GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 30th December, 1880, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 21 of 1880.

A Bill to empower the Government of Madras to alter the local limits of the Coroner's Jurisdiction, and for other purposes.

Preamble.

WHEREAS under the Coroners' Act, 1871, the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Coroner of Madras are made co-extensive with the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature at Madras;

and whereas it is expedient to empower the Governor of Fort St. George in Council to alter the local limits of the said Coroner's jurisdiction;

and whereas it is also expedient to correct an error in section nine of Madras Act No. VIII of 1867 (an Act to incorporate the Police of the Town of Madras with the general Police of the Madras Presidency and for other purposes) as amended by the Code of Criminal Procedure; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Power to alter local limits of jurisdiction of Coroner of Madras.

1. The Governor of Fort St. George in Council may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, by notification in the Fort St. George Gazette, alter the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Coroner of Madras :

Provided that such limits shall not extend beyond the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature at Madras.

Sections 133 to 135 of Act X of 1872 to extend to area excluded from Coroner's jurisdiction.

2. When, in exercise of the power conferred by section one, any area within the local limits of the said ordinary original civil jurisdiction is excluded from the local limits of the Coroner's jurisdiction, sections 133 to 135 (both inclusive) of the Code of Criminal Procedure shall extend to such area while so excluded, and all functions assigned to a Magistrate by those sections shall be discharged by the Commissioner of Police.

New section substituted for section 9 of Madras Act VIII of 1867.

3. For section nine of the said Madras Act No. VIII of 1867, the following section shall be substituted :—

Law to govern Town Police.

"9. The Town Police shall be governed by all the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code, contained in sections 89, 91 to 103 (both inclusive), 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, 114, 116, 117 (first part), 118, 119, 120, 123, 124, 125, 127, 128, 129, 131, 136, 139, 140, 141, 142, 144, 147, chapter XII, sections 159, 161, 163 to 170 (both inclusive), 174 to 185 (both inclusive), chapter XXVII (except section 385), sections 415 to 420 (both inclusive), 480, so far as they are applicable :

"Provided always, that the officer in charge of a Police-station shall not be required to bind over the prosecutor and witnesses as directed in section 123 of the said Code, if their immediate attendance can be procured without recognizances."

Act X of 1872, schedule V, in part repealed.

4. The portion of Schedule V of the Code of Criminal Procedure, under the heading "Acts of the Governor of Madras in Council," shall be read as if the letter and figure "s. 9" in the first column, and all the words and figures in the second and third columns opposite the said letter and figure, were omitted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

UNDER Act No. IV of 1871 (The Coroners' Act, 1871), the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Coroners in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay are made co-extensive with the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William, Madras and Bombay, respectively, no power to alter them being conferred. In Madras, these limits comprise twenty-seven square miles and include twenty-three agricultural villages. This area having of late years, owing to the increase in the number of inquests to be held, become too large for one Coroner, it is proposed that the Governor in Council should be empowered to restrict the local limits of the Coroner's jurisdiction by excluding from them the non-urban portion which differs but little from the adjoining mufassal district. To give effect to this proposal, the present Bill has been prepared. It empowers the Governor in Council, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, to alter the local limits of the Coroner's jurisdiction, as may be from time to time convenient, provided that these limits are never extended beyond the present ones.

2. In the event of the powers conferred by the Bill being exercised and the local limits of the Coroner's jurisdiction restricted, the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code relating to enquiries by the Police into unnatural and sudden deaths will (section 2) extend to the tract excluded from the jurisdiction of the Coroner, and the Commissioner of Police will discharge the functions of the Magistrate under those provisions.

3. The present opportunity has been taken to correct an error (the result of an oversight) in section 9 of the Madras Police Act (Madras Act No. VIII of 1867) as amended by the Code of Criminal Procedure.

8. The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, make rules to regulate or prohibit in any fairway in any of the seas adjacent to British India, the placing of fishing stakes, the casting or throwing of ballast, rubbish, or any other thing likely to give rise to a bank or shoal, or the doing of any other act which will, in his opinion, cause or be likely to cause obstruction or danger to navigation.

Penalty for breach of such rules.

9. Whoever is guilty of any act or omission in contravention of the rules made under section eight, may be tried for such offence in any district or Presidency-town in which he is found, and shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

40 & 41 Vic., c. 16, s. 8.

Saving of other powers possessed by Government.

10. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to prevent the exercise by the Government of any other powers possessed by it in this behalf.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to empower the Government to remove obstructions to navigation which may exist in fairways situate in seas adjacent to British India, and to prohibit the creation of such obstructions for the future. The advantages of having such a law have been impressed upon the Government by certain recent cases. In one of these a question has been raised as to the power of the Government to remove the fishing stakes which are annually placed during the fine season in the sea off the port of Bombay, and which, having recently been advanced into the approach to the harbour, are now a source of serious danger to vessels frequenting that port. In another case which related to the deposit of ballast by ship-masters, at the mouth of the Rangoon river, a practice which, if permitted, might cause serious impediment and danger to the navigation of the approaches to the port of Rangoon, the need for some further preventive powers than those which Government now possesses, has been made apparent.

There can be no doubt that it is extremely desirable that the powers of Government officers, and the procedure to be followed by them, in relation to matters of this nature, should be clearly defined, and as the Indian Statute-Book, as it now stands, does not deal adequately with the subject, the present Bill has been prepared. A precedent for such legislation will be found in the Imperial Statute 40 & 41 Vic., c. 16 (the Removal of Wrecks Act, 1877). The Bill, while following generally the lines of the statute, goes beyond it in two material respects. The power to remove obstructions conferred by it is not confined, as in the statute, to the case of obstructions caused by wrecks, but extends also to fishing stakes, ballast and any other thing which may form an obstruction or danger to navigation. The other point in which the Bill goes beyond the statute is that, in addition to giving power to remove existing obstructions, it enables the Government to prevent the wilful creation of obstructions in the future. With this object the Governor General in Council is empowered (section 7) to make rules to regulate or prohibit in any fairway the placing of fishing stakes, the casting of ballast, or the doing of any other act which will, in his opinion, cause or be likely to cause danger or obstruction to navigation.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 30th December, 1880, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 23 OF 1880.

A Bill to amend Bengal Act No. IX of 1880 (the Cess Act, 1880).

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Bengal Act No. IX of 1880 (the Cess Act, 1880); It is hereby enacted as follows :— Preamble.

1. In the said Act, after section sixty-four, the following sections shall be inserted, and shall be deemed to have been so inserted on and from the date on which such Act came into force. Amendment of Bengal Act No. IX of 1880.

"64A. All sums due to the holder of any estate or tenure under the provisions of this chapter, in respect of any land held rent-free, may be recovered by such holder from any owner or holder of such rent-free land, or from any occupier of the same, by any means and any process by which the amount might be recovered if it were due on account of rent of a transferable tenure or holding, and subject to the same rules as to limitation : Holders of estates, &c., how to recover from holders of rent-free lands.

"Provided that, if any such objection as is mentioned in section 53, has been made before the Collector, no proceedings shall be commenced, and no proceedings which have been commenced shall be continued, for recovery of cess in respect of the lands which are the subject of such objection, until such objection shall have been disposed of by the Collector.

"64B. In every suit for the recovery of any such sum, the person to whom the sum is due may proceed at his option either against the owner or holder of the rent-free land in respect of which such amount is due, or against the occupier thereof; and any decree obtained in such suit against any occupier of such land shall have the same effect and be followed by the same consequences in respect of the execution of such decree against the owner or holder of such land, and in respect of the sale of such land in such execution, as if the suit had been brought and the decree given against such owner or holder of such land, but shall have effect against such occupier personally so long only as he remains in occupation of such land, and no longer." Owner, holder or occupier of rent-free lands may be sued. Decree against occupier tantamount to decree against owner.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

WHEN the Bill, which has since become Bengal Act No. IX of 1880 (The Cess Act, 1880), was submitted, for the first time, by the Government of Bengal for the assent of the Governor General, His Excellency, though approving of the policy of the Bill, was unable to give his assent, as he was advised that two of its sections were ultra vires of the Bengal Legislative Council. Section 65 was ultra vires, inasmuch as it extended to suits the parties to which were not landholder and tenant, the special procedure which the provincial legislature is, by section 4 of the Code of Civil Procedure, permitted to prescribe only in suits between landholder and tenant; and section 66 also appeared to be ultra vires, as it was inconsistent with the same Code, in enacting that a decree might be executed against a person who was neither a party or privy.

Though, however, feeling compelled for these reasons to withhold his assent from the Bill in its then form, His Excellency intimated to the Government of Bengal that he would be willing to give his assent to the measure if it was re-enacted with the omission of the provisions to which exception had been taken, and further, that if the Lieutenant-Governor should think these provisions were indispensable, a Bill would be introduced into the Council of the Governor General incorporating them, and drawn so as to come in force simultaneously with the Bengal Bill when re-enacted.

In accordance with this intimation, the Government of Bengal re-submitted the Bill with the omission of the objectionable provisions, and His Excellency has given his assent to the measure as thus amended. But, as the Local Government has expressed at the same time a strong opinion that the omitted sections are essential to their scheme of legislation, the present Bill has been prepared in fulfilment of the promise made by His Excellency. It simply re-enacts the provisions to which exception was taken, and incorporates them in the Bengal Act, by inserting them retrospectively in that enactment from the date on which it became law.

Decree against occupier tantamount to decree against owner.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

WHEN the Bill, which has since become Bengal Act No. IX of 1880 (The Cess Act, 1880), was submitted, for the first time, by the Government of Bengal for the assent of the Governor General, His Excellency, though approving of the policy of the Bill, was unable to give his assent, as he was advised that two of its sections were ultra vires of the Bengal Legislative Council. Section 65 was ultra vires, inasmuch as it extended to suits the parties to which were not landholder and tenant, the special procedure which the provincial legislature is, by section 4 of the Code of Civil Procedure, permitted to prescribe only in suits between landholder and tenant; and section 66 also appeared to be ultra vires, as it was inconsistent with the same Code, in enacting that a decree might be executed against a person who was neither a party or privy.

Though, however, feeling compelled for these reasons to withhold his assent from the Bill in its then form, His Excellency intimated to the Government of Bengal that he would be willing to give his assent to the measure if it was re-enacted with the omission of the provisions to which exception had been taken, and further, that if the Lieutenant-Governor should think these provisions were indispensable, a Bill would be introduced into the Council of the Governor General incorporating them, and drawn so as to come in force simultaneously with the Bengal Bill when re-enacted.

In accordance with this intimation, the Government of Bengal re-submitted the Bill with the omission of the objectionable provisions, and His Excellency has given his assent to the measure as thus amended. But, as the Local Government has expressed at the same time a strong opinion that the omitted sections are essential to their scheme of legislation, the present Bill has been prepared in fulfilment of the promise made by His Excellency. It simply re-enacts the provisions to which exception was taken, and incorporates them in the Bengal Act, by inserting them retrospectively in that enactment from the date on which it became law.

ENACTMENTS REPEALED.

Number and year of Act or Regulation.	Title.	Extent of repeal.
Act VII of 1865...	An Act to give effect to rules for the management and preservation of Government forests.	So much as has not been repealed.
Act VII of 1869...	An Act to give validity to certain rules relating to forests in British Burma.	The whole.
Act XIII of 1873	An Act to amend the law relating to timber floated down the rivers of British Burma.	So much as has not been repealed.
Regulation IX of 1874.	The Arakan Hill District Laws Regulation, 1874.	So far as it relates to Acts VII of 1865 and VII of 1869.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. The necessity for placing forest-legislation in British Burma upon a satisfactory footing has been felt for a considerable time. The present state of the law is as follows:—

The Government Forests Act (Act No. VII of 1865) is in force, but it does not provide for all requirements. That Act gave power to make rules, having the force of law, for the management and preservation of the Government forests and for the control of the timber floated down rivers. Accordingly in August, 1865, rules for the administration of forests in British Burma were promulgated. These rules, though purporting to have been made under the Government Forest Act, were not covered by its provisions, and accordingly they were legalized by Act No. VII of 1869.

In 1873 it was deemed advisable to amend and consolidate the law relating to timber floated down the rivers of Burma. Accordingly the Burma Timber Act (No. XIII of 1873) was passed. This Act repealed Act No. VII of 1869 and the rules legalized by that Act as far as they related to duty on timber floated down the rivers of British Burma.

The rules of August, 1865, related only to a portion of the Government forests, as defined in the rules, and it became necessary to provide by another set of rules for the administration of the forests thus excluded. This was done by rules made under Act No. VII of 1865, which were promulgated in Burma in March, 1876, together with a notification defining the areas to which they were applicable.

Thus the administration of the Government forests in Burma and the management of the timber floated down its rivers is governed by three different enactments and two sets of rules having the force of law. Yet these enactments and rules leave several of the most important matters unprovided for, and hence it is necessary both to consolidate and to complete them.

Experience has shown that the only practical method to ensure the objects aimed at by forest-administration is to set apart and demarcate selected areas of Government forests, to liberate these areas as far as possible from rights of private persons, and to guard against the growth by prescription of fresh rights in forests thus set apart and demarcated.

Forests thus set apart and demarcated are called reserved forests, and the formation of such reserved forests in British Burma has proceeded steadily during the last five years. The formation of such reserved forests is preceded by a thorough and complete enquiry by a Settlement-officer into the rights and requirements of the people residing in and in the immediate vicinity of these areas. The guiding principle followed in this enquiry is, that such arrangements are made as will enable the people to provide for their requirements in the matter of forest-produce, either outside the reserved forests, or, under suitable rules, within their boundaries. And in the case of the tribes whose custom it is to carry on the shifting kind of cultivation by cutting and burning the forest which is called Toungya cultivation, defined areas are assigned to them where they may practice this kind of cultivation. Under these arrangements the formation of Government forest domains has been commenced, and their area aggregated, on 31st March last, 1,442 square miles.

The practical result of these proceedings is that the forests thus set apart and demarcated can be effectively protected and steadily improved, so that eventually a limited area will yield all the timber and other forest-produce required for home consumption and export, while the remainder can be thrown open for the use of the people and the extension of cultivation. The system here sketched enables Government to concentrate forest-conservancy upon limited areas, instead of attempting to enforce restrictions over the whole of the forests.

The procedure, however, hitherto followed in this respect in Burma, in some particulars, wants legal sanction, and hence the action of Government in setting apart reserved forests is not final, and may be called in question. The object of the present Bill is to legalize what has been done in this respect, and to lay down a procedure for the future.

3. The Indian Forest Act, which was passed in 1878, had the same object, and it must now be explained why it was not considered advisable to make the provisions of the Indian Forest Act applicable to Burma. One reason is that the procedure followed in the enquiry into, and the settlement of, forest-rights and in the demarcation of forests, as it has been developed by practical experience, is somewhat different from that prescribed by the Indian Forest Act. But this is a minor matter. The chief reason for special forest-legislation in Burma, consists in the provisions of the Burma Land and Revenue Act (Act No. II of 1876). Section 6 of that Act defines the rights in land subject to the second part of that Act, which are recognized by law, and clause (b) recognizes rights acquired under sections 27 and 28 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1871. The rights thus recognized are "easements" in the ordinary English acceptation of that term, including the use of light or air, way, watercourse, use of water, but not any prescriptive right by which one person is entitled to remove and appropriate, for his own profit, any part of the soil belonging to another, or, anything growing in, or attached to, or subsisting upon, the land of another.

The Indian Limitation Act of 1877 extended the definition of the term "easement" including in it all rights of the latter class. But it has been held that this did not affect the construction of the Burma Land and Revenue Act, and consequently the practical effect of section 6 of that Act is to deny the existence of all prescriptive rights of user of forest-produce in the forests of Burma.

But as a matter of fact there is no doubt that such rights existed in the Burma forests before the Burma Land and Revenue Act was passed, and their existence has been recognized in the enquiries which have preceded the demarcation of the existing reserved forests.

No forest-legislation for Burma could ignore these rights, and in framing the present Bill it was necessary to save them.

4. Several other important subjects have also been treated differently from the Indian Forest Act.

Thus the penalties for offences committed in reserved forests are all uniform in the Indian Forest Act, while in the present Bill it has been thought better to classify offences into two classes, and to assign to each class separate limits of punishment.

5. Again, as regards reserved forests which have already been demarcated it is proposed, having regard to the careful investigations made at the time they were reserved, that they should be placed by the direct operation of the Act in the position of reserved forests made under the Act, instead of leaving it to the local Government, as the Indian Forest Act does, to class them as such.

6. The provisions relating to village-forests differ from the corresponding provisions in the Indian Forest Act, in as far as they give power to constitute any forest which is at the disposal of Government, a village-forest, and not only such as have already been declared reserved forests.

7. A fundamental difference between the present Bill and the Indian Forest Act is in the chapter which deals with the protection of forests on Government lands not included in reserved or village-forests. The Indian Forest Act attempts to solve this question by authorizing the constitution of protected forests. These protected forests are intended to be defined areas in which the rights of Government and of private persons are enquired into and recorded.

In Burma, where a large portion (in many districts more than three-fourths of the area) is forest, this plan would be unnecessary. It would also be impracticable. Hence the present Bill only contemplates the formation of two classes of forests—reserved forests and village-forests. The object of the former class is to furnish timber and other useful produce for the consumption of the Province and for export, while the object of the village-forests is to ensure a permanent supply of pasture and of wood and bamboos to the villages to which such forests are assigned. And while the first step is the formation of the State forest domains, which are styled reserved forests, it is intended that the formation of village-forests shall be taken in hand gradually as the growth of population and the clearing of the forests for cultivation may render necessary the setting apart of a certain area for the use of villages.

Outside these two classes of forests the great object in Burma must be to facilitate the extension of cultivation as much as possible. Hence it would not be expedient in any way to impede or limit the extension of cultivation by the establishment of a third class analogous to the protected forests of the Indian Forest Act. What is required is, outside the reserved forests and village-forests, to give a certain protection to the teak tree and to a few other reserved kinds, and to realize revenue from the timber, bamboos and other forest-produce used for purposes of trade.

These provisions must be maintained until the demarcation of the State (reserved) and village-forests has been completed, and until the forests of these two classes have been brought to such a condition by efficient protection and steadily-continued works of improvement, that they are capable of furnishing the timber and forest-produce required for the agricultural population, for the Province generally, and for export.

This aim cannot be expected to be accomplished for many years to come. But as it is accomplished in one district after another, the restrictions imposed upon the use of the forests outside the State and village-forests may be abolished in such districts.

8. That chapter of the Indian Forest Act which authorizes Government to exercise control in certain cases, for the public good, over forests which are not the property of Government is not required in Burma, and has therefore been omitted.

9. The power to impose a duty on foreign timber (section 36) is taken from the Indian Forest Act, and the duty imposed by section 37 on timber produced in certain forests in our own territory is one which has been levied for the last thirty years.

10. In the concluding chapters, which relate to the control of timber in transit, to the collection of drift or stranded timber, to penalties, cattle trespass, forest officers and to miscellaneous matters, the Bill follows generally the Indian Forest Act.

Briefly, it may be said that the Bill now published is the Indian Forest Act of 1878, with such changes as were necessary to adapt it to the peculiar circumstances of British Burma.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 30th December, 1880, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 21 OF 1880.

A Bill to empower the Government of Madras to alter the local limits of the Coroner's Jurisdiction, and for other purposes.

Preamble.

WHEREAS under the Coroners' Act, 1871, the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Coroner of Madras are made co-extensive with the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature at Madras;

and whereas it is expedient to empower the Governor of Fort St. George in Council to alter the local limits of the said Coroner's jurisdiction;

and whereas it is also expedient to correct an error in section nine of Madras Act No. VIII of 1867 (an Act to incorporate the Police of the Town of Madras with the general Police of the Madras Presidency and for other purposes) as amended by the Code of Criminal Procedure; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Power to alter local limits of jurisdiction of Coroner of Madras.

1. The Governor of Fort St. George in Council may, from time to time, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, by notification in the Fort St. George Gazette, alter the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Coroner of Madras :

Provided that such limits shall not extend beyond the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court of Judicature at Madras.

Sections 133 to 135 of Act X of 1872 to extend to area excluded from Coroner's jurisdiction.

2. When, in exercise of the power conferred by section one, any area within the local limits of the said ordinary original civil jurisdiction is excluded from the local limits of the Coroner's jurisdiction, sections 133 to 135 (both inclusive) of the Code of Criminal Procedure shall extend to such area while so excluded, and all functions assigned to a Magistrate by those sections shall be discharged by the Commissioner of Police.

New section substituted for section 9 of Madras Act VIII of 1867.

3. For section nine of the said Madras Act No. VIII of 1867, the following section shall be substituted :—

Law to govern Town Police.

"9. The Town Police shall be governed by all the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code, contained in sections 89, 91 to 103 (both inclusive), 108, 109, 110, 111, 112, 114, 116, 117 (first part), 118, 119, 120, 123, 124, 125, 127, 128, 129, 131, 132, 139, 140, 141, 142, 144, 147, chapter XII, sections 159, 161, 163 to 170 (both inclusive), 174 to 185 (both inclusive), chapter XXVII (except section 385), sections 415 to 420 (both inclusive), 480, so far as they are applicable :

"Provided always, that the officer in charge of a Police-station shall not be required to bind over the prosecutor and witnesses as directed in section 123 of the said Code, if their immediate attendance can be procured without recognizances."

Act X of 1872, schedule V, in part repealed.

4. The portion of Schedule V of the Code of Criminal Procedure, under the heading "Acts of the Governor of Madras in Council," shall be read as if the letter and figure "s. 9" in the first column, and all the words and figures in the second and third columns opposite the said letter and figure, were omitted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

UNDER Act No. IV of 1871 (The Coroners' Act, 1871), the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Coroners in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay are made co-extensive with the local limits of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William, Madras and Bombay, respectively, no power to alter them being conferred. In Madras, these limits comprise twenty-seven square miles and include twenty-three agricultural villages. This area having of late years, owing to the increase in the number of inquests to be held, become too large for one Coroner, it is proposed that the Governor in Council should be empowered to restrict the local limits of the Coroner's jurisdiction by excluding from them the non-urban portion which differs but little from the adjoining mufassal district. To give effect to this proposal, the present Bill has been prepared. It empowers the Governor in Council, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, to alter the local limits of the Coroner's jurisdiction, as may be from time to time convenient, provided that these limits are never extended beyond the present ones.

2. In the event of the powers conferred by the Bill being exercised and the local limits of the Coroner's jurisdiction restricted, the provisions of the Criminal Procedure Code relating to enquiries by the Police into unnatural and sudden deaths will (section 2) extend to the tract excluded from the jurisdiction of the Coroner, and the Commissioner of Police will discharge the functions of the Magistrate under those provisions.

3. The present opportunity has been taken to correct an error (the result of an oversight) in section 9 of the Madras Police Act (Madras Act No. VIII of 1867) as amended by the Code of Criminal Procedure.

Power to make rules to regulate and prohibit the placing of obstructions in fairways.

8. The Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, make rules to regulate or prohibit in any fairway in any of the seas adjacent to British India, the placing of fishing stakes, the casting or throwing of ballast, rubbish, or any other thing likely to give rise to a bank or shoal, or the doing of any other act which will, in his opinion, cause or be likely to cause obstruction or danger to navigation.

Penalty for breach of such rules.

9. Whoever is guilty of any act or omission in contravention of the rules made under section eight, may be tried for such offence in any district or Presidency-town in which he is found, and shall be punished with imprisonment for a term which may extend to six months, or with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, or with both.

Saving of other powers possessed by Government.

10. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed 40 & 41 c. 16, s. to prevent the exercise by the Government of any other powers possessed by it in this behalf.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to empower the Government to remove obstructions to navigation which may exist in fairways situate in seas adjacent to British India, and to prohibit the creation of such obstructions for the future. The advantages of having such a law have been impressed upon the Government by certain recent cases. In one of these a question has been raised as to the power of the Government to remove the fishing stakes which are annually placed during the fine season in the sea off the port of Bombay, and which, having recently been advanced into the approach to the harbour, are now a source of serious danger to vessels frequenting that port. In another case which related to the deposit of ballast by ship-masters, at the mouth of the Rangoon river, a practice which, if permitted, might cause serious impediment and danger to the navigation of the approaches to the port of Rangoon, the need for some further preventive powers than those which Government now possesses, has been made apparent.

There can be no doubt that it is extremely desirable that the powers of Government officers, and the procedure to be followed by them, in relation to matters of this nature, should be clearly defined, and as the Indian Statute-Book, as it now stands, does not deal adequately with the subject, the present Bill has been prepared. A precedent for such legislation will be found in the Imperial Statute 40 & 41 Vic., c. 16 (the Removal of Wrecks Act, 1877). The Bill, while following generally the lines of the statute, goes beyond it in two material respects. The power to remove obstructions conferred by it is not confined, as in the statute, to the case of obstructions caused by wrecks, but extends also to fishing stakes, ballast and any other thing which may form an obstruction or danger to navigation. The other point in which the Bill goes beyond the statute is that, in addition to giving power to remove existing obstructions, it enables the Government to prevent the wilful creation of obstructions in the future. With this object the Governor General in Council is empowered (section 7) to make rules to regulate or prohibit in any fairway the placing of fishing stakes, the casting of ballast, or the doing of any other act which will, in his opinion, cause or be likely to cause danger or obstruction to navigation.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 30th December, 1880, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 23 OF 1880.

A Bill to amend Bengal Act No. IX of 1880 (the Cess Act, 1880).

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend Bengal Act No. IX of 1880 (the Cess Act, 1880); It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Amendment of Bengal Act No. IX of 1880.

1. In the said Act, after section sixty-four, the following sections shall be inserted, and shall be deemed to have been so inserted on and from the date on which such Act came into force.

Suits to recover from holders of rent-free lands.

"64A. All sums due to the holder of any estate or tenure under the provisions of this chapter, in respect of any land held rent-free, may be recovered by such holder from any owner or holder of such rent-free land, or from any occupier of the same, by any means and any process by which the amount might be recovered if it were due on account of rent of a transferable tenure or holding, and subject to the same rules as to limitation :

"Provided that, if any such objection as is mentioned in section 53, has been made before the Collector, no proceedings shall be commenced, and no proceedings which have been commenced shall be continued, for recovery of cess in respect of the lands which are the subject of such objection, until such objection shall have been disposed of by the Collector.

Owner, holder or occupier of rent-free lands may be sued.

Decree against occupier tantamount to decree against owner.

"64B. In every suit for the recovery of any such sum, the person to whom the sum is due may proceed at his option either against the owner or holder of the rent-free land in respect of which such amount is due, or against the occupier thereof; and any decree obtained in such suit against any occupier of such land shall have the same effect and be followed by the same consequences in respect of the execution of such decree against the owner or holder of such land, and in respect of the sale of such land in such execution, as if the suit had been brought and the decree obtained against such owner or holder of such land, but shall not be enforced against such occupier personally so long only as he remains in occupation of such land, and no longer."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

WHEN the Bill, which has since become Bengal Act No. IX of 1880 (The Cess Act, 1880), was submitted, for the first time, by the Government of Bengal for the assent of the Governor General, His Excellency, though approving of the policy of the Bill, was unable to give his assent, as he was advised that two of its sections were ultra vires of the Bengal Legislative Council. Section 65 was ultra vires, inasmuch as it extended to suits the parties in which were not landholder and tenant, the special procedure which the provincial legislature is, by section 4 of the Code of Civil Procedure, permitted to prescribe only in suits between landholder and tenant; and section 66 also appeared to be ultra vires, as it was inconsistent with the same Code, in enacting that a decree might be executed against a person who was neither a party or privy.

Though, however, feeling compelled for these reasons to withhold his assent from the Bill in its then form, His Excellency intimated to the Government of Bengal that he would be willing to give his assent to the measure if it was amended by the omission of the provisions to which exception had been taken, and further, that if the Lieutenant-Governor should think these provisions were indispensable, a Bill should be introduced into the Council of the Governor General incorporating them, and drawn so as to come in force simultaneously with the Bengal Bill when re-enacted.

In accordance with this intimation, the Government of Bengal re-submitted the Bill with the omission of the objectionable provisions, and His Excellency has given his assent to the measure as thus amended. But, as the Local Government has expressed at the same time a strong opinion that the omitted sections are essential to their scheme of legislation, the present Bill has been prepared in fulfilment of the promise made by His Excellency. It simply re-enacts the provisions to which exception was taken, and incorporates them in the Bengal Act, by inserting them retrospectively in that enactment from the date on which it became law.

ENACTMENTS REPEALED.

Number and year of Act or Regulation.	Title.	Extent of repeal.
Act VII of 1865...	An Act to give effect to rules for the management and preservation of Government forests.	So much as has not been repealed.
Act VII of 1869...	An Act to give validity to certain rules relating to forests in British Burma.	The whole.
Act XIII of 1873	An Act to amend the law relating to timber floated down the rivers of British Burma.	So much as has not been repealed.
Regulation IX of 1874.	The Arakan Hill District Laws Regulation, 1874.	So far as it relates to Acts VII of 1865 and VII of 1869.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. The necessity for placing forest-legislation in British Burma upon a satisfactory footing has been felt for a considerable time. The present state of the law is as follows:—

The Government Forests Act (Act No. VII of 1865) is in force, but it does not provide for all requirements. That Act gave power to make rules, having the force of law, for the management and preservation of the Government forests and for the control of the timber floated down rivers. Accordingly in August, 1865, rules for the administration of forests in British Burma were promulgated. These rules, though purporting to have been made under the Government Forest Act, were not covered by its provisions, and accordingly they were legalized by Act No. VII of 1869.

In 1873 it was deemed advisable to amend and consolidate the law relating to timber floated down the rivers of Burma. Accordingly the Burma Timber Act (No. XIII of 1873) was passed. This Act repealed Act No. VII of 1869 and the rules legalized by that Act, so far as they related to duty on timber floated down the rivers of British Burma.

The rules of August, 1865, related only to a portion of the Government forests, as defined in the rules, and it became necessary to provide by another set of rules for the administration of the forests thus excluded. This was done by rules made under Act No. VII of 1865, which were promulgated in Burma in March, 1876, together with a notification defining the areas to which they were applicable.

Thus the administration of the Government forests in Burma and the management of the timber floated down its rivers is governed by three different enactments and two sets of rules having the force of law. Yet these enactments and rules leave several of the most important matters unprovided for, and hence it is necessary both to consolidate and to complete them.

Experience has shown that the only practical method to ensure the objects aimed at by forest-administration is to set apart and demarcate selected areas of Government forests, to liberate these areas as far as possible from rights of private persons, and to guard against the growth by prescription of fresh rights in forests thus set apart and demarcated.

Forests thus set apart and demarcated are called reserved forests, and the formation of such reserved forests in British Burma has proceeded steadily during the last five years. The formation of such reserved forests is preceded by a thorough and complete enquiry by a settlement-officer into the rights and requirements of the people residing in and in the immediate vicinity of these areas. The guiding principle followed in this enquiry is that such arrangements are made as will enable the people to provide for their requirements in the matter of forest-produce, either outside the reserved forests, or, under suitable rules, within their boundaries. And in the case of the tribes whose custom it is to carry on the shifting kind of cultivation by cutting and burning the forest which is called toungya cultivation, defined areas are assigned to them where they may practise this kind of cultivation. Under these arrangements the formation of Government forest domains has been commenced, and their area aggregated, on 31st March last, 1,442 square miles.

The practical result of these proceedings is that the forests thus set apart and demarcated can be effectively protected and steadily improved, so that eventually a limited area will yield all the timber and other forest-produce required for home consumption and export, while the remainder can be thrown open for the use of the people and the extension of cultivation. The system here sketched enables Government to concentrate forest-conservancy upon limited areas, instead of attempting to enforce restrictions over the whole of the forests.

The procedure, however, hitherto followed in this respect in Burma, in some particulars, wants legal sanction, and hence the action of Government in setting apart reserved forests is not final, and may be called in question. The object of the present Bill is to legalize what has been done in this respect, and to lay down a procedure for the future.

3. The Indian Forest Act, which was passed in 1878, had the same object, and it must now be explained why it was not considered advisable to make the provisions of the Indian Forest Act applicable to Burma. One reason is that the procedure followed in the enquiry into, and the settlement of, forest-rights and in the demarcation of forests, as it has been developed by practical experience, is somewhat different from that prescribed by the Indian Forest Act. But this is a minor matter. The chief reason for special forest-legislation in Burma, consists in the provisions of the Burma Land and Revenue Act (Act No. II of 1876). Section 6 of that Act defines the rights in land subject to the second part of that Act, which are recognized by law, and clause (b) recognizes rights acquired under sections 27 and 28 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1871. The rights thus recognized are "easements" in the ordinary English acceptation of that term, including the use of light or air, way, watercourse, use of water, but not any prescriptive right by which one person is entitled to remove and appropriate, for his own profit, any part of the soil belonging to another, or anything growing in, or attached to, or subsisting upon, the land of another.

The Indian Limitation Act of 1877 extended the definition of the term "easement" including in it all rights of the latter class. But it has been held that this did not affect the construction of the Burma Land and Revenue Act, and consequently the practical effect of section 6 of that Act is to deny the existence of all prescriptive rights of user of forest-produce in the forests of Burma.

But as a matter of fact there is no doubt that such rights existed in the Burma forests before the Burma Land and Revenue Act was passed, and their existence has been recognized in the enquiries which have preceded the demarcation of the existing reserved forests.

No forest-legislation for Burma could ignore these rights, and in framing the present Bill it was necessary to save them.

4. Several other important subjects have also been treated differently from the Indian Forest Act.

Thus the penalties for offences committed in reserved forests are all uniform in the Indian Forest Act, while in the present Bill it has been thought better to classify offences into two classes, and to assign to each class separate limits of punishment.

5. Again, as regards reserved forests which have already been demarcated, it is proposed, having regard to the careful investigations made at the time they were reserved, that they should be placed by the direct operation of the Act in the position of reserved forests made under the Act, instead of leaving it to the local Government, as the Indian Forest Act does, to class them as such.

6. The provisions relating to village-forests differ from the corresponding provisions in the Indian Forest Act, in as far as they give power to constitute any forest which is at the disposal of Government, a village-forest, and not only such as have already been declared reserved forests.

7. A fundamental difference between the present Bill and the Indian Forest Act is in the chapter which deals with the protection of forests on Government lands not included in reserved or village-forests. The Indian Forest Act attempts to solve this question by authorizing the constitution of protected forests. These protected forests are intended to be defined areas in which the rights of Government and of private persons are enquired into and recorded.

In Burma, where a large portion (in many districts more than three-fourths of the area) is forest, this plan would be unnecessary. It would also be impracticable. Hence the present Bill only contemplates the formation of two classes of forests—reserved forests and village-forests. The object of the former class is to furnish timber and other useful produce for the consumption of the Province and for export, while the object of the village-forests is to ensure a permanent supply of pasture and of wood and bamboos to the villages to which such forests are assigned. And while the first step is the formation of the State forest domains, which are styled reserved forests, it is intended that the formation of village-forests shall be taken in hand gradually as the growth of population and the clearing of the forests for cultivation may render necessary the setting apart of a certain area for the use of villages.

Outside these two classes of forests the great object in Burma must be to facilitate the extension of cultivation as much as possible. Hence it would not be expedient in any way to impede or limit the extension of cultivation by the establishment of a third class analogous to the protected forests of the Indian Forest Act. What is required is, outside the reserved forests and village-forests, to give a certain protection to the teak tree and to a few other reserved kinds, and to realize revenue from the timber, bamboos and other forest-produce used for purposes of trade.

These provisions must be maintained until the demarcation of the State (reserved) and village-forests has been completed, and until the forests of these two classes have been brought to such a condition by efficient protection and steadily-continued works of improvement, that they are capable of furnishing the timber and forest-produce required for the agricultural population, for the Province generally, and for export.

This aim cannot be expected to be accomplished for many years to come. But as it is accomplished in one district after another, the restrictions imposed upon the use of the forests outside the State and village-forests may be abolished in such districts.

8. That chapter of the Indian Forest Act which authorizes Government to exercise control in certain cases, for the public good, over forests which are not the property of Government is not required in Burma, and has therefore been omitted.

9. The power to impose a duty on foreign timber (section 36) is taken from the Indian Forest Act, and the duty imposed by section 37 on timber produced in certain forests in our own territory is one which has been levied for the last thirty years.

10. In the concluding chapters, which relate to the control of timber in transit, to the collection of drift or stranded timber, to penalties, cattle trespass, forest officers and to miscellaneous matters, the Bill follows generally the Indian Forest Act.

Briefly, it may be said that the Bill now published is the Indian Forest Act of 1878, with such changes as were necessary to adapt it to the peculiar circumstances of British Burma.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to provide for the punishment of certain petty offences when committed within the limits of Fort William. At present the Garrison Quarter-master of the Fort is in the habit of punishing camp-followers and other Natives connected with the Fort who are guilty of certain offences against the garrison rules; but the jurisdiction of this officer, though it has been long exercised, has recently been called in question. As it is necessary, on sanitary grounds and for the maintenance of order, that there should be some officer within the Fort legally empowered to punish persons guilty of acts or omissions of the nature of those now punished by the Garrison Quarter-master, the present Bill has been prepared. It is based on a draft submitted by the Government of Bengal, and comprises two main provisions: first, it empowers the Local Government to lay down rules with light penalties attached in respect of certain matters which correspond generally with the matters to which the present garrison rules relate; secondly, it provides for the appointment of a commissioned officer (to be called the Fort Magistrate) with power to try persons guilty of breaches of these rules. The other provisions of the Bill are subsidiary to these. Those that appear to call for notice here are section 7, under which the present jurisdiction of the Presidency Magistrates is saved, and section 9, which validates all penalties which may have been heretofore inflicted by the Garrison Quarter-master. Lastly, [illegible] from its operation all persons subject to military law as it is thought that such persons can be more fittingly punished under such law.

2. We propose, in accordance with the opinion now expressed by the Government of Bengal, to [illegible] with the distinction between first and second class petroleum introduced by the Bengal Committee. This distinction appears to us unnecessary, and its abolition will much simplify the measure by reducing the classes of petroleum to be dealt with to two, as in England, namely, dangerous petroleum and ordinary petroleum.

3. The flashing point of dangerous petroleum, as originally fixed in accordance with the recommendation of the Bengal Committee at 83° F. by Abel's test, has been objected to in many quarters as unnecessarily and inconveniently high. The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal now proposes to reduce it to 78°; and on fully considering the papers submitted to us, we are prepared to reduce it even lower. There can be no doubt that the circumstance that the temperature of the air in most parts of India is throughout a great portion of the year higher than that which prevails in England, would, all other things being equal, make a petroleum flashing at a temperature between 70° and 80° F. more dangerous here than in England; but against this must be set off the greater openness and airiness of Indian buildings and the comparative absence of carpets, curtains and other such articles likely to catch fire; and, though at times serious accidents have occurred in this country, it can hardly be said that there is evidence to show that the danger is so serious as to warrant our extending the severe restrictions which the Bill imposes on dangerous petroleum to any petroleum flashing above that point, which has, after full consideration, been fixed upon in England and which has hitherto been adopted in Bengal. We have accordingly fixed the flashing point of dangerous petroleum at 73° F. by Abel's test equal to 100° F. by the old test.

4. We have made some [illegible] amendments in the Bill, with a view to relaxing in certain particulars the restrictions [illegible] thus, in order to avoid the delay, to which ships bringing petroleum to our ports [illegible] been subjected [illegible] samples furnished had to be tested before the petroleum [illegible] the wording of the Bill so as to allow of the petroleum being landed [illegible] We think that the control which the Bill gives over the [illegible] will be amply sufficient to secure the object in view.

5. Again, we have confined the provision of the Bill which requires petroleum to be kept in indelibly marked vessels, to dangerous petroleum, and we have reduced the maximum penalty for illegally importing, possessing or transporting petroleum from three months' imprisonment and one thousand rupees fine, to one month's imprisonment and five hundred rupees fine.

6. The power given by the Bill to extend the Act to other inflammable substances appears to be unnecessarily large, and we have therefore confined it to cases in which those substances are fluid.

7. The only other alterations we have made which are of sufficient importance to call for notice here are the insertion of a provision in section 7 of the Bill as now amended, empowering the Government to fix ports at which only petroleum may be imported, the addition of a clause to section 12 entitling a dealer, whose petroleum is tested under the Act, to a copy of the certificate of the result of the testing, free of charge, the insertion in section 16 of words providing that the tins or other vessels in which confiscated petroleum is contained may be confiscated with it, and the addition of a provision in section 18 requiring all rules made under the Act to be published for a month before they take effect.

8. The Bill, with its Statement of Objects and Reasons, has been published in English, in the local official Gazettes, except those of the Central Provinces and Assam. Its publication in the vernacular Gazettes has been reported by the Governments of Bengal and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and the Chief Commissioner of Mysore. It has met with considerable opposition on account of its stringency, but, if the important mitigations of its provisions which we now recommend are approved by the Council, we think it may safely be passed without being again re-published. The measure having been now before the public for six months, it can hardly be said that timely notice of it has not been given to all concerned; but in order to guard against the possibility of hardship to holders or consignees of dangerous petroleum, we propose that it should not come into force till the 1st of July.

THE SCHEDULE.

Specification explanatory of the Test Apparatus.

Committee's recommendations, para. 5, and 42 & 43 Vic., c. 47.

The following is a description of the details of the apparatus:—

The oil-cup consists of a cylindrical vessel 2″ diameter, $2\frac{2}{10}$″ height (internal), with outward projecting rim $\frac{5}{10}$″ wide, $\frac{3}{8}$″ from the top and $1\frac{7}{8}$″ from the bottom of the cup. It is made of gun metal or brass (17 B. W. G.), tinned inside. A bracket, consisting of a short stout piece of wire, bent upwards and terminating in a point, is fixed to the inside of the cup to serve as a gauge. The distance of the point from the bottom of the cup is $1\frac{1}{2}$″. The cup is provided with a close-fitting overlapping cover made of brass (22 B. W. G.) which carries the thermometer and test lamp. The latter is suspended from two supports from the side by means of trunnions, upon which it may be made to oscillate: it is provided with a spout the mouth of which is $\frac{1}{16}$″ in diameter. The socket which is to hold the thermometer is fixed at such an angle, and its length is so adjusted that the bulb of the thermometer, when inserted to its full depth, shall be $1\frac{1}{4}$″ below the centre of the lid.

The cover is provided with three square holes, one in the centre $\frac{5}{10}$″ by $\frac{4}{10}$″, and two smaller ones, $\frac{3}{10}$″ by $\frac{2}{10}$″, close to the sides and opposite each other. These three holes may be closed and uncovered by means of a slide moving in grooves, and having perforations corresponding to those on the lid.

In moving the slide so as to uncover the holes, the oscillating lamp is caught by a pin fixed in the slide, and tilted in such a way as to bring the end of the spout just below the surface of the lid. Upon the slide being pushed back so as to cover the holes, the lamp returns to its original [illegible]

Upon the cover, in front of, and in line with, the mouth of the lamp, is fixed a white bead the dimensions of which represent the size of the test flame to be used.

The bath or heated vessel consists of two flat-bottomed copper cylinders (24 B. W. G.), an inner one of 3″ diameter and $2\frac{1}{2}$″ height, and an outer one of $5\frac{1}{2}$″ diameter and $5\frac{3}{4}$″ height; they are soldered to a circular copper plate (20 B. W. G.) perforated in the centre, which forms the top of the bath, in such a manner as to enclose the space between the two cylinders, but leaving access to the inner cylinder. The top of the bath projects both outwards and inwards about $\frac{3}{8}$″, that is, its diameter is about $\frac{6}{8}$″ greater than that of the body of the bath, while the diameter of the circular opening in the centre is about the same amount less than that of the inner copper cylinder. To the inner projection of the top is fastened by six small screws, a flat ring of ebonite, the screws being sunk below the surface of the ebonite to avoid metallic contact between the bath and the oil cup. The exact distance between the sides and bottom of the bath of the oil lamp is $1\frac{1}{4}$″. A split socket similar to that on the cover of the oil cup, but set at a right angle, allows a thermometer to be inserted into the space between the two cylinders. The bath is further provided with a funnel, an overflow pipe, and two loop handles.

The bath rests upon a cast-iron tripod stand, to the ring of which is attached a copper cylinder or jacket (24 B. W. G.), flanged at the top, and of such dimensions that the bath, while firmly resting on the iron ring, just touches with its projecting top the inward-turned flange. The diameter of this outer jacket is $6\frac{1}{2}$″. One of the three legs of the stand serves as support for the spirit lamp, attached to it by means of a small swing bracket. The distance of the wick holder from the bottom of the bath is 1″.

Two thermometers are provided with the apparatus, the one for ascertaining the temperature of the bath, the other for determining the flashing point. The thermometer for ascertaining the temperature of the water has a long bulb and a space at the top. Its range is from about 90° to 190° Fahrenheit. The scale (in degrees of Fahrenheit) is marked on an ivory back fastened to the tube in the usual way; it is fitted with a metal collar fitting the socket, and the part of the tube below the scale should have a length of about $3\frac{1}{4}$″ measured from the lower end of the scale to the end of the bulb. The thermometer for ascertaining the temperature of the oil is fitted with collar and ivory scale in a similar manner to the one described. It has a round bulb, a space at the top, and ranges from about 55° F. to 150° F.; it measures from end of ivory back to bulb $2\frac{1}{4}$″.

NOTE.—A model apparatus is deposited at the office of the Chemical Examiner to Government at Calcutta.

Directions for applying the Test.

1. The test apparatus is to be placed for use in a position where it is not exposed to currents of air or draughts.

2. The heating vessel or water-bath is filled by pouring water into the funnel until it begins to flow out at the spout of the vessel. The temperature of the water at the commencement of the test [illegible] be 130° Fahrenheit, and this is attained in the first instance either by mixing hot and cold water, or in a vessel from which the [illegible] until the thermometer which is provided [illegible] the temperature of the water gives the proper indication; or by heating the water with the spirit lamp (which is attached to the stand of the apparatus) until the required temperature is indicated.

If the water has been heated too highly, it is easily reduced to 130° by pouring in cold water little by little (to replace a portion of the warm water) until the thermometer gives the proper reading.

When a test has been completed, this water-bath is again raised to 130° by placing the lamp underneath, and the result is readily obtained while the petroleum cup is being emptied, cooled, and refilled with a fresh sample to be tested. The lamp is then turned on its swivel from under the apparatus, and the next test is proceeded with.

3. The test lamp is prepared for use by fitting it with a piece of flat plaited candlewick, and filling it with colza or rape oil up to the lower edge of the opening of the spout or wick tube. The lamp is trimmed so that when lighted it gives a flame of about 0·15 of an inch diameter, and this size of flame which is represented by the projecting white bead on the cover of the oil cup is readily maintained by simple manipulation from time to time with a small wire trimmer.

When gas is available it may be conveniently used in place of the little oil lamp, and for this purpose a test flame arrangement for use with gas may be substituted for the lamp.

4. The bath having been raised to the proper temperature, the oil to be tested is introduced into the petroleum cup, being poured in slowly until the level of the liquid just reaches the point of the gauge which is fixed in the cup. In warm weather the temperature of the room in which the samples to be tested have been kept should be observed in the first instance, and if it exceeds 65°, the samples to be tested should be cooled down (to about 60°) by immersing the bottle containing them in cold water, or by any other convenient method. The lid of the cup, with the slide closed, is then put on, and the cup is put into the bath or heating vessel. The thermometer in the lid of the cup has been adjusted so as to have its bulb just immersed in the liquid, and its position is not under any circumstances to be altered. When the cup has been placed in the proper position, the scale of the thermometer faces the operator.

5. The test lamp is then placed in position upon the lid of the cup, the lead line or pendulum,* which has been fixed in a convenient position in front of the operator, is set in motion, and the rise of the thermometer in the petroleum cup is watched. When the temperature has reached about 66°, the operation of testing is to be commenced, the test flame being applied once for every rise of one degree in the following manner:—

The slide is slowly drawn open while the pendulum performs three oscillations, and is closed during the fourth oscillation.

NOTE.—If it is desired to employ the test apparatus to determine the flashing points of oils of very low volatility, the mode of proceeding is to be modified as follows:—

The air chamber which surrounds the cup is filled with cold water, to a depth of 1½ inches, and the heating vessel or water-bath is filled as usual, but also with cold water. The lamp is then placed under the apparatus and kept there during the entire operation. If a very heavy oil is being dealt with, the operation may be commenced with water previously heated to 120°, instead of with cold water.

Secy. to the Govt of India.

* This pendulum is two (2) feet in length from the point of suspension to the centre of gravity of the weight.

(See section 1.)

ENACTMENTS REPEALED.

Number and year of Act or Regulation.	Title.	Extent of repeal.
Act VII of 1865 ...	An Act to give effect to rules for the management and preservation of Government forests.	So much as has not been repealed.
Act VII of 1869...	An Act to give validity to certain rules relating to forests in British Burma.	The whole.
Act XIII of 1873	An Act to amend the law relating to timber floated down the rivers of British Burma.	So much as has not been repealed.
Regulation IX of 1874.	The Arakan Hill District Law Regulation, 1874.	So far as it relates to Acts VII of 1865 and VII of 1869.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

1. The necessity for placing forest-legislation in British Burma upon a satisfactory footing has been felt for a considerable time. The present state of the law is as follows:—

The Government Forests Act (Act No. VII of 1865) is in force, but it does not provide for all requirements. That Act gave power to make rules, having the force of law, for the management and preservation of the Government forests and for the control of the timber floated down rivers. Accordingly in August, 1865, rules for the administration of forests in British Burma were promulgated. These rules, though purporting to have been made under the Government Forest Act, were not covered by its provisions, and accordingly they were legalized by Act No. VII of 1869.

In 1873 it was deemed advisable to amend and consolidate the law relating to timber floated down the rivers of Burma. Accordingly the Burma Timber Act (No. XIII of 1873) was passed. This Act repealed Act No. VII of 1869 and the rules legalized by that Act as far as they related to duty on timber floated down the rivers of British Burma.

The rules of August, 1865, related only to a portion of the Government forests, as defined in the rules, and it became necessary to provide by another set of rules for the administration of the forests thus excluded. This was done by rules made under Act No. VII of 1865, which were promulgated in Burma in March, 1876, together with a notification defining the areas to which they were applicable.

Thus the administration of the Government forests in Burma and the management of the timber floated down its rivers is governed by three different enactments and two sets of rules having the force of law. Yet these enactments and rules leave several of the most important matters unprovided for, and hence it is necessary both to consolidate and to complete them.

Experience has shown that the only practical method to ensure the objects aimed at by forest-administration is to set apart and demarcate selected areas of Government forests, to liberate these areas as far as possible from rights of private persons, and to guard against the growth by prescription of fresh rights in forests thus set apart and demarcated.

Forests thus set apart and demarcated are called reserved forests, and the formation of such reserved forests in British Burma has proceeded steadily during the last five years. The formation of such reserved forests is preceded by a thorough and complete enquiry by a settlement-officer into the rights and requirements of the people residing in and in the immediate vicinity of these areas. The guiding principle followed in this enquiry is that such arrangements are made as will enable the people to provide for their requirements in the matter of forest-produce, either outside the reserved forests, or, under suitable rules, within their boundaries. And in the case of the tribes whose custom it is to carry on the shifting kind of cultivation by cutting and burning the forest which is called toungya cultivation, defined areas are assigned to them where they may practise this kind of cultivation. Under these arrangements the formation of Government forest domains has been commenced, and their area aggregated, on 31st March last, 1,442 square miles.

The practical result of these proceedings is that the forests thus set apart and demarcated can be effectively protected and steadily improved, so that eventually a limited area will yield all the timber and other forest-produce required for home consumption and export, while the remainder can be thrown open for the use of the people and the extension of cultivation. The system here sketched enables Government to concentrate forest-conservancy upon limited areas, instead of attempting to enforce restrictions over the whole of the forests.

The procedure, however, hitherto followed in this respect in Burma, in some particulars, wants legal sanction, and hence the action of Government in setting apart reserved forests is not final, and may be called in question. The object of the present Bill is to legalize what has been done in this respect, and to lay down a procedure for the future.

3. The Indian Forest Act, which was passed in 1878, had the same object, and it must now be explained why it was not considered advisable to make the provisions of the Indian Forest Act applicable to Burma. One reason is that the procedure followed in the enquiry into, and the settlement of, forest-rights and in the demarcation of forests, as it has been developed by practical experience, is somewhat different from that prescribed by the Indian Forest Act. But this is a minor matter. The chief reason for special forest-legislation in Burma, consists in the provisions of the Burma Land and Revenue Act (Act No. II of 1876). Section 6 of that Act defines the rights in land subject to the second part of that Act, which are recognized by law, and clause (b) recognizes rights acquired under sections 27 and 28 of the Indian Limitation Act, 1871. The rights thus recognized are "easements" in the ordinary English acceptation of that term, including the use of light or air, way, watercourse, use of water, but not any prescriptive right by which one person is entitled to remove and appropriate, for his own profit, any part of the soil belonging to another, or anything growing in, or attached to, or subsisting upon, the land of another.

The Indian Limitation Act of 1877 extended the definition of the term "easement" including in it all rights of the latter class. But it has been held that this did not affect the construction of the Burma Land and Revenue Act, and consequently the practical effect of section 6 of that Act is to deny the existence of all prescriptive rights of user of forest-produce in the forests of Burma.

But as a matter of fact there is no doubt that such rights existed in the Burma forests before the Burma Land and Revenue Act was passed, and their existence has been recognized in the enquiries which have preceded the demarcation of the existing reserved forests.

No forest-legislation for Burma could ignore these rights, and in framing the present Bill it was necessary to save them.

4. Several other important subjects have also been treated differently from the Indian Forest Act.

Thus the penalties for offences committed in reserved forests are all uniform in the Indian Forest Act, while in the present Bill it has been thought better to classify offences into two classes, and to assign to each class separate limits of punishment.

5. Again, as regards reserved forests which have already been demarcated, it is proposed, having regard to the careful investigations made at the time they were reserved, that they should be placed by the direct operation of the Act in the position of reserved forests made under the Act, instead of leaving it to the local Government, as the Indian Forest Act does, to class them as such.

6. The provisions relating to village-forests differ from the corresponding provisions in the Indian Forest Act, in as far as they give power to constitute any forest which is at the disposal of Government, a village-forest, and not only such as have already been declared reserved forests.

7. A fundamental difference between the present Bill and the Indian Forest Act is in the chapter which deals with the protection of forests on Government lands not included in reserved or village-forests. The Indian Forest Act attempts to solve this question by authorizing the constitution of protected forests. These protected forests are intended to be defined areas in which the rights of Government and of private persons are enquired into and recorded.

In Burma, where a large portion (in many districts more than three-fourths of the area) is forest, this plan would be unnecessary. It would also be impracticable. Hence the present Bill only contemplates the formation of two classes of forests—reserved forests and village-forests. The object of the former class is to furnish timber and other useful produce for the consumption of the Province and for export, while the object of the village-forests is to ensure a permanent supply of pasture and of wood and bamboos to the villages to which such forests are assigned. And while the first step is the formation of the State forest domains, which are styled reserved forests, it is intended that the formation of village-forests shall be taken in hand gradually as the growth of population and the clearing of the forests for cultivation may render necessary the setting apart of a certain area for the use of villages.

Outside these two classes of forests the great object in Burma must be to facilitate the extension of cultivation as much as possible. Hence it would not be expedient in any way to impede or limit the extension of cultivation by the establishment of a third class analogous to the protected forests of the Indian Forest Act. What is required is, outside the reserved forests and village-forests, to give a certain protection to the teak tree and to a few other reserved kinds, and to realize revenue from the timber, bamboos and other forest-produce used for purposes of trade.

These provisions must be maintained until the demarcation of the State (reserved) and village-forests has been completed, and until the forests of these two classes have been brought to such a condition by efficient protection and steadily-continued works of improvement, that they are capable of furnishing the timber and forest-produce required for the agricultural population, for the Province generally, and for export.

This aim cannot be expected to be accomplished for many years to come. But as it is accomplished in one district after another, the restrictions imposed upon the use of the forests outside the State and village-forests may be abolished in such districts.

8. That chapter of the Indian Forest Act which authorizes Government to exercise control in certain cases, for the public good, over forests which are not the property of Government is not required in Burma, and has therefore been omitted.

9. The power to impose a duty on foreign timber (section 36) is taken from the Indian Forest Act, and the duty imposed by section 37 on timber produced in certain forests in our own territory is one which has been levied for the last thirty years.

10. In the concluding chapters, which relate to the control of timber in transit, to the collection of drift or stranded timber, to penalties, cattle trespass, forest officers and to miscellaneous matters, the Bill follows generally the Indian Forest Act.

Briefly, it may be said that the Bill now published is the Indian Forest Act of 1878, with such changes as were necessary to adapt it to the peculiar circumstances of British Burma.

10. The keeping of animals. — ib., Nos. 42, 44, 45.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to provide for the punishment of certain petty offences when committed within the limits of Fort William. At present the Garrison Quarter-master of the Fort is in the habit of punishing camp-followers and other Natives connected with the Fort who are guilty of certain offences against the garrison rules; but the jurisdiction of this officer, though it has been long exercised, has recently been called in question. As it is necessary, on sanitary grounds and for the maintenance of order, that there should be some officer within the Fort legally empowered to punish persons guilty of acts or omissions of the nature of those now punished by the Garrison Quarter-master, the present Bill has been prepared. It is based on a draft submitted by the Government of Bengal, and comprises two main provisions: first, it empowers the Local Government to lay down rules with light penalties attached in respect of certain matters which correspond generally with the matters to which the present garrison rules relate; secondly, it provides for the appointment of a commissioned officer (to be called the Fort Magistrate) with power to try persons guilty of breaches of these rules. The other provisions of the Bill are subsidiary to these. Those that appear to call for notice here are section 7, under which the present jurisdiction of the Presidency Magistrates is saved, and section 9, which validates all punishments which may have been heretofore inflicted by the Garrison Quarter-master. Lastly, the Bill exempts from its operation all persons subject to military law as it is thought that such persons can be more fittingly punished under such law.

2. We propose, in accordance with the opinion now expressed by the Government of Bengal, to do away with the distinction between first and second class petroleum introduced by the Bengal Committee. This distinction appears to us unnecessary, and its abolition will much simplify the measure by reducing the classes of petroleum to be dealt with to two, as in England, namely, dangerous petroleum and ordinary petroleum.

4. We have made some other amendments in the Bill, with a view to relaxing in certain particulars the restrictions it imposes; thus, in order to avoid the delay, to which ships bringing petroleum to our ports might have been subjected if the samples furnished had to be tested before the petroleum was landed, we have altered the wording of the Bill so as to allow of the petroleum being landed directly the samples are delivered. We think that the control which the Bill gives over the petroleum when landed will be amply sufficient to secure the object in view.

5. Again, we have confined the provision of the Bill which requires petroleum to be kept in indelibly marked vessels, to dangerous petroleum, and we have reduced the maximum penalty for illegally importing, possessing or transporting petroleum from three months' imprisonment and one thousand rupees fine, to one month's imprisonment and five hundred rupees fine.

6. The power given by the Bill to extend the Act to other inflammable substances appears to be unnecessarily large, and we have therefore confined it to cases in which those substances are fluid.

7. The only other alterations we have made which are of sufficient importance to call for notice here are the insertion of a provision in section 7 of the Bill as now amended, empowering the Government to fix ports at which only petroleum may be imported, the addition of a clause to section 12 entitling a dealer, whose petroleum is tested under the Act, to a copy of the certificate of the result of the testing, free of charge, the insertion in section 16 of words providing that the tins or other vessels in which confiscated petroleum is contained may be confiscated with it, and the addition of a provision in section 18 requiring all rules made under the Act to be published for a month before they take effect.

8. The Bill, with its Statement of Objects and Reasons, has been published in English, in the local official Gazettes, except those of the Central Provinces and Assam. Its publication in the vernacular Gazettes has been reported by the Governments of Bengal and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and the Chief Commissioner of Mysore. It has met with considerable opposition on account of its stringency, but, if the important mitigations of its provisions which we now recommend are approved by the Council, we think it may safely be passed without being again re-published. The measure having been now before the public for six months, it can hardly be said that timely notice of it has not been given to all concerned; but in order to guard against the possibility of hardship to holders or consignees of dangerous petroleum, we propose that it should not come into force till the 1st of July.

THE SCHEDULE.

Specification explanatory of the Test Apparatus.

Committee's recommendations, para. 5, and 42 & 43 Vic., c. 47.

The following is a description of the details of the apparatus:—

The oil-cup consists of a cylindrical vessel 2" diameter, $2\frac{5}{10}$" height (internal), with outward projecting rim $\frac{5}{10}$" wide, $\frac{3}{8}$" from the top and $1\frac{1}{8}$" from the bottom of the cup. It is made of gun metal or brass (17 B. W. G.), tinned inside. A bracket, consisting of a short stout piece of wire, bent upwards and terminating in a point, is fixed to the inside of the cup to serve as a gauge. The distance of the point from the bottom of the cup is $1\frac{1}{2}$". The cup is provided with a close-fitting overlapping cover made of brass (22 B. W. G.) which carries the thermometer and test lamp. The latter is suspended from two supports from the side by means of trunnions, upon which it may be made to oscillate; it is provided with a spout the mouth of which is $\frac{1}{10}$" in diameter. The socket which is to hold the thermometer is fixed at such an angle, and its length is so adjusted that the bulb of the thermometer, when inserted to its full depth, shall be $1\frac{1}{2}$" below the centre of the lid.

The cover is provided with three square holes, one in the centre $\frac{5}{10}$" by $\frac{4}{10}$", and two smaller ones, $\frac{3}{10}$" by $\frac{2}{10}$", close to the sides and opposite each other. These three holes may be closed and uncovered by means of a slide moving in grooves, and having perforations corresponding to those on the lid.

In moving the slide so as to uncover the holes, the oscillating lamp is caught by a pin fixed in the slide, and tilted in such a way as to bring the end of the spout just below the surface of the lid. Upon the slide being pushed back to cover the holes, the lamp

Upon the cover, in front of, and in line with, the mouth of the lamp, is fixed a white bead the dimensions of which represent the size of the test flame to be used.

The bath or heated vessel consists of two flat-bottomed copper cylinders (24 B. W. G.), an inner one of 3" diameter and outer one of $5\frac{1}{2}$" diameter and

The bath rests upon a cast-iron

the ring of which is attached a copper jacket (24 B. W. G.), flanged at the top, and of such dimensions that the latter, while simply resting on the iron ring, just touches with its projecting top the inward-turned flange. The diameter of this outer jacket is $6\frac{1}{2}$". One of the three legs of the stand serves as support for the spirit lamp, attached to it by means of a small swing bracket. The distance of the wick holder from the bottom of the bath is 1".

Two thermometers are provided with the apparatus, the one for ascertaining the temperature of the bath, the other for determining the flashing point. The thermometer for ascertaining the temperature of the water has a long bulb and a space at the top. Its range is from about 90° to 190° Fahrenheit. The scale (in degrees of Fahrenheit) is marked on an ivory slip fastened to the tube in the usual way; it is fitted with a metal collar fitting the socket, and the part of the tube below the scale should have a length of measured from the lower end of

to the end of the bulb. The thermometer for ascertaining the temperature of the oil is fitted with collar and ivory scale in a similar manner to the one described. It has a round bulb, a space at the top, and ranges from about 55° F. to 150° F.; is measured from end of ivory back to bulb $2\frac{1}{2}$".

NOTE.—A model apparatus is deposited at the office of the Chemical Examiner to Government at Calcutta.

Directions for applying the Test.

1. The test apparatus is to be placed for use in a position where it is not exposed to currents of air or draughts.

2. The heating vessel or water-bath is filled by pouring water into the funnel until it begins to flow out at the spout of the vessel. The temperature of the water at the commencement of the test is to be 130° Fahrenheit, and this is attained in the first instance either by mixing hot and cold bath, or in the vessel from which the bath is filled, until the thermometer which is provided for testing the temperature of the water gives the proper indication; or by heating the water with the spirit lamp (which is attached to the stand of the apparatus) until the required temperature is indicated.

If the water has been heated too highly, it is easily reduced to 130° by pouring in cold water by a little (to replace a portion of the warm

4. The bath having been raised to the proper temperature, the oil to be tested is introduced into the petroleum cup, being poured in slowly until the level of the liquid just reaches the point of the gauge which is fixed in the cup. In warm weather the temperature of the room in which the samples to be tested have been kept should be observed in the first instance, and if it exceeds 65°, the samples to be tested should be cooled down (to about 60°) by immersing the bottle containing them in cold water, or by any other convenient method. The lid of the cup, with the slide closed, is then put on, and the cup is put into the bath or heating vessel. The thermometer in the lid of the cup has been adjusted so as to have its bulb just immersed in the liquid, and its position is not under any circumstances to be altered. When the cup has been placed in the proper position, the scale of the thermometer faces the operator.

5. The test lamp is then placed in position upon the lid of the cup, the lead line or pendulum,* which has been fixed in a convenient position in front of the operator, is set in motion, and the rise of the thermometer in the petroleum cup is watched. When the temperature has reached about 66°, the operation of testing is to be commenced, the test flame being applied once for every rise of one degree in the following manner:—

The slide is slowly drawn open while the pendulum performs three oscillations, and is closed during the fourth oscillation.

NOTE.—If it is desired to employ the test apparatus to determine the flashing points of oils of very low volatility, the mode of proceeding is to be modified as follows:—

The air chamber which surrounds the cup is filled with cold water, to a depth of 1½ inches, and the heating vessel or water-bath is filled as usual, but also with cold water. The lamp is then placed under the apparatus and kept there during the entire operation. If a very heavy oil is being dealt with, the operation may be commenced with water previously heated to 120°, instead of with cold water.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to provide for the punishment of certain petty offences when committed within the limits of Fort William. At present the Garrison Quarter-master of the Fort is in the habit of punishing camp-followers and other Natives connected with the Fort who are guilty of certain offences against the garrison rules; but the jurisdiction of this officer, though it has been long exercised, has recently been called in question. As it is necessary, on sanitary grounds and for the maintenance of order, that there should be some officer within the Fort legally empowered to punish persons guilty of acts or omissions of the nature of those now punished by the Garrison Quarter-master, the present Bill has been prepared. It is based on a draft submitted by the Government of Bengal, and comprises two main provisions: first, it empowers the Local Government to lay down rules with light penalties attached in respect of certain matters which correspond generally with the matters to which the present garrison rules relate; secondly, it provides for the appointment of a commissioned officer (to be called the Fort Magistrate) with power to try persons guilty of breaches of these rules. The other provisions of the Bill are subsidiary to these. Those that appear to call for notice here are section 7, under which the present jurisdiction of the Presidency Magistrates is saved, and section 9, which validates all punishments which may have been heretofore inflicted by the Garrison Quarter-master. Lastly, the Bill exempts from its operation all persons subject to military law as it is thought that such persons can be more fittingly punished under such law.

2. We propose, in accordance with the opinion now expressed by the Government of Bengal, to do away with the distinction between first and second class petroleum introduced by the Bengal Committee. This distinction appears to us unnecessary, and its abolition will much simplify the measure by reducing the classes of petroleum to be dealt with to two, as in England, namely, dangerous petroleum and ordinary petroleum.

3. The flashing point of dangerous petroleum, as originally fixed in accordance with the recommendation of the Bengal Committee at 83° F. by Abel's test, has been objected to in many quarters as unnecessarily and inconveniently high. The Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal now proposes to reduce it to 78°; and on fully considering the papers submitted to us, we are prepared to reduce it even lower. There can be no doubt that the circumstance that the temperature of the air in most parts of India is throughout a great portion of the year higher than that which prevails in England, would, all other things being equal, make a petroleum flashing at a temperature between 70° and 80° F. more dangerous here than in England; but against this must be set off the greater openness and airiness of Indian buildings and the comparative absence of carpets, curtains and other such articles likely to catch fire; and, though at times serious accidents have occurred in this country, it can hardly be said that there is evidence to show that the danger is so serious as to warrant our extending the severe restrictions which the Bill imposes on dangerous petroleum to any petroleum flashing above the point which has, after full consideration, been fixed upon in England, and which has hitherto been adopted in Bengal. We have accordingly fixed the flashing point of dangerous petroleum at 73° F. by Abel's test equal to 100° F. by the old test.

4. We have made some other amendments in the Bill, with a view to relaxing in certain particulars the restrictions it imposes; thus, in order to avoid the delay to which ships bringing petroleum to our ports might have been subjected if the samples furnished had to be tested before the petroleum was landed, we have altered the wording of the Bill so as to allow of the petroleum being landed directly the samples are delivered. We think that the control which the Bill gives over the petroleum when landed will be amply sufficient to secure the object in view.

5. Again, we have confined the provision of the Bill which requires petroleum to be kept in indelibly marked vessels, to dangerous petroleum, and we have reduced the maximum penalty for illegally importing, possessing or transporting petroleum from three months' imprisonment and one thousand rupees fine, to one month's imprisonment and five hundred rupees fine.

6. The power given by the Bill to extend the Act to other inflammable substances appears to be unnecessarily large, and we have therefore confined it to cases in which those substances are fluid.

7. The only other alterations we have made which are of sufficient importance to call for notice here are the insertion of a provision in section 7 of the Bill as now amended, empowering the Government to fix ports at which only petroleum may be imported, the addition of a clause to section 12 entitling a dealer, whose petroleum is tested under the Act, to a copy of the certificate of the result of the testing, free of charge, the insertion in section 16 of words providing that the tins or other vessels in which confiscated petroleum is contained may be confiscated with it, and the addition of a provision in section 18 requiring all rules made under the Act to be published for a month before they take effect.

8. The Bill, with its Statement of Objects and Reasons, has been published in English, in the local official Gazettes, except those of the Central Provinces and Assam. Its publication in the vernacular Gazettes has been reported by the Governments of Bengal and the North-Western Provinces and Oudh, and the Chief Commissioner of Mysore. It has met with considerable opposition on account of its stringency, but, if the important mitigations of its provisions which we now recommend are approved by the Council, we think it may safely be passed without being again re-published. The measure having been now before the public for six months, it can hardly be said that timely notice of it has not been given to all concerned; but in order to guard against the possibility of hardship to holders or consignees of dangerous petroleum, we propose that it should not come into force till the 1st of July.

THE SCHEDULE.

Specification explanatory of the Test Apparatus.

Committee's recommendations, para. 5, and 42 & 43 Vic., c. 47.

The following is a description of the details of the apparatus:—

The oil-cup consists of a cylindrical vessel 2″ diameter, $2\frac{2}{10}$″ height (internal), with outward projecting rim $\frac{5}{10}$″ wide, $\frac{3}{8}$″ from the top and $1\frac{1}{8}$″ from the bottom of the cup. It is made of gun metal or brass (17 B. W. G.), tinned inside. A bracket, consisting of a short stout piece of wire, bent upwards and terminating in a point, is fixed to the inside of the cup to serve as a gauge. The distance of the point from the bottom of the cup is $1\frac{1}{2}$″. The cup is provided with a close-fitting overlapping cover made of brass (22 B. W. G.) which carries the thermometer and test lamp. The latter is suspended from two supports from the side by means of trunnions, upon which it may be made to oscillate: it is provided with a spout the mouth of which is $\frac{1}{16}$″ in diameter. The socket which is to hold the thermometer is fixed at such an angle, and its length is so adjusted that the bulb of the thermometer, when inserted to its full depth, shall be $1\frac{1}{2}$″ below the centre of the lid.

The cover is provided with three square holes, one in the centre $\frac{5}{10}$″ by $\frac{4}{10}$″, and two smaller ones, $\frac{3}{10}$″ by $\frac{2}{10}$″, close to the sides and opposite each other. These three holes may be closed and uncovered by means of a slide moving in grooves, and having perforations corresponding to those on the lid.

In moving the slide so as to uncover the holes, the oscillating lamp is caught by a pin fixed in the slide, and tilted in such a way as to bring the end of the spout just below the surface of the lid. Upon the slide being pushed back so as to cover the holes, the lamp returns to its original position.

Upon the cover, in front of, and in line with, the mouth of the lamp, is fixed a white bead the dimensions of which represent the size of the test flame to be used.

The bath or heated vessel consists of two flat-bottomed copper cylinders (24 B. W. G.), an inner one of 3″ diameter and $2\frac{1}{2}$″ height, and an outer one of $5\frac{1}{2}$″ diameter and $5\frac{3}{4}$″ height; they are soldered to a circular copper plate (20 B. W. G.) perforated in the centre, which forms the top of the bath, in such a manner as to enclose the space between the two cylinders, but leaving access to the inner cylinder. The top of the bath projects both outwards and inwards about $\frac{3}{8}$″, that is, its diameter is about $\frac{6}{8}$″ greater than that of the body of the bath, while the diameter of the circular opening in the centre is about the same amount less than that of the inner copper cylinder. To the inner projection of the top is fastened by six small screws, a flat ring of ebonite, the screws being sunk below the surface of the ebonite to avoid metallic contact between the bath and the oil cup. The exact distance between the sides and bottom of the bath of the oil lamp is $1\frac{1}{4}$″. A split socket similar to that on the cover of the oil cup, but set at a right angle, allows a thermometer to be inserted into the space between the two cylinders. The bath is further provided with a funnel, an overflow pipe, and two loop handles.

The bath rests upon a cast-iron tripod stand, to the ring of which is attached a copper cylinder or jacket (24 B. W. G.), flanged at the top, and of such dimensions that the bath, while firmly resting on the iron ring, just touches with its projecting top the inward-turned flange. The diameter of this outer jacket is $6\frac{1}{2}$″. One of the three legs of the stand serves as support for the spirit lamp, attached to it by means of a small swing bracket. The distance of the wick holder from the bottom of the bath is 1″.

Two thermometers are provided with the apparatus, the one for ascertaining the temperature of the bath, the other for determining the flashing point. The thermometer for ascertaining the temperature of the water has a long bulb and a space at the top. Its range is from about 90° to 190° Fahrenheit. The scale (in degrees of Fahrenheit) is marked on an ivory back fastened to the tube in the usual way; it is fitted with a metal collar fitting the socket, and the part of the tube below the scale should have a length of about $3\frac{1}{2}$″ measured from the lower end of the scale to the end of the bulb. The thermometer for ascertaining the temperature of the oil is fitted with collar and ivory scale in a similar manner to the one described. It has a round bulb, a space at the top, and ranges from about 55° F. to 150° F.; it measures from end of ivory back to bulb $2\frac{1}{4}$″.

NOTE.—A model apparatus is deposited at the office of the Chemical Examiner to Government at Calcutta.

Directions for applying the Test.

1. The test apparatus is to be placed for use in a position where it is not exposed to currents of air or draughts.

2. The heating vessel or water-bath is filled by pouring water into the funnel until it begins to flow out at the spout of the vessel. The temperature of the water at the commencement of the test is to be 130° Fahrenheit, and this is attained in the first instance either by mixing hot and cold water in the bath, or in a vessel from which the bath is filled, until the thermometer which is provided for testing the temperature of the water gives the proper indication; or by heating the water with the spirit lamp (which is attached to the stand of the apparatus) until the required temperature is indicated.

If the water has been heated too highly, it is easily reduced to 130° by pouring in cold water little by little (to replace a portion of the warm water) until the thermometer gives the proper reading.

When a test has been completed, this water-bath is again raised to 130° by placing the lamp underneath, and the result is readily obtained while the petroleum cup is being emptied, cooled, and refilled with a fresh sample to be tested. The lamp is then turned on its swivel from under the apparatus, and the next test is proceeded with.

3. The test lamp is prepared for use by fitting it with a piece of flat plaited candlewick, and filling it with colza or rape oil up to the lower edge of the opening of the spout or wick tube. The lamp is trimmed so that when lighted it gives a flame of about 0·15 of an inch diameter, and this size of flame which is represented by the projecting white bead on the cover of the oil cup is readily maintained by simple manipulation from time to time with a small wire trimmer.

When gas is available it may be conveniently used in place of the little oil lamp, and for this purpose a test flame arrangement for use with gas may be substituted for the lamp.

4. The bath having been raised to the proper temperature, the oil to be tested is introduced into the petroleum cup, being poured in slowly until the level of the liquid just reaches the point of the gauge which is fixed in the cup. In warm weather the temperature of the room in which the samples to be tested have been kept should be observed in the first instance, and if it exceeds 65°, the samples to be tested should be cooled down (to about 60°) by immersing the bottle containing them in cold water, or by any other convenient method. The lid of the cup, with the slide closed, is then put on, and the cup is put into the bath or heating vessel. The thermometer in the lid of the cup has been adjusted so as to have its bulb just immersed in the liquid, and its position is not under any circumstances to be altered. When the cup has been placed in the proper position, the scale of the thermometer faces the operator.

5. The test lamp is then placed in position upon the lid of the cup, the lead line or pendulum,* which has been fixed in a convenient position in front of the operator, is set in motion, and the rise of the thermometer in the petroleum cup is watched. When the temperature has reached about 66°, the operation of testing is to be commenced, the test flame being applied once for every rise of one degree in the following manner:—

The slide is slowly drawn open while the pendulum performs three oscillations, and is closed during the fourth oscillation.

NOTE.—If it is desired to employ the test apparatus to determine the flashing points of oils of very low volatility, the mode of proceeding is to be modified as follows:—

The air chamber which surrounds the cup is filled with cold water, to a depth of 1½ inches, and the heating vessel or water-bath is filled as usual, but also with cold water. The lamp is then placed under the apparatus and kept there during the entire operation. If a very heavy oil is being dealt with, the operation may be commenced with water previously heated to 120°, instead of with cold water.

D. FITZPATRICK,
Secy. to the Govt. of India.

* This pendulum is two (2) feet in length from the point of suspension to the centre of gravity of the weight.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First Publication.]

The following Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 21st January, 1881:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques was referred, have had the report of the Indian Law Commissioners, 1879, duly communicated to us. We have carefully considered so much of it as relates to the present Bill, as well as the papers noted in the margin, and, in compliance with the wish of the Secretary of State for India, as expressed in his despatch (Legislative), No. 37, dated 7th October, 1880, we have the honour to submit this our fourth report.

From Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Madras, dated 1st August, 1878, and enclosure [Papers No. 56].
„ Acting Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 299, dated 14th February, 1879, and enclosures [Papers No. 58].
„ J. Crawfurd, Esq., Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 1123, dated 27th June, 1879 [Paper No. 60].
Note by Sir Charles Turner, Chief Justice, Madras, dated 22nd January, 1880 [Paper No. 61].
From Seth Lachman Dás, Muttra, dated 1st January, 1881 [Paper No. 62].

2. We agree with the Commissioners that uniformity of practice is particularly desirable in matters relating to negotiable paper, and, to facilitate the assimilation of the practice of shroffs to that of European merchants, we have declared (section 1) that local usages may be excluded by any words in the body of the instrument which indicate an intention that the legal relations of the parties thereto shall be governed by the proposed Act.

3. We have inserted explanations calculated to prevent doubts as to when a promise or order to pay is "conditional," when the sum payable is "certain," and when the person to whom the direction is given or payment is to be made is "a certain person," within the meaning of sections 4 and 5.

4. We have re-drawn section 20 as to inchoate stamped instruments, so as to make it express more accurately what we conceive to be the law on this subject.

5. We have also re-drawn sections 47 and 48 (as follows):—

"43. A negotiable instrument made, drawn, accepted, endorsed or transferred without consideration, or for a consideration which fails, creates no obligation of payment between the parties to the transaction. But if any such party has transferred the instrument with or without endorsement to a holder for consideration, such holder, and every subsequent holder deriving title from him, may recover the amount due on such instrument from the transferor for consideration or any prior party thereto.

Negotiable instrument made, &c., without consideration.

"Exception I.—No party for whose accommodation a negotiable instrument has been made, drawn, accepted or indorsed, can, if he have paid the amount thereof, recover thereon such amount from any person who became a party to such instrument for his accommodation.

"Exception II.—No party to the instrument who has induced any other party to make, draw, accept, indorse or transfer the same to him for a consideration which he has failed to pay or perform in full, shall recover thereon an amount exceeding the value of the consideration (if any) which he has actually paid or performed."

6. We have prefixed to the sections relating to negotiation clauses (section 46) relating to delivery generally, and to the effect recommended by the Commissioners.

7. We think the section (67, now 63) relating to the drawee's time for deliberation should provide that the holder of a bill "must, if so required by the drawee," allow him twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept, and we have amended this section accordingly.

9. We have in section 90 (now 86) substituted "qualified" for "conditional" and added a paragraph shewing when an acceptance is qualified.

10. We have provided (section 90) for the extinguishment of rights of action on a negotiated bill held, at or after maturity, by the acceptor in his own right.

11. We agree with Sir C. Turner that section 108 of the Bill in its fourth form—as to reasonable time for presentment—should be omitted. It seems inconsistent with section 107 (now 105), and declares a rule which is not only stricter than the existing law, but would, in our opinion, be highly inconvenient.

12. We have inserted a statement of the procedure in the case of an acceptance supra protest, and to section 112 (now 109) we have prefixed a clause shewing how acceptance for honour must be made.

13. We have declared (section 116) that a drawee in case of need may accept and pay the bill without previous protest.

14. We have made it appear that inland (as well as foreign) bills may be drawn in sets, and altered Chapter XIV (now XV) accordingly. We have made the exception to section 126 (now 132) run thus:—

"Exception.—When a person accepts or indorses different parts of the bill in favour of different persons, he and the subsequent indorser of each part are liable on such part as if it were a separate bill."

15. We have amended the second clause of section 125 (now 130, 131) (as to the non-liability of a banker who has received payment for a customer of a crossed cheque) in accordance with Matthiessen v. London and County Banking Company, 48 L. J. C. P. 529.

16. We have made most of the changes in arrangement and wording advised by the Commissioners, and recommend that the Bill as now revised be passed. It has now been more than thirteen years before the Council of the Governor General; it has been redrawn, copiously criticised and repeatedly revised; and without the experience derived from its actual operation, it is not likely to be further improved. But it should be published in the Gazettes, and, according to the orders of the Secretary of State, it must, before being passed, be sent to the Local Governments, translated into the vernaculars and submitted to him with this report.

The sum payable may be "certain," within the meaning of this section and section four, although it includes future interest or is payable at an indicated rate of exchange, or is according to the course of exchange, and although the instrument provides that, on default of payment of an instalment, the balance unpaid shall become due.

"Acceptor for honour." When acceptance is refused and the bill is protested for non-acceptance, and any person accepts it supra protest for honour of the drawer or of any one of the indorsers, such person is called an "acceptor for honour."

"Payment in due course" means payment in accordance with the apparent tenor of the instrument in good faith and without negligence to any person in possession thereof under circumstances which do not afford a reasonable ground for believing that he is not entitled to receive payment of the amount therein mentioned.

Bill II, s. 11: Bill III, s. 11: Act V of 1868, s. 12.

Inland instrument. 11. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque drawn or made in British India, and made payable in, or drawn upon any person resident in, British India shall be deemed to be an inland instrument.

As between such parties and any holder of the instrument other than a holder in due course, it may be shown that the instrument was delivered conditionally or for a special purpose only, and not for the purpose of transferring absolutely the property therein.

Where an indorser so excludes his liability and afterwards becomes the holder of the instrument, all intermediate indorsers are liable to him.

"Without recourse."

Upon this indorsement he incurs no liability.

Draft, s. 46: Bill II, s. 76: Bill III, s. 65: Byles 160.

56. No writing on a negotiable instrument is valid for the purpose of negotiation if such writing purports to transfer only a part of the amount appearing to be due on the instrument; but where such amount has been partly paid, a note to that effect may be endorsed on the instrument, which may then be negotiated for the balance.

OF INTERNATIONAL LAW.

Draft, s. 104: Bill II, s. 140: Bill III, s. 137: Byles 399: Rouquette v. Overmann, L. R. 10 Q. B. 525: Horne v. Rouquette, 3 Q. B. Div. 514.

Law governing liability of maker, acceptor or indorser of foreign instrument.

134. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the liability of the maker or drawer of a foreign promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is regulated in all essential matters by the law of the place where he made the instrument, and the respective liabilities of the acceptor and indorser by the law of the place where the instrument is made payable.

Illustration.

Byles 402. A bill of exchange was drawn by A in California, where the rate of interest is 25 per cent., and accepted by B, payable in Washington, where the rate of interest is 6 per cent. The bill is endorsed in British India, and is dishonoured. An action on the bill is brought against B in British India. He is liable to pay interest at the rate of 6 per cent. only; but if A is charged as drawer, A is liable to pay interest at the rate of 25 per cent.

Draft, s. 105: Bill II, s. 141: Bill III, s. 138.

135. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is made payable in a different place from that in which it is made or indorsed, the law of the place where it is made payable determines what constitutes dishonour and what notice of dishonour is sufficient.

Law of place of payment governs dishonour.

Illustration.

A bill of exchange drawn and indorsed in British India, but accepted payable in France, is dishonoured. The indorsee causes it to be protested for such dishonour, and gives notice thereof in accordance with the law of France, though not in accordance with the rules herein contained in respect of bills which are not foreign. The notice is sufficient.

Draft, s. 106: Bill II, s. 142: Bill III, s. 139.

136. If a negotiable instrument is made, drawn, accepted or indorsed out of British India, but in accordance with the law of British India, the circumstance that any agreement evidenced by such instrument is invalid according to the law of the country wherein it was entered into does not invalidate any subsequent acceptance or endorsement made thereon in British India.

Instrument made, &c., out of British India, but in accordance with its law.

Draft, s. 107: Bill II, s. 143: Bill III, s. 140: Act I of 1872, s. 4.

137. The law of any foreign country regarding promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques shall be presumed to be the same as that of British India, unless and until the contrary is proved.

Presumption as to foreign law.

[First Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 28th January, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 3 OF 1881.

A Bill for the amendment of the law relating to Insolvent Debtors in India.

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to Insolvent Debtors in India; It is enacted as follows :—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Insolvent Law Amendment Act, 1881."

Local extent. it extends to the whole of British India; and

Commencement. it shall come into force on the first day of April 1881.

Interpretation-clause. 2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,—

"Insolvent." the word "Insolvent" means a person of whose property a receiver has been appointed under the Code of Civil Procedure, section 351, a person upon whose petition a vesting order has been made under the seventh section of the eleventh and twelfth of Victoria, Chapter XXI, entitled an Act to consolidate and amend the laws relating to Insolvent Debtors in India, and a person who has been adjudged to have committed an act of insolvency under the provisions of section eight or under the provisions of the ninth section of the same Act :

"Adjudication." the word "adjudication" means the order under the said section 351 of the said Code appointing a receiver, a vesting order under the said seventh section of the said Act, and an order under the said eighth section or under the said ninth section of the said Act adjudging any person to have committed an act of insolvency; and

"Assignee." the word "assignee" means the person in whom the property of any Insolvent has been vested by the adjudication of such Insolvent.

Attached property of insolvent. 3. If, at the time of the adjudication of any insolvent, any of his property has been attached in execution of any decree or under any order for attachment before judgment, the Court, under whose order such property has been attached, shall withdraw the attachment and permit his assignee to take possession of the same.

If, before the Court has had notice of such insolvency, the attached property has been sold, the proceeds of the sale, after deducting the costs of the attachment and sale and all other necessary costs incurred in and about the realization of such proceeds, shall be paid to the assignee of such insolvent :

Provided, that in case the Court has not had notice of the adjudication of such insolvent, before such proceeds are distributed, the same shall not, merely on account of such adjudication be recalled from the persons to whom they have been paid.

When the Court withdraws the attachment, it may, if it think fit, direct that the proper and necessary costs of the attachment and of the preservation of the property attached shall be charged upon the proceeds of such property; and if such order be made, the assignee shall apply the proceeds of such sale in payment of such costs after payment of the costs of such sale, but in priority to payment of all debts of the insolvent payable out of such proceeds.

Order and disposition. Attachment not to alter. 4. No property which, under the provisions of the twenty-third section of the said Act would be deemed to be the property of such insolvent, shall be held to have been taken out of his order and disposition by reason only that such property has, before the adjudication of such insolvent, been attached in execution of a decree or under any order for an attachment before judgment.

Order and disposition of Firms whose owner becomes Insolvent. 5. Whenever any persons trading in partnership together have, by the consent and permission of the true owner thereof, in their possession, order or disposition, goods or chattels whereof such persons are reputed owners, or whereof they have taken upon them the sale, alteration or disposition as owner, and while they have such possession, order or disposition, any of such persons is, under the provisions of the said Act, adjudicated an insolvent, or obtains a vesting order on his petition, such goods and chattels shall be deemed to be the property of such partnership so as to become vested in the Official Assignee of the Insolvent Court by the order made in pursuance of the said Act for the purpose only, and so far as may be required, for the purpose of paying the joint creditors of the said partnership.

Transfer of insolvencies from Mufassal Courts. 6. Whenever any person who carries on trade within the local limits of the Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction of any of the High Courts at Calcutta, Madras or Bombay is, under the provisions of section 351 of the Code of Civil Procedure, declared to be an insolvent, the Insolvent Court in any of the said towns in which he may carry on business at the time he is so declared to be an insolvent, may, if it think fit, on the application of any creditor of such trader, adjudge him to have committed an act of insolvency:

such adjudication shall have the same force and effect as if he had, under the provisions of the eighth section of the said Act, been adjudicated an insolvent by such Court, at the time when he was declared to be an insolvent under the provisions of the said Code;

and all the estate and effects of such insolvent shall, unless the said Court otherwise directs, vest in the Official Assignee of such Court, and any person appointed receiver under the provisions of the said Code shall, unless such Court otherwise directs, thereupon make over to the Official Assignee all the property of the insolvent which may have come to his hands as such receiver:

Provided that no such adjudication shall avoid, or in any way affect, any dealing of such receiver with any of such property before he has notice of such adjudication.

Distribution of unclaimed dividends.

7. The assignee of each insolvent estate shall, on the expiration of six months from the declaration of any dividend, file in Court an account upon oath of every dividend remaining in his hands unclaimed, specifying the name of each creditor to whom each such dividend is due, as well as the amount of the debt due to each such creditor, and shall publish the same in the numbers of the local Gazette as are first and second successively printed next after such six months, and all dividends remaining unclaimed for a period of six years shall, after the second of such advertisements, revert to the general fund of each respective estate for re-distribution by the Official Assignee among the remaining creditors of such estate.

All such unclaimed dividends shall remain under the control and management of the Official Assignee pending payment and distribution in such manner as shall be prescribed and furnished by any rules to be made under the powers conferred by section seventy-six of the said Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Indian Insolvent Acts, following the analogy of the law of Bankruptcy in England at the time of the first of these Acts being passed, contained no provision for compelling the property of an insolvent, which had been attached in execution before his adjudication, to be distributed among the general body of his creditors. The later English Bankrupt Acts, however, provide for the distribution amongst the bankruptcy creditors of the proceeds of the execution if a petition be filed within fourteen days after the sale; thus securing, as far as possible, equality among creditors, a purpose which the Civil Procedure Code has generally in view; and one of the objects of this Bill is to give that equality of distribution, wherever the property attached has not actually been distributed among the attaching creditors.

The only power which the Insolvent Court now has to stay proceedings in execution does not arise till the Insolvent's schedule has been filed, and in the cases where the insolvent, is friendly to the execution creditor the filing of the schedule is invariably delayed for the purpose of giving him an advantage.

Further, the Code empowers Courts to attach the property of a defendant in cases where there is reason to believe that he is likely to make away with that property in fraud of the plaintiff. Under the language of the old Civil Procedure Code it was held that property so attached before judgment vested in the Official Assignee of the defendant, and was assets of his estate giving no preferential claim to the attaching creditor, but it has been successfully contended that the effect of the new Code, section 490, is to give to a creditor attaching before judgment priority over the assignee, even though the adjudication were before judgment obtained by the attaching creditor.

The third section of the Bill is intended to provide for the rateable distribution of the insolvent's property amongst his creditors in cases where the modern English law would so distribute it, instead of allowing one creditor to sweep away the whole or a large portion of the assets.

From a very early period the Bankruptcy law of England provided that persons who, by leaving goods in the hands of traders, enabled them to maintain a false appearance of wealth and thus obtain credit could not claim such goods from the assignee of the bankrupt, and this provision was introduced into this country by the Insolvent Act. There was nothing however to give similar rights to execution-creditors, and therefore this anomaly occurred that, where an attachment was laid on goods in the hands of a person who became insolvent, the custody of the law took the goods out of the order and disposition of the bankrupt so that a subsequent adjudication did not vest the goods in the assignee, but the attaching creditor was not able to treat the ostensible ownership of the judgment-debtor as giving him any claims. It is not easy to see any sound basis for this distinction, the injurious influence of which is, to some extent, obviated in England by the Bills of Sale Act. The fourth section is intended to avoid this anomaly.

Down to a very recent period it was generally supposed that where moveable property was in the possession and ostensible ownership of a partnership a member of which became bankrupt, the provisions of the Bankrupt Law vested such property in the assignee; it was however decided in ex parte Dorman L. R. 8 Ch. App. 51, that such was not the effect of the language of the Acts upon the ground that it could not be the intention of the Statute to give such rights where the other partners were solvent. The Appellate Court however was of opinion that where the firm is in fact insolvent the case comes within the mischief against which the order and disposition clause is intended to provide, and in this country it has been decided that the existence of an absent partner does not prevent the provisions of that clause attaching. The fifth section is intended to apply the order and disposition-clause to such cases as fall within the mischief which it is intended to prevent.

Much of the trade of the Presidency-towns is carried on by Gumáshtas on behalf of persons residing in remote parts of the Mufassal, and in many cases if such traders became insolvent they might be able, by taking advantage of the insolvency proceedings in the Procedure Code,* to embarass their general trade-creditors who would have much difficulty in supervising the proceedings in a Mufassal Court. The sixth section is intended to enable the creditors of such persons to have the liquidation of their affairs transferred to a Court with machinery better organised for the administration of bankrupt estates in cases where such a course is deemed by the Court to be expedient.

Sums in the aggregate considerable, though, in general, individually small, are from time to time left unclaimed in the hands of the official assignee, and so long ago as 1841 an Act was passed empowering the official assignee after the lapse of six years to distribute the amount of such unclaimed dividends rateably among the creditors who had proved the claims.

The language of this Act however was so singularly framed that it seems impossible that there ever could be a distribution made of such unclaimed dividends. The seventh section is intended to correct this.

* It was found some years ago in England that similar powers given to Scotch Courts were applied to the detriment of English creditors, and a modification of the Scotch Law was enacted to prevent its application to persons whose creditors were principally in another part of the United Kingdom, see 23 & 24 Vic., c. 33.

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second Publication.]

The following Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 21st January, 1881:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques was referred, have had the report of the Indian Law Commissioners, 1879, duly communicated to us. We have carefully considered so much of it as relates to the present Bill, as well as the papers noted in the margin, and, in compliance with the wish of the Secretary of State for India, as expressed in his despatch (Legislative), No. 37, dated 7th October, 1880, we have the honour to submit this our fourth report.

From Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Madras, dated 1st August, 1878, and enclosure [Papers No. 56].
„ Acting Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 299, dated 14th February, 1879, and enclosures [Papers No. 58].
„ J. Crawfurd, Esq., Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 1123, dated 27th June, 1879 [Paper No. 60].
Note by Sir Charles Turner, Chief Justice, Madras, dated 22nd January, 1880 [Paper No. 61].
From Seth Lachman Dás, Muttra, dated 1st January, 1881 [Paper No. 62].

2. We agree with the Commissioners that uniformity of practice is particularly desirable in matters relating to negotiable paper, and, to facilitate the assimilation of the practice of shroffs to that of European merchants, we have declared (section 1) that local usages may be excluded by any words in the body of the instrument which indicate an intention that the legal relations of the parties thereto shall be governed by the proposed Act.

3. We have inserted explanations calculated to prevent doubts as to when a promise or order to pay is "conditional," when the sum payable is "certain," and when the person to whom the direction is given or payment is to be made is "a certain person," within the meaning of sections 4 and 5.

4. We have re-drawn section 20 as to inchoate stamped instruments, so as to make it express more accurately what we conceive to be the law on this subject.

5. We have also re-drawn sections 47 and 48 (as follows):—

"43. A negotiable instrument made, drawn, accepted, endorsed or transferred without consideration, or for a consideration which fails, creates no obligation of payment between the parties to the transaction. But if any such party has transferred the instrument with or without endorsement to a holder for consideration, such holder, and every subsequent holder deriving title from him, may recover the amount due on such instrument from the transferor for consideration or any prior party thereto.

Negotiable instrument made, &c., without consideration.

"Exception I.—No party for whose accommodation a negotiable instrument has been made, drawn, accepted or indorsed, can, if he have paid the amount thereof, recover thereon such amount from any person who became a party to such instrument for his accommodation.

"Exception II.—No party to the instrument who has induced any other party to make, draw, accept, indorse or transfer the same to him for a consideration which he has failed to pay or perform in full, shall recover thereon an amount exceeding the value of the consideration (if any) which he has actually paid or performed."

6. We have prefixed to the sections relating to negotiation clauses (section 46) relating to delivery generally, and to the effect recommended by the Commissioners.

7. We think the section (67, now 63) relating to the drawee's time for deliberation should provide that the holder of a bill "must, if so required by the drawee," allow him twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept, and we have amended this section accordingly.

9. We have in section 90 (now 86) substituted "qualified" for "conditional" and added a paragraph shewing when an acceptance is qualified.

10. We have provided (section 90) for the extinguishment of rights of action on a negotiated bill held, at or after maturity, by the acceptor in his own right.

11. We agree with Sir C. Turner that section 108 of the Bill in its fourth form—as to reasonable time for presentment—should be omitted. It seems inconsistent with section 107 (now 105), and declares a rule which is not only stricter than the existing law, but would, in our opinion, be highly inconvenient.

12. We have inserted a statement of the procedure in the case of an acceptance supra protest, and to section 112 (now 109) we have prefixed a clause shewing how acceptance for honour must be made.

13. We have declared (section 116) that a drawee in case of need may accept and pay the bill without previous protest.

14. We have made it appear that inland (as well as foreign) bills may be drawn in sets, and altered Chapter XIV (now XV) accordingly. We have made the exception to section 126 (now 132) run thus:—

"Exception.—When a person accepts or indorses different parts of the bill in favour of different persons, he and the subsequent indorser of each part are liable on such part as if it were a separate bill."

15. We have amended the second clause of section 125 (now 130, 131) (as to the non-liability of a banker who has received payment for a customer of a crossed cheque) in accordance with Matthiessen v. London and County Banking Company, 48 L. J. C. P. 529.

A promise or order to pay is not "conditional," within the meaning of this section and section four, by reason of the time for payment of the amount or any instalment thereof being expressed to be on the lapse of a certain period after the occurrence of a specified event which, according to the ordinary expectation of mankind, is certain to happen, although the time of its happening may be uncertain.

The sum payable may be "certain," within the meaning of this section and section four, although it includes future interest or is payable at an indicated rate of exchange, or is according to the course of exchange, and although the instrument provides that, on default of payment of an instalment, the balance unpaid shall become due.

"Acceptor for honour." When acceptance is refused and the bill is protested for non-acceptance, and any person accepts it supra protest for honour of the drawer or of any one of the indorsers, such person is called an "acceptor for honour."

"Payee." The person named in the instrument, to whom or to whose order the money is by the instrument directed to be paid, is called the "payee."

Draft, s. 6: Bill II, s. 8: Bill III, s. 8: Byles 2.

"Holder." 8. The "holder" of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque means any person entitled in his own name to the possession thereof and to receive or recover the amount due thereon from the parties thereto.

"Payment in due course." 10. "Payment in due course" means payment in accordance with the apparent tenor of the instrument in good faith and without negligence to any person in possession thereof under circumstances which do not afford a reasonable ground for believing that he is not entitled to receive payment of the amount therein mentioned.

Bill II, s. 11: Bill III, s. 11: Act V of 1866, s. 12.

Inland instrument. 11. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque drawn or made in British India, and made payable in, or drawn upon any person resident in, British India shall be deemed to be an inland instrument.

Bill II, s. 16: Bill III, s. 16.

Indorsement "in blank" and "in full." 16. If the indorser signs his name only, the indorsement is said to be "in blank," and if he adds a direction to pay the amount mentioned in the instrument to, or to the order of, a specified person, the indorsement is said to be "in full;"

"Indorsee." and the person so specified is called the "indorsee" of the instrument.

The person so signing shall be liable upon such instrument, in the capacity in which he signed the same, to any holder in due course for such amount: provided that no person other than a holder in due course shall recover from the person delivering the instrument anything in excess of the amount intended by him to be paid thereunder.

43. A negotiable instrument made, drawn, accepted, endorsed or transferred without consideration, or for a consideration which fails, creates no obligation of payment between the parties to the transaction. CHAPTER IV.

OF NEGOTIATION.

46. The making, acceptance or indorsement of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is completed by delivery, actual or constructive.

Delivery.

As between parties standing in immediate relation, delivery to be effectual must be made by the party making, accepting or indorsing the instrument, or by a person authorized by him in that behalf.

As between such parties and any holder of the instrument other than a holder in due course, it may be shown that the instrument was delivered conditionally or for a special purpose only, and not for the purpose of transferring absolutely the property therein.

A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by the delivery thereof.

A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to order is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

50. The indorsement of a negotiable instrument followed by delivery transfers to the indorsee the property therein with the right of further negotiation; but the indorsement may, by express words, restrict or exclude such right, or may merely constitute the indorsee an agent to indorse the instrument, or to receive its contents for the indorser, or for some other specified person.

Effect of indorsement.

Illustrations.

B signs the following indorsements on different negotiable instruments payable to bearer:—

(a) "Pay the contents to C only."

Draft, s. 45.

Where an indorser so excludes his liability and afterwards becomes the holder of the instrument, all intermediate indorsers are liable to him.

Illustrations.

(a) The indorser of a negotiable instrument signs his name, adding the words—

"Without recourse."

Upon this indorsement he incurs no liability.

(b) A is the payee and holder of a negotiable instrument. Excluding personal liability by an endorsement "without recourse," he transfers the instrument to B, and B indorses it to C, who indorses it to A. A is not only reinstated in his former rights, but has the rights of an indorsee against B and C.

Draft, s. 38: Bill II, s. 76: Bill III, s. 65: Byles 172.

56. No writing on a negotiable instrument is valid for the purpose of negotiation if such writing purports to transfer only a part of the amount appearing to be due on the instrument; but where such amount has been partly paid, a note to that effect may be endorsed on the instrument, which may then be negotiated for the balance.

it shall come into force on the first day of April 1881. Commencement.

2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,— Interpretation-clause.

the word "Insolvent" means a person of whose property a receiver has been appointed under the Code of Civil Procedure, section 351, a person upon whose petition a vesting order has been made under the seventh section of the eleventh and twelfth of Victoria, Chapter XXI, entitled an Act to consolidate and amend the laws relating to Insolvent Debtors in India, and a person who has been adjudged to have committed an act of insolvency under the provisions of section eight or under the provisions of the ninth section of the same Act : "Insolvent."

Provided, that in case the Court has not had notice of the adjudication of such insolvent, before such proceeds are distributed, the same shall not, merely on account of such adjudication, be recalled from the persons to whom they have been paid.

When the Court withdraws the attachment, it may, if it think fit, direct that the proper and necessary costs of the attachment and of the preservation of the property attached shall be charged upon the proceeds of such property; and if such order be made, the assignee shall apply the proceeds of such sale in payment of such costs after payment of the costs of such sale, but in priority to payment of all debts of the insolvent payable out of such proceeds.

4. No property which, under the provisions of the twenty-third section of the said Act would be deemed to be the property of such insolvent, shall be held to have been taken out of his order and disposition by reason only that such property has, before the adjudication of such insolvent, been attached in execution of a decree or under any order for an attachment before judgment. Order and disposition. Attachment not to alter.

5. Whenever any persons trading in partnership together have, by the consent and permission of the true owner thereof, in their possession, order or disposition, goods or chattels whereof such persons are reputed owners, or whereof they have taken upon them the sale, alteration or disposition as owner, and while they have such possession, order or disposition, any of such persons is, under the provisions of the said Act, adjudicated an insolvent, or obtains a vesting order on his petition, such goods and chattels shall be deemed to be the property of such partnership as to become vested in the Official Assignee of the Insolvent Court by the order made in pursuance of the said Act for the purpose only, and so far as may be required, for the purpose of paying the joint creditors of the said partnership. such adjudication shall have the same force and effect as if he had, under the provisions of the eighth section of the said Act, been adjudicated an insolvent by such Court, at the time when he was declared to be an insolvent under the provisions of the said Code;

and all the estate and effects of such insolvent shall, unless the said Court otherwise directs, vest in the Official Assignee of such Court,

and any person appointed receiver under the provisions of the said Code shall, unless such Court otherwise directs, thereupon make over to the Official Assignee all the property of the insolvent which may have come to his hands as such receiver:

Provided that no such adjudication shall avoid, or in any way affect, any dealing of such receiver with any of such property before he has notice of such adjudication.

Distribution of unclaimed dividends.

7. The assignee of each insolvent estate shall, on the expiration of six months from the declaration of any dividend, file in Court an account upon oath of every dividend remaining in his hands unclaimed, specifying the name of each creditor to whom each such dividend is due, as well as the amount of the debt due to each such creditor, and shall publish the same in the numbers of the local Gazette as are first and second successively printed next after such six months, and all dividends remaining unclaimed for a period of six years shall, after the second of such advertisements, revert to the general fund of each respective estate for re-distribution by the Official Assignee among the remaining creditors of such estate.

All such unclaimed dividends shall remain under the control and management of the Official Assignee pending payment and distribution in such manner as shall be prescribed and furnished by any rules to be made under the powers conferred by section seventy-six of the said Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Indian Insolvent Acts, following the analogy of the law of Bankruptcy in England at the time of the first of these Acts being passed, contained no provision for compelling the property of an insolvent, which had been attached in execution before his adjudication, to be distributed among the general body of his creditors. The later English Bankrupt Acts, however, provide for the distribution amongst the bankruptcy creditors of the proceeds of the execution if a petition be filed within fourteen days after the sale; thus securing, as far as possible, equality among creditors, a purpose which the Civil Procedure Code has generally in view; and one of the objects of this Bill is to give that equality of distribution, wherever the property attached has not actually been distributed among the attaching creditors.

The only power which the Insolvent Court now has to stay proceedings in execution does not arise till the Insolvent's schedule has been filed, and in the cases where the insolvent is friendly to the execution creditor, the filing of the schedule is invariably delayed for the purpose of giving him an advantage.

Further, the Code empowers Courts to attach the property of a defendant in cases where there is reason to believe that he is likely to make away with that property in fraud of the plaintiff. Under the language of the old Civil Procedure Code it was held that property so attached before judgment vested in the Official Assignee of the defendant, and was assets of his estate giving no preferential claim to the attaching creditor, but it has been successfully contended that the effect of the new Code, section 490, is to give to a creditor attaching before judgment priority over the assignee, even though the adjudication were before judgment obtained by the attaching creditor.

The third section of the Bill is intended to provide for the rateable distribution of the insolvent's property amongst his creditors in cases where the modern English law would so distribute it, instead of allowing one creditor to sweep away the whole or a large portion of the assets.

From a very early period the Bankruptcy law of England provided that persons who, by leaving goods in the hands of traders, enabled them to maintain a false appearance of wealth and thus obtain credit, could not claim such goods from the assignee of the bankrupt, and this provision was introduced into this country by the Insolvent Act. There was nothing, however, to give similar rights to execution-creditors, and therefore this anomaly occurred that, where an attachment was laid on goods in the hands of a person who became insolvent, the custody of the law took the goods out of the order and disposition of the bankrupt, so that a subsequent adjudication did not vest the goods in the assignee, but the attaching creditor was not able to treat the ostensible ownership of the judgment-debtor as giving him any claims. It is not easy to see any sound basis for this distinction, the injurious influence of which is, to some extent, obviated in England by the Bills of Sale Act. The fourth section is intended to avoid this anomaly.

Down to a very recent period it was generally supposed that where moveable property was in the possession and ostensible ownership of a partnership a member of which became bankrupt, the provisions of the Bankrupt Law vested such property in the assignee; it was however decided in ex parte Dorman L. R. 8 Ch., App. 51, that such was not the effect of the language of the Acts upon the ground that it could not be the intention of the Statute to give such rights where the other partners were solvent. The Appellate Court however was of opinion that where the firm is in fact insolvent, the case comes within the mischief against which the order and disposition clause is intended to provide, and in this country it has been decided that the existence of an absent partner does not prevent the provisions of that clause attaching. The fifth section is intended to apply the order and disposition-clause to such cases as fall within the mischief which it is intended to prevent.

Much of the trade of the Presidency-towns is carried on by Gumáshtas on behalf of persons residing in remote parts of the Mufassal, and in many cases, if such traders became insolvent, they might be able, by taking advantage of the insolvency proceedings in the Procedure Code,* to embarrass their general trade-creditors who would have much difficulty in supervising the proceedings in a Mufassal Court. The sixth section is intended to enable the creditors of such persons to have the liquidation of their affairs transferred to a Court with machinery better organised for the administration of bankrupt estates in cases where such a course is deemed by the Court to be expedient.

Sums in the aggregate considerable, though, in general, individually small, are from time to time left unclaimed in the hands of the official assignee, and so long ago as 1841 an Act was passed empowering the official assignee after the lapse of six years to distribute the amount of such unclaimed dividends rateably among the creditors who had proved the claims.

The language of this Act, however, was so singularly framed that it seems impossible that there ever could be a distribution made of such unclaimed dividends. The seventh section is intended to correct this.

* It was found some years ago in England that similar powers given to Scotch Courts were applied to the detriment of English creditors, and a modification of the Scotch Law was enacted to prevent its application to persons whose creditors were principally in another part of the United Kingdom, see 23 & 24 Vic., c. 33.

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 21st January, 1881:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques was referred, have had the report of the Indian Law Commissioners, 1879, duly communicated to us. We have carefully considered so much of it as relates to the present Bill, as well as the papers noted in the margin, and, in compliance with the wish of the Secretary of State for India, as expressed in his despatch (Legislative), No. 37, dated 7th October, 1880, we have the honour to submit this our fourth report.

From Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Madras, dated 1st August, 1878, and enclosure [Papers No. 56].
„ Acting Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 299, dated 14th February, 1879, and enclosures [Papers No. 58].
„ J. Crawfurd, Esq., Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 1123, dated 27th June, 1879 [Paper No. 60].
Note by Sir Charles Turner, Chief Justice, Madras, dated 22nd January, 1880 [Paper No. 61].
From Seth Lachman Dás, Muttra, dated 1st January, 1881 [Paper No. 62].

2. We agree with the Commissioners that uniformity of practice is particularly desirable in matters relating to negotiable paper, and, to facilitate the assimilation of the practice of shroffs to that of European merchants, we have declared (section 1) that local usages may be excluded by any words in the body of the instrument which indicate an intention that the legal relations of the parties thereto shall be governed by the proposed Act.

3. We have inserted explanations calculated to prevent doubts as to when a promise or order to pay is "conditional," when the sum payable is "certain," and when the person to whom the direction is given or payment is to be made is "a certain person," within the meaning of sections 4 and 5.

4. We have re-drawn section 20 as to inchoate stamped instruments, so as to make it express more accurately what we conceive to be the law on this subject.

5. We have also re-drawn sections 47 and 48 (as follows):—

"48. A negotiable instrument made, drawn, accepted, endorsed or transferred without consideration, or for a consideration which fails, creates no obligation of payment between the parties to the transaction. But if any such party has transferred the instrument with or without endorsement to a holder for consideration, such holder, and every subsequent holder deriving title from him, may recover the amount due on such instrument from the transferor for consideration or any prior party thereto.

Negotiable instrument made, &c., without consideration.

"Exception I.—No party for whose accommodation a negotiable instrument has been made, drawn, accepted or indorsed, can, if he have paid the amount thereof, recover thereon such amount from any person who became a party to such instrument for his accommodation.

"Exception II.—No party to the instrument who has induced any other party to make, draw, accept, indorse or transfer the same to him for a consideration which he has failed to pay or perform in full, shall recover thereon an amount exceeding the value of the consideration (if any) which he has actually paid or performed."

6. We have prefixed to the sections relating to negotiation clauses (section 46) relating to delivery generally, and to the effect recommended by the Commissioners.

7. We think the section (67, now 63) relating to the drawee's time for deliberation should provide that the holder of a bill "must, if so required by the drawee," allow him twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept, and we have amended this section accordingly.

8. We have made (section 76) presentment for payment unnecessary as against any party [illegible] to pay notwithstanding non-presentment.

9. We have in section 90 (now 86) substituted "qualified" for "conditional" and added a paragraph shewing when an acceptance is qualified.

10. We have provided (section 90) for the extinguishment of rights of action on a negotiated bill held, at or after maturity, by the acceptor in his own right.

11. We agree with Sir C. Turner that section 108 of the Bill in its fourth form—as to reasonable time for presentment—should be omitted. It seems inconsistent with section 107 (now 105), and declares a rule which is not only stricter than the existing law, but would, in our opinion, be highly inconvenient.

12. We have inserted a statement of the procedure in the case of an acceptance supra protest, and to section 112 (now 109) we have prefixed a clause shewing how acceptance for honour must be made.

13. We have declared (section 116) that a drawee in case of need may accept and pay the bill without previous protest.

14. We have made it appear that inland (as well as foreign) bills may be drawn in sets, and altered Chapter XIV (now XV) accordingly. We have made the exception to section 126 (now 132) run thus:—

"Exception.—When a person accepts or indorses different parts of the bill in favour of different persons, he and the subsequent indorser of each part are liable on such part as if it were a separate bill."

15. We have amended the second clause of section 125 (now 130, 131) (as to the non-liability of a banker who has received payment for a customer of a crossed cheque) in accordance with Matthiessen v. London and County Banking Company, 48 L. J. C. P. 529.

A promise or order to pay is not "conditional," within the meaning of this section and section four, by reason of the time for payment of the amount or any instalment thereof being expressed to be on the lapse of a certain period after the occurrence of a specified event which, according to the ordinary expectation of mankind, is certain to happen, although the time of its happening may be uncertain.

The sum payable may be "certain," within the meaning of this section and section four, although it includes future interest or is payable at an indicated rate of exchange, or is according to the course of exchange, and although the instrument provides that, on default of payment of an instalment, the balance unpaid shall become due.

The person to whom it is clear that the direction is given or that payment is to be made may be a "certain person," within the meaning of this section and section four, although he is mis-named or designated by description only.

"Acceptor for honour."

When acceptance is refused and the bill is protested for non-acceptance, and any person accepts it supra protest for honour of the drawer or of any one of the indorsers, such person is called an "acceptor for honour."

"Payee."

CHAPTER IV.

OF NEGOTIATION.

46. The making, acceptance or indorsement of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is completed by delivery, actual or constructive.

As between parties standing in immediate relation, delivery to be effectual must be made by the party making, accepting or indorsing the instrument, or by a person authorized by him in that behalf.

As between such parties and any holder of the instrument other than a holder in due course, it may be shown that the instrument was delivered conditionally or for a special purpose only, and not for the purpose of transferring absolutely the property therein.

A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by the delivery thereof.

Draft, ss. 29, 30: Bill II, ss. 69, 70: Bill III, ss. 58, 59: Byles 152.

50. The indorsement of a negotiable instrument followed by delivery transfers to the indorsee the property therein with the right of further negotiation; but the indorsement may, by express words, restrict or exclude such right, or may merely constitute the indorsee an agent to indorse the instrument, or to receive its contents for the indorser, or for some other specified person.

Effect of indorsement.

Explanation.—Nothing in this section enables a maker or drawer to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is in lawful possession or is holder thereof; or enables a payee or indorsee to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is holder thereof.

Illustration.

A bill is drawn payable to A or order. A indorses it to B, the indorsement not containing the words "or order" or any equivalent words. B may negotiate the instrument.

Indorser who excludes his own liability or makes it conditional.

52. The indorser of a negotiable instrument may, by express words in the indorsement, exclude his own liability thereon, or make such liability or the right of the indorsee to receive the amount due thereon, depend upon the happening of a specified event, although such event may never happen.

Draft, s. 45.

Where an indorser so excludes his liability and afterwards becomes the holder of the instrument, all intermediate indorsers are liable to him.

Illustrations.

(a) The indorser of a negotiable instrument signs his name, adding the words—

"Without recourse."

Upon this indorsement he incurs no liability.

(b) A is the payee and holder of a negotiable instrument. The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 28th January, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 3 OF 1881.

A Bill for the amendment of the law relating to Insolvent Debtors in India.

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to Insolvent Debtors in India; It is enacted as follows:—

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Insolvent Law Amendment Act, 1881:"

Local extent. it extends to the whole of British India; and

Commencement. it shall come into force on the first day of April 1881.

Interpretation-clause. 2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,—

"Insolvent." the word "Insolvent" means a person of whose property a receiver has been appointed under the Code of Civil Procedure, section 351, a person upon whose petition a vesting order has been made under the seventh section of the eleventh and twelfth of Victoria, Chapter XXI, entitled an Act to consolidate and amend the laws relating to Insolvent Debtors in India, and a person who has been adjudged to have committed an act of insolvency under the provisions of section eight or under the provisions of the ninth section of the same Act:

"Adjudication." the word "adjudication" means the order under the said section 351 of the said Code appointing a receiver, vesting order under the said seventh section of the said Act, and an order under the said eighth section or under the said ninth section of the said Act adjudging any person to have committed an act of insolvency; and

"Assignee." the word "assignee" means the person in whom the property of any Insolvent has been vested by adjudication of such Insolvent.

Order and disposition. Attachment not to alter. 3. If, at the time of the adjudication of any insolvent, any of his property has been attached in execution of any decree or order for attachment before judgment, the Court, under whose order such property has been attached, shall withdraw the attachment and permit his assignee to take possession of the same.

If, before the Court has had notice of such insolvency, the attached property has been sold, the proceeds of the sale, after deducting the costs of the attachment and sale and all other necessary costs incurred in and about the realization of such proceeds, shall be paid to the assignee of such insolvent:

Provided, that in case the Court has not had notice of the adjudication of such insolvent, before such proceeds are distributed, the same shall not, merely on account of such adjudication, be recalled from the persons to whom they have been paid.

When the Court withdraws the attachment, it may, if it think fit, direct that the proper and necessary costs of the attachment and of the preservation of the property attached shall be charged upon the proceeds of such property; and if such order be made, the assignee shall apply the proceeds of such sale in payment of such costs in payment of the costs of such sale, but in priority to payment of all debts of the insolvent out of such proceeds.

Order and disposition. Attachment not to alter. 4. No property which, under the provisions of the twenty-third section of the said Act would be deemed to be the property of such insolvent, shall be held to have been taken out of his order and disposition by reason only that such property has, before the adjudication of such insolvent, been attached in execution of a decree or under any order for an attachment before judgment.

Order and disposition of Firms whose owner becomes Insolvent. 5. Whenever any persons trading in partnership together have, by the consent and permission of the true owner thereof, in their possession, order or disposition, goods or chattels whereof such persons are reputed owners, or whereof they have taken upon them the sale, alteration or disposition as owner, and while they have such possession, order or disposition, any of such persons is, under the provisions of the said Act, adjudicated an insolvent, or obtains a vesting order on his petition, such goods and chattels shall be deemed to be the property of such partnership so as to become vested in the Official Assignee of the Insolvent Court by the order made in pursuance of the said Act for the purpose only, and so far as may be required, for the purpose of paying the joint creditors of the said partnership.

Transfer of insolvencies from Mufussal Courts. 6. Whenever any person who carries on trade within the local limits of the Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction of any of the High Courts at Calcutta, Madras or Bombay is, under the provisions of section 351 of the Code of Civil Procedure, declared to be an insolvent, the Insolvent Court in any of the said towns in which he may carry on business at the time he is so declared to be an insolvent, may, if it think fit, on the application of any creditor of such trader, adjudge him to have committed an act of insolvency:

such adjudication shall have the same force and effect as if he had, under the provisions of the eighth section of the said Act, been adjudicated an insolvent by such Court, at the time when he was declared to be an insolvent under the provisions of the said Code;

and all the estate and effects of such insolvent shall, unless the said Court otherwise directs, vest in the Official Assignee of such Court,

and any person appointed receiver under the provisions of the said Code shall, unless such Court otherwise directs, thereupon make over to the Official Assignee all the property of the insolvent which may have come to his hands as such receiver:

Provided that no such adjudication shall avoid, or in any way affect, any dealing of such receiver with any of such property before he has notice of such adjudication.

Distribution of unclaimed dividends.

7. The assignee of each insolvent estate shall, on the expiration of six months from the declaration of any dividend, file in Court an account upon oath of every dividend remaining in his hands unclaimed, specifying the name of each creditor to whom each such dividend is due, as well as the amount of the debt due to each such creditor, and shall publish the same in the numbers of the local Gazette as are first and second successively printed next after such six months, and all dividends remaining unclaimed for a period of six years shall, after the second of such advertisements, revert to the general fund of each respective estate for re-distribution by the Official Assignee among the remaining creditors of such estate.

All such unclaimed dividends shall remain under the control and management of the Official Assignee pending payment and distribution in such manner as shall be prescribed and furnished by any rules to be made under the powers conferred by section seventy-six of the said Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Indian Insolvent Acts, following the analogy of the law of Bankruptcy in England at the time of the first of these Acts being passed, contained no provision for compelling the property of an insolvent, which had been attached in execution before his adjudication, to be distributed among the general body of his creditors. The later English Bankrupt Acts, however, provide for the distribution amongst the bankruptcy creditors of the proceeds of the execution if a petition be filed within fourteen days after the sale; thus securing, as far as possible, equality among creditors, a purpose which the Civil Procedure Code has generally in view; and one of the objects of this Bill is to give that equality of distribution, wherever the property attached has not actually been distributed among the attaching creditors.

The only power which the Insolvent Court now has to stay proceedings in execution does not arise till the Insolvent's schedule has been filed, and in the cases where the insolvent is friendly to the execution creditor, the filing of the schedule is invariably delayed for the purpose of giving him an advantage.

Further, the Code empowers Courts to attach the property of a defendant in cases where there is reason to believe that he is likely to make away with that property in fraud of the plaintiff. Under the language of the old Civil Procedure Code it was held that property so attached before judgment vested in the Official Assignee of the defendant, and was assets of his estate giving no preferential claim to the attaching creditor, but it has been successfully contended that the effect of the new Code, section 490, is to give to a creditor attaching before judgment priority over the assignee, even though the adjudication were before judgment obtained by the attaching creditor.

The third section of the Bill is intended to provide for the rateable distribution of the insolvent's property amongst his creditors in cases where the modern English law would so distribute it, instead of allowing one creditor to sweep away the whole or a large portion of the assets.

From a very early period the Bankruptcy law of England provided that persons who, by leaving goods in the hands of traders, enabled them to maintain a false appearance of wealth and thus obtain credit, could not claim such goods from the assignee of the bankrupt, and this provision was introduced into this country by the Insolvent Act. There was nothing, however, to give similar rights to execution-creditors, and therefore this anomaly occurred that, where an attachment was laid on goods in the hands of a person who became insolvent, the custody of the law took the goods out of the order and disposition of the bankrupt, so that a subsequent adjudication did not vest the goods in the assignee, but the attaching creditor was not able to treat the ostensible ownership of the judgment-debtor as giving him any claims. It is not easy to see any sound basis for this distinction, the injurious influence of which is, to some extent, obviated in England by the Bills of Sale Act. The fourth section is intended to avoid this anomaly.

Down to a very recent period it was generally supposed that where moveable property was in the possession and ostensible ownership of a partnership a member of which became bankrupt, the provisions of the Bankrupt Law vested such property in the assignee; it was however decided in ex parte Dorman L. R. 8 Ch., App. 51, that such was not the effect of the language of the Acts upon the ground that it could not be the intention of the Statute to give such rights where the other partners were solvent. The Appellate Court however was of opinion that where the firm is in fact insolvent, the case comes within the mischief against which the order and disposition clause is intended to provide, and in this country it has been decided that the existence of an absent partner does not prevent the provisions of that clause attaching. The fifth section is intended to apply the order and disposition-clause to such cases as fall within the mischief which it is intended to prevent.

Much of the trade of the Presidency-towns is carried on by Gumáshtas on behalf of persons residing in remote parts of the Mufassal, and in many cases, if such traders became insolvent, they might be able, by taking advantage of the insolvency proceedings in the Procedure Code,* to embarrass their general trade-creditors who would have much difficulty in supervising the proceedings in a Mufassal Court. The sixth section is intended to enable the creditors of such persons to have the liquidation of their affairs transferred to a Court with machinery better organised for the administration of bankrupt estates in cases where such a course is deemed by the Court to be expedient.

Sums in the aggregate considerable, though, in general, individually small, are from time to time left unclaimed in the hands of the official assignee, and so long ago as 1841 an Act was passed empowering the official assignee after the lapse of six years to distribute the amount of such unclaimed dividends rateably among the creditors who had proved the claims.

The language of this Act, however, was so singularly framed that it seems impossible that there ever could be a distribution made of such unclaimed dividends. The seventh section is intended to correct this.

* It was found some years ago in England that similar powers given to Scotch Courts were applied to the detriment of English creditors, and a modification of the Scotch Law was enacted to prevent its application to persons whose creditors were principally in another part of the United Kingdom, see 23 & 24 Vic., c. 33.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 18th February, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 4 of 1881.

A Bill to provide for recording evidence taken by the High Courts in the exercise of their original civil jurisdiction.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the due record of evidence taken by the High Courts in the exercise of their original civil jurisdiction; It is enacted that the Chief Justice of each of the High Courts shall, from time to time, until rules for taking evidence in such Court shall have been made under section 633 of the Civil Procedure Code, appoint some person in each division of the Court exercising original civil jurisdiction to record the evidence taken in such division; and the person so to be appointed shall take down the evidence of each witness in English in the words in which the same is delivered, or, if it be not delivered in English, as interpreted, not ordinarily in the form of question and answer, but in that of a narrative; and when such record is completed the same shall be read over to the witness, and, if necessary, interpreted to him; and the witness may correct his deposition and shall sign it.

The Judge may make a memorandum of such parts of the evidence as he thinks material, and such memorandum may, if the Judge thinks fit, be annexed to and form part of the record.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IN the High Court in Calcutta no rules for taking evidence have been framed under the provisions of section 633 of the Civil Procedure Code, but in that Court, as well as in the High Court at Madras, the practice has been to have the evidence recorded in the manner provided in this Bill. As, however, this practice was not sanctioned by any express rule or enactment, one or two Judges have thought themselves justified in disregarding it. This has been found inconvenient, tending to cause great delay in the trial of causes, creating difficulty in proof of perjury and depriving the appellate Court of a complete report of the evidence given in the original Court.

The object of the Bill is to give a legal sanction to the practice heretofore prevailing, until the Judges shall see fit to make rules providing some other mode of recording the evidence.

Preamble. FOR the purpose of amending the Indian Penal Code; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Amendment of section 40, clause 2, of Indian Penal Code. 1. In the second clause of section 40 of the said Code, before the figure "109," the figures "65, 66, 71" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 64 of same Code. 2. In section 64 of the said Code, for the first twelve words, the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"In every case punishable under any law in force for the time being, with imprisonment as well as fine, in which the offender is sentenced to a fine, whether with or without imprisonment, and in every case punishable under this Code with fine only, in which the offender is sentenced to a fine,"

Amendment of section 67 of same Code. 3. In section 67, after the words "fine only," the words "the imprisonment which the Court imposes in default of payment of the fine shall be simple, and" shall be inserted.

Addition to section 71 of same Code. 4. To section 71 of the said Code, the following clause shall be added:—

"Where anything is an offence falling within two or more separate definitions of any law in force for the time being by which offences are defined or punished, the offender shall not be punished with a more severe punishment than the Court which tries him could award for any one of such offences."

New Exception to section 214 of same Code. 5. In section 214 of the said Code, for the Exception, the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

Addition to section 435 of same Code. 6. In section 435 of the said Code, after the words "or upwards" the following words shall be inserted, namely:—

"or (where the property is agricultural produce) ten rupees or upwards."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to make six amendments of the Indian Penal Code.

The first is to render the word "offence," as used in sections 65, 66 and 71 (as amended by this Bill), applicable to things punishable under the Code or any special or local law.

The second is to render section 64 (as to sentence of imprisonment on default of payment of fine) applicable to convictions under special and local laws in case of offences punishable both with imprisonment and fine. It corresponds with the first clause of section 309 of Act X of 1872, which will be repealed by the new Code of Criminal Procedure.

The third is to declare that, when an offence is punishable with fine only, the imprisonment in default of payment of the fine shall be simple: this is in accordance with a decision of the Bombay High Court (5 Bom. C. C. 55).

The fourth is to declare, by an addition to section 71, that, when anything is an offence falling within two or more separate definitions, the offender shall not be punished with a more severe punishment than the Court which tries him could award for any one of such offences. This corresponds with the latter part of the second clause of section 454 of the present Code of Criminal Procedure; but it is clearly matter of substantive law, and should therefore be placed in the Penal Code.

The fifth is to replace the obscure Exception which now stands in section 214 by the following:—

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

This will be read with section 345 of the new Code of Criminal Procedure, which declares that certain specified offences, and no others, may be compounded.

The sixth is to render the offence of committing mischief by fire, intending to cause damage to agricultural produce worth ten rupees or upwards, cognizable by the police and punishable with the severer penalty provided by section 435 of the Code. As the law stands, mischief by fire is cognizable only when committed with intent to cause damage to the amount of Rs. 100 or upwards. But agricultural holdings are generally so small that the total produce of a holding is often less than Rs. 100. The result is that a raiyat may have garnered his crop and lose the whole of it through the act of an incendiary, and yet the offence is only punishable with three months' imprisonment and fine, and may not be investigated by the police without the special order of a Magistrate.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to investigations into casualties affecting ships and charges against masters, mates and engineers; Preamble.

and whereas it is also expedient to provide, in other respects hereinafter appearing, for the regulation and control of merchant shipping;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1881;"

Extent. It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement. and it shall come into force at once.

Repeal of enactments. 2. The Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875, and Act No. XIII of 1878 (An Act to provide for the recovery in British India of wages due to, and expenses incurred in respect of, certain seamen and apprentices, and to amend the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875, and the Indian Ports Act, 1875), are hereby repealed.

But all proceedings commenced, officers appointed, powers conferred, investigations held, certificates cancelled or suspended, agreements made and persons authorized under the said Acts or either of them, shall be deemed to have been respectively commenced, appointed, conferred, held, cancelled or suspended, made and authorized under this Act.

Interpretation-clause. 3. In this Act

Definition of ship: "ship" includes every description of vessel used in navigation not propelled by oars; and

"master." "master" means any person (except a pilot or harbour-master) having for the time being control or charge of a ship.

Cf. Act IV of 1875, s. 23: Act XV of 1863, s. 10: Act XXVIII of 1861, s. 3. Saving of powers of certain Admiralty Courts. 4. Nothing in this Act affects the powers conferred by section two hundred and forty of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by section eighty of Act No. I of 1859 (for the amendment of the law relating to Merchant Shipping), on Courts having admiralty jurisdiction in India.

Exercise of such powers by principal criminal Courts. The powers conferred by the last-mentioned enactment may, at any port in British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, be exercised by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction.

CHAPTER II.

INVESTIGATIONS INTO CASUALTIES AFFECTING SHIPS, AND CHARGES AGAINST MASTERS, MATES OR ENGINEERS.

See Act XIII of 1878, s. 4. Chapter not to apply to certain ships. 5. Nothing in this chapter shall be deemed to apply to any ship belonging to, or in the service of, Her Majesty or belonging to any foreign Prince or State.

Report of casualties to be made to Local Government. 6. Whenever any Magistrate, or any officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf, receives credible information that— See Act IV of 1875, s. 3, and section 81 of the Bill which afterwards became Act VII of 1880.

(a) any ship has been lost, abandoned, stranded or damaged on or near the coasts of British India; or

(b) by reason of any casualty happening to or on board of any ship on or near such coasts, loss of life has ensued; or

(c) any ship has caused loss or damage to any other ship on or near such coasts; or

(d) any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has happened elsewhere, and any competent witnesses thereof have arrived or are to be found at any place in British India; or

(e) any ship is supposed to have been lost, and any evidence can be obtained in British India as to the circumstances under which she proceeded to sea or was last heard of;

he shall forthwith report in writing such information to the Local Government.

In the cases mentioned in clauses (a), (b) and (c), the master, pilot, harbour-master or other person in charge of the ship or (where two ships are concerned) in charge of each ship, at the time of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty, and in cases under clause (d), where the ship concerned proceeds direct from the place where such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has occurred to any place in British India, the master of such ship at the time she arrives at such place, shall, on arriving in British India, give immediate notice of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty to the nearest Magistrate, or, when he arrives at a port, to the officer appointed at such port as aforesaid.

Any person bound to give notice under this section and wilfully failing to give the same shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and, in default of payment, to simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months.

Power to appoint special Court of Enquiry. 7. If in any such case a formal investigation into the facts mentioned in section six, clause (a), (b), (c), (d) or (e), appears to the Local Government to be requisite or expedient, the Local Government (whether such notice be given or not) may appoint a special Court, consisting of not less than two nor more than four persons, and direct such Court to make such investigation, and may fix the place for making the same. See Act IV of 1875, s. 4.

One of such persons shall be a Magistrate acting in or near the place where the investigation is made; another shall be some person conversant with maritime affairs. The other or others (if any) shall be conversant with either maritime or mercantile affairs.

Other Courts authorized to investigate casualties. 8. Every Court having admiralty jurisdiction in British India, and the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction at every port of British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, is hereby authorized, when so directed by the Local Government, to make the investigations referred to in section seven. See Act IV of 1875, s. 5.

Power to inquire into charges against masters, mates and engineers. 9. Any Court making an investigation under section seven or section eight may inquire into any charge of incompetency or misconduct arising, in the course of such investigation, against any master, mate or engineer holding a certificate granted, under any enactment for the time being in force, by the Board of Trade or a Local Government, as well as into any charge of a wrongful act or default on his part causing any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty as aforesaid. Act XIII of 1878, s. 3.

In every case in which there is reason to believe that any such charge, whether of incompetency or misconduct, or of a wrongful act or default, as aforesaid, will arise against any such master, mate or engineer in the course of an investigation, the Court shall, if practicable, before the commencement of such investigation, cause to be furnished to him a copy of the report upon which such investigation has been directed.

Cf. s. 6 of Act IV of 1875. Also s. 241 of 17 & 18 Vic., c. 104. Local Government may direct investigation in cases of incompetency or misconduct. 10. If the Local Government has reason to believe that there are grounds for charging any such master, mate or engineer with incompetency or misconduct, otherwise than in the course of an investigation under section seven or section eight, it may transmit a statement of the case to any Court mentioned in section eight, at or nearest to the place at which it may be convenient for the parties and witnesses to attend, and may direct such Court to make an investigation into such charge.

Cf. Act IV of 1875, s. 7. Before commencing such investigation, the Court shall cause the master, mate or engineer so charged to be furnished with a copy of the statement so transmitted by the Local Government.

Act IV of 1875, s. 10. Person accused to be heard. 11. For the purpose of an investigation under this chapter into any charge against a master, mate or engineer, the Court may summon him to appear, and shall give him full opportunity of making a defence either in person or otherwise.

Cf. Act IV of 1875, s. 8. Powers of Courts as to evidence and regulating proceedings. 12. For the purpose of any investigation under this chapter, the Court making the investigation, so far as relates to compelling the attendance and examination of witnesses and the production of documents and the regulation of the proceedings, shall have—

(a) if such Court is a special Court—the same powers as are exerciseable by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction for the place at which the investigation is made;

(b) if such Court is a Court having admiralty jurisdiction or a principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction—the same powers as are exerciseable by such Court in the exercise of such admiralty or criminal jurisdiction (as the case may be).

Assessors. And every Court making any such investigation, other than a special Court, may, if it think fit, constitute as its assessor, for the purposes of the investigation, any person conversant with maritime affairs and willing to act as such assessor.

Such person shall attend during the investigation and deliver his opinion in writing, to be recorded on the proceedings. But the exercise of all powers conferred on the Court by this Act or any other enactment for the time being in force shall rest with the Court.

Act IV of 1875, s. 15. Power to arrest witnesses and cause entry and detention of vessels. 13. If any Court making an investigation under this chapter thinks it necessary for obtaining evidence that any person should be arrested, it may issue a warrant for his arrest, and may, for the purpose of effecting such arrest, authorize any officer (subject, nevertheless, to any general or special instructions from the Local Government) to enter any vessel.

Any officer so authorized may, for the purpose of enforcing such entry, call to his aid any officers of police or customs, or any other persons, and may seize and detain the vessel for such time as is reasonably necessary to effect the arrest; and every such officer or other person shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, section 186.

No person shall be detained by virtue of this section for more than forty-eight hours.

Act IV of 1875, s. 16. Power to commit for trial. 14. Whenever, in the course of any such investigation, it appears that any person has committed an offence punishable under any law in force in British India, the Court making the investigation may (subject to such rules consistent with this Act as the High Court may from time to time prescribe) cause him to be arrested, or commit him or hold him to bail to take his trial before the proper Court; and may bind over any person to give evidence at such trial, and may, for the purposes of this section, exercise all the powers of a Magistrate of the first class or of a Presidency Magistrate:

Power to bind over persons to give evidence.

Depositions. And whenever in the course of such trial the testimony of any witness is required in relation to the subject-matter, any deposition previously made by him in relation to the same subject-matter before any Court making an investigation under this chapter shall, if authenticated by the signature of the Magistrate or presiding Judge, be admissible in evidence on proof—

(a) that the witness cannot be found within the jurisdiction of the Court before which the trial is held; and

(b) that it was made in the presence of the person accused.

A certificate by the Magistrate or presiding Judge that the deposition was made in the presence of the accused shall, unless the contrary be proved, be sufficient evidence that it was so made.

Cf. Act IV of 1875, ss. 11 and 12. Report by Court to Local Government. 15. The Court shall, in the case of all investigations under this chapter, transmit to the Local Government a full report of the conclusions at which it has arrived, together with the evidence.

In cases in which, under the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, the Court is required to send a report to the Board of Trade, such report shall be sent through the Local Government, and the submission of such report to the Local Government shall be a sufficient compliance with this section.

CHAPTER III.

SUSPENSION AND CANCELLATION OF CERTIFICATES AND GRANT OF FRESH CERTIFICATES.

Saving of power to cancel and suspend certificates under English Acts.

16. Nothing herein contained shall affect the powers conferred by the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, on the Courts conducting investigations under sections seven, eight, nine and ten of this Act, to cancel or suspend certificates granted under any of the said Merchant Shipping Acts, or certificates to which the provisions of any such Act have been made applicable under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869.

Power to issue local certificates in lieu of such certificates.

When any such Court cancels or suspends any such certificate, it may, in its report to the Local Government, advise such Government to grant, without examination, to the holder of such certificate, when such certificate is a certificate as master, a certificate as master or mate; and, when such certificate is a certificate as mate or engineer, a certificate as mate or engineer, as the case may be; and such Local Government, if it thinks fit, and if it is empowered by any enactment of a British Indian legislature for the time being in force to grant such certificate, may grant it under such enactment, but without examination. A certificate so granted shall, except for the purposes of the said Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination.

Local Government may suspend or cancel certain certificates—

17. Any certificate (whether of competency or service) which has been granted by any Local Government, to any master, mate or engineer, and to which the provisions of the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, do not apply, may be suspended or cancelled, by that or any other Local Government, in the following cases, that is to say:—

after investigation under this Act:

(a) if, upon any investigation made under this Act, the Court reports that the loss, stranding or abandonment of, or damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default, or that he is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of drunkenness, tyranny or other misconduct;

after investigation under other Acts:

after conviction of any offence:

(c) if he is proved to have been convicted of any offence which, if committed in British India, would be non-bailable, or, if committed in England, would be a felony: and Act IV of 1875, s. 18, cl. (d).

after supersession.

(d) if (in the case of a master) he has been superseded by the order of any Admiralty Court, or of any Naval Court constituted as provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by any other law for the time being in force:

Provided that, in any case in which an investigation has been made into a charge against any master, mate or engineer, no certificate shall be suspended or cancelled under clause (a) unless the Local Government is satisfied that the holder of the certificate has been furnished before the commencement of the investigation with the copy of the report or statement required by section nine or section ten, as the case may be.

Master, &c., to deliver up certificate.

18. Every master, mate or engineer whose certificate is cancelled or suspended under section seventeen shall deliver it to the Shipping Master, or to such other person as the Local Government which cancelled or suspended the certificate directs, and in default of such delivery shall, for each offence, be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees. See Act IV of 1875, s. 19.

Report to other Local Governments.

19. If the Local Government which cancels or suspends, under section seventeen, a certificate of a master, mate or engineer is not the Local Government that granted the same, the Local Government so cancelling or suspending the certificate shall report the proceedings, and the fact of cancelment or suspension, to the Local Government which granted such certificate. See Act IV of 1875, s. 20.

Report to Board of Trade.

20. Every Local Government cancelling or suspending under section seventeen the certificate of a master, mate or engineer shall, as soon as may be practicable, report to the Board of Trade the fact of such cancellation or suspension. See Act IV of 1875, s. 21.

Power to revoke cancellation or suspension.

21. Any Local Government may at any time revoke any order of cancelment or suspension which it may have made under section seventeen, or grant, without examination, to any person, whose certificate it has so cancelled, a new certificate of the same or of any lower grade. See Act IV of 1875, s. 22.

Power to grant new certificate.

A certificate so granted shall, except for the purposes of the said Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination.

A certificate of competency for a Home-trade ship under the said Act No. I of 1859 shall be deemed, for the purposes of this section, to be of a lower grade than a certificate of competency for a foreign-going ship under the same Act.

Every revocation and every grant under this section shall, as soon as may be practicable, be reported to the Board of Trade.

CHAPTER IV.

AGREEMENTS WITH SEAMEN.

Act IV of 1875, s. 28.

Chapter to be read with Act I of 1859.

22. This chapter shall be read with, and taken as part of, the said Act No. I of 1859.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 24.

Masters to enter into agreements with seamen.

23. The master of every ship, except ships of a burden not exceeding three hundred tons employed only in the Home-trade, shall enter into an agreement with every seaman whom he carries to sea from any port in British India as one of his crew, in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 25.

Form and contents of agreement.

24. Every such agreement shall be in a form sanctioned by the Governor General in Council, and shall be dated at the time of the first signature thereof, and shall be signed by the master before any seaman signs the same, and shall contain the following particulars as terms thereof, that is to say:—

(a) either the nature and, as far as practicable, the duration of the intended voyage or engagement, or the maximum period of the voyage or engagement, and the places or parts of the world, if any, to which the voyage or engagement is not to extend;

(b) the number and description of the crew, specifying how many are engaged as sailors;

(c) the time at which each seaman is to be on board or to begin work;

(d) the capacity in which each seaman is to serve;

(e) the amount of wages which each seaman is to receive;

(f) a scale of the provisions which are to be furnished to each seaman; and

(g) any regulations as to conduct on board, and as to fines, short allowance of provisions or other lawful punishments for misconduct, which have been sanctioned by the Governor General in Council as regulations proper to be adopted, and which the parties agree to adopt.

And every such agreement shall be so framed as to admit of stipulations to be adopted at the will of the master and seaman in each case (not being inconsistent with the provisions of any enactment for the time being in force relating to Merchant Shipping), as to advance of wages and supply of warm clothing, and may contain any other stipulations which are not contrary to law.

See sec. 23 of the Bill which became Act VII of 1880.

Scale of provisions to be furnished to lascars.

25. In the case of such agreements with lascars or other Native seamen, the scale of the provisions agreed to be furnished to each of such seamen shall not be less than a scale to be from time to time fixed and published by the Local Government with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

Any master entering into an agreement with any lascar or other Native seaman for a scale of provisions less than the scale so fixed and published shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Act IV of 1875, s. 26.

Stipulation where lascars are shipped.

26. Whenever it is agreed that the service of any lascar or other Native seaman shall end at any port not in British India, the agreement shall, in addition to the particulars specified in section twenty-four, contain a stipulation that fit employment shall be provided for him on board some other ship bound to the port at which he was shipped, or such other port in British India as may be agreed on; or that a passage shall be provided for him to some port in British India free of charge, or on such other terms as may be agreed on;

and every such stipulation shall be signed by the owner of the ship, or by the master on his behalf.

EXPLANATION.—In this section the word "seaman" includes also a Native of British India carried to sea from any port in British India as one of the crew of a ship.

Act IV of 1875, s. 27.

Forms for British or Colonial ships.

27. If the master of any ship belonging to the United Kingdom or any British possession has an agreement with his crew, made in due form according to the law of the place to which such ship belongs, or in which her crew were engaged, and engages a single seaman, not being a lascar or other Native seaman, in any port in British India, such seaman may sign the agreement so made, and it shall not be necessary for him to sign an agreement under this Act.

CHAPTER V.

PORT-INSPECTORS.

See sec. 30 of the Bill which became Act VII of 1880.

Addition to Act XII of 1875.

28. In the Indian Ports Act, 1875, after section eighteen, the following sections shall be inserted, that is to say:—

Appointment and powers of Port-inspectors.

"18A. The Local Government may, from time to time, appoint in any port subject to this Act an officer to be called the Port-inspector, and suspend or remove such officer.

"Every officer so appointed shall, subject to the control of the Local Government, have the following powers within the limits of the port for which he is appointed, that is to say:—

"(b) he may medically examine all or any of the persons on board such vessel;

"(c) he may require and enforce the production of the log and any other books, papers or documents which he thinks necessary for the purpose of enquiring into the health and medical condition of the persons on board such vessel;

"(d) he may call before him and examine for such purpose all or any of such persons, and may require answers to any inquiries he thinks fit to make;

"(e) he may require any persons so examined by him to make and subscribe a declaration of the truth of the statements made by such person.

Port-inspector to inquire into complaints;

"18B. The Port-inspector shall, on first entering any vessel after its arrival, inquire whether any lascar or other Native seaman on board such vessel desires to make any complaint against the master or any of the crew thereof.

"In the event of any such seaman so desiring, the Port-inspector shall hear such complaint and record the particulars thereof in writing, and may, for the purpose of ascertaining the truth of the same, exercise any of the powers mentioned in section 18A.

"The Port-inspector shall forthwith report in writing to the Shipping Master the particulars of any complaint made to him under this section, together with his opinion thereon."

and report the same to Shipping Master.

CHAPTER VI.

MISCELLANEOUS.

See Act XIII of 1878, s. 1.

29. In cases where any wages or expenses recoverable under section 213 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or under section 16 of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1855, are, under the same sections, a charge upon any ship, or recoverable from any master, owner or other person, within the jurisdiction of any Court in British India, the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, authorize, either generally or specially, such persons as he thinks fit to sue for and recover, in manner in the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, section 213, provided, such wages or expenses.

Power to appoint persons to sue.

Every person so authorized shall be entitled to sue and recover accordingly in any such Court, and shall be deemed to be a person filling a public office within the meaning of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 57, clause 7.

Amendment of Act X of 1841, secs. 2, 15, 17 and 23.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

PARAGRAPH 8 of the Report, dated the 20th February, 1880, of the Select Committee on the Bill relating to Merchant Shipping, which afterwards became the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1880, ran as follows :—

"8. We have omitted chapters VII and VIII of the Bill as introduced, as we consider that the matters to which they relate would be more fitly dealt with in a Bill to consolidate Act No. IV of 1875 and the sections of Act No. XIII of 1878 by which it is amended."

2. The nature of the contents of these omitted chapters will be learnt from the following paragraphs of the Statement of Objects and Reasons, dated the 29th August, 1879, appended to that Bill :—

"21. Chapter VII, by an addition to the Ports Act, 1875, provides for the appointment of an officer called a 'Port-inspector.' This officer, in addition to performing the duties at present performed by the Health-officer (for the performance of which duties he is by the Bill invested with certain legal powers), is intrusted with the duty of inquiring into any complaints which may be made on the arrival of a ship in port by any of the crew against the master or any others of the crew. This latter provision has been inserted, in compliance with the desire of the Secretary of State, for the protection of lascars or other Oriental seamen when serving on board a European ship.

"22. Chapter VIII makes two amendments of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875. The one extends the provisions of section 3 of that Act so as to give power to hold Marine Courts of Enquiry in certain cases which are at present unprovided for. This change has been introduced at the request of the local Marine authorities, and is in accordance with the provisions of the English law as recently amended. The other amendment gives the Local Government power to fix a scale of provisions, for less than which it will be penal for a master to contract with any lascar or Native seaman—a provision which has been found to be essential for the protection of such seamen."

3. It is with a view to carry out the suggestion of the Select Committee above quoted that the present Bill has been prepared.

The Bill, however, does more than merely consolidate the provisions of the Acts of 1875 and 1878 and re-enact them with the addition of the points omitted from the Merchant Shipping Bill of 1879.

These Acts of 1875 and 1878 relate in part to the suspension and cancellation of Board of Trade certificates to which the provisions of the Imperial Merchant Shipping Acts apply. An examination of the provisions of our Acts in connection with those of the Imperial Acts shows that our Acts deal with several matters already provided for by Parliament. This is not desirable. Apart from the question which might be raised as to the validity of our law, where that law is not transcribed verbatim, it is inconvenient from a practical point of view that double provisions relating to the same subject-matter should exist side by side. In re-enacting, therefore, the provisions of the Acts repealed by the Bill, an endeavour has been made to restrict the provisions of the Bill to matters for which the Imperial Acts do not provide, and on which it is clear we can legislate. This has necessitated the omission of some and the amendment of other provisions of the present law.

4. The opportunity of this Bill has been taken to amend section 26 of Act IV of 1875, so as to provide that, when the service of any lascar is to end at any port not in British India, the agreement between him and the master shall invariably stipulate for his return to British India, and not merely for his employment on board some vessel bound to such other port as may be agreed on, possibly not in British India. It is clear that, with the extended employment of Native seamen in the Eastern trade, and the increasing number of Asiatic sailors found in a destitute condition at European ports, Government should, on economical grounds, if for no other reason, devise steps to secure the return of Indian seamen to this country at the expense of the persons who take them away.

5. The 31st section of Act IV of 1875, which confers certain powers on Courts for the trial of pilots constituted under Act XII of 1859, has been excluded from the present Bill, as the matter is one which will be more properly provided for by a separate Bill amending that Act.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th March, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 7 OF 1881.

A Bill to give power to arrest persons whose evidence is needed under Act No. XII of 1859.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to empower the Judges holding trials under Act No. XII of 1859 (An Act to make better provision for the trial of Pilots at the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal for breach of duty) to arrest persons whose evidence is required on such trials; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Addition to Act XII of 1859, after section 14.

1. The following section shall be inserted immediately after section 14 of the said Act, namely:—

"15. Whenever the Judge of the said Court thinks it necessary for obtaining evidence that any person should be arrested, he may issue a warrant for his arrest, and may, for the purpose of effecting such arrest, authorize any officer (subject, nevertheless, to any general or special instructions from the Local Government) to enter any vessel.

"Any officer so authorized may, for the purpose of enforcing such entry, call to his aid any officers of police or customs, or any other persons, and may seize and detain the vessel for such time as is reasonably necessary to effect the arrest; and every such officer or other person shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, section 186.

"No person shall be detained under this section for more than forty-eight hours."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE last section of Act IV of 1875, which confers on Courts established for the trial of pilots in Bengal under Act XII of 1859 certain powers for compelling the attendance of witnesses, will be repealed if the Merchant Shipping Bill, which is to be introduced to-day, becomes law. As such a provision is somewhat out of place in a Merchant Shipping Act, it seems better to re-enact it as a section in Act XII of 1859, and the present Bill has accordingly been prepared for this purpose.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th March, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 5 OF 1881.

A Bill to amend the Indian Penal Code.

Preamble. For the purpose of amending the Indian Penal Code; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Amendment of section 40, clause 2, of Indian Penal Code. 1. In the second clause of section 40 of the said Code, before the figure "109," the figures "65, 66, 71" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 64 of same Code. 2. In section 64 of the said Code, for the first twelve words, the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"In every case punishable under any law in force for the time being, with imprisonment as well as fine, in which the offender is sentenced to a fine, whether with or without imprisonment,

and in every case punishable under this Code with fine only, in which the offender is sentenced to a fine,"

Amendment of section 67 of same Code. 3. In section 67, after the words "fine only," the words "the imprisonment which the Court imposes in default of payment of the fine shall be simple, and" shall be inserted.

Addition to section 71 of same Code. 4. To section 71 of the said Code, the following clause shall be added:—

"Where anything is an offence falling within two or more separate definitions of any law in force for the time being by which offences are defined or punished, the offender shall not be punished with a more severe punishment than the Court which tries him could award for any one of such offences."

New Exception to section 214 of same Code. 5. In section 214 of the said Code, for the Exception, the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

Addition to section 435 of same Code. 6. In section 435 of the said Code, after the words "or upwards" the following words shall be inserted, namely:—

"or (where the property is agricultural produce) ten rupees or upwards."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to make six amendments of the Indian Penal Code.

The first is to render the word "offence," as used in sections 65, 66 and 71 (as amended by this Bill), applicable to things punishable under the Code or any special or local law.

The second is to render section 64 (as to sentence of imprisonment on default of payment of fine) applicable to convictions under special and local laws in case of offences punishable both with imprisonment and fine. It corresponds with the first clause of section 309 of Act X of 1872, which will be repealed by the new Code of Criminal Procedure.

The third is to declare that, when an offence is punishable with fine only, the imprisonment in default of payment of the fine shall be simple: this is in accordance with a decision of the Bombay High Court (5 Bom. C. C. 55).

The fourth is to declare, by an addition to section 71, that, when anything is an offence falling within two or more separate definitions, the offender shall not be punished with a more severe punishment than the Court which tries him could award for any one of such offences. This corresponds with the latter part of the second clause of section 454 of the present Code of Criminal Procedure; but it is clearly matter of substantive law, and should therefore be placed in the Penal Code.

The fifth is to replace the obscure Exception which now stands in section 214 by the following:—

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

This will be read with section 345 of the new Code of Criminal Procedure, which declares that certain specified offences, and no others, may be compounded.

The sixth is to render the offence of committing mischief by fire, intending to cause damage to agricultural produce worth ten rupees or upwards, punishable with the severer penalty provided by section 435 of the Code. As the law stands, mischief by fire is cognizable only when committed with intent to cause damage to the amount of Rs. 100 or upwards. But agricultural holdings are generally so small that the total produce of a holding is often less than Rs. 100. The result is that a raiyat may have garnered his crop and lose the whole of it through the act of an incendiary, and yet the offence is only punishable with three months' imprisonment and fine, and may not be investigated by the police without the special order of a Magistrate. An alteration in the paragraph of the second schedule to the new Code of Criminal Procedure, which relates to section 435 of the Penal Code, will render the offence in question cognizable by the police.

and whereas it is also expedient to provide, in other respects hereinafter appearing, for the regulation and control of merchant shipping;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1881;"

Extent. It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement. and it shall come into force at once.

Repeal of enactments. 2. The Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875, and Act No. XIII of 1878 (An Act to provide for the recovery in British India of wages due to, and expenses incurred in respect of, certain seamen and apprentices, and to amend the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875, and the Indian Ports Act, 1875), are hereby repealed.

But all proceedings commenced, officers appointed, powers conferred, investigations held, certificates cancelled or suspended, agreements made and persons authorized under the said Acts or either of them, shall be deemed to have been respectively commenced, appointed, conferred, held, cancelled or suspended, made and authorized under this Act.

Interpretation-clause. 3. In this Act

Definition of ship: "ship" includes every description of vessel used in navigation not propelled by oars; and

"master." "master" means any person (except a pilot or harbour-master) having for the time being control or charge of a ship.

Cf. Act IV of 1875, s. 23: Act XV of 1858, s. 10: Act XXVIII of 1861, s. 3. Saving of powers of certain Admiralty Courts. 4. Nothing in this Act affects the powers conferred by section two hundred and forty of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by section eighty of Act No. I of 1859 (for the amendment of the law relating to Merchant Shipping), on Courts having admiralty jurisdiction in India.

Exercise of such powers by principal criminal Courts. The powers conferred by the last-mentioned enactment may, at any port in British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, be exercised by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction.

CHAPTER II.

INVESTIGATIONS INTO CASUALTIES AFFECTING SHIPS, AND CHARGES AGAINST MASTERS, MATES OR ENGINEERS.

See Act XIII of 1878, s. 4. Chapter not to apply to certain ships. 5. Nothing in this chapter shall be deemed to apply to any ship belonging to, or in the service of, Her Majesty or belonging to any foreign Prince or State.

Report of casualties to be made to Local Government. 6. Whenever any Magistrate, or any officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf, receives credible information that— See Act IV of 1875, s. 3, and section 81 of the Bill which afterwards became Act VII of 1880.

(a) any ship has been lost, abandoned, stranded or damaged on or near the coasts of British India; or

(b) by reason of any casualty happening to or on board of any ship on or near such coasts, loss of life has ensued; or

(c) any ship has caused loss or damage to any other ship on or near such coasts; or

(d) any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has happened elsewhere, and any competent witnesses thereof have arrived or are to be found at any place in British India; or

(e) any ship is supposed to have been lost, and any evidence can be obtained in British India as to the circumstances under which she proceeded to sea or was last heard of;

he shall forthwith report in writing such information to the Local Government.

In the cases mentioned in clauses (a), (b) and (c), the master, pilot, harbour-master or other person in charge of the ship or (where two ships are concerned) in charge of each ship, at the time of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty, and in cases under clause (d), where the ship concerned proceeds direct from the place where such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has occurred to any place in British India, the master of such ship at the time she arrives at such place, shall, on arriving in British India, give immediate notice of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty to the nearest Magistrate, or, when he arrives at a port, to the officer appointed at such port as aforesaid.

Any person bound to give notice under this section and wilfully failing to give the same shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and, in default of payment, to simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months.

Power to appoint special Court of Enquiry. 7. If in any such case a formal investigation into the facts mentioned in section six, clause (a), (b), (c), (d) or (e), appears to the Local Government to be requisite or expedient, the Local Government (whether such notice be given or not) may appoint a special Court, consisting of not less than two nor more than four persons, and direct such Court to make such investigation, and may fix the place for making the same. See Act IV of 1875, s. 4

One of such persons shall be a Magistrate acting in or near the place where the investigation is made; another shall be some person conversant with maritime affairs. The other or others (if any) shall be conversant with either maritime or mercantile affairs.

Other Courts authorized to investigate casualties. 8. Every Court having admiralty jurisdiction in British India, and the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction at every port of British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, is hereby authorized, when so directed by the Local Government, to make the investigations referred to in section seven. See Act IV of 1875, s. 5

Power to inquire into charges against masters, mates and engineers. 9. Any Court making an investigation under section seven or section eight may inquire into any charge of incompetency or misconduct arising, in the course of such investigation, against any master, mate or engineer holding a certificate granted, under any enactment for the time being in force, by the Board of Trade or a Local Government, as well as into any charge of a wrongful act or default on his part causing any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty as aforesaid. Act XIII of 1878, s. 3.

In every case in which there is reason to believe that any such charge, whether of incompetency or misconduct, or of a wrongful act or default, as aforesaid, will arise against any such master, mate or engineer in the course of an investigation, the Court shall, if practicable, before the commencement of such investigation, cause to be furnished to him a copy of the report upon which such investigation has been directed.

Cf. s. 6 of Act IV of 1875. Also s. 241 of 17 & 18 Vic., c. 104. Local Government may direct investigation in cases of incompetency or misconduct. 10. If the Local Government has reason to believe that there are grounds for charging any such master, mate or engineer with incompetency or misconduct, otherwise than in the course of an investigation under section seven or section eight, it may transmit a statement of the case to any Court mentioned in section eight, at or nearest to the place at which it may be convenient for the parties and witnesses to attend, and may direct such Court to make an investigation into such charge.

Cf. Act IV of 1875, s. 7. Before commencing such investigation, the Court shall cause the master, mate or engineer so charged to be furnished with a copy of the statement so transmitted by the Local Government.

Act IV of 1875, s. 10. Person accused to be heard. 11. For the purpose of an investigation under this chapter into any charge against a master, mate or engineer, the Court may summon him to appear, and shall give him full opportunity of making a defence either in person or otherwise.

Cf. Act IV of 1875, s. 8. Powers of Courts as to evidence and regulating proceedings. 12. For the purpose of any investigation under this chapter, the Court making the investigation, so far as relates to compelling the attendance and examination of witnesses and the production of documents and the regulation of the proceedings, shall have—

(a) if such Court is a special Court—the same powers as are exerciseable by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction for the place at which the investigation is made;

(b) if such Court is a Court having admiralty jurisdiction or a principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction—the same powers as are exerciseable by such Court in the exercise of such admiralty or criminal jurisdiction (as the case may be).

Assessors. And every Court making any such investigation, other than a special Court, may, if it think fit, constitute as its assessor, for the purposes of the investigation, any person conversant with maritime affairs and willing to act as such assessor.

Such person shall attend during the investigation and deliver his opinion in writing, to be recorded on the proceedings. But the exercise of all powers conferred on the Court by this Act or any other enactment for the time being in force shall rest with the Court.

Power to arrest witnesses and cause entry and detention of vessels. 13. If any Court making an investigation under this chapter thinks it necessary for obtaining evidence that any person should be arrested, it may issue a warrant for his arrest, and may, for the purpose of effecting such arrest, authorize any officer (subject, nevertheless, to any general or special instructions from the Local Government) to enter any vessel. Act IV of 1875, s. 15.

Any officer so authorized may, for the purpose of enforcing such entry, call to his aid any officers of police or customs, or any other persons, and may seize and detain the vessel for such time as is reasonably necessary to effect the arrest; and every such officer or other person shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, section 186.

No person shall be detained by virtue of this section for more than forty-eight hours.

Power to commit for trial. 14. Whenever, in the course of any such investigation, it appears that any person has committed an offence punishable under any law in force in British India, the Court making the investigation may (subject to such rules consistent with this Act as the High Court may from time to time prescribe) cause him to be arrested; or commit him or hold him to bail to take his trial before the proper Court; and may bind over any person to give evidence at such trial, and may, for the purposes of this section, exercise all the powers of a Magistrate of the first class or of a Presidency Magistrate: Act IV of 1875, s. 16.

Power to bind over persons to give evidence.

Depositions. And whenever in the course of such trial the testimony of any witness is required in relation to the subject-matter, any deposition previously made by him in relation to the same subject-matter before any Court making an investigation under this chapter shall, if authenticated by the signature of the Magistrate or presiding Judge, be admissible in evidence on proof—

(a) that the witness cannot be found within the jurisdiction of the Court before which the trial is held; and

A certificate by the Magistrate or presiding Judge that the deposition was made in the presence of the accused shall, unless the contrary be proved, be sufficient evidence that it was so made.

Report by Court to Local Government. 15. The Court shall, in the case of all investigations under this chapter, transmit to the Local Government a full report of the conclusions at which it has arrived, together with the evidence. Cf. Act IV of 1875, ss. 11 and 12.

In cases in which, under the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, the Court is required to send a report to the Board of Trade, such report shall be sent through the Local Government, and the submission of such report to the Local Government shall be a sufficient compliance with this section.

CHAPTER III.

SUSPENSION AND CANCELLATION OF CERTIFICATES AND GRANT OF FRESH CERTIFICATES.

16. Nothing herein contained shall affect the powers conferred by the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, on the Courts conducting investigations under sections seven, eight, nine and ten of this Act, to cancel or suspend certificates granted under any of the said Merchant Shipping Acts, or certificates to which the provisions of any such Act have been made applicable under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869.

Saving of power to cancel and suspend certificates under English Acts.

When any such Court cancels or suspends any such certificate, it may, in its report to the Local Government, advise such Government to grant, without examination, to the holder of such certificate, when such certificate is a certificate as master, a certificate as master or mate; and, when such certificate is a certificate as mate or engineer, a certificate as mate or engineer, as the case may be; and such Local Government, if it thinks fit, and if it is empowered by any enactment of a British Indian legislature for the time being in force to grant such certificate, may grant it under such enactment, but without examination. A certificate so granted shall, except for the purposes of the said Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 18.

17. Any certificate (whether of competency or service) which has been granted by any Local Government, to any master, mate or engineer, and to which the provisions of the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, do not apply, may be suspended or cancelled, by that or any other Local Government, in the following cases, that is to say:—

Local Government may suspend or cancel certain certificates—

(a) if, upon any investigation made under this Act, the Court reports that the loss, stranding or abandonment of, or damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default, or that he is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of drunkenness, tyranny or other misconduct;

after investigation under this Act:

after investigation under other Acts:

(c) if he is proved to have been convicted of any offence which, if committed in British India, would be non-bailable, or, if committed in England, would be a felony: and after conviction of any offence:

(d) if (in the case of a master) he has been superseded by the order of any Admiralty Court, or of any Naval Court constituted as provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by any other law for the time being in force:

after supersession.

Provided that, in any case in which an investigation has been made into a charge against any master, mate or engineer, no certificate shall be suspended or cancelled under clause (a) unless the Local Government is satisfied that the holder of the certificate has been furnished before the commencement of the investigation with the copy of the report or statement required by section nine or section ten, as the case may be.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 19.

18. Every master, mate or engineer whose certificate is cancelled or suspended under section seventeen shall deliver it to the Shipping Master, or to such other person as the Local Government which cancelled or suspended the certificate directs, and in default of such delivery shall, for each offence, be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Master, &c., to deliver up certificate.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 20.

19. If the Local Government which cancels or suspends, under section seventeen, a certificate of a master, mate or engineer is not the Local Government that granted the same, the Local Government so cancelling or suspending the certificate shall report the proceedings, and the fact of cancelment or suspension, to the Local Government which granted such certificate.

Report to other Local Governments.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 21.

20. Every Local Government cancelling or suspending under section seventeen the certificate of a master, mate or engineer shall, as soon as may be practicable, report to the Board of Trade the fact of such cancellation or suspension.

Report to Board of Trade.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 22.

21. Any Local Government may at any time revoke any order of cancelment or suspension which it may have made under section seventeen, or grant, without examination, to any person, whose certificate it has so cancelled, a new certificate of the same or of any lower grade.

Power to revoke cancellation or suspension.

Power to grant new certificate.

A certificate so granted shall, except for the purposes of the said Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination.

A certificate of competency for a Home-trade ship under the said Act No. I of 1859 shall be deemed, for the purposes of this section, to be of a lower grade than a certificate of competency for a foreign-going ship under the same Act.

Every revocation and every grant under this section shall, as soon as may be practicable, be reported to the Board of Trade.

CHAPTER IV.

AGREEMENTS WITH SEAMEN.

Act IV of 1875, s. 28.

22. This chapter shall be read with, and taken as part of, the said Act No. I of 1859.

Chapter to be read with Act I of 1859.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 24.

23. The master of every ship, except ships of a burden not exceeding three hundred tons employed only in the Home-trade, shall enter into an agreement with every seaman whom he carries to sea from any port in British India as one of his crew, in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

Masters to enter into agreements with seamen.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 25.

24. Every such agreeemnt shall be in a form sanctioned by the Governor General in Council, and shall be dated at the time of the first signature thereof, and shall be signed by the master before any seaman signs the same, and shall contain the following particulars as terms thereof, that is to say:—

Form and contents of agreement.

Amendment of Act X of 1841, secs. 2, 15, 17 and 23.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

PARAGRAPH 8 of the Report, dated the 20th February, 1880, of the Select Committee on the Bill relating to Merchant Shipping, which afterwards became the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1880, ran as follows :—

"8. We have omitted chapters VII and VIII of the Bill as introduced, as we consider that the matters to which they relate would be more fitly dealt with in a Bill to consolidate Act No. IV of 1875 and the sections of Act No. XIII of 1878 by which it is amended."

2. The nature of the contents of these omitted chapters will be learnt from the following paragraphs of the Statement of Objects and Reasons, dated the 29th August, 1879, appended to that Bill :—

"21. Chapter VII, by an addition to the Ports Act, 1875, provides for the appointment of an officer called a 'Port-inspector.' This officer, in addition to performing the duties at present performed by the Health-officer (for the performance of which duties he is by the Bill invested with certain legal powers), is intrusted with the duty of inquiring into any complaints which may be made on the arrival of a ship in port by any of the crew against the master or any others of the crew. This latter provision has been inserted, in compliance with the desire of the Secretary of State, for the protection of lascars or other Oriental seamen when serving on board a European ship.

"22. Chapter VIII makes two amendments of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875. The one extends the provisions of section 8 of that Act so as to give power to hold Marine Courts of Enquiry in certain cases which are at present unprovided for. This change has been introduced at the request of the local Marine authorities, and is in accordance with the provisions of the English law as recently amended. The other amendment gives the Local Government power to fix a scale of provisions, for less than which it will be penal for a master to contract with any lascar or Native seaman—a provision which has been found to be essential for the protection of such seamen."

3. It is with a view to carry out the suggestion of the Select Committee above quoted that the present Bill has been prepared.

The Bill, however, does more than merely consolidate the provisions of the Acts of 1875 and 1878 and re-enact them with the addition of the points omitted from the Merchant Shipping Bill of 1879.

These Acts of 1875 and 1878 relate in part to the suspension and cancellation of Board of Trade certificates to which the provisions of the Imperial Merchant Shipping Acts apply. An examination of the provisions of our Acts in connection with those of the Imperial Acts shows that our Acts deal with several matters already provided for by Parliament. This is not desirable. Apart from the question which might be raised as to the validity of our law, where that law is not transcribed verbatim, it is inconvenient from a practical point of view that double provisions relating to the same subject-matter should exist side by side. In re-enacting, therefore, the provisions of the Acts repealed by the Bill, an endeavour has been made to restrict the provisions of the Bill to matters for which the Imperial Acts do not provide, and on which it is clear we can legislate. This has necessitated the omission of some and the amendment of other provisions of the present law.

4. The opportunity of this Bill has been taken to amend section 26 of Act IV of 1875, so as to provide that, when the service of any lascar is to end at any port not in British India, the agreement between him and the master shall invariably stipulate for his return to British India, and not merely for his employment on board some vessel bound to such other port as may be agreed on, possibly not in British India. It is clear that, with the extended employment of Native seamen in the Eastern trade, and the increasing number of Asiatic sailors found in a destitute condition at European ports, Government should, on economical grounds, if for no other reason, devise steps to secure the return of Indian seamen to this country at the expense of the persons who take them away.

5. The 31st section of Act IV of 1875, which confers certain powers on Courts for the trial of pilots constituted under Act XII of 1859, has been excluded from the present Bill, as the matter is one which will be more properly provided for by a separate Bill amending that Act.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th March, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 7 OF 1881.

A Bill to give power to arrest persons whose evidence is needed under Act No. XII of 1859.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to empower the Judges holding trials under Act No. XII of 1859 (An Act to make better provision for the trial of Pilots at the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal for breach of duty) to arrest persons whose evidence is required on such trials; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Addition to Act XII of 1859, after section 14.

1. The following section shall be inserted immediately after section 14 of the said Act, namely :—

"15. Whenever the Judge of the said Court thinks it necessary for obtaining evidence that any person should be arrested, he may issue a warrant for his arrest, and may, for the purpose of effecting such arrest, authorize any officer (subject, nevertheless, to any general or special instructions from the Local Government) to enter any vessel.

"Any officer so authorized may, for the purpose of enforcing such entry, call to his aid any officers of police or customs, or any other persons, and may seize and detain the vessel for such time as is reasonably necessary to effect the arrest; and every such officer or other person shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, section 186.

"No person shall be detained under this section for more than forty-eight hours."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE last section of Act IV of 1875, which confers on Courts established for the trial of pilots in Bengal under Act XII of 1859 certain powers for compelling the attendance of witnesses, will be repealed if the Merchant Shipping Bill, which is to be introduced to-day, becomes law. As such a provision is somewhat out of place in a Merchant Shipping Act, it seems better to re-enact it as a section in Act XII of 1859, and the present Bill has accordingly been prepared for this purpose.

Such Magistrate or Police-officer shall endorse his name thereon, and such endorsement shall be sufficient authority to the Police-officer to whom the warrant is directed to execute the same within such limits, and the local Police shall if so required assist such officer in executing such warrant.

Whenever there is reason to believe that the delay occasioned by obtaining the endorsement of the Magistrate or Police-officer within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the warrant is to be executed will prevent such execution, the Police-officer to whom it is directed may execute the same without such endorsement in any place beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court which issued it.

86. When a warrant of arrest is executed outside the district in which it was issued, the person arrested shall, unless the Court which issued the warrant is within twenty miles, or is nearer than the Magistrate or Commissioner of Police within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the arrest was made, or unless security is taken under section 76, be taken before such Magistrate or Commissioner.

C.—Proclamation and Attachment.

Proclamation for person absconding.

88. If a Court has reason to believe (whether after taking evidence or not) that any person against whom a warrant has been issued by it has absconded or is concealing himself so that such warrant cannot be executed, such Court may publish a written proclamation requiring him to appear at a specified place and at a specified time not less than thirty days from the date of publishing such proclamation.

The proclamation shall be published as follows:—

(a) it shall be publicly read in some conspicuous place of the town or village in which such person ordinarily resides;

(e) by seizure; or

(f) by the appointment of a receiver; or

(g) by an order in writing prohibiting the payment of rent or delivery of property to the proclaimed person or to any one on his behalf; or

The powers, duties and liabilities of a receiver appointed under this section shall be the same as those of a receiver appointed under Chapter XXXVI of the Code of Civil Procedure.

If the person so believed to have absconded or to be concealing himself does not appear within the time specified in the proclamation, the property under attachment shall be at the disposal of Government; but it shall not be sold until the expiration of six months from the date of the attachment, unless it is of a perishable nature, or the Court considers that the sale would be for the benefit of the owner, in either of which cases the Court may cause it to be sold whenever it thinks fit.

Restoration of attached property.

90. If, within two years from the date of the attachment, any person whose property is or has been at the disposal of Government under the last paragraph of section 89 appears voluntarily or is apprehended and brought before the Magistrate having jurisdiction, and proves to the satisfaction of the Court by whose order the property was attached that he did not abscond or conceal himself for the purpose of avoiding execution of the warrant, and that he had not such notice of the proclamation as to enable him to attend within the time specified therein, such property, or, if the same has been sold, the nett proceeds of the sale, or if part only thereof has been sold, the nett proceeds of the sale and the residue of the property, shall, after satisfying thereout all costs incurred in consequence of the attachment, be delivered to him.

D.—Other rules regarding processes.

Issue of warrant in lieu of or in addition to summons.

91. A Court may, in any case in which it is empowered by this Code to issue a summons for the appearance of any person other than a juror or assessor, issue, after recording its reasons in writing, a warrant for his arrest—

(a) if either before the issue of such summons, or after the issue of the same but before the time fixed for his appearance, the Court sees reason to believe that he has absconded or will not obey the summons; or

(b) if at such time he fails to appear and the summons is proved to have been duly served in time to admit of his appearing in accordance therewith and no reasonable excuse is offered for such failure.

Power to take bond for appearance.

92. When any person for whose appearance or arrest the officer presiding in any Court is empowered to issue a summons or warrant is present in such Court, such officer may require such person to execute a bond with or without sureties for his appearance in such Court.

An officer in charge of a Police-station may require an officer in charge of another Police-station, whether in the same or a different District, to cause a search to be made in any place, in any case in which the former officer might cause such search to be made within the limits of his own station.

When officer in charge of Police-station may require another to issue search-warrant.

Such officer, on being so required, shall proceed according to the provisions of section 166, and shall forward the thing found, if any, to the officer at whose request the search was made, unless the place at which such thing is found is in a different District, and is nearer to the Magistrate having jurisdiction in such place than to the station of which the latter officer is in charge. In such case the thing shall be taken before such Magistrate, who, unless there be good cause to the contrary, shall order such thing to be forwarded to such officer.

Act X, 1872, 124, para 2, 3 and

168. When*ever it appears that* any investigation under this chapter cannot be completed within the period of twenty-four hours fixed by section 61, and there are grounds for believing that the accusation is well-founded, the officer in charge of the Police-station shall transmit to the nearest Magistrate a copy of the entries in the diary hereinafter prescribed relating to the case, and shall at the same time forward the accused to such Magistrate, unless, for reasons to be recorded by such officer, he thinks that the accused should not be so forwarded.

A Magistrate authorizing under this section detention in the custody of the police shall record his reasons for so doing.

If such order be given by a Magistrate other than the District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate, he shall forward a copy of his order, with his reasons for making it, to the Magistrate to whom he is subordinate.

Act X, 1872, s. 125.

170. If, upon an investigation under this chapter, it appears to the officer in charge of the Police-station that there is not sufficient evidence or reasonable ground of suspicion to justify the forwarding of the accused to a Magistrate, such officer shall, if such person is in custody, release him on his executing a bond, with or without sureties, as such officer may direct, to appear, if and when so required, before a Magistrate having jurisdiction to take cognizance of the offence on a polic ereport.

When the officer in charge of a Police-station forwards an accused person to a Magistrate or takes security for his appearance before such Magistrate under this section, he shall send to such Magistrate any weapon or other article which it may be necessary to produce before him, and shall require the complainant, if any, and so many of the persons who appear to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case as may be necessary, to execute a bond to appear before the Magistrate and prosecute or give evidence (as the case may be) in the matter of the charge against the accused.

If the Court of the District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate be mentioned in the bond, it shall be held to include any Court to which such Magistrate may refer the case for inquiry or trial, provided notice of such reference be given to such complainant or witness.

The day fixed under this section shall be the day whereon the accused person is to appear, if security for his appearance has been taken, or the day on which he may be expected to arrive at the Court of the Magistrate, if he is to be forwarded in custody.

The officer in whose presence the bond is executed shall deliver a copy thereof to one of the persons who executed it, and shall then send to the Magistrate the original with his report.

Diary of proceedings in investigation.

Act X, 872, ss. 125, 127, paras. 1 & 2.

This power may be exercised so as to save Military Courts of Inquest.

The report shall be signed by such Police-officer and other persons, or by so many of them as concur therein, and shall be forthwith forwarded to the District Magistrate or the Sub-divisional Magistrate.

When there is any doubt regarding the cause of death, or when for any other reason the Police-officer considers it expedient so to do, he shall, subject to such rules as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf, forward the body, with a view to its being examined, to the nearest Civil Surgeon, or other medical officer appointed in this behalf by the Local Government, if the state of the weather and the distance admit of its being so forwarded without risk of such putrefaction on the road as would render such examination useless.

In the territories respectively administered by the Governors of Fort St. George and Bombay in Council, investigations under this section may be made by the Head of the village, who shall then report the result to the nearest Magistrate authorized to hold inquests.

The following Magistrates are empowered to hold inquests, namely, any District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate, and any Magistrate specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government or the District Magistrate.

Further list.

213. The Magistrate may in his discretion summon and examine any witness named in any list given in to him under section 212. (Act X, 1872, s. 200, para. 2. Act IV, 1877, s. 91.) Power of Magistrate to examine such witnesses.

Provided also that if the Magistrate thinks that any witness is included in the list for the purpose of vexation or delay, or of defeating the ends of justice, the Magistrate may require the accused to satisfy him that there are reasonable grounds for believing that such witness is material, and if he is not so satisfied, may refuse to summon the witness, or before summoning him require such sum to be deposited as such Magistrate thinks necessary to defray the expense of obtaining the attendance of the witness. (Act X, 1872, s. 359. I. L. R. 3 Cal. 582.) Refusal to summon unnecessary witness unless deposit made.

See s. 565, infra.

Form of Charges.

Act X, 1872, s. 439, paras. 1 to 6.

Act IV, 1877, s. 94.

222. Every charge under this Code shall state the offence with which the accused is charged.

Charge to state offence.

If the law which creates the offence gives it any specific name, the offence may be described in the charge by that name only.

Specific name of offence sufficient description.

If the law which creates the offence does not give it any specific name, so much of the definition of the offence must be stated as to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

How stated where offence has no specific name.

The law and section of the law against which the offence is said to have been committed shall be mentioned in the charge.

The fact that the charge is made is equivalent to a statement that every legal condition required by law to constitute the offence charged was fulfilled in the particular case.

What implied in charges.

In the Presidency-towns the charge shall be written in English; elsewhere it shall be written either in English or in the language of the Court.

Language of charge.

If the accused has been previously convicted of any offence, and it is intended to prove such previous conviction for the purpose of affecting the punishment which the Court is competent to award, the fact of the previous conviction must be stated in the charge. If such statement is omitted, the Court may add it at any time before sentence is passed.

Previous conviction when to be set out.

Act X, 1872, s. 439, last para.

Act IV, 1877, s. 94, last para.

Illustrations.

Act X, 1872, s. 439, Illustrations.

This is equivalent to a statement that A's act fell within the definition of murder given in sections 299 and 300 of the Indian Penal Code; that it did not fall within any of the general exceptions of the same Code; and that it did not fall within any of the five exceptions to section 300; or that, if it did fall within Exception 1, one or other of the three provisos to that exception applied to it.

Act IV, 1877, s. 94, Illustrations.

(b) A is charged, under section 326 of the Indian Penal Code, with voluntarily causing grievous hurt to B, by means of an instrument for shooting. This is equivalent to a statement that the case was not provided for by section 335 of the Indian Penal Code, and that the general exceptions did not apply to it.

(c) A is accused of murder, cheating, theft, extortion, adultery or criminal intimidation, or using a false property-mark. The charge may state that A committed murder, or cheating, or theft, or extortion, or adultery, or criminal intimidation, or that he used a false property-mark, without reference to the definitions of those crimes contained in the Indian Penal Code; but the sections under which the offence is punishable must, in each instance, be referred to in the charge.

(d) A is charged, under section 184 of the Indian Penal Code, with intentionally obstructing a sale of property offered for sale by the lawful authority of a public servant. The charge should be in those words.

Act X, 1872, s. 440.

Act IV, 1877, s. 95.

223. The charge shall contain such particulars as to the time and place of the alleged offence, and the person (if any) against whom, or the thing (if any) in respect of which, it was committed, as are reasonably sufficient to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

Particulars as to time, place and person.

Act X, 1872, s. 441.

Act IV, 1877, s. 96.

224. When the nature of the case is such that the particulars mentioned in sections 222 and 223 do not give the accused sufficient notice of the matter with which he is charged, the charge shall also contain such particulars of the manner in which the alleged offence was committed as will be sufficient for that purpose.

When manner of committing offence must be stated.

Illustrations.

(a) A is accused of the theft of a certain article at a certain time and place. The charge need not set out the manner in which the theft was effected.

(b) A is accused of cheating B at a given time and place. The charge must set out the manner in which A cheated B.

(c) A is accused of giving false evidence at a given time and place. The charge must set out that portion of the evidence given by A which is alleged to be false.

(d) A is accused of obstructing B, a public servant, in discharge of his public functions at a given time and place. The charge must set out the manner in which A obstructed B in the discharge of his functions.

(e) A is accused of the murder of B at a given time and place. The charge need not state the manner in which A murdered B.

(f) A is accused of disobeying a direction of the law with intent to save B from punishment. The charge must set out the disobedience charged and the law infringed.

Act XVIII, 1862, s.82.

225. In every charge words used in describing an offence shall be deemed to have been used in the sense attached to them respectively by the law under which such offence is punishable.

Words in charge taken in sense of law under which offence is punishable.

Act X, 1872, s. 443.

Act IV, 1877, s. 98.

226. No error in stating either the offence or the particulars required to be stated in the charge, and no omission to state the offence or those particulars, shall be regarded at any stage of the case as material, unless the accused was misled by such error or omission.

Effect of errors.

Illustrations.

(a) A is charged, under section 242 of the Indian Penal Code, with "having been in possession of counterfeit coin, having known at the time when he became possessed thereof that such coin was counterfeit," the word "fraudulently" being omitted in the charge. Unless it appears that A was in fact misled by this omission, the error shall not be regarded as material.

(b) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge, or is set out incorrectly. A defends himself, calls witnesses, and gives his own account of the transaction. The Court may infer from this that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating is not material.

(c) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge. There were many transactions between A and B, and A had no means of knowing to which of them the charge referred, and offered no defence. The Court may infer from such facts that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating was, in this case, a material error.

(d) A is charged with the murder of Khoda Baksh on the 21st January. In fact, the murdered person's name was Haidar Baksh, and the date of the murder was the 20th January. A was never charged with any murder but one, and had heard the inquiry before the Magistrate, which referred exclusively to the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from these facts that A was not misled, and that the error in the charge was immaterial.

(e) A was charged with murdering Haidar Baksh on the 20th January and Khoda Baksh (who tried to arrest him for that murder) on the 21st January. When charged for the murder of Haidar Baksh, he was tried for the murder of Khoda Baksh. The witnesses present in his defence were witnesses in the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from this that A was misled, and that the error was material.

Act X, 1875, ss. 7, 8.

227. When any person is committed for trial without a charge, or with an imperfect or erroneous charge, the Court, or, in the case of a High Court, the Clerk of the Crown, may frame a charge, or add to or otherwise alter the charge, as the case may be, having regard to the rules contained in this Code as to the form of charges.

Procedure on commitment without charge or with imperfect charge.

Act X, 1875, ss. 9, 10.

Act IV, 1877, ss. 99, 100.

228. Any Court may alter any charge at any time before judgment is pronounced, or, in the case of trials before the Court of Session or High Court, before the verdict of the jury is returned or the opinions of the assessors are expressed.

Court may alter charge.

Every such alteration shall be read and explained to the accused.

Act X, 1872, s. 447.

Act X, 1875, s. 11.

Act IV, 1877, s. 101.

229. If the charge framed or alteration made under either of the two last preceding sections is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is not likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused in his defence or the prosecutor in the conduct of the case, the Court may in its discretion, after such charge or alteration has been framed or made, proceed with the trial as if the new or altered charge had been the original charge.

When trial may proceed immediately after alteration.

Act X, 1872, s. 448.

Act X, 1875, s. 12.

Act IV, 1877, s. 102.

230. If the new or altered charge is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused or the prosecutor as aforesaid, the Court may either direct a new trial or adjourn the trial for such period as may be necessary.

When new trial may be directed, or trial suspended.

Act X, 1872, s. 450.

Act X, 1875, s. 16.

Act IV, 1877, s. 104.

231. If the offence stated in the new or altered charge is one for the prosecution of which previous sanction is necessary, the case shall not be proceeded with until such sanction is obtained, unless sanction has been already obtained for a prosecution on the same facts as those on which the altered charge is founded.

Stay of proceedings if prosecution of offence in altered charge require previous sanction.

Act X, 1872, s. 449.

Act X, 1875, s. 15, omitting 'during the trial.'

Act IV, 1877, s. 103.

232. Whenever a charge is altered by the Court after the commencement of the trial, the prosecutor and the accused shall be allowed to recall or re-summon, and examine with reference to such alteration, any witness who may have been examined.

Recall of witnesses when charge altered.

Act X, 1872, s. 451.

233. If any Appellate Court, or the High Court in the exercise of its powers of revision or of its powers under Chapter XXVII, is of opinion that any person convicted of an offence was misled in his defence by the absence of a charge or by an error in the charge, it shall direct a new trial to be had upon a charge framed in whatever manner it thinks fit.

Effect of material error.

If the Court is of opinion that the facts of the case are such that no valid charge could be preferred against the accused in respect of the facts proved, it shall quash the conviction.

Illustration.

Act XI, 1874, s. 40. A is convicted of an offence under section 196 of the Indian Penal Code, upon a charge which omits to state that he knew the evidence which he corruptly used or attempted to use as true or genuine was false or fabricated. If the Court thinks it probable that A had such knowledge, and that he was misled in his defence by the omission from the charge of the statement that he had it, it shall direct a new trial upon an amended charge; but if it appears probable from the proceedings that A had no such knowledge, it shall quash the conviction.

Joinder of Charges.

Act X, 1872, s. 452. Act X, 1875, s. 17. Act IV, 1877, s. 105. 234. There must be a separate charge for every distinct offence of which any person is accused, and every such charge must be tried separately, except in the cases mentioned in sections 235, 236, 237 and 240.

Separate charges for distinct offences.

Illustration.

A is accused of a theft on one occasion, and of causing grievous hurt on another occasion. A must be separately charged and separately tried for the theft and the causing grievous hurt.

More offences than one of same kind may be charged within a year of each other.

Act IV, 1877, s. 107. 236. I.—If, in one series of acts so connected together as to form the same transaction, more offences than one are committed by the same person, he may be charged with, and tried at one trial for, every such offence.

I.—Trial of more than one offence.

II.—If the acts alleged constitute an offence falling within two or more separate definitions of any law in force for the time being by which offences are defined or punished, the person accused of them may be charged with and tried at one trial for each of such offences.

II.—One offence falling within two definitions.

III.—If several acts, of which one or more than one would by itself constitute an offence, form, when combined, a different offence, the person accused of them may be charged with and tried at one trial for every such offence, or any of such different offences.

III.—Acts severally constituting more than one offence, but collectively coming within one definition.

Nothing contained in this section shall affect the Indian Penal Code, section 71.

(f) A, with intent to cause injury to B, falsely accuses him of having committed an offence, knowing that there is no just or lawful ground for such charge. Act IV, 1877, s. 109. 238. If, in the case mentioned in section 237, the accused is charged with one offence, and it appears in evidence that he committed a different offence for which he might have been charged under the provisions of that section, he may be convicted of the offence which he is shown to have committed, although he was not charged with it.

When a person is charged with one offence, he can be convicted of another.

Such withdrawal shall have the effect of an acquittal on such charge or charges.

CHAPTER XX.

Act X, 1872, s. 208, para. 1. Act IV, 1877, s. 114. 242. The following procedure shall be observed by Magistrates in the trial of summons-cases.

Act IV, 1877, s. 120. 244. If the accused admits that he has committed the offence with which he is charged, his admission shall be recorded as nearly as possible in the words used by him; and if he shows no sufficient cause why he should not be convicted, the Magistrate shall convict him accordingly.

Conviction on admission of truth of accusation.

Act X, 1872, s. 207. Act IV, 1877, s. 121. 245. If the accused does not make such admission, the Magistrate shall proceed to hear the complainant (if any), and take all such evidence as may be produced in support of the prosecution, and also to hear the accused and take all such evidence as he produces in his defence.

Procedure when no such admission is made.

Act X, 1872, s. 361. Act IV, 1877, s. 142. The Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, on the application of the complainant or accused, issue process to compel the attendance of any witness or the production of any document or other thing.

Act X, 1872, s. 211, paras. 1 and 2. Act IV, 1877, s. 126.

246. If the Magistrate upon taking the evidence referred to in section 245 and such further evidence (if any) as he may, of his own motion, cause to be produced, and (if he thinks fit) examining the accused, finds the accused not guilty, he shall record an order of acquittal.

Acquittal.

If he finds the accused guilty, he shall pass sentence upon him according to law.

Sentence.

Act X, 1872, s. 203, para. 2, second clause. Act IV, 1877, s. 117. Nelson, 206.

Finding not limited by complaint or summons.

Act X, 1872, ss. 205, 208, para. 3, 212. Act IV, 1877, s. 118.

248. If the summons has been issued on complaint, and upon the day appointed for the appearance of the accused or any day subsequent thereto to which the hearing may be adjourned the complainant does not appear, the Magistrate shall, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, acquit the accused, unless for some reason he thinks proper to adjourn the hearing of the case to some other day.

Non-appearance of complainant.

Act X, 1872, s. 210. Act IV, 1877, s. 125.

249. If a complainant, at any time before a final order is passed in any case under this chapter, satisfies the Magistrate that there are sufficient grounds for permitting him to withdraw his complaint, the Magistrate may permit him to withdraw the same, and shall thereupon acquit the accused.

Withdrawal of complaint.

New.

250. In any case instituted otherwise than upon complaint, a Presidency Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class, or, with the previous sanction of the District Magistrate, any other Magistrate, may, for reasons to be recorded by him, stop the proceedings at any stage without pronouncing any judgment either of acquittal or conviction.

251. If in any case instituted upon complaint a Magistrate acquits the accused under section 246 or section 248, and is of opinion that the complaint was frivolous or vexatious, he may, in his discretion, by his order of acquittal, direct the complainant to pay to the accused, or to each of the accused where there are more than one, such compensation, not exceeding fifty rupees, as the Magistrate thinks fit.

Frivolous or vexatious complaints.

The sum so awarded shall be recoverable as if it were a fine; and if it cannot be so recovered, the complainant shall be sentenced to simple imprisonment for such term, not exceeding thirty days, as the Magistrate directs, unless such sum is sooner paid.

Recovery of compensation.

At the time of awarding compensation in any subsequent civil suit relating to the same matter, the Court shall take into account any sum paid or recovered as compensation under this section.

CHAPTER XXI.

Of the Trial of Warrant-cases by Magistrates.

Act X, 1872, s. 213.

252. The following procedure shall be observed by Magistrates in the trial of warrant-cases.

Procedure in warrant-cases.

Act X, 1872, s. 215, with Expln. III. I. L. R., 3 Calc., 389.

254. If upon taking all the evidence referred to in section 253, and such examination (if any) of the accused as the Magistrate thinks necessary, he finds that no case against the accused has been made out which if unrebutted would warrant his conviction, the Magistrate shall discharge him.

Discharge of accused.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to prevent a Magistrate from discharging the accused at any previous stage of the case if, for reasons to be recorded by such Magistrate, he considers the charge to be groundless.

Act X, 1872, s. 216, without Explanations I & II. Act XI, 1874, s. 16. Act IV, 1877, ss. 136, 122.

255. If, when such evidence and examination have been wholly or partially taken, the Magistrate is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence triable under this chapter, which such Magistrate is competent to try, and which, in his opinion, could be adequately punished by him, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused.

Charge to be framed when offence appears proved.

Act X, 1872, s. 217. Act V, 1871, ss. 120, 122.

Plea.

Act X, 1872, s. 256. Act X, 1875, s. 91.

Duty of Judge.

299. In such cases, it is the duty of the Judge—

(a) to decide all questions of law, and especially all questions as to the relevancy of facts which it is proposed to prove, the admissibility of evidence or the propriety of questions asked by or on behalf of the parties which may arise in the course of the trial, and, in his discretion, to prevent the production of inadmissible evidence, whether it is or is not objected to by the parties;

(b) to decide upon the meaning and construction of all documents given in evidence at the trial;

(c) to decide upon all matters of fact which it may be necessary to prove in order to enable evidence of particular matters to be given;

(d) to decide whether any question which arises is for himself or for the jury, and upon this point his decision shall be final.

The Judge may, if he thinks proper, in the course of his summing up, express to the jury his opinion upon any question of fact, or upon any question of mixed law and fact, relevant to the proceeding.

Illustrations.

(a) It is proposed to prove a statement made by a person not called as a witness under circumstances which render evidence of his statement admissible.

It is for the Judge, and not for the jury, to decide whether the existence of those circumstances has been proved.

(b) It is proposed to give secondary evidence of a document the original of which is alleged to have been lost or destroyed.

It is the duty of the Judge to decide whether the original has been lost or destroyed.

(c) to decide all questions which according to law are to be deemed questions of fact;

(d) to decide whether general indefinite expressions do or do not apply to particular cases, unless such expressions refer to legal procedure, or unless their meaning is ascertained by law, in either of which cases it is the duty of the Judge to decide their meaning.

Illustrations.

It is the duty of the Judge to explain to the jury the distinction between murder and culpable homicide, and to tell them under what views of the facts A ought to be convicted of murder, or of culpable homicide, or to be acquitted.

It is the duty of the jury to decide which view of the facts is true, and to return a verdict in accordance with the direction of the Judge, whether that direction is right or wrong, and whether they do or do not agree with it.

(b) The question is whether a person entertained a reasonable belief on a particular point,—whether work was done with reasonable skill or due diligence.

Each of these is a question for the jury.

Questions and answers to be recorded.

Such questions and the answers to them shall be recorded.

Amending verdict.

305. When by accident or mistake a wrong verdict is delivered, the jury may, before or immediately after it is recorded, amend the verdict, and it shall stand as ultimately amended.

306. When in a case tried before a High Court the jury are unanimous in their opinion, or when as many as six are of one opinion and the Judge agrees with them, the Judge shall give judgment in accordance with such opinion.

If the accused is acquitted, the Judge shall record judgment of acquittal. If the accused is convicted, the Judge shall pass sentence on him according to law.

Act XI, 1874, s. 21.

Act X, 1872, s. 263, paras. 5 and 6. Act XI, 1874, s. 21. I. L. R., 1 Bom., 10. The dissent must be complete, I. L. R., 2. Bom., 526

Procedure where Judge disagrees with verdict.

308. If in any such case the Judge disagrees with the verdict of the jurors, or of a majority of the jurors, on all or any of the charges on which the accused has been tried, so completely that he considers it necessary for the ends of justice to submit the case to the High Court, he shall submit the case accordingly, recording the grounds of his opinion and, when the verdict is one of acquittal, stating the offence which he considers to have been committed.

403. Person once convicted or acquitted not to be tried for same offence. A person who has once been tried by a Court of competent jurisdiction for an offence and convicted or acquitted of such offence shall, while such conviction or acquittal remains in force, not be liable to be tried again for the same offence, nor on the same facts for any other offence for which a different charge from the one made against him might have been made under section 237, or for which he might have been convicted under section 238.

A person acquitted or convicted of any offence may be afterwards tried for any distinct offence for which a separate charge might have been made against him on the former trial under section 236, paragraph one.

A person convicted of any offence constituted by any act causing consequences which, together with such act, constituted a different offence from that for which he was convicted, may be afterwards tried for such last-mentioned offence, if the consequences had not happened, or were not known to the Court to have happened, at the time when he was convicted.

A person acquitted or convicted of any offence constituted by any acts may, notwithstanding such acquittal or conviction, be subsequently charged with, and tried for, any other offence constituted by the same acts which he may have committed, if the Court by which he was first tried was not competent to try the offence with which he is subsequently charged.

Procedure on claim of European British subject to be dealt with as such.

453. When any person claims to be dealt with as an European British subject, he shall state the grounds of such claim to the Magistrate before whom he is brought for the purposes of the inquiry or trial; and such Magistrate shall inquire into the truth of such statement, and allow the person making it a reasonable time within which to prove that it is true, and shall then decide whether he is or is not an European British subject, and shall deal with him accordingly. If any such person is convicted by such Magistrate and appeals from such conviction, the burden of proving that the Magistrate's decision was wrong shall lie upon him.

When any such person is committed by the Magistrate for trial before the Court of Session, and such person before such Court claims to be dealt with as an European British subject, such Court shall after such further enquiry, if any, as it thinks fit, decide whether he is or is not an European British subject, and shall deal with him accordingly. If he is convicted by such Court and appeals from such conviction, the burden of proving that the Court's decision was wrong shall lie upon him.

When the Court before which any person is tried decides that he is not an European British subject, such decision shall form a ground of appeal from the sentence or order passed in such trial.

Act X, 1872, s. 84.

Failure to plead status a waiver.

454. If an European British subject does not claim to be dealt with as such by the Magistrate before whom he is tried or by whom he is committed, or if, when such claim has been made before and disallowed by the committing Magistrate, it is not again made before the Court to which he is committed, he shall be held to have relinquished his right as such European British subject, and shall not assert it in any subsequent stage of the same case.

6 Calc., Rep. 465.

Unless the Magistrate has reason to believe that any person brought before him is not an European British subject, the Magistrate shall ask such person whether he is such a subject or not.

Act X, 1872, s. 85.

Trial under this chapter of person not an European British subject.

455. Where a person who is not an European British subject is dealt with as such under this chapter, and does not object, the inquiry, commitment or trial (as the case may be) shall not, by reason of such dealing, be invalid.

Act X, 1872, s. 81, para. 1, cl. 1.

Right of European British subject under detention to apply for order to produce his person.

Act X, 1872, s. 81, para. 1, cl. 2.

457. The High Court, if it thinks fit, may, before issuing such order, inquire, on affidavit or otherwise, into the grounds on which it is applied for, and grant or refuse such application; or it may issue the order in the first instance and, when the person applying for it is brought before it, it may make such further order in the case as it thinks fit, after such inquiry (if any) as it thinks necessary.

Act X, 1872, s. 81, para. 2.

Territories throughout which High Court may issue such orders.

458. The High Court may issue such orders throughout the territories within the local limits of its appellate criminal jurisdiction, and such other territories as the Governor General in Council may from time to time direct.

Act XXII, 1870, ss. 2, 4.

Application of Acts conferring jurisdiction on Magistrates or the Sessions Court.

459. Unless there be something repugnant in the context, all enactments heretofore or hereafter made by the Governor General in Council, which confer on Magistrates or on the Court of Session jurisdiction over offences, shall be deemed to apply to European British subjects, although such persons be not expressly referred to therein.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize any Court to exceed the limits prescribed by this chapter as to the amount of punishment which it may inflict on an European British subject, or to confer jurisdiction on any Magistrate not being a Justice of the Peace or on any Magistrate outside the Presidency towns not being an European British subject.

Act X, 1872, s. 234, para. 1, cl. 2.

Jury for trial of Europeans or Americans.

460. In every case triable by jury or with the aid of assessors in which an European (not being an European British subject) or an American is the accused person, or one of the accused persons, not less than half the number of jurors or assessors shall, if practicable and if such European or American so claims, be Europeans or Americans.

Act X, 1872, s. 242.

Jury when European or American charged jointly with one of another race.

461. Whenever an European or American is charged before the Court of Session jointly with a person not an European or American, and in compliance with a claim made under section 460 is tried by a jury or with the aid of a set of assessors, of which at least one-half consists of Europeans and Americans, such person shall, if he so claims, be tried separately.

Summoning and empannelling jurors under section 451 or 460.

462. When a trial is to be held before the Court of Session in which the accused person, or one of the accused persons, is entitled to be tried by a jury constituted under the provisions of section 451, or section 460, the Court shall, three days at least before the day fixed for holding such trial, cause to be summoned, in the manner hereinbefore prescribed, as many European and American jurors as are required for the trial.

The Court shall also at the same time in like manner cause to be summoned the same number of other persons named in the revised list, unless such number of such other persons has been already summoned for trials by jury at that session.

From the whole number of persons returned, the jurors who are to constitute the jury shall be chosen by lot in the manner prescribed in section 277, until a jury containing the proper number of Europeans or Americans, or a number approaching thereto as nearly as possible, has been obtained:

Act X, 1872, s. 406, last clause.

Provided that in any case in which the proper number of Europeans and Americans cannot otherwise be obtained, the Court may in its discretion, for the purpose of constituting the jury, summon any person excluded from the list on the ground of his being exempted under section 320.

464. When any person accused of an offence before a Magistrate holding an inquiry or a trial appears to such Magistrate to be of unsound mind and consequently incapable of making his defence, the Magistrate shall inquire into the fact of such unsoundness, and shall cause such person to be examined by the Civil Surgeon of the District or such other medical officer as the Local Government directs, and thereupon shall examine such Surgeon or other officer as a witness, and shall reduce the examination into writing.

If such Magistrate is of opinion that the accused is of unsound mind and consequently incapable of making his defence, he shall postpone further proceedings in the case.

Act X, 1872, s. 425. Act X, 1875, s. 120.

465. Procedure in case of person committed before Court of Session or High Court being lunatic. If any person committed for trial before a Court of Session or a High Court appears to the Court at his trial to be of unsound mind and consequently incapable of making his defence, the Court shall, in the first instance, try the fact of such unsoundness and incapacity and, if satisfied of the fact, shall pass judgment accordingly, and thereupon the trial shall be postponed.

Act XI, 1874, s. 39.

The trial of the fact of the unsoundness of mind and incapacity of the accused shall be deemed to be part of his trial before the Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 426. Act X, 1875, s. 121. Act IV, 1877, s. 196.

466. Release of lunatic pending investigation or trial. Whenever an accused person is found to be of unsound mind and incapable of making his defence, the Magistrate or Court, as the case may be, if the case is one in which bail may be taken, may release him on sufficient security being given that he shall be properly taken care of, and shall be prevented from doing injury to himself or to any other person, and for his appearance when required before the Magistrate or Court or such officer as the Magistrate or Court appoints in this behalf.

Custody of lunatic. If the case is one in which bail may not be taken, or if sufficient security is not given, the Magistrate or Court shall report the case to the Local Government, and the Local Government may order the accused to be confined in a Lunatic Asylum or other suitable place of safe custody, and the Magistrate or Court shall give effect to such order.

467. Resumption of inquiry or trial. Whenever an inquiry or trial is postponed under section 464 or section 465, the Magistrate or Court, as the case may be, may at any time resume the inquiry or trial, and require the accused to appear or be brought before such Magistrate or Court.

When the accused has been released under section 466, and the sureties for his appearance produce him to the officer whom the Magistrate or Court appoints in this behalf, the certificate of such officer that the accused is capable of making his defence shall be receivable in evidence.

Act X, 1872, s. 428. Act X, 1875, s. 123. Act IV, 1877, s. 198.

468. Procedure on accused appearing before Magistrate or Court. If, when the accused appears or is again brought before the Magistrate or the Court, as the case may be, the Magistrate or Court considers him capable of making his defence, the inquiry or trial shall proceed.

If the Magistrate or Court considers the accused person to be still incapable of making his defence, the Magistrate or Court shall again act according to the provisions of section 464 or section 465, as the case may be.

Act X, 1872, s. 424, paras. 1 and 2. Act IV, 1877, s. 195.

Act X, 1872, s. 429. Act X, 1875, s. 124. Act IV, 1877, s. 199. 39 & 40 Geo. III, c. 94. Reg. v. Macnaughten, 10 Cl. & Fin. 200.

470. Judgment of acquittal on ground of lunacy. Whenever any person is acquitted upon the ground that, at the time at which he is alleged to have committed an offence, he was, by reason of unsoundness of mind, incapable of knowing the nature of the act alleged as constituting the offence, or that it was wrong or contrary to law, the finding shall state specifically whether he committed the act or not.

Act X, 1872, s. 430. Act X, 1875, s. 125. Act IV, 1877, s. 200.

471. Person acquitted on such ground to be kept in safe custody. Whenever such judgment states that the accused person committed the act alleged, the Magistrate or Court before whom or which the trial has been held shall, if such act would, but for the incapacity found, have constituted an offence, order such person to be kept in safe custody in such place and manner as the Magistrate or Court thinks fit, and shall report the case for the orders of the Local Government.

The Local Government may order such person to be confined in a Lunatic Asylum, jail or other suitable place of safe custody.

Act X, 1872, s. 433. Act X, 1875, s. 128. Act IV, 1877, s. 203.

474. Procedure where lunatic confined under section 466 or 471 is declared fit to be discharged. If such person is confined under the provisions of section 466 or section 471, and such Inspector General or visitors shall certify that, in his or their judgment, he may be discharged without danger of his doing injury to himself or to any other person, the Local Government may thereupon order him to be discharged, or to be detained in custody, or to be transferred to a public Lunatic Asylum if he has not been already sent to such an Asylum, and in case it orders him to be transferred to an Asylum, may appoint a commission, consisting of a judicial and two medical officers.

And such commission shall make formal inquiry into the state of mind of such person, taking such evidence as is necessary, and shall report to the Local Government, which may order his discharge or detention as it thinks fit.

475. Delivery of lunatic to care of relative. Whenever any relative or friend of any person confined under the provisions of section 466 or section 471 desires that he shall be delivered over to his care and custody, the Local Government, upon the application of such relative or friend, and on his giving security to the satisfaction of such Government that the person delivered shall be properly taken care of and shall be prevented from doing injury to himself or to any other person, may order such person to be delivered to such relative or friend.

Whenever such person is so delivered, it shall be upon condition that he shall be produced for the inspection of such officer and at such times as the Local Government directs.

The provisions of sections 472 and 474 shall, mutatis mutandis, apply to persons delivered under the provisions of this section; and the certificate of the inspecting officer appointed under this section shall be dealt with as a certificate under section 474.

CHAPTER XXXV.

When any Civil, Criminal or Revenue Court is of opinion that there is ground for enquiring into any offence referred to in section 196, and committed before it or brought under its notice in the course of a judicial proceeding, such Court, after making any preliminary inquiry that may be necessary, may send the case for enquiry or trial to the District Magistrate, and may send the accused in custody, or take sufficient security for his appearance, before such Magistrate; and may bind over any person to appear and give evidence on such trial or enquiry.

Such Magistrate shall thereupon proceed according to law, and may transfer the enquiry or trial to some other competent Magistrate.

477. Power of Sessions Court as to such offences committed before itself. Subject to the provisions of section 444, a Court of Session may charge a person for any offence referred to in section 196 and committed before it, or brought under its notice in the course of a judicial proceeding, and may commit, or admit to bail and try, such person upon its own charge.

When any such offence is committed before any Civil or Revenue Court, or brought under the notice of any Civil or Revenue Court in the course of a judicial proceeding and the case is triable exclusively by the High Court or Court of Session, or such Civil or Revenue Court thinks that it ought to be tried by the High Court or Court of Session, such Civil or Revenue Court may, instead of sending the case under section 476 to a Magistrate for enquiry, itself complete the enquiry, and commit or hold to bail the accused person to take his trial before the High Court or Court of Session, as the case may be.

See I. L. R., 4 Bom., 289.

Act X, 1872, s. 476.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

No less than three Codes of Criminal Procedure are now in operation in British India: Act X of 1872, amended by Act XI of 1874, which is in force throughout the Mufassal; the High Courts' Act, X of 1875, which is in force in the Presidency-towns, Allahabad and Lahore; and the Presidency Magistrates' Act, IV of 1877, also in force in the Presidency-towns.

Many of the provisions of these Codes merely repeat one another; many of their rules, though dealing with the same subjects, unnecessarily vary in language; and the result is that the bulk of the Indian Statute-book is far greater than need be and that the Courts when construing one Code are often deprived of the guidance of prior decisions on another.

The primary object of this Bill, which has been framed at the suggestion of the Secretary of State, is to recast the Code of 1872, combining with it the substance of the High Courts' Act and the Presidency Magistrates' Act, and incorporating in it the numerous reported decisions on its wording, and thus at last give to India a single and complete Code of Criminal Procedure, and carry out, so far, the policy of providing a simple and uniform system of law for this country. The language and arrangement of Act X of 1872 have, for obvious reasons, been departed from only so far as is necessary for the main purpose of the Bill.

2. Though many of the outlying Acts and Regulations dealing with Criminal Procedure were repealed and re-enacted by Act X of 1872, many more are still untouched, and the secondary object of the present Bill is to consolidate these enactments, which are twelve in number:—

3. The result of consolidating the Acts and Regulations above specified will be to substitute a single Act of 568 sections for fifteen enactments containing 1,055 unrepealed sections.

4. The present Bill is divided into nine Parts, the first containing the usual preliminary matter; the second dealing with the constitution and powers of the Criminal Courts and offices; the third containing some general provisions; the fourth treating of the prevention of offences; the fifth, of information to the Police and of their powers to investigate; the sixth, of proceedings in prosecutions; the seventh, of appeal, reference and revision; the eighth, of special proceedings; the ninth, of supplementary provisions.

I.—Preliminary.

5. Part I consists of a single chapter containing the usual preliminary matter. The wording of some of the definitions in Act X of 1872 has been amended, and definitions of 'to sign,' 'public prosecutor,' 'pleader,' 'offence,' 'chapter,' 'schedule,' 'place,' and 'police-station' have been added. The definition of 'complaint' has been amended so as to exclude the report of a Police-officer and information given to a Police-officer; and the definition of 'investigation' has been extended so as to comprise the proceedings of persons authorized by a Magistrate under section 160 or 203 to make local investigations. The definition of 'cognizable offence' has been amended so as to connect it with the second schedule. A clause has been added to the definition of 'High Court' so as to enable the Governor General in Council to appoint in outlying territories where no such Court is established by law, an officer to perform its functions under the Code. Words such as 'special law,' 'local law,' defined in the Penal Code will have the meanings attached to them respectively by that Code. On the other hand, the definitions of 'inquired into,' 'trial,' 'Magistrate's case,' have been omitted as not needed in the Code in its revised form.

II.—Criminal Courts.

6. Part II (constitution and powers of the Criminal Courts and offices) consists of two chapters, of which the first deals (a) with the classes of Criminal Courts, (b) with territorial divisions, (c) with Courts outside the Presidency-towns, (d) with the Courts of the Presidency Magistrates, (e) with Justices of the Peace and (f) with the suspension and removal of Judges, Magistrates and Justices of the Peace. The provisions of the Police Act (V of 1861), section 6, have been incorporated in this chapter, section 14. The Local Government has been empowered (section 16) to make rules for the guidance of Magistrates' Benches. This will result in uniformity of practice wherever such uniformity is desirable. Assistant Sessions Judges have been declared (section 17) subordinate to the Sessions Judge in whose Court they exercise jurisdiction. This will preclude a doubt which has been raised on the subject.

The second chapter treats of the powers of Judges and Magistrates, the description of offences cognizable by each Court, the sentences which may be passed by Courts of various classes, and the mode of conferring powers on the latter. The changes of the law here made are little more than verbal, save in the following cases. Magistrates of the first class are forbidden (section 29) to try offences under special or local laws which are punishable with imprisonment for seven years: such grave cases should be tried by a higher Court. All Magistrates of the first and second classes, and all Magistrates of the third class when specially empowered, are to have the powers of an officer in charge of a Police-station (section 38). It is desirable that the police powers which Magistrates can exercise in investigating offences should be clearly defined. In section 40 (= Act X of 1872, section 56), as to the continuance of powers of an officer transferred to another local area, words have been introduced to shew that powers conferred by one Local Government do not accompany an officer, when he is transferred to a province under another Local Government.

In connection with section 33, as to power to sentence to imprisonment in default of payment of fine, it will be necessary to pass simultaneously with the Bill a short Act amending section 67 of the Penal Code, by inserting a declaration that such imprisonment shall be simple.

Section 35 declares, in accordance with a decision of the Bombay High Court, that, for the purpose of confirmation or appeal, a combined sentence, in case of simultaneous convictions for several offences, shall be deemed to be a single sentence.

III.—General Provisions.

7. Part III contains certain general provisions which it seems convenient to group together and which, to avoid forward references, must stand near the beginning of the Code. They relate to the following matters: aid and information to the Magistrates, the Police and persons making arrests: arrest, escape and retaking: processes to compel appearance and production of documents, and processes for the discovery of persons wrongfully confined. Here, again, the changes in the law are little more than verbal. But to the offences which the public are bound to assist in preventing, have been added (section 42) attempts to injure public property, railways and canals: the public (section 42) must assist in cases of fire dangerous to human life or valuable property: the section (45) requiring village-headmen, &c., to report, has, for obvious reasons, been extended to escaped convicts and proclaimed offenders, and (to provide for villages in hill-passes through which bands of dacoits habitually proceed), also to cases where the criminal merely goes through the village: the section (46) authorizing, in the case of forcible resistance, the use of necessary means to effect arrests, has been extended to meet the case of attempts to evade them: power has been given (section 49) to break open the doors of a house for the purpose of liberating persons who have lawfully entered for the purpose of making arrests therein: persons making arrests have been expressly empowered (section 53) to take from the person arrested any offensive weapons which he may have about him: the police have been authorized (section 54) to arrest, without warrant, deserters from the Navy; and sections (66, 67) equivalent to Act XXV of 1861, section 112, have been inserted to provide for the retaking of persons escaping or rescued from lawful custody.

The wording of section 178 of the present Code, which empowers the police to use "all means necessary to effect the arrest" of a person forcibly resisting or attempting to escape, appears dangerously wide. The Bill accordingly explains that this power does not give the right to cause the death of an arrested person who is not accused of a capital offence. The Bill here follows the law of Scotland, which, in Mr. Mayne's opinion, is in India the safer rule.

8. Under the present Code (Act X of 1872, section 153), summonses issued by Magistrates are ordinarily served "through a Police-officer:" the Bill (section 68) provides that (subject to rules to be made by the Local Government) they may also be served by an officer of the Court. Provision is made (sections 73, 74) for the service of a summons outside the local jurisdiction of the Magistrate who issues it, and for the proof of such service.

9. Section 75 requires that all warrants of arrest, whether issued in the Presidency-towns or the Mufassal, shall be sealed. Act IV of 1877, section 56, does not in such cases require a seal. Warrants of arrest issued by a Bench of Magistrates may be signed by any member of the Bench. This will legalise what probably is the practice at present.

Sub-divisional Magistrates have been empowered (section 78) to direct warrants to landholders, &c., for the arrest of escaped convicts. This extension is in harmony with the large powers generally possessed by Magistrates in charge of sub-divisions.

10. Section 88 clears up a doubt as to the commencement of the period provided in the corresponding section (171) of Act X of 1872, for the appearance of a person absconding against whom a warrant has been issued.

11. On the other hand, the power to arrest without warrant persons against whom a hue and cry has been raised is omitted, as that obsolete common-law process is unknown in India; and the section authorizing masters and mates to arrest deserters from ships is omitted, as the matter is sufficiently provided for by the Merchant Shipping Act.

12. The present Code does not provide how attachment of debts and other moveable property is to be effected. Provision has, therefore, been made (section 89) for this purpose; and the powers, duties and liabilities of receivers have been declared by reference to the Code of Civil Procedure.

13. A person required merely to produce a document will (as under the Civil Procedure Code, section 164) be deemed to have complied with the requisition, if he causes the document to be produced instead of attending personally to produce it (section 95).

14. Section 99 of the Bill has been retained pending the opinion of Local Governments as to the expediency of its retention. It seems to be rendered superfluous by section 97.

Provision is made (section 104) for making a list (signed by witnesses) of things found in execution of a search-warrant beyond the jurisdiction of the Court issuing it. It is believed that the necessity of obtaining the signature of the witnesses will be of use as a check upon the irregularities which, it is said, sometimes occur in the course of searches. Criticism of this proposed change in the law is solicited.

15. A clause (section 101) has been inserted giving Presidency Magistrates, Magistrates of the first class, and Sub-divisional Magistrates, power to issue warrants to search for persons wrongfully confined. No such power, though needed, is supposed to exist in India, except, of course, in the Presidency-towns, where the High Courts issue, under Act X of 1875, directions of the nature of a habeas corpus.

IV.—Prevention of Offences.

16. Part IV, which relates to the prevention of offences, comes, it is considered, properly before Part VI, which relates to their prosecution. It comprises six chapters dealing respectively with security for keeping the peace and for good behaviour; the dispersion of unlawful assemblies; suppression of nuisances; disputes as to immoveable property; and, lastly, the preventive action of the Police.

17. In the chapter relating to security for keeping the peace, and for good behaviour, the section (107) dealing with security for keeping the peace on conviction has been extended to cases in which the accused is convicted of criminal intimidation by threatening injury to person or property. This is an offence of the same nature as taking unlawful measures with the intention of committing a breach of the peace, and should, therefore, as regards the taking of security, be placed on the same footing. When the conviction is set aside on appeal or otherwise, the bond will become void. On this the present law is silent.

In section 111 (=sections 505, 506 of the present Code) the words which give the Magistrate power to demand security from persons of notoriously bad livelihood or of a "dangerous character" have been omitted. It has been objected that these words are vague, and that the powers which they place in the hands of the police are liable to great abuse.

The Magistrate is empowered (section 113) to make an order as to the character and class of the sureties required. This, it is hoped, will prevent certain persons making a trade of becoming sureties. The object of the law (as will be seen from section 399 of the present Code) is not merely to provide a money-security, but also to obtain respectable persons as guarantees for the good behaviour of the criminal concerned.

For the purposes of the section (118) as to enquiring into the truth of the information upon which a Magistrate has acted under this chapter, the fact that a person is an habitual offender may be proved by evidence of general repute.

The Bill contains no provision corresponding to sections 499 of the present Code and 211 of the Presidency Magistrates' Act. If, before the expiration of the term of the original bond, it appears to the Magistrate unsafe to release the obligor at the end of that term, in justice to the obligor fresh proceedings should be instituted.

Some change has been made (section 118) in the manner of conducting inquiries regarding security for good behaviour. They will under the Bill be made as in warrant-cases, instead of as in summons-cases, which is now the practice. Where the person who would otherwise be ordered to give security is a minor, the bond (section 119) will be executed only by his sureties. It has been made clear in section 127 that a Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate, and Magistrate of the first class can cancel a bond on the application of a surety. Sub-divisional Magistrates are empowered (section 110) to require security for good behaviour.

18. In the chapter (IX) on dispersion of unlawful assemblies, volunteers enrolled under the Indian Volunteers Act, 1869, are placed on the same footing as soldiers of Her Majesty's Army.

19. In Chapter X, section 134 has been extended to cases of keeping goods or merchandise injurious to the public health, and of carrying on occupations offensive to the religious feelings of any considerable section of the community. Criticism is invited on the latter alteration, which is intended to meet such cases as that of a butcher exercising his trade in a Hindú town, so as to cause risk of breach of the peace.

The power conferred by section 518 of the present Code is intended to be exercised only in urgent cases where a speedy remedy is desirable. The Bill (section 145) provides that no orders under Chapter XI shall remain in force for more than two months, unless in case of danger to human life, health or safety, or a riot or affray, the Local Government directs otherwise. Where time allows the procedure must be under Chapter X.

20. Chapter XII, on disputes as to immoveable property, has been expressly restricted to cases in which the dispute is as to the right to physical possession.

Doubts have been raised as to whether the report of the person deputed (under section 149) to make a local inquiry may be read as evidence in the case. The Bill now settles this in the affirmative.

V.—Information to the Police, and their power to investigate.

21. Part V consists of a single chapter relating to information to the Police and their power to investigate. It corresponds with Chapter X of Act X of 1872, and sections 379 and 380 of the same Act.

22. The words "or that immediate arrest is not necessary," which are to be found in section 117 of Act X of 1872, have been omitted from section 158 of the Bill, as it is not apparent why a Police-officer should be debarred from investigating a case of a cognizable offence because he does not at starting feel himself justified in arresting any person.

23. Section 165 makes it clear that confessions to Magistrates shall not only be "taken," but signed and certified, like examinations of accused persons. In the form of memorandum relating to confessions words have been introduced to show that the confession was taken in the Magistrate's presence and hearing, and that it contains a full and true account of the statement.

24. The sections (186 and 187) dealing with searches by the police have been amended so as to meet difficulties which have arisen in practice. Section 168 has also been amended. On the one hand, there is strong objection to allowing an accused person to be detained at a Police-station longer than is necessary, and, on the other, to insist on his being forwarded to the Magistrate, when his presence on the spot may be indispensable for tracking out crime or recovering property, might be a serious impediment to justice. Under proper precautions, the retention of the accused for sufficient reasons will, as now, be allowed, but the period of detention has been limited to fifteen days in the whole.

25. Power resembling that conferred on Coroners by Act IV of 1871, section 11, has been given (section 177) to Magistrates authorized to hold inquests, to disinter and examine corpses in order to discover the cause of death.

VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions.

26. Part VI treats of proceedings in prosecutions up to appeal, and is divided into sixteen chapters, arranged as follows:—

XV. Jurisdiction of Criminal Courts in Inquiries and Trials.
XVI. Complaints to Magistrates.
XVII. Commencement of Proceedings before Magistrates.
XVIII. Inquiry into cases triable by the Court of Session or High Court.
XIX. The Charge.
XX. Trial of Summons-Cases by Magistrates.
XXI. Trial of Warrant-Cases by Magistrates.
XXII. Summary Trials.
XXIII. Trials before High Courts and Courts of Session.
XXIV. General Provisions as to Inquiries and Trials.
XXV. Evidence.
XXVI. The Judgment.
XXVII. Submission of Sentences for Confirmation.
XXVIII. Execution.
XXIX. Suspensions, Remissions and Commutations of Sentences.
XXX. Previous Acquittals or Convictions.

It will be seen that the above-mentioned chapters are arranged, as nearly as may be, according to the chronological order of the events in a prosecution.

27. Chapter XV (as to the jurisdiction of the Courts in inquiries and trials) deals, first, with the place of inquiry or trial: and, secondly, with the conditions requisite for the initiation of proceedings.

Sections 9 and 10 of the Foreign Jurisdiction Act (XXI of 1879), which deal respectively with the liability of British subjects for offences committed out of British India, and with the reception in evidence of depositions made before Political Agents, have been transferred to this part of the Code (sections 189 and 190), which is obviously their proper place.

28. To the provisions contained in the existing law regarding the transfer of cases, there has been added a clause, providing that, when any Magistrate of the first class, specially empowered in this behalf by the Magistrate of a district, has taken cognizance of any case, he may transfer it for inquiry or trial to any other competent Magistrate in such district. This will enable such Magistrates to distribute the work in their Courts, when it is necessary to do so, with less delay than at present.

29. Section 196 requires that the sanction to entertain complaints of certain offences shall, so far as practicable, specify the place in which, and the occasion on which, the offence complained of was committed. Provision has been made for the revocation of the sanction by any authority to which the authority giving it is subordinate. And in order to remove doubts which have been felt on the point, it is declared that, for the purposes of this section, every Court shall be deemed to be subordinate to the Court to which appeals from the former Court ordinarily lie.

30. Chapter XVI, of complaints to Magistrates, corresponds to sections 144 to 147 of Act X of 1872, but adds (section 202) a provision that a complaint in writing made to a Magistrate not competent to entertain it shall be returned for presentation to the proper tribunal.

The Bill makes it clear that the power (section 203) to postpone the issue of process cannot be exercised by a Magistrate of the third class.

31. In Chapter XVIII, of inquiry into cases triable by the Court of Session or High Court, power is given (section 210) to the Magistrate to discharge the accused at any stage of the case if, for reasons to be recorded, the Magistrate considers the charge to be groundless.

32. Chapter XIX, of the charge, extends to the whole of British India the amendments in Act X of 1872, sections 439 to 459, made by Act X of 1875; and with reference to Mr. Justice West's observations in Reg. v. Chand Hur, 11 Bomb. 241, on the corresponding section (457) of Act X of 1872, section 239 of the Bill has been confined to offences consisting of several particulars, a combination of some only of which constitutes a complete minor offence.

From the section (236) relating to joinder of charges, corresponding with section 454 of the present Code, have been omitted all provisions as to the amount of punishment. They obviously belong to substantive law, not to procedure, and will find their proper place in the Penal Code. The illustrations have also been amended.

Provision has been made in section 239 for the case where a person charged with an offence proves circumstances which reduce it to a minor offence. He may then be convicted of the minor offence, though he is not charged with it.

33. Chapter XX, Trial of Summons-cases.—To the section (251) relating to frivolous and vexatious complaints, a clause has been added, providing that, when awarding compensation in any subsequent civil suit relating to the same matter, the Court shall take into account any sum paid or recovered as compensation under this section.

34. In Chapter XXI, of trials of warrant-cases, as in Chapter XVIII, has been inserted a clause (section 254) authorizing the Magistrate to discharge the accused at any stage of the case if, for reasons to be recorded, the Magistrate considers the charge to be groundless. The provision (Act X of 1872, section 218) that the accused shall, while making his defence, be allowed to recall and cross-examine the witnesses for the prosecution, has been expressly confined (section 257) to cases where the witnesses are present in the Court or its precincts. The power to recall witnesses for the prosecution after they have left the Court is said to be often abused for the purpose of harassment and delay.

35. In Chapter XXII, summary trials, the Local Government has been authorized to confer on Benches invested with second or third class powers jurisdiction to try abetments of, and attempts to commit, the offences which they may now try summarily. The offences of retaining stolen property not exceeding Rs. 50 in value, and assisting in the concealment or disposal of stolen property not exceeding Rs. 50 in value, have been added to the list of those triable in a summary way; and the offence of receiving stolen property will not be so triable where the value exceeds that amount.

36. Chapter XXIII provides a common procedure for the High Court and the Court of Session, preserving, however, the special rules as to juries and their verdicts.

The power to stay proceedings on an unsustainable charge has been extended (section 274) to the Court of Session.

The power of directing how jurors shall be chosen by lot has been transferred to the High Court from the Local Government (section 277).

Where jurors or assessors have been taken to view the place in which the offence charged is alleged to have been committed, the Court has been empowered (section 294) to exempt them from being immediately brought back.

Where the Sessions Judge disagrees with a verdict of acquittal and submits the case to the High Court, he is required (section 308) to state the offence which he considers to have been committed, and the High Court is empowered to acquit or convict the accused of any offence of which the jury could have convicted him upon the charge framed and placed before it. This, it is believed, is the intention of the corresponding clause of section 263 of Act X of 1872.

37. Chapter XXIV, General Provisions as to Inquiries and Trials.—At the instance of many authorities consulted, the power of tendering conditional pardons to accomplices, which is now exerciseable only in cases triable by the Sessions Court, has been extended (section 337) to all warrant-cases. This change, which has been advocated by many authorities, is an important one, and further opinions on its propriety are desirable.

38. Much doubt exists as to the offences which may lawfully be compounded. The Exception to section 214 of the Penal Code (in which the law on the subject is contained) is excessively obscure, and this obscurity is increased rather than diminished by the illustrations annexed to that section. The Bill repeals these illustrations; and section 345 declares in unmistakeable language that certain specified offences, and no others, may be compounded. These are—

Causing hurt (Penal Code, sections 323, 334, 337, 338).
Wrongfully restraining or confining (Penal Code, sections 341, 342).
Assault or use of criminal force (Penal Code, sections 352, 358).
Unlawful compulsory labour (Penal Code, section 374).
Mischief, when the loss or damage is caused to a private person (Penal Code, sections 426, 427).
Criminal trespass and house-trespass (Penal Code, sections 447, 448).
Criminal breach of contract of service (Penal Code, sections 490, 491, 492).
Adultery, and enticing, &c., a married woman (Penal Code, sections 497, 498).
Defamation (Penal Code, section 500).
Printing or engraving defamatory matter (Penal Code, section 501).
Sale of printed or engraved substance containing defamatory matter (Penal Code, section 502).
Insult intended to provoke a breach of the peace (Penal Code, section 504).
Criminal intimidation, except when the offence is punishable with imprisonment for seven years (Penal Code, section 506).

The offences of voluntarily causing hurt, voluntarily causing grievous hurt, and cheating, punishable under the Indian Penal Code, sections 334, 338 and 417, will be compoundable with the permission of the Court, and by the person to whom the hurt has been caused, or by the person cheated, as the case may be.

It will be necessary to pass simultaneously with the Bill a short Act declaring that, for the Exception to section 280 of the Penal Code, the following shall be substituted:—

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

39. In Chapter XXVI, as to judgment, section 367 allows the judgments of Mufassal Courts to be written in the mother-tongue of the presiding officer.

40. Chapter XXVIII, Execution.—In section 395 (= section 313 of the present Code) the imprisonment which may be inflicted in lieu of whipping has been limited to three months; but on the other hand, the proviso that the whole period of imprisonment to which the offender is sentenced shall not exceed that to which he was liable by law, or that which the Court is competent to award, has been cancelled, and the power to imprison is thus extended. Criticism is sought on this alteration.

41. There are no sections in this chapter corresponding with sections 319, 320 of Act X of 1872. The reason for this omission is that the matter with which they deal does not belong to criminal procedure, but falls within the scope of the Prisoners' Act, 1871; and it is proposed that, simultaneously with the passing of the present Bill, a short Act be passed, substituting for section 33 of the Prisoners' Act a section equivalent to Act X of 1872, sections 319, 320.

42. Chapter XXIX, Suspensions, Remissions and Commutations of Sentences.—Where application is made for the suspension or remission of a sentence, the Government is empowered (section 401) to require the presiding Judge of the Court before which the conviction was had to furnish a statement of the facts proved on the trial, and of any facts bearing on the propriety of granting or refusing the application.

The power of the Government to commute punishment (section 402) has been so worded as to authorize a sentence of rigorous, to be commuted to one of simple, imprisonment.

VII.—Appeal, Reference and Revision.

43. Part VII deals with appeals, references and the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court.

44. Chapter XXXI.—An appeal has been given (section 405) from orders rejecting applications for delivery of attached property.

45. Section 408 provides that the appeal from a District Magistrate exercising the enhanced powers conferred under section 34 shall lie to the Court of Session in cases in which the sentence has not been submitted to that Court for confirmation, and, when it has been so submitted, to the High Court. This puts the appeals in question on the same footing as appeals from an Assistant Sessions Judge. There seems to be no reason for making any distinction between the two.

46. Section 423, in accordance with a decision of the Madras High Court (I. L. R. 1 Mad. 54), declares that, when an Appellate Court enhances any punishment inflicted by the sentence appealed against, it may inflict punishment of a different kind.

47. In the case of an appeal from an acquittal, section 427 expressly authorizes the High Court to order the accused to be arrested and brought before it, and to commit him to prison pending the disposal of the appeal, or admit him to bail. In the absence of this power cases have occurred in which criminals, afraid of the result of the appeal, escaped, and made the appeal on behalf of the Government of no avail.

48. A section (431) suggested by a decision of the Bombay High Court (I. L. R. 2 Bomb. 564) provides that appeals by persons required to give security for good behaviour or by convicted persons abate on their death, and that appeals against acquittals abate on the death of the accused. The power of revision conferred by section 439 will enable the High Court, where justice to the family of the convicted person may so require, to alter his sentence even after the appeal has abated.

49. Chapter XXXII.—Sub-divisional Magistrates empowered by the Local Government in this behalf are authorized (section 435) to call for records of inferior Courts. This is in accordance with the powers of control in other respects which they exercise.

50. Where, in the opinion of the Court of Session or District Magistrate, an accused person has been improperly discharged by an inferior Court, the accused should not be committed without having had an opportunity of shewing cause why the committal should not be made (1 O'K. 98). Provision to this effect has been made by section 436.

51. When the Court of Session or District Magistrate reports for the orders of the High Court the results of examining any proceeding, and recommends that a sentence be reversed, the Court of Session or District Magistrate may order (section 438) its execution to be suspended, and the accused, if in confinement, to be released on bail or on his own bond.

52. Section 439 (corresponding with Act X of 1872, section 297) has been framed so as to allow the High Court, when exercising its revisional jurisdiction, to interfere with improper acquittals. There is reason to believe that this change is in accordance with the intention of the framers of Act X of 1872.

53. Where the High Court exercises its powers of revision, no order (section 440) will be made to the prejudice of the accused, unless he has had an opportunity of being heard.

VIII.—Special Proceedings.

54. Part VIII, as to special proceedings, deals with the procedure relating to the following matters:—criminal proceedings against Europeans and Americans: lunatics: contempts of Court and other offences affecting the administration of justice: maintenance of wives and children: State-prisoners: proceedings in the nature of habeas corpus.

55. Chapter XXXIII.—Section 451 removes some unnecessary differences which exist in the present law between the procedure of the High Courts and Courts of Session in cases in which European British subjects are concerned. In particular, it is provided that, in the Court of Session as well as in the High Court, the requisite moiety of the jury or assessors may be made up by Americans as well as Europeans. Under the present Code (section 78), the trial of a European British subject before the Court of Session need not be by jury. But under section 284 an European or American, not being a British subject, has an absolute right to be so tried. The Bill omits the latter provision.

56. Chapter XXXIV.—The power given by sections 433 and 434 of Act X of 1872, to discharge from custody or make over to his relative a person acquitted on the ground of insanity, has been extended, in sections 474 and 475, to the case of persons who, being found to be insane at the time of trial, are committed to custody.

57. Chapter XXXV.—This chapter (sections 476, 478, 479, 480, 482) has been expressly made applicable to Revenue Courts.

Section 477 has been framed so as to allow a Court of Session to charge a person for giving false evidence before itself,—a power of which such Courts were unintentionally deprived by section 472 of the present Code.

Where the Local Government so directs, Sub-Registrars will (section 483) be 'Civil Courts' within the meaning of section 480. The position and qualifications of Sub-Registrars vary in different provinces; but, in some parts of the country, they are believed to be fitted for the exercise of these powers.

Section 486 gives an appeal to the High Court from a conviction in a contempt case by a Court of Small Causes in a Presidency-town.

Section 487 has been redrawn so as to avoid the difficulty which is felt in determining the meaning of the words "offence committed in contempt of its own authority," which occur in the corresponding section (473) of Act X of 1872.

IX.—Supplementary Provisions.

58. Part IX contains certain provisions supplementary to the general rules of procedure contained in the Code. It deals, first, with the public prosecutor, bail, commissions for the examination of witnesses and special rules of evidence. It then contains certain provisions relating to bonds to keep the peace, for good behaviour, for appearance, &c.: the disposal of property regarding which an offence has been committed: the transfer of criminal cases: irregular proceedings; and, lastly, certain miscellaneous matters.

59. Chapter XXXIX, Public Prosecutor.—Power has been given to appoint as public prosecutor, in any case committed to the Session Court, a Police-officer not below the rank of Assistant District Superintendent. The entire exclusion of the police from such a function is, in the opinion of many authorities, inexpedient. With the limitation above described, there will be no fear of intimidation of witnesses or undue influence.

60. Section 505 exempts the Advocate General, Standing Counsel, Government Solicitor or other officer empowered by the Local Government from the necessity of obtaining permission to conduct prosecutions.

61. Chapter XL, Bail.—The powers here given to Police-officers have been expressly confined to officers in charge of Police-stations.

62. Chapter XLI, Commissions for Examination of Witnesses.—The provisions of the present law as to commissions for the examination of witnesses have been amended in four respects. Where the witness resides in a Native State, power has been given (section 513) to issue the commission to the Political Agent or other local officer representing the British Government. Section 515 requires that the interrogatories shall be thought relevant by the Magistrate or Court directing the commission. Where a Subordinate Magistrate wishes for a commission, he will (section 516) apply to the District Magistrate, and not (as at present) to the Sessions Judge: this will relieve the Court of Session of a duty which can be more conveniently performed by the District Magistrate. And power is expressly given (section 518) to stay the inquiry or trial for a specified time reasonably sufficient for the execution and return of the commission.

63. Chapter XLII, Special Rules as to Evidence.—In proving the existence of circumstances as a defence under the 2nd, 3rd, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th or 10th Exception to section 499 of the Penal Code, section 521 of the Bill provides that good faith shall be presumed until the contrary appears. This is now the law in the Presidency-towns (Act XVIII of 1862, section 27) and may usefully be extended to the Mufassal.

64. Chapter XLIV, Disposal of property produced under the Code.—In accordance with a recent rule of the High Court at Bombay, section 528 declares that, when a High Court or Court of Session makes an order for the disposal of property, and cannot through its own officers conveniently deliver the property to the person entitled thereto, the Court may direct its order to be carried into effect by the committing Magistrate.

65. Orders under section 528 made in appealable cases will not be carried out until the time allowed for appealing has expired, or, if an appeal is presented in due time, until the appeal is dismissed.

66. Where an innocent purchaser buys stolen property and restores it to the lawful possessor, provision has been made (section 530) for payment of the price out of money found on the convicted thief. This is in accordance with 30 & 31 Vic., cap. 35, section 10.

67. Section 532 provides, in case of a conviction under the Penal Code, sections 292, 293, 501 or 502, for the destruction of the obscene books and defamatory matter in respect of which the conviction was had. It also provides for the destruction of adulterated or noxious food, drink or drugs in respect of which a conviction was had under sections 272—275 of the same Code.

68. Chapter XLV, Transfer of Criminal Cases.—Section 537 provides, in accordance with a Minute of Sir B. Peacock, cited I. L. R. 1 Calc. 223, that applications to the High Court for the transfer of cases shall be made by motion supported by affidavit or affirmation. The High Court has been empowered to transfer cases where the transfer will promote the ends of justice.

69. Chapter XLVI, Irregular Proceedings.—Tender of pardon under Chapter XXIV, and sale of property under section 535 or section 536, have been added to the list of proceedings which will not be set aside merely on the ground of the Magistrate not being duly empowered.

70. Chapter XLVII, Miscellaneous.—Power has been given (section 552) to the Local Government to fix places of imprisonment or custody. Moneys (other than fines) payable by virtue of any order made under the Code will be recoverable as if they were fines (section 558). The power to compel restoration of abducted females, which now exists only in the Presidency-towns, has been extended (section 562) to District Magistrates. Power has been given to the High Courts (section 564) to make rules for the inspection of the records of subordinate Courts. And as to miscellaneous criminal proceedings, if any doubt arise as to the procedure to be followed, the Court will be guided by such rules (consistent with the Code) as the High Court may make in this behalf (section 568). The Bill contains no clause equivalent to Act I of 1868, section 5, although similar provisions are contained in each of the Codes now consolidated (X of 1872, section 309, X of 1875, section 107, IV of 1877, section 12). The matter will be provided for by the Bill above-mentioned, to amend the Penal Code.

Schedules.

71. Schedules II and V, which correspond respectively with Schedules IV and II of Act X of 1872, have been altered so as to adapt them, not only to the Mufassal Courts, but to those of the Presidency Magistrates. The latter schedule now contains no less than 56 forms, which have stood the test of practice in the Presidency of Madras and the Panjáb.

The offence of voluntarily causing hurt has been made one for which the police may not arrest without a warrant. A like change has been made as to voluntarily causing hurt on grave and sudden provocation, not intending to hurt any other than the person who gave it. The numerous investigations by the police into charges of "hurt," which the present law renders necessary, are said to distract the attention of the police-force from more important duties, and to result in little good to the public.

The offence of adultery has been made triable by a Presidency Magistrate and a Magistrate of the first class.

The paragraph relating to mischief by fire with intent to cause damage has been altered in accordance with a proposed amendment of section 435 of the Penal Code. This alteration has been made in order to check the offence, which is very common in some parts of the country, of setting fire to garnered crops. A cultivator may have the whole of his crop destroyed in this way, and yet if its value be less than Rs. 100 (as is often the case) he cannot obtain the aid of the police to arrest the offender without a warrant from a Magistrate.

The lists of powers contained in section 21 et seq. of Act X of 1872 have been thrown into Schedules III and IV of the Bill.

72. The Bill was published in the Gazette of India for the 5th, 12th and 19th April 1879, and circulated to the various Local Governments, with a request that it might be examined by selected local officers. This was done, and the result of the examination is contained in a thick folio volume. The Bill was then revised with reference to this mass of criticism, and to the cases reported since it was framed; and it may truly be said, in its present form, to be the work of the whole body of Indian Judges and Magistrates rather than of any individual or Department. The additions and changes (other than omissions) which have been made in this second revision are printed in italics. The chief omission is that of the sections relating to limitation, which, in deference to many high authorities, have been struck out as unsuited to India.

73. It is proposed that the measure shall not come into force till 1st January 1883,—ten years from the date on which the present Code came into force. This is five years after the date on which, according to Sir FitzJames Stephen, the Code should have been re-enacted. "I should say," he writes in his well-known Minute on the Administration of Justice in British India, "that this process ought to be repeated at least once in every five years for every important Act."

74. Excluding the special provisions of the Acts relating respectively to Coroners, European British vagrants and criminal tribes, the Bill is now, so far as Mr. Cockerell, Mr. Colvin, Mr. Fitzpatrick and myself have been able to make it, a complete body of criminal procedure. No pains have been spared to render its provisions plain and practical; and in return all competent persons are earnestly asked to point out the mistakes and omissions which, notwithstanding the careful and repeated revision it has undergone, they will doubtless discover in so large and complicated a work.

culturist, shall be received in evidence for any purpose by any person having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence, or shall be acted upon by any such person or by any public officer unless such instrument has, before the first day of November, 1881, been produced before the Village Registrar appointed for the area in which the agriculturist, or where there are several such agriculturists, any one of the agriculturists, to whom such property belongs, resides, and been marked by such Registrar in such manner as the Local Government may by rule prescribe:

"Provided that nothing in this section shall—

"(a) apply to an instrument purporting to create a mortgage, lien or charge in favour of the Government or of any officer of the Government in his official capacity; or

"(b) prevent the admission of any instrument in evidence in any criminal proceeding."

Amendment of section 72.

10. In section seventy-two the words "against an agriculturist" shall be omitted, and in the same section after the word "money," the words "from a person who at the time when the cause of action arose was an agriculturist" shall be inserted.

New section substituted for section 75.

11. For section seventy-five the following section shall be substituted:—

Additional power to make rules.

"75. The Local Government may, from time to time, make rules:—

"(a) for defining more precisely what classes of persons shall be deemed to be agriculturists for the purposes of this Act;

"(b) generally for carrying out the provisions of this Act."

Certain instruments to be deemed produced before Village Registrar and marked under section 71.

12. Every instrument described in section seventy-one, as amended by this Act, which, before the passing of this Act, has been registered by a Village Registrar in accordance with rules prescribed in this behalf by the Inspector General of Registration, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, shall be deemed to have been duly produced before the Village Registrar and marked by him under the provisions of that section.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Bombay Government have brought to notice difficulties in the working of the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, for the removal of which it appears necessary to make certain amendments in that Act, and to carry out those amendments this Bill has been prepared.

The first amendment provided for is in section 2 of the Act. That section enacts in effect that every agriculturist shall be deemed for the purposes of the Act to reside where he works as such. This rule is found to give rise to difficulty in the case of agriculturists holding land in more than one place, and it is accordingly proposed to repeal it altogether.

2. The first portion of section 19 of the Act confers on the Courts power to discharge an insolvent who owes a sum of less than fifty rupees under a decree, and against whom there is no other claim; but it makes no provision for the case of an insolvent judgment-debtor, against whom there are other claims, but of amounts so trifling that, taken with the amount of the decree, they do not amount to fifty rupees. There appears to be no reason why this latter case should not be treated on the same footing as the former, the insolvency chapter of the Bill being equally inapplicable to both, and the Bill accordingly amends the Act so as to give power to discharge the judgment-debtor from the balance due under the decree in either case.

3. Section 38 of the Act prohibits the appointment of "an officer of police" as a conciliator. A doubt has arisen as to whether a police patel is to be deemed an officer of police within the meaning of this provision, and at the instance of the local Government an explanation has been added to the section to show that he is not.

4. The amendment proposed in section 48 of the Act merely corrects an oversight in drafting.

5. The addition which it is proposed to make to section 56 of the Act, is intended to dispense with the necessity of having an instrument executed before the Village Registrar, merely because a party executing it as a surety is an agriculturist.

The changes made in sections 57 and 58 are intended merely to make the meaning clearer.

6. The new section, which it is proposed to substitute for section 71 of the Bill, differs materially from the original one, though the object of both is the same, viz., to prevent the fabrication of mortgage deeds purporting to have been executed before the Act came into force.

The section as it now stands in the Act aims at effecting this object by requiring all existing mortgage deeds to be registered before a certain date under the Indian Registration Act; but it has been found that the practical difficulties in the way of such registration are so great that it is necessary to abandon this procedure and substitute for it the simpler expedient proposed by the Bill, of requiring such deeds to be merely produced before and marked by the Village Registrar before a certain date.

7. Section 72 of the Act, which prescribes periods of limitation longer than the ordinary periods for certain suits against agriculturists, applies in every case in which the defendant is an agriculturist at the time the suit is instituted. This would, in some cases, where the defendant had become an agriculturist shortly before the institution of the suit, lead to anomalous results.

To prevent this the Bill amends the section, so that it will apply only when the defendant was an agriculturist at the time the cause of action arose.

8. Difficulties having arisen as to the construction of the definition of "agriculturist," section 75 of the Act, which gives the Local Government a power to make rules, has been recast so as to admit of rules being made, among other matters, to define more precisely what classes of persons shall be deemed to be agriculturists for the purposes of the Act.

9. Section 12 of the Bill is intended to put mortgage deeds, executed before the Act came into force, and registered under a system of questionable legality established by the Local Government, on the same footing as if they had been marked by the Registrar under the new section 71.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First Publication.]

The following Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th March, 1881:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Courts of Small Causes established in the Presidency-towns was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

From Acting Under Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 7519, dated 9th November, 1880, and enclosures [Papers No. 1].
„ Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 2624, dated 2nd November, 1880, and enclosures [Papers No. 2].
„ Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 2662, dated 17th November, 1880, and enclosure [Papers No. 3].
„ D. Sealy, Esq., Vakil, High Court, Bombay, dated 26th November, 1880 [Paper No. 4].
Note by Hon'ble J. Sewell White, Judge, High Court, Calcutta, dated 13th December, 1880 [Paper No. 5].
From Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 67J., dated 7th January, 1881, and enclosures [Papers No. 6].
„ J. Crawford, Esq., Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 970, dated 30th May, 1879 [Papers No. 7].
„ H. J. Stephen, Esq., Barrister-at-law, High Court, Calcutta, dated 10th February, 1881, and enclosure [Papers No. 8].

2. We have added a clause to section 6 of the Bill giving the High Courts the same powers over the Small Cause Courts as they have under the 15th section of the High Courts Act over Courts subject to their appellate jurisdiction.

3. We have altered the section (7) relating to the appointment of the Judges so as to provide that one-third at least of the Judges shall be advocates of a High Court. We think the professional members of the Court should be chosen from the advocates of the High Courts, who may be expected to have acquired some experience of the country.

4. The Bill as introduced made the rank and precedence of the Judges depend on the seniority of their appointment. This would not have answered, as it appears that each seat in the Court has a special rank and salary of its own, and the candidates for appointment are posted to particular seats in the Court with reference to their respective qualifications. The second Judge ought, therefore, always to rank above the third, the third above the fourth, and so on, without any reference to the dates of their appointment, and we have accordingly, in section 8, after providing that the Chief Judge shall be the first in rank, introduced words leaving it to the Local Government to fix the rank of the rest.

5. Another change we have made in the constitution of the Court established by the Bill as introduced, consists in the transfer to the Chief Judge of certain administrative powers, (see section 13 and also sections 61 and 62), which, we think, would be more efficiently exercised by a single individual.

6. The only other amendment we need notice in this portion of the Bill is the insertion of a clause in section 13, providing for the appointment of a Registrar and a section (14) empowering the Local Government to invest him with jurisdiction to try suits up to the limit of Rs. 20 in value. This amendment has been made at the instance of the Government of Bengal, and there is a precedent for it in the Mufassal Small Cause Courts Act No. XI of 1865.

7. Turning now to the chapter relating to jurisdiction in respect of suits, the first change we have made will be found in section 18 of the amended Bill (= section 16 of the Bill as introduced). The reasons given for framing that section as it originally stood are thus given in the 7th paragraph of the Statement of Objects and Reasons:—

"Act IX of 1850, in conferring jurisdiction on the Courts up to a value of Rs. 500, confines its exercise to cases of defendants dwelling or carrying on business within the local limits. Act XXVI of 1864, on the other hand, in conferring jurisdiction between the values of Rs. 500 and Rs. 1,000, gives an alternative ground for its exercise, namely, the circumstance of the cause of action having arisen within the local limits. It has been urged by most of the authorities consulted that the basis of the jurisdiction should be the same in cases of all values. On the other hand, fears have been expressed by some that a power to institute a suit of the lower value against a defendant residing at a distance might be liable to abuse unless some limitation were imposed. The correct view of the matter seems to be that taken by the Judges of the Madras High Court and Mr. Busteed, namely, that in this particular no distinction should be made between the High Court and the Small Cause Court, and accordingly the Bill has been drawn so as to place the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court in this respect on precisely the same footing as that on which the jurisdiction of the High Court is placed by the Letters Patent."

The objection to the power to institute a suit in the Small Cause Court against a defendant residing at a distance has been again urged, and it is one to which we feel compelled to yield. We have accordingly inserted words requiring the leave of the Court to be obtained when it is proposed to institute a suit against a defendant residing beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction, and we have made this provision applicable to all suits without regard to value. The original scheme of putting the Small Cause Court jurisdiction on the same footing in this particular as the jurisdiction of the High Court being thus broken in upon, we have thought it best to bring the remainder of the section into conformity with the corresponding provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure.

8. In the following section, which excludes certain classes of suits from the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court, we have omitted the second clause, "suits against the Secretary of State in Council," as it appears to be generally objected to, and we have added the following:—

(1) suits for the specific performance or rescission of contracts generally (such suits are, as regards contracts relating to immoveable property, excluded by the Bill as introduced);
(2) suits for compensation for malicious prosecution;
(3) suits for the cancellation or rectification of instruments;
(4) suits relating to general average and to insurances on sea-going vessels;
(5) suits for compensation in respect of collisions at sea;
(6) suits for compensation for the infringement of a patent, copy-right or trade-mark;
(7) suits for a dissolution of partnership or for an account of partnership transations;
(8) suits for declaratory decrees;
(9) suits in which the plaintiff's claim depends on the decision of a question as to religious rites or ceremonies;
(10) suits for possession of a hereditary office;
(11) suits against Sovereign Princes or Ruling Chiefs, or against Ambassadors or Envoys of Foreign States.

The reasons for excluding these suits are so obvious that it is unnecessary to state them.

9. We have struck out the second clause of section 21 (new numbering), which deprived a plaintiff of costs in certain cases if he elected to institute in the High Court a suit against an officer of the Small Cause Court for a wrong done by him under colour of its process. We think that in all such cases a plaintiff should be allowed a free choice.

10. We have also struck out the latter portion of section 22 (new numbering), which specified the grounds on which a Judge in other cases, in which suits cognizable in the Small Cause Court are instituted in the High Court, may certify for costs, as we think that in such a matter the Judge should be allowed a full discretion.

11. Proceeding next to chapter V relating to procedure in suits, we desire to state that we have most carefully considered the objections urged against the first section of that chapter which applies to the Small Cause Courts a large portion of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Those objections, in so far as they come from the public, proceed chiefly from those classes of persons who most frequently appear as plaintiffs in suits of a very simple description, and we can well understand the apprehension they feel that the application of so large portion of the ordinary procedure may, in suits of that class, give rise to complication and delay. But it must be remembered that the great bulk of the provisions so extended are of such a nature as to be applicable only in exceptional cases, and we think that any one who follows the thread of the provisions applicable to ordinary suits will find the procedure to be extremely simple. Moreover, we find that a considerable portion of the Code has been actually in force for some time past in the Madras Small Cause Court, where the statistics show the amount of work performed by each Judge to be as large as in the Small Cause Courts at Calcutta and Bombay, and we further find that the Judges of the Calcutta Small Cause Court themselves propose to apply with little variation the great bulk of the sections contained in the second schedule to this Bill.

12. We have, however, in deference to the apprehensions which have been expressed, gone through the schedule item by item, and have struck out some portions; among others those requiring copies of the plaint or concise statements to be filed with the plaint, those relating to discovery, those requiring judgments to be in writing, and the whole chapter relating to pauper suits.

We have, moreover, in order to relieve the Judges, inserted in the body of the Bill a section (35) based on section 637 of the Code, empowering the Court to direct that any non-judicial or quasi-judicial act which the Code requires to be done by a Judge shall be done by a ministerial officer, and we think that the procedure as now settled is as simple as it can safely be made, and as the majority of the litigants would desire it to be.

13. We have added a section providing that no decision passed under the Act shall be conclusive, except as to the right to the relief granted or the absence of a right to the relief withheld by it. This provision, which cuts away to a great extent the doctrine of res judicata, will no doubt leave it open to persistent parties to litigate a second time questions which may have been already carefully considered and well decided; but we think it better to take the risk of this than to take the risk of having difficult questions of title to property of large value and complicated issues governing extensive transactions finally decided under an Act like this in the first petty case in which they may chance to present themselves.

14. We have extended section 27 (new numbering) to cases in which the plaintiff does not altogether fail in his suit, but fails to recover the full amount of his claim and to cases in which unfounded objections are made to the attachment of property in execution of decree.

15. Section 30 is new. The law, as it at present stands in this country, would appear to be peculiarly indulgent to tenants in the matter of the right to remove what they may have attached to the soil, and yet the holder of a decree of the Small Cause Court is probably precluded (unless he chooses to resort to the High Court) from taking in execution of such decree even some such things as might be taken under a fieri facias in England. It has, at all events, been held that though tenants in Calcutta have a right to remove "tiled huts," such huts cannot be taken in execution of decrees of the Small Cause Court. The landlords complain of this as a hardship, and we think not without reason; but the remedy should not, in our opinion, be limited to this particular case, and we have accordingly provided that anything which the tenant would be entitled to remove during his tenancy may be taken in the execution of a decree against him as if it were a moveable.

16 We have at the instance of the Judges of the Calcutta Small Cause Court substituted for the latter portion of section 230 of the Code a section (28) providing that no decree of a Small Cause Court shall be executed after the lapse of three years from the date on which it is passed, unless the judgment-debtor by force or fraud has prevented its execution within the three years.

17. We have, in section 34 of the Bill, restored section 31 of Act IX of 1850, which allows minors to sue for a sum not exceeding Rs. 500 due for wages, or piece-work or for work as a servant, as if they were of full age, but we have, to prevent mistake, expressly limited it to cases where such money is due under section 70 of the Contract Act, the only law, as we believe, under which a minor can now acquire a right to such money.

18. The only other amendment we have to notice in the chapter relating to procedure is the insertion of certain sections (36 to 38) providing for the exercise of the jurisdiction which may be conferred on the Registrar under section 14.

19. We have introduced a new chapter (VI) to include the section providing for a new trial and certain additional sections establishing a mode of having a suit of a value above Rs. 500, re-heard in the High Court, as if it had been instituted in that court. These sections, which have been proposed by Mr. Kennedy, are based on the provisions enacted by the 14th & 15th Vic. c. 57, for the Irish Civil Bill Courts, and they have in our opinion this advantage, that they provide, in cases where there has been a failure of justice, a substitute for an appeal without entailing the necessity of any elaborate record of evidence being kept by the Court below.

20. We have omitted the chapters which would have conferred on the Small Cause Courts jurisdiction in certain classes of insolvency and probate business, as we believe that unless the Court were to hear cases which, owing to their intricacy and difficulty, ought to be removed into the High Court, the saving of time to the High Court would be altogether unimportant. There is no doubt that the High Courts at present dispose of much petty business of these classes, but it is done for the most part in the offices of the Court, and costs the Judges little time or labour.

We may add that, so far as the grant of probates and letters of administration is concerned, we believe that the object in view will be better secured by the extension of the certificate system effected by Act No. IX of 1881.

21. We have confined section 59, which prevents the fees of a legal practitioner being recovered as costs unless his employment is held to be reasonable, to cases where the amount or value in dispute is less than Rs. 20. We do not see why in cases where a larger amount is at stake the ordinary rules as to allowing costs should not apply.

22. Lastly, we have inserted a section (72) to determine the functions of legal practitioners in the Small Cause Court. Its first clause provides that no persons other than advocates, attorneys and vakíls of the High Court and persons who are now pleaders of the Small Cause Court shall appear, plead or act in the Small Cause Court. We do not think it desirable to admit an inferior class of legal practitioners, whose business would be confined to the Small Cause Courts, and, accordingly, while we would save the rights of pleaders already admitted, we would bar the admission of any others.

The second clause of the section confines the right to conduct as counsel a suit at the hearing, in the extended jurisdiction now for the first time conferred on the Court, to advocates and vakíls of the High Court, and requires that a barrister so conducting a suit shall be instructed by an attorney or vakíl, or by a pleader of the Small Cause Court. The reasons for this latter requirement are obvious.

The section, it need hardly be mentioned, saves the right of parties to conduct their own cases, and appear for one another, and also the rights of recognized agents.

23. The publication of the Bill, with its Statement of Objects and Reasons, in English, has been reported by the Governments of Madras, Bombay and Bengal. We consider that the changes now made are such as to render its re-publication desirable; and we have accordingly altered the date on which it should come into force to the 1st January, 1882, and recommend that it now be re-published.

The 4th March, 1881.

I THINK that the limit in section 22 ought to be reduced from Rs. 2,000 to 1,000. In other respects I agree in the report.

PROCEDURE IN SUITS.

Portions of Civil Procedure Code extending to the Court.

23. The chapters and sections of the Code of Civil Procedure specified in the second schedule hereto annexed shall extend, and shall, so far as the same may, in the judgment of the Court, be applicable, be applied, to the Small Cause Court; and the procedure prescribed thereby shall be the procedure followed in the Court in all suits cognizable by it, except where such procedure is inconsistent with the procedure prescribed by any specific provisions of this Act.

New

Res judicata.

24. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 13 of the Code of Civil Procedure, no decision passed under the provisions of this Act shall be conclusive as to anything except the right at the time of such decision to the relief granted thereby, or the absence of a right at such time to any relief claimed by the plaintiff and withheld by such decision.

Illustrations.

(a). A sues B in the Small Cause Court for compensation for damage done by B to a house which A alleges to be his own. B denies that the house is A's. The Court decides that the house is A's, and that he is entitled to Rs. 100 compensation. The decision is conclusive as to A's right to the compensation, but not as to his title to the house, and, if A subsequently sues B for further damage done to the same house, B is not precluded from again questioning A's title.

(b). A sues B in the Small Cause Court for an instalment alleged to be due on a bond purporting to be executed by B. B denies the execution of the bond. The Court finds the execution proved, and gives A a decree for the amount of the instalment. A subsequently sues B for a later instalment on the same bond; B is not precluded from again denying the execution.

(c). A sues B as in illustration (b). B denies the execution of the bond, and the Court, finding that B's signature was forged, dismisses the suit. This does not preclude A from suing again on the bond.

(d). A sues B in the Small Cause Court for possession of a horse which A alleges to be his property, and to have been lent to B to use during A's pleasure. B denies that the horse is A's. The Court finds that the horse is A's, and gives him a decree for possession, and A recovers possession of the horse. B, subsequently alleging that the horse is his, sues A for possession of it. The decision in the former suit is no bar to B.

New.

No written statement except in cases of set-off.

25. Except in cases of set-off under the Code of Civil Procedure, section 111, no written statement shall be received unless required by the Court.

Act X of 1877, s. 144.

Return of documents admitted in evidence.

26. When a period of eight days from the decision of a suit has expired without any application for a new trial or re-hearing of such suit having been made, or, when any such application has been made within such period and such application has been refused, or the new trial or re-hearing (as the case may be) has ended, any person, whether a party to the suit or not, desirous of receiving back any document produced by him in the suit and placed on the record, shall, unless the document is impounded under section 143 of the Code of Civil Procedure, be entitled to receive back the same:

Provided that a document may be returned at any time before any of such events if the person applying for such return delivers to the proper officer a certified copy of such document to be substituted for the original. Provided also that no document shall be returned which by force of the decree has become void or useless.

On the return of a document which has been admitted in evidence, a receipt shall be given by the party receiving it, in a receipt-book to be kept for the purpose.

Act IX of 1850, s. 42.

Compensation payable by plaintiff to defendant in certain cases.

27. In any suit in which the defendant appears and does not admit the claim, and the plaintiff does not obtain a decree for the full amount of his claim, the Small Cause Court may in its discretion order the plaintiff to pay to the defendant, by way of satisfaction for his trouble and attendance, such sum as it thinks fit.

When any claim preferred, or objection made, under section 278 of the Code of Civil Procedure, is disallowed, the Small Cause Court may in its discretion order the person preferring or making such claim or objection to pay to the decree-holder, or to the judgment-debtor, or to both, by way of satisfaction as aforesaid, such sum or sums as it thinks fit.

Any order under this section may, in default of payment of the amount payable thereunder, be enforced by the person in whose favour it is made against the person against whom it is made as if it were a decree of the Court.

Bar to applications for execution of decrees.

28. No application to execute a decree passed under this Act shall be received after the expiration of three years from the date of such decree, unless the judgment-debtor has, within the three years following such date, by force or fraud prevented the execution of such decree.

Decree-holder to accompany officer executing warrant.

29. Whenever the Small Cause Court issues a warrant for the arrest of a judgment-debtor or the attachment of his property, the decree-holder, or some other person on his behalf, shall accompany the officer of the Court entrusted with the execution of such warrant, and shall point out to such officer the judgment-debtor or the property to be attached, as the case may be.

Things attached to immoveable property and removeable by tenant to be deemed moveable in execution.

30. When the judgment-debtor under any decree of the Small Cause Court, is a tenant of immoveable property, anything attached to such property, and which he might before the termination of his tenancy lawfully remove without the permission of his landlord, shall, for the purpose of the execution of such decree, be deemed to be moveable property, and may, if sold in such execution, be severed by the purchaser, but shall not be removed by him from the property until he has done to the property whatever the judgment-debtor would have been bound to do to it if he had removed such thing.

Act IX of 1850, s. 66.

Discharge of judgment-debtor on sufficient security.

31. Whenever any judgment-debtor, who has been arrested in execution of a decree of the Small Cause Court, offers security to the satisfaction of such Court for payment of the amount which he has been ordered to pay and the costs, the Court may order him to be discharged.

Act IX of 1850, s. 71. (See I.L.R. 5 Calc., p. 294.)

Court may in certain cases suspend execution of decree.

32. Whenever it appears to the Small Cause Court that any judgment-debtor under its decree is unable, from sickness or other sufficient cause, to pay the amount of the decree, or, if such Court has ordered the same to be paid in instalments, the amount of any instalment thereof, it may, from time to time, for such time and upon such terms as it thinks fit, suspend the execution of such decree.

Act XI of 1865, s. 20.

Execution of decree of Small Cause Court by other Courts.

33. If the judgment-debtor under any decree of the Small Cause Court has not, within the local limits of its jurisdiction, moveable property sufficient to satisfy the decree, the Court may, on the application of the decree-holder, send the decree for execution—

(a) in the case of execution against immoveable property situate within such local limits—to the High Court;

(b) in all other cases—to any Civil Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such judgment-debtor, or any moveable or immoveable property of such judgment-debtor, may be found.

Procedure when decree transferred.

The procedure prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure for the execution of decrees by Courts other than those which made them shall be the procedure followed in such cases.

Act IX of 1850 s. 31.

Minors may sue in certain cases as if of full age.

34. Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Civil Procedure as applied by this Act, any minor may institute a suit for any sum of money, not exceeding five hundred rupees, which may be due to him under section seventy of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, for wages or piece-work or for work as a servant, in the same manner as if he were of full age.

Act X of 1877, s. 637.

Power to delegate non-judicial duties.

35. Any non-judicial or quasi-judicial act which the Code of Civil Procedure as applied by this Act requires to be done by a Judge, and any act which may be done by a Commissioner appointed to examine and adjust accounts under section 394 of that Code as so applied, may be done by the Registrar of the Small Cause Court or by such other officer of that Court as that Court may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf.

The High Court may, from time to time, by rule declare what shall be deemed to be non-judicial and quasi-judicial acts within the meaning of this section.

New.

Registrar to hear and determine suits like a Judge.

36. The suits cognizable by the Registrar under section fourteen shall be heard and determined by him in like manner in all respects as a Judge of the Court might hear and determine the same:

Proviso.

D. FITZPATRICK,
Secretary to the Government of India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First Publication.]

The following third Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th March, 1881:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to define and amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property was referred, have the honour to state that the Report of the Indian Law Commissioners, 1879, was duly communicated to us. We have carefully considered so much of it as relates to that Bill, as well as the papers specified in the annexed list; and, in compliance with the wish of the Secretary of State for India, as expressed in his despatch (Legislative) No. 37, dated 7th October, 1880, we have now the honour to present this our third Report.

We agree generally in the enlargement of the Bill effected by the Law Commissioners, and we shall in this Report refer to the Bill as settled by them, and published in the Gazette of India for the 17th and 24th January, 1880.

CHAPTER I.—PRELIMINARY.

We have rendered the definition of "attached to the earth" inapplicable to objects which merely rest upon the earth. And we have amended the definition of "notice" by making it apply expressly to a case where a person wilfully abstains from a search in a register which he ought to have made.

CHAPTER II.—TRANSFERS OF PROPERTY BY ACT OF PARTIES.

This chapter, after declaring what rights are inalienable and by what persons transfers may be made, proceeds to declare restrictions of the transfer of property called for in the interests of society. These restrictions are in substance identical with those contained in the Indian Succession Act, and rights and liabilities arising out of customs or personal laws are sufficiently saved by section 2, clause (a).

We have amended section 6 (as to what may be transferred) in these respects:—First, we have in the first clause substituted "Act" for "section." The effect will be to place Hindús on the same footing as Europeans as regards the power to make settlements, on marriage or otherwise, on persons not in existence at the date of the transfer. Although, no doubt, it has been laid down that the general principle of the Hindú law is that a donee must be in existence at the time of the gift, such settlements are in accordance with Native usage.

Secondly, we have re-drawn clause (a) thus:—

"(a) The chance of an heir-apparent succeeding to an estate, the chance of a relation obtaining a legacy on the death of a kinsman, or any other mere possibility of the same nature, cannot be transferred: the chance of a Hindú heir succeeding to property in the possession of a Hindú female cannot be transferred to any one except the present or future owner or co-owner of the property affected thereby."

Thirdly, we have made clause (c) run thus:—

"(c) An easement cannot be transferred apart from the dominant heritage."

Fourthly, we have extended clause (e) to rights to sue for harm illegally caused to property.

We think that the power to transfer property to or for the benefit of women, so that they shall not be able, during their marriage, to transfer or charge the same should be confined, as it is now, to women not being Hindús, Muhammadans or Buddhists; and we have altered section 10 accordingly.

It cannot be denied that one school of Muhammadan law does, as stated in the books, permit a settlement on a person, his children and their offspring in perpetuity. But in practice this form of settlement is obsolete, and, if made, the Courts would now refuse to recognise it as valid. We think, therefore, that section 14, which prohibits this kind of perpetuity, may stand unaltered. Baillie, p. 571.

We have shortened and simplified the sections (33, 34) which deal respectively with conditions that a transferee shall perform an act at or before a specified time, and like conditions wherein no such time is specified.

We do not think that the proposition laid down in section 40, as to a Hindú's right to receive maintenance from the profits of immoveable property, can be said to be authoritatively settled, and there are good grounds for questioning it.

We have therefore re-drawn the first clause of section 40 thus :—

"40. Where a third person has a right to receive maintenance or a provision for advancement or marriage from the profits of immoveable property, and such property is transferred with the intention of defeating the right, such right may be enforced against a transferee with notice of such intention, or a gratuitous transferee of the property affected by the right, but not against a transferee for consideration and without notice of the right, nor against such property in his hands."

The remainder of section 40, though suggested by English cases, is, in our opinion, founded on general principles of equity applicable to India, and may, therefore, fitly be left unaltered in the Bill.

Section 41 has been amended so as to bring a benámidár clearly within its operation.

We have confined section 42 to cases of transfers for consideration by persons having authority to revoke the transfer.

To the section (44) dealing with transfer by one co-owner we have added a clause declaring that, when the transferee of a share of a dwelling-house belonging to an undivided family is a stranger, nothing in this section shall be deemed to entitle him to joint possession or other common or part enjoyment of the house.

We have confined section 53 to cases of fraudulent transfer. To provide, as it now does, for fraudulent forfeitures would involve a change in the law the consequences of which cannot easily be foreseen.

CHAPTER III.—SALES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

We agree with Sir Henry Maine as to the desirability of rendering the system of transfer of immoveable property a system of public transfer; and we are inclined to go a little further in this direction than seemed good to the Law Commissioners. Thus, we think that in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing, though its value may be less than Rs. 100, the transfer should be made only by registered assurance; and we have altered section 54 accordingly.

As to the duties of the seller, we think that, except where the property is sold subject to incumbrances, he should be bound to discharge all incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the sale; that he should not be bound to deliver the title-deeds till the whole of the purchase-money has been paid. We also think that the Bill may reasonably declare, as it does, that, in the absence of a stipulation to the contrary, the seller shall be deemed to contract that the interest which he assumes to transfer subsists and that he has power to make the transfer; but where he sells in a fiduciary character, we would follow the present practice, and declare simply that he shall be deemed to contract that he has done no act whereby the property is incumbered, or he is hindered from transferring it. We have altered section 55, clauses (a) (7), (8), (9), accordingly.

The proposition laid down in clause (c) (1), that a purchaser is bound to disclose any fact unknown to the vendor which increases his interest in the property, e. g., the actual or imminent death of a prior life-tenant, has been questioned by a high authority. It appears to us in exact accordance with the rule laid down in Turner v. Harvey, Jac. 169; Ellard v Lord Llanduff, 1 Ball & B. 241; and (on the sale of a life-policy) Jones v. Keene, 2 Moo. & R. 348. We have, however, made a verbal amendment in this clause.

As to the duties of the buyer, we have struck out the clause requiring him to retransfer the property sold, where the ownership has passed before payment of the purchase-money and he fails to pay or tender it. In such case the seller's lien is, we think, sufficient.

As to the buyer's rights, we think that his lien as against the seller for purchase-money paid in anticipation should be available against all persons claiming under the seller with notice of the payment. We have altered the section accordingly.

Where two properties are subject to a common charge and one is sold, the buyer's right as against the seller to have the charge satisfied out of the other property does not depend on whether or not the buyer had notice of the charge. We have, therefore, struck out of section 56 the words relating to notice.

CHAPTER IV.—MORTGAGES.

We think that in the definition of simple mortgage the expression "makes it a collateral security" is likely to give rise to difficulties. We also think that a transaction may be a "mortgage by conditional sale" although accompanied by possession, and in the definition of usufructuary mortgage the words "or agrees to deliver" and "actual" seem unnecessary. We have therefore amended these definitions as follows :—

Simple Mortgage.

"Where, without delivering possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor binds himself personally to pay the mortgage-money and agrees expressly or impliedly that, in the event of his failing to pay according to his contract, the mortgagee shall have a right to cause the mortgaged property to be sold and the proceeds of sale to be applied, so far as may be necessary, in payment of what may be due to him on the mortgage, the transaction is called a simple mortgage and the mortgagee a simple mortgagee."

Mortgage by Conditional Sale.

"Where the mortgagor ostensibly sells the mortgaged property on condition that in default of payment of the mortgage-money on a certain date the sale shall become absolute, or

"on condition that on such payment being made, the sale shall become void, or

"on condition that on such payment being made, the buyer shall re-transfer the property to the seller,

"the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale and the mortgagee a mortgagee by conditional sale."

Usufructuary Mortgage.

"Where the mortgagor delivers possession of the property to the mortgagee and authorises him to retain such possession until payment of the mortgage-money, and to receive the rents and profits accruing from the property and to appropriate them in lieu of interest or in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage and the mortgagee an usufructuary mortgagee."

We agree with the Law Commissioners that the requirement of registration will not only discourage fraud and facilitate investigations of title, but that it will also preclude some difficult question of priority. A majority of us, however, think that where the principal money secured is less than Rs. 100, the assurance need not be registered. And we have altered the Bill accordingly. Our colleague Mr. Stokes dissents from this alteration, as, in his opinion, all incumbrances should appear on the register: those who mortgage their property for small amounts, as a rule, require protection from fraud more than those who mortgage for large amounts, and the changes impending in the working of the law will deprive the requirement of registration of all hardship even in the pettiest cases.

A majority of us are of opinion that equitable mortgages by deposit of title-deeds should be valid when they are made in Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Rangoon and Karáchí. The practice of raising money on such securities has long been established in those towns, and any attempt to disturb it would cause much inconvenience. Here, again, Mr. Stokes dissents on the grounds (a) that such mortgages are opposed to the policy of the registration-law; (b) that they lead to evasions of the stamp-duty; (c) that they are at variance with the principle of making the system of transfer of immoveable property, as far as possible, a system of public transfer; and (d) that, when the amount secured is Rs. 100 or upwards, they would be inconsistent with the general rule in section 58 requiring a written instrument.

We think, with Mr. Justice West, that nothing in the section (59) declaring the mortgagor's right to redeem should invalidate any provision to the effect that, if the time fixed for payment of the principal money has been allowed to pass, or no such time has been fixed, the mortgagee shall be entitled to reasonable notice before payment or tender of such money. In like manner, we think that nothing in section 82 or 83 should deprive the mortgagee of his right to interest where there exists a contract that he shall be entitled to such notice.

We concur with the Law Commissioners in the solution which they have proposed (section 68) of the moot question as to whether a power of sale conferred on the mortgagee is invalid, and as there is no prospect of the High Courts or the Privy Council making an authoritative declaration on the subject, we think it desirable to settle the matter by legislation as soon as possible.

For the section (98) as to the abandonment of his security where a mortgagee attaches and sells the mortgaged property, we have substituted the following :—

"98. Where a mortgagee, in execution of a decree for the satisfaction of any claim, whether arising under the mortgage or not, attaches the mortgaged property, he shall not be entitled to bring such property to sale otherwise than by instituting a suit under section 66."

We think that the High Court should have power to make rules for carrying out the provisions of this chapter.

CHAPTER V.—LEASES.

This chapter will, in our opinion, be of practical use in the case of leases of buildings, gardens and mines. We agree with the Law Commissioners that it should not of itself apply to the relations between zamindár and raiyat, and we think that the power given to the Local Government by section 115 (now 116) to extend any of the provisions of the chapter to agricultural leases should only be exercised with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, and that the requisite notification should not take effect until the expiry of six months from the date of its publication.

The rule laid down in section 106, clause (i), as to the removeability of tenants' fixtures, has been objected to as not in accordance with the laws in force in this country. But it will operate only in the absence of a contract or local usage to the contrary, and will not in practice apply to tenants in husbandry. Moreover, it is impossible to say with certainty what the law of India on the subject really is. The Courts would, therefore, turn for guidance to the Civil law and the law of England. The Civil law permits a tenant to remove all fixtures where this can be effected without material injury to the property, and the strictness of the law of England has been relaxed where the fixtures have been annexed for the purposes of trade or manufacture, ornament, furniture and domestic use or convenience. The clause in question seems to us to represent with reasonable accuracy the rules of the Civil and the English law.

CHAPTER VI.—GIFTS.

We agree with the Law Commissioners that registration should be required in the case of gifts of immoveable property of whatever value. Such gifts are, as a rule, made by a written instrument, and as, under the Registration Act (III of 1877, section 17, clause (a)), the registration of such instruments is compulsory, the change of the existing law here proposed is almost nominal.

We have struck out the clause in section 121 (now 122) which is founded on the rule in the Succession Act as to bequests to attesting witnesses. It is, we think, inapplicable to a transaction inter vivos, where the donor can give evidence of his intention.

We have also struck out the section (120) which declares that the donor is not bound to warranty. It seems to the majority of us useless as denying what no one in this country would ever assert. Our colleague Mr. Stokes would retain it as precluding a doubt which may reasonably be felt by the Courts (see Burge II, 145).

We have made verbal and other unimportant amendments in sections 11, 25, 36, 37, 51, 59, 61, 64, 80, 81, 90, 91, 99, 101, 106, 126, 133.

The Bill as now settled seems to us a systematic and useful arrangement of the existing law. But we agree with the Law Commissioners that, when the body of substantive civil law enacted for India is recast in a more compact and convenient form than that of a series of fragmentary portions from time to time passed by the legislature, the chapters on Sale, Mortgage, Lease and Exchange contained in the present Bill will probably be placed in close connection with the rules contained in the Contract Act. Till then they may fitly be left in a law containing what the Contract Act does not contain, namely, general rules regulating the transmission of property between living persons.

We do not think that these rules, as now amended, will substantially alter or add to the existing law, or that they will invade or displace the functions of the Judges of the existing Courts. We, therefore, recommend that the Bill be passed. Drawn originally in England by the former Indian Law Commissioners, it was revised by Sir A. Hobhouse and introduced into the Council of the Governor General in June, 1877. It has since been twice circulated to the Local Governments for opinion and publication, and twice reported on by Select Committees, in February, 1878, and February, 1879. It was then carefully revised by the late Indian Law Commission. It has now been again revised by us. We think, therefore, of this Bill, as of the Bill dealing with negotiable instruments, that it is not now likely to be improved without the experience to be gained from its actual working. We recommend, however, that it should be republished in the Gazette of India with this Report; and, in obedience to the orders of the Secretary of State, it must also be sent home to him, published in the local Gazettes, and translated into the vernacular languages.

Our hon'ble colleagues Messrs. Grant and Paul have not been able to attend our meetings, and do not, therefore, sign this report.

CHAPTER II.

OF TRANSFERS OF PROPERTY BY ACT OF PARTIES.

5. In the following sections "transfer" means an act by which one living person conveys to another, or to himself and another, or to himself and another, in present or in future, the ownership of property or an interest therein, and "to transfer" is to perform such act.

"Transfer" defined.

6. The ownership of property of any kind may be transferred, except as otherwise provided by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force:—

What may be transferred.

Carlton v. Carlton, 3 Ves.: Cf. Act X of 1877, s. 266, clause (b).

(a) The chance of an heir-apparent succeeding to an estate, the chance of a relation obtaining a legacy on the death of a kinsman, or any other mere possibility of a like nature, cannot be transferred. The chance of a Hindú heir succeeding to property in the possession of a Hindú female cannot be transferred to any one except the present or future owner or co-owner of the property affected thereby.

Smith v. Packhurst, 3 Atk. 139.

(b) A mere right of re-entry for breach of a condition subsequent cannot be transferred to any one except the owner of the property affected thereby.

(c) An easement cannot be transferred apart from the dominant heritage.

(d) An interest in property restricted in its enjoyment to the owner personally cannot be transferred by him.

(e) A mere right to sue for compensation for a fraud or for harm illegally caused cannot be transferred.

(f) A public office cannot be transferred, nor can the salary of a public officer whether before or after it has become payable.

Cf. 11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, 27.

(g) Stipends allowed to military and civil pensioners of Government and political pensions cannot be transferred.

7. Every person competent to contract and entitled to transferable property, or authorized to dispose of transferable property not his own, is competent to transfer such property either wholly or in part and either absolutely or conditionally, in the circumstances, to the extent and in the manner allowed and prescribed by any law for the time being in force.

Bill, s. 4: Bill III, s. 5: Report, s. 4.

Persons competent to transfer.

8. Unless a different intention is expressed or necessarily implied, a transfer of property passes forthwith to the transferee all the interest which the transferor is then capable of passing in such property, and in the legal incidents thereof.

Bill, s. 10; Bill III, s. 6: Report, s. 10: v. last clause, Report, s. 6: 2 W. R. 125 (buildings): 14 W. R. 379.

Operation of transfer.

Such incidents include, where the property is land, the easements annexed thereto, the rents and profits thereof accruing after the transfer, and all things attached to the earth; and, where the property is machinery attached to the earth, the moveable parts thereof;

N.-W. P., 1870, p. 251: 24 W. R. 330 (trees), "everything grown on it," Morley N. S. 259.

and, where the property is a house, the easements annexed thereto, the rent thereof accruing after the transfer, and the locks, keys, bars, doors, windows and all other things provided for permanent use therewith;

and, where the property is a debt or other actionable claim, the securities therefor, but not arrears of interest accrued before the transfer;

and, where the property is money or other property yielding income, the interest or income thereof accruing after the ownership passes.

9. A transfer may be made without writing in every case in which a writing is not expressly required by law.

7 Exp. 581.

Oral transfer.

10. Where a transfer is subject to a condition or limitation absolutely restraining the transferee or any person claiming under him from parting with or disposing of his interest in the property transferred, the condition or limitation is void except in the case of a lease where the condition is for the benefit of the lessor or those claiming under him: provided that property may be transferred to or for the benefit of a woman (not being a Hindú, Muhammadan or Buddhist), so that she shall not have power during her marriage to transfer or charge the same or her beneficial interest therein.

Report, s. 47: L. R. 3 Chan. D. 148, 285.

Condition restraining alienation.

Act X of 1865, s. 125.

11. Where on a transfer of property an interest is created absolutely in favour of any person, but the terms of the transfer direct that such interest shall be applied or enjoyed in a particular manner, he shall be entitled to receive and dispose of such interest as if there were no such direction.

Restriction repugnant to interest created.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the right to restrain for the beneficial enjoyment of one piece of immoveable property, the enjoyment of another piece of such property, or to compel the enjoyment thereof in a particular manner.

Report, s. 48: See Act X of 1865, s. 107.

12. Where property is transferred subject to a condition or limitation making any interest therein reserved or given to or for the benefit of any person to cease on his becoming insolvent or endeavouring to transfer or dispose of the same, such condition or limitation is void.

Condition making interest determinable on insolvency or attempted alienation.

Nothing in this section applies to a condition in a lease for the benefit of the lessor or those claiming under him.

Act X of 1865, s. 100. Report, s. 49.

13. Where on a transfer of property an interest is created for the benefit of a person not in existence at the date of the transfer, subject to a prior interest created by the same transfer, the interest created for the benefit of such person shall not take effect, unless it extends to the whole of the remaining interest of the transferor in the property.

Transfer for benefit of person not in existence at date of transfer, subject to prior transfer.

Illustration.

A transfers property of which he is the owner to B in trust for A and his intended wife successively for their lives, and after the death of the survivor for the eldest son of the intended marriage for life, and after his death for his second son. The interest so created for the benefit of the eldest son does not take effect, because it does not extend to the whole of A's remaining interest in the property.

Report, s. 50, Succession Act, s. 101.

14. No transfer can operate to create an interest which is to take effect after the life-time of one or more persons living at the date of such transfer, and the minority of some person who shall be in existence at the expiration of that period, and to whom, if he attains full age, the interest created is to belong.

Rule against perpetuity.

Report, s. 51: Bentinck v. Duke of Portland, 7 Chan. D. 693.

15. If on a transfer of property an interest is created for the benefit of a class of persons with regard to some of whom such interest fails by reason of any of the rules contained in sections thirteen and fourteen, such interest fails as regards the whole class.

Transfer to class some of whom come under sections 13 and 14.

Report, s. 52.

16. Where an interest fails by reason of any of the rules contained in sections thirteen, fourteen and fifteen, any interest created in the same transaction and intended to take effect after or upon failure of such prior interest also fails.

Transfer to take effect on failure of prior transfer.

17. The restrictions in sections fourteen, fifteen and sixteen shall not apply to property transferred for the benefit of the public in the advancement of religion, knowledge, commerce, health, safety or any other object beneficial to mankind.

Transfer in perpetuity for benefit of public.

Act X of 1865, s. 104: Report, s. 53.

18. Where the terms of a transfer of property direct that the income arising therefrom shall be accumulated, such direction shall be void, and the property shall be disposed of as if no accumulation had been directed.

Direction for accumulation.

Donaldson v. Donaldson, L. R. 3 Chan. Div. 743.

Exception.—Where the property is immoveable or where accumulation is directed to be made from the date of the transfer, the direction shall be valid in respect only of the income arising from the property within one year next following such date; and at the end of the year such property and income shall be disposed of respectively as if the period during which the accumulation has been directed to be made had elapsed.

Report, ss. 56, 57, altered.

19. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of a person without specifying the time when it is to take effect, or in terms specifying that it is to take effect, forthwith or on the happening of an event which must happen, such interest is vested, unless a contrary intention appears from the terms of the transfer.

Vested interest.

A vested interest is not defeated by the death of the transferee before he obtains possession.

Explanation.—An intention that an interest shall not be vested is not to be inferred merely from a provision whereby the enjoyment thereof is postponed, or whereby a prior interest in the same property is given or reserved to some other person, or whereby income arising from the property is directed to be accumulated until the time of enjoyment arrives, or from a provision that if a particular event shall happen the interest shall pass to another person.

Report, s. 58, altered.

20. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created for the benefit of a person not then living, he acquires upon his birth, unless a contrary intention appear from the terms of the transfer, a vested interest, although he may not be entitled to the enjoyment thereof immediately on his birth.

Transfer for benefit of person not then living.

Act X of 1865, s. 107: Report, s. 59: IX, 72-33.

21. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of a person to take effect only on the happening of a specified uncertain event, or if a specified uncertain event shall not happen, such person thereby acquires a contingent interest in the property. Such interest becomes a vested interest, in the former case, on the happening of the event, in the latter, when the happening of the event becomes impossible.

Contingent interest.

Exception.—Where under a transfer a person becomes entitled to an interest in property upon attaining a particular age, and the transferor also gives to him absolutely the income to arise from such interest before he reaches that age, or directs the income or so much thereof as may be necessary to be applied for his benefit, such interest is not contingent.

Act X of 1865, s. 108: Report, s. 60.

Transfer to members of a class who attain a particular age.

22. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of such members only of a class as shall attain a particular age, such interest does not vest in any member of the class who has not attained that age.

Act X of 1865, s. 111: Report, s. 61.

Transfer contingent on happening of specified uncertain event.

23. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is to accrue to a specified person if a specified uncertain event shall happen, and no time is mentioned for the occurrence of that event, the interest fails unless such event happens before, or at the same time as, the intermediate or precedent interest ceases to exist.

Act X of 1865, s. 112.

Transfer to such of certain persons as survive at some period not specified.

24. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is to accrue to such of certain persons as shall be surviving at some period, but the exact period is not specified, the interest shall go to such of them as shall be alive when the intermediate or precedent interest ceases to exist, unless a contrary intention appears from the terms of the transfer.

Illustration.

A transfers property to B for life, and after his death to C and D, equally to be divided between them, or to the survivor of them. C dies during the life of B. D survives B. At B's death the property passes to D.

Act X of 1865, s. 113: Act X of 1865, s. 114, expanded with reference to Act IX of 1872, s. 23.

Conditional transfer.

25. An interest created on a transfer of property and dependent upon a condition fails if the fulfilment of the condition is impossible, or is forbidden by law, or is of such a nature that if permitted, it would defeat the provisions of any law, or is fraudulent, or involves or implies injury to the person or property of another, or the Court regards it as immoral or opposed to pubic policy.

Illustrations.

(a). A lets a farm to B on condition that he shall walk a hundred miles in an hour. The lease is void.

(b). A gives Rs. 500 to B on condition that he shall marry A's daughter, C. At the date of the transfer C was dead. The transfer is void.

(c). A transfers Rs. 500 to B on condition that she shall murder C. The transfer is void.

Act X of 1865, s. 115.

Fulfilment of condition precedent.

26. Where the terms of a transfer of property impose a condition to be fulfilled before a person can take an interest in the property, the condition shall be deemed to have been fulfilled if it has been substantially complied with.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers Rs. 5,000 to B on condition that he shall marry with the consent of C, D and E. E dies. B marries with the consent of C and D. B has fulfilled the condition.

(b). A transfers Rs. 5,000 to B on condition that he shall marry with the consent of C, D and E. B marries without the consent of C, D and E, but obtains their consent after the marriage. B has not fulfilled the condition.

Act X of 1865, s. 116.

Conditional transfer to one person coupled with transfer to another on failure of prior transfer.

27. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of one person, and by the same transaction an ulterior disposition of the same interest is made in favour of another if the prior interest under the transfer shall fail, the ulterior disposition shall take effect upon the failure of the prior disposition, although the failure may not have occurred in the manner contemplated by the transferor.

Act X of 1865, s. 117.

But where the intention of the parties to the transaction is that the ulterior disposition shall take effect only in the event of the prior disposition failing in a particular manner, the ulterior disposition shall not take effect unless the prior disposition fails in that manner.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers Rs. 500 to B on condition that he shall execute a certain lease within three months after A's death, and if he should neglect to do so, to C. B dies in A's lifetime. The transfer to C takes effect.

(b). A transfers property to his wife; but in case she should die in his life time, transfers to B that which he had transferred to her. A and his wife perish together, under circumstances which make it impossible to prove that she died before him. The transfer to B does not take effect.

Act X of 1865, s. 118.

Ulterior transfer conditional on happening or not happening of specified event.

28. On a transfer of property an interest may be created to accrue to any person with the condition superadded that in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, such interest shall pass to another person; or that in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen, such interest shall pass to another person. In each case the dispositions are subject to the rules contained in sections ten, twelve, twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-five and twenty-seven.

Act X of 1865, s. 119.

Fulfilment of condition subsequent.

29. An ulterior disposition of the kind contemplated by the last preceding section cannot take effect unless the condition is strictly fulfilled.

Illustration.

A transfers Rs. 500 to B, to be paid to him on his attaining his majority or marrying, with a proviso that, if B dies a minor or marries without C's consent, the Rs. 500 shall go to D. B marries when only 17 years of age, without C's consent. The transfer to D takes effect.

Act X of 1865, s. 120.

Prior disposition not affected by invalidity of ulterior disposition.

30. If the ulterior disposition is not valid, the prior disposition is not affected by it.

Illustration.

A transfers a farm to B for her life, and, if she do not desert her husband, to C. B is entitled to the farm during her life as if no condition had been inserted.

Act X of 1865, s. 121.

Condition that transfer shall cease to have effect in case specified uncertain event happens or does not happen.

31. Subject to the provisions of section twelve, on a transfer of property an interest may be created with the condition superadded that it shall cease to exist in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, or in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers a farm to B for his life, with a proviso that, in case B cuts down a certain wood, the transfer shall cease to have any effect. B cuts down the wood. He loses his life-interest in the farm.

(b). A transfers a farm to B, provided that, if B shall not go to England within three years after the date of the transfer, his interest in the farm shall cease. A does not go to England within the term prescribed. His interest in the farm ceases.

Act X of 1865, s. 122.

Such condition must not be invalid.

Act X of 1865, s. 124.

Condition that transferee shall perform act at or before specified time.

33. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created subject to a condition that the person taking it shall perform a certain act at or before a specified time, and the transferor has at the time of creating the interest made an ulterior disposition thereof in favour of himself or of another, if the act be not performed within such time, the prior disposition ceases to have effect if the act is not performed within such time, or if the person benefited by the prior disposition renders the performance of the act impossible within the time specified. But where the transferor has not made any such ulterior disposition thereof, the transfer is, at the option of the transferor, voidable so far as regards such interest, if time is of the essence of the condition; but if it is not of the essence of the contract, the transfer shall not be so voidable.

When such intention is apparent, the circumstance that the interest has actually been enjoyed under the prior disposition does not affect the operation of the condition.

Transfer conditional on performance of act, no time being specified for performance.

34. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created subject to a condition that the person taking it shall perform a certain act, but no time is specified for the performance of the act, the condition is broken when he renders impossible, permanently or for an indefinite period, the performance of the condition.

Transfer conditional on performance of act, time being specified.

35. Where an act is to be performed by a person either as a condition to be fulfilled before an interest created on a transfer is enjoyed by him, or as a condition on the non-fulfilment of which the interest is to pass from him to another person, and a time is specified for the performance of the act, if such performance within the specified time is prevented by the fraud of a person who would be directly benefited by non-fulfilment of the condition, such further time shall as against him be allowed for performing the act as shall be requisite to make up for the delay caused by such fraud. But if no time is specified for the performance of the act, then if its performance is, by the fraud of a person interested in the non-fulfilment of the condition rendered impossible or indefinitely postponed, the condition shall as against him be deemed to have been fulfilled.

Election.

Draft, s. 62, added to.

Election when necessary.

36. Where a person professes to transfer property which he has no right to transfer, and as part of the same transaction confers any benefit on the owner of the property, such owner must elect either to confirm such transfer or to dissent from it; and in the latter case he shall relinquish the benefit so conferred, and the benefit so relinquished shall revert to the transferor or his representative as if it had not been disposed of,

Act X of 1865, s. 168.

subject nevertheless,

where the transfer is gratuitous and the transferor has before the election died or otherwise become incapable of making a fresh transfer,

and in all cases where the transfer is for consideration, to the charge of making good to the disappointed transferee the amount or value of the property attempted to be transferred to him.

Illustration.

The farm of Sultánpur is the property of C and worth Rs. 800. A by an instrument of gift professes to transfer it to B, giving by the same instrument Rs. 1,000 to C. C elects to retain the farm. He forfeits the gift of Rs. 1,000.

In the same case, A dies before the election. His representative must out of the Rs. 1,000 pay Rs. 800 to B.

Act X of 1865, s. 169.

The rule in the first paragraph of this section applies whether the transferor does or does not believe that which he professes to transfer to be his own.

Act X of 1865, s. 171.

A person taking no benefit directly under a transaction, but deriving a benefit under it indirectly, need not elect.

Act X of 1865, s. 172.

A person who in his one capacity takes a benefit under the transaction may in another dissent therefrom.

Exception to the last preceding four rules.—Where a particular benefit is expressed to be conferred on the owner of the property which the transferor professes to transfer expressed to be in lieu of that property, if such owner claim that he must relinquish the particular benefit, but he is not bound to relinquish any other benefit conferred upon him by the same transaction.

Act X of 1865, s. 173.

Acceptance of the benefit by the person on whom it is conferred constitutes an election by him to confirm the transfer, if he is aware of his duty to elect and of those circumstances which would influence the judgment of a reasonable man in making an election, or if he waives enquiry into the circumstances.

Act X of 1865, s. 174.

Such knowledge or waiver shall, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, be presumed, if the person on whom the benefit has been conferred has enjoyed it for two years without doing any act to express dissent.

Act X of 1865, s. 175.

Such knowledge or waiver may be inferred from any act of his which renders it impossible to place the persons interested in the property professed to be transferred in the same condition as if such act had not been done.

Illustration.

A transfers to B an estate to which to C is entitled, and to C a coal-mine. C takes possession of the mine and exhausts it. He has thereby confirmed the transfer of the estate to B.

Act X of 1865, s. 176. If he does not within one year after the date of the transfer signify to the transferor or his representatives his intention to confirm or to dissent from the transfer, the transferor or his representatives may, upon the expiration of that period, require him to make his election; and if he does not comply with such requisition within a reasonable time after he has received it, he shall be deemed to have elected to confirm the transfer.

Act X of 1865, s. 167. In case of disability, the election shall be postponed until the disability ceases, or until the election is made by some competent authority.

Apportionment.

Draft, s. 64: Bill III, s. 86.

37. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, all rents, annuities, pensions, dividends and other periodical payments in the nature of income shall, upon the transfer of the interest of the person entitled to receive such payments, be deemed, as between the transferor and the transferee, to accrue due from day to day, and to be apportionable accordingly, but to be payable on the days appointed for the payment thereof.

Apportionment of periodical payments on determination of interest of person entitled.

Severance of Obligation relating to property.

38. When in consequence of a transfer property is divided and held in several shares, and thereupon the benefit of any obligation relating to the property as a whole passes from one to several owners of the property, the corresponding duty shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary amongst the owners, be performed in favour of each of such owners in proportion to the value of his share in the property, provided that the duty can be severed and that the severance does not substantially increase the burden of the obligation; but if the duty cannot be severed, or if the severance would substantially increase the burden of the obligation, the duty shall be performed for the benefit of such one of the several owners as they shall jointly designate for that purpose:

Satisfaction of right arising in favour of several persons in consequence of a transfer.

Provided that no person on whom the burden of the obligation lies shall be answerable for failure to discharge it in manner provided by this section, unless and until he has had reasonable notice of the severance.

Illustrations.

(a). A sells to B, C and D land situate in a village and leased to E at an annual rent of Rs. 30 and delivery of one fat sheep, B having provided half the purchase-money and C and D one quarter each. E having notice of this must pay Rs. 15 to B, Rs. 7½ to C and Rs 7½ to D, and must deliver the sheep according to the joint direction of B, C and D.

(b). Each house in the village being bound to provide ten days' labour each year on a dyke to prevent inundation, E had agreed as a term of his lease to perform this work for A. B, C and D severally require E to perform the ten days' work due on account of the house of each. E is not bound to do more than ten days' work in all, according to such directions as B, C and D may join in giving.

B.—Transfer of Immoveable Property.

Bill III, s. 7.

39. Where any person authorized only under circumstances in their nature variable to dispose of immoveable property transfers such property for consideration, alleging the existence of such circumstances, they shall, as between the transferee on the one part and the transferor and other persons (if any) affected by the transfer on the other part, be deemed to have existed, if the transferee, after using reasonable care to ascertain the existence of such circumstances, has acted in good faith.

Transfer by person authorized only under certain circumstances to transfer.

Illustration.

A, a Hindú widow, whose husband has left collateral heirs, agrees, for purposes neither religious nor charitable, to sell a field, part of the property held by her as such, to B. B satisfies himself by reasonable enquiry that the income of the property is in sufficient for A's maintenance, and that the sale of the field is necessary, and, acting in good faith, buys the field. As between B on the one part and A and the collateral heirs on the other part, a necessity for the sale shall be deemed to have existed.

40. Where a third person has a right to receive maintenance or a provision for advancement or marriage from the profits of immoveable property, and such property is transferred with the intention of defeating such right, the right may be enforced against the transferee, if he has notice of such intention or if the transfer is gratuitous; but not against a transferee for consideration and without notice of the right, nor against such property in his hands.

Transfer of land where third person is entitled to maintenance,

Illustrations.

(a). A, a Hindú, transfers Sultánpur to his sister-in-law B, in lieu of her claim against him for maintenance in virtue of his having succeeded to her deceased husband's property, and agrees with her that if she is dispossessed of Sultánpur, A will transfer to her an equal area out of such of several other specified villages in his possession as she may elect. A sells the specified villages to C, who buys in good faith, without notice of the agreement. B is dispossessed of Sultánpur. She has no claim on the villages transferred to C.

(b). A, a Hindú widow, is entitled to maintenance out of the share of her deceased husband in Basaoli, which has passed to his brother B. B sells Basaoli to C, who has notice that there is no other property to satisfy A's claim. A may claim maintenance out of Basaoli in the hands of C.

Where for the more beneficial enjoyment of his own immoveable property a third person has, independently of any interest in the immoveable property of another, a right to restrain the enjoyment of the latter property or to compel its enjoyment in a particular manner, or or has a right to restrain its enjoyment,

where a third person is entitled to the benefit of an obligation arising out of contract and annexed to the ownership of immoveable property, but not amounting to an interest therein or easement thereon, or is entitled to benefit of obligation not amounting to interest or easement.

such right or obligation may be enforced against a transferee with notice thereof or a gratuitous transferee of the property affected thereby, but not against a transferee for consideration and without notice of the right or obligation, nor against such property in his hands.

A contracts to sell Sultánpur to B. While the contract is still in force he sells Sultánpur to C, who has notice of the contract. B may enforce the contract against C to the same extent as against A.

Bill III, s. 7: Act IX of 1872, s. 108, excepn. 2.

41. Where with the consent, express or implied, of the persons interested in immoveable property, a person is the ostensible owner of such property and transfers the same for consideration, the transfer shall not be voidable on the ground that the transferor was not authorized to make it: provided that the transferee, after taking reasonable care to ascertain that the transferor had power to make the transfer, has acted in good faith.

Transfer by ostensible owner.

Illustrations.

(a). A, one of two co-proprietors of village land, leaves his village, and with his consent the land is registered by the Revenue-officer in the name of B, the other co-proprietor. After ten years B sells a portion of the land to C, who takes reasonable care to ascertain that B had power to make the transfer and acts in good faith. A is not entitled to have the sale set aside.

(b). A buys land and causes it to be transferred to his servant B to hold on his behalf, and also causes it to be entered in the revenue register in B's name. C, having ascertained that B is the registered owner of the land and pays the revenue due in respect thereof, buys the land in good faith from B. A cannot impeach the sale.

Bill III, s. 10A, para. 2.

42. Where a person having authority to revoke a transfer of any immoveable property, transfers the property for consideration, such transfer operates in favour of the transferee (subject to any condition attached to the exercise of the authority) as a revocation of the former transfer to the extent of the authority.

Transfer by person having authority to revoke transfer.

Illustration.

A lets a house to B and reserves power to revoke the lease if in the opinion of a specified surveyor B should make a use of it detrimental to its value. Afterwards A, thinking that such a use has been made, lets the house to C. This operates as a revocation of B's lease subject to the opinion of the surveyor as to B's use of the house having been detrimental to its value.

43. Where a person erroneously represents that he is authorized to transfer certain immoveable property, and assumes to transfer such property for consideration, such transfer shall, at the option of the transferee, operate on any interest which the transferor may acquire in such property, at any time during which the contract of transfer subsists.

Transfer by unauthorized person who subsequently acquires interest in property transferred.

Nothing in this section shall impair the right of transferees in good faith for consideration without notice of the existence of the said option.

Illustration.

A, a Hindú who has separated from his father B, sells to C three fields, X, Y and Z. Of these Z does not belong to A, it having been retained by B on the partition; but on B's dying A obtains Z as heir. C, not having rescinded the contract of sale, may require A to deliver Z to him.

Bill III, s. 9.

44. Where one of two or more co-owners of immoveable property legally competent in that behalf transfers his share of such property or any interest therein, the transferee acquires as to such share or interest, and so far as is necessary to give effect to the transfer, the transferor's right to joint possession or other common or part enjoyment of the property, and to enforce a partition of the same, but subject to the conditions and liabilities affecting, at the date of the transfer, the share or interest so transferred.

Transfer by one co-owner.

Where the transferee of a share of a dwelling-house belonging to an undivided family is a stranger nothing in this section shall be deemed to entitle him to joint-possession or other common or part enjoyment of the house.

Bill III, s. 18.

45. Where property is transferred for consideration to two or more persons, and such consideration is paid out of a fund belonging to them in common, they are in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively entitled to interests in such property identical, as nearly as may be, with the interests to which they were respectively entitled to the fund; and where such consideration is paid out of separate funds belonging to them respectively, they are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively entitled to interests in such property in proportion to the shares of the consideration which they respectively advanced.

Joint transfer for consideration.

In the absence of evidence as to the interests in the fund to which they were respectively entitled, or as to the shares which they respectively advanced, such persons shall be presumed to be equally interested in the property.

Illustration.

A and B are the sons and C the grandson of a Hindú who has died leaving property. C's father D has also died. A partition has been made after which A and B have reunited. C remains severed in interest, his share being one-third. The separate property of D is of the same value. The whole fund belonging to A, B and C is expended in buying an estate, X. A and B take one moiety of X as joint estate and C takes the other moiety as separate property.

46. Where a transfer of immoveable property is made for consideration by persons having distinct interests therein, the transferors are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to share in the consideration equally, where their interests in the property transferred were of equal value, and, where such interests were of unequal value, proportionately to the value of their respective interests.

Transfer for consideration by persons having distinct interests.

Illustrations.

(a). A, owing a moiety, and B and C, each a quarter share of mauza Sultánpur, exchange an eighth share of that mauza for a quarter share of mauza Lálpura. There being no agreement to the contrary, A is entitled to an eighth share in Lálpura, and B and C each to a sixteenth share in that mauza.

(b). A being entitled to a life interest in mauza Atrali and B and C to the reversion, sell the mauza for Rs. 1,000. A's life interest is ascertained to be worth Rs. 600, the reversion Rs. 400. A is entitled to receive Rs. 600 out of the purchase money, B and C to receive Rs. 400.

Transfer by co-owners of share in common property.

47. Where several co-owners of immoveable property transfer a share therein without specifying that the transfer is to take effect on any particular share or shares of the transferors, the transfer, as among such transferors, takes effect on such shares equally where the shares were equal, and where they were unequal, proportionately to the extent of such shares.

Illustration.

A, the owner of an eight annas share, and B and C, each the owner of a four annas share, in mauza Sultánpur, transfer a two-anna share in the mauza to D, without specifying from which of their several shares the transfer is made. To give effect to the transfer one anna share is taken from the share of A, and half an anna share from each of the shares of B and C.

Priority of rights created by transfer.

48. Where a person purports to create by transfer at different times rights in or over the same immoveable property, and such rights cannot all exist or be exercised to their full extent together, each later created right shall, in the absence of a special contract or reservation binding the earlier transferees, be subject to the rights previously created.

Bill III, ss. 17, 36.

Transferee's right under policy.

49. Where immoveable property is transferred for consideration, and such property or any part thereof is at the date of the transfer insured against loss or damage by fire, the transferee, in case of such loss or damage, may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, require any money which the transferor actually receives under the policy, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be applied in reinstating the property.

Bill III, s. 8: Act XI 1855, s. 1.

Rent bonâ fide paid to holder under defective title.

50. No person shall be chargeable with any rents or profits of any immoveable property, which he has in good faith paid or delivered to any person of whom he in good faith held such property, notwithstanding it may afterwards appear that the person to whom such payment or delivery was made had no right to receive such rents or profits.

Illustration.

A lets a field to B at a rent of Rs. 50, and then transfers the field to C. B, having no notice of the transfer, in good faith pays the rent to A. B is not chargeable with the rent so paid.

Act XI of 1855, s. 2: 2 Bom. 225.

Improvements made by bonâ fide holders under defective titles.

51. When the transferee of immoveable property makes any improvement on the property, believing in good faith that he is absolutely entitled thereto, and he is subsequently evicted therefrom by any person having a better title, the transferee or his representative in interest has a right to require the person causing the eviction either to have the value of the improvement estimated and paid or secured to the transferee, or to sell his interest in the property to the transferee at the then market value thereof irrespective of the value of such improvement.

The amount to be paid or secured in respect of such improvement shall be the estimated value thereof at the time of the eviction.

When under the circumstances aforesaid the transferee has planted or sown on the property crops which are growing when he is evicted therefrom, he is entitled to such crops and to free ingress and egress to gather and carry them.

Transfer of property pending suit relating thereto.

52. During the active prosecution in any Court having authority in British India, or established beyond the limits of British India by the Governor General in Council, of a contentious suit or proceeding in which any right to immoveable property is directly and specifically in question, the property cannot be transferred or otherwise dealt with by any party to the suit or proceeding so as to affect the rights of any other party thereto under any decree or order which may be made therein, except under the authority of the Court and on such terms as it may impose.

Bill III, s. 10A: Cf. Act I of 1877, s. 35.

Where the effect of any transfer of immoveable property is to defraud, defeat or delay any such person, and such transfer is made gratuitously or for a grossly inadequate consideration, the transfer may be presumed to have been made with such intent as aforesaid.

Nothing contained in this section shall impair the rights of any transferee in good faith and for consideration.

CHAPTER III.

OF SALES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

"Sale" defined.

54. "Sale" is a transfer of ownership in exchange for a price paid or promised or part-paid and part-promised.

Sale how made.

Such transfer, in the case of tangible immoveable property of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards, or in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing, can be made only by a registered assurance.

In the case of tangible immoveable property of a value less than one hundred rupees, such transfer may be made either by a registered assurance or by delivery of the property.

Delivery of tangible immoveable property takes place when the seller places the buyer, or such person as he directs, in possession of the property.

Right to redeem, N. W. P., 1868, p. 376.

Contract for sale.

A contract for the sale of immoveable property is a contract that a sale of such property shall take place on terms settled between the parties.

Bill III, s. 14.

It does not, of itself, create any interest in or charge on such property.

Bill, s. 11: Bill II, s. 11: Bill III, s. 12: Report, s. 14.

Rights and liabilities of buyer and seller.

55. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the buyer and the seller of immoveable property respectively are subject to the liabilities, and have the rights, mentioned in the rules next following, or such of them as are applicable to the property sold :

(a). The seller is bound—

Bill III, s. 18 (a).

(1) to disclose to the buyer any defect in the property of which the seller is, and the buyer is not, aware, and which the buyer could not with ordinary care discover ;

Bill III, s. 12 (a).

(2) to produce to the buyer on his request for examination all documents of title relating to the property which are in the seller's possession or power ;

s. 12 (a).

(3) to answer to the best of his information all relevant questions put to him by the buyer in respect to the property or the title thereto ;

Bill III, s. 12 (b).

(4) on payment or tender of the amount due in respect of the price, to execute a proper assurance of the property when the buyer tenders it to him for execution at a proper time and place, and, where the property is, or forms part of, a revenue-paying estate, to present an application to the proper officer for the requisite alteration of the revenue-register ;

New.

(5) between the date of the contract of sale and the delivery of the property, to take as much care of the property and all documents of title relating thereto which are in his possession, as an owner of ordinary prudence would take of such property and documents ;

(6) to give, on being so required, the buyer, or such person as he directs, such possession of the property as its nature admits ;

Bill III, s. 12 (g).

(7) to pay all public charges and rent accrued due in respect of the property up to the date of the sale, the interest on all incumbrances on such property due on such date ; and, except where the property is sold subject to incumbrances, to discharge all incumbrances on the property then existing ; and provided that, where the sale is made by a person in a fiduciary character, he shall be deemed to contract that he has done no act whereby the property is incumbered or whereby he is hindered from transferring it.

(9) Where the whole of the purchase-money has been paid to the seller, he is also bound to deliver to the buyer all documents of title relating thereto which are in the seller's possession or power : Bill III, s. 12 (i).

provided that (1), where the seller retains any part of the property comprised in such documents, he is entitled to retain them all, and (2), where the whole of such property is sold to different buyers, the buyer of the lot of greatest value is entitled to such documents. But in case (1) the seller, and in case (2) the buyer of the lot of greatest value, is bound, upon every reasonable request by the buyer, or by any of the other buyers, as the case may be, or by any person claiming under him, and at the cost of the person making the request, to produce the said documents and furnish such true copies thereof as he may require ; and in the meantime, the seller or the buyer, as the case may be, of the lot of greatest value must keep the said documents safe, uncancelled and undefaced, unless prevented from so doing by fire or other inevitable accident ;

(b) The seller is entitled—

(1) to the rents and profits of the property till the ownership thereof passes to the buyer ; Bill III, s. 12 (b).

(2) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer before payment of the whole of the purchase-money, to a charge upon the property in the hands of the buyer for the amount of the purchase-money, or any part thereof remaining unpaid, and for interest on such amount or part. Bill III, s. 12 (d).

(c). The buyer is bound—

(1) to disclose to the seller any fact as to the nature or extent of the seller's interest in the property of which the buyer is aware, but of which he has reason to believe that the seller is not aware, and which increases the value of such interest ; Bill III, s. 12 (b).

(2) to pay or tender, at the time and place of completing the transfer, the purchase-money to the seller or such person as he directs : provided that, where the property is sold free from incumbrances, the buyer may retain out of the purchase-money the amount of the incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the transfer, and shall pay the amount so retained to the persons entitled thereto ; Bill III, s. (g).

(3) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, to bear any loss arising from Bill III, s. 12 (e).

the destruction, injury or decrease in value of the property not caused by the seller;

Bill III, s. 15. (4) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, as between himself and the seller, to pay all public charges and rent which may become payable in respect of the property, the principal moneys due on the incumbrances subject to which the property is sold, and the interest thereon afterwards accruing due.

(d). The buyer is entitled—

Bill III, s. 12 (c). (1) where the ownership of the property has passed to him, to the benefit of any improvement in, or increase in value of, the property, and to the rents and profits thereof;

Bill III, s. 12 (e). (2) unless he has improperly declined to accept delivery of the property, to a charge on the property as against the seller and all persons claiming under him with notice of the payment, to the extent of the seller's interest on the property, for the amount of any purchase-money properly paid by the buyer in anticipation of the delivery and for interest on such amount; and when he properly declines to accept the delivery, also for the earnest (if any) and for the costs (if any) awarded to him of a suit to compel specific performance of the contract or to obtain a decree for its rescission.

Bill III, s. 13. An omission to make such disclosures as are mentioned in this section, paragraph (a), clause (1), and paragraph (c), clause (1), is fraudulent.

Bill III, s. 19. 56. Where two properties are subject to a common charge, and one of the properties is sold, the buyer is, as against the seller, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to have the charge satisfied out of the other property, so far as such property will extend.

Sale of one of two properties subject to a common charge.

CHAPTER IV.

OF MORTGAGES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY AND CHARGES.

Bill II, s. 25: Bill III, s. 21: Bill, s. 14: Act XXVIII of 1866, s. 19: 23 & 24 Vic., c. 145, s. 24.

57. (a). A mortgage is the transfer of an interest in specific immoveable property for the purpose of securing the payment of money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan, an existing or future debt, or the performance of an engagement which may give rise to a pecuniary liability.

"Mortgage," "mortgagor" and "mortgagee" defined.

The transferor is called a mortgagor, the transferee a mortgagee; the principal-money and interest of which payment is secured for the time being are called the mortgage-money, the interest transferred is called the mortgaged property, and the assurance (if any) by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

(b). Where, without delivering possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor binds himself personally to pay the mortgage-money and agrees, expressly or impliedly, that, in the event of his failing to pay according to his contract, the mortgagee shall have a right to cause the mortgaged property to be sold and the proceeds of sale to be applied, so far as may be necessary, in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called a simple mortgage and the mortgagee a simple mortgagee.

Moo. I. A. 275, 306. Colebs. Dig. B. i, c. III, s. 96.

Simple mortgage.

(c). Where the mortgagor ostensibly sells the mortgaged property—

Mortgage by conditional sale.

on condition that on default of payment of the mortgage-money on a certain date the sale shall become absolute, or on condition that on such payment being made the sale shall become void, or on condition that on such payment being made the buyer shall transfer the property to the seller, the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale and the mortgagee a mortgagee by conditional sale.

(d). Where the mortgagor delivers possession of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee and authorises him to retain such possession until payment of the mortgage-money, and to receive the rents and profits accruing from the property and to appropriate them in lieu of interest or in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage and the mortgagee an usufructuary mortgagee.

Usufructuary mortgage.

(e). Where the mortgagor binds himself to repay the mortgage-money on a certain date, and transfers the mortgaged property absolutely to the mortgagee, but subject to a condition that he will re-transfer it to the mortgagor upon payment of the mortgage-money as agreed, the transaction is called an English mortgage.

58. Where the principal money secured is one hundred rupees or upwards, a mortgage can be effected only by registered assurance signed by the mortgagor and attested by at least two witnesses.

Mortgage when to be by assurance.

Where the principal money secured is less than one hundred rupees, a mortgage may be effected either by assurance signed and attested as aforesaid or by delivery of the property.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to render invalid mortgages made in the towns of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Karáchi and Rangoon, by delivery to a creditor or his agent of documents of title to immoveable property, with intent to create a security thereon.

59. At any time after the principal money has become payable, the mortgagor, or, where there are more mortgagors than one, any of the mortgagors, has a right, on payment or tender, at a proper time and place, of the mortgage-money, to require the mortgagee (a) to deliver the mortgage-deed, if any, (b) where the mortgagee is in possession of the mortgaged property, to deliver possession thereof to the mortgagor, and (c) at the cost of the mortgagor either to re-transfer the mortgaged property to him or to such person as he may direct, or to execute and (where the mortgage has been effected by registered assurance) to have registered an acknowledgment in writing that any right in derogation of his ownership or other interest transferred to the mortgagee has been extinguished:

The right conferred by this section is called a right to redeem, and a suit to enforce it is called a suit for redemption.

(b) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from such rents and profits the interest of the principal money,—when the term (if any) prescribed for the payment of the mortgage-money has expired and the mortgagor pays or tenders to the mortgagee the principal money or deposits it in Court as hereinafter provided.

Accession to mortgaged property.

Where such accession has been acquired at the cost of the mortgagee, and is capable of separate possession or enjoyment without detriment to the principal property, the mortgagor desiring to take the accession must pay to the mortgagee the cost of acquiring it. If such separate possession or enjoyment is not possible, the accession must be delivered with the property, the mortgagor being liable in the case of an acquisition necessary to preserve the property from destruction, forfeiture or sale, or made with his assent, to pay the proper cost thereof, as an addition to the principal money, at the same rate of interest.

Accession acquired in virtue of transferred ownership.

In the case last mentioned the profits, if any, arising from the accession shall be credited to the mortgagor.

Where the mortgage is usufructuary and the accession has been acquired at the cost of the mortgagee, the profits, if any, arising from the accession shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be set off against interest, if any, payable on the money so expended.

The transferor is called the lessor, the transferee is called the lessee, the price is called the premium, and the money, share, service or other thing to be so rendered is called the rent.

Every notice under this section must be in writing signed by or on behalf of the party giving it and tendered or delivered to the party who is intended to be bound by it, or affixed to a conspicuous part of the property.

Notice to determine lease.

106. A lease of immoveable property from year to year, or for any term exceeding one year, or reserving a yearly rent, can be made only by a registered assurance.

Leases how made.

Bill II, s. 71: Bill III, s. 65. All other leases of immoveable property may be made either by assurance or by oral agreement.

107. In the absence of a contract or local usage to the contrary, the lessor and the lessee of immoveable property, as against one another, respectively, possess the rights and are subject to the liabilities mentioned in the rules next following, or such of them as are applicable to the property leased:—

Rights and liabilities of lessor and lessee.

A.—Rights and liabilities of the Lessor.

Bill III, s. 66 6 W. R. 314. (a) the lessor is bound to disclose to the lessee any defect in the property, with reference to its intended use, of which the former is and the latter is not aware, and which the latter could not with ordinary care discover:

(b) the lessor is bound on the lessee's request to put him in possession of the property leased: 6 Beng. Appendix 44: 39 (3); 15 W.R. 230; 23 W.R. 121.

(c) the lessor shall be deemed to contract with the lessee that, if the latter pays the rent reserved by the lease and performs the contracts binding on the lessee, he may hold the property leased during the time limited by the lease without interruption:

(d) where an arrear of rent is due from any lessee, the lessor may, instead of suing for the arrear, recover the same by distress and sale of the goods found in or upon the property in respect of which the arrear is due or of the produce of such property, but subject to the local law, if any, for the time being in force relating to distresses. 3[illegible] altered: cf. Act of 1872, s. 93: 11 W.R. 278: 12 W.R. 149.

B.—Rights and liabilities of the Lessee.

(e) if during the continuance of the lease any accession is made to the property leased, such accession (subject to the law relating to alluvion for the time being in force) shall be deemed to be comprised in the lease: 8 Beng. 73: 5 Calc. L. R. 33.

(f) if by fire, tempest or flood, or violence of an army or of a mob, or other irresistible force, any material part of the property leased be wholly destroyed or rendered substantially and permanently unfit for the purposes for which it was let, the lease shall, at the option of the lessee, be void:

provided that, if the injury be occasioned by the wrongful act or default of the lessee, he shall not be entitled to avail himself of the benefit of this provision:

(g) if the lessor neglects to make, within a reasonable time after notice, repairs which he is bound to make to the property leased, the lessee may make the same himself, and deduct the expense of such repairs with interest from the rent, or otherwise recover it from the lessor:

(h) if the lessor neglects to make any payment which he is bound to make, and which, if not made by him, is recoverable from the lessee or against the property leased, the lessee may make such payment himself, and deduct it with interest from the rent, or otherwise recover it from the lessor:

(i) the lessee may remove, at any time during the continuance of the lease, all things which he has attached to the earth; provided he leave the property leased in the state in which he received it: [illegible]hakoor der Pa[illegible]anick, Beng. F. B. Rulings 595: 8 Beng. 237: 14 Beng. 201, 205: cf. Act XIX of 1868, s. 46: Act XVIII of 1873, s. 42.

(j) when a lease of uncertain duration determines by any means except the fault of the lessee, he or his legal representative is entitled to all the crops planted or sown by the lessee and growing upon the property leased for the season current when the lease determines, and to free ingress and egress to gather and carry them:

5 S. D. A. 205: 5 M ad. 120, 277. 7 Beng. 152: N. W. P., 1875, p. 181: 12 W. R. 451: 16 W. R. 112: 6 S. D. A. 67: 15 W. R. 449.

(k) the lessee may transfer absolutely or by way of mortgage or sub-lease the whole or any part of his interest in the property leased, and any transferee of such interest or part may again transfer it. The lessee shall not, by reason only of such transfer, cease to be subject to any of the liabilities attaching to the lease:

8 Beng. 239: 12 Beng. 82. nothing in this clause shall be deemed to authorize a tenant having an untransferable right of occupancy, the farmer of an estate in respect of which default has been made in paying revenue or the lessee of an estate under the management of a Court of Wards, to assign his interest as such tenant, farmer or lessee:

(l) the lessee is bound to disclose to the lessor any fact as to the nature or extent of the interest which the lessee is about to take, of which the lessee is, and the lessor is not, aware, and which increases the value of such interest:

See 23 W. R. 84. (m) the lessee is bound to pay or tender, at the proper time and place, the premium or rent to the lessor or his agent in this behalf:

(n) the lessee is bound to keep, and on the termination of the lease to restore, the property leased in as good condition as it was in at the time when he was put in possession, subject only to the changes caused by reasonable wear and tear or irresistible force, and to allow the lessor and his agents, at all reasonable times during the term, to enter into the property leased and inspect the condition thereof and give or leave notice of any defect in such condition, and, when such defect has been caused by any act or default on the part of the lessee, his servants or agents, he is bound to make it good within three months after such notice has been given or left:

(o) if the lessee becomes aware of any proceeding to recover the property leased or any part thereof, or of any encroachment made upon, or any interference with, the lessor's rights concerning such property, he is bound to give, with reasonable diligence, notice thereof to the lessor:

[illegible] Beng. 401, [illegible]: [illegible] Beng. Appendix 70: 10 Beng. App. 31. sed [illegible]. 8 S. [illegible] 205: [illegible] 13 W. R. [illegible] 260. [illegible] 17 W. R. [illegible] 419. (p) the lessee may use the property leased and its products (if any) as a person of ordinary prudence would use them if they were his own; but he must not use, or permit another to use, the property for a purpose other than that for which it was leased, or fell timber, pull down or damage buildings, work mines or quarries not open when the lease was granted, or commit any other act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto:

(q) he must not, without the lessor's consent, erect on the property leased any permanent structure, except for agricultural purposes:

(r) on the determination of the lease, the lessee is bound to put the lessor into possession of the property leased.

108. If the lessor transfers the property leased, or any part thereof, or any part of his interest therein, the transferee, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, shall possess all the rights and, if the lessee so elects, be subject to all the liabilities of the lessor as to the property or part transferred so long as he is the owner of it; but the lessor shall not by reason only of such transfer cease to be subject to any of the liabilities imposed upon him by the lease, unless the lessee elects to treat the transferee as the person liable to him: 14 W. R. 83: 24 W. R. 68.

Rights of lessor's transferee.

Provided that the transferee is not entitled to arrears of rent due before the transfer, and that, if the lessee pay rent to the lessor without having reason to believe that such transfer has been made, the lessee shall not be liable to pay such rent over again to the transferee. Act XI of 1855, s. 1: 4 Anne, c. 16, s. 10.

Where only a part of the property leased is transferred by the lessor, he may (subject to the provisions of section thirty-eight) determine what proportion of the premium or rent reserved by the lease is payable in respect of the part so transferred. Bill II, s. 72.

109. Where the time limited by a lease of immoveable property is expressed as commencing from a particular day, in computing that time such day shall be excluded. Where no day of commencement is named, the time so limited begins from the making of the lease. Bill II, s. 75: Bill, s. 43.

Exclusion of day on which term commences.

Where the time so limited is a year or a number of years, in the absence of an express agreement to the contrary, the lease shall last during the whole anniversary of the day from which such time commences.

Duration of lease for a year.

Where the time so limited is expressed to be terminable before its expiration, and the lease omits to mention at whose option it is so terminable, the lessee, and not the lessor, shall have such option.

Option to determine lease.

110. A lease of immoveable property determines— Bill II, s. 76: 7 W. R. 283.

Determination of lease.

(a) by efflux of the time limited thereby:

(b) where such time is limited conditionally on the happening of some event—by the happening of such event: 3 Moo. I. A. 261: 16 W. R. 147.

(c) where the interest of the lessor in the property leased terminates on, or his power to dispose of the same extends only to, the happening of any event—by the happening of such event: Lease by Hindú widow, Marshall 188.

(d) in case the interests of the lessee and the lessor in the whole of the property leased become vested at the same time in one person in the same right: 3 O'Kin. 152. But see per Peacock, C.J., 10 W. R. 12.

(e) by express surrender; that is to say, in case Surrender of right to re[illegible] deem mortgaged lease, N. W. P., 1869, p. 45. Surrender by one of several joint lessees, 9 W. R. 147.

the lessee yields up his interest under the lease to the lessor, by mutual agreement between them:

Marshall 250: 16 W.B. 103: 25 W. R. 227.

(f) by implied surrender:

16 W. R. 465. But see 22 W. R. 448. 25 W. R. 147.

23 W. R. 238, 271.

(h) on the expiration of a notice to determine the lease, or to quit, or of intention to quit, the property leased, duly given by one party to the other.

Illustration to clause (f).

A, the lessee, accepts from the lessor a new lease of the property leased, to take effect during the continuance of the existing lease. This is an implied surrender of the former lease, and such lease determines thereupon.

Bill II, s. 77, cl. 1: W. R. F. B. 10: Marshall 25.

111. A forfeiture under section one hundred and ten, clause (g), is waived by acceptance of rent which has become due since the forfeiture, or by distress for such rent, or by any other act on the part of the lessor showing an intention to treat the lease as subsisting:

Waiver of forfeiture.

Provided that the lessor is aware that the forfeiture has been incurred:

2 Bom. 73.

Provided also that, where rent is accepted after the institution of a suit to eject the lessee on the ground of forfeiture, such acceptance is not a waiver.

112. A notice given under section one hundred and ten, clause (h), is waived, with the express or implied consent of the person to whom it is given, by any act on the part of the person giving it showing an intention to treat the lease as subsisting.

Waiver of notice to quit.

Illustrations.

(a). A, the lessor, gives B, the lessee, notice to quit the property leased. The notice expires. B tenders, and A accepts, rent which has become due in respect of the property since the expiration of the notice. The notice is waived.

(b). A, the lessor, gives B the lessee, notice to quit the property leased. The notice expires, and B remains in possession. A gives to B as lessee a second notice to quit. The first notice is waived.

113. Where a lease of immoveable property has been determined by forfeiture for non-payment of rent, and the lessor sues to eject the lessee, if, at the hearing of the suit, the lessee pays or tenders to the lessor the rent in arrear, together with interest thereon and his full costs of the suit, or gives such security as the Court thinks sufficient for making such payment within fifteen days, the Court may, in lieu of making a decree for ejectment, pass an order relieving the lessee against the forfeiture; and thereupon the lessee shall hold the property leased as if the forfeiture had not occurred.

Relief against forfeiture for non-payment of rent.

Act XVIII of 1873, s. 34, cl. (c), para. 1.

114. The surrender, express or implied, of a lease of immoveable property does not prejudice an under-lease of the property or any part thereof previously granted by the lessee, on terms and conditions substantially the same (except as regards the amount of rent) as those of the original lease; but, unless the surrender is made for the purpose of obtaining a new lease, the rent payable by and the contracts binding on the under-lessee shall be respectively payable to and enforceable by the lessor.

Effect of surrender and forfeiture on under-leases.

The forfeiture of such a lease annuls all such under-leases, except where such forfeiture has been procured by the lessor in fraud of the under-lessees.

115. If a lessee or under-lessee of property remains in possession thereof after the determination of the lease, and the lessor or his legal representative accepts rent from the lessee or under-lessee, or otherwise assents to his continuing in possession, the lease is, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, renewed from year to year, or from month to month, according to the purpose for which the property is leased, as specified in section one hundred and seven.

Effect of holding over.

Illustrations.

(a). A lets a house to B for five years. B underlets the house to C at a monthly rent of Rs. 100. The five years expire, but C continues in possession of the house and pays the rent to A. C's lease is renewed from month to month.

(b). A lets a farm to B for the life of C. C dies, but B continues in possession with A's assent. B's lease is renewed from year to year.

116. None of the provisions of this chapter apply to leases for agricultural purposes, except in so far as the local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may by notification published in the official Gazette declare all or any of such provisions to be so applicable, together with, or subject to, those of the local law, if any, for the time being in force.

Exemption of leases for agricultural purposes.

Such notification shall not take effect until the expiry of six months from the date of its publication.

If the donee dies before acceptance, the gift is void.

Gift to several, of whom one does not accept.

125. The donor and donee may agree that on the happening of any specified event which does not depend on the will of the donor a gift shall be suspended or revoked; but a gift which the parties agree shall be revocable wholly or in part at the mere will of the donor is void wholly or in part, as the case may be.

When gift may be suspended or revoked.

A gift may also be revoked in any of the cases (save want or failure of consideration) in which, if it were a contract, it might be rescinded.

Save as aforesaid, a gift cannot be revoked.

1 L. R., 2 All. 432.

Nothing contained in this section shall be deemed to affect the rights of transferees for consideration without notice.

(b). A gives a lákh of rupees to B, reserving to himself, with B's assent, the right to take back at pleasure Rs. 10,000 out of the lákh. The gift holds good as to Rs. 90,000, but is void as to Rs. 10,000, which continue to belong to A.

Act X of 1865, s. 109.

Where a gift is in the form of two or more separate and independent transfers to the same person of several things, the donee is at liberty to accept one of them and refuse the others, although the former may be beneficial and the latter onerous.

A donee not competent to contract and accepting property burdened by any obligation is not bound by his acceptance. But if, after becoming competent to contract and being aware of the obligation, he retains the property given, he becomes so bound.

Onerous gift to disqualified person.

Illustrations.

(a). A has shares in X, a prosperous joint stock company, and also shares in Y, a joint stock company in difficulties. Heavy calls are expected in respect of the shares in Y. A gives B all his shares in joint stock companies. B refuses to accept the shares in Y. He cannot take the shares in X.

(b). A, having a lease for a term of years of a house at a rent which he and his representatives are bound to pay during the term, and which is more than the house can be let for, gives to B the lease, and also, as a separate and independent transaction, a sum of money. B refuses to accept the lease. He does not by this refusal forfeit the money.

127. Subject to the provisions of section one hundred and twenty-six, where a gift consists of the donor's whole property, the donee is personally liable for all the debts due by the donor at the time of the gift to the extent of the property comprised therein.

Transfer of debts.

Illustrations.

(a). A owes money to B, who transfers the debt to C. B then demands the debt from A, who, having no notice of the transfer, pays B. The payment is valid, and C cannot sue A for the debt.

(b). A has jewels deposited with B, a jeweller. A mortgages them to C. A then executes an instrument transferring them to D, who takes it to B, and gets the jewels from him before he, B, has received any notice of C's mortgage. B is justified in handing the jewels to D, and C has no remedy against D.

Bill II, s. 137: Report, s. 100.

131. Every such notice must be in writing signed by the person making the transfer, or by his agent duly authorized in this behalf.

133. Where the transferor of a debt warrants the solvency of the debtor, the warranty, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, applies only to his solvency at the time of the transfer, and is limited, where the transfer is made for consideration, to the amount or value of such consideration.

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th March, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 5 OF 1881.

A Bill to amend the Indian Penal Code.

Preamble.

FOR the purpose of amending the Indian Penal Code; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Amendment of section 40, clause 2, of Indian Penal Code.

1. In the second clause of section 40 of the said Code, before the figure "109," the figures "65, 66, 71" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 64 of same Code.

2. In section 64 of the said Code, for the first twelve words, the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"In every case punishable under any law in force for the time being, with imprisonment as well as fine, in which the offender is sentenced to a fine, whether with or without imprisonment, and in every case punishable under this Code with fine only, in which the offender is sentenced to a fine,"

Amendment of section 67 of same Code.

3. In section 67, after the words "fine only," the words "the imprisonment which the Court imposes in default of payment of the fine shall be simple, and" shall be inserted.

Addition to section 71 of same Code.

4. To section 71 of the said Code, the following clause shall be added:—

"Where anything is an offence falling within two or more separate definitions of any law in force for the time being by which offences are defined or punished, the offender shall not be punished with a more severe punishment than the Court which tries him could award for any one of such offences."

New Exception to section 214 of same Code.

5. In section 214 of the said Code, for the Exception, the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

Addition to section 435 of same Code.

6. In section 435 of the said Code, after the words "or upwards" the following words shall be inserted, namely:—

"or (where the property is agricultural produce) ten rupees or upwards."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to make six amendments of the Indian Penal Code.

The first is to render the word "offence," as used in sections 65, 66 and 71 (as amended by this Bill), applicable to things punishable under the Code or any special or local law.

The second is to render section 64 (as to sentence of imprisonment on default of payment of fine) applicable to convictions under special and local laws in case of offences punishable both with imprisonment and fine. It corresponds with the first clause of section 309 of Act X of 1872, which will be repealed by the new Code of Criminal Procedure.

The third is to declare that, when an offence is punishable with fine only, the imprisonment in default of payment of the fine shall be simple: this is in accordance with a decision of the Bombay High Court (5 Bom. C. C. 55).

The fourth is to declare, by an addition to section 71, that, when anything is an offence falling within two or more separate definitions, the offender shall not be punished with a more severe punishment than the Court which tries him could award for any one of such offences. This corresponds with the latter part of the second clause of section 454 of the present Code of Criminal Procedure; but it is clearly matter of substantive law, and should therefore be placed in the Penal Code.

The fifth is to replace the obscure Exception which now stands in section 214 by the following:—

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

This will be read with section 345 of the new Code of Criminal Procedure, which declares that certain specified offences, and no others, may be compounded.

The sixth is to render the offence of committing mischief by fire, intending to cause damage to agricultural produce worth ten rupees or upwards, punishable with the severer penalty provided by section 435 of the Code. As the law stands, mischief by fire is cognizable only when committed with intent to cause damage to the amount of Rs. 100 or upwards. But agricultural holdings are generally so small that the total produce of a holding is often less than Rs. 100. The result is that a raiyat may have garnered his crop and lose the whole of it through the act of an incendiary, and yet the offence is only punishable with three months' imprisonment and fine, and may not be investigated by the police without the special order of a Magistrate. An alteration in the paragraph of the second schedule to the new Code of Criminal Procedure, which relates to section 435 of the Penal Code, will render the offence in question cognizable by the police.

and whereas it is also expedient to provide, in other respects hereinafter appearing, for the regulation and control of merchant shipping;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1881;"

Extent. It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement. and it shall come into force at once.

Repeal of enactments. 2. The Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875, and Act No. XIII of 1878 (An Act to provide for the recovery in British India of wages due to, and expenses incurred in respect of, certain seamen and apprentices, and to amend the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875, and the Indian Ports Act, 1875), are hereby repealed.

But all proceedings commenced, officers appointed, powers conferred, investigations held, certificates cancelled or suspended, agreements made and persons authorized under the said Acts or either of them, shall be deemed to have been respectively commenced, appointed, conferred, held, cancelled or suspended, made and authorized under this Act.

Interpretation-clause. 3. In this Act

Definition of ship: "ship" includes every description of vessel used in navigation not propelled by oars; and

"master." "master" means any person (except a pilot or harbour-master) having for the time being control or charge of a ship.

Cf. Act IV of 1875, s. 23: Act XV of 1863, s. 10: Act XXVIII of 1861, s. 3.

Saving of powers of certain Admiralty Courts. 4. Nothing in this Act affects the powers conferred by section two hundred and forty of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by section eighty of Act No. I of 1859 (for the amendment of the law relating to Merchant Shipping), on Courts having admiralty jurisdiction in India.

Exercise of such powers by principal criminal Courts. The powers conferred by the last-mentioned enactment may, at any port in British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, be exercised by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction.

CHAPTER II.

INVESTIGATIONS INTO CASUALTIES AFFECTING SHIPS, AND CHARGES AGAINST MASTERS, MATES OR ENGINEERS.

See Act XIII of 1878, s. 4.

Chapter not to apply to certain ships. 5. Nothing in this chapter shall be deemed to apply to any ship belonging to, or in the service of, Her Majesty or belonging to any foreign Prince or State.

Report of casualties to be made to Local Government. 6. Whenever any Magistrate, or any officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf, receives credible information that— See Act IV of 1875, s. 3, and section 81 of the Bill which afterwards became Act VII of 1880.

(a) any ship has been lost, abandoned, stranded or damaged on or near the coasts of British India; or

(b) by reason of any casualty happening to or on board of any ship on or near such coasts, loss of life has ensued; or

(c) any ship has caused loss or damage to any other ship on or near such coasts; or

(d) any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has happened elsewhere, and any competent witnesses thereof have arrived or are to be found at any place in British India; or

(e) any ship is supposed to have been lost, and any evidence can be obtained in British India as to the circumstances under which she proceeded to sea or was last heard of;

he shall forthwith report in writing such information to the Local Government.

In the cases mentioned in clauses (a), (b) and (c), the master, pilot, harbour-master or other person in charge of the ship or (where two ships are concerned) in charge of each ship, at the time of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty, and in cases under clause (d), where the ship concerned proceeds direct from the place where such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has occurred to any place in British India, the master of such ship at the time she arrives at such place, shall, on arriving in British India, give immediate notice of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty to the nearest Magistrate, or, when he arrives at a port, to the officer appointed at such port as aforesaid.

Any person bound to give notice under this section and wilfully failing to give the same shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and, in default of payment, to simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months.

Power to appoint special Court of Enquiry. 7. If in any such case a formal investigation into the facts mentioned in section six, clause (a), (b), (c), (d) or (e), appears to the Local Government to be requisite or expedient, the Local Government (whether such notice be given or not) may appoint a special Court, consisting of not less than two nor more than four persons, and direct such Court to make such investigation, and may fix the place for making the same. See Act IV of 1875, s. 4.

One of such persons shall be a Magistrate acting in or near the place where the investigation is made; another shall be some person conversant with maritime affairs. The other or others (if any) shall be conversant with either maritime or mercantile affairs.

Other Courts authorized to investigate casualties. 8. Every Court having admiralty jurisdiction in British India, and the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction at every port of British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, is hereby authorized, when so directed by the Local Government, to make the investigations referred to in section seven. See Act IV of 1875, s. 5.

Power to inquire into charges against masters, mates and engineers. 9. Any Court making an investigation under section seven or section eight may inquire into any charge of incompetency or misconduct arising, in the course of such investigation, against any master, mate or engineer holding a certificate granted, under any enactment for the time being in force, by the Board of Trade or a Local Government, as well as into any charge of a wrongful act or default on his part causing any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty as aforesaid. Act XIII of 1878, s. 3.

In every case in which there is reason to believe that any such charge, whether of incompetency or misconduct, or of a wrongful act or default, as aforesaid, will arise against any such master, mate or engineer in the course of an investigation, the Court shall, if practicable, before the commencement of such investigation, cause to be furnished to him a copy of the report upon which such investigation has been directed.

Cf. s. 6 of Act IV of 1875. Also s. 241 of 17 & 18 Vic., c. 104.

Cf. Act IV of 1875, s. 7.

Before commencing such investigation, the Court shall cause the master, mate or engineer so charged to be furnished with a copy of the statement so transmitted by the Local Government.

Act IV of 1875, s. 10.

Person accused to be heard. 11. For the purpose of an investigation under this chapter into any charge against a master, mate or engineer, the Court may summon him to appear, and shall give him full opportunity of making a defence either in person or otherwise.

Cf. Act IV of 1875, s. 8.

Powers of Courts as to evidence and regulating proceedings. 12. For the purpose of any investigation under this chapter, the Court making the investigation, so far as relates to compelling the attendance and examination of witnesses and the production of documents and the regulation of the proceedings, shall have—

(a) if such Court is a special Court—the same powers as are exercisable by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction for the place at which the investigation is made;

(b) if such Court is a Court having admiralty jurisdiction or a principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction—the same powers as are exercisable by such Court in the exercise of such admiralty or criminal jurisdiction (as the case may be).

Assessors. And every Court making any such investigation, other than a special Court, may, if it think fit, constitute as its assessor, for the purposes of the investigation, any person conversant with maritime affairs and willing to act as such assessor.

Such person shall attend during the investigation and deliver his opinion in writing, to be recorded on the proceedings. But the exercise of all powers conferred on the Court by this Act or any other enactment for the time being in force shall rest with the Court.

Act IV of 1875, s. 15.

Power to arrest witnesses and cause entry and detention of vessels. 13. If any Court making an investigation under this chapter thinks it necessary for obtaining evidence that any person should be arrested, it may issue a warrant for his arrest, and may, for the purpose of effecting such arrest, authorize any officer (subject, nevertheless, to any general or special instructions from the Local Government) to enter any vessel.

Any officer so authorized may, for the purpose of enforcing such entry, call to his aid any officers of police or customs, or any other persons, and may seize and detain the vessel for such time as is reasonably necessary to effect the arrest; and every such officer or other person shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, section 186.

No person shall be detained by virtue of this section for more than forty-eight hours.

Act IV of 1875, s. 16.

Power to bind over persons to give evidence.

Depositions. And whenever in the course of such trial the testimony of any witness is required in relation to the subject-matter, any deposition previously made by him in relation to the same subject-matter before any Court making an investigation under this chapter shall, if authenticated by the signature of the Magistrate or presiding Judge, be admissible in evidence on proof—

(a) that the witness cannot be found within the jurisdiction of the Court before which the trial is held; and

(b) that it was made in the presence of the person accused.

A certificate by the Magistrate or presiding Judge that the deposition was made in the presence of the accused shall, unless the contrary be proved, be sufficient evidence that it was so made.

Cf. Act IV of 1875, ss. 11 and 12.

Report by Court to Local Government. 15. The Court shall, in the case of all investigations under this chapter, transmit to the Local Government a full report of the conclusions at which it has arrived, together with the evidence.

In cases in which, under the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, the Court is required to send a report to the Board of Trade, such report shall be sent through the Local Government, and the submission of such report to the Local Government shall be a sufficient compliance with this section.

CHAPTER III.

SUSPENSION AND CANCELLATION OF CERTIFICATES AND GRANT OF FRESH CERTIFICATES.

16. Nothing herein contained shall affect the powers conferred by the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, on the Courts conducting investigations under sections seven, eight, nine and ten of this Act, to cancel or suspend certificates granted under any of the said Merchant Shipping Acts, or certificates to which the provisions of any such Act have been made applicable under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869.

Saving of power to cancel and suspend certificates under English Acts.

When any such Court cancels or suspends any such certificate, it may, in its report to the Local Government, advise such Government to grant, without examination, to the holder of such certificate, when such certificate is a certificate as master, a certificate as master or mate; and, when such certificate is a certificate as mate or engineer, a certificate as mate or engineer, as the case may be; and such Local Government, if it thinks fit, and if it is empowered by any enactment of a British Indian legislature for the time being in force to grant such certificate, may grant it under such enactment, but without examination. A certificate so granted shall, except for the purposes of the said Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination.

Power to issue local certificates in lieu of such certificates.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 18.

17. Any certificate (whether of competency or service) which has been granted by any Local Government, to any master, mate or engineer, and to which the provisions of the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, do not apply, may be suspended or cancelled, by that or any other Local Government, in the following cases, that is to say:—

Local Government may suspend or cancel certain certificates—

(a) if, upon any investigation made under this Act, the Court reports that the loss, stranding or abandonment of, or damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default, or that he is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of drunkenness, tyranny or other misconduct;

after investigation under this Act;

(b) if, upon any investigation made under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, or upon any investigation made by any Court or tribunal for the time being authorized by the legislative authority in any British possession to make enquiry into charges of incompetency or misconduct on the part of masters, mates or engineers of ships, or as to shipwrecks or other casualties affecting ships, the Court or tribunal reports that such master, mate or engineer is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of misconduct, drunkenness or tyranny, or that the loss, stranding or abandonment of, or damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default;

after investigation under other Acts;

(c) if he is proved to have been convicted of any offence which, if committed in British India, would be non-bailable, or, if committed in England, would be a felony; and after conviction of any offence.

Act IV of 1875, s. 18, cl. c).

(d) if (in the case of a master) he has been superseded by the order of any Admiralty Court, or of any Naval Court constituted as provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by any other law for the time being in force:

after supersession.

Provided that, in any case in which an investigation has been made into a charge against any master, mate or engineer, no certificate shall be suspended or cancelled under clause (a) unless the Local Government is satisfied that the holder of the certificate has been furnished before the commencement of the investigation with the copy of the report or statement required by section nine or section ten, as the case may be.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 19.

18. Every master, mate or engineer whose certificate is cancelled or suspended under section seventeen shall deliver it to the Shipping Master, or to such other person as the Local Government which cancelled or suspended the certificate directs, and in default of such delivery shall, for each offence, be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Master, &c., to deliver up certificate.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 20.

19. If the Local Government which cancels or suspends, under section seventeen, a certificate of a master, mate or engineer is not the Local Government that granted the same, the Local Government so cancelling or suspending the certificate shall report the proceedings, and the fact of cancelment or suspension, to the Local Government which granted such certificate.

Report to other Local Governments.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 21.

20. Every Local Government cancelling or suspending under section seventeen the certificate of a master, mate or engineer shall, as soon as may be practicable, report to the Board of Trade the fact of such cancellation or suspension.

Report to Board of Trade.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 22.

21. Any Local Government may at any time revoke any order of cancelment or suspension which it may have made under section seventeen, or grant, without examination, to any person, whose certificate it has so cancelled, a new certificate of the same or of any lower grade.

Power to revoke cancellation or suspension.

Power to grant new certificate.

A certificate so granted shall, except for the purposes of the said Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination.

A certificate of competency for a Home-trade ship under the said Act No. I of 1859 shall be deemed, for the purposes of this section, to be of a lower grade than a certificate of competency for a foreign-going ship under the same Act.

Every revocation and every grant under this section shall, as soon as may be practicable, be reported to the Board of Trade.

CHAPTER IV.

AGREEMENTS WITH SEAMEN.

Act IV of 1875, s. 28.

22. This chapter shall be read with and taken as part of, the said Act No. I of 1859.

Chapter to be read with Act I of 1859.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 24.

23. The master of every ship, except ships of a burden not exceeding three hundred tons employed only in the Home-trade, shall enter into an agreement with every seaman whom he carries to sea from any port in British India as one of his crew, in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

Masters to enter into agreements with seamen.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 25.

24. Every such agreement shall be in a form sanctioned by the Governor General in Council, and shall be dated at the time of the first signature thereof, and shall be signed by the master before any seaman signs the same, and shall contain the following particulars as terms thereof, that is to say:—

Form and contents of agreement.

(a) either the nature and, as far as practicable, the duration of the intended voyage or engagement, or the maximum period of the voyage or engagement, and the places or parts of the world, if any, to which the voyage or engagement is not to extend;

(g) any regulations as to conduct on board, and as to fines, short allowance of provisions or other lawful punishments for misconduct, which have been sanctioned by the Governor General in Council as regulations proper to be adopted, and which the parties agree to adopt.

And every such agreement shall be so framed as to admit of stipulations to be adopted at the will of the master and seaman in each case (not being inconsistent with the provisions of any enactment for the time being in force relating to Merchant Shipping), as to advance of wages and supply of warm clothing, and may contain any other stipulations which are not contrary to law.

See sec. 82 of the Bill which became Act VII of 1880.

25. In the case of such agreements with lascars or other Native seamen, the scale of the provisions agreed to be furnished to each of such seamen shall not be less than a scale to be from time to time fixed and published by the Local Government with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

Scale of provisions to be furnished to lascars.

Any master entering into an agreement with any lascar or other Native seaman for a scale of provisions less than the scale so fixed and published shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Act IV of 1875, s. 26.

26. Whenever it is agreed that the service of any lascar or other Native seaman shall end at any port not in British India, the agreement shall, in addition to the particulars specified in section twenty-four, contain a stipulation that fit employment shall be provided for him on board some other ship bound to the port at which he was shipped, or such other port in British India as may be agreed on; or

Stipulation where lascars are shipped.

that a passage shall be provided for him to some port in British India free of charge, or on such other terms as may be agreed on;

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

PARAGRAPH 8 of the Report, dated the 20th February, 1880, of the Select Committee on the Bill relating to Merchant Shipping, which afterwards became the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1880, ran as follows :—

"8. We have omitted chapters VII and VIII of the Bill as introduced, as we consider that the matters to which they relate would be more fitly dealt with in a Bill to consolidate Act No. IV of 1875 and the sections of Act No. XIII of 1878 by which it is amended."

2. The nature of the contents of these omitted chapters will be learnt from the following paragraphs of the Statement of Objects and Reasons, dated the 29th August, 1879, appended to that Bill :—

"21. Chapter VII, by an addition to the Ports Act, 1875, provides for the appointment of an officer called a 'Port-inspector.' This officer, in addition to performing the duties at present performed by the Health-officer (for the performance of which duties he is by the Bill invested with certain legal powers), is intrusted with the duty of inquiring into any complaints which may be made on the arrival of a ship in port by any of the crew against the master or any others of the crew. This latter provision has been inserted, in compliance with the desire of the Secretary of State, for the protection of lascars or other Oriental seamen when serving on board a European ship.

"22. Chapter VIII makes two amendments of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875. The one extends the provisions of section 3 of that Act so as to give power to hold Marine Courts of Enquiry in certain cases which are at present unprovided for. This change has been introduced at the request of the local Marine authorities, and is in accordance with the provisions of the English law as recently amended. The other amendment gives the Local Government power to fix a scale of provisions, for less than which it will be penal for a master to contract with any lascar or Native seaman—a provision which has been found to be essential for the protection of such seamen."

3. It is with a view to carry out the suggestion of the Select Committee above quoted that the present Bill has been prepared.

The Bill, however, does more than merely consolidate the provisions of the Acts of 1875 and 1878 and re-enact them with the addition of the points omitted from the Merchant Shipping Bill of 1879.

These Acts of 1875 and 1878 relate in part to the suspension and cancellation of Board of Trade certificates to which the provisions of the Imperial Merchant Shipping Acts apply. An examination of the provisions of our Acts in connection with those of the Imperial Acts shows that our Acts deal with several matters already provided for by Parliament. This is not desirable. Apart from the question which might be raised as to the validity of our law, where that law is not transcribed verbatim, it is inconvenient from a practical point of view that double provisions relating to the same subject-matter should exist side by side. In re-enacting, therefore, the provisions of the Acts repealed by the Bill, an endeavour has been made to restrict the provisions of the Bill to matters for which the Imperial Acts do not provide, and on which it is clear we can legislate. This has necessitated the omission of some and the amendment of other provisions of the present law.

4. The opportunity of this Bill has been taken to amend section 26 of Act IV of 1875, so as to provide that, when the service of any lascar is to end at any port not in British India, the agreement between him and the master shall invariably stipulate for his return to British India, and not merely for his employment on board some vessel bound to such other port as may be agreed on, possibly not in British India. It is clear that, with the extended employment of Native seamen in the Eastern trade, and the increasing number of Asiatic sailors found in a destitute condition at European ports, Government should, on economical grounds, if for no other reason, devise steps to secure the return of Indian seamen to this country at the expense of the persons who take them away.

5. The 31st section of Act IV of 1875, which confers certain powers on Courts for the trial of pilots constituted under Act XII of 1859, has been excluded from the present Bill, as the matter is one which will be more properly provided for by a separate Bill amending that Act.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th March, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 7 OF 1881.

A Bill to give power to arrest persons whose evidence is needed under Act No. XII of 1859.

WHEREAS it is expedient to empower the Judges holding trials under Act No. XII of 1859 (An Act to make better provision for the trial of Pilots at the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal for breach of duty) to arrest persons whose evidence is required on such trials; It is hereby enacted as follows:— Preamble.

1. The following section shall be inserted immediately after section 14 of the said Act, namely:— Addition to Act XII of 1859, after section 14.

"15. Whenever the Judge of the said Court thinks it necessary for obtaining evidence that any person should be arrested, he may issue a warrant for his arrest, and may, for the purpose of effecting such arrest, authorize any officer (subject, nevertheless, to any general or special instructions from the Local Government) to enter any vessel.

"Any officer so authorized may, for the purpose of enforcing such entry, call to his aid any officers of police or customs, or any other persons, and may seize and detain the vessel for such time as is reasonably necessary to effect the arrest; and every such officer or other person shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, section 186.

"No person shall be detained under this section for more than forty-eight hours."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE last section of Act IV of 1875, which confers on Courts established for the trial of pilots in Bengal under Act XII of 1859 certain powers for compelling the attendance of witnesses, will be repealed if the Merchant Shipping Bill, which is to be introduced to-day, becomes law. As such a provision is somewhat out of place in a Merchant Shipping Act, it seems better to re-enact it as a section in Act XII of 1859, and the present Bill has accordingly been prepared for this purpose.

166. Whenever an officer in charge of a Police-station, or a Police-officer making an investigation, considers that the production of any document or other thing is necessary to the conduct of an investigation into any offence which he is authorized to investigate, and there is reason to believe that a person to whom a summons under section 95 has been or might be addressed will not or would not produce such document or other thing as directed in the summons, or when such document or other thing is not known to be in the possession of any person, such officer may search, or cause search to be made, for the same, in any place within the limits of the station of which he is in charge, or to which he is attached.

An officer in charge of a Police-station may require an officer in charge of another Police-station, whether in the same or a different District, to cause a search to be made in any place, in any case in which the former officer might cause such search to be made within the limits of his own station.

When officer in charge of Police-station may require another to issue search-warrant.

Such officer, on being so required, shall proceed according to the provisions of section 166, and shall forward the thing found, if any, to the officer at whose request the search was made, unless the place at which such thing is found is in a different District, and is nearer to the Magistrate having jurisdiction in such place than to the station of which the latter officer is in charge. In such case the thing shall be taken before such Magistrate, who, unless there be good cause to the contrary, shall order such thing to be forwarded to such officer.

Act X, 1872, s. 124, paras. 2, 3 and 4.

168. Whenever it appears that any investigation under this chapter cannot be completed within the period of twenty-four hours fixed by section 61, and there are grounds for believing that the accusation is well-founded, the officer in charge of the Police-station shall transmit to the nearest Magistrate a copy of the entries in the diary hereinafter prescribed relating to the case, and shall at the same time forward the accused to such Magistrate, unless, for reasons to be recorded by such officer, he thinks that the accused should not be so forwarded.

A Magistrate authorizing under this section detention in the custody of the police shall record his reasons for so doing.

If such order be given by a Magistrate other than the District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate, he shall forward a copy of his order, with his reasons for making it, to the Magistrate to whom he is subordinate.

Act X, 1872, s. 125.

170. If, upon an investigation under this chapter, it appears to the officer in charge of the Police-station that there is not sufficient evidence or reasonable ground of suspicion to justify the forwarding of the accused to a Magistrate, such officer shall, if such person is in custody, release him on his executing a bond, with or without sureties, as such officer may direct, to appear, if and when so required, before a Magistrate having jurisdiction to take cognizance of the offence on a police report.

When the officer in charge of a Police-station forwards an accused person to a Magistrate or takes security for his appearance before such Magistrate under this section, he shall send to such Magistrate any weapon or other article which it may be necessary to produce before him, and shall require the complainant, if any, and so many of the persons who appear to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case as may be necessary, to execute a bond to appear before the Magistrate and prosecute or give evidence (as the case may be) in the matter of the charge against the accused.

If the Court of the District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate be mentioned in the bond, it shall be held to include any Court to which such Magistrate may refer the case for inquiry or trial, provided notice of such reference be given to such complainant or witness.

The day fixed under this section shall be the day whereon the accused person is to appear, if security for his appearance has been taken, or the day on which he may be expected to arrive at the Court of the Magistrate, if he is to be forwarded in custody.

The officer in whose presence the bond is executed shall deliver a copy thereof to one of the persons who executed it, and shall then send to the Magistrate the original with his report.

Diary of proceedings in investigation.

Act X, 1872, ss. 125, 127, paras. 1 & 2.

In the territories respectively administered by the Governors of Fort St. George and Bombay in Council, investigations under this section may be made by the Head of the village, who shall then report the result to the nearest Magistrate authorized to hold inquests.

The following Magistrates are empowered to hold inquests, namely, any District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate, and any Magistrate specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government or the District Magistrate.

If the facts do not disclose a cognizable offence to which section 171 applies, such persons shall not be required by the Police-officer to attend a Magistrate's Court.

New. Cf. Act IV, 1871, s. 11.

In the Presidency-towns the charge shall be written in English; elsewhere it shall be written either in English or in the language of the Court.

Language of charge.

If the accused has been previously convicted of any offence, and it is intended to prove such previous conviction for the purpose of affecting the punishment which the Court is competent to award, the fact of the previous conviction must be stated in the charge. If such statement is omitted, the Court may add it at any time before sentence is passed.

Previous conviction when to be set out.

This is equivalent to a statement that A's act fell within the definition of murder given in sections 299 and 300 of the Indian Penal Code; that it did not fall within any of the general exceptions of the same Code; and that it did not fall within any of the five exceptions to section 300; or that, if it did fall within Exception 1, one or other of the three provisos to that exception applied to it.

(b) A is charged, under section 326 of the Indian Penal Code, with voluntarily causing grievous hurt to B, by means of an instrument for shooting. This is equivalent to a statement that the case was not provided for by section 335 of the Indian Penal Code, and that the general exceptions did not apply to it.

(c) A is accused of murder, cheating, theft, extortion, adultery or criminal intimidation, or using a false property-mark. The charge may state that A committed murder, or cheating, or theft, or extortion, or adultery, or criminal intimidation, or that he used a false property-mark, without reference to the definitions of those crimes contained in the Indian Penal Code; but the sections under which the offence is punishable must, in each instance, be referred to in the charge.

(d) A is charged, under section 184 of the Indian Penal Code, with intentionally obstructing a sale of property offered for sale by the lawful authority of a public servant. The charge should be in those words.

Act X, 1872, s. 440.

Act IV, 1877, s. 95.

223. The charge shall contain such particulars as to the time and place of the alleged offence, and the person (if any) against whom, or the thing (if any) in respect of which, it was committed, as are reasonably sufficient to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

Particulars as to time, place and person.

Act X, 1872, s. 441.

Act IV, 1877 s. 96.

224. When the nature of the case is such that the particulars mentioned in sections 222 and 223 do not give the accused sufficient notice of the matter with which he is charged, the charge shall also contain such particulars of the manner in which the alleged offence was committed as will be sufficient for that purpose.

When manner of committing offence must be stated.

Illustrations.

(a) A is accused of the theft of a certain article at a certain time and place. The charge need not set out the manner in which the theft was effected.

(b) A is accused of cheating B at a given time and place. The charge must set out the manner in which A cheated B.

(c) A is accused of giving false evidence at a given time and place. The charge must set out that portion of the evidence given by A which is alleged to be false.

(d) A is accused of obstructing B, a public servant, in discharge of his public functions at a given time and place. The charge must set out the manner in which A obstructed B in the discharge of his functions.

(e) A is accused of the murder of B at a given time and place. The charge need not state the manner in which A murdered B.

(f) A is accused of disobeying a direction of the law with intent to save B from punishment. The charge must set out the disobedience charged and the law infringed.

Act XVIII, 1862, s.82.

225. In every charge words used in describing an offence shall be deemed to have been used in the sense attached to them respectively by the law under which such offence is punishable.

Words in charge taken in sense of law under which offence is punishable.

Act X, 1872, s. 443.

Act X, 1875, s. 24.

Act IV, 1877, s. 98.

226. No error in stating either the offence or the particulars required to be stated in the charge, and no omission to state the offence or those particulars, shall be regarded at any stage of the case as material, unless the accused was misled by such error or omission.

Effect of errors.

Illustrations.

(a) A is charged, under section 242 of the Indian Penal Code, with "having been in possession of counterfeit coin, having known at the time when he became possessed thereof that such coin was counterfeit," the word "fraudulently" being omitted in the charge. Unless it appears that A was in fact misled by this omission, the error shall not be regarded as material.

(b) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge, or is set out incorrectly. A defends himself, calls witnesses, and gives his own account of the transaction. The Court may infer from this that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating is not material.

(c) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge. There were many transactions between A and B, and A had no means of knowing to which of them the charge referred, and offered no defence. The Court may infer from such facts that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating was, in this case, a material error.

(d) A is charged with the murder of Khoda Baksh on the 21st January. In fact, the murdered person's name was Haidar Baksh, and the date of the murder was the 20th January. A was never charged with any murder but one, and had heard the inquiry before the Magistrate, which referred exclusively to the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from these facts that A was not misled, and that the error in the charge was immaterial.

(e) A was charged with murdering Haidar Baksh on the 20th January and Khoda Baksh (who tried to arrest him for that murder) on the 21st January. When charged for the murder of Haidar Baksh, he was tried for the murder of Khoda Baksh. The witnesses present in his defence were witnesses in the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from this that A was misled, and that the error was material.

Act X, 1872, s. 446. Act X, 1875, ss. 7, 8.

227. When any person is committed for trial without a charge, or with an imperfect or erroneous charge, the Court, or, in the case of a High Court, the Clerk of the Crown, may frame a charge, or add to or otherwise alter the charge, as the case may be, having regard to the rules contained in this Code as to the form of charges.

Procedure on commitment without charge or with imperfect charge.

Act X, 1872, ss. 444, 445. Act X, 1875, ss. 9, 10. Act IV, 1877, ss. 99, 100.

228. Any Court may alter any charge at any time before judgment is pronounced, or, in the case of trials before the Court of Session or High Court, before the verdict of the jury is returned or the opinions of the assessors are expressed.

Court may alter charge.

Every such alteration shall be read and explained to the accused.

Act X, 1872, s. 447. Act X, 1875, s. 11. Act IV, 1877, s. 101.

229. If the charge framed or alteration made under either of the two last preceding sections is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is not likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused in his defence or the prosecutor in the conduct of the case, the Court may in its discretion, after such charge or alteration has been framed or made, proceed with the trial as if the new or altered charge had been the original charge.

When trial may proceed immediately after alteration.

Act X, 1872, s. 448. Act X, 1875, s. 12. Act IV, 1877, s. 102.

230. If the new or altered charge is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused or the prosecutor as aforesaid, the Court may either direct a new trial or adjourn the trial for such period as may be necessary.

When new trial may be directed, or trial suspended.

Act X, 1872, s. 450. Act X, 1875, s. 16. Act IV, 1877, s. 104.

231. If the offence stated in the new or altered charge is one for the prosecution of which previous sanction is necessary, the case shall not be proceeded with until such sanction is obtained, unless sanction has been already obtained for a prosecution on the same facts as those on which the altered charge is founded.

Stay of proceedings if prosecution of offence in altered charge require previous sanction.

Act X, 1872, s. 449. Act X, 1875, s. 15, omitting 'during the trial.' Act IV, 1877, s. 103.

232. Whenever a charge is altered by the Court after the commencement of the trial, the prosecutor and the accused shall be allowed to recall or re-summon, and examine with reference to such alteration, any witness who may have been examined.

Recall of witnesses when charge altered.

Act X, 1872, s. 451.

233. If any Appellate Court, or the High Court in the exercise of its powers of revision or of its powers under Chapter XXVII, is of opinion that any person convicted of an offence was misled in his defence by the absence of a charge or by an error in the charge, it shall direct a new trial to be had upon a charge framed in whatever manner it thinks fit.

Effect of material error.

If the Court is of opinion that the facts of the case are such that no valid charge could be preferred against the accused in respect of the facts proved, it shall quash the conviction.

Illustration.

Act XI, 1874, s. 40. A is convicted of an offence under section 196 of the Indian Penal Code, upon a charge which omits to state that he knew the evidence which he corruptly used or attempted to use as true or genuine was false or fabricated. If the Court thinks it probable that A had such knowledge, and that he was misled in his defence by the omission from the charge of the statement that he had it, it shall direct a new trial upon an amended charge; but if it appears probable from the proceedings that A had no such knowledge, it shall quash the conviction.

Joinder of Charges.

Act X, 1872, s. 452. Act X, 1875, s. 17. Act IV, 1877, s. 105. 234. There must be a separate charge for every distinct offence of which any person is accused, and every such charge must be tried separately, except in the cases mentioned in sections 235, 236, 237 and 240.

Separate charges for distinct offences.

Illustration.

A is accused of a theft on one occasion, and of causing grievous hurt on another occasion. A must be separately charged and separately tried for the theft and the causing grievous hurt.

More offences than one of same kind may be charged within a year of each other.

I.—Trial of more than one offence.

II.—If the acts alleged constitute an offence falling within two or more separate definitions of any law in force for the time being by which offences are defined or punished, the person accused of them may be charged with and tried at one trial for each of such offences.

II.—One offence falling within two definitions.

III.—If several acts, of which one or more than one would by itself constitute an offence, form, when combined, a different offence, the person accused of them may be charged with and tried at one trial for every such offence, or any of such different offences.

III.—Acts severally constituting more than one offence, but collectively coming within one definition.

Nothing contained in this section shall affect the Indian Penal Code, section 71.

CHAPTER XX.

Of the Trial of Summons-cases by Magistrates.

Act X, 1872, s. 208, para. 1. Act IV, 1877, s. 114. 242. The following procedure shall be observed by Magistrates in the trial of summons-cases.

Act IV, 1877, s. 120. 244. If the accused admits that he has committed the offence with which he is charged, his admission shall be recorded as nearly as possible in the words used by him; and if he shows no sufficient cause why he should not be convicted, the Magistrate shall convict him accordingly.

Conviction on admission of truth of accusation.

Act X, 1872, s. 207. Act IV, 1877, s. 121. 245. If the accused does not make such admission, the Magistrate shall proceed to hear the complainant (if any), and take all such evidence as may be produced in support of the prosecution, and also to hear the accused and take all such evidence as he produces in his defence.

Act X, 1872, s. 361. Act IV, 1877, s. 142.

The Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, on the application of the complainant or accused, issue process to compel the attendance of any witness or the production of any document or other thing.

The Magistrate may, before summoning any witness on such application, require that his reasonable expenses incurred in attending for the purposes of the trial be deposited in Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 211, parns. 1 and 2. Act IV, 1877, s. 126.

246. If the Magistrate upon taking the evidence referred to in section 245 and such further evidence (if any) as he may, of his own motion, cause to be produced, and (if he thinks fit) examining the accused, finds the accused not guilty, he shall record an order of acquittal.

Acquittal.

If he finds the accused guilty, he shall pass sentence upon him according to law.

Sentence.

Act X, 1872, s. 203, para. 2, second clause. Act IV, 1877, s. 117. Nelson, 206.

Finding not limited by complaint or summons.

Act X, 1872, ss. 206, 208, para. 3, 212. Act IV, 1877, s. 118.

248. If the summons has been issued on complaint, and upon the day appointed for the appearance of the accused or any day subsequent thereto to which the hearing may be adjourned the complainant does not appear, the Magistrate shall, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, acquit the accused, unless for some reason he thinks proper to adjourn the hearing of the case to some other day.

Non-appearance of complainant.

Act X, 1872, s. 210. Act IV, 1877, s. 125.

249. If a complainant, at any time before a final order is passed in any case under this chapter, satisfies the Magistrate that there are sufficient grounds for permitting him to withdraw his complaint, the Magistrate may permit him to withdraw the same, and shall thereupon acquit the accused.

Withdrawal of complaint.

New.

250. In any case instituted otherwise than upon complaint, a Presidency Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class, or, with the previous sanction of the District Magistrate, any other Magistrate, may, for reasons to be recorded by him, stop the proceedings at any stage without pronouncing any judgment either of acquittal or conviction.

Frivolous or vexatious complaints.

The sum so awarded shall be recoverable as if it were a fine; and if it cannot be so recovered, the complainant shall be sentenced to simple imprisonment for such term, not exceeding thirty days, as the Magistrate directs, unless such sum is sooner paid.

Recovery of compensation.

At the time of awarding compensation in any subsequent civil suit relating to the same matter, the Court shall take into account any sum paid or recovered as compensation under this section.

CHAPTER XXI.

Of the Trial of Warrant-cases by Magistrates.

Act X, 1872, s. 213.

252. The following procedure shall be observed by Magistrates in the trial of warrant-cases.

Procedure in warrant-cases.

Act X, 1872, s. 190.

253. When the accused appears or is brought before a Magistrate, such Magistrate shall proceed to hear the complainant (if any) and take all such evidence as may be produced in support of the prosecution.

The Magistrate shall ascertain, from the complainant or otherwise, the names of any persons likely to be acquainted with the facts of the case and to be able to give evidence for the prosecution, and shall summon to give evidence before himself such of them as he thinks necessary.

Act X, 1872, s. 215, with Expln. III. I. L. R., 2 Calc., 389.

254. If upon taking all the evidence referred to in section 253, and such examination (if any) of the accused as the Magistrate thinks necessary, he finds that no case against the accused has been made out which if unrebutted would warrant his conviction, the Magistrate shall discharge him.

Discharge of accused.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to prevent a Magistrate from discharging the accused at any previous stage of the case if, for reasons to be recorded by such Magistrate, he considers the charge to be groundless.

Act X, 1872, s. 216, without Explanations I & II. Act XI, 1874, s. 16. Act IV, 1877, ss. 116, 122.

255. If, when such evidence and examination have been wholly or partially taken, the Magistrate is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence triable under this chapter, which such Magistrate is competent to try, and which, in his opinion, could be adequately punished by him, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused.

Charge to be framed when offence appears proved.

Act X, 1872, s. 217. Act V, 1877, ss. 130, 132.

256. The charge shall then be read and explained to the accused, and he shall be asked whether he is guilty or has any defence to make.

If the accused pleads guilty, the Magistrate shall record the plea, and may in his discretion convict him thereon.

Summary Trials.

257. If the accused refuses to plead or does not plead, or claims to be tried, he shall be called upon to enter upon his defence and to produce his evidence, and shall, at any time while he is making his defence, be allowed to recall and cross-examine any witness for the prosecution present in the Court or its precincts.

Defence.

If the accused puts in any written statement, the Magistrate shall file it with the record.

The High Court may from time to time make rules as to keeping the jury together during a trial before such Court lasting for more than one day, and, subject to such rules, the presiding Judge may order whether and in what manner the jurors shall be kept together under the charge of an officer of the Court, or whether they shall be allowed to return to their respective homes.

Act X, 1872 s. 256. Act X, 1875, s. 91.

Duty of Judge.

299. In such cases, it is the duty of the Judge—of the parties which may arise in the course of the trial, and, in his discretion, to prevent the production of inadmissible evidence, whether it is or is not objected to by the parties;

(b) to decide upon the meaning and construction of all documents given in evidence at the trial;

(c) to decide upon all matters of fact which it may be necessary to prove in order to enable evidence of particular matters to be given;

(d) to decide whether any question which arises is for himself or for the jury, and upon this point his decision shall be final.

The Judge may, if he thinks proper, in the course of his summing up, express to the jury his opinion upon any question of fact, or upon any question of mixed law and fact, relevant to the proceeding.

Illustrations.

(a) It is proposed to prove a statement made by a person not called as a witness under circumstances which render evidence of his statement admissible.

It is for the Judge, and not for the jury, to decide whether the existence of those circumstances has been proved.

(b) It is proposed to give secondary evidence of a document the original of which is alleged to have been lost or destroyed.

It is the duty of the Judge to decide whether the original has been lost or destroyed.

Act X, 1872 s. 257. Act X, 1875, s. 93.

Duty of jury.

300. It is the duty of the jury—

(a) to decide which view of the facts is true, and then to return the verdict which under such view ought, according to the direction of the Judge, to be returned;

(b) to determine the meaning of all technical terms (other than terms of law) and words used in an unusual sense which it may be necessary to determine, whether such words occur in documents or not;

(c) to decide all questions which according to law are to be deemed questions of fact;

(d) to decide whether general indefinite expressions do or do not apply to particular cases, unless such expressions refer to legal procedure, or unless their meaning is ascertained by law, in either of which cases it is the duty of the Judge to decide their meaning.

Illustrations.

It is the duty of the Judge to explain to the jury the distinction between murder and culpable homicide, and to tell them under what views of the facts A ought to be convicted of murder, or of culpable homicide, or to be acquitted.

It is the duty of the jury to decide which view of the facts is true, and to return a verdict in accordance with the direction of the Judge, whether that direction is right or wrong, and whether they do or do not agree with it.

(b) The question is whether a person entertained a reasonable belief on a particular point,—whether work was done with reasonable skill or due diligence.

Each of these is a question for the jury.

Act X, 1872, s. 263, para. 1. Act X, 1875, s. 94.

Retirement to consider.

301. In cases tried by jury, after the Judge has finished his charge, the jury may retire to consider their verdict.

Except with the leave of the Court, no person other than a juror shall speak to, or hold any communication with, any member of such jury.

Act X, 1872, s. 263, para. 1. Act X, 1875, s. 94.

303. If the jury are not unanimous, the Judge may require them to retire for further consideration. After such a period as the Judge considers reasonable, the jury may deliver their verdict, although they are not unanimous.

Act X, 1872, s. 263, para. 2, last sentence.

Questions and answers to be recorded.

Such questions and the answers to them shall be recorded.

New. Dears. C. C. 229.

Amending verdict.

305. When by accident or mistake a wrong verdict is delivered, the jury may, before or immediately after it is recorded, amend the verdict, and it shall stand as ultimately amended.

Act X, 1875, ss. 97, 98.

Verdict in High Court when to prevail.

306. When in a case tried before a High Court the jury are unanimous in their opinion, or when as many as six are of one opinion and the Judge agrees with them, the Judge shall give judgment in accordance with such opinion.

When in any such case the jury are satisfied that they will not be unanimous, but six of them are of one opinion, the foreman shall so inform the Judge.

If the Judge disagrees with the majority, he shall at once discharge the jury.

If there are not so many as six who agree in opinion, the Judge shall, after the lapse of such time as he thinks reasonable, discharge the jury.

Verdict in Sessions Court when to prevail.

307. When in a case tried before the Court of Session the Judge does not think it necessary to express disagreement with the verdict of the jurors or of a majority of the jurors, he shall give judgment accordingly.

Act XI, 1874, s. 21.

If the accused is acquitted, the Judge shall record judgment of acquittal. If the accused is convicted, the Judge shall pass sentence on him according to law.

Act X, 1872, s. 263, paras. 5 and 6. Act XI, 1874, s. 21. I. L. R., 1 Bom., 10. The dissent must be complete, I. L. R., Bom., 526.

Procedure where Judge disagrees with verdict.

308. If in any such case the Judge disagrees with the verdict of the jurors, or of a majority of the jurors, on all or any of the charges on which the accused has been tried, so completely that he considers it necessary for the ends of justice to submit the case to the High Court, he shall submit the case accordingly, recording the grounds of his opinion and, when the verdict is one of acquittal, stating the offence which he considers to have been committed.

I. L. R., 3 Calc., 623.

Whenever the Judge submits a case under this section, he shall not record judgment of acquittal or of conviction on any of the charges on which the accused has been tried, but he may either remand the accused to custody, or admit him to bail.

See Markby, J., in I. L. R., 3 Calc., 192.

In dealing with the case so submitted the High Court may exercise any of the powers which it may exercise on an appeal; but it may acquit or convict the accused of any offence of which the jury could have convicted him upon the charge framed and placed before it; and if it convict him, may pass such sentence as might have been passed by the Court of Session.

G.—Re-trial of Accused after Discharge of Jury.

Act X, 1875, s. 100.

309. Such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate with his own hand, and shall form part of the record.

If the Magistrate is prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause such memorandum to be made in writing from his dictation in open Court, and shall sign the same; and such memorandum shall form part of the record.

Act X, 1872, s. 334.

When the evidence of such witness is given in English, the Magistrate or Sessions Judge may take it down in that language with his own hand, and, unless the accused is familiar with English, or the language of the Court is English, an authenticated translation of such evidence in the language of the Court shall form part of the record.

Evidence given in English.

In cases in which the evidence is not taken down in writing by the Magistrate or Sessions Judge, he shall, as the examination of each witness proceeds, make a memorandum of the substance of what such witness deposes, and such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate or Sessions Judge with his own hand, and shall form part of the record.

If the Magistrate or Sessions Judge is prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to make it.

403. Person once convicted or acquitted not to be tried for same offence. A person who has once been tried by a Court of competent jurisdiction for an offence and convicted or acquitted of such offence shall, while such conviction or acquittal remains in force, not be liable to be tried again for the same offence, nor on the same facts for any other offence for which a different charge from the one made against him might have been made under section 237, or for which he might have been convicted under section 238.

A person acquitted or convicted of any offence may be afterwards tried for any distinct offence for which a separate charge might have been made against him on the former trial under section 236, paragraph one.

A person convicted of any offence constituted by any act causing consequences which, together with such act, constituted a different offence from that for which he was convicted, may be afterwards tried for such last-mentioned offence, if the consequences had not happened, or were not known to the Court to have happened, at the time when he was convicted.

A person acquitted or convicted of any offence constituted by any acts may, notwithstanding such acquittal or conviction, be subsequently charged with, and tried for, any other offence constituted by the same acts which he may have committed, if the Court by which he was first tried was not competent to try the offence with which he is subsequently charged.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

No less than three Codes of Criminal Procedure are now in operation in British India: Act X of 1872, amended by Act XI of 1874, which is in force throughout the Mufassal; the High Courts' Act, X of 1875, which is in force in the Presidency-towns, Allahabad and Lahore; and the Presidency Magistrates' Act, IV of 1877, also in force in the Presidency-towns.

Many of the provisions of these Codes merely repeat one another; many of their rules, though dealing with the same subjects, unnecessarily vary in language; and the result is that the bulk of the Indian Statute-book is far greater than need be and that the Courts when construing one Code are often deprived of the guidance of prior decisions on another.

The primary object of this Bill, which has been framed at the suggestion of the Secretary of State, is to recast the Code of 1872, combining with it the substance of the High Courts' Act and the Presidency Magistrates' Act, and incorporating in it the numerous reported decisions on its wording, and thus at last give to India a single and complete Code of Criminal Procedure, and carry out, so far, the policy of providing a simple and uniform system of law for this country. The language and arrangement of Act X of 1872 have, for obvious reasons, been departed from only so far as is necessary for the main purpose of the Bill.

2. Though many of the outlying Acts and Regulations dealing with Criminal Procedure were repealed and re-enacted by Act X of 1872, many more are still untouched, and the secondary object of the present Bill is to consolidate these enactments, which are twelve in number:—

Acts.

XXIII of 1840 (Execution of process).
XXXIV of 1850 (State-Prisoners).
III of 1858 (State-Prisoners).
V of 1861, sections 6, 24, 37 to 40 inclusive, part of section 55 (Police).
XVIII of 1862 (Administration of Criminal Justice in the High Courts).
II of 1869 (Justices of the Peace).
XXII of 1870, sections 2 and 4 (Application to European British subjects of Acts giving summary jurisdiction).
XXI of 1879, Chapter III (Inquiries in British India into crimes committed abroad by British subjects).

Regulations.

Bengal Regulation III, 1818 (State-Prisoners).
Bengal Regulation XX, 1825 (Jurisdiction of Courts Martial).
Madras Regulation II, 1819 (State-Prisoners).
Bombay Regulation XXV, 1827 (State-Prisoners).

3. The result of consolidating the Acts and Regulations above specified will be to substitute a single Act of 568 sections for fifteen enactments containing 1,055 unrepealed sections.

4. The present Bill is divided into nine Parts, the first containing the usual preliminary matter; the second dealing with the constitution and powers of the Criminal Courts and offices; the third containing some general provisions; the fourth treating of the prevention of offences; the fifth, of information to the Police and of their powers to investigate; the sixth, of proceedings in prosecutions; the seventh, of appeal, reference and revision; the eighth, of special proceedings; the ninth, of supplementary provisions.

I.—Preliminary.

5. Part I consists of a single chapter containing the usual preliminary matter. The wording of some of the definitions in Act X of 1872 has been amended, and definitions of 'to sign,' 'public prosecutor,' 'pleader,' 'offence,' 'chapter,' 'schedule,' 'place,' and 'police-station' have been added. The definition of 'complaint' has been amended so as to exclude the report of a Police-officer and information given to a Police-officer; and the definition of 'investigation' has been extended so as to comprise the proceedings of persons authorized by a Magistrate under section 160 or 203 to make local investigations. The definition of 'cognizable offence' has been amended so as to connect it with the second schedule. A clause has been added to the definition of 'High Court' so as to enable the Governor General in Council to appoint in outlying territories where no such Court is established by law, an officer to perform its functions under the Code. Words such as 'special law,' 'local law,' defined in the Penal Code will have the meanings attached to them respectively by that Code. On the other hand, the definitions of 'inquired into,' 'trial,' 'Magistrate's case,' have been omitted as not needed in the Code in its revised form.

II.—Criminal Courts.

6. Part II (constitution and powers of the Criminal Courts and offices) consists of two chapters, of which the first deals (a) with the classes of Criminal Courts, (b) with territorial divisions, (c) with Courts outside the Presidency-towns, (d) with the Courts of the Presidency Magistrates, (e) with Justices of the Peace and (f) with the suspension and removal of Judges, Magistrates and Justices of the Peace. The provisions of the Police Act (V of 1861), section 6, have been incorporated in this chapter, section 14. The Local Government has been empowered (section 16) to make rules for the guidance of Magistrates' Benches. This will result in uniformity of practice wherever such uniformity is desirable. Assistant Sessions Judges have been declared (section 17) subordinate to the Sessions Judge in whose Court they exercise jurisdiction. This will preclude a doubt which has been raised on the subject.

The second chapter treats of the powers of Judges and Magistrates, the description of offences cognizable by each Court, the sentences which may be passed by Courts of various classes, and the mode of conferring powers on the latter. The changes of the law here made are little more than verbal, save in the following cases. Magistrates of the first class are forbidden (section 29) to try offences under special or local laws which are punishable with imprisonment for more than seven years: such grave cases should be tried by a higher Court. All Magistrates of the first and second classes, and all Magistrates of the third class when specially empowered, are to have the powers of an officer in charge of a Police-station (section 38). It is desirable that the police powers which Magistrates can exercise in investigating offences should be clearly defined. In section 40 (= Act X of 1872, section 56), as to the continuance of powers of an officer transferred to another local area, words have been introduced to shew that powers conferred by one Local Government do not accompany an officer, when he is transferred to a province under another Local Government.

In connection with section 33, as to power to sentence to imprisonment in default of payment of fine, it will be necessary to pass simultaneously with the Bill a short Act amending section 67 of the Penal Code, by inserting a declaration that such imprisonment shall be simple.

Section 35 declares, in accordance with a decision of the Bombay High Court, that, for the purpose of confirmation or appeal, a combined sentence, in case of simultaneous convictions for several offences, shall be deemed to be a single sentence.

III.—General Provisions.

7. Part III contains certain general provisions which it seems convenient to group together and which, to avoid forward references, must stand near the beginning of the Code. They relate to the following matters: aid and information to the Magistrates, the Police and persons making arrests: arrest, escape and retaking: processes to compel appearance and production of documents, and processes for the discovery of persons wrongfully confined. Here, again, the changes in the law are little more than verbal. But to the offences which the public are bound to assist in preventing, have been added (section 42) attempts to injure public property, railways and canals: the public (section 42) must assist in cases of fire dangerous to human life or valuable property: the section (45) requiring village-headmen, &c., to report, has, for obvious reasons, been extended to escaped convicts and proclaimed offenders, and (to provide for villages in hill-passes through which bands of dacoits habitually proceed), also to cases where the criminal merely goes through the village: the section (46) authorizing, in the case of forcible resistance, the use of necessary means to effect arrests, has been extended to meet the case of attempts to evade them: power has been given (section 49) to break open the doors of a house for the purpose of liberating persons who have lawfully entered for the purpose of making arrests therein: persons making arrests have been expressly empowered (section 53) to take from the person arrested any offensive weapons which he may have about him: the police have been authorized (section 54) to arrest, without warrant, deserters from the Navy; and sections (66, 67) equivalent to Act XXV of 1861, section 112, have been inserted to provide for the retaking of persons escaping or rescued from lawful custody.

The wording of section 178 of the present Code, which empowers the police to use "all means necessary to effect the arrest" of a person forcibly resisting or attempting to escape, appears dangerously wide. The Bill accordingly explains that this power does not give the right to cause the death of an arrested person who is not accused of a capital offence. The Bill here follows the law of Scotland, which, in Mr. Mayne's opinion, is in India the safer rule.

8. Under the present Code (Act X of 1872, section 153), summonses issued by Magistrates are ordinarily served "through a Police-officer:" the Bill (section 68) provides that (subject to rules to be made by the Local Government) they may also be served by an officer of the Court. Provision is made (sections 73, 74) for the service of a summons outside the local jurisdiction of the Magistrate who issues it, and for the proof of such service.

9. Section 75 requires that all warrants of arrest, whether issued in the Presidency-towns or the Mufassal, shall be sealed. Act IV of 1877, section 56, does not in such cases require a seal. Warrants of arrest issued by a Bench of Magistrates may be signed by any member of the Bench. This will legalise what probably is the practice at present.

Sub-divisional Magistrates have been empowered (section 78) to direct warrants to landholders, &c., for the arrest of escaped convicts. This extension is in harmony with the large powers generally possessed by Magistrates in charge of sub-divisions.

10. Section 88 clears up a doubt as to the commencement of the period provided in the corresponding section (171) of Act X of 1872, for the appearance of a person absconding against whom a warrant has been issued.

11. On the other hand, the power to arrest without warrant persons against whom a hue and cry has been raised is omitted, as that obsolete common-law process is unknown in India; and the section authorizing masters and mates to arrest deserters from ships is omitted, as the matter is sufficiently provided for by the Merchant Shipping Act.

12. The present Code does not provide how attachment of debts and other moveable property is to be effected. Provision has, therefore, been made (section 89) for this purpose; and the powers, duties and liabilities of receivers have been declared by reference to the Code of Civil Procedure.

13. A person required merely to produce a document will (as under the Civil Procedure Code, section 164) be deemed to have complied with the requisition, if he causes the document to be produced instead of attending personally to produce it (section 95).

14. Section 99 of the Bill has been retained pending the opinion of Local Governments as to the expediency of its retention. It seems to be rendered superfluous by section 97.

Provision is made (section 104) for making a list (signed by witnesses) of things found in execution of a search-warrant beyond the jurisdiction of the Court issuing it. It is believed that the necessity of obtaining the signature of the witnesses will be of use as a check upon the irregularities which, it is said, sometimes occur in the course of searches. Criticism of this proposed change in the law is solicited.

15. A clause (section 101) has been inserted giving Presidency Magistrates, Magistrates of the first class, and Sub-divisional Magistrates, power to issue warrants to search for persons wrongfully confined. No such power, though needed, is supposed to exist in India, except, of course, in the Presidency-towns, where the High Courts issue, under Act X of 1875, directions of the nature of a habeas corpus.

IV.—Prevention of Offences.

16. Part IV, which relates to the prevention of offences, comes, it is considered, properly before Part VI, which relates to their prosecution. It comprises six chapters dealing respectively with security for keeping the peace and for good behaviour; the dispersion of unlawful assemblies; suppression of nuisances; disputes as to immoveable property; and, lastly, the preventive action of the Police.

17. In the chapter relating to security for keeping the peace, and for good behaviour, the section (107) dealing with security for keeping the peace on conviction has been extended to cases in which the accused is convicted of criminal intimidation by threatening injury to person or property. This is an offence of the same nature as taking unlawful measures with the intention of committing a breach of the peace, and should, therefore, as regards the taking of security, be placed on the same footing. When the conviction is set aside on appeal or otherwise, the bond will become void. On this the present law is silent.

In section 111 (=sections 505, 506 of the present Code) the words which give the Magistrate power to demand security from persons of notoriously bad livelihood or of a "dangerous character" have been omitted. It has been objected that these words are vague, and that the powers which they place in the hands of the police are liable to great abuse.

The Magistrate is empowered (section 113) to make an order as to the character and class of the sureties required. This, it is hoped, will prevent certain persons making a trade of becoming sureties. The object of the law (as will be seen from section 399 of the present Code) is not merely to provide a money-security, but also to obtain respectable persons as guarantees for the good behaviour of the criminal concerned.

For the purposes of the section (118) as to enquiring into the truth of the information upon which a Magistrate has acted under this chapter, the fact that a person is an habitual offender may be proved by evidence of general repute.

The Bill contains no provision corresponding to sections 499 of the present Code and 211 of the Presidency Magistrates' Act. If, before the expiration of the term of the original bond, it appears to the Magistrate unsafe to release the obligor at the end of that term, in justice to the obligor fresh proceedings should be instituted.

Some change has been made (section 118) in the manner of conducting inquiries regarding security for good behaviour. They will under the Bill be made as in warrant-cases, instead of as in summons-cases, which is now the practice. Where the person who would otherwise be ordered to give security is a minor, the bond (section 119) will be executed only by his sureties. It has been made clear in section 127 that a Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate, and Magistrate of the first class can cancel a bond on the application of a surety. Sub-divisional Magistrates are empowered (section 110) to require security for good behaviour.

18. In the chapter (IX) on dispersion of unlawful assemblies, volunteers enrolled under the Indian Volunteers Act, 1869, are placed on the same footing as soldiers of Her Majesty's Army.

19. In Chapter X, section 134 has been extended to cases of keeping goods or merchandise injurious to the public health, and of carrying on occupations offensive to the religious feelings of any considerable section of the community. Criticism is invited on the latter alteration, which is intended to meet such cases as that of a butcher exercising his trade in a Hindú town, so as to cause risk of breach of the peace.

The power conferred by section 518 of the present Code is intended to be exercised only in urgent cases where a speedy remedy is desirable. The Bill (section 145) provides that no orders under Chapter XI shall remain in force for more than two months, unless in case of danger to human life, health or safety, or a riot or affray, the Local Government directs otherwise. Where time allows the procedure must be under Chapter X.

20. Chapter XII, on disputes as to immoveable property, has been expressly restricted to cases in which the dispute is as to the right to physical possession.

Doubts have been raised as to whether the report of the person deputed (under section 149) to make a local inquiry may be read as evidence in the case. The Bill now settles this in the affirmative.

V.—Information to the Police, and their power to investigate.

21. Part V consists of a single chapter relating to information to the Police and their power to investigate. It corresponds with Chapter X of Act X of 1872, and sections 379 and 380 of the same Act.

22. The words "or that immediate arrest is not necessary," which are to be found in section 117 of Act X of 1872, have been omitted from section 158 of the Bill, as it is not apparent why a Police-officer should be debarred from investigating a case of a cognizable offence because he does not at starting feel himself justified in arresting any person.

23. Section 165 makes it clear that confessions to Magistrates shall not only be "taken," but signed and certified, like examinations of accused persons. In the form of memorandum relating to confessions words have been introduced to show that the confession was taken in the Magistrate's presence and hearing, and that it contains a full and true account of the statement.

24. The sections (166 and 167) dealing with searches by the police have been amended so as to meet difficulties which have arisen in practice. Section 168 has also been amended. On the one hand, there is strong objection to allowing an accused person to be detained at a Police-station longer than is necessary, and, on the other, to insist on his being forwarded to the Magistrate, when his presence on the spot may be indispensable for tracking out crime or recovering property, might be a serious impediment to justice. Under proper precautions, the retention of the accused for sufficient reasons will, as now, be allowed, but the period of detention has been limited to fifteen days in the whole.

25. Power resembling that conferred on Coroners by Act IV of 1871, section 11, has been given (section 177) to Magistrates authorized to hold inquests, to disinter and examine corpses in order to discover the cause of death.

VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions.

26. Part VI treats of proceedings in prosecutions up to appeal, and is divided into sixteen chapters, arranged as follows:—

XV. Jurisdiction of Criminal Courts in Inquiries and Trials.
XVI. Complaints to Magistrates.
XVII. Commencement of Proceedings before Magistrates.
XVIII. Inquiry into cases triable by the Court of Session or High Court.
XIX. The Charge.
XX. Trial of Summons-Cases by Magistrates.
XXI. Trial of Warrant-Cases by Magistrates.
XXII. Summary Trials.
XXIII. Trials before High Courts and Courts of Session.
XXIV. General Provisions as to Inquiries and Trials.
XXV. Evidence.
XXVI. The Judgment.
XXVII. Submission of Sentences for Confirmation.
XXVIII. Execution.
XXIX. Suspensions, Remissions and Commutations of Sentences.
XXX. Previous Acquittals or Convictions.

It will be seen that the above-mentioned chapters are arranged, as nearly as may be, according to the chronological order of the events in a prosecution.

27. Chapter XV (as to the jurisdiction of the Courts in inquiries and trials) deals, first, with the place of inquiry or trial: and, secondly, with the conditions requisite for the initiation of proceedings.

Sections 9 and 10 of the Foreign Jurisdiction Act (XXI of 1879), which deal respectively with the liability of British subjects for offences committed out of British India, and with the reception in evidence of depositions made before Political Agents, have been transferred to this part of the Code (sections 189 and 190), which is obviously their proper place.

28. To the provisions contained in the existing law regarding the transfer of cases, there has been added a clause, providing that, when any Magistrate of the first class, specially empowered in this behalf by the Magistrate of a district, has taken cognizance of any case, he may transfer it for inquiry or trial to any other competent Magistrate in such district. This will enable such Magistrates to distribute the work in their Courts, when it is necessary to do so, with less delay than at present.

29. Section 196 requires that the sanction to entertain complaints of certain offences shall, so far as practicable, specify the place in which, and the occasion on which, the offence complained of was committed. Provision has been made for the revocation of the sanction by any authority to which the authority giving it is subordinate. And in order to remove doubts which have been felt on the point, it is declared that, for the purposes of this section, every Court shall be deemed to be subordinate to the Court to which appeals from the former Court ordinarily lie.

30. Chapter XVI, of complaints to Magistrates, corresponds to sections 144 to 147 of Act X of 1872, but adds (section 202) a provision that a complaint in writing made to a Magistrate not competent to entertain it shall be returned for presentation to the proper tribunal.

The Bill makes it clear that the power (section 203) to postpone the issue of process cannot be exercised by a Magistrate of the third class.

31. In Chapter XVIII, of inquiry into cases triable by the Court of Session or High Court, power is given (section 210) to the Magistrate to discharge the accused at any stage of the case if, for reasons to be recorded, the Magistrate considers the charge to be groundless.

32. Chapter XIX, of the charge, extends to the whole of British India the amendments in Act X of 1872, sections 439 to 459, made by Act X of 1875; and with reference to Mr. Justice West's observations in Reg. v. Chand Hur, 11 Bomb. 241, on the corresponding section (457) of Act X of 1872, section 239 of the Bill has been confined to offences consisting of several particulars, a combination of some only of which constitutes a complete minor offence.

From the section (236) relating to joinder of charges, corresponding with section 454 of the present Code, have been omitted all provisions as to the amount of punishment. They obviously belong to substantive law, not to procedure, and will find their proper place in the Penal Code. The illustrations have also been amended.

Provision has been made in section 239 for the case where a person charged with an offence proves circumstances which reduce it to a minor offence. He may then be convicted of the minor offence, though he is not charged with it.

33. Chapter XX, Trial of Summons-cases.—To the section (251) relating to frivolous and vexatious complaints, a clause has been added, providing that, when awarding compensation in any subsequent civil suit relating to the same matter, the Court shall take into account any sum paid or recovered as compensation under this section.

34. In Chapter XXI, of trials of warrant-cases, as in Chapter XVIII, has been inserted a clause (section 254) authorizing the Magistrate to discharge the accused at any stage of the case if, for reasons to be recorded, the Magistrate considers the charge to be groundless. The provision (Act X of 1872, section 218) that the accused shall, while making his defence, be allowed to recall and cross-examine the witnesses for the prosecution, has been expressly confined (section 257) to cases where the witnesses are present in the Court or its precincts. The power to recall witnesses for the prosecution after they had left the Court is said to be often abused for the purpose of harassment and delay.

35. In Chapter XXII, summary trials, the Local Government has been authorized to confer on Benches invested with second or third class powers jurisdiction to try abetments of, and attempts to commit, the offences which they may now try summarily. The offences of retaining stolen property not exceeding Rs. 50 in value, and assisting in the concealment or disposal of stolen property not exceeding Rs. 50 in value, have been added to the list of those triable in a summary way; and the offence of receiving stolen property will not be so triable where its value exceeds that amount.

36. Chapter XXIII provides a common procedure for the High Court and the Court of Session, preserving, however, the special rules as to juries and their verdicts.

The power to stay proceedings on an unsustainable charge has been extended (section 274) to the Court of Session.

The power of directing how jurors shall be chosen by lot has been transferred to the High Court from the Local Government (section 277).

Where jurors or assessors have been taken to view the place in which the offence charged is alleged to have been committed, the Court has been empowered (section 294) to exempt them from being immediately brought back.

Where the Sessions Judge disagrees with a verdict of acquittal and submits the case to the High Court, he is required (section 308) to state the offence which he considers to have been committed, and the High Court is empowered to acquit or convict the accused of any offence of which the jury could have convicted him upon the charge framed and placed before it. This, it is believed, is the intention of the corresponding clause of section 263 of Act X of 1872.

37. Chapter XXIV, General Provisions as to Inquiries and Trials.—At the instance of many authorities consulted, the power of tendering conditional pardons to accomplices, which is now exerciseable only in cases triable by the Sessions Court, has been extended (section 337) to all warrant-cases. This change, which has been advocated by many authorities, is an important one, and further opinions on its propriety are desirable.

38. Much doubt exists as to the offences which may lawfully be compounded. The Exception to section 214 of the Penal Code (in which the law on the subject is contained) is excessively obscure, and this obscurity is increased rather than diminished by the illustrations annexed to that section. The Bill repeals these illustrations; and section 345 declares in unmistakeable language that certain specified offences, and no others, may be compounded. These are—

Causing hurt (Penal Code, sections 323, 334, 337, 338).
Wrongfully restraining or confining (Penal Code, sections 341, 342).
Assault or use of criminal force (Penal Code, sections 352, 358).
Unlawful compulsory labour (Penal Code, section 374).
Mischief, when the loss or damage is caused to a private person (Penal Code, sections 426, 427).
Criminal trespass and house-trespass (Penal Code, sections 447, 448).
Criminal breach of contract of service (Penal Code, sections 490, 491, 492).
Adultery, and enticing, &c., a married woman (Penal Code, sections 497, 498).
Defamation (Penal Code, section 500).
Printing or engraving defamatory matter (Penal Code, section 501).
Sale of printed or engraved substance containing defamatory matter (Penal Code, section 502).
Insult intended to provoke a breach of the peace (Penal Code, section 504).
Criminal intimidation, except when the offence is punishable with imprisonment for seven years (Penal Code, section 506).

The offences of voluntarily causing hurt, voluntarily causing grievous hurt, and cheating, punishable under the Indian Penal Code, sections 324, 335 and 417, will be compoundable with the permission of the Court, and by the person to whom the hurt has been caused, or by the person cheated, as the case may be.

It will be necessary to pass simultaneously with the Bill a short Act declaring that, for the Exception to section 280 of the Penal Code, the following shall be substituted:—

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

39. In Chapter XXVI, as to judgment, section 367 allows the judgments of Mufassal Courts to be written in the mother-tongue of the presiding officer.

40. Chapter XXVIII, Execution.—In section 395 (= section 313 of the present Code) the imprisonment which may be inflicted in lieu of whipping has been limited to three months; but on the other hand, the proviso that the whole period of imprisonment to which the offender is sentenced shall not exceed that to which he was liable by law, or that which the Court is competent to award, has been cancelled, and the power to imprison is thus extended. Criticism is sought on this alteration.

41. There are no sections in this chapter corresponding with sections 319, 320 of Act X of 1872. The reason for this omission is that the matter with which they deal does not belong to criminal procedure, but falls within the scope of the Prisoners' Act, 1871; and it is proposed that, simultaneously with the passing of the present Bill, a short Act be passed, substituting for section 33 of the Prisoners' Act a section equivalent to Act X of 1872, sections 319, 320.

42. Chapter XXIX, Suspensions, Remissions and Commutations of Sentences.—Where application is made for the suspension or remission of a sentence, the Government is empowered (section 401) to require the presiding Judge of the Court before which the conviction was had to furnish a statement of the facts proved on the trial, and of any facts bearing on the propriety of granting or refusing the application.

The power of the Government to commute punishment (section 402) has been so worded as to authorize a sentence of rigorous, to be commuted to one of simple, imprisonment.

VII.—Appeal, Reference and Revision.

43. Part VII deals with appeals, references and the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court.

44. Chapter XXXI.—An appeal has been given (section 405) from orders rejecting applications for delivery of attached property.

45. Section 408 provides that the appeal from a District Magistrate exercising the enhanced powers conferred under section 34 shall lie to the Court of Session in cases in which the sentence has not been submitted to that Court for confirmation, and, when it has been so submitted, to the High Court. This puts the appeals in question on the same footing as appeals from an Assistant Sessions Judge. There seems to be no reason for making any distinction between the two.

46. Section 423, in accordance with a decision of the Madras High Court (I. L. R. 1 Mad. 54), declares that, when an Appellate Court enhances any punishment inflicted by the sentence appealed against, it may inflict punishment of a different kind.

47. In the case of an appeal from an acquittal, section 427 expressly authorizes the High Court to order the accused to be arrested and brought before it, and to commit him to prison pending the disposal of the appeal, or admit him to bail. In the absence of this power cases have occurred in which criminals, afraid of the result of the appeal, escaped, and made the appeal on behalf of the Government of no avail.

48. A section (431) suggested by a decision of the Bombay High Court (I. L. R. 2 Bomb. 564) provides that appeals by persons required to give security for good behaviour or by convicted persons abate on their death, and that appeals against acquittals abate on the death of the accused. The power of revision conferred by section 439 will enable the High Court, where justice to the family of the convicted person may so require, to alter his sentence even after the appeal has abated.

49. Chapter XXXII.—Sub-divisional Magistrates empowered by the Local Government in this behalf are authorized (section 435) to call for records of inferior Courts. This is in accordance with the powers of control in other respects which they exercise.

50. Where, in the opinion of the Court of Session or District Magistrate, an accused person has been improperly discharged by an inferior Court, the accused should not be committed without having had an opportunity of shewing cause why the committal should not be made (1 O'K. 98). Provision to this effect has been made by section 436.

51. When the Court of Session or District Magistrate reports for the orders of the High Court the results of examining any proceeding, and recommends that a sentence be reversed, the Court of Session or District Magistrate may order (section 438) its execution to be suspended, and the accused, if in confinement, to be released on bail or on his own bond.

52. Section 439 (corresponding with Act X of 1872, section 297) has been framed so as to allow the High Court, when exercising its revisional jurisdiction, to interfere with improper acquittals. There is reason to believe that this change is in accordance with the intention of the framers of Act X of 1872.

53. Where the High Court exercises its powers of revision, no order (section 440) will be made to the prejudice of the accused, unless he has had an opportunity of being heard.

VIII.—Special Proceedings.

54. Part VIII, as to special proceedings, deals with the procedure relating to the following matters:—criminal proceedings against Europeans and Americans: lunatics: contempts of Court and other offences affecting the administration of justice: maintenance of wives and children: State-prisoners: proceedings in the nature of habeas corpus.

55. Chapter XXXIII.—Section 451 removes some unnecessary differences which exist in the present law between the procedure of the High Courts and Courts of Session in cases in which European British subjects are concerned. In particular, it is provided that, in the Court of Session as well as in the High Court, the requisite moiety of the jury or assessors may be made up by Americans as well as Europeans. Under the present Code (section 78), the trial of a European British subject before the Court of Session need not be by jury. But under section 234 an European or American, not being a British subject, has an absolute right to be so tried. The Bill omits the latter provision.

56. Chapter XXXIV.—The power given by sections 433 and 434 of Act X of 1872, to discharge from custody or make over to his relative a person acquitted on the ground of insanity, has been extended, in sections 474 and 475, to the case of persons who, being found to be insane at the time of trial, are committed to custody.

57. Chapter XXXV.—This chapter (sections 476, 478, 479, 480, 482) has been expressly made applicable to Revenue Courts.

Section 477 has been framed so as to allow a Court of Session to charge a person for giving false evidence before itself,—a power of which such Courts were unintentionally deprived by section 472 of the present Code.

Where the Local Government so directs, Sub-Registrars will (section 483) be 'Civil Courts' within the meaning of section 480. The position and qualifications of Sub-Registrars vary in different provinces; but, in some parts of the country, they are believed to be fitted for the exercise of these powers.

Section 486 gives an appeal to the High Court from a conviction in a contempt case by a Court of Small Causes in a Presidency-town.

Section 487 has been redrawn so as to avoid the difficulty which is felt in determining the meaning of the words "offence committed in contempt of its own authority," which occur in the corresponding section (473) of Act X of 1872.

IX.—Supplementary Provisions.

58. Part IX contains certain provisions supplementary to the general rules of procedure contained in the Code. It deals, first, with the public prosecutor, bail, commissions for the examination of witnesses and special rules of evidence. It then contains certain provisions relating to bonds to keep the peace, for good behaviour, for appearance, &c.: the disposal of property regarding which an offence has been committed: the transfer of criminal cases: irregular proceedings; and, lastly, certain miscellaneous matters.

59. Chapter XXXIX, Public Prosecutor.—Power has been given to appoint as public prosecutor, in any case committed to the Session Court, a Police-officer not below the rank of Assistant District Superintendent. The entire exclusion of the police from such a function is, in the opinion of many authorities, inexpedient. With the limitation above described, there will be no fear of intimidation of witnesses or undue influence.

60. Section 505 exempts the Advocate General, Standing Counsel, Government Solicitor or other officer empowered by the Local Government from the necessity of obtaining permission to conduct prosecutions.

61. Chapter XL, Bail.—The powers here given to Police-officers have been expressly confined to officers in charge of Police-stations.

62. Chapter XLI, Commissions for Examination of Witnesses.—The provisions of the present law as to commissions for the examination of witnesses have been amended in four respects. Where the witness resides in a Native State, power has been given (section 513) to issue the commission to the Political Agent or other local officer representing the British Government. Section 515 requires that the interrogatories shall be thought relevant by the Magistrate or Court directing the commission. Where a Subordinate Magistrate wishes for a commission, he will (section 516) apply to the District Magistrate, and not (as at present) to the Sessions Judge: this will relieve the Court of Session of a duty which can be more conveniently performed by the District Magistrate. And power is expressly given (section 518) to stay the inquiry or trial for a specified time reasonably sufficient for the execution and return of the commission.

63. Chapter XLII, Special Rules as to Evidence.—In proving the existence of circumstances as a defence under the 2nd, 3rd, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th or 10th Exception to section 499 of the Penal Code, section 521 of the Bill provides that good faith shall be presumed until the contrary appears. This is now the law in the Presidency-towns (Act XVIII of 1862, section 27) and may usefully be extended to the Mufassal.

64. Chapter XLIV, Disposal of property.—In accordance with a recent rule of the High Court at Bombay, section 528 declares that, when a High Court or Court of Session makes an order for the disposal of property, and cannot through its own officers conveniently deliver the property to the person entitled thereto, the Court may direct its order to be carried into effect by the committing Magistrate.

65. Orders under section 528 made in appealable cases will not be carried out until the time allowed for appealing has expired, or, if an appeal is presented in due time, until the appeal is dismissed.

66. Where an innocent purchaser buys stolen property and restores it to the lawful possessor, provision has been made (section 530) for payment of the price out of money found on the convicted thief. This is in accordance with 30 & 31 Vic., cap. 35, section 10.

67. Section 532 provides, in case of a conviction under the Penal Code, sections 292, 293, 501 or 502, for the destruction of the obscene books and defamatory matter in respect of which the conviction was had. It also provides for the destruction of adulterated or noxious food, drink or drugs in respect of which a conviction was had under sections 272—275 of the same Code.

68. Chapter XLV, Transfer of Criminal Cases.—Section 537 provides, in accordance with a Minute of Sir B. Peacock, cited I. L. R. 1 Calc. 223, that applications to the High Court for the transfer of cases shall be made by motion supported by affidavit or affirmation.

69. Chapter XLVI, Irregular Proceedings.—Tender of pardon under Chapter XXIV, and sale of property under section 535 or section 536, have been added to the list of proceedings which will not be set aside merely on the ground of the Magistrate not being duly empowered.

70. Chapter XLVII, Miscellaneous.—Power has been given (section 552) to the Local Government to fix places of imprisonment or custody. Moneys (other than fines) payable by virtue of any order made under the Code will be recoverable as if they were fines (section 558). The power to compel restoration of abducted females, which now exists only in the Presidency-towns, has been extended (section 562) to District Magistrates. Power has been given to the High Courts (section 564) to make rules for the inspection of the records of subordinate Courts. And as to miscellaneous criminal proceedings, if any doubt arise as to the procedure to be followed, the Court will be guided by such rules (consistent with the Code) as the High Court may make in this behalf (section 568). The Bill contains no clause equivalent to Act I of 1868, section 5, although similar provisions are contained in each of the Codes now consolidated (X of 1872, section 309, X of 1875, section 107, IV of 1877, section 12). The matter will be provided for by the Bill above-mentioned, to amend the Penal Code.

Schedules.

71. Schedules II and V, which correspond respectively with Schedules IV and II of Act X of 1872, have been altered so as to adapt them, not only to the Mufassal Courts, but to those of the Presidency Magistrates. The latter schedule now contains no less than 56 forms, which have stood the test of practice in the Presidency of Madras and the Panjáb.

The offence of voluntarily causing hurt has been made one for which the police may not arrest without a warrant. A like change has been made as to voluntarily causing hurt on grave and sudden provocation, not intending to hurt any other than the person who gave it. The numerous investigations by the police into charges of "hurt," which the present law renders necessary, are said to distract the attention of the police-force from more important duties, and to result in little good to the public.

The offence of adultery has been made triable by a Presidency Magistrate and a Magistrate of the first class.

The paragraph relating to mischief by fire with intent to cause damage has been altered in accordance with a proposed amendment of section 435 of the Penal Code. This alteration has been made in order to check the offence, which is very common in some parts of the country, of setting fire to garnered crops. A cultivator may have the whole of his crop destroyed in this way, and yet if its value be less than Rs. 100 (as is often the case) he cannot obtain the aid of the police to arrest the offender without a warrant from a Magistrate.

The lists of powers contained in section 21 et seq. of Act X of 1872 have been thrown into Schedules III and IV of the Bill.

72. The Bill was published in the Gazette of India for the 5th, 12th and 19th April 1879, and circulated to the various Local Governments, with a request that it might be examined by selected local officers. This was done, and the result of the examination is contained in a thick folio volume. The Bill was then revised with reference to this mass of criticism, and to the cases reported since it was framed; and it may truly be said, in its present form, to be the work of the whole body of Indian Judges and Magistrates rather than of any individual or Department. The additions and changes (other than omissions) which have been made in this second revision are printed in italics. The chief omission is that of the sections relating to limitation, which, in deference to many high authorities, have been struck out as unsuited to India.

73. It is proposed that the measure shall not come into force till 1st January 1883,—ten years from the date on which the present Code came into force. This is five years after the date on which, according to Sir FitzJames Stephen, the Code should have been re-enacted. "I should say," he writes in his well-known Minute on the Administration of Justice in British India, "that this process ought to be repeated at least once in every five years for every important Act."

74. Excluding the special provisions of the Acts relating respectively to Coroners, European British vagrants and criminal tribes, the Bill is now, so far as Mr. Cockerell, Mr. Colvin, Mr. Fitzpatrick and myself have been able to make it, a complete body of criminal procedure. No pains have been spared to render its provisions plain and practical; and in return all competent persons are earnestly asked to point out the mistakes and omissions which, notwithstanding the careful and repeated revision it has undergone, they will doubtless discover in so large and complicated a work.

"57. When any persons desire to execute any instrument to which section fifty-six applies, all the intending parties to such instrument shall appear before the Village Registrar appointed for the area in which the agriculturist, or when there are several agriculturists executing the instrument, any one of such agriculturists, resides, and such Registrar, after satisfying himself in such manner as he deems fit as to the identity of the intending executants and receiving from the intending parties the fee (if any) prescribed by the Local Government in this behalf, and the stamp (if any) which may be required by law, shall write the instrument, or cause the same to be written under his superintendence, and after reading the same aloud, or causing it to be so read in the hearing of the intending parties, shall require the intending executants to execute it in his presence.

Such instruments to be written by, or under the superintendence of, a Village Registrar and executed in his presence.

"71. No instrument executed before the first day of November, 1879, and purporting to create any mortgage, lien or charge of, or upon, any immoveable property belonging to an agriculturist, shall be received in evidence for any purpose by any person having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence, or shall be acted upon by any such person or by any public officer unless such instrument has, before the first day of November, 1881, been produced before the Village Registrar appointed for the area in which the agriculturist, or where there are several such agriculturists, any one of the agriculturists, to whom such property belongs, resides, and been marked by such Registrar in such manner as the Local Government may by rule prescribe:

"Provided that nothing in this section shall—

"(a) apply to an instrument purporting to create a mortgage, lien or charge in favour of the Government or of any officer of the Government in his official capacity; or

"(b) prevent the admission of any instrument in evidence in any criminal proceeding."

Amendment of section 72.

10. In section seventy-two the words "against an agriculturist" shall be omitted, and in the same section after the word "money," the words "from a person who at the time when the cause of action arose was an agriculturist" shall be inserted.

New section substituted for section 75.

11. For section seventy-five the following section shall be substituted:—

Additional power to make rules.

"75. The Local Government may, from time to time, make rules:—

"(a) for defining more precisely what classes of persons shall be deemed to be agriculturists for the purposes of this Act;

"(b) generally for carrying out the provisions of this Act."

Certain instruments to be deemed produced before Village Registrar and marked under section 71.

12. Every instrument described in section seventy-one, as amended by this Act, which, before the passing of this Act, has been registered by a Village Registrar in accordance with rules prescribed in this behalf by the Inspector General of Registration, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, shall be deemed to have been duly produced before the Village Registrar and marked by him under the provisions of that section.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Bombay Government have brought to notice difficulties in the working of the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, for the removal of which it appears necessary to make certain amendments in that Act, and to carry out those amendments this Bill has been prepared.

The first amendment provided for is in section 2 of the Act. That section enacts in effect that every agriculturist shall be deemed for the purposes of the Act to reside where he works as such. This rule is found to give rise to difficulty in the case of agriculturists holding land in more than one place, and it is accordingly proposed to repeal it altogether.

2. The first portion of section 19 of the Act confers on the Courts power to discharge an insolvent who owes a sum of less than fifty rupees under a decree, and against whom there is no other claim; but it makes no provision for the case of an insolvent judgment-debtor, against whom there are other claims, but of amounts so trifling that, taken with the amount of the decree, they do not amount to fifty rupees. There appears to be no reason why this latter case should not be treated on the same footing as the former, the insolvency chapter of the Bill being equally inapplicable to both, and the Bill accordingly amends the Act so as to give power to discharge the judgment-debtor from the balance due under the decree in either case.

3. Section 38 of the Act prohibits the appointment of "an officer of police" as a conciliator. A doubt has arisen as to whether a police patel is to be deemed an officer of police within the meaning of this provision, and at the instance of the local Government an explanation has been added to the section to show that he is not.

4. The amendment proposed in section 48 of the Act merely corrects an oversight in drafting.

5. The addition which it is proposed to make to section 56 of the Act, is intended to dispense with the necessity of having an instrument executed before the Village Registrar, merely because a party executing it as a surety is an agriculturist.

The changes made in sections 57 and 58 are intended merely to make the meaning clearer.

6. The new section, which it is proposed to substitute for section 71 of the Bill, differs materially from the original one, though the object of both is the same, viz., to prevent the fabrication of mortgage deeds purporting to have been executed before the Act came into force.

The section as it now stands in the Act aims at effecting this object by requiring all existing mortgage deeds to be registered before a certain date under the Indian Registration Act; but it has been found that the practical difficulties in the way of such registration are so great that it is necessary to abandon this procedure and substitute for it the simpler expedient proposed by the Bill, of requiring such deeds to be merely produced before and marked by the Village Registrar before a certain date.

7. Section 72 of the Act, which prescribes periods of limitation longer than the ordinary periods for certain suits against agriculturists, applies in every case in which the defendant is an agriculturist at the time the suit is instituted. This would, in some cases, where the defendant had become an agriculturist shortly before the institution of the suit, lead to anomalous results.

To prevent this the Bill amends the section, so that it will apply only when the defendant was an agriculturist at the time the cause of action arose.

8. Difficulties having arisen as to the construction of the definition of "agriculturist," section 75 of the Act, which gives the Local Government a power to make rules, has been recast so as to admit of rules being made, among other matters, to define more precisely what classes of persons shall be deemed to be agriculturists for the purposes of the Act.

9. Section 12 of the Bill is intended to put mortgage deeds, executed before the Act came into force, and registered under a system of questionable legality established by the Local Government, on the same footing as if they had been marked by the Registrar under the new section 71.

[Second Publication.]

The following Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th March, 1881:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Courts of Small Causes established in the Presidency-towns was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

From Acting Under Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 7519, dated 9th November, 1880, and enclosures [Papers No. 1].
„ Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 2624, dated 2nd November 1880, and enclosures [Papers No. 2].
„ Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 2662, dated 17th November, 1880, and enclosure [Papers No. 3].
„ D. Sealy, Esq., Vakil, High Court, Bombay, dated 26th November, 1880 [Paper No. 4].
Note by Hon'ble J. Sewell White, Judge, High Court, Calcutta, dated 13th December, 1880 [Paper No. 5].
From Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 67J., dated 7th January, 1881, and enclosures [Papers No. 6].
„ J. Crawford, Esq., Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 970, dated 30th May, 1879 [Papers No. 7].
„ H. J. Stephen, Esq., Barrister-at-law, High Court, Calcutta, dated 10th February, 1881, and enclosure [Papers No. 8].

2. We have added a clause to section 6 of the Bill giving the High Courts the same powers over the Small Cause Courts as they have under the 15th section of the High Courts Act over Courts subject to their appellate jurisdiction.

3. We have altered the section (7) relating to the appointment of the Judges so as to provide that one-third at least of the Judges shall be advocates of a High Court. We think the professional members of the Court should be chosen from the advocates of the High Courts, who may be expected to have acquired some experience of the country.

4. The Bill as introduced made the rank and precedence of the Judges depend on the seniority of their appointment. This would not have answered, as it appears that each seat in the Court has a special rank and salary of its own, and the candidates for appointment are posted to particular seats in the Court with reference to their respective qualifications. The second Judge ought, therefore, always to rank above the third, the third above the fourth, and so on, without any reference to the dates of their appointment, and we have accordingly, in section 8, after providing that the Chief Judge shall be the first in rank, introduced words leaving it to the Local Government to fix the rank of the rest.

5. Another change we have made in the constitution of the Court established by the Bill as introduced, consists in the transfer to the Chief Judge of certain administrative powers (see section 13 and also sections 61 and 62), which, we think, would be more efficiently exercised by a single individual.

6. The only other amendment we need notice in this portion of the Bill is the insertion of a clause in section 13, providing for the appointment of a Registrar and a section (14) empowering the Local Government to invest him with jurisdiction to try suits up to the limit of Rs. 20 in value. This amendment has been made at the instance of the Government of Bengal, and there is a precedent for it in the Mufassal Small Cause Courts Act No. XI of 1865.

7. Turning now to the chapter relating to jurisdiction in respect of suits, the first change we have made will be found in section 18 of the amended Bill (= section 16 of the Bill as introduced). The reasons given for framing that section as it originally stood are thus given in the 7th paragraph of the Statement of Objects and Reasons:—

"Act IX of 1850, in conferring jurisdiction on the Courts up to a value of Rs. 500, confines its exercise to cases of defendants dwelling or carrying on business within the local limits. Act XXVI of 1864, on the other hand, in conferring jurisdiction between the values of Rs. 500 and Rs. 1,000, gives an alternative ground for its exercise, namely, the circumstance of the cause of action having arisen within the local limits. It has been urged by most of the authorities consulted that the basis of the jurisdiction should be the same in cases of all values. On the other hand, fears have been expressed by some that a power to institute a suit of the lower value against a defendant residing at a distance might be liable to abuse unless some limitation were imposed. The correct view of the matter seems to be that taken by the Judges of the Madras High Court and Mr. Busteed, namely, that in this particular no distinction should be made between the High Court and the Small Cause Court, and accordingly the Bill has been drawn so as to place the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court in this respect on precisely the same footing as that on which the jurisdiction of the High Court is placed by the Letters Patent."

The objection to the power to institute a suit in the Small Cause Court against a defendant residing at a distance has been again urged, and it is one to which we feel compelled to yield. We have accordingly inserted words requiring the leave of the Court to be obtained when it is proposed to institute a suit against a defendant residing beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction, and we have made this provision applicable to all suits without regard to value. The original scheme of putting the Small Cause Court jurisdiction on the same footing in this particular as the jurisdiction of the High Court being thus broken in upon, we have thought it best to bring the remainder of the section into conformity with the corresponding provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure.

8. In the following section, which excludes certain classes of suits from the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court, we have omitted the second clause, "suits against the Secretary of State in Council," as it appears to be generally objected to, and we have added the following:—

(1) suits for the specific performance or rescission of contracts generally (such suits are, as regards contracts relating to immoveable property, excluded by the Bill as introduced);
(2) suits for compensation for malicious prosecution;
(3) suits for the cancellation or rectification of instruments;
(4) suits relating to general average and to insurances on sea-going vessels;
(5) suits for compensation in respect of collisions at sea;
(6) suits for compensation for the infringement of a patent, copy-right or trade-mark;
(7) suits for a dissolution of partnership or for an account of partnership transations;
(8) suits for declaratory decrees;
(9) suits in which the plaintiff's claim depends on the decision of a question as to religious rites or ceremonies;
(10) suits for possession of a hereditary office;
(11) suits against Sovereign Princes or Ruling Chiefs, or against Ambassadors or Envoys of Foreign States.

The reasons for excluding these suits are so obvious that it is unnecessary to state them.

9. We have struck out the second clause of section 21 (new numbering), which deprived a plaintiff of costs in certain cases if he elected to institute in the High Court a suit against an officer of the Small Cause Court for a wrong done by him under colour of its process. We think that in all such cases a plaintiff should be allowed a free choice.

10. We have also struck out the latter portion of section 22 (new numbering), which specified the grounds on which a Judge in other cases, in which suits cognizable in the Small Cause Court are instituted in the High Court, may certify for costs, as we think that in such a matter the Judge should be allowed a full discretion.

11. Proceeding next to chapter V relating to procedure in suits, we desire to state that we have most carefully considered the objections urged against the first section of that chapter which applies to the Small Cause Courts a large portion of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Those objections, in so far as they come from the public, proceed chiefly from those classes of persons who most frequently appear as plaintiffs in suits of a very simple description, and we can well understand the apprehension they feel that the application of so large portion of the ordinary procedure may, in suits of that class, give rise to complication and delay. But it must be remembered that the great bulk of the provisions so extended are of such a nature as to be applicable only in exceptional cases, and we think that any one who follows the thread of the provisions applicable to ordinary suits will find the procedure to be extremely simple. Moreover, we find that a considerable portion of the Code has been actually in force for some time past in the Madras Small Cause Court, where the statistics show the amount of work performed by each Judge to be as large as in the Small Cause Courts at Calcutta and Bombay, and we further find that the Judges of the Calcutta Small Cause Court themselves propose to apply with little variation the great bulk of the sections contained in the second schedule to this Bill.

12. We have, however, in deference to the apprehensions which have been expressed, gone through the schedule item by item, and have struck out some portions; among others those requiring copies of the plaint or concise statements to be filed with the plaint, those relating to discovery, those requiring judgments to be in writing, and the whole chapter relating to pauper suits.

We have, moreover, in order to relieve the Judges, inserted in the body of the Bill a section (35) based on section 637 of the Code, empowering the Court to direct that any non-judicial or quasi-judicial act which the Code requires to be done by a Judge shall be done by a ministerial officer, and we think that the procedure as now settled is as simple as it can safely be made, and as the majority of the litigants would desire it to be.

13. We have added a section providing that no decision passed under the Act shall be conclusive, except as to the right to the relief granted or the absence of a right to the relief withheld by it. This provision, which cuts away to a great extent the doctrine of res judicata, will no doubt leave it open to persistent parties to litigate a second time questions which may have been already carefully considered and well decided; but we think it better to take the risk of this than to take the risk of having difficult questions of title to property of large value and complicated issues governing extensive transactions finally decided under an Act like this in the first petty case in which they may chance to present themselves.

14. We have extended section 27 (new numbering) to cases in which the plaintiff does not altogether fail in his suit, but fails to recover the full amount of his claim and to cases in which unfounded objections are made to the attachment of property in execution of decree.

15. Section 30 is new. The law, as it at present stands in this country, would appear to be peculiarly indulgent to tenants in the matter of the right to remove what they may have attached to the soil, and yet the holder of a decree of the Small Cause Court is probably precluded (unless he chooses to resort to the High Court) from taking in execution of such decree even some such things as might be taken under a fieri facias in England. It has, at all events, been held that though tenants in Calcutta have a right to remove "tiled huts," such huts cannot be taken in execution of decrees of the Small Cause Court. The landlords complain of this as a hardship, and we think not without reason; but the remedy should not, in our opinion, be limited to this particular case, and we have accordingly provided that anything which the tenant would be entitled to remove during his tenancy may be taken in the execution of a decree against him as if it were a moveable.

16. We have at the instance of the Judges of the Calcutta Small Cause Court substituted for the latter portion of section 230 of the Code a section (28) providing that no decree of a Small Cause Court shall be executed after the lapse of three years from the date on which it is passed, unless the judgment-debtor by force or fraud has prevented its execution within the three years.

17. We have, in section 34 of the Bill, restored section 31 of Act IX of 1850, which allows minors to sue for a sum not exceeding Rs. 500 due for wages, or piece-work or for work as a servant, as if they were of full age, but we have, to prevent mistake, expressly limited it to cases where such money is due under section 70 of the Contract Act, the only law, as we believe, under which a minor can now acquire a right to such money.

18. The only other amendment we have to notice in the chapter relating to procedure is the insertion of certain sections (36 to 38) providing for the exercise of the jurisdiction which may be conferred on the Registrar under section 14.

19. We have introduced a new chapter (VI) to include the section providing for a new trial and certain additional sections establishing a mode of having a suit of a value above Rs. 500, re-heard in the High Court, as if it had been instituted in that court. These sections, which have been proposed by Mr. Kennedy, are based on the provisions enacted by the 14th & 15th Vic. c. 57, for the Irish Civil Bill Courts, and they have in our opinion this advantage, that they provide, in cases where there has been a failure of justice, a substitute for an appeal without entailing the necessity of any elaborate record of evidence being kept by the Court below.

20. We have omitted the chapters which would have conferred on the Small Cause Courts jurisdiction in certain classes of insolvency and probate business, as we believe that unless the Court were to hear cases which, owing to their intricacy and difficulty, ought to be removed into the High Court, the saving of time to the High Court would be altogether unimportant. There is no doubt that the High Courts at present dispose of much petty business of these classes, but it is done for the most part in the offices of the Court, and costs the Judges little time or labour.

We may add that, so far as the grant of probates and letters of administration is concerned, we believe that the object in view will be better secured by the extension of the certificate system effected by Act No. IX of 1881.

21. We have confined section 59, which prevents the fees of a legal practitioner being recovered as costs unless his employment is held to be reasonable, to cases where the amount or value in dispute is less than Rs. 20. We do not see why in cases where a larger amount is at stake the ordinary rules as to allowing costs should not apply.

22. Lastly, we have inserted a section (72) to determine the functions of legal practitioners in the Small Cause Court. Its first clause provides that no persons other than advocates, attorneys and vakíls of the High Court and persons who are now pleaders of the Small Cause Court shall appear, plead or act in the Small Cause Court. We do not think it desirable to admit an inferior class of legal practitioners, whose business would be confined to the Small Cause Courts, and, accordingly, while we would save the rights of pleaders already admitted, we would bar the admission of any others.

The second clause of the section confines the right to conduct as counsel a suit at the hearing, in the extended jurisdiction now for the first time conferred on the Court, to advocates and vakíls of the High Court, and requires that a barrister so conducting a suit shall be instructed by an attorney or vakíl, or by a pleader of the Small Cause Court. The reasons for this latter requirement are obvious.

The section, it need hardly be mentioned, saves the right of parties to conduct their own cases, and appear for one another, and also the rights of recognized agents.

23. The publication of the Bill, with its Statement of Objects and Reasons, in English, has been reported by the Governments of Madras, Bombay and Bengal. We consider that the changes now made are such as to render its re-publication desirable; and we have accordingly altered the date on which it should come into force to the 1st January, 1882, and recommend that it now be re-published.

CHAPTER V.

PROCEDURE IN SUITS.

Portions of Civil Procedure Code extending to the Court.

23. The chapters and sections of the Code of Civil Procedure specified in the second schedule hereto annexed shall extend, and shall, so far as the same may, in the judgment of the Court, be applicable, be applied, to the Small Cause Court; and the procedure prescribed thereby shall be the procedure followed in the Court in all suits cognizable by it, except where such procedure is inconsistent with the procedure prescribed by any specific provisions of this Act.

New.

Res judicata.

24. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 13 of the Code of Civil Procedure, no decision passed under the provisions of this Act shall be conclusive as to anything except the right at the time of such decision to the relief granted thereby, or the absence of a right at such time to any relief claimed by the plaintiff and withheld by such decision.

Illustrations.

(a). A sues B in the Small Cause Court for compensation for damage done by B to a house which A alleges to be his own. B denies that the house is A's. The Court decides that the house is A's, and that he is entitled to Rs. 100 compensation. The decision is conclusive as to A's right to the compensation, but not as to his title to the house, and, if A subsequently sues B for further damage done to the same house, B is not precluded from again questioning A's title.

(b). A sues B in the Small Cause Court for an instalment alleged to be due on a bond purporting to be executed by B. B denies the execution of the bond. The Court finds the execution proved, and gives A a decree for the amount of the instalment. A subsequently sues B for a later instalment on the same bond; B is not precluded from again denying the execution.

(c). A sues B as in illustration (b). B denies the execution of the bond, and the Court, finding that B's signature was forged, dismisses the suit. This does not preclude A from suing again on the bond.

(d). A sues B in the Small Cause Court for possession of a horse which A alleges to be his property, and to have been lent to B to use during A's pleasure. B denies that the horse is A's. The Court finds that the horse is A's, and gives him a decree for possession, and A recovers possession of the horse. B, subsequently alleging that the horse is his, sues A for possession of it. The decision in the former suit is no bar to B.

No written statement except in cases of set-off.

25. Except in cases of set-off under the Code of Civil Procedure, section 111, no written statement shall be received unless required by the Court.

Act X of 1877, s. 144.

Return of documents admitted in evidence.

26. When a period of eight days from the decision of a suit has expired without any application for a new trial or re-hearing of such suit having been made, or, when any such application has been made within such period and such application has been refused, or the new trial or re-hearing (as the case may be) has ended, any person, whether a party to the suit or not, desirous of receiving back any document produced by him in the suit and placed on the record, shall, unless the document is impounded under section 143 of the Code of Civil Procedure, be entitled to receive back the same:

Provided that a document may be returned at any time before any of such events if the person applying for such return delivers to the proper officer a certified copy of such document to be substituted for the original. Provided also that no document shall be returned which by force of the decree has become void or useless.

On the return of a document which has been admitted in evidence, a receipt shall be given by the party receiving it, in a receipt-book to be kept for the purpose.

Act IX of 1850, s. 42.

Compensation payable by plaintiff to defendant in certain cases.

27. In any suit in which the defendant appears and does not admit the claim, and the plaintiff does not obtain a decree for the full amount of his claim, the Small Cause Court may in its discretion order the plaintiff to pay to the defendant, by way of satisfaction for his trouble and attendance, such sum as it thinks fit.

When any claim preferred, or objection made, under section 278 of the Code of Civil Procedure, is disallowed, the Small Cause Court may in its discretion order the person preferring or making such claim or objection to pay to the decree-holder, or to the judgment-debtor, or to both, by way of satisfaction as aforesaid, such sum or sums as it thinks fit.

Any order under this section may, in default of payment of the amount payable there-under, be enforced by the person in whose favour it is made against the person against whom it is made as if it were a decree of the Court.

Bar to applications for execution of decrees.

28. No application to execute a decree passed under this Act shall be received after the expiration of three years from the date of such decree, unless the judgment-debtor has, within the three years following such date, by force or fraud prevented the execution of such decree.

Decree-holder to accompany officer executing warrant.

29. Whenever the Small Cause Court issues a warrant for the arrest of a judgment-debtor or the attachment of his property, the decree-holder, or some other person on his behalf, shall accompany the officer of the Court entrusted with the execution of such warrant, and shall point out to such officer the judgment-debtor or the property to be attached, as the case may be.

Things attached to immoveable property and removeable by tenant to be deemed moveable in execution.

30. When the judgment-debtor under any decree of the Small Cause Court, is a tenant of immoveable property, anything attached to such property, and which he might before the termination of his tenancy lawfully remove without the permission of his landlord, shall, for the purpose of the execution of such decree, be deemed to be moveable property, and may, if sold in such execution, be severed by the purchaser, but shall not be removed by him from the property until he has done to the property whatever the judgment-debtor would have been bound to do to it if he had removed such thing.

Act IX of 1859, s. 66.

Discharge of judgment-debtor on sufficient security.

31. Whenever any judgment-debtor, who has been arrested in execution of a decree of the Small Cause Court, offers security to the satisfaction of such Court for payment of the amount which he has been ordered to pay and the costs, the Court may order him to be discharged.

Act IX of 1850, s. 71. (See I.L.R. 5 Calc., p. 294.)

Court may in certain cases suspend execution of decree.

32. Whenever it appears to the Small Cause Court that any judgment-debtor under its decree is unable, from sickness or other sufficient cause, to pay the amount of the decree, or, if such Court has ordered the same to be paid in instalments, the amount of any instalment thereof, it may, from time to time, for such time and upon such terms as it thinks fit, suspend the execution of such decree.

Act XI of 1865, s. 20.

Execution of decree of Small Cause Court by other Courts.

33. If the judgment-debtor under any decree of the Small Cause Court has not, within the local limits of its jurisdiction, moveable property sufficient to satisfy the decree, the Court may, on the application of the decree-holder, send the decree for execution—

(a) in the case of execution against immoveable property situate within such local limits—to the High Court;

(b) in all other cases—to any Civil Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such judgment-debtor, or any moveable or immoveable property of such judgment-debtor, may be found.

Procedure when decree transferred.

The procedure prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure for the execution of decrees by Courts other than those which made them shall be the procedure followed in such cases.

Act IX of 1850 s. 31.

Minors may sue in certain cases as if of full age.

34. Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Civil Procedure as applied by this Act, any minor may institute a suit for any sum of money, not exceeding five hundred rupees, which may be due to him under section seventy of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, for wages or piece-work or for work as a servant, in the same manner as if he were of full age.

Any non-judicial or quasi-judicial act which the Code of Civil Procedure as applied by this Act requires to be done by a Judge, and any act which may be done by a Commissioner appointed to examine and adjust accounts under section 394 of that Code as so applied, may be done by the Registrar of the Small Cause Court or by such other officer of that Court as that Court may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf.

The High Court may, from time to time, by rule declare what shall be deemed to be non-judicial and quasi-judicial acts within the meaning of this section.

36. The suits cognizable by the Registrar under section fourteen shall be heard and determined by him in like manner in all respects as a Judge of the Court might hear and determine the same:

Proviso.

Provided that, subject to the orders of the Chief Judge, any Judge of the Court may, whenever he thinks fit, transfer to his own file any suit on the file of the Registrar.

New.

Registrar may execute all decrees with the same powers as a Judge.

37. The Registrar may receive applications for the execution of decrees of any value passed by the Court, and may commit and discharge judgment-debtors, and make any order in respect thereof which a Judge of the Court might make under this Act.

Decrees and orders of Registrar to be subject to new trial as if made by a Judge.

38. Every decree and order made by the Registrar in any suit or proceeding shall be subject to the same provisions in regard to new trial as if made by a Judge of the Court. New.

CHAPTER VI.

NEW TRIALS AND REHEARING.

Such application shall be supported by affidavits, and, in case the applicant has appeared by advocate, vakil or attorney, by a certificate from the leading Counsel at the hearing that in his opinion there are good grounds for re-hearing the suit, and, if on hearing such application, the High Court is of opinion that there has been a miscarriage or failure of justice, or that there are other good grounds for such re-hearing, the Court shall make an order ex parte, on such terms as it thinks fit, for such re-hearing and fix a day for the same, whereof notice shall be given to the opposite party.

The rules contained in sections 545, 546 and 547 of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to staying and executing decrees under appeal, shall apply in the case of applications under this section as if such applications were appeals from the decisions of the Small Cause Court.

41. On the day fixed under section forty or on any other day to which the hearing may be adjourned, the High Court, or some Judge thereof, shall proceed to hear and determine the case as if the same were a suit brought in such High Court in its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, in which the plaintiff in the Small Cause Court was plaintiff, and the defendant in such Court was defendant, and in which written statements had not been ordered to be filed; and, except as herein otherwise provided, all the practice and procedure of such High Court in respect of suits brought in its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, shall be followed in suits re-heard under this section: Provided that there shall not be any appeal from any judgment, decree, or order under this section. such other person (hereinafter called the applicant) may apply to the Small Cause Court for a summons against the occupant, calling upon him to show cause, on a day therein appointed, why he should not be compelled to deliver up the property.

D. FITZPATRICK,
Secretary to the Government of India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second Publication.]

The following third Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th March, 1881:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to define and amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property was referred, have the honour to state that the Report of the Indian Law Commissioners, 1879, was duly communicated to us. We have carefully considered so much of it as relates to that Bill, as well as the papers specified in the annexed list; and, in compliance with the wish of the Secretary of State for India, as expressed in his despatch (Legislative) No. 37, dated 7th October, 1880, we have now the honour to present this our third Report.

We agree generally in the enlargement of the Bill effected by the Law Commissioners, and we shall in this Report refer to the Bill as settled by them, and published in the Gazette of India for the 17th and 24th January, 1880.

CHAPTER I.—PRELIMINARY.

We have rendered the definition of "attached to the earth" inapplicable to objects which merely rest upon the earth. And we have amended the definition of "notice" by making it apply expressly to a case where a person wilfully abstains from a search in a register which he ought to have made.

CHAPTER II.—TRANSFERS OF PROPERTY BY ACT OF PARTIES.

This chapter, after declaring what rights are inalienable and by what persons transfers may be made, proceeds to declare restrictions of the transfer of property called for in the interests of society. These restrictions are in substance identical with those contained in the Indian Succession Act, and rights and liabilities arising out of customs or personal laws are sufficiently saved by section 2, clause (a).

We have amended section 6 (as to what may be transferred) in these respects:—First, we have in the first clause substituted "Act" for "section." The effect will be to place Hindús on the same footing as Europeans as regards the power to make settlements, on marriage or otherwise, on persons not in existence at the date of the transfer. Although, no doubt, it has been laid down that the general principle of the Hindú law is that a donee must be in existence at the time of the gift, such settlements are in accordance with Native usage.

Secondly, we have re-drawn clause (a) thus:—

"(a) The chance of an heir-apparent succeeding to an estate, the chance of a relation obtaining a legacy on the death of a kinsman, or any other mere possibility of the same nature, cannot be transferred: the chance of a Hindú heir succeeding to property in the possession of a Hindú female cannot be transferred to any one except the present or future owner or co-owner of the property affected thereby."

Thirdly, we have made clause (c) run thus:—

"(c) An easement cannot be transferred apart from the dominant heritage."

Fourthly, we have extended clause (e) to rights to sue for harm illegally caused to property.

We think that the power to transfer property to or for the benefit of women, so that they shall not be able, during their marriage, to transfer or charge the same should be confined, as it is now, to women not being Hindús, Muhammadans or Buddhists; and we have altered section 10 accordingly.

It cannot be denied that one school of Muhammadan law does, as stated in the books, permit a settlement on a person, his children and their offspring in perpetuity. But in practice this form of settlement is obsolete, and, if made, the Courts would now refuse to recognise it as valid. We think, therefore, that section 14, which prohibits this kind of perpetuity, may stand unaltered. Baillie, p. 671.

We have shortened and simplified the sections (33, 34) which deal respectively with conditions that a transferee shall perform an act at or before a specified time, and like conditions wherein no such time is specified.

We do not think that the proposition laid down in section 40, as to a Hindú's right to receive maintenance from the profits of immoveable property, can be said to be authoritatively settled, and there are good grounds for questioning it.

We have therefore re-drawn the first clause of section 40 thus:—

"40. Where a third person has a right to receive maintenance or a provision for advancement or marriage from the profits of immoveable property, and such property is transferred with the intention of defeating the right, such right may be enforced against a transferee with notice of such intention, or a gratuitous transferee of the property affected by the right, but not against a transferee for consideration and without notice of the right, nor against such property in his hands."

The remainder of section 40, though suggested by English cases, is, in our opinion, founded on general principles of equity applicable to India, and may, therefore, fitly be left unaltered in the Bill.

Section 41 has been amended so as to bring a benámídár clearly within its operation.

We have confined section 42 to cases of transfers for consideration by persons having authority to revoke the transfer.

To the section (44) dealing with transfer by one co-owner we have added a clause declaring that, when the transferee of a share of a dwelling-house belonging to an undivided family is a stranger, nothing in this section shall be deemed to entitle him to joint possession or other common or part enjoyment of the house.

We have confined section 53 to cases of fraudulent transfer. To provide, as it now does, for fraudulent forfeitures would involve a change in the law the consequences of which cannot easily be foreseen.

CHAPTER III.—SALES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

We agree with Sir Henry Maine as to the desirability of rendering the system of transfer of immoveable property a system of public transfer; and we are inclined to go a little further in this direction than seemed good to the Law Commissioners. Thus, we think that in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing, though its value may be less than Rs. 100, the transfer should be made only by registered assurance; and we have altered section 54 accordingly.

As to the duties of the seller, we think that, except where the property is sold subject to incumbrances, he should be bound to discharge all incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the sale; that he should not be bound to deliver the title-deeds till the whole of the purchase-money has been paid. We also think that the Bill may reasonably declare, as it does, that, in the absence of a stipulation to the contrary, the seller shall be deemed to contract that the interest which he assumes to transfer subsists and that he has power to make the transfer; but where he sells in a fiduciary character, we would follow the present practice, and declare simply that he shall be deemed to contract that he has done no act whereby the property is incumbered, or he is hindered from transferring it. We have altered section 55, clauses (a) (7), (8), (9), accordingly.

The proposition laid down in clause (e) (1), that a purchaser is bound to disclose any fact unknown to the vendor which increases his interest in the property, e. g., the actual or imminent death of a prior life-tenant, has been questioned by a high authority. It appears to us in exact accordance with the rule laid down in Turner v. Harvey, Jac. 169; Ellard v. Lord Llandaff, 1 Ball & B. 241; and (on the sale of a life-policy) Jones v. Keene, 2 Moo. & R. 348. We have, however, made a verbal amendment in this clause.

As to the duties of the buyer, we have struck out the clause requiring him to retransfer the property sold, where the ownership has passed before payment of the purchase-money and he fails to pay or tender it. In such case the seller's lien is, we think, sufficient.

As to the buyer's rights, we think that his lien as against the seller for purchase-money paid in anticipation should be available against all persons claiming under the seller with notice of the payment. We have altered the section accordingly.

Where two properties are subject to a common charge and one is sold, the buyer's right as against the seller to have the charge satisfied out of the other property does not depend on whether or not the buyer had notice of the charge. We have, therefore, struck out of section 56 the words relating to notice.

CHAPTER IV.—MORTGAGES.

We think that in the definition of simple mortgage the expression "makes it a collateral security" is likely to give rise to difficulties. We also think that a transaction may be a "mortgage by conditional sale" although accompanied by possession, and in the definition of usufructuary mortgage the words "or agrees to deliver" and "actual" seem unnecessary. We have therefore amended these definitions as follows:—

Simple Mortgage.

"Where, without delivering possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor binds himself personally to pay the mortgage-money and agrees expressly or impliedly that, in the event of his failing to pay according to his contract, the mortgagee shall have a right to cause the mortgaged property to be sold and the proceeds of sale to be applied, so far as may be necessary, in payment of what may be due to him on the mortgage, the transaction is called a simple mortgage and the mortgagee a simple mortgagee."

Mortgage by Conditional Sale.

"Where the mortgagor ostensibly sells the mortgaged property on condition that in default of payment of the mortgage-money on a certain date the sale shall become absolute, or

"on condition that on such payment being made, the sale shall become void, or

"on condition that on such payment being made, the buyer shall re-transfer the property to the seller,

"the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale and the mortgagee a mortgagee by conditional sale."

Usufructuary Mortgage.

"Where the mortgagor delivers possession of the property to the mortgagee and authorises him to retain such possession until payment of the mortgage-money, and to receive the rents and profits accruing from the property and to appropriate them in lieu of interest or in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage and the mortgagee an usufructuary mortgagee."

We agree with the Law Commissioners that the requirement of registration will not only discourage fraud and facilitate investigations of title, but that it will also preclude some difficult question of priority. A majority of us, however, think that where the principal money secured is less than Rs. 100, the assurance need not be registered. And we have altered the Bill accordingly. Our colleague Mr. Stokes dissents from this alteration, as, in his opinion, all incumbrances should appear on the register: those who mortgage their property for small amounts, as a rule, require protection from fraud more than those who mortgage for large amounts, and the changes impending in the working of the law will deprive the requirement of registration of all hardship even in the pettiest cases.

A majority of us are of opinion that equitable mortgages by deposit of title-deeds should be valid when they are made in Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Rangoon and Karáchí. The practice of raising money on such securities has long been established in those towns, and any attempt to disturb it would cause much inconvenience. Here, again, Mr. Stokes dissents on the grounds (a) that such mortgages are opposed to the policy of the registration-law; (b) that they lead to evasions of the stamp-duty; (c) that they are at variance with the principle of making the system of transfer of immoveable property, as far as possible, a system of public transfer; and (d) that, when the amount secured is Rs. 100 or upwards, they would be inconsistent with the general rule in section 58 requiring a written instrument.

We think, with Mr. Justice West, that nothing in the section (59) declaring the mortgagor's right to redeem should invalidate any provision to the effect that, if the time fixed for payment of the principal money has been allowed to pass, or no such time has been fixed, the mortgagee shall be entitled to reasonable notice before payment or tender of such money. In like manner, we think that nothing in section 82 or 83 should deprive the mortgagee of his right to interest where there exists a contract that he shall be entitled to such notice.

We concur with the Law Commissioners in the solution which they have proposed (section 68) of the moot question as to whether a power of sale conferred on the mortgagee is invalid, and as there is no prospect of the High Courts or the Privy Council making an authoritative declaration on the subject, we think it desirable to settle the matter by legislation as soon as possible.

For the section (98) as to the abandonment of his security where a mortgagee attaches and sells the mortgaged property, we have substituted the following:—

"98. Where a mortgagee, in execution of a decree for the satisfaction of any claim, whether arising under the mortgage or not, attaches the mortgaged property, he shall not be entitled to bring such property to sale otherwise than by instituting a suit under section 66."

We think that the High Court should have power to make rules for carrying out the provisions of this chapter.

CHAPTER V.—LEASES.

This chapter will, in our opinion, be of practical use in the case of leases of buildings, gardens and mines. We agree with the Law Commissioners that it should not of itself apply to the relations between zamíndár and raiyat, and we think that the power given to the Local Government by section 115 (now 116) to extend any of the provisions of the chapter to agricultural leases should only be exercised with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, and that the requisite notification should not take effect until the expiry of six months from the date of its publication.

The rule laid down in section 106, clause (i), as to the removeability of tenants' fixtures, has been objected to as not in accordance with the laws in force in this country. But it will operate only in the absence of a contract or local usage to the contrary, and will not in practice apply to tenants in husbandry. Moreover, it is impossible to say with certainty what the law of India on the subject really is. The Courts would, therefore, turn for guidance to the Civil law and the law of England. The Civil law permits a tenant to remove all fixtures where this can be effected without material injury to the property, and the strictness of the law of England has been relaxed where the fixtures have been annexed for the purposes of trade or manufacture, ornament, furniture and domestic use or convenience. The clause in question seems to us to represent with reasonable accuracy the rules of the Civil and the English law.

CHAPTER VI.—GIFTS.

We agree with the Law Commissioners that registration should be required in the case of gifts of immoveable property of whatever value. Such gifts are, as a rule, made by a written instrument, and as, under the Registration Act (III of 1877, section 17, clause (a)), the registration of such instruments is compulsory, the change of the existing law here proposed is almost nominal.

We have struck out the clause in section 121 (now 122) which is founded on the rule in the Succession Act as to bequests to attesting witnesses. It is, we think, inapplicable to a transaction inter vivos, where the donor can give evidence of his intention.

We have also struck out the section (120) which declares that the donor is not bound to warranty. It seems to the majority of us useless as denying what no one in this country would ever assert. Our colleague Mr. Stokes would retain it as precluding a doubt which may reasonably be felt by the Courts (see Burge II, 145).

We have made verbal and other unimportant amendments in sections 11, 25, 36, 37, 51, 59, 61, 64, 80, 81, 90, 91, 99, 101, 106, 126, 133.

The Bill as now settled seems to us a systematic and useful arrangement of the existing law. But we agree with the Law Commissioners that, when the body of substantive civil law enacted for India is recast in a more compact and convenient form than that of a series of fragmentary portions from time to time passed by the legislature, the chapters on Sale, Mortgage, Lease and Exchange contained in the present Bill will probably be placed in close connection with the rules contained in the Contract Act. Till then they may fitly be left in a law containing what the Contract Act does not contain, namely, general rules regulating the transmission of property between living persons.

We do not think that these rules, as now amended, will substantially alter or add to the existing law, or that they will invade or displace the functions of the Judges of the existing Courts. We, therefore, recommend that the Bill be passed. Drawn originally in England by the former Indian Law Commissioners, it was revised by Sir A. Hobhouse and introduced into the Council of the Governor General in June, 1877. It has since been twice circulated to the Local Governments for opinion and publication, and twice reported on by Select Committees, in February, 1878, and February, 1879. It was then carefully revised by the late Indian Law Commission. It has now been again revised by us. We think, therefore, of this Bill, as of the Bill dealing with negotiable instruments, that it is not now likely to be improved without the experience to be gained from its actual working. We recommend, however, that it should be republished in the Gazette of India with this Report; and, in obedience to the orders of the Secretary of State, it must also be sent home to him, published in the local Gazettes, and translated into the vernacular languages.

Our hon'ble colleagues Messrs. Grant and Paul have not been able to attend our meetings, and do not, therefore, sign this report.

OF TRANSFERS OF PROPERTY BY ACT OF PARTIES.

"Transfer" defined.

5. In the following sections "transfer" means an act by which one living person conveys to another, or to himself and another, in present or in future, the ownership of property or an interest therein, and "to transfer" is to perform such act.

What may be transferred.

6. The ownership of property of any kind may be transferred, except as otherwise provided by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force:—

Carlton v. Leighton, 3 Mer: Cf. Act X of 1877, s. 266, clause (k).

(a) The chance of an heir-apparent succeeding to an estate, the chance of a relation obtaining a legacy on the death of a kinsman, or any other mere possibility of a like nature, cannot be transferred. The chance of a Hindú heir succeeding to property in the possession of a Hindú female cannot be transferred to any one except the present or future owner or co-owner of the property affected thereby.

Smith v. Packhurst, 3 Atk. 139.

(b) A mere right of re-entry for breach of a condition subsequent cannot be transferred to any one except the owner of the property affected thereby.

(g) Stipends allowed to military and civil pensioners of Government and political pensions cannot be transferred.

Persons competent to transfer.

Bill, s. 4: Bill III, s. 5: Report, s. 4.

7. Every person competent to contract and entitled to transferable property, or authorized to dispose of transferable property not his own, is competent to transfer such property either wholly or in part and either absolutely or conditionally, in the circumstances, to the extent and in the manner allowed and prescribed by any law for the time being in force.

Operation of transfer.

Bill, s. 10: Bill III, s. 6: Report, s. 10: v. last clause, s. 6: Report, s. 6: 2 W. R. 125 (buildings): 14 W. R. 379. N.-W. P., 1870, p. 251: 24 W. R. 330 (trees), "everything grown on it," Morley N. S. 259.

8. Unless a different intention is expressed or necessarily implied, a transfer of property passes forthwith to the transferee all the interest which the transferor is then capable of passing in such property, and in the legal incidents thereof.

Such incidents include, where the property is land, the easements annexed thereto, the rents and profits thereof accruing after the transfer, and all things attached to the earth;

and, where the property is machinery attached to the earth, the moveable parts thereof;

and, where the property is a house, the easements annexed thereto, the rent thereof accruing after the transfer, and the locks, keys, bars, doors, windows and all other things provided for permanent use therewith;

and, where the property is a debt or other actionable claim, the securities therefor, but not arrears of interest accrued before the transfer;

and, where the property is money or other property yielding income, the interest or income thereof accruing after the ownership passes.

Condition restraining alienation.

Report, s. L. R. 3 Chan. D. 148, 285.

10. Where a transfer is subject to a condition or limitation absolutely restraining the transferee or any person claiming under him from parting with or disposing of his interest in the property transferred, the condition or limitation is void except in the case of a lease where the condition is for the benefit of the lessor or those claiming under him: provided that property may be transferred to or for the benefit of a woman (not being a Hindú, Muhammadan or Buddhist), so that she shall not have power during her marriage to transfer or charge the same or her beneficial interest therein.

Act X of 1865, s. 125.

Restriction repugnant to interest created.

11. Where on a transfer of property an interest is created absolutely in favour of any person, but the terms of the transfer direct that such interest shall be applied or enjoyed in a particular manner, he shall be entitled to receive and dispose of such interest as if there were no such direction.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the right to restrain for the beneficial enjoyment of one piece of immoveable property, the enjoyment of another piece of such property, or to compel the enjoyment thereof in a particular manner.

Report, s. 48: See Act X of 1865, s. 107.

Condition making interest determinable on insolvency or attempted alienation.

12. Where property is transferred subject to a condition or limitation making any interest therein reserved or given to or for the benefit of any person to cease on his becoming insolvent or endeavouring to transfer or dispose of the same, such condition or limitation is void.

Nothing in this section applies to a condition in a lease for the benefit of the lessor or those claiming under him.

Act X of 1865, s. 100. Report, s. 49.

Transfer for benefit of person not in existence at date of transfer, subject to prior transfer.

13. Where on a transfer of property an interest is created for the benefit of a person not in existence at the date of the transfer, subject to a prior interest created by the same transfer, the interest created for the benefit of such person shall not take effect, unless it extends to the whole of the remaining interest of the transferor in the property.

Illustration.

A transfers property of which he is the owner to B in trust for A and his intended wife successively for their lives, and after the death of the survivor for the eldest son of the intended marriage for life, and after his death for his second son. The interest so created for the benefit of the eldest son does not take effect, because it does not extend to the whole of A's remaining interest in the property.

Report, s. 50. Succession Act, s. 101.

Rule against perpetuity.

Report, s. 51: Sheffield v. Portland, 7 Chan. D. 698.

Transfer to class some of whom come under sections 13 and 14.

15. If on a transfer of property an interest is created for the benefit of a class of persons with regard to some of whom such interest fails by reason of any of the rules contained in sections thirteen and fourteen, such interest fails as regards the whole class.

Act X of 1865, s. 104: Report, s. 53.

Direction for accumulation.

18. Where the terms of a transfer of property direct that the income arising therefrom shall be accumulated, such direction shall be void, and the property shall be disposed of as if no accumulation had been directed.

Donaldson v. Donaldson, L. R. 3 Chan. Div. 743.

Exception.—Where the property is immoveable or where accumulation is directed to be made from the date of the transfer, the direction shall be valid in respect only of the income arising from the property within one year next following such date; and at the end of the year such property and income shall be disposed of respectively as if the period during which the accumulation has been directed to be made had elapsed.

Report, ss. 56, 57, altered.

Vested interest.

19. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of a person without specifying the time when it is to take effect, or in terms specifying that it is to take effect, forthwith or on the happening of an event which must happen, such interest is vested, unless a contrary intention appears from the terms of the transfer.

A vested interest is not defeated by the death of the transferee before he obtains possession.

Explanation.—An intention that an interest shall not be vested is not to be inferred merely from a provision whereby the enjoyment thereof is postponed, or whereby a prior interest in the same property is given or reserved to some other person, or whereby income arising from the property is directed to be accumulated until the time of enjoyment arrives, or from a provision that if a particular event shall happen the interest shall pass to another person.

Report, s. 58, altered.

Transfer for benefit of person not then living.

20. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created for the benefit of a person not then living, he acquires upon his birth, unless a contrary intention appear from the terms of the transfer, a vested interest, although he may not be entitled to the enjoyment thereof immediately on his birth.

Act X of 1865, s. 107: Report, s. 59: IX, 72-83.

Contingent interest.

21. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of a person to take effect only on the happening of a specified uncertain event, or if a specified uncertain event shall not happen, such person thereby acquires a contingent interest in the property. Such interest becomes a vested interest, in the former case, on the happening of the event, in the latter, when the happening of the event becomes impossible.

Exception.—Where under a transfer a person becomes entitled to an interest in property upon attaining a particular age, and the transferor also gives to him absolutely the income to arise from such interest before he reaches that age, or directs the income or so much thereof as may be necessary to be applied for his benefit, such interest is not contingent.

Act X of 1865, s. 108: Report, s. 60.

Transfer to members of a class who attain a particular age.

22. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of such members only of a class as shall attain a particular age, such interest does not vest in any member of the class who has not attained that age.

Act X of 1865, s. 111: Report, s. 61.

Transfer contingent on happening of specified uncertain event.

23. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is to accrue to a specified person if a specified uncertain event shall happen, and no time is mentioned for the occurrence of that event, the interest fails unless such event happens before, or at the same time as, the intermediate or precedent interest ceases to exist.

Act X of 1865, s. 112.

Transfer to such of certain persons as survive at some period not specified.

24. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is to accrue to such of certain persons as shall be surviving at some period, but the exact period is not specified, the interest shall go to such of them as shall be alive when the intermediate or precedent interest ceases to exist, unless a contrary intention appears from the terms of the transfer.

Illustration.

A transfers property to B for life, and after his death to C and D, equally to be divided between them, or to the survivor of them. C dies during the life of B. D survives B. At B's death the property passes to D.

Act X of 1865, s. 113: Act X of 1865, s. 114, expanded with reference to Act IX of 1872, s. 23.

Conditional transfer.

25. An interest created on a transfer of property and dependent upon a condition fails if the fulfilment of the condition is impossible, or is forbidden by law, or is of such a nature that if permitted, it would defeat the provisions of any law, or is fraudulent, or involves or implies injury to the person or property of another, or the Court regards it as immoral or opposed to pubic policy.

Illustrations.

(a). A lets a farm to B on condition that he shall walk a hundred miles in an hour. The lease is void.

(b). A gives Rs. 500 to B on condition that he shall marry A's daughter, C. At the date of the transfer C was dead. The transfer is void.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers Rs. 5,000 to B on condition that he shall marry with the consent of C, D and E. E dies. B marries with the consent of C and D. B has fulfilled the condition.

(b). A transfers Rs. 5,000 to B on condition that he shall marry with the consent of C, D and E. B marries without the consent of C, D and E, but obtains their consent after the marriage. B has not fulfilled the condition.

Act X of 1865, s. 116.

Conditional transfer to one person coupled with transfer to another on failure of prior transfer.

27. Where, on a transfer of propery, an interest is created in favour of one person, and by the same transaction an ulterior disposition of the same interest is made in favour of another if the prior interest under the transfer shall fail, the ulterior disposition shall take effect upon the failure of the prior disposition, although the failure may not have occurred in the manner contemplated by the transferor.

Act X of 1865, s. 117.

But where the intention of the parties to the transaction is that the ulterior disposition shall take effect only in the event of the prior disposition failing in a particular manner, the ulterior disposition shall not take effect unless the prior disposition fails in that manner.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers Rs. 500 to B on condition that he shall execute a certain lease within three months after A's death, and if he should neglect to do so, to C. B dies in A's life-time. The transfer to C takes effect.

Act X of 1865, s. 118.

Ulterior transfer conditional on happening or not happening of specified event.

28. On a transfer of property an interest may be created to accrue to any person with the condition superadded that in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, such interest shall pass to another person; or that in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen, such interest shall pass to another person. In each case the dispositions are subject to the rules contained in sections ten, twelve, twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-five and twenty-seven.

Act X of 1865, s. 119.

Fulfilment of condition subsequent.

29. An ulterior disposition of the kind contemplated by the last preceding section cannot take effect unless the condition is strictly fulfilled.

Illustration.

A transfers Rs. 560 to B, to be paid to him on his attaining his majority or marrying, with a proviso that, if B dies a minor or marries without C's consent, the Rs. 500 shall go to D. B marries when only 17 years of age, without C's consent. The transfer to D takes effect.

Act X of 1865, s. 120.

Prior disposition not affected by invalidity of ulterior disposition.

30. If the ulterior disposition is not valid, the prior disposition is not affected by it.

Illustration.

A transfers a farm to B for her life, and, if she do not desert her husband, to C. B is entitled to the farm during her life as if no condition had been inserted.

Act X of 1865, s. 121.

Condition that transfer shall cease to have effect in case specified uncertain event happens or does not happen.

31. Subject to the provisions of section twelve, on a transfer of property an interest may be created with the condition superadded that it shall cease to exist in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, or in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers a farm to B for his life, with a proviso that, in case B cuts down a certain wood, the transfer shall cease to have any effect. B cuts down the wood. He loses his life-interest in the farm.

(b). A transfers a farm to B, provided that, if B shall not go to England within three years after the date of the transfer his interest in the farm shall cease. A does not go to England within the term prescribed. His interest in the farm ceases.

Act X of 1865, s. 122.

Such condition must not be invalid.

Act X of 1865, s. 124.

Condition that transferee shall perform act at or before specified time.

33. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created subject to a condition that the person taking it shall perform a certain act at or before a specified time, and the transferor has at the time of creating the interest made an ulterior disposition thereof in favour of himself or of another, if the act be not performed within such time, the prior disposition ceases to have effect if the act is not performed within such time, or if the person benefited by the prior disposition renders the performance of the act impossible within the time specified. But where the transferor has not made any such ulterior disposition thereof, the transfer is, at the option of the transferor, voidable so far as regards such interest, if time is of the essence of the condition; but if it is not of the essence of the contract, the transfer shall not be so voidable.

When such intention is apparent, the circumstance that the interest has actually been enjoyed under the prior disposition does not affect the operation of the condition.

Transfer conditional on performance of act, no time being specified for performance.

34. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created subject to a condition that the person taking it shall perform a certain act, but no time is specified for the performance of the act, the condition is broken when he renders impossible, permanently or for an indefinite period, the performance of the condition.

Transfer conditional on performance of act, time being specified.

35. Where an act is to be performed by a person either as a condition to be fulfilled before an interest created on a transfer is enjoyed by him, or as a condition on the non-fulfilment of which the interest is to pass from him to another person, and a time is specified for the performance of the act, if such performance within the specified time is prevented by the fraud of a person who would be directly benefited by non-fulfilment of the condition, such further time shall as against him be allowed for performing the act as shall be requisite to make up for the delay caused by such fraud. But if no time is specified for the performance of the act, then if its performance is, by the fraud of a person interested in the non-fulfilment of the condition rendered impossible or indefinitely postponed, the condition shall as against him be deemed to have been fulfilled.

Election.

Draft, s. 62 added to.

Election when necessary.

Act X of 1865, s. 168.

subject nevertheless,

where the transfer is gratuitous and the transferor has before the election died or otherwise become incapable of making a fresh transfer,

and in all cases where the transfer is for consideration,

A person taking no benefit directly under a transaction, but deriving a benefit under it indirectly, need not elect.

Act X of 1865, s. 172.

A person who in his one capacity takes a benefit under the transaction may in another dissent therefrom.

Exception to the last preceding four rules.—Where a particular benefit is expressed to be conferred on the owner of the property which the transferor professes to transfer expressed to be in lieu of that property, if such owner claim that he must relinquish the particular benefit, but he is not bound to relinquish any other benefit conferred upon him by the same transaction.

Act X of 1865 s. 173.

Acceptance of the benefit by the person on whom it is conferred constitutes an election by him to confirm the transfer, if he is aware of his duty to elect and of those circumstances which would influence the judgment of a reasonable man in making an election, or if he waives enquiry into the circumstances.

Act X of 1865 s. 174.

Such knowledge or waiver shall, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, be presumed, if the person on whom the benefit has been conferred has enjoyed it for two years without doing any act to express dissent.

Conditional transfer to one person coupled with transfer to another on failure of prior transfer.

27. Where, on a transfer of propery, an interest is created in favour of one person, and by the same transaction an ulterior disposition of the same interest is made in favour of another if the prior interest under the transfer shall fail, the ulterior disposition shall take effect upon the failure of the prior disposition, although the failure may not have occurred in the manner contemplated by the transferor.

Act X of 1865, s. 117.

Act X of 1865, s. 111: Report, s. 61.

Transfer contingent on happening of specified uncertain event.

23. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is to accrue to a specified person if a specified uncertain event shall happen, and no time is mentioned for the occurrence of that event, the interest fails unless such event happens before, or at the same time as, the intermediate or precedent interest ceases to exist.

Act X of 1865, s. 112.

Transfer to such of certain persons as survive at some period not specified.

24. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is to accrue to such of certain persons as shall be surviving at some period, but the exact period is not specified, the interest shall go to such of them as shall be alive when the intermediate or precedent interest ceases to exist, unless a contrary intention appears from the terms of the transfer.

Act X of 1865, s. 113: Act X of 1865, s. 114, expanded with reference to Act IX of 1872, s. 23.

Conditional transfer.

Act X of 1865, s. 116.

Conditional transfer to one person coupled with transfer to another on failure of prior transfer.

27. Where, on a transfer of propery, an interest is created in favour of one person, and by the same transaction an ulterior disposition of the same interest is made in favour of another if the prior interest under the transfer shall fail, the ulterior disposition shall take effect upon the failure of the prior disposition, although the failure may not have occurred in the manner contemplated by the transferor.

Act X of 1865, s. 117.

But where the intention of the parties to the transaction is that the ulterior disposition shall take effect only in the event of the prior disposition failing in a particular manner, the ulterior disposition shall not take effect unless the prior disposition fails in that manner.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers Rs. 500 to B on condition that he shall execute a certain lease within three months after A's death, and if he should neglect to do so, to C. B dies in A's life-time. The transfer to C takes effect.

(b). A transfers property to his wife; but in case she should die in his life-time, transfers to B that which he had transferred to her. A and his wife perish together, under circumstances which make it impossible to prove that she died before him. The transfer to B does not take effect.

Act X of 1865, s. 118.

Ulterior transfer conditional on happening or not happening of specified event.

28. On a transfer of property an interest may be created to accrue to any person with the condition superadded that in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, such interest shall pass to another person; or that in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen, such interest shall pass to another person. In each case the dispositions are subject to the rules contained in sections ten, twelve, twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-five and twenty-seven.

Act X of 1865, s. 119.

Fulfilment of condition subsequent.

29. An ulterior disposition of the kind contemplated by the last preceding section cannot take effect unless the condition is strictly fulfilled.

Illustration.

A transfers Rs. 500 to B, to be paid to him on his attaining his majority or marrying, with a proviso that, if B dies a minor or marries without C's consent, the Rs. 500 shall go to D. B marries when only 17 years of age, without C's consent. The transfer to D takes effect.

Act X of 1865, s. 120.

Prior disposition not affected by invalidity of ulterior disposition.

30. If the ulterior disposition is not valid, the prior disposition is not affected by it.

Illustration.

Act X of 1865, s. 121.

Condition that transfer shall cease to have effect in case specified uncertain event happens or does not happen.

31. Subject to the provisions of section twelve, on a transfer of property an interest may be created with the condition superadded that it shall cease to exist in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, or in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers a farm to B for his life, with a proviso that, in case B cuts down a certain wood, the transfer shall cease to have any effect. B cuts down the wood. He loses his life-interest in the farm.

(b). A transfers a farm to B, provided that, if B shall not go to England within three years after the date of the transfer his interest in the farm shall cease. A does not go to England within the term prescribed. His interest in the farm ceases.

Act X of 1865, s. 122.

Such condition must not be invalid.

Act X of 1865, s. 124.

Condition that transferee shall perform act at or before specified time.

33. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created subject to a condition that the person taking it shall perform a certain act at or before a specified time, and the transferor has at the time of creating the interest made an ulterior disposition thereof in favour of himself or of another, if the act be not performed within such time, the prior disposition ceases to have effect if the act is not performed within such time, or if the person benefited by the prior disposition renders the performance of the act impossible within the time specified. But where the transferor has not made any such ulterior disposition thereof, the transfer is, at the option of the transferor, voidable so far as regards such interest, if time is of the essence of the condition; but if it is not of the essence of the contract, the transfer shall not be so voidable.

When such intention is apparent, the circumstance that the interest has actually been enjoyed under the prior disposition does not affect the operation of the condition.

Transfer conditional on performance of act, no time being specified for performance.

34. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created subject to a condition that the person taking it shall perform a certain act, but no time is specified for the performance of the act, the condition is broken when he renders impossible, permanently or for an indefinite period, the performance of the condition.

Transfer conditional on performance of act, time being specified.

35. Where an act is to be performed by a person either as a condition to be fulfilled before an interest created on a transfer is enjoyed by him, or as a condition on the non-fulfilment of which the interest is to pass from him to another person, and a time is specified for the performance of the act, if such performance within the specified time is prevented by the fraud of a person who would be directly benefited by non-fulfilment of the condition, such further time shall as against him be allowed for performing the act as shall be requisite to make up for the delay caused by such fraud. But if no time is specified for the performance of the act, then if its performance is, by the fraud of a person interested in the non-fulfilment of the condition rendered impossible or indefinitely postponed, the condition shall as against him be deemed to have been fulfilled.

Election.

Draft, s. 62 added to.

Election when necessary.

Act X of 1865, s. 168.

subject nevertheless,

where the transfer is gratuitous and the transferor has before the election died or otherwise become incapable of making a fresh transfer,

and in all cases where the transfer is for consideration, to the charge of making good to the disappointed transferee the amount or value of the property attempted to be transferred to him.

Illustration.

The farm of Sultánpur is the property of C and worth Rs. 800. A by an instrument of gift professes to transfer it to B, giving by the same instrument Rs. 1,000 to C. C elects to retain the farm. He forfeits the gift of Rs. 1,000.

In the same case, A dies before the election. His representative must out of the Rs. 1,000 pay Rs. 800 to B.

Act X of 1865, s. 169.

The rule in the first paragraph of this section applies whether the transferor does or does not believe that which he professes to transfer to be his own.

Act X of 1865 s. 171.

A person taking no benefit directly under a transaction, but deriving a benefit under it indirectly, need not elect.

Act X of 1865, s. 172.

A person who in his one capacity takes a benefit under the transaction may in another dissent therefrom.

Exception to the last preceding four rules.—Where a particular benefit is expressed to be conferred on the owner of the property which the transferor professes to transfer expressed to be in lieu of that property, if such owner claim that he must relinquish the particular benefit, but he is not bound to relinquish any other benefit conferred upon him by the same transaction.

Act X of 1865 s. 173.

Acceptance of the benefit by the person on whom it is conferred constitutes an election by him to confirm the transfer, if he is aware of his duty to elect and of those circumstances which would influence the judgment of a reasonable man in making an election, or if he waives enquiry into the circumstances.

Act X of 1865 s. 174.

Such knowledge or waiver shall, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, be presumed, if the person on whom the benefit has been conferred has enjoyed it for two years without doing any act to express dissent.

Act X of 1865, s. 175.

Such knowledge or waiver may be inferred from any act of his which renders it impossible to place the persons interested in the property professed to be transferred in the same condition as if such act had not been done.

Illustration.

A transfers to B an estate to which C is entitled, and to C a coal-mine. C takes possession of the mine and exhausts it. He has thereby confirmed the transfer of the estate to B.

Act X of 1865, s. 176. If he does not within one year after the date of the transfer signify to the transferor or his representatives his intention to confirm or to dissent from the transfer, the transferor or his representatives may, upon the expiration of that period, require him to make his election; and if he does not comply with such requisition within a reasonable time after he has received it, he shall be deemed to have elected to confirm the transfer.

Act X of 1865, s. 167. In case of disability, the election shall be postponed until the disability ceases, or until the election is made by some competent authority.

Apportionment.

Draft, s. 64: Bill III, s. 86.

37. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, all rents, annuities, pensions, dividends and other periodical payments in the nature of income shall, upon the transfer of the interest of the person entitled to receive such payments, be deemed, as between the transferor and the transferee, to accrue due from day to day, and to be apportionable accordingly, but to be payable on the days appointed for the payment thereof.

Apportionment of periodical payments on determination of interest of person entitled.

Severance of Obligation relating to property.

38. When in consequence of a transfer property is divided and held in several shares, and thereupon the benefit of any obligation relating to the property as a whole passes from one to several owners of the property, the corresponding duty shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary amongst the owners, be performed in favour of each of such owners in proportion to the value of his share in the property, provided that the duty can be severed and that the severance does not substantially increase the burden of the obligation; but if the duty cannot be severed, or if the severance would substantially increase the burden of the obligation, the duty shall be performed for the benefit of such one of the several owners as they shall jointly designate for that purpose:

Satisfaction of right arising in favour of several persons in consequence of a transfer.

Provided that no person on whom the burden of the obligation lies shall be answerable for failure to discharge it in manner provided by this section, unless and until he has had reasonable notice of the severance.

(a). A sells to B, C and D land situate in a village and leased to E at an annual rent of Rs. 30 and delivery of one fat sheep, B having provided half the purchase-money and C and D one quarter each. E having notice of this must pay Rs. 15 to B, Rs. 7½ to C and Rs 7½ to D, and must deliver the sheep according to the joint direction of B, C and D.

(b). Each house in the village being bound to provide ten days' labour each year on a dyke to prevent inundation, E had agreed as a term of his lease to perform this work for A. B, C and D severally require E to perform the ten days' work due on account of the house of each. E is not bound to do more than ten days' work in all, according to such directions as B, C and D may join in giving.

B.—Transfer of Immoveable Property.

Bill III, s. 7.

39. Where any person authorized only under circumstances in their nature variable to dispose of immoveable property transfers such property for consideration, alleging the existence of such circumstances, they shall, as between the transferee on the one part and the transferor and other persons (if any) affected by the transfer on the other part, be deemed to have existed, if the transferee, after using reasonable care to ascertain the existence of such circumstances, has acted in good faith.

Transfer by person authorized only under certain circumstances to transfer.

Illustration.

A, a Hindú widow, whose husband has left collateral heirs, agrees, for purposes neither religious nor charitable, to sell a field, part of the property held by her as such, to B. B satisfies himself by reasonable enquiry that the income of the property is in sufficient for A's maintenance, and that the sale of the field is necessary, and, acting in good faith, buys the field. As between B on the one part and A and the collateral heirs on the other part, a necessity for the sale shall be deemed to have existed.

40. Where a third person has a right to receive maintenance or a provision for advancement or marriage from the profits of immoveable property, and such property is transferred with the intention of defeating such right, the right may be enforced against the transferee, if he has notice of such intention or if the transfer is gratuitous; but not against a transferee for consideration and without notice of the right, nor against such property in his hands.

Transfer of land where third person is entitled to maintenance,

Illustrations.

(a). A, a Hindú, transfers Sultánpur to his sister-in-law B, in lieu of her claim against him for maintenance in virtue of his having succeeded to her deceased husband's property, and agrees with her that if she is dispossessed of Sultánpur, A will transfer to her an equal area out of such of several other specified villages in his possession as she may elect. A sells the specified villages to C, who buys in good faith, without notice of the agreement. B is dispossessed of Sultánpur. She has no claim on the villages transferred to C.

(b). A, a Hindú widow, is entitled to maintenance out of the share of her deceased husband in Basaoli, which has passed to his brother B. B sells Basaoli to C, who has notice that there is no other property to satisfy A's claim. A may claim maintenance out of Basaoli in the hands of C.

Where for the more beneficial enjoyment of his own immoveable property a third person has, independently of any interest in the immoveable property of another, a right to restrain the enjoyment of the latter property or to compel its enjoyment in a particular manner, or or has a right to restrain its enjoyment,

where a third person is entitled to the benefit of an obligation arising out of contract and annexed to the ownership of immoveable property, but not amounting to an interest therein or easement thereon, or is entitled to benefit of obligation not amounting to interest or easement.

such right or obligation may be enforced against a transferee with notice thereof or a gratuitous transferee of the property affected thereby, but not against a transferee for consideration and without notice of the right or obligation, nor against such property in his hands.

Illustration.

A contracts to sell Sultánpur to B. While the contract is still in force he sells Sultánpur to C, who has notice of the contract. B may enforce the contract against C to the same extent as against A.

Bill III, s. 7: Act IX of 1878, s. 108, excepn. 2.

41. Where with the consent, express or implied, of the persons interested in immoveable property, a person is the ostensible owner of such property and transfers the same for consideration, the transfer shall not be voidable on the ground that the transferor was not authorized to make it: provided that the transferee, after taking reasonable care to ascertain that the transferor had power to make the transfer, has acted in good faith.

Transfer by ostensible owner.

Illustrations.

(a). A, one of two co-proprietors of village land, leaves his village, and with his consent the land is registered by the Revenue-officer in the name of B, the other co-proprietor. After ten years B sells a portion of the land to C, who takes reasonable care to ascertain that B had power to make the transfer and acts in good faith. A is not entitled to have the sale set aside.

(b). A buys land and causes it to be transferred to his servant B to hold on his behalf, and also causes it to be entered in the revenue register in B's name. C, having ascertained that B is the registered owner of the land and pays the revenue due in respect thereof, buys the land in good faith from B. A cannot impeach the sale.

Bill III, s. 10A, para. 2.

42. Where a person having authority to revoke a transfer of any immoveable property, transfers the property for consideration, such transfer operates in favour of the transferee (subject to any condition attached to the exercise of the authority) as a revocation of the former transfer to the extent of the authority.

Transfer by person having authority to revoke transfer.

Illustration.

A lets a house to B and reserves power to revoke the lease if in the opinion of a specified surveyor B should make a use of it detrimental to its value. Afterwards A, thinking that such a use has been made, lets the house to C. This operates as a revocation of B's lease subject to the opinion of the surveyor as to B's use of the house having been detrimental to its value.

43. Where a person erroneously represents that he is authorized to transfer certain immoveable property, and assumes to transfer such property for consideration, such transfer shall, at the option of the transferee, operate on any interest which the transferor may acquire in such property, at any time during which the contract of transfer subsists.

Transfer by unauthorized person who subsequently acquires interest in property transferred.

Nothing in this section shall impair the right of transferees in good faith for consideration without notice of the existence of the said option.

Illustration.

A, a Hindú who has separated from his father B, sells to C three fields, X, Y and Z. Of these Z does not belong to A, it having been retained by B on the partition; but on B's dying A obtains Z as heir. C, not having rescinded the contract of sale, may require A to deliver Z to him.

Bill III, s. 9.

44. Where one of two or more co-owners of immoveable property legally competent in that behalf transfers his share of such property or any interest therein, the transferee acquires as to such share or interest, and so far as is necessary to give effect to the transfer, the transferor's right to joint possession or other common or part enjoyment of the property, and to enforce a partition of the same, but subject to the conditions and liabilities affecting, at the date of the transfer, the share or interest so transferred.

Transfer by one co-owner.

Where the transferee of a share of a dwelling-house belonging to an undivided family is a stranger nothing in this section shall be deemed to entitle him to joint-possession or other common or part enjoyment of the house.

Bill III, s. 18.

45. Where property is transferred for consideration to two or more persons, and such consideration is paid out of a fund belonging to them in common, they are in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively entitled to interests in such property identical, as nearly as may be, with the interests to which they were respectively entitled to the fund; and where such consideration is paid out of separate funds belonging to them respectively, they are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively entitled to interests in such property in proportion to the shares of the consideration which they respectively advanced.

Joint transfer for consideration.

In the absence of evidence as to the interests in the fund to which they were respectively entitled, or as to the shares which they respectively advanced, such persons shall be presumed to be equally interested in the property.

Illustration.

A and B are the sons and C the grandson of a Hindú who has died leaving property. C's father D has also died. A partition has been made after which A and B have reunited. C remains severed in interest, his share being one-third. The separate property of D is of the same value. The whole fund belonging to A, B and C is expended in buying an estate, X. A and B take one moiety of X as joint estate and C takes the other moiety as separate property.

46. Where a transfer of immoveable property is made for consideration by persons having distinct interests therein, the transferors are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to share in the consideration equally, where their interests in the property transferred were of equal value, and, where such interests were of unequal value, proportionately to the value of their respective interests.

Transfer for consideration by persons having distinct interests.

Illustrations.

(a). A, owing a moiety, and B and C, each a quarter share of mauza Sultánpur, exchange an eighth share of that mauza for a quarter share of mauza Lálpura. There being no agreement to the contrary, A is entitled to an eighth share in Lálpura, and B and C each to a sixteenth share in that mauza.

(b). A being entitled to a life interest in mauza Atrali and B and C to the reversion, sell the mauza for Rs. 1,000. A's life interest is ascertained to be worth Rs. 600, the reversion Rs. 400. A is entitled to receive Rs. 600 out of the purchase money, B and C to receive Rs. 400.

47. Where several co-owners of immoveable property transfer a share therein without specifying that the transfer is to take effect on any particular share or shares of the transferors, the transfer, as among such transferors, takes effect on such shares equally where the shares were equal, and where they were unequal, proportionately to the extent of such shares.

Transfer by co-owners of share in common property.

Illustration.

A, the owner of an eight annas share, and B and C, each the owner of a four annas share, in mauza Sultánpur, transfer a two-anna share in the mauza to D, without specifying from which of their several shares the transfer is made. To give effect to the transfer one anna share is taken from the share of A, and half an anna share from each of the shares of B and C.

48. Where a person purports to create by transfer at different times rights in or over the same immoveable property, and such rights cannot all exist or be exercised to their full extent together, each later created right shall, in the absence of a special contract or reservation binding the earlier transferees, be subject to the rights previously created.

Priority of rights created by transfer.

Bill III, ss. 17, 36.

49. Where immoveable property is transferred for consideration, and such property or any part thereof is at the date of the transfer insured against loss or damage by fire, the transferee, in case of such loss or damage, may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, require any money which the transferor actually receives under the policy, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be applied in reinstating the property.

Transferee's right under policy.

Bill III, s. 8: Act X 1855, s. 1.

50. No person shall be chargeable with any rents or profits of any immoveable property, which he has in good faith paid or delivered to any person of whom he in good faith held such property, notwithstanding it may afterwards appear that the person to whom such payment or delivery was made had no right to receive such rents or profits.

A lets a field to B at a rent of Rs. 50, and then transfers the field to C. B, having no notice of the transfer, in good faith pays the rent to A. B is not chargeable with the rent so paid.

Act XI of 1855, s. 2 2 Bom. 225.

51. When the transferee of immoveable property makes any improvement on the property, believing in good faith that he is absolutely entitled thereto, and he is subsequently evicted therefrom by any person having a better title, the transferee or his representative in interest has a right to require the person causing the eviction either to have the value of the improvement estimated and paid or secured to the transferee, or to sell his interest in the property to the transferee at the then market value thereof irrespective of the value of such improvement.

Improvements made by bonâ fide holders under defective titles.

The amount to be paid or secured in respect of such improvement shall be the estimated value thereof at the time of the eviction.

When under the circumstances aforesaid the transferee has planted or sown on the property crops which are growing when he is evicted therefrom, he is entitled to such crops and to free ingress and egress to gather and carry them.

52. During the active prosecution in any Court having authority in British India, or established beyond the limits of British India by the Governor General in Council, of a contentious suit or proceeding in which any right to immoveable property is directly and specifically in question, the property cannot be transferred or otherwise dealt with by any party to the suit or proceeding so as to affect the rights of any other party thereto under any decree or order which may be made therein, except under the authority of the Court and on such terms as it may impose.

Transfer of property pending suit relating thereto.

Bill III, s. 10A: Cf. Act I of 1877, s. 35.

53. Every transfer of immoveable property made with intent to defraud prior or subsequent transferees thereof for consideration, or co-owners or other persons having an interest in such property, or to defeat or delay the creditors of the transferor, is voidable at the option of any person so defrauded, defeated or delayed.

Fraudulent transfer.

Where the effect of any transfer of immoveable property is to defraud, defeat or delay any such person, and such transfer is made gratuitously or for a grossly inadequate consideration, the transfer may be presumed to have been made with such intent as aforesaid.

Nothing contained in this section shall impair the rights of any transferee in good faith and for consideration.

Bill III, s. 12 (g).

(7) to pay all public charges and rent accrued due in respect of the property up to the date of the sale, the interest on all incumbrances on such property due on such date; and, except where the property is sold subject to incumbrances, to discharge all incumbrances on the property then existing; and

Bill III, s. 12 (i).

(9) Where the whole of the purchase-money has been paid to the seller, he is also bound to deliver to the buyer all documents of title relating thereto which are in the seller's possession or power:

provided that (1), where the seller retains any part of the property comprised in such documents, he is entitled to retain them all, and (2), where the whole of such property is sold to different buyers, the buyer of the lot of greatest value is entitled to such documents. But in case (1) the seller, and in case (2) the buyer of the lot of greatest value, is bound, upon every reasonable request by the buyer, or by any of the other buyers, as the case may be, or by any person claiming under him, and at the cost of the person making the request, to produce the said documents and furnish such true copies thereof as he may require; and in the meantime, the seller or the buyer, as the case may be, of the lot of greatest value must keep the said documents safe, uncancelled and undefaced, unless prevented from so doing by fire or other inevitable accident;

Bill III, s. 13 (b).

(1) to disclose to the seller any fact as to the nature or extent of the seller's interest in the property of which the buyer is aware, but of which he has reason to believe that the seller is not aware, and which increases the value of such interest;

Bill III, s. 13 (g).

(2) to pay or tender, at the time and place of completing the transfer, the purchase-money to the seller or such person as he directs: provided that, where the property is sold free from incumbrances, the buyer may retain out of the purchase-money the amount of the incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the transfer, and shall pay the amount so retained to the persons entitled thereto;

Bill III, s. 13 (e).

(3) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, to bear any loss arising from the destruction, injury or decrease in value of the property not caused by the seller;

Bill III, s. 15. (d) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, as between himself and the seller, to pay all public charges and rent which may become payable in respect of the property, the principal moneys due on the incumbrances subject to which the property is sold, and the interest thereon afterwards accruing due.

(d). The buyer is entitled—

Bill III, s. 12 (c). (1) where the ownership of the property has passed to him, to the benefit of any improvement in, or increase in value of, the property, and to the rents and profits thereof;

Bill III, s. 12 (e). (2) unless he has improperly declined to accept delivery of the property, to a charge on the property as against the seller and all persons claiming under him with notice of the payment, to the extent of the seller's interest on the property, for the amount of any purchase-money properly paid by the buyer in anticipation of the delivery and for interest on such amount; and when he properly declines to accept the delivery, also for the earnest (if any) and for the costs (if any) awarded to him of a suit to compel specific performance of the contract or to obtain a decree for its rescission.

Bill III, s. 13. An omission to make such disclosures as are mentioned in this section, paragraph (a), clause (1), and paragraph (c), clause (1), is fraudulent.

Bill III, s. 19. 56. Where two properties are subject to a common charge, and one of the properties is sold, the buyer is, as against the seller, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to have the charge satisfied out of the other property, so far as such property will extend.

CHAPTER IV.

OF MORTGAGES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY AND CHARGES.

Bill II, s. 25: Bill III, s. 21: Bill, s. 14: Act XXVIII of 1866, s. 19: 23 & 24 Vic., c. 145, s. 24. 57. (a). A mortgage is the transfer of an interest in specific immoveable property for the purpose of securing the payment of money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan, an existing or future debt, or the performance of an engagement which may give rise to a pecuniary liability.

"Mortgage," "mortgagor" and "mortgagee" defined.

The transferor is called a mortgagor, the transferee a mortgagee; the principal-money and interest of which payment is secured for the time being are called the mortgage-money, the interest transferred is called the mortgaged property, and the assurance (if any) by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

(b). Where, without delivering possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor binds himself personally to pay the mortgage-money and agrees, expressly or impliedly, that, in the event of his failing to pay according to his contract, the mortgagee shall have a right to cause the mortgaged property to be sold and the proceeds of sale to be applied, so far as may be necessary, in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called a simple mortgage and the mortgagee a simple mortgagee.

Moo. I. A. 275, 306. Colebs. Dig. B. i, c. III, t. 96.

Simple mortgage.

(c). Where the mortgagor ostensibly sells the mortgaged property—

Mortgage by conditional sale.

on condition that on default of payment of the mortgage-money on a certain date the sale shall become absolute, or on condition that on such payment being made the sale shall become void, or on condition that on such payment being made the buyer shall transfer the property to the seller, the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale and the mortgagee a mortgagee by conditional sale.

(d). Where the mortgagor delivers possession of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee and authorises him to retain such possession until payment of the mortgage-money, and to receive the rents and profits accruing from the property and to appropriate them in lieu of interest or in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage and the mortgagee an usufructuary mortgagee.

Usufructuary mortgage.

(e). Where the mortgagor binds himself to repay the mortgage-money on a certain date, and transfers the mortgaged property absolutely to the mortgagee, but subject to a condition that he will re-transfer it to the mortgagor upon payment of the mortgage-money as agreed, the transaction is called an English mortgage.

Macph. 8 12, 59: R. B Ghose 218, 219: 2 Moo. I. A. 487.

58. Where the principal money secured is one hundred rupees or upwards, a mortgage can be effected only by registered assurance signed by the mortgagor and attested by at least two witnesses.

Bill II, s. 26: Bill III, s. 22: See Macph. 53: R. B. Ghose 64.

Mortgage when to be by assurance.

Where the principal money secured is less than one hundred rupees, a mortgage may be effected either by assurance signed and attested as aforesaid or by delivery of the property.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to render invalid mortgages made in the towns of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Karáchí and Rangoon, by delivery to a creditor or his agent of documents of title to immoveable property, with intent to create a security thereon.

provided that the right conferred by this section has not been extinguished by act of the parties or by order of a Court.

The right conferred by this section is called a right to redeem, and a suit to enforce it is called a suit for redemption.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to render invalid any provision to the effect that, if the time fixed for payment of the principal money has been allowed to pass or no such time has been fixed, the mortgagee shall be entitled to reasonable notice before payment or tender of such money.

Accession acquired in virtue of transferred ownership.

In the case last mentioned the profits, if any, arising from the accession shall be credited to the mortgagor.

Where the mortgage is usufructuary and the accession has been acquired at the cost of the mortgagee, the profits, if any, arising from the accession shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be set off against interest, if any, payable on the money so expended.

Mortgage to secure uncertain amount when maximum is expressed.

78. If a mortgage made to secure future advances, the performance of an engagement or the balance of a running account expresses the maximum to be secured thereby, a subsequent mortgage of the same property shall, if made with notice of the prior mortgage, or if the instrument effecting the prior mortgage is registered, be postponed to the prior mortgage in respect of all advances or debits not exceeding the maximum, though made or allowed with notice of the subsequent mortgage.

Illustration.

A mortgages Sultánpur to his bankers, B & Co., to secure the balance of his account with them to the extent of Rs. 10,000. A then mortgages Sultánpur to C, to secure Rs. 10,000; and C gives notice thereof to B & Co. At the date of the second mortgage, the balance due to B & Co. does not exceed Rs. 5,000. B & Co. subsequently advance to A sums making the balance of the account against him exceed the sum of Rs. 10,000. B & Co. are entitled, to the extent of Rs. 10,000, to priority over C.

Provided that the transferee is not entitled to arrears of rent due before the transfer, and that, if the lessee pay rent to the lessor without having reason to believe that such transfer has been made, the lessee shall not be liable to pay such rent over again to the transferee.

Act XI of 1855, s. 1: 4 Anne, c. 16, s. 10.

Where only a part of the property leased is transferred by the lessor, he may (subject to the provisions of section thirty-eight) determine what proportion of the premium or rent reserved by the lease is payable in respect of the part so transferred.

Bill II, s. 72.

109. Where the time limited by a lease of immoveable property is expressed as commencing from a particular day, in computing that time such day shall be excluded. Where no day of commencement is named, the time so limited begins from the making of the lease.

Bill II, s. 75: Bill, s. 43.

Exclusion of day on which term commences.

Where the time so limited is a year or a number of years, in the absence of an express agreement to the contrary, the lease shall last during the whole anniversary of the day from which such time commences.

Duration of lease for a year.

Where the time so limited is expressed to be terminable before its expiration, and the lease omits to mention at whose option it is so terminable, the lessee, and not the lessor, shall have such option.

Option to determine lease.

Determination of lease.

110. A lease of immoveable property determines—

(h) on the expiration of a notice to determine the lease, or to quit, or of intention to quit, the property leased, duly given by one party to the other.

Illustration to clause (f).

A, the lessee, accepts from the lessor a new lease of the property leased, to take effect during the continuance of the existing lease. This is an implied surrender of the former lease, and such lease determines thereupon.

111. A forfeiture under section one hundred and ten, clause (g), is waived by acceptance of rent which has become due since the forfeiture, or by distress for such rent, or by any other act on the part of the lessor showing an intention to treat the lease as subsisting:

Waiver of forfeiture.

2 Bom. 73.

Provided that the lessor is aware that the forfeiture has been incurred:

Provided also that, where rent is accepted after the institution of a suit to eject the lessee on the ground of forfeiture, such acceptance is not a waiver.

112. A notice given under section one hundred and ten, clause (h), is waived, with the express or implied consent of the person to whom it is given, by any act on the part of the person giving it showing an intention to treat the lease as subsisting.

Waiver of notice to quit.

113. Where a lease of immoveable property has determined by forfeiture for non-payment of rent, and the lessor sues to eject the lessee, if, at the hearing of the suit, the lessee pays or tenders to the lessor the rent in arrear, together with interest thereon and his full costs of the suit, or gives such security as the Court thinks sufficient for making such payment within fifteen days, the Court may, in lieu of making a decree for ejectment, pass an order relieving the lessee against the forfeiture; and thereupon the lessee shall hold the property leased as if the forfeiture had not occurred.

Act XVIII of 1873, s. 34, cl. (c), para. 1.

114. The surrender, express or implied, of a lease of immoveable property does not prejudice an under-lease of the property or any part thereof previously granted by the lessee, on terms and conditions substantially the same (except as regards the amount of rent) as those of the original lease; but, unless the surrender is made for the purpose of obtaining a new lease, the rent payable by and the contracts binding on the under-lessee shall be respectively payable to and enforceable by the lessor.

Effect of surrender and forfeiture on under-leases.

10 W. R. 384 13 W. R. 281 N. W. P., 1871, p. 63.

The forfeiture of such a lease annuls all such under-leases, except where such forfeiture has been procured by the lessor in fraud of the under-lessees.

115. If a lessee or under-lessee of property remains in possession thereof after the determination of the lease, and the lessor or his legal representative accepts rent from the lessee or under-lessee, or otherwise assents to his continuing in possession, the lease is, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, renewed from year to year, or from month to month, according to the purpose for which the property is leased, as specified in section one hundred and seven.

116. None of the provisions of this chapter apply to leases for agricultural purposes, except in so far as the local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may by notification published in the official Gazette declare all or any of such provisions to be so applicable, together with, or subject to, those of the local law, if any, for the time being in force.

Such notification shall not take effect until the expiry of six months from the date of its publication.

A transfer of property in completion of an exchange can be made only in manner provided for the transfer of such property by sale.

Bill II, s. 22, cl. 2:

118. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the party deprived of the thing or part thereof he has received in exchange by reason of any defect in the title of the other party is entitled at his option to compensation or to the return of the thing transferred by him.

Right of party evicted from thing received in exchange.

Bill II, s. 23: Bill, s. 48, para. 2.

119. Save as otherwise provided in this chapter, each party has the rights and is subject to the liabilities of a seller as to that which he gives, and has the rights and is subject to the liabilities of a buyer as to that which he takes.

CHAPTER VII.

OF GIFTS.

121. "Gift" is the transfer of certain existing moveable or immoveable property made voluntarily and without consideration, by one person, called the donor, to another, called the donee, and accepted by or on behalf of the donee.

"Gift" defined.

Such acceptance must be made during the lifetime of the donor and while he is still capable of giving.

Acceptance when to be made.

L. C. 1681.

If the donee dies before acceptance, the gift is void.

Act III of 1877, s. 17, cl. (a).

122. For the purpose of making a gift of immoveable property, the transfer must be effected by registered assurance signed by or on behalf of the donor, and attested by at least two witnesses.

Transfer how effected.

For the purpose of making a gift of moveable property, the transfer may be effected either by a non-testamentary instrument [registered and] signed as aforesaid or by delivery.

Act IX of 1872, s. 90.

Such delivery may be made in the same way as goods sold may be delivered.

123. A gift comprising both existing and future property is void as to the latter.

124. A gift of a divisible thing to two or more donees, of whom one does not accept it, is void as to the interest which he would have taken had he accepted.

Gift to several, of whom one does not accept.

125. The donor and donee may agree that on the happening of any specified event which does not depend on the will of the donor a gift shall be suspended or revoked; but a gift which the parties agree shall be revocable wholly or in part at the mere will of the donor is void wholly or in part, as the case may be.

When gift may be suspended or revoked.

A gift may also be revoked in any of the cases (save want or failure of consideration) in which, if it were a contract, it might be rescinded.

Save as aforesaid, a gift cannot be revoked. 1 L. R., 2 All. 432.

Nothing contained in this section shall be deemed to affect the rights of transferees for consideration without notice.

(a). A gives a field to B, reserving to himself, with B's assent, the right to take back the field in case B and his descendants die before A. B dies without descendants in A's lifetime. A may take back the field.

(b). A gives a lákh of rupees to B, reserving to himself, with B's assent, the right to take back at pleasure Rs. 10,000 out of the lákh. The gift holds good as to Rs. 90,000, but is void as to Rs. 10,000, which continue to belong to A.

Act X of 1865, s. 109.

126. Where a gift is in the form of a single transfer to the same person of several things of which one is, and the others are not, burdened by an obligation, the donee can take nothing by the gift unless he accepts it fully.

Onerous gifts.

Act X of 1865, s. 110.

Where a gift is in the form of two or more separate and independent transfers to the same person of several things, the donee is at liberty to accept one of them and refuse the others, although the former may be beneficial and the latter onerous.

A donee not competent to contract and accepting property burdened by any obligation is not bound by his acceptance. But if, after becoming competent to contract and being aware of the obligation, he retains the property given, he becomes so bound.

Onerous gift to disqualified person.

Illustrations.

(a). A has shares in X, a prosperous joint stock company, and also shares in Y, a joint stock company in difficulties. Heavy calls are expected in respect of the shares in Y. A gives B all his shares in joint stock companies. B refuses to accept the shares in Y. He cannot take the shares in X.

(b). A, having a lease for a term of years of a house at a rent which he and his representatives are bound to pay during the term, and which is more than the house can be let for, gives to B the lease, and also, as a separate and independent transaction, a sum of money. B refuses to accept the lease. He does not by this refusal forfeit the money.

127. Subject to the provisions of section one hundred and twenty-six, where a gift consists of the donor's whole property, the donee is personally liable for all the debts due by the donor at the time of the gift to the extent of the property comprised therein.

Universal donee.

128. Nothing in this chapter relates to gifts of moveable property made in contemplation of death, or shall be deemed to affect any rule of Muhammadan law.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF TRANSFERS OF ACTIONABLE CLAIMS.

Actionable claim.

129. A claim is actionable when the civil Courts recognise it as a ground for relief, whether a suit for its enforcement is or is not actually pending or likely to become necessary.

(b). A has jewels deposited with B, a jeweller. A mortgages them to C. A then executes an instrument transferring them to D, who takes it to B, and gets the jewels from him before he, B, has received any notice of C's mortgage. Warranty of solvency of debtor.

133. Where the transferor of a debt warrants the solvency of the debtor, the warranty, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, applies only to his solvency at the time of the transfer, and is limited, where the transfer is made for consideration, to the amount or value of such consideration.

Note by D. Fitzpatrick, Esq., Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department, dated 22nd January, 1881, and enclosures [Papers No. 40].

2. We have carefully considered the alternative drafts proposed by Sir C. Turner and Mr. Justice West, but we cannot recommend either of them for adoption. Sir C. Turner's has the advantage of simplifying the measure in certain respects, but this advantage is gained by leaving it to the Courts to decide questions of great importance and difficulty at their mere discretion and without any rules to guide them.

3. We think that the Bill submitted to the Law Commission will answer its purposes, subject only to two alterations in substance, namely, the substitution of one simple rule for the several rules originally proposed for determining the manner in which newly formed land, to which it is admitted the riparian owners are entitled, should be distributed among them, and a modification of the definition of frontage.

4. As regards the former, it seems to us that the rules laid down by the Bill as last settled for deciding disputes between competing riparian owners and dividing the new land between them would be likely to give rise to difficulties in practice.

These rules are different for rivers on the one hand, and the sea and lakes on the other; and again, for islands, for land formed on the bank and for abandoned river-beds. These distinctions not only make the law more complicated, but, further, may give rise to questions for the solution of which that Bill does not altogether provide. Again, in some instances (sections 4 and 6), they merely postpone the evil day by leaving important difficulties to be disposed of by rules to be made hereafter by the Local Governments. Further, they greatly complicate the question by making its solution depend on the "thread of the stream," a line or combination of lines which it would often be hard to determine, and which might, when determined, turn out to be of a very irregular shape; and, as regards the particular matter of the normals to be drawn under sections 7 and 9, it appears that cases would sometimes present themselves in practice in which no such normals could be drawn.

5. To avoid these difficulties we propose to substitute for the original provisions of the Bill on this point, two rules which will cover all cases in which two or more riparian owners may be conceived to have claims to a new formation. The first of these rules is intended to apply to all cases in which new land is formed on a bank by imperceptible increments; the second to all other formations to which riparian owners may have a claim.

6. The former class of cases appears to us to be simple enough. We conceive that, when land is formed by imperceptible degrees on a portion of the bank belonging to a single proprietor, he should take that land in whatever direction and to whatever extent it may grow. It is only when the formation, or any portion of it, springs from a nucleus at the point of junction of two frontages that any question can arise, and we have (section 4) provided that in this case the dividing line shall be the bisector of the angle between the two frontages.

7. The cases to be dealt with by the second rule, on the contrary, may present every variety of complication, but we think they may be provided for by a rule which is capable of being simply expressed, which would generally be easy to apply, and about the application of which there would never be any serious difficulty, and which, moreover, would make as fair a division of the new land as can be hoped for in a class of cases for which, in the absence of anything in the way of a definite principle to guide us, we must be content with a somewhat rough-and-ready rule.

The rule we propose (section 6) is that each particle of the new formation shall belong to that one of the riparian owners who can show a point in his frontage nearest to it; provided that, when the line dividing the portion of the land to which one owner is entitled from the portion to which another is entitled is an arc of a curve, the chord of such arc shall be substituted for the arc. The dividing line given by this rule will be different according to the relative positions of the two competing frontages, but it will be one which it will be always easy to draw.

In ordinary cases it will be the bisector of the angle between the frontages, or, in the case of holdings on opposite sides of a river with parallel frontages, a line parallel to the frontages and equidistant from both; in others it will be the perpendicular erected at the middle point of the line connecting the extremities of the frontages; and in others, again, it will be the chord of a parabola. As this last line might at first sight be supposed to present some difficulty, we think it well to explain that the chord can be drawn without describing the parabola, and by a person altogether ignorant of the nature and properties of that curve. It is, in fact, simply the right line connecting two points which could be fixed by any patwárí or amín without the slightest difficulty. We may add, as regards the substitution of the chord for the arc in this case, that it not only simplifies the problem, but also makes what we believe, would, by most persons be considered a fairer division of the land.

8. Coming now to the definition of "frontage," it has been pointed out to us by Mr. Elliot that the original definition would, under the Bill as last settled, sometimes lead to anomalous results, as, for example, when a riparian holding extended completely round the concave face of a sharp curve in a river, in which case the frontage might approach within a few yards of the opposite bank or even cut off a considerable portion of it. These anomalies would be increased rather than diminished under the new rule for the division of the land now adopted, and we have accordingly been compelled to seek for a new definition.

The object of introducing the "frontage" is to substitute right lines for the irregularly shaped bank of the river, and thus to simplify the application of our rules: the defect of the original definition is that, in requiring a single right line to be substituted for the entire riparian boundary of each holding, the artificial riparian boundaries thus obtained in some cases deviate too widely from the real boundaries; and the remedy appears to be to declare that in such cases, instead of the single line, a series of two, or, if necessary, more, lines following more closely the real line of the bank shall be adopted. For this we have attempted to provide in the directions given in schedule II for drawing a frontage.

9. We have struck out the definition of "owner," as we think that the Courts may be trusted to determine who in a given case is the riparian proprietor, and we have also omitted the definitions of "thread of the stream," as the expression does not occur in the body of the Bill as now settled.

10. We think that the Bill should save local customs not only in the Panjáb but in all other territories to which it is to apply. We have accordingly excluded the section effecting this saving to the whole of British India; but we have omitted the proviso annexed to it in the Bill, as settled by the Select Committee in March, 1879, as the matter to which it relates is one falling outside the scope of the present Bill.

11. The Bill, No. II, together with the Preliminary Report of the Select Committee, has been published in English in Bombay, the North-Western Provinces, the Panjáb, the Central Provinces and British Burma, and in vernacular in Bombay, the Panjáb and the Central Provinces. We do not propose that any further step should be taken in respect to the Bill until it has been published in the Gazette and circulated to Local Governments with a view to obtaining opinions on it in its new form. It must also, by order of the Secretary of State, be re-translated into the Native languages and sent home to him for consideration. In fact, having regard to the complication and difficulty of the subject, we should prefer to have our present proposals treated as suggestions thrown out for discussion rather than as furnishing a final solution of the questions at issue.

The 11th March, 1881.

Interpretation-clause. 3. In this Act—

W. R. 231: 4 W. R. 41: 4 W. R. 352. "island" means land surrounded by water and capable of being employed for cultivation, pasture or other useful purpose. It includes such land arising in a river or lake, submerged in the wet season and visible only in the dry season; but it excludes land arising in tidal rivers, tidal lakes or the sea, submerged by the flow of ordinary tides throughout the year:

"frontage" used with reference to a holding means the line or lines determined for such holding in the manner prescribed in the second schedule hereto annexed:

3 W. R. 95: 6 Ben. 348. and a channel is said to be "fordable" when it does not exceed five feet in depth in the dry season next after the formation referred to and throughout the twenty-four hours.

II.—Alluvial Land and Abandoned River-beds.

4. Where from natural causes land is formed, by imperceptible degrees, on the bank or shore of a river, the sea or a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, sea or lake, the owner of the bank or shore is entitled to the land so formed.

Right to alluvial land formed on bank or shore.

When the formation takes place at the junction of two holdings, each owner shall be entitled to so much of the formation as lies on his side of a line drawn through the point of junction and bisecting the angle between the two frontages at that point.

Ben. Act IV of 1868, s. 4. 5. Where an island is formed, from natural causes, in a river, the sea or a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, sea or lake, if the island is separated from each bank or shore by a channel not fordable at any point, the Government is entitled to such island.

Right to islands where neither channel is fordable.

6. Where an island is formed from natural causes in a river, the sea or a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, sea or lake, and is separated from the bank or banks by a fordable channel or fordable channels:

Islands where one or both channels fordable.

and where from natural causes any land is formed, otherwise than by imperceptible degrees, on the bank of a river, the sea or a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, sea or lake, and where a river suddenly abandons its bed, each particle of the island or land so formed, or the river-bed so abandoned, shall belong to that one of the riparian owners who can show a point on the frontage of his holding nearest to such particle: Suth. W. R. 1864, p. 103.

Land formed by perceptible degrees.

Provided that when the channel separating an island so formed in a river from one bank is fordable and the channel separating such island from the other bank is not fordable, the owners of the former bank shall alone be entitled as such to the island:

Provided also that when the line dividing the formation to which one owner is entitled under this section from the formation to which another owner is entitled under this section is an arc of a curve, the chord of such arc shall be substituted therefor.

III.—Miscellaneous.

Power to declare where tidal rivers end. 7. The Local Government may, from time to time, declare, with reference to any tidal river, where, for the purposes of this Act, the river shall be deemed to end and the sea to begin.

Every declaration made under this section shall be published in the official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law. And no such declaration shall be cancelled or altered save with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

to land formed on a site which is proved to belong to the Government or such owner, or

When officer in charge of Police-station may require another to issue search-warrant.

Such officer, on being so required, shall proceed according to the provisions of section 166, and shall forward the thing found, if any, to the officer at whose request the search was made, unless the place at which such thing is found is in a different District, and is nearer to the Magistrate having jurisdiction in such place than to the station of which the latter officer is in charge. In such case the thing shall be taken before such Magistrate, who, unless there be good cause to the contrary, shall order such thing to be forwarded to such officer.

Act X, 1872, s. 124, paras. 2, 3 and 4.

168. Whenever it appears that any investigation under this chapter cannot be completed within the period of twenty-four hours fixed by section 61, and there are grounds for believing that the accusation is well-founded, the officer in charge of the Police-station shall transmit to the nearest Magistrate a copy of the entries in the diary hereinafter prescribed relating to the case, and shall at the same time forward the accused to such Magistrate, unless, for reasons to be recorded by such officer, he thinks that the accused should not be so forwarded.

Act X, 1872, s. 125.

170. If, upon an investigation under this chapter, it appears to the officer in charge of the Police-station that there is not sufficient evidence or reasonable ground of suspicion to justify the forwarding of the accused to a Magistrate, such officer shall, if such person is in custody, release him on his executing a bond, with or without sureties, as such officer may direct, to appear, if and when so required, before a Magistrate having jurisdiction to take cognizance of the offence on a police report.

When the officer in charge of a Police-station forwards an accused person to a Magistrate or takes security for his appearance before such Magistrate under this section, he shall send to such Magistrate any weapon or other article which it may be necessary to produce before him, and shall require the complainant, if any, and so many of the persons who appear to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case as may be necessary, to execute a bond to appear before the Magistrate and prosecute or give evidence (as the case may be) in the matter of the charge against the accused.

If the Court of the District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate be mentioned in the bond, it shall be held to include any Court to which such Magistrate may refer the case for inquiry or trial, provided notice of such reference be given to such complainant or witness.

The day fixed under this section shall be the day whereon the accused person is to appear, if security for his appearance has been taken, or the day on which he may be expected to arrive at the Court of the Magistrate, if he is to be forwarded in custody.

The officer in whose presence the bond is executed shall deliver a copy thereof to one of the persons who executed it, and shall then send to the Magistrate the original with his report.

Diary of proceedings in investigation.

Any Criminal Court may send for the police-diaries of a case under inquiry or trial in such Court, and may use such diaries to aid it in such inquiry or trial. Neither the accused nor his agents shall be entitled to call for them, nor shall he or they be entitled to see them merely because they are referred to by the Court; but if they are used by the Police-officer who made them to refresh his memory, or if the Court uses them for the purpose of contradicting such Police-officer, the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, sections 145 and 161, shall apply.

Act X, 1872, ss. 125, 127, paras. 1 & 2.

Provided also that if the Magistrate thinks that any witness is included in the list for the purpose of vexation or delay, or of defeating the ends of justice, the Magistrate may require the accused to satisfy him that there are reasonable grounds for believing that such witness is material, and if he is not so satisfied, may refuse to summon the witness, or before summoning him require such sum to be deposited as such Magistrate thinks necessary to defray the expense of obtaining the attendance of the witness.

Charge, &c., to be forwarded to High Court or Court of Session.

Act X, 1872, s. 198, para. 4.

When the commitment is made to the High Court and any part of the record is not in English, an English translation of such part shall be forwarded with the record.

Act X, 1872, s. 357, para. 2.

Act IV, 1877, s. 91, para. 4.

220. The Magistrate may summon and examine supplementary witnesses after the commitment and before the commencement of the trial, and bind them over in manner hereinbefore provided to appear and give evidence.

CHAPTER XIX.

Of the Charge.

Form of Charges.

See s. 565, infra.

Act X, 1872, s. 339, paras. 1 to 5.

Act IV, 1877, s. 94.

222. Every charge under this Code shall state the offence with which the accused is charged.

Charge to state offence.

If the law which creates the offence gives it any specific name, the offence may be described in the charge by that name only.

Specific name of offence sufficient description.

If the law which creates the offence does not give it any specific name, so much of the definition of the offence must be stated as to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

How stated where offence has no specific name.

The law and section of the law against which the offence is said to have been committed shall be mentioned in the charge.

The fact that the charge is made is equivalent to a statement that every legal condition required by law to constitute the offence charged was fulfilled in the particular case.

What implied in charges.

In the Presidency-towns the charge shall be written in English; elsewhere it shall be written either in English or in the language of the Court.

Language of charge.

If the accused has been previously convicted of any offence, and it is intended to prove such previous conviction for the purpose of affecting the punishment which the Court is competent to award, the fact of the previous conviction must be stated in the charge. If such statement is omitted, the Court may add it at any time before sentence is passed.

Previous conviction when to be set out.

Act X, 1872, s. 439, Illustrations.

Act IV, 1877, s. 94, Illustrations.

This is equivalent to a statement that A's act fell within the definition of murder given in sections 299 and 300 of the Indian Penal Code; that it did not fall within any of the general exceptions of the same Code; and that it did not fall within any of the three exceptions to section 300; or that, if it did fall within Exception 1, one or other of the three provisos to that exception applied to it.

(b) A is charged, under section 326 of the Indian Penal Code, with voluntarily causing grievous hurt to B, by means of an instrument for shooting. This is equivalent to a statement that the case was not provided for by section 335 of the Indian Penal Code, and that the general exceptions did not apply to it.

(c) A is accused of murder, cheating, theft, extortion, adultery or criminal intimidation, or using a false property-mark. The charge may state that A committed murder, or cheating, or theft, or extortion, or adultery, or criminal intimidation, or that he used a false property-mark, without reference to the definitions of those crimes contained in the Indian Penal Code; but the sections under which the offence is punishable must in each instance, be referred to in the charge.

(d) A is charged, under section 184 of the Indian Penal Code, with intentionally obstructing a sale of property offered for sale by the lawful authority of a public servant. The charge should be in those words.

Act X, 1872, s. 440.

Act IV, 1877, s. 95.

223. The charge shall contain such particulars as to the time and place of the alleged offence, and the person (if any) against whom, or the thing (if any) in respect of which, it was committed, as are reasonably sufficient to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

Particulars as to time, place and person.

Act X, 1872, s. 441.

Act IV, 1877, s. 96.

224. When the nature of the case is such that the particulars mentioned in sections 222 and 223 do not give the accused sufficient notice of the matter with which he is charged, the charge shall also contain such particulars of the manner in which the alleged offence was committed as will be sufficient for that purpose.

When manner of committing offence must be stated.

Illustrations.

(a) A is accused of the theft of a certain article at a certain time and place. The charge need not set out the manner in which the theft was effected.

(b) A is accused of cheating B at a given time and place. The charge must set out the manner in which A cheated B.

(c) A is accused of giving false evidence at a given time and place. The charge must set out that portion of the evidence given by A which is alleged to be false.

(d) A is accused of obstructing B, a public servant, in discharge of his public functions at a given time and place. The charge must set out the manner in which A obstructed B in the discharge of his functions.

(e) A is accused of the murder of B at a given time and place. The charge need not state the manner in which A murdered B.

(f) A is accused of disobeying a direction of the law with intent to save B from punishment. The charge must set out the disobedience charged and the law infringed.

Act XVIII, 1862, s.82.

225. In every charge words used in describing an offence shall be deemed to have been used in the sense attached to them respectively by the law under which such offence is punishable.

Words in charge taken in sense of law under which offence is punishable.

Act X, 1872, s. 443.

Act X, 1875, s. 24.

Act IV, 1877, s. 98.

226. No error in stating either the offence or the particulars required to be stated in the charge, and no omission to state the offence or those particulars, shall be regarded at any stage of the case as material, unless the accused was misled by such error or omission.

Effect of errors.

Illustrations.

(a) A is charged, under section 242 of the Indian Penal Code, with "having been in possession of counterfeit coin, having known at the time when he became possessed thereof that such coin was counterfeit," the word "fraudulently" being omitted in the charge. Unless it appears that A was in fact misled by this omission, the error shall not be regarded as material.

(b) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge, or is set out incorrectly. A defends himself, calls witnesses, and gives his own account of the transaction. The Court may infer from this that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating is not material.

(c) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge. There were many transactions between A and B, and A had no means of knowing to which of them the charge referred, and offered no defence. The Court may infer from such facts that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating was, in this case, a material error.

(d) A is charged with the murder of Khoda Baksh on the 21st January. In fact, the murdered person's name was Haidar Baksh, and the date of the murder was the 20th January. A was never charged with any murder but one, and had heard the inquiry before the Magistrate which referred exclusively to the murder of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from these facts that A was not misled, and that the error in the charge was immaterial.

(e) A was charged with murdering Haidar Baksh on the 20th January and Khoda Baksh (who had tried to arrest him for that murder) on the 21st January. He was charged for the murder of Haidar Baksh, he was tried for the murder of Khoda Baksh. The witnesses present in his defence were witnesses in the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from this that A was misled, and that the error was material.

Act X, 1872, s. 448.

227. When any person is committed for trial without a charge, or with an imperfect or erroneous charge, the Court, or, in the case of a High Court, the Clerk of the Crown, may frame a charge, or add to or otherwise alter the charge, as the case may be, having regard to the rules contained in this Code as to the form of charges.

Procedure on commitment without charge or with imperfect charge.

Act X, 1872, ss. 444, 445.

Act X, 1875, ss. 9, 10.

Act IV, 1877, ss. 99, 100.

228. Any Court may alter any charge at any time before judgment is pronounced, or, in the case of trials before the Court of Session or High Court, before the verdict of the jury is returned or the opinions of the assessors are expressed.

Court may alter charge.

Every such alteration shall be read and explained to the accused.

Act X, 1872, s. 447.

Act X, 1875, s. 11.

Act IV, 1877, s. 101.

229. If the charge framed or alteration made under either of the two last preceding sections is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is not likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused in his defence or the prosecutor in the conduct of the case, the Court may in its discretion, after such charge or alteration has been framed or made, proceed with the trial as if the new or altered charge had been the original charge.

When trial may proceed immediately after alteration.

Act X, 1872, s. 448.

Act X, 1875, s. 12.

Act IV, 1877, s. 102.

230. If the new or altered charge is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused or the prosecutor as aforesaid, the Court may either direct a new trial or adjourn the trial for such period as may be necessary.

When new trial may be directed, or trial suspended.

Act X, 1872, s. 450.

Act X, 1875, s. 13.

Act IV, 1877, s. 103.

231. If the offence stated in the new or altered charge is one for the prosecution of which previous sanction is necessary, the case shall not be proceeded with until such sanction is obtained, unless sanction has been already obtained for a prosecution on the same facts as those on which the altered charge is founded.

Stay of proceedings if prosecution of offence in altered charge require previous sanction.

Act X, 1875, s. 14.

Act IV, 1877, s. 104.

232. Whenever a charge is altered by the Court after the commencement of the trial, the prosecutor and the accused shall be allowed to recall or re-summon, and examine with reference to such alteration, any witness who may have been examined.

Recall of witnesses when charge altered.

Act X, 1872, s. 449.

Act X, 1875, s. 15, omitting 'during the trial'.

Act IV, 1877, s. 105.

233. If any Appellate Court, or the High Court in the exercise of its powers of revision or of its powers under Chapter XXVII, is of opinion that any person convicted of an offence was misled in his defence by the absence of a charge or by an error in the charge, it shall direct a new trial to be had upon a charge framed in whatever manner it thinks fit.

Effect of material error.

Act X, 1872, s. 451.

If the Court is of opinion that the facts of the case are such that no valid charge could be preferred against the accused in respect of the facts proved, it shall quash the conviction.

Illustration.

Act XI, 1874, s. 40. A is convicted of an offence under section 196 of the Indian Penal Code, upon a charge which omits to state that he knew the evidence which he corruptly used or attempted to use as true or genuine was false or fabricated. If the Court thinks it probable that A had such knowledge, and that he was misled in his defence by the omission from the charge of the statement that he had it, it shall direct a new trial upon an amended charge; but if it appears probable from the proceedings that A had no such knowledge, it shall quash the conviction.

Joinder of Charges.

Act X, 1872, s. 452. Act X, 1875, s. 17. Act IV, 1877, s. 105.

234. There must be a separate charge for every distinct offence of which any person is accused, and every such charge must be tried separately, except in the cases mentioned in sections 235, 236, 237 and 240.

Separate charges for distinct offences.

236. I.—If, in one series of acts so connected together as to form the same transaction, more offences than one are committed by the same person, he may be charged with, and tried at one trial for, every such offence.

I.—Trial of more than one offence.

II.—If the acts alleged constitute an offence falling within two or more separate definitions of any law in force for the time being by which offences are defined or punished, the person accused of them may be charged with and tried at one trial for each of such offences.

II.—One offence falling within two definitions.

III.—If several acts, of which one or more than one would by itself constitute an offence, form, when combined, a different offence, the person accused of them may be charged with and tried at one trial for every such offence, or any of such different offences.

Where it is doubtful what offence has been committed.

238. If, in the case mentioned in section 237, the accused is charged with one offence, and it appears in evidence that he committed a different offence for which he might have been charged under the provisions of that section, he may be convicted of the offence which he is shown to have committed, although he was not charged with it.

When a person is charged with one offence, he can be convicted of another.

242. The following procedure shall be observed by Magistrates in the trial of summons-cases.

F.—Conclusion of Trial in Cases tried by Jury.

Act X, 1872, s. 255, para. 1. Act X, 1875, s. 90.

298. In cases tried by jury, when the case for the defence, and the prosecutor's reply, if any, are concluded, the Court shall proceed to charge the jury, summing up the evidence for the prosecution and defence, and laying down the law by which the jury are to be guided.

Charge to jury.

Act X, 1872, s. 256. Act X, 1875, s. 91.

299. In such cases, it is the duty of the Judge—

Duty of Judge.

(a) to decide all questions of law, and especially all questions as to the relevancy of facts which it is proposed to prove, the admissibility of evidence or the propriety of questions asked by or on behalf of the parties which may arise in the course of the trial, and, in his discretion, to prevent the production of inadmissible evidence, whether it is or is not objected to by the parties;

(b) to decide upon the meaning and construction of all documents given in evidence at the trial;

(c) to decide upon all matters of fact which it may be necessary to prove in order to enable evidence of particular matters to be given;

(d) to decide whether any question which arises is for himself or for the jury, and upon this point his decision shall be final.

The Judge may, if he thinks proper, in the course of his summing up, express to the jury his opinion upon any question of fact, or upon any question of mixed law and fact, relevant to the proceeding.

Illustrations.

(a) It is proposed to prove a statement made by a person not called as a witness under circumstances which render evidence of his statement admissible.

It is for the Judge, and not for the jury, to decide whether the existence of those circumstances has been proved.

(b) It is proposed to give secondary evidence of a document the original of which is alleged to have been lost or destroyed.

It is the duty of the Judge to decide whether the original has been lost or destroyed.

Act X, 1872, s. 257. Act X, 1875, s. 68.

300. It is the duty of the jury—

Duty of jury.

(a) to decide which view of the facts is true, and then to return the verdict which under such view ought, according to the direction of the Judge, to be returned;

(b) to determine the meaning of all technical terms (other than terms of law) and words used in an unusual sense which it may be necessary to determine, whether such words occur in documents or not;

(c) to decide all questions which according to law are to be deemed questions of fact;

(d) to decide whether general indefinite expressions do or do not apply to particular cases, unless such expressions refer to legal procedure, or unless their meaning is ascertained by law, in either of which cases it is the duty of the Judge to decide their meaning.

Illustrations.

It is the duty of the Judge to explain to the jury the distinction between murder and culpable homicide, and to tell them under what views of the facts A ought to be convicted of murder, or of culpable homicide, or to be acquitted.

It is the duty of the jury to decide which view of the facts is true, and to return a verdict in accordance with the direction of the Judge, whether that direction is right or wrong, and whether they do or do not agree with it.

(b) The question is whether a person entertained a reasonable belief on a particular point,—whether work was done with reasonable skill or due diligence.

Each of these is a question for the jury.

Act X, 1872, s. 258, para. 1. Act X, 1875, s. 93.

301. In cases tried by jury, after the Judge has finished his charge, the jury may retire to consider their verdict.

Retirement to consider.

Except with the leave of the Court, no person other than a juror shall speak to, or hold any communication with, any member of such jury.

Act X, 1872, s. 263, para. 1. Act X, 1875, s. 94.

302. When the jury have considered their verdict, the foreman shall inform the Judge what is their verdict, or what is the verdict of a majority.

Delivery of verdict.

Act X, 1872, s. 263, para. 2. Act X, 1875, s. 96. I. L. R., 5 Calc., 331 (where the jury are unanimous).

303. If the jury are not unanimous, the Judge may require them to retire for further consideration. After such a period as the Judge considers reasonable, the jury may deliver their verdict, although they are not unanimous.

Procedure where jury differ.

Act X, 1872, s. 263, para. 2. Act X, 1875, s. 95.

304. Unless otherwise ordered by the Court, the jury shall return a verdict on all the charges on which the accused is tried, and the Judge may ask them such questions as are necessary to ascertain what their verdict is.

Verdict to be given on each charge. Judge may question jury.

Act X, 1872, s. 263, para. 3, last sentence. New. Deare, C. C. 329.

Such questions and the answers to them shall be recorded.

Questions and answers to be recorded.

Act X, 1872, ss. 97, 98.

305. When by accident or mistake a wrong verdict is delivered, the jury may, before or immediately after it is recorded, amend the verdict, and it shall stand as ultimately amended.

Amending verdict.

306. When in a case tried before a High Court the jury are unanimous in their opinion, or when as many as six are of one opinion and the Judge agrees with them, the Judge shall give judgment in accordance with such opinion.

Verdict in High Court when to prevail.

When in any such case the jury are satisfied that they will not be unanimous, but six of them are of one opinion, the foreman shall so inform the Judge.

If the Judge disagrees with the majority, he shall at once discharge the jury.

Discharge of jury in other cases.

If there are not so many as six who agree in opinion, the Judge shall, after the lapse of such time as he thinks reasonable, discharge the jury.

Act X, 1872, s. 263, para. 4.

307. When in a case tried before the Court of Session the Judge does not think it necessary to express disagreement with the verdict of the jurors or of a majority of the jurors, he shall give judgment accordingly.

Verdict in Sessions Court when to prevail.

Act XI, 1874, s. 21.

If the accused is acquitted, the Judge shall record judgment of acquittal. If the accused is convicted, the Judge shall pass sentence on him according to law.

Act X, 1872, s. 263, para. 5 and 6. Act XI, 1874, s. 21. I. L. R., 2 Bom., 10. The Queen v. Nana, I. L. R., 2 Bom., 396, considered.

308. If in any such case the Judge disagrees with the verdict of the jurors, or of a majority of the jurors, on all or any of the charges on which the accused has been tried, so completely that he considers it necessary for the ends of justice to submit the case to the High Court, he shall submit the case accordingly, recording the grounds of his opinion and, when the verdict is one of acquittal, stating the offence which he considers to have been committed.

I. L. R., 3 Calc., 623.

Whenever the Judge submits a case under this section, he shall not record judgment of acquittal or of conviction on any of the charges on which the accused has been tried, but he may either remand the accused to custody, or admit him to bail.

See Markby, J., in I. L. R., 3 Calc., 192.

In dealing with the case so submitted the High Court may exercise any of the powers which it may exercise on an appeal; but it may acquit or convict the accused of any offence of which the jury could have convicted him upon the charge framed and placed before it; and if it convict him, may pass such sentence as might have been passed by the Court of Session.

G.—Re-trial of Accused after Discharge of Jury.

Act X, 1875, s. 100.

309. Whenever the jury is discharged, the accused shall be detained in custody or on bail (as the case may be), and shall be tried by another jury, unless the Judge considers that he should not be re-tried, in which case the Judge shall make an entry to that effect on the charge, and such entry shall operate as an acquittal.

Re-trial of accused after discharge of jury.

H.—Conclusion of Trial in Cases tried with Assessors.

Act X, 1872, ss. 255, para. 1, 261, 262.

310. When in a case tried with the aid of assessors, the case for the defence and the prosecutor's reply (if any) are concluded, the Court shall require each of the assessors to state his opinion orally, and shall record such opinion.

The Judge shall then give judgment; but in doing so shall not be bound to conform to the opinion of the assessors.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

No less than three Codes of Criminal Procedure are now in operation in British India: Act X of 1872, amended by Act XI of 1874, which is in force throughout the Mufassal; the High Courts' Act, X of 1875, which is in force in the Presidency-towns, Allahabad and Lahore; and the Presidency Magistrates' Act, IV of 1877, also in force in the Presidency-towns.

Many of the provisions of these Codes merely repeat one another; many of their rules, though dealing with the same subjects, unnecessarily vary in language; and the result is that the bulk of the Indian Statute-book is far greater than need be and that the Courts when construing one Code are often deprived of the guidance of prior decisions on another.

The primary object of this Bill, which has been framed at the suggestion of the Secretary of State, is to recast the Code of 1872, combining with it the substance of the High Courts' Act and the Presidency Magistrates' Act, and incorporating in it the numerous reported decisions on its wording, and thus at last give to India a single and complete Code of Criminal Procedure, and carry out, so far, the policy of providing a simple and uniform system of law for this country. The language and arrangement of Act X of 1872 have, for obvious reasons, been departed from only so far as is necessary for the main purpose of the Bill.

2. Though many of the outlying Acts and Regulations dealing with Criminal Procedure were repealed and re-enacted by Act X of 1872, many more are still untouched, and the secondary object of the present Bill is to consolidate these enactments, which are twelve in number:—

Acts.

XXIII of 1840 (Execution of process).
XXXIV of 1850 (State-Prisoners).
III of 1858 (State Prisoners).
V of 1861, sections 6, 24, 37 to 40 inclusive, part of section 35 (Police).
XVIII of 1862 (Administration of Criminal Justice in the High Courts).
II of 1869 (Justices of the Peace).
XXII of 1870, sections 2 and 4 (Application to European British subjects of Acts giving summary jurisdiction).
XXI of 1870, Chapter III (Inquiries in British India into crimes committed abroad by British subjects).

Regulations.

Bengal Regulation III, 1818 (State-Prisoners).
Bengal Regulation XX, 1825 (Jurisdiction of Courts Martial).
Madras Regulation II, 1819 (State-Prisoners).
Bombay Regulation XXV, 1827 (State-Prisoners).

3. The result of consolidating the Acts and Regulations above specified will be to substitute a single Act of 568 sections for fifteen enactments containing 1,055 unrepealed sections.

4. The present Bill is divided into nine Parts, the first containing the usual preliminary matter; the second dealing with the constitution and powers of the Criminal Courts and offices; the third containing some general provisions; the fourth treating of the prevention of offences; the fifth, of information to the Police and of their powers to investigate; the sixth, of proceedings in prosecutions; the seventh, of appeal, reference and revision; the eighth, of special proceedings; the ninth, of supplementary provisions.

I.—Preliminary.

5. Part I consists of a single chapter containing the usual preliminary matter. The wording of some of the definitions in Act X of 1872 has been amended, and definitions of 'to sign,' 'public prosecutor,' 'pleader,' 'offence,' 'chapter,' 'schedule,' 'place,' and 'police-station' have been added. The definition of 'complaint' has been amended so as to exclude the report of a Police-officer and information given to a Police-officer; and the definition of 'investigation' has been extended so as to comprise the proceedings of persons authorized by a Magistrate under section 160 or 203 to make local investigations. The definition of 'cognizable offence' has been amended so as to connect it with the second schedule. A clause has been added to the definition of 'High Court' so as to enable the Governor General in Council to appoint in outlying territories where no such Court is established by law, an officer to perform its functions under the Code. Words such as 'special law,' 'local law,' defined in the Penal Code will have the meanings attached to them respectively by that Code. On the other hand, the definitions of 'inquired into,' 'trial,' 'Magistrate's case,' have been omitted as not needed in the Code in its revised form.

II.—Criminal Courts.

6. Part II (constitution and powers of the Criminal Courts and offices) consists of two chapters, of which the first deals (a) with the classes of Criminal Courts, (b) with territorial divisions, (c) with Courts outside the Presidency-towns, (d) with the Courts of the Presidency Magistrates, (e) with Justices of the Peace and (f) with the suspension and removal of Judges, Magistrates and Justices of the Peace. The provisions of the Police Act (V of 1861), section 6, have been incorporated in this chapter, section 14. The Local Government has been empowered (section 16) to make rules for the guidance of Magistrates' Benches. This will result in uniformity of practice wherever such uniformity is desirable. Assistant Sessions Judges have been declared (section 17) subordinate to the Sessions Judge in whose Court they exercise jurisdiction. This will preclude a doubt which has been raised on the subject.

The second chapter treats of the powers of Judges and Magistrates, the description of offences cognizable by each Court, the sentences which may be passed by Courts of various classes, and the mode of conferring powers on the latter. The changes of the law here made are little more than verbal, save in the following cases. Magistrates of the first class are forbidden (section 29) to try offences under special or local laws which are punishable with imprisonment for more than seven years: such grave cases should be tried by a higher Court. All Magistrates of the first and second classes, and all Magistrates of the third class when specially empowered, are to have the powers of an officer in charge of a Police-station (section 38). It is desirable that the police powers which Magistrates can exercise in investigating offences should be clearly defined. In section 40 (= Act X of 1872, section 56), as to the continuance of powers of an officer transferred to another local area, words have been introduced to shew that powers conferred by one Local Government do not accompany an officer, when he is transferred to a province under another Local Government.

In connection with section 33, as to power to sentence to imprisonment in default of payment of fine, it will be necessary to pass simultaneously with the Bill a short Act amending section 67 of the Penal Code, by inserting a declaration that such imprisonment shall be simple.

Section 35 declares, in accordance with a decision of the Bombay High Court, that, for the purpose of confirmation or appeal, a combined sentence, in case of simultaneous convictions for several offences, shall be deemed to be a single sentence.

III.—General Provisions.

7. Part III contains certain general provisions which it seems convenient to group together and which, to avoid further enactments, should stand near the beginning of the Code. They relate to the following matters: [illegible] making arrests: arrests, escape and [illegible] tion of documents, and processes for the [illegible]. Here again the changes in the law are little more than verbal. But to the offences which the public are bound to assist in preventing, have been added (section 42) attempts to injure public property, railways and canals: the public (section 42) must assist in cases of fire dangerous to human life or valuable property: the section (45) requiring village-headmen, &c., to report, has, for obvious reasons, been extended to escaped convicts and proclaimed offenders, and (to provide for villages in hill-passes through which bands of dacoits habitually proceed), also to cases where the criminal merely goes through the village: the section (46) authorizing, in the case of forcible resistance, the use of necessary means to effect arrests, has been extended to meet the case of attempts to evade them: power has been given (section 49) to break open the doors of a house for the purpose of liberating persons who have lawfully entered for the purpose of making arrests therein: persons making arrests have been expressly empowered (section 53) to take from the person arrested any offensive weapons which he may have about him: the police have been authorized (section 54) to arrest, without warrant, deserters from the Navy; and sections (66, 67) equivalent to Act XXV of 1861, section 112, have been inserted to provide for the retaking of persons escaping or rescued from lawful custody.

The wording of section 178 of the present Code, which empowers the police to use "all means necessary to effect the arrest" of a person forcibly resisting or attempting to escape, appears dangerously wide. The Bill accordingly explains that this power does not give the right to cause the death of an arrested person who is not accused of a capital offence. The Bill here follows the law of Scotland, which, in Mr. Mayne's opinion, is in India the safer rule.

8. Under the present Code (Act X of 1872, section 153), summonses issued by Magistrates are ordinarily served "through a Police-officer:" the Bill (section 68) provides that (subject to rules to be made by the Local Government) they may also be served by an officer of the Court. Provision is made (sections 73, 74) for the service of a summons outside the local jurisdiction of the Magistrate who issues it, and for the proof of such service.

9. Section 75 requires that all warrants of arrest, whether issued in the Presidency-towns or the Mufassal, shall be sealed. Act IV of 1877, section 56, does not in such cases require a seal. Warrants of arrest issued by a Bench of Magistrates may be signed by any member of the Bench. This will legalise what probably is the practice at present.

Sub-divisional Magistrates have been empowered (section 78) to direct warrants to landholders, &c., for the arrest of escaped convicts. This extension is in harmony with the large powers generally possessed by Magistrates in charge of sub-divisions.

10. Section 88 clears up a doubt as to the commencement of the period provided in the corresponding section (171) of Act X of 1872, for the appearance of a person absconding against whom a warrant has been issued.

11. On the other hand, the power to arrest without warrant persons against whom a hue and cry has been raised is omitted, as that obsolete common-law process is unknown in India; and the section authorizing masters and mates to arrest deserters from ships is omitted, as the matter is sufficiently provided for by the Merchant Shipping Act.

12. The present Code does not provide how attachment of debts and other moveable property is to be effected. Provision has, therefore, been made (section 89) for this purpose; and the powers, duties and liabilities of receivers have been declared by reference to the Code of Civil Procedure.

13. A person required merely to produce a document will (as under the Civil Procedure Code, section 164) be deemed to have complied with the requisition, if he causes the document to be produced instead of attending personally to produce it (section 95).

14. Section 99 of the Bill has been retained pending the opinion of Local Governments as to the expediency of its retention. It seems to be rendered superfluous by section 97.

Provision is made (section 104) for making a list (signed by witnesses) of things found in execution of a search-warrant beyond the jurisdiction of the Court issuing it. It is believed that the necessity of obtaining the signature of the witnesses will be of use as a check upon the irregularities which, it is said, sometimes occur in the course of searches. Criticism of this proposed change in the law is solicited.

15. A clause (section 101) has been inserted giving Presidency Magistrates, Magistrates of the first class, and Sub-divisional Magistrates, power to issue warrants to search for persons wrongfully confined. No such power, though needed, is supposed to exist in India, except, of course, in the Presidency-towns, where the High Courts issue, under Act X of 1875, directions of the nature of a habeas corpus.

IV.—Prevention of Offences.

16. Part IV, which relates to the prevention of offences, comes, it is considered, properly before Part VI, which relates to their prosecution. It comprises six chapters dealing respectively with security for keeping the peace and for good behaviour; the dispersion of unlawful assemblies; suppression of nuisances; disputes as to immoveable property; and, lastly, the preventive action of the Police.

17. In the chapter relating to security for keeping the peace, and for good behaviour, the section (107) dealing with security for keeping the peace on conviction has been extended to cases in which the accused is convicted of criminal intimidation by threatening injury to person or property. This is an offence of the same nature as taking unlawful measures with the intention of committing a breach of the peace, and should, therefore, as regards the taking of security, be placed on the same footing. When the conviction is set aside on appeal or otherwise, the bond will become void. On this the present law is silent.

In section 111 (=sections 505, 506 of the present Code) the words which give the Magistrate power to demand security from persons of notoriously bad livelihood or of a "dangerous character" have been omitted. It has been objected that these words are vague, and that the powers which they place in the hands of the police are liable to great abuse.

The Magistrate is empowered (section 118) to make an order as to the character and class of the sureties required. This, it is hoped, will prevent certain persons making a trade of becoming sureties. The object of the law (as will be seen from section 399 of the present Code) is not merely to provide a money-security, but also to obtain respectable persons as guarantees for the good behaviour of the criminal concerned.

For the purposes of the section (118) as to enquiring into the truth of the information upon which a Magistrate has acted under this chapter, the fact that a person is an habitual offender may be proved by evidence of general repute.

The Bill contains no provision corresponding to sections 499 of the present Code and 211 of the Presidency Magistrates' Act. If, before the expiration of the term of the original bond, it appears to the Magistrate unsafe to release the obligor at the end of that term, in justice to the obligor fresh proceedings should be instituted.

Some change has been made (section 118) in the manner of conducting inquiries regarding security for good behaviour. They will under the Bill be made as in warrant-cases, instead of as in summons-cases, which is now the practice. Where the person who would otherwise be ordered to give security is a minor, the bond (section 119) will be executed only by his sureties. It has been made clear in section 127 that a Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate, and Magistrate of the first class can cancel a bond on the application of a surety. Sub-divisional Magistrates are empowered (section 110) to require security for good behaviour.

18. In the chapter (IX) on dispersion of unlawful assemblies, volunteers enrolled under the Indian Volunteers Act, 1869, are placed on the same footing as soldiers of Her Majesty's Army.

19. In Chapter X, section 134 has been extended to cases of keeping goods or merchandise injurious to the public health, and of carrying on occupations offensive to the religious feelings of any considerable section of the community. Criticism is invited on the latter alteration, which is intended to meet such cases as that of a butcher exercising his trade in a Hindú town, so as to cause risk of breach of the peace.

The power conferred by section 518 of the present Code is intended to be exercised only in urgent cases where a speedy remedy is desirable. The Bill (section 145) provides that no orders under Chapter XI shall remain in force for more than two months, unless in case of danger to human life, health or safety, or a riot or affray, the Local Government directs otherwise. Where time allows the procedure must be under Chapter X.

20. Chapter XII, on disputes as to immoveable property, has been expressly restricted to cases in which the dispute is as to the right to physical possession.

Doubts have been raised as to whether the report of the person deputed (under section 149) to make a local inquiry may be read as evidence in the case. The Bill now settles this in the affirmative.

V.—Information to the Police, and their power to investigate.

21. Part V consists of a single chapter relating to information to the Police and their power to investigate. It corresponds with Chapter X of Act X of 1872, and sections 379 and 380 of the same Act.

22. The words "or that immediate arrest is not necessary," which are to be found in section 117 of Act X of 1872, have been omitted from section 158 of the Bill, as it is not apparent why a Police-officer should be debarred from investigating a case of a cognizable offence because he does not at starting feel himself justified in arresting any person.

23. Section 165 makes it clear that confessions to Magistrates shall not only be "taken," but signed and certified, like examinations of accused persons. In the form of memorandum relating to confessions words have been introduced to show that the confession was taken in the Magistrate's presence and hearing, and that it contains a full and true account of the statement.

24. The sections (166 and 167) dealing with searches by the police have been amended so as to meet difficulties which have arisen in practice. Section 168 has also been amended. On the one hand, there is strong objection to allowing an accused person to be detained at a Police-station longer than is necessary, and, on the other, to insist on his being forwarded to the Magistrate, when his presence on the spot may be indispensable for tracking out crime or recovering property, might be a serious impediment to justice. Under proper precautions, the retention of the accused for sufficient reasons will, as now, be allowed, but the period of detention has been limited to fifteen days in the whole.

25. Power resembling that conferred on Coroners by Act IV of 1871, section 11, has been given (section 177) to Magistrates authorized to hold inquests, to disinter and examine corpses in order to discover the cause of death.

VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions.

26. Part VI treats of proceedings in prosecutions up to appeal, and is divided into sixteen chapters, arranged as follows:—

XV. Jurisdiction of Criminal Courts in Inquiries and Trials.
XVI. Complaints to Magistrates.
XVII. Commencement of Proceedings before Magistrates.
XVIII. Inquiry into cases triable by the Court of Session or High Court.
XIX. The Charge.
XX. Trial of Summons-Cases by Magistrates.
XXI. Trial of Warrant-Cases by Magistrates.
XXII. Summary Trials.
XXIII. Trials before High Courts and Courts of Session.
XXIV. General Provisions as to Inquiries and Trials.
XXV. Evidence.
XXVI. The Judgment.
XXVII. Submission of Sentences for Confirmation.
XXVIII. Execution.
XXIX. Suspensions, Remissions and Commutations of Sentences.
XXX. Previous Acquittals or Convictions.

It will be seen that the above-mentioned chapters are arranged, as nearly as may be, according to the chronological order of the events in a prosecution.

27. Chapter XV (as to the jurisdiction of the Courts in inquiries and trials) deals, first, with the place of inquiry or trial: and, secondly, with the conditions requisite for the initiation of proceedings.

Sections 9 and 10 of the Foreign Jurisdiction Act (XXI of 1879), which deal respectively with the liability of British subjects for offences committed out of British India, and with the reception in evidence of depositions made before Political Agents, have been transferred to this part of the Code (sections 189 and 190), which is obviously their proper place.

28. To the provisions contained in the existing law regarding the transfer of cases, there has been added a clause, providing that, when any Magistrate of the first class, specially empowered in this behalf by the Magistrate of a district, has taken cognizance of any case, he may transfer it for inquiry or trial to any other competent Magistrate in such district. This will enable such Magistrates to distribute the work in their Courts, when it is necessary to do so, with less delay than at present.

29. Section 196 requires that the sanction to entertain complaints of certain offences shall, so far as practicable, specify the place in which, and the occasion on which, the offence complained of was committed. Provision has been made for the revocation of the sanction by any authority to which the authority giving it is subordinate. And in order to remove doubts which have been felt on the point, it is declared that, for the purposes of this section, every Court shall be deemed to be subordinate to the Court to which appeals from the former Court ordinarily lie.

30. Chapter XVI, of complaints to Magistrates, corresponds to sections 144 to 147 of Act X of 1872, but adds (section 202) a provision that a complaint in writing made to a Magistrate not competent to entertain it shall be returned for presentation to the proper tribunal.

The Bill makes it clear that the power (section 203) to postpone the issue of process cannot be exercised by a Magistrate of the third class.

31. In Chapter XVIII, of inquiry into cases triable by the Court of Session or High Court, power is given (section 210) to the Magistrate to discharge the accused at any stage of the case if, for reasons to be recorded, the Magistrate considers the charge to be groundless.

32. Chapter XIX, of the charge, extends to the whole of British India the amendments in Act X of 1872, sections 439 to 459, made by Act X of 1875; and with reference to Mr. Justice West's observations in Reg. v. Chand Hur, 11 Bomb. 241, on the corresponding section (457) of Act X of 1872, section 239 of the Bill has been confined to offences consisting of several particulars, a combination of some only of which constitutes a complete minor offence.

From the section (236) relating to joinder of charges, corresponding with section 454 of the present Code, have been omitted all provisions as to the amount of punishment. They obviously belong to substantive law, not to procedure, and will find their proper place in the Penal Code. The illustrations have also been amended.

Provision has been made in section 239 for the case where a person charged with an offence proves circumstances which reduce it to a minor offence. He may then be convicted of the minor offence, though he is not charged with it.

33. Chapter XX, Trial of Summons-cases.—To the section (251) relating to frivolous and vexatious complaints, a clause has been added, providing that, when awarding compensation in any subsequent civil suit relating to the same matter, the Court shall take into account any sum paid or recovered as compensation under this section.

34. In Chapter XXI, of trials of warrant-cases, as in Chapter XVIII, has been inserted a clause (section 254) authorizing the Magistrate to discharge the accused at any stage of the case if, for reasons to be recorded, the Magistrate considers the charge to be groundless. The provision (Act X of 1872, section 218) that the accused shall, while making his defence, be allowed to recall and cross-examine the witnesses for the prosecution, has been expressly confined (section 257) to cases where the witnesses are present in the Court or its precincts. The power to recall witnesses for the prosecution after they had left the Court is said to be often abused for the purpose of harassment and delay.

35. In Chapter XXII, summary trials, the Local Government has been authorized to confer on Benches invested with second or third class powers jurisdiction to try abetments of, and attempts to commit, the offences which they may now try summarily. The offences of retaining stolen property not exceeding Rs. 50 in value, and assisting in the concealment or disposal of stolen property not exceeding Rs. 50 in value, have been added to the list of those triable in a summary way; and the offence of receiving stolen property will not be so triable where its value exceeds that amount.

36. Chapter XXIII provides a common procedure for the High Court and the Court of Session, preserving, however, the special rules as to juries and their verdicts.

The power to stay proceedings on an unsustainable charge has been extended (section 274) to the Court of Session.

The power of directing how jurors shall be chosen by lot has been transferred to the High Court from the Local Government (section 277).

Where jurors or assessors have been taken to view the place in which the offence charged is alleged to have been committed, the Court has been empowered (section 294) to exempt them from being immediately brought back.

Where the Sessions Judge disagrees with a verdict of acquittal and submits the case to the High Court, he is required (section 308) to state the offence which he considers to have been committed, and the High Court is empowered to acquit or convict the accused of any offence of which the jury could have convicted him upon the charge framed and placed before it. This, it is believed, is the intention of the corresponding clause of section 263 of Act X of 1872.

37. Chapter XXIV, General Provisions as to Inquiries and Trials.—At the instance of many authorities consulted, the power of tendering conditional pardons to accomplices, which is now exerciseable only in cases triable by the Sessions Court, has been extended (section 337) to all warrant-cases. This change, which has been advocated by many authorities, is an important one, and further opinions on its propriety are desirable.

38. Much doubt exists as to the offences which may lawfully be compounded. The Exception to section 214 of the Penal Code (in which the law on the subject is contained) is excessively obscure, and this obscurity is increased rather than diminished by the illustrations annexed to that section. The Bill repeals these illustrations; and section 345 declares in unmistakeable language that certain specified offences, and no others, may be compounded. These are—

Causing hurt (Penal Code, sections 323, 334, 337, 338).
Wrongfully restraining or confining (Penal Code, sections 341, 342).
Assault or use of criminal force (Penal Code, sections 352, 358).
Unlawful compulsory labour (Penal Code, section 374).
Mischief, when the loss or damage is caused to a private person (Penal Code, sections 426, 427).
Criminal trespass and house-trespass (Penal Code, sections 447, 448).
Criminal breach of contract of service (Penal Code, sections 490, 491, 492).
Adultery, and enticing, &c., a married woman (Penal Code, sections 497, 498).
Defamation (Penal Code, section 500).
Printing or engraving defamatory matter (Penal Code, section 501).
Sale of printed or engraved substance containing defamatory matter (Penal Code, section 502).
Insult intended to provoke a breach of the peace (Penal Code, section 504).
Criminal intimidation, except when the offence is punishable with imprisonment for seven years (Penal Code, section 506).

The offences of voluntarily causing hurt, voluntarily causing grievous hurt, and cheating, punishable under the Indian Penal Code, sections 324, 325 and 417, will be compoundable with the permission of the Court, and by the person to whom the hurt has been caused, or by the person cheated, as the case may be.

It will be necessary to pass simultaneously with the Bill a short Act declaring that, for the Exception to section 280 of the Penal Code, the following shall be substituted:—

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

39. In Chapter XXVI, as to judgment, section 367 allows the judgments of Mufassal Courts to be written in the mother-tongue of the presiding officer.

40. Chapter XXVIII, Execution.—In section 395 (= section 313 of the present Code) the imprisonment which may be inflicted in lieu of whipping has been limited to three months; but on the other hand, the proviso that the whole period of imprisonment to which the offender is sentenced shall not exceed that to which he was liable by law, or that which the Court is competent to award, has been cancelled, and the power to imprison is thus extended. Criticism is sought on this alteration.

41. There are no sections in this chapter corresponding with sections 319, 320 of Act X of 1872. The reason for this omission is that the matter with which they deal does not belong to criminal procedure, but falls within the scope of the Prisoners' Acts, 1871; and it is proposed that, simultaneously with the passing of the present Bill, a short Act be passed, substituting for section 38 of the Prisoners' Act a section equivalent to Act X of 1872, sections 319, 320.

42. Chapter XXIX, Suspensions, Remissions and Commutations of Sentences.—Where application is made for the suspension or remission of a sentence, the Government is empowered (section 401) to require the presiding Judge of the Court before which the conviction was had to furnish a statement of the facts proved on the trial, and of any facts bearing on the propriety of granting or refusing the application.

The power of the Government to commute punishment (section 402) has been so worded as to authorize a sentence of rigorous, to be commuted to one of simple, imprisonment.

VII.—Appeal, Reference and Revision.

43. Part VII deals with appeals, references and the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court.

44. Chapter XXXI.—An appeal has been given (section 405) from orders rejecting applications for delivery of attached property.

45. Section 408 provides that the appeal from a District Magistrate exercising the enhanced powers conferred under section 34 shall lie to the Court of Session in cases in which the sentence has not been submitted to that Court for confirmation, and, when it has been so submitted, to the High Court. This puts the appeals in question on the same footing as appeals from an Assistant Sessions Judge. There seems to be no reason for making any distinction between the two.

46. Section 423, in accordance with a decision of the Madras High Court (I. L. R. 1 Mad. 54), declares that, when an Appellate Court enhances any punishment inflicted by the sentence appealed against, it may inflict punishment of a different kind.

47. In the case of an appeal from an acquittal, section 427 expressly authorizes the High Court to order the accused to be arrested and brought before it, and to commit him to prison pending the disposal of the appeal, or admit him to bail. In the absence of this power cases have occurred in which criminals, afraid of the result of the appeal, escaped, and made the appeal on behalf of the Government of no avail.

48. A section (431) suggested by a decision of the Bombay High Court (I. L. R. 2 Bomb. 564) provides that appeals by persons required to give security for good behaviour or by convicted persons abate on their death, and that appeals against acquittals abate on the death of the accused. The power of revision conferred by section 439 will enable the High Court, where justice to the family of the convicted person may so require, to alter his sentence even after the appeal has abated.

49. Chapter XXXII.—Sub-divisional Magistrates empowered by the Local Government in this behalf are authorized (section 435) to call for records of inferior Courts. This is in accordance with the powers of control in other respects which they exercise.

50. Where, in the opinion of the Court of Session or District Magistrate, an accused person has been improperly discharged by an inferior Court, the accused should not be committed without having had an opportunity of shewing cause why the committal should not be made (1 O'K. 98). Provision to this effect has been made by section 436.

51. When the Court of Session or District Magistrate reports for the orders of the High Court the results of examining any proceeding, and recommends that a sentence be reversed, the Court of Session or District Magistrate may order (section 438) its execution to be suspended, and the accused, if in confinement, to be released on bail or on his own bond.

52. Section 439 (corresponding with Act X of 1872, section 297) has been framed so as to allow the High Court, when exercising its revisional jurisdiction, to interfere with improper acquittals. There is reason to believe that this change is in accordance with the intention of the framers of Act X of 1872.

53. Where the High Court exercises its powers of revision, no order (section 440) will be made to the prejudice of the accused, unless he has had an opportunity of being heard.

VIII.—Special Proceedings.

54. Part VIII, as to special proceedings, deals with the procedure relating to the following matters:—criminal proceedings against Europeans and Americans: lunatics: contempts of Court and other offences affecting the administration of justice: maintenance of wives and children: State-prisoners: proceedings in the nature of habeas corpus.

55. Chapter XXXIII.—Section 451 removes some unnecessary differences which exist in the present law between the procedure of the High Courts and Courts of Session in cases in which European British subjects are concerned. In particular, it is provided that, in the Court of Session as well as in the High Court, the requisite moiety of the jury or assessors may be made up by Americans as well as Europeans. Under the present Code (section 78), the trial of a European British subject before the Court of Session need not be by jury. But under section 234 an European or American, not being a British subject, has an absolute right to be so tried. The Bill omits the latter provision.

56. Chapter XXXIV.—The power given by sections 433 and 434 of Act X of 1872, to discharge from custody or make over to his relative a person acquitted on the ground of insanity, has been extended, in sections 474 and 475, to the case of persons who, being found to be insane at the time of trial, are committed to custody.

57. Chapter XXXV.—This chapter (sections 476, 478, 479, 480, 482) has been expressly made applicable to Revenue Courts.

Section 477 has been framed so as to allow a Court of Session to charge a person for giving false evidence before itself,—a power of which such Courts were unintentionally deprived by section 472 of the present Code.

Where the Local Government so directs, Sub-Registrars will (section 483) be 'Civil Courts' within the meaning of section 480. The position and qualifications of Sub-Registrars vary in different provinces; but, in some parts of the country, they are believed to be fitted for the exercise of these powers.

Section 486 gives an appeal to the High Court from a conviction in a contempt case by a Court of Small Causes in a Presidency-town.

Section 487 has been redrawn so as to avoid the difficulty which is felt in determining the meaning of the words "offence committed in contempt of its own authority," which occur in the corresponding section (473) of Act X of 1872.

IX.—Supplementary Provisions.

58. Part IX contains certain provisions supplementary to the general rules of procedure contained in the Code. It deals, first, with the public prosecutor, bail, commissions for the examination of witnesses and special rules of evidence. It then contains certain provisions relating to bonds to keep the peace, for good behaviour, for appearance, &c.: the disposal of property regarding which an offence has been committed: the transfer of criminal cases: irregular proceedings; and, lastly, certain miscellaneous matters.

59. Chapter XXXIX, Public Prosecutor.—Power has been given to appoint as public prosecutor, in any case committed to the Session Court, a Police-officer not below the rank of Assistant District Superintendent. The entire exclusion of the police from such a function is, in the opinion of many authorities, inexpedient. With the limitation above described, there will be no fear of intimidation of witnesses or undue influence.

60. Section 505 exempts the Advocate General, Standing Counsel, Government Solicitor or other officer empowered by the Local Government from the necessity of obtaining permission to conduct prosecutions.

61. Chapter XL, Bail.—The powers here given to Police-officers have been expressly confined to officers in charge of Police-stations.

62. Chapter XLI, Commissions for Examination of Witnesses.—The provisions of the present law as to commissions for the examination of witnesses have been amended in four respects. Where the witness resides in a Native State, power has been given (section 513) to issue the commission to the Political Agent or other local officer representing the British Government. Section 515 requires that the interrogatories shall be thought relevant by the Magistrate or Court directing the commission. When a Subordinate Magistrate applies for a commission, he will (section 516) apply to the District Magistrate, and not (as at present) to the Sessions Judge: this will relieve the Court of Session of a duty which can be more conveniently performed by the District Magistrate. And power is expressly given (section 518) to stay the inquiry or trial for a specified time reasonably sufficient for the execution and return of the commission.

63. Chapter XLII, Special Rules as to Evidence.—In proving the existence of circumstances as a defence under the 2nd, 3rd, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th or 10th Exception to section 499 of the Penal Code, section 521 of the Bill provides that good faith shall be presumed until the contrary appears. This is now the law in the Presidency-towns (Act XVIII of 1862, section 27) and may usefully be extended to the Mufassal.

64. Chapter XLIV, Disposal of property.—In accordance with a recent rule of the High Court at Bombay, section 528 declares that, when a High Court or Court of Session makes an order for the disposal of property, and cannot through its own officers conveniently deliver the property to the person entitled thereto, the Court may direct its order to be carried into effect by the committing Magistrate.

65. Orders under section 528 made in appealable cases will not be carried out until the time allowed for appealing has expired, or, if an appeal is presented in due time, until the appeal is dismissed.

66. Where an innocent purchaser buys stolen property and restores it to the lawful possessor, provision has been made (section 530) for payment of the price out of money found on the convicted thief. This is in accordance with 30 & 31 Vic., cap. 35, section 10.

67. Section 532 provides, in case of a conviction under the Penal Code, sections 292, 293, 501 or 502, for the destruction of the obscene books and defamatory matter in respect of which the conviction was had. It also provides for the destruction of adulterated or noxious food, drink or drugs in respect of which a conviction was had under sections 272—275 of the same Code.

68. Chapter XLV, Transfer of Criminal Cases.—Section 537 provides, in accordance with a Minute of Sir B. Peacock, cited I. L. R. 1 Calc. 223, that applications to the High Court for the transfer of cases shall be made by motion supported by affidavit or affirmation.

69. Chapter XLVI, Irregular Proceedings.—Tender of pardon under Chapter XXIV, and sale of property under section 535 or section 536, have been added to the list of proceedings which will not be set aside merely on the ground of the Magistrate not being duly empowered.

70. Chapter XLVII, Miscellaneous.—Power has been given (section 552) to the Local Government to fix places of imprisonment or custody. Moneys (other than fines) payable by virtue of any order made under the Code will be recoverable as if they were fines (section 558). The power to compel restoration of abducted females, which now exists only in the Presidency-towns, has been extended (section 562) to District Magistrates. Power has been given to the High Courts (section 564) to make rules for the inspection of the records of subordinate Courts. And as to miscellaneous criminal proceedings, if any doubt arise as to the procedure to be followed, the Court will be guided by such rules (consistent with the Code) as the High Court may make in this behalf (section 568). The Bill contains no clause equivalent to Act I of 1868, section 5, although similar provisions are contained in each of the Codes now consolidated (X of 1872, section 309, X of 1875, section 107, IV of 1877, section 12). The matter will be provided for by the Bill above-mentioned, to amend the Penal Code.

Schedules.

71. Schedules II and V, which correspond respectively with Schedules IV and II of Act X of 1872, have been altered so as to adapt them, not only to the Mufassal Courts, but to those of the Presidency Magistrates. The latter schedule now contains no less than 56 forms, which have stood the test of practice in the Presidency of Madras and the Panjáb.

The offence of voluntarily causing hurt has been made one for which the police may not arrest without a warrant. A like change has been made as to voluntarily causing hurt on grave and sudden provocation, not intending to hurt any other than the person who gave it. The numerous investigations by the police into charges of "hurt," which the present law renders necessary, are said to distract the attention of the police-force from more important duties, and to result in little good to the public.

The offence of adultery has been made triable by a Presidency Magistrate and a Magistrate of the first class.

The paragraph relating to mischief by fire with intent to cause damage has been altered in accordance with a proposed amendment of section 435 of the Penal Code. This alteration has been made in order to check the offence, which is very common in some parts of the country, of setting fire to garnered crops. A cultivator may have the whole of his crop destroyed in this way, and yet if its value be less than Rs. 100 (as is often the case) he cannot obtain the aid of the police to arrest the offender without a warrant from a Magistrate.

The lists of powers contained in section 21 et seq. of Act X of 1872 have been thrown into Schedules III and IV of the Bill.

72. The Bill was published in the Gazette of India for the 5th, 12th and 19th April 1879, and circulated to the various Local Governments, with a request that it might be examined by selected local officers. This was done, and the result of the examination is contained in a thick folio volume. The Bill was then revised with reference to this mass of criticism, and to the cases reported since it was framed; and it may truly be said, in its present form, to be the work of the whole body of Indian Judges and Magistrates rather than of any individual or Department. The additions and changes (other than omissions) which have been made in this second revision are printed in italics. The chief omission is that of the sections relating to limitation, which, in deference to many high authorities, have been struck out as unsuited to India.

73. It is proposed that the measure shall not come into force till 1st January 1883,—ten years from the date on which the present Code came into force. This is five years after the date on which, according to Sir FitzJames Stephen, the Code should have been re-enacted. "I should say," he writes in his well-known Minute on the Administration of Justice in British India, "that this process ought to be repeated at least once in every five years for every important Act."

74. Excluding the special provisions of the Acts relating respectively to Coroners, European British vagrants and criminal tribes, the Bill is now, so far as Mr. Cockerell, Mr. Colvin, Mr. Fitzpatrick and myself have been able to make it, a complete body of criminal procedure. No pains have been spared to render its provisions plain and practical; and in return all competent persons are earnestly asked to point out the mistakes and omissions which, notwithstanding the careful and repeated revision it has undergone, they will doubtless discover in so large and complicated a work.

Secretary to the Government of India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

culturist, shall be received in evidence for any purpose by any person having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence, or shall be acted upon by any such person or by any public officer unless such instrument has, before the first day of November, 1881, been produced before the Village Registrar appointed for the area in which the agriculturist, or where there are several such agriculturists, any one of the agriculturists, to whom such property belongs, resides, and been marked by such Registrar in such manner as the Local Government may by rule prescribe:

"Provided that nothing in this section shall—

"(a) apply to an instrument purporting to create a mortgage, lien or charge in favour of the Government or of any officer of the Government in his official capacity; or

"(b) prevent the admission of any instrument in evidence in any criminal proceeding."

Amendment of section 72.

10. In section seventy-two the words "against an agriculturist" shall be omitted, and in the same section after the word "money," the words "from a person who at the time when the cause of action arose was an agriculturist" shall be inserted.

New section substituted for section 75.

11. For section seventy-five the following section shall be substituted:—

"75. The Local Government may, from time to time, make rules:—

Additional power to make rules.

"(a) for defining more precisely what classes of persons shall be deemed to be agriculturists for the purposes of this Act;

"(b) generally for carrying out the provisions of this Act."

Certain instruments to be deemed produced before Village Registrar and marked under section 71.

12. Every instrument described in section seventy-one, as amended by this Act, which, before the passing of this Act, has been registered by a Village Registrar in accordance with rules prescribed in this behalf by the Inspector General of Registration, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, shall be deemed to have been duly produced before the Village Registrar and marked by him under the provisions of that section.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Bombay Government have brought to notice difficulties in the working of the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, for the removal of which it appears necessary to make certain amendments in that Act, and to carry out those amendments this Bill has been prepared.

The first amendment provided for is in section 2 of the Act. That section enacts in effect that every agriculturist shall be deemed for the purposes of the Act to reside where he works as such. This rule is found to give rise to difficulty in the case of agriculturists holding land in more than one place, and it is accordingly proposed to repeal it altogether.

2. The first portion of section 19 of the Act confers on the Courts power to discharge an insolvent who owes a sum of less than fifty rupees under a decree, and against whom there is no other claim; but it makes no provision for the case of an insolvent judgment-debtor, against whom there are other claims, but of amounts so trifling that, taken with the amount of the decree, they do not amount to fifty rupees. There appears to be no reason why this latter case should not be treated on the same footing as the former, the insolvency chapter of the Bill being equally inapplicable to both, and the Bill accordingly amends the Act so as to give power to discharge the judgment-debtor from the balance due under the decree in either case.

3. Section 38 of the Act prohibits the appointment of "an officer of police" as a conciliator. A doubt has arisen as to whether a police patel is to be deemed an officer of police within the meaning of this provision, and at the instance of the local Government an explanation has been added to the section to show that he is not.

4. The amendment proposed in section 48 of the Act merely corrects an oversight in drafting.

5. The addition which it is proposed to make to section 56 of the Act, is intended to dispense with the necessity of having an instrument executed before the Village Registrar, merely because a party executing it as a surety is an agriculturist.

The changes made in sections 57 and 58 are intended merely to make the meaning clearer.

6. The new section, which it is proposed to substitute for section 71 of the Bill, differs materially from the original one, though the object of both is the same, viz., to prevent the fabrication of mortgage deeds purporting to have been executed before the Act came into force.

The section as it now stands in the Act aims at effecting this object by requiring all existing mortgage deeds to be registered before a certain date under the Indian Registration Act; but it has been found that the practical difficulties in the way of such registration are so great that it is necessary to abandon this procedure and substitute for it the simpler expedient proposed by the Bill, of requiring such deeds to be merely produced before and marked by the Village Registrar before a certain date.

7. Section 72 of the Act, which prescribes periods of limitation longer than the ordinary periods for certain suits against agriculturists, applies in every case in which the defendant is an agriculturist at the time the suit is instituted. This would, in some cases, where the defendant had become an agriculturist shortly before the institution of the suit, lead to anomalous results.

To prevent this the Bill amends the section, so that it will apply only when the defendant was an agriculturist at the time the cause of action arose.

8. Difficulties having arisen as to the construction of the definition of "agriculturist," section 75 of the Act, which gives the Local Government a power to make rules, has been recast so as to admit of rules being made, among other matters, to define more precisely what classes of persons shall be deemed to be agriculturists for the purposes of the Act.

9. Section 12 of the Bill is intended to put mortgage deeds, executed before the Act came into force, and registered under a system of questionable legality established by the Local Government, on the same footing as if they had been marked by the Registrar under the new section 71.

[Third Publication.]

The following Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th March, 1881:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Courts of Small Causes established in the Presidency-towns was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

From Acting Under Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 7519, dated 9th November, 1880, and enclosures [Papers No. 1].
„ Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 2624, dated 2nd November 1880, and enclosures [Papers No. 2].
„ Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 2662, dated 17th November, 1880, and enclosure [Papers No. 3].
„ D. Sealy, Esq., Vakil, High Court, Bombay, dated 26th November, 1880 [Paper No. 4].
Note by Hon'ble J. Sewell White, Judge, High Court, Calcutta, dated 13th December, 1880 [Paper No. 5].
From Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 67J., dated 7th January, 1881, and enclosures [Papers No. 6].
„ J. Crawford, Esq., Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 970, dated 30th May, 1879 [Papers No. 7].
„ Ditto ditto, No. 279, dated 5th February, 1881 [Papers No. 7].
„ H. J. Stephen, Esq., Barrister-at-law, High Court, Calcutta, dated 10th February, 1881, and enclosure [Papers No. 8].

2. We have added a clause to section 6 of the Bill giving the High Courts the same powers over the Small Cause Courts as they have under the 15th section of the High Courts Act over Courts subject to their appellate jurisdiction.

3. We have altered the section (7) relating to the appointment of the Judges so as to provide that one-third at least of the Judges shall be advocates of a High Court. We think the professional members of the Court should be chosen from the advocates of the High Courts, who may be expected to have acquired some experience of the country.

4. The Bill as introduced made the rank and precedence of the Judges depend on the seniority of their appointment. This would not have answered, as it appears that each seat in the Court has a special rank and salary of its own, and the candidates for appointment are posted to particular seats in the Court with reference to their respective qualifications. The second Judge ought, therefore, always to rank above the third, the third above the fourth, and so on, without any reference to the dates of their appointment, and we have accordingly, in section 8, after providing that the Chief Judge shall be the first in rank, introduced words leaving it to the Local Government to fix the rank of the rest.

5. Another change we have made in the constitution of the Court established by the Bill as introduced, consists in the transfer to the Chief Judge of certain administrative powers (see section 13 and also sections 61 and 62), which, we think, would be more efficiently exercised by a single individual.

6. The only other amendment we need notice in this portion of the Bill is the insertion of a clause in section 13, providing for the appointment of a Registrar and a section (14) empowering the Local Government to invest him with jurisdiction to try suits up to the limit of Rs. 20 in value. This amendment has been made at the instance of the Government of Bengal, and there is a precedent for it in the Mufassal Small Cause Courts Act No. XI of 1865.

7. Turning now to the chapter relating to jurisdiction in respect of suits, the first change we have made will be found in section 18 of the amended Bill (= section 16 of the Bill as introduced). The reasons given for framing that section as it originally stood are thus given in the 7th paragraph of the Statement of Objects and Reasons:—

"Act IX of 1850, in conferring jurisdiction on the Courts up to a value of Rs. 500, confines its exercise to cases of defendants dwelling or carrying on business within the local limits. Act XXVI of 1864, on the other hand, in conferring jurisdiction between the values of Rs. 500 and Rs. 1,000, gives an alternative ground for its exercise, namely, the circumstance of the cause of action having arisen within the local limits. It has been urged by most of the authorities consulted that the basis of the jurisdiction should be the same in cases of all values. On the other hand, fears have been expressed by some that a power to institute a suit of the lower value against a defendant residing at a distance might be liable to abuse unless some limitation were imposed. The correct view of the matter seems to be that taken by the Judges of the Madras High Court and Mr. Busteed, namely, that in this particular no distinction should be made between the High Court and the Small Cause Court, and accordingly the Bill has been drawn so as to place the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Courts in this respect on precisely the same footing as that on which the jurisdiction of the High Court is placed by the Letters Patent."

The objection to the power to institute a suit in the Small Cause Court against a defendant residing at a distance has been again urged, and it is one to which we feel compelled to yield. We have accordingly inserted words requiring the leave of the Court to be obtained when it is proposed to institute a suit against a defendant residing beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction, and we have made this provision applicable to all suits without regard to value. The original scheme of putting the Small Cause Court jurisdiction on the same footing in this particular as the jurisdiction of the High Court being thus broken in upon, we have thought it best to bring the remainder of the section into conformity with the corresponding provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure.

8. In the following section, which excludes certain classes of suits from the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court, we have omitted the second clause, "suits against the Secretary of State in Council," as it appears to be generally objected to, and we have added the following:—

(1) suits for the specific performance or rescission of contracts generally (such suits are, as regards contracts relating to immoveable property, excluded by the Bill as introduced);
(2) suits for compensation for malicious prosecution;
(3) suits for the cancellation or rectification of instruments;
(4) suits relating to general average and to insurances on sea-going vessels;
(5) suits for compensation in respect of collisions at sea;
(6) suits for compensation for the infringement of a patent, copy-right or trade-mark;
(7) suits for a dissolution of partnership or for an account of partnership transations;
(8) suits for declaratory decrees;
(9) suits in which the plaintiff's claim depends on the decision of a question as to religious rites or ceremonies;
(10) suits for possession of a hereditary office;
(11) suits against Sovereign Princes or Ruling Chiefs, or against Ambassadors or Envoys of Foreign States.

The reasons for excluding these suits are so obvious that it is unnecessary to state them.

9. We have struck out the second clause of section 21 (new numbering), which deprived a plaintiff of costs in certain cases if he elected to institute in the High Court a suit against an officer of the Small Cause Court for a wrong done by him under colour of its process. We think that in all such cases a plaintiff should be allowed a free choice.

10. We have also struck out the latter portion of section 22 (new numbering), which specified the grounds on which a Judge in other cases, in which suits cognizable in the Small Cause Court are instituted in the High Court, may certify for costs, as we think that in such a matter the Judge should be allowed a full discretion.

11. Proceeding next to chapter V relating to procedure in suits, we desire to state that we have most carefully considered the objections urged against the first section of that chapter which applies to the Small Cause Courts a large portion of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Those objections, in so far as they come from the public, proceed chiefly from those classes of persons who most frequently appear as plaintiffs in suits of a very simple description, and we can well understand the apprehension they feel that the application of so large portion of the ordinary procedure may, in suits of that class, give rise to complication and delay. But it must be remembered that the great bulk of the provisions so extended are of such a nature as to be applicable only in exceptional cases, and we think that any one who follows the thread of the provisions applicable to ordinary suits will find the procedure to be extremely simple. Moreover, we find that a considerable portion of the Code has been actually in force for some time past in the Madras Small Cause Court, where the statistics show the amount of work performed by each Judge to be as large as in the Small Cause Courts at Calcutta and Bombay, and we further find that the Judges of the Calcutta Small Cause Court themselves propose to apply with little variation the great bulk of the sections contained in the second schedule to this Bill.

12. We have, however, in deference to the apprehensions which have been expressed, gone through the schedule item by item, and have struck out some portions; among others those requiring copies of the plaint or concise statements to be filed with the plaint, those relating to discovery, those requiring judgments to be in writing, and the whole chapter relating to pauper suits.

We have, moreover, in order to relieve the Judges, inserted in the body of the Bill a section (35) based on section 637 of the Code, empowering the Court to direct that any non-judicial or quasi-judicial act which the Code requires to be done by a Judge shall be done by a ministerial officer, and we think that the procedure as now settled is as simple as it can safely be made, and as the majority of the litigants would desire it to be.

13. We have added a section providing that no decision passed under the Act shall be conclusive, except as to the right to the relief granted or the absence of a right to the relief withheld by it. This provision, which cuts away to a great extent the doctrine of res judicata, will no doubt leave it open to persistent parties to litigate a second time questions which may have been already carefully considered and well decided; but we think it better to take the risk of this than to take the risk of having difficult questions of title to property of large value and complicated issues governing extensive transactions finally decided under an Act like this in the first petty case in which they may chance to present themselves.

14. We have extended section 27 (new numbering) to cases in which the plaintiff does not altogether fail in his suit, but fails to recover the full amount of his claim and to cases in which unfounded objections are made to the attachment of property in execution of decree.

15. Section 30 is new. The law, as it at present stands in this country, would appear to be peculiarly indulgent to tenants in the matter of the right to remove what they may have attached to the soil, and yet the holder of a decree of the Small Cause Court is probably precluded (unless he chooses to resort to the High Court) from taking in execution of such decree even some such things as might be taken under a fieri facias in England. It has, at all events, been held that though tenants in Calcutta have a right to remove "tiled huts," such huts cannot be taken in execution of decrees of the Small Cause Court. The landlords complain of this as a hardship, and we think not without reason; but the remedy should not, in our opinion, be limited to this particular case, and we have accordingly provided that anything which the tenant would be entitled to remove during his tenancy may be taken in the execution of a decree against him as if it were a moveable.

16. We have at the instance of the Judges of the Calcutta Small Cause Court substituted for the latter portion of section 230 of the Code a section (28) providing that no decree of a Small Cause Court shall be executed after the lapse of three years from the date on which it is passed, unless the judgment-debtor by force or fraud has prevented its execution within the three years.

17. We have, in section 34 of the Bill, restored section 31 of Act IX of 1850, which allows minors to sue for a sum not exceeding Rs. 500 due for wages, or piece-work or for work as a servant, as if they were of full age, but we have, to prevent mistake, expressly limited it to cases where such money is due under section 70 of the Contract Act, the only law, as we believe, under which a minor can now acquire a right to such money.

18. The only other amendment we have to notice in the chapter relating to procedure is the insertion of certain sections (36 to 38) providing for the exercise of the jurisdiction which may be conferred on the Registrar under section 14.

19. We have introduced a new chapter (VI) to include the section providing for a new trial and certain additional sections establishing a mode of having a suit of a value above Rs. 500, re-heard in the High Court, as if it had been instituted in that court. These sections, which have been proposed by Mr. Kennedy, are based on the provisions enacted by the 14th & 15th Vic. c. 57, for the Irish Civil Bill Courts, and they have in our opinion this advantage, that they provide, in cases where there has been a failure of justice, a substitute for an appeal without entailing the necessity of any elaborate record of evidence being kept by the Court below.

20. We have omitted the chapter which would have conferred on the Small Cause Courts jurisdiction in certain classes of insolvency and probate business, as we believe that unless the Court were to hear cases which, owing to their intricacy and difficulty, ought to be removed into the High Court, the saving of time to the High Court would be altogether unimportant. There is no doubt that the High Courts at present dispose of much petty business of these classes, but it is done for the most part in the offices of the Court, and costs the Judges little time or labour.

We may add that, so far as the grant of probates and letters of administration is concerned, we believe that the object in view will be better secured by the extension of the certificate system effected by Act No. IX of 1881.

21. We have confined section 59, which prevents the fees of a legal practitioner being recovered as costs unless his employment is held to be reasonable, to cases where the amount or value in dispute is less than Rs. 20. We do not see why in cases where a larger amount is at stake the ordinary rules as to allowing costs should not apply.

22. Lastly, we have inserted a section (72) to determine the functions of legal practitioners in the Small Cause Court. Its first clause provides that no persons other than advocates, attorneys and vakíls of the High Court and persons who are now pleaders of the Small Cause Court shall appear, plead or act in the Small Cause Court. We do not think it desirable to admit an inferior class of legal practitioners, whose business would be confined to the Small Cause Courts, and, accordingly, while we would save the rights of pleaders already admitted, we would bar the admission of any others.

The second clause of the section confines the right to conduct as counsel a suit at the hearing, in the extended jurisdiction now for the first time conferred on the Court, to advocates and vakíls of the High Court, and requires that a barrister so conducting a suit shall be instructed by an attorney or vakíl, or by a pleader of the Small Cause Court. The reasons for this latter requirement are obvious.

The section, it need hardly be mentioned, saves the right of parties to conduct their own cases, and appear for one another, and also the rights of recognized agents.

23. The publication of the Bill, with its Statement of Objects and Reasons, in English, has been reported by the Governments of Madras, Bombay and Bengal. We consider that the changes now made are such as to render its re-publication desirable; and we have accordingly altered the date on which it should come into force to the 1st January, 1882, and recommend that it now be re-published.

PROCEDURE IN SUITS.

Portions of Civil Procedure Code extending to the Court.

23. The chapters and sections of the Code of Civil Procedure specified in the second schedule hereto annexed shall extend, and shall, so far as the same may, in the judgment of the Court, be applicable, be applied, to the Small Cause Court; and the procedure prescribed thereby shall be the procedure followed in the Court in all suits cognizable by it, except where such procedure is inconsistent with the procedure prescribed by any specific provisions of this Act.

New.

Res judicata.

24. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 13 of the Code of Civil Procedure, no decision passed under the provisions of this Act shall be conclusive as to anything except the right at the time of such decision to the relief granted thereby, or the absence of a right at such time to any relief claimed by the plaintiff and withheld by such decision.

Illustrations.

(a). A sues B in the Small Cause Court for compensation for damage done by B to a house which A alleges to be his own. B denies that the house is A's. The Court decides that the house is A's, and that he is entitled to Rs. 100 compensation. The decision is conclusive as to A's right to the compensation, but not as to his title to the house, and, if A subsequently sues B for further damage done to the same house, B is not precluded from again questioning A's title.

(b). A sues B in the Small Cause Court for an instalment alleged to be due on a bond purporting to be executed by B. B denies the execution of the bond. The Court finds the execution proved, and gives A a decree for the amount of the instalment. A subsequently sues B for a later instalment on the same bond; B is not precluded from again denying the execution.

(c). A sues B as in illustration (b). B denies the execution of the bond, and the Court, finding that B's signature was forged, dismisses the suit. This does not preclude A from suing again on the bond.

(d). A sues B in the Small Cause Court for possession of a horse which A alleges to be his property, and to have been lent to B to use during A's pleasure. B denies that the horse is A's. The Court finds that the horse is A's, and gives him a decree for possession, and A recovers possession of the horse. B, subsequently alleging that the horse is his, sues A for possession of it. The decision in the former suit is no bar to B.

New.

No written statement except in cases of set-off.

25. Except in cases of set-off under the Code of Civil Procedure, section 111, no written statement shall be received unless required by the Court.

Act X of 1877, s. 141.

Provided that a document may be returned at any time before any of such events if the person applying for such return delivers to the proper officer a certified copy of such document to be substituted for the original. When any claim preferred, or objection made, under section 278 of the Code of Civil Procedure, is disallowed, the Small Cause Court may in its discretion order the person preferring or making such claim or objection to pay to the decree-holder, or to the judgment-debtor, or to both, by way of satisfaction as aforesaid, such sum or sums as it thinks fit.

Any order under this section may, in default of payment of the amount payable there-under, be enforced by the person in whose favour it is made against the person against whom it is made as if it were a decree of the Court.

Bar to applications for execution of decrees.

30. Discharge of judgment-debtor on sufficient security.

31. Whenever any judgment-debtor, who has been arrested in execution of a decree of the Small Cause Court, offers security to the satisfaction of such Court for payment of the amount which he has been ordered to pay and the costs, the Court may order him to be discharged.

Act IX of 1850, s. 71. (See I.L.R. 5 Calc., p. 294.)

Whenever it appears to the Small Cause Court that any judgment-debtor under its decree is unable, from sickness or other sufficient cause, to pay the amount of the decree, or, if such Court has ordered the same to be paid in instalments, the amount of any instalment thereof, it may, from time to time, for such time and upon such terms as it thinks fit, suspend the execution of such decree.

Act XI of 1865, s. 20.

Execution of decree of Small Cause Court by other Courts.

33. If the judgment-debtor under any decree of the Small Cause Court has not, within the local limits of its jurisdiction, moveable property sufficient to satisfy the decree, the Court may, on the application of the decree-holder, send the decree for execution—

(a) in the case of execution against immoveable property situate within such local limits—to the High Court;

D. FITZPATRICK,

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following third Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th March, 1881:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to define and amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property was referred, have the honour to state that the Report of the Indian Law Commissioners, 1879, was duly communicated to us. We have carefully considered so much of it as relates to that Bill, as well as the papers specified in the annexed list; and, in compliance with the wish of the Secretary of State for India, as expressed in his despatch (Legislative) No. 37, dated 7th October, 1880, we have now the honour to present this our third Report.

We agree generally in the enlargement of the Bill effected by the Law Commissioners, and we shall in this Report refer to the Bill as settled by them, and published in the Gazette of India for the 17th and 24th January, 1880.

CHAPTER I.—PRELIMINARY.

We have rendered the definition of "attached to the earth" inapplicable to objects which merely rest upon the earth. And we have amended the definition of "notice" by making it apply expressly to a case where a person wilfully abstains from a search or inquiry which he ought to have made.

CHAPTER II.—TRANSFERS OF PROPERTY BY ACT OF PARTIES.

This chapter, after declaring what rights are inalienable and by what persons transfers may be made, proceeds to declare restrictions of the transfer of property called for in the interests of society. These restrictions are in substance identical with those contained in the Indian Succession Act, and rights and liabilities arising out of customs or personal laws are sufficiently saved by section 2, clause (a).

We have amended section 6 (as to what may be transferred) in these respects:—First, we have in the first clause substituted "Act" for "section." The effect will be to place Hindús on the same footing as Europeans as regards the power to make settlements, on marriage or otherwise, on persons not in existence at the date of the transfer. Although, no doubt, it has been laid down that the general principle of the Hindú law is that a donee must be in existence at the time of the gift, such settlements are in accordance with Native usage.

Secondly, we have re-drawn clause (a) thus:—

"(a) The chance of an heir-apparent succeeding to an estate, the chance of a relation obtaining a legacy on the death of a kinsman, or any other mere possibility of the same nature, cannot be transferred: the chance of a Hindú heir succeeding to property in the possession of a Hindú female cannot be transferred to any one except the present or future owner or co-owner of the property affected thereby."

Thirdly, we have made clause (c) run thus:—

"(c) An easement cannot be transferred apart from the dominant heritage."

Fourthly, we have extended clause (e) to rights to sue for harm illegally caused to property.

We think that the power to transfer property to or for the benefit of women, so that they shall not be able, during their marriage, to transfer or charge the same should be confined, as it is now, to women not being Hindús, Muhammadans or Buddhists; and we have altered section 10 accordingly.

It cannot be denied that one school of Muhammadan law does, as stated in the books, permit a settlement on a person, his children and their offspring in perpetuity. But in practice this form of settlement is obsolete, and, if made, the Courts would now refuse to recognise it as valid. We think, therefore, that section 14, which prohibits this kind of perpetuity, may stand unaltered.

We have shortened and simplified the sections (33, 34) which deal respectively with conditions that a transferee shall perform an act at or before a specified time, and like conditions wherein no such time is specified.

We do not think that the proposition laid down in section 40, as to a Hindú's right to receive maintenance from the profits of immoveable property, can be said to be authoritatively settled, and there are good grounds for questioning it.

We have therefore re-drawn the first clause of section 40 thus :—

"40. Where a third person has a right to receive maintenance or a provision for advancement or marriage from the profits of immoveable property, and such property is transferred with the intention of defeating the right, such right may be enforced against a transferee with notice of such intention, or a gratuitous transferee of the property affected by the right, but not against a transferee for consideration and without notice of the right, nor against such property in his hands."

The remainder of section 40, though suggested by English cases, is, in our opinion, founded on general principles of equity applicable to India, and may, therefore, fitly be left unaltered in the Bill.

Section 41 has been amended so as to bring a benámídár clearly within its operation.

We have confined section 42 to cases of transfers for consideration by persons having authority to revoke the transfer.

To the section (44) dealing with transfer by one co-owner we have added a clause declaring that, when the transferee of a share of a dwelling-house belonging to an undivided family is a stranger, nothing in this section shall be deemed to entitle him to joint possession or other common or part enjoyment of the house.

We have confined section 53 to cases of fraudulent transfer. To provide, as it now does, for fraudulent forfeitures would involve a change in the law the consequences of which cannot easily be foreseen.

CHAPTER III.—SALES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

We agree with Sir Henry Maine as to the desirability of rendering the system of transfer of immoveable property a system of public transfer; and we are inclined to go a little further in this direction than seemed good to the Law Commissioners. Thus, we think that in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing, though its value may be less than Rs. 100, the transfer should be made only by registered assurance; and we have altered section 54 accordingly.

As to the duties of the seller, we think that, except where the property is sold subject to incumbrances, he should be bound to discharge all incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the sale; that he should not be bound to deliver the title-deeds till the whole of the purchase-money has been paid. We also think that the Bill may reasonably declare, as it does, that, in the absence of a stipulation to the contrary, the seller shall be deemed to contract that the interest which he assumes to transfer subsists and that he has power to make the transfer; but where he sells in a fiduciary character, we would follow the present practice, and declare simply that he shall be deemed to contract that he has done no act whereby the property is incumbered, or he is hindered from transferring it. We have altered section 55, clauses (a) (7), (8), (9), accordingly.

The proposition laid down in clause (c) (1), that a purchaser is bound to disclose any fact unknown to the vendor which increases his interest in the property, e. g., the actual or imminent death of a prior life-tenant, has been questioned by a high authority. It appears to us in exact accordance with the rule laid down in Turner v. Harvey, Jac. 169; Ellard v. Lord Llandaff, 1 Ball & B. 241; and (on the sale of a life-policy) Jones v. Keene, 2 Moo. & R. 348. We have, however, made a verbal amendment in this clause.

As to the duties of the buyer, we have struck out the clause requiring him to retransfer the property sold, where the ownership has passed before payment of the purchase-money and he fails to pay or tender it. In such case the seller's lien is, we think, sufficient.

As to the buyer's rights, we think that his lien as against the seller for purchase-money paid in anticipation should be available against all persons claiming under the seller with notice of the payment. We have altered the section accordingly.

Where two properties are subject to a common charge and one is sold, the buyer's right as against the seller to have the charge satisfied out of the other property does not depend on whether or not the buyer had notice of the charge. We have, therefore, struck out of section 56 the words relating to notice.

CHAPTER IV.—MORTGAGES.

We think that in the definition of simple mortgage the expression "makes it a collateral security" is likely to give rise to difficulties. We also think that a transaction may be a "mortgage by conditional sale" although accompanied by possession, and in the definition of usufructuary mortgage the words "or agrees to deliver" and "actual" seem unnecessary. We have therefore amended these definitions as follows :—

Simple Mortgage.

"Where, without delivering possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor binds himself personally to pay the mortgage-money and agrees expressly or impliedly that, in the event of his failing to pay according to his contract, the mortgagee shall have a right to cause the mortgaged property to be sold and the proceeds of sale to be applied, so far as may be necessary, in payment of what may be due to him on the mortgage, the transaction is called a simple mortgage and the mortgagee a simple mortgagee."

Mortgage by Conditional Sale.

"Where the mortgagor ostensibly sells the mortgaged property on condition that in default of payment of the mortgage-money on a certain date the sale shall become absolute, or

"on condition that on such payment being made, the sale shall become void, or

"on condition that on such payment being made, the buyer shall re-transfer the property to the seller,

"the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale and the mortgagee a mortgagee by conditional sale."

Usufructuary Mortgage.

"Where the mortgagor delivers possession of the property to the mortgagee and authorises him to retain such possession until payment of the mortgage-money, and to receive the rents and profits accruing from the property and to appropriate them in lieu of interest or in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage and the mortgagee an usufructuary mortgagee."

We agree with the Law Commissioners that the requirement of registration will not only discourage fraud and facilitate investigations of title, but that it will also preclude some difficult question of priority. A majority of us, however, think that, where the principal money secured is less than Rs. 100, the assurance need not be registered. And we have altered the Bill accordingly. Our colleague Mr. Stokes dissents from this alteration, as, in his opinion, all incumbrances should appear on the register: those who mortgage their property for small amounts, as a rule, require protection from fraud more than those who mortgage for large amounts, and the changes impending in the working of the law will deprive the requirement of registration of all hardship even in the pettiest cases.

A majority of us are of opinion that equitable mortgages by deposit of title-deeds should be valid when they are made in Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Rangoon and Karáchí. The practice of raising money on such securities has long been established in those towns, and any attempt to disturb it would cause much inconvenience. Here, again, Mr. Stokes dissents on the grounds (a) that such mortgages are opposed to the policy of the registration-law; (b) that they lead to evasions of the stamp-duty; (c) that they are at variance with the principle of making the system of transfer of immoveable property, as far as possible, a system of public transfer; and (d) that, when the amount secured is Rs. 100 or upwards, they would be inconsistent with the general rule in section 58 requiring a written instrument.

We think, with Mr. Justice West, that nothing in the section (59) declaring the mortgagor's right to redeem should invalidate any provision to the effect that, if the time fixed for payment of the principal money has been allowed to pass, or no such time has been fixed, the mortgagee shall be entitled to reasonable notice before payment or tender of such money. In like manner, we think that nothing in section 82 or 83 should deprive the mortgagee of his right to interest where there exists a contract that he shall be entitled to such notice.

We concur with the Law Commissioners in the [illegible] (section 66) of the moot question as to [illegible] and as there is no prospect of the High Courts or the Privy Council settling the matter by declaration on the subject, we think it desirable to settle the matter by legislation as soon as possible.

For the section (98) as to the abandonment of his security where a mortgagee attaches and sells the mortgaged property, we have substituted the following :—

"98. Where a mortgagee, in execution of a decree for the satisfaction of any claim, whether arising under the mortgage or not, attaches the mortgaged property, he shall not be entitled to bring such property to sale otherwise than by instituting a suit under section 66."

We think that the High Court should have power to make rules for carrying out the provisions of this chapter.

CHAPTER V.—LEASES.

This chapter will, in our opinion, be of practical use in the case of leases of buildings, gardens and mines. We agree with the Law Commissioners that it should not of itself apply to the relations between zamindár and raiyat, and we think that the power given to the Local Government by section 115 (now 116) to extend any of the provisions of the chapter to agricultural leases should only be exercised with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, and that the requisite notification should not take effect until the expiry of six months from the date of its publication.

The rule laid down in section 106, clause (i), as to the removeability of tenants' fixtures, has been objected to as not in accordance with the laws in force in this country. But it will operate only in the absence of a contract or local usage to the contrary, and will not in practice apply to tenants in husbandry. Moreover, it is impossible to say with certainty what the law of India on the subject really is. The Courts would, therefore, turn for guidance to the Civil law and the law of England. The Civil law permits a tenant to remove all fixtures where this can be effected without material injury to the property, and the strictness of the law of England has been relaxed where the fixtures have been annexed for the purposes of trade, manufacture, ornament, furniture and domestic use or convenience. The clause as drawn seems to us to represent with reasonable accuracy the rules of the Civil and the English law.

CHAPTER VI.—GIFTS.

We agree with the Law Commissioners that registration should be required in the case of gifts of immoveable property of whatever value. Such gifts are, as a rule, made by a written instrument and as, under the Registration Act (III of 1877), section 17, clause (a), the registration of such instruments is compulsory, the change of the existing law here proposed is [illegible]

We have struck out the clause in section 121 (now 122) which is founded on the rule in the Succession Act as to bequests to attesting witnesses. It is, we think, inapplicable to a transaction inter vivos, where the donor can give evidence of his intention.

We have also struck out the section (120) which declares that the donor is not bound to warranty. It seems to the majority of us useless as denying what no one in this country would ever assert. Our colleague Mr. Stokes would retain it as precluding a doubt which may reasonably be felt by the Courts (see Burge II, 145).

We have made verbal and other unimportant amendments in sections 11, 25, 36, 37, 51, 59, 61, 64, 80, 81, 90, 91, 99, 101, 106, 126, 133.

The Bill as now settled seems to us a systematic and useful arrangement of the existing law. But we agree with the Law Commissioners that, when the body of substantive civil law enacted for India is recast in a more compact and convenient form than that of a series of fragmentary portions from time to time passed by the legislature, the chapters on Sale, Mortgage, Lease and Exchange contained in the present Bill will probably be placed in close connection with the rules contained in the Contract Act. Till then they may fitly be left in a law containing what the Contract Act does not contain, namely, general rules regulating the transmission of property between living persons.

We do not think that these rules, as now amended, will substantially alter or add to the existing law, or that they will invade or displace the functions of the Judges of the existing Courts. We, therefore, recommend that the Bill be passed. Drawn originally in England by the former Indian Law Commissioners, it was revised by Sir A. Hobhouse and introduced into the Council of the Governor General in June, 1877. It has since been twice circulated to the Local Governments for opinion and publication, and twice reported on by Select Committees, in February, 1878, and February, 1879. It was then carefully revised by the late Indian Law Commission. It has now been again revised by us. We think, therefore, of this Bill, as of the Bill dealing with negotiable instruments, that it is not now likely to be improved without the experience to be gained from its actual working. We recommend, however, that it should be republished in the Gazette of India with this Report; and, in obedience to the orders of the Secretary of State, it must also be sent home to him, published in the local Gazettes, and translated into the vernacular languages.

Our hon'ble colleagues Messrs. Grant and Paul have not been able to attend our meetings, and do not, therefore, sign this report.

CHAPTER II.

OF TRANSFERS OF PROPERTY BY ACT OF PARTIES.

5. In the following sections "transfer" means an act by which one living person conveys to another, or to himself and another, in present or in future, the ownership of property or an interest therein, and "to transfer" is to perform such act.

"Transfer" defined.

6. The ownership of property of any kind may be transferred, except as otherwise provided by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force:—

What may be transferred.

Carlton v. Leighton, 3 Mer.; Cf. Act X of 1877, s. 266, clause (b).

(a) The chance of an heir-apparent succeeding to an estate, the chance of a relation obtaining a legacy on the death of a kinsman, or any other mere possibility of a like nature, cannot be transferred. The chance of a Hindú heir succeeding to property in the possession of a Hindú female cannot be transferred to any one except the present or future owner or co-owner of the property affected thereby.

Smith v. Packwood, 3 Ath. 129.

(b) A mere right of re-entry for breach of a condition subsequent cannot be transferred to any one except the owner of the property affected thereby.

(e) A mere right to sue for compensation for a fraud or for harm illegally caused cannot be transferred.

Cf. 11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 27.

(g) Stipends allowed to military and civil pensioners of Government and political pensions cannot be transferred.

Bill, s. 4: Bill III, s. 5 Report, s. 4.

7. Every person competent to contract and entitled to transferable property, or authorized to dispose of transferable property not his own, is competent to transfer such property either wholly or in part and either absolutely or conditionally, in the circumstances, to the extent and in the manner allowed and prescribed by any law for the time being in force.

Persons competent to transfer.

Bill, s. 10: Bill III, s. 6: Report, s. 10: v. last clause, Report, s. 6: 2 W. R. 125 (buildings): 14 W. R. 379. N.-W. P., 1870, p. 251: 24 W. R. 339 (trees), "everything grown on it." Morley N. S. 259.

8. Unless a different intention is expressed or necessarily implied, a transfer of property passes forthwith to the transferee all the interest which the transferor is then capable of passing in such property, and in the legal incidents thereof.

Operation of transfer.

Such incidents include, where the property is land, the easements annexed thereto, the rents and profits thereof accruing after the transfer, and all things attached to the earth;

and, where the property is machinery attached to the earth, the moveable parts thereof;

and, where the property is a house, the easements annexed thereto, the rent thereof accruing after the transfer, and the locks, keys, bars, doors, windows and all other things provided for permanent use therewith;

and, where the property is a debt or other actionable claim, the securities therefor, but not arrears of interest accrued before the transfer;

and, where the property is money or other property yielding income, the interest or income thereof accruing after the ownership passes.

7 Exch., s. 581.

9. A transfer may be made without writing in every case in which a writing is not expressly required by law.

Oral transfer.

Report, s. L. R. 3 Ch. D. 148, 285.

10. Where a transfer is subject to a condition or limitation absolutely restraining the transferee or any person claiming under him from parting with or disposing of his interest in the property transferred, the condition or limitation is void except in the case of a lease where the condition is for the benefit of the lessor or those claiming under him: provided that property may be transferred to or for the benefit of a woman (not being a Hindú, Muhammadan or Buddhist), so that she shall not have power during her marriage to transfer or charge the same or her beneficial interest therein.

Condition restraining alienation.

Act X of 1865, s. 125.

11. Where on a transfer of property an interest is created absolutely in favour of any person, but the terms of the transfer direct that such interest shall be applied or enjoyed in a particular manner, he shall be entitled to receive and dispose of such interest as if there were no such direction.

Restriction repugnant to interest created.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the right to restrain for the beneficial enjoyment of one piece of immoveable property, the enjoyment of another piece of such property, or to compel the enjoyment thereof in a particular manner.

Report, s. 48: See Act X of 1865, s. 107.

12. Where property is transferred subject to a condition or limitation making any interest therein reserved or given to or for the benefit of any person to cease on his becoming insolvent or endeavouring to transfer or dispose of the same, such condition or limitation is void.

Condition making interest determinable on insolvency or attempted alienation.

Nothing in this section applies to a condition in a lease for the benefit of the lessor or those claiming under him.

Act X of 1865, s. 100. Report, s. 49.

13. Where on a transfer of property an interest is created for the benefit of a person not in existence at the date of the transfer, subject to a prior interest created by the same transfer, the interest created for the benefit of such person shall not take effect, unless it extends to the whole of the remaining interest of the transferor in the property.

Transfer for benefit of person not in existence at date of transfer, subject to prior transfer.

Illustration.

A transfers property of which he is the owner to B in trust for A and his intended wife successively for their lives, and after the death of the survivor for the eldest son of the intended marriage for life, and after his death for his second son. The interest so created for the benefit of the eldest son does not take effect, because it does not extend to the whole of A's remaining interest in the property.

Report, s. 50, Succession Act, s. 101.

14. No transfer can operate to create an interest which is to take effect after the life-time of one or more persons living at the date of such transfer, and the minority of some person who shall be in existence at the expiration of that period, and to whom, if he attains full age, the interest created is to belong.

Rule against perpetuity.

Report, s. 51: Bentinck v. Duke of Portland, 7 Chan. D. 693.

15. If on a transfer of property an interest is created for the benefit of a class of persons with regard to some of whom such interest fails by reason of any of the rules contained in sections thirteen and fourteen, such interest fails as regards the whole class.

Transfer to class some of whom come under sections 13 and 14.

Report, s. 52.

16. Where an interest fails by reason of any of the rules contained in sections thirteen, fourteen and fifteen, any interest created in the same transaction and intended to take effect after or upon failure of such prior interest also fails.

Transfer to take effect on failure of prior transfer.

17. The restrictions in sections fourteen, fifteen and sixteen shall not apply to property transferred for the benefit of the public in the advancement of religion, knowledge, commerce, health, safety or any other object beneficial to mankind.

Transfer in perpetuity for benefit of public.

Act X of 1865, s. 104: Report, s. 53.

18. Where the terms of a transfer of property direct that the income arising therefrom shall be accumulated, such direction shall be void, and the property shall be disposed of as if no accumulation had been directed.

Direction for accumulation.

Donaldson v. Donaldson, L. R. 3 Chan. Div. 743.

Exception.—Where the property is immoveable or where accumulation is directed to be made from the date of the transfer, the direction shall be valid in respect only of the income arising from the property within one year next following such date; and at the end of the year such property and income shall be disposed of respectively as if the period during which the accumulation has been directed to be made had elapsed.

Report, ss. 56, 57, altered.

19. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of a person without specifying the time when it is to take effect, or in terms specifying that it is to take effect, forthwith or on the happening of an event which must happen, such interest is vested, unless a contrary intention appears from the terms of the transfer.

Vested interest.

A vested interest is not defeated by the death of the transferee before he obtains possession.

Explanation.—An intention that an interest shall not be vested is not to be inferred merely from a provision whereby the enjoyment thereof is postponed, or whereby a prior interest in the same property is given or reserved to some other person, or whereby income arising from the property is directed to be accumulated until the time of enjoyment arrives, or from a provision that if a particular event shall happen the interest shall pass to another person.

Report, s. 58, altered.

20. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created for the benefit of a person not then living, he acquires upon his birth, unless a contrary intention appear from the terms of the transfer, a vested interest, although he may not be entitled to the enjoyment thereof immediately on his birth.

Transfer for benefit of person not then living.

Act X of 1865, s. 107: Report, s. 59: IX, 72-88.

21. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of a person to take effect only on the happening of a specified uncertain event, or if a specified uncertain event shall not happen, such person thereby acquires a contingent interest in the property. Such interest becomes a vested interest, in the former case, on the happening of the event, in the latter, when the happening of the event becomes impossible.

Contingent interest.

Exception.—Where under a transfer a person becomes entitled to an interest in property upon attaining a particular age, and the transferor also gives to him absolutely the income to arise from such interest before he reaches that age, or directs the income or so much thereof as may be necessary to be applied for his benefit, such interest is not contingent.

Act X of 1865, s. 108: Report, s. 60.

Transfer to members of a class who attain a particular age.

22. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of such members only of a class as shall attain a particular age, such interest does not vest in any member of the class who has not attained that age.

Act X of 1865, s. 111: Report, s. 61.

Transfer contingent on happening of specified uncertain event.

23. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is to accrue to a specified person if a specified uncertain event shall happen, and no time is mentioned for the occurrence of that event, the interest fails unless such event happens before, or at the same time as, the intermediate or precedent interest ceases to exist.

Act X of 1865, s. 112.

Transfer to such of certain persons as survive at some period not specified.

24. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is to accrue to such of certain persons as shall be surviving at some period, but the exact period is not specified, the interest shall go to such of them as shall be alive when the intermediate or precedent interest ceases to exist, unless a contrary intention appears from the terms of the transfer.

Illustration.

A transfers property to B for life, and after his death to C and D, equally to be divided between them, or to the survivor of them. C dies during the life of B. D survives B. At B's death the property passes to D.

Act X of 1865, s. 113: Act X of 1865, s. 114, expanded with reference to Act IX of 1872, s. 23.

Conditional transfer.

25. An interest created on a transfer of property and dependent upon a condition fails if the fulfilment of the condition is impossible, or is forbidden by law, or is of such a nature that if permitted, it would defeat the provisions of any law, or is fraudulent, or involves or implies injury to the person or property of another, or the Court regards it as immoral or opposed to pubic policy.

(a). A lets a farm to B on condition that he shall walk a hundred miles in an hour. The lease is void.

(b). A gives Rs. 500 to B on condition that he shall marry A's daughter, C. At the date of the transfer C was dead. The transfer is void.

(c). A transfers Rs. 500 to B on condition that she shall murder C. The transfer is void.

(d). A transfers Rs. 500 to his niece C if she will desert her husband. The transfer is void.

Act X of 1865, s. 115.

Fulfilment of condition precedent.

26. Where the terms of a transfer of property impose a condition to be fulfilled before a person can take an interest in the property, the condition shall be deemed to have been fulfilled if it has been substantially complied with.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers Rs. 5,000 to B on condition that he shal marry with the consent of C, D and E. E dies. B marries with the consent of C and D. B has fulfilled the condition.

(b). A transfers Rs. 5,000 to B on condition that he shall marry with the consent of C, D and E. B marries without the consent of C, D and E, but obtains their consent after the marriage. B has not fulfilled the condition.

Act X of 1865, s. 116.

Conditional transfer to one person coupled with transfer to another on failure of prior transfer.

27. Where, on a transfer of propery, an interest is created in favour of one person, and by the same transaction an ulterior disposition of the same interest is made in favour of another if the prior interest under the transfer shall fail, the ulterior disposition shall take effect upon the failure of the prior disposition, although the failure may not have occurred in the manner contemplated by the transferor.

Act X of 1865, s. 117.

But where the intention of the parties to the transaction is that the ulterior disposition shall take effect only in the event of the prior disposition failing in a particular manner, the ulterior disposition shall not take effect unless the prior disposition fails in that manner.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers Rs. 500 to B on condition that he shall execute a certain lease within three months after A's death, and if he should neglect to do so, to C. B dies in A's lifetime. The transfer to C takes effect.

(b). A transfers property to his wife; but in case she should die in his life-time, transfers to B that which he had transferred to her. A and his wife perish together, under circumstances which make it impossible to prove that she died before him. The transfer to B does not take effect.

Act X of 1865, s. 118.

Ulterior transfer conditional on happening or not happening of specified event.

28. On a transfer of property an interest may be created to accrue to any person with the condition superadded that in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, such interest shall pass to another person; or that in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen, such interest shall pass to another person. In each case the dispositions are subject to the rules contained in sections ten, twelve, twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-five and twenty-seven.

Act X of 1865, s. 119.

Fulfilment of condition subsequent.

29. An ulterior disposition of the kind contemplated by the last preceding section cannot take effect unless the condition is strictly fulfilled.

Illustration.

A transfers Rs. 500 to B, to be paid to him on his attaining his majority or marrying, with a proviso that, if B dies a minor or marries without C's consent, the Rs. 500 shall go to D. B marries when only 17 years of age, without C's consent. The transfer to D takes effect.

Act X of 1865, s. 120.

Prior disposition not affected by invalidity of ulterior disposition.

30. If the ulterior disposition is not valid, the prior disposition is not affected by it.

Illustration.

A transfers a farm to B for her life, and, if she do not desert her husband, to C. B is entitled to the farm during her life as if no condition had been inserted.

Act X of 1865, s. 121.

Condition that transfer shall cease to have effect in case specified uncertain event happens or does not happen.

31. Subject to the provisions of section twelve, on a transfer of property an interest may be created with the condition superadded that it shall cease to exist in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, or in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers a farm to B for his life, with a proviso that, in case B cuts down a certain wood, the transfer shall cease to have any effect. B cuts down the wood. He loses his life-interest in the farm.

(b). A transfers a farm to B, provided that, if B shall not go to England within three years after the date of the transfer, his interest in the farm shall cease. A does not go to England within the term prescribed. His interest in the farm ceases.

Act X of 1865, s. 122.

Such condition must not be invalid.

Act X of 1865, s. 124.

Condition that transferee shall perform act at or before specified time.

33. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created subject to a condition that the person taking it shall perform a certain act at or before a specified time, and the transferor has at the time of creating the interest made an ulterior disposition thereof in favour of himself or of another, if the act be not performed within such time, the prior disposition ceases to have effect if the act is not performed within such time, or if the person benefited by the prior disposition renders the performance of the act impossible within the time specified. But where the transferor has not made any such ulterior disposition thereof, the transfer is, at the option of the transferor, voidable so far as regards such interest, if time is of the essence of the condition; but if it is not of the essence of the contract, the transfer shall not be so voidable.

When such intention is apparent, the circumstance that the interest has actually been enjoyed under the prior disposition does not affect the operation of the condition.

Transfer conditional on performance of act, no time being specified for performance.

34. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created subject to a condition that the person taking it shall perform a certain act, but no time is specified for the performance of the act, the condition is broken when he renders impossible, permanently or for an indefinite period, the performance of the condition.

Transfer conditional on performance of act, time being specified.

35. Where an act is to be performed by a person either as a condition to be fulfilled before an interest created on a transfer is enjoyed by him, or as a condition on the non-fulfilment of which the interest is to pass from him to another person, and a time is specified for the performance of the act, if such performance within the specified time is prevented by the fraud of a person who would be directly benefited by non-fulfilment of the condition, such further time shall as against him be allowed for performing the act as shall be requisite to make up for the delay caused by such fraud. But if no time is specified for the performance of the act, then if its performance is, by the fraud of a person interested in the non-fulfilment of the condition rendered impossible or indefinitely postponed, the condition shall as against him be deemed to have been fulfilled.

Election.

Draft, s. 62 added to.

Election when necessary.

36. Where a person professes to transfer property which he has no right to transfer, and as part of the same transaction confers any benefit on the owner of the property, such owner must elect either to confirm such transfer or to dissent from it; and in the latter case he shall relinquish the benefit so conferred, and the benefit so relinquished shall revert to the transferor or his representative as if it had not been disposed of,

Act X of 1865, s. 168.

subject nevertheless,

where the transfer is gratuitous and the transferor has before the election died or otherwise become incapable of making a fresh transfer,

and in all cases where the transfer is for consideration, to the charge of making good to the disappointed transferee the amount or value of the property attempted to be transferred to him.

Illustration.

The farm of Sultánpur is the property of C and worth Rs. 800. A by an instrument of gift professes to transfer it to B, giving by the same instrument Rs. 1,000 to C. C elects to retain the farm. He forfeits the gift of Rs. 1,000.

In the same case, A dies before the election. His representative must out of the Rs. 1,000 pay Rs. 800 to B.

Act X of 1865, s. 169.

The rule in the first paragraph of this section applies whether the transferor does or does not believe that which he professes to transfer to be his own.

Act X of 1865 s. 171.

A person taking no benefit directly under a transaction, but deriving a benefit under it indirectly, need not elect.

Act X of 1865 s. 172.

A person who in his one capacity takes a benefit under the transaction may in another dissent therefrom.

Exception to the last preceding four rules.—Where a particular benefit is expressed to be conferred on the owner of the property which the transferor professes to transfer expressed to be in lieu of that property, if such owner claim that he must relinquish the particular benefit, but he is not bound to relinquish any other benefit conferred upon him by the same transaction.

Act X of 1865 s. 173.

Acceptance of the benefit by the person on whom it is conferred constitutes an election by him to confirm the transfer, if he is aware of his duty to elect and of those circumstances which would influence the judgment of a reasonable man in making an election, or if he waives enquiry into the circumstances.

Act X of 1865 s. 174.

Such knowledge or waiver shall, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, be presumed, if the person on whom the benefit has been conferred has enjoyed it for two years without doing any act to express dissent.

Act X of 1865, s. 175.

Such knowledge or waiver may be inferred from any act of his which renders it impossible to place the persons interested in the property professed to be transferred in the same condition as if such act had not been done.

Illustration.

A transfers to B an estate to which to C is entitled, and to C a coal-mine. C takes possession of the mine and exhausts it. He has thereby confirmed the transfer of the estate to B.

Act X of 1865, s. 176. If he does not within one year after the date of the transfer signify to the transferor or his representatives his intention to confirm or to dissent from the transfer, the transferor or his representatives may, upon the expiration of that period, require him to make his election; and if he does not comply with such requisition within a reasonable time after he has received it, he shall be deemed to have elected to confirm the transfer.

Act X of 1865, s. 167. In case of disability, the election shall be postponed until the disability ceases, or until the election is made by some competent authority.

Apportionment.

Draft, s. 64: Bill III, s. 86.

37. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, all rents, annuities, pensions, dividends and other periodical payments in the nature of income shall, upon the transfer of the interest of the person entitled to receive such payments, be deemed, as between the transferor and the transferee, to accrue due from day to day, and to be apportionable accordingly, but to be payable on the days appointed for the payment thereof.

Apportionment of periodical payments on determination of interest of person entitled.

Severance of Obligation relating to property.

38. When in consequence of a transfer property is divided and held in several shares, and thereupon the benefit of any obligation relating to the property as a whole passes from one to several owners of the property, the corresponding duty shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary amongst the owners, be performed in favour of each of such owners in proportion to the value of his share in the property, provided that the duty can be severed and that the severance does not substantially increase the burden of the obligation; but if the duty cannot be severed, or if the severance would substantially increase the burden of the obligation, the duty shall be performed for the benefit of such one of the several owners as they shall jointly designate for that purpose:

Satisfaction of right arising in favour of several persons in consequence of a transfer.

Provided that no person on whom the burden of the obligation lies shall be answerable for failure to discharge it in manner provided by this section, unless and until he has had reasonable notice of the severance.

(a). A sells to B, C and D land situate in a village and leased to E at an annual rent of Rs. 30 and delivery of one fat sheep, B having provided half the purchase-money and C and D one quarter each. E having notice of this must pay Rs. 15 to B, Rs. 7½ to C and Rs 7½ to D, and must deliver the sheep according to the joint direction of B, C and D.

(b). Each house in the village being bound to provide ten days' labour each year on a dyke to prevent inundation, E had agreed as a term of his lease to perform this work for A. B, C and D severally require E to perform the ten days' work due on account of the house of each. E is not bound to do more than ten days' work in all, according to such directions as B, C and D may join in giving.

B.—Transfer of Immoveable Property.

Bill III, s. 7.

39. Where any person authorized only under circumstances in their nature variable to dispose of immoveable property transfers such property for consideration, alleging the existence of such circumstances, they shall, as between the transferee on the one part and the transferor and other persons (if any) affected by the transfer on the other part, be deemed to have existed, if the transferee, after using reasonable care to ascertain the existence of such circumstances, has acted in good faith.

Transfer by person authorized only under certain circumstances to transfer.

Illustration.

A, a Hindú widow, whose husband has left collateral heirs, agrees, for purposes neither religious nor charitable, to sell a field, part of the property held by her as such, to B. B satisfies himself by reasonable enquiry that the income of the property is in sufficient for A's maintenance, and that the sale of the field is necessary, and, acting in good faith, buys the field. As between B on the one part and A and the collateral heirs on the other part, a necessity for the sale shall be deemed to have existed.

40. Where a third person has a right to receive maintenance or a provision for advancement or marriage from the profits of immoveable property, and such property is transferred with the intention of defeating such right, the right may be enforced against the transferee, if he has notice of such intention or if the transfer is gratuitous; but not against a transferee for consideration and without notice of the right, nor against such property in his hands.

(a). A, a Hindú, transfers Sultánpur to his sister-in-law B, in lieu of her claim against him for maintenance in virtue of his having succeeded to her deceased husband's property, and agrees with her that if she is dispossessed of Sultánpur, A will transfer to her an equal area out of such of several other specified villages in his possession as she may elect. A sells the specified villages to C, who buys in good faith, without notice of the agreement. B is dispossessed of Sultánpur. She has no claim on the villages transferred to C.

(b). A, a Hindú widow, is entitled to maintenance out of the share of her deceased husband in Basauli, which has passed to his brother B. B sells Basauli to C, who has notice that there is no other property to satisfy A's claim. A may claim maintenance out of Basauli in the hands of C.

Where for the more beneficial enjoyment of his own immoveable property a third person has, independently of any interest in the immoveable property of another, a right to restrain the enjoyment of the latter property or to compel its enjoyment in a particular manner, or or has a right to restrain its enjoyment,

where a third person is entitled to the benefit of an obligation arising out of contract and annexed to the ownership of immoveable property, but not amounting to an interest therein or easement thereon, or is entitled to benefit of obligation not amounting to interest or easement.

such right or obligation may be enforced against a transferee with notice thereof or a gratuitous transferee of the property affected thereby, but not against a transferee for consideration and without notice of the right or obligation, nor against such property in his hands.

Illustration.

A contracts to sell Sultánpur to B. While the contract is still in force he sells Sultánpur to C, who has notice of the contract. B may enforce the contract against C to the same extent as against A.

Bill III, s. 7: Act IX of 1872, s. 108, excepn. 2.

41. Where with the consent, express or implied, of the persons interested in immoveable property, a person is the ostensible owner of such property and transfers the same for consideration, the transfer shall not be voidable on the ground that the transferor was not authorized to make it: provided that the transferee, after taking reasonable care to ascertain that the transferor had power to make the transfer, has acted in good faith.

Transfer by ostensible owner.

(a). A, one of two co-proprietors of village land, leaves his village, and with his consent the land is registered by the Revenue-officer in the name of B, the other co-proprietor. After ten years B sells a portion of the land to C, who takes reasonable care to ascertain that B had power to make the transfer and acts in good faith. A is not entitled to have the sale set aside.

(b). A buys land and causes it to be transferred to his servant B to hold on his behalf, and also causes it to be entered in the revenue register in B's name. C, having ascertained that B is the registered owner of the land and pays the revenue due in respect thereof, buys the land in good faith from B. A cannot impeach the sale.

Bill III, s. 10A, para. 2.

42. Where a person having authority to revoke a transfer of any immoveable property executes a deed of revocation, such transfer operates in favour of the transferee (subject to any condition attached to the exercise of the authority) as a revocation of the former transfer to the extent of the authority.

Transfer by person having authority to revoke transfer.

Illustration.

A lets a house to B and reserves power to revoke the lease if in the opinion of a specified surveyor B should make a use of it detrimental to its value. Afterwards A, thinking that such a use has been made, lets the house to C. This operates as a revocation of B's lease subject to the opinion of the surveyor as to B's use of the house having been detrimental to its value.

43. Where a person erroneously represents that he is authorized to transfer certain immoveable property, and assumes to transfer such property for consideration, such transfer shall, at the option of the transferee, operate on any interest which the transferor may acquire in such property, at any time during which the contract of transfer subsists.

Transfer by unauthorized person who subsequently acquires interest in property transferred.

Nothing in this section shall impair the right of transferees in good faith for consideration without notice of the existence of the said option.

Illustration.

A, a Hindú who has separated from his father B, sells to C three fields, X, Y and Z. Of these Z does not belong to A, it having been retained by B on the partition; but on B's dying A obtains Z as heir. C, not having rescinded the contract of sale, may require A to deliver Z to him.

Bill III, s. 9.

44. Where one of two or more co-owners of immoveable property legally competent in that behalf transfers his share of such property or any interest therein, the transferee acquires as to such share or interest, and so far as is necessary to give effect to the transfer, the transferor's right to joint possession or other common or part enjoyment of the property, and to enforce a partition of the same, but subject to the conditions and liabilities affecting, at the date of the transfer, the share or interest so transferred.

Transfer by one co-owner.

Where the transferee of a share of a dwelling-house belonging to an undivided family is a stranger nothing in this section shall be deemed to entitle him to joint-possession or other common or part enjoyment of the house.

Bill III, s. 18.

45. Where property is transferred for consideration to two or more persons, and such consideration is paid out of a fund belonging to them in common, they are in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively entitled to interests in such property identical, as nearly as may be, with the interests to which they were respectively entitled to the fund; and where such consideration is paid out of separate funds belonging to them respectively, they are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively entitled to interests in such property in proportion to the shares of the consideration which they respectively advanced.

Joint transfer for consideration.

In the absence of evidence as to the interests in [illegible] they shall be presumed to be equally interested in the property.

Illustration.

A and B are the sons and C the grandson of a Hindú who has died leaving property. C's father D has also died. A partition has been made after which A and B have reunited. C remains severed in interest, his share being one-third. The separate property of D is of the same value. The whole fund belonging to A, B and C is expended in buying an estate, X. A and B take one moiety of X as joint estate and C takes the other moiety as separate property.

46. Where a transfer of immoveable property is made for consideration by persons having distinct interests therein, the transferors are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to share in the consideration equally, where their interests in the property transferred were of equal value, and, where such interests were of unequal value, proportionately to the value of their respective interests.

Transfer for consideration by persons having distinct interests.

Illustrations.

(a). A, owing a moiety, and B and C, each a quarter share of mauza Sultánpur, exchange an eighth share of that mauza for a quarter share of mauza Lálpura. There being no agreement to the contrary, A is entitled to the eighth share in Lálpura, and B and C each to a quarter share in that mauza.

(b). A being entitled to a life interest in mauza Atrali and B and C to the reversion, sell the mauza for Rs. 1,000. A's life interest is ascertained to be worth Rs. 600, the reversion Rs. 400. A is entitled to receive Rs. 600 out of the purchase money, B and C to receive Rs. 400.

47. Where several co-owners of immoveable property transfer a share therein without specifying that the transfer is to take effect on any particular share or shares of the transferors, the transfer, as among such transferors, takes effect on such shares equally where the shares were equal, and where they were unequal, proportionately to the extent of such shares.

Transfer by co-owners of share in common property.

A, the owner of an eight annas share, and B and C, each the owner of a four annas share, in mauza Sultánpur, transfer a two-anna share in the mauza to D, without specifying from which of their several shares the transfer is made. To give effect to the transfer one anna share is taken from the share of A, and half an anna share from each of the shares of B and C.

48. Where a person purports to create by transfer at different times rights in or over the same immoveable property, and such rights cannot all exist or be exercised to their full extent together, each later created right shall, in the absence of a special contract or reservation binding the earlier transferees, be subject to the rights previously created.

Priority of rights created by transfer.

Bill III, ss. 17, 38.

49. Where immoveable property is transferred for consideration, and such property or any part thereof is at the date of the transfer insured against loss or damage by fire, the transferee, in case of such loss or damage, may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, require any money which the transferor actually receives under the policy, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be applied in reinstating the property.

Transferee's right under policy.

Bill III, s. 8: Act X. 1855, s. 1.

Act XI of 1855, s. 2. 2 Bom. 225.

51. When the transferee of immoveable property makes any improvement on the property, believing in good faith that he is absolutely entitled thereto, and he is subsequently evicted therefrom by any person having a better title, the transferee or his representative in interest has a right to require the person causing the eviction either to have the value of the improvement estimated and paid or secured to the transferee, or to sell his interest in the property to the transferee at the then market value thereof irrespective of the value of such improvement.

Improvements made by bonâ fide holders under defective titles.

The amount to be paid or secured in respect of such improvement shall be the estimated value thereof at the time of the eviction.

When under the circumstances aforesaid the transferee has planted or sown on the property crops which are growing when he is evicted therefrom, he is entitled to such crops and to free ingress and egress to gather and carry them.

52. During the active prosecution in any Court having authority in British India, or established beyond the limits of British India by the Governor General in Council, of a contentious suit or proceeding in which any right to immoveable property is directly and specifically in question, the property cannot be transferred or otherwise dealt with by any party to the suit or proceeding so as to affect the rights of any other party thereto under any decree or order which may be made therein, except under the authority of the Court and on such terms as it may impose.

Transfer of property pending suit relating thereto.

Bill III, s. 10A: Cf. Act I of 1877, s. 53.

53. Every transfer of immoveable property made with intent to defraud prior or subsequent transferees thereof for consideration, or co-owners or other persons having an interest in such property, or to defeat or delay the creditors of the transferor, is voidable at the option of any person so defrauded, defeated or delayed.

Fraudulent transfer.

Where the effect of any transfer of immoveable property is to defraud, defeat or delay any such person, and such transfer is made gratuitously or for a grossly inadequate consideration, the transfer may be presumed to have been made with such intent as aforesaid.

Nothing contained in this section shall impair the rights of any transferee in good faith and for consideration.

CHAPTER III.

OF SALES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

54. "Sale" is a transfer of ownership in exchange for a price paid or promised or part-paid and part-promised.

"Sale" defined.

A contract for the sale of immoveable property is a contract that a sale of such property shall take place on terms settled between the parties.

Contract for sale.

It does not, of itself, create any interest in or charge on such property.

Bill, s. 11: Bill II, s. 11: Bill III, s. 12: Report, s. 14.

55. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the buyer and the seller of immoveable property respectively are subject to the liabilities, and have the rights, mentioned in the rules next following, or such of them as are applicable to the property sold :

Rights and liabilities of buyer and seller.

Bill III, s. 12 (c).

(7) to pay all public charges and rent accrued due in respect of the property up to the date of the sale, the interest on all incumbrances on such property due on such date ; and, except where the property is sold subject to incumbrances, to discharge all incumbrances on the property then existing ; and

(9) Where the whole of the purchase-money has been paid to the seller, he is also bound to deliver to the buyer all documents of title relating thereto which are in the seller's possession or power :

Bill III, s. 12 (i).

provided that (1), where the seller retains any part of the property comprised in such documents, he is entitled to retain them all, and (2), where the whole of such property is sold to different buyers, the buyer of the lot of greatest value is entitled to such documents. But in case (1) the seller, and in case (2) the buyer of the lot of greatest value, is bound, upon every reasonable request by the buyer, or by any of the other buyers, as the case may be, or by any person claiming under him, and at the cost of the person making the request, to produce the said documents and furnish such true copies thereof as he may require ; and in the meantime, the seller or the buyer, as the case may be, of the lot of greatest value must keep the said documents safe, uncancelled and undefaced, unless prevented from so doing by fire or other inevitable accident ;

Bill III, s. 13 (b).

(1) to disclose to the seller any fact as to the nature or extent of the seller's interest in the property of which the buyer is aware, but of which he has reason to believe that the seller is not aware, and which increases the value of such interest ;

(2) to pay or tender, at the time and place of completing the transfer, the purchase-money to the seller or such person as he directs : provided that, where the property is sold free from incumbrances, the buyer may retain out of the purchase-money the amount of the incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the transfer, and shall pay the amount so retained to the persons entitled thereto ;

Bill III, s. 12 (e).

(3) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, to bear any loss arising from

Bill III, s. 15. (4) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, as between himself and the seller, to pay all public charges and rent which may become payable in respect of the property, the principal moneys due on the incumbrances subject to which the property is sold, and the interest thereon afterwards accruing due.

Bill III, s. 12 (a). (1) where the ownership of the property has passed to him, to the benefit of any improvement in, or increase in value of, the property, and to the rents and profits thereof;

Bill III, s. 12 (e). (2) unless he has improperly declined to accept delivery of the property, to a charge on the property as against the seller and all persons claiming under him with notice of the payment, to the extent of the seller's interest on the property, for the amount of any purchase-money properly paid by the buyer in anticipation of the delivery and for interest on such amount; and when he properly declines to accept the delivery, also for the earnest (if any) and for the costs (if any) awarded to him of a suit to compel specific performance of the contract or to obtain a decree for its rescission.

Bill III, s. 18. An omission to make such disclosures as are mentioned in this section, paragraph (a), clause (1), and paragraph (c), clause (1), is fraudulent.

Bill III, s. 19. 56. Where two properties are subject to a common charge, and one of the properties is sold, the buyer is, as against the seller, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to have the charge satisfied out of the other property, so far as such property will extend.

CHAPTER IV.

OF MORTGAGES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY AND CHARGES.

Bill II, s. 25: Bill III, s. 21: Bill, s. 13: Act XXVIII of 1866, s. 19: 23 & 24 Vic., c. 145. 57. (a). A mortgage is the transfer of an interest in specific immoveable property for the purpose of securing the payment of money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan, an existing or future debt, or the performance of an engagement which may give rise to a pecuniary liability.

"Mortgage," "mortgagor" and "mortgagee" defined.

The transferor is called a mortgagor, the transferee a mortgagee; the principal-money and interest of which payment is secured for the time being are called the mortgage-money, the interest transferred is called the mortgaged property, and the assurance (if any) by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

(b). Where, without delivering possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor binds himself personally to pay the mortgage-money and agrees, expressly or impliedly, that, in the event of his failing to pay according to his contract, the mortgagee shall have a right to cause the mortgaged property to be sold and the proceeds of sale to be applied, so far as may be necessary, in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called a simple mortgage and the mortgagee a simple mortgagee.

Simple mortgage. Moo. I. A. 275, 306. Colebs. Dig. B. i, t. III, t. 96.

(c). Where the mortgagor ostensibly sells the mortgaged property—

Mortgage by conditional sale.

on condition that on default of payment of the mortgage-money on a certain date the sale shall become absolute, or on condition that on such payment being made the sale shall become void, or on condition that on such payment being made the buyer shall transfer the property to the seller, the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale and the mortgagee a mortgagee by conditional sale.

(d). Where the mortgagor delivers possession of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee and authorises him to retain such possession until payment of the mortgage-money, and to receive the rents and profits accruing from the property and to appropriate them in lieu of interest or in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage and the mortgagee an usufructuary mortgagee.

Usufructuary mortgage.

(e). Where the mortgagor binds himself to repay the mortgage-money on a certain date, and transfers the mortgaged property absolutely to the mortgagee, but subject to a condition that he will re-transfer it to the mortgagor upon payment of the mortgage-money as agreed, the transaction is called an English mortgage.

English mortgage. Macph. & R. 59; Ghose 218, 222; 2 Moo. I. A. 487.

58. Where the principal money secured is one hundred rupees or upwards, a mortgage can be effected only by registered assurance signed by the mortgagor and attested by at least two witnesses.

Mortgage, when to be by assurance. Bill II, s. [illegible] Bill III, s. [illegible] See Macph. & R. B. Ghose 64.

Where the principal money secured is less than one hundred rupees, a mortgage may be effected either by assurance signed and attested as aforesaid or by delivery of the property.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to render invalid mortgages made in the towns of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Karáchí and Rangoon, by delivery to a creditor or his agent of documents of title to immoveable property, with intent to create a security thereon.

Rights and Liabilities of Mortgagor.

59. At any time after the principal money has become payable, the mortgagor, or, where there are more mortgagors than one, any of the mortgagors, has a right, on payment or tender, at a proper time and place, of the mortgage-money, to require the mortgagee (a) to deliver the mortgage-deed, if any, (b) where the mortgagee is in possession of the mortgaged property, to deliver possession thereof to the mortgagor, and (c) at the cost of the mortgagor either to re-transfer the mortgaged property to him or to such person as he may direct, or to execute and (where the mortgage has been effected by registered assurance) to have registered an acknowledgment in writing that any right in derogation of his ownership or other interest transferred to the mortgagee has been extinguished:

6 Bom. A. C. J. 265: N. W. P., 1869, p. 128.

provided that the right conferred by this section has not been extinguished by act of the parties or by order of a Court.

The right conferred by this section is called a right to redeem, and a suit to enforce it is called a suit for redemption.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to render invalid any provision to the effect that, if the time fixed for payment of the principal money has been allowed to pass or no such time has been fixed, the mortgagee shall be entitled to reasonable notice before payment or tender of such money.

Redemption of portion of mortgaged property.

Nothing in this section shall entitle a person interested in a share only of the mortgaged property to redeem his own share only, on payment of a proportionate part of the amount remaining due on the mortgage, except where a mortgagee, or, if there are more mortgagees than one, all such mortgagees, has or have acquired, the whole or in part, the share of a mortgagee.

Right to redeem one of two properties separately mortgaged.

60. If the owner of two or more properties makes separate mortgages on them by separate instruments, each mortgage may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be dealt with irrespectively of the other, though the mortgages are made in favour of the same mortgagee.

Illustration.

A, the owner of farms Z and Y, mortgages Z to B for Rs. 1,000. A afterwards mortgages Y to B for Rs. 1,000 making no stipulation as to any additional charge on Z. A may institute a suit for the redemption of the mortgage on Z alone.

Bill III, s. 23, clause (c).

61. In the case of a usufructuary mortgage, the mortgagor has a right to recover possession of the property—

Right of usufructuary mortgagor to recover possession.

(a) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself the mortgage-money from the rents and profits of the property,—when such money is paid;

(b) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from such rents and profits the interest of the principal money,—when the term (if any) prescribed for the payment of the mortgage-money has expired and the mortgagor pays or tenders to the mortgagee the principal money or deposits it in Court as hereinafter provided.

Bill III, s. 25: 10 Bom. 369: 11 Bomb. 32: I. L. R. 5 Calc. 198.

62. Where mortgaged property in possession of the mortgagee has, during the continuance of the mortgage, received any accession, the mortgagor, upon redemption, shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be entitled as against the mortgagee to such accession.

Accession to mortgaged property.

Where such accession has been acquired at the cost of the mortgagee, and is capable of separate possession or enjoyment without detriment to the principal property, the mortgagor desiring to take the accession must pay to the mortgagee the cost of acquiring it. If such separate possession or enjoyment is not possible, the accession must be delivered with the property, the mortgagor being liable in the case of an acquisition necessary to preserve the property from destruction, forfeiture or sale, or made with his assent, to pay the proper cost thereof, as an addition to the principal money, at the same rate of interest.

Accession acquired in virtue of transferred ownership.

In the case last mentioned the profits, if any, arising from the accession shall be credited to the mortgagor.

Where the mortgage is usufructuary and the accession has been acquired at the cost of the mortgagee, the profits, if any, arising from the accession shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be set off against interest, if any, payable on the money so expended.

(e) and, where the mortgage is a second or subsequent incumbrance on the property, that the mortgagor will pay the interest from time to time accruing due on each prior incumbrance as and when it becomes due, and will at the proper time discharge the principal money due on such prior incumbrance.

78. If a mortgage made to secure future advances, the performance of an engagement or the balance of a running account expresses the maximum to be secured thereby, a subsequent mortgage of the same property shall, if made with notice of the prior mortgage, or if the instrument effecting the prior mortgage is registered, be postponed to the prior mortgage in respect of all advances or debits not exceeding the maximum, though made or allowed with notice of the subsequent mortgage.

Illustration.

A mortgages Sultánpur to his bankers, B & Co., to secure the balance of his account with them to the extent of Rs. 10,000. A then mortgages Sultánpur to C, to secure Rs. 10,000; and C gives notice thereof to B & Co. At the date of the second mortgage, the balance due to B & Co. does not exceed Rs. 5,000. B & Co. subsequently advance to A sums making the balance of the account against him exceed the sum of Rs. 10,000. B & Co. are entitled, to the extent of Rs. 10,000, to priority over C.

Bill II, s. 75: Bill, s. 48.

109. Where the time limited by a lease of immoveable property is expressed as commencing from a particular day, in computing that time such day shall be excluded. Where no day of commencement is named, the time so limited begins from the making of the lease.

Exclusion of day on which term commences.

Where the time so limited is a year or a number of years, in the absence of an express agreement to the contrary, the lease shall last during the whole anniversary of the day from which such time commences.

Duration of lease for a year.

Where the time so limited is expressed to be terminable before its expiration, and the lease omits to mention at whose option it is so terminable, the lessee, and not the lessor, shall have such option.

Option to determine lease.

18 W. R. 465. But see 22 W. R. 448. 25 W. R. 147.

(h) on the expiration of a notice to determine the lease, or to quit, or of intention to quit, the property leased, duly given by one party to the other.

Illustration to clause (f).

A, the lessee, accepts from the lessor a new lease of the property leased, to take effect during the continuance of the existing lease. This is an implied surrender of the former lease, and such lease determines thereupon.

111. A forfeiture under section one hundred and ten, clause (g), is waived by acceptance of rent which has become due since the forfeiture, or by distress for such rent, or by any other act on the part of the lessor showing an intention to treat the lease as subsisting:

Waiver of forfeiture.

Provided that the lessor is aware that the forfeiture has been incurred:

2 Bom. 73.

Provided also that, where rent is accepted after the institution of a suit to eject the lessee on the ground of forfeiture, such acceptance is not a waiver.

112. A notice given under section one hundred and ten, clause (h), is waived, with the express or implied consent of the person to whom it is given, by any act on the part of the person giving it showing an intention to treat the lease as subsisting.

Waiver of notice to quit.

Illustrations.

(a). A, the lessor, gives B, the lessee, notice to quit the property leased. The notice expires. B tenders, and A accepts, rent which has become due in respect of the property since the expiration of the notice. The notice is waived.

(b). A, the lessor, gives B, the lessee, notice to quit the property leased. The notice expires, and B remains in possession. A gives to B as lessee a second notice to quit. The first notice is waived.

113. Where a lease of immoveable property has determined by forfeiture for non-payment of rent, and the lessor sues to eject the lessee, if, at the hearing of the suit, the lessee pays or tenders to the lessor the rent in arrear, together with interest thereon and his full costs of the suit, or gives such security as the Court thinks sufficient for making such payment within fifteen days, the Court may, in lieu of making a decree for ejectment, pass an order relieving the lessee against the forfeiture; and thereupon the lessee shall hold the property leased as if the forfeiture had not occurred.

Relief against forfeiture for non-payment of rent.

Act XVIII of 1873, s. 34, cl. (c), para. 1.

114. The surrender, express or implied, of a lease of immoveable property does not prejudice an under-lease of the property or any part thereof previously granted by the lessee, on terms and conditions substantially the same (except as regards the amount of rent) as those of the original lease; but, unless the surrender is made for the purpose of obtaining a new lease, the rent payable by and the contracts binding on the under-lessee shall be respectively payable to and enforceable by the lessor.

Effect of surrender and forfeiture on under-leases.

10 W. R. 384. 13 W. R. 281. N. W. P., 1871, p. 63.

The forfeiture of a lease annuls all such under-leases, except where such forfeiture has been procured by the lessor in fraud of the under-lessees.

115. If a lessee or under-lessee of property remains in possession thereof after the determination of the lease, and the lessor or his legal representative accepts rent from the lessee or under-lessee, or otherwise assents to his continuing in possession, the lease is, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, renewed from year to year, or from month to month, according to the purpose for which the property is leased, as specified in section one hundred and seven.

116. None of the provisions of this chapter apply to leases for agricultural purposes, except in so far as the local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may by notification published in the official Gazette declare all or any of such provisions to be so applicable, together with, or subject to, those of the local law, if any, for the time being in force.

Such notification shall not take effect until the expiry of six months from the date of its publication.

B refuses to accept the lease. He does not by this refusal forfeit the money.

Note by D. Fitzpatrick, Esq., Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department, dated 22nd January, 1881, and enclosures [Papers No. 40].

2. We have carefully considered the alternative drafts proposed by Sir C. Turner and Mr. Justice West, but we cannot recommend either of them for adoption. Sir C. Turner's has the advantage of simplifying the measure in certain respects, but this advantage is gained by leaving it to the Courts to decide questions of great importance and difficulty at their mere discretion and without any rules to guide them.

3. We think that the Bill submitted to the Law Commission will answer its purposes, subject only to two alterations in substance, namely, the substitution of one simple rule for the several rules originally proposed for determining the manner in which newly formed land, to which it is admitted the riparian owners are entitled, should be distributed among them, and a modification of the definition of frontage.

4. As regards the former, it seems to us that the rules laid down by the Bill as last settled for deciding disputes between competing riparian owners and dividing the new land between them would be likely to give rise to difficulties in practice.

These rules are different for rivers on the one hand, and the sea and lakes on the other; and again, for islands, for land formed on the bank and for abandoned river-beds. These distinctions not only make the law more complicated, but, further, may give rise to questions for the solution of which that Bill does not altogether provide. Again, in some instances (sections 4 and 6), they merely postpone the evil day by leaving important difficulties to be disposed of by rules to be made hereafter by the Local Governments. Further, they greatly complicate the question by making its solution depend on the "thread of the stream," a line or combination of lines which it would often be hard to determine, and which might, when determined, turn out to be of a very irregular shape; and, as regards the particular matter of the normals to be drawn under sections 7 and 9, it appears that cases would sometimes present themselves in practice in which no such normals could be drawn.

5. To avoid these difficulties we propose to substitute for the original provisions of the Bill on this point, two rules which will cover all cases in which two or more riparian owners may be conceived to have claims to a new formation. The first of these rules is intended to apply to all cases in which new land is formed on a bank by imperceptible increments; the second to all other formations to which riparian owners may have a claim.

6. The former class of cases appears to us to be simple enough. We conceive that, when land is formed by imperceptible degrees on a portion of the bank belonging to a single proprietor, he should take that land in whatever direction and to whatever extent it may grow. It is only when the formation, or any portion of it, springs from a nucleus at the point of junction of two frontages that any question can arise, and we have (section 4) provided that in this case the dividing line shall be the bisector of the angle between the two frontages.

7. The cases to be dealt with by the second rule, on the contrary, may present every variety of complication, but we think they may be provided for by a rule which is capable of being simply expressed, which would generally be easy to apply, and about the application of which there would never be any serious difficulty, and which, moreover, would make as fair a division of the new land as can be hoped for in a class of cases for which, in the absence of anything in the way of a definite principle to guide us, we must be content with a somewhat rough-and-ready rule.

The rule we propose (section 6) is that each particle of the new formation shall belong to that one of the riparian owners who can show a point in his frontage nearest to it; provided that, when the line dividing the portion of the land to which one owner is entitled from the portion to which another is entitled is an arc of a curve, the chord of such arc shall be substituted for the arc. The dividing line given by this rule will be different according to the relative positions of the two competing frontages, but it will be one which it will be always easy to draw.

In ordinary cases it will be the bisector of the angle between the frontages, or, in the case of holdings on opposite sides of a river with parallel frontages, a line parallel to the frontages and equidistant from both; in others it will be the perpendicular erected at the middle point of the line connecting the extremities of the frontages; and in others, again, it will be the chord of a parabola. As this last line might at first sight be supposed to present some difficulty, we think it well to explain that the chord can be drawn without describing the parabola, and by a person altogether ignorant of the nature and properties of that curve. It is, in fact, simply the right line connecting two points which could be fixed by any patwárí or amín without the slightest difficulty. We may add, as regards the substitution of the chord for the arc in this case, that it not only simplifies the problem, but also makes what we believe, would, by most persons be considered a fairer division of the land.

8. Coming now to the definition of "frontage," it has been pointed out to us by Mr. Elliot that the original definition would, under the Bill as last settled, sometimes lead to anomalous results, as, for example, when a riparian holding extended completely round the concave face of a sharp curve in a river, in which case the frontage might approach within a few yards of the opposite bank or even cut off a considerable portion of it. These anomalies would be increased rather than diminished under the new rule for the division of the land now adopted, and we have accordingly been compelled to seek for a new definition.

The object of introducing the "frontage" is to substitute right lines for the irregularly shaped bank of the river, and thus to simplify the application of our rules: the defect of the original definition is that, in requiring a single right line to be substituted for the entire riparian boundary of each holding, the artificial riparian boundaries thus obtained in some cases deviate too widely from the real boundaries; and the remedy appears to be to declare that in such cases, instead of the single line, a series of two, or, if necessary, more, lines following more closely the real line of the bank shall be adopted. For this we have attempted to provide in the directions given in schedule II for drawing a frontage.

9. We have struck out the definition of "owner," as we think that the Courts may be trusted to determine who in a given case is the riparian proprietor, and we have also omitted the definitions of "thread of the stream," as the expression does not occur in the body of the Bill as now settled.

10. We think that the Bill should save local customs not only in the Panjáb but in all other territories to which it is to apply. We have accordingly excluded the section effecting this saving to the whole of British India; but we have omitted the proviso annexed to it in the Bill, as settled by the Select Committee in March, 1879, as the matter to which it relates is one falling outside the scope of the present Bill.

11. The Bill, No. II, together with the Preliminary Report of the Select Committee, has been published in English in Bombay, the North-Western Provinces, the Panjáb, the Central Provinces and British Burma, and in vernacular in Bombay, the Panjáb and the Central Provinces. We do not propose that any further step should be taken in respect to the Bill until it has been published in the Gazette and circulated to Local Governments with a view to obtaining opinions on it in its new form. It must also, by order of the Secretary of State, be re-translated into the Native languages and sent home to him for consideration. In fact, having regard to the complication and difficulty of the subject, we should prefer to have our present proposals treated as suggestions thrown out for discussion rather than as furnishing a final solution of the questions at issue.

It includes such land arising in a river or lake, submerged in the wet season and visible only in the dry season; but it excludes land arising in tidal rivers, tidal lakes or the sea, submerged by the flow of ordinary tides throughout the year:

"frontage" used with reference to a holding means the line or lines determined for such holding in the manner prescribed in the second schedule hereto annexed:

3 W. R. 95: 6 Ben. 343. and a channel is said to be "fordable" when it does not exceed five feet in depth in the dry season next after the formation referred to and throughout the twenty-four hours.

II.—Alluvial Land and Abandoned River-beds.

Right to alluvial land formed on bank or shore. 4. Where from natural causes land is formed, by imperceptible degrees, on the bank or shore of a river, the sea or a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, sea or lake, the owner of the bank or shore is entitled to the land so formed.

When the formation takes place at the junction of two holdings, each owner shall be entitled to so much of the formation as lies on his side of a line drawn through the point of junction and bisecting the angle between the two frontages at that point.

Where an island is formed, from natural causes, in a river, the sea or a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, sea or lake, if the island is separated from each bank or shore by a channel not fordable at any point, the Government is entitled to such island.

Islands where one or both channels fordable. 6. Where an island is formed from natural causes in a river, the sea or a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, sea or lake, and is separated from the bank or banks by a fordable channel or fordable channels:

and where a river suddenly abandons its bed, Suth. W. R. 1864, p. 103. each particle of the island or land so formed, or the river-bed so abandoned, shall belong to that one of the riparian owners who can show a point on the frontage of his holding nearest to such particle:

Provided that when the channel separating an island so formed in a river from one bank is fordable and the channel separating such island from the other bank is not fordable, the owners of the former bank shall alone be entitled as such to the island:

Provided also that when the line dividing the formation to which one owner is entitled under this section from the formation to which another owner is entitled under this section is an arc of a curve, the chord of such arc shall be substituted therefor.

Power to declare where tidal rivers end. 7. The Local Government may, from time to time, declare, with reference to any tidal river, where, for the purposes of this Act, the river shall be deemed to end and the sea to begin.

Every declaration made under this section shall be published in the official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law. And no such declaration shall be cancelled or altered save with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

Note by D. Fitzpatrick, Esq., Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department, dated 22nd January, 1881, and enclosures [Papers No. 40].

2. We have carefully considered the alternative drafts proposed by Sir C. Turner and Mr. Justice West, but we cannot recommend either of them for adoption. Sir C. Turner's has the advantage of simplifying the measure in certain respects, but this advantage is gained by leaving it to the Courts to decide questions of great importance and difficulty at their mere discretion and without any rules to guide them.

3. We think that the Bill submitted to the Law Commission will answer its purposes, subject only to two alterations in substance, namely, the substitution of one simple rule for the several rules originally proposed for determining the manner in which newly formed land, to which it is admitted the riparian owners are entitled, should be distributed among them, and a modification of the definition of frontage.

4. As regards the former, it seems to us that the rules laid down by the Bill as last settled for deciding disputes between competing riparian owners and dividing the new land between them would be likely to give rise to difficulties in practice.

These rules are different for rivers on the one hand, and the sea and lakes on the other; and again, for islands, for land formed on the bank and for abandoned river-beds. These distinctions not only make the law more complicated, but, further, may give rise to questions for the solution of which that Bill does not altogether provide. Again, in some instances (sections 4 and 6), they merely postpone the evil day by leaving important difficulties to be disposed of by rules to be made hereafter by the Local Governments. Further, they greatly complicate the question by making its solution depend on the "thread of the stream," a line or combination of lines which it would often be hard to determine, and which might, when determined, turn out to be of a very irregular shape; and, as regards the particular matter of the normals to be drawn under sections 7 and 9, it appears that cases would sometimes present themselves in practice in which no such normals could be drawn.

5. To avoid these difficulties we propose to substitute for the original provisions of the Bill on this point, two rules which will cover all cases in which two or more riparian owners may be conceived to have claims to a new formation. The first of these rules is intended to apply to all cases in which new land is formed on a bank by imperceptible increments; the second to all other formations to which riparian owners may have a claim.

6. The former class of cases appears to us to be simple enough. We conceive that, when land is formed by imperceptible degrees on a portion of the bank belonging to a single proprietor, he should take that land in whatever direction and to whatever extent it may grow. It is only when the formation, or any portion of it, springs from a nucleus at the point of junction of two frontages that any question can arise, and we have (section 4) provided that in this case the dividing line shall be the bisector of the angle between the two frontages.

7. The cases to be dealt with by the second rule, on the contrary, may present every variety of complication, but we think they may be provided for by a rule which is capable of being simply expressed, which would generally be easy to apply, and about the application of which there would never be any serious difficulty, and which, moreover, would make as fair a division of the new land as can be hoped for in a class of cases for which, in the absence of anything in the way of a definite principle to guide us, we must be content with a somewhat rough-and-ready rule.

The rule we propose (section 6) is that each particle of the new formation shall belong to that one of the riparian owners who can show a point in his frontage nearest to it; provided that, when the line dividing the portion of the land to which one owner is entitled from the portion to which another is entitled is an arc of a curve, the chord of such arc shall be substituted for the arc. The dividing line given by this rule will be different according to the relative positions of the two competing frontages, but it will be one which it will be always easy to draw.

In ordinary cases it will be the bisector of the angle between the frontages, or, in the case of holdings on opposite sides of a river with parallel frontages, a line parallel to the frontages and equidistant from both; in others it will be the perpendicular erected at the middle point of the line connecting the extremities of the frontages; and in others, again, it will be the chord of a parabola. As this last line might at first sight be supposed to present some difficulty, we think it well to explain that the chord can be drawn without describing the parabola, and by a person altogether ignorant of the nature and properties of that curve. It is, in fact, simply the right line connecting two points which could be fixed by any patwárí or amín without the slightest difficulty. We may add, as regards the substitution of the chord for the arc in this case, that it not only simplifies the problem, but also makes what we believe, would, by most persons be considered a fairer division of the land.

8. Coming now to the definition of "frontage," it has been pointed out to us by Mr. Elliot that the original definition would, under the Bill as last settled, sometimes lead to anomalous results, as, for example, when a riparian holding extended completely round the concave face of a sharp curve in a river, in which case the frontage might approach within a few yards of the opposite bank or even cut off a considerable portion of it. These anomalies would be increased rather than diminished under the new rule for the division of the land now adopted, and we have accordingly been compelled to seek for a new definition.

The object of introducing the "frontage" is to substitute right lines for the irregularly shaped bank of the river, and thus to simplify the application of our rules: the defect of the original definition is that, in requiring a single right line to be substituted for the entire riparian boundary of each holding, the artificial riparian boundaries thus obtained in some cases deviate too widely from the real boundaries; and the remedy appears to be to declare that in such cases, instead of the single line, a series of two, or, if necessary, more, lines following more closely the real line of the bank shall be adopted. For this we have attempted to provide in the directions given in schedule II for drawing a frontage.

9. We have struck out the definition of "owner," as we think that the Courts may be trusted to determine who in a given case is the riparian proprietor, and we have also omitted the definitions of "thread of the stream," as the expression does not occur in the body of the Bill as now settled.

10. We think that the Bill should save local customs not only in the Panjáb but in all other territories to which it is to apply. We have accordingly excluded the section effecting this saving to the whole of British India; but we have omitted the proviso annexed to it in the Bill, as settled by the Select Committee in March, 1879, as the matter to which it relates is one falling outside the scope of the present Bill.

Partial repeal of section 24.

6. In section twenty-four of the said Act, the words "indictments and in" shall be repealed.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THERE is at present no Paper Currency which is a legal tender in Burma. Notes of the Calcutta circle are used to a limited extent in the chief towns, and occasionally notes of other circles are used, but there is no circle of issue in Burma.

2. Great inconvenience has been felt by the mercantile classes in Burma from this want; and in the year 1872 the question of establishing a circle of issue in that Province was before the Government of India. The Indian Paper Currency Act of 1871, however, renders it necessary to declare every town (other than Calcutta, Madras or Bombay) in which there is an office of issue to be, for the purposes of the Act, situate within some Presidency. Had, therefore, a circle of issue been established in Burma, it would have been necessary to declare the place of issue to be situate within one of the Presidencies of Fort William, Fort St. George and Bombay. The result would have been that, under section 9 of the Act, the notes of the Burma circle would have been payable at the office or offices of issue in Burma, and also at the Presidency-town of the Presidency (probably Fort William) within which the town of issue had been declared, for the purposes of the Act, to be situate.

3. The nature of the commercial transactions between Burma and India is such that, under those circumstances, it would have been unwise to establish a circle of issue in Burma. At particular periods of the year large remittances of money are made between Calcutta and Rangoon, and if the Burmese notes were payable at Calcutta, the Government might be put to considerable inconvenience and expense in providing cash to meet the notes. The question was accordingly allowed to remain in abeyance.

4. The rapid increase of the trade of Burma has again caused the question to be brought before the Government of India. The best authorities are agreed that Burma can no longer do without a paper currency, but that the Burmese notes should be payable only at the office of issue and not at any Presidency-town. The public will thus enjoy most of the conveniences of a paper currency, while the Government will not be obliged to undertake the exchange business of British Burma.

5. The amendments in the Paper Currency Act proposed in the Bill have for their objects :—

1st—to create a Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Rangoon;

2ndly—to make the towns of issue in Burma independent of the Presidencies;

3rdly—to render the paper issued at any town in Burma payable only at the office of issue.

6. The first of these objects is attained by a slight alteration of the fourth section of the Act; the second, by amending section 5 so as to empower the Governor General in Council to declare a town to be situate for the purposes of the Act within a Province as well as a Presidency. The third will be effected by the amendment just described; for the town of issue in Burma can then be declared situate within the Province of British Burma, and Burmese notes will not then be payable at Calcutta or any other Presidency-town.

No. 1[illegible] 1881.

Act No. XIV of 1876. A Bill to amend the Sindh Encumbered Estates Act, 1876.

WHEREAS it is expedient to extend the time within which applications under the Sindh Incumbered Estates Act, 1876, section three, may be made, and otherwise to amend the same Act in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

Act No. XIV of 1876.

1. Applications under the said Act, section three, may be made at any time within six months after the passing of this Act.

Time for making applications under Act XIV of 1876, section 3.

2. To the first sentence of section seven of the said Act, the following words shall be added (namely) :—"or which may be incurred by the Manager receiving a loan from Government in the manner hereinafter provided."

Amendment of section 7.

3. To section ten of the said Act, the following shall be added (namely) :—"and also for the repayment, either before or after the liquidation of such debts and liabilities, of any loan received from Government by the Manager under this Act."

Amendment of section 10.

4. In section sixteen of the said Act, after the words "under section ten," the words "and for the repayment of the money (if any) which the Manager proposes to borrow from Government under this Act" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 16.

5. To section twenty-three of the said Act the following shall be added (namely) :—"or (c) by borrowing money from Government at a fair rate of interest."

Amendment of section 23.

6. In section twenty-five of the said Act, after the words "mentioned in the liquidation-scheme," the following shall be inserted (namely) :—"and the amount of any loan received from Government under clause (c) of section twenty-three, together with the interest (if any) due thereon."

Amendment of section 25.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IT has been the practice for the Manager, under the Sindh Encumbered Estates Act, to borrow, with the previous sanction of Government, from the Treasury and to pay off such creditors as agreed to enter into a compromise in consideration of obtaining speedy payment of their debts. The money so borrowed was repaid by the Manager, with or without interest, as Government directed, from the income of the indebted estate.

Hitherto the money thus borrowed has been regarded as a liability incurred to Government in respect of the property under management within the meaning of section 10 of the Act. This view, however, is based on an erroneous conception of the law, and, as the Act stands, the only way to secure advances made by Government is by mortgaging the indebted estate.

It is objected that as soon as the debts are paid off the estate is released from management, and that Government would then only have the security of an ordinary mortgage for the advance.

It is proposed, therefore, to amend the Act by enabling the Manager to borrow money from Government, and by providing that the estate shall not be released from management until the money so borrowed is repaid with interest.

This will be effected by slight additions to sections 23 and 25. By other amendments the management is made to extend to the debt which may be incurred to Government by the Manager borrowing money, and the Manager is directed, in submitting his liquidation-scheme, to show in it the amount which he proposes to borrow from Government and the way in which he proposes to repay it.

As the management cannot terminate till the whole advance is repaid, there is ample security for its repayment.

The Act allows applications under section three to be made within twelve months from the passing of the Act, and, at the suggestion of the Government of Bombay, it is now proposed to allow a further period of six months from the date of the passing of this amending Act.

18. If any such farm be cancelled for any cause other than a breach on the part of the farmer of the conditions of the farm, or if any reservation or restriction with respect to the grant of licenses be made or imposed within the period of the farm, the farmer shall be entitled to receive such compensation for any loss which he sustains thereby as the Chief Revenue-authority may determine.

Compensation to farmers in certain cases.

19. Every farmer under this Act may use the same means and processes for the recovery of any arrear of fees due to him from any retail vendor, as may be lawfully used by zamíndárs and farmers of land for the recovery of arrears of rent due to them from their under-tenants.

Act X of 1871, s. 30.

Recovery of arrears by farmers.

20. The Chief Revenue-authority may, from time to time, make rules to regulate the mode in which tárí shall be supplied to licensed vendors of the same, and the grant of licenses or passes to persons possessing or transporting intoxicating drugs for the supply of the licensed vendors of such drugs.

Act X of 1871, s. 26.

(f) as to the duties of Excise-officers; and

(g) to provide generally for carrying out the provisions of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

This Bill is in the main a re-enactment of the Excise Act, 1871, in a shorter and, it is believed, a clearer form.

The only substantial changes of importance which it introduces are—

1st, a greater restriction in regard to intoxicating drugs, especially in British Burma, and

2nd, an enhancement of the penalties for certain breaches of the excise-law.

2. As regards the former, the amendment of the law proposed for British Burma will practically amount to a prohibition of the use of intoxicating drugs except for medicinal purposes in that Province. This is advocated by the Chief Commissioner on the following grounds, viz.:—

(1) that these drugs are considerably more injurious than opium;

(2) that at present they are unknown to the Burmese themselves, or, at any rate, have not come into use to such an extent among them that they would feel deprived of a luxury if their supply were summarily stopped;

(3) that such drugs are already forbidden in the Arakan Hill Tracts, and that the prohibition has worked well; and

(4) that they are, for the most part, used only by immigrants from India, who deserve no special consideration in the matter.

3. The alteration of the law in this particular for other Provinces is of much less importance. It consists in the reduction of the weight of ganjá and [illegible], which may be sold by a retail vendor or possessed by a private person, from a quarter of a seer to [illegible] the same weight as is permitted in the case of charas.

4. The enhancement of the penalties prescribed for offences against the Act has been advocated by certain of the Local Governments on the ground that the persons who commonly commit such offences are unable to pay a fine, and that to them imprisonment in a civil jail or without hard labour is really no punishment. The Bill, accordingly, gives power to sentence to imprisonment of either description extending to six months in lieu of, or in addition to, fine in certain cases, and in other cases substitutes imprisonment in the criminal jail for imprisonment in the civil jail.

Sections 18, 65, 66, 67 and 87 of the present Act (No. X of 1871) are omitted as relating solely to opium: sections 55, 83, 84 and 85 are omitted as the subjects are sufficiently provided for by the Sea Customs Act, 1878. Section 70 is provided for by the Penal Code, section 182, and section 73 of the Act, paragraphs 1 and 2, by the same Code taken in connection with section 53, clause (f), of the Bill. The subject of section 75, paragraphs 1 and 2, is provided for by the Code of Criminal Procedure. Section 76 is omitted, as all grave offences will now be punishable, on a first conviction, with six months' imprisonment. Section 80, paragraphs 1 and 2, and section 81, are also omitted, as being in part unnecessary and in part to be provided for by executive order.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 20th April, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 10 OF 1881.

Act No. III of 1871. A Bill to amend the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:— Preamble.

Act No. III of 1871.

1. In section four of the said Act, for the words "and two other officers, called, respectively, the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Madras and the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Bombay," the words "and three other officers, called, respectively, the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Madras, the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Bombay and the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Rangoon" shall be substituted. Amendment of section 4.

2. In section five of the said Act, for the words "three of which circles shall include the Towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, respectively," the words "four of which circles shall include the Towns of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Rangoon, respectively," shall be substituted; and for the words "any such town (other than Calcutta, Madras or Bombay) shall be deemed to be situate within such Presidency as is specified in the order," the words "any such town (other than Calcutta, Madras, Bombay or Rangoon) shall be deemed to be situate within such Presidency or Province as is specified in the order," shall be substituted. Amendment of section 5.

3. In sections six and nine of the said Act, for the words "and Bombay" the words "Bombay and Rangoon" shall be substituted. Amendment of sections 6 and 9.

4. In section seven of the said Act, for the words "the Commissioners at Madras and Bombay," the words "the Commissioners at Madras, Bombay and Rangoon" shall be substituted; and for the last sentence the following shall be substituted (namely):— Amendment of section 7.

"the Deputy Commissioners in the Presidencies of Fort Saint George and Bombay and in the Province of British Burma shall be subordinate to the Commissioners of Madras, Bombay and Rangoon, respectively."

5. In section ten of the said Act, for the words "of either of the Commissioners," the words "of one of the Commissioners" shall be substituted; and for the words "by either of the said Commissioners" the words "by one of the said Commissioners" shall be substituted. Amendment of section 10.

6. In section twenty-four of the said Act, the words "indictments and in" shall be repealed. Partial repeal of section 24.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THERE is at present no Paper Currency which is a legal tender in Burma. Notes of the Calcutta circle are used to a limited extent in the chief towns, and occasionally notes of other circles are used, but there is no circle of issue in Burma.

2. Great inconvenience has been felt by the mercantile classes in Burma from this want; and in the year 1872 the question of establishing a circle of issue in that Province was before the Government of India. The Indian Paper Currency Act of 1871, however, renders it necessary to declare every town (other than Calcutta, Madras or Bombay) in which there is an office of issue to be, for the purposes of the Act, situate within some Presidency. Had, therefore, a circle of issue been established in Burma, it would have been necessary to declare the place of issue to be situate within one of the Presidencies of Fort William, Fort St. George and Bombay. The result would have been that, under section 9 of the Act, the notes of the Burma circle would have been payable at the office or offices of issue in Burma, and also at the Presidency-town of the Presidency (probably Fort William) within which the town of issue had been declared, for the purposes of the Act, to be situate.

3. The nature of the commercial transactions between Burma and India is such that, under those circumstances, it would have been unwise to establish a circle of issue in Burma. At particular periods of the year large remittances of money are made between Calcutta and Rangoon, and if the Burmese notes were payable at Calcutta, the Government might be put to considerable inconvenience and expense in providing cash to meet the notes. The question was accordingly allowed to remain in abeyance.

4. The rapid increase of the trade of Burma has again caused the question to be brought before the Government of India. The best authorities are agreed that Burma can no longer do without a paper currency, but that the Burmese notes should be payable only at the office of issue and not at any Presidency-town. The public will thus enjoy most of the conveniences of a paper currency, while the Government will not be obliged to undertake the exchange business of British Burma.

5. The amendments in the Paper Currency Act proposed in the Bill have for their objects :—

1st—to create a Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Rangoon;

2ndly—to make the towns of issue in Burma independent of the Presidencies;

3rdly—to render the paper issued at any town in Burma payable only at the office of issue.

6. The first of these objects is attained by a slight alteration of the fourth section of the Act; the second, by amending section 5 so as to empower the Governor General in Council to declare a town to be situate for the purposes of the Act within a Province as well as a Presidency. The third will be effected by the amendment just described; for the town of issue in Burma can then be declared situate within the Province of British Burma, and Burmese notes will not then be payable at Calcutta or any other Presidency-town.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 20th April, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 11 OF 1881.

Act No. XIV of 1876. A Bill to amend the Sindh Incumbered Estates Act, 1876.

WHEREAS it is expedient to extend the time within which applications under the Sindh Incumbered Estates Act, 1876, section three, may be made, and otherwise to amend the same Act in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

Act No. XIV of 1876.

1. Applications under the said Act, section three, may be made at any time within six months after the passing of this Act.

Time for making applications under Act XIV of 1876, section 3.

2. To the first sentence of section seven of the said Act, the following words shall be added (namely) :—"or which may be incurred by the Manager receiving a loan from Government in the manner hereinafter provided."

Amendment of section 7.

3. To section ten of the said Act, the following shall be added (namely) :—"and also for the repayment, either before or after the liquidation of such debts and liabilities, of any loan received from Government by the Manager under this Act."

Amendment of section 10.

4. In section sixteen of the said Act, after the words "under section ten," the words "and for the repayment of the money (if any) which the Manager proposes to borrow from Government under this Act" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 16.

5. To section twenty-three of the said Act the following shall be added (namely) :—"or (c) by borrowing money from Government at a fair rate of interest."

Amendment of section 23.

6. In section twenty-five of the said Act, after the words "mentioned in the liquidation-scheme," the following shall be inserted (namely) :—"and the amount of any loan received from Government under clause (c) of section twenty-three, together with the interest (if any) due thereon."

Amendment of section 25.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IT has been the practice for the Manager, under the Sindh Encumbered Estates Act, to borrow, with the previous sanction of Government, from the Treasury and to pay off such creditors as agreed to enter into a compromise in consideration of obtaining speedy payment of their debts. The money so borrowed was repaid by the Manager, with or without interest, as Government directed, from the income of the indebted estate.

Hitherto the money thus borrowed has been regarded as a liability incurred to Government in respect of the property under management within the meaning of section 10 of the Act. This view, however, is based on an erroneous conception of the law, and, as the Act stands, the only way to secure advances made by Government is by mortgaging the indebted estate.

It is objected that as soon as the debts are paid off the estate is released from management, and that Government would then only have the security of an ordinary mortgage for the advance.

It is proposed, therefore, to amend the Act by enabling the Manager to borrow money from Government, and by providing that the estate shall not be released from management until the money so borrowed is repaid with interest.

This will be effected by slight additions to sections 23 and 25. By other amendments the management is made to extend to the debt which may be incurred to Government by the Manager borrowing money, and the Manager is directed, in submitting his liquidation-scheme, to show in it the amount which he proposes to borrow from Government and the way in which he proposes to repay it.

As the management cannot terminate till the whole advance is repaid, there is ample security for its repayment.

The Act allows applications under section three to be made within twelve months from the passing of the Act, and, at the suggestion of the Government of Bombay, it is now proposed to allow a further period of six months from the date of the passing of this amending Act.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 20th April, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 12 OF 1881.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Broach and Kaira Incumbered Estates Act, 1877, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Act No. XIV of 1877. Preamble.

1. To the first sentence of section eight of the said Act, the following words shall be added (namely):—

Amendment of section 8.

"or which may be incurred by the manager receiving a loan from Government in the manner hereinafter provided."

2. To section eleven of the said Act, the following shall be added (namely):—

Amendment of section 11.

"and also for the repayment, either before or after the liquidation of such debts and liabilities, of any loan received from Government by the manager under this Act."

3. In section seventeen of the said Act, after the words and figures "under section 11," the words "and for the repayment of the money (if any) which the manager proposes to borrow from Government under this Act" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 17.

4. To section twenty-four of the said Act, the following shall be added (namely):—

Amendment of section 24.

"or (d) by borrowing money from Government at a fair rate of interest."

5. In section twenty-six of the said Act, after the words "mentioned in the liquidation-scheme," the following shall be inserted (namely):—

Amendment of section 26.

"and the amount of any loan received from Government under clause (d) of section 24, together with the interest (if any) due thereon."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of the proposed Bill and the reasons for legislating are the same as those in the case of the Bill to amend the Sindh Incumbered Estates Act. It is also found expedient for the management of the Broach and Kaira Estates that the manager should be able to borrow money at a fair rate of interest from Government, and that the estate should be retained under management till the repayment of the amount so borrowed.

54. Additional power to make rules. The Chief Controlling Revenue-authority may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act—

(e) as to the disposal of things confiscated under this Act;

Act X of 1871, s. 26.

(f) as to the duties of Excise-officers; and

(g) to provide generally for carrying out the provisions of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

This Bill is in the main a re-enactment of the Excise Act, 1871, in a shorter and, it is believed, a clearer form.

The only substantial changes of importance which it introduces are—

1st, a greater restriction in regard to intoxicating drugs, especially in British Burma, and

2nd, an enhancement of the penalties for certain breaches of the excise-law.

2. As regards the former, the amendment of the law proposed for British Burma will practically amount to a prohibition of the use of intoxicating drugs except for medicinal purposes in that Province. This is advocated by the Chief Commissioner on the following grounds, viz.:—

(1) that these drugs are considerably more injurious than opium;

(2) that at present they are unknown to the Burmese themselves, or, at any rate, have not come into use to such an extent among them that they would feel deprived of a luxury if their supply were summarily stopped;

(3) that such drugs are already forbidden in the Arakan Hill Tracts, and that the prohibition has worked well; and

(4) that they are, for the most part, used only by immigrants from India, who deserve no special consideration in the matter.

3. The alteration of the law in this particular for other Provinces is of much less importance. It consists in the reduction of the weight of ganjá [illegible] in the case of charas.

4. The enhancement of the penalties prescribed for offences against the Act has been advocated by certain of the Local Governments on the ground that the persons who commonly commit such offences are unable to pay a fine, and that to them imprisonment in a civil jail or without hard labour is really no punishment. The Bill, accordingly, gives power to sentence to imprisonment of either description extending to six months in lieu of, or in addition to, fine in certain cases, and in other cases substitutes imprisonment in the criminal jail for imprisonment in the civil jail.

Sections 18, 65, 66, 67 and 87 of the present Act (No. X of 1871) are omitted as relating solely to opium: sections 55, 83, 84 and 85 are omitted as the subjects are sufficiently provided for by the Sea Customs Act, 1878. Section 70 is provided for by the Penal Code, section 182, and section 73 of the Act, paragraphs 1 and 2, by the same Code taken in connection with section 53, clause (f), of the Bill. The subject of section 75, paragraphs 1 and 2, is provided for by the Code of Criminal Procedure. Section 76 is omitted, as all grave offences will now be punishable, on a first conviction, with six months' imprisonment. Section 80, paragraphs 1 and 3, and section 81, are also omitted, as being in part unnecessary and in part to be provided for by executive order.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 20th April, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 10 OF 1881.

Act No. III of 1871. A Bill to amend the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871.

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Act No. III of 1871.

Amendment of section 4. 1. In section four of the said Act, for the words "and two other officers, called, respectively, the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Madras and the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Bombay," the words "and three other officers, called, respectively, the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Madras, the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Bombay and the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Rangoon" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 5. 2. In section five of the said Act, for the words "three of which circles shall include the Towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, respectively," the words "four of which circles shall include the Towns of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Rangoon, respectively," shall be substituted; and for the words "any such town (other than Calcutta, Madras or Bombay) shall be deemed to be situate within such Presidency as is specified in the order," the words "any such town (other than Calcutta, Madras, Bombay or Rangoon) shall be deemed to be situate within such Presidency or Province as is specified in the order," shall be substituted.

Amendment of sections 6 and 9. 3. In sections six and nine of the said Act, for the words "and Bombay" the words "Bombay and Rangoon" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 7. 4. In section seven of the said Act, for the words "the Commissioners at Madras and Bombay," the words "the Commissioners at Madras, Bombay and Rangoon" shall be substituted; and for the last sentence the following shall be substituted (namely):—

"the Deputy Commissioners in the Presidencies of Fort Saint George and Bombay and in the Province of British Burma shall be subordinate to the Commissioners of Madras, Bombay and Rangoon, respectively."

Amendment of section 10. 5. In section ten of the said Act, for the words "of either of the Commissioners," the words "of one of the Commissioners" shall be substituted; and for the words "by either of the said Commissioners" the words "by one of the said Commissioners" shall be substituted.

Partial repeal of section 24. 6. In section twenty-four of the said Act, the words "indictments and in" shall be repealed.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THERE is at present no Paper Currency which is a legal tender in Burma. Notes of the Calcutta circle are used to a limited extent in the chief towns, and occasionally notes of other circles are used, but there is no circle of issue in Burma.

2. Great inconvenience has been felt by the mercantile classes in Burma from this want; and in the year 1872 the question of establishing a circle of issue in that Province was before the Government of India. The Indian Paper Currency Act of 1871, however, renders it necessary to declare every town (other than Calcutta, Madras or Bombay) in which there is an office of issue to be, for the purposes of the Act, situate within some Presidency. Had, therefore, a circle of issue been established in Burma, it would have been necessary to declare the place of issue to be situate within one of the Presidencies of Fort William, Fort St. George and Bombay. The result would have been that, under section 9 of the Act, the notes of the Burma circle would have been payable at the office or offices of issue in Burma, and also at the Presidency-town of the Presidency (probably Fort William) within which the town of issue had been declared, for the purposes of the Act, to be situate.

3. The nature of the commercial transactions between Burma and India is such that, under those circumstances, it would have been unwise to establish a circle of issue in Burma. At particular periods of the year large remittances of money are made between Calcutta and Rangoon, and if the Burmese notes were payable at Calcutta, the Government might be put to considerable inconvenience and expense in providing cash to meet the notes. The question was accordingly allowed to remain in abeyance.

4. The rapid increase of the trade of Burma has again caused the question to be brought before the Government of India. The best authorities are agreed that Burma can no longer do without a paper currency, but that the Burmese notes should be payable only at the office of issue and not at any Presidency-town. The public will thus enjoy most of the conveniences of a paper currency, while the Government will not be obliged to undertake the exchange business of British Burma.

5. The amendments in the Paper Currency Act proposed in the Bill have for their objects :—

1st—to create a Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Rangoon;

2ndly—to make the towns of issue in Burma independent of the Presidencies;

3rdly—to render the paper issued at any town in Burma payable only at the office of issue.

6. The first of these objects is attained by a slight alteration of the fourth section of the Act; the second, by amending section 5 so as to empower the Governor General in Council to declare a town to be situate for the purposes of the Act within a Province as well as a Presidency. The third will be effected by the amendment just described; for the town of issue in Burma can then be declared situate within the Province of British Burma, and Burmese notes will not then be payable at Calcutta or any other Presidency-town.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 20th April, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 11 OF 1881.

Act No. XIV of 1876. A Bill to amend the Sindh Incumbered Estates Act, 1876.

WHEREAS it is expedient to extend the time within which applications under the Sindh Incumbered Estates Act, 1876, section three, may be made, and otherwise to amend the same Act in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

Act No. XIV of 1876.

1. Applications under the said Act, section three, may be made at any time within six months after the passing of this Act.

Time for making applications under Act XIV of 1876, section 3.

2. To the first sentence of section seven of the said Act, the following words shall be added (namely) :—"or which may be incurred by the Manager receiving [illegible] Government in the manner hereinafter provided."

Amendment of section 7.

3. To section ten of the said Act, the following shall be added (namely) :—"and also for the repayment, either before or after the liquidation of such debts and liabilities, of any loan received from Government by the Manager under this Act."

Amendment of section 10.

4. In section sixteen of the said Act, after the words "under section ten," the words "and for the repayment of the money (if any) which the Manager proposes to borrow from Government under this Act" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 16.

5. To section twenty-three of the said Act the following shall be added (namely) :—"or (c) by borrowing money from Government at a fair rate of interest."

Amendment of section 23.

6. In section twenty-five of the said Act, after the words "mentioned in the liquidation-scheme," the following shall be inserted (namely) :—"and the amount of any loan received from Government under clause (c) of section twenty-three, together with the interest (if any) due thereon."

Amendment of section 25.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IT has been the practice for the Manager, under the Sindh Encumbered Estates Act, to borrow, with the previous sanction of Government, from the Treasury and to pay off such creditors as agreed to enter into a compromise in consideration of obtaining speedy payment of their debts. The money so borrowed was repaid by the Manager, with or without interest, as Government directed, from the income of the indebted estate.

Hitherto the money thus borrowed has been regarded as a liability incurred to Government in respect of the property under management within the meaning of section 10 of the Act. This view, however, is based on an erroneous conception of the law, and, as the Act stands, the only way to secure advances made by Government is by mortgaging the indebted estate.

It is objected that as soon as the debts are paid off the estate is released from management, and that Government would then only have the security of an ordinary mortgage for the advance.

It is proposed, therefore, to amend the Act by enabling the Manager to borrow money from Government, and by providing that the estate shall not be released from management until the money so borrowed is repaid with interest.

This will be effected by slight additions to sections 23 and 25. By other amendments the management is made to extend to the debt which may be incurred to Government by the Manager borrowing money, and the Manager is directed, in submitting his liquidation-scheme, to show in it the amount which he proposes to borrow from Government and the way in which he proposes to repay it.

As the management cannot terminate till the whole advance is repaid, there is ample security for its repayment.

The Act allows applications under section three to be made within twelve months from the passing of the Act, and the section [illegible] ment of [illegible] it is [illegible] further period of six months from the passing of this amending Act.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 1st June, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 14 OF 1881.

A Bill to amend the law in force in the Mahál of Bánki.

WHEREAS it has been determined to annex the territory comprised in the mahál of Bánki to the district of Púrí: Preamble.

And whereas the said territory forms portion of a scheduled district under the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874: Act XIV of 1874.

And whereas it is expedient that the law in force in the said territory should, on such annexation, be the same as the law in force in the district of Púrí, and that the said territory should cease to be a portion of a scheduled district:

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Act XIX of 1879, s. 1. Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Bánki Laws Act, 1881."

Act XIX of 1879, s. 2. Laws of Púrí to apply. 2. All enactments which shall on the first day of April, 1882, be in force in the district of Púrí, and not in the said territory, shall be deemed to come into force in the said territory on that day:

And all enactments which shall on that day be in force in the said territory, and not in the district of Púrí, shall be deemed to be repealed on and from that day in the said territory. Other laws repealed.

Act XIX of 1879, s. 3. Pending proceedings. 3. All proceedings commenced before any authority in the said territory before the said first day of April, 1882, and still pending on the said day, shall be disposed of by such authority as the Local Government may direct; and, save as aforesaid, shall be carried on as if this Act had not been passed.

Act XIX of 1879, s. 4. Territory to cease to be a scheduled district. 4. On and from the said first day of April, 1882, the said territory shall cease to be a portion of a scheduled district; and in Part III of the first schedule to the said Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, for the words "Maháls of Angúl and Bánki," the words "Mahál of Angúl" shall be substituted.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IT has been determined by Government to bring the Government estate of Bánki, which at present forms portion of a scheduled district under the Scheduled Districts Act, 1874, under the regular system of administration, and, for this purpose, to annex it, from the commencement of the next financial year, to the Khurda sub-division of the Regulation district of Púrí. Owing, however, to Bánki having hitherto formed portion of a scheduled district, there are certain differences between the law prevailing in it and the law in force in the Púrí district, which differences it is desirable to remove. The present Bill, which has been drawn on the lines of the Raipur and Khattra Laws Act, 1879, has accordingly been prepared. It assimilates the law in Bánki to that in the district of Púrí from the date on which Bánki is annexed to that district, and declares that from that date Bánki shall cease to be a portion of a scheduled district.

4. We have also amended the definition of "málguzár" so as to include any person with whom a settlement has been made before this Act comes into force, as well as a person who has accepted, or, under the provisions of the Act, is deemed to have accepted, the assessment of a mahál. The representatives and assigns of such persons will also, by the definition, be málguzárs.

5. We have amended the definition of "tenant," as the words "similar lessee of a whole village or a large portion thereof" appeared to be too indefinite.

6. To section 25 we have added a proviso to ensure that, when the Chief Commissioner exercises the wide powers of revision conferred on him by that section, in cases where his order would affect any question of right between private persons, he shall give the parties concerned an opportunity of being heard.

7. We have struck out section 30 of the Bill as introduced, as the matter is sufficiently provided for by sections 18 and 32.

8. In section 33 (section 34 of the Bill as introduced) we have specified all the suits for the disposal of which Settlement-officers may be invested with the powers of Civil Courts, and have therefore struck out the first schedule to the Bill.

9. We have altered section 34 (section 35 of the Bill as introduced) so as to give the Chief Settlement-officer power to direct the business in the Courts subordinate to him, and to withdraw suits instituted in such Courts and try them himself or refer them for trial to any other subordinate Court.

10. We have added a section after section 37 of the Bill (now section 36) so as to prevent the provisions of section 32 of the Bill (now section 31) applying to proceedings held before Settlement-officers in the exercise of the powers of a Civil Court.

11. We have struck out section 46 of the Bill, as the Chief Commissioner can order maps to be prepared without being expressly empowered to do so.

12. With regard to the provision for progressive assessments contained in section 47 of the Bill (now section 46), we have substituted ten years for five years, so as to give the Chief Commissioner a wider discretion in regulating such assessments.

13. Section 57 of the Bill (now section 56) we have re-drafted so as to show precisely what the effect of the acceptance of an assessment is, and also to empower the Chief Commissioner to fix the term of settlement after the assessment has been accepted instead of before, as had been provided in section 48 of the Bill as introduced. Until the Settlement-officer has made his report showing the condition of a mahál, the Chief Commissioner cannot satisfactorily determine how long the settlement should last.

14. Section 58 of the Bill (now section 57) provided that, in case of a refusal on the part of all the proprietors to accept an assessment, the Settlement-officer might, with the previous sanction of the Chief Commissioner, exclude the proprietors from settlement and might then settle the mahál with any other person or take it under direct management. We consider that this power to settle the mahál with any other person should not be given. When a settlement is made, both the person engaging for the payment of revenue and the mahál itself are liable for arrears of revenue. It would, in our opinion, be a harsh measure to exclude a proprietor and settle the mahál with a stranger, in consequence of whose mismanagement, perhaps, the mahál might be sold for arrears. We have therefore altered the section so as to give the Settlement-officer power to let the mahál in farm or take it under direct management, but not to settle it with any other person; and we have made a similar alteration in section 59 (now section 58).

15. We have added a section after section 63 of the Bill (now section 62) so as to provide a limit to the aggregate amount of the allowance granted to an excluded proprietor and of the difference between the rent paid by him as an absolute occupancy-tenant and the rent which he would be liable to pay if he were a tenant-at-will.

16. In section 75 we have provided, in accordance with a suggestion made by certain landholders of Nágpur, that when the Settlement-officer decides that land held revenue-free or at less than a full assessment shall pay revenue, or pay revenue at enhanced rates, the Chief Commissioner cannot recover from such land land-revenue which became due more than twelve years before the date of the Settlement-officer's decision.

17. We have struck out Chapter VII, and the definition of, and other provisions relating to, Provincial cesses, as we are of opinion that the assessment of such cesses should be kept distinct from the assessment of the land-revenue, and should be provided for in a separate Bill.

18. In order to preserve the reversionary rights of the brothers of the deceased husband of a Hindú widow, we have added, in section 88 of the Bill (now section 87), a provision that an award, made by a Settlement-officer, of proprietary rights in land to a widow shall be deemed to confer on her those rights only which, in accordance with the personal law to which she is subject, she would enjoy in land inherited by her from her husband.

19. In the third proviso to section 95 of the Bill (now section 94), we have provided that no land shall be sold, and the settlement of no land shall be annulled, on account of an arrear accruing in respect of land held under direct management or let in farm in accordance with any of the provisions of this Act. The Settlement-officer lets land in farm or holds it under direct management as well as the Deputy Commissioner.

20. We have amended section 100 of the Bill (now section 99) so as to show that the Deputy Commissioner or his agent is not bound by the liabilities incurred by the defaulters to mortgagees of the land attached.

21. Section 104 of the Bill provided that "all liens, leases and other incumbrances created upon the land so managed or farmed by the defaulters or by any person through whom they claim might, at the option of the Deputy Commissioner, be cancelled." We considered that this provision went too far in interfering with the rights of persons other than the defaulters, and we have struck it out, and inserted instead a section after section 105 of the Bill providing that no such leases, liens or other incumbrances shall be binding upon the Deputy Commissioner, his agent or lessee, while land is under management or let in farm.

22. We have amended section 123 of the Bill, substituting for a fine recoverable by imprisonment a penalty recoverable under the Act as an arrear of revenue; and we have restored, from the original draft, a section (now section 124) providing that any person against whom proceedings are taken for the violation or neglect of a rule, custom or condition under section 123 may sue the Government to set aside the proceedings on the ground that no such violation or neglect occurred. The Civil Court may order the refund of any penalty imposed together with the costs of the suit and compensation.

23. In section 138 of the Bill (now section 137), we have provided that, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, the rate on account of the aggregate remuneration of lambardárs and mukaddams may exceed five per cent. on the revenue. We have also, in deference to a representation from the landholding classes of the Central Provinces, added a clause to the effect that, where there are resident málguzárs in a village, one of such málguzárs shall be the mukaddam.

24. In section 145 of the Bill (now section 141), we have allowed the patwárí-rate to be raised above six per cent. on the revenue with the sanction of the Governor General in Council.

25. In Chapter XIII of the Bill (now Chapter XII), we have added a section to secure to Government the right to mines, quarries and the juice of tárí trees. This will make no substantial change in what is generally understood to be the law of the Central Provinces.

26. Clause (b) of section 152 of the Bill we have struck out, and substituted for it a specification of the matters over which the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts is barred; and to meet an objection made by certain landholders of Nágpur, we have added a provision to save the jurisdiction of the Civil Courts in questions relating to rights arising under any contract between the Government and grantees of land.

27. In section 158 we have provided that penalties which may be imposed under the Act shall be recovered as arrears of revenue payable directly to Government.

28. We have found it necessary or expedient to make several changes in the wording and arrangement of the Bill as introduced. We have also added an index, nothing in which will, of course, have the force of law.

29. The publication ordered by the Council has been made. We consider that the changes which we have now made in the Bill are not such as to render its republication desirable; and we therefore recommend that the Bill as amended be passed.

On the expiration of such notice or the payment of such additional compensation, the Collector may cancel the said license.

Surrender of retail license.

15. Any such retail vendor may surrender his license on the expiration of one month's previous notice given by him to the Collector of his intention to surrender the same, and on paying such sum, not exceeding the amount of the license-fee for six months, as the Collector may fix in this behalf.

If the Collector is satisfied that there is a sufficient reason for surrendering a license, he may remit the sum so fixed.

Act X of 1871, s. 25.

Power to farm fees.

16. The Collector may, with the sanction of the Chief Revenue-authority, let in farm the fees leviable in any district or part of a district on licenses for the retail sale of any description of country spirit or fermented liquors or (except in British Burma) of intoxicating drugs.
