SCHEDULE.

No. V.

A Bill to Define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques; It is hereby enacted as follows:— Preamble.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called "The Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881:" Short title. Bill II, s. 1: Bill III, s. 2.

It extends to the whole of British India; but nothing herein contained affects the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, section twenty-one, or affects any local usage relating to any instrument in an oriental language: Provided that such usages may be excluded by any words in the body of the instrument which indicate an intention that the legal relations of the parties thereto shall be governed by this Act; Local extent. Saving of usages relating to hundis, &c.

and it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1882. Commencement.

2. On and from that day the enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column thereof. Repeal of enactments. Bill II, s. 2: Bill III, s. 2.

3. In this Act— Interpretation-clause.

"Banker" includes also persons or a corporation or company acting as bankers; and "Banker." Bill II, s. 3: Bill III, s. 2. 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 3.

"Notary Public" includes also any officer appointed by the Governor General in Council to perform the functions of a Notary Public under this Act. "Notary Public."

CHAPTER II.

OF NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

4. A promissory note is an instrument in writing (not being a bank note or a currency note) containing an unconditional undertaking, signed by the maker, to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person, or to the bearer of the instrument. Promissory Note. Bill II, s. 4: Bill III, s. 4. Byles on Bills (12th edition), pp. 5, 94. 3 & 4 Anne, c. 9 (Byles 481). Byles 5, 102: Byles 10: Byles 99: Byles 6.

Illustrations.

A signs instruments in the following terms:—

(a) "I promise to pay B or order Rs. 500."

(b) "I acknowledge myself to be indebted to B in Rs. 1,000 to be paid on demand, for value received."

(c) "Mr. B, I O U Rs. 1,000."

(d) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 and all other sums which shall be due to him."

(e) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500, first deducting thereout any money which he may owe me."

(f) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 seven days after my marriage with C."

(g) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 on D's death, provided D leaves me enough to pay that sum."

(h) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 and to deliver to him my black horse on 1st January next."

The instruments respectively marked (a) and (b) are promissory notes. The instruments respectively marked (c), (d), (e), (f), (g) and (h) are not promissory notes.

Bill II, s. 5: Bill III, s. 5: Byles 1, 75: 81, 94, 97: Byles 93, 94, 96: Byles 75, 81.

5. A bill of exchange is an instrument in writing containing an unconditional order, signed by the maker, directing a certain person to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person or to the bearer of the instrument. Bill of exchange.

A promise or order to pay is not "conditional," within the meaning of this section and section four, by reason of the time for payment of the amount or any instalment thereof being expressed to be on the lapse of a certain period after the occurrence of a specified event which, according to the ordinary expectation of mankind, is certain to happen, although the time of its happening may be uncertain.

The sum payable may be "certain," within the meaning of this section and section four, although it includes future interest or is payable at an indicated rate of exchange, or is according to the course of exchange, and although the instrument provides that, on default of payment of an instalment, the balance unpaid shall become due.

The person to whom it is clear that the direction is given or that payment is to be made may be a "certain person," within the meaning of this section and section four, although he is mis-named or designated by description only.

Bill II, s. 6: Bill III, s. 5: Byles 18.

6. A cheque is a bill of exchange drawn on a specified banker and not expressed to be payable otherwise than on demand. Cheque.

Draft, s. 6: Bill II, s. 7: Bill III, s. 7.

7. The maker of a bill of exchange or cheque is called the "drawer;" the person thereby directed to pay is called the "drawee." "Drawer." "Drawee."

When in the bill or in any indorsement thereon the name of any person is given in addition to the drawee to be resorted to in case of need, such person is called a "drawee in case of need." "Drawee in case of need."

Draft, ss. 6, 87. Byles 196: Act VI of 1870, s. 2: Act V of 1866, s. 21: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81.

After the drawee of a bill has signed his assent upon the bill, or if there are more parts thereof than one, upon one of such parts, and delivered the same, or given notice of such signing to the holder or to some person on his behalf, he is called the "acceptor." "Acceptor."

When acceptance is refused and the bill is protested for non-acceptance, and any person accepts it supra protest for honour of the drawer or of any one of the indorsers, such person is called an "acceptor for honour." "Acceptor for honour."

The person named in the instrument, to whom or to whose order the money is by the instrument directed to be paid, is called the "payee." "Payee."

8. The "holder" of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque means any person entitled in his own name to the possession thereof and to receive or recover the amount due thereon from the parties thereto. "Holder." Draft, s. 6: Bill II, s. 8: Bill III, s. 8: Byles 2.

Where the note, bill or cheque is lost or destroyed, its holder is the person so entitled at the time of such loss or destruction.

9. "Holder in due course" means any person who for consideration became the possessor of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque if payable to bearer, "Holder in due course." Draft, s. 12: Bill II, s. 9: Bill III, s. 9: 1 Parsons 255: Byles 164.

or the payee or indorsee thereof, if payable to, or to the order of, a payee, before the amount mentioned in it became payable, and without having sufficient cause to believe that any defect existed in the title of the person from whom he derived his title.

10. "Payment in due course" means payment in accordance with the apparent tenor of the instrument in good faith and without negligence to any person in possession thereof under circumstances which do not afford a reasonable ground for believing that he is not entitled to receive payment of the amount therein mentioned. "Payment in due course." Draft, ss. 86, 115: Bill II, s. 10: Bill III, s. 10: Byles on Bills (12th edition), 221: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 11.

11. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque drawn or made in British India, and made payable in, or drawn upon any person resident in, British India shall be deemed to be an inland instrument. Inland instrument. Bill II, s. 11: Bill III, s. 11: Act V of 1866, s. 12.

12. Any such instrument not so drawn, made or made payable shall be deemed to be a foreign instrument. Foreign instrument. Bill II, s. 12: Bill III, s. 12.

13. A "negotiable instrument" means a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque expressed to be payable to a specified person or his order, or to the order of a specified person, or to the bearer thereof, or to a specified person or the bearer thereof. "Negotiable instrument." Draft, s. 8: Bill II, s. 13: Bill III, s. 13.

14. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is transferred to any person, so as to constitute that person the holder thereof, the instrument is said to be negotiated. Negotiation. Draft, s. 7: Bill II, s. 14: Bill III, s. 14.

15. When the maker or holder of a negotiable instrument signs the same, otherwise than as such maker, for the purpose of negotiation, on the back or face thereof or on a slip of paper annexed thereto, or so signs for the same purpose a stamped paper intended to be completed as a negotiable instrument, he is said to indorse the same, and is called the "indorser." Indorsement. Draft, s. 20: Bill II, s. 15: Bill III, s. 15: Denton v. Peters, L. R. 5 Q. B. 475: Ex parte Cote L. R. 9 Ch. App. 27: Byles 165: Byles 150.

Bill II, s. 17: Bill III, s. 17: Byles 91: Bayley (6th edition) 8.

17. Where an instrument may be construed either as a promissory note or bill of exchange, the holder may at his election treat it as either, and the instrument shall be thenceforward treated accordingly.

Ambiguous instruments.

Draft, s. 2: Bill II, s. 18: Bill III, s. 18: Byles 84: Bayley 12 (Saunderson v. Piper).

18. If the amount undertaken or ordered to be paid is stated differently in figures and in words, the amount stated in words shall be the amount undertaken or ordered to be paid.

Where amount is stated differently in figures and words.

Bill II, s. 19: Bill III, s. 19: 1 Parsons 271: Byles 13, 212: Aldous v. Cornwell, L. R. 3 Q. B. 573.

19. A promissory note or bill of exchange, in which no time for payment is specified, and a cheque are payable on demand.

Instruments payable on demand.

Bill II, s. 20: Bill III, s. 20: Byles 88, 165, 188: Foster v. Mackinnon, L. R. 4 C. P. 704: Byles 84.

20. Where one person signs and delivers to another a paper stamped in accordance with the law relating to negotiable instruments then in force in British India, and either wholly blank or having written thereon an incomplete negotiable instrument, he thereby gives primâ facie authority to the holder thereof to make or complete, as the case may be, upon it a negotiable instrument, for any amount specified therein and not exceeding the amount covered by the stamp. The person so signing shall be liable upon such instrument, in the capacity in which he signed the same, to any holder in due course for such amount: provided that no person other than a holder in due course shall recover from the person delivering the instrument anything in excess of the amount intended by him to be paid thereunder.

Inchoate stamped instruments.

Bill II, s. 23: Bill III, s. 22: Byles 80, 180, 206, 209, 528: 24 & 35 Vic., c. 74, s. 2.

21. In a promissory note or bill of exchange the expressions "at sight" and "on presentment" mean on demand. The expression "after sight" means, in a promissory note, after presentment for sight, and, in a bill of exchange, after acceptance, or noting for non-acceptance, or protest for non-acceptance.

"At sight."
"On presentment."
"After sight."

Draft, s. 78: Bill II, s. 22: Bill III, s. 23. New.

22. The maturity of a promissory note or bill of exchange is the date at which it falls due.

Every promissory note or bill of exchange which is not expressed to be payable on demand, at sight, or on presentment, is at maturity on the third day after the day on which it is expressed to be payable.

"Maturity."

Days of grace.

Draft, s. 79: Bill II, s. 24: Bill III, s. 24: Byles 206.

23. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable a stated number of months after date or after sight, or after a certain event, is at maturity, the period stated shall be held to terminate on the day of the month which corresponds with the day on which the instrument is dated, or presented for acceptance or sight, or noted for non-acceptance, or protested for non-acceptance, or the event happens, or, where the instrument is a bill of exchange made payable a stated number of months after sight and has been accepted for honour, with the day on which it was so accepted. If the month in which the period would terminate has no corresponding day, the period shall be held to terminate on the last day of such month.

Calculating maturity of bill or note payable so many months after date or sight.

Illustrations.

(a). A negotiable instrument, dated 29th January, 1878, is made payable at one month after date. The instrument is at maturity on the third day after the 28th February, 1878.

(b). A negotiable instrument, dated 30th August, 1878, is made payable three months after date. The instrument is at maturity on the 3rd December, 1878.

(c). A promissory note or bill of exchange, dated 31st August, 1878, is made payable three months after date. The instrument is at maturity on the 3rd December, 1878.

Draft, s. 80: Bill II, s. 25: Bill III, s. 25: Byles 206.

24. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange made payable a certain number of days after date or after sight or after a certain event, is at maturity, the day of the date, or of presentment for acceptance or sight, or of protest for non-acceptance, or on which the event happens, shall be excluded.

Calculating maturity of bill or note payable so many days after date or sight.

Draft, s. 80: Bill II, s. 26: Bill III, s. 26: Byles 208.

25. When the day on which a promissory note or bill of exchange is at maturity is a public holiday, the instrument shall be deemed to be due on the next preceding business day.

When day of maturity is a holiday.

Explanation.—The expression "public holiday" includes Sundays: New-Year's day, Christmas day: if either of such days falls on a Sunday, the next following Monday: Good-Friday; and any other day declared by the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, to be a public holiday.

CHAPTER III.

PARTIES TO NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

Bill II, s. 28: Bill III, s. 28: See 37 & 38 Vic., c. 62, s. 1 (Byles 529). Byles 59.

26. Every person capable of contracting, according to the law to which he is subject, may bind himself and be bound by the making, drawing, acceptance, indorsement, delivery and negotiation of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque.

Capacity to make, &c., promissory notes, &c.

Byles 61.

A minor may draw, indorse, deliver and negotiate such instruments so as to bind all parties except himself.

Minor.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to empower a corporation to make, indorse or accept such instruments except in cases in which, under the law for the time being in force, they are so empowered.

Bill II, s. 29: Bill III, s. 29: Byles 33.

27. Every person capable of binding himself or of being bound, as mentioned in section twenty-six, may so bind himself or be bound by a duly authorized agent acting in his name.

Agency.

Byles 33.

A general authority to transact business and to receive and discharge debts does not confer upon an agent the power of accepting or indorsing bills of exchange so as to bind his principal.

Byles 33.

An authority to draw bills of exchange does not of itself import an authority to indorse.

Draft, s. 15: Bill II, s. 30: Bill III, s. 30.

28. An agent who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, without indicating thereon that he signs as agent, or that he does not intend thereby to incur personal responsibility, is liable personally on the Liability of agent signing.

Act IX of 1872, s. 234.

instrument, except to those who induced him to sign upon the belief that the principal only would be held liable.

Byles 57: Bill III, s. 31.

29. A legal representative of a deceased person who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is liable personally thereon unless he expressly limits his liability to the extent of the assets received by him as such.

Liability of legal representative signing.

Draft, ss. 17, 78: Bill II, s. 44: Bill III, s. 34: Byles 8, 245: Bayley 43: Byles 290.

30. The drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque is bound, in case of dishonour by the drawee or acceptor thereof, to compensate the holder under Chapter XII, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, the drawer as hereinafter provided.

Liability of drawer.

Bill II, s. 45: Bill III, s. 35: Byles 18, 19, 185: Chitty 56: Grant on Bankers, 51: Gray v. Johnston, L. R. 3 E. and I. App. 1.

31. The drawee of a cheque having sufficient funds of the drawer in his hands properly applicable to the payment of such cheque, must pay the cheque when duly required so to do, and, in default of such payment, must compensate the drawer for any loss or damage caused by such default.

Liability of drawee of cheque.

Draft, ss. 60, 65: Bill II, s. 46: Bill III, s. 36: Byles 190, 193: Draft, s. 60: Bayley 44: Byles 910.

32. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the maker of a promissory note and the acceptor before maturity of a bill of exchange, are bound to pay the amount thereof at maturity according to the apparent tenor of the note or acceptance respectively, and the acceptor of a bill of exchange at or after maturity is bound to pay the amount thereof to the holder on demand.

Liability of maker of note and acceptor of bill.

In default of such payment as aforesaid, such maker or acceptor is bound to compensate any party to the note or bill for any loss or damage sustained by him, and caused by such default.

Draft, s. 61: Bill II, s. 47: Bill III, s. 37: Byles 187, 189.

33. No person except the drawee of a bill of exchange, or all or some of several drawees, or a person named therein as a drawee in case of need, or an acceptor for honour, can bind himself by an acceptance.

Only drawee can be acceptor except in need or for honour.

Draft, s. 59: Bill II, s. 41: Bill III, s. 32.

34. Where there are several drawees of a bill of exchange who are not partners, each of them can accept it for himself, but none of them can accept it for another without his authority.

Acceptance by several drawees not partners.

Draft, ss. 38, 64 (para. 2), 64, 65, 66: Bill II, s. 48: Bill III, s. 38: Byles 158, 206: Robinson v. Kensington, 4 Taunt. 30: Byles 152, 155: Snee v. Prescott, 1 Atk. 245: Thompson v. Dashwood, 11 Q. B. D. 43: Imperial Bank v. London and St. Katherine Docks Co., 5 C. P. Div. 195: Draft, s. 44.

35. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, whoever indorses and delivers a negotiable instrument before maturity, without, in such indorsement, expressly excluding or making conditional his own liability, is bound thereby to every subsequent holder, in case of dishonour by the drawee, acceptor or maker, to compensate such holder for any loss or damage caused to him by such dishonour, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, such indorser as hereinafter provided.

Liability of indorser.

Every indorser after dishonour is liable as upon an instrument payable on demand.

Draft, ss. 69, 71: Bill II, s. 49: Bill III, s. 39: Byles 166: O'Keefe v. Dunn, 6 Taunt. 305: 5 M. & S. 282.

36. Every prior party to a negotiable instrument is liable thereon to a holder in due course until the instrument is duly satisfied.

Liability of prior parties to holder in due course.

Bill II, s. 50: Bill III, s. 40: Byles 245.

37. The maker of a promissory note or cheque, the drawer of a bill of exchange until acceptance, and the acceptor are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively liable thereon as principal debtors, and the other parties thereto are liable thereon as sureties for the maker, drawer or acceptor, as the case may be.

Maker, drawer and acceptor principals.

Bill II, s. 51: Bill III, s. 41: Byles 245.

38. As between the parties so liable as sureties, each prior party is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, also liable thereon as a principal debtor in respect of each subsequent party.

Prior party a principal in respect of each subsequent party.

Illustration.

A draws a bill payable to his own order on B, who accepts. A afterwards indorses the bill to C, C to D, and D to E. As between E and B, B is the principal debtor, and A, C and D are his sureties. As between E and A, A is the principal debtor, and C and D are his sureties. As between E and C, C is the principal debtor and D is his surety.

Bill II, s. 52: Bill III, s. 42: Owen v. Homan, 4 H. L. Cas. 997: Muir v. Crawford, L. R. 2 Sc. App. 456.

39. When the holder of an accepted bill of exchange enters into any contract with the acceptor which under section 134 or 135 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, would discharge the other parties, the holder may expressly reserve his right to charge the other parties, and in such case they are not discharged.

Suretyship.

Draft, s. 70: Bill II, s. 53: Bill III, s. 43: cf. Act IX of 1872, s. 134.

40. Where the holder of a negotiable instrument, without the consent of the indorser, destroys or impairs the indorser's remedy against a prior party, the indorser is discharged from liability to the holder to the same extent as if the instrument had been paid at maturity.

Discharge of indorser's liability.

Illustration.

A is the holder of a bill of exchange made payable to the order of B, which contains the following indorsements in blank:—

First indorsement, "B."
Second indorsement, "Peter Williams."
Third indorsement, "Wright and Co."
Fourth indorsement, "John Rozario."

This bill A puts in suit against John Rozario and strikes out, without John Rozario's consent, the indorsements by Peter Williams and Wright and Co. A is not entitled to recover anything from John Rozario.

Draft, s. 72: Bill II, s. 54: Bill III, s. 44: Byles 201.

41. An acceptor of a bill of exchange already indorsed is not relieved from liability by reason that such indorsement is forged, if he knew or had reason to believe the indorsement to be forged when he accepted the bill.

Acceptor bound, although indorsement forged.

Bill II, s. 55: Bill III, s. 45: Byles 201: Cooper v. Meyer, 10 B. & C. 468: Act I of 1872, s. 117.

42. An acceptor of a bill of exchange drawn in a fictitious name and payable to the drawer's order is not, by reason that such name is fictitious, relieved from liability to any holder in due course claiming under an indorsement by the same hand as the drawer's signature, and purporting to be made by the drawer.

Acceptance of bill drawn in fictitious name.

New.

43. A negotiable instrument made, drawn, accepted, endorsed or transferred without consideration, or for a consideration which fails, creates no obligation of payment between the parties to the transaction. But if any such party has transferred the instrument with or without endorsement to a holder for consideration, such holder, and every subsequent holder deriving title from him, may recover the amount due on such instrument from the transferor for consideration or any prior party thereto.

Negotiable instrument made, &c., without consideration.

Exception I.—No party for whose accommodation a negotiable instrument has been made, drawn, accepted or indorsed, can, if he have paid the amount thereof, recover thereon such amount from any person who became a party to such instrument for his accommodation.

Exception II.—No party to the instrument who has induced any other party to make, draw, accept, indorse or transfer the same to him for a consideration which he has failed to pay or perform in full, shall recover thereon an amount exceeding the value of the consideration (if any) which he has actually paid or performed.

Draft, s. 54: Bill II, s. 62: Bill III, s. 51: Byles 130.

44. When the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque consisted of money, and was originally absent in part or has subsequently failed in part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

Partial absence or failure of money-consideration.

Explanation.—The drawer of a bill of exchange stands in immediate relation with the acceptor. The maker of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, stands in immediate relation with the payee, and the indorser with his indorsee. Other signers may by agreement stand in immediate relation with a holder.

Illustration.

A draws a bill on B for Rs. 500 payable to the order of A. B accepts the bill, but subsequently dishonours it by non-payment. A sues B on the bill. B proves that it was accepted for value as to Rs. 400, and as an accommodation to the plaintiff as to the residue. A can only recover Rs. 400.

Draft, s. 55: Bill II, s. 63: Bill III, s. 52.

45. Where a part of the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, though not consisting of money, is ascertainable in money without collateral enquiry, and there has been a failure of that part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

Partial failure of consideration not consisting of money.

CHAPTER IV.

OF NEGOTIATION.

46. The making, acceptance or indorsement of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is completed by delivery, actual or constructive.

Delivery.

As between parties standing in immediate relation, delivery to be effectual must be made by the party making, accepting or indorsing the instrument, or by a person authorized by him in that behalf.

As between such parties and any holder of the instrument other than a holder in due course, it may be shown that the instrument was delivered conditionally or for a special purpose only, and not for the purpose of transferring absolutely the property therein.

A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by the delivery thereof.

A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to order is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

Draft, s. 18: Bill II, s. 64: Bill III, s. 53: Byles 148.

47. Subject to the provisions of section fifty-eight, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by delivery thereof.

Negotiation by delivery.

Exception.—A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque delivered on condition that it is not to take effect except in a certain event is not negotiable (except in the hands of a holder for value without notice of the condition) unless such event happens.

Illustrations.

Byles 148, note (i).

(a). A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer, delivers it to B's agent to keep for B. The instrument has been negotiated.

(b). A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer which is in the hands of A's banker, who is at the time the banker of B, directs the banker to transfer the instrument to B's credit in the banker's account with B. The banker does so, and accordingly now possesses the instrument as B's agent. The instrument has been negotiated, and B has become the holder of it.

Draft, s. 19: Bill II, s. 65: Bill III, s. 54: Denton v. Peters, L.R. 5 Q. B. 475: Exparte Cote, L. R. 9 Ch. App. 27.

48. Subject to the provisions of section fifty-eight, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to the order of a specified person, or to a specified person or order, is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

Negotiation by indorsement.

Draft, s. 31: Bill II, s. 68: Bill III, s. 57: Byles 150, 151.

49. The holder of a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank may, without signing his own name, by writing above the indorser's signature a direction to pay to any other person as indorsee, convert the indorsement in blank into an indorsement in full; and the holder does not thereby incur the responsibility of an indorser.

Conversion of indorsement in blank into indorsement in full.

Draft, ss. 29, 30: Bill II, ss. 69, 70: Bill III, ss. 58, 59: Byles 153.

50. The indorsement of a negotiable instrument followed by delivery transfers to the indorsee the property therein with the right of further negotiation; but the indorsement may, by express words, restrict or exclude such right, or may merely constitute the indorsee an agent to indorse the instrument, or to receive its contents for the indorser, or for some other specified person.

Effect of indorsement.

Illustrations.

B signs the following indorsements on different negotiable instruments payable to bearer:—

(a) "Pay the contents to C only."

(b) "Pay C for my use."

(c) "Pay C or order for the account of B."

(d) "The within must be credited to C."

These indorsements exclude the right of further negotiation by C.

(e) "Pay C."

(f) "Pay C value in account with the Oriental Bank."

(g) "Pay the contents to C, being part of the consideration in a certain deed of assignment executed by C to the indorser and others."

These indorsements do not exclude the right of further negotiation by C.

Draft, ss. 20, 24, 27: Bill II, s. 71: Bill III, s. 60.

51. Every sole maker, drawer, payee or indorsee, or all of several joint makers, drawers, payees or indorsees, of a negotiable instrument may, if the negotiability of such instrument has not been restricted or excluded, as mentioned in section fifty indorse and negotiate the same.

Who may negotiate.

Explanation.—Nothing in this section enables a maker or drawer to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is in lawful possession or is holder thereof; or enables a payee or indorsee to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is holder thereof.

Illustration.

A bill is drawn payable to A or order. A indorses it to B, the indorsement not containing the words "or order" or any equivalent words. B may negotiate the instrument.

Draft, ss. 32, 34: Bill II, s. 72: Bill III, s. 61: Byles 153, 157.

52. The indorser of a negotiable instrument may, by express words in the indorsement, exclude his own liability thereon, or make such liability or the right of the indorsee to receive the amount due thereon, depend upon the happening of a specified event, although such event may never happen.

Indorser who excludes his own liability or makes it conditional.

Draft, s. 45.

Where an indorser so excludes his liability and afterwards becomes the holder of the instrument, all intermediate indorsers are liable to him.

Illustrations.

(a) The indorser of a negotiable instrument signs his name, adding the words—

"Without recourse."

Upon this indorsement he incurs no liability.

(b) A is the payee and holder of a negotiable instrument. Excluding personal liability by an endorsement "without recourse," he transfers the instrument to B, and B indorses it to C, who indorses it to A. A is not only reinstated in his former rights, but has the rights of an indorsee against B and C.

Draft, s. 49: Bill II, s. 78: Bill III, s. 64.

53. A holder of a negotiable instrument who derives title from a holder in due course has the rights thereon of that holder in due course.

Holder deriving title from holder in due course.

Draft, s 25: Bill II, s. 74: Bill III, s. 63.

54. Subject to the provisions hereinafter contained as to crossed cheques, a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank is payable to the bearer thereof even although originally payable to order.

Instrument indorsed in blank.

Draft, s. 39: Bill II, s. 75: Bill III, s. 64.

55. If a negotiable instrument after having been indorsed in blank is indorsed in full, the amount of it cannot be claimed from the indorser in full, except by the person to whom it has been indorsed in full, or by one who derives title through such person.

Conversion of indorsement in blank into indorsement in full.

Draft, s. 23: Bill II, s. 76: Bill III, s. 65: Byles 172.

56. No writing on a negotiable instrument is valid for the purpose of negotiation if such writing purports to transfer only a part of the amount appearing to be due on the instrument; but where such amount has been partly paid, a note to that effect may be endorsed on the instrument, which may then be negotiated for the balance.

Indorsement for part of sum due.

Draft, s. 22: Bill II, s. 78: Bill III, s. 67: Byles 174.

57. The legal representative of a deceased person cannot negotiate by delivery only a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to order and indorsed by the deceased but not delivered.

Legal representative cannot by delivery only negotiate instrument indorsed by deceased.

Draft, ss. 52, 53: Bill II, s. 79 Bill III, s. 68: Byles 122, 164.

58. When a negotiable instrument has been lost, or has been obtained from any maker, acceptor or holder thereof by means of an offence or fraud, or for an unlawful consideration, no possessor or indorsee who claims through the person who found or so obtained the instrument is entitled to receive the amount due thereon from such maker, acceptor or holder, or from any party prior to such holder, unless such possessor or indorsee is, or some person through whom he claims was, a holder thereof in due course.

Instrument obtained by unlawful means or for unlawful consideration.

Draft, s. 43, and part of s. 52: Bill II, s. 80: Bill III, s. 69: Byles 166, 168.

59. The holder of a negotiable instrument, who has acquired it after dishonour, whether by non-acceptance or non-payment, with notice thereof, or after maturity, has only, as against the other parties, the rights thereon of his transferor:

Instrument acquired after dishonour or when overdue.

Provided that any person who, in good faith and for consideration, becomes the holder, after maturity, of a promissory note or bill of exchange made, drawn or accepted without consideration for the purpose of enabling some party thereto to raise money thereon, may recover the amount of the note or bill from any prior party.

Accommodation note or bill.

Illustration.

The acceptor of a bill of exchange, when he accepted it, deposited with the drawer certain goods as a collateral security for the payment of the bill, with power to the drawer to sell the goods and apply the proceeds in discharge of the bill if it were not paid at maturity. The bill not having been paid at maturity, the drawer sold the goods and retained the proceeds, but indorsed the bill to A. A's title is subject to the same objection as the drawer's title.

Draft, ss. 41, 84: Bill II, s. 81: Bill III, s. 70: Byles 170.

60. A negotiable instrument may be negotiated (except by the maker, drawee or acceptor after maturity) until payment or satisfaction thereof by the maker, drawee or acceptor at or after maturity, but not after such payment or satisfaction.

Instrument negotiable till payment or satisfaction.

CHAPTER V.

OF PRESENTMENT.

Draft, s. 56: Bill II, s. 82: Bill III, s. 71.

61. A bill of exchange payable after sight must, if no time or place is specified therein for presentment, be presented to the drawee thereof for acceptance, if he can, after reasonable search, be found, by a person entitled to demand acceptance, within a reasonable time after it is drawn, and in business-hours on a business day. In default of such presentment, no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

Presentment for acceptance.

Walker v. McDonald, 2 Ex. 532: Leonard v. Wilson, 2 Cr. & M. 592: Byles 180 to 183.

If the drawee cannot, after reasonable search, be found, the bill is dishonoured. Byles 184.

If the bill is directed to the drawee at a particular place, it must be presented at that place; and if at the due date for presentment he cannot, after reasonable search, be found there, the bill is dishonoured. Byles 183, 184.

Bill II, s. 83: Bill III, s. 7.

62. A promissory note, payable at a certain period after sight, must be presented to the maker thereof for sight (if he can after reasonable search be found) by a person entitled to demand payment, within a reasonable time after it is made and in business-hours on a business day. In default of such presentment, no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

Presentment of promissory note for sight.

Draft, s. 56: Bill II, s. 84: Bill III, s. 73: Byles 183.

63. The holder must, if so required by the drawee of a bill of exchange presented to him for acceptance, allow the drawee twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept it.

Drawee's time for deliberation.

Draft, s. 133: Bill II, s. 85: Bill III, s. 74.

64. Promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques must be presented for payment to the maker, acceptor or drawee thereof respectively, by or on behalf of the holder as hereinafter provided. In default of such presentment, the other parties thereto are not liable thereon to such holder.

Presentment for payment.

Byles 216.

Exception.—Where a promissory note is payable on demand and is not payable at a specified place, no presentment is necessary in order to charge the maker thereof.

Bill II, s. 86: Bill III, s. 75: Draft, s. 137: Byles 213.

65. Presentment for payment must be made during the usual hours of business, and, if at a banker's, within banking hours.

Hours for presentment.

Draft, s. 133: Bill II, s. 87: Bill III, s. 76. Byles 208, 213.

66. A promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable at a specified period after date or sight thereof, must be presented for payment at maturity.

Presentment for payment of instrument payable after date or sight.

Bill II, s. 88: Bill III, s. 77: Byles 7.

67. A promissory note payable by instalments must be presented for payment on the third day after the date fixed for payment of each instalment; and non-payment on such presentment has the same effect as non-payment of a note at maturity.

Presentment for payment of promissory note payable by instalments.

Draft, s. 138: Bill II, s. 89: Bill III, s. 78: Act VI of 1840, s. 1: 1 & 2 Geo. IV, c. 78 (Byles 490).

68. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque made, drawn or accepted payable at a specified place and not elsewhere must, in order to charge any party thereto, be presented for payment at that place.

Presentment for payment of instrument payable at specified place and not elsewhere.

Draft, ss. 139, 140: Bill II, s. 90: Bill III, s. 79: Byles 214.

69. A promissory note or bill of exchange made, drawn or accepted payable at a specified place must, in order to charge the maker or drawer thereof, be presented for payment at that place.

Instrument payable at specified place.

Draft, ss. 139, 140, 142: Bill II, s. 91: Bill III, s. 80. Byles 214, 215.

70. A promissory note or bill of exchange, not made payable as mentioned in sections sixty-eight and sixty-nine, must be presented for payment at the place of business (if any), or at the usual residence, of the maker, drawee or acceptor thereof, as the case may be.

Presentment where no exclusive place specified.

Draft, s. 141: Bill II, s. 92: Bill III, s. 81.

71. If the maker, drawee or acceptor of a negotiable instrument has no known place of business or fixed residence, and no place is specified in the instrument for presentment for acceptance or payment, such presentment may be made to him in person wherever he can be found.

Presentment when maker, &c., has no known place of business or residence.

Bill II, s. 93: Bill III, s. 82: Byles 21, 210.

72. A cheque must, in order to charge the drawer, be presented at the bank upon which it is drawn before the relation between the drawer and his banker has been altered to the prejudice of the drawer.

Presentment of cheque to charge drawer.

Byles 20.

Bill II, s. 94: Bill III, s. 83: Byles [illegible].

73. A cheque must, in order to charge any person except the drawer, be presented within a reasonable time after delivery thereof by such person.

Presentment of cheque to charge any other person.

Draft, s. 134: Bill II, s. 95: Bill III, s. 84: Byles 211.

74. Subject to the provisions of section thirty-one, a negotiable instrument payable on demand must be presented for payment within a reasonable time after it is received by the holder.

Presentment of instrument payable on demand.

Bill II, s. 96: Bill III, s. 85: Parsons 500.

75. Presentment for acceptance or payment may be made to the duly authorized agent of the drawee, maker or acceptor, as the case may be, or, where the drawee, maker or acceptor has died, to his legal representative, or, where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee.

Presentment by or to agent, representative of deceased, or assignee of insolvent.

Draft, ss. 89, 91: Bill II, s. 98: Bill III, s. 86: Byles 218.

76. No presentment for payment is necessary, and the instrument is dishonoured at the due date for presentment, in any of the following cases:—

When presentment unnecessary.

(a) if the maker, drawee or acceptor intentionally prevents the presentment of the instrument, or, if the instrument being payable at his place of business, he closes such place on a business day during the usual business-hours, or if the instrument being payable at some other specified place, neither he nor any person authorized to pay it attends at such place during the usual business-hours, or if the instrument not being payable at any specified place, he cannot after due search be found;

(b) as against any party sought to be charged therewith, if he has engaged to pay notwithstanding non-presentment;

(c) as against any party if, after maturity, with knowledge that the instrument has not been presented—

he makes a part payment on account of the amount due on the instrument, or promises to pay the amount due thereon in whole or in part, or otherwise waives his right to take advantage of any default in presentment for payment;

(d) as against the drawer, if the drawer could not suffer damage from the want of such presentment.

Terry v. Parker, 6 Ad. & E. 502: Wirth v. Austin, L. R. 10 C. P. 689.

Draft, s. 88: Bill II, s. 99: Bill III, s. 87: Byles 197.

77. When a bill of exchange, accepted payable at a specified bank, has been duly presented there for payment and dishonoured, if the banker so negligently or improperly keeps, deals with or delivers back such bill as to cause loss to the holder, he must compensate the holder for such loss.

Liability of banker for negligently dealing with bill presented for payment.

CHAPTER VI.

OF PAYMENT AND INTEREST.

Bill II, s. 100: Bill III, s. 88: Byles 220.

78. Subject to the provisions of section eighty-two, clause (c), payment of the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque must, in order to discharge the maker or acceptor, be made to the holder of the instrument.

To whom payment should be made.

Bill II, s. 101: Bill III, s. 89: Byles 306 307.

79. When interest at a specified rate is expressly made payable on a promissory note or bill of exchange, interest shall be calculated at the rate specified, on the amount of the principal money due thereon, from the date of the instrument, until tender or realization of such amount, or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

Interest when rate specified.

Draft, s. 65: Bill II, s. 102: Bill III, s. 90: Byles 306, 307, 308.

80. When no rate of interest is specified in the instrument, interest on the amount due thereon shall, except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532, be calculated at the rate of six percentum per annum, from the date at which the same ought to have been paid by the party charged, until tender or realization of the amount due thereon or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

Interest when no rate specified.

'ten,' Bank of Bengal.

Byles 308.

Explanation.—When the party charged is the indorser of an instrument dishonoured by non-payment, he is liable to pay interest only from the time that he receives notice of the dishonour.

Draft, s. 82: Bill II, s. 103: Bill III, s. 91: Byles 373: See Pro. Code, s. 61.

81. Any person liable to pay, and called upon by the holder thereof to pay, the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is before payment entitled to have it shown, and is on payment entitled to have it delivered up, to him, or, if the instrument is lost or cannot be produced, to be indemnified against any further claim thereon against him.

Delivery of instrument on payment, or indemnity in case of loss.

CHAPTER VII.

OF DISCHARGE FROM LIABILITY ON NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

Draft, s. 85: Bill II, s. 104: Bill III, s. 92. Or Byles 154, 199: Draft, s. 88.

82. The maker, acceptor or indorser respectively of a negotiable instrument is discharged from liability thereon—

Discharge from liability—

(a) to a holder thereof who cancels such acceptor's or indorser's name with intent to discharge him, and to all parties claiming under such holder;

by cancellation;

Byles 198, 240.

(b) to a holder thereof who otherwise discharges such maker, acceptor or indorser, and to all parties deriving title under such holder after notice of such discharge;

by release;

Draft, ss. 87, 88: Byles 221.

(c) to all parties thereto, if the instrument is payable to bearer, or has been indorsed in blank, and such maker, acceptor or indorser makes payment in due course of the amount due thereon.

by payment.

Draft, s. 70 Bill II, s. 105 Bill III, s. 93.

83. If the holder of a bill of exchange allows the drawee more than twenty-four hours, exclusive of public holidays, to consider whether he will accept the same, all previous parties not consenting to such allowance are thereby discharged from liability to such holder.

Discharge by allowing drawee more than twenty-four hours to accept.

Draft, s. 101: Bill II, s. 106: Bill III, s. 94: Byles 20.

84. When the holder of a cheque fails to present it for payment within a reasonable time, and the drawer thereof sustains loss or damage from such failure, he is discharged from liability to the holder.

When cheque not duly presented and drawer damaged thereby.

Bill II, s. 107: Bill III, s. 95: 16 & 17 Vic., c. 59, s. 19: Byles 27, 506: Charles v. Blackwell, 1 C. P. Div. 548.

85. Where a cheque payable to order, purports to be indorsed by or on behalf of the payee, the drawee is discharged by payment in due course.

Cheque payable to order.

Draft, s. 69: Bill II, s. 108: Bill III, s 96: Byles 193, 194.

86. If the holder of a bill of exchange acquiesces in a qualified acceptance, or one limited to part of the sum mentioned in the bill, or which substitutes a different place or time for payment, or which, where the drawees are not partners is not signed by all the drawees, all previous parties whose consent is not obtained to such acceptance are discharged as against the holder and those claiming under him, unless on notice given by the holder, they assent to such acceptance.

Parties not consenting discharged by qualified or limited acceptance.

Explanation.—An acceptance is qualified—

(a) where it is conditional, declaring the payment to be dependent on the happening of an event therein stated;

(b) where it undertakes the payment of part only of the sum ordered to be paid;

(c) where, no place of payment being specified on the order, it undertakes the payment at a specified place and not otherwise or elsewhere; or where, a place of payment being specified in the order, it undertakes the payment at some other place and not otherwise or elsewhere;

(d) where it undertakes the payment at a time other than that at which under the order it would be legally due.

Draft, ss. 109, 110: Bill II, s. 110: Bill III, s. 97: Byles 324.

87. Save as provided in sections twenty, forty-nine, eighty-six and one hundred and twenty-five, any material alteration of a negotiable instrument renders the same void as against any one who is a party thereto at the time of making such alteration and does not consent thereto, unless it was made in order to carry out the common intention of the original parties;

Effect of material alteration.

and any such alteration, if made by an indorsee, discharges his indorser from all liability to him in respect of the consideration thereof.

Alteration by indorsee.

Bill II, s. 111: Bill III, s. 98: Byles 326.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections twenty, forty-nine, eighty-six and one hundred and twenty-five.

Draft, ss. 112 to 114: Act I of 1872, s. 112: Bill II, s. 112: Bill III, s. 99.

88. An acceptor or indorser of a negotiable instrument is bound by his acceptance or indorsement notwithstanding any previous alteration of the instrument.

Acceptor or indorser bound notwithstanding previous alteration.

Draft, s. 115: Bill II, s. 113: Bill III, s. 100: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 11.

89. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque has been materially altered, but does not appear to have been so altered,

Payment of instrument on which alteration is not apparent.

or where a cheque is presented for payment which does not at the time of presentation appear to be crossed or to have had a crossing which has been obliterated, payment thereof by a person or banker liable to pay and paying the same according to the apparent tenor thereof at the time of payment and otherwise in due course, shall discharge such person or banker from all liability thereon, and such payment shall not be questioned by reason of the instrument having been altered, or the cheque crossed.

90. If a bill of exchange which has been negotiated is, at or after maturity, held by the acceptor in his own right, all rights of action thereon are extinguished.

Extinguishment of rights of action on bill in acceptor's hands.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF NOTICE OF DISHONOUR.

Draft, s. 38: [illegible] s. [illegible] III, s. [illegible] Byles 187.

91. A bill of exchange is said to be dishonoured by non-acceptance when the drawee, or one of several drawees not being partners, makes default in acceptance upon being duly required to accept the bill, or where presentment is excused and the bill is not accepted.

Dishonour by non-acceptance.

Where the drawee is incompetent to contract, or the acceptance is qualified, the bill may be treated as dishonoured.

[illegible] II, s. [illegible] III, s. [illegible]

92. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is said to be dishonoured by non-payment when the maker of the note, acceptor of the bill, or drawee of the cheque makes default in payment upon being duly required to pay the same.

Dishonour by non-payment.

[illegible] ss. 125, [illegible] 131: [illegible] II, s. [illegible] III, s. [illegible] 275. [illegible] 295. [illegible] 300. [illegible] 177; [illegible] 190; [illegible] III, s. [illegible] 274, 275. [illegible] 280. [illegible] notice must be [illegible] 198. [illegible] 195. [illegible] 126

93. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder thereof, or some party thereto who remains liable thereon, must give notice that the instrument has been so dishonoured to all other parties whom the holder seeks to make severally liable thereon, and to some one of several parties whom he seeks to make jointly liable thereon.

By and to whom notice should be given.

Nothing in this section renders it necessary to give notice to the maker of the dishonoured promissory note, or the drawee or acceptor of the dishonoured bill of exchange or cheque.

94. Notice of dishonour may be given to a duly authorized agent of the person to whom it is required to be given, or, where he has died, to his legal representative, or, where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee; may, if written, be sent by post; and may be in any form; but it must inform the party to whom it is given, either in express terms or by reasonable intendment, that the instrument has been dishonoured, and in what way, and that he will be held liable thereon; and it must be given within a reasonable time after dishonour, at the place of business, or (in case such party has no place of business) at the residence of the party for whom it is intended.

Mode in which notice may be given.

If the notice is duly directed and sent by post and miscarries, such miscarriage does not render the notice invalid.

Draft, s. 131: Bill II, s. 118: Bill III, s. 105.

95. Any party receiving notice of dishonour must, in order to render any prior party liable to himself, give notice of dishonour to such party within a reasonable time, unless such party otherwise receives due notice as provided by section ninety-three.

Party receiving must transmit notice of dishonour.

Draft, s. 132: Bill II, s. 119: Bill III, s. 106: Byles 286.

96. When the instrument is deposited with an agent for presentment, the agent is entitled to the same time to give notice to his principal as if he were the holder giving notice of dishonour, and the principal is entitled to a further like period to give notice of dishonour.

Agent for presentment.

Draft, s. 130: Druse 2: Bill II, s. 120: Bill III, s. 107.

97. When the party to whom notice of dishonour is despatched is dead, but the party despatching the notice is ignorant of his death, the notice is sufficient.

When party to whom notice given is dead.

Draft, s. 92 Bill II, s. 121: Bill III, s. 108: Byles 296.

98. No notice of dishonour is necessary—

When notice of dishonour is unnecessary.

(a) when it is dispensed with by the party entitled thereto;

(b) in order to charge the drawer, when he has countermanded payment;

(c) when the party charged could not suffer damage for want of notice;

(d) when the party entitled to notice cannot after due search be found; or the party bound to give notice is, for any other reason, unable without any fault of his own to give it;

(e) to charge the drawers, when the acceptor is also a drawer;

Draft, ss. 67, 68, 93: Byles 301.

(f) in the case of a promissory note which is not negotiable;

Byles 302.

(g) when the party entitled to notice, knowing the facts, promises unconditionally to pay the amount due on the instrument.

CHAPTER IX.

OF NOTING AND PROTEST.

Draft, s. 119: Bill II, 122: Bill III, s. 109.

99. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may cause such dishonour to be noted by a notary public upon the instrument, or upon a paper attached thereto, or partly upon each.

Noting.

Draft, s. 119: Byles 261.

Such note must be made within a reasonable time after dishonour, and must specify the date of dishonour, the reason, if any, assigned for such dishonour, or, if the instrument has not been expressly dishonoured, the reason why the holder treats it as dishonoured, and the notary's charges.

Draft, s. 130: Bill II, s. 124: Bill III, s. 110: Byles 260.

100. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause such dishonour to be noted and certified by a notary public. Such certificate is called a protest.

Protest.

Byles 261.

Protest for better security.

When the acceptor of a bill of exchange has become insolvent, or his credit has been publicly impeached, before the maturity of the bill, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause a notary public to demand better security of the acceptor, and on its being refused may, within a reasonable time, cause such facts to be noted and certified as aforesaid. Such certificate is called a protest for better security.

Draft, s. 122: Bill II, s. 124: Bill III, s. 111: Byles 261.

Contents of protest.

101. A protest under section one hundred must contain—

(a) either the instrument itself, or a literal transcript of the instrument and of everything written or printed thereupon;

(b) the name of the person for whom and against whom the instrument has been protested;

(c) a statement that payment or acceptance, or better security, as the case may be, has been demanded of such person by the notary public; the terms of his answer, if any, or a statement that he gave no answer, or that he could not be found;

(e) the subscription of the notary public making the protest;

(f) in the event of an acceptance for honour or of a payment for honour, the name of the person by whom, of the person for whom, and the manner in which, such acceptance or payment was offered and effected.

Draft, s. 124: Bill II, s. 125: Bill III, s. 112: Byles 262.

Notice of protest.

Bill II. s. 126: Bill III, s. 113: Act VI, 1840, s. 4: 2 & 3 Wm. IV, c. 98.

Protest for non-payment after dishonour by non-acceptance.

103. All bills of exchange drawn payable at some other place than the place mentioned as the residence of the drawee, and which are dishonoured by non-acceptance, may, without further presentment to the drawee, be protested for non-payment, in the place specified for payment, unless paid before or at maturity.

Draft, s. 108: Bill II, s. 189: Bill III, s. 128.

Protest of foreign bills.

104. Foreign bills of exchange must be protested for dishonour when such protest is required by the law of the place where they are drawn.

CHAPTER X.

OF REASONABLE TIME.

Draft, s. 56, Explu. 1: Bill II, s. 127: Bill III, s. 114: Byles 182, 210, 287.

Reasonable time.

105. In determining what is a reasonable time for presentment for acceptance or payment, for giving notice of dishonour and for noting, regard shall be had to the nature of the instrument and the usual course of dealing with respect to similar instruments; and in calculating such time, public holidays shall be excluded.

Draft, s. 129: Bill II, s. 129 Bill III, s. 116: Byles 284.

Reasonable time of giving notice of dishonour.

Byles 285.

If the said parties carry on business or live in the same place, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched in time to reach its destination on the day next after the day of dishonour.

Draft, s. 131: Bill II, s. 130: Bill III, s. 117.

Reasonable time for transmitting such notice.

107. A party receiving notice of dishonour, who seeks to enforce his right against a prior party, transmits the notice within a reasonable time if he transmits it within the same time after its receipt as he would have had to give notice if he had been the holder.

CHAPTER XI.

OF ACCEPTANCE AND PAYMENT FOR HONOUR AND REFERENCE IN CASE OF NEED.

Draft, ss. 74, 76: Bill II, s. 131: Bill III, s. 118: Byles 265, 266.

Acceptance for honour.

108. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-acceptance or for better security, any person not being a party already liable thereon may, with the consent of the holder, by writing on the bill, accept the same for the honour of any party thereto.

An acceptor supra protest must personally appear before a notary public with two or more witnesses, and declare that he accepts, under protest, the protested bill for the honour of the drawer or of a particular indorser whom he names, or generally for honour, and that he will satisfy the same at the appointed time; and then must subscribe the bill with his own hand.

Unless the person who intends to accept supra protest first declares, in the presence of a notary, that he does it for honour, and has such declaration duly recorded in the notarial register at the time, his acceptance shall be a nullity.

New.

How acceptance for honour must be made.

109. A person desiring to accept for honour must, in the presence of a notary public, subscribe the bill with his own hand, and declare that he accepts under protest the protested bill for the honour of the drawer or of a particular indorser whom he names, or generally for honour; and such declaration must be recorded by the notary in his register.

Draft, s. 75 Bill II, s. 132: Bill III, s. 119: Byles 265, 266.

Acceptance not specifying for whose honour it is made.

110. Where the acceptance does not express for whose honour it is made, it shall be deemed to be made for the honour of the drawer.

Draft, s. 77: Bill II, s. 133: Bill III, s. 120: Byles 267.

Liability of acceptor for honour.

111. An acceptor for honour binds himself to all parties subsequent to the party for whose honour he accepts to pay the amount of the bill if the drawee do not; and such party and all prior parties are liable in their respective capacities to compensate the acceptor for honour for all loss or damage sustained by him in consequence of such acceptance.

Byles 268.

But an acceptor for honour is not liable to the holder of the bill unless it is presented, or (in case the address given by such acceptor on the bill is a place other than the place where the bill is made payable) forwarded for presentment, not later than the day next after the day of its maturity.

Draft, s. 95: Bill II, s. 134: Bill III, s. 121.

112. An acceptor for honour cannot be charged unless the bill has at its maturity been presented to the drawee for payment and has been dishonoured by him, and noted or protested for such dishonour.

When acceptor for honour may be charged.

Draft, s. 96: Bill II, s. 135: Bill III, s. 122: Byles 270.

113. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-payment, any person may pay the same for the honour of any party liable to pay the same, provided that the person so paying has previously declared before a notary public the party for whose honour he pays, and that such declaration has been recorded by such notary public.

Payment for honour.

Draft, s. 97: Bill II, s. 136: Bill III, s. 123: Byles 271. In re Overend, Gurney & Co., L. R. 6, Eq. 344.

114. Any person so paying is entitled to all the rights, in respect of the bill, of the holder at the time of such payment, and may recover from the party for whose honour he pays all sums so paid, with interest thereon and with all expenses properly incurred in making such payment.

Right of payer for honour.

Draft, s. 73: Bill II, s. 138: Bill III, s. 127: Byles 266.

115. Where a drawee in case of need is named in a bill of exchange, or in any endorsement thereon, the bill is not dishonoured until it has been dishonoured by such drawee.

Drawee in case of need.

116. A drawee in case of need may accept and pay the bill of exchange without previous protest.

Acceptance and payment without protest.

CHAPTER XII.

OF COMPENSATION.

Bill II, s. 137: Bill III, s. 124.

117. The compensation payable in case of dishonour of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, by any party liable to the holder or any indorsee, shall (except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532) be determined by the following rules:—

Rules as to compensation.

Draft, s. 65: Byles 415.

(a) The holder is entitled to the amount due upon the instrument, together with the expenses properly incurred in presenting, noting and protesting it;

(b) When the person charged resides at a place different from that at which the instrument was payable, the holder is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places;

(c) An indorser who, being liable, has paid the amount due on the same is entitled to the amount so paid with interest at six per centum per annum from the date of payment until tender or realization thereof, together with all expenses caused by the dishonour and payment;

(d) When the person charged and such indorser reside at different places, the indorser is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places;

(e) The party entitled to compensation may draw a bill upon the party liable to compensate him, payable at sight or on demand, for the amount due to him together with all expenses properly incurred by him. Such bill must be accompanied by the instrument dishonoured and the protest thereof (if any). If such bill is dishonoured, the party dishonouring the same is liable to make compensation thereof in the same manner as in the case of the original bill.

CHAPTER XIII.

SPECIAL RULES OF EVIDENCE.

Draft, s. 12: Bill II, s. [illegible]: Bill III, s. 26: Byles 3, 119.

118. Until the contrary is proved, the following presumptions shall be made:—

Presumptions as to negotiable instruments;

(a) that every negotiable instrument was made or drawn for consideration, and that every such instrument, when it has been accepted, indorsed, negotiated or transferred, was accepted, indorsed, negotiated or transferred for consideration:

as to consideration;

(b) that every negotiable instrument bearing a date was made or drawn on such date:

as to date;

Byles 190.

(c) that every accepted bill of exchange was accepted within a reasonable time after its date and before its maturity:

as to time of acceptance;

Byles 170.

(d) that every transfer of a negotiable instrument was made before its maturity:

as to time of transfer;

Draft, s. 87.

(e) that the endorsements appearing upon a negotiable instrument were made in the order in which they appear thereon:

as to order of endorsements;

Byles 117, 382.

(f) that a lost promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque was duly stamped:

as to stamp;

Draft, s. 12: Byles 122.

(g) that the holder of a negotiable instrument is a holder in due course: provided that where the instrument has been obtained from its lawful owner, or from any person in lawful custody thereof, by means of an offence or fraud, or has been obtained from the maker or acceptor thereof by means of an offence or fraud, or for unlawful consideration, the burthen of proving that the holder is a holder in due course lies upon him.

that holder is a holder in due course.

Draft, ss. 121, 123: Act V of 1866, s. 13.

119. In a suit upon an instrument, which has been dishonoured, the Court shall, on proof of the protest, presume the fact of dishonour, unless and until such fact is disproved.

Presumption on proof of protest.

Bill II, s. 54: Bill III, s. 44: Phillips v. Im Thurn, 18 C. B., N. S. 694.

120. No maker of a promissory note, and no drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque, and no acceptor of a bill of exchange for the honour of the drawer shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the validity of the instrument as originally made or drawn.

Estoppel against denying original validity of instrument.

Bill II, s. 56: Bill III, s. 45: Byles 200.

121. No maker of a promissory note and no acceptor of a bill of exchange payable to, or to the order of, a specified person shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the payee's capacity, at the date of the note or bill, to indorse the same.

Estoppel against denying capacity of payee to indorse.

Draft, s. 35: Bill II, s. 57: Bill III, s. 46: Byles 153. See Byles 222, n. (i).

122. No indorser of a negotiable instrument shall, in a suit thereon by a subsequent holder, be permitted to deny the signature or capacity to contract of any prior party to the instrument.

Estoppel against denying signature or capacity of prior party.

CHAPTER XIV.

OF CROSSED CHEQUES.

Bill II, s. 30: Bill III, s. 129: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 4.

123. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the words "and company" or any abbreviation thereof, between two parallel transverse lines, or of two parallel transverse lines simply, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed generally.

Cheque crossed generally.

Bill II, s. 31: Bill III, s. 130: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 4.

124. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the name of a banker, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed specially, and to be crossed to that banker.

Cheque crossed specially.

Bill II, s. 32: Bill III, s. 131: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 5.

125. Where a cheque is uncrossed, the holder may cross it generally or specially.

Crossing after issue.

Where a cheque is crossed generally, the holder may cross it specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally or specially, the holder may add the words "not negotiable."

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker to whom it is crossed may again cross it specially to another banker, his agent, for collection.

Draft, ss. 102, 103: Bill II, s. 33: Bill III, s. 132: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 7.

126. Where a cheque is crossed generally, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to a banker.

Payment of cheque crossed generally.

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to the banker to whom it is crossed, or his agent for collection.

Payment of cheque crossed specially.

Bill II, s. 34: Bill III, s. 133: S. 8.

127. Where a cheque is crossed specially to more than one banker, except when crossed to an agent for the purpose of collection, the banker on whom it is drawn shall refuse payment thereof.

Payment of cheque crossed specially more than once.

Bill II, s. 35: Bill III, s. 134: S. 9.

128. Where the banker on whom a crossed cheque is drawn has paid the same in due course, the banker paying the cheque, and (in case such cheque has come to the hands of the payee) the drawer thereof, shall respectively be entitled to the same rights, and be placed in the same position in all respects, as they would respectively be entitled to and placed in if the amount of the cheque had been paid to and received by the true owner thereof.

Payment in due course of crossed cheque.

Bill II, s. 36: Bill III, s. 135: S. 10.

129. Any banker paying a cheque crossed generally otherwise than to a banker, or a cheque crossed specially otherwise than to the banker to whom the same is crossed, or his agent for collection, being a banker, shall be liable to the true owner of the cheque for any loss he may sustain owing to the cheque having been so paid.

Payment of crossed cheque out of due course.

Bill II, s. 37: Bill III, s. 136: S. 12.

130. A person taking a cheque crossed generally or specially, bearing in either case the words "not negotiable," shall not have, and shall not be capable of giving, a better title to the cheque than that which the person from whom he took it had.

Cheque bearing "not negotiable."

48 L. J. C. P. 529.

131. A banker who has in good faith and without negligence received payment for a customer of a cheque crossed generally or specially to himself shall not, in case the title to the cheque proves defective, incur any liability to the true owner of the cheque by reason only of having received such payment.

Non-liability of banker receiving payment of cheque.

CHAPTER XV.

OF BILLS IN SETS.

Draft, ss. 11, 116: Bill II, s. 28: Bill III, s. 125: Byles 390, 391.

132. Bills of exchange may be drawn in parts, each part being numbered and containing a provision that it shall continue payable only so long as the others remain unpaid. All the parts together make a set; but the whole set constitutes only one bill, and is extinguished when one of the parts, if a separate bill, would be extinguished.

Set of bills.

Byles 92: Holdsworth v. Hunter, 10 B. & C. 449.

Exception.—When a person accepts or indorses different parts of the bill in favour of different persons, he and the subsequent indorsers of each part are liable on such part as if it were a separate bill.

Bill II, s. 29 Bill III, s. 126: Byles 391: Bayley 30, 171.

133. As between holders in due course of different parts of the same set, he who first acquired title to his part is entitled to the other parts and the money represented by the bill.

Holder of first acquired part entitled to all.

CHAPTER XVI.

OF INTERNATIONAL LAW.

Draft, s. 104: Bill II, s. 140: Bill III, s. 137: Byles 399: Rouquette v. Overmann, L. R. 10 Q. B. 525: Byles 390, Horne v. Rouquette, 3 Q. B. Div. 514.

134. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the liability of the maker or drawer of a foreign promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is regulated in all essential matters by the law of the place where he made the instrument, and the respective liabilities of the acceptor and indorser by the law of the place where the instrument is made payable.

Law governing liability of maker, acceptor or indorser of foreign instrument.

Illustration.

Byles 402. A bill of exchange was drawn by A in California, where the rate of interest is 25 per cent., and accepted by B, payable in Washington, where the rate of interest is 6 per cent. The bill is endorsed in British India, and is dishonoured. An action on the bill is brought against B in British India. He is liable to pay interest at the rate of 6 per cent. only; but if A is charged as drawer, A is liable to pay interest at the rate of 25 per cent.

Draft, s. 105: Bill II, s. 141: Bill III, s. 138. 135. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is made payable in a different place from that in which it is made or indorsed, the law of the place where it is made payable determines what constitutes dishonour and what notice of dishonour is sufficient.

Law of place of payment governs dishonour.

Illustration.

A bill of exchange drawn and indorsed in British India, but accepted payable in France, is dishonoured. The indorsee causes it to be protested for such dishonour, and gives notice thereof in accordance with the law of France, though not in accordance with the rules herein contained in respect of bills which are not foreign. The notice is sufficient.

Draft, s. 106: Bill II, s. 142: Bill III, s. 139. 136. If a negotiable instrument is made, drawn, accepted or indorsed out of British India, but in accordance with the law of British India, the circumstance that any agreement evidenced by such instrument is invalid according to the law of the country wherein it was entered into does not invalidate any subsequent acceptance or endorsement made thereon in British India.

Instrument made, &c., out of British India, but in accordance with its law.

Draft, s. 107: Bill II, s. 143: Bill III, s. 140: Act I of 1872, s. 4. 137. The law of any foreign country regarding promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques shall be presumed to be the same as that of British India, unless and until the contrary is proved.

Presumption as to foreign law.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 28th January, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 3 OF 1881.

A Bill for the amendment of the law relating to Insolvent Debtors in India.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to Insolvent Debtors in India; It is enacted as follows :— Preamble.

1. This Act may be called "The Insolvent Law Amendment Act, 1881." Short title.
it extends to the whole of British India; and Local extent.
it shall come into force on the first day of April 1881. Commencement.

2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,— Interpretation-clause.

the word "Insolvent" means a person of whose property a receiver has been appointed under the Code of Civil Procedure, section 351, a person upon whose petition a vesting order has been made under the seventh section of the eleventh and twelfth of Victoria, Chapter XXI, entitled an Act to consolidate and amend the laws relating to Insolvent Debtors in India, and a person who has been adjudged to have committed an act of insolvency under the provisions of section eight or under the provisions of the ninth section of the same Act : "Insolvent."

the word "adjudication" means the order under the said section 351 of the said Code appointing a receiver, a vesting order under the said seventh section of the said Act, and an order under the said eighth section or under the said ninth section of the said Act adjudging any person to have committed an act of insolvency; and "Adjudication."

the word "assignee" means the person in whom the property of any Insolvent has been vested by the adjudication of such Insolvent. "Assignee."

3. If, at the time of the adjudication of any insolvent, any of his property has been attached in execution of any decree or under any order for attachment before judgment, the Court, under whose order such property has been attached, shall withdraw the attachment and permit his assignee to take possession of the same. Attached property of insolvent.

If, before the Court has had notice of such insolvency, the attached property has been sold, the proceeds of the sale, after deducting the costs of the attachment and sale and all other necessary costs incurred in and about the realization of such proceeds, shall be paid to the assignee of such insolvent :

Provided, that in case the Court has not had notice of the adjudication of such insolvent, before such proceeds are distributed, the same shall not, merely on account of such adjudication be recalled from the persons to whom they have been paid.

When the Court withdraws the attachment, it may, if it think fit, direct that the proper and necessary costs of the attachment and of the preservation of the property attached shall be charged upon the proceeds of such property; and if such order be made, the assignee shall apply the proceeds of such sale in payment of such costs after payment of the costs of such sale, but in priority to payment of all debts of the insolvent payable out of such proceeds.

4. No property which, under the provisions of the twenty-third section of the said Act would be deemed to be the property of such insolvent, shall be held to have been taken out of his order and disposition by reason only that such property has, before the adjudication of such insolvent, been attached in execution of a decree or under any order for an attachment before judgment. Order and disposition. Attachment not to alter.

5. Whenever any persons trading in partnership together have, by the consent and permission of the true owner thereof, in their possession, order or disposition, goods or chattels whereof such persons are reputed owners, or whereof they have taken upon them the sale, alteration or disposition as owner, and while they have such possession, order or disposition, any of such persons is, under the provisions of the said Act, adjudicated an insolvent, or obtains a vesting order on his petition, such goods and chattels shall be deemed to be the property of such partnership so as to become vested in the Official Assignee of the Insolvent Court by the order made in pursuance of the said Act for the purpose only, and so far as may be required, for the purpose of paying the joint creditors of the said partnership. Order and disposition of Firms whose owner becomes Insolvent.

6. Whenever any person who carries on trade within the local limits of the Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction of any of the Transfer of insolvencies from Mufassal Courts.

High Courts at Calcutta, Madras or Bombay is, under the provisions of section 351 of the Code of Civil Procedure, declared to be an insolvent, the Insolvent Court in any of the said towns in which he may carry on business at the time he is so declared to be an insolvent, may, if it think fit, on the application of any creditor of such trader, adjudge him to have committed an act of insolvency:

such adjudication shall have the same force and effect as if he had, under the provisions of the eighth section of the said Act, been adjudicated an insolvent by such Court, at the time when he was declared to be an insolvent under the provisions of the said Code;

and all the estate and effects of such insolvent shall, unless the said Court otherwise directs, vest in the Official Assignee of such Court, and any person appointed receiver under the provisions of the said Code shall, unless such Court otherwise directs, thereupon make over to the Official Assignee all the property of the insolvent which may have come to his hands as such receiver:

Provided that no such adjudication shall avoid, or in any way affect, any dealing of such receiver with any of such property before he has notice of such adjudication.

Distribution of unclaimed dividends.

7. The assignee of each insolvent estate shall, on the expiration of six months from the declaration of any dividend, file in Court an account upon oath of every dividend remaining in his hands unclaimed, specifying the name of each creditor to whom each such dividend is due, as well as the amount of the debt due to each such creditor, and shall publish the same in the numbers of the local Gazette as are first and second successively printed next after such six months, and all dividends remaining unclaimed for a period of six years shall, after the second of such advertisements, revert to the general fund of each respective estate for re-distribution by the Official Assignee among the remaining creditors of such estate.

All such unclaimed dividends shall remain under the control and management of the Official Assignee pending payment and distribution in such manner as shall be prescribed and furnished by any rules to be made under the powers conferred by section seventy-six of the said Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Indian Insolvent Acts, following the analogy of the law of Bankruptcy in England at the time of the first of these Acts being passed, contained no provision for compelling the property of an insolvent, which had been attached in execution before his adjudication, to be distributed among the general body of his creditors. The later English Bankrupt Acts, however, provide for the distribution amongst the bankruptcy creditors of the proceeds of the execution if a petition be filed within fourteen days after the sale; thus securing, as far as possible, equality among creditors, a purpose which the Civil Procedure Code has generally in view; and one of the objects of this Bill is to give that equality of distribution, wherever the property attached has not actually been distributed among the attaching creditors.

The only power which the Insolvent Court now has to stay proceedings in execution does not arise till the Insolvent's schedule has been filed, and in the cases where the insolvent, is friendly to the execution creditor the filing of the schedule is invariably delayed for the purpose of giving him an advantage.

Further, the Code empowers Courts to attach the property of a defendant in cases where there is reason to believe that he is likely to make away with that property in fraud of the plaintiff. Under the language of the old Civil Procedure Code it was held that property so attached before judgment vested in the Official Assignee of the defendant, and was assets of his estate giving no preferential claim to the attaching creditor, but it has been successfully contended that the effect of the new Code, section 490, is to give to a creditor attaching before judgment priority over the assignee, even though the adjudication were before judgment obtained by the attaching creditor.

The third section of the Bill is intended to provide for the rateable distribution of the insolvent's property amongst his creditors in cases where the modern English law would so distribute it, instead of allowing one creditor to sweep away the whole or a large portion of the assets.

From a very early period the Bankruptcy law of England provided that persons who, by leaving goods in the hands of traders, enabled them to maintain a false appearance of wealth and thus obtain credit could not claim such goods from the assignee of the bankrupt, and this provision was introduced into this country by the Insolvent Act. There was nothing however to give similar rights to execution-creditors, and therefore this anomaly occurred that, where an attachment was laid on goods in the hands of a person who became insolvent, the custody of the law took the goods out of the order and disposition of the bankrupt so that a subsequent adjudication did not vest the goods in the assignee, but the attaching creditor was not able to treat the ostensible ownership of the judgment-debtor as giving him any claims. It is not easy to see any sound basis for this distinction, the injurious influence of which is, to some extent, obviated in England by the Bills of Sale Act. The fourth section is intended to avoid this anomaly.

Down to a very recent period it was generally supposed that where moveable property was in the possession and ostensible ownership of a partnership a member of which became bankrupt, the provisions of the Bankrupt Law vested such property in the assignee; it was however decided in ex parte Dorman L. R. 8 Ch. App. 51, that such was not the effect of the language of the Acts upon the ground that it could not be the intention of the Statute to give such rights where the other partners were solvent. The Appellate Court however was of opinion that where the firm is in fact insolvent the case comes within the mischief against which the order and disposition clause is intended to provide, and in this country it has been decided that the existence of an absent partner does not prevent the provisions of that clause attaching. The fifth section is intended to apply the order and disposition-clause to such cases as fall within the mischief which it is intended to prevent.

Much of the trade of the Presidency-towns is carried on by Gumáshtas on behalf of persons residing in remote parts of the Mufassal, and in many cases if such traders became insolvent they might be able, by taking advantage of the insolvency proceedings in the Procedure Code,* to embarass their general trade-creditors who would have much difficulty in supervising the proceedings in a Mufassal Court. The sixth section is intended to enable the creditors of such persons to have the liquidation of their affairs transferred to a Court with machinery better organised for the administration of bankrupt estates in cases where such a course is deemed by the Court to be expedient.

Sums in the aggregate considerable, though, in general, individually small, are from time to time left unclaimed in the hands of the official assignee, and so long ago as 1841 an Act was passed empowering the official assignee after the lapse of six years to distribute the amount of such unclaimed dividends rateably among the creditors who had proved the claims.

The language of this Act however was so singularly framed that it seems impossible that there ever could be a distribution made of such unclaimed dividends. The seventh section is intended to correct this.

* It was found some years ago in England that similar powers given to Scotch Courts were applied to the detriment of English creditors, and a modification of the Scotch Law was enacted to prevent its application to persons whose creditors were principally in another part of the United Kingdom, see 23 & 24 Vic., c. 33.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second Publication.]

The following Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 21st January, 1881:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques was referred, have had the report of the Indian Law Commissioners, 1879, duly communicated to us. We have carefully considered so much of it as relates to the present Bill, as well as the papers noted in the margin, and, in compliance with the wish of the Secretary of State for India, as expressed in his despatch (Legislative), No. 37, dated 7th October, 1880, we have the honour to submit this our fourth report.

From Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Madras, dated 1st August, 1878, and enclosure [Papers No. 56].
„ Acting Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 299, dated 14th February, 1879, and enclosures [Papers No. 58].
„ Ditto, ditto, ditto, No. 1343, dated 7th June, 1879, and enclosures [Papers No. 59].
„ J. Crawfurd, Esq., Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 1123, dated 27th June, 1879 [Paper No. 60].
Note by Sir Charles Turner, Chief Justice, Madras, dated 22nd January, 1880 [Paper No. 61].
From Seth Lachman Dás, Muttra, dated 1st January, 1881 [Paper No. 62].

2. We agree with the Commissioners that uniformity of practice is particularly desirable in matters relating to negotiable paper, and, to facilitate the assimilation of the practice of shroffs to that of European merchants, we have declared (section 1) that local usages may be excluded by any words in the body of the instrument which indicate an intention that the legal relations of the parties thereto shall be governed by the proposed Act.

3. We have inserted explanations calculated to prevent doubts as to when a promise or order to pay is "conditional," when the sum payable is "certain," and when the person to whom the direction is given or payment is to be made is "a certain person," within the meaning of sections 4 and 5.

4. We have re-drawn section 20 as to inchoate stamped instruments, so as to make it express more accurately what we conceive to be the law on this subject.

5. We have also re-drawn sections 47 and 48 (as follows):—

"43. A negotiable instrument made, drawn, accepted, endorsed or transferred without consideration, or for a consideration which fails, creates no obligation of payment between the parties to the transaction. But if any such party has transferred the instrument with or without endorsement to a holder for consideration, such holder, and every subsequent holder deriving title from him, may recover the amount due on such instrument from the transferor for consideration or any prior party thereto.

Negotiable instrument made, &c., without consideration.

"Exception I.—No party for whose accommodation a negotiable instrument has been made, drawn, accepted or indorsed, can, if he have paid the amount thereof, recover thereon such amount from any person who became a party to such instrument for his accommodation.

"Exception II.—No party to the instrument who has induced any other party to make, draw, accept, indorse or transfer the same to him for a consideration which he has failed to pay or perform in full, shall recover thereon an amount exceeding the value of the consideration (if any) which he has actually paid or performed."

6. We have prefixed to the sections relating to negotiation clauses (section 46) relating to delivery generally, and to the effect recommended by the Commissioners.

7. We think the section (67, now 63) relating to the drawee's time for deliberation should provide that the holder of a bill "must, if so required by the drawee," allow him twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept, and we have amended this section accordingly.

9. We have in section 90 (now 86) substituted "qualified" for "conditional" and added a paragraph shewing when an acceptance is qualified.

10. We have provided (section 90) for the extinguishment of rights of action on a negotiated bill held, at or after maturity, by the acceptor in his own right.

11. We agree with Sir C. Turner that section 108 of the Bill in its fourth form—as to reasonable time for presentment—should be omitted. It seems inconsistent with section 107 (now 105), and declares a rule which is not only stricter than the existing law, but would, in our opinion, be highly inconvenient.

12. We have inserted a statement of the procedure in the case of an acceptance supra protest, and to section 112 (now 109) we have prefixed a clause shewing how acceptance for honour must be made.

13. We have declared (section 116) that a drawee in case of need may accept and pay the bill without previous protest.

14. We have made it appear that inland (as well as foreign) bills may be drawn in sets, and altered Chapter XIV (now XV) accordingly. We have made the exception to section 126 (now 132) run thus:—

"Exception.—When a person accepts or indorses different parts of the bill in favour of different persons, he and the subsequent indorser of each part are liable on such part as if it were a separate bill."

15. We have amended the second clause of section 125 (now 130, 131) (as to the non-liability of a banker who has received payment for a customer of a crossed cheque) in accordance with Matthiessen v. London and County Banking Company, 48 L. J. C. P. 529.

16. We have made most of the changes in arrangement and wording advised by the Commissioners, and recommend that the Bill as now revised be passed. It has now been more than thirteen years before the Council of the Governor General; it has been redrawn, copiously criticised and repeatedly revised; and without the experience derived from its actual operation, it is not likely to be further improved. But it should be published in the Gazettes, and, according to the orders of the Secretary of State, it must, before being passed, be sent to the Local Governments, translated into the vernaculars and submitted to him with this report.

SCHEDULE.

No. V.

A Bill to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques; It is hereby enacted as follows:— Preamble.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called "The Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881:" Short title. Bill II, s. 1: Bill III, s. 2.

It extends to the whole of British India; but nothing herein contained affects the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, section twenty-one, or affects any local usage relating to any instrument in an oriental language: Provided that such usages may be excluded by any words in the body of the instrument which indicate an intention that the legal relations of the parties thereto shall be governed by this Act; and it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1882. Local extent. Saving of usages relating to hundis, &c. Commencement.

2. On and from that day the enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column thereof. Repeal of enactments. Bill II, s. 2: Bill III, s. 2.

3. In this Act— Interpretation-clause.

"Banker" includes also persons or a corporation or company acting as bankers; and "Banker." Bill II, s. 3: Bill III, s. 2: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 3.

"Notary Public" includes also any officer appointed by the Governor General in Council to perform the functions of a Notary Public under this Act. "Notary Public."

CHAPTER II.

OF NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

4. A promissory note is an instrument in writing (not being a bank note or a currency note) containing an unconditional undertaking, signed by the maker, to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person, or to the bearer of the instrument. Promissory Note. Bill II, s. 4: Bill III, s. 4. Byles on Bills, (12th edition), pp. 5, 94. 3 & 4 Anne, c. 9 (Byles 481). Byles 5, 102: Byles 10: Byles 93: Byles 6.

Illustrations.

A signs instruments in the following terms:—

(a) "I promise to pay B or order Rs. 500."

(b) "I acknowledge myself to be indebted to B in Rs. 1,000 to be paid on demand, for value received."

(c) "Mr. B, I O U Rs. 1,000."

(d) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 and all other sums which shall be due to him."

(e) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500, first deducting thereout any money which he may owe me."

(f) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 seven days after my marriage with C."

(g) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 on D's death, provided D leaves me enough to pay that sum."

(h) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 and to deliver to him my black horse on 1st January next."

The instruments respectively marked (a) and (b) are promissory notes. The instruments respectively marked (c), (d), (e), (f), (g) and (h) are not promissory notes.

5. A bill of exchange is an instrument in writing containing an unconditional order, signed by the maker, directing a certain person to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person or to the bearer of the instrument. Bill of exchange. Bill II, s. 5: Bill III, s. 5: Byles 1, 75: 81, 94, 97: Byles 93, 94, 96: Byles 75, 81.

A promise or order to pay is not "conditional," within the meaning of this section and section four, by reason of the time for payment of the amount or any instalment thereof being expressed to be on the lapse of a certain period after the occurrence of a specified event which, according to the ordinary expectation of mankind, is certain to happen, although the time of its happening may be uncertain.

The sum payable may be "certain," within the meaning of this section and section four, although it includes future interest or is payable at an indicated rate of exchange, or is according to the course of exchange, and although the instrument provides that, on default of payment of an instalment, the balance unpaid shall become due.

The person to whom it is clear that the direction is given or that payment is to be made may be a "certain person," within the meaning of this section and section four, although he is mis-named or designated by description only.

6. A cheque is a bill of exchange drawn on a specified banker and not expressed to be payable otherwise than on demand. Cheque. Bill II, s. 6: Bill III, s. 5: Byles 13.

7. The maker of a bill of exchange or cheque is called the "drawer;" the person thereby directed to pay is called the "drawee." "Drawer." "Drawee." Draft, s. 6: Bill II, s. 7: Bill III, s. 7.

When in the bill or in any indorsement thereon the name of any person is given in addition to the drawee to be resorted to in case of need, such person is called a "drawee in case of need." "Drawee in case of need."

After the drawee of a bill has signed his assent upon the bill, or if there are more parts thereof than one, upon one of such parts, and delivered the same, or given notice of such signing to the holder or to some person on his behalf, he is called the "acceptor." "Acceptor." Draft, ss. 6, 67: Byles 196: Act VI of 1840, s. 2: Act [illegible], s. 11: Act 46 Vic., c. 18.

When acceptance is refused and the bill is protested for non-acceptance, and any person accepts it supra protest for honour of the drawer or of any one of the indorsers, such person is called an "acceptor for honour." "Acceptor for honour."

The person named in the instrument, to whom or to whose order the money is by the instrument directed to be paid, is called the "payee." "Payee."

8. The "holder" of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque means any person entitled in his own name to the possession thereof and to receive or recover the amount due thereon from the parties thereto. "Holder." Draft, s. 6: Bill II, s. 8: Bill III, s. 8: Byles 2.

Where the note, bill or cheque is lost or destroyed, its holder is the person so entitled at the time of such loss or destruction.

9. "Holder in due course" means any person who for consideration became the possessor of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque if payable to bearer, "Holder in due course." Draft, s. 12: Bill II, s. 9: Bill III, s. 9: 1 Parsons 255: Byles 164.

or the payee or indorsee thereof, if payable to, or to the order of, a payee, before the amount mentioned in it became payable, and without having sufficient cause to believe that any defect existed in the title of the person from whom he derived his title.

10. "Payment in due course" means payment in accordance with the apparent tenor of the instrument in good faith and without negligence to any person in possession thereof under circumstances which do not afford a reasonable ground for believing that he is not entitled to receive payment of the amount therein mentioned. "Payment in due course." Draft, ss. 86, 115: Bill II, s. 10: Bill III, s. 10: Byles on Bills (12th edition), 221: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 11.

11. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque drawn or made in British India, and made payable in, or drawn upon any person resident in, British India shall be deemed to be an inland instrument. Inland instrument. Bill II, s. 11: Bill III, s. 11: Act V of 1866, s. 12.

12. Any such instrument not so drawn, made or made payable shall be deemed to be a foreign instrument. Foreign instrument. Bill II, s. 12: Bill III, s. 12.

13. A "negotiable instrument" means a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque expressed to be payable to a specified person or his order, or to the order of a specified person, or to the bearer thereof, or to a specified person or the bearer thereof. "Negotiable instrument." Draft, s. 5: Bill II, s. 13: Bill III, s. 13.

14. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is transferred to any person, so as to constitute that person the holder thereof, the instrument is said to be negotiated. Negotiation. Draft, s. 7: Bill II, s. 14: Bill III, s. 14.

15. When the maker or holder of a negotiable instrument signs the same, otherwise than as such maker, for the purpose of negotiation, on the back or face thereof or on a slip of paper annexed thereto, or so signs for the same purpose a stamped paper intended to be completed as a negotiable instrument, he is said to indorse the same, and is called the "indorser." Indorsement. Draft, s. 20: Bill II, s. 15: Bill III, s. 15: Denton v. Peters, L. R. 5 Q. B. 475: Ex parte Cote L. R. 9 Ch. App. 27: Byles 165: Byles 150.

Bill II, s. 17: Bill III, s. 17: Byles 91: Bayley (6th edition) 8.

Ambiguous instruments.

17. Where an instrument may be construed either as a promissory note or bill of exchange, the holder may at his election treat it as either, and the instrument shall be thenceforward treated accordingly.

Draft, s. 2: Bill II, s. 18: Bill III, s. 18: Byles 84: Bayley 12 (Saunderson v. Piper).

Where amount is stated differently in figures and words.

Bill II, s. 19: Bill III, s. 19: 1 Parsons 271: Byles 13, 212: Aldous v. Cornwell, L. R. 3 Q. B. 573.

Instruments payable on demand.

19. A promissory note or bill of exchange, in which no time for payment is specified, and a cheque are payable on demand.

Bill II, s. 20: Bill III, s. 20: Byles 88, 165, 188: Foster v. Mackinnon, L. R. 4 C. P. 704: Byles 84.

Inchoate stamped instruments.

20. Where one person signs and delivers to another a paper stamped in accordance with the law relating to negotiable instruments then in force in British India, and either wholly blank or having written thereon an incomplete negotiable instrument, he thereby gives primâ facie authority to the holder thereof to make or complete, as the case may be, upon it a negotiable instrument, for any amount specified therein and not exceeding the amount covered by the stamp. The person so signing shall be liable upon such instrument, in the capacity in which he signed the same, to any holder in due course for such amount: provided that no person other than a holder in due course shall recover from the person delivering the instrument anything in excess of the amount intended by him to be paid thereunder.

"At sight." "On presentment." "After sight."

21. In a promissory note or bill of exchange the expressions "at sight" and "on presentment" mean on demand. The expression "after sight" means, in a promissory note, after presentment for sight, and, in a bill of exchange, after acceptance, or noting for non-acceptance, or protest for non-acceptance.

Draft, s. 78: Bill II, s. 22: Bill III, s. 23.

"Maturity."

22. The maturity of a promissory note or bill of exchange is the date at which it falls due.

New.

Days of grace.

Every promissory note or bill of exchange which is not expressed to be payable on demand, at sight, or on presentment, is at maturity on the third day after the day on which it is expressed to be payable.

Draft, s. 79: Bill II, s. 24: Bill III, s. 24: Byles 206.

Calculating maturity of bill or note payable so many months after date or sight.

23. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable a stated number of months after date or after sight, or after a certain event, is at maturity, the period stated shall be held to terminate on the day of the month which corresponds with the day on which the instrument is dated, or presented for acceptance or sight, or noted for non-acceptance, or protested for non-acceptance, or the event happens, or, where the instrument is a bill of exchange made payable a stated number of months after sight and has been accepted for honour, with the day on which it was so accepted. If the month in which the period would terminate has no corresponding day, the period shall be held to terminate on the last day of such month.

Illustrations.

(a). A negotiable instrument, dated 29th January, 1878, is made payable at one month after date. The instrument is at maturity on the third day after the 28th February, 1878.

(b). A negotiable instrument, dated 30th August, 1878, is made payable three months after date. The instrument is at maturity on the 3rd December, 1878.

(c). A promissory note or bill of exchange, dated 31st August, 1878, is made payable three months after date. The instrument is at maturity on the 3rd December, 1878.

Draft, s. 80: Bill II, s. 25 Bill III, s. 25 Byles 206.

Calculating maturity of bill or note payable so many days after date or sight.

24. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange made payable a certain number of days after date or after sight or after a certain event, is at maturity, the day of the date, or of presentment for acceptance or sight, or of protest for non-acceptance, or on which the event happens, shall be excluded.

Draft, s. 80: Bill II, s. 26 Bill III, s. 26 Byles 208.

When day of maturity is a holiday.

25. When the day on which a promissory note or bill of exchange is at maturity is a public holiday, the instrument shall be deemed to be due on the next preceding business day.

Explanation.—The expression "public holiday" includes Sundays: New-Year's day, Christmas day: if either of such days falls on a Sunday, the next following Monday: Good-Friday; and any other day declared by the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, to be a public holiday.

CHAPTER III.

PARTIES TO NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

Bill II, s. 38: Bill III, s. 28: See 37 & 38 Vic., c. 62, s. 1 (Byles 529): Byles 59.

Capacity to make, &c., promissory notes, &c.

Byles 61.

Minor.

A minor may draw, indorse, deliver and negotiate such instruments so as to bind all parties except himself.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to empower a corporation to make, indorse or accept such instruments except in cases in which, under the law for the time being in force, they are so empowered.

Bill II, s. 39: Bill III, s. 29: Byles 31.

Agency.

Byles 32.

A general authority to transact business and to receive and discharge debts does not confer upon an agent the power of accepting or indorsing bills of exchange so as to bind his principal.

Byles 32.

An authority to draw bills of exchange does not of itself import an authority to indorse.

Draft, s. 15: Bill II, s. 40: Bill III, s. 30.

Liability of agent signing.

28. An agent who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, without indicating thereon that he signs as agent, or that he does not intend thereby to incur personal responsibility, is liable personally on the instrument, except to those who induced him to sign upon the belief that the principal only would be held liable.

Act IX of 1872, s. 234.

Byles 57: Bill III, s. 31.

Liability of legal representative signing.

29. A legal representative of a deceased person who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is liable personally thereon unless he expressly limits his liability to the extent of the assets received by him as such.

Draft, ss. 17, 73: Bill II, s. 44: Bill III, s. 34: Byles 3, 245: Bayley 43: Byles 290.

Liability of drawer.

30. The drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque is bound, in case of dishonour by the drawee or acceptor thereof, to compensate the holder under Chapter XII, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, the drawer as hereinafter provided.

Bill II, s. 45: Bill III, s. 35: Byles 18, 19, 155: Chitty 56: Grant on Bankers, 51: Gray v. Johnston, L. R. 3 E. and I. App. 1.

Liability of drawee of cheque.

31. The drawee of a cheque having sufficient funds of the drawer in his hands properly applicable to the payment of such cheque, must pay the cheque when duly required so to do, and, in default of such payment, must compensate the drawer for any loss or damage caused by such default.

Draft, ss. 60, 65: Bill II, s. 46: Bill III, s. 36: Byles 190, 193: Draft, s. 60: Bayley 44: Byles 910.

Liability of maker of note and acceptor of bill.

32. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the maker of a promissory note and the acceptor before maturity of a bill of exchange, are bound to pay the amount thereof at maturity according to the apparent tenor of the note or acceptance respectively, and the acceptor of a bill of exchange at or after maturity is bound to pay the amount thereof to the holder on demand.

In default of such payment as aforesaid, such maker or acceptor is bound to compensate any party to the note or bill for any loss or damage sustained by him, and caused by such default.

Draft, s. 61: Bill II, s. 47: Bill III, s. 37: Byles 187, 188.

Only drawee can be acceptor except in need or for honour.

33. No person except the drawee of a bill of exchange, or all or some of several drawees, or a person named therein as a drawee in case of need, or an acceptor for honour, can bind himself by an acceptance.

Draft, s. 59: Bill II, s. 41: Bill III, s. 32.

Acceptance by several drawees not partners.

34. Where there are several drawees of a bill of exchange who are not partners, each of them can accept it for himself, but none of them can accept it for another without his authority.

Draft, ss. 28, 32, 37 (para. 2), 46, 64, 65, 90 and 98: Bill II, s. 48: Bill III, s. 38: Byles 153, 245, 295: Robertson v. Kensington, 4 Taunt. 30: Byles 152, 159: Suse v. Pompe, 30 L. J., C. P. 75: Horne v. Rouquette, 3 E. Div. 9.

Liability of indorser.

35. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, whoever indorses and delivers a negotiable instrument before maturity, without, in such indorsement, expressly excluding or making conditional his own liability, is bound thereby to every subsequent holder, in case of dishonour by the drawee, acceptor or maker, to compensate such holder for any loss or damage caused to him by such dishonour, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, such indorser as hereinafter provided.

Draft, s. 44.

Every indorser after dishonour is liable as upon an instrument payable on demand.

Draft, ss. 63, 71: Bill II, s. 49: Bill III, s. 39: Byles 166: O'Keefe v. Dunn, 6 Taunt. 305: 5 M. & S. 282.

Liability of prior parties to holder in due course.

36. Every prior party to a negotiable instrument is liable thereon to a holder in due course until the instrument is duly satisfied.

Bill II, s. 50: Bill III, s. 40: Byles 245.

Maker, drawer and acceptor principals.

37. The maker of a promissory note or cheque, the drawer of a bill of exchange until acceptance, and the acceptor are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively liable thereon as principal debtors, and the other parties thereto are liable thereon as sureties for the maker, drawer or acceptor, as the case may be.

Bill II, s. 51: Bill III, s. 41: Byles 245.

Prior party a principal in respect of each subsequent party.

38. As between the parties so liable as sureties, each prior party is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, also liable thereon as a principal debtor in respect of each subsequent party.

Illustration.

A draws a bill payable to his own order on B, who accepts. A afterwards indorses the bill to C, C to D, and D to E. As between E and B, B is the principal debtor, and A, C and D are his sureties. As between E and A, A is the principal debtor, and C and D are his sureties. As between E and C, C is the principal debtor and D is his surety.

Bill II, s. 52: Bill III, s. 42: Owen v. Homan, 4 H. L. Cas. 997: Muir v. Crawford, L. R. 2 Sc. App. 456.

Suretyship.

39. When the holder of an accepted bill of exchange enters into any contract with the acceptor which under section 134 or 135 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, would discharge the other parties, the holder may expressly reserve his right to charge the other parties, and in such case they are not discharged.

Draft, s. 100: Bill II, s. 53: Bill III, s. 43: cf. Act IX of 1872, s. 137.

Discharge of indorser's liability.

40. Where the holder of a negotiable instrument, without the consent of the indorser, destroys or impairs the indorser's remedy against a prior party, the indorser is discharged from liability to the holder to the same extent as if the instrument had been paid at maturity.

Illustration.

A is the holder of a bill of exchange made payable to the order of B, which contains the following indorsements in blank:—

First indorsement, "B."
Second indorsement, "Peter Williams."
Third indorsement, "Wright and Co."
Fourth indorsement, "John Rozario."

This bill A puts in suit against John Rozario and strikes out, without John Rozario's consent, the indorsements by Peter Williams and Wright and Co. A is not entitled to recover anything from John Rozario.

Draft, s. 36: Bill II, s. 58: Bill III, s. 47: Byles 200, 201.

Acceptor bound, although indorsement forged.

41. An acceptor of a bill of exchange already indorsed is not relieved from liability by reason that such indorsement is forged, if he knew or had reason to believe the indorsement to be forged when he accepted the bill.

Bill II, s. 59: Bill III, s. 48: Byles 201: Cooper v. Meyer, 10 B. & C. 468: Act I of 1872, s. 117.

Acceptance of bill drawn in fictitious name.

42. An acceptor of a bill of exchange drawn in a fictitious name and payable to the drawer's order is not, by reason that such name is fictitious, relieved from liability to any holder in due course claiming under an indorsement by the same hand as the drawer's signature, and purporting to be made by the drawer.

New.

Negotiable instrument made, &c., without consideration.

43. A negotiable instrument made, drawn, accepted, endorsed or transferred without consideration, or for a consideration which fails, creates no obligation of payment between the parties to the transaction. But if any such party has transferred the instrument with or without endorsement to a holder for consideration, such holder, and every subsequent holder deriving title from him, may recover the amount due on such instrument from the transferor for consideration or any prior party thereto.

Exception I.—No party for whose accommodation a negotiable instrument has been made, drawn, accepted or indorsed, can, if he have paid the amount thereof, recover thereon such amount from any person who became a party to such instrument for his accommodation.

Exception II.—No party to the instrument who has induced any other party to make, draw, accept, indorse or transfer the same to him for a consideration which he has failed to pay or perform in full, shall recover thereon an amount exceeding the value of the consideration (if any) which he has actually paid or performed.

Draft, s. 54: Bill II, s. 62: Bill III, s. 51: Byles 130.

Partial absence or failure of money-consideration.

44. When the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque consisted of money, and was originally absent in part or has subsequently failed in part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

Explanation.—The drawer of a bill of exchange stands in immediate relation with the acceptor. The maker of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, stands in immediate relation with the payee, and the indorser with his indorsee. Other signers may by agreement stand in immediate relation with a holder.

Illustration.

A draws a bill on B for Rs. 500 payable to the order of A. B accepts the bill, but subsequently dishonours it by non-payment. A sues B on the bill. B proves that it was accepted for value as to Rs. 400, and as an accommodation to the plaintiff as to the residue. A can only recover Rs. 400.

Draft, s. 55: Bill II, s. 63: Bill III, s. 52.

Partial failure of consideration not consisting of money.

45. Where a part of the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, though not consisting of money, is ascertainable in money without collateral enquiry, and there has been a failure of that part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

CHAPTER IV.

OF NEGOTIATION.

Delivery.

46. The making, acceptance or indorsement of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is completed by delivery, actual or constructive.

As between parties standing in immediate relation, delivery to be effectual must be made by the party making, accepting or indorsing the instrument, or by a person authorized by him in that behalf.

As between such parties and any holder of the instrument other than a holder in due course, it may be shown that the instrument was delivered conditionally or for a special purpose only, and not for the purpose of transferring absolutely the property therein.

A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by the delivery thereof.

A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to order is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

Draft, s. 18: Bill II, s. 64: Bill III, s. 53: Byles 148.

Negotiation by delivery.

47. Subject to the provisions of section fifty-eight, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by delivery thereof.

Exception.—A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque delivered on condition that it is not to take effect except in a certain event is not negotiable (except in the hands of a holder for value without notice of the condition) unless such event happens.

Illustrations.

Byles 148, note (i).

(a). A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer, delivers it to B's agent to keep for B. The instrument has been negotiated.

(b). A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer which is in the hands of A's banker, who is at the time the banker of B, directs the banker to transfer the instrument to B's credit in the banker's account with B. The banker does so, and accordingly now possesses the instrument as B's agent. The instrument has been negotiated, and B has become the holder of it.

Draft, s. 19: Bill II, s. 65: Bill III, s. 54: Denton v. Peters, L.R. 5 Q. B. 475: Exparte Cote, L. R. 9 Ch. App. 27.

Negotiation by indorsement.

48. Subject to the provisions of section fifty-eight, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to the order of a specified person, or to a specified person or order, is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

Draft, s. 31: Bill II, s. 68: Bill III, s. 57: Byles 150, 151.

Conversion of indorsement in blank into indorsement in full.

49. The holder of a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank may, without signing his own name, by writing above the indorser's signature a direction to pay to any other person as indorsee, convert the indorsement in blank into an indorsement in full; and the holder does not thereby incur the responsibility of an indorser.

Draft, ss. 29, 30: Bill II, ss. 69, 70: Bill III, ss. 58, 59: Byles 153.

Effect of indorsement.

50. The indorsement of a negotiable instrument followed by delivery transfers to the indorsee the property therein with the right of further negotiation; but the indorsement may, by express words, restrict or exclude such right, or may merely constitute the indorsee an agent to indorse the instrument, or to receive its contents for the indorser, or for some other specified person.

Illustrations.

B signs the following indorsements on different negotiable instruments payable to bearer:—

(a) "Pay the contents to C only."

(b) "Pay C for my use."

(c) "Pay C or order for the account of B."

(d) "The within must be credited to C."

These indorsements exclude the right of further negotiation by C.

(e) "Pay C."

(f) "Pay C value in account with the Oriental Bank."

(g) "Pay the contents to C, being part of the consideration in a certain deed of assignment executed by C to the indorser and others."

These indorsements do not exclude the right of further negotiation by C.

Draft, ss. 20, 24, 27 Bill II, s. 71: Bill III, s. 60.

51. Every sole maker, drawer, payee or indorsee, or all of several joint makers, drawers, payees or indorsees, of a negotiable instrument may, if the negotiability of such instrument has not been restricted or excluded, as mentioned in section fifty, indorse and negotiate the same.

Who may negotiate.

Explanation.—Nothing in this section enables a maker or drawer to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is in lawful possession or is holder thereof; or enables a payee or indorsee to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is holder thereof.

Illustration.

A bill is drawn payable to A or order. A indorses it to B, the indorsement not containing the words "or order" or any equivalent words. B may negotiate the instrument.

Draft, ss. 32, 34: Bill II, s. 72: Bill III, s. 61: Byles 153, 157.

52. The indorser of a negotiable instrument may, by express words in the indorsement, exclude his own liability thereon, or make such liability or the right of the indorsee to receive the amount due thereon, depend upon the happening of a specified event, although such event may never happen.

Indorser who excludes his own liability or makes it conditional.

Draft, s. 45.

Where an indorser so excludes his liability and afterwards becomes the holder of the instrument, all intermediate indorsers are liable to him.

Illustrations.

(a) The indorser of a negotiable instrument signs his name, adding the words—

"Without recourse."

Upon this indorsement he incurs no liability.

(b) A is the payee and holder of a negotiable instrument. Excluding personal liability by an endorsement "without recourse," he transfers the instrument to B, and B indorses it to C, who indorses it to A. A is not only reinstated in his former rights, but has the rights of an indorsee against B and C.

Draft, s. 40: Bill II, s. 73: Bill III, s. 62.

53. A holder of a negotiable instrument who derives title from a holder in due course has the rights thereon of that holder in due course.

Holder deriving title from holder in due course.

Draft, s. 25: Bill II, s. 74: Bill III, s. 63.

54. Subject to the provisions hereinafter contained as to crossed cheques, a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank is payable to the bearer thereof even although originally payable to order.

Instrument indorsed in blank.

Draft, s. 39: Bill II, s. 75: Bill III, s. 64.

55. If a negotiable instrument after having been indorsed in blank is indorsed in full, the amount of it cannot be claimed from the indorser in full, except by the person to whom it has been indorsed in full, or by one who derives title through such person.

Conversion of indorsement in blank into indorsement in full.

Draft, s. 33: Bill II, s. 76: Bill III, s. 65: Byles 172.

56. No writing on a negotiable instrument is valid for the purpose of negotiation if such writing purports to transfer only a part of the amount appearing to be due on the instrument; but where such amount has been partly paid, a note to that effect may be endorsed on the instrument, which may then be negotiated for the balance.

Indorsement for part of sum due.

Draft, s. 22: Bill II, s. 78: Bill III, s. 67: Byles 174.

57. The legal representative of a deceased person cannot negotiate by delivery only a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to order and indorsed by the deceased but not delivered.

Legal representative cannot by delivery only negotiate instrument indorsed by deceased.

Draft, ss. 61, 63: Bill II, s. 79: Bill III, s. 68: Byles 163, 164.

58. When a negotiable instrument has been lost, or has been obtained from any maker, acceptor or holder thereof by means of an offence or fraud, or for an unlawful consideration, no possessor or indorsee who claims through the person who found or so obtained the instrument is entitled to receive the amount due thereon from such maker, acceptor or holder, or from any party prior to such holder, unless such possessor or indorsee is, or some person through whom he claims was, a holder thereof in due course.

Instrument obtained by unlawful means or for unlawful consideration.

Draft, s. 42, and part of s. 52: Bill II, s. 80: Bill III, s. 69: Byles 166, 168.

59. The holder of a negotiable instrument, who has acquired it after dishonour, whether by non-acceptance or non-payment, with notice thereof, or after maturity, has only, as against the other parties, the rights thereon of his transferor:

Instrument acquired after dishonour or when overdue.

Provided that any person who, in good faith and for consideration, becomes the holder, after maturity, of a promissory note or bill of exchange made, drawn or accepted without consideration for the purpose of enabling some party thereto to raise money thereon, may recover the amount of the note or bill from any prior party.

Accommodation note or bill.

Illustration.

The acceptor of a bill of exchange, when he accepted it, deposited with the drawer certain goods as a collateral security for the payment of the bill, with power to the drawer to sell the goods and apply the proceeds in discharge of the bill if it were not paid at maturity. The bill not having been paid at maturity, the drawer sold the goods and retained the proceeds, but indorsed the bill to A. A's title is subject to the same objection as the drawer's title.

Draft, s. 46: Bill II, s. 81: Bill III, s. 70: Byles 165.

60. A negotiable instrument may be negotiated (except by the maker, drawee or acceptor after maturity) until payment or satisfaction thereof by the maker, drawee or acceptor at or after maturity, but not after such payment or satisfaction.

Instrument negotiable till payment or satisfaction.

CHAPTER V.

OF PRESENTMENT.

Draft, s. 48: Bill II, s. 82: Bill III, s. 71:

61. A bill of exchange payable after sight must, if no time or place is specified therein for presentment, be presented to the drawee thereof for acceptance, if he can, after reasonable search, be found, by a person entitled to demand acceptance, within a reasonable time after it is drawn, and in business-hours on a business day. In default of such presentment, no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

Presentment for acceptance.

Walker v. McDonald, 2 Ex. 532: Leonard v. Wilson, 2 Cr. & M. 592: Byles 180, 182.

If the drawee cannot, after reasonable search, be found, the bill is dishonoured.

Byles 180, 182.

If the bill is directed to the drawee at a particular place, it must be presented at that place; and if at the due date for presentment he cannot, after reasonable search, be found there, the bill is dishonoured.

Byles 180, 182.

Bill II, s. 83: Bill III, s. 72.

62. A promissory note, payable at a certain period after sight, must be presented to the maker thereof for sight (if he can after reasonable search be found) by a person entitled to demand payment, within a reasonable time after it is made and in business-hours on a business day. In default of such presentment, no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

Draft, s. 56: Bill II, s. 84: Bill III, s. 73: Byles 183.

Drawee's time for deliberation.

63. The holder must, if so required by the drawee of a bill of exchange presented to him for acceptance, allow the drawee twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept it.

Draft, s. 133: Bill II, s. 85: Bill III, s. 74.

Presentment for payment.

64. Promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques must be presented for payment to the maker, acceptor or drawee thereof respectively, by or on behalf of the holder as hereinafter provided. In default of such presentment, the other parties thereto are not liable thereon to such holder.

Byles 216.

Exception.—Where a promissory note is payable on demand and is not payable at a specified place, no presentment is necessary in order to charge the maker thereof.

Bill II, s. 86: Bill III, s. 75: Draft, s. 137: Byles 213.

Hours for presentment.

65. Presentment for payment must be made during the usual hours of business, and, if at a banker's, within banking hours.

Draft, s. 138: Bill II, s. 87: Bill III, s. 76. Byles 208.

Presentment for payment of instrument payable after date or sight.

66. A promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable at a specified period after date or sight thereof, must be presented for payment at maturity.

Bill II, s. 88: Bill III, s. 77: Byles 7.

Presentment for payment of promissory note payable by instalments.

67. A promissory note payable by instalments must be presented for payment on the third day after the date fixed for payment of each instalment; and non-payment on such presentment has the same effect as non-payment of a note at maturity.

Draft, s. 138: Bill II, s. 89: Bill III, s. 78: Act VI of 1840, s. 1: 7 & 8 Geo. IV, c. 78 (Byles 490).

Presentment for payment of instrument payable at specified place and not elsewhere.

68. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque made, drawn or accepted payable at a specified place and not elsewhere must, in order to charge any party thereto, be presented for payment at that place.

Draft, ss. 139, 140. Bill II, s. 90: Bill III, s. 79: Byles 214.

Instrument payable at specified place.

69. A promissory note or bill of exchange made, drawn or accepted payable at a specified place must, in order to charge the maker or drawer thereof, be presented for payment at that place.

Draft, ss. 139, 140, 142: Bill II, s. 91: Bill III, s. 80.

Presentment where no exclusive place specified.

70. A promissory note or bill of exchange, not made payable as mentioned in sections sixty-eight and sixty-nine, must be presented for payment at the place of business (if any), or at the usual residence, of the maker, drawee or acceptor thereof, as the case may be.

Byles 214, 215.

Draft, s. 141: Bill II, s. 92: Bill III, s. 81.

Presentment when maker, &c., has no known place of business or residence.

Bill II, s. 93: Bill III, s. 82: Byles 21, 210.

Presentment of cheque to charge drawer.

72. A cheque must, in order to charge the drawer, be presented at the bank upon which it is drawn before the relation between the drawer and his banker has been altered to the prejudice of the drawer.

Byles 20.

Bill II, s. 94: Bill III, s. 83: Byles 21.

Presentment of cheque to charge any other person.

73. A cheque must, in order to charge any person except the drawer, be presented within a reasonable time after delivery thereof by such person.

Draft, s. 134: Bill II, s. 95: Bill III, s. 84: Byles 211.

Presentment of instrument payable on demand.

74. Subject to the provisions of section thirty-one, a negotiable instrument payable on demand must be presented for payment within a reasonable time after it is received by the holder.

Bill II, s. [illegible] Bill III, s. [illegible] Parsons 508.

Presentment by or to agent, representative of deceased, or assignee of insolvent.

75. Presentment for acceptance or payment may be made to the duly authorized agent of the drawee, maker or acceptor, as the case may be, or, where the drawee, maker or acceptor has died, to his legal representative, or, where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee.

Draft, s. [illegible] 91: Bill II, s. [illegible] Bill III, s. [illegible] Byles 213.

When presentment unnecessary.

76. No presentment for payment is necessary, and the instrument is dishonoured at the due date for presentment, in any of the following cases:—

(a) if the maker, drawee or acceptor intentionally prevents the presentment of the instrument, or, if the instrument being payable at his place of business, he closes such place on a business day during the usual business-hours, or if the instrument being payable at some other specified place, neither he nor any person authorized to pay it attends at such place during the usual business-hours, or if the instrument not being payable at any specified place, he cannot after due search be found;

(b) as against any party sought to be charged therewith, if he has engaged to pay notwithstanding non-presentment;

(c) as against any party if, after maturity, with knowledge that the instrument has not been presented—

he makes a part payment on account of the amount due on the instrument, or promises to pay the amount due thereon in whole or in part, or otherwise waives his right to take advantage of any default in presentment for payment;

(d) as against the drawer, if the drawer could not suffer damage from the want of such presentment.

Draft, s. 88: Bill II, s. 96: Bill III, s. 85: Byles 198.

Liability of banker for negligently dealing with bill presented for payment.

77. When a bill of exchange, accepted payable at a specified bank, has been duly presented there for payment and dishonoured, if the banker so negligently or improperly keeps, deals with or delivers back such bill as to cause loss to the holder, he must compensate the holder for such loss.

CHAPTER VI.

OF PAYMENT AND INTEREST.

Bill II, s. 100: Bill III, s. 88: Byles 220.

To whom payment should be made.

78. Subject to the provisions of section eighty-two, clause (c), payment of the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque must, in order to discharge the maker or acceptor, be made to the holder of the instrument.

Bill II, s. 101: Bill III, s. 89: Byles 206, [illegible]

Interest when rate specified.

79. When interest at a specified rate is expressly made payable on a promissory note or bill of exchange, interest shall be calculated at the rate specified, on the amount of the principal money due thereon, from the date of the instrument, until tender or realization of such amount, or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

Draft, s. 65: Bill II, s. 102: Bill III, s. 90: Byles 206, 207, 208.

Interest when no rate specified.

80. When no rate of interest is specified in the instrument, interest on the amount due thereon shall, except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532, be calculated at the rate of six percentum per annum, from the date at which the same ought to have been paid by the party charged, until tender or realization of the amount due thereon or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

'Jam,' Bank of Bengal.

Explanation.—When the party charged is the indorser of an instrument dishonoured by non-payment, he is liable to pay interest only from the time that he receives notice of the dishonour.

[illegible] s. 88: [illegible] s. 106: [illegible] s. 91: Byles 207.

Delivery of instrument on payment, or indemnity in case of loss.

81. Any person liable to pay, and called upon by the holder thereof to pay, the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is before payment entitled to have it shown, and is on payment entitled to have it delivered up, to him, or, if the instrument is lost or cannot be produced, to be indemnified against any further claim thereon against him.

CHAPTER VII.

OF DISCHARGE FROM LIABILITY ON NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

[illegible] s. 94: [illegible] s. 104: [illegible] s. 92.

Discharge from liability—

by cancellation;

82. The maker, acceptor or indorser respectively of a negotiable instrument is discharged from liability thereon—

(a) to a holder thereof who cancels such acceptor's or indorser's name with intent to discharge him, and to all parties claiming under such holder;

by release;

(b) to a holder thereof who otherwise discharges such maker, acceptor or indorser, and to all parties deriving title under such holder after notice of such discharge;

by payment.

(c) to all parties thereto, if the instrument is payable to bearer, or has been indorsed in blank, and such maker, acceptor or indorser makes payment in due course of the amount due thereon.

Draft, s. [illegible] Bill II, s. [illegible] Bill III, s. [illegible]

Discharge by allowing drawee more than twenty-four hours to accept.

83. If the holder of a bill of exchange allows the drawee more than twenty-four hours, exclusive of public holidays, to consider whether he will accept the same, all previous parties not consenting to such allowance are thereby discharged from liability to such holder.

Draft, s. 101: Bill II, s. 100: Bill III, s. 94: Byles 20.

When cheque not duly presented and drawer damaged thereby.

84. When the holder of a cheque fails to present it for payment within a reasonable time, and the drawer thereof sustains loss or damage from such failure, he is discharged from liability to the holder.

Bill II, s. 107: Bill III, s. 95: 16 & 17 Vic., c. 59, s. 19: Byles 27, 208. Charles v. Blackwell, 1 C. P. D. 548.

Cheque payable to order.

85. Where a cheque payable to order, purports to be indorsed by or on behalf of the payee, the drawee is discharged by payment in due course.

Draft, s. [illegible] Bill II, s. [illegible] Bill III, s. [illegible] Byles 193, 194.

Parties not consenting discharged by qualified or limited acceptance.

86. If the holder of a bill of exchange acquiesces in a qualified acceptance, or one limited to part of the sum mentioned in the bill, or which substitutes a different place or time for payment, or which, where the drawees are not partners is not signed by all the drawees, all previous parties whose consent is not obtained to such acceptance are discharged as against the holder and those claiming under him, unless on notice given by the holder, they assent to such acceptance.

Explanation.—An acceptance is qualified—

(a) where it is conditional, declaring the payment to be dependent on the happening of an event therein stated;

(b) where it undertakes the payment of part only of the sum ordered to be paid;

(c) where, no place of payment being specified on the order, it undertakes the payment at a specified place and not otherwise or elsewhere; or where, a place of payment being specified in the order, it undertakes the payment at some other place and not otherwise or elsewhere;

(d) where it undertakes the payment at a time other than that at which under the order it would be legally due.

Draft, ss. 109, 110: Bill II, s. 110: Bill III, s. 97: Byles 324.

Effect of material alteration.

Alteration by indorsee.

87. Save as provided in sections twenty, forty-nine, eighty-six and one hundred and twenty-five, any material alteration of a negotiable instrument renders the same void as against any one who is a party thereto at the time of making such alteration and does not consent thereto, unless it was made in order to carry out the common intention of the original parties;

and any such alteration, if made by an indorsee, discharges his indorser from all liability to him in respect of the consideration thereof.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections twenty, forty-nine, eighty-six and one hundred and twenty-five.

Bill II, s. 111: Bill III, s. 98: Byles [illegible]

Acceptor or indorser bound notwithstanding previous alteration.

88. An acceptor or indorser of a negotiable instrument is bound by his acceptance or indorsement notwithstanding any previous alteration of the instrument.

Draft, ss. 112, 113: Act I of 1872, s. 112: Bill II, s. 112: Bill III, s. 99.

89. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque has been materially altered, but does not appear to have been so altered,

Payment of instrument on which alteration is not apparent.

or where a cheque is presented for payment which does not at the time of presentation appear to be crossed or to have had a crossing which has been obliterated, payment thereof by a person or banker liable to pay and paying the same according to the apparent tenor thereof at the time of payment and otherwise in due course, shall discharge such person or banker from all liability thereon, and such payment shall not be questioned by reason of the instrument having been altered, or the cheque crossed.

90. If a bill of exchange which has been negotiated is, at or after maturity, held by the acceptor in his own right, all rights of action thereon are extinguished.

Extinguishment of rights of action on bill in acceptor's hands.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF NOTICE OF DISHONOUR.

91. A bill of exchange is said to be dishonoured by non-acceptance when the drawee, or one of several drawees not being partners, makes default in acceptance upon being duly required to accept the bill, or where presentment is excused and the bill is not accepted.

Dishonour by non-acceptance.

Where the drawee is incompetent to contract, or the acceptance is qualified, the bill may be treated as dishonoured.

92. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is said to be dishonoured by non-payment when the maker of the note, acceptor of the bill, or drawee of the cheque makes default in payment upon being duly required to pay the same.

Dishonour by non-payment.

93. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder thereof, or some party thereto who remains liable thereon, must give notice that the instrument has been so dishonoured to all other parties whom the holder seeks to make severally liable thereon, and to some one of several parties whom he seeks to make jointly liable thereon.

By and to whom notice should be given.

Nothing in this section renders it necessary to give notice to the maker of the dishonoured promissory note, or the drawee or acceptor of the dishonoured bill of exchange or cheque.

94. Notice of dishonour may be given to a duly authorized agent of the person to whom it is required to be given, or, where he has died, to his legal representative, or, where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee; may be oral or written; may, if written, be sent by post; and may be in any form; but it must inform the party to whom it is given, either in express terms or by reasonable intendment, that the instrument has been dishonoured, and in what way, and that he will be held liable thereon; and it must be given within a reasonable time after dishonour, at the place of business, or (in case such party has no place of business) at the residence of the party for whom it is intended.

Mode in which notice may be given.

If the notice is duly directed and sent by post and miscarries, such miscarriage does not render the notice invalid.

95. Any party receiving notice of dishonour must, in order to render any prior party liable to himself, give notice of dishonour to such party within a reasonable time, unless such party otherwise receives due notice as provided by section ninety-three.

Party receiving must transmit notice of dishonour.

96. When the instrument is deposited with an agent for presentment, the agent is entitled to the same time to give notice to his principal as if he were the holder giving notice of dishonour, and the principal is entitled to a further like period to give notice of dishonour.

Agent for presentment.

97. When the party to whom notice of dishonour is despatched is dead, but the party despatching the notice is ignorant of his death, the notice is sufficient.

When party to whom notice given is dead.

98. No notice of dishonour is necessary—

When notice of dishonour is unnecessary.

(a) when it is dispensed with by the party entitled thereto;

(b) in order to charge the drawer, when he has countermanded payment;

(c) when the party charged could not suffer damage for want of notice;

(d) when the party entitled to notice cannot after due search be found; or the party bound to give notice is, for any other reason, unable without any fault of his own to give it;

(e) to charge the drawers, when the acceptor is also a drawer;

(f) in the case of a promissory note which is not negotiable;

(g) when the party entitled to notice, knowing the facts, promises unconditionally to pay the amount due on the instrument.

CHAPTER IX.

OF NOTING AND PROTEST.

99. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may cause such dishonour to be noted by a notary public upon the instrument, or upon a paper attached thereto, or partly upon each.

Noting.

Such note must be made within a reasonable time after dishonour, and must specify the date of dishonour, the reason, if any, assigned for such dishonour, or, if the instrument has not been expressly dishonoured, the reason why the holder treats it as dishonoured, and the notary's charges.

100. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause such dishonour to be noted and certified by a notary public. Such certificate is called a protest.

Protest.

Byles 261.

When the acceptor of a bill of exchange has become insolvent, or his credit has been publicly impeached, before the maturity of the bill, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause a notary public to demand better security of the acceptor, and on its being refused may, within a reasonable time, cause such facts to be noted and certified as aforesaid. Such certificate is called a protest for better security.

Protest for better security.

Draft, s. 122: Bill II, s. 124: Bill III, s. 111: Byles 261.

101. A protest under section one hundred must contain—

Contents of protest.

(a) either the instrument itself, or a literal transcript of the instrument and of everything written or printed thereupon;

(b) the name of the person for whom and against whom the instrument has been protested;

(c) a statement that payment or acceptance, or better security, as the case may be, has been demanded of such person by the notary public; the terms of his answer, if any, or a statement that he gave no answer, or that he could not be found;

(e) the subscription of the notary public making the protest;

(f) in the event of an acceptance for honour or of a payment for honour, the name of the person by whom, of the person for whom, and the manner in which, such acceptance or payment was offered and effected.

Draft, s. 124: Bill II, s. 125: Bill III, s. 112: Byles 262.

102. When a promissory note or bill of exchange is required by law to be protested, notice of such protest must be given instead of notice of dishonour, in the same manner and subject to the same conditions; but the notice may be given by the notary public who makes the protest.

Notice of protest.

Bill II, s. 126: Bill III, s. 113: Act VI, 1840, s. 4: 2 & 3 Wm. IV, c. 98.

103. All bills of exchange drawn payable at some other place than the place mentioned as the residence of the drawee, and which are dishonoured by non-acceptance, may, without further presentment to the drawee, be protested for non-payment, in the place specified for payment, unless paid before or at maturity.

Protest for non-payment after dishonour by non-acceptance.

Draft, s. 108: Bill II, s. 139: Bill III, s. 128.

104. Foreign bills of exchange must be protested for dishonour when such protest is required by the law of the place where they are drawn.

Protest of foreign bills.

CHAPTER X.

OF REASONABLE TIME.

Draft, s. 56, Expln. 1: Bill II, s. 127: Bill III, s. 114: Byles 182, 210, 287.

105. In determining what is a reasonable time for presentment for acceptance or payment, for giving notice of dishonour and for noting, regard shall be had to the nature of the instrument and the usual course of dealing with respect to similar instruments; and in calculating such time, public holidays shall be excluded.

Reasonable time.

Draft, s. 129: Bill II, s. 129: Bill III, s. 116: Byles 284.

106. If the holder and the party to whom notice of dishonour is given carry on business or live (as the case may be) in different places, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched by the next post or on the day next after the day of dishonour.

Reasonable time of giving notice of dishonour.

Byles 285.

If the said parties carry on business or live in the same place, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched in time to reach its destination on the day next after the day of dishonour.

Draft, s. 131: Bill II, s. 130: Bill III, s. 117.

107. A party receiving notice of dishonour, who seeks to enforce his right against a prior party, transmits the notice within a reasonable time if he transmits it within the same time after its receipt as he would have had to give notice if he had been the holder.

Reasonable time for transmitting such notice.

CHAPTER XI.

OF ACCEPTANCE AND PAYMENT FOR HONOUR AND REFERENCE IN CASE OF NEED.

Draft, ss. 74, 76: Bill II, s. 131: Bill III, s. 118: Byles 265, 266.

108. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-acceptance or for better security, any person not being a party already liable thereon may, with the consent of the holder, by writing on the bill, accept the same for the honour of any party thereto.

Acceptance for honour.

An acceptor supra protest must personally appear before a notary public with two or more witnesses, and declare that he accepts, under protest, the protested bill for the honour of the drawer or of a particular indorser whom he names, or generally for honour, and that he will satisfy the same at the appointed time; and then must subscribe the bill with his own hand.

Unless the person who intends to accept supra protest first declares, in the presence of a notary, that he does it for honour, and has such declaration duly recorded in the notarial register at the time, his acceptance shall be a nullity.

Now.

109. A person desiring to accept for honour must, in the presence of a notary public, subscribe the bill with his own hand, and declare that he accepts under protest the protested bill for the honour of the drawer or of a particular indorser whom he names, or generally for honour; and such declaration must be recorded by the notary in his register.

How acceptance for honour must be made.

Draft, s. 75: Bill II, s. 132: Bill III, s. 119: Byles 265, 266.

110. Where the acceptance does not express for whose honour it is made, it shall be deemed to be made for the honour of the drawer.

Acceptance not specifying for whose honour it is made.

Draft, s. 77: Bill II, s. 133: Bill III, s. 120: Byles 267.

111. An acceptor for honour binds himself to all parties subsequent to the party for whose honour he accepts to pay the amount of the bill if the drawee do not; and such party and all prior parties are liable in their respective capacities to compensate the acceptor for honour for all loss or damage sustained by him in consequence of such acceptance.

Liability of acceptor for honour.

Byles 266.

Draft, s. 845: Byles 266: Act VI of 1840, s. 3.

But an acceptor for honour is not liable to the holder of the bill unless it is presented, or (in case the address given by such acceptor on the bill is a place other than the place where the bill is made payable) forwarded for presentment, not later than the day next after the day of its maturity.

Draft, s. 95: Bill II, s. 134: Bill III, s. 121.

When acceptor for honour may be charged.

112. An acceptor for honour cannot be charged unless the bill has at its maturity been presented to the drawee for payment and has been dishonoured by him, and noted or protested for such dishonour.

Draft, s. 96: Bill II, s. 135: Bill III, s. 122: Byles 270.

Payment for honour.

Draft, s. 97: Bill II, s. 136: Bill III, s. 123: Byles 271. In re Overend, Harney & Co., L. R. 6, Eq. 344.

Right of payer for honour.

114. Any person so paying is entitled to all the rights, in respect of the bill, of the holder at the time of such payment, and may recover from the party for whose honour he pays all sums so paid, with interest thereon and with all expenses properly incurred in making such payment.

Draft, s. 73: Bill II, s. 138: Bill III, s. [illegible] Byles 265.

Drawee in case of need.

115. Where a drawee in case of need is named in a bill of exchange, or in any endorsement thereon, the bill is not dishonoured until it has been dishonoured by such drawee.

Acceptance and payment without protest.

116. A drawee in case of need may accept and pay the bill of exchange without previous protest.

CHAPTER XII.

OF COMPENSATION.

Bill II, s. 137: Bill III, s. 124.

Rules as to compensation.

117. The compensation payable in case of dishonour of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, by any party liable to the holder or any indorsee, shall (except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532) be determined by the following rules:—

Draft, s. 65: Byles 415.

(a) The holder is entitled to the amount due upon the instrument, together with the expenses properly incurred in presenting, noting and protesting it;

(b) When the person charged resides at a place different from that at which the instrument was payable, the holder is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places;

(c) An indorser who, being liable, has paid the amount due on the same is entitled to the amount so paid with interest at six per centum per annum from the date of payment until tender or realization thereof, together with all expenses caused by the dishonour and payment;

(d) When the person charged and such indorser reside at different places, the indorser is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places;

(e) The party entitled to compensation may draw a bill upon the party liable to compensate him, payable at sight or on demand, for the amount due to him together with all expenses properly incurred by him. Such bill must be accompanied by the instrument dishonoured and the protest thereof (if any). If such bill is dishonoured, the party dishonouring the same is liable to make compensation thereof in the same manner as in the case of the original bill.

CHAPTER XIII.

SPECIAL RULES OF EVIDENCE.

Presumptions as to negotiable instruments

118. Until the contrary is proved, the following presumptions shall be made:— Draft, s. 12: Bill II, s. 27: Bill III, s. 26: Byles 3, 119.

as to consideration;

(a) that every negotiable instrument was made or drawn for consideration, and that every such instrument, when it has been accepted, indorsed, negotiated or transferred, was accepted, indorsed, negotiated or transferred for consideration:

as to date;

(b) that every negotiable instrument bearing a date was made or drawn on such date:

as to time of acceptance;

(c) that every accepted bill of exchange was accepted within a reasonable time after its date and before its maturity: Byles 190.

as to time of transfer;

(d) that every transfer of a negotiable instrument was made before its maturity: Byles 170.

as to order of endorsements;

(e) that the endorsements appearing upon a negotiable instrument were made in the order in which they appear thereon: Draft, s. 87.

as to stamp;

(f) that a lost promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque was duly stamped: Byles 117, 382.

that holder is a holder in due course.

(g) that the holder of a negotiable instrument is a holder in due course: provided that where the instrument has been obtained from its lawful owner, or from any person in lawful custody thereof, by means of an offence or fraud, or has been obtained from the maker or acceptor thereof by means of an offence or fraud, or for unlawful consideration, the burthen of proving that the holder is a holder in due course lies upon him. Draft, s. 12: Byles 122.

Presumption on proof of protest.

119. In a suit upon an instrument, which has been dishonoured, the Court shall, on proof of the protest, presume the fact of dishonour, unless and until such fact is disproved. Draft, ss. 121, 123: Act V of 1866, s. 13.

Estoppel against denying original validity of instrument.

120. No maker of a promissory note, and no drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque, and no acceptor of a bill of exchange for the honour of the drawer shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the validity of the instrument as originally made or drawn. Bill II, s. 54: Bill III, s. 44: Phillips v. Im Thurn 18, C. B., N. S. 694.

Estoppel against denying capacity of payee to indorse.

121. No maker of a promissory note and no acceptor of a bill of exchange payable to, or to the order of, a specified person shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the payee's capacity, at the date of the note or bill, to indorse the same. Bill II, s. 55: Bill III, s. [illegible] Byles 206.

Estoppel against denying signature or capacity of prior party.

122. No indorser of a negotiable instrument shall, in a suit thereon by a subsequent holder, be permitted to deny the signature or capacity to contract of any prior party to the instrument.

CHAPTER XIV.

OF CROSSED CHEQUES.

Bill II, s. 30: Bill III, s. 129: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 4.

Cheque crossed generally.

123. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the words "and company" or any abbreviation thereof, between two parallel transverse lines, or of two parallel transverse lines simply, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed generally.

Bill II, s. 31: Bill III, s. 130: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 4.

Cheque crossed specially.

124. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the name of a banker, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed specially, and to be crossed to that banker.

Bill II, s. 32: Bill III, s. 131: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 5.

Crossing after issue.

125. Where a cheque is uncrossed, the holder may cross it generally or specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally, the holder may cross it specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally or specially, the holder may add the words "not negotiable."

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker to whom it is crossed may again cross it specially to another banker, his agent, for collection.

Draft, ss. 102, 103: Bill II, s. 33: Bill III, s. 132: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 7.

Payment of cheque crossed generally.

126. Where a cheque is crossed generally, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to a banker.

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to the banker to whom it is crossed, or his agent for collection.

Payment of cheque crossed specially.

Bill II, s. 34: Bill III, s. 133: [illegible]

Payment of cheque crossed specially more than once.

127. Where a cheque is crossed specially to more than one banker, except when crossed to an agent for the purpose of collection, the banker on whom it is drawn shall refuse payment thereof.

Bill II, s. 35: Bill III, s. 134: [illegible]

Payment in due course of crossed cheque.

Bill II. s. 36: Bill III, s. 135: S. 10.

Payment of crossed cheque out of due course.

129. Any banker paying a cheque crossed generally otherwise than to a banker, or a cheque crossed specially otherwise than to the banker to whom the same is crossed, or his agent for collection, being a banker, shall be liable to the true owner of the cheque for any loss he may sustain owing to the cheque having been so paid.

Bill II, s. 37: Bill III, s. 136: S. 12.

Cheque bearing "not negotiable."

130. A person taking a cheque crossed generally or specially, bearing in either case the words "not negotiable," shall not have, and shall not be capable of giving, a better title to the cheque than that which the person from whom he took it had.

48 L. J. C. P. 529.

Non-liability of banker receiving payment of cheque.

131. A banker who has in good faith and without negligence received payment for a customer of a cheque crossed generally or specially to himself shall not, in case the title to the cheque proves defective, incur any liability to the true owner of the cheque by reason only of having received such payment.

CHAPTER XV.

OF BILLS IN SETS.

Draft, ss. 11, 116: Bill II, s. 28: Bill III, s. 125: [illegible]

Set of bills.

132. Bills of exchange may be drawn in parts, each part being numbered and containing a provision that it shall continue payable only so long as the others remain unpaid. All the parts together make a set; but the whole set constitutes only one bill, and is extinguished when one of the parts, if a separate bill, would be extinguished.

Exception.—When a person accepts or indorses different parts of the bill in favour of different persons, he and the subsequent indorsers of each part are liable on such part as if it were a separate bill. Byles 391: Haskins 10 M. & C. 449.

Bill II, s. 29: Bill III, s. 126: Byles 391: Bayley 30, 171.

Holder of first acquired part entitled to all.

133. As between holders in due course of different parts of the same set, he who first acquired title to his part is entitled to the other parts and the money represented by the bill.

CHAPTER XVI.

OF INTERNATIONAL LAW.

Draft, s. [illegible] Bill II, s. [illegible] Bill III, s. 128: [illegible] Byles 202: Rouquette, Ouvrigue, L. R. 10 Q. B. 525; Horne v. Rouquette, 3 Q. B. Div. 514.

Law governing liability of maker, acceptor or indorser of foreign instrument.

134. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the liability of the maker or drawer of a foreign promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is regulated in all essential matters by the law of the place where he made the instrument, and the respective liabilities of the acceptor and indorser by the law of the place where the instrument is made payable.

Illustration.

Byles 402. A bill of exchange was drawn by A in California, where the rate of interest is 25 per cent., and accepted by B, payable in Washington, where the rate of interest is 6 per cent. The bill is endorsed in British India, and is dishonoured. An action on the bill is brought against B in British India. He is liable to pay interest at the rate of 6 per cent. only; but if A is charged as drawer, A is liable to pay interest at the rate of 25 per cent.

Draft, s. 105: Bill II, s. 141: Bill III, s. 138.

135. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is made payable in a different place from that in which it is made or indorsed, the law of the place where it is made payable determines what constitutes dishonour and what notice of dishonour is sufficient.

Law of place of payment governs dishonour.

Illustration.

A bill of exchange drawn and indorsed in British India, but accepted payable in France, is dishonoured. The indorsee causes it to be protested for such dishonour, and gives notice thereof in accordance with the law of France, though not in accordance with the rules herein contained in respect of bills which are not foreign. The notice is sufficient.

Draft, s. 106: Bill II, s. 142: Bill III, s. 139.

136. If a negotiable instrument is made, drawn, accepted or indorsed out of British India, but in accordance with the law of British India, the circumstance that any agreement evidenced by such instrument is invalid according to the law of the country wherein it was entered into does not invalidate any subsequent acceptance or endorsement made thereon in British India.

Instrument made, &c., out of British India, but in accordance with its law.

Draft, s. 107: Bill II, s. 143: Bill III, s. 140: Act I of 1872, s. 4.

137. The law of any foreign country regarding promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques shall be presumed to be the same as that of British India, unless and until the contrary is proved.

Presumption as to foreign law.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 28th January, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 3 OF 1881.

A Bill for the amendment of the law relating to Insolvent Debtors in India.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to Insolvent Debtors in India; It is enacted as follows :— Preamble.

1. This Act may be called "The Insolvent Law Amendment Act, 1881 :" Short title.

it extends to the whole of British India; and Local extent.

it shall come into force on the first day of April 1881. Commencement.

2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,— Interpretation-clause.

the word "Insolvent" means a person of whose property a receiver has been appointed under the Code of Civil Procedure, section 351, a person upon whose petition a vesting order has been made under the seventh section of the eleventh and twelfth of Victoria, Chapter XXI, entitled an Act to consolidate and amend the laws relating to Insolvent Debtors in India, and a person who has been adjudged to have committed an act of insolvency under the provisions of section eight or under the provisions of the ninth section of the same Act : "Insolvent."

the word "adjudication" means the order under the said section 351 of the said Code appointing a receiver, a vesting order under the said seventh section of the said Act, and an order under the said eighth section or under the said ninth section of the said Act adjudging any person to have committed an act of insolvency; and "Adjudication."

the word "assignee" means the person in whom the property of any Insolvent has been vested by the adjudication of such Insolvent. "Assignee."

3. If, at the time of the adjudication of any insolvent, any of his property has been attached in execution of any decree or under any order for attachment before judgment, Attached property of insolvent.

the Court, under whose order such property has been attached, shall withdraw the attachment and permit his assignee to take possession of the same.

If, before the Court has had notice of such insolvency, the attached property has been sold, the proceeds of the sale, after deducting the costs of the attachment and sale and all other necessary costs incurred in and about the realization of such proceeds, shall be paid to the assignee of such insolvent :

Provided, that in case the Court has not had notice of the adjudication of such insolvent, before such proceeds are distributed, the same shall not, merely on account of such adjudication, be recalled from the persons to whom they have been paid.

When the Court withdraws the attachment, it may, if it think fit, direct that the proper and necessary costs of the attachment and of the preservation of the property attached shall be charged upon the proceeds of such property; and if such order be made, the assignee shall apply the proceeds of such sale in payment of such costs after payment of the costs of such sale, but in priority to payment of all debts of the insolvent payable out of such proceeds.

4. No property which, under the provisions of the twenty-third section of the said Act would be deemed to be the property of such insolvent, shall be held to have been taken out of his order and disposition by reason only that such property has, before the adjudication of such insolvent, been attached in execution of a decree or under any order for an attachment before judgment. Order and disposition. Attachment not to alter.

5. Whenever any persons trading in partnership together have, by the consent and permission of the true owner thereof, in their possession, order or disposition, goods or chattels whereof such persons are reputed owners, or whereof they have taken upon them the sale, alteration or disposition as owner, and while they have such possession, order or disposition, any of such persons is, under the provisions of the said Act, adjudicated an insolvent, or obtains a vesting order on his petition, such goods and chattels shall be deemed to be the property of such partnership so as to become vested in the Official Assignee of the Insolvent Court by the order made in pursuance of the said Act for the purpose only, and so far as may be required, for the purpose of paying the joint creditors of the said partnership. Order and disposition of Firms whose owner becomes Insolvent.

6. Whenever any person who carries on trade within the local limits of the Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction of any of the Transfer of insolvencies from Mufassal Courts.

High Courts at Calcutta, Madras or Bombay is, under the provisions of section 351 of the Code of Civil Procedure, declared to be an insolvent, the Insolvent Court in any of the said towns in which he may carry on business at the time he is so declared to be an insolvent, may, if it think fit, on the application of any creditor of such trader, adjudge him to have committed an act of insolvency:

such adjudication shall have the same force and effect as if he had, under the provisions of the eighth section of the said Act, been adjudicated an insolvent by such Court, at the time when he was declared to be an insolvent under the provisions of the said Code;

and all the estate and effects of such insolvent shall, unless the said Court otherwise directs, vest in the Official Assignee of such Court, and any person appointed receiver under the provisions of the said Code shall, unless such Court otherwise directs, thereupon make over to the Official Assignee all the property of the insolvent which may have come to his hands as such receiver:

Provided that no such adjudication shall avoid, or in any way affect, any dealing of such receiver with any of such property before he has notice of such adjudication.

Distribution of unclaimed dividends.

7. The assignee of each insolvent estate shall, on the expiration of six months from the declaration of any dividend, file in Court an account upon oath of every dividend remaining in his hands unclaimed, specifying the name of each creditor to whom each such dividend is due, as well as the amount of the debt due to each such creditor, and shall publish the same in the numbers of the local Gazette as are first and second successively printed next after such six months, and all dividends remaining unclaimed for a period of six years shall, after the second of such advertisements, revert to the general fund of each respective estate for re-distribution by the Official Assignee among the remaining creditors of such estate.

All such unclaimed dividends shall remain under the control and management of the Official Assignee pending payment and distribution in such manner as shall be prescribed and furnished by any rules to be made under the powers conferred by section seventy-six of the said Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Indian Insolvent Acts, following the analogy of the law of Bankruptcy in England at the time of the first of these Acts being passed, contained no provision for compelling the property of an insolvent, which had been attached in execution before his adjudication, to be distributed among the general body of his creditors. The later English Bankrupt Acts, however, provide for the distribution amongst the bankruptcy creditors of the proceeds of the execution if a petition be filed within fourteen days after the sale; thus securing, as far as possible, equality among creditors, a purpose which the Civil Procedure Code has generally in view; and one of the objects of this Bill is to give that equality of distribution, wherever the property attached has not actually been distributed among the attaching creditors.

The only power which the Insolvent Court now has to stay proceedings in execution does not arise till the Insolvent's schedule has been filed, and in the cases where the insolvent is friendly to the execution creditor, the filing of the schedule is invariably delayed for the purpose of giving him an advantage.

Further, the Code empowers Courts to attach the property of a defendant in cases where there is reason to believe that he is likely to make away with that property in fraud of the plaintiff. Under the language of the old Civil Procedure Code it was held that property so attached before judgment vested in the Official Assignee of the defendant, and was assets of his estate giving no preferential claim to the attaching creditor, but it has been successfully contended that the effect of the new Code, section 490, is to give to a creditor attaching before judgment priority over the assignee, even though the adjudication were before judgment obtained by the attaching creditor.

The third section of the Bill is intended to provide for the rateable distribution of the insolvent's property amongst his creditors in cases where the modern English law would so distribute it, instead of allowing one creditor to sweep away the whole or a large portion of the assets.

From a very early period the Bankruptcy law of England provided that persons who, by leaving goods in the hands of traders, enabled them to maintain a false appearance of wealth and thus obtain credit, could not claim such goods from the assignee of the bankrupt, and this provision was introduced into this country by the Insolvent Act. There was nothing, however, to give similar rights to execution-creditors, and therefore this anomaly occurred that, where an attachment was laid on goods in the hands of a person who became insolvent, the custody of the law took the goods out of the order and disposition of the bankrupt, so that a subsequent adjudication did not vest the goods in the assignee, but the attaching creditor was not able to treat the ostensible ownership of the judgment-debtor as giving him any claims. It is not easy to see any sound basis for this distinction, the injurious influence of which is, to some extent, obviated in England by the Bills of Sale Act. The fourth section is intended to avoid this anomaly.

Down to a very recent period it was generally supposed that where moveable property was in the possession and ostensible ownership of a partnership a member of which became bankrupt, the provisions of the Bankrupt Law vested such property in the assignee; it was however decided in ex parte Dorman L. R. 8 Ch., App. 51, that such was not the effect of the language of the Acts upon the ground that it could not be the intention of the Statute to give such rights where the other partners were solvent. The Appellate Court however was of opinion that where the firm is in fact insolvent, the case comes within the mischief against which the order and disposition clause is intended to provide, and in this country it has been decided that the existence of an absent partner does not prevent the provisions of that clause attaching. The fifth section is intended to apply the order and disposition-clause to such cases as fall within the mischief which it is intended to prevent.

Much of the trade of the Presidency-towns is carried on by Gumáshtas on behalf of persons residing in remote parts of the Mufassal, and in many cases, if such traders became insolvent, they might be able, by taking advantage of the insolvency proceedings in the Procedure Code,* to embarrass their general trade-creditors who would have much difficulty in supervising the proceedings in a Mufassal Court. The sixth section is intended to enable the creditors of such persons to have the liquidation of their affairs transferred to a Court with machinery better organised for the administration of bankrupt estates in cases where such a course is deemed by the Court to be expedient.

Sums in the aggregate considerable, though, in general, individually small, are from time to time left unclaimed in the hands of the official assignee, and so long ago as 1841 an Act was passed empowering the official assignee after the lapse of six years to distribute the amount of such unclaimed dividends rateably among the creditors who had proved the claims.

The language of this Act, however, was so singularly framed that it seems impossible that there ever could be a distribution made of such unclaimed dividends. The seventh section is intended to correct this.

* It was found some years ago in England that similar powers given to Scotch Courts were applied to the detriment of English creditors, and a modification of the Scotch Law was enacted to prevent its application to persons whose creditors were principally in another part of the United Kingdom, see 23 & 24 Vic., c. 33.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 21st January, 1881:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques was referred, have had the report of the Indian Law Commissioners, 1879, duly communicated to us. We have carefully considered so much of it as relates to the present Bill, as well as the papers noted in the margin, and, in compliance with the wish of the Secretary of State for India, as expressed in his despatch (Legislative), No. 37, dated 7th October, 1880, we have the honour to submit this our fourth report.

From Secretary, Chamber of Commerce, Madras, dated 1st August, 1878, and enclosure [Papers No. 56].
„ Acting Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 299, dated 14th February, 1879, and enclosures [Papers No. 58].
„ Ditto, ditto, ditto, No. 1343, dated 7th June, 1879, and enclosures [Papers No. 59].
„ J. Crawfurd, Esq., Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 1123, dated 27th June, 1879 [Paper No. 60].
Note by Sir Charles Turner, Chief Justice, Madras, dated 22nd January, 1880 [Paper No. 61].
From Seth Lachman Dás, Muttra, dated 1st January, 1881 [Paper No. 62].

2. We agree with the Commissioners that uniformity of practice is particularly desirable in matters relating to negotiable paper, and, to facilitate the assimilation of the practice of shroffs to that of European merchants, we have declared (section 1) that local usages may be excluded by any words in the body of the instrument which indicate an intention that the legal relations of the parties thereto shall be governed by the proposed Act.

3. We have inserted explanations calculated to prevent doubts as to when a promise or order to pay is "conditional," when the sum payable is "certain," and when the person to whom the direction is given or payment is to be made is "a certain person," within the meaning of sections 4 and 5.

4. We have re-drawn section 20 as to inchoate stamped instruments, so as to make it express more accurately what we conceive to be the law on this subject.

5. We have also re-drawn sections 47 and 48 (as follows):—

Negotiable instrument made, &c., without consideration.

"43. A negotiable instrument made, drawn, accepted, endorsed or transferred without consideration, or for a consideration which fails, creates no obligation of payment between the parties to the transaction. But if any such party has transferred the instrument with or without endorsement to a holder for consideration, such holder, and every subsequent holder deriving title from him, may recover the amount due on such instrument from the transferor for consideration or any prior party thereto.

"Exception I.—No party for whose accommodation a negotiable instrument has been made, drawn, accepted or indorsed, can, if he have paid the amount thereof, recover thereon such amount from any person who became a party to such instrument for his accommodation.

"Exception II.—No party to the instrument who has induced any other party to make, draw, accept, indorse or transfer the same to him for a consideration which he has failed to pay or perform in full, shall recover thereon an amount exceeding the value of the consideration (if any) which he has actually paid or performed."

6. We have prefixed to the sections relating to negotiation clauses (section 46) relating to delivery generally, and to the effect recommended by the Commissioners.

7. We think the section (67, now 63) relating to the drawee's time for deliberation should provide that the holder of a bill "must, if so required by the drawee," allow him twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept, and we have amended this section accordingly.

9. We have in section 90 (now 86) substituted "qualified" for "conditional" and added a paragraph shewing when an acceptance is qualified.

10. We have provided (section 90) for the extinguishment of rights of action on a negotiated bill held, at or after maturity, by the acceptor in his own right.

11. We agree with Sir C. Turner that section 108 of the Bill in its fourth form—as to reasonable time for presentment—should be omitted. It seems inconsistent with section 107 (now 105), and declares a rule which is not only stricter than the existing law, but would, in our opinion, be highly inconvenient.

12. We have inserted a statement of the procedure in the case of an acceptance supra protest, and to section 112 (now 109) we have prefixed a clause shewing how acceptance for honour must be made.

13. We have declared (section 116) that a drawee in case of need may accept and pay the bill without previous protest.

14. We have made it appear that inland (as well as foreign) bills may be drawn in sets, and altered Chapter XIV (now XV) accordingly. We have made the exception to section 126 (now 132) run thus:—

"Exception.—When a person accepts or indorses different parts of the bill in favour of different persons, he and the subsequent indorser of each part are liable on such part as if it were a separate bill."

15. We have amended the second clause of section 125 (now 130, 131) (as to the non-liability of a banker who has received payment for a customer of a crossed cheque) in accordance with Matthiessen v. London and County Banking Company, 48 L. J. C. P. 529.

16. We have made most of the changes in arrangement and wording advised by the Commissioners, and recommend that the Bill as now revised be passed. It has now been more than thirteen years before the Council of the Governor General; it has been redrawn, copiously criticised and repeatedly revised; and without the experience derived from its actual operation, it is not likely to be further improved. But it should be published in the Gazettes, and, according to the orders of the Secretary of State, it must, before being passed, be sent to the Local Governments, translated into the vernaculars and submitted to him with this report.

SCHEDULE.

No. V.

A Bill to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend the law relating to Promissory Notes, Bills of Exchange and Cheques; It is hereby enacted as follows:— Preamble.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Bill II, s. 1: Bill III, s. 2.

1. This Act may be called "The Negotiable Instruments Act, 1881." Short title.

It extends to the whole of British India; but nothing herein contained affects the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, section twenty-one, or affects any local usage relating to any instrument in an oriental language: Provided that such usages may be excluded by any words in the body of the instrument which indicate an intention that the legal relations of the parties thereto shall be governed by this Act; and it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1882. Local extent. Saving of usages relating to hundís, &c. Commencement.

Bill II, s. 2: Bill III, s. 2.

2. On and from that day the enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column thereof. Repeal of enactments.

Bill II, s. 3: Bill III, s. 2: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 3.

3. In this Act— Interpretation-clause.

"Banker" includes also persons or a corporation or company acting as bankers; and "Banker."

"Notary Public" includes also any officer appointed by the Governor General in Council to perform the functions of a Notary Public under this Act. "Notary Public."

CHAPTER II.

OF NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

Bill II, s. 4: Bill III, s. 4. Byles on Bills, (12th edition), pp. 5, 94. 3 & 4 Anne, c. 9 (Byles 481). Byles 5, 102: Byles 10: Byles 93. Byles 6.

4. A promissory note is an instrument in writing (not being a bank note or a currency note) containing an unconditional undertaking, signed by the maker, to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person, or to the bearer of the instrument. Promissory Note.

Illustrations.

A signs instruments in the following terms:—

(a) "I promise to pay B or order Rs. 500."

(b) "I acknowledge myself to be indebted to B in Rs. 1,000 to be paid on demand, for value received."

(c) "Mr. B, I O U Rs. 1,000."

(d) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 and all other sums which shall be due to him."

(e) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500, first deducting thereout any money which he may owe me."

(f) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 seven days after my marriage with C."

(g) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 on D's death, provided D leaves me enough to pay that sum."

(h) "I promise to pay B Rs. 500 and to deliver to him my black horse on 1st January next."

The instruments respectively marked (a) and (b) are promissory notes. The instruments respectively marked (c), (d), (e), (f), (g) and (h) are not promissory notes.

Bill II, s. 5: Bill III, s. 5: Byles 1, 75: 81, 94, 97: Byles 93, 94, 96: Byles 75, 81.

5. A bill of exchange is an instrument in writing containing an unconditional order, signed by the maker, directing a certain person to pay a certain sum of money only to, or to the order of, a certain person or to the bearer of the instrument. Bill of exchange.

A promise or order to pay is not "conditional," within the meaning of this section and section four, by reason of the time for payment of the amount or any instalment thereof being expressed to be on the lapse of a certain period after the occurrence of a specified event which, according to the ordinary expectation of mankind, is certain to happen, although the time of its happening may be uncertain.

The sum payable may be "certain," within the meaning of this section and section four, although it includes future interest or is payable at an indicated rate of exchange, or is according to the course of exchange, and although the instrument provides that, on default of payment of an instalment, the balance unpaid shall become due.

The person to whom it is clear that the direction is given or that payment is to be made may be a "certain person," within the meaning of this section and section four, although he is mis-named or designated by description only.

Bill II, s. 6: Bill III, s. 5: Byles 13.

6. A cheque is a bill of exchange drawn on a specified banker and not expressed to be payable otherwise than on demand. Cheque.

Draft, s. 6: Bill II, s. 7: Bill III, s. 7.

7. The maker of a bill of exchange or cheque is called the "drawer;" the person thereby directed to pay is called the "drawee." "Drawer." "Drawee."

When in the bill or in any indorsement thereon the name of any person is given in addition to the drawee to be resorted to in case of need, such person is called a "drawee in case of need." "Drawee in case of need."

Draft, ss. 6, 57: Byles 196: Act VI of 1840, s. 2: Act V of 1866, s. 11: See 41 Vic., c. 13.

After the drawee of a bill has signed his assent upon the bill, or if there are more parts thereof than one, upon one of such parts, and delivered the same, or given notice of such signing to the holder or to some person on his behalf, he is called the "acceptor." "Acceptor."

When acceptance is refused and the bill is protested for non-acceptance, and any person accepts it supra protest for honour of the drawer or of any one of the indorsers, such person is called an "acceptor for honour." "Acceptor for honour."

The person named in the instrument, to whom or to whose order the money is by the instrument directed to be paid, is called the "payee." "Payee."

Draft, s. 6: Bill II, s. 8: Bill III, s. 8: Byles 2.

8. The "holder" of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque means any person entitled in his own name to the possession thereof and to receive or recover the amount due thereon from the parties thereto. "Holder."

Where the note, bill or cheque is lost or destroyed, its holder is the person so entitled at the time of such loss or destruction.

Draft, s. 12: Bill II, s. 9: Bill III, s. 9: 1 Parsons 255: Byles 164.

9. "Holder in due course" means any person who for consideration became the possessor of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque if payable to bearer, "Holder in due course."

or the payee or indorsee thereof, if payable to, or to the order of, a payee, before the amount mentioned in it became payable, and without having sufficient cause to believe that any defect existed in the title of the person from whom he derived his title.

Draft, ss. 86, 115: Bill II, s. 10: Bill III, s. 10: Byles on Bills (12th edition), 221: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 11.

10. "Payment in due course" means payment in accordance with the apparent tenor of the instrument in good faith and without negligence to any person in possession thereof under circumstances which do not afford a reasonable ground for believing that he is not entitled to receive payment of the amount therein mentioned. "Payment in due course."

Bill II, s. 11: Bill III, s. 11: Act V of 1866, s. 12.

11. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque drawn or made in British India, and made payable in, or drawn upon any person resident in, British India shall be deemed to be an inland instrument. Inland instrument.

Bill II, s. 12: Bill III, s. 12.

12. Any such instrument not so drawn, made or made payable shall be deemed to be a foreign instrument. Foreign instrument.

Draft, s. 5: Bill II, s. 13: Bill III, s. 13.

13. A "negotiable instrument" means a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque expressed to be payable to a specified person or his order, or to the order of a specified person, or to the bearer thereof, or to a specified person or the bearer thereof. "Negotiable instrument."

Draft, s. 7: Bill II, s. 14: Bill III, s. 14.

Draft, s. 20: Bill II, s. 15: Bill III, s. 15: Denton v. Peters, L. R. 5 Q. B. 475: Ex parte Cole L. R. 9 Ch. App. 27: Byles 165: Byles 160.

Bill II, s. 16: Bill III, s. 16.

Bill II, s. 17: Bill III, s. 17: Byles 91: Bayley (6th edition) 8.

Ambiguous instruments.

17. Where an instrument may be construed either as a promissory note or bill of exchange, the holder may at his election treat it as either, and the instrument shall be thenceforward treated accordingly.

Draft, s. 2: Bill II, s. 18: Bill III, s. 18: Byles 84: Bayley 12 (Saunderson v. Piper).

Where amount is stated differently in figures and words.

Bill II, s. 19: Bill III, s. 19: 1 Parsons 271: Byles 13, 212: Aldous v. Cornwell, L. R. 3 Q. B. 573.

Instruments payable on demand.

19. A promissory note or bill of exchange, in which no time for payment is specified, and a cheque are payable on demand.

Bill II, s. 20: Bill III, s. 20: Byles 88, 165, 188: Foster v. Mackinnon, L. R. 4 C. P. 704: Byles 84.

Inchoate stamped instruments.

20. Where one person signs and delivers to another a paper stamped in accordance with the law relating to negotiable instruments then in force in British India, and either wholly blank or having written thereon an incomplete negotiable instrument, he thereby gives primâ facie authority to the holder thereof to make or complete, as the case may be, upon it a negotiable instrument, for any amount specified therein and not exceeding the amount covered by the stamp. The person so signing shall be liable upon such instrument, in the capacity in which he signed the same, to any holder in due course for such amount: provided that no person other than a holder in due course shall recover from the person delivering the instrument anything in excess of the amount intended by him to be paid thereunder.

"At sight." "On presentment." "After sight."

21. In a promissory note or bill of exchange the expressions "at sight" and "on presentment" mean on demand. The expression "after sight" means, in a promissory note, after presentment for sight, and, in a bill of exchange, after acceptance, or noting for non-acceptance, or protest for non-acceptance.

Draft, s. 78: Bill II, s. 22: Bill III, s. 23.

"Maturity."

22. The maturity of a promissory note or bill of exchange is the date at which it falls due.

New.

Days of grace.

Every promissory note or bill of exchange which is not expressed to be payable on demand, at sight, or on presentment, is at maturity on the third day after the day on which it is expressed to be payable.

Draft, s. 79: Bill II, s. 24: Bill III, s. 24: Byles 206.

Calculating maturity of bill or note payable so many months after date or sight.

23. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable a stated number of months after date or after sight, or stated shall be held to terminate on the day of the month which corresponds with the day on which the instrument is dated, or presented for acceptance or sight, or noted for non-acceptance, or protested for non-acceptance, or the event happens, or, where the instrument is a bill of exchange made payable a stated number of months after sight and has been accepted for honour, with the day on which it was so accepted. If the month in which the period would terminate has no corresponding day, the period shall be held to terminate on the last day of such month.

Illustrations.

(a). A negotiable instrument, dated 29th January, 1878, is made payable at one month after date. The instrument is at maturity on the third day after the 28th February, 1878.

(b). A negotiable instrument, dated 30th August, 1878, is made payable three months after date. The instrument is at maturity on the 3rd December, 1878.

(c). A promissory note or bill of exchange, dated 31st August, 1878, is made payable three months after date. The instrument is at maturity on the 3rd December, 1878.

Draft, s. 80: Bill II, s. 25: Bill III, s. 25: Byles 206.

Calculating maturity of bill or note payable so many days after date or sight.

24. In calculating the date at which a promissory note or bill of exchange made payable a certain number of days after date or after sight or after a certain event, is at maturity, the day of the date, or of presentment for acceptance or sight, or of protest for non-acceptance, or on which the event happens, shall be excluded.

Draft, s. 80: Bill II, s. 26: Bill III, s. 26: Byles 208.

When day of maturity is a holiday.

25. When the day on which a promissory note or bill of exchange is at maturity is a public holiday, the instrument shall be deemed to be due on the next preceding business day.

Explanation.—The expression "public holiday" includes Sundays: New-Year's day, Christmas day: if either of such days falls on a Sunday, the next following Monday: Good-Friday; and any other day declared by the Local Government, by notification in the official Gazette, to be a public holiday.

CHAPTER III.

PARTIES TO NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

Bill II, s. 38: Bill III, s. 28: See 37 & 38 Vic., c. 62, s. 1 (Byles 529): Byles 59.

Capacity to make, &c., promissory notes, &c.

Byles 61.

Minor.

A minor may draw, indorse, deliver and negotiate such instruments so as to bind all parties except himself.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to empower a corporation to make, indorse or accept such instruments except in cases in which, under the law for the time being in force, they are so empowered.

Bill II, s. 39: Bill III, s. 29: Byles 31.

Agency.

Byles 32.

A general authority to transact business and to receive and discharge debts does not confer upon an agent the power of accepting or indorsing bills of exchange so as to bind his principal.

Byles 33.

An authority to draw bills of exchange does not of itself import an authority to indorse.

Draft, s. 15: Bill II, s. 40: Bill III, s. 30.

Liability of agent signing.

28. An agent who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, without indicating thereon that he signs as agent, or that he does not intend thereby to incur personal responsibility, is liable personally on the instrument, except to those who induced him to sign upon the belief that the principal only would be held liable.

Act IX of 1872, s. 234.

Byles 57: Bill III, s. 31.

Liability of legal representative signing.

29. A legal representative of a deceased person who signs his name to a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is liable personally thereon unless he expressly limits his liability to the extent of the assets received by him as such.

Draft, ss. 17, 73: Bill II, s. 44: Bill III, s. 34: Byles 3, 245: Bayley 43: Byles 290.

Liability of drawer.

30. The drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque is bound, in case of dishonour by the drawee or acceptor thereof, to compensate the holder under Chapter XII, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, the drawer as hereinafter provided.

Bill II, s. 45: Bill III, s. 35: Byles 18, 19, 185: Chitty 56: Grant on Bankers, 51: Gray v. Johnston, L. R. 3 E. and I. App. 1.

Liability of drawee of cheque.

31. The drawee of a cheque having sufficient funds of the drawer in his hands properly applicable to the payment of such cheque, must pay the cheque when duly required so to do, and, in default of such payment, must compensate the drawer for any loss or damage caused by such default.

Draft, ss. 60, 65: Bill II, s. 46: Bill III, s. 36: Byles 190, 193: Draft, s. 60: Bayley 44: Byles 910.

Liability of maker of note and acceptor of bill.

32. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the maker of a promissory note and the acceptor before maturity of a bill of exchange, are bound to pay the amount thereof at maturity according to the apparent tenor of the note or acceptance respectively, and the acceptor of a bill of exchange at or after maturity is bound to pay the amount thereof to the holder on demand.

In default of such payment as aforesaid, such maker or acceptor is bound to compensate any party to the note or bill for any loss or damage sustained by him, and caused by such default.

Draft, s. 61: Bill II, s. 47: Bill III, s. 37: Byles 187, 188.

Only drawee can be acceptor except in need or for honour.

33. No person except the drawee of a bill of exchange, or all or some of several drawees, or a person named therein as a drawee in case of need, or an acceptor for honour, can bind himself by an acceptance.

Draft, s. 59: Bill II, s. 41: Bill III, s. 32.

Acceptance by several drawees not partners.

34. Where there are several drawees of a bill of exchange who are not partners, each of them can accept it for himself, but none of them can accept it for another without his authority.

Draft, ss. 28, 32, 37 (para. 2), 46, 64, 65, 90 and 98: Bill II, s. 48: Bill III, s. 38: Byles 153, 245, 295: Robertson v. Kensington, 4 Taunt. 30: Byles 152, 155: Suse v. Pompe, 30 L. J., C. P. 75: Horne v. Rouquette, 3 Q. B. Div. 519.

Liability of indorser.

35. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, whoever indorses and delivers a negotiable instrument before maturity, without, in such indorsement, expressly excluding or making conditional his own liability, is bound thereby to every subsequent holder, in case of dishonour by the drawee, acceptor or maker, to compensate such holder for any loss or damage caused to him by such dishonour, provided due notice of dishonour has been given to, or received by, such indorser as hereinafter provided.

Draft, s. 44.

Every indorser after dishonour is liable as upon an instrument payable on demand.

Draft, ss. 63, 71: Bill II, s. 49: Bill III, s. 39: Byles 166: O'Keefe v. Dunn, 6 Taunt. 305: 5 M. & S. 282.

Liability of prior parties to holder in due course.

36. Every prior party to a negotiable instrument is liable thereon to a holder in due course until the instrument is duly satisfied.

Bill II, s. 50: Bill III, s. 40: Byles 245.

Maker, drawer and acceptor principals.

37. The maker of a promissory note or cheque, the drawer of a bill of exchange until acceptance, and the acceptor are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively liable thereon as principal debtors, and the other parties thereto are liable thereon as sureties for the maker, drawer or acceptor, as the case may be.

Bill II, s. 51: Bill III, s. 41: Byles 245.

Prior party a principal in respect of each subsequent party.

38. As between the parties so liable as sureties, each prior party is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, also liable thereon as a principal debtor in respect of each subsequent party.

Illustration.

A draws a bill payable to his own order on B, who accepts. A afterwards indorses the bill to C, C to D, and D to E. As between E and B, B is the principal debtor, and A, C and D are his sureties. As between E and A, A is the principal debtor, and C and D are his sureties. As between E and C, C is the principal debtor and D is his surety.

Bill II, s. 52: Bill III, s. 42: Owen v. Homan, 4 H. L. Cas. 997: Muir v. Crawford, L. R. 2 Sc. App. 456.

Suretyship.

39. When the holder of an accepted bill of exchange enters into any contract with the acceptor which under section 134 or 135 of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, would discharge the other parties, the holder may expressly reserve his right to charge the other parties, and in such case they are not discharged.

Draft, s. 100: Bill II, s. 53: Bill III, s. 43: cf. Act IX of 1872, s. 137.

Discharge of indorser's liability.

40. Where the holder of a negotiable instrument, without the consent of the indorser, destroys or impairs the indorser's remedy against a prior party, the indorser is discharged from liability to the holder to the same extent as if the instrument had been paid at maturity.

Illustration.

A is the holder of a bill of exchange made payable to the order of B, which contains the following indorsements in blank:—

First indorsement, "B."
Second indorsement, "Peter Williams."
Third indorsement, "Wright and Co."
Fourth indorsement, "John Rozario."

This bill A puts in suit against John Rozario and strikes out, without John Rozario's consent, the indorsements by Peter Williams and Wright and Co. A is not entitled to recover anything from John Rozario.

Draft, s. 36: Bill II, s. 54: Bill III, s. 47: Byles 200, 201.

Acceptor bound, although indorsement forged.

41. An acceptor of a bill of exchange already indorsed is not relieved from liability by reason that such indorsement is forged, if he knew or had reason to believe the indorsement to be forged when he accepted the bill.

Bill II, s. 59: Bill III, s. 48: Byles 201: Cooper v. Meyer, 10 B. & C. 468: Act I of 1872, s. 117.

Acceptance of bill drawn in fictitious name.

42. An acceptor of a bill of exchange drawn in a fictitious name and payable to the drawer's order is not, by reason that such name is fictitious, relieved from liability to any holder in due course claiming under an indorsement by the same hand as the drawer's signature, and purporting to be made by the drawer.

New.

Negotiable instrument made, &c., without consideration.

43. A negotiable instrument made, drawn, accepted, endorsed or transferred without consideration, or for a consideration which fails, creates no obligation of payment between the parties to the transaction. But if any such party has transferred the instrument with or without endorsement to a holder for consideration, such holder, and every subsequent holder deriving title from him, may recover the amount due on such instrument from the transferor for consideration or any prior party thereto.

Exception I.—No party for whose accommodation a negotiable instrument has been made, drawn, accepted or indorsed, can, if he have paid the amount thereof, recover thereon such amount from any person who became a party to such instrument for his accommodation.

Exception II.—No party to the instrument who has induced any other party to make, draw, accept, indorse or transfer the same to him for a consideration which he has failed to pay or perform in full, shall recover thereon an amount exceeding the value of the consideration (if any) which he has actually paid or performed.

Draft, s. 54: Bill II, s. 62: Bill III, s. 51: Byles 130.

Partial absence or failure of money-consideration.

44. When the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque consisted of money, and was originally absent in part or has subsequently failed in part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

Explanation.—The drawer of a bill of exchange stands in immediate relation with the acceptor. The maker of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, stands in immediate relation with the payee, and the indorser with his indorsee. Other signers may by agreement stand in immediate relation with a holder.

Illustration.

A draws a bill on B for Rs. 500 payable to the order of A. B accepts the bill, but subsequently dishonours it by non-payment. A sues B on the bill. B proves that it was accepted for value as to Rs. 400, and as an accommodation to the plaintiff as to the residue. A can only recover Rs. 400.

Draft, s. 55: Bill II, s. 63: Bill III, s. 52.

Partial failure of consideration not consisting of money.

45. Where a part of the consideration for which a person signed a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, though not consisting of money, is ascertainable in money without collateral enquiry, and there has been a failure of that part, the sum which a holder standing in immediate relation with such signer is entitled to receive from him is proportionally reduced.

CHAPTER IV.

OF NEGOTIATION.

Delivery.

46. The making, acceptance or indorsement of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is completed by delivery, actual or constructive.

As between parties standing in immediate relation, delivery to be effectual must be made by the party making, accepting or indorsing the instrument, or by a person authorized by him in that behalf.

As between such parties and any holder of the instrument other than a holder in due course, it may be shown that the instrument was delivered conditionally or for a special purpose only, and not for the purpose of transferring absolutely the property therein.

A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by the delivery thereof.

A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to order is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

Draft, s. 18: Bill II, s. 64: Bill III, s. 53: Byles 148.

Negotiation by delivery.

47. Subject to the provisions of section fifty-eight, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to bearer is negotiable by delivery thereof.

Exception.—A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque delivered on condition that it is not to take effect except in a certain event is not negotiable (except in the hands of a holder for value without notice of the condition) unless such event happens.

Illustrations.

(a). A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer, delivers it to B's agent to keep for B. The instrument has been negotiated. Byles 148, note (i).

(b). A, the holder of a negotiable instrument payable to bearer which is in the hands of A's banker, who is at the time the banker of B, directs the banker to transfer the instrument to B's credit in the banker's account with B. The banker does so, and accordingly now possesses the instrument as B's agent. The instrument has been negotiated, and B has become the holder of it.

Draft, s. 19: Bill II, s. 65: Bill III, s 54: Denton v. Peters, L.R. 5 Q. B. 475: Exparte Cote, L. R. 9 Ch. App. 27.

Negotiation by indorsement.

48. Subject to the provisions of section fifty-eight, a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque payable to the order of a specified person, or to a specified person or order, is negotiable by the holder by indorsement and delivery thereof.

Draft, s. 31: Bill II, s. 68: Bill III, s. 57: Byles 150, 151.

Conversion of indorsement in blank into indorsement in full.

49. The holder of a negotiable instrument indorsed in blank may, without signing his own name, by writing above the indorser's signature a direction to pay to any other person as indorsee, convert the indorsement in blank into an indorsement in full; and the holder does not thereby incur the responsibility of an indorser.

Draft, ss. 29, 30: Bill II, ss. 69, 70: Bill III, ss. 58, 59: Byles 152.

Effect of indorsement.

50. The indorsement of a negotiable instrument followed by delivery transfers to the indorsee the property therein with the right of further negotiation; but the indorsement may, by express words, restrict or exclude such right, or may merely constitute the indorsee an agent to indorse the instrument, or to receive its contents for the indorser, or for some other specified person.

Illustrations.

B signs the following indorsements on different negotiable instruments payable to bearer:—

(a) "Pay the contents to C only."

(b) "Pay C for my use."

(c) "Pay C or order for the account of B."

(d) "The within must be credited to C."

These indorsements exclude the right of further negotiation by C.

(e) "Pay C."

(f) "Pay C value in account with the Oriental Bank."

(g) "Pay the contents to C, being part of the consideration in a certain deed of assignment executed by C to the indorser and others."

These indorsements do not exclude the right of further negotiation by C.

Bill III, s. 60.

51. Every sole maker, drawer, payee or indorsee, or all of several joint makers, drawers, payees or indorsees, of a negotiable instrument may, if the negotiability of such instrument has not been restricted or excluded, as mentioned in section fifty, indorse and negotiate the same.

Who may negotiate.

Explanation.—Nothing in this section enables a maker or drawer to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is in lawful possession or is holder thereof; or enables a payee or indorsee to indorse or negotiate an instrument, unless he is holder thereof.

Illustration.

A bill is drawn payable to A or order. A indorses it to B, the indorsement not containing the words "or order" or any equivalent words. B may negotiate the instrument.

Byles 153, 157.

52. The indorser of a negotiable instrument may, by express words in the indorsement, exclude his own liability thereon, or make such liability or the right of the indorsee to receive the amount due thereon, depend upon the happening of a specified event, although such event may never happen.

Indorser who excludes his own liability or makes it conditional.

Draft, s. 45.

Where an indorser so excludes his liability and afterwards becomes the holder of the instrument, all intermediate indorsers are liable to him.

Illustrations.

(a) The indorser of a negotiable instrument signs his name, adding the words—

"Without recourse."

Upon this indorsement he incurs no liability.

(b) A is the payee and holder of a negotiable instrument. Excluding personal liability by an endorsement "without recourse," he transfers the instrument to B, and B indorses it to C, who indorses it to A. A is not only reinstated in his former rights, but has the rights of an indorsee against B and C.

58. When a negotiable instrument has been lost, or has been obtained from any maker, acceptor or holder thereof by means of an offence or fraud, or for an unlawful consideration, no possessor or indorsee who claims through the person who found or so obtained the instrument is entitled to receive the amount due thereon from such maker, acceptor or holder, or from any party prior to such holder, unless such possessor or indorsee is, or some person through whom he claims was, a holder thereof in due course.

Instrument obtained by unlawful means or for unlawful consideration.

59. The holder of a negotiable instrument, who has acquired it after dishonour, whether by non-acceptance or non-payment, with notice thereof, or after maturity, has only, as against the other parties, the rights thereon of his transferor:

Instrument acquired after dishonour or when overdue.

Provided that any person who, in good faith and for consideration, becomes the holder, after maturity, of a promissory note or bill of exchange made, drawn or accepted without consideration for the purpose of enabling some party thereto to raise money thereon, may recover the amount of the note or bill from any prior party.

CHAPTER V.

OF PRESENTMENT.

Draft, s. [illegible]:
Bill II, s. [illegible]:
Bill III, s. 71.

61. A bill of exchange payable after sight must, if no time or place is specified therein for presentment, be presented to the drawee thereof for acceptance, if he can, after reasonable search, be found, by a person entitled to demand acceptance, within a reasonable time after it is drawn, and in business-hours on a business day. In default of such presentment, no party thereto is liable thereon to the person making such default.

Presentment for acceptance.

If the drawee cannot, after reasonable search, be found, the bill is disbonoured.

Byles [illegible].

If the bill is directed to the drawee at a particular place, it must be presented at that place; and if at the due date for presentment he cannot, after reasonable search, be found there, the bill is dishonoured.

Byles [illegible].

Bill II, s. [illegible]:
Bill III, s. 72.

62. A promissory note, payable at a certain period after sight, must be presented to the maker thereof for sight (if he can

Draft, s. 56: Bill II, s. 84: Bill III, s. 73: Byles 183.

Drawee's time for deliberation.

63. The holder must, if so required by the drawee of a bill of exchange presented to him for acceptance, allow the drawee twenty-four hours (exclusive of public holidays) to consider whether he will accept it.

Draft, s. 133: Bill II, s. 85: Bill III, s. 74.

Presentment for payment.

64. Promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques must be presented for payment to the maker, acceptor or drawee thereof respectively, by or on behalf of the holder as hereinafter provided. In default of such presentment, the other parties thereto are not liable thereon to such holder.

Byles 216.

Exception.—Where a promissory note is payable on demand and is not payable at a specified place, no presentment is necessary in order to charge the maker thereof.

Bill II, s. 86: Bill III, s. 75: Draft, s. 137: Byles 213.

Hours for presentment.

65. Presentment for payment must be made during the usual hours of business, and, if at a banker's, within banking hours.

Draft, s. 133: Bill II, s. 87: Bill III, s. 76. Byles 208, 213.

Presentment for payment of instrument payable after date or sight.

66. A promissory note or bill of exchange, made payable at a specified period after date or sight thereof, must be presented for payment at maturity.

Bill II, s. 88: Bill III, s. 77: Byles 7.

Presentment for payment of promissory note payable by instalments.

67. A promissory note payable by instalments must be presented for payment on the third day after the date fixed for payment of each instalment; and non-payment on such presentment has the same effect as non-payment of a note at maturity.

Draft, s. 138: Bill II, s. 89: Bill III, s. 78: Act VI of 1840, s. 1: 1 & 2 Geo. IV, c. 78 (Byles 490).

Presentment for payment of instrument payable at specified place and not elsewhere.

68. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque made, drawn or accepted payable at a specified place and not elsewhere must, in order to charge any party thereto, be presented for payment at that place.

Draft, ss. 139, 140: Bill II, s. 90: Bill III, s. 79: Byles 214.

Instrument payable at specified place.

69. A promissory note or bill of exchange made, drawn or accepted payable at a specified place must, in order to charge the maker or drawer thereof, be presented for payment at that place.

Draft, ss. 139, 140, 142: Bill II, s. 91: Bill III, s. 80. Byles 214, 215.

Presentment where no exclusive place specified.

70. A promissory note or bill of exchange, not made payable as mentioned in sections sixty-eight and sixty-nine, must be presented for payment at the place of business (if any), or at the usual residence, of the maker, drawee or acceptor thereof, as the case may be.

Draft, s. 141: Bill II, s. 92: Bill III, s. 81.

Presentment when maker, &c., has no known place of business or residence.

Bill II, s. 93: Bill III, s. 82: Byles 21, 210.

Presentment of cheque to charge drawer.

72. A cheque must, in order to charge the drawer, be presented at the bank upon which it is drawn before the relation between the drawer and his banker has been altered to the prejudice of the drawer.

Byles 20.

Bill II, s. 94: Bill III, s. 83: Byles 21.

Presentment of cheque to charge any other person.

73. A cheque must, in order to charge any person except the drawer, be presented within a reasonable time after delivery thereof by such person.

Draft, s. 134: Bill II, s. 95: Bill III, s. 84: Byles 211.

Presentment of instrument payable on demand.

74. Subject to the provisions of section thirty-one, a negotiable instrument payable on demand must be presented for payment within a reasonable time after it is received by the holder.

Bill II, s. 96: Bill III, s. 85: Parsons 500.

Presentment by or to agent, representative of deceased, or assignee of insolvent.

Draft, ss. 89, 91: Bill II, s. 98: Bill III, s. 86: Byles 218.

When presentment unnecessary.

76. No presentment for payment is necessary, and the instrument is dishonoured at the due date for presentment, in any of the following cases:—

(a) if the maker, drawee or acceptor intentionally prevents the presentment of the instrument, or, if the instrument being payable at his place of business, he closes such place on a business day during the usual business-hours, or if the instrument being payable at some other specified place, neither he nor any person authorized to pay it attends at such place during the usual business-hours, or if the instrument not being payable at any specified place, he cannot after due search be found;

(b) as against any party sought to be charged therewith, if he has engaged to pay notwithstanding non-presentment;

(c) as against any party if, after maturity, with knowledge that the instrument has not been presented—

he makes a part payment on account of the amount due on the instrument, or promises to pay the amount due thereon in whole or in part, or otherwise waives his right to take advantage of any default in presentment for payment;

(d) as against the drawer, if the drawer could not suffer damage from the want of such presentment.

Liability of banker for negligently dealing with bill presented for payment.

77. When a bill of exchange, accepted payable at a specified bank, has been duly presented there for payment and dishonoured, if the banker so negligently or improperly keeps, deals with or delivers back such bill as to cause loss to the holder, he must compensate the holder for such loss.

CHAPTER VI.

OF PAYMENT AND INTEREST.

Bill II, s. 100: Bill III, s. 88: Byles 220.

To whom payment should be made.

78. Subject to the provisions of section eighty-two, clause (c), payment of the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque must, in order to discharge the maker or acceptor, be made to the holder of the instrument.

Bill II, s. 101: Bill III, s. 89: Byles 306, 307.

Interest when rate specified.

79. When interest at a specified rate is expressly made payable on a promissory note or bill of exchange, interest shall be calculated at the rate specified, on the amount of the principal money due thereon, from the date of the instrument, until tender or realization of such amount, or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

Draft, s. 65: Bill II, s. 102: Bill III, s. 90: Byles 306, 307, 308.

Interest when no rate specified.

80. When no rate of interest is specified in the instrument, interest on the amount due thereon shall, except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532, be calculated at the rate of six percentum per annum, from the date at which the same ought to have been paid by the party charged, until tender or realization of the amount due thereon or until such date after the institution of a suit to recover such amount as the Court directs.

'ten,' Bank of Bengal.

Byles 308.

Explanation.—When the party charged is the indorser of an instrument dishonoured by non-payment, he is liable to pay interest only from the time that he receives notice of the dishonour.

Draft, s. 82: Bill II, s. 103: Bill III, s. 91: Byles 373: See Pro. Code, s. 61.

Delivery of instrument on payment, or indemnity in case of loss.

81. Any person liable to pay, and called upon by the holder thereof to pay, the amount due on a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is before payment entitled to have it shown, and is on payment entitled to have it delivered up, to him, or, if the instrument is lost or cannot be produced, to be indemnified against any further claim thereon against him.

CHAPTER VII.

OF DISCHARGE FROM LIABILITY ON NOTES, BILLS AND CHEQUES.

Draft, s. 85: Bill II, s. 104: Bill III, s. 92.

Discharge from liability—

82. The maker, acceptor or indorser respectively of a negotiable instrument is discharged from liability thereon—

Byles 154, 190: Draft, s. 88.

by cancellation;

(a) to a holder thereof who cancels such acceptor's or indorser's name with intent to discharge him, and to all parties claiming under such holder;

Byles 198, 240.

by release;

(b) to a holder thereof who otherwise discharges such maker, acceptor or indorser, and to all parties deriving title under such holder after notice of such discharge;

Draft, ss. 87, 88: Byles 221.

by payment.

(c) to all parties thereto, if the instrument is payable to bearer, or has been indorsed in blank, and such maker, acceptor or indorser makes payment in due course of the amount due thereon.

Draft, s. 70: Bill II, s. 105: Bill III, s. 93.

Discharge by allowing drawee more than twenty-four hours to accept.

83. If the holder of a bill of exchange allows the drawee more than twenty-four hours, exclusive of public holidays, to consider whether he will accept the same, all previous parties not consenting to such allowance are thereby discharged from liability to such holder.

Draft, s. 101: Bill II, s. 106: Bill III, s. 94: Byles 20.

When cheque not duly presented and drawer damaged thereby.

84. When the holder of a cheque fails to present it for payment within a reasonable time, and the drawer thereof sustains loss or damage from such failure, he is discharged from liability to the holder.

Bill II, s. 107: Bill III, s. 95: 16 & 17 Vic., c. 59, s. 19: Byles 27, 505: Charles v. Blackwell, 1 C. P. Div. 548.

Cheque payable to order.

85. Where a cheque payable to order, purports to be indorsed by or on behalf of the payee, the drawee is discharged by payment in due course.

Draft, s. 69: Bill II, s. 108: Bill III, s. 96: Byles 193, 194.

Parties not consenting discharged by qualified or limited acceptance.

86. If the holder of a bill of exchange acquiesces in a qualified acceptance, or one limited to part of the sum mentioned in the bill, or which substitutes a different place or time for payment, or which, where the drawees are not partners is not signed by all the drawees, all previous parties whose consent is not obtained to such acceptance are discharged as against the holder and those claiming under him, unless on notice given by the holder, they assent to such acceptance.

Explanation.—An acceptance is qualified—

(a) where it is conditional, declaring the payment to be dependent on the happening of an event therein stated;

(b) where it undertakes the payment of part only of the sum ordered to be paid;

(c) where, no place of payment being specified on the order, it undertakes the payment at a specified place and not otherwise or elsewhere; or where, a place of payment being specified in the order, it undertakes the payment at some other place and not otherwise or elsewhere;

(d) where it undertakes the payment at a time other than that at which under the order it would be legally due.

Draft, ss. 109, 110: Bill II, s. 110: Bill III, s. 97: Byles 324.

Effect of material alteration.

87. Save as provided in sections twenty, forty-nine, eighty-six and one hundred and twenty-five, any material alteration of a negotiable instrument renders the same void as against any one who is a party thereto at the time of making such alteration and does not consent thereto, unless it was made in order to carry out the common intention of the original parties;

Bill II, s. 111: Bill III, s. 98: Byles 326.

Alteration by indorsee.

and any such alteration, if made by an indorsee, discharges his indorser from all liability to him in respect of the consideration thereof.

The provisions of this section are subject to those of sections twenty, forty-nine, eighty-six and one hundred and twenty-five.

Draft, ss. 112 to 114: Act I of 1872, s. 112: Bill II, s. 112: Bill III, s. 99.

Acceptor or indorser bound notwithstanding previous alteration.

88. An acceptor or indorser of a negotiable instrument is bound by his acceptance or indorsement notwithstanding any previous alteration of the instrument.

Draft, s. 115: Bill II, s. 113: Bill III, s. 100: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 11.

89. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque has been materially altered, but does not appear to have been so altered,

Payment of instrument on which alteration is not apparent.

or where a cheque is presented for payment which does not at the time of presentation appear to be crossed or to have had a crossing which has been obliterated, payment thereof by a person or banker liable to pay and paying the same according to the apparent tenor thereof at the time of payment and otherwise in due course, shall discharge such person or banker from all liability thereon, and such payment shall not be questioned by reason of the instrument having been altered, or the cheque crossed.

90. If a bill of exchange which has been negotiated is, at or after maturity, held by the acceptor in his own right, all rights of action thereon are extinguished.

Extinguishment of rights of action on bill in acceptor's hands.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF NOTICE OF DISHONOUR.

Draft, s. 33: Bill II, s. 114: Bill III, s. 101: Byles 187.

91. A bill of exchange is said to be dishonoured by non-acceptance when the drawee, or one of several drawees not being partners, makes default in acceptance upon being duly required to accept the bill, or where presentment is excused and the bill is not accepted.

Dishonour by non-acceptance.

Where the drawee is incompetent to contract, or the acceptance is qualified, the bill may be treated as dishonoured.

Bill II, s. 115: Bill III, s. 102.

92. A promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is said to be dishonoured by non-payment when the maker of the note, acceptor of the bill, or drawee of the cheque makes default in payment upon being duly required to pay the same.

Dishonour by non-payment.

Draft, ss. 125, 127, 131: Bill II, s. 116: Bill III, s. 103: Byles 273. Byles 288. Byles 293. Byles 290.

93. When a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder thereof, or some party thereto who remains liable thereon, must give notice that the instrument has been so dishonoured to all other parties whom the holder seeks to make severally liable thereon, and to some one of several parties whom he seeks to make jointly liable thereon.

By and to whom notice should be given.

Nothing in this section renders it necessary to give notice to the maker of the dishonoured promissory note, or the drawee or acceptor of the dishonoured bill of exchange or cheque.

Draft, ss. 126, 127, 128, 130: Bill II, s. 117: Bill III, s. 104: Byles 274, 275. Byles 280. Held in America notice must be signed. 1 Parsons 506. Re Bellman, L. R. 4 Ch. Div. 795. Draft, s. 126. Byles 282.

94. Notice of dishonour may be given to a duly authorized agent of the person to whom it is required to be given, or, where he has died, to his legal representative, or, where he has been declared an insolvent, to his assignee; may be oral or written; may, if written, be sent by post; and may be in any form; but it must inform the party to whom it is given, either in express terms or by reasonable intendment, that the instrument has been dishonoured, and in what way, and that he will be held liable thereon; and it must be given within a reasonable time after dishonour, at the place of business, or (in case such party has no place of business) at the residence of the party for whom it is intended.

Mode in which notice may be given.

If the notice is duly directed and sent by post and miscarries, such miscarriage does not render the notice invalid.

Draft, s. 131: Bill II, s. 118: Bill III, s. 105.

95. Any party receiving notice of dishonour must, in order to render any prior party liable to himself, give notice of dishonour to such party within a reasonable time, unless such party otherwise receives due notice as provided by section ninety-three.

Party receiving must transmit notice of dishonour.

Draft, s. 132: Bill II, s. 119: Bill III, s. 106: Byles 286.

96. When the instrument is deposited with an agent for presentment, the agent is entitled to the same time to give notice to his principal as if he were the holder giving notice of dishonour, and the principal is entitled to a further like period to give notice of dishonour.

Agent for presentment.

Draft, s. 130: Druse 2: Bill II, s. 120: Bill III, s. 107.

97. When the party to whom notice of dishonour is despatched is dead, but the party despatching the notice is ignorant of his death, the notice is sufficient.

When party to whom notice given is dead.

Draft, s. 92: Bill II, s. 121: Bill III, s. 108: Byles 296.

98. No notice of dishonour is necessary—

When notice of dishonour is unnecessary.

(a) when it is dispensed with by the party entitled thereto;

(b) in order to charge the drawer, when he has countermanded payment;

(c) when the party charged could not suffer damage for want of notice;

(d) when the party entitled to notice cannot after due search be found; or the party bound to give notice is, for any other reason, unable without any fault of his own to give it;

(e) to charge the drawers, when the acceptor is also a drawer;

Draft, ss. 67, 68, 93: Byles 301.

(f) in the case of a promissory note which is not negotiable;

Byles 302.

(g) when the party entitled to notice, knowing the facts, promises unconditionally to pay the amount due on the instrument.

CHAPTER IX.

OF NOTING AND PROTEST.

Draft, s. 112: Bill II, 122: Bill III, s. 109.

99. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may cause such dishonour to be noted by a notary public upon the instrument, or upon a paper attached thereto, or partly upon each.

Noting.

Such note must be made within a reasonable time after dishonour, and must specify the date of dishonour, the reason, if any, assigned for such dishonour, or, if the instrument has not been expressly dishonoured, the reason why the holder treats it as dishonoured, and the notary's charges.

Draft, s. 11[illegible] Byles 261.

Draft, s. 56, Expln. 1: Bill II, s. 127: Bill III, s. 114: Byles 182, 210, 287.

100. When a promissory note or bill of exchange has been dishonoured by non-acceptance or non-payment, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause such dishonour to be noted and certified by a notary public. Such certificate is called a protest.

Protest.

Draft, s. [illegible] Bill II, s. [illegible] Bill III, s. [illegible] Byles 300.

Byles 261.

When the acceptor of a bill of exchange has become insolvent, or his credit has been publicly impeached, before the maturity of the bill, the holder may, within a reasonable time, cause a notary public to demand better security of the acceptor, and on its being refused may, within a reasonable time, cause such facts to be noted and certified as aforesaid. Such certificate is called a protest for better security.

Protest for better security.

Draft, s. 122: Bill II, s. 124: Bill III, s. 111: Byles 261.

101. A protest under section one hundred must contain—

Contents of protest.

(a) either the instrument itself, or a literal transcript of the instrument and of everything written or printed thereupon;

(b) the name of the person for whom and against whom the instrument has been protested;

(c) a statement that payment or acceptance, or better security, as the case may be, has been demanded of such person by the notary public; the terms of his answer, if any, or a statement that he gave no answer, or that he could not be found;

(e) the subscription of the notary public making the protest;

(f) in the event of an acceptance for honour or of a payment for honour, the name of the person by whom, of the person for whom, and the manner in which, such acceptance or payment was offered and effected.

Draft, s. 124: Bill II, s. 125: Bill III, s. 112: Byles 262.

102. When a promissory note or bill of exchange is required by law to be protested, notice of such protest must be given instead of notice of dishonour, in the same manner and subject to the same conditions; but the notice may be given by the notary public who makes the protest.

Notice of protest.

Bill II, s. 126: Bill III, s. 113: Act VI, 1840, s. 4: 2 & 3 Wm. IV, c. 98.

103. All bills of exchange drawn payable at some other place than the place mentioned as the residence of the drawee, and which are dishonoured by non-acceptance, may, without further presentment to the drawee, be protested for non-payment, in the place specified for payment, unless paid before or at maturity.

Protest for non-payment after dishonour by non-acceptance.

Draft, s. 108: Bill II, s. 139: Bill III, s. 128.

104. Foreign bills of exchange must be protested for dishonour when such protest is required by the law of the place where they are drawn.

Protest of foreign bills.

CHAPTER X.

OF REASONABLE TIME.

Draft, s. 56, Expln. 1: Bill II, s. 127: Bill III, s. 114: Byles 182, 210, 287.

105. In determining what is a reasonable time for presentment for acceptance or payment, for giving notice of dishonour and for noting, regard shall be had to the nature of the instrument and the usual course of dealing with respect to similar instruments; and in calculating such time, public holidays shall be excluded.

Reasonable time.

Draft, s. 129: Bill II, s. 129: Bill III, s. 116: Byles 284.

106. If the holder and the party to whom notice of dishonour is given carry on business or live (as the case may be) in different places, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched by the next post or on the day next after the day of dishonour.

Reasonable time of giving notice of dishonour.

Byles 285.

If the said parties carry on business or live in the same place, such notice is given within a reasonable time if it is despatched in time to reach its destination on the day next after the day of dishonour.

Draft, s. 131: Bill II, s. 130: Bill III, s. 117.

107. A party receiving notice of dishonour, who seeks to enforce his right against a prior party, transmits the notice within a reasonable time if he transmits it within the same time after its receipt as he would have had to give notice if he had been the holder.

Reasonable time for transmitting such notice.

CHAPTER XI.

OF ACCEPTANCE AND PAYMENT FOR HONOUR AND REFERENCE IN CASE OF NEED.

Draft, ss. 74, 76: Bill II, s. 131: Bill III, s. 118: Byles 265, 266.

108. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-acceptance or for better security, any person not being a party already liable thereon may, with the consent of the holder, by writing on the bill, accept the same for the honour of any party thereto.

Acceptance for honour.

An acceptor supra protest must personally appear before a notary public with two or more witnesses, and declare that he accepts, under protest, the protested bill for the honour of the drawer or of a particular indorser whom he names, or generally for honour, and that he will satisfy the same at the appointed time; and then must subscribe the bill with his own hand.

Unless the person who intends to accept supra protest first declares, in the presence of a notary, that he does it for honour, and has such declaration duly recorded in the notarial register at the time, his acceptance shall be a nullity.

New.

109. A person desiring to accept for honour must, in the presence of a notary public, subscribe the bill with his own hand, and declare that he accepts under protest the protested bill for the honour of the drawer or of a particular indorser whom he names, or generally for honour; and such declaration must be recorded by the notary in his register.

How acceptance for honour must be made.

Draft, s. 75: Bill II, s. 132: Bill III, s. 119: Byles 263, 266.

110. Where the acceptance does not express for whose honour it is made, it shall be deemed to be made for the honour of the drawer.

Acceptance not specifying for whose honour it is made.

Draft, s. 77: Bill II, s. 133: Bill III, s. 120: Byles 267.

111. An acceptor for honour binds himself to all parties subsequent to the party for whose honour he accepts to pay the amount of the bill if the drawee do not; and such party and all prior parties are liable in their respective capacities to compensate the acceptor for honour for all loss or damage sustained by him in consequence of such acceptance.

Liability of acceptor for honour.

Byles 268.

Draft, s. 845: Byles 266: Act VI of 1840, s. 3.

But an acceptor for honour is not liable to the holder of the bill unless it is presented, or (in case the address given by such acceptor on the bill is a place other than the place where the bill is made payable) forwarded for presentment, not later than the day next after the day of its maturity.

Draft, s. 95: Bill II, s. 134: Bill III, s. 121.

112. When acceptor for honour may be charged. An acceptor for honour cannot be charged unless the bill has at its maturity been presented to the drawee for payment and has been dishonoured by him, and noted or protested for such dishonour.

Draft, s. 96: Bill II, s. 135: Bill III, s. 122: Byles 270.

113. Payment for honour. When a bill of exchange has been noted or protested for non-payment, any person may pay the same for the honour of any party liable to pay the same, provided that the person so paying has previously declared before a notary public the party for whose honour he pays, and that such declaration has been recorded by such notary public.

Draft, s. 97: Bill II, s. 136: Bill III, s. 123: Byles 271. In re Overend, Gurney & Co., L. R. 6, Eq. 344.

114. Right of payer for honour. Any person so paying is entitled to all the rights, in respect of the bill, of the holder at the time of such payment, and may recover from the party for whose honour he pays all sums so paid, with interest thereon and with all expenses properly incurred in making such payment.

Draft, s. 73: Bill II, s. 138: Bill III, s. 127: Byles 266.

115. Drawee in case of need. Where a drawee in case of need is named in a bill of exchange, or in any endorsement thereon, the bill is not dishonoured until it has been dishonoured by such drawee.

116. Acceptance and payment without protest. A drawee in case of need may accept and pay the bill of exchange without previous protest.

CHAPTER XII.

OF COMPENSATION.

Bill II, s. 137: Bill III, s. 124.

117. Rules as to compensation. The compensation payable in case of dishonour of a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque, by any party liable to the holder or any indorsee, shall (except in cases provided for by the Code of Civil Procedure, section 532) be determined by the following rules:—

Draft, s. 65: Byles 415.

(a) The holder is entitled to the amount due upon the instrument, together with the expenses properly incurred in presenting, noting and protesting it;

(b) When the person charged resides at a place different from that at which the instrument was payable, the holder is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places;

(c) An indorser who, being liable, has paid the amount due on the same is entitled to the amount so paid with interest at six per centum per annum from the date of payment until tender or realization thereof, together with all expenses caused by the dishonour and payment;

(d) When the person charged and such indorser reside at different places, the indorser is entitled to receive such sum at the current rate of exchange between the two places;

(e) The party entitled to compensation may draw a bill upon the party liable to compensate him, payable at sight or on demand, for the amount due to him together with all expenses properly incurred by him. Such bill must be accompanied by the instrument dishonoured and the protest thereof (if any). If such bill is dishonoured, the party dishonouring the same is liable to make compensation thereof in the same manner as in the case of the original bill.

CHAPTER XIII.

SPECIAL RULES OF EVIDENCE.

Draft, s. 12: Bill II, s. 27. Bill III, s. 26: Byles 3, 119.

118. Presumptions as to negotiable instruments. Until the contrary is proved, the following presumptions shall be made:—

(a) of consideration; that every negotiable instrument was made or drawn for consideration, and that every such instrument, when it has been accepted, indorsed, negotiated or transferred, was accepted, indorsed, negotiated or transferred for consideration:

(b) as to date; that every negotiable instrument bearing a date was made or drawn on such date:

Byles 190.

(c) as to time of acceptance; that every accepted bill of exchange was accepted within a reasonable time after its date and before its maturity:

Byles 170.

(d) as to time of transfer; that every transfer of a negotiable instrument was made before its maturity:

Draft, s. 37.

(e) as to order of endorsements; that the endorsements appearing upon a negotiable instrument were made in the order in which they appear thereon:

Byles 117, 382.

(f) as to stamp; that a lost promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque was duly stamped:

Draft, s. 12: Byles 122.

(g) that holder is a holder in due course; that the holder of a negotiable instrument is a holder in due course: provided that where the instrument has been obtained from its lawful owner, or from any person in lawful custody thereof, by means of an offence or fraud, or has been obtained from the maker or acceptor thereof by means of an offence or fraud, or for unlawful consideration, the burthen of proving that the holder is a holder in due course lies upon him.

Draft, ss. 121, 123: Act V of 1866, s. 13.

119. Presumption on proof of protest. In a suit upon an instrument, which has been dishonoured, the Court shall, on proof of the protest, presume the fact of dishonour, unless and until such fact is disproved.

Bill II, s. 54: Bill III, s. 44: Phillips v. Im Thurn 18, C. B., N. S. 694.

120. Estoppel against denying original validity of instrument. No maker of a promissory note, and no drawer of a bill of exchange or cheque, and no acceptor of a bill of exchange for the honour of the drawer shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the validity of the instrument as originally made or drawn

Bill II, s. 56: Bill III, s. 45: Byles 200.

121. Estoppel against denying capacity of payee to indorse. No maker of a promissory note and no acceptor of a bill of exchange payable to, or to the order of, a specified person shall, in a suit thereon by a holder in due course, be permitted to deny the payee's capacity, at the date of the note or bill, to indorse the same.

Draft, s. 35: Bill II, s. 57: Bill III, s. 46: Byles 153. See Byles 222, n. (i).

122. Estoppel against denying signature or capacity of prior party. No indorser of a negotiable instrument shall, in a suit thereon by a subsequent holder, be permitted to deny the signature or capacity to contract of any prior party to the instrument.

CHAPTER XIV.

OF CROSSED CHEQUES.

Bill II, s. 30: Bill III, s. 129: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 4.

123. Cheque crossed generally. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the words "and company" or any abbreviation thereof, between two parallel transverse lines, or of two parallel transverse lines simply, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed generally.

Bill II, s. 31: Bill III, s. 130: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 4.

124. Cheque crossed specially. Where a cheque bears across its face an addition of the name of a banker, either with or without the words "not negotiable," that addition shall be deemed a crossing, and the cheque shall be deemed to be crossed specially, and to be crossed to that banker.

Bill II, s. 32: Bill III, s. 131: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 5.

125. Crossing after issue. Where a cheque is uncrossed, the holder may cross it generally or specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally, the holder may cross it specially.

Where a cheque is crossed generally or specially, the holder may add the words "not negotiable."

Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker to whom it is crossed may again cross it specially to another banker, his agent, for collection.

Draft, ss. 102, 103: Bill II, s. 33: Bill III, s. 132: 39 & 40 Vic., c. 81, s. 7.

126. Payment of cheque crossed generally. Where a cheque is crossed generally, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to a banker.

Payment of cheque crossed specially. Where a cheque is crossed specially, the banker on whom it is drawn shall not pay it otherwise than to the banker to whom it is crossed, or his agent for collection.

Bill II, s. 34: Bill III, s. 133: S. 8.

127. Payment of cheque crossed specially more than once. Where a cheque is crossed specially to more than one banker, except when crossed to an agent for the purpose of collection, the banker on whom it is drawn shall refuse payment thereof.

Bill II, s. 35: Bill III, s. 134: S. 9.

128. Payment in due course of crossed cheque. Where the banker on whom a crossed cheque is drawn has paid the same in due course, the banker paying the cheque, and (in case such cheque has come to the hands of the payee) the drawer thereof, shall respectively be entitled to the same rights, and be placed in the same position in all respects, as they would respectively be entitled to and placed in if the amount of the cheque had been paid to and received by the true owner thereof.

Bill II, s. 36: Bill III, s. 135: S. 5.

129. Payment of crossed cheque out of due course. Any banker paying a cheque crossed generally otherwise than to a banker, or a cheque crossed specially otherwise than to the banker to whom the same is crossed, or his agent for collection, being a banker, shall be liable to the true owner of the cheque for any loss he may sustain owing to the cheque having been so paid.

Bill II, s. 37. Bill III, s. 136: S. 12.

130. Cheque bearing "not negotiable." A person taking a cheque crossed generally or specially, bearing in either case the words "not negotiable," shall not have, and shall not be capable of giving, a better title to the cheque than that which the person from whom he took it had.

48 L. J. C. P. 529.

131. Non-liability of banker receiving payment of cheque. A banker who has in good faith and without negligence received payment for a customer of a cheque crossed generally or specially to himself shall not, in case the title to the cheque proves defective, incur any liability to the true owner of the cheque by reason only of having received such payment.

CHAPTER XV.

OF BILLS IN SETS.

Draft, ss. 11, 116: Bill II, s. 28: Bill III, s. 125: S. 5.

132. Set of bills. Bills of exchange may be drawn in parts, each part being numbered and containing a provision that it shall continue payable only so long as the others remain unpaid. All the parts together make a set; but the whole set constitutes only one bill, and is extinguished when one of the parts, if a separate bill, would be extinguished.

Byles 92: Hall v. Cockrill, 1 Moo. P. C. C. 329.

Exception.—When a person accepts or indorses different parts of the bill in favour of different persons, he and the subsequent indorsers of each part are liable on such part as if it were a separate bill.

Bill II, s. 29: Bill III, s. 126: Byles 391: Bayley 30, 171.

133. Holder of first acquired part entitled to all. As between holders in due course of different parts of the same set, he who first acquired title to his part is entitled to the other parts and the money represented by the bill.

CHAPTER XVI.

OF INTERNATIONAL LAW.

Draft, s. 104: Bill II, s. 140 Bill III, s. 137: Byles 399: Ecuquette v. Overmann, L. R. 10 Q. B. 525: Horne v. Rouquette, 3 Q. B. Div. 514.

134. Law governing liability of maker, acceptor or indorser of foreign instrument. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the liability of the maker or drawer of a foreign promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is regulated in all essential matters by the law of the place where he made the instrument, and the respective liabilities of the acceptor and indorser by the law of the place where the instrument is made payable.

Illustration.

Byles 402. A bill of exchange was drawn by A in California, where the rate of interest is 25 per cent., and accepted by B, payable in Washington, where the rate of interest is 6 per cent. The bill is endorsed in British India, and is dishonoured. An action on the bill is brought against B in British India. He is liable to pay interest at the rate of 6 per cent. only; but if A is charged as drawer, A is liable to pay interest at the rate of 25 per cent.

Draft, s. 105: Bill II, s. 141: Bill III, s. 138.

135. Where a promissory note, bill of exchange or cheque is made payable in a different place from that in which it is made or indorsed, the law of the place where it is made payable determines what constitutes dishonour and what notice of dishonour is sufficient.

Law of place of payment governs dishonour.

Illustration.

A bill of exchange drawn and indorsed in British India, but accepted payable in France, is dishonoured. The indorsee causes it to be protested for such dishonour, and gives notice thereof in accordance with the law of France, though not in accordance with the rules herein contained in respect of bills which are not foreign. The notice is sufficient.

Draft, s. 106: Bill II, s. 142: Bill III, s. 139.

136. If a negotiable instrument is made, drawn, accepted or indorsed out of British India, but in accordance with the law of British India, the circumstance that any agreement evidenced by such instrument is invalid according to the law of the country wherein it was entered into does not invalidate any subsequent acceptance or endorsement made thereon in British India.

Instrument made, &c., out of British India, but in accordance with its law.

Draft, s. 107: Bill II, s. 143: Bill III, s. 140: Act I of 1872, s. 4.

137. The law of any foreign country regarding promissory notes, bills of exchange and cheques shall be presumed to be the same as that of British India, unless and until the contrary is proved.

Presumption as to foreign law.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 28th January, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 3 OF 1881.

A Bill for the amendment of the law relating to Insolvent Debtors in India.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to Insolvent Debtors in India; It is enacted as follows :— Preamble.

1. This Act may be called "The Insolvent Law Amendment Act, 1881:" Short title.

it extends to the whole of British India; and Local extent.

it shall come into force on the first day of April 1881. Commencement.

2. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,— Interpretation-clause.

the word "Insolvent" means a person of whose property a receiver has been appointed under the Code of Civil Procedure, section 351, a person upon whose petition a vesting order has been made under the seventh section of the eleventh and twelfth of Victoria, Chapter XXI, entitled an Act to consolidate and amend the laws relating to Insolvent Debtors in India, and a person who has been adjudged to have committed an act of insolvency under the provisions of section eight or under the provisions of the ninth section of the same Act: "Insolvent."

the word "adjudication" means the order under the said section 351 of the said Code appointing a receiver, a vesting order under the said seventh section of the said Act, and an order under the said eighth section or under the said ninth section of the said Act adjudging any person to have committed an act of insolvency; and "Adjudication."

the word "assignee" means the person in whom the property of any Insolvent has been vested by the adjudication of such Insolvent. "Assignee."

3. If, at the time of the adjudication of any insolvent, any of his property has been attached in execution of any decree or under any order for attachment before judgment, the Court, under whose order such property has been attached, shall withdraw the attachment and permit his assignee to take possession of the same. Attached property of insolvent.

If, before the Court has had notice of such insolvency, the attached property has been sold, the proceeds of the sale, after deducting the costs of the attachment and sale and all other necessary costs incurred in and about the realization of such proceeds, shall be paid to the assignee of such insolvent:

Provided, that in case the Court has not had notice of the adjudication of such insolvent, before such proceeds are distributed, the same shall not, merely on account of such adjudication, be recalled from the persons to whom they have been paid.

When the Court withdraws the attachment, it may, if it think fit, direct that the proper and necessary costs of the attachment and of the preservation of the property attached shall be charged upon the proceeds of such property; and if such order be made, the assignee shall apply the proceeds of such sale in payment of such costs after payment of the costs of such sale, but in priority to payment of all debts of the insolvent payable out of such proceeds.

4. No property which, under the provisions of the twenty-third section of the said Act would be deemed to be the property of such insolvent, shall be held to have been taken out of his order and disposition by reason only that such property has, before the adjudication of such insolvent, been attached in execution of a decree or under any order for an attachment before judgment. Order and disposition. Attachment not to alter.

5. Whenever any persons trading in partnership together have, by the consent and permission of the true owner thereof, in their possession, order or disposition, goods or chattels whereof such persons are reputed owners, or whereof they have taken upon them the sale, alteration or disposition as owner, and while they have such possession, order or disposition, any of such persons is, under the provisions of the said Act, adjudicated an insolvent, or obtains a vesting order on his petition, such goods and chattels shall be deemed to be the property of such partnership so as to become vested in the Official Assignee of the Insolvent Court by the order made in pursuance of the said Act for the purpose only, and so far as may be required, for the purpose of paying the joint creditors of the said partnership. Order and disposition of Firms whose owner becomes Insolvent.

6. Whenever any person who carries on trade within the local limits of the Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction of any of the Transfer of insolvencies from Mufassal Courts.

High Courts at Calcutta, Madras or Bombay is, under the provisions of section 351 of the Code of Civil Procedure, declared to be an insolvent, the Insolvent Court in any of the said towns in which he may carry on business at the time he is so declared to be an insolvent, may, if it think fit, on the application of any creditor of such trader, adjudge him to have committed an act of insolvency:

such adjudication shall have the same force and effect as if he had, under the provisions of the eighth section of the said Act, been adjudicated an insolvent by such Court, at the time when he was declared to be an insolvent under the provisions of the said Code;

and all the estate and effects of such insolvent shall, unless the said Court otherwise directs, vest in the Official Assignee of such Court, and any person appointed receiver under the provisions of the said Code shall, unless such Court otherwise directs, thereupon make over to the Official Assignee all the property of the insolvent which may have come to his hands as such receiver:

Provided that no such adjudication shall avoid, or in any way affect, any dealing of such receiver with any of such property before he has notice of such adjudication.

Distribution of unclaimed dividends.

7. The assignee of each insolvent estate shall, on the expiration of six months from the declaration of any dividend, file in Court an account upon oath of every dividend remaining in his hands unclaimed, specifying the name of each creditor to whom each such dividend is due, as well as the amount of the debt due to each such creditor, and shall publish the same in the numbers of the local Gazette as are first and second successively printed next after such six months, and all dividends remaining unclaimed for a period of six years shall, after the second of such advertisements, revert to the general fund of each respective estate for re-distribution by the Official Assignee among the remaining creditors of such estate.

All such unclaimed dividends shall remain under the control and management of the Official Assignee pending payment and distribution in such manner as shall be prescribed and furnished by any rules to be made under the powers conferred by section seventy-six of the said Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Indian Insolvent Acts, following the analogy of the law of Bankruptcy in England at the time of the first of these Acts being passed, contained no provision for compelling the property of an insolvent, which had been attached in execution before his adjudication, to be distributed among the general body of his creditors. The later English Bankrupt Acts, however, provide for the distribution amongst the bankruptcy creditors of the proceeds of the execution if a petition be filed within fourteen days after the sale; thus securing, as far as possible, equality among creditors, a purpose which the Civil Procedure Code has generally in view; and one of the objects of this Bill is to give that equality of distribution, wherever the property attached has not actually been distributed among the attaching creditors.

The only power which the Insolvent Court now has to stay proceedings in execution does not arise till the Insolvent's schedule has been filed, and in the cases where the insolvent is friendly to the execution creditor, the filing of the schedule is invariably delayed for the purpose of giving him an advantage.

Further, the Code empowers Courts to attach the property of a defendant in cases where there is reason to believe that he is likely to make away with that property in fraud of the plaintiff. Under the language of the old Civil Procedure Code it was held that property so attached before judgment vested in the Official Assignee of the defendant, and was assets of his estate giving no preferential claim to the attaching creditor, but it has been successfully contended that the effect of the new Code, section 490, is to give to a creditor attaching before judgment priority over the assignee, even though the adjudication were before judgment obtained by the attaching creditor.

The third section of the Bill is intended to provide for the rateable distribution of the insolvent's property amongst his creditors in cases where the modern English law would so distribute it, instead of allowing one creditor to sweep away the whole or a large portion of the assets.

From a very early period the Bankruptcy law of England provided that persons who, by leaving goods in the hands of traders, enabled them to maintain a false appearance of wealth and thus obtain credit, could not claim such goods from the assignee of the bankrupt, and this provision was introduced into this country by the Insolvent Act. There was nothing, however, to give similar rights to execution-creditors, and therefore this anomaly occurred that, where an attachment was laid on goods in the hands of a person who became insolvent, the custody of the law took the goods out of the order and disposition of the bankrupt, so that a subsequent adjudication did not vest the goods in the assignee, but the attaching creditor was not able to treat the ostensible ownership of the judgment-debtor as giving him any claims. It is not easy to see any sound basis for this distinction, the injurious influence of which is, to some extent, obviated in England by the Bills of Sale Act. The fourth section is intended to avoid this anomaly.

Down to a very recent period it was generally supposed that where moveable property was in the possession and ostensible ownership of a partnership a member of which became bankrupt, the provisions of the Bankrupt Law vested such property in the assignee; it was however decided in ex parte Dorman L. R. 8 Ch., App. 51, that such was not the effect of the language of the Acts upon the ground that it could not be the intention of the Statute to give such rights where the other partners were solvent. The Appellate Court however was of opinion that where the firm is in fact insolvent, the case comes within the mischief against which the order and disposition clause is intended to provide, and in this country it has been decided that the existence of an absent partner does not prevent the provisions of that clause attaching. The fifth section is intended to apply the order and disposition-clause to such cases as fall within the mischief which it is intended to prevent.

Much of the trade of the Presidency-towns is carried on by Gumáshtas on behalf of persons residing in remote parts of the Mufassal, and in many cases, if such traders became insolvent, they might be able, by taking advantage of the insolvency proceedings in the Procedure Code,* to embarrass their general trade-creditors who would have much difficulty in supervising the proceedings in a Mufassal Court. The sixth section is intended to enable the creditors of such persons to have the liquidation of their affairs transferred to a Court with machinery better organised for the administration of bankrupt estates in cases where such a course is deemed by the Court to be expedient.

Sums in the aggregate considerable, though, in general, individually small, are from time to time left unclaimed in the hands of the official assignee, and so long ago as 1841 an Act was passed empowering the official assignee after the lapse of six years to distribute the amount of such unclaimed dividends rateably among the creditors who had proved the claims.

The language of this Act, however, was so singularly framed that it seems impossible that there ever could be a distribution made of such unclaimed dividends. The seventh section is intended to correct this.

* It was found some years ago in England that similar powers given to Scotch Courts were applied to the detriment of English creditors, and a modification of the Scotch Law was enacted to prevent its application to persons whose creditors were principally in another part of the United Kingdom, see 23 & 24 Vic., c. 33.

[First Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 18th February, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 4 OF 1881.

A Bill to provide for recording evidence taken by the High Courts in the exercise of their original civil jurisdiction.

WHEREAS it is expedient to provide for the due record of evidence taken by the High Courts in the exercise of their original civil jurisdiction; It is enacted that the Chief Justice of each of the High Courts shall, from time to time, until rules for taking evidence in such Court shall have been made under section 633 of the Civil Procedure Code, appoint some person in each division of the Court exercising original civil jurisdiction to record the evidence taken in such division; and the person so to be appointed shall take down the evidence of each witness in English in the words in which the same is delivered, or, if it be not delivered in English, as interpreted, not ordinarily in the form of question and answer, but in that of a narrative; and when such record is completed the same shall be read over to the witness, and, if necessary, interpreted to him; and the witness may correct his deposition and shall sign it.

The Judge may make a memorandum of such parts of the evidence as he thinks material, and such memorandum may, if the Judge thinks fit, be annexed to and form part of the record.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IN the High Court in Calcutta no rules for taking evidence have been framed under the provisions of section 633 of the Civil Procedure Code, but in that Court, as well as in the High Court at Madras, the practice has been to have the evidence recorded in the manner provided in this Bill. As, however, this practice was not sanctioned by any express rule or enactment, one or two Judges have thought themselves justified in disregarding it. This has been found inconvenient, tending to cause great delay in the trial of causes, creating difficulty in proof of perjury and depriving the appellate Court of a complete report of the evidence given in the original Court.

The object of the Bill is to give a legal sanction to the practice heretofore prevailing, until the Judges shall see fit to make rules providing some other mode of recording the evidence.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th March, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 5 OF 1881.

A Bill to amend the Indian Penal Code.

FOR the purpose of amending the Indian Penal Code; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

1. In the second clause of section 40 of the said Code, before the figure "109," the figures "65, 66, 71" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 40, clause 2, of Indian Penal Code.

2. In section 64 of the said Code, for the first twelve words, the following shall be substituted, namely :—

Amendment of section 64 of same Code.

"In every case punishable under any law in force for the time being, with imprisonment as well as fine, in which the offender is sentenced to a fine, whether with or without imprisonment, and in every case punishable under this Code with fine only, in which the offender is sentenced to a fine,"

3. In section 67, after the words "fine only," the words "the imprisonment which the Court imposes in default of payment of the fine shall be simple, and" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 67 of same Code.

4. To section 71 of the said Code, the following clause shall be added :—

Addition to section 71 of same Code.

"Where anything is an offence falling within two or more separate definitions of any law in force for the time being by which offences are defined or punished, the offender shall not be punished with a more severe punishment than the Court which tries him could award for any one of such offences."

5. In section 214 of the said Code, for the Exception, the following shall be substituted, namely :—

New Exception to section 214 of same Code.

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

6. In section 435 of the said Code, after the words "or upwards" the following words shall be inserted, namely :—

Addition to section 435 of same Code.

"or (where the property is agricultural produce) ten rupees or upwards."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to make six amendments of the Indian Penal Code.

The first is to render the word "offence," as used in sections 65, 66 and 71 (as amended by this Bill), applicable to things punishable under the Code or any special or local law.

The second is to render section 64 (as to sentence of imprisonment on default of payment of fine) applicable to convictions under special and local laws in case of offences punishable both with imprisonment and fine. It corresponds with the first clause of section 309 of Act X of 1872, which will be repealed by the new Code of Criminal Procedure.

The third is to declare that, when an offence is punishable with fine only, the imprisonment in default of payment of the fine shall be simple: this is in accordance with a decision of the Bombay High Court (5 Bom. C. C. 55).

The fourth is to declare, by an addition to section 71, that, when anything is an offence falling within two or more separate definitions, the offender shall not be punished with a more severe punishment than the Court which tries him could award for any one of such offences. This corresponds with the latter part of the second clause of section 454 of the present Code of Criminal Procedure; but it is clearly matter of substantive law, and should therefore be placed in the Penal Code.

The fifth is to replace the obscure Exception which now stands in section 214 by the following :—

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

This will be read with section 345 of the new Code of Criminal Procedure, which declares that certain specified offences, and no others, may be compounded.

The sixth is to render the offence of committing mischief by fire, intending to cause damage to agricultural produce worth ten rupees or upwards, cognizable by the police and punishable with the severer penalty provided by section 435 of the Code. As the law stands, mischief by fire is cognizable only when committed with intent to cause damage to the amount of Rs. 100 or upwards. But agricultural holdings are generally so small that the total produce of a holding is often less than Rs. 100. The result is that a raiyat may have garnered his crop and lose the whole of it through the act of an incendiary, and yet the offence is only punishable with three months' imprisonment and fine, and may not be investigated by the police without the special order of a Magistrate.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to investigations into casualties affecting ships and charges against masters, mates and engineers; Preamble.

and whereas it is also expedient to provide, in other respects hereinafter appearing, for the regulation and control of merchant shipping;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1881;"

Extent. It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement. and it shall come into force at once.

Repeal of enactments. 2. The Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875, and Act No. XIII of 1878 (An Act to provide for the recovery in British India of wages due to, and expenses incurred in respect of, certain seamen and apprentices, and to amend the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875, and the Indian Ports Act, 1875), are hereby repealed.

But all proceedings commenced, officers appointed, powers conferred, investigations held, certificates cancelled or suspended, agreements made and persons authorized under the said Acts or either of them, shall be deemed to have been respectively commenced, appointed, conferred, held, cancelled or suspended, made and authorized under this Act.

Interpretation-clause. 3. In this Act

Definition of ship: "ship" includes every description of vessel used in navigation not propelled by oars; and

"master." "master" means any person (except a pilot or harbour-master) having for the time being control or charge of a ship.

Cf. Act IV of 1875, s. 23: Act XV of 1868, s. 10: Act XXVIII of 1861, s. 3. Saving of powers of certain Admiralty Courts. 4. Nothing in this Act affects the powers conferred by section two hundred and forty of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by section eighty of Act No. I of 1859 (for the amendment of the law relating to Merchant Shipping), on Courts having admiralty jurisdiction in India.

Exercise of such powers by principal criminal Courts. The powers conferred by the last-mentioned enactment may, at any port in British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, be exercised by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction.

CHAPTER II.

INVESTIGATIONS INTO CASUALTIES AFFECTING SHIPS, AND CHARGES AGAINST MASTERS, MATES OR ENGINEERS.

See Act XIII of 1878, s. 4. Chapter not to apply to certain ships. 5. Nothing in this chapter shall be deemed to apply to any ship belonging to, or in the service of, Her Majesty or belonging to any foreign Prince or State.

Report of casualties to be made to Local Government. 6. Whenever any Magistrate, or any officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf, receives credible information that— See Act IV of 1875, s. 3, and section 81 of the Bill which afterwards became Act VII of 1880.

(a) any ship has been lost, abandoned, stranded or damaged on or near the coasts of British India; or

(b) by reason of any casualty happening to or on board of any ship on or near such coasts, loss of life has ensued; or

(c) any ship has caused loss or damage to any other ship on or near such coasts; or

(d) any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has happened elsewhere, and any competent witnesses thereof have arrived or are to be found at any place in British India; or

(e) any ship is supposed to have been lost, and any evidence can be obtained in British India as to the circumstances under which she proceeded to sea or was last heard of;

he shall forthwith report in writing such information to the Local Government.

In the cases mentioned in clauses (a), (b) and (c), the master, pilot, harbour-master or other person in charge of the ship or (where two ships are concerned) in charge of each ship, at the time of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty, and in cases under clause (d), where the ship concerned proceeds direct from the place where such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has occurred to any place in British India, the master of such ship at the time she arrives at such place, shall, on arriving in British India, give immediate notice of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty to the nearest Magistrate, or, when he arrives at a port, to the officer appointed at such port as aforesaid.

Any person bound to give notice under this section and wilfully failing to give the same shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and, in default of payment, to simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months.

Power to appoint special Court of Enquiry. 7. If in any such case a formal investigation into the facts mentioned in section six, clause (a), (b), (c), (d) or (e), appears to the Local Government to be requisite or expedient, the Local Government (whether such notice be given or not) may appoint a special Court, consisting of not less than two nor more than four persons, and direct such Court to make such investigation, and may fix the place for making the same. See Act IV of 1875, s. 4.

One of such persons shall be a Magistrate acting in or near the place where the investigation is made; another shall be some person conversant with maritime affairs. The other or others (if any) shall be conversant with either maritime or mercantile affairs.

Other Courts authorized to investigate casualties. 8. Every Court having admiralty jurisdiction in British India, and the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction at every port of British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, is hereby authorized, when so directed by the Local Government, to make the investigations referred to in section seven. See Act IV of 1875, s. 5.

Power to inquire into charges against masters, mates and engineers. 9. Any Court making an investigation under section seven or section eight may inquire into any charge of incompetency or misconduct arising, in the course of such investigation, against any master, mate or engineer holding a certificate granted, under any enactment for the time being in force, by the Board of Trade or a Local Government, as well as into any charge of a wrongful act or default on his part causing any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty as aforesaid.

In every case in which there is reason to believe that any such charge, whether of incompetency or misconduct, or of a wrongful act or default, as aforesaid, will arise against any such master, mate or engineer in the course of an investigation, the Court shall, if practicable, before the commencement of such investigation, cause to be furnished to him a copy of the report upon which such investigation has been directed.

Cf. s. 6 of Act IV of 1875. Also s. 241 of 17 & 18 Vic., c. 104. Local Government may direct investigation in cases of incompetency or misconduct. 10. If the Local Government has reason to believe that there are grounds for charging any such master, mate or engineer with incompetency or misconduct, otherwise than in the course of an investigation under section seven or section eight, it may transmit a statement of the case to any Court mentioned in section eight, at or nearest to the place at which it may be convenient for the parties and witnesses to attend, and may direct such Court to make an investigation into such charge.

Cf. Act IV of 1875, s. 7. Before commencing such investigation, the Court shall cause the master, mate or engineer so charged to be furnished with a copy of the statement so transmitted by the Local Government.

Act IV of 1875, s. 10. Person accused to be heard. 11. For the purpose of an investigation under this chapter into any charge against a master, mate or engineer, the Court may summon him to appear, and shall give him full opportunity of making a defence either in person or otherwise.

Cf. Act IV of 1875, s. 8. Powers of Courts as to evidence and regulating proceedings. 12. For the purpose of any investigation under this chapter, the Court making the investigation, so far as relates to compelling the attendance and examination of witnesses and the production of documents and the regulation of the proceedings, shall have—

(a) if such Court is a special Court—the same powers as are exerciseable by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction for the place at which the investigation is made;

(b) if such Court is a Court having admiralty jurisdiction or a principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction—the same powers as are exerciseable by such Court in the exercise of such admiralty or criminal jurisdiction (as the case may be).

Assessors. And every Court making any such investigation, other than a special Court, may, if it think fit, constitute as its assessor, for the purposes of the investigation, any person conversant with maritime affairs and willing to act as such assessor.

Such person shall attend during the investigation and deliver his opinion in writing, to be recorded on the proceedings. But the exercise of all powers conferred on the Court by this Act or any other enactment for the time being in force shall rest with the Court.

Act IV of 1875, s. 15. Power to arrest witnesses and cause entry and detention of vessels. 13. If any Court making an investigation under this chapter thinks it necessary for obtaining evidence that any person should be arrested, it may issue a warrant for his arrest, and may, for the purpose of effecting such arrest, authorize any officer (subject, nevertheless, to any general or special instructions from the Local Government) to enter any vessel.

Any officer so authorized may, for the purpose of enforcing such entry, call to his aid any officers of police or customs, or any other persons, and may seize and detain the vessel for such time as is reasonably necessary to effect the arrest; and every such officer or other person shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, section 186.

No person shall be detained by virtue of this section for more than forty-eight hours.

Act IV of 1875, s. 1. Power to commit for trial. 14. Whenever, in the course of any such investigation, it appears that any person has committed an offence punishable under any law in force in British India, the Court making the investigation may (subject to such rules consistent with this Act as the High Court may from time to time prescribe) cause him to be arrested, or commit him or hold him to bail to take his trial before the proper Court; and may bind over

Power to bind over persons to give evidence. any person to give evidence at such trial, and may, for the purposes of this section, exercise all the powers of a Magistrate of the first class or of a Presidency Magistrate:

Depositions. And whenever in the course of such trial the testimony of any witness is required in relation to the subject-matter, any deposition previously made by him in relation to the same subject-matter before any Court making an investigation under this chapter shall, if authenticated by the signature of the Magistrate or presiding Judge, be admissible in evidence on proof—

(a) that the witness cannot be found within the jurisdiction of the Court before which the trial is held; and

(b) that it was made in the presence of the person accused.

A certificate by the Magistrate or presiding Judge that the deposition was made in the presence of the accused shall, unless the contrary be proved, be sufficient evidence that it was so made.

Cf. Act IV of 1875, ss. 11 and 12. Report by Court to Local Government. 15. The Court shall, in the case of all investigations under this chapter, transmit to the Local Government a full report of the conclusions at which it has arrived, together with the evidence.

In cases in which, under the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, the Court is required to send a report to the Board of Trade, such report shall be sent through the Local Government, and the submission of such report to the Local Government shall be a sufficient compliance with this section.

CHAPTER III.

SUSPENSION AND CANCELLATION OF CERTIFICATES AND GRANT OF FRESH CERTIFICATES.

16. Nothing herein contained shall affect the powers conferred by the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, on the Courts conducting investigations under sections seven, eight, nine and ten of this Act, to cancel or suspend certificates granted under any of the said Merchant Shipping Acts, or certificates to which the provisions of any such Act have been made applicable under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869.

Saving of power to cancel and suspend certificates under English Acts.

When any such Court cancels or suspends any such certificate, it may, in its report to the Local Government, advise such Government to grant, without examination, to the holder of such certificate, when such certificate is a certificate as master, a certificate as master or mate; and, when such certificate is a certificate as mate or engineer, a certificate as mate or engineer, as the case may be; and such Local Government, if it thinks fit, and if it is empowered by any enactment of a British Indian legislature for the time being in force to grant such certificate, may grant it under such enactment, but without examination. A certificate so granted shall, except for the purposes of the said Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 18.

17. Any certificate (whether of competency or service) which has been granted by any Local Government, to any master, mate or engineer, and to which the provisions of the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, do not apply, may be suspended or cancelled, by that or any other Local Government, in the following cases, that is to say:—

Local Government may suspend or cancel certain certificates—

(a) if, upon any investigation made under this Act, the Court reports that the loss, stranding or abandonment of, or damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default, or that he is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of drunkenness, tyranny or other misconduct;

after investigation under this Act:

(b) if, upon any investigation made under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, or upon any investigation made by any Court or tribunal for the time being authorized by the legislative authority in any British possession to make enquiry into charges of incompetency or misconduct on the part of masters, mates or engineers of ships, or as to shipwrecks or other casualties affecting ships, the Court or tribunal reports that such master, mate or engineer is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of misconduct, drunkenness or tyranny, or that the loss, stranding or abandonment of, or damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default;

after investigation under other Acts:

(c) if he is proved to have been convicted of any offence which, if committed in British India, would be non-bailable, or, if committed in England, would be a felony: and after conviction of any offence: Act IV of 1875, s. 18, cl. (d).

(d) if (in the case of a master) he has been superseded by the order of any Admiralty Court, or of any Naval Court constituted as provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by any other law for the time being in force:

after supersession.

Provided that, in any case in which an investigation has been made into a charge against any master, mate or engineer, no certificate shall be suspended or cancelled under clause (a) unless the Local Government is satisfied that the holder of the certificate has been furnished before the commencement of the investigation with the copy of the report or statement required by section nine or section ten, as the case may be.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 18.

18. Every master, mate or engineer whose certificate is cancelled or suspended under section seventeen shall deliver it to the Shipping Master, or to such other person as the Local Government which cancelled or suspended the certificate directs, and in default of such delivery shall, for each offence, be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Master, &c., to deliver up certificate.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 20.

19. If the Local Government which cancels or suspends, under section seventeen, a certificate of a master, mate or engineer is not the Local Government that granted the same, the Local Government so cancelling or suspending the certificate shall report the proceedings, and the fact of cancelment or suspension, to the Local Government which granted such certificate.

Report to other Local Governments.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 21.

20. Every Local Government cancelling or suspending under section seventeen the certificate of a master, mate or engineer shall, as soon as may be practicable, report to the Board of Trade the fact of such cancellation or suspension.

Report to Board of Trade.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 22.

21. Any Local Government may at any time revoke any order of cancelment or suspension which it may have made under section seventeen, or grant, without examination, to any person, whose certificate it has so cancelled, a new certificate of the same or of any lower grade.

Power to revoke cancellation or suspension.

Power to grant new certificate.

A certificate so granted shall, except for the purposes of the said Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination.

A certificate of competency for a Home-trade ship under the said Act No. I of 1859 shall be deemed, for the purposes of this section, to be of a lower grade than a certificate of competency for a foreign-going ship under the same Act.

Every revocation and every grant under this section shall, as soon as may be practicable, be reported to the Board of Trade.

CHAPTER IV.

AGREEMENTS WITH SEAMEN.

Act IV of 1875, s. 28.

22. This chapter shall be read with, and taken as part of, the said Act No. I of 1859.

Chapter to be read with Act I of 1859.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 24.

23. The master of every ship, except ships of a burden not exceeding three hundred tons employed only in the Home-trade, shall enter into an agreement with every seaman whom he carries to sea from any port in British India as one of his crew, in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

Masters to enter into agreements with seamen.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 25.

24. Every such agreement shall be in a form sanctioned by the Governor General in Council, and shall be dated at the time of the first signature thereof, and shall be signed by the master before any seaman signs the same, and shall contain the following particulars as terms thereof, that is to say:—

Form and contents of agreement.

(a) either the nature and, as far as practicable, the duration of the intended voyage or engagement, or the maximum period of the voyage or engagement, and the places or parts of the world, if any, to which the voyage or engagement is not to extend;

(b) the number and description of the crew, specifying how many are engaged as sailors;

(c) the time at which each seaman is to be on board or to begin work;

(d) the capacity in which each seaman is to serve;

(e) the amount of wages which each seaman is to receive;

(f) a scale of the provisions which are to be furnished to each seaman; and

(g) any regulations as to conduct on board, and as to fines, short allowance of provisions or other lawful punishments for misconduct, which have been sanctioned by the Governor General in Council as regulations proper to be adopted, and which the parties agree to adopt.

And every such agreement shall be so framed as to admit of stipulations to be adopted at the will of the master and seaman in each case (not being inconsistent with the provisions of any enactment for the time being in force relating to Merchant Shipping), as to advance of wages and supply of warm clothing, and may contain any other stipulations which are not contrary to law.

See sec. 62 of the Bill which became Act VII of 1880.

25. In the case of such agreements with lascars or other Native seamen, the scale of the provisions agreed to be furnished to each of such seamen shall not be less than a scale to be from time to time fixed and published by the Local Government with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

Scale of provisions to be furnished to lascars.

Any master entering into an agreement with any lascar or other Native seaman for a scale of provisions less than the scale so fixed and published shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Act IV of 1875, s. 26.

26. Whenever it is agreed that the service of any lascar or other Native seaman shall end at any port not in British India, the agreement shall, in addition to the particulars specified in section twenty-four, contain a stipulation that fit employment shall be provided for him on board some other ship bound to the port at which he was shipped, or such other port in British India as may be agreed on; or

Stipulation where lascars are shipped.

that a passage shall be provided for him to some port in British India free of charge, or on such other terms as may be agreed on;

and every such stipulation shall be signed by the owner of the ship, or by the master on his behalf.

EXPLANATION.—In this section the word "seaman" includes also a Native of British India carried to sea from any port in British India as one of the crew of a ship.

Act IV of 1875, s. 27.

27. If the master of any ship belonging to the United Kingdom or any British possession has an agreement with his crew, made in due form according to the law of the place to which such ship belongs, or in which her crew were engaged, and engages a single seaman, not being a lascar or other Native seaman, in any port in British India, such seaman may sign the agreement so made, and it shall not be necessary for him to sign an agreement under this Act.

Forms for British or Colonial ships.

CHAPTER V.

PORT-INSPECTORS.

See sec. 80 of the Bill which became Act VII of 1880.

28. In the Indian Ports Act, 1875, after section eighteen, the following sections shall be inserted, that is to say:—

Addition to Act XII of 1875.

"18A. The Local Government may, from time to time, appoint in any port subject to this Act an officer to be called the Port-inspector, and suspend or remove such officer.

Appointment and powers of Port-inspectors.

"Every officer so appointed shall, subject to the control of the Local Government, have the following powers within the limits of the port for which he is appointed, that is to say:—

"(a) he may at any time enter any vessel, and may inspect the same and every part thereof, and the provisions and water provided for the use of the persons on board such vessel, and the medicines and appliances and the accommodation for the seamen;

"(b) he may medically examine all or any of the persons on board such vessel;

"(c) he may require and enforce the production of the log and any other books, papers or documents which he thinks necessary for the purpose of enquiring into the health and medical condition of the persons on board such vessel;

"(d) he may call before him and examine for such purpose all or any of such persons, and may require answers to any inquiries he thinks fit to make;

"(e) he may require any persons so examined by him to make and subscribe a declaration of the truth of the statements made by such person.

"18B. The Port-inspector shall, on first entering any vessel after its arrival, inquire whether any lascar or other Native seaman on board such vessel desires to make any complaint against the master or any of the crew thereof.

Port-inspector to inquire into complaints;

"In the event of any such seaman so desiring, the Port-inspector shall hear such complaint and record the particulars thereof in writing, and may, for the purpose of ascertaining the truth of the same, exercise any of the powers mentioned in section 18A.

"The Port-inspector shall forthwith report in writing to the Shipping Master the particulars of any complaint made to him under this section, together with his opinion thereon."

and report the same to Shipping Master.

CHAPTER VI.

MISCELLANEOUS.

29. In cases where any wages or expenses recoverable under section 213 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or under section 16 of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1855, are, under the same sections, a charge upon any ship, or recoverable from any master, owner or other person, within the jurisdiction of any Court in British India, the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, authorize, either generally or specially, such persons as he thinks fit to sue for and recover, in manner in the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, section 213, provided, such wages or expenses.

Power to appoint persons to sue.

Every person so authorized shall be entitled to sue and recover accordingly in any such Court, and shall be deemed to be a person filling a public office within the meaning of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 57, clause 7.

All suits and proceedings under this section shall be instituted and carried on in the name of the Secretary of State for India in Council.

See Act XIII of 1878, s. 2.

Suits, &c., to be instituted in name of Secretary of State for India in Council.

30. Sections 9 to 16 (both inclusive) of the said Act No. I of 1859 shall not apply to ships registered under Act No. X of 1841 and trading between ports in India and the coasts of Arabia, when such ships are navigated and manned exclusively by Arabs, lascars, or other Asiatic masters and seamen.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 29.

Provisions as to examinations, &c., of masters not to apply to certain ships.

31. In sections 2, 15, 17 and 23 of the said Act No. X of 1841, for the words "on information in any Court of Her Majesty or the East India Company by the Advocates General of the respective Presidencies," "by information as aforesaid," "on information as aforesaid," "upon information as aforesaid," in each of the places where they occur, the following words shall be substituted, namely:—"on conviction before a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class."

See Act IV of 1875, s. 30.

Amendment of Act X of 1841, secs. 2, 15, 17 and 23.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

PARAGRAPH 8 of the Report, dated the 20th February, 1880, of the Select Committee on the Bill relating to Merchant Shipping, which afterwards became the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1880, ran as follows :—

"8. We have omitted chapters VII and VIII of the Bill as introduced, as we consider that the matters to which they relate would be more fitly dealt with in a Bill to consolidate Act No. IV of 1875 and the sections of Act No. XIII of 1878 by which it is amended."

2. The nature of the contents of these omitted chapters will be learnt from the following paragraphs of the Statement of Objects and Reasons, dated the 29th August, 1879, appended to that Bill :—

"21. Chapter VII, by an addition to the Ports Act, 1875, provides for the appointment of an officer called a 'Port-inspector.' This officer, in addition to performing the duties at present performed by the Health-officer (for the performance of which duties he is by the Bill invested with certain legal powers), is intrusted with the duty of inquiring into any complaints which may be made on the arrival of a ship in port by any of the crew against the master or any others of the crew. This latter provision has been inserted, in compliance with the desire of the Secretary of State, for the protection of lascars or other Oriental seamen when serving on board a European ship.

"22. Chapter VIII makes two amendments of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875. The one extends the provisions of section 3 of that Act so as to give power to hold Marine Courts of Enquiry in certain cases which are at present unprovided for. This change has been introduced at the request of the local Marine authorities, and is in accordance with the provisions of the English law as recently amended. The other amendment gives the Local Government power to fix a scale of provisions, for less than which it will be penal for a master to contract with any lascar or Native seaman—a provision which has been found to be essential for the protection of such seamen."

3. It is with a view to carry out the suggestion of the Select Committee above quoted that the present Bill has been prepared.

The Bill, however, does more than merely consolidate the provisions of the Acts of 1875 and 1878 and re-enact them with the addition of the points omitted from the Merchant Shipping Bill of 1879.

These Acts of 1875 and 1878 relate in part to the suspension and cancellation of Board of Trade certificates to which the provisions of the Imperial Merchant Shipping Acts apply. An examination of the provisions of our Acts in connection with those of the Imperial Acts shows that our Acts deal with several matters already provided for by Parliament. This is not desirable. Apart from the question which might be raised as to the validity of our law, where that law is not transcribed verbatim, it is inconvenient from a practical point of view that double provisions relating to the same subject-matter should exist side by side. In re-enacting, therefore, the provisions of the Acts repealed by the Bill, an endeavour has been made to restrict the provisions of the Bill to matters for which the Imperial Acts do not provide, and on which it is clear we can legislate. This has necessitated the omission of some and the amendment of other provisions of the present law.

4. The opportunity of this Bill has been taken to amend section 26 of Act IV of 1875, so as to provide that, when the service of any lascar is to end at any port not in British India, the agreement between him and the master shall invariably stipulate for his return to British India, and not merely for his employment on board some vessel bound to such other port as may be agreed on, possibly not in British India. It is clear that, with the extended employment of Native seamen in the Eastern trade, and the increasing number of Asiatic sailors found in a destitute condition at European ports, Government should, on economical grounds, if for no other reason, devise steps to secure the return of Indian seamen to this country at the expense of the persons who take them away.

5. The 31st section of Act IV of 1875, which confers certain powers on Courts for the trial of pilots constituted under Act XII of 1859, has been excluded from the present Bill, as the matter is one which will be more properly provided for by a separate Bill amending that Act.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th March, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 7 OF 1881.

A Bill to give power to arrest persons whose evidence is needed under Act No. XII of 1859.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to empower the Judges holding trials under Act No. XII of 1859 (An Act to make better provision for the trial of Pilots at the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal for breach of duty) to arrest persons whose evidence is required on such trials; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Addition to Act XII of 1859, after section 14.

1. The following section shall be inserted immediately after section 14 of the said Act, namely :—

"15. Whenever the Judge of the said Court thinks it necessary for obtaining evidence that any person should be arrested, he may issue a warrant for his arrest, and may, for the purpose of effecting such arrest, authorize any officer (subject, nevertheless, to any general or special instructions from the Local Government) to enter any vessel.

"Any officer so authorized may, for the purpose of enforcing such entry, call to his aid any officers of police or customs, or any other persons, and may seize and detain the vessel for such time as is reasonably necessary to effect the arrest; and every such officer or other person shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, section 186.

"No person shall be detained under this section for more than forty-eight hours."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE last section of Act IV of 1875, which confers on Courts established for the trial of pilots in Bengal under Act XII of 1859 certain powers for compelling the attendance of witnesses, will be repealed if the Merchant Shipping Bill, which is to be introduced to-day, becomes law. As such a provision is somewhat out of place in a Merchant Shipping Act, it seems better to re-enact it as a section in Act XII of 1859, and the present Bill has accordingly been prepared for this purpose.

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th March, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 5 OF 1881.

A Bill to amend the Indian Penal Code.

Preamble.

FOR the purpose of amending the Indian Penal Code; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Amendment of section 40, clause 2, of Indian Penal Code.

1. In the second clause of section 40 of the said Code, before the figure "109," the figures "65, 66, 71" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 64 of same Code.

2. In section 64 of the said Code, for the first twelve words, the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"In every case punishable under any law in force for the time being, with imprisonment as well as fine, in which the offender is sentenced to a fine, whether with or without imprisonment, and in every case punishable under this Code with fine only, in which the offender is sentenced to a fine,"

Amendment of section 67 of same Code.

3. In section 67, after the words "fine only," the words "the imprisonment which the Court imposes in default of payment of the fine shall be simple, and" shall be inserted.

Addition to section 71 of same Code.

4. To section 71 of the said Code, the following clause shall be added:—

"Where anything is an offence falling within two or more separate definitions of any law in force for the time being by which offences are defined or punished, the offender shall not be punished with a more severe punishment than the Court which tries him could award for any one of such offences."

New Exception to section 214 of same Code.

5. In section 214 of the said Code, for the Exception, the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

Addition to section 435 of same Code.

6. In section 435 of the said Code, after the words "or upwards" the following words shall be inserted, namely:—

"or (where the property is agricultural produce) ten rupees or upwards."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to make six amendments of the Indian Penal Code.

The first is to render the word "offence," as used in sections 65, 66 and 71 (as amended by this Bill), applicable to things punishable under the Code or any special or local law.

The second is to render section 64 (as to sentence of imprisonment on default of payment of fine) applicable to convictions under special and local laws in case of offences punishable both with imprisonment and fine. It corresponds with the first clause of section 309 of Act X of 1872, which will be repealed by the new Code of Criminal Procedure.

The third is to declare that, when an offence is punishable with fine only, the imprisonment in default of payment of the fine shall be simple: this is in accordance with a decision of the Bombay High Court (5 Bom. C. C. 55).

The fourth is to declare, by an addition to section 71, that, when anything is an offence falling within two or more separate definitions, the offender shall not be punished with a more severe punishment than the Court which tries him could award for any one of such offences. This corresponds with the latter part of the second clause of section 454 of the present Code of Criminal Procedure; but it is clearly matter of substantive law, and should therefore be placed in the Penal Code.

The fifth is to replace the obscure Exception which now stands in section 214 by the following:—

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

This will be read with section 345 of the new Code of Criminal Procedure, which declares that certain specified offences, and no others, may be compounded.

The sixth is to render the offence of committing mischief by fire, intending to cause damage to agricultural produce worth ten rupees or upwards, punishable with the severer penalty provided by section 435 of the Code. As the law stands, mischief by fire is cognizable only when committed with intent to cause damage to the amount of Rs. 100 or upwards. But agricultural holdings are generally so small that the total produce of a holding is often less than Rs. 100. The result is that a raiyat may have garnered his crop and lose the whole of it through the act of an incendiary, and yet the offence is only punishable with three months' imprisonment and fine, and may not be investigated by the police without the special order of a Magistrate. An alteration in the paragraph of the second schedule to the new Code of Criminal Procedure, which relates to section 435 of the Penal Code, will render the offence in question cognizable by the police.

A Bill for the further amendment of the law relating to Merchant Shipping.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to investigations into casualties affecting ships and charges against masters, mates and engineers; Preamble.

and whereas it is also expedient to provide, in other respects hereinafter appearing, for the regulation and control of merchant shipping;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1881;"

Extent. It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement. and it shall come into force at once.

Repeal of enactments. 2. The Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875, and Act No. XIII of 1878 (An Act to provide for the recovery in British India of wages due to, and expenses incurred in respect of, certain seamen and apprentices, and to amend the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875, and the Indian Ports Act, 1875), are hereby repealed.

But all proceedings commenced, officers appointed, powers conferred, investigations held, certificates cancelled or suspended, agreements made and persons authorized under the said Acts or either of them, shall be deemed to have been respectively commenced, appointed, conferred, held, cancelled or suspended, made and authorized under this Act.

Interpretation-clause. 3. In this Act

Definition of ship: "ship" includes every description of vessel used in navigation not propelled by oars; and

"master." "master" means any person (except a pilot or harbour-master) having for the time being control or charge of a ship.

Cf. Act IV of 1875, s. 23: Act XV of 1863, s. 10: Act XXVIII of 1861, s. 3.

Saving of powers of certain Admiralty Courts. 4. Nothing in this Act affects the powers conferred by section two hundred and forty of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by section eighty of Act No. I of 1859 (for the amendment of the law relating to Merchant Shipping), on Courts having admiralty jurisdiction in India.

Exercise of such powers by principal criminal Courts. The powers conferred by the last-mentioned enactment may, at any port in British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, be exercised by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction.

CHAPTER II.

INVESTIGATIONS INTO CASUALTIES AFFECTING SHIPS, AND CHARGES AGAINST MASTERS, MATES OR ENGINEERS.

See Act XIII of 1878, s. 4.

Chapter not to apply to certain ships. 5. Nothing in this chapter shall be deemed to apply to any ship belonging to, or in the service of, Her Majesty or belonging to any foreign Prince or State.

Report of casualties to be made to Local Government. 6. Whenever any Magistrate, or any officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf, receives credible information that— See Act IV of 1875, s. 3, and section 81 of the Bill which afterwards became Act VII of 1880.

(a) any ship has been lost, abandoned, stranded or damaged on or near the coasts of British India; or

(c) any ship has caused loss or damage to any other ship on or near such coasts; or

(d) any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has happened elsewhere, and any competent witnesses thereof have arrived or are to be found at any place in British India; or

(e) any ship is supposed to have been lost, and any evidence can be obtained in British India as to the circumstances under which she proceeded to sea or was last heard of;

he shall forthwith report in writing such information to the Local Government.

In the cases mentioned in clauses (a), (b) and (c), the master, pilot, harbour-master or other person in charge of the ship or (where two ships are concerned) in charge of each ship, at the time of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty, and in cases under clause (d), where the ship concerned proceeds direct from the place where such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has occurred to any place in British India, the master of such ship at the time she arrives at such place, shall, on arriving in British India, give immediate notice of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty to the nearest Magistrate, or, when he arrives at a port, to the officer appointed at such port as aforesaid.

Any person bound to give notice under this section and wilfully failing to give the same shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and, in default of payment, to simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months.

Power to appoint special Court of Enquiry. 7. If in any such case a formal investigation into the facts mentioned in section six, clause (a), (b), (c), (d) or (e), appears to the Local Government to be requisite or expedient, the Local Government (whether such notice be given or not) may appoint a special Court, consisting of not less than two nor more than four persons, and direct such Court to make such investigation, and may fix the place for making the same. See Act IV of 1875, s. 4.

One of such persons shall be a Magistrate acting in or near the place where the investigation is made; another shall be some person conversant with maritime affairs. The other or others (if any) shall be conversant with either maritime or mercantile affairs.

Other Courts authorized to investigate casualties. 8. Every Court having admiralty jurisdiction in British India, and the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction at every port of British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, is hereby authorized, when so directed by the Local Government, to make the investigations referred to in section seven. See Act IV of 1875, s. 5.

Power to inquire into charges against masters, mates and engineers. 9. Any Court making an investigation under section seven or section eight may inquire into any charge of incompetency or misconduct arising, in the course of such investigation, against any master, mate or engineer holding a certificate granted, under any enactment for the time being in force, by the Board of Trade or a Local Government, as well as into any charge of a wrongful act or default on his part causing any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty as aforesaid. Act XIII of 1878, s. 3.

In every case in which there is reason to believe that any such charge, whether of incompetency or misconduct, or of a wrongful act or default, as aforesaid, will arise against any such master, mate or engineer in the course of an investigation, the Court shall, if practicable, before the commencement of such investigation, cause to be furnished to him a copy of the report upon which such investigation has been directed.

Cf. s. 6 of Act IV of 1875. Also s. 241 of 17 & 18 Vic., c. 104.

Local Government may direct investigation in cases of incompetency or misconduct. 10. If the Local Government has reason to believe that there are grounds for charging any such master, mate or engineer with incompetency or misconduct, otherwise than in the course of an investigation under section seven or section eight, it may transmit a statement of the case to any Court mentioned in section eight, at or nearest to the place at which it may be convenient for the parties and witnesses to attend, and may direct such Court to make an investigation into such charge.

Cf. Act IV of 1875, s. 7. Before commencing such investigation, the Court shall cause the master, mate or engineer so charged to be furnished with a copy of the statement so transmitted by the Local Government.

Act IV of 1875, s. 10.

Person accused to be heard. 11. For the purpose of an investigation under this chapter into any charge against a master, mate or engineer, the Court may summon him to appear, and shall give him full opportunity of making a defence either in person or otherwise.

Cf. Act IV of 1875, s. 9.

Powers of Courts as to evidence and regulating proceedings. 12. For the purpose of any investigation under this chapter, the Court making the investigation, so far as relates to compelling the attendance and examination of witnesses and the production of documents and the regulation of the proceedings, shall have—

(a) if such Court is a special Court—the same powers as are exerciseable by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction for the place at which the investigation is made;

(b) if such Court is a Court having admiralty jurisdiction or a principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction—the same powers as are exerciseable by such Court in the exercise of such admiralty or criminal jurisdiction (as the case may be).

Assessors. And every Court making any such investigation, other than a special Court, may, if it think fit, constitute as its assessor, for the purposes of the investigation, any person conversant with maritime affairs and willing to act as such assessor.

Such person shall attend during the investigation and deliver his opinion in writing, to be recorded on the proceedings. But the exercise of all powers conferred on the Court by this Act or any other enactment for the time being in force shall rest with the Court.

Power to arrest witnesses and cause entry and detention of vessels. 13. If any Court making an investigation under this chapter thinks it necessary for obtaining evidence that any person should be arrested, it may issue a warrant for his arrest, and may, for the purpose of effecting such arrest, authorize any officer (subject, nevertheless, to any general or special instructions from the Local Government) to enter any vessel. Act IV of 1875, s. 15.

Any officer so authorized may, for the purpose of enforcing such entry, call to his aid any officers of police or customs, or any other persons, and may seize and detain the vessel for such time as is reasonably necessary to effect the arrest; and every such officer or other person shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, section 186.

No person shall be detained by virtue of this section for more than forty-eight hours.

Power to commit for trial. 14. Whenever, in the course of any such investigation, it appears that any person has committed an offence punishable under any law in force in British India, the Court making the investigation may (subject to such rules consistent with this Act as the High Court may from time to time prescribe) cause him to be arrested, or commit him or hold him to bail to take his trial before the proper Court; and may bind over any person to give evidence at such trial, and may, for the purposes of this section, exercise all the powers of a Magistrate of the first class or of a Presidency Magistrate: Act IV of 1875, s. 16.

Power to bind over persons to give evidence.

Depositions. And whenever in the course of such trial the testimony of any witness is required in relation to the subject-matter, any deposition previously made by him in relation to the same subject-matter before any Court making an investigation under this chapter shall, if authenticated by the signature of the Magistrate or presiding Judge, be admissible in evidence on proof—

(a) that the witness cannot be found within the jurisdiction of the Court before which the trial is held; and

(b) that it was made in the presence of the person accused.

A certificate by the Magistrate or presiding Judge that the deposition was made in the presence of the accused shall, unless the contrary be proved, be sufficient evidence that it was so made.

Report by Court to Local Government. 15. The Court shall, in the case of all investigations under this chapter, transmit to the Local Government a full report of the conclusions at which it has arrived, together with the evidence. Cf. Act IV of 1875, ss. 11 and 12.

In cases in which, under the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, the Court is required to send a report to the Board of Trade, such report shall be sent through the Local Government, and the submission of such report to the Local Government shall be a sufficient compliance with this section.

CHAPTER III.

SUSPENSION AND CANCELLATION OF CERTIFICATES AND GRANT OF FRESH CERTIFICATES.

16. Nothing herein contained shall affect the powers conferred by the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, on the Courts conducting investigations under sections seven, eight, nine and ten of this Act, to cancel or suspend certificates granted under any of the said Merchant Shipping Acts, or certificates to which the provisions of any such Act have been made applicable under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869.

Saving of power to cancel and suspend certificates under English Acts.

When any such Court cancels or suspends any such certificate, it may, in its report to the Local Government, advise such Government to grant, without examination, to the holder of such certificate, when such certificate is a certificate as master, a certificate as master or mate; and, when such certificate is a certificate as mate or engineer, a certificate as mate or engineer, as the case may be; and such Local Government, if it thinks fit, and if it is empowered by any enactment of a British Indian legislature for the time being in force to grant such certificate, may grant it under such enactment, but without examination. A certificate so granted shall, except for the purposes of the said Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 18.

17. Any certificate (whether of competency or service) which has been granted by any Local Government, to any master, mate or engineer, and to which the provisions of the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, do not apply, may be suspended or cancelled, by that or any other Local Government, in the following cases, that is to say:—

Local Government may suspend or cancel certain certificates—

(a) if, upon any investigation made under this Act, the Court reports that the loss, stranding or abandonment of, or damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default, or that he is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of drunkenness, tyranny or other misconduct;

after investigation under this Act:

(b) if, upon any investigation made under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, or upon any investigation made by any Court or tribunal for the time being authorized by the legislative authority in any British possession to make enquiry into charges of incompetency or misconduct on the part of masters, mates or engineers of ships, or as to shipwrecks or other casualties affecting ships, the Court or tribunal reports that such master, mate or engineer is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of misconduct, drunkenness or tyranny, or that the loss, stranding or abandonment of, or damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default;

after investigation under other Acts:

(c) if he is proved to have been convicted of any offence which, if committed in British India, would be non-bailable, or, if committed in England, would be a felony: and Act IV of 1875, s. 18, cl. (d).

after conviction of any offence:

(d) if (in the case of a master) he has been superseded by the order of any Admiralty Court, or of any Naval Court constituted as provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by any other law for the time being in force:

after supersession.

Provided that, in any case in which an investigation has been made into a charge against any master, mate or engineer, no certificate shall be suspended or cancelled under clause (a) unless the Local Government is satisfied that the holder of the certificate has been furnished before the commencement of the investigation with the copy of the report or statement required by section nine or section ten, as the case may be.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 19.

18. Every master, mate or engineer whose certificate is cancelled or suspended under section seventeen shall deliver it to the Shipping Master, or to such other person as the Local Government which cancelled or suspended the certificate directs, and in default of such delivery shall, for each offence, be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Master, &c., to deliver up certificate.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 20.

19. If the Local Government which cancels or suspends, under section seventeen, a certificate of a master, mate or engineer is not the Local Government that granted the same, the Local Government so cancelling or suspending the certificate shall report the proceedings, and the fact of cancelment or suspension, to the Local Government which granted such certificate.

Report to other Local Governments.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 21.

20. Every Local Government cancelling or suspending under section seventeen the certificate of a master, mate or engineer shall, as soon as may be practicable, report to the Board of Trade the fact of such cancellation or suspension.

Report to Board of Trade.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 22.

21. Any Local Government may at any time revoke any order of cancelment or suspension which it may have made under section seventeen, or grant, without examination, to any person, whose certificate it has so cancelled, a new certificate of the same or of any lower grade.

Power to revoke cancellation or suspension.

Power to grant new certificate.

A certificate so granted shall, except for the purposes of the said Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination.

A certificate of competency for a Home-trade ship under the said Act No. I of 1859 shall be deemed, for the purposes of this section, to be of a lower grade than a certificate of competency for a foreign-going ship under the same Act.

Every revocation and every grant under this section shall, as soon as may be practicable, be reported to the Board of Trade.

CHAPTER IV.

AGREEMENTS WITH SEAMEN.

Act IV of 1875, s. 28.

22. This chapter shall be read with, and taken as part of, the said Act No. I of 1859.

Chapter to be read with Act I of 1859.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 24.

23. The master of every ship, except ships of a burden not exceeding three hundred tons employed only in the Home-trade, shall enter into an agreement with every seaman whom he carries to sea from any port in British India as one of his crew, in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

Masters to enter into agreements with seamen.

See Act IV of 1875, s. 25.

24. Every such agreeemnt shall be in a form sanctioned by the Governor General in Council, and shall be dated at the time of the first signature thereof, and shall be signed by the master before any seaman signs the same, and shall contain the following particulars as terms thereof, that is to say:—

Form and contents of agreement.

(a) either the nature and, as far as practicable, the duration of the intended voyage or engagement, or the maximum period of the voyage or engagement, and the places or parts of the world, if any, to which the voyage or engagement is not to extend;

(b) the number and description of the crew, specifying how many are engaged as sailors;

(c) the time at which each seaman is to be on board or to begin work;

(d) the capacity in which each seaman is to serve;

(e) the amount of wages which each seaman is to receive;

(f) a scale of the provisions which are to be furnished to each seaman; and

(g) any regulations as to conduct on board, and as to fines, short allowance of provisions or other lawful punishments for misconduct, which have been sanctioned by the Governor General in Council as regulations proper to be adopted, and which the parties agree to adopt.

And every such agreement shall be so framed as to admit of stipulations to be adopted at the will of the master and seaman in each case (not being inconsistent with the provisions of any enactment for the time being in force relating to Merchant Shipping), as to advance of wages and supply of warm clothing, and may contain any other stipulations which are not contrary to law.

See sec. 82 of the Bill which became Act VII of 1880.

25. In the case of such agreements with lascars or other Native seamen, the scale of the provisions agreed to be furnished to each of such seamen shall not be less than a scale to be from time to time fixed and published by the Local Government with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

Scale of provisions to be furnished to lascars.

Any master entering into an agreement with any lascar or other Native seaman for a scale of provisions less than the scale so fixed and published shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

Act IV of 1875, s. 26.

26. Whenever it is agreed that the service of any lascar or other Native seaman shall end at any port not in British India, the agreement shall, in addition to the particulars specified in section twenty-four, contain a stipulation that fit employment shall be provided for him on board some other ship bound to the port at which he was shipped, or such other port in British India as may be agreed on; or that a passage shall be provided for him to some port in British India free of charge, or on such other terms as may be agreed on;

Stipulation where lascars are shipped.

and every such stipulation shall be signed by the owner of the ship, or by the master on his behalf.

EXPLANATION.—In this section the word "seaman" includes also a Native of British India carried to sea from any port in British India as one of the crew of a ship.

Act IV of 1875, s. 27.

27. If the master of any ship belonging to the United Kingdom or any British possession has an agreement with his crew, made in due form according to the law of the place to which such ship belongs, or in which her crew were engaged, and engages a single seaman, not being a lascar or other Native seaman, in any port in British India, such seaman may sign the agreement so made, and it shall not be necessary for him to sign an agreement under this Act.

Forms for British or Colonial ships.

CHAPTER V.

PORT-INSPECTORS.

See sec. 80 of the Bill which became Act VII of 1880.

28. In the Indian Ports Act, 1875, after section eighteen, the following sections shall be inserted, that is to say:—

Addition to Act XII of 1875.

"18A. The Local Government may, from time to time, appoint in any port subject to this Act an officer to be called the Port-inspector, and suspend or remove such officer.

Appointment and powers of Port-inspectors.

"Every officer so appointed shall, subject to the control of the Local Government, have the following powers within the limits of the port for which he is appointed, that is to say:—

"(a) he may at any time enter any vessel, and may inspect the same and every part thereof, and the provisions and water provided for the use of the persons on board such vessel, and the medicines and appliances and the accommodation for the seamen;

"(b) he may medically examine all or any of the persons on board such vessel;

"(c) he may require and enforce the production of the log and any other books, papers or documents which he thinks necessary for the purpose of enquiring into the health and medical condition of the persons on board such vessel;

"(d) he may call before him and examine for such purpose all or any of such persons, and may require answers to any inquiries he thinks fit to make;

"(e) he may require any persons so examined by him to make and subscribe a declaration of the truth of the statements made by such person.

"18B. The Port-inspector shall, on first entering any vessel after its arrival, inquire whether any lascar or other Native seaman on board such vessel desires to make any complaint against the master or any of the crew thereof.

Port-inspector to inquire into complaints;

"In the event of any such seaman so desiring, the Port-inspector shall hear such complaint and record the particulars thereof in writing, and may, for the purpose of ascertaining the truth of the same, exercise any of the powers mentioned in section 18A.

"The Port-inspector shall forthwith report in writing to the Shipping Master the particulars of any complaint made to him under this section, together with his opinion thereon."

and report the same to Shipping Master.

CHAPTER VI.

MISCELLANEOUS.

See Act XIII of 1878, s. 1.

29. In cases where any wages or expenses recoverable under section 213 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or under section 16 of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1855, are, under the same sections, a charge upon any ship, or recoverable from any master, owner or other person, within the jurisdiction of any Court in British India, the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, authorize, either generally or specially, such persons as he thinks fit to sue for and recover, in manner in the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, section 213, provided, such wages or expenses.

Power to appoint persons to sue.

Every person so authorized shall be entitled to sue and recover accordingly in any such Court, and shall be deemed to be a person filling a public office within the meaning of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 57, clause 7.

All suits and proceedings under this section shall be instituted and carried on in the name of the Secretary of State for India in Council. See Act XIII of 1878, s. 2.

Suits, &c., to be instituted in name of Secretary of State for India in Council.

30. Sections 9 to 16 (both inclusive) of the said Act No. I of 1859 shall not apply to ships registered under Act No. X of 1841 and trading between ports in India and the coasts of Arabia, when such ships are navigated and manned exclusively by Arabs, lascars, or other Asiatic masters and seamen. See Act IV of 1875, s. 29.

Provisions as to examinations, &c., of masters not to apply to certain ships.

31. In sections 2, 15, 17 and 23 of the said Act No. X of 1841, for the words "on information in any Court of Her Majesty or the East India Company by the Advocates General of the respective Presidencies," "by information as aforesaid," "on information as aforesaid," "upon information as aforesaid," in each of the places where they occur, the following words shall be substituted, namely:—"on conviction before a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class." See Act IV of 1875, s. 30.

Amendment of Act X of 1841, secs. 2, 15, 17 and 23.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

PARAGRAPH 8 of the Report, dated the 20th February, 1880, of the Select Committee on the Bill relating to Merchant Shipping, which afterwards became the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1880, ran as follows :—

"8. We have omitted chapters VII and VIII of the Bill as introduced, as we consider that the matters to which they relate would be more fitly dealt with in a Bill to consolidate Act No. IV of 1875 and the sections of Act No. XIII of 1878 by which it is amended."

2. The nature of the contents of these omitted chapters will be learnt from the following paragraphs of the Statement of Objects and Reasons, dated the 29th August, 1879, appended to that Bill :—

"21. Chapter VII, by an addition to the Ports Act, 1875, provides for the appointment of an officer called a 'Port-inspector.' This officer, in addition to performing the duties at present performed by the Health-officer (for the performance of which duties he is by the Bill invested with certain legal powers), is intrusted with the duty of inquiring into any complaints which may be made on the arrival of a ship in port by any of the crew against the master or any others of the crew. This latter provision has been inserted, in compliance with the desire of the Secretary of State, for the protection of lascars or other Oriental seamen when serving on board a European ship.

"22. Chapter VIII makes two amendments of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875. The one extends the provisions of section 3 of that Act so as to give power to hold Marine Courts of Enquiry in certain cases which are at present unprovided for. This change has been introduced at the request of the local Marine authorities, and is in accordance with the provisions of the English law as recently amended. The other amendment gives the Local Government power to fix a scale of provisions, for less than which it will be penal for a master to contract with any lascar or Native seaman—a provision which has been found to be essential for the protection of such seamen."

3. It is with a view to carry out the suggestion of the Select Committee above quoted that the present Bill has been prepared.

The Bill, however, does more than merely consolidate the provisions of the Acts of 1875 and 1878 and re-enact them with the addition of the points omitted from the Merchant Shipping Bill of 1879.

These Acts of 1875 and 1878 relate in part to the suspension and cancellation of Board of Trade certificates to which the provisions of the Imperial Merchant Shipping Acts apply. An examination of the provisions of our Acts in connection with those of the Imperial Acts shows that our Acts deal with several matters already provided for by Parliament. This is not desirable. Apart from the question which might be raised as to the validity of our law, where that law is not transcribed verbatim, it is inconvenient from a practical point of view that double provisions relating to the same subject-matter should exist side by side. In re-enacting, therefore, the provisions of the Acts repealed by the Bill, an endeavour has been made to restrict the provisions of the Bill to matters for which the Imperial Acts do not provide, and on which it is clear we can legislate. This has necessitated the omission of some and the amendment of other provisions of the present law.

4. The opportunity of this Bill has been taken to amend section 26 of Act IV of 1875, so as to provide that, when the service of any lascar is to end at any port not in British India, the agreement between him and the master shall invariably stipulate for his return to British India, and not merely for his employment on board some vessel bound to such other port as may be agreed on, possibly not in British India. It is clear that, with the extended employment of Native seamen in the Eastern trade, and the increasing number of Asiatic sailors found in a destitute condition at European ports, Government should, on economical grounds, if for no other reason, devise steps to secure the return of Indian seamen to this country at the expense of the persons who take them away.

5. The 31st section of Act IV of 1875, which confers certain powers on Courts for the trial of pilots constituted under Act XII of 1859, has been excluded from the present Bill, as the matter is one which will be more properly provided for by a separate Bill amending that Act.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th March, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 7 OF 1881.

A Bill to give power to arrest persons whose evidence is needed under Act No. XII of 1859.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to empower the Judges holding trials under Act No. XII of 1859 (An Act to make better provision for the trial of Pilots at the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal for breach of duty) to arrest persons whose evidence is required on such trials; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Addition to Act XII of 1859, after section 14.

1. The following section shall be inserted immediately after section 14 of the said Act, namely :—

"15. Whenever the Judge of the said Court thinks it necessary for obtaining evidence that any person should be arrested, he may issue a warrant for his arrest, and may, for the purpose of effecting such arrest, authorize any officer (subject, nevertheless, to any general or special instructions from the Local Government) to enter any vessel.

"Any officer so authorized may, for the purpose of enforcing such entry, call to his aid any officers of police or customs, or any other persons, and may seize and detain the vessel for such time as is reasonably necessary to effect the arrest; and every such officer or other person shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, section 186.

"No person shall be detained under this section for more than forty-eight hours."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE last section of Act IV of 1875, which confers on Courts established for the trial of pilots in Bengal under Act XII of 1859 certain powers for compelling the attendance of witnesses, will be repealed if the Merchant Shipping Bill, which is to be introduced to-day, becomes law. As such a provision is somewhat out of place in a Merchant Shipping Act, it seems better to re-enact it as a section in Act XII of 1859, and the present Bill has accordingly been prepared for this purpose.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to Criminal Procedure.

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to Criminal Procedure; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

PART I.
PRELIMINARY.

CHAPTER I.

Short title. Commencement. 1. This Act may be called "The Code of Criminal Procedure, 1882:" and shall come into force on the first day of January, 1883; Act X, 1872, ss. 1, 2, 111, 529, 535, 540, 541. Act X, 1875, s. 143. Act IV, 1877, s. 3. * e.g., Act V of 1869.

Local extent. It extends to the whole of British India; but, in the absence of any specific provision to the contrary, nothing herein contained shall affect any special or local law now in force, or any special jurisdiction or power conferred, or any special form of procedure prescribed,* by any other law now in force, or shall apply to—

Act X, 1872, s. 540. (a) the Commissioner of Police or the police in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay;

(b) any officer duly authorized to try petty offences in military bázárs at cantonments and stations occupied by the troops of the said Presidencies respectively;

(c) heads of villages in the Presidency of Fort Saint George; or (d) village Police-officers in the Presidency of Bombay.

Act X, 1875, s. 2. Act X, 1872, s. 2, para. 1. Repeal of enactments. 2. On and from the first day of January, 1883, the enactments mentioned in the first schedule shall be repealed to the extent specified in the third column of the said schedule, but not so as to restore any jurisdiction or form of procedure not then existing or followed, or to render unlawful the continuance of any confinement which is then lawful.

Act X, 1872, ss. 82, 86. Act X, 1872, s. 2, last para., s. 10. Notifications, &c., under repealed Acts. All notifications published, proclamations issued, powers conferred, local limits defined, sentences passed and orders, rules and appointments made, under any enactment hereby repealed, or under any enactment repealed by any such enactment, and which are in force immediately before the first day of January, 1883, shall be deemed to have been respectively published, issued, conferred, defined, passed and made under the corresponding section of this Code.

Act X, 1872, s. 2, paras. 3, 4. References to Code of Criminal Procedure. 3. In every enactment passed before this Code comes into force, in which reference is made to, or to any chapter or section of the Code of Criminal Procedure, Act No. XXV of 1861, or Act No. X of 1872, or to any other enactment hereby repealed, such reference shall, so far as may be practicable, be taken to be made to this Code or to its corresponding chapter or section.

Expressions in former Acts. In every enactment passed before this Code comes into force the expressions "Officer exercising (or 'having') the powers (or the 'full powers') of a Magistrate," "Subordinate Magistrate, first class," and "Subordinate Magistrate, second class," shall respectively be deemed to mean "Magistrate of the first class," "Magistrate of the second class," and "Magistrate of the third class;" the expression "Magistrate of a division of a district" shall be deemed to mean Sub-divisional Magistrate, and the expression "Magistrate of Police" shall be deemed to mean Presidency Magistrate. A.—Description of Offences cognizable by each Court.

e.g., ss. 194, 195. Act XI, 1874, s. 1. Act IV, 1877, s. 4.

28. Subject to the other provisions of this Code, any offence under the Indian Penal Code may be tried by the High Court or Court of Session or by any other Court by which such offence is shown in the seventh column of the second Schedule to be triable.

Offences under Penal Code.

Act X, 1872, s. 8, para. 1.

29. Any offence under any other law shall, where any Court is mentioned in this behalf in such law, be tried by such Court; and when no Court is so mentioned, may be tried by the High Court or by any Court constituted under this Code:

Offences under other laws.

Provided that

(a) no Magistrate of the first class shall try any such offence which is punishable with imprisonment for a term which may exceed seven years;

(b) no Magistrate of the second class shall try any such offence which is punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years; and

(c) no Magistrate of the third class shall try any such offence which is punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year.

Act X, 1872, s. 36.

30. In the territories respectively administered by the Lieutenant-Governor of the Panjáb and the Chief Commissioners of Oudh, the Central Provinces, British Burma, Coorg and Assam, and in those parts of the other Provinces in which there are Deputy Commissioners or Assistant Commissioners, the Local Government may invest the District Magistrate with power to try as a Magistrate all offences not punishable with death.

Offences not punishable with death.

B.—Sentences which may be passed by Courts of various Classes.

31. A High Court may pass any sentence authorized by law.

Sentence which High Court or Sessions Judges may pass.

A Sessions Judge, Additional Sessions Judge or Joint Sessions Judge may pass any sentence authorized by law; but any sentence of death passed by such Judge shall be subject to confirmation by the High Court.

Act X, 1872, ss. 15, para. 2, 17.

An Assistant Sessions Judge may pass any sentence authorized by law except a sentence of death or of transportation for any term or of imprisonment for a term exceeding seven years; but any sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding three years passed by an Assistant Sessions Judge shall be subject to confirmation by the Sessions Judge.

Act X, 1872, s. 18.

32. The Courts of Magistrates may pass the following sentences, namely:—

Sentences which Magistrates may pass.

Act X, 1872, s. 20.

(a) Courts of Presidency Magistrates and of Magistrates of the first class:	Imprisonment for a term not exceeding two years, including such solitary confinement as is authorized by law; Fine not exceeding one thousand rupees; Whipping.

Act IV, 1877, s. 11.

(b) Courts of Magistrates of the second class:	Imprisonment for a term not exceeding six months, including such solitary confinement as is authorized by law; Fine not exceeding two hundred rupees; Whipping.
(c) Courts of Magistrates of the third class.	Imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month; Fine not exceeding fifty rupees.

The Court of any Magistrate may pass any lawful sentence, combining any of the sentences which it is authorized by law to pass.

Act X, 1872, s. 20, Expl., s. 309, para. 2. See I. L. R., 1 Mad., 77.

33. The Court of any Magistrate may award such term of imprisonment in default of payment of fine as is authorized by law in case of such default: Provided that the term is not in excess of the Magistrate's powers under this Code:

Power to sentence to imprisonment in default of fine.

Act X, 1872, s. 309, para. 1, proviso. As to para. 1 of that section see Act I of 1868. Act IV, 1877, s. 12, omitting paras. 1 & 3.

Provided also that in no case decided by a Magistrate where imprisonment has been awarded as part of the substantive sentence shall the period of imprisonment awarded in default of payment of the fine exceed one-fourth of the period of imprisonment which such Magistrate is competent to inflict as punishment for the offence otherwise than as imprisonment in default of payment of the fine.

Proviso as to cases decided by a Magistrate.

Act X, 1872, s. 20, Expl.

The imprisonment awarded under this section may be in addition to a substantive sentence of imprisonment for the maximum term awardable by the Magistrate under section 32.

Act X, 1872, s. 36.

34. The Court of a District Magistrate specially empowered under section 30 may pass any sentence of imprisonment for a term not exceeding seven years, including such solitary confinement as is authorized by law, or of fine, or of whipping, or of any combination of these punishments authorized by law.

Higher powers of certain District Magistrates.

See infra., s. 380.

But any sentence of imprisonment for a term exceeding three years passed by any such Court shall be subject to the confirmation of the Sessions Judge.

Act X, 1872, s. 309. Act X, 1875, s. 109. Act IV, 1877, s. 13.

35. When a person is convicted, at one trial, of two or more distinct offences, the Court may sentence him, for such offences, to the several punishments prescribed therefor which such Court is competent to inflict: such punishments, when consisting of imprisonment or transportation, to commence the one after the expiration of the other in such order as the Court may direct.

Sentence in cases of simultaneous conviction of several offences.

It shall not be necessary for the Court, by reason only of the aggregate punishments for the several offences being in excess of the punishment which it is competent to inflict on conviction of a single offence, to send the offender for trial before a higher Court:

Provided that in no case shall such person be sentenced to punishment for a longer period than fourteen years:

Maximum term of imprisonment.

Provided also that, if the case is tried by a Magistrate (other than a Magistrate acting under section 34), the aggregate punishments shall not exceed twice the amount of punishment which he is, in the exercise of his ordinary jurisdiction, competent to inflict.

I. L. R., Bom., 223.

For the purpose of confirmation or appeal, aggregate sentences passed under this section in case of simultaneous convictions for several offences shall be deemed to be a single sentence.

C.—Ordinary and Additional Powers.

Act X, 1872, ss. 22, 24, 26, 28, 30.

36. All District Magistrates, Sub-divisional Magistrates and Magistrates of the first, second and third class have the powers hereinafter respectively conferred upon them and specified in the third schedule. Such powers are called their "ordinary powers."

Ordinary powers of Magistrates.

Act X, 1872, ss. 23, 25, 27, 29.

37. In addition to his ordinary powers, any Magistrate of the first, second or third class may be invested by the Local Government or the District Magistrate, as the case may be, with any powers specified in the fourth schedule as powers with which a Magistrate of such class may be invested by the Local Government or the District Magistrate.

Additional powers conferrible on Magistrates.

The power conferred on the District Magistrate by this section shall be exercised subject to the control of the Local Government.

38. All Magistrates of the first and second classes, and all Magistrates of the third class specially empowered in this behalf, shall have all the powers conferred by this Code on an officer in charge of a Police-station.

Police-powers of Magistrates.

D.—Conferment, Continuance and Cancellation of Powers.

Act X, 1872, s. 43.

39. In conferring powers under this Code, the Local Government may empower persons specially by name, or classes of officials generally by their official titles.

Mode of conferring powers.

Act X, 1872, s. 36.

40. Whenever any person holding an office in the service of Government who has been invested with any powers under this Code throughout any local area is transferred to an equal or higher office of the same nature within a like local area under the same Local Government, he shall, unless the Local Government otherwise directs, or has otherwise directed, continue to exercise the same powers in the local area to which he is so transferred.

I. L. R., 2 Cal., 117.

Act X, 1872, s. 54.

41. Any authority may cancel any powers conferred by it on any person under this Code.

Powers may be varied or cancelled.

PART III.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

CHAPTER IV.

Of Aid and Information to the Magistrates, the Police and persons making arrests.

Act X, 1872, s. 91. Act IV, 1877, s. 247.

42. Every person is bound to assist a Magistrate or Police-officer demanding his aid, whether within or without the Presidency-towns, Public when to assist Magistrates and Police.

(a) in the taking of any other person whom such Magistrate or Police-officer is authorized to arrest;

(b) in the prevention of a breach of the peace, or of any injury attempted to be committed to any railway, canal or public property;

(c) in the suppression of a riot or affray; or

(d) in the extinguishment of fire dangerous to human life or to valuable property.

Act X, 1872, s. 163.

43. When a warrant is directed to a person other than a Police-officer, any other person may aid in executing such warrant, if the person to whom the warrant is directed be near at hand and acting in the execution of the warrant.

Aid to person other than Police-officer, executing warrant.

Act X, 1872, s. 89. Act IV, 1877, s. 246.

44. Every person, whether within or without the Presidency-towns, aware of the commission of or intention to commit any offence punishable under the following sections of the Indian Penal Code (namely), 121, 121A, 122, 123, 124, 124A, 125, 126, 130, 302, 303, 304, 382, 392, 393, 394, 395, 396, 397, 398, 399, 402, 435, 436, 449, 450, 456, 457, 458, 459 and 460, shall, in the absence of reasonable excuse, the burden of proving which shall lie upon such person, forthwith give information of the same to the nearest Magistrate or Police-officer.

Public to give information of certain offences.

Act X, 1872, s. 90.

45. Every village-headman, village-watchman, village-police-officer, owner or occupier of land, and the agent of any such owner or occupier, and every Native officer employed in the collection of revenue or rent of land on the part of Government or the Court of Wards, shall forthwith communicate to the nearest Magistrate, or to the officer in charge of the nearest Police-station, any information which he may obtain respecting—

Village-headmen, landholders and others bound to report certain matters.

(a) the residence of any notorious receiver or vendor of stolen property in any village of which he is headman, watchman or police-officer, or in which he owns or occupies land, or is agent, or collects revenue or rent;

(c) the commission of or intention to commit any non-bailable offence in or near such village;

(d) the occurrence therein of any death under suspicious circumstances.

Explanation.—In this section "village" includes village-lands.

CHAPTER V.

Of Arrest, Escape and Retaking.

A.—Arrest generally.

Act X, 1872, s. 177.

46. In making an arrest, the Police-officer or other person making the same shall actually touch or confine the body of the person to be arrested, unless there be a submission to the custody by word or action.

Arrest how made.

Act X, 1872, s. 178, adding words as to attempt to evade.

If such person forcibly resists the endeavour to arrest him, or attempts to evade the arrest, such Police-officer or other person may use all means necessary to effect the arrest.

Resisting endeavour to arrest.

Alison's Cr. law cited Mayne P. C, s. 106.

Nothing in this section gives a right to cause the death of a person arrested who is accused of an offence not punishable with death.

Act X, 1872, ss. 99, 179.

47. If any person acting under a warrant of arrest, or any Police-officer having authority to arrest, has reason to believe that the person to be arrested has entered into, or is within, any place, the person residing in, or in charge of, such place shall, on demand of such person acting as aforesaid or such Police-officer, allow him free ingress thereto, and afford all reasonable facilities for a search therein.

Search of place entered by person sought to be arrested.

Act X, 1872, s. 100.

48. If ingress to such place cannot be obtained under section 47, it shall be lawful in any case for a person acting under a warrant, and in any case in which a warrant cannot be obtained without affording the person to be in order to effect an entrance into such place, to break open any outer or inner door or window of any house or place, whether that of the person to be arrested or of any other person, if, after notification of his authority and purpose and demand of admittance duly made, he cannot otherwise obtain admittance.

Act X, 1872, s. 181, which applies only where person to be arrested is accused of an offence for which a warrant may issue.

Provided that, if any such place is an apartment in the actual occupancy of a woman (not being the person to be arrested) who, according to custom, does not appear in public, such person or Police-officer shall, before entering such apartment, give notice to such woman that she is at liberty to withdraw, and shall afford her every reasonable facility for withdrawing, and may then break open the apartment and enter it.

Breaking open zanána.

New.

49. Any Police-officer or other person authorized to make an arrest may break open any outer or inner door or window of any house in order to liberate himself or any other person who, having lawfully entered for the purpose of making an arrest, is detained therein.

Power to break open doors for purposes of liberation.

Act X, 1872, s. 183.

50. The person arrested shall not be subjected to more restraint than is necessary to prevent his escape.

No unnecessary restraint.

Act X, 1872, s. 387, para. 1. See section 634, infra.

51. Whenever a person is arrested by a Police-officer under a warrant which does not provide for the taking of bail, or under a warrant which provides for the taking of bail, but the person arrested cannot furnish bail, and whenever a person is arrested without warrant, or by a private person under a warrant, and cannot legally be admitted to bail, or is unable to furnish bail, the officer making the arrest or, when the arrest is made by a private person, the Police-officer to whom he makes over the person arrested, may search such person, and place in safe custody all articles, other than necessary wearing apparel, found upon him.

Act X, 1872, s. 336. Act IV, 1877, s. 166.

52. Whenever it is necessary to cause a woman to be searched, the search shall be made with strict regard to custom.

Mode of searching women.

New. Liv., p. 50.

53. The officer or other person making any arrest under this Code may take from the person arrested any offensive weapons which he has about his person, and shall deliver all weapons so taken to the Court or officer before which or whom the person making the arrest is required by this Code to produce the person arrested,

B.—Arrest without Warrant.

Act X, 1872, s. 92, omitting cl. 3.

54. Any Police-officer may, without order from a Magistrate and without a warrant, arrest—

When Police may arrest without warrant.

firstly—any person who has been concerned in any cognizable offence or against whom a reasonable complaint has been made, or credible information has been received, or a reasonable suspicion exists, of his having been so concerned;

Cf. Livingston, 503.

secondly—any person who has been proclaimed as an offender either under this Code or by order of the Local Government;

thirdly—any person in whose possession anything is found which may reasonably be suspected to be stolen property;

fourthly—any person who obstructs a Police-officer while in the execution of his duty, or who has escaped, or attempts to escape, from lawful custody; and

"Or Navy" added.

fifthly—any person reasonably suspected of being a deserter from Her Majesty's Army or Navy.

Act X, 1872, s. 94.

55. Any officer in charge of a Police-station may, in like manner, arrest or cause to be arrested—

Arrest of vagabonds.

(a) any person found taking precautions to conceal his presence within the limits of such station under circumstances which afford reason to believe that he is taking such precautions with a view to committing a cognizable offence; or

(b) any person within the limits of such station who has no ostensible means of subsistence, or who cannot give a satisfactory account of himself; or

(c) any person who is by repute an habitual robber, house-breaker, thief, or an habitual receiver of stolen property knowing it to be stolen.

Act X, 1872, s. 102, para. 1.

56. When any officer in charge of a Police-station requires any officer subordinate to him to arrest without a warrant (otherwise than in his presence) any person who may lawfully be arrested without a warrant, he shall deliver to the officer required to make the arrest an order in writing, specifying the person to be arrested, and the offence for which the arrest is to be made.

Procedure when Police-officer deputes subordinate to arrest without warrant.

Act X, 1872, s. 98.

57. Any person who in the presence of a Police-officer commits or is accused of committing a non-cognizable offence, and refuses on demand of such officer to give his name and residence, or gives a name or residence which such officer has reason to believe to be false, may be arrested or detained by such officer in order that his name or residence may be ascertained; and shall, within twenty-four hours from the arrest, be forwarded to the nearest Magistrate, unless, before the expiration of that time, his true name and residence are ascertained, in which case he shall be released on his executing a bond for his appearance before a Magistrate if so required.

Refusal to give name and residence.

Act X, 1872, s. 103.

58. For the purpose of arresting without warrant any person whom he is authorized to arrest under this chapter, a Police-officer may pursue such person into any place in British India.

Pursuit of offenders into other jurisdictions.

Act X, 1872, s. 105.

59. Any private person may arrest any person who, in his view, commits a non-bailable and cognizable offence;

Arrest by private persons.

Act X, 1872, s. 107. N. Y. Crim. Pro. Code, s. 184.

and shall, without unnecessary delay, make over any person so arrested to a Police-officer; or in the absence of a Police-officer, take such person to the nearest Police-station.

Procedure on such arrest.

The Police shall deal with such person according to the provisions of section 54 or 57, as the case may be, and shall not detain him in custody unless he appears to be liable to arrest or detention under the section applicable.

Act X, 1872, s. 101.

60. A Police-officer making an arrest without warrant shall, without unnecessary delay and subject to the provisions herein contained as to bail, take or send the person arrested before a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the case, or before the officer in charge of a Police-station.

Person arrested to be taken before Magistrate or officer in charge of Police-station.

Act X, 1872, s. 124, para. 1.

61. No Police-officer shall detain in custody a person arrested without warrant for a longer period than under all the circumstances of the case is reasonable, and such period shall not, in the absence of a special order of a Magistrate under section 168, exceed twenty-four hours exclusive of the time necessary for the journey from the place of arrest to the Magistrate's Court.

Person arrested not to be detained more than 24 hours.

Act X, 1872, s. 122, para. 1.

62. Officers in charge of Police-stations shall report to the District Magistrate, or if he so directs, to the Sub-divisional Magistrate, the cases of all persons arrested without warrant within the limits of their respective stations, whether such persons have been admitted to bail or otherwise.

Police to report apprehensions.

Act X, 1872, s. 133, para. 2. Act IV, 1877, s. 70, para. 1.

63. No person who has been so arrested by a Police-officer shall be discharged except on his bond, with or without sureties, or under the special order of a Magistrate.

Discharge of person apprehended.

Act X, 1872, s. 108. Act IV, 1877, s. 15.

64. When any offence is committed in the presence of a Magistrate within the local limits of his jurisdiction, he may himself arrest or order any person to arrest the offender and may thereupon, subject to the provisions herein contained as to bail, commit the offender to custody.

Offence committed in Magistrate's presence.

Act X, 1872, s. 166, para. 2. Act IV, 1877, s. 62.

65. Any Magistrate may at any time arrest or direct the arrest, in his presence, within the local limits of his jurisdiction, of any person for whose arrest he is competent at the time and in the circumstances to issue a warrant.

Arrest by or in presence of Magistrate.

Act XXV, 1861, s. 112. N. Y. Cr. Pro. Code, s. 186.

66. If a person in lawful custody escapes or is rescued, and the person from whose custody he escaped or was rescued is not, under the provisions hereinbefore contained, authorized to arrest him without warrant, he may immediately pursue and arrest him in any place in British India.

Power, on escape, to pursue and retake.

Act XXV, 1861, s. 112. N. Y. Cr. Pro. Code, s. 186.

67. The provisions of sections 47 and 48 shall apply to arrests under section 66, although the person making such arrest is not acting under a warrant and is not a Police-officer having authority to arrest.

Provisions of sections 47 and 48 to apply to cases under section 66.

CHAPTER VI.

Of Processes to compel Appearance.

A.—Summons.

Act X, 1872, s. 152. Act IV, 1877, s. 47.

68. Every summons issued by a Court under this Code shall be in writing in duplicate signed and sealed by the presiding officer of such Court, or by such other officer as the High Court may from time to time by rule direct.

Form of summons.

Act X, 1872, s. 153, altered.

Such summons shall be served by a Police-officer; or, subject to such rules as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf, by an officer of the Court issuing it.

Summons by whom served.

Act X, 1872, s. 154. Act IV, 1877, s. 48.

69. The summons shall if practicable be served personally on the person summoned by delivering or tendering to him one of the duplicates of the summons.

Summons how served.

Every person on whom a summons is so served shall, if so required by the serving officer, sign a receipt therefor on the back of the other duplicate.

Signature of receipt for summons.

Act X, 1872, s. 154. Act IV, 1877, s. 49.

70. Where the person summoned cannot by the exercise of due diligence be found, the summons may be served by leaving one of the duplicates for him with some adult male member of his family residing with him; and the person with whom the summons is so left shall, if so required by the serving officer, sign a receipt therefor on the back of the other duplicate.

Service when person summoned cannot be found.

Act X, 1872, s. 155.

71. If the signature mentioned in sections 69 and 70 cannot by the exercise of due diligence be obtained, the serving officer shall fix one of the duplicates of the summons on some conspicuous part of the house in which the person summoned ordinarily resides; and thereupon the summons shall be deemed to have been duly served.

Procedure when receipt cannot be obtained.

Act X, 1872, s. 158, proviso.

72. Where the person summoned is in the active service of the Government or of a Railway Company, the Court issuing the summons shall ordinarily send it in duplicate to the head of the office in which such person is employed; and such head shall thereupon cause the summons to be served in manner provided by section 69, and shall return it to the Court with the endorsement required by that section

Service on servant of Government or of Railway Company.

Act XXIII, 1840, s. 1. Act IV, 1877, s. 50.

73. When a Court desires that a summons issued by it shall be served at any place outside the local limits of its jurisdiction, it shall ordinarily send such summons in duplicate to a Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the person summoned resides or is, to be there served.

Service of summons outside local limits.

Act IV, 1877 s. 51.

74. When a summons issued by a Court is served outside the local limits of its jurisdiction, and in any case where the officer who has served a summons is not present at the hearing of the case, a solemn declaration, purporting to be made before a Magistrate, that such summons has been served, and a duplicate of the summons purporting to be endorsed (in manner provided by section 69 or section 70) by the person to whom it is delivered or tendered or with whom it is left, shall be admissible in evidence, and the statements made therein shall be deemed to be correct unless and until the contrary is proved.

Proof of service in such cases, and when serving officer not present.

The declaration mentioned in this section may be endorsed on the duplicate of the summons and returned to the Court.

B.—Warrant of Arrest.

Act X, 1872, s. 159, amended. Act IV, 1877, s. 56, which does not require the seal. But see 9 Bom., 157.

75. Every warrant of arrest issued by a Court under this Code shall be in writing, signed and sealed by the presiding officer; or, in the case of a Bench of Magistrates, by any member of such Bench.

Form of warrant of arrest.

Every such warrant remains in force until it is cancelled by the Court which issued it, or until it is executed.

Continuance of warrant of arrest.

Act X, 1872, s. 160. Act IV, 1877, s. 58.

76. Any Court issuing a warrant for the arrest of any person may in its discretion direct by endorsement on the warrant that, if such person execute a bond with sufficient sureties for his attendance before the Court at a specified time and thereafter until otherwise directed by the Court, the officer to whom the warrant is directed shall take such security and shall release such person from custody.

Court may direct security to be taken.

The endorsement shall state (a) the number of sureties, (b) the amount in which they and the person for whose arrest the warrant is issued are to be respectively bound, and (c) the time at which he is to attend before the Court.

Whenever security is taken under this section, the officer to whom the warrant is directed shall forward the bond to the Court.

Recognizance to be forwarded.

Act X, 1872, s. 161. Act IV, 1877, s. 56.

77. A warrant of arrest shall ordinarily be directed to one or more Police-officers, and, when issued by a Presidency Magistrate, shall always be so directed; but any other Court issuing such a warrant may, if its immediate execution is necessary and no Police-officer is immediately available, direct it to any other person or persons, and such person or persons shall execute the same:

Warrants to whom directed.

Act X, 1872, s. 164. Act IV, 1877, s. 59.

Provided that when a warrant is directed to more officers or persons than one, it may be executed by all, or by any one or more, of them.

Warrant to several persons.

Act X, 1872, s. 162.

78. A District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate may direct a warrant to any landholder, farmer or manager of land within his district for the arrest of any escaped convict, proclaimed offender or person who has been accused of a non-bailable offence, and who has eluded pursuit.

Warrant may be directed to landholders, &c.

Such landholder, farmer or manager shall acknowledge in writing the receipt of the warrant, and shall execute it if the person for whose arrest it was issued is in, or enters on, his land or farm, or the land under his charge.

When the person against whom such warrant is issued is arrested, he shall be made over with the warrant to the nearest Police-officer, who shall cause him to be taken before a Magistrate having jurisdiction in the case, unless security is taken under section 76.

Act X, 1872, s. 163.

79. When a warrant is directed to a person other than a Police-officer, any other person may aid in executing such warrant, if the person to whom it is directed is near at hand and acting in execution thereof.

Warrants directed to any person other than a Police-officer.

Act X, 1872, s. 165. Act IV, 1877, s. 60.

80. A warrant directed to any Police-officer may also be executed by any other Police-officer whose name is endorsed upon the warrant by the officer to whom it is directed or endorsed.

Warrant directed to Police-officer.

Act X, 1872, s. 176.

81. The Police-officer or other person executing a warrant of arrest shall notify the substance thereof to the person to be arrested and, if so required, shall show him the warrant.

Notification of substance of warrant.

Act X, 1872, s. 167.

82. The Police-officer or other person executing a warrant of arrest shall (subject to the provisions of section 76 as to security) without unnecessary delay bring the person arrested before the Court before which he is required by law to produce him.

Person arrested to be brought before Court without delay.

Act X, 1872, s. 167. Act IV, 1877, s. 65.

Where warrant may be executed.

83. A warrant of arrest may be executed at any place in British India.

Act X, 1872, ss. 168, paras. 1 & 2, 170, first part. Act IV, 1877, s. 64.

Warrant forwarded to Magistrate for execution outside jurisdiction.

84. When a warrant is to be executed outside the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court issuing the same, such Court may, instead of directing such warrant to a Police-officer, forward the same by post or otherwise to any Magistrate or Commissioner of Police within the local limits of whose jurisdiction it is to be executed.

The Magistrate or Commissioner to whom such warrant is so forwarded shall endorse his name thereon, and cause it to be executed within the local limits of his jurisdiction.

Act X, 1872, ss. 168, paras. 1 & 3, 170, first part. Act IV, 1877, s. 64, paras. 5, 6, 7.

Warrant directed to Police-officer for execution outside jurisdiction.

85. When a warrant directed to a Police-officer is to be executed beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court issuing the same, he shall ordinarily take it for endorsement either to a Magistrate or to a Police-officer not below the rank of an officer in charge of a station, within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the warrant is to be executed.

Such Magistrate or Police-officer shall endorse his name thereon, and such endorsement shall be sufficient authority to the Police-officer to whom the warrant is directed to execute the same within such limits, and the local Police shall if so required assist such officer in executing such warrant.

Whenever there is reason to believe that the delay occasioned by obtaining the endorsement of the Magistrate or Police-officer within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the warrant is to be executed will prevent such execution, the Police-officer to whom it is directed may execute the same without such endorsement in any place beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court which issued it.

Act X, 1872, s. 169. Act IV, 1877, s. 65, para. 1.

Procedure on arrest of person against whom warrant issued.

86. When a warrant of arrest is executed outside the district in which it was issued, the person arrested shall, unless the Court which issued the warrant is within twenty miles, or is nearer than the Magistrate or Commissioner of Police within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the arrest was made, or unless security is taken under section 76, be taken before such Magistrate or Commissioner.

Act X, 1872, s. 170. Act IV, 1877, s. 65, para. 2.

Procedure by Magistrate before whom person arrested is brought.

87. Such Magistrate or Commissioner shall, if the person arrested appears to be the person intended by the Court which issued the warrant, direct his removal in custody to such Court: Provided that if the offence is bailable, and such person is ready and willing to give bail to the satisfaction of such Magistrate or Commissioner, or a direction has been endorsed under section 76 on the warrant, and such person is ready and willing to give the security required by such direction, the Magistrate or Commissioner shall take bail or such security, as the case may be, and forward the bond to the Court which issued the warrant.

C.—Proclamation and Attachment.

Act X, 1872, ss. 171, 353, para. 1. Act X, 1875, s. 82. Act IV, 1877, ss. 67, 137. 10 Ben. App. 18.

Proclamation for person absconding.

88. If a Court has reason to believe (whether after taking evidence or not) that any person against whom a warrant has been issued by it has absconded or is concealing himself so that such warrant cannot be executed, such Court may publish a written proclamation requiring him to appear at a specified place and at a specified time not less than thirty days from the date of publishing such proclamation.

The proclamation shall be published as follows:—

(a) it shall be publicly read in some conspicuous place of the town or village in which such person ordinarily resides;

(b) it shall be affixed on some conspicuous part of his ordinary place of abode, or on some conspicuous place of such town or village; and

(c) a copy thereof shall be affixed to some conspicuous part of the Court-house.

A statement by the Court issuing the proclamation to the effect that the proclamation was duly published on a specified day shall be conclusive evidence that the requirements of this section have been complied with, and that the proclamation was published on such day.

New as to day of publication.

Act X, 1872, ss. 172, 353, paras. 2 & 3. Act IV, 1877, ss. 68, 137.

Attachment of property of person absconding.

89. The Court may, after issuing a proclamation under section 88, order the attachment of any property, moveable or immoveable, or both, belonging to the proclaimed person.

Such order shall authorize the attachment of any property belonging to such person within the district in which it is made; and it shall authorize the attachment of any property belonging to such person without such district, when endorsed by the District Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such property is situate.

If the property ordered to be attached be debts or other moveable property, the attachment under this section shall be made—

(a) by seizure; or

(b) by the appointment of a receiver or to any one on his behalf; or

(c) by an order in writing prohibiting the delivery of such property to the proclaimed person or to any one on his behalf; or

(d) by all or any two of such methods, as the Court thinks fit.

If the property ordered to be attached be immoveable, the attachment under this section shall, in the case of land paying revenue to Government, be made through the Collector of the District in which the land is situate, and in all other cases—

(e) by seizure; or

(f) by the appointment of a receiver; or

(g) by an order in writing prohibiting the payment of rent or delivery of property to the proclaimed person or to any one on his behalf; or

(h) by all or any two of such methods, as the Court thinks fit.

The powers, duties and liabilities of a receiver appointed under this section shall be the same as those of a receiver appointed under Chapter XXXVI of the Code of Civil Procedure.

If the person so believed to have absconded or to be concealing himself does not appear within the time specified in the proclamation, the property under attachment shall be at the disposal of Government; but it shall not be sold until the expiration of six months from the date of the attachment, unless it is of a perishable nature, or the Court considers that the sale would be for the benefit of the owner, in either of which cases the Court may cause it to be sold whenever it thinks fit.

Act X, 1872, ss. 173, 354. Act X, 1875, s. 83. Act IV, 1877, ss. 69, 138.

Restoration of attached property.

90. If, within two years from the date of the attachment, any person whose property is or has been at the disposal of Government under the last paragraph of section 89 appears voluntarily or is apprehended and brought before the Magistrate having jurisdiction, and proves to the satisfaction of the Court by whose order the property was attached that he did not abscond or conceal himself for the purpose of avoiding execution of the warrant, and that he had not such notice of the proclamation as to enable him to attend within the time specified therein, such property, or, if the same has been sold, the nett proceeds of the sale, or if part only thereof has been sold, the nett proceeds of the sale and the residue of the property, shall, after satisfying thereout all costs incurred in consequence of the attachment, be delivered to him.

D.—Other rules regarding processes.

Issue of warrant in lieu of or in addition to summons.

91. A Court may, in any case in which it is empowered by this Code to issue a summons for the appearance of any person other than a juror or assessor, issue, after recording its reasons in writing, a warrant for his arrest—

(b) if at such time he fails to appear and the summons is proved to have been duly served in time to admit of his appearing in accordance therewith and no reasonable excuse is offered for such failure.

Act IV, 1877, s. 140.

Power to take bond for appearance.

92. When any person for whose appearance or arrest the officer presiding in any Court is empowered to issue a summons or warrant is present in such Court, such officer may require such person to execute a bond with or without sureties for his appearance in such Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 366, para. 2. Act IV, 1877, s. 154, para. 3.

Arrest on breach of bond for appearance.

93. When any person who is bound by any bond taken under this Code to appear before a Court does not so appear, the officer presiding in such Court may issue a warrant directing that such person be arrested or produced before him.

Act X, 1872, ss. 158, para. 1, 185. Act IV, 1877, s. 52.

Provisions in this chapter generally applicable to summonses and warrants of arrest.

94. The provisions contained in this chapter relating to a summons and warrant and their issue, service and execution shall, so far as may be, apply to every summons and every warrant of arrest issued under this Code.

CHAPTER VII.

OF PROCESSES TO COMPEL THE PRODUCTION OF DOCUMENTS AND OTHER MOVEABLE PROPERTY AND FOR THE DISCOVERY OF PERSONS WRONGFULLY CONFINED.

A.—Summons to produce.

Act X, 1872, s. 365. Act X, 1875, s. 86. Act IV, 1877, s. 144.

Summons to produce document or other thing.

95. Whenever any Court, or in any place beyond the limits of the Presidency-towns any officer in charge of a Police-station, considers that the production of any document or other thing is necessary or desirable for the purposes of any investigation, inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code by or before such Court or officer, such Court may issue a summons, or such officer a written order, to the person in whose possession or power such document or thing is believed to be, requiring him to attend and produce it or to produce it at the time and place stated in the summons or order.

Act X, 1877, s. 164.

Any person required under this section merely to produce a document or other thing shall be deemed to have complied with the requisition if he cause such document or thing to be produced instead of attending personally to produce the same.

New.

Nothing in this section applies to a letter, post card, telegram or other document in the custody of the Postal or Telegraph Department.

Act X, 1872, s. 169 last sentence. Act IV, 1877, s. 146.

Procedure as to letters and telegrams.

96. If any document in such custody is, in the opinion of any District Magistrate, Chief Presidency Magistrate, High Court or Court of Session, wanted for the purpose of any investigation, inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, such Magistrate or Court may require the Postal or Telegraph Department, as the case may be, to deliver such document to such person as such Magistrate or Court directs.

If any such document is, in the opinion of any other Magistrate or of any Commissioner of Police, or District Superintendent of Police, wanted for any such purpose, he may require the Postal or Telegraph Department, as the case may be, to cause search to be made for and to detain such document, pending the orders of any such District Magistrate, Chief Presidency Magistrate or Court.

B.—Search-warrants.

Act X, 1872, s. 366. Act X, 1875, s. 87. Act IV, 1877, s. 145.

When search-warrant may be issued.

97. Where there is reason to believe that a person to whom a summons under section 95 or a requisition under section 96, paragraph one, has been or might be addressed will not or would not produce the document or other thing as directed in such summons, or where such document or other thing is not known to be in the possession of any person, or where the Court considers that the purposes of any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code will be served by a general search or inspection, it may issue a search-warrant; and the person to whom such warrant is directed may search or inspect in accordance therewith and the provisions hereinafter contained.

Act X, 1872, s. 368, para. 1. Act IV, 1877, s. 159.

Act X, 1872, s. 369, cl. 1.

Nothing herein contained shall authorize any Magistrate, other than a District Magistrate, to grant a warrant to search for a document in the custody of the Postal or Telegraph authorities.

Act X, 1872, s. 398, para. 2. General warrant should not be the rule.

98. The Court may, if it thinks fit, specify in the warrant the particular place or part thereof to which only the search or inspection shall extend; and the person charged with the execution of such warrant shall then search or inspect only the place or part so specified.

Power to restrict warrant.

Act X, 1872, s. 377. Act IV, 1877, s. 160. Section 97 seems to render this section superfluous.

99. If a District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate, Presidency Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class, upon information and after such inquiry as he thinks necessary, has reason to believe that any place is used for the deposit or sale of stolen property, Search of house suspected to contain stolen property, forged documents, &c.

or for the deposit or sale or manufacture of forged documents, false seals, or counterfeit stamps or coin, or instruments or materials for counterfeiting coin or stamps or for forging, or that any forged documents, false seals or counterfeit stamps, or coin, or instruments or materials used for counterfeiting coin or stamps or for forging are kept or deposited in any place, he may by his warrant authorize any Police-officer above the rank of a constable—

(a) to enter, with such assistance as may be required, such place, and

(b) to search the same as specified in the warrant, and

(c) to take possession of any property, documents, seals, stamps or coins therein found which he reasonably suspects to be stolen, unlawfully obtained, forged, false or counterfeit, and also any such instruments and materials as aforesaid, and

(d) to convey such property, documents, seals, stamps, coins, instruments or materials before a Magistrate, or to guard the same on the spot until the offender is taken before a Magistrate, or otherwise to dispose thereof in some place of safety, and

(e) to take into custody and carry before a Magistrate every person found in such place who appears to have been privy to the deposit, sale or manufacture or keeping of any such property, documents, seals, stamps, coins, instruments or materials, knowing or having reasonable cause to suspect the said property to have been stolen or otherwise unlawfully obtained, or the said documents, seals, stamps, coins, instruments or materials to have been forged, falsified or counterfeited, or the said instruments or materials to have been or to be intended to be used for counterfeiting coin or for forging.

Act X, 1872, ss. 373, para. 2, 374.

100. When, in the execution of a search-warrant at any place beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court which issued the same, any of the things for which search is made are found, such things, together with the list of the same prepared under the provisions hereinafter contained, shall be immediately taken before the Magistrate issuing the warrant, unless such place is nearer to the Magistrate having jurisdiction therein than to such Court, in which case the list and things shall be immediately taken before such Magistrate; and, unless there be good cause to the contrary, such Magistrate shall make an order authorizing them to be taken to such Court.

Disposal of things found in search beyond jurisdiction.

C.—Discovery of persons wrongfully confined.

Search for persons wrongfully confined.

101. If any Presidency Magistrate, Magistrate of the first class, or Sub-divisional Magistrate has reason to believe that any person is confined so that such confinement amounts to an offence, he may issue a search-warrant, and the person to whom such warrant is directed may search for the person so confined; and such search shall be made in accordance therewith, and the person if found shall be immediately taken before a Magistrate.

D.—General Provisions relating to searches.

Act X, 1872, ss. 370, 371, 372, 373, para. 1, 375, 376. Act IV, 1877, s. 161.

102. The provisions of sections 75, 77, 79, 80, 83, 84 and 85 shall, so far as may be, apply to all search-warrants issued under section 97, section 99, or section 101.

Direction, &c., of search-warrants.

Act X, 1872, s. 382. Act IV, 1877, s. 162.

103. Whenever any place liable to search or inspection under this chapter is closed, any person residing in, or being in charge of, such place shall, on demand of the officer or other person executing the warrant, allow him free ingress thereto, and afford all reasonable facilities for a search therein.

Persons in charge of closed place to allow search.

If ingress into such place cannot be so obtained, the officer or other person executing the warrant may proceed in manner provided by section 48.

Act X, 1872, ss. 383, 384. Act IV, 1877, ss. 163, 164.

Act X, 1872, s. 385. Act IV, 1877, s. 165.

104. Before making a search under this chapter, the officer or other person about to make it shall call upon two or more respectable inhabitants of the locality in which the place to be searched is situate to attend and witness the search.

Search to be made in presence of witnesses.

The search shall be made in their presence, and a list of all things found in the course of such search shall be prepared by such officer or other person and signed by such witnesses, but no person witnessing a search under this section shall be required to attend the Court as a witness unless specially summoned by it.

Occupant of place searched may attend.

The occupant of the place searched, or some person in his behalf, shall, in every instance, be permitted to attend during the search.

E.—Miscellaneous.

Act X, 1872, s. 367, first part. Act X, 1875, s. 88. Act IV, 1877, s. 147.

105. Any Court may, if it thinks fit, impound any document or other thing produced before it under this Code.

Power to impound document produced.

Act X, 1872, s. 378, para. 2.

106. Any Magistrate may direct a search to be made in his presence of any place for the search of which he is competent to issue a search-warrant.

Magistrate may direct search in his presence.

PART IV.
PREVENTION OF OFFENCES.

CHAPTER VIII.
OF SECURITY FOR KEEPING THE PEACE AND FOR GOOD BEHAVIOUR.

A.—Security for keeping the Peace on Conviction.

Act X, 1872, ss. 490, para. 1, 490, clause 1. Act X, 1875, s. 140. Act IV, 1877, s. 208. Bond becomes void when conviction set aside, N.-W. P., 1875, p. 376.

107. Whenever any person accused of rioting, assault or other breach of the peace, or of abetting the same, or of assembling armed men or taking other unlawful measures with the evident intention of committing the same, or any person accused of committing criminal intimidation by threatening injury to person or property, is convicted of such offence before a High Court, a Court of Session or the Court of a Presidency Magistrate, a District Magistrate, a Sub-divisional Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class,

Security for keeping the peace on conviction.

and such Court is of opinion that it is necessary to require such person to execute a bond for keeping the peace, such Court may, at the time of passing sentence on such person, order him to execute a bond for a sum proportionate to his means, with or without sureties, for keeping the peace during such period not exceeding three years as it thinks fit to fix.

Act X, 1872, ss. 490, 493, para. 1. Cf. s. 506. Act X, 1875, s. 141. Act IV, 1877, s. 209.

If the conviction is set aside on appeal or otherwise, the bond so executed shall become void.

B.—Security for keeping the Peace in other Cases and Security for Good Behaviour.

Act X, 1872, ss. 491, 492, 493, first para. Act IV, 1877, ss. 210, 211.

108. Whenever a Presidency Magistrate, a District Magistrate, a Sub-divisional Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class receives information that any person is likely to commit a breach of the peace, or to do any act that may probably occasion a breach of the peace, within the local limits of such Magistrate's jurisdiction, or that there is within such limits a person who is likely to commit a breach of the peace or do any act as aforesaid in any place beyond such limits, the Magistrate may, in manner hereinafter provided, require such person to show cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond, with or without sureties, for keeping the peace for such period not exceeding three years as the Magistrate thinks fit to fix.

Security for keeping the peace in other cases.

One year in Act X, 1872, s. 498, para. 1. Act X, 1872, s. 494, proviso.

Procedure of Magistrate, &c., not empowered to act under section 108.

109. When any Magistrate not empowered to proceed under section 108, or a Court of Session or High Court, has reason to believe that any person is likely to commit a breach of the peace or to do any act that may probably occasion a breach of the peace, and that such breach of the peace cannot be prevented otherwise than by detaining such person in custody, such Magistrate or Court may issue a warrant for his arrest (if he is not already in custody or before the Court), and may send him before a Magistrate empowered to deal with the case under section 108.

A Magistrate before whom a person is sent under this section may in his discretion detain such person in custody until the completion of the enquiry hereinafter prescribed.

Act X, 1872, ss. 504, paras. 1 and 4, 515, para. 2. Act IV, 1877, ss. 213, 231.

Security for good behaviour from vagrants and suspected persons.

110. Whenever a Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class receives information—

(a) that any person is taking precautions to conceal his presence within the local limits of such Magistrate's jurisdiction, and that there is reason to believe that such person is taking such precautions with a view to committing an offence, or

(b) that there is within such limits a person who has no ostensible means of subsistence, or who cannot give a satisfactory account of himself, such Magistrate may, in manner hereinafter provided, require such person to show cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond, with sureties, for his good behaviour for such period not exceeding six months as the Magistrate thinks fit to fix.

Act X, 1872, ss. 505, 506. Act IV, 1877, ss. 213, 214, 281. 10 Kin. 271.

Security for good behaviour from habitual offenders.

111. Whenever any such Magistrate receives information that any person within the local limits of his jurisdiction is an habitual robber, housebreaker or thief, or an habitual receiver of stolen property knowing the same to have been stolen, such Magistrate may, in manner hereinafter provided, require such person to show cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond, with sureties, for his good behaviour for such period not exceeding three years as the Magistrate thinks fit to fix.

Act X, 1872, s. 517. Act IV, 1877, s. 232.

112. The provisions of sections 110 and 111 do not apply to European British subjects in cases where they may be dealt with under the European Vagrancy Act, 1874.

Proviso as to European vagrants.

Act X, 1872, ss. 492, 509, para. 1, 515, para. 1. Act IV, 1877, ss. 216, para. 1, 222.

113. When a Magistrate acting under section 108, section 110 or section 111 deems it necessary to require any person to show cause under such section, he shall make an order in writing, setting forth the substance of the information received, the amount of the bond to be executed, the term for which it is to be in force, and the number, character and class of sureties (if any) required.

Order to be made.

Act X, 1872, s. 492, Expl. Act IV, 1877, s. 216, para. 2.

114. If the person in respect of whom such order is made is present in court, it shall be read over to him or, if he so desires, the substance thereof shall be explained to him.

Procedure in respect of person present in Court.

115. If such person is not present in court, the Magistrate shall issue a summons requiring him to appear, or, when such person is in custody, a warrant directing the officer in whose custody he is to bring him, before the Court:

Summons or warrant in case of person not so present.

Act X, 1872, ss. 494, 515, para. 1. Act IV, 1877, s. 217, proviso. In bad livelihood cases police can arrest without warrant.

Provided that, whenever it appears to such Magistrate, upon the report of a Police-officer or upon other information (the substance of which report or information shall be recorded by the Magistrate), that there is reason to fear the commission of a breach of the peace, and that such breach of the peace cannot be prevented otherwise than by the immediate arrest of such person, the Magistrate may at any time issue a warrant for his arrest.

116. Every summons or warrant issued under section 115 shall be accompanied by a copy of the order made under section 113, and such copy shall be delivered by the officer serving or executing such summons or warrant to the person served with, or arrested under, the same.

Copy of order under section 113 to accompany summons or warrant.

Act X, 1872, s. 495. Act IV, 1877, s. 218.

117. The Magistrate may, if he sees sufficient cause, dispense with the personal attendance of any person called upon to shew cause why he should not be ordered to execute a bond for keeping the peace, and may permit him to appear by a pleader.

Power to dispense with personal attendance.

New. 1 O'Kin. 130. See Act X, 1872, s. 491, Explns.

118. When an order under section 113 has been read or explained to a person present in Court under section 114, or when any person appears or is brought before a Magistrate in compliance with, or in execution of, a summons or warrant issued under section 115, the Magistrate shall proceed to enquire into the truth of the information upon which he has acted.

Inquiry as to truth of information.

Act X, 1872, s. 515, para. 4

Such enquiry shall be made, as nearly as may be, where the order requires security for keeping the peace, in the manner hereinafter prescribed for conducting trials in summons-cases; and where the order requires security for good behaviour, in the manner hereinafter prescribed for conducting trials in warrant-cases, except that no charge need be framed.

For the purposes of this section the fact that a person is an habitual offender may be proved by evidence of general repute or otherwise.

Act X, 1872, s. 497. Act IV, 1877, s. 220.

119. If, upon such enquiry, it is proved that it is necessary for keeping the peace or maintaining good behaviour, as the case may be, that the person in respect of whom the enquiry is made should execute a bond with or without sureties, the Magistrate shall make an order accordingly:

Order to give security.

Provided—

1st—that no person shall be ordered to give security of a nature different from, or of an amount larger than, or for a period longer than, that specified in the order made under section 113:

Act X, 1872, s. 498, para. 1. 1 O'Kin. 95.

2ndly—that the amount of every bond shall be fixed with due regard to the circumstances of the case and shall not be excessive.

3rdly—that when the person in respect of whom the enquiry is made is a minor, the bond shall be executed only by his sureties.

Act X, 1872, s. 496. Act IV, 1877, s. 219.

120. If, on an enquiry under section 118, it is not proved that there is occasion to bind over the person in respect of whom such enquiry is made to keep the peace, or to be of good behaviour, as the case may be, the Magistrate shall make an entry on the record to that effect, and, if such person is in custody only for the purposes of the enquiry, shall release him, or if such person is not in custody shall discharge him.

Discharge of person informed against.

C.—Proceedings in all Cases subsequent to Order to furnish Security.

Act X, 1872, ss. 499, para. 2, 504, para. 2. Act IV, 1877, ss. 210, 224. I. L. R., 1 All., 666, n.

121. If any person in respect of whom an order requiring security is made under section 107 or section 119 is, at the time such order is made, sentenced to, or undergoing a sentence of, imprisonment, the period for which such security is required shall commence on the expiration of such sentence.

Commencement of period for which security is required.

In other cases such period shall commence on the date of such order.

Act X, 1872, s. 502, para. 6. Act IV, 1877, s. 227.

122. The bond to be executed by any such person shall bind him to keep the peace or to be of good behaviour, as the case may be, and in either case the commission or attempt to commit, or abetment of, any offence whatever, and wherever it may be committed, is a breach of the bond.

Contents of bond.

Act X, 1872, s. 516.

123. A Magistrate may refuse to accept any surety for good behaviour offered under this chapter, on the ground that, for reasons to be recorded by the Magistrate, such surety is an unfit person.

Power to reject sureties.

Act X, 1872, ss. 489, para. 1, last sentence, 490, last sentence, 497, 498, 499, para. 3, 510. Act IV, 1877, s. 223.

124. If any person ordered to give security under section 107 or section 119 does not give such security on or before the date on which the period for which such security is to be given commences, he shall, except in the case next hereinafter mentioned, be committed to prison, or, if he is already in prison, be detained in prison, until such period expires or until within such period he gives the security required.

Imprisonment in default of security.

Act X, 1872, ss. 507, 508. Act IV, 1877, s. 221.

When such person has been ordered by a Magistrate to give security for a period exceeding one year, such Magistrate shall, if such person does not give such security as aforesaid, issue a warrant directing him to be detained pending the orders of the Court of Session, or, if such Magistrate be a Presidency Magistrate, pending the orders of the High Court, and the proceedings shall be laid, as soon as conveniently may be, before such Court.

Proceedings when to be laid before High Court or Court of Session.

Such Court, after examining such proceedings and requiring any further information or evidence which it thinks necessary, may pass such order on the case as it thinks fit: Provided that the period (if any) for which any person is imprisoned for failure to give security shall not exceed three years.

Act X, 1872, s. 499, para. 3.

Imprisonment for failure to give security for keeping the peace shall be simple.

Kind of imprisonment.

Act X, 1872, s. 510, para. 3.

Imprisonment for failure to give security for good behaviour may be rigorous or simple as the Court or Magistrate in each case directs.

Act X, 1872, ss. 500, 511. Act IV, 1877, s. 225.

125. Whenever the District Magistrate or a Presidency Magistrate is of opinion that any person imprisoned for failing to give security under this chapter, whether by the order of such Magistrate or that of his predecessor in office, or of some subordinate Magistrate, may be released without hazard to the community or to any other person, he may order such person to be discharged.

Power to release persons imprisoned for failing to give security.

Act X, 1872, s. 512.

Whenever the District Magistrate or a Presidency Magistrate is of opinion that any person imprisoned for failing to give security under this chapter as ordered by the Court of Session or High Court may be released without such hazard, such Magistrate shall make an immediate report of the case for the orders of the Court of Session or High Court, as the case may be, and such Court may, if it thinks fit, order such person to be discharged.

Act X, 1872, s. 500.

126. The Magistrate of the District may at any time, if he see sufficient cause, cancel any bond for keeping the peace executed under this chapter by order of any Court in the District not superior to his Court.

Power of District Magistrate to cancel any bond for keeping the peace.

Act X, 1872, ss. 501, 513. Act IV, 1877, s. 226.

127. Any security for the peaceable conduct or good behaviour of another person may at any time apply to a Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class to cancel the bond.

Discharge of sureties.

On such application being made, the Magistrate shall issue his summons or warrant, as he thinks fit, requiring the person for whom such surety is bound to appear or to be brought before him.

When such person appears or is brought before the Magistrate, such Magistrate shall cancel the bond, and shall order such person to give, for the unexpired portion of the term of such bond, fresh security of the same description as the original security. Every such order shall, for the purposes of sections 122, 123, 124 and 125, be deemed to be an order made under section 107 or section 119 as the case may be.

CHAPTER IX.

Unlawful Assemblies.

Act X, 1872, s. 480. Act XI, 1874, s. 43. Penal Code, ss. 145, 151.

128. Any Magistrate or officer in charge of a Police-station, whether within or without the Presidency-towns, may command any unlawful assembly, or any assembly of five or more persons likely to cause a disturbance of the public peace, to disperse; and it shall thereupon be the duty of the members of such assembly to disperse accordingly.

Assembly to disperse on command of Magistrate or Police-officer.

Act X, 1872, s. 481.

129. If, upon being so commanded, any such assembly does not disperse, or if without being so commanded it conducts itself in such a manner as to show a determination not to disperse, any Magistrate or officer in charge of a Police-station, whether within or without the Presidency-towns, may proceed to disperse such assembly by force, and may require the assistance of any male person, not being an officer or soldier in Her Majesty's Army or a Volunteer enrolled under the Indian Volunteers Act, 1869, and acting as such, for the purpose of dispersing such assembly, and, if necessary, arresting and confining the persons who form part of it in order to disperse such assembly or that they may be punished according to law.

Use of civil force to disperse.

Volunteers added.

Act X, 1872, s. 482.

130. If any such assembly cannot be otherwise dispersed, and if it is necessary for the public security that it should be dispersed, the Magistrate of the highest rank who is present may cause it to be dispersed by military force.

Use of military force.

Act X, 1872, s. 484, adding volunteers.

131. When a Magistrate determines to disperse any such assembly by military force, he may require any Commissioned or Non-commissioned officer in command of any soldiers in Her Majesty's Army or of any Volunteers enrolled under the Indian Volunteers Act, 1869, to disperse such assembly by such force, and to arrest and confine such persons forming part of it as the Magistrate may direct, or as it may be necessary to arrest and confine in order to disperse the assembly, or that they may be punished according to law.

Duty of officer commanding troops required by Magistrate to disperse assembly.

Every such officer shall obey such requisition in such manner as he thinks fit; but in so doing he shall use as little force, and do as little injury to person and property, as may be consistent with dispersing the assembly and arresting and detaining such persons.

Act X, 1872, s. 487.

Power of commissioned military officers to disperse assembly.

132. When the public security is manifestly endangered by any such assembly, and when no Magistrate can be communicated with, any commissioned officer of Her Majesty's Army may disperse such assembly by military force, and may arrest and confine any persons forming part of it in order to disperse such assembly, or that they may be punished according to law; but if while he is acting under this section, it becomes possible for him to communicate with a Magistrate, he shall do so, and shall thenceforward obey the instructions of the Magistrate as to whether he shall or shall not continue such action.

Act X, 1872, s. 488.

Protection against prosecution for acts done under this chapter.

133. No prosecution against any Magistrate, Military officer, Police-officer, soldier or volunteer for any act purporting to be done under this chapter shall be instituted in any Criminal Court, except with the sanction of the Governor General in Council; and

Act X, 1872, ss. 483, 485, 486.

(a) no Magistrate or Police-officer acting under this chapter in good faith,

(b) no officer acting under section 132 in good faith,

(c) no person doing any act in good faith in compliance with a requisition under section 129 or section 131, and

(d) no inferior officer, or soldier, or volunteer, doing any act in obedience to any order which under military law he was bound to obey, shall be deemed to have thereby committed an offence.

CHAPTER X.

Public Nuisances.

Act X, 1872, s. 521, substituting "way" for "thoroughfare."

Conditional order for removal of nuisance.

134. Whenever a District Magistrate, a Sub-divisional Magistrate or, when empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, a Magistrate of the first class, considers, on receiving a report or other information and on taking such evidence (if any) as he thinks fit, that any unlawful obstruction or nuisance should be removed from any way or river which may lawfully be used by the public, or from any public place, or that any trade or occupation, or the keeping of any goods or merchandise, by reason of its being injurious to the health or physical comfort of the community, or offensive to the religious feelings of any considerable section thereof, should be suppressed or removed or prohibited, or that the construction of any building, or the disposal of any substance as likely to occasion conflagration or explosion, should be prevented or stopped, or that any building is in such a state of weakness that it is likely to fall and thereby cause injury to persons passing by, and that its removal in consequence is necessary, or that any tank or well adjacent to any such way should be fenced in such a manner as to prevent danger arising to the public,— such Magistrate may make a conditional order requiring the person causing such obstruction or nuisance, or carrying on such trade or occupation, or keeping any such goods or merchandise, or owning, possessing or controlling such building, substance, tank or well, within a time to be fixed in the order, to remove such obstruction or nuisance; or to suppress or remove such trade or occupation; or to remove such goods or merchandise; or to prevent or stop the construction of such building; or to remove, repair or support it; or to alter the disposal of such substance; or to fence such tank or well, as the case may be; or to appear before himself or some other Magistrate of the first or second class, at a time and place to be fixed by the order, and move to have the order set aside or modified in manner hereinafter provided.

No order duly made by a Magistrate under this section shall be called in question in any Civil Court.

Explanation.—A "public place" includes also property belonging to the State, camping grounds, and grounds left unoccupied for sanitary and recreative purposes.

"Combustible" omitted.

Act X, 1872, s. 522.

Service or notification of order.

135. The order shall, if practicable, be served on the person against whom it is made in manner herein provided for service of a summons.

If such order cannot be so served, it shall be notified by proclamation, published in such manner as the Local Government may direct, and a written notice thereof shall be stuck up at such place or places as may be fittest for conveying the information to such person.

Act X, 1872, s. 523, para. 1.

Person to whom order is addressed to obey, or shew cause or claim jury.

136. The person against whom such order is made shall—

(a) perform, within the time specified in the order, the act directed thereby; or

(b) appear in accordance with such order and either show cause against the same, or apply to such Magistrate to appoint a jury to try whether the same is reasonable and proper.

Act X, 1872, s. 525.

Consequence of his failing to do so.

Act X, 1872, ss. 525, 527. Act XI, 1874, s. 45.

Procedure where he appears to shew cause.

138. If he appears and shews cause against the order, the Magistrate shall take evidence in the matter.

1 O'Kin. 486.

If the Magistrate is satisfied that the order is not reasonable and proper, no further proceedings shall be taken in the case.

If the Magistrate is not so satisfied, the order shall be made absolute.

Act X, 1872, s. 523, para. 2.

Procedure where he claims jury.

139. On receiving an application under section 136 to appoint a jury, the Magistrate shall—

Col. 509.

(a) forthwith appoint a jury consisting of an uneven number of persons not less than five, of whom the foreman and one half of the remaining members shall be nominated by such Magistrate, and the other members by the applicant;

Act X, 1872, s. 524, para. 1.

(b) summon such foreman and members to attend at such place and time as the Magistrate thinks fit; and

Act X, 1872, s. 523, para. 5.

(c) fix a time within which they are to return their verdict.

Act X, 1872, ss. 523, para. 6, 525, para. 2.

Procedure where jury finds Magistrate's order to be reasonable.

140. If the jury or a majority of the jurors find that the order of the Magistrate is reasonable and proper as originally made, or subject to a modification which the Magistrate accepts, the Magistrate shall make the order absolute, subject to such modification (if any).

In other cases, no further proceedings shall be taken.

Act X, 1872, s. 526, para. 1.

Procedure on order being made absolute.

141. When an order has been made absolute under section 137, section 138, or section 140, the Magistrate shall give notice of the same to the person against whom the order was made and shall further require him to perform the act directed by the order within a time to be fixed in the notice, and inform him that, in case of disobedience, he will be liable to the penalty provided by section 188 of the Indian Penal Code.

Act X, 1872, s. 526, para. 2.

Consequences of disobedience to order.

If such act is not performed within the time fixed, the Magistrate may cause it to be performed, and may recover the costs of performing it, either by the sale of any building, goods or other property removed by his order, or by the distress and sale of any other moveable property of such person within or without the local limits of such Magistrate's jurisdiction. If such other property is without such limits, the order shall authorize its attachment and sale when endorsed by the Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the property to be attached is found.

No suit shall lie in respect of anything done in good faith under this section.

Act X, 1872, s. 525, para. 3.

Act X, 1872, s. 523, para. 4.

Procedure on failure to appoint jury or omission to return verdict.

142. If the applicant by neglect or otherwise prevents the appointment of the jury, or if from any cause the jury appointed do not return their verdict within the time fixed or within such further time as the Magistrate may in his discretion allow, the Magistrate may pass such order as he thinks fit, and such order shall be executed in the manner provided by section 141.

Act X, 1872, s. 528.

Injunction pending inquiry.

143. If a Magistrate making an order under section 134 considers that immediate measures should be taken to prevent imminent danger or injury of a serious kind to the public, he may, whether a jury is to be, or has been, appointed or not, issue such an injunction to the person against whom the order was made as is required to obviate or prevent such danger or injury.

In default of such person forthwith obeying such injunction, the Magistrate may himself use, or cause to be used, such means as he thinks fit to obviate such danger or to prevent such injury.

No suit shall lie in respect of anything done in good faith by a Magistrate under this section.

Act X, 1872, s. 519. Penal Code, s. 291.

Magistrate may prohibit repetition or continuance of public nuisance.

144. A District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate or any other Magistrate empowered by the Local Government or the District Magistrate in this behalf may order any person not to repeat or continue a public nuisance, as defined in the Indian Penal Code or any special or local law.

CHAPTER XI.

Temporary orders in urgent cases.

Act X, 1872, s. 518, with Expl. 1. 1 O'Kin. 56.

Power to issue order absolute at once in urgent cases.

145. In cases where, in the opinion of a District Magistrate, a Sub-divisional Magistrate, or of any other Magistrate specially empowered by the Local Government or the District Magistrate to act under this section, a speedy remedy is desirable, such Magistrate may, by a written order stating the material facts of the case and served in manner provided by section 135, direct any person to abstain from a certain act or to take certain order with certain property in his possession, or under his management, if such Magistrate considers that such direction is likely to prevent, or tends to prevent, obstruction, annoyance or injury, or risk of obstruction, annoyance or injury, to any persons lawfully employed, or danger to human life, health or safety, or a riot or an affray.

Act X, 1872, s. 518. 1 Ben. Ap. Cr. 20.

Act X, 1872, s. 518, Expl. 2.

An order under this section may, in cases of emergency or in cases where the circumstances do not admit of the serving in due time of a notice upon the person against whom the order is directed, be passed ex parte.

Disputes as to immoveable property.

Act X, 1872, s. 518, Expl. III.

An order under this section may be directed to a particular individual, or to the public generally when frequenting or visiting a particular place.

As to disobedience to such orders, see Penal Code, s. 188.

Act X, 1872, s. 518, Expl. IV.

Any Magistrate may rescind or alter any order made under this section by himself or any Magistrate subordinate to him or by his predecessor in office.

5 Cal. 7.
4 Cal. 410.

No order under this section shall remain in force for more than two months from the making thereof; unless, in cases of danger to human life, health or safety, or a riot or affray, the Local Government by notification in the official Gazette otherwise directs.

CHAPTER XII.

DISPUTES AS TO IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

Act X, 1872, s. 530. 3 Calc. 552.

146. Whenever a District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate, or a Magistrate of the first class, is satisfied from a police report or other information that a dispute likely to cause a breach of the peace exists concerning any tangible immoveable property, or the boundaries thereof, within the local limits of his jurisdiction, he shall make an order in writing stating the grounds of his being so satisfied, and requiring the parties concerned in such dispute to attend his Court, in person or by pleader, within a time to be fixed by such Magistrate, and to put in written statements of their respective claims as respects the fact of actual physical possession of the subject of dispute.

Procedure where dispute concerning land, &c., is likely to cause breach of peace.

I. L. R. 3 Cal. 320.

The Magistrate shall then, without reference to the merits of the claims of any of such parties to a right to possess the subject of dispute, peruse the statements so put in, hear the parties, receive the evidence produced by them respectively, consider the effect of such evidence, take such further evidence (if any) as he thinks necessary, and then, if possible, decide whether any and which of the parties is in such possession of the said subject.

Inquiry as to possession.

1 O'Kin. 136. 2 O'Kin. 67, 284. See 6 Calc. 206.

If the Magistrate decides that one of the parties is in such possession of the said subject, he shall issue an order declaring such party to be entitled to retain possession thereof until evicted therefrom in due course of law, and forbidding all disturbance of such possession until such eviction.

Party in possession to be continued until legally evicted.

Act X, 1872, s. 531. 1 O'Kin. 86.

147. If the Magistrate decides that none of the parties is in such possession, or is unable to satisfy himself as to which of them is in such possession, of the subject of dispute, he may attach it until a competent Civil Court has determined the rights of the parties thereto, or the person entitled to possession thereof.

Power to attach subject of dispute.

148. Whenever any such Magistrate is satisfied as aforesaid that a dispute likely to cause a breach of the peace exists concerning the right to do or prevent the doing of anything in or upon any tangible immoveable property situate within the local limits of his jurisdiction, he may inquire into the matter; and may, if it appears to him that such right exists, make an order permitting such thing to be done, or directing that such thing shall not be done, as the case may be, until the person objecting to such thing being done or claiming that such thing may be done, obtains the decision of a competent Civil Court, adjudging him to be entitled to prevent the doing of, or to do, such thing, as the case may be:

Disputes concerning easements, &c.

Act X, 1872, s. 532. 4 Calc. 324.

Provided that no order shall be passed under this section permitting the doing of anything where the right to do such thing is exerciseable at all times of the year, unless such right has been ordinarily exercised within three months next before the institution of the inquiry; or, where the right is exerciseable only at particular seasons, unless the right has been so exercised during the season next before such institution.

Act X, 1872, s. 533.

149. Whenever a local inquiry is necessary for the purposes of this chapter, any District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate may depute any Magistrate subordinate to him to make the inquiry, and may furnish him with such written instructions consistent with the law for the time being in force as may seem necessary for his guidance, and may declare by whom the whole or any part of the necessary expenses of the inquiry shall be paid.

Local inquiry.

The report of the person so deputed may be read as evidence in the case.

CHAPTER XIII.

PREVENTIVE ACTION OF THE POLICE.

Act X, 1872, s. 95.

150. Every Police-officer may interpose for the purpose of preventing, and shall to the best of his ability prevent, the commission of any cognizable offence.

Police to prevent cognizable offences.

Act X, 1872, s. 96.

151. Every Police-officer receiving information of a design to commit any cognizable offence shall communicate such information to the Police-officer to whom he is subordinate, and to any other officer whose duty it is to prevent or take cognizance of the commission of any such offence.

Information of design to commit such offences.

Act X, 1872, s. 97.

152. A Police-officer knowing of a design to commit any cognizable offence may arrest, without orders from a Magistrate and without a warrant, the person so designing, if it appears to such officer that the commission of the offence cannot be otherwise prevented.

Arrest to prevent such offences.

Act X, 1872, s. 98, para. 1.

153. A Police-officer may of his own authority interpose to prevent any injury attempted to be committed in his view to any public property, moveable or immoveable, or the removal or injury of any public land-mark, or buoy or other mark used for navigation.

Prevention of injury to public property.

Act X, 1872, s. 381.

154. Any officer in charge of a Police-station may, without a warrant, enter any place within the limits of such station for the purpose of inspecting or searching for any weights or measures, or instruments for weighing, used or kept therein, whenever he has reason to believe that there are in such place any weights, measures or instruments for weighing which are false.

Inspection of weights and measures.

If he finds in such place any weights, measures or instruments for weighing which are false, he may seize the same, and shall forthwith give information of such seizure to the Magistrate having jurisdiction.

PART V.

INFORMATION TO THE POLICE AND OF THEIR POWERS TO INVESTIGATE.

CHAPTER XIV.

Act X, 1872, s. 112. Cf. Penal Code, s. 180.

155. Every information relating to the commission of a cognizable offence, if given orally to an officer in charge of a Police-station, shall be reduced to writing by him or under his direction, and any such information, whether given in writing or reduced to writing as aforesaid, shall be signed by the person giving it; and the substance thereof shall be entered in a book to be kept by such officer in such form as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf.

Information in cognizable cases.

Act X, 1872, s. 113.

156. When information is given to an officer in charge of a Police-station, of the commission within the limits of such station of a non-cognizable offence, he shall enter in a book to be kept as aforesaid the substance of such complaint and refer the complainant to the Magistrate.

Information in non-cognizable cases.

Act X, 1872, s. 110.

No Police-officer shall investigate a non-cognizable case without the order of a Magistrate of the first or second class having power to try such case or commit the same for trial.

Investigation into non-cognizable cases.

Any Police-officer receiving such order may exercise the same powers in respect of the investigation (except the power to arrest without warrant) as an officer in charge of a Police-station may exercise in a cognizable case.

Act X, 1872, ss. 109, 114, para. 2; v. infra, s. 184.

157. Any officer in charge of a Police-station may, without the order of a Magistrate, investigate any cognizable case which a Court having jurisdiction over the local area within the limits of such station would have power to enquire into or try under the provisions of Chapter XV relating to the place of inquiry or trial.

Investigation into cognizable cases.

Act X, 1872, s. 114, last para.

No proceeding of a Police-officer in any such case shall at any stage be called in question on the ground that the case was one which such officer was not empowered under this section to investigate.

Act X, 1872, s. 114, para. 1.

158. If, from information received or otherwise, an officer in charge of a Police-station has reason to suspect the commission of an offence which he is empowered under section 157 to investigate, he shall forthwith send a report of the same to a Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of such offence upon a police report, and shall proceed in person, or shall depute one of his subordinate officers to proceed, to the spot to investigate the facts and circumstances of the case, and to take such measures as may be necessary for the discovery and arrest of the offender:

Procedure where cognizable offence suspected.

See Nelson, 109.

Act X, 1872, s. 116.

Provided that when any information as to the commission of any such offence is given against any person by name and the case is not of a serious nature, the officer in charge of a Police-station need not proceed in person or depute a subordinate officer to make an investigation on the spot:

Where local investigation dispensed with.

Act X, 1872, s. 117, para. 1.

Provided also that, if it appear to the officer in charge of a Police-station that there is no sufficient ground for entering on an investigation, he shall not investigate the case.

Where Police-officer in charge sees no sufficient ground for investigation.

In each of these cases the officer in charge of the Police-station shall state in his said report his reasons for not fully complying with the requirements of the first clause of this section.

Act X, 1872, s. 117, para. 2.

159. Every report sent to a Magistrate under section 158 shall, if the Local Government so directs, be submitted through such superior officer of Police as the Local Government, by general or special order, appoints in that behalf.

Reports under section 158 how submitted.

Such superior officer may give such instructions to the officer in charge of the Police-station as he thinks fit, and shall, after recording such instructions on such report, transmit the same without delay to the Magistrate.

Act X, 1872, s. 115.

160. Such Magistrate, on receiving such report, may, if he thinks fit, at once proceed, or depute any Magistrate subordinate to him to proceed, to hold an investigation or preliminary inquiry into, or otherwise to dispose of, the case in manner provided in this Code.

Power to hold investigation or preliminary inquiry.

Act X, 1872, s. 118.

161. Any Police-officer making an investigation under this chapter may, by order in writing, require the attendance before himself of any person being within the limits of his own or any adjoining station who, from the information given or otherwise, appears to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case; and such person shall attend as so required.

Police-officer's power to require attendance of witnesses.

Act X, 1872, ss. 118, 119, paras. 1 and 2, 121.

162. Any Police-officer making an investigation under this chapter may examine orally any person supposed to be acquainted with the facts and circumstances of the case, and may reduce into writing any statement made by the person so examined.

Examination of witnesses by Police.

Such person shall be bound to answer all questions relating to such case put him by such officer other than questions the answers to which would have a tendency to expose him to a criminal charge or to a penalty or forfeiture.

Act X, 1872, s. 119, para. 3, 121. 11 Bom. H.C. Rep., 120.

163. No statement, other than a dying declaration, made by any person to the police in the course of an investigation under this chapter shall be used as evidence against the accused or shall, if reduced into writing, be signed by the person making it.

Statements to Police not to be signed or admitted in evidence.

Act X, 1872, ss. 120, 184. Cf. Act I, 1872, s. 24. See 6, Calc. 293-297.

164. No Police-officer or other person in authority shall offer or make any such inducement, threat or promise as is mentioned in the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 24.

No inducement to be offered to confess.

Nelson, 113.

But no Police-officer or other person shall prevent, by any caution or otherwise, any person from making in the course of any investigation under this chapter any statement which he may be disposed to make of his own free will.

Act X, 1872, s. 122. Act IV, 1877, s. 16. See 6 Cal. 293-297.

165. Any Magistrate not being a Police-officer may record any statement or confession made to him in the course of an investigation under this chapter, or at any time afterwards before the commencement of the inquiry or trial.

Power to record statements and confessions.

I. L. R., 1 Bom. 219.

Such statements shall be recorded in such of the manners hereinafter prescribed for recording evidence as is in his opinion best fitted for the circumstances of the case. Such confessions shall be recorded and signed in the manner provided in section 364, and shall then be forwarded to the Magistrate by whom the case is inquired into or tried.

No Magistrate shall record any such confession unless, upon questioning the person making it, he has reason to believe that it was made voluntarily; and he shall make a memorandum at the foot thereof to the following effect:—

"I believe that this confession was voluntarily made. It was taken in my presence and hearing, and was read over to the person making it and admitted by him to be correct, and it contains a full and true account of the statement made by him.

"(Signed) A. B.,
"Magistrate."

Act X, 1872, s. 379.

166. Whenever an officer in charge of a Police-station, or a Police-officer making an investigation, considers that the production of any document or other thing is necessary to the conduct of an investigation into any offence which he is authorized to investigate, and there is reason to believe that a person to whom a summons under section 95 has been or might be addressed will not or would not produce such document or other thing as directed in the summons, or when such document or other thing is not known to be in the possession of any person, such officer may search, or cause search to be made, for the same, in any place within the limits of the station of which he is in charge, or to which he is attached.

Search by officer in charge of Police-station.

Such officer shall, if practicable, conduct the search in person.

If he is unable to conduct the search in person, and there is no other person competent to make the search present at the time, he may require any officer subordinate to him to make the search, and he shall deliver to such subordinate officer an order in writing, specifying the document or other thing for which search is to be made, and the place to be searched; and such subordinate officer may thereupon search for such thing in such place.

The provisions of this Code as to search-warrants shall, so far as may be, apply to a search made under this section.

Act X, 1872, s. 380.

167. An officer in charge of a Police-station may require an officer in charge of another Police-station, whether in the same or a different District, to cause a search to be made in any place, in any case in which the former officer might cause such search to be made within the limits of his own station.

When officer in charge of Police-station may require another to issue search-warrant.

Such officer, on being so required, shall proceed according to the provisions of section 166, and shall forward the thing found, if any, to the officer at whose request the search was made, unless the place at which such thing is found is in a different District, and is nearer to the Magistrate having jurisdiction in such place than to the station of which the latter officer is in charge. In such case the thing shall be taken before such Magistrate, who, unless there be good cause to the contrary, shall order such thing to be forwarded to such officer.

Act X, 1872, s. 124, paras. 2, 3 and 4.

168. When*ever it appears that* any investigation under this chapter cannot be completed within the period of twenty-four hours fixed by section 61, and there are grounds for believing that the accusation is well-founded, the officer in charge of the Police-station shall transmit to the nearest Magistrate a copy of the entries in the diary hereinafter prescribed relating to the case, and shall at the same time forward the accused to such Magistrate, unless, for reasons to be recorded by such officer, he thinks that the accused should not be so forwarded.

Procedure when investigation cannot be completed in twenty-four hours.

The Magistrate receiving a copy under this section may, whether he has or has not jurisdiction to try the case, authorize the detention of the accused in such custody as such Magistrate thinks fit, for a term not exceeding fifteen days in the whole. If he has not jurisdiction to try the case or commit it for trial, and considers further detention unnecessary, he may order the accused to be forwarded to a Magistrate having such jurisdiction.

A Magistrate authorizing under this section detention in the custody of the police shall record his reasons for so doing.

If such order be given by a Magistrate other than the District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate, he shall forward a copy of his order, with his reasons for making it, to the Magistrate to whom he is subordinate.

Act X, 1872, s. 123, para 2.

169. When any subordinate Police-officer has made any investigation under this chapter, he shall report the result of such investigation to the officer in charge of the Police-station.

Report of investigation by subordinate Police-officer.

Act X, 1872, s. 125.

170. If, upon an investigation under this chapter, it appears to the officer in charge of the Police-station that there is not sufficient evidence or reasonable ground of suspicion to justify the forwarding of the accused to a Magistrate, such officer shall, if such person is in custody, release him on his executing a bond, with or without sureties, as such officer may direct, to appear, if and when so required, before a Magistrate having jurisdiction to take cognizance of the offence on a polic ereport.

Release of accused when evidence deficient.

Act X, 1872, ss. 123, para. 1, 127, para. 1, 130, paras. 1 to 4.

171. If upon an investigation under this chapter it appears to the officer in charge of the Police-station that there is sufficient evidence or reasonable ground as aforesaid, such officer shall forward the accused under custody to a Magistrate empowered to take cognizance of the offence upon a police report, or if the offence is bailable and the accused is able to give security, shall take security from him for his appearance before such Magistrate on a day fixed and for his attendance from day to day before such Magistrate until otherwise directed.

Case to be sent to Magistrate when evidence is sufficient.

When the officer in charge of a Police-station forwards an accused person to a Magistrate or takes security for his appearance before such Magistrate under this section, he shall send to such Magistrate any weapon or other article which it may be necessary to produce before him, and shall require the complainant, if any, and so many of the persons who appear to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case as may be necessary, to execute a bond to appear before the Magistrate and prosecute or give evidence (as the case may be) in the matter of the charge against the accused.

If the Court of the District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate be mentioned in the bond, it shall be held to include any Court to which such Magistrate may refer the case for inquiry or trial, provided notice of such reference be given to such complainant or witness.

The day fixed under this section shall be the day whereon the accused person is to appear, if security for his appearance has been taken, or the day on which he may be expected to arrive at the Court of the Magistrate, if he is to be forwarded in custody.

The officer in whose presence the bond is executed shall deliver a copy thereof to one of the persons who executed it, and shall then send to the Magistrate the original with his report.

Act X, 1872, s. 130, last para.

172. No complainant or witness on his way to the Court of the Magistrate shall be required to accompany a Police-officer,

Complainants and witnesses not to be required to accompany Police-officer.

Act X, 1872 s. 131, para. 1.

or shall be subjected to unnecessary restraint or inconvenience, or required to give any security for his appearance other than his own bond:

Complainants and witnesses not to be subjected to restraint.

Act X, 1872, s. 131, para. 2.

Provided that, if any complainant or witness refuses to attend or to execute the bond directed in section 171, the officer in charge of the Police-station may forward him under custody to the Magistrate, who may detain him in custody until he executes such recognizance, or until the hearing of the case is completed.

Recusant complainant or witness may be forwarded in custody.

Act X, 1872, s. 126.

173. Every Police-officer making an investigation under this chapter shall day by day enter his proceedings in the investigation in a diary, setting forth the time at which the information reached him, the time at which he began and closed his investigation, the place or places visited by him, and a statement of the circumstances ascertained through his investigation.

Diary of proceedings in investigation.

Any Criminal Court may send for the police-diaries of a case under inquiry or trial in such Court, and may use such diaries to aid it in such inquiry or trial. Neither the accused nor his agents shall be entitled to call for them, nor shall he or they be entitled to see them merely because they are referred to by the Court; but if they are used by the Police-officer who made them to refresh his memory, or if the Court uses them for the purpose of contradicting such Police-officer, the provisions of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, sections 145 and 161, shall apply.

Act X, 1872, ss. 125, 127, paras. 1 & 2.

174. Every investigation under this chapter shall be completed without unnecessary delay, and, as soon as it is completed, the officer in charge of the Police-station shall forward to a Magistrate having jurisdiction to take cognizance of the offence on a police report a report in the form prescribed by the Local Government, setting forth the names of the parties, the nature of the information and the names of the persons who appear to be acquainted with the circumstances of the case, and stating whether the accused person has been forwarded in custody, or has been released on his bond, and, if so, whether with or without sureties.

Where a superior officer of police has been appointed under section 159, the report shall be submitted through him, and he may, pending the orders of the Magistrate, direct the officer in charge of the Police-station to make further investigation.

Whenever it appears from a report forwarded under this section, that the accused has been released on his bond, the Magistrate shall make such order for the discharge of such bond or otherwise as he thinks fit.

Act X, 1872, s. 133.

175. The officer in charge of a Police-station, on receiving information that a person—

Police to inquire and report on unnatural and sudden deaths.

(a) has been killed by another, or

(b) has died under suspicious circumstances, or

(c) has committed suicide, shall immediately give intimation thereof to the nearest Magistrate empowered to hold inquests, and, unless otherwise directed by any rule prescribed by the Local Government, or by any general or special order of the District or Sub-divisional Magistrate, shall proceed to the place where the body of such deceased person is, and there, in the presence of two or more respectable inhabitants of the neighbourhood, shall make an investigation, and draw up a report of the apparent cause of death, describing such wounds, fractures, bruises and other marks of injury as may be found on the body, and stating in what manner, or by what weapon or instrument (if any) such marks appear to have been inflicted.

This power may be exercised so as to save Military Courts of Inquest.

The report shall be signed by such Police-officer and other persons, or by so many of them as concur therein, and shall be forthwith forwarded to the District Magistrate or the Sub-divisional Magistrate.

When there is any doubt regarding the cause of death, or when for any other reason the Police-officer considers it expedient so to do, he shall, subject to such rules as the Local Government may prescribe in this behalf, forward the body, with a view to its being examined, to the nearest Civil Surgeon, or other medical officer appointed in this behalf by the Local Government, if the state of the weather and the distance admit of its being so forwarded without risk of such putrefaction on the road as would render such examination useless.

In the territories respectively administered by the Governors of Fort St. George and Bombay in Council, investigations under this section may be made by the Head of the village, who shall then report the result to the nearest Magistrate authorized to hold inquests.

The following Magistrates are empowered to hold inquests, namely, any District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate, and any Magistrate specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government or the District Magistrate.

176. An officer in charge of a Police-station may, by order in writing, summon two or more persons as aforesaid for the purpose of the said investigation, and any other person who appears to be acquainted with the facts of the case. Every person so summoned shall be bound to attend and to answer all questions other than questions the answers to which would have a tendency to expose him to a criminal charge, or to a penalty or forfeiture. Act X, 1872, s. 134. Penal Code, ss. 174, 175.

Power to summon persons.

If the facts do not disclose a cognizable offence to which section 171 applies, such persons shall not be required by the Police-officer to attend a Magistrate's Court.

177. When any person dies while in the custody of the police the nearest Magistrate empowered to hold inquests shall, and in any other case mentioned in section 175, clauses (a), (b) and (c), any Magistrate so empowered may, hold an inquiry into the cause of death, either instead of, or in addition to, the investigation held by the Police-officer; and if he does so, he shall have all the powers in conducting it which he would have in holding an inquiry into an offence. The Magistrate holding such an inquiry shall record the evidence taken by him in connection therewith in any of the manners hereinafter prescribed, according to the circumstances of the case. Act X, 1872, s. 135.

Inquiry by Magistrate into cause of death.

Whenever such Magistrate considers it expedient to make an examination of the dead body of any person who has been already interred, in order to discover the cause of his death, the Magistrate may cause the body to be disinterred and examined. New. Cf. Act IV, 1871, s. 11.

Power to disinter corpse.

PART VI.

PROCEEDINGS IN PROSECUTIONS.

CHAPTER XV.

OF THE JURISDICTION OF THE CRIMINAL COURTS IN INQUIRIES AND TRIALS.

A.—Place of Inquiry or Trial.

178. Every offence shall ordinarily be inquired into and tried by a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction it was committed. Act X, 1872, s. 68, para. 1. Act IV, 1877, s. 16.

Ordinary place of inquiry and trial.

179. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 178, the Local Government may direct that any cases or class of cases committed for trial in any district may be tried in any Sessions Division. Act X, 1872, s. 63, para. 2.

Power to order cases to be tried in different Sessions Divisions.

Act XI, 1874, s. 2.

Provided that such direction be not repugnant to any direction previously issued under the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of Victoria, chapter 104, section 15, or under this Code, section 537.

Act X, 1872, s. 65. Act IV, 1877, s. 19.

180. When a person is accused of the commission of any offence by reason of anything which has been done, and of any consequence which has ensued, such offence may be inquired into or tried by a Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction any such thing has been done, or any such consequence has ensued.

Accused triable in district where act is done, or where consequence ensues.

183. When it is uncertain in which of several local areas an offence was committed, or Place of inquiry or trial where scene of offence is uncertain; where an offence is committed partly in one local area and partly in another, or or not in one district only;

where an offence is a continuing one, and continues to be committed in more local areas than one, or or offence is continuing;

where it consists of several acts done in different local areas, or consists of several acts.

it may be inquired into and tried by a Court having jurisdiction over any such local area.

184. An offence committed whilst the offender is in the course of performing a journey or voyage may be inquired into and tried by a Court through or into the local limits of whose jurisdiction the offender, or the person against whom, or the thing in respect of which, the offence was committed, passed in the course of that journey or voyage. Act X, 1872, s. 67, Illustration (a). I Mad. H. C. Rep. 193.

Offence committed on a journey.

185. All offences against the provisions of any law for the time being in force relating to Railways, Telegraphs, the Post-office or Arms and Ammunition may be inquired into and tried in a Presidency-town, whether the offence is stated to have been committed within such town or not: provided that the offender and all the witnesses necessary for his prosecution are to be found within such town. Act IV, 1877, s. 238. Act DII, 1860, repealed. Act IV, 1877, s. 239.

Offences against Railway, Telegraph, Post-office and Arms Acts.

186. Whenever any doubt arises as to the Court by which any offence should under the preceding provisions of this chapter be inquired into or tried, the High Court within the local limits of whose appellate criminal jurisdiction the offender actually is, may decide by which Court the offence shall be inquired into or tried. Act X, 1872, s. 69. Act IV, 1877, s. 23.

High Court to decide, in case of doubt, district where inquiry or trial shall take place.

187. When a Presidency Magistrate, a District Magistrate, a Sub-divisional Magistrate or, if he is specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government, a Magistrate of the first class, sees reason to believe that any person within the local limits of his jurisdiction has committed without such limits an offence which cannot, under the provisions of sections 178 to 185 (both inclusive), or any other law for the time being in force, be inquired into or tried within such local limits, but is under Act X, 1872, s. 157. Act IV, 1877, s. 54.

Power to issue summons or warrant for offence committed beyond local jurisdiction.

some law for the time being in force triable in British India, such Magistrate may inquire into the offence as if it had been committed within such local limits, and compel such person in manner hereinbefore provided to appear before him, and send him to the Magistrate having jurisdiction to enquire into or try such offence, or, if such offence is bailable, take bail for his appearance before such Magistrate.

Act X, 1872, s. 174. Act IV, 1877, s. 55. Act XXIII, 1840, s. 7.

Magistrate's procedure on arrest.

When there are more Magistrates than one having such jurisdiction and the Magistrate acting under this section cannot satisfy himself as to the Magistrate to or before whom such person should be sent, or bound to appear, the case shall be reported for the orders of the High Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 175.

188. If the person has been arrested under a warrant issued under section 187 by a Magistrate other than a Presidency Magistrate or District Magistrate, such Magistrate shall send the person arrested to the District Magistrate, unless the Magistrate having jurisdiction to inquire into or try such offence issues his warrant for the arrest of such person, in which case the person arrested shall be delivered to the Police-officer executing such warrant, or shall be sent to the Magistrate by whom such warrant was issued.

Procedure where warrant issued by Subordinate Magistrate.

If the offence which the person arrested is alleged or suspected to have committed is one which may be inquired into or tried by any Criminal Court in the same district other than that of the Magistrate acting under section 187, such Magistrate shall send such person to the District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate to whom such Court is immediately subordinate.

Act XXI, 1879, s. 9.

Liability of British subjects for offences committed out of British India.

189. When a European British subject commits an offence in the dominions of a Prince or State in India in alliance with Her Majesty, or when a Native Indian subject of Her Majesty commits an offence at any place beyond the limits of British India, he may be dealt with in respect of such offence as if it had been committed at any place within British India at which he may be found:

Provided that no charge as to any such offence shall be inquired into in British India unless the Political Agent, if there be one, for the territory in which the offence is alleged to have been committed, certifies that, in his opinion, the charge ought to be inquired into in British India:

Political Agent to certify fitness of inquiry into charge.

Provided also that any proceedings taken against any person under this section which would be a bar to subsequent proceedings against such person for the same offence if such offence had been committed in British India shall be a bar against further proceedings against him under this Code in respect of the same offence in any territory beyond the limits of British India.

Power to direct copies of depositions and exhibits to be received in evidence.

Act XXI, 1879, s. 10.

190. Whenever any such offence as is referred to in section 189 is being inquired into or tried, the Local Government may, if it thinks fit, direct that copies of depositions made or exhibits produced before the Political Agent or a judicial officer in or for the territory in which such offence is alleged to have been committed shall be received as evidence by the Court holding such inquiry or trial in any case in which such Court might issue a commission for taking evidence as to the matters to which such depositions or exhibits relate.

"Political Agent" defined.

Act XXI, 1879, s. 3.

191. In sections 189 and 190 the expression "Political Agent" means and includes—

(a) the principal officer representing the British Indian Government in any territory beyond the limits of British India:

(b) any officer in British India appointed by the Governor General in Council, or the Governor in Council of the Presidency of Fort St. George or Bombay, to exercise all or any of the powers of a Political Agent under the Foreign Jurisdiction and Extradition Act, 1879, for any territory not forming part of British India.

B.—Conditions requisite for Initiation of Proceedings.

Cognizance of offences by Magistrates.

Act X, 1872, ss. 140, (a), (b) and (c), 142, para. 1. Act IV, 1877, ss. 25, 28.

192. Except as hereinafter provided, any Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate, and any other Magistrate specially empowered in this behalf, may take cognizance of any offence—

(a) upon receiving a complaint of facts which constitute such offence;

(b) upon a police-report of such facts;

(c) upon information received from any person other than a Police-officer, or upon his own knowledge or suspicion that such offence has been committed.

Act X, 1872, ss. 140, (d), 142, para. 1. Act IV, 1877, s. 46. Act X, 1872, ss. 28, 25, 27.

The Local Government, or the District Magistrate subject to the general or special orders of the Local Government, may specially empower any Magistrate to take cognizance under clause (a) or clause (b) of offences.

Act X, 1872, ss. 25, 27.

The Local Government may empower any Magistrate of the first or second class to take cognizance under clause (c) of offences.

Transfer of cases by Magistrates.

Act X, 1872, ss. 44, para. 1, 141, para. 2. Act XI, 1874, s. 6.

193. Any District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate may transfer any case, of which he has taken cognizance, for inquiry or trial to any Magistrate subordinate to him.

When any Magistrate of the first class specially empowered in this behalf by the Magistrate of a District has taken cognizance of any case, he may transfer it for inquiry or trial to any other Magistrate in such District competent to deal with it under this Code.

Act X, 1872, s. 231. Act XI, 1874, s. 18.

Cognizance of offences by Courts of Session.

194. Except as otherwise expressly provided by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force, no Court of Session shall take cognizance of any offence as a Court of original jurisdiction, unless the accused person has been committed by a Magistrate duly empowered in that behalf.

Act X, 1872, s. 17.

Cases to be tried by Additional and Joint Sessions Judges;

Examination of complainant.

201. A Magistrate taking cognizance of a case on complaint shall at once examine the complainant upon oath, and the examination shall be reduced into writing and shall be

Act X, 1872, s. 44, para. 2. signed by the complainant, and also by the Magistrate:

Provided that when the complaint is made in writing, nothing herein contained shall be deemed to require a Magistrate to examine the complainant before transferring the case under section 193:

Act IV, 1877, s. 30. Provided also that where the Magistrate is a Presidency Magistrate, such examination may be on oath or not as the Magistrate in each case thinks fit, and the Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, before the matter of the complaint is brought before him, require it to be reduced to writing:

Act X, 1872, s. 44, para. 2. Provided also that, when the case has been transferred under section 193 and the Magistrate so transferring it has already examined the complainant, the Magistrate to whom it is so transferred shall not be bound to re-examine the complainant.

Act X, 1872, s. 145. 202. Procedure by Magistrate not empowered to entertain complaint. If the Magistrate is not competent to entertain the complaint, and such complaint has been made in writing, he shall return it for presentation to the proper tribunal with an endorsement to that effect.

Act X, 1872, s. 146. 203. Postponement of issue of process. If any Presidency Magistrate or Magistrate of the first or second class sees reason to distrust the truth of a complaint of which he is authorized to take cognizance, he may, when the complainant has been examined, postpone the issue of process for compelling the attendance of the person complained against, and may direct a previous local investigation to be made by means of any officer immediately subordinate to such Magistrate or of a Police-officer, or by such other person as he thinks fit, for the purpose of ascertaining the truth or falsehood of the complaint.

If such investigation is made by means of some person other than an officer exercising any of the powers of a Magistrate or a Police-officer, such person shall exercise all the powers conferred by this Code on an officer in charge of a Police-station, except that he shall not have power to arrest without warrant.

Act X, 1872, s. 147, para. 1. Act IV, 1877, s. 32. 204. Dismissal of complaint. The Magistrate before whom a complaint is made may dismiss the complaint if, after examining the complainant and considering the result of the investigation (if any) made under section 203, there is in his judgment no sufficient ground for proceeding.

CHAPTER XVII.

Of the Commencement of Proceedings before Magistrates.

Act X, 1872, ss. 147, para. 3, 148, para. 1, 149. Act XI, 1874, s. 1. Act IV, 1877, ss. 27, 33, 34, 35. 205. Issue of process. If in the opinion of a Magistrate taking cognizance of a case there is sufficient ground for proceeding and the case appears to be one in which according to the fourth column of the second schedule a summons should issue in the first instance, he shall issue his summons. If the case appears to be one in which according to that column a warrant should issue in the first instance, he shall ordinarily issue his warrant for causing such person to appear or be brought at a certain time and place before such Magistrate or some other Magistrate having jurisdiction.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the provisions of section 91. Act X, 1872, ss. 148, para. 2, 150.

Act X, 1872, s. 151. Act IV, 1877, s. 37. 206. Magistrate may dispense with personal attendance of accused. Whenever a Magistrate issues a summons, he may, if he sees reason so to do, dispense with the personal attendance of the accused, and permit him to appear by his pleader.

But such Magistrate may, in his discretion, at any stage of the proceedings, direct the personal attendance of the accused, and, if necessary, enforce such attendance in manner hereinbefore provided. Act IV, 1877, s. 37.

CHAPTER XVIII.

Of Inquiry into Cases triable by the Court of Session or High Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 143, extended to High Court. 207. Power to commit for trial. Any Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate, Magistrate of the first class or any Magistrate empowered in this behalf by the Local Government may commit any person for trial to the Court of Session or High Court for any offence triable by such Court.

But save as herein otherwise provided, no person triable by the Court of Session shall be committed for trial to the High Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 189. Act IV, 1877, s. 81. 208. Procedure in inquiries preparatory to commitment. The following procedure shall be adopted in inquiries before Magistrates where the case is triable exclusively by a Court of Session or High Court or, in the opinion of the Magistrate, ought to be tried by such Court.

Act X, 1872, ss. 190, 191. Act IV, 1877, s. 82. 209. Taking of evidence produced. The Magistrate shall, when the accused appears or is brought before him, proceed to hear the complainant (if any), and take in manner hereinafter provided all such evidence as may be produced in support of the prosecution or in behalf of the accused, or as may be called for by the Magistrate.

Act X, 1872, ss. 357, para. 1, 358, Act IV, 1877, s. 83, para. 2. Process for production of further evidence. If the complainant or accused applies to the Magistrate to issue process to compel the attendance of any witness or the production of any document or other thing, the Magistrate shall issue such process unless, for reasons to be recorded, he deems it unnecessary to do so.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to require a Presidency Magistrate to record his reasons.

Act X, 1872, s. 195. Act XI, 1874, s. 14. Act IV, 1877, s. 87, omitting the Explanations. 210. When accused person to be discharged. When the evidence referred to in section 209, paragraphs 1 and 2, has been taken, and he has examined the accused in regard to such matters connected with the accusation as the Magistrate thinks fit, such Magistrate shall, if he finds that there are not sufficient grounds for committing the accused person for trial, discharge him, unless it appears to the Magistrate that such person should be tried before himself or some other Magistrate, in which case he shall proceed accordingly.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to prevent a Magistrate from discharging the accused at any previous stage of the case if, for reasons to be recorded by such Magistrate, he considers the charge to be groundless.

Act X, 1872, ss. 195, Expln. III, 196, 198, para. 1. Act IV, 1877, s. 88. Act IV, 1877, s. 89, omitting paras. 3 and 4. Act X, 1872, s. 199. Act X, 1875, s. 13. Act IV, 1877, s. 90. 211. When charge is to be framed. When, upon such evidence being taken and such examination (if any) being made, the Magistrate finds that there are sufficient grounds for committing the accused for trial, he shall frame a charge under his hand, declaring with what offence the accused is charged.

Charge to be explained, and copy furnished, to accused. As soon as the charge has been framed, it shall be read and explained to the accused and a copy thereof shall, if he so requires, be given to him free of cost.

Act X, 1872, s. 200, paras. 1 and 3. Act IV, 1877, s. 91. 212. List of witnesses for defence on trial. The accused shall be required at once to give in, orally or in writing, a list of the persons (if any) whom he wishes to be summoned to give evidence on his trial.

Further list. The Magistrate may in his discretion allow the accused to give in any further list of witnesses at a subsequent time, and nothing in this section shall be deemed to preclude the accused from giving, at any time before his trial before the High Court, to the Clerk of the Crown a further list of the persons whom he wishes to be summoned to give evidence on such trial.

Act X, 1872, s. 200, para. 2. Act IV, 1877, s. 91. 213. Power of Magistrate to examine such witnesses. The Magistrate may in his discretion summon and examine any witness named in any list given in to him under section 212.

Act X, 1872, ss. 198, para. 1, 200, para. 2. Act IV, 1877, ss. 89, para. 1, 91. 214. Order of commitment. When the accused on being required to give in a list under section 212 has declined to do so, or when he has given in such list and the witnesses (if any) included therein whom the Magistrate desires to examine have been summoned and examined under section 213, the Magistrate may make an order committing the accused for trial by the High Court or the Court of Session (as the case may be), and (unless the Magistrate is a Presidency Magistrate) recording the reasons for such commitment.

Act X, 1872, s. 197, omitting the Explanation. 215. Person charged in Mufassal jointly with European British subject. If any person (not being an European British subject) is accused before a Magistrate other than a Presidency Magistrate of having committed an offence conjointly with an European British subject who is about to be committed for trial, or to be tried, before the High Court on a similar charge, and the Magistrate finds that there are sufficient grounds for committing the accused for trial, he shall commit him to take his trial before the High Court, and not before the Court of Session.

Act X, 1872, s. 197, Explanation and last para. 216. Quashing commitments under section 214 or 215. A commitment once made under section 214 or 215 by a competent Magistrate can be quashed by the High Court only, and only on a point of law.

Act X, 1872, s. 358. Act IV, 1877, s. 92. 217. Summons to witnesses for defence when accused is committed. When the accused has given in any list of witnesses under section 212 and has been committed for trial, the Magistrate shall summon such of the witnesses included in the list as have not appeared before himself to appear before the Court to which the accused has been committed:

Act X, 1872, s. 359. Provided that where such person has been committed to the High Court, the Magistrate may in his discretion leave such witnesses to be summoned by the Clerk of the Crown:

Refusal to summon unnecessary witness unless deposit made. Provided also that if the Magistrate thinks that any witness is included in the list for the purpose of vexation or delay, or of defeating the ends of justice, the Magistrate may require the accused to satisfy him that there are reasonable grounds for believing that such witness is material, and if he is not so satisfied, may refuse to summon the witness, or before summoning him require such sum to be deposited as such Magistrate thinks necessary to defray the expense of obtaining the attendance of the witness. I. L. R. 3 Cal. 582.

Act X, 1872, s. 360. Act IV, 1877, s. 93. 218. Bond of complainants and witnesses. Complainants and witnesses for the prosecution and defence, whose attendance before the Court of Session or High Court is necessary, and who appear before the Magistrate, shall execute before him bonds binding themselves to be in attendance when called upon at the Court of Session or High Court, to prosecute or to give evidence, as the case may be.

Detention in custody in case of refusal to attend or to execute recognizance. If any complainant or witness refuses to attend before the Court of Session or High Court, or to execute the recognizance above directed, the Magistrate may detain him in custody until he executes such bond, or until his attendance at the Court of Session or High Court is required, when the Magistrate shall send him in custody to the Court of Session or High Court, as the case may be.

Act X, 1872, s. 202, para. 1.

219. When the accused is committed for trial, the Magistrate shall issue an order to such person as may be appointed by the Local Government in this behalf, notifying the commitment, and stating the offence in the same form as the charge, unless the Magistrate is satisfied that such person is already aware of the commitment and the form of the charge,

Commitment when to be notified.

Act XI, 1874, s. 15.

Act X, 1872, s. 198, paras. 2, 3 and 4.

and shall send the charge, the record of the enquiry and any weapon or other moveable thing which is to be produced in evidence to the Court of Session or (where the commitment is made to the High Court) to the Clerk of the Crown or other officer appointed in this behalf by the High Court.

Charge, &c., to be forwarded to High Court or Court of Session.

Act X, 1872, s. 198, para. 4.

When the commitment is made to the High Court and any part of the record is not in English, an English translation of such part shall be forwarded with the record.

English translation to be forwarded to High Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 357, para. 2.

Act IV, 1877, s. 91, para. 4.

220. The Magistrate may summon and examine supplementary witnesses after the commitment and before the commencement of the trial, and bind them over in manner hereinbefore provided to appear and give evidence.

Power to summon supplementary witnesses.

Such examination shall, if possible, be taken in the presence of the accused, and where the Magistrate is not a Presidency Magistrate, a copy of the evidence of such witnesses shall, if the accused so require, be given to him free of cost.

Act X, 1875, s. 26.

Act IV, 1877, s. 89, para. 3.

See sec. 552, infra.

221. Pending the trial, the Magistrate shall, subject to the provisions of this Code regarding the taking of bail, commit the accused, by warrant, to custody.

Custody of accused pending trial.

CHAPTER XIX.

Of the Charge.

See s. 565, infra.

Form of Charges.

Act X, 1872, s. 439, paras. 1 to 6.

Act IV, 1877, s. 94.

222. Every charge under this Code shall state the offence with which the accused is charged.

Charge to state offence.

If the law which creates the offence gives it any specific name, the offence may be described in the charge by that name only.

Specific name of offence sufficient description.

If the law which creates the offence does not give it any specific name, so much of the definition of the offence must be stated as to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

How stated where offence has no specific name.

The law and section of the law against which the offence is said to have been committed shall be mentioned in the charge.

The fact that the charge is made is equivalent to a statement that every legal condition required by law to constitute the offence charged was fulfilled in the particular case.

What implied in charges.

In the Presidency-towns the charge shall be written in English; elsewhere it shall be written either in English or in the language of the Court.

Language of charge.

If the accused has been previously convicted of any offence, and it is intended to prove such previous conviction for the purpose of affecting the punishment which the Court is competent to award, the fact of the previous conviction must be stated in the charge. If such statement is omitted, the Court may add it at any time before sentence is passed.

Previous conviction when to be set out.

Act X, 1872, s. 439, Illustrations.

Act IV, 1877, s. 94, Illustrations.

(a) A is charged with the murder of B.
This is equivalent to a statement that A's act fell within the definition of murder given in sections 299 and 300 of the Indian Penal Code; that it did not fall within any of the general exceptions of the same Code; and that it did not fall within any of the five exceptions to section 300; or that, if it did fall within Exception 1, one or other of the three provisos to that exception applied to it.

(b) A is charged, under section 326 of the Indian Penal Code, with voluntarily causing grievous hurt to B, by means of an instrument for shooting. This is equivalent to a statement that the case was not provided for by section 335 of the Indian Penal Code, and that the general exceptions did not apply to it.

(c) A is accused of murder, cheating, theft, extortion, adultery or criminal intimidation, or using a false property-mark. The charge may state that A committed murder, or cheating, or theft, or extortion, or adultery, or criminal intimidation, or that he used a false property-mark, without reference to the definitions of those crimes contained in the Indian Penal Code; but the sections under which the offence is punishable must, in each instance, be referred to in the charge.

(d) A is charged, under section 184 of the Indian Penal Code, with intentionally obstructing a sale of property offered for sale by the lawful authority of a public servant. The charge should be in those words.

Act X, 1872, s. 440.

Act IV, 1877, s. 95.

223. The charge shall contain such particulars as to the time and place of the alleged offence, and the person (if any) against whom, or the thing (if any) in respect of which, it was committed, as are reasonably sufficient to give the accused notice of the matter with which he is charged.

Particulars as to time, place and person.

Act X, 1872, s. 441.

Act IV, 1877, s. 96.

224. When the nature of the case is such that the particulars mentioned in sections 222 and 223 do not give the accused sufficient notice of the matter with which he is charged, the charge shall also contain such particulars of the manner in which the alleged offence was committed as will be sufficient for that purpose.

When manner of committing offence must be stated.

Illustrations.

(a) A is accused of the theft of a certain article at a certain time and place. The charge need not set out the manner in which the theft was effected.

(b) A is accused of cheating B at a given time and place. The charge must set out the manner in which A cheated B.

(c) A is accused of giving false evidence at a given time and place. The charge must set out that portion of the evidence given by A which is alleged to be false.

(d) A is accused of obstructing B, a public servant, in discharge of his public functions at a given time and place. The charge must set out the manner in which A obstructed B in the discharge of his functions.

(e) A is accused of the murder of B at a given time and place. The charge need not state the manner in which A murdered B.

(f) A is accused of disobeying a direction of the law with intent to save B from punishment. The charge must set out the disobedience charged and the law infringed.

Act XVIII, 1862, s. 82.

225. In every charge words used in describing an offence shall be deemed to have been used in the sense attached to them respectively by the law under which such offence is punishable.

Words in charge taken in sense of law under which offence is punishable.

Act X, 1872, s. 443.

Act X, 1875, s. 24.

Act IV, 1877, s. 98.

226. No error in stating either the offence or the particulars required to be stated in the charge, and no omission to state the offence or those particulars, shall be regarded at any stage of the case as material, unless the accused was misled by such error or omission.

Effect of errors.

Illustrations.

(a) A is charged, under section 242 of the Indian Penal Code, with "having been in possession of counterfeit coin, having known at the time when he became possessed thereof that such coin was counterfeit," the word "fraudulently" being omitted in the charge. Unless it appears that A was in fact misled by this omission, the error shall not be regarded as material.

(b) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge, or is set out incorrectly. A defends himself, calls witnesses, and gives his own account of the transaction. The Court may infer from this that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating is not material.

(c) A is charged with cheating B, and the manner in which he cheated B is not set out in the charge. There were many transactions between A and B, and A had no means of knowing to which of them the charge referred, and offered no defence. The Court may infer from such facts that the omission to set out the manner of the cheating was, in this case, a material error.

(d) A is charged with the murder of Khoda Baksh on the 21st January. In fact, the murdered person's name was Haidar Baksh, and the date of the murder was the 20th January. A was never charged with any murder but one, and had heard the inquiry before the Magistrate, which referred exclusively to the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from these facts that A was not misled, and that the error in the charge was immaterial.

(e) A was charged with murdering Haidar Baksh on the 20th January and Khoda Baksh (who tried to arrest him for that murder) on the 21st January. When charged for the murder of Haidar Baksh, he was tried for the murder of Khoda Baksh. The witnesses present in his defence were witnesses in the case of Haidar Baksh. The Court may infer from this that A was misled, and that the error was material.

Act X, 1872, s. 446.

Act X, 1875, ss. 7, 8.

227. When any person is committed for trial without a charge, or with an imperfect or erroneous charge, the Court, or, in the case of a High Court, the Clerk of the Crown, may frame a charge, or add to or otherwise alter the charge, as the case may be, having regard to the rules contained in this Code as to the form of charges.

Procedure on commitment without charge or with imperfect charge.

Act X, 1872, ss. 444, 445.

Act X, 1875, ss. 9, 10.

Act IV, 1877, ss. 99, 100.

228. Any Court may alter any charge at any time before judgment is pronounced, or, in the case of trials before the Court of Session or High Court, before the verdict of the jury is returned or the opinions of the assessors are expressed.

Court may alter charge.

Every such alteration shall be read and explained to the accused.

Act X, 1872, s. 447.

Act X, 1875, s. 11.

Act IV, 1877, s. 101.

229. If the charge framed or alteration made under either of the two last preceding sections is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is not likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused in his defence or the prosecutor in the conduct of the case, the Court may in its discretion, after such charge or alteration has been framed or made, proceed with the trial as if the new or altered charge had been the original charge.

When trial may proceed immediately after alteration.

Act X, 1872, s. 448.

Act X, 1875, s. 12.

Act IV, 1877, s. 102.

230. If the new or altered charge is such that proceeding immediately with the trial is likely, in the opinion of the Court, to prejudice the accused or the prosecutor as aforesaid, the Court may either direct a new trial or adjourn the trial for such period as may be necessary.

When new trial may be directed, or trial suspended.

Act X, 1872, s. 450.

Act X, 1875, s. 16.

Act IV, 1877, s. 104.

231. If the offence stated in the new or altered charge is one for the prosecution of which previous sanction is necessary, the case shall not be proceeded with until such sanction is obtained, unless sanction has been already obtained for a prosecution on the same facts as those on which the altered charge is founded.

Stay of proceedings if prosecution of offence in altered charge require previous sanction.

Act X, 1872, s. 449.

Act X, 1875, s. 15, omitting 'during the trial.'

Act IV, 1877, s. 103.

232. Whenever a charge is altered by the Court after the commencement of the trial, the prosecutor and the accused shall be allowed to recall or re-summon, and examine with reference to such alteration, any witness who may have been examined.

Recall of witnesses when charge altered.

Act X, 1872, s. 451.

233. If any Appellate Court, or the High Court in the exercise of its powers of revision or of its powers under Chapter XXVII, is of opinion that any person convicted of an offence was misled in his defence by the absence of a charge or by an error in the charge, it shall direct a new trial to be had upon a charge framed in whatever manner it thinks fit.

Effect of material error.

If the Court is of opinion that the facts of the case are such that no valid charge could be preferred against the accused in respect of the facts proved, it shall quash the conviction.

Illustration.

Act XI, 1874, s. 40. A is convicted of an offence under section 196 of the Indian Penal Code, upon a charge which omits to state that he knew the evidence which he corruptly used or attempted to use as true or genuine was false or fabricated. If the Court thinks it probable that A had such knowledge, and that he was misled in his defence by the omission from the charge of the statement that he had it, it shall direct a new trial upon an amended charge; but if it appears probable from the proceedings that A had no such knowledge, it shall quash the conviction.

Joinder of Charges.

Act X, 1872, s. 452. Act X, 1875, s. 17. Act IV, 1877, s. 105.

234. There must be a separate charge for every distinct offence of which any person is accused, and every such charge must be tried separately, except in the cases mentioned in sections 235, 236, 237 and 240.

Separate charges for distinct offences.

Illustration.

A is accused of a theft on one occasion, and of causing grievous hurt on another occasion. A must be separately charged and separately tried for the theft and the causing grievous hurt.

235. When a person is accused at the same time of more offences than one of the same kind, committed within one year of each other, he may be charged with, and tried at one trial for, any number of them not exceeding three.

More offences than one of same kind may be charged within a year of each other.

Act X, 1872, s. 454, omitting Illustrations (e), (h), (i) and (k). Act X, 1875, s. 19. Act IV, 1877, s. 107.

236. I.—If, in one series of acts so connected together as to form the same transaction, more offences than one are committed by the same person, he may be charged with, and tried at one trial for, every such offence.

I.—Trial of more than one offence.

II.—If the acts alleged constitute an offence falling within two or more separate definitions of any law in force for the time being by which offences are defined or punished, the person accused of them may be charged with and tried at one trial for each of such offences.

II.—One offence falling within two definitions.

III.—If several acts, of which one or more than one would by itself constitute an offence, form, when combined, a different offence, the person accused of them may be charged with and tried at one trial for every such offence, or any of such different offences.

III.—Acts severally constituting more than one offence, but collectively coming within one definition.

Nothing contained in this section shall affect the Indian Penal Code, section 71.

Illustrations

to paragraph I—

(a) A rescues B, a person in lawful custody, and in so doing causes grievous hurt to C, a constable in whose custody B was. A may be charged with and tried for offences under sections 225 and 333 of the Indian Penal Code.

(b) A commits house-breaking by day with intent to commit adultery, and commits, in the house so entered, adultery with B's wife. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 454 and 497 of the Indian Penal Code.

(c) A entices B, the wife of C, away from C, with intent to commit adultery with B, and then commits adultery with her. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 498 and 497 of the Indian Penal Code.

(d) A has in his possession several seals knowing them to be counterfeit and intending to use them for the purpose of committing several forgeries punishable under section 466 of the Indian Penal Code. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, the possession of each seal under section 473 of the Indian Penal Code.

(e) With intent to cause injury to B, A institutes a criminal proceeding against him, knowing that there is no just or lawful ground for such proceeding; and also falsely accuses B of having committed an offence knowing that there is no just or lawful ground for such charge. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, two offences under section 211 of the Indian Penal Code.

(f) A, with intent to cause injury to B, falsely accuses him of having committed an offence, knowing that there is no just or lawful ground for such charge. On the trial, A gives false evidence against B, intending thereby to cause B to be convicted of a capital offence. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 211 and 194 of the Indian Penal Code.

(g) A, with six others, commits the offences of rioting, grievous hurt, and of assaulting a public servant endeavouring in the discharge of his duty as such to suppress the riot. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 147 and 325 and 152 of the Indian Penal Code.

(h) A threatens B, C and D at the same time with injury to their persons with intent to cause alarm to them. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, each of the three offences under section 506 of the Indian Penal Code.

The separate charges referred to in illustrations (a) to (h) respectively may be tried at the same time.

to paragraph II—

(i) A wrongfully strikes B with a cane. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 352 and 323 of the Indian Penal Code.

(j) Several stolen sacks of corn are made over to A and B, who know they are stolen property, for the purpose of concealing them. A and B thereupon voluntarily assist each other to conceal the sacks at the bottom of a grain-pit. A and B may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 411 and 414 of the Indian Penal Code.

(k) A exposes her child with the knowledge that she is thereby likely to cause its death. The child dies in consequence of such exposure. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 317 and 304 of the Indian Penal Code.

(l) A dishonestly uses a forged document as genuine evidence, in order to convict B, a public servant, of an offence under section 167 of the Indian Penal Code. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 471 (read with 466) and 196 of the same Code.

to paragraph III—

(m) A commits robbery on B, and, in doing so, voluntarily causes hurt to him. A may be separately charged with, and convicted of, offences under sections 323, 392 and 394 of the Indian Penal Code.

Act X, 1872, s. 455. Act X, 1875, s. 20. Act IV, 1875, s. 108. N.W.P., 1875, p. 137.

237. If a single act or series of acts is of such a nature that it is doubtful which of several offences the facts which can be proved will constitute, the accused may be charged with having committed all or any of such offences; and any number of such charges may be tried at once, or he may be charged in the alternative with having committed some one of the said offences.

Where it is doubtful what offence has been committed.

Illustration.

A is accused of an act which may amount to theft, or receiving stolen property, or criminal breach of trust or cheating. He may be charged with theft, receiving stolen property, criminal breach of trust and cheating, or he may be charged with having committed theft, or receiving stolen property, or criminal breach of trust, or cheating.

Act X, 1872, s. 456. Act X, 1875, s. 21. Act IV, 1877, s. 109.

238. If, in the case mentioned in section 237, the accused is charged with one offence, and it appears in evidence that he committed a different offence for which he might have been charged under the provisions of that section, he may be convicted of the offence which he is shown to have committed, although he was not charged with it.

When a person is charged with one offence, he can be convicted of another.

Illustration.

A is charged with theft. It appears that he committed the offence of criminal breach of trust, or that of receiving stolen goods. He may be convicted of criminal breach of trust, or of receiving stolen goods (as the case may be), though he was not charged with such offence.

Act X, 1872, s. 457. Act X, 1875, s. 22. Act IV, 1877, s. 110. 11 Bom. 241, per West, J.

239. When a person is charged with an offence consisting of several particulars, a combination of some only of which constitutes a complete minor offence, and such combination is proved but the remaining particulars are not proved, he may be convicted of the minor offence, though he was not charged with it.

When offence proved included in offence charged.

When a person charged with an offence proves circumstances which reduce it to a minor offence, he may be convicted of the minor offence although he is not charged with it.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize a conviction of any offence referred to in section 199 or section 200 when no complaint has been made as required by that section.

Illustrations.

(a) A is charged, under section 407 of the Indian Penal Code, with criminal breach of trust in respect of property entrusted to him as a carrier. It appears that he did commit criminal breach of trust under section 406 in respect of the property, but that it was not entrusted to him as a carrier. He may be convicted of criminal breach of trust under section 406.

28 Suth. Cr. R. 61.

(b) A is charged under section 325 of the Indian Penal Code with causing grievous hurt. He proves that he acted on grave and sudden provocation. He may be convicted under section 335 of the Penal Code.

Act X, 1872, s. 458. Act X, 1875, s. 23. Act IV, 1877, s. 111.

240. When more persons than one are accused of the same offence, or of different offences committed in the same transaction, or when one person is accused of committing any offence, and another of abetment of, or attempt to commit, such offence, they may be charged and tried together or separately, as the Court thinks fit, and the provisions contained in the former part of this chapter shall apply to all such charges.

What persons may be charged jointly.

Illustrations.

(a) A and B are accused of the same murder. A and B may be charged and tried together for the murder.

(b) A and B are accused of a robbery, in the course of which A commits a murder with which B has nothing to do. A and B may be tried together on a charge, charging both of them with the robbery, and A alone with the murder.

(c) A and B are both charged with a theft, and B is charged with two other thefts committed by him in the course of the same transaction. A and B may be both tried together on a charge, charging both with the one theft, and B alone with the two other thefts.

Act X, 1872, s. 459, omitting the first ten words "In trials before a Court of Session or High Court," and inserting "the complainant." Act X, 1875, s. 102. Act IV, 1877, s. 112.

241. When more charges than one are made against the same person, and when a conviction has been had on one or more of them, the complainant, or the officer conducting the prosecution, may, with the consent of the Court, withdraw, or such Court of its own accord may suspend the inquiry into, or trial of, the remaining charge or charges. Such withdrawal shall have the effect of an acquittal on such charge or charges.

Withdrawal of remaining charges on conviction on one of several charges.

CHAPTER XX.

Of the Trial of Summons-cases by Magistrates.

Act X, 1872, s. 203, para. 1. Act IV, 1877, s. 114. Act X, 1872, ss. 206, para. 2, first clause, 206, para. 1. Act IV, 1877, s. 119.

242. The following procedure shall be observed by Magistrates in the trial of summons-cases.

Procedure in summons-cases.

243. When the accused appears or is brought before the Magistrate, the particulars of the offence of which he is accused shall be stated to him, and he shall be asked if he has any cause to show why he should not be convicted; but no formal charge shall be framed.

Substance of accusation to be stated.

244. If the accused admits that he has committed the offence with which he is charged, his admission shall be recorded as nearly as possible in the words used by him; and if he shows no sufficient cause why he should not be convicted, the Magistrate shall convict him accordingly.

Act X, 1872, s. 206, para. 2. Act IV, 1877, s. 120.

Conviction on admission of truth of accusation.

245. If the accused does not make such admission, the Magistrate shall proceed to hear the complainant (if any), and take all such evidence as may be produced in support of the prosecution, and also to hear the accused and take all such evidence as he produces in his defence.

Act X, 1872, s. 207. Act IV, 1877, s. 121.

Procedure when no such admission is made.

Act X, 1872, s. 361. Act IV, 1877, s. 142. The Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, on the application of the complainant or accused, issue process to compel the attendance of any witness or the production of any document or other thing.

The Magistrate may, before summoning any witness on such application, require that his reasonable expenses incurred in attending for the purposes of the trial be deposited in Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 211, paras. 1 and 2. Act IV, 1877, s. 126.

246. If the Magistrate upon taking the evidence referred to in section 245 and such further evidence (if any) as he may, of his own motion, cause to be produced, and (if he thinks fit) examining the accused, finds the accused not guilty, he shall record an order of acquittal.

Acquittal.

If he finds the accused guilty, he shall pass sentence upon him according to law.

Sentence.

Act X, 1872, s. 203, para. 2, second clause. Act IV, 1877, s. 117. Nelson, 206.

247. A Magistrate may, under section 244 or section 246, convict the accused of any offence triable under this chapter which from the facts admitted or proved, he appears to have committed, whatever may be the nature of the complaint or summons.

Finding not limited by complaint or summons.

Act X, 1872, ss. 205, 208, paras. 3, 212. Act IV, 1877, s. 118.

248. If the summons has been issued on complaint, and upon the day appointed for the appearance of the accused or any day subsequent thereto to which the hearing may be adjourned the complainant does not appear, the Magistrate shall, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, acquit the accused, unless for some reason he thinks proper to adjourn the hearing of the case to some other day.

Non-appearance of complainant.

Act X, 1872, s. 210. Act IV, 1877, s. 125.

249. If a complainant, at any time before a final order is passed in any case under this chapter, satisfies the Magistrate that there are sufficient grounds for permitting him to withdraw his complaint, the Magistrate may permit him to withdraw the same, and shall thereupon acquit the accused.

Withdrawal of complaint.

New.

250. In any case instituted otherwise than upon complaint, a Presidency Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class, or, with the previous sanction of the District Magistrate, any other Magistrate, may, for reasons to be recorded by him, stop the proceedings at any stage without pronouncing any judgment either of acquittal or conviction.

Power to stop proceedings when no complainant.

Act X, 1872, s. 209, paras. 1 and 2. Act IV, 1877, s. 242.

251. If in any case instituted upon complaint a Magistrate acquits the accused under section 246 or section 248, and is of opinion that the complaint was frivolous or vexatious, he may, in his discretion, by his order of acquittal, direct the complainant to pay to the accused, or to each of the accused where there are more than one, such compensation, not exceeding fifty rupees, as the Magistrate thinks fit.

Frivolous or vexatious complaints.

The sum so awarded shall be recoverable as if it were a fine; and if it cannot be so recovered, the complainant shall be sentenced to simple imprisonment for such term, not exceeding thirty days, as the Magistrate directs, unless such sum is sooner paid.

Recovery of compensation.

At the time of awarding compensation in any subsequent civil suit relating to the same matter, the Court shall take into account any sum paid or recovered as compensation under this section.

CHAPTER XXI.

Of the Trial of Warrant-cases by Magistrates.

Act X, 1872, s. 213.

252. The following procedure shall be observed by Magistrates in the trial of warrant-cases.

Procedure in warrant-cases.

Act X, 1872, s. 190.

253. When the accused appears or is brought before a Magistrate, such Magistrate shall proceed to hear the complainant (if any) and take all such evidence as may be produced in support of the prosecution.

Evidence for prosecution.

See I. L. R., 3 Cal., 389.

The Magistrate shall ascertain, from the complainant or otherwise, the names of any persons likely to be acquainted with the facts of the case and to be able to give evidence for the prosecution, and shall summon to give evidence before himself such of them as he thinks necessary.

Act X, 1872, s. 362, para. 1. Act IV, 1877, s. 143, para. 1.

Act X, 1872, s. 215, with Expln. III. I. L. R., 3 Calc., 389.

254. If upon taking all the evidence referred to in section 253, and such examination (if any) of the accused as the Magistrate thinks necessary, he finds that no case against the accused has been made out which if unrebutted would warrant his conviction, the Magistrate shall discharge him.

Discharge of accused.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to prevent a Magistrate from discharging the accused at any previous stage of the case if, for reasons to be recorded by such Magistrate, he considers the charge to be groundless.

Act X, 1872, s. 216, without Explanations I & II. Act XI, 1874, s. 16. Act IV, 1877, ss. 116, 122.

255. If, when such evidence and examination have been wholly or partially taken, the Magistrate is of opinion that there is ground for presuming that the accused has committed an offence triable under this chapter, which such Magistrate is competent to try, and which, in his opinion, could be adequately punished by him, he shall frame in writing a charge against the accused.

Charge to be framed when offence appears proved.

Act X, 1872, s. 217. Act V, 1877, ss. 120, 122.

256. The charge shall then be read and explained to the accused, and he shall be asked whether he is guilty or has any defence to make.

Plea.

Cf. Act X, 1872, ss. 237, para. 2, 324.

If the accused pleads guilty, the Magistrate shall record the plea, and may in his discretion convict him thereon.

Act X, 1872, s. 218. Act IV, 1877, s. 121.

257. If the accused refuses to plead or does not plead, or claims to be tried, he shall be called upon to enter upon his defence and to produce his evidence, and shall, at any time while he is making his defence, be allowed to recall and cross-examine any witness for the prosecution present in the Court or its precincts.

Defence.

If the accused puts in any written statement, the Magistrate shall file it with the record.

Act X, 1872, s. 362, para. 2. Act IV, 1877, s. 142, para. 2. Cf. ss. 253 and 209.

258. If the accused applies to the Magistrate to issue any process for compelling the attendance of any witness (whether he has or has not been previously examined in the case) or the production of any document or other thing, the Magistrate shall issue such process unless, for reasons to be recorded by him in writing, he considers that such application should be refused.

Process for production of evidence for defence.

The Magistrate may, before summoning any witness on such application, require that his reasonable expenses incurred in attending for the purposes of the trial be deposited in Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 220, omitting the Explanation. See infra, s. 247. Act IV, 1877, s. 126, first half.

259. If in any case under this chapter in which a charge has been framed the Magistrate finds the accused not guilty, he shall record an order of acquittal.

Acquittal.

If in any such case the Magistrate finds the accused guilty, he shall pass sentence upon him according to law.

Conviction.

Act X, 1872, s. 213, Expl. Contrast Act IV, 1877, s. 138, but see s. 133 of same.

260. When the proceedings have been instituted upon complaint and upon any day fixed for the hearing of the case the complainant is absent and the offence may be lawfully compounded, the Magistrate may, in his discretion, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, at any time before the charge has been framed, discharge the accused.

Absence of complainant.

CHAPTER XXII.

Of Summary Trials.

Act X, 1872, ss. 262, 223, 224.

261. Notwithstanding anything contained in this Code, the District Magistrate and any Magistrate of the first class specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government may try in a summary way all or any of the following offences:—

Power to try summarily.

I. L. R., 3 Cal., 644.

(a) Offences not punishable with death, transportation, whipping, or imprisonment for a term exceeding six months;

(b) Offences relating to weights and measures, under sections 264, 265 and 266 of the Indian Penal Code;

(c) Hurt, under section 323 of the same Code;

(d) Theft, under section 379, 380 or 381 of the same Code, where the value of the property stolen does not exceed fifty rupees;

(e) Receiving or retaining stolen property, under section 411 of the same Code, when the value of such property does not exceed fifty rupees;

(f) Assisting in the concealment or disposal of stolen property, under section 414 of the same Code, when the value of such property does not exceed fifty rupees;

(g) Mischief, under section 427 of the same Code;

(h) House-trespass, under section 448 of the same Code;

(i) Insult with intent to provoke a breach of the peace, under section 504, and criminal intimidation, under section 506, of the same Code; Act XI, 1874, s. 17.

(j) Abetment of any of the foregoing offences;

(k) An attempt to commit any of the foregoing offences when such attempt is an offence:

Provided that no case in which a District Magistrate exercises the special powers conferred by section 34 shall be tried in a summary way.

Act X, 1872, s. 225.

262. The Local Government may confer on any Bench of Magistrates invested with the powers of a Magistrate of the second or third class power to try summarily all or any of the following offences:—

Power to invest Bench of Magistrates invested with less power.

(a) Offences against the Indian Penal Code, sections 277, 278, 279, 285, 286, 289, 290, 292, 293, 294, 323, 334, 336, 341, 352, 426 and 447;

(b) Offences against Municipal Acts, and the conservancy-clauses of Police Acts, punishable only with fine, or with imprisonment for a term not exceeding one month;

New.

(c) Abetment of any of the foregoing offences;

New.

(d) An attempt to commit any of the foregoing offences when such attempt is an offence.

Act X, 1872, s. 226.

263. In trials under this chapter, the procedure prescribed for summons-cases shall be followed in summons-cases, and the procedure prescribed for warrant-cases shall be followed in warrant-cases, except as hereinafter mentioned.

Procedure for summons and warrant-cases applicable with certain exceptions.

Act X, 1872, s. 227.

264. In cases where no appeal lies, the Magistrate or Bench of Magistrates need not record the evidence of the witnesses or frame a formal charge; but he or they shall enter in such form as the Local Government may direct the following particulars:—

Record in cases where there is no appeal.

(a) the serial number;
(b) the date of the commission of the offence;
(c) the date of the report or complaint;
(d) the name of the complainant (if any);
(e) the name, parentage and residence of the accused;
(f) the offence complained of or proved;
(g) the plea of the accused and his examination (if any);
(h) the finding, and, in the case of a conviction, a brief statement of the reasons therefor;

(i) the sentence or other final order; and

(j) the date on which the proceedings terminated.

Act X, 1872, s. 228. Record in appealable cases.

265. In every case tried summarily by a Magistrate or Bench in which an appeal lies, such Magistrate or Bench shall, before passing sentence, record a judgment embodying the substance of the evidence and also the particulars mentioned in section 264.

Such judgment shall be the only record in cases coming within this section.

Act X, 1872, s. 229. Language of record and judgment.

266. Records made under section 264 and judgments recorded under section 265 shall be written by the presiding officer, either in English or in the language of the Court, or, if the Court to which such presiding officer is immediately subordinate so directs, in such officer's mother-tongue.

Act X, 1872, s. 230. Bench may be authorized to employ clerk.

The Local Government may authorize any Bench of Magistrates empowered to try offences summarily to prepare the aforesaid record or judgment by means of an officer appointed in this behalf by the Court to which such Beuch is immediately subordinate, and the record or judgment so prepared shall be signed by each member of such Bench present taking part in the proceedings.

CHAPTER XXIII.

Of Trials before High Courts and Courts of Session.

A.—Preliminary.

Act X, 1875, s. 3. "High Court" defined.

267. In this chapter, except in section 308, the expression "High Court" means a High Court of Judicature established or to be established under the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of Victoria, chapter 104, and includes the Chief Court of the Panjáb, and such other Courts as the Governor General in Council may from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, declare to be High Courts for the purposes of this chapter.

Act X, 1875, s. 32. Trials before High Court to be by jury.

268. All trials under this chapter before a High Court shall be by jury; and, notwithstanding anything herein contained, in all criminal cases transferred to a High Court under this Code or under the Letters Patent of any High Court established under the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of Victoria, chapter 104, the trial may, if the High Court so direct, be by jury.

Act X, 1872, s. 232. Trials before Sessions Court to be by jury or with assessors.

269. All trials before a Court of Session shall be either by jury, or with the aid of assessors.

Act X, 1872, s. 233, paras. 1 and 2. Local Government may order trials before Court of Session to be by jury.

270. The Local Government may by order in the official Gazette direct that the trial of all offences, or of any particular class of offences, before any Court of Session, shall be by jury in any District, and from time to time revoke or alter such order.

When the accused is charged at the same trial with several offences of which some are and some are not triable by jury, he shall be tried by jury for each offence.

Act X, 1872, s. 235. Trial before Court of Session to be conducted by Public Prosecutor.

271. In every trial before a Court of Session, the prosecution shall be conducted by a Public Prosecutor.

B.—Commencement of Proceedings.

Act X, 1872, s. 237. Commencement of trial.

272. When the Court is ready to commence the trial, the accused shall appear or be brought before it, and the charge shall be read and explained to him, and he shall be asked whether he is guilty of the offence charged, or claims to be tried.

Act X, 1872, ss. 28, 29.

Act X, 1872, s. 73. Plea of guilty.

If the accused pleads guilty, the plea shall be recorded, and he may be convicted thereon.

Act X, 1872, s. 238. Act X, 1872, s. 30. Refusal to plead or claim to be tried.

273. If the accused refuses to, or does not, plead, or if he claims to be tried, the Court shall proceed to choose jurors or assessors as hereinafter directed and to try the case:

Act X, 1872, s. 265. Act X, 1872, s. 34. Trial by same jury or assessors of several offenders in succession.

Provided that, subject to the right of objection hereinafter mentioned, the same jury may try, or the same assessors may aid in the trial of, as many accused persons successively as the Court thinks fit.

Act X, 1872, s. 14. Entry on unsustainable charge.

274. When it appears to the Court at any time before the commencement of the trial of the person charged, that there is no legal evidence to sustain any charge or a portion thereof, the Judge may make on the charge an entry to that effect.

Such entry shall have the effect of staying proceedings upon the charge or portion of the charge, as the case may be. Effect of entry.

C.—Choosing a Jury.

Act X, 1872, s. 33. Number of jury.

275. In trials before the High Court the jury shall consist of nine persons.

Act X, 1872, s. 286.

In trials by jury before the Court of Session, the jury shall consist of such uneven number not being less than three, or more than nine, as the Local Government, by order applicable to any particular district or to any particular class of offences in that district, may from time to time direct.

Act X, 1872, s. 241. Jury for trial of persons not Europeans or Americans before Court of Session.

276. In a trial by jury, before the Court of Session, of a person not being an European or an American, a majority of the jury shall, if he so desires, consist of persons who are neither Europeans nor Americans.

Act X, 1872, s. 240. Act X, 1872, s. 33. Jurors to be chosen by lot.

277. The jurors shall be chosen by lot from the persons summoned to act as such, in such manner as the High Court may from time to time by rule direct:

As to practice in Bombay, see I. L. R., 1 Bom. 462.

Proviso.

Provided that—

Act X, 1875, s. 49. Existing practice maintained.

1*st*, pending the issue under this section of rules for any Court, the practice now prevailing in such Court in respect to the choosing of jurors shall be followed.

Act X, 1872, s. 243, para. 3. Act X, 1875, s. 33. Persons not summoned when eligible.

2*nd*, in case of a deficiency of persons summoned, the number of jurors required may, with the leave of the Court, be chosen from such other persons as may be present; and Act X, 1875, s. 38. Trials before special jurors.

3*rd*, in the Presidency-towns—

(a) if the accused person is charged with having committed an offence punishable with death, or

(b) if in any other case a Judge of the High Court so directs, the jurors shall be chosen from the special jury list hereinafter prescribed.

Act X, 1872, s. 243, paras. 1 and 2. Act X, 1875, s. 53. Names of jurors to be called.

278. As each juror is chosen, his name shall be called aloud, and upon his appearance, the accused shall be asked if he objects to be tried by such juror.

Objection to jurors.

Objection may then be taken to such juror by the accused or by the prosecutor, and the grounds of objection shall be stated:

Act X, 1875, s. 47, para. 1. Objection without grounds stated.

Provided that, in the High Court, objections without grounds stated shall be allowed to the number of eight on behalf of the Crown and eight on behalf of the person or all the persons charged.

Act X, 1872, ss. 244, 405, 406. Act X, 1875, ss. 47, 54. Grounds of objection.

279. Any objection taken to a juror on any of the following grounds, if made out to the satisfaction of the Court, shall be allowed:—

(a) some presumed or actual partiality in the juror;

(b) some personal ground, such as alienage, deficiency in the qualification required by any law or rule having the force of law for the time being in force, or being under the age of twenty-one or above the age of sixty years;

(c) his having by habit or religious vows relinquished all care of worldly affairs;

(d) his holding any office in or under the Court;

(e) his executing any duties of Police or being entrusted with Police-duties;

(f) his having been convicted of any offence which, in the opinion of the Court, renders him unfit to serve on the jury;

(g) inability to understand the language in which the evidence is given, or when such evidence is interpreted, the language in which it is interpreted;

(h) any other circumstance which, in the opinion of the Court, renders him improper as a juror.

Act X, 1872, s. 248, para. 3. Decision of objection.

280. Every objection taken to a juror shall be decided by the Court, and such decision shall be recorded and be final.

Act X, 1875, ss. 48, 55.

Act X, 1872, s. 243, para. 4. Act X, 1875, s. 56. Supply of place of juror against whom objection allowed.

If the objection is allowed, the place of such juror shall be supplied by any other juror attending in obedience to a summons and chosen in manner provided by section 277; or, if there is no such other juror present, then by any other person present in the Court whose name is on the list of jurors, or whom the Court considers a proper person to serve on the jury, provided that no objection to such juror or other person is taken under section 279 and allowed.

Act X, 1872, s. 246. Act X, 1875, s. 58. Foreman of jury.

281. When the jurors have been chosen, they shall appoint one of their number to be foreman.

The foreman shall preside in the debates of the jury, deliver the verdict of the jury, and ask any information from the Court that is required by the jury or any of the jurors.

If a majority of the jury do not, within such time as the Judge thinks reasonable, agree in the appointment of a foreman, he shall be appointed by the Court.

New. Swearing of jurors.

282. When the foreman has been appointed, the jurors shall be sworn under the Indian Oaths Act, 1873.

Act X, 1872, s. 254. Procedure when juror ceases to attend.

283. If, in the course of a trial by jury, at any time before the return of the verdict, any juror, from any sufficient cause, is prevented from attending throughout the trial, or if any juror absents himself, and it is not possible to enforce his attendance, a new juror shall be added, or the jury shall be discharged and a new jury chosen.

In each of such cases the trial shall commence anew.

Act X, 1875, s. 99. Discharge of jury in case of sickness of prisoner.

284. The Judge may also discharge the jury whenever the prisoner becomes incapable of remaining at the bar.

D.—Choosing Assessors.

Act X, 1872, s. 239. Assessors how chosen.

285. When the trial is to be held with the aid of assessors, two or more shall be chosen, as the Judge thinks fit, from the persons summoned to act as such.

Act X, 1872, s. 269. Procedure when assessor is unable to attend.

286. If, in the course of a trial with the aid of assessors, at any time prior to the finding, any assessor is, from any sufficient cause, prevented from attending throughout the trial, or absents himself, and it is not possible to enforce his attendance, the trial shall proceed with the aid of the other assessor or assessors.

If all the assessors are prevented from attending or absent themselves, the proceeding shall be stayed, and a new trial shall be held with the aid of fresh assessors.

E.—Trial to Close of Cases for Prosecution and Defence.

Act X, 1872, s. 247. Act XI, 1874, s. 19. Act X, 1875, s. 59.

Opening case for prosecution.

287. When the jurors or assessors have been chosen, the prosecutor shall open his case by reading from the Indian Penal Code or other law the description of the offence charged, and stating shortly by what evidence he expects to prove the guilt of the accused.

Examination of witnesses.

The prosecutor shall then examine his witnesses.

Act X, 1872, s. 248. Act X, 1875, s. 60.

Examination of accused before Magistrate to be evidence.

288. The examination of the accused before the committing Magistrate shall be tendered by the prosecutor and read as evidence.

Act X, 1872, s. 249. Act XI, 1874, s. 20. Act X, 1875, s. 75. 12 Ben. Appendix, 16, 17. The exercise of this discretion may be reviewed on appeal, 11 Bom. 282.

Evidence given at preliminary inquiry admissible.

289. The evidence of a witness duly taken in the presence of the accused before the committing Magistrate may, in the discretion of the presiding Judge, if such witness is produced and examined, be treated as evidence in the case.

Act X, 1872, s. 251, paras. 1 and 2. Act, X, 1875, s. 62.

Procedure after examination of witnesses for prosecution.

290. When the examination of the witnesses for the prosecution and the examination (if any) of the accused is concluded, the accused shall be asked whether he means to adduce evidence.

In such case it is not necessary to ask the assessors their opinion, —I. L. R., 1 All., 610, n.

If he says that he does not, the prosecutor may sum up his case; and if the Court considers that there is no legal evidence to sustain the charge, it may then, in a case tried with the aid of assessors, record a finding, or, in a case tried by a jury, direct the jury to return a verdict, of not guilty.

If the accused, or any one of the accused (when there are several), says that he means to adduce evidence, or if, on his saying that he does not mean to adduce evidence, the prosecutor sums up his case and the Court considers that there is legal evidence to sustain the charge, the Court shall call on the accused to enter on his defence.

Act X, 1872, s. 251, para. 3. Act X, 1875, s. 62.

Defence.

291. The accused or his pleader may then open his case, stating the facts or law on which he intends to rely, and making such comments as he thinks necessary on the evidence for the prosecution. He may then examine his witnesses, if any, and after their cross-examination and re-examination (if any) may sum up his case.

Act X, 1872, s. 363. Act X, 1875, s. 85. Act IV, 1877, s. 91.

Right of accused as to examination and summoning of witness.

Act X, 1872, s. 252. Act X, 1875 s. 63.

Prosecutor's right of reply.

293. If the accused, or any of the accused, has stated, when asked under section 290, that he means to adduce evidence, the prosecutor shall be entitled to reply.

Act X, 1872, s. 253. Act X, 1875, s. 64. Taken from Livingston, Art. 357.

View by jury or assessors.

294. Whenever the Court thinks that the jury or assessors should view the place in which the offence charged is alleged to have been committed, or any other place in which any other transaction material to the trial is alleged to have occurred, the Court shall make an order to that effect, and the jury or assessors shall be conducted in a body, under the care of an officer of the Court, to such place, which shall be shown to them by a person appointed by the Court.

Such officer shall not, except with the permission of the Court, suffer any other person to speak to, or hold any communication with, any of the jury or assessors, and, unless the Court otherwise directs, they shall, when the view is finished, be immediately conducted back into Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 258. Act X, 1875, s. 69.

When juror or assessor may be examined.

295. If a juror or assessor is personally acquainted with any relevant fact, it is his duty to inform the Judge that such is the case, whereupon he may be sworn, examined, cross-examined and re-examined in the same manner as any other witness.

Act X, 1872, s. 260. Act X, 1875, s. 67.

Jury or assessors to attend at adjourned sitting.

296. If a trial is adjourned, the jury or assessors shall attend at the adjourned sitting, and at every subsequent sitting, until the conclusion of the trial.

Act X, 1875, s. 65.

Locking-up jury.

297. The High Court may from time to time make rules as to keeping the jury together during a trial before such Court lasting for more than one day, and, subject to such rules, the presiding Judge may order whether and in what manner the jurors shall be kept together under the charge of an officer of the Court, or whether they shall be allowed to return to their respective homes.

F.—Conclusion of Trial in Cases tried by Jury.

Act X, 1872, s. 255, para. 1. Act X, 1875, s. 90.

Charge to jury.

298. In cases tried by jury, when the case for the defence, and the prosecutor's reply, if any, are concluded, the Court shall proceed to charge the jury, summing up the evidence for the prosecution and defence, and laying down the law by which the jury are to be guided.

Act X, 1872, s. 256. Act X, 1875, s. 91.

Duty of Judge.

299. In such cases, it is the duty of the Judge—

(a) to decide all questions of law, and especially all questions as to the relevancy of facts which it is proposed to prove, the admissibility of evidence or the propriety of questions asked by or on behalf of the parties which may arise in the course of the trial, and, in his discretion, to prevent the production of inadmissible evidence, whether it is or is not objected to by the parties;

(b) to decide upon the meaning and construction of all documents given in evidence at the trial;

(c) to decide upon all matters of fact which it may be necessary to prove in order to enable evidence of particular matters to be given;

(d) to decide whether any question which arises is for himself or for the jury, and upon this point his decision shall be final.

The Judge may, if he thinks proper, in the course of his summing up, express to the jury his opinion upon any question of fact, or upon any question of mixed law and fact, relevant to the proceeding.

Illustrations.

(a) It is proposed to prove a statement made by a person not called as a witness under circumstances which render evidence of his statement admissible.

It is for the Judge, and not for the jury, to decide whether the existence of those circumstances has been proved.

(b) It is proposed to give secondary evidence of a document the original of which is alleged to have been lost or destroyed.

It is the duty of the Judge to decide whether the original has been lost or destroyed.

Act X, 187 2 s. 257. Act X, 1875, s. 93.

Duty of jury.

300. It is the duty of the jury—

(a) to decide which view of the facts is true, and then to return the verdict which under such view ought, according to the direction of the Judge, to be returned;

(b) to determine the meaning of all technical terms (other than terms of law) and words used in an unusual sense which it may be necessary to determine, whether such words occur in documents or not;

(c) to decide all questions which according to law are to be deemed questions of fact;

(d) to decide whether general indefinite expressions do or do not apply to particular cases, unless such expressions refer to legal procedure, or unless their meaning is ascertained by law, in either of which cases it is the duty of the Judge to decide their meaning.

Illustrations.

(a) A is tried for the murder of B.

It is the duty of the Judge to explain to the jury the distinction between murder and culpable homicide, and to tell them under what views of the facts A ought to be convicted of murder, or of culpable homicide, or to be acquitted.

It is the duty of the jury to decide which view of the facts is true, and to return a verdict in accordance with the direction of the Judge, whether that direction is right or wrong, and whether they do or do not agree with it.

(b) The question is whether a person entertained a reasonable belief on a particular point,—whether work was done with reasonable skill or due diligence.

Each of these is a question for the jury.

Act X, 1872, s. 263, para. 1. Act X, 1875, s. 92.

Retirement to consider.

301. In cases tried by jury, after the Judge has finished his charge, the jury may retire to consider their verdict.

Except with the leave of the Court, no person other than a juror shall speak to, or hold any communication with, any member of such jury.

Act X, 1872, s. 263, para. 1. Act X, 1875, s. 94.

Delivery of verdict.

302. When the jury have considered their verdict, the foreman shall inform the Judge what is their verdict, or what is the verdict of a majority.

Act X, 1872, s. 263, para. 3. Act X, 1875, s. 96. I. L. R., 6 Calc., 351 (where the jury are unanimous).

Procedure where jury differ.

303. If the jury are not unanimous, the Judge may require them to retire for further consideration. After such a period as the Judge considers reasonable, the jury may deliver their verdict, although they are not unanimous.

Act X, 1872, s. 263, paras. 1, 2. Act X, 1875, s. 95.

Verdict to be given on each charge. Judge may question jury.

304. Unless otherwise ordered by the Court, the jury shall return a verdict on all the charges on which the accused is tried, and the Judge may ask them such questions as are necessary to ascertain what their verdict is.

Act X, 1872, s. 263, para. 2, last sentence.

Questions and answers to be recorded.

Such questions and the answers to them shall be recorded.

New. Dears. C. C. 229.

Amending verdict.

305. When by accident or mistake a wrong verdict is delivered, the jury may, before or immediately after it is recorded, amend the verdict, and it shall stand as ultimately amended.

Act X, 1875, ss. 97, 98.

Verdict in High Court when to prevail.

306. When in a case tried before a High Court the jury are unanimous in their opinion, or when as many as six are of one opinion and the Judge agrees with them, the Judge shall give judgment in accordance with such opinion.

When in any such case the jury are satisfied that they will not be unanimous, but six of them are of one opinion, the foreman shall so inform the Judge.

If the Judge disagrees with the majority, he shall at once discharge the jury.

Discharge of jury in other cases.

If there are not so many as six who agree in opinion, the Judge shall, after the lapse of such time as he thinks reasonable, discharge the jury.

Act X, 1872, s. 263, para. 4.

Verdict in Sessions Court when to prevail.

307. When in a case tried before the Court of Session the Judge does not think it necessary to express disagreement with the verdict of the jurors or of a majority of the jurors, he shall give judgment accordingly.

If the accused is acquitted, the Judge shall record judgment of acquittal. If the accused is convicted, the Judge shall pass sentence on him according to law.

Act XI, 1874, s. 21.

Act X, 1872, s. 263, paras. 5 and 6. Act XI, 1874, s. 21. I. L. R., 1 Bom., 10. The dissent must be complete, I. L. R., 2 Bom., 526

Procedure where Judge disagrees with verdict.

308. If in any such case the Judge disagrees with the verdict of the jurors, or of a majority of the jurors, on all or any of the charges on which the accused has been tried, so completely that he considers it necessary for the ends of justice to submit the case to the High Court, he shall submit the case accordingly, recording the grounds of his opinion and, when the verdict is one of acquittal, stating the offence which he considers to have been committed.

I. L. R., 3 Calc., 623. Whenever the Judge submits a case under this section, he shall not record judgment of acquittal or of conviction on any of the charges on which the accused has been tried, but he may either remand the accused to custody, or admit him to bail.

See Markby, J., in I. L. R., 3 Calc., 192. In dealing with the case so submitted the High Court may exercise any of the powers which it may exercise on an appeal; but it may acquit or convict the accused of any offence of which the jury could have convicted him upon the charge framed and placed before it; and if it convict him, may pass such sentence as might have been passed by the Court of Session.

G.—Re-trial of Accused after Discharge of Jury.

Act X, 1875, s. 100. 309. Whenever the jury is discharged, the accused shall be detained in custody or on bail (as the case may be), and shall be tried by another jury, unless the Judge considers that he should not be re-tried, in which case the Judge shall make an entry to that effect on the charge, and such entry shall operate as an acquittal.

Re-trial of accused after discharge of jury.

H.—Conclusion of Trial in Cases tried with Assessors.

Act X, 1872, ss. 255, para. 1, 261, 262. 310. When in a case tried with the aid of assessors, the case for the defence and the prosecutor's reply (if any) are concluded, the Court shall require each of the assessors to state his opinion orally, and shall record such opinion.

Delivery of opinion of assessors.

The Judge shall then give judgment; but in doing so shall not be bound to conform to the opinion of the assessors.

Judgment.

I.—List of Jurors for High Court and summoning Jurors for that Court.

Act X, 1875, s. 39. 311. The jurors' book for the year current when this Code comes into force shall be taken as containing a correct list of persons liable to serve as jurors under this chapter;

Jurors' book.

and those persons whose names are entered in the said book as being liable to serve on special juries only shall be deemed to be persons privileged and liable to serve only as special jurors under this chapter during the year for which the said list has been prepared.

Act X, 1875, s. 40. 312. The names of not more than two hundred persons shall at any one time be entered in the special jurors' list.

Number of special jurors.

Act X, 1875, s. 41. All persons whose names are entered in the special jurors' list shall be exempted from serving on any other than special juries but so long only as their names are contained in such list.

Exemption of special jurors.

313. The Clerk of the Crown shall, before the first day of April in each year, and subject to such rules as the High Court from time to time prescribes, prepare—

Act X, 1875, s. 42.

Lists of common and special jurors.

(a) a list of all persons liable to serve as common jurors; and (b) a list of persons liable to serve as special jurors only.

Regard shall be had, in the preparation of the latter list, to the property, character and education of the persons whose names are entered therein.

No person shall be entitled to have his name entered in the special jurors' list merely because he may have been entered in the special jurors' list for a previous year.

The Governor General in Council in the case of the High Court at Calcutta, and in the case of other High Courts the Local Government, may exempt any salaried officer of Government from serving as a juror.

Act X, 1875, s. 43. The Clerk of the Crown shall, subject to such rules as aforesaid, have full discretion to prepare the said lists as seems to him to be proper, and there shall be no appeal from, or review of, his decision.

Discretion of officer preparing lists.

Act X, 1875, s. 44. 314. Preliminary lists of persons liable to serve as common jurors and as special jurors, respectively, signed by the Clerk of the Crown, shall be published once in the local official Gazette before the fifteenth day of April next after their preparation.

Publication of preliminary lists.

Revised lists of persons liable to serve as common jurors and special jurors, respectively, signed as aforesaid, shall be published once in the local official Gazette before the first day of May next after their preparation.

Copies of the said lists shall be affixed to some conspicuous part of the Court-house.

Act X, 1875, s. 45. 315. Out of the persons named in the revised lists aforesaid, there shall be summoned for each sessions at least twenty-seven of those who are liable to serve on special juries, and fifty-four of those who are liable to serve on common juries.

Number of jurors to be summoned.

No persons shall be so summoned more than once in six months unless the number cannot be made up without him.

If, during the continuance of any sessions, it appears that the number of persons so summoned is not sufficient, such number as may be necessary of other persons liable to serve as aforesaid shall be summoned for such sessions.

Supplementary summons.

Act X, 1875, s. 50. 316. Whenever a High Court has given notice of its intention to hold sittings at any place outside the Presidency-towns for the exercise of its original criminal jurisdiction, the Summoning jurors outside the Presidency-towns.

Court of Session at such place shall, subject to any direction which may be given by the High Court, summon a sufficient number of jurors from its own list in the manner hereinafter prescribed for summoning jurors to the Court of Session.

Act X, 1875, s. 51. 317. In addition to the persons so summoned as jurors, the said Court of Session shall, if it think needful, after communication with the Commanding Officer, cause to be summoned such number of commissioned and non-commissioned officers in Her Majesty's Army resident within ten miles of its place of sitting, as the Court considers to be necessary to make up the juries required for the trial of persons charged with offences before the High Court as aforesaid.

Military jurors.

All officers so summoned shall be liable to serve on such juries notwithstanding anything contained in this Code; but no such officer shall be summoned whom his Commanding Officer desires to have excused on the ground of urgent military duty, or for any other special military reason.

Act X, 1875, s. 46. 318. Any person summoned under section 315, 316 or 317, who without lawful excuse fails to attend as required by the summons, or who, having attended, departs without having obtained the permission of the Judge, or fails to attend after an adjournment of the Court after being ordered to attend, shall be deemed guilty of a contempt and be liable by order of the Judge to such fine as he thinks fit; and, in default of payment of such fine, to imprisonment in the civil jail until the fine is paid.

Failure of jurors to attend.

J.—List of Jurors and Assessors for Court of Session, and summoning Jurors and Assessors for that Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 404. 319. All male persons between the ages of twenty-one and sixty shall, except as next hereinafter mentioned, be liable to serve as jurors and assessors at any trial held within the District in which they reside.

Liability to serve as jurors and assessors.

Act X, 1872, ss. 344, 405, 406, para. 1. 320. The following persons are exempt from liability to serve as jurors or as assessors, namely:—

Exemptions.

(a) Officers in civil employ superior in rank to a District Magistrate;

(b) Judges;

(c) Commissioners and Collectors of Revenue or Customs;

(d) Persons engaged in the Preventive Service in the Customs Department;

(e) Persons engaged in the collection of the revenue whom the Collector thinks fit to exempt on the ground of official duty;

(f) Persons actually officiating as priests or ministers of their respective religions;

(g) Persons in Her Majesty's Army except when, by any law in force for the time being, they are specially made liable to serve as jurors or assessors;

(h) Surgeons and others who openly and constantly practise the medical profession;

(i) Persons employed in the Post-office and Telegraph Departments;

(j) Persons exempted by the Local Government from liability to serve as jurors, and persons exempted from personal appearance in Court under the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, sections 640 and 641.

Act X, 1872, s. 400. 321. The Sessions Judge and the Collector of the District, or such other officer as the Local Government appoints in this behalf, shall prepare and make out in alphabetical order a list of persons liable to serve as jurors or assessors, qualified in the judgment of the Sessions Judge and Collector or other officer as aforesaid to serve as such, and not likely to be successfully objected to under section 279, clauses (b) to (k), both inclusive.

List of jurors and assessors.

The list shall contain the name, place of abode and quality or business of every such person; and if the person is a European or an American, the list shall mention the race to which he belongs.

Act X, 1872, s. 401, para. 1. 322. Copies of such list shall be stuck up in the office of the Collector or other officer as aforesaid, and in the Court-houses of the District Magistrate and of the District Court, and in some conspicuous place in the town or towns in or near which the persons named in the list reside.

Publication of list.

Act X, 1872, s. 401, para. 2. 323. To every such copy shall be subjoined a notice stating that objections to the list will be heard and determined by the Sessions Judge and Collector or other officer as aforesaid, at the Sessions Court-house, and at a time to be mentioned in the notice.

Objections to list.

Act X, 1872, s. 402. 324. For the hearing of such objections, the Sessions Judge shall sit with the Collector or other officer as aforesaid, and shall, at the time and place mentioned in the notice, revise the list and hear the objections (if any) of persons interested in the amendment thereof, and shall strike out the name of any person not suitable in their judgment to serve as a juror or as an assessor, or who may claim the exemption from service given by section 320, and insert the name of any person omitted from the list whom they deem qualified for such service.

Revision of list.

In the event of a difference of opinion between the Collector or other officer as aforesaid and the Sessions Judge, the name of the proposed juror or assessor shall be omitted from the list.

A copy of the revised list shall be signed by the Sessions Judge and Collector or other officer as aforesaid and sent to the Court of Session.

Any order of the Sessions Judge and Collector or other officer as aforesaid in preparing and revising the list shall be final.

Any exemption not claimed under this section shall be deemed to be waived until the list is next revised.

Act X, 1872, s. 403.

325. The list so prepared and revised shall be again revised once in every year.

Annual revision of list.

The list so revised shall be deemed a new list, and shall be subject to all the rules hereinbefore contained as to the list originally prepared.

Act X, 1872, s. 407.

326. The Sessions Judge shall ordinarily, three days at least before the time fixed for holding the sessions, send a letter to the District Magistrate requesting him to summon as many persons named in the said revised list as seem to the Judge to be needed for trials by jury and trials with the aid of assessors at the said sessions, the number to be summoned not being less than double the number required for any case about to be tried at such sessions.

Court to summon jurors and assessors.

The names of the persons to be summoned shall be drawn by lot in open Court, excluding those on the revised list who have served within six months, unless the number cannot be made up without them; and the names so drawn shall be specified in the said letter.

Act X, 1872, s. 410.

327. The Court of Session may direct jurors or assessors to be summoned at other periods than the period specified in section 326, when the number of trials before the Court renders the attendance of one set of jurors or assessors for a whole session oppressive, or whenever for other reasons such direction is found to be necessary.

Power to summon another set of jurors or assessors.

Act X, 1872, s. 409, para. 1.

328. Every summons to a juror or assessor shall be in writing, and shall require his attendance as a juror or assessor, as the case may be, at a time and place to be therein specified.

Form and service of summons.

Act X, 1872, s. 411.

329. If any person summoned to serve as a juror or assessor be in the service of Government or of a Railway Company, the Court may excuse his attendance if it appear, on the representation of the head of the office in which he is employed, that he cannot serve as a juror or assessor, as the case may be, without inconvenience to the public.

When Government or Railway servant may be excused.

Act X, 1872, s. 412.

330. The Court of Session may for reasonable cause excuse any juror or assessor from attendance at any particular session.

Court may excuse attendance of juror or assessor.

Act X, 1872, s. 413.

331. At each session, the said Court shall cause to be made a list of the names of those who have attended as jurors or assessors at such session.

List of jurors or assessors attending.

Such list shall be kept with the list of the jurors and assessors as revised under section 324.

A reference shall be made in the margin of the said revised list to each of the names which are mentioned in the list prepared under this section.

Act X, 1872, s. 414.

332. Any person summoned to attend as a juror or as an assessor who, without lawful excuse, fails to attend as required by the summons, or who, having attended, departs without having obtained the permission of the Court, or fails to attend after an adjournment of the Court after being ordered to attend, shall be liable, by order of the Court of Session, to a fine not exceeding one hundred rupees.

Penalty for non-attendance of juror or assessor.

Such fine shall be levied by the District Magistrate by attachment and sale of any moveable property belonging to such juror or assessor within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court making the order.

In default of recovery of the fine by such attachment and sale, such juror or assessor may be imprisoned in the civil jail for the term of fifteen days, unless such fine is paid before the end of the said term.

K.—Special Provisions for High Courts.

Act X, 1872, s. 146. Cf. s. 260, supra.

333. At any stage of any trial before a High Court under this Code before the return of the verdict, the Advocate General may, if he thinks fit, inform the Court on behalf of Her Majesty that he will not further prosecute the defendant upon the charge; and thereupon all proceedings on such charge against the defendant shall be stayed, and he shall be discharged of and from the same. But such discharge shall not amount to an acquittal.

Power of Advocate General to stay prosecution.

Act X, 1872, s. 4.

334. For the exercise of its original criminal jurisdiction, every High Court shall hold sittings on such days and at such convenient intervals as the Chief Justice of such Court from time to time appoints.

Time of holding sittings.

Act X, 1872, s. 6.

335. The High Court shall hold its sittings at the place at which it now holds them, or at such other place (if any) as the Governor General in Council in the case of the High Court at Fort William, and as the Local Government in the case of the other High Courts, may direct.

Place of holding sittings.

But it may from time to time, in the case of the High Court at Fort William with the consent of the Governor General in Council, and in all other cases with the consent of the Local Government, hold sittings at such other places within the local limits of its appellate jurisdiction as the High Court appoints.

Such officer as the Chief Justice directs shall give notice beforehand in the local official Gazette of all sittings intended to be held for the exercise of the original criminal jurisdiction of the High Court.

Act X, 1875, s. 27.

336. The High Court may direct that all European British subjects and persons liable to be tried by it under section 215, who have been committed for trial by it within certain specified districts or during certain specified periods of the year, shall be tried at the ordinary place of sitting of the Court,

Place of trial of European British subjects.

or direct that they shall be tried at a particular place named.

CHAPTER XXIV.

GENERAL PROVISIONS AS TO INQUIRIES AND TRIALS.

Act X, 1872, s. 347. Act IV, 1877, s. 180.

337. The District Magistrate, a Presidency Magistrate, any Magistrate of the first class inquiring into the case, or, with the sanction of the District Magistrate, any other Magistrate, may, in any warrant-case, with the view of obtaining the evidence of any person supposed to have been directly or indirectly concerned in, or privy to, the offence, tender a pardon to such person on condition of his making a full and true disclosure of the whole of the circumstances within his knowledge relative to such offence, and to every other person concerned in the perpetration thereof.

Tender of pardon to accomplice.

Every person accepting a tender under this section shall be examined as a witness in the case.

Such person, if not on bail, shall be detained in custody until the termination of the trial.

Every Magistrate, other than a District Magistrate or a Presidency Magistrate, who tenders a pardon under this section, shall record his reasons for so doing; and when any Magistrate has made such tender and examined the person to whom it has been made, he shall not try the case himself, although the offence which such person appears to have committed may be triable by such Magistrate.

Act X, 1872, s. 348, omitting "as a Court of Revision." Act X, 1875, s. 77.

338. At any time after commit*ment*, but before judgment is passed, the Court to which the commitment is made may, with the view of obtaining on the trial the evidence of any person supposed to have been directly or indirectly concerned in, or privy to, any such offence, tender, or order the committing Magistrate or the District Magistrate to tender, a pardon on the same condition to such person

Power to direct tender of pardon.

Act X, 1872, ss. 193, para. 1, 250, 342. Act X, 1872, s. 61. Act IV, 1877, ss. 6, 149. 6 Calc. 521. 1 O'Kin. 436.

339. Where a pardon has been tendered under section 337 or 338, and any person who has accepted such tender has, either by wilfully concealing anything essential or by giving false evidence, not complied with the condition on which the tender was made, he may be tried for the offence in respect of which the pardon was so tendered, or for any other offence of which he appears to have been guilty in connection with the same matter.

Commitment of person to whom pardon has been tendered.

Act X, 1872, s. 349. Act X, 1875, s. 78. Act IV, 1877, s. 151. 7 Calc., 66.

The statement made by a person under pardon may be given in evidence against him when the pardon has been withdrawn under this section.

Act X, 1872, s. 186, paras. 1 and 2. Act XI, 1874, s. 13. Act X, 1875, s. 81. Act IV, 1877, s. 130.

340. Every person accused before any Criminal Court may of right be defended by a pleader.

Right of accused to be defended.

Act X, 1872, s. 186, para. 3. Act X, 1875, s. 130. Act IV, 1877, s. 131.

341. If the accused, though not insane, cannot be made to understand the proceedings, the Court may proceed with the inquiry or trial; and in the case of a Court other than a High Court, if such inquiry results in a commitment, or if such trial results in a conviction, the proceedings shall be forwarded to the High Court with a report of the circumstances of the case, and the High Court shall pass thereon such order as it thinks fit.

Procedure where accused does not understand proceedings.

Act X, 1872, ss. 193, para. 2, 343; Act I, 1872, s. 114, ill. (h).

342. At any stage of any inquiry or trial the Court may, without previously warning the accused, put such questions to him as the Court considers necessary.

Power to examine the accused.

The accused shall not render himself liable to punishment for refusal to answer such questions, or for giving false answers to them; but the Court and the jury (if any) shall draw such inference from such refusal or answers as it thinks just.

Act X, 1872, s. 193, expln.

The answers given by the accused may be put in evidence for or against him, not only in such inquiry or trial, but also in any other inquiry into, or trial for, any other offence which such answer may tend to show he has committed.

Act X, 1872, s. 342.

No oath shall be administered to the accused.

Act X, 1872, s. 343. Act IV, 1877, s. 149.

343. Except as provided in sections 337 and 338, no influence, by means of any promise or threat or otherwise, shall be used to an accused person to induce him to disclose or withhold any matter within his knowledge.

No influence to be used to induce disclosures.

Power to postpone or adjourn proceedings.

Act X, 1872, ss. 194, para. 1 and Expln., 208, para. 1, 219, 264. Act X, 1875, s. 66. Act IV, 1877, ss. 86, 124. 11 & 12 Vic., c. 42, s. 21.

344. If, from the absence of a witness or any other reasonable cause, it becomes necessary or advisable to postpone the commencement of, or adjourn, any inquiry or trial, the Court may, by order in writing, stating the reasons therefor, from time to time postpone or adjourn the same on such terms as it thinks fit, for such time as it considers reasonable, and by a warrant remand the accused if in custody:

Remand.

Provided that no Magistrate shall remand an accused person to custody under this section for a term exceeding fifteen days at a time.

Every order made under this section by a Court other than a High Court shall be in writing signed by the presiding Judge.

Reasonable cause for remand.

EXPLANATION.—If sufficient evidence has been obtained to raise a suspicion that the accused may have committed an offence, and it appears likely that further evidence may be obtained by a remand, this is a reasonable cause for a remand.

Act X, 1872, s. 188. Act X, 1875, s. 151. Act IV, 1877, s. 133. Compare N. Y. Crim. Proc. Code, s. 781.

345. The offences punishable under the sections of the Indian Penal Code described in the first two columns of the Table next following may be compounded by the persons mentioned in the third column of that Table:—

Compounding of offences.

Offence.	Sections of Indian Penal Code applicable.	Person by whom offence may be compounded.
Causing hurt ...	323, 334, 337, 338	The person to whom the hurt is caused.
Wrongfully restraining or confining any person.	341, 342	The person restrained or confined.
Assault or use of criminal force.	352, 358	The person assaulted or to whom criminal force is used.
Unlawful compulsory labour.	374	The person compelled to labour.
Mischief, when the only loss or damage caused is loss or damage to a private person.	426, 427	The person to whom the loss or damage is caused.
Criminal trespass ...	447	The person in possession of the property trespassed upon.
House-trespass ...	448
Criminal Breach of Contract of service.	490, 491, 492	The person with whom the offender has contracted.
Adultery ...	497	The husband of the woman.
Enticing or taking away or detaining with a criminal intent a married woman.	498
Defamation ...	500	The person defamed.
Printing or engraving matter knowing it to be defamatory.	501
Sale of printed or engraved substance containing defamatory matter, knowing it to contain such matter.	502
Insult intended to provoke a breach of the peace.	504	The person insulted.
Criminal Intimidation, except when the offence is punishable with imprisonment for seven years.	506	The person intimidated.

The offence of voluntarily causing hurt, voluntarily causing grievous hurt or cheating, punishable under section 324, section 335 or section 417 of the Indian Penal Code may, with the permission of the Court before which any prosecution for such offence is pending, be compounded by the person to whom the hurt has been caused, or by the person cheated, as the case may be.

When any offence is compoundable under this section, the abetment of such offence or an attempt to commit such offence (when such attempt is itself an offence) may be compounded in like manner.

When the person who would otherwise be competent to compound an offence under this section is a minor, an idiot or a lunatic, any person competent to contract on his behalf may compound such offence.

The composition of an offence under this section shall have the effect of an acquittal of the accused.

No offence not mentioned in this section shall be compounded.

Act X, 1872, s. 45, paras. 1 and 2. Madras H. C. ruling cited Nelson, 63.

Procedure of Mufassal Magistrate in cases which he cannot dispose of.

346. If, in the course of an inquiry or trial before a Magistrate in any district outside the Presidency-towns, the evidence appears to him to warrant a presumption that the case is one which should be tried or committed for trial by some other Magistrate in such district, he shall stay proceedings and submit the case, with a brief report explaining its nature, to any Magistrate to whom he is subordinate, or to such other Magistrate, having jurisdiction, as the District Magistrate directs.

The Magistrate to whom the case is submitted may, if so empowered, either try the case himself, or refer it to any Magistrate subordinate to him having jurisdiction, or commit the accused for trial.

Act X, 1872, ss. 46, para. 3, 221, 436, para. 3. Act IV, 1877, s. 127.

Procedure when after commencement of inquiry or trial Magistrate finds case should be committed.

347. If in any enquiry before a Magistrate or in any trial before a Magistrate before signing judgment, it appears to him at any stage of the proceedings that the case is one which ought to be tried by the Court of Session or High Court, and if he is empowered to commit for trial, he shall stop further proceedings and commit the accused under the provisions hereinbefore contained.

If such Magistrate is not empowered to commit for trial, he shall proceed under section 346.

Act X, 1872, s. 315. Act IV, 1877, s. 128.

Trial of persons previously convicted of offences against coinage, stamp-law and property.

348. Whoever, having been convicted of an offence punishable under Chapter XII or XVII of the Indian Penal Code with imprisonment for a term of three years or upwards, is again accused of any offence punishable under either of those chapters with imprisonment for a term of three years or upwards, shall ordinarily, if the Magistrate before whom he is accused considers him a habitual offender, be committed to the Court of Session or High Court, as the case may be; or, in districts in which the District Magistrate has been invested with powers under section 30, placed on his trial before such Magistrate.

Act X, 1872, s. 46, paras. 1 and 2, inserting "different in kind from or"

Procedure when Magistrate cannot pass sentence sufficiently severe.

349. Whenever a Magistrate of the second or third class, having jurisdiction, is of opinion upon concluding a trial that the accused is guilty, and that he ought to receive a punishment different in kind from, or more severe than, that which such Magistrate is empowered to inflict, he may record the opinion and, instead of passing sentence, submit his proceedings, and forward the accused to the District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate to whom he is subordinate.

The Magistrate to whom the proceedings are submitted may, if he thinks fit, examine the parties and recall and examine any witness who has already given evidence in the case; and may call for and take any further evidence, and shall pass such sentence or order in the case as he thinks fit, and as is according to law: Provided that he shall not inflict a punishment more severe than he is empowered to inflict under sections 32 and 33.

e.g., he may order commitment to Sessions Court; I. L. R., 1 Mad., 289. See. I. L. R., 4 Bom., 240.

Act X, 1872, ss. 328, 329. Act IV, 1877, s. 156. See. 4 Calc., 452, and sec. 568, infra.

Conviction or commitment on evidence partly recorded by one Magistrate and partly by another.

350. Whenever any Magistrate, after having heard the whole or any part of the evidence in an enquiry or trial, ceases to exercise jurisdiction therein, and is succeeded by another Magistrate who has and who exercises such jurisdiction, the Magistrate so succeeding may act on the evidence so recorded by his predecessor, or partly recorded by his predecessor and partly recorded by himself; or he may re-summon the witnesses and re-commence the enquiry or trial:

Provided that in any trial the accused may, when the second Magistrate commences his proceedings, demand that the witnesses or any of them be re-summoned and re-heard:

Provided also that the High Court, or, in cases tried by Magistrates subordinate to the District Magistrate, the District Magistrate, may, without appeal, set aside any conviction passed on evidence not wholly recorded by the Magistrate before whom the conviction was had, if such Court or District Magistrate is of opinion that the accused has been materially prejudiced thereby, and may order a new inquiry or trial.

Nothing in this section applies to cases in which proceedings have been stayed under section 346.

Act X, 1872, s. 104.

Detention of offenders attending Court.

351. Any person attending a Criminal Court, although not upon an arrest or summons, may be detained by such Court for the purpose of examination, for any offence of which such Court can take cognizance and which, from the evidence, he may appear to have committed, and may be proceeded against as though he had been arrested or summoned.

When the detention takes place in the course of an inquiry under Chapter XVIII, or after a trial has been begun, the proceedings in respect of such person shall be commenced afresh and the witnesses re-heard.

Act X, 1872, s. 187. Act X, 1872, s. 150. Act IV, 1877, s. 132.

Courts to be open.

352. The place in which any Criminal Court is held for the purpose of inquiring into or trying any offence shall be deemed an open Court, to which the public generally may have access, so far as the same can conveniently contain them:

Provided that the presiding Judge or Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, order at any stage of any inquiry into, or trial of, any particular case that the public generally, or any particular person, shall not have access to, or be or remain in, the room or building used by the Court.

CHAPTER XXV.

Of the Mode of taking and recording Evidence in Inquiries and Trials.

Act X, 1872, s. 191, para. 1. Act IV, 1878, s. 83, para. 1.

Evidence to be taken in presence of accused.

353. Except as otherwise expressly provided, all evidence taken under Chapters XVIII, XX, XXI, XXII and XXIII shall be taken in the presence of the accused, or, when his personal attendance is dispensed with, in presence of his pleader.

Act X, 1872, s. 332.

Manner of recording evidence in Mufassal.

354. In inquiries and trials (other than summary trials) under this Code by or before a Magistrate (other than a Presidency Magistrate) or Sessions Judge, the evidence of the witnesses shall be recorded in the following manner.

Act X, 1872, ss. 222, 333.

Record in summons-cases, and in trials of certain offences by first and second class Magistrates.

355. In summons-cases tried before a Magistrate, other than a Presidency Magistrate, and in cases of the offences mentioned in section 261, clauses (b) to (k), both inclusive, when tried by a Magistrate of the first or second class, the Magistrate shall make a memorandum of the substance of the evidence of each witness as the examination of the witness proceeds.

Such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate with his own hand, and shall form part of the record.

If the Magistrate is prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause such memorandum to be made in writing from his dictation in open Court, and shall sign the same; and such memorandum shall form part of the record.

Act X, 1872, s. 334.

Record in other cases in the Mufassal.

No exception of cases in which no appeal lies. 11 Ben. Appx. 6.

356. In all other trials before Courts of Session and Magistrates (other than Presidency Magistrates) and in all inquiries under Chapter XVIII, the evidence of each witness shall be taken down in writing in the language of the Court, by the Magistrate or Sessions Judge, or in his presence and hearing and under his personal direction and superintendence, and shall be signed by the Magistrate or Sessions Judge.

Evidence given in English.

When the evidence of such witness is given in English, the Magistrate or Sessions Judge may take it down in that language with his own hand, and, unless the accused is familiar with English, or the language of the Court is English, an authenticated translation of such evidence in the language of the Court shall form part of the record.

Memorandum when evidence not taken down by the Magistrate or Judge himself.

In cases in which the evidence is not taken down in writing by the Magistrate or Sessions Judge, he shall, as the examination of each witness proceeds, make a memorandum of the substance of what such witness deposes, and such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate or Sessions Judge with his own hand, and shall form part of the record.

If the Magistrate or Sessions Judge is prevented from making a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of his inability to make it.

Act X, 1872, s. 335.

Language of record of evidence.

357. The Local Government may direct that in any district or part of a district, or in proceedings before any Court of Session, or before any Magistrate or class of Magistrates, the evidence of each witness shall in the cases referred to in section 356 be taken down by the Sessions Judge or Magistrate with his own hand and in his mother-tongue, unless he is prevented by any sufficient reason from taking down the evidence of any witness, in which case he shall record the reason of his inability to do so, and shall cause the evidence to be taken down in writing from his dictation in open Court.

The evidence so taken down shall be signed by the Sessions Judge or Magistrate, and shall form part of the record:

Provided that the Local Government may direct the Sessions Judge or Magistrate to take down the evidence in the English language, or in the language of the Court, although such language is not his mother-tongue.

Act X, 1872, s. 336.

Option to Magistrate in cases under section 355.

358. In cases of the kind mentioned in section 355, the Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, take down the evidence of any witness in the manner provided in section 356, or, if within the local limits of the jurisdiction of such Magistrate the Local Government has made the order referred to in section 357, in the manner provided in the same section.

Act X, 1872, s. 338.

Mode of recording evidence under section 356 or 357.

359. Evidence taken under section 356 or 357 shall not ordinarily be taken down in the form of question and answer, but in the form of a narrative.

The Magistrate or Sessions Judge may in his discretion take down, or cause to be taken down, any particular question and answer.

Act X, 1872, s. 339.

Procedure in regard to such evidence when completed.

360. As the evidence of each witness taken under section 356 is completed, it shall be read over to him in the presence of the accused if in attendance, or of his pleader, if he appears by pleader, and shall, if necessary, be corrected.

If the witness deny the correctness of any part of the evidence when the same is read over to him, the Magistrate or Sessions Judge may, instead of correcting the evidence, make a memorandum thereon of the objection made to it by the witness, and shall add such remarks as he thinks necessary.

If the evidence be taken down in a language different from that in which it has been given, and the witness does not understand the language in which it is taken down, he may require his evidence as taken down to be interpreted to him in the language in which it was given, or in a language which he understands.

Act X, 1872, s. 340.

Interpretation of evidence to accused or his agent.

361. Whenever any evidence is given in a language not understood by the accused and he is present in person, it shall be interpreted to him in open Court in a language understood by him.

If he appears by pleader and the evidence is given in a language other than the language of the Court, and not understood by the pleader, it shall be interpreted to such pleader in that language.

When documents are put in for the purpose of formal proof, it shall be in the discretion of the Court to interpret as much thereof as appears necessary.

Act X, 1872, s. 341. Act IV, 1877, s. 118.

Record of evidence in Presidency Magistrates' Courts.

362. In every case in which a Presidency Magistrate imposes a fine exceeding two hundred rupees, or imprisonment for a term exceeding six months, he shall either take down the evidence of the witnesses with his own hand, or cause it to be taken down in writing from his dictation in open Court. All evidence so taken down shall be signed by the Magistrate and shall be part of the record.

Act X, 1872, s. 342. Act IV, 1877, s. 115.

Evidence so taken down shall ordinarily be recorded in the form of a narrative, but the Magistrate may in his discretion take down, or cause to be taken down, any particular question or answer.

Sentences passed under section 35 on the same occasion shall, for the purposes of this section, be considered as one sentence.

Act X, 1872, s. 343.

Remarks respecting demeanour of witness.

363. Every Sessions Judge or Magistrate recording the evidence of a witness shall record such remarks as he thinks material respecting the demeanour of such witness whilst under examination.

Act X, 1872, s. 345, paras. 1, 2, 3 and 4. Act IV, 1877, ss. 84, 122.

Examination of accused how recorded.

364. Whenever the accused is examined by any Magistrate or by any Court other than a High Court established by Royal Charter, the whole of such examination, including every question put to him and every answer given by him, shall be recorded in full, in the language in which he is examined, or, if that is not practicable, in the language of the Court, and such record shall be shown or read to him, and he shall be at liberty to explain or add to his answers.

When the whole is made conformable to what he declares is the truth, the record shall be signed by the accused and the Magistrate or Judge of such Court, and such Magistrate or Judge shall certify under his own hand that the examination was taken in his presence and hearing, and that the record contains a full and true account of the statement made by the accused.

In cases in which the examination of the accused is not recorded by the Magistrate or Judge himself, he shall be bound, unless he is a Presidency Magistrate, as the examination proceeds, to make a memorandum thereof in the language of the Court or in English, if he is sufficiently acquainted with the latter language; and such memorandum shall be written and signed by the Magistrate or Judge with his own hand, and shall be annexed to the record. If the Magistrate or Judge is unable to make a memorandum as above required, he shall record the reason of such inability.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to apply to the examination of an accused person under section 243, 244 or 264.

Act X, 1875, s. 68, including Chief Court.

Record of evidence in High Court.

365. Every High Court established by Royal Charter and the Chief Court of the Panjáb may from time to time by general rule prescribe the manner in which evidence shall be taken down in cases coming before the Court, and the Judges of such Court shall take down the evidence or the substance thereof in accordance with the rule (if any) so prescribed.

CHAPTER XXVI.

Of the Judgment.

Act VIII, 1859, s. 183. Act X, 1872, ss. 211, para. 8, 462.

Mode of delivering judgment.

366. The judgment in every trial in any Criminal Court of original jurisdiction shall be pronounced in open court either immediately or at some subsequent time of which due notice shall be given to the parties or their pleaders; and the accused shall, if in custody, be brought up, or if not in custody shall be required to attend, to hear judgment delivered, except where his personal attendance during the trial has been dispensed with and the sentence is one of fine only, in which case it may be pronounced in the presence of his pleader.

Act X, 1872, s. 463. Cf. Act X, 1877, s. 300.

Language of judgment.

367. Every such judgment shall, except as otherwise expressly provided by this Code, be written by the presiding officer of the Court in the language of the Court, or in English, and shall contain the point or points for determination, the decision thereon, and the Act X, 1872, s. 464, para. 1. Cf. Act VIII, 1859, s. 185.

Contents of judgment.

reasons for the decision, and shall be dated and signed by the presiding officer in open court at the time of pronouncing it.

Act X, 1872, ss. 461, cl. 1, 464, para. 1.

It shall specify the offence (if any) of which, and the section of the Indian Penal Code or other law under which, the accused is convicted, and the punishment to which he is sentenced.

Act X, 1872, s. 461, cl. 2.

Judgment in alternative.

When the conviction is under the Indian Penal Code, and it is doubtful under which of two sections, or under which of two parts of the same section, of that Code the offence falls, the Court shall distinctly express the same, and pass judgment in the alternative, according to section 72 of the same Code.

If it be a judgment of acquittal, it shall direct that the accused be set at liberty.

Act X, 1872, s. 287, para. 2.

If the accused is convicted of an offence punishable with death, and the Court sentences him to any punishment other than death, the Court shall in its judgment state the reason why sentence of death was not passed :

Act X, 1872, ss. 255, last para., 464, para. 4.

Provided that, in trials by jury, the Court need not write a judgment, but the Court of Session shall record the heads of the charge to the jury.

Act X, 1872, s. 321. Act X, 1875, s. 113.

368. When any person is sentenced to death, the sentence shall direct that he be hanged by the neck till he is dead.

Sentence of death.

Act X, 1872, s. 464, para. 1, second sentence.

369. No Court when it has signed its judgment shall alter or review the same, except as provided in section 395 or to correct a clerical error.

Court not to alter judgment.

Act IV, 1877, s. 114.

370. Instead of recording a judgment in manner hereinbefore provided, a Presidency Magistrate shall record the following particulars :—

Presidency Magistrate's judgment.

(a) the serial number of the case ;

(b) the date of the commission of the offence ;

(c) the name of the complainant (if any) ;

(d) the name of the accused person, and (except in the case of an European British subject) his parentage and residence ;

(e) the offence complained of or proved ;

(f) the plea of the accused and his examination (if any) ;

(g) the final order ;

(h) the date of such order ; and

Act IV, 1877, s. 126.

(i) in all cases in which the Magistrate inflicts imprisonment, or fine exceeding two hundred rupees, or both, a brief statement of the reasons for the conviction.

Act XI, 1874, s. 41, para. 1.

371. The judgment shall be explained to the accused, and on his application a copy of the judgment or, when he so desires, a translation in his own language, if practicable, or in the language of the Court, shall be given to him without delay. Such copy shall, in any case other than a summons-case, be given free of cost.

Judgment to be explained and copy given to accused.

In trials by jury, a copy of the heads of the charge to the jury shall, on the application of the accused, be given to him without delay and free of cost.

Act XI, 1874, s. 22.

When the accused is sentenced to death by a Sessions Judge, such Judge shall further inform him of the period within which, if he wishes to appeal, his appeal should be preferred.

Case of person sentenced to death.

Act X, 1872, s. 464, para. 3.

372. The original judgment shall be filed with the record of proceedings, and where the original is recorded in a different language from that of the Court, a translation thereof into the language of the Court shall be added to such record.

Judgment to be translated.

Act X, 1872, s. 302, para. 1.

373. In cases tried by the Court of Session, the Court shall forward a copy of its judgment (if any) to the District Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the trial was held.

Court of Session to send copy of judgment to District Magistrate.

CHAPTER XXVII.

Of the Submission of Sentences for Confirmation.

Act X, 1872, s. 287, para. 1.

374. When the Court of Session passes sentence of death, the proceedings shall be submitted to the High Court, and the sentence shall not be executed unless it is confirmed by the High Court.

Sentence of death to be submitted by Court of Session.

Act X, 1872, s. 289.

375. If when such proceedings are submitted the High Court thinks that additional evidence upon any point bearing upon the guilt or innocence of the convicted person is necessary, it may take such evidence itself or direct it to be taken.

Power to direct additional evidence to be taken.

Such evidence shall not be taken in the presence of jurors or assessors, and unless the High Court otherwise directs, the presence of the convicted person may be dispensed with when the same is taken.

The result of such evidence when it is not taken by the High Court shall be certified to such Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 288.

376. In any case submitted under section 374, whether tried with the aid of assessors or by jury, the High Court—

Power of High Court to confirm sentence or annul conviction.

(a) may confirm the sentence, or pass any other sentence warranted by law, or

(b) may annul the conviction, and convict the accused of any offence of which the Sessions Court might have convicted him, or order a new trial on the same or an amended charge, or

(c) may acquit the accused person :

Provided that no order of confirmation shall be made under this section until the period allowed for preferring an appeal has expired, or, if an appeal is presented within such period, until such appeal is disposed of.

Act X, 1872, s. 290.

377. In every case so submitted, the confirmation of the sentence or any new sentence or order passed by the High Court, shall, when such Court consists of two or more Judges, be made and signed by at least two of them.

Confirmation or new sentence to be signed by two Judges.

Act X, 1872, s. 271B. (Act XI, 1874, s. 22.)

378. When any such case is heard before a Bench of Judges and such Judges are equally divided, the case, with their opinions thereon, shall be laid before another Judge, and such Judge, after such examination and hearing as he thinks fit, shall deliver his opinion, and the judgment or order shall follow such opinion.

Procedure in case of difference of opinion.

Act X, 1872, s. 301, para. 1.

379. In cases submitted by the Court of Session to the High Court for the confirmation of a sentence of death, the proper officer of the High Court shall, without delay, after the order of confirmation or other order has been made by the High Court, send a copy of the order, under the seal of the High Court, and attested with his official signature, to the Court of Session.

Procedure in cases submitted to High Court for confirmation.

Act X, 1872, ss. 18, 36. XI, 1874,

380. When a sentence passed by an Assistant Sessions Judge or by a District Magistrate acting under section 34 is submitted to a Sessions Judge for confirmation, such Sessions Judge—

Confirmation of sentence of Assistant Sessions Judge or Magistrate acting under section 34.

I. L. R., 4 Bom., 289.

(a) may confirm the sentence, or pass any other sentence which the lower Court might have passed, or

(b) may annul the conviction, and convict the accused of any offence of which the lower Court might have convicted him, or order a new trial on the same or an amended charge, or

(c) may acquit the accused ; or

(d) if he thinks further enquiry or additional evidence upon any point bearing upon the guilt or innocence of the accused to be necessary, he may direct such inquiry or evidence to be made or taken.

Unless the Sessions Court otherwise directs the presence of the convicted person may be dispensed with when such evidence is taken ; and when the sentence has been submitted by an Assistant Sessions Judge, such evidence shall not be taken in the presence of jurors or assessors.

The result of such evidence shall be certified to the Sessions Court.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

Of Execution.

Act X, 1872, s. 301, para. 2.

381. When a sentence of death passed by a Court of Session is submitted to the High Court for confirmation, such Court of Session shall, on receiving the order of confirmation or other order of the High Court thereon, cause such order to be carried into effect by issuing a warrant or taking such other steps as may be necessary.

Execution of order passed under section 376.

Act X, 1872, s. 306. Act X, 1875, s. 114, adding "to transportation for life."

382. If a woman sentenced to death be found to be pregnant, the High Court shall order the execution of the sentence to be postponed, and may commute the sentence to transportation for life.

Postponement of capital sentence on pregnant woman.

Act X, 1872, s. 302A, cl. 1. (Act XI, 1874, s. 32.) Act IV, 1877, s. 183.

383. Where the accused is sentenced to transportation or imprisonment in cases other than those provided for by section 381, the Court passing the sentence shall forthwith forward a warrant to the jail in which he is to be confined together with the accused, unless he is already confined in such jail.

Execution of sentences of transportation or imprisonment in other cases.

Act X, 1872, s. 303. Act X, 1875, ss. 103, 104. Act IV, 1877, s. 184.

384. Every warrant for the execution of a sentence of imprisonment shall be directed to the officer in charge of the jail or other place in which the prisoner is, or is to be, confined.

Direction of warrant for execution.

Act X, 1872, s. 304. Act X, 1875, s. 104.

385. When the prisoner is to be confined in a jail, the warrant shall be lodged with the jailor.

Warrant with whom to be lodged.

Act X, 1872, s. 307, para. 1. Act X, 1875, s. 105. Act IV, 1877, s. 185.

386. Whenever an offender is sentenced to pay a fine, the Court passing the sentence may in its discretion issue a warrant for the levy of the amount by distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to the offender, although the sentence directs that, in default of payment of the fine, the offender shall be imprisoned.

Warrant for levy of fine.

Act X, 1872, s. 307, para. 2. Act X, 1875, s. 105. Act IV, 1877, s. 185.

387. Such warrant may be executed within the local limits of the jurisdiction of such Court, and it shall authorize the distress and sale of any such property without such limits, when endorsed by the District Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such property is found.

Effect of warrant.

Act IV, 1877, s. 186.

388. When an offender has been sentenced to fine only, and the Court issues a warrant under section 386, it may, instead of at once ordering him to be imprisoned under section 64 of the Indian Penal Code, release him Detention of offender until return made to distress-warrant.

on his executing a bond with or without sureties, as the Court thinks fit, conditioned for his appearance before such Court on the day appointed for the return to such warrant, such day not being more than fifteen days from the time of executing the bond.

Act X, 1872, s. 307, last para. Act IV, 1877, s. 185, last sentence.

389. Who may issue warrant. The warrant may be issued either by any Judge or Magistrate who passed the sentence or by his successor in office.

Act X, 1872, s. 302A, cl. 2. (Act XI, 1874, s. 32.) Act IV, 1877, s. 183.

390. Execution of sentence of whipping only. Where the accused is sentenced to whipping only, the sentence shall be executed at such place and time as the Court may direct.

Act X, 1872, s. 310. Act IV, 1877, s. 187.

391. Execution of sentence of whipping, in addition to imprisonment. When the accused is sentenced to whipping in addition to imprisonment in a case which is subject to appeal, the whipping shall not be inflicted until fifteen days from the date of the sentence or, if an appeal be made within that time, until the sentence is confirmed by the appellate Court: but the whipping shall be inflicted as soon as possible after the expiry of the fifteen days or, in case of an appeal, as soon as possible after the receipt of the order of the appellate Court confirming the sentence.

Act X, 1872, s. 311, para. 3. Act XI, 1874, s. 33, para. 1. The whipping shall be inflicted in the presence of the officer in charge of the jail: unless the Judge or Magistrate orders it to be inflicted in his own presence.

Act X, 1872, s. 311, para. 1. Act X, 1875, s. 108. Act IV, 1877, s. 188.

392. Mode of inflicting punishment. In the case of a person of or over sixteen years of age, whipping shall be inflicted with such instrument, in such mode, and on such part of the person, as the Local Government directs; and in the case of a person under sixteen years of age, it shall be inflicted in the way of school-discipline with a light ratan.

Act X, 1872, s. 311, para. 2. See précis, paras. 249, 251.

393. Limit of number of stripes. In no case, if the cat-o'-nine-tails be the instrument employed, shall whipping exceed one hundred and fifty lashes, or if the ratan be employed, shall such punishment exceed thirty stripes.

Act X, 1872, s. 312, para. 3. Act IV, 1877, s. 190.

Not to be executed by instalments. No sentence of whipping shall be executed by instalments.

Act X, 1872, s. 312, paras. 1 and 2. Act XI, 1874, s. 33, para. 2. Act X, 1875, s. 108. Act IV, 1877, s. 189.

394. Whipping not to be inflicted if offender not in fit state of health. The punishment of whipping shall not be inflicted, unless a Medical Officer, if present, certifies, or, if there is not a Medical Officer present, unless it appears to the Magistrate or officer present, that the offender is in a fit state of health to undergo such punishment.

Stay of execution. If, during the execution of a sentence of whipping, a Medical Officer certifies, or it appears to the Magistrate or officer present, that the offender is not in a fit state of health to undergo the remainder of the sentence, the whipping shall be finally stopped.

Act X, 1872, s. 313. Act X, 1875, s. 108. Act IV, 1877, s. 191.

395. Procedure if punishment cannot be inflicted under the last section. In any case in which, under section 394, a sentence of whipping is, wholly or partially, prevented from being executed, the offender shall be kept in custody till the Court which passed the sentence can revise it; and the said Court may, at its discretion, either remit such sentence, or sentence the offender in lieu of whipping, or in lieu of so much of the sentence of whipping as was not executed, to imprisonment for any term not exceeding three months, which may be in addition to any other punishment to which he may have been sentenced for the same offence.

Act X, 1872, s. 316. Act X, 1875, s. 110. Act IV, 1877, s. 192.

396. Execution of sentence on escaped convicts. When sentence is passed under this Code on an escaped convict, such sentence, if of death, fine or whipping, shall, subject to the provisions hereinbefore contained, take effect immediately, and if of imprisonment, penal servitude or transportation, shall take effect according to the following rules, that is to say:—

If the new sentence is severer in its quality than the sentence which such convict was undergoing when he escaped, the new sentence shall take effect immediately.

When the new sentence is not severer in its quality than the sentence the convict was undergoing when he escaped, the new sentence shall take effect after he has suffered imprisonment, penal servitude or transportation, as the case may be, for a further period equal to that which, at the time of his escape, remained unexpired of his former sentence.

Explanation.—For the purpose of this section—

(a) a sentence of transportation or penal servitude shall be deemed severer than a sentence of imprisonment;

(b) a sentence of imprisonment with solitary confinement shall be deemed severer than a sentence of the same description of imprisonment without solitary confinement; and

(c) a sentence of rigorous imprisonment shall be deemed severer than a sentence of simple imprisonment with or without solitary confinement.

Act X, 1872, s. 317. Act X, 1875, s. 111. Act IV, 1877, s. 193.

397. Sentence on offender already sentenced for another offence. When a person already undergoing a sentence of imprisonment, penal servitude or transportation is sentenced to imprisonment, penal servitude or transportation, such imprisonment, penal servitude or transportation shall commence at the expiration of the imprisonment, penal servitude or transportation to which he has been previously sentenced:

Provided that if he is undergoing a sentence of imprisonment, and the sentence on such subsequent conviction be one of transportation, the Court may, in its discretion, direct that the latter sentence shall commence immediately, or at the expiration of the imprisonment to which he has been previously sentenced.

Act X, 1872, s. 317, proviso.

398. Saving as to sections 396 and 397. Nothing in section 396, or section 397, shall be held to excuse any person from any part of the punishment to which he is liable upon his former or subsequent conviction.

Act X, 1872, s. 318. Act X, 1875, s. 112. Act V of 1876 has not yet come into force anywhere except—

399. Confinement of youthful offenders in reformatories. When any person under the age of sixteen years is sentenced by any Criminal Court to imprisonment for any offence, the Court may direct that such person, instead of being imprisoned in a criminal jail, shall be confined in any reformatory established by the Local Government as a fit place for confinement, in which there are means of suitable discipline and of training in some branch of useful industry, or which is kept by a person willing to obey such rules as the Government prescribes with regard to the discipline and training of persons confined therein.

All persons confined under this section shall be subject to the rules so prescribed.

Act X, 1872, s. 305.

400. When a sentence has been fully executed, Return of warrant on execution of sentence. the officer executing it shall return the warrant to the Court from which it issued, with an endorsement under his hand certifying the manner in which the sentence has been executed.

CHAPTER XXIX.

Of Suspensions, Remissions and Commutations of Sentences.

Act X, 1872, s. 322, para. 1. Act XI, 1874, s. 34, cl. 1.

401. Power to suspend or remit sentences. When any person has been sentenced to punishment for an offence, the Governor General in Council, or the Local Government, may at any time, without conditions, or upon any conditions which the person sentenced accepts, suspend the execution of his sentence or remit the whole or any part of the punishment to which he has been sentenced.

Whenever an application is made to the Governor General in Council or the Local Government for the suspension or remission of a sentence, the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, as the case may be, may require the presiding Judge of the Court before or by which the conviction was had or confirmed to furnish without delay a statement of the facts proved on the trial, and of any facts having reference to the propriety of granting or refusing the application.

If the person in whose favour a sentence has been suspended or remitted fails to fulfil the conditions prescribed by the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, as the case may be, may cancel such suspension or remission, whereupon such person may, if at large, be arrested by any Police-officer without warrant and remanded to undergo the unexpired portion of the sentence.

Act X, 1872, s. 322, para. 2.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to interfere with the right of Her Majesty to grant pardons, reprieves, respites, or remissions of punishment.

Act XI, 1874, s. 34, cl. 2.

402. Power to commute punishment. The Governor General in Council, or the Local Government, may without the consent of the person sentenced commute any one of the following sentences for any other mentioned after it:—

death, transportation, penal servitude, rigorous imprisonment, simple imprisonment.

Act X, 1872, s. 322, para. 3.

CHAPTER XXX.

Of previous Acquittals or Convictions.

Act X, 1872, s. 460. Act X, 1875, s. 117. Act IV, 1877, s. 113. Cf. N. Y. Code of Crim. Proc., s. 13. Form of plea under this section, N.-W. P., 1875, p. 378.

403. Person once convicted or acquitted not to be tried for same offence. A person who has once been tried by a Court of competent jurisdiction for an offence and convicted or acquitted of such offence shall, while such conviction or acquittal remains in force, not be liable to be tried again for the same offence, nor on the same facts for any other offence for which a different charge from the one made against him might have been made under section 237, or for which he might have been convicted under section 238.

A person acquitted or convicted of any offence may be afterwards tried for any distinct offence for which a separate charge might have been made against him on the former trial under section 236, paragraph one.

A person convicted of any offence constituted by any act causing consequences which, together with such act, constituted a different offence from that for which he was convicted, may be afterwards tried for such last-mentioned offence, if the consequences had not happened, or were not known to the Court to have happened, at the time when he was convicted.

A person acquitted or convicted of any offence constituted by any acts may, notwithstanding such acquittal or conviction, be subsequently charged with, and tried for, any other offence constituted by the same acts which he may have committed, if the Court by which he was first tried was not competent to try the offence with which he is subsequently charged.

Act X, 1872, ss. 147, para. 2, 195, Expls, 215, Expl. 2. Act X, 1875, s. 14.

EXPLANATION.—The dismissal of a complaint, the stopping of proceedings under section 250, the discharge of the accused, or any entry made upon a charge under section 274, is not an acquittal for the purposes of this section.

Illustrations.

(a) A is tried upon a charge of theft as a servant and acquitted. He cannot afterwards, while the acquittal remains in force, be charged with theft as a servant, or, upon the same facts, with theft simply, or with criminal breach of trust.

(b) A is tried upon a charge of murder and acquitted. There is no charge of robbery; but it appears from the facts that A committed robbery at the time when the murder was committed; he may afterwards be charged with, and tried for, robbery.

(c) A is tried for causing grievous hurt and convicted. The person injured afterwards dies. A may be tried again for culpable homicide.

(d) A is charged before the Court of Session and convicted of the culpable homicide of B. A may not afterwards be tried on the same facts for the murder of B.

(e) A is charged by a Magistrate of the first class with, and convicted by him of, voluntarily causing hurt to B. A may not afterwards be tried for voluntarily causing grievous hurt to B on the same facts, unless the case comes within paragraph three of this section.

(f) A is charged by a Magistrate of the second class with and convicted by him of, theft of property from the person of B. A may be subsequently charged with, and tried for, robbery on the same facts.

(g) A, B and C are charged by a Magistrate of the first class with, and convicted by him of, robbing D. A, B and C may afterwards be charged with, and tried for, dacoity on the facts.

PART VII.
OF APPEAL, REFERENCE AND REVISION.

CHAPTER XXXI.
OF APPEALS.

Act X, 1872, ss. 282, para. 2, 286, omitting the Illustrations.

Unless otherwise provided, no appeal to lie.

404. No appeal shall lie from any judgment or order of a Criminal Court except as provided for by this Code or by any other law for the time being in force.

Act IV, 1877, s. 180.

Appeal from order rejecting application for restoration of attached property.

405. Any person whose application under section 90 for the delivery of property or the proceeds of the sale thereof has been rejected by any Court, may appeal to the Court to which appeals ordinarily lie from the sentences of the former Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 267.

Appeal from order requiring security for good behaviour.

406. Any person required by a Magistrate, other than the District Magistrate or a Presidency Magistrate, to give security for good behaviour under section 119 may appeal to the District Magistrate.

Act X, 1872, s. 266, omitting "or to a Magistrate of first class empowered."

Appeal from sentence of Magistrate of the second or third class.

407. Any person convicted on a trial held by any Magistrate of the second or third class, or any person sentenced by a Sub-divisional Magistrate of the second class under section 349, may appeal to the District Magistrate.

Transfer of appeals to first class Magistrate.

The District Magistrate may direct that any appeal under this section, or any class of such appeals, shall be heard by any Magistrate of the first class subordinate to him and empowered by the Local Government to hear such appeals, and thereupon such appeal or class of appeals shall be presented to such Subordinate Magistrate, or if already presented shall be transferred to him. The District Magistrate may withdraw from such Magistrate any appeal or class of appeals so presented or transferred. Act X, 1872, s. 47, para. 2.

Appeal from sentence of Assistant Sessions Judge or Magistrate of the first class.

408. Any person convicted on a trial held by an Assistant Sessions Judge, a District Magistrate or other Magistrate of the first class, or any person sentenced under section 349 by a Magistrate of the first class, may appeal to the Court of Session: Act X, 1872, ss. 269, para. 1, 270, para. 2.

Provided that when in any case an Assistant Sessions Judge or a District Magistrate passes any sentence which is subject to the confirmation of the Sessions Court, every appeal in such case shall lie to the High Court, but shall not be presented until the case has been disposed of by the Sessions Court: Act X, 1872, s. 270, paras. 1 and 3.

Provided also that any European British subject so convicted may at his option appeal either to the High Court or the Court of Session. Act X, 1872, s. 79.

Appeals to Court of Session how heard.

409. An appeal to the Court of Session or Sessions Judge shall be heard by the Sessions Judge or by an Additional or Joint Sessions Judge.

Appeal from sentence of Sessions Court.

410. Any person convicted on a trial held by a Sessions Judge, or Additional or Joint Sessions Judge, may appeal to the High Court. Act X, 1872, ss. 80, 270, para. 3, 271, Act XI, 1874, s. 22, cl. 1.

Appeal from sentence of Presidency Magistrate.

411. Any person convicted on a trial held by a Presidency Magistrate may appeal to the High Court if the Magistrate has sentenced him to imprisonment for a term exceeding six months or to fine exceeding two hundred rupees. Act IV, 1877, s. 167.

No appeal in certain cases when accused pleads guilty.

412. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, where an accused person has pleaded guilty and been convicted by a Court of Session or a Presidency Magistrate on such plea, there shall be no appeal except as to the extent or legality of the sentence. Act X, 1872, s. 273, last para. Act IV, 1877, s. 167.

No appeal in petty cases.

413. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, there shall be no appeal by a convicted person in cases in which a Court of Session or the District Magistrate or other Magistrate of the first class passes a sentence of imprisonment not exceeding one month only, or of fine not exceeding fifty rupees only, or of whipping only. Act X, 1872, s. 273, para. 1.

Explanation.—There is no appeal from a sentence of imprisonment passed by such Court or Magistrate in default of payment of fine when no substantive sentence of imprisonment has been passed. Act X, 1872, s. 273, para. 2.

No appeal from certain summary convictions.

414. Notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, there shall be no appeal by a convicted person in cases tried summarily in which a Magistrate empowered to act under section 261 passes a sentence of imprisonment not exceeding three months only, or of fine not exceeding two hundred rupees only, or of whipping only. Act X, 1872, s. 274, para. 1.

Proviso to sections 413 and 414.

415. An appeal may be brought against any sentence referred to in section 413 or 414 by which any two or more of the punishments therein mentioned are combined; but not against any sentence which would not otherwise be liable to appeal, because the person convicted is ordered to find security to keep the peace. Act X, 1872, s. 274, para. 2.

EXPLANATION.—A sentence of imprisonment in default of payment of fine is not a sentence by which two or more punishments are combined within the meaning of this section. Act XI, 1874, s. 24.

Saving of sentences on European British subjects.

416. Nothing in sections 413 and 414 applies to appeals from sentences passed on European British subjects under Chapter XXXIII. Act X, 1872, s. 274, para. 3.

Appeal on behalf of Government in case of acquittal.

417. The Local Government may direct the Public Prosecutor to present an appeal to the High Court from an original or appellate order of acquittal passed by any Court other than a High Court. Act X, 1872, ss. 272, paras. 1 and 2. Act IV, 1877, s. 168, para. 1.

Appeal on what matters admissible.

418. An appeal may lie on a matter of fact as well as a matter of law, except where the trial was by jury, in which case the appeal shall be admissible on a matter of law only. Act X, 1872, s. 271, last para. Act XI, 1874, s. 23. Act X, 1872, s. 275. Act IV, 1877, s. 169.

Petition of appeal.

419. Every appeal shall be made in the form of a petition in writing presented by the appellant or his pleader, and every such petition shall be accompanied by a copy of the judgment or order appealed against, and in cases tried by a jury a copy of the heads of the charge recorded under section 367. Act X, 1872, s. 277. Act IV, 1877, s. 171.

Procedure when appellant in jail.

420. If the appellant is in jail, he may present his petition of appeal, and the copies accompanying the same, to the officer in charge of the jail, who shall thereupon forward such petition and copies to the proper Appellate Court. Act X, 1872, s. 277. Act IV, 1877, s. 171.

Summary rejection of appeal.

421. On receiving the petition and copy under section 419 or section 420, the Appellate Court shall peruse the same, and if it considers that there is no sufficient ground for interfering, it may reject the appeal summarily. Provided that no appeal presented under section 419 shall be dismissed unless the appellant or his pleader has had a reasonable opportunity of being heard in support of the same. Act X, 1872, s. 276, para. 1, and 2. Act IV, 1877, s. 169.

Before rejecting an appeal under this section, the Court may call for the record of the case, but shall not be bound to do so.

Notice of appeal.

422. If the Appellate Court does not reject the appeal summarily, it shall cause notice to be given to the appellant or his pleader and to such officer as the Local Government may appoint in this behalf, of the time and place at which such appeal will be heard, and shall, on the application of such officer, furnish him with a copy of the grounds of appeal; Act X, 1872, ss. 62, 269, para. 2, 279, Act IV, 1877, s. 173.

and in cases of appeals under section 417, the Appellate Court shall cause a like notice to be given to the accused. Act XI, 1874, s. 27.

Powers of Appellate Court in disposing of appeal.

423. The Appellate Court shall then send for the record of the case, if such record is not already in Court. After perusing such record, and hearing the appellant or his pleader, if he appears, and the Public Prosecutor if he appears, the Court may, if it considers there is no sufficient ground for interfering, reject the appeal or may— Act X, 1872, ss. 272, para. 3, 280. Act IV, 1877, ss. 174, 179.

(a) in an appeal from an order of acquittal, reverse such order and direct that further inquiry be made, or that the accused be retried or committed for trial, as the case may be, or find him guilty and pass sentence on him according to law;

(b) in an appeal from a conviction (1) reverse the finding and sentence, and acquit or discharge the accused, or order him to be retried by a Court of competent jurisdiction subordinate to such Appellate Court, or (2) alter the finding, maintaining the sentence, or, with or without altering the finding, enhance or reduce the sentence, or (3) alter the nature of the sentence with or without such enhancement or reduction and with or without altering the finding; Act X, 1872, s. 284.

(c) in an appeal from any other order, alter or reverse such order:

Provided that, if the appeal is from the sentence of a Magistrate acting otherwise than under section 30, the Appellate Court shall not inflict a greater punishment for the offence which, in the opinion of the Appellate Court, the appellant has committed, than might have been inflicted for such offence by a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class:

Provided also that nothing herein contained shall authorize the Court to alter or reverse the verdict of a jury, unless it is of opinion that such verdict is erroneous owing to a misdirection by the Judge. Act X, 1872, s. 271, extended to appeals by the Crown. Act X, 1872, s. 299, para. 3.

Judgments of subordinate Appellate Courts.

424. The rules contained in Chapter XXVI as to the judgment of a Criminal Court of original jurisdiction shall apply, so far as may be practicable, to the judgment of any Appellate Court other than a High Court.

Order on appeal to be certified to lower Court or District Magistrate.

425. Whenever a case is decided on appeal by the High Court under this chapter, it shall certify its decision or order to the Court by which the finding, sentence or order appealed against was recorded or passed. If the finding, sentence or order was recorded or passed by a Magistrate other than the Act X, 1872, s. 284, last para.

District Magistrate, the certificate shall be sent through the District Magistrate.

The Court or Magistrate to which the High Court certifies its decision or order shall thereupon make such orders as are conformable to the decision of the High Court and, if necessary, the record shall be amended in accordance therewith.

Act X, 1872, s. 281, and s. 297, para. 8, in case of Court of Revision. Act IV, 1877, s. 175.

426. Pending any appeal by a convicted person, the Appellate Court may, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, order that the execution of the sentence or order appealed against be suspended and, if he is in confinement, that he be released on bail or on his own bond.

Suspension of sentence pending appeal.

Release of appellant on bail.

When the appellant is ultimately sentenced to imprisonment, the time during which he is so released shall be excluded in computing the term of his imprisonment.

Act IV, 1877, s. 168, para. 3, I. L. R., I. Calc., 281.

427. When an appeal is presented under section 417, the High Court may issue a warrant directing that the accused be arrested and brought before it or any subordinate Court, and the Court before which he is brought may commit him to prison pending the disposal of the appeal, or admit him to bail.

Arrest of accused in appeals under section 417.

Act X, 1872, s. 282, paras. 1, 3 and 4. Act IV, 1877, s. 176.

428. In dealing with any appeal under this chapter, the Appellate Court, if it thinks additional evidence to be necessary, may either take such evidence itself, or may direct it to be taken by a Court of Session or a Magistrate.

Appellate Court may take further evidence or direct it to be taken.

When the additional evidence is taken by the Court of Session or the Magistrate, it or he shall certify such evidence to the Appellate Court, and such Court shall thereupon proceed to dispose of the appeal.

Unless the Appellate Court otherwise directs, the appellant or his pleader shall be present when the additional evidence is taken; but such evidence shall not be taken in the presence of jurors or assessors.

Act X, 1872, s. 271B. (Act XI, 1874, s. 22.)

429. When the Judges composing the Court of appeal are equally divided, the case, with their opinions thereon, shall be laid before another Judge of the same Court, and such Judge, after such examination and hearing as he thinks fit, shall deliver his opinion, and the judgment or order shall follow such opinion.

Procedure where Judges of Court of appeal, &c., are equally divided.

Act X, 1872, s. 295.

430. Judgments and orders passed by an Appellate Court upon appeal shall be final, except in the cases provided for in section 416 and Chapter XXXII.

Finality of orders on appeal.

I. L. R., 2 Bom., 564.

431. Every appeal under section 417 finally abates on the death of the accused, and every other appeal under this chapter finally abates on the death of the appellant.

Abatement of appeals.

CHAPTER XXXII.

Of Reference and Revision.

Act IV, 1877, s. 240.

432. A Presidency Magistrate may, if he thinks fit, refer for the opinion of the High Court any question of law which arises in the hearing of any case pending before him, or may give judgment in any such case subject to the decision of the High Court on such reference; and, pending such decision, may either commit the accused to jail or release him on bail to appear for judgment when called upon.

Reference by Presidency Magistrate to High Court.

Act IV, 1877, s. 241.

433. When a question has been so referred, the High Court shall pass such order thereon as it thinks fit, and shall cause a copy of such order to be sent to the Magistrate by whom the reference was made, who shall dispose of the case conformably to the said order.

Disposal of case according to decision of High Court.

The High Court may direct by whom the costs of such reference shall be paid.

Direction as to costs.

Act X, 1875, s. 101.

434. When any person has, in a trial before a Judge of a High Court consisting of more Judges than one and acting in the exercise of its original criminal jurisdiction, been convicted of an offence, the Judge, if he thinks fit, may reserve and refer for the decision of a Court consisting of two or more Judges of such Court any question of law which has arisen in the course of the trial of such person, and the determination of which would affect the event of the trial.

Power to reserve questions arising in original jurisdiction of High Court.

If the Judge reserves any such question, the person convicted shall, pending the decision thereon, be remanded to jail or, if the Judge thinks fit, be admitted to bail, Procedure when question reserved.

and the High Court shall have power to review the case, or such part of it as may be necessary, and finally determine such question, and thereupon to alter the sentence passed by the Court of original jurisdiction, and to pass such judgment as the High Court thinks fit.

Act X, 1872, ss. 294, 295, para. 1. 12 Ben., 293.

435. The High Court or any Court of Session or District Magistrate, or any Sub-divisional Magistrate empowered by the Local Government in this behalf, may call for and examine the record of any proceeding before any inferior Criminal Court situate within the local limits of its or his jurisdiction for the purpose of satisfying itself or himself as to the correctness, legality or propriety of any finding, sentence or order recorded or passed, and as to the regularity of the proceedings of such inferior Court.

Power to call for records of inferior Courts.

If any Sub-divisional Magistrate acting under this section considers that any such finding, sentence or order is illegal or improper, or that any such proceedings are irregular, he shall forward the record, with such remarks thereon as he thinks fit, to the District Magistrate.

Act X, 1872, s. 520. See I. L. R., 2 Calc., 295.

Orders made under sections 144 and 145 and proceedings under section 177 are not proceedings within the meaning of this section.

Act X, 1872, s. 296, paras. 2 and 3. (Act XI, 1874, s. 29.) 10 Ben., 289.

436. When on examining the record of any case under section 435 or otherwise, the Court of Session or District Magistrate considers that such case is triable exclusively by the Court of Session, and that an accused person has been improperly discharged by the inferior Court, the Court of Session or District Magistrate may, instead of directing a fresh inquiry, direct him to be committed for trial upon the matter of which he has been, in the opinion of the Court of Session or District Magistrate, improperly discharged:

Power to order commitment.

1 O'Kin. 98.

Provided that the accused has had an opportunity of shewing cause to such Court or Magistrate why the commitment should not be made:

Act XI, 1874, s. 29.

Provided also that, if such Court or Magistrate thinks that the evidence shows that some other offence has been committed by the accused, such Court or Magistrate may direct the inferior Court to inquire into such offence.

Act X, 1872, s. 298. (Act XI, 1874, s. 31.)

437. On examining any record under section 435 or otherwise, the Court of Session may direct the District Magistrate by himself or by any of the Magistrates subordinate to him to make, and the District Magistrate may himself make or direct any subordinate Magistrate to make, further inquiry into any complaint which has been dismissed under section 204, or into the case of any accused person who has been discharged.

Power to order inquiry.

Act X, 1872, s. 296, para. 1.

438. The Court of Session or District Magistrate may, if it or he thinks fit, on examining under section 435 or otherwise the record of any proceeding, report for the orders of the High Court the results of such examination, and when such report contains a recommendation that a sentence be reversed, may order that the execution of such sentence be suspended, and if the accused is in confinement that he be released on bail or on his own bond.

Report to High Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 297, para. 1. 1 Cale., 113. 1 Ind. Jur., 139. 7 Mad., 115; Nelson, 287. 1 O'Kin. 94. This will empower High Court to reduce amount of forfeited recognizances? 2 O'K. 408.

439. In the case of any proceeding the record of which has been called for by itself, or which has been reported for orders, or which otherwise comes to its knowledge, the High Court may, in its discretion, exercise any of the powers conferred on a Court of Appeal by sections 423, 426, 427 and 428, and when the Judges composing the Court of revision are equally divided, the case shall be disposed of in manner provided by section 429.

High Court's powers of revision.

Act X, 1872, ss. 297, 298, para. 2.

440. No party has any right to be heard either personally or by pleader before any High Court when exercising its powers of revision: Provided that the High Court may, if it thinks fit, when exercising such powers, hear any party either personally or by pleader: Provided also that no order shall be made to the prejudice of the accused unless he has had an opportunity of being heard in his own defence.

Optional with Court to hear parties.

Act IV, 1877, s. 182.

441. When the record of any proceeding of any Presidency Magistrate is called for by the High Court under section 435, the Magistrate may submit with the record a statement setting forth the grounds of his decision or order and any facts which he thinks material to the issue; and the Court shall consider such statement before overruling or setting aside the said decision or order.

Statement by Presidency Magistrate of grounds of his decision to be considered by High Court.

Act X, 1872, ss. 299, paras. 1 & 2.

442. When a case is revised by the High Court under this chapter, it shall certify its decision or order in manner provided by section 425, and the Court or Magistrate to which the High Court so certifies its decision or order shall give effect thereto in manner provided by that section.

High Court's order to be certified to lower Court or District Magistrate.

PART VIII.

SPECIAL PROCEEDINGS.

CHAPTER XXXIII.

Criminal Proceedings against Europeans and Americans.

Act X, 1872, ss. 72, paras. 1 & 2, 74, para. 1.

443. No Magistrate, unless he is a Justice of the Peace, and (except in the case of a Presidency Magistrate) unless he is a Magistrate of the first class and an European British subject, shall inquire into or try any charge against an European British subject.

Magistrates who may inquire into and try charges against European British subjects.

Act X, 1872, ss. 72, paras. 1, 76, para. 1.

444. No Judge presiding in a Court of Session shall exercise jurisdiction over an European British subject unless he himself is an European British subject; and if he is an Assistant Sessions Judge, unless he has held the office of Assistant Sessions Judge for at least three years, and has been specially empowered in this behalf by the Local Government.

Sessions Judge to be an European British subject.

Assistant Sessions Judge to have held office for three years and to be specially empowered.

Act X, 1872, ss. 75, 436.

445. Nothing in section 443 or section 444 shall prevent any Magistrate from taking cognizance of an offence committed by any European British subject in any case in which he could take cognizance of a like offence if committed by another person:

Cognizance of offence committed by European British subject.

Provided that if he issues any process for the purpose of compelling the appearance of an European British subject accused of an offence, such process shall be made returnable before a Magistrate having jurisdiction to inquire into or try the case.

Act X, 1872, s. 74, para. 2.

446. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 32, or section 34, no Magistrate other than a Presidency Magistrate shall pass any sentence on an European British subject other than imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months, or fine which may extend to one thousand rupees, or both.

Sentences which may be passed by Mufassal Magistrates.

Act X, 1872, ss. 75, para. 1, 438, para. 2.

447. When an European British subject is accused of an offence before a Magistrate, and such offence cannot, in the opinion of such Magistrate, be adequately punished by him, and is not punishable with death or with transportation for life, such Magistrate shall, if he thinks that the accused ought to be committed, commit him to the Court of Session or, in the case of a Presidency Magistrate, to the High Court.

When commitment is to be to Court of Session and to High Court.

Act XI, 1874, s. 12, para. 1.

When the offence which appears to have been committed is punishable with death or transportation for life, the commitment shall be to the High Court.

Act XI, 1874, s. 12, para. 2.

448. Where any person committed to the High Court under section 447 is charged with several offences of which one is punishable with death or transportation for life and the others with a less punishment, and the High Court considers that he should not be tried for the offence punishable with death or transportation, the High Court may nevertheless try him for the other offences.

Trial for offences of which one is, and the others are not, punishable with death or transportation.

Act X, 1872, s. 76.

449. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 31, no Court of Session shall pass on any European British subject any sentence other than a sentence of imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or fine, or both.

Sentences which may be passed by Court of Session.

If at any time after the commitment and before signing judgment, the presiding Judge thinks that the offence which appears to be proved cannot be adequately punished by such a sentence, he shall record his opinion to that effect and transfer the case to the High Court. Such Judge may either himself bind over, or direct the committing Magistrate to bind over, the complainant and witnesses to appear before the High Court.

Procedure when Sessions Judge finds his powers inadequate.

Act X, 1872, s. 77.

450. If the Judge of the Sessions Division within which the offence is ordinarily triable is not an European British subject, the case shall be reported by the committing Magistrate for the orders of the highest Court of Criminal appeal for the local area within which such division is situate.

Procedure when Sessions Judge is not an European British subject.

451. In trials of European British subjects before a High Court or Court of Session, if before the first juror is called and accepted or the first assessor is appointed, as the case may be, any such subject requires to be tried by a mixed jury, or by a mixed set of assessors, not less than half the number of the jurors or assessors shall be Europeans or Americans, or both Europeans and Americans.

Mixed jury for trial of European British subjects.

Act X, 1872, s. 78, para. 2. Act X, 1875, s. 35.

452. In any case in which an European British subject is accused jointly with a person not being an European British subject, and such European British subject is committed for trial before a High Court or Court of Session, such persons may be tried together, and the procedure on the trial shall be the same as it would have been had the European British subject been tried separately:

Trial of European British subject and Native jointly accused.

Act X, 1875, s. 36.

Provided that, if the European British subject requires under section 451 to be tried by a mixed jury, or by a mixed set of assessors, and the person not being an European British subject requires that he shall be tried separately, the latter person shall be tried separately in accordance with the provisions of Chapter XXIII.

When Native may claim separate trial.

Act X, 1875, s. 37.

453. When any person claims to be dealt with as an European British subject, he shall state the grounds of such claim to the Magistrate before whom he is brought for the purposes of the inquiry or trial; and such Magistrate shall inquire into the truth of such statement, and allow the person making it a reasonable time within which to prove that it is true, and shall then decide whether he is or is not an European British subject, and shall deal with him accordingly. If any such person is convicted by such Magistrate and appeals from such conviction, the burden of proving that the Magistrate's decision was wrong shall lie upon him.

Procedure on claim of European British subject to be dealt with as such.

Act X, 1872, s. 83.

When any such person is committed by the Magistrate for trial before the Court of Session, and such person before such Court claims to be dealt with as an European British subject, such Court shall after such further enquiry, if any, as it thinks fit, decide whether he is or is not an European British subject, and shall deal with him accordingly. If he is convicted by such Court and appeals from such conviction, the burden of proving that the Court's decision was wrong shall lie upon him.

When the Court before which any person is tried decides that he is not an European British subject, such decision shall form a ground of appeal from the sentence or order passed in such trial.

454. If an European British subject does not claim to be dealt with as such by the Magistrate before whom he is tried or by whom he is committed, or if, when such claim

Failure to plead status a waiver.

Act X, 1872, s. 84.

has been made before and disallowed by the committing Magistrate, it is not again made before the Court to which he is committed, he shall be held to have relinquished his right as such European British subject, and shall not assert it in any subsequent stage of the same case.

6 Calc., Rep. 465.

Unless the Magistrate has reason to believe that any person brought before him is not an European British subject, the Magistrate shall ask such person whether he is such a subject or not.

Act X, 1872, s. 85.

455. Where a person who is not an European British subject is dealt with as such under this chapter, and does not object, the inquiry, commitment or trial (as the case may be) shall not, by reason of such dealing, be invalid.

Trial under this chapter of person not an European British subject.

Act X, 1872, s. 81, para. 1, cl. 1.

456. When any European British subject is unlawfully detained in custody by any person, such European British subject or any person on his behalf may apply to the High Court which would have jurisdiction over such European British subject in respect of any offence committed by him at the place where he is detained, or to which he would be entitled to appeal from any conviction for any such offence, for an order directing the person detaining him to bring him before the High Court to abide such further order as it may pass.

Right of European British subject under detention to apply for order to produce his person.

Act X, 1872, s. 81, para. 1, cl. 2.

457. The High Court, if it thinks fit, may, before issuing such order, inquire, on affidavit or otherwise, into the grounds on which it is applied for, and grant or refuse such application; or it may issue the order in the first instance and, when the person applying for it is brought before it, it may make such further order in the case as it thinks fit, after such inquiry (if any) as it thinks necessary.

Procedure on such application.

Act X, 1872, s. 81, para. 2.

458. The High Court may issue such orders throughout the territories within the local limits of its appellate criminal jurisdiction, and such other territories as the Governor General in Council may from time to time direct.

Territories throughout which High Court may issue such orders.

Act XXII, 1870, ss. 2, 4.

459. Unless there be something repugnant in the context, all enactments heretofore or hereafter made by the Governor General in Council, which confer on Magistrates or on the Court of Session jurisdiction over offences, shall be deemed to apply to European British subjects, although such persons be not expressly referred to therein.

Application of Acts conferring jurisdiction on Magistrates or the Sessions Court.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to authorize any Court to exceed the limits prescribed by this chapter as to the amount of punishment which it may inflict on an European British subject, or to confer jurisdiction on any Magistrate not being a Justice of the Peace or on any Magistrate outside the Presidency towns not being an European British subject.

460. In every case triable by jury or with the aid of assessors in which an European (not being an European British subject) or an American is the accused person, or one of the accused persons, not less than half the number of jurors or assessors shall, if practicable and if such European or American so claims, be Europeans or Americans.

Jury for trial of Europeans or Americans.

Act X, 1872, s. 234, para. 1, cl. 2.

Act X, 1872, s. 242.

461. Whenever an European or American is charged before the Court of Session jointly with a person not an European or American, and in compliance with a claim made under section 460 is tried by a jury or with the aid of a set of assessors, of which at least one-half consists of Europeans and Americans, such person shall, if he so claims, be tried separately.

Jury when European or American charged jointly with one of another race.

Act X, 1872, s. 408, paras. 1, 2 & 3.

462. When a trial is to be held before the Court of Session in which the accused person, or one of the accused persons, is entitled to be tried by a jury constituted under the provisions of section 451, or section 460, the Court shall, three days at least before the day fixed for holding such trial, cause to be summoned, in the manner hereinbefore prescribed, as many European and American jurors as are required for the trial.

Summoning and empannelling jurors under section 451 or 460.

The Court shall also at the same time in like manner cause to be summoned the same number of other persons named in the revised list, unless such number of such other persons has been already summoned for trials by jury at that session.

From the whole number of persons returned, the jurors who are to constitute the jury shall be chosen by lot in the manner prescribed in section 277, until a jury containing the proper number of Europeans or Americans, or a number approaching thereto as nearly as possible, has been obtained:

Act X, 1872, s. 406, last clause.

Provided that in any case in which the proper number of Europeans and Americans cannot otherwise be obtained, the Court may in its discretion, for the purpose of constituting the jury, summon any person excluded from the list on the ground of his being exempted under section 320.

Act X, 1872, s. 87.

463. Criminal proceedings against European British subjects, Europeans not being European British subjects, and Americans before the Court of Session and High Court, shall, except as otherwise expressly provided, be conducted according to the provisions of this Code.

Conduct of criminal proceedings against European British subjects.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

LUNATICS.

Act X, 1872, ss. 423, 424, para. 3. Act IV, 1877, s. 194.

464. When any person accused of an offence before a Magistrate holding an inquiry or a trial appears to such Magistrate to be of unsound mind and consequently incapable of making Procedure in case of accused being lunatic.

his defence, the Magistrate shall inquire into the fact of such unsoundness, and shall cause such person to be examined by the Civil Surgeon of the District or such other medical officer as the Local Government directs, and thereupon shall examine such Surgeon or other officer as a witness, and shall reduce the examination into writing.

If such Magistrate is of opinion that the accused is of unsound mind and consequently incapable of making his defence, he shall postpone further proceedings in the case.

Act X, 1872, s. 425. Act X, 1875, s. 120.

465. Procedure in case of person committed before Court of Session or High Court being lunatic. If any person committed for trial before a Court of Session or a High Court appears to the Court at his trial to be of unsound mind and consequently incapable of making his defence, the Court shall, in the first instance, try the fact of such unsoundness and incapacity and, if satisfied of the fact, shall pass judgment accordingly, and thereupon the trial shall be postponed.

Act XI, 1874, s. 39.

The trial of the fact of the unsoundness of mind and incapacity of the accused shall be deemed to be part of his trial before the Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 426. Act X, 1875, s. 121. Act IV, 1877, s. 196.

466. Release of lunatic pending investigation or trial. Whenever an accused person is found to be of unsound mind and incapable of making his defence, the Magistrate or Court, as the case may be, if the case is one in which bail may be taken, may release him on sufficient security being given that he shall be properly taken care of, and shall be prevented from doing injury to himself or to any other person, and for his appearance when required before the Magistrate or Court or such officer as the Magistrate or Court appoints in this behalf.

If the case is one in which bail may not be taken, or if sufficient security is not given, the Magistrate or Court shall report the case to the Local Government, and the Local Government may order the accused to be confined in a Lunatic Asylum or other suitable place of safe custody, and the Magistrate or Court shall give effect to such order.

Custody of lunatic.

I. L. R., 2 Calc., 356.

Act X, 1872, s. 427. Act X, 1875, s. 122. Act IV, 1877, s. 197.

467. Resumption of inquiry or trial. Whenever an inquiry or trial is postponed under section 464 or section 465, the Magistrate or Court, as the case may be, may at any time resume the inquiry or trial, and require the accused to appear or be brought before such Magistrate or Court.

When the accused has been released under section 466, and the sureties for his appearance produce him to the officer whom the Magistrate or Court appoints in this behalf, the certificate of such officer that the accused is capable of making his defence shall be receivable in evidence.

Act X, 1872, s. 428. Act X, 1875, s. 123. Act IV, 1877, s. 198.

468. Procedure on accused appearing before Magistrate or Court. If, when the accused appears or is again brought before the Magistrate or the Court, as the case may be, the Magistrate or Court considers him capable of making his defence, the inquiry or trial shall proceed.

If the Magistrate or Court considers the accused person to be still incapable of making his defence, the Magistrate or Court shall again act according to the provisions of section 464 or section 465, as the case may be.

Act X, 1872, s. 424, paras. 1 and 2. Act IV, 1877, s. 195.

469. When accused appears to have been insane. When the accused appears to be of sound mind at the time of inquiry or trial, and the Magistrate is satisfied from the evidence given before him that there is reason to believe that the accused committed an act which, if he had been of sound mind, would have been an offence, and that he was at the time when the act was committed, by reason of unsoundness of mind, incapable of knowing the nature of the act or that it was wrong or contrary to law, the Magistrate shall proceed with the case and, if the offence be triable exclusively by the Court of Session or High Court, send the accused for trial before the Court of Session or High Court, as the case may be.

Act X, 1872, s. 429. Act X, 1875, s. 124. Act IV, 1877, s. 199. 39 & 40 Geo. III, c. 94. Reg. v. Macnaughten, 10 Cl. & Fin. 200.

470. Judgment of acquittal on ground of lunacy. Whenever any person is acquitted upon the ground that, at the time at which he is alleged to have committed an offence, he was, by reason of unsoundness of mind, incapable of knowing the nature of the act alleged as constituting the offence, or that it was wrong or contrary to law, the finding shall state specifically whether he committed the act or not.

Act X, 1872, s. 430. Act X, 1875, s. 125. Act IV, 1877, s. 200.

471. Person acquitted on such ground to be kept in safe custody. Whenever such judgment states that the accused person committed the act alleged, the Magistrate or Court before whom or which the trial has been held shall, if such act would, but for the incapacity found, have constituted an offence, order such person to be kept in safe custody in such place and manner as the Magistrate or Court thinks fit, and shall report the case for the orders of the Local Government.

The Local Government may order such person to be confined in a Lunatic Asylum, jail or other suitable place of safe custody.

Act X, 1872, s. 431. Act X, 1875, s. 127. Act IV, 1877, s. 202.

472. Lunatic prisoners to be visited by Inspector General. When any person is confined under the provisions of section 466 or section 471, the Inspector General of Prisons, if such person is confined in a jail, or the visitors of the Lunatic Asylums or any two of them, if he is confined in a Lunatic Asylum, may visit him in order to ascertain his state of mind; and he shall be visited once at least in every six months by such Inspector General or by two of such visitors as aforesaid; and such Inspector General or visitors shall make a special report to the Local Government as to the state of mind of such person.

Act X, 1872, s. 432. Act X, 1875, s. 126. Act IV, 1877, s. 201.

473. Procedure where lunatic prisoner is reported capable of making his defence. If such person is confined under the provisions of section 466, and such Inspector General or visitors shall certify that, in his or their opinion, such person is capable of making his defence, he shall be taken before the Magistrate or Court, as the case may be, at such time as the Magistrate or Court appoints, and the Magistrate or Court shall deal with such person under the provisions of section 468; and the certificate of such Inspector General or visitors as aforesaid shall be receivable as evidence.

Act X, 1872, s. 433. Act X, 1875, s. 128. Act IV, 1877, s. 203.

474. Procedure where lunatic confined under section 466 or 471 is declared fit to be discharged. If such person is confined under the provisions of section 466 or section 471, and such Inspector General or visitors shall certify that, in his or their judgment, he may be discharged without danger of his doing injury to himself or to any other person, the Local Government may thereupon order him to be discharged, or to be detained in custody, or to be transferred to a public Lunatic Asylum if he has not been already sent to such an Asylum, and in case it orders him to be transferred to an Asylum, may appoint a commission, consisting of a judicial and two medical officers.

And such commission shall make formal inquiry into the state of mind of such person, taking such evidence as is necessary, and shall report to the Local Government, which may order his discharge or detention as it thinks fit.

Act X, 1872, s. 434. Act X, 1875, s. 129. Act IV, 1877, s. 204.

475. Delivery of lunatic to care of relative. Whenever any relative or friend of any person confined under the provisions of section 466 or section 471 desires that he shall be delivered over to his care and custody, the Local Government, upon the application of such relative or friend, and on his giving security to the satisfaction of such Government that the person delivered shall be properly taken care of and shall be prevented from doing injury to himself or to any other person, may order such person to be delivered to such relative or friend.

Whenever such person is so delivered, it shall be upon condition that he shall be produced for the inspection of such officer and at such times as the Local Government directs.

The provisions of sections 472 and 474 shall, mutatis mutandis, apply to persons delivered under the provisions of this section; and the certificate of the inspecting officer appointed under this section shall be dealt with as a certificate under section 474.

CHAPTER XXXV.

PROCEEDINGS IN CASE OF CERTAIN OFFENCES AFFECTING THE ADMINISTRATION OF JUSTICE.

Act X, 1872, s. 435. Act X, 1875, s. 130. Act IV, 1877, s. 44, containing last paragraph.

476. Procedure in cases mentioned in section 196. When any Civil, Criminal or Revenue Court is of opinion that there is ground for enquiring into any offence referred to in section 196, and committed before it or brought under its notice in the course of a judicial proceeding, such Court, after making any preliminary inquiry that may be necessary, may send the case for enquiry or trial to the District Magistrate, and may send the accused in custody, or take sufficient security for his appearance, before such Magistrate; and may bind over any person to appear and give evidence on such trial or enquiry.

I. L. R., 1 Calc., 130. I. L. R., 1 All., 193. 24 & 25 Vic., c. 100, s. 19. 2 Ox. Ca. 217.

Such Magistrate shall thereupon proceed according to law, and may transfer the enquiry or trial to some other competent Magistrate.

Act X, 1872, s. 436, paras. 1 and 3. Reg. v. Nomal, 4 Ben. App. Crim. Jur. 11.

477. Power of Sessions Court as to such offences committed before itself. Subject to the provisions of section 444, a Court of Session may charge a person for any offence referred to in section 196 and committed before it, or brought under its notice in the course of a judicial proceeding, and may commit, or admit to bail and try, such person upon its own charge.

Such Court may direct the Magistrate to cause the attendance of any witnesses for the purposes of the trial.

Act X, 1872, s. 474, paras. 1 and 2. See I. L. R., 4 Bom., 287.

478. Power of Civil Courts to complete investigation and commit to Sessions Court. When any such offence is committed before any Civil or Revenue Court, or brought under the notice of any Civil or Revenue Court in the course of a judicial proceeding and the case is triable exclusively by the High Court or Court of Session, or such Civil or Revenue Court thinks that it ought to be tried by the High Court or Court of Session, such Civil or Revenue Court may, instead of sending the case under section 476 to a Magistrate for enquiry, itself complete the enquiry, and commit or hold to bail the accused person to take his trial before the High Court or Court of Session, as the case may be.

See I. L. R., 4 Bom., 289.

Act X, 1872, s. 475.

For the purposes of an enquiry under this section, the Civil or Revenue Court may, subject to the provisions of section 443, exercise all the powers of a Magistrate; and its proceedings in such enquiry shall be conducted as nearly as may be in accordance with the provisions of Chapter XVIII, and shall be deemed to have been held by a Magistrate.

Act X, 1872, s. 475.

479. Procedure of Civil Court in such cases. When any such commitment is made by a Civil or Revenue Court, the Court shall send the charge with the order of commitment and the record of the case to the Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate or other Magistrate authorized to commit for trial; and such Magistrate shall bring the case before the High Court or Court of Session, as the case may be, together with the witnesses for the prosecution and defence.

Act X, 1872, s. [illegible], Act IV, 1877, s. [illegible].

480. Procedure in certain cases of contempt. When any such offence as is described in section 175, 178, 179, 180, or 228 of the Indian Penal Code is committed in the view or presence of any Civil, Criminal or Revenue Court, the Court may cause the offender, whether he is a European British subject or not, to be detained in custody; and at any time before the rising of the Court on the same day* may, if it thinks fit, take cognizance of the offence and sentence the offender to fine not exceeding two hundred rupees and, in default of payment, to simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to one month, unless such fine be sooner paid.

* Pollard's case, L. R. 2, P. C. 106.

Act X, 1872, s. 435, paras. 2 and 3.

481. Record in such cases. In every such case, the Court shall record the facts constituting the offence, with the statement (if any) made by the offender, as well as the finding and sentence.

Act X, 1872, s. 436, paras. 1 and 2. Act IV, 1877, s. 206.

482. Procedure where Court considers that case should not be dealt with under section 480. If the Court in any case considers that a person accused of any of the offences referred to in section 480 and committed in its view or presence should be imprisoned otherwise than in default of payment of fine, or that a fine exceeding two hundred rupees should be imposed upon him, or such Court is for any other reason of opinion that the case should not be disposed of under section 480, such Court, after recording the facts constituting the offence and the statement of the accused as hereinbefore provided, may forward the case to a Magistrate having jurisdiction to try the same, and may require security to be given for the appearance of such accused person before such Magistrate or, if sufficient security is not given, shall forward such person under custody to such Magistrate.

The Magistrate to whom any person is forwarded under this section shall proceed to hear the complaint against him in manner hereinbefore provided.

New. 13, Bengal App. 40.

483. Registrar to be deemed a Civil Court within section 480. A Registrar appointed under the Indian Registration Act, 1877, and, when the Local Government so directs, a Sub-Registrar appointed under the same Act, shall be deemed to be a Court within the meaning of sections 480 and 482.

Act X, 1872, s. 437. Act IV, 1877, s. 207.

484. Discharge of offender on submission or apology. When any Court has under section 480 adjudged an offender to punishment for refusing or omitting to do anything which he was lawfully required to do, or for any intentional insult or interruption, the Court may in its discretion discharge the offender or remit the punishment on his submission to the order or requisition of such Court, or on apology being made to its satisfaction.

Act X, 1872, ss. 356, 364. Act X, 1875, s. 89. Act IV, 1877, s. 141.

485. Imprisonment or committal of person refusing to answer or produce document. If any witness before a Court refuses to answer such questions as are put to him or to produce any document in his possession or power which the Court requires him to produce, and does not offer any reasonable excuse for such refusal, such Court may, for reasons to be recorded in writing, sentence him to simple imprisonment, or commit him to the custody of an officer of the Court, for any term not exceeding seven days, unless in the meantime such person consents to be examined and to answer, or to produce the document; after which, in the event of his persisting in his refusal, he may be dealt with according to the provisions of section 480 or 482, and in the case of a Court established by Royal Charter shall be deemed guilty of a contempt.

Omitting 'by warrant under his hand and seal.'

Act X, 1872, s. 268.

486. Appeals from convictions in contempt-cases. Any person convicted by any Court under section 480 or section 485 may, notwithstanding anything hereinbefore contained, appeal to the Court to which decrees or orders made in such Court are ordinarily appealable.

Sections 419, 420, 421, 426 and 428 shall apply to appeals under this section, and the Appellate Court may alter or reverse the finding or sentence appealed against.

An appeal from such conviction by a Court of Small Causes in a Presidency-town shall lie to the High Court, and an appeal from such conviction by any other Court of Small Causes shall lie to the Court of Session for the Sessions Division within which such Court is situate.

New.

An appeal from such conviction by any officer as Registrar or Sub-Registrar appointed as aforesaid may, when such officer is also Judge of a Civil Court, be made to the Court to which it would, under the preceding portion of this section, be made if such conviction were a conviction by such officer in his capacity as such Judge, and in other cases may be made to the District Judge, or, in the Presidency-towns, to the High Court.

Act X, 1872, s. 473. I. L. R., 1 Bom., 339, 1 All., 162, 625. 7 Mad., XVI. App. Pro. See I. L. R., 1 Mad., 305. I. L. R., 1 All., 625.

487. Judge or Magistrate not to try offences referred to in section 196 when committed before himself. Except as provided in sections 477, 480 and 485, no Judge of a Criminal Court or Magistrate other than a Judge of a High Court, the Recorder of Rangoon, and the Presidency Magistrates, shall try any person for any offence referred to in section 196, when such offence is committed before himself or in contempt of his authority, or is brought to his notice as such Judge or Magistrate in a judicial proceeding.

Nothing in section 476 or 482 shall prevent a Magistrate empowered to commit to the Court of Session or High Court from himself committing any case to such Court, or shall prevent a Presidency Magistrate from himself disposing of any case instead of sending it for enquiry to another Magistrate.

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Of the Maintenance of Wives and Children.

Act X, 1872, s. 536. Act IV, 1877, s. 284.

488. Order for maintenance of wives and children. If any person having sufficient means neglects or refuses to maintain his wife or his legitimate or illegitimate child unable to maintain itself, the District Magistrate, a Presidency Magistrate, a Sub-divisional Magistrate, or a Magistrate of the first class may, upon proof of such neglect or refusal, order such person to make a monthly allowance for the maintenance of his wife or such child, at such monthly rate, not exceeding fifty rupees in the whole, as such Magistrate thinks fit, and to pay the same to such person as the Magistrate from time to time directs.

Such allowance shall be payable from the date of the order.

If any person so ordered wilfully neglects to comply with the order, any such Magistrate may, for every breach of the order, issue a warrant for levying the amount due in manner hereinbefore provided for levying fines, and may sentence such person, for each month's allowance remaining unpaid, to imprisonment for any term not exceeding one month:

1 O'Kin. 89.

Enforcement of order. Proviso. Provided that, if such person offers to maintain his wife on condition of her living with him, and she refuses to live with him, such Magistrate may consider any grounds of refusal stated by her; and may make an order under this section notwithstanding such offer, if he is satisfied that such person is living in adultery, or that he has habitually treated his wife with cruelty.

No wife shall be entitled to receive an allowance from her husband under this section if she is living in adultery or if, without any sufficient reason, she refuses to live with her husband, or if they are living separately by mutual consent.

Act X, 1872, s. 537. Act IV, 1877, s. 285.

489. Alteration in allowance. On proof of a change in the circumstances of any person receiving under section 488 a monthly allowance, or ordered under the same section to pay a monthly allowance to his wife or child, the Magistrate may make such alteration in the allowance as he thinks fit, provided the monthly rate of fifty rupees be not exceeded.

Act X, 1872, s. 538. Act IV, 1877, s. 286.

490. Enforcement of order of maintenance. A copy of the order of maintenance shall be given without payment to the person in whose favour it is made, or to his guardian, if any; and such order shall be enforceable by any Magistrate in any place where the person against whom it is made may be, on such Magistrate being satisfied as to the identity of the parties and the non-payment of the allowance due.

CHAPTER XXXVII.

State-Prisoners.

Ben. Reg. III, 1818, s. 4. Mad. Reg. II, 1819, s. 2. Bom. Reg. XXV, 1827, preamble and section 1.

491. Procedure in placing persons under restraint as State-prisoners. Whenever, for all or any of the reasons of State hereinafter mentioned, the Governor General in Council, the Governor of Fort St. George in Council, or the Governor of Bombay in Council, hereinafter called the Government, is of opinion that any person should be placed under personal restraint, without any immediate view to ulterior judicial proceedings, a warrant of commitment under the authority of the Government and under the hand of one of its Secretaries, shall be issued to the officer in whose custody such person (hereinafter called a State-prisoner) is to be placed.

The reasons above referred to are as follows:—

(a) the maintenance of the alliances formed by the British Government with foreign powers;

(b) the preservation of tranquillity in the territories of Native Princes and States entitled to its protection;

(c) the security of the British dominions from foreign hostility or internal commotion.

Act III, 1858, s. 2.

492. Form and effect of warrant. Such warrant shall authorize the detention of the State-prisoner therein mentioned in any fortress, jail or other place within British India.

Ben. Reg. III, 1818, s. 5. Mad. Reg. II, 1819, s. 5. Bom. Reg. XXV, 1827, s. 5, clause 2.

493. Representations made by State-prisoners to be submitted to Government. The officer in whose custody any State-prisoner has been placed under this chapter or under any enactment repealed by this Code, shall forward, with such observations as he thinks necessary, to the Government under whose authority such prisoner was so placed, every representation which he may from time to time be desirous of submitting to such Government.

Ben. Reg. III, 1818, s. 6. Mad. Reg. II, 1819, s. 6. Bom. Reg. XXV, 1827, s. 5, clause 1.

494. Report to Government regarding nature of confinement, health and allowances of State-prisoners. Every officer in whose custody any State-prisoner is placed shall, as soon after taking such prisoner into his custody as may be practicable, report to such Government whether the degree of confinement to which the State-prisoner is subjected seems likely to injure his health, and whether the allowance fixed for his support is adequate to the supply of his own wants and those of his family then with him according to their rank in life.

Ben. Reg. III, 1818, s. 9. Mad. Reg. II, 1819, s. 9. Bom. Reg. XXV, 1827, s. 7.

495. Attachment of lands in mufussal by order of Government. Whenever the Government for any of the reasons mentioned in section 491, considers it necessary to attach, without any previous decision of a Court of justice or other judicial proceeding, the lands of any proprietor which are situate outside the Presidency-towns, it shall direct the District Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction the lands are situate to attach such lands, and they shall be attached accordingly.

Ben. Reg. III, 1818, s. 10. Mad. Reg. II, 1819, s. 10. Bom. Reg. XXV, 1827, s. 8.

496. Lands attached to be placed under management. The lands so attached shall be held under the management of the Collector, and shall be administered in such manner as the Government may direct.

Such lands shall not be liable to be sold in execution of decrees of the Civil Courts, or for the realization of fines or otherwise, so long as they are so held under attachment, without the consent of the Government and the proprietor.

and not to be sold in execution.

Bom. Reg. varies.

But the whole or any part of the annual nett proceeds of such lands may, if the Government so directs, be applied to the satisfaction of the decrees of the Civil Courts against the proprietor.

Government to arrange for satisfying decrees.

Ben. Reg. III, 1818, s. 11. Mad. Reg. II, 1819, s. 11. Bom. Reg. XXV, 1827.

497. Whenever the Government by whose direction such lands were attached, is of opinion that the circumstances which rendered necessary the attachment have ceased to operate, and that the management of the lands can be committed to the proprietor without public hazard or inconvenience, such Government shall direct the Collector to release the lands from attachment, to adjust the accounts of the collections during the period in which they have been superintended by Government and to pay over to the proprietor the nett proceeds of the lands which have accumulated during the attachment.

Procedure where Government orders release of land from attachment.

Act XXXIV, 1850, s. 1. Act III, 1858, s. 3.

498. The warrant of commitment of any State-prisoner under this chapter may be directed to the Superintendent of the jail in any Presidency-town, or to the Commandant of any fortress, or to the officer in charge of any jail or other place, in which it is deemed expedient that such State-prisoner be confined, in any part of British India; and such warrant shall authorize the detention of such State-prisoner in the jail, fortress or other place therein mentioned.

Officers to whom warrant of commitment of State-prisoner may be directed.

Act III, 1858, s. 5.

499. The Governor General in Council may order the removal of any State-prisoner confined under this chapter or any enactment repealed by this Code from any jail, fortress or place in which he may be confined to any other jail, fortress or place of confinement within British India.

Removal of State-prisoners from one place of confinement to another.

Act XI, 1857, s. 6. Bom. Reg. XXV, 1827, Ch. 1, s. 1.

500. Nothing in this chapter applies to European British subjects.

Saving of European British subjects.

CHAPTER XXXVIII.

Directions of the Nature of a Habeas Corpus.

Act X, 1872, s. 82. Act X, 1875, s. 148.

501. Any of the High Courts of Judicature at Fort William, Madras and Bombay may, whenever it thinks fit, direct—

Power to issue directions of the nature of a habeas corpus.

(a) that a person within the limits of its ordinary original criminal jurisdiction be brought up before the Court to be dealt with according to law;

(b) that a person illegally or improperly detained in public or private custody within such limits be set at liberty;

(c) that a prisoner detained in any jail situate within such limits be brought before the Court to be there examined as a witness in any matter pending or to be inquired into in such Court;

(d) that a prisoner detained as aforesaid be brought before a Court-martial or any Commissioners acting under the authority of any Commission from the Governor General in Council for trial, or to be examined touching any matter depending before such Court-martial or Commissioners respectively;

(e) that a prisoner within such limits be removed from one custody to another for the purpose of trial;

(f) that the body of a defendant within such limits may be brought in on the Sheriff's return of cepi corpus to a writ of attachment.

Each of the said High Courts may from time to time frame rules to regulate the procedure in cases under this section.

Nothing in this section applies to State-prisoners detained under Chapter XXXVII or under any enactment hereby repealed.

PART IX.

SUPPLEMENTARY PROVISIONS.

CHAPTER XXXIX.

Of the Public Prosecutor.

Act X, 18[illegible] ss. 57, 2[illegible]

502. The Governor General in Council or the Local Government may appoint in any case or for any class of cases in any local area one or more officers to be called Public Prosecutors.

Power to appoint public prosecutors.

Act X, 18[illegible] s. 203, [illegible] 2.

In any case committed for trial to the Court of Session, the District Magistrate, or, subject to the control of the District Magistrate, the Subdivisional Magistrate, may, in the absence of the Public Prosecutor, or where no Public Prosecutor has been appointed, appoint any other person, not being an officer of police below the rank of Assistant District Superintendent to be Public Prosecutor for the purposes of such case.

Act X, 1[illegible] s. 60.

503. The Public Prosecutor may appear and plead without any written authority before any Court in which any case of which he has charge is under inquiry, trial or appeal; and if any private person instructs a pleader to prosecute in any Court any person in any such case, the Public Prosecutor shall conduct the prosecution, and the pleader so instructed shall act therein under his directions.

Public Prosecutor may plead in all Courts in cases under his charge.

Pleaders, privately instructed, to be under his direction.

Act X, 1872, s. 61.

504. The Public Prosecutor may, with the consent of the Court, in cases tried by jury before the return of the verdict, and in other cases before the judgment is pronounced, withdraw from the prosecution of any person, and upon such withdrawal,

Effect of withdrawal from prosecution.

(a) if it is made before a charge has been framed, the accused shall be discharged;

New.

(b) if it is made after a charge has been framed, or when under this Code no charge is required, he shall be acquitted.

Act X, 1872, s. 59. Act XI, 1874, s. 8. Act IV, 1877, s. 129.

505. Any Magistrate inquiring into or trying any case may permit any person other than an officer of police below the rank of Assistant District Superintendent to conduct the prosecution; but no person, other than the Advocate General, Standing Counsel, Government Solicitor, Public Prosecutor or other officer generally or specially empowered by the Local Government in this behalf shall be entitled to do so without such permission.

Permission to conduct prosecution.

Any person conducting the prosecution may do so personally or by a pleader.

CHAPTER XL.

Of Bail.

Act X, 1872, ss. 126, para. 2, 194, para. 2, 204, para. 1, 388, 393. Act IV, 1877, ss. 70, 74. N.-W. P., 1874, p. 371.

506. When any person other than a person accused of a non-bailable offence is arrested or detained without warrant by an officer in charge of a Police-station, or appears or is brought before a Court, and is prepared at any time while in the custody of such officer or at any stage of the proceedings before such Court to give bail, such person shall be released on bail: Provided that such officer or Court, if he or it thinks fit, may, instead of taking bail from such person, discharge him on his executing a bond without sureties for his appearance as hereinafter provided.

Bail to be taken in case of bailable offence.

Act X, 1872, s. 126, para. 1, 194, para. 2. Act IV, 1877, s. 71.

507. When any person accused of any non-bailable offence is arrested or detained without warrant by an officer in charge of a Police-station or appears or is brought before a Court, he may be released on bail, but he shall not be so released if there appear reasonable grounds for believing that he has been guilty of the offence of which he is accused.

When bail may be taken in case of non-bailable offence.

If it appears to such officer or Court at any stage of the investigation, inquiry or trial, as the case may be, that there are not reasonable grounds for believing that the accused has committed such offence, but that there are sufficient grounds for further inquiry into his guilt, the accused shall, pending such inquiry, be released on bail, or, at the discretion of such officer or Court, on the execution by him of a bond without sureties for his appearance as hereinafter provided.

Any Court may, at any subsequent stage of any proceeding under this Code, cause any person who has been released under this section to be arrested, and may commit him to custody.

Act X, 1872, ss. 390, 508. Act X, 1875, s. 136. I.L. R., 1 All., 151.

508. The amount of every bond executed under this chapter shall be fixed with due regard to the circumstances of the case, and shall not be excessive; and the High Court or Court of Session may in any case, whether there be an appeal on conviction or not, direct that any person be admitted to bail, or that the bail required by a Police-officer or Magistrate be reduced.

Power to direct admission to bail or reduction of bail.

Act X, 1872, s. 391. Act IV, 1877, s. 72.

509. Before any person is released on bail or released on his own bond, a bond for such sum of money as the Police-officer or Court, as the case may be, thinks sufficient shall be executed by such person, and when he is released on bail, by one or more sufficient sureties, conditioned that such person shall attend at the time and place mentioned in the bond, and shall continue so to attend until otherwise directed by the Police-officer or Court as the case may be.

Bond of accused and sureties.

If the case so require, the bond shall also bind the person released on bail to appear when called upon at the High Court, Court of Session or other Court to answer the charge.

Act X, 1872, s. 394. Act IV, 1877, s. 73.

510. As soon as the bond has been executed, the person for whose appearance it has been executed shall be released; and when he is in jail, the Court admitting him to bail shall issue an order of release to the officer in charge of the jail, and such officer on receipt of the order shall release him.

Discharge from custody.

Act X, 1872, s. 392. Act IV, 1877, s. 75.

511. If, through mistake, fraud, or otherwise, insufficient sureties have been accepted, or if they afterwards become insufficient, the Court may issue a warrant of arrest directing that the person released on bail be brought before it, and may order him to find sufficient sureties, and on his failing so to do may commit him to jail.

Power to order sufficient bail when that first taken is insufficient.

Act X, 1872, s. 395. Act IV, 1877, s. 76.

512. All or any sureties for the attendance and appearance of a person released on bail may at any time apply to a Magistrate to discharge the bond either wholly or so far as relates to the applicants.

Discharge of sureties.

On such application being made, the Magistrate shall issue his warrant of arrest, directing that the person so released be brought before him.

On the appearance of such person pursuant to the warrant, or on his voluntary surrender, the Magistrate shall direct the bond to be discharged either wholly or so far as relates to the applicants, and shall call upon such person to find other sufficient sureties, and if he fails to do so, may commit him to custody.

CHAPTER XLI.

Of Commissions for the Examination of Witnesses.

Act X, 1872, s. 330, paras. 1 and 2. Act X, 1875, s. 76, para. 1. Act IV, 1877, s. 157. Act IV, 1877, s. 158.

513. Whenever, in the course of an inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, it appears to a Presidency Magistrate, a District Magistrate, a Court of Session or the High Court that the examination of a witness is necessary for the ends of justice, and that the attendance of such witness cannot be procured without an amount of delay, expense or inconvenience which, under the circumstances of the case, would be unreasonable, such Magistrate or Court may dispense with such attendance and may issue a commission to any District Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class, within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such witness resides, to take the evidence of such witness.

When attendance of witness may be dispensed with.

Issue of commission and procedure thereunder.

When the witness resides in the dominions of any Prince or State in alliance with Her Majesty in which there is an officer representing the British Indian Government, the commission may be issued to such officer.

The Magistrate or officer to whom the commission is issued, or, if he is the District Magistrate, he or such Magistrate of the first class as he appoints in this behalf, shall proceed to the place where the witness is, or shall summon the witness before him, and shall take down his evidence in the same manner, and may for this purpose exercise the same powers, as in trials of warrant-cases under this Code.

Act XI, 1874, s. 35, para. 1. Act X, 1875, s. 76, para. 4.

514. If the witness is within the local limits of the jurisdiction of any Presidency Magistrate, the Magistrate or Court issuing the commission may direct the same to the said Presidency Magistrate, who thereupon may compel the attendance of, and examine, such witness as if he were a witness in a case pending before himself.

Commission in case of witness being within Presidency-town.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the power of the High Court to issue commissions under the thirty-ninth and fortieth of Victoria, chapter 46, section 3.

Act X, 1872, s. 330, para. 4. Act XI, 1874, s. 35, para. 2. Act X, 1875, s. 76, para. 5.

515. The parties to any proceeding under this Code in which a commission is issued may respectively forward any interrogatories in writing which the Magistrate or Court directing the commission may think relevant to the issue, and the Magistrate or officer to whom the commission is directed shall examine the witness upon such interrogatories.

Parties may examine witness.

Such parties may appear before such Magistrate or officer by pleader, or if not in custody, in person, and may examine, cross-examine and re-examine (as the case may be) the said witness.

Act X, 1872, s. 330, para. 5.

516. Whenever, in the course of an inquiry or trial or other proceeding under this Code before any Magistrate other than a Presidency Magistrate or District Magistrate, it appears that a commission ought to be issued for the examination of a witness whose evidence is necessary for the ends of justice, and that the attendance of such witness cannot be procured without an amount of delay, expense or inconvenience which, under the circumstances of the case, would be unreasonable, such Magistrate shall apply to the District Magistrate, stating the reasons for the application; and the District Magistrate may either issue a commission in the manner hereinbefore provided or reject the application.

Power of mufassal Subordinate Magistrate to apply for issue of commission.

As in sec. 513.

Act XI, 1874, s. 35, last para. Act X, 1875, s. 76, para. 6.

517. After any commission issued under section 513 or section 516 has been duly executed, it shall be returned, together with the deposition of the witness examined thereunder, to the Court out of which it issued; and the commission, the return thereto and the deposition of such witness shall be open at all reasonable times to inspection of the parties, and may, subject to all just exceptions, be read in evidence in the case by either party, and shall form part of the record.

Return of commission.

N. Y. Crim. Proc. Code, s. 708.

518. In every case in which a commission is directed under section 513 or section 516, the inquiry, trial or other proceeding may be stayed for a specified time reasonably sufficient for the execution and return of the commission.

Stay of inquiry or trial.

CHAPTER XLII.

Special Rules of Evidence.

Act X, 1872, s. 323. Act X, 1875, s. 71. Act IV, 1877, s. 152.

519. The deposition of a Civil Surgeon or other medical witness, taken and attested by a Magistrate in the presence of the accused, may be given in evidence in any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code, although the deponent is not called as a witness.

Deposition of medical witness.

The Court may, if it thinks fit, summon and examine such deponent as to the subject-matter of his deposition.

Power to summon medical witness.

520. Any document purporting to be a report under the hand of the Chemical Examiner or Assistant Chemical Examiner to Government, upon any matter or thing duly submitted to him for examination or analysis and report in the course of any proceeding under this Code, may be used as evidence in any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code.

Report of Chemical Examiner.

Act XVIII, 1862, s. 39. Not in Act X of 1872.

521. In proving the existence of circumstances as a defence under the second, third, fifth, sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth or tenth Exception to section 499 of the Indian Penal Code, good faith shall be presumed until the contrary appears.

Good faith to be presumed in certain cases.

Act X, 1872, ss. 326, 515, last clause. Act X, 1875, s. 119. Act IV, 1877, ss. 154, 230.

522. In any inquiry, trial or other proceeding under this Code a previous conviction or acquittal may be proved, in addition to any other mode provided by any law for the time being in force,—

Previous conviction or acquittal how proved.

(a) by an extract certified under the hand of the officer having the custody of the records of the Court in which such conviction or acquittal was had to be a copy of the sentence or order; or

(b) in case of a conviction, either by a certificate signed by the officer in charge of the jail in which the punishment or any part thereof was inflicted, or by production of the warrant of commitment under which the punishment was suffered.

Act X, 1872, s. 327. Act X, 1875, s. 74. Act IV, 1877, s. 155.

523. If it be proved that an accused person has absconded, and that there is no immediate prospect of arresting him, the Court competent to try or commit for trial such person for the offence complained of may, in his absence, examine the witnesses (if any) produced on behalf of the prosecution, and record their depositions, and any such deposition may, on the arrest of such person, be given in evidence against him on the inquiry into or trial for the offence with which he is charged, provided that the attendance of the deponent cannot be procured.

Record of evidence in absence of accused.

CHAPTER XLIII.

Provisions as to Bonds.

Act X, 1872, ss. 396, 397, 398, paras. 1 & 2, 502, paras. 1 to [illegible] 7, 508, 514, Act X, 1872, Act IV, 1877, s. 160.

524. When any person is required by any Court or officer to execute a bond with or without sureties, such Court or officer may, except in the case of a bond for good behaviour, permit him to deposit a sum of money or Government promissory notes to such amount as the Court or officer may fix in lieu of executing such bond.

Deposit instead of recognizance.

Act X, 1872, ss. 396, 397, 398, paras. 1 & 2, 502, paras. 1 to [illegible] 7, 508, 514, Act X, 1872, Act IV, 1877, s. 160.

525. Whenever it is proved to the satisfaction of the Court by which a bond under this Code has been taken, or of the Court of a Presidency Magistrate or Magistrate of the first class, Procedure on forfeiture of bond.

or, when the bond is for appearance before a Court, to the satisfaction of such Court, that such bond has been forfeited, the Court shall record the grounds of such proof, and may call upon any person bound by such bond to pay the penalty thereof, or to show cause why it should not be paid.

If sufficient cause is not shown and the penalty is not paid, the Court may proceed to recover the same by issuing a warrant for the attachment and sale of the moveable property belonging to such person.

Such warrant may be executed within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Court which issued it; and it shall authorize the distress and sale of any moveable property belonging to such person without such limits, when endorsed by the District Magistrate within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such property is found.

If such penalty be not paid and cannot be recovered by such attachment and sale, the person so bound shall be liable, by order of the Court which issued the warrant, to imprisonment in the civil jail for a term which may extend to six months.

The Court may at its discretion remit any portion of the penalty mentioned and enforce payment in part only.

Act X, 1872, s. 398, penultimate para.

526. All orders passed under section 525 by any Magistrate other than a Presidency Magistrate or District Magistrate shall be appealable to the District Magistrate, or, if not so appealed, may be revised by him.

Appeals from, and revision of, orders under section 525.

Act X, 1872, s. 398, last para. Act X, 1875, s. 138, last para.

527. The High Court or Court of Session may direct any Magistrate to levy the amount due on a bond to appear and attend at such High Court or Court of Session.

Power to direct levy of amount due on certain recognizances.

CHAPTER XLIV.

Of the Disposal of Property.

Act X, 1872, s. 418. Act X, 1875, s. 115. Act IV, 1877, ss. 243, 244. Act XI, 1874, s. 38. High Court Rule, Bombay Government Gazette, 13th Sept. 1877, p. 823.

528. When an inquiry or trial in any Criminal Court is concluded, the Court may make such order as it thinks fit for the disposal of any document or other property produced before it regarding which any offence appears to have been committed, or which has been used for the commission of any offence, or which has been produced as evidence in such inquiry or trial.

Order for disposal of property regarding which offence committed.

When a High Court or a Court of Session makes such order and cannot through its own officers conveniently deliver the property to the person entitled thereto, such Court may direct that the order be carried into effect by the committing Magistrate.

When an order is made under this section in a case in which an appeal lies, such order shall not be carried out until the period allowed for presenting such appeal has passed, or, when such appeal is presented within such period, until such appeal has been dismissed.

Explanation.—In this section the term "property" includes, in the case of property regarding which an offence appears to have been committed, not only such property as has been originally in the possession or under the control of any party, but also any property into or for which the same may have been converted or exchanged, and anything acquired by such conversion or exchange whether immediately or otherwise.

529. In lieu of itself passing an order under section 528, the Court may direct the property to be delivered to the District Magistrate or to a Sub-divisional Magistrate, who shall in such cases deal with it as if it had been seized by the police, and the seizure had been reported to him in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

Act X, 1872, s. 420. Order may take form of reference to District or Sub-divisional Magistrate.

30 & 31 Vic., c. 35, s. 10. 530. When any person is convicted of any offence which includes, or amounts to, theft or receiving stolen property, and it is proved that any other person has bought the stolen property from him without knowing or having reason to believe that the same was stolen, and that any money has under this Code been taken out of the possession of the convicted person, the Court may, on the application of such purchaser and on the restitution of the stolen property to the person entitled to the possession thereof, order that out of such money a sum not exceeding the price paid by such purchaser be delivered to him.

Payment to innocent purchaser of money found on prisoner.

Act X, 1872, s. 419. I. L. R., 3 Calc., 379. 'Court of appeal.' 531. Any Court of appeal, confirmation, reference or revision may direct any order under section 528 or 529 passed by a Court subordinate thereto to be stayed pending consideration by the former Court, and may modify, alter or annul such order.

Stay of order under section 528 or 529.

Livingston, p. 480. 532. On a conviction under the Indian Penal Code, section 292, 293, 501 or 502, the Court may order all the copies of the thing in respect of which the conviction was had, and which remain in the possession or power of the person convicted, to be destroyed.

Destruction of libellous and other matter.

The Court may in like manner, on a conviction under the Indian Penal Code, sections 272, 273, 274 or 275, order the food, drink, drug or medical preparation in respect of which the conviction was had to be destroyed.

Act X, 1872, s. 534. Act X, 1875, s. 142. Act IV, 1877, s. 233. 533. Whenever a person is convicted of an offence attended by criminal force, and it appears to the Court that, by such force, any person has been dispossessed of any immoveable property, the Court may order such person to be restored to the possession of the same.

Power to restore possession of immoveable property.

No such order shall prejudice any right or interest to or in such immoveable property which any person may be able to establish in a civil suit.

Act X, 1872, ss. 887, para. 2, 415. Act IV, 1877, s. 244. 534. The seizure by any Police-officer of property taken under section 51, or alleged or suspected to have been stolen, or found under circumstances which create suspicion of the commission of any offence shall be forthwith reported to a Magistrate, who shall make such order as he thinks fit respecting the delivery of such property to the person entitled to the possession thereof, or if such person cannot be ascertained respecting the custody and production of such property.

Procedure by police upon seizure of property taken under section 51 or stolen.

If the person so entitled is known, the Magistrate may order the property to be delivered to him on such condition (if any) as the Magistrate thinks fit. If such person is unknown, the Magistrate may detain it, and shall, in such case, issue a proclamation specifying the articles of which such property consists, and requiring any person who may have a claim thereto to appear before him and establish his claim within six months from the date of such proclamation.

Act X, 1872, s. 416. Procedure where owner of property seized unknown.

Act X, 1872, s. 417. Act IV, 1877, s. 244. 535. If no person within such period establishes his claim to such property, and if the person in whose possession such property was found is unable to show that it was legally acquired by him, such property shall be at the disposal of the Government, and may be sold under the orders of the Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate or of a Magistrate of the first class empowered by the Local Government in this behalf.

Procedure where no claimant appears within six months.

In the case of every order passed under this section, an appeal shall be allowed to the Court to which appeals against sentences of the Court passing such order would lie.

Act X, 1872, s. 415, para. 2. 536. If the person entitled to the possession of such property is unknown or absent, and the property is of a perishable nature, or the Magistrate is of opinion that its sale would be for the benefit of the owner, the Magistrate may at any time direct it to be sold; and the provisions of sections 534 and 535 shall, as nearly as may be, apply to the nett proceeds of such sale.

Power to sell perishable property.

CHAPTER XLV.

OF THE TRANSFER OF CRIMINAL CASES.

Act X, 1872, s. 64. Act X, 1875, s. 147. 537. Whenever it is made to appear to the High Court—

High Court may transfer case, or itself try it.

(a) that a fair and impartial enquiry or trial cannot be had in any Criminal Court subordinate thereto, or

(b) that some question of law of unusual difficulty is likely to arise, or

(d) that an order under this section will tend to the general convenience of the parties or witnesses,

it may order—

(1) that any offence be enquired into or tried by any Court not empowered under sections 178 to 185, but in other respects competent to enquire into or try such offence;

(2) that any particular criminal case or appeal, or class of such cases or appeals, be transferred from a Criminal Court subordinate to its authority to any other such Criminal Court of equal or superior jurisdiction; or

(3) that any particular criminal case or appeal be transferred to and tried before itself.

When the High Court withdraws for trial before itself any case from any Court other than the Court of a Presidency Magistrate, it shall, except as provided in section 268, observe in such trial the same procedure which that Court would have observed if the case had not been so withdrawn.

I. L. R., 1 Calc., 223. Every application for the exercise of the power conferred by this section shall be made by motion which shall, except when the applicant is the Advocate General, be supported by affidavit or affirmation.

Archb. 88. When an accused person makes an application under this section, the High Court may direct him to execute a bond, with or without sureties, conditioned that he will, if convicted, pay the costs of the prosecutor.

Act IV, 1877, s. 181. Every accused person making any such application shall give to the Public Prosecutor notice in writing of the application, together with a copy of the grounds on which it is made; and no order shall be made on the merits of the application unless at least twenty-four hours have elapsed between the giving of such notice and the hearing of the application.

Notice to Public Prosecutor of application under this section.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect any order made under section 198.

Act X, 1872, s. 644A. (Act XI, 1874, s. 11.) 538. Whenever it appears to the Governor General in Council that the transfer next hereinafter mentioned will promote the ends of justice or tend to the general convenience of parties or witnesses, he may, by notification in the Gazette of India, direct the transfer of any particular criminal case or appeal from one High Court to another High Court, or from any Criminal Court subordinate to one High Court to any other Criminal Court of equal or superior jurisdiction subordinate to another High Court.

Power of Government of India to transfer criminal cases and appeals.

The Court to which such case or appeal is transferred shall deal with the same as if it had been originally instituted in, or presented to, such Court.

Act X, 1872, ss. 64, last portion, 407, para. 1. 539. Any District Magistrate or Sub-divisional Magistrate may withdraw any case from, or recall any case which he has made over to any Magistrate subordinate to him, and may inquire into or try such case himself, or refer it for inquiry or trial to any other such Magistrate competent to inquire into or try the same.

Magistrate may withdraw or refer cases.

Act XI, 1874, s. 6. Act X, 1872, s. 48. The Local Government may authorize the District Magistrate to withdraw from the Magistrates subordinate to him either such classes of cases as he thinks proper, or particular classes of cases.

Power to authorize District Magistrates to withdraw classes of cases.

CHAPTER XLVI.

OF IRREGULAR PROCEEDINGS.

Act X, 1872, ss. 32, 134, cl. (9). Nelson, p. 54. 540. If any Magistrate not empowered by law to do any of the following things, namely:—

Irregularities which do not vitiate proceedings.

(a) to issue a search-warrant, under section 99;

(b) to order, under section 156, the police to investigate an offence;

(c) to hold an inquest under section 177;

(d) to issue process, under section 187, for the apprehension of a person within the local limits of his jurisdiction who has committed an offence outside such limits; or

(e) to take cognizance of an offence under section 192, clause (a) or clause (b);

(f) to transfer a case under section 193;

(g) to tender a pardon under section 337 or section 338.

(h) to sell property under section 535 or section 536;

(i) to withdraw a case and try it himself under section 539;

erroneously in good faith does that thing, his proceedings shall not be set aside merely on the ground of his not being so empowered.

Act X, 1872, ss. 34, excepting cl. (9). 541. If any Magistrate, not being empowered by law in this behalf, does any of the following things (namely):—

Irregularities which vitiate proceedings.

(a) passes a sentence under section 349, on proceedings recorded by another Magistrate;

(b) takes cognizance under section 192, clause (c), of an offence;

(c) attaches and sells property under section 89;

(d) tries an offender summarily;

(e) decides an appeal;

(f) calls under section 435 for proceedings;

(g) issues a search-warrant for a letter in the Post-office, or a telegram in the Telegraph Department;

(i) demands security to keep the peace;

(j) discharges bonds to keep the peace;

(k) demands security for good behaviour;

(l) discharges a person lawfully bound to be of good behaviour;

(m) makes an order under section 134 as to a local nuisance;

(n) issues an order under section 145;

(o) prohibits under section 144 the repetition or continuance of a public nuisance;

(p) makes an order under Chapter XII; or

(q) makes an order for maintenance;

his proceedings shall be void.

Act X, 1872, s. 70. Act IV, 1877, s. 24. 542. No finding, sentence or order of any Criminal Court shall be set aside merely on the ground that the inquiry, trial or other proceeding in the course of which it was arrived at or passed, took place in a wrong Sessions Division, District, Sub-division or other local area, unless it appears that such error occasioned a failure of justice.

Proceedings in wrong place.

Act X, 1872, s. 33. Act X, 1875, s. 35. 543. If any Magistrate or other authority purporting to exercise powers duly conferred, but not being so conferred, commits an accused person to take his trial before a Court of

When irregular commitments may be validated.

Session or High Court, the Court to which the commitment is made may, after perusal of the proceedings, accept the commitment if it considers that the accused has not been prejudiced, unless objection was made on behalf either of the accused or of the prosecution to the jurisdiction of such Magistrate or other authority during the inquiry and before the order of commitment.

If such Court considers that the accused was prejudiced, or if such objection as aforesaid was so made, it shall quash the commitment, and direct a fresh inquiry by a competent Magistrate.

Act X, 1872, s. 346, last para.

544. If any Court before which a confession or other statement of an accused person recorded under section 165 or 364 is tendered in evidence finds that the provisions of such section have not been fully complied with by the Magistrate recording the statement, it shall take evidence that such person duly made the statement recorded: and unless the error injures the accused as to his defence on the merits, it shall not affect the admissibility of such statement.

Non compliance with provisions of section 165 or 364.

Act X, 1872, s. 85.

545. An omission to ask any person whether he is an European British subject in a case to which the second clause of section 454 applies shall not affect the validity of any proceeding, although it appears that he was aware of the rights claimable under this Code by him as such subject.

Omission to ask question prescribed by section 454, clause 2.

Act X, 1872, s. 216, Explu. I.

546. No finding or sentence pronounced or passed shall be deemed invalid merely on the ground that no charge was framed, unless, in the opinion of the Court of appeal or revision, a failure of justice has been occasioned thereby.

Effect of omission to prepare charge.

Act X, 1872, s. 216, Explu. II.

If the Court of appeal or revision thinks that a failure of justice has been occasioned by an omission to frame a charge, it shall order that a charge shall be framed, and that the trial be recommenced from the point immediately after the framing of the charge.

Act X, 1872, s 283, Explu. 4 Calc 409.

547. If an offence triable with the aid of assessors is tried by a jury, the trial shall not on that ground be invalid.

Trial by jury of offences triable with assessors.

If an offence triable by a jury is tried with the aid of assessors, the trial shall not on that ground only be invalid, unless the objection is taken before the Court records its finding.

Trial with assessors of offences triable by jury.

Act X, 1872, ss. 203, para. 3, 283, para. 1, 300, 464, paras. 6 and 7. (Act XI, 1874, s. 41,) 11 & 12 Vic. c. 43, s. 9. Act IV. 1877, ss. 117, 177. I. L. R., 1 All., 610. Act IV, 1877, ss. 81, 178. 1 Bom. 238.

548. Subject to the provisions hereinbefore contained, no finding, sentence or order passed by a Court of competent jurisdiction shall be reversed or altered under Chapter XXVII or on appeal or revision on account—of any error, omission or irregularity in the complaint, summons or charge, judgment or other proceedings before or during trial, or of the want of any sanction required by section 196, or of any misdirection in any charge to a jury, unless such error, omission, irregularity, want or misdirection has occasioned a failure of justice.

Finding or sentence when reversible by reason of error or omission in charge or proceedings.

Act IV, 1877, s. 185, para. 5.

549. No distress made under this Code shall be deemed unlawful, nor shall any person making the same be deemed a trespasser, on account of any defect or want of form in the summons, conviction, writ of distress or other proceedings relating thereto.

Distress not illegal nor distrainer a trespasser for defect of form in proceedings.

CHAPTER XLVII.

With the previous sanction of the Local Government, every High Court not established by Royal Charter may from time to time—

Power of certain High Courts to make rules for other purposes.

(a) make rules for regulating its own practice and proceedings and the practice and proceedings of all Criminal Courts subordinate to it;

(b) make rules for keeping all books, entries and accounts to be kept in all Criminal Courts subordinate to it, and for the preparation and transmission of any returns or statements to be prepared and submitted by such Courts; and

(c) frame forms for every proceeding in the said Courts for which it thinks that a form should be provided:

Provided that the rules and forms made and framed under this section shall not be inconsistent with this Code or any other law in force for the time being.

All rules made under this section shall be published in the official Gazette.

565. Subject to the power conferred by section 564, and by the twenty-fourth and twenty-fifth of Victoria, chapter 104, section 15, the forms set forth in the fifth schedule hereto annexed, with such variation as the circumstances of each case require, shall be used for the respective purposes therein mentioned.

See Act X, 1872, ss. 443, 493, para. 1, 509, para. 2; and Act IV, 1877, s. 97.

Forms.

566. The Local Government may determine what, for the purposes of this Code, shall be deemed to be the language of each Court within the territories administered by such Government, other than the High Courts established by Royal Charter.

Act X, 1872, s. 337.

Power to decide language of the Court.

567. All powers conferred by this Code on the Local Government may be exercised from time to time as occasion requires.

Powers of Local Government exercisable from time to time.

568. The provisions of this Code shall apply, so far as may be, to all cases pending in any Criminal Court when this Code comes into force and to all miscellaneous criminal cases and proceedings instituted in any Court.

Act X, 1872, ss. 3, 539. Act IV, 1877, ss. 5, 237.

Pending cases and miscellaneous proceedings.

If any doubt arises as to the procedure to be followed in any case or class of cases under this section, the Court shall be guided by such rules consistent with this Code as the High Court may from time to time make in this behalf.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

No less than three Codes of Criminal Procedure are now in operation in British India: Act X of 1872, amended by Act XI of 1874, which is in force throughout the Mufassal; the High Courts' Act, X of 1875, which is in force in the Presidency-towns, Allahabad and Lahore; and the Presidency Magistrates' Act, IV of 1877, also in force in the Presidency-towns.

Many of the provisions of these Codes merely repeat one another; many of their rules, though dealing with the same subjects, unnecessarily vary in language; and the result is that the bulk of the Indian Statute-book is far greater than need be and that the Courts when construing one Code are often deprived of the guidance of prior decisions on another.

The primary object of this Bill, which has been framed at the suggestion of the Secretary of State, is to recast the Code of 1872, combining with it the substance of the High Courts' Act and the Presidency Magistrates' Act, and incorporating in it the numerous reported decisions on its wording, and thus at last give to India a single and complete Code of Criminal Procedure, and carry out, so far, the policy of providing a simple and uniform system of law for this country. The language and arrangement of Act X of 1872 have, for obvious reasons, been departed from only so far as is necessary for the main purpose of the Bill.

2. Though many of the outlying Acts and Regulations dealing with Criminal Procedure were repealed and re-enacted by Act X of 1872, many more are still untouched, and the secondary object of the present Bill is to consolidate these enactments, which are twelve in number:—

Acts.

XXIII of 1840 (Execution of process).
XXXIV of 1850 (State-Prisoners).
III of 1858 (State Prisoners).
V of 1861, sections 6, 24, 37 to 40 inclusive, part of section 35 (Police).
XVIII of 1862 (Administration of Criminal Justice in the High Courts).
II of 1869 (Justices of the Peace).
XXII of 1870, sections 2 and 4 (Application to European British subjects of Acts giving summary jurisdiction).
XXI of 1879, Chapter III (Inquiries in British India into crimes committed abroad by British subjects).

Regulations.

Bengal Regulation III, 1818 (State-Prisoners).
Bengal Regulation XX, 1825 (Jurisdiction of Courts Martial).
Madras Regulation II, 1819 (State-Prisoners).
Bombay Regulation XXV, 1827 (State-Prisoners).

3. The result of consolidating the Acts and Regulations above specified will be to substitute a single Act of 568 sections for fifteen enactments containing 1,055 unrepealed sections.

4. The present Bill is divided into nine Parts, the first containing the usual preliminary matter; the second dealing with the constitution and powers of the Criminal Courts and offices; the third containing some general provisions; the fourth treating of the prevention of offences; the fifth, of information to the Police and of their powers to investigate; the sixth, of proceedings in prosecutions; the seventh, of appeal, reference and revision; the eighth, of special proceedings; the ninth, of supplementary provisions.

I.—Preliminary.

5. Part I consists of a single chapter containing the usual preliminary matter. The wording of some of the definitions in Act X of 1872 has been amended, and definitions of 'to sign,' 'public prosecutor,' 'pleader,' 'offence,' 'chapter,' 'schedule,' 'place,' and 'police-station' have been added. The definition of 'complaint' has been amended so as to exclude the report of a Police-officer and information given to a Police-officer; and the definition of 'investigation' has been extended so as to comprise the proceedings of persons authorized by a Magistrate under section 160 or 203 to make local investigations. The definition of 'cognizable offence' has been amended so as to connect it with the second schedule. A clause has been added to the definition of 'High Court' so as to enable the Governor General in Council to appoint in outlying territories where no such Court is established by law, an officer to perform its functions under the Code. Words such as 'special law,' 'local law,' defined in the Penal Code will have the meanings attached to them respectively by that Code. On the other hand, the definitions of 'inquired into,' 'trial,' 'Magistrate's case,' have been omitted as not needed in the Code in its revised form.

II.—Criminal Courts.

6. Part II (constitution and powers of the Criminal Courts and offices) consists of two chapters, of which the first deals (a) with the classes of Criminal Courts, (b) with territorial divisions, (c) with Courts outside the Presidency-towns, (d) with the Courts of the Presidency Magistrates, (e) with Justices of the Peace and (f) with the suspension and removal of Judges, Magistrates and Justices of the Peace. The provisions of the Police Act (V of 1861), section 6, have been incorporated in this chapter, section 14. The Local Government has been empowered (section 16) to make rules for the guidance of Magistrates' Benches. This will result in uniformity of practice wherever such uniformity is desirable. Assistant Sessions Judges have been declared (section 17) subordinate to the Sessions Judge in whose Court they exercise jurisdiction. This will preclude a doubt which has been raised on the subject.

The second chapter treats of the powers of Judges and Magistrates, the description of offences cognizable by each Court, the sentences which may be passed by Courts of various classes, and the mode of conferring powers on the latter. The changes of the law here made are little more than verbal, save in the following cases. Magistrates of the first class are forbidden (section 29) to try offences under special or local laws which are punishable with imprisonment for seven years: such grave cases should be tried by a higher Court. All Magistrates of the first and second classes, and all Magistrates of the third class when specially empowered, are to have the powers of an officer in charge of a Police-station (section 38). It is desirable that the police powers which Magistrates can exercise in investigating offences should be clearly defined. In section 40 (= Act X of 1872, section 56), as to the continuance of powers of an officer transferred to another local area, words have been introduced to shew that powers conferred by one Local Government do not accompany an officer, when he is transferred to a province under another Local Government.

In connection with section 33, as to power to sentence to imprisonment in default of payment of fine, it will be necessary to pass simultaneously with the Bill a short Act amending section 67 of the Penal Code, by inserting a declaration that such imprisonment shall be simple.

Section 35 declares, in accordance with a decision of the Bombay High Court, that, for the purpose of confirmation or appeal, a combined sentence, in case of simultaneous convictions for several offences, shall be deemed to be a single sentence.

III.—General Provisions.

7. Part III contains certain general provisions which it seems convenient to group together and which, to avoid forward references, must stand near the beginning of the Code. They relate to the following matters: aid and information to the Magistrates, the Police and persons making arrests: arrest, escape and retaking: processes to compel appearance and production of documents, and processes for the discovery of persons wrongfully confined. Here, again, the changes in the law are little more than verbal. But to the offences which the public are bound to assist in preventing, have been added (section 42) attempts to injure public property, railways and canals: the public (section 42) must assist in cases of fire dangerous to human life or valuable property: the section (45) requiring village-headmen, &c., to report, has, for obvious reasons, been extended to escaped convicts and proclaimed offenders, and (to provide for villages in hill-passes through which bands of dacoits habitually proceed), also to cases where the criminal merely goes through the village: the section (46) authorizing, in the case of forcible resistance, the use of necessary means to effect arrests, has been extended to meet the case of attempts to evade them: power has been given (section 49) to break open the doors of a house for the purpose of liberating persons who have lawfully entered for the purpose of making arrests therein: persons making arrests have been expressly empowered (section 53) to take from the person arrested any offensive weapons which he may have about him: the police have been authorized (section 54) to arrest, without warrant, deserters from the Navy; and sections (66, 67) equivalent to Act XXV of 1861, section 112, have been inserted to provide for the retaking of persons escaping or rescued from lawful custody.

The wording of section 178 of the present Code, which empowers the police to use "all means necessary to effect the arrest" of a person forcibly resisting or attempting to escape, appears dangerously wide. The Bill accordingly explains that this power does not give the right to cause the death of an arrested person who is not accused of a capital offence. The Bill here follows the law of Scotland, which, in Mr. Mayne's opinion, is in India the safer rule.

8. Under the present Code (Act X of 1872, section 153), summonses issued by Magistrates are ordinarily served "through a Police-officer:" the Bill (section 68) provides that (subject to rules to be made by the Local Government) they may also be served by an officer of the Court. Provision is made (sections 73, 74) for the service of a summons outside the local jurisdiction of the Magistrate who issues it, and for the proof of such service.

9. Section 75 requires that all warrants of arrest, whether issued in the Presidency-towns or the Mufassal, shall be sealed. Act IV of 1877, section 56, does not in such cases require a seal. Warrants of arrest issued by a Bench of Magistrates may be signed by any member of the Bench. This will legalise what probably is the practice at present.

Sub-divisional Magistrates have been empowered (section 78) to direct warrants to land-holders, &c., for the arrest of escaped convicts. This extension is in harmony with the large powers generally possessed by Magistrates in charge of sub-divisions.

10. Section 88 clears up a doubt as to the commencement of the period provided in the corresponding section (171) of Act X of 1872, for the appearance of a person absconding against whom a warrant has been issued.

11. On the other hand, the power to arrest without warrant persons against whom a hue and cry has been raised is omitted, as that obsolete common-law process is unknown in India; and the section authorizing masters and mates to arrest deserters from ships is omitted, as the matter is sufficiently provided for by the Merchant Shipping Act.

12. The present Code does not provide how attachment of debts and other moveable property is to be effected. Provision has, therefore, been made (section 89) for this purpose; and the powers, duties and liabilities of receivers have been declared by reference to the Code of Civil Procedure.

13. A person required merely to produce a document will (as under the Civil Procedure Code, section 164) be deemed to have complied with the requisition, if he causes the document to be produced instead of attending personally to produce it (section 95).

14. Section 99 of the Bill has been retained pending the opinion of Local Governments as to the expediency of its retention. It seems to be rendered superfluous by section 97.

Provision is made (section 104) for making a list (signed by witnesses) of things found in execution of a search-warrant beyond the jurisdiction of the Court issuing it. It is believed that the necessity of obtaining the signature of the witnesses will be of use as a check upon the irregularities which, it is said, sometimes occur in the course of searches. Criticism of this proposed change in the law is solicited.

15. A clause (section 101) has been inserted giving Presidency Magistrates, Magistrates of the first class, and Sub-divisional Magistrates, power to issue warrants to search for persons wrongfully confined. No such power, though needed, is supposed to exist in India, except, of course, in the Presidency-towns, where the High Courts issue, under Act X of 1875, directions of the nature of a habeas corpus.

IV.—Prevention of Offences.

16. Part IV, which relates to the prevention of offences, comes, it is considered, properly before Part VI, which relates to their prosecution. It comprises six chapters dealing respectively with security for keeping the peace and for good behaviour; the dispersion of unlawful assemblies; suppression of nuisances; disputes as to immoveable property; and, lastly, the preventive action of the Police.

17. In the chapter relating to security for keeping the peace, and for good behaviour, the section (107) dealing with security for keeping the peace on conviction has been extended to cases in which the accused is convicted of criminal intimidation by threatening injury to person or property. This is an offence of the same nature as taking unlawful measures with the intention of committing a breach of the peace, and should, therefore, as regards the taking of security, be placed on the same footing. When the conviction is set aside on appeal or otherwise, the bond will become void. On this the present law is silent.

In section 111 (= sections 505, 506 of the present Code) the words which give the Magistrate power to demand security from persons of notoriously bad livelihood or of a "dangerous character" have been omitted. It has been objected that these words are vague, and that the powers which they place in the hands of the police are liable to great abuse.

The Magistrate is empowered (section 113) to make an order as to the character and class of the sureties required. This, it is hoped, will prevent certain persons making a trade of becoming sureties. The object of the law (as will be seen from section 399 of the present Code) is not merely to provide a money-security, but also to obtain respectable persons as guarantees for the good behaviour of the criminal concerned.

For the purposes of the section (118) as to enquiring into the truth of the information upon which a Magistrate has acted under this chapter, the fact that a person is an habitual offender may be proved by evidence of general repute.

The Bill contains no provision corresponding to sections 499 of the present Code and 211 of the Presidency Magistrates' Act. If, before the expiration of the term of the original bond, it appears to the Magistrate unsafe to release the obligor at the end of that term, in justice to the obligor fresh proceedings should be instituted.

Some change has been made (section 118) in the manner of conducting inquiries regarding security for good behaviour. They will under the Bill be made as in warrant-cases, instead of as in summons-cases, which is now the practice. Where the person who would otherwise be ordered to give security is a minor, the bond (section 119) will be executed only by his sureties. It has been made clear in section 127 that a Presidency Magistrate, District Magistrate, Sub-divisional Magistrate, and Magistrate of the first class can cancel a bond on the application of a surety. Sub-divisional Magistrates are empowered (section 110) to require security for good behaviour.

18. In the chapter (IX) on dispersion of unlawful assemblies, volunteers enrolled under the Indian Volunteers Act, 1869, are placed on the same footing as soldiers of Her Majesty's Army.

19. In Chapter X, section 134 has been extended to cases of keeping goods or merchandise injurious to the public health, and of carrying on occupations offensive to the religious feelings of any considerable section of the community. Criticism is invited on the latter alteration, which is intended to meet such cases as that of a butcher exercising his trade in a Hindú town, so as to cause risk of breach of the peace.

The power conferred by section 518 of the present Code is intended to be exercised only in urgent cases where a speedy remedy is desirable. The Bill (section 145) provides that no orders under Chapter XI shall remain in force for more than two months, unless in case of danger to human life, health or safety, or a riot or affray, the Local Government directs otherwise. Where time allows the procedure must be under Chapter X.

20. Chapter XII, on disputes as to immoveable property, has been expressly restricted to cases in which the dispute is as to the right to physical possession.

Doubts have been raised as to whether the report of the person deputed (under section 149) to make a local inquiry may be read as evidence in the case. The Bill now settles this in the affirmative.

V.—Information to the Police, and their power to investigate.

21. Part V consists of a single chapter relating to information to the Police and their power to investigate. It corresponds with Chapter X of Act X of 1872, and sections 379 and 380 of the same Act.

22. The words "or that immediate arrest is not necessary," which are to be found in section 117 of Act X of 1872, have been omitted from section 158 of the Bill, as it is not apparent why a Police-officer should be debarred from investigating a case of a cognizable offence because he does not at starting feel himself justified in arresting any person.

23. Section 165 makes it clear that confessions to Magistrates shall not only be "taken," but signed and certified, like examinations of accused persons. In the form of memorandum relating to confessions words have been introduced to show that the confession was taken in the Magistrate's presence and hearing, and that it contains a full and true account of the statement.

24. The sections (166 and 167) dealing with searches by the police have been amended so as to meet difficulties which have arisen in practice. Section 168 has also been amended. On the one hand, there is strong objection to allowing extraordinary powers to be exercised by a Police-officer [illegible] for the Magistrate, whose presence on the spot may be indispensable for securing evidence or recovering property, might be a serious impediment to justice. Under proper precautions, the retention of the accused for sufficient reasons will, as now, be allowed, but the period of detention has been limited to fifteen days in the whole.

25. Power resembling that conferred on Coroners by Act IV of 1871, section 11, has been given (section 177) to Magistrates authorized to hold inquests, to disinter and examine corpses in order to discover the cause of death.

VI.—Proceedings in Prosecutions.

26. Part VI treats of proceedings in prosecutions up to appeal, and is divided into sixteen chapters, arranged as follows:—

XV. Jurisdiction of Criminal Courts in Inquiries and Trials.
XVI. Complaints to Magistrates.
XVII. Commencement of Proceedings before Magistrates.
XVIII. Inquiry into cases triable by the Court of Session or High Court.
XIX. The Charge.
XX. Trial of Summons-Cases by Magistrates.
XXI. Trial of Warrant-Cases by Magistrates.
XXII. Summary Trials.
XXIII. Trials before High Courts and Courts of Session.
XXIV. General Provisions as to Inquiries and Trials.
XXV. Evidence.
XXVI. The Judgment.
XXVII. Submission of Sentences for Confirmation.
XXVIII. Execution.
XXIX. Suspensions, Remissions and Commutations of Sentences.
XXX. Previous Acquittals or Convictions.

It will be seen that the above-mentioned chapters are arranged, as nearly as may be, according to the chronological order of the events in a prosecution.

27. Chapter XV (as to the jurisdiction of the Courts in inquiries and trials) deals, first, with the place of inquiry or trial: and, secondly, with the conditions requisite for the initiation of proceedings.

Sections 9 and 10 of the Foreign Jurisdiction Act (XXI of 1879), which deal respectively with the liability of British subjects for offences committed out of British India, and with the reception in evidence of depositions made before Political Agents, have been transferred to this part of the Code (sections 189 and 190), which is obviously their proper place.

28. To the provisions contained in the existing law regarding the transfer of cases, there has been added a clause, providing that, when any Magistrate of the first class, specially empowered in this behalf by the Magistrate of a district, has taken cognizance of any case, he may transfer it for inquiry or trial to any other competent Magistrate in such district. This will enable such Magistrates to distribute the work in their Courts, when it is necessary to do so, with less delay than at present.

29. Section 196 requires that the sanction to entertain complaints of certain offences shall, so far as practicable, specify the place in which, and the occasion on which, the offence complained of was committed. Provision has been made for the revocation of the sanction by any authority to which the authority giving it is subordinate. And in order to remove doubts which have been felt on the point, it is declared that, for the purposes of this section, every Court shall be deemed to be subordinate to the Court to which appeals from the former Court ordinarily lie.

30. Chapter XVI, of complaints to Magistrates, corresponds to sections 144 to 147 of Act X of 1872, but adds (section 202) a provision that a complaint in writing made to a Magistrate not competent to entertain it shall be returned for presentation to the proper tribunal.

The Bill makes it clear that the power (section 203) to postpone the issue of process cannot be exercised by a Magistrate of the third class.

31. In Chapter XVIII, of inquiry into cases triable by the Court of Session or High Court, power is given (section 210) to the Magistrate to discharge the accused at any stage of the case if, for reasons to be recorded, the Magistrate considers the charge to be groundless.

32. Chapter XIX, of the charge, extends to the whole of British India the amendments in Act X of 1872, sections 439 to 459, made by Act X of 1875; and with reference to Mr. Justice West's observations in Reg. v. Chanji Hur, 11 Bomb. 241, on the corresponding section (457) of Act X of 1872, section 239 of the Bill has been confined to offences consisting of several particulars, a combination of some only of which constitutes a complete minor offence.

From the section (236) relating to joinder of charges, corresponding with section 454 of the present Code, have been omitted all provisions as to the amount of punishment. They obviously belong to substantive law, not to procedure, and will find their proper place in the Penal Code. The illustrations have also been amended.

Provision has been made in section 239 for the case where a person charged with an offence proves circumstances which reduce it to a minor offence. He may then be convicted of the minor offence, though he is not charged with it.

33. Chapter XX, Trial of Summons-cases.—To the section (251) relating to frivolous and vexatious complaints, a clause has been added, providing that, when awarding compensation in any subsequent civil suit relating to the same matter, the Court shall take into account any sum paid or recovered as compensation under this section.

34. In Chapter XXI, of trials of warrant-cases, as in Chapter XVIII, has been inserted a clause (section 254) authorizing the Magistrate to discharge the accused at any stage of the case if, for reasons to be recorded, the Magistrate considers the charge to be groundless. The provision (Act X of 1872, section 218) that the accused shall, while making his defence, be allowed to recall and cross-examine the witnesses for the prosecution, has been expressly confined (section 257) to cases where the witnesses are present in the Court or its precincts. The power to recall witnesses for the prosecution after they had left the Court is said to be often abused for the purpose of harassment and delay.

35. In Chapter XXII, summary trials, the Local Government has been authorized to confer on Benches invested with second or third class powers jurisdiction to try abetments of, and attempts to commit, the offences which they may now try summarily. The offences of retaining stolen property not exceeding Rs. 50 in value, and assisting in the concealment or disposal of stolen property not exceeding Rs. 50 in value, have been added to the list of those triable in a summary way; and the offence of receiving stolen property will not be so triable where its value exceeds that amount.

36. Chapter XXIII provides a common procedure for the High Court and the Court of Session, preserving, however, the special rules as to juries and their verdicts.

The power to stay proceedings on an unsustainable charge has been extended (section 274) to the Court of Session.

The power of directing how jurors shall be chosen by lot has been transferred to the High Court from the Local Government (section 277).

Where there are several accused persons and one of them has stated that he means to adduce evidence, the prosecutor (section 293) will be entitled to reply.

Where jurors or assessors have been taken to view the place in which the offence charged is alleged to have been committed, the Court has been empowered (section 294) to exempt them from being immediately brought back.

Where the Sessions Judge disagrees with a verdict of acquittal and submits the case to the High Court, he is required (section 308) to state the offence which he considers to have been committed, and the High Court is empowered to acquit or convict the accused of any offence of which the jury could have convicted him upon the charge framed and placed before it. This, it is believed, is the intention of the corresponding clause of section 263 of Act X of 1872.

37. Chapter XXIV, General Provisions as to Inquiries and Trials.—At the instance of many authorities consulted, the power of tendering conditional pardons to accomplices, which is now exerciseable only in cases triable by the Sessions Court, has been extended (section 337) to all warrant-cases. This change, which has been advocated by many authorities, is an important one, and further opinions on its propriety are desirable.

38. Much doubt exists as to the offences which may lawfully be compounded. The Exception to section 214 of the Penal Code (in which the law on the subject is contained) is excessively obscure, and this obscurity is increased rather than diminished by the illustrations annexed to that section. The Bill repeals these illustrations; and section 345 declares in unmistakeable language that certain specified offences, and no others, may be compounded. These are—

Causing hurt (Penal Code, sections 323, 334, 337, 338).
Wrongfully restraining or confining (Penal Code, sections 341, 342).
Assault or use of criminal force (Penal Code, sections 352, 358).
Unlawful compulsory labour (Penal Code, section 374).
Mischief, when the loss or damage is caused to a private person (Penal Code, sections 426, 427).
Criminal trespass and house-trespass (Penal Code, sections 447, 448).
Criminal breach of contract of service (Penal Code, sections 490, 491, 492).
Adultery, and enticing, &c., a married woman (Penal Code, sections 497, 498).
Defamation (Penal Code, section 500).
Printing or engraving defamatory matter (Penal Code, section 501).
Sale of printed or engraved substance containing defamatory matter (Penal Code, section 502).
Insult intended to provoke a breach of the peace (Penal Code, section 504).
Criminal intimidation, except when the offence is punishable with imprisonment for seven years (Penal Code, section 506).

[illegible] with the punishment of [illegible] the person cheated, as the case may be.

It will be necessary to pass simultaneously with the Bill a short Act declaring that, for the Exception to section 280 of the Penal Code, the following shall be substituted:—

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

39. In Chapter XXVI, as to judgment, section 367 allows the judgments of Mufassal Courts to be written in the mother-tongue of the presiding officer.

40. Chapter XXVIII, Execution.—In section 395 (= section 313 of the present Code) the imprisonment which may be inflicted in lieu of whipping has been limited to three months; but on the other hand, the proviso that the whole period of imprisonment to which the offender is sentenced shall not exceed that to which he was liable by law, or that which the Court is competent to award, has been cancelled, and the power to imprison is thus extended. Criticism is sought on this alteration.

41. There are no sections in this chapter corresponding with sections 319, 320 of Act X of 1872. The reason for this omission is that the matter with which they deal does not belong to criminal procedure, but falls within the scope of the Prisoners' Act, 1871; and it is proposed that, simultaneously with the passing of the present Bill, a short Act be passed, substituting for section 33 of the Prisoners' Act a section equivalent to Act X of 1872, sections 319, 320.

42. Chapter XXIX, Suspensions, Remissions and Commutations of Sentences.—Where application is made for the suspension or remission of a sentence, the Government is empowered (section 401) to require the presiding Judge of the Court before which the conviction was had to furnish a statement of the facts proved on the trial, and of any facts bearing on the propriety of granting or refusing the application.

The power of the Government to commute punishment (section 402) has been so worded as to authorize a sentence of rigorous, to be commuted to one of simple, imprisonment.

VII.—Appeal, Reference and Revision.

43. Part VII deals with appeals, references and the revisional jurisdiction of the High Court.

44. Chapter XXXI.—An appeal has been given (section 405) from orders rejecting applications for delivery of attached property.

45. Section 408 provides that the appeal from a District Magistrate exercising the enhanced powers conferred under section 34 shall lie to the Court of Session in cases in which the sentence has not been submitted to that Court for confirmation, and, when it has been so submitted, to the High Court. This puts the appeals in question on the same footing as appeals from an Assistant Sessions Judge. There seems to be no reason for making any distinction between the two.

46. Section 423, in accordance with a decision of the Madras High Court (I. L. R. 1 Mad. 54), declares that, when an Appellate Court enhances any punishment inflicted by the sentence appealed against, it may inflict punishment of a different kind.

47. In the case of an appeal from an acquittal, section 427 expressly authorizes the High Court to order the accused to be arrested and brought before it, and to commit him to prison pending the disposal of the appeal, or admit him to bail. In the absence of this power cases have occurred in which criminals, afraid of the result of the appeal, escaped, and made the appeal on behalf of the Government of no avail.

48. A section (431) suggested by a decision of the Bombay High Court (I. L. R. 2 Bomb. 564) provides that appeals by persons required to give security for good behaviour or by convicted persons abate on their death, and that appeals against acquittals abate on the death of the accused. The power of revision conferred by section 439 will enable the High Court, where justice to the family of the convicted person may so require, to alter his sentence even after the appeal has abated.

49. Chapter XXXII.—Sub-divisional Magistrates empowered by the Local Government in this behalf are authorized (section 435) to call for records of inferior Courts. This is in accordance with the powers of control in other respects which they exercise.

50. Where, in the opinion of the Court of Session or District Magistrate, an accused person has been improperly discharged by an inferior Court, the accused should not be committed without having had an opportunity of shewing cause why the committal should not be made (1 O'K. 98). Provision to this effect has been made by section 436.

51. When the Court of Session or District Magistrate reports for the orders of the High Court the results of examining any proceeding, and recommends that a sentence be reversed, the Court of Session or District Magistrate may order (section 438) its execution to be suspended, and the accused, if in confinement, to be released on bail or on his own bond.

52. Section 439 (corresponding with Act X of 1872, section 297) has been framed so as to allow the High Court, when exercising its revisional jurisdiction, to interfere with improper acquittals. There is reason to believe that this change is in accordance with the intention of the framers of Act X of 1872.

53. Where the High Court exercises its powers of revision, no order (section 440) will be made to the prejudice of the accused, unless he has had an opportunity of being heard.

VIII.—Special Proceedings.

54. Part VIII, as to special proceedings, deals with the procedure relating to the following matters:—criminal proceedings against Europeans and Americans: lunatics: contempts of Court and other offences affecting the administration of justice: maintenance of wives and children: State-prisoners: proceedings in the nature of habeas corpus.

55. Chapter XXXIII.—Section 451 removes some unnecessary differences which exist in the present law between the procedure of the High Courts and Courts of Session in cases in which European British subjects are concerned. In particular, it is provided that, in the Court of Session as well as in the High Court, the requisite moiety of the jury or assessors may be made up by Americans as well as Europeans. Under the present Code (section 78), the trial of a European British subject before the Court of Session need not be by jury. But under section 284 an European or American, not being a British subject, has an absolute right to be so tried. The Bill omits the latter provision.

56. Chapter XXXIV.—The power given by sections 433 and 434 of Act X of 1872, to discharge from custody or make over to his relative a person acquitted on the ground of insanity, has been extended, in sections 474 and 475, to the case of persons who, being found to be insane at the time of trial, are committed to custody.

57. Chapter XXXV.—This chapter (sections 476, 478, 479, 480, 482) has been expressly made applicable to Revenue Courts.

Section 477 has been framed so as to allow a Court of Session to charge a person for giving false evidence before itself,—a power of which such Courts were unintentionally deprived by section 472 of the present Code.

Where the Local Government so directs, Sub-Registrars will (section 483) be 'Civil Courts' within the meaning of section 480. The position and qualifications of Sub-Registrars vary in different provinces; but, in some parts of the country, they are believed to be fitted for the exercise of these powers.

Section 486 gives an appeal to the High Court from a conviction in a contempt case by a Court of Small Causes in a Presidency-town.

Section 487 has been redrawn so as to avoid the difficulty which is felt in determining the meaning of the words "offence committed in contempt of its own authority," which occur in the corresponding section (473) of Act X of 1872.

IX.—Supplementary Provisions.

58. Part IX contains certain provisions supplementary to the general rules of procedure contained in the Code. It deals, first, with the public prosecutor, bail, commissions for the examination of witnesses and special rules of evidence. It then contains certain provisions relating to bonds to keep the peace, for good behaviour, for appearance, &c.: the disposal of property regarding which an offence has been committed: the transfer of criminal cases: irregular proceedings; and, lastly, certain miscellaneous matters.

59. Chapter XXXIX, Public Prosecutor.—Power has been given to appoint as public prosecutor, in any case committed to the Session Court, a Police-officer not below the rank of Assistant District Superintendent. The entire exclusion of the police from such a function is, in the opinion of many authorities, inexpedient. With the limitation above described, there will be no fear of intimidation of witnesses or undue influence.

60. Section 505 exempts the Advocate General, Standing Counsel, Government Solicitor or other officer empowered by the Local Government from the necessity of obtaining permission to conduct prosecutions.

61. Chapter XL, Bail.—The powers here given to Police-officers have been expressly confined to officers in charge of Police-stations.

62. Chapter XLI, Commissions for Examination of Witnesses.—The provisions of the present law as to commissions for the examination of witnesses have been amended in four respects. Where the witness resides in a Native State, power has been given (section 513) to issue the commission to the Political Agent or other local officer representing the British Government. Section 515 requires that the interrogatories shall be thought relevant by the Magistrate or Court directing the commission. Where a Subordinate Magistrate wishes for a commission, he will (section 516) apply to the District Magistrate, and not (as at present) to the Sessions Judge: this will relieve the Court of Session of a duty which can be more conveniently performed by the District Magistrate. And power is expressly given (section 518) to stay the inquiry or trial for a specified time reasonably sufficient for the execution and return of the commission.

63. Chapter XLII, Special Rules as to Evidence.—In proving the existence of circumstances as a defence under the 2nd, 3rd, 5th, 6th, 7th, 8th, 9th or 10th Exception to section 499 of the Penal Code, section 521 of the Bill provides that good faith shall be presumed until the contrary appears. This is now the law in the Presidency-towns (Act XVIII of 1862, section 27) and may usefully be extended to the Mufassal.

64. Chapter XLIV, Disposal of property produced under the Code.—In accordance with a recent rule of the High Court at Bombay, section 528 declares that, when a High Court or Court of Session makes an order for the disposal of property, and cannot through its own officers conveniently deliver the property to the person entitled thereto, the Court may direct its order to be carried into effect by the committing Magistrate.

65. Orders under section 528 made in appealable cases will not be carried out until the time allowed for appealing has expired, or, if an appeal is presented in due time, until the appeal is dismissed.

66. Where an innocent purchaser buys stolen property and restores it to the lawful possessor, provision has been made (section 530) for payment of the price out of money found on the convicted thief. This is in accordance with 30 & 31 Vic., cap. 35, section 10.

67. Section 532 provides, in case of a conviction under the Penal Code, sections 292, 293, 501 or 502, for the destruction of the obscene books and defamatory matter in respect of which the conviction was had. It also provides for the destruction of adulterated or noxious food, drink or drugs in respect of which a conviction was had under sections 272—275 of the same Code.

68. Chapter XLV, Transfer of Criminal Cases.—Section 537 provides, in accordance with a Minute of Sir B. Peacock, cited I. L. R. 1 Calc. 223, that applications to the High Court for the transfer of cases shall be made by motion supported by affidavit or affirmation. The High Court has been empowered to transfer cases where the transfer will promote the ends of justice.

69. Chapter XLVI, Irregular Proceedings.—Tender of pardon under Chapter XXIV, and sale of property under section 535 or section 536, have been added to the list of proceedings which will not be set aside merely on the ground of the Magistrate not being duly empowered.

70. Chapter XLVII, Miscellaneous.—Power has been given (section 552) to the Local Government to fix places of imprisonment or custody. Moneys (other than fines) payable by virtue of any order made under the Code will be recoverable as if they were fines (section 558). The power to compel restoration of abducted females, which now exists only in the Presidency-towns, has been extended (section 562) to District Magistrates. Power has been given to the High Courts (section 564) to make rules for the inspection of the records of subordinate Courts. And as to miscellaneous criminal proceedings, if any doubt arise as to the procedure to be followed, the Court will be guided by such rules (consistent with the Code) as the High Court may make in this behalf (section 568). The Bill contains no clause equivalent to Act I of 1868, section 5, although similar provisions are contained in each of the Codes now consolidated (X of 1872, section 309, X of 1875, section 107, IV of 1877, section 12). The matter will be provided for by the Bill above-mentioned, to amend the Penal Code.

Schedules.

71. Schedules II and V, which correspond respectively with Schedules IV and II of Act X of 1872, have been altered so as to adapt them, not only to the Mufassal Courts, but to those of the Presidency Magistrates. The latter schedule now contains no less than 56 forms, which have stood the test of practice in the Presidency of Madras and the Panjáb.

The offence of voluntarily causing hurt has been made one for which the police may not arrest without a warrant. A like change has been made as to voluntarily causing hurt on grave and sudden provocation, not intending to hurt any other than the person who gave it. The numerous investigations by the police into charges of "hurt," which the present law renders necessary, are said to distract the attention of the police-force from more important duties, and to result in little good to the public.

The offence of adultery has been made triable by a Presidency Magistrate and a Magistrate of the first class.

The paragraph relating to mischief by fire with intent to cause damage has been altered in accordance with a proposed amendment of section 435 of the Penal Code. This alteration has been made in order to check the offence, which is very common in some parts of the country, of setting fire to garnered crops. A cultivator may have the whole of his crop destroyed in this way, and yet if its value be less than Rs. 100 (as is often the case) he cannot obtain the aid of the police to arrest the offender without a warrant from a Magistrate.

The lists of powers contained in section 21 et seq. of Act X of 1872 have been thrown into Schedules III and IV of the Bill.

72. The Bill was published in the Gazette of India for the 5th, 12th and 19th April 1879, and circulated to the various Local Governments, with a request that it might be examined by selected local officers. This was done, and the result of the examination is contained in a thick folio volume. The Bill was then revised with reference to this mass of criticism, and to the cases reported since it was framed; and it may truly be said, in its present form, to be the work of the whole body of Indian Judges and Magistrates rather than of any individual or Department. The additions and changes (other than omissions) which have been made in this second revision are printed in italics. The chief omission is that of the sections relating to limitation, which, in deference to many high authorities, have been struck out as unsuited to India.

73. It is proposed that the measure shall not come into force till 1st January 1883,—ten years from the date on which the present Code came into force. This is five years after the date on which, according to Sir FitzJames Stephen, the Code should have been re-enacted. "I should say," he writes in his well-known Minute on the Administration of Justice in British India, "that this process ought to be repeated at least once in every five years for every important Act."

74. Excluding the special provisions of the Acts relating respectively to Coroners, European British vagrants and criminal tribes, the Bill is now, so far as Mr. Cockerell, Mr. Colvin, Mr. Fitzpatrick and myself have been able to make it, a complete body of criminal procedure. No pains have been spared to render its provisions plain and practical; and in return all competent persons are earnestly asked to point out the mistakes and omissions which, notwithstanding the careful and repeated revision it has undergone, they will doubtless discover in so large and complicated a work.

CALCUTTA;
The 25th February, 1881.

WHITLEY STOKES.

D. FITZPATRICK,
Secretary to the Government of India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th March, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 9 OF 1881.

A Bill to amend the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879, and for other purposes.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend, in manner hereinafter appearing, the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879, and to give effect to the registration of certain instruments executed before the said Act came into force and required to be registered under section 71 of the same Act; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Short title. Commencement.

1. This Act may be called "The Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1881," and shall come into force at once.

"Section."

2. In this Act "section" means a section of the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879.

Repeal of last 14 words of section 2.

3. In section two the last fourteen words shall be repealed.

Amendment of section 19.

4. In section nineteen, first clause, for the words "there is no other claim against him," the words "the other debts (if any) due by him do not, taken together with such sum, amount to fifty rupees" shall be substituted; and to the same clause the words "of such sum" shall be added.

Addition to section 38.

5. To section thirty-eight, the following shall be added:—

"The expression 'officer of Police' in this section shall not be deemed to include a Police Patel appointed under Bombay Act No. VIII of 1867, (for the Regulation of the Village Police in the Presidency of Bombay)."

Amendment of section 46.

6. In section forty-eight after the word "suit" the words "or application" shall be inserted.

Addition to section 56.

7. To section fifty-six the following shall be added, namely,—

"or apply to any instrument which is not executed by an agriculturist otherwise than as a surety."

New section substituted for section 57.

8. For section fifty-seven the following section shall be substituted:—

"57. When any persons desire to execute any instrument to which section fifty-six applies, all the intending parties to such instrument shall appear before the Village Registrar appointed for the area in which the agriculturist, or when there are several agriculturists executing the instrument, any one of such agriculturists, resides, and such Registrar, after satisfying himself in such manner as he deems fit as to the identity of the intending executants and receiving from the intending parties the fee (if any) prescribed by the Local Government in this behalf, and the stamp (if any) which may be required by law, shall write the instrument, or cause the same to be written under his superintendence, and after reading the same aloud, or causing it to be so read in the hearing of the intending parties, shall require the intending executants to execute it in his presence.

Such instruments to be written by, or under the superintendence of, a Village Registrar and executed in his presence.

"Every instrument so written and executed shall at the time of execution be attested by the Village Registrar, and also, if any of the executants thereof is unable to read such instrument, by two respectable witnesses.

Attestation of such instruments.

"For the purposes of this section every executant of any such instrument shall appear in person before the Village Registrar, but every other party thereto may appear either in person or by any agent, being his relative, servant or dependent, whom he has duly furnished with a power of attorney authorizing him to appear and act on his behalf."

Amendment of section 58.

8. In section fifty-eight for the words "parties to any instrument have executed it," the words "intending executants have executed any instrument" shall be substituted.

New section substituted for section 71.

9. For section seventy-one the following section shall be substituted:—

"71. No instrument executed before the first day of November, 1879, and purporting to create any mortgage, lien or charge of, or upon, any immoveable property belonging to an agri-

All mortgages executed before the 1st November, 1879, to be produced before, and marked by, Village Registrar.

culturist, shall be received in evidence for any purpose by any person having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence, or shall be acted upon by any such person or by any public officer unless such instrument has, before the first day of November, 1881, been produced before the Village Registrar appointed for the area in which the agriculturist, or where there are several such agriculturists, any one of the agriculturists, to whom such property belongs, resides, and been marked by such Registrar in such manner as the Local Government may by rule prescribe:

"Provided that nothing in this section shall—

"(a) apply to an instrument purporting to create a mortgage, lien or charge in favour of the Government or of any officer of the Government in his official capacity; or

"(b) prevent the admission of any instrument in evidence in any criminal proceeding."

Amendment of section 72.

10. In section seventy-two the words "against an agriculturist" shall be omitted, and in the same section after the word "money," the words "from a person who at the time when the cause of action arose was an agriculturist" shall be inserted.

New section substituted for section 75.

11. For section seventy-five the following section shall be substituted:—

Additional power to make rules.

"75. The Local Government may, from time to time, make rules:—

"(a) for defining more precisely what classes of persons shall be deemed to be agriculturists for the purposes of this Act;

"(b) generally for carrying out the provisions of this Act."

Certain instruments to be deemed produced before Village Registrar and marked under section 71.

12. Every instrument described in section seventy-one, as amended by this Act, which, before the passing of this Act, has been registered by a Village Registrar in accordance with rules prescribed in this behalf by the Inspector General of Registration, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, shall be deemed to have been duly produced before the Village Registrar and marked by him under the provisions of that section.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Bombay Government have brought to notice difficulties in the working of the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, for the removal of which it appears necessary to make certain amendments in that Act, and to carry out those amendments this Bill has been prepared.

The first amendment provided for is in section 2 of the Act. That section enacts in effect that every agriculturist shall be deemed for the purposes of the Act to reside where he works as such. This rule is found to give rise to difficulty in the case of agriculturists holding land in more than one place, and it is accordingly proposed to repeal it altogether.

2. The first portion of section 19 of the Act confers on the Courts power to discharge an insolvent who owes a sum of less than fifty rupees under a decree, and against whom there is no other claim; but it makes no provision for the case of an insolvent judgment-debtor, against whom there are other claims, but of amounts so trifling that, taken with the amount of the decree, they do not amount to fifty rupees. There appears to be no reason why this latter case should not be treated on the same footing as the former, the insolvency chapter of the Bill being equally inapplicable to both, and the Bill accordingly amends the Act so as to give power to discharge the judgment-debtor from the balance due under the decree in either case.

3. Section 38 of the Act prohibits the appointment of "an officer of police" as a conciliator. A doubt has arisen as to whether a police patel is to be deemed an officer of police within the meaning of this provision, and at the instance of the local Government an explanation has been added to the section to show that he is not.

4. The amendment proposed in section 48 of the Act merely corrects an oversight in drafting.

5. The addition which it is proposed to make to section 56 of the Act, is intended to dispense with the necessity of having an instrument executed before the Village Registrar, merely because a party executing it as a surety is an agriculturist.

The changes made in sections 57 and 58 are intended merely to make the meaning clearer.

6. The new section, which it is proposed to substitute for section 71 of the Bill, differs materially from the original one, though the object of both is the same, viz., to prevent the fabrication of mortgage deeds purporting to have been executed before the Act came into force.

The section as it now stands in the Act aims at effecting this object by requiring all existing mortgage deeds to be registered before a certain date under the Indian Registration Act; but it has been found that the practical difficulties in the way of such registration are so great that it is necessary to abandon this procedure and substitute for it the simpler expedient proposed by the Bill, of requiring such deeds to be merely produced before and marked by the Village Registrar before a certain date.

7. Section 72 of the Act, which prescribes periods of limitation longer than the ordinary periods for certain suits against agriculturists, applies in every case in which the defendant is an agriculturist at the time the suit is instituted. This would, in some cases, where the defendant had become an agriculturist shortly before the institution of the suit, lead to anomalous results.

To prevent this the Bill amends the section, so that it will apply only when the defendant was an agriculturist at the time the cause of action arose.

8. Difficulties having arisen as to the construction of the definition of "agriculturist," section 75 of the Act, which gives the Local Government a power to make rules, has been recast so as to admit of rules being made, among other matters, to define more precisely what classes of persons shall be deemed to be agriculturists for the purposes of the Act.

9. Section 12 of the Bill is intended to put mortgage deeds, executed before the Act came into force, and registered under a system of questionable legality established by the Local Government, on the same footing as if they had been marked by the Registrar under the new section 71.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First Publication.]

The following Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th March, 1881 :—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Courts of Small Causes established in the Presidency-towns was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

From Acting Under Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 7519, dated 9th November 1880, and enclosures [Papers No. 1].
„ Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 2624, dated 2nd November, 1880, and enclosures [Papers No. 2].
„ Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 2662, dated 17th November, 1880, and enclosure [Papers No. 3].
„ D. Seely, Esq., Vakil, High Court, Bombay, dated 26th November, 1880 [Paper No. 4].
Note by Hon'ble J. Sewell White, Judge, High Court, Calcutta, dated 13th December, 1880 [Paper No. 5].
From Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 67J., dated 7th January, 1881, and enclosures [Papers No. 6].
„ J. Crawford, Esq., Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 970, dated 30th May, 1879 [Papers No. 7].
„ Ditto ditto, No. 279, dated 5th February, 1881 [Papers No. 7].
„ H. J. Stephen, Esq., Barrister-at-law, High Court, Calcutta, dated 10th February, 1881, and enclosure [Papers No. 8].

2. We have added a clause to section 6 of the Bill giving the High Courts the same powers over the Small Cause Courts as they have under the 15th section of the High Courts Act over Courts subject to their appellate jurisdiction.

3. We have altered the section (7) relating to the appointment of the Judges so as to provide that one-third at least of the Judges shall be advocates of a High Court. We think the professional members of the Court should be chosen from the advocates of the High Courts, who may be expected to have acquired some experience of the country.

4. The Bill as introduced made the rank and precedence of the Judges depend on the seniority of their appointment. This would not have answered, as it appears that each seat in the Court has a special rank and salary of its own, and the candidates for appointment are posted to particular seats in the Court with reference to their respective qualifications. The second Judge ought, therefore, always to rank above the third, the third above the fourth, and so on, without any reference to the dates of their appointment, and we have accordingly, in section 8, after providing that the Chief Judge shall be the first in rank, introduced words leaving it to the Local Government to fix the rank of the rest.

5. Another change we have made in the constitution of the Court established by the Bill as introduced, consists in the transfer to the Chief Judge of certain administrative powers, (see section 13 and also sections 61 and 62), which, we think, would be more efficiently exercised by a single individual.

6. The only other amendment we need notice in this portion of the Bill is the insertion of a clause in section 13, providing for the appointment of a Registrar and a section (14) empowering the Local Government to invest him with jurisdiction to try suits up to the limit of Rs. 20 in value. This amendment has been made at the instance of the Government of Bengal, and there is a precedent for it in the Mufassal Small Cause Courts Act No. XI of 1865.

7. Turning now to the chapter relating to jurisdiction in respect of suits, the first change we have made will be found in section 18 of the amended Bill (= section 16 of the Bill as introduced). The reasons given for framing that section as it originally stood are those given in the 7th paragraph of the Statement of Objects and Reasons :—

"Act IX of 1850, in conferring jurisdiction on the Courts up to a value of Rs. 500, confines its exercise to cases of defendants dwelling or carrying on business within the local limits. Act XXVI of 1864, on the other hand, in conferring jurisdiction between the values of Rs. 500 and Rs. 1,000, gives an alternative ground for its exercise, namely, the circumstance of the cause of action having arisen within the local limits. It has been urged by most of the authorities consulted that the basis of the jurisdiction should be the same in cases of all values. On the other hand, fears have been expressed by some that a power to institute a suit of the lower value against a defendant residing at a distance might be liable to abuse unless some limitation were imposed. The correct view of the matter seems to be that taken by the Judges of the Madras High Court and Mr. Busteed, namely, that in this particular no distinction should be made between the High Court and the Small Cause Court, and accordingly the Bill has been drawn so as to place the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court in this respect on precisely the same footing as that on which the jurisdiction of the High Court is placed by the Letters Patent."

The objection to the power to institute a suit in the Small Cause Court against a defendant residing at a distance has been again urged, and it is one to which we feel compelled to yield. We have accordingly inserted words requiring the leave of the Court to be obtained when it is proposed to institute a suit against a defendant residing beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction, and we have made this provision applicable to all suits without regard to value. The original scheme of putting the Small Cause Court jurisdiction on the same footing in this particular as the jurisdiction of the High Court being thus broken in upon, we have thought it best to bring the remainder of the section into conformity with the corresponding provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure.

8. In the following section, which excludes certain classes of suits from the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court, we have omitted the second clause, "suits against the Secretary of State in Council," as it appears to be generally objected to, and we have added the following :—

(1) suits for the specific performance or rescission of contracts generally (such suits are, as regards contracts relating to immoveable property, excluded by the Bill as introduced) ;
(2) suits for compensation for malicious prosecution ;
(3) suits for the cancellation or rectification of instruments ;
(4) suits relating to general average and to insurances on sea-going vessels ;
(5) suits for compensation in respect of collisions at sea ;
(6) suits for compensation for the infringement of a patent, copy-right or trade-mark ;
(7) suits for a dissolution of partnership or for an account of partnership transations ;
(8) suits for declaratory decrees ;
(9) suits in which the plaintiff's claim depends on the decision of a question as to religious rites or ceremonies ;
(10) suits for possession of a hereditary office ;
(11) suits against Sovereign Princes or Ruling Chiefs, or against Ambassadors or Envoys of Foreign States.

The reasons for excluding these suits are so obvious that it is unnecessary to state them.

9. We have struck out the second clause of section 21 (new numbering), which deprived a plaintiff of costs in certain cases if he elected to institute in the High Court a suit against an officer of the Small Cause Court for a wrong done by him under colour of its process. We think that in all such cases a plaintiff should be allowed a free choice.

10. We have also struck out the latter portion of section 22 (new numbering), which specified the grounds on which a Judge in other cases, in which suits cognizable in the Small Cause Court are instituted in the High Court, may certify for costs, as we think that in such a matter the Judge should be allowed a full discretion.

11. Proceeding next to chapter V relating to procedure in suits, we desire to state that we have most carefully considered the objections urged against the first section of that chapter which applies to the Small Cause Courts a large portion of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Those objections, in so far as they come from the public, proceed chiefly from those classes of persons who most frequently appear as plaintiffs in suits of a very simple description, and we can well understand the apprehension they feel that the application of so large portion of the ordinary procedure may, in suits of that class, give rise to complication and delay. But it must be remembered that the great bulk of the provisions so extended are of such a nature as to be applicable only in exceptional cases, and we think that any one who follows the thread of the provisions applicable to ordinary suits will find the procedure to be extremely simple. Moreover, we find that a considerable portion of the Code has been actually in force for some time past in the Madras Small Cause Court, where the statistics show the amount of work performed by each Judge to be as large as in the Small Cause Courts at Calcutta and Bombay, and we further find that the Judges of the Calcutta Small Cause Court themselves propose to apply with little variation the great bulk of the sections contained in the second schedule to this Bill.

12. We have, however, in deference to the apprehensions which have been expressed, gone through the schedule item by item, and have struck out some portions; among others those requiring copies of the plaint or concise statements to be filed with the plaint, those relating to discovery, those requiring judgments to be in writing, and the whole chapter relating to pauper suits.

We have, moreover, in order to relieve the Judges, inserted in the body of the Bill a section (35) based on section 637 of the Code, empowering the Court to direct that any non-judicial or quasi-judicial act which the Code requires to be done by a Judge shall be done by a ministerial officer, and we think that the procedure as now settled is as simple as it can safely be made, and as the majority of the litigants would desire it to be.

13. We have added a section providing that no decision passed under the Act shall be conclusive, except as to the right to the relief granted or the absence of a right to the relief withheld by it. This provision, which cuts away to a great extent the doctrine of res judicata, will doubt leave it open to persistent parties to litigate a matter which has already carefully considered and well decided; but we think it [illegible] this than to take the risk of having difficult questions of title to property of large value and complicated issues governing extensive transactions finally decided under an Act like this in the first petty case in which they may chance to present themselves.

14. We have extended section 27 (new numbering) to cases in which the plaintiff does not altogether fail in his suit, but fails to recover the full amount of his claim and to cases in which unfounded objections are made to the attachment of property in execution of decree.

15. Section 30 is new. The law, as it at present stands in this country, would appear to be peculiarly indulgent to tenants in the matter of the right to remove what they may have attached to the soil, and yet the holder of a decree of the Small Cause Court is probably precluded (unless he chooses to resort to the High Court) from taking in execution of such decree even some such things as might be taken under a fieri facias in England. It has, at all events, been held that though tenants in Calcutta have a right to remove "tiled huts," such huts cannot be taken in execution of decrees of the Small Cause Court. The landlords complain of this as a hardship, and we think not without reason; but the remedy should not, in our opinion, be limited to this particular case, and we have accordingly provided that anything which the tenant would be entitled to remove during his tenancy may be taken in the execution of a decree against him as if it were a moveable.

16. We have at the instance of the Judges of the Calcutta Small Cause Court substituted for the latter portion of section 230 of the Code a section (28) providing that no decree of a Small Cause Court shall be executed after the lapse of three years from the date on which it is passed, unless the judgment-debtor by force or fraud has prevented its execution within the three years.

17. We have, in section 34 of the Bill, restored section 31 of Act IX of 1850, which allows minors to sue for a sum not exceeding Rs. 500 due for wages, or piece-work or for work as a servant, as if they were of full age, but we have, to prevent mistake, expressly limited it to cases where such money is due under section 70 of the Contract Act, the only law, as we believe, under which a minor can now acquire a right to such money.

18. The only other amendment we have to notice in the chapter relating to procedure is the insertion of certain sections (36 to 38) providing for the exercise of the jurisdiction which may be conferred on the Registrar under section 14.

19. We have introduced a new chapter (VI) to include the section providing for a new trial and certain additional sections establishing a mode of having a suit of a value above Rs. 500, re-heard in the High Court, as if it had been instituted in that court. These sections, which have been proposed by Mr. Kennedy, are based on the provisions enacted by the 14th & 15th Vic. c. 57, for the Irish Civil Bill Courts, and they have in our opinion this advantage, that they provide, in cases where there has been a failure of justice, a substitute for an appeal without entailing the necessity of any elaborate record of evidence being kept by the Court below.

20. We have omitted the chapters which would have conferred on the Small Cause Courts jurisdiction in certain classes of insolvency and probate business, as we believe that unless the Court were to hear cases which, owing to their intricacy and difficulty, ought to be removed into the High Court, the saving of time to the High Court would be altogether unimportant. There is no doubt that the High Courts at present dispose of much petty business of these classes, but it is done for the most part in the offices of the Court, and costs the Judges little time or labour.

We may add that, so far as the grant of probates and letters of administration is concerned, we believe that the object in view will be better secured by the extension of the certificate system effected by Act No. IX of 1881.

21. We have confined section 59, which prevents the fees of a legal practitioner being recovered as costs unless his employment is held to be reasonable, to cases where the amount or value in dispute is less than Rs. 20. We do not see why in cases where a larger amount is at stake the ordinary rules as to allowing costs should not apply.

22. Lastly, we have inserted a section (72) to determine the functions of legal practitioners in the Small Cause Court. Its first clause provides that no persons other than advocates, attorneys and vakíls of the High Court and persons who are now pleaders of the Small Cause Court shall appear, plead or act in the Small Cause Court. We do not think it desirable to admit an inferior class of legal practitioners, whose business would be confined to the Small Cause Courts, and, accordingly, while we would save the rights of pleaders already admitted, we would bar the admission of any others.

The second clause of the section confines the right to conduct as counsel a suit at the hearing, in the extended jurisdiction now for the first time conferred on the Court, to advocates and vakíls of the High Court, and requires that a barrister so conducting a suit shall be instructed by an attorney or vakíl, or by a pleader of the Small Cause Court. The reasons for this latter requirement are obvious.

The section, it need hardly be mentioned, saves the right of parties to conduct their own cases, and appear for one another, and also the rights of recognized agents.

23. The publication of the Bill, with its Statement of Objects and Reasons, in English, has been reported by the Governments of Madras, Bombay and Bengal. We consider that the changes now made are such as to render its re-publication desirable; and we have accordingly altered the date on which it should come into force to the 1st January, 1882, and recommend that it now be re-published.

I THINK that the limit in section 22 ought to be reduced from Rs. 2,000 to 1,000. In other respects I agree in the report.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Courts of Small Causes established in the Presidency-towns.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Courts of Small Causes established in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay; It is hereby enacted as follows:— Preamble.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, 1881"; and it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1882. Commencement.

But nothing herein contained shall affect the provisions of the Army Discipline and Regulation Act, 1879, section 144.

Repeal of enactments. 2. On and from the day on which this Act comes into force, the enactments specified in the first schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned therein.

But all Courts constituted and appointments made under any of the said enactments shall, as far as may be, be deemed to have been respectively constituted and made under this Act.

References in previous Acts. All references to any enactment hereby repealed made in Acts passed prior to the day on which this Act comes into force shall be read, so far as may be practicable, as if made to this Act or the corresponding provisions hereof. For references, see Act V of 1871, s. 14: Act XVIII of 1879, s. 3.

Amendment of Acts. 3. In Act No. XXIII of 1850 (for securing the Land-Revenue of Calcutta), section 3, the words "as provided by the said Act" shall be repealed; and for each of the expressions "a Commissioner of the Court for recovery of small debts referred to in the said Act" and "the said Commissioners," the words "the Judges of the Court of Small Causes at Calcutta" shall be substituted.

In the Code of Civil Procedure, section 8, after the word and figures "chapter XXXIX," the words and figures "and by the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, 1881," shall be inserted.

"Small Cause Court" defined. 4. In this Act, "the Small Cause Court" means the Court of Small Causes constituted under this Act in the town of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, as the case may be.

CHAPTER II.

CONSTITUTION AND OFFICERS OF THE COURT.

Courts of Small Causes established. 5. There shall be in each of the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay a Court, to be called the Court of Small Causes of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, as the case may be.

New. See 8 Bom. H. C. Rep. (O. C. J.) 59 and sec. 652 of Act X of 1877.

6. The Small Cause Court shall be deemed to be a Court subject to the superintendence of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William, Madras or Bombay, as the case may be, within the meaning of the Letters Patent, respectively dated the 28th day of December, 1865, for such High Courts and within the meaning of the Code of Civil Procedure; and the High Court shall have, in respect of the Small Cause Court, the same powers as it has under the 24th & 25th of Vic., chapter 104, section 15, in respect of Courts subject to its appellate jurisdiction.

Court to be deemed under superintendence, &c., of High Court.

See Act XXVI of 1864, s. 12: Act IX of 1850, s. 5.

7. Subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, the Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint a person to be Chief Judge, and so many other persons as it thinks fit to be Judges of the Small Cause Court: Provided that not less than one-third of the persons so appointed, including the Chief Judge, shall be advocates of one of the said High Courts.

Appointment, suspension and removal of Judges.

Act IX of 1850, s. 10.

The Local Government may, by a like notification, suspend and, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, remove any Judge so appointed.

See Act XXVI of 1864, s. 14.

8. The Chief Judge shall be the first of the Judges in rank and precedence.

Rank and precedence of Judges.

Act XVII of 1877, s. 6.

The other Judges shall have rank and precedence as the Local Government may, from time to time, direct.

Act XVII of 1877, s. 119. (Cf. Act IX of 1850, s. 29.)

9. Except as otherwise provided by this or any other law for the time being in force, the Small Cause Court may, with the previous sanction of the High Court, make rules to provide, in such manner as it thinks fit, for the exercise by one or more of its Judges of any powers conferred on the Small Cause Court by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force.

Delegation of powers of Court to its members.

Act XXVI of 1864, s. 14.

10. Subject to such rules, the Chief Judge may, from time to time, make such arrangements as he thinks fit for the distribution of the business of the Court among the various Judges thereof.

Chief Judge to distribute business of Court.

Act XI of 1859, s. 22.

11. Save as hereinafter otherwise provided, when two or more of the Judges sitting together differ on any question, the opinion of the majority shall prevail; and if the Court is equally divided, the Chief Judge, if he is one of the Judges so differing, or in his absence the Judge first in rank and precedence of the Judges so differing, shall have the casting voice.

Procedure in case of difference of opinion.

Act XVII of 1876, s. 10(b). (Cf. Act IX of 1850, s. 24.)

12. The Small Cause Court shall use a seal of such form and dimensions as are for the time being prescribed by the Local Government.

Seal to be used.

Act IX of 1850, ss. 18-19.

13. The Local Government may, from time to time, appoint an officer to be called the Registrar of the Court, and to be the chief ministerial officer of the Court; and the Chief Judge may, from time to time, subject to the control of the Local Government, appoint as many clerks, bailiffs and other ministerial officers as may be necessary for the administration of justice by the Court and for the exercise and performance of the powers and duties conferred and imposed on it by this Act or any other law for the time being in force.

Appointment of Registrar and ministerial officers.

Cf. Act IX of 1850, ss. 14-16: Act XVII of 1877, s. 28.

The Registrar and other officers so appointed shall exercise such powers, and discharge such duties, of a ministerial nature as the Chief Judge (subject to the control of the High Court) may, from time to time, by rule, direct.

Powers and duties of such officers.

Act XVII of 1875, s. 20.

The Chief Judge may suspend or remove any Registrar or other officer so appointed; but the removal of any Registrar or officer drawing a monthly salary of one hundred rupees or upwards shall be subject to the orders of the Local Government.

New.

14. The Local Government may invest the Registrar with the powers of a Judge under this Act for the trial of suits in which the amount or value of the subject-matter does not exceed twenty rupees. And, subject to the orders of the Chief Judge, any Judge of the Small Cause Court may, whenever he thinks fit, transfer from his own file to the file of the Registrar any suit which the latter is competent to try.

Registrar may be invested with powers of a Judge in suits not exceeding twenty rupees.

Act IX of 1850, ss. 9 and 17.

15. No Judge or other officer appointed under this Act shall, during his continuance as such Judge or officer, either by himself or as a partner of any other person, practise or act, either directly or indirectly, as an Advocate, Attorney, Vakíl or other legal practitioner, or be concerned, either on his own account or for any other person, or as the partner of any other person, in any trade or profession.

Judge or other officer not to practise or trade.

Any such Judge or officer so practising, acting or concerned shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 168 of the Indian Penal Code.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to prohibit any such Judge or officer from being a member of any company incorporated or registered under Royal Charter, Letters Patent, Act of Parliament or Act of any British Indian Legislature.

CHAPTER III.

LAW ADMINISTERED BY THE COURT.

Cf. Act XVII of 1875. See s. 37 of Act IX of 1850.

16. All questions other than questions relating to procedure or practice which arise in suits or other proceedings under this Act in the Small Cause Court shall be dealt with and determined according to the law for the time being administered by the High Court in the exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction.

Questions arising in suits, &c., under Act to be decided according to law administered by High Court.

CHAPTER IV.

JURISDICTION IN RESPECT OF SUITS.

Act IX of 1850, s. 6.

17. The local limits of the jurisdiction of each of the Small Cause Courts shall be the local limits for the time being of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court.

Local limits of jurisdiction of Court.

Act IX of 1850, ss. 25 and 32: Cf. Act X of 1877, s. 11.

19 & 20 Vic., c. 106, s. 24.

Letters Patent of 1865, s. 12.

18. Subject to the exceptions in section nineteen, the Small Cause Court shall have jurisdiction to try all suits of a civil nature—

Suits in which Court has jurisdiction.

when the amount or value of the subject-matter does not exceed two thousand rupees: and

(a) the cause of action has arisen, either wholly or in part, within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court, and the leave of the Court has, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, been given before the institution of the suit; or

(b) all the defendants, at the time of the institution of the suit, actually and voluntarily reside, or carry on business, or personally work for gain within such local limits; or

(c) any of the defendants, at the time of the institution of the suit, actually and voluntarily resides, or carries on business, or personally works for gain, within such local limits: and either the leave of the Court has been given before the institution of the suit, or the defendants who do not reside, or carry on business, or personally work for gain, as aforesaid, acquiesce in such institution.

Explanation I.—When in any suit the sum claimed is, by a set-off admitted by both parties, reduced to a balance not exceeding two thousand rupees, the Small Cause Court shall have jurisdiction to try such suit.

Explanation II.—Where a person has a permanent dwelling at one place and also a lodging at another place for a temporary purpose only, he shall be deemed to reside at both places in respect of any cause of action arising at the place where he has such temporary lodging.

Explanation III.—A Corporation or Company shall be deemed to carry on business at the place of its principal office in British India, and in respect of any cause of action arising at any place where it has also a subordinate office, at such place.

Act IX of 1850, s. 25.

Sec. 2 Bom. H. C. Rep. (O. C. J.) 1.

19. The Small Cause Court shall have no jurisdiction in—

Suits in which Court has no jurisdiction.

(a) suits concerning the assessment or collection of the revenue;

(b) suits concerning any act ordered or done by the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, or by the Governor General or a Governor, or by any Member of the Council of the Governor General or of the Governor of Madras or Bombay, in his official capacity, or by any person by order of the Governor General in Council or the Local Government;

(c) suits concerning any act ordered or done by any Judge or judicial officer in the execution of his office, or by any person in pursuance of any judgment or order of any Court or any such Judge or judicial officer;

Act X of 1877, s. 16, cls. (a) to (d).

(d) suits for the recovery of immoveable property;

(e) suits for the partition of immoveable property;

(f) suits for the foreclosure or redemption of a mortgage of immoveable property;

(g) suits for the determination of any other right to or interest in immoveable property;

(h) suits for the specific performance or rescission of contracts;

(i) suits to obtain an injunction;

(j) suits for the cancellation or rectification of instruments;

(k) suits to enforce a trust;

(l) suits relating to general average and to insurances on sea-going vessels;

(m) suits for compensation in respect of collisions at sea;

(n) suits for compensation for the infringement of a patent, copy-right or trade-mark;

(o) suits for a dissolution of partnership or for an account of partnership-transactions;

(p) suits for an account of property and its due administration under the decree of the Court;

(q) suits for compensation for libel, slander, malicious prosecution, adultery or breach of promise of marriage;

(r) suits for the restitution of conjugal rights, for the recovery of a wife, or for a divorce;

(s) suits for declaratory decrees;

(t) suits in which the plaintiff's claim depends on the decision of a question as to religious rites or ceremonies;

(u) suits for possession of a hereditary office;

(v) suits against Sovereign Princes or Ruling Chiefs, or against Ambassadors or Envoys of Foreign States;

(w) suits on any judgment of a High Court; 19 & 20 Vic., c. 106, s. 27.

(x) suits the cognizance whereof by the Small Cause Court is barred by any law for the time being in force.

Act XXVI of 1864, s. 3.

20. When the parties to a suit which, if the amount or value of the subject-matter thereof did not exceed two thousand rupees, would be cognizable by the [illegible] Court have entered into a contract in writing that the Small Cause Court shall have jurisdiction to try such suit, the Court shall have jurisdiction to try the same, although the amount or value of the subject-matter thereof may exceed two thousand rupees.

Court may by consent try suits beyond pecuniary limits of jurisdiction.

Every such agreement shall be filed in the Small Cause Court, and, when so filed, the parties to it shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the Court, and shall be bound by its decision in such suit.

Act IX of 1850, s. 100.

21. All suits to which an officer of the Small Cause Court is, as such, a party, except suits in respect of property taken in execution of its process, or the proceeds or value thereof, may be instituted in the High Court at the election of the plaintiff as if this Act had not been passed.

Suits by and against officers of Court.

Act IX of 1850, s. 101. Act XXVI of 1864, s. 4.

22. If any suit cognizable by the Small Cause Court, other than a suit to which section twenty-one applies, is instituted in the High Court, and if in such suit the plaintiff obtains in the case of a suit founded on contract, a decree for any matter of an amount or value less than two thousand rupees, and in the case of any other suit a decree for any matter of an amount or value of less than three hundred rupees, no costs shall be allowed to the plaintiff;

Costs when plaintiff sues in High Court in other cases cognizable by Small Cause Court.

and if in any such suit the plaintiff does not obtain a decree, the defendant shall be entitled to his costs as between attorney and client.

The foregoing rules shall not apply to any suit in which the Judge who tries the same certifies that it was one fit to be brought in the High Court.

CHAPTER V.

PROCEDURE IN SUITS.

Portions of Civil Procedure Code extending to the Court.

23. The chapters and sections of the Code of Civil Procedure specified in the second schedule hereto annexed shall extend, and shall, so far as the same may, in the judgment of the Court, be applicable, be applied, to the Small Cause Court; and the procedure prescribed thereby shall be the procedure followed in the Court in all suits cognizable by it, except where such procedure is inconsistent with the procedure prescribed by any specific provisions of this Act.

Res judicata.

24. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 13 of the Code of Civil Procedure, no decision passed under the provisions of this Act shall be conclusive as to anything except the right at the time of such decision to the relief granted thereby, or the absence of a right at such time to any relief claimed by the plaintiff and withheld by such decision.

Illustrations.

(a). A sues B in the Small Cause Court for compensation for damage done by B to a house which A alleges to be his own. B denies that the house is A's. The Court decides that the house is A's, and that he is entitled to Rs. 100 compensation. The decision is conclusive as to A's right to the compensation, but not as to his title to the house, and, if A subsequently sues B for further damage done to the same house, B is not precluded from again questioning A's title.

(b). A sues B in the Small Cause Court for an instalment alleged to be due on a bond purporting to be executed by B. B denies the execution of the bond. The Court finds the execution proved, and gives A a decree for the amount of the instalment. A subsequently sues B for a later instalment on the same bond; B is not precluded from again denying the execution.

(c). A sues B as in illustration (b). B denies the execution of the bond, and the Court, finding that B's signature was forged, dismisses the suit. This does not preclude A from suing again on the bond.

(d). A sues B in the Small Cause Court for possession of a horse which A alleges to be his property, and to have been lent to B to use during A's pleasure. B denies that the horse is A's. The Court finds that the horse is A's, and gives him a decree for possession, and A recovers possession of the horse. B, subsequently alleging that the horse is his, sues A for possession of it. The decision in the former suit is no bar to B.

No written statement except in cases of set-off.

25. Except in cases of set-off under the Code of Civil Procedure, section 111, no written statement shall be received unless required by the Court.

Act X of 1877, s. 144.

Return of documents admitted in evidence.

26. When a period of eight days from the decision of a suit has expired without any application for a new trial or re-hearing of such suit having been made, or, when any such application has been made within such period and such application has been refused, or the new trial or re-hearing (as the case may be) has ended, any person, whether a party to the suit or not, desirous of receiving back any document produced by him in the suit and placed on the record, shall, unless the document is impounded under section 143 of the Code of Civil Procedure, be entitled to receive back the same:

Provided that a document may be returned at any time before any of such events if the person applying for such return delivers to the proper officer a certified copy of such document to be substituted for the original. Provided also that no document shall be returned which by force of the decree has become void or useless.

On the return of a document which has been admitted in evidence, a receipt shall be given by the party receiving it, in a receipt-book to be kept for the purpose.

Act IX of 1850, s. 42.

Compensation payable by plaintiff to defendant in certain cases.

27. In any suit in which the defendant appears and does not admit the claim, and the plaintiff does not obtain a decree for the full amount of his claim, the Small Cause Court may in its discretion order the plaintiff to pay to the defendant, by way of satisfaction for his trouble and attendance, such sum as it thinks fit.

When any claim preferred, or objection made, under section 278 of the Code of Civil Procedure, is disallowed, the Small Cause Court may in its discretion order the person preferring or making such claim or objection to pay to the decree-holder, or to the judgment-debtor, or to both, by way of satisfaction as aforesaid, such sum or sums as it thinks fit.

Any order under this section may, in default of payment of the amount payable there-under, be enforced by the person in whose favour it is made against the person against whom it is made as if it were a decree of the Court.

Bar to applications for execution of decrees.

28. No application to execute a decree passed under this Act shall be received after the expiration of three years from the date of such decree, unless the judgment-debtor has, within the three years following such date, by force or fraud prevented the execution of such decree.

Decree-holder to accompany officer executing warrant.

29. Whenever the Small Cause Court issues a warrant for the arrest of a judgment-debtor or the attachment of his property, the decree-holder, or some other person on his behalf, shall accompany the officer of the Court entrusted with the execution of such warrant, and shall point out to such officer the judgment-debtor or the property to be attached, as the case may be.

Things attached to immoveable property and removeable by tenant to be deemed moveable in execution.

30. When the judgment-debtor under any decree of the Small Cause Court, is a tenant of immoveable property, anything attached to such property, and which he might before the termination of his tenancy lawfully remove without the permission of his landlord, shall, for the purpose of the execution of such decree, be deemed to be moveable property, and may, if sold in such execution, be severed by the purchaser, but shall not be removed by him from the property until he has done to the property whatever the judgment-debtor would have been bound to do to it if he had removed such thing.

Act IX of 1850, s. 33.

Discharge of judgment-debtor on sufficient security.

31. Whenever any judgment-debtor, who has been arrested in execution of a decree of the Small Cause Court, offers security to the satisfaction of such Court for payment of the amount which he has been ordered to pay and the costs, the Court may order him to be discharged.

Act IX of 1850, s. 71. (See I.L.R. 5 Calc., p. 294.)

Court may in certain cases suspend execution of decree.

32. Whenever it appears to the Small Cause Court that any judgment-debtor under its decree is unable, from sickness or other sufficient cause, to pay the amount of the decree, or, if such Court has ordered the same to be paid in instalments, the amount of any instalment thereof, it may, from time to time, for such time and upon such terms as it thinks fit, suspend the execution of such decree.

Act XI of 1865, s. 20.

Execution of decree of Small Cause Court by other Courts.

33. If the judgment-debtor under any decree of the Small Cause Court has not, within the local limits of its jurisdiction, moveable property sufficient to satisfy the decree, the Court may, on the application of the decree-holder, send the decree for execution—

(a) in the case of execution against immoveable property situate within such local limits—to the High Court;

(b) in all other cases—to any Civil Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such judgment-debtor, or any moveable or immoveable property of such judgment-debtor, may be found.

Procedure when decree transferred.

The procedure prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure for the execution of decrees by Courts other than those which made them shall be the procedure followed in such cases.

Act IX of 1850, s. 31.

Minors may sue in certain cases as if of full age.

34. Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Civil Procedure as applied by this Act, any minor may institute a suit for any sum of money, not exceeding five hundred rupees, which may be due to him under section seventy of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, for wages or piece-work or for work done in the manner as if he were of full age.

Act X of 1877, s. 397.

Power to delegate non-judicial duties.

35. Any non-judicial or quasi-judicial act which the Code of Civil Procedure as applied by this Act requires to be done by a Judge, and any act which may be done by a Commissioner appointed to examine and adjust accounts under section 394 of that Code as so applied, may be done by the Registrar of the Small Cause Court or by such other officer of that Court as that Court may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf.

The High Court may, from time to time, by rule declare what shall be deemed to be non-judicial and quasi-judicial acts within the meaning of this section.

Registrar to hear and determine suits like a Judge.

36. The suits cognizable by the Registrar under section fourteen shall be heard and determined by him in like manner in all respects as a Judge of the Court might hear and determine the same:

Proviso.

Provided that, subject to the orders of the Chief Judge, any Judge of the Court may, whenever he thinks fit, transfer to his own file any suit on the file of the Registrar.

Registrar may execute all decrees with the same powers as a Judge.

37. The Registrar may receive applications for the execution of decrees of any value passed by the Court, and may commit and discharge judgment-debtors, and make any order in respect thereof which a Judge of the Court might make under this Act.

New.

Decrees and orders of Registrar to be subject to new trial as if made by a Judge.

38. Every decree and order made by the Registrar in any suit or proceeding shall be subject to the same provisions in regard to new trial as if made by a Judge of the Court.

CHAPTER VI.

NEW TRIALS AND REHEARING.

(Cf. Act XI of 1865, s. 21.) Cls., rule 23.

Judgments and orders of Court final.

39. Save as is herein specially provided, every decree and order of the Small Cause Court in a suit shall be final and conclusive;

Power to order new trial in Small Cause Court.

but the Court may, on application of either party, made within eight days from the date of the decree or order in any suit (not being a decree passed under section 522 of the Code of Civil Procedure) order a new trial to be held upon such terms as it thinks reasonable, and may, in the meantime, stay the proceedings.

Application for re-hearing in High Court.

40. Any party may, within eight days after the judgment in any suit in which the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds five hundred rupees, apply to the High Court for an order that such suit may be re-heard.

Such application shall be supported by affidavits, and, in case the applicant has appeared by advocate, vakil or attorney, by a certificate from the leading Counsel at the hearing that in his opinion there are good grounds for re-hearing the suit, and, if on hearing such application, the High Court is of opinion that there has been a miscarriage or failure of justice, or that there are other good grounds for such re-hearing, the Court shall make an order ex parte, on such terms as it thinks fit, for such re-hearing and fix a day for the same, whereof notice shall be given to the opposite party.

The rules contained in sections 545, 546 and 547 of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to staying and executing decrees under appeal, shall apply in the case of applications under this section as if such applications were appeals from the decisions of the Small Cause Court.

Mr. Kennedy's draft, s. 22.

Procedure at re-hearing.

41. On the day fixed under section forty or on any other day to which the hearing may be adjourned, the High Court, or some Judge thereof, shall proceed to hear and determine the case as if the same were a suit brought in such High Court in its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, in which the plaintiff in the Small Cause Court was plaintiff, and the defendant in such Court was defendant, and in which written statements had not been ordered to be filed; and, except as herein otherwise provided, all the practice and procedure of such High Court in respect of suits brought in its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, shall be followed in suits re-heard under this section: Provided that there shall not be any appeal from any judgment, decree, or order under this section.

Mr. Kennedy's draft, s. 23.

Execution of decree of High Court.

42. Every decree or order made by any High Court upon any such rehearing may either be executed by such High Court in the same manner as other decrees or orders of such Court or may, in the discretion of the High Court, be remitted to the Small Cause Court for execution.

CHAPTER VII.

RECOVERY OF POSSESSION OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

Act IX of 1850, s. 91. 19 & 20 Vic., c. 108, s. 50.

43. When any person has had possession of any immoveable property situate within the local limits of the Small Cause Court's jurisdiction and of which the annual value at a rack-rent does not exceed one thousand rupees, as the tenant, or by permission of, another person, or of some person through whom such other person claims,

Summons against person occupying property without leave.

and such tenancy or permission has been determined or been withdrawn, and such tenant or occupier or any person holding under or by assignment from him, (hereinafter called the occupant) refuses to deliver up such property in compliance with a request made to him in this behalf by such other person, such other person (hereinafter called the applicant) may apply to the Small Cause Court for a summons against the occupant, calling upon him to show cause, on a day therein appointed, why he should not be compelled to deliver up the property.

Act IX of 1850, s. 94.

44. The summons shall be served on the occupant in the manner provided by the Code of Civil Procedure for the service of a summons on a defendant.

Service of summons.

Act IX of 1850, ss. 92, 93. 19 & 20 Vic., c. 108, s. 50.

45. If the occupant does not appear at the time appointed and show cause to the contrary, the applicant shall, if the Small Cause Court is satisfied that he is entitled to apply under section forty-three, be entitled to an order addressed to a bailiff of the Court directing him to give possession of the property to the applicant on such day as the Court thinks fit to name in such order.

Order for possession.

Explanation.—If the occupant proves that the tenancy was created or permission granted by virtue of a title which determined previous to the date of the application, he shall be deemed to have shown cause within the meaning of this section.

Act IX of 1850, s. 93.

46. Any such order shall justify the bailiff to whom it is addressed in entering after the hour of six in the morning and before the hour of six in the afternoon upon the property named therein, with such assistants as he thinks necessary, and giving possession of such property to the applicant:

Such order to justify bailiff entering on property and giving possession.

Act IX of 1850, s. 95.

and no suit or prosecution shall be maintainable against any Judge or officer of the Small Cause Court by whom any such order as aforesaid was issued, or against any bailiff or other person by whom the same was executed, or by whom any such summons as aforesaid was served, for the issue, execution or service of any such order or summons, by reason only that the applicant was not entitled to the possession of the property.

Bar to proceedings against Judge or officer for issuing, &c., order or summons.

Act IX of 1850, s. 96.

47. When the applicant, at the time of applying for any such order as aforesaid, was entitled to the possession of such property, neither he nor any person acting in his behalf shall be deemed, on account of any error, defect or irregularity in the mode of proceeding to obtain possession thereunder, to be a trespasser; but any person aggrieved may bring a suit for the recovery of compensation for any damage which he has sustained by reason of such error, defect or irregularity:

Applicant, if entitled to possession, not to be deemed trespasser for any error in proceedings.

Occupant may sue for compensation.

when no such damage is proved, the suit shall be dismissed; and when such damage is proved but the amount of the compensation assessed by the Court does not exceed ten rupees, the Court shall award to the plaintiff no more costs than compensation, unless the Judge who tries the case certifies that in his opinion full costs should be awarded to the plaintiff.

Act IX of 1850, s. 98.

48. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to protect any applicant obtaining possession of any property under this chapter from a suit by any person deeming himself aggrieved thereby, when such applicant was not at the time of applying for such order as aforesaid entitled to the possession of such property.

Liability of applicant obtaining order when not entitled.

Act IX of 1850, s. 97.

And when the applicant was not, at the time of applying for any such order as aforesaid, entitled to the possession of such property, the application for such order, though no possession is taken thereunder, shall be deemed to be an act of trespass committed by the applicant against the occupant.

Application for order in such case an act of trespass.

Act IX of 1850, s. 97.

49. Whenever on an application being made under section forty-three the occupant binds himself, with two sureties, in a bond for such amount as the Small Cause Court thinks reasonable, having regard to the value of the property and the probable costs of the suit next hereinafter mentioned, to institute without delay a suit in the High Court against the applicant for compensation for trespass, and to pay all the costs of such suit in case he does not prosecute the same or in case judgment therein is given for the applicant, the Small Cause Court shall stay the proceedings on such application until such suit is disposed of.

Stay of proceedings on occupant giving security to bring a suit against the applicant.

If the occupant obtains a decree in any such suit against the applicant, such decree shall supersede the order (if any) made under section forty-five.

Nothing contained in section twenty-two shall apply to suits under this section.

New.

50. In all proceedings under this chapter, the Small Cause Court shall, as far as may be and except as herein otherwise provided, follow the procedure prescribed for a Court of first instance by the Code of Civil Procedure.

Proceedings to be regulated by the Code of Civil Procedure.

Act IX of 1850, s. 98.

51. Recovery of the possession of any immoveable property under this chapter shall be no bar to the institution of a suit in the High Court for trying the title thereto.

Recovery of possession no bar to suit to try title.

CHAPTER VIII.

REFERENCES TO HIGH COURT.

Act XI of 1865, s. 32.

52. If two or more Judges of the Small Cause Court sit together in any suit, or in any proceeding under chapter VII of this Act, and differ in their opinion as to any question of law or usage having the force of law, or the construction of a document, which construction may affect the merits,

Reference when compulsory.

Act XXVI of 1864, s. 7.

or if in any suit or any such proceeding, in which the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds five hundred rupees, any such question arises, and either party so requires,

(Ordinary references provided for by ch. XLVI, C. P. Code.)

the Small Cause Court shall draw up a statement of the facts of the case, and refer such statement, under section 617 of the Code of Civil Procedure, for the opinion of the High Court, and shall either reserve judgment or give judgment contingent upon such opinion.

Act XXVI of 1864, s. 8.

53. When judgment is given under section fifty-two contingent upon the opinion of the High Court, the party against whom such judgment is given shall at once furnish security, to be approved by the Small Cause Court, for the costs of the reference to the High Court and for the amount of such judgment:

Security to be furnished on such reference by party against whom contingent judgment given.

Act XXVI of 1864, s. 8. See 14 B. L. R., p. 182.

Provided that no security for the amount of such judgment shall be required in any case in which the Judge who tried the case has ordered such amount to be paid into Court, and the same has been paid accordingly.

Act IX of 1880, ss. 19 & 20. Act XXVI of 1864, s. 11.

Unless such security as aforesaid is at once furnished, the party against whom such contingent judgment has been given shall be deemed to have submitted to the same.

If no such security given, party to be deemed to have submitted to judgment.

CHAPTER IX.

FEES AND COSTS.

Act IX of 1850, s. 20 [illegible] s. 22.

Institution-fee.

54. A fee not exceeding—

shall be paid on the plaint in every suit, and every application under section forty or section forty-three; and no such plaint or application shall be received until such fee has been paid.

A fee of ten rupees shall be paid on the filing of every agreement under chapter XXXVIII of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Act IX of 1850, ss. 19 & 20. Act XXVI of 1864, s. 11.

Fees for processes.

55. The fees specified in the third and fourth columns of the third Schedule hereto annexed shall be paid previous to the issue in any suit or in any proceeding under chapter VII of this Act of the processes, to which the said columns respectively relate, by the persons on whose behalf such processes are issued, when the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds the sum specified in the first column, but does not exceed the sum specified in the second column of the said Schedule.

Act IX of 1850, s. 20.

56. Whenever any such suit or proceeding is settled by agreement of the parties before the hearing, half the amount of all fees paid up to that time shall be repaid by the Small Cause Court to the parties by whom the same have been respectively paid.

Repayment of half fees on settlement before hearing.

Act IX of 1850, s. 20.

57. The Small Cause Court may, whenever it thinks fit, receive and register suits instituted, and applications under section forty-three made, by poor persons, and may issue processes on behalf of such persons, without payment of the fees mentioned in sections fifty-four and fifty-five, or on a part-payment of such fees.

Fees and costs of poor persons.

Act IX of 1850 s. 21.

58. The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, vary the amount of the fees payable under sections fifty-four and fifty-five:

Power to vary fees.

Provided that the amount of such fees shall in no case exceed the amount prescribed by the said sections.

Act XXVI of 1864, s. 13.

59. The expense of employing an advocate, vakíl, attorney or other legal practitioner incurred by any party shall not be allowed as costs in any suit or in any proceeding under chapter VII of this Act, in the Small Cause Court, in which the amount or value of the subject-matter does not exceed twenty rupees, unless the Court is of opinion that the employment of such practitioner was under the circumstances reasonable.

Expense of employing legal practitioners.

60. Nothing contained in this chapter shall affect the provisions of sections 3, 5 and 25 of the Court Fees Act, 1870.

Sections 3, 5 and 25 of Court Fees Act, 1870, cited.

CHAPTER X.

MISCONDUCT OF INFERIOR MINISTERIAL OFFICERS.

Act XVII of 1875, s. 70; Act XVII of 1877, s. 36; Act IX of 1850, s. 85.

61. The Chief Judge may, by order, fine, in an amount not exceeding one month's salary, any clerk, bailiff or other inferior ministerial officer of the Court who is guilty of misconduct or neglect in the performance of the duties of his office, and such fine may be deducted from his salary.

Power to fine officers.

Act IX of 1850, s. 85.

62. If any clerk, bailiff or other inferior ministerial officer of the Small Cause Court who is employed as such in the execution of any order or warrant, loses, by neglect, connivance or omission, an opportunity of executing such order or warrant, he shall be liable, by order of the Chief Judge, on the application of the person injured by such neglect, connivance or omission, to pay such sum, not exceeding in any case the sum for which the said order or warrant was issued, as, in the opinion of the Chief Judge, represents the amount of the damage sustained by such person thereby.

Default of bailiff or other officer in execution of order or warrant.

Act IX of 1850, s. 85.

63. If any clerk, bailiff or other inferior ministerial officer of the Small Cause Court is charged with extortion or misconduct while acting under colour of its process, or with not duly paying or accounting for any money levied by him

Extortion or default of officers.

under its authority, the Court may inquire into such charge, and may make such order for the repayment or payment of any money so extorted, or of any money so levied as aforesaid, and of damages and costs, by such officer, as it thinks fit.

Court empowered to summon witnesses, &c.

64. For the purposes of any inquiry under this chapter, the Small Cause Court shall have all the powers of summoning and enforcing the attendance of witnesses and compelling the production of documents which it possesses in suits under this Act.

Enforcement of order.

65. Any order under this chapter for the payment or repayment of money may, in default of payment of the amount payable thereunder, be enforced by the person to whom such amount is payable as if the same were a decree of the Small Cause Court in his favour.

CHAPTER XI.

CONTEMPT OF COURT.

Procedure of Court in certain cases of contempt.

66. When any such offence as is described in section 175, 178, 179, 180 or 228 of the Indian Penal Code is committed in the view or presence of the Small Cause Court, the Court may cause the offender to be detained in custody; and, at any time before the rising of the Court on the same day, may, if it thinks fit, take cognizance of the offence, and sentence the offender to fine not exceeding two hundred rupees, and in default of payment to imprisonment in the civil Jail for a term which may extend to one month unless such fine is sooner paid.

Record in such cases.

67. In every such case the Court shall record the facts constituting the offence, the statement (if any) made by the offender, and the finding and sentence.

If the offence is under section 228 of the Indian Penal Code, the record must show the nature and stage of the judicial proceeding in which the Court when interrupted or insulted was sitting, and the nature of the interruption or insult offered.

Procedure where Court considers that the case should not be dealt with under section 66.

68. If the Court considers that a person accused of any offence referred to in section sixty-six and committed in its view or presence should be imprisoned otherwise than in default of payment of fine, or that a fine exceeding two hundred rupees should be imposed upon him, or if the Court is for any other reason of opinion that the case should not be disposed of under section sixty-six, the Court, after recording the facts constituting the offence and the statement of the accused as hereinbefore provided, may forward the case to a Presidency Magistrate, and may require security to be given for the appearance of such accused person before such Magistrate, or, if sufficient security is not given, may forward him under custody to such Magistrate.

Such Magistrate shall deal with the accused person in the manner provided by the Presidency Magistrates Act, 1877; and may sentence the offender to punishment as provided in the section of the Indian Penal Code under which he is charged.

Act X of 1872, s. 497. Act IV of 1877, s. 207. Cf. draft Code of Criminal Procedure, s. 494.

Discharge of offender on submission or apology.

69. When the Court has, under section sixty-six or section sixty-eight, sentenced an offender to punishment, or forwarded him to a Presidency Magistrate for trial, for refusing or omitting to do anything which he was lawfully required to do, or for any intentional insult or interruption, the Court may in its discretion discharge the offender, or remit the punishment on his submission to the order or requisition of the Court, or on apology being made to its satisfaction.

Act X of 1872, ss. 356-364. Act X of 1875, s. 89. Act IV of 1877, s. 141. Cf. draft Code of Criminal Procedure, s. 485. (Also see Act IX of 1850, s. 49.)

Imprisonment or committal of person refusing to answer or produce document.

70. If any witness before the Small Cause Court refuses to answer such questions as are put to him, or to produce any document in his possession or power which the Court requires him to produce, and does not offer any reasonable excuse for such refusal, the Court may sentence him to simple imprisonment, or commit him to the custody of an officer of the Court, for any term not exceeding seven days, unless in the meantime such person consents to answer or to produce such document, as the case may be, after which, in the event of his persisting in his refusal, he may be dealt with according to the provisions of section sixty-six or sixty-eight.

Draft Code of Criminal Procedure, s. 287.

Appeal from orders under sections 66 and 70.

71. Any person deeming himself aggrived by an order under section sixty-six or section seventy may appeal to the High Court, and the provisions of the Presidency Magistrates Act, 1877, relating to appeals shall, so far as may be, apply to appeals under this section.

CHAPTER XII.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Who may appear, &c.

72. No person other than an advocate, vakíl or attorney of the High Court, or a person who is at the time this Act comes into force a pleader of the Small Cause Court, shall appear, plead or act in any suit or proceeding in the Small Cause Court under this Act, and no person other than—

(a) an advocate of the High Court instructed by a vakíl or attorney of such Court or by a pleader of the Small Cause Court, or shall address the Court or examine witnesses at the hearing of any such suit in which the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds one thousand rupees.

(b) a vakíl of the High Court,

Nothing in this section shall affect the right of any party to conduct his own case or that of any other party to the suit, or the right of any recognized agent of a party under the Code of Civil Procedure as applied by this Act.

Act X of 1877, s. 638.

Persons by whom process may be served.

73. Notices to produce documents, summonses to witnesses, and all other processes issued in the exercise of any jurisdiction conferred on the Small Cause Court by this Act, except summonses to defendants and writs of execution, may, if the Court by general or special order so directs, be served by such persons as the Court, from time to time, appoints in this behalf.

Registers and returns.

74. The Small Cause Court shall keep such registers, books and [illegible] counts, and submit to the High Court such statements and returns, as may, subject to the approval of the Local Government, be prescribed by the High Court.

Act XI of 1865, s. 53. Letters Patent, s. 43.

Court to furnish records, &c., called for by Local Government or High Court.

75. The Small Cause Court shall comply with such requisitions as may from time to time be made by the Local Government or High Court for records, returns and statements in such form and manner as such Government or Court, as the case may be, thinks fit.

Act XVII of 1875, s. 71. (Cf. Act IX of 1850, s. 23.)

Holidays and vacations.

76. The Small Cause Court shall, at the commencement of each year, draw up a list of holidays and vacations to be observed in the Court, and shall submit the same for the approval of the Local Government.

Such list, when it has received such approval, shall be published in the local official Gazette, and the said holidays and vacations shall be observed accordingly.

Act IX of 1850, s. 35.

Certain persons exempt from arrest by Court.

77. The Governor General and Members of his Council, the Governors of Fort St. George and Bombay and the members of their respective Councils, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and the Chief Justices and Judges of the High Courts established under the 24th & 25th of Victoria, chapter 104, shall not be liable to arrest by order of the Small Cause Court.

I. L. R. 5, Calc., p. 224.

No suit to lie upon decree of Court.

78. No suit shall lie on any decree of the Small Cause Court.

Place of imprisonment.

79. Any person ordered by the Small Cause Court to be imprisoned may be imprisoned in such place as the Local Government, from time to time, appoints in this behalf.

Act IX of 1850, s. 111.

Tender in suit for anything done under Act.

80. If any person against whom any suit is brought for anything purporting to be done by him under this Act, has, before the institution of the suit, tendered sufficient amends to the plaintiff, the plaintiff shall not recover.

Act IX of 1850, s. 111.

Limitation of prosecutions.

81. All prosecutions for anything purporting to be done under this Act must be commenced within three months after the offence is committed.

D. FITZPATRICK,
Secretary to the Government of India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First Publication.]

The following third Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th March, 1881:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to define and amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property was referred, have the honour to state that the Report of the Indian Law Commissioners, 1879, was duly communicated to us. We have carefully considered so much of it as relates to that Bill, as well as the papers specified in the annexed list; and, in compliance with the wish of the Secretary of State for India, as expressed in his despatch (Legislative) No. 37, dated 7th October, 1880, we have now the honour to present this our third Report.

We agree generally in the enlargement of the Bill effected by the Law Commissioners, and we shall in this Report refer to the Bill as settled by them, and published in the Gazette of India for the 17th and 24th January, 1880.

CHAPTER I.—PRELIMINARY.

We have rendered the definition of "attached to the earth" inapplicable to objects which merely rest upon the earth. And we have amended the definition of "notice" by making it apply expressly to a case where a person wilfully abstains from a search in a register which he ought to have made.

CHAPTER II.—TRANSFERS OF PROPERTY BY ACT OF PARTIES.

This chapter, after declaring what rights are inalienable, and by what persons transfers may be made, proceeds to declare restrictions of the transfer of property called for in the interests of society. These restrictions are in substance identical with those contained in the Indian Succession Act, and rights and liabilities arising out of customs or personal laws are sufficiently saved by section 2, clause (a).

We have amended section 6 (as to what may be transferred) in these respects:—First, we have in the first clause substituted "Act" for "section." The effect will be to place Hindús on the same footing as Europeans as regards the power to make settlements, on marriage or otherwise, on persons not in existence at the date of the transfer. Although, no doubt, it has been laid down that the general principle of the Hindú law is that a donee must be in existence at the time of the gift, such settlements are in accordance with Native usage.

Secondly, we have re-drawn clause (a) thus:—

"(a) The chance of an heir-apparent succeeding to an estate, the chance of a relation obtaining a legacy on the death of a kinsman, or any other mere possibility of the same nature, cannot be transferred: the chance of a Hindú heir succeeding to property in the possession of a Hindú female cannot be transferred to any one except the present or future owner or co-owner of the property affected thereby."

Thirdly, we have made clause (c) run thus:—

"(c) An easement cannot be transferred apart from the dominant heritage."

Fourthly, we have extended clause (e) to rights to sue for harm illegally caused to property.

We think that the power to transfer property to or for the benefit of women, so that they shall not be able, during their marriage, to transfer or charge the same should be confined, as it is now, to women not being Hindús, Muhammadans or Buddhists; and we have altered section 10 accordingly.

It cannot be denied that one school of Muhammadan law does, as stated in the books, permit a settlement on a person, his children and their offspring in perpetuity. But in practice this form of settlement is obsolete, and, if made, the Courts would now refuse to recognise it as valid. We think, therefore, that section 14, which prohibits this kind of perpetuity, may stand unaltered.

We have shortened and simplified the sections (33, 34) which deal respectively with conditions that a transferee shall perform an act at or before a specified time, and like conditions wherein no such time is specified.

We do not think that the proposition laid down in section 40, as to a Hindú's right to receive maintenance from the profits of immoveable property, can be said to be authoritatively settled, and there are good grounds for questioning it.

We have therefore re-drawn the first clause of section 40 thus :—

"40. Where a third person has a right to receive maintenance or a provision for advancement or marriage from the profits of immoveable property, and such property is transferred with the intention of defeating the right, such right may be enforced against a transferee with notice of such intention, or a gratuitous transferee of the property affected by the right, but not against a transferee for consideration and without notice of the right, nor against such property in his hands."

The remainder of section 40, though suggested by English cases, is, in our opinion, founded on general principles of equity applicable to India, and may, therefore, fitly be left unaltered in the Bill.

Section 41 has been amended so as to bring a benámídár clearly within its operation.

We have confined section 42 to cases of transfers for consideration by persons having authority to revoke the transfer.

To the section (44) dealing with transfer by one co-owner we have added a clause declaring that, when the transferee of a share of a dwelling-house belonging to an undivided family is a stranger, nothing in this section shall be deemed to entitle him to joint possession or other common or part enjoyment of the house.

We have confined section 53 to cases of fraudulent transfer. To provide, as it now does, for fraudulent forfeitures would involve a change in the law the consequences of which cannot easily be foreseen.

CHAPTER III.—SALES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

We agree with Sir Henry Maine as to the desirability of rendering the system of transfer of immoveable property a system of public transfer; and we are inclined to go a little further in this direction than seemed good to the Law Commissioners. Thus, we think that in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing, though its value may be less than Rs. 100, the transfer should be made only by registered assurance; and we have altered section 54 accordingly.

As to the duties of the seller, we think that, except where the property is sold subject to incumbrances, he should be bound to discharge all incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the sale; that he should not be bound to deliver the title-deeds till the whole of the purchase-money has been paid. We also think that the Bill may reasonably declare, as it does, that, in the absence of a stipulation to the contrary, the seller shall be deemed to contract that the interest which he assumes to transfer subsists and that he has power to make the transfer; but where he sells in a fiduciary character, we would follow the present practice, and declare simply that he shall be deemed to contract that he has done no act whereby the property is incumbered, or he is hindered from transferring it. We have altered section 55, clauses (a) (7), (8), (9), accordingly.

The proposition laid down in clause (c) (1), that a purchaser is bound to disclose any fact unknown to the vendor which increases his interest in the property, e. g., the actual or imminent death of a prior life-tenant, has been questioned by a high authority. It appears to us in exact accordance with the rule laid down in Turner v. Harvey, Jac. 169; Ellard v Lord Llandaff, 1 Ball & B. 241; and (on the sale of a life-policy) Jones v. Keene, 2 Moo. & R. 348. We have, however, made a verbal amendment in this clause.

As to the duties of the buyer, we have struck out the clause requiring him to retransfer the property sold, where the ownership has passed before payment of the purchase-money and he fails to pay or tender it. In such case the seller's lien is, we think, sufficient.

As to the buyer's rights, we think that his lien as against the seller for purchase-money paid in anticipation should be available against all persons claiming under the seller with notice of the payment. We have altered the section accordingly.

Where two properties are subject to a common charge and one is sold, the buyer's right as against the seller to have the charge satisfied out of the other property does not depend on whether or not the buyer had notice of the charge. We have, therefore, struck out of section 56 the words relating to notice.

CHAPTER IV.—MORTGAGES.

We think that in the definition of simple mortgage the expression "makes it a collateral security" is likely to give rise to difficulties. We also think that a transaction may be a "mortgage by conditional sale" although accompanied by possession, and in the definition of usufructuary mortgage the words "or agrees to deliver" and "actual" seem unnecessary. We have therefore amended these definitions as follows :—

Simple Mortgage.

"Where, without delivering possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor binds himself personally to pay the mortgage-money and agrees expressly or impliedly that, in the event of his failing to pay according to his contract, the mortgagee shall have a right to cause the mortgaged property to be sold and the proceeds of sale to be applied, so far as may be necessary, in payment of what may be due to him on the mortgage, the transaction is called a simple mortgage and the mortgagee a simple mortgagee."

Mortgage by Conditional Sale.

"Where the mortgagor ostensibly sells the mortgaged property on condition that in default of payment of the mortgage-money on a certain date the sale shall become absolute, or

"on condition that on such payment being made, the sale shall become void, or

"on condition that on such payment being made, the buyer shall re-transfer the property to the seller,

"the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale and the mortgagee a mortgagee by conditional sale."

Usufructuary Mortgage.

"Where the mortgagor delivers possession of the property to the mortgagee and authorises him to retain such possession until payment of the mortgage-money, and to receive the rents and profits accruing from the property and to appropriate them in lieu of interest or in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage and the mortgagee an usufructuary mortgagee."

We agree with the Law Commissioners that the requirement of registration will not only discourage fraud and facilitate investigations of title, but that it will also preclude some difficult question of priority. A majority of us, however, think that where the principal money secured is less than Rs. 100, the assurance need not be registered. And we have altered the Bill accordingly. Our colleague Mr. Stokes dissents from this alteration, as, in his opinion, all incumbrances should appear on the register: those who mortgage their property for small amounts, as a rule, require protection from fraud more than those who mortgage for large amounts, and the changes impending in the working of the law will deprive the requirement of registration of all hardship even in the pettiest cases.

A majority of us are of opinion that equitable mortgages by deposit of title-deeds should be valid when they are made in Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Rangoon and Karáchí. The practice of raising money on such securities has long been established in those towns, and any attempt to disturb it would cause much inconvenience. Here, again, Mr. Stokes dissents on the grounds (a) that such mortgages are opposed to the policy of the registration-law; (b) that they lead to evasions of the stamp-duty; (c) that they are at variance with the principle of making the system of transfer of immoveable property, as far as possible, a system of public transfer; and (d) that, when the amount secured is Rs. 100 or upwards, they would be inconsistent with the general rule in section 58 requiring a written instrument.

We think, with Mr. Justice West, that nothing in the section (59) declaring the mortgagor's right to redeem should invalidate any provision to the effect that, if the time fixed for payment of the principal money has been allowed to pass, or no such time has been fixed, the mortgagee shall be entitled to reasonable notice before payment or tender of such money. In like manner, we think that nothing in section 82 or 83 should deprive the mortgagee of his right to interest where there exists a contract that he shall be entitled to such notice.

We concur with the Law Commissioners in the solution which they have proposed (section 68) of the moot question as to whether a power of sale conferred on the mortgagee is invalid, and as there is no prospect of the High Courts or the Privy Council making an authoritative declaration on the subject, we think it desirable to settle the matter by legislation as soon as possible.

For the section (98) as to the abandonment of his security where a mortgagee attaches and sells the mortgaged property, we have substituted the following :—

"98. Where a mortgagee, in execution of a decree for the satisfaction of any claim, whether arising under the mortgage or not, attaches the mortgaged property, he shall not be entitled to bring such property to sale otherwise than by instituting a suit under section 66."

We think that the High Court should have power to make rules for carrying out the provisions of this chapter.

CHAPTER V.—LEASES.

This chapter will, in our opinion, be of practical use in the case of leases of buildings, gardens and mines. We agree with the Law Commissioners that it should not of itself apply to the relations between zamíndár and raiyat, and we think that the power given to the Local Government by section 115 (now 116) to extend any of the provisions of the chapter to agricultural leases should only be exercised with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, and that the requisite notification should not take effect until the expiry of six months from the date of its publication.

The rule laid down in section 106, clause (i), as to the removeability of tenants' fixtures, has been objected to as not in accordance with the laws in force in this country. But it will operate only in the absence of a contract or local usage to the contrary, and will not in practice apply to tenants in husbandry. Moreover, it is impossible to say with certainty what the law of India on the subject really is. The Courts would, therefore, turn for guidance to the Civil law and the law of England. The Civil law permits a tenant to remove all fixtures where this can be effected without material injury to the property, and the strictness of the law of England has been relaxed where the fixtures have been annexed for the purposes of trade or manufacture, ornament, furniture and domestic use or convenience. The clause in question seems to us to represent with reasonable accuracy the rules of the Civil and the English law.

CHAPTER VI.—GIFTS.

We agree with the Law Commissioners that registration should be required in the case of gifts of immoveable property of whatever value. Such gifts are, as a rule, made by a written instrument, and as, under the Registration Act (III of 1877, section 17, clause (a)), the registration of such instruments is compulsory, the change of the existing law here proposed is almost nominal.

We have struck out the clause in section 121 (now 122) which is founded on the rule in the Succession Act as to bequests to attesting witnesses. It is, we think, inapplicable to a transaction inter vivos, where the donor can give evidence of his intention.

We have also struck out the section (120) which declares that the donor is not bound to warranty. It seems to the majority of us useless as denying what no one in this country would ever assert. Our colleague Mr. Stokes would retain it as precluding a doubt which may reasonably be felt by the Courts (see Burge II, 145).

We have made verbal and other unimportant amendments in sections 11, 25, 36, 37, 51, 59, 61, 64, 80, 81, 90, 91, 99, 101, 106, 126, 133.

The Bill as now settled seems to us a systematic and useful arrangement of the existing law. But we agree with the Law Commissioners that, when the body of substantive civil law enacted for India is recast in a more compact and convenient form than that of a series of fragmentary portions from time to time passed by the legislature, the chapters on Sale, Mortgage, Lease and Exchange contained in the present Bill will probably be placed in close connection with the rules contained in the Contract Act. Till then they may fitly be left in a law containing what the Contract Act does not contain, namely, general rules regulating the transmission of property between living persons.

We do not think that these rules, as now amended, will substantially alter or add to the existing law, or that they will invade or displace the functions of the Judges of the existing Courts. We, therefore, recommend that the Bill be passed. Drawn originally in England by the former Indian Law Commissioners, it was revised by Sir A. Hobhouse and introduced into the Council of the Governor General in June, 1877. It has since been twice circulated to the Local Governments for opinion and publication, and twice reported on by Select Committees, in February, 1878, and February, 1879. It was then carefully revised by the late Indian Law Commission. It has now been again revised by us. We think, therefore, of this Bill, as of the Bill dealing with negotiable instruments, that it is not now likely to be improved without the experience to be gained from its actual working. We recommend, however, that it should be republished in the Gazette of India with this Report; and, in obedience to the orders of the Secretary of State, it must also be sent home to him, published in the local Gazettes, and translated into the vernacular languages.

Our hon'ble colleagues Messrs. Grant and Paul have not been able to attend our meetings, and do not, therefore, sign this report.

THE SCHEDULE.

No. V.

A Bill to amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property by act of Parties.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend certain parts of the law relating to the transfer of property by act of parties; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Preamble.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called "The Transfer of Property Act, 1881": Bill, s. 1: Bill II, s. 1: Bill III, s. 1.

'Short title.

It extends to the whole of British India;

Extent.

and it shall come into force on the first day of March, 1882.

Commencement.

2. On and from that day the enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column thereof. But nothing herein contained shall be deemed to affect— Bill, s. 2: Bill II, s. 1: Bill III, s. 2.

Repeal of Acts.

(a) the provisions of any enactment not hereby expressly repealed: Act IX of 1872, s. 1.

Saving of certain enactments, incidents, rights, liabilities, &c.

(b) any terms or incidents of any contract or constitution of property which are consistent with the provisions of this Act, and are allowed by the law for the time being in force:

(c) any right or liability arising out of a custom or personal law consistent with this Act, or out of a legal relation constituted before this Act comes into force, or any relief in respect of any such right or liability: 4 Beng. A. C. 219.

(d) any transfer by operation of law or by decree or order of a Court of competent jurisdiction. I. L. R., 2 Bom. 541.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,— Bill, s. 3: Bill II, s. 1: Bill III, s. 3: Report, s. 2.

Interpretation-clause.

the "ownership" of a thing is the right of one or more persons to possess and use it to the exclusion of others. Such ownership is either absolute or qualified. The thing of which there may be ownership is called "property": N. Y. Code, para. 159.

"ownership":

"property":

"assurance" means any non-testamentary instrument which purports or operates to create, transfer or otherwise dispose of, whether in present or in future, any right, title or interest to or in immoveable property: Act III of 1877, s. 3, cl. (b).

"assurance":

"registered" means registered in British India under the law for the time being in force regulating the registration of documents:

"registered":

"attached to the earth": "attached to the earth" means—

(a) rooted in the earth, as in the case of trees and shrubs;

(b) imbedded in the earth, as in the case of walls or buildings; or

(c) attached to what is so imbedded for the permanent beneficial enjoyment of that to which it is attached:

and a person is said to have "notice" of a fact when he actually knows that fact, or when but for wilful abstention from an inquiry or search which he ought to have made, or gross negligence, he would have known it, or when information of the fact is given to or obtained by his agent under the circumstances mentioned in the Indian Contract Act, section 229.

"notice":

4. The chapters and sections of this Act which relate to contracts shall be taken as part of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

Enactments relating to contracts to be taken as part of Act IX of 1872.

CHAPTER II.

OF TRANSFERS OF PROPERTY BY ACT OF PARTIES.

(A).—Transfer of Property, whether moveable or immoveable.

5. In the following sections "transfer" means an act by which one living person conveys to another, or to himself and another, in present or in future, the ownership of property or an interest therein, and "to transfer" is to perform such act.

"Transfer" defined.

6. The ownership of property of any kind may be transferred, except as otherwise provided by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force:—

What may be transferred.

(a) The chance of an heir-apparent succeeding to an estate, the chance of a relation obtaining a legacy on the death of a kinsman, or any other mere possibility of a like nature, cannot be transferred. The chance of a Hindú heir succeeding to property in the possession of a Hindú female cannot be transferred to any one except the present or future owner or co-owner of the property affected thereby.

(b) A mere right of re-entry for breach of a condition subsequent cannot be transferred to any one except the owner of the property affected thereby.

(c) An easement cannot be transferred apart from the dominant heritage.

(d) An interest in property restricted in its enjoyment to the owner personally cannot be transferred by him.

(e) A mere right to sue for compensation for a fraud or for harm illegally caused cannot be transferred.

(f) A public office cannot be transferred, nor can the salary of a public officer whether before or after it has become payable. Cf. 11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, 27.

(g) Stipends allowed to military and civil pensioners of Government and political pensions cannot be transferred.

7. Every person competent to contract and entitled to transferable property, or authorized to dispose of transferable property not his own, is competent to transfer such property either wholly or in part and either absolutely or conditionally, in the circumstances, to the extent and in the manner allowed and prescribed by any law for the time being in force. Bill, s. 4: Bill III, s. 5 Report, s. 4.

Persons competent to transfer.

8. Unless a different intention is expressed or necessarily implied, a transfer of property passes forthwith to the transferee all the interest which the transferor is then capable of passing in such property, and in the legal incidents thereof. Bill, s. 10: Bill III, s. 6: Report, s. 10: v. last clause, Report, s. 6: 2 W. R. 125 (buildings): 14 W. R. 379, N.-W. P., 1870, p. 251: 24 W. R. 380 (trees), "everything grown on it," Morley N. S. 269.

Operation of transfer.

Such incidents include, where the property is land, the easements annexed thereto, the rents and profits thereof accruing after the transfer, and all things attached to the earth;

and, where the property is machinery attached to the earth, the moveable parts thereof;

and, where the property is a house, the easements annexed thereto, the rent thereof accruing after the transfer, and the locks, keys, bars, doors, windows and all other things provided for permanent use therewith;

and, where the property is a debt or other actionable claim, the securities therefor, but not arrears of interest accrued before the transfer;

and, where the property is money or other property yielding income, the interest or income thereof accruing after the ownership passes.

9. A transfer may be made without writing in every case in which a writing is not expressly required by law. 7 Exch., s. 581.

Oral transfer.

10. Where a transfer is subject to a condition or limitation absolutely restraining the transferee or any person claiming under him from parting with or disposing of his interest in the property transferred, the condition or limitation is void except in the case of a lease where the condition is for the benefit of the lessor or those claiming under him: provided that property may be transferred to or for the benefit of a woman (not being a Hindú, Muhammadan or Buddhist), so that she shall not have power during her marriage to transfer or charge the same or her beneficial interest therein. Report, s. 47. L. R. 3 Chan. D. 748, 754.

Condition restraining alienation.

Act X of 1865, s. 125.

11. Where on a transfer of property an interest is created absolutely in favour of any person, but the terms of the transfer direct that such interest shall be applied or enjoyed in a particular manner, he shall be entitled to receive and dispose of such interest as if there were no such direction.

Restriction repugnant to interest created.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the right to restrain for the beneficial enjoyment of one piece of immoveable property, the enjoyment of another piece of such property, or to compel the enjoyment thereof in a particular manner.

Report, s. 48: See Act X of 1865, s. 107.

12. Where property is transferred subject to a condition or limitation making any interest therein reserved or given to or for the benefit of any person to cease on his becoming insolvent or endeavouring to transfer or dispose of the same, such condition or limitation is void.

Condition making interest determinable on insolvency or attempted alienation.

Nothing in this section applies to a condition in a lease for the benefit of the lessor or those claiming under him.

Act X of 1865, s. 100. Report, s. 49.

13. Where on a transfer of property an interest is created for the benefit of a person not in existence at the date of the transfer, subject to a prior interest created by the same transfer, the interest created for the benefit of such person shall not take effect, unless it extends to the whole of the remaining interest of the transferor in the property.

Transfer for benefit of person not in existence at date of transfer, subject to prior transfer.

Illustration.

A transfers property of which he is the owner to B in trust for A and his intended wife successively for their lives, and after the death of the survivor for the eldest son of the intended marriage for life, and after his death for his second son. The interest so created for the benefit of the eldest son does not take effect, because it does not extend to the whole of A's remaining interest in the property.

Report, s. 50, Succession Act, s. 101.

14. No transfer can operate to create an interest which is to take effect after the life-time of one or more persons living at the date of such transfer, and the minority of some person who shall be in existence at the expiration of that period, and to whom, if he attains full age, the interest created is to belong.

Rule against perpetuity.

Report, s. 51: Bentinck v. Duke of Portland, 7 Chan. D. 693.

15. If on a transfer of property an interest is created for the benefit of a class of persons with regard to some of whom such interest fails by reason of any of the rules contained in sections thirteen and fourteen, such interest fails as regards the whole class.

Transfer to class some of whom come under sections 13 and 14.

Report, s. 52.

16. Where an interest fails by reason of any of the rules contained in sections thirteen, fourteen and fifteen, any interest created in the same transaction and intended to take effect after or upon failure of such prior interest also fails.

Transfer to take effect on failure of prior transfer.

17. The restrictions in sections fourteen, fifteen and sixteen shall not apply to property transferred for the benefit of the public in the advancement of religion, knowledge, commerce, health, safety or any other object beneficial to mankind.

Transfer in perpetuity for benefit of public.

Act X of 1865, s. 104: Report, s. 53.

18. Where the terms of a transfer of property direct that the income arising therefrom shall be accumulated, such direction shall be void, and the property shall be disposed of as if no accumulation had been directed.

Direction for accumulation.

Donaldson v. Donaldson, L. R. 3 Chan. Div. 743.

Exception.—Where the property is immoveable or where accumulation is directed to be made from the date of the transfer, the direction shall be valid in respect only of the income arising from the property within one year next following such date; and at the end of the year such property and income shall be disposed of respectively as if the period during which the accumulation has been directed to be made had elapsed.

Report, ss. 56, 57, altered.

19. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of a person without specifying the time when it is to take effect, or in terms specifying that it is to take effect, forthwith or on the happening of an event which must happen, such interest is vested, unless a contrary intention appears from the terms of the transfer.

Vested interest.

A vested interest is not defeated by the death of the transferee before he obtains possession.

Explanation.—An intention that an interest shall not be vested is not to be inferred merely from a provision whereby the enjoyment thereof is postponed, or whereby a prior interest in the same property is given or reserved to some other person, or whereby income arising from the property is directed to be accumulated until the time of enjoyment arrives, or from a provision that if a particular event shall happen the interest shall pass to another person.

Report, s. 58, altered.

20. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created for the benefit of a person not then living, he acquires upon his birth, unless a contrary intention appear from the terms of the transfer, a vested interest, although he may not be entitled to the enjoyment thereof immediately on his birth.

Transfer for benefit of person not then living.

Act X of 1865, s. 107: Report, s. 59: IX, 72-33.

21. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of a person to take effect only on the happening of a specified uncertain event, or if a specified uncertain event shall not happen, such person thereby acquires a contingent interest in the property. Such interest becomes a vested interest, in the former case, on the happening of the event, in the latter, when the happening of the event becomes impossible.

Contingent interest.

Exception.—Where under a transfer a person becomes entitled to an interest in property upon attaining a particular age, and the transferor also gives to him absolutely the income to arise from such interest before he reaches that age, or directs the income or so much thereof as may be necessary to be applied for his benefit, such interest is not contingent.

Act X of 1865, s. 108: Report, s. 60.

Transfer to members of a class who attain a particular age.

22. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of such members only of a class as shall attain a particular age, such interest does not vest in any member of the class who has not attained that age.

Act X of 1865, s. 111: Report, s. 61.

Transfer contingent on happening of specified uncertain event.

23. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is to accrue to a specified person if a specified uncertain event shall happen, and no time is mentioned for the occurrence of that event, the interest fails unless such event happens before, or at the same time as, the intermediate or precedent interest ceases to exist.

Act X of 1865, s. 112.

Transfer to such of certain persons as survive at some period not specified.

24. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is to accrue to such of certain persons as shall be surviving at some period, but the exact period is not specified, the interest shall go to such of them as shall be alive when the intermediate or precedent interest ceases to exist, unless a contrary intention appears from the terms of the transfer.

Illustration.

A transfers property to B for life, and after his death to C and D, equally to be divided between them, or to the survivor of them. C dies during the life of B. D survives B. At B's death the property passes to D.

Act X of 1865, s. 113: Act X of 1865, s. 114, expanded with reference to Act IX of 1872, s. 23.

Conditional transfer.

25. An interest created on a transfer of property and dependent upon a condition fails if the fulfilment of the condition is impossible, or is forbidden by law, or is of such a nature that if permitted, it would defeat the provisions of any law, or is fraudulent, or involves or implies injury to the person or property of another, or the Court regards it as immoral or opposed to pubic policy.

Illustrations.

(a). A lets a farm to B on condition that he shall walk a hundred miles in an hour. The lease is void.

(b). A gives Rs. 500 to B on condition that he shall marry A's daughter, C. At the date of the transfer C was dead. The transfer is void.

(c). A transfers Rs. 500 to B on condition that she shall murder C. The transfer is void.

(d). A transfers Rs. 500 to his niece C if she will desert her husband. The transfer is void.

Act X of 1865, s. 115.

Fulfilment of condition precedent.

26. Where the terms of a transfer of property impose a condition to be fulfilled before a person can take an interest in the property, the condition shall be deemed to have been fulfilled if it has been substantially complied with.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers Rs. 5,000 to B on condition that he shall marry with the consent of C, D and E. E dies. B marries with the consent of C and D. B has fulfilled the condition.

(b). A transfers Rs. 5,000 to B on condition that he shall marry with the consent of C, D and E. B marries without the consent of C, D and E, but obtains their consent after the marriage. B has not fulfilled the condition.

Act X of 1865, s. 116.

Conditional transfer to one person coupled with transfer to another on failure of prior transfer.

27. Where, on a transfer of propery, an interest is created in favour of one person, and by the same transaction an ulterior disposition of the same interest is made in favour of another if the prior interest under the transfer shall fail, the ulterior disposition shall take effect upon the failure of the prior disposition, although the failure may not have occurred in the manner contemplated by the transferor.

Act X of 1865, s. 117.

But where the intention of the parties to the transaction is that the ulterior disposition shall take effect only in the event of the prior disposition failing in a particular manner, the ulterior disposition shall not take effect unless the prior disposition fails in that manner.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers Rs. 500 to B on condition that he shall execute a certain lease within three months after A's death, and if he should neglect to do so, to C. B dies in A's lifetime. The transfer to C takes effect.

(b). A transfers property to his wife; but in case she should die in his life-time, transfers to B that which he had transferred to her. A and his wife perish together, under circumstances which make it impossible to prove that she died before him. The transfer to B does not take effect.

Act X of 1865, s. 118.

Ulterior transfer conditional on happening or not happening of specified event.

28. On a transfer of property an interest may be created to accrue to any person with the condition superadded that in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, such interest shall pass to another person; or that in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen, such interest shall pass to another person. In each case the dispositions are subject to the rules contained in sections ten, twelve, twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-five and twenty-seven.

Act X of 1865, s. 119.

Fulfilment of condition subsequent.

29. An ulterior disposition of the kind contemplated by the last preceding section cannot take effect unless the condition is strictly fulfilled.

Illustration.

A transfers Rs. 500 to B, to be paid to him on his attaining his majority or marrying, with a proviso that, if B dies a minor or marries without C's consent, the Rs. 500 shall go to D. B marries when only 17 years of age, without C's consent. The transfer to D takes effect.

Act X of 1865, s. 120.

Prior disposition not affected by invalidity of ulterior disposition.

30. If the ulterior disposition is not valid, the prior disposition is not affected by it.

Illustration.

A transfers a farm to B for her life, and, if she do not desert her husband, to C. B is entitled to the farm during her life as if no condition had been inserted.

Act X of 1865, s. 121.

Condition that transfer shall cease to have effect in case specified uncertain event happens or does not happen.

31. Subject to the provisions of section twelve, on a transfer of property an interest may be created with the condition superadded that it shall cease to exist in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, or in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers a farm to B for his life, with a proviso that, in case B cuts down a certain wood, the transfer shall cease to have any effect. B cuts down the wood. He loses his life-interest in the farm.

(b). A transfers a farm to B, provided that, if B shall not go to England within three years after the date of the transfer, his interest in the farm shall cease. A does not go to England within the term prescribed. His interest in the farm ceases.

Act X of 1865, s. 122.

Such condition must not be invalid.

Act X of 1865, s. 124.

Condition that transferee shall perform act at or before specified time.

33. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created subject to a condition that the person taking it shall perform a certain act at or before a specified time, and the transferor has at the time of creating the interest made an ulterior disposition thereof in favour of himself or of another, if the act be not performed within such time, the prior disposition ceases to have effect if the act is not performed within such time, or if the person benefited by the prior disposition renders the performance of the act impossible within the time specified. But where the transferor has not made any such ulterior disposition thereof, the transfer is, at the option of the transferor, voidable so far as regards such interest, if time is of the essence of the condition; but if it is not of the essence of the contract, the transfer shall not be so voidable.

When such intention is apparent, the circumstance that the interest has actually been enjoyed under the prior disposition does not affect the operation of the condition.

Transfer conditional on performance of act, no time being specified for performance.

34. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created subject to a condition that the person taking it shall perform a certain act, but no time is specified for the performance of the act, the condition is broken when he renders impossible, permanently or for an indefinite period, the performance of the condition.

Transfer conditional on performance of act, time being specified.

35. Where an act is to be performed by a person either as a condition to be fulfilled before an interest created on a transfer is enjoyed by him, or as a condition on the non-fulfilment of which the interest is to pass from him to another person, and a time is specified for the performance of the act, if such performance within the specified time is prevented by the fraud of a person who would be directly benefited by non-fulfilment of the condition, such further time shall as against him be allowed for performing the act as shall be requisite to make up for the delay caused by such fraud. But if no time is specified for the performance of the act, then if its performance is, by the fraud of a person interested in the non-fulfilment of the condition rendered impossible or indefinitely postponed, the condition shall as against him be deemed to have been fulfilled.

Election.

Draft, s. 62, added to.

Election when necessary.

36. Where a person professes to transfer property which he has no right to transfer, and as part of the same transaction confers any benefit on the owner of the property, such owner must elect either to confirm such transfer or to dissent from it; and in the latter case he shall relinquish the benefit so conferred, and the benefit so relinquished shall revert to the transferor or his representative as if it had not been disposed of,

Act X of 1865, s. 168.

subject nevertheless,

where the transfer is gratuitous and the transferor has before the election died or otherwise become incapable of making a fresh transfer,

and in all cases where the transfer is for consideration, to the charge of making good to the disappointed transferee the amount or value of the property attempted to be transferred to him.

Illustration.

The farm of Sultánpur is the property of C and worth Rs. 800. A by an instrument of gift professes to transfer it to B, giving by the same instrument Rs. 1,000 to C. C elects to retain the farm. He forfeits the gift of Rs. 1,000.

In the same case, A dies before the election. His representative must out of the Rs. 1,000 pay Rs. 800 to B.

Act X of 1865, s. 169.

The rule in the first paragraph of this section applies whether the transferor does or does not believe that which he professes to transfer to be his own.

Act X of 1865, s. 171.

A person taking no benefit directly under a transaction, but deriving a benefit under it indirectly, need not elect.

Act X of 1865, s. 172.

A person who in his one capacity takes a benefit under the transaction may in another dissent therefrom.

Exception to the last preceding four rules.—Where a particular benefit is expressed to be conferred on the owner of the property which the transferor professes to transfer expressed to be in lieu of that property, if such owner claim that he must relinquish the particular benefit, but he is not bound to relinquish any other benefit conferred upon him by the same transaction.

Act X of 1865, s. 173.

Acceptance of the benefit by the person on whom it is conferred constitutes an election by him to confirm the transfer, if he is aware of his duty to elect and of those circumstances which would influence the judgment of a reasonable man in making an election, or if he waives enquiry into the circumstances.

Act X of 1865, s. 174.

Such knowledge or waiver shall, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, be presumed, if the person on whom the benefit has been conferred has enjoyed it for two years without doing any act to express dissent.

Act X of 1865, s. 175.

Such knowledge or waiver may be inferred from any act of his which renders it impossible to place the persons interested in the property professed to be transferred in the same condition as if such act had not been done.

Illustration.

A transfers to B an estate to which to C is entitled, and to C a coal-mine. C takes possession of the mine and exhausts it. He has thereby confirmed the transfer of the estate to B.

Act X of 1865, s. 176. If he does not within one year after the date of the transfer signify to the transferor or his representatives his intention to confirm or to dissent from the transfer, the transferor or his representatives may, upon the expiration of that period, require him to make his election; and if he does not comply with such requisition within a reasonable time after he has received it, he shall be deemed to have elected to confirm the transfer.

Act X of 1865, s. 167. In case of disability, the election shall be postponed until the disability ceases, or until the election is made by some competent authority.

Apportionment.

Draft, s. 64: Bill III, s. 86.

37. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, all rents, annuities, pensions, dividends and other periodical payments in the nature of income shall, upon the transfer of the interest of the person entitled to receive such payments, be deemed, as between the transferor and the transferee, to accrue due from day to day, and to be apportionable accordingly, but to be payable on the days appointed for the payment thereof.

Apportionment of periodical payments on determination of interest of person entitled.

Severance of Obligation relating to property.

38. When in consequence of a transfer property is divided and held in several shares, and thereupon the benefit of any obligation relating to the property as a whole passes from one to several owners of the property, the corresponding duty shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary amongst the owners, be performed in favour of each of such owners in proportion to the value of his share in the property, provided that the duty can be severed and that the severance does not substantially increase the burden of the obligation; but if the duty cannot be severed, or if the severance would substantially increase the burden of the obligation, the duty shall be performed for the benefit of such one of the several owners as they shall jointly designate for that purpose:

Provided that no person on whom the burden of the obligation lies shall be answerable for failure to discharge it in manner provided by this section, unless and until he has had reasonable notice of the severance.

Satisfaction of right arising in favour of several persons in consequence of a transfer.

Illustrations.

(a). A sells to B, C and D land situate in a village and leased to E at an annual rent of Rs. 30 and delivery of one fat sheep, B having provided half the purchase-money and C and D one quarter each. E having notice of this must pay Rs. 15 to B, Rs. 7½ to C and Rs 7½ to D, and must deliver the sheep according to the joint direction of B, C and D.

(b). Each house in the village being bound to provide ten days' labour each year on a dyke to prevent inundation, E had agreed as a term of his lease to perform this work for A. B, C and D severally require E to perform the ten days' work due on account of the house of each. E is not bound to do more than ten days' work in all, according to such directions as B, C and D may join in giving.

B.—Transfer of Immoveable Property.

Bill III, s. 7.

39. Where any person authorized only under circumstances in their nature variable to dispose of immoveable property transfers such property for consideration, alleging the existence of such circumstances, they shall, as between the transferee on the one part and the transferor and other persons (if any) affected by the transfer on the other part, be deemed to have existed, if the transferee, after using reasonable care to ascertain the existence of such circumstances, has acted in good faith.

Transfer by person authorized only under certain circumstances to transfer.

Illustration.

A, a Hindú widow, whose husband has left collateral heirs, agrees, for purposes neither religious nor charitable, to sell a field, part of the property held by her as such, to B. B satisfies himself by reasonable enquiry that the income of the property is in sufficient for A's maintenance, and that the sale of the field is necessary, and, acting in good faith, buys the field. As between B on the one part and A and the collateral heirs on the other part, a necessity for the sale shall be deemed to have existed.

Wilson v. Hare, L. R. 1 Ch. Richards v. Renell, 7 Ch. Div. 224. Maclean v. Dunlay, L. R. P. (32). A. 138 of 1877.

40. Where a third person has a right to receive maintenance or a provision for advancement or marriage from the profits of immoveable property, and such property is transferred with the intention of defeating such right, the right may be enforced against the transferee, if he has notice of such intention or if the transfer is gratuitous; but not against a transferee for consideration and without notice of the right, nor against such property in his hands.

Transfer of land where third person is entitled to maintenance,

Illustrations.

(a). A, a Hindú, transfers Sultánpur to his sister-in-law B, in lieu of her claim against him for maintenance in virtue of his having succeeded to her deceased husband's property, and agrees with her that if she is dispossessed of Sultánpur, A will transfer to her an equal area out of such of several other specified villages in his possession as she may elect. A sells the specified villages to C, who buys in good faith, without notice of the agreement. B is dispossessed of Sultánpur. She has no claim on the villages transferred to C.

(b). A, a Hindú widow, is entitled to maintenance out of the share of her deceased husband in Basaoli, which has passed to his brother B. B sells Basaoli to C, who has notice that there is no other property to satisfy A's claim. A may claim maintenance out of Basaoli in the hands of C.

Where for the more beneficial enjoyment of his own immoveable property a third person has, independently of any interest in the immoveable property of another, a right to restrain the enjoyment of the latter property or to compel its enjoyment in a particular manner, or or has a right to restrain its enjoyment,

where a third person is entitled to the benefit of an obligation arising out of contract and annexed to the ownership of immoveable property, but not amounting to an interest therein or easement thereon, or is entitled to benefit of obligation not amounting to interest or easement.

such right or obligation may be enforced against a transferee with notice thereof or a gratuitous transferee of the property affected thereby, but not against a transferee for consideration and without notice of the right or obligation, nor against such property in his hands.

Illustration.

A contracts to sell Sultánpur to B. While the contract is still in force he sells Sultánpur to C, who has notice of the contract. B may enforce the contract against C to the same extent as against A.

Bill III, s. 7: Act IX of 1872, s. 108, excepn. 2.

41. Where with the consent, express or implied, of the persons interested in immoveable property, a person is the ostensible owner of such property and transfers the same for consideration, the transfer shall not be voidable on the ground that the transferor was not authorized to make it: provided that the transferee, after taking reasonable care to ascertain that the transferor had power to make the transfer, has acted in good faith.

Transfer by ostensible owner.

Illustrations.

(a). A, one of two co-proprietors of village land, leaves his village, and with his consent the land is registered by the Revenue-officer in the name of B, the other co-proprietor. After ten years B sells a portion of the land to C, who takes reasonable care to ascertain that B had power to make the transfer and acts in good faith. A is not entitled to have the sale set aside.

(b). A buys land and causes it to be transferred to his servant B to hold on his behalf, and also causes it to be entered in the revenue register in B's name. C, having ascertained that B is the registered owner of the land and pays the revenue due in respect thereof, buys the land in good faith from B. A cannot impeach the sale.

42. Where a person having authority to revoke a transfer of any immoveable property, transfers the property for consideration, such transfer operates in favour of the transferee (subject to any conditions attached to the exercise of the authority) as a revocation of the former transfer to the extent of the authority.

Transfer by person having authority to revoke former transfer.

Illustration.

A lets a house to B and reserves power to revoke the lease if in the opinion of a specified surveyor B should make a use of it detrimental to its value. Afterwards A, thinking that such a use has been made, lets the house to C. This operates as a revocation of B's lease subject to the opinion of the surveyor as to B's use of the house having been detrimental to its value.

43. Where a person erroneously represents that he is authorized to transfer certain immoveable property, and assumes to transfer such property for consideration, such transfer shall, at the option of the transferee, operate on any interest which the transferor may acquire in such property, at any time during which the contract of transfer subsists.

Transfer by unauthorized person who subsequently acquires interest in property transferred.

Nothing in this section shall impair the right of transferees in good faith for consideration without notice of the existence of the said option.

Illustration.

A, a Hindú who has separated from his father B, sells to C three fields, X, Y and Z. Of these Z does not belong to A, it having been retained by B on the partition; but on B's dying A obtains Z as heir. C, not having rescinded the contract of sale, may require A to deliver Z to him.

Bill III, s. 9.

44. Where one of two or more co-owners of immoveable property legally competent in that behalf transfers his share of such property or any interest therein, the transferee acquires as to such share or interest, and so far as is necessary to give effect to the transfer, the transferor's right to joint possession or other common or part enjoyment of the property, and to enforce a partition of the same, but subject to the conditions and liabilities affecting, at the date of the transfer, the share or interest so transferred.

Transfer by one co-owner.

Where the transferee of a share of a dwelling-house belonging to an undivided family is a stranger nothing in this section shall be deemed to entitle him to joint-possession or other common or part enjoyment of the house.

Bill III, s. 18.

45. Where property is transferred for consideration to two or more persons, and such consideration is paid out of a fund belonging to them in common, they are in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively entitled to interests in such property identical, as nearly as may be, with the interests to which they were respectively entitled to the fund; and where such consideration is paid out of separate funds belonging to them respectively, they are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively entitled to interests in such property in proportion to the shares of the consideration which they respectively advanced.

Joint transfer for consideration.

In the absence of evidence as to the interests in the fund to which they were respectively entitled, or as to the shares which they respectively advanced, such persons shall be presumed to be equally interested in the property.

Illustration.

A and B are the sons and C the grandson of a Hindú who has died leaving property. C's father D has also died. A partition has been made after which A and B have reunited. C remains severed in interest, his share being one-third. The separate property of D is of the same value. The whole fund belonging to A, B and C is expended in buying an estate, X. A and B take one moiety of X as joint estate and C takes the other moiety as separate property.

46. Where a transfer of immoveable property is made for consideration by persons having distinct interests therein, the transferors are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to share in the consideration equally, where their interests in the property transferred were of equal value, and, where such interests were of unequal value, proportionately to the value of their respective interests.

Transfer for consideration by persons having distinct interests.

Illustrations.

(a). A, owing a moiety, and B and C, each a quarter share of mauza Sultánpur, exchange an eighth share of that mauza for a quarter share of mauza Lálpura. There being no agreement to the contrary, A is entitled to an eighth share in Lálpura, and B and C each to a sixteenth share in that mauza.

(b). A being entitled to a life interest in mauza Atrali and B and C to the reversion, sell the mauza for Rs. 1,000. A's life interest is ascertained to be worth Rs. 600, the reversion Rs. 400. A is entitled to receive Rs. 600 out of the purchase money, B and C to receive Rs. 400.

47. Where several co-owners of immoveable property transfer a share therein without specifying that the transfer is to take effect on any particular share or shares of the transferors, the transfer, as among such transferors, takes effect on such shares equally where the shares were equal, and where they were unequal, proportionately to the extent of such shares.

Transfer by co-owners of share in common property.

Illustration.

A, the owner of an eight annas share, and B and C, each the owner of a four annas share, in mauza Sultánpur, transfer a two-anna share in the mauza to D, without specifying from which of their several shares the transfer is made. To give effect to the transfer one anna share is taken from the share of A, and half an anna share from each of the shares of B and C.

48. Where a person purports to create by transfer at different times rights in or over the same immoveable property, and such rights cannot all exist or be exercised to their full extent together, each later created right shall, in the absence of a special contract or reservation binding the earlier transferees, be subject to the rights previously created.

Priority of rights created by transfer.

49. Where immoveable property is transferred for consideration, and such property or any part thereof is at the date of the transfer insured against loss or damage by fire, the transferee, in case of such loss or damage, may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, require any money which the transferor actually receives under the policy, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be applied in reinstating the property.

Transferee's right under policy.

50. No person shall be chargeable with any rents or profits of any immoveable property, which he has in good faith paid or delivered to any person of whom he in good faith held such property, notwithstanding it may afterwards appear that the person to whom such payment or delivery was made had no right to receive such rents or profits.

Rent bonâ fide paid to holder under defective title.

Illustration.

A lets a field to B at a rent of Rs. 50, and then transfers the field to C. B, having no notice of the transfer, in good faith pays the rent to A. B is not chargeable with the rent so paid.

51. When the transferee of immoveable property makes any improvement on the property, believing in good faith that he is absolutely entitled thereto, and he is subsequently evicted therefrom by any person having a better title, the transferee or his representative in interest has a right to require the person causing the eviction either to have the value of the improvement estimated and paid or tendered to the transferee, or to sell his interest in the property to the transferee at the then market value thereof irrespective of the value of such improvement.

Improvements made by bonâ fide holders under defective titles.

The amount to be paid or secured in respect of such improvement shall be the estimated value thereof at the time of the eviction.

When under the circumstances aforesaid the transferee has planted or sown on the property crops which are growing when he is evicted therefrom, he is entitled to such crops and to free ingress and egress to gather and carry them.

52. During the active prosecution in any Court having authority in British India, or established beyond the limits of British India by the Governor General in Council, of a contentious suit or proceeding in which any right to immoveable property is directly and specifically in question, the property cannot be transferred or otherwise dealt with by any party to the suit or proceeding so as to affect the rights of any other party thereto under any decree or order which may be made therein, except under the authority of the Court and on such terms as it may impose.

Transfer of property pending suit relating thereto.

53. Every transfer of immoveable property made with intent to defraud prior or subsequent transferees thereof for consideration, or co-owners or other persons having an interest in such property, or to defeat or delay the creditors of the transferor, is voidable at the option of any person so defrauded, defeated or delayed.

Fraudulent transfer.

Bill III, s. 10A: Cf. Act I of 1877, s. 38.

Where the effect of any transfer of immoveable property is to defraud, defeat or delay any such person, and such transfer is made gratuitously or for a grossly inadequate consideration, the transfer may be presumed to have been made with such intent as aforesaid.

Nothing contained in this section shall impair the rights of any transferee in good faith and for consideration.

CHAPTER III.

OF SALES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

54. "Sale" is a transfer of ownership in exchange for a price paid or promised or part-paid and part-promised.

"Sale" defined.

Such transfer, in the case of tangible immoveable property of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards, or in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing, can be made only by a registered assurance.

Sale how made.

In the case of tangible immoveable property of a value less than one hundred rupees, such transfer may be made either by a registered assurance or by delivery of the property.

Delivery of tangible immoveable property takes place when the seller places the buyer, or such person as he directs, in possession of the property.

Bill III, s. 11: 14 Beng. 307, 312: N. W. P., 1866, p. 87. Consider 12 Suth. W. R. P., C. 6: as to delivery of assurance, W. R. 1864, p. 222: 5 W. R. 248: Morley N. S. 338.

Right to redeem, N. W. P., 1868, p. 376.

A contract for the sale of immoveable property is a contract that a sale of such property shall take place on terms settled between the parties.

Contract for sale.

Bill III, s. 14.

It does not, of itself, create any interest in or charge on such property.

Bill III, s. 11: Bill III, s. 11: Bill III, s. 12: Report, s. 14.

55. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the buyer and the seller of immoveable property respectively are subject to the liabilities, and have the rights, mentioned in the rules next following, or such of them as are applicable to the property sold :

Rights and liabilities of buyer and seller.

Bill III, s. 13 (a).

(a). The seller is bound—

(1) to disclose to the buyer any defect in the property of which the seller is, and the buyer is not, aware, and which the buyer could not with ordinary care discover ;

Bill III, s. 12 (a).

(2) to produce to the buyer on his request for examination all documents of title relating to the property which are in the seller's possession or power ;

Bill III, s. 12 (c).

(3) to answer to the best of his information all relevant questions put to him by the buyer in respect to the property or the title thereto ;

Bill III, s. 12 (d).

(4) on payment or tender of the amount due in respect of the price, to execute a proper assurance of the property when the buyer tenders it to him for execution at a proper time and place, and, where the property is, or forms part of, a revenue-paying estate, to present an application to the proper officer for the requisite alteration of the revenue-register ;

(5) between the date of the contract of sale and the delivery of the property, to take as much care of the property and all documents of title relating thereto which are in his possession, as an owner of ordinary prudence would take of such property and documents ;

(6) to give, on being so required, the buyer, or such person as he directs, such possession of the property as its nature admits ;

Bill III, s. 12 (g).

(7) to pay all public charges and rent accrued due in respect of the property up to the date of the sale, the interest on all incumbrances on such property due on such date ; and, except where the property is sold subject to incumbrances, to discharge all incumbrances on the property then existing ; and provided that, where the sale is made by a person in a fiduciary character, he shall be deemed to contract that he has done no act whereby the property is incumbered or whereby he is hindered from transferring it.

(9) Where the whole of the purchase-money has been paid to the seller, he is also bound to deliver to the buyer all documents of title relating thereto which are in the seller's possession or power :

Bill III, s. 12 (i).

provided that (1), where the seller retains any part of the property comprised in such documents, he is entitled to retain them all, and (2), where the whole of such property is sold to different buyers, the buyer of the lot of greatest value is entitled to such documents. But in case (1) the seller, and in case (2) the buyer of the lot of greatest value, is bound, upon every reasonable request by the buyer, or by any of the other buyers, as the case may be, or by any person claiming under him, and at the cost of the person making the request, to produce the said documents and furnish such true copies thereof as he may require ; and in the meantime, the seller or the buyer, as the case may be, of the lot of greatest value must keep the said documents safe, uncancelled and undefaced, unless prevented from so doing by fire or other inevitable accident ;

(b) The seller is entitled—

Bill III, s. 13 (b).

(1) to the rents and profits of the property till the ownership thereof passes to the buyer ;

Bill III, s. 13 (c).

(2) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer before payment of the whole of the purchase-money, to a charge upon the property in the hands of the buyer for the amount of the purchase-money, or any part thereof remaining unpaid, and for interest on such amount or part.

(c). The buyer is bound—

Bill III, s. 13 (b).

(1) to disclose to the seller any fact as to the nature or extent of the seller's interest in the property of which the buyer is aware, but of which he has reason to believe that the seller is not aware, and which increases the value of such interest ;

Bill III, s. 13 (c).

(2) to pay or tender, at the time and place of completing the transfer, the purchase-money to the seller or such person as he directs : provided that, where the property is sold free from incumbrances, the buyer may retain out of the purchase-money the amount of the incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the transfer, and shall pay the amount so retained to the person entitled thereto ;

(3) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, to bear any loss arising

the destruction, injury or decrease in value of the property not caused by the seller;

Bill III, s. 15. (4) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, as between himself and the seller, to pay all public charges and rent which may become payable in respect of the property, the principal moneys due on the incumbrances subject to which the property is sold, and the interest thereon afterwards accruing due.

(d). The buyer is entitled—

Bill III, s. 14 (c). (1) where the ownership of the property has passed to him, to the benefit of any improvement in, or increase in value of, the property, and to the rents and profits thereof;

Bill III, s. 12 (c). (2) unless he has improperly declined to accept delivery of the property, to a charge on the property as against the seller and all persons claiming under him with notice of the payment, to the extent of the seller's interest on the property, for the amount of any purchase-money properly paid by the buyer in anticipation of the delivery and for interest on such amount; and when he properly declines to accept the delivery, also for the earnest (if any) and for the costs (if any) awarded to him of a suit to compel specific performance of the contract or to obtain a decree for its rescission.

Bill III, s. 13. An omission to make such disclosures as are mentioned in this section, paragraph (a), clause (1), and paragraph (c), clause (1), is fraudulent.

Bill III, s. 16. 56. Where two properties are subject to a common charge, and one of the properties is sold, the buyer is, as against the seller, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to have the charge satisfied out of the other property, so far as such property will extend.

Sale of one of two properties subject to a common charge.

CHAPTER IV.

OF MORTGAGES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY AND CHARGES.

57. (a). A mortgage is the transfer of an interest in specific immoveable property for the purpose of securing the payment of money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan, an existing or future debt, or the performance of an engagement which may give rise to a pecuniary liability.

"Mortgage," "mortgagor" and "mortgagee" defined.

The transferor is called a mortgagor, the transferee a mortgagee; the principal-money and interest of which payment is secured for the time being are called the mortgage-money, the interest transferred is called the mortgaged property, and the instrument (if any) by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

(b). Where, without delivering possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor binds himself personally to pay the mortgage-money and agrees, expressly or impliedly, that, in the event of his failing to pay according to his contract, the mortgagee shall have a right to cause the mortgaged property to be sold and the proceeds of sale to be applied, so far as may be necessary, in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called a simple mortgage and the mortgagee a simple mortgagee.

Simple mortgage. Moo. I. A. 275, 306. Colebs. Dig. B. i, c. III, t. 96.

(c). Where the mortgagor ostensibly sells the mortgaged property—

Mortgage by conditional sale.

on condition that on default of payment of the mortgage-money on a certain date the sale shall become absolute, or on condition that on such payment being made the sale shall become void, or on condition that on such payment being made the buyer shall transfer the property to the seller, the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale and the mortgagee a mortgagee by conditional sale.

(d). Where the mortgagor delivers possession of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee and authorises him to retain such possession until payment of the mortgage-money, and to receive the rents and profits accruing from the property and to appropriate them in lieu of interest or in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage and the mortgagee an usufructuary mortgagee.

Usufructuary mortgage.

(e). Where the mortgagor binds himself to repay the mortgage-money on a certain date, and transfers the mortgaged property absolutely to the mortgagee, but subject to a condition that he will re-transfer it to the mortgagor upon payment of the mortgage-money as agreed, the transaction is called an English mortgage.

English mortgage. Macph. 8 12, 59: R. B. Ghose 216, 219: 2 Moo. I. A. 487.

58. Where the principal money secured is one hundred rupees or upwards, a mortgage can be effected only by registered assurance signed by the mortgagor and attested by at least two witnesses.

Mortgage when to be by assurance. Bill II, s. 26: Bill III, s. 22: See Macph. 59: R. B. Ghose 64.

Where the principal money secured is less than one hundred rupees, a mortgage may be effected either by assurance signed and attested as aforesaid or by delivery of the property.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to render invalid mortgages made in the towns of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Karáchí and Rangoon, by delivery to a creditor or his agent of documents of title to immoveable property, with intent to create a security thereon.

Rights and Liabilities of Mortgagor.

59. At any time after the principal money has become payable, the mortgagor, or, where there are more mortgagors than one, any of the mortgagors, has a right, on payment or tender, at a proper time and place, of

Right of mortgagor to redeem. Bill II, s. 28: Bill, s. 15: 5 Beng. 490: 6 Beng. 369: 7 Mad. 490: 7 Mad. 393: 2 Cal. Pro.

the mortgage-money, to require the mortgagee (a) to deliver the mortgage-deed, if any, (b) where the mortgagee is in possession of the mortgaged property, to deliver possession thereof to the mortgagor, and (c) at the cost of the mortgagor either to re-transfer the mortgaged property to him or to such person as he may direct, or to execute and (where the mortgage has been effected by registered assurance) to have registered an acknowledgment in writing that any right in derogation of his ownership or other interest transferred to the mortgagee has been extinguished:

6 Bom. A. C. J. 265: N. W. P., 1869, p. 126.

provided that the right conferred by this section has not been extinguished by act of the parties or by order of a Court.

The right conferred by this section is called a right to redeem, and a suit to enforce it is called a suit for redemption.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to render invalid any provision to the effect that, if the time fixed for payment of the principal money has been allowed to pass or no such time has been fixed, the mortgagee shall be entitled to reasonable notice before payment or tender of such money.

N. W. P., 1867, p. 88: 20 W. R., 397: 22 W. R., 362: 24 W. R., 24: N. W. P., 1870, p. 4: N. W. P., 1872, p. 92: N. W. P., 1873, p. 148: 2 B. L. R. 198: 15 Bengal 303.

Nothing in this section shall entitle a person interested in a share only of the mortgaged property to redeem his own share only, on payment of a proportionate part of the amount remaining due on the mortgage, except where a mortgagee, or, if there are more mortgagees than one, all such mortgagees, has or have acquired, in whole or in part, the share of a mortgagee.

60. If the owner of two or more properties makes separate mortgages on them by separate assurances, each mortgage may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be dealt with irrespectively of the other, though the mortgages are made in favour of the same mortgagee.

Right to redeem one of two properties separately mortgaged.

Illustration.

A, the owner of farms Z and Y, mortgages Z to B for Rs. 1,000. A afterwards mortgages Y to B for Rs. 1,000 making no stipulation as to any additional charge on Z. A may institute a suit for the redemption of the mortgage on Z alone.

Bill III, s. 23, clause (c).

61. In the case of a usufructuary mortgage, the mortgagor has a right to recover possession of the property—

Right of usufructuary mortgagor to recover possession.

(a) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself the mortgage-money from the rents and profits of the property,—when such money is paid;

(b) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from such rents and profits the interest of the principal money,—when the term (if any) prescribed for the payment of the mortgage-money has expired and the mortgagor pays or tenders to the mortgagee the principal money or deposits it in Court as hereinafter provided.

62. Where mortgaged property in possession of the mortgagee has during the continuance of the mortgage, received any accession, the mortgagor, upon redemption, shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be entitled as against the mortgagee to such accession.

Accession to mortgaged property. 10 Bom. 369; 11 Bomb. 32: I. L. R. 5 Calc. 195.

Where such accession has been acquired at the cost of the mortgagee, and is capable of separate possession or enjoyment without detriment to the principal property, the mortgagor desiring to take the accession must pay to the mortgagee the cost of acquiring it. If such separate possession or enjoyment is not possible, the accession must be delivered with the property, the mortgagor being liable in the case of an acquisition necessary to preserve the property from destruction, forfeiture or sale, or made with his assent, to pay the proper cost thereof, as an addition to the principal money, at the same rate of interest.

Accession acquired in virtue of transferred ownership.

In the case last mentioned the profits, if any, arising from the accession shall be credited to the mortgagor.

Where the mortgage is usufructuary and the accession has been acquired at the cost of the mortgagee, the profits, if any, arising from the accession shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be set off against interest, if any, payable on the money so expended.

63. Where the mortgaged property is a lease for a term of years, and the mortgagee obtains a renewal of the lease, the mortgagor, upon redemption, shall, in the absence of a contract by him to the contrary, have the benefit of the new lease.

Renewal of mortgaged lease. Bill II, N. W. P. 1867, p.

64. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the mortgagor shall be deemed to contract with the mortgagee,

Implied contracts by mortgagor.

(a) that the interest which the mortgagor assumes to transfer to the mortgagee subsists, and that the mortgagor has power to transfer the same;

(b) that the mortgagor will defend, or, if the mortgagee be in possession of the mortgaged property, enable him to defend, the mortgagor's title thereto;

S. D. A., 18 p. 1195; p. 575.

(c) that the mortgagor will, so long as the mortgagee is not in possession of the mortgaged property, pay all public charges accruing due in respect of the property;

(d) and, where the mortgaged property is a lease for a term of years, that the rent payable under the lease, the conditions contained therein and the contracts binding on the lessee have paid, performed and observed down to the commencement of the mortgage; and that the mortgagor will, so long as the security exists and the mortgagee is not in possession of the mortgaged property, pay the rent reserved by the lease, or, if the lease be renewed, the renewed lease, perform the conditions contained therein and observe the contracts binding on the lessee, and indemnify the mortgagee against all claims sustained by reason of the non-payment of the said rent or the non-performance or non-observance of the said conditions and contracts;

(e) and, where the mortgage is a second or subsequent incumbrance on the property, that the mortgagor will pay the interest from time to time accruing due on each prior incumbrance as and when it becomes due, and will at the proper time discharge the principal money due on such prior incumbrance.

Nothing in clause (c), or in clause (d), so far as it relates to the payment of future rent, applies in the case of an usufructuary mortgage.

Bill II, s. 31: King v. Smith 2 Hare 243.

65. A mortgagor in possession of the mortgaged property is not liable to the mortgagee for allowing the property to deteriorate; but he must not commit any act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto, if the security is insufficient or will be rendered insufficient by such act.

Explanation.—A security is insufficient within the meaning of this section unless the value of the mortgaged property exceeds by one-third, or, if consisting of buildings, exceeds by one-half, the amount for the time being due on the mortgage.

Rights and Liabilities of Mortgagee.

Bill II, s. 34: 2 Mad. 289 N. W. P., 1870, p. 311: No foreclosure before expiration of period named, 2 Bomb. 242: Mortgagee's right to sale, 7 Bomb. A. C. J. 146: 9 Bomb. 12.

66. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the mortgagee has, at any time after the mortgage-money has become payable to him, and before a decree has been made for the redemption of the mortgaged property, or the mortgage-money has been paid or deposited as hereinafter provided, a right to obtain from the Court an order that the mortgagor shall be absolutely debarred of his right to redeem the property, or an order that the property be sold.

Right to foreclosure or sale.

A suit to obtain an order that a mortgagor shall be absolutely debarred of his right to redeem the mortgaged property is called a suit for foreclosure.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed—

(b) to authorize a mortgagor who holds the mortgagee's rights as his trustee or legal representative and who may sue for a sale of the property to institute a suit for foreclosure; or

(d) to authorize a person interested in part only of the mortgage-money to institute a suit relating only to a corresponding part of the mortgaged property: unless the mortgagees have, with the consent of the mortgagor, severed their interests under the mortgage.

Cases contra: Macph. 195, 196.

67. The mortgagee has a right to sue the mortgagor for the mortgage-money in the following cases only:—

Bill II, s. 38 Bill III, s.

Right to sue for mortgage-money.

(a) where the mortgagor binds himself to repay the same:

6 W. R. 288.

(b) where the mortgagee is deprived of the whole or part of his security by or in consequence of the wrongful act or default of the mortgagor:

Macph. 233; Act XXXIII of 1871, s. 42; 25 W. R. 7 (partial deprivation).

(c) where the mortgagee being entitled to possession of the property, the mortgagor fails to deliver the same to him, or to secure the possession thereof to him without disturbance by the mortgagor or any other person.

4 Moo. I. A. 464: Marsh, 209: 7 S. D. A, 47: N. W. P., 1860, p. 28: So in the case of a Kánam mortgage, 2 Mad. 315: 6 W. R. 288 (power to usufructuary mortgagee).

Where, by any cause other than the wrongful act or default of the mortgagor or mortgagee, the mortgaged property has been wholly or partially destroyed, or the security is rendered insufficient as defined in section sixty-five, the mortgagee may require the mortgagor to give him within a reasonable time another sufficient security for his debt, and, if the mortgagor fails so to do, may sue him for the mortgage-money.

68. A power conferred by the mortgage-deed on the mortgagee, or on any person on his behalf, to sell or concur in selling the mortgaged property, or any part thereof, is invalid, except where—

Bill II, s. 39: Bill, s. 24: 8 Bom. A. C. J. 142: Muhammadan law, Macph. 2.

Power of sale when invalid.

(a) the principal money originally secured is five hundred rupees or upwards; or

(b) the mortgagee is the Secretary of State for India in Council; or

(c) the mortgaged property or any part thereof is situate within the towns of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Karáchí or Rangoon.

Act No. XXVIII of 1866, section 6, is repealed so far as it is inconsistent with this section.

69. If, after the date of the mortgage, any accession is made to the mortgaged property, the mortgagee, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, shall, for the purposes of the security, be entitled to such accession.

73. Any second or other subsequent mortgagee may, at any time after the amount due on the next prior mortgage has become payable, tender such amount to the next prior mortgagee, and such mortgagee is bound to accept such tender and to give a receipt for such amount; and (subject to the provisions of the law for the time being in force regulating the registration of documents) the subsequent mortgagee shall, on obtaining such receipt, acquire, in respect of the property, all the rights and powers of the mortgagee, as such, to whom he has made such tender.

Right of subsequent mortgagee to pay off prior mortgagee.

Bill III, s. 38.

74. Every second or other subsequent mortgagee has, so far as regards redemption, foreclosure and sale of the mortgaged property, the same rights against the prior mortgagee or mortgagees as his mortgagor has against such prior mortgagee or mortgagees, and the same rights against the subsequent mortgagees (if any) as he has against his mortgagor.

(i) when the mortgagor tenders, or deposits in manner hereinafter provided, the amount for the time being due on the mortgage, the mortgagee must, notwithstanding the provisions in the other clauses of this section, account for his gross receipts from the mortgaged property from the date of the tender or from the earliest time when he could take such amount out of Court, as the case may be.

Bill II, s. 62.

Loss occasioned by his default.

If the mortgagee fail to perform any of the duties imposed upon him by this section, he may, when accounts are taken in pursuance of a decree made under this chapter, be debited with the loss, if any, occasioned by such failure.

Cessation of interest.

83. When the mortgagor or such other person as aforesaid has tendered or deposited in Court under section eighty-two the amount remaining due on the mortgage, interest on the principal-money shall cease from the date of the tender or as soon as the mortgagor or such other person as aforesaid has done all that has to be done by him to enable the mortgagee to take such amount out of court, as the case may be.

Nothing in this section or in section eighty-two shall be deemed to deprive the mortgagee of his right to interest when there exists a contract that he shall be entitled to reasonable notice before payment or tender of the mortgage-money.

Suits for Foreclosure, Sale or Redemption.

Bill II, s. 52: III, s. 49: 14 Moo. I. A. 101: 1 W. R. 176: 21 W. R. 428: explained by Macph. 146: Seton 1, 442, see Act X of 1877, s. 32: 5 Bomb. O. C. J. 76 (legal representative of deceased mortgagor): 8 Beng. 104 (purchaser from mortgagor): Marshall 592, claimants of right of redemption, N. W. P. 1868, p. 144.

Parties to suits for foreclosure, sale and redemption.

84. Subject to the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, section 437, all persons having an interest in the property comprised in a mortgage must be joined as parties to any suit under this chapter relating to such mortgage: provided that the plaintiff has notice of such interest.

Foreclosure and Sale.

Bill II, s. 53: III, s. 50: Bill, s. 10.

Decree in foreclosure-suit.

85. In a suit for foreclosure, if the plaintiff succeed, the Court shall make a decree, ordering that an account be taken of what will be due to the plaintiff for principal and interest on the mortgage, and for his costs of the suit, if any, awarded to him, on the day next hereinafter referred to, or declaring the amount so due at the date of such decree, and ordering that, upon the defendant paying to the plaintiff or into Court the amount so due, on a day within six months from the date of declaring in Court the amount so due, to be fixed by the Court, the plaintiff shall deliver up to the defendant, or to such person as he appoints, all documents in his possession or power relating to the mortgaged property, and shall transfer the property to the defendant free from all incumbrances created by the plaintiff or any person claiming under him, or, where the plaintiff claims by derived title, by those under whom he claims; and shall, if necessary, put the defendant into possession of the property; but that, if the payment is not made on or before the day to be fixed by the Court, the defendant shall be absolutely debarred of all right to redeem the property.

Procedure in case of payment of amount due.

86. If payment is made of such amount and Bill II, s. [illegible] of such subsequent costs as are mentioned in section ninety-three, the defendant shall (if necessary) be put into possession of the mortgaged property.

If such payment is not so made, the plaintiff may apply to the Court for an order that the defendant and all persons claiming through or under him be debarred absolutely of all right to redeem the mortgaged property, and the Court shall then pass such order, and may, if necessary, deliver possession of the property to the plaintiff.

W. R. 91.

Power to enlarge time.

Provided that the Court may, upon good cause shewn, and upon such terms, if any, as it thinks fit, from time to time postpone the day appointed for such payment.

On the passing of an order under the second paragraph of this section the debt secured by the mortgage shall be deemed to be discharged.

In the Code of Civil Procedure, schedule IV, No. 129, for the words "Final decree," the words "Decree absolute" shall be substituted.

Bill II, sec. 55.

Decree for sale.

87. In a suit for sale, if the plaintiff succeed, the Court shall pass a decree to the effect mentioned in the first and second paragraphs of section eighty-five, and also ordering that, in default of the defendant paying as therein mentioned, the mortgaged property or a sufficient part thereof be sold, and that the proceeds of the sale (after defraying thereout the expenses of the sale) be paid into Court and applied in payment of what is so found due to the plaintiff, and that the balance, if any, be paid to the defendant or other persons entitled to receive the same.

Power to decree sale at instance of mortgagee.

In a suit for foreclosure, if the plaintiff succeed, the Court may at his instance pass a like decree in lieu of a decree for foreclosure.

Bill, s. 21: 15 & 16 Vic. c. 86, s. 49.

Power to decree sale in foreclosure-suit at instance of mortgagor.

When the mortgagee sues only for foreclosure, and not for foreclosure or sale, if the Court consider that he will not be damnified by a sale and if the defendant furnishes such security as the Court thinks sufficient for the full and prompt payment of the balance due for the time being by him on the mortgage, the Court may, at the instance of the defendant, pass a like decree.

Bill II, s. 56.

Procedure when defendant pays amount due.

88. If in any case under section eighty-seven the defendant pays to the plaintiff or into court on the day fixed as aforesaid the amount due under the mortgage, the costs, if any, awarded to him and such subsequent costs as are mentioned in section ninety-three, the defendant shall (if necessary) be put in possession of the mortgaged property; but if such payment is not so made, the plaintiff or the defendant, as the case may be, may apply to the Court for an order absolute for sale of the mortgaged property, and the Court shall then pass an order that such property, or a sufficient part thereof, be sold, and that the proceeds of the sale be dealt with as is mentioned in section eighty-seven; and thereupon the defendant's right to redeem and the security shall both be extinguished.

Order absolute for sale.

Bill III, s. 54: Bill, s. 23: Kent IV, 207.

89. When the nett proceeds of any such sale are insufficient to pay the amount due for the time being on the mortgage, the balance, if legally recoverable from the defendant otherwise than out of the property sold, may be recovered either (if the Court thinks fit) in the same suit in the same manner as under a decree for money, or by any other legal process open to the mortgagee.

Recovery of balance due on mortgage.

Redemption.

Bill II, s. 58: Bill III, s. 55.

90. Besides the mortgagor, any of the following persons may redeem, or institute a suit for redemption of, the mortgaged property:—

Who may sue for redemption.

3 W. R. 230: 6 W. R. 230, &c.: But see 17 W. R. 272.

(a) any person (other than the mortgagee of the interest sought to be redeemed) having any interest in or charge upon the property;

(b) any person having any interest in, or charge upon, the right to redeem the property;

(c) any surety for the payment of the mortgage-debt or any part thereof;

(d) the guardian of the property of a minor mortgagor on behalf of such minor;

(e) the committee or other legal curator of a lunatic or idiot mortgagor on behalf of such lunatic or idiot;

(f) the judgment-creditor of the mortgagor, when he has obtained execution;

Fisher, 768.

(g) a creditor of the mortgagor who has, in a suit for the administration of his estate, obtained a decree for sale of the mortgaged property.

Bill II, s. 59: III, s. 56: Bill, s. 25: [illegible] Code, C. P. [illegible] section [illegible] W. R., 1864, p. 207.

91. In a suit for redemption, if the plaintiff succeed, the Court shall pass a decree—

Decree in redemption-suit.

ordering that an account be taken of what will be due to the defendant for the mortgage-money and for his costs of the suit, if any, awarded to him, on the day next hereinafter referred to, or declaring the amount so due at the date of such decree; and ordering that, upon the plaintiff paying to the defendant or into Court the amount so due on a day within six months from the date of declaring in Court the amount so due, to be fixed by the Court, the defendant shall deliver up to the plaintiff or to such person as he appoints, all documents in his possession or power relating to the mortgaged property, and shall re-transfer it to the plaintiff free from the mortgage and from all incumbrances created by the defendant or any person claiming under him, or, when the defendant claims by derived title, by those under whom he claims, and shall, if necessary, put the plaintiff into possession of the mortgaged property; that if such payment is not made on or before the day to be fixed by the Court, the plaintiff shall (unless the mortgage be simple or usufructuary) be absolutely debarred of all right to redeem the property, or (unless the mortgage be by conditional sale) that the property be sold.

92. If payment is made of such amount and of such subsequent costs as are mentioned in section ninety-three, the plaintiff shall, if necessary, be put into possession of the mortgaged property.

Bill II, s. 60.

In case of redemption, possession.

If such payment is not so made, the defendant may (unless the mortgage is simple or usufructuary) apply to the Court for an order that the plaintiff and all persons claiming through or under him be debarred absolutely of all right to redeem, or (unless the mortgage is by conditional sale) for an order that the mortgaged property be sold.

In default, foreclosure or sale.

If he apply for the former order, the Court shall pass an order that the plaintiff and all persons claiming through or under him be absolutely debarred of all right to redeem the mortgaged property, and may, if necessary, deliver possession of the property to the defendant.

If he apply for the latter order, the Court shall pass an order that such property or a sufficient part thereof be sold, and that the proceeds of the sale (after defraying thereout the expenses of the sale) be paid into Court and applied in payment of what is found due to the defendant, and that the balance be paid to the plaintiff or other persons entitled to receive the same.

On the passing of any order under this section the plaintiff's right to redeem and the security shall, as regards the property affected by the order, both be extinguished:

Provided that the Court may, upon good cause shown, and upon such terms, if any, as it thinks fit, from time to time postpone the day fixed under section ninety-one for payment of the amount due.

Power to enlarge time.

Bill II, s. 65: Bill, s. 30.

93. In finally adjusting the amount to be paid to a mortgagee in case of a redemption or a sale by the Court under this chapter, the Court shall, unless the conduct of the mortgagee has been such as to disentitle him to costs, add to the mortgage-money such costs of suit as have been properly incurred by him since the decree for foreclosure, redemption or sale up to the time of actual payment.

Costs of mortgagee subsequent to decree.

Macph. Ldg.

94. Where one of several mortgagors redeems the mortgaged property and obtains possession thereof, he has a charge on the share of each of the other co-mortgagors in the property for his proportion of the costs properly incurred in so redeeming and obtaining possession.

Charge of one of several co-mortgagors who redeems.

Sale of Property subject to prior Mortgage.

Bill II, s. 65: III, s. 60: Bill, s. 32: Report, s. 25, altered: Act X of 1877, s. 295.

95. If any property the sale of which is directed under this chapter is subject to a prior mortgage, the Court may, with the consent of the prior mortgagee, order that the property be sold free from the same, giving to such prior mortgagee the same interest in the proceeds of the sale as he had in the property sold.

Sale of property subject to prior mortgage.

Bill II, s. 66: III, s. 61: Bill, s. 33: See Act X of 1877, s. 295.

96. Such proceeds shall be brought into Court and applied as follows:—

Application of proceeds.

first, in payment of all expenses incident to the sale or properly incurred in any attempted sale;

secondly, if the property has been sold free from any prior mortgage, in payment of whatever is due on account of such mortgage;

thirdly, in payment of all interest due on account of the mortgage in consequence whereof the sale was directed, and of the costs of the suit in which the decree directing the sale was made;

fourthly, in payment of the principal money due on account of that mortgage; and fifthly, the residue (if any) shall be paid to the person proving himself to be interested in the property sold, or if there be more such persons than one, then to such persons according to their respective interests therein or upon their joint receipt.

Anomalous Mortgages.

97. In the case of a mortgage not being a simple mortgage, a mortgage by conditional sale, an usufructuary mortgage, or an English mortgage, or a combination of the first and third, or the second and third, of such forms, the rights and liabilities of the parties shall be determined by their contract as evidenced in the mortgage-deed, and, so far as such contract does not extend, by local usage.

Mortgage not described in section 58, clauses (b), (c), (d) and (e).

Attachment of Mortgaged property.

98. Where a mortgagee in execution of a decree for the satisfaction of any claim, whether arising under the mortgage or not, attaches the mortgaged property, he shall not be entitled to bring such property to sale otherwise than by instituting a suit under section sixty-six.

Attachment of mortgaged propety.

Charges.

Bill II, s. 68: III, s. 63: Bill, s. 34.

99. Where immoveable property of one person is by act of parties or operation of law made security for the payment of money to another, and the transaction does not amount to a mortgage, the latter person is said to have a charge on the property; and all the provisions hereinbefore applied to a mortgagor shall, so far as may be, apply to the owner of such property, and the provisions of sections eighty and eighty-one and all the provisions hereinbefore applied to a mortgagee instituting a suit for the sale of the mortgaged property shall, so far as may be, apply to the person having such charge.

Charges.

Nothing in this section applies to the charge of a trustee on the trust-property for expenses properly incurred in the execution of his trust.

100. Where the owner of a charge or other incumbrance on immoveable property is or becomes absolutely entitled to that property, the charge or incumbrance shall be extinguished, unless he declares, by express words or necessary implication, that it shall continue to subsist, or such continuance would be for his benefit.

Extinguishment of charges.

Notice and Tender.

101. Where the person on or to whom any notice or tender is to be served or made under this chapter does not reside in the district in which the mortgaged property or some part thereof is situate, service or tender on or to an agent holding a general power-of-attorney from such person or otherwise duly authorized to accept such service or tender shall be deemed sufficient.

Service or tender on or to agent.

Where the person or agent on whom such notice should be served cannot be found in the said district, or is unknown to the person required to serve the notice, the latter person may apply to any Court in which a suit might be brought for redemption of the mortgaged property, and such Court shall direct in what manner such notice shall be served, and any notice served in compliance with such direction shall be deemed sufficient.

Where the person or agent to whom such tender should be made cannot be found within the said district, or is unknown to the person desiring to make the tender, the latter person may deposit in such Court as last aforesaid the amount sought to be tendered, and such deposit shall have the effect of a tender of such amount.

102. Where under the provisions of this chapter a notice is to be served on or by, or tender or deposit made or accepted or taken out of Court by, any person, incompetent to contract, such notice may be served or tender or deposit made accepted or taken by the legal curator of the property of such person; but where there is no such curator, and it is requisite or desirable in the interests of such person that a notice should be served or tender or deposit made under the provisions of this chapter, application may be made to any Court in which a suit might be brought for the redemption of the mortgage to appoint a guardian ad litem for the purpose of serving or receiving service of such notice, or making or accepting such tender, or making or taking out of Court such deposit, and for the performance of all consequential acts which could or ought to be done by such person if he were competent to contract; and the provisions of chapter XXXI of the Code of Civil Procedure shall, so far as may be, apply to such application and to the parties thereto and to the guardian appointed thereunder.

Notice, &c., to or by person incompetent to contract.

108. The High Court may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act for carrying out the provisions contained in this chapter.

Power to make rules.

CHAPTER V.

OF LEASES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

104. A lease of immoveable property is a transfer of a right to enjoy such property made for a certain time express or implied, or in perpetuity, in consideration of a price paid or promised, or of money, a share of crops, service or any other thing of value, to be rendered periodically or on specified occasions to the transferor by the transferee, who accepts the transfer on such terms.

Lease defined.

The transferor is called the lessor, the transferee is called the lessee, the price is called the premium, and the money, share, service or other thing to be so rendered is called the rent.

Lessor, lessee, premium and rent defined.

Bill II, s. 74: III, 68: Bill, s. 46: Report, s. 40; 5 Bomb. A. C. J. 179; 6 ibid. 31; 7 ibid. 111. and see 1 Beng. F. B. 25. 12 W.R. 190: I.L.R. 2 Calc. 126: 4 Bengal Appendix 66; 13 Beng. 363: N.W.P., 1873, p. 9., Perry 480.

105. In the absence of a contract or local law or usage to the contrary, a lease of immoveable property for agricultural or manufacturing purposes shall be deemed to be a lease from year to year, terminable, on the part of either lessor or lessee, by six months' notice expiring with the end of a year of the tenancy; and a lease of immoveable property for any other purpose shall be deemed to be a lease from month to month, terminable, on the part of either lessor or lessee, by fifteen days' notice expiring with the end of a month of the tenancy.

Duration of certain leases in absence of written contract or local usage.

Every notice under this section must be in writing signed by or on behalf of the party giving it and tendered or delivered to the party who is intended to be bound by it, or affixed to a conspicuous part of the property.

Notice to determine lease.

106. A lease of immoveable property from year to year, or for any term exceeding one year, or reserving a yearly rent, can be made only by a registered assurance.

Leases how made.

Bill II, s. 71: Bill III, s. 65. All other leases of immoveable property may be made either by assurance or by oral agreement.

107. In the absence of a contract or local usage to the contrary, the lessor and the lessee of immoveable property, as against one another, respectively, possess the rights and are subject to the liabilities mentioned in the rules next following, or such of them as are applicable to the property leased:—

Rights and liabilities of lessor and lessee.

A.—Rights and liabilities of the Lessor.

Bill III, s. 66 6 W. R. 314. (a) the lessor is bound to disclose to the lessee any defect in the property, with reference to its intended use, of which the former is and the latter is not aware, and which the latter could not with ordinary care discover:

(b) the lessor is bound on the lessee's request to put him in possession of the property leased: 6 Beng. Appendix 44: 39 (3); 15 W.R. 230; 23 W.R. 121.

(c) the lessor shall be deemed to contract with the lessee that, if the latter pays the rent reserved by the lease and performs the contracts binding on the lessee, he may hold the property leased during the time limited by the lease without interruption:

(d) where an arrear of rent is due from any lessee, the lessor may, instead of suing for the arrear, recover the same by distress and sale of the goods found in or upon the property in respect of which the arrear is due or of the produce of such property, but subject to the local law, if any, for the time being in force relating to distresses. 39 (2) altered: cf. IX of 1872, s. 93: 11 W.R. 278: 12 W.R. 149:

B.—Rights and liabilities of the Lessee.

(e) if during the continuance of the lease any accession is made to the property leased, such accession (subject to the law relating to alluvion for the time being in force) shall be deemed to be comprised in the lease: 8 Beng. 78: 5 Calc. L. R. 33.

(f) if by fire, tempest or flood, or violence of an army or of a mob, or other irresistible force, any material part of the property leased be wholly destroyed or rendered substantially and permanently unfit for the purposes for which it was let, the lease shall, at the option of the lessee, be void:

provided that, if the injury be occasioned by the wrongful act or default of the lessee, he shall not be entitled to avail himself of the benefit of this provision:

(g) if the lessor neglects to make, within a reasonable time after notice, repairs which he is bound to make to the property leased, the lessee may make the same himself, and deduct the expense of such repairs with interest from the rent, or otherwise recover it from the lessor:

(h) if the lessor neglects to make any payment which he is bound to make, and which, if not made by him, is recoverable from the lessee or against the property leased, the lessee may make such payment himself, and deduct it with interest from the rent, or otherwise recover it from the lessor:

(i) the lessee may remove, at any time during the continuance of the lease, all things which he has attached to the earth; provided he leaves the property leased in the state in which he received it: Re Thakoor Chunder Pa-ramanyk, Beng. F. B. Rulings 595: 8 Beng. 237: 14 Beng. 201, 205: cf. Act XIX of 1863, s. 49: Act XVIII of 1873, s. 42.

(j) when a lease of uncertain duration determines by any means except the fault of the lessee, he or his legal representative is entitled to all the crops planted or sown by the lessee and growing upon the property leased for the season current when the lease determines, and to free ingress and egress to gather and carry them:

5 S. D. A. 205: 5 M ad. 120, 127. 7 Beng. 152: N. W. P., 1875, p. 181: 13 W. R. 451: 16 W. R. 112: 6 S. D. A. 67: 15 W. R. 449.

(k) the lessee may transfer absolutely or by way of mortgage or sub-lease the whole or any part of his interest in the property leased, and any transferee of such interest or part may again transfer it. The lessee shall not, by reason only of such transfer, cease to be subject to any of the liabilities attaching to the lease:

8 Beng. 239: 12 Beng. 82.

nothing in this clause shall be deemed to authorize a tenant having an untransferable right of occupancy, the farmer of an estate in respect of which default has been made in paying revenue or the lessee of an estate under the management of a Court of Wards, to assign his interest as such tenant, farmer or lessee:

(l) the lessee is bound to disclose to the lessor any fact as to the nature or extent of the interest which the lessee is about to take, of which the lessee is, and the lessor is not, aware, and which increases the value of such interest:

See 26 W. R. 94.

(m) the lessee is bound to pay or tender, at the proper time and place, the premium or rent to the lessor or his agent in this behalf:

(n) the lessee is bound to keep, and on the termination of the lease to restore, the property leased in as good condition as it was in at the time when he was put in possession, subject only to the changes caused by reasonable wear and tear or irresistible force, and to allow the lessor and his agents, at all reasonable times during the term, to enter into the property leased and inspect the condition thereof and give or leave notice of any defect in such condition, and, when such defect has been caused by any act or default on the part of the lessee, his servants or agents, he is bound to make it good within three months after such notice has been given or left:

(o) if the lessee becomes aware of any proceeding to recover the property leased or any part thereof, or of any encroachment made upon, or any interference with, the lessor's rights concerning such property, he is bound to give, with reasonable diligence, notice thereof to the lessor:

(p) the lessee may use the property leased and its products (if any) as a person of ordinary prudence would use them if they were his own; but he must not use, or permit another to use, the property for a purpose other than that for which it was leased, or fell timber, pull down or damage buildings, work mines or quarries not open when the lease was granted, or commit any other act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto:

(q) he must not, without the lessor's consent, erect on the property leased any permanent structure, except for agricultural purposes:

(r) on the determination of the lease, the lessee is bound to put the lessor into possession of the property leased.

108. If the lessor transfers the property leased, or any part thereof, or any part of his interest therein, the transferee, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, shall possess all the rights and, if the lessee so elects, be subject to all the liabilities of the lessor as to the property or part transferred so long as he is the owner of it; but the lessor shall not by reason only of such transfer cease to be subject to any of the liabilities imposed upon him by the lease, unless the lessee elects to treat the transferee as the person liable to him:

Rights of lessor's transferee.

Act XI of 1855, s. 1: 4 Anne, c. 16, s. 10.

Provided that the transferee is not entitled to arrears of rent due before the transfer, and that, if the lessee pay rent to the lessor without having reason to believe that such transfer has been made, the lessee shall not be liable to pay such rent over again to the transferee.

Bill II, c. 12,

Where only a part of the property leased is transferred by the lessor, he may (subject to the provisions of section thirty-eight) determine what proportion of the premium or rent reserved by the lease is payable in respect of the part so transferred.

Bill II, c. 76; Bill, c. 42,

109. Where the time limited by a lease of immoveable property is expressed as commencing from a particular day, in computing that time such day shall be excluded. Where no day of commencement is named, the time so limited begins from the making of the lease.

Exclusion of day on which term commences.

Where the time so limited is a year or a number of years, in the absence of an express agreement to the contrary, the lease shall last during the whole anniversary of the day from which such time commences.

Duration of lease for a year.

Where the time so limited is expressed to be terminable before its expiration, and the lease omits to mention at whose option it is so terminable, the lessee, and not the lessor, shall have such option.

Option to determine lease.

Determination of lease.

110. A lease of immoveable property determines—

Bill II, s. 77, cl. 2: N. W. P., 1867, Ex. c. s. 1. Tammaved Puranik v. Rabiya Kupayanda, 2 Bom. 70: 8 W. R. 225, per Peacock, C J.

113. Where a lease of immoveable property has determined by forfeiture for non-payment of rent, and the lessor sues to eject the lessee, if, at the hearing of the suit, the lessee pays or tenders to the lessor the rent in arrear, together with interest thereon and his full costs of the suit, or gives such security as the Court thinks sufficient for making such payment within fifteen days, the Court may, in lieu of making a decree for ejectment, pass an order relieving the lessee against the forfeiture; and thereupon the lessee shall hold the property leased as if the forfeiture had not occurred.

Relief against forfeiture for non-payment of rent.

Act XVIII of 1873, s. 34, cl. (c), para. 4.

114. The surrender, express or implied, of a lease of immoveable property does not prejudice an under-lease of the property or any part thereof previously granted by the lessee, on terms and conditions substantially the same (except as regards the amount of rent) as those of the original lease; but, unless the surrender is made for the purpose of obtaining a new lease, the rent payable by and the contracts binding on the under-lessee shall be respectively payable to and enforceable by the lessor.

10 W. R. 38. 13 W. R. 29. N. W. P., 1871, p. 63.

Effect of surrender and forfeiture on under-leases.

The forfeiture of such a lease annuls all such under-leases, except where such forfeiture has been procured by the lessor in fraud of the under-lessees.

115. If a lessee or under-lessee of property remains in possession thereof after the determination of the lease, and the lessor or his legal representative accepts rent from the lessee or under-lessee, or otherwise assents to his continuing in possession, the lease is, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, renewed from year to year, or from month to month, according to the purpose for which the property is leased, as specified in section one hundred and seven.

(a). A lets a house to B for five years. B underlets the house to C at a monthly rent of Rs. 100. The five years expire, but C continues in possession of the house and pays the rent to A. C's lease is renewed from month to month.

(b). A lets a farm to B for the life of C. C dies, but B continues in possession with A's assent. B's lease is renewed from year to year.

116. None of the provisions of this chapter apply to leases for agricultural purposes, except in so far as the local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may by notification published in the official Gazette declare all or any of such provisions to be so applicable, together with, or subject to, those of the local law, if any, for the time being in force.

Exemption of leases for agricultural purposes.

Such notification shall not take effect until the expiry of six months from the date of its publication.

CHAPTER VI.

OF EXCHANGES.

117. When two persons mutually transfer the ownership of one thing for the ownership of another, neither thing or both things being money only, the transaction is called an "exchange."

Bill II, s. 21; Bill, s. 48; 1 Mad. 100.

"Exchange" defined.

A transfer of property in completion of an exchange can be made only in manner provided for the transfer of such property by sale.

Bill II, s. 22, cl. 2:

118. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the party deprived of the thing or part thereof he has received in exchange by reason of any defect in the title of the other party is entitled at his option to compensation or to the return of the thing transferred by him.

Right of party evicted from thing received in exchange.

Bill II, s. 23: Bill, s. 48, para. 2.

119. Save as otherwise provided in this chapter, each party has the rights and is subject to the liabilities of a seller as to that which he gives, and has the rights and is subject to the liabilities of a buyer as to that which he takes.

Rights and liabilities of parties.

Bill II, s. 24: Bill, s. 48, para. 3: 1 Morl. 105.

120. On an exchange of money, each party thereby warrants the genuineness of the money given by him.

Exchange of money.

CHAPTER VII.

OF GIFTS.

121. "Gift" is the transfer of certain existing moveable or immoveable property made voluntarily and without consideration, by one person, called the donor, to another, called the donee, and accepted by or on behalf of the donee.

"Gift" defined.

Such acceptance must be made during the lifetime of the donor and while he is still capable of giving.

Acceptance when to be made.

L. C. 1581.

If the donee dies before acceptance, the gift is void.

Act III of 1877, s. 17, cl. (a).

122. For the purpose of making a gift of immoveable property, the transfer must be effected by registered assurance signed by or on behalf of the donor, and attested by at least two witnesses.

Transfer how effected.

For the purpose of making a gift of moveable property, the transfer may be effected either by a non-testamentary instrument [registered and] signed as aforesaid or by delivery.

Act IX of 1872, s. 90.

Such delivery may be made in the same way as goods sold may be delivered.

123. A gift comprising both existing and future property is void as to the latter.

Gift of existing and future property.

Bourke II, 144.

124. A gift of a divisible thing to two or more donees, of whom one does not accept it, is void as to the interest which he would have taken had he accepted.

Gift to several, of whom one does not accept.

125. The donor and donee may agree that on the happening of any specified event which does not depend on the will of the donor a gift shall be suspended or revoked; but a gift which the parties agree shall be revocable wholly or in part at the mere will of the donor is void wholly or in part, as the case may be.

When gift may be suspended or revoked.

A gift may also be revoked in any of the cases (save want or failure of consideration) in which, if it were a contract, it might be rescinded.

Save as aforesaid, a gift cannot be revoked. 1 L. R., 2 All. 432.

Nothing contained in this section shall be deemed to affect the rights of transferees for consideration without notice.

Illustrations.

(a). A gives a field to B, reserving to himself, with B's assent, the right to take back the field in case B and his descendants die before A. B dies without descendants in A's lifetime. A may take back the field.

(b). A gives a lákh of rupees to B, reserving to himself, with B's assent, the right to take back at pleasure Rs. 10,000 out of the lákh. The gift holds good as to Rs. 90,000, but is void as to Rs. 10,000, which continue to belong to A.

126. Where a gift is in the form of a single transfer to the same person of several things of which one is, and the others are not, burdened by an obligation, the donee can take nothing by the gift unless he accepts it fully.

Act X of 1865, s. 109.

Onerous gifts.

Where a gift is in the form of two or more separate and independent transfers to the same person of several things, the donee is at liberty to accept one of them and refuse the others, although the former may be beneficial and the latter onerous.

Act X of 1865, s. 110.

A donee not competent to contract and accepting property burdened by any obligation is not bound by his acceptance. But if, after becoming competent to contract and being aware of the obligation, he retains the property given, he becomes so bound.

Onerous gift to disqualified person.

Illustrations.

(a). A has shares in X, a prosperous joint stock company, and also shares in Y, a joint stock company in difficulties. Heavy calls are expected in respect of the shares in Y. A gives B all his shares in joint stock companies. B refuses to accept the shares in Y. He cannot take the shares in X.

(b). A, having a lease for a term of years of a house at a rent which he and his representatives are bound to pay during the term, and which is more than the house can be let for, gives to B the lease, and also, as a separate and independent transaction, a sum of money. B refuses to accept the lease. He does not by this refusal forfeit the money.

127. Subject to the provisions of section one hundred and twenty-six, where a gift consists of the donor's whole property, the donee is personally liable for all the debts due by the donor at the time of the gift to the extent of the property comprised therein.

Universal donee.

128. Nothing in this chapter relates to gifts of moveable property made in contemplation of death, or shall be deemed to affect any rule of Muhammadan law.

Saving of donations mortis causâ and Muhammadan law.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF TRANSFERS OF ACTIONABLE CLAIMS.

Actionable claim.

129. A claim is actionable when the civil Courts recognise it as a ground for relief, whether a suit for its enforcement is or is not actually pending or likely to become necessary.

Transfer of debts.

130. No transfer of any debt or any beneficial interest in moveable property shall have any operation against the debtor or against the person in whom the property is vested, until express notice of the transfer is given to him, unless he is a party to such transfer; and every dealing by such debtor or person, not being a party to, and not having received express notice of, a transfer, with the debt or property shall be valid as against such transfer.

Illustrations.

(a). A owes money to B, who transfers the debt to C. B then demands the debt from A, who, having no notice of the transfer, pays B. The payment is valid, and C cannot sue A for the debt.

(b). A has jewels deposited with B, a jeweller. A mortgages them to C. A then executes an instrument transferring them to D, who takes it to B, and gets the jewels from him before he, B, has received any notice of C's mortgage. B is justified in handing the jewels to D, and C has no remedy against D.

Notice to be in writing signed.

131. Every such notice must be in writing signed by the person making the transfer, or by his agent duly authorized in this behalf.

Debtor to give effect to transfer.

132. On receiving such notice, the debtor or person in whom the property is vested shall give effect to the transfer unless where the debtor resides, or the property is situate, in a foreign country and the title of the person in whose favour the transfer is made is not complete according to the law of such country.

Warranty of solvency of debtor.

133. Where the transferor of a debt warrants the solvency of the debtor, the warranty, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, applies only to his solvency at the time of the transfer, and is limited, where the transfer is made for consideration, to the amount or value of such consideration.

Discharge of person against whom claim is sold.

134. Where an actionable claim is sold, he against whom it is claimed is wholly discharged by paying to the buyer the price and incidental expenses of the sale, with interest on the price from the day that the buyer paid it.

Nothing in the former part of this section applies—

(a) where the sale is made to the co-heir or co-proprietor of the claim sold;

(b) where it is made to a creditor in payment of what is due to him;

(c) where it is made to the possessor of a property subject to the actionable claim;

(d) where the judgment of a competent Court has been delivered affirming the claim, or where the claim has been made clear by evidence and is ready for judgment.

Incapacity of officers connected with Courts of justice.

135. No judge, pleader, clerk, bailiff or other officer connected with Courts of justice can buy any actionable claim falling under the jurisdiction of the Court in which he exercises his functions.

Liability of transferee of debt.

136. The person to whom a debt or charge is transferred shall take it subject to all the liabilities to which the transferor was subject in respect thereof at the date of the transfer. Bill II, s. 129. Mangles v. Dixon, 3 H. L. Ca. 702; Fisher, s. 1058.

Illustration.

A debenture is issued in fraud of a public company to A. A sells and transfers the debenture to B, who has no notice of the fraud. The debenture is invalid in the hands of B.

Mortgaged debt.

137. When a debt is transferred for the purpose of securing an existing or future debt, the original debt, if recovered by either the transferor or transferee, is applicable, first, in payment of the costs of such recovery; secondly, in or towards satisfaction of the amount for the time being secured by the transfer; and the residue, if any, belongs to the transferor. Bill II, s. 99, para. 2; Dav. Conv. [illegible] 691, 696.

Saving of negotiable instruments.

138. Save as provided by section one hundred and thirty-seven, nothing in this chapter applies to negotiable instruments. Bill II, s. 100.

PART V.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th March, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 5 OF 1881.

A Bill to amend the Indian Penal Code.

Preamble. For the purpose of amending the Indian Penal Code; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Amendment of section 40, clause 2, of Indian Penal Code. 1. In the second clause of section 40 of the said Code, before the figure "109," the figures "65, 66, 71" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 64 of same Code. 2. In section 64 of the said Code, for the first twelve words, the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"In every case punishable under any law in force for the time being, with imprisonment as well as fine, in which the offender is sentenced to a fine, whether with or without imprisonment, and in every case punishable under this Code with fine only, in which the offender is sentenced to a fine,"

Amendment of section 67 of same Code. 3. In section 67, after the words "fine only," the words "the imprisonment which the Court imposes in default of payment of the fine shall be simple, and" shall be inserted.

Addition to section 71 of same Code. 4. To section 71 of the said Code, the following clause shall be added:—

"Where anything is an offence falling within two or more separate definitions of any law in force for the time being by which offences are defined or punished, the offender shall not be punished with a more severe punishment than the Court which tries him could award for any one of such offences."

New Exception to section 214 of same Code. 5. In section 214 of the said Code, for the Exception, the following shall be substituted, namely:—

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

Addition to section 435 of same Code. 6. In section 435 of the said Code, after the words "or upwards" the following words shall be inserted, namely:—

"or (where the property is agricultural produce) ten rupees or upwards."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of this Bill is to make six amendments of the Indian Penal Code.

The first is to render the word "offence," as used in sections 65, 66 and 71 (as amended by this Bill), applicable to things punishable under the Code or any special or local law.

The second is to render section 64 (as to sentence of imprisonment on default of payment of fine) applicable to convictions under special and local laws in case of offences punishable both with imprisonment and fine. It corresponds with the first clause of section 309 of Act X of 1872, which will be repealed by the new Code of Criminal Procedure.

The third is to declare that, when an offence is punishable with fine only, the imprisonment in default of payment of the fine shall be simple: this is in accordance with a decision of the Bombay High Court (5 Bom. C. C. 55).

The fourth is to declare, by an addition to section 71, that, when anything is an offence falling within two or more separate definitions, the offender shall not be punished with a more severe punishment than the Court which tries him could award for any one of such offences. This corresponds with the latter part of the second clause of section 214 of the present Code of Criminal Procedure; but it is clearly matter of substantive law, and should therefore be placed in the Penal Code.

The fifth is to replace the obscure Exception which now stands in section 214 by the following:—

"Exception.—The provisions of sections 213 and 214 do not extend to any case in which the offence may lawfully be compounded."

This will be read with section 345 of the new Code of Criminal Procedure, which declares that certain specified offences, and no others, may be compounded.

The sixth is to render the offence of committing mischief by fire, intending to cause damage to agricultural produce worth ten rupees or upwards, punishable with the severer penalty provided by section 435 of the Code. As the law stands, mischief by fire is cognizable only when committed with intent to cause damage to the amount of Rs. 100 or upwards. But agricultural holdings are generally so small that the total produce of a holding is often less than Rs. 100. The result is that a raiyat may have garnered his crop and lose the whole of it through the act of an incendiary, and yet the offence is only punishable with three months' imprisonment and fine, and may not be investigated by the police without the special order of a Magistrate. An alteration in the paragraph of the second schedule to the new Code of Criminal Procedure, which relates to section 435 of the Penal Code, will render the offence in question cognizable by the police.

A Bill for the further amendment of the law relating to Merchant Shipping.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the law relating to investigations into casualties affecting ships and charges against masters, mates and engineers; Preamble.

and whereas it is also expedient to provide, in other respects hereinafter appearing, for the regulation and control of merchant shipping;

It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1881;"

Extent. It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement. and it shall come into force at once.

Repeal of enactments. 2. The Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875, and Act No. XIII of 1878 (An Act to provide for the recovery in British India of wages due to, and expenses incurred in respect of, certain seamen and apprentices, and to amend the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875, and the Indian Ports Act, 1875), are hereby repealed.

But all proceedings commenced, officers appointed, powers conferred, investigations held, certificates cancelled or suspended, agreements made and persons authorized under the said Acts or either of them, shall be deemed to have been respectively commenced, appointed, conferred, held, cancelled or suspended, made and authorized under this Act.

Interpretation-clause. 3. In this Act

Definition of ship: "ship" includes every description of vessel used in navigation not propelled by oars; and

"master." "master" means any person (except a pilot or harbour-master) having for the time being control or charge of a ship.

Saving of powers of certain Admiralty Courts. 4. Nothing in this Act affects the powers conferred by section two hundred and forty of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by section eighty of Act No. I of 1859 (for the amendment of the law relating to Merchant Shipping), on Courts having admiralty jurisdiction in India.

Exercise of such powers by principal criminal Courts. The powers conferred by the last-mentioned enactment may, at any port in British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, be exercised by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction.

CHAPTER II.

INVESTIGATIONS INTO CASUALTIES AFFECTING SHIPS, AND CHARGES AGAINST MASTERS, MATES OR ENGINEERS.

Chapter not to apply to certain ships. 5. Nothing in this chapter shall be deemed to apply to any ship belonging to, or in the service of, Her Majesty or belonging to any foreign Prince or State.

Report of casualties to be made to Local Government. 6. Whenever any Magistrate, or any officer appointed by the Local Government in this behalf, receives credible information that—

(a) any ship has been lost, abandoned, stranded or damaged on or near the coasts of British India; or

(b) by reason of any casualty happening to or on board of any ship on or near such coasts, loss of life has ensued; or

(c) any ship has caused loss or damage to any other ship on or near such coasts; or

(d) any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has happened elsewhere, and any competent witnesses thereof have arrived or are to be found at any place in British India; or

(e) any ship is supposed to have been lost, and any evidence can be obtained in British India as to the circumstances under which she proceeded to sea or was last heard of;

he shall forthwith report in writing such information to the Local Government.

In the cases mentioned in clauses (a), (b) and (c), the master, pilot, harbour-master or other person in charge of the ship or (where two ships are concerned) in charge of each ship, at the time of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty, and in cases under clause (d), where the ship concerned proceeds direct from the place where such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty has occurred to any place in British India, the master of such ship at the time she arrives at such place, shall, on arriving in British India, give immediate notice of such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty to the nearest Magistrate, or, when he arrives at a port, to the officer appointed at such port as aforesaid.

Any person bound to give notice under this section and wilfully failing to give the same shall be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees, and, in default of payment, to simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to three months.

Power to appoint special Court of Enquiry. 7. If in any such case a formal investigation into the facts mentioned in section six, clause (a), (b), (c), (d) or (e), appears to the Local Government to be requisite or expedient, the Local Government (whether such notice be given or not) may appoint a special Court, consisting of not less than two nor more than four persons, and direct such Court to make such investigation, and may fix the place for making the same.

One of such persons shall be a Magistrate acting in or near the place where the investigation is made; another shall be some person conversant with maritime affairs. The other or others (if any) shall be conversant with either maritime or mercantile affairs.

Other Courts authorized to investigate casualties. 8. Every Court having admiralty jurisdiction in British India, and the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction at every port of British India where there is no Court having admiralty jurisdiction, is hereby authorized, when so directed by the Local Government, to make the investigations referred to in section seven.

Power to inquire into charges against masters, mates and engineers. 9. Any Court making an investigation under section seven or section eight may inquire into any charge of incompetency or misconduct arising, in the course of such investigation, against any master, mate or engineer holding a certificate granted, under any enactment for the time being in force, by the Board of Trade or a Local Government, as well as into any charge of a wrongful act or default on his part causing any such loss, abandonment, stranding, damage or casualty as aforesaid.

In every case in which there is reason to believe that any such charge, whether of incompetency or misconduct, or of wrongful act or default, as aforesaid, will arise against any such master, mate or engineer in the course of an investigation, the Court shall, if practicable, before the commencement of such investigation, cause to be furnished to him a copy of the report upon which such investigation has been directed.

Local Government may direct investigation in cases of incompetency or misconduct. 10. If the Local Government has reason to believe that there are grounds for charging any such master, mate or engineer with incompetency or misconduct, otherwise than in the course of an investigation under section seven or section eight, it may transmit a statement of the case to any Court mentioned in section eight, at or nearest to the place at which it may be convenient for the parties and witnesses to attend, and may direct such Court to make an investigation into such charge.

Before commencing such investigation, the Court shall cause the master, mate or engineer so charged to be furnished with a copy of the statement transmitted by the Local Government.

Person accused to be heard. 11. For the purpose of an investigation under this chapter into any charge against a master, mate or engineer, the Court may summon him to appear, and shall give him full opportunity of making a defence either in person or otherwise.

Powers of Courts as to evidence and regulating proceedings. 12. For the purpose of any investigation under this chapter, the Court making the investigation, so far as relates to compelling the attendance and examination of witnesses and the production of documents and the regulation of the proceedings, shall have—

(a) if such Court is a special Court—the same powers as are exerciseable by the principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction for the place in which the investigation is made;

(b) if such Court is a Court having admiralty jurisdiction or a principal Court of ordinary criminal jurisdiction—the same powers as are exerciseable by such Court in the exercise of such admiralty or criminal jurisdiction (as the case may be).

Assessors. And every Court making any such investigation, other than a special Court, may, if it think fit, constitute as its assessor, for the purposes of the investigation, any person conversant with maritime affairs and willing to act as such assessor.

Such person shall attend during the investigation and deliver his opinion in writing, to be recorded on the proceedings. But the exercise of all powers conferred on the Court by this Act or any other enactment for the time being in force shall rest with the Court.

Power to arrest witnesses and cause entry and detention of vessels. 13. If any Court making an investigation under this chapter thinks it necessary for obtaining evidence that any person should be arrested, it may issue a warrant for his arrest, and may, for the purpose of effecting such arrest, authorize any officer (subject, nevertheless, to any general or special instructions from the Local Government) to enter any vessel.

Any officer so authorized may, for the purpose of enforcing such entry, call to his aid any officers of police or customs, or any other persons, and may seize and detain the vessel for such time as is reasonably necessary to effect the arrest; and every such officer or other person shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, section 186.

No person shall be detained by virtue of this section for more than forty-eight hours.

Power to commit for trial. 14. Whenever, in the course of any such investigation, it appears that any person has committed an offence punishable under any law in force in British India, the Court making the investigation may (subject to such rules consistent with this Act as the High Court may from time to time prescribe) cause him to be arrested, or commit him or hold him to bail to take his trial before the proper Court; and may bind over

Power to bind over persons to give evidence. any person to give evidence at such trial, and may, for the purposes of this section, exercise all the powers of a Magistrate of the first class or of a Presidency Magistrate:

Depositions. And whenever in the course of such trial the testimony of any witness is required in relation to the subject-matter, any deposition previously made by him in relation to the same subject-matter before any Court making an investigation under this chapter shall, if authenticated by the signature of the Magistrate or presiding Judge, be admissible in evidence on proof—

(a) that the witness cannot be found within the jurisdiction of the Court before which the trial is held; and

(b) that it was made in the presence of the person accused.

A certificate by the Magistrate or presiding Judge that the deposition was made in the presence of the accused shall, unless the contrary be proved, be sufficient evidence that it was so made.

Report by Court to Local Government. 15. The Court shall, in the case of all investigations under this chapter, transmit to the Local Government a full report of the conclusions at which it has arrived, together with the evidence.

In cases in which, under the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, the Court is required to send a report to the Board of Trade, such report shall be sent through the Local Government, and the submission of such report to the Local Government shall be a sufficient compliance with this section.

CHAPTER III.

SUSPENSION AND CANCELLATION OF CERTIFICATES AND GRANT OF FRESH CERTIFICATES.

16. Nothing herein contained shall affect the powers conferred by the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, on the Courts conducting investigations under sections seven, eight, nine and ten of this Act, to cancel or suspend certificates granted under any of the said Merchant Shipping Acts, or certificates to which the provisions of any such Act have been made applicable under the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869.

Saving of power to cancel and suspend certificates under English Acts.

When any such Court cancels or suspends any such certificate, it may, in its report to the Local Government, advise such Government to grant, without examination, to the holder of such certificate, when such certificate is a certificate as master, a certificate as master or mate; and, when such certificate is a certificate as mate or engineer, a certificate as mate or engineer, as the case may be; and such Local Government, if it thinks fit, and if it is empowered by any enactment of a British Indian legislature for the time being in force to grant such certificate, may grant it under such enactment, but without examination. A certificate so granted shall, except for the purposes of the said Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination.

Power to issue local certificates in lieu of such certificates.

17. Any certificate (whether of competency or service) which has been granted by any Local Government, to any master, mate or engineer, and to which the provisions of the Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, do not apply, may be suspended or cancelled, by that or any other Local Government, in the following cases, that is to say:—

Local Government may suspend or cancel certain certificates—

(a) if, upon any investigation made under this Act, the Court reports that the loss, stranding or abandonment of, or damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default, or that he is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of drunkenness, tyranny or other misconduct;

after investigation under this Act;

(b) if, upon any investigation made under the provisions of the Merchant Shipping Acts, 1854 to 1880, or upon any investigation made by any Court or tribunal for the time being authorized by the legislative authority in any British possession to make enquiry into charges of incompetency or misconduct on the part of masters, mates or engineers of ships, or as to shipwrecks or other casualties affecting ships, the Court or tribunal reports that such master, mate or engineer is incompetent, or has been guilty of any gross act of misconduct, drunkenness or tyranny, or that the loss, stranding or abandonment of, or damage to, any ship, or loss of life, has been caused by his wrongful act or default;

after investigation under other Acts;

(c) if he is proved to have been convicted of any offence which, if committed in British India, would be non-bailable, or, if committed in England, would be a felony: and after conviction of any offence

(d) if (in the case of a master) he has been superseded by the order of any Admiralty Court, or of any Naval Court constituted as provided by the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or by any other law for the time being in force:

after supersession.

Provided that, in any case in which an investigation has been made into a charge against any master, mate or engineer, no certificate shall be suspended or cancelled under clause (a) unless the Local Government is satisfied that the holder of the certificate has been furnished before the commencement of the investigation with the copy of the report or statement required by section nine or section ten, as the case may be.

18. Every master, mate or engineer whose certificate is cancelled or suspended under section seventeen shall deliver it to the Shipping Master, or to such other person as the Local Government which cancelled or suspended the certificate directs, and in default of such delivery shall, for each offence, be punished with fine which may extend to five hundred rupees.

Master, &c., to deliver up certificate.

19. If the Local Government which cancels or suspends, under section seventeen, a certificate of a master, mate or engineer is not the Local Government that granted the same, the Local Government so cancelling or suspending the certificate shall report the proceedings, and the fact of cancelment or suspension, to the Local Government which granted such certificate.

Report to other Local Governments.

20. Every Local Government cancelling or suspending under section seventeen the certificate of a master, mate or engineer shall, as soon as may be practicable, report to the Board of Trade the fact of such cancellation or suspension.

Report to Board of Trade.

21. Any Local Government may at any time revoke any order of cancelment or suspension which it may have made under section seventeen, or grant, without examination, to any person, whose certificate it has so cancelled, a new certificate of the same or of any lower grade.

Power to revoke cancellation or suspension.

Power to grant new certificate.

A certificate so granted shall, except for the purposes of the said Merchant Shipping (Colonial) Act, 1869, have the same effect as if it had been granted after examination.

A certificate of competency for a Home-trade ship under the said Act No. I of 1859 shall be deemed, for the purposes of this section, to be of a lower grade than a certificate of competency for a foreign-going ship under the same Act.

Every revocation and every grant under this section shall, as soon as may be practicable, be reported to the Board of Trade.

CHAPTER IV.

AGREEMENTS WITH SEAMEN.

22. This chapter shall be read with, and taken as part of, the said Act No. I of 1859.

Chapter to be read with Act I of 1859.

23. The master of every ship, except ships of a burden not exceeding three hundred tons employed only in the Home-trade, shall enter into an agreement with every seaman whom he carries to sea from any port in British India as one of his crew, in the manner hereinafter mentioned.

Masters to enter into agreements with seamen.

24. Every such agreeemnt shall be in a form sanctioned by the Governor General in Council, and shall be dated at the time of the first signature thereof, and shall be signed by the master before any seaman signs the same, and shall contain the following particulars as terms thereof, that is to say:—

Form and contents of Agreement.

(a) either the nature and, as far as practicable, the duration of the intended voyage or engagement, or the maximum period of the voyage or engagement, and the places or parts of the world, if any, to which the voyage or engagement is not to extend;

(b) the number and description of the crew, specifying how many are engaged as sailors;

(c) the time at which each seaman is to be on board or to begin work;

(d) the capacity in which each seaman is to serve;

(e) the amount of wages which each seaman is to receive;

(f) a scale of the provisions which are to be furnished to each seaman; and

(g) any regulations as to conduct on board, and as to fines, short allowance of provisions or other lawful punishments for misconduct, which have been sanctioned by the Governor General in Council as regulations proper to be adopted, and which the parties agree to adopt.

And every such agreement shall be so framed as to admit of stipulations to be adopted at the will of the master and seaman in each case (not being inconsistent with the provisions of any enactment for the time being in force relating to Merchant Shipping), as to advance of wages and supply of warm clothing, and may contain any other stipulations which are not contrary to law.

25. In the case of such agreements with lascars or other Native seamen, the scale of the provisions agreed to be furnished to each of such seamen shall not be less than a scale to be from time to time fixed and published by the Local Government with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

Scale of provisions to be furnished to lascars.

Any master entering into an agreement with any lascar or other Native seaman for a scale of provisions less than the scale so fixed and published shall be punished with fine which may extend to two hundred rupees.

26. Whenever it is agreed that the service of any lascar or other Native seaman shall end at any port not in British India, the agreement shall, in addition to the particulars specified in section twenty-four, contain a stipulation that fit employment shall be provided for him on board some other ship bound to the port at which he was shipped, or such other port in British India as may be agreed on; or

Stipulation where lascars are shipped.

that a passage shall be provided for him to some port in British India free of charge, or on such other terms as may be agreed on;

and every such stipulation shall be signed by the owner of the ship, or by the master on his behalf.

EXPLANATION.—In this section the word "seaman" includes also a Native of British India carried to sea from any port in British India as one of the crew of a ship.

27. If the master of any ship belonging to the United Kingdom or any British possession has an agreement with his crew, made in due form according to the law of the place to which such ship belongs, or in which her crew were engaged, and engages a single seaman, not being a lascar or other Native seaman, in any port in British India, such seaman may sign the agreement so made, and it shall not be necessary for him to sign an agreement under this Act.

Forms for British or Colonial ships.

CHAPTER V.

PORT-INSPECTORS.

28. In the Indian Ports Act, 1875, after section eighteen, the following sections shall be inserted, that is to say:—

Addition to Act XII of 1875.

"18A. The Local Government may, from time to time, appoint in any port subject to this Act an officer to be called the Port-inspector, and suspend or remove such officer.

Appointment and powers of Port-inspectors.

"Every officer so appointed shall, subject to the control of the Local Government, have the following powers within the limits of the port for which he is appointed, that is to say:—

"(a) he may at any time enter any vessel, and may inspect the same and every part thereof, and the provisions and water provided for the use of the persons on board such vessel, and the medicines and appliances and the accommodation for the seamen;

"(b) he may medically examine all or any of the persons on board such vessel;

"(c) he may require and enforce the production of the log and any other books, papers or documents which he thinks necessary for the purpose of enquiring into the health and medical condition of the persons on board such vessel;

"(d) he may call before him and examine for such purpose all or any of such persons, and may require answers to any inquiries he thinks fit to make;

"(e) he may require any persons so examined by him to make and subscribe a declaration of the truth of the statements made by such person.

"18B. The Port-inspector shall, on first entering any vessel after her arrival, inquire whether any lascar or other Native seaman on board such vessel desires to make any complaint against the master or any of the crew thereof.

Port-inspector to inquire into complaints;

"In the event of any such seaman so desiring, the Port-inspector shall hear such complaint and record the particulars thereof in writing, and may, for the purpose of ascertaining the truth of the same, exercise any of the powers mentioned in section 18A.

"The Port-inspector shall forthwith report in writing to the Shipping Master the particulars of any complaint made to him under this section, together with his opinion thereon."

and report the same to Shipping Master.

CHAPTER VI.

MISCELLANEOUS.

29. In cases where any wages or expenses recoverable under section 213 of the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, or under section 16 of the Merchant Shipping Act Amendment Act, 1855, are, under the same sections, a charge upon any ship, or recoverable from any master, owner or other person, within the jurisdiction of any Court in British India, the Governor General in Council may, from time to time, by notification in the Gazette of India, authorize, either generally or specially, such persons as he thinks fit to sue for and recover, in manner in the Merchant Shipping Act, 1854, section 213, provided, such wages or expenses.

Power to appoint persons to sue.

Every person so authorized shall be entitled to sue and recover accordingly in any such Court, and shall be deemed to be a person filling a public office within the meaning of the Indian Evidence Act, 1872, section 57, clause 7.

All suits and proceedings under this section shall be instituted and carried on in the name of the Secretary of State for India in Council.

Suits, &c., to be instituted in name of Secretary of State for India in Council.

30. Sections 9 to 16 (both inclusive) of the said Act No. I of 1859 shall not apply to ships registered under Act No. X of 1841 and trading between ports in India and the coasts of Arabia, when such ships are navigated and manned exclusively by Arabs, lascars, or other Asiatic masters and seamen.

Provisions as to examinations, &c., of masters not to apply to certain ships.

31. In sections 2, 15, 17 and 23 of the said Act No. X of 1841, for the words "on information in any Court of Her Majesty or the East India Company by the Advocates General of the respective Presidencies," "by information as aforesaid," "on information as aforesaid," "upon information as aforesaid," in each of the places where they occur, the following words shall be substituted, namely:—"on conviction before a Presidency Magistrate or a Magistrate of the first class."

Amendment of Act X of 1841, secs. 2, 15, 17 and 23.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

PARAGRAPH 8 of the Report, dated the 20th February, 1880, of the Select Committee on the Bill relating to Merchant Shipping, which afterwards became the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1880, ran as follows :—

"8. We have omitted chapters VII and VIII of the Bill as introduced, as we consider that the matters to which they relate would be more fitly dealt with in a Bill to consolidate Act No. IV of 1875 and the sections of Act No. XIII of 1878 by which it is amended."

2. The nature of the contents of these omitted chapters will be learnt from the following paragraphs of the Statement of Objects and Reasons, dated the 29th August, 1879, appended to that Bill :—

"21. Chapter VII, by an addition to the Ports Act, 1875, provides for the appointment of an officer called a 'Port-inspector.' This officer, in addition to performing the duties at present performed by the Health-officer (for the performance of which duties he is by the Bill invested with certain legal powers), is intrusted with the duty of inquiring into any complaints which may be made on the arrival of a ship in port by any of the crew against the master or any others of the crew. This latter provision has been inserted, in compliance with the desire of the Secretary of State, for the protection of lascars or other Oriental seamen when serving on board a European ship.

"22. Chapter VIII makes two amendments of the Indian Merchant Shipping Act, 1875. The first extends the provisions of section 3 of that Act so as to give power to hold Marine Courts of Enquiry in certain cases which are at present unprovided for. This change has been introduced at the request of the local Marine authorities, and is in accordance with the provisions of the English law as recently amended. The other amendment gives the Local Government power to fix a scale of provisions, for less than which it will be penal for a master to contract with any lascar or Native seaman—a provision which has been found to be essential for the protection of such seamen."

3. It is with a view to carry out the suggestion of the Select Committee above quoted that the present Bill has been prepared.

The Bill, however, does more than merely consolidate the provisions of the Acts of 1875 and 1878 and re-enact them with the addition of the points omitted from the Merchant Shipping Bill of 1879.

These Acts of 1875 and 1878 relate in part to the suspension and cancellation of Board of Trade certificates to which the provisions of the Imperial Merchant Shipping Acts apply. An examination of the provisions of our Acts in connection with those of the Imperial Acts shows that our Acts deal with several matters already provided for by Parliament. This is not desirable. Apart from the question which might be raised as to the validity of our law, where that law is not transcribed verbatim, it is inconvenient from a practical point of view that double provisions relating to the same subject-matter should exist side by side. In re-enacting, therefore, the provisions of the Acts repealed by the Bill, an endeavour has been made to restrict the provisions of the Bill to matters for which the Imperial Acts do not provide, and on which it is clear we can legislate. This has necessitated the omission of some and the amendment of other provisions of the present law.

4. The opportunity of this Bill has been taken to amend section 26 of Act IV of 1875, so as to provide that, when the service of any lascar is to end at any port not in British India, the agreement between him and the master shall invariably stipulate for his return to British India, and not merely for his employment on board some vessel bound to such other port as may be agreed on, possibly not in British India. It is clear that, with the extended employment of Native seamen in the Eastern trade, and the increasing number of Asiatic sailors found in a destitute condition at European ports, Government should, on economical grounds, if for no other reason, devise steps to secure the return of Indian seamen to this country at the expense of the persons who take them away.

5. The 31st section of Act IV of 1875, which confers certain powers on Courts for the trial of pilots constituted under Act XII of 1859, has been excluded from the present Bill, as the matter is one which will be more properly provided for by a separate Bill amending that Act.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th March, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 7 OF 1881.

A Bill to give power to arrest persons whose evidence is needed under Act No. XII of 1859.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to empower the Judges holding trials under Act No. XII of 1859 (An Act to make better provision for the trial of Pilots at the Presidency of Fort William in Bengal for breach of duty) to arrest persons whose evidence is required on such trials; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Addition to Act XII of 1859, after section 14.

1. The following section shall be inserted immediately after section 14 of the said Act, namely :—

"15. Whenever the Judge of the said Court thinks it necessary for obtaining evidence that any person should be arrested, he may issue a warrant for his arrest, and may, for the purpose of effecting such arrest, authorize any officer (subject, nevertheless, to any general or special instructions from the Local Government) to enter any vessel.

"Any officer so authorized may, for the purpose of enforcing such entry, call to his aid any officers of police or customs, or any other persons, and may seize and detain the vessel for such time as is reasonably necessary to effect the arrest; and every such officer or other person shall be deemed to be a public servant within the meaning of the Indian Penal Code, section 186.

"No person shall be detained under this section for more than forty-eight hours."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE last section of Act IV of 1875, which confers on Courts established for the trial of pilots in Bengal under Act XII of 1859 certain powers for compelling the attendance of witnesses, will be repealed if the Merchant Shipping Bill, which is to be introduced to-day, becomes law. As such a provision is somewhat out of place in a Merchant Shipping Act, it seems better to re-enact it as a section in Act XII of 1859, and the present Bill has accordingly been prepared for this purpose.

[Second Publication.]

The following Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th March, 1881 :—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Courts of Small Causes established in the Presidency-towns was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

From Acting Under Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 7519, dated 9th November, 1880, and enclosures [Papers No. 1].
„ Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 2624, dated 2nd November 1880, and enclosures [Papers No. 2].
„ Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 2662, dated 17th November, 1880, and enclosure [Papers No. 3].
„ D. Sealy, Esq., Vakíl, High Court, Bombay, dated 26th November, 1880 [Paper No. 4].
Note by Hon'ble J. Sewell White, Judge, High Court, Calcutta, dated 13th December, 1880 [Paper No. 5].
From Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 67J., dated 7th January, 1881, and enclosures [Papers No. 6].
„ J. Crawford, Esq., Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 970, dated 30th May, 1879 [Papers No. 7].
„ Ditto ditto, No. 279, dated 5th February, 1881 [Papers No. 7].
„ H. J. Stephen, Esq., Barrister-at-law, High Court, Calcutta, dated 10th February, 1881, and enclosure [Papers No. 8].

2. We have added a clause to section 6 of the Bill giving the High Courts the same powers over the Small Cause Courts as they have under the 15th section of the High Courts Act over Courts subject to their appellate jurisdiction.

3. We have altered the section (7) relating to the appointment of the Judges so as to provide that one-third at least of the Judges shall be advocates of a High Court. We think the professional members of the Court should be chosen from the advocates of the High Courts, who may be expected to have acquired some experience of the country.

4. The Bill as introduced made the rank and precedence of the Judges depend on the seniority of their appointment. This would not have answered, as it appears that each seat in the Court has a special rank and salary of its own, and the candidates for appointment are posted to particular seats in the Court with reference to their respective qualifications. The second Judge ought, therefore, always to rank above the third, the third above the fourth, and so on, without any reference to the dates of their appointment, and we have accordingly, in section 8, after providing that the Chief Judge shall be the first in rank, introduced words leaving it to the Local Government to fix the rank of the rest.

5. Another change we have made in the constitution of the Court established by the Bill as introduced, consists in the transfer to the Chief Judge of certain administrative powers (see section 13 and also sections 61 and 62), which, we think, would be more efficiently exercised by a single individual.

6. The only other amendment we need notice in this portion of the Bill is the insertion of a clause in section 13, providing for the appointment of a Registrar and a section (14) empowering the Local Government to invest him with jurisdiction to try suits up to the limit of Rs. 20 in value. This amendment has been made at the instance of the Government of Bengal, and there is a precedent for it in the Mufassal Small Cause Courts Act No. XI of 1865.

7. Turning now to the chapter relating to jurisdiction in respect of suits, the first change we have made will be found in section 18 of the amended Bill (= section 16 of the Bill as introduced). The reasons given for framing that section as it originally stood are thus given in the 7th paragraph of the Statement of Objects and Reasons :—

"Act IX of 1850, in conferring jurisdiction on the Courts up to a value of Rs. 500, confines its exercise to cases of defendants dwelling or carrying on business within the local limits. Act XXVI of 1864, on the other hand, in conferring jurisdiction between the values of Rs. 500 and Rs. 1,000, gives an alternative ground for its exercise, namely, the circumstance of the cause of action having arisen within the local limits. It has been urged by most of the authorities consulted that the basis of the jurisdiction should be the same in cases of all values. On the other hand, fears have been expressed by some that a power to institute a suit of the lower value against a defendant residing at a distance might be liable to abuse unless some limitation were imposed. The correct view of the matter seems to be that taken by the Judges of the Madras High Court and Mr. Busteed, namely, that in this particular no distinction should be made between the High Court and the Small Cause Court, and accordingly the Bill has been drawn so as to place the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court in this respect on precisely the same footing as that on which the jurisdiction of the High Court is placed by the Letters Patent."

The objection to the power to institute a suit in the Small Cause Court against a defendant residing at a distance has been again urged, and it is one to which we feel compelled to yield. We have accordingly inserted words requiring the leave of the Court to be obtained when it is proposed to institute a suit against a defendant residing beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction, and we have made this provision applicable to all suits without regard to value. The original scheme of putting the Small Cause Court jurisdiction on the same footing in this particular as the jurisdiction of the High Court being thus broken in upon, we have thought it best to bring the remainder of the section into conformity with the corresponding provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure.

8. In the following section, which excludes certain classes of suits from the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court, we have omitted the second clause, "suits against the Secretary of State in Council," as it appears to be generally objected to, and we have added the following:—

(1) suits for the specific performance or rescission of contracts generally (such suits are, as regards contracts relating to immoveable property, excluded by the Bill as introduced);
(2) suits for compensation for malicious prosecution;
(3) suits for the cancellation or rectification of instruments;
(4) suits relating to general average and to insurances on sea-going vessels;
(5) suits for compensation in respect of collisions at sea;
(6) suits for compensation for the infringement of a patent, copy-right or trade-mark;
(7) suits for a dissolution of partnership or for an account of partnership transations;
(8) suits for declaratory decrees;
(9) suits in which the plaintiff's claim depends on the decision of a question as to religious rites or ceremonies;
(10) suits for possession of a hereditary office;
(11) suits against Sovereign Princes or Ruling Chiefs, or against Ambassadors or Envoys of Foreign States.

The reasons for excluding these suits are so obvious that it is unnecessary to state them.

9. We have struck out the second clause of section 21 (new numbering), which deprived a plaintiff of costs in certain cases if he elected to institute in the High Court a suit against an officer of the Small Cause Court for a wrong done by him under colour of its process. We think that in all such cases a plaintiff should be allowed a free choice.

10. We have also struck out the latter portion of section 22 (new numbering), which specified the grounds on which a Judge in other cases, in which suits cognizable in the Small Cause Court are instituted in the High Court, may certify for costs, as we think that in such a matter the Judge should be allowed a full discretion.

11. Proceeding next to chapter V relating to procedure in suits, we desire to state that we have most carefully considered the objections urged against the first section of that chapter which applies to the Small Cause Courts a large portion of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Those objections, in so far as they come from the public, proceed chiefly from those classes of persons who most frequently appear as plaintiffs in suits of a very simple description, and we can well understand the apprehension they feel that the application of so large portion of the ordinary procedure may, in suits of that class, give rise to complication and delay. But it must be remembered that the great bulk of the provisions so extended are of such a nature as to be applicable only in exceptional cases, and we think that any one who follows the thread of the provisions applicable to ordinary suits will find the procedure to be extremely simple. Moreover, we find that a considerable portion of the Code has been actually in force for some time past in the Madras Small Cause Court, where the statistics show the amount of work performed by each Judge to be as large as in the Small Cause Courts at Calcutta and Bombay, and we further find that the Judges of the Calcutta Small Cause Court themselves propose to apply with little variation the great bulk of the sections contained in the second schedule to this Bill.

12. We have, however, in deference to the apprehensions which have been expressed, gone through the schedule item by item, and have struck out some portions; among others those requiring copies of the plaint or concise statements to be filed with the plaint, those relating to discovery, those requiring judgments to be in writing, and the whole chapter relating to pauper suits.

We have, moreover, in order to relieve the Judges, inserted in the body of the Bill a section (35) based on section 637 of the Code, empowering the Court to direct that any non-judicial or quasi-judicial act which the Code requires to be done by a Judge shall be done by a ministerial officer, and we think that the procedure as now settled is as simple as it can safely be made, and as the majority of the litigants would desire it to be.

13. We have added a section providing that no decision passed under the Act shall be conclusive, except as to the right to the relief granted or the absence of a right to the relief withheld by it. This provision, which cuts away to a great extent the doctrine of res judicata, will no doubt leave it open to persistent parties to litigate a second time questions which may have been already carefully considered and well decided; but we think it better to take the risk of this than to take the risk of having difficult questions of title to property of large value and complicated issues governing extensive transactions finally decided under an Act like this in the first petty case in which they may chance to present themselves.

14. We have extended section 27 (new numbering) to cases in which the plaintiff does not altogether fail in his suit, but fails to recover the full amount of his claim and to cases in which unfounded objections are made to the attachment of property in execution of decree.

15. Section 30 is new. The law, as it at present stands in this country, would appear to be peculiarly indulgent to tenants in the matter of the right to remove what they may have attached to the soil, and yet the holder of a decree of the Small Cause Court is probably precluded (unless he chooses to resort to the High Court) from taking in execution of such decree even some such things as might be taken under a fieri facias in England. It has, at all events, been held that though tenants in Calcutta have a right to remove "tiled huts," such huts cannot be taken in execution of decrees of the Small Cause Court. The landlords complain of this as a hardship, and we think not without reason; but the remedy should not, in our opinion, be limited to this particular case, and we have accordingly provided that anything which the tenant would be entitled to remove during his tenancy may be taken in the execution of a decree against him as if it were a moveable.

16. We have at the instance of the Judges of the Calcutta Small Cause Court substituted for the latter portion of section 230 of the Code a section (28) providing that no decree of a Small Cause Court shall be executed after the lapse of three years from the date on which it is passed, unless the judgment-debtor by force or fraud has prevented its execution within the three years.

17. We have, in section 34 of the Bill, restored section 31 of Act IX of 1850, which allows minors to sue for a sum not exceeding Rs. 500 due for wages, or piece-work or for work as a servant, as if they were of full age, but we have, to prevent mistake, expressly limited it to cases where such money is due under section 70 of the Contract Act, the only law, as we believe, under which a minor can now acquire a right to such money.

18. The only other amendment we have to notice in the chapter relating to procedure is the insertion of certain sections (36 to 38) providing for the exercise of the jurisdiction which may be conferred on the Registrar under section 14.

19. We have introduced a new chapter (VI) to include the section providing for a new trial and certain additional sections establishing a mode of having a suit of a value above Rs. 500, re-heard in the High Court, as if it had been instituted in that court. These sections, which have been proposed by Mr. Kennedy, are based on the provisions enacted by the 14th & 15th Vic. c. 57, for the Irish Civil Bill Courts, and they have in our opinion this advantage, that they provide, in cases where there has been a failure of justice, a substitute for an appeal without entailing the necessity of any elaborate record of evidence being kept by the Court below.

20. We have omitted the chapters which would have conferred on the Small Cause Courts jurisdiction in certain classes of insolvency and probate business, as we believe that unless the Court were to hear cases which, owing to their intricacy and difficulty, ought to be removed into the High Court, the saving of time to the High Court would be altogether unimportant. There is no doubt that the High Courts at present dispose of much petty business of these classes, but it is done for the most part in the offices of the Court, and costs the Judges little time or labour.

We may add that, so far as the grant of probates and letters of administration is concerned, we believe that the object in view will be better secured by the extension of the certificate system effected by Act No. IX of 1881.

21. We have confined section 59, which prevents the fees of a legal practitioner being recovered as costs unless his employment is held to be reasonable, to cases where the amount or value in dispute is less than Rs. 20. We do not see why in cases where a larger amount is at stake the ordinary rules as to allowing costs should not apply.

22. Lastly, we have inserted a section (72) to determine the functions of legal practitioners in the Small Cause Court. Its first clause provides that no persons other than advocates, attorneys and vakíls of the High Court and persons who are now pleaders of the Small Cause Court shall appear, plead or act in the Small Cause Court. We do not think it desirable to admit an inferior class of legal practitioners, whose business would be confined to the Small Cause Courts, and, accordingly, while we would save the rights of pleaders already admitted, we would bar the admission of any others.

The second clause of the section confines the right to conduct as counsel a suit at the hearing, in the extended jurisdiction now for the first time conferred on the Court, to advocates and vakíls of the High Court, and requires that a barrister so conducting a suit shall be instructed by an attorney or vakíl, or by a pleader of the Small Cause Court. The reasons for this latter requirement are obvious.

The section, it need hardly be mentioned, saves the right of parties to conduct their own cases, and appear for one another, and also the rights of recognized agents.

23. The publication of the Bill, with its Statement of Objects and Reasons, in English, has been reported by the Governments of Madras, Bombay and Bengal. We consider that the changes now made are such as to render its re-publication desirable; and we have accordingly altered the date on which it should come into force to the 1st January, 1882, and recommend that it now be re-published.

I THINK that the limit in section 22 ought to be reduced from Rs. 2,000 to 1,000. In other respects I agree in the report.

No. II.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Courts of Small Causes established in the Presidency-towns.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Courts of Small Causes established in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title.

1. This Act may be called "The Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, 1881"; and Commencement.

it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1882.

But nothing herein contained shall affect the provisions of the Army Discipline and Regulation Act, 1879, section 144.

Repeal of enactments.

2. On and from the day on which this Act comes into force, the enactments specified in the first schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned therein.

But all Courts constituted and appointments made under any of the said enactments shall, as far as may be, be deemed to have been respectively constituted and made under this Act.

References in previous Acts.

All references to any enactment hereby repealed made in Acts passed prior to the day on which this Act comes into force shall be read, so far as may be practicable, as if made to this Act or the corresponding provisions hereof.

Amendment of Acts.

3. In Act No. XXIII of 1850 (for securing the Land-Revenue of Calcutta), section 3, the words "as provided by the said Act" shall be repealed; and for each of the expressions "a Commissioner of the Court for recovery of small debts referred to in the said Act" and "the said Commissioners," the words "the Judges of the Court of Small Causes at Calcutta" shall be substituted.

In the Code of Civil Procedure, section 8, after the word and figures "chapter XXXIX," the words and figures "and by the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, 1881," shall be inserted.

"Small Cause Court" defined.

4. In this Act, "the Small Cause Court" means the Court of Small Causes constituted under this Act in the town of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, as the case may be.

CHAPTER II.

CONSTITUTION AND OFFICERS OF THE COURT.

Courts of Small Causes established.

5. There shall be in each of the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay a Court, to be called the Court of Small Causes of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, as the case may be,

New. See 8 Bom. H. C. Rep. (O. C. J.) 59 and sec. 652 of Act X of 1877.

Court to be deemed under superintendence, &c., of High Court.

6. The Small Cause Court shall be deemed to be a Court subject to the superintendence of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William, Madras or Bombay, as the case may be, within the meaning of the Letters Patent, respectively dated the 28th day of December, 1865, for such High Courts and within the meaning of the Code of Civil Procedure; and the High Court shall have, in respect of the Small Cause Court, the same powers as it has under the 24th & 25th of Vic., chapter 104, section 15, in respect of Courts subject to its appellate jurisdiction.

See Act XXVI of 1864, s. 12: Act IX of 1850, s. 5.

Appointment, suspension and removal of Judges.

7. Subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, the Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint a person to be Chief Judge, and so many other persons as it thinks fit to be Judges of the Small Cause Court: Provided that not less than one-third of the persons so appointed, including the Chief Judge, shall be advocates of one of the said High Courts.

Act IX of 1850, s. 10.

The Local Government may, by a like notification, suspend and, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, remove any Judge so appointed.

See Act XXVI of 1864, s. 14.

Rank and precedence of Judges.

8. The Chief Judge shall be the first of the Judges in rank and precedence.

Act XVII of 1877, s. 6.

The other Judges shall have rank and precedence as the Local Government may, from time to time, direct.

Act XVII of 1877, s. 119 (Cf. Act IX of 1850, s. 23.)

Delegation of powers of Court to its members.

9. Except as otherwise provided by this or any other law for the time being in force, the Small Cause Court may, with the previous sanction of the High Court, make rules to provide, in such manner as it thinks fit, for the exercise by one or more of its Judges of any powers conferred on the Small Cause Court by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force.

Act XXVI of 1864, s. 14.

Chief Judge to distribute business of Court.

10. Subject to such rules, the Chief Judge may, from time to time, make such arrangements as he thinks fit for the distribution of the business of the Court among the various Judges thereof.

Act XLVI of 1860, s. 99 [illegible]

Procedure in case of difference of opinion.

11. Save as hereinafter otherwise provided, when two or more of the Judges sitting together differ on any question, the opinion of the majority shall prevail; and if the Court is equally divided, the Chief Judge, if he is one of the Judges so differing, or in his absence the Judge first in rank and precedence of the Judges so differing, shall have the casting voice.

Act XVII of 1875, s. 10(3), (Cf. Act IX of 1850, s. 24.)

Seal to be used.

12. The Small Cause Court shall use a seal of such form and dimensions as are for the time being prescribed by the Local Government.

Act IX of 1850, ss. 12-15.

Appointment of Registrar and ministerial officers.

13. The Local Government may, from time to time, appoint an officer to be called the Registrar of the Court, and to be the chief ministerial officer of the Court; and the Chief Judge may, from time to time, subject to the control of the Local Government, appoint as many clerks, bailiffs and other ministerial officers as may be necessary for the administration of justice by the Court and for the exercise and performance of the powers and duties conferred and imposed on it by this Act or any other law for the time being in force.

Cf. Act IX of 1850, ss. 14-16: Act XVII of 1877, s. 23.

Powers and duties of such officers.

The Registrar and other officers so appointed shall exercise such powers, and discharge such duties, of a ministerial nature as the Chief Judge (subject to the control of the High Court) may, from time to time, by rule, direct.

Act XVII of 1875, s. 70.

The Chief Judge may suspend or remove any Registrar or other officer so appointed; but the removal of any Registrar or officer drawing a monthly salary of one hundred rupees or upwards shall be subject to the orders of the Local Government.

New.

Registrar may be invested with powers of a Judge in suits not exceeding twenty rupees.

14. The Local Government may invest the Registrar with the powers of a Judge under this Act for the trial of suits in which the amount or value of the subject-matter does not exceed twenty rupees. And, subject to the orders of the Chief Judge, any Judge of the Small Cause Court may, whenever he thinks fit, transfer from his own file to the file of the Registrar any suit which the latter is competent to try.

Act IX of 1850, ss. 9 and 17.

Judge or other officer not to practise or trade.

15. No Judge or other officer appointed under this Act shall, during his continuance as such Judge or officer, either by himself or as a partner of any other person, practise or act, either directly or indirectly, as an Advocate, Attorney, Vakíl or other legal practitioner, or be concerned, either on his own account or for any other person, or as the partner of any other person, in any trade or profession.

Any such Judge or officer so practising, acting or concerned shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 168 of the Indian Penal Code.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to prohibit any such Judge or officer from being a member of any company incorporated or registered under Royal Charter, Letters Patent, Act of Parliament or Act of any British Indian Legislature.

CHAPTER III.

LAW ADMINISTERED BY THE COURT.

Cf. Act XVII of 1875. See s. 37 of Act IX of 1850.

Questions arising in suits, &c., under Act to be decided according to law administered by High Court.

16. All questions other than questions relating to procedure or practice which arise in suits or other proceedings under this Act in the Small Cause Court shall be dealt with and determined according to the law for the time being administered by the High Court in the exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction.

CHAPTER IV.

JURISDICTION IN RESPECT OF SUITS.

Act [illegible]

Local limits of jurisdiction of Court.

17. The local limits of the jurisdiction of each of the Small Cause Courts shall be the local limits for the time being of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court.

Act IX of 1850, ss. 25 and 33: Cf. Act X of 1877, s. 11.

19 & 20 Vic., c. 106, s. 24.

Letters Patent of 1865, s. 12.

Suits in which Court has jurisdiction.

18. Subject to the exceptions in section nineteen, the Small Cause Court shall have jurisdiction to try all suits of a civil nature—when the amount or value of the subject-matter does not exceed two thousand rupees: and

(a) the cause of action has arisen, either wholly or in part, within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court, and the leave of the Court has, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, been given before the institution of the suit; or

(b) all the defendants, at the time of the institution of the suit, actually and voluntarily reside, or carry on business, or personally work for gain within such local limits; or

(c) any of the defendants, at the time of the institution of the suit, actually and voluntarily resides, or carries on business, or personally works for gain, within such local limits: and either the leave of the Court has been given before the institution of the suit, or the defendants who do not reside, or carry on business, or personally work for gain, as aforesaid, acquiesce in such institution.

Explanation I.—When in any suit the sum claimed is, by a set-off admitted by both parties, reduced to a balance not exceeding two thousand rupees, the Small Cause Court shall have jurisdiction to try such suit.

Explanation II.—Where a person has a permanent dwelling at one place and also a lodging at another place for a temporary purpose only, he shall be deemed to reside at both places in respect of any cause of action arising at the place where he has such temporary lodging.

Explanation III.—A Corporation or Company shall be deemed to carry on business at its sole or principal office in British India or, in respect of any cause of action arising at any place where it has also a subordinate office, at such place.

See 8 Bom. H. C. Rep. (O. C. J.) 1.

Suits in which Court has no jurisdiction.

19. The Small Cause Court shall have no jurisdiction in—

(a) suits concerning the assessment or collection of the revenue;

(b) suits concerning any act ordered or done by the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, or by the Governor General or a Governor, or by any Member of the Council of the Governor General or of the Governor of Madras or Bombay, in his official capacity, or by any person by order of the Governor General in Council or the Local Government;

(c) suits concerning any act ordered or done by any Judge or judicial officer in the execution of his office, or by any person in pursuance of any judgment or order of any Court or any such Judge or judicial officer;

(d) suits for the recovery of immoveable property;

(e) suits for the partition of immoveable property;

(f) suits for the foreclosure or redemption of a mortgage of immoveable property;

(g) suits for the determination of any other right to or interest in immoveable property;

(h) suits for the specific performance or rescission of contracts;

(i) suits to obtain an injunction;

(j) suits for the cancellation or rectification of instruments;

(k) suits to enforce a trust;

(l) suits relating to general average and to insurances on sea-going vessels;

(m) suits for compensation in respect of collisions at sea;

(n) suits for compensation for the infringement of a patent, copy-right or trade-mark;

(o) suits for a dissolution of partnership or for an account of partnership-transactions;

(p) suits for an account of property and its due administration under the decree of the Court;

(q) suits for compensation for libel, slander, malicious prosecution, adultery or breach of promise of marriage;

(r) suits for the restitution of conjugal rights, for the recovery of a wife, or for a divorce;

(s) suits for declaratory decrees;

(t) suits in which the plaintiff's claim depends on the decision of a question as to religious rites or ceremonies;

(u) suits for possession of a hereditary office;

(v) suits against Sovereign Princes or Ruling Chiefs, or against Ambassadors or Envoys of Foreign States;

(w) suits on any judgment of a High Court; 19 & 20 Vic., c. 108, s. 37.

(x) suits the cognizance whereof by the Small Cause Court is barred by any law for the time being in force.

Act XXVI of 1864, s. 3.

Court may by consent try suits beyond pecuniary limits of jurisdiction.

20. When the parties to a suit which, if the amount or value of the subject-matter thereof did not exceed two thousand rupees, would be cognizable by the Small Cause Court, have entered into an agreement in writing that the Small Cause Court shall have jurisdiction to try such suit, the Court shall have jurisdiction to try the same, although the amount or value of the subject-matter thereof may exceed two thousand rupees.

Every such agreement shall be filed in the Small Cause Court, and, when so filed, the parties to it shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the Court, and shall be bound by its decision in such suit.

Suits by and against officers of Court.

21. All suits to which an officer of the Small Cause Court is, as such, a party, except suits in respect of property taken in execution of its process, or the proceeds or value thereof, may be instituted in the High Court at the election of the plaintiff as if this Act had not been passed.

Costs when plaintiff sues in High Court in other cases cognizable by Small Cause Court.

22. If any suit cognizable by the Small Cause Court, other than a suit to which in section twenty-one it applies, is instituted in the High Court, and if in such suit the plaintiff obtains, in the case of a suit founded on contract, a decree for any matter of an amount or value less than two thousand rupees, and in the case of any other suit, a decree for any matter of an amount or value of less than three hundred rupees, no costs shall be allowed to the plaintiff, and if in any such suit the plaintiff does not obtain a decree, the defendant shall be entitled to his costs as between attorney and client.

The foregoing rules shall not apply to any suit in which the Judge who tries the same certifies that it was one fit to be brought in the High Court.

CHAPTER V.

PROCEDURE IN SUITS.

Portions of Civil Procedure Code extending to the Court.

23. The chapters and sections of the Code of Civil Procedure specified in the second schedule hereto annexed shall extend, and shall, so far as the same may, in the judgment of the Court, be applicable, be applied, to the Small Cause Court; and the procedure prescribed thereby shall be the procedure followed in the Court in all suits cognizable by it, except where such procedure is inconsistent with the procedure prescribed by any specific provisions of this Act.

Res judicata.

24. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 13 of the Code of Civil Procedure, no decision passed under the provisions of this Act shall be conclusive as to anything except the right at the time of such decision to the relief granted thereby, or the absence of a right at such time to any relief claimed by the plaintiff and withheld by such decision.

Illustrations.

(a). A sues B in the Small Cause Court for compensation for damage done by B to a house which A alleges to be his own. B denies that the house is A's. The Court decides that the house is A's, and that he is entitled to Rs. 100 compensation. The decision is conclusive as to A's right to the compensation, but not as to his title to the house, and, if A subsequently sues B for further damage done to the same house, B is not precluded from again questioning A's title.

(b). A sues B in the Small Cause Court for an instalment alleged to be due on a bond purporting to be executed by B. B denies the execution of the bond. The Court finds the execution proved, and gives A a decree for the amount of the instalment. A subsequently sues B for a later instalment on the same bond; B is not precluded from again denying the execution.

(c). A sues B as in illustration (b). B denies the execution of the bond, and the Court, finding that B's signature was forged, dismisses the suit. This does not preclude A from suing again on the bond.

(d). A sues B in the Small Cause Court for possession of a horse which A alleges to be his property, and to have been lent to B to use during A's pleasure. B denies that the horse is A's. The Court finds that the horse is A's, and gives him a decree for possession, and A recovers possession of the horse. B, subsequently alleging that the horse is his, sues A for possession of it. The decision in the former suit is no bar to B.

No written statement except in cases of set-off.

25. Except in cases of set-off under the Code of Civil Procedure, section 111, no written statement shall be received unless required by the Court.

Dismissal of documents admitted in evidence.

26. When a period of eight days from the decision of a suit has expired without any application for a new trial or re-hearing of such suit having been made, or, when any such application has been made within such period and such application has been refused, or the new trial or re-hearing (as the case may be) has ended, any person, whether a party to the suit or not, desirous of receiving back any document produced by him in the suit and placed on the record, shall, unless the document is impounded under section 143 of the Code of Civil Procedure, be entitled to receive back the same:

Provided that a document may be returned at any time before any of such events if the person applying for such return delivers to the proper officer a certified copy of such document to be substituted for the original. Provided also that no document shall be returned which by force of the decree has become void or useless.

On the return of a document which has been admitted in evidence, a receipt shall be given by the party receiving it, in a receipt-book to be kept for the purpose.

Compensation payable by plaintiff to defendant in certain cases.

Act IX of 1850, s. 42.

27. In any suit in which the defendant appears and does not admit the claim, and the plaintiff does not obtain a decree for the full amount of his claim, the Small Cause Court may in its discretion order the plaintiff to pay to the defendant, by way of satisfaction for his trouble and attendance, such sum as it thinks fit.

When any claim preferred, or objection made, under section 278 of the Code of Civil Procedure, is disallowed, the Small Cause Court may in its discretion order the person preferring or making such claim or objection to pay to the decree-holder, or to the judgment-debtor, or to both, by way of satisfaction as aforesaid, such sum or sums as it thinks fit.

Any order under this section may, in default of payment of the amount payable there-under, be enforced by the person in whose favour it is made against the person against whom it is made as if it were a decree of the Court.

Bar to applications for execution of decrees.

28. No application to execute a decree passed under this Act shall be received after the expiration of three years from the date of such decree, unless the judgment-debtor has, within the three years following such date, by force or fraud prevented the execution of such decree.

Decree-holder to accompany officer executing warrant.

29. Whenever the Small Cause Court issues a warrant for the arrest of a judgment-debtor or the attachment of his property, the decree-holder, or some other person on his behalf, shall accompany the officer of the Court entrusted with the execution of such warrant, and shall point out to such officer the judgment-debtor or the property to be attached, as the case may be.

Things attached to immoveable property and removeable by tenant to be deemed moveable in execution.

30. When the judgment-debtor under any decree of the Small Cause Court, is a tenant of immoveable property, anything attached to such property, and which he might before the termination of his tenancy lawfully remove without the permission of his landlord, shall, for the purpose of the execution of such decree, be deemed to be moveable property, and may, if sold in such execution, be severed by the purchaser, but shall not be removed by him from the property until he has done to the property whatever the judgment-debtor would have been bound to do to it if he had removed such thing.

Discharge of judgment-debtor on sufficient security.

31. Whenever any judgment-debtor, who has been arrested in execution of a decree of the Small Cause Court, offers security to the satisfaction of such Court for payment of the amount which he has been ordered to pay and the costs, the Court may order him to be discharged.

Act IX of 1850, s. 71. (See I.L.R. 5 Calc., p. 294.)

Court may in certain cases suspend execution of decree.

32. Whenever it appears to the Small Cause Court that any judgment-debtor under its decree is unable, from sickness or other sufficient cause, to pay the amount of the decree, or, if such Court has ordered the same to be paid in instalments, the amount of any instalment thereof, it may, from time to time, for such time and upon such terms as it thinks fit, suspend the execution of such decree.

Act XI of 1865, s. 20.

Execution of decree of Small Cause Court by other Courts.

33. If the judgment-debtor under any decree of the Small Cause Court has not, within the local limits of its jurisdiction, moveable property sufficient to satisfy the decree, the Court may, on the application of the decree-holder, send the decree for execution—

(a) in the case of execution against immoveable property situate within such local limits—to the High Court;

(b) in all other cases—to any Civil Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such judgment-debtor, or any moveable or immoveable property of such judgment-debtor, may be found.

Procedure when decree transferred.

The procedure prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure for the execution of decrees by Courts other than those which made them shall be the procedure followed in such cases.

Act IX of 1850 s. 31.

Minors may sue in certain cases as if of full age.

34. Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Civil Procedure as applied by this Act, any minor may institute a suit for any sum of money, not exceeding five hundred rupees, which may be due to him under section seventy of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, for wages or piece-work or for work as a servant, in the same manner as if he were of full age.

Act X of 1877, s. 637.

Power to delegate non-judicial duties.

35. Any non-judicial or quasi-judicial act which the Code of Civil Procedure as applied by this Act requires to be done by a Judge, and any act which may be done by a Commissioner appointed to examine and adjust accounts under section 394 of that Code as so applied, may be done by the Registrar of the Small Cause Court or by such other officer of that Court as that Court may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf.

The High Court may, from time to time, by rule declare what shall be deemed to be non-judicial and quasi-judicial acts within the meaning of this section.

Registrar to hear and determine suits like a Judge.

36. The suits cognizable by the Registrar under section fourteen shall be heard and determined by him in like manner in all respects as a Judge of the Court might hear and determine the same:

Proviso.

Provided that, subject to the orders of the Chief Judge, any Judge of the Court may, whenever he thinks fit, transfer to his own file any suit on the file of the Registrar.

Registrar may execute all decrees with the same powers as a Judge.

37. The Registrar may receive applications for the execution of decrees of any value passed by the Court, and may commit and discharge judgment-debtors, and make any order in respect thereof which a Judge of the Court might make under this Act.

New.

Decrees and orders of Registrar to be subject to new trial as if made by a Judge.

38. Every decree and order made by the Registrar in any suit or proceeding shall be subject to the same provisions in regard to new trial as if made by a Judge of the Court.

CHAPTER VI.

NEW TRIALS AND REHEARING.

(Cf. Act XI of 1865, s. 21.) Cls., rule 23.

Judgments and orders of Court final.

Power to order new trial in Small Cause Court.

39. Save as is herein specially provided, every decree and order of the Small Cause Court in a suit shall be final and conclusive; but the Court may, on application of either party, made within eight days from the date of the decree or order in any suit (not being a decree passed under section 522 of the Code of Civil Procedure) order a new trial to be held upon such terms as it thinks reasonable, and may, in the meantime, stay the proceedings.

Application for re-hearing in High Court.

40. Any party may, within eight days after the judgment in any suit in which the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds five hundred rupees, apply to the High Court for an order that such suit may be re-heard.

Such application shall be supported by affidavits, and, in case the applicant has appeared by advocate, vakil or attorney, by a certificate from the leading Counsel at the hearing that in his opinion there are good grounds for re-hearing the suit, and, if on hearing such application, the High Court is of opinion that there has been a miscarriage or failure of justice, or that there are other good grounds for such re-hearing, the Court shall make an order ex parte, on such terms as it thinks fit, for such re-hearing and fix a day for the same, whereof notice shall be given to the opposite party.

The rules contained in sections 545, 546 and 547 of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to staying and executing decrees under appeal, shall apply in the case of applications under this section as if such applications were appeals from the decisions of the Small Cause Court.

Mr. Kennedy's draft, s. 96

Procedure at re-hearing.

41. On the day fixed under section forty or on any other day to which the hearing may be adjourned, the High Court, or some Judge thereof, shall proceed to hear and determine the case as if the same were a suit brought in such High Court in its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, in which the plaintiff in the Small Cause Court was plaintiff, and the defendant in such Court was defendant, and in which written statements had not been ordered to be filed; and, except as herein otherwise provided, all the practice and procedure of such High Court in respect of suits brought in its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, shall be followed in suits re-heard under this section: Provided that there shall not be any appeal from any judgment, decree, or order under this section.

Mr. Kennedy's draft, s. 97.

Execution of decree of High Court.

42. Every decree or order made by any High Court upon any such rehearing may either be executed by such High Court in the same manner as other decrees or orders of such Court or may, in the discretion of the High Court, be remitted to the Small Cause Court for execution.

CHAPTER VII.

RECOVERY OF POSSESSION OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

Act IX of 1850, s. 91. 19 & 20 Vic., c. 108, s. 50.

43. When any person has had possession of any immoveable property situate within the local limits of the Small Cause Court's jurisdiction and of which the annual value at a rack-rent does not exceed one thousand rupees, as the tenant, or by permission of, another person, or of some person through whom such other person claims,

Summons against person occupying property without leave.

and such tenancy or permission has been determined or been withdrawn, and such tenant or occupier or any person holding under or by assignment from him, (hereinafter called the occupant) refuses to deliver up such property in compliance with a request made to him in this behalf by such other person, such other person (hereinafter called the applicant) may apply to the Small Cause Court for a summons against the occupant, calling upon him to show cause, on a day therein appointed, why he should not be compelled to deliver up the property.

Act IX of 1850, s. 94.

44. The summons shall be served on the occupant in the manner provided by the Code of Civil Procedure for the service of a summons on a defendant.

Service of summons.

Act IX of 1850, ss. 92, 93. 19 & 20 Vic., c. 108, s. 50.

45. If the occupant does not appear at the time appointed and show cause to the contrary, the applicant shall, if the Small Cause Court is satisfied that he is entitled to apply under section forty-three, be entitled to an order addressed to a bailiff of the Court directing him to give possession of the property to the applicant on such day as the Court thinks fit to name in such order.

Order for possession.

Explanation.—If the occupant proves that the tenancy was created or permission granted by virtue of a title which determined previous to the date of the application, he shall be deemed to have shown cause within the meaning of this section.

Act IX of 1850, s. 93.

46. Any such order shall justify the bailiff to whom it is addressed in entering after the hour of six in the morning and before the hour of six in the afternoon upon the property named therein, with such assistants as he thinks necessary, and giving possession of such property to the applicant :

Such order to justify bailiff entering on property and giving possession.

Act IX of 1850, s. 95.

and no suit or prosecution shall be maintainable against any Judge or officer of the Small Cause Court by whom any such order as aforesaid was issued, or against any bailiff or other person by whom the same was executed, or by whom any such summons as aforesaid was served, for the issue, execution or service of any such order or summons, by reason only that the applicant was not entitled to the possession of the property.

Bar to proceedings against Judge or officer for issuing, &c., order or summons.

Act IX of 1850, s. 96.

47. When the applicant, at the time of applying for any such order as aforesaid, was entitled to the possession of such property, neither he nor any person acting in his behalf shall be deemed, on account of any error, defect or irregularity in the mode of proceeding to obtain possession thereunder, to be a trespasser ; but any person aggrieved may bring a suit for the recovery of compensation for any damage which he has sustained by reason of such error, defect or irregularity :

Applicant, if entitled to possession, not to be deemed trespasser for any error in proceedings.

Occupant may sue for compensation.

when no such damage is proved, the suit shall be dismissed ; and when such damage is proved but the amount of the compensation assessed by the Court does not exceed ten rupees, the Court shall award to the plaintiff no more costs than compensation, unless the Judge who tries the case certifies that in his opinion full costs should be awarded to the plaintiff.

Act IX of 1850, s. 98.

48. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to protect any applicant obtaining possession of any property under this chapter from a suit by any person deeming himself aggrieved thereby, when such applicant was not at the time of applying for such order as aforesaid entitled to the possession of such property.

Liability of applicant obtaining order when not entitled.

Act IX of 1850, s. 97.

And when the applicant was not, at the time of applying for any such order as aforesaid, entitled to the possession of such property, the application for such order, though no possession is taken thereunder, shall be deemed to be an act of trespass committed by the applicant against the occupant.

Application for order in such case an act of trespass.

Act IX of 1850, s. 97.

49. Whenever on an application being made under section forty-three the occupant binds himself, with two sureties, in a bond for such amount as the Small Cause Court thinks reasonable, having regard to the value of the property and the probable costs of the suit next hereinafter mentioned, to institute without delay a suit in the High Court against the applicant for compensation for trespass, and to pay all the costs of such suit in case he does not prosecute the same or in case judgment therein is given for the applicant, the Small Cause Court shall stay the proceedings on such application until such suit is disposed of.

Stay of proceedings on occupant giving security to bring a suit against the applicant.

If the occupant obtains a decree in any such suit against the applicant, such decree shall supersede the order (if any) made under section forty-five.

Nothing contained in section twenty-two shall apply to suits under this section.

Now.

50. In all proceedings under this chapter, the Small Cause Court shall, as far as may be and except as herein otherwise provided, follow the procedure prescribed for a Court of first instance by the Code of Civil Procedure.

Proceedings to be regulated by the Code of Civil Procedure.

Act IX of 1850, s. 99.

51. Recovery of the possession of any immoveable property under this chapter shall be no bar to the institution of a suit in the High Court for trying the title thereto.

Recovery of possession no bar to suit to try title.

CHAPTER VIII.

REFERENCES TO HIGH COURT.

Act XI of 1865, s. 32.

52. If two or more Judges of the Small Cause Court sit together in any suit, or in any proceeding under chapter VII of this Act, and differ in their opinion as to any question of law or usage having the force of law, or the construction of a document, which construction may affect the merits,

Reference when compulsory.

Act XXVI of 1864, s. 7.

or if in any suit or any such proceeding, in which the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds five hundred rupees, any such question arises, and either party so requires,

(Ordinary references provided for by ch. XLVI, C. P. Code.)

the Small Cause Court shall draw up a statement of the facts of the case, and refer such statement, under section 617 of the Code of Civil Procedure, for the opinion of the High Court, and shall either reserve judgment or give judgment contingent upon such opinion.

Act XXVI of 1864, s. 8.

53. When judgment is given under section fifty-two contingent upon the opinion of the High Court, the party against whom such judgment is given shall at once furnish security, to be approved by the Small Cause Court, for the costs of the reference to the High Court and for the amount of such judgment :

Security to be furnished on such reference by party against whom contingent judgment given.

Act XXVI of 1864, s. 8. See 14 B. L. R., p. 182.

Provided that no security for the amount of such judgment shall be required in any case in which the Judge who tried the case has ordered such amount to be paid into Court, and the same has been paid accordingly.

Act IX of 1860, ss. 19 & 20. Act XXVI of 1864, s. 11.

Unless such security as aforesaid is at once furnished, the party against whom such contingent judgment has been given shall be deemed to have submitted to the same.

If no such security given, party to be deemed to have submitted to judgment.

CHAPTER IX.

FEES AND COSTS.

Act IX of 1850, s. 29. Mr. Kennedy's Bill, s. 22.

Institution-fee.

54. A fee not exceeding—

shall be paid on the plaint in every suit, and every application under section forty or section forty-three ; and no such plaint or application shall be received until such fee has been paid.

A fee of ten rupees shall be paid on the filing of every agreement under chapter XXXVIII of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Act IX of 1850, s. 12. Act XXVI of 1864, s. 11.

55. The fees specified in the third and fourth columns of the third Schedule hereto annexed shall be paid previous to the issue in any suit or in any proceeding under chapter VII of this Act of the processes, to which the said columns respectively relate, by the persons on whose behalf such processes are issued, when the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds the sum specified in the first column, but does not exceed the sum specified in the second column of the said Schedule.

Fees for processes.

Act IX of 1850, s. 20.

56. Whenever any such suit or proceeding is settled by agreement of the parties before the hearing, half the amount of all fees paid up to that time shall be repaid by the Small Cause Court to the parties by whom the same have been respectively paid.

Repayment of half fees on settlement before hearing.

Act IX of 1850, s. 20.

57. The Small Cause Court may, whenever it thinks fit, receive and register suits instituted, and applications under section forty-three made, by poor persons, and may issue processes on behalf of such persons, without payment of the fees mentioned in sections fifty-four and fifty-five, or on a part-payment of such fees.

Fees and costs of poor persons.

Act IX of 1850 s. 2

58. The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, vary the amount of the fees payable under sections fifty-four and fifty-five :

Power to vary fees.

Provided that the amount of such fees shall in no case exceed the amount prescribed by the said sections.

Act XXVI of 1864, s. 13.

59. The expense of employing an advocate, vakíl, attorney or other legal practitioner incurred by any party shall not be allowed as costs in any suit or in any proceeding under chapter VII of this Act, in the Small Cause Court, in which the amount or value of the subject-matter does not exceed twenty rupees, unless the Court is of opinion that the employment of such practitioner was under the circumstances reasonable.

Expense of employing legal practitioners.

60. Nothing contained in this chapter shall affect the provisions of sections 3, 5 and 25 of the Court Fees Act, 1870.

Sections 3, 5 and 25 of Court Fees Act, 1870, saved.

CHAPTER X.

MISCONDUCT OF INFERIOR MINISTERIAL OFFICERS.

Act XVII of 1875, s. 70; Act XVII of 1877, s. 36; Act IX of 1850, s. 86.

61. The Chief Judge may, by order, fine, in an amount not exceeding one month's salary, any clerk, bailiff or other inferior ministerial officer of the Court who is guilty of misconduct or neglect in the performance of the duties of his office, and such fine may be deducted from his salary.

Power to fine officers.

Act IX of 1850, s. 85.

62. If any clerk, bailiff or other inferior ministerial officer of the Small Cause Court who is employed as such in the execution of any order or warrant, loses, by neglect, connivance or omission, an opportunity of executing such order or warrant, he shall be liable, by order of the Chief Judge, on the application of the person injured by such neglect, connivance or omission, to pay such sum, not exceeding in any case the sum for which the said order or warrant was issued, as, in the opinion of the Chief Judge, represents the amount of the damage sustained by such person thereby.

Default of bailiff or other officer in execution of order or warrant.

Act IX of 1850, s. 88.

63. If any clerk, bailiff or other inferior ministerial officer of the Small Cause Court is charged with extortion or misconduct while acting under colour of its process, or with not duly paying or accounting for any money levied by him

Extortion or default of officers.

under its authority, the Court may inquire into such charge, and may make such order for the repayment or payment of any money so extorted, or of any money so levied as aforesaid, and of damages and costs, by such officer, as it thinks fit.

64. For the purposes of any inquiry under this chapter, the Small Cause Court shall have all the powers of summoning and enforcing the attendance of witnesses and compelling the production of documents which it possesses in suits under this Act.

Court empowered to summon witnesses, &c.

Act IX of 1850, s. 85.

65. Any order under this chapter for the payment or repayment of money may, in default of payment of the amount payable thereunder, be enforced by the person to whom such amount is payable as if the same were a decree of the Small Cause Court in his favour.

Enforcement of order.

CHAPTER XI.

CONTEMPT OF COURT.

Act X of 1872, s. 485. Act IV of 1877, s. 205. Cf. also draft Code of Criminal Procedure, s. 480.

66. When any such offence as is described in section 175, 178, 179, 180 or 228 of the Indian Penal Code is committed in the view or presence of the Small Cause Court, the Court may cause the offender to be detained in custody; and, at any time before the rising of the Court on the same day, may, if it thinks fit, take cognizance of the offence, and sentence the offender to fine not exceeding two hundred rupees, and in default of payment to imprisonment in the civil Jail for a term which may extend to one month unless such fine is sooner paid.

Procedure of Court in certain cases of contempt.

67. In every such case the Court shall record the facts constituting the offence, the statement (if any) made by the offender, and the finding and sentence.

Record in such cases.

If the offence is under section 228 of the Indian Penal Code, the record must show the nature and stage of the judicial proceeding in which the Court when interrupted or insulted was sitting, and the nature of the interruption or insult offered.

Act X of 1872, s. 486. Act IV of 1877, s. 206. Cf. draft Code of Criminal Procedure, s. 482.

68. If the Court considers that a person accused of any offence referred to in section sixty-six and committed in its view or presence should be imprisoned otherwise than in default of payment of fine, or that a fine exceeding two hundred rupees should be imposed upon him, or if the Court is for any other reason of opinion that the case should not be disposed of under section sixty-six, the Court, after recording the facts constituting the offence and the statement of the accused as hereinbefore provided, may forward the case to a Presidency Magistrate, and may require security to be given for the appearance of such accused person before such Magistrate, or, if sufficient security is not given, may forward him under custody to such Magistrate.

Procedure where Court considers that the case should not be dealt with under section 66.

Such Magistrate shall deal with the accused person in the manner provided by the Presidency Magistrates Act, 1877; and may sentence the offender to punishment as provided in the section of the Indian Penal Code under which he is charged.

Act X of 1872, s. 487. Act IV of 1877, s. 207. Cf. draft Code of Criminal Procedure, s. 484.

69. When the Court has, under section sixty-six or section sixty-eight, sentenced an offender to punishment, or forwarded him to a Presidency Magistrate for trial, for refusing or omitting to do anything which he was lawfully required to do, or for any intentional insult or interruption, the Court may in its discretion discharge the offender, or remit the punishment on his submission to the order or requisition of the Court, or on apology being made to its satisfaction.

Discharge of offender on submission or apology.

Act X of 1872, ss. 356-364. Act X of 1875, s. 89. Act IV of 1877, s. 141. Cf. draft Code of Criminal Procedure, s. 485. (Also see Act IX of 1850, s. 49.)

70. If any witness before the Small Cause Court refuses to answer such questions as are put to him, or to produce any document in his possession or power which the Court requires him to produce, and does not offer any reasonable excuse for such refusal, the Court may sentence him to simple imprisonment, or commit him to the custody of an officer of the Court, for any term not exceeding seven days, unless in the meantime such person consents to answer or to produce such document, as the case may be, after which, in the event of his persisting in his refusal, he may be dealt with according to the provisions of section sixty-six or sixty-eight.

Imprisonment or committal of person refusing to answer or produce document.

Draft Code of Criminal Procedure, s. 287.

71. Any person deeming himself aggrived by an order under section sixty-six or section seventy may appeal to the High Court, and the provisions of the Presidency Magistrates Act, 1877, relating to appeals shall, so far as may be, apply to appeals under this section.

Appeal from orders under sections 66 and 70.

CHAPTER XII.

MISCELLANEOUS.

72. No person other than an advocate, vakíl or attorney of the High Court, or a person who is at the time this Act comes into force a pleader of the Small Cause Court, shall appear, plead or act in any suit or proceeding in the Small Cause Court under this Act, and

Who may appear, &c.

no person other than—

(a) an advocate of the High Court instructed by a vakíl or attorney of such Court or by a pleader of the Small Cause Court, or shall address the Court or examine witnesses at the hearing of any such suit in which the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds one thousand rupees.

(b) a vakíl of the High Court,

Nothing in this section shall affect the right of any party to conduct his own case or that of any other party to the suit, or the right of any recognized agent of a party under the Code of Civil Procedure as applied by this Act.

Act X of 1877 s. 636.

73. Notices to produce documents, summonses to witnesses, and all other processes issued in the exercise of any jurisdiction conferred on the Small Cause Court by this Act, except summonses to defendants and writs of execution, may, if the Court by general or special order so directs, be served by such persons as the Court, from time to time, appoints in this behalf.

Persons by whom process may be served.

Act XVII of 1876, s. 60.

74. The Small Cause Court shall keep such registers, books and accounts, and submit to the High Court such statements and returns, as may, subject to the approval of the Local Government, be prescribed by the High Court.

Registers and returns.

Act XI of 1865, s. 58. Letters Patent, s. 43.

75. The Small Cause Court shall comply with such requisitions as may from time to time be made by the Local Government or High Court for records, returns and statements in such form and manner as such Government or Court, as the case may be, thinks fit.

Court to furnish records, &c., called for by Local Government or High Court.

Act XVII of 1875, s. 71. (Cf. Act IX of 1850, s. 23.)

76. The Small Cause Court shall, at the commencement of each year, draw up a list of holidays and vacations to be observed in the Court, and shall submit the same for the approval of the Local Government.

Holidays and vacations.

Such list, when it has received such approval, shall be published in the local official Gazette, and the said holidays and vacations shall be observed accordingly.

Act IX of 1850, s. 35.

77. The Governor General and Members of his Council, the Governors of Fort St. George and Bombay and the members of their respective Councils, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and the Chief Justices and Judges of the High Courts established under the 24th & 25th of Victoria, chapter 104, shall not be liable to arrest by order of the Small Cause Court.

Certain persons exempt from arrest by Court.

I. L. R. 5, Calc., p. 224.

78. No suit shall lie on any decree of the Small Cause Court.

No suit to lie upon decree of Court.

79. Any person ordered by the Small Cause Court to be imprisoned may be imprisoned in such place as the Local Government, from time to time, appoints in this behalf.

Place of imprisonment.

Act IX of 1850, s. 117.

80. If any person against whom any suit is brought for anything purporting to be done by him under this Act, has, before the institution of the suit, tendered sufficient amends to the plaintiff, the plaintiff shall not recover.

Tender in suit for anything done under Act.

Act IX of 1850, s. 121.

81. All prosecutions for anything purporting to be done under this Act must be commenced within three months after the offence is committed.

Limitation of prosecutions.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second Publication.]

The following third Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th March, 1881:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to define and amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property was referred, have the honour to state that the Report of the Indian Law Commissioners, 1879, was duly communicated to us. We have carefully considered so much of it as relates to that Bill, as well as the papers specified in the annexed list; and, in compliance with the wish of the Secretary of State for India, as expressed in his despatch (Legislative) No. 37, dated 7th October, 1880, we have now the honour to present this our third Report.

We agree generally in the enlargement of the Bill effected by the Law Commissioners, and we shall in this Report refer to the Bill as settled by them, and published in the Gazette of India for the 17th and 24th January, 1880.

CHAPTER I.—PRELIMINARY.

We have rendered the definition of "attached to the earth" inapplicable to objects which merely rest upon the earth. And we have amended the definition of "notice" by making it apply expressly to a case where a person wilfully abstains from a search in a register which he ought to have made.

CHAPTER II.—TRANSFERS OF PROPERTY BY ACT OF PARTIES.

This chapter, after declaring what rights are inalienable and by what persons transfers may be made, proceeds to declare restrictions of the transfer of property called for in the interests of society. These restrictions are in substance identical with those contained in the Indian Succession Act, and rights and liabilities arising out of customs or personal laws are sufficiently saved by section 2, clause (a).

We have amended section 6 (as to what may be transferred) in these respects:—First, we have in the first clause substituted "Act" for "section." The effect will be to place Hindús on the same footing as Europeans as regards the power to make settlements, on marriage or otherwise, on persons not in existence at the date of the transfer. Although, no doubt, it has been laid down that the general principle of the Hindú law is that a donee must be in existence at the time of the gift, such settlements are in accordance with Native usage.

Secondly, we have re-drawn clause (a) thus:—

"(a) The chance of an heir-apparent succeeding to an estate, the chance of a relation obtaining a legacy on the death of a kinsman, or any other mere possibility of the same nature, cannot be transferred: the chance of a Hindú heir succeeding to property in the possession of a Hindú female cannot be transferred to any one except the present or future owner or co-owner of the property affected thereby."

Thirdly, we have made clause (c) run thus:—

"(c) An easement cannot be transferred apart from the dominant heritage."

Fourthly, we have extended clause (e) to rights to sue for harm illegally caused to property.

We think that the power to transfer property to or for the benefit of women, so that they shall not be able, during their marriage, to transfer or charge the same should be confined, as it is now, to women not being Hindús, Muhammadans or Buddhists; and we have altered section 10 accordingly.

It cannot be denied that one school of Muhammadan law does, as stated in the books, permit a settlement on a person, his children and their offspring in perpetuity. But in practice this form of settlement is obsolete, and, if made, the Courts would now refuse to recognise it as valid. We think, therefore, that section 14, which prohibits this kind of perpetuity, may stand unaltered. Baillie, p. 671.

We have shortened and simplified the sections (33, 34) which deal respectively with conditions that a transferee shall perform an act at or before a specified time, and like conditions wherein no such time is specified.

We do not think that the proposition laid down in section 40, as to a Hindú's right to receive maintenance from the profits of immoveable property, can be said to be authoritatively settled, and there are good grounds for questioning it.

We have therefore re-drawn the first clause of section 40 thus :—

"40. Where a third person has a right to receive maintenance or a provision for advancement or marriage from the profits of immoveable property, and such property is transferred with the intention of defeating the right, such right may be enforced against a transferee with notice of such intention, or a gratuitous transferee of the property affected by the right, but not against a transferee for consideration and without notice of the right, nor against such property in his hands."

The remainder of section 40, though suggested by English cases, is, in our opinion, founded on general principles of equity applicable to India, and may, therefore, fitly be left unaltered in the Bill.

Section 41 has been amended so as to bring a benámídár clearly within its operation.

We have confined section 42 to cases of transfers for consideration by persons having authority to revoke the transfer.

To the section (44) dealing with transfer by one co-owner we have added a clause declaring that, when the transferee of a share of a dwelling-house belonging to an undivided family is a stranger, nothing in this section shall be deemed to entitle him to joint possession or other common or part enjoyment of the house.

We have confined section 53 to cases of fraudulent transfer. To provide, as it now does, for fraudulent forfeitures would involve a change in the law the consequences of which cannot easily be foreseen.

CHAPTER III.—SALES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

We agree with Sir Henry Maine as to the desirability of rendering the system of transfer of immoveable property a system of public transfer; and we are inclined to go a little further in this direction than seemed good to the Law Commissioners. Thus, we think that in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing, though its value may be less than Rs. 100, the transfer should be made only by registered assurance; and we have altered section 54 accordingly.

As to the duties of the seller, we think that, except where the property is sold subject to incumbrances, he should be bound to discharge all incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the sale; that he should not be bound to deliver the title-deeds till the whole of the purchase-money has been paid. We also think that the Bill may reasonably declare, as it does, that, in the absence of a stipulation to the contrary, the seller shall be deemed to contract that the interest which he assumes to transfer subsists and that he has power to make the transfer; but where he sells in a fiduciary character, we would follow the present practice, and declare simply that he shall be deemed to contract that he has done no act whereby the property is incumbered, or he is hindered from transferring it. We have altered section 55, clauses (a) (7), (8), (9), accordingly.

The proposition laid down in clause (c) (1), that a purchaser is bound to disclose any fact unknown to the vendor which increases his interest in the property, e. g., the actual or imminent death of a prior life-tenant, has been questioned by a high authority. It appears to us in exact accordance with the rule laid down in Turner v. Harvey, Jac. 169; Ellard v. Lord Llandaff, 1 Ball & B. 241; and (on the sale of a life-policy) Jones v. Keene, 2 Moo. & R. 348. We have, however, made a verbal amendment in this clause.

As to the duties of the buyer, we have struck out the clause requiring him to retransfer the property sold, where the ownership has passed before payment of the purchase-money and he fails to pay or tender it. In such case the seller's lien is, we think, sufficient.

As to the buyer's rights, we think that his lien as against the seller for purchase-money paid in anticipation should be available against all persons claiming under the seller with notice of the payment. We have altered the section accordingly.

Where two properties are subject to a common charge and one is sold, the buyer's right as against the seller to have the charge satisfied out of the other property does not depend on whether or not the buyer had notice of the charge. We have, therefore, struck out of section 56 the words relating to notice.

CHAPTER IV.—MORTGAGES.

We think that in the definition of simple mortgage the expression "makes it a collateral security" is likely to give rise to difficulties. We also think that a transaction may be a "mortgage by conditional sale" although accompanied by possession, and in the definition of usufructuary mortgage the words "or agrees to deliver" and "actual" seem unnecessary. We have therefore amended these definitions as follows :—

Simple Mortgage.

"Where, without delivering possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor binds himself personally to pay the mortgage-money and agrees expressly or impliedly that, in the event of his failing to pay according to his contract, the mortgagee shall have a right to cause the mortgaged property to be sold and the proceeds of sale to be applied, so far as may be necessary, in payment of what may be due to him on the mortgage, the transaction is called a simple mortgage and the mortgagee a simple mortgagee."

Mortgage by Conditional Sale.

"Where the mortgagor ostensibly sells the mortgaged property on condition that in default of payment of the mortgage-money on a certain date the sale shall become absolute, or

"on condition that on such payment being made, the sale shall become void, or

"on condition that on such payment being made, the buyer shall re-transfer the property to the seller,

"the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale and the mortgagee a mortgagee by conditional sale."

Usufructuary Mortgage.

"Where the mortgagor delivers possession of the property to the mortgagee and authorises him to retain such possession until payment of the mortgage-money, and to receive the rents and profits accruing from the property and to appropriate them in lieu of interest or in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage and the mortgagee an usufructuary mortgagee."

We agree with the Law Commissioners that the requirement of registration will not only discourage fraud and facilitate investigations of title, but that it will also preclude some difficult question of priority. A majority of us, however, think that, where the principal money secured is less than Rs. 100, the assurance need not be registered. And we have altered the Bill accordingly. Our colleague Mr. Stokes dissents from this alteration, as, in his opinion, all incumbrances should appear on the register: those who mortgage their property for small amounts, as a rule, require protection from fraud more than those who mortgage for large amounts, and the changes impending in the working of the law will deprive the requirement of registration of all hardship even in the pettiest cases.

A majority of us are of opinion that equitable mortgages by deposit of title-deeds should be valid when they are made in Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Rangoon and Karáchí. The practice of raising money on such securities has long been established in those towns, and any attempt to disturb it would cause much inconvenience. Here, again, Mr. Stokes dissents on the grounds (a) that such mortgages are opposed to the policy of the registration-law; (b) that they lead to evasions of the stamp-duty; (c) that they are at variance with the principle of making the system of transfer of immoveable property, as far as possible, a system of public transfer; and (d) that, when the amount secured is Rs. 100 or upwards, they would be inconsistent with the general rule in section 58 requiring a written instrument.

We think, with Mr. Justice West, that nothing in the section (59) declaring the mortgagor's right to redeem should invalidate any provision to the effect that, if the time fixed for payment of the principal money has been allowed to pass, or no such time has been fixed, the mortgagee shall be entitled to reasonable notice before payment or tender of such money. In like manner, we think that nothing in section 82 or 83 should deprive the mortgagee of his right to interest where there exists a contract that he shall be entitled to such notice.

We concur with the Law Commissioners in the solution which they have proposed (section 68) of the moot question as to whether a power of sale conferred on the mortgagee is invalid, and as there is no prospect of the High Courts or the Privy Council making an authoritative declaration of the subject, we think it desirable to settle the matter by legislation as soon as possible.

For the section (98) as to the abandonment of his security where a mortgagee attaches and sells the mortgaged property, we have substituted the following :—

"98. Where a mortgagee, in execution of a decree for the satisfaction of any claim, whether arising under the mortgage or not, attaches the mortgaged property, he shall not be entitled to bring such property to sale otherwise than by instituting a suit under section 66."

We think that the High Court should have power to make rules for carrying out the provisions of this chapter.

CHAPTER V.—LEASES.

This chapter will, in our opinion, be of practical use in the case of leases of buildings, gardens and mines. We agree with the Law Commissioners that it should not of itself apply to the relations between zamíndár and raiyat, and we think that the power given to the Local Government by section 115 (now 116) to extend any of the provisions of the chapter to agricultural leases should only be exercised with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, and that the requisite notification should not take effect until the expiry of six months from the date of its publication.

The rule laid down in section 106, clause (i), as to the removeability of tenants' fixtures, has been objected to as not in accordance with the laws in force in this country. But it will operate only in the absence of a contract or local usage to the contrary, and will not in practice apply to tenants in husbandry. Moreover, it is impossible to say with certainty what the law of India on the subject really is. The Courts would, therefore, turn for guidance to the Civil law and the law of England. The Civil law permits a tenant to remove all fixtures where this can be effected without material injury to the property, and the strictness of the law of England has been relaxed where the fixtures have been annexed for the purposes of trade or manufacture, ornament, furniture and domestic use or convenience. The clause in question seems to us to represent with reasonable accuracy the rules of the Civil and the English law.

CHAPTER VI.—GIFTS.

We agree with the Law Commissioners that registration should be required in the case of gifts of immoveable property of whatever value. Such gifts are, as a rule, made by a written instrument, and as, under the Registration Act (III of 1877, section 17, clause (a)), the registration of such instruments is compulsory, the change of the existing law here proposed is almost nominal.

We have struck out the clause in section 121 (now 122) which is founded on the rule in the Succession Act as to bequests to attesting witnesses. It is, we think, inapplicable to a transaction inter vivos, where the donor can give evidence of his intention.

We have also struck out the section (120) which declares that the donor is not bound to warranty. It seems to the majority of us useless as denying what no one in this country would ever assert. Our colleague Mr. Stokes would retain it as precluding a doubt which may reasonably be felt by the Courts (see Burge II, 145).

We have made verbal and other unimportant amendments in sections 11, 25, 36, 37, 51, 59, 61, 64, 80, 81, 90, 91, 99, 101, 106, 126, 133.

The Bill as now settled seems to us a systematic and useful arrangement of the existing law. But we agree with the Law Commissioners that, when the body of substantive civil law enacted for India is recast in a more compact and convenient form than that of a series of fragmentary portions from time to time passed by the legislature, the chapters on Sale, Mortgage, Lease and Exchange contained in the present Bill will probably be placed in close connection with the rules contained in the Contract Act. Till then they may fitly be left in a law containing what the Contract Act does not contain, namely, general rules regulating the transmission of property between living persons.

We do not think that these rules, as now amended, will substantially alter or add to the existing law, or that they will invade or displace the functions of the Judges of the existing Courts. We, therefore, recommend that the Bill be passed. Drawn originally in England by the former Indian Law Commissioners, it was revised by Sir A. Hobhouse and introduced into the Council of the Governor General in June, 1877. It has since been twice circulated to the Local Governments for opinion and publication, and twice reported on by Select Committees, in February, 1878, and February, 1879. It was then carefully revised by the late Indian Law Commission. It has now been again revised by us. We think, therefore, of this Bill, as of the Bill dealing with negotiable instruments, that it is not now likely to be improved without the experience to be gained from its actual working. We recommend, however, that it should be republished in the Gazette of India with this Report; and, in obedience to the orders of the Secretary of State, it must also be sent home to him, published in the local Gazettes, and translated into the vernacular languages.

Our hon'ble colleagues Messrs. Grant and Paul have not been able to attend our meetings, and do not, therefore, sign this report.

137. Mortgaged debt.
138. Saving of negotiable instruments.

THE SCHEDULE.

No. V.

A Bill to amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property by act of Parties.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend certain parts of the law relating to the transfer of property by act of parties; It is hereby enacted as follows :— Preamble.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

1. This Act may be called "The Transfer of Property Act, 1881": Short title. It extends to the whole of British India; Extent. and it shall come into force on the first day of March, 1882. Commencement. Bill, s. 1: Bill II, s. 1: Bill III, s. 1.

2. On and from that day the enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column thereof. But nothing herein contained shall be deemed to affect— Repeal of Acts. Bill, s. 2: Bill II, s. 1: Bill III, s. 2.

(a) the provisions of any enactment not hereby expressly repealed: Saving of certain enactments, incidents, rights, liabilities, &c. Act IX of 1872, s. 1.

(b) any terms or incidents of any contract or constitution of property which are consistent with the provisions of this Act, and are allowed by the law for the time being in force:

(c) any right or liability arising out of a custom or personal law consistent with this Act, or out of a legal relation constituted before this Act comes into force, or any relief in respect of any such right or liability: 4 Beng. L. R. 219.

(d) any transfer by operation of law or by decree or order of a Court of competent jurisdiction. I. L. R., Bom., 241.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,— Interpretation-clause. Bill, s. 3: Bill II, s. 1: Bill III, s. 3. Report, N. W. P., para. 159.

the "ownership" of a thing is the right of one or more persons to possess and use it to the exclusion of others. Such ownership is either absolute or qualified. The thing of which there may be ownership is called "property": "ownership": "property":

"assurance" means any non-testamentary instrument which purports or operates to create, transfer or otherwise dispose of, whether in present or in future, any right, title or interest to or in immoveable property: "assurance": Act III of 1877, s. 1 (4).

"registered" means registered in British India under the law for the time being in force regulating the registration of documents:

"registered":

"attached to the earth":

"attached to the earth" means—

(a) rooted in the earth, as in the case of trees and shrubs;

(b) imbedded in the earth, as in the case of walls or buildings; or

(c) attached to what is so imbedded for the permanent beneficial enjoyment of that to which it is attached:

See ss. 8, 107.

See Contract Act, s. 229, as to agent: 4 Cal. 212: v. 11 Beng. 54 P. C.

and a person is said to have "notice" of a fact when he actually knows that fact, or when but for wilful abstention from an inquiry or search which he ought to have made, or gross negligence, he would have known it, or when information of the fact is given to or obtained by his agent under the circumstances mentioned in the Indian Contract Act, section 229.

"notice":

Bill III, s. 4.

4. The chapters and sections of this Act which relate to contracts shall be taken as part of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

Enactments relating to contracts to be taken as part of Act IX of 1872.

CHAPTER II.

OF TRANSFERS OF PROPERTY BY ACT OF PARTIES.

(A).—Transfer of Property, whether moveable or immoveable.

5. In the following sections "transfer" means an act by which one living person conveys to another, or to himself and another, in present or in future, the ownership of property or an interest therein, and "to transfer" is to perform such act.

"Transfer" defined.

6. The ownership of property of any kind may be transferred, except as otherwise provided by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force:—

What may be transferred.

Carlton v. Leighton, 3 Mac. Cf. Act X of 1877, s. 266, clause (d).

(a) The chance of an heir-apparent succeeding to an estate, the chance of a relation obtaining a legacy on the death of a kinsman, or any other mere possibility of a like nature, cannot be transferred. The chance of a Hindú heir succeeding to property in the possession of a Hindú female cannot be transferred to any one except the present or future owner or co-owner of the property affected thereby.

Gray v. Fenton, 5 Exch. 615.

(b) A mere right of re-entry for breach of a condition subsequent cannot be transferred to any one except the owner of the property affected thereby.

(c) An easement cannot be transferred apart from the dominant heritage.

(d) An interest in property restricted in its enjoyment to the owner personally cannot be transferred by him.

(e) A mere right to sue for compensation for a fraud or for harm illegally caused cannot be transferred.

(f) A public office cannot be transferred, nor can the salary of a public officer whether before or after it has become payable.

Cf. 11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, s. 7.

(g) Stipends allowed to military and civil pensioners of Government and political pensions cannot be transferred.

7. Every person competent to contract and entitled to transferable property, or authorized to dispose of transferable property not his own, is competent to transfer such property either wholly or in part and either absolutely or conditionally, in the circumstances, to the extent and in the manner allowed and prescribed by any law for the time being in force.

Bill, s. 4; Bill III, s. 5; Report, s. 4.

Persons competent to transfer.

8. Unless a different intention is expressed or necessarily implied, a transfer of property passes forthwith to the transferee all the interest which the transferor is then capable of passing in such property, and in the legal incidents thereof.

Bill, s. 10; Bill III, s. 6; Report, s. 10; v. last clause, Report, s. 6; 2 W. R. 125 (buildings); 14 W. R. 379. N.-W. P., 1870, p. 251; 24 W. R. 330 (trees), "everything grown on it," Morley N. S. 259.

Operation of transfer.

Such incidents include, where the property is land, the easements annexed thereto, the rents and profits thereof accruing after the transfer, and all things attached to the earth;

and, where the property is machinery attached to the earth, the moveable parts thereof;

and, where the property is a house, the easements annexed thereto, the rent thereof accruing after the transfer, and the locks, keys, bars, doors, windows and all other things provided for permanent use therewith;

and, where the property is a debt or other actionable claim, the securities therefor, but not arrears of interest accrued before the transfer;

and, where the property is money or other property yielding income, the interest or income thereof accruing after the ownership passes.

9. A transfer may be made without writing in every case in which a writing is not expressly required by law.

7 Exch., p. 581.

Oral transfer.

10. Where a transfer is subject to a condition or limitation absolutely restraining the transferee or any person claiming under him from parting with or disposing of his interest in the property transferred, the condition or limitation is void except in the case of a lease where the condition is for the benefit of the lessor or those claiming under him: provided that property may be transferred to or for the benefit of a woman (not being a Hindú, Muhammadan or Buddhist), so that she shall not have power during her marriage to transfer or charge the same or her beneficial interest therein.

Report, s. 4; L. R. 3 Chan. D. 148, 285.

Condition restraining alienation.

Act X of 1865, s. 125.

11. Where on a transfer of property an interest is created absolutely in favour of any person, but the terms of the transfer direct that such interest shall be applied or enjoyed in a particular manner, he shall be entitled to receive and dispose of such interest as if there were no such direction.

Restriction repugnant to interest created.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the right to restrain for the beneficial enjoyment of one piece of immoveable property, the enjoyment of another piece of such property, or to compel the enjoyment thereof in a particular manner.

Report, s. 48: See Act X of 1865, s. 107.

12. Where property is transferred subject to a condition or limitation making any interest therein reserved or given to or for the benefit of any person to cease on his becoming insolvent or endeavouring to transfer or dispose of the same, such condition or limitation is void.

Condition making interest determinable on insolvency or attempted alienation.

Nothing in this section applies to a condition in a lease for the benefit of the lessor or those claiming under him.

Act X of 1865, s. 100. Report, s. 49.

13. Where on a transfer of property an interest is created for the benefit of a person not in existence at the date of the transfer, subject to a prior interest created by the same transfer, the interest created for the benefit of such person shall not take effect, unless it extends to the whole of the remaining interest of the transferor in the property.

Transfer for benefit of person not in existence at date of transfer, subject to prior transfer.

Illustration.

A transfers property of which he is the owner to B in trust for A and his intended wife successively for their lives, and after the death of the survivor for the eldest son of the intended marriage for life, and after his death for his second son. The interest so created for the benefit of the eldest son does not take effect, because it does not extend to the whole of A's remaining interest in the property.

Report, s. 50, Succession Act, s. 101.

14. No transfer can operate to create an interest which is to take effect after the life-time of one or more persons living at the date of such transfer, and the minority of some person who shall be in existence at the expiration of that period, and to whom, if he attains full age, the interest created is to belong.

Rule against perpetuity.

Report, s. 51: Bentinck v. Duke of Portland, 7 Chan. D. 693.

15. If on a transfer of property an interest is created for the benefit of a class of persons with regard to some of whom such interest fails by reason of any of the rules contained in sections thirteen and fourteen, such interest fails as regards the whole class.

Transfer to class some of whom come under sections 13 and 14.

Report, s. 52.

16. Where an interest fails by reason of any of the rules contained in sections thirteen, fourteen and fifteen, any interest created in the same transaction and intended to take effect after or upon failure of such prior interest also fails.

Transfer to take effect on failure of prior transfer.

17. The restrictions in sections fourteen, fifteen and sixteen shall not apply to property transferred for the benefit of the public in the advancement of religion, knowledge, commerce, health, safety or any other object beneficial to mankind.

Transfer in perpetuity for benefit of public.

Act X of 1865, s. 104: Report, s. 53.

18. Where the terms of a transfer of property direct that the income arising therefrom shall be accumulated, such direction shall be void, and the property shall be disposed of as if no accumulation had been directed.

Direction for accumulation.

Donaldson v. Donaldson, I. R. 3 Chan. Div. 743.

Exception.—Where the property is immoveable or where accumulation is directed to be made from the date of the transfer, the direction shall be valid in respect only of the income arising from the property within one year next following such date; and at the end of the year such property and income shall be disposed of respectively as if the period during which the accumulation has been directed to be made had elapsed.

Report, ss. 56, 57, altered.

19. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of a person without specifying the time when it is to take effect, or in terms specifying that it is to take effect, forthwith or on the happening of an event which must happen, such interest is vested, unless a contrary intention appears from the terms of the transfer.

Vested interest.

A vested interest is not defeated by the death of the transferee before he obtains possession.

Explanation.—An intention that an interest shall not be vested is not to be inferred merely from a provision whereby the enjoyment thereof is postponed, or whereby a prior interest in the same property is given or reserved to some other person, or whereby income arising from the property is directed to be accumulated until the time of enjoyment arrives, or from a provision that if a particular event shall happen the interest shall pass to another person.

Report, s. 58, altered.

20. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created for the benefit of a person not then living, he acquires upon his birth, unless a contrary intention appear from the terms of the transfer, a vested interest, although he may not be entitled to the enjoyment thereof immediately on his birth.

Transfer for benefit of person not then living.

Act X of 1865, s. 107: Report, s. 59: IX, 72-33.

21. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of a person to take effect only on the happening of a specified uncertain event, or if a specified uncertain event shall not happen, such person thereby acquires a contingent interest in the property. Such interest becomes a vested interest, in the former case, on the happening of the event, in the latter, when the happening of the event becomes impossible.

Contingent interest.

Exception.—Where under a transfer a person becomes entitled to an interest in property upon attaining a particular age, and the transferor also gives to him absolutely the income to arise from such interest before he reaches that age, or directs the income or so much thereof as may be necessary to be applied for his benefit, such interest is not contingent,

Act X of 1865, s. 108: Report, s. 60.

Transfer to members of a class who attain a particular age.

22. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of such members only of a class as shall attain a particular age, such interest does not vest in any member of the class who has not attained that age.

Act X of 1865, s. 111: Report, s. 61.

Transfer contingent on happening of specified uncertain event.

23. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is to accrue to a specified person if a specified uncertain event shall happen, and no time is mentioned for the occurrence of that event, the interest fails unless such event happens before, or at the same time as, the intermediate or precedent interest ceases to exist.

Act X of 1865, s. 112.

Transfer to such of certain persons as survive at some period not specified.

24. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is to accrue to such of certain persons as shall be surviving at some period, but the exact period is not specified, the interest shall go to such of them as shall be alive when the intermediate or precedent interest ceases to exist, unless a contrary intention appears from the terms of the transfer.

Illustration.

A transfers property to B for life, and after his death to C and D, equally to be divided between them, or to the survivor of them. C dies during the life of B. D survives B. At B's death the property passes to D.

Act X of 1865, s. 113: Act X of 1865, s. 114, expanded with reference to Act IX of 1872, s. 23.

Conditional transfer.

25. An interest created on a transfer of property and dependent upon a condition fails if the fulfilment of the condition is impossible, or is forbidden by law, or is of such a nature that if permitted, it would defeat the provisions of any law, or is fraudulent, or involves or implies injury to the person or property of another, or the Court regards it as immoral or opposed to pubic policy.

Illustrations.

(a). A lets a farm to B on condition that he shall walk a hundred miles in an hour. The lease is void.

(b). A gives Rs. 500 to B on condition that he shall marry A's daughter, C. At the date of the transfer C was dead. The transfer is void.

(c). A transfers Rs. 500 to B on condition that she shall murder C. The transfer is void.

(d). A transfers Rs. 500 to his niece C if she will desert her husband. The transfer is void.

Act X of 1865, s. 115.

Fulfilment of condition precedent.

26. Where the terms of a transfer of property impose a condition to be fulfilled before a person can take an interest in the property, the condition shall be deemed to have been fulfilled if it has been substantially complied with.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers Rs. 5,000 to B on condition that he shal marry with the consent of C, D and E. E dies. B marries with the consent of C and D. B has fulfilled the condition.

(b). A transfers Rs. 5,000 to B on condition that he shall marry with the consent of C, D and E. B marries without the consent of C, D and E, but obtains their consent after the marriage. B has not fulfilled the condition.

Act X of 1865, s. 116.

Conditional transfer to one person coupled with transfer to another on failure of prior transfer.

27. Where, on a transfer of propery, an interest is created in favour of one person, and by the same transaction an ulterior disposition of the same interest is made in favour of another if the prior interest under the transfer shall fail, the ulterior disposition shall take effect upon the failure of the prior disposition, although the failure may not have occurred in the manner contemplated by the transferor.

Act X of 1865, s. 117.

But where the intention of the parties to the transaction is that the ulterior disposition shall take effect only in the event of the prior disposition failing in a particular manner, the ulterior disposition shall not take effect unless the prior disposition fails in that manner.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers Rs. 500 to B on condition that he shall execute a certain lease within three months after A's death, and if he should neglect to do so, to C. B dies in A's lifetime. The transfer to C takes effect.

(b). A transfers property to his wife; but in case she should die in his life time, transfers to B that which he had transferred to her. A and his wife perish together, under circumstances which make it impossible to prove that she died before him. The transfer to B does not take effect.

Act X of 1865, s. 118.

Ulterior transfer conditional on happening or not happening of specified event.

28. On a transfer of property an interest may be created to accrue to any person with the condition superadded that in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, such interest shall pass to another person; or that in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen, such interest shall pass to another person. In each case the dispositions are subject to the rules contained in sections ten, twelve, twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-five and twenty-seven.

Act X of 1865, s. 119.

Fulfilment of condition subsequent.

29. An ulterior disposition of the kind contemplated by the last preceding section cannot take effect unless the condition is strictly fulfilled.

Illustration.

A transfers Rs. 500 to B, to be paid to him on his attaining his majority or marrying, with a proviso that, if B dies a minor or marries without C's consent, the Rs. 500 shall go to D. B marries when only 17 years of age, without C's consent. The transfer to D takes effect.

Act X of 1865, s. 120.

Prior disposition not affected by invalidity of ulterior disposition.

30. If the ulterior disposition is not valid, the prior disposition is not affected by it.

Illustration.

A transfers a farm to B for her life, and, if she do not desert her husband, to C. B is entitled to the farm during her life as if no condition had been inserted.

Act X of 1865, s. 121.

Condition that transfer shall cease to have effect in case specified uncertain event happens or does not happen.

31. Subject to the provisions of section twelve, on a transfer of property an interest may be created with the condition superadded that it shall cease to exist in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, or in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers a farm to B for his life, with a proviso that, in case B cuts down a certain wood, the transfer shall cease to have any effect. B cuts down the wood. He loses his life-interest in the farm.

(b). A transfers a farm to B, provided that, if B shall not go to England within three years after the date of the transfer, his interest in the farm shall cease. A does not go to England within the term prescribed. His interest in the farm ceases.

Act X of 1865, s. 122.

Such condition must not be invalid.

Act X of 1865, s. 124.

Condition that transferee shall perform act at or before specified time.

33. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created subject to a condition that the person taking it shall perform a certain act at or before a specified time, and the transferor has at the time of creating the interest made an ulterior disposition thereof in favour of himself or of another, if the act be not performed within such time, the prior disposition ceases to have effect if the act is not performed within such time, or if the person benefited by the prior disposition renders the performance of the act impossible within the time specified. But where the transferor has not made any such ulterior disposition thereof, the transfer is, at the option of the transferor, voidable so far as regards such interest, if time is of the essence of the condition; but if it is not of the essence of the contract, the transfer shall not be so voidable.

When such intention is apparent, the circumstance that the interest has actually been enjoyed under the prior disposition does not affect the operation of the condition.

Transfer conditional on performance of act, no time being specified for performance.

34. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created subject to a condition that the person taking it shall perform a certain act, but no time is specified for the performance of the act, the condition is broken when he renders impossible, permanently or for an indefinite period, the performance of the condition.

Transfer conditional on performance of act, time being specified.

35. Where an act is to be performed by a person either as a condition to be fulfilled before an interest created on a transfer is enjoyed by him, or as a condition on the non-fulfilment of which the interest is to pass from him to another person, and a time is specified for the performance of the act, if such performance within the specified time is prevented by the fraud of a person who would be directly benefited by non-fulfilment of the condition, such further time shall as against him be allowed for performing the act as shall be requisite to make up for the delay caused by such fraud. But if no time is specified for the performance of the act, then if its performance is, by the fraud of a person interested in the non-fulfilment of the condition rendered impossible or indefinitely postponed, the condition shall as against him be deemed to have been fulfilled.

Election.

Draft, s. 62 added to.

Election when necessary.

36. Where a person professes to transfer property which he has no right to transfer, and as part of the same transaction confers any benefit on the owner of the property, such owner must elect either to confirm such transfer or to dissent from it; and in the latter case he shall relinquish the benefit so conferred, and the benefit so relinquished shall revert to the transferor or his representative as if it had not been disposed of,

Act X of 1865, s. 168.

subject nevertheless,

where the transfer is gratuitous and the transferor has before the election died or otherwise become incapable of making a fresh transfer,

and in all cases where the transfer is for consideration, to the charge of making good to the disappointed transferee the amount or value of the property attempted to be transferred to him.

Illustration.

The farm of Sultánpur is the property of C and worth Rs. 800. A by an instrument of gift professes to transfer it to B, giving by the same instrument Rs. 1,000 to C. C elects to retain the farm. He forfeits the gift of Rs. 1,000.

In the same case, A dies before the election. His representative must out of the Rs. 1,000 pay Rs. 800 to B.

Act X of 1865, s. 169.

The rule in the first paragraph of this section applies whether the transferor does or does not believe that which he professes to transfer to be his own.

Act X of 1865, s. 171.

A person taking no benefit directly under a transaction, but deriving a benefit under it indirectly, need not elect.

Act X of 1865, s. 172.

A person who in his one capacity takes a benefit under the transaction may in another dissent therefrom.

Exception to the last preceding four rules.—Where a particular benefit is expressed to be conferred on the owner of the property which the transferor professes to transfer expressed to be in lieu of that property, if such owner claim that he must relinquish the particular benefit, but he is not bound to relinquish any other benefit conferred upon him by the same transaction.

Act X of 1865, s. 173.

Acceptance of the benefit by the person on whom it is conferred constitutes an election by him to confirm the transfer, if he is aware of his duty to elect and of those circumstances which would influence the judgment of a reasonable man in making an election, or if he waives enquiry into the circumstances.

Act X of 1865, s. 174.

Such knowledge or waiver shall, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, be presumed, if the person on whom the benefit has been conferred has enjoyed it for two years without doing any act to express dissent.

Act X of 1865, s. 175.

Such knowledge or waiver may be inferred from any act of his which renders it impossible to place the persons interested in the property professed to be transferred in the same condition as if such act had not been done.

Illustration.

A transfers to B an estate to which C is entitled, and to C a coal-mine. C takes possession of the mine and exhausts it. He has thereby confirmed the transfer of the estate to B.

Act X of 1865, s. 176. If he does not within one year after the date of the transfer signify to the transferor or his representatives his intention to confirm or to dissent from the transfer, the transferor or his representatives may, upon the expiration of that period, require him to make his election; and if he does not comply with such requisition within a reasonable time after he has received it, he shall be deemed to have elected to confirm the transfer.

Act X of 1865, s. 167. In case of disability, the election shall be postponed until the disability ceases, or until the election is made by some competent authority.

Apportionment.

Draft, s. 64: Bill III, s. 86.

37. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, all rents, annuities, pensions, dividends and other periodical payments in the nature of income shall, upon the transfer of the interest of the person entitled to receive such payments, be deemed, as between the transferor and the transferee, to accrue due from day to day, and to be apportionable accordingly, but to be payable on the days appointed for the payment thereof.

Apportionment of periodical payments on determination of interest of person entitled.

Severance of Obligation relating to property.

38. When in consequence of a transfer property is divided and held in several shares, and thereupon the benefit of any obligation relating to the property as a whole passes from one to several owners of the property, the corresponding duty shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary amongst the owners, be performed in favour of each of such owners in proportion to the value of his share in the property, provided that the duty can be severed and that the severance does not substantially increase the burden of the obligation; but if the duty cannot be severed, or if the severance would substantially increase the burden of the obligation, the duty shall be performed for the benefit of such one of the several owners as they shall jointly designate for that purpose:

Satisfaction of right arising in favour of several persons in consequence of a transfer.

Provided that no person on whom the burden of the obligation lies shall be answerable for failure to discharge it in manner provided by this section, unless and until he has had reasonable notice of the severance.

Illustrations.

(a). A sells to B, C and D land situate in a village and leased to E at an annual rent of Rs. 30 and delivery of one fat sheep, B having provided half the purchase-money and C and D one quarter each. E having notice of this must pay Rs. 15 to B, Rs. 7½ to C and Rs 7½ to D, and must deliver the sheep according to the joint direction of B, C and D.

(b). Each house in the village being bound to provide ten days' labour each year on a dyke to prevent inundation, E had agreed as a term of his lease to perform this work for A. B, C and D severally require E to perform the ten days' work due on account of the house of each. E is not bound to do more than ten days' work in all, according to such directions as B, C and D may join in giving.

B.—Transfer of Immoveable Property.

Bill III, s. 7.

39. Where any person authorized only under circumstances in their nature variable to dispose of immoveable property transfers such property for consideration, alleging the existence of such circumstances, they shall, as between the transferee on the one part and the transferor and other persons (if any) affected by the transfer on the other part, be deemed to have existed, if the transferee, after using reasonable care to ascertain the existence of such circumstances, has acted in good faith.

Transfer by person authorized only under certain circumstances to transfer.

Illustration.

A, a Hindú widow, whose husband has left collateral heirs, agrees, for purposes neither religious nor charitable, to sell a field, part of the property held by her as such, to B. B satisfies himself by reasonable enquiry that the income of the property is insufficient for A's maintenance, and that the sale of the field is necessary, and, acting in good faith, buys the field. As between B on the one part and A and the collateral heirs on the other part, a necessity for the sale shall be deemed to have existed.

40. Where a third person has a right to receive maintenance or a provision for advancement or marriage from the profits of immoveable property, and such property is transferred with the intention of defeating such right, the right may be enforced against the transferee, if he has notice of such intention or if the transfer is gratuitous; but not against a transferee for consideration and without notice of the right, nor against such property in his hands.

Transfer of land where third person is entitled to maintenance,

Illustrations.

(a). A, a Hindú, transfers Sultánpur to his sister-in-law B, in lieu of her claim against him for maintenance in virtue of his having succeeded to her deceased husband's property, and agrees with her that if she is dispossessed of Sultánpur, A will transfer to her an equal area out of such of several other specified villages in his possession as she may elect. A sells the specified villages to C, who buys in good faith, without notice of the agreement. B is dispossessed of Sultánpur. She has no claim on the villages transferred to C.

(b). A, a Hindú widow, is entitled to maintenance out of the share of her deceased husband in Basaoli, which has passed to his brother B. B sells Basaoli to C, who has notice that there is no other property to satisfy A's claim. A may claim maintenance out of Basaoli in the hands of C.

Where for the more beneficial enjoyment of his own immoveable property a third person has, independently of any interest in the immoveable property of another, a right to restrain the enjoyment of the latter property or to compel its enjoyment in a particular manner, or or has a right to restrain its enjoyment,

where a third person is entitled to the benefit of an obligation arising out of contract and annexed to the ownership of immoveable property, but not amounting to an interest therein or easement thereon, or is entitled to benefit of obligation not amounting to interest or easement.

such right or obligation may be enforced against a transferee with notice thereof or a gratuitous transferee of the property affected thereby, but not against a transferee for consideration and without notice of the right or obligation, nor against such property in his hands.

Illustration.

A contracts to sell Sultánpur to B. While the contract is still in force he sells Sultánpur to C, who has notice of the contract. B may enforce the contract against C to the same extent as against A.

Bill III, s. 7: Act IX of 1872, s. 108, excepn. 2.

41. Where with the consent, express or implied, of the persons interested in immoveable property, a person is the ostensible owner of such property and transfers the same for consideration, the transfer shall not be voidable on the ground that the transferor was not authorized to make it: provided that the transferee, after taking reasonable care to ascertain that the transferor had power to make the transfer, has acted in good faith.

Transfer by ostensible owner.

Illustrations.

(a). A, one of two co-proprietors of village land, leaves his village, and with his consent the land is registered by the Revenue-officer in the name of B, the other co-proprietor. After ten years B sells a portion of the land to C, who takes reasonable care to ascertain that B had power to make the transfer and acts in good faith. A is not entitled to have the sale set aside.

(b). A buys land and causes it to be transferred to his servant B to hold on his behalf, and also causes it to be entered in the revenue register in B's name. C, having ascertained that B is the registered owner of the land and pays the revenue due in respect thereof, buys the land in good faith from B. A cannot impeach the sale.

Bill III, s. 10A, para. 2.

42. Where a person having authority to revoke a transfer of any immoveable property, transfers the property for consideration, such transfer operates in favour of the transferee (subject to any condition attached to the exercise of the authority) as a revocation of the former transfer to the extent of the authority.

Transfer by person having authority to revoke transfer.

Illustration.

A lets a house to B and reserves power to revoke the lease if in the opinion of a specified surveyor B should make a use of it detrimental to its value. Afterwards A, thinking that such a use has been made, lets the house to C. This operates as a revocation of B's lease subject to the opinion of the surveyor as to B's use of the house having been detrimental to its value.

43. Where a person erroneously represents that he is authorized to transfer certain immoveable property, and assumes to transfer such property for consideration, such transfer shall, at the option of the transferee, operate on any interest which the transferor may acquire in such property, at any time during which the contract of transfer subsists.

Transfer by unauthorized person who subsequently acquires interest in property transferred.

Nothing in this section shall impair the right of transferees in good faith for consideration without notice of the existence of the said option.

Illustration.

A, a Hindú, who has separated from his father B, sells to C three fields, X, Y and Z. Of these Z does not belong to A, it having been retained by B on the partition; but on B's dying A obtains Z as heir. C, not having rescinded the contract of sale, may require A to deliver Z to him.

Bill III, s. 9.

44. Where one of two or more co-owners of immoveable property legally competent in that behalf transfers his share of such property or any interest therein, the transferee acquires as to such share or interest, and so far as is necessary to give effect to the transfer, the transferor's right to joint possession or other common or part enjoyment of the property, and to enforce a partition of the same, but subject to the conditions and liabilities affecting, at the date of the transfer, the share or interest so transferred.

Transfer by one co-owner.

Where the transferee of a share of a dwelling-house belonging to an undivided family is a stranger nothing in this section shall be deemed to entitle him to joint-possession or other common or part enjoyment of the house.

Bill III, s. 13.

45. Where property is transferred for consideration to two or more persons, and such consideration is paid out of a fund belonging to them in common, they are in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively entitled to interests in such property identical, as nearly as may be, with the interests to which they were respectively entitled to the fund; and where such consideration is paid out of separate funds belonging to them respectively, they are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively entitled to interests in such property in proportion to the shares of the consideration which they respectively advanced.

Joint transfer for consideration.

In the absence of evidence as to the interests in the fund to which they were respectively entitled, or as to the shares which they respectively advanced, such persons shall be presumed to be equally interested in the property.

Illustration.

A and B are the sons and C the grandson of a Hindú who has died leaving property. C's father D has also died. A partition has been made after which A and B have reunited. C remains severed in interest, his share being one-third. The separate property of D is of the same value. The whole fund belonging to A, B and C is expended in buying an estate, X. A and B take one moiety of X as joint estate and C takes the other moiety as separate property.

46. Where a transfer of immoveable property is made for consideration by persons having distinct interests therein, the transferors are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to share in the consideration equally, where their interests in the property transferred were of equal value, and, where such interests were of unequal value, proportionately to the value of their respective interests.

Transfer for consideration by persons having distinct interests.

Illustrations.

(a). A, owing a moiety, and B and C, each a quarter share of mauza Sultánpur, exchange an eighth share of that mauza for a quarter share of mauza Lálpura. There being no agreement to the contrary, A is entitled to an eighth share in Lálpura, and B and C each to a sixteenth share in that mauza.

(b). A being entitled to a life interest in mauza Atrali and B and C to the reversion, sell the mauza for Rs. 1,000. A's life interest is ascertained to be worth Rs. 600, the reversion Rs. 400. A is entitled to receive Rs. 600 out of the purchase money, B and C to receive Rs. 400.

47. Where several co-owners of immoveable property transfer a share therein without specifying that the transfer is to take effect on any particular share or shares of the transferors, the transfer, as among such transferors, takes effect on such shares equally where the shares were equal, and where they were unequal, proportionately to the extent of such shares.

Transfer by co-owners of share in common property.

Illustration.

A, the owner of an eight annas share, and B and C, each the owner of a four annas share, in mauza Sultánpur, transfer a two-anna share in the mauza to D, without specifying from which of their several shares the transfer is made. To give effect to the transfer one anna share is taken from the share of A, and half an anna share from each of the shares of B and C.

48. Where a person purports to create by transfer at different times rights in or over the same immoveable property, and such rights cannot all exist or be exercised to their full extent together, each later created right shall, in the absence of a special contract or reservation binding the earlier transferees, be subject to the rights previously created.

Priority of rights created by transfer.

Bill III, ss. 37, 38.

49. Where immoveable property is transferred for consideration, and such property or any part thereof is at the date of the transfer insured against loss or damage by fire, the transferee, in case of such loss or damage, may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, require any money which the transferor actually receives under the policy, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be applied in reinstating the property.

Transferee's right under policy.

Bill III, s. 8: Act X 1855, s. 1.

50. No person shall be chargeable with any rents or profits of any immoveable property, which he has in good faith paid or delivered to any person of whom he in good faith held such property, notwithstanding it may afterwards appear that the person to whom such payment or delivery was made had no right to receive such rents or profits.

Rent bonâ fide paid to holder under defective title.

Illustration.

A lets a field to B at a rent of Rs. 50, and then transfers the field to C. B, having no notice of the transfer, in good faith pays the rent to A. B is not chargeable with the rent so paid.

51. When the transferee of immoveable property makes any improvement on the property, believing in good faith that he is absolutely entitled thereto, and he is subsequently evicted therefrom by any person having a better title, the transferee or his representative in interest has a right to require the person causing the eviction either to have the value of the improvement estimated and paid or secured to the transferee, or to sell his interest in the property to the transferee at the then market value thereof irrespective of the value of such improvement.

Improvements made by bonâ fide holders under defective titles.

The amount to be paid or secured in respect of such improvement shall be the estimated value thereof at the time of the eviction.

When under the circumstances aforesaid the transferee has planted or sown on the property crops which are growing when he is evicted therefrom, he is entitled to such crops and to free ingress and egress to gather and carry them.

52. During the active prosecution in any Court having authority in British India, or established beyond the limits of British India by the Governor General in Council, of a contentious suit or proceeding in which any right to immoveable property is directly and specifically in question, the property cannot be transferred or otherwise dealt with by any party to the suit or proceeding so as to affect the rights of any other party thereto under any decree or order which may be made therein, except under the authority of the Court and on such terms as it may impose.

Transfer of property pending suit relating thereto.

Bill III, s. 10A: Cf. Act I of 1877, s. 35.

53. Every transfer of immoveable property made with intent to defraud prior or subsequent transferees thereof for consideration, or co-owners or other persons having an interest in such property, or to defeat or delay the creditors of the transferor, is voidable at the option of any person so defrauded, defeated or delayed.

Fraudulent transfer.

Where the effect of any transfer of immoveable property is to defraud, defeat or delay any such person, and such transfer is made gratuitously or for a grossly inadequate consideration, the transfer may be presumed to have been made with such intent as aforesaid.

Nothing contained in this section shall impair the rights of any transferee in good faith and for consideration.

CHAPTER III.

OF SALES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

54. "Sale" is a transfer of ownership in exchange for a price paid or promised or part-paid and part-promised.

"Sale" defined.

Such transfer, in the case of tangible immoveable property of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards, or in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing, can be made only by a registered assurance.

Sale how made.

In the case of tangible immoveable property of a value less than one hundred rupees, such transfer may be made either by a registered assurance or by delivery of the property.

Bill II, s. 11: 14 Beng. 307, 312: N. W. P., 1866, p. 87. Consider 12 Suth. W. R. P., C. 6: as to delivery of assurance, W. R. 1864, p. 222: 5 W. R. 248: Morley N. S. 358.

Delivery of tangible immoveable property takes place when the seller places the buyer, or such person as he directs, in possession of the property.

Right to redeem, N. W. P., 1868, p. 376.

A contract for the sale of immoveable property is a contract that a sale of such property shall take place on terms settled between the parties.

Contract for sale.

Bill III, s. 14.

It does not, of itself, create any interest in or charge on such property.

Bill, s. 11: Bill II, s. 11: Bill III, s. 12: Report, s. 14.

55. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the buyer and the seller of immoveable property respectively are subject to the liabilities, and have the rights, mentioned in the rules next following, or such of them as are applicable to the property sold :

Rights and liabilities of buyer and seller.

(a). The seller is bound—

Bill III, s. 13 (a).

(1) to disclose to the buyer any defect in the property of which the seller is, and the buyer is not, aware, and which the buyer could not with ordinary care discover ;

Bill III, s. 12 (c).

(2) to produce to the buyer on his request for examination all documents of title relating to the property which are in the seller's possession or power ;

Bill III, s. 13 (d).

(3) to answer to the best of his information all relevant questions put to him by the buyer in respect to the property or the title thereto ;

Bill III, s. 13 (e).

(4) on payment or tender of the amount due in respect of the price, to execute a proper assurance of the property when the buyer tenders it to him for execution at a proper time and place, and, where the property is, or forms part of, a revenue-paying estate, to present an application to the proper officer for the requisite alteration of the revenue-register ;

(5) between the date of the contract of sale and the delivery of the property, to take as much care of the property and all documents of title relating thereto which are in his possession, as an owner of ordinary prudence would take of such property and documents ;

(6) to give, on being so required, the buyer, or such person as he directs, such possession of the property as its nature admits ;

Bill III, s. 13 (g).

(7) to pay all public charges and rent accrued due in respect of the property up to the date of the sale, the interest on all incumbrances on such property due on such date ; and, except where the property is sold subject to incumbrances, to discharge all incumbrances on the property then existing ; and

(8) and the seller shall be deemed to contract that the interest which he assumes to transfer to the buyer subsists and that he has power to transfer the same :

Bill III, s. 12 (f).

provided that, where the sale is made by a person in a fiduciary character, he shall be deemed to contract that he has done no act whereby the property is incumbered or whereby he is hindered from transferring it.

(9) Where the whole of the purchase-money has been paid to the seller, he is also bound to deliver to the buyer all documents of title relating thereto which are in the seller's possession or power :

Bill III, s. 12 (i).

provided that (1), where the seller retains any part of the property comprised in such documents, he is entitled to retain them all, and (2), where the whole of such property is sold to different buyers, the buyer of the lot of greatest value is entitled to such documents. But in case (1) the seller, and in case (2) the buyer of the lot of greatest value, is bound, upon every reasonable request by the buyer, or by any of the other buyers, as the case may be, or by any person claiming under him, and at the cost of the person making the request, to produce the said documents and furnish such true copies thereof as he may require ; and in the meantime, the seller or the buyer, as the case may be, of the lot of greatest value must keep the said documents safe, uncancelled and undefaced, unless prevented from so doing by fire or other inevitable accident ;

(b) The seller is entitled—

Bill III, s. 13 (b).

(1) to the rents and profits of the property till the ownership thereof passes to the buyer ;

Bill III, s. 13 (c).

(2) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer before payment of the whole of the purchase-money, to a charge upon the property in the hands of the buyer for the amount of the purchase-money, or any part thereof remaining unpaid, and for interest on such amount or part.

(c). The buyer is bound—

Bill III, s. 13 (h).

(1) to disclose to the seller any fact as to the nature or extent of the seller's interest in the property of which the buyer is aware, but of which he has reason to believe that the seller is not aware, and which increases the value of such interest ;

Bill III, s. 13 (i).

(2) to pay or tender, at the time and place of completing the transfer, the purchase-money to the seller or such person as he directs : provided that, where the property is sold free from incumbrances, the buyer may retain out of the purchase-money the amount of the incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the transfer, and shall pay the amount so retained to the persons entitled thereto ;

Bill III, s. 13 (j).

(3) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, to bear any loss arising from the destruction, injury or decrease in value of the property not caused by the seller;

Bill III, s. 15. (4) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, as between himself and the seller, to pay all public charges and rent which may become payable in respect of the property, the principal moneys due on the incumbrances subject to which the property is sold, and the interest thereon afterwards accruing due.

(d). The buyer is entitled—

Bill III, s. 12 (c). (1) where the ownership of the property has passed to him, to the benefit of any improvement in, or increase in value of, the property, and to the rents and profits thereof;

Bill III, s. 12 (c). (2) unless he has improperly declined to accept delivery of the property, to a charge on the property as against the seller and all persons claiming under him with notice of the payment, to the extent of the seller's interest on the property, for the amount of any purchase-money properly paid by the buyer in anticipation of the delivery and for interest on such amount; and when he properly declines to accept the delivery, also for the earnest (if any) and for the costs (if any) awarded to him of a suit to compel specific performance of the contract or to obtain a decree for its rescission.

Bill III, s. 13. An omission to make such disclosures as are mentioned in this section, paragraph (a), clause (1), and paragraph (c), clause (1), is fraudulent.

Bill III, s. 19. 56. Where two properties are subject to a common charge, and one of the properties is sold, the buyer is, as against the seller, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to have the charge satisfied out of the other property, so far as such property will extend.

Sale of one of two properties subject to a common charge.

CHAPTER IV.

OF MORTGAGES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY AND CHARGES.

Bill II, s. 25: Bill III, s. 21: Act XVIII of 1866, s. 19: 13 B. L. R. 146, n. 24.

57. (a). A mortgage is the transfer of an interest in specific immoveable property for the purpose of securing the payment of money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan, an existing or future debt, or the performance of an engagement which may give rise to a pecuniary liability.

"Mortgage," "mortgagor" and "mortgagee" defined.

The transferor is called a mortgagor, the transferee a mortgagee; the principal-money and interest of which payment is secured for the time being are called the mortgage-money, the interest transferred is called the mortgaged property, and the instrument (if any) by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

(b). Where, without delivering possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor binds himself personally to pay the mortgage-money and agrees, expressly or impliedly, that, in the event of his failing to pay according to his contract, the mortgagee shall have a right to cause the mortgaged property to be sold and the proceeds of sale to be applied, so far as may be necessary, in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called a simple mortgage and the mortgagee a simple mortgagee.

Simple mortgage.

Moo. I. A. 275, 306. Colebs. Dig. B. i, c. III, t. 96.

(c). Where the mortgagor ostensibly sells the mortgaged property—

Mortgage by conditional sale.

on condition that on default of payment of the mortgage-money on a certain date the sale shall become absolute, or on condition that on such payment being made the sale shall become void, or on condition that on such payment being made the buyer shall transfer the property to the seller, the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale and the mortgagee a mortgagee by conditional sale.

(d). Where the mortgagor delivers possession of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee and authorises him to retain such possession until payment of the mortgage-money, and to receive the rents and profits accruing from the property and to appropriate them in lieu of interest or in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage and the mortgagee an usufructuary mortgagee.

Usufructuary mortgage.

Macph. 8 13: 59: R. B. Ghose 318, 319: 2 Moo. I. A. 487.

(e). Where the mortgagor binds himself to repay the mortgage-money on a certain date, and transfers the mortgaged property absolutely to the mortgagee, but subject to a condition that he will re-transfer it to the mortgagor upon payment of the mortgage-money as agreed, the transaction is called an English mortgage.

English mortgage.

Bill II, s. 26: Bill III, s. 22: See Macph. 58: R. B. Ghose 64.

58. Where the principal money secured is one hundred rupees or upwards, a mortgage can be effected only by registered assurance signed by the mortgagor and attested by at least two witnesses.

Mortgage when to be by assurance.

Where the principal money secured is less than one hundred rupees, a mortgage may be effected either by assurance signed and attested as aforesaid or by delivery of the property.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to render invalid mortgages made in the towns of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Karáchí and Rangoon, by delivery to a creditor or his agent of documents of title to immoveable property, with intent to create a security thereon.

Rights and Liabilities of Mortgagor.

Bill II, s. 28: Bill, s. 15: 3 Bom. 4[illegible]: 6 Beng. 4[illegible]: 3 Mad. 3[illegible]: 7 Mad. 3[illegible]: 14 Ves. 3[illegible]:

Right of mortgagor to redeem.

13 Beng. 205: N. W. P., 1868, p. 204: Bomb., 237: no redemption before expiration of period named. Redemption after fixed time has expired, 9 Bom. 69. See 7 Ben. 186 (P.C.)

the mortgage-money, to require the mortgagee (a) to deliver the mortgage-deed, if any, (b) where the mortgagee is in possession of the mortgaged property, to deliver possession thereof to the mortgagor, and (c) at the cost of the mortgagor either to re-transfer the mortgaged property to him or to such person as he may direct, or to execute and (where the mortgage has been effected by registered assurance) to have registered an acknowledgment in writing that any right in derogation of his ownership or other interest transferred to the mortgagee has been extinguished:

6 Bom. A. C. J. 265: N. W. P., 1869, p. 128.

provided that the right conferred by this section has not been extinguished by act of the parties or by order of a Court.

The right conferred by this section is called a right to redeem, and a suit to enforce it is called a suit for redemption.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to render invalid any provision to the effect that, if the time fixed for payment of the principal money has been allowed to pass or no such time has been fixed, the mortgagee shall be entitled to reasonable notice before payment or tender of such money.

Nothing in this section shall entitle a person interested in a share only of the mortgaged property to redeem his own share only, on payment of a proportionate part of the amount remaining due on the mortgage, except where a mortgagee, or, if there are more mortgagees than one, all such mortgagees, has or have acquired, in whole or in part, the share of a mortgagee.

Redemption of portion of mortgaged property.

Bill II, s. 33: Bill III, s. 23: Contra, Bom. A. C. J. 90. But see 2 B. L. R. O. C. 230, 231.

60. If the owner of two or more properties makes separate mortgages on them by separate assurances, each mortgage may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be dealt with irrespectively of the other, though the mortgages are made in favour of the same mortgagee.

Right to redeem one of two properties separately mortgaged.

Illustration.

A, the owner of farms Z and Y, mortgages Z to B for Rs. 1,000. A afterwards mortgages Y to B for Rs. 1,000 making no stipulation as to any additional charge on Z. A may institute a suit for the redemption of the mortgage on Z alone.

Bill III, s. 28, clause (c).

61. In the case of a usufructuary mortgage, the mortgagor has a right to recover possession of the property—

Right of usufructuary mortgagor to recover possession.

(a) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself the mortgage-money from the rents and profits of the property,—when such money is paid;

(b) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from such rents and profits the interest of the principal money,—when the term (if any) prescribed for the payment of the mortgage-money has expired and the mortgagor pays or tenders to the mortgagee the principal money or deposits it in Court as hereinafter provided.

Bill II, s. 35: 10 Bom. 369; 11 Bomb. 32: I. L. R. 5 Calc. 198.

62. Where mortgaged property in possession of the mortgagee has, during the continuance of the mortgage, received any accession, the mortgagor, upon redemption, shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be entitled as against the mortgagee to such accession.

Accession to mortgaged property.

Where such accession has been acquired at the cost of the mortgagee, and is capable of separate possession or enjoyment without detriment to the principal property, the mortgagor desiring to take the accession must pay to the mortgagee the cost of acquiring it. If such separate possession or enjoyment is not possible, the accession must be delivered with the property, the mortgagor being liable in the case of an acquisition necessary to preserve the property from destruction, forfeiture or sale, or made with his assent, to pay the proper cost thereof, as an addition to the principal money, at the same rate of interest.

Accession acquired in virtue of transferred ownership.

In the case last mentioned the profits, if any, arising from the accession shall be credited to the mortgagor.

Where the mortgage is usufructuary and the accession has been acquired at the cost of the mortgagee, the profits, if any, arising from the accession shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be set off against interest, if any, payable on the money so expended.

Illustration.

A mortgages to B a field, the trees on which are the property of Government. B enters into possession of the field, and as occupant thereof buys the trees. A redeems the field. He is entitled to the trees on payment of their cost.

(c) that the mortgagor will, so long as the mortgagee is not in possession of the mortgaged property, pay all public charges accruing due in respect of the property;

(d) and, where the mortgaged property is a lease for a term of years, that the rent payable under the lease, the conditions contained therein, and the contracts binding on the lessee have been paid, performed and observed down to the commencement of the mortgage; and that the mortgagor will, so long as the security exists and the mortgagee is not in possession of the mortgaged property, pay the rent reserved by the lease, or, if the lease be renewed, the renewed lease, perform the conditions contained therein and observe the contracts binding on the lessee, and indemnify the mortgagee against all claims sustained by reason of the non-payment of the said rent or the non-performance or non-observance of the said conditions and contracts;

(e) and, where the mortgage is a second or subsequent incumbrance on the property, that the mortgagor will pay the interest from time to time accruing due on each prior incumbrance as and when it becomes due, and will at the proper time discharge the principal money due on such prior incumbrance.

Nothing in clause (c), or in clause (d), so far as it relates to the payment of future rent, applies in the case of an usufructuary mortgage.

66. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the mortgagee has, at any time after the mortgage-money has become payable to him, and before a decree has been made for the redemption of the mortgaged property, or the mortgage-money has been paid or deposited as hereinafter provided, a right to obtain from the Court an order that the mortgagor shall be absolutely debarred of his right to redeem the property, or an order that the property be sold.

Right to foreclosure or sale.

A suit to obtain an order that a mortgagor shall be absolutely debarred of his right to redeem the mortgaged property is called a suit for foreclosure.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed—

Simple mortgagee, R. W. P., 1880, p. 164: Usufructuary, N. W. P., 1875, p. 55.

(a) to authorize a simple mortgagee as such to institute a suit for foreclosure, or an usufructuary mortgagee as such to institute a suit for foreclosure or sale, or a mortgagee by conditional sale as such to institute a suit for sale; or

Fishr 518, 557: Qy. as to conditional mortgagees.

(b) to authorize a mortgagor who holds the mortgagee's rights as his trustee or legal representative and who may sue for a sale of the property to institute a suit for foreclosure; or

(d) to authorize a person interested in part only of the mortgage-money to institute a suit relating only to a corresponding part of the mortgaged property: unless the mortgagees have, with the consent of the mortgagor, severed their interests under the mortgage.

Cases contra, Macph. 195, 196.

67. The mortgagee has a right to sue the mortgagor for the mortgage-money in the following cases only:—

Decree in foreclosure-suit.

85. In a suit for foreclosure, if the plaintiff succeed, the Court shall make a decree, ordering that an account be taken of what will be due to the plaintiff for principal and interest on the mortgage, and for his costs of the suit, if any, awarded to him, on the day next hereinafter referred to, or declaring the amount so due at the date of such decree, and ordering that, upon the defendant paying to the plaintiff or into Court the amount so due, on a day within six months from the date of declaring in Court the amount so due, to be fixed by the Court, the plaintiff shall deliver up to the defendant, or to such person as he appoints, all documents in his possession or power relating to the mortgaged property, and shall transfer the property to the defendant free from all incumbrances created by the plaintiff or any person claiming under him, or, where the plaintiff claims by derived title, by those under whom he claims; and shall, if necessary, put the defendant into possession of the property; but that, if the payment is not made on or before the day to be fixed by the Court, the defendant shall be absolutely debarred of all right to redeem the property.

Bill II, sec. 55.

Decree for sale.

87. In a suit for sale, if the plaintiff succeed, the Court shall pass a decree to the effect mentioned in the first and second paragraphs of section eighty-five, and also ordering that, in default of the defendant paying as therein mentioned, the mortgaged property or a sufficient part thereof be sold, and that the proceeds of the sale (after defraying thereout the expenses of the sale) be paid into Court and applied in payment of what is so found due to the plaintiff, and that the balance, if any, be paid to the defendant or other persons entitled to receive the same.

Decree in redemption-suit.

ordering that an account be taken of what will be due to the defendant for the mortgage-money and for his costs of the suit, if any, awarded to him, on the day next hereinafter referred to, or declaring the amount so due at the date of such decree; and ordering that, upon the plaintiff paying to the defendant or into Court the amount so due on a day within six months from the date of declaring in Court the amount so due, to be fixed by the Court, the defendant shall deliver up to the plaintiff or to such person as he appoints, all documents in his possession or power relating to the mortgaged property, and shall re-transfer it to the plaintiff free from the mortgage and from all incumbrances created by the defendant or any person claiming under him, or, when the defendant claims by derived title, by those under whom he claims, and shall, if necessary, put the plaintiff into possession of the mortgaged property;

that if such payment is not made on or before the day to be fixed by the Court, the plaintiff shall (unless the mortgage be simple or usufructuary) be absolutely debarred of all right to redeem the property, or (unless the mortgage be by conditional sale) that the property be sold.

92. If payment is made of such amount and of such subsequent costs as are mentioned in section ninety-three, the plaintiff shall, if necessary, be put into possession of the mortgaged property.

Bill II, s. 60.

In case of redemption, possession.

If such payment is not so made, the defendant may (unless the mortgage is simple or usufructuary) apply to the Court for an order that the plaintiff and all persons claiming through or under him be debarred absolutely of all right to redeem, or (unless the mortgage is by conditional sale) for an order that the mortgaged property be sold.

In default, foreclosure or sale.

If he apply for the former order, the Court shall pass an order that the plaintiff and all persons claiming through or under him be absolutely debarred of all right to redeem the mortgaged property, and may, if necessary, deliver possession of the property to the defendant.

If he apply for the latter order, the Court shall pass an order that such property or a sufficient part thereof be sold, and that the proceeds of the sale (after defraying thereout the expenses of the sale) be paid into Court and applied in payment of what is found due to the defendant, and that the balance be paid to the plaintiff or other persons entitled to receive the same.

On the passing of any order under this section the plaintiff's right to redeem and the security shall, as regards the property affected by the order, both be extinguished:

If any property the sale of which is directed under this chapter is subject to a prior mortgage, the Court may, with the consent of the prior mortgagee, order that the property be sold free from the same, giving to such prior mortgagee the same interest in the proceeds of the sale as he had in the property sold.

Sale of property subject to prior mortgage.

Bill II, s. 66: III, s. 61: Bill, s. 33: See Act X of 1877, s. 295.

96. Such proceeds shall be brought into Court and applied as follows:—

Application of proceeds.

first, in payment of all expenses incident to the sale or properly incurred in any attempted sale;

secondly, if the property has been sold free from any prior mortgage, in payment of whatever is due on account of such mortgage;

thirdly, in payment of all interest due on account of the mortgage in consequence whereof the sale was directed, and of the costs of the suit in which the decree directing the sale was made;

fourthly, in payment of the principal money due on account of that mortgage; and fifthly, the residue (if any) shall be paid to the person proving himself to be interested in the property sold, or if there be more such persons than one, then to such persons according to their respective interests therein or upon their joint receipt.

Anomalous Mortgages.

Bombay Reg. V of 1827, s. 15. 'No precise form is required for a mortgage,' 5 Beng. 272, per Couch, C. J.

97. In the case of a mortgage not being a simple mortgage, a mortgage by conditional sale, an usufructuary mortgage, or an English mortgage, or a combination of the first and third, or the second and third, of such forms, the rights and liabilities of the parties shall be determined by their contract as evidenced in the mortgage-deed, and, so far as such contract does not extend, by local usage.

Mortgage not described in section 58, clauses (b), (c), (d) and (e).

Attachment of Mortgaged property.

98. Where a mortgagee in execution of a decree for the satisfaction of any claim, whether arising under the mortgage or not, attaches the mortgaged property, he shall not be entitled to bring such property to sale otherwise than by instituting a suit under section sixty-six.

Attachment of mortgaged propety.

Charges.

Bill II, s. 68: III, s. 68: Bill, s. 41.

99. Where immoveable property of one person is by act of parties or operation of law made security for the payment of money to another, and the transaction does not amount to a mortgage, the latter person is said to have a charge on the property; and all the provisions hereinbefore applied to a mortgagor shall, so far as may be, apply to the owner of such property, and the provisions of sections eighty and eighty-one and all the provisions hereinbefore applied to a mortgagee instituting a suit for the sale of the mortgaged property shall, so far as may be, apply to the person having such charge.

Charges.

Nothing in this section applies to the charge of a trustee on the trust-property for expenses properly incurred in the execution of his trust.

Bill II, s. 69: III, s. 64: Swinfen v. Swinfen, 29 Beav. 199: Adams v. Angell, 5 Chan. D. 634, 645: 7 Mad. 231: 14 W. R. 491: 3 O'Kin. 184: 5 Beng. 463: 11 Bom. 41.

100. Where the owner of a charge or other incumbrance on immoveable property is or becomes absolutely entitled to that property, the charge or incumbrance shall be extinguished, unless he declares, by express words or necessary implication, that it shall continue to subsist, or such continuance would be for his benefit.

Extinguishment of charges.

Notice and Tender.

101. Where the person on or to whom any notice or tender is to be served or made under this chapter does not reside in the district in which the mortgaged property or some part thereof is situate, service or tender on or to an agent holding a general power-of-attorney from such person or otherwise duly authorized to accept such service or tender shall be deemed sufficient.

Service or tender on or to agent.

Where the person or agent on whom such notice should be served cannot be found in the said district, or is unknown to the person required to serve the notice, the latter person may apply to any Court in which a suit might be brought for redemption of the mortgaged property, and such Court shall direct in what manner such notice shall be served, and any notice served in compliance with such direction shall be deemed sufficient.

Where the person or agent to whom such tender should be made cannot be found within the said district, or is unknown to the person desiring to make the tender, the latter person may deposit in such Court as last aforesaid the amount sought to be tendered, and such deposit shall have the effect of a tender of such amount.

102. Where under the provisions of this chapter a notice is to be served on or by, or tender or deposit made or accepted or taken out of Court by, any person, incompetent to contract, such notice may be served or tender or deposit made accepted or taken by the legal curator of the property of such person; but where there is no such curator, and it is requisite or desirable in the interests of such person that a notice should be served or tender or deposit made under the provisions of this chapter, application may be made to any Court in which a suit might be brought for the redemption of the mortgage to appoint a guardian ad litem for the purpose of serving or receiving service of such notice, or making or accepting such tender, or making or taking out of Court such deposit, and for the performance of all consequential acts which could or ought to be done by such person if he were competent to contract; and the provisions of chapter XXXI of the Code of Civil Procedure shall, so far as may be, apply to such application and to the parties thereto and to the guardian appointed thereunder.

Notice, &c., to or by person incompetent to contract.

103. The High Court may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act for carrying out the provisions contained in this chapter.

Power to make rules.

CHAPTER V.

OF LEASES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

104. A lease of immoveable property is a transfer of a right to enjoy such property made for a certain time express or implied, or in perpetuity, in consideration of a price paid or promised, or of money, a share of crops, service or any other thing of value, to be rendered periodically or on specified occasions to the transferor by the transferee, who accepts the transfer on such terms.

Lease defined.

The transferor is called the lessor, the transferee is called the lessee, the price is called the premium, and the money, share, service or other thing to be so rendered is called the rent.

Lessor, lessee, premium and rent defined.

Bill II, s. 74: III, 68: Bill, s. 46: Report, s. 40: 5 Bomb. A. C. J. 179; 6 ibid. 31; 7 ibid. 111. and see 1 Beng. P. R. 25. 12 W. R. 190: 1 L. R. 3 Calc. [illegible] 11 Beng. 268: N. W. P., 1878, p. 9., Perry 480.

105. In the absence of a contract or local law or usage to the contrary, a lease of immoveable property for agricultural or manufacturing purposes shall be deemed to be a lease from year to year, terminable, on the part of either lessor or lessee, by six months' notice expiring with the end of a year of the tenancy; and a lease of immoveable property for any other purpose shall be deemed to be a lease from month to month, terminable, on the part of either lessor or lessee, by fifteen days' notice expiring with the end of a month of the tenancy.

Duration of certain leases in absence of written contract or local usage.

Every notice under this section must be in writing signed by or on behalf of the party giving it and tendered or delivered to the party who is intended to be bound by it, or affixed to a conspicuous part of the property.

Notice to determine lease.

106. A lease of immoveable property from year to year, or for any term exceeding one year, or reserving a yearly rent, can be made only by a registered assurance.

Leases how made.

Bill II, s. 71: Bill III, s. 65. All other leases of immoveable property may be made either by assurance or by oral agreement.

107. In the absence of a contract or local usage to the contrary, the lessor and the lessee of immoveable property, as against one another, respectively, possess the rights and are subject to the liabilities mentioned in the rules next following, or such of them as are applicable to the property leased:—

Rights and liabilities of lessor and lessee.

A.—Rights and liabilities of the Lessor.

Bill III, s. 66 6 W. R. 314. (a) the lessor is bound to disclose to the lessee any defect in the property, with reference to its intended use, of which the former is and the latter is not aware, and which the latter could not with ordinary care discover:

(b) the lessor is bound on the lessee's request to put him in possession of the property leased:

6 Beng. Appendix 44: 39 (3); 15 W.R. 230; 23 W.R. 121.

(c) the lessor shall be deemed to contract with the lessee that, if the latter pays the rent reserved by the lease and performs the contracts binding on the lessee, he may hold the property leased during the time limited by the lease without interruption:

(d) where an arrear of rent is due from any lessee, the lessor may, instead of suing for the arrear, recover the same by distress and sale of the goods found in or upon the property in respect of which the arrear is due or of the produce of such property, but subject to the local law, if any, for the time being in force relating to distresses.

39 (2) altered: cf. IX of 1872, s. 93: 11 W.R. 228: 12 W. R. 149:

B.—Rights and liabilities of the Lessee.

(e) if during the continuance of the lease any accession is made to the property leased, such accession (subject to the law relating to alluvion for the time being in force) shall be deemed to be comprised in the lease:

8 Beng. 73: 5 Calc. L. R. 33.

(f) if by fire, tempest or flood, or violence of an army or of a mob, or other irresistible force, any material part of the property leased be wholly destroyed or rendered substantially and permanently unfit for the purposes for which it was let, the lease shall, at the option of the lessee, be void:

provided that, if the injury be occasioned by the wrongful act or default of the lessee, he shall not be entitled to avail himself of the benefit of this provision:

(g) if the lessor neglects to make, within a reasonable time after notice, repairs which he is bound to make to the property leased, the lessee may make the same himself, and deduct the expense of such repairs with interest from the rent, or otherwise recover it from the lessor:

(h) if the lessor neglects to make any payment which he is bound to make, and which, if not made by him, is recoverable from the lessee or against the property leased, the lessee may make such payment himself, and deduct it with interest from the rent, or otherwise recover it from the lessor:

(i) the lessee may remove, at any time during the continuance of the lease, all things which he has attached to the earth; provided he leaves the property leased in the state in which he received it:

Ex Thakoor Chunder Pa-ramanick, Beng. F. B. Rulings 595: 8 Beng. 237: 14 Beng. 201, 205:

(j) when a lease of uncertain duration determines by any means except the fault of the lessee, he or his legal representative is entitled to all the crops planted or sown by the lessee and growing upon the property leased for the season current when the lease determines, and to free ingress and egress to gather and carry them:

cf. Act XIX of 1863, s. 46: Act XVIII of 1873, s. 49.

5 S. D. A. 205: 5 M ad. 120, 277. 7 Beng. 152: N. W. P., 1875, p. 181: 12 W. R. 451: 16 W. R. 112: 6 S. D. A. 67: 15 W. R. 449.

(k) the lessee may transfer absolutely or by way of mortgage or sub-lease the whole or any part of his interest in the property leased, and any transferee of such interest or part may again transfer it. The lessee shall not, by reason only of such transfer, cease to be subject to any of the liabilities attaching to the lease:

8 Beng. 239: 12 Beng. 82.

nothing in this clause shall be deemed to authorize a tenant having an untransferable right of occupancy, the farmer of an estate in respect of which default has been made in paying revenue or the lessee of an estate under the management of a Court of Wards, to assign his interest as such tenant, farmer or lessee:

(l) the lessee is bound to disclose to the lessor any fact as to the nature or extent of the interest which the lessee is about to take, of which the lessee is, and the lessor is not, aware, and which increases the value of such interest:

See 23 W. R. 34.

(m) the lessee is bound to pay or tender, at the proper time and place, the premium or rent to the lessor or his agent in this behalf:

(n) the lessee is bound to keep, and on the termination of the lease to restore, the property leased in as good condition as it was in at the time when he was put in possession, subject only to the changes caused by reasonable wear and tear or irresistible force, and to allow the lessor and his agents, at all reasonable times during the term, to enter into the property leased and inspect the condition thereof and give or leave notice of any defect in such condition, and, when such defect has been caused by any act or default on the part of the lessee, his servants or agents, he is bound to make it good within three months after such notice has been given or left:

(o) if the lessee becomes aware of any proceeding to recover the property leased or any part thereof, or of any encroachment made upon, or any interference with, the lessor's rights concerning such property, he is bound to give, with reasonable diligence, notice thereof to the lessor:

3 Beng. 401, 418: 8 Beng. Appendix 70: 10 Beng. App. 41. and v. 6 S. D. A. 305: 16 W. R. 360, 17 W. R. 416: 20 W. R. 253: W. R. 86, (1864) 93: 3 Ch. Ca. 526. 6 Beng. 443: 14 & 15 Vic. c. 99. s. 2.

(p) the lessee may use the property leased and its products (if any) as a person of ordinary prudence would use them if they were his own; but he must not use, or permit another to use, the property for a purpose other than that for which it was leased, or fell timber, pull down or damage buildings, work mines or quarries not open when the lease was granted, or commit any other act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto:

(q) he must not, without the lessor's consent, erect on the property leased any permanent structure, except for agricultural purposes:

(r) on the determination of the lease, the lessee is bound to put the lessor into possession of the property leased.

108. If the lessor transfers the property leased, or any part thereof, or any part of his interest therein, the transferee, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, shall possess all the rights and, if the lessee so elects, be subject to all the liabilities of the lessor as to the property or part transferred so long as he is the owner of it; but the lessor shall not by reason only of such transfer cease to be subject to any of the liabilities imposed upon him by the lease, unless the lessee elects to treat the transferee as the person liable to him:

14 W. R. 83. 24 W. R 68.

Rights of lessor's transferee.

Provided that the transferee is not entitled to arrears of rent due before the transfer, and that, if the lessee pay rent to the lessor without having reason to believe that such transfer has been made, the lessee shall not be liable to pay such rent over again to the transferee.

Act XI of 1855, s. 1: 4 Anne, c. 16, s. 10.

Where only a part of the property leased is transferred by the lessor, he may (subject to the provisions of section thirty-eight) determine what proportion of the premium or rent reserved by the lease is payable in respect of the part so transferred.

Bill II, s. 72.

109. Where the time limited by a lease of immoveable property is expressed as commencing from a particular day, in computing that time such day shall be excluded. Where no day of commencement is named, the time so limited begins from the making of the lease.

Bill II, s. 75: Bill, s. 43.

Exclusion of day on which term commences.

Where the time so limited is a year or a number of years, in the absence of an express agreement to the contrary, the lease shall last during the whole anniversary of the day from which such time commences.

Duration of lease for a year.

Where the time so limited is expressed to be terminable before its expiration, and the lease omits to mention at whose option it is so terminable, the lessee, and not the lessor, shall have such option.

Option to determine lease.

110. A lease of immoveable property determines—

Determination of lease.

Bill II, s. 76: 7 W. R. 252.

(a) by efflux of the time limited thereby:

(b) where such time is limited conditionally on the happening of some event—by the happening of such event:

3 Moo. I. A. 261: 16 W. R. 142.

(c) where the interest of the lessor in the property leased terminates on, or his power to dispose of the same extends only to, the happening of any event—by the happening of such event:

Lease by Hindu widow, Marshall 166.

(d) in case the interests of the lessee and the lessor in the whole of the property leased become vested at the same time in one person in the same right:

3 O'Kin. 130. But see per Pearson, Ch. 10 W. R. [illegible]

(e) by express surrender; that is to say, in case

Surrender of right to re-

the lessee yields up his interest under the lease to the lessor, by mutual agreement between them:

(f) by implied surrender:

(g) by forfeiture; that is to say, (1) in case the lessee breaks an express condition which provides that, on breach thereof, the lessor may re-enter, or the lease shall become void; or (2) in case the lessee renounces his character as such by setting up a title in a third person or by claiming title in himself; and in either case the lessor or his transferee does some act showing his intention to determine the lease:

(h) on the expiration of a notice to determine the lease, or to quit, or of intention to quit, the property leased, duly given by one party to the other.

Illustration to clause (f).

A, the lessee, accepts from the lessor a new lease of the property leased, to take effect during the continuance of the existing lease. This is an implied surrender of the former lease, and such lease determines thereupon.

111. A forfeiture under section one hundred and ten, clause (g), is waived by acceptance of rent which has become due since the forfeiture, or by distress for such rent, or by any other act on the part of the lessor showing an intention to treat the lease as subsisting:

Waiver of forfeiture.

Provided that the lessor is aware that the forfeiture has been incurred:

Provided also that, where rent is accepted after the institution of a suit to eject the lessee on the ground of forfeiture, such acceptance is not a waiver.

112. A notice given under section one hundred and ten, clause (h), is waived, with the express or implied consent of the person to whom it is given, by any act on the part of the person giving it showing an intention to treat the lease as subsisting.

Waiver of notice to quit.

Illustrations.

(a). A, the lessor, gives B, the lessee, notice to quit the property leased. The notice expires. B tenders, and A accepts, rent which has become due in respect of the property since the expiration of the notice. The notice is waived.

(b). A, the lessor, gives B the lessee, notice to quit the property leased. The notice expires, and B remains in possession. A gives to B as lessee a second notice to quit. The first notice is waived.

113. Where a lease of immoveable property has determined by forfeiture for non-payment of rent, and the lessor sues to eject the lessee, if, at the hearing of the suit, the lessee pays or tenders to the lessor the rent in arrear, together with interest thereon and his full costs of the suit, or gives such security as the Court thinks sufficient for making such payment within fifteen days, the Court may, in lieu of making a decree for ejectment, pass an order relieving the lessee against the forfeiture; and thereupon the lessee shall hold the property leased as if the forfeiture had not occurred.

Relief against forfeiture for non-payment of rent.

114. The surrender, express or implied, of a lease of immoveable property does not prejudice an under-lease of the property or any part thereof previously granted by the lessee, on terms and conditions substantially the same (except as regards the amount of rent) as those of the original lease; but, unless the surrender is made for the purpose of obtaining a new lease, the rent payable by and the contracts binding on the under-lessee shall be respectively payable to and enforceable by the lessor.

Effect of surrender and forfeiture on under-leases.

The forfeiture of such a lease annuls all such under-leases, except where such forfeiture has been procured by the lessor in fraud of the under-lessees.

115. If a lessee or under-lessee of property remains in possession thereof after the determination of the lease, and the lessor or his legal representative accepts rent from the lessee or under-lessee, or otherwise assents to his continuing in possession, the lease is, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, renewed from year to year, or from month to month, according to the purpose for which the property is leased, as specified in section one hundred and seven.

Effect of holding over.

Illustrations.

(a). A lets a house to B for five years. B underlets the house to C at a monthly rent of Rs. 100. The five years expire, but C continues in possession of the house and pays the rent to A. C's lease is renewed from month to month.

(b). A lets a farm to B for the life of C. C dies, but B continues in possession with A's assent. B's lease is renewed from year to year.

116. None of the provisions of this chapter apply to leases for agricultural purposes, except in so far as the local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may by notification published in the official Gazette declare all or any of such provisions to be so applicable, together with, or subject to, those of the local law, if any, for the time being in force.

Exemption of leases for agricultural purposes.

Such notification shall not take effect until the expiry of six months from the date of its publication.

CHAPTER VI.

OF EXCHANGES.

117. When two persons mutually transfer the ownership of one thing for the ownership of another, neither thing or both things being money only, the transaction is called an "exchange."

"Exchange" defined.

A transfer of property in completion of an exchange can be made only in manner provided for the transfer of such property by sale.

118. In the [illegible] a contract to the consideration, the party deprived of the thing or part thereof he has received in exchange defect in the title of the other his option to compensation or of the thing transferred by him.

[illegible]

119. Save as otherwise provided in this chapter, each party has the rights and is subject to the liabilities of a seller as to that which he gives, and has the rights and is subject to the liabilities of a buyer as to that which he takes.

Rights and liabilities of parties.

120. On an exchange of money, each party thereby warrants the genuineness of the money given by him.

Exchange of money.

CHAPTER VII.

OF GIFTS.

121. "Gift" is the transfer of certain existing moveable or immoveable property made voluntarily and without consideration, by one person, called the donor, to another, called the donee, and accepted by or on behalf of the donee.

"Gift" defined.

Such acceptance must be made during the lifetime of the donor and while he is still capable of giving.

Acceptance when to be made.

If the donee dies before acceptance, the gift is void.

122. For the purpose of making a gift of immoveable property, the transfer must be effected by registered instrument signed by or on behalf of the donor, and attested by at least two witnesses.

Transfer how effected.

For the purpose of making a gift of moveable property, the transfer may be effected either by a non-testamentary instrument [registered and] signed as aforesaid or by delivery.

Such delivery may be made in the same way as goods sold may be delivered.

123. A gift comprising both existing and future property is void as to the latter.

Gift of existing and future property.

124. A gift of a divisible thing to two or more donees, of whom one does not accept it, is void as to the interest which he would have taken had he accepted.

Gift to several, of whom one does not accept.

125. The donor and donee may agree that on the happening of any specified event which does not depend on the will of the donor the gift shall be suspended or revoked; but a gift which the parties agree shall be revocable wholly or in part at the mere will of the donor is void wholly or in part, as the case may be.

A gift may also be revoked in any of the cases (save want or failure of consideration) in which, if it were a contract, it might be rescinded.

Save as aforesaid, a gift cannot be revoked.

Nothing contained in this section shall be deemed to affect the rights of transferees for consideration without notice.

Illustrations.

(a). A gives a field to B, reserving to himself, with B's assent, the right to take back the field in case B and his descendants die before A. B dies without descendants in A's lifetime. A may take back the field.

(b). A gives a lákh of rupees to B, reserving to himself, with B's assent, the right to take back at pleasure Rs. 10,000 out of the lákh. The gift holds good as to Rs. 90,000, but is void as to Rs. 10,000, which continue to belong to A.

126. Where a gift is in the form of a single transfer to the same person of several things of which one is, and the others are not, burdened by an obligation, the donee can take nothing by the gift unless he accepts it fully.

Onerous gifts.

Where a gift is in the form of two or more separate and independent transfers to the same person of several things, the donee is at liberty to accept one of them and refuse the others, although the former may be beneficial and the latter onerous.

A donee not competent to contract and accepting property burdened by any obligation is not bound by his acceptance. But if, after becoming competent to contract and being aware of the obligation, he retains the property given, he becomes so bound.

Onerous gift to disqualified person.

Illustrations.

(a). A has shares in X, a prosperous joint stock company, and also shares in Y, a joint stock company in difficulties. Heavy calls are expected in respect of the shares in Y. A gives B all his shares in joint stock companies. B refuses to accept the shares in Y. He cannot take the shares in X.

(b). A, having a lease for a term of years of a house at a rent which he and his representatives are bound to pay during the term, and which is more than the house can be let for, gives to B the lease, and also, as a separate and independent transaction, a sum of money. B refuses to accept the lease. He does not by this refusal forfeit the money.

127. Subject to the provisions of section one hundred and twenty-six, where a gift consists of the donor's whole property, the donee is personally liable for all the debts due by the donor at the time of the gift to the extent of the property comprised therein.

Universal donee.

128. Nothing in this chapter relates to gifts of moveable property made in contemplation of death, or shall be deemed to affect any rule of Muhammadan law.

Saving of donations mortis causâ and Muhammadan law.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF TRANSFERS OF ACTIONABLE CLAIMS.

Actionable claim.

129. A claim is actionable when the civil Courts recognise it as a ground for relief, whether a suit for its enforcement is or is not actually pending or likely to become necessary.

Bill II, s. 136: Bill, s. 99: Report, s. 99: 36 & 37 Vic., c. 66, s. 25(b): 1 Mad. 150: See 6 W. R. 320; and see 10 W. R. 474, cited Macph. 198.

Transfer of debts.

130. No transfer of any debt or any beneficial interest in moveable property shall have any operation against the debtor or against the person in whom the property is vested, until express notice of the transfer is given to him, unless he is a party to such transfer; and every dealing by such debtor or person, not being a party to, and not having received express notice of, a transfer, with the debt or property shall be valid as against such transfer.

Illustrations.

(a). A owes money to B, who transfers the debt to C. B then demands the debt from A, who, having no notice of the transfer, pays B. The payment is valid, and C cannot sue A for the debt.

(b). A has jewels deposited with B, a jeweller. A mortgages them to C. A then executes an instrument transferring them to D, who takes it to B, and gets the jewels from him before he, B, has received any notice of C's mortgage. B is justified in handing the jewels to D, and C has no remedy against D.

Notice to be in writing signed.

131. Every such notice must be in writing signed by the person making the transfer, or by his agent duly authorized in this behalf.

Bill II, s. 138: Fisher, 116: Mulad v. Ramlal 10 Jur. N. S. 1165.

Debtor to give effect to transfer.

132. On receiving such notice, the debtor or person in whom the property is vested shall give effect to the transfer unless where the debtor resides, or the property is situate, in a foreign country and the title of the person in whose favour the transfer is made is not complete according to the law of such country.

Warranty of solvency of debtor.

133. Where the transferor of a debt warrants the solvency of the debtor, the warranty, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, applies only to his solvency at the time of the transfer, and is limited, where the transfer is made for consideration, to the amount or value of such consideration.

134. Where an actionable claim is sold, he against whom it is claimed is wholly discharged by paying to the buyer the [illegible] of the sale, with interest on the same from the day that the buyer paid it.

Nothing in the former part of this section applies—

(a) where the sale is made to the co-heir or co-proprietor of the claim sold;

(b) where it is made to a creditor in payment of what is due to him;

(c) where it is made to the possessor of a property subject to the actionable claim;

(d) where the judgment of a competent Court has been delivered affirming the claim, or where the claim has been made clear by evidence and is ready for judgment.

Incapacity of officers connected with Courts of justice.

135. No judge, pleader, clerk, bailiff or other officer connected with Courts of justice can buy any actionable claim falling under the jurisdiction of the Court in which he exercises his functions.

Bill II, s. 139: Mangles v. Dixon, 3 H. L. Ca. 702: Fisher, s. 1058.

Liability of transferee of debt.

136. The person to whom a debt or charge is transferred shall take it subject to all the liabilities to which the transferor was subject in respect thereof at the date of the transfer.

Illustration.

A debenture is issued in fraud of a public company to A. A sells and transfers the debenture to B, who has no notice of the fraud. The debenture is invalid in the hands of B.

Bill II, s. 67, Pars. 2, Dav. Conv. II, 601, 609.

Mortgaged debt.

137. When a debt is transferred for the purpose of securing an existing or future debt, the original debt, if recovered by either the transferor or transferee, is applicable, first, in payment of the costs of such recovery; secondly, in or towards satisfaction of the amount for the time being secured by the transfer; and the residue, if any, belongs to the transferor.

Bill II, s. 140.

Saving of negotiable instruments.

138. Save as provided by section one hundred and thirty-seven, nothing in this chapter applies to negotiable instruments.

Note by D. Fitzpatrick, Esq., Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department, dated 22nd January, 1881, and enclosures [Papers No. 40].

2. We have carefully considered the alternative drafts proposed by Sir C. Turner and Mr. Justice West, but we cannot recommend either of them for adoption. Sir C. Turner's has the advantage of simplifying the measure in certain respects, but this advantage is gained by leaving it to the Courts to decide questions of great importance and difficulty at their mere discretion and without any rules to guide them.

3. We think that the Bill submitted to the Law Commission will answer its purposes, subject only to two alterations in substance, namely, the substitution of one simple rule for the several rules originally proposed for determining the manner in which newly formed land, to which it is admitted the riparian owners are entitled, should be distributed among them, and a modification of the definition of frontage.

4. As regards the former, it seems to us that the rules laid down by the Bill as last settled for deciding disputes between competing riparian owners and dividing the new land between them would be likely to give rise to difficulties in practice.

These rules are different for rivers on the one hand, and the sea and lakes on the other; and again, for islands, for land formed on the bank and for abandoned river-beds. These distinctions not only make the law more complicated, but, further, may give rise to questions for the solution of which that Bill does not altogether provide. Again, in some instances (sections 4 and 6), they merely postpone the evil day by leaving important difficulties to be disposed of by rules to be made hereafter by the Local Governments. Further, they greatly complicate the question by making its solution depend on the "thread of the stream," a line or combination of lines which it would often be hard to determine, and which might, when determined, turn out to be of a very irregular shape; and, as regards the particular matter of the normals to be drawn under sections 7 and 9, it appears that cases would sometimes present themselves in practice in which no such normals could be drawn.

5. To avoid these difficulties we propose to substitute for the original provisions of the Bill on this point, two rules which will cover all cases in which two or more riparian owners may be conceived to have claims to a new formation. The first of these rules is intended to apply to all cases in which new land is formed on a bank by imperceptible increments; the second to all other formations to which riparian owners may have a claim.

6. The former class of cases appears to us to be simple enough. We conceive that, when land is formed by imperceptible degrees on a portion of the bank belonging to a single proprietor, he should take that land in whatever direction and to whatever extent it may grow. It is only when the formation, or any portion of it, springs from a nucleus at the point of junction of two frontages that any question can arise, and we have (section 4) provided that in this case the dividing line shall be the bisector of the angle between the two frontages.

7. The cases to be dealt with by the second rule, on the contrary, may present every variety of complication, but we think they may be provided for by a rule which is capable of being simply expressed, which would generally be easy to apply, and about the application of which there would never be any serious difficulty, and which, moreover, would make as fair a division of the new land as can be hoped for in a class of cases for which, in the absence of anything in the way of a definite principle to guide us, we must be content with a somewhat rough-and-ready rule.

The rule we propose (section 6) is that each particle of the new formation shall belong to that one of the riparian owners who can show a point in his frontage nearest to it; provided that, when the line dividing the portion of the land to which one owner is entitled from the portion to which another is entitled is an arc of a curve, the chord of such arc shall be substituted for the arc. The dividing line given by this rule will be different according to the relative positions of the two competing frontages, but it will be one which it will be always easy to draw.

In ordinary cases it will be the bisector of the angle between the frontages, or, in the case of holdings on opposite sides of a river with parallel frontages, a line parallel to the frontages and equidistant from both; in others it will be the perpendicular erected at the middle point of the line connecting the extremities of the frontages; and in others, again, it will be the chord of a parabola. As this last line might at first sight be supposed to present some difficulty, we think it well to explain that the chord can be drawn without describing the parabola, and by a person altogether ignorant of the nature and properties of that curve. It is, in fact, simply the right line connecting two points which could be fixed by any patwárí or amín without the slightest difficulty. We may add, as regards the substitution of the chord for the arc in this case, that it not only simplifies the problem, but also makes what we believe, would, by most persons be considered a fairer division of the land.

8. Coming now to the definition of "frontage," it has been pointed out to us by Mr. Elliot that the original definition would, under the Bill as last settled, sometimes lead to anomalous results, as, for example, when a riparian holding extended completely round the concave face of a sharp curve in a river, in which case the frontage might approach within a few yards of the opposite bank or even cut off a considerable portion of it. These anomalies would be increased rather than diminished under the new rule for the division of the land now adopted, and we have accordingly been compelled to seek for a new definition.

The object of introducing the "frontage" is to substitute right lines for the irregularly shaped bank of the river, and thus to simplify the application of our rules: the defect of the original definition is that, in requiring a single right line to be substituted for the entire riparian boundary of each holding, the artificial riparian boundaries thus obtained in some cases deviate too widely from the real boundaries; and the remedy appears to be to declare that in such cases, instead of the single line, a series of two, or, if necessary, more, lines following more closely the real line of the bank shall be adopted. For this we have attempted to provide in the directions given in schedule II for drawing a frontage.

9. We have struck out the definition of "owner," as we think that the Courts may be trusted to determine who in a given case is the riparian proprietor, and we have also omitted the definitions of "thread of the stream," as the expression does not occur in the body of the Bill as now settled.

10. We think that the Bill should save local customs not only in the Panjáb but in all other territories to which it is to apply. We have accordingly excluded the section effecting this saving to the whole of British India; but we have omitted the proviso annexed to it in the Bill, as settled by the Select Committee in March, 1879, as the matter to which it relates is one falling outside the scope of the present Bill.

11. The Bill, No. II, together with the Preliminary Report of the Select Committee, has been published in English in Bombay, the North-Western Provinces, the Panjáb, the Central Provinces and British Burma, and in vernacular in Bombay, the Panjáb and the Central Provinces. We do not propose that any further step should be taken in respect to the Bill until it has been published in the Gazette and circulated to Local Governments with a view to obtaining opinions on it in its new form. It must also, by order of the Secretary of State, be re-translated into the Native languages and sent home to him for consideration. In fact, having regard to the complication and difficulty of the subject, we should prefer to have our present proposals treated as suggestions thrown out for discussion rather than as furnishing a final solution of the questions at issue.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th March, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 9 OF 1881.

A Bill to amend the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879, and for other purposes.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend, in manner hereinafter appearing, the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879, and to give effect to the registration of certain instruments executed before the said Act came into force and required to be registered under section 71 of the same Act; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

Short title. Commencement.

1. This Act may be called "The Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1881:" and shall come into force at once.

"Section."

2. In this Act "section" means a section of the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, 1879.

Repeal of last 14 words of section 2.

3. In section two the last fourteen words shall be repealed.

Amendment of section 19.

4. In section nineteen, first clause, for the words "there is no other claim against him," the words "the other debts (if any) due by him do not, taken together with such sum, amount to fifty rupees" shall be substituted; and to the same clause the words "of such sum" shall be added.

Addition to section 38.

5. To section thirty-eight, the following shall be added:—

"The expression 'officer of Police' in this section shall not be deemed to include a Police Patel appointed under Bombay Act No. VIII of 1867, (for the Regulation of the Village Police in the Presidency of Bombay)."

Amendment of section 48.

6. In section forty-eight after the word "suit" the words "or application" shall be inserted.

Addition to section 56.

7. To section fifty-six the following shall be added, namely,—

"or apply to any instrument which is not executed by an agriculturist otherwise than as a surety."

New section substituted for section 57.

8. For section fifty-seven the following section shall be substituted:—

"57. When any persons desire to execute any instrument to which section fifty-six applies, all the intending parties to such instrument shall appear before the Village Registrar appointed for the area in which the agriculturist, or when there are several agriculturists executing the instrument, any one of such agriculturists, resides, and such Registrar, after satisfying himself in such manner as he deems fit as to the identity of the intending executants and receiving from the intending parties the fee (if any) prescribed by the Local Government in this behalf, and the stamp (if any) which may be required by law, shall write the instrument, or cause the same to be written under his superintendence, and after reading the same aloud, or causing it to be so read in the hearing of the intending parties, shall require the intending executants to execute it in his presence.

Such instruments to be written by, or under the superintendence of, a Village Registrar and executed in his presence.

"Every instrument so written and executed shall at the time of execution be attested by the Village Registrar, and also, if any of the executants thereof is unable to read such instrument, by two respectable witnesses.

Attestation of such instruments.

"For the purposes of this section every executant of any such instrument shall appear in person before the Village Registrar, but every other party thereto may appear either in person or by any agent, being his relative, servant or dependent, whom he has duly furnished with a power of attorney authorizing him to appear and act on his behalf."

Amendment of section 58.

8. In section fifty-eight for the words "parties to any instrument have executed it," the words "intending executants have executed any instrument" shall be substituted.

New section substituted for section 71.

9. For section seventy-one the following section shall be substituted:—

"71. No instrument executed before the first day of November, 1879, and purporting to create any mortgage, lien or charge of, or upon, any immoveable property belonging to an agri-

All mortgages executed before the 1st November, 1879, to be produced before, and marked by, Village Registrar.

culturist, shall be received in evidence for any purpose by any person having by law or consent of parties authority to receive evidence, or shall be acted upon by any such person or by any public officer unless such instrument has, before the first day of November, 1881, been produced before the Village Registrar appointed for the area in which the agriculturist, or where there are several such agriculturists, any one of the agriculturists, to whom such property belongs, resides, and been marked by such Registrar in such manner as the Local Government may by rule prescribe:

"Provided that nothing in this section shall—

"(a) apply to an instrument purporting to create a mortgage, lien or charge in favour of the Government or of any officer of the Government in his official capacity; or

"(b) prevent the admission of any instrument in evidence in any criminal proceeding."

Amendment of section 72.

10. In section seventy-two the words "against an agriculturist" shall be omitted, and in the same section after the word "money," the words "from a person who at the time when the cause of action arose was an agriculturist" shall be inserted.

New section substituted for section 75.

11. For section seventy-five the following section shall be substituted:—

Additional power to make rules.

"75. The Local Government may, from time to time, make rules:—

"(a) for defining more precisely what classes of persons shall be deemed to be agriculturists for the purposes of this Act;

"(b) generally for carrying out the provisions of this Act."

Certain instruments to be deemed produced before Village Registrar and marked under section 71.

12. Every instrument described in section seventy-one, as amended by this Act, which, before the passing of this Act, has been registered by a Village Registrar in accordance with rules prescribed in this behalf by the Inspector General of Registration, with the previous sanction of the Local Government, shall be deemed to have been duly produced before the Village Registrar and marked by him under the provisions of that section.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Bombay Government have brought to notice difficulties in the working of the Dekkhan Agriculturists' Relief Act, for the removal of which it appears necessary to make certain amendments in that Act, and to carry out those amendments this Bill has been prepared.

The first amendment provided for is in section 2 of the Act. That section enacts in effect that every agriculturist shall be deemed for the purposes of the Act to reside where he works as such. This rule is found to give rise to difficulty in the case of agriculturists holding land in more than one place, and it is accordingly proposed to repeal it altogether.

2. The first portion of section 19 of the Act confers on the Courts power to discharge an insolvent who owes a sum of less than fifty rupees under a decree, and against whom there is no other claim; but it makes no provision for the case of an insolvent judgment-debtor, against whom there are other claims, but of amounts so trifling that, taken with the amount of the decree, they do not amount to fifty rupees. There appears to be no reason why this latter case should not be treated on the same footing as the former, the insolvency chapter of the Bill being equally inapplicable to both, and the Bill accordingly amends the Act so as to give power to discharge the judgment-debtor from the balance due under the decree in either case.

3. Section 38 of the Act prohibits the appointment of "an officer of police" as a conciliator. A doubt has arisen as to whether a police patel is to be deemed an officer of police within the meaning of this provision, and at the instance of the local Government an explanation has been added to the section to show that he is not.

4. The amendment proposed in section 48 of the Act merely corrects an oversight in drafting.

5. The addition which it is proposed to make to section 56 of the Act, is intended to dispense with the necessity of having an instrument executed before the Village Registrar, merely because a party executing it as a surety is an agriculturist.

The changes made in sections 57 and 58 are intended merely to make the meaning clearer.

6. The new section, which it is proposed to substitute for section 71 of the Bill, differs materially from the original one, though the object of both is the same, viz., to prevent the fabrication of mortgage deeds purporting to have been executed before the Act came into force.

The section as it now stands in the Act aims at effecting this object by requiring all existing mortgage deeds to be registered before a certain date under the Indian Registration Act; but it has been found that the practical difficulties in the way of such registration are so great that it is necessary to abandon this procedure and substitute for it the simpler expedient proposed by the Bill, of requiring such deeds to be merely produced before and marked by the Village Registrar before a certain date.

7. Section 72 of the Act, which prescribes periods of limitation longer than the ordinary periods for certain suits against agriculturists, applies in every case in which the defendant is an agriculturist at the time the suit is instituted. This would, in some cases, where the defendant had become an agriculturist shortly before the institution of the suit, lead to anomalous results.

To prevent this the Bill amends the section, so that it will apply only when the defendant was an agriculturist at the time the cause of action arose.

8. Difficulties having arisen as to the construction of the definition of "agriculturist," section 75 of the Act, which gives the Local Government a power to make rules, has been recast so as to admit of rules being made, among other matters, to define more precisely what classes of persons shall be deemed to be agriculturists for the purposes of the Act.

9. Section 12 of the Bill is intended to put mortgage deeds, executed before the Act came into force, and registered under a system of questionable legality established by the Local Government, on the same footing as if they had been marked by the Registrar under the new section 71.

[Third Publication.]

The following Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 4th March, 1881:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Courts of Small Causes established in the Presidency-towns was referred, have the honour to report that we have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin.

From Acting Under Secretary to Government, Bombay, No. 7519, dated 9th November, 1880, and enclosures [Papers No. 1].
„ Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 2624, dated 2nd November 1880, and enclosures [Papers No. 2].
„ Chief Secretary to Government, Madras, No. 2662, dated 17th November, 1880, and enclosure [Papers No. 3].
„ D. Sealy, Esq., Vakil, High Court, Bombay, dated 26th November, 1880 [Paper No. 4].
Note by Hon'ble J. Sewell White, Judge, High Court, Calcutta, dated 13th December, 1880 [Paper No. 5].
From Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 67J., dated 7th January, 1881, and enclosures [Papers No. 6].
„ J. Crawford, Esq., Registrar, High Court, Calcutta, No. 970, dated 30th May, 1879 [Papers No. 7].
„ Ditto ditto, No. 279, dated 5th February, 1881 [Papers No. 7].
„ H. J. Stephen, Esq., Barrister-at-law, High Court, Calcutta, dated 10th February, 1881, and enclosure [Papers No. 8].

2. We have added a clause to section 6 of the Bill giving the High Courts the same powers over the Small Cause Courts as they have under the 15th section of the High Courts Act over Courts subject to their appellate jurisdiction.

3. We have altered the section (7) relating to the appointment of the Judges so as to provide that one-third at least of the Judges shall be advocates of a High Court. We think the professional members of the Court should be chosen from the advocates of the High Courts, who may be expected to have acquired some experience of the country.

4. The Bill as introduced made the rank and precedence of the Judges depend on the seniority of their appointment. This would not have answered, as it appears that each seat in the Court has a special rank and salary of its own, and the candidates for appointment are posted to particular seats in the Court with reference to their respective qualifications. The second Judge ought, therefore, always to rank above the third, the third above the fourth, and so on, without any reference to the dates of their appointment, and we have accordingly, in section 8, after providing that the Chief Judge shall be the first in rank, introduced words leaving it to the Local Government to fix the rank of the rest.

5. Another change we have made in the constitution of the Court established by the Bill as introduced, consists in the transfer to the Chief Judge of certain administrative powers (see section 13 and also sections 61 and 62), which, we think, would be more efficiently exercised by a single individual.

6. The only other amendment we need notice in this portion of the Bill is the insertion of a clause in section 13, providing for the appointment of a Registrar and a section (14) empowering the Local Government to invest him with jurisdiction to try suits up to the limit of Rs. 20 in value. This amendment has been made at the instance of the Government of Bengal, and there is a precedent for it in the Mufassal Small Cause Courts Act No. XI of 1865.

7. Turning now to the chapter relating to jurisdiction in respect of suits, the first change we have made will be found in section 18 of the amended Bill (= section 16 of the Bill as introduced). The reasons given for framing that section as it originally stood are thus given in the 7th paragraph of the Statement of Objects and Reasons:—

"Act IX of 1850, in conferring jurisdiction on the Courts up to a value of Rs. 500, confines its exercise to cases of defendants dwelling or carrying on business within the local limits. Act XXVI of 1864, on the other hand, in conferring jurisdiction between the values of Rs. 500 and Rs. 1,000, gives an alternative ground for its exercise, namely, the circumstance of the cause of action having arisen within the local limits. It has been urged by most of the authorities consulted that the basis of the jurisdiction should be the same in cases of all values. On the other hand, fears have been expressed by some that a power to institute a suit of the lower value against a defendant residing at a distance might be liable to abuse unless some limitation were imposed. The correct view of the matter seems to be that taken by the Judges of the Madras High Court and Mr. Busteed, namely, that in this particular no distinction should be made between the High Court and the Small Cause Court, and accordingly the Bill has been drawn so as to place the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court in this respect on precisely the same footing as that on which the jurisdiction of the High Court is placed by the Letters Patent."

The objection to the power to institute a suit in the Small Cause Court against a defendant residing at a distance has been again urged, and it is one to which we feel compelled to yield. We have accordingly inserted words requiring the leave of the Court to be obtained when it is proposed to institute a suit against a defendant residing beyond the local limits of the jurisdiction, and we have made this provision applicable to all suits without regard to value. The original scheme of putting the Small Cause Court jurisdiction on the same footing in this particular as the jurisdiction of the High Court being thus broken in upon, we have thought it best to bring the remainder of the section into conformity with the corresponding provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure.

8. In the following section, which excludes certain classes of suits from the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court, we have omitted the second clause, "suits against the Secretary of State in Council," as it appears to be generally objected to, and we have added the following:—

(1) suits for the specific performance or rescission of contracts generally (such suits are, as regards contracts relating to immoveable property, excluded by the Bill as introduced);
(2) suits for compensation for malicious prosecution;
(3) suits for the cancellation or rectification of instruments;
(4) suits relating to general average and to insurances on sea-going vessels;
(5) suits for compensation in respect of collisions at sea;
(6) suits for compensation for the infringement of a patent, copy-right or trade-mark;
(7) suits for a dissolution of partnership or for an account of partnership transations;
(8) suits for declaratory decrees;
(9) suits in which the plaintiff's claim depends on the decision of a question as to religious rites or ceremonies;
(10) suits for possession of a hereditary office;
(11) suits against Sovereign Princes or Ruling Chiefs, or against Ambassadors or Envoys of Foreign States.

The reasons for excluding these suits are so obvious that it is unnecessary to state them.

9. We have struck out the second clause of section 21 (new numbering), which deprived a plaintiff of costs in certain cases if he elected to institute in the High Court a suit against an officer of the Small Cause Court for a wrong done by him under colour of its process. We think that in all such cases a plaintiff should be allowed a free choice.

10. We have also struck out the latter portion of section 22 (new numbering), which specified the grounds on which a Judge in other cases, in which suits cognizable in the Small Cause Court are instituted in the High Court, may certify for costs, as we think that in such a matter the Judge should be allowed a full discretion.

11. Proceeding next to chapter V relating to procedure in suits, we desire to state that we have most carefully considered the objections urged against the first section of that chapter which applies to the Small Cause Courts a large portion of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Those objections, in so far as they come from the public, proceed chiefly from those classes of persons who most frequently appear as plaintiffs in suits of a very simple description, and we can well understand the apprehension they feel that the application of so large portion of the ordinary procedure may, in suits of that class, give rise to complication and delay. But it must be remembered that the great bulk of the provisions so extended are of such a nature as to be applicable only in exceptional cases, and we think that any one who follows the thread of the provisions applicable to ordinary suits will find the procedure to be extremely simple. Moreover, we find that a considerable portion of the Code has been actually in force for some time past in the Madras Small Cause Court, where the statistics show the amount of work performed by each Judge to be as large as in the Small Cause Courts at Calcutta and Bombay, and we further find that the Judges of the Calcutta Small Cause Court themselves propose to apply with little variation the great bulk of the sections contained in the second schedule to this Bill.

12. We have, however, in deference to the apprehensions which have been expressed, gone through the schedule item by item, and have struck out some portions; among others those requiring copies of the plaint or concise statements to be filed with the plaint, those relating to discovery, those requiring judgments to be in writing, and the whole chapter relating to pauper suits.

We have, moreover, in order to relieve the Judges, inserted in the body of the Bill a section (35) based on section 637 of the Code, empowering the Court to direct that any non-judicial or quasi-judicial act which the Code requires to be done by a Judge shall be done by a ministerial officer, and we think that the procedure as now settled is as simple as it can safely be made, and as the majority of the litigants would desire it to be.

13. We have added a section providing that no decision passed under the Act shall be conclusive, except as to the right to the relief granted or the absence of a right to the relief withheld by it. This provision, which cuts away to a great extent the doctrine of res judicata, will no doubt leave it open to persistent parties to litigate a second time questions which may have been already carefully considered and well decided; but we think it better to take the risk of this than to take the risk of having difficult questions of title to property of large value and complicated issues governing extensive transactions finally decided under an Act like this in the first petty case in which they may chance to present themselves.

14. We have extended section 27 (new numbering) to cases in which the plaintiff does not altogether fail in his suit, but fails to recover the full amount of his claim and to cases in which unfounded objections are made to the attachment of property in execution of decree.

15. Section 30 is new. The law, as it at present stands in this country, would appear to be peculiarly indulgent to tenants in the matter of the right to remove what they may have attached to the soil, and yet the holder of a decree of the Small Cause Court is probably precluded (unless he chooses to resort to the High Court) from taking in execution of such decree even some such things as might be taken under a fieri facias in England. It has, at all events, been held that though tenants in Calcutta have a right to remove "tiled huts," such huts cannot be taken in execution of decrees of the Small Cause Court. The landlords complain of this as a hardship, and we think not without reason; but the remedy should not, in our opinion, be limited to this particular case, and we have accordingly provided that anything which the tenant would be entitled to remove during his tenancy may be taken in the execution of a decree against him as if it were a moveable.

16. We have at the instance of the Judges of the Calcutta Small Cause Court substituted for the latter portion of section 230 of the Code a section (28) providing that no decree of a Small Cause Court shall be executed after the lapse of three years from the date on which it is passed, unless the judgment-debtor by force or fraud has prevented its execution within the three years.

17. We have, in section 34 of the Bill, restored section 31 of Act IX of 1850, which allows minors to sue for a sum not exceeding Rs. 500 due for wages, or piece-work or for work as a servant, as if they were of full age, but we have, to prevent mistake, expressly limited it to cases where such money is due under section 70 of the Contract Act, the only law, as we believe, under which a minor can now acquire a right to such money.

18. The only other amendment we have to notice in the chapter relating to procedure is the insertion of certain sections (36 to 38) providing for the exercise of the jurisdiction which may be conferred on the Registrar under section 14.

19. We have introduced a new chapter (VI) to include the section providing for a new trial and certain additional sections establishing a mode of having a suit of a value above Rs. 500, re-heard in the High Court, as if it had been instituted in that court. These sections, which have been proposed by Mr. Kennedy, are based on the provisions enacted by the 14th & 15th Vic. c. 57, for the Irish Civil Bill Courts, and they have in our opinion this advantage, that they provide, in cases where there has been a failure of justice, a substitute for an appeal without entailing the necessity of any elaborate record of evidence being kept by the Court below.

20. We have omitted the chapters which would have conferred on the Small Cause Courts jurisdiction in certain classes of insolvency and probate business, as we believe that unless the Court were to hear cases which, owing to their intricacy and difficulty, ought to be removed into the High Court, the saving of time to the High Court would be altogether unimportant. There is no doubt that the High Courts at present dispose of much petty business of these classes, but it is done for the most part in the offices of the Court, and costs the Judges little time or labour.

We may add that, so far as the grant of probates and letters of administration is concerned, we believe that the object in view will be better secured by the extension of the certificate system effected by Act No. IX of 1881.

21. We have confined section 59, which prevents the fees of a legal practitioner being recovered as costs unless his employment is held to be reasonable, to cases where the amount or value in dispute is less than Rs. 20. We do not see why in cases where a larger amount is at stake the ordinary rules as to allowing costs should not apply.

22. Lastly, we have inserted a section (72) to determine the functions of legal practitioners in the Small Cause Court. Its first clause provides that no persons other than advocates, attorneys and vakíls of the High Court and persons who are now pleaders of the Small Cause Court shall appear, plead or act in the Small Cause Court. We do not think it desirable to admit an inferior class of legal practitioners, whose business would be confined to the Small Cause Courts, and, accordingly, while we would save the rights of pleaders already admitted, we would bar the admission of any others.

The second clause of the section confines the right to conduct as counsel a suit at the hearing, in the extended jurisdiction now for the first time conferred on the Court, to advocates and vakíls of the High Court, and requires that a barrister so conducting a suit shall be instructed by an attorney or vakíl, or by a pleader of the Small Cause Court. The reasons for this latter requirement are obvious.

The section, it need hardly be mentioned, saves the right of parties to conduct their own cases, and appear for one another, and also the rights of recognized agents.

23. The publication of the Bill, with its Statement of Objects and Reasons, in English, has been reported by the Governments of Madras, Bombay and Bengal. We consider that the changes now made are such as to render its re-publication desirable; and we have accordingly altered the date on which it should come into force to the 1st January, 1882, and recommend that it now be re-published.

I THINK that the limit in section 22 ought to be reduced from Rs. 2,000 to 1,000. In other respects I agree in the report.

No. II.

A Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Courts of Small Causes established in the Presidency-towns.

WHEREAS it is expedient to consolidate and amend the law relating to the Courts of Small Causes established in the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay; It is hereby enacted as follows:— Preamble.

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, 1881"; and it shall come into force on the first day of January, 1882. Commencement.

But nothing herein contained shall affect the provisions of the Army Discipline and Regulation Act, 1879, section 144.

Repeal of enactments. 2. On and from the day on which this Act comes into force, the enactments specified in the first schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned therein.

But all Courts constituted and appointments made under any of the said enactments shall, as far as may be, be deemed to have been respectively constituted and made under this Act.

References in previous Acts. All references to any enactment hereby repealed made in Acts passed prior to the day on which this Act comes into force shall be read, so far as may be practicable, as if made to this Act or the corresponding provisions hereof. For references see Act V of 1871, s. 14: Act XVIII of 1879, s. 3.

Amendment of Acts. 3. In Act No. XXIII of 1850 (for securing the Land-Revenue of Calcutta), section 3, the words "as provided by the said Act" shall be repealed; and for each of the expressions "a Commissioner of the Court for recovery of small debts referred to in the said Act" and "the said Commissioners," the words "the Judges of the Court of Small Causes at Calcutta" shall be substituted.

In the Code of Civil Procedure, section 8, after the word and figures "chapter XXXIX," the words and figures "and by the Presidency Small Cause Courts Act, 1881," shall be inserted.

"Small Cause Court" defined. 4. In this Act, "the Small Cause Court" means the Court of Small Causes constituted under this Act in the town of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, as the case may be.

CHAPTER II.

CONSTITUTION AND OFFICERS OF THE COURT.

Courts of Small Causes established. 5. There shall be in each of the towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay a Court, to be called the Court of Small Causes of Calcutta, Madras or Bombay, as the case may be.

New. See 8 Bom. H. C. Rep. (O. C. J.) 59 and sec. 652 of Act X of 1877.

Court to be deemed under superintendence, &c., of High Court.

6. The Small Cause Court shall be deemed to be a Court subject to the superintendence of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William, Madras or Bombay, as the case may be, within the meaning of the Letters Patent, respectively dated the 28th day of December, 1865, for such High Courts and within the meaning of the Code of Civil Procedure; and the High Court shall have, in respect of the Small Cause Court, the same powers as it has under the 24th & 25th of Vic., chapter 104, section 15, in respect of Courts subject to its appellate jurisdiction.

See Act XXVI of 1864, s. 12: Act IX of 1850, s. 6.

Appointment, suspension and removal of Judges.

7. Subject to the control of the Governor General in Council, the Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, appoint a person to be Chief Judge, and so many other persons as it thinks fit to be Judges of the Small Cause Court: Provided that not less than one-third of the persons so appointed, including the Chief Judge, shall be advocates of one of the said High Courts.

Act IX of 1850, s. 10.

The Local Government may, by a like notification, suspend and, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, remove any Judge so appointed.

See Act XXVI of 1864, s. 14.

Rank and precedence of Judges.

8. The Chief Judge shall be the first of the Judges in rank and precedence.

Act XVII of 1877, s. 6.

The other Judges shall have rank and precedence as the Local Government may, from time to time, direct.

Act XVII of 1877, s. 119. (Cf. Act IX of 1850, s. 23.)

Delegation of powers of Court to its members.

9. Except as otherwise provided by this or any other law for the time being in force, the Small Cause Court may, with the previous sanction of the High Court, make rules to provide, in such manner as it thinks fit, for the exercise by one or more of its Judges of any powers conferred on the Small Cause Court by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force.

Act XXVI of 1864, s. 14.

Chief Judge to distribute business of Court.

10. Subject to such rules, the Chief Judge may, from time to time, make such arrangements as he thinks fit for the distribution of the business of the Court among the various Judges thereof.

Act XI of 1869, s. 38.

Procedure in case of difference of opinion.

11. Save as hereinafter otherwise provided, when two or more of the Judges sitting together differ on any question, the opinion of the majority shall prevail; and if the Court is equally divided, the Chief Judge, if he is one of the Judges so differing, or in his absence the Judge first in rank and precedence of the Judges so differing, shall have the casting voice.

Act XVII of 1875, s. 10(b). (Cf. Act IX of 1850, s. 24.)

Seal to be used.

12. The Small Cause Court shall use a seal of such form and dimensions as are for the time being prescribed by the Local Government.

Act IX of 1850, ss. 13-15.

Appointment of Registrar and ministerial officers.

13. The Local Government may, from time to time, appoint an officer to be called the Registrar of the Court, and to be the chief ministerial officer of the Court; and the Chief Judge may, from time to time, subject to the control of the Local Government, appoint as many clerks, bailiffs and other ministerial officers as may be necessary for the administration of justice by the Court and for the exercise and performance of the powers and duties conferred and imposed on it by this Act or any other law for the time being in force.

Powers and duties of such officers.

The Registrar and other officers so appointed shall exercise such powers, and discharge such duties, of a ministerial nature as the Chief Judge (subject to the control of the High Court) may, from time to time, by rule, direct.

Cf. Act IX of 1850, ss. 14-16: Act XVII of 1877, s. 23.

Act XVII of 1875, s. 70.

The Chief Judge may suspend or remove any Registrar or other officer so appointed; but the removal of any Registrar or officer drawing a monthly salary of one hundred rupees or upwards shall be subject to the orders of the Local Government.

Registrar may be invested with powers of a Judge in suits not exceeding twenty rupees.

New.

14. The Local Government may invest the Registrar with the powers of a Judge under this Act for the trial of suits in which the amount or value of the subject-matter does not exceed twenty rupees. And, subject to the orders of the Chief Judge, any Judge of the Small Cause Court may, whenever he thinks fit, transfer from his own file to the file of the Registrar any suit which the latter is competent to try.

Judge or other officer not to practise or trade.

Act IX of 1850, ss. 9 and 17.

15. No Judge or other officer appointed under this Act shall, during his continuance as such Judge or officer, either by himself or as a partner of any other person, practise or act, either directly or indirectly, as an Advocate, Attorney, Vakíl or other legal praetitioner, or be concerned, either on his own account or for any other person, or as the partner of any other person, in any trade or profession.

Any such Judge or officer so practising, acting or concerned shall be deemed to have committed an offence under section 168 of the Indian Penal Code.

Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to prohibit any such Judge or officer from being a member of any company incorporated or registered under Royal Charter, Letters Patent, Act of Parliament or Act of any British Indian Legislature.

CHAPTER III.

LAW ADMINISTERED BY THE COURT.

Questions arising in suits, &c., under Act to be decided according to law administered by High Court.

Cf. Act XV of 1875. See s. 37 of Act IX of 1850.

16. All questions other than questions relating to procedure or practice which arise in suits or other proceedings under this Act in the Small Cause Court shall be dealt with and determined according to the law for the time being administered by the High Court in the exercise of its ordinary original civil jurisdiction.

CHAPTER IV.

JURISDICTION IN RESPECT OF SUITS.

Local limits of jurisdiction of Court.

Act IX of 1850, s. 5.

17. The local limits of the jurisdiction of each of the Small Cause Courts shall be the local limits for the time being of the ordinary original civil jurisdiction of the High Court.

Act IX of 1850, ss. 25 and 32: Cf. Act X of 1877, s. 11.

19 & 20 Vic., c. 106, s. 24.

Suits in which Court has jurisdiction.

18. Subject to the exceptions in section nineteen, the Small Cause Court shall have jurisdiction to try all suits of a civil nature—when the amount or value of the subject-matter does not exceed two thousand rupees: and

Letters Patent of 1865, s. 12.

(a) the cause of action has arisen, either wholly or in part, within the local limits of the jurisdiction of the Small Cause Court, and the leave of the Court has, for reasons to be recorded by it in writing, been given before the institution of the suit; or

(b) all the defendants, at the time of the institution of the suit, actually and voluntarily reside, or carry on business, or personally work for gain within such local limits; or

(c) any of the defendants, at the time of the institution of the suit, actually and voluntarily resides, or carries on business, or personally works for gain, within such local limits: and either the leave of the Court has been given before the institution of the suit, or the defendants who do not reside, or carry on business, or personally work for gain, as aforesaid, acquiesce in such institution.

Explanation I.—When in any suit the sum claimed is, by a set-off admitted by both parties, reduced to a balance not exceeding two thousand rupees, the Small Cause Court shall have jurisdiction to try such suit.

Explanation II.—Where a person has a permanent dwelling at one place and also a lodging at another place for a temporary purpose only, he shall be deemed to reside at both places in respect of any cause of action arising at the place where he has such temporary lodging.

Explanation III.—A Corporation or Company shall be deemed to carry on business at its sole or principal office in British India or, in respect of any cause of action arising at any place where it has also a subordinate office, at such place.

Act IX of 1850, s. 25.

Suits in which Court has no jurisdiction.

19. The Small Cause Court shall have no jurisdiction in—

See 5 Bom. H. C. Rep. (O. C. J.) 1.

(a) suits concerning the assessment or collection of the revenue;

(b) suits concerning any act ordered or done by the Governor General in Council or the Local Government, or by the Governor General or a Governor, or by any Member of the Council of the Governor General or of the Governor of Madras or Bombay, in his official capacity, or by any person by order of the Governor General in Council or the Local Government;

(c) suits concerning any act ordered or done by any Judge or judicial officer in the execution of his office, or by any person in pursuance of any judgment or order of any Court or any such Judge or judicial officer;

Act X of 1877, s. 16, cls. (a) to (d).

(d) suits for the recovery of immoveable property;

(e) suits for the partition of immoveable property;

(f) suits for the foreclosure or redemption of a mortgage of immoveable property;

(g) suits for the determination of any other right to or interest in immoveable property;

(h) suits for the specific performance or rescission of contracts;

(i) suits to obtain an injunction;

(j) suits for the cancellation or rectification of instruments;

(k) suits to enforce a trust;

(l) suits relating to general average and to insurances on sea-going vessels;

(m) suits for compensation in respect of collisions at sea;

(n) suits for compensation for the infringement of a patent, copy-right or trade-mark;

(o) suits for a dissolution of partnership or for an account of partnership-transactions;

(p) suits for an account of property and its due administration under the decree of the Court;

(q) suits for compensation for libel, slander, malicious prosecution, adultery or breach of promise of marriage;

(r) suits for the restitution of conjugal rights, for the recovery of a wife, or for a divorce;

(s) suits for declaratory decrees;

(t) suits in which the plaintiff's claim depends on the decision of a question as to religious rites or ceremonies;

(u) suits for possession of a hereditary office;

(v) suits against Sovereign Princes or Ruling Chiefs, or against Ambassadors or Envoys of Foreign States;

(w) suits on any judgment of a High Court; 19 & 20 Vic., c. 108, s. 27.

(x) suits the cognizance whereof by the Small Cause Court is barred by any law for the time being in force.

Court may by consent try suits beyond pecuniary limits of jurisdiction.

Act XXVI of 1864, s. 3.

20. When the parties to a suit which, if the amount or value of the subject-matter thereof did not exceed two thousand rupees, would be cognizable by the Small Cause Court, have entered into an agreement in writing that the Small Cause Court shall have jurisdiction to try such suit, the Court shall have jurisdiction to try the same, although the amount or value of the subject-matter thereof may exceed two thousand rupees.

Every such agreement shall be filed in the Small Cause Court, and, when so filed, the parties to it shall be subject to the jurisdiction of the Court, and shall be bound by its decision in such suit.

Suits by and against officers of Court.

Act IX of 1850, s. 100.

21. All suits to which an officer of the Small Cause Court is, as such, a party, except suits in respect of property taken in execution of its process, or the proceeds or value thereof, may be instituted in the High Court at the election of the plaintiff as if this Act had not been passed.

Costs when plaintiff sues in High Court in other cases cognizable by Small Cause Court.

Act IX of 1850, s. 103. Act XXVI of 1864, s. 9.

22. If any suit cognizable by the Small Cause Court, other than a suit to which in section twenty-one applies, is instituted in the High Court, and if in such suit the plaintiff obtains, in the case of a suit founded on contract, a decree for any matter of an amount or value less than two thousand rupees, and in the case of any other suit a decree for any matter of an amount or value of less than three hundred rupees, no costs shall be allowed to the plaintiff;

and if in any such suit the plaintiff does not obtain a decree, the defendant shall be entitled to his costs as between attorney and client.

The foregoing rules shall not apply to any suit in which the Judge who tries the same certifies that it was one fit to be brought in the High Court.

CHAPTER V.

PROCEDURE IN SUITS.

Portions of Civil Procedure Code extending to the Court.

23. The chapters and sections of the Code of Civil Procedure specified in the second schedule hereto annexed shall extend, and shall, so far as the same may, in the judgment of the Court, be applicable, be applied, to the Small Cause Court; and the procedure prescribed thereby shall be the procedure followed in the Court in all suits cognizable by it, except where such procedure is inconsistent with the procedure prescribed by any specific provisions of this Act.

Res judicata.

24. Notwithstanding anything contained in section 13 of the Code of Civil Procedure, no decision passed under the provisions of this Act shall be conclusive as to anything except the right at the time of such decision to the relief granted thereby, or the absence of a right at such time to any relief claimed by the plaintiff and withheld by such decision.

Illustrations.

(a). A sues B in the Small Cause Court for compensation for damage done by B to a house which A alleges to be his own. B denies that the house is A's. The Court decides that the house is A's, and that he is entitled to Rs. 100 compensation. The decision is conclusive as to A's right to the compensation, but not as to his title to the house, and, if A subsequently sues B for further damage done to the same house, B is not precluded from again questioning A's title.

(b). A sues B in the Small Cause Court for an instalment alleged to be due on a bond purporting to be executed by B. B denies the execution of the bond. The Court finds the execution proved, and gives A a decree for the amount of the instalment. A subsequently sues B for a later instalment on the same bond; B is not precluded from again denying the execution.

(c). A sues B as in illustration (b). B denies the execution of the bond, and the Court, finding that B's signature was forged, dismisses the suit. This does not preclude A from suing again on the bond.

(d). A sues B in the Small Cause Court for possession of a horse which A alleges to be his property, and to have been lent to B to use during A's pleasure. B denies that the horse is A's. The Court finds that the horse is A's, and gives him a decree for possession, and A recovers possession of the horse. B, subsequently alleging that the horse is his, sues A for possession of it. The decision in the former suit is no bar to B.

No written statement except in cases of set-off.

25. Except in cases of set-off under the Code of Civil Procedure, section 111, no written statement shall be received unless required by the Court.

Return of documents admitted in evidence.

26. When a period of eight days from the decision of a suit has expired without any application for a new trial or re-hearing of such suit having been made, or, when any such application has been made within such period and such application has been refused, or the new trial or re-hearing (as the case may be) has ended, any person, whether a party to the suit or not, desirous of receiving back any document produced by him in the suit and placed on the record, shall, unless the document is impounded under section 143 of the Code of Civil Procedure, be entitled to receive back the same:

Provided that a document may be returned at any time before any of such events if the person applying for such return delivers to the proper officer a certified copy of such document to be substituted for the original. Provided also that no document shall be returned which by force of the decree has become void or useless.

On the return of a document which has been admitted in evidence, a receipt shall be given by the party receiving it, in a receipt-book to be kept for the purpose.

Compensation payable by plaintiff to defendant in certain cases.

27. In any suit in which the defendant appears and does not admit the claim, and the plaintiff does not obtain a decree for the full amount of his claim, the Small Cause Court may in its discretion order the plaintiff to pay to the defendant, by way of satisfaction for his trouble and attendance, such sum as it thinks fit. Act IX of 1850, s. 43.

When any claim preferred, or objection made, under section 278 of the Code of Civil Procedure, is disallowed, the Small Cause Court may in its discretion order the person preferring or making such claim or objection to pay to the decree-holder, or to the judgment-debtor, or to both, by way of satisfaction as aforesaid, such sum or sums as it thinks fit.

Any order under this section may, in default of payment of the amount payable there-under, be enforced by the person in whose favour it is made against the person against whom it is made as if it were a decree of the Court.

Bar to applications for execution of decrees.

28. No application to execute a decree passed under this Act shall be received after the expiration of three years from the date of such decree, unless the judgment-debtor has, within the three years following such date, by force or fraud prevented the execution of such decree.

Decree-holder to accompany officer executing warrant.

29. Whenever the Small Cause Court issues a warrant for the arrest of a judgment-debtor or the attachment of his property, the decree-holder, or some other person on his behalf, shall accompany the officer of the Court entrusted with the execution of such warrant, and shall point out to such officer the judgment-debtor or the property to be attached, as the case may be.

Things attached to immoveable property and removeable by tenant to be deemed moveable in execution.

30. When the judgment-debtor under any decree of the Small Cause Court, is a tenant of immoveable property, anything attached to such property, and which he might before the termination of his tenancy lawfully remove without the permission of his landlord, shall, for the purpose of the execution of such decree, be deemed to be moveable property, and may, if sold in such execution, be severed by the purchaser, but shall not be removed by him from the property until he has done to the property whatever the judgment-debtor would have been bound to do to it if he had removed such thing.

Discharge of judgment-debtor on sufficient security.

31. Whenever any judgment-debtor, who has been arrested in execution of a decree of the Small Cause Court, offers security to the satisfaction of such Court for payment of Act IX of 1850, s. 60.

the amount which he has been ordered to pay and the costs, the Court may order him to be discharged.

Court may in certain cases suspend execution of decree.

32. Whenever it appears to the Small Cause Court that any judgment-debtor under its decree is unable, from sickness or other sufficient cause, to pay the amount of the decree, or, if such Court has ordered the same to be paid in instalments, the amount of any instalment thereof, it may, from time to time, for such time and upon such terms as it thinks fit, suspend the execution of such decree.

Act XI of 1865, s. 20.

Execution of decree of Small Cause Court by other Courts.

33. If the judgment-debtor under any decree of the Small Cause Court has not, within the local limits of its jurisdiction, moveable property sufficient to satisfy the decree, the Court may, on the application of the decree-holder, send the decree for execution—

(a) in the case of execution against immoveable property situate within such local limits—to the High Court;

(b) in all other cases—to any Civil Court within the local limits of whose jurisdiction such judgment-debtor, or any moveable or immoveable property of such judgment-debtor, may be found.

Procedure when decree transferred.

The procedure prescribed by the Code of Civil Procedure for the execution of decrees by Courts other than those which made them shall be the procedure followed in such cases.

Act IX of 1850 s. 31.

Minors may sue in certain cases as if of full age.

34. Notwithstanding anything contained in the Code of Civil Procedure as applied by this Act, any minor may institute a suit for any sum of money, not exceeding five hundred rupees, which may be due to him under section seventy of the Indian Contract Act, 1872, for wages or piece-work or for work as a servant, in the same manner as if he were of full age.

Act X of 1877, s. 637.

Power to delegate non-judicial duties.

35. Any non-judicial or quasi-judicial act which the Code of Civil Procedure as applied by this Act requires to be done by a Judge, and any act which may be done by a Commissioner appointed to examine and adjust accounts under section 394 of that Code as so applied, may be done by the Registrar of the Small Cause Court or by such other officer of that Court as that Court may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf.

The High Court may, from time to time, by rule declare what shall be deemed to be non-judicial and quasi-judicial acts within the meaning of this section.

Registrar to hear and determine suits like a Judge.

36. The suits cognizable by the Registrar under section fourteen shall be heard and determined by him in like manner in all respects as a Judge of the Court might hear and determine the same:

Proviso.

Provided that, subject to the orders of the Chief Judge any Judge of the Court may, whenever he thinks fit, transfer to his own file any suit on the file of the Registrar.

Registrar may execute decrees in the same powers as a Judge.

37. The Registrar may receive applications for the execution of decrees of any value passed by the Court, and may conduct and discharge judgment-debtors, and make any order in respect thereof which a Judge of the Court might make under this Act.

New.

Decrees and orders of Registrar to be subject to new trial as if made by a Judge.

38. Every decree and order made by the Registrar in any suit or proceeding shall be subject to the same provisions in regard to new trial as if made by a Judge of the Court.

CHAPTER VI.

NEW TRIALS AND REHEARING.

(Cf. Act XI of 1865, s. 21.) Cls., rule 28.

Judgments and orders of Court final.

39. Save as is herein specially provided, every decree and order of the Small Cause Court in a suit shall be final and conclusive;

but the Court may, on application of either party, made within eight days from the date of the decree or order in any suit (not being a decree passed under section 522 of the Code of Civil Procedure) order a new trial to be held upon such terms as it thinks reasonable, and may, in the meantime, stay the proceedings.

Power to order new trial in Small Cause Court.

Application for re-hearing in High Court.

40. Any party may, within eight days after the judgment in any suit in which the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds five hundred rupees, apply to the High Court for an order that such suit may be re-heard.

Such application shall be supported by affidavits, and, in case the applicant has appeared by advocate, vakil or attorney, by a certificate from the leading Counsel at the hearing that in his opinion there are good grounds for re-hearing the suit, and, if on hearing such application, the High Court is of opinion that there are sufficient grounds for re-hearing, or that there are other good grounds for such re-hearing, the Court shall make an order ex parte, on such terms as it thinks fit, for such re-hearing and fix a day for the same, whereof notice shall be given to the opposite party.

The rules contained in sections 545, 546 and 547 of the Code of Civil Procedure relating to staying and executing decrees under appeal, shall apply in the case of applications under this section as if such applications were appeals from the decisions of the Small Cause Court.

Mr. Kennedy's Act, s. 98.

Procedure at re-hearing.

41. On the day fixed under section forty or on any other day to which the hearing may be adjourned, the High Court, or some Judge thereof, shall proceed to hear and determine the case as if the same were a suit brought in such High Court in its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, in which the plaintiff in the Small Cause Court was plaintiff, and the defendant in such Court was defendant, and in which written statements had not been ordered to be filed, except as herein otherwise provided. The practice and procedure of such High Court in suits brought in its ordinary original civil jurisdiction, shall be followed in such case under this section. Provided that [illegible] any appeal [illegible] under this section.

Execution of decrees by High Court.

42. Every decree or order made by any Judge of such High Court, s. 97. Court upon any such [illegible] may either be executed by such High Court in the same manner as other decrees or orders of such Court or may, in the discretion of the High Court, be remitted to the Small Cause Court for execution.

CHAPTER VII.

RECOVERY OF POSSESSION OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

Act IX of 1850, s. 91. 19 & 20 Vic., c. 108, s. 50.

43. When any person has had possession of any immoveable property situate within the local limits of the Small Cause Court's jurisdiction and of which the annual value at a rack-rent does not exceed one thousand rupees, as the tenant, or by permission of, another person, or of some person through whom such other person claims,

Summons against person occupying property without leave.

and such tenancy or permission has been determined or been withdrawn, and such tenant or occupier or any person holding under or by assignment from him, (hereinafter called the occupant) refuses to deliver up such property in compliance with a request made to him in this behalf by such other person, such other person (hereinafter called the applicant) may apply to the Small Cause Court for a summons against the occupant, calling upon him to show cause, on a day therein appointed, why he should not be compelled to deliver up the property.

Act IX of 1850, s. 94.

44. The summons shall be served on the occupant in the manner provided by the Code of Civil Procedure for the service of a summons on a defendant.

Service of summons.

Act IX of 1850, ss. 92, 93. 19 & 20 Vic., c. 108, s. 50.

45. If the occupant does not appear at the time appointed and show cause to the contrary, the applicant shall, if the Small Cause Court is satisfied that he is entitled to apply under section forty-three, be entitled to an order addressed to a bailiff of the Court directing him to give possession of the property to the applicant on such day as the Court thinks fit to name in such order.

Order for possession.

Explanation.—If the occupant proves that the tenancy was created or permission granted by virtue of a title which determined previous to the date of the application, he shall be deemed to have shown cause within the meaning of this section.

Act IX of 1850, s. 96.

46. Any such order shall justify the bailiff to whom it is addressed in entering after the hour of six in the morning and before the hour of six in the afternoon upon the property named therein, with such assistants as he thinks necessary, and giving possession of such property to the applicant:

Such order to justify bailiff entering on property and giving possession.

Act IX of 1850, s. 95.

and no suit or prosecution shall be maintainable against any Judge or officer of the Small Cause Court by whom any such order as aforesaid was issued, or against any bailiff or other person by whom the same was executed, or by whom any such summons as aforesaid was served, for the issue, execution or service of any such order or summons, by reason only that the applicant was not entitled to the possession of the property.

Bar to proceedings against Judge or officer for issuing, &c., order or summons.

Act IX of 1850, s. 96.

47. When the applicant, at the time of applying for any such order as aforesaid, was entitled to the possession of such property, neither he nor any person acting in his behalf shall be deemed, on account of any error, defect or irregularity in the mode of proceeding to obtain possession thereunder, to be a trespasser; but any person aggrieved may bring a suit for the recovery of compensation for any damage which he has sustained by reason of such error, defect or irregularity:

Applicant, if entitled to possession, not to be deemed trespasser for any error in proceedings.

Occupant may sue for compensation.

when no such damage is proved, the suit shall be dismissed; and when such damage is proved but the amount of the compensation assessed by the Court does not exceed ten rupees, the Court shall award to the plaintiff no more costs than compensation, unless the Judge who tries the case certifies that in his opinion full costs should be awarded to the plaintiff.

Act, IX of 1850 s. 93.

48. Nothing herein contained shall be deemed to protect any applicant obtaining possession of any property under this chapter from a suit by any person deeming himself aggrieved thereby, when such applicant was not at the time of applying for such order as aforesaid entitled to the possession of such property.

Liability of applicant obtaining order when not entitled.

Act IX 1850, s. 97.

And when the applicant was not, at the time of applying for any such order as aforesaid, entitled to the possession of such property, the application for such order, though no possession is taken thereunder, shall be deemed to be an act of trespass committed by the applicant against the occupant.

Application for order in such case an act of trespass.

Act IX 1850, s. 97.

49. Whenever on an application being made under section forty-three the occupant binds himself, with two sureties, in a bond for such amount as the Small Cause Court thinks reasonable, having regard to the value of the property and the probable costs of the suit next hereinafter mentioned, to institute without delay a suit in the High Court against the applicant for compensation for trespass, and to pay all the costs of such suit in case he does not prosecute the same or in case judgment therein is given for the applicant, the Small Cause Court shall stay the proceedings on such application until such suit is disposed of.

Stay of proceedings on occupant giving security to bring a suit against the applicant.

If the occupant obtains a decree in any such suit against the applicant, such decree shall supersede the order (if any) made under section forty-five.

Nothing contained in section twenty-two shall apply to suits under this section.

New.

50. In all proceedings under this chapter, the Small Cause Court shall, as far as may be and except as herein otherwise provided, follow the procedure prescribed for a Court of first instance by the Code of Civil Procedure.

Proceedings to be regulated by the Code of Civil Procedure.

Act IX of 1850, s. 98.

51. Recovery of the possession of any immoveable property under this chapter shall be no bar to the institution of a suit in the High Court for trying the title thereto.

Recovery of possession no bar to suit to try title.

CHAPTER VIII.

REFERENCES TO HIGH COURT.

Act XI of 1865, s. 32.

52. If two or more Judges of the Small Cause Court sit together in any suit, or in any proceeding under chapter VII of this Act, and differ in their opinion as to any question of law or usage having the force of law, or the construction of a document, which construction may affect the merits,

Reference when compulsory.

Act XXVI of 1864, s. 7.

or if in any suit or any such proceeding, in which the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds five hundred rupees, any such question arises, and either party so requires,

(Ordinary references provided for by Ch. XLVI, C. P. Code.)

the Small Cause Court shall draw up a statement of the facts of the case, and refer such statement, under section 617 of the Code of Civil Procedure, for the opinion of the High Court, and shall either reserve judgment or give judgment contingent upon such opinion.

Act XXVI of 1864, s. 8.

53. When judgment is given under section fifty-two contingent upon the opinion of the High Court, the party against whom such judgment is given shall at once furnish security, to be approved by the Small Cause Court, for the costs of the reference to the High Court and for the amount of such judgment:

Security to be furnished on such reference by party against whom contingent judgment given.

Act XXVI of 1864, s. 8. See 14 B. L. R., p. 182.

Provided that no security for the amount of such judgment shall be required in any case in which the Judge who tried the case has ordered such amount to be paid into Court, and the same has been paid accordingly.

Unless such security as aforesaid is at once furnished, the party against whom such contingent judgment has been given shall be deemed to have submitted to the same.

If no such security given, party to be deemed to have submitted to judgment.

Act IX of 1850, ss. 19 & 20. Act XXVI of 1864, s. 11.

CHAPTER IX.

FEES AND COSTS.

Act IX of 1850, s. 20 Mr. Kennedy's Bill, s. 92.

Institution-fee.

54. A fee not exceeding—

shall be paid on the plaint in every suit, and every application under section forty or section forty-three; and no such plaint or application shall be received until such fee has been paid.

A fee of ten rupees shall be paid on the filing of every agreement under chapter XXXVIII of the Code of Civil Procedure.

Act IX of 1850, s. 20. Act XXVI of 1864, s. 12.

55. The fees specified in the third and fourth columns of the third Schedule hereto annexed shall be paid previous to the issue in any suit or in any proceeding under chapter VII of this Act of the processes, to which the said columns respectively relate, by the persons on whose behalf such processes are issued, when the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds the sum specified in the first column, but does not exceed the sum specified in the second column of the said Schedule.

Fees for processes.

Act IX of 1850, s. 20.

56. Whenever any such suit or proceeding is settled by agreement of the parties before the hearing, half the amount of all fees paid up to that time shall be repaid by the Small Cause Court to the parties by whom the same have been respectively paid.

Repayment of half fees on settlement before hearing.

Act IX of 1850, s. 20.

57. The Small Cause Court may, whenever it thinks fit, receive and register suits instituted, and applications under section forty-three made, by poor persons, and may issue processes on behalf of such persons, without payment of the fees mentioned in sections fifty-four and fifty-five, or on a part-payment of such fees.

Fees and costs of poor persons.

Act IX of 1850, s. 20.

58. The Local Government may, from time to time, by notification in the official Gazette, vary the amount of the fees payable under sections fifty-four and fifty-five:

Power to vary fees.

Provided that the amount of such fees shall in no case exceed the amount prescribed by the said sections.

Act XXVI of 1864, s. 18.

59. The expense of employing an advocate, vakil, attorney or other legal practitioner incurred by any party shall not be allowed as costs in any suit or in any proceeding under chapter VII of this Act, in the Small Cause Court, in which the amount or value of the subject-matter does not exceed twenty rupees, unless the Court is of opinion that the employment of such practitioner was under the circumstances reasonable.

Expense of employing legal practitioners.

60. Nothing contained in this chapter shall affect the provisions of sections 3, 5 and 25 of the Court Fees Act, 1870.

Sections 3, 5 and 25 of Court Fees Act, 1870, saved.

CHAPTER X.

MISCONDUCT OF INFERIOR MINISTERIAL OFFICERS.

Act XVII of 1875, s. 7; Act XVII of 1877, s. 26; Act X of 1880, s. 26.

61. The Chief Judge may, by order, fine, in an amount not exceeding one month's salary, any clerk, bailiff or other inferior ministerial officer of the Court who is guilty of misconduct or neglect in the performance of the duties of his office, and such fine may be deducted from his salary.

Power to fine officers.

Act IX of 1850, s. 20.

62. If any clerk, bailiff or other inferior ministerial officer of the Small Cause Court who is employed as such in the execution of any order or warrant, loses, by neglect, connivance or omission, an opportunity of executing such order or warrant, he shall be liable, by order of the Chief Judge, on the application of the person injured by such neglect, connivance or omission, to pay such sum, not exceeding in any case the sum for which the said order or warrant was issued, as, in the opinion of the Chief Judge, represents the amount of the damage sustained by such person thereby.

Default of bailiff or other officer in execution of order or warrant.

Act IX of 1850, s. 20.

63. If any clerk, bailiff or other inferior ministerial officer of the Small Cause Court is charged with extortion or misconduct while acting under colour of its process, or with not duly paying or accounting for any money levied by him

Extortion or default of officers.

under its authority, the Court may inquire into such charge, and may make such order for the repayment or payment of any money so extorted, or of any money so levied as aforesaid, and of damages and costs, by such officer, as it thinks fit.

64. For the purposes of any inquiry under this chapter, the Small Cause Court shall have all the powers of summoning and enforcing the attendance of witnesses and compelling the production of documents which it possesses in suits under this Act.

Court empowered to summon witnesses, &c.

65. Any order under this chapter for the payment or repayment of money may, in default of payment of the amount payable thereunder, be enforced by the person to whom such amount is payable as if the same were a decree of the Small Cause Court in his favour.

Enforcement of order.

CHAPTER XI.

CONTEMPT OF COURT.

66. When any such offence as is described in section 175, 178, 179, 180 or 228 of the Indian Penal Code is committed in the view or presence of the Small Cause Court, the Court may cause the offender to be detained in custody; and, at any time before the rising of the Court on the same day, may, if it thinks fit, take cognizance of the offence, and sentence the offender to fine not exceeding two hundred rupees, and in default of payment to imprisonment in the civil Jail for a term which may extend to one month unless such fine is sooner paid.

Procedure of Court in certain cases of contempt.

67. In every such case the Court shall record the facts constituting the offence, the statement (if any) made by the offender, and the finding and sentence.

Record in such cases.

If the offence is under section 228 of the Indian Penal Code, the record must show the nature and stage of the judicial proceeding in which the Court when interrupted or insulted was sitting, and the nature of the interruption or insult offered.

68. If the Court considers that a person accused of any offence referred to in section sixty-six and committed in its view or presence should be imprisoned otherwise than in default of payment of fine, or that a fine exceeding two hundred rupees should be imposed upon him, or if the Court is for any other reason of opinion that the case should not be disposed of under section sixty-six, the Court, after recording the facts constituting the offence and the statement of the accused as hereinbefore provided, may forward the case to a Presidency Magistrate, and may require security to be given for the appearance of such accused person before such Magistrate, or, if sufficient security is not given, may forward him under custody to such Magistrate.

Procedure when Court considers that the case should not be dealt with under section 66.

Such Magistrate shall deal with the accused person in the manner provided by the Presidency Magistrates Act, 1877; and may sentence the offender to punishment as provided in the section of the Indian Penal Code under which he is charged.

69. When the Court has, under section sixty-six or section sixty-eight, sentenced an offender to punishment, or forwarded him to a Presidency Magistrate for trial, for refusing or omitting to do anything which he was lawfully required to do, or for any intentional insult or interruption, the Court may in its discretion discharge the offender, or remit the punishment on his submission to the order or requisition of the Court, or on apology being made to its satisfaction.

Act X of 1872, s. 487. Act IV of 1877, s. 207. Cf. draft Code of Criminal Procedure, s. 484.

Discharge of offender on submission or apology.

70. If any witness before the Small Cause Court refuses to answer such questions as are put to him, or to produce any document in his possession or power which the Court requires him to produce, and does not offer any reasonable excuse for such refusal, the Court may sentence him to simple imprisonment, or commit him to the custody of an officer of the Court, for any term not exceeding seven days, unless in the meantime such person consents to answer or to produce such document, as the case may be, after which, in the event of his persisting in his refusal, he may be dealt with according to the provisions of section sixty-six or sixty-eight.

Act X of 1872, s. 484. Act IV of 1877, s. 141. Cf. draft Code of Criminal Procedure, s. 485. (Also see Act IX of 1850, s. 29.)

Imprisonment or committal of person refusing to answer or produce document.

71. Any person deeming himself aggrived by an order under section sixty-six or section seventy may appeal to the High Court, and the provisions of the Presidency Magistrates Act, 1877, relating to appeals shall, so far as may be, apply to appeals under this section.

Draft Code of Criminal Procedure, s. 287.

Appeal from orders under sections 66 and 70.

CHAPTER XII.

MISCELLANEOUS.

72. No person other than an advocate, vakil or attorney of the High Court, or a person who is at the time this Act comes into force a pleader of the Small Cause Court, shall appear, plead or act in any suit or proceeding in the Small Cause Court under this Act, and no person other than—

(a) an advocate of the High Court instructed by a vakil or attorney of such Court or by a pleader of the Small Cause Court, or shall address the Court or examine witnesses at the hearing of any such suit in which the amount or value of the subject-matter exceeds one thousand rupees.

(b) a vakil of the High Court,

Who may appear, &c.

Nothing in this section shall affect the right of any party to conduct his own case or that of any other party to the suit, or the right of any recognized agent of a party under the Code of Civil Procedure as applied by this Act.

73. Notices to produce documents, summonses to witnesses, and all other processes issued in the exercise of any jurisdiction conferred on the Small Cause Court by this Act, except summonses to defendants and writs of execution, may, if the Court by general or special order so directs, be served by such persons as the Court, from time to time, appoints in this behalf.

Act X of 1877 s. 636.

Persons by whom process may be served.

74. The Small Cause Court shall keep such registers, books and accounts, and submit to the High Court such statements and returns, as may,

Act XVII of 1875, s. 4.

Registers and returns.

subject to the approval of the Local Government, be prescribed by the High Court.

Act XI of 1865, s. 53. Letters Patent, s. 43.

75. The Small Cause Court shall comply with such requisitions as may from time to time be made by the Local Government or High Court for records, returns and statements in such form and manner as such Government or Court, as the case may be, thinks fit.

Court to furnish records, &c., called for by Local Government or High Court.

Act XVII of 1875, s. 71. (Cf. Act IX of 1850, s. 29.)

76. The Small Cause Court shall, at the commencement of each year, draw up a list of holidays and vacations to be observed in the Court, and shall submit the same for the approval of the Local Government.

Holidays and vacations.

Such list, when it has received such approval, shall be published in the local official Gazette, and the said holidays and vacations shall be observed accordingly.

Act IX of 1850, s. 36.

77. The Governor General and Members of his Council, the Governors of Fort St. George and Bombay and the members of their respective Councils, the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal, and the Chief Justices and Judges of the High Courts established under the 24th & 25th of Victoria, chapter 104, shall not be liable to arrest by order of the Small Cause Court.

Certain persons exempt from arrest by Court.

I. L. R. 5, Calc., p. 224.

78. No suit shall lie on any decree of the Small Cause Court.

No suit to lie upon decree of Court.

79. Any person ordered by the Small Cause Court to be imprisoned may be imprisoned in such place as the Local Government, from time to time, appoints in this behalf.

Place of imprisonment.

Act IX of 1850, s. 111.

80. If any person against whom any suit is brought for anything purporting to be done by him under this Act, has, before the institution of the suit, tendered sufficient amends to the plaintiff, the plaintiff shall not recover.

Tender in suit for anything done under Act.

Act IX of 1850, s. 111.

81. All prosecutions for anything purporting to be done under this Act must be commenced within three months after the offence is committed.

Limitation of prosecutions.

D. FITZPATRICK,
Secretary to the Government of India.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third Publication.]

The following third Report of a Select Committee, together with the Bill as settled by them, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 11th March, 1881:—

WE, the undersigned Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to define and amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property was referred, have the honour to state that the Report of the Indian Law Commissioners, 1879, was duly communicated to us. We have carefully considered so much of it as relates to that Bill, as well as the papers specified in the annexed list; and, in compliance with the wish of the Secretary of State for India, as expressed in his despatch (Legislative) No. 37, dated 7th October, 1880, we have now the honour to present this our third Report.

We agree generally in the enlargement of the Bill effected by the Law Commissioners, and we shall in this Report refer to the Bill as settled by them, and published in the Gazette of India for the 17th and 24th January, 1880.

CHAPTER I.—PRELIMINARY.

We have rendered the definition of "attached to the earth" inapplicable to objects which merely rest upon the earth. And we have amended the definition of "notice" by making it apply expressly to a case where a person wilfully abstains from a search in a register which he ought to have made.

CHAPTER II.—TRANSFERS OF PROPERTY BY ACT OF PARTIES.

This chapter, after declaring what rights are inalienable and by what persons transfers may be made, proceeds to declare restrictions of the transfer of property called for in the interests of society. These restrictions are in substance identical with those contained in the Indian Succession Act, and rights and liabilities arising out of customs or personal laws are sufficiently saved by section 2, clause (a).

We have amended section 6 (as to what may be transferred) in these respects:—First, we have in the first clause substituted "Act" for "section." The effect will be to place Hindús on the same footing as Europeans as regards the power to make settlements, on marriage or otherwise, on persons not in existence at the date of the transfer. Although, no doubt, it has been laid down that the general principle of the Hindú law is that a donee must be in existence at the time of the gift, such settlements are in accordance with Native usage.

Secondly, we have re-drawn clause (a) thus:—

"(a) The chance of an heir-apparent succeeding to an estate, the chance of a relation obtaining a legacy on the death of a kinsman, or any other mere possibility of the same nature, cannot be transferred: the chance of a Hindú heir succeeding to property in the possession of a Hindú female cannot be transferred to any one except the present or future owner or co-owner of the property affected thereby."

Thirdly, we have made clause (c) run thus:—

"(c) An easement cannot be transferred apart from the dominant heritage."

Fourthly, we have extended clause (e) to rights to sue for harm illegally caused to property.

We think that the power to transfer property to or for the benefit of women, so that they shall not be able, during their marriage, to transfer or charge the same should be confined, as it is now, to women not being Hindús, Muhammadans or Buddhists; and we have altered section 10 accordingly.

It cannot be denied that one school of Muhammadan law does, as stated in the books, permit a settlement on a person, his children and their offspring in perpetuity. But in practice this form of settlement is obsolete, and, if made, the Courts would now refuse to recognise it as valid. We think, therefore, that section 14, which prohibits this kind of perpetuity, may stand unaltered. Baillie, p. 57

We have shortened and simplified the sections (33, 34) which deal respectively with conditions that a transferee shall perform an act at or before a specified time, and like conditions wherein no such time is specified.

We do not think that the proposition laid down in section 40, as to a Hindú's right to receive maintenance from the profits of immoveable property, can be said to be authoritatively settled, and there are good grounds for questioning it.

We have therefore re-drawn the first clause of section 40 thus:—

"40. Where a third person has a right to receive maintenance or a provision for advancement or marriage from the profits of immoveable property, and such property is transferred with the intention of defeating the right, such right may be enforced against a transferee with notice of such intention, or a gratuitous transferee of the property affected by the right, but not against a transferee for consideration and without notice of the right, nor against such property in his hands."

The remainder of section 40, though suggested by English cases, is, in our opinion, founded on general principles of equity applicable to India, and may, therefore, fitly be left unaltered in the Bill.

Section 41 has been amended so as to bring a benámidár clearly within its operation.

We have confined section 42 to cases of transfers for consideration by persons having authority to revoke the transfer.

To the section (44) dealing with transfer by one co-owner we have added a clause declaring that, when the transferee of a share of a dwelling-house belonging to an undivided family is a stranger, nothing in this section shall be deemed to entitle him to joint possession or other common or part enjoyment of the house.

We have confined section 53 to cases of fraudulent transfer. To provide, as it now does, for fraudulent forfeitures would involve a change in the law the consequences of which cannot easily be foreseen.

CHAPTER III.—SALES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

We agree with Sir Henry Maine as to the desirability of rendering the system of transfer of immoveable property a system of public transfer; and we are inclined to go a little further in this direction than seemed good to the Law Commissioners. Thus, we think that in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing, though its value may be less than Rs. 100, the transfer should be made only by registered assurance; and we have altered section 54 accordingly.

As to the duties of the seller, we think that, except where the property is sold subject to incumbrances, he should be bound to discharge all incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the sale; that he should not be bound to deliver the title-deeds till the whole of the purchase-money has been paid. We also think that the Bill may reasonably declare, as it does, that, in the absence of a stipulation to the contrary, the seller shall be deemed to contract that the interest which he assumes to transfer subsists and that he has power to make the transfer; but where he sells in a fiduciary character, we would follow the present practice, and declare simply that he shall be deemed to contract that he has done no act whereby the property is incumbered, or he is hindered from transferring it. We have altered section 55, clauses (a) (7), (8), (9), accordingly.

The proposition laid down in clause (c) (1), that a purchaser is bound to disclose any fact unknown to the vendor which increases his interest in the property, e. g., the actual or imminent death of a prior life-tenant, has been questioned by a high authority. It appears to us in exact accordance with the rule laid down in Turner v. Harvey, Jac. 169; Ellard v. Lord Llandaff, 1 Ball & B. 241; and (on the sale of a life-policy) Jones v. Keene, 2 Moo. & R. 348. We have, however, made a verbal amendment in this clause.

As to the duties of the buyer, we have struck out the clause requiring him to retransfer the property sold, where the ownership has passed before payment of the purchase-money and he fails to pay or tender it. In such case the seller's lien is, we think, sufficient.

As to the buyer's rights, we think that his lien as against the seller for purchase-money paid in anticipation should be available against all persons claiming under the seller with notice of the payment. We have altered the section accordingly.

Where two properties are subject to a common charge and one is sold, the buyer's right as against the seller to have the charge satisfied out of the other property does not depend on whether or not the buyer had notice of the charge. We have, therefore, struck out of section 56 the words relating to notice.

CHAPTER IV.—MORTGAGES.

We think that in the definition of simple mortgage the expression "makes it a collateral security" is likely to give rise to difficulties. We also think that a transaction may be a "mortgage by conditional sale" although accompanied by possession, and in the definition of usufructuary mortgage the words "or agrees to deliver" and "actual" seem unnecessary. We have therefore amended these definitions as follows:—

Simple Mortgage.

"Where, without delivering possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor binds himself personally to pay the mortgage-money and agrees expressly or impliedly that, in the event of his failing to pay according to his contract, the mortgagee shall have a right to cause the mortgaged property to be sold and the proceeds of sale to be applied, so far as may be necessary, in payment of what may be due to him on the mortgage, the transaction is called a simple mortgage and the mortgagee a simple mortgagee."

Mortgage by Conditional Sale.

"Where the mortgagor ostensibly sells the mortgaged property on condition that in default of payment of the mortgage-money on a certain date the sale shall become absolute, or

"on condition that on such payment being made, the sale shall become void, or

"on condition that on such payment being made, the buyer shall re-transfer the property to the seller,

"the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale and the mortgagee a mortgagee by conditional sale."

Usufructuary Mortgage.

"Where the mortgagor delivers possession of the property to the mortgagee and authorises him to retain such possession until payment of the mortgage-money, and to receive the rents and profits accruing from the property and to appropriate them in lieu of interest or in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage and the mortgagee an usufructuary mortgagee."

We agree with the Law Commissioners that the requirement of registration will not only discourage fraud and facilitate investigations of title, but that it will also preclude some difficult question of priority. A majority of us, however, think that where the principal money secured is less than Rs. 100, the assurance need not be registered. And we have altered the Bill accordingly. Our colleague Mr. Stokes dissents from this alteration, as, in his opinion, all incumbrances should appear on the register: those who mortgage their property for small amounts, as a rule, require protection from fraud more than those who mortgage for large amounts, and the changes impending in the working of the law will deprive the requirement of registration of all hardship even in the pettiest cases.

A majority of us are of opinion that equitable mortgages by deposit of title-deeds should be valid when they are made in Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Rangoon and Karáchí. The practice of raising money on such securities has long been established in those towns, and any attempt to disturb it would cause much inconvenience. Here, again, Mr. Stokes dissents on the grounds (a) that such mortgages are opposed to the policy of the registration-law; (b) that they lead to evasions of the stamp-duty; (c) that they are at variance with the principle of making the system of transfer of immoveable property, as far as possible, a system of public transfer; and (d) that, when the amount secured is Rs. 100 or upwards, they would be inconsistent with the general rule in section 58 requiring a written instrument.

We think, with Mr. Justice West, that nothing in the section (59) declaring the mortgagor's right to redeem should invalidate any provision to the effect that, if the time fixed for payment of the principal money has been allowed to pass, or no such time has been fixed, the mortgagee shall be entitled to reasonable notice before payment or tender of such money. In like manner, we think that nothing in section 82 or 84 should deprive the mortgagee of his right to interest where there exists a contract that he shall be entitled to such notice.

We concur with the Law Commissioners in the solution which they have proposed (section 68) of the moot question as to whether a power of sale conferred on the mortgagee is invalid, and as there is no prospect of the High Courts or the Privy Council making an authoritative declaration on the subject, we think it desirable to settle the matter by legislation as soon as possible.

For the section (98) as to the abandonment of his security where a mortgagee attaches and sells the mortgaged property, we have substituted the following:—

"98. Where a mortgagee, in execution of a decree for the satisfaction of any claim, whether arising under the mortgage or not, attaches the mortgaged property, he shall not be entitled to bring such property to sale otherwise than by instituting a suit under section 66."

We think that the High Court should have power to make rules for carrying out the provisions of this chapter.

CHAPTER V.—LEASES.

This chapter will, in our opinion, be of practical use in the case of leases of buildings, gardens and mines. We agree with the Law Commissioners that it should not of itself apply to the relations between zamíndár and raiyat, and we think that the power given to the Local Government by section 115 (now 116) to extend any of the provisions of the chapter to agricultural leases should only be exercised with the sanction of the Governor General in Council, and that the requisite notification should not take effect until the expiry of six months from the date of its publication.

The rule laid down in section 106, clause (i), as to the removeability of tenants' fixtures, has been objected to as not in accordance with the laws in force in this country. But it will operate only in the absence of a contract or local usage to the contrary, and will not in practice apply to tenants in husbandry. Moreover, it is impossible to say with certainty what the law of India on the subject really is. The Courts would, therefore, turn for guidance to the Civil law and the law of England. The Civil law permits a tenant to remove all fixtures where this can be effected without material injury to the property, and the strictness of the law of England has been relaxed where the fixtures have been annexed for the purposes of trade or manufacture, ornament, furniture and domestic use or convenience. The clause in question seems to us to represent with reasonable accuracy the rules of the Civil and the English law.

CHAPTER VI.—GIFTS.

We agree with the Law Commissioners that registration should be required in the case of gifts of immoveable property of whatever value. Such gifts are, as a rule, made by a written instrument, and as, under the Registration Act (III of 1877, section 17, clause (a)), the registration of such instruments is compulsory, the change of the existing law here proposed is almost nominal.

We have struck out the clause in section 121 (now 122) which is founded on the rule in the Succession Act as to bequests to attesting witnesses. It is, we think, inapplicable to a transaction inter vivos, where the donor can give evidence of his intention.

We have also struck out the section (120) which declares that the donor is not bound to warranty. It seems to the majority of us useless as denying what no one in this country would ever assert. Our colleague Mr. Stokes would retain it as precluding a doubt which may reasonably be felt by the Courts (see Burge II, 145).

We have made verbal and other unimportant amendments in sections 11, 25, 36, 37, 51, 59, 61, 64, 80, 81, 90, 91, 99, 101, 106, 126, 133.

The Bill as now settled seems to us a systematic and useful arrangement of the existing law. But we agree with the Law Commissioners that, when the body of substantive civil law enacted for India is recast in a more compact and convenient form than that of a series of fragmentary portions from time to time passed by the legislature, the chapters on Sale, Mortgage, Lease and Exchange contained in the present Bill will probably be placed in close connection with the rules contained in the Contract Act. Till then they may fitly be left in a law containing what the Contract Act does not contain, namely, general rules regulating the transmission of property between living persons.

We do not think that these rules, as now amended, will substantially alter or add to the existing law, or that they will invade or displace the functions of the Judges of the existing Courts. We, therefore, recommend that the Bill be passed. Drawn originally in England by the former Indian Law Commissioners, it was revised by Sir A. Hobhouse and introduced into the Council of the Governor General in June, 1877. It has since been twice circulated to the Local Governments for opinion and publication, and twice reported on by Select Committees, in February, 1878, and February, 1879. It was then carefully revised by the late Indian Law Commission. It has now been again revised by us. We think, therefore, of this Bill, as of the Bill dealing with negotiable instruments, that it is not now likely to be improved without the experience to be gained from its actual working. We recommend, however, that it should be republished in the Gazette of India with this Report; and, in obedience to the orders of the Secretary of State, it must also be sent home to him, published in the local Gazettes, and translated into the vernacular languages.

Our hon'ble colleagues Messrs. Grant and Paul have not been able to attend our meetings, and do not, therefore, sign this report.

THE SCHEDULE.

No. V.

A Bill to amend the law relating to the Transfer of Property by act of Parties.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend certain parts of the law relating to the transfer of property by act of parties; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

CHAPTER I.

PRELIMINARY.

Short title. Extent. Commencement.

1. This Act may be called "The Transfer of Property Act, 1881": It extends to the whole of British India; and it shall come into force on the first day of March, 1882. Bill, s. 1: Bill II, s. 1: Bill III, s. 1.

Repeal of Acts.

2. On and from that day the enactments specified in the schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent mentioned in the third column thereof. But nothing herein contained shall be deemed to affect— Bill, s. 2: Bill II, s. 1: Bill III, s. 2.

Saving of certain enactments, incidents, rights, liabilities, &c.

(a) the provisions of any enactment not hereby expressly repealed: Act IX of 1872, s. 1.

(b) any terms or incidents of any contract or constitution of property which are consistent with the provisions of this Act, and are allowed by the law for the time being in force:

(c) any right or liability arising out of a custom or personal law consistent with this Act, or out of a legal relation constituted before this Act comes into force, or any relief in respect of any such right or liability: 4 Beng. A. C. 219.

(d) any transfer by operation of law or by decree or order of a Court of competent jurisdiction. I. L. R., 2 Bom., 331.

Interpretation-clause.

3. In this Act, unless there be something repugnant in the subject or context,— Bill, s. 3: Bill II, s. 1: Bill III, s. 3: Report, s. 2. N. Y. Code, para. 150.

"ownership":

the "ownership" of a thing is the right of one or more persons to possess and use it to the exclusion of others. Such ownership is either absolute or qualified. The thing of which there may be ownership is called "property":

"property":

"assurance":

"assurance" means any non-testamentary instrument which purports or operates to create, transfer or otherwise dispose of, whether in present or in future, any right, title or interest to or in immoveable property: Act III of 1877, s. 3.

"registered" means registered in British India under the law for the time being in force regulating the registration of documents:

"registered":

"attached to the earth":

"attached to the earth" means—

(a) rooted in the earth, as in the case of trees and shrubs;

See ss. 3, 107.

(b) imbedded in the earth, as in the case of walls or buildings; or

(c) attached to what is so imbedded for the permanent beneficial enjoyment of that to which it is attached:

See Contract Act, s. 229, as to agent: 4 Cal. 212: s. 11 Beng. 54 P. C.

"notice":

and a person is said to have "notice" of a fact when he actually knows that fact, or when but for wilful abstention from an inquiry or search which he ought to have made, or gross negligence, he would have known it, or when information of the fact is given to or obtained by his agent under the circumstances mentioned in the Indian Contract Act, section 229.

Bill III, s. 4.

4. The chapters and sections of this Act which relate to contracts shall be taken as part of the Indian Contract Act, 1872.

Enactments relating to contracts to be taken as part of Act IX of 1872.

CHAPTER II.

OF TRANSFERS OF PROPERTY BY ACT OF PARTIES.

(A).—Transfer of Property, whether moveable or immoveable.

5. In the following sections "transfer" means an act by which one living person conveys to another, or to himself and another, in present or in future, the ownership of property or an interest therein, and "to transfer" is to perform such act.

"Transfer" defined.

6. The ownership of property of any kind may be transferred, except as otherwise provided by this Act or by any other law for the time being in force:—

What may be transferred.

Cf. Lethbridge, 9 Mad. Ct. Act X of 1877, s. 266, clause (3).

(a) The chance of an heir-apparent succeeding to an estate, the chance of a relation obtaining a legacy on the death of a kinsman, or any other mere possibility of a like nature, cannot be transferred. The chance of a Hindú heir succeeding to property in the possession of a Hindú female cannot be transferred to any one except the present or future owner or co-owner of the property affected thereby.

Smith v. Pugh, Ferrer, 2 Atk. 189.

(b) A mere right of re-entry for breach of a condition subsequent cannot be transferred to any one except the owner of the property affected thereby.

(c) An easement cannot be transferred apart from the dominant heritage.

(d) An interest in property restricted in its enjoyment to the owner personally cannot be transferred by him.

(e) A mere right to sue for compensation for a fraud or for harm illegally caused cannot be transferred.

(f) A public office cannot be transferred, nor can the salary of a public officer whether before or after it has become payable.

Cf. 11 & 12 Vic., c. 21, 27.

(g) Stipends allowed to military and civil pensioners of Government and political pensions cannot be transferred.

Bill, s. 4: Bill III, s. 5 Report, s. 4.

7. Every person competent to contract and entitled to transferable property, or authorized to dispose of transferable property not his own, is competent to transfer such property either wholly or in part and either absolutely or conditionally, in the circumstances, to the extent and in the manner allowed and prescribed by any law for the time being in force.

Persons competent to transfer.

Bill, s. 10: Bill III, s. 6: Report, s. 10: s. last clause. Report, s. 6: 2 W. R. 126 (buildings): 14 W. R. 978. N.-W. P., 1870, p. 251: 24 W. R. 380 (trees), "everything grown on it," Morley N. S. 360.

8. Unless a different intention is expressed or necessarily implied, a transfer of property passes forthwith to the transferee all the interest which the transferor is then capable of passing in such property, and in the legal incidents thereof.

Operation of transfer.

Such incidents include, where the property is land, the easements annexed thereto, the rents and profits thereof accruing after the transfer, and all things attached to the earth;

and, where the property is machinery attached to the earth, the moveable parts thereof;

and, where the property is a house, the easements annexed thereto, the rent thereof accruing after the transfer, and the locks, keys, bars, doors, windows and all other things provided for permanent use therewith;

and, where the property is a debt or other actionable claim, the securities therefor, but not arrears of interest accrued before the transfer;

and, where the property is money or other property yielding income, the interest or income thereof accruing after the ownership passes.

7 Exch., s. 581.

9. A transfer may be made without writing in every case in which a writing is not expressly required by law.

Oral transfer.

Report, s. L. R. 9 Chan. D. 148, 265.

10. Where a transfer is subject to a condition or limitation absolutely restraining the transferee or any person claiming under him from parting with or disposing of his interest in the property transferred, the condition or limitation is void except in the case of a lease where the condition is for the benefit of the lessor or those claiming under him: provided that property may be transferred to or for the benefit of a woman (not being a Hindú, Muhammadan or Buddhist), so that she shall not have power during her marriage to transfer or charge the same or her beneficial interest therein.

Condition restraining alienation.

Act X of 1865, s. 125.

11. Where on a transfer of property an interest is created absolutely in favour of any person, but the terms of the transfer direct that such interest shall be applied or enjoyed in a particular manner, he shall be entitled to receive and dispose of such interest as if there were no such direction.

Restriction repugnant to interest created.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to affect the right to restrain for the beneficial enjoyment of one piece of immoveable property, the enjoyment of another piece of such property, or to compel the enjoyment thereof in a particular manner.

Report, s. 48: See Act X of 1865, s. 107.

12. Where property is transferred subject to a condition or limitation making any interest therein reserved or given to or for the benefit of any person to cease on his becoming insolvent or endeavouring to transfer or dispose of the same, such condition or limitation is void.

Condition making interest determinable on insolvency or attempted alienation.

Nothing in this section applies to a condition in a lease for the benefit of the lessor or those claiming under him.

Act X of 1865, s. 100. Report, s. 49.

13. Where on a transfer of property an interest is created for the benefit of a person not in existence at the date of the transfer, subject to a prior interest created by the same transfer, the interest created for the benefit of such person shall not take effect, unless it extends to the whole of the remaining interest of the transferor in the property.

Transfer for benefit of person not in existence at date of transfer, subject to prior transfer.

Illustration.

A transfers property of which he is the owner to B in trust for A and his intended wife successively for their lives, and after the death of the survivor for the eldest son of the intended marriage for life, and after his death for his second son. The interest so created for the benefit of the eldest son does not take effect, because it does not extend to the whole of A's remaining interest in the property.

Report, s. 50, Succession Act, s. 101.

14. No transfer can operate to create an interest which is to take effect after the life-time of one or more persons living at the date of such transfer, and the minority of some person who shall be in existence at the expiration of that period, and to whom, if he attains full age, the interest created is to belong.

Rule against perpetuity.

Report, s. 51: Bentinck v. Duke of Portland, 7 Chan. D. 693.

15. If on a transfer of property an interest is created for the benefit of a class of persons with regard to some of whom such interest fails by reason of any of the rules contained in sections thirteen and fourteen, such interest fails as regards the whole class.

Transfer to class some of whom come under sections 13 and 14.

Report, s. 52.

16. Where an interest fails by reason of any of the rules contained in sections thirteen, fourteen and fifteen, any interest created in the same transaction and intended to take effect after or upon failure of such prior interest also fails.

Transfer to take effect on failure of prior transfer.

17. The restrictions in sections fourteen, fifteen and sixteen shall not apply to property transferred for the benefit of the public in the advancement of religion, knowledge, commerce, health, safety or any other object beneficial to mankind.

Transfer in perpetuity for benefit of public.

Act X of 1865, s. 104: Report, s. 53.

18. Where the terms of a transfer of property direct that the income arising therefrom shall be accumulated, such direction shall be void, and the property shall be disposed of as if no accumulation had been directed.

Direction for accumulation.

Donaldson v. Donaldson, L. R. 3 Chan. Div. 743.

Exception.—Where the property is immoveable or where accumulation is directed to be made from the date of the transfer, the direction shall be valid in respect only of the income arising from the property within one year next following such date; and at the end of the year such property and income shall be disposed of respectively as if the period during which the accumulation has been directed to be made had elapsed.

Report, ss. 56, 57, altered.

19. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of a person without specifying the time when it is to take effect, or in terms specifying that it is to take effect, forthwith or on the happening of an event which must happen, such interest is vested, unless a contrary intention appears from the terms of the transfer.

Vested interest.

A vested interest is not defeated by the death of the transferee before he obtains possession.

Explanation.—An intention that an interest shall not be vested is not to be inferred merely from a provision whereby the enjoyment thereof is postponed, or whereby a prior interest in the same property is given or reserved to some other person, or whereby income arising from the property is directed to be accumulated until the time of enjoyment arrives, or from a provision that if a particular event shall happen the interest shall pass to another person.

Report, s. 58, altered.

20. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created for the benefit of a person not then living, he acquires upon his birth, unless a contrary intention appear from the terms of the transfer, a vested interest, although he may not be entitled to the enjoyment thereof immediately on his birth.

Transfer for benefit of person not then living.

Act X of 1865, s. 107: Report, s. 60, IX, 72-32.

21. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of a person to take effect only on the happening of a specified uncertain event, or if a specified uncertain event shall not happen, such person thereby acquires a contingent interest in the property. Such interest becomes a vested interest, in the former case, on the happening of the event, in the latter, when the happening of the event becomes impossible.

Contingent interest.

Exception.—Where under a transfer a person becomes entitled to an interest in property upon attaining a particular age, and the transferor also gives to him absolutely the income to arise from such interest before he reaches that age, or directs the income or so much thereof as may be necessary to be applied for his benefit, such interest is not contingent.

Act X of 1865, s. 108: Report, s. 60.

Transfer to members of a class who attain a particular age.

22. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created in favour of such members only of a class as shall attain a particular age, such interest does not vest in any member of the class who has not attained that age.

Act X of 1865, s. 111: Report, s. 61.

Transfer contingent on happening of specified uncertain event.

23. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is to accrue to a specified person if a specified uncertain event shall happen, and no time is mentioned for the occurrence of that event, the interest fails unless such event happens before, or at the same time as, the intermediate or precedent interest ceases to exist.

Act X of 1865, s. 112.

Transfer to such of certain persons as survive at some period not specified.

24. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest therein is to accrue to such of certain persons as shall be surviving at some period, but the exact period is not specified, the interest shall go to such of them as shall be alive when the intermediate or precedent interest ceases to exist, unless a contrary intention appears from the terms of the transfer.

Illustration.

A transfers property to B for life, and after his death to C and D, equally to be divided between them, or to the survivor of them. C dies during the life of B. D survives B. At B's death the property passes to D.

Act X of 1865, s. 113: Act X of 1865, s. 114, expanded with reference to Act IX of 1872, s. 23.

Conditional transfer.

25. An interest created on a transfer of property and dependent upon a condition fails if the fulfilment of the condition is impossible, or is forbidden by law, or is of such a nature that if permitted, it would defeat the provisions of any law, or is fraudulent, or involves or implies injury to the person or property of another, or the Court regards it as immoral or opposed to pubic policy.

Illustrations.

(a). A lets a farm to B on condition that he shall walk a hundred miles in an hour. The lease is void.

(b). A gives Rs. 500 to B on condition that he shall marry A's daughter, C. At the date of the transfer C was dead. The transfer is void.

(c). A transfers Rs. 500 to B on condition that she shall murder C. The transfer is void.

(d). A transfers Rs. 500 to his niece C if she will desert her husband. The transfer is void.

Act X of 1865, s. 115.

Fulfilment of condition precedent.

26. Where the terms of a transfer of property impose a condition to be fulfilled before a person can take an interest in the property, the condition shall be deemed to have been fulfilled if it has been substantially complied with.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers Rs. 5,000 to B on condition that he shal marry with the consent of C, D and E. E dies. B marries with the consent of C and D. B has fulfilled the condition.

(b). A transfers Rs. 5,000 to B on condition that he shall marry with the consent of C, D and E. B marries without the consent of C, D and E, but obtains their consent after the marriage. B has not fulfilled the condition.

Act X of s. 116.

Conditional transfer to one person coupled with transfer to another on failure of prior transfer.

27. Where, on a transfer of propery, an interest is created in favour of one person, and by the same transaction an ulterior disposition of the same interest is made in favour of another if the prior interest under the transfer shall fail, the ulterior disposition shall take effect upon the failure of the prior disposition, although the failure may not have occurred in the manner contemplated by the transferor.

Act X of s. 117.

But where the intention of the parties to the transaction is that the ulterior disposition shall take effect only in the event of the prior disposition failing in a particular manner, the ulterior disposition shall not take effect unless the prior disposition fails in that manner.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers Rs. 500 to B on condition that he shall execute a certain lease within three months after A's death, and if he should neglect to do so, to C. B dies in A's lifetime. The transfer to C takes effect.

(b). A transfers property to his wife; but in case she should die in his life-time, transfers to B that which he had transferred to her. A and his wife perish together, under circumstances which make it impossible to prove that she died before him. The transfer to B does not take effect.

Act X of s. 118.

Ulterior transfer conditional on happening or not happening of specified event.

28. On a transfer of property an interest may be created to accrue to any person with the condition superadded that in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, such interest shall pass to another person; or that in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen, such interest shall pass to another person. In each case the dispositions are subject to the rules contained in sections ten, twelve, twenty-one, twenty-two, twenty-three, twenty-four, twenty-five and twenty-seven.

Act X of s. 119.

Fulfilment of condition subsequent.

29. An ulterior disposition of the kind contemplated by the last preceding section cannot take effect unless the condition is strictly fulfilled.

Illustration.

A transfers Rs. 500 to B, to be paid to him on his attaining his majority or marrying, with a proviso that, if B dies a minor or marries without C's consent, the Rs. 500 shall go to D. B marries when only 17 years of age, without C's consent. The transfer to D takes effect.

Act X of s. 120.

Prior disposition not affected by invalidity of ulterior disposition.

30. If the ulterior disposition is not valid, the prior disposition is not affected by it.

Illustration.

A transfers a farm to B for her life, and, if she do not desert her husband, to C. B is entitled to the farm during her life as if no condition had been inserted.

Act X of s. 121.

Condition that transfer shall cease to have effect in case specified uncertain event happens or does not happen.

31. Subject to the provisions of section twelve, on a transfer of property an interest may be created with the condition superadded that it shall cease to exist in case a specified uncertain event shall happen, or in case a specified uncertain event shall not happen.

Illustrations.

(a). A transfers a farm to B for his life, with a proviso that, in case B cuts down a certain wood, the transfer shall cease to have any effect. B cuts down the wood. He loses his life-interest in the farm.

(b). A transfers a farm to B, provided that, if B shall not go to England within three years after the date of the transfer, his interest in the farm shall cease. A does not go to England within the term prescribed. His interest in the farm ceases.

Act X of 1865, s. 122.

Such condition must not be invalid.

Act X of 1865, s. 124.

Condition that transferee shall perform act at or before specified time.

33. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created subject to a condition that the person taking it shall perform a certain act at or before a specified time, and the transferor has at the time of creating the interest made an ulterior disposition thereof in favour of himself or of another, if the act be not performed within such time, the prior disposition ceases to have effect if the act is not performed within such time, or if the person benefited by the prior disposition renders the performance of the act impossible within the time specified. But where the transferor has not made any such ulterior disposition thereof, the transfer is, at the option of the transferor, voidable so far as regards such interest, if time is of the essence of the condition; but if it is not of the essence of the contract, the transfer shall not be so voidable.

When such intention is apparent, the circumstance that the interest has actually been enjoyed under the prior disposition does not affect the operation of the condition.

Transfer conditional on performance of act, no time being specified for performance.

34. Where, on a transfer of property, an interest is created subject to a condition that the person taking it shall perform a certain act, but no time is specified for the performance of the act, the condition is broken when he renders impossible, permanently or for an indefinite period, the performance of the condition.

Transfer conditional on performance of act, time being specified.

35. Where an act is to be performed by a person either as a condition to be fulfilled before an interest created on a transfer is enjoyed by him, or as a condition on the non-fulfilment of which the interest is to pass from him to another person, and a time is specified for the performance of the act, if such performance within the specified time is prevented by the fraud of a person who would be directly benefited by non-fulfilment of the condition, such further time shall as against him be allowed for performing the act as shall be requisite to make up for the delay caused by such fraud. But if no time is specified for the performance of the act, then if its performance is, by the fraud of a person interested in the non-fulfilment of the condition rendered impossible or indefinitely postponed, the condition shall as against him be deemed to have been fulfilled.

Election.

Draft, s. 62 added to.

Election when necessary.

36. Where a person professes to transfer property which he has no right to transfer, and as part of the same transaction confers any benefit on the owner of the property, such owner must elect either to confirm such transfer or to dissent from it; and in the latter case he shall relinquish the benefit so conferred, and the benefit so relinquished shall revert to the transferor or his representative as if it had not been disposed of,

Act X of 1865, s. 168.

subject nevertheless,

where the transfer is gratuitous and the transferor has before the election died or otherwise become incapable of making a fresh transfer,

and in all cases where the transfer is for consideration, to the charge of making good to the disappointed transferee the amount or value of the property attempted to be transferred to him.

Illustration.

The farm of Sultánpur is the property of C and worth Rs. 800. A by an instrument of gift professes to transfer it to B, giving by the same instrument Rs. 1,000 to C. C elects to retain the farm. He forfeits the gift of Rs. 1,000.

In the same case, A dies before the election. His representative must out of the Rs. 1,000 pay Rs. 800 to B.

Act X of 1865, s. 169.

The rule in the first paragraph of this section applies whether the transferor does or does not believe that which he professes to transfer to be his own.

Act X of 1865, s. 171.

A person taking no benefit directly under a transaction, but deriving a benefit under it indirectly, need not elect.

Act X of 1865, s. 172.

A person who in his one capacity takes a benefit under the transaction may in another dissent therefrom.

Exception to the last preceding four rules.—Where a particular benefit is expressed to be conferred on the owner of the property which the transferor professes to transfer expressed to be in lieu of that property, if such owner claim that he must relinquish the particular benefit, but he is not bound to relinquish any other benefit conferred upon him by the same transaction.

Act X of 1865, s. 173.

Acceptance of the benefit by the person on whom it is conferred constitutes an election by him to confirm the transfer, if he is aware of his duty to elect and of those circumstances which would influence the judgment of a reasonable man in making an election, or if he waives enquiry into the circumstances.

Act X of 1865, s. 174.

Such knowledge or waiver shall, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, be presumed, if the person on whom the benefit has been conferred has enjoyed it for two years without doing any act to express dissent.

Act X of 1865, s. 175.

Such knowledge or waiver may be inferred from any act of his which renders it impossible to place the persons interested in the property professed to be transferred in the same condition as if such act had not been done.

Illustration.

A transfers to B an estate to which to C is entitled, and to C a coal-mine. C takes possession of the mine and exhausts it. He has thereby confirmed the transfer of the estate to B.

Act X of 1865, s. 176. If he does not within one year after the date of the transfer signify to the transferor or his representatives his intention to confirm or to dissent from the transfer, the transferor or his representatives may, upon the expiration of that period, require him to make his election; and if he does not comply with such requisition within a reasonable time after he has received it, he shall be deemed to have elected to confirm the transfer.

Act X of 1865, s. 167. In case of disability, the election shall be postponed until the disability ceases, or until the election is made by some competent authority.

Apportionment.

Draft, s. 64: Bill III, s. 86. 37. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, all rents, annuities, pensions, dividends and other periodical payments in the nature of income shall, upon the transfer of the interest of the person entitled to receive such payments, be deemed, as between the transferor and the transferee, to accrue due from day to day, and to be apportionable accordingly, but to be payable on the days appointed for the payment thereof.

Apportionment of periodical payments on determination of interest of person entitled.

Severance of Obligation relating to property.

38. When in consequence of a transfer property is divided and held in several shares, and thereupon the benefit of any obligation relating to the property as a whole passes from one to several owners of the property, the corresponding duty shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary amongst the owners, be performed in favour of each of such owners in proportion to the value of his share in the property, provided that the duty can be severed and that the severance does not substantially increase the burden of the obligation; but if the duty cannot be severed, or if the severance would substantially increase the burden of the obligation, the duty shall be performed for the benefit of such one of the several owners as they shall jointly designate for that purpose:

Provided that no person on whom the burden of the obligation lies shall be answerable for failure to discharge it in manner provided by this section, unless and until he has had reasonable notice of the severance.

Satisfaction of right arising in favour of several persons in consequence of a transfer.

Illustrations.

(a). A sells to B, C and D land situate in a village and leased to E at an annual rent of Rs. 90 and delivery of one fat sheep, B having provided half the purchase-money and C and D one quarter each. E having notice of this must pay Rs. 15 to B, Rs. 7½ to C and Rs. 7½ to D, and must deliver the sheep according to the joint direction of B, C and D.

(b). Each house in the village being bound to provide ten days' labour each year on a dyke to prevent inundation, E had agreed as a term of his lease to perform this work for A. B, C and D severally require E to perform the ten days' work due on account of the house of each. E is not bound to do more than ten days' work in all, according to such directions as B, C and D may join in giving.

B.—Transfer of Immoveable Property.

Bill III, s. 7. 39. Where any person authorized only under circumstances in their nature variable to dispose of immoveable property transfers such property for consideration, alleging the existence of such circumstances, they shall, as between the transferee on the one part and the transferor and other persons (if any) affected by the transfer on the other part, be deemed to have existed, if the transferee, after using reasonable care to ascertain the existence of such circumstances, has acted in good faith.

Transfer by person authorized only under certain circumstances to transfer.

Illustration.

A, a Hindú widow, whose husband has left collateral heirs, agrees, for purposes neither religious nor charitable, to sell a field, part of the property held by her as such, to B. B satisfies himself by reasonable enquiry that the income of the property is insufficient for A's maintenance, and that the sale of the field is necessary, and, acting in good faith, buys the field. As between B on the one part and A and the collateral heirs on the other part, a necessity for the sale shall be deemed to have existed.

A. 135 of 1877. 40. Where a third person has a right to receive maintenance or a provision for advancement or marriage from the profits of immoveable property, and such property is transferred with the intention of defeating such right, the right may be enforced against the transferee, if he has notice of such intention or if the transfer is gratuitous; but not against a transferee for consideration and without notice of the right, nor against such property in his hands.

Transfer of land where third person is entitled to maintenance.

Illustrations.

(a). A, a Hindú, transfers Sultánpur to his sister-in-law B, in lieu of her claim against him for maintenance in virtue of his having succeeded to her deceased husband's property, and agrees with her that if she is dispossessed of Sultánpur, A will transfer to her an equal area out of such of several other specified villages in his possession as she may elect. A sells the specified villages to C, who buys in good faith, without notice of the agreement. B is dispossessed of Sultánpur. She has no claim on the villages transferred to C.

(b). A, a Hindú widow, is entitled to maintenance out of the share of her deceased husband in Basauli, which has passed to his brother B. B sells Basauli to C, who has notice that there is no other property to satisfy A's claim. A may claim maintenance out of Basauli in the hands of C.

Where for the more beneficial enjoyment of his own immoveable property a third person has, independently of any interest in the immoveable property of another, a right to restrain the enjoyment of the latter property or to compel its enjoyment in a particular manner, or or has a right to restrain its enjoyment,

where a third person is entitled to the benefit of an obligation arising out of contract and annexed to the ownership of immoveable property, but not amounting to an interest therein or easement thereon, or is entitled to benefit of obligation not amounting to interest or easement.

such right or obligation may be enforced against a transferee with notice thereof or a gratuitous transferee of the property affected thereby, but not against a transferee for consideration and without notice of the right or obligation, nor against such property in his hands.

Illustration.

A contracts to sell Sultánpur to B. While the contract is still in force he sells Sultánpur to C, who has notice of the contract. B may enforce the contract against C to the same extent as against A.

Bill III, s. 9, Act IX of 1872, s. 108, exception 2. 41. Where with the consent, express or implied, of the persons interested in immoveable property, a person is the ostensible owner of such property and transfers the same for consideration, the transfer shall not be voidable on the ground that the transferor was not authorized to make it: provided that the transferee, after taking reasonable care to ascertain that the transferor had power to make the transfer, has acted in good faith.

Transfer by ostensible owner.

Illustrations.

(a). A, one of two co-proprietors of village land, leaves his village, and with his consent the land is registered by the Revenue-officer in the name of B, the other co-proprietor. After ten years B sells a portion of the land to C, who takes reasonable care to ascertain that B had power to make the transfer and acts in good faith. A is not entitled to have the sale set aside.

(b). A buys land and causes it to be transferred to his servant B to hold on his behalf, and also causes it to be entered in the revenue register in B's name. C, having ascertained that B is the registered owner of the land and pays the revenue due in respect thereof, buys the land in good faith from B. A cannot impeach the sale.

Bill III, s. 10A, para. 2. 42. Where a person having authority to revoke a transfer of any immoveable property, transfers the property for consideration, such transfer operates in favour of the transferee (subject to any condition attached to the exercise of the authority) as a revocation of the former transfer to the extent of the authority.

Transfer by person having authority to revoke former transfer.

Illustration.

A lets a house to B and reserves power to revoke the lease if in the opinion of a specified surveyor B should make a use of it detrimental to its value. Afterwards A, thinking that such a use has been made, lets the house to C. This operates as a revocation of B's lease subject to the opinion of the surveyor as to B's use of the house having been detrimental to its value.

43. Where a person erroneously represents that he is authorized to transfer certain immoveable property, and assumes to transfer such property for consideration, such transfer shall, at the option of the transferee, operate on any interest which the transferor may acquire in such property, at any time during which the contract of transfer subsists.

Transfer by unauthorized person who subsequently acquires interest in property transferred.

Nothing in this section shall impair the right of a transferee in good faith for consideration without notice of the existence of the said option.

Illustration.

A, a Hindú who has separated from his father B, sells to C three fields, X, Y and Z. Of these Z does not belong to A, it having been retained by B on the partition; but on B's dying A obtains Z as heir. C, not having rescinded the contract of sale, may require A to deliver Z to him.

Bill III, s. 9. 44. Where one of two or more co-owners of immoveable property legally competent in that behalf transfers his share of such property or any interest therein, the transferee acquires as to such share or interest, and so far as is necessary to give effect to the transfer, the transferor's right to joint possession or other common or part enjoyment of the property, and to enforce a partition of the same, but subject to the conditions and liabilities affecting, at the date of the transfer, the share or interest so transferred.

Transfer by one co-owner.

Where the transferee of a share of a dwelling-house belonging to an undivided family is a stranger nothing in this section shall be deemed to entitle him to joint-possession or other common or part enjoyment of the house.

Bill III, s. 13. 45. Where property is transferred for consideration to two or more persons, and such consideration is paid out of a fund belonging to them in common, they are in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively entitled to interests in such property identical, as nearly as may be, with the interests to which they were respectively entitled to the fund; and where such consideration is paid out of separate funds belonging to them respectively, they are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, respectively entitled to interests in such property in proportion to the shares of the consideration which they respectively advanced.

Joint transfer for consideration.

In the absence of evidence as to the interests in the fund to which they were respectively entitled, or as to the shares which they respectively advanced, [illegible] entitled in the property.

Illustration.

A and B are the sons and C the grandson of a Hindú who has died leaving property. C's father D has also died. A partition has been made after which A and B have reunited. C remains severed in interest, his share being one-third. The separate property of D is of the same value. The whole fund belonging to A, B and C is expended in buying an estate, X. A and B take one moiety of X as joint estate and C takes the other moiety as separate property.

46. Where a transfer of immoveable property is made for consideration by persons having distinct interests therein, the transferors are, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to share in the consideration equally, where their interests in the property transferred were of equal value, and, where such interests were of unequal value, proportionately to the value of their respective interests.

Transfer for consideration by persons having distinct interests.

(a). A, owing a moiety, and B and C, each a quarter share of mauza Sultánpur, exchange an eighth share in that mauza for a quarter share of mauza [illegible] there being no agreement to the contrary. A [illegible] eighth share in Lálpura, and B and C [illegible] share in that mauza.

(b). A being entitled to a life interest in mauza Atrali and B and C to the reversion, sell the mauza for Rs. 1,000. A's life interest is ascertained to be worth Rs. 600, the reversion Rs. 400. A is entitled to receive Rs. 600 out of the purchase money, B and C to receive Rs. 400.

47. Where several co-owners of immoveable property transfer a share therein without specifying that the transfer is to take effect on any particular share or shares of the transferors, the transfer, as among such transferors, takes effect on such shares equally where the shares were equal, and where they were unequal, proportionately to the extent of such shares.

Transfer by co-owners of share in common property.

A, the owner of an eight annas share, and B and C, each the owner of a four annas share, in mauza Sultánpur, transfer a two-anna share in the mauza to D, without specifying from which of their several shares the transfer is made. To give effect to the transfer one anna share is taken from the share of A, and half an anna share from each of the shares of B and C.

48. Where a person purports to create by transfer at different times rights in or over the same immoveable property, and such rights cannot all exist or be exercised to their full extent together, each later created right shall, in the absence of a special contract or reservation binding the earlier transferees, be subject to the rights previously created.

Priority of rights created by transfer.

Bill III, ss. 17, 20.

49. Where immoveable property is transferred for consideration, and such property or any part thereof is at the date of the transfer insured against loss or damage by fire, the transferee, in case of such loss or damage, may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, require any money which the transferor actually receives under the policy, or so much thereof as may be necessary, to be applied in reinstating the property.

Transferee's right under policy.

Bill III, s. 8; 1865, s. 1.

50. No person shall be chargeable with any rents or profits of any immoveable property, which he has in good faith paid or delivered to any person of whom he in good faith held such property, notwithstanding it may afterwards appear that the person to whom such payment or delivery was made had no right to receive such rents or profits.

Act VI of 1868, s. 3; 2 Bom. 344.

51. When the transferee of immoveable property makes any improvement on the property, believing in good faith that he is absolutely entitled thereto, and he is subsequently evicted therefrom by any person having a better title, the transferee or his representative in interest has a right to require the person causing the eviction either to have the value of the improvement estimated and paid or secured to the transferee, or to sell his interest in the property to the transferee at the then market value thereof irrespective of the value of such improvement.

Improvements made by bona fide possessor under defective title.

The amount to be paid or secured in respect of such improvement shall be the estimated value thereof at the time of the eviction.

When under the circumstances aforesaid the transferee has planted or sown on the property crops which are growing when he is evicted therefrom, he is entitled to such crops and to free ingress and egress to gather and carry them.

52. During the active prosecution in any Court having authority in British India, or established beyond the limits of British India by the Governor General in Council, of a contentious suit or proceeding in which any right to immoveable property is directly and specifically in question, the property cannot be transferred or otherwise dealt with by any party to the suit or proceeding so as to affect the rights of any other party thereto under any decree or order which may be made therein, except under the authority of the Court and on such terms as it may impose.

Transfer of property pending suit relating thereto.

Bill III, s. 10A: Cf. Act I of 1877, s. 35.

53. Every transfer of immoveable property made with intent to defraud prior or subsequent transferees thereof for consideration, or co-owners or other persons having an interest in such property, or to defeat or delay the creditors of the transferor, is voidable at the option of any person so defrauded, defeated or delayed.

Fraudulent transfer.

Where the effect of any transfer of immoveable property is to defraud, defeat or delay any such person, and such transfer is made gratuitously or for a grossly inadequate consideration, the transfer may be presumed to have been made with such intent as aforesaid.

Nothing contained in this section shall impair the rights of any transferee in good faith and for consideration.

CHAPTER III.

OF SALES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

54. "Sale" is a transfer of ownership in exchange for a price paid or promised or part-paid and part-promised.

"Sale" defined.

Such transfer, in the case of tangible immoveable property of the value of one hundred rupees and upwards, or in the case of a reversion or other intangible thing, can be made only by a registered assurance.

Sale how made.

In the case of tangible immoveable property of a value less than one hundred rupees, such transfer may be made either by a registered assurance or by delivery of the property.

Bill III, s. 11: 14 Beng. 807, 812: N. W. P., 1866, p. 87. Consider 12 Suth. W. R. 8, C. 6: as to delivery of assurance, W. R. 1864, p. 222: 5 W. R. 248: Morley N. S. 358.

Delivery of tangible immoveable property takes place when the seller places the buyer, or such person as he directs, in possession of the property.

Right to redeem, N. W. P., 1868, p. 278.

A contract for the sale of immoveable property is a contract that a sale of such property shall take place on terms settled between the parties.

Contract for sale.

Bill III, s. 14.

It does not, of itself, create any interest in or charge on such property.

Bill, s. 11: Bill III, s. 11: Bill III, s. 12: Report, s. 14.

55. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the buyer and the seller of immoveable property respectively are subject to the liabilities, and have the rights, mentioned in the rules next following, or such of them as are applicable to the property sold:

Rights and liabilities of buyer and seller.

Bill III, s. 13 (a).

(a). The seller is bound—

(1) to disclose to the buyer any defect in the property of which the seller is, and the buyer is not, aware, and which the buyer could not with ordinary care discover;

Bill III, s. 12 (a).

(2) to produce to the buyer on his request for examination all documents of title relating to the property which are in the seller's possession or power;

Bill III, s. 13 (a).

(3) to answer to the best of his information all relevant questions put to him by the buyer in respect to the property or the title thereto;

Bill III, s. 13 (b).

(4) on payment or tender of the amount due in respect of the price, to execute a proper assurance of the property when the buyer tenders it to him for execution at a proper time and place, and, where the property is, or forms part of, a revenue-paying estate, to present an application to the proper officer for the requisite alteration of the revenue-register;

New.

(5) between the date of the contract of sale and the delivery of the property, to take as much care of the property and all documents of title relating thereto which are in his possession, as an owner of ordinary prudence would take of such property and documents;

(6) to give, on being so required, the buyer, or such person as he directs, such possession of the property as its nature admits;

Bill III, s. 13 (b).

(7) to pay all public charges and rent accrued due in respect of the property up to the date of the sale, the interest on all incumbrances on such property due on such date, and, except where the property is sold subject to incumbrances, to discharge on or before that date all incumbrances on the property then existing; provided that, where the sale is made by a person in a fiduciary character, he shall be deemed to contract that he has done no act whereby the property is incumbered or whereby he is hindered from transferring it.

(8) and the seller shall be deemed to contract that the interest which he assumes to transfer to the buyer subsists and that he has power to transfer the same:

Bill III, s. 12 (f).

(9) Where the whole of the purchase-money has been paid to the seller, he is also bound to deliver to the buyer all documents of title relating thereto which are in the seller's possession or power:

Bill III, s. 12 (f).

provided that (1), where the seller retains any part of the property comprised in such documents, he is entitled to retain them all, and (2), where the whole of such property is sold to different buyers, the buyer of the lot of greatest value is entitled to such documents. But in case (1) the seller, and in case (2) the buyer of the lot of greatest value, is bound, upon every reasonable request by the buyer, or by any of the other buyers, as the case may be, or by any person claiming under him, and at the cost of the person making the request, to produce the said documents and furnish such true copies thereof as he may require, and in the meantime, the seller or the buyer, as the case may be, of the lot of greatest value must keep the said documents safe, uncancelled and undefaced, unless prevented from so doing by fire or other inevitable accident;

(b) The seller is entitled—

Bill III, s. 13 (b).

(1) to the rents and profits of the property till the ownership thereof passes to the buyer;

(2) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer before payment of the whole of the purchase-money, to a charge upon the property in the hands of the buyer for the amount of the purchase-money, or any part thereof remaining unpaid, and for interest on such amount or part.

(c). The buyer is bound—

(1) to disclose to the seller any fact as to the nature or extent of the seller's interest in the property of which the buyer is aware, but of which he has reason to believe that the seller is not aware, and which increases the value of such interest;

(2) to pay or tender, at the time and place of completing the transfer, the purchase-money to the seller or such person as he directs: provided that, where the property is sold free from incumbrances, the buyer may retain out of the purchase-money the amount of the incumbrances on the property existing at the date of the transfer, and shall pay the amount so retained to the persons entitled thereto;

(3) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer,

the destruction, injury or decrease in value of the property not caused by the seller;

Bill III, s. 15. (4) where the ownership of the property has passed to the buyer, as between himself and the seller, to pay all public charges and rent which may become payable in respect of the property, the principal moneys due on the incumbrances subject to which the property is sold, and the interest thereon afterwards accruing due.

(d). The buyer is entitled—

Bill III, s. 12 (c). (1) where the ownership of the property has passed to him, to the benefit of any improvement in, or increase in value of, the property, and to the rents and profits thereof;

Bill III, s. 12 (c). (2) unless he has improperly declined to accept delivery of the property, to a charge on the property as against the seller and all persons claiming under him with notice of the payment, to the extent of the seller's interest on the property, for the amount of any purchase-money properly paid by the buyer in anticipation of the delivery and for interest on such amount; and when he properly declines to accept the delivery, also for the earnest (if any) and for the costs (if any) awarded to him of a suit to compel specific performance of the contract or to obtain a decree for its rescission.

Bill III, s. 13. An omission to make such disclosures as are mentioned in this section, paragraph (a), clause (1), and paragraph (c), clause (1), is fraudulent.

Bill III, s. 19. 56. Where two properties are subject to a common charge, and one of the properties is sold, the buyer is, as against the seller, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to have the charge satisfied out of the other property, so far as such property will extend.

Sale of one of two properties subject to a common charge.

CHAPTER IV.

OF MORTGAGES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY AND CHARGES.

57. (a). A mortgage is the transfer of an interest in specific immoveable property for the purpose of securing the payment of money advanced or to be advanced by way of loan, an existing or future debt, or the performance of an engagement which may give rise to a pecuniary liability.

"Mortgage," "mortgagor" and "mortgagee" defined.

The transferor is called a mortgagor, the transferee a mortgagee; the principal-money and interest of which payment is secured for the time being are called the mortgage-money, the interest transferred is called the mortgaged property, and the instrument (if any) by which the transfer is effected is called a mortgage-deed.

(b). Where, without delivering possession of the mortgaged property, the mortgagor binds himself personally to pay the mortgage-money and agrees, expressly or impliedly, that, in the event of his failing to pay according to his contract, the mortgagee shall have a right to cause the mortgaged property to be sold and the proceeds of sale to be applied, so far as may be necessary, in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called a simple mortgage and the mortgagee a simple mortgagee.

Simple mortgage.

Moo. I. A. 275, 306. Colebs. Dig. B. i, c. III, t, 96.

(c). Where the mortgagor ostensibly sells the mortgaged property—

Mortgage by conditional sale.

on condition that on default of payment of the mortgage-money on a certain date the sale shall become absolute, or on condition that on such payment being made the sale shall become void, or on condition that on such payment being made the buyer shall transfer the property to the seller, the transaction is called a mortgage by conditional sale and the mortgagee a mortgagee by conditional sale.

(d). Where the mortgagor delivers possession of the mortgaged property to the mortgagee and authorises him to retain such possession until payment of the mortgage-money, and to receive the rents and profits accruing from the property and to appropriate them in lieu of interest or in payment of the mortgage-money, the transaction is called an usufructuary mortgage and the mortgagee an usufructuary mortgagee.

Usufructuary mortgage.

(e). Where the mortgagor binds himself to repay the mortgage-money on a certain date, and transfers the mortgaged property absolutely to the mortgagee, but subject to a condition that he will re-transfer it to the mortgagor upon payment of the mortgage-money as agreed, the transaction is called an English mortgage.

Macph. 8 12, 59: R. B. Ghose 218, 219: 2 Moo. I. A. 487.

English mortgage.

58. Where the principal money secured is one hundred rupees or upwards, a mortgage can be effected only by registered assurance signed by the mortgagor and attested by at least two witnesses.

Bill II, s. 26: Bill III, s. 22: See Macph. 59: R. B. Ghose 64.

Mortgage when to be by assurance.

Where the principal money secured is less than one hundred rupees, a mortgage may be effected either by assurance signed and attested as aforesaid or by delivery of the property.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to render invalid mortgages made in the towns of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Karáchí and Rangoon, by delivery to a creditor or his agent of documents of title to immoveable property, with intent to create a security thereon.

Rights and Liabilities of Mortgagor.

59. At any time after the principal money has become payable, the mortgagor, or, where there are more mortgagors than one, any of the mortgagors, has a right, on payment or tender, at a proper time and place, of the mortgage-money, to require the mortgagee (a) to deliver the mortgage-deed, if any, (b) where the mortgagee is in possession of the mortgaged property, to deliver possession thereof to the mortgagor, and (c) at the cost of the mortgagor either to re-transfer the mortgaged property to him or to such person as he may direct, or to execute and (where the mortgage has been effected by registered assurance) to have registered an acknowledgment in writing that any right in derogation of his ownership or other interest transferred to the mortgagee has been extinguished:

6 Bom. A. C. J. 265: N. W. P., 1869, p. 128.

provided that the right conferred by this section has not been extinguished by act of the parties or by order of a Court.

The right conferred by this section is called a right to redeem, and a suit to enforce it is called a suit for redemption.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed to render invalid any provision to the effect that, if the time fixed for payment of the principal money has been allowed to pass or no such time has been fixed, the mortgagee shall be entitled to reasonable notice before payment or tender of such money.

Redemption of portion of mortgaged property.

Nothing in this section shall entitle a person interested in a share only of the mortgaged property to redeem his own share only, on payment of a proportionate part of the amount remaining due on the mortgage, except where a mortgagee, or, if there are more mortgagees than one, all such mortgagees, has or have acquired, in whole or in part, the share of a mortgagee.

Bill II, s. 33: Bill, s. 39: Contra, 6, Bom. A. C. J. 90. But see R. B. G. 330, 331.

Right to redeem one of two properties separately mortgaged.

60. If the owner of two or more properties makes separate mortgages on them by separate assurances, each mortgage may, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be dealt with irrespectively of the other, though the mortgages are made in favour of the same mortgagee.

Illustration.

A, the owner of farms Z and Y, mortgages Z to B for Rs. 1,000. A afterwards mortgages Y to B for Rs. 1,000 making no stipulation as to any additional charge on Z. A may institute a suit for the redemption of the mortgage on Z alone.

Bill III, s. 23, clause (c).

Right of usufructuary mortgagor to recover possession.

61. In the case of a usufructuary mortgage, the mortgagor has a right to recover possession of the property—

(a) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself the mortgage-money from the rents and profits of the property,—when such money is paid;

(b) where the mortgagee is authorized to pay himself from such rents and profits the interest of the principal money,—when the term (if any) prescribed for the payment of the mortgage-money has expired and the mortgagor pays or tenders to the mortgagee the principal money or deposits it in Court as hereinafter provided.

Bill III, s. 25: 10 Bom. 369; 11 Bomb. 32: I. L. R. 5 Calc. 198.

Accession to mortgaged property.

62. Where mortgaged property in possession of the mortgagee has, during the continuance of the mortgage, received any accession, the mortgagor, upon redemption, shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be entitled as against the mortgagee to such accession.

Accession acquired in virtue of transferred ownership.

Where such accession has been acquired at the cost of the mortgagee, and is capable of separate possession or enjoyment without detriment to the principal property, the mortgagor desiring to take the accession must pay to the mortgagee the cost of acquiring it. If such separate possession or enjoyment is not possible, the accession must be delivered with the property, the mortgagor being liable in the case of an acquisition necessary to preserve the property from destruction, forfeiture or sale, or made with his assent, to pay the proper cost thereof, as an addition to the principal money, at the same rate of interest.

In the case last mentioned the profits, if any, arising from the accession shall be credited to the mortgagor.

Where the mortgage is usufructuary and the accession has been acquired at the cost of the mortgagee, the profits, if any, arising from the accession shall, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, be set off against interest, if any, payable on the money so expended.

Renewal of mortgaged lease.

63. Where the mortgaged property is a lease for a term of years, and the mortgagee obtains a renewal of the lease, the mortgagor, upon redemption, shall, in the absence of a contract by him to the contrary, have the benefit of the new lease.

Bill II, s. 34.

Implied contracts by mortgagor.

64. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the mortgagor shall be deemed to contract with the mortgagee,

Bill II, s. 36, N. W. P., 1867, p. 130.

(a) that the interest which the mortgagor assumes to transfer to the mortgagee subsists, and that the mortgagor has power to transfer the same;

S. D. A., 1857, p. 1195; 1858, p. 676.

(b) that the mortgagor will defend, or, if the mortgagee be in possession of the mortgaged property, enable him to defend, the mortgagor's title thereto;

(c) that the mortgagor will, so long as the mortgagee is not in possession of the mortgaged property, pay all public charges accruing due in respect of the property;

(d) and, where the mortgaged property is a lease for a term of years, that the rent payable under the lease, the conditions contained therein, and the contracts binding on the lessee have been paid, performed and observed down to the commencement of the mortgage; and that the mortgagor will, so long as the security exists and the mortgagee is not in possession of the mortgaged property, pay the rent reserved by the lease, or, if the lease be renewed, the renewed lease, perform the conditions contained therein and observe the contracts binding on the lessee, and indemnify the mortgagee against all claims sustained by reason of the non-payment of the said rent or the non-performance or non-observance of the said conditions and contracts;

(e) and, where the mortgage is a second or subsequent incumbrance on the property, that the mortgagor will pay the interest from time to time accruing due on each prior incumbrance as and when it becomes due, and will at the proper time discharge the principal money due on such prior incumbrance.

Nothing in clause (c), or in clause (d), so far as it relates to the payment of future rent, applies in the case of an usufructuary mortgage.

Bill II, s. 31: King v. Smith 2 Hare 243.

65. A mortgagor in possession of the mortgaged property is not liable to the mortgagee for allowing the property to deteriorate; but he must not commit any act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto, if the security is insufficient or will be rendered insufficient by such act.

Explanation.—A security is insufficient within the meaning of this section unless the value of the mortgaged property exceeds by one-third, or, if consisting of buildings, exceeds by one-half, the amount for the time being due on the mortgage.

Rights and Liabilities of Mortgagee.

Bill II, s. 34: 2 Mad. 289 N. W. P., 1870, p. 311: No foreclosure before expiration of period named, 2 Bomb. 242: Mortgagee's right to sale, 7 Bomb. A. C. J. 146: 9 Bomb. 12.

66. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the mortgagee has, at any time after the mortgage-money has become payable to him, and before a decree has been made for the redemption of the mortgaged property, or the mortgage-money has been paid or deposited as hereinafter provided, a right to obtain from the Court an order that the mortgagor shall be absolutely debarred of his right to redeem the property, or an order that the property be sold.

Right to foreclosure or sale.

A suit to obtain an order that a mortgagor shall be absolutely debarred of his right to redeem the mortgaged property is called a suit for foreclosure.

Nothing in this section shall be deemed—

Simple mortgagee, N. W. P., 1868, p. 184: Usufructuary, N. W. P., 1875, p. 90.

(a) to authorize a simple mortgagee as such to institute a suit for foreclosure, or an usufructuary mortgagee as such to institute a suit for foreclosure or sale, or a mortgagee by conditional sale as such to institute a suit for sale; or

Bailey 318, 319: Right to consolidate mortgages.

(b) to authorize a mortgagor who holds the mortgagee's rights as his trustee or legal representative and who may sue for a sale of the property to institute a suit for foreclosure; or

(d) to authorize a person interested in part only of the mortgage-money to institute a suit relating only to a corresponding part of the mortgaged property: unless the mortgagees have, with the consent of the mortgagor, severed their interests under the mortgage.

Cases contra, Macph. 195, 196.

67. The mortgagee has a right to sue the mortgagor for the mortgage-money in the following cases only:—

Bill II, s. 38; Bill III, s. 34.

Right to sue for mortgage-money.

(a) where the mortgagor binds himself to repay the same:

6 W. R. 283.

(b) where the mortgagee is deprived of the whole or part of his security by or in consequence of the wrongful act or default of the mortgagor:

Macph. 233: Act XXVIII of 1871, s. 46: 25 W. R. 7 (partial deprivation).

(c) where the mortgagee being entitled to possession of the property, the mortgagor fails to deliver the same to him, or to secure the possession thereof to him without disturbance by the mortgagor or any other person.

4 Moo. I. A. 464: Marsh, 209: 7 S. D. A. 47: N. W. P., 1860, p. 28: So in the case of a Khoja mortgage, 2 Mad. 315: 6 W. R. 283 (power to usufructuary mortgagee).

Where, by any cause other than the wrongful act or default of the mortgagor or mortgagee, the mortgaged property has been wholly or partially destroyed, or the security is rendered insufficient as defined in section sixty-five, the mortgagee may require the mortgagor to give him within a reasonable time another sufficient security for his debt, and, if the mortgagor fails so to do, may sue him for the mortgage-money.

68. A power conferred by the mortgage-deed on the mortgagee, or on any person on his behalf, to sell or concur in selling the mortgaged property, or any part thereof, is invalid, except where—

Bill II, s. 39; Bill, s. 24: 8 Bom. A. C. J. 142: Muhammadan law, Macph. 2.

Power of sale when invalid.

(a) the principal money originally secured is five hundred rupees or upwards; or

(b) the mortgagee is the Secretary of State for India in Council; or

(c) the mortgaged property or any part thereof is situate within the towns of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay, Karáchí or Rangoon.

Act No. XXVIII of 1866, section 6, is repealed so far as it is inconsistent with this section.

69. If, after the date of the mortgage, any accession is made to the mortgaged property, the mortgagee, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, shall, for the purposes of the security, be entitled to such accession.

73. Any second or other subsequent mortgagee may, at any time after the amount due on the next prior mortgage has become payable, tender such amount to the next prior mortgagee, and such mortgagee is bound to accept such tender and to give a receipt for such amount; and (subject to the provisions of the law for the time being in force regulating the registration of documents) the subsequent mortgagee shall, on obtaining such receipt, acquire, in respect of the property, all the rights and powers of the mortgagee, as such, to whom he has made such tender.

Right of subsequent mortgagee to pay off prior mortgagee.

Bill III, s. 43.

74. Every second or other subsequent mortgagee has, so far as regards redemption, foreclosure and sale of the mortgaged property, the same rights against the prior mortgagee or mortgagees as his mortgagor has against such prior mortgagee or mortgagees, and the same rights against the subsequent mortgagees (if any) as he has against his mortgagor.

Rights of mortgagee as against prior and subsequent mortgagees.

(g) he must keep clear, full and accurate accounts of all sums received and spent by him as mortgagee, and, at any time during the continuance of the mortgage, give the mortgagor, at his request and cost, true copies of such accounts and of the vouchers by which they are supported;

(h) his receipts from the mortgaged property, or, where such property is personally occupied by him, a fair occupation-rent in respect thereof, shall, after deducting the expenses mentioned in clauses (c), (d) and (e), and interest thereon, be debited against him in reduction of the amount (if any) from time to time due to him on account of interest on the mortgage-money and so far as such receipts exceed any interest due, in reduction or discharge of the mortgage-money; the surplus, if any, shall be paid to the mortgagor;

(i) when the mortgagor tenders, or deposits in the manner hereinafter provided, the amount for the time being due on the mortgage, the mortgagee must, notwithstanding the provisions in the other clauses of this section, account for his gross receipts from the mortgaged property from the date of the tender or from the earliest time when he could take such amount out of Court, as the case may be.

Bill II, s. 62.

Loss occasioned by his default.

If the mortgagee fail to perform any of the duties imposed upon him by this section, he may, when accounts are taken in pursuance of a decree made under this chapter, be debited with the loss, if any, occasioned by such failure.

Receipts in lieu of interest.

76. Nothing in section seventy-five, clauses (b), (d), (g) and (h), applies to cases where there is a contract between the mortgagee and the mortgagor that the receipts from the mortgaged property shall, so long as the mortgagee is in possession of the property, be taken in lieu of interest on the principal-money, or of such interest and defined portions of the principal.

Priority.

Postponement of prior mortgagee.

77. Where, through the fraud, misrepresentation or gross neglect of a prior mortgagee, another person has been induced to advance money on the security of the mortgaged property, the prior mortgagee shall be postponed to the subsequent mortgagee.

78. If a mortgage made to secure future advances, the performance of an engagement or the balance of a running account expresses the maximum to be secured thereby, a subsequent mortgage of the same property shall, if made with notice of the prior mortgage, or if the instrument effecting the prior mortgage is registered, be postponed to the prior mortgage in respect of all advances or debits not exceeding the maximum, though made or allowed with notice of the subsequent mortgage.

Marshalling securities.

80. If the owner of two properties mortgages them both to one person and then mortgages one of the properties to another person who has not notice of the former mortgage, the second mortgagee is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, entitled to have the debt of the first mortgagee satisfied out of the property not mortgaged to the second mortgagee so far as such property will extend; but not so as to prejudice the rights of the first mortgagee or of any other person having acquired for valuable consideration an interest in either property.

Macph. 136.

Bill III, s. 48: Fisher 700.

Contribution to mortgage-debt.

81. Where several properties, whether of one or several owners, are mortgaged to secure one debt, each property is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, liable to contribute rateably to the debt secured by the mortgage, after deducting from the value of each property the amount of any other incumbrance to which it is subject at the date of the mortgage.

Where, of two properties belonging to the same owner, one is mortgaged to secure one debt and then both are mortgaged to secure another debt, and the former debt is paid out of the former property, each property is, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, liable to contribute rateably to the latter debt after deducting the amount of the former debt from the value of the property out of which it has been paid.

Nothing in this section applies to a property liable under section eighty to the claim of the second mortgagee.

Right to money deposited by mortgagor.

The Court shall thereupon cause written notice of the deposit to be served on the mortgagee, and the mortgagee may, on presenting a petition (verified in manner prescribed by law for the verification of plaints) stating the amount then due on the mortgage, and his willingness to accept the money so deposited in full discharge of such amount, and on depositing in the same Court the mortgage-deed if then in his possession or power, apply for and receive the money, and the mortgage-deed so deposited shall be delivered to the mortgagor or such other person as aforesaid.

9 N. W. P. 1: Macph. 159, 160: Bill III, s. 32.

Cessation of interest.

83. When the mortgagor or such other person as aforesaid has tendered or deposited in Court under section eighty-two the amount remaining due on the mortgage, interest on the principal-money shall cease from the date of the tender or as soon as the mortgagor or such other person as aforesaid has done all that has to be done by him to enable the mortgagee to take such amount out of court, as the case may be.

Nothing in this section or in section eighty-two shall be deemed to deprive the mortgagee of his right to interest when there exists a contract that he shall be entitled to reasonable notice before payment or tender of the mortgage-money.

Suits for Foreclosure, Sale or Redemption.

Parties to suits for foreclosure, sal and redemption.

84. Subject to the provisions of the Code of Civil Procedure, section 437, all persons having an interest in the property comprised in a mortgage must be joined as parties to any suit under this chapter relating to such mortgage: provided that the plaintiff has notice of such interest.

Foreclosure and Sale.

Bill II, s. 53: III, s. 50: Bill, s. 19

Decree in foreclosure-suit.

85. In a suit for foreclosure, if the plaintiff succeed, the Court shall make a decree, ordering that an account be taken of what will be due to the plaintiff for principal and interest on the mortgage, and for his costs of the suit, if any, awarded to him, on the day next hereinafter referred to, or declaring the amount so due at the date of such decree, and ordering that, upon the defendant paying to the plaintiff or into Court the amount so due, on a day within six months from the date of declaring in Court the amount so due, to be fixed by the Court, the plaintiff shall deliver up to the defendant, or to such person as he appoints, all documents in his possession or power relating to the mortgaged property, and shall transfer the property to the defendant free from all incumbrances created by the plaintiff or any person claiming under him, or, where the plaintiff claims by derived title, by those under whom he claims; and shall, if necessary, put the defendant into possession of the property; but that, if the payment is not made on or before the day to be fixed by the Court, the defendant shall be absolutely debarred of all right to redeem the property.

Bill II, s. 56.

Procedure in case of payment of amount due.

86. If payment is made of such amount and of such subsequent costs as are mentioned in section ninety-three, the defendant shall (if necessary) be put into possession of the mortgaged property.

If such payment is not so made, the plaintiff may apply to the Court for an order that the defendant and all persons claiming through or under him be debarred absolutely of all right to redeem the mortgaged property, and the Court shall then pass such order, and may, if necessary, deliver possession of the property to the plaintiff.

Order absolute for foreclosure.

Provided that the Court may, upon good cause shewn, and upon such terms, if any, as it thinks fit, from time to time postpone the day appointed for such payment.

W. R. 91.

Power to enlarge time.

On the passing of an order under the second paragraph of this section the debt secured by the mortgage shall be deemed to be discharged.

In the Code of Civil Procedure, schedule IV, No. 129, for the words "Final decree," the words "Decree absolute" shall be substituted.

Bill II, sec. 55.

Decree for sale.

87. In a suit for sale, if the plaintiff succeed, the Court shall pass a decree to the effect mentioned in the first and second paragraphs of section eighty-five, and also ordering that, in default of the defendant paying as therein mentioned, the mortgaged property or a sufficient part thereof be sold, and that the proceeds of the sale (after defraying thereout the expenses of the sale) be paid into Court and applied in payment of what is so found due to the plaintiff, and that the balance, if any, be paid to the defendant or other persons entitled to receive the same.

Power to decree sale at instance of mortgagee.

In a suit for foreclosure, if the plaintiff succeed, the Court may at his instance pass a like decree in lieu of a decree for foreclosure.

Bill, s. 21: 15 & 16 Vic. c. 86, s. [illegible]

Power to decree sale in foreclosure-suit at instance of mortgagor.

When the mortgagee sues only for foreclosure, and not for foreclosure or sale, if the Court consider that he will not be damnified by a sale and if the defendant furnishes such security as the Court thinks sufficient for the full and prompt payment of the balance due for the time being by him on the mortgage, the Court may, at the instance of the defendant, pass a like decree.

Bill II, s. 56.

Procedure when defendant pays amount due.

88. If in any case under section eighty-seven the defendant pays to the plaintiff or into court on the day fixed as aforesaid the amount due under the mortgage, the costs, if any, awarded to him and such subsequent costs as are mentioned in section ninety-three, the defendant shall (if necessary) be put in possession of the mortgaged property; but if such payment is not so made, the plaintiff or the defendant, as the case may be, may apply to the Court for an order absolute for sale of the mortgaged property, and the Court shall then pass an order that such property, or a sufficient part thereof, be sold, and that the proceeds of the sale be dealt with as is mentioned in section eighty-seven; and thereupon the defendant's right to redeem and the security shall both be extinguished.

Order absolute for sale.

Bill III, s. 54; Bill, s. 28; Stat. IV, 307.

89. When the nett proceeds of any such sale are insufficient to pay the amount due for the time being on the mortgage, the balance, if legally recoverable from the defendant otherwise than out of the property sold, may be recovered either (if the Court thinks fit) in the same suit in the same manner as under a decree for money, or by any other legal process open to the mortgagee.

Recovery of balance due on mortgage.

Redemption.

Bill II, s. 58; Bill III, s. 55.

90. Besides the mortgagor, any of the following persons may redeem, or institute a suit for redemption of, the mortgaged property:—

Who may sue for redemption.

(a) any person (other than the mortgagee of the interest sought to be redeemed) having any interest in or charge upon the property;

(b) any person having any interest in, or charge upon, the right to redeem the property;

(c) any surety for the payment of the mortgage-debt or any part thereof;

(d) the guardian of the property of a minor mortgagor on behalf of such minor;

(e) the committee or other legal curator of a lunatic or idiot mortgagor on behalf of such lunatic or idiot;

(f) the judgment-creditor of the mortgagor, when he has obtained execution;

(g) a creditor of the mortgagor who has, in a suit for the administration of his estate, obtained a decree for sale of the mortgaged property.

91. In a suit for redemption, if the plaintiff succeed, the Court shall pass a decree—

Decree in redemption-suit.

ordering that an account be taken of what will be due to the defendant for the mortgage-money and for his costs of the suit, if any, awarded to him, on the day next hereinafter referred to, or declaring the amount so due at the date of such decree; and ordering that, upon the plaintiff paying to the defendant or into Court the amount so due on a day within six months from the date of declaring in Court the amount so due, to be fixed by the Court, the defendant shall deliver up to the plaintiff or to such person as he appoints, all documents in his possession or power relating to the mortgaged property, and shall re-transfer it to the plaintiff free from the mortgage and from all incumbrances created by the defendant or any person claiming under him, or, when the defendant claims by derived title, by those under whom he claims, and shall, if necessary, put the plaintiff into possession of the mortgaged property;

that if such payment is not made on or before the day to be fixed by the Court, the plaintiff shall (unless the mortgage be simple or usufructuary) be absolutely debarred of all right to redeem the property, or (unless the mortgage be by conditional sale) that the property be sold.

92. If payment is made of such amount and of such subsequent costs as are mentioned in section ninety-three, the plaintiff shall, if necessary, be put into possession of the mortgaged property.

Bill

In case of redemption, possession.

If such payment is not so made, the defendant may (unless the mortgage is simple or usufructuary) apply to the Court for an order that the plaintiff and all persons claiming through or under him be debarred absolutely of all right to redeem, or (unless the mortgage is by conditional sale) for an order that the mortgaged property be sold.

In default, foreclosure or sale.

If he apply for the former order, the Court shall pass an order that the plaintiff and all persons claiming through or under him be absolutely debarred of all right to redeem the mortgaged property, and may, if necessary, deliver possession of the property to the defendant.

If he apply for the latter order, the Court shall pass an order that such property or a sufficient part thereof be sold, and that the proceeds of the sale (after defraying thereout the expenses of sale) be dealt with as is mentioned in section eighty-seven, and that the balance be paid to the plaintiff or other persons entitled to receive the same.

On the passing of any order under this section the plaintiff's right to redeem and the security shall, as regards the property affected by the order, both be extinguished:

Provided that the Court may, upon good cause shown, and upon such terms, if any, as it thinks fit, from time to time postpone the day fixed under section ninety-one for payment of the amount due.

Power to enlarge time.

93. In finally adjusting the amount to be paid to a mortgagee in case of a redemption or a sale by the Court under this chapter, the Court shall, unless the conduct of the mortgagee has been such as to disentitle him to costs, add to the mortgage-money such costs of suit as have been properly incurred by him since the decree for foreclosure, redemption or sale up to the time of actual payment.

Costs of mortgagee subsequent to decree.

94. Where one of several mortgagors redeems the mortgaged property and obtains possession thereof, he has a charge on the share of each of the other co-mortgagors in the property for his proportion of the costs properly incurred in so redeeming and obtaining possession.

Charge of one of several co-mortgagors who redeems.

Sale of Property subject to prior Mortgage.

95. If any property the sale of which is directed under this chapter is subject to a prior mortgage, the Court may, with the consent of the prior mortgagee, order that the property be sold free from the same, giving to such prior mortgagee the same interest in the proceeds of the sale as he had in the property sold.

Sale of property subject to prior mortgage.

Application of proceeds.

96. Such proceeds shall be brought into Court and applied as follows:—

first, in payment of all expenses incident to the sale or properly incurred in any attempted sale;

secondly, if the property has been sold free from any prior mortgage, in payment of whatever is due on account of such mortgage;

thirdly, in payment of all interest due on account of the mortgage in consequence whereof the sale was directed, and of the costs of the suit in which the decree directing the sale was made;

fourthly, in payment of the principal money due on account of that mortgage; and fifthly, the residue (if any) shall be paid to the person proving himself to be interested in the property sold, or if there be more such persons than one, then to such persons according to their respective interests therein or upon their joint receipt.

Anomalous Mortgages.

97. In the case of a mortgage not being a simple mortgage, a mortgage by conditional sale, an usufructuary mortgage, or an English mortgage, or a combination of the first and third, or the second and third, of such forms, the rights and liabilities of the parties shall be determined by their contract as evidenced in the mortgage-deed, and, so far as such contract does not extend, by local usage.

Mortgage not described in section 56, clauses (b), (c), (d) and (e).

Attachment of Mortgaged property.

98. Where a mortgagee in execution of a decree for the satisfaction of any claim, whether arising under the mortgage or not, attaches the mortgaged property, he shall not be entitled to bring such property to sale otherwise than by instituting a suit under section sixty-six.

Attachment of mortgaged property.

Charges.

99. Where immoveable property of one person is by act of parties or operation of law made security for the payment of money to another, and the transaction does not amount to a mortgage, the latter person is said to have a charge on the property; and all the provisions hereinbefore applicable to a mortgagee shall, so far as may be, apply to the owner of such property, and the provisions of sections eighty and eighty-one and all the provisions hereinafter applied to a mortgagee instituting a suit for the sale of the mortgaged property shall, so far as may be, apply to the person having such charge.

Charges.

Nothing in this section applies to the charge of a trustee on the trust-property for expenses properly incurred in the execution of his trust.

100. Where the owner of a charge or other incumbrance on immoveable property is or becomes absolutely entitled to that property, the charge or incumbrance shall be extinguished, unless he declares, by express words or necessary implication, that it shall continue to subsist, or such continuance would be for his benefit.

Extinguishment of charges.

Notice and Tender.

101. Where the person on or to whom any notice or tender is to be served or made under this chapter does not reside in the district in which the mortgaged property or some part thereof is situate, service or tender on or to an agent holding a general power-of-attorney from such person or otherwise duly authorized to accept such service or tender shall be deemed sufficient.

Service or tender on or to agent.

Where the person or agent on whom such notice should be served cannot be found in the said district, or is unknown to the person required to serve the notice, the latter person may apply to any Court in which a suit might be brought for redemption of the mortgaged property, and such Court shall direct in what manner such notice shall be served, and any notice served in compliance with such direction shall be deemed sufficient.

Where the person or agent to whom such tender should be made cannot be found within the said district, or is unknown to the person desiring to make the tender, the latter person may deposit in such Court and such amount the amounts ought to be tendered, and such deposit shall have the effect of a tender of such amount.

102. Where under the provisions of this chapter a notice is to be served on or by, or tender or deposit made or accepted or taken out of Court by, any person, incompetent to contract, such notice may be served or tender or deposit made accepted or taken by the legal curator of the property of such person; but where there is no such curator, and it is requisite or desirable in the interests of such person that a notice should be served or tender or deposit made under the provisions of this chapter, application may be made to any Court in which a suit might be brought for the redemption of the mortgage to appoint a guardian ad litem for the purpose of serving or receiving service of such notice, or making or accepting such tender, or making or taking out of Court such deposit, and for the performance of all consequential acts which could or ought to be done by such person if he were competent to contract; and the provisions of chapter XXXI of the Code of Civil Procedure shall, so far as may be, apply to such application and to the parties thereto and to the guardian appointed thereunder.

Notice, &c., to or by person incompetent to contract.

103. The High Court may, from time to time, make rules consistent with this Act for carrying out the provisions contained in this chapter.

Power to make rules.

CHAPTER V.

OF LEASES OF IMMOVEABLE PROPERTY.

104. A lease of immoveable property is a transfer of a right to enjoy such property made for a certain time express or implied, or in perpetuity, in consideration of a price paid or promised, or of money, a share of crops, service or any other thing of value, to be rendered periodically or on specified occasions to the transferor by the transferee, who accepts the transfer on such terms.

Lease defined.

The transferor is called the lessor, the transferee is called the lessee, the price is called the premium, and the money, share, service or other thing to be so rendered is called the rent.

Lessor, lessee, premium and rent defined.

Bill II, s. 74: III, 68: Bill, s. 46: Report, s. 40; 8 Bomb. A. C. J. 179; 6 ibid. 31; 7 ibid. 111. and see 1 Beng. F. B. 25. 13 W. R. 190: I. L. R. 2 Calc. 166: 4 Bengal Appendix 86; 13 Beng. 363: N.W.P., 1873, p. 9., Perry 480.

105. In the absence of a contract or local law or usage to the contrary, a lease of immoveable property for agricultural or manufacturing purposes shall be deemed to be a lease from year to year, terminable, on the part of either lessor or lessee, by six months' notice expiring with the end of a year of the tenancy; and a lease of immoveable property for any other purpose shall be deemed to be a lease from month to month, terminable, on the part of either lessor or lessee, by fifteen days' notice expiring with the end of a month of the tenancy.

Duration of certain leases in absence of written contract or local usage.

Every notice under this section must be in writing signed by or on behalf of the party giving it and tendered or delivered to the party who is intended to be bound by it, or affixed to a conspicuous part of the property.

Notice to determine lease.

106. A lease of immoveable property from year to year, or for any term exceeding one year, or reserving a yearly rent, can be made only by a registered assurance.

Leases how made.

Bill II, s. 71: Bill III, s. 65. All other leases of immoveable property may be made either by assurance or by oral agreement.

107. In the absence of a contract or local usage to the contrary, the lessor and the lessee of immoveable property, as against one another, respectively, possess the rights and are subject to the liabilities mentioned in the rules next following, or such of them as are applicable to the property leased:—

Rights and liabilities of lessor and lessee.

A.—Rights and liabilities of the Lessor.

Bill III, s. 66 4 W. R. 314. (a) the lessor is bound to disclose to the lessee any defect in the property, with reference to its intended use, of which the former is and the latter is not aware, and which the latter could not with ordinary care discover:

6 Beng. Appendix 44: 20 (3); 15 W. R. 280; 23 W. R. 121. (b) the lessor is bound on the lessee's request to put him in possession of the property leased:

(c) the lessor shall be deemed to contract with the lessee that, if the latter pays the rent reserved by the lease and performs the contracts binding on the lessee, he may hold the property leased during the time limited by the lease without interruption:

39 (2) altered: cf. IX of 1872, s. 93: 11 W. R. 278: 12 W. R. 149: (d) where an arrear of rent is due from any lessee, the lessor may, instead of suing for the arrear, recover the same by distress and sale of the goods found in or upon the property in respect of which the arrear is due or of the produce of such property, but subject to the local law, if any, for the time being in force relating to distresses.

B.—Rights and liabilities of the Lessee.

8 Beng. 7 5 Calc. L. R. 33. (e) if during the continuance of the lease any accession is made to the property leased, such accession (subject to the law relating to alluvion for the time being in force) shall be deemed to be comprised in the lease:

(f) if by fire, tempest or flood, or violence of an army or of a mob, or other irresistible force, any material part of the property leased be wholly destroyed or rendered substantially and permanently unfit for the purposes for which it was let, the lease shall, at the option of the lessee, be void:

provided that, if the injury be occasioned by the wrongful act or default of the lessee, he shall not be entitled to avail himself of the benefit of this provision:

(g) if the lessor neglects to make, within a reasonable time after notice, repairs which he is bound to make to the property leased, the lessee may make the same himself, and deduct the expense of such repairs with interest from the rent, or otherwise recover it from the lessor:

(h) if the lessor neglects to make any payment which he is bound to make, and which, if not made by him, is recoverable from the lessee or against the property leased, the lessee may make such payment himself, and deduct it with interest from the rent, or otherwise recover it from the lessor:

Re Thakoor Chunder Paramanick, Beng. F. B. Rulings 295: 8 Beng. 327: 14 Beng. 205: cf. Act XIX of 1868, s. 42: Act XVIII of 1873, s. 42. (i) the lessee may remove, at any time during the continuance of the lease, all things which he has attached to the earth; provided he leaves the property leased in the state in which he received it:

(j) when a lease of uncertain duration determines by any means except the fault of the lessee, he or his legal representative is entitled to all the crops planted or sown by the lessee and growing upon the property leased for the season current when the lease determines, and to free ingress and egress to gather and carry them:

5 S. D. A. 205: 5 M. 120, 277. 7 Beng. 152: N. W. P., 1875, p. 181: 12 W. R. 451: 16 W. R. 112: 6 S. D. A. 67: 15 W. R. 449. (k) the lessee may transfer absolutely or by way of mortgage or sub-lease the whole or any part of his interest in the property leased, and any transferee of such interest or part may again transfer it. The lessee shall not, by reason only of such transfer, cease to be subject to any of the liabilities attaching to the lease:

8 Beng. 289: 12 Beng. 82. nothing in this clause shall be deemed to authorize a tenant having an untransferable right of occupancy, the farmer of an estate in respect of which default has been made in paying revenue or the lessee of an estate under the management of a Court of Wards, to assign his interest as such tenant, farmer or lessee:

(l) the lessee is bound to disclose to the lessor any fact as to the nature or extent of the interest which the lessee is about to take, of which the lessee is, and the lessor is not, aware, and which increases the value of such interest:

See 23 W. R. 34. (m) the lessee is bound to pay or tender, at the proper time and place, the premium or rent to the lessor or his agent in this behalf:

(n) the lessee is bound to keep, and on the termination of the lease to restore, the property leased in as good condition as it was in at the time when he was put in possession, subject only to the changes caused by reasonable wear and tear or irresistible force, and to allow the lessor and his agents, at all reasonable times during the term, to enter into the property leased and inspect the condition thereof and give or leave notice of any defect in such condition, and, when such defect has been caused by any act or default on the part of the lessee, his servants or agents, he is bound to make it good within three months after such notice has been given or left:

(o) if the lessee becomes aware of any proceeding to recover the property leased or any part thereof, or of any encroachment made upon, or any interference with, the lessor's rights concerning such property, he is bound to give, with reasonable diligence, notice thereof to the lessor:

6 Beng. 401, 416: 8 Beng. Appendix 70: 10 Beng. App. 41. and v. 5 S. D. A. 205: 15 W. R. 360: 17 W. R. 416: 25 W. R. 206: W. R. Sp. (Act X) 106: 6 Mad. Div. 438: 9 Beng. 249: 14 & 15 Vic. c. 99, s. 3. (p) the lessee may use the property leased and its products (if any) as a person of ordinary prudence would use them if they were his own; but he must not use, or permit another to use, the property for a purpose other than that for which it was leased, or fell timber, pull down or damage buildings, work mines or quarries not open when the lease was granted, or commit any other act which is destructive or permanently injurious thereto:

(q) he must not, without the lessor's consent, erect on the property leased any permanent structure, except for agricultural purposes:

(r) on the determination of the lease, the lessee is bound to put the lessor into possession of the property leased.

108. If the lessor transfers the property leased, or any part thereof, or any part of his interest therein, the transferee, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, shall possess all the rights and, if the lessee so elects, be subject to all the liabilities, of the lessor as to the property or part transferred so long as he is the owner of it; but the lessor shall not by reason only of such transfer cease to be subject to any of the liabilities imposed upon him by the lease, unless the lessee elects to treat the transferee as the person liable to him:

14 W. R. 33. 24 W. R. 66.

Rights of lessor's transferee.

Provided that the transferee is not entitled to arrears of rent due before the transfer, and that, if the lessee pay rent to the lessor without having reason to believe that such transfer has been made, the lessee shall not be liable to pay such rent over again to the transferee.

Act XI of 1855, s. 1; 4 Anne, c. 16, s. 10.

Where only a part of the property leased is transferred by the lessor, he may (subject to the provisions of section thirty-eight) determine what proportion of the premium or rent reserved by the lease is payable in respect of the part so transferred.

Bill II, s. 72.

109. Where the time limited by a lease of immoveable property is expressed as commencing from a particular day, in computing that time such day shall be excluded. Where no day of commencement is named, the time so limited begins from the making of the lease.

Bill II, s. 75: Bill, s. 43.

Exclusion of day on which term commences.

Where the time so limited is a year or a number of years, in the absence of an express agreement to the contrary, the lease shall last during the whole anniversary of the day from which such time commences.

Duration of lease for a year.

Where the time so limited is expressed to be terminable before its expiration, and the lease omits to mention at whose option it is so terminable, the lessee, and not the lessor, shall have such option.

Option to determine lease.

110. A lease of immoveable property determines—

Bill II, s. 76 7 W. R. 383.

Determination of lease.

(a) by efflux of the time limited thereby:

(b) where such time is limited conditionally on the happening of some event—by the happening of such event:

3 Moo. I. A. 261: 16 W. R. 147

(c) where the interest of the lessor in the property leased terminates on, or his power to dispose of the same extends only to, the happening of any event—by the happening of such event:

Lease by Hindú widow, Marshall 166.

(d) in case the interests of the lessee and the lessor in the whole of the property leased become vested at the same time in one person in the same right:

the lessee yields up his interest under the lease to the lessor, by mutual agreement between them:

(f) by implied surrender:

Marshall 250; 16 W.R. 103; 25 W. R. 227.

18 W. R. 466. But see 22 W. R. 448. 25 W. R. 147.

(h) on the expiration of a notice to determine the lease, or to quit, or of intention to quit, the property leased, duly given by one party to the other.

Illustration to clause (f).

A, the lessee, accepts from the lessor a new lease of the property leased, to take effect during the continuance of the existing lease. This is an implied surrender of the former lease, and such lease determines thereupon.

Bill II, s. 77, cl. 1: W. R. F. B. 10: Marshall 25.

111. A forfeiture under section one hundred and ten, clause (g), is waived by acceptance of rent which has become due since the forfeiture, or by distress for such rent, or by any other act on the part of the lessor showing an intention to treat the lease as subsisting:

Waiver of forfeiture.

Provided that the lessor is aware that the forfeiture has been incurred:

2 Ben. 72.

Provided also that, where rent is accepted after the institution of a suit to eject the lessee on the ground of forfeiture, such acceptance is not a waiver.

112. A notice given under section one hundred and ten, clause (h), is waived, with the express or implied consent of the person to whom it is given, by any act on the part of the person giving it showing an intention to treat the lease as subsisting.

Waiver of notice to quit.

Illustrations.

(a). A, the lessor, gives B, the lessee, notice to quit the property leased. The notice expires. B tenders, and A accepts, rent which has become due in respect of the property since the expiration of the notice. The notice is waived.

(b). A, the lessor, gives B the lessee, notice to quit the property leased. The notice expires, and B remains in possession. A gives to B as lessee a second notice to quit. The first notice is waived.

113. Where a lease of immoveable property has determined by forfeiture for non-payment of rent, and the lessor sues to eject the lessee, if, at the hearing of the suit, the lessee pays or tenders to the lessor the rent in arrear, together with interest thereon and his full costs of the suit, or gives such security as the Court thinks sufficient for making such payment within fifteen days, the Court may, in lieu of making a decree for ejectment, pass an order relieving the lessee against the forfeiture; and thereupon the lessee shall hold the property leased as if the forfeiture had not occurred.

10 W. R. 384; 13 W. R. 281; N. W. P., 1871, p. 68.

114. The surrender, express or implied, of a lease of immoveable property does not prejudice an under-lease of the property or any part thereof previously granted by the lessee, on terms and conditions substantially the same (except as regards the amount of rent) as those of the original lease; but, unless the surrender is made for the purpose of obtaining a new lease, the rent payable by and the contracts binding on the under-lessee shall be respectively payable to and enforceable by the lessor.

Effect of surrender and forfeiture on under-leases.

The forfeiture of such a lease annuls all such under-leases, except where such forfeiture has been procured by the lessor in fraud of the under-lessees.

Bill II, s. 78; Bill, s. 47; Report, s. 41; 3 Bom. A. C. J. 27; 2 Beng. 263; N. W. P., 1870, p. 204; 7 W. R. 153; 16 W. R. 188; 22 W. R. 394; 548; 23 W. R. 271; 25 W. R. 234.

115. If a lessee or under-lessee of property remains in possession thereof after the determination of the lease, and the lessor or his legal representative accepts rent from the lessee or under-lessee, or otherwise assents to his continuing in possession, the lease is, in the absence of an agreement to the contrary, renewed from year to year, or from month to month, according to the purpose for which the property is leased, as specified in section one hundred and seven.

Effect of holding over.

Illustrations.

(a). A lets a house to B for five years. B underlets the house to C at a monthly rent of Rs. 100. The five years expire, but C continues in possession of the house and pays the rent to A. C's lease is renewed from month to month.

(b). A lets a farm to B for the life of C. C dies, but B continues in possession with A's assent. B's lease is renewed from year to year.

116. None of the provisions of this chapter apply to leases for agricultural purposes, except in so far as the local Government, with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council, may by notification published in the official Gazette declare all or any of such provisions to be so applicable, together with, or subject to, those of the local law, if any, for the time being in force.

Exemption of leases for agricultural purposes.

Such notification shall not take effect until the expiry of six months from the date of its publication.

CHAPTER VI.

OF EXCHANGES.

Bill II, s. 91; Bill, s. 43; 1 Mad. 180.

117. When two persons mutually transfer the ownership of one thing for the ownership of another, neither thing or both things being money only, the transaction is called an "exchange."

"Exchange" defined.

A transfer of property in completion of an exchange can be made only in manner provided for the transfer of such property by sale.

Bill II, s. 22, cl. 2:

118. In the absence of a contract to the contrary, the party deprived of the thing or part thereof he has received in exchange by reason of any defect in the title of the other party is entitled at his option to compensation or to the return of the thing transferred by him.

Right of party evicted from thing received in exchange.

Bill II, s. 23: Bill, s. 48, para. 2.

119. Save as otherwise provided in this chapter, each party has the rights and is subject to the liabilities of a seller as to that which he gives, and has the rights and is subject to the liabilities of a buyer as to that which he takes.

Rights and liabilities of parties.

Bill II, s. 24: Bill, s. 48, para. 3: 1 Mozl. 105.

120. On an exchange of money, each party thereby warrants the genuineness of the money given by him.

Exchange of money.

CHAPTER VII.

OF GIFTS.

121. "Gift" is the transfer of certain existing moveable or immoveable property made voluntarily and without consideration, by one person, called the donor, to another, called the donee, and accepted by or on behalf of the donee.

"Gift" defined.

Such acceptance must be made during the lifetime of the donor and while he is still capable of giving.

Acceptance when to be made.

L. C. 1581.

If the donee dies before acceptance, the gift is void.

Act III of 1879, s. 17, cl. (a).

122. For the purpose of making a gift of immoveable property, the transfer must be effected by registered assurance signed by or on behalf of the donor, and attested by at least two witnesses.

Transfer how effected.

For the purpose of making a gift of moveable property, the transfer may be effected either by a non-testamentary instrument [registered and] signed as aforesaid or by delivery.

Act IX of 1872, s. 90.

Such delivery may be made in the same way as goods sold may be delivered.

123. A gift comprising both existing and future property is void as to the latter.

Gift of existing and future property.

Bargo II, 144.

124. A gift of a divisible thing to two or more donees, of whom one does not accept it, is void as to the interest which he would have taken had he accepted.

Gift to several, of whom one does not accept.

125. The donor and donee may agree that on the happening of any specified event which does not depend on the will of the donor a gift shall be suspended or revoked; but a gift which the parties agree shall be revocable wholly or in part at the mere will of the donor is void wholly or in part, as the case may be.

When gift may be suspended or revoked.

A gift may also be revoked in any of the cases (save want or failure of consideration) in which, if it were a contract, it might be rescinded.

Save as aforesaid, a gift cannot be revoked. 1 L. R., 2 All. 432.

Nothing contained in this section shall be deemed to affect the rights of transferees for consideration without notice.

Illustrations.

(a). A gives a field to B, reserving to himself, with B's assent, the right to take back the field in case B and his descendants die before A. B dies without descendants in A's lifetime. A may take back the field.

(b). A gives a lákh of rupees to B, reserving to himself, with B's assent, the right to take back at pleasure Rs. 10,000 out of the lákh. The gift holds good as to Rs. 90,000, but is void as to Rs. 10,000, which continue to belong to A.

Act X of 1865, s. 109.

126. Where a gift is in the form of a single transfer to the same person of several things of which one is, and the others are not, burdened by an obligation, the donee can take nothing by the gift unless he accepts it fully.

Onerous gifts.

Act X of 1865, s. 110.

Where a gift is in the form of two or more separate and independent transfers to the same person of several things, the donee is at liberty to accept one of them and refuse the others, although the former may be beneficial and the latter onerous.

A donee not competent to contract and accepting property burdened by any obligation is not bound by his acceptance. But if, after becoming competent to contract and being aware of the obligation, he retains the property given, he becomes so bound.

Onerous gift to disqualified person.

Illustrations.

(a). A has shares in X, a prosperous joint stock company, and also shares in Y, a joint stock company in difficulties. Heavy calls are expected in respect of the shares in Y. A gives B all his shares in joint stock companies. B refuses to accept the shares in Y. He cannot take the shares in X.

(b). A, having a lease for a term of years of a house at a rent which he and his representatives are bound to pay during the term, and which is more than the house can be let for, gives to B the lease, and also, as a separate and independent transaction, a sum of money. B refuses to accept the lease. He does not by this refusal forfeit the money.

127. Subject to the provisions of section one hundred and twenty-six, where a gift consists of the donor's whole property, the donee is personally liable for all the debts due by the donor at the time of the gift to the extent of the property comprised therein.

Universal donee.

128. Nothing in this chapter relates to gifts of moveable property made in contemplation of death, or shall be deemed to affect any rule of Muhammadan law.

Saving of donations mortis causâ and Muhammadan law.

CHAPTER VIII.

OF TRANSFERS OF ACTIONABLE CLAIMS.

129. A claim is actionable when the civil Courts recognise it as a ground for relief, whether a suit for its enforcement is or is not actually pending or likely to become necessary.

Actionable claim.

Bill II, s. 136: Bill, s. 99: Report, s. 99: 36 & 37 Vic., c. 66, s. 25(b): 1 Mad. 150: See 5 W. R. 280: But see 10 N. W. P. 474, cited Macph. 122.

130. No transfer of any debt or any beneficial interest in moveable property shall have any operation against the debtor or against the person in whom the property is vested, until express notice of the transfer is given to him, unless he is a party to such transfer; and every dealing by such debtor or person, not being a party to, and not having received express notice of, a transfer, with the debt or property shall be valid as against such transfer.

Transfer of debts.

Illustrations.

(a). A owes money to B, who transfers the debt to C. B then demands the debt from A, who, having no notice of the transfer, pays B. The payment is valid, and C cannot sue A for the debt.

132. On receiving such notice, the debtor or person in whom the property is vested shall give effect to the transfer unless where the debtor resides, or the property is situate, in a foreign country and the title of the person in whose favour the transfer is made is not complete according to the law of such country.

Debtor to give effect to transfer.

133. Where the transferor of a debt warrants the solvency of the debtor, the warranty, in the absence of a contract to the contrary, applies only to his solvency at the time of the transfer, and is limited, where the transfer is made for consideration, to the amount or value of such consideration.

Warranty of solvency of debtor.

134. Where an actionable claim is sold, he against whom it is claimed is wholly discharged by paying to the buyer the price and incidental expenses of the sale, with interest on the price from the day that the buyer paid it.

Discharge of person against whom claim is sold.

Nothing in the former part of this section applies—

(a) where the sale is made to the co-heir or co-proprietor of the claim sold;

(b) where it is made to a creditor in payment of what is due to him;

(c) where it is made to the possessor of a property subject to the actionable claim;

(d) where the judgment of a competent Court has been delivered affirming the claim, or where the claim has been made clear by evidence and is ready for judgment.

135. No judge, pleader, clerk, bailiff or other officer connected with Courts of justice can buy any actionable claim falling under the jurisdiction of the Court in which he exercises his functions.

Incapacity of officers connected with Courts of justice.

136. The person to whom a debt or charge is transferred shall take it subject to all the liabilities to which the transferor was subject in respect thereof at the date of the transfer.

Note by D. Fitzpatrick, Esq., Secretary to the Government of India, Legislative Department, dated 22nd January, 1881, and enclosures [Papers No. 40].

2. We have carefully considered the alternative drafts proposed by Sir C. Turner and Mr. Justice West, but we cannot recommend either of them for adoption. Sir C. Turner's has the advantage of simplifying the measure in certain respects, but this advantage is gained by leaving it to the Courts to decide questions of great importance and difficulty at their mere discretion and without any rules to guide them.

3. We think that the Bill submitted to the Law Commission will answer its purposes, subject only to two alterations in substance, namely, the substitution of one simple rule for the several rules originally proposed for determining the manner in which newly formed land, to which it is admitted the riparian owners are entitled, should be distributed among them, and a modification of the definition of frontage.

4. As regards the former, it seems to us that the rules laid down by the Bill as last settled for deciding disputes between competing riparian owners and dividing the new land between them would be likely to give rise to difficulties in practice.

These rules are different for rivers on the one hand, and the sea and lakes on the other; and again, for islands, for land formed on the bank and for abandoned river-beds. These distinctions not only make the law more complicated, but, further, may give rise to questions for the solution of which that Bill does not altogether provide. Again, in some instances (sections 4 and 6), they merely postpone the evil day by leaving important difficulties to be disposed of by rules to be made hereafter by the Local Governments. Further, they greatly complicate the question by making its solution depend on the "thread of the stream," a line or combination of lines which it would often be hard to determine, and which might, when determined, turn out to be of a very irregular shape; and, as regards the particular matter of the normals to be drawn under sections 7 and 9, it appears that cases would sometimes present themselves in practice in which no such normals could be drawn.

5. To avoid these difficulties we propose to substitute for the original provisions of the Bill on this point, two rules which will cover all cases in which two or more riparian owners may be conceived to have claims to a new formation. The first of these rules is intended to apply to all cases in which new land is formed on a bank by imperceptible increments; the second to all other formations to which riparian owners may have a claim.

6. The former class of cases appears to us to be simple enough. We conceive that, when land is formed by imperceptible degrees on a portion of the bank belonging to a single proprietor, he should take that land in whatever direction and to whatever extent it may grow. It is only when the formation, or any portion of it, springs from a nucleus at the point of junction of two frontages that any question can arise, and we have (section 4) provided that in this case the dividing line shall be the bisector of the angle between the two frontages.

7. The cases to be dealt with by the second rule, on the contrary, may present every variety of complication, but we think they may be provided for by a rule which is capable of being simply expressed, which would generally be easy to apply, and about the application of which there would never be any serious difficulty, and which, moreover, would make as fair a division of the new land as can be hoped for in a class of cases for which, in the absence of anything in the way of a definite principle to guide us, we must be content with a somewhat rough-and-ready rule.

The rule we propose (section 6) is that each particle of the new formation shall belong to that one of the riparian owners who can show a point in his frontage nearest to it; provided that, when the line dividing the portion of the land to which one owner is entitled from the portion to which another is entitled is an arc of a curve, the chord of such arc shall be substituted for the arc. The dividing line given by this rule will be different according to the relative positions of the two competing frontages, but it will be one which it will be always easy to draw.

In ordinary cases it will be the bisector of the angle between the frontages, or, in the case of holdings on opposite sides of a river with parallel frontages, a line parallel to the frontages and equidistant from both; in others it will be the perpendicular erected at the middle point of the line connecting the extremities of the frontages; and in others, again, it will be the chord of a parabola. As this last line might at first sight be supposed to present some difficulty, we think it well to explain that the chord can be drawn without describing the parabola, and by a person altogether ignorant of the nature and properties of that curve. It is, in fact, simply the right line connecting two points which could be fixed by any patwárí or amín without the slightest difficulty. We may add, as regards the substitution of the chord for the arc in this case, that it not only simplifies the problem, but also makes what we believe, would, by most persons be considered a fairer division of the land.

8. Coming now to the definition of "frontage," it has been pointed out to us by Mr. Elliot that the original definition would, under the Bill as last settled, sometimes lead to anomalous results, as, for example, when a riparian holding extended completely round the concave face of a sharp curve in a river, in which case the frontage might approach within a few yards of the opposite bank or even cut off a considerable portion of it. These anomalies would be increased rather than diminished under the new rule for the division of the land now adopted, and we have accordingly been compelled to seek for a new definition.

The object of introducing the "frontage" is to substitute right lines for the irregularly shaped bank of the river, and thus to simplify the application of our rules: the defect of the original definition is that, in requiring a single right line to be substituted for the entire riparian boundary of each holding, the artificial riparian boundaries thus obtained in some cases deviate too widely from the real boundaries; and the remedy appears to be to declare that in such cases, instead of the single line, a series of two, or, if necessary, more, lines following more closely the real line of the bank shall be adopted. For this we have attempted to provide in the directions given in schedule II for drawing a frontage.

9. We have struck out the definition of "owner," as we think that the Courts may be trusted to determine who in a given case is the riparian proprietor, and we have also omitted the definitions of "thread of the stream," as the expression does not occur in the body of the Bill as now settled.

10. We think that the Bill should save local customs not only in the Panjáb but in all other territories to which it is to apply. We have accordingly excluded the section effecting this saving to the whole of British India; but we have omitted the proviso annexed to it in the Bill, as settled by the Select Committee in March, 1879, as the matter to which it relates is one falling outside the scope of the present Bill.

11. The Bill, No. II, together with the Preliminary Report of the Select Committee, has been published in English in Bombay, the North-Western Provinces, the Panjáb, the Central Provinces and British Burma, and in vernacular in Bombay, the Panjáb and the Central Provinces. We do not propose that any further step should be taken in respect to the Bill until it has been published in the Gazette and circulated to Local Governments with a view to obtaining opinions on it in its new form. It must also, by order of the Secretary of State, be re-translated into the Native languages and sent home to him for consideration. In fact, having regard to the complication and difficulty of the subject, we should prefer to have our present proposals treated as suggestions thrown out for discussion rather than as furnishing a final solution of the questions at issue.

No. III.

A Bill to define and amend the law relating to alluvion, islands and abandoned river-beds.

WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend the law relating to alluvion, islands and abandoned river-beds; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

I.—Preliminary.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Indian Alluvion Act, 1882:"

Local extent. It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement. and it shall come into force on the first day of March, 1882.

Repeal of enactments. 2. The Acts, Regulation and Rules mentioned in the first schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent specified in the third column. References to the Regulation and Rules so repealed, in enactments passed subsequently thereto, shall be read as if made to this Act.

Interpretation-clause. 3. In this Act—

W. R. 231: 4 W. R. 41: 4 W. R. 352. "island" means land surrounded by water and capable of being employed for cultivation, pasture or other useful purpose. It includes such land arising in a river or lake, submerged in the wet season and visible only in the dry season; but it excludes land arising in tidal rivers, tidal lakes or the sea, submerged by the flow of ordinary tides throughout the year:

"frontage" used with reference to a holding means the line or lines determined for such holding in the manner prescribed in the second schedule hereto annexed:

8 W. R. 95: 6 Ben. 848. and a channel is said to be "fordable" when it does not exceed five feet in depth in the dry season next after the formation referred to and throughout the twenty-four hours.

II.—Alluvial Land and Abandoned River-beds.

Right to alluvial land formed on bank or shore. 4. Where from natural causes land is formed, by imperceptible degrees, on the bank or shore of a river, the sea or a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, sea or lake, the owner of the bank or shore is entitled to the land so formed.

When the formation takes place at the junction of two holdings, each owner shall be entitled to so much of the formation as lies on his side of a line drawn through the point of junction and bisecting the angle between the two frontages at that point.

Ben. Act IV of 1868, s. 4. Right to islands where neither channel is fordable. 5. Where an island is formed, from natural causes, in a river, the sea or a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, sea or lake, if the island is separated from each bank or shore by a channel not fordable at any point, the Government is entitled to such island.

Islands where one or both channels fordable. 6. Where an island is formed from natural causes in a river, the sea or a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, sea or lake, and is separated from the bank or banks by a fordable channel or fordable channels:

and where from natural causes any land is formed, otherwise than by imperceptible degrees, on the bank of a river, the sea or a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, sea or lake,

Land formed by perceptible degrees.

and where a river suddenly abandons its bed, Su 18

each particle of the island or land so formed, or the river-bed so abandoned, shall belong to that one of the riparian owners who can show a point on the frontage of his holding nearest to such particle:

Provided that when the channel separating an island so formed in a river from one bank is fordable and the channel separating such island from the other bank is not fordable, the owners of the former bank shall alone be entitled as such to the island:

Provided also that when the line dividing the formation to which one owner is entitled under this section from the formation to which another owner is entitled under this section is an arc of a curve, the chord of such arc shall be substituted therefor.

III.—Miscellaneous.

Power to declare where tidal rivers end. 7. The Local Government may, from time to time, declare, with reference to any tidal river, where, for the purposes of this Act, the river shall be deemed to end and the sea to begin.

Every declaration made under this section shall be published in the official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law. And no such declaration shall be cancelled or altered save with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

Savings. 8. Nothing herein contained shall—

(a) affect any law relating to the assessment of land-revenue or to the enhancement or abatement of rent; or

(b) confer on any owner of a bank or shore in respect of which he is hereby declared to be entitled to alluvial land, to an island, or to an abandoned river-bed, any title to such land, island or river-bed, better than that which he has to the bank or shore; or

(c) enlarge any holding granted by Government, the area of which has been fixed by any sanad or other document executed under the authority of Government; or

(d) authorize any acts of private persons done in order to divert currents or cause accretions; or

(e) authorize any encroachments by private persons on the banks, beds or channels of navigable rivers; or

(f) prevent any officer duly empowered by the Local Government in this behalf from removing obstacles which appear to him to interfere with the safe and customary navigation of such rivers, or which obstruct the passage of boats by tracking on the banks of such rivers or otherwise; or

(g) prevent any officer duly empowered by the Local Government in this behalf from regulating the direction and flow of such rivers and the preservation and distribution of their waters;

(h) affect the right of the Government or a private owner—to land formed on a site which is proved to belong to the Government or such owner, or to the ancient bed of a river which is proved to have belonged to the Government or such owner immediately before its abandonment.

Reg. XI of 1825, s. 2. 28 Geo. I.A. 1: Central Oudh Talookdars No. 9.

Local usage saved.

9. Nothing herein contained shall affect any definite and well-established local usage respecting the right to alluvial land, islands or abandoned river-beds; but (except in the cases provided for by the Panjáb Land-Revenue Act, 1871, section 16) the burden of proving such usage shall lie on the person alleging it.

e. g., islands not formed from natural causes.

Right of Crown to alluvial lands, &c., not hereinbefore provided for.

10. All land and islands formed, and all river-beds abandoned, as mentioned respectively in sections four and five, and not vesting under any of the provisions hereinbefore contained, shall vest in the Government.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.

Rules for determining the frontage of a holding.

DRAW a right line connecting the extreme points of the riparian boundary of the holding, and take that as the frontage except—

(a) where such line or any portion of it lies altogether outside the riparian boundary of the holding, and any point on such line or portion, measuring along a perpendicular to it erected at such point, is further from such boundary than from the riparian boundary of any other holding; or

(b) where such line or any portion of it lies altogether within the riparian boundary of the holding, and there is any point on the portion of such boundary cut off by it so situated that right lines drawn from it to the extremities of such line or portion, as the case may be, contain an angle of less than 160°,

in either of which cases the line or portion of the line, as the case may be, must be rejected, and other lines substituted for it as follows:—

2. When the line or any portion of it is rejected on the ground mentioned in paragraph (a), the lines to be substituted for it are to be determined as follows:—

Erect a perpendicular to it at its middle point: connect its extremities with the point where such perpendicular intersects the riparian boundary, and take those connecting lines as the frontage along that portion of the boundary, unless it should be found that there is a point on either of them which, measuring along the perpendicular to it erected at such point, is further from the riparian boundary of the holding than from the riparian boundary of any other holding, in which case that line must be rejected, a perpendicular to it erected at its middle point, and right lines drawn from its extremities to the point where that perpendicular intersects the riparian boundary of the holding, and so on, repeating the process, until such a series of right lines is obtained that no point on any one of them, measuring along the perpendicular erected to it at such point, will be further from the riparian boundary of the holding than from the riparian boundary of any other holding.

3. Where any line or portion of a line is rejected on the ground stated in paragraph (b), the lines to be substituted for it are to be determined as follows:—

Erect a perpendicular to it at its middle point: connect its extremities with the point where such perpendicular intersects the riparian boundary, and take those connecting lines as the frontage along that portion of the boundary, unless it should be found that right lines drawn from the extremities of either of them to any point on the portion of the boundary cut off by it contain an angle of less than 160°, in which case that connecting line must be rejected, a perpendicular erected at its middle point, its extremities connected with the point where such perpendicular intersects the boundary, and so on, repeating the process, until such a series of right lines is obtained that the right lines connecting the extremities of any one of them with any point on the portion of the boundary cut off by it will, in no case, be less than 160°.

5. To avoid these difficulties we propose to substitute for the original provisions of the Bill on this point, two rules which will cover all cases in which two or more riparian owners may be conceived to have claims to a new formation. The first of these rules is intended to apply to all cases in which new land is formed on a bank by imperceptible increments; the second to all other formations to which riparian owners may have a claim.

6. The former class of cases appears to us to be simple enough. We conceive that, when land is formed by imperceptible degrees on a portion of the bank belonging to a single proprietor, he should take that land in whatever direction and to whatever extent it may grow. It is only when the formation, or any portion of it, springs from a nucleus at the point of junction of two frontages that any question can arise, and we have (section 4) provided that in this case the dividing line shall be the bisector of the angle between the two frontages.

7. The cases to be dealt with by the second rule, on the contrary, may present every variety of complication, but we think they may be provided for by a rule which is capable of being simply expressed, which would generally be easy to apply, and about the application of which there would never be any serious difficulty, and which, moreover, would make as fair a division of the new land as can be hoped for in a class of cases for which, in the absence of anything in the way of a definite principle to guide us, we must be content with a somewhat rough-and-ready rule.

The rule we propose (section 6) is that each particle of the new formation shall belong to that one of the riparian owners who can show a point in his frontage nearest to it; provided that, when the line dividing the portion of the land to which one owner is entitled from the portion to which another is entitled is an arc of a curve, the chord of such arc shall be substituted for the arc. The dividing line given by this rule will be different according to the relative positions of the two competing frontages, but it will be one which it will be always easy to draw.

In ordinary cases it will be the bisector of the angle between the frontages, or, in the case of holdings on opposite sides of a river with parallel frontages, a line parallel to the frontages and equidistant from both; in others it will be the perpendicular erected at the middle point of the line connecting the extremities of the frontages; and in others, again, it will be the chord of a parabola. As this last line might at first sight be supposed to present some difficulty, we think it well to explain that the [illegible] being the parabola, and by a person altogether ignorant of the nature and properties of that curve. It is, in fact, simply the right line connecting two points which could be fixed by any patwárí or amín without the slightest difficulty. We may add, as regards the substitution of the chord for the arc in this case, that it not only simplifies the problem, but also makes what we believe, would, by most persons be considered a fairer division of the land.

8. Coming now to the definition of "frontage," it has been pointed out to us by MR. ELLIOT that the original definition would, under the Bill as last settled, sometimes lead to anomalous results, as, for example, when a riparian holding extended completely round the concave face of a sharp curve in a river, in which case the frontage might approach within a few yards of the opposite bank or even cut off a considerable portion of it. These anomalies would be increased rather than diminished under the new rule for the division of the land now adopted, and we have accordingly been compelled to seek for a new definition.

The object of introducing the "frontage" is to substitute right lines for the irregularly shaped bank of the river, and thus to simplify the application of our rules: the defect of the original definition is that, in requiring a single right line to be substituted for the entire riparian boundary of each holding, the artificial riparian boundaries thus obtained in some cases deviate too widely from the real boundaries; and the remedy appears to be to declare that in such cases, instead of the single line, a series of two, or, if necessary, more, lines following more closely the real line of the bank shall be adopted. For this we have attempted to provide in the directions given in schedule II for drawing a frontage.

9. We have struck out the definition of "owner," as we think that the Courts may be trusted to determine who in a given case is the riparian proprietor, and we have also omitted the definitions of "thread of the stream," as the expression does not occur in the body of the Bill as now settled.

10. We think that the Bill should save local customs not only in the Panjáb but in all other territories to which it is to apply. We have accordingly excluded the section effecting this saving as the whole of British India; but we have omitted the proviso annexed to it in the Bill, as settled by the Select Committee in March, 1879, as the matter to which it relates is one falling outside the scope of the present Bill.

11. The Bill, No. II, together with the Preliminary Report of the Select Committee, has been published in English in Bombay, the North-Western Provinces, the Panjáb, the Central Provinces and British Burma, and in vernacular in Bombay, the Panjáb and the Central Provinces. We do not propose that any further step should be taken in respect to the Bill until it has been published in the Gazette and circulated to Local Governments with a view to obtaining opinions on it in its new form. It must also, by order of the Secretary of State, be re-translated into the Native languages and sent home to him for consideration. In fact, having regard to the complication and difficulty of the subject, we should prefer to have our present proposals treated as suggestions thrown out for discussion rather than as furnishing a final solution of the questions at issue.

No. III.

A Bill to define and amend the law relating to alluvion, islands and abandoned river-beds.

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to define and amend the law relating to alluvion, islands and abandoned river-beds; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

I.—Preliminary.

Short title. 1. This Act may be called "The Indian Alluvion Act, 1882:"

Local extent. It extends to the whole of British India;

Commencement. and it shall come into force on the first day of March, 1882.

Repeal of enactments. 2. The Acts, Regulation and Rules mentioned in the first schedule hereto annexed shall be repealed to the extent specified in the third column. References to the Regulation and Rules so repealed, in enactments passed subsequently thereto, shall be read as if made to this Act.

Interpretation-clause. 3. In this Act—

W. R. 281: 4 W. R. 41: 4 W. R. 288. "island" means land surrounded by water and capable of being employed for cultivation, pasture or other useful purpose. It includes such land arising in a river or lake, submerged in the wet season and visible only in the dry season; but it excludes land arising in tidal rivers, tidal lakes or the sea, submerged by the flow of ordinary tides throughout the year:

"frontage," used with reference to a holding, means the line or lines determined for such holding in the manner prescribed in the second schedule hereto annexed:

3 W. R. 95: 6 Ben. 348. and a channel is said to be "fordable" when it does not exceed five feet in depth in the dry season next after the formation referred to and throughout the twenty-four hours.

II.—Alluvial Land and Abandoned River-beds.

Right to alluvial land formed on bank or shore. 4. Where from natural causes land is formed by imperceptible degrees, on the bank or shore of a river, the sea or a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, sea or lake, the owner of the bank or shore is entitled to the land so formed.

When the formation takes place at the junction of two holdings, each owner shall be entitled to so much of the formation as lies on his side of a line drawn through the point of junction and bisecting the angle between the two frontages at that point.

Rights to islands where one channel is fordable. Bom. Act IV of 1868, s. 4. 5. Where an island is formed, from natural causes, in a river, the sea or a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, sea or lake, if the island is separated from each bank or shore by a channel not fordable at any point, the Government is entitled to such island.

Islands where both channels fordable. 6. Where an island is formed from natural causes in a river, the sea or a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, sea or lake, and is separated from the bank or banks by a fordable channel or fordable channels;

Land formed by imperceptible degrees. and where from natural causes any land is formed, otherwise than by imperceptible degrees, on the bank of a river, the sea or a lake, either by accumulation of material or by recession of the river, sea or lake, and where a river suddenly abandons its bed;

each particle of the island or land so formed, or the river bed so abandoned, shall belong to that one of the riparian owners who can show a point on the frontage of his holding nearest to such particle:

Provided that when the channel separating an island so formed in a river from one bank is fordable and the channel separating such island from the other bank is not fordable, the owners of the former bank shall alone be entitled as such to the island:

Provided also that when the line dividing the formation to which one owner is entitled under this section from the formation to which another owner is entitled under this section is an arc of a curve, the chord of such arc shall be substituted therefor.

III.—Miscellaneous.

Power to declare where tidal rivers end. 7. The Local Government may, from time to time, declare, with reference to any tidal river, where, for the purposes of this Act, the river shall be deemed to end and the sea to begin.

Every declaration made under this section shall be published in the official Gazette, and shall thereupon have the force of law. And no such declaration shall be cancelled or altered save with the previous sanction of the Governor General in Council.

Savings. 8. Nothing herein contained shall—

(a) affect any law relating to the assessment of land-revenue or to the enhancement or abatement of rent; or

(b) confer on any owner of a bank or shore in respect of which he is hereby declared to be entitled to alluvial land to an island, or to an abandoned river-bed, any title to such land, island or river-bed, better than that which he has to the bank or shore; or

(c) enlarge any holding granted by Government, the area of which has been fixed by any sanad or other document executed under the authority of Government; or

(d) authorize any acts of private persons done in order to divert currents or cause accretions; or

(e) authorize any encroachments by private persons on the banks, beds or channels of navigable rivers; or

(f) prevent any officer duly empowered by the Local Government in this behalf from removing obstacles which appear to him to interfere with the safe and customary navigation of such rivers or which obstruct the passage of boats [illegible] the banks of such rivers or otherwise; or

(g) prevent any officer duly empowered by the Local Government in this behalf from regulating the direction and flow of such rivers and the preservation and distribution of their waters.

(4) affect the right of the Government or a private owner—

to land formed on a site which is proved to belong to the Government or such owner, or to the ancient bed of a river which is proved to have belonged to the Government or such owner immediately before its abandonment.

Local usage saved.

9. Nothing herein contained shall affect any definite and well-established local usage respecting the right to alluvial land, islands or abandoned river-beds; but (except in the cases provided for by the Panjáb Land-Revenue Act, 1871, section 76) the burden of proving such usage shall lie on the person alleging it.

Right of Crown to alluvial lands, &c., not hereinbefore provided for.

10. All land and islands formed, and all river-beds abandoned, as mentioned respectively in sections four and five, and not vesting under any of the provisions hereinbefore contained, shall vest in the Government.

THE SECOND SCHEDULE.

Rules for determining the frontage of a holding.

DRAW a right line connecting the extreme points of the riparian boundary of the holding, and take that as the frontage except—

(a) where such line or any portion of it lies altogether outside the riparian boundary of the holding, and any point on such line or portion, measuring along a perpendicular to it erected at such point, is further from such boundary than from the riparian boundary of any other holding; or

(b) where such line or any portion of it lies altogether within the riparian boundary of the holding, and there is any point on the portion of such boundary cut off by it so situated that right lines drawn from it to the extremities of such line or portion, as the case may be, contain an angle of less than 160°,

in either of which cases the line or portion of the line, as the case may be, must be rejected, and other lines substituted for it as follows:—

2. When the line or any portion of it is rejected on the ground mentioned in paragraph (a), the lines to be substituted for it are to be determined as follows:—

Erect a perpendicular to it at its middle point, connect its extremities with the point where such perpendicular intersects the riparian boundary, and take those connecting lines as the frontage along that portion of the boundary, unless it should be found that there is a point on either of them which, measuring along the perpendicular to it erected at such point, is further from the riparian boundary of the holding than from the riparian boundary of any other holding, in which case that line must be rejected, a perpendicular to it erected at its middle point, and right lines drawn from its extremities to the point where that perpendicular intersects the riparian boundary of the holding, and so on, repeating the process, until such a series of right lines is obtained that no point on any one of them, measuring along the perpendicular erected to it at such point, will be further from the riparian boundary of the holding than from the riparian boundary of any other holding.

3. Where any line or portion of a line is rejected on the ground stated in paragraph (b), the lines to be substituted for it are to be determined as follows:—

Erect a perpendicular to it at its middle point: connect its extremities with the point where such perpendicular intersects the riparian boundary, and take those connecting lines as the frontage along that portion of the boundary, unless it should be found that right lines drawn from the extremities of either of them to any point on the portion of the boundary cut off by it contain an angle of less than 160°, in which case that connecting line must be rejected, a perpendicular erected at its middle point, its extremities connected with the point where such perpendicular intersects the boundary, and so on, repeating the process, until such a series of right lines is obtained that the right lines connecting the extremities of any one of them with any point on the portion of the boundary cut off by it will, in no case, be less than 160°.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[First publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 20th April, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 10 of 1881.

Act No. III of 1871. A Bill to amend the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871.

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, Act No. III of 1871. in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Amendment of section 4. 1. In section four of the said Act, for the words "and two other officers, called, respectively, the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Madras and the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Bombay," the words "and three other officers, called, respectively, the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Madras, the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Bombay and the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Rangoon" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 5. 2. In section five of the said Act, for the words "three of which circles shall include the Towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, respectively," the words "four of which circles shall include the Towns of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Rangoon, respectively," shall be substituted; and for the words "any such town (other than Calcutta, Madras or Bombay) shall be deemed to be situate within such Presidency as is specified in the order," the words "any such town (other than Calcutta, Madras, Bombay or Rangoon) shall be deemed to be situate within such Presidency or Province as is specified in the order," shall be substituted.

Amendment of sections 6 and 9. 3. In sections six and nine of the said Act, for the words "and Bombay" the words "Bombay and Rangoon" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 7. 4. In section seven of the said Act, for the words "the Commissioners at Madras and Bombay," the words "the Commissioners at Madras, Bombay and Rangoon" shall be substituted; and for the last sentence the following shall be substituted (namely) :—

"the Deputy Commissioners in the Presidencies of Fort Saint George and Bombay and in the Province of British Burma shall be subordinate to the Commissioners of Madras, Bombay and Rangoon, respectively."

Amendment of section 10. 5. In section ten of the said Act, for the words "of either of the Commissioners," the words of the Commissioners" shall be substituted for the words "by either of the Commissioners" the words "by one of the Commissioners" shall be substituted.

Partial repeal of section 24. 6. In section twenty-

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THERE is at present no Paper Currency which is a legal tender in Burma. Notes of the Calcutta circle are used to a limited extent in the chief towns, and occasionally notes of other circles are used, but there is no circle of issue in Burma.

2. Great inconvenience has been felt by the mercantile classes in Burma from this want; and in the year 1872 the question of establishing a circle of issue in that Province was before the Government of India. The Indian Paper Currency Act of 1871, however, renders it necessary to declare every town (other than Calcutta, Madras or Bombay) in which there is an office of issue to be, for the purposes of the Act, situate within some Presidency. Had, therefore, a circle of issue been established in Burma, it would have been necessary to declare the place of issue to be situate within one of the Presidencies of Fort William, Fort St. George and Bombay. The result would have been that, under section 9 of the Act, the notes of the Burma circle would have been payable at the office or offices of issue in Burma, and also at the Presidency-town of the Presidency (probably Fort William) within which the town of issue had been declared, for the purposes of the Act, to be situate.

3. The nature of the commercial transactions between Burma and India is such that, under those circumstances, it would have been unwise to establish a circle of issue in Burma. At particular periods of the year large remittances of money are made between Calcutta and Rangoon, and if the Burmese notes were payable at Calcutta, the Government might be put to considerable inconvenience and expense in providing cash to meet the notes. The question was accordingly allowed to remain in abeyance.

4. The rapid increase of the trade of Burma has again caused the question to be brought before the Government of India. The best authorities are agreed that Burma can no longer do without a paper currency, but that the Burmese notes should be payable only at the office of issue and not at any Presidency-town. The public will thus enjoy most of the conveniences of a paper currency, while the Government will not be obliged to undertake the exchange business of British Burma.

5. The amendments in the Paper Currency Act proposed in the Bill have for their objects:—

1st—to create a Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Rangoon;

2ndly—to make the towns of issue in Burma independent of the Presidencies;

3rdly—to render the paper issued at any town in Burma payable only at the office of issue.

6. The first of these objects is attained by a slight alteration of the fourth section of the Act; the second, by amending section 5 so as to empower the Governor General in Council to declare a town to be situate for the purposes of the Act within a Province as well as a Presidency. The third will be effected by the amendment just described; for the town of issue in Burma can then be declared situate within the Province of British Burma, and Burmese notes will not then be payable at Calcutta or any other Presidency-town.

No. 11 OF 1881.

Act No. XIV of 1876. A Bill to amend the Sindh Incumbered Estates Act, 1876.

WHEREAS it is expedient to extend the time within which applications under the Sindh Incumbered Estates Act, 1876, section three, may be made, and otherwise to amend the same Act in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

Act No. XIV of 1876.

1. Applications under the said Act, section three, may be made at any time within six months after the passing of this Act.

Time for making applications under Act XIV of 1876, section 3.

2. To the first sentence of section seven of the said Act, the following words shall be added (namely):—"or which may be incurred by the Manager receiving a loan from Government in the manner hereinafter provided."

Amendment of section 7.

3. To section ten of the said Act, the following shall be added (namely):—"and also for the repayment, either before or after the liquidation of such debts and liabilities, of any loan received from Government by the Manager under this Act."

Amendment of section 10.

4. In section sixteen of the said Act, after the words "under section ten," the words "and for the repayment of the money (if any) which the Manager proposes to borrow from Government under this Act" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 16.

5. To section twenty-three of the said Act the following shall be added (namely):—"or (c) by borrowing money from Government at a fair rate of interest."

Amendment of section 23.

6. In section twenty-five of the said Act, after the words "mentioned in the liquidation-scheme," the following shall be inserted (namely):—"and the amount of any loan received from Government under clause (c) of section twenty-three, together with the interest (if any) due thereon."

Amendment of section 25.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IT has been the practice for the Manager, under the Sindh Encumbered Estates Act, to borrow, with the previous sanction of Government, from the Treasury and to pay off such creditors as agreed to enter into a compromise in consideration of obtaining speedy payment of their debts. The money so borrowed was repaid by the Manager, with or without interest, as Government directed, from the income of the indebted estate.

Hitherto the money thus borrowed has been regarded as a liability incurred to Government in respect of the property under management within the meaning of section 10 of the Act. This view, however, is based on an erroneous conception of the law, and, as the Act stands, the only way to secure advances made by Government is by mortgaging the indebted estate.

It is objected that as soon as the debts are paid off the estate is released from management, and that Government would then only have the security of an ordinary mortgage for the advance.

It is proposed, therefore, to amend the Act by enabling the Manager to borrow money from Government, and by providing that the estate shall not be released from management until the money so borrowed is repaid with interest.

This will be effected by slight additions to sections 23 and 25. By other amendments the management is made to extend to the debt which may be incurred to Government by the Manager borrowing money, and the Manager is directed, in submitting his liquidation-scheme, to show in it the amount which he proposes to borrow from Government and the way in which he proposes to repay it.

As the management cannot terminate till the whole advance is repaid, there is ample security for its repayment.

The Act allows applications under section three to be made within twelve months from the passing of the Act, and, at the suggestion of the Government of Bombay, it is now proposed to allow a further period of six months from the date of the passing of this amending Act.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 20th April, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 12 of 1881.

Act No. XIV of 1877. A Bill to amend the Broach and Kaira Incumbered Estates Act, 1877.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Broach and Kaira Incumbered Estates Act, 1877, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:— Preamble. Act No. XIV of 1877.

1. To the first sentence of section eight of the said Act, the following words shall be added (namely):— Amendment of section 8.

"or which may be incurred by the manager receiving a loan from Government in the manner hereinafter provided."

2. To section eleven of the said Act, the following shall be added (namely):— Amendment of section 11.

"and also for the repayment, either before or after the liquidation of such debts and liabilities, of any loan received from Government by the manager under this Act."

3. In section seventeen of the said Act, after the words and figures "under section 11," the words "and for the repayment of the money (if any) which the manager proposes to borrow from Government under this Act" shall be inserted. Amendment of section 17.

4. To section twenty-four of the said Act, the following shall be added (namely):— Amendment of section 24.

"or (d) by borrowing money from Government at a fair rate of interest."

5. In section twenty-six of the said Act, after the words "mentioned in the liquidation-scheme," the following shall be inserted (namely):— Amendment of section 26.

"and the amount of any loan received from Government under clause (d) of section 24, together with the interest (if any) due thereon."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of the proposed Bill and the reasons for legislating are the same as those in the case of the Bill to amend the Sindh Incumbered Estates Act. It is also found expedient for the management of the Broach and Kaira Estates that the manager should be able to borrow money at a fair rate of interest from Government, and that the estate should be retained under management till the repayment of the amount so borrowed.

Foreign spirit or foreign fermented liquor, two imperial gallons or twelve reputed quart bottles; country spirit, one ser;

country fermented liquor, four sers;

Correspondence with Central Provinces.

gánja, bháng, or charas, or any preparation or admixture thereof, five tolas:

"Wholesale."

If sold in larger quantities they shall be deemed to be sold wholesale.

Act X of 1871, s. 82.

Saving of Acts XVI of 1863 and III of 1880.

4. Nothing herein contained shall affect Act No. XVI of 1863 (to make special provision for the levy of the Excise Duty payable on Spirits used exclusively in Arts and Manufactures or in Chemistry) or the Cantonments Act, 1880.

CHAPTER II.

PRODUCTION OF SPIRIT, FERMENTED LIQUOR AND INTOXICATING DRUGS.

Act X of 1871, ss. 5, 9 and 11: Burma draft, s. 5: Correspondence with Central Provinces.

Manufacture of spirit and liquor without license prohibited.

5. No person shall construct, work or possess a distillery, still or brewery, or manufacture fermented liquor, in any district except under a license granted by the Collector and in accordance with the conditions (if any) contained therein.

Act X of 1871, s. 7.

Power to establish distilleries for country spirit.

6. The Collector may, with the sanction of the Chief Revenue-authority, from time to time, establish at any place within his district a distillery in which country spirit may be made, and discontinue any distillery so established.

Correspondence with Central Provinces.

When a distillery has been established under this section, the Collector may, from time to time, fix within his district limits within which no country spirit, except such as is made at such distillery, shall be introduced without a special pass from the Collector.

Act X of 1871, s. 21, cls. 1st, 2nd and 4th.

Duty on spirit.

7. No spirit shall be removed from any distillery licensed under section five or established under section six, until the duty payable in respect of such spirit under the Indian Tariff Act, 1875, section eleven, has been paid, or a bond for such duty has been executed as provided by the Sea Customs Act, 1878.

Act X of 1871, s. 6; s. 21, cl. 3rd.

Power to make rules as to distilleries and breweries licensed under section 5.

8. The Chief Revenue-authority may, from time to time, make rules as to—

(a) the granting of licenses for distilleries and breweries under section five;

(b) the notices to be given by the proprietor of a licensed distillery when he commences and discontinues work;

(c) the size and description of the stills in such distillery;

(d) the storing and passing out of the spirit made in such distillery, and the contents of the passes;

(e) the inspection and examination of the distillery and warehouses, and of the spirit made and stored therein;

(f) the furnishing of statements of the spirit, and of the stills, coppers, casks and other utensils in the distillery.

And for distilleries established under section 6.

9. The Chief Revenue-authority may, from time to time, make rules as to—

Act X of 1871, s. 8.

(a) the management of distilleries established under section six;

(b) the conditions on which spirit may be made in such distilleries; and

(c) the storing and passing out of the spirit so made, and the contents of the passes.

Sanction to rules under sections 8 and 9.

10. Except in the territories respectively administered by the Chief Commissioners of Oudh, the Central Provinces, British Burma, Coorg, and Ajmer and Merwára, the sanction of the Local Government is required to validate rules under sections eight and nine.

Act X of 1871, s. 10.

Production of intoxicating drugs.

11. In British Burma, the cultivation of hemp and the preparation of intoxicating drugs therefrom are prohibited except under, and in accordance with, a license granted by such officer as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time appoint in this behalf.

Act X of 1871, s. 40, cl. 2: Burma draft, s. 9: Correspondence with Central Provinces.

In the other territories to which this Act extends, the Chief Revenue-authority may, from time to time, make such rules to restrict and regulate the cultivation of hemp and the preparation of intoxicating drugs therefrom as it may deem necessary to secure the duty leviable in respect of those drugs.

CHAPTER III.

SALE OF SPIRIT, FERMENTED LIQUOR AND INTOXICATING DRUGS.

Spirit, fermented liquor and drugs not to be sold without license.

12. No spirit, fermented liquor or intoxicating drug shall be sold except under, and in accordance with the terms of, a license granted under the provisions hereinafter contained.

Act X of 1871, ss. 12, 15, 16, 17 and 27, para. 2.

Proviso.

Provided as follows—

1stly,—nothing in this section applies to the sale of any foreign spirit or foreign fermented liquor legally procured by any person for his private use ... and sold by auction upon his quitting a station or ... after his decease; Act X of 1871, s. 62, ...

2ndly,—any officer empowered in this ... the Chief Revenue-authority may grant ... ling merchants, subject to such rules ... as such authority from time to ... general license authorizing the ... spirit and foreign fermented ... any district which they may ... their travels, without ... that district;

3rdly,—any ... country fer... provisions ...

from time to time made by the Local Government in this behalf, sell such spirit or liquor to any person who is licensed as a retail vendor of such spirit or liquor;

Act X of 1871, ss. 20 and 64.

4thly,—any cultivator of the hemp plant may sell any intoxicating drug prepared from his plants to any person licensed under this Act to sell the same, or any person authorized by an order in writing from the Collector to purchase the same.

Act X of 1871, ss. 12, 15 and 19.

Licenses how granted.

13. Subject to the rules made by the Chief Controlling Revenue-authority under the power hereinafter conferred, the Collector may grant licenses for the sale of foreign spirit and foreign fermented liquor, wholesale or retail, and for the retail sale of country spirit or country fermented liquor and (except in British Burma) of intoxicating drugs within his district or any part thereof or at any place therein.

Licenses for the sale of country spirit and country fermented liquor and intoxicating drugs, wholesale, and licenses for the sale, in British Burma, of intoxicating drugs, retail, shall be granted only by such officer as the Local Government from time to time appoints in this behalf.

Act X of 1871, s. 34.

Power to cancel retail license.

14. Whenever the Collector considers the license of a retail vendor of country spirit, country fermented liquor or intoxicating drugs should be cancelled for any cause other than those specified in such license, he shall remit a sum equal to the amount of the license-fee for fifteen days, and shall either give fifteen days' previous notice of his intention to cancel the license, or shall, in addition to remitting such sum as aforesaid, make such compensation for default of notice as the Commissioner of Revenue or Chief Revenue-authority directs. On the expiration of such notice or the payment of such additional compensation, the Collector may cancel the said license.

Act X of 1871, s. 35.

Surrender of retail license.

15. Any such retail vendor may surrender his license on the expiration of one month's previous notice given by him to the Collector of his intention to surrender the same, and on paying such sum, not exceeding the amount of the license-fee for six months, as the Collector may fix in this behalf.

If the Collector is satisfied that there is a sufficient reason for surrendering a license, he may remit the sum so fixed.

Act X of 1871, s. 25.

Power to farm fees.

16. The Collector may, with the sanction of the Chief Revenue-authority, let in farm the fees leviable in any district or part of a district on licenses for the retail sale of any description of country spirit or fermented liquors or (except in British Burma) of intoxicating drugs.

When the fees leviable on any of such articles are let in farm, the farmer may, subject to [illegible] reservations or restrictions as the Collector, [illegible]ction of the Chief Revenue-authority, [illegible] to time impose, grant licenses for [illegible] articles within the local limits [illegible] file in the Collector's office a [illegible] of all the licenses granted [illegible]n in such form as may, [illegible]ne to time, be pre[illegible]thority.

Act X of 1871, s. 29.

Farm may be cancelled.

17. The Collector may, with the sanction of the Chief Revenue-authority, cancel any farm granted under this Act.

Compensation to farmers in certain cases.

18. If any such farm be cancelled for any cause other than a breach on the part of the farmer of the conditions of the farm, or if any reservation or restriction with respect to the grant of licenses be made or imposed within the period of the farm, the farmer shall be entitled to receive such compensation for any loss which he sustains thereby as the Chief Revenue-authority may determine.

Act X of 1871, s. 30.

Recovery of arrears by farmers.

19. Every farmer under this Act may use the same means and processes for the recovery of any arrear of fees due to him from any retail vendor, as may be lawfully used by zamíndárs and farmers of land for the recovery of arrears of rent due to them from their under-tenants.

Act X of 1871, s. 40, cl. 1.

Power to regulate supply of tárí and intoxicating drugs to licensed vendors.

20. The Chief Revenue-authority may, from time to time, make rules to regulate the mode in which tárí shall be supplied to licensed vendors of the same, and the grant of licenses or passes to persons possessing or transporting intoxicating drugs for the supply of the licensed vendors of such drugs.

CHAPTER IV.

POSSESSION OF SPIRIT, FERMENTED LIQUOR AND INTOXICATING DRUGS.

Act X of 1871, ss. 63 and 64.

Possession of spirit, &c.

21. Except as herein otherwise provided, no person shall have in his possession, without a pass from the Collector or from some other officer empowered by the Local Government in that behalf, any larger quantity of any spirit or fermented liquor than that specified in section three, clause (k), in respect of such spirit or liquor, unless he is permitted to manufacture or sell the same:

Proviso.

Nothing in this section extends to any foreign spirit or foreign fermented liquor in the possession of any common carrier or warehouse-man as such, or purchased by any person for his private use and not for sale.

Burma draft, s. 9; Act X of 1871, ss. 63 and 64.

Possession of intoxicating drugs.

22. In British Burma no person shall have in his possession any intoxicating drugs except under, and in accordance with the terms of, a general exemption granted by the Chief Commissioner, or a license granted by such officer as the Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf.

In the other territories to which this Act extends, no person shall have in his possession any larger quantity of such drugs than that specified in section three, clause (k), in respect of such drugs, unless he is permitted to manufacture or sell the same.

CHAPTER V.

IMPORT OF SPIRIT.

Act X of [illegible]

Spirit from foreign territory subject to duty.

23. No person shall bring into any territory to which this Act extends any spirit manufactured at any place in India beyond the limits of British India, until duty equal to the duty prescribed for such spirit under the Indian Tariff Act, 1875, section eleven, has been paid in respect thereof and a pass has been obtained therefor from such officer as the Local Government may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf.

CHAPTER VI.

OFFICERS AND THEIR POWERS.

Act X of 1871, ss. 38, 39 and 46.

Collectors may appoint Excise-officers.

24. The Collector may appoint persons, by name or by virtue of their office, to be officers for the collection of the excise-revenue and for the prevention of offences against this Act; and the officers so appointed shall, in addition to their ordinary designations (if any), be styled Excise-officers.

Act X of 1871, s. 41.

Recovery of arrears of fees.

25. The Collector may recover any amount due to the Government under this Act or the rules made hereunder, by distress and sale of the moveable property of the person from whom such amount is due or of his surety, or by any other process for the time being in force for the recovery of arrears of land-revenue due from farmers of land or their sureties.

Act X of 1871, s. 42.

Power of Excise-officers to inspect shops.

26. Any Excise-officer may enter and inspect at any time by day or by night the shop or premises in which any licensed manufacturer or vendor carries on the manufacture of country spirit, or the sale of country spirit, country fermented liquor or intoxicating drugs.

71,

Act X of 1871, ss. 45 and 46.

To search on information of illicit manufacture or possession.

29. Whenever any Excise-officer in receipt of such monthly salary as aforesaid has reason to believe, from information given by any person (which [illegible] writing), [illegible] unlawfully manufactured, or that any article liable to confiscation under this Act is kept or concealed in any place,

Such officer may, after sunrise and before sunset (but always in the presence of an officer of police in the receipt of a monthly salary of not less than [illegible] rupees), enter into such place,

[illegible] case of resistance may break open any door and force and remove any other obstacle to such entry, and may seize and carry away such spirit or article, and may also arrest the occupier of the place with all other persons concerned in the manufacture of such spirit, or in the keeping and concealing of such article.

Act X of 1871, s. 48.

Collector may issue warrant of arrest in certain cases.

30. The Collector may issue his warrant for the arrest of any person whom he has reason to believe, either from information in writing, or from the proceedings in any other case, to be engaged in the unlawful sale of spirit or fermented liquors or intoxicating drugs, or to have in his possession any article liable to confiscation under this Act.

Act X of 1871, s. 49.

Collector may issue search-warrant.

31. The Collector may issue his warrant for the search of any place in which, upon any of the grounds mentioned in the last preceding section, he has reason to believe that spirit is unlawfully manufactured, or that any spirit, fermented liquor or intoxicating drug liable to confiscation under this Act is kept or concealed.

Such warrant may be executed, by any Excise-officer in the receipt of a monthly salary of not less than twelve rupees, at the time and in the manner prescribed in section twenty-nine.

Special warrant authorizing search at night.

Whenever the Collector thinks that the search should be made after sunset and before sunrise on any particular day, he shall issue a warrant specially authorizing the search to be so made. Such warrant may be executed by any Excise-officer as aforesaid in the manner prescribed in section twenty-nine, and shall cease to be in force at sunrise on the day next following.

[illegible] officer arrests any person, or seizes any article liable to confiscation under this Act, or enters any place for the purpose of searching for any such article, he shall, within twenty-four hours thereafter, make a full report of all the particulars of such arrest, seizure or search, to his official superior, and, unless acting under the warrant of the Collector, shall take the person arrested, or the article seized, with all convenient despatch to the Magistrate for trial or adjudication.

and to take person arrested to Magistrate.

Procedure after arrest or seizure.

33. Whenever any person is arrested or any article is seized under the warrant of a Collector, the officer making such arrest or seizure shall, within twenty-four hours thereafter, take the person arrested or the article seized, to the Collector, or the Collector, after such enquiry as [illegible] necessary, shall send such person or [illegible] nearest Magistrate, or shall order the discharge of such person or the article.

Police to assist Excise-officers.

34. All Police-officers [illegible] request [illegible] or search shall, whenever it is practicable, give notice to the Commanding Officer of the intention to make the arrest or search, and in all other cases shall report the arrest or search to such Commanding Officer with as little delay as possible.

Act X of 1871, s. 76.

(e) as to the disposal of things confiscated under this Act;

Act X of 1871, s. 78.

(f) as to the duties of Excise-officers; and

(g) to provide generally for carrying out the provisions of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

This Bill is in the main a re-enactment of the Excise Act, 1871, in a shorter and, it is believed, a clearer form.

The only substantial changes of importance which it introduces are—

1st, a greater restriction in regard to intoxicating drugs, especially in British Burma, and

2nd, an enhancement of the penalties for certain breaches of the excise-law.

2. As regards the former, the amendment of the law proposed for British Burma will practically amount to a prohibition of the use of intoxicating drugs except for medicinal purposes in that Province. This is advocated by the Chief Commissioner on the following grounds, viz.:—

(1) that these drugs are considerably more injurious than opium;

(2) that at present they are unknown to the Burmese themselves, or, at any rate, have not come into use to such an extent among them that they would feel deprived of a luxury if their supply were summarily stopped;

(3) that such drugs are already forbidden in the Arakan Hill Tracts, and that the prohibition has worked well; and

(4) that they are, for the most part, used only by immigrants from India, who deserve no special consideration in the matter.

3. The alteration of the law in this particular for other Provinces is of much less importance. It consists in the reduction of the weight of ganjá and bhángy, which may be sold by a retail vendor or possessed by a private person, from a quarter of a sir to five tolas, the same weight as is permitted in the case of charas.

4. The enhancement of the penalties prescribed for offences against the Act has been advocated by certain of the Local Governments on the ground that the persons who commonly commit such offences are unable to pay a fine, and that to them imprisonment in a civil jail or without hard labour is really no punishment. The Bill, accordingly, gives power to sentence to imprisonment of either description extending to six months in lieu of, or in addition to, fine in certain cases, and in other cases substitutes imprisonment in the criminal jail for imprisonment in the civil jail.

Sections 18, 65, 66, 67 and 87 of the present Act (No. X of 1871) are omitted as relating solely to opium: sections 55, 83, 84 and 85 are omitted as the subjects are sufficiently provided for by the Sea Customs Act, 1878. Section 7[illegible] is provided for by the Penal Code, section [illegible] and section 73 of the Act, paragraphs 1 and [illegible] the same Code taken in connection with [illegible] 53, clause (f), of the Bill. The sub[illegible] tion 75, paragraphs 1 and 2, is pro[illegible] the Code of Criminal Procedure [illegible] omitted, as all grave offences wi[illegible] able, on a first conviction, [illegible] prisonment. Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Second publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 20th April, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 10 OF 1881.

Act No. III of 1871. A Bill to amend the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871.

Preamble. WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Act No. III of 1871.

Amendment of section 4. 1. In section four of the said Act, for the words "and two other officers, called, respectively, the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Madras and the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Bombay," the words "and three other officers, called, respectively, the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Madras, the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Bombay and the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Rangoon" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 5. 2. In section five of the said Act, for the words "three of which circles shall include the Towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, respectively," the words "four of which circles shall include the Towns of Calcuttá, Madras, Bombay and Rangoon, respectively," shall be substituted; and for the words "any such town (other than Calcutta, Madras or Bombay) shall be deemed to be situate within such Presidency as is specified in the order," the words "any such town (other than Calcutta, Madras, Bombay or Rangoon) shall be deemed to be situate within such Presidency or Province as is specified in the order," shall be substituted.

Amendment of sections 6 and 9. 3. In sections six and nine of the said Act, for the words "and Bombay" the words "Bombay and Rangoon" shall be substituted.

Amendment of section 7. 4. In section seven of the said Act, for the words "the Commissioners at Madras and Bombay," the words "the Commissioners at Madras, Bombay and Rangoon" shall be substituted; and for the last sentence the following shall be substituted (namely):—

"the Deputy Commissioners in the Presidencies of Fort Saint George and Bombay and in the Province of British Burma shall be subordinate to the Commissioners of Madras, Bombay and Rangoon, respectively."

Amendment of section 10. 5. In section ten of the said Act, for the words "of either of the Commissioners," the words "of the Commissioners" shall be substituted for the words "by either of the said sioners" the words "by one of the sioners" shall be substituted.

Partial repeal of section 24. 6. In section twenty-four the

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THERE is at present no Paper Currency which is a legal tender in Burma. Notes of the Calcutta circle are used to a limited extent in the chief towns, and occasionally notes of other circles are used, but there is no circle of issue in Burma.

2. Great inconvenience has been felt by the mercantile classes in Burma from this want; and in the year 1872 the question of establishing a circle of issue in that Province was before the Government of India. The Indian Paper Currency Act of 1871, however, renders it necessary to declare every town (other than Calcutta, Madras or Bombay) in which there is an office of issue to be, for the purposes of the Act, situate within some Presidency. Had, therefore, a circle of issue been established in Burma, it would have been necessary to declare the place of issue to be situate within one of the Presidencies of Fort William, Fort St. George and Bombay. The result would have been that, under section 9 of the Act, the notes of the Burma circle would have been payable at the office or offices of issue in Burma, and also at the Presidency-town of the Presidency (probably Fort William) within which the town of issue had been declared, for the purposes of the Act, to be situate.

3. The nature of the commercial transactions between Burma and India is such that, under those circumstances, it would have been unwise to establish a circle of issue in Burma. At particular periods of the year large remittances of money are made between Calcutta and Rangoon, and if the Burmese notes were payable at Calcutta, the Government might be put to considerable inconvenience and expense in providing cash to meet the notes. The question was accordingly allowed to remain in abeyance.

4. The rapid increase of the trade of Burma has again caused the question to be brought before the Government of India. The best authorities are agreed that Burma can no longer do without a paper currency, but that the Burmese notes should be payable only at the office of issue and not at any Presidency-town. The public will thus enjoy most of the conveniences of a paper currency, while the Government will not be obliged to undertake the exchange business of British Burma.

5. The amendments in the Paper Currency Act proposed in the Bill have for their objects :—

1st—to create a Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Rangoon;

2ndly—to make the towns of issue in Burma independent of the Presidencies;

3rdly—to render the paper issued at any town in Burma payable only at the office of issue.

6. The first of these objects is attained by a slight alteration of the fourth section of the Act; the second, by amending section 5 so as to empower the Governor General in Council to declare a town to be situate for the purposes of the Act within a Province as well as a Presidency. The third will be effected by the amendment just described; for the town of issue in Burma can then be declared situate within the Province of British Burma, and Burmese notes will not then be payable at Calcutta or any other Presidency-town.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 20th April, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 11 OF 1881.

Act No. XIV of 1878.

A Bill to amend the Sindh Incumbered Estates Act, 1876.

Preamble.

WHEREAS it is expedient to extend the time within which applications under the Sindh Incum-

Act No. XIV of 1876.

bered Estates Act, 1876, section three, may be made, and otherwise to amend the same Act in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

Time for making applications under Act XIV of 1876, section 3.

1. Applications under the said Act, section three, may be made at any time within six months after the passing of this Act.

Amendment of section 7.

2. To the first sentence of section seven of the said Act, the following words shall be added (namely) :—"or which may be incurred by the Manager receiving a loan from Government in the manner hereinafter provided."

Amendment of section 10.

3. To section ten of the said Act, the following shall be added (namely) :—"and also for the repayment, either before or after the liquidation of such debts and liabilities, of any loan received from Government by the Manager under this Act."

Amendment of section 16.

4. In section sixteen of the said Act, after the words "under section ten," the words "and for the repayment of the money (if any) which the Manager proposes to borrow from Government under this Act" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 23.

5. To section twenty-three of the said Act the following shall be added (namely) :—"or (c) by borrowing money from Government at a fair rate of interest."

Amendment of section 25.

6. In section twenty-five of the said Act, after the words "mentioned in the liquidation-scheme," the following shall be inserted (namely) :—"and the amount of any loan received from Government under clause (c) of section twenty-three, together with the interest (if any) due thereon."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IT has been the practice for the Manager, under the Sindh Encumbered Estates Act, to borrow, with the previous sanction of Government, from the Treasury and to pay off such creditors as agreed to enter into a compromise in consideration of obtaining speedy payment of their debts. The money so borrowed was repaid by the Manager, with or without interest, as Government directed, from the income of the indebted estate.

Hitherto the money thus borrowed has been regarded as a liability incurred to Government in respect of the property under management within the meaning of section 10 of the Act. This view, however, is based on an erroneous conception of the law, and, as the Act stands, the only way to secure advances made by Government is by mortgaging the indebted estate.

It is objected that as soon as the debts are paid off the estate is released from management, and that Government would then only have the security of an ordinary mortgage for the advance.

It is proposed, therefore, to amend the Act by enabling the Manager to borrow money from Government, and by providing that the estate shall not be released from management until the money so borrowed is repaid with interest.

This will be effected by slight additions to sections 23 and 25. By other amendments the management is made to extend to the debt which may be incurred to Government by the Manager borrowing money, and the Manager is directed, in submitting his liquidation-scheme, to show in it the amount which he proposes to borrow from Government and the way in which he proposes to repay it.

As the management cannot terminate till the whole advance is repaid, there is ample security for its repayment.

The Act allows applications under section three to be made within twelve months from the passing of the Act, and, at the suggestion of the Government of Bombay, it is now proposed to allow a further period of six months from the date of the passing of this amending Act.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 20th April, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 12 OF 1881.

Act No. XIV of 1877.

A Bill to amend the Broach and Kaira Incumbered Estates Act, 1877.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Broach and Kaira Incumbered Estates Act, 1877, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:—

Preamble.

Act No. XIV of 1877.

1. To the first sentence of section eight of the said Act, the following words shall be added (namely):—

Amendment of section 8.

"or which may be incurred by the manager receiving a loan from Government in the manner hereinafter provided."

2. To section eleven of the said Act, the following shall be added (namely):—

Amendment of section 11.

"and also for the repayment, either before or after the liquidation of such debts and liabilities, of any loan received from Government by the manager under this Act."

3. In section seventeen of the said Act, after the words and figures "under section 11," the words "and for the repayment of the money (if any) which the manager proposes to borrow from Government under this Act" shall be inserted.

Amendment of section 17.

4. To section twenty-four of the said Act, the following shall be added (namely):—

Amendment of section 24.

"or (d) by borrowing money from Government at a fair rate of interest."

5. In section twenty-six of the said Act, after the words "mentioned in the liquidation-scheme," the following shall be inserted (namely):—

Amendment of section 26.

"and the amount of any loan received from Government under clause (d) of section 24, together with the interest (if any) due thereon."

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE object of the proposed Bill and the reasons for legislating are the same as those in the case of the Bill to amend the Sindh Incumbered Estates Act. It is also found expedient for the management of the Broach and Kaira Estates that the manager should be able to borrow money at a fair rate of interest from Government, and that the estate should be retained under management till the repayment of the amount so borrowed.

(d) the storing and passing out of the spirit made in such distillery, and the contents of the passes;

(e) the inspection and examination of the distillery and warehouses, and of the spirit made and stored therein;

(f) the furnishing of statements of the spirit, and of the stills, coppers, casks and other utensils in the distillery.

Act X of 1871, s. 8.

9. The Chief Revenue-authority may, from time to time, make rules as to—

And for distilleries established under section 6.

(a) the management of distilleries established under section six;

(b) the conditions on which spirit may be made in such distilleries; and

(c) the storing and passing out of the spirit so made, and the contents of the passes.

Act X of 1871, s. 10.

10. Except in the territories respectively administered by the Chief Commissioners of Oudh, the Central Provinces, British Burma, Coorg, and Ajmer and Merwára, the sanction of the Local Government is required to validate rules under sections eight and nine.

Sanction to rules under sections 8 and 9.

Act X of 1871, s. 40, cl. 2: Burma draft, s. 9: Correspondence with Central Provinces.

11. In British Burma, the cultivation of hemp and the preparation of intoxicating drugs therefrom are prohibited except under, and in accordance with, a license granted by such officer as the Chief Commissioner may from time to time appoint in this behalf.

Production of intoxicating drugs.

In the other territories to which this Act extends, the Chief Revenue-authority may, from time to time, make such rules to restrict and regulate the cultivation of hemp and the preparation of intoxicating drugs therefrom as it may deem necessary to secure the duty leviable in respect of those drugs.

CHAPTER III.

SALE OF SPIRIT, FERMENTED LIQUOR AND INTOXICATING DRUGS.

Act X of 1871, ss. 12, 15, 17 and 22, para. 2.

12. No spirit, fermented liquor or intoxicating drug shall be sold except under, and in accordance with the terms of, a license granted under the provisions hereinafter contained.

Spirit, fermented liquor and drugs not to be sold without license.

Proviso.

Provided as follows—

1stly,—nothing in this section applies to the sale of any foreign spirit or foreign fermented liquor legally procured by any person for his private use and sold by auction upon his quitting a station after his decease;

2ndly,—any officer empowered in that behalf by the Chief Revenue-authority may grant to distilling merchants, subject to such conditions as such authority from time to time prescribes, general license authorizing the sale of foreign spirit and foreign fermented liquor within any district which they may enter in the course of their travels, with the consent of the Collector of that district;

3rdly,— from time to time made by the Local Government in this behalf, sell such spirit or liquor to any person who is licensed as a retail vendor of such spirit or liquor;

Act X of 1871, ss. 20 and 64.

4thly,—any cultivator of the hemp plant may sell any intoxicating drug prepared from his plants to any person licensed under this Act to sell the same, or any person authorized by an order in writing from the Collector to purchase the same.

Act X of 1871, ss. 12, 15 and 19.

13. Subject to the rules made by the Chief Controlling Revenue-authority under the power hereinafter conferred, the Collector may grant licenses for the sale of foreign spirit and foreign fermented liquor, wholesale or retail, and for the retail sale of country spirit or country fermented liquor and (except in British Burma) of intoxicating drugs within his district or any part thereof or at any place therein.

Licenses how granted.

Licenses for the sale of country spirit and country fermented liquor and intoxicating drugs, wholesale, and licenses for the sale, in British Burma, of intoxicating drugs, retail, shall be granted only by such officer as the Local Government from time to time appoints in this behalf.

Act X of 1871, s. 34.

14. Whenever the Collector considers the license of a retail vendor of country spirit, country fermented liquor or intoxicating drugs should be cancelled for any cause other than those specified in such license, he shall remit a sum equal to the amount of the license-fee for fifteen days, and shall either give fifteen days' previous notice of his intention to cancel the license, or shall, in addition to remitting such sum as aforesaid, make such compensation for default of notice as the Commissioner of Revenue or Chief Revenue-authority directs. On the expiration of such notice or the payment of such additional compensation, the Collector may cancel the said license.

Power to cancel retail license.

Act X of 1871, s. 35.

15. Any such retail vendor may surrender his license on the expiration of one month's previous notice given by him to the Collector of his intention to surrender the same, and on paying such sum, not exceeding the amount of the license-fee for six months, as the Collector may fix in this behalf.

Surrender of retail license.

If the Collector is satisfied that there is a sufficient reason for surrendering a license, he may remit the sum so fixed.

Act X of 1871,

16. The Collector may, with the sanction of the Chief Revenue-authority, let in farm the fees leviable in any district or part of a district on licenses for the retail sale of any description of country spirit or fermented liquors or (except in British Burma) of intoxicating drugs.

Power to farm fees.

The fees leviable on any of such articles are let in farm, the farmer may, subject to restrictions as the Collector, Chief Revenue-authority, purpose, grant licenses for within the local limits Collector's office a licenses granted as may, be pre-

17. The Collector may, with the sanction of the Chief Revenue-authority, cancel any farm granted under this Act.

Act X of 1871, s. 29.

Farm may be cancelled.

18. If any such farm be cancelled for any cause other than a breach on the part of the farmer of the conditions of the farm, or if any reservation or restriction with respect to the grant of licenses be made or imposed within the period of the farm, the farmer shall be entitled to receive such compensation for any loss which he sustains thereby as the Chief Revenue-authority may determine.

Compensation to farmers in certain cases.

19. Every farmer under this Act may use the same means and processes for the recovery of any arrear of fees due to him from any retail vendor, as may be lawfully used by zamíndárs and farmers of land for the recovery of arrears of rent due to them from their under-tenants.

Act X of 1871, s. 30.

Recovery of arrears by farmers.

20. The Chief Revenue-authority may, from time to time, make rules to regulate the mode in which tárí shall be supplied to licensed vendors of the same, and the grant of licenses or passes to persons possessing or transporting intoxicating drugs for the supply of the licensed vendors of such drugs.

Act X of 1871, s. 40, cl. 1.

Power to regulate supply of tárí and intoxicating drugs to licensed vendors.

CHAPTER IV.

POSSESSION OF SPIRIT, FERMENTED LIQUOR AND INTOXICATING DRUGS.

21. Except as herein otherwise provided, no person shall have in his possession without a pass from the Collector or from some other officer empowered by the Local Government in that behalf, any larger quantity of any spirit or fermented liquor than that specified in section three, clause (k), in respect of such spirit or liquor, unless he is permitted to manufacture or sell the same:

Act X of 1871, ss. 63 and 64.

Possession of spirit, &c.

Nothing in this section extends to any foreign spirit or foreign fermented liquor in the possession of any common carrier or warehouse-man as such, or purchased by any person for his private use and not for sale.

Proviso.

22. In British Burma no person shall have in his possession any intoxicating drugs except under, and in accordance with the terms of, a general exemption granted by the Chief Commissioner, or a license granted by such officer as the Chief Commissioner may, from time to time, appoint in this behalf.

Burma draft, s. 9; Act X of 1871, ss. 63 and 64.

Possession of intoxicating drugs.

Act X of 1871, s. 26.

(f) as to the duties of Excise-officers;

(g) to provide generally for carrying out the provisions of this Act.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

This Bill is in the main a re-enactment of the Excise Act, 1871, in a shorter and, it is believed, a clearer form.

The only substantial changes of importance which it introduces are—

1st, a greater restriction in regard to intoxicating drugs, especially in British Burma, and

2nd, an enhancement of the penalties for certain breaches of the excise-law.

2. As regards the former, the amendment of the law proposed for British Burma will practically amount to a prohibition of the use of intoxicating drugs except for medicinal purposes in that Province. This is advocated by the Chief Commissioner on the following grounds, viz.:—

(1) that these drugs are considerably more injurious than opium;

(2) that at present they are unknown to the Burmese themselves, or, at any rate, have not come into use to such an extent among them that they would feel deprived of a luxury if their supply were summarily stopped;

(3) that such drugs are already forbidden in the Arakan Hill Tracts, and that the prohibition has worked well; and

(4) that they are, for the most part, used only by immigrants from India, who deserve no special consideration in the matter.

3. The alteration of the law in this particular for other Provinces is of much less importance. It consists in the reduction of the weight of ganjá and bháng, which may be sold by a retail vendor or possessed by a private person, from a quarter of a seer to three tolas, the same weight as is permitted in the case of charas.

4. The enhancement of the penalties prescribed for offences against the Act has been advocated by certain of the Local Governments on the ground that the persons who commonly commit such offences are unable to pay a fine, and that to them imprisonment in a civil jail or without hard labour is really no punishment. The Bill, accordingly, gives power to sentence to imprisonment of either description extending to six months in lieu of, or in addition to, fine in certain cases, and in other cases substitutes imprisonment in the criminal jail for imprisonment in the civil jail.

Sections 18, 65, 66, 67 and 87 of the present Act (No. X of 1871) are omitted as relating solely to opium: sections 55, 83, 84 and 85 are omitted as the subjects are sufficiently provided for by the Sea Customs Act, 1878. [illegible] is provided for by the Penal Code, [illegible] and section 73 of the Act, paragraph [illegible] the same Code taken in connection [illegible] 53, clause (f), of the Bill, [illegible] tion 75, paragraphs 1 and [illegible] the Code of Criminal [illegible] omitted, as all grave [illegible] able, on a first conviction, [illegible] prisonment. Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

[Third publication.]

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 20th April, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee:—

No. 10 OF 1881.

Act No. III of 1871.

A Bill to amend the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871.

Act No. III of 1871.

WHEREAS it is expedient to amend the Indian Paper Currency Act, 1871, in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows:— Preamble.

1. In section four of the said Act, for the words "and two other officers, called, respectively, the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Madras and the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Bombay," the words "and three other officers, called, respectively, the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Madras, the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Bombay and the Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Rangoon" shall be substituted. Amendment of section 4.

2. In section five of the said Act, for the words "three of which circles shall include the Towns of Calcutta, Madras and Bombay, respectively," the words "four of which circles shall include the Towns of Calcutta, Madras, Bombay and Rangoon, respectively," shall be substituted; and for the words "any such town (other than Calcutta, Madras or Bombay) shall be deemed to be situate within such Presidency as is specified in the order," the words "any such town (other than Calcutta, Madras, Bombay or Rangoon) shall be deemed to be situate within such Presidency or Province as is specified in the order," shall be substituted. Amendment of section 5.

3. In sections six and nine of the said Act, for the words "and Bombay" the words "Bombay and Rangoon" shall be substituted. Amendment of sections 6 and 9.

4. In section seven of the said Act, for the words "the Commissioners at Madras and Bombay," the words "the Commissioners at Madras, Bombay and Rangoon" shall be substituted; and for the last sentence the following shall be substituted (namely):— Amendment of section 7.

"the Deputy Commissioners in the Presidencies of Fort Saint George and Bombay and in the Province of British Burma shall be subordinate to the Commissioners of Madras, Bombay and Rangoon, respectively."

5. In section ten of the said Act, for [illegible] Amendment of section 10.

[illegible] sioners." [illegible] of the Commissioners" shall be substituted; and for the words "by either of the Commissioners" the words "by [illegible] sioners" shall be substituted.

6. In section [illegible] Partial repeal of section 24.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THERE is at present no Paper Currency which is a legal tender in Burma. Notes of the Calcutta circle are used to a limited extent in the chief towns, and occasionally notes of other circles are used, but there is no circle of issue in Burma.

2. Great inconvenience has been felt by the mercantile classes in Burma from this want; and in the year 1872 the question of establishing a circle of issue in that Province was before the Government of India. The Indian Paper Currency Act of 1871, however, renders it necessary to declare every town (other than Calcutta, Madras or Bombay) in which there is an office of issue to be, for the purposes of the Act, situate within some Presidency. Had, therefore, a circle of issue been established in Burma, it would have been necessary to declare the place of issue to be situate within one of the Presidencies of Fort William, Fort St. George and Bombay. The result would have been that, under section 9 of the Act, the notes of the Burma circle would have been payable at the office or offices of issue in Burma, and also [illegible] town of the Presidency-town of the Presidency (probably Fort William) within which the [illegible] issue had been declared, for the purposes of the Act, to be situate.

3. The nature of the commercial transactions between Burma and India is such that, under those circumstances, it would have been unwise to establish a circle of issue in Burma. [illegible] made between Calcutta and At particular periods of the year large remittances of money are [illegible] the Government might be put Rangoon, and if the Burmese notes were payable at Calcutta [illegible]sh to meet the notes. The question to considerable inconvenience and expense in providing [illegible] was accordingly allowed to remain in abeyance. [illegible]rma has again caused the question to be brought

4. The rapid increase of the trade of Burma authorities are agreed that Burma can no longer before the Government of India. The [illegible]mat the Burmese notes should be payable only at the office do without a paper currency, but [illegible]y-town. The public will thus enjoy most of the conveni- of issue and not at any Presiden[illegible]e the Government will not be obliged to undertake the exchange ences of a paper currency, wh[illegible]a.

objects :—

1st—to create a Commissioner of the Department of Issue at Rangoon;

2ndly—to make the towns of issue in Burma independent of the Presidencies;

3rdly—to render the paper issued at any town in Burma payable only at the office of issue.

6. The first of these objects is attained by a slight alteration of the fourth section of the Act; the second, by amending section 5 so as to empower the Governor General in Council to declare a town to be situate for the purposes of the Act within a Province as well as a Presidency. The third will be effected by the amendment just described; for the town of issue in Burma can then be declared situate within the Province of British Burma, and Burmese notes will not then be payable at Calcutta or any other Presidency-town.

The following Bill was introduced into the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 20th April, 1881, and was referred to a Select Committee :—

No. 11 of 1881.

Act No. XIV of 1876. A Bill to amend the Sindh Incumbered Estates Act, 1876.

WHEREAS it is expedient to extend the time within which applications under the Sindh Incum- Act No. XIV of 1876. bered Estates Act, 1876, section three, may be made, and otherwise to amend the same Act in manner hereinafter appearing; It is hereby enacted as follows :— Preamble.

1. Applications under the said Act, section three, may be made at any time within six months after the passing of this Act. Time for making applications under Act XIV of 1876, section 3.

2. To the first sentence of section seven of the said Act, the following words shall be added (namely) :— "or which may be incurred by the Manager receiving a loan from Government in the manner hereinafter provided." Amendment of section 7.

3. To section ten of the said Act, the following shall be added (namely) :— "and also for the repayment, either before or after the liquidation of such debts and liabilities, of any loan received from Government by the Manager under this Act." Amendment of section 10.

4. In section sixteen of the said Act, after the words "under section ten," the words "and for the repayment of the money (if any) which the Manager proposes to borrow from Government under this Act" shall be inserted. Amendment of section 16.

5. To section twenty-three of the said Act the following shall be added (namely) :—"or (c) by borrowing money from Government at a fair rate of interest." Amendment of section 23.

6. In section twenty-five of the said Act, after the words "mentioned in the liquidation-scheme," the following shall be inserted (namely) :—"and the amount of any loan received from Government under clause (c) of section twenty-three, together with the interest (if any) due thereon." Amendment of section 25.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

IT has been the practice for the Manager, under the Sindh Encumbered Estates Act, to borrow, with the previous sanction of Government, from the Treasury and to pay off such creditors as agreed to enter into a compromise in consideration of obtaining speedy payment of their debts. The money so borrowed was repaid by the Manager, with or without interest, as Government directed, from the income of the indebted estate.

Hitherto the money thus borrowed has been regarded as a liability incurred to Government in respect of the property under management within the meaning of section 10 of the Act. This view, however, is based on an erroneous conception of the law, and, as the Act stands, the only way to secure advances made by Government is by mortgaging the indebted estate.

It is objected that as soon as the debts are paid off the estate is released from management, and that Government would then only have the security of an ordinary mortgage for the advance.

It is proposed, therefore, to amend the Act by enabling the Manager to borrow money from Government, and by providing that the estate shall not be released from management until the money so borrowed is repaid with interest.

This will be effected by slight additions to sections 23 and 25. By other amendments the management is made to extend to the debt which may be incurred to Government by the Manager borrowing money, and the Manager is directed, in submitting his liquidation-scheme, to show in it the amount which he proposes to borrow from Government and the way in which he proposes to repay it.

As the management cannot terminate till the whole advance is repaid, there is ample security for its repayment.

The Act allows applications under section three to be made within twelve months from the passing of the Act, and, at the suggestion of the Government of Bombay, it is now proposed to allow a further period of six months from the date of the passing of this amending Act.
