter the ship outwards.

Master to enter copy of this statement in the log-book and agreement with the crew.

36. The master of every such ship shall enter a copy of this statement in the official log-book and also in the agreement with the crew before it is signed by any member of the crew; and no shipping master shall proceed with the engagement of the crew till this entry is made.

Ship to be kept so marked till her return to a port in British India.

37. When a ship has been marked as by section thirty-four required, she shall be kept so marked until she next returns to a port of discharge in British India or arrives at a port in the United Kingdom.

Penalty for neglecting to mark, for concealing marks, &c.

38. Any owner or master of a ship who neglects to cause his ship to be marked as by this chapter required, or to keep her so marked, or who allows the ship to be so loaded as to submerge in salt water the centre of the disc, and any person who conceals, removes, alters, defaces or obliterates, or suffers any person under his control to conceal, remove, alter, deface or obliterate, any of the said marks, except in the event of the particulars thereby denoted being lawfully altered, or except for the purpose of escaping capture by an enemy, shall be punished for each such offence with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

Penalty on owner for having misleading marks.

39. If any of the marks required by this chapter is in any respects inaccurate so as to be likely to mislead, the owner and master of the ship shall be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

44. When a ship so proceeding to sea takes to sea, when on board thereof in the execution of his duty, any person authorized to detain or survey such ship, the owner and master of such ship shall each be liable to pay all expenses of and incidental to such person being so taken to sea, and shall also be punishable with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees.

Order, &c., how to be served.

49. Any such order, notice, statement or document may be served by delivering a copy thereof personally to the person to be served, or by leaving the same at his last place of abode, or, in the case of a master, by leaving it for him on board the ship with the person being or appearing to be in command or charge of the ship.

But nothing in this chapter contained applies to seamen or apprentices to whom the provisions of section 211 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or section 16 of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1855, apply.

Definition of "ship:"

In this chapter "ship" includes every description of vessel used in navigation, not propelled by oars;

"local authority."

and "local authority" means such person as the Local Government may from time to time appoint by name or in virtue of his office to exercise the powers conferred, and to perform the duties imposed on the local authority under this chapter.

Every person so appointed may be suspended or dismissed by the Local Government which appointed him.

Relief of distressed seamen at Indian ports.

52. The local authority may, subject to the rules hereinafter mentioned, provide for the subsistence—

(a) of all seamen and apprentices, being Native Indian subjects of Her Majesty, who have been shipwrecked, discharged or left behind at any place in British India, whether from any British ship employed in the merchant service, or from any of Her Majesty's ships, or who have been engaged by any person acting either as principal or agent to serve in any ship belonging to any foreign power, or to the subject of any foreign State, and who are in distress in any such place; and

(b) of all seamen and apprentices not being Native Indian subjects who have been shipwrecked, discharged or left behind at any place in British India from any British ship, registered in British India and who are in distress in any such place, until such time as such authority is able to provide them with a passage as hereinafter provided.

Distressed seamen to be sent home on board British ship wanting seamen to make up its crew.

53. Subject as aforesaid, the local authority may cause such seamen or apprentices to be put on board some ship belonging to any subject of Her Majesty which is in want of men to make up its complement, and is bound—

(a) in the case of seamen or apprentices who are Native Indian subjects of Her Majesty, to their home or to a port in British India near their home;

(b) in the case of other British seamen or apprentices, to any port in the United Kingdom or the British possession to which they belong (as the case requires); and

54. In default of any such ship, the local authority may, subject as aforesaid, provide such seamen or apprentices with a passage in any ship (whether British or foreign) bound as aforesaid.

55. The local authority shall indorse on the agreement of any British ship on board of which any seaman or apprentice is sent under section fifty-three or section fifty-four, the name of every person so sent on board thereof, with such particulars concerning the case as the Governor General in Council may from time to time by rule prescribe.

The master of every British ship bound as aforesaid shall receive and afford a passage and subsistence to all seamen and apprentices whom he is required to take on board his ship under the provisions of section fifty-three or section fifty-four not exceeding one for every fifty tons burden, and shall, during the passage, provide every such seaman or apprentice with a proper berth or sleeping place effectually protected against sea and weather.

Penalty for refusing so to do.

57. If the master of any such ship fails or refuses to receive on board his ship, or to give a passage or subsistence to, or to provide for, any such seaman or apprentice contrary to the provisions of section fifty-six, he shall, for each seaman and apprentice with respect to whom he so fails or refuses, be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or, when he is tried at any place beyond the limits of British India, to the equivalent of one thousand rupees in the currency of such place.

Conditions under which master may claim payment.

58. When any master of a British ship has conveyed a seaman or apprentice in excess of the number (if any) wanted to make up the complement of his crew to any place in accordance with the requisition of a local authority under this chapter, such master shall be entitled to be paid by the Secretary of State for India in Council in respect of the subsistence and passage of such seaman or apprentice such sum per diem as the Governor General in Council from time to time appoints:

Provided that no payment shall be made under this section except on the production of the following documents (that is to say):—

(b) a declaration in writing by such master made and verified in manner hereinafter provided, and stating—

(1) the number of days during which such seaman or apprentice received subsistence and was provided for as aforesaid on board his ship;

(2) the number of men and boys forming the complement of his crew;

(3) the number of seamen and apprentices employed on board his ship during the time such seaman or apprentice was on board; and

(4) every variation (if any) of such number.

The declaration required by this section shall, in the case of a ship conveying Native Indian subjects of Her Majesty to a port in British India, be made before a Shipping-master or such other officer as the Local Government may appoint. In other cases such declaration shall be made and verified in the same manner as declarations made under section 212 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854.

Wages and expenses incurred in respect of distressed seamen to be charged on ship to which they belong in certain cases.

59. (a). If any seaman or apprentice, being a Native Indian subject of Her Majesty and belonging to any British ship, is discharged or left behind at any place in British India without full compliance on the part of the master with all the provisions in that behalf of the law for the time being in force, and becomes distressed and is relieved under the provisions of this chapter; or

(b) if any such seaman or apprentice, after having been engaged by any person (whether acting as principal or agent) to serve in any ship belonging to any foreign power or to the subject of any foreign power, becomes distressed and is relieved as aforesaid; or

(c) if any seaman or apprentice belonging to any British ship, registered in British India, and not being a Native Indian subject of Her Majesty, is discharged or left behind at any place in British India without full compliance as aforesaid, and becomes distressed and is relieved as aforesaid,

Local Government may authorize persons to recover same.

61. The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, authorize, either generally or specially, such persons as it thinks fit to sue for any such wages and expenses and recover the same.

Such persons to be deemed persons filling a public office.

And every person so authorized shall be entitled to sue and recover accordingly, and shall be deemed to be a person filling a public office within the meaning of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 57, clause 7.

Board of Trade may recover such amount from master or owner in certain cases.

62. When any such wages and expenses are due to or in respect of a seaman or apprentice mentioned in section fifty-nine, clause (c), they may, instead of being recovered by a person authorized under section sixty-one, be recovered by the Board of Trade in manner provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, section 213, and when so recovered shall be paid by the said Board to the Secretary of State for India in Council.

What shall be evidence of distress and expenses incurred.

63. In all proceedings under this chapter, whether in India or elsewhere, the production of a certificate signed by the local authority by which any seaman or apprentice named therein was relieved, or any expenses were incurred, under this chapter, to the effect that such seaman or apprentice was in distress, and that such expenses were incurred in respect of such seaman or apprentice, shall be sufficient evidence that such seaman or apprentice was relieved, conveyed home or buried (as the case may be) at the expense of the revenues of India.

Power of Governor General in Council to make rules.

64. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, make rules to determine under what circumstances and subject to what conditions seamen or apprentices may be relieved and provided with passages under this chapter and generally to carry out the provisions of this chapter.

All such rules shall be published in the Gazette of India, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

CHAPTER IV.

Wreck may in certain cases be sold.

73. If after the publication of such notification the wreck is unclaimed, or if the person claiming the same fails to pay the amount due for salvage and for charges incurred by the receiver of wreck in respect thereof, the receiver of wreck may sell such wreck by public auction, if of a perishable nature, forthwith, and if not of a perishable nature, at any period not less than six months after such notification as aforesaid.

74. On the realization of the proceeds of such sale, the amount due for salvage and charges as aforesaid, together with the expenses of the sale, shall be deducted therefrom, and the balance shall be paid to the owner of the wreck, or, if no such person appear and claim the same, shall be held in deposit for payment, without interest, to any person thereafter establishing his right to the same:

Scale of provisions to be furnished to lascars.

Any master entering into an agreement with lascars or other Native seamen for a scale of provisions less than the scale so fixed and published shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The provisions of this Bill may be roughly divided into three parts (namely):—

I. those relating to unsafe and unseaworthy ships contained in chapter II;

II. those relating to the relief and conveyance to their homes of distressed seamen contained in chapter III;

III. those contained in the subsequent chapters which make additions to, and amendments of, the existing law as to Merchant Shipping on various miscellaneous points.

I.—Unseaworthy Ships.

2. The whole law enacted by Parliament on the subject of seaworthiness of ships is now contained in the Statute 39 & 40 Vic., c., 80. There are two main reasons why that Statute does not meet the requirements of this country:

First.—None of its provisions apply to ships of British Indian register as distinguished from ships of British register. Ships of British Indian register (or "British Indian ships" as they are termed in the Bill) are a somewhat peculiar class of vessels, registered under Acts of the Indian legislature, and only possessing the status of British ships within certain defined limits in Eastern waters. As there is a large number of such ships sailing from ports in India, it is obvious that any law which does not include them is incomplete and inadequate.

Secondly.—Even with regard to British ships, to which the Statute does apply, though many of its provisions extend to them wherever they may be, still some—and perhaps the most important—are confined to such ships when sailing from ports in the United Kingdom, and are, therefore, totally inoperative in this country.

3. It is the object of this Bill to supplement the Statute, and by extending certain of its provisions to this country to make all ships, whether British or British Indian, sailing from ports in India subject to provisions similar to those to which British ships are subject in the United Kingdom.

In doing this, however, care has been taken strictly to confine the provisions of the Bill to those cases to which the Statute does not apply, and in no way to trench upon ground which its provisions already cover.

4. The sections of the Statute which have been adopted in this Bill are sections 4 to 12 inclusive, and sections 15, 22, 25, 26, 28, 34 and 35.

The effect of these provisions may be shortly stated as follows.

Section 4 makes it penal for any person to send, and any master to take, a ship to sea when she is in such an unseaworthy state that the life of any person is likely to be thereby endangered.

Section 5 makes it an implied condition in every contract of service with a seaman and in every instrument of apprenticeship that all reasonable efforts will be used to secure the seaworthiness of the ship.

Section 6 empowers the Board of Trade to order the detention of any British ship which they believe to be unsafe; and sections 7, 8 and 9 deal with the constitution and procedure of the Court of Survey, to which appeals may be made from such order.

Section 10 lays down the cases in which the Board and shipowner respectively shall be liable for costs of detention and survey. Section 11 empowers the Board to require security for costs from a complainant; whilst section 12 is taken up with general supplemental provisions as to the detention of ships.

By section 15, in cases of scientific difficulty, a special Court of appeal of scientific men is provided.

Section 22 enacts in what way only grain cargoes may be stowed.

Sections 25 and 26 lay down certain rules as to the marking of ships with deck and load lines—the former to indicate the position of each deck which is above water, and the latter the depth in the water up to which the owner intends to load the ship; and section 28 inflicts certain penalties for offences in relation to these marks.

Sections 34 and 35 contain miscellaneous provisions as to the enforcement of the detention of ships and service of orders, notices, &c., on masters.

5. Of the above provisions, sections 4, 5, 22 and 25 apply to British ships wherever they may be. They, therefore, already apply proprio vigore to such ships in India; and, accordingly, the Bill extends them only to British Indian ships. The other sections apply to British ships only when in ports in the United Kingdom; and, therefore, the Bill extends them both to British and British Indian ships in this country.

6. In adapting to India an English Act of this nature, it seems advisable to make the Indian Act as nearly as possible identical with the English one. In drafting this chapter therefore, the provisions of 39 & 40 Vic., c. 80, have been followed as closely as possible, not merely in substance, but also in wording. The different circumstances of India have, however, required certain alterations in the authorities who are to carry out the provisions of the chapter. For example, it has been necessary to substitute "Local Government" for "Board of Trade," and to alter the list of persons from whom the Judge of the Court of Survey shall be summoned; and the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal has been authorized to delegate his powers under the proposed Act to the Calcutta Port Commissioners (section 50); but, as a rule, the provisions of the English Act have been adopted as they stand.

II.—Distressed Seamen.

7. The main provisions of the existing law relating to the relief and conveyance home of distressed seamen are contained in sections 211 and 212 of the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854, forming a portion of Part III of the Act. Section 109 of the Act applies these provisions to—

(a) all ships registered in any British possession when they are out of the jurisdiction of that possession;

(b) all ships registered in any British possession and plying between any place in the United Kingdom and any place not situated in that possession;

(c) all sea-going ships registered in the United Kingdom, with some exceptions immaterial for the present purpose; and

(d) the owners, masters and crews of all such ships.

There may thus be ships registered in India to which these provisions apply, e.g., an Indian ship at Singapore or Hong-Kong, or one plying between Galle and London. There may also be ships of English register, though plying exclusively within British Indian waters and manned by Native crews, to which the same provisions apply, as is the case with some of the vessels of the British Indian Steam Navigation Company, which are registered in Glasgow.

8. Sections 211 and 212 of the Act made provisions in favour of distressed seamen "being subjects of Her Majesty," and it is clear that in this expression all subjects, whatever their place of birth, are included.

9. By subsequent enactments powers have been conferred on the Board of Trade to issue binding instructions for the regulation of the relief of distressed seamen. The enactment now operative for this purpose is the twenty-second section of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act of 1862. The instructions issued by the Board relate to distressed seamen generally, making no distinction between different classes. They appear clearly to apply to all seamen over whom the Act of 1854 gives jurisdiction, e.g., they would apply to Bengal lascars in distress at Penang.

10. A question arises as to the circumstances under which these instructions, which, as shown above, apply to some ships while in Indian waters and also include lascars who are British subjects, become applicable to such lascars. This arises on the interpretation of the conditions laid down in the Act, which are that the seamen, besides being distressed, shall be abroad and desire to be conveyed home. These words may equally, accurately and literally be construed either of the place or the possession at or in which the seaman is, and it is possible to do little more than guess at the construction they should receive.

11. It is thus clear that, on the most restrictive construction of the Act, there are many cases occurring in British India to which the Act and instructions apply, but that from the vagueness of the terms used in the Act, it is impossible to tell how far such cases may extend.

12. It is not competent to the Government of India to effect of its own motion any amendment of the terms of sections 211 and 212 of the Act of 1854. It might do so possibly if that Act stood by itself; but the instructions issued by the Board of Trade, which are the means whereby these sections are worked, are no part of the Act of 1854, but depend for their authority on the Act of 1862, which it is beyond the power of the Government of India to repeal or affect. On the other hand, there are cases not falling within those enumerated in paragraph seven as governed by the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854, for which the Government of this country has power to legislate.

13. It is with these latter cases that chapter III of the Bill deals. Under the first construction of the words "abroad" and "home" referred to in paragraph ten, the case mentioned in clause (a) of section 52 of the Bill is no doubt to some extent provided for by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854; but on either construction of these words it will be admitted that there are some places in British India where a Native seaman may be which are not abroad to him, though not actually his home. These cases will be provided for, while, as the Bill does not purport to provide for any case in which the Board of Trade have power to issue instructions, any possibility of conflict between the Local and Imperial Acts will be avoided.

14. Following section 16 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1855, the local authorities in India have been empowered to send home distressed foreign as well as British seamen, and further to send seamen home in foreign ships. This extended power may be found useful in the case of some Asiatic seamen not subjects of Her Majesty.

15. The money paid in respect of the seamen referred to in clause (a) of section 52 should be recovered from the ship to which the distressed seaman belonged by the Secretary of State in Council; and section 61 accordingly provides for its being recovered in India by him. In the case mentioned in clause (c) of section 59, it would appear that, under section 288 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, the Government of India can empower the Board of Trade to recover the money for it by adapting the provisions of section 213 of the Act to the case. Accordingly, there has been added in section 62 a power to the Board of Trade to recover for the Government of India, which will probably be found useful when the money has to be recovered

[redacted] subsistence for Native Indian seamen that to be fixed for such persons by the Government of India under the Bill. The result is that, if these provisions become law, the instructions of the Board of Trade and this Act will cover the whole ground, although it may still remain uncertain how much is covered by the instructions of the Board and how much by the Act.

III.—Miscellaneous Amendments.

17. The other provisions of the Bill do not call for much notice. They have all been introduced to provide for cases in which it appears that the provisions of the existing law are wanting or insufficient.

18. By a recent order of Government, all officers holding port appointments have been prohibited from undertaking private surveys. It having since been represented that considerable inconvenience is caused by this order, in consequence of the private surveyors at some ports not possessing the confidence of the mercantile community, provision has been made in the Bill (chapter IV) for the examination and licensing of fit persons to be marine surveyors, and prohibiting any unlicensed person from acting as a marine surveyor in any port where there may be any such licensed surveyor.

19. Chapter V, providing for the appointment of receivers of wreck, has been introduced at the suggestion of the Secretary of State, who considers that some provisions on the subject similar to those in the English Merchant Shipping Act of 1854 are desirable. In the event of this portion of the Bill becoming law, chapter V of the Indian Ports Act, relating to salvage in ports, will become unnecessary, and it is accordingly proposed to repeal it.

20. Chapter VI provides for the appointment of persons to inspect ships for the purpose of seeing whether they are properly furnished with lights and with the means of making fog-signals in accordance with the regulations for preventing collisions at sea. Section 30 of the English Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, deals with this point. Though under it the Board of Trade is apparently given power to appoint persons to inspect ships for such purpose anywhere, still it is doubtful whether it was intended to give them this power in a British possession abroad, and still more doubtful whether the Board would be willing to exercise this power. It has, therefore, been considered the best course for the legislature of this country to take independent power in the matter.

21. Chapter VII, by an addition to the Ports Act, 1875, provides for the appointment of an officer called a "Port-inspector." This officer, in addition to performing the duties at present performed by the Health-officer (for the performance of which duties he is by the Bill invested with certain legal powers), is intrusted with the duty of inquiring into any complaints which may be made on the arrival of a ship in port by any of the crew against the master or any others of the crew. This latter provision has been inserted, in compliance with the desire of the Secretary of State, for the protection of lascars or other Oriental seamen when serving on board a European ship.

22. Chapter VIII makes two amendments of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875. The one extends the provisions of section 3 of that Act so as to give power to hold Marine Courts of Enquiry in certain cases which are at present unprovided for. This change has been introduced at the request of the local Marine authorities, and is in accordance with the provisions of the English law as recently amended. The other amendment gives the Local Government power to fix a scale of provisions, for less than which it will be penal for a master to contract with any lascar or Native seaman—a provision which has been found to be essential for the protection of such seamen.

Notice of accidents to be given to the Local Government.

"3. When—

(a) any ship has been lost, abandoned, stranded or damaged on or near the coasts of India; or

(b) by reason of any casualty happening to or on board of any ship on or near such coasts, loss of life has ensued; or

(c) any ship has caused loss or damage to any other ship on or near such coasts; or

(d) any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has happened elsewhere, and any competent witnesses thereof have arrived or are to be found at any place in India;

(e) or any ship is supposed to have been lost, and any evidence can be obtained in India as to the circumstances under which she proceeded to sea or was last heard of;

and any Magistrate or any officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf receives information of the same, he shall without delay communicate such information to the Local Government.

In cases under clauses (a), (b) and (c), the master, pilot, harbour-master or other person in charge of the ship or (where two ships are concerned) in charge of each ship at the time of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty, and in cases under clause (d), where the ship concerned proceeds direct from the place where such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has occurred to any place in India, the master of such ship at the time she arrives at such place, shall, on arriving in India, give immediate notice of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty to the nearest Magistrate, or, when he arrives at a port, to the officer appointed at such port as aforesaid.

Any person bound to give notice under this section and wilfully failing to give the same shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and, in default of payment, to simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months."

Insertion of section after section 25 of same Act.

82. After section twenty-five of the same Act, the following section shall be inserted (that is to say):—

Scale of provisions to be furnished to lascars.

"25A. In the case of such agreements with lascars or other Native seamen, the scale of the provisions agreed to be furnished to each of such seamen shall not be less than a scale to be from time to time fixed and published by the Local Government with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

Any master entering into an agreement with lascars or other Native seamen for a scale of provisions less than the scale so fixed and published shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE provisions of this Bill may be roughly divided into three parts (namely):—

I. those relating to unseaworthy ships contained in chapter II;

II. those relating to the [illegible] distressed seamen contained in chapter III;

III. those contained in the subsequent chapters which make additions to, and amendments of, the existing law as to Merchant Shipping on various miscellaneous points.

I.—Unseaworthy Ships.

2. The whole law enacted by Parliament on the subject of seaworthiness of ships is now contained in the Statute 39 & 40 Vic., c. 80. There are two main reasons why that Statute does not meet the requirements of this country:

First.—None of its provisions apply to ships of British Indian register as distinguished from ships of British register. Ships of British Indian register (or "British Indian ships" as they are termed in the Bill) are a somewhat peculiar class of vessels, registered under Acts of the Indian legislature, and only possessing the status of British ships within certain defined limits in Eastern waters. As there is a large number of such ships sailing from ports in India, it is obvious that any law which does not include them is incomplete and inadequate.

Secondly.—Even with regard to British ships, to which the Statute does apply, though many of its provisions extend to them wherever they may be, still some—and perhaps the most important—are confined to such ships when sailing from ports in the United Kingdom, and are, therefore, totally inoperative in this country.

3. It is the object of this Bill to supplement the Statute, and by extending certain of its provisions to this country to make all ships, whether British or British Indian, sailing from ports in India subject to provisions similar to those to which British ships are subject in the United Kingdom.

In doing this, however, care has been taken strictly to confine the provisions of the Bill to those cases to which the Statute does not apply, and in no way to trench upon ground which its provisions already cover.

4. The sections of the Statute which have been adopted in this Bill are sections 4 to 13 inclusive, and sections 15, 22, 25, 26, 28, 34 and 35.

The effect of these provisions may be shortly stated as follows.

Section 4 makes it penal for any person to send, and any master to take, a ship to sea when she is in such an unseaworthy state that the life of any person is likely to be thereby endangered.

Section 5 makes it an implied condition in every contract of service with a seaman and in every instrument of apprenticeship that all reasonable efforts will be used to secure the seaworthiness of the ship.

Section 6 empowers the Board of Trade to order the detention of any British ship which they believe to be unsafe; and sections 7, 8 and 9 deal with the constitution and procedure of the Court of Survey, to which appeals may be made from such order.

Section 10 lays down the cases in which the Board and shipowner respectively shall be liable for costs of detention and survey. Section 11 empowers the Board to require security for costs from a complainant; whilst section 12 is taken up with general supplemental provisions as to the detention of ships.

By section 15, in cases of scientific difficulty, a special Court of appeal of scientific men is provided.

Section 22 enacts in what way only grain cargoes may be stowed.

Sections 25 and 26 lay down certain rules as to the marking of ships with deck and load lines—the former to indicate the position of each deck which is above water, and the latter the depth in the water up to which the owner intends to load the ship; and section 28 inflicts certain penalties for offences in relation to these marks.

Sections 34 and 35 contain miscellaneous provisions as to the enforcement of the detention of ships and service of orders, notices, &c., on masters.

5. Of the above provisions, sections 4, 5, 22 and 25 apply to British ships wherever they may be. They, therefore, already apply proprio vigore to such ships in India; and, accordingly, the Bill extends them only to British Indian ships. The other sections apply to British ships only when in ports in the United Kingdom; and, therefore, the Bill extends them both to British and British Indian ships in this country.

6. In adapting to India an English Act of this nature, it seems advisable to make the Indian Act as nearly as possible identical with the English one. In drafting this chapter therefore, the provisions of 39 & 40 Vic., c. 80, have been followed as closely as possible, not merely in substance, but also in wording. The different circumstances of India have, however, required certain alterations in the authorities who are to carry out the provisions of the chapter. For example, it has been necessary to substitute "Local Government" for "Board of Trade," and to alter the list of persons from whom the Judge of the Court of Survey shall be summoned; and the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal has been authorized to delegate his powers under the proposed Act to the Calcutta Port Commissioners (section 50); but, as a rule, the provisions of the English Act have been adopted as they stand.

II.—Distressed Seamen.

7. The main provisions of the existing law relating to the relief and conveyance home of distressed seamen are contained in sections 211 and 212 of the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854, forming a portion of Part III of the Act. Section 109 of the Act applies these provisions to—

(a) all ships registered in any British possession when they are out of the jurisdiction of that possession;

(b) all ships registered in any British possession and plying between any place in the United Kingdom and any place not situated in that possession;

(c) all sea-going ships registered in the United Kingdom, with some exceptions immaterial for the present purpose; and

(d) the owners, masters and crews of all such ships.

There may thus be ships registered in India to which these provisions apply, e.g., an Indian ship at Singapore or Hong-Kong, or one plying between Galle and London. There may also be ships of English register, though plying exclusively within British Indian waters and manned by Native crews, to which the same provisions apply, as is the case with some of the vessels of the British Indian Steam Navigation Company, which are registered in Glasgow.

8. Sections 211 and 212 of the Act made provisions in favour of distressed seamen "being subjects of Her Majesty," and it is clear that in this expression all subjects, whatever their place of birth, are included.

9. By subsequent enactments powers have been conferred on the Board of Trade to issue binding instructions for the regulation of the relief of distressed seamen. The enactment now operative for this purpose is the twenty-second section of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act of 1862. The instructions issued by the Board relate to distressed seamen generally, making no distinction between different classes. They appear clearly to apply to all seamen over whom the Act of 1854 gives jurisdiction, e.g., they would apply to Bengal lascars in distress at Penang.

10. A question arises as to the circumstances under which these instructions, which, as shown above, apply to some ships while in Indian waters and also include lascars who are British subjects, become applicable to such lascars. This arises on the interpretation of the conditions laid down in the Act, which are that the seamen, besides being distressed, shall be abroad and desire to be conveyed home. These words may equally, accurately and literally be construed either of the place or the possession at or in which the seaman is, and it is possible to do little more than guess at the construction they should receive.

11. It is thus clear that, on the most restrictive construction of the Act, there are many cases occurring in British India to which the Act and instructions apply, but that from the vagueness of the terms used in the Act, it is impossible to tell how far such cases may extend.

12. It is not competent to the Government of India to effect of its own motion any amendment of the terms of sections 211 and 212 of the Act of 1854. It might do so possibly if that Act stood by itself; but the instructions issued by the Board of Trade, which are the means whereby these sections are worked, are no part of the Act of 1854, but depend for their authority on the Act of 1862, which it is beyond the power of the Government of India to repeal or affect. On the other hand, there are cases not falling within those enumerated in paragraph seven as governed by the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854, for which the Government of this country has power to legislate.

13. It is with these latter cases that chapter III of the Bill deals. Under the first construction of the words "abroad" and "home" referred to in paragraph ten, the case mentioned in clause (a) of section 52 of the Bill is no doubt to some extent provided for by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854; but on either construction of these words it will be admitted that there are some places in British India where a Native seaman may be which are not abroad to him, though not actually his home. These cases will be provided for, while, as the Bill does not purport to provide for any case in which the Board of Trade have power to issue instructions, any possibility of conflict between the Local and Imperial Acts will be avoided.

14. Following section 16 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1855, the local authorities in India have been empowered to send home distressed foreign as well as British seamen, and further to send seamen home in foreign ships. This extended power may be found useful in the case of some Asiatic seamen not subjects of Her Majesty.

15. The money paid in respect of the seamen referred to in clause (a) of section 52 should be recovered from the ship to which the distressed seaman belonged by the Secretary of State in Council; and section 61 accordingly provides for its being recovered in India by him. In the case mentioned in clause (c) of section 59, it would appear that, under section 288 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, the Government of India can empower the Board of Trade to recover the money for it by adapting the provisions of section 213 of the Act to the case. Accordingly, there has been added in section 62 a power to the Board of Trade to recover for the Government of India, which will probably be found useful when the money has to be recovered in England or in British possessions abroad.

16. A draft of these provisions has been submitted to the Board of Trade, who have agreed to issue new instructions in conformity with the Bill, and to adopt as the rate of subsistence for Native Indian seamen that to be fixed for such persons by the Government of India under the Bill. The result is that, if these provisions become law, the instructions of the Board of Trade and this Act will cover the whole ground, although it may still remain uncertain how much is covered by the instructions of the Board and how much by the Act.

III.—Miscellaneous Amendments.

17. The other provisions of the Bill do not call for much notice. They have all been introduced to provide for cases in which it appears that the provisions of the existing law are wanting or insufficient.

The declaration required by this section shall, in the case of a ship conveying Native Indian subjects of Her Majesty to a port in British India, be made before a Shipping-master or such other officer as the Local Government may appoint. In other cases such declaration shall be made and verified in the same manner as declarations made under section 212 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854.

Wages and expenses incurred in respect of distressed seamen to be charged on ship to which they belong in certain cases.

59. (a). If any seaman or apprentice, being a Native Indian subject of Her Majesty and belonging to any British ship, is discharged or left behind at any place in British India without full compliance on the part of the master with all the provisions in that behalf of the law for the time being in force, and becomes distressed and is relieved under the provisions of this chapter; or

(b) if any such seaman or apprentice, after having been engaged by any person (whether acting as principal or agent) to serve in any ship belonging to any foreign power or to the subject of any foreign power, becomes distressed and is relieved as aforesaid; or

(c) if any seaman or apprentice belonging to any British ship, registered in British India, and not being a Native Indian subject of Her Majesty, is discharged or left behind at any place in British India without full compliance as aforesaid, and becomes distressed and is relieved as aforesaid, the wages (if any) due to such seaman or apprentice, and all expenses incurred for his subsistence, necessary clothing, conveyance home, and, in case he should die before reaching home, for his burial, shall be a charge upon the ship, whether British or foreign, to which he so belonged as aforesaid.

Mode of recovering such wages and expenses.

60. All such wages and expenses shall be recoverable with costs either from the master of such ship or from the person who is owner thereof for the time being, or in the case of an engagement for service in a foreign ship, from such master or owner or from the person by whom such engagement was so made, in the same manner as other debts due to the Secretary of State for India in Council, or in the same manner and by the same form and process in which wages due to the seaman or apprentice would be recoverable by him.

Local Government may authorize persons to recover same.

61. The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, authorize, either generally or specially, such persons as it thinks fit to sue for any such wages and expenses and recover the same.

Such persons to be deemed persons filling a public office.

And every person so authorized shall be entitled to sue and recover accordingly, and shall be deemed to be a person filling a public office within the meaning of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 57, clause 7.

Board of Trade may recover such amount from master or owner in certain cases.

62. When any such wages and expenses are due to or in respect of a seaman or apprentice mentioned in section fifty-nine, clause (c), they may, instead of being recovered by a person authorized under section sixty-one, be recovered by the Board of Trade in manner provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, section 213, and when so recovered shall be paid by the said Board to the Secretary of State for India in Council.

What shall be evidence of distress and expenses incurred.

63. In all proceedings under this chapter, whether in India or elsewhere, the production of a certificate signed by the local authority by which any seaman or apprentice named therein was relieved, or any expenses were incurred, under this chapter, to the effect that such seaman or apprentice was in distress, and that such expenses were incurred in respect of such seaman or apprentice, shall be sufficient evidence that such seaman or apprentice was relieved, conveyed home or buried (as the case may be) at the expense of the revenues of India.

Power of Governor General in Council to make rules.

64. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, make rules to determine under what circumstances and subject to what conditions seamen or apprentices may be relieved and provided with passages under this chapter and generally to carry out the provisions of this chapter.

All such rules shall be published in the Gazette of India, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

CHAPTER IV.

MARINE SURVEYORS.

Local Government to appoint examiners,

65. The Local Government may, from time to time, appoint competent persons for the purpose of examining the qualifications of persons desirous of practising the profession of a marine surveyor in the territories [illegible] by such Government, and subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, make rules—

(a) for the conduct of such examinations and the qualifications to be required,

(b) for the grant of certificates to qualified persons,

(c) for the fees to be paid for such examinations and certificates,

(d) for holding inquiries into charges of incompetency and misconduct on the part of holders of such certificates, and

(e) for the suspension and cancelment of such certificates.

Publication of rules.

All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

No person to practise as marine surveyor unless qualified.

66. No person shall, in any port in which there is a person exercising the profession of a marine surveyor and holding a certificate issued under section sixty-five, exercise such profession in such port unless he holds a certificate issued under that section.

Penalty for practising as marine surveyor without certificate.

67. Any person who exercises such profession in contravention of the provisions of section sixty-six, shall be punished with fine not exceeding one thousand rupees, and in default of payment with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months. He shall also be incapable of maintaining any suit for any fee or reward for anything done by him whilst acting as a marine surveyor in contravention of the provisions of section sixty-six.

CHAPTER V.

RECEIVERS OF WRECK.

Repeal of chapter V of Indian Ports Act, 1875.

68. Chapter V of the Indian Ports Act, 1875, is hereby repealed.

Appointment of wreck-receivers.

69. The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, appoint such persons as it thinks fit to receive and take possession of wreck and to perform such duties connected therewith as are hereinafter mentioned within such local limits as it may from time to time prescribe.

Persons so appointed shall be called receivers of wreck.

Rules to be observed by persons finding wreck.

70. Whenever any wreck is found within any local limits for which a receiver of wreck has been so appointed, the finder shall as soon as practicable—

(a) if he be the owner thereof, give the receiver of wreck notice in writing of the finding thereof and of the marks by which such wreck is distinguished;

If he be the owner.

(b) if he be not the owner of such wreck, deliver the same to the receiver of wreck.

If he be not the owner.

Government or person finding wreck entitled to salvage.

71. Whenever any wreck is found by the receiver of wreck or has been delivered to him in accordance with the provisions of section seventy by any person, not being the owner thereof, the Government or such other person so delivering such wreck, as the case may be, shall be entitled to receive a reasonable sum for salvage, having regard to all the circumstances of the case.

Disputes concerning amount of salvage.

Any dispute arising concerning the amount due under this section shall be determined by a Magistrate, upon application to him for that purpose by either of the disputing parties.

Notice to be given by wreck-receiver.

72. The receiver of wreck shall, on taking possession of any wreck, publish a notification, in such manner and at such place as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe in this behalf, containing a description of the same and the time at which and the place where the same was found.

Wreck may in certain cases be sold.

73. If after the publication of such notification the wreck is unclaimed, or if the person claiming the same fails to pay the amount due for salvage and for charges incurred by the receiver of wreck in respect thereof, the receiver of wreck may sell such wreck by public auction, if of a perishable nature, forthwith, and if not of a perishable nature, at any period not less than six months after such notification as aforesaid.

Proceeds how applied.

74. On the realization of the proceeds of such sale, the amount due for salvage and charges as aforesaid, together with the expenses of the sale, shall be deducted therefrom, and the balance shall be paid to the owner of the wreck, or, if no such person appear and claim the same, shall be held in deposit for payment, without interest, to any person thereafter establishing his right to the same:

Provided that he makes his claim within one year from the date of the sale.

Penalty for failure to give notice of, or to deliver, wreck to the receiver of wreck.

75. Any person omitting to give notice of the finding of, or to deliver, any wreck to the receiver of wreck as required by section seventy shall be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, and in the case of omission to deliver any wreck, shall, in addition to such fine, forfeit all claim to salvage, and pay to the owner of such wreck if the same is claimed, or if the same is unclaimed to the Government, a penalty not exceeding twice the value of such wreck.

CHAPTER VI.

INSPECTION OF SHIPS WITH REGARD TO LIGHT AND FOG-SIGNALS.

Saving clause.

76. Nothing in this chapter contained shall apply to any ship belonging to, or in the service of, Her Majesty or the Government of India or any foreign prince or State.

Appointment of inspectors of lights and fog-signals.

77. The Local Government may, from time to time, appoint persons to inspect ships in any port for the purpose of seeing that the same are properly provided with lights and with the means of making fog-signals in pursuance of the regulations for preventing collisions at sea, issued under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, or any other similar law for the time being in force, and may suspend or remove any person so appointed.

Every person so appointed shall in the port for which he is appointed have, for the purposes of such inspection, the powers given to detaining-officers by section ten.

Notice of deficiency to be given to master or owner by such inspectors.

78. If any such person finds that any ship is not so provided, he shall give to the master or owner notice in writing pointing out the deficiency, and also what is, in his opinion, requisite in order to remedy the same.

Ship not to be cleared by Customs-collector till inspector certifies it is properly provided with lights, &c.

79. Every notice so given shall be communicated, in such manner as the Local Government may direct, to the Customs-collector at any port from which such ship may seek to clear; and no Customs-collector to whom such communication is made shall grant such ship a port-clearance or allow her to proceed to sea without a certificate under the hand of some person appointed as aforesaid, to the effect that the said ship is properly provided with lights and with the means of making fog-signals in pursuance of the said regulations.

CHAPTER VII.

PORT-INSPECTORS.

Addition to Act XII of 1875, after section 18.

80. In the Indian Ports Act, 1875, after section eighteen, the following sections shall be inserted (that is to say):—

"18A. The Local Government may, from time to time, appoint in any port subject to this Act an officer to be called the Port-inspector, and suspend or remove such officer.

Every officer so appointed shall, subject to the control of the Local Government, have the following powers within the limits of the port for which he is appointed (that is to say):—

(a) he may at any time enter any vessel and may inspect the same and every part thereof, and the provisions and water provided for the use of the persons on board such vessel and the medicines and appliances and the accommodation for the seamen;

(b) he may medically examine all or any of the persons on board such vessel;

(d) he may call before him and examine for such purpose all or any of such persons, and may require answers to any inquiries he thinks fit to make;

"18B. The Port-inspector shall, on first entering any vessel after its arrival, inquire whether any seaman or apprentice on board such vessel desires to make any complaint against the master or any of the crew thereof.

In the event of any seaman or apprentice so desiring, the Port-inspector shall hear such complaint and record the particulars thereof in writing, and may, for the purpose of ascertaining the truth of the same, exercise any of the powers mentioned in section 18A.

The Port-inspector shall forthwith report in writing to the Shipping-master the particulars of any complaint made to him under this section, together with his opinion thereon."

Notice of accidents to be given to the Local Government.

"3. When—

(a) any ship has been lost, abandoned, stranded or damaged on or near the coasts of India; or

(b) by reason of any casualty happening to or on board of any ship on or near such coasts, loss of life has ensued; or

(c) any ship has caused loss or damage to any other ship on or near such coasts; or

(d) any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has happened elsewhere, and any competent witnesses thereof have arrived or are to be found at any place in India;

(e) or any ship is supposed to have been lost, and any evidence can be obtained in India as to the circumstances under which she proceeded to sea or was last heard of;

and any Magistrate or any officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf receives information of the same, he shall without delay communicate such information to the Local Government.

In cases under clauses (a), (b) and (c), the master, pilot, harbour-master or other person in charge of the ship or (where two ships are concerned) in charge of each ship at the time of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty, and in cases under clause (d), where the ship concerned proceeds direct from the place where such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has occurred to any place in India, the master of such ship [illegible] after she arrives at such place, shall, on arriving in India, give immediate notice of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty to the nearest Magistrate, or, when he arrives at a port, to the officer appointed at such port as aforesaid.

Any person bound to give notice under this section and wilfully failing to give the same shall be punished with fine which may extend to [illegible] hundred rupees, and, in default of payment, to simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months."

CHAPTER VIII.

AMENDMENT OF THE INDIAN MERCHANT SHIPPING ACT, 1875.

New section substituted for section 3 of Act IV of 1875.

81. In the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875, for section three, the following shall be substituted:—

Insertion of section after section 25 of same Act.

82. After section twenty-five of the same Act, the following section shall be inserted (that is to say):—

Scale of provisions to be furnished to lascars.

"25A. In the case of such agreements with lascars or other Native seamen, the scale of the provisions agreed to be furnished to each of such seamen shall not be less than a scale to be from time to time fixed and published by the Local Government with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

Any master entering into an agreement with lascars or other Native seamen for a scale of provisions less than the scale so fixed and published shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE provisions of this Bill may be roughly divided into three parts (namely) :—

I. those relating to unsafe and unseaworthy ships contained in chapter II;

II. those relating to the relief and conveyance home of distressed seamen contained in chapter III;

III. those contained in the subsequent chapters which make additions to, and amendments of, the existing law as to Merchant Shipping on various miscellaneous points.

I.—Unseaworthy Ships.

2. The whole law enacted by Parliament on the subject of seaworthiness of ships is now contained in the Statute 39 & 40 Vic., c. 80. There are two main reasons why that Statute does not meet the requirements of this country :

First.—None of its provisions apply to ships of British Indian register as distinguished from ships of British register. Ships of British Indian register (or "British Indian ships" as they are termed in the Bill) are a somewhat peculiar class of vessels, registered under Acts of the Indian legislature, and only possessing the status of British ships within certain defined limits in Eastern waters. As there is a large number of such ships sailing from ports in India, it is obvious that any law which does not include them is incomplete and inadequate.

Secondly.—Even with regard to British ships, to which the Statute does apply, though many of its provisions extend to them wherever they may be, still some—and perhaps the most important—are confined to such ships when sailing from ports in the United Kingdom, and are, therefore, totally inoperative in this country.

3. It is the object of this Bill to supplement the Statute, and by extending certain of its provisions to this country to make all ships, whether British or British Indian, sailing from ports in India subject to provisions similar to those to which British ships are subject in the United Kingdom.

In doing this, however, care has been taken strictly to confine the provisions of the Bill to those cases to which the Statute does not apply, and in no way to trench upon ground which its provisions already cover.

4. The sections of the Statute which have been adopted in this Bill are sections 4 to 12 inclusive, and sections 15, 22, 25, 26, 28, 34 and 35.

The effect of these provisions may be shortly stated as follows.

Section 4 makes it penal for any person to send, and any master to take, a ship to sea when she is in such an unseaworthy state that the life of any person is likely to be thereby endangered.

Section 5 makes it an implied condition in every contract of service with a seaman and in every instrument of apprenticeship that all reasonable efforts will be used to secure the seaworthiness of the ship.

Section 6 empowers the Board of Trade to order the detention of any British ship which they believe to be unsafe; and sections 7, 8 and 9 deal with the constitution and procedure of the Court of Survey, to which appeals may be made from such order.

Section 10 lays down the cases in which the Board and shipowner respectively shall be liable for costs of detention and survey. Section 11 empowers the Board to require security for costs from a complainant; whilst section 12 is taken up with general supplemental provisions as to the detention of ships.

By section 15, in cases of scientific difficulty, a special Court of appeal of scientific men is provided.

Section 22 enacts in what way only grain cargoes may be stowed.

Sections 25 and 26 lay down certain rules as to the marking of ships with deck and load lines—the former to indicate the position of each deck which is above water, and the latter the depth in the water up to which the owner intends to load the ship; and section 28 inflicts certain penalties for offences in relation to these marks.

Sections 34 and 35 contain miscellaneous provisions as to the enforcement of the detention of ships and service of orders, notices, &c., on masters.

5. Of the above provisions, sections 4, 5, 22 and 25 apply to British ships wherever they may be. They, therefore, already apply proprio vigore to such ships in India; and, accordingly, the Bill extends them only to British Indian ships. The other sections apply to British ships only when in ports in the United Kingdom; and, therefore, the Bill extends them both to British and British Indian ships in this country.

6. In adapting to India an English Act of this nature, it seems advisable to make the Indian Act as nearly as possible identical with the English one. In drafting this chapter therefore, the provisions of 39 & 40 Vic., c. 80, have been followed as closely as possible, not merely in substance, but also in wording. The different circumstances of India have, however, required certain alterations in the authorities who are to carry out the provisions of the chapter. For example, it has been necessary to substitute "Local Government" for "Board of Trade," and to alter the list of persons from whom the Judge of the Court of Survey shall be summoned; and the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal has been authorized to delegate his powers under the proposed Act to the Calcutta Port Commissioners (section 50); but, as a rule, the provisions of the English Act have been adopted as they stand.

II.—Distressed Seamen.

7. The main provisions of the existing law relating to the relief and conveyance home of distressed seamen are contained in sections 211 and 212 of the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854, forming a portion of Part III of the Act. Section 109 of the Act applies these provisions to—

(a) all ships registered in any British possession when they are out of the jurisdiction of that possession;

(b) all ships registered in any British possession and plying between any place in the United Kingdom and any place not situated in that possession;

(c) all sea-going ships registered in the United Kingdom, with some exceptions immaterial for the present purpose; and

(d) the owners, masters and crews of all such ships.

There may thus be ships registered in India to which these provisions apply, e.g., an Indian ship at Singapore or Hong-Kong, or one plying between Galle and London. There may also be ships of English register, though plying exclusively within British Indian waters and manned by Native crews, to which the same provisions apply, as is the case with some of the vessels of the British Indian Steam Navigation Company, which are registered in Glasgow.

8. Sections 211 and 212 of the Act made provisions in favour of distressed seamen "being subjects of Her Majesty," and it is clear that in this expression all subjects, whatever their place of birth, are included.

9. By subsequent enactments powers have been conferred on the Board of Trade to issue binding instructions for the regulation of the relief of distressed seamen. The enactment now operative for this purpose is the twenty-second section of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act of 1862. The instructions issued by the Board relate to distressed seamen generally, making no distinction between different classes. They appear clearly to apply to all seamen over whom the Act of 1854 gives jurisdiction, e.g., they would apply to Bengal lascars in distress at Penang.

10. A question arises as to the circumstances under which these instructions, which, as shown above, apply to some ships while in Indian waters and also include lascars who are British subjects, become applicable to such lascars. This arises on the interpretation of the conditions laid down in the Act, which are that the seaman, besides being distressed, shall be abroad and desire to be conveyed home. These words may equally, accurately and literally be construed either of the place or the possession at or in which the seaman is, and it is possible to do little more than guess at the construction they should receive.

11. It is thus clear that, on the most restrictive construction of the Act, there are many cases occurring in British India to which the Act and instructions apply, but that from the vagueness of the terms used in the Act, it is impossible to tell how far such cases may extend.

12. It is not competent to the Government of India to effect of its own motion any amendment of the terms of sections 211 and 212 of the Act of 1854. It might do so possibly if that Act stood by itself; but the instructions issued by the Board of Trade, which are the means whereby these sections are worked, are no part of the Act of 1854, but depend for their authority on the Act of 1862, which it is beyond the power of the Government of India to repeal or affect. On the other hand, there are cases not falling within those enumerated in paragraph seven as governed by the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854, for which the Government of this country has power to legislate.

13. It is with these latter cases that chapter III of the Bill deals. Under the first construction of the words "abroad" and "home" referred to in paragraph ten, the case mentioned in clause (a) of section 52 of the Bill is no doubt to some extent provided for by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854; but on either construction of these words it will be admitted that there are some places in British India where a Native seaman may be which are not abroad to him, though not actually his home. These cases will be provided for, while, as the Bill does not purport to provide for any case in which the Board of Trade have power to issue instructions, any possibility of conflict between the Local and Imperial Acts will be avoided.

14. Following section 16 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1855, the local authorities in India have been empowered to send home distressed foreign as well as British seamen, and further to send seamen home in foreign ships. This extended power may be found useful in the case of some Asiatic seamen not subjects of Her Majesty.

15. The money paid in respect of the seamen referred to in clause (a) of section 52 should be recovered from the ship to which the distressed seaman belonged by the Secretary of State in Council; and section 61 accordingly provides for its being recovered in India by him. In the case mentioned in clause (c) of section 59, it would appear that, under section 288 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, the Government of India can empower the Board of Trade to recover the money for it by adapting the provisions of section 213 of the Act to the case. Accordingly, there has been added in section 62 a power to the Board of Trade to recover for the Government of India, which will probably be found useful when the money has to be recovered in England or in British possessions abroad.

16. A draft of these provisions has been submitted to the Board of Trade, who have agreed to issue new instructions in conformity with the Bill, and to adopt as the rate of subsistence for Native Indian seamen that to be fixed for such persons by the Government of India under the Bill. The result is that, if these provisions become law, the instructions of the Board of Trade and this Act will cover the whole ground, although it may still remain uncertain how much is covered by the instructions of the Board and how much by the Act.

III.—Miscellaneous Amendments.

17. The other provisions of the Bill do not call for much notice. They have all been introduced to provide for cases in which it appears that the provisions of the existing law are wanting or insufficient.

18. By a recent order of Government, all officers holding port appointments have been prohibited from undertaking private surveys. It having since been represented that considerable inconvenience is caused by this order, in consequence of the private surveyors at some ports not possessing the confidence of the mercantile community, provision has been made in the Bill (chapter IV) for the examination and licensing of fit persons to be marine surveyors, and prohibiting any unlicensed person from acting as a marine surveyor in any port where there may be any such licensed surveyor.

19. Chapter V, providing for the appointment of receivers of wreck, has been introduced at the suggestion of the Secretary of State, who considers that some provisions on the subject similar to those in the English Merchant Shipping Act of 1854 are desirable. In the event of this portion of the Bill becoming law, chapter V of the Indian Ports Act, relating to salvage in ports, will become unnecessary, and it is accordingly proposed to repeal it.

20. Chapter VI provides for the appointment of persons to inspect ships for the purpose of seeing whether they are properly furnished with lights and with the means of making fog-signals in accordance with the regulations for preventing collisions at sea. Section 30 of the English Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, deals with this point. Though under it the Board of Trade is apparently given power to appoint persons to inspect ships for such purpose anywhere, still it is doubtful whether it was intended to give them this power in a British possession abroad, and still more doubtful whether the Board would be willing to exercise this power. It has, therefore, been considered the best course for the legislature of this country to take independent power in the matter.

21. Chapter VII, by an addition to the Ports Act, 1875, provides for the appointment of an officer called a "Port-inspector." This officer, in addition to performing the duties at present performed by the Health-officer (for the performance of which duties he is by the Bill invested with certain legal powers), is intrusted with the duty of inquiring into any complaints which may be made on the arrival of a ship in port by any of the crew against the master or any others of the crew. This latter provision has been inserted, in compliance with the desire of the Secretary of State, for the protection of lascars or other Oriental seamen when serving on board a European ship.

22. Chapter VIII makes two amendments of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875. The one extends the provisions of section 8 of that Act so as to give power to hold Marine Courts of Enquiry in certain cases which are at present unprovided for. This change has been introduced at the request of the local Marine authorities, and is in accordance with the provisions of the English law as recently amended. The other amendment gives the Local Government power to fix a scale of provisions, for less than which it will be penal for a master to contract with any lascar or Native seaman—a provision which has been found to be essential for the protection of such seamen.

Wages and expenses incurred in respect of distressed seamen to be charged on ship to which they belong in certain cases.

59. (a). If any seaman or apprentice, being a Native Indian subject of Her Majesty and belonging to any British ship, is discharged or left behind at any place in British India without full compliance on the part of the master with all the provisions in that behalf of the law for the time being in force, and becomes distressed and is relieved under the provisions of this chapter; or

(b) if any such seaman or apprentice, after having been engaged by any person (whether acting as principal or agent) to serve in any ship belonging to any foreign power or to the subject of any foreign power, becomes distressed and is relieved as aforesaid; or

(c) if any seaman or apprentice belonging to any British ship, registered in British India, and not being a Native Indian subject of Her Majesty, is discharged or left behind at any place in British India without full compliance as aforesaid, and becomes distressed and is relieved as aforesaid, the wages (if any) due to such seaman or apprentice, and all expenses incurred for his subsistence, necessary clothing, conveyance home, and, in case he should die before reaching home, for his burial, shall be a charge upon the ship, whether British or foreign, to which he so belonged as aforesaid.

Mode of recovering such wages and expenses.

60. All such wages and expenses shall be recoverable with costs either from the master of such ship or from the person who is owner thereof for the time being, or in the case of an engagement for service in a foreign ship, from such master or owner, or from the person by whom such engagement was so made, in the same manner as other debts due to the Secretary of State for India in Council, or in the same manner and by the same form and process in which wages due to the seaman or apprentice would be recoverable by him.

Local Government may authorise persons to recover same.

61. The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, authorize, either generally or specially, such persons as it thinks fit to sue for any such wages and expenses and recover the same.

Such persons to be deemed persons filling a public office.

And every person so authorized shall be entitled to sue and recover accordingly, and shall be deemed to be a person filling a public office within the meaning of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 57, clause 7.

Board of Trade may recover such amount from master or owner in certain cases.

62. When any such wages and expenses are due to or in respect of a seaman or apprentice mentioned in section fifty-nine, clause (c), they may, instead of being recovered by a person authorized under section sixty-one, be recovered by the Board of Trade in manner provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, section 213, and when so recovered shall be paid by the said Board to the Secretary of State for India in Council.

What shall be evidence of distress and expenses incurred.

63. In all proceedings under this chapter, whether in India or elsewhere, the production of a certificate signed by the local authority by which any seaman or apprentice named therein was relieved, or any expenses were incurred, under this chapter, to the effect that such seaman or apprentice was in distress, and that such expenses were incurred in respect of such seaman or apprentice, shall be sufficient evidence that such seaman or apprentice was relieved, conveyed home or buried (as the case may be) at the expense of the revenues of India.

Power of Governor General in Council to make rules.

64. The Governor General in Council may, from time to time, make rules to determine under what circumstances and subject to what conditions seamen or apprentices may be relieved and provided with passages under this chapter and generally to carry out the provisions of this chapter.

All such rules shall be published in the Gazette of India, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

CHAPTER IV.

65. The Local Government may, from time to time, appoint competent persons for the purpose of examining the qualifications of persons desirous of practising the profession of a marine surveyor in the territories administered by such Government, and subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, make rules—

[illegible] to make rules as to qualification, &c., of marine surveyors.

(a) for the conduct of such examinations and the qualifications to be required,

(b) for the grant of certificates to qualified persons,

(c) for the fees to be paid for such examinations and certificates,

(d) for holding inquiries into charges of incompetency and misconduct on the part of holders of such certificates, and

(e) for the suspension and cancelment of such certificates.

Publication of rules.

All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

No person to practise as marine surveyor unless qualified.

66. No person shall, in any port in which there is a person exercising the profession of a marine surveyor and holding a certificate issued under section sixty-five, exercise such profession in such port unless he holds a certificate issued under that section.

Penalty for practising as marine surveyor without certificate.

67. Any person who exercises such profession in contravention of the provisions of section sixty-six, shall be punished with fine not exceeding one thousand rupees, and in default of payment with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months. He shall also be incapable of maintaining any suit for any fee or reward for anything done by him whilst acting as a marine surveyor in contravention of the provisions of section sixty-six.

CHAPTER V.

RECEIVERS OF WRECK.

Repeal of chapter V of Indian Ports Act, 1875.

68. Chapter V of the Indian Ports Act, 1875, is hereby repealed.

Appointment of wreck-receivers.

69. The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, appoint such persons as it thinks fit to receive and take possession of wreck and to perform such duties connected therewith as are hereinafter mentioned within such local limits as it may from time to time prescribe.

Persons so appointed shall be called receivers of wreck.

Rules to be observed by persons finding wreck.

70. Whenever any wreck is found within any local limits for which a receiver of wreck has been so appointed, the finder shall as soon as practicable—

If he be the owner;

(a) if he be the owner thereof, give the receiver of wreck notice in writing of the finding thereof and of the marks by which such wreck is distinguished;

if he be not the owner.

(b) if he be not the owner of such wreck, deliver the same to the receiver of wreck.

Government or person finding wreck entitled to salvage.

71. Whenever any wreck is found by the receiver of wreck or has been delivered to him in accordance with the provisions of section seventy by any person, not being the owner thereof, the Government or such other person so delivering such wreck, as the case may be, shall be entitled to receive a reasonable sum for salvage, having regard to all the circumstances of the case.

Any dispute arising concerning the amount due under this section shall be determined by a Magistrate, upon application to him for that purpose by either of the disputing parties.

Disputes concerning amount of salvage.

Notice to be given by wreck-receiver.

72. The receiver of wreck shall, on taking possession of any wreck, publish a notification, in such manner and at such place as the Local Government may from time to time prescribe in this behalf, containing a description of the same and the time at which and the place where the same was found.

Wreck may in certain cases be sold.

73. If after the publication of such notification the wreck is unclaimed, or if the person claiming the same fails to pay the amount due for salvage and for charges incurred by the receiver of wreck in respect thereof, the receiver of wreck may sell such wreck by public auction, if of a perishable nature, forthwith, and if not of a perishable nature, at any period not less than six months after such notification as aforesaid.

Proceeds how applied.

74. On the realization of the proceeds of such sale, the amount due for salvage and charges as aforesaid, together with the expenses of the sale, shall be deducted therefrom, and the balance shall be paid to the owner of the wreck, or, if no such person appear and claim the same, shall be held in deposit for payment, without interest, to any person thereafter establishing his right to the same:

Provided that he makes his claim within one year from the date of the sale.

Penalty for failure to give notice of, or to deliver, wreck to the receiver of wreck.

75. Any person omitting to give notice of the finding of, or to deliver, any wreck to the receiver of wreck as required by section seventy shall be punished with fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, and in the case of omission to deliver any wreck, shall, in addition to such fine, forfeit all claim to salvage, and pay to the owner of such wreck if the same is claimed, or if the same is unclaimed to the Government, a penalty not exceeding twice the value of such wreck.

CHAPTER VI.

INSPECTION OF SHIPS WITH REGARD TO LIGHT AND FOG-SIGNALS.

Saving clause.

76. Nothing in this chapter contained shall apply to any ship belonging to, or in the service of, Her Majesty or the Government of India or any foreign prince or State.

Appointment of inspectors of lights and fog-signals.

77. The Local Government may, from time to time, appoint persons to inspect ships in any port for the purpose of seeing that the same are properly provided with lights and with the means of making fog-signals in pursuance of the regulations for preventing collisions at sea, issued under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, or any other similar law for the time being in force, and may suspend or remove any person so appointed.

Every person so appointed shall in the port for which he is appointed have, for the purposes of such inspection, the powers given to detaining-officers by section ten.

Notice of deficiency to be given to master or owner by such inspectors.

78. If any such person finds that any ship is not so provided, he shall give to the master or owner notice in writing pointing out the deficiency, and also what is, in his opinion, requisite in order to remedy the same.

Ship not to be cleared by Customs-collector till inspector certifies it is properly provided with lights, &c.

79. Every notice so given shall be communicated, in such manner as the Local Government may direct, to the Customs-collector at any port from which such ship may seek to clear; and no Customs-collector to whom such communication is made shall grant such ship a port-clearance or allow her to proceed to sea without a certificate under the hand of some person appointed as aforesaid, to the effect that the said ship is properly provided with lights and with the means of making fog-signals in pursuance of the said regulations.

CHAPTER VII.

PORT-INSPECTORS.

Addition to Act XII of 1875, after section 18.

80. In the Indian Ports Act, 1875, after section eighteen, the following sections shall be inserted (that is to say):—

"18A. The Local Government may, from time to time, appoint in any port subject to this Act an officer to be called the Port-inspector, and suspend or remove such officer.

Every officer so appointed shall, subject to the control of the Local Government, have the following powers within the limits of the port for which he is appointed (that is to say):—

(a) he may at any time enter any vessel and may inspect the same and every part thereof, and the provisions and water provided for the use of the persons on board such vessel and the medicines and appliances and the accommodation for the seamen;

(d) he may call before him and examine for the purpose of any of such powers any person and require answers to any inquiries he thinks fit to make;

(e) he may require any persons so examined by him to make and subscribe a declaration of the truth of the statements made by such person."

"18B. The Port-inspector shall, on first entering any vessel after its arrival, inquire whether any seaman or apprentice on board such vessel desires to make any complaint against the master or any of the crew thereof.

In the event of any seaman or apprentice so desiring, the Port-inspector shall hear such complaint and record the particulars thereof in writing, and may, for the purpose of ascertaining the truth of the same, exercise any of the powers mentioned in section 18A.

and report the same to Shipping-master.

The Port-inspector shall forthwith report in writing to the Shipping-master the particulars of any complaint made to him under this section, together with his opinion thereon."

CHAPTER VIII.

AMENDMENT OF THE INDIAN MERCHANT SHIPPING ACT, 1875.

New section substituted for section 3 of Act IV of 1875.

81. In the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875, for section three, the following shall be substituted:—

Notice of accidents to be given to the Local Government.

"3. When—

(a) any ship has been lost, abandoned, stranded or damaged on or near the coasts of India; or

(b) by reason of any casualty happening to or on board of any ship on or near such coasts, loss of life has ensued; or

(c) any ship has caused loss or damage to any other ship on or near such coasts; or

(d) any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has happened elsewhere, and any competent witnesses thereof have arrived or are to be found at any place in India;

(e) or any ship is supposed to have been lost, and any evidence can be obtained in India as to the circumstances under which she proceeded to sea or was last heard of;

and any Magistrate or any officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf receives information of the same, he shall without delay communicate such information to the Local Government.

In cases under clauses (a), (b) and (c), the master, pilot, harbour-master or other person in charge of the ship or (where two ships are concerned) in charge of each ship at the time of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty, and in cases under clause (d), where the ship concerned proceeds direct from the place where such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has occurred to a place in India, the master of such ship at the time she arrives at such place, shall, on arriving in India, give immediate notice of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty to the nearest Magistrate, or, when he arrives at a port, to the officer appointed at such port as aforesaid.

Any person bound to give notice under this section and wilfully failing to give the same shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and, in default of payment, to simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months."

Insertion of section after section 25 of same Act.

82. After section twenty-five of the same Act, the following section shall be inserted (that is to say):—

Scale of provisions to be furnished to lascars.

"25A. In the case of such agreements with lascars or other Native seamen, the scale of the provisions agreed to be furnished to each of such seamen shall not be less than a scale to be from time to time fixed and published by the Local Government with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

Any master entering into an agreement with lascars or other Native seamen for a scale of provisions less than the scale so fixed and published shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE provisions of this Bill may be roughly divided into three parts (namely) :—

I. those relating to unsafe and unseaworthy ships contained in chapter II;

II. those relating to the relief and conveyance home of distressed seamen contained in chapter III;

III. those contained in the subsequent chapters which make additions to, and amendments of, the existing law as to Merchant Shipping on various miscellaneous points.

I.—Unseaworthy Ships.

2. The whole law enacted by Parliament on the subject of seaworthiness of ships is now contained in the Statute 39 & 40 Vic., c. 80. There are two main reasons why that Statute does not meet the requirements of this country :

First.—None of its provisions apply to ships of British Indian register as distinguished from ships of British register. Ships of British Indian register (or "British Indian ships" as they are termed in the Bill) are a somewhat peculiar class of vessels, registered under Acts of the Indian legislature, and only possessing the status of British ships within certain defined limits in Eastern waters. As there is a large number of such ships sailing from ports in India, it is obvious that any law which does not include them is incomplete and inadequate.

Secondly.—Even with regard to British ships, to which the Statute does apply, though many of its provisions extend to them wherever they may be, still some—and perhaps the most important—are confined to such ships when sailing from ports in the United Kingdom, and are, therefore, totally inoperative in this country.

3. It is the object of this Bill to supplement the Statute, and by extending certain of its provisions to this country to make all ships, whether British or British Indian, sailing from ports in India subject to provisions similar to those to which British ships are subject in the United Kingdom.

In doing this, however, care has been taken strictly to confine the provisions of the Bill to those cases to which the Statute does not apply, and in no way to trench upon ground which its provisions already cover.

4. The sections of the Statute which have been adopted in this Bill are sections 4 to 13 inclusive, and sections 15, 22, 25, 26, 28, 34 and 35.

The effect of these provisions may be shortly stated as follows.

Section 4 makes it penal for any person to send, and any master to take, a ship to sea when she is in such an unseaworthy state that the life of any person is likely to be thereby endangered.

Section 5 makes it an implied condition in every contract of service with a seaman and in every instrument of apprenticeship that all reasonable efforts will be used to secure the seaworthiness of the ship.

Section 6 empowers the Board of Trade to order the detention of any British ship which they believe to be unsafe; and sections 7, 8 and 9 deal with the constitution and procedure of the Court of Survey, to which appeals may be made from such order.

Section 10 lays down the cases in which the Board and shipowner respectively shall be liable for costs of detention and survey. Section 11 empowers the Board to require security for costs from a complainant; whilst section 12 is taken up with general supplemental provisions as to the detention of ships.

By section 15, in cases of scientific difficulty, a special Court of appeal of scientific men is provided.

Section 22 enacts in what way only grain cargoes may be stowed.

Sections 25 and 26 lay down certain rules as to the marking of ships with deck and load lines—the former to indicate the position of each deck which is above water, and the latter the depth in the water up to which the owner intends to load the ship; and section 28 inflicts certain penalties for offences in relation to these marks.

Sections 34 and 35 contain miscellaneous provisions as to the enforcement of the detention of ships and service of orders, notices, &c., on masters.

5. Of the above provisions, sections 4, 5, 22 and 25 apply to British ships wherever they may be. They, therefore, already apply proprio vigore to such ships in India; and, accordingly, the Bill extends them only to British Indian ships. The other sections apply to British ships only when in ports in the United Kingdom; and, therefore, the Bill extends them both to British and British Indian ships in this country.

6. In adapting to India an English Act of this nature, it seems advisable to make the Indian Act as nearly as possible identical with the English one. In drafting this chapter therefore, the provisions of 39 & 40 Vic., c. 80, have been followed as closely as possible, not merely in substance, but also in wording. The different circumstances of India have, however, required certain alterations in the authorities who are to carry out the provisions of the chapter. For example, it has been necessary to substitute "Local Government" for "Board of Trade," and to alter the list of persons from whom the Judge of the Court of Survey shall be summoned; and the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal has been authorized to delegate his powers under the proposed Act to the Calcutta Port Commissioners (section 50); but, as a rule, the provisions of the English Act have been adopted as they stand.

II.—Distressed Seamen.

7. The main provisions of the existing law relating to the relief and conveyance home of distressed seamen are contained in sections 211 and 212 of the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854, forming a portion of Part III of the Act. Section 109 of the Act applies these provisions to—

(a) all ships registered in any British possession when they are out of the jurisdiction of that possession;

(b) all ships registered in any British possession and plying between any place in the United Kingdom and any place not situated in that possession;

(c) all sea-going ships registered in the United Kingdom, with some exceptions immaterial for the present purpose; and

(d) the owners, masters and crews of all such ships.

There may thus be ships registered in India to which these provisions apply, e.g., an Indian ship at Singapore or Hong-Kong, or one plying between Galle and London. There may also be ships of English register, though plying exclusively within British Indian waters and manned by Native crews, to which the same provisions apply, as is the case with some of the vessels of the British Indian Steam Navigation Company, which are registered in Glasgow.

8. Sections 211 and 212 of the Act made provisions in favour of distressed seamen "being subjects of Her Majesty," and it is clear that in this expression all subjects, whatever their place of birth, are included.

9. By subsequent enactments powers have been conferred on the Board of Trade to issue binding instructions for the regulation of the relief of distressed seamen. The enactment now operative for this purpose is the twenty-second section of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act of 1862. The instructions issued by the Board relate to distressed seamen generally, making no distinction between different classes. They appear clearly to apply to all seamen over whom the Act of 1854 gives jurisdiction, e.g., they would apply to Bengal lascars in distress at Penang.

10. A question arises as to the circumstances under which these instructions, which, as shown above, apply to some ships while in Indian waters and also include lascars who are British subjects, become applicable to such lascars. This arises on the interpretation of the conditions laid down in the Act, which are that the seamen, besides being distressed, shall be abroad and destitute in the contemplation [illegible]. These words may [illegible] construed either of the place or the possession at or in which the seaman is, and it is possible to do little more than guess at the construction they should receive.

11. It is thus clear that, on the most restrictive construction of the Act, there are many cases occurring in British India to which the Act and instructions apply, but that from the vagueness of the terms used in the Act, it is impossible to tell how far such cases may extend.

12. It is not competent to the Government of India to effect of its own motion any amendment of the terms of sections 211 and 212 of the Act of 1854. It might do so possibly if that Act stood by itself; but the instructions issued by the Board of Trade, which are the means whereby these sections are worked, are no part of the Act of 1854, but depend for their authority on the Act of 1862, which it is beyond the power of the Government of India to repeal or affect. On the other hand, there are cases not falling within those enumerated in paragraph seven as governed by the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854, for which the Government of this country has power to legislate.

13. It is with these latter cases that chapter III of the Bill deals. Under the first construction of the words "abroad" and "home" referred to in paragraph ten, the case mentioned in clause (a) of section 52 of the Bill is no doubt to some extent provided for by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854; but on either construction of these words it will be admitted that there are some places in British India where a Native seaman may be which are not abroad to him, though not actually his home. These cases will be provided for, while, as the Bill does not purport to provide for any case in which the Board of Trade have power to issue instructions, any possibility of conflict between the Local and Imperial Acts will be avoided.

14. Following section 16 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1855, the local authorities in India have been empowered to send home distressed foreign as well as British seamen, and further to send seamen home in foreign ships. This extended power may be found useful in the case of some Asiatic seamen not subjects of Her Majesty.

15. The money paid in respect of the seamen referred to in clause (a) of section 52 should be recovered from the ship to which the distressed seaman belonged by the Secretary of State in Council; and section 61 accordingly provides for its being recovered in India by him. In the case mentioned in clause (c) of section 59, it would appear that, under section 288 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, the Government of India can empower the Board of Trade to recover the money for it by adapting the provisions of section 213 of the Act to the case. Accordingly, there has been added in section 62 a power to the Board of Trade to recover for the Government of India, which will probably be found useful when the money has to be recovered in England or in British possessions abroad.

16. A draft of these provisions has been submitted to the Board of Trade, who have agreed to issue new instructions in conformity with the Bill, and to adopt as the rate of subsistence for Native Indian seamen that to be fixed for such persons by the Government of India under the Bill. The result is that, if these provisions become law, the instructions of the Board of Trade and this Act will cover the whole ground, although it may still remain uncertain how much is covered by the instructions of the Board and how much by the Act.

III.—Miscellaneous Amendments.

17. The other provisions of the Bill do not call for much notice. They have all been introduced to provide for cases in which it appears that the provisions of the existing law are wanting or insufficient.

18. By a recent order of Government, all officers holding port appointments have been prohibited from undertaking private surveys. It having since been represented that considerable inconvenience is caused by this order, in consequence of the private surveyors at some ports not possessing the confidence of the mercantile community, provision has been made in the Bill (chapter IV) for the examination and licensing of fit persons to be marine surveyors, and prohibiting any unlicensed person from acting as a marine surveyor in any port where there may be any such licensed surveyor.

19. Chapter V, providing for the appointment of receivers of wreck, has been introduced at the suggestion of the Secretary of State, who considers that some provisions on the subject similar to those in the English Merchant Shipping Act of 1854 are desirable. In the event of this portion of the Bill becoming law, chapter V of the Indian Ports Act, relating to salvage in ports, will become unnecessary, and it is accordingly proposed to repeal it.

20. Chapter VI provides for the appointment of persons to inspect ships for the purpose of seeing whether they are properly furnished with lights and with the means of making fog-signals in accordance with the regulations for preventing collisions at sea. Section 30 of the English Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1862, deals with this point. Though under it the Board of Trade is apparently given power to appoint persons to inspect ships for such purpose anywhere, still it is doubtful whether it was intended to give them this power in a British possession abroad, and still more doubtful whether the Board would be willing to exercise this power. It has, therefore, been considered the best course for the legislature of this country to take independent power in the matter.

21. Chapter VII, by an addition to the Ports Act, 1875, provides for the appointment of an officer called a "Port-inspector." This officer, in addition to performing the duties at present performed by the Health-officer (for the performance of which duties he is by the Bill invested with certain legal powers), is intrusted with the duty of inquiring into any complaints which may be made on the arrival of a ship in port by any of the crew against the master or any others of the crew. This latter provision has been inserted, in compliance with the desire of the Secretary of State, for the protection of lascars or other Oriental seamen when serving on board a European ship.

22. Chapter VIII makes two amendments of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875. The one extends the provisions of section 3 of that Act so as to give power to hold Marine Courts of Enquiry in certain cases which are at present unprovided for. This change has been introduced at the request of the local Marine authorities, and is in accordance with the provisions of the English law as recently amended. The other amendment gives the Local Government power to fix a scale of provisions, for less than which it will be penal for a master to contract with any lascar or Native seaman—a provision which has been found to be essential for the protection of such seamen.

[First publication.]

The following preliminary Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th September, 1879:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to provide for the holding of property by certain Religious Congregations was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

From Secretary, Calcutta Missionary Conference, dated 18th July, 1879 [Paper No. 1].
" Honorary Treasurer, Union Church, Simla, dated 11th July, 1879 [Paper No. 2].
" Secretary to Government, Panjáb, No. 609C, dated 4th August, 1879 [Paper No. 3].
" Secretary for Birár to Resident, Haidarábád, No. 17, dated 21st August, 1879 [Paper No. 4].
" Officiating Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 2560-191, dated 28th August, 1879, and enclosure [Papers No. 5].
" Chief Commissioner, Ajmer and Merwára, No. 704, dated 30th August, 1879 [Paper No. 6].

2. We have extended the operation of the Bill to property of every description held by religious bodies, as it has been represented to us that it would be of little practical use to certain of those bodies if it were restricted in the manner originally intended.

3. We have added sections based on sections 13 and 14 of Act XXI of 1860, providing for the dissolution of religious bodies and for the disposal of their property when they are dissolved.

4. We have also added a section (8 of the Bill as now amended) providing for a reference to the High Court in the event of any question arising as to whether any person is a member of a religious body or as to the validity of any appointment made under the Act.

5. The Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons have been published in the Madras, the Calcutta, the Panjáb, the Central Provinces, the British Burma and the Rájputána-Gazettes. Having regard to the importance of the amendments now made, we think it desirable that the Bill should be republished.

When any new trustees have been appointed, whether in the manner prescribed by any such instrument as aforesaid or in the manner hereinbefore provided, the property subject to the trust shall forthwith, notwithstanding anything contained in any such instrument, become vested, without any conveyance or other assurance, in such new trustees and the old continuing trustees jointly, or, if there are no old continuing trustees, in such new trustees wholly, upon the same trusts and with and subject to the same powers and provisions as it was vested in the old trustees.

Saving of existing modes of appointment and conveyance. 5. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to invalidate any appointment of new trustees, or any conveyance of any property which may hereafter be made as heretofore was by law required.

Provision for dissolution of societies and adjustment of their affairs. 6. Any number not less than three-fifths of the members of any such body as aforesaid may at a meeting convened for the purpose de-provided that, in the event of any dispute arising among the members of such body, the adjustment of its affairs shall be referred to the principal Court of original civil jurisdiction of the district in which the chief building of such body is situate; and the Court shall make such order in the matter as it deems fit.

Upon a dissolution no member to receive profit.

7. If upon the dissolution of any such body there remains, after the satisfaction of all its debts and liabilities, any property whatsoever, the same shall not be paid to or distributed among the members of such body or any of them, but shall be given to some other body of persons associated for the purpose of maintaining religious worship to be determined by the votes of not less than three-fifths of the members present at a meeting convened for the purpose, or in default thereof by such Court as last aforesaid.

Questions may be submitted to High Court.

8. When any question arises as to whether any person is a member of any such body as aforesaid, or as to the validity of any appointment under this Act, any person interested in such question may apply by petition to the High Court for its opinion on such question. A copy of such petition shall be served upon, and the hearing thereof may be attended by, such other persons interested in the question as the Court thinks fit.

Any opinion given by the Court on an application under this section shall be deemed to have the force of a declaratory decree.

The costs of every application under this section shall be in the discretion of the Court.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following preliminary Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th September, 1879:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to provide for the holding of property by certain Religious Congregations was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

From Secretary, Calcutta Missionary Conference, dated 18th July, 1879 [Paper No. 1].
" Honorary Treasurer, Union Church, Simla, dated 11th July, 1879 [Paper No. 2].
" Secretary to Government, Panjáb, No. 609C, dated 4th August, 1879 [Paper No. 3].
" Secretary for Birár to Resident, Haidarábád, No. 17, dated 21st August, 1879 [Paper No. 4].

" Chief Commissioner, Ajmer and Merwára, No. 704, dated 30th August, 1879 [Paper No. 6].

2. We have extended the operation of the Bill to property of every description held by religious bodies, as it has been represented to us that it would be of little practical use to certain of those bodies if it were restricted in the manner originally intended.

3. We have added sections based on sections 13 and 14 of Act XXI of 1860, providing for the dissolution of religious bodies and for the disposal of their property when they are dissolved.

4. We have also added a section (8 of the Bill as now amended) providing for a reference to the High Court in the event of any question arising as to whether any person is a member of a religious body or as to the validity of any appointment made under the Act.

5. The Bill and Statement of Objects and Reasons have been published in the Madras, the Calcutta, the Panjáb, the Central Provinces, the British Burma and the Rájputána Gazettes. Having regard to the importance of the amendments now made, we think it desirable that the Bill should be republished.

2. We have not been so fortunate as to agree among ourselves on all the points presented for our consideration; but we do not deem it necessary to refer in the body of this report to such differences of opinion as have arisen. The most convenient course, we think, will be to treat the conclusions of the majority as the conclusions of the Committee, leaving individual members to record separate dissents upon such points as they think fit.

We shall refer to such of the amendments made by us as seem to us to call for special notice in the order of the sections of the Bill as introduced.

3. Section 8, providing for the service of summons by patels, which was inserted on a suggestion made here at the time the Bill was prepared, has been struck out, as it has not met with the approval of the Government of Bombay.

4. Section 9, empowering the Courts, instead of hearing the case ex parte, to issue a warrant for the apprehension of a defendant who does not appear and requiring them to adopt this procedure as the general rule, has given rise to some difference of opinion. On the one hand, it has been urged that the habit which the raiyats of the Dekkhan have fallen into of allowing suits instituted against them to go undefended has contributed in no small degree to produce the evils which this Bill is intended to remedy. On the other, the obvious hardship of forcibly dragging a man away from his home and his cultivation, perhaps at a season when every day is of importance to him, merely with a view to compelling him to appear in a suit to which he has no defence, has been much dwelt on by Mr. Justice West, Mr. Naylor and others.

After weighing the arguments on both sides, we have come to the conclusion that those which may be urged against the introduction of this novel and very stringent rule preponderate; and we are confirmed in this conclusion when we remember that under section 12 of the Bill the Court is bound to make an investigation into the history of the case, even though it is not defended, and that, if it is necessary for the proper conduct of such investigation to have the defendant in Court, the Civil Procedure Code gives power to summon him as a witness.

5. In order to prevent the provisions of chapter III of the Bill being evaded, as it has been pointed out to us they might be, by entering into contracts with the agriculturists of the four districts to which the Bill extends at places beyond the limits of those districts, we have introduced a section in the beginning of chapter III requiring suits against such agriculturists to be brought where the defendants reside.

6. The next provisions of the Bill calling for notice are those contained in sections 12 to 15, commonly described as the sections requiring the Court "to go behind the bond," and they are by far the most important we have had to consider.

Section 12 is in the main merely introductory to those that follow. It provides that, when the amount of a claim is disputed, the Court shall inquire into the history and merits of the case, partly with a view to ascertaining whether there is any defence to the suit on the ground of fraud, &c., and partly with a view to taking the account between the parties according to the rules laid down in the following sections; but that, when the amount of the claim is admitted, the Court shall not be bound to institute such inquiry, unless it sees reason to doubt the truth of the admission.

7. The Government of Bombay object to the latter portion of the rule. We have felt some doubt as to the precise grounds of their objection as set forth in paragraph 10 of their letter of the 27th August; but we understand that their view is that it is necessary to institute the inquiry in every case, even though the defendant may admit the claim and there may be no reason to doubt the truth of his admission.

We are not prepared to go quite this length. There must, it appears to us, be some cases in which it will be clear enough for all practical purposes that the admission of a defendant is true and reasonable—cases, for example, in which, though the defendant is an agriculturist within the meaning of the Bill, he is a man of some little education and as well able to keep an account of his transactions and understand his position as the plaintiff. In such cases we think we should be inflicting an unnecessary hardship on both parties and wasting the time of the Court by insisting on an inquiry which, even where both parties were agreed, would, if the judge were to be put in possession of the whole history of the case, often be lengthy and troublesome. We have, however, introduced an amendment which we believe will, in practice, secure all that the Government of Bombay desire, by providing in section 12 that, in cases where the defendant admits the claim, the Court shall nevertheless inquire into the history of the case, unless, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, it believes that the admission is true and is made by the debtor with a full knowledge of his legal rights as against the creditor. The result of this amendment will be that it will no longer be possible for an indolent judge, as it would be under the Bill as introduced, to shirk the labour of the inquiry by saying that he sees no reason to doubt the truth of the admission. The inquiry must be made, unless the judge is prepared to give some specific reason for accepting the admission—some such reason, e.g., as might be given in a case of the description just referred to.

8. Section 13, which lays down the mode in which, after the inquiry prescribed by section 12 has been made, the account between the parties should be taken, has been recast in order to bring it as nearly as possible into accordance with the views of the Government of Bombay.

As it originally stood, it provided that, if the Court found that there was any agreement between the parties as to the mode of taking the account and considered such agreement fair and equitable, the account should be taken in accordance with such agreement; but that otherwise the account should be taken according to certain rules, the principal of which were—first, that compound interest should not be allowed in any shape or under any circumstances;

secondly, that all profits and advantages received by the plaintiff in connection with the transaction should be brought to credit at a value to be determined by the Court; and thirdly, that the Hindú rule of dám-dupat, by which the sum recovered on account of interest shall not exceed the sum recovered on the same occasion on account of principal, should be observed in all cases without reference to the religion of the parties.

9. The Government of Bombay desire to have the two first of these rules applied absolutely and in all cases without any regard to the agreement between the parties, even where such agreement may, under the circumstances, be a fair and equitable one.

The third rule they desire to have similarly applied, but with a modification in favour of the debtor of so extensive a nature as to make it in form and in substance a completely new rule.

In short, the Bill, as it at present stands, goes far in the direction of setting aside contracts which under the law hitherto in force have been held good. The Government of Bombay desire to make it go much further.

10. The question is accordingly one of those of degree, of more or less, on which opinions will necessarily differ.

On the one side it is urged that it is necessary, on political grounds, to adopt strong and unusual measures in favour of the raiyats in order to prevent irritation and discontent.

On the other it is urged that, in so far as the question can be considered to have assumed a political aspect, we must be careful lest, by going too far in our efforts to allay the discontent of one class, we excite the disaffection of the other.

11. Turning from the political to the economical aspect of the question, we have, on the one hand, the very obvious arguments as to the desirability of providing for the raiyats some means of escape from their present thraldom and of giving them a fresh start on something like a solvent footing; on the other, we have been much pressed with the argument that by going too far in subverting contracts, we may destroy the credit of the raiyats, and thus in the long run both aggravate their pecuniary difficulties and place the Government revenue in jeopardy.

12. Amid these conflicting considerations we have, we need hardly say, desired to be guided, as far as possible, by the views of the Government of Bombay. There is indeed much in the Bill as now settled by us which, if it were not for the deference we feel for the strongly expressed opinion of that Government, we should propose to alter. But we cannot altogether devolve upon others, whatever our respect for their views may be, the duty of forming an opinion on the important questions submitted to us.

Looking at the matter in this way and having given it our most anxious consideration, we find ourselves in a position to recommend that the views of the Government of Bombay be adopted fully in regard to one of the three rules above referred to, and partially in regard to the other two.

13. To begin with the rule as to crediting profits irrespective of any agreement which may have been made regarding them, we think that that rule may, without any great danger of injustice, be made, as the Government of Bombay wish it to be, applicable to all cases.

It is true that, in the case of a usufructuary mortgage, it sets aside agreements which have hitherto not only been enforced when expressly entered into by the parties, but which the law in Bombay (Bombay Regulation V of 1827, section 15) [illegible] of any agreement, to be implied [illegible] property shall be taken by the [illegible] ments when made between the [illegible] the Regulation just mentioned, usually proceed on [illegible] the profits of the property will be equivalent to reasonable interest on the [illegible] hardship in providing that the approximate [illegible] set aside and an actual account taken, [illegible] mortgagee.

14. In regard to the matter of compound interest, we are unable to adopt in their entirety the proposals of the Government of Bombay. We have no doubt that, in a very large proportion of the cases that will come before the Courts under this Bill, it will be found that the debt has been unduly swollen by frequent rests and consolidations of interest with principal; but it seems to us that there must be some cases in which a consolidation of interest with principal, or perhaps a novation, as a lawyer would term it, of the entire transaction, has taken place under such circumstances that the refusal to recognize it would work a gross injustice. This being so, we deem it impossible to lay down any absolutely hard-and-fast rule on the point; but in order to bring the Bill in this particular as nearly as we can venture to do into conformity with the views of the Government of Bombay, we have, following a course similar to that which we have adopted in regard to section 12, provided that compound interest shall be disallowed, unless the Court, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, is of opinion that it is fair and equitable to allow it. We may add that we feel confident that the law as thus amended will fully secure the object which we understand the Government of Bombay to have in view.

15. As regards the Hindú rule of dám-dupat, it has, at the desire of the Government of Bombay, been extended to the whole agriculturist population of the four districts without reference to creed or sect. We now propose, in further compliance with the views of that Government, to make it an absolute rule overriding all contracts between the parties; but it is in our opinion quite impossible to adopt the extensive modification of the rule, or, speaking more properly, the completely new rule which is now proposed. That new rule, which would provide that the total amount claimable from first to last on account of interest shall in no case exceed the principal, has not, like the rule of dám-dupat, the authority of Native law or ancient custom to support it. It rests on no principle that we have been able to discern; and from the tenth paragraph of a letter from the Government of Bombay, No. 4579, dated 5th September, 1878, which has been laid before us by the Secretary, it would appear that it was introduced merely in order to provide an additional mode of reducing the claims of saukárs. We would further observe that no attempt has been made as far as appears to estimate its effect upon existing claims; but we gather from the papers before us and the report of the Dekkhan Riots Commission that in the case of a very large proportion of those claims interest in excess of principal has already been paid; and wherever this is so, the result of the rule would be that, when the claim had been cut down in the various modes required by the very stringent provisions of section 13, it would be necessary again to reduce it by one-half. It appears to us impossible to enact arbitrarily a new rule of this description.

16. We have next to refer to a section which appeared in the drafts submitted by the Government of Bombay in January 1878 and in April last, but which was omitted from the Bill as prepared here, and for the reintroduction of which the Bombay Government now strongly press.

The section in question, as it appeared in the Bill submitted in January 1878, provided that where the nature or extent of the transactions between the parties was doubtful, the Court should determine the "amount of money lent upon an equitable estimate with reference" to such considerations as the means and position of the parties, the state of the borrower's credit at the time, the occasion on which the money was advanced, the needs of the borrower, &c. Mr. Naylor, the Legal Remembrancer to the Government of Bombay, in the able paper submitted by him, seems still to press for the introduction of the section in this form. He considers it to be one of the two essential points of the proposed measure that the Courts should be empowered, when "the evidence is doubtful, to determine the amount payable upon equitable considerations."

Now, it is common enough to speak of adjusting rights on equitable grounds; but we are altogether at a loss to understand what is meant by deciding a pure question of fact "upon an equitable estimate" or "upon equitable considerations."

We apprehend, however, that if we adopted the section in this its original form, as Mr. Naylor would apparently have us do, it would probably be construed by the lower Courts as an instruction to them in default of satisfactory proof to make a guess at the amount of the loan, and in making such guess to have a special regard to circumstances which would, as a rule, tell in favour of the debtor.

17. In the Bill submitted in April last, this section appeared in a new shape, namely, as a provision simply to the effect that the circumstances above referred to, namely, the means of the parties, &c., should, upon any question arising as to the extent of a transaction, be relevant facts; and it is apparently in this shape that the Government of Bombay now advocate its reintroduction. In pressing us to reintroduce it, however, they are apparently influenced by what appears to us to be a misapprehension as to the existing state of the law. They speak of it as "a relaxation of the rigour of the existing practice as to the admission of evidence." This, as it appears to us, it would not be. We are clearly of opinion that the facts referred to, though their weight in evidence would as a rule be small, would be relevant facts within the meaning of the Evidence Act, and that accordingly the proposed section would be simply nugatory, that is to say, without any legal operation.

We are by no means sure, however, that if it became law it would not indirectly work mischief. We are inclined to think that an enactment expressly requiring the facts referred to to be treated as relevant facts would lead the Courts to attach an artificial weight to them over and above the weight which naturally belongs to them; and we are strengthened in this opinion when we see the extraordinary importance which the Government of Bombay and some of the local authorities appear to attach to the proposed section,—an importance which could scarcely be attributed to it if the facts to which it refers were to be estimated at their natural value.

The great anxiety shown by the Government of Bombay for the reintroduction of this section must be our excuse for stating at such length our reasons for rejecting it.

18. Sections 16 and 24, which go to relieve an heir from a portion of his ancestor's debt, though he may have inherited from that ancestor property sufficient to pay that debt, have been struck out.

The Government of Bombay do not appear to attach much importance to them, the Judges of the High Court have objected to them, and it is hard to see why, when the ancestor's debt has under the ample powers contained in sections 12 to 15 of the Bill been fully inquired into and reduced to its just limits, the heir should not be bound to pay it to the extent of the property he has inherited. The obligation binding him to do so is, as observed by the Hon'ble Sayyad Ahmad in his speech when the Bill was introduced, a matter of natural equity common to the English, Hindu and Muhammadan legal systems. Moreover, it is an obligation with the force of which the people of this country are perhaps more strongly impressed than those of any other country, and the sense of which, as observed in a letter from the Government of Bombay of the 8th April, 1877, is one of the best traits in their character.

19. Section 30 of the Bill, which empowers the Insolvency Court, instead of selling the moveable property of an insolvent, to insist on one of his creditors accepting it at a valuation in payment or part payment of his claim, has given rise to much discussion. On the one hand, the danger of property being sold at a great loss when put up to public auction has been much dwelt upon; on the other, the hardship of forcing upon a creditor an article for which he may have no use for himself, and which ex hypothesi it is not easy to sell, has been urged especially by Mr. Justice West. On the whole, it appears to us that the arguments against this section preponderate over those in its favour, and we have accordingly struck it out.

20. We have, in accordance with the views of the Government of Bombay, removed the restriction in section 36 of the Bill under which no one but a patel could be appointed to the office of Village-munsif. Under the section as now amended any person possessing local influence may be appointed.

21. Section 35, limiting the power of the Subordinate Judges to commit fraudulent insolvents to jail under section 359 of the Code of Civil Procedure, has been omitted, and a section providing for an appeal from the orders of Subordinate Judges in such cases substituted for it, at the instance of the Government of Bombay.

22. We have deemed it necessary to guard against the dangers adverted to by the Hon'ble Sayyad Ahmad in his speech, by the introduction of words in section 40 excluding revenue and police officers from the office of Conciliator.

We have further, in order to furnish a simple and inoffensive means of getting rid of a conciliator who proves unfit for the position, added a clause in the same section providing that conciliators shall vacate their office at the end of three years but shall be re-eligible.

23. In section 49 we have, adopting the view of the High Court and the Legal Remembrancer, struck out the words which made the conciliation system applicable to proceedings in execution of decrees passed before the new law comes into force as well as to suits.

We find it difficult to understand why this system should be applied to decrees passed before this Bill becomes law and not to those passed after, unless upon the assumption that the decrees already passed were unfair to the judgment-debtors and that some pressure should be brought to bear to induce the holders of such decrees to forego some portion of what they are entitled to claim under them. We can give no countenance to any such assumption. The Courts will no doubt, if this Bill becomes law, proceed in future on principles more favourable to the debtor than those on which they have been hitherto proceeding; but when a man has obtained a decree from our Courts in accordance with the law for the time being in force, we cannot think it right to enact that his decree should be placed on the same footing as an unproved claim. If the judgment-debtor requires time to pay, the Bill gives the fullest power to the Courts to allow time. If he is altogether unable to pay, the Insolvency Courts are open to him; but we cannot admit that under any circumstances the rights of the decree-holder under his decree should be brought in question.

24. The question whether appeals should be allowed in any cases under chapter II of the Bill or whether we should trust entirely to the powers of revision conferred by chapter VII has given rise to much discussion. It is not so important as might at first sight appear, inasmuch as there can be little doubt that, if the right of appeal were withheld, petitions for revision would take the place of petitions of appeal, and then the chief difference would be that an application for revision not being, like the presentation of an appeal, a matter of right, might be more summarily dealt with by the superior Court. Having considered all that has been said on both sides, we have come to the conclusion that in mortgage cases, in which questions of difficulty and importance are likely to arise, an appeal should be allowed, and we have amended the Bill accordingly.

25. If an appeal is to be allowed in these cases, which form a very large class and the most important class, of cases to be heard under the Bill, we think that the special judge who was to have been appointed to strengthen and superintend the staff of officers employed in the work of revision will no longer be required, and we have accordingly omitted all reference to him and transferred his duties to the District Judges.

26. We have omitted section 69, which empowered the Subordinate Judge to refuse in petty cases to allow any costs between parties on account of pleader's fees, as it has been argued, and we think with great force, that, owing to the smallness of the fees in such cases, it would rarely effect the object desired, namely, that of deterring parties from employing pleaders; and further that, in so far as it had any effect, it would tend to render the pleaders subservient to the judges.

27. We have been urged to introduce in the place of this section the provision of the draft Bill submitted by the Government of Bombay, which would have as a rule excluded pleaders in these cases altogether; but we deem it undesirable to do so.

We believe that well-qualified pleaders are a material aid to the Judge in dealing with a case of any complication or difficulty, and there is nothing in the letters from the Government of Bombay to lead us to suppose that the pleaders practising in the Dekkhan Courts are not well qualified. If the view of those who urge us to adopt this novel provision is that in suits under Rs. 100 in value the aid of pleaders cannot be required, we think it is a mistaken view, inasmuch as the difficulty of a case does not depend on the amount at issue, and as for any notion that the raiyats would be placed on something more like a footing of equal advantage with the saukárs by the exclusion of pleaders, we are of opinion that it would be directly the reverse, inasmuch as the saukár, having ordinarily a good deal of business in Court, would be able to employ as his servant, and send to Court on his behalf, some man who, though not a professional legal practitioner, would have a considerable knowledge of law and of the ways of the Court, whereas the raiyat would have to appear in person and depend upon himself.

On the whole, we are convinced that it will be best not to interfere with the existing law on this particular point.

28. The only other amendment made by us which calls for special notice in this report is the insertion of section 71 of the Bill as now amended, requiring all mortgages below Rs. 100 in value executed before the Bill becomes law to be registered within one year. This section has been inserted at the instance of the Government of Bombay and of some of the other authorities consulted, and it appears to us to be necessary in order to guard against documents being forged with dates prior to the passing of the Bill with a view to evading the provisions of the chapter on village registration.

29. The Bill has been published in English in the Bombay Government Gazette of the 24th and 31st July and 7th August last, and in Maráthí in the same Gazette of the 9th instant. Some of the amendments we have made are doubtless of importance; but, looking to the urgency of the measure and the very full discussion it has already undergone, we think no further publication is necessary, and we recommend that the Bill as now amended be passed.

* I CANNOT accept the conclusions arrived at by the majority of the Committee on several paragraphs of this report. In exceptional legislation of this kind applicable to a limited tract of country which has for years been subject to great distress from various causes, I am of opinion that the fullest freedom should be given to the Local Government as to the agency it should employ for carrying out the purposes of the Bill, and I would not impose any restrictions upon that freedom as advocated in the first clause of paragraph 22 of the report. I think, too, under the special circumstances of the case, and when the primary object in view is to bring about, not so much by the technical procedure of Civil Courts as by conciliation between the parties, the adjustment of long-standing disputes, the rejection of the proposal to have a Special Judge to supervise all the proceedings under the Act is a mistake. As the Bombay Government were prepared to meet the expenses of such an arrangement, I would retain it, and would prefer that such officer should be vested with general powers of revision, and that the provision for appeals and the intervention of pleaders in any class of suits up to Rs. 100 should be given up.

There are some minor points (section 30, sale of moveables, and section 49, conciliation on old decrees) in which I differed from the majority of the Committee; but as I shall have an opportunity of stating the reasons of my dissent when the report comes up for consideration in Council, I need say nothing further on those points at present.

The 13th October, 1879.

I REGRET that I am unable to sign this report, even pro formâ. It contains some inaccuracies; the Bill it supports overrules, even in many matters of secondary importance, the opinions of the Local Governments and other authorities in the best position to judge rightly; and its fourth, sixteenth, seventeenth, nineteenth and twenty-second to twenty-seventh paragraphs in particular seem to me to support by insufficient arguments conclusions fatal in the aggregate to the success of the measure.

Interpretation-clause. 2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,—

"Factory": "Factory" means any premises in the same occupation, situate in the same town or place, and constituting one trade-establishment in, on or within the precincts of which fifty or more persons are employed in any manual labour exercised by way of trade or for purposes of gain in or incidental to the making any article or part thereof, or the altering, repairing, ornamenting, finishing or otherwise adapting the same for sale;

Fencing. 7. Every fly-wheel directly connected with a steam-engine or water-wheel or other mechanical power in any part of a factory, and every part of a steam-engine or water-wheel, and every hoist or teagle or other part of the machinery or mill-gearing of a factory which may, in the opinion of the local Inspector of Factories, be dangerous if left unfenced, and near which any child or young person is liable to pass or be employed, shall, while the same is in motion, if such Inspector so requires, be kept by the occupier of such factory securely fenced.

Provided also that nothing in this Act shall affect the right of any person injured by any breach of the provisions of this Act to obtain compensation therefor according to law.

Right to compensation saved.

10. Every occupier of a factory shall be deemed primarily liable for any breach therein of the provisions of this Act; but he may discharge himself from liability by proof to the satisfaction of the local Inspector of Factories, before prosecution therefor, that such breach was committed by some other person without his knowledge or consent; and the person committing such breach shall be liable therefor.

Occupier primarily liable for breaches of provisions of Act.

11. The Local Government may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act to provide, with respect to factories under this Act, for—

Local Government may make rules.

(d) otherwise carrying out the provisions of this Act.

Such rules shall be published in the official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The subject of the regulation of labour in factories has been for a long time under discussion, and there has been much difference of opinion regarding it. The Governor General in Council, having now considered the different views that have been put forward and the various suggestions that have been made, has come to the conclusion that the legislation to be undertaken at present should be restricted to the following points, namely:—

1*st*—The determination of the age at which children may be employed;

2*nd*—The limitation of the hours of labour for children and young persons;

3*rd*—The prohibition of the employment of children and young persons on certain dangerous work;

4*th*—The fencing of dangerous machinery;

5*th*—The reporting of accidents, and,

6*th*—The appointment of Government inspectors.

The present Bill has been prepared on these lines, and will apply only to those parts of British India to which it may be extended by the Local Governments, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

2. We have not been so fortunate as to agree among ourselves on all the points presented for our consideration; but we do not deem it necessary to refer in the body of this report to such differences of opinion as have arisen. The most convenient course, we think, will be to treat the conclusions of the majority as the conclusions of the Committee, leaving individual members to record separate dissents upon such points as they think fit.

We shall refer to such of the amendments made by us as seem to us to call for special notice in the order of the sections of the Bill as introduced.

3. Section 8, providing for the service of summons by patels, which was inserted on a suggestion made here at the time the Bill was published, has been struck out, as it has not met with the approval of the Government of Bombay.

4. Section 9, empowering the Court, instead of [illegible] the case ex parte to issue a warrant for the apprehension of a defendant who does not appear and requiring him to adopt this procedure as the general rule, has given rise to some difference of opinion. On the one hand, it has been urged that the habit which the raiyats of the Dekkhan have fallen into of allowing suits instituted against them to go undefended has contributed in no small degree to produce the evils which this Bill is intended to remedy. On the other, the obvious hardship of forcibly dragging a man away from his home and his cultivation, perhaps at a season when every day is of importance to him, merely with a view to compelling him to appear in a suit to which he has no defence, has been much dwelt on by Mr. Justice West, Mr. Naylor and others.

After weighing the arguments on both sides, we have come to the conclusion that those which may be urged against the introduction of this novel and very stringent rule preponderate; and we are confirmed in this conclusion when we remember that under section 12 of the Bill the Court is bound to make an investigation into the history of the case, even though it is not defended, and that, if it is necessary for the proper conduct of such investigation to have the defendant in Court, the Civil Procedure Code gives power to summon him as a witness.

5. In order to prevent the provisions of chapter III of the Bill being evaded, as it has been pointed out to us they might be, by entering into contracts with the agriculturists of the four districts to which the Bill extends at places beyond the limits of those districts, we have introduced a section in the beginning of chapter III requiring suits against such agriculturists to be brought where the defendants reside.

6. The next provisions of the Bill calling for notice are those contained in sections 12 to 15, commonly described as the sections requiring the Court "to go behind the bond," and they are by far the most important we have had to consider.

Section 12 is in the main merely introductory to those that follow. It provides that, when the amount of a claim is disputed, the Court shall inquire into the history and merits of the case, partly with a view to ascertaining whether there is any defence to the suit on the ground of fraud, &c., and partly with a view to taking the account between the parties according to the rules laid down in the following sections; but that, when the amount of the claim is admitted, the Court shall not be bound to institute such inquiry, unless it sees reason to doubt the truth of the admission.

7. The Government of Bombay object to the latter portion of the rule. We have felt some doubt as to the precise grounds of their objection as set forth in paragraph 10 of their letter of the 27th August; but we understand that their view is that it is necessary to institute the inquiry in every case, even though the defendant may admit the claim and there may be no reason to doubt the truth of his admission.

We are not prepared to go quite this length. There must, it appears to us, be some cases in which it will be clear enough for all practical purposes that the admission of a defendant is true and reasonable—cases, for example, in which, though the defendant is an agriculturist within the meaning of the Bill, he is a man of some little education and as well able to keep an account of his transactions and understand his position as the plaintiff. In such cases we think we should be inflicting an unnecessary hardship on both parties and wasting the time of the Court by insisting on an inquiry which, even where both parties were agreed, would, if the judge were to be put in possession of the whole history of the case, often be lengthy and troublesome. We have, however, introduced an amendment which we believe will, in practice, secure all that the Government of Bombay desire, by providing in section 12 that, in cases where the defendant admits the claim, the Court shall nevertheless inquire into the history of the case, unless, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, it believes that the admission is true and is made by the debtor with a full knowledge of his legal rights as against the creditor. The result of this amendment will be that it will no longer be possible for an indolent judge, as it would be under the Bill as introduced, to shirk the labour of the inquiry by saying that he sees no reason to doubt the truth of the admission. The inquiry must be made, unless the judge is prepared to give some specific reason for accepting the admission—some such reason, e.g., as might be given in a case of the description just referred to.

8. Section 13, which lays down the mode in which, after the inquiry prescribed by section 12 has been made, the account between the parties should be taken, has been recast in order to bring it as nearly as possible into accordance with the views of the Government of Bombay.

As it originally stood, it provided that, if the Court found that there was any agreement between the parties as to the mode of taking the account and considered such agreement fair and equitable, the account should be taken in accordance with such agreement; but that otherwise the account should be taken according to certain rules, the principal of which were—first, that compound interest should not be allowed in any shape or under any circumstances;

secondly, that all profits and advantages received by the plaintiff in connection with the transaction should be brought to credit at a value to be determined by the Court; and thirdly, that the Hindú rule of dám-dupat, by which the sum recovered on account of interest shall not exceed the sum recovered on the same occasion on account of principal, should be observed in all cases without reference to the religion of the parties.

9. The Government of Bombay desire to have the two first of these rules applied absolutely and in all cases without any regard to the agreement between the parties, even where such agreement may, under the circumstances, be a fair and equitable one.

The third rule they desire to have similarly applied, but with a modification in favour of the debtor of so extensive a nature as to make it in form and in substance a completely new rule.

In short, the Bill, as it at present stands, goes far in the direction of setting aside contracts which under the law hitherto in force have been held good. The Government of Bombay desire to make it go much further.

10. The question is accordingly one of those of degree, of more or less, on which opinions will necessarily differ.

On the one side it is urged that it is necessary, on political grounds, to adopt strong and unusual measures in favour of the raiyats in order to prevent irritation and discontent.

On the other it is urged that, in so far as the question can be considered to have assumed a political aspect, we must be careful lest by going too far in our efforts to allay the discontent of one class we excite the disaffection of the other.

11. Turning from the political to the economical aspect of the question, we have, on the one hand, the very obvious arguments as to the desirability of providing for the raiyats some means of escape from their present thraldom and of giving them a fresh start on something like a solvent footing; on the other, we have been much pressed with the argument that by going too far in subverting contracts, we may destroy the credit of the raiyats, and thus in the long run both aggravate their pecuniary difficulties and place the Government revenue in jeopardy.

12. Amid these conflicting considerations we have, we need hardly say, desired to be guided, as far as possible, by the views of the Government of Bombay. There is indeed much in the Bill as now settled by us which, if it were left for the reference we feel for the strongly expressed opinion of that Government, we should propose to alter. But we cannot altogether devolve upon others, whatever our respect for their views may be, the duty of forming an opinion on the important questions submitted to us.

Looking at the matter in this way and having given it our most anxious consideration, we find ourselves in a position to recommend that the views of the Government of Bombay be adopted fully in regard to one of the three rules above referred to, and partially in regard to the other two.

13. To begin with the rule as to crediting profits irrespective of any agreement which may have been made regarding them, we think that that rule may, without any great danger of injustice, be made, as the Government of Bombay wish it to be, applicable to all cases.

It is true that, in the case of a usufructuary mortgage, it sets aside agreements which have hitherto not only been enforced when expressly entered into by the parties, but which the law in Bombay (Bombay Regulation V of 1827, section 16) presumes, in the absence of any express agreement, to be implied: we mean agreements to the effect that the profits of the mortgaged property shall be taken by the mortgagee without account in lieu of interest. But such agreements when made between the parties to a mortgage, whether expressly or by tacit reference to the Regulation just mentioned, usually proceed on the calculation that the profits of the property will be equivalent to reasonable interest on the loan; and there can accordingly be no great hardship in providing that the approximate estimate of the profits made by the parties shall be set aside and an actual account taken, reasonable interest being at the same time allowed to the mortgagee.

14. In regard to the matter of compound interest, we are unable to adopt in their entirety the proposals of the Government of Bombay. We have no doubt that, in a very large proportion of the cases that will come before the Courts under this Bill, it will be found that the debt has been unduly swollen by frequent rests and consolidations of interest with principal; but it seems to us that there must be some cases in which a consolidation of interest with principal, or perhaps a novation, as a lawyer would term it, of the entire transaction, has taken place under such circumstances that the refusal to recognize it would work a gross injustice. This being so, we deem it impossible to lay down any absolutely hard-and-fast rule on the point; but in order to bring the Bill in this particular as nearly as we can venture to do into conformity with the views of the Government of Bombay, we have, following a course similar to that which we have adopted in regard to section 12, provided that compound interest shall be disallowed, unless the Court, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, is of opinion that it is fair and equitable to allow it. We may add that we feel confident that the law as thus amended will fully secure the object which we understand the Government of Bombay to have in view.

15. As regards the Hindú rule of dám-dupat, it has, at the desire of the Government of Bombay, been extended to the whole agriculturist population of the four districts without reference to creed or sect. We now propose, in further compliance with the views of that Government, to make it an absolute rule overriding all contracts between the parties; but it is in our opinion quite impossible to adopt the extensive modification of the rule, or, speaking more correctly, the completely new rule which is now proposed. That new rule, which [illegible] that the total amount claimable from first to last on account of interest shall not exceed the principal, has not, like the rule of dám-dupat, the authority of [illegible] or ancient custom to support it. It rests on no principle that we have been able to discover. [illegible] from the tenth paragraph of a letter from the Government of Bombay, No. [illegible] September, 1878, which has been laid before us by the Secretary, it would appear that introduced merely in order to provide an additional mode of reducing the claims of saukárs. We would further observe that no attempt has been made as far as appears to estimate its effect upon existing claims; but we gather from the papers before us and the report of the Dekkhan Riots Commission that in the case of a very large proportion of those claims interest in excess of principal has already been paid; and wherever this is so, the result of the rule would be that, when the claim had been cut down in the various modes required by the very stringent provisions of section 13, it would be necessary again to reduce it by one-half. It appears to us impossible to enact arbitrarily a new rule of this description.

16. We have next to refer to a section which appeared in the drafts submitted by the Government of Bombay in January 1878 and in April last, but which was omitted from the Bill as prepared here, and for the reintroduction of which the Bombay Government now strongly press.

The section in question, as it appeared in the Bill submitted in January 1878, provided that where the nature or extent of the transactions between the parties was doubtful, the Court should determine the "amount of money lent upon an equitable estimate with reference" to such considerations as the means and position of the parties, the state of the borrower's credit at the time, the occasion on which the money was advanced, the needs of the borrower, &c. Mr. Naylor, the Legal Remembrancer to the Government of Bombay, in the able paper submitted by him, seems still to press for the introduction of the section in this form. He considers it to be one of the two essential points of the proposed measure that the Courts should be empowered, when "the evidence is doubtful, to determine the amount payable upon equitable considerations."

Now, it is common enough to speak of adjusting rights on equitable grounds; but we are altogether at a loss to understand what is meant by deciding a pure question of fact "upon an equitable estimate" or "upon equitable considerations."

We apprehend, however, that if we adopted the section in this its original form, as Mr. Naylor would apparently have us do, it would probably be construed by the lower Courts as an instruction to them in default of satisfactory proof to make a guess at the amount of the loan, and in making such guess to have a special regard to circumstances which would, as a rule, tell in favour of the debtor.

17. In the Bill submitted in April last, this section appeared in a new shape, namely, as a provision simply to the effect that the circumstances above referred to, namely, the means of the parties, &c., should, upon any question arising as to the extent of a transaction, be relevant facts; and it is apparently in this shape that the Government of Bombay now advocate its reintroduction. In pressing us to reintroduce it, however, they are apparently influenced by what appears to us to be a misapprehension as to the existing state of the law. They speak of it as "a relaxation of the rigour of the existing practice as to the admission of evidence." This, as it appears to us, it would not be. We are clearly of opinion that the facts referred to, though their weight in evidence would as a rule be small, would be relevant facts within the meaning of the Evidence Act, and that accordingly the proposed section would be simply nugatory, that is to say, without any legal operation.

We are by no means sure, however, that if it became law it would not indirectly work mischief. We are inclined to think that an enactment expressly requiring the facts referred to to be treated as relevant facts would lead the Courts to attach an artificial weight to them over and above the weight which naturally belongs to them; and we are strengthened in this opinion when we see the extraordinary importance which the Government of Bombay and some of the local authorities appear to attach to the proposed section,—an importance which could scarcely be attributed to it if the facts to which it refers were to be estimated at their natural value.

The great anxiety shown by the Government of Bombay for the reintroduction of this section must be our excuse for stating at such length our reasons for rejecting it.

18. Sections 16 and 24, which go to relieve an heir from a portion of his ancestor's debt, though he may have inherited from that ancestor property sufficient to pay that debt, have been struck out.

The Government of Bombay do not appear to attach much importance to them, the Judges of the High Court have objected to them, and it is hard to see why, when the ancestor's debt has under the ample powers contained in sections 12 to 15 of the Bill been fully inquired into and reduced to its just limits, the heir should not be bound to pay it to the extent of the property he has inherited. The obligation binding him to do so is, as observed by the Hon'ble Sayyad Ahmad in his speech when the Bill was introduced, a matter of natural equity common to the English, Hindú and Muhammadan legal systems. Moreover, it is an obligation with the force of which the people of this country are perhaps more strongly impressed than those of any other country, and the sense of which, as observed in a letter from the Government of Bombay of the 6th April, 1877, is one of the best traits in their character.

19. Section 30 of the Bill, which empowers the Insolvency Court, instead of selling the moveable property of an insolvent, to insist on one of his creditors accepting it at a valuation in payment or part payment of his claim, has given rise to much discussion. On the one hand, the danger of property being sold at a great loss when put up to public auction has been much dwelt upon; on the other, the hardship of forcing upon a creditor an article for which he may have no use for himself, and which ex hypothesi it is not easy to sell, has been urged especially by Mr. Justice West. On the whole, it appears to us that the arguments against this section preponderate over those in its favour, and we have accordingly struck it out.

20. We have, in accordance with the views of the Government of Bombay, removed the restriction in section 36 of the Bill under which no one but a patel could be appointed to the office of Village-munsif. Under the section as now amended any person possessing local influence may be appointed.

21. Section 35, limiting the power of the Subordinate Judges to commit fraudulent insolvents to jail under section 359 of the Code of Civil Procedure, has been omitted, and a section providing for an appeal from the orders of Subordinate Judges in such cases substituted for it, at the instance of the Government of Bombay.

22. We have deemed it necessary to guard against the dangers adverted to by the Hon'ble Sayyad Ahmad in his speech, by the introduction of words in section 40 excluding revenue and police officers from the office of Conciliator.

We have further, in order to furnish a simple and inoffensive means of getting rid of a conciliator who proves unfit for the position, added a clause in the same section providing that conciliators shall vacate their office at the end of three years but shall be re-eligible.

23. In section 49 we have, adopting the view of the High Court and the Legal Remembrancer, struck out the words which made the conciliation system applicable to proceedings in execution of decrees passed before the new law comes into force as well as to suits.

We find it difficult to understand why this system should be applied to decrees passed before this Bill becomes law and not to those passed after, unless upon the assumption that the decrees already passed were unfair to the judgment-debtors and that some pressure should be brought to bear to induce the holders of such decrees to forego some portion of what they are entitled to claim under them. We can give no countenance to any such assumption. The Courts will no doubt, if this Bill becomes law, proceed in future on principles more favourable to the debtor than those on which they have been hitherto proceeding; but when a man has obtained a decree from our Courts in accordance with the law for the time being in force, we cannot think it right to enact that his decree should be placed on the same footing as an unproved claim. If the judgment-debtor requires time to pay, the Bill gives the fullest power to the Courts to allow time. If he is altogether unable to pay, the Insolvency Courts are open to him; but we cannot admit that under any circumstances the rights of the decree-holder under his decree should be brought in question.

24. The question whether appeals should be allowed in any cases tried under chapter II of the Bill or whether we should trust entirely to the powers of superintendence and revision conferred by chapter VII has given rise to much discussion. It is not so important as might at first sight appear, inasmuch as there can be little doubt that, if the right of appeal were withheld, petitions for revision would take the place of petitions of appeal, and then the chief difference would be that an application for revision not being, like the presentation of an appeal, a matter of right, might be more summarily dealt with by the superior Court. Having considered all that has been said on both sides, we have come to the conclusion that in mortgage cases, in which questions of difficulty and importance are likely to arise, an appeal should be allowed, and we have amended the Bill accordingly.

25. If an appeal is to be allowed in these cases, which form a very large class, and the most important class, of cases to be heard under the Bill, we think that the special judge who was to have been appointed to strengthen and superintend the staff of officers employed in the work of revision will no longer be required, and we have accordingly omitted all reference to him and transferred his duties to the District Judges.

26. We have omitted section 69, which empowered the Subordinate Judge to refuse in petty cases to allow any costs between parties on account of pleader's fees, as it has been argued, and we think with great force, that, owing to the smallness of the fees in such cases, it would rarely effect the object desired, namely, that of deterring parties from employing pleaders; and further that, in so far as it had any effect, it would tend to render the pleaders subservient to the judges.

27. We have been urged to introduce in the place of this section the provision of the draft Bill submitted by the Government of Bombay, which would have as a rule excluded pleaders in these cases altogether; but we deem it undesirable to do so.

We believe that well-qualified pleaders are a material aid to the Judge in dealing with a case of any complication or difficulty, and there is nothing in the letters from the Government of Bombay to lead us to suppose that the pleaders practising in the Dekkhan Courts are not well qualified. If the view of those who urge us to adopt this novel provision is that in suits under Rs. 100 in value the aid of pleaders cannot be required, we think it is a mistaken view, inasmuch as the difficulty of a case does not depend on the amount at issue, and as for any notion that the ryots would be placed on something more like a footing of equal advantage with the saukárs by the exclusion of pleaders, we are of opinion that it would be directly the reverse, inasmuch as the saukár, having ordinarily a good deal of business in Court, would be able to employ as his servant, and send to Court on his behalf, some man who, though not a professional legal practitioner, would have a considerable knowledge of law and of the ways of the Court, whereas the raiyat would have to appear in person and depend upon himself.

On the whole, we are convinced that it will be best not to interfere with the existing law on this particular point.

28. The only other amendment made by us which calls for special notice in this report is the insertion of section 71 of the Bill as now amended, requiring all mortgages below Rs. 100 in value executed before the Bill becomes law to be registered within one year. This section has been inserted at the instance of the Government of Bombay and of some of the other authorities consulted, and it appears to us to be necessary in order to guard against documents being forged with dates prior to the passing of the Bill with a view to evading the provisions of the chapter on village registration.

29. The Bill has been published in English in the Bombay Government Gazette of the 24th and 31st July and 7th August last, and in Maráthí in the same Gazette of the 9th instant. Some of the amendments we have made are doubtless of importance; but, looking to the urgency of the measure and the very full discussion it has already undergone, we think no further publication is necessary, and we recommend that the Bill as now amended be passed.

* I CANNOT accept the conclusions arrived at by the majority of the Committee on several paragraphs of this report. In exceptional legislation of this kind applicable to a limited tract of country which has for years been subject to great distress from various causes, I am of opinion that the fullest freedom should be given to the Local Government as to the agency it should employ for carrying out the purposes of the Bill, and I would not impose any restrictions upon that freedom as advocated in the first clause of paragraph 22 of the report. I think, too, under the special circumstances of the case, and when the primary object in view is to bring about, not so much by the technical procedure of Civil Courts as by conciliation between the parties, the adjustment of long-standing disputes, the rejection of the proposal to have a Special Judge to supervise all the proceedings under the Act is a mistake. As the Bombay Government were prepared to meet the expenses of such an arrangement, I would retain it, and would prefer that such officer should be vested with general powers of revision, and that the provision for appeals and the intervention of pleaders in any class of suits up to Rs. 100 should be given up.

There are some minor points (section 80, sale of moveables, and section 49, conciliation on old decrees) in which I differed from the majority of the Committee; but as I shall have an opportunity of stating the reasons of my dissent when the report comes up for consideration in Council, I need say nothing further on those points at present.

RIVERS THOMPSON.

The 13th October, 1879.

I regret that I am unable to sign this report, even pro formâ. It contains some inaccuracies; the Bill it supports overrules, even in many matters of secondary importance, the opinions of the Local Governments and other authorities in the best position to judge rightly; and its fourth, sixteenth, seventeenth, nineteenth and twenty-second to twenty-seventh paragraphs in particular seem to me to support by insufficient arguments conclusions fatal in the aggregate to the success of the measure.

Fencing. 7. Every fly-wheel directly connected with a steam-engine or water-wheel or other mechanical power in any part of a factory, and every part of a steam-engine or water-wheel, and every hoist or teagle or other part of the machinery or mill-gearing of a factory which may, in the opinion of the local Inspector of Factories, be dangerous if left unfenced, and near which any child or young person is liable to pass or be employed, shall, while the same is in motion, if such Inspector so requires, be kept by the occupier of such factory securely fenced.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

The subject of the regulation of labour in factories has been for a long time under discussion, and there has been much difference of opinion regarding it. The Governor General in Council, having now considered the different views that have been put forward and the various suggestions that have been made, has come to the conclusion that the legislation to be undertaken at present should be restricted to the following points, namely:—

1*st*—The determination of the age at which children may be employed;

2*nd*—The limitation of the hours of labour for children and young persons;

3*rd*—The prohibition of the employment of children and young persons on certain dangerous work;

4*th*—The fencing of dangerous machinery;

5*th*—The reporting of accidents, and,

6*th*—The appointment of Government inspectors.

The present Bill has been prepared on these lines, and will apply only to those parts of British India to which it may be extended by the Local Governments, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

Repeal.

3. In this Act—

Explanation (1). When any business is carried on by any member of a firm on behalf of such firm, such business is the business of the firm and notof such person.

Explanation (2). "Agriculture" includes any process ordinarily employed by a cultivator or a receiver of rent in kind, in order to render the produce raised or received by him fit to be taken to market.

For the purposes of this Act, each of the Presidency-towns shall be deemed to be a district.

CHAPTER II.

TAX ON BUSINESS.

4. Every person carrying on, whether on behalf of himself or any other person, any business during any portion of a year commencing on the first day of April 1880, or any subsequent month of April, shall, if he falls under any class mentioned in the second schedule hereto annexed, pay in respect of that year to the Collector of the district in which the principal place of such business is situate the amount shown in that schedule as proper to be paid by persons of such class:

Persons carrying on business to pay according to class.

Provided that when any person not previously carrying on any business begins to carry on a business on or after the first day of July in any such year, no more than the following shall be payable by him in respect of that year, that is to say—when he begins to carry on such business before the first day of October in such year, three-fourths of the said amount;

when he begins to carry on such business on or after the first day of October but before the first day of January in such year, one-half of the said amount; and when he begins to carry on such business on or after the first day of January in such year, one-fourth of the said amount.

Provided also that in any other case in which a person carries on his business for a portion only of such year, the Collector may, by an order in writing, remit a proportionate part of the said amount.

When any question arises as to what shall, for the purposes of this Act, be deemed to be the principal place of any business, the Governor General in Council, or such authority as the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf, shall decide such question, and his or its decision thereof shall be final.

5. The Collector shall, from time to time, determine the class to which every person liable to make any payment to him under this chapter belongs, and shall, not later than the first day of April in each year, prepare, in the language of the district, and file in his office, a list of such persons showing the business carried on by each of them, the places at which such business is carried on, the class to which such person belongs, and the amount payable by him in respect of the year beginning on such day.

Collector to determine class and prepare list.

The list so filed shall be open to public inspection, at all reasonable times, without any payment; and such part or parts thereof as the Collector thinks fit shall, not later than the first day of April, be published in such public place or places of all towns and villages concerned, and shall be made known to the persons affected in such other manner (if any) as the Local Government may from time to time direct.

Persons beginning business after it is prepared.

7. Every person whose name is included in any list prepared under section five shall, before the first day of May next following the preparation of such list, and any person whose class has been determined under section six shall, within one month from such determination, pay to the Collector the amount shown in such list or determined by the Collector (as the case may be) to be payable by him, or when such amount exceeds forty rupees, half of such amount.

Tax when payable.

When only one-half of such amount is payable under the first clause of this section, the remaining half thereof shall be payable on the expiration of six months from the date on which the first half is payable, or when the first day of March next following falls within such period of six months on that day.

8. The Collector shall grant to every person paying any sum under section seven a receipt specifying—

Receipt to be granted.

(b) the name and business of the person to whom it is granted:

(c) the class to which he belongs:

Every fact stated in such receipt shall, for the purposes of this Act, be regarded as proved, unless and until it is disproved.

9. When any person neglects to apply to the Collector as required by section six, the Collector may, of his own motion, determine, by an order in writing, the class to which, for the purposes of this chapter, such person shall belong; and such person shall be liable, by order of the Collector, to pay a penalty not exceeding thrice the amount payable by persons of such class in addition to such amount.

Penalty for non-compliance with sections 6 and 7.

Any person omitting to make any payment as required by section seven shall be liable, by order of the Collector, to pay a penalty not exceeding thrice the amount of such payment in addition to the same.

10. Any person objecting to the class in which he is placed in a list prepared under section five or by an order of the Collector subsequent to the preparation of that list, and who has paid the amount shown in such list or order to be payable by him, or when such amount exceeds forty rupees half the same, may, within thirty days after the publication of the list or the date of such order (as the case may be), or within such further time as the Collector may, in each case, think fit, apply by petition to the Collector, in order to establish his right to have his name transferred to another class, or to be exempt from taxation under this chapter.

Petition of objector.

The Collector shall fix a day for the hearing of the petition, and, on the day so fixed, or on such subsequent day as he may, from time to time, direct, shall hear the same and pass such order thereon as he thinks fit.

(d) that all money collected by such authority on account of such tax shall be credited to the funds under the control of such authority; and

(e) that from such funds such authority shall pay in each year to the credit of the Secretary of State in Council such amount as the Local Government may estimate to be a fair composition for such sums as such authority could with due diligence realize on account of the tax during such year.

and so on, the figures in columns 2 and 3 being increased by 1,00,000 and those in column 4 by 2,000 for each new class.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. The existing License Tax Acts are four in number. Act II of 1878, passed by the Council of the Governor General, applies to the Panjáb, the North-Western Provinces and Oudh; and Acts, more or less similar, passed by the Local Legislatures, apply to the Presidencies of Madras and Bombay, and to Bengal. These Acts it is now thought desirable to consolidate and amend, and the present Bill has been prepared for this purpose.

2. It is considered necessary to exempt from liability to this form of taxation all persons whose presumed incomes are less than Rs. 250 per annum. The effect of this change of system will be to exempt more than a million persons from taxation, and it will involve a sacrifice of an annual revenue of about £240,000.

3. With a view to making good the loss of revenue caused by this exemption of the smaller incomes now liable to the License tax, and to obtaining at the same time greater equality in the incidence of taxation, it is proposed to extend to the professional classes, and also to the wealthier officials and other persons receiving salaries, taxation at a similar rate to that imposed on the trading classes.

It is proposed to treat the trading and professional classes alike. In regard to traders, the Bill makes no important change in the system followed under the existing License Tax Acts, except that it is obviously necessary to increase the fees payable by persons with the larger incomes, as the richer traders would otherwise be taxed at a lower rate than that applied to the salaried classes. The system of classification now in force is generally retained. Some small variation in the rate at which the tax falls on different incomes is under any such system unavoidable; but the new schedule has been so framed that the difference between the highest and the lowest rates does not exceed one-half per cent., the average incidence of the tax being a little over 1½ per cent. on estimated annual earnings.

4. Separate provisions are made for the taxation of the salaried classes, whether official or non-official; as, in their case, the exact incomes being known, the rough process of classification which is desirable for traders and professional persons would obviously be neither necessary nor expedient. It is proposed, following pretty closely the precedents of Act XXI of 1867 and Act IX of 1868, to assess the salaried classes on their actual salaries; the lower limit of taxable salary being Rs. 100 per mensem or Rs. 1,200 per annum.

The rate of the tax on these classes will be 1½ per cent., and, in practice, the tax will on the average fall on all classes at the same rate.

5. Following the precedents above quoted, it is proposed to exempt from liability to the tax the military servants of the Government whose pay and allowances do not exceed Rs. 500 per mensem, or Rs. 6,000 per annum.

6. It is estimated that the extension of taxation to the professional and salaried classes in the manner proposed by the Bill will yield very nearly the same amount as that sacrificed by giving up the tax on the lower classes of traders, or about £240,000. The measure will, therefore, have no appreciable effect on the public revenues.

7. The present opportunity has been taken to amend the law in other particulars, but they are not of sufficient importance to call for notice here.

8. As the existing Acts require the assessment lists to be made out in the beginning of January, it is desirable that the present Bill, if it is to become law, should be passed before the 31st December; but no payments will be due until after the 1st April, when the next financial year begins.

6. The Governor General in Council or the Local Government shall prohibit the levy of town-duty on any articles in a municipality whenever it appears to him or it that such duty is being levied otherwise than in accordance with this Act, or that the levy of such duty interferes with or obstructs the freedom of trade in such articles within any place beyond the limits of such municipality, or tends to diminish the amount of such trade, or the profits of persons engaged therein.

No proof shall ordinarily be required that duty was paid on the importation of such article; but if the Magistrate of the District, or such other officer as may from time to time be specially authorized by the Local Government in this behalf, has reason to believe that no town-duty has been paid thereon, he may order an enquiry to be made; and, if he is satisfied that no such duty has been paid, no refund shall be made.

8. The Committee of every municipality in which town-duties are levied shall, subject to the rules to be made by the Local Government under section thirteen, provide within the limits of such municipality warehouses in which all articles of a description chargeable with town-duty but not intended for use or consumption within the limits of the municipality may be stored without payment of duty.

Every estimate submitted under this section shall be published in such manner as the Local Government may direct.

Presumption that duty has been levied on articles not consumed in the municipality, when return of quantity on which duty paid exceeds by one-fourth quantity estimated.

11. If it appears from any such statement that the quantity of any class of articles on which town-duty has been paid (after deducting the quantity on which the amount of town-duty has been refunded as provided by section seven) exceeds by more than one-fourth part the quantity estimated by the Committee in accordance with the provisions of section nine as the probable total consumption during the year, it shall be presumed, with regard to such class of articles, that town-duty has been levied on it in cases when it is not actually used or consumed within the limits of the municipality, and a report, explaining the reason of such excess over such estimated quantity shall forthwith be made by the Committee for the information of the Local Government, and a copy of such report shall forthwith be sent by the Local Government for the information of the Governor General in Council.

Local Government to order that the levy of duty on such articles shall cease.

Unless the Local Government, on receipt of such report or after such further inquiry as it may think necessary, is satisfied that duty has not been so levied, or that such excess is due to some temporary fluctuation in the ordinary course of trade or some other temporary cause, it shall, by notification in the official Gazette, order that the levy of town-duty on such class of article shall cease.

On such order no duty to be levied on such articles for two years.

On the publication of an order under this section, no town-duty shall again be levied on such class of articles until after the expiration of two years from the date of such order.

Order to be reported to the Governor General in Council.

(b) limiting the amount of town-duty leviable upon any article;

(c) prescribing the conditions under which the warehouses referred to in section eight shall be provided and under which articles may be stored therein, and the fees which may be levied for the use of the same; and

(d) prescribing the manner in which the estimate and statement referred to in sections nine and ten respectively shall be prepared.

All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

Tolls not to be levied except for purpose of defraying cost of construction of work or its maintenance.

14. No toll shall be levied by any Committee unless the same is levied under some enactment for the time being in force and is levied on a road, bridge, quay, wharf or other work solely for the purpose of defraying the cost of the construction of such work, or of its maintenance, or the interest on the capital expended thereon.

If any question arises as to whether any toll is levied solely for the purpose aforesaid, the decision of the Local Government thereon shall be final.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IN the Financial Statement for the present year, 1879-80, it was stated as follows:—

"In connection with the subject of customs-duties, it may be mentioned here that the Government of India has, for some time past, had under consideration the necessity of imposing more complete checks on the system by which, through a large part of India, octroi-duties are levied for municipal purposes. The Government of India has emphatically condemned the imposition of local taxes on articles which have been either subjected to or relieved from imperial taxation, and has insisted that the duties actually levied shall in all cases fall solely upon articles locally consumed, and shall not be allowed to become taxes on through traffic, or to affect injuriously the general trade of the country.

"Although much has been done in this respect towards the enforcement of appropriate rates, continued attention will be given to the subject, so that there may be no danger of finding that the principles by which the Government of India is guided in regard to its commercial legislation have been set aside by local authorities, and that the efforts taken to free the trade of the country from impolitic restrictions have not thus been frustrated."

It is in fulfilment of the pledge thus publicly given, that the present measure is brought forward.

2. The income of the municipalities throughout a large portion of British India is raised chiefly in the shape of town-duties. The proportion of the municipal income thus raised amounts, in the Bombay Presidency (including the town of Bombay), to about four-sevenths of the whole; in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, to about ten-elevenths of the whole, and in the Panjáb and Central Provinces, it is much higher; town-duties constituting almost the sole resource of the municipalities of these Provinces.

In many places the people have been familiar with this form of taxation from a time anterior to our rule; but it is obvious that the very popularity of the octroi-system is apt to lead to its being abused. Local authorities are not sorry to be able to provide for local wants at the expense of other people, and to transfer to others their own proper burdens. It is found that in many towns, and among others in some of the most important entrepôts of trade in British India, the incidence of the tax has been extended so far beyond its legitimate bounds, or the collection has been so mismanaged, as either to involve a collision with imperial taxation, or, still worse, to set up what is to all intents and purposes a heavy transit-duty. To quote the words of a Resolution issued by the Government of India in 1868, "a wide-spread system of taxation has been introduced, injurious to interests on which the burden in a great measure falls, and standing in the way of the proper development of the commerce of the country. It is to little purpose that the Imperial Government reduces or abolishes customs-duties in the interests of trade, if municipalities are permitted to levy duties on articles of commerce passing through their limits."

3. The Government of India, for some years past, has had its attention directed to these serious evils, and instructions have from time to time been issued with a view to their repression.

In 1868, the principles by which these duties should be regulated were laid down. It was stated that they should be restricted to articles actually consumed in the towns, and should not be imposed on articles of general commerce, or interfere with the natural course of transit-trade, and that they must fall entirely on the population of the town for the benefit of which they were imposed. The classes of articles on which octroi-duties might be, and might not be, imposed were enumerated. The necessity for establishing bonded-warehouses on a proper footing and giving all due facilities for refunds, so as to prevent the tax degenerating into a transit-duty, was insisted on, and attention was drawn to the importance of collecting directly through the servants of the municipality, instead of farming the duties to a contractor.

4. Similar orders have been issued from time to time by the Government of India. Its efforts have not been without effect; but a review of the working of the octroi-system in many municipalities shows that they have fallen far short of attaining the objects in view, and on a full consideration of the whole question, the Governor General in Council is satisfied that the only effectual plan will be to lay down in a legislative enactment the restrictions which it is desired to impose.

It is with this object that the present Bill has been framed. Besides providing for the matters above referred to, it establishes what may be called a self-acting check on the most dangerous abuse of the octroi-system by providing in effect that, when the quantity of any commodity taxed in any town in a given year exceeds by one-fourth the estimated consumption of such commodity in such town during that year, the levy of the tax on such commodity shall, unless the excess is shown to be of a temporary or accidental nature, be suspended for two years.

It has been long the custom in some Provinces to make such estimates with the object of providing a check, such as that which it is now desired to establish, on abuse of octroi-taxation; and the plan has been so useful for that purpose, especially in the North-Western Provinces, that it is hoped it may be found generally applicable.

5. The Bill, besides dealing with the matter of octroi in this way, provides in its fourteenth section that no toll shall be levied in a municipality, except for defraying the cost of construction of the road or other work on which it is levied, together with interest on the same and maintenance-charges. This rule is one generally recognized as a matter of principle; but it has often been disregarded, and it is thought necessary to embody it in the Bill.

Every estimate submitted under this section shall be published in such manner as the Local Government may direct.

Statements to be submitted each year by Committee.

10. The Committee of every municipality in which town-duties are levied shall, on or before the first day of June in each year, submit to the Local Government a statement for the year ending on the thirty-first day of March last preceding, showing—

(a) the quantity of each class of articles imported during such year, whether chargeable with town-duty or not, which may be required by the rules to be made under section thirteen to be shown in such statement;

(b) the quantity of each class of articles chargeable with town-duty imported and exported during such year;

(c) the amount of duty levied on each class of articles during such year;

(d) the amount paid under section seven as refund on each class of articles during such year; and (e) the quantity of each class of articles in bond at the close of such year.

Every statement submitted under this section shall be published in such manner as the Local Government may direct.

Presumption that duty has been levied on articles not consumed in the municipality, when return of quantity on which duty paid exceeds by one-fourth quantity estimated.

11. If it appears from any such statement that the quantity of any class of articles on which town-duty has been paid (after deducting the quantity on which the amount of town-duty has been refunded as provided by section seven) exceeds by more than one-fourth part the quantity estimated by the Committee in accordance with the provisions of section nine as the probable total consumption during the year, it shall be presumed, with regard to such class of articles, that town-duty has been levied on it in cases when it is not actually used or consumed within the limits of the municipality, and a report, explaining the reason of such excess over such estimated quantity shall forthwith be made by the Committee for the information of the Local Government, and a copy of such report shall forthwith be sent by the Local Government for the information of the Governor General in Council.

Local Government to order that the levy of duty on such articles shall cease.

Unless the Local Government, on receipt of such report or after such further inquiry as it may think necessary, is satisfied that duty has not been so levied, or that such excess is due to some temporary fluctuation in the ordinary course of trade or some other temporary cause, it shall, by notification in the official Gazette, order that the levy of town-duty on such class of article shall cease.

On such order no duty to be levied on such articles for two years.

On the publication of an order under this section, no town-duty shall again be levied on such class of articles until after the expiration of two years from the date of such order.

The Local Government shall forthwith report every such order and the reasons therefor to the Governor General in Council.

Order to be reported to the Governor General in Council.

Town-duties to be collected by municipal officers.

12. All town-duties shall be collected by officers directly appointed by the Committee.

Power to Local Government to make rules.

13. Subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, the Local Government may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act for—

(a) limiting the articles or classes of articles liable to town-duty;

(b) limiting the amount of town-duty leviable upon any article;

(c) prescribing the conditions under which the warehouses referred to in section eight shall be provided and under which articles may be stored therein, and the fees which may be levied for the use of the same; and

(d) prescribing the manner in which the estimate and statement referred to in sections nine and ten respectively shall be prepared.

All such rules shall be published in the local official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law.

Tolls not to be levied except for purpose of defraying cost of construction of work or its maintenance.

14. No toll shall be levied by any Committee unless the same is levied under some enactment for the time being in force and is levied on a road, bridge, quay, wharf or other work solely for the purpose of defraying the cost of the construction of such work, or of its maintenance, or the interest on the capital expended thereon.

If any question arises as to whether any toll is levied solely for the purpose aforesaid, the decision of the Local Government thereon shall be final.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

In the Financial Statement for the present year, 1879-80, it was stated as follows:—

"In connection with the subject of customs-duties, it may be mentioned here that the Government of India has, for some time past, had under consideration the necessity of imposing more complete checks on the system by which, through a large part of India, octroi-duties are levied for municipal purposes. The Government of India has emphatically condemned the imposition of local taxes on articles which have been either subjected to or relieved from imperial taxation, and has insisted that the duties actually levied shall in all cases fall solely upon articles locally consumed, and shall not be allowed to become taxes on through traffic, or to affect injuriously the general trade of the country.

"Although much has been done in this respect towards the enforcement of appropriate rates, continued attention will be given to the subject, so that there may be no danger of finding that the principles by which the Government of India is guided in regard to its commercial legislation have been set aside by local authorities, and that the efforts taken to free the trade of the country from impolitic restrictions have not thus been frustrated."

It is in fulfilment of the pledge thus publicly given, that the present measure is brought forward.

2. The income of the municipalities throughout a large portion of British India is raised chiefly in the shape of town-duties. The proportion of the municipal income thus raised amounts, in the Bombay Presidency (including the town of Bombay), to about four-sevenths of the whole; in the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, to about ten-elevenths of the whole, and in the Panjáb and Central Provinces, it is much higher; town-duties constituting almost the sole resource of the municipalities of these Provinces.

In many places the people have been familiar with this form of taxation from a time anterior to our rule; but it is obvious that the very popularity of the octroi-system is apt to lead to its being abused. Local authorities are not sorry to be able to provide for local wants at the expense of other people, and to transfer to others their own proper burdens. It is found that in many towns, and among others in some of the most important entrepôts of trade in British India, the incidence of the tax has been extended so far beyond its legitimate bounds, or the collection has been so mismanaged, as either to involve a collision with imperial taxation, or, still worse, to set up what is to all intents and purposes a heavy transit-duty. To quote the words of a Resolution issued by the Government of India in 1868, "a wide-spread system of taxation has been introduced, injurious to interests on which the burden in a great measure falls, and standing in the way of the proper development of the commerce of the country. It is to little purpose that the Imperial Government reduces or abolishes customs-duties in the interests of trade, if municipalities are permitted to levy duties on articles of commerce passing through their limits."

3. The Government of India, for some years past, has had its attention directed to these serious evils, and instructions have from time to time been issued with a view to their repression.

In 1868, the principles by which these duties should be regulated were laid down. It was stated that they should be restricted to articles actually consumed in the towns, and should not be imposed on articles of general commerce, or interfere with the natural course of transit-trade, and that they must fall entirely on the population of the town for the benefit of which they were imposed. The classes of articles on which octroi-duties might be, and might not be, imposed were enumerated. The necessity for establishing bonded warehouses on a proper footing and giving all due facilities for refunds, so as to prevent the tax degenerating into a transit-duty, was insisted on, and attention was drawn to the importance of collecting directly through the servants of the municipality, instead of farming the duties to a contractor.

4. Similar orders have been issued from time to time by the Government of India. Its efforts have not been without effect; but a review of the working of the octroi-system in many municipalities shows that they have fallen far short of attaining the objects in view, and on a full consideration of the whole question, the Governor General in Council is satisfied that the only effectual plan will be to lay down in a legislative enactment the restrictions which it is desired to impose.

It is with this object that the present Bill has been framed. Besides providing for the matters above referred to, it establishes what may be called a self-acting check on the most dangerous abuse of the octroi-system by providing in effect that, when the quantity of any commodity taxed in any town in a given year exceeds by one-fourth the estimated consumption of such commodity in such town during that year, the levy of the tax on such commodity shall, unless the excess is shown to be of a temporary or accidental nature, be suspended for two years.

It has been long the custom in some Provinces to make such estimates with the object of providing a check, such as that which it is now desired to establish, on abuse of octroi-taxation; and the plan has been so useful for that purpose, especially in the North-Western Provinces, that it is hoped it may be found generally applicable.

5. The Bill, besides dealing with the matter of octroi in this way, provides in its fourteenth section that no toll shall be levied in a municipality, except for defraying the cost of construction of the road or other work on which it is levied, together with interest on the same and maintenance-charges. This rule is one generally recognized as a matter of principle; but it has often been disregarded, and it is thought necessary to embody it in the Bill.
